MR. HENRY BURSTOW, OF HORSHAM, ESSEX.

(Vide Portrait.)

Mr. BURSTOW was born at Horsham on the 14th of December, 1826, consequently he is now in his 65th year. Like many others his first association with the ringing-chamber was by means of the curfew-bell, to ring which he was a regular attendant in his youthful days. In the year 1843 he joined the local society, and took part in that performance known as "ringing the old year out and the new year in," a duty at which since the above year he has never once neglected to be present. The county of Sussex was not at this time very favorable soil for change-ringing, it only being then practised at the parish of Bolney. And thus the Horsham company continued for nearly three years after Mr. BURSTOW joined it to practise the interesting old, old story of "2nd to the 5th," "5th to the treble," and so forth. A visit being paid to the neighbouring parish of Warnham on boxing-day, 1846, resulted in his having an introduction to something better than that to which he had been accustomed, for upon that day the Warnham men were to essay their infant skill in Grandsire Doubles. He was pleased upon that occasion with what he saw and heard, and, having received the necessary "observations" upon the method from the sexton of Warnham, he was soon interested, and his next visit to Warnham saw him ring the treble through a whole 6-score, and he was very soon able to ring any other bell. That visit to Warnham may be regarded as our friend's initiation into the science.

Mr. BURSTOW has rung about eighty peals; though unfortunately he has kept no record of them. He has conducted about one-half of that number, and the methods comprise Oxford Bob, Union, Grandsire, Court Bob, Plain Bob, Canterbury Pleasure, Place, College Bob, and Oxford and Kent Treble Bob. He has also rung a quarter-peal of Double Norwich Court. His longest peal is one of Canterbury pleasure, 13,420 changes, which was rung on March 1st, 1889, in 7 hours and 45 minutes.

Mr. BURSTOW has spent a great deal of time in teaching young societies how to ring; in which task he is at the present time engaged at Lower Beeding, Sussex. He has been instructor to the following companies: Slinfold, Itchingfield, Steyning, Crawley, Balcombe, Rusper, Arundel, East Grinstead, West Grinstead and Warnham. Not without reason is he termed the "father" of ringing in Sussex.

On the 7th of February, 1882, he called the first peal of Oxford Bob Triples ever rung (composed by Shipway). This was rung at Horsham by the Horsham society; but, owing to the lukewarmness of that society, this is the only peal they have rung.

On his birthday in 1889, the Warnham company presented him with two nicely bound volumes, which Mr. BURSTOW highly prizes. These works were Darwin's "Journal of Researches," and Lyell's "Student's Elements of Geology."

Our portrait is from a photograph taken by Hicks of Horsham.

HOLY TRINITY, BATLEY CARR.

On Friday evening, March 18th, the ringers of the above church rung a 720 of London Scholars' Pleasure as a farewell to Mr. Alfred M. Riley, verger (after a service of 18 years). John W. Simon, 1; Wilson H. Stead, 2; George H. Simon, 3; John Blackburn (conductor), 4; Walter Idle, 5; Squire Mitchell, 6. On the 20th inst. the ringers were entertained by him at the "Junction Inn" to a most substantial supper, which was both provided and "sided" in a very creditable manner. After the cloth was withdrawn the usual toasts were given, amongst them being the health and long life of the late worthy verger, to whom the ringers were very much attached, and whose loss they will greatly feel, it being his sole aim during his long service to always look well after the tower and bells. During the evening the handbells were occasionally brought into use, a recitation being given by Mr. Riley, and the singing of the National Anthem brought a most enjoyable evening to a close.

MORPETH, NORTHUMBERLAND

At the invitation of Ralph Crawford, Esq., a number of members of the Durham and Newcastle Association from Whiteley, Winlaton, and Newcastle visited the ancient borough of Morpeth on Saturday last, the 21st inst. They at once assembled at the Watch Tower, in which the bells, the property of the Corporation, are hung, and the last six of the peal of eight (tenor 12 cwt.) were kept going in Minor till about five o'clock. The visitors, with several local men, numbering twenty all told, then adjourned to the "Bull's Head" hotel, where a capital repast was served up. Mr. Crawford presided, and the ex-Mayor of Morpeth, Mr. Schofield, was in the vice-chair. After the tables were cleared the handbells were introduced, and courses of Grandsire Triples and Major were rung, and Mr. Harrison, of Jarrow, delighted an appreciative audience with his skilful manipulation in the tune-ringing line. Mr. R. S. Story (president of the Association) proposed a vote of thanks to Mr. Crawford for his hospitality to the ringers that day, which was seconded in a neat speech by Mr. Schofield. The latter gentleman touched on the improvements already done and about to be done in the Watch Tower, and complimented the ringers on the excellent striking during the day. Mr. Crawford, in thanking Mr. Story and the other visitors for their cordial vote of thanks, trusted that he would have the pleasure of many more visits of the same sort from the members of the Association during the forthcoming summer months. The Mayor of Morpeth (J. W. B. Anderson, Esq.) at this point entered the room and bade the ringers welcome to the ancient borough, and reiterated Mr. Crawford's hope that that would not be their last visit. The tower was the next item on the programme, and ringing on eight and six bells, an account of which will be found in the proper column, was kept up till a late hour.

ROMSEY, HANTS.

A meeting was held in the Abbey Schoolroom a short time ago, presided over by the vicar, Rev. E. L. Berthon, to consider the advisability of forming a branch of the Winchester Diocesan Guild of Change-Ringers, when it was unanimously resolved to form the branch in connection with the tower of this noble old Abbey. The vicar was elected President of the branch and an honorary member of the Guild; the Rev. — Danbury Secretary and Treasurer, also an honorary and performing member; and the following twelve as active members, with Mr. C. Tribe as conductor. George Newman, senr., James Elcome, senr., Charles Wheeler, George Saint, Alfred Newman, George Newman, junr., James Elcome, junr., Robert White, Tom Cole, Fred Russen, Jesse Walker and Charles Tribe. A subscription list was at once started, headed by the vicar, to collect funds for the purpose of having a silent apparatus in the tower, and which has now been fixed by Mr. W. Selby of Midhurst, inventor and patentee, on which the ringers are now practising in real earnest, and they heartily thank all those who subscribed to that most useful and necessary acquisition to the tower.

The bells are a fine peal of eight, tenor 25 cwt. in D, and were recast and rehung by Thomas Mears of London, and opened by the College Youths on July 19th, 1791. And the ringers having now put their shoulder to the wheel in real earnest, hope by perseverance and frequent practice to score their first 5,040 to celebrate the Centenary of the opening of the bells.

LONG PEAL ATTEMPT.—On Easter Monday, by the kind permission of the vicar and churchwardens, a band of ringers of the Norwich Diocesan Association will attempt to ring the late Mr. Thos. Day's long peal of Treble Bob Major—16,608 changes in the Oxford variation—upon the bells of St. Mary's Church, Debenham, Suffolk, fourteen miles from Ipswich by road, seven from Eye (nearest railway station). Start for peal about 7 a.m. as near as convenient.

MUFFLED FOR 170 YEARS.—The spire of St. Helen's Church, Ryde, Isle of Wight, which was built at the beginning of the last century, was shortly after completion struck by lightning, and it was believed that a large bell was broken at the same time. Last week Churchwarden Calloway went into the belfry, and out of curiosity examined the bell. Instead of a crack he found that a piece of wood which had been broken from the wheel was pressing against the bell and stopping the vibration. On removing this the bell, after being muffled for 170 years, rang out in a way which astonished the inhabitants.

SIX-PART PEALS.

For six-part peals in this method, also Court Bob, I have adopted the plan with the observation-bell always called before. The six-part peals in this method being much more interesting (to my mind) than the ten-part peals, I shall give the eighteen different callings, and I have made bold to adopt a single for the half-way and home which retains the 5th in 5th's place at all the part-ends, in preference to plain-lead singles. This single is only for peals in which the 5-6-7 are fixed. For peals in which the 3rd is observation the singles are the same as in the ten-part peals. The singles for the first twelve peals are made thus:—

1 3 2 5 4 7 6 1 2 3 5 4 6 7
1 3 2 4 5 7 6 1 2 3 4 5 6 7

The eighteen different callings:—

1.	2.	3.	4.	5.	6.	7.	8.	9.	10.	11.	12.	13.	14.	15.	16.	17.	18.

By referring to the peals hereinafter given the rule for the second half of each peal is so simple that it needs no further explanation, except that, for the second half of the first twelve peals, start from '3 2 4 5 7 6,' and the last six peals start from 2 3 5 4 7 6. In peals 1 and 2 there 120 calls, the 7th is always called before, the 6th never, and the 5th only once in each part in order to get calls on the twenty-four 6-7s, and the 7th is never called into 6th's or 7th's place with any other bell. Peals 3, 4, 5 and 6 having no shunting bobs, they contain only 108 calls, 3 is particularly suited for conducting from the 6th. In peals 7 and 8 the 5th is always called before, the 7th never, and the 6th once in each part in order to get calls on the twenty-four 7-5s. The 5th is never called into 6th's or 7th's place with any other bell, there are also calls on the twenty-four 6-7s. In 9 and 10 the 5th is always called before, the 6th and 7th never, and calls on the twenty-four 6-7s. Peals 11 and 12 are similar to 9 and 10 only that the 5th is never called into 6th's or 7th's place. In peals 13 and 14 the 3rd is always called before, the 6th and 7th never, and the 3rd is never called into 6th's or 7th's place. There are no special features in 15, 16, 17 and 18, except that in 17 and 18 the bells will come round at the end of the first part by omitting the last bob. Peals 1 and 7 are similar to 1 and 2 in Union, viz: nearly in twelve parts. In peals from 1 to 6 the 7th is observation, from 7 to 12 the 5th, and from 13 to 18 the 3rd. Peals from 7 to 12 are suited for transposition with the 2nd as observation. In peals from 11 to 16 the observation bell does not fall into 6th's or 7th's at a bob.

The peals I have chosen to give in full are 1, 7, 11 and 13:—

Three of these peals I have already given in Union, and having commented upon them above I will pass on.

* (13). First rung on March 28th, 1887, at the parish church, Warnham, by the Sussex County Association, conducted by Walter Charman.

KETTERING, NORTHANTS.

Much interest was taken by the neighbourhood in an attempt by a party of Bedford ringers to complete on the Kettering church bells on Saturday week 5,152 changes of Kent Treble Bob Major. There is no record of any such peal being accomplished at Kettering before. Recently seven of the eight bells have been recast and the eighth substituted by a new one presented by County Councillor Henson. Since that time there has been three attempts to ring a peal of 5,040 changes, but each has ended in failure. On Saturday week the ringers commenced the 5,152 changes at 4.56 and finished it in 3 hrs. 35 mins. The striking was, on the whole, fairly good, it being as praiseworthy in the last hour as the first. It might be added that there are four tablets in the belfry which shew that the peal of 5040 changes has been rung four times since the close of the last century, the time occupied in one instance being 2 hrs. and 59 mins. The recent peal of Kent Treble Bob was recorded in our last number.

NOTES BY THE WAY.

Out of sight, out of mind.

"The ringers wish to thank the vicar for the use of the bells; also the steeple-keeper for having everything in readiness." That is my text this week. Do you wonder why I have chosen it? I will tell you. Not so very long ago, there was a ringing meeting in connection with one of our associations at a place where the bells were in anything but a satisfactory condition for ringing. Well, when the meeting came off, the bells were found to be in a much better state than had been anticipated, so the vicar was most ostentatiously thanked both for permission to use the bells, and the creditable state in which they were found. The vicar accepted all these compliments and replied accordingly, as if he had done something extraordinary to merit the encomiums. But what were the real facts? Why, when the meeting was arranged for, the vicar was asked in the usual course for permission to use the bells. This request—also in the usual course was granted, a mere "yes" from the vicar being all that was necessary, so far as he was concerned—so that he had no further trouble in the matter. But then came the point—the bells are going most horribly; what can be done so that the meeting may go off satisfactorily with the ringing? It was no use approaching the vicar with the idea of getting any repairs done—not to speak of re-hanging—did they do so they would be pretty certain to meet with all sorts of excuses: church accounts in a bad way; congregation poor; choir wants new surplices and music; Sunday School is in need of funds; churchwardens crying out for more money for repairs to the fabric; and so on. Thus the bells would have to do what they had done so often before—wait. But then the vicar had magnanimously given his consent for their use at the meeting in question—what more could be expected?

Happily the tower in question was fortunate in possessing a most energetic steeple-keeper. No sooner was the meeting arranged for his tower than he set his wits to work how to best get the bells in at least passable order. He didn't go to the vicar for assistance—not he—previous experience had taught him only too well what he might expect if he did so. He went upon the good old plan that "God helps those who help themselves," and so, during the intervening weeks, his evenings were spent in the belfry, where—notwithstanding the bitter weather which prevailed—he succeeded in "botching up" wheels, strengthening stays and sliders, and with occasional assistance from his friends, packing up the bearings where they had gone down. He examined and repaired all the ropes, and when he had done what he could with the "fixings" of the bells themselves, turned his attention to the ringing-chamber, which he cleaned out and made as presentable as possible.

One would naturally imagine that after all these self-denying labours, some recognition of them would be made when the members assembled, and after they had found the bells in so much better condition than they expected. But at the meeting—as usual, I am tempted to add—the vicar came in for all the praise, while the poor steeple-keeper who had done all the work was—why, nowhere!

Now don't suppose for one moment that I am attempting to "cry down" the due recognition of our parsons' goodwill as shown in their ready consent for our use of their bells when we want it. Not a bit of it! I know too well the value of a good vicar in this respect; and particularly so remembering the many clerical vagaries which we have read about from time to time. What I contend for is that we should render honour where it is really due, and not misplace it because of any person's position in life.

Our steeple-keepers are most valuable officers amongst us—but only when they perform their duties in a loyal fashion. Those who have never occupied such a post little know the hours upon hours which that office entails upon its holder; and generally those who know the least about it are the most ready to grumble if anything goes wrong with the bells. Should a rope break while ringing—What has the steeple-keeper been doing not to discover the failing place beforehand? If a bell goes badly, poor Mr. steeple-keeper catches it hot for the time being. If a man misses his dodging or place-making in a peal, or the conductor makes a mis-call, nothing comes readier than a complaint that something was going wrong with the bell which caused the blunder, and thus again friend steeple-keeper is in for it, and made the scape-goat of their faults.

But should he, by considerable exertion, cause the bells to run comfortably through a peal, or for the ringing at a meeting, that is all right; then does he get the credit for it? Not often! The vicar is thanked for the use of the bells, and the local band complimented on their satisfactory "go" (the bells I mean), but the steeple-keeper must be content in knowing that there have been no causes of complaint, and extract his own modicum of satisfaction thereat.

Perhaps some will think I am overdrawing this picture—but the great majority of steeple-keepers won't, that I am certain. It is not so many years ago that I was one of their number, and thus can claim to speak from personal experience. At the same time, I must admit, that there are officials who habitually most egregiously neglect their duties, and by so doing not only make the effort of ringing much less pleasant and comfortable to those taking part as well as in the long run causing demands upon the exchequer of the church which might with ordinary care have been avoided. Those negligent individuals I will not attempt to defend in the least—much otherwise. Neither have I any need to do so, for most assuredly their neglect of duty will meet with its reward as time goes on. What I do contend for is compatible with strict justice—namely the adequate recognition of services rendered to those by whom such services are actually performed.

It is thus with special pleasure that I read occasionally—in notes to peals and otherwise—an acknowledgment of the efforts made by steeple-keepers in the way of getting "everything in readiness" for ringing occasions. Make every recognition of favours received from non-ringing parsons, I say, but at the same time don't forget the arduous and self-denying labours of our steeple-keepers.

THE UNEMPLOYED IN EAST LONDON.—At a time when much thought is being given to this matter, a practical suggestion may be of service. Last year more than £300,000 worth of foreign matches were purchased by inconsiderate consumers in this country, to the great injury of our own working people, so true is it that "evil is wrought by want of thought, as well as want of heart." If all consumers would purchase Bryant and May's matches, that firm would be enabled to pay £1000 a week more in wages.

The Bell News & Ringers' Record.

SATURDAY, MARCH 28, 1891.

THE present number commences Volume X. of "THE BELL NEWS." It is customary on such an occasion not only to look upon the past, but to make a brief allusion to the future; in fact to review the position our journal occupies. Yet very little indeed is there to say upon such a topic, and we cannot say we deplore the fact. It is patent to all that "THE BELL NEWS" fulfils its mission, and that without it the Exercise would be greatly inconvenienced. This is not an empty boast. We are not, like a well-known facetious contributor—addicted to blowing our own trumpet too loudly. We, in fact, know our shortcomings and deplore them, and are not averse to being lectured sometimes when they are held to be too palpable. We are as likely to make an error in our conducting as the most perfect bob-caller, or to cause unwittingly a "change-course." But, as a rule, when such things happen, we get treated with great consideration.

The pleasure of the contact with our ringing brethren, a pleasure which is due to our association with this journal, increases year by year. And though we are very glad to make new friends among our readers, we are fond of retaining the friendship and countenance of our older ones, especially those who from the first were pleased to attach themselves to the fortunes of our paper. We greatly appreciate to the full the numerous kind wishes which many of our correspondents send with their periodical reports, and reciprocate them with all our power. And the desire to maintain the present happy relations between ourselves and friends on each side of the globe, and to greatly increase them, is a very proper one to have at the commencement of a new volume.

ANOTHER CLAIM.

SIR,—The peal of Treble Bob Royal, incorrectly given in your issue of the 14th instant, over the name J. W. Sevier, of Gloucester, belongs to the late John Cox. Its reverse variation was rung by the Cumberland Society at St. Margaret's, Westminster, on September 10th, 1881, conducted by its author. The writer of this took part in the performance.

Obituary.

HENRY MIDGLEY.

The Duffield Society of change-ringers have sustained a grievous loss in the death, at the early age of 20, of one of their most promising ringers, Henry Midgley. Elected a member of the Society in 1886, he rang his first peal, Double Oxford Bob Major, early in 1888, since which time he has taken part in peals of Bob and Stedman Triples; Double Norwich, Double Oxford, Duffield, Superlative, and Cambridge Surprise Major; Grandsire and Stedman Caters, and Duffield Royal, to the total number of twenty-one. His last peal was rung in July, 1890, soon after which time weakness of the lungs began to develop. In consequence of this he was unable to join in peal-ringing, although he continued to take part in the Service touches on Sundays until January of the present year, when he had achieved a course of London Surprise. A rapid increase of consumptive symptoms then set in and confined him to his room, and he passed quietly away on Sunday, March 15th, just as the bells he loved so well were ringing for evening service. In him the Midland Counties' Association and the Duffield Society lose one who was not only distinguished for his quick apprehension and excellent striking, but also for his uniform good nature and readiness to assist whenever called upon. His bright and cheery face, and keen interest in bells will long be remembered by all with whom he was associated, and the place will not readily be filled of one who, in addition to being an excellent ringer, was a most earnest Churchman.

He was buried on Friday, March 20th, at the Nottingham Road Cemetery, Derby, the service being read by the Rev. H. C. Montford, curate of Duffield. Among those present were ringers from both Duffield and Derby.

CORRECTIONS.

The last word on the eighth line of my letter in last week's issue should read "upwards," not "afterwards" as printed.—A. KNIGHTS. The peal of Plain Bob Triples rung at Prescott, Lancashire, should read the "Liverpool Diocesan Branch of the Lancashire Association," not as published "Diocesan Guild."—THOS. BYRON.

A correspondent from Taunton writes:—"I wish to correct an error in your issue of the 14th of this month, in which you stated that there was rung at St. James', Taunton, a 720 Grandsire Minor, instead of which it was only a miserable 72."

MY DEAR DOCTOR,—Allow me to express my thanks for the skill and attention displayed in the construction of my Artificial Teeth, which render my mastication and articulation excellent. I am glad to hear that you have obtained Her Majesty's Royal Letters Patent to protect what I consider the perfection of Painless Dentistry. In recognition of your valuable services you are at liberty to use my name.

This is to certify:—That I have analysed the Prize Medal Teeth submitted to me, and find them to be composed only of minerals of extreme purity. I have also examined and tested your patented painless system of adjustment, it is quite perfect, and is the most successful application of scientific laws for securing actual wear and comfort yet introduced. THE CENTRAL COUNCIL.

The first meeting of this body took place as announced on Tuesday last, March 31st, at the "Inns of Court" hotel, Holborn. Nearly all the elected representatives were present, and as soon as they had subscribed the roll, business was commenced by the Rev. H. EARLE BULWER being voted to the chair pro tem.

On taking the chair Mr. BULWER said he felt it an honor to be in that position, even though the proceedings were only in their initiatory stage. As they were all aware, it was necessary to elect a Chairman of that council, and as only Mr. HEYWOOD had been nominated in proper form for that office he would put the proposition at once before them.

This being done, Mr. HEYWOOD was most cordially elected President of the council for the ensuing three years.

In taking his seat, the President thanked the council in appropriate terms, and the business then commenced. As however we shall in our next number publish the official report of the proceedings, it will be unnecessary now to give anything but a mere resumé.

For the office of Hon. Secretary, four candidates were announced, but at the last moment Messrs. THORNTON and ATTREE retired from the contest, leaving only Messrs. STRANGE and DAWES, the latter of whom was elected.

The "seven-bell peal" question took up a great part of the time of the meeting, and a resolution was carried in favor of the recognition of this kind of performance. It can hardly be believed, however, that the question is at an end. The refusal to recognise a peal of Triples rung upon seven bells without a cover, savours somewhat of an hardship, and this seemed chiefly to influence the Council in dealing with the question.

The question of proxy voting was dealt with in a manner similar to that of last year, and not all the persuasive eloquence of the President of the Yorkshire Association, nor the entreaties of its Honorary Secretary could induce the council to relent one jot, and for the next three years at least voting by proxy at the Central Council will be unknown.

For the place of meeting next year the towns of Derby and Birmingham were proposed, but the latter town was selected by a great majority.

Most of the councillors attended at dinner (or luncheon), which was served shortly after the conclusion of business; and when that was over the meeting of the Central Council for the year 1891 was virtually at an end. An announcement being made that the tower of St. Martin-in-the-Fields was open for ringing, many went there and cooled their heels for above an hour awaiting the advent of the steeple-keeper. Others went to Cornhill and Cripplegate, where the proverbial "fox" was discovered, and the "Goose" eventually became the rendezvous of those who were left behind.

WORCESTERSHIRE AND ADJOINING DISTRICTS ASSOCIATION.

WORCESTER BRANCH.—On Friday, March 20th, the members of this Branch held their annual meeting in the Guild Room, Edgar Tower, the Rev. Minor Canon Clifford, Honorary Secretary, presiding. The balance-sheet showed an income from members and honorary members' donations of £8 5s. 3d. The balance-sheet as read was adopted, and the whole of the officers were re-elected, and several new members were admitted as performing members. A vote of thanks to the chairman was entered on the minutes of the book, and this brought the first annual meeting to an end, every member being highly gratified.

ST. NICHOLAS' CHURCH, THORNE, YORK.

For many years past bell-ringing has been at a low ebb at Thorne, but in October of last year an effort was made to improve matters, and an association was formed whose object was to promote change-ringing, as commonly practised in our English churches. The Vicar (Rev. J. J. Littlewood, M.A.) President; Messrs. A. L. Peace, J. H. Bletcher, J. Foster, W. Armitage, and B. Maskill, Vice-Presidents; E. L. Bingham, Treasurer; E. Donkin, Secretary; and Messrs. W. Sanderson, J. Clark, and A. Hemingway, Committee—were the officers appointed.

Efforts were at once directed to raise funds for the purchase of a set of hand-bells, and the money was collected in a very short time. The bells (a splendid set) were obtained from Messrs. Shaw of Bradford, and already the ringers have performed in public. The bells, belfry, and ringing-chambers were then thoroughly cleaned, and the Vicar spared no pains in providing for the comfort of the ringers, in supplying carpet-hangings for the wall, and oil-cloth for the floor, &c.

Attention was then turned to the bells themselves, which unfortunately number only five, and after consideration it was decided to wait until the Easter meeting, when the Secretary was empowered to write to the Vicar and Churchwardens, calling their attention to the weak state of the framework, and making a request that the peal be increased to six, or if possible, to complete the octave.

There was a very large attendance on Easter Monday at the Vestry, and the matter was brought up before the meeting, and it was unanimously decided that the framework should be overhauled and another bell (treble) be added for the present.

The Churchwardens (Messrs. A. L. Peace, Thorne, and J. H. Bletcher, The Levels, Thorne), were empowered to write to some leading bell-founders and invite estimates to be sent in, and to proceed with the work.

It is gratifying to know that £20 was promised at once towards the amount required. The Committee are not without hopes that the peal may yet be raised to eight bells, and, as the tenor bell is good and strong (19 cwt.), Thorne may yet boast of having as good a ring of bells as any in the district.

KETTERING BELLS.

In a paragraph relating to the peal of Major rung at Kettering, Northants, by the Bedfordshire Associations, in "THE BELL NEWS" of Saturday last, it is stated that seven of the bells have been re-cast, and one new one substituted for the eight. The Church authorities of Kettering would have been very much to blame if they had done as stated, and I think antiquarians and alloverers of good old bells would have felt grieved if such had been the case. What has really been done is as follows:—

The bells have all been re-hung in new frames, with new fittings, and the entire peal re-tuned. The only new bell is one given by Mr. Councillor Henson, in place of the old Third Bell, which was re-cast about thirty years ago, and never sounded well with the others—Mr. Henson did not pay merely for the re-casting of this bell, but gave an entirely new one, and had the old bell sent back to Loughborough—Kettering bells now make a very tuneful peal, in the key of D instead of E flat as formerly.

I must congratulate the Bedfordshire men on their success in scoring what was most likely, the first peal of Major on Kettering bells.

The dates of the peal of eight, at present hanging in Kettering Steeple, are as follows:—

Treble	1714	..	Cast by Sanders of Bromsgrove.
Second	1714	..	do. do.
Third (new)	1890	..	" Taylor Loughborough.
Fourth	1714	..	" Sanders of Bromsgrove.
Fifth	1830	..	" *Uncertain, probably by Norris.
Sixth	1732	..	" Eyre of Kettering.
Tenor	1832	..	" Taylor of Oxford.

OXFORD BOB TRIPLES—(concluded).

By J. J. PARKER, Farnham Royal, Bucks.

Before I proceed with five-part peals, I have much pleasure in placing before the Exercise two six-part peals composed by the Editor of this paper. His idea was a six-part similar to Holt's six-part peal of Union, with 5 6 7 only called before, but with reverse calling for the second half. However, the peal would not come, and these peals appear to be the nearest approach. The singles are the same which I recommended last week.

It will be seen that peal (1) is arranged so that the missing course falls at the end of the peal, and in (2) at the commencement, also, that the second single in each peal partakes of a plain lead. In peal (1) the 2nd is observation. She is always called into 7th's place, also only one other bell in a part; the 2nd is never called into 3rds or 6ths place. There is also the same feature as in Minor, viz., the position of the observation-bells being reversed after the 11th row. The fact of the observation-bell being always called into 7th's place seems to suggest that the 7th should be the observation bell, for this reason I give peal (2) in this form.

It seems absurd to think of three-part or one-part peals, since all the leads must be in-course, and as there is such an interesting collection of five, six, and ten-part peals in this method, and in Court Bob.

DURHAM & NEWCASTLE DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

HEXHAM (Northumberland).—On Easter Monday several members of the above society visited the Abbey Church and attempted a peal of Kent Treble Bob Major on this splendid peal of bells, but it came to grief after ringing 2,300 changes in 1 hr. and 25 mins. H. Ferguson, 1; C. L. Routledge, 2; F. Lees, 3; J. Pattison, 4; T. T. Gofton, 5; H. Smith (of Leeds), 6; W. Story, 7; F. Harrison (conductor), 8. It was again attempted in the afternoon, the same men (with the exception of the treble being taken by W. C. Bennett) taking part in it, but after 2 hrs. 15 mins. good ringing it collapsed. A 560 of Bob Major was also rung with W. Smith on the treble. Tenor 19 cwt.

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE.—On Easter Tuesday, another peal of Treble Bob Major was attempted at St. John's Church, but it came round false, two bells having changed course. Time, 3 hrs. and 8 mins. W. Smith, 1; R. C. Hudson, 2; C. L. Routledge, 3; T. T. Gofton, 4; F. Lees, 5; J. Pattison, 6; G. Atkinson, 7; W. Story (conductor), 8. After this an adjournment was made to St. George's Church, Jesmond, where a 720 of Bob Minor, called with nine bobs, six singles, was rung on the back six in 32 mins. R. C. Hudson (conductor), 1; J. Robson, 2; T. Hudson, 3; T. Hudson, junr., 4; C. L. Routledge, 5; F. Lees, 6. Messrs. Hudson and Robson belong to Bishop Wearmouth, in Durham. Tenor 20 cwt.

HANDBELL-RINGING.—On Easter Monday, the time occupied in the railway journeys between Newcastle and Hexham was whiled away with several courses of Grandsire Caters. The first by H. Ferguson, 1-2; C. L. Routledge, 3-4; F. Lees, 5-6; T. Gofton, 7-8; W. Story, 9-10. In the second J. Pattison, 1-2; C. L. Routledge, 5-6. And a course of Bob Major by C. L. Routledge, 1-2; F. Lees, 3-4; T. Gofton, 5-6; W. Story, 7-8. Also three leads of Treble Bob Major by the same band.

RINGERS' OUTING.

On Easter Monday, five of the Worsley Company, with Mr. E. Cash of Swinton, journeyed to Southport for a day's ringing. It was intended to go for a peal of Double Norwich Court Bob Ma'or, but two of the company being unable to go, they meant to try for a peal of Stedman or Treble Bob, as found most convenient when they arrived at Southport. They were met on arrival at Southport by Mr. Richard Hill, the indefatigable secretary of the Liverpool Branch of the Lancashire Association, who gave them a hearty reception and kindly made the company up for the intended peal.

The first ringing undertaken was 446 Bob Major for service by the following:—R. Hill (conductor), 1; J. Large, 2; J. H. Ridyard, 3; E. Cash, 4; J. Welsby, 5; F. Derbyshire, 6; J. Baguley, 7; R. Ridyard, 8.

The company then adjourned for dinner, and afterwards went to Crossens (particulars of which appear in the proper place). After this they met for an attempted peal of Kent Treble Bob Major, when after ringing an hour and a half, and getting into the second course of the second part, the conductor called stand as he had omitted a bob the wrong. J. H. Ridyard, 1; 2, J. Aspinall; 3, D. Rimmer; 4, E. Cash; 5, J. Welsby; 6, F. Derbyshire; 7, J. Baguley; R. Ridyard (conductor), 8. Then a touch of Stedman by the same company, which brought the ringing to a close.

The visitors wish, through the medium of "THE BELL NEWS," to thank the Rector and churchwardens for the use of the bells, also Mr. Hill, for his kindness in having everything in readiness, and to Mr. Rimmer for his kindness in making the company up.

HORSMONDEN (Kent).—On Sunday, March 29th, at St. Margaret's Church, 720 of Bob Minor in 29 mins. (sixteen bobs two singles). And on Monday 30th, two 720s of Bob Minor (one with eighteen bobs two singles, the other with three bobs eighteen singles). T. Lambert, 1; J. Beach, 2; F. Butchers, 3; G. Hodge, 4; W. Lambert, 5; F. Lambert (conductor), 6.

FELSHAM, SUFFOLK.

On Saturday, March 21st, a mixed band of ringers from Preston and Lavenham, by permission of the Rev. E. Gough, met at this parish church. At about 5 p.m. the bells were started off into changes for a 720 Kent Treble Bob Minor, which was rung in 30 mins., being the first in the method on the bells. T. King, 1; H. Smith, 2; A. Hollocks, 3; J. Moore, 4; C. Jarvis, 5; W. Hollocks (conductor), 6. The next, a 720 of New London Pleasure, being the first in the method on the bells, and first in the method by all. H. Symonds, 1; W. Hollocks, 2; R. Hollocks, 3; J. Moore, 4; T. King, 5; A. Symonds (conductor), 6. And a 720 of Bob Minor. W. Hollocks (conductor), 1; C. Jarvis, 2; H. Smith, 3; J. Moore, 4; W. Snell, 5; T. King, 6.

After lowering the bells the ringers were kindly invited to the "Six Bells Inn," by Mr. Kinsey and Mr. S. Scott, churchwardens, and these gentlemen spoke highly of the good striking of each 720. After refreshing the inner man, some good touches of Grandsire Triples and Bob Major were rung on the hand-bells.

At the close of the evening each one started for their respective homes, highly gratified with their little outing.

THE LONG PEAL ATTEMPT.

On Easter Monday, eight members of the Norwich Diocesan Association of Ringers attempted the late Mr. T. Day's long peal of Treble Bob Major, as announced. At 6.35 a.m., the voice of our respected conductor, Mr. James Motts, resounded Oxford Treble Bob next time, and everything went on well for 5 hours and 35 minutes, 9024 changes being rung, when stand was called by the conductor, a change-course having occurred two leads previous by one of the band omitting his 3rds and back. James Motts (conductor), 1; William Motts, 2; William Crickmore, 3; William Garrett, 4; Robert H. Brundle, 5; David Collins, 6; Edgar Collins, 7; F. Tillett, 8. Tenor 1 ton.

After having refreshment, six of the same band used their best endeavours to get two of the local society through a peal of the same method, which was eventually lost, after 2½ hours ringing; although unsuccessful, great credit is due to Messrs. Grimes and Ruffels, this being their first attempt.

The ringers desire to return thanks to the Vicar and Churchwarden's for the use of the bells, to Mr. Grimes and the Debenham society for having everything ready, and to Mr. and Mrs. Sparrow for their hearty reception.

RINGERS' SUPPER.

On Wednesday night, the 25th March, 1891, the Holbeck (Leeds) St. Matthew's Society met at the house of Mrs. Carr, the "Spotted Cow" inn, to partake of the hospitality of H. M. May. "Go" was called at 8 p.m. and course-end after course-end turned up in splendid style. Ample justice having been done to the good things provided, the conductor called "stand." The tables being cleared and the cloth removed, the first proposition on the programme was "health and prosperity to H. M. May," and this was drunk with musical honors, Mr. H. M. May suitably responding.

Henry Moss next proposed "Success to the Yorkshire Association, and the Leeds and District Amalgamated Society of change-ringers," followed by "The Health of the Hostess," Mrs. Carr, one and all thanking her very kindly for the able manner in which she catered for them during the evening.

The rest of the time was spent in songs and hand-bell ringing finishing off with "Auld lang syne," and "God save the Queen."

A vote of thanks to the Chairman for presiding brought a very pleasant evening to a close at 11 p.m., and all separated, well pleased with the evening's enjoyment.

RINGERS' OUTING.

About a dozen members of All Saints, Boyne Hill, belfry, accompanied by Rev. R. P. Newhouse, Branch Secretary of the East Berks and South Bucks Branch of the Oxford Diocesan Guild, journeyed from Maidenhead to Old Windsor and Wraysbury on Easter Monday, and spent a most enjoyable afternoon in these towers, which were kindly placed at their disposal by the respective Vicars, Revs. T. E. Horwood and J. H. Hindson. The latter, as well as Rev. R. P. Newhouse, took part in the singing. Amongst other items, a 504 of Oxford Bob Triples was rung at Old Windsor by the following: J. Truss, senr., H. Rogers, 2; F. Dentry, 3; J. J. Parker (conductor), 4; J. Basden, 5; A. Hoskins, 6; R. Flaxman, 7; W. E. Yates, 8.

At Wraysbury the following band rang two courses of Bob Major and Stedman Triples: J. Rogers, 1; J. Basden, 2; G. Stanbrook, 3; W. E. Yates, 4; J. Parker, 5; F. Dentry, 6; R. Flaxman, 7; A. Hoskins, 8. The Boyne Hill men were joined by several members of the Guild from Slough, Farnham Royal, Marlow and Windsor, and a most pleasant day was spent. Rev. T. E. Horwood mentioned an arrangement by which the neighbouring towns would be open for associated ringing in the successive Thursdays in each month.

To the Editor of "THE BELL NEWS AND RINGERS' RECORD."

THE AMENDE HONORABLE.

SIR,—In answer to Mr. Knights, I wish to state that I have not seen an issue of "THE BELL NEWS" for the date mentioned, as it was some time before I knew anything of ringing or composition whatever. I simply composed the peal in a few leisure moments I had to spare, and having been satisfied that it was true, I published it. If it is the property of Mr. Knights, he is welcome to it. At the same time, I wish to thank Mr. Knights for his kind and able explanation.

HARRY MILLS.

A SUGGESTION.

SIR,—A suggestion came under my notice in "THE BELL NEWS" for a memento for the Central Council's first meeting. I should suggest that Mr. Heywood's valuable article, which he went to the trouble of writing in "THE BELL NEWS" upon Stedman Triples a short time ago, should be put in the shape of a book; and also his work upon the Duffield Principle. I daresay there are very few that do preserve "THE BELL NEWS" to have it bound. The coming generation may never have the chance of seeing such a valuable work unless it is put together in book form. It never ought to be lost sight of, and every ringer ought to possess a copy of it. I don't doubt but what they would—I am sure every ringer ought to be proud to be able to get such information sent out to him; not only that, but every ringer should be thankful for the trouble those two gentlemen have taken for the benefit of the Exercise—both Mr. Heywood and the Rev. H. E. Bulwer. I think this would be the best memento that could be had. I trust this will meet with everyone's wishes,

Gloucester.

H. GARDNER.

NOTE TO THE HAND-BELL PEAL RUNG AT BIRMINGHAM.—In reference to this peal it is able to be recorded mainly through the efforts of Mr. Miller, who, after one or two failures, with great tact persuaded the band to again attempt it. It is a difficult composition to ring: the back bells being turned in the four different positions. It is nine years since W. Bryant attempted a peal of Grandsire Caters. It is the intention of the band to ring two or three practice-peals to get themselves well in form, and then attempt a long one (the date of such attempt will be duly announced); they considering it a pity that the men who rang the first hand-bell peal in the method, in the Midland Counties, and so many afterwards in Birmingham, should have let this branch of the art fall so flat. This is a friendly band; Messrs. Russam, Miller, and Bryant belonging to St. Martin's Guild, and Messrs. Carter and Hackley to the Birmingham and District Amalgamated Society.

PIMPERNE, DORSET.

On Tuesday evening week, a special service was held in the Parish Church, on the completion of a peal of five bells. One cracked bell has been recast, and two new ones added. The wood and woodwork for the bells and belfry, including new floors and cage, has been provided by the kind liberality of the lord of the Manor, Viscount Portman. The money for the bells and for Ellacombe's Chiming Apparatus, amounting to £93 18s. 4d., has been subscribed by the hearty and united efforts of the whole parish, supplemented by help from friends outside. The bell work was entrusted to Messrs. Llewellyns and James, bell-founders, Bristol, and all has been satisfactorily carried out, the tone, general workmanship, and quality of materials being all that could be desired.

There was a bright and hearty service on Tuesday evening, attended by a large number of parishioners and friends. Prayers were read by the Rector, and the lessons by the Hon. and Rev. P. G. Willoughby and the Rev. F. T. Harrison. A sermon, appropriate to the occasion, was preached by the Archdeacon of Dorset, from 1 Corinthians, xiv, 10. The bells before and after service were rung by the Durweston ringers.

NORTH NOTTS. ASSOCIATION.

The most important meeting in connection with this Association was held at Retford on Easter Monday, when Members were present from Anston, Blythe, Everton and Retford; in addition to these societies, a picked band of the Yorkshire Association who was the first to arrive, and which included the celebrated ringers from Sheffield, Mr. C. H. and T. Hattersley and Mr. Jonathan Sandford, the latter who rang the first peal on the bells in the year 1851. There were also present. Mr. Samuel Wood from Ashton-under-Lyne, and Mr. Charles Jackson from Hull. At 11.15 a.m. an attempt was made to ring a peal of Stedman Caters, 5001 changes, which was successfully accomplished the first attempt in 3 hrs. and 23 mins. the bells coming into rounds in capital style at 2.38 p.m., and the peal was recognised as a splendid struck peal throughout. The following are those who rang it. S. Wood, 1; G. Holmes, 2; J. Bower, 3; W. Buguar, 4; T. Lee, 5; C. H. Hattersley, 6; C. Jackson, 7; A. Brearly, 8; T. Hattersley, 9; W. Midgley, 10. This is the first peal in the method ever rung on the bells, also the first peal on the bells since being rehung, and two new trebles added; it was composed by C. H. Hattersley, and conducted by T. Hattersley.

During the day the West Retford bells were put in motion to the methods of Oxford and Kent, likewise the front six of the parish church to similar methods, after which the Retford ringers (St Swithun's Society) with the assistance of three Sheffield ringers, rang several courses of Grandsire Caters, 378 changes, which is the longest length rung by any Retford men on ten bells, and was performed by the following: T. Spurr 1, T. Hattersley 2, J. Sandford 3, H. Warburton 4, W. Skelton 5, J. W. Clark 6, J. F. Haigh 7, H. Haigh 8, J. Joynes 9, and T. Bower 10.

At 5 o'clock the ringers adjourned to the Vine Inn, where host Aldridge having everything in readiness, upwards of 40 sat down to ring a peal in the knife and fork method, in the shape of a good meat tea. Go was called at 5.10 p.m., and after some long courses had been got through to the satisfaction of all present, stand was called at 6 p.m.; and one more peal was safely got through, a performance which every one seemed to relish.

After tea, Mr. Samuel Wood in his talented style, tapped courses of Grandsire Caters and Treble Bob Maximus on the piano, a performance which met with hearty cheers at its conclusion.

Mr. Charles Henry Hattersley proposed a vote of thanks to the Vicar, Canon Ebsworth for the use of the bells, and said it gave him great pleasure to do so, because he, the Vicar, had granted permission to the Sheffield ringers on a former occasion to ring a peal which unfortunately came to grief, and he had had the kindness to grant the use of them on this occasion which had been a successful one, and he would be pleased to come again at any time to ring another peal and give the satisfaction to the townspeople as they had done that day.

Mr. Samuel Wood seconded the vote of thanks, and said it gave him great pleasure in doing so, inasmuch as he had come a long distance, and the peal was brought to a successful finish.

The Vicar, Canon Ebsworth, in rising to reply, said how pleased he was to see so large a number present connected with such an important branch of Church work as bell ringing, and what a pleasure it was to him to grant the use of his bells to the Sheffield ringers, and he should be pleased to do so again, when it was convenient, but he wished it to be clearly understood it was not always convenient, because, as the church was surrounded by houses and various institutions, it caused the bells to become an annoyance to the inhabitants. On such occasions as Eastertide or Whitsuntide, times recognised as a general holiday, he should be glad to welcome them. Remembering the length of time he had been the Vicar of Retford, and the bells in such a deplorable condition, for the reason that other matters of more importance to the church required first attention, it was a pleasure to hear the bells, more especially, when they were rung like they had been that day, and he should be pleased to grant them the use of the bells on some future occasion. The Vicar, who was at this point obliged to leave the meeting, retired amidst vociferous cheering.

The company then broke up, and the members of the Yorkshire Association then visited the Vicarage, and rang changes and tunes on the handbells, to the intense delight of all present.

THE WINCHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD.

On Easter Monday, March 30th, 1891, the following members of the Winchester Diocesan Guild attempted a peal of Union Triples, at Chertsey, Surrey, but owing to the heavy go of the bells, and bad state of the ropes, it collapsed after ringing one hour and twelve minutes. J. Heathorn, 1, T. H. Colburn 2, H. White 3, E. Heathorn 4, F. Bennett 5, J. J. Jones 6, G. Woodiss (conductor) 7, B. Wickens 8.

Afterwards the ringers, on their way to the Surrey Association meeting at East Molesey called at Shepperton, and rang on the peal of five bells, tenor 7½ cwt., a six-score each of Grandsire, Stedman, Canterbury, and Bob Doubles, the last three methods being rung for the first time on these bells.

PUBLIC CLOCK FOR CASTLEBAY.

The tower of Castlebay Church is now complete by the erection in it of a costly bell and a public clock. The clock is a welcome addition to the few conveniences of the island, and supplies a long-felt want. From an æsthetic point of view it is all that could be desired, and much improves the appearance of the village. It was made by Messrs. Smith & Co. of the Midland steam clock works, Derby. In point of workmanship and finish it detracts nothing from the well-earned fame of that eminent firm of clockmakers. There are two dials of copper, one facing south and the other east. The diameter of each is five feet, and the figures are gilt on a black ground. As it strikes the hours—the note produced being an exceptionally sweet and mellow one—the tolling of each recurring hour makes one accustomed to a town momentarily to forget that he is in one of the Outer Hebrides. The cost of both clock and bell was defrayed by public subscription, the East Coast fishermen taking a large share in subscribing towards the cost of the clock, which is, of course, a benefit that all may share in. Great credit is due the Rev. Father Chisholm, the incumbent of the Castlebay Church, for the enterprise and public spirit shown in carrying out and successfully completing what in this out-of-the-way place was rather a difficult project.

LOWICK, NORTHAMPTONSHIRE.

A large church clock has just been erected at this village. It strikes the hours, chimes the quarters, and has one large dial fixed on the south side of the tower. It is fitted up with every improvement, generally to the designs of Lord Grimthorpe. John Smith and Sons, Midland Clock Works, Derby, were the makers, who also made the clock and chimes for the splendid tower of Tichmarsh church, a neighbouring village.

NOTES—CONVERSATIONAL.

Recently my name has been mentioned by one or two of the brethren in a manner which I feel to be highly complimentary. A correspondent some time ago, who signed himself "Pulley-Haulie," suggested that I should be engaged to defend the case of those who glory in ringing peals of changes minus the big drum, in other words, seven-bell peals. Of course, if I had accepted a retaining fee for these gentlemen, I should have carried the matter through with flying colours, as is usual with every other thing I take on. But in this instance I happen to be on the other side. I object to hearing an odd number of bells rung. In fact, I object to anything odd. That is the reason why I never qualified for admission into the Order of Odd Fellows, because one of their chief regulations is, I believe, never to have an even number of members, but always an odd number. This regulation is certainly very odd.

Even numbers of bells are most pleasing to the ear, I suppose. We never hear of a ring of seven, or nine, or eleven bells being placed in a tower. Such a thing would be very odd indeed. No ringer living would say one word in favour of either number. And if asked "Why not?" they would immediately answer, "Oh! we want a tenor, or a second, or something else, to give a better finish, or to complete the harmony." Even the admirers (if there are any) of seven-bell peals would say this, notwithstanding all their assertions that when a bell is left out the music is far from despicable. We have peals of five bells, it is true, but these owe their existence to accident or considerations of economy. But I will leave this uninteresting subject.

Last Tuesday I visited the "great metropolis." Readers of "THE BELL NEWS" were favored with the intelligence that the great guns of the Exercise would meet in solemn conclave on that day, and I was one of the crowd who "watched the members enter." Some of those who were outside for the same purpose thought they might go in as well, and I believe did so. A gentleman whose name is often in print got into conversation with me, and suggested that we both should enter the portals of the Council-chamber, and take a back seat. But I really hadn't the face to do such a thing. Fancy some member of the Council announcing he espied "strangers" and then us having to beat an ignominious retreat, a denouement which we should certainly have deserved.

Our mutual friend "Free Lance" was rather down upon the compliments which are so frequently paid to Rectors and Vicars for giving permission to ring. And, subject to correction, I think he went out of his way a little, just a little, don't you think? to "crack-up" steeple-keepers. I know its a terrible thing to "crack down" the latter, especially when they imagine themselves the ringers, Church, parish, Vicar, and all. I happen to know of a spot where this official flourishes in a manner after his own heart. This Easter I am told he blocked the tower against the County Association. Of a verity this beats that case I recollect reading of where Mr. steeple-keeper objected to the ringers going up because the jackdaws were sitting, and he did not want them disturbed! I hope the Central Council, while discussing No. 5 on the agenda, had an eye to this matter; I don't mean the jackdaws, but the powers of Mr. Steeple-keeper.

Shall I be considered guilty of a plagiarism if like my distinguished chief, I refer to the last of the portraits which is said to constitute the "Ringers' Gallery?" I trust not. I really think it is the very best of the series. I happen to know Mr. Burstow, and can therefore speak of the excellence of the portrait as a likeness. How the correctness of the features is obtained is to me a marvel. What a novelty it would be if we could have portrayed for us the features of ringers when they were in the coming-home course of a peal, especially when one of the band had receded from the paths of rectitude. I only throw this out as a bare hint. I think if we could possess the countenances of the ringers as they were at Cornhill just before the bells came to a stop in the attempt for the long peal of Stedman Cinques it would be very interesting. I shall be happy to suggest subjects for the purpose if desired.

Mr. Joseph J. Parker is again on the war-path. And this time with that easy but admirable method called "Oxford Bob." It is not in my line to recommend what shall or shall not be rung, but as I never speak or write without book I may say that this method, with that of Union, is a good alternative to Grandsire, especially for those bands who can't hope to reach Stedman. Oxford Bob is now, thanks to our friend Joseph, within the reach of all. He is giving us a lot of peals very easy to call, and very symmetrical. If he will compose one for me in about 40 parts, with all parts called alike, I will do him the honor of attempting it, if I can get a company together. Try what you can do Joseph, there's a good fellow.

Mr. Attree's analysis is I am told looked for with almost as much eagerness as the lucubrations of your humble servant. That gentleman certainly spends some time in compiling these statistics, and of course every member of the Exercise feels indebted to him. I would fain make a suggestion to him. Could he without much trouble give us an analytical digest of the touches? This would involve very little extra pains, don't you think? All the particulars, such as "longest touch away from the tenor;" "first quarter-peal;" "first plain course as conductor;" "first 168;" and so on, would need a very strict classification, the digestion of which would be immensely edifying. After this Mr. Attree could use what spare moments he had left to analyzing the false compositions which now and then appear. That gentleman will perhaps excuse me suggesting these trifling additional pursuits. We are all grateful to him for his monthly analysis, and if it is any satisfaction to know that his labors are appreciated, let me tell him that they really are. This I know.

As I read my "BELL NEWS" right through from beginning to end every week, advertisements and all, it follows as a matter of course that nothing escapes my eagle glance. The extraordinary quantity of notices in the last struck me as being another powerful indication of progress. Progress in more ways than one; the art is advancing; and the increasing value of our journal is evident. I will indulge in a hope that when Easter again comes round we may see the notices of meetings doubled, and also the attendances thereat. So no more at present from yours truly—

THE UNEMPLOYED IN EAST LONDON.—At a time when much thought is being given to this matter, a practical suggestion may be of service. Last year more than £300,000 worth of foreign matches were purchased by inconsiderate consumers in this country, to the great injury of our own working people, so true is it that "evil is wrought by want of thought, as well as want of heart." If all consumers would purchase Bryant and May's matches, that firm would be enabled to pay £1000 a week more in wages.

The Bell News & Ringers' Record.

SATURDAY, APRIL 4, 1891.

THE Society of Royal Cumberland Youths have this Easter exhibited more than their usual vigour. Three peals in two days by a visiting company, peals by the way of very creditable magnitude, shows no trifling energy, especially when the bells are taken into consideration. The weight of the tenor at Quex Park, a bell 15 cwt., is no index whatever of the work which has to be done in achieving a peal upon these bells. Extreme light peals often require more ingenuity than heavy ones, and the late Squire POWELL's peal of twelve is a good illustration of the fact. If any doubt this we would recommend them to make a trial upon them. Perhaps these latest performances of the Cumberlands may prompt other Societies to visit Quex Park.

Her Majesty's Surgeon-Dentist says:—
MY DEAR DOCTOR.—Allow me to express my thanks for the skill and attention displayed in the construction of my Artificial Teeth, which render my mastication and articulation excellent. I am glad to hear that you have obtained Her Majesty's Royal Letters Patent to protect what I consider the perfection of Painless Dentistry. In recognition of your valuable services you are at liberty to use my name.

S. G. HUTCHINS. By appointment Surgeon-Dentist to Her Majesty the Queen.
To GEO. H. JONES, Esq., D.D.S.

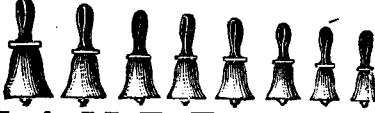

SCIENTIFIC DEPARTMENT.—LABORATORY OF EXPERIMENTAL SCIENCE.

This is to certify:—That I have analysed the Prize Medal Teeth submitted to me, and find them to be composed only of minerals of extreme purity. I have also examined and tested your patented painless system of adjustment, it is quite perfect, and is the most successful application of scientific laws for securing actual wear and comfort yet introduced. Both physically and anatomically, they are a beautiful resemblance to the natural teeth.

COURT BOB TRIPLES.

By J. J. PARKER, Farnham Royal, Bucks.

This method was introduced by Shipway, and will be found on examination more interesting of the two than Oxford Bob, though perhaps not quite so easy to ring. Those who ring it find amusement, and speak strongly in its favour.

TEN-PART PEALS.

As there are eight ten-part peals with 120 calls, I give below ten different callings :—

Although (9) and (10) gives 504s, by bobbing the same nine set in Oxford Bob, peals are produced. Thus it is that (7), (8), (3), (9), and (10) in Court Bob, will produce (1), (2), (3), (4), (5), in Oxford Bob, the position of the observation-bell being the same in many cases.

GREAT WALTHAM, ESSEX.

The peal given in "THE BELL NEWS" of April 4th, as rung at "Great Baddow," should have been credited to Great Waltham, the bells of which place are twice as heavy (tenor 28 cwt., as compared with Great Baddow, 13½ cwt.). The peal has been contemplated for some time past; and a preliminary visit was paid, and a quarter-peal rung, about a month previously. The same band, with the exception of A. Tarbun of Widford, in place of the Rev. T. L. Papillon, and an extra hand for the tenor, repeated the visit on Easter Monday, taking with them a plentiful supply of grease, which made the task less heavy than previous experience had led them to expect; the local ringers being content with oiling the bearings now and then. Change-ringing has never flourished at Great Waltham, and there is no previous record of any complete peal having been rung upon the bells. The ringers tender their best thanks to the Vicar for his hospitality, and for the use of the tower.

WORCESTERSHIRE AND ADJOINING DISTRICTS ASSOCIATION.

The Annual Meeting of this Association was held on Easter Monday in the Chapter-House of Worcester Cathedral, under the presidency of the Rev. Canon Melville, D.D., who was supported on his right by the Rev. W. R. Carr (Vicar of St. John-in-Bedwardine), and the Rev. W. C. Gibbs (St. John's, Hagley); and on the left by the Rev. H. Kingsford (Vicar of Stoulton), the Master of the Association (Mr. S. Spittle), the Hon. Secretary (Mr. J. Smith), and the Hon. Treasurer (Mr. Lewis).

The Chairman having opened the meeting with prayer, the minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed, and the Annual report, which was adopted by the Committee-meeting held at Kidderminster, was read and passed.

On the motion of the Hon. Secretary, Pershore was fixed upon as the place for the next meeting. The following new members were elected: the Ven. the Archdeacon of Worcester (Vicar of Pershore) and Mr. W. Pearce, as honorary members; with ten members of the Abbey church, Pershore, as performing members; two from Old Hill, two from Hagley, five from the Worcester branch; one each from Bromsgrove and Brierley Hill; and several unattached members were also elected.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: the Very Rev. J. Gott, D.D., Dean of Worcester, President; the Revs. R. Cattley and S. Phillips, Vice-Presidents; Messrs. J. Naylor (Dudley) and H. B. Kingsford (Birmingham) lay Vice-Presidents. The Master, Hon. Secretary, and Treasurer were re-elected. The following clergy, with a representative from each company in union, form the Committee of Management: the Revs. Canon Claughton, W. C. Gibbs, H. Kingsford, S. J. Marriott, and A. B. Timbrell.

The Rev. W. R. Carr moved: "That it be an instruction to the Committee that some Saturday afternoon between Easter and the First of July (instead of Easter Monday) be selected for holding the Annual Meeting." He gave as his reason that it would give a better opportunity for holding the service, and a better chance of getting an address from one of the clergy.

The Chairman concurred with the resolution, and promised to see the Dean upon the subject.

The Master moved a resolution, which was carried with acclamation, congratulating the Rev. Canon Creighton, LL.D., D.C.L. upon his elevation to the See of Peterborough; and the Chairman kindly undertook to convey to the Bishop-elect the wishes of the meeting.

A vote of thanks to the Rev. Dr. Melville for presiding, and to the Dean and Chapter for the use of the Chapter-House, was proposed by the Rev. H. Kingsford, and carried unanimously. This brought the business to a close.

An adjournment was then made to "The Packhorse" inn, where the handbells belonging to the Association were brought into use.

ST. PETER'S, CAVERSHAM.

The Parish Church of Caversham is a conspicuous object on the northern or Oxfordshire bank of the river Thames; travellers passing Reading Station for the west are familiar with its position, about the third of a mile on their right on leaving the station. The church contains many features of interest, but its tower is more especially that portion which appeals to readers of "THE BELL NEWS." Till the year 1878 its upper portion was composed of wood, and was by no means of a handsome character; it bore a conspicuous part in the siege of Reading, several of Cromwell's cannon being placed on its top, its commanding position enabling the projectiles to be dropped well into the centre of the town. Falling into decay it was demolished in 1878, and a fine new tower of brick, faced with flint, erected in its place. The old peal of six, of various dates, but all from the Whitechapel Foundry, were replaced with new frame and fittings complete, the work being undertaken by a well-known bell-hanger in the adjoining county. Change-ringing did not flourish in any marked degree till the advent of the Rev. G. F. Coleridge as curate in 1884. Things then began to look up; most of the old ringers were kindly but firmly induced to resign, and a young party formed with T. Newman at their head. 720s in various methods were soon mastered, and within a year a 5040 in seven methods was rung, the Rev. G. F. Coleridge conducting the same on his birth-day. Several 5040s have been rung since that time, including one in 14 different methods. Meanwhile, in spite of the most careful attention of H. Simmonds—prince of steeple-keepers—the bells began to “go” worse and worse, and soon it became evident that something would have to be done to put them into pealable order. The late Vicar at the restoration had promised a new bell, provided that another was forthcoming, together with funds to hang both of them, space such as was erroneously thought sufficient being left for them at the side of the new frame. No opportunity however offered for completing the work, till in the autumn of last year the Rev. G. F. Coleridge was authorized by the Vicar to see what he could do. A letter to the late Vicar brought by return of post the pleasing intelligence that his offer, made 12 years previously, would still hold good. Two minutes’ conversation on the following day with Mr. F. G. Saunders, chairman of the Great Western Railway Company, brought the other bell well within the range of possibility, a note from his good wife the same evening settling the matter. So far, so good! Funds to hang the new bells and re-hang the old were next to be obtained; but no sooner were these asked for than a steady flow from parishioners set in towards the exchequer, and in a very short space of time more than enough was in hand. An order was at once given to Messrs. Blackburn and Greenleaf, of Salisbury, to supply and hang the two new trebles and re-hang the old peal. In due course the bells arrived—beautiful specimens of casting from the Whitechapel firm, and bearing somewhat similar inscriptions, viz:—

2nd—“In majorem Dei gloriam, dono dederunt Joshua et Charlotta Bennett.”

The work was at once taken in hand, at an opportune time just previous to Lent. The old frame was strengthened in every possible way, and numerous bolts were put through—it being discovered that only two of the old bolts went through both frame and beam, and those very flimsy ones. The tenor and 4th were found to be 1½ inches lower one side than the other, while an enormous amount of oscillation went on, most of the iron carriages being loose in the frames, the gun-metal bearings being loose in these, while the gudgeons were loose in the stocks; and in two cases at least the clappers were not fixed in the centre of the bells. Sufficient space not being left for an oak frame for the old treble and second (the new bells occupying the old pits, to make the circle perfect), Mr. Blackburn designed a wrought-iron frame the equal of which it would be hard to find. It is as near perfection as can possibly be, its accurate fitting and dimensions, its great strength and artistic appearance, securing the unqualified approval of all who have seen it. The work was finished by the Wednesday in Holy Week, but Mr. Blackburn and his head man, Mr. A. P. Goddard, being compelled to leave next morning, it was necessary to ring a trial touch for evening service; 720 of Double Norwich was duly accomplished, an expert ringer outside saying that the latter half sounded as though it were done by machinery, and this in spite of Mr. Blackburn thinking it a joke when such a method was proposed—none of the parish company having rung a touch in the method with the exception of the Rev. G. F. Coleridge.

The Dedication service after the usual form was held on Easter Even, the organist, choir, and a goodly congregation assembling to take part in the same. Easter Day was ushered in by the first touch after their dedication—a well-struck 504 of Grandsire Triples at 6 a.m. for the early service; for the morning service, 1264 of Bob Major; and for evening service, a 560 of Double Norwich, rung without trip or blemish of any kind, being the first in the method by Caversham Ringers alone. After service a touch in the same method, with a short touch of Grandsire Triples, was rung.

On Easter Monday a 5040 of Double Norwich was essayed, but was lost, as also was 5056 Bob Major after 2½ hours excellent ringing. Nothing daunted, the ringers made another attempt on Saturday, and succeeded in ringing a most excellent peal of 5056 Bob Major in 3 hours, the first on the augmented peal.

Although nearly £130 had been collected, being a few pounds over and above the sum actually required, the Vicar, to make a complete job of the whole, very kindly gave the Easter Offertory at the Parish Church to the “Tower and Belfry Restoration Fund;” this amounted to £19 14s. 5½d. With this sum the ringers, who have already given up many evenings in putting in a match-board ceiling, new trap-doors, etc., etc., under the skilful foremanship of E. Menday, intend making further improvements—such as laying on the gas, repairing the spiral staircase, putting in iron ladders, and a new lath and plaster ceiling to deaden the sound. They also purpose blocking up the louvres, so that peal-ringing may not be deemed a nuisance by near neighbours, while the whole belfry will be put into a more pleasing condition than heretofore. When these improvements are completed the St. Peter’s Society will be pleased to welcome any of their brethren, provided only they be first-rate strikers—bad striking not being tolerated for one moment, carelessness and inaccuracy being a gross injustice to a peal as melodious, as well hung, and as well rung as any in the county.

ROYAL CUMBERLAND YOUTHS AT BIRCHINGTON, ISLE OF THANET, KENT.

“Kindly meet at 1.30 sharp under the clock main line departure platform, London Chatham and Dover Railway, Saturday, March 26th, 1891,” was the last invitation given by Mr. H. S. Thomas, of Old Battersea, for the above successful visiting trip. And most punctual to time were fourteen of the gentlemen who accepted the invite of the Battersea Chief.

The first on the platform were Mr. Chapman (Hampstead), T. Williams (Brighton), next came Hopkins and Jones with bag and baggage, bells and bell-ropes, &c., and the next came Dains, Jacob and Newson, followed by Rogers, Baron, Mansfield, Foskett, Swain, and N. J. Pitstow, and Mr. H. S. Thomas himself followed. Punctual to time a saloon carriage came up labelled as above. And after Mr. W. W. Thorne (who came up to see that a sufficient band was secure before starting) had said adieu, and wished the party every success, away steamed the train at 1.50 p.m. Mutual conversation and salutations were the order with a few speculations as to results when ventured. The journey was enlivened by ringing on the handbells, by Newson, Hopkins, Williams, Pitstow, Rogers, etc., and all went well till within sight of Chatham Station, when the coupling at the back of the saloon gave way, and the Royal Cumberland passengers it contained were jerked all over the shop, but not seriously damaged. All being put right, Birchington was reached at 4.45, and after a slight halt with Host Fright, for refreshments, and a chat with country friends, a move was made for the celebrated Waterloo Tower. Upon arrival there the tower and ringing-room, bells and bell-chamber, were eagerly and interestingly overlooked; the bells overhauled, and ropes supplied where missing, or when condemned by those in the know to be dangerous. While on the top of the steeple a grand discovery was made by the scouting party, and shouts of great joy resounded. Mr. F. Pitstow was the cause of this, as he had missed the 1.50 from Victoria, and had booked on by the Granville. He was seen from above strolling across the park from the direction of Westgate-on-Sea. This addition made the band up to the required strength, and Mr. J. Mansfield very kindly gave way to the new arrival. All being now complete, off goes the bells for a touch of Stedman Cinques, this with another was brought round to everybody’s satisfaction. And back to the village to supper was the next order. Here several courses were got through, and the arrangements for the Sunday morning made to meet on the square at 6 a.m. This was accomplished, and at 6.40 the bells went into changes for Stedman Cinques, from which they emerged at 10.32, and a most excellent peal was accomplished, to the satisfaction of performers and audience. Some refreshments followed, and then the Parish Church was visited, and for Divine Service some Kent and Oxford Treble Bob Minor was rung. After this some of the gentlemen paid a visit to Margate and with the Rev. E. W. Carpenter rang a touch of Stedman Triples.

Monday morning saw the visitors assembled on the square again but not quite so early; 6.30 was the time, and then the bells did not go into Treble Bob Maximus until 7.40, and at 11.38 a.m. the first peal in this method also became an accomplished fact: and also that of two twelve-bell peals having been accomplished in two successive days. It is also thought to be the first time that a twelve-bell band has scored a peal in either method in a strange tower. In the afternoon a peal of Grandsire Caters was also scored, making three peals in two days. Three of the local band assisted in the latter peal. All the peals were entered in their proper column last week, and the touches will be sent up for another edition of "THE BELL NEWS." The ringing was all done under Conductor Newson's directions, and in the two twelve-bell peals the band was stationed at the same bells, and Mr. Chapman rang the tenor to all three peals.

The refreshments were served by Mr. Fright, of the New Inn, Birchington, under the able direction of Mr. H. S. Thomas, and gave every satisfaction. At 7.30 on Monday evening the Cumberland's Saloon drew up at the platform, and the visitors bidding good-bye to old friends, entered to the tune of—

The ringers are going, Oh dear, Oh dear;
Three peals in two days, Oh dear, Oh dear, &c.
Two of these on twelve bells, Oh dear, Oh dear.

The journey home was accomplished in comfort, and some ringing on the handbells of Triples, Double Norwich, and Cambridge Surprise, was indulged in, and a hearty vote of thanks was given to Mr. H. S. Thomas for his excellent arrangements, who seemed as pleased as though he had shared the honours attached to the peals accomplished.

The weather at the Isle of Thanet was delightful, and Quex Park was lovely for the time of the year.

The visitors again tender their thanks to Squire Cotton for the use of the bells, and, as during this visit, the first peal upon the bells with the tenor turned in was accomplished, it is thought a fitting opportunity for immortalisation of a nicely-arranged tablet in the belfry. Besides this, although the two trebles (the first being 23 inches diameter), were rung in a peal of Grandsire Cinques by members of this Society, in August 4th, 1819, these little bells had never learnt the lesson of Stedman or Treble Bob, or taken part in any other performance till the present time.

The following is extracted from the Cumberland Society's records:—

"Quex House, Isle of Thanet, Kent, the seat of John P. Powell, Esq. —On Wednesday, August 4th, 1819, this Society rang on that gentleman's new peal of twelve bells, in a steeple erected for the purpose in his park, a peal of Grandsire Cinques, 5213 changes, composed in the titum position with the eighth behind the eleventh throughout, performed in 3 hours 39 min. George Gross, treble; Jno. Nash, 2; William Shipway, 3; Jno. Hints, 4; Peter Jones, 5; Jas. Blacklock, 6; Thos. Freath; Thos. Ovenden, 8; Jas. Stichbury, jun., 9; Joseph Riley, 10; Thos. Grainger, 11; Francis Matthew, tenor. Conducted by George Gross. This is the first peal on the twelve bells."—Communicated.

THE OLD EAST DERBYSHIRE ASSOCIATION.

On Easter Monday, March 30th, the above Society held their annual meeting at North Wingfield. Upwards of forty members attended from Staveley, Dronfield, Killamarsh, Norton, Bradfield, and Eckington, four of the above bringing their full bands, and some good striking was done during the day. A special service and address was given by the Rector at 11 o'clock, but on account of it being so early the Eckington, Norton, and Killamarsh members were unable to be present.

After service the Eckington company opened fire with a 720 of Oxford Treble Bob. Hancock, 1; Price, 2; James, 3; Baddeley, 4; Marsden (conductor), 5; and Lunn, 6. The Killamarsh company were next with a 720 of Duke of York. Hancock, 1; Bettison, 2; Enser, 3; Burnham, 4; Turton, 5; C. Severn (conductor), tenor. A mixed band from six different towers next rang a 720 of Kent. Bettison (Killamarsh), 1; Price (Eckington), 2; Atkin (Norton), 3; D. Brearley (Bradfield), 4; Harris (Staveley, conductor), 5; Tarlton (North Wingfield), 6.

At 2 p.m. the members dined in the school-room. After dinner the Rev. H. E. Ferry was voted to the chair. The minutes of the past meeting having been read and confirmed, the Secretary next read the report and financial statement for the past year. The society, on their first year's work, have a balance in hand of £2 5s., with 48 ringing members and 15 hon. members, 18 of whom are also members of the Yorkshire Association. On the motion of Mr. D. Brearley it was resolved to have the report printed and presented to each member free of charge. One 5040 has been rung during the year.

The following officers were elected:—Rev. H. Ferry (Eckington), President; Mr. H. Madin (Staveley), Mr. T. Allen (Dronfield), vice-Presidents; Mr. H. Allen (Dronfield), Hon. Treasurer; Mr. E. James (Eckington), Hon. Secretary; and a committee of sixteen. Five new members were made, and Chesterfield agreed on for the June meeting. The usual vote of thanks brought the meeting to a close.

After several short touches (by the Dronfield and Staveley men) had been rung, the Eckington ringers finished up with a 720 of Duke of York, D. Brearley taking the 4th in place of Baddeley. The visitors wish to thank the local company for having the bells in such good order for the meeting.

RINGING, SPLICING, OILING, AND INSTRUCTING BY THE STOKE PLYMOUTH BAND.

"Easter Sunday morning, 9 a.m. found this band at the parish of Egg Buckland, a little village two miles from Plymouth, whither they had journeyed on shanks' ponies to do honour to Brother Philip Manning's wedding by giving him a peal. After a little delay the belles arrived, a beauty too, all the ringers admitted. Proceedings having commenced, ringing by P. Manning, and splicing by the Vicar went on in real earnest. After the blessing, which was re-echoed in all our hearts, Bob Minor was the order of the day. The bells (a very light peal) go so cross, the tenor and 5th having to pull right under the little ones, that we failed to get the 720. We then rang some Stedman and Grandsire Doubles, and left the bells in the hands of the local ringers for service.

"Easter Monday, 9.20 a.m., Great Western Railway Station for Liskeard, a rising town in Cornwall, with a beautiful peal of six, the tenor supposed to be 18 cwt., but is nearer a ton. Leave having been previously obtained from the Rev. Brain-Hartnell, we had no difficulty to gain admittance on arrival. Having raised the bells in peal, with two to the tenor, we started them in Grandsire Doubles. I should mention that the Liskeard men make some sort of pretence to change-ringing by changing every whole pull from cards. The treble-man said he could not keep up his bell, as it knockd against something at back-stroke. One of our other members, with more valour than discretion, thought it was a fad, and tried it in changes, but soon had to give up. Here I should like to prove the efficacy of a little oil. When we got up above we found the treble and 2nd had peculiar iron slides on the side of the frame, and the Liskeard men not ringing their bells so high, these slides had rusted in their sockets. After oiling them, everything went well, and we soon tapped out a 720 of Bob Minor in splendid style. The striking was excellent and great credit is due to Mr. Harry Stokes, of Woodbury, Exeter, for the manner in which he has lately rehung the tenor and other work. Dinner was then sought at Moon's Temperance Hotel, whither some of the local band accompanied us. After dinner instruction commenced in earnest. Bro. Taylor had come armed with whole sheets of figures and Good Old "Free Lance" we took your advice) several copies of "THE BELL NEWS," including the one announcing the attempt of the long peal. The instruction was so good that on going back to the tower we pulled their treble man through two 6-scores of Grandsire Doubles, also the fourth man. Some good Stedman Doubles, and downwards was afterwards the order. Wishing our Liskeard friends good-bye, with many a hearty shake of the hand, at 5 p.m. we were on the road to Menenhoit, a three-mile walk. All the local ringers were away prize-ringing, but the Vicar, the Rev. Hammond, gave us leave, and came and sat with us. This is a pretty peal of six, tenor about 15 cwt. Here we repeated the same thing—Grandsire and Stedman Doubles, and a splendid 720 of Bob Minor. Having ordered tea at the hostelry, we adjourned thither with splendid appetites, and having fully satisfied them we drew round the fire and had a quiet hour in mirth and song. A mile walk to the station, some courses of Grandsire Triples on the platform, a short ride to Plymouth, and thus ended a very happy day at 11.30 p.m. These are the first four stations on the Cornish line in the last two Bank-holidays.

"On Thursday at Stoke, each of the ringers received a wedding card and a piece of bride-cake from Mr. and Mrs. Manning. Those who took part in the ringing were E. Hendy, H. Myers, R. Ford, E. Taylor (conductor), J. Richards, W. Peard, W. Marsh."

THE CENTRAL COUNCIL.

OFFICIAL MINUTES OF THE ANNUAL MEETING.

The first Annual Meeting of the Central Council of Church Bell Ringers was held at the "Inns of Court" Hotel, Holborn, on Tuesday, March 31st. Of the whole number of seventy-four members, representing thirty-three Societies, sixty-three were present. One Society—the Chester Diocesan Guild—was unrepresented. The Rev. H. Earle Bulwer having been chosen to preside temporarily, the only nomination received for the office of President, that of Mr. Percival Heywood, was laid before the meeting. Mr. Heywood was then elected President for three years, and took the chair.

Of the nominations for the post of Hon. Secretary, Mr. Attree and Mr. Thornton having declined to stand, the names of Mr. Strange and Mr. Dawe were submitted to the meeting with the result that Mr. Dawe was elected to fill the office.

On the question of Honorary Members, it was moved by Mr. J. Griffin, seconded by the Rev. W. W. C. Baker and carried, that only nine of the twelve be chosen at this meeting. The following were then elected:—Canon Wigram, Dr. Raven, Rev. Pitt Eykyn, and Messrs. J. C. Mitchell, H. Thomas, C. Hounslow, W. Wakley, J. Pettit and W. T. Pates.

The President then rose and said that, before proceeding with the subjects on the Agenda, he desired to impress upon the Council the great importance of bearing in mind that they were met, not to contest points of difference in an aggressive spirit, but to discuss the questions before them thoughtfully and with the earnest wish to arrive at decisions based upon careful and unprejudiced consideration of the various views presented. They had yet to make a position for themselves, and it depended upon the judgment with which their dictums were drawn up, whether the Council would come to be regarded as the final authority on all ringing matters. If properly directed, the opinions of a body comprising so large a proportion of the first ringers of the country could not but exert a most valuable influence for good upon the interests of the Exercise.

The following business was then transacted:—Moved by Mr. R. Story, seconded by Mr. E. A. Nunn and carried, that the question of proxy voting be deferred to the end of the meeting.

Moved by Mr. E. F. Strange, seconded by Dr. A. B. Carpenter, and carried, that a Standing Committee be formed, consisting of the President, Hon. Secretary and seven members, five to form a quorum, to deal with such matters as may come before it in the interim between the meetings of the Council. The following were elected to serve:—Revs. F. E. Robinson and C. D. P. Davies, Messrs. E. F. Strange, G. F. Attree, C. H. Hattersley, H. Dains, and J. W. Washbrook, with power to add to their number.

Moved by the Rev. H. Earle Bulwer, seconded by Mr. W. Snowdon, and carried, that the following be appointed a Committee, five to form a quorum, to draw up a body of advice, suggestions, and instructions on (i) the repair and preservation of bells, frames, and fittings; also (ii) on the best means of moderating the sound of noisy bells both outside the tower and in the ringing-chamber; also (iii) on the furnishing of ringing-chambers, embodying data such as may prove useful to Rural Deans and other Church authorities interested in providing good and proper accommodation for their ringers, both with reference to the proper means of ventilating ringing-chambers and to securing a medium temperature therein, together with notes for the guidance of those who may have to ring heavy bells previous to Divine Service, as to clothing, etc., and a reminder to Churchwardens as to their responsibilities to those who may thus have to enter church in a heated state, with (iv) a list of approximate prices, according to weight, for the several items of bell and frame furniture; The President, Hon. Secretary, Rev. H. Earle Bulwer, Messrs. W. Snowdon, G. H. Phillott, F. W. Rees, and W. Baron. The Committee to embody their conclusions in the form of a Report, to be presented to the next meeting of the Council, and if approved, promulgated through the medium of the various Societies with the sanction and authority of the Council.

Moved by Mr. W. Snowdon, seconded by Mr. B. T. Copley, and carried, that, in the opinion of this Council, steps should be taken to obtain adequate recognition of the Ringers' office and work at Church Congresses. The following were appointed to give effect to the resolution:—The President, Canon Wigram, Rev. H. Earle Bulwer, and Rev. T. L. Papillon.

Mr. E. F. Strange brought forward a series of resolutions defining the conditions necessary to the accomplishment of a true and complete peal on all numbers of bells from five upwards. After considerable discussion on peals of Doubles and Minor, the following resolution was passed in regard to Peals of Triples, the definition of peals of Doubles, Minor, Major, and the higher numbers, being referred to the Standing Committee to be put into shape and brought before the next Meeting of the Council.

Moved by Mr. E. F. Strange, seconded by Dr. A. B. Carpenter, and carried by a majority of 40 to 16, 7 not voting, that the Council decides the following conditions to be necessary to the accomplishment of a true and complete peal on 7 bells, not less than 5040 changes, rung with or without a covering bell, and without interval, being the extent of changes in the method chosen.

In accordance with rule XI, a list shewing the voting on this motion is appended, the point in contention being the words in italics.

Mr. W. Snowdon then moved, and Mr. B. T. Copley seconded, a resolution that proxy voting be permitted to members residing over 100 miles from the place of meeting. The motion was lost by a large majority.

On the motion of the G. F. Attree, seconded by the Rev. C. D. P. Davies, it was suggested that the agenda for future meetings contain all proposed motions in full. Resolved: to leave the matter in the hands of the Standing Committee.

Moved by Mr. G. Longden, seconded by Mr. J. W. Taylor, that the next meeting be held at Derby; whereupon Mr. H. Bastable moved, and Mr. S. Reeves seconded, that it be held at Birmingham. The latter being carried by a large majority, it was agreed to meet about one o'clock on Easter Tuesday, 1892.

A vote of thanks to the President for presiding, moved by the Rev. F. E. Robinson, and seconded by Mr. W. D. Smith, concluded the meeting.

The following was the voting on Mr. E. F. Strange's motion defining a peal of Triples:—

THE MIDLAND COUNTIES' ASSOCIATION.

The Ninth Annual Meeting of this Association was held at Derby, on Easter Monday, March 30th, 1891. The following towers were open for ringing from 10 a.m., viz.: All Saints, 10 bells; St. Alkmund's, St. Andrew's, St. Luke's, and St. Werburgh's, 8 bells. The usual Committee Meeting was held in the schoolroom, Traffic-street, and the following Districts were duly represented: Derby, Burton, Leicester, and Nottingham. Tea was served at the same place at five o'clock, about 80 members and friends being present. At the General Meeting the President, A. Percival Heywood Esq., presided; Mr. W. Wakley, Hon. Treasurer, Mr. Jos. Griffin, Hon. Sec., R. S. Sterey, Esq., President of the Durham and Newcastle Association, the band of eight ringers from Calverley, Yorkshire, and representatives from Burton, Derby, Duffield, Ashby-de-la-Zouch, Nottingham, Sandiacre, Long Eaton, Leicester, Melbourne, Wombourn, Ripley, and Chesterfield, were also present. One Honorary Member (the Rev. Alfred Hensley, Rector of Cotgrave), one Life Member (R. S. Story, Esq., Newcastle), and 16 ringing members were unanimously elected.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and passed and the Treasurer's Accounts were also unanimously adopted; and the following officers were unanimously re-elected for the ensuing year, viz.: A. Percival Heywood, Esq., President; Mr. William Wakley, Hon. Treasurer, Mr. Joseph Griffin, Hon. Secretary.

Notice had been duly given of the following resolution:

"That the place where the next Annual Meeting shall be held, shall be decided at the previous Annual Meeting."

This was proposed by the Hon. Sec., seconded by Mr. Lowe, and carried unanimously.

The place where the next Annual Meeting should be held was next on the Agenda, Derby and Nottingham being duly proposed and seconded. The latter being selected by a large majority the President announced that the Tenth Annual Meeting would take place at Nottingham, on Easter Monday, 1892, and he hoped there would be a good muster of members on that day, as he intended asking the Bishop of Southwell to address them on the occasion of their Tenth Anniversary.

The following towns were duly proposed and seconded for the next Quarterly Meeting, viz., Loughborough and Chesterfield, and the former was chosen as the place of meeting.

Votes of thanks to the clergy for the use of their bells on that day, and to the chairman for presiding, brought a very successful meeting to a close.

The Honorary Secretary wishes to inform the members of the Association that the report for 1890 is now ready, and will be duly forwarded upon receipt of the current year's subscription, or through the Local Secretaries of each District. Life members will be supplied with a copy by the payment of 7d. (stamps), upon application to the Honorary Secretary, 5, St. Paul's-street, East, Burton-on-Trent.

THE ESSEX ASSOCIATION.

A District Meeting of the Essex Association was held on Saturday, April 4th, at Southminster, in the "Dengie Hundred," a district which, though only fifty miles from London, was until the opening of a new railway two years ago, one of the remotest corners of England. From eighteen to twenty members, including the Hon. Secretary and Assistant Secretary (Revs. T. L. Papillon and H. T. W. Eyre), turned up, and were first conveyed in a break to Tillingham, a village four miles from Southminster, with a fine church in course of restoration, and a ring of five recently augmented to six by the addition of a new treble, by Warner and Sons, of London. The ringing-chamber here is comfortable and the ropes good, but an extra ceiling with some kind of padding is much needed to lessen the deafening noise of the bells. The tenor is a bad cover, and the whole peal sounds incomplete, like the first six of a ring of eight. After various touches had been rung, the first 720 of Treble Bob upon the bells was pulled off by some members of the Maldon company, assisted by W. Lincoln, of Writtle.

The party returned to Southminster for tea at 5.30, after which the usual business meeting was held and several new members elected, among them Mr. Hurrell, Churchwarden of Southminster, who (there being at present no Vicar) was present at tea, and welcomed the Association to the place. A move was then made to the tower, where are six bells, much pleasanter to hear than those of Tillingham, but going rather hard, the tenor especially) from want of grease and of rehanging. A 720 of Bob Minor (the first for fifteen years or more) was rung by G. Mansfield (Maldon), 1; W. Nevard (Great Bentley), 2; W. Hazell (Little Bentley), 3; Rev. T. L. Papillon (Writtle), 4; M. Windley (Boreham), 5; W. Lincoln (Writtle: conductor), 6.

It is hoped that this visit of the Association may give some encouragement to change-ringing in a remote part of the county. There are no eight-bell towers within fifteen or twenty miles of the Dengie Hundred, but plenty with six and five bells, which might as well be scientifically rung as only in rounds or not at all. But in ringing, as in other matters, we move slowly in Essex.

BOOK PLATES.

The taste for elegant and choice books is undoubtedly spreading, and just now there is quite a craze among book-lovers for the collection of those little labels which are placed in books as marks of possession, and are usually known as book-plates. New ones are every day being designed, and much artistic excellence is often exhibited in the designs. Most possessors of books like to write their names within the covers, and some, going a little further, have their names printed on a ticket to place inside their books. Here we have the book-plate in its simplest form. Every one must have come across in some old volumes the following doggerel, which appears in all kinds of illiterate writing:—

[John Robinson] is my name,
And England is my nation,
London is my dwelling-place,
And Christ is my salvation.

It is amusing to note the difference between the large and the small collector in the expression of his right of possession. The great book-lovers Maioli and Grolier in the fifteenth century stamped upon their beautiful volumes the liberal information that the books were for themselves and for their friends, and several other collectors used the same expression, while one went so far as to state on his book-plate that his volumes were not for himself but for others. How far these liberal sentiments were carried out we cannot tell. Let us now look at the other side. One man was so niggardly in the use of his books that he had inscribed in each: "This book is stolen from the library of —." A very pointed inscription, though not so bad as the last, was the verse: "The ungodly borroweth and payeth not again."

If thou art borrowed by a friend,
Right welcome shall he be,
To read, to study, not to lend,
But to return to me.
Not that imparted knowledge doth
Diminish learning's store,
But books, I find, if often lent
Return to me no more.

Sometimes the inscriptions refer more to the treatment of books when lent than to their return, as this one:—

Fear not, nor soil not;
Read all, but spoil not.

The next might with advantage be borne in mind by those who are careless in the treatment of books:—

If any one should borrow me,
Pray keep me clean,
For I am not like the linen cloth
That can be wash'd again.

There are many more verses inculcating a like sentiment, but the above are sufficient as samples.—Chronicle.

SATURDAY, APRIL 11, 1891.

THE first meeting of the Central Council; if it did not quite reach the expectation of some of its most ardent supporters, was certainly a remarkable success from many points of view. In the first place it is no small testimony to the earnest purpose of the members that, out of a total of seventy-four representatives deputed by thirty-three Societies, sixty-three were present, one Society only being left unrepresented. Again, it is only necessary to cast an eye over the official minutes, which we print to-day, to see that resolutions of considerable prospective value to the welfare of the Exercise were passed, and the needful steps initiated for carrying them into effect. The selections of President and Hon. Secretary appear to have given general satisfaction, but the mode of choice of Honorary Members seems open to improvement. Not that the gentlemen chosen are other than most desirable acquisitions to the strength of the Council, but seeing that every member was free to propose any one he thought fit, a great complication in voting might have arisen, an eventuality which, owing to the good sense of the meeting, was fortunately avoided. It seems to us, however, that a better procedure would be to fall in with the suggestion of one of the representatives, that honorary members should be nominated beforehand. If, in addition to this, the nominations were considered by the Standing Committee, this body could select the required number of names and submit them to the meeting for approval or amendment. By this means the time of the meeting would be economised and the omission of any valuable allies obviated. The appointment of a Standing Committee was undoubtedly a wise move. A vast amount of detail may by its instrumentality be settled before the meetings, leaving the time of the Council free for the discussion of controversial matters.

We are in entire accord with the somewhat complex motion of the REV. H. EARLE BULWER, by which a special Committee was appointed to draw up a report containing advice upon almost every conceivable detail connected with bells, with a view of disseminating it, with the approval of the Council, among Clergy and others who are responsible for the state of our belfries. Although that part of the resolution which deals with the physical requirements of ringers savours somewhat of over-refinement, that having reference to bells and ringing-chambers will meet with the unqualified approval of the Exercise, as tending to bring about the most needful of desideratums, an adequate knowledge, on the part of the authorities, of the proper management of belfries. MR. SNOWDON's motion to bring the subject of ringing under the notice of Church Congress will be widely applauded, for nothing is more remarkable in these days of progress than the extraordinary apathy manifested by the Church, as a body, to her ringers and their interests. In regard to the definition, laid down by the Council, of a "true and complete" peal of Triples, we confess to a regret that the suggestion of the President was not accepted that the decision should be relegated, as were the definitions of peals on the remaining numbers of bells, to the Standing Committee, to be put into shape and brought before the next meeting. A large body like the Council is at a disadvantage in dealing with the precise enunciation of a series of important definitions without the intervention of a Committee; and the resolution as passed, the voting on which in reality turned on the question of a covering bell, carries with it other important corollaries which apparently passed unnoticed by the meeting, such as the invalidation of peals of less than 5040 changes, and the recognition of those during part of which the covering bell may be silent or the tenor altogether omitted. A complete scale of carefully drawn conditions essential to a true peal on each number of bells from five to twelve, laid down by a two-thirds majority of the Council, would be of great value to the Exercise as a standard of reference, even if all ringers did not care to conform to it. The loosely worded item, however, which has been put forth in regard to peals of Triples, lacks the support which a juxta-position with the rest would have afforded it. At the same time it must be allowed that the Council spoke with no uncertain voice, and the majority of 40 to 16, well over the required two-thirds, shews conclusively that the general opinion of the Exercise is disposed to favour the technical view of a peal of Triples rather than to treat it as a musical effort for the approval of those outside. Whether, having regard to the great move made of late years in the direction of musical compositions and methods, the present decision can be justly considered up to date is a matter which we must leave to our readers to determine.

We adverted last week to the failure of the President of the Yorkshire Association to move the Council to reconsider the rule forbidding proxy voting. It is unnecessary to refer further to the matter than to say that the meeting appeared to recognise to the full the justice of the President's observation that they met to take counsel together, and not of necessity to register preconceived votes. Birmingham seemed on all hands to be recognised as a suitable place for the next meeting. In regard to ringers it is not only a convenient geographical centre, but also a historic centre of fine achievements in campanology. A recollection of the welcome extended to visitors on the occasion of the Johnson Anniversary gathering will assuredly serve to enhance the popularity of the fixture. In conclusion we may congratulate the Exercise on having taken a marked step in advance, and as the next gathering of the Council, now that the initiatory business is disposed of, and the members have, as it were, felt their feet, will be free from many of the difficulties which attended its opening, we may safely prophecy an increasing adhesion to a movement, that despite all drawbacks, already promises so well.

THE UNEMPLOYED IN EAST LONDON.—At a time when much thought is being given to this matter, a practical suggestion may be of service. Last year more than £300,000 worth of foreign matches were purchased by inconsiderate consumers in this country, to the great injury of our own working people, so true is it that "evil is wrought by want of thought, as well as want of heart." If all consumers would purchase Bryant and May's matches, that firm would be enabled to pay £1000 a week more in wages.

Letter to the Editor.

A CONTRADICTION.

SIR,—Your last issue says in account of Councilors' meeting: "They cooled their heels for above an hour awaiting the advent of the steeple-keeper." This error is too serious to leave uncontradicted. When I entered the church to prepare the bells for ringing at 6.30 p.m., I saw no one there, and so the statement is fabricated, as bells were ringing soon after 7 o'clock. JOHN MANSFIELD.

[If our friend Mansfield asserts that the gentlemen in question did not wait a half-hour outside the church he is in error. It was stated in the dining-room that "St. Martin's was open;" the company walked slowly from Lincoln's Inn Fields to Trafalgar-square in response to the invitation, and then found they had to wait, which was not expected.—Ed.]

"PAINLESS AND PERFECT DENTISTRY."

Her Majesty's Surgeon-Dentist says:—

MY DEAR DOCTOR,—Allow me to express my thanks for the skill and attention displayed in the construction of my Artificial Teeth, which render my mastication and articulation excellent. I am glad to hear that you have obtained Her Majesty's Royal Letters Patent to protect what I consider the perfection of Painless Dentistry. In recognition of your valuable services you are at liberty to use my name.

S. G. HUTCHINS. By appointment Surgeon-Dentist to Her Majesty the Queen.

To GEO. H. JONES, Esq., D.D.S.

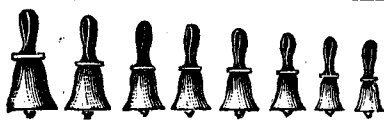

SCIENTIFIC DEPARTMENT.—LABORATORY OF EXPERIMENTAL SCIENCE.

This is to certify:—That I have analysed the Prize Medal Teeth submitted to me, and find them to be composed only of minerals of extreme purity. I have also examined and tested your patented painless system of adjustment, it is quite perfect, and is the most successful application of scientific laws for securing actual wear and comfort yet introduced. Both physically and anatomically, they are a beautiful resemblance to the natural teeth.

SIX-PART PEALS.

I give below the callings for eighteen peals, which I obtained by bobbing the same Q sets as produced the eighteen peals of Oxford Bob:—

The instructions for the second half, also the singles, and the comment upon the eighteen peals of Oxford Bob applies to the above eighteen callings in just the same order. The bob-lead of (1), (15), and (17), comes in the same order in both methods, although the intervals between the bobs are different.

*First rung on Dec. 6th, 1889, at the Parish Church, Warnham, by the Sussex Association, conducted by H. H. Chandler.

It will not be necessary to give the two five-part peals in this method, as the positions of the observation-bell is the same as in the two peals of Oxford Bob. If No. 1 in all three methods is reversed, the positions of the second will be the same in each peal. In "THE BELL NEWS" for May 17th, 1890, when my paper on Union appeared, I stated that there was a kind of relationship existing between these three methods. It is not easy to trace this relationship, except in such peals as ten-part No. 3 in each method, six-part No. 1 in each method, six-part No. 11 in Oxford and Court, and No. 3 in Union: also, five-part No. 1 in each method. All these peals are interesting examples shew-ing that a kind of relationship does exist between these methods.

Ten-part No. 3 in each method, if placed side by side, will suggest a scale for finding the same peal in the three methods, but such a scale will not stand good in many cases. The safest plan for finding the same peal in Oxford and Court is to bob the same Q sets in both methods. I have never known this plan to fail, except in the case of ten-part peals, when we sometimes get a peal in one method and ten 504s in the other. To find the same peal in Union in all cases, the secret lies in the naming of the different Q sets. I am inclined to believe that these dodges may be applied to many other methods. Something of the kind is seen in Shipway's peal of Double Union, and Holt's peal of Union, for 99 of the bob-leads are the same in both peals. I also notice that the singles in these two peals are different.

In conclusion, I may say that my reason for going into these methods was, that I felt confident that a collection of peals in these methods would be interesting and acceptable to the Exercise.

ERRATUM.—Under the two five-part peals of Oxford Bob, for minor read Union; and under the two ten-part peals of Court Bob, for same nine sets read same Q sets.

THE HERTFORD COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

The annual meeting of this Association was held at St. Albans on Easter Monday, and to judge from the representative gathering of members, it certainly eclipsed any previous muster. The bells at St. Peter's were heard soon after ten o'clock, and before the morning had far advanced the belfry was literally besieged by members. This necessitated a division, and accordingly a party made for the Cathedral, where was rung Stedman and Grandsire Triples. A special service was held at St. Peter's Church at 12.45, the officiating clergy being the Revs. V. Faulkner and W. C. Morgan. The Ven. Archdeacon Laurance gave a most stirring address, and emphasised the two great points which ringers ought to inculcate, viz., subordination and perseverance, without which success in ringing could not be attained. The address was listened to with marked attention, the attendance of members being very gratifying. Mr. Cawson presided at the organ, and secured the services of the choir, which added greatly to the pleasure to be derived from the service. The hymns, "Through the night of doubt and sorrow," and "Hark, hark, my soul," were sung very heartily by all.

At half-past one nearly sixty members of the Association sat down to dinner in the Corn Exchange, the caterer being Mr. Addington, of the Coffee Tavern. The venerable president, Mr. Leonard Proctor, of Bennington, occupied the chair, and among those present were: Revs. F. H. Hodgson (vicar of Abbots Langley), G. H. P. Glossop and T. T. Blockley, Messrs. H. L. Waddington, W. H. L. Buckingham, S. E. Mitchell, E. R. Mitchell, R. A. Fowler, E. P. Debenham (hon. sec.), G. W. Cartmel (assistant hon. sec.), H. Lewis, E. Hull, A. Hull, T. Conley, R. Hammond, H. Brewer, J. Brewer, W. Battle, W. T. Waller, F. Randall, J. C. Mitchell, A. Godman, H. Biggs, R. Weatherley (St. Albans), J. Hare (Hitchin), W. R. Dennis (Knebworth), J. Sharnbrook, H. Warner, S. Page, J. Kitchener, Joseph Kitchener, N. Warner (Bennington), A. J. Pate, W. Oakley, E. E. Huntley, G. Hunt, H. Hunt (Bushey), G. T. Spicer, Richard Jackson, T. Webb, J. Phillips, Robert Jackson (Baldock), J. George (Rugby), W. Hewitt, H. Wright (Aldenham), and many others.

Towards the close of the repast, the Bishop of St. Albans, accompanied by the Ven. Archdeacon Lawrance, entered the room, and was accorded a hearty welcome. Dinner over, the chair was temporarily taken by the Bishop, and the secretary reported that, amongst others, letters expressing regret at non-attendance had been received from the Revs. K. Gibbs (Aldenham), P. Deeds, W. Horn (St. Albans), Lord William Cecil (Hatfield), J. B. Slight (Sandridge), and P. Ward (Apsley End). The Bishop was elected a patron of the Association; and the following new members were also elected: Revs. F. Hodgson, G. H. P. Glossop and T. T. Blockley (hon. members); Mr. James George, of Rugby, a life-ringing member; Messrs. Hunt, Atkins (Bushey), Goodchild (Upper Holloway), H. Jones, H. Hart, G. Lazzell (Aldenham), and W. Dennis (Knebworth), ringing members.

The Bishop of St. Albans then rose, amidst applause, and said that as he had to go off almost directly, he would ask their indulgence for a few moments whilst he wished the Association success. He understood that he had that day been elected a patron of the Association, and as this naturally was the first time that he had been able to appear on such an occasion, he desired to take this opportunity of wishing them every possible success. He felt some diffidence in speaking to them, because of the art of bell-ringing he knew absolutely nothing beyond that knowledge that came to anyone who heard them rung. Therefore he was not going to attempt to enter into the phraseology of bell-ringing, because, as they knew, that was an extremely dangerous subject. Still, he thought all people must welcome such a peculiarly English custom as bell-ringing, of which he himself knew sufficient to say that they did not merely move the clapper as on the Continent, but they actually rang the bell, and in that respect the custom was essentially an English one. And as bell-ringing was an English custom, and a good custom, he thought all should stir themselves to see it upheld and carried out in the best possible way, because everything connected with the Church, from the very highest of motives, should be done in the best possible way, and therefore he wished the Association every success. The fact of the Association bringing together the members was in itself most useful, in addition to which the experience that was gained, and the mixing with each other in society was also productive of great pleasure. He would not further take up their time than by saying that he hoped the Association would continue in those good lines which he was sure their worthy president had desired to see established, and that it would help to accomplish that which was so very important—the maintenance of a high standard of character among those who took up any good work connected with the Church.

The Bishop and Archdeacon Lawrance then took their departure amidst renewed applause, and Mr. Proctor resumed the chair. The annual report was then presented by the Secretary, and we regret being unable to publish it. Mr. Henry Lewis moved the adoption of the report and balance-sheet, and paid a compliment to the untiring energies of the secretary, to whom he moved a vote of thanks. Mr. T. Waller seconded, and the motion was carried. The President, whose services to the cause of change-ringing, extending over half a century, were recognised by Mr. Debenham, was also re-elected. Mr. Buckingham moved, and Mr. H. Brewer seconded, the re-election of Mr. Debenham as secretary, and Mr. R. A. Fowler, in a very neat speech, supported, observing that the time, trouble, and careful thought that their secretary gave to the work of the Association were most laudable. The re-election was carried with acclamation, and Mr. Debenham having humorously observed that he hoped the "salary" would be increased, or at least continued, went on to acknowledge the assistance rendered him by Mr. Cartmel, without whose continued help he was afraid they would have to look out for another secretary. Mr. Cartmel having volunteered to continue his services with so congenial a colleague as Mr. Debenham, the latter gentleman expressed his willingness to remain in office. Mr. Ralph Fowler was also re-elected auditor.

Mr. J. C. Mitchell proposed "That the Association recommend the adoption of the office now in use in the Cathedral belfry for use in the belfries affiliated with the Association; that the same be printed and copies sent to each tower, together with a circular recommending its use." Mr. Fowler seconded, and after some discussion fourteen voted for the resolution, which was carried with seven dissentients.

On the motion of the secretary, cordial votes of thanks were passed to the Archdeacon, to the clergy of St. Peter's, and to the organist and choir of St. Peter's, it being stated that this was the first occasion in which an organist and choir had given up their time to take part in the service held by the Association. A vote of thanks to the president was also passed. It having been decided to hold the next district meeting in June at Bennington, Mr. Procter promised the members a hearty welcome, and none who have ever enjoyed the president's hospitality will have reason to expect otherwise.

Ringling was continued at the Cathedral until five o'clock, and at St. Peter's until about seven, thus bringing to a close a memorable meeting, enjoyed by all.

THE ST. JOHN AT HACKNEY (MIDDLESEX) SOCIETY.

On Saturday, the 11th instant, the annual dinner of this society took place at the Hackney Restaurant, a famed establishment not far from the Church, the proprietor of which appears to enjoy the credit of providing a most liberal menu for his patrons, as he certainly did upon this occasion.

The chair was taken by the Rector of Hackney, the Rev. F. E. Gardiner, who had as his vis-a-vis Mr. Churchwarden Barnes, and was supported by Messrs. J. Lowles (L.C.C.), Luckhurst, and Edgley, sidesmen of the parish.

After the usual loyal toasts had been honoured, the Rector proposed what he thought would be regarded as the toast of the evening, viz.: "The St. John at Hackney Society of Change-Ringers." He was very pleased, he said, to be with them that evening. The time of a parson generally had many calls upon it, and in such an important parish as that of Hackney there was no exception to the rule. Nevertheless, he was glad to be able to spend that evening with his ringers, who performed their various duties so admirably not only to his and the Churchwardens' complete satisfaction, but to that of the whole parish. The rev. gentleman concluded his remarks by formally proposing the toast, which was cordially received.

Mr. Burkin, Master of the Society, responded. He intimated that practice on the bells of Hackney was not had under the most favorable conditions. To ring the bells was not always a very enjoyable process, owing to the fact that they required re-hanging. He supposed however that what couldn't be cured would have to be endured, and they would do their best under the circumstances to make ringers. Hackney had the credit of sending forth more than one ringer who had made himself a name in the Exercise. The principal bob-caller of the Ancient Society of College Youths—Mr. Pettit—learnt first to ring at Hackney, and there were others also who received their first lessons in ringing there. He thanked the company for the warm reception they had given to the toast. They had plenty of young hands anxious to become famous, and he believed that before long they should be able to score a peal in which these young people would take part.

Mr. W. D. Smith (hon. sec.) proposed "The Visitors." He said that although the society was going on admirably and the members' contributions liquidated everything, even to the cost of the sumptuous repast they had just partaken of, yet he should be better pleased if they could be joined by a few gentlemen in the shape of honorary members. He coupled with the toast the name of Mr. J. Lowles.

Mr. Lowles replied in a speech both practical and amusing, which we regret not being able to give in full. He and his sidesmen would be pleased indeed to become honorary members. He had just returned from a visit to America, where he had seen at Philadelphia the famous bell named the "Bell of Liberty," but which however he found cracked. Other experiences of America were then related, among which the allusions to the "American belles" evoked considerable laughter, and Mr. Lowles resumed his seat amid manifestations of applause.

More toasts were then given, and after the Rector and Churchwardens had taken their departure the company broke up about half-an-hour before midnight. The result of the arrangements so amply made by Mr. W. D. Smith for a successful gathering must have amply compensated that gentleman for the pains he had taken to that end.

THE ST. PETER'S SOCIETY, WOLVERHAMPTON.

The members forming the above were entertained by the Rev. J. T. Jeffcock, M.A., R.D., at the Rectory, on Thursday, April 2nd. There were fifteen members present.

The Rector took the chair, and R. P. Walker, Esq. (Vice-President of St. Peter's Guild), occupied the Vice-Chair. Officers for the ensuing year were elected.

The Rector complimented the ringers upon the great progress made during the year, and also expressed his delight in seeing such a goodly band. The toasts:—"Church and Queen," "Rector and Churchwardens," and "St. Peter's Ringers," were given.

A vote of thanks was passed to the Rector for entertaining the Ringers, and the members dispersed, after having spent a pleasant evening.

LEEDS AND DISTRICT SOCIETY.

The Annual Meeting of the above society was held on Saturday, April 4th. Only a poor muster of members assembled at the stated hour—3.0 p.m. However, as time passed the attendance improved, and at 5.30 p.m. the business meeting was opened, when every company belonging to the society was represented, viz.: Leeds, Armley, Rothwell, Holbeck, Burley, Calverley, Pudsey, Drighlington, Huddersfield, Bramley, Headingley St. Chad's, and Headingley St. Michael's.

The Chairman at once opened the meeting by passing a vote of thanks to the retiring officers. The balance-sheet was then taken as read. The election of officers for the ensuing year was next proceeded with, with the following result: Mr. J. Whitaker, president; Mr. W. Abbishaw, vice-president; Mr. D. Yorke, treasurer; Mr. R. Binns, secretary. The committee comprise one member from each tower named above.

The Chairman then referred to the great loss sustained by the Society in consequence of their late secretary's removal from Leeds. Addressing that gentleman, he asked his acceptance, from his fellow-members, of a silver-mounted Malacca walking-cane, with the following inscription:—

"Presented to H. W. Needham by the Leeds and District Society of Change-Ringers, April 4th, 1891."

Mr. Needham, in accepting the present, spoke at some length, thanking the subscribers and all present in feeling and appropriate language.

An adjournment was then made to the tower of the parish church (St. Peter's), where Treble Bob Royal, Major, and Minor were rung. Then back to the meeting-house—the "Old Royal Oak" inn, Kirkgate, when handbell ringing was freely indulged in up to ten o'clock, and thus ended another successful gathering of this Society.

CHANGE-RINGING AT ST. MARY CRAY, KENT.

ON Sunday evening, April 12th, for Divine Service at the parish church, five members of the local guild succeeded in ringing six 6-scores of Grandsire Doubles, in 28 mins., called differently. C. W. Collins, 1; W. Burchell, 2; H. Cornish (conductor), 3; A. E. Wise, 4; W. J. Smith, 5. First 6-score as conductor by H. Cornish, and first 6-score by Messrs. Collins and Burchell. Special efforts are about to be made to raise the fund for placing a new treble bell in the tower to increase the peal to six, towards which £17 has been in hand some time. Contributions will be thankfully received by the vicar, the Rev. E. Ball.

THE LANCASHIRE ASSOCIATION.

ROCHDALE BRANCH.—A meeting of the above branch was held on Saturday, April 4th, at St. Mary's Church, Rochdale. The bells were kept going from 4.30 till 9 p.m. Touches of Grandsire Triples were rung and also a 720 of Bob Minor attempted, but came to grief. At the meeting held in the schools, Mr. J. Hoyle in the chair, a letter was read from the ringers of East Crompton, who could not see their way to join the branch owing to there being so many inducements other than ringing in which to spend their time. The next meeting is to be held at All Saints, Rochdale, on May 2nd. The meeting closed with votes of thanks to all concerned.

HORSMONDEN, KENT.

On Wednesday, April 8th, at St. Margaret's, three 720s of Bob Minor, each called differently. T. Lambert, J. Beach, W. Lambert, F. Lambert (conductor), F. Butchers, G. Hodge. Rung in honour of the Rev. H. H. Wilford's wedding (Curate of the parish). On Thursday, the 9th, the St. Margaret's Society (through Mr. Wilford's kindness) met at the Town House, Horsmonden, and had a good supper. After Mr. and Mrs. Wilford's health had been drank, singing and handbell ringing were indulged in till ten o'clock, when the National Anthem brought a most enjoyable evening to a close.

THE UNEMPLOYED IN EAST LONDON.—At a time when much thought is being given to this matter, a practical suggestion may be of service. Last year more than £300,000 worth of foreign matches were purchased by inconsiderate consumers in this country, to the great injury of our own working people, so true is it that "evil is wrought by want of thought, as well as want of heart." If all consumers would purchase Bryant and May's matches, that firm would be enabled to pay £1000 a week more in wages.

TANFIELD, DURHAM.

On Saturday, April 11th, six members of the Durham and Newcastle Association, responding to the invitation of the vicar and ringers, journeyed to the above village to spend the weekend, and with the intention of doing some good six-bell ringing. On reaching there a capital tea was found spread out in the "Peacock" inn. This having been done ample justice to, the local men introduced their handbells, and the wonders they performed on them in tune-ringing astonished the visitors, for they have only had them in hand since the New Year. Adjourning to the belfry, they there found everything in apple-pie order, such that a ringer with the most fastidious taste could not have found fault, with either the go of the bells or the innumerable comforts of the belfry. A 5040 in seven methods was then rung starting at 5.30 p.m. and coming into final rounds little after 8.30., the striking being capital throughout. Five of the local band, who are enthusiasts, sat in the belfry during the whole performance, and seemed almost to enjoy it as much as the fortunate six themselves. From the belfry the "Peacock" was next visited and the evening spent amongst the handbells and finished with comic songs. The next morning (Sunday) the visitors (at least four of them) listened outside while four of the local band with Messrs. Gofton and Harrison (their instructor) tapped off a 120 of Bob Minor in good style. F. Lowe, 1; H. Tyson, 2; T. Bruce, 3; T. Gofton, 4; W. Bruce, 5; F. Harrison (conductor), 6. In the afternoon a beat up was made in Mr. Fred Lowe's garden where sacred music was indulged in on handbells and also some change-ringing. For evening service a 720 of Woodbine Treble Bob was rung. W. Henderson, 1; R. S. Story, 2; T. Gofton, 3; F. Harrison, 4; C. L. Routledge, 5; W. Storey (conductor), 6. The next move was to the train home, all leaving this hospitable district with marked regret, and one and all desire to thank the local ringers and their vicar (Rev. T. Archdale) for the warm welcome they received, and entertaining them right royally.

RINGERS' OUTING.

On Thursday, March 26th, Messrs. G. Lindoff and E. T. Shearing accepted a kind invitation, often repeated, to pay a visit to their Lincoln friends. Ringing was commenced on Easter Sunday morning with a date touch of Grandsire Triples on the newly restored bells of St. Peter-at-Arches. On Monday one of Mr. James' peals of Grandsire Triples was safely brought to a conclusion at the same tower, being the first on the bells for 111 years. The evening was spent in an attempt for Holt's ten-part at the Cathedral, which unfortunately came to grief after 1 hr. 10 mins. Tuesday was set apart for Holt's Original at Sleaford, and all went well till about nine leads from home, when a shift-course upset good intentions. A visit to Washington, a fine peal of six, was the programme for Wednesday, and Scotherne, another peal of six, for Thursday. The evenings generally were passed in a "Convivial" manner over the humble glass, and lowly "churchwarden"; discussions on various ringing topics, and songs filling up the spare time. A most enjoyable holiday was brought to a conclusion on Saturday, when the "Anchor was weighed" with regret.

We beg through the medium of this paper to heartily thank all those who in any way contributed towards making our visit a success.

ST. LUKE'S SOCIETY, CANNOCK.

ON Easter Monday, the members of the above society started with the intention of ringing at Longdon. Reaching Rugeley about dinner-time, and the conveyance waiting for them, they immediately started for Longdon, about three miles distant. Having had no dinner, they repaired to a worthy landlord, who very hospitably furnished them with some very good roast beef, etc., gratis. Thinking it best to ask the vicar's permission first, they called at the vicarage (Dr. Vincent's), and learned that the learned gentleman objected, fearing they should break a stay or a rope. Nothing daunted, they made their way back to Rugeley, where they had a different reception from Mr. Lyons, the worthy steeple-keeper, who, although he is not a change-ringer, keeps the bells in very good order. A 360 of Grandsire Doubles was rung with the assistance of Mr. Lyons.

BISHOPSTONE, WILTS.—FINE PEAL OF BELL DESTROYED.

Good Friday, 1891, is not likely to be forgotten by Bishopstone folk, for on the evening of that day St. Mary's Church was the scene of an occurrence as disastrous as it was phenomenal.

Shortly after the congregation had departed after evening devotions, flames were noticed issuing from the tower near the belfry floor. The village fire-engine was quickly brought down, but it was unequal to the task of reaching the flames. Its services, however, were not abandoned. The fire, fanned by the wind, obtained a thorough hold of the timber, the sparks and burning pieces of wood were blown about in all directions, and grave fears were entertained for the safety of the numerous detached cottages in close proximity. For the protection of these the engine was usefully employed; the thatch was drenched, men climbed on the roofs and quickly removed the burning material. The flames shot high up into the air, illuminated all the windows of the Church, and in the full moonlight formed a grand sight. Within half-an-hour after the discovery the roof of the tower, the bells, and belfry had fallen; and the heat became so intense that the bells—one of the finest peals to be heard for many miles—melted like wax.

Meanwhile willing hands were at work removing the pitch-pine pews, pulpit, tablets and brasses, and other valuables. The wind had by this time driven the flames through the tower, and caught the roof of the nave, but in the base of the tower the fire was fast burning itself out. The engine was then brought back to the west door and played on the burning mass.

Shortly after 10 o'clock the Swindon fire brigade, which had been wired for, arrived. Water, of which there was an abundant supply from two fish-ponds near, was poured upon the flames in large quantities; the leadwork was torn from the roof of the nave, and the eastern portion dissevered from the burning end; and every activity was shown by the firemen, some of whom were in positions of great danger—one, indeed, narrowly escaped a serious fall. The fire then began to succumb to the combined attacks of the two brigades, the local men discharging water from below, and the Swindonians pouring it down through the windows of the tower.

Any estimate of the damage is as yet impossible. It will be difficult to secure another such a set of bells, although it is intended to replace the full peal of eight.

On the old clock was a brass plate which stated: "The Church clock of this parish, the gift of W. Barnstone, Esq., having stood on an elm frame in the loft next below the bells 174 years, was placed here (i.e. on the floor of the tower) and enclosed, by order of the churchwardens, 1828."

Part of the plate and lock bearing the inscriptions have been recovered. The inner shell of the tower is so honeycombed that it will have to be renewed, but the exterior masonry, being very thick, will probably stand. The sides of the fine Gothic arch separating the nave from the tower have been calcined and the mouldings obliterated to a height of about six feet.

The village of Bishopstone, or Bishop's Town, is so called from its having been part of the possessions, first of all of the See of Ramsbury from A.D. 705 to A.D. 909; and afterwards, of the See of Sarum. When church property was confiscated in 1647-51 the episcopal manor passed into lay hands. In 1882-3 the church and tower was excellently restored at a cost of £1,600.

On Sunday there was an early celebration of the Holy Communion in the chancel, which was protected by a screen, there being 34 communicants. There was a further celebration during the day, and the other services were conducted in the School-room. For the present it is intended to partition off the chancel and the nave as far as the first bay, so as to permit of the services being held there. The ruins have attracted many visitors.

The Church was remarkable for its fine peal of bells, also, for a beautiful Norman archway on the north of chancel, and a rich battlement on the nave. The last peal rung on the bells was performed by members of the Oxford Diocesan Guild, on Dec. 6, 1888, the following taking part:—Corporal H. Sheard (conductor); James Washbrook, 2; William Lawrence, 3; Ernest Napper, 4; Rev. F. E. Robinson, 5; William Napper, 6; Rev. G. F. Coleridge, 7; Dennis Napper, 8.

Aubrey also gives a description of the monuments of the church, one of which—to Edith, wife of Christopher Willoughby—has a very odd inscription.

The Vicar writes to the local paper:—"Sir,—Would you oblige the Churchwardens and myself by inserting our expression of thanks to all who kindly assisted in extinguishing the fire or in saving any part of the furniture from its ravages; as well as our hearty appreciation of the services of the Swindon Fire Brigade, each man of which worked bravely to put out the fire and to make the very best of a very bad job. I cannot adequately express my own feelings, but suffice it to say I am overwhelmed at the thought of having lost our fine peal of bells and other things in the Church which money cannot replace. My feelings of regret are shared by the whole of the parishioners.—Faithfully yours,
HERBERT AULT, Vicar of Bishopstone."

ST. MARY'S CHURCH, CHEPSTOW.

ON Easter Monday, seven members (late of the above society), with the assistance of Mr. R. Webb, obtained permission from the vicar, the Rev. E. J. Hensley, for a pull on these bells. But on obtaining the keys, it was found that the steeple-keeper (Mr. J. Morley), had locked and barricaded the belfry door on the inside, defying all efforts to gain admission. On returning to the vicarage the vicar kindly brought the keys of the church, and with the aid of a ladder access was gained, and 256 and 336 Bob Triples were brought round by C. Davis, J. Prickett, T. Collinson, G. Watkins, C. Smith, W. Freestone, C. Smith, R. Webb. The ringers wish through "THE BELL NEWS" to thank the vicar for the use of the bells, and also hope the steeple-keeper will be more courteous in the future.

THE NORWICH DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

DISTRICT MEETING AT SAXMUNDHAM.—The fourth quarterly meeting of the Saxmundham District was held at Saxmundham on Saturday, April 4th, when 28 members assembled from Aldeburgh, Leicester, Saxmundham, Kelsale, Rendham, Sweffling, Benhall, and Great Glemham. The Kelsale and Saxmundham bells were most kindly placed at the disposal of the members, and were kept going from four till nine o'clock, the methods rung being Bob Major, Kent and Oxford Treble Bob Major, Grandsire Triples and Kent and Oxford Treble Bob Minor, and Bob Minor. The business meeting was held at 6.30, when one honorary and four performing members were enrolled. It was decided to hold the next meeting, being the annual meeting at Aldeburgh, on June 6th. A cordial vote of thanks was passed to the Rev. A. Washington for the use of the Saxmundham bells, and to the Rev. Geo. Irving-Davies for the use of the Kelsale bells, and which brought to a close a highly successful and encouraging meeting.

ERECTION OF A PEAL BOARD.

On Saturday, April 4th, eight members of the Oxford Diocesan Guild met at the parish church, Great Marlow, to ring some short touches after the erection of a peal board, recording the last peal rung on the bells. The board is written as follows: "The Oxford Diocesan Guild. On Monday, May 12th, 1890, eight members of the above Guild rang in this steeple a peal of Grandsire Triples (Holt's Original), 5040 changes, in 2 hrs. and 52 mins. A. Kirby, 1; F. J. Harvey, 2; W. Smith, 3; W. Whiffin, 4; J. W. Washbrook (conductor), 5; A. W. Tubb, 6; W. E. Yates, 7; F. Kirby, 8. Rev. A. Fearon, Vicar, T. O. Wethered and Y. J. Lovell, churchwardens." The two following touches were rung, a 336 of Grandsire Triples. A. H. Cocks, 1; E. Gadsden, 2; A. W. Tubb (conductor), 3; W. Whiffin, 4; W. H. Theobald, 5; W. E. Yates, 6; J. C. Truss, jun., 7; A. W. Truss, 8. Also the first two parts of Holt's ten-part, in 35 mins. E. Gadsden, 1; A. W. Tubb, 2; W. Whiffin, 3; W. H. Theobald, 4; J. C. Truss, 5; W. E. Yates (conductor), 6; J. C. THE LANCASHIRE ASSOCIATION.

LIVERPOOL DIOCESAN BRANCH.—An eventful meeting in the history of the Lancashire Association was celebrated on Saturday, April 4th, at Walton parish church, near Liverpool, the occasion being the monthly meeting of the Liverpool Diocesan Branch. The local company having in January last rung 5040 changes in seven different methods, being the first by the band, also by the association, they took advantage of the visit to commemorate the event, thus affording the members an opportunity to witness the almost unique proceedings of unveiling a tablet recording the 5040, also to partake of their hospitality. Over fifty ringers responded to the invitation, Liverpool, Southport, Halewood, Garston, Grassendale, Woolton, Manchester, Bolton, Blackburn, Wallasey, &c., being represented. Ringing commenced about 3.30 p.m. and at 5.15 a special service was held, the Rev. J. G. Leigh, M.A., rector, conducting. An interesting and appropriate sermon was preached by the Rev. H. J. Elsee, M.A., President, from Joshua xxiv. 27: "Behold, this stone shall be a witness unto us." Suitable psalms were sung, also the well known hymns, "All people that on earth do dwell" and "The Church's one Foundation." The service was much appreciated, a goodly number of the congregation attending in addition to the ringers. At the conclusion of the service, the choir, clergy and ringers walked in processional order along the centre aisle to the belfry, which is approached from the interior of the church. The local company took up their usual position, every available space being occupied by the clergy, choir, and ringers, a great portion being unable to gain admittance. The rector offered up the belfry prayers issued by the association (page 12 annual report). He then said he had great pleasure in acceding to the request of Mr. Wilson and his company, and after a brief speech of advice and encouragement he duly performed the ceremony of unveiling the tablet, and the event was proclaimed by firing and ringing Queen's changes.

An excellent tea free of cost was subsequently served in the schools. A pleasing feature during the repast was the tune ringing by the Kirkdale handbell ringers, selections being played from several popular operas. Their performances were greeted with loud applause.

The meeting took place shortly afterwards, the rector presiding, being supported by the Rev. H. J. Elsee, M.A., president, J. Redford, secretary, and Richard Hill, local branch secretary. The chairman expressed his delight at the progress of bell ringing, and at the religious reformation amongst them. It was pleasing to see ringers attending church, and to notice that the old order of things were discontinued, and that the bells were not used for secular purposes. Their position was an honorable one, which ought to be appreciated by clergy and ringers alike. He gave them all a hearty welcome to Walton.

J. Redford said he had paid many visits to Liverpool on association business, but none were more enjoyable than that day's proceedings. He wished to congratulate the Walton ringers on their achievement, it was the first 5040 in which six members of the association had taken part in seven different methods. He read a portion of the committee's report for 1881-2, which showed that two members of the association had taken part in a similar peal nine years ago. The report also suggested that six-bell ringers might learn different methods. During the latter portion of last year the (Christ Church) Bacup company were almost successful in ringing a 5040, only failing in the last 300 changes. Therefore the Walton company were perfectly right in claiming first honours by the association. He could scarcely express his delight the moment the tablet was unveiled, to observe the heading, "Lancashire Association—Liverpool Diocesan Branch." He trusted that would always remain their motto and guide throughout the country.

The rector was admitted a honorary life member, also four performing members.

The Rev. H. J. Elsee said as president he heartily congratulated the local ringers on the recent peal. He had never witnessed a more imposing ceremony than that which had taken place in the belfry that afternoon, neither had he been present at any tea meeting where the sweet music of the handbells was heard. The success of the Association was mainly due to the excellent staff of secretaries, indeed he thought the Liverpool Branch more than held its own, under the secretaryship of Mr. Hill. He then gave a resume of the proceedings of the Central Council, concluding by proposing a vote of thanks to the rector, churchwardens, local ringers' and all who had contributed to that day's enjoyment.

The rector and Mr. Wilson suitably responded.

Mr. Wilson proposed a vote of thanks to the president for his excellent address. The President was received with loud applause on responding. Woolton was selected for the next meeting place.

Mr. Wilson and his colleagues were most assiduous in their attention to the visitors. The ceremony will be remembered for many a long day.

RINGERS' SUPPER.

On Tuesday, April 7th, the members of the St. Mary's Guild, Portsea, were entertained by the Vicar (Rev. Canon Jacob), with a supper served in first-class style. In the afternoon some of the members having met at the tower, a start was made for Holt's ten-part peal of Grandsire Triples, the men standing as follows: J. Harper, 1; J. W. Whiting (conductor), 2; H. Stubbington, 3; C. Simmons, 4; A. E. Nye, 5; Rev. R. C. M. Harvey, 6; F. Hill, 7; R. Harman, 8. The bells went away capitally for some time, when it was noticed that the Rev. R. C. M. Harvey, who was ringing the 6th, was seriously unwell, and after ringing 3850 changes, in 1 hr. 15. mins., the peal had to be abandoned, as he was unable to continue. At eight o'clock, having met at the Vicarage, and being heartily welcomed by the Vicar, and the Rev. B. Mynors, all were soon comfortably seated to a capital repast, and under the genial chairmanship of the Vicar, the several courses rapidly disappeared. After supper, all adjourned to another room, where coffee was served, and pipes and cigars being started, an enjoyable evening was spent, songs being given by Rev. B. Mynors, and Messrs. Stubbington, Simmons, Symons, Hardy, Golds, and Nye; and a course on the handbells by members of the band. At twelve o'clock all having joined heartily in singing "Auld lang syne," the party broke up, having spent a most enjoyable evening.

ST. PETER'S GUILD, WOLVERHAMPTON.

The monthly of this society was held at Wombourn, on Saturday, April 4th, members from St. Peter's, Wolverhampton, Tipton, Tettenhall, Perry Bar, and Penn, assembled at the church about 3.30 p.m. Several 6-scores of Grandsire Doubles, and touches of Minor and Triples were rung. A business meeting was afterwards held at which eight new members were duly elected. A vote of thanks to the Vicar for the use of the bells was passed. It was decided to hold the next meeting at Tipton on Saturday, May 2nd.

To the Editor of "THE BELL NEWS AND RINGERS' RECORD."

THE CENTRAL COUNCIL AND THE SEVEN-BELL QUESTION.

SIR,—I take it that the voting on the seven-bell question on Easter Tuesday (according to your leading article) is conclusive evidence that the whole ringing community favor these performances. May I ask:—were the delegates who attended the Council meeting sent there by their respective Societies, Guilds, Associations, &c., to vote in any particular way, or is the result to be taken as simply individual opinion? The Essex Association, at their annual meeting in 1889, refused to book such a performance, by a very large majority, I think about ten to one; yet, in the face of this, we have three out of the four delegates voting, as they must know, contrary to the opinions of the association that sent them. How is this? Surely neither "Free Lance" (or perhaps I should say "Joshua") will support such a farce; as this first stroke of business of the Council appears to me to be little better than such.

A CORRECTION.

The Bell News & Ringers' Record.

SATURDAY, APRIL 18, 1891.

DURING the week our attention has been directed to the frothy comments, both of part of the London and Provincial Press, upon the meeting of the Central Council. One correspondent, whose ire has evidently been raised, asks if we are going to allow a leader which appeared in the Telegraph to go by without a vigorous protest. We would tell our angry friend that such twaddle as that which has upset his peace is not at all new. The "beef and beer" legend, variations of which we are treated to now and again, is certainly getting rather ancient and emaciated, but its frequent rehearsal need not be condemned, because it plainly shows the complete poverty of resource which the villifiers of bells and ringing have. The Telegraph, or rather we should say, its editorial chief, has in this particular instance either been caught napping, or imposed upon. A leading article is generally written for the purpose of enlightenment; but the one in question is palpably misleading. By altering a few words here and there, it could have done duty for fifty other subjects, and the inference, therefore, may be drawn, that in a hurried moment one of the stock articles, which the Telegraph is said to have always ready, has with an altered phrase or two been made to do duty for a criticism—save the mark—upon the meeting of the Central Council of Change-Ringers! The actual writer of this sapient article may perhaps not like to be told that he is absolutely ignorant of the subject he presumes to talk of, and that phrases which he supposed were ringing technicalities, are not so. "Triple-bob-majors" may be something to do with the Pelican Club, or with Tattersall's, or with those gentlemen who draw crowds to see their pantomimic action round the board of green cloth; or with any other highly-respectable pursuit, but certainly the words, whatever they may mean, ringers never employ. This is only one instance. But it goes to show the ultra-foolishness of those people who, because they can string a few sentences together, imagine they can deal with every subject that comes before them. Had this writer made himself acquainted with the simplest elements of ringing, or had he condescended to put himself into communication with the president of the Central Council before he had penned his balderdash, he would not have appeared so ridiculous as he has.

To attempt arguments with the writers of such contemptible rubbish as that to which we are referring would be infra dig. From such vaporings any one would be led to think that ringers were enemies, and the only ones, to repose and quietness; that they were humanity's principal scourge; a remanet of the plagues of Egypt. But the reverse is the fact. For centuries and centuries to come our Church will stand, and our church bells, in spite of the holiday effervescence of leader-writers, will ring on. But as now, when circumstances arise rendering it necessary to discontinue the practice of ringing in cases of illness or hindrance to the least or poorest of a neighbourhood, ringers are and will be found among the first to acquiesce in the request that their bells may cease. We ask this writer, and the whole Telegraph host, to supply a similar instance of abnegation. Will they find it among those of their patrons who, to the infinite disgust of respectable pedestrians, block up the pavement of Fleet Street in waiting to get the odds or "latest price." Did the members of the Pelican Club show similar self-denial in ceasing to hold their boxing competitions because the collection of persons from all quarters was said to disturb the repose of the inhabitants? Has the Telegraph ever advocated in a leader the suppression of German bands in quiet neighbourhoods? or that the Salvation Army should cease blowing their noisy instruments as they are passing a church on a Sabbath during the time of Divine Service? We think not.

We would advise our friend before he again attacks ringers to learn something of their tenets. They do not ring Church Bells for heavy stakes; there is no tossing for break; no long or short odds; no gate-money; and there is no locus standi for that abomination yclept "the book-maker." They follow the art for the pure love of it, and we would like the Telegraph and all whom it may concern to know that the practice of it demands more care and skill than "hedging"; more ingenuity than billiards, pugilism, or pedestrianism, and one hundred thousand times more brain-work than all of them put together. The Norfolk poet wrote long ago:—

Why should ringing be set down as nought
By those who never gave the science thought?

* * * * *

In it our energies are all required—
Mental and physical; and zeal untired.

If this Telegraph worthy feels inclined to doubt our assertions we shall have much pleasure in submitting them to proof. If he will undertake to become a pupil, we on our part will guarantee that he shall have the best of preceptors. But before he is able to ring a 6-score in the simplest method, he will, if he be a gentleman, confess that his article was written at a time when his knowledge of bells and ringing was positively nil, and that he has been converted to the belief that change-ringing is an art only understood by its votaries, and for an outsider to write about it is to make himself appear ridiculous.

The curfew-bell at the old town of Sandwich, Kent, which has tolled for many centuries, is now in some danger of suppression, owing to the strained relations between the Vicar and the sexton of St. Peter's. The latter is paid £8 a year by the Corporation for ringing the bell; but the churchwardens have claimed the fund from which his salary as sexton has hitherto been paid. The Rector declines to pay it, and it seems as though the dispute may result in the cessation of the bell that has sounded in the quiet little town at eight o'clock for so many years.—Daily News.

My DEAR DOCTOR,—Allow me to express my thanks for the skill and attention displayed in the construction of my Artificial Teeth, which render my mastication and articulation excellent. I am glad to hear that you have obtained Her Majesty's Royal Letters Patent to protect what I consider the perfection of Painless Dentistry. In recognition of your valuable services you are at liberty to use my name.

This is to certify:—That I have analysed the Prize Medal Teeth submitted to me, and find them to be composed only of minerals of extreme purity. I have also examined and tested your patented painless system of adjustment, it is quite perfect, and is the most successful application of scientific laws for securing actual wear and comfort yet introduced. THE BEDFORDSHIRE ASSOCIATION.

The Annual meeting of this Association took place at Bedford on Easter-Monday. The belfries of the churches of St. Paul and St. Mary were visited in the morning, and in the afternoon the usual meat tea was provided at the All Hallows Mission room. The chair was occupied by the Mayor, and among those present were the Rev. L. Woodard, Rev. H. Rudkin, Rev. J. Copner, Mr. G. Hurst, Mr. E. Ransom, Mr. T. G. E. Elger (Hon. Treasurer), Rev. W. W. C. Baker (Hon. Secretary), and about forty ringers from all parts of the county. After tea, the business of the Association was transacted.

The report, read by the Hon. Secretary, and the statement of accounts, submitted by the Treasurer, were adopted. The receipts, including the balance from last year, amounted to £23 16s. 11½d., and after all expenses had been paid there remained a balance in hand of £19 7s. 7½d.

The Committee were elected as follows: The Mayor, Rev. A. C. Downer, Messrs. E. Ransom, I. Hills, S. Cullip, C. W. Clarke, and F. A. Chasty, all of Bedford; Mr. H. King, Biddenham; Mr. Cyril Herbert, Woburn; Mr. W. Briggs, Bromham; Mr. J. Dickins, Sharnbrook; and Mr. Gardner, Turvey. The re-election of the Hon. Treasurer was proposed by the Rev. J. Copner, who said that Mr. Elger had done his duty so well that they could not dispense with his services. The motion was seconded by Mr. F. A. Chasty, and carried. The re-election of the Hon. Secretary was proposed by Mr. Chasty, seconded by Mr. H. King, and agreed to. The auditors—Messrs. Bull and Thody—were re-appointed, on the motion of Mr. E. Ransom, seconded by the Rev. W. W. C. Baker. Several honorary and performing members were enrolled, and it was decided to hold the next quarterly meeting at Woburn.

A grant of £1 was made towards providing a peal-board for St. Paul's belfry (Bedford) in commemoration of the first peal of Bob Major ever performed in the county of which there is any record. It was thought that this would give encouragement to ringers to perform peals, so that their names could be handed down to posterity.

Rev. W. W. C. Baker proposed a vote of thanks to the Vicar of St. Paul's for the use of that room for their annual meetings, their present method of holding which was far preferable to what it used to be. This was seconded by Mr. E. Ransom, who remarked that they had never met in such force as they did in that room. The vote having been carried with applause, the Rev. L. Woodard returned thanks, and said it was natural for the incumbent of a church to take an interest in belfry reform and also in the science of change-ringing, if he had got a peal of bells. It was a great pleasure to hear bells rung properly as they had been that day, although some people objected to them and did not like music of any kind. Still he thought the great majority of people in Bedford were thankful to their excellent ringers for the performance they gave them Sunday after Sunday. During the past year the belfry had been greatly improved through the energies of the ringers themselves. In olden times belfries were much used as general store rooms, and were in a miserable state, but since the formation of this Association they had got into a very different and comfortable condition, and the ringers knew how to behave themselves in church, and were not forgetful that the belfry was as much the church as was the nave. He naturally took a deep interest in this Association and should always be pleased to do anything to further its objects. That room was well-suited for such meetings, and he hoped it would be their rendezvous for many years.

Mr. P. Howard proposed a hearty vote of thanks to Sister Fanny and the other ladies for the able manner in which they had provided the tea, and this was seconded by Mr. King, and carried unanimously.

The Mayor, in proposing a vote of thanks to the officers, said he would leave out the President and Vice-Presidents, because they were more ornamental than useful. It was no doubt a delightful thing to have a bishop at their head, and an arch-deacon and other gentlemen occupying positions of influence, but coming down to the bare matter of fact they found that the Secretary was the most effective and hard-worked of all the officers. From what he saw and knew of their most excellent Secretary, he had come to the conclusion that he filled a post of the highest order with great intelligence, and at the same time that he was an enthusiast in bell-ringing. What was true of the Secretary was also true of their Treasurer. It was a good thing that some one in whom they had perfect confidence should hold the purse, and he always liked to have as a Treasurer a man who kept a cheque-book and would use it liberally if required. These excellent characteristics were possessed by Mr. Elger, and they would have made a mistake had they not elected him again. Their thanks were also due to the Auditors and the Committee. He was glad to hear such an encouraging report, and that an increased interest was being taken in bell-ringing throughout the county, but there was ample room for improvement. He liked to hear bells, especially in the distance, where the sound came in the shape of pure and beautiful music, and he expressed the hope that in time they would have a peal of bells at the new church of St. Martin at the north end of the town. Where churches had no bells or only bad ones, he hoped there would soon be an alteration, and that the belfries would be places of resort for capable and intelligent ringers, to become which they must understand bells and how to ring them, and also have a good deal of enthusiasm for the work. The object of the Association was to have the bells and the ringers as perfect as possible, and he should be delighted when the change-ringers of Bedfordshire were second to none in the country. If the bells and belfries were in good order, it would add to the attractiveness of the churches, and just in proportion as this was effected they might expect the intelligence and morals of the people to be improved. He hoped the Association might have a prosperous year.

Mr. H. King seconded the vote of thanks, which was carried.

Rev. W. W. C. Baker said he felt unworthy of the greater part of what the Mayor had said of him, for he had done little for the Association, but hoped to do more this year. As the system of local secretaries was now fully established, he trusted the work of the Association would go on smoothly, and that he would soon be able to publish a full list of members. He hoped the quarterly meetings would be better attended in future, so that it would be some encouragement to the members in those places where the meetings were held, and the Association was very liberal in its allowance of railway fares. He was glad to see so much new blood in the Association, and hoped they had a prosperous future before them.

Mr. Elger also responded, and said he had taken a lively interest in this Association from its formation. In fact he had always been interested in bells, and he contrasted the condition of St. Paul's belfry as he knew it forty or fifty years ago with its present state, and also spoke of the improvement in the habits of the ringers. The Association could take credit to itself for having effected these reforms, and while they were anxious to do all they could for change-ringing, they should always do their best to improve the quality of their bells, and take an interest in them as instruments of music.

Mr. F. A. Chasty said that although he was a member of the Committee he was not able to do much ringing, as his time was so taken up with other work connected with St. Paul's. But there were two members of the Committee who deserved a special vote of thanks, as they were most energetic, and he could say without fear of contradiction that they were the backbone of the Association. He referred to Messrs. I. Hills and C. W. Clarke, who he sincerely hoped would be with them for many years to come.

Rev. L. Woodard seconded the vote, and said he knew what interest Messrs. Hills and Clarke took in the belfry at his church, which had greatly improved through their energies. This vote was carried, and suitably acknowledged.

A vote of thanks to the Mayor for presiding, and which his worship acknowledged, concluded the business, and the company then attended service at St. Paul's church, where a most appropriate sermon was preached by the Rev. W. W. C. Baker. The bells of St. Paul's and St. Mary's churches were kept going throughout the day.

THE UNEMPLOYED IN EAST LONDON.—At a time when much thought is being given to this matter, a practical suggestion may be of service. Last year more than £300,000 worth of foreign matches were purchased by inconsiderate consumers in this country, to the great injury of our own working people, so true is it that "evil is wrought by want of thought, as well as want of heart." If all consumers would purchase Bryant and May's matches, that firm would be enabled to pay £1000 a week more in wages.

ST. SIDWELL'S CHURCH, EXETER.

St. Sidwell was a British maiden of noble birth—martyred near the spot where this parish church now stands so long ago as A.D. 740. A church was erected soon afterwards, and one has stood here ever since. Bishop Blondy (12th Jan., 1247), mentions it as forming one of the 16 churches contained in Bishop Marshall's Mandate, "within the walls of Exeter and its immediate suburb." Peter de Palerna, in his grant drawn up between 1210 and 1216, mentions St. Sidwell's first of all the local churches. All save the western tower was re-built early in this century (1812), the fine old 14th century arcades being re-erected on the original lines. The western tower is, by far, the finest in Exeter. It was built in the 15th century, but during the Rebellion (1649) it suffered severely. At that time the church was used as a prison by the Royalists; and the father of Sir Walter Raleigh—of everlasting memory—was confined in this very tower. Afterwards, in the middle of the 17th century, it was partly re-built; and early in the present one the ugly wooden spirelet was added. The weather-cock that graces the top originally did duty on the low spire that for many years crowned the north tower of Exeter Cathedral. The eight bells were re-cast in 1773. Three of them formerly belonged to the ancient church of Allhallows-on-the-Walls. This church, during the siege by the Parliamentary army, had a culverin placed on it by the Royalists; and was practically demolished in the fight. Afterwards, the republican governor ordered the three bells which the tower contained to be melted down for cannon. The inhabitants of St. Sidwell's, hearing of this, and headed by George Cheeke, a worthy and well-known brewer of the parish (who lent his dray and several horses) went by night privately, and removed them to their own belfry, where they have remained ever since.

When the parish bells were re-hung in 1875, a cage for ten bells was constructed and placed in the tower, the intention being to increase them to ten by the addition of two smaller ones; but from want of funds these could not be obtained, and for 16 years two pits have remained empty. It is now proposed to finish this work, the effect of which will be, to give the parish and ringers a fine peal of ten musical bells, certainly second to none in the west of England. The present lovely peal of eight will not be interfered with in any way, and the expense of these two bells will be about £100. Contributions to the amount of £20 15s. 0d. have been already promised. Further contributions will be thankfully received by the hon. secretary or hon. treasurer: A. C. Bird, hon. secretary, St. Sidwell's Rectory, Exeter; Harry Hems, hon. treasurer, Fair Park, Longbrook-street, Exeter.

RINGERS' SUPPER.

On Saturday, April 4th, the members of the Belchamp Walter company were invited by the Rev. J. M. St. C. Raymond, to supper at the hall. At seven o'clock the party sat down to an ample supply of roast beef and plum pudding, with the above-named rev. gentleman in the chair, supported by S. St. C. Raymond, Esq., and the Rev. L. A. Bellhouse. After doing justice to the good things provided, the evening was spent in songs and various touches on the handbells. A discussion was raised about having the second bell recast, and it was decided to raise a subscription for that purpose. The bells of the parish church are a peal of eight, tenor 10½ cwt., and if the second is recast, they will be as nice a peal as can be found for many miles. At ten o'clock the party broke up, after thanking the rev. gentleman for his kindness. The present company was formed in October last, and are making satisfactory progress under the instruction of Nelson and Frederick Hawkins.

On Sunday, April 19th, three members of the Foxearth company paid a visit to Belchamp Walter, and rang after service a 720 of Bob Minor (six bobs and fourteen singles). G. Deal (first 720), 1: S. Evans, 2; F. Hawkins, 3; R. Inch, 4; G. Green, 5; N. Hawkins, 6. Also 720 Bob Minor (eighteen bobs and two singles). G. Deal, 1; G. Green, 2; S. Evans, 3; W. Deal (first 720), 4; R. Inch, 5; N. Hawkins, 6. Both were conducted by Nelson Hawkins. Messrs. Evans, Inch, and Green belong to Foxearth; the rest to Belchamp Walter.

RINGERS', OUTING.

On Saturday, April 11th, the Crewe ringers visited Shrewsbury. St. Mary's Church, 10 bells, tenor 21 cwt. was the first visited, and although two or three attempts were made for a touch of Grandsire Triples, none were brought round. St. Alkmund's, with a peal of 8 bells, tenor about 12½ cwt., was the next meeting place, and a capital touch of 700 changes of Grandsire Triples was brought round at the first attempt. J. Wright 1, J. Broome jun. 2, A. Wilson 3, R. Langford 4, A. Jarvis 5, R. T. Holding (conductor) 6, G. Harding 7, J. Emery 8. After tea a move was made to St. Chad's, a noble peal of 12 bells, tenor 41 cwt. After a few rounds on the 12 bells—it being the first time most of the Crewe ringers had seen or heard 12 bells—a touch of 168 changes of Grandsire Triples was rung on the back 8; Mr. Byrd, of Shrewsbury, taking the 4th, J. Broome, of Crewe, being absent. A start was then made for a 1008 on the back 8, which came to grief through the conductor calling a man down in his wrong place, causing a change of course after about 15 minutes' ringing. J. Wright 1, A. Wilson 2, T. Boylin (Shrewsbury) 3, T. Byrd (Shrewsbury) 4, R. Langford 5, R. T. Holding (conductor) 6, G. Harding 7, J. Emery 8. It being then nine o'clock the 12 bells were ceased in peal, and ringing concluded. The Crewe ringers wish to thank the Vicars, churchwardens, and steeple-keepers of the various towers visited, for their kindness in allowing them the use of the bells, and for having everything in readiness for them; and also the Shrewsbury ringers, for meeting them so kindly.

ROMSEY, HANTS.

On Saturday, April 18th, according to previous arrangements, Messrs. Gifford, Wise and Adams from Salisbury, and Messrs. Whiting, Warren and Hackett from Fareham, met at the above place to have a pull on the fine peal of bells in the Abbey. The Salisbury contingent arrived by the 2.48 train, and were met at the station by Messrs. Tribe and Ellcome of the local company. The party from Fareham arrived by the 3.50 train, and they proceeded to the residence of Mr. J. Ellcome, a local ringer, who had kindly provided tea for them. Tea over a move was at once made to the tower, and a touch of Grandsire Triples rung on Selby's silent apparatus. The bells were then set free, and several well-struck touches of Grandsire and Bob Triples were rung. At 9 o'clock the bells were lowered in peal, and the remainder of the evening was spent in company with the local ringers with touches on the handbells. The visitors wish to thank the Vicar for the use of the bells, and also Mr. J. Ellcome for so kindly providing tea for them.

THE ST. MICHAEL'S JUNIORS, GLOUCESTER.

VISIT TO BISLEY.—On Monday afternoon, April 20th, eight members of this Society visited Bisley, a little village near Stroud, where there is a ring of eight which have been rehung by Blackburn and Greenleaf, of Salisbury. About 7.15 a start was made for a peal of Double Norwich Court Bob Major, but a change-course occurred after ringing rather less than half the peal, and the bells were brought round after 1 hour and 25 minutes' ringing. After a touch of Grandsire Triples with the local ringers, and a touch of Stedman, the bells were lowered. Some one next suggested starting again about four next morning, and the local ringers stated that the Vicar would be sure to let us ring then or even start again at once. The Vicar consented to our starting again at once, and asked the band in to supper before starting, after which the bells were raised and struck off into changes at 10.40 p.m., coming safely round at 1.46 a.m. next morning. The ringers wish to thank the Vicar, the Rev. T. Keble, for his kindness, and also the local ringers. The six back bells go very fairly, but not so the two trebles.

H. L. J.

SAXMUNDHAM (Suffolk)—On Saturday, April 4th, at the parish church, six of the Norwich Association rang a 720 of Oxford Treble Bob Minor. W. Rouse, 1; G. Hardy, 2; F. Cooper, 3; G. Thompson, 4; J. Avis, 5; H. J. Button (conductor), 6. The above formed part of the ringing that took place at these towers on the occasion of the quarterly district meeting of the Association being held at Saxmundham on that day.

THE ESSEX ASSOCIATION.—BRAINTREE BRANCH.

The annual Easter-tide meeting was held in the Church Vestry, on Friday evening, April 3rd, under the presidency of the Rev. J. W. Kenworthy, Vicar, supported by Mr. R. Crickmore, Churchwarden. The ringers present were, F. Rudkin (Leader), T. Watson, H. E. Hammond, W. Hammond, C. Howard, and F. Calthorpe (Secretary). This meeting was for the purpose of appointing officers and ringing members for the year from Easter, '91 to Easter, '92. It was also arranged that the ringing for next year be continued as last year. The minutes of last Easter-tide meeting were read and confirmed. It was also proposed that a subscription list be opened at once for a new set of handbells for the use of the ringers. The annual report was read by the secretary, which shows some very fair work in connection with ringing, and from which the secretary sends the following:—

"Unfortunately, as we have had only six members during the last year, and through illnesses, and other unavoidable causes, we can only report twenty practice-nights. During the year our belfry has been visited by ringers from Bocking, Croydon, Halsted, Ireland, London, Rayne, Stansted, Stebbing, Stisted, and Streatham. During the year we have been successful in ringing ninety-six 720s in the following methods: Woodbine 19, Oxford Treble Bob 17, Kent Treble Bob 15, Cambridge Surprise 13, College Exercise 12, Double Court Bob 5, Bob Minor 5, London Scholars' Pleasure 3, York Surprise 2, Bocking Treble Bob 2, Durham Surprise 1, New London Pleasure 1, Court Single 1. There have also been 15,792 changes in touches rung in the various methods; of these F. Rudkin has conducted fifty-four; H. E. Hammond thirty-five; E. Carter (London), two; T. Cavill (Stansted), two; C. Bearman (Bocking), C. Howard (Braintree), and W. Watts (Stansted), one each."

Mr. R. Crickmore then very kindly thanked the ringers for their services during the past year, the Vicar cordially concurring.

THE LANCASHIRE ASSOCIATION.

ROCHDALE, ROSSENDALE, AND BLACKBURN BRANCHES.—A meeting was held on Saturday, April 18th, at Haslingden. There were members present from Helmshore, Ramsbottom, Bury, Heywood, Rawtenstall, Newchurch, Bacup, Haslingden, and Blackburn. Touches of Grandsire were rung, also a 720 of Minor. A very good and instructive meeting was held. It was decided to hold another during June at the seaside. Lytham was the place selected.

GEORGE F. ATTREE.

THE BELLS OF RIPON CATHEDRAL.—DEDICATION SERVICE.

A special service was held on Tuesday at Ripon Cathedral for the purpose of dedicating the two memorial bells and chimes recently placed in the bell-tower. There was a large congregation, and the clergy present at the service were the Very Rev. the Dean of Ripon (Dr. Fremantle), the Rev. Canon Waugh (Canon-in-residence), the Rev. Canon Sale (Kirby Hill), the Rev. Canon Badcock, Rev. S. Reed (precentor), and the Rev. F. H. Taylor. The morning service, as set for the day, was conducted by the Rev. S. Reed, assisted by the Rev. F. H. Taylor. The Rev. Canon Waugh read the lessons, after which, respectively, the "Te Deum Laudamus" and "Jubilate Deo" were sung. The anthem was "Rejoice in the Lord" (Purcell), commonly called "The Bell Anthem," after which

The Very Rev. the Dean gave an address appropriate to the occasion. He said that their meeting that morning for that special service demanded some explanation. Church bells, he continued, formed an important part of the service of the Church. They had been, and were, a witness to the religious and social order of our parochial system, their object being to announce publicly to the parishioners the various duties and services to which it was the office of the Church to direct attention from time to time. There had been, and was at the present day, in many places, an early morning bell inviting the people to begin the day's work with prayer; then the mid-day dinner bell, and the Curfew "tolling the knell of parting day" at eventide. Then came the early Sunday morning bell and the chimes, and what had been called the "ting-tang," or bell before the service of the day, the "passing bell," the muffled bell, and the Merry Christmas and Easter rounds and changes, and Royal bells for Royal purposes, such as the accession to the throne and coronation, and bells used on other great and national occasions, and lastly there was the clock and the chimes marking the passing hours and quarters of the day. All these carried their message far and wide to the agricultural labourer in the ploughing field and in the harvest, to the mechanic in his workshop, to the shepherd boy keeping his sheep on the moors, or scaring the crows from the sowing ground, hungry and weary in the cold April morning; to the student at his books; to the tradesman; the school-children and the house-wife, the invalid in the solemn chamber, the traveller by railway, the postal correspondent, and those who pass away wakeful hours upon a sleepless pillow. All these and a thousand besides welcomed the Church bell as a communication of a friend to raise their thoughts from earthly surroundings to the heaven above. It was not possible to trace the history of the Ripon bells with any accuracy; but from such information as they had, the metal of which the bells were composed must be of considerable antiquity, probably dating back to the time of St. Wilfrid. In the early days of Ripon, bell-ringers seemed to have inherited the classical and significant title of "agitators," and if so, he thought they might add another mark of antiquity to the city of Ripon, for as their city was unique in the name of Wakeman which it had given to its Mayor in olden times, so far as he (the Dean) could learn, it was unique in giving the title of "agitators" to its bell-ringers. For some years past the frame-work of the bells had been a source of expense and anxiety, and after careful examination the Dean and Chapter had decided to have the bells entirely re-hung upon an iron instead of a wooden frame. Messrs. J. Shaw and Company, of Bradford, to whom the work had been entrusted, informed the Dean and Chapter that there would be space for two more bells, making a peal of ten instead of eight as heretofore. That presented an opportunity to anyone who might be so disposed to place two memorial bells in the frame. The invitation was accepted by the family of the late Miss Anne Cross, and by the firm of the late Mr. John Kearsley. At the same time a subscription list was opened voluntarily in the city to add a new set of chimes to the clock. The movement had been successful, and in a few minutes a peal of ten bells and the Cambridge Chimes would be heard for the first time in Ripon. In conclusion, the Dean, in the name of the Dean and Chapter and of the parishioners, gratefully thanked those who had contributed towards the chimes and the bells, and he hoped that the pleasant sounds which they heard would remind them that they came from the house of God and conveyed solemn and holy lessons. He would also add a prayer, that those who "agitated" and caused that music to be heard would regard their office as one of high and sacred calling, as important as any others in the church, and if their harmony be heard outside the tower, so should it be true and kindly inside the belfry.

The Dean and Canons, with the rest of the clergy, and the choir, headed by Churchwardens Councillor T. Wells, Mr. J. B. Parkin, J.P., Mr. F. Bateman, and Mr. Ingram, then proceeded to the west end of the nave, the ringers being assembled under the south tower. Special responses and dedication prayers were read by the Rev. S. Reed. The hymn, "Whene'er the sweet church bell," was sung to the tune of Laudes Domini, after which the ten bells were chimed. The service closed with the recessional hymn, "Hark! on high, the joyful music," sung to the tune of Lux Eoi, and a peal was rung upon the bells, and at intervals during the day.

SOCIETY FOR THE ARCHDEACONRY OF STAFFORD.

The third quarterly meeting in connection with this Society was held on Saturday, April 11th, at Harborne, when the following towers were represented: Harborne, Tamworth, Perry Barr, Walsall, Darlaston, Handsworth, Wolverhampton, and All Saints' and Christ Church, West Bromwich. The bells were raised early in the afternoon and kept going till 9 p.m. with touches in the various methods. A short service was held in the church at 5 o'clock, when the curate, the Rev. F. Roberts, delivered an address on the different uses to which bells are accustomed. A committee meeting was held in the vestry, when the minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed, several new members elected, and the representative gave a resume of the proceedings of the Central Council meeting. It was also decided to hold the annual meeting at Lichfield in June. A capital tea was served at Mr. Taylor's, but owing to the smallness of the room and the extra influx of members over the names sent in, an extra room had to be set out, thus causing a delay and a division in the party.

THE ESSEX ASSOCIATION.

On Saturday, April 11th, six members of the Braintree branch of the above Association had a pleasant outing. Their usual coachman not feeling very well, unfortunately, they engaged trap and driver from the noted Railway Tavern. At 1.30 a start was made for Stisted, where there is a nice ring of six. After a pleasant spin round they arrived at the "Onley Arms," and after partaking of refreshments made their way to the tower and rang 720 Oxford Treble Bob. T. Watson, 1; F. Calthorpe, 2; W. Hammond, 3; H. E. Hammond, 4; F. Rudkin (conductor), 5; A. Huckson, 6. The keen winds having sharpened their appetites, tea was ordered for 5.30, and being joined by Mr. E. Bradley, of Stisted, the country tea was much enjoyed by all. They then adjourned to the belfry and rung 720 Kent Treble Bob, the ringers standing as above, with the exception of the tenor man, his place being taken by E. Bradley, being his first 720 as conductor. Having been made so comfortable by the hostess of the above inn, they soon made their way back to settle down for the evening, and several touches of Bob Minor, and Oxford and Kent were rung, in which the Stisted ringers took part, those present being A. Chaplin, E. Chaplin, C. Duncombe and E. Radley, who conducted the touches. A course of Bob Major was rung by the Braintree company. F. Calthorpe, 1-2; H. E. Hammond, 3-4; F. Rudkin, 5-6; A. Huckson, 7-8. Tunes were also played during the evening by Messrs. Huckson, Rudkin, and Hammond. At ten they reluctantly severed ourselves from this quiet little spot, their coachman being in readiness outside, and "one more glass before we part," and a good-night all round having been bidden, a move was made for Braintree, where they arrived safe and sound, ending thus a very pleasant half-holiday.

WELLINGBOROUGH, NORTHANTS.

DEATH OF AN OLD RINGER.—John Youle, one of the parish church ringers, died on Good Friday, aged 72. As a relative of the family who held the sextonship of the parish church for a very long period, he learned to manage a bell when quite a boy. Over forty years ago, at the time Mr. Humphrey Simonds was connected with the belfry, he joined the company as regular ringer of the old fourth bell (the present sixth), which is known in the belfry as Pancake-bell. It was this particular bell (a recast of the old pre-Reformation "Shriving Bell") that was tolled for the various services on Good Friday, instead of the usual chiming, so that the old gentlemen's own bell may be said to have sounded his death knell. His father rang the same bell for a great many years before him. John Youle was nominally a regular chimer up to his death, but for the last few years he had been too infirm to attend the belfry. He was buried on Easter Monday, the ringers being present at the grave-side. On the following Monday evening the old "back six" bells were rung deeply-muffled in memory of the last but one of the old ringers.

THE ANCIENT SOCIETY OF COLLEGE YOUTHS.

At the meeting of this Society, held at St. Saviour's, on Tuesday evening, the 21st inst., a resolution was carried, and without dissent, "That this Society do not book peals of Triples, Caters, or Cinques rung without a covering bell."

At the previous meeting on the 7th inst., Miss Rosa Macalpine-Leny, of Speldhurst Rectory, near Tunbridge Wells, was elected an honorary member of this Society. It will be remembered that this lady very kindly entertained the members of this Society at Speldhurst last summer.

The Society's meetings next week are St. Giles', Cripplegate, on Tuesday next, and St. Mary-le-Bow, Cheapside, the following Friday, both at 8.15 p.m. respectively.

Correspondence.

While allowing the utmost freedom for the expression of opinion, it must never be considered that we are in any way bound to statements made by correspondents.

To the Editor of "THE BELL NEWS AND RINGERS' RECORD."

THE CENTRAL COUNCIL AND THE SEVEN-BELL QUESTION.

SIR,—In reply to Mr. A. J. Perkins, I should say that the voting at the Central Council Meeting upon this or any other question must be taken as the opinion of individual delegates, conscious of their responsibility to those who sent them, but feeling that they are (or ought to be) trusted to exercise their own judgment. No society can bind its delegates beforehand, or deprive them of their right of free judgment; but if it considers that it has not been properly represented, its remedy lies at the next triennial election.

My own vote was (as I said at the time) given more in accordance with a previous decision of the Association which I represented, than with my individual opinion upon the question at issue. I think, and always have thought, that whatever musical or other objections may be taken to seven-bell peals, it is very difficult to lay down that 5040 changes, fairly rung upon seven bells, is a not a true peal of Triples. The question, however, being an open one, and there having been no opportunity to ascertain whether the strongly expressed opinion of my own constituents in 1889 had since been modified; I, in the exercise of my own judgment, determined to support that opinion; but I cannot blame my fellow-delegates, if they, in the exercise of their judgment, thought otherwise. It is hardly fair, I think, to characterise a resolution arrived at by a majority of representatives of the Exercise, competent to judge, and free to use their judgment, as "little better than a farce."

T. L. PAPILLON,

Hon. Sec. Essex Association.

SIR,—It would seem from Mr. Perkins' letter that there is a good deal of misapprehension afloat as to the character of the decision arrived at by the Central Council on the seven-bell peal question. What the Council really affirmed, by a strong majority, was a simple question of principle; not practice; viz.: that the extent of the changes truly rung on seven bells in a peal: and that whether an eighth bell, which is in no way concerned in the production of those changes, is or is not included in the performance does not affect the points of principle as a matter of fact, I feel sure that, with the greater number of those composing the majority, there was not a shadow of an idea of encouraging or favouring performances on seven bells only; and if a motion in other terms, or an amendment had been before us which would have expressed discouragement of such performances, I have no doubt the voting would have been very different. There is reason for believing that 5000 was originally accepted as the minimum length to constitute a peal, because the true and complete extent on seven bells is a trifle over that number. While therefore, the standard peal-length remains as it is, it is impossible to assert that the extent on seven bells, and seven bells only, is not a peal. To oust the seven-bell extent from the dignity of a peal, it will be necessary to raise the standard peal-length above it.

It is a matter for regret that an amendment was not moved, or, better still, a rider added, to the motion, expressly discouraging performances on seven bells only, and declaring their unworthiness, on aesthetic grounds, to be recorded. The minority in fact voted in favour of such a rider without its being before them. It is, however, fortunate that the whole question of the definition of peals will come before the Council again: when, I have no doubt, if such a rider as I have indicated is moved as a supplement to the decision already given, it will receive the adhesion of a majority of the Council.

The representatives of the Essex Association, whom Mr. Perkins attacks, are quite able to defend themselves if need be. But it does not seem to me that they were in the least bound by the previous decision of their constituents: for the question of recording seven-bell performances was not before the Council at all. It is still open to Societies to decline such records, without contravening the principle which the Council affirmed, which was all that the motion before it invited it to do.

H. EARLE BULWER.

VOTING AT C.C. MEETINGS.

SIR,—I strongly object to the idea formulated by "A. J. Perkins" that members of the C.C. are to vote in accordance with instructions received from those they represent. The guilds may just as well send up a message or proxy. I should certainly decline to be a representative unless I had a free hand in the matter. If my guild is at any time dissatisfied with my vote on any question, a motion, carried by a majority, requesting me to resign, I should at once comply with. If my vote was in opposition to such a majority as Mr. Perkins mentions, I should, however, expect to be called upon to resign. Though I desire to enjoy the exercise of my own judgment in voting, a line must be drawn somewhere, and whenever a great majority of my guild is in favor of a motion which I am opposed to, I should think it my duty either to offer to resign my seat on the Council, or to vote according to the wishes of such majority.

A MEMBER OF THE C.C.

EXPLANATIONS.

SIR,—Kindly allow me to correct the statement made by the late members of St. Mary's church ringers in last week's issue. Mr. Morley's reason I understand for not granting permission on the said occasion was, through the unmanly way in which they treated the Vicar on the occasion of the re-opening of the nave of the church (after restoration), by refusing to ring the bells, after promising to do so (through which I understand the band dissolved). I am also given to understand that the Vicar gave permission, on condition that Mr. Morley was agreeable. I can truthfully say that Mr. Morley would be only too pleased to grant permission to members of any guild or society, who may make application in a proper and straightforward manner.

A. G.

SIR,—Kindly let me say that I regret the Chester Diocesan Guild was not represented at the meeting held in London on the 31st ult. Had I received notice of the meeting I should certainly have attended, and I hope that in future such notice will be sent to each representative.

Malpas, April 18th.

Hon. Sec. Chester Diocesan Guild.

[We are afraid our correspondent has not read his "BELL NEWS" regularly, or he would have obtained ample notice of the meeting. It was repeatedly announced. The secretary of such an important body as the Chester Guild should have also known that it had been decided that such notice was to be considered sufficient. Sending out circulars would involve an unnecessary expenditure of time and expense. We hope our correspondent will in future take pains to become au courant with matters in the ringing world.—Ed.]

SIR,—In the peal of Kent Treble Bob Royal rang at the church of St. Giles, Camberwell, on Saturday, April 11th, I forgot to send you the number of changes the peal contained—5040. I beg to apologise for the omission.

H. A. HOPKINS.

[The omission was only discovered when too late to communicate with Mr. Hopkins.—Ed.]

SIR,—Will you kindly correct an error published in your issue of the 4th inst., as regards the peal of Bob Major rung on handbells, at Basingstoke, it being 6048 instead of 5024 as published. By doing so you will oblige.

The Bell News & Ringers' Record.

SATURDAY, APRIL 25, 1891.

WE should like to draw attention to the many items by which the reports of touches are frequently encumbered. If the remarks of our contributor "Joshua" in one of his chapters meant anything, they were intended to ridicule the many accompaniments which the various reports of performances teem with. We cannot see what interest it is to read, when a 6-score of Grandsire Doubles has been rang, that it is the bob-caller's first time of conducting; nor is it anything to know that one of the band came from the next village for the purpose. The item—"first 360" appears to us most puerile, and there are others of no more consequence. These matters are alluded to because they make a great inroad on our space, and we hope they will be avoided as much as possible in future.

"PAINLESS AND PERFECT DENTISTRY."

Her Majesty's Surgeon-Dentist says:—

MY DEAR DOCTOR,—Allow me to express my thanks for the skill and attention displayed in the construction of my Artificial Teeth, which render my mastication and articulation excellent. I am glad to hear that you have obtained Her Majesty's Royal Letters Patent to protect what I consider the perfection of Painless Dentistry. In recognition of your valuable services you are at liberty to use my name.

S. G. HUTCHINS. By appointment Surgeon-Dentist to Her Majesty the Queen.

To GEO. H. JONES, Esq., D.D.S.

SCIENTIFIC DEPARTMENT.—LABORATORY OF EXPERIMENTAL SCIENCE.

This is to certify:—That I have analysed the Prize Medal Teeth submitted to me, and find them to be composed only of minerals of extreme purity. I have also examined and tested your patented painless system of adjustment, it is quite perfect, and is the most successful application of scientific laws for securing actual wear and comfort yet introduced. Both physically and anatomically, they are a beautiful resemblance to the natural teeth.

MR. EDWIN HORREX, OF LONDON.

[Vide Portrait.]

MR. HORREX was born in the county town of Ipswich, on the 28th of February, 1838, consequently he is now in his fifty-fourth year. When a schoolboy he had a desire to become connected in some way with church bells, and at the age of fifteen he was one of the regular chimers at the church of St. Margaret, where he also learnt to ring a bell. When he was eighteen Mr. R. Hawes, one of the present company of St. Mary-le-Tower, Ipswich, initiated him into the mysteries of change-ringing, but the late William Garrard must be regarded as his principal instructor, for under that gentleman's tuition he progressed favourably, and soon rang 720s of Bob and Treble Bob Minor. In 1860 he joined the above-named Society, and then the difficulties of Grandsire and Stedman Triples were soon overcome.

In the month of July, 1863, Mr. HORREX came to London. He bent his steps, like many other provincial ringers have done, to the tower of St. Matthew, Bethnal Green, and very soon became a member of the Ancient Society of College Youths, ringing his first peal—one of Stedman Caters, 5079 changes—with that company at the church of St. James, Bermondsey, on November 28th of the same year. Since then his progress in peal-ringing has been one long record of continued success. He rang in the famous long peal of Treble Bob Major—15,840 changes, at Bethnal Green; 8448 in the same method at Christ Church, Spitalfields; 8896 at St. George's, Camberwell; and in the 11,111 of Stedman Caters at Fulham. He also rang the 11th bell in the recent unfortunate attempt at St. Michael's, Cornhill, and the 10th in the peal rung at St. Paul's Cathedral, which latter is the only peal ever rung upon those bells. These, as will be seen, do not at all exhaust the list of good performances in which he has taken part.

MR. HORREX is known in London as a very good heavy bell ringer, and as such possessed the confidence of the late Henry Haley. Since the days of Dwight, Wood, and others, he and his friend Murray Hayes have been looked upon by the College Youths in London as their principal heavy bell men; and HORREX himself has taken part in more peals rung upon twelve bells than anyone. His list of performances comprise the following:—

Grandsire Triples	26
On handbells	2
Grandsire Caters	16
Stedman Triples	26
" Caters	29
" Cinques	26
Kent Treble Bob Major	33
" " " Royal	18
" " " Max.	9
Double Norwich Major	7
" " Royal	1
Grandsire Major	2
Oxford Treble Royal	1
Total	197

The subject of our memoir has never entered into composing or conducting. With such a record as the foregoing, comprising 27 peals of Stedman Cinques and other very excellent feats, perhaps the reader will be of opinion that he has gained among ringers a position quite sufficient and honorable without probing these other branches of the art.

THE RINGERS' GUIDE TO THE CHURCH BELLS OF DEVON. By C. PEARSON, M.A. Price One Shilling, or bound in cloth, 1s. 6d. Postage Threepence.

OPENING CEREMONIES AT FAKENHAM AND RYBURGH, NORFOLK.

The eight bells in Fakenham church tower were re-opened on Wednesday, April 1st, after a long silence, owing to the state of disrepair into which they had fallen, one bell, the third, being cracked, and some of the remainder never having been turned for over 200 years. The work consisted of tuning and rehangng the whole ring, and supplying a new third in place of the cracked bell from the Cripplegate Foundry. The St. Nicholas company came over from Great Yarmouth in strong force with the Rev. J. F. Hastings, and rang the first touch in good style, the "go" of the bells being very good, considering the unavoidable rocking of the lofty tower. Other ringers also attended from Aylsham, Hingham and other places in the neighbourhood. Lunch was given in the Assembly Room to the ringers, at which several ladies and gentlemen resident in Fakenham were also present; the chair being ably filled by the Rev. Dr. Raven, President of the Diocesan Association. At the special service of Dedication afterwards, the Rev. J. F. Hastings was the preacher; and at an evening service later in the day Dr. Raven preached an eloquent sermon on the Fakenham bells, the fine tenor of the ring being an especial favourite of the rev. Dr., she having come originally from a Stamford founder, one other example only of whose work is to be found in the diocese. The tone of the bells is now very sweet and melodious, and they are a decided acquisition to this part of Norfolk, where ringing has been for years at a very low ebb. The restoration was effected as part of the fruit of a bequest left by the late Mrs. Damant.

On Wednesday, April 22nd, an entirely new ring of six, cast by Messrs. Taylor, of Loughborough, and hung by them in an entirely new frame, composed of oak timbers and cast iron H frames, was solemnly dedicated and opened at Ryburgh, near Fakenham. Six of the St. Peter Mancroft company, under Mr. F. Knights, Master, attended to open the bells. A special service of dedication was conducted by the Rev. R. F. Baker, rector, at 11 o'clock, in the course of which the opening touch was rung, an address being given by the Rev. W. M. Hoare, of Colkirk. Lunch was provided afterwards through the liberality of the Messrs. Smith, of Ryburgh and Wells, the donors of the bells in memory of their parents. The Norwich ringers with the Hon. Secretary of the Diocesan Association and Mr. J. W. Taylor, jun., who arrived in time for lunch, pulled off several 720's of Treble Bob during the day. There is a young band of learners at Ryburgh, who it is to be hoped, will stick to their task, and soon be able to give a good account of the tuneful little ring which they now have the opportunity of practising on. The tower being very low, and the sound windows small, the noise of the bells in the ringing-chamber is at present far too great: but this will no doubt be speedily remedied.

FARNHAM ROYAL, BUCKS.

On Wednesday, April 15th, the inhabitants of Farnham Royal were plunged into deep grief by the death of their revered and honoured Rector, the Rev. S. F. Marshall, who for thirty-seven years held the incumbency. The bells were rung deeply muffled for divine service on the following Sunday, and seldom if ever has the parish churchyard of Farnham Royal presented so sad a spectacle as on Monday afternoon, April 20th, when the mortal remains were consigned to their last resting place, by four of the choir and four of the ringers. The proceedings were animated owing to the vast concourse that assembled, all anxious to pay a last tribute of regard and esteem to the memory of one who had been so long associated with every useful undertaking in the district. At the close of the burial service the ringers rung with the bells muffled a 6-score of Grandsire Doubles, which was followed with the whole pull and stand seventy-five times; and then a 720 of Oxford Bob Minor in 29 mins. G. Basden, 1; J. Basden, 2; J. J. Parker (conductor), 3; J. W. Wilkins, 4; R. Flaxman, 5; C. Clarke, 6. Thus ended one of the most impressive funerals with which the parish has been associated for more than a generation. The bells were rung half muffled for services on the Sunday after the funeral.

WORCESTERSHIRE AND DISTRICTS ASSOCIATION.

BROMSGROVE.—On Saturday, April 18th, a very interesting event took place in the belfry of the parish church, on the occasion of the unveiling of a new peal board. At 3.30 a start was made to ring a peal of Grandsire Caters, 5222 changes, composed by G. Hayward. All went well till six o'clock, when the chimes were forgotten to be pulled off, and down came the hammers on to the bells, and knocked them down, thus bringing to an end one of the finest struck peals (had it been finished), that could have been rung by any band in the country. G. Morris, 1; O. James, 2; L. Longney, 3; H. Martin, 4; W. Rea, 5; J. Mason, 6; G. Hayward (composer and conductor), 7; A. Moore, 8; G. Bourne, 9; T. Farmer, 10. After a talk over the misfortune, the vicar of Bromsgrove, the Rev. E. V. Hall, entered the belfry, accompanied by Messrs. E. Watton and J. W. Fitch, churchwardens, for the purpose of unveiling the peal board. The board, which is a large one, is 7 ft. high and 4 ft. 6 in. wide, and contains fifteen peals, all of which have been rung in the tower of the parish church. Among those recorded are two in which the late Mr. J. Hinton, sen., of Worcester, took part, he being totally deaf, a man having to stand behind him and tap him, once at a bob, and twice at a single, and these are the only peals on record in which a totally deaf man took part. The board also contains the first peal on record in which a one-armed man has taken part, he being Mr. G. Hughes, now of Tipton, Staffordshire, who has since that time rung and conducted several peals in other methods. The board contains also among the names such noted ringers as Messrs. J. Hinton, of Bristol, W. J. Sevier, of Gloucester, W. H. Fussell, of Slough, Bassano, Mason, and Parsons, of Old Hill, Cotton and H. B. Kingsford, of Worcester, and several well-known ringers. Among the fifteen peals recorded is one peal of Bob Royal, one of Bob Triples, composed by the late C. Ravenscroft, of Bromsgrove; one of Grandsire Triples, and all the others are Grandsire Caters, ranging in number from 5003 to 6045. All the peals were composed by G. Hayward, with the exception of the peals of Bob Triples and Grandsire, and conducted by Messrs. Hayward, Rea, and Crump.

The Vicar in a few well-spoken remarks then unveiled the board, and said he was very pleased to be among the ringers that evening in the tower, as it was the first time he had been in, and at the same time hoping it would not be the last. After a few remarks from the churchwardens and a vote of thanks passed to them for coming among the ringers, a very pleasant evening was brought to a close.

SHREWSBURY.

On Monday, the 20th instant, a few members of the Shropshire division of the Hereford Diocesan Guild visited the county town of Shrewsbury for a good day's ringing. Members came from Welshpool, Coalbrookdale, and Bridgnorth, and met at the church of St. Alkmund. Through the intervention of the Rev. J. Davies, of Bridgnorth, permission to ring was kindly given by the Rev. C. E. L. Wightman, the result being the accomplishment of a peal of Grandsire Triples, which was duly reported in the last issue of our paper. Mr. George Byolin, the steeplekeeper, kindly attended the band, and greased the bells previous to starting for the peal, and in company with Mr. T. Bond and G. Tinsley of St. Chad's, congratulated the band as they left the tower.

Dinner was enjoyed at the Central Dining Rooms, amongst the things devoured being green peas, served up by a nice little duck, who evidently thought her customers were all "inside men." Of course the parish churches of St. Mary and St. Chad were scanned; the museum, market-hall, and other large buildings of interest and prominence. The famous "Quarry Gardens" were entered by way of a constitutional, and here two lovely birds of paradise were admired, but their wild state would not allow of the approach of Dock Bradburn. A primitive game of football by a nondescript team was watched, the interest exhibited therein by Mr. Price showing him to be an adept thereat.

At four o'clock the tower of St. Chad's was visited, the large bells of the fine peal surveyed, and soon placed upside down. A plain course of Grandsire Caters on the back ten failed in the last lead, in attempting it again better striking and success accrued. Several more were brought round, although three or four of the band rang upon ten bells for the first time; and then Mr. Bond called a short touch of Triples. Lowering the bells, the company left the tower at 6 o'clock, and were met by Mr. T. Price, the worthy steeplekeeper of St. Mary's (ten bells.) From this gentleman it was ascertained (so far as is at present known) that the last peal achieved in the town was performed in 1864 at St. Mary's (Grandsire Triples), since which time numerous long attempts have been made, each, however, attended with misfortune. An hour was spent at the "Bull's Head" by the visitors, in company with Messrs. Price, Byolin, Bond, Tinsley, the conversation turning upon the deplorable state of bells and change-ringing in a town so well supplied with peals of good bells. At 7 o'clock a very sociable gathering of ringers dispersed in the hope of meeting again. There is certainly no town of importance equal to Shrewsbury where the art of ringing is at such a low ebb. Assuredly the proverbial pride of the fair Salopians is not in the proper ringing of their bells.

LANCASHIRE ASSOCIATION.—LIVERPOOL BRANCH.

On Saturday, the 18th April, eight members from Liverpool, by the kind permission of the Hon. and Rev. Canon Bridgeman, Rector of Wigan, paid a visit to the parish church, to ring on the noble peal of eight bells, tenor 28 cwt., a peal of 5388 changes of Kent Treble Bob Major. Go was called at 5.20, and all went well till 7.52, after ringing 3712 in 2 hours 32 minutes, when suddenly the peal was brought to a stand by the breaking of the strap on the headstock of the 5th. The ringers were—James Egerton, treble; William Woodhead, second; William Booth, third; Charles Williams, fourth; Henry Coley, fifth; Thomas Hammond, sixth; William Davies, seventh; Robert Williams (conductor), tenor. After an inspection of their misfortune, the visitors with their Wigan brother-strings adjourned to the house of rest, and spent a very pleasant evening together, and beg to thank Mr. Thomas Hallwell, superintendent, and his company, for their kind hospitality.

WASHINGTON, SUSSEX.

"JOYFUL BELLS."—A correspondent passing the village of Washington, last week, was highly amused at some good-natured fun, by some of the Washington "rising generation." On Saturday week, as not unfrequently happens, a happy young native couple were joined together for life by the gentleman who, in the absence of the Vicar, is now in charge of the parish. The wedding party did not have the bells rung "to order," so as to let their fellow parishioners know what was taking place, therefore three young scrapegraces determined that this pleasant part of the proceedings should not be omitted; but the difficulty was how to manage it, as the bells were ordinarily rung by the ropes, which hang down in all their splendour sedately enough close to the door, and in view of the congregation. Watching their opportunity, while the sexton was arranging the table on which the "register" is generally placed, this happy trio disappeared pretty smartly up aloft, settling close to the bells, taking the key of the trap-door with them, and locking the door on their own side. Connecting the five clappers with some string, they managed in their limited space, to ring up pretty freely. To the amazement of everyone, and just as the newly-wedded couple reached the doorway, the bells rang out merrily. It puzzled the parson! it puzzled the sexton! it delighted the wedding party! because the ropes were quite undisturbed; but the sexton, "smelling mischief from afar," climbed up and called out for the reason, his only answer being the unisoned clang of the bells. After a good deal of persuasion, the mystery was solved, and the sexton explained through the keyhole that the parson did not quite approve. However, he was told to tell the rev. gentleman that "we always allows to ring the bells when there's a wedding, whether we'er paid or not." The ringers kept the bells going for an hour and a half, and upon presenting themselves later in the day at the wedding party, met with a hearty welcome."—Local Paper.

THE UNEMPLOYED IN EAST LONDON.—At a time when much thought is being given to this matter, a practical suggestion may be of service. Last year more than £300,000 worth of foreign matches were purchased by inconsiderate consumers in this country, to the great injury of our own working people, so true is it that "evil is wrought by want of thought, as well as want of heart." If all consumers would purchase Bryant and May's matches, that firm would be enabled to pay £1000 a week more in wages.

TALATON, NEAR EXETER, DEVON.

On Saturday, April 25th, the following members of the St. Sidwell's Society—F. Shepherd, E. Shepherd, J. Moss, C. Carter, F. Davey, T. Mudge, T. Lake, W. Rewe, W. Drake, A. C. Bird, R. Caryl, —. Newnham, and W. Carnell visited Talaton to have a pull on the ring of bells since the augmentation of the peal from one of five to that of six by the addition of a new treble. Leaving Exeter by the 1.5 train for Whimble, thence per foot to Talaton, which was reached about 2.30, they were met by the local ringers, who conducted them to the tower, and the bells (now a very fine peal of six) were soon put in motion to the tune of Grandsire Doubles. Some very excellent 6-scores were rung on the bells, which go very well, and the local band and some visitors rang some rounds together. The Rector of Talaton (the Rev. A. J. Street) soon after the arrival of the Exeter ringers very kindly invited them with the local ringers to tea at the Rectory; so about 4.30 ringing for the time was stopped to enable them to partake of the Rector's hospitality. On the way to the Rectory, however, a plain course of Grandsire Caters was rung on handbells by the following: W. Drake, 1-2; F. Davey, 3-4; F. Shepherd, 5-6; E. Shepherd, 7-8; J. Moss, 9-10. This was rung under a good old spreading oak tree in the centre of the village, to the great delight of the villagers, who flocked around to hear the treat the visitors were giving them. Tea being over the tower bells were again set in motion, assisted by the Rev. M. Kelly, Rector of Ottery, Secretary to the Devonshire Guild, and the Rev. G. E. F. Molineux, of Harpford, who took part in several 6-scores with the visitors. Some courses of Grandsire Triples, Caters, and Bob Major, finishing up with an Irish melody on the handbells on the rectory lawn.

Retracing their steps, the Exeter ringers, who had a few spare minutes, rang several excellent 6-scores of Grandsire Doubles on the bells of Whimble church, returning to Exeter about 10.30, having thoroughly enjoyed their outing. They wish, through the medium of this paper, to thank the rector of Talaton for the very kind treatment he gave them and the kind invitation to visit him again soon; they also thank both him and the Rector of Whimble for placing the bells at their disposal.

A RINGING DAY IN DEVON.—Mr. J. L. Warden Page's very interesting book on "Dartmoor" has the following: "While on the subject of church bells, it may be mentioned that in some of the rural parishes of the West the practice of campanology is exercised upon very little provocation. A writer who has gone from among us (Elias Tozer of Exeter, who as 'Tickler' wrote many an article on Devonshire country life) tells of the explanations proffered him in the village of Drewsteignton on the occasion of the bells of a neighbouring parish being rung: 'They be often ringing, sir,' observed an old man to me; and he continued: 'The ringers be vurry fond of the bells, and sometimes they rings vor vurry little. T'other day Varmer Dadd killed a peg, and gied the natlins to the poor of the parish. Darned if tha ringers didden ring vor a whole hour, as they zed, to cillibrate tha hayvent.'"

THE "PENNY-A-LINER" AGAIN.—The people who reside in the vicinity of Christ Church, Armley, must be made of good material and have splendid nerves. On Monday evening some members of the Yorkshire Association of Change Ringers rang a peal of five thousand and forty mixed changes. The operation lasted for three hours and twelve minutes; but up to now no serious results have been reported.—Local Paper.

While allowing the utmost freedom for the expression of opinion, it must never be considered that we are in any way bound to statements made by correspondents.

To the Editor of "THE BELL NEWS AND RINGERS' RECORD"

INFORMATION WANTED.

SIR,—In your issue of April 25th, appears notice of meetings at St. Saviour's, Southwark, and on April 7th, Miss Leny, of Speldhurst, was elected an hon. member of the society, also that the "Society" were entertained at Speldhurst last summer. I cannot understand what the hon. sec. means, by stating this, as the A. S. C. Y., are about 3,000 strong, and there was only a dozen that came to Speldhurst. If the hon. sec. had stated that the scruffe ringers of the A. S. C. Y. were invited to Speldhurst, and those who could not come sent substitutes in their places, it would not have been far out. But what about the "corporation" who several times asked the Speldhurst ringers if they (the visitors) were ringing Stedman Cinques when they were ringing Triples? was he a member of the A. S. C. Y.? A LOCAL RINGER.

MR. SNOWDON'S "ROPE-SIGHT."

SIR,—Will you allow me through your columns to thank a number of correspondents for their patience in waiting for the fourth edition of my deceased brother's work, Rope-Sight, which, as may be seen from your advertisement columns, is now ready. I have taken the greatest possible care to avoid mistakes—which in these technical works so easily creep in—and trust the book will continue to meet with the approval of the Exercise.

WM. SNOWDON.

A CORRECTION.

SIR,—In your last week's edition of "THE BELL NEWS," there is an account of a peal of Grandsire Triples, conducted by Mr. W. H. Fussell, which in a foot-note states that nearly thirty years have elapsed since a peal was accomplished in the town of Shrewsbury. Kindly allow me to state that on Easter Monday, April 18th, 1881, a band of ringers from West Bromwich, rung on the front-eight of St. Chad's, in that town, a peal of New Grandsire Triples, 5040 changes, in three hrs. four mins. and was conducted by Mr. Solomon Biddlestone. It was intended to ring the peal on the back eight, but the tenor going so bad it was rung on the front eight instead, myself being one of the band in the peal.

W. R. SMALL.

AN OBJECTION.

SIR,—The tone of your short editorial of April 25th, is certainly very disheartening to young ringers or young bands of ringers. Surely it is meritorious, that a band of beginners, with all the discouragements and difficulties incidental to change-ringing, particularly in country places, should accomplish 360 changes. In the article alluded to, the desire to have such performances recorded is characterised as childish or silly. But if the ringers of "first 360's" of the present day are to be snuffed out so unceremoniously, where are the ringers of "first 5000's" of the future to come from?

X.

[Our correspondent has entirely mistaken the tenor of our remarks. We have not the slightest wish to "snuff out" anything.—Ed.]

CHRIST CHURCH, BLACKLANDS, HASTINGS, SUSSEX.

SIR,—Kindly allow me space to interrogate the members of the band of ringers connected with the above church, through the columns of "THE BELL NEWS," whether or not they have any rule to exclude other members of the campanological art from their ringing-chamber, or to refuse them the honour of a rope? a member of the Sussex County Association of change-ringers having on more than one occasion been refused this customary privilege. I hope this may elicit some proper explanation of the scant courtesy offered my friend, who is prepared to challenge contradiction.

LIBERTY.

UNPLEASANTNESS AT CHEPSTOW.

SIR,—I beg leave to inform "A.G." that permission was obtained from the Vicar for the use of bells in a proper and straightforward manner, and for the benefit of the Exercise I will explain (the unmanly way in which we treated the Vicar). For a month previous it was arranged to ask two at least of the St. Michael's Juniors of Gloucester to assist us in getting a peal for the re-opening of the nave of the Church, but unfortunately the afternoon before the event the gentlemen in question could not come. We had a meeting the same evening, and decided not to ring on the following day (if we could not ring Doubles or Minor we would not drum over Churchyard Bob), all were agreed except the steeple-keeper, and he was sent to inform the churchwardens our decision. But there was some 30s. in question, which was a good bait for the steeple-keeper, and he succeeded in getting a team of Stoney ringers for the occasion. The following day we tendered our resignations to the Vicar, in consequence of the part that Morley had taken in it. And as for Morley being pleased to grant permission to other Guilds for a touch or peal, all intending the same would do well to apply to the Vicar.

G. WATKINS.

SIR,—Kindly allow me a small space in your most valuable paper, in reply to "A.G." of last week, in connection with St. Mary's (Chepstow) Ringers. I happen to be one of the two who requested the Vicar for permission to ring, and the only condition he made was: That it should have nothing whatever to do with Sunday ringing; that it be purely a holiday affair; and we were to ask Mr. Morley for the keys, which he refused to let us have, but the Vicar kindly opened a way for us. I was not in the row at all, and I cannot understand A.G. saying we did not make application in a straightforward manner. I am sorry to say too many of our influential members round here already know Mr. Morley's straightforward disposition.

J. PRICKETT.

BATH AND WELLS DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

A District Meeting of members of this association was held at Dunster on Saturday last. Members from Bristol, Taunton, Minehead, and Old Cleeve, put in an appearance by the first trains in the morning. Arrangements had been made for a start to ring Holt's six-part peal of Grandsire Triples on the fine ring of eight at the parish church of St. George, Dunster. Soon after ten a.m. the word "Go" was given, but after about 1,000 changes had been rung, two bells were found to have changed course, and the conductor called "Stand." The ringers stood as follows:—W. W. Thorne, 1; T. Doble, 2; J. Grabham, 3; C. E. D. Boutflower, 4; T. Radford, 5; H. Moore, 6; Rev. H. A. Cockey (conductor), 7; J. Maddock, 8. Tenor 21 cwt. Time would not permit of a second attempt, and a break having been chartered the same band were soon sailing along merrily towards Minehead. On reaching St. Michael's Church, the first Major ever rung on the bells was pulled off in capital style, the touch being a 480 in the Grandsire method:—T. Doble, 1; Rev. J. U. Todd, 2; J. Grabham, 3; Rev. H. A. Cockey, 4; T. Radford, 5; C. E. D. Boutflower, 6; J. Maddock, 7; W. W. Thorne (conductor), 8. A short length of Stedman Triples was then essayed by the same band, but came to grief. Without further loss of time a return was made to Dunster in order to be present at the service at St. George's. By this time several other ringers had arrived, including the Master (the Rev. C. W. H. Griffith).

Service was held in the Priory church at 1.30, and was conducted by the Rev. C. W. H. Griffith. A shortened form of service for use at ringers' association meetings was used, and an address was delivered by the Rev. C. W. H. Griffith, based upon the words, "For the perfecting of the saints, for the work of the ministry, and for the edifying of the body of Christ."

Immediately after service several short lengths of Grandsire Triples and Doubles were rung during the afternoon by mixed bands of six and seven-bell ringers. In the meantime six members drove to Old Cleeve with the object of ringing a 720 of Grandsire Minor on the musical ring of six at the parish church, and in this they were successful, being brought round in 28 mins. H. W. Tomkins (first 720), 1; Rev. J. U. Todd, 2; W. W. Thorne, 3; Rev. C. W. H. Griffith, 4; J. Grabham, 5; C. E. D. Boutflower, 6. Tenor 18½ cwt. This was rung with the bells half-muffled as a tribute of respect to the late Mr. William Edwards, an old ringer and sexton of the parish church, who died on the previous Wednesday. On the return journey to Dunster, a call was made at Carhampton, but time would not allow of more than a 6-score of Doubles being rung on this not particularly musical ring of six, the "go" of the bells, however, being very good; in fact, complete satisfaction was expressed by all the ringers with the whole of the bells in the towers visited, and with the admirable manner in which the belfries were fitted up. On arriving at Dunster, a very welcome adjournment was made to the "Luttrell Arms" Hotel, where a capital meat tea was provided by Mr. and Mrs. Evered. There were about twenty-five members present, the chair being taken by the Master (the Rev. C. W. H. Griffith), who was supported by the Rev. G. B. Simeon (vicar of Dunster), the Rev. H. A. Cockey (Master of the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association), Mr. C. E. D. Boutflower (local secretary of the same Association), the Rev. J. Utten Todd (curate of Minehead), and Mr. W. Ludlow (churchwarden of Dunster). Several of the party having to catch the 5.55 up train, the business before the meeting was transacted without the removal of the cloth. The minutes of the last meeting (at Frome) were read and confirmed, and the chairman, alluding to the absence of the secretary, Mr. Rupert Lewis, said Mr. Lewis had asked him to express to the meeting his very great regret at not being able to be present, owing to unavoidable circumstances.—Several names of new members were formally submitted to the meeting and their election confirmed.

The Chairman said the next business before them was where the annual meeting should be held. It was their wish to have it at Wells, being the cathedral city of the diocese, but the bells in the cathedral, which were being rehung, would probably not be finished by the middle of July. In consequence of that uncertainty they thought perhaps it would be best to fix it at Bath, which was the other city connected with the diocese. Bath was easier of access, and there were several peals of bells there.

The Rev. H. A. Cockey proposed, Mr. C. E. D. Boutflower seconded, and it was unanimously resolved, that the annual meeting should be at Bath.

The Rev. H. A. Cockey proposed, and the Rev. J. U. Todd seconded, a vote of thanks to the Rev. G. B. Simeon for his kindness in placing the belfry at their disposal and attending their service, tea, and meeting, and also to the clergy at Minehead, Old Cleeve, and Carhampton for kindly granting the use of the bells at those places for ringing purposes.

The Rev. G. B. Simeon, in acknowledging the vote of thanks, said he thought ringers would act wisely if they would try to make ringing as popular as they could with the people. The church at Dunster was situated so near the houses, and the tower was so low, that people were not inclined to speak in those terms of ecstatic delight of the ringing that they would wish. He suggested that shutters might be put up around the bells as in many other places, and he would be very pleased to give a subscription towards the work. One did not like to hear people say, "Oh, we are going to have those dreadful bells again," as someone had said to him that morning. If they could do what he had suggested, he thought it would be a very good thing, and people would appreciate the bells very much more than they now did. In conclusion, he hoped they had spent a pleasant day at Dunster, and that they would come there again and have an equally successful time on another occasion.

There was subsequently a short discussion on the matter of getting shutters put up round the belfry of Dunster church, and also as to the ringers having a seat reserved for them in the church. As a finish to the day's ringing an attempt was made after tea to ring Holt's 10-part peal of Grandsire Triples on the Dunster bells, but this came to an end after ringing in capital style 2,000 out of the 5,040 in 1 hr. 10 mins. the band standing as follows:—T. Elliott, 1; W. W. Thorne (conductor), 2; R. Hole, 3; Aaron Willicombe, 4; Rev. H. A. Cockey, 5; W. W. Thrush, 6; J. Grabham, 7; J. Passmore, 8. This, undoubtedly the best struck touch of the day, brought an enjoyable meeting of the Association to a close.

GREAT BENTLEY, ESSEX.

On April 26th, Messrs. Sillitoe, Howell, and Brown, of the Sudbury company, paid a visit to the above-named place, for the purpose of having a pull on the bells of the parish church, and spending a few hours with that enthusiastic ringer, Mr. W. J. Nevard. Arriving by train at Great Bentley station about 11.0 am., they were met by Mr. Nevard, who accorded them a hearty greeting, and conducted them to his residence. His peal of handbells were soon brought into requisition, and a course of Grandsire Triples rung upon them by G. Brown, 1-2; W. Nevard, 3-4; W. Howell, 5-6; C. Sillitoe, 7-8. Touches of Bob Major were also rung. At two o'clock an adjournment was made to the church, and before the service a 720 of Kent Treble Bob was rung by C. Sillitoe, 1; H. E. Bowers, 2; G. Brown, 3; W. Hazell, 4; W. Howell, 5; W. Nevard (conductor), 6. And 360 of Plain Bob. W. J. Nevard, 1; W. Hazell, 2; G. Brown, H. Bowers, 4; W. Howell, 5; C. Sillitoe (conductor), 6. After service a 720 of Oxford Treble Bob in 21 mins., by G. Brown, 1; W. Howell, 2; W. Hazell, 3; H. Bowers, 4; W. Nevard, 5; C. Sillitoe (conductor), 6. Also two 6-scores of Grandsire Doubles. The bells are a nice little ring of six, tenor about 10 cwt., and go well. The visitors then ascended the tower, and had a look round from the top, from which the steamers were plainly visible on the sea at Walton-on-the-Naze and Clacton-on-Sea, and a very good view of the surrounding country was obtained, Mr. Nevard kindly pointing out the many objects of interest. As train time was drawing nigh the visitors were obliged to hurry off, and after an hasty cup of tea were soon in the train, and reached home quite safely about 7.15 p.m., after a most enjoyable visit, and some capital ringing. Through the medium of this paper the visitors wish to thank Mr. and Mrs. Nevard for their kindness and hospitality.

NOTES—HISTORICAL AND OTHERWISE.

Some years ago—I don't want to say how many—there lived an Austrian general named Haynau. This gentleman (?) at the time I am writing of, filled the position of military governor of some part of the Austrian or Hungarian dominions, where the population did not suffer from extreme loyalty to the powers that were. General Haynau, being a very zealous man in the cause of law and order (particularly the first-named), was sent to curb the aspirations of the people towards a change in the constitution, and this he did in a manner peculiarly continental. When disaffection showed itself he had the people of either sex whipped just as the fancy suited him, but all the floggings and whippings did not, I think, eradicate the desire for a change in government. English people were apt to consider General Haynau's administration a complete failure, and strange to say they felt something more than contempt for his plans of government. "Indignation" is not a sufficiently strong term to use in describing the feelings of our people towards him at the time. He was in fact looked upon as a "monster," and one of the greatest tyrants the world has ever produced.

You will say, dear reader, what has this to do with ringing? Well, we shall see. In acceding to the request to write a chapter during the temporary absence of our friend "Free Lance" (who is I am sorry to hear, suffering from indisposition, and has just sustained a family bereavement), I considered that our journal would be none the worse for a little variation of its contents. Of course we are always pleased to read the leading article, and the peals, and the reports of meetings, and the jollifications, and the notices, and the compositions, and the advertisements; and we are all enchanted with the long lists of touches wherein the names of half-a-dozen men are repeated about fifty times, more or less. Nevertheless a little change must be acceptable, I thought, and I became inspired, not campanalogically, but historically. Let this explanation, or apology, or whatever you like to call it, suffice.

When General Haynau had completed his term of office, he looked around him with complacency and satisfaction. He had made himself a name. No doubt he was an hero, and thought so. His vigorous whippings—especially where the gentle sex was concerned, may not have produced exactly the effect he wished, for in civilised communities they excited universal disapproval. The General of course could not please everybody, and those people he didn't please did not fail to reckon him up rather strongly. He soon longed to show himself among those who had objected in language more forcible than pleasant to his goings on, so as to cow them by his lofty mien and majestic presence. He came to this country of ours for that purpose, where he was sure, so he thought, to be made a lion of. And so he was.

Have patience, my dear reader, we are getting (like the children say when they are playing at the game called "salt fish very well buttered"), "hotter and hotter." I have said the General came to England. I am not going to chronicle all his doings in this country, but only to mention one of them.

He may have gone to the Annual Dinner of the College Youths, or the Royal Cumberlands, though history is silent on that point.

But on enquiry I don't think it likely, because he would not have met with a generous reception, especially with such men as were leaders in these societies then, men who were in the habit of speaking their minds. However, certain it is he got to love the Englishman's national beverage so much, that nothing would satisfy him but a visit to a beer factory, to see how it was made. His wishes were gratified in a peculiar manner.

Every one has heard of "Barclay and Perkins' Entire," I suppose. "Entire" is I believe, though I won't vouch for the fact, a splendid decoction of malt and hops compounded by the firm of Barclay and Perkins. It was to the large brewing establishment of Messrs. Barclay and Perkins that the Austrian general was conducted, and where the process of making beer was shown and explained. It was not known at first among the operatives of the brewery who the foreign-looking visitor was, but the secret happened to leak out, and the celebrated General Haynau, the woman-flogger, was soon to learn and in fact feel the practical effects of Englishmen's indignation. By the draymen and others of Barclay and Perkins he was hustled, clouted, and otherwise maltreated, and there is little doubt had he not been rescued he would have met with a similar fate to that Duke of Clarence who was said to have been drowned in a butt of his own favorite beverage. Haynau, had he not been enabled to make his exit, would have either been drowned in a butt of "brown stout," or smothered in a vat of reeking grains. But as has been said, he was rescued.

He vowed revenge. He would have liked to have erected the halberds and had these noble draymen flogged there and then. But they manage things so differently in England. The Austrian government made a bother about it, but our Foreign Secretary put his finger to his nose (metaphorically of course) and Haynau had to go home crest-fallen at the indignities he had received without the least satisfaction. That is all I have to say about Haynau. Now I come to Barclay and Perkins, or perhaps I should say Perkins without the Barclay.

Perhaps my readers do not know that the gentleman who in a recent number signed himself "A. J. Perkins" is one of the firm I have been mentioning. Neither do I, though I hope he is, if only for his own sake. Certainly there have been lots of Perkins. There was Perkin Warbeck, and there was Vansly-perken and his dog; in fact there are Perkins without number; so that our friend Barclay—I mean Perkins[A.J.]—may not be of the brewery ilk after all. Whatever he is I should rejoice to make his acquaintance. But he is very "perky" upon the representatives of his association. Individual opinion, forsooth! Must the decisions of the House of Commons be regarded as individual opinion, or as the voice of the nation? My friend Barclay, that is Perkins, you're not in it. Launch out at your representatives and make them resign—if you can—but for goodness' sake don't again talk of individual opinion, or else I shall think you are too deeply in love with the "Entire" of your friends before-named.

It strikes me that I have written as much as I ought, for this week at all events. My friend Perkins A. J. may think I have said too much. I hope, though, he will not be down in the mouth about it. I certainly feel that I have made too long an acquaintance with Haynau, and not sufficient with Barclay and Perkins.

The Bell News & Ringers' Record.

SATURDAY, MAY 2, 1891

WHILE it is satisfactory to hear so frequently of new rings of bells being erected, and old ones restored, yet we feel that in the latter case the work is not being done so extensively or so quickly as it might be. Ringing chronology would tell us of many peals rung in former days upon bells which are now fast hastening to decay. The "long silence, owing to disrepair," mentioned on another page, would appear in many cases to render callous and indifferent those who should take care of and cherish the bells of their Church. We need not search exhaustively for these instances of disrepair and ultimate neglect. The town of Shrewsbury is a case in point. There is a peal of twelve and a peal of ten in this historical place, we don't know how many more—yet good ringing is scarcely ever heard there because of the bad condition of the bell-fittings. Unfortunately too many cases of the same nature could be quoted. A bell or bells may be found at every church in this country, but we are afraid that in the majority of cases the bell is the least esteemed among the Church's instruments. Fancy the furor which would be occasioned if the organ only became unmanageable, and defied the dexterity of the organist. Measures would be taken without delay to set that right. Of course the absence of the organ would be more felt perhaps, but bells should have a little thought and attention as well as the organ. A peal of bells indicates more than anything else that the temple to which they belong is a Church, and not a conventicle. This fact ought to be taken into account more than it is.

NOTE TO PEAL OF DOUBLE NORWICH BY SURREY ASSOCIATION, RUNG AT ASHTEAD, APRIL 25.—This peal is in five parts, and will be found at page 81 of the 1876 edition of Hubbard. It is given with the initials "H. H." attached; but it will be seen that it is identical with Thurston's 6160 which is printed alongside, with the sole exception that a bob is called at 5 in the first course of each part instead of at 4 as in Thurston's. I have therefore thought it right to consider it as Thurston's composition. The previous longest peal by the Surrey Association was 5360 changes of Oxford Treble Bob Royal at Fulham. 26th April, 1891. ARTHUR B. CARPENTER.

NOTICE OF LONG PEAL ATTEMPT.—Eight members of the Norwich Diocesan Association will attempt Mr. T. Day's 16,608 of Treble Bob Major at Eye, Suffolk, on Whit-Monday next. Mr. Charles Mee will conduct.

"PAINLESS AND PERFECT DENTISTRY."

Her Majesty's Surgeon-Dentist says:—

My DEAR DOCTOR,—Allow me to express my thanks for the skill and attention displayed in the construction of my Artificial Teeth, which render my mastication and articulation excellent. I am glad to hear that you have obtained Her Majesty's Royal Letters Patent to protect what I consider the perfection of Painless Dentistry. In recognition of your valuable services you are at liberty to use my name.

S. G. HUTCHINS. By appointment Surgeon-Dentist to Her Majesty the Queen.

To GEO. H. JONES, Esq., D.D.S.

SCIENTIFIC DEPARTMENT.—LABORATORY OF EXPERIMENTAL SCIENCE.

This is to certify:—That I have analysed the Prize Medal Teeth submitted to me, and find them to be composed only of minerals of extreme purity. I have also examined and tested your patented painless system of adjustment, it is quite perfect, and is the most successful application of scientific laws for securing actual wear and comfort yet introduced. Both physically and anatomically, they are a beautiful resemblance to the natural teeth.

THE NORTH LINCOLNSHIRE ASSOCIATION.

The Annual Meeting of this Association was held at Lincoln, on Saturday, April 25th, when members attended from Market Rasen, Gainsborough, Grimsby, Hull, Retford, Caythorpe, Stow, Metheringham, Scothern, Washingborough, etc. Friends from Sheffield, Burton-on-Trent, Nottingham, Beeston, Dewsbury, and Sandiacre were also present. Soon after the arrival of the excursion trains (it being Lincoln Fair) the bells of the different churches were set in motion, and the ringing continued until nearly five, the hour appointed for the tea. By that time all had assembled at the Oddfellows' Hall, where a first-class repast was provided, and no less than 130 partook of the tea, a second sitting being necessary. This shows the remarkable success of the Association whose membership is yearly increasing. Immediately after the tea the business meeting was held, F. S. Hood, Esq., of Nettleham Hall, taking the chair, in the absence of the President, the Very Rev. the Dean of Lincoln. He said he was sure that they all very much regretted the Dean could not be present, and he was equally sure they would all join with him in expressing sympathy with the very rev. gentleman in what must, to one of such extremely sensitive mind and life, be a severe trial. He had great pleasure in calling upon Canon Warner (Vicar of Gainsborough) to say a few words to them.

Canon Warner opened his address by referring to the absence of the Bishop of Lincoln. They all remembered from last year how heartily in sympathy his Lordship was with them, and what an interesting speech he made to that North Lincolnshire Association. The Bishop had instructed him (Canon Warner) to tell them that he had still the same sympathy and goodwill towards the Association, but that being the day he had chosen for having the students from the Missionary College at Burgh with him, he was prevented from coming amongst them. That day was for him, and for them also in Lincolnshire, a special one; because, as they knew, it was St. Mark's day, and the seventh anniversary of the consecration of Dr. King as Bishop of Lincoln. It was also the anniversary of the birth of a man who had more to do with the present revival and interest in everything which had to do with the Church of England than anybody else—John Keble, the author of "The Christian Year," and so many other beautiful writings which Church of England people were thankful for. It had something to do with bells, because the reason why they cared for bells and for organs, and church music generally, and for decorated churches, and why they especially welcomed the great fact that ringers were no longer dissociated from the worship of the parish church to which they belonged, but were recognised as a band of church workers just as much as the organist or the choir, or even the clergyman himself—all was traceable to that great church revival of which John Keble was the author. Keble was, as they knew, a country clergyman, being Vicar of Hursley, and in some of his poems they found reference to the sound of the church bells coming over the woods round about Hursley, which were very dear to him. Of course year after year they had people telling them about the music of the bells, so that they must be familiar with the subject; and he (Canon Warner) did not therefore propose to say anything about it except this: that the reason he took an interest, and always should take an interest in that North Lincolnshire Association, was because he welcomed ringers of his own parish church at Gainsborough as forming a most useful body of men. He thought it was for them to know that the clergy felt that the ringers helped them very much. They did not look upon them merely as people who just rung the bells and did not care any more about it, but they knew that they afterwards, according to the rules which existed in all well-conducted belfries, took part in the worship of God, to which they summoned other people in such a striking way. They looked upon ringing, he trusted, not only as a very healthy recreation and amusement—for it was an amusement—but a thing which taught them discipline, order, obedience, quickness of eye, and readiness in following the word of command; in fact he thought a good ringer was bound to be a very excellent member of society altogether. Other countries had beautiful bells, and Russia, he supposed, boasted of having the largest bell in the world; yet he did not believe any people except English people understood the mysteries of change-ringing. He did not understand it himself, and he was not able to tell them exactly how many changes they could get out of eight or ten bells, but he believed there was one gentleman present who had rung in a peal of 16,000 changes. That gentleman deserved to be congratulated on having reached that very large number, in whatever way it might be counted, of change-ringing with bells. The ringers often came over to Gainsborough, and made the people familiar with the sound of the bells and the changes they could ring upon them, and he hoped that they would come over again, and in such large numbers as they had assembled that day.

The Rev. Precentor Venables expressed the great pleasure he felt in meeting the members of the Association again, and the deep interest he took in the Association. He also referred to the enforced absence of the Dean of Lincoln through his recent accident, and said he was sure if the Dean had known that he (the Precentor) was going to be present at their meeting he would have sent a message indicating his warm interest and best wishes for them. The Precentor spoke of the time when those who rang others to church themselves went out by a back door, and did not darken the portals of the church at all. Now, he said the ringers were regarded as real church workers.

The Chairman read letters from the Bishop and Dean of Lincoln, and announced that others had been received from several honorary members regretting their inability to attend.

The Hon. Secretary then read the minutes of the last annual meeting, which were confirmed, and also his report and balance-sheet for the past year. The former showed a large increase of membership, and that five peals had been rung, against only one rung during the previous year, and also that the committee had in hand a certificate of membership which was about completed.

The officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows:—President, the Very Rev. the Dean of Lincoln; vice-Presidents, Rev. Canon J. P. Young, vicar of Grimsby, Rev. Canon Andrews, Claxby Vicarage, F. S. Hood, Esq., Nettleham Hall, and F. F. Linley, Esq., Gainsborough; hon. treasurer, Mr. H. Gadd, Market Rasen; hon. secretary, Mr. J. W. Watson, Lincoln; auditors, Messrs. F. F. Linley and G. Chester. Mr. Norman E. Snow, Sleaford, who represented the association at the meeting of the Central Council on March 31st, made his report, giving his reasons for his voting on the two important subjects then discussed by the council. J. H. Davis, Esq. (H.M. Inspector of Schools), and F. H. Harrison, Esq. (Harrison and Co., engineers), Lincoln, were unanimously elected honorary members; twenty-seven ringing members were also elected, amongst whom as efficient members were Miss Milner-Barry, daughter of the Rev. E. Milner-Barry, Scotham Vicarage, who a few years ago assisted so energetically in raising funds towards the restoration and augmentation of the peal of her parish church, and who since has done much organizing work in the belfry; also Mr. John Austin, late of the justly-celebrated company of St. Paul's, Burton-on-Trent; his proposer explaining that he had taken part in no less than 74 peals, amongst which was the only peal of London Surprise rung in London; Holt's Original, on handbells which he conducted, and other intricate performances; he congratulated the St. Peter-at-Arches Society, on their having enrolled him as one of their number, and welcomed him as a member of the association.

Lincoln was again selected as the head-quarters of the association for the ensuing three years. It was decided to hold the July quarterly meeting at Caistor. Mr. Linley explained to the members the various details of the new certificate of membership, from where and why they were chosen. The design, which is exceedingly neat, includes pictures of St. James' Church, Grimsby; St. Denys, Sleaford; St. James, Louth; St. Mary's, Stow; St. Thomas, Market Rasen; All Saints, Gainsborough; together with a view of Lincoln Cathedral. The whole are surrounded by a pretty bordering with bells at the corners, and bell ropes. The bordering is copied from a casting on a Lincolnshire bell; the bells were specially photographed by Mr. J. W. Taylor, jun., Loughborough, for the Association, and the ropes are copied from a photograph of one of the ropes of St. Peter-at-Arches, Lincoln. The motto at the bottom of the certificate is "Ring out the false, ring in the true." A vote of sympathy with the President (the Dean of Lincoln), in his unfortunate accident, was passed; as also were votes of thanks to the Dean, the Incumbents and Churchwardens, for the use of the bells, the honorary members for their interest and support, the Lincoln ringers for the day's arrangements, and to the Chairman for presiding. At the conclusion of the meeting the ringers again visited the towers and spent the remainder of the evening in touches in the standard methods, bringing to a close the most successful of the Association's gatherings ever held.

RE-OPENING OF HERTINGFORDBURY CHURCH, HERTS.

The re-opening of this church, after the extensive restorations which have been carried out, took place on Friday morning, May 1st, the service being conducted by the Lord Bishop of the diocese.

The church, which is dedicated to St. Mary, and occupies an elevated position overlooking the valley of the river Mimram, and about 1½ miles from the county town of Hertford, has been thoroughly restored by the Right Hon. Earl Cowper, K.G. In process of renovation great care has been taken to preserve every feature in the old church which was of the smallest interest. The windows are untouched except where the stones were so decayed that they had to be replaced by new ones. The old decayed roof of the church and chancel has given place to a red-tiled one, the interior being of oak. The stone arches between the nave and the north aisle are new, and the arch into the chancel is also new. The chancel-floor is of marble, and the altar-rails of alabaster. The Cowper mausoleum, which is on the north side of the chancel, is entirely new and very handsome, with gabled roof and marble floor. A new organ-chamber and vestry have been erected on the south side of the chancel. The tower has also been thoroughly restored, and it was thought advisable to rebuild a portion of the upper part of it. The embattlements are entirely new, also the steeple, which is of octagon shape, and is believed to be similar to that which existed here many years ago. It is sheathed with copper instead of lead. The church is supposed to have been built in the early part of the fourteenth century. The exterior presents a new appearance, and this is owing to the fact that the cement and plaster have been removed and the rough flints shewn. The entire work of restoration, with the exception of the mausoleum—which was designed by Mr. Wade, of London—has been done by Mr. Godfrey, clerk of Earl Cowper's works, under the personal superintendence of his lordship and Lady Cowper. The cost of the work has been considerable, and Lord Cowper has spared no expense in carrying out a thorough restoration.

The interior was not quite completed for the re-opening, as the pulpit, choir stalls, and lectern, were not ready, and the old seats were used in the church, but these are to be replaced by oak pews to match the ceiling and doors.

The re-opening service commenced with the processional hymn—"Ten thousand times ten thousand," which was well rendered by the parochial choir, who were surpliced for the first time, and about thirty surpliced clergy preceded the Bishop. The epistle was read by the Rev. Canon Proctor, and the Gospel by the Rev. Canon Wigram. The Bishop preached the sermon, taking for his text Psalm xc. 17: "And let the beauty of the LORD our God be upon us: and establish Thou the work of our hands upon us; yea, the work of our hands establish Thou it." The offertory was in aid of the Bishop of St. Albans' Fund. A second service was held in the evening, when the sermon was preached by the Ven. Archdeacon Lawrance, of St. Albans.

The five bells have been rehung in a new oak frame, with new stocks, wheels, etc., and fitted with the Ellacombe chiming hammers. The 2nd bell, which has been cracked for many years, has been recast.

The bells were rung for the morning service by members of the local society, and for the evening service six 6-scores of Grandsire Doubles (each called differently) were rung in 24 mins., by H. Baker (Hertford), 1; S. Knights (Hertford), 2; G. Smith (Middlesex Association), 3; J. Cull, 4; Jasper G. Crawley (conductor), 5. This was followed by a 6-score of Stedman, and three more of Grandsire. Tenor 11 cwt. Messrs. J. Cull and J. G. Crawley belong to the local company. After the service the ringers and choir partook of supper with the Rector.

THE KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION.—ST. LAWRENCE ISLE OF THANET.

A new peal of eight bells was dedicated at this church on Friday, May 1st. At 4 o'clock, the choir and clergy of St. Lawrence, the Rev. E. W. Carpenter (Hon. Secretary of the above Association), and the Dean of Canterbury, proceeded from the vestry to the ringing-chamber, which is approached by a series of outside ladders over the roof of the north aisle of the church. The office of dedication was said by the Dean, assisted by the Vicar (Rev. M. Fowler), the ringing-chamber being crowded to its utmost capacity, not a few being unable to find room. After the short service several touches of Grandsire Triples were rung by mixed bands (ringers being present from Canterbury, Margate, Boughton, Faversham, Birchington, etc.), and rounds by the local men. Ringing was kept up until even-song at 7 o'clock, when an excellent sermon was preached by the Dean of Canterbury to a large congregation, the office being sung by the Vicar, and the lessons read by the Revs. E. W. Carpenter and J. Campbell.

There was formerly a ring of six bells at St. Lawrence, but one bell has been hopelessly cracked for a long time, and another was also lately discovered to be in the same condition. These two, the 3rd and 4th, have been recast, and two trebles added by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank. The splice is an excellent one, and the hanging of the new peal of eight has been done in excellent style. On Saturday, it was intended to start for a peal of Kent Treble Bob Major, but Mr. Lindoff, who was to conduct, was unable to arrive in time, and Stedman Triples was substituted, and the peal (a record of which appears in its proper place) was successfully brought round at the first attempt.

After the peal the ringers sat down to a substantial supper kindly provided by the Vicar and Churchwardens of St. Lawrence. The chair was taken by the Vicar, and the vice-chair was taken by Mr. Churchwarden Perkins; the assistant-clergy and Churchwardens, the local ringers, and a few friends being also present. After supper, the toast of "The Queen and Royal Family" having been duly honoured, the Chairman (who first paid his subscription as an honorary member) proposed "The Health of the Peal-ringers and Success to the Kent County Association," which was responded to by the Rev. E. W. Carpenter. Other toasts followed, and a most enjoyable evening was spent.

A large number of the inhabitants of St. Lawrence gathered round the church during the peal to listen to the ringing, and were highly delighted with the unwonted music. It is hoped, now that the Isle of Thanet possesses a handy ring of eight, that the art of change-ringing may take root in that part of the county.

Some of the band took part in a peal of Grandsire Caters at the Waterloo Tower, Quex Park, in the early hours of the following Sunday morning, and in the afternoon paid a visit to Margate, where with the Rev. E. W. Carpenter they rang a 500 of Stedman Triples at St. John's church. Rev. E. W. Carpenter, 1; W. Pope, 2; A. Moorcraft, 3; G. Lindoff (conductor), 4; W. E. Pope, 5; A. Palmer, 6; S. Snelling, 7; W. W. Boulden, 8; and a short touch of Treble Bob Major.

ST. WERBURGH'S, BRISTOL.

On Wednesday, April 15th, the ringers of the above Church met together to ring, on the occasion of the wedding of the Rev. Reginald Thomas Talbot, M.A., Hon. Canon of Durham Cathedral, and lecturer in Church History and Doctrine in the dioceses of Durham, Newcastle, and Ripon, youngest son of the late Admiral John T. Talbot, of Merton Lodge, Clifton, to Elenor Maude, youngest daughter of the late Charles Waring, Esq., formerly of the Darran, Neath, South Wales. The above ceremony was performed by the Rev. T. W. Harvey, M.A., Vicar of St. Agnes, Bristol, assisted by the Rev. T. H. Denning, Rector of the parish. Several 6-scores of Grandsire Doubles were rang in a most creditable manner during the afternoon, the following members taking part in the ringing:—C. Gordon (leader), M. L. Baynham, W. H. Paridice, R. Chammings, W. Stephens, W. Rookes, G. Willmut, H. Brownjohn, C. Paridice, steeplekeeper, and J. Davies, of the Ancient Society of St. James, Bristol.

SOCIETY OF COPLEY SCHOLARS.

This society held its last "Social" for the season at the Unity Rooms, Sunbridge Road, Bradford, on Thursday, April 30th, when there was as usual a large attendance, over 100 persons being present during the evening. Mr. B. T. Copley, Captain of the society, presided. Songs "both grave and gay" were given by Messrs. Aykroyd, A. Bradley, A. Bakes, and Mason; and recitals by Miss Titterington, Messrs. Wilson and Ashworth. The Whitley Mills prize handbell ringers brought one of their large peals of bells and performed excellent selections in their usual talented fashion; a course of Major was also rung by four of the members. Between the vocal and instrumental performances, dancing was indulged in under the direction of Messrs. Mawson and Titterington, accompanied on the piano by Messrs. Bakes, Angus, and Wilson. Towards the close of the pleasant evening's proceedings, a cordial vote of thanks to singers, reciters, handbell ringers, and pianists, was on the motion of the chairman, seconded by Mr. G. A. O. Nettleton, carried with acclamation. A similar compliment was paid to the chairman, and towards the small hours of the morning, singing of the National Anthem brought to a close another of this society's popular gatherings.

AN ANCIENT PROTEST.

The following is taken from the Northampton Mercury of August 17th, 1793:—

"TO THE PRINTERS.—We cannot refrain from communicating to the public, with contempt, the erroneous paragraph which made its way into the Buckinghamshire Herald on the 10th of August instant, under the signature of "A Constant Reader," dated Newport-Pagnell, August 2nd, 1793, wherein it sets forth that a Mr. Botham, banker, in this town, on receiving the news of the surrender of Valenciennes to the British arms, ordered the bells to be rung, and gave a very handsome present for that purpose. We, whose names are hereunto subscribed, the ringers in and of the said parish, do declare to a man, we know no such person as Mr. Botham, and upon the strictest enquiry cannot learn who he is. And we also declare, and wish it to be made publicly known through the channel of your paper, that on every occasion that does honour to our King and Country, we come forward as Britons, without any solicitation whatever, and the gentlemen in our own parish, without the assistance of any other person or persons, cheerfully second our endeavours, and give us every gratification we wish for. Witness our hands this 8th of August, 1793.

"Edward Simcox, Wm. Pearce, Charles Brandon, Thomas Harvey, Samuel Smith, George Nickleton, Joseph Joyce (the ✕ of), William Joyce, B. Trulove."

Obituary.

CAPTAIN ARTHUR PENISTON MOORE.

It is with the deepest regret that we have to record the death, on the last day of April, of this well-known and distinguished ringer, in the 64th year of his age. For the last two months he had been suffering from a severe attack of bronchitis, the result of a chill contracted in the latter days of February. A partial convalescence a week or two ago gave his friends hope that he might, with care and a change of weather, eventually rally, but this hope was frustrated by a serious relapse, when pneumonia developed to a dangerous extent with great rapidity. With such an attack he had not sufficient strength to cope.

For the leading incidents of his career we refer our readers to the biographical sketch which accompanied the issue of Captain Moore's portrait at the beginning of the present year. In the revival of change-ringing in the Eastern Counties he, for many years, took a leading part, and was always ready to lend a helping hand in the instruction and training of young companies. He possessed great muscular strength and endurance, and as a heavy bell ringer had few equals. His last peal was rung on February 24th last, at Redenhall, upon the grand peal of bells which have been for many years the objects of his affectionate care, and with his name will always be associated. The genial hospitality which he was always ready to extend to visitors who desired to ring at Redenhall, will long be remembered by many who from time to time he entertained, and far outside the limits of Norfolk and Suffolk there will be very many to mourn his loss. He was one of the representatives of the Norwich Association on the Central Council, but his illness, which has so sadly terminated, prevented his attendance at the recent meeting. In the ranks of the Norwich Association his loss will be severely felt and keenly regretted, for there was hardly a ringer of any standing in the diocese whom he did not reckon as among his friends. The gentleness of his disposition, his unselfishness, and genuine simplicity of character endeared him to a host of friends who will long cherish his memory with affection and reverence.

The funeral took place at Redenhall on Tuesday last, and was attended by several ringers from neighbouring places, as well as by all who were more habitually his companions in ringing, six of the Redenhall society carrying him to the grave. At the close of the solemn service some touches were rung on the muffled bells by the ringers present.

JOSEPH PRESCOTT.

After a short and painful illness, a ringer well known by name to the readers of this paper, Joseph Prescott, of Hindley, Lancashire, has departed from among us, and was buried at the local cemetery on April 25th. Deceased was an ardent lover of change-ringing, and was appointed a ringer at St. Peter's Church, Hindley, on the erection of a peal of bells at that church in 1867, and for the last fourteen years held the position of foreman of the company. Of the band of eight ringers appointed at the same time as himself only three now survive. Deceased had rung and conducted nearly 100 peals, and had made all arrangements to attempt a peal of Bob Major on the day on which he was buried, his death coming as a painful surprise to the ringers who had arranged to be in the peal. He was held in the highest esteem amongst ringers in the north, and was well known and highly respected. On the day of the funeral the church was crowded by a sympathetic congregation. The funeral service was fully choral, and the coffin was literally covered with wreaths sent by a number of sorrowing friends and ringers. The coffin was carried to the grave by four of his old ringing comrades, over 100 friends and ringers following. Ringers attended from Aughton, Bedford, Leigh, Ormskirk, Wigan, West-houghton, and Upholland. Deceased was a hearty supporter of the Liverpool Diocesan Guild, and by that guild his loss will be deeply felt. At the annual meeting of the guild a vote of condolence to Mrs Prescott was proposed and carried. Deceased was only 45 years of age, and leaves a widow and a large family to mourn his loss. After the funeral muffled touches were rung on the bells by the various mixed companies present, and several muffled touches were rung at Wigan and Hindley when his death became known. And on Monday, April 20th, at the Parish Church, Ormskirk, by a mixed company belonging to the Liverpool Diocesan Guild, a date touch of Grandsire Triples, 1891 changes, in 1 hr. and 10 mins. J. Prescott, 1; J. Sholicar (conductor), 2; J. Pilkington, 3; F. A. White, 4; W. Bentham, 5; J. Watts, 6; G. Prescott, 7; T. Martland, 8. This was rung with the bells half muffled, as a tribute of respect to the memory of the deceased.

JOHN BUTTON.

For many years Mr. Button had been connected with the Waltham Abbey society, and was well known to many ringers who were in the habit of visiting the ancient Essex town. His death occurred on Monday, April 27th last, at the age of 53. The remains were interred at the Waltham Abbey Cemetery on Friday, the 1st instant. The funeral, although not numerously attended, was however a representative one, as those attending to pay their last respects comprised his fellow-tradesmen, members of the fire brigade, cricketers, and ringers. A large number of wreaths were sent by sympathising friends, including a very handsome one of porcelain, under a glass shade, from his ringing colleagues, and which bore the following inscription: "In Memoriam. John Button. Died 27th April, 1891, aged 53 years. A token of respect from the Waltham Abbey ringers." On Saturday evening a muffled peal was rung on the Abbey bells by the local band, followed by touches of Stedman and Grandsire Triples, in which a few London friends joined.

HENRY NUNN.

On Thursday, April 30th, Henry Nunn, jun., of Walthamstow, after a very short illness, was called away, leaving a widow and eight children to deplore their loss. The deceased belonged to a family several of whom have at various times been connected with the belfry of Walthamstow and the neighbouring one of Woodford, when change-ringing may be said to have been unknown in both. It was not till somewhat late in the day, therefore, that he approached half-pull work, but nevertheless he became a very fair ringer in the plain methods. The loss his family have sustained renders the case one worthy of the most profound sympathy, and calls also for the exercise of benevolence

NOTES BY THE WAY.

Friend after friend departs;
Who hath not lost a friend?

Only recently I referred with regret to the serious illness of friend Washbrook; and am heartily glad to see him on the war-path once more, as evidenced by his peal records of last Saturday. But when referring to him at the time, I little thought that I myself would be so soon placed hors de combat. Happily, however, I am rapidly recovering from the effects of my accident, and thus, like the talented instructor of the Oxford Guild, once more in the arena. At the same time, I cannot refrain from acknowledging the many kind enquiries after my welfare, and the fraternal good wishes that have been expressed for my speedy recovery. It is comforting, when one is laid helpless, to know that though thus temporarily and compulsorily absent from the scene of operations, he is not forgotten by his brethren. With this brief acknowledgment I leave it.

I have just heard of the death of our amiable friend Captain Moore. To say that I deeply regret it would be no adequate expression of my feelings. I seem as if I had suffered another to my recent bereavement. The saying that "those who knew him best loved him most" is peculiarly applicable in this case. Captain Moore's geniality, coupled with his zeal for the good of the Exercise, made him a favourite wherever he went. Thus in his death we have lost one whose absence from our ranks will be felt by more than those who had the good fortune of an intimate acquaintance with him.

But while I lament the loss of our friend, it is at least comforting to know that I am able to retain that semblance of his features which has been furnished us through the "gallery." Thus it will be as times roll on and one by one our friends are taken away from us, that these portraits will become more valuable, and we shall esteem all the more this auxiliary (if I may call it such) to our paper.

A brother-string writes asking if my opinions anent steeple-keepers have not undergone some modification, owing to the Chepstow fiasco. Not at all. This unfortunate contretemps does not affect my position one bit. To tell the truth, I am rather tempted to believe that in this matter, there is just about "six to one and half a dozen to the other:" and that a wholesale application of "bear and forbear" would have prevented the whole affair. It would also, in my humble opinion, have been better for all concerned, if they had not "rushed into print" about it at all, but have in a fraternal sort of a way settled their differences, with mutual benefit.

Then again, why does "Liberty" not deal directly with the offending band at Christ Church, Blacklands, instead of obtruding such a purely personal affair before the whole Exercise? If his aim was simply to champion the cause of a friend, so that he might have the "customary privilege" of the "honour of a rope," one might naturally imagine that he would have made overtures to those who were alone intimately concerned. Readers of "THE BELL NEWS" keep raising complaints about the waste of room caused by the reporting of short touches; but surely it is more pleasant to see those paragraphs which denote (at least) some sort of attempts in the way of progress, however elementary, than to read complaints and wrathful fulminations about personal matters in which probably not one half-a-dozen persons are involved. Let me advise "Liberty"—as well as others I could name—to remember the old admonition which cautions us, should we have dirty linen to wash, not to perform that operation in public. "People will talk."

Before I draw to a close this week, I cannot resist a word about friend Horrex. We have got so accustomed to the excellence of the portraits, that reference to it becomes positively superfluous, so I will say nothing on that score. I would rather compliment the College Youths' able and popular "heavy-end man" on his record, which has now—I believe for the first time—appeared in print; and express the hope that the blessing of health and strength will long be continued to him.

LLANCARVAN, SOUTH WALES.

On Tuesday morning, the 21st ult., Llanclarvan Church was the scene of the ceremony of the consecration of a ring of bells by the Bishop of Llandaff. It seems that during the last half-century the sound of the church bells had not broken on the stillness of the historic Llanclarvan Valley—a spot consecrated to pious uses since at least the earliest ages of the history of Christianity in Wales. Twenty years ago, when the Rev. A. T. Hughes, the present vicar, was appointed to this living, the church itself had fallen into a wretched condition of dilapidation. He then spent £800 in restoring the venerable shrine of Cattwg the Wise to a condition somewhat worthy of its noble purpose and venerable associations.

As might be expected, Llanclarvan Church is a remarkably interesting building. In the work of restoration the present enlightened vicar has dealt with its archaeological remains with loving care, so that the interior of the sacred building retains all its primitive appearance. When the vicar succeeded in obtaining funds to restore the nave and chancel he was unable to restore the belfry and re-cast the bells. Lately, however, he has been successful in both. The square tower, with antique windows of Bath stone, is an effective addition to the church's pleasant appearance. The original bells, four in number, bore the names—Sir Thos. Lewis Van, Caerphilly, and the date 1646; Thos. Bassett, Llanveithyn, 1664; C. J. J. H. and T. S. 1646; and Gibbon, 1664. Two of the present bells were presented by Mr. G. T. Clark, Talygarn. One of these is a re-cast of the bell presented by Sir Thomas Lewis Van, in memory of Mrs. Ann Priece Clark, his wife, who was a descendant of Sir Thomas mentioned above. The other is a re-cast of the Gibbon bell, now presented by his descendant, the present Mr. J. S. Gibbon, Newton, Cowbridge. The cost incurred by the Rev. A. T. Hughes amounts to £800, £200 of which is given by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners. A balance of £35 remains to be collected.

Among those present at the consecrating service were the Bishop of Llandaff, Canon Evans, Rhymney; the Revs. A. T. Hughes, D. Bowen, Cowbridge; E. Jenkins, Llanmihangel; T. Rees, M.A., Cowbridge Schools; J. Jones, Bassaleg; and S. Jones, Flimstone; and Mr. O. H. Jones, Fonmon Castle, and Mr. Jenkin Matthews, Rhymney.

The Lord Bishop, during the consecration portion of the service, stood in the entrance into the belfry, with the Vicar of Llanclarvan and Canon Evans. His lordship afterwards preached a sermon founded on Num. x. 10.

All the work has been done by Llewellyns and James, of Bristol, and it has most efficiently been carried out.

RINGERS' OUTING.

On Saturday, May 2nd, eight members of the Lichfield Cathedral Society paid a long-contemplated visit to Shenstone, a picturesque village 3 miles from Lichfield on the Birmingham road, for the purpose of ringing a peal of Grandsire Triples, which they accomplished at the third attempt, after 3 hours' good ringing. The bells, although light (the tenor, 13½ cwt.) go very indifferently, especially the back three, and great praise is due to the ringers of those bells for so pluckily sticking to their task till the welcome "that's all." In addition to the bad-going the ropes are the worst the writer has ever handled, being as hard as board, and only fit for drawing canal boats. The ringers beg to thank the Vicar for kindly granting permission; and his brother-ringers especially wish to thank the Rev. D. Jones, for his kindness in providing the conveyance, &c.

Review.

BY SCRUTATOR.

ROPE-SIGHT: AN INTRODUCTION TO THE ART OF CHANGE-RINGING.—By Jasper W. Snowdon. (Fourth Edition, 1891).—If evidence were needed of the popularity of this best of our elementary and explanatory works, such is furnished by the fact of the fourth edition which has just been issued; in the publishing of which Mr. William Snowdon says "It would be no exaggeration to say that there has been a clamorous demand for another edition of my deceased brother's book." Familiar enough the book has been to me since its first production in 1879, as (I doubt not) it will have been also to a large number of brother-ringers, particularly those whose situation in life has necessitated their having to deal with young recruits in the art and work of ringing. It will therefore appear, perhaps, at first sight, somewhat anomalous for me at this juncture, to commence such a thing as the reviewing of a work which has been in our hands for such a length of time, and besides made so great a name for itself amongst us. But it is not my intention here to discuss the general contents of this valuable book; I would simply draw a comparison between the fourth edition and those which preceded it, and this also more by way of explanation than anything else. In revising this book for its fourth appearance, Mr. William Snowdon's efforts appear to have been confined in the main to emendations in the text, and general "touching up" of the phraseology. One peal of Bob Major is omitted, having been proved false, while the list of 720s of Bob Minor is augmented by a composition of Mr. John F. Penning, which, as Mr. Snowdon observes, is "remarkable for the simplicity of the arrangement of its calls." The principal difference between the fourth and previous editions is a new chapter (13) on "The attainment of accurate striking." It is a most happy sign of the times amongst us, that good striking is becoming more and more regarded as an absolute essential of all ringing. Advocates of prize-ringing matches are wont to base their principal arguments in favour of these competitions on the ground of their conduciveness to good striking; and I believe many ringers have supported this perverse use of our Church's bells simply through the belief that it was the only practical means of inducing men to attain proficiency in the performance of good ringing. On the other hand, those who estimate more correctly the true position which ringers should hold in relation to the services and work of the Church, and who thus deprecate this (to them, at least) abuse of her bells by these wagering events known as prize-rings, have had abundant cause for lamenting the careless, irregular style of ringing which has been characteristic of many bands, whose principles in this direction have been sound, but whose practical exhibition of their work has been lamentably deficient so far as good striking is concerned. Chapter XIII. of Rope-Sight therefore is a commendable and valuable addition to the work, and comes in most opportunely at a time when the tide is turning and ringers becoming more conscious of the absolute necessity of proficiency in the practical exposition of their art. Rope-Sight has now for a dozen years or so been a powerful assistant in the training of young ringers through their initiatory stages. The fourth edition is well calculated to become even more so; it should therefore be found on every ringers' book shelves, and be placed in the hands of every young recruit as soon as he commences his training.

MINEHEAD (Somerset).—On Wednesday, April 15th, the Dunster Guild visited the church of St. Michael to attempt Shipway's ten-part peal of Grandsire Triples, but after ringing 4536 changes in 2 hrs. 50 mins. it came to grief owing to the breaking of the sixth rope. G. Atkins, 1; T. Elliott, 2; R. Hole, 3; J. Tudball, 4; W. W. Thorne, 5; W. W. Thrush, 6; J. Grabham (conductor), 7; J. Payne, 8.

THE UNEMPLOYED IN EAST LONDON.—At a time when much thought is being given to this matter, a practical suggestion may be of service. Last year more than £300,000 worth of foreign matches were purchased by inconsiderate consumers in this country, to the great injury of our own working people, so true is it that "evil is wrought by want of thought, as well as want of heart." If all consumers would purchase Bryant and May's matches, that firm would be enabled to pay £1000 a week more in wages.

To the Editor of "THE BELL NEWS AND RINGERS' RECORD."

THE RIGHT OF ACCESS TO BELFRIES.

SIR,—From occasional reports of "unpleasantness" in connection with access to belfries, it would seem that the clergy themselves are hardly aware how absolute is their own legal control over bells and belfry; and how illegal an act it is for steeplekeeper, churchwarden, or any other official, either to admit or to exclude ringers without, or contrary to, the orders of the incumbent. "He alone (I quote from a recognised authority on Church law) has any legal right to the keys of the churchyard, belfry, nave, vestry, and chancel; and no one can legally use them for entrance thereto, except by his permission." . . . "The belfry is not less under his control than other parts of the church. Access cannot be had to it, nor can the bells be rung without his consent; and if the bells are rung after he has forbidden the ringers to ring them, very serious consequences may result to the ringers." It follows that no one else can refuse access to the belfry: and a steeplekeeper who took upon himself to do so, after the incumbent had given leave of entry, would be lightly (but deservedly) punished by dismissal from his office. If the clergy would retain in their own hands the power which the law gives them, instead of leaving it to injudicious subordinates, the difficulties which sometimes arise would disappear. Ringers, on the other hand, who wish to visit strange belfries, should always endeavour to obtain a direct yes or no from the clergyman himself, and not trust to the good feeling or discretion of a subordinate who may be jealous alike of strangers and of change-ringers.

INFORMATION WANTED.

SIR,—When I saw the announcements of the coming meetings of the College Youths with special reference to our Central Council's decision on the seven-bell peal question, I, as a member of that Society of some years' standing, felt a bit curious as to the result. Now, no one will dispute the right of any individual Society or Association to consent or refuse to book peals of the description in question, seeing that the Council simply decided upon the principle of the thing, and which decision, to my mind, was the only sensible one that it could come to, under the circumstances. Technically, a true and complete 5040 of Triples is as much a peal as the same number of Major—cover or no cover. As to the advisability (or even sensibility) of ringing that without the covering tenor, is quite another matter, and one upon which the Council was not asked to pronounce an opinion. But as to the precipitous action taken by the College Youths, there will be different opinions. Thus I think it is only fair that the Secretary of that Society should inform us what was the number of members present at St. Saviour's when the whole body were committed to the decision not to score peals of Triples, Caters, or Cinques, without the covering tenor.

A COLLEGE YOUTH.

CLERGYMEN IN THE BELFRY.

SIR,—I noticed your editorial remarks in last issue respecting new peals of bells and old ones restored. Since I have taken "THE BELL NEWS" I have been glad to notice and read the many reports of new bells being erected, and the restoration of others, and yet no doubt, many churches do not possess a peal, and others which do, but from various causes, they hang silent and neglected. I know of one church wherein is a ring of six, and until recently, they have been regularly rung for a great number of years; but owing to some slight disagreement between the vicar and ringers, are now silent. In reading through Church Bells and "THE BELL NEWS" weekly, I note with satisfaction the number of clergymen who now take an interest in ringing, and I venture to hope their number may go on increasing rapidly; it will then not be such a rare occurrence to see the clergyman in the belfry. A vicar of a parish church, speaking at a meeting (of ringers) recently, regretted his not more frequent visits to the ringing chamber, and promised amendment, and yet I am afraid there are a great many like him who could find excuses for their absence. At those places where we find the clergy taking an interest in our art, it will, I venture to think, be found that ringing flourishes.

The Bell News & Ringers' Record.

SATURDAY, MAY 9, 1891.

OUR obituary notices show that the King of terrors has held sway during the past fortnight. And not only with ringers has this been the case. The Archbishop of York, at a good age certainly, but with promise of years to administer with his great wisdom and vigour the northern archiepiscopal see, has been called away, greatly to the regret not only of Churchmen, but of the dissenting communities in the diocese.

We have particularly to mourn the loss of a ringer who occupied a unique position in the Exercise. CAPTAIN MOORE was no ordinary man. We do not mean that he was possessed of transcendental abilities as a ringer, or that he was a profound scholar or metaphysician. He was a very good ringer nevertheless, but unlike many others (who were not so good), he didn't know it. That is to say he did not trumpet forth his powers, or push himself forward and demand to be in this, that, or the other; but he preferred to remain in the background, satisfied with his position, but ready and willing to step forth at the call of duty in any shape or form; especially if it was duty in connection with that art which he loved. What is said of him in the obituary notice this week is not one atom too much; truly he was all kindness and affection, and we, who knew him long, say that anything like anger was foreign to his nature. Let us hope his type of manhood may more frequently be seen amongst us. Now he sleeps not far from those loved bells which were to him as children, and near to the beautiful tower in which he spent so many hours among them. Here, "where the dust of saints is garner'd," let us leave him, in sure and certain hope, resting "till the MASTER comes once more."

Her Majesty's Surgeon-Dentist says:—

MY DEAR DOCTOR,—Allow me to express my thanks for the skill and attention displayed in the construction of my Artificial Teeth, which render my mastication and articulation excellent. I am glad to hear that you have obtained Her Majesty's Royal Letters Patent to protect what I consider the perfection of Painless Dentistry. In recognition of your valuable services you are at liberty to use my name.

S. G. HUTCHINS. By appointment Surgeon-Dentist to Her Majesty the Queen.

To GEO. H. JONES, ESQ., D.D.S.

SCIENTIFIC DEPARTMENT.—LABORATORY OF EXPERIMENTAL SCIENCE.

*This is to certify:—*That I have analysed the Prize Medal Teeth submitted to me, and find them to be composed only of minerals of extreme purity. I have also examined and tested your patented painless system of adjustment, it is quite perfect, and is the most successful application of scientific laws for securing actual wear and comfort yet introduced. Both physically and anatomically, they are a beautiful resemblance to the natural teeth.

William Gordon, 64, Lower Hillgate, Stockport,

THE CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY GUILD.

The Twelfth Annual Meeting of this Guild was held in the Rev. A. H. F. Boughey's rooms, Trinity College, on Saturday, April 25th. The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed. The report of the year's work was presented, shewing that the Society had elected fourteen new members during the year; it had also rung its first three peals, viz.: 5040 Bob Triples, April 28th, 1890; 5040 Bob Major, November 17th, 1890; and 5184 Double Norwich Court Bob Major, February 23rd, 1891; all three in hand. It was first definitely settled to practice for a peal of Double Norwich in October, 1890. The first practice was on October 20th, when after a whole afternoon's hard work the first course of the method was rung. The Bob Major followed to improve the Major striking, and courses of Double Norwich were rung at intervals during the Michaelmas term. After the Christmas vacation the method was thoroughly taken up, the band meeting nearly every day for about five weeks, the following touches being brought round: January 24, 336; January 28, 224 and 560; January 30, 896; February 10, 1120; February 13, 752; February 16, an attempt for the peal, 1952 changes being rung; February 23, the peal. During the year courses and touches in the following methods have been rung double-handed: Bob Minor, Forward Minor, Oxford Bob Minor, College Single Minor, Yorkshire Court Minor, Kent and Oxford Treble Bob Minor, Double Court Bob Minor, Double Stedman Minor, Bob Triples, Grandsire Triples, Union Triples, Court Bob Triples, and Stedman Triples, Bob Major, Canterbury Pleasure Major, Grandsire Major, Kent Treble Bob Major, Double Norwich Court Bob Major, Grandsire Caters, and Grandsire Royal. On tower bells, Bob, Canterbury, Grandsire, and Stedman Doubles, and a little Bob Minor have been rung.

The officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: President, Rev. A. H. F. Boughey, Trinity; Master, Edward B. James, Caius; Secretary, Charles A. Clements, 73, Norwich Street, Cambridge, non-collegiate; Committee, H. L. James, Caius; C. F. Wedemeyer, Trinity.

After the meeting, 270 Grandsire Caters, being the first touch of Caters by the Guild, a course of Double Norwich Court Bob Major, and 97 Grandsire Triples were rung double-handed.

THE NORWICH DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

A Quarterly General Meeting was held at Beccles on Tuesday, April 28th, which was attended by about twenty-five members, the following towers being represented: Norwich (St. Peter Mancroft), Eye, Leiston, Kelsale, Halesworth, and Somerleyton. Owing to the late arrival of most of the visitors not much ringing could be done before dinner, which was served at 1.30 at the "King's Head" Hotel, the President, Dr. Raven, being in the chair, supported by the Rector of Beccles, the deputy-Mayor, Mr. Churchwarden Parker, and the Hon. Secretary, the Rev. H. Earle Bulwer. The latter, in replying to the toast of "The Association," drew attention to the small attendance at recent quarterly meetings, and suggested the desirability of substituting for them district practice meetings, retaining one annual meeting for the whole Association. He also announced the intention of the Committee to adopt a definite scheme for the instruction of young companies; and gave a short report of the proceedings of the Central Council. After thanking the Rector of Beccles for the use of the bells, the company separated, and the majority returned to the tower and handbells for the remainder of the afternoon.

WORCESTERSHIRE AND DISTRICTS ASSOCIATION.

WORCESTER BRANCH.—On Saturday, April 25th, eight members of this Branch met at St. Helen's Church for the purpose of ringing Holt's original peal of Grandsire Triples, to commemorate the fixing of a tablet for a peal on handbells rang in the above tower, being the first peal on handbells ever rang in the city or county of Worcester by members of the Association. A start for the peal was made at 5.30, and everything went on well for 2½ hrs., when unfortunately, with two tenor men, the conductor had to call stand, owing to the tenor bell going so badly. The ringers were stationed as follows:—H. Knowles, 1; G. Hinton, 2; W. Powell, 3; Lionel Longney, 4; W. Bradford, 5; E. Davis, 6; W. Page, 7; T. Malin and W. Young, 8. Conducted by L. Longney.

THE LANCASHIRE ASSOCIATION.

LIVERPOOL BRANCH.—The usual monthly ringing meeting was held on Saturday, May 2nd, at the Parish Church, Woolton. Ringers attended from Liverpool, Garston, Grassendale, Halewood, and Southport. The Rector presided, and after the passing of the minutes of last meeting, he addressed the meeting, giving all present a hearty reception to his church; and the meeting, he hoped, would not be the last held there. He wished to become a life member of the Association, if they would accept him, for he felt sure it was doing a good work amongst ringers, as church workers. He was duly elected, also one ringing member. A vote of thanks was proposed and carried with applause to the Rector, for use of bells, Parochial Hall, and for providing an excellent tea for all present. The Rector briefly responded, thanking them, and hoped the next meeting held there would be more numerous, and he would see to them having another excellent tea. The next meeting was fixed for Huyton and Prescott combined. Methods rung during the evening: Grandsire Triples and Bob Major.

ROCHDALE BRANCH.—A meeting of the above was held at All Saints' Church, Rochdale, on Saturday, May 2nd. Touches of Grandsire and Bob Minor were rung during the afternoon. The Vicar presided over the meeting, and hoped they would again pay them a visit. A letter was read from the Rector of Middleton, informing the members that their augmented peal from 6 to 8 would be opened on May 16th. Service at 2.30 p.m. with sermon by the late president, the Rev. C. Lowe. A tea will be provided for all who send in not later than Wednesday, May 13th, at a reasonable charge; names to be sent to the Rev. William D. Heelas, M.A., Middleton. The bells are to be opened by eight members of the Association, after which the bells will be open for mixed bands. Tea on table in schoolroom at 5 p.m.; meeting after tea. After hearing the letter read, it was unanimously agreed to hold the next meeting at Middleton Parish Church on May 16th. All are welcome to come. The meeting closed with a vote of thanks to the Vicar for his kind address, and presiding.

THE CHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD.

The eleventh Quarterly Meeting was held at Gawsworth, on Saturday, the 9th of May. About 4 o'clock members began to assemble, and the Poynton ringers rang a 720 of Plain Bob Minor in good style. At 5 o'clock all adjourned to the Schoolroom to partake of the usual tea. The business meeting was afterwards held in the same room, Mr. Chas. Postles being voted to the chair, in the absence of the Rector through ill health.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed, and Poynton was selected for the next place of meeting on October 10th, 1891. Poynton, Gawsworth, Bollington, and Macclesfield were the places represented, altogether 22. A vote of condolence was passed to the Rector, also thanking him for the use of the bells. After the meeting ringing was again resumed on the tower bells, and a 720 of Grandsire Minor was rung by, Andrew Lomas, 1; Alfred Lawton, 2; William Walmsley, 3; Charles Postles, 4; John Hammond, 5; Waller Henshall (conductor), 6. Some Grandsire Doubles were also rung, and a very pleasant meeting was terminated about half-past eight.

WORKINGTON, CUMBERLAND.

On Saturday evening, during dumb practice, one of the parish Church bells jumped out of its place, and fell to the floor with a loud crash. The wheel and other fittings were smashed. The peal consists of six bells, tenor about 15 cwt., by Pack and Chapman, hung in 1775, and as very little has been done to them they are in bad condition.

THE WATERLOO SOCIETY, LONDON.

On Wednesday, May 6th, 1891, at the weekly meeting of the Society, it was unanimously resolved to adhere to a previous resolution of this Society to the following effect, viz.:—"That peals rung upon 7, 9, or 11 bells, without a covering bell, shall not be recognised by this society."

WALTER PARTINGTON,
Hon. Sec.

THE LIVERPOOL DIOCESAN GUILD.

On Saturday, April 5th, the Second Annual Meeting of the Guild was held at Christ Church, Southport, when upwards of 80 members attended from the following places, viz., Aughton, Crosby, Crossens, Croston, Bootle, Halsall, Hindley, Sefton, Southport, Ormskirk, Upholland, and Wigan. Ringing commenced at 2 p.m., and various mixed companies rang several touches until 4 p.m., when service was held in the church and was well attended by the ringers. The Venerable Archdeacon Clarke and the Rev. C. M. Clarke assisted in the service, the lessons being read by Mr. Clarke Aspinall, and an excellent discourse was delivered by the Rev. T. J. Madden (Vicar of St. Luke's, Liverpool), from the third chapter of Philipians, 12th and 13th verses, and was listened to with rapt attention. After the conclusion of the service a move was made to the schoolroom, where an excellent meat tea was provided, course after course coming up in capital order. After doing justice to the good things provided, the business meeting was held, the Rev. C. M. Clarke presiding, being supported by the Revs. T. J. Madden, W. T. Bulpit, F. O. Bridgman, G. W. Wall, T. Masters. Laity—Messrs. Sweeting, W. L. Hutton, J. Martin, Captain Green, and Clarke Aspinall (Recorder of Liverpool). The minutes of the last meeting having been read and passed, the Chairman called upon Mr. Clarke Aspinall to address the ringers. Mr. Clarke Aspinall having humorously referred to his clerical associations, which were pretty considerable, said that if he had never been in a church belfry it would not be for want of opportunity. He thought a belfry should be a most attractive and well-ordered spot; attractive because he considered the ringing of the bells most important and interesting and well-ordered, because no man of course ever entered upon church work unless he was a well-ordered man to begin with. He had often wondered, and he had been a churchwarden about 35 years, why they did not arrange to have more ringers than bells, because the latter never asked off, though at the same time he thought it perfectly reasonable that the ringers should ask off occasionally. He did not believe in putting a yoke upon any man that he could not wear without chafing under it. If he were a rector he should like to be able to say to his ringers, "Look here, it is rather a tie to be here every time; can't you have an extra man or two, so that when any want to go off for a reasonable cause it can be managed without the slightest inconvenience to a living soul." He did not think it was good for choir members or churchwardens, or for bell-ringers, to be so tied and bound with iron rigidity of the duties of their office as to engender a dislike to the office because of its lack of reasonable freedom. He particularly emphasised the importance of ringers carrying out their duties with the strictest punctuality, and the necessity of the ringers being recognised more by members of the congregation who were in higher social positions, and pointed out in conclusion, that, as bell-ringers were engaged in the work of the House of God, so should they be godly men.

The Rev. T. J. Madden said he thought the ringers wanted more sympathy from the clergy than they as a rule obtained, but he felt there was a difficulty of a freer intercourse between the two. The one was up in the belfry, the other was down in the church. He himself had often, with every desire to have real hearty fellowship with his bell-ringers, found it very hard, and the only way he had so far discovered of getting hold of them was to ask them occasionally to tea. He however reminded them that the sympathy was not to be all on one side. They were not merely to look for sympathy from the clergy; they were to give him theirs. He wanted the ringers to feel that they were part of the Church establishment, and until they did so there could be no unity amongst the different sections of the Church. He thought the Guild was doing a good work in this direction, and for this, if for no other reason, he wished it great success. The committee's report, which was taken as read, stated that their numbers had greatly exceeded their expectations, as there were now 122 members connected with the Guild, as follows:—3 honorary life members, 19 honorary members, and 100 performing members, and there had been rung during the past 12 months 47 peals of 720 changes, 9 date touches, and 7 peals of 5040 changes. The general statement of accounts, which was also adopted, showed an income of £11 18s. 6d.; expenditure, £4 os. 7½d.; leaving a balance of £7 17s. 10½d. Mr. J. Martin then gave a short account of the work done in connexion with the Benevolent Fund, which had during the past year amounted to £3 os. 8d.

The Rev. W. T. Bulpit followed with a few words of congratulation in regard to the progress which the Guild had made in the 12 months, and of encouragement and exhortation as to the future.

The whole of the officials of the Guild were unanimously elected. Three honorary and 7 performing members were proposed and carried. The Rev. Donald Jones (late of Aughton), was elected a member of the Guild amidst loud acclamations. Several items of interest were afterwards discussed, and a vote of condolence to the widow and family of the late Joseph Prescott, of Hindley, whose death came as a painful surprise. A hearty vote of thanks to Mr. Clarke Aspinall, and the Rev. T. J. Madden, for their excellent addresses, and to the Venerable Archdeacon Clarke, for the use of the bells and schoolroom, to the officers, for their services during the past year, and to the Rev. C. M. Clarke, for presiding, brought a very successful and pleasant meeting to a close.

CLAPTON PARK, MIDDLESEX.

On Friday evening, May 8th, a 720 of Grandsire Minor was rung on the bells at the church of St. Paul in 23 mins. J. C. Davidson, 1; J. Pettit, 2; W. D. Smith, 3; E. T. Edridge, 4; G. J. Smith, 5; W. Burkin (conductor), 6. This is the first on the bells, which are a recasting from a peal which used to hang in the tower of All Hallows Staining, Lower Thames-street, E.C. The inscriptions on the bells are as follows:—

Treble.—"Cast 1683 recast 1890."

Second.—"Cast 1683 recast 1890."

Third.—"Cast 1890."

Fourth.—"Cast 1682 recast 1890."

Fifth.—"Cast 1607 recast 1890."

Tenor.—"These bells, originally in the church of All Hallows, Staining, were recast in 1890, and hung here by the Grocers Company. Mears and Stainbank, Whitechapel Foundry, London."

Repeating the calling from the 1st to the 49th course completes the peal.

This peal has sixth 24 times in 5-6, both in the Tittums and the handstroke positions; also the fifth 15 times behind the ninth.

THE UNEMPLOYED IN EAST LONDON.—At a time when much thought is being given to this matter, a practical suggestion may be of service. Last year more than £300,000 worth of foreign matches were purchased by inconsiderate consumers in this country, to the great injury of our own working people, so true is it that "evil is wrought by want of thought, as well as want of heart." If all consumers would purchase Bryant and May's matches, that firm would be enabled to pay £1000 a week more in wages.

A CONSISTENT FUNERAL CEREMONY.

The Bristol Times and Mirror of the 5th instant publishes an account of the burial of an old church official in Frampton Cotterell on the previous Saturday. "The rector, churchwardens, all the lay-clerks and choristers, and ringers, attended officially, to show respect to the memory of an honest and true son of the Church, known as 'Old John Tovey,' who had died early on the preceding Sunday morning, and had been publicly remembered at the altar on that day. He died at the patriarchal age of eighty-six, from bronchitis, caught in the recent bitterly cold weather, having been a parishioner of Frampton Cotterell during a good part of this century, organ-blower at the parish church for many years, and a ringer in the tower since his youth or early manhood. His last attendance at the church was on Easter-Day, when he was at his post as usual, and when, having expressed a desire to have a pull at the bells once more on 'the queen of feasts,' the other ringers tried to help him up the tower stairs, but the old man was no longer able to ascend the ninety-nine steps. He received his Easter Communion at 8.0 a.m. on that day, and had always been remarkable for sober conversation and an irreproachable Christian character. He had never learned to read or write." The procession, which preceded the corpse into the church, consisted of a cross-bearer, the thurifer and attendant, the choir-boys, six of whom carried each one lighted candle, the lay-clerks, the verger carrying the maces, and last the rector. The service was choral, and the grave was censed. The rector (Rev. Dr. Belcher) gave a short address, and said that the service in which they had been engaged was the best of the kind which their country parish church could supply; and that it was given not in accordance with the present ignorant fashion of having "special memorial services," for rich or great men only, but because John Tovey had served the church well, had lived and died in her communion, and was one of the church staff of his parish. His post was a humble but very useful one; yet he did his duty in it to the very last; and as the Catholic Church of England was "one communion and fellowship," her members desired to show forth so great a truth in an unmistakable manner towards one of whom the world took no note.

BRADFORD-ON-AVON, WILTS.

These bells, the heaviest ring of eight in the county, were opened on Saturday, May 9th, after being thoroughly re-hung by Messrs. Blackburn and Greenleaf. Arrangements were made to attempt a peal of Stedman Triples, and the Rev. F. E. Robinson, the Rev. G. F. Coleridge, and Mr. Washbrook having kindly consented to take part, a well-struck peal was rung in 3 hours and 15 minutes. The ringers were kindly provided with a good and substantial repast by the Rector, the Rev. S. G. Collisson, and the Rev. W. Noel, who evinced great interest in the ringing. Messrs. Blackburn and Greenleaf and their assistants are to be congratulated for the excellent way in which the work has been carried out. It is a pattern of what bell-hanging should be, and the greatest praise is due to them. So far as the history of change-ringing in the county is concerned, this tower is of interest. David Taylor, who came from Oldham in Lancashire, taught a local band, and in 1799 they rung Holt's 10-part peal of Grandsire Triples, the third peal rung in the county at that time. He also taught a company at Trowbridge, who rung the same peal later on, and where change-ringing is still practised. The peal of Stedman referred to above is the first in the method on the bells and the 300th peal conducted by Mr. Washbrook. In the afternoon the company proceeded to Trowbridge with Mr. McCaffrey, who had the bells up and everything ready, and rung another peal of Stedman Triples, conducted by the Rev. F. E. Robinson.

Correspondence.

While allowing the utmost freedom for the expression of opinion, it must never be considered that we are in any way bound to statements made by correspondents.

To the Editor of "THE BELL NEWS AND RINGERS' RECORD."

THE ESSEX ASSOCIATION ANNUAL MEETING.

SIR,—Allow me to state that the tower of Widford church will probably not be available for members attending our annual meeting, owing to a case of serious illness near the church. The tower of St. Mary's, Chelmsford, will be free this year for a peal on Monday evening. May I take this opportunity of expressing a hope that all members who are in the tower by 11.0 a.m. will attend the service at St. Mary's?

T. L. PAPILLON,
Hon. Sec. E.A.C.R.

WHERE BELLS SHALL BE.

SIR,—In your issue of the 2nd instant your leader says very justly that "a peal of bells indicates more than anything else that the temple to which they belong is a church, and not a conventicle." I am afraid that this will not be so for much longer, for dissenting chapels of all descriptions, including Romanists, sport their bells, and soon we shall probably have merry peals ringing from little Bethels, and the people delighting to have it so. Now I am not one to persecute those who differ from me in religious matters, but I think it would be well for ringers to know that it is illegal for any conventicle-keeper to ring a bell. The privilege of calling men to prayer belongs to the Established Church, and if all ringers were to protest against the intrusion on their rights and privileges in this respect they would be doing a great deal towards maintaining, not merely the respect for, but also a due knowledge of the true position of the Catholic Church in England "as by law established."

ASSISTANT-CURATE.

NOISY BELFRY.

SIR,—In the course of the recent restoration of our church the old belfry-floor has been swept away to throw open the tower arch, and the bells are now rung from a higher position. The five bells have been thoroughly overhauled, and rehung in a new oak frame, which rests upon iron girders, the interval between the girders being filled up with about 1½ in. tongued boards, and nothing more protects the sound from the ears of the ringers. You can at once form an idea of the dreadfully deafening noise when the bells are in motion. Will some one be kind enough to tell me of anything that could be done to prevent even a little of the noise? There is a space of 7 in. between the boards mentioned above and the underside of the bellframe, i.e., between the girders. No fault is attached to the bell-hanger.

Hertingfordbury, 9th May, 1891.

JASPER G. CRAWLEY.

A LONG LETTER.

SIR,—I beg the space in your paper to give my views touching the recent correspondence on "Access to Belfries," and "Clergymen in the Belfry," etc. I consider it is only the just due of the steeplekeeper that he should have the power of refusal of admittance to the belfry. The vestry appoints him, places the bells under his charge, and any person or persons wishing the use of the bells should apply to him. The steeplekeeper very often knows more of the personal characters, and local usages, etc., than the clergyman, and also of any ringing arrangements already made. If the steeplekeeper is not a judicious and proper person to have control, by all means dismiss him, and have one who is. I do not think a courteous application to the majority of steeplekeepers would meet with refusal without sufficient cause. The applying to the clergyman direct is a quiet way of ignoring the steeplekeeper, and a clergyman, if he has a steeplekeeper whom he trusts, should refer all applications for the bells to him. A clergyman's time is dedicated to God and the saving of souls, and he is hardly doing his utmost to fulfil that if he spends much time in belfries and the study of change-ringing. This thought I have had when reading of clergymen travelling the country, peal-ringing. One naturally concludes, that if a clergyman holds a living, he ought to give his time to the parish work. Some persons consider that, because they are ringers, or members of an association, if they know of a ringing meeting in their locality, that they have a right to go and ring. Such opinion is erroneous. Fancy an organist, because he can play an organ, or belongs to an organists' association, claiming to practise on any church organ. Or, fancy a clergyman, because he belongs to a clergymen's association, claiming to preach the sermon in any church he choose. The growth of these democratic opinions are perhaps due to the modern associations of ringers, and I should like to see them corrected, as well as voluntary ringing for service, etc. The basis of "the love you have for the work" is not sound, and until all church dignitaries give their services I do not see that ringers should. As to the formation of associations, if we are to be genuine and have real reformation, let us be more careful in our election of members, and not have any one who will pay 1s. or so a year. Let us insist on good character, and on being churchmen, and consistent ones. Those who never go to church, except to ring the bells, are a disgrace to us as ringers, and should have no membership in our associations; never mind if we had to reduce ourselves to one-tenth our number, only let us be genuine. I place the Christian character of men before their abilities as change-ringers; and if we desire our office as ringers to take its proper rank as church work, only on such lines can it be done. I hope my plain speaking will have some good effect,

CHANGE-RINGING CHURCHMAN.

NOTES BY THE WAY.

"'Twill do you no harm to think about it."

I hope Mr. Papillon's letter of last week will receive more than a cursory glance over, and particularly by the clergy. Although in "laying down the law" he has stated nothing but what is well-known to many of us, yet undoubtedly a considerable amount of misapprehension (if I may term it such) exists regarding the rights—legal and otherwise—of those in charge of our churches and their towers. Mr. Papillon is very severe on "subordinates" who injudiciously create difficulties in the exercise of their temporary authority. And the good Vicar of Writtle, to my mind, is quite right there. At the same time, I fully agree with him that if the clergy would "retain in their own hands the power which the law gives them, instead of leaving it to injudicious subordinates, the difficulties which sometimes arise would disappear." To the neglect of this salutary (even necessary) precautionary measure on the part of our clergy we have undoubtedly to lay the blame of much unpleasantness which has arisen. But then, this is a practical matter, and thus should be dealt with accordingly. Our parsons, from a strictly legal point of view, are undoubtedly invested with absolute power in many things conducted with the Church—the use of the bells coming completely under this category. Therefore, no misconception should arise as to access to belfries, and use of bells, when the definite and absolute master of the situation (excuse the term) is plainly "by law established." Theoretically, that is all very well; but as I just observed, this is a question of practical character—one, indeed, where a slight variation of the well-known saying—"an ounce of practice is worth a ton of theory," is peculiarly applicable.

We are all of us conscious (to our sorrow, be it said) that the great bulk of our clergy know absolutely nothing of the interior economy of a belfry. They have no acquaintance with even the belfry itself; nor do they recognise by sight the very men who week by week ring their bells. All that concerns them is that the wonted sound of the bells is heard prior to the services each Sunday, for which the churchwardens pay a small sum of money quarterly or half-yearly, by way of acknowledgment to those who pull the ropes. This is about the "sum and substance" of that so numerous class of parson's knowledge of bells and bell-ringing matters. How, then, can he be properly fitted to exercise that "absolute control" over his ringers and bells, with which the law invests him? Thus we so often find them washing their hands of the whole thing and delegating their powers and authority to some subordinate, who, if he be of the right sort, will make things move pleasantly; but if not—then these troubles ensue!

Take a case in point. Two neighbouring bands had a squabble with each other, the result of which was that the friendship of a generation or two was severed, many unfriendly epithets thrown at one another, and "no thoroughfare" written on each belfry door, so far as their late friends in the next parish were concerned. One of these bands was a little in advance of the others, as they could perform half-pull ringing, while call-changes were the extent of their neighbours' attempts; consequently band number one had been a bit prone to "lording it" over them, which "went down" badly, I can assure you, if it was not really at the bottom of their quarrel. So for a time they kept resolutely out of each other's way, and (and as is usual in such cases) entertained each other with biting remarks and sarcastic allusions regarding the occupants of the other tower. Then a member of band number one was suddenly seized with a brilliant idea; which he immediately imparted to his colleagues. It was to the effect that they should, by some means or other, gain possession of the other's tower and "take the shine out of them" with a 720 of Grandsire Minor. The motion took immensely; but how were they to get into the tower unknown to the legitimate occupants? Eventually it was decided to write to the rector for permission, which they did the following week. Now, technically, that was the proper thing to do; and you might think they were acting commendably thus. But wait for the sequel. The Rector was one with more than adequate ideas of his position and power as ecclesiastical head of the parish. No blame to him for that, of course. So with the bells: he had no subordinate—judicious or otherwise—to act as his locum tenens in this direction—not him! He deputed not one jot of his authority to anybody; and thus if ever the ringers felt inclined to have a pull on any other occasion than the regulations two half-hours on Sunday, and the week-nights' hour or so once a fortnight, dire would have been the consequences had they dared to do it without first asking his permission. This (to his credit be it said) he certainly never refused; but beyond this occasional saying "yes" to some such request, he knew nothing whatever about the ringers or their business; nor did he trouble himself. Thus when the letter came asking permission for the neighbouring band to have a ring, he replied at once affirmatively—in fact, he was a little bit flattered at the fact of being asked in this matter, if only the truth were spoken—and then he troubled himself no more about it.

The next Saturday afternoon came band number one across the fields, in high glee at the prospect of taking down their whilom friends. Reaching the village, they merrily strolled off in different directions, meeting shortly afterwards by the rectory, when two of them, armed with the letter, opened the gate and went to the door for the keys. These were got without any trouble; and (to shorten my yarn) soon the bells had been raised and were tumbling about to the tune of Grandsire Minor. The local band were completely flabbergasted. After rushing about to each other making enquiries which none of them were able to answer, they went up the hillside to the church only to find every door locked and barred; and from thence to the rectory, to be told that the ringers of ——— were in the tower, by special permission of the rector. When the said rector arrived home shortly after, all unconscious of the trouble he had created, the village ringers were waiting for him at the gate. And it would not be difficult to imagine the sort of interview which ensued. The indignation of the ringers, as shewn by their language (more forcible than polite), at first took the rector aback, so unusual was such an ebullition of feeling; then in turn he "got his back up" (once more excuse the slang) at the very idea of his actions being questioned—and that too by a common set of bell-ringers! So next morning, the wonted sound of the bells was conspicuous by its absence. Vulgarly speaking, the ringers thereof "struck"; and "struck" has been the order of the day ever since; unless, indeed, they have resumed within the last week or two.

This you will readily see, was the result of one parson acting strictly upon his legal authority, and with no subordinate—judicious or otherwise—coming between. I am strongly tempted to narrate another instance of a somewhat similar nature; but the consciousness of getting beyond my usual limits compels me to refrain. So I will content myself for the present with adding that much as I agree with Mr. Papillon in the matter of these subordinates, yet if he would deal in a similar manner with those clergy who injudiciously delegate their powers and prerogatives to such subordinates, or who—like the rector I have previously referred to—do personally exercise their legal rights, but without that knowledge of parish affairs which is imperatively necessary; then shall I again be in the happy position of fully agreeing with our esteemed friend the vicar of Writtle.

Before I bring my touch to a close, I would just add my compliments (congratulations also) to those of his brother-strings who on Thursday, April 30th, after pulling off a 5003 of Grandsire Caters in honour of the event, wished our friend John Carter many happy returns. In fact, I am very pleased to know that friend John has a birthday annually. It is so long since I heard anything about him having one at all, that I was near imagining that he was one of those peculiar individuals who claim the 29th of February as the anniversary of their natal day, and thus only condescend to have a birthday once in four years. But, joking apart, I was glad to read the report of the peal at West Bromwich. I wonder if ever I shall read of his some future birthday having been honoured in like manner in the good city of Brum, by a band both representative and thoroughly amalgamated. What say you to that, John?

The word "amalgamated" leads me to think of that society in Birmingham which has or had it prefixed to its title. I say "had" because I hear the society is either extinct or almost become so. This is a pity I think. Among the operations of the "Birmingham Amalgamated" long ago there were some very creditable performances achieved, and it is painful to hear of a body which gave out such hopes suddenly collapsing. It is rumoured, I am told, that our friend whom I have just named (who, it will not be doubted was its leading member), has sent in his resignation, and this owing to causes which could have very well been prevented. I hope the members will rally together under the circumstances. No society can go on prosperously and comfortably unless all are determined to try and keep together. Such things as continued absence from stated practice and repeated failure to attend for a peal after faithfully promising to do so, will soon disgust any who have the least respect for themselves, especially those who take the principal part in a performance. Brethren of the "Amalgamated," be up and doing. Shake off your sloth, and second the heroic efforts of your leader in the causes of progress. You certainly will not let your Association die without a struggle! Prevent by friendly persuasion the loss of your conductor and give more energy in future to the society's concerns. Above all things keep the practices going, and fulfil your engagements to the letter when you are booked for a peal—punctual to time, and with sober determination to obtain the peal, bar accidents.

In the words of the Stepney poet—Mr. James Dwight—"I think I've spun out pretty well, and have but little to relate," at all events for this week. This is one more matter however to which I may allude, and that is about the next Whit-Monday meetings. Let there be no complaint, my brethren, about non-attendance at services which are especially provided for your benefit. We have enemies all around us, waiting to pick holes in our conduct and proceedings. We can very easily stop the reproach that ringers are a non-church-going people. I need say no more.

SOCIETY OF COPLEY SCHOLARS.

The annual meeting of this Society was held in the belfry of the Parish Church, Bradford, on Friday evening, May 8th, Mr. B. T. Copley presiding. The Secretary (Mr. Joe Hardcastle) read his annual report, in which, among other matters it was stated that forty-nine practice-meetings had been held during the year; six peals had been rung by members solely, while two others had been rung with friends of neighbouring towns. Two special Saturday afternoon ringing meetings had also been held—one for Triples and Major at Bolton, and one for Minor at Saltaire. At both these meetings Messrs. J. H. Hardcastle and J. Angus officiated as censors, the result of them both being both successful and satisfactory. Three "socials" had likewise been held, all of which were in the highest degree successful; and the cash account showed a balance in hand. The retiring officers were re-elected, viz., Mr. B. T. Copley, captain; Mr. J. Cotterell, vice-captain; Mr. Joe Hardcastle, hon. sec.; and Mr. George Titterington, hon. treasurer. Representatives for the various towers were appointed, and arrangements made for future practice and other meetings.

THE MIDLAND COUNTIES' ASSOCIATION.

NOTTINGHAM DISTRICT.—On Saturday, May 9th, a monthly meeting of the above Association was held at the parish church, Sandiacre. Members and friends were present from Nottingham, Beeston, Lenton, Long Eaton, Ilkeston, Wollaston, Stanton-by-Dale, and the local company. Touches of Bob Minor and Kent Treble Bob Minor were rung, also several 6-scores of Grandsire and Stedman Doubles. Radcliffe-on-Trent, Notts., was the place decided on for the next meeting on Saturday, June 6th.

BUSHLEY, WORCESTERSHIRE.

The anniversary of the opening of a new treble bell took place on Wednesday evening, April 22nd. A goodly number of ringers and friends were present, including Mr. W. Vaughan, churchwarden, and Mr. J. Creese, the retired churchwarden. A great number of 6-scores were rung in various methods, including Stedman Extremes and Plain Bob Minor. Great credit is due to the local ringers for the way they have progressed in the art of ringing; and the ringers desire to tender their best thanks to the above-named gentlemen for their kindness towards them.

The Bell News & Ringers' Record.

SATURDAY, MAY 16, 1891

A question is now under discussion by various correspondents relating to the admission, or otherwise, of ringers into belfries, the principal feature being what individual or individuals should have the power to control such admission. It is a subject which at various periods in the annals of ringing has created matter for contention of a nature the reverse of cordial. But this need not be wondered at. Any attempt to undermine power and authority is sure to meet with strong opposition from those whose power is in jeopardy from such attempts. We see this every day almost. Perhaps it is human nature. We have been told something to the effect that persons who are dressed with a temporary authority frequently "play such fantastic tricks" sufficient to make even angels weep. But the perpetrators of these antics cannot be made, by any process of reasoning, to believe so. They are generally of quite the contrary opinion. Their "little brief authority" and the exercise of it after their own fashion is, from their point of view, a public blessing, under which all who are concerned should not only rest contented and happy, but be grateful for the indulgences allowed them. Unfortunately we incline to the opinion that there are, among those possessing authority in belfries, many persons of this description.

The remedy suggested by the Rev. T. L. PAPILLON may be considered by many as too severe. It certainly seems a high-handed proceeding to seek permission to ring at a strange church direct from the incumbent, and thus to practically ignore the steeplekeeper. But we imagine such is not Mr. PAPILLON's advice in cases where that officer is a worthy and obliging person. It is only where fractious and envious opposition may be expected that a resort to the incumbent should be made. Unfortunately this is sometimes necessary, in fact instances occur more often than some of us imagine.

We cannot see the least possible reason why a man who is entrusted with the duty of keeping a belfry in order should be the sole authority there. It is absurd to talk about his knowledge of the character of ringers who may be anxious to ring. That is a matter for the incumbent alone. The authority possessed by the steeplekeeper does not always prevent him being a tyrant, nor does it destroy what predilections he may have for some ringers, or what antipathy he may have for others.

The Manchester Guardian understands that the Dean and Canons of Manchester, with the sanction of the Bishop (as Visitor), are taking steps for restoring the ceiling of the chancel of that cathedral. The present ceiling, which is said to have been erected by the first Warden of the collegiate church, John Huntingdon, B.D. (A.D. 1422-58), is reported by the cathedral architect (Mr. J. S. Crowther) to be in an unsound condition.

Her Majesty's Surgeon-Dentist says:—

My DEAR DOCTOR,—Allow me to express my thanks for the skill and attention displayed in the construction of my Artificial Teeth, which render my mastication and articulation excellent. I am glad to hear that you have obtained Her Majesty's Royal Letters Patent to protect what I consider the perfection of Painless Dentistry. In recognition of your valuable services you are at liberty to use my name.

S. G. HUTCHINS. By appointment Surgeon-Dentist to Her Majesty the Queen.

To GEO. H. JONES, Esq., D.D.S.

SCIENTIFIC DEPARTMENT.—LABORATORY OF EXPERIMENTAL SCIENCE.

This is to certify:—That I have analysed the Prize Medal Teeth submitted to me, and find them to be composed only of minerals of extreme purity. I have also examined and tested your patented painless system of adjustment, it is quite perfect, and is the most successful application of scientific laws for securing actual wear and comfort yet introduced. Both physically and anatomically, they are a beautiful resemblance to the natural teeth.

THE REV. CHARLES D. P. DAVIES., M.A., F.R.A.S.

[Vide Portrait.]

THE REVEREND CHARLES DOUGLAS PERCY DAVIES was born at Tewkesbury, on September 12, 1856, and is the eldest son of the late Rev. Canon Davies, for thirty-one years Vicar of Tewkesbury. At about eleven years of age he commenced learning to ring a single bell, and great was his pride when at thirteen years old he could pull the Tewkesbury tenor (23 cwt.) He was then at school at Cheltenham College, to which he had been sent in 1866. This was his only school, and here he remained for ten years. Living in Cheltenham with a relative, and not at one of the boarding-houses, he could get away on practice-nights to St. Mary's tower, and here he would sit by the hour puzzling over the mysteries of the word "method," and waiting for his chance of five or six rounds at the conclusion of the practice. Gradually he slid into ringing tenor behind, and the year or two which he spent in this work gave him complete command of his bell, and trained his ear to a keen perception of good striking, a particular in which the Cheltenham band could not then be surpassed. In the meanwhile, that is to say, about 1874, he and his friend Mr. Wathen, of Tewkesbury, determined to endeavour to plant scientific change-ringing in their grand Norman tower. By dint of bicycling from Cheltenham regularly once and sometimes twice a week, and returning early the next morning, he practised diligently with the Tewkesbury band, all learning together, and ringing 6-scores for a year or two. In February, 1876, he went to Oxford for a week, to compete for a scholarship at Pembroke College. In this he was successful, gaining the first open classical scholarship. But this was not the only fruit of his visit, as it was then that he scored his first long touch (a date touch) of Grandsire Triples, which was rung by the City Society on the bells of Magdalen College, conducted by the late Mr. J. Field. A week or two later Mr. Davies himself called the same touch at Tewkesbury, this forming the greatest length as yet attained by the band there. On going into residence at Oxford, in October, 1876, he at once joined, as was most natural, the University Society of change-ringers, of which a year or so later he became Secretary, and in 1878 he succeeded to the office of Master, which he held till he took his degree in 1880. During his tenure of office Seage's apparatus was affixed to the light eight of the ten at New College; and before he left he succeeded in calling the first true peal (Holt's ten-part) in which the seven working bells were all taken by members of the University of Oxford. After the death of Canon Davies in April, 1887, Mrs. Davies with her family resided for two years in Cheltenham, and in this period, during one of his vacations from Oxford, the subject of this sketch and his friend Mr. G. H. Phillott became co-founders of the Gloucester and Bristol Association, which has done a great work in the Diocese, and is still in a flourishing condition. In 1879 Mrs. Davies removed to town, and on leaving Oxford Mr. DAVIES resided with his mother in London for six months, spending the time in reading for Holy Orders. It was during this period that he became acquainted with the leading ringers and towers in the metropolis, as he was a regular attendant at the meetings both of the College Youths and of the St. James' Society. Admitted to Holy Orders in Advent, 1880, he proceeded at once to the curacy of Whitchurch Salop, which he held for two years. Here he contributed to the foundation of the Society of change-ringers which does good work there to the present time. On leaving Whitchurch at Christmas, 1882, he went to the charge of the parish of Chaceley, near Tewkesbury, where, besides ringing on the pretty six in his own village, he occasionally rang both at Tewkesbury and Cheltenham. On Christmas Day, 1884, the Vicar of Chaceley died, but Mr. DAVIES continued in charge of the parish until after Easter, 1885, when he accepted the curacy of the neighbouring parish of Redmarley d'Abitot. Here the bells were a poor peal and in very bad going order, in consequence of which but little could be done. From May, 1887, when he left Redmarley till February 1888, when he went into his present cure at Ringmer, Sussex, his time was chiefly taken up with private business, occasioned by his mother's death. At Ringmer he found an excellent ring of eight, and a band of beginners which under the tuition of Mr. G. C. Hammond, of the Cumberland Society, gave promise of great proficiency. But the removal of Mr. Hammond and one or two of the best hands and other causes have prevented the realization of these hopes, and at the present moment the only peal achieved by the local company is one of Grandsire Triples.

Unfortunately Mr. DAVIES has kept no record of his peals, and cannot even guess their number. They include peals of Grandsire and Stedman Triples and Caters, Plain Bob Major, Treble Bob (Kent) Major and Royal, Double Norwich, Double Oxford, and Superlative Major. Of notable peals in which he has taken part three at least may be mentioned, viz., one of Stedman Triples rung at Drayton, Berks, by a party composed wholly of clergymen; Holt's Original rung in complete silence by a band of College Youths at St. Giles'-in-the-Fields, in which Mr. DAVIES rang the second; and the long peal of 13,054 Stedman Caters at Cheltenham in which he stood seventh. On one occasion during one of his visits to Canon Wigram at Hertford he rang three peals in one and the same day. It is worthy of remark that it was not until he had rung three or four peals both of Double Norwich and Superlative that he ever rang a plain course or touch in either of those methods. Mr. DAVIES has never to this day rung a peal on twelve bells, though once at St. Martin's, Birmingham, he rang into the coming-home course of a peal of Stedman Cinques.

In the way of ringing literature Mr. DAVIES' name has been more or less before the Exercise for some years.

Passing over occasional correspondence in Church Bells and "BELL NEWS," the following articles may be mentioned:—a series of contributions to the opening numbers of "BELL NEWS," "On a ring of bells in perfect tune." This series pointed out and gave the arithmetical proof of the ratio of the different notes in an octave to one another in the perfect scale of nature as contrasted with the imperfect scale of "equal temperament," which instruments with fixed notes are compelled to adopt; and further pointed out the absence of any necessity in the case of a ring of bells for the employment of any other than the true and perfect scale. In the summer of 1883 Mr. DAVIES, wearied with the constant publication of peals on the three-lead course (or Bob and Single) plan, contributed an article to the "BELL NEWS," in which he not only laid bare the foundations on which these peals rest but gave a scheme of all their possible variations, thus setting the question finally at rest. In 1886 he gave an account of the form of argument which he had pursued with a view to discovering the possibility or the reverse of obtaining the complete peal of Grandsire Triples without a single. Though his results did not cover so much ground as was covered by the publication shortly afterwards of Mr. Thompson's "Note on Grandsire Triples" it should not be forgotten that he was absolutely the first in the whole history of the science of change-ringing to lift the question out of the slough of tentative guess-work on to the terra firma of deductive reasoning, such as is now so ably employed by Mr. Heywood, Mr. Bulwer, Mr. Parker, and others. The two last of the foregoing articles are incorporated in the Grandsire volume of the late Mr. Snowdon's series. They are to be found in the Appendix, which is Mr. DAVIES' latest contribution of any importance to the science of ringing. It is hoped however that before very long the Exercise will be in possession of the volume on Stedman in the same series which he has volunteered to undertake.

About six years ago he was appointed to the Editorship of the column reserved to "Bells and Bell-Ringing" in our contemporary Church Bells, a post rendered vacant by the death of the late Rev. H. T. Ellacombe.

Mr. DAVIES is one of the representatives of the Sussex County Association in the Central Council, and has been chosen a member of the standing committee of that body.

THE SUSSEX RINGING WEEK—1891.

The first six days' peal ringing in the county of Sussex was brought off last week, when at the invitation of the Hon. Sec. of the Sussex County Association, the Rev. F. E. Robinson and Mr. J. W. Washbrook visited Brighton and took part in the ten attempts for peals. With the inauguration of the event the weather became springlike, and added greatly to the pleasure derived from the drives and walks to the country towers. The programme commenced on Monday evening, May 11th, with a 5024 of Double Norwich Court Bob Major at St. Peter's, the parish church of Brighton, on a ring by Warner and Sons, tenor 10½ cwt., and was completed in 3 hrs. 5 mins. Early on Tuesday morning the Brighton detachment took train to Crawley, where they were met by three local men; and the handy peal cast in 1880 by Gillett and Bland, with tenor 13½ cwt., at the church of St. John the Baptist, were soon ringing to the tune of Kent Treble Bob Major, the 5088 changes coming round in exactly 3 hrs. Returning to Brighton the afternoon was spent in a trial pleasure trip of the new steamer "Seabreeze," by kind invitation of one of the directors of the Brighton Pleasure Boat Company. Shortly after six o'clock "go" was called for a peal of Stedman Triples (a variation of Thurstans') at St. Paul's, Brighton, on bells by Mears and Stainbank, tenor 14 cwt.; the conductor calling "that's all" after ringing 2 hrs. 48 mins. On Wednesday morning six members of the Brighton parish church band, with the Rev. F. E. Robinson and Mr. J. W. Washbrook, started in a pair-horse brake for a fourteen miles' drive, the destination being Bolney, the centre of change-ringing in the county at the end of the last, and the beginning of the present century; the road, one of the direct routes to London, passing through the picturesque Southdowns and a part of the Weald of Sussex. On arrival the party was welcomed by the local secretary and by the last remaining member of the old Bolney band, a veteran who rung his last peal some forty-five summers ago.

The bells, one of the most musical peals in the county, dating from 1592 to 1740, with a 15 cwt. tenor in F sharp, were heard for the first time in Superlative Surprise Major, and after ringing 3 hrs. 1 min., the fourth peal, like its three predecessors, was an accomplished fact. Another drive of six miles brought the band to Hurstpierpoint, when the band were kindly entertained at tea in the rectory grounds by the Rev. C. H. Borrer. A peal of Superlative Surprise Major was attempted on these bells, which are from the foundries of Pack and Chapman, 1775, C. and G. Mears, 1846, and R. Stainbank, 1868; but after ringing twelve courses in 1 hr. 28 mins., it was found that a change-course had occurred, and thus the fifth peal was lost.

Thursday morning found the band (including four ringers from Steyning), journeying to the cathedral city of Chichester, where permission had been obtained for a peal of Stedman Triples on the bells, which are hung in an ancient campanile, tenor 21 cwt. The time occupied in completing the 5040 changes was 2 hrs. 57 mins., it being a variation of Thurstans' peal, and the first in the method on the bells. Thursday evening was occupied in ringing the first peal of Major on the Arundel bells (a ring cast by C. and G. Mears, with tenor 14½ cwt.), it being a 5040 of Double Norwich Court Bob Major, composed and conducted by J. W. Washbrook, and was completed in 2 hrs. 54 mins.

Friday morning an early start had to be made at Steyning, owing to a service. On this occasion five Steyning ringers took part, and a peal of Stedman Triples conducted by the Rev. F. E. Robinson was rung in 2 hrs. 46 mins. These bells also appear in Mears and Stainbank's list, the six back ones dating from 1724, and the trebles added in 1889. During Friday evening another attempt for 5088 Superlative Surprise Major at Heene, near Worthing, on a light ring by Warner and Sons, was accomplished in 2 hrs. 57 mins. Having rung eight peals out of nine, it was naturally hoped that a record might be established by securing the ninth peal on Saturday morning at Ringmer, which place was reached after a pleasant drive of twelve miles from Brighton. Stedman Triples was selected, but after ringing about 1000 changes the wheels of the treble, 2nd, and 3rd, bells became so much out of the truth, that after three or four attempts the peal had to be abandoned. The Rev. C. D. P. Davies and a local ringer took part, and the former gentleman afterwards entertained the band to luncheon. Thue ended the first ringing week in Sussex, but before separating, a hope was expressed that it might become an annual event.

The following is a summary of peals rung:—Superlative Surprise Major, 2; Double Norwich Court Bob Major, 2; Stedman Triples, 3; Kent Treble Bob Major, 1; Total, 8. Peals lost:—Superlative Surprise Major, 1; Stedman Triples, 1; Total, 2.

THE LONG PEAL ATTEMPT AT DEBENHAM, SUFFOLK.

On Whit-Monday, by the kind permission of the Vicar and Churchwardens, eight members of the Norwich Diocesan Association attempted to ring the late Mr. T. Day's long peal of Treble Bob Major, in the Oxford Variation, upon the bells of St. Mary's Church. "Go" was called by the conductor at 6 a.m. all going well for 7 hrs. 54 mins.—12,320 being rung, when unfortunately the conductor, who was suffering from an impediment in the throat, made a noise which the band thought intended to be a bob, which was made, and consequently the peal was lost. Mr. Motts at once called "stand." Sympathy was expressed on all sides at the loss of a good attempt, good wishes being expressed for success on a future occasion. James Motts (conductor), 1; W. Motts, 2; W. Crickmer, 3; W. P. Garrett, 4; A. R. Aldham, 5; D. Collins, 6; R. H. Brundle, 7; F. Tillet, 8. The ringers all desire to thank the Vicar and Churchwardens, and Mr. Grimes the steeplekeeper, for the use of the bells, and the local ringers, who kindly assisted in getting the bells ready, and hope when the new treble has found her place in this harmonious peal, she may give a good account in a future attempt.

THE OLDEST BELL IN AMERICA.—One of the most remarkable historic relics in Rhode Island is the bell on the Butterfly factory near the village of Saylesville. Around this bell about four inches from the crown is this superscription "Peter Secest, Amsterdam, Anno. 1263, M. E. Fecit." It is thus set forth that Peter Secest made this bell in Amsterdam in the year 1263. The figures carved on the bell, together with other well-authenticated facts, lead to the belief that this bell was long used on a convent in England, and was sequestered during the Reformation. It is also a part of its history that it was used in the English navy on the ship Guerriere, which was captured by the United States ship Constitution, August 19, 1212. The bell was subsequently sold by the United States authorities with a lot of captured stores, and thus came through the hands of the late Stephen H. Smith to its present place in the Butterfly factory.—Pawtucket Tribune.

THE UNEMPLOYED IN EAST LONDON.—At a time when much thought is being given to this matter, a practical suggestion may be of service. Last year more than £300,000 worth of foreign matches were purchased by inconsiderate consumers in this country, to the great injury of our own working people, so true is it that "evil is wrought by want of thought, as well as want of heart." If all consumers would purchase Bryant and May's matches, that firm would be enabled to pay £1000 a week more in wages.

AN ARCHDEACON'S CHARGE.

We have much pleasure in publishing the following remarks, by the Ven. the Archdeacon of Worcester (Canon Walters), which formed part of his charge delivered to the clergy, churchwardens, and sidesmen within his archdeaconry. The visitation took place at the church of St. Helen, Worcester. After dealing with one or two matters the Archdeacon said:—

"The Stewardship of the Sanctuary was the main subject of my last charge but it was not altogether exhausted by the points then mentioned. There are aspects of the subject which may at first sight seem beyond its strict limits, but not really so, for that which has been consecrated to religious uses cannot be outside the responsibilities of incumbents and churchwardens. I allude especially to our church towers. As you stand on any of our hills, you see 'the spacious plains besprent with steeples, towers, and spires, whose silent finger points to heaven,' crowning the watery glades of Severn and Avon and Teme and Stour. Remove these landmarks, deprive the landscape of these distinctive features, and great is the loss. Look at the Priory tower of Malvern against the green hills, or that of Little Malvern in its leafy quietude patiently awaiting the restorer's hand; look at the strong tower of Brilles, a very cathedral midst the undulating hills of Warwickshire; follow the course of Avon's flow through that county or down the Vale of Evesham, from St. Mary's, Warwick, to massive Tewkesbury, by Stratford's spire, and the towers of Evesham and Pershore; approach our cathedral city with all its clustered towers and graceful spires. What a feature they are throughout the land—standing in their own strength, rising from strong foundations to lighter summits and lifting the eye to heaven—not only ornaments to the landscape but emblems of the faith of our English Church. Yet we leave them unprotected by efficient lightning conductors, we neglect to insure them, or leave them to another generation to repair. Why were they built? Certainly to hold bells. The size of towers, which date back to the eleventh century or earlier, clearly shows that they were fitted to hold bells of considerable dimensions. From the days of Bede there were bells, and from the time of Dunstan bellfounders. It is true there are no dated bells in England before the thirteenth century, but bellfounders of far earlier date have left their mark in the shape of a bell or in the lettering of inscriptions. Not many mediæval bells are now known, for the suppression of the monasteries, the vagaries of Cromwell's soldiery, and the introduction of change-ringing, have tended to diminish their numbers. Poverty, too, has tempted some parishes to sell their bell, or some rich parishioner has given a new bell in the place of an old one, recast or cast away. It is the quiet country belfries you find the mediæval bells, where the change-ringer has no play for his art, and urban ambition has not exchanged an old-fashioned tenor or treble for a ring of many bells of modern make. Probably the oldest bell in the Archdeaconry is at Halford, near Shipston-on-Stour, founded in the thirteenth century, or the trebles at Besford and Hill Croome, whose unique tower is well nigh in ruins. There are other bells of ancient date, such as the sanctus bell at Fladbury, the tenor at Brilles (the largest old bell known), the bells of the Stratford-on-Avon Guild Chapel (with the initials of townspeople and with inscriptions concealed by an iron band), of Wichenford (to which belfry access is difficult), of South Littleton, Elmley Castle, Lighthouse, Haseley, Bearley, Warndon, and others. The bells of this church (St. Helen's, Worcester), 1715, with the record of Marlborough's victories, the curfew, the passing-bell, the gleaners' bell, and the Shrove Tuesday bell, all refer to the habits of our ancestors. These and suchlike bells have an historic interest, while marks and inscriptions on them bear testimony to church customs and changes of opinion. For instance the sanctus bell at Fladbury has an invocation to St. Katharine to pray for the Rector, who presented it probably about 1555, a late date for such an invocation, and this leads me to suggest, very earnestly, that whenever it is decided to recast an old bell, care should be taken that it be recast with its inscription, and all marks and stops in fac simile. For the sake of their historic interest, from an artistic and antiquarian point of view, I plead for the church towers and their bells. Both belfries and bell-chambers should be kept clean and in good repair. There are ringing-chambers in this archdeaconry such as those at St. Andrew's Netherton, and Cradley, which are models of cleanliness, with fittings and furniture, which bear testimony to the interest taken by ringers in their work. The stairs and the ladders by which access is obtained to the bells should be made surmountable, and the floors of the belfry and the frames on which the bells are hung need attention before they become dangerous. With the revival of Church life, that happily characterises this generation, the endeavour to do all things decently and in order has extended from the choir even to the belfry. Choral associations have improved church choirs. The choirman may occupy a more prominent place in God's house than the ringer, but the service of both is the service of the sanctuary. The one calls the people to worship, the other assists the people in their worship. Associations of ringers such as that of Worcestershire with their rules of conduct unite clergy, churchwardens, and ringers for a common purpose. Difficulties as to attendances at services, behaviour in the steeple, and unbecoming use of the bells are overcome, and disappear under the influence of such associations. The incumbent or his curate are no more out of place in the belfry than at choir practice. Church festivals are ushered in by a peal, and no longer are the bells heard at no other times than in the weeks preceding Christmas. Such associations are worthy of all encouragement, and as we clergy claim the key of the tower and power over the ringing of the bells, we must remember that privileges beget responsibilities."

DEATH OF MR. GEORGE WOODCOCK, OF COVENTRY.

We regret to announce the death of this gentleman, which took place on 18th May, '91. Mr. Woodcock came of an old Coventry family of lawyers, being the son of the late Mr. Charles Woodcock, and was himself trained for the legal profession, and had a large and profitable connection. Formerly in the firm of Woodcock, Twist, and Co., he for some time practised independently, but afterwards took into partnership Mr. A. Rotherham and Mr. G. A. H. Addison, the firm or style for some years past having been Woodcock and Co. Although an able lawyer, and in several noteworthy actions, among them being causes in which he opposed the Corporation of Coventry, proving himself a powerful advocate, for some years he had devoted himself to commercial pursuits. As secretary of the old Coventry Gas Company he conducted on their behalf the negotiations which led, a few years ago, to the purchase of the undertaking by the Corporation. He was also clerk to the Coventry Canal Navigation, and as practically the founder and managing director of the Rudge Cycle Company he was brought much under the notice of the trading community. Some years ago he purchased the King's Head Hotel, which was then an old-fashioned hostelry, but he entirely re-built it on modern lines, and converted it into a first-class establishment. It is, however, in connection with the restoration of St. Michael's church and steeple that Mr. Woodcock's name has recently been brought most prominently before the public. The restoration had been long talked of and its necessity abundantly proved, but such a stupendous work needed a vigorous start, which Mr. Woodcock supplied, when, in 1884, he came forward with an offer of £10,000, if a further sum of £20,000 were raised in twelve months. This was done, and about £40,000 in all have been spent on the restoration, in which throughout Mr. Woodcock took a close personal interest, even going so far in 1888 as to lay the top stone of the restored steeple and assisting in poising the weathercock—300ft. above the ground level. Mr. Woodcock being convinced that the fine peal of ten bells could never be replaced, advocated the erection of a bell tower, and undertook, if the citizens would raise £5,000, to defray the whole of the remaining cost. Although it excited considerable opposition, the project progressed so far that last week plans of the proposed campanile were received, and it was estimated that it would cost upwards of £20,000 to carry them out. How the project may be affected by Mr. Woodcock's decease is not known. Mr. Woodcock had been in his usual state of health until the middle of last week, when he was seized with influenza, and pleurisy [and double pneumonia rapidly setting in, his condition became critical. Dr. Haig, his medical attendant, obtained the assistance of Dr. Pickup, and Dr. Wade, of Birmingham, was also called in. Since Saturday, however, his case had been regarded as virtually hopeless, and death took place last evening about half-past six o'clock, at the King's Head Hotel, which he made his abode, when not residing, as he frequently did, at Brighton. The deceased was a strong Churchman, and also a staunch Conservative, his name having more than once been mentioned in connection with the representation of the city. He, however, declined all invitations of this character, and in fact never accepted public office, beyond being a churchwarden. The deceased, who was fifty-five years of age, leaves a widow but no family.—Birmingham Daily Post.

NOTES BY THE WAY.

O, wad some power the gitties gi'e us
To see oursel's as ithers see us.

It is not often the pages of "THE BELL NEWS" are graced (?) by such letters as two which appear on page 87 of the last issue, I read them, then rubbed my eyes (literally, not metaphorically merely), and then read them again. But the result of my perusal was only the same as before—astonishment, and positive bewilderment. Surely, Mr. Editor, some would-be wag (or two of them, may be) has been exercising his fertile brain in perpetrating a huge joke in the way of a burlesque upon the spirit of the times, upon the requirements of ecclesiastical law, and upon common sense even. I cannot help thinking that the writer might have occupied his time with considerably more profit to himself than in spending it writing such epistles as those bearing the signatures of "Assistant Curate," and "Change-Ringing Churchman."

* * * * *

In the first of these precious effusions, we are solemnly informed that "it is illegal for any conventicle-keeper to ring a bell." Putting aside the uncharitable mode of expressions used, that is a statement which will surprise a goodly number of those ringers of whom the correspondent in question says "it would be well for them to know it." Although I have during my lifetime spent a not inconsiderable amount of it in the study of ecclesiastical law, I do not presume to the position of an authority on the subject, and thus would be interested to know the particular (and peculiar) legislative enactments which warrants such an assertion. "The privilege of calling men to prayer belongs to the Established Church," we are told; and Churchmen are advised "to protest against this intrusion on their rights and privileges in this respect." Goodness gracious! All you little Bethels, you Romanists, you dissenting chapels of all descriptions, forthwith clear out the bells from your towers which you have hitherto "sport" because you "delighted to have it so;" even the little tinklers which hang in your turrets modestly proclaiming each Sunday that some one is about to meet within for prayer and praise—if even only in a conventicle, must follow suit, for Sir Oracle hath spoken, you are unlawful presumers, you have no right to be there and send forth your sound—that privilege belongs wholly and solely to the "Catholic Church in England as by law established." And you ringers thereof, in the future keep away from these conventicle belfries, for you are wantonly breaking the law, and thus rendering yourselves liable to pains and penalties "as by law provided."

* * * * *

But to come to the point. If as "Assistant Curate" says "it is illegal for any conventicle-keeper to ring a bell;" or in other words, if it is contrary to law that there should be a ring of bells in the tower of any place belonging to "dissenting chapels of all descriptions, including Romanists," let him produce the statute to that effect, and then by way of emphasising his contention, lay information against such law-breakers, so as to establish a case, and see what would come of it. If he is not prepared to do this, then I say his letter of last week is misleading, calculated to produce the reverse of good, and thus should never have been written.

* * * * *

The second letter to which I refer is positively amusing. "Change-Ringing Churchman" considers it is only the just due of the steeple-keeper that he should have absolute power in the belfry, having been appointed by the vestry, and "knowing more about personal characters, etc., than the clergyman." The applying to this said clergyman direct moreover "is a quiet way of ignoring the steeple-keeper. After that he falls foul on our clerical ringers who to his mind spend so much time in belfries and the study of change-ringing. "If a clergyman holds a living, he ought," according to this Lord Chief Justice in embryo, "to give his time to parish work," and not spend any of it "travelling the country peal-ringing." This will surely be news to us. We see weekly records of peals in which our clergy have taken part, and, I doubt not, all have—like myself—felt pleased—proud even—that our clerical brethren's names have been included in the list of performances. But now we are told that our clergy should not thus spend their time, that they should leave ringing alone, and from getting out of bed in the morning till going back at night be occupied solely with parochial business. "A clergyman's time," he says, "is dedicated to God and the saving of souls, and he is hardly doing his utmost to fulfil that if he spends much time in belfries and the study of change-ringing." And so on.

* * * * *

Now, in the first case, no matter if a thousand vestries were to appoint the steeple-keeper, that would not take away the prerogative of the vicar, or give the other any legal status. Therefore Mr. "Change-Ringing Churchman's" law is altogether bad on this point. Then if our clergy are not to encourage change-ringing by study and taking part in it, but confine themselves wholly and solely to the affairs of their own parish, what must be said of that numerous portion of their body who we find constantly engaged in movements of various kinds in places far away from their own parishes? Are they also to be included in this prohibitory dictum? Consistently, they must be; and supposing this notion were carried into effect, where should we and the Church itself be eventually landed? The prospect borders so closely on the ridiculous that it won't bear reflection.

* * * * *

Having (to his own mind perhaps) effectually settled those disturbing elements of "access to belfries" and "Clergymen in the belfry," and indulged in sundry other puerilities, he unburdens himself of certain notions regarding membership in our associations. We are told to be more careful in the election of members, and not admit any one because he agrees to pay the annual subscription; we are to insist on good character and consistent Churchmanship; and those disgraceful ringers who don't attend service must be rigorously excluded. Now, no one will contend stronger than myself for respectability of character and consistency of conduct on the part of members; but to make these a sine qua non would be a somewhat difficult matter, as probably Mr. "C. R. C." would find out did he take an active part in the management of an association. I believe it is generally understood that no member will propose any but a fit and proper person. Should the stringent laws propounded be carried into effect, that would entail a most inquisitorial modus operandi, one which I feel sure no officer would care to put into operation, nor any proposed member submit to. We should then no doubt more than "reduce ourselves to one-tenth our number," and besides, witness a resuscitation of the ancient class distinction of Pharisee and publican, which would be edifying, no doubt.

* * * * *

To quote friend Joshua, I think I have said sufficient for the present, so will stop here.

The Bell News & Ringers' Record.

SATURDAY, MAY 23, 1891

THE Whitsuntide holidays are no doubt the cause of such a goodly list of peals being reported in the current number. The old city of Bristol has been aroused at last by a peal on the famed bells of the more than famous church of St. Mary Redcliffe. The Sussex Association are also to the fore with eight peals in a short period of time; and other bands in various parts of the country have let us know that they are not quite defunct. We are sorry the two attempts for the long peal of Treble Bob Major were both unsuccessful; the one at Debenham seems peculiarly unfortunate. The reports of these performances prevent the appearance this week of many touches, much correspondence, and other matters, now a necessary condition of a holiday season.

UNITED COUNTIES' ASSOCIATION.

On Saturday, May 9th, The Annual Eight-bell cup competition took place on the bells of St. George's Church, Mossley, when three prizes were offered by the Mossley ringers and friends, for the best touch of Kent Treble Bob Major, consisting of 928 changes. Four companies entered for the competition, viz.: Friezland, Glossop, Hyde and Saddleworth. The Judges, Messrs. Joseph Pickering (Kirkburton), Luke Illingworth (Liversedge), and John Thorpe (Ashton), umpire, gave their decision as follows:—No. 3 company, Saddleworth, 440 Faults, First prize: the Association's silver cup and eight silver albert watch guards. No. 1 company, Friezland, 488 Faults, Second prize: eight Gentlemen's umbrellas. No. 2 company, Hyde, 492 Faults, Third prize: eight electro-plated tea pots. No. 4 company, Glossop, 666 Faults. Directly after the decision had been given, a move was made to the large room of the "Bull's Head" Inn, where the prizes were distributed by Mr. John Holden, president of the Association, and suitably acknowledged by each company. Votes of thanks where passed to the Judges, Vicar, and Churchwardens, for the use of the bells, also to the Mossley Ringers and friends for the handsome prizes they had given, and the interest they have taken in the Association, which was duly acknowledged by the Chairman on behalf of the Committee. A unanimous vote of thanks was accorded to the Chairman, which ended the proceedings.

NOTE TO THE PEAL RUNG AT ELY.—The ringers entered the tower at 10 o'clock, Mr. Pilgrim, the Master of the Ely Company having everything in readiness. The bells were pulled into hchanges at 10.20, and after ringing three hrs. and ten mins., two bells got misplaced, which was not detected till the Bob at Wrong, being too far gone, the conductor called "stand." The ringers were disappointed at losing their peal, and dinner being ordered at 2 o'clock, a message was at once sent to postpone it, and the Company agreed to make a second attempt after twenty mins. interval. Seeing the ropes all right, etc., the bells were again pulled into changes, and the peal brought round in three hrs. twelve mins.

NOTE TO THE EYE PEAL.—This performance was the first part of T. Day's 16,608, and was rung after one attempt for the whole length, which came to an end through a change-course after 4000 changes had been rung. Brothers Mee hail from Sproughton; Souter and Ireland from Diss; the rest belong to the Woodbridge society. The company wish to thank the Vicar for kindly granting permission to ring, also Mr. F. Day for having everything in readiness; not forgetting the umpire—Mr. John Fosdike, of Woodbridge.

Repeated.

This is the longest two-part peal published in this method, containing the sixty course-ends, with the tenors together.

If 2 w and 2 h are called from the part-end the peal is reduced to 6440.

FALSE PEALS.—Concerning the two peals which appeared last week, the productions of W. J. Sevier, Dr. Carpenter writes: "The two peals of Double Norwich by Mr. Sevier which appeared in your last number are false at each part-end. Owing to the construction of the last three courses in each part, the part must be followed by a bob at 1 to prevent false changes occurring. Thus, if the first course is called 1, 4, 6, the peal is true, and may be found in Hubbard. 4th ed., p. 80. The same condition, viz.: a bob at 1, is also necessary in the first course of the second peal. But if this is done, the part will only repeat twice."

The peals of 10,000 and 12,240 of Treble Bob, by Mr. Knights, which appeared last week, are Royal, not Major.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

"PAINLESS AND PERFECT DENTISTRY."

A new Pamphlet, by Dr. GEO. H. Her Majesty's Surgeon-Dentist says:—

My DEAR DOCTOR.—Allow me to express my thanks for the skill and attention displayed in the construction of my Artificial Teeth, which render my mastication and articulation excellent. I am glad to hear that you have obtained Her Majesty's Royal Letters Patent to protect what I consider the perfection of Painless Dentistry. In recognition of your valuable services you are at liberty to use my name.

S. G. HUTCHINS. By appointment Surgeon-Dentist to Her Majesty the Queen.

SCIENTIFIC DEPARTMENT.—LABORATORY OF EXPERIMENTAL SCIENCE.

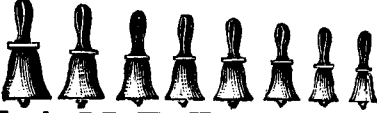

This is to certify:—That I have analysed the Prize Medal Teeth submitted to me, and find them to be composed only of minerals of extreme purity. I have also examined and tested your patented painless system of adjustment, it is quite perfect, and is the most successful application of scientific laws for securing actual wear and comfort yet introduced. Both physically and anatomically, they are a beautiful resemblance to the natural teeth.

THE ESSEX ASSOCIATION.—ANNUAL MEETING AT CHELMSFORD.

The Annual Meeting was held at Chelmsford on Whit-Monday, and considering the wretched weather, was well attended by about 100 members. Divine Service was held at St. Mary's Church at 11 a.m., the Rector (Archdeacon Johnson) and his three curates being present, with the Revs. T. L. Papillon (Hon. Sec.), H. T. W. Eyre (Assistant Secretary), and F. H. Fisher, late Vicar of Fulham, now of Debden, Essex; the latter of whom delivered from the altar-steps a short practical address from Exodus xxxvi, 1-2. The business meeting was held after service in one of the Schoolrooms, the Hon. Secretary in the Chair. The President and Vice-Presidents for the past year were re-elected, the new Bishop of St. Albans being added to the Vice-Presidents. The Rev. T. L. Papillon was re-appointed Hon. Secretary and Treasurer, with the Rev. H. T. W. Eyre as Assistant-Secretary. The re-election of a "Peal Committee" occasioned some manifestation of feeling with respect to the voting of the representatives of the Association upon the Central Council, the names of Messrs. J. Murray Hayes and W. Lebbon being substituted for those of Messrs. N. J. Pitstow and F. G. Newman. The next business was the election of about 20 new members; after which the Hon. Secretary read his report for the past year. The association, he said, was going on steadily with gradually increasing numbers (about 520 ringing and 64 honorary members at present). District meetings had been held at Saffron Walden, Barking, and Southminster, the last-named being a new and unvisited district, where change-ringing is as yet unknown. Such visits to out-of-the-way places were useful in stimulating curiosity and helping to dispel the indifference towards ringers and ringing which is still so great a difficulty. The report then touched upon the meeting of the Central Council, noting the fact that on one disputed question, that of seven-bell peals, the decision of the Council was contrary to that of this association two years ago; and expressing a hope that practical good would result from the work of the committees appointed by the Council. In belfry improvement, the new ringing chamber at Barking was noted as "a model of what a ringing-chamber should be," and the opening of a new peal of eight at Radwinter was referred to. Two towers—Farnham, 6, and Great Leghs, 5 bells—had disappeared from the list; while that of Ilford was finally condemned as too weak to bear the ringing of its six bells—now to be increased to eight, and used only with a chiming apparatus. The financial summary for the year shewed a balance of £14 3s. 5d., as compared with £7 6s. 4d. last year, £10 of which would be carried to the credit of the Reserved Fund. Thirty-four peals had been rung since last Whitsuntide, including two of Stedman Caters, and two of Stedman Triples, a peal of Double Norwich, the first peal by the association of Oxford Treble Bob Royal at Fulham, and the first of Oxford Bob Triples at Widford. The report ended with a cordial acknowledgment of the services of the Assistant Secretary.

The chief matter for discussion arising out of the report was the conduct of three out of four representatives of the association on the Central Council in voting upon the seven-bell peal question, contrary to the strongly-expressed opinion of the Association, which they represent. Unfortunately the three gentlemen concerned did not appear to render an account of their stewardship; and a motion to the effect that a record of their vote should be appended to the report was only withdrawn upon its being represented that such an entry would virtually be a vote of censure passed in their absence, without hearing their explanation. Notice, however, was given of a motion at the next annual meeting to condemn peals of Triples, Caters or Cinques, rung without a covering-bell. Under these circumstances, it was thought better to withdraw the next question on the agenda paper, viz., that of contributing towards the expenses of representatives attending the Central Council. A motion by the Hon. Secretary that a scheme of suggested rules for belfry management be drawn up and circulated under the authority of the Association was carried, the Secretary, Assistant Secretary, and Mr. B. Keeble being appointed a committee to draw up a scheme of rules.

The dinner took place in another schoolroom, and was excellently catered for by Mr. Hicks, of Chelmsford. At the close, votes of thanks to the preacher and to the Rector of Chelmsford were passed, and acknowledged by Mr. Fisher, and by the Rev.

J. D. Nairne, on behalf of Archdeacon Johnson. The towers of Widford and Writtle were both closed owing to cases of illness; but a party braved the elements in a brake to Galleywood; Great Baddow (8 bells), and Springfield (6), attracting others, while the bells of Chelmsford were kept pretty constantly at work.

The Hon. Secretary would be glad to receive at once any corrections in the list of members for the forthcoming report. If the correspondents of each company would send a list of its members revised and corrected to date, this would greatly assist the accuracy of the report.

THE GLOUCESTER AND BRISTOL ASSOCIATION.

A quarterly meeting of the above Association was held at Painswick on Monday, May 25th. The fame of the grand ring of twelve which hangs in the steeple of the Parish Church, and the beauty of the place and the surrounding neighbourhood, attracted a fair number of ringers, though doubtless many more would have been present had it not been for the heavy storms of rain which fell frequently during the day.

The Cheltenham members were amongst the first to arrive, having driven all the way, and about 12.30 a brake brought from Stroud the Thornbury band, who had already been at work on the Stroud bells; and others from Bristol, Birmingham, &c.

Service was held at 12.30 in the Parish Church, and was well attended, more than forty ringers being present. The service was choral; the lesson was read by the Master, the Rev. H. A. Coekey, and a most interesting and appropriate address given by the Vicar, the Rev. W. S. Guest-Williams.

Dinner was served at "The Falcon" at 1.30 in good style, and was much appreciated by the hungry travellers. The business meeting was held on the removal of the cloth, preceded as usual by the loyal toast of "Church and Queen" and that of "Success to the Association," both of which were given from the chair, occupied by the Vicar. The latter toast was coupled with the name of the Master, who, in his reply, dwelt upon the work that each member of the Association might do individually towards furthering the objects which it had in view, and warned his hearers against the selfishness which was so apt to creep into change-ringing when the ringer had passed through the preliminary drudgery and attained to the art's higher branches.

The minutes of the last meeting were read by the Master, as the Hon. Secretary was suffering from a sore throat, and passed.

The Secretary then asked the meeting to give authority to the Hon. Treasurer to forward a cheque for £1 17s. 6d. to Mr. Daltry, of Bristol, in payment of the cost of a peal board, now ready, to be erected in the tower of All Saints in commemoration of the peal of Stedman Triples rang there on August 20th, 1889, in honour of the wedding of the Master of the Association, which took place on that day. The requisite authority was at once granted.

Mr. W. S. Staines, of Thornbury, was elected an honorary member, and Messrs. G. D. Thurston (of Dursley), H. Clarke, F. Chappell, W. Munday, T. Payne (of Wootton-under-Edge), F. Peol, A. Philips, H. J. Thurston (of Thornbury), E. Devereux, A. Devereux, A. Attwoods, A. Wallis, S. Wallis, H. Payne, F. W. Wade, G. H. Pruen (of S. Mark's, Cheltenham), ringing members. The election of Messrs. F. G. Newman and R. French, of London, and W. R. Paddock and H. H. Tucker, of Bristol, on the occasion of peals recently rung, was confirmed.

Stroud, Tewkesbury, Berkeley, and Chipping Campden were proposed as the place of the next meeting, and Campden was decided upon by a large majority.

Mr. W. Hale was elected Local Secretary for the Deanery of Bisley. The meeting closed with a vote of thanks to the Chairman for his kindness in giving so hearty a welcome to the Association.

The bells were then set rolling to the tune of Stedman Caters, but the touch (about 600) failed a few leads from home. A touch of seven courses of Grandsire Caters was then successfully brought round, under the able conductorship of Mr. Pates, and was followed by a course of Grandsire Cinques. At 5.30 several of the party returned to Stroud, and there rang some short touches of Triples before leaving by the 7.3 train, while at Painwick, about 714 of Grandsire Triples was brought round prior to the departure of the Cheltenham band.

In spite of the weather, a most enjoyable day was spent.

THE LIVERSEDGE PRIZE-RINGING.

[From our Extra Special Peripatetic Correspondent.]

When I read the announcement a few weeks ago of the intention to hold a ringing match in the "county of broad acres" at Whitsuntide, there developed in my mind a strong inclination to pay another visit to Yorkshire and witness for myself how the "tykes" managed one of these affairs. As I mused upon it, my thoughts and recollections reverted to some events bearing the name of ringing matches which I had been present at previously in my own immediate neighbourhood, where the pièce de résistance was raising the bells, ringing so many minutes of rounds, and then falling them. My experience of these affairs had long since created in me a fixed determination (apart from the contentious nature of these performances) never to waste my time again with such puerile displays of "proficiency." But in this Liversedge case, the test piece was a half peal of Treble Bob Major; and thus, taking into account the reputed excellence of Yorkshiremen's striking in their favourite method, I thought that at least, from a merely ringing point of view, there would be something worse listening to. This reflection caused my inclination to wax stronger; and afterwards, when on imparting my ideas to our worthy Editor, he remarked, "Go, by all means, if you feel a desire, and let us have an account of your journey," that settled the matter, and I made arrangements to spend my Whitsuntide holiday accordingly. I give the foregoing just by way of explanation as to the why and the wherefore of my first presence at a Yorkshire ringing match; and in whatever I advance I must ask my readers kindly to remember that such is my own undivided opinion; that our Editor is in no wise responsible for my observations. This, I think, will clear the way.

Having thus decided, my next enquiry was as to the particular part of Yorkshire in which this town of Liversedge was situate; a reference to the map led to the discovery that it lay in the West Riding, close to the towns of Dewsbury and Batley—that Shoddyopolis of the world—and almost central between Leeds, Huddersfield, Wakefield, Bradford, and Halifax; so, thought I, if Yorkshire ringing be what it is commonly represented, there I should find myself in the midst of it.

Whitsun-Monday found me "up with the lark," and long before the great majority of suffering humanity were roused from their slumbers, had left my home in the "sunny south" with my face northwards. I won't trouble you here with the events of my journey—the interminable stoppages, shuntings, and other disagreeable features, caused by the extra excursion traffic usual at Whitsuntide. After some hours' riding we "pulled up" at Huddersfield, where "Change here" was not the unwelcome call, and I stepped on to the platform glad of the opportunity of putting my feet again on terra firma, and finding myself with about half an hour to spare, during which time a cup of hot coffee, with sundry substantial accompaniments, made me feel a considerable change for the better. Once more on the way, I soon arrived at the end of my journey, where the sound of bells rendered unnecessary any enquiries. The church was evidently close at hand, that was one comfort, so that a walk of a mile or two—as I had previously imagined—was not in prospect. Coming over the lines, out at the turnstile, down a lane for a few yards, and following several new arrivals to the left, I was soon in view of the church—the scene of operations. A narrow lane, bounded on each side by a stone wall, was next to traverse, ere I reached the churchyard gate, the circumscribed limits of which was considerably curtailed by reason of the rows of men standing on each side—some attentively listening to the sounds from the tower, others discussing the chances of the various bands (or companies, as they invariably call them hereabouts). And there could be no mistaking the earnestness of these men, or the keenness with which they noticed the slightest trip. All seemed to be alike imbued with the same desire that "our chaps" should win. The church itself, I should here remark, is situate about half-way up the hill side; it seemed to nestle in the shadow of the rising ground, while around it numerous gravestones testified to the existence of a "God's acre" which contained the earthly remains of a considerable number who had gone before. A little lower down the hill side was an evident addition to the original burying-ground, while the Spen valley stretched below, the tiny stream which gives the name to this Parliamentary division, slowly meandering along its base. The open space in front of the churchyard gate, as I arrived, was occupied by quite a numerous assembly, all—like the ones I had just previously passed in the footpath—engaged either criticising the ringing or discussing the probabilities of the contest. I stood and listened to the ringing awhile, which was undoubtedly good. The bells are a most pleasant and musical ring, with a tenor evidently about 14 cwt. But my listening was not of long duration, for the touch (only too soon, I thought) was brought round almost ere I had fairly time to collect myself, so to speak. To a tall man of venerable aspect who stood near me, I ventured the enquiry as to how the contest had proceeded so far, when to my surprise I was told—"Oh, t'contest hasn't begun yet; they're nobbud practising." And so it appeared that Monday was devoted to a sort of final practice, the competing bands being allowed about an hour's practice each, in turn, according to the ballot which had taken place early that morning.

I need not enter into any long account of my experiences during the remainder of that day. In strolling about, I gained a pretty fair acquaintance with the village itself, which was of that straggling character we often see in these country places which are half manufacturing, half agricultural—although I must say, the former class appeared considerably predominant.

By-and-bye, Nature asserted itself, and I began to take dinner very seriously into consideration. Here, however, I was more fortunate than I had anticipated, for on entering a very respectable-looking hostelry, I was immediately told, in answer to my query, that I'd "just comed at t'reight time;" so, obeying instructions, I was soon seated and enjoying as good a dinner as ever I had in my life. A good wash—the bowl being almost large enough to swim in, and full of clear, soft water—followed, and I a little later emerged into the outer world again, feeling like Richard of old at that particular time in his life when he was "himself again." Crossing a low bridge, and passing two or else three "pubs" in close proximity to each other, I found myself for another time in front of the church, the bells still sending out the sound of Treble Bob—in fact, they never seemed to stop more than a few minutes at once during the day. I had now time to look round a bit, but beyond the sound of the bells, and a few men here and there in twos and threes, seated on the low wall, or stood in the pathway, a stranger would not have imagined that anything in the slightest degree unusual was taking place.

Evening drew on at length, and I sought a place wherein to rest my tired bones until morning. In this I was scarcely so fortunate, for enquiry elicited the information that visitors were by no means numerous at "Littletahn" (as such appears to be the local pronunciation of Liversedge), so there was not much in the way of accommodation, but was advised to "run on ta Cleckheaton, an' enquire for — Hotel," which I did, and went to bed earlier than I generally am in the habit of doing, a step which afterwards proved to be a very wise one. As I drew down the blind of my room windows, I still could hear (or fancied I did) the Liversedge bells, the sound coming through the air in the dim and fast-failing light like that of an Æolian harp from a distance. With this sound in my ears I fell asleep, and slept the sleep—why, the sleep of a man thoroughly well tired.

I woke next morning with a start. The sun was doing its best to make its way through the blind. From the sounds outside as well as within the house, everybody appeared to be stirring, as if the morning was well advanced. My watch denoted a quarter past six. I listened for its ticking in the fear that it had struck work during the time I was asleep, but no, it was click, click, just as usual, and so almost certainly right. They're early risers in this part, thought I, as I dressed and made my way downstairs. And so I found they were too. A great fire burned in the kitchen, while cooking tackle lay about in all directions; and before I was expecting it, came the message that I might have breakfast as soon as I liked. I was not long in "liking," and being seated with a large cup of steaming coffee in front of me, as well as slices of freshly-cooked ham, boiled eggs, and a lot of other provender enough for at least half-a-dozen.

Less than half-an-hour later, I was once more on my way to Liversedge; and on arriving found that the ballot for places had just been taken. The plan at these contests appears to be something of this sort. The persons who have been appointed judges (or "sanctioners," as they are styled here) having been located in the place set apart for them (both judges and their habitation being kept a most profound secret for some reason or other), at a specified time in the morning (7.30 was the time in this case), the competing bands ballet for order of ringing. Should any not be ready to take their place in that order, they are placed last on the list, and fifty faults put to their credit by way of penalty; then the bands following move up, so to speak. In this case the first three or four bands all appeared to be defaulters, (whether purposely or unavoidably I cannot say), and thus through delay caused by this, it was past the half-hour after eight o'clock when then the first band entered the tower, and the contest proper begun. This band, I soon found out, were chief favorites, their winning of the first prize was a "moral certainty," I was told; so I listened perhaps with more interest than I should have done to hear what was to be the best ringing of the day. This, however, turned out to be a mistake. The ringing certainly was good upon the whole, but considerably not that perfection one looked for. From the conversation around also, I soon gathered that the favorites were grievously disappointing their friends, as well as raising the hopes of the other contestants, so when they finished, the pretty general verdict appeared to be in accordance with the loudly-expressed one of an old weatherbeaten man—that "Bustell hesn't done as weel by fifty per cent. wha tha did yesterday; so they've sattled for." Next went up Kirkburton, whose performance appeared to be considered as rather inferior to that of their predecessors; and after them followed Bradford, the sweet striking of whom alone drew in front of the churchyard the largest assembly I saw at one time all the day. As this half-peal drew towards its close, general opinion seemed once more to have settled itself—this time Dewsbury and Bradford divided the chances of premier position, "barring accidents." Then followed Low Moor, who seemed to have taken either lack of ability or else ill-luck with them into the belfry, for their prefatory three leads were—particularly after what had gone before—positively painful; everybody seemed seized with a sudden desire to liquidate, which no doubt suited the landlords of the vicinity perfectly. The "foundrymen" at length got on the way with their half-peal, but a very rough and troublous way it was, and after struggling gamely on for half an hour, "came to grief." A band from Hyde followed with some good striking; after them Calverley, then Almondbury, all of whom acquitted themselves creditably; but as yet the settled opinion appeared to be that Bradford's claim to premier position had not so far been disputed. Then followed Dewsbury, who were regarded as the only possible competitors for first place. This band commenced a little before ten o'clock at night. All around was "as still as a funeral;" scarcely a breath of wind, even, seemed to be stirring; and though the night was chilly, for an hour and a half I listened to such ringing as I think I never heard before for such a length of time. The changes came out like clockwork; in fact, it seemed like one long piece of mechanism from beginning to end. So when they in turn had finished, the first prize was considered to have been undoubtedly won; and thus the "young set" from Bradford were credited with a second place. There were yet, late as it was—past eleven o'clock—two more bands to compete, and I imagined the affair would in consequence be adjourned till the following day. But no; Brighthouse took possession of the belfry, and after about an hour's essay, collapsed, and retired with their task unfinished. Mirfield came on the scene, and somewhere about three o'clock brought their half-peal home, thus finishing the programme.

You might well imagine that at this "unearthly hour" everybody had been long gone to their respective homes, and were soundly asleep. But in this you would have been mistaken, for there was quite a numerous assembly in and about the "pub" where the committee had conducted operations. About an hour afterwards, some one appeared at one of the windows and proceeded to read out the judge's decisions, which were as follows: Birstall, 643 faults; Kirkburton, 1008; Bradford, 750; Hyde, 899; Calverley, 832; Almondbury, 952; Dewsbury, 632; Mirfield, 1090. Thus Dewsbury came first; Birstall (much to my surprise) second; Bradford third; Hyde fourth; and Calverley fifth; the band from Kirkburton receiving a sovereign as consolation, they having come the longest distance amongst the unsuccessful competitors.

I have endeavoured thus to give you a "plain, unvarnished tale" of my experience at this contest, which is rather more lengthy than I had at first intended; so I will leave till next week the telling of my own opinions about it, and what I thought when in the train going back to my home in the south.

SONNING, BERKS.

A peal having been arranged for Whit-Monday at the above parish church, by the Caversham band, and a meeting-place appointed, the men turned up punctually at 8 a.m. and commenced the old-fashioned three miles' walk in the pouring rain. Arriving at Sonning at 9 o'clock, the band were enlivened by hearing that they could not ring till 12 as there was service. This led to the desertion of one, who however promised to call at another ringer's house, and tell him how we were situated. After waiting some time for the promised substitute to arrive, another of the band became impatient, and as his defection left us in a worse plight than ever, we determined to give it up and all go back. Arriving at Caversham it was ascertained that that man had started but we had missed him; and now, alas! two more refused to face the weather again, but by a little hunting two more peal-ringers were found, and another little walk was indulged in, in which we met our man returning home. We got him to retrace his steps back to Sonning for the second time, and, for a reward for our patience and endurance, scored a good sound peal, a report of which appeared in the peal column.

ST. MARTIN'S, BIRMINGHAM.

As a tribute of respect to the memory of the late G. Woodcock, Esq. (the munificent subscriber towards the restoration of St. Michael's Coventry, and a new tower for the famed peal of bells), the bells of the above church were deeply muffled on the 26th inst., and the following touches rung, viz.:—755 changes of Stedman Caters by ten members of the St. Martin's Guild. W. Haywood, 1; W. H. Godden, 2; T. Reynolds, 3; J. Joynes, 4; C. Stanbridge, 5; A. Roberts, 6; T. Miller, 7; H. Johnson, 8; J. Buffley (conductor), 9; J. R. King, 10. And 270 Grandsire Caters by a mixed band. E. Atkins, 1; H. Johnson, 2; T. Reynolds, 3; G. Walker, 4; C. Stanbridge, 5; A. Roberts, 6; J. Buffley (conductor), 7; W. Challoner (Coventry), 8; T. Miller, 9; J. E. King, 10.

FROYLE CHURCH, ALTON, HANTS.

A large turret clock has just been erected at this church by Messrs. Thwaites and Reed, of Clerkenwell, London. The dial is 5 ft. in diameter, with gilt figures and mins. The clock chimes the Cambridge quarters on four bells of the peal, and strikes the hours on the tenor.

WALSALL (Staffordshire).—On Wednesday, May 13th, at the parish church for practice, 768 Treble Bob Major in 31 mins. W. Griffin, 1; F. Hallsworth, 2; J. Astbury, sen., 3; W. Walker, 4; E. Lightwood, 5; J. Lawton, 6; D. Wesley, 7; J. Astbury, jun. (conductor), 8.

THE UNEMPLOYED IN EAST LONDON.—At a time when much thought is being given to this matter, a practical suggestion may be of service. Last year more than £300,000 worth of foreign matches were purchased by inconsiderate consumers in this country, to the great injury of our own working people, so true is it that "evil is wrought by want of thought, as well as want of heart." If all consumers would purchase Bryant and May's matches, that firm would be enabled to pay £1000 a week more in wages.

RAUNDS, WELLINGBOROUGH & DISTRICT SOCIETY.

The Annual Meeting of the above society took place at Earls Barton on Whit-Monday, and despite the wintery weather there was quite an average attendance of ringers and hon. members. The peal of six bells in the ancient Saxon tower of the parish church was raised by the local team at 9 o'clock, and afterwards bands of ringers from Wellingborough, Kettering, Raunds, Higham Ferrers, and Rushden handled the ropes in turn. Divine Service was held in the church at 1 o'clock, with sermon (well suited to the occasion) by the Rev. R. R. Cobbold, Vicar of Earls Barton. An excellent dinner was provided in the schoolroom, to which over 50 ringers sat down. The Rev. A. S. Lindsay, Kettering; the Rev. Hugh Bryan, Raunds; The Rev. R. R. Cobbold and Mr. Abbott (churchwarden), Earls Barton, being also present. At the conclusion of the repast the business meeting was presided over by the Rev. A. S. Lindsay (vice-president of the society). Minutes of previous meetings were read and confirmed. The Hon. Sec., the Rev. Hugh Bryan, stated that the society had now a balance in hand of £13 15s. 6d. Eight new ringing members were elected, five from Earls Barton and three from Wellingborough. The Rev. R. R. Cobbold, Mr. Abbott of Earls Barton, and the Rev. J. E. Gordon of Rushden were announced as having become hon. members. The Hon. Secretary was unanimously re-elected with hearty thanks for his services. The Rev. J. Dunn, Higham Ferrers, was elected as treasurer in place of the Rev. J. P. Goodman, who, to the regret of the members, felt obliged to resign the office owing to ill health. A proposition made at a delegates' meeting at Finedon, with respect to making the society a county association, met with no support from the company, and was allowed to drop. Mr. J. Martin, Higham Ferrers, thought it would much benefit their society if they could be made a local branch of the Midland Counties' Association, as this would give them a better standing in the ringing world. The hon. sec. was desired to make enquiries on the subject. It was decided that in future the railway fare of delegates attending special meetings should be paid by the society. The delegates for 1890 were re-elected to serve for the present year with the addition of three hon. members, viz.: the Revs. Cobbold and Gordon, and W. J. Henry, Esq. A proposition that belfry instructors be paid by the society was opposed, it being the general opinion that any ringers desiring instruction should pay for it themselves. A suggestion with regard to the admission of ringers who were not attached to any particular belfry, met with approval, and was adopted. It was decided that the next annual meeting be held at Rushden, and that the next quarterly ringing meeting take place at Kettering on the first Saturday in July, the bells there having now been re-hung and put in excellent order. It was unanimously decided that all ringers who have been members of the association for one year should be allowed to take part in a trip to Leicester, on Saturday, August 29th. Hearty votes of thanks were passed to the Rev. R. R. Cobbold, for the use of church, schoolroom, and bells, also his kindness in providing tea for the ringers. Earls Barton bells are a peal of six and were re-hung a few years ago. The tenor was cast by Eayre of Kettering, 1761; it weighs about 14 cwt. The other bells are all dated between 1720 and 1775. Mr. Jones, the steeplekeeper, made every preparation for the visitors, and the day's ringing passed off without a single mishap. Some excellent new ropes (Nicoll's London make) have just been put up.

The village of Ecton being so near, it was thought desirable to apply for the use of the bells there, in order to give ringers a chance of a visit to that interesting old belfry, and if possible to get the Ecton men to join the society. But for some reason or other the rector refused permission to the hon. sec., and also to some of the ringers, who merely asked to view the church and bells. The local ringers and churchwardens were, we understand, much annoyed at his refusal. Discourtesy such as this is not likely to conduce to the good feeling which should exist between clergy and ringers, and which it is the object of our bell ringing associations to promote. This is the first occasion on which the Raunds and Wellingborough society has been refused the use of a peal of bells when desired.

THE ST. JAMES'S SOCIETY, HULL.

On Thursday, April 30th, the Annual Dinner of this society, which had been postponed from January, was held at the Alexandra Hotel, Kingston-street, the day being the jubilee of the opening of the bells. The St. James's company met at the church at 6.30 p.m., and rang two touches of Grandsire Triples until 7.30., when they adjourned, and changed the method to roast beef, leg of mutton, etc., with the Vicar (Rev. D. K. Moore) conducting, assisted by Mr. Churchwarden Kelsey. After the repast, the chair being occupied by the Vicar, and the vice-chair by Mr. W. D. Theaker, the usual loyal toasts were given from the chair. "The Archbishop and Clergy" was submitted by the Vice-chairman, and responded to by the Vicar. "Our Churchwardens" was next given by Mr. Stickney, who alluded to the manner in which the Churchwardens were always ready to assist them (the ringers) in making the belfry as comfortable as possible. "The St. James's Society" was then given by Mr. Churchwarden Kelsey in a neat speech, after which Mr. Southwick gave "The Yorkshire Association of Change-Ringers," which was ably responded to by Mr. H. W. Needham. Mr. Jenkins gave "Kindred Societies," which was responded to by Mr. H. Campey, jun., of Beverley. A copy of some verses was read by Mr. Brownrigg, with reference to the St. James's bells. The remainder of the evening was spent in handbell ringing, songs, recitations, etc., by Messrs. Newham and Parr, of the Horace Lingard Opera Company, and Messrs. Vinson, Shaw, Littlefield, Verity, Dale, Jackson, Worsdale, and T. Theaker. The "National Anthem" brought a very pleasant evening to a close at 12.30.

THORNBURY, GLOUCESTERSHIRE.

The belfry of the parish church of St. Mary's, Thornbury, Gloucestershire, has (in addition to being laid down with matting and oilcloth) has been greatly improved by the addition of a handsome timepiece, the gift of Arthur E. Lane, Esq., and bears the following inscription: "Presented to Thornbury parish, by Arthur Lane, in memory of two years spent in the parish." The following letter, expressing the heartfelt thanks of the company, has been forwarded to Mr. Lane:—

DEAR SIR,

Thornbury, May, 1891.

We, the undersigned, desire on behalf of the St. Mary's Thornbury Society of Change-Ringers to express our hearty thanks for the handsome time-piece you have placed in our Belfry as a memento of two years spent in this parish. In so doing you have greatly improved its appearance, and also supplied us with a want we have long felt. We can assure you that although you may be far away from us, yet we shall never have cause to forget one who has been amongst us, and shewn so great an interest in our bells and belfry, but shall ever remember you each time we gaze at its face; and should you ever give a return visit to Thornbury parish, a most hearty welcome to our belfry will always be accorded to you.—We are, Dear Sir, yours faithfully,

CHARLES EDDINGTON, Capt.

EDWARD HALE, Hon. Sec.

The efforts of the ringers of this parish for belfry improvement are highly appreciated, for hardly had the request appeared in print, than the clock was placed in the belfry, but had not this donor been so prompt, another kind parishioner would have given one.

NORTH NOTTS. ASSOCIATION.

The Annual Meeting of this Association was held at Worksop on Whit-Monday. A short service was held in the Priory Church, and the Vicar of Worksop, who is Secretary of the Society, gave an address. In the course of the afternoon various methods were rung on the fine peal of eight bells in the Priory Church; we noticed specially Kent, Oxford, Violet, and Grandsire Triples, and some very good ringing was executed. At 4 o'clock the members sat down to a very substantial tea, and at 5 p.m. the general meeting was held. The Society is in a fairly flourishing condition, but it is a matter of regret that several members of belfries still hold aloof. We are quite sure that a society like this is very helpful towards promoting good fellowship amongst ringers, and ought to stimulate the members of the various belfries to attain to the highest pitch of excellence in the art of bell-ringing.

While allowing the utmost freedom for the expression of opinion, it must never be considered that we are in any way bound to statements made by correspondents.

ANSWER TO "A LONG LETTER."

SIR,—In reference to the long letter that appeared in your issue of May 16th, I felt somewhat surprised to think anyone would be so guilty of criticising a clergyman's duty outside the church; but before I read it half through I looked to see if he had signed his name, and where it came from, but when I found he had not I soon drew my conclusions, and now I am open to stake a wager—if you will allow me to use that expression—that he is no change-ringer at all, and if he only done his duty as a Christian ought to do, he would bring in some of the worst characters and try and teach them how to ring, and let them see the pleasure of ringing, and keep them away from sin as much as possible, then he would be doing somewhat of his part as well as assisting the clergy. One thing I know, that if we had more of the clergymen in our belfries it would be better for us all as ringers, as they would soon be able to see for themselves what humbug many ringers have to put up with, I believe, Sir, that one-half the bother is owing to the steeple-keeper's obstinacy, for many are not change-ringers themselves and they will not let others try to learn. I do think, Sir, that the clergy ought to have the right of letting anyone ring they think fit. Now Sir will "Change-ringing Churchman" undertake to ring voluntary twice every Sunday? I think not; and as for him comparing an organist's duty to a bell-ringer's, in my eye it is as different as chalk and cheese. I hope, Mr. Editor, if you cannot give us his name you will mention the name of the town from where the letter came. I do not think that he will ever give us his name and address, otherwise we might discover a queer character.

HENRY WEST.

RINGING AT BRENTWOOD, ESSEX.

SIR,—I have not heard the bells rung at Brentwood for nearly a year, and cannot therefore question the correctness of "J. W.'s" statement with regard to the ringing there. But it is only fair to state that the ringers are (with perhaps one exception) a young band, all beginners within the last two years; and that the bells (unquestionably a very fine peal) are not such as can be very easily handled by beginners. The church, too, stands in the middle of the town, so that opportunities for practice are probably limited. They have had a competent instructor—I cannot say for how long; nor can I tell what difficulties he may have had, or whether his pupils were regular in their attendance at the belfry. Your correspondent is right in objecting to the bells "clashing down two or three at a time." But falling them "in peal" is (I am sorry to say) almost unknown in this part of England; and young ringers can hardly be blamed for not practising what they have never heard, and what no local instructor would think of teaching them.

T. L. PAPILLON,

Hon. Sec. Essex Association

SIR,—In reply to "J. W." in your issue of May 23rd, the ringers at Brentwood have had a competent instructor for two years. "J. W." states that the ringers do not strike at all well, and finish up by clashing the bells down two or three at a time, instead of falling them in peal. "J. W." could not have heard the finish up, as each bell is lowered separately. With such a heavy peal of bells as Brentwood, it would be a difficult task to undertake to fall them in peal. I think "J. W." might have signed his name instead of giving his initials, because it is thought that there is nothing to complain of in the ringers at Brentwood, but just the opposite, and the greatest praise is due to them from the parishioners.

J. BAKER,

Secretary to St. Thomas's Society, Brentwood.

REPLY TO MR. CRAWLEY.

SIR,—In reply to J. S. Crawley, in your issue of May 16th, I have pleasure in informing him that on the restoration of the parish church at Market Drayton, Salop, a few years ago, the bell-chamber floor was raised in order to open out the large west window; consequently the bells had to be raised and rehung. They are now supported by two oak beams 18 or 20 ins. each deep, planked on the underside by wood tongued boards, and on the upper side by 4 ft. iron-tongued planks. The cavity between planks and boards are tightly filled up with sawdust, which completely prevents the deafening noise complained of by your correspondent. The height of chamber is 12 ft.

A. BOWLES.

REPLY TO "ASSISTANT CURATE."

SIR,—In your issue of May 16th your correspondent, "Assistant Curate" says he thinks "it would be well for ringers to know that it is illegal for any Conventicle-keeper to ring a bell," and judging from the general tenour of his letter he evidently intends it to be understood, that it is illegal for any dissenting chapel (including Romanists, who by-the-bye are not dissenters) to have a peal of bells and ring them for service. I venture to assert that if "Assistant Curate" will test the questions in a legal court, he will find that there is no law on the subject, and that therefore it is perfectly legal for dissenters to have bells, and ring them if they are able to get them and like to have them. I believe reliable legal opinion has been obtained on the subject, and in consequence we have a handy peal here, and if "Assistant Curate" can ring, and likes to have a pull he will receive a cordial welcome, and find a company ready to give him a chance for a peal if he will pay us a visit.

J. W. G. (Todmorden).

RINGERS' ATTENDANCES.

SIR,—I have sometimes heard it said that Ringers who are always available when a peal is on hand are not always to be found in their places for regular Sunday ringing. Whether this be done elsewhere or not I cannot say. But I am glad to think it cannot be said of the belfry of the church in which I minister. For instance: our people were summoned to the first Celebration of Holy Communion at 6.30 a.m. to-day, by two well-struck touches of Bob Doubles and one of Grand-sire. Every man of the band who had thus called others to keep this great festival in the only true way, went from the belfry to the altar for his Communion. I need not add that the later services were not neglected by them, either in belfry or church. They are competent performers in many methods, and have a good score of peals to their credit. They are also consistent church members and officers, whose work and life strengthen the hands of the clergy and the church. The same custom of ringing for the earliest celebration obtains amongst us on all the great festivals, and I would fain hope, in many other belfries also. I note our own practice simply as an example of what is the natural consequence of our ringers' recognition of their privileges as churchmen, and their duties as church officers.

Obituary.

REV. J. S. STEWART.

Many readers of this paper will be very sorry to hear of the death of this highly-esteemed friend of ringers. Mr. Stewart had a very severe illness towards the end of last year, but from which he seemed in a great measure to recover, and to the surprise of many, he passed away on Thursday, 14th May. Mr. Stewart had not taken part in much ringing of late, on account of illness, but he was a true lover of bells and ringers; in fact, no one could have taken a more kindly interest in ringers than he did, and they have indeed lost a friend.

JAMES AVIS.

After an illness of only a week's duration, James Avis, of Benhall, Suffolk, has departed from us, and was buried at Benhall on the 21st of May. Deceased was 69 years old, having commenced to ring at the age of 17, since which time he has been an ardent lover of the art. He was much respected by the many ringers in this district, being of a kind and genial disposition, and always ready to lend a helping hand in the instruction and training of young members. He was formerly a member of the Kelsale company, and was always very regular in his attendance on practice-nights. Deceased joined the Norwich Diocesan Association at the time of its commencement, and has continued a member up to the present time. The funeral was attended by several ringers from neighbouring places, and at the close of the solemn service some touches were rung upon the muffled bells.

SATURDAY, MAY 30, 1891

THE resort to fictitious initials or even a nom de plume when sending letters to the Editor of a journal for insertion therein, is as a rule not to be commended. Instances perhaps do occur where the name of the writer may not transpire, but generally it is best that those who have any real or supposed grievance, or strong opinions on any subject, should be courageous enough to add their name to their own remarks. Otherwise the space open to correspondents is often the reverse of a blessing; others getting the credit of what is published by an anonymous writer. This practice is becoming a greater evil almost every week with us; and we think it necessary to say, that where it is considered a correspondent should have the courage of his opinions by signing his proper name, we shall either affix such name, or decline to insert the letter. Correspondents will however have sufficient notice of what we are about to do if they look in the place usually devoted to replies.

Her Majesty's Surgeon-Dentist says:—

My DEAR DOCTOR,—Allow me to express my thanks for the skill and attention displayed in the construction of my Artificial Teeth, which render my mastication and articulation excellent. I am glad to hear that you have obtained Her Majesty's Royal Letters Patent to protect what I consider the perfection of Painless Dentistry. In recognition of your valuable services you are at liberty to use my name.

S. G. HUTCHINS. By appointment Surgeon-Dentist to Her Majesty the Queen.

SCIENTIFIC DEPARTMENT.—LABORATORY OF EXPERIMENTAL SCIENCE.

This is to certify:—That I have analysed the Prize Medal Teeth submitted to me, and find them to be composed only of minerals of extreme purity. I have also examined and tested your patented painless system of adjustment, it is quite perfect, and is the most successful application of scientific laws for securing actual wear and comfort yet introduced. Both physically and anatomically, they are a beautiful resemblance to the natural teeth.

MR. WILLIAM ROCK SMALL, OF TIPTON.

[Vide Portrait.]

MR. SMALL was born at Wednesbury, in Staffordshire, on November 12th, 1839, his ringing career commencing at the same place, the bells at that time being a peal of eight, but have since been recast and made into a peal of ten. They were opened by various ringing bands from the neighbourhood in March, 1855; and it was while the bells were being put in the tower that he entertained a desire to become a ringer. Opportunities for learning to ring in those days were however not as frequent as they are now. After a time he ventured up into the tower and soon became a helper in the chiming for service on Sundays. The natural result to all such genuine enthusiasm followed: in time he became a member of the band, which, though a good one, was of the old school, whose custom from time immemorial entailed the penalty of what was known as "foot-ale" when the novice had rung his first course. These customs have however been greatly jeopardised, if not altogether abolished, through the formation of the various ringing Associations, and about the neighbourhood wherein Mr. SMALL is best known, the improvement effected is manifest. His first peal was a 5000 of Kent Treble Bob Royal, rang on April 29th, 1866, at his native place, he ringing the 5th; followed by peals of Plain Bob Major and Royal in the same tower. He rang his first peal of Stedman Caters also on November 19th, 1870, and there has been but little peal-ringing in the tower since.

Mr. SMALL's physique would appear to be admirably adapted for long lengths, for we find him in a seven hours' attempt for a 13,000 of Grandsire Caters at Aston; and in successful attempts of 9020 Grandsire Cinques rang at St. Martin's, Birmingham, in 6 hrs. 17 mins., and 8064 Grandsire Caters at Bromsgrove, in 4 hrs. 59 mins. If good ringers generally are a race of men whose bonhomie and good nature is proverbial, then the subject of this memoir is a praiseworthy example, for very few more gregarious or sociable ringers than he has it been the privilege of the present writer to find. The duties of his post of steeple-keeper at the church of St. Martin, Tipton, are discharged to the satisfaction of all, both church authorities and ringers. He has always been found most willing to impart instruction to young beginners, and frequently expresses himself as very glad not only to meet old friends but to make new ones, particularly at the meetings of the various ringing Associations to which he belongs. He is a member of the Birmingham St. Martin's Guild, Christ Church Society (West Bromwich), Society for the Archdeaconry of Stafford, the Ancient Society of College Youths, Worcestershire and Adjoining Districts Association, St. Martin's Society, Tipton, the Yorkshire Association, and the St. Peter's Guild, Wolverhampton.

Mr. SMALL's list of performances comprise the following, his 100th peal—Stedman Triples—being rung at Tipton; and one in the same method was at Peel, Isle of Man: Stedman Cinques, 10; Stedman Caters, 9; Stedman Triples, 23; Grandsire Cinques, 3; Grandsire Caters, 18; Grandsire Major, 4; Grandsire Triples, 33; New Grandsire Triples, 1; Kent Treble Bob Maximus, 1; Kent Treble Bob Royal, 2; Kent Treble Bob Major, 6; Plain Bob Royal, 3; Plain Bob Major, 7; Plain Bob Triples, 1; in four different methods, 1; total 122. That part of the Midland Counties where his field of operations lies is, as most readers of "THE BELL NEWS" know, very prolific in talented composers and conductors. Perhaps it is owing to this fact that he has never sought distinction in either of these branches of the art.

FOR SALE.—A Splendid peal of 42 Handbells, Chromatic, from G 26 to C 1; by J. Warner and Sons, London; together with tables, box, music, and all fittings. Will sell at a sacrifice; reason ill-health. Apply—William Kenney, 5, Townley Street, Macclesfield, Cheshire.

THE MELBOURNE BELLRINGERS' ASSOCIATION.

At the Vienna Cafe, Collins Street, Melbourne, on Easter Monday, a banquet was given by the members of the above Association in honour of Mr. John Guest, their Master ringer. About 60 guests sat down, and did ample justice to the splendid "spread" set out for their delectation. After the tables had been cleared, the real business of the evening began, namely, the presentation to Mr. Guest of a beautifully-framed photographic group of the members and patrons of the Association, and an artistically-finished illuminated address expressive of the great estimation in which he is held by his brother-ringers. Among the photos in the frame was one of his Excellency the Governor, the Earl of Hopetoun, one of the patrons of the Association, who not only gave permission for his likeness to be included among the other patrons, but sent the photo for the purpose.

The address was a perfect masterpiece of the art of illumination, and contained the following legend:—

TO

JOHN MOTTRAM GUEST, ESQ.

"DEAR SIR,

"The accompanying testimonial is presented to mark the high esteem in which you are held by the members of the above Association. The untiring energy you have displayed in all matters appertaining to bell-ringing in Victoria during the last nine years is an example worthy of emulation.

"We also desire to thank you for the uniform courtesy you have shown in your capacity of Master ringer, particularly towards the younger members, for which they express themselves deeply gratified.

"Further, we would congratulate you on successfully conducting the first peal of Grandsire Triples, 5040 changes, ever rung in Victoria.

"Trusting you may be long spared to take an active part in the ancient and noble art of campanology.

"We remain, etc."

Then follow the signatures, headed by his Excellency the Governor's, who, by thus honouring Mr. Guest, testifies to the high esteem in which he holds him. Texts, apropos of bell-ringing, from the various poets, are artistically arranged about the address, and there is a painting of a belfry with eight ringers hard at work, whilst the bells in the bell-loft, which is shown above, seem to move in response to the action of the men below.

In the left-hand corner is seen a drawing of St. Mary's Church, Stafford, Mr. Guest's native place. In the opposite corner is a view of the new Melbourne Cathedral, whilst between the two is the old St. James's Cathedral, the nursery of Australian campanology. Taken as a whole, it is a beautiful picture, and one Mr. Guest may well be proud of.

Invitations to the banquet had been sent over to the ringers of Sydney, New South Wales, and to those of Hobart, Tasmania; also to the Ballarat and Geelong men in Victoria, and a right merry evening was spent in speechifying, singing, and selections on the hand-bells.

The chairman, the Rev. C. T. Perks, incumbent of St. Stephen's, Richmond, in opening his address, apologised for the absence of the Bishop and Dean, who were unable to attend. He then expressed the pleasure he felt at being present on that interesting occasion, the more so as he saw from the view of St. Mary's, Stafford, given in the address, that Mr. Guest was almost a "towny" of his own. He gave a short history of the thirteen bells in the new cathedral, and spoke of their sweetness and the masterly manner in which they were rung by the members of the Association. After a short and highly complimentary speech, he formally presented the two frames to Mr. Guest, and called upon all present to drink his health in bumpers, which was done with enthusiasm and musical honours. Mr. Guest replied in a short and appropriate speech, thanking the Association and the company for the honour they had done him, and promised that his endeavours in the cause of bell-ringing should be as devoted in the future as they had been in the past. On resuming his seat, he was greeted with a loud clapping of hands and other signs of approbation. Mr. Woollard, the toastmaster, then called upon one of the guests for a song, when "Rocked in the cradle of the deep" was given in splendid style, Mr. Ernest Wood, the organist of the new cathedral, presiding at the piano. Mr. Kilburn, the Master of the Ballarat ringers, now rose, and returned thanks on behalf of himself and comrades for the kind invitation; and, having orated on things campanological, he concluded by proposing the health of Mr. John Heather, the honorary and energetic secretary to the Association, which was cordially responded to. A selection on the hand-bells was now given by Messrs. Guest, Heather, Woollard, Blakely, and C. and I. M'Ewan. Speeches from the other visitors followed, alternating with songs and selections on the hand-bells. A very enjoyable evening was spent, and when the party broke up it was with a general au revoir.

THE LIVERSEDGE PRIZE-RINGING.

Having given you last week a circumstantial report of this affair, so far as it came under my own personal observation, I now proceed to finish my task by telling you what are the impressions which that visit to Liversedge made upon me. In the first place, although I have always been opposed on principle to what I consider to be a wrongful use of our Church's bells by these ringing matches, yet I went to this contest with a mind open to conviction, and prepared, if need be, to acknowledge my previous predilections more or less erroneous. But I tell you honestly, that my objections to this sort of thing, instead of being diminished, are stronger now than ever. I am even still more at a loss to understand how any Vicar can consistently with his office, calling and responsibilities, sanction the use of his church and bells for these money competitions. Were the bells purely secular instruments like handbells, brass bands, and other things of a similar nature, then, of course, no objection could possibly be taken on that score; but considering that they are in our Church towers—placed there as instruments of the Church for a definite purpose in connection with its public services, that their use is most egregiously perverted by these ringing matches seems to me incontrovertible.

One impression which I formed while at Liversedge is, however, much in favour of those who attend these contests—that is, if what I saw was to be taken as an indication of others—namely, the orderly and respectable conduct which characterised the whole proceedings. I have attended a considerable number of ringers' gatherings in various parts of the country, and certainly on the score of respectability, this Liversedge contest would bear comparison with any of them. But for all that, had any radical teetotaler been desirous of making out a practical case in support of the old charge regarding the close affinity between Church and "pub." he might have found material here.

Another impression which I formed regarding this ringing match system is its artificiality. We are constantly told by advocates of these contests that they afford the best means of improving ringing—that is to say the striking part of it. I have come to a different conclusion. There will be, I think, at a moderate computation, considerably over a thousand ringers in Yorkshire. At this contest ten bands took part, which included of course, eighty men. These eighty men, for some weeks past, had been practising the set piece for this competition and nothing else; they, so to speak, were engaged simply in "coaching up" for a special exam. It was not a general all-round effort in the way of proficiency, but a high-pressure—I might almost say spasmodic—struggle within very narrow limits. What real beneficial effect, therefore, can be said to follow to ringing generally from such a proceeding? Were a few market gardeners to force the growth of a peck or so of new potatoes, so as to get them out a week or two sooner than usual, under natural conditions, we should smile if they asserted that the crop was earlier that year, on this account. But their assertions would be just as reasonable as to say that because a mere fraction of the general body of ringers in a county have worked up the performance of a special hour-and-a-half's touch to a high state of efficiency, that therefore the ringing of the county is benefitted. General improvement, not to say proficiency, is scarcely likely to be brought about by such irregular, infrequent, and artificial modes as are afforded by these money contests. That, is my opinion.

Another feature in connection with these affairs came under my notice, which I should hardly have credited, had I not every reason for being satisfied with the veracity of my informant. For some weeks before the "final event," bands intending to compete, travel about, not on week-evenings only, but Sundays also, to places where there is a similar ring, to that of the place of contest, for the purpose of practice. Their own legitimate work as ringers of the Church is totally lost sight of; the only object for the time being is "getting into form," and striking the half-peal with as few faults as possible. Were this sort of thing to be done in any other description of contesting—brass bands for instance—the charge of Sabbath-breaking would quickly be brought against those guilty of such conduct. I was told, even, that it is no unusual thing for bands to leave their own bells silent on Sunday, while they are off somewhere else practising for the match. If so, I fear, the Church officials in Yorkshire must be either very easy-going, indulgent personages, or else they care so little for the sound of their bells that they are indifferent to them being silent occasionally. But, apart from that, this dereliction of duty, and these mis-spent Sabbaths caused by prize-rings are much regrettable, and form in themselves a powerful argument against the continuance of these contests.

I come now to the modus operandi of the events in question; and we will see whether, from a strictly scientific point of view only, these contests are any more satisfactory. We will take, for illustration's sake, the one under consideration. At Liversedge, three members of the local band itself were appointed the judges. Thus the very constitution itself of this tribunal was open to very grave objections. No matter how competent these men might have been as ringers to fill such an office, they would not be likely to so far succeed in totally abnegating their own personality, as to act with that strict impartiality which is so absolutely essential to the position of a censor. And even supposing they did act honestly thus, should any contention arise respecting their decisions, these would not be regarded by the objectors as having the weight which would be attached to the decisions of competent men who had no local prejudices or personal sympathies to warp or even interfere with their judgment. Passing from that; the Liversedge contests occupied some nineteen consecutive hours, during the whole of which time these judges were supposed to be incessantly engaged in their duties. Now, will any reasonably-minded person dare to assert that these men could keep themselves "in condition" (excuse the phrase) for this lengthened period, and maintain one uniform status of censorship from beginning to finish? It is contrary to human nature: and thus from a purely secular and contestant point of view, this "judging" lays itself open to very well-grounded objections. Particularly so does this make itself manifested when, as at Liversedge, the decisions of these judges is so much at variance with the opinion of the great bulk of outside listeners.

As I remarked at the outset, although I went to the Liversedge contest with a mind honestly open to conviction, I left it with objections more firmly rooted in my mind against this misuse of our bells. I have endeavoured merely to give you a brief outline of the main features and circumstances which caused this. Others I could advance, were it necessary. From the standpoint of a Christian, these contests are objectionable if only through the abuse of the Lord's day which they cause. To a Churchman, accustomed to regard everything in connection with his Church as consecrated alike, ad maiorem Dei gloriam, the abuse of her edifices and bells for such a purpose cannot fail to be painful. As a ringer, I altogether fail to see any real benefit accruing to the Exercise through this contesting; and were I inclined to become a competitor at one myself, the many objectionable features in connection with the giving of awards would certainly act as a powerful deterrent to the carrying out of any such intentions.

These prize-ringing matches are said to have almost disappeared—even in their greatest stronghold—during recent years; and I am not at all surprised at it. The growth of a deeper spiritual life which has characterised our Church for a generation or so back has most likely been the main cause of this. Thus in future, as greater consistency in life and conduct on the part of Churchmen becomes more and more general, there can be no doubt whatever that such exhibitions as these ringing matches for money prizes, with their apparently inseparable objectionable concomitants, will no longer be permitted, but the bells be reserved for those pious uses for which they have been placed in the towers.

NEW BELLS AT MIDDLETON, LANCASHIRE.

On Saturday, May 23rd, the two new bells which have been added to the peal of six in the belfry of the Middleton Parish Church, were formally dedicated. One of the bells has been given by Mr. H. H. Mellallieu, J.P., of Stanniccliffe House, Middleton, and the other subscribed for by the public. The peal now consists of eight bells, and forms a complete octave. At half-past two a dedicatory service was held in the church, after which 350 of Grandsire Triples was rung by the following: J. Millett (Heywood), 1; George Hoyle (Rochdale), 2; E. B. Shaw (Lees), 3; Fred Morris (Radcliffe, formerly of Middleton), 4; Samuel Stott (Oldham), 5; J. Priestley (Oldham), 6; F. Birtwistle (Rochdale, conductor), 7; John Harrison (Heywood), 8. The clergy present at the service were the Revs. T. E. Cleworth (rector), W. D. Heelas, C. E. Renshaw, and J. Bamber (curates), W. Burgess (vicar of Parkfield), Charles Lowe (rector of St. John's, Cheetham), and H. J. Elsee (St. Andrew's, Ancoats). The Rev. H. J. Elsee intoned the service, and the choir sang the anthem known as the "Bell anthem," by Purcell, "Rejoice in the Lord, O my soul," Messrs. J. Holt, J. Slater, and E. Jackson rendering the trio. A brief address was given by the Rev. C. Lowe, who selected as his text Numbers x., 2, 10: "Make ye trumpets of silver; of a whole piece shalt thou make them, that thou mayest use them for the calling of the assembly, and for the journeying of the camps. Also in the days of your gladness, and in your solemn days, and in the beginnings of your months, ye shall blow with the trumpets over your burnt offerings; that they may be to you for a memorial before your God. I am the Lord your God."

After the service, about 60 members of the Rochdale branch of the Lancashire Association partook of tea in the National School. After tea the Rector (the Rev. T. E. Cleworth), occupied the chair, and there were also present the Revs. H. J. Elsee (president of the Lancashire Association of Ringers), W. D. Heelas, C. E. Renshaw, and J. Bamber, and Mr. H. H. Mellallieu, J.P.

The Chairman said he must first of all say that they were very thankful to the members of the Lancashire Association of Ringers for the valuable assistance they gave them towards getting these two new bells by the kind words which several of them uttered at the meeting which the ringers held in Middleton some time ago. Then they must also express their gratitude to the ringers of Middleton for having worked so hard in order to get the subscriptions necessary for one of the bells; and he was sure they owed their very best thanks to Mr. Mellallieu for having given them the largest of the two new bells. That gave them a splendid start towards raising sufficient money towards another bell, and the result they had seen that day by the dedication of the two new bells. He trusted that Mr. Mellallieu, and also those who had subscribed towards the other bell, would be amply rewarded for the kindness they had done.

The ordinary business of the Association was then proceeded with. It was decided to hold the next monthly meeting at Moor-side, near Oldham. Five of the Middleton ringers expressed their willingness to become members of the association, thus increasing the number of members from Middleton to thirteen. The Rev. J. Bamber and Mr. H. H. Mellallieu announced, amidst loud cheers, that they had decided to become life members of the association.

The Chairman said he should like to hear an expression of opinion from some of the ringers as to the quality and tone of the new bells. Many people had an idea that the two new bells would spoil the tone of the old bells, and he should like to hear an expression of opinion on that point. He must say that they were very much indebted to Mr. Arrowsmith, whom he might call one of the fathers of bellringers in Middleton, for the efforts he had put forth to secure these additional bells. Mr. Arrowsmith had waited for many, many years to hear eight bells in the Middleton belfry, and at last he had got his wish gratified.

The Rev. H. J. Elsee said he had pleasure in moving that a vote of thanks be given to the rector for his kindness in presiding, for his invitation to the ringers to be present that day, and for the use of that school in which to hold their meeting. It had been a great pleasure to him (Mr. Elsee) to be present at the opening of these two new bells in Middleton. He was glad to see such a good number of ringers at the service in church. The service was held at a rather early hour, otherwise there would very likely have been more ringers present. He might say that this was the first time he had been present at a dedication service of new bells, but he certainly thought it right and proper that new bells should be opened by a dedication service. With regard to the Middleton bells, he had had the pleasure of hearing them that afternoon, and he was very well satisfied with the tone of them. He thought all the ringers present were also well pleased with the bells. His own conviction was that the two new trebles had been very well spliced indeed. Now they had got a peal of eight-bells, he hoped that the ringing of them would be more interesting and pleasing to the people of Middleton than the ringing of the six bells had been.

Mr. George Hoyle (Rochdale), in seconding the vote of thanks, said his opinion was that the bells were very good ones, and that they were spliced as good as it was possible to do them.

Mr. Frank Birtwistle (Rochdale), supported the resolution, and said he thought the splicing of the bells was perfect. The motion was then put and carried, and the Chairman suitably replied.

The meeting then terminated. A touch of Treble Bob Major, and one of Stedman Triples were afterwards rung.

COSELEY, STAFFORDSHIRE.

On Whit-Sunday the ringers of the Parish Church (but now on strike, owing to the Vicar and Churchwardens insisting on us being voluntary ringers), by the kind invitation of Mr. H. Roden, visited the Parish Church of St. Bartholomew, Penn, near Wolverhampton, and rang several touches during the day. For Matins, a 720 of Grandsire Minor (32 bobs and 22 singles) was attempted, but unfortunately it came to grief after ringing over 600 changes. H. Roden (Penn), 1; B. Gough (conductor), 2; F. G. Horton, 3; W. Cheshire, 4; A. Jones, 5; W. Pardoe, 6. The ringers afterwards attended Divine Service, the sermon being preached by the Rev. C. H. Cole-Webb, vicar. After service, several 6-scores of Grandsire and touches of Grandsire Minor were brought round by the following:—Messrs. H. Priest and H. Roden (Penn), W. Pardoe, G. J. Fellows, F. F. G. Horton, A. E. Law, B. Gough, W. Cheshire, and A. Jones, conducted by Messrs. A. Jones and W. Pardoe.

The company then adjourned to the "Old Stag's Head" inn to partake of dinner (which each made the course-ends come up), got up in an excellent style by the host and hostess, to whom much praise is due.

In the afternoon, time not allowing for a 720, a 360 of Grandsire Minor was rung. H. Roden, 1; W. Cheshire, 2; G. J. Fellows, 3; B. Gough, 4; A. Jones, 5; W. Pardoe (conductor), 6.

All the members of the late Coseley band belong to the Worcester and Adjoining Districts Association, several to the Society for the Archdeaconry of Stafford, also to St. Peter's Guild, Wolverhampton.

As there are a great number of churches with peals of ten, eight, and six bells close at hand, the strikers will probably attend the above churches on practice-nights, and also for Sunday ringing, where no doubt they will be treated as brothers in the noble art.

They wish through this paper to thank the Vicar and ringers for granting them the use of the bells, and especially to Mr. H. Roden for getting the bells in readiness and superintending to the dinner, which he did in a most worthy style. G.

LLANDAFF.—On Saturday, May 30th, at the Cathedral, a 720 of Grandsire Minor, with 7-8 covering. J. Clutterbuck, 1; J. Belcher (conductor), 2; C. Lloyd, 3; W. Biss, 4; W. Coombes, 5; W. Freeman, 6; H. White, 7; E. Nelms, 8. This is the first 720 of Minor ever rung in South Wales by local men, and the first by all except the conductor. Time 34 mins. Also 336 Grandsire Triples. J. Clutterbuck, 1; W. Freeman, 2; C. Lloyd, 3; W. Biss, 4; J. Belcher (conductor), 5; W. Coombes, 6; E. Nelms, 7; H. White, 8. Tenor 23 cwt.

THE UNEMPLOYED IN EAST LONDON.—At a time when much thought is being given to this matter, a practical suggestion may be of service. Last year more than £300,000 worth of foreign matches were purchased by inconsiderate consumers in this country, to the great injury of our own working people, so true is it that "evil is wrought by want of thought, as well as want of heart." If all consumers would purchase Bryant and May's matches, that firm would be enabled to pay £1000 a week more in wages.

NOTES BY THE WAY.

"What a capital teacher is travel."

I am pleased to see that we have received the acquisition of a most versatile writer for the "THE BELL NEWS" in the person of "Our Extra Special Peripatetic," whose descriptive account of the doings at Liversedge last Whitsuntide I read with much interest. Not being in the secrets of the Editor's sanctum, of course, I am unable to compliment him personally, but at the same time I hope we shall have further contributions from his pen. Whether change-ringing contests be right or wrong in principle and practice, it will be by no means time ill spent to learn how such affairs are conducted. This, I opine, he has well succeeded in telling us.

* * * * *

Our Editor has "come down upon" correspondents who "have any real or supposed grievance, or strong opinions of any sort," who "resort to fictitious initials or even a nom de plume when sending letters." He considers that such a "correspondent should have the courage of his opinions by signing his proper name" to his letter. I hope his brief remarks, and particularly the intimation conveyed in them, will receive special attention. When writing generally, or upon abstract principles, there can be no objection to the assumption of a nom de plume by a correspondent. In fact, many of the finest contributions to our monthly and quarterly magazines bear some adopted signature. But when a man comes down to personalities, where such and not any principle is involved, it is, to say the least of it, very un-English on his part to make these personal charges without declaring his identity. There is a ugly name in our vocabulary for that sort of business—one which I won't repeat, as some one might possibly be fitting a cap on which was not intended for them—a habit which some of our brother-strings seem to be much addicted to.

* * * * *

But, after all, as I remarked only the other week, would it not be even better still if these personal squabbles were not allowed to occupy any room in "THE BELL NEWS" at all? Or at any rate, not until evidence had been given that every reasonable effort had been made to settle the same in private between the two or more disagreeing persons or bands? Look at the epistles which have many a time made me (and doubtless many others) feel strongly desirous of pitching something much heavier than the paper itself at the head of the writer. The fact is, that our Editor has been much too indulgent in this respect; but now that he has "got his foot down," I do hope he will severely keep it there.

* * * * *

I am glad to learn that Bro. John Holden succeeded in getting his peal at Salisbury during the A.M.C. week, particularly so because of unsuccessful endeavours on his part in previous years. The genial features of the Saddleworth district's C.S. are well known amongst Oddfellows, and several of them have expressed to me their pleasure at learning of his success on this occasion.

* * * * *

It is likewise with much pleasure that I mention the high honour paid to one of our brother-strings by our largest Friendly Society, namely, the Ancient Order of Foresters. This is the election of our friend Mr. William L. Catchpole, of Ipswich, as a member of the Executive Council of that Order for 1892, in the office of High Court Junior Beadle. In referring to this event, the current month's Foresters' Miscellany adds—"Bro. Catchpole is also well-known as a member of the St. Mary-le-Tower Society of Change-Ringers, and at the Annual Meeting of the Diocesan Association last October was elected one of its four representatives to the Central Council of Ringers. He has also been a member of the Tower choir for upwards of twenty-six years." Well done, Brother Catchpole!

* * * * *

Our Editor tells me he expects our friend "Scrutator" putting in an appearance next week. I take that as a gentle hint that I may take a back seat for a week or two, should nothing unexpected turn up. Probably in the meantime, I may take a trip somewhere, and if I do, will—like "Peripatetic"—tell you about it when I come back. So for a brief space Adieu!

FREE LANCE.

EASTMEON, HAMPSHIRE.

On Whit-Monday, May 18th, by the kind permission of the Vicar (Rev. E. M. Tomlinson, eight members of the Winchester Diocesan Guild met at the fine old Norman church of All Saints for the purpose of ringing the first peal on the lately augmented ring of eight bells in this tower. All having arrived at about 9.40 a.m., a move was at once made to the church, where they found everything in readiness, and after a few rounds just by way of trying the length of ropes, etc., "go" was called at 10.15., and without any hitch at 1.25 the first peal (a 5088 of Treble Bob Major) on the bells was accomplished. This peal is noteworthy; being conducted by Mr. G. Williams, a native of Eastmeon, it being also his 100th peal, of which number he has conducted sixty-three, and were rung in forty different towers in the following methods:

5040's on six bells 12, conducted 9; Plain Bob Triples 5, conducted 4; Plain Bob Major 2, conducted 2; Union Triples, 1; conducted 1; Grandsire Triples 37, conducted 29; Grandsire Caters, 1; Stedman Triples 20, conducted 10; Stedman Caters, 1; Stedman Cinques, 1; Treble Bob Major, 8, conducted 6; Treble Bob Royal 1; Treble Bob Maximus 1; Double Norwich Court Bob Major, 5, conducted 2; Superlative Surprise Major 4; Cambridge Surprise Major, 1. Total 100; conducted 65.

After the peal the ringers were invited to dinner at the "George" inn by the vicar, to which ample justice was done, and for which they wish to thank him, also for granting them the use of the bells, hoping to repeat their visit at no distant date. During the afternoon some Stedman Triples were rung, and at four o'clock they left for Petersfield station en route for Havant, where a peal of Bob Major was to be attempted at 6 p.m.

On arrival at Havant they were all invited to tea at the residence of Mr. Staples (a member of the local band here, who had been in the peal in the morning) before starting for the peal. This invitation it need hardly be said was accepted, and a most excellent tea was the result, and was thoroughly enjoyed by all; thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Staples. A move was then made to the parish church of St. Faith, and at 6.15 a start was made for 5024 Bob Major. All went well till 7.45, nearly two courses over the half-peal being rung, when one of the band "of some Stedman fame" set his bell, saying he was afraid they should not have time to finish the peal so as to catch his train at 9.28. The feelings of the remaining seven can be imagined; however he was sorry for his mistake, and provided all necessary refreshments while having to wait (instead of finishing the peal) for the train. The band separated just after 9 p.m., hoping to bring the peal off at Havant at some future time. Messrs. Grove, Bennett, Jones, Colburn, and Rees hail from Guildford; Williams from Brighton; Warren from Swanmore; and Staples from Havant.

RINGERS' OUTING.

On Whit-Tuesday, the Sheffield Junior Amalgamated Society held their Annual out at Nottingham. They were met at the station, and received a most hearty welcome from the Nottingham ringers. After having refreshed the inner man, they proceeded to All Saints' Church; everything being in readiness, touches of Kent Treble Bob and Stedman Triples were successfully brought round. An adjournment was then made to the "Arboretum" for dinner; after which they proceeded to St. Peter's, where touches of Kent Treble Bob, Bob Major and Stedman Triples were rung. St. Mary's tower was next visited, and touches of Kent Treble Bob Royal, Grandsire Caters and Stedman Caters were here rung on the fine peal of ten. With tunes and courses on the hand-bells, they finished up the day at the meeting-house of the Nottingham ringers. A really most enjoyable day was spent, and the visitors, through the medium of this paper, wish to most sincerely thank the Vicars, Wardens, and ringers of the various churches, for their kindness and hospitality throughout the day.

NOTE TO THE 5000 AT CHURCHDOWN.—This is supposed to be the first 5040 of Doubles ever rung on these bells, the local ringers always indulge in ringing 24's. Likewise this is the first 5040 by all the band upon five bells, and was rung for a curiosity more than a display of science. This Church is situate upon the top of a hill (known as Chosen Hill) which is about 300 feet above the level of the village, and according to history, some portion of the nave was built about the 12th century, but the tower and other portions are more modern. The bells are a very inferior peal and sadly out of tune; the tenor is dated 1693.

NOTE TO THE WIGAN PEAL.—This is the first peal of Major in any method rang on the bells, which were placed in the tower in 1732. It was rang in honour of Her Majesty, Queen Victoria's, 72nd Birthday. The ringers wish, through "THE BELL NEWS," to thank the Honourable and Rev. Canon Bridgeman, M.A. (Rector), for the use of the bells; also Mr. Halliwell, for having everything ready.

A CAUTION.—Some of our correspondents are getting into the habit of practical joking when writing their reports. The present mania is to add fictitious titles to the names of ringers, the publication of which would look very foolish. We hope this practice will at once be discontinued.

The Bell News & Ringers' Record.

SATURDAY, JUNE 6, 1891.

THE obituary records are this week again fuller than we desire. The great leveller has attacked several who bore names well-known to the Exercise at large, and many of us have to mourn the loss for ever of familiar faces. The death of the Waterloo steeple-keeper removes one who was a prominent character in the west of London twenty years ago. He was a man of very strong character, and though not in the highest grade among ringers, he possessed a fund of sterling common sense not sometimes met with in those of greater talent. Let this be our tribute—brief though it may be—to the memory of one with whom, at the period referred to, we were closely associated in ringing society's affairs.

Review.

THE CHURCH BELLS OF SUFFOLK.—By J. J. Raven, D.D., Author of "Church Bells of Cambridgeshire."—(London: Jarrold and Sons).—It is not easy to criticise such a book as this, embodying as it does the researches of forty-two years in a special and somewhat obscure department of antiquarian lore; the completeness and correctness of which could only be tested by an antiquarian campanologist equal in patience, perseverance, and accumulated stock of knowledge, to its learned author. The book is a perfect store-house of facts about the dates, dimensions, and history as shewn from inscriptions upon the bells themselves and from parish records, of every church bell in the county of Suffolk. Some idea of the patient labour involved in its preparation may be inferred from the fact that the list of "Inscriptions upon the Church Bells of Suffolk," which occupies the last 100 pages, contains the inscriptions upon 1864 church bells in 557 parishes, besides the smaller "clock-bells," Sanctus-bells," etc., which here and there survive. This list appears to us by far the most practically useful part of the book: the earlier chapters which deal with the lettering, foundry marks, etc., upon bells of various ages and by different founders, being of a purely antiquarian character—very valuable to a few enthusiasts, but not of much interest to the general, or even to the ringing public. As a specimen of the information given under the head of each parish, we may quote that which refers to St. Mary-le-Tower, Ipswich:

"Tenor Db, 32 cwt. Diam. 58 in. 12 bells.

1. †Cantate Domino Cantico Novo† 1866.
2. John Taylor and Sons, Loughborough, Founders, July 15th, 1845.
3. George Taylor Joselyn and Edwin Brook, Churchwardens, 1844.
4. Christopher Hodson made me 1688. R.M.T.S.
5. †Laudate Dominum in Cymbalis Resonantibus—1866.
- 6, 8, 10. John Darbie made me 1671.
7. Miles Graye made me 1607.
- 9.—En Resono Reparata Maria Decora Vocata— Cast by John Warner and Sons, London, 1866.
11. Miles Graye made me 1610.
- 12.—Triplex Persona Trinitas nunc Gaudia Dona— Cast by John Warner and Sons, 1861.

No return of bells in certif. of 1547. 5 and a Sanctus bell in 1553. Davy 2 Aug., 1810, notes 1, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8 (the present 4, 6, 8, 10, and 11) as here. The old 2nd (present 5th.) was like the old treble, and Warner in 1866 repeated the inscription on the old 6th (present 9th), dated 1707. The recasting saved any tuning."

Or that, again, of another well-known peal at Lavenham, the tenor of which is considered the masterpiece of Miles Graye:

"LAVENHAM SS Peter & Paul. Tenor C. 23 cwt. 8 bells.

- 1, 2. William Dobson, Founder, 1811.
3. Henry Pleasant made me 1702.
4. Ricardus Bowler me fecit 1603.

Jacobus Fuller et Antonius Honnesly Guardiani Ecclesiae de Lavenham.

5. Henry Pleasant made me 1703.

6. Ricardus Bowler me fecit 1603. Hic meus usus erit populum vocare (four dwarfs and other devices).

7. C. and G. Mears, Founders, London. Here follow names of Rector, Curate, and Churchwardens, and "Thomas Turner, Woolstapler; Charles King, Shoemaker," presumably the donors of the bell.

8. Miles Graye made me 1605.

Davy, Aug. 14 and 15, 1826, aucts "Hic. etc." on 6. al. sim (? "others likewise.") The old 7th "Henry Pleasant made me 1702." The Whitechapel mea were justly proud of their new seventh. She had to be flattened however. The tenor is a very noted bell. John Carr, when he first heard her said, "She came in with such a noble sound that she vibrated a perfect octave." Others have observed the absence of overtures. Some consider that she varies with the weather. In the vertical section of this bell the peculiarity seems to be thinness, especially at the crown. "Great bells v. Sancts bells"; "return in 1553."

These entries give the history of two famous peals; but they are fair specimens of the whole. The inscription and history of the bells in obscure country towers with only one, two, or three bells is recorded with just as much care; and many curious items of information turn up. As the Archdeacon of Worcester said the other day in his charge (see "BELL NEWS," May 23, 1891, p. 99), it is in the quiet country belfries that you find the mediæval bells, where no requirements of change-ringing have led to the recasting or augmentation of peals. But such "calm decay," if it has left some relics of antiquity undisturbed, has deprived us of many more through neglect, or by the careless sale of bells by needy parishes or grasping squires. Dr. Raven's pages contain only too many such entries as the following:—"all ornaments, playnt and belles belonging to our Cherche ar fore to sell" (1687): "one belle selde for xxxs., which is and shall be aplyed to the reparcn of church roffe and the palyng of the churchyerd" (1547): "The clerk informed me that there were some years ago 3 bells, but that two were sold for repairs" (1823): "a fine bell, cast in 1556, was sold by the parish in 1775 for £82 7s. 6d." In one parish now possessing one bell the return of 1553 gives great bells iii; and a set of ringers' rules dated 1707 shows that there was at that time a ring of bells. In another we find what Dr. Raven calls "a very suggestive case of depredation," a squire having in the reign of Henry VIII. sold two bells and two vestments belonging to his parish church, the loss of which to the parish was reported as £20; but when called to account by the commission of enquiry in 1553, he brought in a certificate that the bells were not worth £5 and that he had taken them "supposing the sayd church to be hys oune chapell." Contrary however to the common opinion, Dr. Raven does not seem to consider that, in Suffolk at any rate, there was any general robbery of bells either at the Reformation or during the Puritan regime of the 17th century. Church plate, as being easily portable, suffered far more.

Suffolk appears to retain a good many specimens of the "Sanctus" or "Sance" bell, a small bell rung at the Ter Sanctus (Holy, Holy, Holy) in the service of the mass; which was hung first on the rood-screen, and afterwards outside the church in a small cot on the nave gable. It also has two examples (at Southwold and Blythburgh) of a "Jack o' th' clock," or figure striking the hours on a bell; whose name Dr. Raven thinks is derived from one Jacquemart, a famous clock-maker at Lille in the 15th century. Some visitors to the Stour valley may have seen the curious bell house (or Clochard) in the churchyard of East Bergholt, in which the bells hang in a frame upon the ground. This Dr. Raven explains to have been intended as a temporary receptacle till the building of a tower, whose foundations may be seen; illustrating it by the figure of a similar bell-house which 200 years ago stood in the quadrangle of King's College, Cambridge, containing five large bells waiting for a tower—the tenor about 46 cwt. When this bell-house decayed about 1740, the bells were moved to the ante-chapel and thence before long to the Whitechapel foundry to be melted down—a melancholy instance of indifference and neglect which great collegiate foundations have too often shewn in regard to their bells. It is strange that after 150 years the site of the old bell-house should still be marked in dry weather by "a peculiarly arid spot" upon the College lawn.

The oldest existing bell in Suffolk is, according to Dr. Raven, the tenor at Worlington, from the Kings Lynn foundry, date about 1300. Dr. Raven thinks that the idea of casting large tower bells came from the East, and may have reached England about the sixth century; but the earliest instructions for making bells that he has been able to discover are in a treatise by a monk of Evesham in the reign of Henry III. (1216-1273). A "core" or central block seems to have been covered with a wax "model" of the intended thickness of the bell. Over this a "cope" or outer covering of earth was tightly pressed; and a fire lighted underneath melted the wax, which ran out, leaving its place to be filled with molten metal—one fifth or sixth part tin, purified from lead, and the rest copper. The relative dimensions of a peal of bells were determined by a rule of thumb calculation; the "model" for each bell, starting from the lightest, being eight-ninths of the one before it. Finally, "contemplating the abominable noise which would be sure to arise from these handiworks," the worthy monk adds "If you fail in any point, it can be set right with a whetstone or a file." And Dr. Raven may be right in attributing the almost total disappearance of bells of the Saxon or Norman periods to the free use of such instruments that must have been necessary to get bells so cast into anything like decent tune.

We shall not attempt to criticise the learned discussion of the marks, lettering, etc., found on bells from the early foundries of Lynn, Norwich, Bury, Thetford, etc., and the classification by the help of these marks of the church bells of Suffolk. This part of Dr. Raven's work shews extraordinary patience and minuteness; and the only complaint we have to make is that (perhaps inevitably) the mass of material collected in his note-books has not been so digested and arranged as to make it very easy of reference. There it is, however; a store-house of facts, a quarry in which you may dig anywhere and always find something. The last chapter contains some interesting jottings anent the work of some of the leading foundries of the present century at Whitechapel, Cripplegate, Loughborough, Redenhall, etc.; between which Dr. Raven judiciously avoids comparison.

Of change-ringing and its history this book has little to say, being concerned with the antiquarian rather than the practical side of campanology; and we should say, from external evidence, that its author, enthusiastic as he is about the bells themselves, has never been a ringer. But he has a good word to say for the art of change-ringing—and many of us know only too well the truth of the following remarks (ch. viii):—

"There are very few common subjects on which there are such wild ideas as on bell-ringing. Every Christmas in the illustrated papers you see the most grotesque views of ringers plentifully exerting themselves in a way which would ensure their own destruction and the ruin of the bell-gear. People think that ringing is a vulgar, low kind of thing, only practised by bores and a few partially-deranged gentlemen, who ought to be in a private lunatic asylum. Did they know anything of the history of the Art, they would find that among its votaries have been a nobleman, Lord Brereton; a great judge, Sir Matthew Hale; senators, as Sir Symonds d'Ewes; scholars, as Dawes, and many others, of whose company no honest man need be ashamed." Could he have added "The clergy in charge of good ringing peals," much of the neglect and misconception of which he speaks would have been obviated.

We have only to remark in conclusion that the style both of letter-press and illustration in this handsome volume does great credit to its publishers.

We have received from Messrs. S. W. Partridge and Co. (9, Paternoster-row), a copy each of their illustrated monthly magazines for June. They comprise The British Workman, The Band of Hope Review, The Children's Friend, The Family Friend, The Mothers' Companion, The Infants' Magazine, and The Friendly Visitor. These pleasant serials are got up with great care, and the illustrations are in admirable taste.

Obituary.

HENRY HUBBARD.

It is our painful duty to announce this week the decease of more than one ringer bearing an historical name. Henry Hubbard, the only son of the late talented author of "Hubbard's Elements of Campanologia," departed this life on Wednesday, May 13th, in the 58th year of his age. He was born in the parish of St. Giles, Norwich, on the 14th of February, 1834, at an hour when the bells were ringing merrily in changes for a peal, his father being one of the band. At the age of nine he could ring a bell, and commenced to ring under his father's tuition, being connected with the Exercise up to June, 1854. At this time he was looked upon as a very promising youth, and it was therefore to the immense grief of his devoted parents, and the dismay of his friends, that he enlisted into the 5th Northumbrian Fusiliers, then stationed at Norwich. He served with his regiment at the Mauritius, and through the Indian mutiny, being present at the capture of Lucknow on March 19th, 1858, and received the medal and clasp. On his return from active service he was for a time stationed at the Tower of London, then at the Curragh, in Ireland, where he completed his term of service, a good conduct badge accompanying his discharge. He rung his first peal during his military career (Holt's ten-part) at St. Leonard's church, Hythe, Kent. He joined his parents after his discharge, and became a member of the Leeds St. Peter's society, of which his father was a member. Not long afterwards he left to form a new band at Hunslet, and remained there until 1884, when he again joined the Leeds society. He belonged to the Yorkshire Association from its commencement, being a member of its first committee. He also belonged to the Ancient Society of College Youths and the Leeds and District Amalgamated Society. In all he rung ninety-four peals: Bob Triples 3, Bob Major 9, Bob Royal 1, Grandsire Triples 8, Yorkshire Court 1; Oxford Treble Bob Major 8, Kent Treble Bob Major 60, Kent Treble Bob Royal 3, Stedman Caters 1. Of these he conducted two. The interment took place at Woodhouse Hill Cemetery on Saturday, May 16th, the funeral being attended by relatives and ringing friends from Leeds, Wakefield, Hull, Holbeck, Rothwell, Hunslet, Headingley, Birstall, and Pudsey. A course of Grandsire Caters was rung over his grave by J. Hutchinson, 1-2; C. Jackson, 3-4; H. W. Needham, 5-6; T. Lockwood, 7-8; G. Barraclough, 9-10. And at the parish church in the evening the bells were rung muffled as a mark of esteem. He leaves a widow, three sisters, and an aged mother to mourn his loss. He was always one of the first to oblige for a peal, to assist young bands, or do anything to forward that art he loved so well. These lines will no doubt be read by many who will recall to memory many happy hours spent in his society. He was a true friend, and one whose place at Leeds will not easily be filled.

JAMES LOCKWOOD.

It is also with the deepest regret that we have to record the death, on May 7th, of this well-known and distinguished ringer, in the 74th year of his age. Deceased was born at Louth, in Lincolnshire, November 17th, 1817, and commenced to ring at Winterton in the same county. He joined the Leeds St. Peter's Company as a probationer, on September 1st, 1842, and was made a full member on December 30th, 1844. There is no record of the peals he has rung, but his first was at Pudsey. In 1848 he composed and conducted a peal of Stedman Triples. In 1849 he removed to Otley, where he resided until 1862, when he again removed to Leeds and joined the Leeds St. Peter's Company. He was one of the founders of the Yorkshire Association, in which he rung thirty-seven peals. Though a good ringer and conductor, he was most noted for his compositions, having composed peals of Stedman Triples, Grandsire Triples, Treble Bob Triples, Major, Royal, Maximus, and various other methods; amongst his peals of Treble Bob Major was an 8000 in five parts, and an 11,200. With a combination of the Oxford and Kent methods, he succeeded in getting the full extent 40,320 in Treble Bob Major. (See Sottanstill's book). On the revival of change-ringing in the county of Yorkshire, he for many years took a leading part, and was always ready to lend a helping hand, or give advice to young ringers. The gentleness of his disposition, his unselfishness and genuine simplicity of character, endeared him to a host of friends, who will long cherish his memory with affection. The funeral took place at Burmantofts Cemetery, Leeds, on May 10th, and was well attended by several ringers from different places. At the close of the solemn service, a course of Grandsire Caters on the hand-bells, was rung by the Leeds St. Peter Society over the deceased, and half-muffled touches were rung for Sunday service, as a tribute of respect to his memory.

JOHN BEEZLEY.

This good old tenor-man died on May 10th, at the village of Bishopstone, Wilts. He was born at Aldbourne (six miles from the last-mentioned place), in the year 1844, being thus in his 77th year. He well remembered several peals being cast at Aldbourne, at the foundry of the Wells family, and he rang the tenor there on March 27th, 1837, to a peal of Grandsire Triples, in 3 hrs. 16 mins. In 1838 he went to London, and enlisted into the Grenadier Guards, and the regiment being shortly afterwards sent to Winchester, he paid visits to most of the towers in and around that city. On returning to London, he became a member of the St. James's Society and the College Youths, and rang the tenor to several peals in the metropolis and neighbourhood, viz.: seven of Grandsire Triples and Caters; and three of Stedman Triples and Caters. Although in latter years becoming very feeble, it always delighted him to hear of ringing news generally, and our correspondent has frequently visited the old ringer, and spent some time with him whenever in the locality.

On the eve of going to press we are sorry to be apprised of the death of a very old friend—W. Coppage, steeplekeeper for many years at St. John's, Waterloo-road, London, which sad event took place on the evening of Tuesday last, in his 64th year. We shall refer to the event again next week; meanwhile it may be announced that the funeral will take place about 3 o'clock this day (Saturday) at Nunhead cemetery, the first part of the burial service being performed at St. John's church about 2 o'clock. A muffled peal will be attempted at St. John's after the funeral, by members of the Waterloo Society, and it is believed that the Vicar of St. John's will allude to the event in his sermon on the following day.

STOKE-ON-TRENT ARCHIDIACONAL ASSOCIATION.

A very successful meeting of the above Association was held at Cheadle on Whit-Monday, ringers attending from Bucknall and Uttoxeter. The bells having been raised, a start was made for a peal of Bob Minor, but through the noisy intrusion of some young persons in the belfry while the peal was in progress, it came to an abrupt conclusion. The Rector, the Rev. E. S. Carlos, having entered the belfry during the cessation of ringing, cordially greeted the ringers present, and invited them to the rectory for refreshments. In order that some of the younger ringers who were present—and whose knowledge of the science as yet only extends as far as Doubles—might have a share in the day's proceedings, two 120's of Bob Doubles were rung. Another attempt for the peal was then made, but unfortunately met with the same fate as its predecessor. An adjournment was then made to the rectory, where an inviting repast was found awaiting attention, the genial Rector presiding, and ever watchful for the well-being of his guests. It is needless to add that ample justice was done to the good things provided. The wants of the inner man having been attended to, the lay secretary, Mr. W. Twigg, rose to apologise for the absence of the clerical secretary, the Rev. R. B. Tonge, who had unavoidably been detained to minister to sick parishioners, and begged to offer on behalf of himself and fellow-ringers heartiest thanks to the Rev. E. S. Carlos for his great kindness in so handsomely entertaining all present, and reluctantly observed that such instances of the clergy's interest in the ringing community in this district were few and far between. The Rector, in responding, returned thanks for kind wishes expressed, and intimated that on future occasions he should only be too happy to again entertain them. A move was then made to the tower, but unfortunately all attempts came to grief. The bells were then lowered, and a move made to St. Giles' Catholic Church, to attempt a 720 of Oxford Bob, but when 600 changes—which had been exceedingly well struck—had been rung, a mishap spoiled the attempt. This brought an enjoyable day's ringing to an end, everyone being well pleased with the day's change.

THE SUSSEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

A district meeting of this Association was held at Balcombe on Saturday, May 2nd, but owing to the inclemency of the weather only a small muster of members attended: from Brighton, Balcombe, Crawley, Reigate, and Burgess Hill. The rector of Balcombe presided at the luncheon and business meeting which followed. A new branch at Waldron was formed, and altogether thirty-three active members were elected, including additional members to the following branches: East Grinstead, Angmering, Crawley, St. Albans, Balcombe and Arundel. It was decided that the annual general meeting be held in Brighton, the date fixed being July 4th, and that the report as usual be printed and distributed to the members desiring copies on the same terms as last year. Ditchling was selected as the centre for the next six-bell East Sussex District Meeting. Votes of thanks to the vicar and churchwardens for the use of the bells and to the vicar for presiding were passed. The bells, a peal of six, with tenor 11 cwt., were kept going during the afternoon and evening to the tune of Kent and Oxford Treble Bob, Plain Bob, College Exercise, and various other Minor methods.

TROWBRIDGE (Wilts).—Handbell Ringing.—On Saturday, May 9th, 421 Grandsire Caters. A. P. Goddard, 1-2; J. W. Washbrook (conductor), 3-4; W. W. Gifford, 5-6; T. Blackburn, 7-8; W. Greenleaf, 9-10. This was rung on an old peal of bells which was presented to the Trowbridge company of ringers by James Wells, of Aldbourne, bell founder, in the year 1800, when he put up the ring of eight in St. James' church.

THE SOCIETY OF TRINITY YOUTHS.

ESTABLISHED 1782.

By kind permission of the Vicar and churchwardens, the 100th Anniversary Meeting of the above Society was held on Saturday, May 30th, at St. Alphege, Greenwich, and, both as regards weather and attendance, was a great success, members from Stepney, Cubitt Town, Bermondsey, Greenwich, Woolwich, Erith, Crayford, Lewisham, Lee, Deptford, Bromley, Chislehurst, and St. Albans being present. Ringing commenced soon after 3 p.m. on the fine peal of ten at St. Alphege, and was kept up at intervals until about 6. Touches of Grandsire Triples and Caters, Stedman Triples and Caters and Kent Treble Bob Major were successfully brought round. At 6 o'clock a very excellent meat tea, to which about fifty-five sat down, was served in the Mission Room under the superintendence of Miss Airey (who very kindly presented each one present with a very handsome "button-hole.") There were also present the Hon. and Rev. Canon Legge, of Lewisham, the Rev. T. H. Forster, his curate, and the Rev. G. J. Bayley, of St. Alphege.

A special choral service was held in the Church at 7.30, the officiating clergy being the Rev. Brooke Lambert (Vicar), the Hon. and Rev. Canon Legge, and the Revs. T. H. Forster, G. J. Bayley, and J. W. Green (of Woolwich). Every member attended the service with their friends, and a fair number of members of the congregation. Service commenced with the "Old Hundredth," and a shortened form of evening service was gone through, after which the hymn "Holy, Holy, Holy," was sung, the singing and responses being joined in very heartily by all those present. The Vicar gave a most interesting address, taking as his text Zechariah xiv., 20-21. "In that day there shall be on the bells of the horses, Holiness unto the Lord, and the pots in the Lord's house shall be like the bowls before the altars. Yea, every pot in Jerusalem and in Judah shall be Holiness unto the Lord of Hosts;" and Isaiah lii., part of verse 11. "Be ye clean that bear the vessels of the Lord." He said:—

The prophet Zechariah foresees a day when the whole people shall be so God-fearing, that even the bells on the horses shall ring out the very words engraved on the high priest's mitre, and every pot in Jerusalem and Judah shall be as sacred as the vessels of the sanctuary. Isaiah in his message to the people would have them whilst waiting for the better times he foresees, purify themselves; and he specially desired those connected with the service of the temple to keep themselves pure. Speaking to you to-day as a society of bellringers, let me ask you to try and look forward to a day when religion shall enter a little more than it does now into daily life, and meanwhile to do your part to honour the office you hold. For there was a time when religion entered more into daily life, and that time may come again. There was a time when the bells with which you have to do, were baptized, were anointed, were incensed, and set apart to God as if they had been living things. And that was a time when men were not afraid to join the use of the sacred things with that of common things. Our belfry was in old times a watch-tower. The word was written "beffroi," from two words meaning "peace" and "tower" and the change to "belfry" is only one of those instances of how people will try and make sense out of a word they don't understand. The church bells were used to call the people to defend the town in case of civil or foreign war. The church tower was used to hold a cresset (one such I remember at Hadley, near Barnet) in which was a fire to summon those who lived too far off to hear the bells. And the sexton who has the tower and bells in charge was once the sacristan, or keeper of the sacred things. So the tower was used for common as for sacred things, and the keeper of the tower (who is now considered somewhat of an outsider) with the charge of the graveyard and bells was once a sacred person, having at least as much to do with the service as a chairman nowadays. The bells were rung for service, however, as well as for war, and for civil rejoicings as well as for public trouble. They called people to marriages and to burials; they celebrated the victories of the nation, the crowning of sovereigns, the election of members. There is one curious custom used in some churches which reminds us of the joining of religious thoughts to other thoughts. At a funeral the ringers watch in the tower, and ring a merry peal, or a muffled peal (namely, a merry peal with one bell silent) when the coffin comes in sight or is carried out to the grave-yard. What can that mean? It means that though we mourn the dead, we can in the words of our Burial Service, "give hearty thanks" that he is delivered out of the miseries of this sinful world. Without religion the Burial Service can be only sad; with the belief that "As in Adam all die, even so in Christ shall all be made alive," there is ground of rejoicing, which we can express in a peal. Now as bells were once sacred and yet were at the same time used for common needs, let us try and remember that the life on earth which our Lord Jesus Christ sanctified by thirty years of work and play at Nazareth, namely by living just the life which other boys and young men lived in these days, has nothing unholy about it except that which we bring into it. The commonest thing we do, if done honestly, earnestly, and unselfishly, is as religious as any prayer which is put up as many of our prayers are, for form's sake, and without earnestness. What makes a thing religious, is the feeling with which it is done, not the nature of the act. You can pull a bell religiously, and you can sing a hymn blasphemously. The great thing we want to learn, as we can learn if by Christ's life, is that God cares for the outside of the Church as well as for the inside; the workshop and the bell-chamber as well as the pulpit and the communion table. And so I come to the second text—the advice of the prophet Isaiah. "Be ye clean that bear the vessels of the Lord." We may have to wait a good many years before we can see Zechariah's hopes fulfilled. We can begin at once to realise the injunction of Isaiah. It is not so many years since the choirs in many of our churches had as little to do with worship as the barrel-organ which led them. I could tell of scenes in the west gallery (for they did not sit in the choirs in those days) which, thank God, cannot be repeated. And since this change has come over choirs, why should we not have a body of bellringers as reverent and attentive as our choirs are. Sometimes the bellringers remind me of the sarcasm which a man passed on an estimable man who gave largely to the support of the Church, but never entered it. "Ah," said my friend, "poor so-and-so is dead, he was a butress, but not a pillar of the Church." Why do bellringers so often go out at the Church door when the congregation comes in? I expect they would answer "Who cares for us? Have we ever had a clergyman up in our ringing-chamber? Do we ever see any of the congregation there? The choir have their seats in Church, has anyone thought of us?" Now in putting these questions I am sorry to say that I have to blame myself, for I could not give a satisfactory answer to them. But I am living to see better days. This service which you have asked me to give you is an evidence that if we come forward to encourage you, you will not be behindhand. Things have bettered even here. The tower and the bell-chamber are, if not as nice as they might be, no longer the disgrace they once were. A member of our congregation who goes into many places where good people are not often seen, has taken the belfry in charge, and offers to carpet the floor. The churchwardens have determined to allot a seat to the bellringers. I am afraid I am too old to begin bellringing, but one of my colleagues will I hope soon join the Society of Trinity Youths. But you won't make too much of these things. You don't want to be patronized. A movement which only lives by outside support is not worth much. You value these things at their true worth, which is very real. There ought to be sympathy, and you are glad to have it. And we are sorry that we did not give it long ago, and we acknowledge that churches in our neighbourhood, like Lewisham for instance, are far ahead of us. But you understand the appeal of the prophet—"Be ye clean that bear the vessels of the Lord." You are God's servants, used by him to call people to worship, to express their joy, and to sympathize in their sorrow. And you will try to be worthy of the office. "I had rather be a doorkeeper," said the Psalmist, "in the House of my God, than to dwell in the tents of wickedness." There is a pleasure in much that is bad for us, or the man would not be bad instead of good. But after all the real pleasure is that which comes not of the boisterous mirth of the gathering, where men say to one another things they would not like their sisters to hear, and talk of things which they would tell their children not to do. No, no; we learnt the scent of true pleasure at our mother's knee when she taught us to say "Our Father," and if we would arise and go to our Father, and say I have sinned, and it profiteth me not, and ask Him to give us grace to do better for the future, we should know a peace which passeth all understanding, a peace which the world cannot give, nor the world take away, and we should not even think gloomily of the fact that one day a muffled peal will be rung over us—for death would be the entrance to the Father's house.

The singing of the hymn "Now thank we all our God," brought a very interesting service to a close.

The business meeting was held in the Mission Room immediately after the service, the retiring Master (Mr. F. W. Thorn-ton) presiding. Preliminary business having been got through, the Hon. Sec. (Mr. E. E. Richards) read his annual report, which was as follows:

The number of members has again increased and the prosperous condition of the Society still continues. We have now on our books the names of 137 members, as against ninety-eight last year, and though a few names will probably be removed, the increase is a substantial one. The peals rung also shew an increase both as regards number and quality, as 23 peals have been rung in seven different methods, viz.: Two of Union Triples, one of Oxford Bob Triples, six of Grand-sire Triples, one of Grandsire Caters, two of Stedman Triples, one of Stedman Caters, four of Bob Major, three of Canterbury Pleasure Major, and three of Kent Treble Bob Major. Seven have been rung at Erith, five at Crayford, three at Dartford, three at Greenwich, two at St. John's, Deptford, and one each at Bromley, Lee, and Woolwich. Six were conducted by F. G. Newman, and four each by Messrs. E. Barnett and W. Bedwell, two by F. French, and one each by Messrs. H. P. Harman, J. J. Lamb, J. C. Mitchell, E. E. Richards, and J. W. Washbrook (Oxford). The Society has been very fortunate during the past year, as the towers of Greenwich, Lewisham, and Lee have been re-opened after repairs to the bell-fittings, etc., the go of the bells at these churches being all that can be desired. We have to lament the death of Mr. Henry Bright, of Woolwich, an old and respected ringer of many years' standing. I cannot close this report without acknowledging with feelings of gratitude the kindness with which I have been treated by members of the Society. Let me in conclusion express a hope that the coming year may be marked by further progress in change-ringing, and by increased unity and harmony among members in each tower.

The report having been received with applause, and the balance-sheet, shewing a balance of £3 8s. 5d. standing to the Society's credit presented, it was unanimously resolved, on the motion of Mr. Jeffries (of St. John's, Deptford) that the Report be adopted and the balance-sheet received, subject to audit, and that they be entered on the Society's minutes.

The next business was to elect a Master for the ensuing year, and Mr. Churchwarden Sydney having been voted to the chair it was unanimously agreed that the voting should be by ballot. Messrs. E. E. Richards, W. Bedwell, and F. W. Thornton were thereupon nominated, and the ballot taken, the result being—for Mr. Richards, 6; Mr. Bedwell, 11; and Mr. Thornton, 30. Mr. Thornton was then amidst great cheering duly declared elected for the second year in succession, and returned thanks in a few well-chosen words. The newly re-elected Master having retaken the chair, the names of Messrs. E. E. Richards and F. Rumens were then put to the meeting for the post of Hon. Secretary, and upon a shew of hands being taken, Mr. Rumens was declared duly elected by 28 votes to 6. The newly elected Hon. Secretary having returned thanks for the honour done to him, said he would endeavour to serve the interests of the Society in the best possible manner, more especially in trying to obtain for the members a weekly practice-night at the churches in the surrounding districts, and also quarterly meetings at the outlying districts, such as Bromley, Crayford, Erith, etc.

The Rev. T. H. Foster was then elected Treasurer, and Mr. H. Warnett, Steward for the ensuing year.

Several new members having been elected, Mr. Weatherstone proposed a vote of thanks to the retiring officers for their past services, which was unanimously agreed to.

Mr. Thornton, in responding for himself, said that the members had every reason to be proud of their Society, as it was not a failure but a very great success. The other retiring officers having returned thanks, the Master proposed a very hearty vote of thanks to the Rev. Brooke Lambert for his kindness in granting the use of the church, etc., and for the very impressive address and service, and to Mr. Churchwarden Sydney for his arrangements for the comfort of the members at the meeting, and last, but very far from least, to Miss Airey, for the very large amount of trouble she had taken with regard to the tea, and also for her habitual kindness to the ringers; and to the visiting clergy for their support. The vote having been carried with acclamation,

Mr. Churchwarden Sydney, in the course of his remarks, expressed regret that the state of the Vicar's health prevented him from attending the meeting, and responding on behalf of the churchwardens promised assistance to the Society if required.

The proceedings, which were very spirited and enthusiastic throughout, then terminated.

ST. MARY'S SOCIETY, KIDDERMINSTER.

On Whit-Tuesday six members of the above Society, with two friends, visited some of the towers in the south-east of Shropshire. It is a district in which little or no change-ringing is done, and, except at Bridgnorth, it is a thing quite unknown in the district visited.

A start was made about 8.30 a.m., and after about an hour's drive the first stopping-place—Alveley—was reached. A move was at once made for the church, the tower of which contains a handy little ring of six, cast by Rudhall, of Gloucester, and dated 1779. After getting the bells up, proceedings for the day were opened by a capitally-struck 720 of Bob Minor, in 24½ minutes, followed by a course of Double Stedman Minor. The Vicar, Rev. H. M. Wickham, came into the tower at the conclusion of the ringing, and expressed the pleasure it gave him to meet a band of change-ringers. After a short time spent in looking round the church (during which the local band gave a well-struck touch of Churchyard Bob), the journey was resumed, and in about half an hour Quatt was reached (the next place on the programme).

This tower also contains a ring of six, by Rudhall, date 1700. A 720 of College Single was tapped off in excellent style in 24 minutes, and the bells lowered. After thanking the Squire for the use of the bells (the Rector, his son, being away), we were soon on the road again, and Bridgnorth was reached about one o'clock. It was the original intention to attempt a peal here, but owing to unforeseen circumstances it was found to be impossible to arrange for one. Being rather behind time, we had to hunt up Mr. Overton, the head ringer at St. Leonard's, and after making arrangements to meet at St. Leonard's at two o'clock, each one went his own way to seek refreshment for the inner man.

On re-assembling, it was found that Mr. Overton had got the bells up and everything in readiness, so with his help and another of the Bridgnorth ringers a touch of Grandsire Triples (the last 700 of Holt's original) was attempted, but on the influx of about a score of visitors into the belfry, a trip occurred, and the conductor had to introduce some singles (not found in the original) to get the bells round.

The ringers were placed as follows:—Jeremiah Bennett, 1; J. Overton, 2; R. E. Grove (conductor), 3; W. H. Smith, 4; W. Wakeman, 5; T. Bennett, 6; H. Williams, 7; E. J. Hall, 8.

A move was then made to the church of St. Mary Magdalene, where there is a ring of six, but they sadly want the bellhanger amongst them. A 720 of Double Stedman was pulled off, but the go of the bells, and perhaps dinner not having properly digested with some of the band, made this the worst ringing of the day. The wagonette was again brought into use, and a move was made for Morville, a pretty little village about three miles north-west from Bridgnorth, on the Wenlock Road. Here there is a fine old Norman church with a low massive tower, to which, about 200 years ago, a bell-chamber has been added. The bells, a light ring of six, tenor about 9 cwt., were soon going merrily to the tune of Oxford Treble Bob, and all went well for about 200 changes when the second rope slipped wheel. A fresh start was made, but after ringing 500 changes, the conductor turned, as he called it, stupid, and "stand" was called. A third attempt was made, and a capital 720 was pulled off in 24 mins. The worthy clerk, Mr. Wall, informed us that this was the first Treble Bob ever rung on the bells. At the close of the ringing, the vicar (Rev. H. J. Ward), came in and expressed his pleasure at meeting us.

The return journey was now commenced, and after a drive of about six miles, Chelmarsh—a village on the west bank of the Severn—was reached. Here was found an old ring of six, and the circle of ropes caused some amusement, and we were some time in sorting them out. We got them right at last, and found they hung in the order of 1, 2, 5, 3, 4, 6, with the 5th near the centre of the belfry. This however did not affect the ringing in the least, and a 720 of Canterbury Pleasure was tapped off in excellent style in 24 mins. This is thought to be the first change-ringing done on the bells.

Kinlet was the next place to be visited, but the member who arranged the time-table had evidently not calculated on the roads. Hills were expected, but not the sort we encountered, and Kinlet was not reached until 9 p.m. The local ringers had waited about for us until 8.45, but had then given up all hope.

of them turning up. It was decided under the circumstances not to attempt any ringing, but drive straight for home, which was reached at 11.30 p.m. The ringers at the six-bell towers were placed as follows: J. Bennett, 1; W. H. Smith, 2; R. E. Grove, 3; T. Bennett, 4; W. Wakeman, 5; H. Williams (conductor), 6. The band wish to express their thanks to the clergy for permission to ring, and to the ringers and steeple-keepers at the various towers for having everything in readiness. G.

ST. ANDREW'S SOCIETY, NETHERTON.

A social gathering of this company and a few friends took place at the "Crown" inn on Tuesday evening, May 26th, and passed off very successfully, an excellent repast being served by the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. G. Mountford, and which was given by Mr. W. Prestidge, a member of the above society. After a long course on the knives and forks, "stand" was called while the cloth was being removed, when the leader of the society was unanimously elected chairman. The following toasts were given and received with the greatest cordiality: "The Queen and Royal Family," "The Bishop and Clergy of the Diocese and Ministers of other Denominations," "The donor of the feast," "Our Visitors," "Host and Hostess," etc. During the evening songs were sung by Messrs. Spittle, Smith, Micklewright, Townsend, Small, and Round; also recitations by Messrs. Bayliss and Smith. Courses of Grandsire Caters were rang on the handbells, but Bruce with his eleven came and broke the party up, all expressing themselves as having spent a very enjoyable evening.

THE LANCASHIRE ASSOCIATION.

A ringing meeting of the above was held at St. John's Church, Deansgate, Manchester, on Saturday, June 6th, when members attended from Ashton-under-Lyne, Eccles, Haughton and Rusholme. Touches of Bob Major and Grandsire Triples were attempted during the evening, but only one touch in each method was brought round owing to the bad "go" of the bells. This should not be so, as the bells have recently been rehung (the back three, 6, 7, 8, being fitted up with patent roller bearings) at a cost of nearly £50, by Shaw, Son and Co., of Bradford, Yorks. The "go" of the bells is pronounced to be bad by some of the best practical change-ringers in the county of Lancaster, and it is to be hoped for the repute of their good name, Shaw Son and Co. will rectify them at the earliest possible date, and try to give general satisfaction to the ringers of Cottonopolis and surrounding parishes, with their noted bells and ringers.

At the business meeting subsequently held in the belfry, presided over by the Rev. H. J. Elsee, it was decided to hold the next meeting at Rusholme, on Saturday, July 11th. It was also decided, that the reverend gentleman presiding at this meeting should notify the rector of St. John's parish as to the condition of the bells and the general opinion of all present regarding them.

HIGHAM FERRERS, NORTHAMPTONSHIRE.

THE BELLS.—A special meeting of the Churchwardens, Sidesmen, and Bell Fund Committee, was held in the Bede House, on Friday, May 29, the Vicar (the Rev. J. Dun), being in the chair. The Chairman stated that since the last meeting the sum of £110 had been collected and promised to the Bell Fund, and it was for this meeting to say what steps should be taken. The Vicar also stated that they had received an estimate for re-hanging the bells and adding two new bells, the sum being £338. Dr. Crew said he was very pleased to state that he would give one new bell, and it was also intimated that the other bell would be given by other gentlemen. It was unanimously decided that Mr. Henson be asked to give an estimate for the beams and the floor work. The Churchwardens further suggested that when the sum of £200 was given or promised, the work should at once be proceeded with.

Higham Ferrers bells are a peal of six, all (excepting the treble which is dated 1820) cast by Watts of Leicester during the 17th century. The tenor (a nice-toned bell) weighs about 22 cwt.

In addition to increasing the peal to eight it is intended to recast the present 2nd, which is cracked.

THE LATE WILLIAM COPPAGE.

The late William Coppage was born at Henley-in-Arden, Warwickshire, on Sept. 11th, 1828. He first came to London in 1839 at the age of 11 years. The first occasion on which he entered Waterloo Tower was in 1846, when he wrote his name in chalk on one of the beams supporting the roof. He succeeded R. Wood as steeplekeeper in 1866, which post he held till the time of his death. He was a member of the following societies: Royal Cumberlands, Waterloo, St. James's, Yorkshire Association, Trinity Youths, Dundee Society, and St. Mary's, Battersea.

The funeral took place at Nunhead Cemetery on Saturday last, as announced in last week's "BELL NEWS." The first part of the service was read at St. John's Church by the Vicar (the Rev. A. W. Jephson). A number of Mr. Coppage's old friends assembled in the church, and after the first part of the service had been read and the Dead March in Saul played by the assistant organist of St. John's, between 20 and 30 ringers of the Waterloo and other London Societies made their way to the cemetery.

On arriving at Nunhead the sad party paid a visit to the grave of the late John Cox, afterwards making their way to the family grave of Mr. Coppage. The remainder of the service was then read by the Rev. A. W. Jephson, a course of Grandsire Triples being rung on the handbells just before the last prayer, by the following: N. Partington, 1-2; S. G. Davies, 3-4; F. L. Davies, 5-6; A. E. Church, 7-8.

A beautiful brass plate was made and engraved by Mr. J. E. Davis of Camberwell, and fixed on the coffin, bearing the following inscription:—

CALEB WILLIAM COPPAGE,
DIED JUNE 2ND, 1891,
AGED 62 YEARS.

On arriving back in London the usual whole pull and stand was rung by eight members of the Waterloo Society, the same band afterwards ringing a peal of Grandsire Triples with the bells half-muffled, which will be found in its proper place.

On Sunday morning before service a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples (1330 changes) was rung with the bells half-muffled by the following:—G. Wild (conductor), 1; F. L. Davies, 2; S. G. Davies, 3; the Rev. A. W. Jephson, 4; W. Partington, 5; J. E. Davies, 6; A. E. Church, 7; W. Baron, Jun., 8.

At the service which followed the Rev. A. W. Jephson preached a special memorial sermon.

In the evening the bells were again rung muffled, when a touch of Grandsire Major (900 changes) was rung by the following members of the St. John's Society:—W. Ball, 1; W. Baron, Jun., 2; S. G. Davies, 3; J. Cassidy, 4; W. Partington, 5; the Rev. A. W. Jephson, 6; G. Wild, 7; F. L. Davies (conductor), 8.

ALL SAINTS' CHURCH, PONTEFRAC, YORKS.

A large clock has just been erected in the splendid tower of this church by John Smith and Sons, Midland Clock Works, Derby. The time is shewn on two dials, each seven feet across, and the hours are struck upon the largest bell. It is provided with all the latest improvements; all the wheels have machine-cut teeth, the pendulum is compensated for variations in temperature, and the general construction of the clock has been carried out to the designs of Lord Grimthorpe. The same firm are now making clocks and chimes for Culmington, Devon; Hayton, near Carlisle; and others.

NEW PEAL OF BELLS FOR IRELAND.

On Whit-Sunday a fine peal of eight bells, from the foundry of Messrs. Taylor and Co., of Loughborough, was dedicated to the glory of God, and for the use of the parishioners of Holywood, county Down. The bells bear the inscription—"Holywood Parish Church. Erected by subscription, A.D. 1891. Rev. J. B. Crozier, Vicar." The total cost is about £480. The tone of the new bells is clear and musical. The sound can be heard for several miles round.

THE UNEMPLOYED IN EAST LONDON.—At a time when much thought is being given to this matter, a practical suggestion may be of service. Last year more than £300,000 worth of foreign matches were purchased by inconsiderate consumers in this country, to the great injury of our own working people, so true is it that "evil is wrought by want of thought, as well as want of heart." If all consumers would purchase Bryant and May's matches, that firm would be enabled to pay £1000 a week more in wages.

DURHAM AND NEWCASTLE DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

On the Saturday preceding the Whit-Monday meeting of the above, held at Bishop Auckland, six members from Newcastle and district, and four from Sunderland, Durham, and Bishop Auckland, visited the quiet little village of Brancepeth to attempt a 5120 of Kent Treble Bob Major. A band of eight having been selected, a capital start was made, but a change-course taking place in the last few leads, it came round false after 3 hrs. and 28 mins. slow ringing. R. S. Story (Whitley), 1; R. C. Hudson (Sunderland), 2; H. Ferguson (Newcastle), 3; W. Story (Newcastle), 4; C. L. Routledge (Newcastle), 5; G. Atkinson (Winlaton), 6; F. Charlton (Auckland), 7; F. Harrison (Jarrow, conductor), 8. Tenor 14 cwt. Having lowered the bells the visitors wended their melancholy way to the station, and a long hour's wait in this cold comfortless place did not tend to raise their spirits much. Even the inimitable jokes of the funny man of the party fell flat under such dispiriting circumstances. Refreshments too, are quite an unheard-of luxury in this village, so that when Bishop Auckland was reached at last, fully an hour was spent in satisfying the cravings of the inner man. After supper the spirits of the party rose considerably above par, and a comfortable hotel was found under Mr. Charlton's able guidance, for the five who were left, Messrs. Atkinson and Hudson having gone back home. Here they settled for the week end, and being joined by several of the local band, handbell ringing and social discourse was the order of what remained of the evening. In the morning (Sunday) the party rose with the lark that rises at 8.30, and "made tracks," after breakfast to South Church where hangs a light peal of eight in capital order. A 1440 of Oxford Treble Bob was attempted for service but time would not allow of the last course being finished. L. Newton (Durham), 1; H. Ferguson, 2; R. S. Story, 3; C. L. Routledge, 4; W. Story, 5; E. J. Titt (Auckland), 6; D. Shipp (Staindrop), 7; F. Harrison (conductor), 8. After service three of the Newcastle contingent inspected the grounds of Auckland Castle, the residence of the Bishop of Durham, and then joined the others at dinner. Here four "demons of the whirling wheel" proved beyond doubt that cycling is as conducive to good appetite as ringing, for between ringers and cyclists small mercy was shown to the lamb and green peas set down for their disposal, not a morsel being left to tell the tale when all had finished. The after dinner pipes having been liberally discussed (and one of them liberally abused), the indefatigable five set out for South Church once more, where Mr. Charlton, with his usual hospitality, had invited them to a good all-round tea, which was quickly disposed of, and then the same touch of 1440, which was attempted for morning service was tapped off in 52 mins. in the Kent variation. L. Newton, 1; H. Ferguson, 1; C. L. Routledge, 3; J. W. Shipp (Auckland), 4; R. S. Story, 5; F. Charlton, 6; D. Shipp, 7; F. Harrison, 8. After this another disappointment awaited all concerned, as it was found impossible to attempt an officers' peal, which had been carefully arranged for the Monday morning to be rung either at Bishop Auckland or at Brancepeth.

The next day (Whit-Monday) saw a most successful meeting of the Association at South Church. The ringing, which was kept up at intervals throughout the whole day, was of a good order and of good striking withal.

The dinner was held at the "Crown and Anchor" hotel, at which about forty-five sat down, and strict and impartial justice was dealt out to all set before the ringers. The tables having been cleared, a general meeting was held. The President (Mr. R. S. Story) took the chair, and after proposing the usual loyal toast, submitted that of the Bishops and Clergy of the two dioceses.

The Rev. Mr. Scott, of Bishopwearmouth, with whose name this toast was coupled, responded, and dwelt on the friendly relations which exist or ought to exist between ringers and clergy.

Several matters of interest were then discussed and new members enrolled, and the meeting closed with a vote of thanks to the chairman and to the vicar and churchwardens of South Church for the use of the bells.

The ringing at South Church during the day commenced with 672 Bob Major by the local band, assisted by two visitors. R. Pallister, 1; T. Bozyard, 2; W. Charlton, 3; J. Pallister, 4; E. Titt, 5; D. Shipp, 6; F. Charlton, 7; F. Harrison (conductor),

8. And then two short touches of Bob Triples in which Messrs. Hudson and Brewis took part. Also 640 of Treble Bob by R. Borrows (Middlesbro'), 1; R. Moncaster (Darlington), 2; F. Lees, 3; J. W. Shipp, 4; R. S. Story, 5; F. Harrison, 6; E. J. Titt, 7; W. Story (conductor), 8. And 720 Bob Minor. G. Green, 1; H. Tyson (Tanfield), 2; T. Bozyard, 3; W. Sheraton (Chester-le-Street), 4; D. Shipp (conductor), 5; A. Meyers (Chester), 6. After the meeting at the "Crown and Anchor," a 720 of Kent Treble Bob. W. Bell (Darlington), 1; R. Moncaster, 2; *T. Hudson, jun., 3; D. Shipp, 4; C. L. Routledge, 5; W. Story (conductor), 6. *First in the method. And 480 of Kent Treble Bob. L. Newton, 1; R. S. Story, 2; R. Moncaster, 3; T. Clark (Ripon, conductor), 4; E. Titt, 5; D. Shipp, 6; F. Charlton, 7; C. L. Routledge, 8. Handbell Ringing.—During the week-end several courses of Triples and Caters were rung. Also 120 Bob Doubles. J. W. Shipp, 1-2; D. Shipp, 3-4; C. L. Routledge, 5-6. And 120 Grandsire Doubles. R. C. Hudson, 1-2; C. L. Routledge, 3-4; T. Hudson, 5-6.

CLUN, SHROPSHIRE.

The church bells having been for many years in quite an unsafe and nearly unringable condition, the ringers have lately set to work and had them entirely rehung at a cost of about £30. More than half the amount required the ringers have already obtained. Hitherto they have been confined to handbells for their change-ringing practices, but a better order of things is now instituted, and the belfry is already beginning to emit the varying music of one or other of the methods so perplexing to the uninitiated. The ringers are all members of the Hereford Diocesan Guild, and have made good progress in the art under the instruction of Mr. W. H. Fussell, the Guild Instructor.

At a meeting recently held to frame rules, etc., the following officers were elected: Conductor—J. G. Buchanan, Esq.; Hon. Secretary—Mr. W. Mead; Hon. Treasurer—Mr. J. Roberts.

On Friday, May 15th, it being the occasion of the funeral of the late Earl of Powis, several 6-scores of Grandsire Doubles were rung during the afternoon with the bells half-muffled as a tribute of respect to his lordship, who was a life member of the Hereford Guild. J. Davies, 1; J. Roberts, 2; W. Roberts, 3; W. Mead, 4; J. G. Buchanan, Esq. (conductor), 5; W. Griffiths, 6.

THE QUEX PARK AND ALL SAINTS' SOCIETY, BIRCHINGTON, ISLE OF THANET.

The above society met at the Powell Arms on Friday evening, May 22nd, that being the annual meeting night, Mr. T. B. Reed, sen. (captain), presiding. After the accounts for the past year had been duly audited, and the business apparently at a close, the secretary (Mr. W. Euden), rose and said he had a very pleasing duty to perform, and that was to ask the Captain to accept of a small present from the members of his band as a token of their esteem and respect for the interest he has taken for twenty-four years in forwarding the art of change-ringing at Birchington and elsewhere. The present took the form of a gold scarf pin, set with a crystal bell with the initials "T.B.R." engraved. After the present had been inspected by the members, the Captain, who was taken by surprise, said he thanked all the members for their kindness, and hoped he should be with them on many more occasions. After a few other remarks, the handbells were brought out, and several good courses were rung on them, bringing one of the pleasantest annual meetings to a close.

THE LANCASHIRE ASSOCIATION.—ROSSENDALE BRANCH.

A meeting was held on Saturday, June 6th, at Newchurch. Members attended from Rawtenstall, Waterfoot, Bacup (Christ Church and St. Saviour's), and the local company. There was one life member—the Rev. H. Bury, rector—and three ringing members elected. The rector provided a knife and fork tea, free of cost to all who attended, and in a few remarks expressed his good wishes and his earnest desire to forward the interests of such a good and influential body of ringers as the Association. The next meeting will be held at Rawtenstall during August.

THE ALLHALLOWS SOCIETY, TOTTENHAM.

The annual excursion of this society took place on Whit-Monday and Tuesday, the party leaving Cannon-street station at 8.20, and arriving at Aylesford, Kent, at 10.30, the journey down being enlivened by tunes, etc., on the handbells. The inclemency of the weather necessitating the shelter of the "Bush" inn being sought, the handbells were again brought into use, and some capital courses of Grandsire were rung. After dinner, which was well served, and to which the party did ample justice, a move was made to the tower. The feelings of the relatives of the late Mr. H. A. Brassey, of Preston Hall, who was buried the previous day in the churchyard, having been ascertained, the bells, half-muffled, were set going to the tune of Canterbury Pleasure Major, of which an excellent peal of 5056 changes was rung in 3 hrs. 13 mins. In the evening a beautiful walk to Snodland brought the first day to a close.

Tuesday dawned under greatly improved atmospheric conditions, and after an early breakfast the party walked to Birling, a pretty village about thirty miles from London. Until recently the tower of the parish church was furnished with an old peal of six bearing the following dates and inscriptions:

Treble.—"Lester and Pack, fecit, 1759."

Second and Third.—"T. Lester made me, 1746."

Fourth and Fifth.—"Joseph Hatch made me, 1631."

Tenor.—"Joseph Hatch me fecit 1631."

The fourth bell in the old six has been recast, and a new treble and tenor added by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank, who have made a capital splice; the whole have also been rehung and furnished with new fittings, and considering the draught, from the floor of the church, the bells go splendidly.

After a short dedication service a touch of Kent Treble Bob Major was rung, and at eleven o'clock the opening peal in the same method was commenced, and shortly after two o'clock a well-struck peal was brought round in 3 hrs. and 3 mins., all the band expressing themselves favourably of the work of the bell founders. The party were then entertained at dinner by Miss English, who with several other ladies of the neighbourhood have been very energetic in raising the necessary funds for the alterations in the tower.

The afternoon was spent in scaling one of the neighbouring hills and viewing the country from a height of 600 feet. On descending the visitors made their way to meet the local ringers at the vicarage where tea had kindly been provided by the vicar. In a short address he complimented the ringers on their ringing, and hoped that when next they visited that part of the country they would not fail to come to Birling, for he considered that much good was done by ringers congregating and ringing together.

Mr. English responded for the Allhallows society, and a move was made to the tower where some Stedman, Plain Bob, and Grandsire were rung.

The time for departure having arrived, farewells were exchanged, and the company arrived at Tottenham at eleven o'clock, all having thoroughly enjoyed themselves.

The Allhallows (Tottenham) society take this opportunity of thanking the vicars and ringers of Aylesford and Birling for the cordial manner in which they were received.

A VISIT TO DOVER.

On Whit-Monday a visit was paid to Dover by the Speldhurst company for the annual outing. On arriving they were met at the station by Mr. Potter, and after some refreshment a move was made for the church. The bells were then raised in peal and 300 Bob Minor was rung. Afterwards a start was made for 720 Plain Bob Minor (eighteen bobs and two singles), which was brought round in 27 mins. H. Card (first 720), 1; B. Winn, 2; J. Baker, 3; F. Still, 4; H. Edwards, 5; G. Card (conductor), 6. In the afternoon Mr. Potter obtained permission for the ringers to look over St. Mary's church. The bells were inspected and chimed, the ringers not being able to ring them as the wheels are gone to decay, and the tower not safe, but it is a shame for such a fine peal of eight to lay idle. The ringers wish to thank Mr. Potter very kindly through the medium of this paper, for spending the day with them and making the time so enjoyable.

ANOTHER REPLY TO "CHANGE-RINGING CHURCHMAN."

SIR,—May I be allowed to say a word or two with regard to matters touched upon in a letter which appeared in your issue of May 16th, from one who signed himself "Change-Ringing Churchman?" Our friend "Free Lance" dealt with the letter in a manner which leaves but little to be added, and I hope will pardon me for supplementing his remarks. Surely no one expects that our Associations should consist only of men who can never be found fault with on the ground of non-attendance at church, or for other similar shortcomings. The chief objects of our Diocesan Associations is to raise the tone of ringers where it is necessary; and the continual theme of the addresses given at our meetings is, moral improvement amongst ringers, and a higher sense of their duties as church workers. An Association can bring but little influence to bear upon ringers who are not within its ranks. It is amongst its ringers, not among outsiders, that its work can take effect. Therefore if all members of such Associations are so good that there is no room for improvement, the main object of their existence is gone. By all means exclude men who lead notoriously evil lives, but more than this we cannot do if we are to any good work among ringers. This "Churchman" falls foul of the clergy for taking any part or interest in ringing. Would he have us take no part in the management of our choirs, and no share in their instruction? If it is allowable for us to give up some of our time to the study and practice of music, in order to be able to do this work towards the perfection of the services of God's house, surely we may be allowed to study change-ringing in order to help our ringers, and improve that part of the work which is done in God's house for His glory. Surely if this gentleman is a "change-ringer" as well as a "churchman," he does not wish to see "stoney" and "churchyard bob" flourishing as they still do in so many neglected belfries, together with the many evils which usually are to be found side by side with them. The best way to banish all this is for every rector or vicar, who has a ring of bells in his church, to become a change-ringer, for then it would not be tolerated. Till the happy day arrives when such shall be the case, we change-ringing clergy, in spite of the outpourings of wrath from such "churchmen" (!) as your correspondent, shall be moved to travel about the country, whenever the occasion and the opportunity presents, and to do our best to awake such an interest with regard to their bells and ringers, amongst the clergy of the churches at which we ring, as will lead them to be constant visitors to their belfries, and not to leave the management of everything in that particular portion of the church to their steeplekeepers, however worthy the latter may be, and even though they be, like your correspondent, "change-ringing churchmen."

Oldland Vicarage, Bristol.

HERBERT A. COCKEY.

NORTH NOTTS. ASSOCIATION.

SIR,—On Whit-Monday I had the pleasure of attending the above Association meeting for the first time. Upon arriving at Workshop the first ringer I met was one of our own band, Mr. G. Marsden. After partaking of dinner with a friend we started for the Priory Church, for Divine Service, which was very poorly attended; well might the Vicar take for his text: "Weep with those who weep, and rejoice with those who rejoice." The Secretary had provided a splendid meat tea for forty persons, free of charge, and behold! half that number sat down. One member remarked—"They have gone to the sports." When asking another member about some news in our paper, he replied: "Well, I don't take one, but we get to see one at our tower." My reply was: "Well, we have only six bells, but take eight copies." The ringing was pretty fair on the whole, but if different bands would take their full strength to each meeting, no prize-ringing would be needed to produce good striking. How can we expect good ringing when men of three or four different companies are ringing together, who perhaps have not practised the touch for many months. It may be of interest to the Secretary to know who took part in the three 720s which were rung, and this information will be found in the proper place. The bells are in good going order, and I hope the local company will rally round their Vicar, and make better use of them. I suppose the next meeting will take place at Everton, and by that time let's hope for a better muster, and more subscribers to this paper.

The Bell News & Ringers' Record.

SATURDAY, JUNE 13, 1891.

THE month of June has not yet developed any of that glorious summer weather which is anxiously looked for. The thermometer has not yet reached 100 degrees in the shade; in fact such a period of summer seems at present far off. When the hot weather does arrive, we shall look for less peal-ringing, and an increase in those affairs known as "outings." Whether the "annual excursion" is by road or rail, our friends would do well to select, where possible, some spot where their visit may either give a fillip to existing ringing companies which are not sufficiently energetic, or create a desire among those they visit for a complete knowledge of the Art.

This peal has neither the 2nd or 3rd in 6ths place at a course-end; and has the 4th, 5th, and 6th their extent in 5-6; and is the best peal composed on the plan.

By omitting the bob at 6 in the second course of either of the parts, eliminates two courses, reducing the peal to 5152 changes.

ARKSEY, NEAR DONCASTER.—On the evening of Tuesday, the 31st ult., a service, unique in its kind, so far as Arksey is concerned, was held in the parish church, for the purpose of dedicating a clock, kindly presented for the church tower by the Misses Dunhill, in memory of their father. The attendance was a large one, and one which was surely a pleasing tribute to the memory of him, who still lives in the affections of the parishioners of Arksey. At a convenient point in the dedication service, the clock was formally started by the Misses Dunhill, after which the service was, with a few suitable prayers, concluded. It is almost impossible to speak too highly of the value that the new clock will be to the village. For some years back the old clock in the Arksey church tower had been a source of annoyance rather than of help to those who had to rely upon its statements for their knowledge of the correct time of day. The new clock will therefore come "as a boon and a blessing," not only to the parishioners themselves, but to the many who, from time to time, either from business or from pleasure, find it necessary to visit this beautiful little village. The hours are struck on the tenor bell, which bears the date 1622, and the quarter chimes on two smaller bells placed in the tower fifty years after that date. The design is that of Lord Grimthorpe, with the gravity escapement attached, and compensation pendulum and maintaining powers. The clock has a solid horizontal cast-iron bed frame (which is fixed on strong cast-iron brackets bolted to the wall of the tower), and has all the latest improvements. The work has been done by the well-known firm of Messrs. Potts and Sons, of Leeds, a name which, wherever it is found, is always a guarantee for excellent workmanship and finish. Attached to the clock is a brass plate bearing the following inscription:—"Erected to the memory of William Workman Dunhill, by his daughters, Mary and Edith. March, 1891." The beautiful skeleton dial, designed for the church by the late Sir Gilbert Scott, has been retained but has been re-gilded. All thanks are due to the Misses Dunhill for their gift, which is at once a noble and most useful one, and one in every way worthy of him in whose memory it has been given.—Doncaster Chronicle.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

AMATEUR.—Hubbard's Elements of Campanalogia (Fletcher, Norwich).

A report of the Yorkshire Association meeting, several other reports, correspondence, and touches, are unavoidably held over until next week.

WALLASEY, CHESHIRE.

On Whit-Monday, May 18th, Messrs. J. Prescott, Geo. Prescott, J. Pilkington, and T. Martland from Ormskirk, with Messrs. Pritchard, Fisher, and J. Booth of Liverpool, visited the above church, and by the kindness of Mr. S. Wood of Wallasey, who took the trouble to get the requisite permission, were enabled to have a ring on this musical little peal of six. An attempt for a 720 Grandsire Minor proved fruitless after ringing upwards of 600, by J. Prescott, 1; J. R. Pritchard, 2; J. Pilkington, 3; J. Wood (Wallasey), 4; G. Rogers (Wallasey), 5; G. Prescott (conductor), 6. The next attempt at Grandsire was more successful, being brought round in 24 mins., by J. R. Pritchard (conductor), 1; J. Booth, 2; J. Pilkington, 3; J. Wood, 4; J. Rogers (Wallasey), 5; G. Prescott, 6; as also was a 720 Plain Bob Minor in 23 mins., by J. Rogers (Wallasey), 1; J. Booth (Liverpool), 2; J. R. Pritchard (conductor), 3; J. Wood (Wallasey), 4; G. Fisher (Liverpool), 5; G. Rogers (Wallasey), 6. The visitors take this opportunity of thanking all who met them for contributing to their day's enjoyment.

LOCKERLEY, HANTS.

On Whit-Monday the Romsey Branch of the Winchester Diocesan Guild of change-ringers paid a visit to the above place, by the kind invitation of the Vicar (Rev. S. F. Bourdillon). Arriving at the church at 3 p.m. the bells were raised in peal and a start made for a 720 of Bob Doubles, which was accomplished at the second attempt in 24 mins. The Vicar at the close, entering the belfry, complimented them on the good striking. An adjournment was then made to the Vicarage to partake of an excellent tea kindly provided by the Vicar. After tea the ropes were again taken in hand, and this time a 2160 was pulled off in 1 hr. and 10 mins. The bells were then lowered in peal and a move made for home. The above is the first change-ringing on the bells, and the longest lengths by all except C. Tribe. The following were the ringers:—Fred Russen, 1; J. Ellcomb, 2; G. Newman, 3; C. Tribe, 4; T. Cole (conductor), 5; J. Walker, 6.

LANCASHIRE ASSOCIATION.

On Saturday last a meeting of the Blackburn Branch was held at Walton-le-dale, when representatives were present from Blackburn, Church, Higher Walton, Houghton, Preston, and Walton-le-dale. During the afternoon the Higher Walton company rung a 720 of London New Bob, and afterwards mixed companies rang touches of College Single, Plain Bob, and Grandsire Minor. Mr. J. Walker presided at the meeting which was subsequently held, at which seven new members joined. It was decided to hold the next meeting at St. Ann's-on-the-sea, on Saturday, June 27th, where there is a new peal of 8 bells. Votes of thanks to the Vicar, Wardens, and Chairman, brought a very enjoyable meeting to a close.

HONOURS FOR MRS. GRIMWOOD.—Although the Government did not confer the order of the Crown of India upon Mrs. Grimwood, she has received two tributes to her heroism. One, the Royal Red Cross conferred by the Queen; and the other, the gold Victoria olive wreath, which is awarded by the proprietors of The Gentlewoman to those who distinguish themselves by some act of womanly devotion. Mrs. Grimwood richly merits both of these honourable distinctions.

Obituary.

WILLIAM HOVERD.

It is with regret that we have to announce the decease of this ringer, which took place on Friday evening, the 5th instant, in the "William King" ward of St. George's hospital, at the age of 58. He was a native of Chipping Norton, a small town situate on the borders of the three counties of Gloucester, Oxford, and Worcester. On arriving in London, he joined the Cumberlands, and rang his first peal at St. James's, Clerkenwell, in 1864. Altogether he rang about 100 peals, in the standard methods, in which he generally figured at the heavy end. For some time he filled the post of Secretary to the above society, and was steeplekeeper of St. Gabriel's, Pimlico, for some years. As is well known he had been in failing health for some time, but he maintained his connection with ringing till the last, and frequently has been seen at the treble at St. Gabriel's when his condition necessitated rest and quiet, only that he was anxious to oblige his friends when the band had met one short. By his decease and that of the late W. Coppage, the Cumberlands have within a short time lost two men who were at one time very prominent members.

HEZEKIAH ROGERS.

The belfry of All Saints, Boyne Hill, Berks, has sustained a great loss by the death at the early age of 31, of the above-named ringer, one of its earliest and most valuable members. The funeral took place on Saturday, May 30th, when both clergy, choir, and ringers from the parish and neighbourhood united in all tokens of esteem for their deceased fellow-worker. The bells were rung deeply muffled on the approach of the bier, and after the office had been said by Rev. R. P. Newhouse, the usual whole pull and stand with rounds, Queens, Whittingtons and Tittums, 31 strokes on the tenor, and a touch of over 1000 changes were rung. Before Evensong on Sunday a quarter-peal of Grand Triples, with muffled bells, was rung by the following: Rev. R. P. Newhouse, 1; O. Faisey, 2; J. W. Wilkins, 3; F. Bissley, 4; F. Dentry, 5; G. Wilkins, 6; C. Hoskins, 7; H. Gilding, 8. Composed and conducted by J. W. Wilkins.

AN ELIZABETHAN BELL.

(From "The Hampshire Independent.")

The last bell I described was a Cromwellian, of Fordingbridge church. Now I will give you an Elizabethan, of Crawford church, near Wimborne. The bell stands with two others in a neglected state—rotting wheels—and is about 12 cwt. In the church below a princess of an early period is buried. The inscription on the bell is

GOD BE OVR GUYD.—1589.

The date is about two years before Queen Bess—a most useful queen to old England—paid her last public visit to Southampton.

GEO. PARKER.

NOTE TO THE ST. ALBANS 5040.—The following 720s were rung by the brothers Mitchell as practice, and in several unsuccessful attempts for the 5040 recorded in another column: 3 of Double Bob, 5 of Yorkshire Court, 2 of Plain Bob, 5 of Court Bob, 4 of College Single, 2 of Double Oxford, and 1 of Oxford. The 5040 was rung very regularly throughout, four 720s taking exactly 16 mins. each, the others being the same within a few seconds.

THE Clergy Pensions Institution is founded to promote the efficiency of the Church by facilitating the retirement of the Clergy when they are incapacitated by age or infirmity from fulfilling their duties. The necessary funds are raised by the combined action of the Clergy and Laity. Every Clergyman (not already aged or infirm) who wishes to participate in its benefits must, as a measure of self-help, himself purchase a Deferred Annuity of specified amount; while the contributions of the Laity form an Augmentation Fund to increase those Annuities to amounts adequate as pensions.

THE YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION.

(From our own Correspondent.)

For many months back, ringing concerns in the ancient city of Ripon have been of a somewhat lively character. The first practical result of this animation was demonstrated in the re-hanging of the ring of eight in the south-west tower of the Minster, when the bells were removed from their old bearings and placed in a new steel frame by Messrs. Shaw, Son, and Co., of Bradford. This frame also had extra pits for two new trebles, which it was hoped might at some not distant date be added, and thus make the excellent ring even more worthy of the fine old edifice—the "Mother Church" of the diocese of Ripon. Hardly had the old eight bells got settled in their new frame, when the order for two new trebles was placed with Messrs. Shaw. About the same time this firm also received the commission to rehang the pretty ring of eight at St. John's, Sharow, which work was duly executed. It was intended to have had the new ring of ten at the Minster first rung for Easter morning service, but through unavoidable circumstances this was prevented, and it was not until some weeks after that their sound first went forth from the tower. The next important item in the programme was the June meeting of the Yorkshire Association, an invitation for which had been given and most cordially accepted at the Bradford meeting in February. Naturally, the brunt of the work locally fell upon Mr. Thomas Clark, the highly esteemed chief of the city ringers, and it could hardly have fallen into better hands, certainly not into those of any one more zealous, untiring, and anxious for the success of the gathering. It is therefore most gratifying that we are able to report the culmination of his labours as being highly-satisfactory, pleasant to the visitors, and creditable to himself.

Saturday morning, June 6th, broke dull and heavy over the city of Ripon; for some time Jupiter and Solus had a struggle for mastery, but eventually the bright orb won, and then came the prospect of a lovely day, which was afterwards realised. Early trains brought visitors from various parts of the county, bent on a day's combination of business and pleasure. Soon the Minster bells were going, and shortly after the bells of Sharow were sounding over the fields and meadows. Later trains brought larger contingents, till afternoon, when a heavily-laden special train arrived from Bradford and soon caused the thoroughfares to present a thronged appearance. The earlier comers had, previous to this, after indulging in a ring, paid a visit to the famous grounds of Studley Royal, the seat of the Marquis of Ripon, in which the extensive ruins of Fountains Abbey are situate, special privileges for the enjoyment of which had been generously afforded by the Marquis.

For the day's proceedings, the Victoria Assembly Hall had been engaged by the Ripon branch. At four o'clock the official committee met, and amongst other business admitted twelve new members. At five o'clock the members and friends assembled in the theatre of the building, and there with the Mayor of the city and other dignitaries partook of a most excellent meat tea which had been provided by the Ripon branch, the tables occupying the whole floor of the theatre being well and comfortably filled.

As this pleasant function drew to a close, the president, accompanied by some of the officers, the Mayor of Ripon, and Mr. Thomas Clark, ascended the stage, and took their seats preparatory to commencing the business meeting.

Mr. Snowdon, in opening the proceedings, expressed the pleasure which he felt, and which he was sure they all would have felt, at the numerous gathering of members and friends in the ancient city of Ripon, as well as the generous hospitality and kindly greeting which they had met with from the citizens, a sentiment which was warmly greeted. He then read the minutes of the previous meeting, which were passed unanimously and signed.

The next business was the selection of the town for the holding of the Annual Meeting, whereupon

Mr. B. T. Copley (Hon. Sec.) read letters which he had received from Mr. Thomas Hattersley on behalf of the Sheffield members, inviting the Association to hold the October meeting at Sheffield, and testifying to the interest taken in it by the Ven.

Archdeacon Blakeney. He therefore moved that the annual meeting be held at Sheffield.

Mr. J. H. Hardcastle (Bradford) seconded.

Mr. Thomas Lockwood then rose, and while giving expression to the great respect in which the Sheffield brethren were held by the Leeds branch, was sorry to have to appear somewhat in opposition to the motion, which had come upon him and the Leeds members that day as a great surprise. Some time before he had mentioned the question of the next annual meeting to their old friend Mr. C. H. Hattersley, asking him if there was any intention on the part of the Sheffield members to move in the matter of the annual meeting, and was assured by him that they had no such intention this year. Had it been otherwise, the Leeds members were prepared to support unanimously the holding of the annual meeting at Sheffield, round which town were gathered so many pleasant recollections. But seeing that no action was likely to be taken by Sheffield, they at Leeds had held meetings, considered the matter well over, and approached the parish church authorities, by whom their proposal had been met in the most cordial manner possible. He had therefore no alternative but to propose Leeds as the place for holding the annual meeting.

Mr. D. York (Holbeck) seconded the amendment, which was supported by Mr. Snowdon and others, and on the voting being taken was carried by a large majority.

Mr. Thomas Lockwood then replied, thanking the meeting for the vote, and assuring the members that no effort would be wanting on their part to make the annual meeting in Leeds a thorough success.

On the motion of the President, seconded by Mr. W. Stainthorpe (Birstall), Hon. Treasurer, Messrs. T. Lockwood and W. Abbshaw were unanimously appointed auditors for the ensuing year.

Mr. W. H. Howard (York) proposed a vote of thanks to the Dean and Chapter of Ripon, the Rev. H. D. C. Nunn, M.A., vicar of Sharow, and the wardens of both churches for the use of their bells during the day.

Mr. B. T. Copley seconded, and the motion was carried with loud cheers.

A motion, of which notice had been previously given, signed by the President and Hon. Sec., then came up for discussion. It was to the effect that—

"Should a member financially qualified for non-resident membership, leave the county, owing only the subscription for the year then current, it shall be lawful for the committee, after considering an application and statement of the facts, signed by such member, to re-instate his name and permit his subscriptions towards life-membership to be resumed from the point at which they ceased, provided always that his application be within two years from the date of his return to the county."

This was carried unanimously.

A proposition from the Hull branch, of which notice had also been given according to rule, enacting—

"That all members of the General Committee attending Committee Meetings at headquarters, for making arrangements for holding the General Meetings, and residing more than fifteen miles away from such meeting place, shall have third class railway fares allowed out of the funds of the Association for distances over and above the said fifteen miles," was the next item on the agenda paper.

In the course of discussion upon this motion.

Mr. Thomas Clark asked a question with reference to the financial position of the Association, as to how it could reasonably bear the increased drain upon its income which this motion would entail.

The President in reply, stated that they were on the point of investing a second £100, and when that had been accomplished, he thought they might safely trust that each year would pay its own way. Hitherto they had been most economical, in order that they might place themselves upon a sound financial basis. They had been twitted many times on being a rich Association, but when they took their liabilities into account, it would be readily seen that they required at least the £200 invested to keep themselves in something like a solvent position. They in Yorkshire had no large annual subscribers like some kindred associations; and more than this, this system of life membership after the payment of 11s. 6d. subscriptions, placed a great liability upon their shoulders, inasmuch as all these life members, although ceasing to pay annual subscriptions, were entitled to all the privileges of paying members so long as they lived. At the same time he (and he might also speak for the Committee) agreed in principle with the motion, as it was manifestly unfair to expect a man living at a considerable distance from headquarters not only to devote his time but also to be put to so great an expense in attending committee meetings. He thought they might at least give the proposal a fair trial. The motion was eventually all but unanimously agreed to.

Mr. Thomas Stockdale (Hull) proposed, and Mr. W. Elliott (Birstall) seconded, a cordial vote of thanks to the Ripon branch for their generous hospitality and the arrangements which they had made for the success of the gathering and the comfort of their visitors, which was carried amid loud applause, and briefly responded to by Mr. Thomas Clark.

Replying to a hearty vote of thanks for his presence amongst them that day, the Worshipful the Mayor of Ripon expressed the pleasure which the visit of the Yorkshire Association had given not only himself but the citizens at large. The Church's ringers were, he always considered, a very important body in the land. Even if their work of summoning the people to church Sunday after Sunday was not an integral part of the service, at the very least it was an old national institution, the loss of which would be incalculable. The great distinctive mark of the Lord's day, to his mind, was the sound of the church bells as it floated in the air, calling citizens to the worship of their Lord and Master; and thus the work of ringers was a highly important one. He trusted all ringers would always remain fully alive to their duties and the importance of their work; that they would ever be valued as they deserved to be; and speaking for himself and his own city, while cordially welcoming them that day, assured them of a similar welcome at any other time when they should decide to pay a visit to the old city of Ripon.

The Mayor resumed his seat amid loud plaudits, and a vote of thanks to the President concluded the business of the meeting.

Immediately after—at 6.45—a special choral service was held in the choir of the Minster, at which a large congregation assembled. The full choir of the cathedral took part, and after the third collect rendered the anthem "Sing we merrily unto God our strength"—(Psalm lxxxi. Exultate Deo.) At the conclusion of this service, the Bradford branch ascended the tower and rang a touch of Kent Treble Bob Royal, on the completion of which, a few minutes before nine o'clock, the bells were lowered, and ringing finished for the day, in accordance with the custom of the city. A move was at once made to the market-place to witness the custom of "blowing the horn," which was performed by the city official in his quaint costume, amid the ringing of the bells of the Minster and other churches, after which all lights were supposed to be put out (which they weren't, by the way), and then a move was made for the station, where about ten o'clock the remainder of the visitors were congregated, and as the various trains departed, they took with them their load of suffering humanity who had for a brief space (only too brief, be it said) enjoyed themselves well in the city of Ripon. Thus ended a most successful and satisfactory meeting.

HARWICH, ESSEX.

ON Saturday, May 30, the local ringers met on the occasion of a visit of Mr. W. Green, of Colchester, and Mr. W. Easter, of Gillingham, Kent, for a ring on the handbells, at the Royal Hotel, and several tunes and a course of Grandsire Triples and Caters were rung, and a pleasant evening was soon gone. And on Sunday, May 3rd, having been joined by Mr. A. Peachey, of Ipswich, three courses of Plain Bob Major and Grandsire Triples were rung on the tower bells for morning service. W. Green, 1; J. Brewster, 2; T. Aldis, 3; D. Huff, 4; A. Peachey, 5; C. Ramplin, 6; G. Knock, 7; W. Easter, 8. Also for evening service 392 Grandsire Triples, with A. Peachey, 1; W. Green, 5; C. Ramplin (conductor),; the rest as before. This is the first time the old company has met for two years.

THE UNEMPLOYED IN EAST LONDON.—At a time when much thought is being given to this matter, a practical suggestion may be of service. Last year more than £300,000 worth of foreign matches were purchased by inconsiderate consumers in this country, to the great injury of our own working people, so true is it that "evil is wrought by want of thought, as well as want of heart." If all consumers would purchase Bryant and May's matches, that firm would be enabled to pay £1000 a week more in wages.

RINGERS' OUTING.

ON Sunday, May 31st, Messrs. Grabham, Tudball, Thrush, and Elliott, of the Dunster Guild, with two friends, left Dunster in a waggonette and pair, for a drive to Nither Stowey. Leaving Dunster at 9.30 in beautiful weather, Stowey was reached about twelve o'clock. The headquarters for the day was the "George" hotel, kept by Mr. D. Thorne, father of Messrs. W. W. and R. S. Thorne, who were also there to receive them. After partaking of refreshments, a move was made to the church under the conductorship of the amiable sexton, Mr. F. Sweet, who had got the bells ready for them. The church, etc., having been inspected, a move back to the "George" was the next order, where the party was augmented by two more friends from Dunster, and then the whole were very kindly entertained to dinner by Mr. and Mrs. Thorne in fine style. Dinner being over, the ringing members started again for the church to attempt a 720 of Grandsire Minor on the peal of six bells, but it was lost after ringing about half. Not having time to start again, several 120's of Grandsire Doubles were rung. The above was rung for the afternoon service by R. S. Thorne, T. Elliott, W. W. Thorne, J. Grabham, J. Tudball, and W. W. Thorne. After leaving the church a waggonette was in readiness, kindly placed at their disposal by Mr. D. Thorne, to take them to Spaxton to try and ring there, but after seeing the sexton, churchwarden, and the rector's wife, they could not obtain permission, as the rector was taking his rest for his evening service. So the next order was Over Stowey, where there is a peal of five, and after a nice drive through some beautiful scenery, which was much enjoyed, they arrived to hear the local party ringing some call-changes. R. S. Thorne had to leave the party after ringing at Nither Stowey, but met them again just long enough to introduce them to the Rev. —. Bottom, who was very pleased to give them permission to ring, and took them to the church and introduced them to the local party, who lowered the bells and placed them at their disposal. After rising them in peal several 120's of Grandsire Doubles were rung, which is supposed to be the first on the bells. The following were the ringers: T. Elliott, J. Tudball, W. W. Thorne, W. W. Thrush, and J. Grabham. The bells being lowered in peal the band was taken charge of by Mr. Grandfield, the sexton, and his son, who are both ringers, and supplied with refreshments at his house, remarking they would always find a welcome there. After thanking him for his kindness, a move was made, and a nice walk across the fields. The trap having been sent home, the "George" again was reached, where Mrs. Thorne again showed them hospitality by having tea in readiness. After ringing some Doubles on the handbells, and passing a very hearty vote of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Thorne for their kindness, a move was made for home, which was reached just about eleven o'clock, and an enjoyable day's outing came to a close.

SOCIETY OF ROYAL CUMBERLAND YOUTHS.

ON Friday evening, the 13th inst., at St. Martin's-in-the-Fields, London, the bells were rung half-muffled, as a token of respect to the memory of two old and highly-respected members of this society, the announcement of whose deaths have already been made in this paper, viz.—Messrs. Caleb William Coppage and William Hoverd. The usual whole pull and stand was performed, followed by touches of Stedman Cinques and Caters.

The writer rang his first peal of Grandsire Triples, also his first peal of Stedman Triples, with Mr. Hoverd. H.D.

The proposed memorial to the late Lord Granville will take the form of a tower and a peal of bells, to complete the new parish church of Walmer, in which his Lordship took a great interest. The first stone of the building was laid by Lady Granville in 1887. From its great height the spire will form a landmark for the ships of all nations as they go up and down Channel. The memorial, which has been subscribed for by men of all parties, will cost about £4000.

FOR SALE.—A Splendid peal of 42 Handbells, Chromatic, from G 26 to C 1; by J. Warner and Sons, London; together with tables, box, music, and all fittings. Will sell at a sacrifice; reason ill-health. Apply—William Kenney, 5, Townley Street, Macclesfield, Cheshire.

THE NORWICH ASSOCIATION.—ANNUAL DISTRICT MEETING AT ALDEBURGH.

The first annual meeting of the Saxmundham district was held at Aldeburgh on Saturday, June 6. There were twenty-eight members present from the following places: Rendham, Sweffling, Saxmundham, Benhall, Kelsale, Leiston, and Aldeburgh. The bells of the parish church were most kindly placed at the disposal of the members, and were kept going at intervals during the afternoon and evening, various touches of Plain Bob, Oxford and Kent Treble Bob, Grandsire Minor, and Double Court Bob Minor being successfully brought round. The business meeting was held at seven o'clock, presided over by Mr. Fenton Thompson, when the Hon. Secretary, Mr. William Taylor, read the annual report, which showed that seven peals had been rung in the district by members of the Association, viz.: three of Bob Major, one of Kent Treble Bob Major, and one of Grandsire Triples at Leiston; one of Bob Major at Kelsale; and a 5040 in four methods at Aldeburgh. The number of members belonging to the district is sixty-two, fifty-four of which are full performing members. The eight honorary members are the Hon. Lionel Holland, 73, Eaton Square, London; Rev. B. W. Raven, M.A., rector of Leiston; Rev. W. Bromley, vicar of Sibton; Rev. H. Parr, vicar of Yoxford; Rev. H. Thompson, vicar of Aldeburgh; Rev. E. A. Thelwall, late curate of Leiston; F. Garrett, Esq., Aldringham House, and T. Percy Borrett, Esq., Leiston; all of whom have joined since the formation of the District, while eighteen have joined as performing members. Four quarterly meetings have been held during the year, at Kelsale, Leiston, Rendham, and Saxmundham, all of which were well attended. The towers in union with the district are Aldeburgh, Leiston, Saxmundham, Rendham, Sweffling, Kelsale, Peasenhall, and Sibton, all having regular weekly practice-nights, and good bands attached to them. A tablet has been placed in the tower of Aldeburgh church recording a performance that took place upon the bells on November 10th, 1890. One member had died on May 16th,—Mr. James Avis, of Benhall, at the age of sixty-nine years, and was interred at Benhall, when some muffled touches were rung on the bells. He had been a member of the Association from the date of its commencement in 1877.

In concluding the report the Secretary urged the importance of individual effort being made to obtain an increase of honorary as well as performing members, and he thanked all his brother-ringers for the assistance they have on all occasions rendered him, without which, this, the first year of the District's existence, could not have been carried to its present successful issue.

It was decided to hold the next meeting at Peasenhall on Saturday, September 5th, and to visit the neighbouring towers of Sibton and Yoxford. A cordial vote of thanks was passed to the Rev. H. Thompson for his kindness in granting the use of the bells, brought to a close another successful meeting.

A VISIT TO RUSHMERE ST. ANDREW'S, SUFFOLK.

ON Sunday, June 7th, five of the Ipswich company and myself paid a short visit to the above place and rang 720 Kent Treble Bob Minor. J. Motts, 1; H. Howell, 2; J. W. Lines, 3; A. Howell, 4; W. Motts, 5; S. Slater (conductor), 6. Also with Mr. Cooper, of Eastbourne, 360 of Kent. J. Motts (conductor), 1; H. Howell, 2; J. W. Lines, 3; A. Howell, 4; —. Cooper, 5; W. Motts, 6. And 360 Plain Bob. J. Motts (conductor), 1; H. Howell, 2; J. W. Lines, 3; W. Motts, 4; —. Cooper, 5; A. Howell, 6. These are a pretty little ring of six, tenor 9 cwt., and were augmented from five to six by the addition of a new tenor, and have all been thoroughly rehung in a new English oak frame and new fittings by Messrs. Henry Howell and Son, Church Bell Hangers, of Ipswich, a short time ago, who have made an excellent job of it, and it is hoped that before long they will be employed to augment them to eight by adding two good trebles, as they would make a pretty and handy little ring of eight. We beg through the medium of this paper to thank the rev. gentleman for his kindness in granting us the use of the bells.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE ST. MARY'S GUILD, PORTSEA, HANTS.

The Annual Meeting of the above Guild was held on the 12th inst. at the Vicarage, under the presidency of the Vicar (Rev. Canon Jacob). The Rev. R. C. M. Harvey having read the balance-sheet for the past year, the Vicar remarked on the progress of the band during that time, which he thought very satisfactory, and reflected the greatest credit on the ringers themselves, as well as on their painstaking instructor (Mr. J. W. Whiting, of Fareham). Other business having been transacted, Mr. Harper presented to the Vicar a framed photograph of the members of the Guild. He (the Vicar) said it gave him great pleasure to accept such a present at their hands, and he should always keep it wherever he was as a token of the good feeling existing between them as Church-workers.

The Rev. R. C. M. Harvey also presented three photos of the church to the Guild, to be hung up in the ringing-chamber, which were suitably acknowledged by the members; and, with best wishes for the success of the Guild during the ensuing year, the meeting terminated.

ANOTHER PRIZE-RINGING IN THE WEST.

We have been favoured with a copy of a large, well-printed bill, ornamented by a huge red border, announcing a prize-ringing in the West of England. Perhaps a perusal of its contents will afford our readers some amusement. Here it is:—

"ROCHE.—PRIZE-RINGING.—A Ringing Contest, on a Peal of Six Bells, will take place at Roche, on Thursday, June 11th, 1891 (the Bells have recently been re-hung), when the following Prizes will be offered:—First Prize, £4; Second, £3; Third, £2; Fourth, £1; Fifth, 12s.; Sixth, 6s. Rules.—1. Each set to pay Six Shillings before entering the Tower. 2. The key of ringing to be 30 rounds per minute. 3. Practice will be allowed up to May 31st (Sunday excepted). 4. All sets residing within six miles of Roche to be at the Tower ready to practise by 9 o'clock on the morning of the Ringing, or to forfeit five minutes of the time allowed for practice. 5. THE CULLOMPTON CHURCH BELLS.

[From The Exeter Daily Gazette.]

After a period of almost complete silence, extending over fourteen months, the bells of St. Andrew's Church, Cullompton, once more rang out in joyous peals on Sunday afternoon. The octave is one of fine tone, and the tower may justly lay claim to architectural pretension. The bells were cast in 1746 by Bilbie, of Cullompton, and practically nothing has been done to them since that year. The treble weighs rather over 6 cwt., and the tenor (cast in D) about 23 cwt. In April, 1890, the old fittings of the tower were found to be incapable of bearing the strain of much ringing, and an effort to remedy this state of things was commenced by Mr. Jago, who has really been the means of again bringing the bells into their proper use. The matter was undertaken by a self-constituted committee, consisting of the Vicar (the Rev. Prebendary J. G. Davis), the churchwardens (Mr. Frank Sellwood, C.C., and Mr. C. B. Ewen), and the ex-churchwarden (Mr. John Rew), with Mr. Jago as hon. secretary. The second and seventh bells have been recast by Messrs. John Warner & Sons, London, the former at the expense of Messrs. Hill, of Bond Street, who are natives of Cullompton. In addition the frame has been repaired, the first, third, fourth, fifth, and tenor bells have been quarter-turned, and the whole of the peal rehung with new fittings by Mr. H. Stokes, of Woodbury. The total cost of this work amounted to £130, which has been raised. Now steps are being taken to replace the present worn-out chiming apparatus by a new one, and to repair the clock and pinnacles of the tower. For this second undertaking a sum of about £83 will be required, and it is pleasing to note that £50 are already in hand. Saturday's proceedings opened with a short special service in the parish church at 3.45 p.m., conducted by the Vicar and his Curate, the Rev. W. Weir. The congregation was fairly large, and the hymns sung were "The Old Hundredth," "To the name of our salvation," and "Hark, hark, my soul!" (Hymnal Companion). An appropriate address was delivered by the Vicar upon the words, "Whatsoever ye do, do all to the glory of God," taken from 1 Corinthians chap. x., v. 31.

An offertory, amounting to £6 12s. 7½d., was afterwards taken in aid of the clock, &c., fund. Service over, the bells were reopened by the following members of the Devonshire Guild, connected with bands at Exeter:—Messrs. F. Shepherd, A. Shepherd, B. Mundy, F. Davey, H. Swift, C. Carter, T. Mudge, T. Lake, W. Drake, W. Rew, A. C. Bird, J. Newnham, T. Caryl, and A. W. Searle. The decision of the ringers upon the working of the bells reflected great credit upon the labours of Mr. Stokes, but it was found that the height at which they were hung, requiring 60ft. of rope, militated against good scientific performances. Shortly after five o'clock the visiting ringers, together with the senior and junior bands at Cullompton and a few friends, partook of a substantial tea in the School-room, through the kind generosity of the Rev. Prebendary Davis, who presided. The Rev. W. Weir, Mrs. Turner, and Mr. and Mrs. Jago also assisted at the table. At the close of the repast, the Vicar proposed a vote of thanks to Mr. Stokes, to Mr. Luscombe (Exeter), who was unable to be present, and also to the Exeter ringers. He hoped the Cullompton band would find that not only did the bells work easier, but that their tone was very much improved. Mr. B. Mundy (a member of the Devonshire Guild Committee) acknowledged the vote on behalf of the Guild, cordially welcoming the Cullompton ringers to Exeter at any time. By the addition of two new bells the St. Sidwell's peal was, he said, being made one of the finest "tens" in the kingdom, and he invited any person present to take a part in the re-opening ceremony and subsequent proceedings that day fortnight. He also invited the local team to join the Devonshire Guild, remarking that they would never regret having learnt scientific ringing. The visitors rang a short touch, and some tunes upon handbells, which were much appreciated, and another adjournment was then made to the belfry. Mr. Jago has worked extremely hard in the matter, and to his zeal and energy the successful issue may be attributed.

During the evening a short touch of Grandsire Triples, 546 changes, was rung by the following:—W. Drake, 1; H. Swift, 2; C. Carter, 3; A. W. Searle, 4; F. Davey, 5; F. Shepherd, 6; E. Shepherd, 7; W. Rew, 8.

HOLY TRINITY CHURCH, HULL.

INTERESTING PRESENTATION.

On Friday, June 12th, the members of the above company held a smoking concert at the Alexandra Hotel, Kingston-street, when upwards of thirty members and friends attended. The chair was taken by Captain C. Judge (churchwarden), and the vice-chair by Mr. James Dixey.

The concert was arranged for the purpose of presenting to Mr. Charles Jackson (steeplekeeper) an illuminated address on his accomplishment of one hundred peals.

The Chairman in making the presentation on behalf of the Holy Trinity company and friends, remarked that it gave him peculiar pleasure to do so, not only from his being churchwarden, but because he understood the company of ringers at Holy Trinity church originated in the Hull Rifle Volunteer Corps. He further remarked that he had always found Mr. Jackson a respectful and obliging man, who could always be relied upon to do a thing if he said he would do it.

The terms of the address are as follows:—

"TO MR. CHAS. JACKSON. DEAR SIR,—We the undersigned ringers of Holy Trinity Church, Hull, and friends, beg to offer you our hearty congratulations on your completion of one hundred peals, and hope that you may long have health and strength to continue your labours in the science. James Dixey, J. W. Dale, D. W. Brown, James Highfield, T. Stockdale, W. T. Verity, R. Bruce Reed, Hon. Sec."

Mr. Jackson in reply said that it had come as a very great surprise to him, and he was extremely obliged to them for the honour they had done him. He was very glad to find that whatever he had been able to do had given satisfaction, and he should be very glad to do his best in the future for the benefit of change-ringing.

The address was very much admired by all present, the chairman in particular paying a special compliment to the artist (Mr. Walsham Jarvis) on the blending of his colours. The lettering is in the old English style, with gothic and ornamental capitals, with scroll work all round in gold and colours. On the left centre is a capital likeness of Mr. Jackson (which is also done with the brush) and his initials on the opposite side with a church bell shewing stock and frame, and bearing the date "1891" at each corner, also the arms of the town and county of Kingston-on-Hull at the foot. It is enclosed in a handsome oak frame 17 in. by 23 in.

Mr. Brooke ably presided at the piano, which greatly added to the enjoyment of the evening, and some capital songs were rendered by Messrs. Vinson, Littlefield, Webster, Worsdale, Brown, Slingsby, Dale, and Stickney. The Chairman gave Lord Tennyson's "The Little Revenge," which was much admired, and several other recitations were given, and a very pleasant evening was brought to a close by singing the National Anthem.

GLOUCESTER.

On Monday afternoon, June 15th, a severe thunderstorm passed over the city of Gloucester, about 6.20, unfortunately striking the noble spire of St. Nicholas, situate in Westgate Street. The top of the spire has a crown representing King John, and under this the timber caught fire: but, after all, it was not so serious as first thought. The firemen (three of them) mounted the spire from the inside, which has timber in cross pieces all the way up, and is 195ft. in height from the square of the tower. Several thousand persons assembled to witness it and the men who were on the top of the crown tearing the lead from the wood-work, but nothing to any extent could be seen from the street. Fortunately it was got under in a short time, having been noticed at the first onset. An occurrence of this kind is very unusual in the West of England, and therefore it excited much interest. The tower contains seven bells, which are all safe.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD.

Salisbury was visited on Monday, May 31st, by a large number of the members of the above Guild, who this year made the city the scene of their annual meeting. About 100 members arrived in the morning and proceeded to St. Thomas' church, where an admirable sermon was preached by the Rev. A. Du Boulay Hill (who fills the office of Master to the Guild). The rev. gentleman based his remarks upon 1st Chronicles, xii., 32, and exhorted his hearers to stand firmly together in support of the Church. The Rev. H. C. Bush, Minor Canon of Sarum, intoned the prayers, Mr. J. R. Jerram, the general Secretary, read the first, and the Rev. T. J. Woodhall the second lesson, the Rev. H. G. Rogers (Vicar of St. Thomas'), pronouncing the Benediction. The collection, which was made at the conclusion of the service, realised £1 1s.

On leaving the church the members went across to the school-room, where, under the presidency of the Master, the annual business of the Guild was transacted.

The Chairman read a letter which he had received from the Earl Nelson, who explained that he was prevented attending the proceedings by the death of a niece. The members of the Guild, said the rev. gentleman, were he felt sure both sorry at the absence of Earl Nelson and the cause of it.

The election of officers was next proceeded with, those retiring being as a rule re-appointed. Some fresh blood was introduced upon the committee.

This portion of the agenda having been satisfactorily accomplished, the Chairman raised a question with regard to finance. He pointed out that the bigger the Guild became the more ringing members would it have, and in his opinion, they would not, in the future, be able to pay expenses as they had in the past. If they went on as they were he was very much afraid they would come to a smash. He considered that ringers should be able to raise the necessary funds in their own parishes. When the diocesan choirs attended their festival they found the money, and why should not the ringers? The matter was one which could not perhaps be settled there and then, but he had thought that if it were raised on that occasion members would be able to think it over during the coming year.

Mr. J. R. Jerram, the general Secretary, suggested that on the occasion of the Annual Meeting of the Guild a free dinner should be given to members, who should be asked to pay their own railway fares. Such an arrangement, he thought, would be fair to all, and might lead to their receiving better grants and repairs.

The Rev. M. Hankey (Maiden Newton) agreed with the chairman that the question under consideration was the one upon which they would come to shipwreck if they did not care. He mentioned that he had been put to an expense of £5 to come to Salisbury that day and bring his ringers, for the purpose of showing that there were some clergymen who could not afford to make the journey. A somewhat similar difficulty which had beset the Diocesan choirs had been met, although he admitted that the ringers' guild would possibly not be able to act in a like way. Under the present arrangements every choirman paid the same amount, no matter what the distance might be from which he came. He would remind them, too, that at choir festivals the offertory was a very large one, and provided a source to which they could not look. The choirs were able to get people to listen to their festivals, but he was afraid that sometimes when bells were rung people went out of the town. The question which had been raised constituted a great difficulty between Dorset and Wilts. He was afraid they would not be able to continue those large meetings; they were too expensive. He anticipated that they would have to have simultaneous gatherings. In Dorset he knew the grievance was a real one, and if they did not take care they would lose the contingent from that county.

The Chairman pointed out that in accordance with the rules of the Guild the matter was one which could not be settled then, but he suggested that the committee should take the matter into consideration with a view to formulating some scheme as a solution of the difficulty, which might be presented at the next annual meeting.

The business having been transacted, the members adjourned to the "Chough" hotel, where they were provided with an admirable repast by Hostess Tizard. The Rev. J. D. Morrice presided.

The Master, in replying to the toast of "The Diocesan Guild," alluded to the work of the National Central Council, of which body he was one of the representatives.

The toast of "Church and Queen" was also honoured, and thanks were accorded the Revs. H. G. Rogers and J. D. Morrice, the former for the pains he had taken to make the annual meeting a success, and the latter for presiding at the dinner.

The members rang at St. Thomas', St. Edmund's, St. Martin's, and St. Paul's, Fisherton, after dinner. The only change-ringing done was some 6-scores of Doubles at St. Edmund's by the Longbridge Deverill company. Some fairly good round ringing, and some of a very inferior character, was indulged in by most of the company during the afternoon.

ALVECHURCH, WORCESTERSHIRE.

On Saturday, June 6th, by kind permission of the rector (the Dean-elect of Bath and Wells), the Bromsgrove branch of the Worcestershire and Districts Association paid a visit to the above place for the purpose of attempting a peal on the bells of St. Laurence's church. The peal, it may be said, was formerly a ring of six, but since the present rector (the Rev. Dr. Jex-Blake, but now Dean of Wells) has been there, the bells have been overhauled by Mr. James Barwell, of Birmingham, and two new trebles added, and the old peal of six rehung and tuned, which makes now a pretty good peal of eight, tenor about 15 cwt. The whole of the work is a credit to the firm, for all the bells go very well, but rather noisy in the belfry. Arriving there about four o'clock a start was made for a peal of Grandsire Triples, when after ringing about 1800 changes a mishap occurred, and the conductor called "stand." W. Mason, 1; W. Rea (conductor), 2; J. Mason, 3; T. Albutt, 4; W. J. Nevard, 5; G. Hayward, 6; G. Bourne, 7; G. Morris, 8. On the bells being set the butler from the rectory appeared in the belfry and wished to know if they could go down to tea at the rectory, which offer was not refused, and they went straight away. After partaking of the good things provided they returned to the tower and rang touches of Kent Treble Bob and Plain Bob till eight o'clock, when one of the old ringers appeared in the belfry and shouted out "Now chaps, set um up, it eight o'clock"; but they finished their touch and lowered them in peal, and he started on the old style—the eight o'clock curfew bell. They afterwards returned home, hoping to go again as soon as they can. Mr. W. J. Nevard hails from Great Bentley, Essex, and was on a visit to the vicar of Chaddesley Corbett, which place is about five miles from Bromsgrove; the brothers Mason hail from Stoke Prior.

THE MIDDLESEX ASSOCIATION.

The usual monthly meeting was held on Saturday, June 13th, at Ruislip. The attendance was small, no doubt owing to the remoteness and difficulty of access to the rendezvous; but those who were enterprising enough to face the journey had no reason to regret their determination. Some half-dozen of the Tottenham band rode over on their bicycles, and were joined at the "Old Bill Inn" in the village by a contingent from Hendon. After doing ample justice to an excellent tea provided by Host Woodman, an adjournment was made to the tower, when the bells were soon set going to the tune of Kent Treble Bob Major, after which touches of Grandsire and Stedman Triples were rung, and then, to finish up with, a touch of Canterbury Pleasure Major. At 8.30 the bicyclists one more mounted their machines and commenced their long homeward journey, and the pedestrians started for Pinner Station not long afterwards, all thoroughly satisfied with their afternoon's excursion.

SUTTON COLDFIELD (Warwickshire).—On Monday, June 8th, at Holy Trinity church, a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples, in 54 mins. F. Dickens (conductor), 1; C. Dickens, 2; A. Woodcroft, 3; T. Matthews, 4; G. Roberts, 5; W. Allsopp, 6; J. Sanders, 7; G. Perks, 8. Tenor cwt. in Eb. Rung with the bells muffled as a last tribute of respect to Mr. Preston, who for thirty-three years was head master of the Sutton Town Boys' School, seven of the above being his old scholars. J. Sanders hails from Erdington.

The Bell News & Ringers' Record.

SATURDAY, JUNE 20, 1891.

IF the letter of a correspondent can be taken as a criterion, the ringers of Worksop, Nottinghamshire, do not know when they are well off. The principal ringer of this town has, according to our correspondent, "used all the power he possesses to induce the rest to become members of the district Association, but his efforts have proved fruitless." At the Whit-Monday meeting of the Association, the excellent sermon preached by the Hon. Secretary was listened to by a congregation of seventeen, no less than nine of that number coming from one town. And yet our correspondent says that the funds of the North Notts. Association have a good balance on the right side; it is supported by all the leading clergy in the diocese; the Dukes of Newcastle and Portland are attached to it as patrons; it has a sound committee; and last, but by no means least, a hard-working and efficient secretary. If these favourable conditions are not enough to create a little interest among the ringers of the neighbourhood, we have no hope that anything we say will avail in the least. Such indifference as this, we hope, is not common. Too much apathy, we know, exists among ringers generally; but those of North Notts. can take high honours in this respect. Such amazing stolidity and supineness we declare to be the height of folly. We are apt to talk of the indifference of the clergy towards ringers and ringing; but in this case the position is reversed.

It is sometimes said, and by no means with bated breath, that ringing is in the hands of the wrong class to enable it to reach that high position its merits deserve. Though we cannot endorse such an assertion, yet such unconcern as that shewn by a section of the ringers of North Notts., could be made a strong point of by those who hold to the statement. At Worksop, we are told, the bells are in excellent order; the ringing-chamber is conducive to the comfort of its occupants; and the Vicar is anxious that his ringers should become skilful, clever, and make themselves a name. If they refrain from accepting his invitation; if, in the words of our correspondent, they refuse to "rally round him," then we have no hesitation in saying that they, and all others like them in the county, are the people who ought not to be allowed to have any share in ringing concerns. They, in fact, are not people of the class whose proceedings will "enable the art to reach that high position its merits deserve."

Correspondence.

While allowing the utmost freedom for the expression of opinion, it must never be considered that we are in any way bound to statements made by correspondents.

To the Editor of "THE BELL NEWS AND RINGERS' RECORD."

THE PRIZE-RINGING AT LIVERSEGE.

SIR,—I must congratulate you on your excellent choice of a correspondent. The first part of his article is an excellent résumé of the proceedings, and true as life, and in all of which I cordially agree; it testifies to the good management of prize contests, and as such I should think the Liversedge ringers will be proud of the part they have taken in it. For myself, I am extremely pleased that a person who is against Prize-Ringing on principle can testify in the manner he has done to the way in which it was carried out, and I think it more than justifies anything I have said and written in its favour. However, I shall take exception to some things in the latter part of the article. First, your correspondent says it is artificial. Now I deny that altogether. In support of that he says they had to ring a set piece, and practice upon that for weeks. Some fifteen years ago, when prize contests were more popular, companies who were in regular practice could ring any part of Treble Bob or any calling, just as well as any set piece. I will take for instance Hyde. This company would have rung any calling of 2,500 you wished just as well as they rung the set piece. The excellent ringing they did shows what a company can do when in good practice; and I will just say how pleased I was that they got a prize, and should have felt that they had won it if they had just been one cog nearer the top. Your correspondent says another feature is that companies leave their own church on Sunday and travel to other similar rings for practice. Whoever his informant was, it is a complete canard. I have been a Prize-ringer nearly thirty years, and I have never known of it, and I do not think any of the companies at this contest have done it. I am certain it is the exception, and not the rule, so that all you say upon it falls to the ground. With regard to the mode of judging, your correspondent does not seem to be aware that several methods have been tried at different periods, and this one has been found to be the most satisfactory. I, like your correspondent, think the ringing was not as good as it ought to have been, and, considering the poor ringing, with one or two exceptions, the decision of the judges cannot be found very faulty; and on this subject (the poor ringing), it is altogether the fault of the Yorkshire Association, who for the last fifteen years have never done anything to make good ringers, but have done everything they could to retard them. I hope there will be many more contests as pleasant as the one at Liversedge, and if your correspondent should pay us another visit, he will be able to hear the improvement Yorkshire ringers have made in the meantime.

Huddersfield.

THOMAS STEAD.

SIR,—In your issue of May 30 you have an article contributed by "Extra Peripatetic Correspondent," giving an account of his visit to Liversedge to hear the Prize-ringing at Whitsuntide. As a ringer myself for over thirty years who has done his share in winning prizes at many places during that period, and also a goodly share of travelling about and ringing peals on various numbers from six to twelve, and having been a judge at several contests, his communication naturally interested me very much. I read carefully over his article on June 6th, and, being at the contest myself (not to ring or compete, but as an independent and impartial listener), I should like, with your permission, to say a few words on the subject. I agree with him about the order and respectability prevailing at the contest, at which he would not have been at all surprised if he had been at as many contests as I have in this part of the country; but we will come now to his statements or arguments. As you are aware, Yorkshire covers a very large area, and supposing, there are as many ringers in the county as he states, still, the expenses are so great in railway fares, &c., that they virtually prohibit numbers of ringers entering for these contests. He then goes on with remarks about the set piece, when he knows (if he is a practical ringer) that it is the most level striking, and not the peal itself, that is judged, and, for the sake of equality and justice, each company has to ring the peal issued by the promoters. The nonsense in the next paragraph about ringers neglecting their own bells to travel about and ring on other peals, and the "indulgent officials," is scarcely worth noticing; but I should like to ask him if ringers (as such) are so well paid for their services that they should be tied down to any demands these same officials should make on their time, except in reason. In his next "par." he comes near the pith of the whole matter, and I will endeavour to explain for his edification the modus operandi of these affairs, taking the contest at Liversedge as an example. In this case, the promoters appointed three of the Liversedge company as judges, than whom they could not have appointed three better qualified men in England; and that being the case, what earthly reason was there for the "grave objections" made by your correspondent? They sit in one room the whole of the contest, listening to the ringing and calling the faults as they are made, with a writer to put them down as they call, while your correspondent, like a great many others, would be walking about, talking and listening at intervals to the ringing, but taking no notes, or jotting down any of the faults as they are made. He acknowledges himself that so far as the first prize was concerned, it was satisfactory to everyone; and as there were only 107 faults difference betwixt Birstal and Bradford out of 2,500 changes for the second and third prizes, neither he or any other outsider could tell which was best. In the next place, it is usual to divide the peal, for the purpose of judging, into three parts, when each of the three judges takes his own part for each company in judging the peals; so that this does away with the nineteen hours' theory. He then comes back to the old story about the abuse of the bells and the church in these contests; but what about the meeting of guilds, associations, &c., of which we read so much, where different companies meet mostly to dine, &c., ringing being about the last thing taken notice of? When contests were more frequent, you could scarcely go into a town or village for miles around here but (if there was a peal of bells) you would find a first-class company of ringers, able and willing to compete against all comers on any peal. In conclusion, it is the honour each company strives for. Take away competition in anything, and what becomes of any attempt to excel? When all are kept to one dead level, the result, in ringing, is, clashing the bells about any way, if you can only get through your peal.

A YORKSHIRE RINGER.

HANDBELL RINGING.

SIR,—I wish to congratulate the Messrs. Mitchell, of St. Albans, Herts, on their handbell feat, which is an extraordinary performance—viz., 7 minor methods on six bells retained in hand—and especially on having an umpire (Mr. W. H. L. Buckingham), which I consider all peals rang upon handbells ought to have, as no peal is thought much of about this district unless an efficient man is acting as umpire.

ONE WHO HAS RANG A PEAL ON HANDBELLS.

NORTH NOTTS. ASSOCIATION.

SIR,—It is with pleasure I take up my pen to endorse the sentiments expressed by Mr. James, which appeared in last week's issue of "THE BELL NEWS"; but I beg leave to differ with him on one or two points. I daresay that gentleman would have found several ringers in readiness to raise the bells long before they were raised, but it was not until the arrival of the East and West Retford companies that anything was attempted, when the bells were raised, and a fairly well-struck touch of Grandsire Triples was rung. At two o'clock the service was held in the church, when the Secretary, the Rev. H. T. Slodden, preached an excellent sermon, which was listened to with eager interest; but how many ringers should you think were present? Why, the large total of 17, representing about half-a-dozen societies, and no less than nine of that number hailed from Retford—all of whom sat down to tea provided at the expense of the Association, and the actual number present to refresh the inner man was 31—not 20, as stated by Mr. James. Mr. James says the bells are in good order; so is the ringing-chamber, with the ropes falling in a splendid circle, and he hopes the local company will rally round their vicar, and make better use of them; but I'm afraid that will never be, unless the ringers of that tower will join the Association. With a good peal of bells and our energetic secretary at the backs of the ringers, it is a disgrace to the defaulters when I say that not a single member of that tower belongs to the Association, with the exception of their leader, Mr. Barrowcliffe, who informs me he has used all the power he possesses to induce the others to become members, but his efforts have been fruitless. Now, a society like this (formed only a few years ago), which possesses a good balance of cash on the right side, supported by all the leading clergy in the diocese, with the Dukes of Newcastle and Portland attached to it as patrons, with a sound committee, and last, but not least, a good, hard-working secretary to carry on the business for its members, ought to be supported by every ringer in north Notts., in order to bring into existence what it was formed for, viz.—to cultivate the art of change-ringing; to promote good-feeling and friendship amongst ringers; and their true position to be recognized as Church-workers.

Retford.

HERBERT HAIGH.

INFORMATION REQUIRED.

Will any ringer kindly furnish me with the name of the firm that spliced the two trebles at Middleton parish church, which were opened May 23rd, 1891, as I am anxious to know by whom a similar two could be spliced to give the great amount of satisfaction they have at Middleton.

Obituary.

WILLIAM GLADWELL.

On Saturday, June 6th, the above-named ringer, who was one of the oldest members of the St. Andrew's (Halstead) company, passed away. He had been a ringer for more than fifty years, and a long time steeplekeeper. In the evening, a 720 of Bob Minor was rung with the bells deeply muffled. On Saturday, 13th, he was carried to his resting-place by eight of his fellow-ringers. Before the service the bells were chimed, and afterwards a 720 of Bob Minor was rung with the bells half-muffled. J. Cant, 1; W. Spurgeon, 2; F. Davey, 3; T. Salmons, 4; F. Arnold, 5; W. Ward (conductor), 6. On Sunday morning, the Rev. J. B. Andrews made feeling allusion to the many years' service of deceased, who was a bright example of a God-fearing man, and what a ringer ought to be.

CLOCK-MAKING OPERATIONS.

AYSGARTH, NEWTON-LE-WILLOWS, YORKS.—A fine quarter clock, with copper dial has been erected at the schools at Aysgarth, by Messrs. W. Potts and Son, Leeds. The same firm have also erected this week a new public illuminated clock for the Hull Ice Co., at their new stores, and have large clocks in hand for St. Luke's ch. Kingston-on-Thames, Sawston ch. Cambs., Lymn ch. Cheshire, Epworth ch. Lincolnshire, Wyke ch. Bradford, Whitwell ch. near York, Kirby Misperton ch. North Yorks., Public hall, Hoyland, near Barnsley, Sheffield, Ballantrae ch. Scotland, illuminated quarter-clock for Northumberland, and other important work. Last week the Mayor and Corporation of Albany, West Australia, sent to them a vote of thanks for the manner in which they had made their new town hall clock, which they stated was the best finished work ever received from England previously.

A CORRECTION.

Mr. C. Clear, of Angmering, writes:—"In our last week's number I see the Midhurst branch rang a 720 of Woodbine Treble Bob; and published it as the first on the bells at Milland; I also see a few weeks back that a 720 of Woodbine Treble Bob was rang by the Midhurst branch at Midhurst, and this is also said to be the first 720 on the bells. Allow me please to contradict it. In the year 1889 four of the Angmering branch with Mr. Tribe and Mr. Lee of the Milland branch rang a peal of 5040 changes on Milland bells in seven different methods, Woodbine Treble Bob being the first; conducted by Charles Hills. The band then journeyed back to Midhurst, and after a hasty tea met in the belfry for another 5040, but after ringing a 720 of Woodbine, 720 each of Oxford and Kent Treble Bob, and got into Yorkshire Court, it came to grief."

MR. FREDERICK WILLIAM THORNTON, OF GREENWICH, KENT.(Vide Portrait.)

The subject of our memoir was born at Greenwich on November 13th, 1862, and is therefore in his 29th year. The family is one of the best known in Greenwich, and their residence in the borough, can, we understand, be traced back upwards of a century and a half. A relative of MR. THORNTON—Mr. Thomas Thornton, aged 91—still resides in the parish.

FREDERICK WILLIAM THORNTON was educated at the school founded by the late Mr. John Roan, and his successes in the various examinations on different subjects elicited great praise from the late Canon Miller, and many others connected with the institution. It is worthy of note, that soon after the school was placed under the control of the London School Board, MR. THORNTON, in conjunction with many others, drawn from all the schools in Greenwich, entered into a competitive examination, lasting over three days. When the result was announced, it appeared that our young friend, then only in his twelfth year, was at the head of the list of successful candidates, and several points in front of the second.

Although MR. THORNTON was for seven years connected with the choir of St. Mary's church, Greenwich, as leading treble, it was not until 1878, that his entry into a belfry was made. Hearing the usual ringing at the parish church of St. Alphege (ten bells) in honour of Her Majesty's birthday, he went into the tower, caught the "bell fever," and never afterwards lost an opportunity for increasing his knowledge of the interesting exercise. In this, however, he was not assisted by the ringers employed there, who were of the old school, and took no interest whatever in endeavouring to instruct a beginner, fearing, perhaps that should he make too much progress, he might eventually oust some of them from their very lucrative positions in "the scruffe." It is but just, however, to state, that two of these gentlemen, who are well-known in the ringing-world, certainly did their utmost to help their young and enthusiastic friend, but their proceedings in this direction were always hampered by, and brought down upon them the wrath of their elder colleagues.

So soon therefore, as he could handle a bell, MR. THORNTON journeyed to St. Nicholas, Deptford, at one time the headquarters of the Society over which he now presides. Here he was soon enabled to take his place with others in "set changes," but although a good half-pull party met weekly for practice, no opportunity whatever was given MR. THORNTON to make his debut as a Grandsire ringer. At length however, he found sympathisers in the persons of Messrs. A. G. Freeman and W. Weatherstone at St. Mary's, Lewisham, and under their care and attention his progress in Grandsire was rapid. After ringing the tenor to a peal at Woolwich, his name soon appeared in these columns as having successfully piloted the treble and a bob bell through peals of Triples. MR. THORNTON has rung altogether forty peals, viz.: Grandsire Triples, 36; Caters, 2; Bob Major, 1; Canterbury Pleasure Major, 1; of which number he has conducted eight. Perhaps the work which entitles him to most distinction in the ringing world is that in connection with the Society of Trinity Youths, which in conjunction with the Rev. H. A. Cockey and others, MR. THORNTON was in 1888, instrumental in rescuing from almost total oblivion, and placing it upon a sound basis. Recognising his abilities as a business man, the members unanimously elected him Hon. Secretary, with what success is well-known. This position he retained until 1890, when being unable to devote the necessary time and attention he felt he ought to the duties, he relinquished it, amid many expressions of regret from his friends and colleagues. He was however nominated for the post of Master, and elected by a majority of two to one over his solitary opponent. In this position he carries out his duties with dignity to himself, and honour to the Society for which he has laboured so continuously. Of a genial disposition and extremely good-natured, "Fred," as he is familiarly known, is exceedingly popular among his brethren, and having a keen remembrance of the difficulties he experienced in endeavouring to learn change-ringing, it goes without saying that to novices he has proved himself a staunch friend and good counsellor.

Although MR. THORNTON had repeatedly signified his intention of retiring definitely at the close of his year of office, at the earnest request of his friends, he allowed himself to be nominated, and was subsequently re-elected to the post of Master by an overwhelming majority.

In addition to representing his society on the Central Council of Church Bell Ringers, our friend is a member of the Ancient Society of College Youths, the Waterloo and St. James' Societies, and the Kent County and Essex Associations. As is well-known he was nominated as a candidate for the office of Secretary to the Council, but withdrew just before the time of election. It is no disparagement of the present holder of that office to say that had MR. THORNTON been elected he would have proved a most able and efficient officer.

CATTERICK, YORKSHIRE.

On Saturday, June 13th, the ringers of St. John's, Darlington, paid a visit to the above-named place, to have a ring on the new peal of bells recently put in by the firm of Mears & Stainbank, making the journey by brake, so as to call on the Master of the Catterick band, who was to accompany them to the Church. Arriving at 3.30 p.m. they at once made for the tower, and raising the bells in peal, a start was made for Kent Treble Bob, which was brought round in 24½ mins. by the following: F. A. Teasdale, 1; J. Baxter, 2; H. J. Taylor, 3; R. Moncaster, 4; W. D. Lister, 5; J. H. Whitfield (conductor), 6. Afterwards a 720 of Oxford Plain Bob by J. Bolton, 1; W. Bell, 2; W. G. Lister, 3; R. Moncaster, 4; H. J. Taylor, 5; J. Baxter, 6. And 720 of Oxford Treble Bob. F. A. Teasdale, 1; W. D. Lister, 2; H. S. Taylor, 3; J. Baxter, 4; J. K. Whitfield, 5; J. H. Whitfield, 6. Afterwards a move was made for the Angel Inn, where an excellent meat tea was ordered, to which all did ample justice. This over they once more made their way to the Church, and a start made for Double Oxford Bob, which was well struck off in 24½ mins. by the following: J. Bolton, J. Baxter, H. S. Taylor, R. Moncaster, W. D. Lister, J. H. Whitfield (conductor). Tenor 12 cwt. After finishing their task of 720s, they turned attention to Bob Doubles for the benefit of the Cathedral men, and by a little help got three of them through their first 6-score, which was repeated five times. And now for the bell chamber. It is a model one, the walls are panelled in deal, two thirds up, above is papered, and all the wood is stained and varnished and furnished with all that a ringer requires. They wish to thank the Vicar for the use of the bells, and Mr. Mack for his kind attention. He is master of the Catterick Company as well as organist and churchwarden. After drinking success to the Catterick Company they turned home again, arriving at 10.30, after a most enjoyable outing.

THE LANCASHIRE ASSOCIATION.

ROCHDALE BRANCH.—A Meeting of this branch was held at St. Thomas's Church, Moorside, on Saturday, June 20th. Members attended from Rochdale, Heywood, Oldham, Leesfield, Saddleworth, Flixton, and the local members, and was a fairly successful meeting, but owing to the bad go of the tenor, it became unmanageable, and stand was called after two attempts at Grandsire Triples, and touches of Grandsire and Treble Bob Minor were rung on the front six. Mr. Samuel Stott presided at the meeting, when two new ringing members were made, and the place selected for the next meeting was Leesfield, on July 25th. The meeting closed with the usual votes of thanks to the Chairman, Vicar, Wardens and ringers for the use of the bells and school.

MR FREDERICK W. THORNTON.
(OF GREENWICH)

SUPPLEMENT TO "THE BELL NEWS."

ST. LAURENCE'S SOCIETY, READING.

On Wednesday, June 17th, the above Society had their annual ringing excursion. Leaving Reading at 6.30 a.m., they journeyed to Cheltenham, which was reached by 9.45, after a most enjoyable ride through a magnificent country, and which tended to sharpen the appetite. One of the St. Mary's ringers awaited the arrival of the party at the station and acted as guide to a Coffee Tavern, where light refreshment was partaken of. The day's ringing was commenced at St. Mary's Church at 10.30, when a 575 of Grandsire Caters was tapped off in 24 minutes. Mr. Phillott here joined the ringers and stated that he had made arrangements for St. Laurence's men to have a pull at Prestbury, a pretty little village about two miles distant; consequently the worthy captain (Mr. W. Newell) engaged three carriages, and the campanologists were driven there. After raising the bells, two touches were rung, one of Bob Major and one of Grandsire Triples. The Vicar visited the belfry and gave the ringers a hearty welcome, and said he was pleased to hear the bells that day as it was his birthday. Having lowered the bells the party left for Cheltenham, which was reached by 1 o'clock, after a drive round the principal part of the town. Another short touch of Grandsire Caters was then indulged in, on the fine-toned bells of St. Mary's, after which the visitors walked to the station and took train for Gloucester. Here a dinner was awaiting them, which was done ample justice to, after the exertions of the morning. Having satisfied the cravings of the inner man, a quiet stroll round the town brought the party to the church of St. Mary-de-Crypt, which boasts of a peal of eight. Here several touches were rung in the following methods:—Grandsire, Treble Bob, Bob Major. Being 6 o'clock, the time arranged for tea, the ringers returned to their dining-rooms, and partook of "the cup that cheers, &c., &c.," where they were joined by several Gloucester ringers. During the afternoon the cathedral was visited, the architecture of which was much admired, particularly by those who had not seen it before, the only drawback being the bells, which are not ringable. After tea a visit was paid to St. Martin's church, and here Grandsire and Stedman Triples were rung, and whilst the excursionists were on their way to the station, the home ringers rung some Double Norwich. At 8.10 p.m. the train steamed out of the station, and St. Laurence's ringers were on their way to Reading, after wishing their brother-strings farewell. The journey home was delightful, in the cool of the evening, and Reading was safely reached by 10.45 p.m., the party having thoroughly enjoyed themselves. St. Laurence's ringers wish, through the medium of this paper, to thank those gentlemen who so kindly assisted Mr. Newell, their captain, in making this outing a complete success. The ringing excursion of 1891 will long be remembered by the members of this society.

THE KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

On Saturday, June 20th, several members of the above from Leeds and Harrietham paid a visit to Headcorn. On arriving they were met by the ringers, and after some refreshments a move was made to the church. The bells were then raised in peal and a 720 of Bob Minor (eighteen bobs, two singles), was brought round in 28 mins. T. Earll (conductor), 1; A. Knight, 2; H. Hollands, 3; F. Hollands, 4; W. Cheeseman, 5; T. Russell, 6; W. Hadlow, 7; G. H. Fermor, 8. Then a 360 in the same method. G. Tassell, 1; A. Knight, 2; H. Hollands (conductor), 3; F. Hollands, 4; W. Cheeseman, 5; T. Russell, 6; W. Hadlow, 7; J. H. Fermor, 8. The bells have been rehung, and the 3rd, 5th and 6th recast, by Messrs. Warner and Sons, of Cripplegate, London, and great credit is due to that firm, as the bells go splendidly. Tenor 26 cwt. in E Flat. A move was then made to the "King's Arms," where an enjoyable evening was spent with hand-bell ringing and songs, and at the close of the evening the "Ringers' March" was rung on the hand-bells. The visitors wish to thank the Vicar for the use of the bells, and the Headcorn ringers for assisting them to spend such an enjoyable evening.

THE UNEMPLOYED IN EAST LONDON.—At a time when much thought is being given to this matter, a practical suggestion may be of service. Last year more than £300,000 worth of foreign matches were purchased by inconsiderate consumers in this country, to the great injury of our own working people, so true is it that "evil is wrought by want of thought, as well as want of heart." If all consumers would purchase Bryant and May's matches, that firm would be enabled to pay £1000 a week more in wages.

NORTHOP, NORTH WALES.

On Thursday, the 11th inst., a dedication service was held in Northop Church to celebrate the opening of the handsome peal of bells, the gift of the widow of the late Col. Wills, of Plas Bellin. The Vicar (the Rev. Canon Richardson), preached a short but very eloquent sermon from the first verse of the 122nd Psalm. After the service the Wrexham Bell Ringers ascended the tower, and for upwards of an hour executed a most admirable series of change-ringing, which could be heard as far as Kelsterton, a distance of three miles. It is to be sincerely hoped that the newly awakened interest in the bells will not be allowed to die away, but that the young men of Northop will show their appreciation of the munificent gift by coming forward and offering their services as ringers, and utilising a few of their long evenings by practising change-ringing. The following information may be of interest to our readers. Bell No. 1, weighing about 15 cwt. has the following inscription—"Tho. Evans, Esq., Isaf Jones, Rob. Humphries, Ken Jones, Wardens, 1680." Bell II, 9 cwt.—"Henry Jones, vicar; Edward Bate and Thomas Hughes, Churchwardens; T. Miers, Fec't, re-cast 1840." Bell III, 7 cwt. (Diamond marked with x in it), Cantate Domino Canticum, Novum (W. G., on a pentagon shield with an arrow), 1647. The motto means "Sing to the Lord a new song." In addition to the above, which have been recast, there are three more bells provided, making a peal of six. The whole of the expense, amounting to £350, has been defrayed by Mrs. Wills. The church tower, which was built in the year 1537, and is the second highest church tower in North Wales, being only exceeded by Wrexham, has been re-roofed and thoroughly repaired throughout. Northop can now boast of having one of the handsomest Parish Churches in Wales.—Flintshire Observer.

NORTH NOTTS. ASSOCIATION.

On Saturday, June 6th, a social gathering of this Association with a few friends, took place at Harthill. After refreshing the inner man, a move was made to the tower, a peal of six, tenor 19 cwt. A 720 of Kent Treble Bob Minor was rung in 30 mins. in good style, but which would have sounded much better had the bells been in tune. Then a 720 of College Pleasure was started for, but came to grief after ringing about 20 minutes. Touches of Oxford and Violet, and a 504 of Oxford (twelve bobs) were also rung, conducted by C. Severn. The ringers were J. Foulds, H. Stenton, F. Drabble, S. Smith, C. Foulles (Anston), D. Russon (Shireoaks), C. Severn, H. Taylor, T. Tustin (Killa-marsh). Severn, Tustin, Taylor and Foulles, are also members of the Old East Derbyshire Association.

A very interesting account of Waterford Cathedral appears in this week's Guardian. It is a very long time since we heard of any ringing being done in this Irish city, or in fact in any part of the isle.

THE Hon. and Rev. Canon Legge, who has been Vicar of Lewisham since 1879, has been offered and has accepted the Bishopric of Lichfield. The revd. gentleman, who has been a member of the Society of Trinity Youths since its revival in 1888, takes great interest in change-ringing matters, and has done a great deal for the comfort of the ringers at St. Mary's, Lewisham, by whom, in common with his parishioners, he will be greatly missed. Hundreds of telegrams have been received at the Vicarage, congratulating the Canon upon his elevation to the episcopate.

THE MIDLAND RAILWAY.—Commencing Wednesday next, July 1st, an additional Day Express Train will be run from Glasgow to London, Leeds, Manchester, and Liverpool. A Dining Saloon Car will run by this train from Leeds to London, into which 1st class passengers from Glasgow may change at Leeds. Table d'hôte, 3s. 6d. each person. On Sunday, July 5th, and each succeeding Sunday until further notice, an Express Train will be run each way between London (St. Pancras) and Sheffield, Leeds, and Bradford. Particulars as to times, etc., of these additional trains may be had at the various booking offices of the Midland Company.

THE CUMBERLANDS IN KENT.

On Saturday, the 20th June, six Royal Cumberlands from London paid a visit to Tunbridge, where they were met by two brother-members from Speldhurst, Messrs. T. and G. Card; and needless to say, not long after their arrival, the bells of the parish church were swinging over their heads. In due course a peal of Kent Treble Bob was accomplished, being the first peal of Major and it is believed only the second peal in any method on the bells. Eight o'clock on the following morning found the band assembled in the belfry of Speldhurst Church, where another peal of Kent Treble Bob, also the first in the method on the bells, was rung for morning service, and in celebration of the anniversary of the Queen's proclamation the same afternoon, the Cumberlands sacrificed their ease to their loyalty by ringing a third first peal of Treble Bob upon the bells at Hadlow, which was concluded in time for evening service. The bells struck into changes at Tunbridge on the Saturday at 6.20 p.m., and they came into rounds at Hadlow on the Sunday, at 6.15.; consequently the three peals were rung within the compass of 24 hours.

Very much pleased with the friendly reception with which they met with at the three places they visited, and hoping that the time might come for another handful of changes in a different method, the Londoners returned home before night fell.

THE PRIZE-RINGING IN CORNWALL.

In connection with what we published last week, a writer, who signs himself "Joe Broad," writes:

"I see in last week's 'BELL NEWS' the copy of the 'red bordered, well printed bill' of the Roche prize-ringing. How on earth that came into the hands of civilized change-ringers I cannot imagine, however, why I am writing is simply for your readers not only to be amused but for them to pity (some at least), of the youngsters in Cornwall.

"Imagine a young set who have just had a new ring of six (by Messrs. Taylor) placed in the tower of their pretty little Parish Church. They have never known what it is to handle a bell before. They get an old ringer to teach them to raise the bells in peal, ring rounds, and fall again.

"Three years have elapsed. They have read the 'BELL NEWS' regularly and seen the records of the peals accomplished by the great 'strings' (excuse the phrase) 'up country,' and wonder how it is all managed. But what can young fellows do who never hear, except in their own tower, an attempt at Compass (or Treble Rest as it is called here) ringing in rounds, and as for Changes (any other than 'Church-yard Bob') is never thought of in Cornwall, except at Penzance, where, I believe, there are some few who have joined the Devon Guild; but their performances are mostly confined to their own tower. It has been the desire of us youngsters to hear a peal where the changes came at every round, and the tower not always covering. I suppose in Cornwall there are some of the prettiest rings of 6 and 8 bells to be found anywhere, but imagine these to be never rung to any other tune than that of Rounds or call changes. Now if our performances are of a very inferior character, your readers must not put us too far down (I'd rather they would help us out of it) for our belfries are conducted as part of the Church, and due reverence is paid to God's acre, where no smoking, &c., is allowed, and perhaps you may have noticed that in the Roche ringing no practice was allowed on the Sabbath. We one and all do our best at what we are good for (and that is not much I acknowledge), and if a man who has worked all day (as only Cornish men can) comes to the tower to practice rounds, don't please laugh at him, for even Jasper Snowdon speaks of the music of bells being raised and fallen in peal, and old Cornwall will hold her own against any for that performance.

"Should this bill have caused any amusement at all, I can supply you with more later on in the year, I dare say; or, leaving jokes aside, if any of the Plymouth Stoke band—who wandered so far as Menhemot the other day—were to pay a visit around our country, they would have ample scope at either 8 or 6 bell towers in a few miles radius, amid Cornish hills and valleys, and a goodly number of listeners.

"If anything is said amis, Sir, please pardon me, but seeing you received this bill I wondered why there couldn't be some true scientific changes rung in Cornwall (where there are so many peals of bells), as well as other Counties."

HOME CURE FOR DEAFNESS.—A book by a noted Aural Surgeon, describing a System of Curing Deafness and Noises in the Head, by which a self-cure is effected at home. The Rev. D. H. W. Harlock, of the Parsonage, Milton-under-Wyckwood, writes: "Try the System by all means: it is first rate, and has been of the wisest service to me." Post free 4d. Obituary.

JAMES STOTT.

We are sorry to have to record the death of the above-named ringer, of Newchurch-in-Rossendale, which occurred at his residence 4, Old-street, Newchurch, on Thursday morning, June 18th, at the prime age of forty-three. He was attacked with influenza about three weeks ago, and grew gradually worse until his death. His services will be greatly missed in the parish, but above all in the tower where he had been a regular attendant for over twenty years. At the time he learnt to ring, there were only six bells, but a band of as clever ringers as could be found. They were like many more at that time—fond of prize-ringing. By his and others' efforts, the six were augmented and made into eight. However, sad as the story is, it is not the less true that Newchurch, like others who entered these prize contests, was troubled by having a band of careless men who rang for prizes and made it their sole aim. Their sabbath vocation was often varied by an adjournment to the "Bell" during service. This state of things was not satisfactory, though then quite common. The Lancashire Association, which was then so weak, sent a report of its work to Newchurch. The ringers did not care for it generally, but it found one supporter in Mr. Stott. He was the only member in Rossendale from 1876 to 1881. He pushed the Association work on, but until 1886 with no effect, save that in that year there were five members. However in 1887 his labours were successful, no less than forty-three members joining in that year. This caused a branch to be formed, and Mr. Stott was made the secretary, which position he held till 1890, when he resigned on account of his time being too much occupied. This branch now has no less than 88 Ringing members, 2 Honorary members, and 5 Life members, and its extent covers but ten miles from extreme to extreme. The Association must of necessity feel the loss of such a worker. He had rung thirteen peals of 5000, and a greater number on six bells. The local company rang muffled touches on Thursday and Friday evening, and on Saturday afternoon a muffled peal was rung, a report of which will be found below. His body was carried from the house to the church amidst crowds of bystanders, on Monday afternoon by fourteen members of the Rossendale branch. There were a goodly number of wreaths sent as tokens of esteem. The usual whole pull and stand was rung on the tower bells, and after the interment 504 of Grandsire Triples was rung. J. Taylor, 1; J. Shepherd, 2; J. Ashworth, 3; H. H. Nutter, 4; W. Taylor, 5; W. Smith, 6; J. T. Wright, 7; W. Whitaker, 8. J. Shepherd hails from St. Saviour's, Bacup; Nutter from Ramsbottom; Smith from Christ Church, Bacup; Whitaker from Waterfoot; the rest are of the local company.

Thus he was laid to rest in a vault within the sound of those bells he truly loved in his life-time, and his place will be empty for some time yet. "Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord, for they rest from their labours."

[The following is the record of the muffled peal rung to the memory of the late Mr. Stott. We are compelled to place it out of its proper place, owing to its late arrival.]

On Saturday, June 13th, a committee and quarterly meeting was held under the presidency of the Venerable the Archdeacon of Worcester, in the National School-room, Pershore. The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed. Several new members, honorary and performing, were added to the list, and Clent was the place appointed for the next meeting, to be held in September. The Master, Mr. Spittle, in proposing a vote of thanks to the Chairman for the complimentary terms in which he spoke in his visitation charge of the different ringing Associations, the great change they had brought about in the conduct of ringers generally, and particularly in the renovation of the belfries, called attention to one passage which said: "A clergyman was no more out of place in a belfry than in a vestry, or at a choir practice;" and remarked that where the clergy made a practice of visiting the belfries, the bells were generally in better going condition and the ringers more attentive to their duties. In a humorous manner he remarked that the difficulty experienced in getting into the belfry at Holy Cross Church, no doubt was the reason the Archdeacon did not visit the belfry much. The members present would be pleased to see him up there this afternoon, when he would see that it was anything but a pleasure to ring the bells there. The proposition was seconded by Mr. W. R. Small, and supported by the Hon. Sec., and G. H. Pagett, and carried unanimously. The rev. Chairman, in responding, gave an interesting description of the different belfries he had already visited in his Archdeaconry, and hoped to have the pleasure of visiting them all. In reference to the remarks respecting his bells, he said it was an old saying that the children of a cobbler were worse shod, and the children of a tailor worse clothed than any other, so it appeared that his bells, which should be in a good going condition, were not so. If the Association could offer any suggestion whereby they could be improved, he was sure it would be listened to, and if possible acted upon. A vote of thanks to the Chairman for the use of the School-room, tower and bells, proposed by the Rev. H. Kingsford (Stoulton), seconded by Mr. R. E. Grove, and ably responded to by the rev. gentleman, brought the business meeting to a close. During the afternoon and evening, several attempts to ring touches of Stedman and Grandsire Triples, and Kent Treble Bob Major (on the bells at Holy Cross), came to grief owing to the go of the bells. A 720 of Grandsire Minor was accomplished on the six bells at St. Andrew's.

A fair number of the members stayed over the Sunday, and soon after breakfast (a brake and pair being in readiness), a visit was made to Croome d'Abitot, a distance of five miles from Pershore, and the seat of the Earl of Coventry. The bells were set going about ten o'clock for morning service with an attempt for 720 Kent Treble Bob, which was lost owing to the fifth wheel casting rope; the bells were again soon at work for a 720 of Canterbury Pleasure, and after ringing about 600 changes came to grief. In the afternoon a visit was again made to Little Comberton, but owing to service here a move was made to Great Comberton, and an attempt for a 720 of Plain Bob soon came to a climax owing to the breaking of the tenor rope. The Rev. N. Shelmerdine, M.A., who accompanied the visitors to the belfry, an interesting description of the bells and their dates, the church and its register, which goes back several centuries. At the rev. gentleman's request a walk was taken through the rectory gardens and grounds, which was very much enjoyed. After thanking him most heartily, the return journey was made to Pershore, and after tea a move was made to the station for home, which was reached safely by all.

THE LANCASHIRE ASSOCIATION.

LIVERPOOL DIOCESAN BRANCH.—The usual monthly meeting was held recently at the Parish Church, Huyton, near Liverpool. Ringers attended from Liverpool, Garston, Prescott, Grassendale, &c., besides the local company. The Vicar presided at the meeting, and after passing the minutes of last meeting he addressed those present, giving all a hearty welcome, and expressed a wish to become a life member of the Association, he himself being a ringer, and he was then duly elected unanimously. It was decided to hold the next meeting at Halewood (eight-bell tower), on Saturday, July 4th.

Reviews.

BY SCRUTATOR.

THE MIDLAND COUNTIES' ASSOCIATION OF CHANGE-RINGERS.—NINTH ANNUAL REPORT.—In issuing their report for the past year, the General Committee of this Association state that they "are again able to congratulate the Association on having maintained that prestige for success in the advanced methods which has almost from the first marked their achievements. Although the number of peals for the year 1890 does not come up to the records of some former years, the quality of the performances is sufficiently high to give the Association the first position among the ringing societies of the Kingdom." That opening statement will no doubt tend to flatter the members of this Association, although at the same time, I confess I hardly like the "high-faluting" tone which it assumes, in thus comparing itself with kindred Associations. The 51 peals rung during the year are thus composed: Forward Royal and Treble Bob Royal, 1 each; Stedman Caters, 3; Grandsire Caters, 4; London and Cambridge Surprise Major, 1 each; Superlative Surprise, 5; Duffield and Double Oxford Bob Major, 2 each; Double Norwich, 7; Treble Bob and Bob Major, 1 each; Stedman Triples, 8; Oxford Bob Triples, 2; Grandsire Triples, 10; and 2 in Minor methods. The number of methods rung "exceeds the record of 1889 by one method on eight bells; also in Royal ringing, a peal of Forward takes the place of a peal of Duffield." After furnishing these and other statistics, the Committee remark upon the progress of the various branches during the year. In this important portion of its duties, I may say, the Committee speaks very plainly, and if the good counsel and advice tendered be only accepted and acted upon, much good should ensue. The branches of St. Paul's (Burton-on-Trent), Loughborough, Nuneaton, and Leicester have, in the opinion of the Committee, acquitted themselves creditably, and with good to the Association; the St. Modwen's (Burton) Melbourne, Barwell and Sandiacre branches appear to have contented themselves with "marking time;" while the Ashby branch has "somewhat disappointed those who looked forward to seeing them an important addition to the peal-ringing strength of the Association." But worse than this, "the Committee notice with great regret that the St. Andrew's company, Derby, who have so long kept the head quarters of the Association from becoming a dead letter in its annals, have during the past year retired from active service. That neither Nottingham or Derby should have added a peal to the list, when so many excellent ringers are to be found in both towns, augurs ill for the advance of the Association's interest among the rising ringers of those places. A further source of disappointment lies in the fact that the clergy of Derby and Nottingham will scarcely be content to regard as satisfactory an Association for the improvement of ringers and ringing, whose influence appears powerless to check the decadence, at all events, of the latter. The Long Eaton company have also withdrawn themselves from participation in the records of the Association, a matter the more to be regretted that the town is a rapidly increasing centre of population, where there should be ample choice of young ringers." It will thus be seen that, unfortunately, the experience of the Midland Counties' Association during the past year has been by no means one of unalloyed satisfaction. Of course, it is beyond the range of human probability for unvarying success to attend our efforts. What we have to strive for is to attain as near an approach to this as possible; thus I trust these depressing features of this report will have a good result eventually by proving an incentive to the members to greater exertions on its behalf. In concluding, the Committee "very earnestly urge upon all companies belonging to the Association a keener exhibition of energy in regard to its interests, for although the present report cannot be said in any marked degree to fall short of previous ones, yet a decided lethargy in some of the most promising localities more than counteracts the improvement that is elsewhere visible. The Committee would further point out that, were ringing for the Sunday services more widely the custom in the larger towns, the interest, not only of the ringers but also of the clergy and congregations, would be stirred up, as has been evidenced very clearly in instances where the change has been made." These words will apply with equal force to other Associations besides that of the Midland Counties, and if they should result in an ultimately better state of things, my reproduction of them here will have been by no means in vain. The Midland Counties' Association numbered at the end of its last year 418 members, as against 363 at the commencement, which is an increase of fifty-five during the twelve months, and a satisfactory one also. Turning to the balance-sheet, I find they commenced the year with £16 os. 2d. in hand. Subscriptions from honorary members amounted to £14 17s. 6d., and from ringing members, £16 7s. 0d., a total of £31 4s. 6d. The four meetings held during the year entailed a cost of £4 14s. 6d., of which £3 9s. 6d. was for teas, and £1 5s. 0d. for steeplekeepers. The annual reports cost £12 os. 6d., entering peals in peal-book, £5 16s. 0d., Hon. Secretary's expenses (stamps, etc.), £2 15s. 2d., entering compositions, £1 10s. 0d., and honorarium to the same officer, £5 5s. 0d. Altogether the total expenses amount to £34 10s. 9d., which exceeds the annual income by £3 6s. 3d., the balance in hand at the close of the year being that amount less than at the commencement. Evidently, the Midland Counties' Association has, like many of its contemporaries, experienced a quiet year in its history. While this is a matter of regret, it certainly is not one of discouragement. We all of us have our seasons of quiet and our times of activity; thus it is to be hoped that the year now on the way will prove at the finish by its results that the members have risen, recuperated, and kept their Association where it seems naturally fitted to be—in the very front rank of our great Societies.

THE WORCESTERSHIRE AND ADJOINING DISTRICTS ASSOCIATION.—SIXTH ANNUAL REPORT.—Once more I have had the privilege of perusing this publication—or rather its sixth edition—which brings the Association to the commencement of the tenth year of its existence. A quiet tone appears to have pervaded the operations of this Association also during its past official year. Although forty performing and five honorary and two life members have been added to its books, thirty-seven performing and four honorary members have failed to pay their subscriptions, leaving the total number very nearly what it was the previous year. The Committee, however, "are pleased to record a better attendance at the various meetings held during the year, shewing a greater amount of interest in the work." Its funds shew a slight increase upon the previous report, commencing with £12 2s. 2d., and finishing with £13 4s. 3d. (which, however, includes an old balance of 11s. 10d. The receipts amount to £21 15s. 0d. and the expenses £21 11s. 7d., so that practically just over paid its way. The items of expenditure include £3 14s. 3d. for Secretary's travelling and postages; £3 9s. 0d. cost of meetings; £7 10s. 6d. for engrossing 37 peals in book; and £3 18s. 0d. for annual reports. Over one third of these expenses, it will be seen, is incurred by the engrossing of peals, a disbursement which, rightly or wrongly, always appears to me a waste of money in cases where an annual report is printed giving full particulars of the peals rung. This mention of peals brings me to the record of performances by this Association. The Committee report that "the past year has been rather uneventful with regard to peal-ringing, but has shewn a marked improvement on the number of peals rung in the more intricate methods, notably Double Norwich Court Bob Major, and 720 Double Stedman Slow Course by the Kidderminster company; also 720's of Violet and Woodbine Treble Bob, New London Pleasure, Yorkshire Court, Cambridge and Superlative Surprise, by mixed companies at Wellaston." The number of peals rung is 13, comprised of Grandsire Caters, 3; Double Norwich Court Bob Major, 1; Grandsire Triples, 4; Stedman Triples, 3; Canterbury Pleasure Triples, 1; and Grandsire Doubles, 1. In the previous year, the total was 37, thus the falling off last year is considerable. But taking into account the universal tendency in this direction which was manifested—through some cause or other—during 1890, this diminution is perhaps not so much to be wondered at, and especially so, considering that the previous year's record was so greatly in excess of its predecessors. But what surprises me most is the fact that for two years back (at least) not one of this Association's peals on tower bells has been scored in the City of Worcester from whence it derives its title. Here is a

City with no less than seven rings (one of 12, one of 10, one of 8, and four of 6), and twenty-eight performing members of the Association; yet the reports for the past two years, with their total of fifty peals only contain a single one (and that on hand-bells) to the credit of this City. Shades of departed worthies of the "Faithful City," ye who once were famed for your performances, who could "tap off" Stedman Cinques on hand-bells even before the doughty champions of Birmingham had ventured to attempt it—What can have befallen your successors that they thus idly stand by without an effort to maintain the fair fame of your ancient stronghold? Is ambition dead amongst them—the credit of their City an unknown quantity? The largest branch of the Association, with the greatest facilities for ringing, and never a 5000 on tower bells from year's end to year's end! Bestir yourselves, ye men of Worcester, else your apathy may become a reproach against you. Look at the doings of your brethren of Dudley, of Bromsgrove, of Kidderminster, of Hagley, of Cradley, and other places near you; then ask yourselves if you are faithful in maintaining the credit of your own glorious city, in the annals of that Association which bears its name. Only one thing more would I add, and that is a word of compliment to those who have laboured during the past nine years in the building up of this Association. Upon Mr. Samuel Spittle, as Master, and Mr. John Smith, as Hon. Secretary, no doubt the brunt of this work falls. My hope is that their loyal efforts may be warmly assisted by the members, that its next report may be thoroughly satisfactory in every respect; and (not least) include the record of a well-struck peal from one at least of the Worcester towers.

THE HERTFORD COUNTY ASSOCIATION OF CHANGE-RINGERS.—ANNUAL REPORT.—Mr. Debenham, the hon. secretary of this—one of the smallest but by no means least energetic of our county associations—in making his annual return of progress, states that he is "glad to announce that the past year has been one of prosperity, both financially, and also with regard to the growth of the association." That statement is refreshing. Proceeding, he reports that "the association now numbers 104 ringing members, of whom 81 are residents and 23 non-residents; 27 fresh names have been added to the roll, 24 of whom belong to the county, and it is very pleasing to add that during the past year 18 young ringers attained the qualifying standard for membership." Several clergymen and gentlemen have also given their support to the association in the capacity of honorary members; and although Mr. Debenham considers this a decided improvement, he is not satisfied, but thinks that in a county like theirs "it hardly represents the amount of patronage which should be forthcoming towards the promotion of change-ringing." That may be so, but I don't regard the addition of five per cent. to the membership roll as an unsatisfactory return of a year's working by any means. Referring to the progress of change-ringing in the county, he informs us that 19 peals have been rung on tower bells, comprising one of Bob Royal, four of Major, and nine of Triples, and five on handbells, of which two were Bob Triples, two Grandsire Triples, and one Bob Major. In these peals 40 members took part, which is certainly a larger percentage than we usually find. Turning to the financial portion of the report, the balance-sheet shews that this association commenced the year with £3 8s. 6d. in hand. Its income was £9 12s. 0d.; and its expenditure £7 16s. 6d.; leaving them last Easter with £5 4s. 0d. to carry forward. So that the association has increased its membership by nearly five per cent., and its funds by about fifty per cent. One difficulty which besets the Hertford association is of a geographical character. About one-fifth (or less) of the members are located in the eastern side of the county, a portion practically inaccessible to the other four-fifths, so far as meetings are concerned; the minority thus complain that the association confines its operations to the western portion, and this is evidently a "sore spot." Of the unreasonableness of this complaint I will not dilate further than to quote Mr. Debenham's own words, which to my mind meet the matter. "However much," he says, "this state of affairs may be regretted, yet unless a decided advantage can be gained by holding a meeting in a district inaccessible to four-fifths of the present members, and without a guarantee from a good proportion of the remaining fifth that a meeting would be supported by them, it is hardly feasible that such a place should be selected." If, therefore, the minority are really desirous of a more active participation in the work of the Association, the remedy for these geographical difficulties lies in their own hands. If they will but, instead of deserting the Association, endeavour to strengthen it within their own borders, so that in their own district it may become something like equal in strength to the western side of the county, there would then be provided an ample remedy which would benefit alike the Association and its members, and bring meetings in the eastern side within the bounds of practical economy. Unless they make an effort in this direction it is themselves and not the Association which is to blame for the evil complained of.

The Bell News & Ringers' Record.

SATURDAY, JUNE 27, 1891.

THOUGH our correspondence columns are generally made good use of, it need not be understood that every letter sent to us for publication finds its way into print. Our contributor "Free Lance" seems to be of opinion that we are too indulgent, that we allow, in fact, too much freedom in this respect, but if he could view the enormous mass of this kind of matter which reaches us, he would be more than puzzled in the selection of what should and what should not appear. During the present week we have been favored with a long dissertation upon the evils of Sunday ringing when done for mere pleasure, coupled with an urgent request that we would, in season and out of season, vigorously denounce it. Our correspondent also very kindly obliges us with a lengthy homily upon the subject, which he proposes shall serve as our usual weekly comment. While we thank him for this very kind offer, he will not take it amiss perhaps if we point out that there are such things as actions-at-law for libel, and that they are luxuries which we cannot afford to enjoy.

It is entirely beyond our province to dictate to men, many of them as competent as ourselves to judge upon the matter—what they should and what they should not do on the Sabbath. Individually we prefer to spend the day in repose and quiet, and no attractions in the way of peal-ringing would be sufficient to draw us away from home on that day. And though we think every effort should be made to preserve the sanctity and repose of the Sabbath, and thus keep from us as long as we can the horrors of a Continental Sunday, we must not be expected to shower down every kind of invective upon the heads of those who think differently.

THE RINGERS' GUIDE TO THE CHURCH BELLS OF DEVON. By C. PEARSON, M.A. Price One Shilling, or bound cloth, 1s. 6d. Postage Threepence.

SERMON,

Preached on the occasion of the death of the late C. W. Coppage, at St. John's, Waterloo Road, London,

By THE REV. ARTHUR W. JEPHSON, M.A., Vicar.

There is a sadness about us to-day which we who live round the church feel and know more keenly than other members of our congregation. William Coppage, for so many years steeple-keeper of this church, is dead, one of the many victims of this dreaded influenza. It would not be right to allow any one (of those who have been so closely connected with St. John's) to pass away from this life, without an effort on my part to show in what respects a life so lived may be useful and helpful to others. Possibly, I and his brother bell-ringers appreciate the character of our late comrade with certainly more affection and possibly more truth than the rest of those who knew him. William Coppage was a man (more of the country than of the town), there was in him a freshness, vigour, and determination—I may say a frank and rough manliness, which those who really knew him could understand and value. To some he may have seemed too bluff and outspoken, but to us who really knew him, this manner was more the transparent honesty and resolute determination of the man, who said what he meant, and meant what he said. He had a standard of life and conduct, and to that he rigidly adhered through life. Devoted to his home and family, he managed to bring up his children (with his wife) in every way a credit and worthy of all praise. It is not every parent in a crowded London street that can exercise enough decision and resolute controlling power to bring up aright the children God has given to him. His home stood first with him, and there his good qualities can be read by those of us who come after him. With his employers he was always a favourite. If he undertook to do a thing it was done, and done thoroughly, and to the best of his powers. His fellow-workmen admired his straightforwardness, and trusted to his judgment. He may not have had crowds of admirers, but those who really knew him valued him as a friend. As a church bell-ringer I was naturally brought much into contact with him: only a fortnight ago he was up in our belfry helping to teach the art he loved to some of our young men. He has had a distinguished career as a ringer, and his name is known in nearly every London steeple. Years ago he, with others, founded the Waterloo Society of church bell-ringers, one of the four Societies in London, and the distinguishing mark of that Society is, that it trains so many young ringers in what is a most difficult but engrossing art. Whenever I have asked his help it has always been readily and cheerfully given. He loved the music of the bells, and liked nothing better than to take part in a peal with his friends. He was one of those Englishmen (and all honour to him) who prefer to show by his life what was the faith that was in him. It is so easy to talk religion, it is so difficult to live it. He chose the latter way, and in his dealings with his fellow-men he was honest, trustworthy, and respected. He did not talk about his feelings or drag into his ordinary conversation matters which are best left to God and one's own soul; but for years past he has been known in this neighbourhood as a man whose word was as good as his bond, whose transparent sincerity was obvious to anyone who understood him, and as one who did what he thought to be his duty without fear or favour. Well, for my part, I would a thousand times sooner have a man to deal with whose conduct is right, rather than a man who is always talking religion; and it is the glory of the Church of England to produce such men, not talkers about religion, but doers of it.

will love you and me if we are true to the light that is in us. God knows what is the real part, the lasting and permanent qualities of you and me, and to Him the issue may safely be left.

This above all; to thine own self be true,
And it must follow as the night the day,
Thou canst not then be false to any man.

To the Editor of "THE BELL NEWS AND RINGERS' RECORD."

WHAT IS A PEAL!

SIR,—There is some difference of opinion with respect to the true definition of a peal of 5000 changes, and the question has never, perhaps, been decided by competent authority. In the first quarter of the last century peal-boards were put up recording the performance of "true and complete peals" of 5040 changes in Triples and other methods on seven or more bells. There is a tradition of a peal of Grandsire Triples in 1690, rung by the College Youths at St. Sepulchre's-without-Newgate. The first peal recorded on a tablet is one of Bob Triples at St. Peter's, Mancroft, Norwich, in 1715. The first peal in writing is "the true and complete peal of 5040 Hick Trebles," rung at St. Dunstan-in-the-East by the Union Scholars in 1718. The first peal of Bob Maximus was rung at St. Bride's, Fleet Street, in 1726. Afterwards, five-bell and six-bell ringers seem to have rung 5040 changes consecutively in one or many methods, and to have recorded their performances on peal-boards. Possibly the ringers of peals of Triples and Major disputed the claim of these exercises to be called "peals," but on the whole it seems to have been tolerated. In "THE BELL NEWS," Vol. II., page 159 (7 July, 1883), Mr. Jasper W. Snowdon gave a list of peals of ten thousand changes. The first six of the ninety-seven recorded are in Doubles and Minor, viz.:

- 1.—1775. Whadpole, Lincolnshire, 84 peals of Doubles.
- 2.—1815. Wath, Yorkshire, 14 peals of Minor.
- 3.—1815. Darton, Yorkshire, 15 peals of Minor.
- 4.—1817. Horbury, Yorkshire, 14 peals of Minor.
- 5.—1845. Newdigate, Surrey, 12,960 changes in 2 6-bell methods.
- 6.—1816. Wath, Yorkshire, 21 6-bell methods (15,120 changes).

In Mr. Attree's analysis of peals rung during the year 1890 (see "THE BELL NEWS," 21 February, 1891, page 573), out of 699 peals, sixteen peals are on five bells, and a large number on six bells. The practice of "THE BELL NEWS" appears to be to recognise 5000 changes on five or six bells, so far as to give them a place among the peals in large type, but to reserve the term "peal" for true and complete peals in one method on seven bells, or for similar lengths in Major, etc. Probably this is in accordance with the opinion of the London ringers at the present day. It may have been so always. As regards the difficulty of achievement, I suppose that 5040 changes of Minor in seven different methods, or even of Doubles in twenty-one methods should rank higher than a peal of Grandsire Triples. But that is not the question. What we want to know is whether the old peal-books—say up to the year 1850—recorded "peals" in Minor and Doubles, and if not why country ringers have so often performed their 5040 in these methods with the belief that they were entitled to a peal-board.

C. PEARSON.

DOUBLE NORWICH MAXIMUS.

SIR,—In "THE BELL NEWS" of February 28th, 1891, Mr. E. T. Shearing, of Ipswich, published a peal of 5280 Double Maximus, stating this is supposed to be the first 5000 published in "THE BELL NEWS," but this is not the case. If that gentleman will look in "THE BELL NEWS" of May 14th and 21st, 1887, he will find four peals; 5280 by J. R. Pritchard, Liverpool, 6336 reduced to 5280, 5048 and 5016 by W. L. Catchpole, Ipswich.

W. G. CRICKMER.

Earl Soham, Suffolk.

REPLY TO MR. C. CLEAR.

SIR,—If Mr. C. Clear, of Angmering, will refer to page 128 of "THE BELL NEWS" he will find that the 720 of Woodbine rung at Milland is simply given as the first 720 in that method by one of the band, and not as the first on the bells. With regard to the one published as the first on the bells at Midhurst, I am sorry to find it was a mistake, as we had forgotten that Woodbine was one of the methods rung on the occasion mentioned. Messrs. Tribe and Lee were members of the Midhurst branch, and not of the Milland, as stated in the letter of correction.

W. H. GEORGE.

ANSWER TO "A.B."

SIR,—In answer to "A.B." about the Middleton bells, the two trebles have been cast by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank, London.

JOHN MILLETT.

ADDRESSES WANTED.—The Editor will be pleased to receive the addresses of Head Ringers and Secretaries of Local Societies.

THE CHURCH BELLS OF ST. JAMES, BRISTOL.

The Benedictine Priory and parish church of St. James's Barton, was built 1129. The tower was erected in 1374 at the south-east corner; it contains a fine ring of ten bells in D. They are as follows:—

Treble.—Note F sharp, diam. 28½ in. "Henry Hughes, Esq., Charles Fisher, Esq., Churchwardens, 1866." And a piece of ornamental bordering.

Second.—Note E, diam. 29 ins.—"Mr. Wm. Whittingham, Churchwarden, 1771. T (a bell) R."

Third.—Note D, diam. 32½ ins.—"Sr. Iohn Phillips Bart., and Richard Beckford, Esq. A (a bell) R., 1755."

Fourth.—Note C sharp, diam. 32 ins.—"When you us ring, we'll sweetly sing. A (a bell) R., 1755."

Fifth.—Note B, diam. 35 ins.—"Fear God, honour the king. A (a bell) R., 1755."

Sixth.—Note A, diam. 38 ins.—"Prosperity to this parish. A (a bell) R., 1755."

Seventh.—Note G, diam. 39 ins.—"Hark to our melody. A (a bell) R., 1755."

Eighth.—Note F sharp, diam. 42 ins. "May the church flourish, and her enemies decrease. A (a bell) R., 1755."

Ninth.—Note E, diam. 47 ins.—"Re-cast by Thomas Rudhall, 1778."

Tenor.—Note D, diam. 54 ins., weight about 28 cwt.—"Thomas Mears, Founder, London and Gloucester, 1839."

The ring of eight were cast by A. Rudhall, at Gloucester, in 1755. In 1771, Thomas Rudhall (also of Gloucester), cast what is now the second bell for a clock bell on the tower leads; and in 1778 he re-cast the ninth. In 1839, Thomas Mears, of the Whitechapel foundry, London, re-cast the tenor.

In 1866, Llewellyns and James (of Bristol), cast the treble, and added that and the clock bell to the upper end of the ring, thus enlarging it to ten bells; and a very fine ring they are.

In the ringing-chamber are tablets recording four peals of Grandsire Triples; each performance having two men at the tenor.

The church is one of the oldest structures in Bristol, the nave being Norman. In 1698 the south aisle was re-built; in 1768 the church repaired; in 1864, new north aisle built. The west gallery contains the largest organ in Bristol, with four rows of keys. The celebrated Dr. Hodges was once organist here.

The Priory surrendered to the Commissioners, January 9th, 1540.

The Bishop of Truro's formal resignation of his see took effect on Thursday. Private letters to his lordship should in future, be addressed to the Right Rev. Bishop G. H. Wilkinson, 3, Hardwick-road, Eastbourne. Letters on diocesan matters should during the avoidance of the see, be addressed either to Archdeacon Cornish, Kenwyn, Truro, or Archdeacon Hobhouse, St. Ives, Liskeard.

THE Clergy Pensions Institution is founded to promote the efficiency of the Church by facilitating the retirement of the Clergy when they are incapacitated by age or infirmity from fulfilling their duties. The necessary funds are raised by the combined action of the Clergy and Laity. Every Clergyman (not already aged or infirm) who wishes to participate in its benefits must, as a measure of self-help, himself purchase a Deferred Annuity of specified amount; while the contributions of the Laity form an Augmentation Fund to increase those Annuities to amounts adequate as pensions.

ASHBY-DE-LA-ZOUCH, LEICESTERSHIRE.

THE PARISH CHURCH SOCIETY.—The Annual outing of this Society took place on Wednesday, June 24th, when advantage was taken of the excursion of teachers and friends connected with the parish (St. Helen's) and Holy Trinity Church Sunday Schools to Kenilworth, Leamington, and Warwick. A comfortable saloon for the ringers was attached to the special train, which left Ashby-de-la-Zouch at 9.30 a.m. They were accompanied by the Vicar, the Rev. Canon Denton, and Mr. Churchwarden Matthews. The route taken was by London and North Western Railway, via Nuneaton and Coventry, and after leaving Nuneaton the far-famed three spires of Coventry came in view, and a short stay was made at the station. Here an old member of the Society (Mr. J. Hopkin) was waiting on the platform to give the party a welcome into Warwickshire. Kenilworth was duly reached, and the train was left, a visit being paid to the historic ruins made famous by Sir Walter Scott's enchanting novel. Afterwards a move was made for the church to have a pull on the ring of six. Several 6-scores having been rung, the calls of hunger caused a stampede to be made for the Abbey Hotel, where a good dinner was quickly served, and as rapidly disappeared. Here Mr. Hardy, the genial steeple-keeper of St. Mary's, Warwick, met the party, having been sent over specially by the Rev. C. Irvine, Vicar of St. Mary's, with the disappointing news of a death having taken place close to that church, which made ringing there impossible: arrangements had however been made for a pull at St. Nicholas', to compensate in some degree for the disappointment at being unable to ring the peal of ten at St. Mary's. After dinner a lovely drive through a portion of Lord Leigh's estate by Stoneleigh Abbey and the picturesque scenery of Guy's cliffed the party to Warwick, where the famous castle other places of interest were rapidly visited, and various touches rung on the eight bells of St. Nicholas by different scratch bands. A "lead" was then made for Emscote church, situate midway between Warwick and Leamington, in which tower hangs a pretty peal of eight, tenor about 17½ cwt., by Taylor, of Loughborough. Mr. Penfold, the steeple-keeper, introduced the company to the belfry, which was found to be rather small, and "so hot." The bells were soon raised and swinging along in good style to the tune of Grandsire Triples, and in 45 minutes a quarter-peal, arranged and conducted by W. Canner, was successfully brought round, the band standing thus: W. Liggins, 1; H. Canner, 2; T. Jacques, 3; J. Hopkic, 4; W. Owen, 5; J. H. Dunmore, 6; W. Canner, 7; J. Curtis, 8. A move was then made to Leamington, where the evening was spent in listening to the bands, and strolling about the gardens and promenades. A cordial letter had been received from the Rev. H. C. Courtney, inviting the Society to visit Hatton and try his peal of six, but to the regret of all it was found impossible to arrange a call there. Besides the ringers mentioned as taking part in the quarter-peal Messrs. Howe (Hon. Sec. and Treasurer), Thornley, Beadsmore, Cutter and Henfield accompanied the party, which all told numbered 153—ringers, teachers and friends. The return train left Leamington at 9.35, reaching Ashby-de-la-Zouch at 12.0, and all were thoroughly satisfied with the outing for 1891. Through the medium of this paper the Society wish to tender their hearty thanks to the Rev. A. C. Irvine, St. Mary's, Warwick, Rev. Thornton Rivington, St. Nicholas, Warwick, Rev. A. J. Binnie, Kenilworth, and Rev. Dr. Dickens, Emscote, for their kindness in placing the bells at their disposal of the Society; and also to the Rev. H. C. Courtney, Hatton Vicarage, for the kind invitation to visit his belfry.

A TRIPLE EVENT AT TANFIELD, DURHAM.

On Saturday, June 20th, the Tanfield people celebrated the first anniversary of the opening of the pretty peal of six bells in St. Margaret's church, and the ringers thought it a good opportunity to present their talented instructors, Messrs. Harrison and Henderson, of Jarrow, with a token of their appreciation of the time and labour expended by these gentlemen in teaching them. Several ringers were invited from Newcastle, Whitley, and Consett, and those from the former places brought with them a peal-board recording a 5040 rung in seven methods in this tower on April 11th, 1891. This was fixed in the ringing room early in the afternoon, and veiled ready for the opening ceremony in the evening. All the visitors, except the Consett men, arrived by four o'clock, and sat down to tea with the local ringers, which was provided at the "Peacock" inn, and was served up in Host Johnson's usual first-class style. Tea being over, the Vicar, the Rev. T. H. Archdall, M.A., complimented Messrs. Harrison and Henderson on the progress made by the Tanfield ringers in so short a time, and remarked what a favourite Mr. Harrison had become amongst the people in the district, particularly with the feminine portion. He had also a most pleasing duty to perform, which was to present two small tokens of friendship and esteem, and which came spontaneously from the ringers and a few friends, to the two gentlemen referred to. With these words the rev. gentleman handed over two beautiful gold scarf pins in the shape of a bell, and engraved with the initials of the recipients.

Mr. Harrison, in rising to thank his fellow-ringers, said he thought that he had been treated with more kindness in Tanfield than he could ever repay, with all his labours, and he did not see why they should have recourse to a presentation after all they had done before. The Vicar, he said, had referred to his being a favourite among the ladies of the village, but he thought that his colleague, Mr. Henderson, had more claim to that than he, a fact which was proved at each successive visit to Tanfield.

Mr. Henderson having also briefly responded, and a vote of thanks passed to the excellent landlord, Mr. Johnson, a move was made to the tower, where the Vicar kindly unveiled the tablet. He thanked the six members of the Durham and Newcastle Association who rang in the peal for presenting it to the Church, and hoped it would be a source of emulation to his own ringers, whom he hoped would soon be able to ring a 5000 of equal merit. The tablet is a neat board, painted black, with yellow lettering, the panel being of a Gothic shape, and looked quite artistic when set up in a prominent position.

Mr. R. S. Story, President of the Association, said he was sorry one member of the peal band (Mr. Gofton) was absent. He thought he could express the unanimous thanks of all concerned for the hearty manner in which the Vicar had performed the duties assigned to him during the day, and hoped that he would be spared to see many such anniversaries. The peal band with T. Brewis (local) in Gofton's place, then rang a date touch of 1891 changes, recorded elsewhere: and a 720 of Bob Minor, which came round false, followed, G. Merchiston (Tanfield) ringing the treble in this, his longest length. Then the Messrs. Story took their departure for home, whilst the rest stayed to spend the week end. Later on Mr. Harrison gave an exhibition of the perfection which his men have reached in tune ringing, at Mr. Fred Lowe's residence, on their new set of thirty-seven bells, several tunes being gone through in capital style. On the Sunday another 720 was rung through and lost through a change-course, but the same 720, Oxford Bob Minor, was brought round true in the evening by F. Lowe (first in the method), 1; W. Tyson, 2; T. Brewis, 3; C. L. Routledge, 4; W. Brewis, 5; F. Harrison (conductor), 6. Thus ended a most pleasant week end for all concerned, Tanfield hospitality having become proverbial amongst ringers of this district.

RINGERS' OUTING.

The St. James' ringers, Hull, having decided to visit the towers around the neighbourhood of Hull, paid the first visit on Saturday, June 27, the place chosen being Barrow-on-Humber, with its fine peal of six, tenor 20 cwt. Mr. Highfield, of Holy Trinity, and Mr. Southwick accompanied the party. 120 of Grandsire Doubles having been rung a start was made for 720 Bob Minor, but had to be abandoned, and called round with a capital struck 360 through one of the members who has been on the sick list for the last five weeks not being able to finish it. M. Hunter, 1; J. Highfield, 2; J. Pollard, 3; W. Southwick, 4; H. Campey, 5; J. W. Stickney (conductor), 6. After ringing a course of Grandsire Triples on the handbells another 120 of Grandsire Doubles was rung, and the bells ceased. After thanking Mr. Allison, the steeplekeeper for having the bells in readiness, the company adjourned to the Red Lion and partook of slight refreshment. A move was then made for New Holland, which was reached after a pleasant walk of two miles across fields, a pleasant ride across the Humber brought the outing to a close at 9.15 p.m., every one having thoroughly enjoyed himself.

ST. ALBANS CATHEDRAL SOCIETY.

The annual excursion of this society took place on Saturday, June 20th, and lasted until the 24th. The destination was Portsmouth, the headquarters being made at the Home Restaurant, Landport. Last year the society visited the same spot, and returned home with such pleasing reminiscences that a second journey was agreed to. At 2.30 the train carrying the Albanian contingent steamed out of London Bridge station, amid the ringing, or, more correctly speaking, clanging of bells. The journey was uneventful, quite a contrast to that of last year, with the exception of a few boyish antics, in which "Our Boy" figured very prominently. Portsmouth was reached after a few hours' travelling, when all settled down to tea in real earnest—this part of the programme terminating successfully. The remaining hours of the evening were spent in boating and listening to the beautiful strains of music from the string band of the Enniskillen Fusiliers on the Clarence Pier. Bed-time came and thither all repaired, but not all to sleep. No. 4 dormitory had on this particular evening been converted into a fruiterer's shop, and like the boy with the cake, its occupants could not sleep while such delicacies were about. Unfortunately for No. 2 dormitory, everything was demolished when they made an attack on the stores, and after severe fighting the attacking force retired with one wounded, and minus the fruit. The bugle proper sounded at 6 a.m., and the dolphin section at once made for the sea, in which they sported themselves with great delight. After breakfast the beautiful Church at Kingston was visited, and the local ringers with great courtesy giving up their bells to us, some Stedman and Grandsire Triples were rung. It was a pleasure here to meet old faces, and to know that some of the band had rung their first peal since our last visit. Some of the visitors journeyed to St. Agatha's to service, and others stayed at Kingston Church, where Canon Jacob delivered an admirable address. In the afternoon, nine of the party engaged a small yacht and went for a beautiful sail, but the wind was so very "puffy" that extreme care had to be exercised in manipulating the small craft. Fortunately we carried plenty of "ballast," and thanks are due to one member for condescending to come with us, thus averting a catastrophe. In the evening a second visit was made to the pier, where the Royal Hampshire regiment discoursed sweet music. Thus ended the second day. Monday morning was an early rising morning, for the handbells having been got out of "pawn," presumably put there for safety, or some other reason, a touch of Kent Treble Bob Minor was rung upon them in No. 3 dormitory at about half-past three. A long touch it was impossible to ring, for the trio had not left the arms of Morpheus. After a few more escapades, and a short interval, a dip in the briny was taken. At this juncture one of the band returned to town, and resumed business. At 9.30 the rest met on the pier, en route for Shanklin, but did not proceed on the journey until 11.30. The interval was filled in by boating, in which one section proved themselves "good" seamen, but doubts were expressed whether they would ever have reached the shore unless "Our Boy" had put his shoulder to the wheel. Shanklin was reached at feeding-time, and luncheon was partaken of at the refreshment rooms outside the station, where the juvenile portion were completely electrified. After much delay they were induced to leave, and all met once again on Shanklin beach. Then paddling was in vogue, and a ramble taken towards Ventnor, but rain intervened, which altered the plans a little. After some delay the return to Shanklin was commenced, but a second halt had to be made, and shelter sought. Very agreeable company was found here. After tea a good game of cricket was played on the sands, walking-sticks being converted into bats and stumps, which was heartily enjoyed both by the players and onlookers. Unfortunately, gate-money could not be taken. Rain gently falling forced the party to the station, where train was taken to Ryde, then by boat to Portsmouth. Rain continued all the evening, so the handbells were brought once again into use, to fill in time. Whilst on the Island, the Chine was visited, which was immensely appreciated. Thus ended day No. 3. Tuesday, the last day, was wet, so all began sighing for home, with the exception of one, who had become so contaminated with the soldiers, or the sight of their tunics, that he was continually singing, "Let me like a soldier fall," which presumably meant he wanted to enlist, but the ribbons not coming in contact with him, he was saved. A start homeward was made at 1.30, but a break was made at Chichester and a walk over the Cathedral was greatly appreciated, the place abounding in curios, which were ably explained by the genial and courteous verger. Of course the belfry was visited, which is kept as a belfry should be, and an ascent was made to the bell-loft and the top of the tower. Unfortunately a pull could not be obtained upon the bells, so a touch of Kent Treble Bob Major and one of Bob Triples upon the heavy set of handbells had to suffice. The time at Chichester hung very heavily, and all were glad when the hour of departure came, and we once again steamed out of beautiful Sussex. Home was reached in the early hours of Wednesday morning, the individual before mentioned still singing "Let me like a soldier fall." Thus ended another outing of the St. Albans Cathedral Society, enjoyed by all and regretted by none. Thanks are due to the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Mr. Battle, for managing the purse strings in such an admirable manner. It should be mentioned that the St. Peter's Society kindly gave their services at the cathedral on the Sunday, and rang at both morning and evening services, which the cathedral band fully appreciated. G. W. C.

THE OLD EAST DERBYSHIRE ASSOCIATION.

On Saturday, June 20th, the above Association held their quarterly meeting at Chesterfield. The attendance was small, owing probably to several of the village feasts being held on the same day, and the Staveley company were engaged ringing at home. Several short touches were rung in the afternoon by mixed bands from Eckington, Chesterfield, Killamarsh, Wingfield, and Norton. The bells are in good ringing order, and any brother-strings desirous of having a pull at the crooked spire, will not be disappointed with their go.

The meeting was held at 5.30 in the Church mission-room, presided over by the Rev. R. E. Adderley. The minutes having been confirmed, it was arranged to hold the next meeting at Dronfield.

The Rev. H. E. Ferry proposed, Mr. T. Lunn seconded, and it was carried—"That this meeting regrets the appearance of an anonymous letter in the Derbyshire Courier respecting the annual dinner at North Wingfield, and hopes that in future should any unpleasantness arise the matter will be brought before the next meeting instead of writing to the public press."

Mr. Goodwin proposed, and Mr. A. Knights seconded, a vote of thanks to the Vicar of Chesterfield for presiding, and for the use of the bells and mission-room.

The rev. gentleman, in reply, expressed regret for not having paid that attention to the ringers which he ought to have done. He was pleased to see that a great change had taken place of late among the ringers of Chesterfield, and other towers in the district. He promised to take a more active part among the ringers in future.

Mr. A. Knights, in reply, said that he was pleased to hear the Vicar make such a promise. He explained to the meeting how well the new rule was working among the Chesterfield company. Although several members had left them rather than give up their old practice of making that part of God's house a drinking and smoke room, new hands had taken their place, and he hoped that in the near future Chesterfield would have a full band of ten good ringers.

Mr. G. Toplis, who claimed to be one of the old band of ringers, fully endorsed Mr. Knight's sentiments.

Several touches of Major and Triples were rung after the meeting. The Chesterfield band also gave the members a good selection of tunes on the handbells, which brought the day's proceedings to a close.

The church of St. George, Botolph lane, has been closed by order of the Bishop of London, in consequence of the unsafe condition of the fabric, and the lack of any funds wherewith to repair it. The Bishop has, in accordance with the provisions of the Act dealing with the union of City parishes, appointed a commission to deal with the parish. Meanwhile Canon Malcolm MacColl, the rector, intends to devote the spare time thus forced upon him to work in one of the poorest of the East-end parishes.—Fall-Mall Gazette.

FOR SALE.—A Splendid peal of 42 Handbells, Chromatic, from G 26 to C 1; by J. Warner and Sons, London; together with tables, box, music, and all fittings. Will sell at a sacrifice; reason ill-health. Apply—William Kenney, 5, Townley Street, Macclesfield, Cheshire.

BY SCRUTATOR.

NORWICH DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION OF RINGERS.—TWELFTH REPORT.—This report, owing to unavoidable as well as regrettable circumstances, covers two years of the Norwich Association's work, consequently it is of a more bulky nature than usual, comprising as it does eighty pages, of which fifty are taken up by records of peal performances; the whole book being one combined testimony to the energy and ability displayed by the Hon. Secretary, in his recent arduous work of re-organising the Association and placing it on a good workable footing. Christopher Wren's epitaph in the Crypt of St. Paul's reads: "If you wish to see his monument, look around;" So in this case I could with equal force say that did I wish to point out the great work done for the good of the Exercise in the Diocese of Norwich, I need only produce this report. In the Committee's official Statement read at Norwich last September, after referring to the lamented death of the late Hon. Secretary, the Rev. Nathaniel Bolingbroke, and paying a graceful tribute to his worth and work for the Association, it says that when the meeting was held at Ipswich in February, 1890, "the organisation was for the moment out of gear, and the position, with reference to the welfare of the Association, was undoubtedly critical; the Committee, therefore, acknowledge with the greatest thankfulness the assistance rendered at this time by their good friend Captain A. P. Moore, who acted temporarily as Secretary, and made the necessary arrangements for holding the general meeting in February." At this meeting, the re-organisation of the Association by the creation of Districts, and the appointment of District Secretaries, was resolved upon. Since then, "this organisation has been carried out by the Committee, with the assistance of the Hon. Secretary, twelve districts have already been formed, and local Secretaries appointed to each, who are doing most excellent work, and the strength and efficiency of the Association has already been largely increased by their willing efforts." Continuing—"All who are interested in the welfare of the Association will be glad to learn that it has recovered from the confusion into which it was temporarily thrown by the long illness of the late Secretary. New members to the number of 142 have been elected since the commencement of the present year, and several old members who had dropped out for a time have rejoined. . . . The large addition to the list of honorary members, principally from the parochial clergy, shows that the Association possesses the goodwill of the Diocese generally, and will be supported in proportion as its work and objects are pressed upon the attention of the public. The Committee especially rejoice that our Bishop has consented to allow his name to appear as Patron of the Association. The Honorary Secretary, since his appointment, has personally visited all the districts and met the companies attached to the principal towers in union with the Association, being everywhere cordially received." Finally, "as the results of less than a full year's work the position of the Association is a matter for much congratulation, and a source of distinct and great encouragement. If all the members will heartily continue in pressing forward, and promoting the work and objects of the Association, the day ought not to be far distant which shall see it one of the very strongest and most efficient among the ringing societies of the Kingdom." Had I been present at the meeting when these words were read, I should most assuredly have responded with a right hearty "hear, hear!" I hope they will be realised—and that soon—as amply as the arduous work of Committee and Hon. Secretary deserve them to be. I now turn to the financial statement for the two years (1889-90). Here, on page 28, the practical results of the recent work of organisation (or, as I should perhaps better put it, re-organisation), are most manifest. In the former year, 1889, when the late Hon. Secretary was only too palpably passing away, and whose spirit went forth to Him who gave it, on the 16th of November, there can be no surprise that the Association was in sore straits; and that thus its work was to a great extent left undone. During this year the total income received was 10s. from life members, £4 10s. od. from honorary members, and £7 18s. od. from performing members, out of which total of £12 18s. od. was paid an adverse balance of £1 10s. 6d. due to the treasurer, £3 15s. od. for entering peals, and other small items, leaving £6 19s. 6d. in hand. The following year, which witnessed such a revival of activity, also brought in no less than £19 19s. od. in the way of subscriptions for previous years. In addition to that, life members' subscriptions rose to £8 11s. od., honorary members to £24 10s. od. and performing members' to £21 18s. od., the total income amounting to £83 16s. 9d. Out of this the meetings cost £23 1s. 9d., of which the annual meeting at Norwich is responsible for £14 13s. od. Old standing accounts amounting to £19 6s. od. were also liquidated. The Secretary's travelling expenses (£8 5s. 2d.) incidental ditto, £2 4s. 6d., expenses of delegates to Central Council £1 17s. 6d., and those of district Secretaries, £1 14s. 5d., accounts for another £14 1s. 7d., while other disbursements, with £9 19s. 3d. remaining in hand, brings up the total on the credit side to £83 16s. 9d. The Association has thus started upon its present year of operations with a fair balance in hand; but what is infinitely more satisfactory, upon a most excellent footing in the way of thorough organisation. The members have thus good reason to be gratified at the manner in which their Association has emerged from its crisis, and proud of their officers, who have so nobly and well brought it out of the Slough of Despond into a position of safety. It might be superfluous to remark that the main of this is due to their esteemed Hon. Secretary, the Rev. H. Earle Bulwer, but I cannot resist the observation nevertheless, in the confident anticipation that his loyal efforts for their good will have its result in the full realisation of the Committee's aspirations that "the day ought not to be far distant which shall see the Association one of the very strongest and most efficient among the Ringing Societies of the Kingdom."

Obituary.

MAURICE E. FRYER.

We have to announce the death of the above-named ringer, which took place on Wednesday, June 24th, 1891, in his 23rd year. He was a member of the St. Michael's Society, Melbourne, and joined the Midland Counties' Association in the year 1889. The deceased was interred at Melbourne Cemetery on Saturday, June 27th, his brother-ringers ringing a half-muffled peal of Canterbury Pleasure Triples, while the procession was at the cemetery (particulars of which will be found in the usual place). By his untimely death the company have lost a valuable member, and his genial face will be greatly missed at the quarterly meetings of his Society. Deceased was only able to take part in three peals, viz: 1 Grandsire Triples, and 2 of Oxford Bob Triples, owing to the nature of his disease, which was consumption. The peal that was rung on the day of his funeral, the deceased rang the second in two unsuccessful attempts last December. During his short career as a ringer, he had studied Campanology to a great extent, and has left as a mark of his ability a new method for eight bells, which he composed and called "Melbourne Major," which was published in No. 450 of "THE BELL NEWS."

JOHN TATTERSALL.

The Rossendale Branch of the Lancashire Association has again suffered a great loss in the death of John Tattersall, of Ramsbottom. He joined the association in 1882, and up to the time of his death was active in extending its influence through this district. He had taken part in some four or five peals of Grandsire Triples, the first being at Newchurch, on December 17th, 1887, and his last a few months ago at Bacup. His death occurred on the 19th ult., and his remains were interred on the 22nd, at Shuttleworth parish church. Over his grave some of his brother-strings rang a few courses on handbells, and also at different intervals during the day muffled touches sounded their mournful tones from the church to which he loved to go.

THE FIRE AT MESSRS. TAYLOR AND CO'S, LOUGHBOROUGH.

In our last issue a brief announcement was given of a serious conflagration which had taken place on the morning of the previous Tuesday, at the bell foundry of Messrs. John Taylor and Co. of Loughborough. The following particulars, taken chiefly from the current number of the Leicester Post, have been forwarded to us for publication :—

"About two o'clock on Tuesday morning a serious fire was discovered at Messrs. Taylor and Sons' bell foundry, Freehold-street, Loughborough. The works, which stand on area of about 40 square yards, consist of an enclosed yard flanked on one side with fitting shops, and on the other with tuning shops, the joiners' works and offices. Ten yards to the east of the works is situated the residence of Mr. J. W. Taylor, jun., and for the convenience of the household a washhouse had been built near the offices and under a portion of the store room. It was immediately over this washhouse and the business offices that P.C. Carter, while on his beat about two o'clock, saw flames issuing from the windows. He at once acquainted Mr. Taylor of the outbreak, and sent a messenger to the fire station. Soon after, Fireman Wesley and other members of the fire brigade arrived with the hose reel, and numbers of willing hands being near, the hose was attached to three hydrants. By this time the flames had got a firm hold of that portion of the premises adjoining Freehold-street, and eastward of the enclosed yard, so the efforts of the firemen were directed towards stopping the conflagration from spreading. But, unfortunately, the pressure from the 3-inch water main (which in that district is about the lowest in the town) was entirely insufficient to force the jet to the roof of the building, and scarcely carried it beyond 12ft. or 15ft. When Capt. Clements arrived with the steam engine at three o'clock, thinking that the water was being used for flushing the sewers, he sent a messenger with instructions to stop the flushing, and concentrate the pressure of water on the mains near Freehold-street. This caused much delay, the engine, which is supplied with a 5-inch pipe, being of little use until a stronger supply was obtained. However, the men worked bravely in the endeavour to conquer the flames, two hydrants in Chapman-street, and one in Cobden-street being utilised, in addition to the two which fed the engine. The premises having a frontage to Freehold-street, Cobden-street, and Chapman-street, jets from either thoroughfare were thrown into the works. A fair breeze blowing from the east carried the flames directly into the buildings; the yard, which is about 30 feet wide, and covered with a glass roof on iron supports, prevented the flames from spreading westward. Fortunately, too, the partition wall between the tuning shops was 14 inches thick, and being built up to the roof prevented the spreading of the fire on the north side. The flames were therefore located in an area of some 60ft. by 30ft., and the firemen succeeded in keeping them within this limit. To extinguish them was a matter of impossibility with the supply of water at command. The area above mentioned is now a complete wreck, nothing being left scarcely but the outer brick walls and iron girders. Masses of molten lead, burnt rubbish, and a quantity of hand bells strew the floor of the tuning shop; a dismantled lathe, a pulley shaft bent and displaced, and a bent iron girder show the severity of the fire. From one corner of the tuning shop, resting on three brick and one iron pillars, rises the tower, which was hung with eight bells that chimed the quarters. Of this, which was erected but three years ago, nothing is left save the walls, each of the four floors having been destroyed. The wash-house is also a wreck, while what is left in the offices from the fire has been damaged by the water. The strength of the walls alone prevented the entire destruction of the offices, the fire having entered through the doorway. By five o'clock the flames were well under control, and all further danger averted. As regards the origin of the fire, there was a small cask of lubricating oil over the wash-house which had been leaking, and the supposition is that the wash-house having been used on Monday the oil caught fire. A larger cask made of cast iron stood in the store room, immediately over the warehouse, and this, full of oil, provided further fuel for the fire. It was not, however, until the beam upon which the cask rested had been burnt that the oil was overturned, and then the lower rooms were burnt out of their valuable contents. The premises, we regret to state, were not fully insured, though the firm had taken out a policy from the London and Lancashire Company through their local agent. Since the valuation was made some three years ago the firm have kept adding to the stock. An estimate of the damage is therefore somewhat crude, but the amount is fixed at about £3500.

"Mr. J. W. Taylor, jun., states that he was awake just before two o'clock, and as soon as he had recovered from the first shock caused by what he saw, he went into the offices and secured a few of the books, which he took into the house. When he returned the fire was passing from the wash-house through the office door, and he was unable to re-enter the place that way. Nothing could be done to check the flames, as the water was not on at sufficient pressure until the steam engine came. Then they began to play upon it, but there was not sufficient water to keep that going. Had there been sufficient, he believes the fire could have been stopped. The 14in. wall prevented the flames from spreading beyond the small bell-tuning shop, and the excellent roof over the offices saved them from being gutted, though the furniture was destroyed by water. The room on the first floor, over the tuning shop, offices, and wash-house was in one compartment, and filled with stores, patterns, etc. Something like 400 small handbells would be stored ready for delivery, and valuable patterns, which it would be difficult to replace, in addition to a large quantity of bell-fittings and other materials. Here it was, in Mr. Taylor's opinion, that the fire originated, and its greatest force felt. Everything was cleared out, and the flames coming downward the lower rooms suffered similarly. The brigade got round the fire, and endeavoured to prevent it from spreading, many of the people who were spectators coming forward to assist. The fire burnt through the four floors of the clock tower, which stands 80ft. high, melting the lead roof, and leaving nothing but the bare walls. The large tuning shop and the joiners' shop, both of which are to the east of the yard, were saved, though a portion of the iron roof to the yard is damaged.

"Mr. G. Clements, captain of the local fire brigade, states that he was roused at ten minutes to three. He ordered the steamer out, and when he arrived on the scene the roof was partly in. He first played on one side of the fire and then on the other, as the water from the mains would not reach the top of the buildings. If they had not had the steamer he considered the whole block would have gone. Half-an-hour after the engine got to work the flames were subdued, but a good flow of water was not obtained until four o'clock. Evidence of the fierceness of the conflagration is apparent on the side of Mr. Taylor's residence, which is a distance of ten yards from the seat of the fire."

We are glad to find, from an announcement on another page, that the fire will not in any way prevent the execution of orders, or the progress of the general business of the firm.

THE LANCASHIRE ASSOCIATION.

A meeting of the above was held at Lytham, on Saturday, June 27. The bells of the parish church and those of St. John's were rung at intervals during the afternoon. The meeting took place shortly after 5 p.m. in the parish schools, Mr. J. Walker, of Blackburn, presiding. The Chairman explained the object of the meeting, also the lines on which the various branches were conducted. Messrs. J. Shepherd, F. Birtwistle, J. Redford, Mawdsley, and H. W. Jackson advocated the formation of a branch. It was ultimately decided to establish a branch, on the proposition of Mr. Birtwistle, Rochdale, seconded by Mr. Mawdsley, Preston, to be designated the "Fylde Branch of the Lancashire Association." Mr. John Fell, 21, Clifton-street Lytham, being appointed local secretary. Blackpool, St. Anne's-on-the-Sea, Lytham, Poulton, Singleton, and Kirkham, comprise the district, which it is hoped will prove successful. The new branch commences with seven members, all of Lytham. Votes of thanks to the Church authorities concluded the meeting.

THE UNEMPLOYED IN EAST LONDON.—At a time when much thought is being given to this matter, a practical suggestion may be of service. Last year more than £300,000 worth of foreign matches were purchased by inconsiderate consumers in this country, to the great injury of our own working people, so true is it that "evil is wrought by want of thought, as well as want of heart." If all consumers would purchase Bryant and May's matches, that firm would be enabled to pay £1000 a week more in wages.

LITTLEPORT, ISLE OF ELY.

Visitors to the fen district will have noticed between Ely and Lynn the tall tower of St. George, Littleport. For centuries it has held its own as a landmark; almost voiceless hitherto. The late Vicar, Canon Hopkins, a Cambridge wrangler, of large heart and warm sympathies, and for years a practical-sense debater in Convocation, was called to his rest a year or more ago, and the worthy parishioners, whose respect for him was unbounded, determined to give practical expression to their affection in three ways:—

- 1.—The erection of an organ.
- 2.—The addition of a stained glass window in the chancel.
- 3.—A new ring of eight bells.

Friends and former pupils rallied round them, and it is our pleasing duty to announce that on the Festival of the Nativity of St. John the Baptist, the peal was solemnly dedicated to the service of ALMIGHTY GOD by the Ven. the Archdeacon of Ely, assisted by the Rev. S. E. Perry, the Vicar.

The pleasant task of opening the bells was performed by the ringers of St. Mary, Ely, and other members of the Ely Diocesan Association, assisted by friends from Cambridge, Hilgay, Soham, Wilburton, Newmarket, and Market Downham. The absence through illness, of Mr. Ellis, many years Master of the Ely company, and of Mr. Pitstow, through an engagement, was regretted.

The peal is from the Cripplegate foundry of Messrs. Warner and Sons, and does that firm great credit. The tenor is in the key of E, and weighs 18½ cwt. The tone, tune, and go of the bells leave nothing to be desired, and they were listened to, by the inhabitants of this prosperous and thriving village, with great delight. The ringers were most hospitably entertained by the Committee, to whom they tender their warm thanks; and a most enjoyable day was spent.

The old bells (four), two of which were cracked, were among the products of Draper and Osborn. They have now been incorporated. More music from their manes! for they were, in local ringing parlance, "mucky, yawling things," and are happily restored to a new, and more harmonious life. The shade and spirit of the worthy saint of the fen-land—Guthlac—is clearly an influence in this region, and nothing now remains but to strike, while the iron is hot; start, instruct, and establish, a band of novices in the grand old Art of ringing.

SOCIETY FOR THE ARCHDEACONRY OF STAFFORD.

The annual meeting in connection with the above Society was held on Saturday, June 20th, at Lichfield, when there were members from the following places:—Burton-on-Trent, Darlaston, Handsworth, Harborne, Lichfield, Perry Barr, Tamworth, Tipton, Walsall, West Bromwich, Cannock, and Dudley, and friends from various other places. The bells at the Cathedral were kept going during the afternoon, but the bells at the other churches were silent owing to illness in one case and out of repair at the other. A committee meeting was held in the belfry at the Cathedral, when there were 12 ringing members and one honorary member elected. It was also decided to hold the next meeting at Wombourn at the end of September. A short service was held at five o'clock in the Lady Chapel and an excellent address given by the Rev. D. Jones. Tea was served at the coffee house, when full justice was done to the good things provided, after which the general meeting was held, the Rev. J. R. Keble taking the Chair, in the unavoidable absence of the Ven. the Archdeacon Scott. A letter was read from the treasurer requesting some one else to be elected in his place, as he would not be able to attend to the office in future. The Rev. J. R. Keble was elected treasurer, and the Rev. D. Jones, of Lichfield, and Mr. S. Reeves, secretaries. A hearty vote of thanks was passed to the Rev. C. H. Joberns for his great kindness in engrossing the peals rung by the society in the peal-book, and also for his past services as hon. treasurer. As the time had expired and the trains become due a general rush had to be made to the railway station, thus bringing the meeting to a close.

THE RINGERS' GUIDE TO THE CHURCH BELLS OF DEVON. By C. PEARSON, M.A. Price One Shilling, or bound cloth, 1s. 6d. Postage Threepence.

A VISIT TO THORNBURY, GLOUCESTERSHIRE.

On Sunday, June 21st, Messrs. Smith, Watts, and Watkins, accompanied by two friends, left Chepstow at 5.30 a.m. for a trip to the town of Thornbury. Crossing the Severn from Beachley to Littleton, a walk of four miles brought the visitors to Thornbury, which was reached at 8.0 a.m. After partaking of a good breakfast the church was visited, which proved to be a very interesting structure. The tower, which is also a noble building, is said to be 140 ft. high, from which a good view of the surrounding country was enjoyed. On the arrival of Mr. Eddington, the captain of the local company, the bells were raised in peal and a 336 and and 168 of Grandsire was rung for service. W. Davis, 1; C. Eddington, 2; G. Watts, 3; G. Watkins, 4; T. Allsopp, 5; C. Smith, 6; F. Howell (conductor), 7; A. Phelps, 8. Tenor 25 cwt. in E. There being a parade of Friendly Societies in the afternoon, several 6-scores of Grandsire were rung with 4-6-8 behind, and a touch of Minor was essayed but the tenor proved too much metal. Time now being up for the return journey, a move was made in that direction, when farewell greetings were exchanged, the visitors reaching Chepstow at 8.0 p.m.

To the Editor of "THE BELL NEWS AND RINGERS' RECORD."

MR. SCRUTATOR AND THE WORCESTERSHIRE REPORT.

SIR,—Will you kindly allow me a space in your valuable paper for a few words in answer to the above gentleman's remarks concerning the ringers and ringing at Worcester? I am only speaking of the Worcester Branch Society, of the other company I can say nothing. Firstly, he says there has not been a peal rung on tower bells for two years, in this city; quite right, but why? I will try and shew it is not entirely our fault. One very important reason is we cannot have the bells to make an attempt, and when we do the tenor bell goes so bad that we are obliged to have two men to ring it; and another thing, when we do attempt to ring, someone who has got the finger-ache or a cough, runs directly to the clergy or churchwardens and complain, and they, without making enquiries, order the bells to be stopped. The members are getting so disheartened that they will not sacrifice other engagements to attend a ringing meet, and as for acknowledgment and support by the clergy, they scarcely ever enter a tower, unless it is to stop us ringing, so I fail to see where the facilities for ringing comes in, so far as our company is concerned. I should like to remind Mr. Scrutator, that if we have not rung peals in Worcester, we have gone about the County to ring them. If he will look through the 1889 Report he will find two at Hanbury, one of Grandsire and one of Union Triples; the latter being the first in the method by the Association; also a Minor peal at Croome d'Abitot, saying nothing about the numerous attempts. He will also find one in the 1889 Report, at Malvern, by members of our company. Secondly, he says we have the greatest facilities for ringing; quite right, as to plenty of bells, but what good are they to us if we cannot use them? Our company have only one peal of eight, and one of six, for use; at the eight-bell tower we are only allowed one practice fortnightly, and we do not get half those, as there is a mother's meeting, a tea-fight, or someone says they are ill, or service in the adjoining parish church; for all of which we have to stop, so where are the facilities for progress? He refers us to some of our neighbouring towers as examples; I should like to take one of them Kidderminster (at which I have many ringing friends), they are certainly doing well, but what are their opportunities? A peal of bells in capital order, a weekly practice without interruption, they ring twice every Sunday, and a reasonable use of Saturday afternoons. So they get at least six practices where we get one. The only bright spot in our future is the prospect of getting two trebles added to St. John's peal of six, in the autumn, which I earnestly hope will happen. We have also been unfortunate in losing three of our best men, which is a great loss, when nearly all the members are young ones. In conclusion with regard to Mr. Scrutator's last (and not least) wish, I may add we shall endeavour to add a few this year yet.

SATURDAY, JULY 4, 1891.

No apology is needed when reference is made to such an event as the opening of a new peal of bells, or the re-suscitation of an old one. In fact such occasions are meet times for congratulation, second in importance, perhaps, to none, and they ought therefore never to pass by without something beyond a brief notice. When it is considered how many church steeples there are which require the practical interference of the bell-founder, in more ways than one, the number of splendid bells hanging in jeopardy by reason of the insecure and dangerous condition of their bearings, and the great hindrance to the promotion of ringing caused thereby, the news of a peal being rejuvenated, so to speak, ought to bring to all ringers worthy of the name, feelings of the most sincere gratification and delight.

These observations are suggested by the perusal of an account of bell-restoration which has just taken place in the Diocese of Ely, a report of which will be found in another column. The parishioners of Littleport—a village in the Isle of Ely—were desirous of perpetuating the beloved memory of their departed Vicar, and they wisely chose three distinct modes of effecting their object. It is pleasing to note that one of these was to dignify their prominent tower with the possession of those instruments for the reception of which it was erected, viz.: a peal of bells, which are, we are told, of good tone and tune, while the "go" leaves nothing to be desired.

Many a time has it been said, by those competent to speak, that a bell is a most appropriate thing to erect to the memory of departed worth. If one bell is so, how much more is a peal of eight? The good folk of Littleport have set an example worthy of imitation, one in fact, we should like to see more extensively followed. It remains to be seen if the spirit of the parishioners, exemplified so plainly in the matter of a memorial to their late Vicar, will be sustained when the question arises how and in what manner their new bells are to be rung. If proper and efficient steps are taken, Littleport may soon become an important head centre of change-ringing, and be one means of removing from the Diocese of Ely that reproach which seems to adhere to it still when bells and bell-ringers are under consideration.

The Manchester Guardian learns that the roof over two bays at the west end of the chancel of Manchester Cathedral has now been thoroughly examined, the result being that the timbers in John Huntington's original ceiling are more decayed than was at first conjectured. At the same time it is hoped that they are sound enough to undergo the process of redressing, so that the original and picturesque-looking old ceiling may be retained as a fitting memento of the first Warden of Manchester (from 1422 until 1458), and founder of the chancel itself. In order to carry out this restoration it will be necessary to construct an entirely new chancel roof, which will form a complete support to the redressed timberwork in the original ceiling.

Sillitoe (conductor), 6. The party then descended the tower, and after refreshing the inner man at the "Six Bells" inn, a start was made back for another pull on the grand ring of eight at Lavenham, and 1392 of Bob Major was brought round in 48 mins. W. Boby, 1; W. Howell, 2; W. Cross, 3; H. Smith, 4; A. Symonds, 5; W. Snell, 6; N. Hawkins, 7; C. Sillitoe (conductor), 8; followed by a good touch of Grandsire Triples with H. Harper, 7; conducted by C. Sillitoe. The rest of the evening was spent in handbell ringing and songs, including one by Mr. Harper—"Old England's Merry Bells," which brought the evening to a close, each one starting for their respective homes.

THE SUSSEX ASSOCIATION.—WARNHAM BRANCH.

The members of this branch held a meeting in the vestry of the parish church on Monday, June 15th, the Rev. R. Bowcott in the chair, for the purpose of selecting a place for their annual outing, Tunbridge Wells being ultimately agreed upon. Afterwards, the Rev. R. Bowcott said that he had a very pleasing duty to perform, and that was to ask their late Captain to accept a small present from the members of his band, as a token of their esteem and respect, and also to show their appreciation of the keen interest he had manifested in promoting the art of change-ringing at Warnham during the five years of his captaincy. The present consisted of a silver watch-chain. Mr. Short, who was taken by surprise, thanked all the members for their great kindness, and hoped he should be spared to be amongst them on many more occasions.

ST. NICHOLAS, GLOUCESTER.

In a recent issue an account appeared of a fire which had occurred in the spire of this church, through its being struck by lightning. On Thursday week a thanksgiving service for the preservation of the church was held. The Vicar preached from 1 Cor. iii. 15,—"Saved; yet so as by fire." At the conclusion of the sermon the Te Deum was sung. A meeting followed in the vestry. The Vicar expressed to the firemen how fully the parishioners, and indeed the whole of the citizens, appreciated the brave and noble manner in which they did their duty. Captain St. Clair Ford had sent him a guinea, which he wished distributed amongst the three men specially referred to—H. Kitchen, W. Pike, and F. J. Baldaro. He had also received from other friends in Cheltenham sums with which to swell the collection made that evening.

The following peal has been sent too late for insertion in its proper place:—

THE CHURCH HOUSE.—The Bishop of Carlisle, in his letter to the Times, says:—"After spending a considerable sum, about £60,000, upon the site, the houses occupying the same, and initial operations, we have not sufficient money in hand to entirely pay even for the erection of the great hall (perhaps a fourth of the entire building). The estimated cost of the hall is about £35,000; the funds in hand amount to about £24,000. I do not doubt concerning the necessary amount being forthcoming by the time it is actually required; but with regard to the remaining part of the building, which we hope to commence as soon as the great hall is completed, not a farthing is at present subscribed or promised."

ADDRESSES WANTED.—The Editor will be pleased to receive the names and addresses of Head Ringers and Secretaries of Local Societies.

THE RECENT 5040 ON HANDBELLS AT ST. ALBANS.—In the report of this performance we omitted to say that the Brothers Mitchell were also members of the following Societies: The St. Alban's Cathedral Society; The Ancient Society of College Youths, and The Herts, Essex, and Sussex Associations.

THE LEEDS AND DISTRICT SOCIETY.

The monthly ringing meeting of the above society was held at Armley, on Saturday, June 27th, and was well attended by members from the following places: Bramley, Birstall, Leeds, Headingley (St. Chad's and Michael's), Holbeck, Burley, and the local ringers, who paid every attention for the comfort of visitors, and made up bands for ringing, which commenced with a half-peal of Violet. From 3.30 up to 9.30 the bells were kept going in various methods, including Plain Bob, Kent and Oxford Treble Bob, Duke of York and Violet. At the meeting house, "The Barley Corn" inn, the general meeting for business was commenced. A motion was carried to admit members residing at any distance from head quarters; also the ringing meeting to be held out of the limited distance, six miles, as before, the place to be chosen by ballot at general meetings. The usual votes of thanks to the vicar, wardens, steeple-keeper, and ringers, for the use of the bells, and arrangements made. The President, Mr. J. Whitaker, briefly responded. The evening passed too quickly with courses of Caters, Triples, and a few lively tunes by the Leeds' band on handbells, much to the delight of all present. St. Michael's at Headingley was the place decided for the July meeting, when this society for the first time will operate upon the new peal recently erected by Taylor & Co., Loughborough.

THE PEAL AT HEXHAM, NORTHUMBERLAND. This performance (the first of Major on the bells), after several unfortunate attempts, extending over some three or four years, was at last brought to a successful issue on Thursday, 28th ult., as recorded in the proper page. The composition is a musical one in two parts, and is given in Snowdon's Treatise, part II., page 43. Messrs. R. Story and Gofton belong to Whitley; Pattison to Winlaton; Lees, W. Story, and Routledge to Newcastle; Hern to North Shields; and the conductor to Jarrow. Several other ringers, numbering about 10, including the Rev. C. Buston (late hon. sec. of the Winchester Guild), journeyed with the peal band as far as Corbridge, and had a pull on the bells there. They then drove in a brake (which had been kindly provided by Mr. R. S. Story, president of the Durham and Newcastle Association) up to the pretty little village of Newton Hall, where Minor and Doubles were indulged in on the light peal of six. From thence they drove back to Hexham, and arrived "just in time to be too late" to hear the finish of the peal of Treble Bob. Those who took part in this pleasant outing wish to tender their most sincere thanks to Canon Barker, the Vicar, and to the churchwardens of Hexham Abbey, likewise to Revs. Theophilus Bennett, of Newton Hall, and F. Richardson, of Corbridge, for so kindly granting the use of their respective peals for the occasion. The finest weather favoured the party during the whole day, which added materially to the enjoyment.

THE Clergy Pensions Institution is founded to promote the efficiency of the Church by facilitating the retirement of the Clergy when they are incapacitated by age or infirmity from fulfilling their duties. The necessary funds are raised by the combined action of the Clergy and Laity. Every Clergyman (not already aged or infirm) who wishes to participate in its benefits must, as a measure of self-help, himself purchase a Deferred Annuity of specified amount; while the contributions of the Laity form an Augmentation Fund to increase those Annuities to amounts adequate as pensions.

DEDICATION OF CHURCH BELLS IN EXETER.

Saturday week was a veritable red-letter day for all ringers connected with the Devonshire Guild, and also for many un-associated with it, Exeter being the scene of the day's proceedings. In the first place there was the dedication of two new trebles at St. Sidwell's, whereby the fine old peal of eight has been increased to one of ten bells; and, secondly, there was the annual meeting of members of bands in union with the Guild and customary tea. Ringers from all parts of Devon visited the city and availed themselves of the opportunities afforded for fraternising with their brothers in the art. Good feeling and harmony prevailed, and the success of the various events was undoubted.

The dedication service took place at noon, and was well attended. Members of the choir were present, and with the clergy formed a procession, a cross and two or three banners being carried. The processional hymn was No. 390, "Brightly gleams our banner, pointing to the sky." The clergy present in surplices were the Rector (the Rev. S. W. E. Bird), Archdeacon Seymour, the Revs. A. N. Armstrong, A. Webb, F. T. H. Shepherd, H. P. Burdett, and Maitland Kelly (Ottery St. Mary). Psalm 85 was subsequently sung, and after prayer there was a procession of the clergy and choir to the belfry, the 58th Psalm being said in alternate verses by the Rector and choir on the way thither. On reaching the belfry the Rector offered up two prayers, and then the ringers rang a few rounds. Next the Rector said two more prayers, and the ringers again sent the bells swinging, while the clergy and choir returned to their seats. When the bells ceased, the Ven. Archdeacon of Barnstaple proceeded to preach the sermon, taking for his text the 1st verse of the 120th Psalm—"I was glad when they said unto me, we will go into the house of the Lord." He said that churches ought to be beautified as much as possible, and they ought to do all they could to make them beautiful. Every addition to God's house, everything which was a further step towards making it nearer what it ought to be, was a matter for sincere rejoicing on the part of those connected with it. Having referred to the uses of bells, the preacher went on to say that there had been of late years many efforts made to improve church belfries, and not before reform was greatly needed. It had been the aim of those who worked in the matter to bring before bell-ringers two special truths—(1) that the belfry was part of the church, and as such was a place where decency and order and reverence should prevail; (2) that bell-ringers were servants of the Church, and doing work for God. He hoped ringers generally were awaking to a truer sense of what their office really was. To assist in calling people to service and not attending themselves with mockery on the part of the ringers. The Guild of Devonshire ringers was doing a great deal of useful work, not merely in promoting an interest in scientific change-ringing, but by inducing other ringers to take a higher and better view of the work they were called upon to do.

After the sermon the hymn, "Now at length our bells have mounted," was sung, and a collection, which amounted to £4 18s. 6d. made in aid of the bell fund. The service, which was choral, closed with the Benediction. Hymn 437 was sung during the recession. This is the first time that bells have been dedicated according to ancient rule (the service having been adopted by the Rector from the Pontifical of Edmund Lacy, Bishop of Exeter, A.D. 1420-55) since the Reformation.

The fund for increasing the old peal of eight at St. Sidwell's to one of ten bells was first started by Mr. Sydney Herbert at a dinner of Exeter ringers in January of the present year. He made a promise of a subscription, and so well was his example followed that at the dinner itself a considerable sum was raised. A committee was formed, and those who know the difficulties that have nowadays to be surmounted in order to raise money for bells, or indeed anything else, will readily recognise the fact that they laboured assiduously and thoroughly to have been able to attain the object they had in view so quickly. Mr. A. C. Bird, the Hon. Secretary to the committee, was particularly energetic, and, but for him, there is little doubt that some longer time would have elapsed before the additions could have been made. Mr. H. Hems proved an excellent Hon. Treasurer, and the following proved an efficient committee: the Rector (President), Messrs. B. J. Fisher and A. C. Roper (churchwardens), Sir John Mowbray, M.P., Colonel Troyte, Messrs. J. S. Herbert,

F. Shepherd, E. Shepherd, and F. Davey. It is not quite certain when St. Sidwell's first possessed a peal of eight. According to an inventory of the bells of Devon taken by a commission in the reign of Edward VI., the church had four bells, weighing altogether 34 cwt. It also appears that three bells which belonged to the ancient church of Allhallows-on-the-Walls were removed to St. Sidwell's about 1649. Allhallows' church, during the siege by the Parliamentary Army, had a culverin placed on it, and was practically demolished in the fight. The Republican Governor who was afterwards appointed ordered the three bells which the tower contained to be melted down for canon. The inhabitants of St. Sidwell's heard of this and, headed by a well-known brewer of the parish, named George Cheeke (who lent his dray and several horses), went one night privately and removed the bells to their own church. There is a story that one or two bells were purchased from the authorities of another church in the city. At all events, in 1773 the existing bells, with probably additional metal, were recast into a peal of eight by Pack and Chapman, and have ever since been fairly regarded as one of the best peals of eight in the West of England. The bells were rehung in 1875, and a cage for ten bells was then constructed in the tower, the intention being to increase the eight by the addition of two new trebles. Funds, however, were not forthcoming, and for sixteen years the two pits remained empty. Now the work has been completed, at a cost of about £100, which sum has very nearly, if not entirely been raised. Messrs. Mears and Stainbank, London, who own the same foundry as Messrs. Pack and Chapman, and which was started so long since as 1570, cast the two new bells. The new treble weighs 5 cwt. 2 qrs. 27 lbs., its note is F sharp, and the inscription it bears "Gloria Patri et Filio et Spiritui Sancto," "Alleluia." The new second weighs 6 cwt. 0 qrs. 12 lbs.; its note is E, and the inscription on it "Laus et jubilatio," followed by the names of the Rector and churchwardens and the date. The task of placing two bells in front of the old eight and making them harmonise was not an easy one. Messrs. Mears and Stainbank seem to have cast the bells to a nicety, though some time must necessarily elapse before the true merit of the youngsters can be appreciated. The bells cost £73 1s. 9d. Mr. Harry Stokes (Woodbury) hung the bells, and, as usual, has performed his work satisfactorily. In addition to all this the belfry itself has been very nicely renovated and repaired by Messrs. F. and E. Shepherd at their own cost. The old tower arch, which has been built all the century, has also been opened out, Mr. Newnham, Mr. A. C. Bird, and Mr. Hems having each had a share in the work. The arch is of red Thorverton stone, finely moulded, and of 14th or early 15th Century work, and forms one of the finest features of the old part of the church.

At half-past one o'clock a public luncheon was held at the Bude Hotel, and attended by between fifty and sixty persons. The Rev. S. W. E. Bird presided. After the luncheon,

The Chairman proposed "The health of the Queen," which was drunk with enthusiasm. He next proposed "The health of the Bishop and Clergy of the Diocese."

Archdeacon Seymour, in replying, said he hoped no one would think the remarks he made in the course of his sermon were due to any want of appreciation of the services of bell-ringers. He admitted that they did a great deal of work, but he wanted ringers generally to more fully realise the sacred character of their office. He thanked members of the Guild for the assistance they had rendered in the way of promoting belfry reform, and hoped they would continue on the same lines as heretofore.

The Chairman proposed "The health of the Bell Committee," and, in doing so, referred to the admirable and harmonious manner in which they had all worked together. There had, he said, been some misgivings as to what would be the result if there were ten bells in the tower—whether the structure would stand the swing of the bells, or whether it would topple over and cause a calamity. He believed misgivings of a similar kind were entertained when the eight bells were rehung; but fifteen years had passed, and the tower remained as firm and as strong as it was centuries ago. He trusted that the addition of two new bells would not cause any of the dangers which may have been apprehended by friends. Mr. Ashworth (architect) inspected the tower before work was begun, and he made a satisfactory report. The toast was most heartily received.

Mr. Hems responded, and showed the cheque which he had drawn in payment of Messrs. Mears and Stainbank's account. He also announced that he had received a cleverly-written letter, signed "Peter," the object of which was to show the desirability of rehanging the bells at the Cathedral.

The Rev. M. Kelly proposed "The health of the Chairman," which was cordially drunk.

The Annual Meeting of the Guild of Devonshire Ringers was held at 4 o'clock at St. Sidwell's Institute, Summerland Crescent, and was well attended. Mr. C. Pearson presided, and representatives from various bands were present. The annual report of the Committee stated that the Guild continued to make fair progress. During the year three peals of 5040 Grandsire Triples had been rung by members, and the Whitstone band accomplished a creditable performance by ringing forty-two 6-scores of Grandsire Doubles, called in ten different ways. One fresh band had joined the Guild, and two or three other bands would soon be qualified for membership. The Guild Instructor had paid several visits to Silvertown, Upton Pyne, and Ottery St. Mary, and these bands had much profited by his able tuition. New trebles had been added to the peals at Clysthydon, Talaton, and Dalwood, and the peals at Cullompton and Crediton had been rehung. A hope was expressed that bands would soon be formed at each of these places in connexion with the Guild. The balance-sheet showed a balance in hand of £11 11s. On the motion of the Rev. S. H. Berkeley, seconded by Mr. E. Shepherd, the report and balance-sheet were adopted. The officers were re-elected, with the Rev. M. Kelly as Hon. Secretary and Treasurer. Canon Trefusis, the Revs. S. W. E. Bird, H. Bremridge, and J. T. Molineux, and Mr. G. J. Cruwys were chosen as a Committee of honorary members. Mr. Kelly was heartily thanked for his services.

The annual tea, also held at the Institute, was attended by over 100. Miss Woolcombe supplied an excellent tea, and she was kindly assisted at the tables by Mrs. F. Shepherd, Mrs. E. Shepherd, Mrs. B. Mundy, and Mrs. F. J. Lake. Almost all the belfries in the city and neighbourhood were thrown open to enable visiting bands to ring during the day. Many, of course, tried the St. Sidwell's bells, but little change-ringing was done, very few being able to ring Caters. In the evening, however, a few courses of Grandsire Caters were rung by H. Swift, 1; W. Drake, 2; E. Shepherd, 3; C. Carter, 4; F. Shepherd, 5; A. W. Searle, 6; B. Mundy, 7; F. Davey, 8; J. Moss, 9; T. J. Lake, 10. Those who also assisted in opening the bells were Messrs. T. Mudge, W. Rew, S. Herbert, and W. Carnell. The belfry and tower were neatly decorated, and flags and bunting were displayed at various places in the parish.

THE KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

SWANSCOMBE BRANCH.—The Annual Meeting of the above was held in the vestry of the parish church on Saturday, July 4th, the Rector (the Rev. R. G. Hale) in the chair. The report of the Secretary, which showed an increase of three members, and four new methods rung, was read and adopted. The captain, vice-captain, secretary and treasurer were all re-elected, while Mr. M. Digby was elected steeplekeeper.

The Rector, in the course of an excellent address to the ringers, said he felt he must congratulate them on the way they attended to their duties, and also that he considered they were quite as much Church officers as the choir, and he quite believed they were stimulated by the higher desire of rendering glory to God more than they were of becoming the very best change-ringers. In conclusion the rev. gentleman said he wished to subscribe £1 1s. to the Society, and he hoped to have the pleasure of meeting his ringers on many such occasions.

It was also decided to have an outing to Eynsford during the summer if possible, to try and help the local company along, they having lately joined the Kent County Association.

BUSINESS ALTERATIONS.—The bellfounding plant of Messrs. Blews of Birmingham, has recently been purchased by the Messrs. Charles Carr, of Smethwick, who will in future carry on the business of Church Bell Founders and Church Bell Hangers. Messrs. Carr's advertisement will be found on another page.

DUNDEE.

At a recent meeting of the Special Committee of the Property Committee of the Dundee Town Council, the question was discussed whether the bells in the old steeple should be rung every Sunday evening instead of only between October and April as at present. A deputation from the bellringers, consisting of the conductor and others, attended the meeting, and expressed their willingness to comply with the proposal to ring every Sunday evening, but desired the Committee in the circumstances to grant them an advance of salary. The meeting after fully considering the whole question, resolved that the bells be rung every Sunday as follows:—At 9 a.m. chime fifteen minutes Psalm tunes; 10.45 a.m., ring eight heavy bells fifteen minutes; 2 p.m., ring eight heavy bells fifteen minutes; 9.15 p.m., ring eight heavy bells fifteen minutes; and on Thursday evening preceding each Communion ring eight heavy bells at 7.45 o'clock fifteen minutes. In regard to weekly practice, that change-ringing should take place every Tuesday evening from eight to nine o'clock, and chiming every Saturday afternoon from three to five o'clock. The ringers are to ballot for their turns in practising chiming, two each Saturday. The ringers are to be ten in number, as at present, and shall (with the exception of Mr. W. Paul, who shall be conductor, and shall be responsible for the duties being properly carried out) be paid a sum of £5 10s. yearly as salary, payable half-yearly on 1st July and 1st January, and the conductor, Mr. William Paul, shall be paid a yearly salary of £6 16s., the salaries to cover all the duties, and the advance to take effect as from July 1st, 1891. The Convener was given power to fix the sum to be allowed for ringing on special occasions.

DEBENHAM, SUFFOLK.

On Monday, June 29th, the Debenham company had their annual outing. The place selected was Yarmouth, and they arrived at their destination at 9.22, and the long journey had the effect of creating an excellent appetite for breakfast, which was supplied in the usual good style by the proprietor of the King's Street Coffee Tavern. After breakfast the company visited the church and other principal places of interest. The weather being all that could be desired, they enjoyed themselves heartily, and reached home safely about 10.30 p.m.

SOWTON, DEVON.

The Sowton ringers recently made a tour by rail to Newton Abbot, and then visited the neighbouring churches of Highweek and Kingsteignton, at each of which they were met by their brother ringers, and, with the kind permission of the Incumbents, enjoyed a good ring on their musical peals of six. Tenors 14 cwt. and 17 cwt. respectively. From Kingsteignton they walked back to Newton, where they rang the silvery-toned little peal of eight in the fine old ivy-covered tower of St. Leonard, which stands by itself in the middle of the street, the church having been pulled down about fifty years since and a new church built close by. The pleasure of the afternoon was much enhanced by the extensive and beautiful view obtained from the top of the hill on which Highweek Church stands, and also by the pretty church of Kingsteignton. The Sowton men, who included Messrs. W. Carnell, C. Serle, W. Sellick, jun., C. Saunders, W. Serle, W. Mills, Dr. Totterdale, and W. Sellick, sen., returned by the 8.30 p.m. train to Exeter, much pleased with the bells they had visited.

Obituary.

CHARLES THORPE.

We regret to record the death of the above-named gentleman, for many years the conductor of the Christ Church company, Crewe, who died at Ashton-under-Lyne on Tuesday, May 31st, and was buried at Ashton on Saturday, July 4th. On Sunday morning, July 5th, for Divine Service at the parish church, the local ringers rung as a last token of respect, with the bells deeply muffled, 350 and 168 Grandsire Triples; after which his age, thirty-seven years, was tolled on the tenor. J. Wright, 1; J. Broome, 2; A. Wilson, 3; R. Langford, 4; A. Jarvis, 5; R. T. Holding (conductor), 6; G. Harding, 7; J. Emery, 8.

ANNIVERSARY AT SUDBURY, SUFFOLK

The seventeenth anniversary of the augmentation and re-opening of St. Peter's bells was held here on Monday, June 29th (St. Peter's Day). The local company was joined by friends from Glemsford, Long Melford, Bures, Walter Belchamp, Great Bentley, Stanstead (Suffolk), and London. During the day touches of Treble Bob, Bob Major, Stedman and Grandsire Triples were rung at the various churches. Ringing commenced at 6 a.m. at St. Peter's with 720 Bob Major. C. Sillitoe (conductor), 1; J. Campin, 2; G. Brown, 3; W. Cross, 4; W. Howell, 5; A. Scott, 6; S. Slater (Glemsford), 7; H. Harper, 8. The company then adjourned to All Saints' church and rang another touch of Bob Major. After breakfast St. Gregory's tower was visited, and after a touch of Bob Major with Mr. Hume, of Bures, a peal of Treble Bob was attempted by a mixed band, but owing to some of the visitors not being used to the cross way in which the bells are hung, the fifth being next to the treble, and the second next the sixth, it was unfortunately lost after some good ringing. W. Howell, jun., 1; R. Ambrose (Melford), 2; G. Brown, 3; A. Clarke (Stanstead), 4; C. Sillitoe (conductor), 5; R. Brett, 6; R. Theobald (Stanstead), 7; R. Gowers (Stanstead), 8. A touch of Stedman Triples was afterwards rung at All Saints, and a 768 of Kent at St. Peter's. C. Sillitoe (conductor), 1; A. Ambrose, 2; R. Theobald, 3; W. Bacon, 4; W. J. Nevard, 5; N. Hawkins, 6; R. Brett, 7; R. Gowers, 8. The dinner was held at the "Bear" hotel at two o'clock. This was admirably served by host Gooch, the quality and quantity of viands leaving nothing to be desired. The chair was occupied by the rector of SS. Peter and Gregory, the Rev. T. L. Green, who was supported on the right and left respectively by the Vicar of All Saints, the Rev. C. J. Stower, and the Mayor, G. H. Grimwood, Esq., and the ministers and churchwarden of St. Gregory. At the head of the table were also the Rev. R. P. Moline, Mr. P. Constable, churchwarden of St. Gregory, Mr. W. Finch, Messrs. Sillitoe, Scott, and Bacon. Regret was expressed at the unavoidable absence of Dr. W. J. Mason, W. B. Ransom, Esq., and G. L. Andrews, Esq. The company numbered about forty. After the removal of the cloth the Chairman gave the toast of "Church and State," which was heartily drunk. He next gave the toast of "The Sudbury company of ringers." He had very great pleasure in giving the toast, which he had no doubt would be well received by all. He congratulated them on the number that were sitting round that table, especially as they had not had so many for many a year. He should however like to see the ringers stand in higher popular esteem. He could not understand why so many people spoke badly of the ringers. He could find no reason for it; and it always vexed him to hear it. The only thing was for them to live it down. Something perhaps might be said, and it was often commented upon, about their ringing other people to church, and ringing themselves out, for after inviting others through the bells, they generally went outside instead of in. He had been told that they had a noise in their ears, and wanted to get rid of it, and went into the fresh air. Be that as it may, he thought possibly that if they joined the congregation at service, after calling them together, instead of frequently going away, they might be looked on in a more favourable light. He begged to couple with the toast the names of Mr. C. Sillitoe, the conductor of the company, and Mr. A. Scott, the foreman. Both briefly and suitably responded.

The rev. gentleman's remarks were frequently interrupted by an individual whose mouth seemed too large to be under control, and whose utterly senseless and noisy remarks caused infinite disgust and annoyance to the rest of the company.

The other toasts were "The Churchwardens of St. Gregory," proposed by Mr. Finch and responded to by the Mayor and Mr. Constable; "The Visitors," proposed by the Rev. C. J. Stower and responded to by Messrs. Nevard and Slater; "The Chairman," proposed by the Mayor; "The Vicar of All Saints," proposed by Mr. Constable; and the worthy "Host and Hostess," by Mr. Bacon. Arrangements were made at the dinner-table for having the three peals ringing at the same time, and companies were made up accordingly; Mr. Sillitoe taking a company to All Saints; Mr. Slater taking one to St. Gregory's; Mr. A. Scott having the local company at St. Peter's. The company at All Saints rang 1024 Kent Treble Bob. W. Howell, jun., 1; A. Ambrose, 2; W. J. Nevard, 3; A. Clarke, 4; R.

Theobald, 5; R. Brett, 6; R. Gowers, 7; H. Brackett and C. Sillitoe (conductor), 8. Bob Major was rung at St. Gregory's, and a plain course of Grandsire Triples was accomplished at St. Peter's after a few attempts. The All Saints' company afterwards rang 672 Bob Major at St. Gregory's. The tower ringing was brought to a conclusion by ringing for Service at St. Peter's, and the evening was spent in harmony and handbell ringing. A course of Grandsire Cinques was rung on handbells retained in hand by W. Howell, jun., 1-2; W. J. Nevard, 3-4; J. Bonney, 5-6; C. Sillitoe, 7-8; W. Howell, sen., 9-10; S. Slater, 11-12. Also courses of Stedman Triples and Caters, Treble Bob Royal, and Bob Major. Altogether a very pleasant day was spent by the local company and their brother-strings. It is worthy of note that Mr. Sillitoe conducted 5092 changes in touches during the day.

BENINGTON, HERTS.

MEETING OF CHANGE-RINGERS.—A District Meeting of the Hertford County Association was held at the invitation of Leonard Procter, Esq., at Benington, on Saturday, June 27th. Benington may be termed the Hertfordshire home of change-ringing, and possesses a band hard to be beaten in the intricate methods rung, although some of its members have passed the allotted span of man. It has stood at the top of the tree, but "time waits for no man." The peal of eight at St. Peter's are a beautiful ring, and coupled with the unique and salubrious position of the village a large muster was anticipated, but such was not the case. The following representatives were present: Messrs. J. R. Haworth, C. F. Winny, R. A. Fowler (London), W. H. L. Buckingham, J. C. Mitchell, C. Biggs, T. Conley, G. W. Cartmel, W. T. Waller (St. Albans), E. Bray, G. T. Spicer, J. Phillips, T. Webb (Baldock), J. Gray, G. Munns (Gravelly), and the local band, which included L. Procter, Esq., C. Shambrook, John Kitchener, J. Warner, L. Chapman, Joseph Kitchener, S. Page, and others. The bells were rung during the afternoon, and at five o'clock all sat down to a substantial tea at the Squire's residence. The business meeting followed, under the chairmanship of Leonard Procter, Esq. In the absence of the Secretary (Mr. E. P. Debenham), the Assistant-Secretary (Mr. G. W. Cartmel), read the minutes, which were adopted. Messrs. G. Munns and J. Wright (Gravelly), and H. Parkins (St. Albans), were elected ringing members, and the next district meeting was fixed to be held at Hatfield, in October. Votes of thanks concluded the business, the ringers resorting again to the tower. Squire Procter kindly lent his conveyance to convey the ringers to and from Knebworth station, and it was much appreciated.

THE LIVERPOOL DIOCESAN GUILD.

On Saturday, June 27th, the monthly meeting of the Guild was held at Sefton, and was attended by members from Aughton, Bootle, Crosby, Halsall, and Ormskirk, beside the local company. Ringing commenced about four p.m.; service was held at five p.m., and an appropriate address delivered by the Rector, after which the members adjourned to the schoolroom, where an excellent meat tea was provided, and justice done to the good things set forth. Captain Green presided at the business meeting, and delivered an excellent address, after which Mr. J. Martin gave an interesting account of witnessing a peal of bells cast at Messrs. Taylor's, Loughborough. Several items of interest were afterwards discussed, and the usual vote of thanks brought a very pleasant meeting to a close. One honorary and two performing members were elected.

Edinburgh is not very happy in the matter of cathedral bells. The old ones go without regret, and the new ones come as a doubtful blessing. Recently the Ecclesiastical Commissioners have made a claim on the Corporation for part of the proceeds from the sale of the old peal of St. Giles. But both Commissioners and Town Council might do the public a service by considering whether the new peal adds to the joy of any festive occasion. The other night, when the Queen did us the honour to stop for ten minutes at the Waverley Station, the air was agitated with melodies on the bells that hardly soothed the nerves into becoming reverence for the monarchical principle.—Scottish Leader.

THE NORTH LINCOLNSHIRE ASSOCIATION.

The July Quarterly Meeting of this Association was, as arranged, held at Caistor, on Saturday, July 4th. This picturesque village, situated on the Wold, about three miles from Moortown Station, with a very inconvenient train service, has heretofore been regarded as almost inaccessible; however at the last annual meeting held in April, in consideration of a hearty invitation from the Vicar of Caistor (Rev. W. F. W. Westbrooke) the Association resolved to venture to arrange the next meeting there. This venture proved a much greater success than could be expected, inasmuch as the attendance of ringers was more numerous than at any previous quarterly meeting. Ringers were present from Hull, Grimsby, Lincoln, Market Rasen, Scothern, Gainsborough, etc., to the number of about fifty or sixty. In the early part of the afternoon, as the visitors began to arrive, the bells were set in motion, and ringing in several Minor methods was the order until the hour set apart for the tea. The Rev. W. F. W. Westbrooke with generous hospitality kindly provided a most sumptuous repast in the Assembly Room, an act which was most gratefully appreciated by the ringers present. As members from several of the branches had to leave by early trains, the business meeting was commenced almost before full justice had been done to the good things provided. The Rev. Canon Andrews (Claxby Rectory) as Vice-president of the Market Rasen centre of the Association, presided, and called upon the Vicar of Caistor, who read letters he had received from the Bishop and Dean of Lincoln, and several other honorary members, regretting their inability to be present. The election of members was then proceeded with. The Rev. J. F. Quirk, Vicar of Grasby, and Joseph Bennett, Esq., Louth, were elected honorary members, as also were several other ringing members. Grimsby was appointed the place for the next quarterly meeting. The Rev. W. F. W. Westbrooke then suitably addressed those present, coupling with it a very hearty welcome to Caistor. He also spoke in high terms of the good work the Association was doing, and expressed the hope that at no distant date the Association would again hold its meeting there, as he hoped shortly to have the bells rehung.

Mr. T. Gibbons (Market Rasen) kindly conveyed the thanks of those present for the Vicar's kind hospitality on that day. At this juncture the meeting terminated rather abruptly, owing to several ringers having to leave.

EXETER CATHEDRAL BELLS.

The dedication of two new bells at St. Sidwell's church, Exeter, has revived the agitation in favour of rehanging the magnificent and almost unrivalled peal at the Cathedral. Not long since some repairs were executed to the framework of the machinery, which made it possible to ring a set change of ten with fairly good striking, but repairs are of very little use, as the gear soon gets as bad as ever, in consequence of the extreme age of the fittings. The cage has been in its present position for over 100 years, and some of the hangings are quite as ancient. It is absolutely necessary if the peal is to be rung properly that a new cage should be provided, together with all the latest appliances. If this were done the work of the ringers would be less laborious than it is now, and far grander music could be produced. The voice of Peter in the St Paul's tower, which has been tongue-tied for many years, would then be heard at its best, for notwithstanding the weight of the great bell it could if correctly hung, be rung without endangering the safety of that part of the edifice in which it is placed. There are many Churchmen throughout the country who would be glad to know that the Dean and Chapter had taken this matter in hand. Probably when the new organ is completed they will give the subject more consideration than they are able to do at this moment.—Western Morning News.

THE UNEMPLOYED IN EAST LONDON.—At a time when much thought is being given to this matter, a practical suggestion may be of service. Last year more than £300,000 worth of foreign matches were purchased by inconsiderate consumers in this country, to the great injury of our own working people, so true is it that "evil is wrought by want of thought, as well as want of heart." If all consumers would purchase Bryant and May's matches, that firm would be enabled to pay £1000 a week more in wages.

ST. PETER'S AMALGAMATED SOCIETY, SHEFFIELD.

On Saturday, June 27th, the members of the above Society had their annual excursion to Bakewell, Derbyshire. Leaving Sheffield at 8 a.m., and having had a pleasant drive amongst the beautiful Derbyshire hills and dales, they arrived at their destination about 11 a.m. They were met by Mr. Smith, and having refreshed the inner man, they ascended the tower, and having raised the bells in peal rang the following touches: 576 Kent Treble Bob Major. J. Lomas, 1; J. Mulligan, 2; W. Lomas (conductor), 3; W. Biggin, 4; E. Woodward, 5; D. Brearley, 6; J. A. Dixon, 7; A. Brearley, 8. A 420 of Stedman Triples. C. H. Hattersley, 1; J. Mulligan, 2; F. Willey, 3; W. Lomas, 4; T. Hattersley (conductor), 5; A. Brearley, 6; J. A. Dixon, 7; J. Lloyd, 8. A plain course and 336 of Double Norwich Court Bob Major. W. Biggin, 1; C. H. Hattersley (conductor), 2; W. Lomas, 3; J. Mulligan, 4; J. Lomas (aged 69 years), 5; T. Hattersley, 6; D. Brearley, 7; A. Brearley, 8. Also a short touch of Grandsire Triples, conducted by F. Willey, W. Smithson ringing the 4th. After the ringing they adjourned to the "Royal Oak," and there sat down to an excellent meat tea, to which full justice was done. After tea several members walked on to Haddon Hall, others staying to ring handbells, on which they rang Grandsire Triples, Caters, and Cinques. Shortly before 7 p.m. the homeward journey was commenced, and the night being pleasant the drive was very much enjoyed, all being very well pleased with their day's outing. The members of the Society wish to thank Mr. Smith, steeplekeeper, for having everything in readiness, the go of the bells being excellent. They are a splendid peal of bells, tenor about 19 cwt.

THE WINCHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD.

PORTSEA (Hants).—On Friday evening, June 26th, at the parish church, for practice, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples, in 41 mins. C. Groves, 1; J. Harper, 2; H. Stubbington, 3; Rev. H. A. Spyers, 4; A. E. Nye, 5; Rev. R. C. M. Harvey, 6; J. W. Whiting (conductor), 7; T. Gould, 8. After the practice advantage was taken of the presence of the Rev. H. A. Spyers to present him with a framed photograph of the members of St. Mary's Guild. The Rev. R. C. M. Harvey, in asking Mr. Spyers to accept it, said how much the Guild were indebted to him for the trouble he had taken in starting and instructing them in the way that he did.

The rev. gentleman, in thanking them for the present, said he should always follow the fortunes of the Portsea band with interest, having been their monthly nurse, as it were, and he was very pleased to see the marked progress they had made, and hoped they would continue to do so in the future.

THE CHURCH BELLS OF ST. IVE, CORNWALL.—After being silent for seven years these bells have been rehung, and the opening peal was rung on Thursday week. The day's proceedings consisted of a shortened service in the church at three o'clock, public tea at four, and full evensong at seven. The services were musical throughout. The Rev. A. V. Thornton, Rector of Roche, intoned both, and also delivered an excellent address on "Bells." In the evening the Rev. E. Steele, Vicar of St. Neot, preached an admirable sermon from the text "In that day shall there be upon the bells of the horses, Holiness unto the Lord." The grand old church was crowded. The musical portion of both services was rendered by a large voluntary choir, trained by Miss Hobhouse (who presided at the organ), assisted by Messrs. Cook, W. J. Barrett, and F. Waddleton (violins). Tallis's service was used at each service; the anthem "Blessed be Thou Lord God of Israel, our Father," by Kent; the Hallelujah Chorus was sung before the final blessing at evensong; Dr. Bennett's Cantata "Deus Misereatur" in E. For several years the beams and woodwork generally of this peal of bells have been in a very rotten condition, so that ringing has been impossible. They have now been restored on new girders, floor and bell-frame of English oak, and are hung on new fittings complete for scientific ringing. During the day ringers from Duloe, Menheniot, in addition to the home band, rang numerous peals.—Western Mercury.

STANSTEAD, SUFFOLK.

On Saturday, June 20th, being the day observed in this village as the anniversary of the Jubilee of Her Majesty the Queen, the church bells were rung at intervals during the day. The esteemed Rector, the Rev. F. Pearson, invited the whole of the parish bell-ringers to dine with him at the Rectory, which invitation all the company were pleased to accept. At one o'clock all the ringers assembled at the Rectory, in company with S. Slater, of Glemsford, the company's Warner, to partake of the good things provided, the Rector taking the chair. After dinner "the health of the Rector" was proposed and enthusiastically responded to by the entire company, and then the hand-bells were rung to various touches of Bob Major, when the church bells were again rung till six o'clock. Ringing over, the company again assembled at the Rectory to partake of tea, which was also thoroughly enjoyed, and the hand-bells were afterwards brought into use, and the company then dispersed to their homes. They wish through the columns of "THE BELL NEWS" most sincerely to thank the Rector, and also Mrs. Pocock, for their very great kindness to them on this and other occasions. The ringing during the day consisted of the following:—720 of Plain Bob, composed by William Norris (with twenty-two singles and two bobs), taken from "THE BELL NEWS." A. J. Clarke, 1; R. Theobald, 2; G. Smith, 3; R. Gowers (conductor), 4; A. Papworth, 5; R. Brett, 6. And 720 Kent Treble Bob. A. J. Clarke (conductor), 1; A. Papworth, 2; R. Gowers, 3; G. Smith, 4; R. Theobald, 5; R. Brett, 6. Another 720 Kent Treble Bob (with fifteen bobs, composed by John Marven). S. Slater (conductor), 1; G. Smith, 2; R. Theobald, 3; A. J. Clarke, 4; R. Brett, 5; R. Gowers, 6. And 720 Oxford Treble Bob. A. J. Clarke, 1; R. Gowers, 2; G. Smith, 3; R. Brett, 4; S. Slater, 5; R. Theobald (conductor), 6. Other touches were rung, in all amounting to 4456 changes. The company so well enjoyed the day they hoisted two Union Jacks on the steeple to denote their great happiness.

WORDSLEY, STAFFORDSHIRE.

On Saturday, May 30th, the peal of six bells at this church were reopened after being rehung. The bells which have been rehung by Messrs. Carr, of Smethwick, in an excellent manner, leaves nothing to be desired in the "go" of them, and are an excellent peal. A 720 of Grandsire Minor was rung by T. Darby, 1; J. Buffery, 2; H. Jones, 3; W. Friar (Wollaston), 4; E. S. Chapman, 5; H. Dakin (Wollaston, conductor), 6. The above was rung in the presence of the Messrs. Carr, who were very pleased to see that everything went on all right without an hitch.

Correspondence.

While allowing the utmost freedom for the expression of opinion, it must never be considered that we are in any way bound to statements made by correspondents.

ARE DOUBLES AND SINGLES "PEALS"?

SIR,—We often read of a performance which is termed in the phraseology of our paper—"Forty-two 6-scores of Grandsire Doubles, each called differently." I am one of those incredulous persons who seldom put faith in the latter part of the statement; I mean the "called differently" business. Some time ago I asked a conductor of one of these performances to send, through you, Sir, the different callings of these forty-two 6-scores, but he did not deign to notice my request. I have been looking in hopes of seeing another performance from the same quarter, not of Doubles, but of Singles. Surely the ingenuity of the same gentleman could achieve something more wonderful than Doubles in a small way. Changes on four bells are called "Singles" I believe. Why not then go in for two hundred and ten 2-dozens of Singles, "each called differently?" And after that eight hundred and forty ½-dozens on three bells (I don't know what to call this) "with extremes." Such performances as these may they be termed peals? If so we can allow 2520 Couples on two-bells, and then 5040 Singlets on one bell, "each called differently, with extremes." Before I conclude this note, I would thank the Rev. C. D. P. Davies for his kind reply to my question some time ago. J.

THE PRIZE-RINGING AT LIVERSEDGE.

SIR,—After reading the letters of your two correspondents animadverting on my report of the above event, my impression was that more miserable attempts at special pleading it had never been my experience to witness; thus I thought it quite superfluous, as well as a waste of the limited space in "THE BELL NEWS" to reply. But it has been hinted to me that my silence may be misconstrued by some into an acknowledgment of error on my part. Although I don't as a rule take much notice of the "if-you-don't-you-daren't" sort of challenges, yet in this case, perhaps, after all, a word or two by way of vindication may not be amiss. These champions of prize-ringing (as I fancied they would) have caught eagerly at my words regarding the general respectability of conduct during the progress of the contest in question. Now I have no objection to them making what capital they can out of my remarks on this ground. Considering the extreme poverty of their case, there can be no wonder if they act like drowning men, and catch at any straw which comes to the surface. At the same time, if they foolishly attempt to magnify this straw into the dimensions of a fully-rigged raft which shall land them safe ashore, they will find in these days of intelligent criticisms that such a course is a most futile one at the best. The statement by my informant that companies leave their own churches and go to the place of contest or other towers for practice on the Sundays, is described by one correspondent as a canard, and stigmatised by the other as nonsense. That language is forcible enough, certainly, but unfortunately for their disclaimers, enquiries which I have made by letter to Yorkshire ringers, whose evidence is at the very least as reliable as theirs, fully confirms my previous statement, and the veracity of my informant. One of them, indeed, remarks in his communication that if the correspondent in question who boasts of his thirty years' experience has never seen it, then "he must be afflicted with an optical disease more severe by far than colour-blindness." Another says that a truthful reply to the question as to how many times the Liversedge company rang their bells for the Sunday services during the month previous to the contest would of itself bear out my statement. So there I leave it. Then with regard to the mode of judging, and the actual awards, which I commented upon, these correspondents could not have better corroborated my strictures, for the style said to have been adopted at Liversedge is to my mind even more open to objection than the one which I supposed was in vogue. But then I must not overlook the fact that the three judges in question were the "best qualified men in England" for the work—at least so we are solemnly told—and therefore the opinions of outsiders, if not in accordance with these official decisions, must be considered as of no account whatever against the opinions of these three remarkable individuals. I begin to feel after this, that my visit to Liversedge was shorn of one of its greatest attractions, through the omission to exhibit such wonderful specimens of campanological humanity. But, "twas ever thus;" and I must bear my disappointment philosophically. Returning to the two letters in question (between which, by the way, there is such a marvellous similarity of inspiration and phraseology) both these Huddersfield correspondents appear to have wound themselves up for a powerful finish—a sort of flare-up-before-final-extinction business. The first one lays the blame of the "poor ringing" at this contest to the door of the Yorkshire Association, who he solemnly asserts, "for the last fifteen years have never done anything to make good ringers, but have done everything they could to retard them." What do you think of that? A fifteen years' record of "doing everything" in the way of putting an end to good ringing! And that by an Association numbering (I believe) over 700 members! Why, if such were the case, it is beyond comprehension that there is any ringing at all now in Yorkshire—not to mention good ringing. But does any sane man for one moment credit such an assertion? It is simply stuff and nonsense. The writer must have worked himself up to such a pitch that he began to imitate the individual who frantically threw his fists about, fighting the air. Perhaps you will say this language of mine is strong; but it is mild compared to what has been written to me by one member of that aforesaid Association, whose experience is, I believe, fully as long and considerably more varied than that of the gentleman who hails from Huddersfield, and who, likewise, is himself an ardent supporter of prize-rings. I certainly did expect seeing some retort from members of the Yorkshire Association; but probably they, knowing the writer personally, put down his rhapsodical outburst for what it was worth, and thus took no notice of it. So I will follow their example. The wind-up of letter number two is just about as sensible—not to say amusing. "When all are kept to one dead level, the result in ringing is clashing the bells about any way, if you can only get through your peal." So there; you who don't go in for prize-ringing; You whose Association has for fifteen years been engaged in "doing everything" to prevent good striking—clash, crash, tumble your bells about any way—both the changes—hang good ringing—only score your peal! The odour from a newly-opened drain is sweet compared to such rank philosophy as this. Bah!

The Bell News & Ringers' Record.

SATURDAY, JULY 11, 1891.

THE Church Bells of the town of Kidderminster have lately been the innocent cause of much correspondence in the local press. One person who is aggrieved at the sound of bells makes, by way of a clincher to his remarks, the following assertion: "Measures are being taken in London to stop bell-ringing!" An opponent to this correspondent truly says that "taking measures and stopping are different things."

It will no doubt appear remarkable to our readers that no intelligence with regard to such measures has yet reached us. Nor in fact is it likely we shall hear anything about them, simply because no measures of the kind are in progress, or likely to be. The statement, in fact, is a figment of the writer's own brain, the product of an unhealthy imagination, which it was thought perhaps could be made with some degree of safety in the town of Kidderminster.

It is satisfactory to find, in the famous carpet-weaving town, some one resolute enough to join issue with this opponent of bell-ringing. For some time past the ringers of Kidderminster have shown themselves most indefatigable in the practice of the Art, and have achieved performances of sterling merit—performances in fact, the like of which had never yet been rung by any other local band in the county.

The revival of change-ringing has done this much for Kidderminster—and the bells of the old parish are now rung in a most scientific manner by men of intelligence and approved social position. The Kidderminster society may be regarded as the premier society of the association whose jurisdiction comprises the county of Worcester and neighbourhood, and their obliteration would be a serious loss to the Exercise. Any attempt, therefore to stop their operations, no matter how contemptible such attempt may be, or how insignificant those who make it, will be met, it is hoped, by the most uncompromising and determined opposition. Local scribblers can try to create a panic, or excite the puerile indignation of people of their own stamp if they please, but they ought to adhere to the truth a little while doing so. The assertion that measures are being taken to stop bell-ringing in London is as untrue as it is foolish.

GEORGE F. ATTREE.

Church News.

A valuable Communion service, removed covertly from the parish church of Hovingham, near Malton, some days ago, has been found in a field near Slingsby.

At Manchester Cathedral on Tuesday week, the Rev. J. R. O. West, rector of St. Stephen's, Chorlton-on-Medlock, was installed honorary canon, in succession to Canon Lloyd, now a canon residentiary.

There was a very large congregation on Tuesday evening at the special service in St. Paul's Cathedral, in commemoration of the jubilee of the Tonic Sol-fa movement. The canticles, hymns, &c., were joined in with great heartiness.

The thirteenth annual Ecclesiastical Art Exhibition will be held in a specially erected building nearly adjoining the Congress Hall at Rhyl, and will as usual comprise everything used in the structure and adornment of churches, and educational appliances will also be included.

The sum of £5,000 has just been received by the Church of England Pastoral Aid Society from Mr. H. B. Noble, through the Dean of Norwich, the interest accruing to be spent in conformity with the principles of the society in grants for curates in the Isle of Man.

The Bishop of Rochester continues to make progress towards recovery. He has been able, during the last week, to go out for a short time every day, but from the nature of the case his convalescence is extremely slow. He is still forbidden to transact any but the most necessary business, and some months must elapse before he is allowed to resume active work.

Ormskirk Church has just been restored at a cost of £17,000. It is one of the most interesting churches in the country, dating from 1080. It has a Derby Chapel, which for 300 years has been the burial place of the Earls of Derby. The church has a massive tower and spire, standing side by side, and in that respect is unique in England. The work of restoration has extended over twelve years.

At a meeting of the Chapter of York, held in the Zouche Chapel on Friday last, the Dean of York on behalf of the Chapter, presented to the Bishop of Hull an episcopal ring, consisting of an amethyst in a massive gold setting, bearing a mitre and the arms of the Bishop. The Dean expressed the wishes of the Chapter for the happiness and prosperity of the Bishop of Hull and that in his episcopal office he might find fresh fields of usefulness. The Bishop thanked the Chapter, reviewing his connection with it for twenty years.

The elevation to the Episcopate of the vicar of Lewisham, vacates the proctorship in Convocation held by Canon Legge. A requisition has been presented to the Rev. R. R. Bristow, M.A., vicar of St. Stephen's, Lewisham, in response to which he has agreed to be nominated. Mr. Bristow has represented the division of Greenwich on the London School Board for the past six years, is vice-chairman of the Board of Guardians of the Lewisham Union, and a member of the Council of Almoners of Christ's Hospital. Mr. Bristow is a forcible speaker, and his election would be received with satisfaction by a large number of Churchmen outside as well as within the Rochester diocese.

A faculty has been granted by the Chancellor of Lincoln for the restoration of Claypole church, considered by architects one of the finest churches in Lincolnshire. The work is intrusted to Mr. Hodgson Fowler, of Durham. His plans involve an expenditure of £3,000 on the whole church. The chancel, which is to be done first at a cost of £800, is already begun. The rector (the Rev. G. Averill), who has scarcely been more than a year in residence, has raised principally among private friends the sum of £600, and on Thursday last a bazaar was held in the garden and grounds of the rectory in aid of the fund for the chancel, and £60 was taken.

The Bishop of St. Asaph presided on Monday last in the Chapter-house at Chester over a committee of the Church Congress, when the programme was finally arranged and ordered to be issued. The Deans of Chester and St. Asaph, the Arch-deacon of St. Asaph, and a number of clergy and laity were present. The programme is one of varied interest, and, as at Wolverhampton, the distraction of sectional meetings will be avoided, the attention of all members of the Congress being concentrated on one subject. On the other hand, extra Congressional meetings will not, as has been the case in many places, be discouraged.

The Rev. E. H. Nelson, rector of Necton, Norfolk, says that in view of the next general election and of an attack on the National Church, he is distributing in his remote and small parish copies of Mr. G. H. F. Nye's "A Popular Story of the Church of England" (Griffith and Farran). Besides distributing copies of Mr. Nye's book, he has placed copies for loan in the nearest county town, to members of a Conservative club, with a request that, before being returned, they may be lent by them to religio-political opponents. "The only opponent to whom I have submitted a copy (a gentleman of high culture) has, after careful perusal, acknowledged the favour in terms of almost unqualified approval, as a book 'written in a Christian spirit,' and which 'puts the story of the Reformation excellently,' his only apparently material objection being as I consider, tantamount to an admission inferentially of the Church's claim on the people's support."

The Rev. George Madan, M.A., Honorary Canon of Gloucester, died on Monday week, at the age of eighty-three. Canon Madan was educated at Christ Church, Oxford, where he took his degree in 1829, obtaining a first-class in the Mathematical Honor List. He was ordained in 1831. From 1838 till 1852 he held the vicarage of Cam, near Dursley, and that of St. Mary Redcliffe, Bristol, from 1852 down to 1865, when he was appointed rector of Dursley. This preferment he resigned about four years ago. He was an Honorary Canon of Bristol for over thirty years, and was in 1887 transferred to a similar post in Gloucester Cathedral. The Gloucestershire Chronicle says that Canon Madan was a regular attendant at the services at Gloucester Cathedral until within about a fortnight of his death. During his incumbency of Cam he was chiefly instrumental in building the church of St. Bartholomew in that parish. Whilst vicar of St. Mary Redcliffe, Bristol, he "initiated the work of restoration in connection with that beautiful church, and he was also instrumental in bringing about a change in the public services, making them more in accordance with the principles of Prayer-book. By his exertions also the national schools in the parish were erected; he had a strong taste for practical mechanics, and turned his knowledge of building and architecture to good account in the erection of a church in one of his parishes, schools in another, and a parsonage house in a third. Immediately after going to Dursley, Canon Madan set about the restoration of the fine old parish church of St. James, which had fallen into a state of decay. During the succeeding two or three years the church was thoroughly restored at a cost of £5,624, one-fifth of which was provided by the rector."

SEA TRIPS.—To those of our readers who are undecided as to where they will spend their holiday, those popular watering-places, Harwich and Clacton-on-Sea, can now be reached by means of a pleasant trip in the magnificent vessel "Lord of the Isles" belonging to the Victoria Steamboat Association. This splendid steamer is fitted with saloon decorated in the most costly and tasteful manner, and lighted with electricity throughout. The "Lord of the Isles" runs daily (Fridays excepted) to Harwich and Clacton-on-Sea, and back same day, from London Bridge (Old Swan Pier) at 9.30 a.m. calling en route at Woolwich; from Fenchurch-street by special train in connection at 10.28 a.m. to Tilbury, calling at Stepney, Bromley, and Plaistow. A tender runs from Greenwich at 9.40, and Blackwall 9.50. The speed of this grand vessel is twenty miles an hour. The boat fare there and back is but six shillings and five shillings. In addition to the delightful "blow" on the water, passengers are guaranteed two hours at Clacton. A very special feature in connection with this service is that all return tickets are available during the season, and, a by no means unimportant consideration, is that there is a special train at Tilbury for return passengers.

HOME CURE FOR DEAFNESS.—A book by a noted Aural Surgeon, describing a System of Curing Deafness and Noises in the Head, by which a self-cure is effected at home. The Rev. D. H. W. Harlock, of the Parsonage, Milton-under-Wychwood, writes: "Try the System by all means: it is first rate, and has been of the utmost service to me." Post free 4d. This peal has the 6th eighteen times right and eighteen times wrong.

In this peal the tenors are never parted by the treble coming between them, as there is a bob at 1 in every course, which cuts out the lead when they would be parted, and thus shortens the course to 96 changes.

THE BELLS OF WEST HAM, LONDON.

We are pleased to hear that the ring of ten, tenor 28 cwt., at the Church of All Saints, West Ham, London, E., are put into the hands of H. Bowell & Son, church bell hangers, etc., of Ipswich, Suffolk, to thoroughly re-hang with all new fittings, viz.: stocks, wheels, improved bearings, ropes, etc., whom it is hoped will, like all other work entrusted to their care, make a good job of them. They began work upon them this week. The bells will be completed in about two months' time, all going well.

NOTE TO THE HOUNSLOW PEAL.—Messrs. Beadle, Quinton and Stanbrook were made members of the St. James' Society before starting for the peal. Stanbrook belongs to Windsor, Basden to Hanwell, Flaxman to Slough, Parker to Farnham Royal, Quinton to Salt Hill, Goddard and Beadle to Isleworth, and Tabor to Ealing. It is Mr. Beadle's first peal. Two of the ringers upon going to thank the vicar, the Rev. A. E. Bull, for the use of the bells, were sorry to hear that that gentleman had been appealed to to stop the bells, as the ringing annoyed people who lived near the church. However the ringers had taken the usual precaution of locking themselves in. Not much ringing is done upon this little peal owing to the above grievance, which is a great pity, for the splendid go of the bells reflects much credit upon the steeple-keeper, and the worthy vicar seems to have done everything in his power to stop the sound from clashing down, by having one of the windows match-boarded up, and all that seems to be needed is a little forbearance on the part of those good people who feel annoyed by the ringing.

WANTED.—Offer for a peal of nineteen Handbells in the key of C, by Shaw, Sons, & Co., in good condition. Also Music Stand for eight ringers. Apply—William Ball, Bradninch, Devon.

THE Clergy Pensions Institution is founded to promote the efficiency of the Church by facilitating the retirement of the Clergy when they are incapacitated by age or infirmity from fulfilling their duties. The necessary funds are raised by the combined action of the Clergy and Laity. Every Clergyman (not already aged or infirm) who wishes to participate in its benefits must, as a measure of self-help, himself purchase a Deferred Annuity of specified amount; while the contributions of the Laity form an Augmentation Fund to increase those Annuities to amounts adequate as pensions.

RE-OPENING OF THE BELLS AT ST. MICHAEL'S, MACCLESFIELD, CHESHIRE.

There is no reliable information as to when the bells were first put up in the above tower, but there is some knowledge of four bells being in before the year 1701; nor is there any reliable information as to whether these four were augmented to six, or a new peal of six put in, in the above-mentioned year; but the peal of six remained in the tower till the year 1777, when they were taken out and a peal of eight put in by Rudhall, of Gloucester, and in the same year the same founder put a peal of ten in Christ Church in this town, with a tenor of about 25 cwt. in E flat, and a peal of six at Gawsorth, a village about three miles from Macclesfield, with a tenor of about 12 cwt. in G. The peal of eight at St. Michael's remained as they were till the tenor got cracked while ringing for the Coronation of George IV., in the year 1820, and was recast in 1822 by John Rudhall, and a little more metal added to it. In the year 1835 two trebles were put in by Thomas Mears, and the authorities at that time, instead of letting the bellfounders come and be responsible for their own work, allowed the organist to send up the notes, and he, by mistake, sent the wrong pitch, and consequently the bells were cast too large, and too low in tone; and to make matters worse, they have since been chipped round the lips to sharpen them, which of course cuts away the beauty of the tone as well. The back eight are hung all on one level, and the two trebles were hung in a jerry wooden frame, supported by six uprights bolted to the bottom frame, and looked ugly, and, as the workmen said, appeared to be made out of the wood which was once the old frame, prior to the one which is now in. It had got very rickety, and caused injury to the bottom frame when the trebles were rung. All the other fittings were very much decayed, and often needing something being done to them; and finally last year steps were taken to remedy these things. Messrs. Taylor, of Loughborough, were called in, and an estimate was sent from that firm to recast the two trebles, and to quarter-turn and re-hang all the others with everything new excepting the frame. When the workmen came to take the bells out, and to have a proper look at the frame of the two trebles, they reported its condition to the committee, and a new frame for them was ordered, and now the two new bells are built on strong beams, put in the wall, and they do not put an ounce of weight on the frame below. The clock has also received great attention, and instead of the old ding-dong, the Cambridge quarters have been fixed, which are struck on the 4th, 5th, 6th, and 9th. Great praise is due to Messrs. Smith and Co., of Derby, for the way in which they have done their work. The last ringing prior to the repairs was on New Year's Eve, and the first half-hour of this year. The date fixed for the re-opening was July the 4th, just fifty-five years and six months by the date of the month since the trebles were first opened on January 4th, 1836, when there were four bands invited—St. John's, Manchester, who rang about 800 changes of Stedman Caters, Ohldam, who rang 5472 of Treble Bob Caters, which has since been reputed to be false, Mottram-in-Longdendale, who rang 5000 Treble Bob Royal, Ashton-under-Lyne, who rang 5021 Grandsire Caters, and Macclesfield, who rang 1565 of the same. The present ringers of St. Michael's are all novices in the art of change-ringing with the exception of two, and only one of them of the old band, which at one time was the best set of Stedman ringers in a radius of forty miles, but through illness and death, and members leaving the town, the band finally got broke up.

The Committee invited a band from Ashton to re-open the bells on the 4th of July, and after six months' silence the bells were set swinging by them, and a touch of 701 Grandsire Caters was brought round in good style. Crowds of the inhabitants gathered round the church, and seemed pleased to hear their bells again. The following touches were also rung during the day: 880 Kent Treble Bob Royal, 539 and 431 Stedman Caters, 289 Grandsire Caters, and 1040 Kent Treble Bob Royal. Mr. J. Gratrix, of Manchester, S. Bennett and another from Gorton rang in the 289, and W. Walmsley, conductor of the present St. Michael's band, rang in the last three touches. The following were the Ashton ringers, the first seven of whom took part in the long peal at Mottram: J. Adams, J. and S. Wood, B. Broadbent, J. Mellor, G. Longden, J. Thorp, J. Hopwood, J. Leigh, T. Taylor, and S. Andrew, who were highly-pleased with the splice and the go of the bells, and think the job is a credit to the founders. They wish to thank the Committee for their kind invitation and reception.

The money has been subscribed, and the work has been carried on under the direction of a large and influential committee, and great praise is due to them for the way in which the work has been carried out under their instructions. Two gentlemen came forward at once and gave thirty guineas each towards the two trebles, whose names are on the new bells, as will be seen below. Towards night the bells were lowered in peal, and all adjourned to the "Bull's Head" hotel, where dinner had been partaken of by twenty-six, which number was increased to thirty-nine at tea time, both spreads being of the best quality, and what ringers like—plenty of it, and free.

The largest jug of the St. Michael's company, which is only brought out on special occasions, was filled with "barley corn," to the admiration and pleasure of all present, and "Success to the new bells, their donors, the ringers present, the donor of the seventeen quarts which the jug holds," was heartily drunk. The other two jugs and pots belonging to the same company were brought out and inspected and greatly admired. Mr. Edward Matthews, late conductor of the Macclesfield ringers, put in an appearance towards evening for a short time, and in his usual way spoke of meeting with friends, and also of what had been done that day, and said how pleased he was, yea rather surprised, agreeably so, with the splice which had been effected with the trebles. Mr. Matthews could not stay in the room long, as he is very ill, and has been so some eighteen months, much to the regret of the local ringers. A course each of Stedman Triples and Grandsire Caters was rung by the Ashton men, and a course of Grandsire Caters and Royal, with J. Gratrix, of Manchester, and W. Walmsley, and J. Farrish, of Macclesfield, and a course of Bob Minor, by Walmsley, 1-2; G. Longden, 3-4-5-6. There were also ringers present during the day from Gawsorth, Prestbury and Bollington. Most of the visitors went home by 9.30, but G. Longden and T. Taylor, of Ashton, stayed all night, and took part in three courses of Grandsire Triples, for Divine Service in the morning.

The company ring at 10.0 a.m., and 6.0 p.m. on Sundays, and practice at 8.0 on Tuesdays, and would be pleased to welcome any brother-string if he will communicate with W. Walmsley (conductor of the St. Michael's company), 9, Lees Street, Sutton, Macclesfield.

The following are the inscriptions on the bells: the old trebles. "Thomas Mears, Founder, W. C. Cruttendon Minister, Messrs. Royle and Ainsworth, Chapel Wardens, 1835."

The present peal: Treble—"the gift of William Whiston, Esq., Langley. J. Taylor and Co., Loughborough, April, 1891;" 2nd—"The gift of David Clarke, Esq., Park House. J. Taylor and Co., Founders, Loughborough, April, 1891;" 3rd—"When us you ring, we'll sweetly sing, 1777;" 4th—"Prosperity to this town, 1777;" 5th—"Fear God, honour the King, 1777;" 6th—"Thomas Rudhall, Gloucester, Founder, 1777;" 7th—"T.R., 1777;" 8th—"We were cast by subscription in the year 1777;" 9th—"T.R., 1777;" Tenor—"Recast by John Rudhall, 1822. Thomas Swanwick, Churchwarden."

WELLINGBOROUGH, NORTHANTS.

RINGERS' WEDDING.—On Saturday afternoon, July 4th, Mr. Henry Clayson, of Kettering, formerly one of the Wellingborough ringers, and also a member of All Saints' choir, was married at All Saints' Church. The ringers celebrated the event by merry peals on the parish church bells. On Monday evening they sat down to supper at the "Fox and Hounds."

Mr. E. J. Deunes, in proposing "The health of the bride and bridegroom," said how much they had valued Mr. Clayson's services whilst he was with them, and how greatly they regretted his leaving the town. It made a gap in their ranks which it would have been difficult to fill had they not met with such an efficient substitute in the person of Mr. E. West, who entered the belfry at that time. He thought it a matter worthy of mention that Mr. Clayson was not only a campanologist himself, but had married a sister of Mr. Randall, one of their company, who was a member of a regular old ringing family.

Several songs, and a selection of handbell music on a sweet little peal of bells lately purchased by the probationers, passed the evening away most pleasantly.

EXCURSION OF THE ST. STEPHEN'S WESTMINSTER SOCIETY.

On Saturday, July 4th, the above Society held their annual outing, the place selected being Bletchingley, in Surrey. Starting from Victoria at 7.55 a.m., the company, numbering thirteen, including the Rev. S. Swires, Curate of St. Stephen's (who is anxiously striving to master the art of ringing) arrived at Marden Park Station at 9.15, from which place it was decided to walk to Bletchingley, via Woldingham and Godstone. The walk to Woldingham is very much up-hill, and splendid views of the county of Surrey can be obtained on the way to the very small parish church, the size of which can be imagined, the inside measurement being only 23 feet by 17 feet, and out of that is the part set off for the chancel, which is about 8 feet by 6 feet, also a piece about 4 feet square curtained off to serve as a vestry. The walk to the church was very much delayed by some of the members feasting themselves on wild strawberries, which grow in abundance about there. From here the footpath took the party through a very dense wood which looked very beautiful, the sun shining here and there through the trees. Emerging from the wood they found themselves in the splendid park belonging to Marden House, owned by Mr. Greenwell. There was still two miles to go before reaching Godstone, or any place where refreshments could be obtained, which seemed to rather disappoint some of the members; however, reaching Godstone about 11 a.m., "Ye Olde Surrey Hounds" was fairly stormed, and jugs of the foaming beverage, with biscuits and cheese, etc., were very quickly disposed of; then a move was made to the church, where permission had already been obtained to ring on the peal of six, tenor 13 cwt. On seeing the sexton the party were informed that they were just in time, as there was a wedding to take place shortly, so the bells were raised and two 120s of Grandsire Doubles were rung, when they were informed that the bridal party had arrived, and on going down into the church they witnessed the ceremony, which appeared to be the very ideal of a country wedding. After the service was concluded they gave two or three more 120s, also some firing, after which the bells were lowered and a start made for Bletchingley, where they were due at 1 p.m. Leaving Godstone highly pleased with their visit, especially as they were fortunate enough to be on the spot to ring for such an auspicious event, and hoping that the ringing of the bells added in a small degree to the happiness of the bridal pair on their wedding day, and that they may live long to enjoy each others love and society, they arrived at the "Red Lion," Bletchingley where they were kindly received by host Bashford and his son, who are both well-known ringers in that part of the county. Here also they were surprised to find that their photographic member had arrived, he having caught a later train and got a lift in a butcher's cart. Dinner was served up in first-rate style punctually at 1.30, which was done good justice to by all (as dinners generally are by ringers), Mr. Bashford, jun., sitting down with them. Dinner over, and while the tables were being cleared, a walk round the garden was taken, and perhaps it was well for Mr. Bashford that his fruit was not ripe. The party then assembled in a group for the purpose of being photographed, which was successfully accomplished. Then away to the church, where there is a fine peal of eight, tenor 19 cwt., which are believed to be very old. They were now joined by Mr. Moses, of Reigate, and Messrs. Boniface and Killick of Bletchingley. Touches of Stedman, Grandsire, and Bob Major were very successfully brought round, under the able conduct of Mr. H. R. Newton, an account of which appears in their proper place. At this point the Rev. S. Swires, and Mr. Lamb, the steeple-keeper, had to leave owing to a service at St. Stephen's, which required their services. The ringing was kept up till 6 p.m., when a move was again made to the "Red Lion," where a capital tea awaited them, the enjoyment of which was much enhanced by the attendance of Miss Bashford and a lady friend. As soon as tea was over a short walk round the Castle was taken for the purpose of enjoying the scenery, which is very beautiful, the Brighton Downs being easily discernable from the hill. Returning to the "Red Lion," several touches were rung on the handbells with Mr. Moses, much to the delight of the company who were not ringers; then followed a most enjoyable evening, the songs being most ably accompanied on the piano by Miss Bashford, Messrs. Bashford, sen. and jun., on the violin-cello and violin, and Mr. A. Ellis on the piccolo. Miss Bashford sang a song and also a duet with her brother. Other songs were rendered by Messrs. Duff, Pryer, Reed, Burkin, and other gentlemen. During the evening they had the pleasure of the company of several of the Bletchingley ringers, also Mr. Hawkins, from Nutfield. At 9 p.m., five of the members left, not wishing to be late home and having a long walk to Redhill station; the other six wishing for a little more music did not leave till 10.20 p.m., when they found a wagonette in readiness to convey them to Redhill. "Good night" was said with many good wishes, and they were driven away with music till the last—Mr. Bashford, jun., standing on the doorstep with a cornet and playing them away to the tunes of "Auld Lang Syne" and "Rule Britannia." Arriving at Redhill they had to wait some time for the train which did not arrive till 12.20, they therefore did not reach London till the small hours in the morning, having spent a most enjoyable day. They wish through the medium of "THE BELL NEWS" to thank the Vicars of Bletchingley and Godstone for the use of the bells, and also the respective steeple-keepers for having the bells in such good order.

ROTHERHAM, YORKSHIRE.

This branch of the Yorkshire Association had a day in the country on Tuesday, July 7th. Starting at 7 a.m. in a smart turn out of Mr. Moorhouse's, they made their first stop at Maltby; thence, after a course of Grandsire on the handbells, and now sustained by the presence of "little Joe" the bugler, past pretty Roche Abbey to Blythe. Here the old Norman church was duly admired, and a touch of Kent Treble Bob Minor was rung on the peal of six. This, with a course of Grandsire Royal on the handbells, and a little attention to the inner man, sent them "blythely" on to Retford, which was reached about 10.30. Five courses on the melodious peal of ten at East Retford made the appetite keener for the excellently provided dinner of mine host of the "Vine." A course on the handbells and touches of Stedman and Grandsire in the tower; and later on a touch of Treble Bob Minor on the peal of six at West Retford church, filled up the afternoon till tea at 5.30, after which the notes of their trusty bugler warned them that it was time to retreat. So back to Blythe, where songs and handbells made a pleasant break in the journey; and "Home again" which was reached about 10.30, amid the strains of "Auld Lang Syne," all having spent a delightful day. The society wish to take this opportunity of thanking Canon Gray, Canon Elsworth, and the rector of West Retford for their kindness; and the members of the towers for their hearty welcome.

CHURCH STRUCK BY LIGHTNING.

The parish church of Mersham, near Ashford, Kent, had a narrow escape from destruction last Wednesday week during a violent thunderstorm. The lightning struck the tower just below the wall-plate, knocking two large holes in it, loosening the masonry considerably, and scattering the shingle in all directions. It then apparently must have skirted the bells, and gone down a piece of copper wire with a few links of iron chain attached to it—which the ringers (who ring from the floor—use to stop the clock striking when they ring—and buried itself in the earth, inside the tower. The electric fluid in striking the tower seems to have divided, for it also ran the whole length of the valley gutter of the nave, down a water-pipe (which it smashed), and entered the chancel close to the organ, scattering fragments of mortar over the pavement, and to the opposite side of the vestry (the door of which was open), a distance of some 30ft. It probably expended its force here, as the place of its exit cannot be discovered. The organ and magnificent monuments to the Knatchbull family in the chancel were untouched. The eight bells, the clock, and the unique west window were also uninjured. The safety of these is attributed to the piece of wire above referred to. The tower was smoking when the news reached the rector (the Rev. E. C. Lucey), but the rain happily extinguished any fire, if fire existed, one beam only being slightly scorched. The tower was restored only two years ago. The church is fully insured.

MARRIAGE OF A RINGER AT PORTSEA, HANTS.

On Monday, July 6th, at St. Mary's church, Kingston, the marriage of Mr. Charles Edward Simmonds (a member of the St. Mary's Guild and the Winchester Diocesan Guild) with Miss Kate Rideout, was solemnized. The ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. R. C. M. Harvey, took place at 12 o'clock, and directly it was over the organist (Mr. Pillow) commenced to play the "Wedding March," and as the happy couple left the church, the bells rung out a merry peal, bringing round a well-struck 503 of Grandsire Triples, the composition of Mr. J. Hewitt, of Gosport. C. Groves, 1; J. Harper, 2; C. Symonds, 3; H. Stubbington, 4; A. E. Nye, 5; H. White (Basingstoke), 6; J. W. Whiting (conductor), 7; R. Harman, 8. The evening again saw the ringers assembled in the tower, and a 672 of Grandsire Triples were rung by C. Groves, 1; J. Harper, 2; W. Cornish, 3; C. Symons, 4; H. Stubbington, 5; Rev. R. C. N. Harvey, 6; A. E. Nye (conductor), 7; R. Harman, 8. The bells were then lowered, and the members set off with the handbells to the residence of the newly-married couple, where they received a hearty welcome, and were well entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Simmonds and friends, and some 160s of Grandsire Triples were brought round by W. Cornish, 1; J. Harper, 2; C. Symons, 3; H. Stubbington, 4; A. E. Nye (conductor), 5; Rev. R. C. M. Harvey, 6; C. Simmonds, 7; E. Hardy, 8. Songs, etc., were given by Messrs. Symonds, Hardy, Nye, Matthews, Symons, Stubbington, and Rev. R. C. M. Harvey, and a very enjoyable evening was spent by all, and at 12 o'clock all joined hands and sang "For he's a jolly good fellow," and "Auld Lang Syne," and the ringers then left with hearty good wishes for the future happiness and prosperity of Mr. and Mrs. Simmonds, and many thanks for their hospitality that night.

On the previous Friday evening Mr. Simmonds was presented with a mantel timepiece by his brother-ringers. The Rev. R. C. M. Harvey, who made the presentation, said he trusted he would accept it as a small token of the esteem in which he was held by all the members of the Guild, and that they might have the pleasure of his company in that tower as much as before.

Mr. Simmonds, in thanking the members, said it gave him much pleasure to receive such a present at their hands, and he was sure that his wife would be very pleased with it.

PEMBRIDGE CHURCH, HEREFORDSHIRE.

A large turret quarter clock has just been fixed by Messrs. Thwaites and Reed, Church Clock Makers, Clerkenwell, London, in the detached bell tower of the above church. The time is shown on a square dial having a black ground with white figures, and the hands are gilt. The clock is of the highest quality and workmanship, and the pendulum is compensated for variations in temperature.

THE ELY DIOCESAN CONFERENCE.

At the Ely Diocesan Conference, recently held in the south transept of Ely Cathedral, the Lord Bishop of the Diocese, who presided, in the course of his opening speech, said:—

"The first page of the Diocesan Calendar for this year gave a list of eight churches, chapels, and Mission buildings licensed for public worship in the year 1889-90. Besides this the work of church restoration and church beautifying—if he might use the term so commonly employed a hundred years since, when incumbents and churchwardens joined to erect the western galleries which we pulled down, and put on the walls the whitewash which we so carefully remove—the restoration and beautifying of parish churches steadily advanced, restoration of fabrics, walls, roofs, towers, additions of choir fittings, reredoses, stained-glass windows, here a new organ, there a new peal of bells, in another cassocks for the choir—and all this with no neglect of the spiritual work to which all such external matters should minister. Year by year there was advance in all the outward work of the Church, in all the outward signs of the inward growth, and they might rejoice in the belief that this inward growth did in truth accompany its outward signs."

LEICESTER.—On Friday, July 3rd, at St. Margaret's church, a 720 of Canterbury Pleasure Minor was rung at the first attempt on the front six of the ring of ten. J. W. Challenor, 1; S. Cotton (conductor), 2; J. O. Lancashire, 3; J. G. Walton, 4; W. Miller, 5; C. Walker, 6. First 720 in the method by all except the conductor.

EAST HENDRED, BERKS.

While spending a holiday in the above neighbourhood, I visited this charming and picturesque country village, and knowing that its beautiful parish church possessed a fine peal of six bells, which were two or three years since thoroughly overhauled and rehung, I resolved to complete my enjoyment if possible, with a pull away from home, so with the aid of that ever-welcome person, the postman, I found several of the local ringers, who very kindly arranged to meet for a pull that evening. On learning the method rung I was flattered at the thought, having previously at two adjoining villages, namely, Steventon and West Hendred, only been favoured with Churchyard Bob. Well, at the time arranged the band met, and after raising the bells in peal, "go" was called, and 120 of Bob Doubles was accomplished, but not in the correct way, having been rung at the whole pull, the ringers saying they could not manage the half-pull. Well, I said my belief was that they could, and so willing to try, at the second attempt the 120 was rung in the right way, the band being delighted, and myself gratified, especially as the churchwarden was present, also the schoolmaster, who congratulated them. After spending a little time in chat and song, in which the genial warden joined, I said good night, promising to visit them again. The following night found me again with them, this time at choir practice in the church, and the band to a man are choristers as well as ringers—much to their credit. This being over the bells were again swinging, and also on the following Sunday morning, when they rang their first true 120 for Divine service. Albert Stone, John Stone, William Toombs, Robert Bourton, James Goddard, and William Palmer; James W. Wilkins, conductor. The first by all except the conductor. Having now persuaded the band to join the Oxford Guild and to keep up their efficiency, the writer of this took his leave, and having recommended "THE BELL NEWS" to their notice, wish, through the same source, to thank the ringers for their kindness.

J. W. W.

BATLEY CARR, YORKS.

On Sunday, July 12th, the local society paid a visit to the district of New Hills, Fulston, and rang for morning, afternoon, and evening service at the parish church various methods, including London Scholars, Violet, Duke of York, Arnold's Victory, and Oxford Treble Bob. J. H. Scott, 1; W. H. Stead, 2; G. H. Simon, 3; J. Blackburn (conductor), 4; W. Idle, 5; S. Mitchell, 6. A substantial dinner was provided at the "Duke of Leeds." Throughout the company enjoyed the outing, returning home about 7 p.m. They wish to thank the vicar for the use of the bells, and the ringers for their kind hospitality.

RINGERS' OUTING.

On Monday, July 6th, the St. Peter's society, Croydon, had their annual outing to Eastbourne. Making an early start, the party arrived at their destination about 8.30 a.m. After breakfast, a move was made for Christ Church, where 504 Grandsire Triples was rung. F. Larby, 1; H. Brooker (conductor), 2; W. O. Gammon, 3; W. C. Palmer, 4; G. Burt, 5; W. Sadler, 6; F. G. Hermon, 7; C. H. Kitching, 8. And another touch in the same method. After some refreshment a move was made to St. Mary's church which is some distance, and here a 504 of Grandsire was rung. F. Larby, 1; H. Brooker (conductor), 2; W. O. Gammon, 3; W. C. Palmer, 4; W. Sadler, 5; C. H. Kitching, 6; G. Burt, 7; F. G. Hermon, 8. Also a 360. Owing to the absence of a member of the band, it was found impossible to try any other method. The society were delighted with the bells at both churches, and desire through this paper to thank the respective vicars, and also Messrs. Harding and Rollison for having everything in readiness.

Sir Henry Peek has presented the Rev. Wilson Carlile to the City living of St. Mary-at-Hill, Eastcheap. Mr. Carlile is well known as the founder of the Church Army, of which he now acts as honorary secretary.

Mr. T. B. Dowdeswell, a blind gentleman, has just obtained a Third Class in Theology at Oxford.

NOTES BY THE WAY.

They soon begin to shorten.

When I wrote last, it was in pleasurable anticipation of a brief holiday either "by the sad sea waves," or else in some rural retreat where I could enjoy the delicious breezes coming over fields of new-mown hay, and stroll about at my leisure "mid hill and dell," recuperating, as it were, after a long spell of continuous hard work in the office. But unfortunately, those fond anticipations have not yet been realised; I have neither as yet had a dip in the briny ocean, nor strolled among the hedgerows in happy idleness enjoying the health-giving perfume from the fields around. Business is business, you know, and its claims too often are so imperative as to prevent the fulfilment of our desires in other directions. So in obedience with the Editor's request, I am back at my post again, ready for a chat with my brother-strings on whatever concerns our welfare.

* * * * *

But although up to now confined by business cares to the busy town, I have read with none the less pleasure the accounts of outings which now (as is usual at this time of the year) make our weekly paper so much like a summer number. And still more pleased am I in finding so many of these trips and relaxations arranged with a view of doing some little good to the Exercise, while the trippers are in the enjoyment of "fresh fields and pastures new." For two years back I have advocated this mixing of business with pleasure, in the arrangements made for summer outings; and am firmly convinced of the great amount of good which is certain to follow the action of our brethren in this way. Every year seems to strengthen my convictions on that point, thus once more, while complimenting my brother-strings who have made good use of their only too limited holiday in helping on the work of our isolated brethren, I quite as warmly commend their example to those others who have not as yet made a move in this praiseworthy direction.

* * * * *

I scanned our friend Mr. Attree's analysis with rather more interest than usual this week: and do not doubt that many others have done likewise, if only to see how last year's decreased record was being met in the year now current. It would appear as if we were getting into the old road again, so far as peal-ringing is concerned, taking the five months' increase of 86 into account. So that we may reasonably look forward to an increase over two years ago, which will be creditable to the energy of our friends.

* * * * *

But while satisfied with our peal-ringing exploits, there is another quarter in which I most earnestly hope to see an improved condition of affairs, namely in the work of our Associations. Our friend "Scrutator" in his reviews has had but too often of late the same tale to tell of quietness—even apathy—in the last year's work of organisation. Certainly Anno Domini 1890 was characterised by a sort of lethargic spirit in almost everything: but if that has by this time been thrown off in our peal-ringing, it is most earnestly to be hoped that the awakening will extend to other portions of our work and responsibilities as ringers, and especially to that of our County Associations.

* * * * *

To what cause may I attribute the scanty record of touches lately? Evidently the printers have cleared up all arrears of these reports, because they are now up to date. The record of touches is a feature of our journal which ought not perhaps to be overdone; but I like to see, nevertheless, about the maximum of two complete pages each week. Among my friends who ring touches and wish them recorded, are a great many supporters of "THE BELL NEWS," and therefore it is but just they should have their share of space. This I am bound to say they always do have.

* * * * *

The Kidderminster wight who made the ridiculous statement that "measures were being taken to stop ringing in London" should have been in the Metropolis last Friday when the German Emperor visited the city, and perhaps the reception he would have met with had he visited a belfry on that day, and disclosed his personality, would never have been forgotten by him. I have come to the conclusion that this person is very fond of "measures," or the contents of them.

* * * * *

I wonder if the correspondent signing himself "J" imagines he has scored a point by his reductio ad absurdum style of arguing respecting the ringing of Grandsire Doubles. I have no fancy for the performances such as he ridicules: and certainly without some extraordinary reason by way of inducement, would never make one of a band for the performance of forty-two 6-scores of Grandsire Doubles, whether "called differently" or not. But then I am more favourably circumstanced than some in the way of handy rings of from six to twelve. Others are not so fortunate, and thus if they make the best of their opportunities, although that "best" may be insignificant compared to even the "ordinary" of some people; they certainly deserve some credit for it. I rather imagine "J" is not altogether unknown to readers of our paper.

FREE LANCE.

THE BELFRY.

Great oaken doors with iron bosses set,
In their stern front like some huge massive shield
By ancient warrior borne upon the field
The entrance guards: as slowly on their hinges
To the old hoary sexton's touch they yield;
Seen by the rays through slanting loopholes let
The dangling bell ropes with their coloured fringes;
There a quaint tablet rich with grotesque fret,
Records the names and tells in homely rhyme,
Of sturdy ringers who in olden time,
Stood tireless at their posts hour after hour;
And with a nod rang through the famous peal
Of "Grandsire Bob," until the ancient tower
Did to its summit with the clamour reel.

THE SAME.

Behind the belfry door another door
Low-browed and arched, with bolts and bars made strong,
Leads to the chambers where the bells are hung.
Through the wide fissures of the yawning floor
You may discern them looming overhead,
Each with its lips of brass and iron tongue;
And a strange feeling near akin to dread
Quickens the pulse as the huge things are swung,
Backwards and forwards by their mighty wheels;
Unto the gentlest touch obedient.
Along the wall the restless pendulum steals
For evermore; its ticking strangely blent
With the sweet echoes of each passing chime,
That marks the restless onward march of time.

THE UNEMPLOYED IN EAST LONDON.—At a time when much thought is being given to this matter, a practical suggestion may be of service. Last year more than £300,000 worth of foreign matches were purchased by inconsiderate consumers in this country, to the great injury of our own working people, so true is it that "evil is wrought by want of thought, as well as want of heart." If all consumers would purchase Bryant and May's matches, that firm would be enabled to pay £1000 a week more in wages.

The Bell News & Ringers' Record.

SATURDAY, JULY 18, 1891.

It will be obvious to those readers who have been cognisant of the existence of this journal from its birth, and we are proud and grateful to say their number is large, that a vast augmentation of all classes that go to make up the ringing world has taken place within the eleven years of its establishment. Though no bell foundry has been established within the period covered, we are in possession of facts which show that the number of persons engaged in the manufacture of bells and their appurtenances have increased greatly. That this is so is shown by our own columns, in which are constantly appearing accounts of new peals of bells, together with augmentations, recastings and re-hangings of already existing peals.

As with the bells so should it be with the ringers; and although our constantly, but gradually, increasing circulation goes to show that the number of persons interested in the Art of Change-Ringing is a growing quantity, one of the most pertinent facts to an observant eye is the recurrence, week to week, and year to year, of the same names, or nearly so, as peal-ringers, while fresh names of these proficient, to any real extent, are lamentably few and far between. The reasons for this regrettable state of affairs are, doubtless, many and various, and lie too deep to be, more than merely intimating as existing, examined in this place. That there are as many and as good reasons why it should not be so, are more easily indicated; the very much improved conditions under which the pursuit of the Art is carried on, compared with those that obtained a generation back; the greater consideration shown by those in authority, together with the improved status of the once, almost, universally looked down upon bell-ringer; the 'inspiring effect of competition or "friendly rivalry" having a so much greater field than the day when an obscure corner of an expensive sporting journal was the only means of the Exercise, as a body, being put in possession of the doings of their brethren at a distance. These, and many others, which will readily occur to the intelligent reader, are all good reasons why a steady, even if small, flow of new names should get the prominence of large type in our columns.

We do not advocate the performance of a greater number of peals per week or month. In fact it is open to question whether this kind of work could not well be lessened; especially desirable is a modification of that ambition which is not satisfied with less than two or three peals in one day. What we plead for is a variety in the names of performers; that others whom we rarely hear of as peal-ringers, may become so; and that those celebrities in peal-ringing who are constantly (almost) at it, may show their willingness to temporarily stand in the background, and help those who from the want of practice may be backward scholars. Then we believe we should have a deal of talent brought into action.

ST. LAWRENCE JEWRY, LONDON.

SIR,—I should like to put a question, by your permission, relating to the ringing at this church. Those who know its locale are aware that it is close to the ancient Guildhall of the City of London, consequently, upon most of the Civic festivities the bells of St. Lawrence are rung. Friday, the 10th instant, in consequence of the visit of the German Emperor, the City was en fête, and bell-ringing—as it should be—was general. At St. Lawrence, I am told, the large six bells only were rung, and the two trebles were "clocked" and thus chimed by one man. This church, it should be understood, is very favourably situated for a view of all the pageants, processions, etc., which proceed from the Guildhall adjoining, and to enjoy these sights, distinguished and other visitors are allowed (by the churchwardens I suppose), to ascend to the roof of the church on such occasions. The way to the roof is through the ringing-chamber; visitors and others have therefore to pass and repass between the ringers, we may say. On the day above mentioned, there was noticed on the bench near the ringing-chamber door, placed so as to attract the attention of visitors, a hat, with the inscription "Please to remember the ringers." Now the question I should like to ask is "Do the authorities of St. Lawrence pay the recognised sum (I had almost said trade price), to the ringers on such occasions"? If they don't, why they ought to; but if they do, then this hat business is shameful, and the "clocking" of the trebles also. Many country ringers will be struck with amazement at the fact that within the belfry of a church in the City of London, a solicitation for alms has been made by the ringers from casual visitors, in the manner here described.

INQUIRER.

Obituary.

JOHN MIDDLETON.

We are sorry to have to record the death of the above named ringer, of Upton St. Leonards, who departed this life on Saturday, July 4th, in his 66th year. He was one of the oldest members of the Gloucester and Bristol Association, he also rang the treble to the first peal rang by the Association, which was one of Grandsire Triples, rang on October 23rd, 1879. The funeral took place at Upton St. Leonards, on July 9th. In the evening the ringers met in the belfry and made an attempt to ring Holt's six-part peal of Grandsire Triples, with the bells muffled, as a last mark of respect, but owing to a change-course the bells were called round, and the usual whole pull and stand were then performed. H. G. Gardener, 1; H. L. James, 2; J. Morris, 3; W. H. L. Brunsdon, 4; H. Mitchell, 5; J. H. Brawa, 6; J. E. Groves, 7; W. Smith, 8.

A CHURCH'S CENTENARY.

On Saturday and Sunday week Swintonians celebrated the centenary of their first church. Thousands of interested spectators, bells ringing at intervals during the day, festoons of bunting across the road, flags flying from cottages all along the route, bands playing, and in the evening a torchlight procession, and many of the houses illuminated, reminded one of a royal progress. At 2.30 on the Saturday 5000 (about 2000 of whom were Sunday scholars and teachers) started in procession from the church through the parish, headed by the clergy, and enlivened by five brass bands engaged for the occasion. Among the most beautiful of the banners were a life-sized worked figure of St. Peter (patron of the church) holding the keys, on a rich background with a lovely border. Arrived at the fields, where none were admitted except by ticket, all received an Eccles cake and ginger-beer; later on a meat pie and ginger-beer (tea being only provided for those who carried banners and other workers to the number of 150). There was dancing in one field, a May-pole in another, shooting and games elsewhere. Every one received a medal to commemorate the centenary, with the old church engraved on one side, 1791, on the other the new one. Voluntary contributions came in quickly, more than enough to cover all expenses (as is usual at Swinton). Soon after nine the torchlight procession left the field, reaching the church at 9.30., and on to Canon Heywood's house, which was brilliantly illuminated with rows of little lamps, Chinese lanterns, and candles. To carry out that arrangement many willing hands had worked hard in their leisure hours under a committee of six laymen.

On the Sunday morning the Vicar preached about the centenary, from the text, "An hundred years old," Genesis xvii. 17, but begged the congregation not to be misled into thinking they belonged to a church which sprang into existence one hundred years ago. Before there was a church at Swinton, Eccles was the mother church, and Eccles could date back at least eight hundred years. The church had been under three sees—Lichfield, Chester, Manchester—and Lichfield was anciently a part of Mercia. We belonged to a country which had British bishops less than three hundred years after the resurrection of Jesus Christ, and by one link or another we could link ourselves to the Apostles, the Prophets, of whom Jesus Christ, the Church's foundation, is the head. "If," he continued, "Churchmen choose, they can keep on their schools, if (the offertory was for the schools) you make up your minds, all of you, that you will, and not only those who are well off, have nothing to do with trimming, with watering down Church doctrine to pulp, firm as a rock the Church will stand."

Canon Heywood, writes a correspondent, alluded to many local improvements, but was characteristically silent about some of the most important ones—the daily services; the church, so lately made entirely free and endowed with 3000*l.* through the generosity of the Heywood family; the three chapels-of-ease built; the church rebuilt at a cost of 17,000*l.*; the 480 church-helpers of all kinds; the 500 total abstainers; the daily services of the guilds and the classes; the special services and instruction; the foreign Missions helped. In a word, to quote one of the churchwardens at a presentation to Mr. and Mrs. Heywood for their silver wedding, Swinton, in the twenty years Mr. Heywood has been here, is a different place; the people must be slow indeed if they did not know Mr. Heywood's life in that parish had been a success; and a working man added that their unselfish spirit on all occasions, their self-denying lives and daily example had won the deep respect, gratitude, and love of every one.—Guardian.

The noting of the fact that at Hungerford the bell is never tolled after sunset, brings me letters attesting the similar fact in other parishes. "The passing bell is never rung here before sunrise or after sunset, and this custom is rigidly followed, though no one can give any reason for it." So says a West of England clergyman, who also goes on to ask: "Could any of your correspondents give me information about St. Brannoch or Branoë, the patron saint of Braunton, North Devon? Is there any other church besides Braunton dedicated to St. Brannoch?" —"PETER LOMBARD," in The Church Times.

Butt, vicar of Edlington, as assistant inspector of the deanery of Horncastle, in the place of the Rev. R. Barker, resigned, was announced.

On Sunday evening a singular accident occurred during Divine Service at Exeter Cathedral. A piece of stonework in the north window fell, and after striking a piece of projecting masonry, pitched on the head of a young girl named Pardon, rendering her unconscious. She was taken to her home and attended by Dr. Cheese, who found that she was suffering from slight concussion of the brain. She is now progressing favourably.

The anniversary sermon of the Foundling Hospital was preached in the chapel on Sunday morning by the Bishop of Ripon. Morning prayer was read by the Rev. Corrie Jackson, chaplain, and the first part of the Communion service by the Rev. A. R. Buckland, morning preacher. The Bishop preached an eloquent and impressive sermon from St. Matthew, xxiii. 19. The congregation included the Duke of Cambridge and the Lord Mayor, the latter of whom came in semi-state. After service the Duke of Cambridge presented the customary rewards to foundlings who have come of age during the year.

The general festival of parish choirs in connection with the Herefordshire Choral Union took place in the cathedral on Thursday week. The Bishop preached from St. John iv. 24. He thought it impossible to overrate the importance of correct ideas upon the question of Church music, and impossible to overrate the importance of providing the people with really good music, and to accustom them to its use, inasmuch as sound teaching-matter must effectually be secured thereby. The music, however, must never drown the sense of the words, but let them try to combine the two.

MUSICAL HAND BELLS

ON VARIOUS MODES OF COMPOSING PEALS OF STEDMAN CATERS.

BY A. PERCIVAL HEYWOOD.

In the composition of peals of Stedman Caters the custom has obtained, every since the discovery of the simplification in proof afforded by fixing the 2nds place bell, of selecting the treble for this duty, keeping the three back bells in what is known as the "Tittum" position, thus bringing up the termination 9 7 8 at the course-ends. That this disposition of the heavy end, initiated by Annable in his treatment of Grandsire Caters, produces music superior to that obtainable with any other arrangement of these bells admits of no question. At the same time it is difficult to understand why, along with this correctness of musical apprehension, the very incorrect plan of locating the treble in 2nds place should have become so general. In Stedman Caters it is notorious that the musically weak part occurs when the heavy bells come singly behind in the middle of the course. It is for this reason that connoisseurs have been in the habit of preferring the music of Grandsire on nine bells to that of Stedman, and, with the treble as the 2nds place bell in the latter method, their dictum is just.

The question then arises: Is Stedman capable of being treated in such a manner as to remove the objection urged against it? The answer is in the affirmative. Hubbard was the first to shew how this could be effected, and no simpler or indeed better plan has been subsequently hit upon. The purpose, however, of this paper is to shew that there are other plans, at all events deserving of attention, by which an increase may be obtained in the amount of music produced by the method. These will be set forth in detail after dealing with Hubbard's improvement, which consists in substituting the 6th for the treble as a 2nds place bell. An examination of the following skeleton course, in which the positions at each six-end of the 2nds place and three back bells are given, will shew where lies the advantage of fixing the 6th.

	-	6	-	-	-	-	9	7	8
1.	6	-	-	-	-	7	-	8	9
2.	6	-	-	7	-	8	-	9	-
3.	-	7	6	8	-	9	-	-	-
4.	-	7	8	9	6	-	-	-	-
5.	7	9	-	-	8	-	6	-	-
6.	7	9	-	-	-	8	-	6	-
7.	9	-	7	-	-	-	6	8	-
8.	9	-	-	7	6	-	8	-	-
9.	-	-	9	6	-	8	7	-	-
10.	-	-	6	8	9	-	-	7	-
11.	-	8	-	-	6	-	9	7	-
12.	-	8	-	-	7	6	-	9	-
13.	8	-	-	7	-	-	-	9	6
14.	8	-	7	-	9	-	6	-	-
15.	-	-	8	9	7	6	-	-	-
16.	-	-	9	6	8	-	7	-	-
17.	-	6	-	-	9	-	8	-	7
18.	-	6	-	-	-	9	7	8	-

It will be noticed that, far from the 8th and 9th making no music when they respectively come behind in the middle of the course, the 6th will be with them, and that 6-8s and 9-6s are thus obtained in every course, while, on the other hand, the disagreeable discord of 1-9s is avoided. It has been contended that the loss of the 6th as a 5ths place bell, consequent on its fixture in 2nds place, is a serious drawback to the course-end. The reply to this is that the course-end is already rich in music, and that, as the 6th is always behind the 9th in the middle of the course, a definite gain is achieved, even without reckoning the acquisition of the 6-8s, which can never be had at back-stroke with the treble in 2nds place bell, and only a limited number of times at handstroke. Why this immense enrichment of the musical qualities of the method has been so little taken advantage of it is difficult to say. Where, however, the plan has been customarily followed, as, for instance, at Loughborough, the older mode is held in considerable contempt for its want of melody. Doubtless the continuous improvement that is taking place in the aural appreciativeness of ringers will end in making Hubbard's plan the rule. The only possible suggestion that can be made as to why the treble should have been chosen, in preference to the more natural selection of the heaviest of the remaining bells, is that, having been accustomed to the treble as a fixed bell in plain methods, the early composers of Stedman Caters fancied there was a fitness in still keeping the work of this bell as regular as possible.

The next mode to be noticed is one discovered by the late Mr. Henry Johnson in which a peal was rung a few years ago at Birmingham. The following skeleton course will shew the working of the fixed bells on this plan:

	Quick Six	-	-	-	9	7	8

It will be seen that here there are course-ends at every ninth six, these coming alternately at slow and quick sixes, the slow six courses being differently called to the quick six ones. Thus 9 7 8s are obtained every time the heavy bells come behind. Having rung some touches on this plan I can testify to the fine effect produced. The counterbalancing disadvantages are as follows:—The 9th only comes out behind once in the course; 7, 8, 9 are never in the proper position, in coming down, for producing the Tittum music, viz., in 4-5, 6-7, and 8-9 respectively; and very few composers would be competent to produce peals on this plan. In spite, however, of these drawbacks the result strikes the ear with uncommon richness, and Stedman ringers, whose abilities incline them to prefer more calls to enliven the bobless stretches of the method as usually rung, will find here a pleasing variation from what they have been accustomed to. The following peals given me by Mr. Johnson some years ago, will serve as a sufficient illustration of the arrangement.

The whole of the above three times repeated, omitting the bob at 1 in the first course, and substituting a bob for the single in the 2nd and 4th parts, produces 231456978. Round in two courses by a bob at 1 in each. This peal has the 6th 40 times (the extent) each way in 5-6.

them on to St. Mary's, where everything was in readiness. There some Grandsire and Stedman Triples were rung, and being joined by some of the Reading ringers, another touch of Grandsire Triples was rung. The next thing was dinner, and that having been got through to the satisfaction of all, a move was once more made to call on Mr. Newell, who, not being able to accompany them, directed them to St. Peter's church, Caversham, where the Rev. G. F. Coleridge was awaiting them. The fine peal of eight were soon set going to the tune of Oxford Bob Triples, Grandsire and Stedman Triples being also rung. Then some Kent Treble Bob, being assisted in the latter by some of the St. Peter's band and the Rev. G. F. Coleridge. After leaving St. Peter's church, a short stroll brought them to the river bank, where some boats were hired, and about an hour and a half were spent on the water; then returning to Reading and once more calling on Mr. Newell, who had been waiting to take them on to St. Laurence, where a short touch of Grandsire Triples was indulged in. About half an hour later found the whole party at Reading station, which was left by the 8.30 train, arriving at Woolwich just at midnight, after having spent one of the best outings they ever had. They wish through the medium of this paper to thank the vicars of the different churches for the use of the bells; and also to thank Mr. Newell for having everything arranged for them.

NORTH NOTTS. ASSOCIATION.

The quarterly meeting of this association was held at the picturesque village of Everton, on Saturday last, and was well attended by members from Shireoaks, Worksop, Blyth, Bawtry, Retford and Everton. The weather being beautifully fine the visiting parties made use of the opportunity of driving over in conveyances, all of whom thoroughly enjoyed themselves with the day's outing. Several touches in the Treble Bob methods were rung, and peals attempted, but came to grief on account of having to make up companies of different ringers who have had very little practice. One 720 of Grandsire Minor was rung by James Bee, J. Briggs, W. Skelton, N. G. Hunt, H. Haigh, and R. Potter. James Bee hails from Bawtry, and the rest are from Retford. At 5.30 upwards of thirty adjourned to the "Blacksmith's Arms," to partake of a good meat tea, provided by host and hostess Empson, and after some very long courses were got through, stand was called and the following business was transacted.

It was proposed, seconded, and unanimously carried that a vote of thanks be given to the worthy host and hostess for providing such an excellent repast. It was proposed, seconded, and carried that the best thanks of the association be given to the Vicar, the Rev. W. B. Ramsey, for kindly placing the bells at the disposal of the ringers. It was also proposed by H. Haigh, and seconded by R. Beeston, that the next quarterly meeting be held at Bawtry, on Saturday, October 10th, which was carried unanimously. The meeting then broke up, and the bells very shortly afterwards, with the Everton ringers at the ropes, were pealing out their silvery notes of Treble Bob through the louveres, whilst the visiting parties were making their way homewards.

ST. PETER'S GUILD, WOLVERHAMPTON.

On Saturday, July 11th, about twenty of the members of this society met at Wolverhampton, and journeyed to Passingham, per brake, being met by other members there, for the purpose of holding their monthly ringing meeting. Several very good touches of Grandsire Triples and Major were rung. Between thirty and forty members sat down to tea at the "Pigot Arms" hotel, after which the business meeting was held. Some new members were elected, and it was decided to hold the next meeting at Christ Church, West Bromwich, on Saturday, August 8th. A vote of thanks to the Vicar for so kindly throwing open his beautiful grounds and garden, terminated the meeting. Members were present from Wolverhampton, West Bromwich, Perry Bar, Handsworth, Birmingham, Penn, Tettenhall, Wombourn, and Willenhall.

MR. LONGNEY'S REPLY.

SIR,—The reason I did not send "J." the callings of the forty-two 6-scores was: I decline to communicate with any one who is not endowed with a name, or if he declines or is ashamed to use it. I think it is known to all ringers (therefore I suppose "J." is not one) that there are thirty-two different 6-scores with extremes, and ten with plain leads, of Grandsire Doubles; and I will swear that every one of them were rung and called differently at Welland on May 5th; and if he still doubts it, I will repeat it to his satisfaction at any time. I would add that to call forty-two 6-scores differently is not so simple as supposed, at least I would much rather conduct a peal of Triples or Caters; and this opinion is shared in by one of our ablest conductors in the West of England. If "J." still wishes to get the callings of the forty-two 6-scores, if he will insert his name and address in "THE BELL NEWS," or forward it to me, I will send them to him; if he declines to do that he will not receive them from yours truly,
Croome, Worcester. LIONEL LONGNEY.

THE RINGING AT ST. LAWRENCE JEWRY.

SIR,—The letter of last week, signed "Inquirer," opens up the very wide question of pay-ringing throughout London. Many readers would be surprised to hear of the ancient arrangement in vogue among Londoners in this respect, and now that the question has been opened, I hope it will be threshed out to the end. The "clogging" of the trebles, was I suppose, done to save the eighth man's share of the pay, for it is rumoured that a spare man was in attendance, but was not allowed to ring. Us ringers have enough offences placed to our score, without any more being added. DISGUSTED.

Obituary.

SERGEANT THOMAS JACKSON.

We regret to record the death of Sergeant Thomas Jackson, of Hull, which took place on the 4th instant, at the age of 64. The deceased, who served in the Royal Artillery in the Crimea, settled down at Hull about twenty-five years ago as drill instructor to the Artillery Volunteers, and it was through his instrumentality that change-ringing in Hull was revived after having been discontinued in that town for many years. He was for some time quartered at Woolwich, where it was his privilege and pleasure to meet with the celebrated Banister family, and it was while here that he added greatly to his knowledge of change-ringing. He rang several peals, the first of which was at Holy Trinity, Hull, in 1873. He also took part in the first peal rung by the Yorkshire Association in 1875, and acted as referee in the only peal rung at Hull upon handbells, in 1877. The funeral took place on the 8th instant, at the Hedon Road Cemetery, several of his brethren attended, and rang a course at the grave. H. Eastwood, 1-2; W. Southwick, 3-4; C. Jackson, 5-6; J. W. Stickney, 7-8. A peal of Stedman Triples was attempted with the bells half-muffled, which unfortunately came to grief after an hour's good ringing. T. Stockdale, 1; W. T. Verity, 2; J. Highfield, 3; H. Jenkins, 4; D. W. Brown, 5; C. Jackson (conductor), 6; J. Dixey, 7; J. W. Dale, 8.

A young man named Edward Gilbert, who was in the employ of a Sheffield steeple-jack, met with his death on Wednesday afternoon. The deceased and another man were at the top of St. Matthew's spire, the former being fastened by his belt to the vane. He was just about to do some painting, when the vane snapped and he fell into the street below, a distance of about 150 feet. He was terribly injured, and death was instantaneous.

On Wednesday week the Rev. E. Husband, vicar of St. Michael's, Folkestone, gave his 300th recital on the large four-manual organ in his church, the programme being selected entirely from his own compositions. It is stated in a paragraph which appeared in the daily papers that for eighteen years Mr. Husband, in addition to his clerical duties, has been his own organist, playing a daily cathedral service, including Sundays; and that he has conducted more than 4000 choir practices, played at more than 9,000 full services, and given 300 recitals, which have drawn large congregations, especially during the season. The key-board has been fixed close to the incumbent's stall, and the instrument itself is an unique one, containing several orchestral effects designed by Mr. Husband—such as drums, cymbals, and bells, worked by electric movements under the entire control of the player.

THE KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION.—ANNUAL MEETING AT FOLKESTONE.

On Monday, July 13th, the annual meeting of this Association was held at Folkestone, when bands of ringers from many of the towns and villages of Kent assembled to do honor to the occasion. The first intimation of their presence in the town was made known by the raising of the bells in the tower of the parish church soon after nine o'clock, and during the morning, various bands indulged in "touches" of the different methods in campanological science; while throughout the day the visitors thronged the parish church apparently interested in the interior embellishments of the sacred building. At 12.30 there was a special service at the church, when the Rev. H. G. Sprigg, one of the six preachers of Canterbury Cathedral, preached, founding his discourse on the words, "Rejoice with them that do rejoice, and weep with them that weep." The preacher said that the bells expressed the sympathy of the Church in every circumstance of their lives, and urged that the ringers should be in unison with the message of the bells. He could recall the memory of a village where, in the belfry, scenes of drunken revelry and blasphemy were not unknown at one time, but, thank God, that to a very great extent had passed away. He was thankful of the opportunity to address the association, whose object was to bring into sympathy the ringers and the voices of the bells.

At two o'clock dinner was served at a local café, and about 200 assembled to do justice to the excellent spread provided. The Vicar of Folkestone presided, and was supported by several clergymen from different parts of Kent, who accompanied their several bands of ringers, most of them being members of the association. After dinner the health of "The Queen" was drank, and then the principal business of the day was transacted. Rev. E. W. Carpenter, Hon. Secretary of the association, presented the report for the year, and said that, owing to some changes in his work, he would have to resign the position of Secretary, although he was not losing any interest in the Kent association, and would always continue to do his best to help them. With regard to their annual meeting, the question had been raised whether the present time was the best for holding it, as it was rather hard for some to attend just at the busiest time of the year with them. He knew of one five-bell tower that had withdrawn from the association on that account, and it would be for them to consider if any alteration of the time should be made. For the benefit of his successor he would urge upon Secretaries of bands to make themselves acquainted with the notices in the ringing papers, for he found that it sometimes took four or five weeks to get them to respond to matters of business that should be at once attended to. It was a question, too, whether more might not be done for young bands by providing paid instructors, as other associations had done. He desired to heartily express their thanks to Mr. Curteis, who, in his neighbourhood, had brought in some thirty members, and he hoped Mr. Curteis would be at Sevenoaks for a very long time to come.

The report stated that the annual meeting last year was held at Maidstone, when a testimonial had been presented to Mr. Hugessen, and a balance of the fund handed over to that gentleman for his bells. Three bands of ringers had left the association during the year, and four others had joined. They had at present 160 honorary members, and a total membership of 616. He found that many bands had not elected new members for a long time. It was very well, perhaps, to hang together without new members, but they ought to look ahead for future changes. The expenses for the year had been £78 13s. 9d., and the subscriptions £75 15s. 3d., leaving a deficit of £2 18s. 6d. He had made exertions to get in the honorary subscriptions, but there was a certain class that required to be written to four times, and he had not been able to make application more than once. It was rather a hopeless task to expect to get subscriptions from this class of honorary subscriber. The extraordinary number of peals rang by the association during the year had placed them suddenly at the top of the associations in this respect. In 1889 the number of peals rang was 13 only, but in 1890 no less than 61 peals had been rung by 135 members, under 27 conductors, in 19 towns. They were advancing also in the various methods, and leaving "Grandsire" to the more elementary bands of ringers. He was sure that the association were quite capable of taking up the study of "Double Norwich." One band was practising it, and he hoped the association would soon ring their first peal in that intricate method, and that he should be one of the ringers when it was scored.

Mr. Finn proposed the toast of "The Archbishop and Clergy," and thanks to the Chairman for his kindness, and to the preacher for his excellent sermon.

The Vicar (Rev. M. Woodward) said he was happy to welcome them all to Folkestone, and that although they had hardly time to look round the church, they would always find its doors open, and at any visit he would always be glad to meet any of them to conduct them round the church. There was much to interest them had they time to examine the church. He was reminded of a story of a little boy who had visited the building, and afterwards asked his father to take him to church. The father said he did not know what to say about that, for he had not behaved himself very well the last time he had been taken to church. The boy said he was sure he would behave himself there, because there was so much to look at.

The Rev. H. G. Sprigg next addressed the meeting, and said he remembered when going to his vicarage for the first time the bells rang to welcome him and how pleased he felt. The churchwardens said the ringers would come round presently; they did come round, and explained their reason for doing so. He remembered how sorely disappointed he was when he said he hoped to see them all at church, they said "Oh no, we're all Dissenters."

The Rev. T. S. Curteis, rector of Sevenoaks, proposed the re-election of the Vice-Presidents and Treasurer of the association, and he thought the best way to retain their services was to add others to the number. He had the pleasure to add the names of the Lord Lieutenant of the county, Lord Stanhope, Lord Sackville, and the Right Rev. the Dean of Rochester. The Rev. E. W. Carpenter seconded, and it was carried. The remaining business was the election of Hon. Secretary. Two nominations had been sent in—Mr. Curteis and Mr. Helmore, Precentor of Canterbury Cathedral. Each of these gentlemen addressed the members of the association, and a ballot was taken which resulted in 68 votes being given to the Rev. F. J. O. Helmore, and 61 votes to the Rev. T. S. Curteis. Votes of thanks were also passed to the Folkestone churchwardens (who were unavoidably absent), and to the organist, Mr. Oake, who returned thanks.

At the conclusion of the proceedings the whole party adjourned to the West Cliff Gardens, where Mr. S. C. Weston photographed them in group.

A SAFE (?) CURE.

The following letter appears in this week's Guardian. We hope the writer will not be put to the expense of having the operation repeated in a short time:—

"CRACKED BELLS.

"SIR,—It may interest some of your readers to know that I have just made proof of a process for mending cracked bells without recasting, and that it is a great success.

"Our bell, weighing some eight or nine hundredweight (date 1705), was cracked some forty years or more ago, and was much sawed and hammered by way of improving the sound. The crack was seven inches long, and a large piece of the rim was knocked off. The crack is now filled and the rim restored, and the bell rings beautifully, quite, I should think, with its ancient tone.

"The cost was 10*l.*, exclusive, of course, of dismounting and rehanging the bell, much less than recasting would cost, and retaining the original metal, which in our bell is particularly fine. The whole work took eight days. As our bell-chamber is very small, the work was done in the church and porch. The workman is Herr Ohlsson, a Swede.

"I will gladly answer any question about my bell, or show it to any one. Any letters to me must contain a stamped addressed envelope for reply.

CHARLES S. P. DARROCH.

NOTES BY THE WAY.

Magnus est veritas et prevalebit.

The first instalment of the list of County and Diocesan Associations inserted in last week's issue, appears to have greatly exercised the mind of a correspondent who writes to me a long letter on the subject. The main portion of his communication treats of the returns of the metropolitan societies which appear to him almost inexplicable, or, to say the least of it, very puzzling. The Society of College Youths, who are first on the list, are credited with nineteen London towers in union and 3699 members, with a record of 1442 peals for 255 years, or an average of less than six per year for the whole period. Next comes the Society of Cumberland Youths with its thirteen London towers, and number of members unknown. Following is the St. James' Society with two towers and 500 "active members." And lastly, the Waterloo Society with its one tower and 300 members. That makes four societies in the metropolis with thirty-five towers in union (of course, omitting the "provincial towers too numerous to ascertain"), three of these with a combined total of 4499 members, and the other—so admirably have the books and registers been kept, that the number of members is said to be unknown. That latter circumstance is, to the mind of my correspondent, very unfortunate, inasmuch as it prevents us from knowing the precise combined numerical strength of our great London Societies.

But allowing for this, and assuming for argument's sake that the gross total is roundly 5000 for the four societies, my friend wants to know (very inquisitively, of course) how many out of this number are simply "paper members," who live in the provinces, who probably have never visited any of the headquarters of their societies to which they nominally belong, who have never handled a bell rope in a metropolitan tower, and whose "active" connection with those societies began and ended with the payment of a small subscription on election. Then after disposing of the country (or, as he puts it, "paper" members, most of whom he thinks will be included in the provincial County Associations, he is curious to know what is the actual number of those "active" members ringing more or less regularly in the city who are returned in the totals of more than one of these four societies. Of course, we are all of us aware of the "line of demarcation" drawn with reference to the two oldest of them—that a man cannot according to the rule and custom of both College Youths and Cumberlands be at the same time member of the two. Their two lines are thus clearly defined in this respect. But then he enquires, where does the St. James' society get its 500 members from? And from whence are gathered the 300 "active members" of the Waterloo Society? How many of those who comprise these two societies are likewise members not only of each other, but also of the other two? He seems to have a notion that the two oldest societies being so severely separate from each other, the St. James' Society came into existence in 1824 in a sort of way to complete the triangle where these aforesaid two could join together; thus in effect "contract themselves out of the act of exclusiveness" and form a sort of common ground. That, in his opinion, might be all very well in the interests of sociability and so forth, but what, he asks, about the consequent duplication of assumed numerical strength which it necessarily involves, and the equal falseness of returns which is thereby created?

Through this dovetailing process (as a carpenter would describe it) these metropolitan societies return eleven representatives to the Central Council, about one-fifth of the whole number. My friend's contention is that an end should be put to this honeycombing sort of business—that (to quote a quaint old Saxon proverb) "each tub should stand upon its own bottom;" that the metropolitan societies, in common fairness and honesty, when counting their members for representative or statistical purposes, should either leave out altogether "paper" members and "duplicate" members, or else, like Mr. Attree with his analysis of peals add "number of members belonging to other Associations."

The foregoing is the gist of the communication in question, which I don't intend just now to do more than "bring into daylight." Perhaps some London brethren may be able to put matters straight and relieve my friend's evidently perturbed state of mind.

I should be glad, for their own credit's sake, if "Inquirer's" story of the doings at St. Lawrence Jewry, on the 10th inst. could be proved erroneous. But I am afraid, from what I too have learnt, that such a proof is impossible. I remember an occurrence of a somewhat similar sort—but that happened many years ago, and in a vulgar little country town—where the ringers on a festive occasion placed at the foot of the tower steps a box, on the wall at the back of it they wrote with chalk an inscription nearly similar to the one told about last week. In this case the Rector got wind of it, and at once commenced to "boil over;" he was young, athletic, and perhaps a little bit impulsive. Well, he marched off to the Church, took the box, and pitched it along with its contents into the churchyard. Then mounting the belfry steps, he informed the flabbergasted rope-pullers of what he had done, recommending them to hurry off before the coppers disappeared. This they did not require telling twice to do, I can assure you. They didn't even stay to put on their hats and coats, but rushed pell-mell down the steps. Smiling grimly, the Rector took down from the pegs all articles of clothing which he saw, and descending the steps again placed the lot outside the church door, carefully locking the same. I will leave you to imagine the scene which followed. There was no ringing for two or three Sundays; but the good sense of the people around went with the Rector, and eventually the men went back again. But there has been no cadging box at that belfry door since.

To revert to St. Lawrence Jewry. The process of soliciting "alms" as the correspondent terms it, is I must say, not worthy of the present day. I am not acquainted with the name of the Society who "claims" the church where the scene is laid, but I must say such instances of "cadging," for it is nothing else, reflects a disgrace upon all concerned. If the Society affected does not expel the members who have stooped to such business, then the Church authorities ought to decree that they never entered the tower again. We pride ourselves upon the social eminence to which ringers have attained; we feel an abhorrence towards those of our body who—very rarely, it is true—commit themselves in any way, and break through the boundaries of refinement and gentlemanly behaviour; we aspire to be regarded as worthy officers of the Church; in short, as gentlemen, but such incidents as these take the fire out of our ambition. This episode displays nothing but a wretched, paltry selfishness.

The Bell News & Ringers' Record.

SATURDAY, JULY 25, 1891.

THE statement of the retiring Honorary Secretary of the Kent County Association, at the annual meeting held the other day at Folkestone, contained one or two interesting features. The Rev. E. W. CARPENTER, who has been the Hon. Secretary of this Association since the retirement of the Rev. R. B. KNATCHBULL-HUGESSEN, has, unfortunately, in turn to resign, and at this meeting, for the benefit of his successor—who we are glad to say is the Rev. F. J. O. HELMORE—he urged upon the various secretaries of local societies to make themselves acquainted with the notices inscribed from time to time in the ringing papers, for he had found that it sometimes took four or five weeks to get them to respond to matters of business that should at once be attended to. This is a somewhat alarming discovery, and will go a long way to throw doubt upon the efficacy of the plan of carving the territory covered by an Association into districts.

Here is another instance, about which so much has been said, and written, of ringers' apathy and indifference, a topic the discussion of which begets nausea. A secretary is generally supposed to be a kind of mainspring of the body to which he is attached, but this feeling is rudely dispelled upon hearing that instances occur in the Kent County Association where it takes a matter of four or five weeks to get such officers to respond to matters of business that they should at once attend to. How is possible for ringing with its concomitants to thrive under such circumstances, as it ought to, when such neglect (we are tempted to use a very much stronger term) is the rule? How can it be expected that an English clergyman will devote a great part of his time to carry on the business of a large County Ringers' Association, when those whose duty it is to respond to his representations, and who have been elected for the express purpose of performing such duty, take four or five weeks to consider about it? The work of an Association Secretary does not protrude itself to public gaze, it is done, the major part of it at any rate, beneath the surface, so to speak, and only those actually concerned know the labour—and we are sorry to add, trials of temper—which the office involves. Yet we don't often hear of the resignation of a clerical secretary, unless very strong reasons exist, which is the case with the late Secretary of the Association in question. MR. CARPENTER has been called to another sphere of duty, more onerous in all probability than the one he filled when he accepted the office of Secretary. Like others of the clergy whom we rejoice to know are the actual mainspring of their Associations, MR. CARPENTER kept at his post until there was no alternative but to resign in consequence of new obligations; though we are inclined to think that the occasions when his assistants in its management could not be moved to action "for four or five weeks" was enough to cause an ordinary person to decline any further responsibility.

The Kent County Association has been particularly fortunate in its secretaries, and the successor of the Rev. E. W. CARPENTER is no exception to the rule. The Rev. F. J. O. HELMORE is an accomplished ringer, and therefore will throw himself into the duties of the office with complete ardour. Let us hope that the local secretaries will in future see to the business of the Association with less dilatoriness than formerly. They are elected for the express purpose of strengthening the Secretary's hands, and lightening his labours. They are not to merely pose as ornaments, or to consider that the introduction of their name in the Annual Report is the beginning and end of their functions. Their province is work, not play; their duty, to do whatever is required of them by the Association Secretary. Any departure from such a course should be followed by their immediate removal, and the substitution by their local company of a worthier local secretary in their room. We feel that is necessary to be emphatic on this point, as the well-doing and rapid progress of our Associations are especially desirable.

THE UNEMPLOYED IN EAST LONDON.—At a time when much thought is being given to this matter, a practical suggestion may be of service. Last year more than £300,000 worth of foreign matches were purchased by inconsiderate consumers in this country, to the great injury of our own working people, so true is it that "evil is wrought by want of thought, as well as want of heart." If all consumers would purchase Bryant and May's matches, that firm would be enabled to pay £1000 a week more in wages.

Brighton.

GEORGE F. ATTREE.

ST. NICOLAS, GREAT YARMOUTH.

For just half a century the parish church of S. Nicolas, Great Yarmouth, has been under restoration. Exclusive of several costly gifts the amount expended on the fabric alone during this period must be close upon 40,000*l.*, raised almost entirely by local contributions. Another epoch of restoration was ended on Tuesday week, when special services were held to dedicate to their sacred use the north and south chancel aisles, which have been under repair for the last year and a half. The day opened with a celebration of the Holy Communion at 7.45, when the Bishop of Wakefield was the celebrant; matins at eleven, when the preacher was the Dean of Norwich; and at three o'clock in the afternoon the children of the schools assembled at a flower service. After an address by the Bishop of Wakefield, they filed up and presented their flowers, which were arranged by the clergy inside the altar rails, and subsequently sent to the hospital and to the sick of the parish. At eight o'clock in the evening there was full choral evensong, opening with a procession of the united choirs of the town and clergy from the neighbourhood. The preacher was the Bishop of Wakefield. The piece of restoration, which a large and representative committee, under the chairmanship of the vicar, the Rev. William Donne, has just negotiated, has been costly, and to a superficial observer seems hardly an equivalent for the money spent (about 6,300*l.*) But though not showy, the work is, it is hoped, done for centuries. The roofs, walls, windows, and turrets of the north and south chancel aisles have been thoroughly restored, and at the south-east corner a new turret has been added, which is a conspicuous improvement. The roof-timbers have been made thoroughly sound and good, and new timbers inserted where necessary. The roofs have been boarded internally with oak, divided into panels by moulded ribs, with carved bosses at the intersections. The upper portions of the cornices are traceried and panelled, the lower members being moulded and carved. They now present an appearance bold in design and rich in detail. The former meagre and unsightly east windows, which could have had no connection with the original building, have now been replaced by entirely new windows, no trace of the original work being extant. That in the north chancel aisle has been treated in the solid and massive style of the Early English period, and that in the south in the later richly decorated style. The designs have been prepared by Mr. J. L. Pearson, and the work has been ably carried out by Messrs. Cornish and Gaymer, of North Walsham. By the very process of restoration new needs have been created and old ones emphasised. But there is still a balance of 1,700*l.* to be paid.

ASTLEY BRIDGE CHURCH, BOLTON.

On Sunday, July 19th, a new clock was started by the donor Mrs. John Ashworth, in the tower of this church. It strikes the hours, chimes the Westminster quarters, and shews times on three dials. It will prove a great boon to the inhabitants, and will form a standard for the time-keeping of the neighbourhood. Messrs. John Smith and Sons, Midland Clock Works, Derby, carried out the work, and they have also just completed a large clock on the Victoria Pier, Douglas, Isle of Man.

Through a death in the neighbourhood of Ellesmere, Shropshire, the members of a family named Vaughan will (the Pall Mall Gazette says) become entitled to a share in a large fortune under somewhat romantic circumstances. Some years ago a clergyman, the Rev. Humphrey Dymock, who resided on his own estate of Penley Hall, near Ellesmere, died. In his will he left the whole of his property, consisting of real estate in various parts of England, to his widow, but under the stipulation that, should she marry again, the property would, as at her death, revert to his family. The widow, hearing that the family of a shoemaker in Ellesmere had been left orphans, drove over, and after seeing the children determined to adopt the youngest—a boy. About a month ago Mrs. Dymock died, and by her will the bulk of her fortune, considerably over 100,000*l.*, was left to the shoemaker's boy. Unfortunately he died on Saturday week, still a minor. The result, it is stated, will be that his surviving brothers and sisters will each become entitled unexpectedly to a considerable fortune.

The Archbishop of Canterbury and Mrs. Benson entertained at a garden party on Saturday last, the managers and teachers of the Vauxhall group of board schools (of which Miss Benson is a manager), the Church schools in the neighbourhood, and Springfield School.

The Bishop of Chester is laid up at the Palace, Chester, with a severe attack of influenza. On Wednesday night he was very ill, and on Friday he remained so prostrate that he has been compelled to cancel all his engagements. It was reported however that his lordship was progressing favourably.

The Dean of St. Davids was born on St. Swithin's-day, 1802, and consequently entered on his ninetieth year on Wednesday. Dean Allen, says the Birmingham Daily Gazette, still bestows daily care to the work of restoration which has for many years been going forward under his direction at the grand cathedral over which he rules.

The parish church of Allhallows-on-the-Wall, London-wall, was re-opened on Tuesday week by the Bishop of London. The new rector (the Rev. S. J. Stone, author of "The Church's one Foundation" and many other hymns) has marked his entrance upon his new charge by carrying out various improvements and alterations in the church.

The Archbishop-elect of York (Dr. Maclagan) will give away the prizes and preach the sermon at Denstone College dedication festival, on Wednesday next, when the completion of Denstone College by the opening of the new hall will be celebrated. Viscount Cranbrook will unveil Professor Herkomer's portrait of Sir Percival Heywood, which has been presented to the Provost and Fellows by a large number of friends, to remain a record of Sir Percival's munificence as chief founder of the college.

The election of the Very Rev. John Gott, D.D., Dean of Worcester, as Bishop of Truro, in succession to Bishop G. H. Wilkinson, took place on Thursday last. The Sub-Dean and Chapter assembled in the Chapter-room and proceeded to the choir, where evensong was held. After the Psalms had been chanted, they returned to the Chapter-room, the great bell tolling meanwhile. The election then took place in the presence of Mr. Burch, the acting Chapter clerk, and the witnesses, Mr. J. C. Daubuz, High Sheriff of Cornwall, and the Worshipful R. M. Paul, Chancellor of the diocese.

The foundation-stone of the new church of St. Mary the Virgin, East Grinstead, was laid on the 7th inst., by Archdeacon Sutton, in the absence of the Bishop of Chichester, who was detained at the hearing of the Lincoln appeal. The church, when built, will hold over 500 worshippers, and the cost is estimated at 5,000*l.* At present only half the building will be attempted, and it will include the chancel, two vestries, and the nave and south aisle as far back as the third bay, leaving the north aisle, the western part of the nave, and the porch to be added at some future date. The site has been presented by the owners of the Sackville estate. Towards the cost of the church 1,100*l.* has already been given, and a sufficient sum has been invested to secure an endowment of 60*l.* towards 100*l.* required.

ON VARIOUS MODES OF COMPOSING PEALS OF STEDMAN CATERS.

II.

In continuation of the consideration of the musical treatment of the 978 course-ends, I may remark that the late Mr. Henry Johnson composed several peals both with the 6th behind the 9th, and also at home throughout. Compositions of this class must be deemed of higher quality than any with the treble fixed in 2ds place, as such fixture prevents the 6th from being more than 24 courses behind the 9th; on the other hand they scarcely come up to peals on Hubbard's plan, for the reasons stated in the last article.

While on the subject of peals without a fixed 2ds place bell, I may remark that a great deal of misapprehension prevails with regard to what may be achieved in this direction. Some years ago, before I had turned my attention to the method, I heard it not unfrequently asserted that the 120 courses with a fixed 2ds place bell were all that could be obtained in the tittum position, and that it was quite impossible to get more, if as many, courses by moving this bell. Happening to be in Mr. Johnson's company I asked him the question. His reply was:—"I got the extent thirty years ago." I expressed astonishment, and begged to have a copy of so extraordinary a production, which he kindly sent me a day or two after. I give the figures of this magnificent composition, as, in my opinion, it evidences greater ability than any other extent peal in any method. It will be seen that there are 120 courses doubled by two singles to 240, thus producing the whole 720 978s, three of which, of course, occur at each course-end. I took the trouble to separate the courses of the peal into the five-part table from which they were apparently formed, with the result that the table obtained proved to be a simple basis on which any five-part peal of Stedman Caters without a fixed 2ds place bell could be composed. The apparent difficulty of the method, so fatal to the productions of the early composers, was thus in reality cleared up thirty years ago.

26016 STEDMAN CATERS (H. JOHNSON, 1856).

2 3 1 4 5 6	1	4	5	6	15	16
3 6 1 5 2 4	-	-	-	-	-	-
3 5 6 1 2 4	-	-	-	-	-	-
5 4 6 2 3 1	-	-	-	-	-	-
5 2 4 6 3 1	-	-	-	-	-	-
4 6 2 1 3 5	-	-	-	-	-	-
6 5 2 3 4 1	-	-	-	-	-	-
6 3 5 2 4 1	-	-	-	-	-	-
3 1 5 4 6 2	-	-	-	-	-	-
3 4 1 5 6 2	-	-	-	-	-	-
4 2 1 6 3 5	-	-	-	-	-	-
1 2 5 3 4 6*	-	-	-	-	-	-
1 3 2 5 4 6	-	-	-	-	-	-

This part repeated, omitting the bob at 1, which must not again be called in any part of the peal, and substituting bobs at 5, 6, for the bob at 4 in the course marked *, produces 1 4 5 2 3 6. The whole then four times repeated produces 2 3 1 4 5 6. So far the composition embraces the 120 even (in-course) course-ends. To obtain the extent, substitute in the last course of the last part a single for the bob at 15 and repeat the whole, thus obtaining the 240 course-ends. From 2 3 1 4 5 6 9 7 8, bobs at 1, 2, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 16 will produce 2 3 1 4 5 6 7 8 9. If brought round at the 120 courses, the peal will be 13056.

Before passing from the consideration of compositions in the tittum position, I will call attention to a further addition which may be made to the music obtainable on Hubbard's plan of fixing the 6th in 2ds place. The best bell to have behind the 9th at the course-ends, that is in 5ths place, is, in the absence of the 6th, the 5th. With a fixed bell in 2ds place, no individual bell can be in 5ths place more than 24 courses, amounting to little more than half the peal. The question comes as to what is the best music that can be had for the rest of the composition. Now when the 5th is in treble's place we get, in the eleventh six of the course, the termination 9 7 5, the 8th being on the front. This is one of the finest positions in Caters, for here we come very close to that most beautiful of all changes on ten bells, 1 2 8 6 3 4 9 7 5 0. If, then, a peal has the 6th fixed in 2ds place and the 5th as far as possible at home and the remaining courses in treble's place, we have the most and best music it is possible to obtain with the back bells in the tittums. The following composition, rung some years ago, is a good specimen of several I obtained on this plan, and, if I recollect rightly, Mr. Pritchard, of Liverpool, subsequently produced others.

5010 STEDMAN CATERS.

1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9	4	5	16
2 6 1 4 5 3 9 7 8*	-	-	-
2 6 3 1 5 4	-	-	-

5 6 4 1 2 3	-	-	-
5 6 3 4 2 1	-	-	-
5 6 1 3 2 4	-	-	-
1 6 4 2 5 3	-	-	-
1 6 3 4 5 2	-	-	-
1 6 2 3 5 4	-	-	-
5 6 2 4 1 3	-	-	-
5 6 3 2 1 4	-	-	-
3 6 4 1 5 2	-	-	-
3 6 2 4 5 1	-	-	-
3 6 1 2 5 4	-	-	-
5 6 1 4 3 2	-	-	-
5 6 2 1 3 4	-	-	-
5 6 4 2 3 1	-	-	-
4 6 1 3 5 2	-	-	-
4 6 2 1 5 3	-	-	-
4 6 3 2 5 1	-	-	-
5 6 3 1 4 2	-	-	-
5 6 2 3 4 1	-	-	-
5 6 1 2 4 3	-	-	-

The whole repeated, calling 34, 16, instead of the going-off course, produces 5 6 3 4 1 2. Round at the last change of the six by bobs at 3 and 8. Go off with the first change of a slow six. This peal has the 5th the extent behind the 9th and the remaining 22 courses in treble's place.

* This course is called: 2, 4, 6, 10, 11, 12, 13, 16.

Up to this point I have confined myself entirely to the consideration of the Tittums position. It now remains to enquire whether any advantages can be obtained by utilizing other positions of the heavy bells. There are of course six ways of arranging them, the course-ends being as follows:—

The first column contains what may be termed the even positions while the second gives the odd ones. The positions in the second column will give precisely the same music as those in the first, but on the other stroke. Thus 789 is the home, and 879 the inverted home position, and 978 is the tittum, and 798 the inverted tittum position. The remaining two may be neglected as unmusical and worthless. At one time both in London and Birmingham the inverted tittum position obtained a measure of popularity, and for some years past the inverted home position has been steadily making its way in the latter place. I am unable to define the relative musical values of the plain and inverted positions. The effect of the course-end 978 is undoubtedly more musical than that of its invert 798, and the tittum music seems pleasanter at backstroke after the course-end than at hand before it. But, on the other hand, I certainly feel a greater satisfaction in listening to the sixes about the course-end when the bells are in the inverted home than when they are in the plain home position. Yet the same arguments should apply in the latter case, and the music at backstroke be preferable. I leave the question to the consideration of experts, merely remarking that, music apart, the inverted have one great advantage over the home positions, namely, that the bells can be brought round at hand in the six following the course-end without any broken course.

The inverted tittum and the plain home positions will not be further treated of, as the former has gone out of fashion, and the latter has scarcely ventured, since Annable's time, to show itself. We are then left with what are distinctly the two most popular positions of to-day, the tittum and the inverted home position. With peals consisting entirely of 879s I do not purpose to deal, as no valid reason can be advanced in their favour, for it may be assumed that nothing in which 978s do not take a prominent part will now meet with favour from the Exercise. A number of compositions have been rung during the past few years in which the back bells are turned from 978 to 879 at the half-way. The combination has the advantage of variety in the music and the absence of a broken course at the end of the peal, and it is with the further development of this arrangement that the remaining portion of these articles will deal.

THE ANCIENT SOCIETY OF COLLEGE YOUTHS.

On Saturday, July 25th, by the kind invitation of Miss Rosa Macalpine-Leny—an honorary member of the above society—a party of the above society paid a visit to Speldhurst. The members who took this opportunity of going were Messrs. Wood, Cooter, Dorrington, Horrex, Haworth, W. D. and G. J. Smith, Springall, Newton, Garrard, and Comb. Upon arriving at Tunbridge Wells, a conveyance was in waiting, and they were at once conveyed to Speldhurst Rectory, where they were cordially received by Miss Leny and the Rev. D. D. McKinnon and Mrs. McKinnon. Luncheon was served in the rectory, after which the tower of Speldhurst church was visited and various touches of Grandsire and Stedman Triples and Treble Bob were rung, assisted by several of the local band. In the afternoon various members availed themselves of the pleasure of inspecting the hop fields, and others by ringing handbells on the lawn of the rectory. The Hon. Secretary arrived in the course of the afternoon, and had the pleasure of joining the party. At 6 o'clock they sat down to a substantial dinner, and were also joined by the following local ringers: viz. Messrs. Still, Winn, Baker, Turley, Maynard, Pelling, Edwards, and O. Baker. After doing justice to the good things provided, Mr. Woodley proposed, and Mr. Haworth seconded, a hearty vote of thanks to their honorary member, and also to the rector and his wife for their kind hospitality, which was carried with acclamation.

Miss Leny and the Rector suitably responded, and they also expressed a hope that the company would again visit them.

Handbell ringing on the lawn filled up the remainder of the evening, and soon after 8 o'clock the London band started for home, with a parting cheer from the local ringers. Leaving Tunbridge Wells at 9 o'clock, they arrived in London soon after 10.30. A very amusing incident took place between Speldhurst and Tunbridge Wells, and which was nearly the cause of the band losing the train. The quadruped drawing the conveyance evidently did not relish drawing such a load, and took to jibbing at every incline: but owing to the admirable manner one of the band acted as conductor, that was avoided, and it certainly seemed that this gentleman was graduating in case of another strike.

CHURCH TRIP.

The Annual Excursion of the congregation attending Bishopwearmouth parish church took place on Wednesday, July 8th.

At 8 a.m. the party, numbering 316, proceeded by special train for Wetheral in Cumberland. Soon after starting the music of the handbells was heard above the noise of the train. A 6-score of Grandsire Doubles was brought round, and some familiar tunes were rung, in which the Rev. G. D. Scott took part. After passing Newcastle, however, the beautiful views on each side of the Tyne valley through which the railway passes, absorbed everybody's attention. The churches of Wylam, Cor-bridge, and Hexham Abbey were passed, and called forth remarks on the fine peal of bells which they each possess.

On reaching Wetheral the party divided, some going into the village, others crossing the river Eden to the grounds of Corby Castle, the ancestral home of the Howards.

At noon the ringers, accompanied by the rector of Bishopwearmouth (Archdeacon Long) and others proceeded by train to Carlisle. Two of the Carlisle ringers who were waiting at the station, led the way to St. Stephen's church, where there is a fine peal of eight from the Whitechapel Foundry, tenor 15 cwt.

After a hearty welcome from Mr. Churchwarden Wharton, who was at the church to receive the party, the bells were raised and a 720 Bob Minor (ten bobs and fourteen singles) was rung on the back six. R. W. Langton, 1; R. C. Hudson, 2; W. T. Robson, 3; H. G. Dawson, 4; T. Hudson, sen., 5; T. Hudson, jun. (conductor), 6.

The "Viaduct Hotel" was next visited, where a substantial dinner had been provided.

After dinner, the toast of "The Queen" having been given from the chair, a 6-score of Grandsire Doubles was rung on the handbells. The toast of the "Churchwardens of Bishopwearmouth" was then given and heartily responded to. In proposing "Our Carlisle Friends," the thanks of the visitors was expressed for the kind reception which they had experienced, and for the use of the bells. This was responded to by Mr. Jennings, who complimented the Bishopwearmouth ringers on their good striking, and he hoped it would not be long before they paid another visit to Carlisle.

The health of Mr. Hudson, sidesman of Bishopwearmouth, who occupied the chair, having been drunk, the tower bells were again set in motion. Mr. Little, of the St. Stephen's company, then led the way to the Cathedral, which was reached in time to hear the chiming for service. The bells of the Cathedral, six in number, have not been rung for 150 years.

At 4 o'clock the return was made for Wetheral, and tea was partaken of by about 260. Service was held at Wetheral church at 6 o'clock, the prayers being read by the Rev. C. T. Phillips, and the lesson by Archdeacon Long, the Rev. G. D. Scott presiding at the organ. This church contains a monument by Nollekins, said to be the finest piece of modern sculpture in England. The church tower is octagonal, and contains a good bell. The return journey was commenced at 7.15., Sunderland being reached just in time to hear the clocks of the new Town Hall and the old parish church strike the hour of ten.

THE ESSEX ASSOCIATION.

A district meeting of the above was held at Coggeshall on Saturday last, the 18th inst. Ringers began to arrive towards noon, and the fine ring of eight bells was soon going merrily. Several of the neighbouring parishes were represented, and even Ipswich sent two members from St. Mary's Tower. Various touches in different methods were rung. At 3 p.m. a portion of the ringers were conveyed in a brake to the quiet village of Great Tey, where there is a ring of eight very musical bells in the fine old Saxon tower. The drive through this well-timbered district was very enjoyable. At 5.45 a company of 20, including the secretary and the assistant secretary (the Rev. T. L. Papillon, of Writtle; and the Rev. H. Eyre, of Great Tatham), sat down to a meat tea at the "White Hart" hotel, which was very tastefully laid out by Mr. Poultou. At its conclusion a business meeting was held, and votes of thanks passed to the Vicars of Coggeshall and Great Tey for the use of the bells.

The following was done: A 720 Oxford Treble Bob. A. Chaplin (first 720 in the method with a bob bell), 1; W. Dyer (first 720 in the method with a bob bell), 2; D. Elliott, jun. (first 720 in the method with a bob bell), 3; D. Elliott, sen., 4; E. Radley, 5; J. Sadler (conductor), 6. Also 336 Bob Major. R. Potter, 1; W. Dyer, 2; D. Elliott, jun., 3; J. Nicholls, 4; J. CENTENARY CELEBRATION AT ROMSEY, HANTS.

A centenary of considerable local interest was celebrated at Romsey on Saturday, and was of a campanological character. At 5.30 a.m. all and sundry were somewhat startled by hearing the Abbey bells ring out in a merry manner, and with the exception of those few in the secret, all were wondering at the why and wherefore. Calendars were searched and fruitlessly, for no event of any great interest was noted there. Eventually it was discovered that the ringers were celebrating the centenary of the peal. These bells are eight in number, and ring out a complete musical octave. An old placard in the belfry gives the date of opening, and the names of the ringers who rung the opening changes. It reads as follows:—

"Monday, July 18th, 1791.—These bells were opened by the Society of College Youths, 5,248 'Oxford Treble Bobs' in 3h. 29m. Mr. T. Blakemore, Mr. W. Lyford, Mr. J. Povey, Mr. W. Willson, Mr. J. Holdsworth, Mr. G. Webb, Mr. E. Simmonds, Mr. S. Muggeridge."

Prior to 1791 there was a peal of six bells, but when they were first brought to the town does not seem to be known. At any rate it seems they were hung in a campanile which stood near to the eastern side of the present churchyard. In reference to this, Dr. Latham, a Romsey historian, says, "About the middle of December, 1624, the bells, which till this time were hanging in the old tower of St. Lawrence's Church, were removed to their present position in the lanthorn, as it is called, in the Abbey Church. The old belfry tower stood on the west of the present row of houses in Church-street, at the end of the gardens adjoining the present churchyard. The ground of course belongs to the parish. It seems that this belfry must have adjoined the old church of St. Lawrence, plainly showing the situation of the fabric." That the ancient parish church stood on this spot is now doubted, and this doubt is strengthened by the research of the present vicar, the Rev. E. L. Berthon. Mr. Charles Spence, of the Exeter Diocesan Architectural Society, in his history of the Abbey Church, printed by the late Mr. C. L. Lordan, and dedicated to Mr. Berthon, quotes a communication from the latter on this subject as follows:—

In replying to your last respecting the question of parish church or churches of Romsey, which I think can now be done in a much more satisfactory way than at any modern day prior to last June (1886), I will proceed to show that the church or churches of the parishioners or laity were in or attached to the Abbey Church. It is hard to prove a negative, but I believe there never was a separate church, nor did the belfry-ground, for which the churchwardens receive £1 per annum, ever contain anything besides the campanile.

His reasons for this belief are then set forth. Although the new bells were hung and opened in 1791, the old set of six were not disposed of till the next year, for the record says:—

In 1792, the six ancient bells of the Abbey Church, weighing, in the gross, 81cwt. 3qrs. 21lbs., were sold to Mr. Mears, of Whitechapel, for the sum of £360 10s. 6d., and the present peal of eight, which weigh 101cwt. 2qrs. 8lbs., were put up at a cost to the parish of £673 14s. 10d., the positive outlay, allowing for the deduction of the old bells, being £313 4s. 4d.; a transaction supposing the bells to have belonged to the nunnery, much to be deplored by all who have true love for antiquity at heart.

The present peal have to Romsey people a "language," and these different ones ring singly or couples or as a whole will quickly tell if it is a call to a fire, a vestry meeting, to prayers or full service, to call the ringers together, to announce the "curfew," or tell of a death or funeral, or if the death concerns Royalty, ringers, clergymen or churchwardens distinct from others, &c. An interesting fact in connection with this matter is that the present Captain of the bell-ringers, Mr. George Newman, has been identified and connected with the ringers for over 50 years, and although he is over 72 years of age, was able to mount to the belfry several times between 5.30 and 9 p.m., and "call" in a lusty manner the changes rung. Mr. Wheeler and Mr. J. Elcombe have also been ringers too, about 25 and 30 years respectively. The Union Jack floated on the tower all day, and an attempt was made in the same place to take the photos of the men, but the light was hardly sufficient. However, if not successful, it will be done to help make some permanent record of the Centenary of the opening of the Romsey Abbey bells.—Local Paper.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

The annual festival of this Guild took place with much success on Monday, July 20th, at Woodstock. Facilities were offered by the Great Western Railway and other companies, and about 230 members from various parts of the Diocese attended, a special train being run from Oxford at 11.35. On the arrival of the special train from Oxford, a service was held in St. Mary's Church, at which most of the members were present. A shortened form of Matins was used, the prayers being intoned by the Rev. T. E. Chataway. The Psalms selected were the 47th, 98th, and 150th. The first lesson, taken from Numbers x., 1 to 11, was read by the Rev. F. E. Robinson, and the second from I. Corinthians xiv., 1 to 16, by the Rev. Canon Foxley Norris. The hymn "O praise our God to-day," was sung before the sermon, and "Now thank we all our God," after. The preacher was the Rector (Rev. A. Majendie), who selected as his text: 1 Corinthians x., 31: "Do all to the glory of God."

Following the service a general meeting of the members was arranged to be held in the Church House, but as this was found to be too small, an adjournment was made to the playground of the National School. The Master of the Guild (Rev. F. E. Robinson) presided, and among those present were the Revs. A. Majendie, A. C. Freeborn, H. Jacob, A. H. Drummond, R. P. Newhouse, T. E. Chataway, Canon Foxley Norris, W. H. Draper, G. Duncan, A. E. Davies, J. H. Gregory, W. M. Miller, J. H. Travers, C. E. Plumb, A. L. Heigham, G. F. Coleridge, T. J. Hearn, and R. H. Hart-Davis, acting secretary and treasurer; Messrs. F. Smith (Maidenhead), Crute (Woodstock), H. D. Betteridge, Newell, C. Hill, C. Hounslow, and J. W. Washbrook. The places represented were Englefield, Padbury, Brizenorton, East Ilsley, Chipping Norton, Goring, Ducklington, Witney, Milton, Cuddington, Caversham, Reading, Thatcham, Wargrave, Maidenhead, Winkfield, Wokingham, Stone, Hughenden, Stony Stratford, Amersham, Whitchurch, Woodstock, Blaydon, Cropredy, Marlow, Tilehurst, Middleton, Kidlington, Drayton, Oxford, Finchampstead, Abingdon, Appleton, Sonning, Hagbourne, and Harwell.

The minutes of the last general meeting having been read and confirmed, the Chairman said the first business was the election of officers. He wished to do what he had always done, and that was to offer himself for re-election, or to retire. He placed himself entirely in their hands.

The Rev. A. H. Drummond observed that there could be no question that Mr. Robinson should retain the office of Master of the Guild, and he, therefore, proposed his re-election. Mr. W. Napper seconded, and the proposition was heartily adopted.

The Chairman said they were aware that they had lost the services of the secretary (Mr. Paul), under whose labours they began, under very lamentable circumstances. Leaving the office as he did, the Guild and his successor were placed in a peculiar difficulty, because he was not there to give any explanation. It was, therefore, a difficult thing to find a man ready to take up the work, and still more difficult to find an efficient man. He was happy, however, to say that they had found both in Mr. Hart-Davis, who had undertaken the work and done it in an efficient and able manner. Therefore, he was sure they could not do better than confirm his appointment as secretary and treasurer of the Guild. He was elected pro tem., and for what he had done the thanks of the Guild were most thoroughly well deserved by him.

The Rev. G. F. Coleridge (Caversham) proposed the election of Mr. Hart-Davis as secretary and treasurer. He lived within three miles of him, and the amount of work he saw him do was simply enormous. Mr. Washbrook seconded the motion, which was cordially agreed to.

The Chairman explained with reference to the appointment of the Committee that it was desired to increase the members in order to extend the interest in the Guild, and spread it more thoroughly over the diocese. There were parts of the diocese in which the Guild was little known, and it was hoped by increasing the number of the Committee that more branches would be formed.

The Rev. T. E. Chataway proposed "That the elected members and the change-ringing members on the Committee be increased in each case from 6 to 12." The Rev. A. Majendie seconded, and the motion was adopted.

The following were appointed on the Committee:—Elected members: Revs. A. H. Drummond, A. Majendie, E. Chataway, W. H. Draper, Blagden, J. Hindson, R. P. Newhouse, J. Llewelyn, H. A. Honblon, and Dr. Wood, and Messrs. A. H. Cocks, and J. M. Routh. Change-ringing members: Rev. J. H. Travers, and Messrs. H. D. Betteridge, W. Newell, J. Evans, W. Napper, C. Hounslow, J. W. Washbrook, E. Elburn, W. Lawrence, J. E. Glanville, R. Burden, and J. Allit.

Mr. Newell (Reading) had given notice of the following resolution: "That at the annual meeting of the branches, the towers should ring, a Committee being formed to judge the ringing, and to award certificates according to its merits." He remarked that he was an instructor in the deanery of Bradfield, and he found after he had given his services that there was a falling off of energy on the part of the ringers. He had, therefore, been considering what was best to be done to induce the ringers to use more energy and to cultivate the art of change-ringing. He thought it could be done in this way: At the annual meetings of the branches, after the service, one hour should be devoted to ringing, a certificate to be awarded to the best struck 120, the bells to be raised and lowered. The judge to be appointed by the Committee. In addition to that, he proposed that a peal of handbells be purchased and the winners should hold them till the following year or till they were beaten. He believed this would encourage a better class of ringing. Mr. F. Hopgood (Reading) seconded.

The Rev. A. H. Drummond spoke against the proposition, because it seemed to him the great point they wanted at the annual meetings of the branches was to keep up the spirit of harmony and unanimity which generally pervaded them. It seemed to him if they brought in an element of rivalry, such as had been suggested, it would at once produce discord. He could not separate Mr. Newell's proposition from that which he took to be very much in opposition to the minds of the greater number of the members of the Guild, namely, challenge ringing. They would introduce such a spirit as might create an unpleasant rivalry amongst the various belfries, and also the possibility of dissatisfaction amongst those who were not awarded the handbells by the judge's decision. He would propose that Mr. Newell's proposition be not put. Mr. W. Lawrence seconded.

The Rev. A. Majendie spoke in favour of Mr. Newell's proposition. He thought rivalry to a certain extent was a very good thing.

Mr. Washbrook (Oxford) considered it would be a very good thing if they could form a standard of ringing, that was that a band of ringers should receive a certificate for doing a certain thing, not in rivalry, but in order of merit. There could be first, second, and third class certificates; and when a band of ringers could ring a "120," or a touch of Triples or Caters, or whatever it might be, to the satisfaction of the judges, a certificate should be awarded.

The Rev. W. H. Draper supported Mr. Drummond's view. Mr. Newell's proposition had been made with the highest motives, and in order to do good, but he was quite sure it would be liable to lead to great difficulties in their Guild meetings.

The Rev. R. H. Hart-Davis said if Mr. Washbrook would put his suggestion into the form of an amendment he would be glad to second it, not with the view of promoting rivalry, but of raising the standard of ringing in the Guild. He thought it was only fair and right that they should have certificates for that purpose.

Mr. Drummond said in order to get over the difficulties he would make a counter amendment that the matter be referred to the Committee to consider and decide in what form certificates should be given for proficiency.

Mr. W. Napper seconded this amendment, and the Chairman having remarked that he thought it was the wiser course to take, it was adopted.

The next item on the agenda was the confirmation of a grant of £5 to St. Peter's-in-the-East, Oxford. The Chairman said the money had already been voted for Holywell bells, but the augmentation of the peal had fallen through, and now it was proposed that the money should go to St. Peter's-in-the-East, which had been increased to eight bells. He had had the pleasure of ringing on the augmented peal, and it was a very good one.

Mr. Washbrook proposed the confirmation of the grant of £5 to St. Peter's-in-the-East, remarking on the difficulty that Oxford ringers had owing to all the peals of eight and ten belonging to the colleges, and the advantage it would be to them to have a peal of eight where they could have a weekly practice.

Mr. Wilkins (Maidenhead) seconded the proposition, which was adopted.

The dinner was served in the National Schoolroom, in which the latter part of the business of the meeting was transacted owing to a shower of rain coming on. The Rev. F. E. Robinson again presided, and at the conclusion of the repast, which was provided by Mr. Bull, of "The Bear" hotel,

The Chairman proposed "The Health of the Queen," which was heartily drunk, and then gave the toast of "The Church," coupling with it the name of one of its representatives there, the Rector of Woodstock. He begged, in the name of the Guild, to thank him for his kindness in receiving them there, for the use of his church, and to thank all concerned in the beautiful service they had just heard for asking them to take part in it. He had also to propose a vote of thanks to Mr. Majendie for his excellent, sensible, and practical sermon. He wished likewise to thank the members of the choir for their services, not forgetting the organist. He had also much pleasure in mentioning the churchwarden. The members of the Guild were very much pleased with their reception at Woodstock, and they thanked all concerned for the way they had dealt with them.

The Rev. A. Majendie offered hearty thanks for the way his health had been proposed. He was sure it had given the clergy there great pleasure to receive the Guild in Woodstock Church, and he hoped the day at Woodstock would be remembered for years to come, and that they would at some future time come back again. Nothing could have given them greater pleasure than in making preparations for that meeting, and he trusted they all felt the welcome they had given was heartfelt. He begged to thank the Chairman for the way he had made mention of himself and his sermon. He spoke very plainly, but they did in these days speak plainly. He could assure them what he said came from the heart, and he hoped it would be the means of helping them all in the glorious work they had undertaken, and redound to the honour and glory of Almighty God.

The Rev. W. H. Draper proposed "Prosperity to the Guild," remarking upon the good work it had done in the Diocese. He coupled with the toast the name of their excellent Master, the Rev. F. E. Robinson.

The Master thanked them all for the kind way in which they received the mention of his name. The Guild had now existed ten years, and during that time their members had gradually increased. At present they had about a thousand members, and he hoped they had not forgotten their performances in past years. With reference to the year just gone by, he thought they must term it one of steady progress and continued usefulness. There were some things they lamented in the progress of the Guild, and one was the loss of certain gentlemen who in former years had rendered them very efficient service in the way of peal-ringing. What was chiefly in his mind was the termination of all change-ringing at Appleton, where there was a most excellent peal of ten bells. On those bells had been performed two or three of the record performances of the guild, and now change-ringing in Appleton had come to an end. In the locality where he lived they had had a falling off in those who were forthcoming to ring peals. All that was to be lamented, and he hoped some of those gentlemen who appeared to have left them would alter their minds and come back to them. All he could say was, as far as he was concerned they would have a cordial welcome in the belfry. On the other hand, there were certain satisfactory points of progress, and they had now accomplished what they had been longing for for many years, and that was a light handy peal of eight bells in the city of Oxford, independent of any college authority, and where they hoped to have reasonable permission in vacation time to ring peals; that was to say, in plain words, permission to ring a peal once a week. Then, again, he must mention that a most satisfactory point of progress had been made at Caversham, where they had not only a peal of six bells made into eight, but where they had a most efficient and hopeful band of ringers. He considered what they had already done redounded greatly to their credit. Before they had their peal of eight bells three weeks, they rang two excellent peals of Double Norwich. Might they go and prosper and succeed for several reasons, but chiefly because they had made an excellent rule that they were to ring first peals in each method with their own band. He wished to give like recognition to another band not far off Caversham, and that was the peaceful village of Hughenden, where again there was an excellent and most hopeful band. He congratulated them on the peal of Stedman Triples which was rung by their own members unassisted. That was one of the best performances by the Guild. He must also not omit to mention the neighbouring belfry of All Saints, Boyne Hill. There, again, they had the pleasing feature of peals rung by their own company without outside assistance. In all these matters they had satisfactory proofs of progress. There were places in which he would like to stimulate ambition. For instance, there was the large and important town of Reading, where there were more bells available for ringing and more practical change-ringers than in any other town in the Diocese, and yet what did they do in the way of change-ringing? He hoped another year they would give a satisfactory answer to that question. In reference to the work of their humble servant—nominally their Master, but really their obedient servant—he had been endeavouring as far as he could to fill the place of a gentleman he saw before him, their most able instructor, Mr. Washbrook, whom they were all glad to have with them that day and to see looking something like he used to. During last winter he was seriously out of health, and could not carry on his work, and had to go to the seaside to regain his strength. During his absence he (Mr. Robinson) endeavoured to do his best to fill his place. He went to one tower to practise Bob Doubles and to another to practise London Surprise, the very easiest and the very hardest. He was always ready to take part in any peal attempted by the Guild, and he was always most happy as long as he had a ring of eight bells to see any band of change-ringers there. There was one thing he wished he could make known, and that was that the Guild was prepared to help their brethren in the rectification of their belfries, in the management of their ringers, and every other way. It seemed to be almost impossible to make that understood. He learnt to his dismay on Saturday last, that an important bell-hanging job had been practically settled without a competent authority being consulted, and he greatly feared a mistake had been made. He begged them all to make it known to the clergy and churchwardens that when they were thinking of doing anything to their bells they could if they liked have competent advice, and be shown how to do the right thing in the best way. He wanted to be sent for here and there in order to give advice and help on the matter of bell-hanging and bell-ringing, and that business had rather fallen off. Speaking honestly, he thought it was because of the shyness of those concerned, who did not like to send for an honorary officer, which, of course, he was. In conclusion, he begged to repeat his thanks for the manner in which they had received the toast.

The Rev. A. H. Drummond proposed "The Health of the Secretary." Most societies with which he were acquainted were subjected to very great changes, but it seemed to him that this particular society, which was most intimately connected with changes, had little changes about it, and there had been very few changes in the staff. Mr. Hart-Davis' appointment as secretary for the Guild was one which they might, he thought, be most pleased with, and grateful to him for undertaking. At the same time, one could not help feeling that this was a change somewhat, one might say, in the minor key, because it represented a loss from amongst them of one who was a most able servant of the Guild, and one who was foremost in starting it; he meant their excellent friend, Mr. Dolben Paul, for whom he was perfectly sure all the members of the Guild must be feeling deeply. It was, of course, a great circumstance for them that in his place they had so efficient and excellent a person as Mr. Hart-Davis willing to follow him. The arrangements made by him for that festival was sufficient evidence of his energy and skill in carrying on the work of the Guild.

The Rev. R. H. Hart-Davis, in reply, announced that by the kindness of the Duke of Marlborough, the pleasure grounds were open to the members. He also mentioned that it was with great sorrow Sir George Dashwood was not with them that day, and that they had a new and excellent member of the guild in Mr. Herbert Morrell, who, had it been possible, would have been with them that day. With regard to the arrangements for that meeting, he could not possibly have carried them out himself, and by far the greater part of the praise was due to the excellent Rector of Woodstock. If the Guild was to carry out its real work it must have more branches, and they had made a great step in that direction by increasing their Committee. It would be a great pleasure to him to feel that the result of that meeting was the creation of a branch, with Mr. Majendie at its head, in the new Deanery of Woodstock. There was no branch of the Guild in the Archdeaconry of Oxford, and he thought that was a matter which ought to be remedied.

This concluded the toast list, and during the afternoon some of the members paid visits to various towers in the district, including Kirtlington, Blaydon, Cassington, Islip, Kidlington, and Stonesfield, where permission had been given to ring. Others remained in Woodstock and rang several touches on the bells, which had remained standing since the morning. Blenheim gardens were also visited, and altogether a most pleasant day was spent. The special return train left Woodstock at five o'clock.

RINGERS' OUTING.

On Saturday, June 27th, the ringers and friends connected with St. John's, Deptford, had their annual outing, the place selected being Brasted, a little village situated between Westerham and Sevenoaks. The party left St. John's station at 8.15, and arrived at Brasted soon after 9. Some of the young members at once made for the church, where hangs a pretty peal of six, tenor 12 cwt. Permission having been previously obtained, several 6-scores of Grandsire were rung, and an attempt was made for a 720 of Minor. The bells were then set up at backstroke, and a walk was indulged in to Sandridge Church, in the tower of which hangs a very musical peal of six, tenor 18 cwt. Permission having been freely given, some 6-scores were rung. These bells require a lot of pulling. Dinner was the next thing to be thought of; and after thanking the Vicar, the party returned to the "Stanhope Arms," Brasted, where a capital repast awaited them, to which ample justice was done. After dinner some of the party caught the train to Westerham, where hangs a peal of eight, tenor about a ton. After some delay in getting permission and splicing and fixing a rope, some 6-scores were rung with 4 6 8 covering. After a look round the town the party returned to tea: after which the Brasted tower was again visited, and a 480 Grandsire Doubles were rung. W. Weatherstone (conductor), 1; H. Davis, 2; A. Davis, 3; F. Davis, 4; J. E. Davis, 5; W. J. Jeffries, 6. Also a 720, with E. E. Richards (3), and J. Laws (4), conducted by J. E. Davis, each 120 called differently. After a few courses of Bob Minor, the bells were lowered in peal, and the rest of the evening spent in harmony. The 9.45 train landed them safely home shortly before midnight, they having spent a most enjoyable day. The ringers wish, through the medium of "THE BELL NEWS," to thank the vicars and steeplekeepers at the different churches for the use of the bells.

STRETTON GRANDISON, HEREFORDSHIRE.

On Sunday, July 12th, six members of the Worcester company visited this tower, enjoying a drive of eighteen miles through a beautiful stretch of scenery, and rang 720 Grandsire Minor in 25 mins. H. Young, 1; F. Owen, 2; B. Hill, 3; R. Horton, 4; W. Page (conductor), 5; E. Davis, 6. Also several other touches. Upon arrival the churchwarden kindly supplied them with refreshments, and while ringing the rector visited the tower and expressed his pleasure at meeting a band of change-ringers in his tower; he also generously invited them to tea at the rectory, which was very much enjoyed by all. It was originally intended to make a call at Cradley for a ring, but upon application they were refused, because they lived outside the diocese and county of Hereford. Surely here is room for work by the Hereford County Association.

The Bell News & Ringers' Record.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 1, 1891

THE Oxford Diocesan Guild has just held a most successful meeting in the ancient town of Woodstock. In the report of this meeting, which is given on another page, ample material is afforded for comment and reflection. The sermon by the worthy vicar of Woodstock (the Rev. A. MAJENDIE)—for which we regret being unable to find room—was most appropriate, and no doubt was heard with great attention. If we may presume, not to offer suggestions, but, with all humility, to throw out a hint for the clergy on these occasions, it would be the avoidance as far as possible of the references to the lives which ringers in the remote past are said to have led, and the condition in which they kept their belfry and used their bells. That such a topic is becoming threadbare we venture, with all deference, to submit. We believe such evil days are over, at any rate, they are now few and far between, and periodical allusion to them is apt, at the present, to cause unrest and disquietude, without any countervailing advantage for good. We are led to imagine that the unseemly behaviour of ringers, in many cases, forms a strong indictment against the clergy themselves, for riotous conduct in the belfry, ringing the bells when a favorite horse had been successful in a race, and such-like proceedings, would never have taken place, even in the old days, if they had thought as much of the tower and its management as they ought to have done. It is with very great reluctance that we refer to this, because we are among the last to entertain the bare idea of suggesting to a preacher what he should utter or abstain from. We hope the day may never arrive for an English clergyman to feel that when in the pulpit he must merely please his hearers, or refrain from reproving them when he is divinely moved to do so. The topic we are alluding to has, however, been somewhat frequently dealt with, especially of late, so much so that its repeated iteration is likely to defeat the very object sought for. And here, upon this subject, our observations end.

The speech of the Rev. the Master of the Guild was highly characteristic. A more energetic Master in the art and practice of ringing than the Rev. F. E. ROBINSON, no other ringing Guild possesses, and it is not too much to say that as long as life lasts he will be found at his post. He has now become such a prominent feature of the Exercise, that without him a great void would be felt by all classes of ringers. We have given his speech at the meeting in full, almost, and those who are acquainted with Mr. ROBINSON will agree with us in our designation of it, viz.: "characteristic." Mr. ROBINSON, is, we find considered the authority to refer to in the diocese of Oxford when bell-founding or bell-hanging is to be undertaken. And a very good authority, too. It is getting quite the fashion for many of the clergy to take advice—when any repairing or augmentation of bells is required—from those of their brethren who are practical ringers. We cannot object to the fashion. But in this there lies a danger, against which these and all other advisers should be guarded: and that is, unwittingly becoming advocates, or to put it vulgarly, "touts," for this firm or the other of bell-founders or bell-hangers. We are not in the least saying that those gentlemen who are ready with competent advice upon bells have really become the champions of this or that firm; we only refer to the danger which there is in becoming so, unknowingly, and we speak not without book upon the subject. Perhaps it is best to always decline the mentioning the name of any one firm, especially when there are several under consideration of equal repute.
