At the close of the meeting, a hearty vote of thanks was proposed by Mr. George, and seconded by Mr. Ben Gough, to the venerable and respected Vicar of Sedgley, Dr. Swindell, for kindly granting permission to hold the meeting at Sedgley, also for his eloquent address, the use of the tower and bells and schoolroom. Thanks were also accorded to his assistant priest for his part in the service; to the organist; to the ladies for preparing and serving the tea; and last, but not least, to the genial towerkeeper, Mr. Ben Fullwood, for having everything in readiness; and the trouble that he had taken in making the necessary arrangements for the successful meeting.

The Vicar briefly replied, on behalf of all concerned, and this brought another happy meeting to a close.

THE HISTORY OF RINGING. PREPARE FOR THE COMING HISTORIAN!

To the Editor.

Sir,—With sincere interest, I have read that column headed 'The History of Ringing,' and with the Editor I heartily agree that the historian should have 'ALL available information.' On the same subject I agree with our friend, Mr. J. A. Trollope, but, only so far! Of course, one is fully alive to the fact that the writer of 'Notes by the Way' is advancing a suggested way out of the difficulty, of providing material to work upon. Personally, I am adverse to half-measures, and if we are to have a good sound 'History of Ringing,' let's have it. No mincing will do. Let us have 'all available information.' In my humble opinion, what we want, first of all, is a complete register of ALL peal tablets, those put up to-day, and those put up centuries ago, blend the old with the new. As a case in point, I am aware of the existence of a peal tablet, upon which two peals are recorded, one has been painted out (or over), and a later peal recorded in place of the first on that board. At the moment I cannot give the date when the latter of the two peals was inscribed, but the tablet is not 100 miles from where I pen these lines. The first peal recorded (now blotted out) is to all intents and purposes lost, but is it? If my memory serves me aright, I believe it is possible to decipher practically the whole of the former record, as the lettering stands out somewhat in relief. Now, sir, with a bit of trouble that could be saved to posterity, and if the job is to be done, let it be done! 'No half-inching,' no leaving off at a given date. It won't do, because 'half-inch' jobs are never satisfactory, and it only makes a hash of things.

When Billy the Conqueror sent out his Norman scribes with penny notebooks, he said to them (I and only one of those ordinary ringers, or I might have given it in Norman French): Billy said (it fits in very nicely what you said, Mr. Editor, about the ALL); 'make me a register of ALL English lands, give me the size of EACH estate, tell me whether it is divided into arable, pasture, meadow, or whether it is woodland; ascertain the name of the lord who holds sway; tell me how many ploughs and oxen he has, furnish me with the number of soke-men, villans and borders who bend the knee to him, and don't forget to record whether a church exists on the lord's estate.'

Evidently the Royal Commissioners' scribe caused these questions to be traced out very narrowly, for not one single hide, nor one yard of land, nor an ox, nor a cow, nor a swine, was left, that was not set down in his writ. When these writings were placed before the Royal Billy, he again gave orders. What for? For their preservation. He said in effect, 'Look here, chaps—Quanti Emptum?' and the chaps said, 'Nay! nay! Bill, you are the "Kinkering Kong," and it signifieth not to thee at what price they were bought—what shall us do with 'em?' And Bill said, 'Preserve those two vellum manuscripts, because one of these fine days an historian will be BORN, and when he is born, and comes along of his own free will and accord, let him delve into the musty pages of that one in folio, and further let him revel in the quarto manuscript, which that "non stop Twain" (Time and Tide) have now tinged with mellowing hints of antiquity.'

Yes, sir, Billy said, 'Bring all information,' and he got it. Now, then, the historian to the Exercise must be born—most assuredly they are not made. One never knows, we might have a fellow pop up that was born at, say, 'Gallows Inn, Kensington,' or he might originate from 'Pimlico.' I knew an historian that came from 'COSSER.' He was the humble son of a miner. He didn't receive a 'Varsity education.' No, sir, it was there! inherited, not acquired. Don't worry, sir. I am not in the least apprehensive. The historian will come, and when he does come, it will be of his own free will—it's no use advertising for those blokes. Historians are funny fellows; deep strange feelings creep thro' and thro' the innermost chambers of their souls; they lift themselves out of themselves, and amid the mists of centuries they make friends with those who have gone before. We ordinary ringers can't conceive how they feel the 'changes' hurrowing in the arcaum of their spirits. 'In and out of course' they go, one EVEN one ODD, in proper sequence, no muddling in their noddles. No, sir, the historian's noddle is 'clear,' and it's brimful of a splendour of a copious imagery. He will have no need, or occasion, to swallow 'a dictionary'! No, sir, his powerful pregnancy of thought he will convey to paper. 'ALL collated facts' will be the great fundamental upon which he will stand to build his monument.

In terse incisive language his thoughts will clothe again the fleshless bones of ALL campanists, GREAT and SMALL, who have passed into the great vortex of eternity; from amid the quicksands of time he will dig up secrets that are buried centuries deep. Ah! and what is more, when a real historian comes along, it is logical to assume that he will have to possess a versatility of genius almost Shakespearean. It is up to us commonplace ringers to prepare as fully as we can for the time when the historian asks for this and that! We are, as a body, responsible; as a fraternity we should collate 'ALL available information' in formulating our 'Domesday Book'; or, better phrase still, a 'Georgian inventory of peal tablets,' even as the Royal Commissioners compiled an inventory of All Church Goods in Edwardian times. On that occasion the King's officers obtained the information from the incumbents and churchwardens. Now I hold the view that it is not a Royal Commission that is needed alone, it should be both Royal and Loyal! Ringers of to-day are classified as church officials. Let a commission be appointed to make inquiries of not sundry, but ALL existing peal tablets. Then let the church officials (ringers) in every tower in the land give a true and concise return of ALL tabulated records, no casting aside, not knowing or caring who 'Jimmy Deville' was, or what he did; that won't do. As a case in point, sir, this poor 'Deville' might be an associate of His Satanic Majesty by the way he is cast aside, and out! On the other hand, sir, this 'Deville' might have been one of those 'Develles' who cared not for the limelight; it is possible that this said 'Deville' did yeoman service by putting his shoulder to the wheel of campanology. Yes, sir, it is possible for this 'Deville' to have fanned into flame the smouldering torch of campanistic art in the locality of Hammersmith, and who knows? whether or not that said torch (which 'Deville' lit) is burning with a brilliance in the hands of some present-day ringer? and who knows, this 'Deville' may have sat up o' nights—like our great composers do—burning the midnight oil (or drinking it) to keep him awake while he wrote soliciting voluntary subscriptions for an augmentation, or a recasting! These things do happen, and are accomplished facts, and go to build up the history of ringing.

Thurstan built up his own monument in his masterpiece, so did Wag Middleton. Both these worthies surely would fill a page in the history of ringing, and I ask, is it logical to indiscriminately cast aside this poor 'Deville,' who—we are assuming now—also built up a tangible monument, which is handed on to us, just as the compositions of Thurstan and Middleton are passed on to us, and all to further 'our art.'

No, sir, we must have 'ALL available information,' and not cast aside this 'Deville'—or any other. Casting aside this, or that, because it looks uninviting or uninteresting, is what I shall call 'CAM-PANILLOGICAL'! and rightly so, 'becos we can't cast out Deville?' But, go to. We must have this history, and I agree it can be written; yes, sir, it can, in lots of fashions. One is good, a second is bad, and a third is indifferent. The former is what we want, and what we must prepare for; we must be content to collate ALL information and await the coming of the historian, who will have the greater work, the greater pain, and the greater joy, and in the end, he (the historian) will have 'ALL' the Glory! a public funeral, and, perhaps, a fine marble tomb.

IRENÆUS.

AN ECCLESFIELD CELEBRATION.

MR. WILLIAM TURTON HONOURED.

On Saturday, August 29th, Mr. William Turton, of Ecclesfield, attained his 75th birthday, and also completed 52 years' service as a change ringer at Ecclesfield Parish Church.

To celebrate this dual event, members of the local company, together with ringing associates from Sheffield, attempted a peal of Oxford Treble Bob Major at the tower of this well-known 'Minster of the Moors,' but after an hour's excellent ringing, it unfortunately came to grief.

Mr. Turton was by profession a hand file cutter, a trade which owing to the constant improvements in machinery, is fast passing away, but to those who have seen such men use their chisel and hammer with such dexterity, patience and accuracy, it is no wonder that they are good strikers in change ringing. Their sense of touch and hearing habitually with them in daily toil, is also manifested when in the tower.

The esteem and regard by which 'Old Bill' (as he is known to both residents and outside friends) is held, was clearly demonstrated at a dinner held at the Black Bull Hotel on Saturday evening, at which his five sons, members of the local company and friends, and other ringing friends from the Sheffield area, were present. The bracing air of Ecclesfield evidently put everyone in good form, square after square of Yorkshire pudding being served with speedy repetition: meat, heart, vegetables and onion sauce, assisted with the usual 'wash-me-down,' made a very enjoyable repast.

A jovial evening followed, the visiting ringers, along with Mr. G. Lewis, of Ecclesfield, giving an excellent course of Grandfire Caters on the handbells, while during the evening, the Ecclesfield Glee Party rendered in fine fashion quartettes and songs of a popular and appreciated nature. Mr. F. Willey, who was unable to be present, sent his best wishes to all the company present, and in accordance with his request, the Glee Party sang that well-known melody, 'The Soldier's Farewell,' which all but moved 'Old Bill' to tears.

Various speeches were made, and it was evident, when 'lights out' was signalled (all too soon), that everyone had enjoyed a very happy time, and if friendships and handshakes are anything to go by, Mr. Turton can consider himself well on the way to being a rich man.

WETHERSFIELD'S RESTORED BELLS.
ESSEX ASSOCIATION MEETING.

A very successful meeting of the Northern District of the Essex Association was held at Wethersfield on Saturday, Sept. 5th, when 30 ringers braved the inclement weather to attend. The parishioners have, during the past few years, had their massive tower thoroughly renovated, a new bell frame put in, and the bells retuned and rehung, this latter part of the work having been entrusted to Messrs. Mears and Stainbank, who have done the work splendidly. The tone and 'go' of the bells gives the greatest satisfaction. The whole restoration was accomplished at a cost of £1,500, which was really a remarkable undertaking for a country village.

The bells were set going about 3 p.m., and the usual service was held, the Vicar giving a very helpful address. He pointed out that amongst all the changes of generations, the old towers with their bells, were always the same, sending out their message all down the ages. The preacher pointed out that ringers were a band of men pulling together, and from this he drew many lessons.

After the service the ringers had tea in the Village Hall, the Vicar occupying the chair, supported by Mr. C. H. Howard, Master of the Association; Mr. W. J. Nevard, District Master, North-Eastern Division; Mr. L. W. Wiffen, District Master; and Mr. W. H. Dyson, district secretary, when the following parishes were represented, viz.: Earls Colne, Feering, Greenstead Green, Sawston, Fulbourne, Wethersfield, Springfield, Rayne, Great Bardfield, Great Bentley, Maldon, Halstead, Sible Hedingham.

Mr. L. W. Wiffen presided over the business meeting, at which a hearty vote of thanks was accorded the Vicar for granting the use of the bells, for taking the service, and for his helpful and inspiring address.—This was moved by Mr. C. H. Howard, and seconded by the district secretary.

The Vicar, in replying, said it gave him the greatest possible pleasure to welcome the members at that, the first meeting of the association, held at Wethersfield. He was also very pleased to hear the favourable opinions expressed by practical ringers upon the work they had done in connection with the tower and the bells, and he hoped they would hold another meeting there before very long.

After the meeting, a number of touches were rung on the hand-bells, whilst others returned to the tower to ring, and also to give a help to the newly-formed young band of ringers.

During the day the following methods were rung, viz.: Bob Minor Oxford, Kent, London Surprise, Cambridge Surprise, Woodbine, New London, Double Court and Grandsire.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

A combined ringing practice for the Sonning Deanery Branch was held at Sonning on Saturday evening, Sept. 5th. Fourteen members attended from Bucklebury, St. Lawrence's, Reading, Wokingham, Twyford, Hurst, Waltham St. Lawrence, and Sonning. The methods practised were Grandsire Doubles, Grandsire Triples and Stedman Triples.

A very useful combined six-bell practice by the East Berks and South Bucks Branch was held on Saturday, August 29th, at Chalfont St. Giles, Bucks. The bells were raised in peal at 4 o'clock, and (with the exception of the interval for tea) were kept going in various methods from Grandsire Doubles to Cambridge Surprise Minor until 8.30. Eighteen ringers took part, from Watford, Rickmansworth, Amersham, St. Andrew's, Uxbridge, Slough, the local company, and Fulmer. The Bucks ringers much appreciate the kindly help given to them on this occasion by their friends from Hertfordshire and Middlesex, thus helping to make it a very successful meeting.

MUFFLED BELLS.

At St. John's Church, Leytonstone, on Friday, August 14th, with the bells half-muffled, 240 Bob Minor. Also 720 York Surprise. E. Butler 1, W. Theobald 2, J. Moule 3, G. Avery 4, W. Miller (conductor) 5, E. Smith 6. Rung as a last token of respect to Dorothy Kathleen, daughter of Mr. A. Prior, the respected Master of the South-Western Division of the Essex Association, who was interred in the City of London Cemetery on that day.

At Great Yarmouth, on Tuesday evening, the 18th inst., as a token of respect to the memory of the late Mr. E. W. Worledge (four times Mayor of Yarmouth), the Parish Church company, assisted by Mr. W. Steed, of Tonbridge, rang a half-muffled touch, consisting of 918 Grandsire Caters, in 40 minutes: F. Pestell 1, W. Harwood 2, H. Hammonds 3, W. Arnold 4, W. Steed 5, D. Hayward 6, H. Wright 7, E. Kelt 8, W. Lee 9, H. Jermy 10.

SHREWSBURY.—On August 27th, at the Church of St. Michael, 720 Cambridge Surprise Minor: A. J. Trappitt 1, C. Lee 2, W. Shortland 3, J. E. Lilley 4, C. R. Lilley 5, W. B. Kynaston 6. The first 720 Surprise on the bells.—On Sept. 6th, at St. Chad's, 360 Double Court. Also 240 Kent, as above.—On Sept. 1st, at St. Julian, 240 Cambridge Surprise.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD FESTIVAL.To the Editor.*

Dear Sir,—I think Mr. R. R. Lewis's suggestion a good one, and that the real opinion of members of the Guild should be ascertained by holding the annual festival on August Bank Holiday, when the working man ringer would, for once, be able to have a voice in the matter. Only a small minority of Guild members at present is able to attend the business meeting.

Personally I have always favoured the idea of having the meeting in the three Archdeaconries in rotation, but last year at Reading I doubted the wisdom of it, in so far that there were only really four towers available for ringing, and many ringers could not get a pull unless very persistent. In fact, when I took off my coat in one tower I was practically told by a member of the Guild Committee that I had better put it on again unless able to ring Superlative or Cambridge.—Yours, etc.,

GUILD MEMBER.

DARTFORD LITTLE BOB.To the Editor.*

Dear Sir,—In the report of the Records Committee of the Central Council, published in your issue of June 26th, Dartford Little Bob Major is given among methods rung for first time. Perhaps it was a slip, but I was not aware the Council kept any records of 'illegitimate' methods.—Yours truly,

J. HUNT.

Taunton.

M.C.A.'s PROPOSED NEW RULES.

The efforts which are being made by members of the Midland Counties Association to revise the rules, and in so doing to decentralise the management of the society, are likely to meet with considerable opposition in some quarters. Those who are pressing the change are desirous of giving the districts full control over a certain portion of their funds, instead of putting the whole into one pool out of which all expenses come. This plan is followed in a good many associations, which carry on the district system, and it has been found by experience to be a practical method of administration.

The Midland Counties Association is blessed with the possession of substantial funds, and there are members who feel that, under the circumstances, they ought to receive benefit by the reduction of the amount of their subscriptions. As the annual contribution is but one shilling and sixpence, any reduction can benefit the individual only to an infinitesimal extent. Would it not be wiser, therefore, if the surplus funds were expended in extending the art of ringing by enlarging the scope of the association's activities? There are various directions in which this might be done, but the reduction of members' subscriptions strikes us as being a principle having a directly opposite tendency. As we understand it, the object of those who seek to get the rules altered is that the various districts may have greater opportunity of initiative and development along their own lines, and those who oppose the change should weigh carefully the question whether the work of the association will be best served by greater decentralisation under the new proposals, or by a reduction of their own yearly contribution, which at best would put sixpence per annum into each member's pocket.

Nowhere are the times more difficult than in the industrial Midlands, and if the view is held that under present circumstances it would be better to help individual members, even by so small a sum, would it not be a still more valuable scheme if each district out of its own funds, paid the entire contribution of those members who, through the present trade depression, are really deserving of assistance? We put these broader views before the members of the M.C.A., because we believe that the true interests of the art are best served by seeing how much we can put into it, rather than by discussing how mean a sum an association can exist upon. Whether the placing of funds under control of the respective districts will serve the purpose better than keeping them in a common pocket is for the members to decide, but the M.C.A. has a fine opportunity, with the funds

DEVON GUILD.

The North-East Branch of the Devon Guild had a very successful meeting at Oakford last Saturday. The members greatly appreciated the presence of two distinguished guests, namely, the Rev. Maitland Kelly, who was staying at the Rectory, Oakford, and Canon G. F. Coleridge, who cycled many miles in order to attend the meeting. Forty-two ringers were present, most towers in the branch being represented, and in addition there were visitors from Chipstable, Milverton, Tallant and Ryde.

The Rev. G. E. F. Molineux took the chair at the meeting, and also performed the arduous duties of Ringing Master, in the unavoidable absence of the Rev. E. J. Barton (chairman) and Mr. J. Elsworth (Branch Ringing Master).

Tiverton was chosen for the annual meeting, to be held on Saturday, December 12th.

A vote of thanks was passed to the Vicar for the use of the bells and church; to the organist; to the local ringers; and to the ladies who helped with the tea.

Later in the evening, the Rev. Maitland Kelly and other ringers paid a visit to Stoodleigh tower. The bells were much praised, and touches of Grandsire and Stedman Doubles and Bob Minor were successfully brought round.

During the afternoon three members qualified for their certificates, and a new member was elected to the branch.

EXETER DISTRICT.

A quarterly meeting of the Exeter District Branch was held at Crediton on Saturday, September 5th. About 50 members, representing 12 bands, and several visitors, including the Rev. M. Kelly (ex-President) and Canon Boles, were present. There was service in the parish church of the Holy Cross, and an interesting address was given by the Vicar (the Rev. H. C. Onslow), who mentioned that a very old custom was kept up at Newark-on-Trent, called ringing for 'Gopher,' which originated through a traveller having lost his way in Sherwood Forest until, guided by the sound of Newark bells, he was able to find his way out. As a thankoffering, he left an endowment to the church to have the bells specially rung at sunset on six of the twelve Sundays before Christmas in case any other wanderer might be in a similar predicament.

Tea was held in the Church Institute, and at a business meeting afterwards three honorary members—Archdeacon Surtees, the Revs. H. C. Onslow and K. A. Lake—were elected. St. Sidwell's (Exeter) was chosen as the place for the annual meeting on December 5th.

Touches of Grandsire and Stedman Triples and Bob Major were rung at Crediton, and the towers of Newton St. Cyres, Shobrooke, and Sandford were visited. The bands represented were St. Sidwell's, St. David's, St. Thomas and Heavitree (Exeter), Newton St. Cyres, Christow, Crediton, Thorverton, Sowton and Woodbury.

Votes of thanks were passed to the Vicar and the organist of Crediton.

DURHAM & NEWCASTLE ASSOCIATION.

A very successful meeting of the Eastern District of this Association was held at Sunderland on Saturday, Sept. 5th. Members were present from Newcastle, Whitley Bay, South Shields, Houghton-le-Spring, Durham, Chester-le-Street, and the three local towers. Several touches of Superlative, Double Norwich, Kent Treble Major, Stedman and Grandsire were brought round at Bishopwearmouth, Holy Trinity, and St. Ignatius Churches, and an excellent tea was provided in the Parish Hall of the latter church.

Mr. R. L. Patterson presided at a short meeting afterwards, and welcomed two distinguished visitors—the Rector of Bishopwearmouth (Prebendary A. B. Wynne-Willson), and Mr. C. T. P. Brice, of Pulham St. Mary, Norfolk, who is at present engaged in the restoration work at Durham Castle.—The Rector, in responding, said he did so with a feeling of shame, as he had learnt the art of ringing in his young days, and had not kept it up as he would have liked to do.

Mr. J. W. Parker proposed a vote of thanks to the clergy for the use of the bells, and Major Hudson expressed the thanks of the meeting to the ladies who had presided at the tea.

The next meeting was arranged to be held at Jarrow on Dec. 5th.

LAWTON RINGERS' OUTING.

On Saturday, August 15th, the ringers of Lawton, Cheshire, with their wives and friends, had their half-day charabanc trip. The first stop was at Gawsorth, where touches of Grandsire Triples were rung by some, while the rest of the party had a look round. The lovely old church and surroundings were much admired. After staying an hour, a move was made for New Mills, which was reached about 4 p.m. Here the party were met by Mr. Ramsey, of New Mills, and Mr. J. P. Fidler, of Norbury, who gave the Lawton ringers a hearty welcome. With the help of Mr. Fidler, the bells were raised, and touches of Kent Treble Bob Major and Stedman Triples were brought round. Tea was partaken of, and the party then went on to Marple, where they were met by Mr. Fernley, of Norbury. Touches of Kent Minor Oxford and Kent spliced, Woodbine and Plain Bob were rung on this heavy peal of six, with the help of Mr. Fernley and Mr. Fidler. After viewing the fine scenery from this old church, a start was made for home, which was reached about 10.30. The Lawton ringers would like to take this opportunity of thanking the clergy of the respective churches, and the local ringers, especially Mr. Fidler, Mr. Fernley and Mr. Ramsey, for making the outing such a success.

TEWKESBURY DEANERY EXCURSION.

An outing by charabanc by ringers of the Tewkesbury Deanery took place on August 9th. Leaving Tewkesbury at 1.30 p.m., the first stop was made at Ledbury, where the fine peal of eight was soon going to Grandsire Triples. After several touches had been rung and the bells lowered, a move was made to Ross, which was reached at 5.15 p.m. There again the tower was visited, and Grandsire and Stedman Triples and Bob Major were rung. After tea the return journey was made via Gloucester, halting at the latter tower to allow Mr. J. Austin, who had accompanied the party, to alight. The ringers wish to express their thanks to the Vicars of both towers for the use of the bells; also to the towerkeepers for having everything in readiness, and to Mr. J. Clark for arranging tea.

BRIDGEND RINGERS' 240 MILES TRIP.

On Tuesday, August 4th, the ringers of Bridgend journeyed by charabanc to Carmarthen and Aberystwyth. Leaving Bridgend at 6.45 a.m., Carmarthen was reached just before nine. After light refreshments, the tower was visited. Everything was in readiness, but the bells were muffled, as the funeral of the wife of one of the churchwardens was to take place that day. Unfortunately these bells require the services of the bell hanger, so a very little ringing was sufficient. The party then set out for Aberystwyth, this part of the journey was much enjoyed, many miles of it being along the coast of Cardigan Bay. Arriving at the destination somewhat behind time, tracks were made for Fellow's Cafe, where dinner was partaken of. The afternoon was spent in sightseeing, and everyone wished they could have spent more time at this lovely seaside resort, which is well worth a visit. After tea, Llanbadarn Fawr was on the programme. This tower is quite close to Aberystwyth, and contains a lovely peal of eight bells, which have recently been rehung and 'go' well. Time went all too quickly in short touches of Grandsire. The return journey was started about 7.30, and home was reached in the small hours of the morning, everyone having spent a very enjoyable day. The distance covered was about 240 miles, 'some ride.' The ringers' best thanks go to the Vicars of Carmarthen and Llanbadarn for the use of the bells.

A HEREFORDSHIRE TRIP.

The Holmer (Hereford) ringers, accompanied by the Guild Ringing Master (Mr. C. Edwards) and Messrs. A. W. Davis, H. Hurcombe and W. H. Symonds, of the Hereford Cathedral Band, had a most enjoyable outing on July 18th in ideal weather. Leaving Hereford at 8.15 a.m. by charabanc, the route was through Ledbury to Eastnor, where the six bells were raised in peal, and Grandsire, Stedman Doubles and Bob Minor rung. After an hour's ringing the drive continued through the Deer Park to British Camp, the Master having obtained special permission from Lord Somers to go through this delightful private drive. The subsequent route was via Jubilee Drive, Wych Cutting and Great Malvern to Madresfield. In the absence of Mr. R. Knowles, the Vicar kindly met the party at the church here, and, after ringing on the well-gonged six, the Vicar offered to take the party for a hurried walk through part of the gardens of Madresfield Court, the residence of Earl Beauchamp. The maize was the centre of attraction. The idea of walking through it without getting lost was new to the party, but all answered the subsequent roll call.

Powick was the next call. Here the tenor is 23 cwt., and the 'go' of the bells very indifferent. A few 120's and a course of Minor, with the Sampson of the party on the tenor, were rung. At Worcester an excellent lunch was partaken of at the 'Pig and Whistle' Hotel, and then the tour was continued to Tenbury Wells, where a short stay was made for a pull on the light peal of six. Ludlow was the next stop for tea, and a look round, but there was no ringing, owing to the Ludlow district having a quarterly meeting at Bramfield. At Leominster Mr. J. Worey, Secretary of the Leominster district, met the party, who, after getting the hack eight up in peal, rang touches of Grandsire Triples and Caters, also a touch of Bob Major. Leaving Leominster at 9.30, Holmer was reached at 10.15, everyone having thoroughly enjoyed the day's outing.

NOTES BY THE WAY.

THE OLD NORWICH CONTROVERSY.—SOME OF THE MEN.
By J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

Thomas Melchior and the Mancroft band had rung their peal of Stedman, but this was by no means the end of the matter. For one thing, the peal had not been faultless—no peal ever is. Once or twice there had been rough places, and we all know by experience that what, inside the tower, is but a trip, to the hostile critic outside is downright firing. Then the sixth had given trouble, as was expected. You may be certain that Melchior had put his best man on that bell, and, to make further sure, he had a ninth man in the tower who could act as umpire, and, if necessary, lend a helping hand. It was necessary; the sixth man had to be relieved, to what extent does not appear.

Now you will remember that Melchior in his advertisement of Oct. 31st, 1731, declared rather ostentatiously that the peal was rung by himself and seven others; which was rather asking for trouble if the truth should leak out, as it was pretty sure to do.

The ringer of the sixth was John Forster, or Foster, Melchior's right-hand man, host of the 'Eight Bells,' the headquarters of the Mancroft party. The house has long since disappeared or changed its name.

A few years later, Theodore Ecclestone, a Suffolk gentleman, living at Crowfield, gave a peal of eight to his neighbouring village of Coddenham. Searching about for someone to teach a band of ringers he came to Norwich, and engaged the services of John Forster, who was so successful an instructor that a peal of Grandsire Triples was rung on September 10th, 1741. Ecclestone rang the treble, and Forster the third, and conducted the peal. One of the reasons, no doubt, why Forster was induced to leave Norwich was that he was an innkeeper. An innkeeper's trade is much the same thing all the world over, but a craftsman weaver, or such like, who left the town for the country, would have to sacrifice his livelihood.

Soon after, Theodore Ecclestone sold his estate at Crowfield, and his ringers were dispersed. Forster went to Lincoln, where he called another peal of Grandsire Triples at St. Peter-at-Arches on June 20th, 1756. These two peals are described on their boards as Garthrine's Triples and Calharan's Triples, both being phonetic spellings of John Garthorn's name.

The man who helped Forster in the Mancroft peal was a still more notable person. This was John Webster. He had rung the tenor to the 1718 peal, and the 4th to the 10,080 of Treble Bob at St. Michael's in 1727, and afterwards became the leading man among Norwich ringers.

About 1753, John Holt, having composed his well-known peals of Grandsire Union and Plain Bob Triples, was desirous of publishing them; but being a poor man, and not able to do so at his own expense, started a subscription for the purpose. Now Holt belonged to the Union Scholars, a small affair compared with the College Youths, who comprised the big men among the London ringers. The great Mr. Annable was the autocratic leader of the College Youths, and he was not altogether pleased that an unlettered and obscure man should have succeeded where he had failed. So he cold-shouldered the proposal, and Holt had to turn from London to the provinces for support. He secured the help of the Rev. D. Mason, of Trinity College, Cambridge, who in turn wrote to John Webster asking for the subscriptions of the Norwich ringers. But the Norwich ringers were much of the same mind as Ben Annable. They had their own traditions and their own peals, which they considered were as good as anyone else's, and Webster's reply was a polite but decided refusal. Here it is:—

'Norwich, August 27th, 1753.

'Reverend Sir,—I desire you'll excuse my not Subscribing to a Work which I have some Reason to fear will not answer to Expectation. I must Confess Our Company Seem Intirely to slight it, though I must Own it is not a Generous Way of Treating Mr. Holt's performance, but I believe they are Induc'd to this by that Ingenious Ringer, Mr. Anable's, not Encouraging of it; had he Approved of it, his influence on the Colledge Youths, I presume, would have been sufficient to have sent it to the Press without any Further Subscriptions.

'Revd. Sir, Give me leave to Observe to you that 'tis almost twenty years since I sent to the Rev. Mr. Windhall a whole peal of Ten with Two Inferior Changes only, Fully Explaining by an Infalible rule how to make any proper peal on all numbers that go with a Quick Hunt,

'For self and Co., I am, Sir,

'With due respect, your most

'Humble servant,

'JOHN WEBSTER.'

The letter is a most interesting one in many ways, and gives a very favourable impression of the writer. The last paragraph is obscure, but taken in its context, seems to be a claim that Norwich had forestalled Holt's achievement by some years. I know of no other evidence that Webster was a composer. Whatever he did has utterly perished, and you may take up the attitude that Shipway did toward all the Norwich peals. Everyone, he said, knows and rings Holt's peals, but who knows anything about the peals supposed to have been composed and rung at Norwich? If they were true and what they were claimed to be, why did not men preserve the figures? Well, of course, the reason is that the London men had the advantage that they had men who wrote and printed books, and so preserved the figures of their peals. Unfortunately, the old Norwich men printed nothing, and save for Garthorn's Grandsire Triples, the figures of all their early peals have perished.

John Webster met his death in a rather tragic way from heart failure, after ringing at St. Giles. A stone tablet in the tower is inscribed as follows:—

'Near to this place John Webster fell,
Beloved by all who knew him well.
A most ingenious noted ringer,
St. Giles' sixth bell around did bring her.
He closed the peal, struck well his bell,
Ceasing the same, down dead he fell.
He died November 27th, 1760.'

The Norwich Scholars rang a peal of Imperial the Third Bob Major at St. Giles in 1760, and, I believe, but am not quite sure, that this is the peal referred to. To cease a bell is the old Norwich term for dropping it, and was used till quite recently, and possibly still is.

One other name in the Mancroft peal of Stedman claims attention. This is the tenor man, William Porter. He was probably the father of the Thomas Porter, who composed Double Norwich Court Bob Royal.

Meanwhile, the Coslany men had not been idle. They had two objects in view. One was to ring their peal first if possible; the other to watch their opponents for anything that might discredit them. It was open war, and you may be sure that neither band started for a peal without quite a number of hostile critics listening to them. The art of taking down Course Ends outside had not yet been invented. Even now it takes a very good man with an exceptionally good ear to take down from the outside the calling of a peal of Stedman Triples that he knows nothing of. The test the Coslany men employed was to depute one of their number to count the changes. They probably did not realise that it is an infinitely easier thing to make a mistake in counting five thousand and forty changes than to bring the bells round a hundred or two changes short of the full number.

Thomas Crane was the unfortunate person told off for the job. He and two others shut themselves up in a room and kept on counting for nigh four solid hours. I would have far rather been John Forster, sweating at the tail end of the sixth up in the tower, than have that deadly monotonous job. As for Edward Crane you may be sure he was abroad during the whole of the ringing. He would hear the start and then, with one or two of his supporters, he would walk round and round, across the Market Place, up Pudding Lane, through the tangle of houses that surrounded the church, by the new Bethel hospital into the Chapel field, down Hay Hill, and so round again. Going steadily while the striking was regular; stopping with bated breath whenever there was a clip; hoping with all their might that each mistake might worsen and be the end; disappointed when every time the bells righted themselves, and the ringing went on. You can't blame them; it was open war, and they badly wanted the first peal for themselves. And because, as everyone knows, listening to a peal is a thirsty job, they would call at discreet intervals at the White Horse or the White Hart or the Moon and Stars, or other houses of which there was and is no lack in the neighbourhood. But not, I think, at the Eight Bells. Host Foster was away up in the tower, but there would be plenty of the Mancroft party there, and, though Crane might occasionally send some of his subordinates to spy out the land, his dignity as leader would not allow his going himself. And at last when, spite of all their wishes and hopes, the peal was finished, off they would go to the Six Bells at Coslany to hold a council of war and compare notes.

Faults would be remembered, trips would be magnified, and when Brother Tom turned up and reported that he had counted only 4,860 changes, the news, helped by some good ale, would put new heart into them. The fight was not yet lost. Let Thomas Melchior publish his peal if he dared. They would have something to say to that.

ACCIDENT TO WELL-KNOWN ESSEX RINGER.

While proceeding home on his bicycle on Friday week Mr. Henry F. Cooper, of Stisted, formerly residing at Chelmsford, a well-known Essex ringer, one time master of the Chelmsford Cathedral ringers, and also of the Northern-Eastern Division of Essex Association, collided with another cyclist, and sustained a fractured right leg. He is now in Braintree Hospital, and is making favourable progress. His many friends will wish him a speedy recovery.

DEATH OF VETERAN GLOUCESTERSHIRE RINGER. ONE OF MEMORABLE PEAL BAND.

The death has taken place at Cheltenham, Gloucester, of Mr. Henry Karn, who was one of the oldest ringers in the county. He took part in a peal of Grandsire Doubles, with his father, at his native place of Charlton Kings, in the year 1866, and in all he had rung about twenty peals of Grandsire, Plain Bob, Treble Bob and Stedman, his chief performance being the celebrated peal of 13,054 Stedman Caters, rung at Cheltenham on May 21st, 1888, in which he rang the third bell. He took part in very few peals after this, but had continued to ring at various churches in the district.

He passed away at 3, Burton Street, Cheltenham, on August 31st, at the age of 76 years. The funeral took place on Sept. 4th at Charlton Kings Cemetery, where muffled touches of Grandsire were rung by G. Simmonds 1, W. Dyer (conductor) 2, G. Dyer 3, M. Hicks 4, A. Ruck 5, R. Hemming 6, J. Ballinger 7, F. Simmonds 8.

In the evening, muffled touches of Grandsire and Stedman Triples were also rung at Leckhampton by W. Townsend 1, F. Pratt 2, A. Caudle 3, A. Hunt 4, J. F. Ballinger 5, W. Hunt 6, C. Richings 7, W. Harrison 8. Mr. Karn's connection with Leckhampton was by marriage, his wife being the daughter of the late Robert Ballinger, clerk and sexton, also a ringer at Leckhampton Church.

NORTH WALES ASSOCIATION. MEETING AT BARMOUTH.

A successful meeting of the above association was held at Barmouth on Saturday, Sept. 5th. Although the attendance was disappointing, members were present from Rhyl, Bangor, Barmouth and Portmadoc, and Mr. M. J. Morris, of Birmingham, was also present. A short service was held at St. John's Church, conducted by the Rector, who, in the course of a brief address, welcomed the association to Barmouth.

The meeting was held in the Church Hall, when eleven Barmouth ringers were admitted as members of the association.

The secretary was appointed representative of the association at the next Central Council meeting, and the meeting concluded with a vote of thanks to the Rector for his address, and for the use of the Church Hall. The Rev. J. Humphrey Jones was also thanked for taking the chair at the meeting, and for the assistance rendered at the service.

After the meeting, the members adjourned to the belfry, where the bells were set going to Grandsire and Stedman Triples, and Kent Treble Bob and Bob Major.

Owing to the poor train service between Barmouth and some of the other places on the coast, several of the members were forced to leave at 5.30 p.m. (this being the last train); but, although the morning had been a very wet one, quite an enjoyable day was spent.

BATH & WELLS ASSOCIATION.

A meeting of the Taunton Deanery Branch of the Bath and Wells Diocesan Association was held on August 29th at Combe Florey, where there is a nice peal of six bells. The visitors, who numbered over thirty, were welcomed by the Rector (the Rev. J. Black Hyland) and his wife, and a short service was held, at which the Rector officiated, and the singing was led by the organist and choir. The Rector also gave an address. Afterwards he entertained the ringers to tea, which was served in the open air in the Rectory grounds.

At the short business meeting which followed, four new members were elected, and Mr. J. Maddock proposed a vote of thanks to the Rector for his kindness in providing tea and arranging such a delightful service.—The Rector, in reply, said it gave Mrs. Black Hyland and himself very great pleasure to have the ringers there, and if at any time they wished to come again he would be pleased to have them.

The ringing during the afternoon and evening included Grandsire and Stedman Doubles, Plain Bob, Kent and Oxford Treble Bob, Cambridge and London Surprise Minor.

RINGING AT TRURO CATHEDRAL.

Before evening service, at Truro Cathedral, on Sunday, Sept. 6th, an attempt was made for a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples: W. E. Minors 1, H. Bennetts 2, W. Arthur 3, A. W. Brighton 4, W. H. Southeard 5, A. S. Roberts 6, W. H. Sleeman 7, H. Sleeman 8, B. Pascoe 9, S. Webb 10. When about 300 changes from home, the conductor, Mr. Brighton, who was on a visit from London, was forced to call 'stand,' owing to sudden illness overcoming one of the ringers. Mr. Brighton rang at Kenwyn Church in the morning and also at Kea Church after evening service, when touches of Grandsire Triples were brought round by members of the local band and the Cathedral band.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

We would emphasise the suggestion made by Mr. A. Paddon Smith in a letter in another column, that ringers who hear the broadcasting of St. Philip's bells, Birmingham, which is to be relayed from all B.B.C. stations on Sunday, Sept. 27th, from 7.45 to 8 p.m., should send a postcard to the address given, expressing appreciation of the change from the broadcast of chiming to the broadcast of typical English bell ringing. Expressions of opinion of this kind to the B.B.C. may influence the policy of the company in regard to what kind of bell ringing is broadcast in future.

The 'Wiltshire week,' just concluded, resulted in ten peals being rung.

A novel departure has been made in the way of meetings upon the initiative of Mr. A. D. Barker, the hon. secretary of the East Berks and South Bucks Branch of the Oxford Diocesan Guild. A meeting of the Guild is to take place in London 'to revive old friendships, and doubtless the many members of the Guild in and around the Metropolis will be glad to avail themselves of the opportunity.

Warnham, in Sussex, as we have before pointed out in this column, has been one of the places where the bells could be rung as often as the ringers liked—and the parishioners were as interested in their success as the band themselves.

This is recalled by meeting Harry Chandler on Saturday on the scene of some of his old achievements, when a meeting of the Sussex Association was held there, and he was a welcome visitor. In the 'eighties' of last century he called a peal off every bell in the tower in the space of a week! Starting with two peals on one Sunday, a peal was rung every succeeding night in the week, followed by two peals the next Sunday, one on Monday and one on Tuesday. The next night the conductor missed a bob—and put an end to the sequence.

Far from objecting to ringing on this scale, the villagers would have been content, we believe, if the peals had been a daily occurrence up to now. It was no unusual thing at that time for 'go' to be called between 8 and 9 p.m.!

Harry hasn't altered much since those days, except round the equator, for all his exercise on the Middlesex roads fails to keep down his 'avoidupois.'

Mr. John E. Wheeldon, who scored his half-century last Friday, has rung all his peals in the Archdeaconry of Stoke-on-Trent. They have been spread over fifteen towers, and include the record lengths of Major (at Wolstanton) and of Minor (at Norton) for the Stoke Association.

Although now in his 84th year, the Rev. Maitland Kelly, for many years president of the Devon Guild, in which he has laboured so long to raise the standard of ringing, took part in touches at two churches on Saturday, when he attended a branch meeting of the Guild.

Mr. John Conley, whose 89th birthday was celebrated at St. Alban-on Saturday by a peal at St. Peter's Church, has been a ringer at that tower for 72 years. Almost a record, we should think.

Exactly one hundred and fifty years ago to-morrow the first peal was rung on the then new ring of ten bells at Grantham. This was a 5.130 of Grandsire Caters, and it took thirteen men to perform the task—not much of a recommendation for the bell hanger. There were two men on the ninth and three on the tenor, and the peal was called by W. D. Crofts, whose band included ten men from Nottingham and three from Newark.

The first peal of Double Norwich Caters was rung at St. Stephen's, Bristol, on September 22nd, 1894.

Who was the first resident Derbyshire lady to ring in a peal in that county? The information is asked for by a Derbyshire correspondent, and, perhaps, if the lady herself is too shy to enlighten us, one of the gentlemen who took part in the peal will do so.

The College Youths annual dinner has been fixed this year for Saturday, November 7th.

CARILLONS? NO!

There's a song in the breeze as it whispers thro' the trees,
There's a song in the air with the insects humming there,
There's a song in my heart as I climb the belfry stair:
There will soon be a louder song than these.

There's a song in the ropes when they're swishing up and down.
While a merry, merry clamour peals out from overhead;
The owls fly affrighted from their terror-haunted bed,
And the song of the bells peals o'er the town.

Shall a time ever come when their song shall be unsung,
When the art of change ringing shall be an art unknown.
When our famous, ancient peals, which we so proudly own,
Shall be replaced by tinkling carillon?

Oh! Ringers, let us stand, each a rope within his hand,
Let us keep our ancient rings by art and history bless'd,
If carillons must be, let them sail into the West:
A sweeter song sing the bells of England.

M. M. WEBB.

MULTI-METHOD PEALS.

HINTS ON 'SPICING' AND RINGING MINOR METHODS.

By JOHN P. FIDLER. SIXTH ARTICLE.

The 5th or 'Abbey' group will be found very interesting. It is a group on which a good deal of practice will have to be spent. The reason it is given the name 'Abbey' is on account of the names of four methods being those of Abbeys, and they were first rung at Norbury early in 1914. The 'odd' method, however, was not rung until 1921. Those who are able to ring London Surprise Minor will experience little or no difficulty, but they will admit, on ringing a 'spiced' extent of this group, that London Surprise Minor is small fry—a big statement, but try it and see. The methods will be found in the 4th's Place Delight, and the combinations are as follows:—

| Work above Treble,Or that of Bells passing'up.' | Work below Treble,Or that of Bells passing'down.' | ResultantMethod. |
|---|---|----------------------|
| London Surprise.  | Overton.  | Crowland.            |
| London Surprise.  | Braintree.  | Abbeyville.          |
| London Surprise.  | Sandal.   | Combermere.          |
| London Surprise.  | London Scholars'.   | Vale Royal.          |
| London Surprise.  | Kingston.   | St. Werburg.         |

Those unacquainted with London Surprise will find it necessary to make a very careful study of the work up, special attention being paid to that of the bells passing treble 4—5 and 5—6 up.

ST. WERBURG.

Taking the easiest method first, St. Werburg, No. 4, page 14, let us analyse it. Commencing with the path of the 2nd, we find the slow work is as in Kingston, but after passing treble 3—4, the bell makes 4th's, goes out to 6th's place, and lies a whole pull, runs in to 3rd's, and passes 2—3 down; then works as in Kingston until treble is again met, this time in 4—5 up (the following work must be well memorised, and strict counting maintained when ringing), dodge 5.6.5.6.5, down to 3rd's place, which is made, up to 6th's, lie, dodge 5.6.5.6.5, lie and then treble comes. After making 5th's, the path is reversed; therefore passing treble in 5—6 up, lie, dodge 5.6.5.6.5, lie, down to 3rd's, make it, up and dodge 5.6.5.6.5, passing treble 4—5 down. The work is then again Kingston, until treble is met once more, this time in 2—3 up. Make 3rd's, straight out, lie, and down to 4th's and treble comes to dodge 3—4, after which, the second half of the slow is taken up and the plain course brought round. As the result of our investigation we have the following record:—

|                     |  |
| Pass treble 1—2 up. | Make 2nd's and snap again.   |
| Pass treble 2—3 up. | 3rd's, 6th's, 4th's and in.  |
| Pass treble 3—4 up. | 4th's, 6th, 3rd's and in.  |
| Pass treble 4—5 up. | Dodge 5.6.5.6.5, 3rd's, lie 6th's, dodge 5.6.5.6.5.                  |
| Pass treble 5—6 up. | Lie, dodge, 5.6.5.6.5, 3rd's, dodge 5.6.5.6.5, pass treble 4—5 down. |

Work down, as in Kingston.

At first it appears very difficult, but with careful study and practice it will be seen in a fresh light.

BOB WORK.

| 6 3 2 1 5 4 | The bell which passed treble 4—5 up, after making 3rd's, goes down and snaps treble (see 5th).  |
| 3 6 1 2 4 5 | That which snapped treble, instead of lying in 2nd's, makes 3rd's, and dodges 5.6.5.6.5, passing treble 4—5 down (see 6th).   |
| 3 6 2 1 5 4 | Those passing treble 2—3 and 3—4, work as at a plain lead; therefore calls are made when the observation bell is in one of these positions. The tenor called Wrong, Home, Wrong, twice repeated, produces the extent.   |
| 6 3 1 2 4 5 | Should a conductor chance to forget whether a call has to be made or omitted, he has another bell to guide him, but not in so pointed a manner as in those methods previously dealt with. However, after practice it can easily be picked out. One good guide is to bear in mind the positions unaffected by a bob, viz., 2—3 and 3—4. In the course of the tenor, the first call would be made after dodging with treble 3—4 up, and as she is striking her blow in 5th's: so, instead of using the terms W and H, use the two unaltered positions, which in this case would be 3—4, 2—3, 3—4, twice repeated. |
| 6 1 3 2 5 4 | The 5th is a good guiding bell for this. As will be seen, only one position may need some guide as to whether a call has to be made or omitted. First, if at a lead end, 5th is the second's place bell, and 6th in 3rd's, omit the next call. Or, on passing treble 2—3, and you strike the first blow in 3rd's, if the 5th strikes over it, omit the call, but if another bell is there a call is made. Other guides may  | ever, after practice it can easily be picked out. One good guide is to bear in mind the positions unaffected by a bob, viz., 2—3 and 3—4. In the course of the tenor, the first call would be made after dodging with treble 3—4 up, and as she is striking her blow in 5th's: so, instead of using the terms W and H, use the two unaltered positions, which in this case would be 3—4, 2—3, 3—4, twice repeated. The 5th is a good guiding bell for this. As will be seen, only one position may need some guide as to whether a call has to be made or omitted. First, if at a lead end, 5th is the second's place bell, and 6th in 3rd's, omit the next call. Or, on passing treble 2—3, and you strike the first blow in 3rd's, if the 5th strikes over it, omit the call, but if another bell is there a call is made. Other guides may make themselves manifest after ringing the method, but that is how it has appeared to me.

After thoroughly practising this method, no difficulty should be experienced in ringing its sisters, and the next to try is Vale Royal, No. 9, page 16, which has the same work up, and that of London Scholars' Pleasure down. Combermere, No. 7, page 15, has Sandal work down; and Crowland, No. 6, page 15, is produced by Overton down. These four methods will splice lead for lead. The odd method of group is Abbeyville, No. 3, page 14, and, as stated in the combination table, has London Surprise work up and Braintree down. As with all odd methods, this splices only course for course.

We have now reached a further stage in the building up of a thirty-five method peal; and, unless the band desirous of ringing it is thoroughly conversant with the methods already dealt with, it would be wasting time in attempting the two groups to follow. Up to now, assistance has been given in mastering new methods by taking advantage of the four members of the Oxford group, but in the next group all the work is on different lines, and whilst efforts are being concentrated on it, that of the previous ones may be forgotten.

For a twenty-five method peal, the following arrangement may be found convenient: 1st and 2nd 720's for 5th group; 3rd and 4th for 4th group, with a group in each of the other three; and this having been successfully brought round, efforts can be directed to the next group.

Leaving the question of the multi-method peals alone for the time being, and for the benefit of those who are not in a position to practise for such a peal much enjoyment can be had by ringing new methods as fancy directs, or as the opportunity occurs, and many a pleasant hour may be spent going through 'the Collection of Methods' and arranging the various combinations. It is possible for six ringers, total strangers to each other, to ring a method without having seen a lead of it. Say, for example, six such do meet, each can ring Woodbine Treble Bob and London Surprise Minor; by way of a change let them ring Woodbine work down and London Surprise up. Here they get another method which it is possible for them to ring without having to see a lead. It is Lancashire Surprise Minor, No. 22, page 36. Others can be similarly obtained by careful search.

BIRMINGHAM BELLS BY WIRELESS.

STEDMAN CATERERS TO BE BROADCAST FROM ALL STATIONS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I expect the majority of your readers will remember that the question of the broadcasting of church bells formed the subject of a resolution at the meeting of the Central Council, held at Chester last Whit Tuesday, but in case the gist of this has been lost by some, it may be useful to refresh the memories of those interested by reprinting the resolution. It was worded as follows:

'That, considering the future possibilities of Radio, the attention of the Press and Literature Committee of the Central Council be drawn to the performances of "bell chiming" occasionally broadcast, as such performances are liable to create a wrong impression of the true nature of bell ringing, and, further, to request the committee to bring to the notice of the British Broadcasting Company all unsuitable imitations of bell ringing which may be broadcast.'

As you are aware, sir, the bells of St. Martin's and the Cathedral (St. Philip's), Birmingham, have been broadcast on several occasions, but only, I believe, from the Birmingham station. We are now advised that 'owing to the great success of the last time of pealing from there, the company (B.B.C.) have decided to relay the ringing of the Cathedral bells to all stations, immediately prior to the religious service on Sunday, Sept. 27th next, from 7.45 to 8 o'clock p.m.'

Now, sir, if ringers are really desirous of getting the B.B.C. to broadcast real change ringing in place of what the Rev. C. D. P. Davies, at the Central Council meeting, described as the 'chiming and footling,' we have had inflicted on us in the past, it is up to them to listen in on the 27th inst., and afterwards write to the B.B.C. (a postcard will do) expressing their appreciation of the change.

If sufficient interest is shown, I think it is likely that the company may take care in the future to see that the right stuff is sent over whenever and wherever it is possible. And may I add, sir, to those who write, please don't criticise the bells! They are not the finest ring of ten in the country. And don't criticise the ringing (although I hope this will be up to standard).

Any 'extraneous matter' may only confuse the issue. The thing is to express appreciation (if it is appreciated) of the broadcasting of proper English change ringing instead of the chiming or playing of tunes, etc., of which, I believe, we are all 'sick and tired.'

Communications should be addressed to the Director of Programmes, British Broadcasting Co., Ltd., 2, Savoy Hill, Strand, London, W.C.2.

—Yours faithfully,

A. PADDON SMITH.

Hon. Sec., St. Martin's Guild, Birmingham.

THE YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION'S JUBILEE MEMORABLE GATHERING AT BIRSTALL.

The autumn meeting of the Yorkshire Association was held at Birstall on Saturday last. The fine peal of eight bells in the Parish Church of St. Peter were made full use of, from two o'clock onward. This being the fiftieth anniversary year of the foundation of the association, a special thanksgiving service was held in the Parish Church. A most enjoyable musical service was rendered by the choir, and the sermon was preached by the Rev. Canon H. J. Elsee, the president of the Lancashire Association. Taking as his text, 1 Peter iv. 10, 'Good stewards of the manifold grace of God,' the preacher congratulated his hearers on the attainment of the jubilee of the founding of the Yorkshire Association, and counted it as a privilege to be asked to preach on that occasion. As they looked back over the fifty years of service, they thanked God for the great advance in centres for bells and change ringing, and rededicated themselves and bells to the service of God. Fifty years ago this country was in the midst of a great movement, having for its object the raising of the devotional spirit in the services of the Church, and this in turn led to a great revival of structural renewals and decoration. Despite this movement, the towers were generally neglected and bells left in bad order. There was a tradition at that period, of bad habits and customs associated with belfries and ringers, and about that time, the advent of Jasper Whitfield Snowdon and the foundation of the Yorkshire Association, led the way to the foundation throughout the country of county and diocesan associations, these having for their object, the raising of the status of the ringers as Churchmen, and reviving the interest of the Church generally in the bells and belfries. As the result of these activities, they now found that bells were rarely neglected, greater care was taken of bells, and an immense advance had been made in the founder's art. They also found a great advance in the use of bells and change ringing, in conjunction with the great extension in the number of methods rung. That should be a day of thanksgiving, and they should ask themselves if all that was necessary had been done. Quoting the words of the late Rev. F. E. Robinson, who said, 'I feel put in trust by God with this work, so that when I am called upon to give it back, the work shall show advance as a trust, and to have been used to further the glory of God,' the preacher reminded his hearers, that Sunday ringing was their primary object, and that Sunday was the time when the ringers should give of their best by hand and brain. They should keep this standard before them, and think of the Sunday ringers and their message, which was to remind all that they were not merely dwellers here, but sons of God, and citizens of the Kingdom of Heaven. The part of ringers was to lead others to think of the higher side of life, and to remind others by their example of the spirit of our Lord, and by so living to commend the Christian faith to all their fellows.

FOUNDERS' GREAT TASK.

Tea was served in the neighbouring church schools, and the quality, in the opinion of some 120 visitors, fully upheld the Birstall tradition. This was followed by the business meeting. The president (the Rev. C. C. Marshall) was in the chair, and was supported by the principal officers of the association.

Mr. G. Hemming was elected an out-county life member of the association.

The Chairman then moved the following resolution: 'That this meeting places on record its appreciation of the work that the Yorkshire Association has done for change ringing, and for the church, during the first fifty years of its life, and wishes to the association continued prosperity in the years to come.'—In moving the resolution, the Chairman gave a most interesting account of the various gatherings of ringers in the county that were held prior, and that led up to the formation of the association at Birstall in 1875. The early founders had a great task before them, owing to the great area covered by the county, but they were men of great determination, and laid the foundation of what ultimately became the largest change ringing association in the kingdom. The Exercise in general was indebted to that greatest of all writers and authorities on change ringing, Jasper Whitfield Snowdon, and also to the lesser known Robert Tuke, of Bradford, whose love of research into old ringing literature in his lifetime, and subsequent publication thereof, added greatly to the general knowledge of what had been up to that time a very obscure history. In Charles Henry Hattersley, Charles Jackson, Wm. Whitaker, Sam Thomas, George Bolland, James and Tom Lockwood (father and son), the Yorkshire Association had produced master ringers, whose names would always be held in remembrance wherever change ringing was known, while especial affection would always be associated by the Yorkshire Association with William Snowdon, the brother of the first president, who during his twenty-five years' presidency from 1885 onward, bestowed a loving care on the publication of his brother's works on change ringing, and the administration of the Yorkshire Association in particular. His life was characterised by scrupulous attention to detail, and the association reports published during his period of office were models of precision for his successors to copy. The association were fortunate in having had only three presidents in its fifty years' existence, and the speaker trusted that prosperity would continue in the years to come.

The resolution having been carried with acclamation, Mr. W. Reynor recited a poem on 'Jasper Whitfield Snowdon,' which was much appreciated.

Mr. George Bolland, who has been a vice-president since 1883, was accorded a hearty welcome to the meeting after his long illness, and his interesting speech on the worthies of long ago was of great interest to the gathering.

A vote of thanks to the Vicar and churchwardens of Birstall was moved by Mr. C. D. Potter, and seconded by Mr. G. B. Bolland.

Rev. Canon Robinson extended a hearty welcome for the future, and said what pleasure it had given them at Birstall to renew the old acquaintance that day.

A vote of thanks to the preacher, organist and choir was responded to by the Rev. Canon H. J. Elsee, who thanked the association for the opportunity to be with them on that auspicious occasion.

A further vote of thanks to the local company was responded to by Mr. E. Crowther.

It was decided, on the motion of Mr. G. B. Bolland, seconded by Mr. J. R. Lawson, that the arrangements for the annual meeting be left to the general committee. More ringing, more handball ringing, more friendly gathering in another place, brought to an end all too soon a most pleasant and memorable day. P. J. J.

'THAT NEEDED REGISTER.'

To the Editor.

Sir.—Mr. Powell has done well to raise, in his letter in your issue of the 5th inst., the issue as regards compositions; he has put the case exactly, and convincingly. However, I would go even further than he does in his plea for reform. Sooner or later it will have to be recognised that, just as in the field of method-building all the variety required—and probably, too, all that is worth having—has already been obtained, so also as regards composition there is for all practical purposes, but little, if any, scope for any fresh productions.

Our existing scheme of things, by which we describe a peal, ascribing it to an individual author, should, I submit, give way to a system of numbering. Thus, instead of speaking of any given peal, as 'composed by John Smith,' the composition would be designated simply as peal No. XXX, in the C.C. Register.

There are already so many 'peals' by the well-known composers, that it is really not very helpful to speak, for instance, of a 5,000 by Dains, or Pitstow; one wants to know which 5,000, and enumeration, as suggested, would identify absolutely. But one might, perhaps, speak of 'Dains,' No. XXXX, in the same way as stars are catalogued in astronomy. We have already standardised by name, although not yet by number, peals of Stedman and Grandsire Triples, e.g., Thurslows', Holl's, Taylor's, etc.

Under the suggested new order, associations would not accept peals for their reports, unless verified with an identification number; and, by the way, many an association secretary would be freed from that bugbear of getting the compositions from the conductors. Bands would soon cease to be content to allow a conductor, however, talented, to call anything he fancied, or could string together; they would require to know by number, what peal they were to give their time and labour to ring. The time-honoured legend appearing so frequently in peal reports—'Composed and conducted by John Smith' would be obsolete.

Ultimately, we must have that needed register, but by all means let us have it soon, and let it be arranged on the new lines of classification by number.—Yours very truly,

G. P. BURTON.

LINSLADE RINGER'S DEATH.

The death took place, in the University College Hospital, London, on Wednesday, Sept. 2nd, of Mr. Joseph Sear, of Linslade, Leighton Buzzard, Bucks, at the age of 65, after a rather short illness. The deceased was a ringer for many years, although he was not very far advanced in the art of change ringing. He was, however, always very keen and interested, and could be relied upon to do his best. He will be greatly missed in the belfry of St. Barnabas, Linslade, where he was regular in his attendance both for morning and evening services on Sundays, and on practice nights, when his duties as an engine driver on the L.M.S. at Leighton Buzzard allowed him to be there. He rang two peals only, in one the treble to a peal of Grandsire Triples, and in the other the tenor to a peal of Stedman Triples at St. Paul's, Bedford, conducted by the late Rev. F. E. Robinson. He was a member of the Oxford Diocesan Guild (North Bucks branch). A quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples was rung, with the bells half-muffled, by the Linslade ringers on Saturday evening, Sept. 5th, the day on which he was laid to rest: T. Dixon 1, G. White 2, W. Jeffs 3, F. Buttram 4, J. Arnold 5, F. Dedman 6, F. Vickers (conductor) 7, E. Mortimer 8.

MIDLAND COUNTIES ASSOCIATION. THE PROPOSED ALTERATION OF RULES.

Members of the Midland Counties Association have had before them for some time past a proposal to alter the rules, which alteration would bring about a considerable change in the management of the organisation, inasmuch as part of the conduct of the affairs which is now vested in the general committee would be decentralised, and handed over to the district committees, who would be given control of a certain proportion of the funds.

What, exactly, is the alteration proposed is not, however, quite clear to all the members, and in order that they may have a fuller grasp of the proposed change, we give some details of the suggested new rules.

The financial change which is suggested is covered in new Rules 6 and 11. The old rules provide for the collection of subscriptions of members by the District Secretaries who pay them over to the Hon. Treasurer. The proposed Rule 6 provides for one-third only of ringing members' subscriptions being paid over to the Hon. Treasurer of the Association, and Rule 11, which covers the election of district officers, provides for the new office of District Hon. Treasurer, gives each district full power over its own funds, subject to them being devoted to the purposes of the Association.

The text of these important rules is as follows:—

Rule 6.—That the General Management of the Association be vested in a President, Hon. Secretary, Hon. Treasurer, together with a Vice-President, Local Hon. Secretary, Local Hon. Treasurer and two members of Committee from each of the seven districts, seven of whom shall form a quorum competent to transact the business of the Association, provided all the members of this body have been duly summoned. They shall have full power and control over the General Funds of the Association, and in the case of an interim vacancy they shall have power to appoint an eligible member to the office. They shall receive all entrance fees, and all Honorary Subscriptions in full, and one-third of all Ringing Members' Subscriptions from each district.

Rule 11.—That each district shall be under the local management of a Vice-President, Local Hon. Secretary, Local Hon. Treasurer, and two members of Committee. They shall be elected annually at the January District Meeting, members of the district only being entitled to vote. The Local Hon. Secretary elect shall communicate the result to the General Hon. Secretary before the 7th day of February, or the election shall be considered void, and the General Management Committee shall proceed to appoint the necessary officers. Three of the above shall form a quorum competent to transact the business of the district, provided all members have been duly summoned. They shall have full power over the funds of their own district, subject to Rules 1 and 6. They shall carry on the work of the Association generally, and shall arrange for quarterly meetings of their own district to be held during the months of January, June and September in each year, and may arrange other ringing or social meetings at their discretion.

Rule 1 referred to provides that the Association shall comprise the Counties of Derby, Leicester, Nottingham and Stafford, and shall have for its objects the cultivation of the Art of Change Ringing and Belfry Reform, also that the funds of the Association shall be applied solely in furtherance of these objects.

A new rule (7) provides that the General Management Committee shall keep a record of all peals of 5,040 changes and upwards, on five, six and seven bells, and all peals of 5,000 changes and upwards, on eight or more bells, when rung by members of the association.

The management of the Bell Restoration Fund is dealt with in new Rule 9, and minor alterations are made in other rules, consequent upon the redrafting of the whole. Quarterly general meetings of the association are not provided for, but there is included a proposed new rule that the General Committee may on their own authority, and must, at the request of 15 members of the association, call a special general meeting of the association.

LOUGHBOROUGH DISTRICT AGAINST CHANGE.

An enjoyable afternoon and evening was spent at Hugglescote on September 5th, despite the fact that poor weather stopped many members from attending. The occasion was a meeting of the Loughborough District of the M.C.A. Stedman and Grandire Triples were chiefly rung, and some excellent practice was obtained.

At the business meeting, a resolution was proposed by Mr. G. Griffin, of Ibstock, and seconded by Mr. W. Fern, of Whitwick, opposing the proposed alteration of the Midland Counties Association's rules. It was felt that no alteration should be made, and the existing committee should be carried on; but that, if possible, the general committee might discuss ways and means of reducing the yearly ringing subscription.

HEADINGTON.—On Tuesday, August 18th, at the Parish Church, 720 Keverley Surprise Minor: Frank Beckitt 1, H. Tollev 2, W. Harris 3, F. Taylor 4, F. A. H. Wilkins 5, W. H. B. Wilkins (conductor) 6. First 720 in this method on the bells.

CHEAP RAILWAY TICKETS FOR RINGERS

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—It will interest your readers to know that so far the following associations have made local application re railway facilities: Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan.

Bath and Wells Diocesan.

Kent County.

Ely Diocesan.

Middlesex County.

Some associations, I learn, are rather content with the conditions, and in some instances these are rather good, but there should be no hesitation.

We are fighting for all, and therefore it needs every association to join in. They have nothing to lose this time, and they will be doing great work for the Exercise.—Yours faithfully,

EDGAR GUISE.

CENTRAL COUNCIL SECRETARY'S SUGGESTIONS.

Dear Sir,—It is to be hoped that the secretaries of the associated Guilds will not feel that there is any overlapping in the efforts being made to secure the cheaper railway facilities for ringers. It is an important matter, and requires a good start to ensure the desired result.

The Central Council some twenty years ago endeavoured to secure privileges for ringers, but without success. Also two years ago, at the suggestion of Alderman Pritchett, I wrote to the Secretary of the Railway Clearing House, but again without success, in connection with travelling to the Council's annual meeting. The present question is one of to-day, and covers a wider field, and I need hardly state that I am sure the Council will again do all that is in its power, and I trust with a better result this time.

The present movement was started as a local one, before its greater possibilities were realised, and it had made some headway before the case was sent to me as secretary of the Central Council. I noted that the secretaries had been asked to send me the necessary particulars, and this some few of them have done, and I await the remainder.

There are four railway groups, and I suggest that the 'Gloucester and Bristol' continue to approach the Great Western; that the 'Midland Counties' get into touch with the 'L.M.S.'; the Winchester Guild, with the Southern, and the Yorkshire Association with the 'L.N.E.R.' I am prepared to give the outlines of a common letter, and will seek instruction from the Council to send a general letter to the Railway Clearing House.

In the meantime, will secretaries please continue to send me, if possible, the statistical particulars or any other useful information for my letter?—Yours faithfully,

E. ALEX. YOUNG.

SECTIONAL ACTION A WEAK POLICY.

Sir,—I have read with interest the suggestions made with reference to obtaining travelling facilities for ringers, but will you permit me to suggest that this matter is one which would best be dealt with by the Central Council empowered to negotiate on behalf of all the associations in the country.

Sectional action, as you point out in your leading article, is a weak policy, inasmuch as any local railway official may turn the proposal down before it reaches the right quarter, especially so as campanology may be something strange to him.

I, therefore, propose that a sharp and well defined policy should be pursued by empowering the Central Council, through its secretary, to approach the Clearing House, and speak on behalf of 'so many hundreds' of associations having 'so many thousands' of members spread over the country.

Modern experience teaches us that central action is always more effective, and commands more attention than sectional action.—Yours faithfully,

W. H. JACKSON.

Balham.

SOUTH ANSTON SOCIETY OUTING.

Twenty members of the North Notts Association held their annual outing on Saturday, July 11th, visiting Norton Cuckney, Perlethorpe, East Markham and Laxton. Picking up the writer at Worksope, Norton Cuckney was reached at 10.15, and the ring of six was soon going to 360 of Cambridge and 360 of Oxford Treble Bob. The Rev. H. R. Peel congratulated the party on the good striking. Perlethorpe was next visited, where a light and well-kept ring of six bells was found. Mirfield Surprise and Duke of York were rung. Leaving at 1.30, East Markham was reached, where lunch was served. The Church of St. John the Baptist was visited, where the ring of six bells has been recently augmented to eight. 360 of Norwich Surprise and a 288 of Kent Treble Bob Major were rung. The ringers then went on to Laxton to complete the series of places visited.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION.*JOINT MEETING WITH HERTS SUGGESTED.

A successful meeting of the North and East District of the Middlesex County Association and London Diocesan Guild was held at Willesden on Saturday last, 36 members being present. The bells at this church, although small in size and light in weight, require a considerable amount of skill in the art of striking, and it was very gratifying that the ringing during the afternoon and evening reached a good standard of efficiency. Some excellent touches of Grandsire, Stedman Triples, Bob Major and Superlative and Cambridge Surprise were rung between 3.30 and 5, when the usual short service was held.—The Vicar (the Rev. A. E. Smith) gave the association a hearty welcome, adding that he had had some connection with ringers, having learned to pull a bell at Great St. Mary's Church, Cambridge, under the tuition of the Rev. A. H. F. Boughey, and being president of the St. John at Hackney Society some years ago, meeting there a well-known ringer of the same name as himself.

After a very excellent tea, served in the Church Hall, had been removed, the business meeting was held. Five new members were elected, and a resolution supporting the action of the Gloucester and Bristol Association, re special railway facilities, was passed, the secretary being given certain instructions.

The secretary (Mr. C. T. Coles) also gave a report on the Middlesex and Essex Association's joint meeting at Waltham Abbey, stating that the success of that meeting had caused him to think that a joint meeting with their Hertfordshire friends might be held next year in the neighbourhood of Stanmore and Bushey Heath.

It was decided to hold the next meeting at Hornsey, if possible on October 17th.—A hearty vote of thanks was unanimously accorded to the Vicar for the use of the bells, and for the very hearty welcome he had given to the members at the service; also to the organist; to Mr. and Mrs. Ebberson and Mrs. H. Kilby for making such excellent arrangements for tea; and to Mr. R. Kilby and the local ringers.—The Rev. A. E. Smith acknowledged the thanks of the members, saying how much he had enjoyed the meeting, and hoping to meet the association again.

A couple of excellent touches of Stedman Triples were rung on handbells by Messrs. W. and G. R. Pye, G. M. Kilby, W. Hewell, and C. V. Ebberson, and another visit to the belfry was made, included in the ringing being courses of Bristol and London Surprise.

SUSSEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION.*WESTERN DIVISION'S RECORD GATHERING.

A record number of members and friends, numbering in all 54, attended a quarterly meeting of the Western Division at St. Margaret's, Warnham, on Saturday, the following towers being represented: Horsham, Heene, Shipley, West Grinstead, Pulborough, Rudgwick, Slinfold, Shoreham, Henfield, Mersham, Crawley, Horley, West Tarring, and the local band. Amongst the visitors were Mr. H. Chandler, of Hillingdon; Mr. G. Steere, Guildford; and Mr. J. S. Goldsmith, Woking; also a lady member. Ringing commenced shortly after three o'clock, and the methods rung included the following: Grandsire, Stedman Triples, Double Norwich and Kent Treble Bob Major.

Tea was served at the Sussex Oak Hotel, a hostelry well known to many ringers who have visited this village.—Mr. Doick, in the absence of the Vicar, presided at the business meeting which followed. Steyning was chosen for the next meeting, to take place in the third week of November.

The following new members were elected: Mr. W. Chantler, Horsham; Messrs. F. Challen and E. Thomas, Shoreham; George Forest and Alfred Norris, West Tarring; Roy Pink, Pulborough; and Bernard Wells, non-resident member, Mersham.

After votes of thanks to the Vicar of Warnham for granting the use of the bells, Mr. G. Woodman for the local arrangements, and Mr. T. Doick for presiding, the party returned to the tower, where the bells were kept going till eight o'clock.

PETERBOROUGH DIOCESAN GUILD.

A quarterly meeting of the new Daventry Branch of the above Guild was held at Flore on Saturday, August 29th, when members were present from Daventry, Northampton, East Haddon, Gillsborough, Welton, Heyford, Harpole and Braunston. Several touches of Grandsire and Stedman were rung during the afternoon. A short service was held, and the Rev. A. J. Beadle (Vicar of Flore) gave a splendid address, which was much appreciated by the ringers present. Tea was partaken of at the White Hart Hotel, and a short business meeting was presided over by the Rev. A. J. Beadle.

After the usual branch business had been transacted, a hearty vote of thanks was accorded the Vicar for addressing the ringers, and also for the use of the bells. The name of Mr. H. Starmier (the organist) was also coupled in the vote of thanks.

After the meeting the tower was again visited, and ringing was kept up until about 8 p.m.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION.
TONBRIDGE DISTRICT.

A meeting of the Tonbridge District was held at St. Michael's Church, East Peckham, on Saturday, August 15th, and was attended by about 25 members, from Brighton, Mereworth, Maidstone, Penshurst, Horsmonden, Lamberhurst, Seal Chart, Tunbridge Wells, Hadlow, and the local tower. Ringing commenced about 3 o'clock, and the usual service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. C. E. G. Ryley), who gave an excellent address. The lesson was read by the district secretary (Mr. W. Latter). After service, the members adjourned to the Vicarage, where a bountiful tea, kindly provided by the Vicar, was partaken of on the lawn.

The business meeting followed, the Vicar presiding, and at its conclusion a hearty vote of thanks was accorded him for the use of the bells, for conducting the service, and for his hospitality.—The Vicar suitably replied.

A vote of thanks was also accorded to Mr. T. Saunders, local secretary, for making the arrangements, and the members returned to the tower for more ringing. The weather was all that could be desired, and a most enjoyable time was spent.

RINGERS' DEBT TO JASPER SNOWDON.

More than a generation has passed since death removed from the Exercise Jasper Whitfield Snowdon—the man who, above all others, placed the art of change ringing within the reach of multitudes of men who, without the guidance of the text books which he wrote, would have found and left the intricacies of the science an unsolved mystery. It is just forty years since Jasper Snowdon went to his rest at the early age of 41 years, but in the thirteen or fourteen years during which he interested himself with unsurpassed enthusiasm in bellringing, he built up a monument which will remain as long as the art exists. A man of unbounded energy, of great intellect, of unconquerable determination, he brought into ringing the keenness and diligence which he put into all affairs in which he took a hand. He introduced a new spirit into the art in the North; he imbued with his own great enthusiasm those with whom he came in contact, and the knowledge which he gathered with painstaking perseverance he passed on to others, through the books and articles which he wrote, so that it is impossible to gauge to-day all that the Exercise owes to him. His books have become standard works; they are the foundation upon which many modern reputations have been built up, and to his researches are due no small part of the historical knowledge of ringing which is ours to-day.

Jasper Snowdon did in the space of some fourteen years far more than many men, even if they had the inclination, could have done in a lifetime. Canon Wigram, an eminent authority, wrote of him that he 'held a position in the ringers' community absolutely unapproached. There are other ringers, other conductors, other composers, and also other authors of instruction for beginners, but there has never been any other true historian of the science. In this department he stands alone, and it is impossible to say which is the most remarkable, whether the amount of information which he collected, the patience with which he arranged it, or the critical skill with which he assigned to each composer the degree of merit which belonged to him.' Those words, written soon after Jasper Snowdon's death, remain true to-day, and it is good that the present generation of ringers should be reminded of a man to whom, without realising it, perhaps, they owe so much.

The Yorkshire Association, which was founded by Jasper Snowdon, and this year reaches its jubilee, has done well to establish the practice of an annual gathering in memory of its distinguished first president and of those other men, many of them, like Mr. William Snowdon and Mr. Charles Henry Hattersley, pillars of the Exercise in their day, who, in their respective ways did valuable work, not only for the Yorkshire Association, but for the art of change ringing. The proceedings on Saturday brought together a large and representative gathering of Yorkshire ringers in the city which was closely associated with Jasper Snowdon's crowded life. But it is not merely to those who are present that this annual function should appeal. Ringers throughout the country should realise that they, too, owe a debt to these Yorkshire worthies, and, while they cannot join in person in such a gathering, they may, perhaps, realise that they can, in the spirit, honour the memory of these men whose labours have done so much to place the art on the high level which it has reached to-day.

A TOUR IN SUSSEX.

Fourteen members of the Cambridge University Guild met at Brighton on Sept. 7th for the 14th annual ringing week. Following the usual arrangement in recent years, only one peal attempt was arranged for each of the four days of the tour. The following towers were visited: St. Peter's, Brighton; Burgess Hill, Lindfield, Cuckfield, Ringmer, Southover, Lewes; St. Nicholas', Brighton; Hurstpierpoint, St. Mary's, St. Saviour's and Christchurch, Eastbourne.

Peals were rung at Burgess Hill and St. Peter's, Brighton, the two unsuccessful attempts being at Ringmer and St. Mary's, Eastbourne. In addition, a peal of Bob Royal was rung on handbells.

CHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD.*STOCKPORT BRANCH.

A meeting of the Stockport Branch was held at Disley on Saturday, Sept. 19th. Unfortunately, rain fell during the afternoon, consequently the attendance was poor. The bells were requisitioned at 3.30 p.m., and ringing continued until 4.30, when the usual service was conducted by the Rev. C. P. Lester, who also gave an address. After a splendid tea in the Schoolroom, the business of the day was transacted, under the chairmanship of Mr. J. H. Jackson, and was chiefly of a routine character.

The Hon. Secretary reported that the Norbury bells would be dedicated on Saturday, October 24th, but no promise could be given that visitors would be allowed to have a pull on that date. Saturday, November 21st, had been set apart as an open date, but further information would be advertised in the 'Ringing World.'

Regarding the next meeting, to be held at Stalybridge (Holy Trinity) on November 28th, the hon. secretary was instructed to ascertain the condition of the bells there, and, if an adverse report is received, to make arrangements elsewhere.

The question of railway travelling facilities for ringers was discussed, and it was decided to communicate with the Guild secretary to ask him to act on behalf of the Guild, and give the matter full support.

The usual votes of thanks closed the meeting, and further ringing was indulged in.

GLoucester & BRISTOL ASSOCIATION. SUCCESSFUL MEETING AT BADGEWORTH.

A meeting of the Cheltenham Branch was held at Badgeworth on Saturday, Sept. 12th, and attended by over 40 members, who enjoyed ringing on the fine ring of six bells.

The service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. W. Downes), who had a full choir in attendance. In a short address, he said how pleased he was to welcome such a body of church workers, and mentioned that it was the first time he had had such an opportunity.

Tea was provided in the old Schoolroom, under the direction of Mr. J. E. Townsend. At the business meeting which followed, the Vicar was voted to the chair, and was supported by the Master (Mr. Albert Wright, Painswick), the Rev. A. D. Pennington (Alderton), Mr. C. W. Dyson (chairman of Tewkesbury branch), and members from Leckhampton, Swindon, Witcome, Alderton, Winchcombe, Prestbury, St. Mark's, and the local tower.

Several letters of apology were read.

A very favourable comment was made on the article in the 'Ringing World' with reference to endeavouring to secure reduced railway fares for ringers.

Leckhampton was selected as the tower for the annual meeting, and the date the early part of January.—Eight new members were elected, including the Vicar as an hon. member.

The secretary (Mr. W. Yeend) volunteered to teach the young band at Badgeworth, and his services will be greatly appreciated.

The secretary also welcomed Mr. Albert Wright, the Rev. Pennington and Mr. Anthony Crook (the local veteran). The last named remarked that he attended the first meeting of the Gloucester Diocesan Association held at the Crypt, Gloucester, and had the honour of proposing the first Master and first secretary.

On the proposition of Mr. W. Harrison, seconded by Mr. W. Dyer, a hearty vote of thanks was accorded the Vicar for all he had done to make the gathering such a success.—The Vicar, in reply, again expressed his pleasure at having attended such a pleasant gathering, and hoped that the members would hold another meeting there at no distant date. Thus ended a very happy gathering, with another tower added to the branch.

STANDFORD-IN-THE-VALE, BERKS.—On Saturday, August 22nd a quarter-peal of Grandsire Doubles (1,260 changes), in 45 mins.: J. Wallcroft 1. J. Nobes (conductor) 2. H. R. Cooper 3. D. H. Woodley 4. F. T. Hanks 5. A. Breakspear 6. The ringers of 1st. 3rd and 4th hail from Milton; 2nd and tenor Stevenston; and 5th Sutton.

SWANSEA & BRECON DIOCESAN GUILD. DEPARTURE OF THE HON. SECRETARY.

A quarterly meeting of the Swansea and Brecon Diocesan Guild was held on Saturday, Sept. 5th, at Llanstephan, when ten towers were represented. The ringers of Aberavon, Baglan, Neath, Cadoxton and Morriston, left Neath at 9 o'clock by charabanc, and, after a lovely run through the heart of the country of West Wales, had their first stop at Llandilo, where they were met by the local ringers, and a few touches of Doubles and Minor were rung. Leaving then for Carmarthen they were again met by the local band, and after partaking of lunch, enjoyed touches of Grandsire Triples and Stedman Triples. Llanstephan was reached at 2.30, and the party received a hearty welcome from the Vicar and the local ringers. Ringers from Gorsimon and Haverfordwest were also present. On the fine peal of eight some good ringing was enjoyed until 4.30, when service was conducted by the Vicar. Tea, which had been generously provided by the Vicar and churchpeople of the parish, was next served, and the business meeting followed, presided over by the Vicar, who, at the outset, welcomed the Guild to Llanstephan. He wished them every success in the good work that they were doing to foster the art of change ringing in the different parishes, and said they would always be welcomed to Llanstephan.

The Secretary gave his report of the work done during the quarter. It was decided to have the next quarterly meeting at Morriston.

Mr. Lewis (Cadoxton) moved a hearty vote of thanks to the Vicar and churchpeople of Llanstephan for the magnificent way the ringers had been received that day, and for the tea that was provided for them. He also referred to the impending departure of the secretary to Newport (Mon.), which the meeting heard with regret. No one had worked more for the success of the Guild than the secretary, who was most popular among the members.

Among the welcome visitors at the meeting were Mr. J. H. Shepherd (of Swindon) and Mr. Davies (late of Caerleon, Mon.).

The bells were afterwards rung until late in the evening, and the ringers then dispersed to their respective districts, after a most enjoyable day, which will be remembered for some time.

HESTON.—At St. Leonard's Church, on Sunday, July 26th, for morning service, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples: C. Collins 1. J. Lucas 2. C. S. Bird 3. S. Rose 4. H. Chandler 5. C. J. Edwards 6. W. H. Hollier (conductor) 7. W. Lewis 8.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

The Rochester District of the Kent County Association is holding its annual district meeting at Gravesend on Saturday, October 31st, and to try to get the public to take more interest in ringing, the Hon. Secretary (Mr. F. M. Mitchell) has obtained a definite promise from the Mayor of Gravesend (Alderman J. A. Axcell, J.P.), who knows nothing of ringing, to preside at the meeting. The secretary hopes for a good muster to support him.

Thirty feet of the tall spire of St. Marie's Church, Sheffield, have been taken down and rebuilt. The work prevented ringing at this church for a time.

The eight bells at Braughing, Herts, were rung for the first time on Sept. 25th, 1745, the trebles having been the gift of William Freeman. The first peal on the bells was rung a year later, viz., on Sept. 30th, 1746, by a local band.

Ringing 'weeks' were not so common five-and-twenty years ago as they are to-day, and the 'Hampshire tours,' organised by Mr. George Williams, were excursions of an exceptional kind. It was on one of these trips, on Sept. 27th, 1899, that the first peal of Stedman Caters in Hampshire was rung at Winchester Cathedral. Twenty-four years afterwards two of that band took part in the first peal of Stedman Cinques in the county.

William Shipway, to whom ringing owes a great deal more than is often realised, was born at Bath on Sept. 29th, 1760. He migrated to London—ringing being the attraction—in 1785, and joined the Junior Cumberlands on his arrival, but in 1788 he threw in his lot with the Royal Cumberland Society.

In the brief autobiography which he permits himself in his volume, 'The Art of Ringing,' he says he had the honour to assist in many capital performances with the latter society. Among them were six peals of Oxford Treble Bob Royal, one of Double Norwich Court Bob Royal, four of Oxford Treble Bob Maximus, viz., 7,104 at St. Saviour's, Southwark; 7,104 at Christ Church, Spitalfields; 6,000 exact at St. Leonard's, Shoreditch; and 5,376 at St. Martin's-in-the-Fields; and four peals on Stedman's Principle, viz., three of Caters and one of Cinques; concluding his labours in the art with the publication of the present work.

While with the Junior Cumberlands, he had taken part in a peal of 8,448 Kent Treble Bob Major. As a ringer, therefore, apart from his writings and his investigation in the art, Shipway was no mean performer.

RAILWAY FACILITIES FOR RINGERS.

SECRETARIES MUST ACT QUICKLY.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—The following associations (in addition to the list already published in your columns) are actively supporting railway facilities for church bell ringers:—

Midland Counties.

Devonshire Guild.

Oxford Diocesan Guild.

I am sorry to read from Mr. Young's letter that so few associations have sent him the statistical particulars which he must have to build his letter. I appeal to Secretaries to send these particulars early. What is specially needed is the number of members, branches, meetings per year, and square mileage of territory if possible. — Yours faithfully,

FORMER LADY RINGER MARRIED.

At Stoke Poges, on Saturday, Sept. 19th, on the occasion of the marriage of Miss Gwendolin Mona, younger daughter of Mr. W. J. Bateman, to Mr. Maurice Leslie Garrett, 120 Kent Treble Bob Minor: E. C. Hartley 1, J. Shuker 2, H. C. Albrow 3, S. G. Hawkins 4, W. L. Gutteridge 5, A. D. Barker 6. Mrs. A. D. Barker took part in the 'firing' as the couple left the church. The bride, whose sister is better known as Mrs. A. D. Barker, was some time ringer at Stoke Poges, but has been unable to continue as such, owing to other duties.

LADIES' GUILD EXCURSION.

A small party of lady ringers and friends spent a pleasant afternoon on Saturday, Sept. 12th. Leaving Birmingham at 2 p.m., they arrived at Lichfield City at 2.45, and had an hour's ringing at St. Michael's Church. Going on to Shenstone there was further ringing and tea, for which Mrs. Groves 'rang.' Afterwards, at Boldmere, another hour's ringing was enjoyed before returning to Birmingham. The ladies wish to thank the clergy and ringers for the use of the bells, and the latter for their kindly help.

MULTI-METHOD PEALS.

HINTS ON 'SPlicing' AND RINGING MINOR METHODS.

By JOHN P. FIDLER. SEVENTH ARTICLE.

The sixth or my group of methods will be found in the 3rd's Place Delight section of the Central Council's Collection, and derives its name from that of the 'odd' method, viz., Ely, the other four being Bagedone, Knutsford, Wilmslow and Rostherne. These four were first rung during the years 1913-14, and were named after six-bell towers in the Stockport branch of the Chester Guild.

As I mentioned in my last article, the work of these is vastly different to the previous ones, and will require a good deal of attention paid to them. Rostherne, No. 29, page 28, seems to be the easiest, so we will tackle that first. Commencing with the 2nd, we find that the slow work occupies practically the whole of a lead. After snapping with treble, the slow work bell leads full, makes 2nd's, does a half-pull at lead, followed by four full pulls wrong, and finishing with a Stedman whole turn. Passing to treble 2-3 up, it runs through to dodge in 5-6; lies a whole pull and meets the treble in 3-4 down. After dodging, it makes 3rd's, and does a triple dodge in 3-4 up, passing treble 4-5 up. It then dodges 5-6 up, and, after lying 6th's, does a dodge 3-4 down, makes 3rd's place, and dodges in 5-6 before lying. The treble then comes, and 5th's place is made. The work is then reversed, viz., lie before dodging, down to 3rd's place, which is made, dodge 3-4 up, out to 6th's, lie before dodging 5-6 down, and pass treble 4-5 down; work in 3-4, in conjunction with the 3-4 bell, i.e., commence with a triple dodge, make 3rd's place, and dodge with treble 3-4 up, out and lie before dodging 5-6 down; run through to lead, passing treble 2-3 and commence slow with Stedman whole turn; then, after four full pulls wrong, lead a half-pull, make 2nd's place, and lead again, when treble comes to snap; make 2nd's place, and the course is finished.

ROSTHERNE.

Pass treble 1-2 down. Lead, 2nd's, half-lead, 2nd's, lead, 2nd's lead, half 2nd's, lead and out.
 Pass treble 2-3 down. Lead, half 2nd's, lead, 2nd's, lead, 2nd's, half-lead, 2nd's, lead.
 Pass treble 3-4 down. 3rd's, triple dodge, 3-4 up, and out.
 Pass treble 4-5 down. Triple dodge 3-4 down, 3rd's, treble comes.
 Pass treble 5-6 down. 5th's.
 Pass treble 1-2 up. 2nd's.
 Pass treble 2-3 up. Run out, dodge and lie, meet treble 3-4.
 Pass treble 3-4 up. Run out, lie and dodge, run in.
 Pass treble 4-5 up. Dodge and lie, dodge 3-4 down, 3rd's and out, dodge and lie.
 Pass treble 5-6 up. Lie and dodge, 3rd's, dodge 3-4 up, lie and dodge.

BOB WORK.

The bob bell is that which dodged with treble in 5-6, and the work is exactly the same as in Oxford Treble Bob (see 4th in example), i.e., makes 3rd's, 4th's, 3rd's, and out behind again. The bell which snapped with treble, instead of lying a whole pull in 2nd's, runs out and lies 6th's before dodging (see 6th). The 4-5 bell, after lying, runs through and snaps with treble (see 5th). Those passing 2-3 and 3-4, work as at a plain lead; therefore, the extent will be produced by calling bobs when the observation bell passes in one of these positions. With the tenor as observation, call it 2-3, 3-4, 2-3, twice repeated, as in the previous group. Similar tips appear to warn the conductor of the omit, the chief being, when 5th is in second's place and 6th in third's place at a lead end, a plain lead is rung when she next passes treble 3-4, thus bringing up the part end.

WILMSLOW.

After becoming thoroughly conversant with Rostherne, little or no difficulty ought to be experienced in ringing Wilmslow, No. 37, page 30. With the exception of the slow work, everything is the same. With careful counting the slow will offer no trouble, it being place-making and dodging alternately. Look at the 2nd. After snapping, it leads full, and makes 2nd's place, dodges on, leads full, dodges off, makes 2nd's place, dodges on, leads full and passes treble 2-3 up. Now glance at the 6th. Passing treble 2-3 down, it does the opposite work, i.e., leads full first, dodges off, makes 2nd's place, dodges on, leads full, dodges off, makes 2nd's place, and stays in slow. Consequently the record in the notebook will be a brief one.

The same as Rostherne, except 'slow.'

Pass treble 1-2 down. Lead, 2nd's, dodge on, and off, 2nd's, dodge on, lead and out.

Pass treble 2-3 down. Lead, dodge off and on, lead, dodge off, 2nd's and lead.

'SPliced' RINGING.

At the Parish Church, Milton-next-Gravesend, Kent, on Tuesday, Sept. 15th, a 720 of Spliced Kent and Oxford Treble Bob, as published in the 'Ringing World' in the series of Multi-Method peals by Mr. John P. Fidler. It was rung at the first attempt by Cyril Mitchell 1, Fred M. Mitchell (conductor) 2, John Burles 3, Harry Argent 4, Fred A. Mitchell 5, George Morrad 6. This band offers their thanks to Mr. Fidler for his interesting talk to six-bell ringers.

BIRMINGHAM BELLS BY WIRELESS.

ALTERATION IN B.B.C. ARRANGEMENTS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—Doubtless many ringers, who are readers of the 'Radio Times' as well as the 'Ringing World,' will have seen the paragraph in the former journal announcing that the bells of St. Martin's, Birmingham, were to be simultaneously broadcast from all B.B.C. stations on Sunday next, the 27th inst., whilst in the 'Ringing World' my letter mentioned the Cathedral (St. Philip's) bells.

I am now advised that there has been some hitch in the B.B.C.'s arrangements, and that owing to the difficulty of synchronising their Sunday evening programmes the bells will be relayed to Liverpool only.

At the time the B.B.C. preliminary announcement in the 'Radio Times' went to press they were endeavouring to arrange for St. Martin's bells, but certain difficulties arose (not with regard to the bells), and it was subsequently arranged that the Cathedral bells should be simultaneously broadcast, as per my letter in last week's 'Ringing World.'

Unfortunately, further difficulties have arisen (again nothing to do with the bells or ringers, but purely B.B.C. internal matters) and as a result the bells will be broadcast from Birmingham and Liverpool only.

It is very disappointing, but I would like to express the hope, sir, that all those who do hear the ringing will send expressions of appreciation as suggested in my previous letter.—Yours faithfully,

A. PADDON SMITH.

Hon. Secretary, St. Martin's Guild, Birmingham.

WHY NOT LONDON BELLS?

Dear Sir,—It is to be hoped that all who hear Birmingham (St. Philip's) bells will do as Mr. Smith suggests and send a card to the B.B.C., as I think it may be the means of getting bells broadcast from other centres as well in the future. Why is it we have not been able to get some good ringing broadcast from London as yet? One would think there were opportunities here, and plenty of facilities. Why do not the London Societies try to make arrangements with the B.B.C.? It would give enjoyment to thousands of country ringers. I beg to inform Mr. Smith that St. Philip's were relayed on the last occasion of broadcasting, as they were heard in Feering, Essex, from Daventry, quite distinctly, and I was able to hear the calls made and the dodging as well.—Yours faithfully,

Rye Mills, Feering.

WM. KEEBLE.

STOKE POGES BELLS BROADCAST.

The bells of Stoke Poges were broadcast on Sunday evening, together with a service in the famous Buckinghamshire church, where the poet Gray lies buried. Two touches were rung, viz., 144 Kent and Oxford Treble Bob Minor, spliced, before the service, and 120 of Kent afterwards. The ringers were: J. Shaker 1, H. C. Albrecht 2, Mrs. A. D. Barker 3, T. G. Hawkins 4, W. L. Gutteridge 5, A. D. Barker (conductor) 6. Those who heard the bells and appreciated them should send a postcard to the Director of Programmes, B.B.C., 2, Savoy Hill, London.

NOTTINGHAM BELLS HEARD IN BARCELONA.

The recent broadcasting of the bells of St. Mary's, Nottingham, was received very distinctly in Barcelona by a Nottingham man, resident there. Next Sunday's S.B. from Birmingham should be heard all over the world.

WESTON-SUPER-MARE.—On Sunday, August 23rd, for evening service, at the Parish Church, 504 Grandsire Triples: J. H. Blackmore 1, J. P. Hyett 2, J. Preston (Birmingham) 3, W. Pophall 4, H. Minifie (first 504) 5, E. Parker (conductor) 6, Wm. Pitman 7, A. E. Jones (Clifford) 8. Specially arranged for J. P. Hyett, hon. secretary, Clifford District, Hereford Diocesan Guild. Also a plain course of Stedman Triples.

HARWELL, BERKS.—On Sunday, August 2nd, before evensong, 720 Grandsire Doubles: C. Hitchman 1, H. Palmer 2, R. G. Rice (conductor) 3, W. Hitchman 4, C. G. Rice 5, H. C. Mulford 6.

THE SNOWDON COMMEMORATION.

YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION'S DINNER AT LEEDS.

Leeds, the home for many years of Jasper Whitfield Snowdon, was on Saturday the venue of the fourth commemorative gathering, organised by the Yorkshire Association in memory of their founder and other past officers. In a deluge of rain, members from many parts of the county of broad acres gathered during the afternoon at the fine old parish church, associated with the ringing exploits of some famous men of past generations—a tower with which, also, Jasper Snowdon was actively identified. Ringing took place on ten and twelve bells, and then the company assembled at the Victory Hotel, Briggate, where dinner was served. The Rev. C. C. Marshall, M.A., president of the association, was in the chair, and was supported by Alderman J. S. Pritchett, Presiding Ringing Master of St. Martin's Guild, Birmingham; Rev. B. O. F. Heywood (Vicar of Leeds, and a cousin of the late Sir Arthur Heywood); Lieut.-Col. E. Kitson Clark (churchwarden of Leeds Parish Church); Rev. Canon Solloway, Vicar of Selby; Rev. R. H. Harvey, Rector of Barwick; Mr. T. Maude, Mr. J. R. Taylor (vice-president of the Lanes Association) and Mr. W. Taylor (Penwortham), Mr. G. B. Bolland (vice-president of the Yorkshire Association), Mr. A. Walker (Deputy Ringing Master, St. Martin's, Guild), Mrs. Walker, Mr. J. Cotterell (hon. treasurer), Mr. P. J. Johnson (hon. secretary, Yorks Association) and Mrs. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Goldsmith (Woking), Mr. J. F. Smallwood (Derby), Mr. Pryce Taylor (Loughborough), Mr. S. R. Roper (Croydon), etc.

After the repast, the toast of 'The King' was honoured.

The Chairman, in calling upon Col. Kitson Clark to propose the 'Church and State,' said they would have liked to take the opportunity that night to tell the Vicar and churchwarden of Leeds what they thought of their bells, but would refrain (laughter).

Col. Kitson Clark said he was sorry they could not say what they wanted to say about the bells, because it would debar him from a great opportunity of saying what he thought of the Vicar in his presence (laughter). He had, therefore, withdrawn that part of his speech, but would endeavour to put it before him after the collection in church on the morrow (laughter). In an interesting speech, Col. Kitson Clark referred to the association of Church and State in past centuries, and the importance of maintaining that association in the future. Referring to ringing, he said it was a national art, and he congratulated them upon maintaining it. He hoped they would long continue to give their attention to it for the pleasure of the English nation.

SUGGESTED RESTORATION OF LEEDS BELLS.

The Vicar of Leeds responded to the toast. In these days, he said, when everybody was more or less disturbed at the condition of the State and the condition of the Church, it behoved everyone who was a member of the Church to do all that was possible to give universal currency to that Christian spirit which alone in the last resort would lead them to a happy solution of their difficulties and troubles. Proceeding, the speaker said their President had missed the opportunity of his life that night in not letting them know what was wrong with the bells of Leeds Parish Church. Col. Kitson Clark and himself had heard dark rumours that all was not well with the bells, but if Mr. Marshall did not tell them what was the matter they could not take action (laughter). He had heard that the bells wanted rehanging. (A voice: 'They want boiling, too,' and laughter.) 'We shall get it out, somehow,' said the Vicar, amid renewed laughter. If they wanted anything done, he added, they must see what arrangements could be made. Perhaps when they had some big scheme on—they could not long delay the pointing of the church tower—the bells might be included in it (applause), and they could appeal to the whole of Leeds for subscriptions (applause). His hands were too full, continued the Vicar, to take any active part in bell ringing, but he hoped the ringers would not think on that account that he was indifferent or uninterested in the ringing of the bells. He always listened to the bells to find out, first of all, whether all the ringers were there (laughter). If he happened to hear only six bells, he felt as if he had two teeth missing (laughter). He also listened to see if they were at their best. He hoped these words would be taken as an expression of his interest and of his goodwill to a body of servants of the Church, whose office was sometimes less recognised than it might be (applause).

The Chairman, who said he had received a message of good wishes from Mrs. Snowdon, and telegrams of regret from Mr. J. Rowbotham and Mr. F. E. Dave, said he would take the opportunity, which he evidently ought to have taken before, of telling the authorities of Leeds Parish Church that their bells wanted rehanging very badly. They were at present, he thought it would be found when they came to repaint the tower, a real menace to the fabric, and they needed very badly a new frame and new fittings throughout.

The Vicar: How much will it cost?

The Chairman: That I am not prepared to say (laughter).

The Chairman, in introducing Alderman Pritchett, who was entrusted with the toast of the evening, said they were honoured in having with them the Presiding Ringing Master of the St. Martin's Guild, and his presence gave them the greatest pleasure and satisfaction. He was a busy man, and his coming there to propose the chief toast that evening was a very great act of kindness (applause), but it was only in accordance with his desire to help forward the Exercise in which they were engaged. Alderman Pritchett was well known amongst ringers, and last year he celebrated his fiftieth year as a member of the College Youths. He desired to thank Alderman Pritchett for his presence (applause).

REMINISCENCES OF JASPER SNOWDON.

Alderman Pritchett, who was cordially greeted, said it was through the kindness, pertinacity and good-humoured impertinence of their secretary, Mr. Johnson, that he was privileged to be present at that great gathering of Yorkshire ringers and to propose the toast of the memory of Jasper Snowdon. It is, he said, fifty years since I made the acquaintance of Jasper Snowdon. I recollect the first occasion very well indeed. It was in the belfry of King's Norton Church—my native place—where Mr. Snowdon was about to start for a peal, and a very hot, sweltering day it was. First of all he took off his coat; then he took off his waistcoat; and then he took off his boots, and I remember now how I wondered at the extraordinary size of those boots (laughter). I have reason to believe it was due to Mr. Snowdon's devotion to walking exercise. He then proceeded to take off his collar and necktie, leaving, as I thought, only two garments, and I was beginning to wonder what further he was going to discard (laughter), but he luckily stopped after unbuttoning his shirt and displaying the chest of a brawny athlete. Fortunately they got the peal. I took the opportunity to cultivate his acquaintance, and it ended in my inviting him to Oxford to visit me at Balliol College, where I was then a student, in the October term. He came and stayed a week with me, and a memorable week it was. In those days there were no motor buses, and unless you could afford to hire a dog-cart you had to walk. We decided to visit Woodstock one evening, and we had to walk. It was eight miles, and he said we had to do a mile every 13 minutes, and so we did. Every time we passed a mile post he looked at his watch, and it was a very hot, perspiring and fatigued young man who arrived with him at Woodstock. That was my first experience of his walking. At that time there was great ringing going on at Appleton, where the Rev. F. E. Robinson was curate in those days, and there was a very good band, including some of the Whites, who still ring there. We went one night to ring at Appleton. Jasper, when we ought to have been leaving, insisted on ringing another touch. I had got him rooms in the College, and we had to be in by eleven o'clock. But he would ring another touch, and it was not until quarter past nine that we made a start to walk the eight miles. He knew and I knew that I should have to pay a fine of half a crown each to the porter for letting us in after eleven o'clock. Well, we got there before eleven (laughter). After walking about with him in Oxford and its neighbourhood all that week the result was I became thinner all round (laughter). Jasper Snowdon was a many-sided man. One evening I gave what was called a 'wine' in his honour. It is a senseless sort of revelry, to which the students were much addicted at that time. Jasper was the soul of the party. He sang comic songs, told humorous tales, and generally distinguished himself as a most brilliant guest. His stay with me that week is a great memory. He was about ten years older than I was, and I looked upon him, as I know he was, as a great man. I called him Mr. Snowdon at first, and it was only after three days that I ventured to call him Jasper, and that is a privilege I think I earned, and which, standing here fifty years afterwards, I greatly appreciate. Jasper Snowdon was, fifty years ago this year, the founder of the Yorkshire Association of ringers, and what a splendid founder he was! He was one of the first founders of a great ringing association. He was somewhat advanced in his comparatively short life before he took up ringing in earnest, and he was 28 years of age when he rang his first peal. In the course of thirteen short years from that date he established a reputation which has grown steadily as the years have passed by, and has placed him on a pinnacle of greatness in the Exercise excelled by none, not even by my own illustrious fellow citizen, Mr. Henry Johnson. He placed the art of change ringing on a sure and satisfactory basis; he defined and made clear the principles upon which the art is founded, and to him more than to anyone else is due the wonderful development of scientific change ringing in every part of this country. He was a great writer, a great teacher and a great exponent of the art; he was a most lovable man, a friend to all who would make friends with him, and there was no one who met him who could fail to appreciate him. He was a truly great man (applause). I have been asked to couple with this toast past officers of the association. In this I feel at a loss, because I do not know what particular past officers are intended to be included, but I imagine first and foremost after Jasper Snowdon is his brother, Mr. William Snowdon, who for so many years continued to carry on the good work which Jasper had so splendidly initiated (hear, hear). He was your president for 25 years. By his indefatigable efforts to spread the literature of his brother throughout the Exercise he greatly furthered its development and success

(applause). Other names I ought to mention and dwell upon, but you will find them in the records of the Yorkshire Association. No doubt there are many past officers of this association whom individuals to-night, looking back, will remember with affection, respect and esteem, and their memory I include with the memory of the late Jasper Snowdon.

The toast was drunk in silence.

KINDRED SOCIETIES' DEBT TO SNOWDON.

Mr. A. M. C. Field submitted the toast of 'Kindred Societies.' Among those represented that night were, he said, the Midland Counties Association, St. Martin's Guild, Birmingham, the Winchester Guild, the Lancashire Association, the Worcestershire Association and the Surrey Association. These societies had all sent representatives whom they delighted to welcome. Their President had already welcomed Alderman Fritchett, their chief guest, and he (the speaker) would also like to mention Mr. Albert Walker, the Deputy Ringing Master of St. Martin's Guild, and congratulate him upon having rung 200 peals of Stedman Cinques (applause). He coupled with the toast the names of Mr. Albert Walker and Mr. J. S. Goldsmith.

Mr. Walker, who first responded, said Mr. Field really knew more than he did, because he (the speaker) did not know whether he had rung 200 peals of Stedman Cinques or not. Someone had told him he had, but he had not counted them up himself. If he had done so it was merely a matter of circumstances. He had been a member of St. Martin's Company for about 26 years, and he did not think it was such a tremendous feat to ring 200 peals of Cinques in that time. Others would have done it if they had had the same opportunity and the same excellent company that he was pleased to represent that night with his Presiding Ringing Master (applause). It was a great privilege to attend those annual dinners in honour of old ringers who had passed from them, but who laid the foundations upon which they stood to-day. He found that it was 40 years since Jasper Snowdon died, and he had, by a coincidence, been handed a record of a peal rung at Stepney, London, on November 25th, 1885. It was a peal of Stedman Caters, and among the ringers there were some honoured names. The peal was rung by James Pettit, Edgar Clark, William D. Smith, Edward Horrex, John Rowbotham, J. Martin Routh, Francis E. Dawe, Arthur P. Heywood, John Murray Hayes and William H. George, and a footnote recorded that the bells were rung double muffled in memory of Jasper Whitfield Snowdon. It would interest the Vicar of Leeds to know that it was Sir Arthur Heywood's first peal of Stedman Caters. Proceeding, Mr. Walker congratulated the Yorkshire Association on having attained its jubilee, and went on to say that these dinners seemed to serve a useful purpose. They held one at Sheffield, and the bells at the Cathedral were rehung. Last year they held the dinner at York, with the Dean of York in the chair, and they so impressed him with the soup that was poured down his back (laughter) that York Minster bells were being recast and rehung. They had not poured any soup down the back of the Vicar of Leeds that night, but they hoped that they would have the pleasure of hearing next year that the bells of Leeds Parish Church had been 'soled and holed,' or, better still, were now entirely (applause). If they wanted good ringing they must have bells that 'go' well and do not require steam or gas engines to drive them (laughter and applause).

Mr. J. S. Goldsmith also replied, and thanked the Yorkshire Association for the hospitality extended to representatives of kindred societies. He remarked that much of the success in ringing which was attained by these associations was due to the work of Jasper Snowdon, for, without his text books, the dissemination of ringing knowledge would have been a much slower process than it had been, and it was, perhaps, not too much to say that, but for his labours, the change ringers of England might not have numbered more than twenty per cent. of their present total. The kindred societies, therefore, owed far more than many people realised, to the first President of the Yorkshire Association, whose work would still stand and be recognised as the basis of sound ringing knowledge when much of the output of more recent experts was forgotten (applause).

SERVANTS OF THE CHURCH AND NATION.

Rev. Dr. Solloway proposed 'Continued prosperity of the Yorkshire Association.' There had, he said, been a great deal of prosperity during the last fifty years, and they all hoped the work would go on just as well in the future as in the days gone by. The work of change ringing was a very important work in connection with the Church, and he would like to emphasise that ringers were integral members of the Church. They were doing a work not only in connection with the Church, but they also had a work to do in the national life. These were days of all kinds of unrest and of stress, and the people of the country needed brightening up. Those engaged in the work of change ringing, like the Yorkshire Association, were taking a very important part in this work in brightening their civic and national life. They must not imagine they were only the servants of the Church, they were the servants of the nation also, and he hoped that in the days to come the work of those associations would be exceedingly prosperous (applause).

The Chairman briefly responded. He said it would be the aim and privilege of them all to try to uphold the heritage which had been handed down to them in that association, to uphold the art of ringing as an art in itself, which they themselves valued as a distinct part of church life, and also as a distinct part of the national life. He could assure their guests that night that they had done the association a great service in coming there and giving them those words of encouragement and so helping them along the way (applause).

The Chairman later welcomed their oldest Vice-President, Mr. George Bolland, and assured him of the great pleasure it gave them all to see him among them after his long illness. He hoped he would have health to be long still among them to cheer them by his company (applause).

Mr. Bolland, who was warmly applauded, suitably responded, and thanked the ringers for the sympathy extended to him in his illness.

This concluded the speechmaking.

A very enjoyable musical programme was carried out, in which some capital songs and duets were sung by Mr. Montem Smith and Mr. John Hickes, while humorous contributions were given by Mr. John Davidson. They delighted the company with their singing, and several encores were demanded. The handbell ringing included an excellent course of Stedman Cinques by members of the association from Sheffield.

NOTES BY THE WAY.

THE OLD NORWICH CONTROVERSY.—ATTACK AND COUNTER-ATTACK.

By J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

Thomas Melchior did publish his peal, as we have seen, and straightway the Coslany men set about preparing their counterblast. First, they sent Thomas Crane and a companion to get the figures of the composition. You will remember that Melchior, in the first flush of success, offered to let 'any of the curious' see the peal free, but he was probably suspicious (not without reason) of these two gentlemen, and refused to let them have it. They were not to be put off with a mere refusal, and sat up all night with him, till from sheer weariness he sold it for half a crown a man. But you may judge of their chagrin when they found that they had been tricked after all. What they had bought was not the Mancroft peal, but an earlier attempt of Melchior's with '14 Doubles and 21 alterations.'

The old English custom, when a man wanted to convince the public that he was really speaking the truth, was to offer to back his words with a wager or to take an oath on the matter.

Then, as now, men said the thing that was not, in varying degree from slight exaggeration to downright lying, and, provided that something was to be gained, it was no great matter. But when you laid a wager you stood to lose your money, and when you took an oath you were in effect staking your welfare in the next world. Originally to take an oath was a religious exercise, but it was found that there are plenty of men who, like Macbeth, for some advantage, 'here, upon this bank and shoal of time,' are quite prepared 'to jump the life to come' and temporal penalties were added to the spiritual, so that to break an oath, formally taken, became a crime as well as a sin. And so, since there was no stronger way of saying that the Mancroft peal was not a true peal, Thomas Crane went before a justice and swore that four thousand eight hundred and sixty changes were rung, and not five thousand and forty, and that the time was three hours and a half, and not three hours and forty minutes. The Mancroft men were quite equally prepared to swear the peal was true, and John Webster, their referee, also went to take an oath.

But the two cases were not quite alike. Honest Tom could take his oath with a clear conscience, for he, good simple soul, had counted the strokes of the tenor, and did not see why he should have made a mistake. Webster was quite prepared to swear that the peal was fairly and truly rung, but that did not satisfy the opposition. They wanted him to swear to the exact literal truth of the advertisement of October 31st, that there was 'never a bell out of course, nor changes alike.' Naturally he hesitated. There have been very few peals rung of which this is quite literally true. One little trip in the slow; one missed dodge; even one badly struck blow is enough to upset it. Of which of the peals of Stedman Triples you have rung would you care to say that it contained absolutely the 5,040 rows, neither more nor less? Not the last one nor the one before that! The Coslany men, in their eagerness to discredit the Mancroft peal, were asking too much. They forgot that when they rang their own peal it could be subjected to a similar test.

Then they asked Webster, 'How is it that you swear that the peal was rung by eight men, when you yourself had to help the sixth?' This was rather a poser, and Webster got out of it in a way which was more ingenious than convincing. 'Oh,' he said, 'we did not count the tenor man.'

Having made their oaths the Coslany men next inserted in the 'Gazette' of November 6th, 1731, a formal statement repeating the charge that the peal was not properly or completely rung. It was signed by Thomas Crane. I have no copy of this letter, but a fortnight later it brought forth the following reply from Melchior:—

'WHEREAS Thomas Crane did assert on Saturday before last, that that Master of Art (as he pleased to call me) rung 4,860 changes, and no more, on Monday, the 28th of October last, I will acquaint the World with his accurate Proceedings.

First he placed himself in a Public House where People were often coming in and going out: by and by in a yard, and oftentimes walking backwards and forwards telling the strokes of the Tenor: which is the method he took to prove the truth of our Performance as he himself confessed before the justice. Now I appeal to the World whether or no this Man could be a proper judge of it? He also asserted that we rung but 3 hours and a half, and likewise that we rung 180 changes too short; notwithstanding we rung 3 hours and 40 minutes, not only by Mr. William Riches's watch, but by many others in St. Peter's of Mancroft in Norwich; and that the peal contained 5,040 changes John Webster (whom they supposed to be the prompter) will firmly assert. And for the satisfaction of the Publick, I, Thomas Melchior, who composed that most intricate peal of Stedman's Triples with two Doubles and no Alteration, and the rest of the company who compleatly rung it in the aforesaid Time, do offer a Wager, Two to one, as far as Ten Guineas go, that Edward Crane's Peal (if it be the same they oftentimes endeavoured to ring at St. Michael's of Coslany) is not proper Stedman Triples. Proof as before, which we will prove before any reasonable Judge; but to challenge them to ring is beneath us; for we know that if we perform our parts to Truth we may be sworn out of it. Therefore, we leave them as false malicious Brethren, not thinking it worth our while to answer their base, scurrilous, and scandalous calumnies for the Future.

We take leave to tell the Aylesham Ringers that we do not believe that they rung 5,040 changes at once pulling down any more than they believe that we have pricked or rung Stedman's Triples; but for their further satisfaction on the 28th of December, 1719, we rung 5,040 Triple Changes (two Doubles excepted) in 3 hours and 6 minutes, at St. Peter's of Mancroft: Thomas Barrett rung the 6th; Thomas Melchior the 7th; John Webster the tenor; the other bells my Domestic Adversaries rung, who, tho' now at Variance with me, yet I hope they have so much Honesty left as to justify me in what I here assert.

—THOMAS MELCHIOR.

What the Aylsham men had done to be brought into the controversy I do not know. They may have taken sides in the matter, and incidentally made claims of their own. There seems to be no record left of their peal which would be Grandsire Triples, but a further search through the Norwich papers might throw some light on it. Aylsham bells were made eight in 1700. It has always been a rather notable place for change ringing. It is about eleven miles from Norwich, and ringing intercourse between the two places was regular. You will notice with amusement the assumption of superiority of the town ringers over the country men. Melchior has no proof that the Aylsham men did not ring their peal. He simply does not believe them. The great men of the Norwich Scholars and the College Youths had great difficulty in believing that insignificant men in country villages could ring as well as they could.

Melchior's reply to the Coslany men's criticisms was quite effective. He was quite justified in treating Thomas Crane's evidence as worthless and contemptible, and on the plan that attack is the best form of defence, he carries the war into the enemies' country. He is prepared to assert that their peal is not 'proper' Stedman's Triples; and offers to back his assertion with a wager. This was quite the regular thing to do. About this time another eminent Norfolk man, being contradicted about a quotation from the classics he made in the House of Commons, at once offered to back his opinion. His bet was taken, the Speaker appealed to, and the money paid there and then across the floor of the House. Sir Robert Walpole and Thomas Melchior agreed in this at least that the best way to show you mean what you say is to offer to back your assertion with a wager.

Up till now Thomas Crane had stood forward as the spokesman of the Coslany party, but you may be sure that he was but the figure head. The real leader and instigator of every move in the game was his brother Edward. He was by far the cleverer of the two, the composer and conductor of the band. He would never have undertaken such a task as trying to count the changes of a peal, nor would it have been consistent with his dignity to go and try and cajole Melchior out of his figures. Honest Tom was the one to do the odd jobs and fetch and carry, but now, when it comes to a question as to what is or is not 'proper' Stedman Triples, Edward comes forward in his own name, and having first confirmed all that his brother had said, he plunges into the mysteries of Stedman composition. By the way, I find I did Thomas Crane an injustice. I said a week or two ago that he never rang a peal. He did ring in one, as we shall presently see.

Legh, Esq., of Lyme Park. It bears the words: 'God save this church.' Recast 1925.

Ringers' bell (new): 'In memory of Pte. Herbert Williamson, Loyal North Lancs Regt., who died December 15th, 1918, aged 33 years, for many years a ringer at this church.' On reverse: 'The Ringers' Bell, 1925.'

Congregational bell (new): 'A thankoffering from the congregation, 1925; Te Deum Laudamus.'

The tenor and clock bell is inscribed: 'Nisi Dominus frustra' ('Unless the Lord be with you your labour is in vain.') It gives the names of the clergy and churchwardens: Arthur James Humphrey, B.A., B.D., Vicar; Edward Donovan Reeman, B.A., curate; J. W. Feruley and John T. Coles, wardens.

The bells are by Messrs. Taylor and Co., and all bear their foundry mark. The tenor is 14½ cwt.

On the following day a united service was held, when the sermon was preached by the Rev. T. Hodgson Thomas, of the Congregational Church. The offertories during the day amounted to £27 15s. 9d., so that as a result of the 'welcome' to the bells, the fund has received a very useful augmentation.

NORBURY WELCOMES ITS NEW BELLS.

A STREET PROCESSION.

An interesting and almost unique ceremony took place at Norbury, Hazel Grove, Cheshire, on Saturday, Sept. 12th, when the new peal of eight bells was given a 'welcome home' by the parishioners. Mounted on decorated lorries the bells were drawn in procession through the streets, and the collection taken on the route and by the sale of flags amounted to £94. As already mentioned in our columns, the bells replace a peal of six, which formerly hung in Norbury tower, and their provision forms part of a great restoration scheme which is being carried out. The two oldest bells in the former peal have been preserved in the porch as interesting relics, the four others have been recast, and there are four new bells, one given by the congregation, one by the ringers, one by the Freemasons, and the other provided out of the bell fund. In addition, the Nonconformists of the parish have defrayed the cost of recasting the treble.

The bells were paraded through the streets on six lorries, and the procession included, in addition to the clergy, churchwardens, choir and bell ringers, the Sunday School teachers and scholars, with a tableau, the Nonconformist ministers, representatives of the Ex-Service men and Freemasons, Girl Guides and Brownies, Boy Scouts and Cubs, and parishioners, music being supplied en route by the Hazel Grove Silver Band.

An impressive incident in the procession was seen at the Norbury War Memorial, where a halt was made to enable two boys, sons of men who fell in the war, to deposit a floral bell in memory of fallen parishioners.

A GREAT DAY.

On the return of the procession to the church a short service was held in the open air. It was opened by the band playing the tune, 'Norbury Church,' composed by Mr. S. Penney, who conducted. The proceedings concluded with a short extempore address by the Vicar (the Rev. A. J. Humphreys), who said: This has been a great day for us, which I think will stand out as a day unique in the annals of Hazel Grove. It is ninety years since the old bells were put in the church tower, and it may be another hundred years before the bells are seen again on the ground. Only once during the ninety years have any of the bells been out of the tower, and that was when one cracked, and had to be recast in 1877. We hope that the work put into the four old bells, and that the new bells which have been made, will stand in the church tower for many years. Only our grandchildren or their grandchildren will see a day like this again, and we want everyone to take the opportunity afforded them to-day and to-morrow of examining the bells with their inscriptions. When we hear them ringing in the church tower Sunday by Sunday, and at times during the week, they will sound with far more meaning than if we had never had such a day as to-day. We are thankful every one of us that God has given us beautiful weather to-day. It stands for us as a token of His blessing, for we believe that the Lord is the Lord of all things in heaven and earth, and we want the same Lord to be the Lord of all our lives, and when we hear the church bells summoning us to worship or marking the flight of time hour by hour, we shall remember that the sound of every bell is a call to us from on high to give our lives to the service of God day by day, week by week, and year by year, until it shall please God to call us to His rest and our bodies to their rest within the sound of the old church bells. It is a great day and a day full of meaning in every part of it, and I am so very thankful for myself that everyone in the village has been so willing to co-operate in the setting up of these bells as tokens of our unity together, and of our common discipleship of the one Lord. I am thankful that the ministers in Hazel Grove and the people have been with us in this act, and that one of the bells is inscribed as 'A gift of the Nonconformists,' and with a verse which is in itself a prayer that God will keep us all united.

THE INSCRIPTIONS.

The treble bell is inscribed: 'The gift of the Nonconformists of Hazel Grove: "Behold how good and joyful a thing it is for brethren to dwell together in unity." The old inscription, dated 1750, was the simple one: "Peter Legh, Esq."'

Inspection on the old (tenor) bell, the 6th of the new ring, was: 'All people may behold and see the works of good Sir Peter Legh, 1682.' To this has now been added: 'Recast 1873, Mears and Stainbank; again recast 1925,' and it bears Taylor's mark.

Fallen soldiers' bell inscription: 'In memory of the men of this parish who gave their lives in the Great War, 1914-18.' 'For God, kingdom and country.' The old inscription was: 'Peter Lee, Lord of Lime, 1748. Daniel Hedderley, Fr.'

Masonic bell: 'Dedicated by the Masons of Hazel Grove and district, 1925.' The bell bears square and compasses, and the words: 'Brotherly love and truth.'

The fifth bell (recast) was made originally, as stated in the inscription, by Thomas Mears, of London, and was dedicated by Thomas

CENTRAL COUNCIL AND ADVISORY COMMITTEES.

An important letter has been addressed by the Central Council to the Diocesan Conferences of England and Wales in the hope that the Advisory Committee, which exists in each diocese to assist the Chancellor in dealing with faculties for alterations, restorations and improvements in churches, may be strengthened by the addition of a member with a practical knowledge of bells and ringing. In some few instances the committee already includes someone thus qualified, but in the majority of cases the Advisory Committees are without anyone with knowledge of the subject from the ringers' point of view. The effort now being made to remedy this state of affairs is very necessary, because bell restoration and augmentation form an important part of the matters with which the committees have to deal. Cases occur from time to time where alterations in a church vitally affect the ringing arrangements, even if they do not actually concern the bells themselves, and unless the committee investigating the scheme has among its members a person with a practical knowledge of bells, there is a liability that this side of the question may be overlooked (as, indeed, it has been more than once), and serious and permanent prejudicial effects upon the future of ringing at that particular place may result. Again, the committees frequently include a member appointed for his special antiquarian knowledge and the zeal of gentlemen with this attainment has from time to time been an obstacle to bell restoration on lines which would facilitate ringing. In these instances a modifying influence in a committee is therefore very necessary, and we hope the Central Council's letter, which was resolved upon at the Chester meeting, will have the requisite effect.

It will be extremely interesting to see what the result is of this action by the Council. Doubtless in some cases, when the matter is brought to the notice of the Conferences, the necessary appointment will be made, but where the letter has no effect we hope the Council will not be content to let the matter slide. It is a question of the first importance that someone with a knowledge of bells and ringing should be on every one of the Advisory Committees, because, in the future, they will be, in effect, if not in fact, the deciding authority in all restorations of and additions to rings of bells. The Central Council must press their request wherever there is any doubt as to a suitable appointment being made, for too often matters of this kind are shelved by the gentle practice of ignoring them. Despite all that we are told of the recognition of ringers in these days, there still exists a considerable prejudice in some quarters, and ringers are thought to be of little account. This attitude, wherever it is to be found, is one which the Council should attack at every available opportunity, and we fancy they will find more than one such opportunity in their present endeavour. Having embarked on this very necessary campaign, they must follow it to a successful conclusion, and, through the various channels open to them, they must make those responsible for appointing these committees understand that the claim to the representation of practical knowledge of bells and ringing is important, and not to be ignored, or turned down without adequate reason.

MIDLAND DISTRICT SECRETARY'S RESIGNATION.
NO SUCCESSOR FOUND.

Members of the Midland District of the Ladies' Guild met at St. John's, Deritend, Birmingham, on Saturday, for the sole purpose of electing an honorary secretary in place of Mrs. J. E. Groves, who has held the office since 1921, and who, owing to the objection of Miss Parker, the general secretary, to a non-ringer being district secretary, felt she could not carry on any longer.

There was a fairly good attendance, and those who could not attend wrote asking Mrs. Groves to continue in office. The members present were unanimous in desiring her to continue, and Miss Pigott said it would be impossible to get anyone to do better or take more interest in the Guild. She could not understand the general secretary's attitude, as each district was allowed to select its own secretary and committee, and no rules had been broken. If the district was not flourishing it was keeping together, thanks to the secretary.

This expression of opinion reflected the views of all present, and similar sentiments were expressed in letters received from Miss Thatcher, Clerk; Miss Dodds, Miss Johnson, and others.

Mrs. Groves thanked the members for their kind appreciation, but after Miss Parker's remarks at the Reading meeting, nothing, she said, would induce her to carry on any longer.

Her resignation was, therefore, accepted with much regret.

As no one else would accept the office, the meeting concluded with a hearty vote of thanks to the Rev. J. Morgan, and to Mr. Neal and the other gentlemen, who had helped in the arrangements.

WESTERN DISTRICT MEETING.

The quarterly meeting of the Ladies' Guild (Western District) was held at Weston-super-Mare on Sept. 19th, and was well attended, in spite of heavy rain in the earlier part of the day. Members were present from Bath, Bristol, Clapton-in-Gordano, Corston, Evercreech, Portishead and Tiverton. The bells, a light peal of eight, were going soon after 3 o'clock, touches of Grandsire and Stedman being rung. The Vicar (Preb. Porcher) conducted the Guild service, and gave a short address, after which members and friends adjourned to the Paragon Cafe, where an excellent tea was served.

A short business meeting followed, Mrs. Edwards, of Portishead, presiding.—St. Philip's, Bristol, was chosen for the next meeting, to be held early in December, and Miss A. Emm was elected a life member of the Guild.

The thanks of the meeting are due to Preb. Porcher for the use of the bells, and to Mr. J. Blackmore for so kindly making all arrangements.

NORTH-WESTERN DIVISION.

A meeting of the North-Western Division was held on Saturday, Sept. 19th, at St. Dunstan's Church, Hunsdon, Herts. Unfortunately it rained practically the whole time, so the attendance was very small. However, ringing was indulged in during the afternoon, and a short service was held, conducted by the Rev. N. A. Errington. Fifteen members then sat down to tea, at which the chair was taken by the Rev. N. A. Errington.

At the business meeting, A. Wrenn was elected a member, proposed by the Hon. Barbara Gibbs, and seconded by Mr. Cook.

Very interesting discussions followed concerning the increase of lady ringers in the county, and how to assist a tower and help it to advance in the art of change ringing.

The Secretary read a letter from the Master of the Association, Mr. C. H. Howard, regretting his inability to be present.

Mr. H. Dew, on behalf of the company, thanked the Rev. N. A. Errington for the use of the bells, and for the many duties he had performed.—To this the Chairman suitably replied, saying he was always pleased to welcome members of the Essex Association. The activities by the Rev. N. A. Errington during the day were ringing with the company, conducting, holding the service, playing the organ, giving an excellent bell ringers' address, presiding at tea, and taking the chair at the business meeting.

NOTES BY THE WAY.

THE OLD NORWICH CONTROVERSY. PUBLIC EXCITEMENT LEADS TO FREE FIGHT.

By J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

This is Edward Crane's letter which appeared in the 'Gazette' of December 4th, 1731:—

WHEREAS Thomas Melchior did assert in the 'News' on the 27th past that Thomas Crane did place himself in a Public House, where there were People coming in and going out, this is to tell him that Mr. Will Aburn does here justify that he was in a room of his, and that there was nobody with him all the Time of their ringing but two of his company, till he had proved the Truth of their Peal. But this is just like offering to swear that their Advertisement was true; but when Thomas Crane went and made Affidavit before one of our Magistrates that they rung but 4,860 changes, and that we put John Webster upon his Oath, he then cunningly said it was not the peal they rung, but it was the Peal upon his Paper he would swear was true. Then we asked him why they advertised but 8 men when he was fain to relieve the 6th man? He said they did not count the tenor man. Then why was he in the 'News'? We asked him how many times their 5 fore bells struck together in one part of their Peal? He owned 5 times. Then how could this Peal be rung without Bells out of Course? Mr. Melchior was pleased likewise to say that the Peal we rung in St. Michael's of Coslany is not Stedman. I am very sorry he should show his Ignorance to both City and Country. I will appeal to any Man of his Art, whether or no they ever knew the 6th and 7th Bells were turned half the one way and half the other way, as theirs do now. I must tell him that he never pricked a Peal upon 7 bells with only Two Doubles, if he had he would have known how the great Bells should have come Home at their proper places; and not have taken himself to a Peal of 5 Bells and fled to STEDMAN for assistance; because the Peal of 5 bells will work many ways, and so will Grandsire on 5 Bells as well as Stedman. Then, I pray, let any man that is a judge in this Art tell me, why Stedman on 7 bells should not work as GRANDSIRE on 7 bells, and bring their Great Bells Home at their Quarter, Half, Three-Quarter and Whole Peal's end? Likewise STEDMAN'S on 6 bells. Why they work proper and bring their Great Bells Home at their proper time? And so do other peals on 5, 6, 7 and 8. But, alas! Mr. Melchior, if you desire to keep to your credit you must go into St. Gregory's Churchyard and call up John Garthan to do the work for you. Pray be not affronted because I tell you the Truth.

EDWARD CRANE AND HIS COMPANY.

If Thomas Melchior really meant what he said when he declared it was not worth his while to answer his opponents for the future, he speedily found that circumstances were too strong for him. The controversy blazed up fiercer than ever. The general public began to take sides; it was the sporting event of the moment, and was hotly debated in all the inns in Coslany, round Mancroft, and elsewhere in the city. His followers expected that Melchior should reply to Edward Crane's last letter. But, indeed, he was not the man to need any pressing. He could write a good letter; he had a pretty wit; and he threw himself into the fray with gusto. Whatever the other side may have thought, Melchior thoroughly enjoyed the dispute. In his last letter he had protested with dignity against the absurdity of Thomas Crane's charges. The charges had been repeated, and now he would give the other a good dressing down for his pains.

Whether Thomas Crane was speaking the truth when he said that he shut himself up in a quiet room all the time he was counting the strokes of St. Peter's tenor, or whether he was going in and out talking and being talked to, as Melchior asserted, is no great matter. I am inclined to believe Crane. Melchior, of course, could not know anything about it at first hand. Mr. Aburn, who was host of the inn where Crane was, was a friend of both sides, as a good innkeeper should be, and was quite willing to agree with each in turn. He was ready to 'testify' to Crane's version, and when Melchior called and talked the matter over, with the help of a friendly glass or two, he told him pretty much what he wanted to hear. Imagination did the rest, and Melchior sat down and wrote a lively account of Thomas Crane that must have made even that rather dull-witted gentleman squirm. It is not good to a man's vanity, after he has been posing as an authority, to be turned into a figure of fun. The date of the letter is December 11th, 1731.

WHEREAS Thomas Crane in the last Week's Paper did pretend that Mr. Aburn would justify that he was in a Room of his all the Time that we were ringing, and that there was Nobody in the Room but Two of his company: Be it known that Mr. Aburn informed us, that at their first coming they went into the yard, where they sat and heard us ring for some Time; but finding it too cold they went into the room; but he going in Some Time after, found only One Man there: Doubtless they had no discourse, for honest Tom was so brisk in telling the strokes of the tenor, that he could hardly spare time to bid RICE GREEN go and be—because he would stay no longer. Tom, methinks, has an excellent Memory, and ears as long as an ass, that he could not be put out of his Reckoning by any Noise the People made by going in and out. This indeed to me seems wonderful, for I have often mistook in telling Twelve Strokes of the Clock by some Interruption or other. But Tom was earnest in proving what he knew nothing of, for whenever the landlord came in to see what he wanted he clinched his fist, shut his Hard Mouth, and grinned at him: all this could not put infallible Tom out, but he went on telling the Strokes of the Tenor for Three Hours and a Half together in which time he told 4,860 Strokes, as he asserted. Methinks this infallible Man ought to be knighted for this grand Exploit. I would almost Envy his great skill in proving peals. I durst have sworn by the paper we had with us in which were set down the bobs and their distances taken from the original, that we rung 5,040 Changes and not Two Bells out of Course, in Three Hours and Forty Minutes. I think I know what I wrote; and John Webster remarkt every Bob that I called, and will take Oath that I called every Bob neither more nor less; yet honest Tom, by his unerring Rule of telling the strokes of the tenor, has sworn that we wanted Nine Score Changes. Likewise this Honest Man told John Webster that he never spoke that Word in his Life, but he would swear to the Truth of it. Let this be allowed him. But alas! I am sorry for poor Ned Crane, finding him void of all knowledge of Stedman's Triples. If the peal we pricked and rung be not proper Stedman's Triples, why does he not accept the Wager Two to One proffered in our last? I tell you, Ned, I am of Opinion that you would rather have made your Peal without Alteration than with had you known how. You have owned that I was the first Man that ever turned the Sixth and Seventh; but let me tell you they are All turned as well as those, Else they would not be every Bell a Course alike, which takes away all Pretension of keeping your bells as in Grandsire. If your Peal had been without alteration, we would have owned it, but as it is it must be called Ned Crane's Triples, and not Stedman's. I tell that Wise Gentleman, who was your prompter before you found that nice way of nailing your Paper against the wall to call your bobs by (though to no effect), that if John Garthan had been alive he would have laughed at your Ignorance for assigning Hunts to Stedman's Triples, whereas Stedman says every bell has a Course alike.

THOMAS MELCHIOR, by Consent of his Company.

The centre of interest now shifts to the other tower. The Mancroft peal had been rung; everything had been said about it that could be said, whether for or against: and all the while the Coslany men were trying to ring their peal. Eleven times they started for it, and eleven times, from one cause or another, it came to grief. Edward Crane was not altogether happy in his calling. Melchior charged him with having a prompter to help him, but we need not pay very much attention to that. Both bands had an extra man in the tower during their peal attempts, to act as referee, to check the bobs and vauch for the peal when rung. And both these men were strong partisans. Each was as anxious that the peal should be rung as any of the actual ringers, and no doubt would have been quite willing to have lent a helping hand, either to a bad-going bell, as John Webster did, or to supply a bob that the conductor missed. It did not seem to have occurred to either Melchior or Crane that this was not quite the best sort of referee. They ought to have invited a man from the opposite hand to be present, or got an entirely impartial umpire. But, doubtless, party feeling ran too high for the first, and the second was not available.

A more serious charge that Melchior made against Crane was that he called his bobs from a paper nailed up in the tower. That is the sort of thing some second-rate conductors have all along been tempted to do. Indeed, some years ago there were rumours of its being done in certain places, and the Central Council passed a resolution condemning the practice. It is certainly not a sportsmanlike thing to do, but I think the main thing against it is that it is not very effective. A man who has not got his peal in his head is not likely to be kept from making mistakes by a piece of paper which as likely as not he can but imperfectly see.

The time when the Coslany men intended to start for their peal was extensively advertised, and beforehand some of the livelier members of the Mancroft party paid the town crier to go round the city reciting a satirical verse which they had got the ingenious Mr. William Scott to compose for the 'occasion.' The bellman used to be one of the public institutions of Norwich. At a time when printing was rarer, and reading not a universal accomplishment, the town crier was the usual means of making things generally known. I do not know if he still exists. He did when I was a boy, though much fallen from his former high estate.

When the peal was actually begun, several hundred people gathered round the church to listen. Some would be mere citizens, but the excited partisans of both bands mustered in force. Debate and feeling were running high, and it would not have been an English crowd in the eighteenth century if there had not been plenty of betting on the result of the ringing. When the peal had gone on for upwards of a couple of hours, and it began to look as if the attempt was going to be successful, the excitement increased tenfold. The rowdier elements of the Mancroft party started to make a noise, to throw stones at the church door, and on to the lead roof, and one man, more daring than the others, actually tried to force his way inside through one of the windows. St. Michael's tower stands but a few feet away from the street, and the churchyard was surrounded by a brick wall, easily climbed by anyone with a little agility. Of course, this led to counter action by the Coslany party. A free fight ensued, and blood was shed, though by no more serious means than through punched noses. The Coslany party being on their own ground, were numerically the stronger, and the result of the fight was that they drove the Mancroft party off the field.

Was ever peal rung in such like circumstances? I have known cases where the outside people wanted to do murder, but the people to be murdered were the poor ringers inside. I never heard of another peal which so excited a city that people fell to fistcuffs over its merits while it was a-ringing.

Crane and his band were highly indignant over the affair. They laid it all to the Mancroft band, and charged Melchior with being the cause and instigator. Melchior hotly denied the charge; the Mancroft band scorned to do such things. I think he spoke the truth. Men of his sort who can speak and write as he could do not need to descend to physical violence. The riot was unpremeditated, caused by the rougher elements which are to be found in every crowd. I do not suppose their interest in Stedman Triples went further than that they had some bets on the ringing, or even that this was more than one of the many occasions that occurred for making a row.

The affair of the bellman was another matter. The Mancroft ringers themselves may not actually have employed him, but they knew very well who did, and Melchior thought the joke quite a good one, and thoroughly enjoyed the fun.

VICAR BREAKS INTO BELFRY.

UNEXPECTED INTERRUPTION AT SHREWSBURY.

On Saturday week a peal of Stedman Cinques was attempted at St. Chad's, Shrewsbury, but was brought to an abrupt termination about halfway through, from a most unexpected cause. While the ringing was in progress the Vicar, the Rev. F. E. Overton, received a note from a nursing institution in Quarry Place explaining that two important operations were to be performed, and asking that the bells might be stopped owing to the patients needing quietness.

The Vicar, from whom formal authority had previously been received for the ringing of the peal, immediately went across to the church, but found the gate of the iron railings surrounding the church locked. The vergers climbed the railings by means of a ladder, and then found that the belfry door was also locked and bolted on the inside. On the Vicar's instructions, therefore, the door was forced open, causing it to split horizontally across the middle, and damaging the panels.

Naturally the ringers were keenly disappointed at the result of the sudden interruption, especially in view of the fact that some of them had come from Staffordshire, Warwickshire and Worcestershire for the occasion. At the time of closure, splendid progress was being made, exactly half the changes having been rung in an hour and 49 minutes. The ringers were: G. R. Lilley (St. Chad's, conductor), 1. H. Knight (Wolverhampton) 2. W. Short (Glent, Worcestershire) 3. J. Perry (Brewood, Staffordshire), 4. C. Wallater (Willenhall) 5. J. Lilley (St. Chad's) 6. R. Pickering (Tettenhall) 7. W. R. Kynaston (St. Chad's) 8. E. F. Mitchell (Wolverhampton) 9. W. Fisher (Coseley, Staffordshire) 10. J. T. Elton (Walsall) 11. J. George (Birmingham) 12.

It is about thirty years since a peal of Stedman Cinques was rung at St. Chad's, and two of the ringers who took part on that occasion, Mr. Short and Mr. George, were in the abortive attempt on Saturday week.

AN UNFORTUNATE PEAL ATTEMPT.

On Saturday last, at St. Michael's, Wood Green, an attempt was made for a peal of Minor in three methods. Two 720's each of Oxford and Kent Treble Bob and Bob Minor had been rung, when the peal came to grief 120 changes from the end of the last 720 of Plain Bob, after 2 hours and 38 minutes' ringing: Miss M. Ringrose 1, G. M. Kilby 2, C. T. Coles (conductor) 3, J. G. Nash 4, A. F. Putland 5, H. Kilby 6. It would have been the first peal in three methods for the ringers of treble, 4th and 5th, and it was also the first 720 of Oxford Treble Bob by the ringers of treble and 4th.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

An advertiser in 'The Ringing World' writes: 'Many thanks for inserting advertisement. By its means I have filled the post. I recommend all employers who are ringers to use your column for similar purposes.'

Mr. William Thorley, of Loughborough, met with a serious accident on the 13th September. He was cycling on the Derby road, when he was knocked down by a car, and now lies in a serious condition in the Derby Royal Infirmary. He was to have taken part in a peal of Stedman at Shepshed on the 19th. Owing, however, to his accident Grandsire had to be substituted.

'Church Bells' for Sept. 21st, 1872, recorded, with disgust, two prize ringing festivals. One was the Eccles Wakes Festival, when prizes totalling £16 were offered for a change ringing contest at the Parish Church. The other was at St. Saviour's Church, Dartmouth, when the first prize of £8 was won by Broad Clyst; the second, £5, by Torquay; the third, £2 10s. by St. Sidwell's, Exeter; and the fourth, £1, by Blackawton. The ringing in this contest consisted of 'ups and downs and rounds and rounds,' and occasionally a few call changes. A contest of £28 5s. in prize money took place in the following week, at Glossop, when eighteen sets competed, and the ringing lasted from 9 a.m. until midnight.

History in Stedman Cinques was made on October 6th, 1788, when the first peal was rung by the College Youths at St. Martin-in-the-Fields, a 6,024 composed and called by Thomas Blakemore. This was an exceptional length for a first peal in the method, and was not exceeded until the year 1806, when 6,334 was rung at Christ Church, Spitalfields, where, some years later, fire destroyed the twelve bells.

It is interesting to note that five of the band who took part in the first performance, also took part in 1792 in what was probably only the second peal in the method, this also being rung at St. Martin's, and was again composed and called by Thomas Blakemore.

On October 1st, 1749, 'ye first peal on ye eight new bells,' a 5,040 'Bob Majors' was rung at St. Mary's, Rotherhithe, by the Eastern Scholars.

The first 'silent' peal of Kent Treble Bob Major on record was rung at Liversedge, Yorks, on October 3rd, 1863.

The first peal of Stedman Caters on the celebrated bells at All Saints', Fulham, where later a record length in the method was rung, was accomplished on October 3rd, 1819.

Established in 1686, the Ancient Society of Painswick Youths has just celebrated its 239th anniversary. Painswick bells are justly famous throughout the country, and some wonderful performances have been achieved on them. Many records have been made (some of them, of course, since surpassed elsewhere), but the 13,001 Grandsire Cinques rung on February 14th, 1920, still remains the greatest number of changes ever rung on 12 bells.

Two other among numerous noteworthy achievements may be mentioned, one of them nearly 200 years ago, and the other over a century since. These peals were the 12,006 Grandsire Caters rung in 1737, and the 12,312 in the same method in 1817.

They know well how to organise a bell fund at Norbury, Cheshire, and how to awaken public interest outside the ranks of the church congregation. The whole of the residents have been stirred up by the scheme, and not only have the Nonconformist bodies contributed the cost of a bell, but the children in their schools have done their part.

On Sunday afternoon, for instance, the handbells were taken to the Wesleyan Sunday School, the Vicar gave an address to the children, and a collection for the bell fund realised over £12! Parishes who are at a loss to know where to obtain funds for bell restoration might get a few hints from Norbury—we are sure the good folk there would be glad to pass on details of their scheme.

By the way, the Loughborough Foundry has made an excellent job of the bells and hanging. The bells were unofficially tried on Saturday, and all who heard them were delighted. The official opening is on October 24th.

Ringers who intended visiting Urchfont for the Salisbury Diocesan Guild meeting to-morrow, should note that the meeting has been postponed, but another has been arranged for Bromham on the same date.

There is likely to be a renewal of activity at another Ipswich Church. At St. Clement's, where the bells have been relunged by Mr. Alfred Bowell, a peal of seven different Minor extents has been rung by a local band, and it is 20 years since a peal was rung on these bells.

BRIGHTER BELL RINGING.

'A nervous ringer may grasp the sally tightly in a futile effort to stop the swing, in which case he would be carried aloft, and probably killed, should his head strike the ceiling.'—Daily Paper.

Personally, comments 'Punch,' we always try to avoid these humorous sallies.

MULTI-METHOD PEALS.

By J. P. FIDLER. EIGHTH ARTICLE.

Knutsford, No. 31, page 28, is the next method to practise. The work 'up' is identical to that of the two previous methods, so we can devote our attention to that done by those passing the treble 'down.' Looking at the 2nd, we find the slow work commences and finishes like that of Rostherne, with a double dodge substituted for the place-making. In the middle work, the 3-4 bell, after making 3rd's, does a half-pull in 4th's, makes 3rd's and 4th's, finishing with a half-pull in 3rd's, whilst the 4-5 bell commences with a half-pull in 3rd's, and does the opposite work.

It will be necessary to record this work, thus:—

Work 'up,' as in Rostherne.

Pass treble 1-2 down. Lead, 2nd's, half-lead, 2nd's, double dodge on, lead, half 2nd's, lead and out.
 Pass treble 2-3 down. Lead, half 2nd's, lead, double dodge off, 2nd's, half-lead, 2nd's and lead.
 Pass treble 3-4 down. 3rd's, half 4th's, 3rd's, 4th's, half 3rd's and out.
 Pass treble 4-5 down. Half 3rd's, 4th's, 3rd's, half 4th's, 3rd's.
 Pass treble 5-6 down. 5th's.

BOGEDONE.

As the figures for Bogedone do not appear in the present edition of the Collection, a lead is given. Let us look at the 'slow.' The bell which snapped with treble, leads full and makes 2nd's place, does a 5-pull dodge on the lead, lead's full and out, whilst its partner, passing treble 2-3 down, leads full first, and does a 5-pull dodge off the lead, and waits for treble. For the middle work, the bell which passed treble 3-4 down, makes 3rd's and 4th's, does a single dodge, makes 3rd's and out, and the 4-5 down bell, makes the odd place first, i.e., 3rd's, a single dodge and makes double places, i.e., 4th's & 3rd's. This needs, recording as under:

Work 'up,' as in Rostherne.

Pass treble 1-2 down. Lead, 2nd's, 5-pull dodge on the lead, lead and out.
 Pass treble 2-3 down. Lead, 5-pull dodge off the lead, 2nd's and lead.
 Pass treble 3-4 down. 3rd's, 4th's, dodge 3-4, 3rd's and out.
 Pass treble 4-5 down. 3rd's, dodge 3-4, 4th's 3rd's (treble comes).
 Pass treble 5-6 down. 5th's.

These four methods will 'splice' at any lead end.

FLY.

Ely, No. 35, page 29, the 'odd' method of the group, 'splices' only course for course. Three bells work in the 'slow,' that which passed treble 2-3 down being the mainstay. Its work may be divided into three small parts: (a) Lead, and dodge off (being work with the bell that snapped with treble); (b) 2nd's, lead, 2nd's, work which allows that bell to get away, and the one which will snap treble to come down; and (c) a single dodge on, lead and out. Meanwhile, that which snapped with treble, leads, makes 2nd's, dodges on, leads and does Treble Bob work out, and the bell passing 4-5 down does the opposite work. There is no fifth's place made under the treble, a dodge and a place in the middle being substituted.

Work 'up,' as in Rostherne.

Pass treble 1-2 down. Lead, 2nd's, dodge on, lead and Treble Bob 'up.'
 Pass treble 2-3 down. Lead, dodge off, 2nd's, lead, 2nd's, dodge on, lead.
 Pass treble 3-4 down. 3rd's, dodge 3-4 and out.
 Pass treble 4-5 down. Treble Bob down, lead, dodge off, 2nd's and lead.
 Pass treble 5-6 down. Dodge 3-4 down, 3rd's, treble comes.

There are now thirty methods to hand, and for a peal of this number, allow two 720's for the group under review, and a group to each of the remaining extents. Having successfully accomplished this, you can enter the last lap.

For the benefit of those content with seven-method peals, there are two methods, which, when added to the five already dealt with, will constitute a peal worth ringing. The first is 'Dunedin,' No. 34, page 29. This method was first rung at Norbury on July 1st, 1910, from a lead given by Mr. James S. Wilde, of Dunedin, N.Z., an old instructor of the company. He had never seen the collection of methods, and not until some time later was its presence discovered.

The other method is Chadkirk, No. 10, page 10, containing the same work 'up' and a work 'down,' which has to all intents and purposes already been learned.

MIDLAND COUNTIES ASSOCIATION.

THE SUGGESTED NEW RULES.

Melton Mowbray, the place noted for 'pork-pies' and the frequent visits of the Prince of Wales for hunting and racing, was the scene of the M.C.A.'s second quarterly meeting last Saturday.

The Church of St. Mary is a magnificent cruciform building of the Early English and Perpendicular styles, containing numerous fine stained-glass windows, and many ancient interesting monuments. The stately central tower is embattled, with octagonal turret, pinnacles and dwarf spire, and contains a fine peal of ten bells. Ringing commenced at 2.30, and was continued during the afternoon and evening, the bells being manipulated by a large number of visitors from Burton, Colgrave, Derby, Leicester, Nottingham, Peterborough, Syston, Wigston, and other places. While the ringing was not of the best, the striking being mostly in jazz style, or, as 'A flat' would term it, 'Syncopated'; it was nevertheless enjoyed by all, even though some attempts did not come 'home.'

The committee meeting took place at 4 p.m., and after the usual routine business, an appeal from Belper (where six steel bells are being 'scrapped' and a new peal of eight by Taylor being erected) was discussed, and a grant made from the Bell Repair Fund.

The Hon. Secretary informed the members that he was in communication with the Central Council and Railway Companies with reference to the suggested cheaper rates for ringers. He also announced that he had received a quantity of back issues of the M.C.A. reports, and was given permission to dispose of these to any members desiring them, on payment of cost of postage.

The suggested new rules were discussed at some length, but no satisfactory solution being arrived at it was left over for the time being.

The committee then adjourned for tea, but a hitch had occurred owing to a large number of members being present who had failed to give notice. However, after a rearrangement all got served. During tea, the Vicar (the Rev. J. M. Davies) arrived, but owing to another engagement could not stay. In a few remarks he welcomed the visitors to Melton, and before leaving was elected an hon. member.

At the subsequent meeting, the president (Ald. R. B. Chambers, R.A., J.P.) was supported by Mrs. Chambers, the hon. treasurer (Mr. W. Willson), and hon. secretary (Mr. E. Morris).—The President gave a brief outline of the committee meeting, after which the secretary read out the list of new members made since the last meeting, viz.: 6 honorary, 6 life, 9 ringing and 2 rejoined. One old and valued member (Mr. H. Briggs, of Stoney Stanton) was transferred to the life members' list.

Hearty votes of thanks to the Vicar and local committee were passed unanimously, and in seconding the latter, Mr. W. E. White asked that it might be noted that any inconvenience caused over tea arrangements was entirely the fault of members attending, who had failed to notify the local management, and urged all in future to avoid this unpleasantness, by giving the necessary notice.

Further ringing took place until 8 p.m., when a social hour was spent in harmony, handbell ringing, etc. The best 'ringing' of the afternoon was that done by Maurice Swinfield, of Burton, when he tapped on the piano a perfect course of Duffield Major followed by three courses of Stedman Triples, the 'bobs' being called by Mr. W. Willson. Owing to 'domestic' ties, the writer had to dash away very unceremoniously during a song by the local hero, so what result this had upon the hearers he cannot say! Taken altogether this meeting was most successful, and thoroughly enjoyed by all present. E. M.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—The heading of your 'leader' in the 'Ringing World' for Sept. 18th is incorrect and misleading. The words, 'M.C.A.'s proposed new rules,' infer that the suggested alterations which you mention are proposed by the Midland Counties Association, and this is quite wrong. These proposed new rules have not been put forward by the General Committee nor by any District Committee, but represent the efforts of one ordinary ringing member who does not hold any official position whatever in the M.C.A.—Yours faithfully,

A. C. WRIGHT and E. MORRIS. Hon. Secs.

[We think that no one who read the article referred to will have been misled. It is not always easy to convey an exact interpretation in a single line heading, but, after all, the new rules are proposed for the M.C.A., and no one else, and even the general committee do not constitute the whole of the association.—Ed. 'R.W.']

MUFFLED BELLS.

At St. Andrew's Church, Holborn, on Wednesday, Sept. 16th, with the bells half-muffled, 504 Grandsire Triples, also 630 in the same method: L. Gray 1, E. Brett 2, W. J. Norton 3, J. S. Hawkins 4, A. E. Darnell 5, H. Langdon 6, J. Bullock (conductor) 7, A. Riley 8. Rung as a last token of respect to Mrs. Franks, wife of Mr. Harry Franks, a respected member of the St. Andrew's Guild, whose funeral took place at Abney Park Cemetery during the afternoon.

LANCASHIRE ASSOCIATION.

THE ANNUAL MEETING.

After an absence of 16 years, the association again visited Rawtenstall for the annual meeting on Saturday, but the day chosen proved one of the worst in September, which told against the numbers present, although a goodly company got together. The nine towers in the branch were thrown open to visitors, and some of the ringers broke their journey at towers on their way down, but all made their way to headquarters in time for the service at St. Mary's, which was intoned by the Rural Dean, the Rev. G. E. Knapp Fisher, of Newchurch. The lesson was read by the Rev. Canon Elsee, President of the Association, while the Vicar (the Rev. T. Hunter) gave a forceful address. Between 50 and 60 attended the service. Tea followed in the Schools near by, when the company was increased by a party which arrived late, by charabanc. Those of the committee who were present met in a classroom to discuss the report while the later ones finished tea.

The business meeting was held afterwards, with Canon Elsee in the chair, supported by the Rev. T. Hunter, the Rev. G. E. Knapp Fisher, the hon. treasurer, secretaries (Messrs. A. Tamlinson and W. H. Shaker), the vice-president, and eight of the committee. The clergy present addressed a few words to the members, and Canon Elsee afterwards thanked them for what they had done to make the meeting a success.

The committee reported 1,502 members on the books, 102 of which had been elected during the year. The financial position was satisfactory, with a gain of £5 9s. 10d., against a loss last year. The peal list is 124—a record for the association. They had lost, by death, 12 members. The report ended with best thanks to the local secretaries who worked to get the result achieved.

Afterwards, the balance sheet was read, and passed, and the election of officers took place, there being four nominations for vice-president. Voting papers were issued, and while these were marked, collected and counted, the election of the other officers was confirmed, as no more than were required were nominated. Seventy-five papers were returned, and showed a majority in favour of Mr. J. Rollerson, who was accordingly elected for the next two years. Three places were voted on for next year's meeting, and Bolton, with its eight rings of eight and one of six, was chosen. The best thanks of the meeting was given to the organist, choir for their services, and the local ringers for making everything as comfortable as possible.

ANOTHER NOTTINGHAM VETERAN GONE.

We regret to announce the death of Mr. Joseph Woolley, at the age of 72, after only a few hours' illness. Deceased's familiar bent figure was well known in the Midlands, and while never rising to great things in ringing circles, was always a reliable man, and a worker. His one venture as a conductor is the only peal of Oxford Bob Triples yet rung in the district. He leaves a widow and two daughters, the elder of whom was Nottingham's first lady ringer.

The interment took place on Wednesday, Sept. 23rd, at Bulwell, and a course of Grandsire Triples was rung on handbells over the grave by W. E. White, F. S. Price, A. Coppock and H. R. Cobbin. A muffled touch of 504 Grandsire Triples was afterwards rung at St. Peter's, Nottingham, by F. Salter 1, M. Ward 2, S. Pinder 3, F. W. Bailey (conductor) 4, L. Chadburn 5, F. Vickers 6, G. West 7, E. R. Lader 8.

ANCIENT SOCIETY OF PAINSWICK YOUTHS ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATIONS.

On Saturday, Sept. 19th, the Ancient Society of Painswick Youths celebrated their 239th anniversary. Touches on the famous bells were rung during the afternoon, and at 5 p.m. an adjournment was made to the Institute, where an excellent meat tea was provided. The Vicar (the Rev. C. H. Neary) presided, and extended a hearty welcome to all the ringers. He said what a good thing it was to have those social gatherings for creating and fostering the spirit of brotherhood and good fellowship among them.

Mr. Albert Wright, Master of the Painswick Youths, spoke of the difficulties of keeping a band of ringers going, but he was pleased to say they now had a band of twelve, and some more coming on.

Mr. M. E. Ireland, an old supporter, and member of the Painswick Youths, expressed the great pleasure it gave him to be with them again, and said how pleased he always was to be among ringers, on account of the good fellowship and harmony which prevailed.

A hearty vote of thanks was accorded to the Vicar for presiding, and to this the Vicar suitably responded.

The tower was then again visited, and touches of Grandsire Triples, Gaters and Bob Major were rung.

On Sunday, for morning service, a well-struck quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples (1,260 changes) was rung in 45 minutes: Thomas Wright 1, William Ireland 2, William Ryland 3, Albert Wright (composer and conductor) 4, H. Hopper 5, G. Orchard 6, C. Gardiner 7, C. Barnfield 8.—On Sunday afternoon and evening, for service, touches of Triples, Gaters and Cinques were rung.

REPRESENTATION ON ADVISORY COMMITTEES.

CENTRAL COUNCIL'S LETTER TO DIOCESAN CONFERENCES.
The following letter has been sent by the Hon. Secretary of the Central Council (Mr. E. Alex. Young) to the Secretaries of the 44 Diocesan Conferences:—

'As Secretary to the Central Council of Church Bell Ringers, I have been instructed by my Council to approach the Diocesan Conferences with reference to the appointment of members to act upon Advisory Committees for additions to churches and their ornaments. Where such committees exist it frequently happens that questions relating to the rehanging or improvement of church bells are submitted for their judgment, and it is, therefore, important that each committee should if possible have among its members one at least who has some practical knowledge of the subject from the ringers' point of view.

In several dioceses care has been taken to appoint on the Advisory Committee someone who is thus qualified. And in view of the importance of the bells in many churches, my Council respectfully urges that this should always be done.

All the great Diocesan and County Associations of Ringers were represented at the meeting of the Council at Chester last June, and on their behalf I beg respectfully to ask that if the Advisory Committee for your diocese does not already include a member with practical knowledge of bells and ringing, steps may if possible be taken to add such a one to the committee, or at least to ensure that before any decision affecting the tower or bells is taken, expert opinion should be sought.'

SUSSEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

EASTERN DIVISION AT WALDRON.

A quarterly meeting of the Eastern Division was held at Waldron on Saturday last, the following towers being represented: St. Nicholas, Brighton; St. Saviour's, Eastbourne; Hailsham, Heathfield, Mayfield; Christ Church, St. Leonard's; and Southover, Lewes, together with members of the local band. Good practice was had in methods ranging from Grandsire to Cambridge Surprise Major. A short service was held, the Rector (the Rev. R. W. D. Stephenson) giving an excellent address on the duties of ringers and churchworkers generally.

Service over, a move was made to the Foxhunt Memorial Hall, where, by the generosity of several ladies in the parish, about 30 members sat down to a splendid tea, presided over by the Rector.

At the brief business meeting which followed, the Rector was voted to the chair, and the following new members were elected: Messrs. A. J. Ancock, E. Burgess, W. Burgess, A. Hilton, A. Humphrey, F. Marchant, J. Marchant, W. J. B. Parker, F. C. Pettitt, S. Pettitt, H. Wood, C. F. Woolen, all of St. Andrew's, Alfriston; H. Kent, Christ Church, St. Leonard's. Mr. W. Pickworth, of Southgate, was elected as a non-resident life member, and the election of Mr. J. F. Smallwood, of Derby, was confirmed.

Following a discussion it was decided to hold the next meeting at Rotherfield.

Mr. G. W. Stokes (the hon. secretary) proposed a hearty vote of thanks to the Rector for the use of the bells, and his address at the service. He also thanked the ladies who had so kindly provided the tea, and had attended to the ringers' wants at the table.

The Rev. R. W. D. Stephenson, in responding for himself, and on behalf of the ladies, said what a pleasure it had been to have the members of the association amongst them that day. He thanked them for their kind remarks, and wished the association every success.

The meeting then terminated, the members returning to the tower, where the bells were kept going until 8 p.m. For the success of the meeting great thanks are due to Mr. C. H. Humphrey, who kindly made all the arrangements.

REGISTER OF COMPOSITIONS.

To the Editor.

Sir,—Mr. G. P. Burton will have to try again. Fancy having to label a composition No. 274,000. No, never let us do away with the composer's name. Why should we do so? It is a custom handed down, I believe, ever since the early days of ringing. When, if ever, a register is compiled whose peals would be included; all or only the best ones? I ask this question, as recently a well-known composer stated he had compositions of one method alone running into six figures. Would all these be included? It would need some register. Neither do I think many, if any, hands would trouble to ask the number. There are to-day not alone hundreds, but thousands of ringers who could not tell the course ends of a peal and compare it with a number in a register. I quite agree with Mr. Trollope in his 'Notes by the Way' of Sept. 18th. Even now he says it takes a very keen ear to take down from outside a peal of Stedman Triples the composition, of which the listener does not know. Mr. Trollope might have added, 'and other methods as well.'—Yours truly,

'IN AND STHS.'

GLOUCESTER AND BRISTOL ASSOCIATION

A very pleasant meeting of the Bristol branch took place at Bitton on Saturday last, members attending from St. Stephen's, St. Philip's, St. Peter's, Almondsbury, Henbury and Mangotsfield. Mr. J. A. Hart, of London, and Mr. C. D. Heginbotham, of Devizes, were also present, and the members were specially pleased to welcome the latter, after his long illness. Several touches of Grandsire, Stedman and Plain Bob were rung before tea, which was served in the Village Hall. The usual vote of thanks was passed to the Vicar for the use of the bells, also to Mr. G. Hillier, of Bitton, for having the bells ready, and making the arrangements for tea.

Mr. J. Gould thanked the members of the Bristol Branch, on behalf of Mrs. Gould and himself, for their handsome wedding present, which consisted of an oak hall stand, and said it would remind them of the many pleasant gatherings every time they took their hats off the pegs to come to the meetings.

The tower was afterwards again visited, and good use made of the bells, some members ringing their first touches of Stedman and Grandsire.

DEATH OF A MALDON RINGER.

We regret to report the death of William George Mansfield, of Maldon, Essex, who passed away rather suddenly on Thursday, Sept. 17th. The deceased was taken ill whilst at work at Messrs. Sadd and Son's, timber merchants. He was removed to his home, where he died in a few hours.

The deceased, who was 61 years of age, had been a bell ringer at All Saints' Church for 47 years, and was the oldest ringer in Maldon.

The funeral took place at the Cemetery on Tuesday Sept. 22nd, when the ringers were represented by Messrs. R. Hutson, F. Chalk, W. J. Brinkley, A. South and F. May, of Rettendon. During the evening, as a last token of respect, touches of Bob Major and Grandsire Triples were rung with the bells fully muffled, the following ringers taking part: Miss A. E. Walcock, Messrs. R. Hutson, F. Chalk, W. H. Chalk, J. Walden, W. J. Brinkley, A. Mansfield, A. South, E. Ellinger, J. Amos and F. May.

WORCESTERSHIRE ASSOCIATION.*CHANGE OF MASTER IN NORTHERN BRANCH.

The annual meeting of the Northern Branch was held at Hagley on Saturday, Sept. 19th. Unfortunately the weather was very wet, but in spite of this there was a good attendance of members, the following towers being represented: Selly Oak, Smethwick, Halesowen, Old Hill, Rowley Regis, Cradley, Brierley Hill, Wordsley, Wollaston, Stourbridge, Oldswinford, Hagley and Kidderminster. The bells of the Parish Church were rung during the afternoon, and service was held in the church, conducted by the Rector (the Rev. R. Burns), who, in the course of an interesting address, pointed out the usefulness of the work of bell ringers in calling people to the House of God.—After the service, tea was provided in the Village Schools.

The business meeting followed, at which the Rector presided, supported by Messrs. J. Nicholls and G. A. Lionel Hatton (churchwardens), R. Mathews (Ringing Master of the Association), W. B. Cartwright (Ringing Master, Northern Branch), T. J. Salter, J. Price, E. Mason and A. J. Skelding (secretary, Northern Branch).—A letter of apology was received from Mr. A. E. Parsons, who sent his kind greetings to the meeting.

A hearty welcome was extended to Mr. Keith Hart of the Sussex County Association, who was on holiday in the district.

The Rector welcomed the association to Hagley, and said he was sorry they were seeing Hagley under such conditions, but he hoped that when they came again more favourable conditions would prevail.

The election of officers took place, and Mr. A. Hackett, of Halesowen, was elected Ringing Master, in place of Mr. W. B. Cartwright, who resigned on account of pressure of business. Mr. A. J. Skelding (Stourbridge) was re-elected branch secretary, and Mr. J. Price (Old Hill) was re-elected Central Committee representative.

It was decided to hold the next meeting at Wollaston on the third Saturday in January, 1926.

Hearty thanks were accorded to Mr. Cartwright for the excellent work he had done on behalf of the association during his term of office.

The Rector, Mr. Nicholls and Mr. Hatton were elected hon. members, and Mr. Cartwright moved a vote of thanks to the Rector, the churchwardens (Mr. W. Molineux and Mr. Tandy) for their welcome to the association, and hearty thanks were also given to the ladies who had served the tea.

The Rector, in reply, thanked the ringers for electing him an hon. member of the association, and Mr. Hatton replied on behalf of himself and his colleague, Mr. J. Nicholls, who had had to leave the meeting early.

A move was then made to the tower, where touches in various methods on the bells were rung, and this brought a successful meeting to a close.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.*SUCCESSFUL MEETING IN LONDON.

The East Berks and South Bucks Branch experiment of holding a reunion in London was quite a success, ringers being present from Beaconsfield, Camberwell, Chalfont St. Giles, Crayford, Dartford, Ealing, Edmonton, Hammersmith, Highgate, Holborn, Hughenden, Leytonstone, Rickmansworth, St. Albans, Southgate, Stoke Poges, West Ham, and a well-known couple who reside in London. Some of the earlier arrivals had a friendly pull at the North District meeting of the London County Association at Tower Hill, and three o'clock at St. Dunstan's saw Mr. T. H. Taffender and the branch secretary anxiously looking for ringers. Within a few minutes, however, 'Go, Cambridge,' was called, followed by London, Stedman, Kent and Superlative.

The ringing chamber at this church does great credit to the energies of Mr. T. H. Taffender, who is in charge, it being many years since one could come out as clean as one went in.

Despite the somewhat boisterous weather, the activities of Cupid could not be suppressed, although his arrows apparently failed to find a permanent resting-place.

At St. Clement Dances, Grandsire, Stedman and Kent were rung, and then a good course of Cambridge Royal, by a band composed of five resident and five non-resident members of the Guild, made an excellent finish.

Afterwards, at 'The Edinburgh,' memories of 'ten, twenty, thirty, years ago,' were revived. Touches on handbells were enjoyed by various members of the party, and, later, the company were joined by some of the St. Paul's Cathedral band, who entertained them with some Stedman Cinques.

That common foe, the clock, brought this enjoyable occasion to a much too speedy end.

NORTH BUCKS BRANCH REVISIT SHENLEY.

A quarterly meeting of the North Bucks Branch was held at Shenley on Saturday, Sept. 12th, when a very pleasant afternoon and evening were spent, the attendance numbering 40, which was considered very satisfactory, as all the visitors had to reach this isolated spot by 'wheel,' no station being near. The towers represented were Bletchley, Bechampton, Bradwell, Calverton, Penny Stratford, Great Linford, Loughton, Newport Pagnell, Stony Stratford, and Simpson, together with the local men. The bells are a fine ring of six. Service had been arranged, with the choir taking part, and reminded all of the happy times when the annual festival used to be held at Shenley, the chief feature then being the service. The address was given by the Rev. Reid, Rector of Stoke Hammond, who has recently been appointed to the living. After service, tea was served on the Rectory lawn.—The Chairman of the North Bucks Branch (the Rev. L. Moxon) thanked the Rector of Shenley (the Rev. R. H. Evered) for permitting the meeting to be held at Shenley, where for so many years their annual festival was held, during the time their late chairman (the Rev. J. R. Vincent) was rector. It was a pleasure to see such a large gathering, and remarkable to see so many young members, showing that the branch was still going strong.—Mr. W. Sear (secretary) addressed the meeting on the position of the branch affairs, and thanked all those who had helped to make the meeting such a success, especially the Vicar of Shenley.—The latter, who responded, said that he hoped he would have the pleasure of welcoming them there again in the near future. Further ringing afterwards took place at the towers of Shenley, Loughton and Old Bradwell. Miss Steel, of Bedford, and Messrs. Herbert, of Woburn, were visitors to the meeting, and the methods rung ranged from Grandsire and Stedman Doubles to Cambridge Surprise Minor.

MR. S. GREENHALGH'S 100 PEALS.

Mr. Samuel Greenhalgh, of Pendleton, Manchester, completed his 'century' by a peal of Stedman Triples, at Mottram, Cheshire, on Saturday, Sept. 12th. The list is as follows: Grandsire Triples, 2; Stedman Triples, 32; Stedman Caters, 5; Kent Treble Bob Major, 20; Kent Treble Bob Royal, 4; Kent Treble Bob Maximus, 1; Oxford Treble Bob Major, 2; Oxford Treble Bob Royal, 2; Oxford Treble Bob Maximus, 1; Superlative Surprise Major, 21; Cambridge Surprise Major, 7; Double Norwich Major, 3; total, 100.

The peal of Oxford Treble Bob Maximus was the first in the North of England, and was rung at Ashton-under-Lyne on January 20th, 1914.

MUFFLED BELLS.

At St. Andrew's Church, Limpsfield Chart, Surrey, on Saturday, Sept. 12th, with the bells half-muffled, a quarter-peal of Minor, being 720 of Kent 360 of Oxford Treble Bob, and 180 of Plain Bob: S. Heath 1, H. Tidy 2, P. Tidy 3, C. Church 4, L. Tidy 5, E. Tidy (conductor) 6. Rung as a last token of respect to Gladys, daughter of Mr. T. Firminger, one of the ringers of the local band, who was interred at Limpsfield Parish Church that afternoon.

THE LATE MR. W. ROCK SMALL. PROPOSED MEMORIAL.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—Kindly allow me, through the medium of your columns, to inform your readers that a movement is being made to erect a memorial in memory of the late William Rock Small, who recently passed away, at the advanced age of 85 years.

It has been suggested that a stained glass window or brass tablet should be placed in the Tipton Parish Church, and no doubt many friends would like to subscribe to this effort. Accordingly a fund has been opened, and all donations will be thankfully received, and should be addressed to the undersigned, at 52, Park Lane East, Tipton, Staffs.—Yours faithfully,

JOHN B. EVANS.

NINETY YEARS' BELFRY LINK BROKEN. DORKING VETERAN'S DEATH.

The death occurred on Sept. 24th, at the age of 71 years, of Mr. Harry Boxall, of Dorking, Surrey. He had been a ringer at St. Martin's Church for 53 years, and, with his passing, the name of Boxall disappears from Dorking belfry, after a continuous association with the tower for 90 years. Deceased's father and uncle were ringers before him, and both rang in two churches before the present imposing building was erected. Mr. Boxall was a man who thought more of a well-struck 500 than many a faulty peal.

On the occasion of the funeral of the deceased, which took place at Dorking Cemetery on Monday, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples, with the bells muffled, was rung in 47 mins., by William Messum 1, Alfred Dobinson 2, John Wyatt 3, Edward Hull 4, George Cook 5, Arthur Dean 6, John H. White (conductor) 7, William Lynch 8.

WINCHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD.

A very pleasant meeting of the Yorktown district was held at Egham on Saturday, Sept. 12th. Visitors and members attended from Chertsey, Bagshot, Blackwater, Finchampstead, Isclworth, Staines, Sunbury, Yorktown, Old Windsor, and the local band. The Guild's form of service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. E. C. Tranter), who also entertained the visitors to an excellent tea. Unfortunately he could not stay to the business meeting, owing to an important engagement, and the best thanks of the members was given him for his various kindnesses. In his absence, Mr. Nye was voted to the chair for the business meeting, at which it was resolved that an application be made to the railway company for cheaper fares to members attending ringing meetings. The members then made their way to the belfry, where ringing, which had been enjoyed during the afternoon, was again indulged in until 8.30 p.m.

GUILDFORD DISTRICT.

A meeting of the Guildford District was held at Cobham on Saturday, Sept. 12th, when there was a good attendance. Ringers were present from Clondon, Godalming, Holy Trinity and St. Nicolas, Guildford, Haslemere, Hersham, Leatherhead, Shere and Worplesdon, as well as the members of the local company. The bells were available during the afternoon, and a short service was held in the church, conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. J. Du V. Brunton), who also gave an address. Tea was served in the Churchroom, over 30 sitting down, presided over by the Vicar. A short business meeting followed, at which an apology was read from the Ringing Master (Mr. A. C. Hazelden), who was absent, through illness in his family.

The usual vote of thanks was passed to the Vicar for conducting the service, and for the use of the bells, also to Mr. W. James and the local company for making the arrangements.

After some touches on handbells, the tower was again visited, and several touches of Surprise and Plain Minor methods were rung, under the conductorship of Mr. A. H. Pulling.

THE 'FRIENDLY' PEAL AT PUTNEY.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—With reference to the peal rung at Putney on the 10th inst., it would appear from the way it was published, that all the ringers were members of the Ancient Society of College Youths and the St. Mary's Society, Putney. As a matter of fact, one of the band was not a member of either society, and only four were members of the local society.

A similar discrepancy occurred two years ago, when a peal was rung in honour of Mr. T. Bolton's birthday, and then, as in the present instance, it was understood previously, that it was to be a non-society peal.

Mention might have been made of the inability of Mr. Bolton's taking part in the peal, to the great disappointment of all concerned.

With all deference to the local secretary, I think it is very important to publish peals as correctly as possible.—Yours truly,

H. LANGDON.

RINGERS' OUTINGS.

TAUNTON RINGERS' TRIP.

St. Mary's Guild, Taunton, together with a few friends, visited Bournemouth for their annual outing on August 15th. The party, numbering nineteen, including the Rev. — Allen (curate), left Taunton by charabanc at 7 a.m. The first halt was made at Dorchester, where the party was met by Mr. J. Godwin (Rector's warden). The bells of the Parish Church were soon raised in peal, and touches of Stedman and Grandsire Triples were rung, and the journey was then resumed, Wareham being the next stop. Here they were met by the steeplekeeper. The bells were found up, and Stedman and Grandsire Triples were rung. The next stopping place was Poole, where Mr. Townsend welcomed the visitors, and Grandsire and Stedman Triples and Bob Major were rung. On reaching Bournemouth lunch was partaken of at the Tregonwell Arms Private Hotel. The party broke up to spend the afternoon in various ways. They reassembled for tea at 4.45 p.m., after which the homeward journey was commenced, the route being via Blandford to Sherborne. Here they were met by Mr. King, captain of the local ringers. The heavy ring of eight (tenor 46 cwt.) were raised in peal, and some Stedman and Grandsire Triples were rung. Taunton was eventually reached at 10.45 p.m., the party having thoroughly enjoyed their trip. The ringers wish, through the 'Ringing World,' to thank the incumbents for the use of the bells; also the towerkeepers for having everything in readiness.

LUTON RINGERS' EXCURSION.

On Saturday, August 15th, in ideal weather, Luton Parish Church ringers had their annual outing by motor. A start was made at 9 a.m. for Woburn, the party being welcomed by Messrs. C. and E. Herbert, and a good hour's ringing was indulged in on these delightful bells. The next place of call was Newport Pagnell; but, owing to sudden illness near the tower, no ringing could be done, which was a great disappointment, shared by both the visitors and the curate (the Rev. L. S. Parkinson), who gave a hearty welcome on behalf of the Vicar. After a look round the church and town, the party headed for Northampton, where lunch was served at the Angel Hotel. Afterwards it was proposed to visit Buckingham, but the Vicar could not allow the use of the bells, owing to the recent death of the vergier, and a new one had not yet been appointed, so at short notice a call was made at Wicken, where the visitors were met by Mr. Green. Not much ringing could be done here, however, as the village was en fête, and a hospital demonstration was in progress in the park close to the church. Tring was the next place of call, and was reached via Buckingham and Aylesbury. After tea the tower was visited, where Mr. Brackley received the party, in the absence of Mr. F. Reeve, who was on holiday. Various methods were rung on this grand peal of bells, and tracks were then made homewards, Luton being reached at 10.5 p.m. The methods rung during the day were London, Bristol, Cambridge and Superlative Surprise and Kent Treble Bob Major, Stedman and Grandsire Triples. The visitors wish to thank, through the medium of the 'Ringing World,' the various incumbents for the use of the bells, and friends for making the outing a success.

ALDBURGH RINGERS' OUTING.

The ringers of SS. Peter and Paul's Church, Aldburgh, had a most enjoyable outing on Saturday, August 22nd. The trip this year was on rather a smaller scale than usual, although the ringing was of a high standard. Three towers were visited, viz. Halesworth, Chediston and Wisset. Two or three of the local ringers, including Mr. F. C. Lambert, met the company at Halesworth, where some good touches, including Cambridge Surprise, Stedman and Grandsire Triples were brought round. Chediston bells were found to be a very handy six, and a good 720 of Cambridge Surprise was rung, in which Mr. F. C. Lambert and Mr. F. Peck took part, this being their first 720 in the method. Other touches, including London Surprise, Oxford Treble Bob, Stedman and Grandsire Doubles, were brought round. At Wisset a splendid 720 of Norwich Surprise was scored, as well as several other good touches. Returning to Halesworth, a very hearty meal was much enjoyed, after which the bells again pealed forth. This time Stedman Triples and Kent Treble Bob Major were the methods rung. Touches, including Bob Royal, Grandsire Triples and Calers, were also rung on the old peal of handbells. Several old ringing friends were met during the afternoon, and a very pleasant time spent. Although tired, all were happy on arriving home about 11 p.m. Thanks of the band are due to the Rectors of the churches visited for permission to use the bells, also to Mr. F. C. Lambert for so kindly making the necessary arrangements.

BARNSELY & DISTRICT ASSOCIATION.

A happy meeting was held at Wortley on Saturday, Sept. 5th, about thirty members being present from Anston, Darfield, Hoylandswaine, Felkirk, Rotherham, Sandal, Horbury, Wath, Penistone, Barnsley, and the local company. Much interest was shown by young learners, and encouragement and help were given them by the veterans. The usual tea was arranged for by Mr. Wooller, and duly appreciated.

An invitation to hold the next meeting in October was promptly accepted, and a rush made for further ringing.

WORK FOR THE ASSOCIATIONS.

Are the great ringing associations, as a whole, doing all that they might do to help young ringers, and particularly young bands? In one or two instances valuable work is done by association instructors, and the voluntary efforts of individual ringers in assisting in towers in their own neighbourhood must not be overlooked; but in how many areas can we find any officially organised effort to give young companies a start up the campanological ladder, or to enable struggling bands to ascend to higher things? There are some associations who, in their rules, profess to provide instruction, but year after year one may peruse their balance sheets and find no reference whatever to expenditure under this head. The fact is the young ringer is left largely to his own devices. If he is fortunate enough to join a competent band he may get all the help he needs, and his progress may be rapid. But there are large numbers who have no such advantage. Their ringing connection in their local tower is with men whose knowledge is as limited as their own; there is nothing to put an edge to their enthusiasm, and what small encouragement and help they may get by attending a district meeting carries them very little on the road to greater things. Sometimes, perhaps, a fortuitous circumstance brings into their midst an accomplished ringer, who can impart his own knowledge and keenness, and then we get the sequel like that which is to be found at Kempston, Beds, where a band unacquainted with change ringing three years ago, can now ring a number of Minor methods, through the energy of one individual who proved himself a leader.

But what are the Associations doing towards this same end? At most, they occasionally provide an instructor who gives a dozen or twenty lessons, which may or may not get the band to the stage of Grandsire Doubles, before they are left to shift for themselves. At least, they do nothing, but rely upon the false idea that if ringers want to get on they will make their own opportunities. In the area of nearly all the territorial associations there is scope for the well organised tuition of bands, which should not cease, but only be beginning, when the pupils have grasped the merest elementary idea of change ringing. The instruction should go on until the band can grapple with the highest methods, and it would be found that the longer they were assisted the quicker, in proportion, would they progress. It should be the aim of the associations, who claim to put the fostering of change ringing into the forefront of their objects, to formulate schemes for extending practical help to the members who would profit by instruction. It would probably cost money, but it would be money well invested. Particularly would this be so if at the same time endeavours were made to enlarge the size of ringing companies. At present, even in towers where there is no payment for services rendered, and there is consequently no incentive to limit the numbers, it is seldom one finds the band attached to the church very much greater than the number of bells. We can see no real objection to a company of, say, twenty ringers at an eight-bell tower, but there are many arguments in favour of a big reserve, while to the associations it would mean a vastly increased membership. There may be, and, indeed, are, difficulties in the way, for there are some towers which cannot muster up as many ringers as bells, and there are others which have their special drawbacks on account of inaccessibility; but these matters are just the things which the associations, as central organising bodies, ought to undertake, and which they could tackle to their own ultimate advantage.

TWO PRESENTATIONS AT BUCKNALL.

At Bucknall, Stoke-on-Trent, on Sept. 24th, by the kind invitation of Mr. W. Wheeldon, senr., leader of St. Mary's band, and Mrs. Wheeldon, the ringers were entertained to supper, the occasion being an 'At Home' to Mr. and Mrs. W. Wheeldon, junr., also the birthday of the leader of the band.

After supper, with Mr. Chas. Preston in the chair, two interesting events took place. The first was the presentation of an eight-day clock to Mr. W. Wheeldon, junr., on the occasion of his recent marriage; the presentation was made by Mr. W. Fradley. The second was a presentation to Mr. W. Wheeldon, senr., leader of the band, and this also consisted of a clock; the gift being handed to Mr. Wheeldon by Miss Alice Preston. Both gifts were suitably acknowledged, and a vote of thanks to the host and hostess for their hospitality brought a very enjoyable evening to a close.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AS VICAR.

On completing 25 years as Vicar of Elham, the Rev. A. C. de Bourbel, was presented by the parishioners on Monday, Sept. 28th, with a grandfather's clock, accompanied by an album with names of subscribers, which included members of the Free Church Denominations, as well as Church of England. After the presentation, touches of Stedman and Grandsire Triples were rung on the bells of the Parish Church by Messrs. S. and J. Binfield (Folkestone), the Misses Hardcastle and Chapman (Stratham), Messrs. F. Verney, T. Friend and F. and A. Castle, of the local band, conducted by S. Binfield and A. Castle.

NOTES BY THE WAY.

MELCHIOR AND CRANE.—THE NORWICH MEN'S DEBATE ON STEDMAN.

By J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

The board recording the Coshany peal, reads as follows:—

In this steeple on the sixth of December, 1731, Was rung that most incomparable, as well as intricate, Peal of Stedman Triples, which had long been ye Study of many well skilled in the Art of Ringing, but without success, till Edward Crane, one of the company, with much pains and application brought it to perfection with two Doubles. The peal contains 5,040 Triple Changes, two Doubles only excepted, and is allowed by all Judges of the Art to be the most Ingenious Peal that till now has been composed. The Bobs were called by Edward Crane before mentioned, and was rung and completed in 3 hours 18 minutes by us whose names are underwritten: Richard Barnham 1, Edward Crane 2, Jno. Harvey 3, Robt. Nockall 4, Wm. Pettingill 5, Thos. Crane 6, Rice Greene 7, R. Crane tenor.

The following letter from Edward Crane appeared in the 'Gazette' of December 24th, 1731:—

'WHEREAS Mr. Melchior did advertise on the 11th instant by the consent of his company, a kind of Banter upon St. Michael's Company; but not one Word of Truth unless it was that honest Tom has ears as long as an Ass. Truth indeed, but that is such asses as themselves; but that is not all. Whereas on Monday, the 6th of this instant December was rung at St. Michael's that ingenious Peal called Stedman's Triples, which contains 5,040 Changes (being the first time that ever it was rung), notwithstanding some of St. Peter's Company did employ a Bell Man to cry about the streets the following scandalous Verses, just before we began to ring, viz.:—

This is to give Notice to all Sorts of People

That the Ringers that practice at St. Michael's Steeple,
Have craz'd their Brains, by setting forth false Pretences,
That it is to be fear'd they have quite lost their senses.

Therefore, let 'em repair to JOHN FOSTER'S, and 'tis plain
There's those that can help them to their senses again.

And a little before the peal was ended, they had the impudence to swear we should not ring it out; and so did fling stones up the Church Leads and against the Doors, and did cause the Boys in the Street to cry Huzzas; nay one of them was so impertinent as to open the Window of the Church to get in; but was prevented by the People that stood to hear the Peal come out, and were sent home to their Shame with Bloody Noses; all this some hundreds of People saw that stood to hear the Peal; this is good Credit for St. Peter's Ringers. Mr. Melchior was pleased to say that the Peal we rang was not Stedman Triples. I will meet him before any gentleman who is a proper judge of the Art, and belongs to neither company, and I will lay down my Peal at Length, and he shall do the same and let us dispute it out which is the properest Peal, according to Stedman's own Rule on Five Bells. Mr. Melchior you are pleased to say that in Stedman every Bell has its Course alike; but Stedman is mistaken, and so are you. These are the Names of the Men that rang the Peal on Monday, the 6th instant, aforesaid, viz.: Richard Barnham treble, Edward Crane 2nd, John Harvey 3rd, Robert Nockold 4th, William Pettingill 5, Thomas Crane 6th, Rice Green 7th, Robert Crane tenor.

Melchior's reply was as follows:—

'WHEREAS Mr. Edward Crane (not Sir Thomas) did in the public News on the 24th of December, 1731, Charge St. Peter's Ringers with many base and scandalous Actions, which they are ashamed to hear of much more to act; for I must tell you that St. Peter's Ringers Scorn to act or encourage any such thing; neither can you bring any one Person of those Hundreds that you mention, that can prove they did any one of those things you charge them withal; if you could you would have set down the Name. Perhaps you thought that Every Body had long Ears and a foul Tongue that would swear to that they knew nothing of; but you are mistaken as well as others of your company, who, pretending to justify it, heard it all denied to their faces by their own Neighbours. As for the Bell Man's being employed, you may lay that to whom you will; but the Intents of it (as I am informed) was to animate your fearful Hearts at the dreadful approach of your alterations. For who could have thought that the Sight of those dismal changes could have defeated such old Veteran ringers, and put them out 11 Times together, as you have lately been at St. Michael's; where you likewise say, you have rung 5,040 Stedman's Triples. But it was rung no otherwise than with changes alike; Witness your 4th Bell dodging Behind with the 3rd, 2nd and 7th Back Stroke, instead of 2, 4. These things are not to be found in your Peal as you prick't it, yet you all inserted your Names that you rung it: much akin to your former assertions. Likewise you say Stedman and I are mistaken by saying every Bell has a Course alike. As you accused us in Publick, it is reason you should dispute us in Publick; and in your next let me know your Opinion if these Figures in the Margin be the proper Form and Grounds of STEDMAN'S DOUBLES? And whether they, by being brought 5 times over in an expressible denominative Course do not produce 60, every Bell a Course alike? 4 5 3 1 2

And whether your whole Peal begins from every 12th 5 4 3 2 1
Change throughout your 5,040 as mine, and this Peal in 5 3 4 1 2 the Margin successively do through the 120?

'THOMAS MELCHIOR.'

The controversy is now about the composition of the two peals, and before we discuss that, we had better have the two remaining letters. They are as follows:—

'WHEREAS Mr. Melchior refuseth to meet me before any Man that belongs to neither Company, and that is a judge in the Art of Ringing, but desires that I should dispute with him in Publick; as long as he can deny the Truth in the publick Prints he will go on with his base and Scandalous Actions; for he would make the World believe that he is a very great Man, and Exceeds all in that Art. But, Mr. Melchior, you call me to Account for saying STEDMAN is mistaken and so are you; but if I be right it is so. STEDMAN in page 129 says: That all the bells have a like Course: but if it be so, then tell me why there is Two Alterations in STEDMAN on FIVE BELLS? For the 2nd and 3rd Change Places, therefore, every Bell hath not a course alike; if they had, every Bell would have changed as well as they. But STEDMAN in page 130 says: Whatsoever Two Bells be dodging Behind, at the First Extream, the same Two Bells coming together again Behind is Certaine Warning for the Second Extream to be made; but I must tell you in my Peal of 5,040 when the Doubles are made the same Bells dodge Behind at the first and second Extream or Alterations, as you are pleased to call them. But to the End the Publick may not be imposed on, I have prick't the first Twelve Changes as STEDMAN did himself, and the rest by Quick Hunt; and I would have the World take Notice that the first Time Mr. Melchior makes his Two Doubles with the same Two Bells dodging as STEDMAN does on Five Bells, I will give him a Bowl of Punch of 10s. to cheer up his drooping Heart. For I design to answer no more of his base and Scandalous Advertisements, but rather advise him to keep his Money; and to give every Man his Half-Crown again that he had for his Peal of STEDMAN TRIPLES with fourteen Doubles and 21 Alterations.

'EDWARD CRANE.'

(To understand Crane's point you must remember that Stedman made his Single on the front bells in the middle of a Quick Six, and not on the back bells as has been usual for many years.)

'MR. CRANE, I expected that such an ingenious and compleat Ringer as you have stiled yourself could have found an Answer to Two such easie Questions as I proposed in my last; and not have shifted them off with a false Notion that I refuse to dispute you before any Man that belongs to neither Company; these are scandalous Actions indeed in such a Man as you, who know nothing but how to carp and cavil at another Man's Works, as at the Extream of Stedman: where you say that the 2nd and 3rd Change Places; therefore, every Bell hath not a course alike. But you are mistaken and not Stedman; for if the first 60 Changes be every Bell a like Course so have the last 60; for they do not Change Courses but only Places; for the Courses are entire Whole throughout the Peal, beginning 21354 from every 12th change, which 12 Changes are the real true Course and Grounds of the Whole Work. And Doleman, in page 46, says: "In this Peal every Bell hath one and the same Course, there being no proper Hunt or Half Hunt therein." Now if Stedman be mistaken (who was Master of a College in the University and a learned Mathematician), with Doleman and others, why need I take amiss Mr. Crane's saying I am mistaken, too? For he is a Learned Man and knows Omnia Bene in his own Conceit. However, he may look into Stedman, page 90, and he may see why there are two Alterations on five bells.

'And in pages 129 and 130, it is said: "Every Bell that Comes Behind dodge 6 Changes with one Bell, and 6 with another, and then in Course the parting Change brings it down and cuts compass; the next both not, and so by Turns successively," for which you cannot show throughout your 5,040: for at your Quarter's Peals End your Bells come thus, as in the Margin, it being your Alteration; where there are 3 Parting Changes out of 7, instead of 1 in 6. Likewise, the Treble is turn'd out of a quick Course into a slow one, which should have led a Whole Pull. By this may be seen, who is willing to impose on the Publick; not I nor you neither; for if Sir Thomas and another Gentleman had not kept up all night, you had never seen the peal with 14 Doubles, but they persuaded me to sell it; and if they had not bought it you had never known the proportionable Parts of it; for you Cannot divide the Number of your Fingers by the Rule of Arithmetick. You know you had your Bargain, but you shamefully unman yourself to cry for your money again.

'However, I will take your advice, and in a short time will send

The reference to Stedman is interesting. The facts, of course, are all wrong, but notice how very near it comes to verbal accuracy. Stedman was a Cambridge man, but he belonged to the town, and not to the University. We have no grounds for calling him a 'learned Mathematician,' but his book is there to show that he was of the stuff that learned mathematicians are made of. And in 1682 he was elected Master, but it was Master of the College Youths, and not of a 'College in the University.'

Doleman was a prominent London ringer who lived during the latter part of the seventeenth century and the earlier part of the eighteenth, a later man than Stedman and older than Annable. He was a member of the Society of London Scholars, and joint author of a book on ringing, called 'Campanalogia, or the Art of Ringing,' by J. D. and C. M., which was published in 1702. One or two editions of this book were printed, and a fair number of copies are still in existence. It is really little more than a revision of Stedman's Campanalogia. In his notebook Annable gives several six-bell methods as the composition of Doleman.

PETERBOROUGH DIOCESAN GUILD.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Branch was held on Saturday, Oct. 3rd, at Peterborough, members and visitors attending from Chatteris, Fleet, Market Deeping, Somersham, Sawston, Yaxley, Alwalton, Surfleet, and the local band. The Guild service was conducted by the Rev. T. W. A. Jones. Tea, to which 21 sat down, was provided at the Co-operative Cafe.

The business meeting was held in St. Mary's Schoolroom, the president (the Very Rev. the Dean of Peterborough) presiding, after which the bells of St. Mary and Woodston were kept going to various methods ranging from Plain Bob to London Surprise.

ESSEX ASSOCIATION.

A by-meeting for the South-Eastern Division was held at Rayleigh on Saturday, Oct. 3rd. The weather being ideal, many members were present, and represented 13 towers, including the local company. The bells were kept going from 3 o'clock, and service was held, conducted by the Rector (the Rev. Fryer). Tea was kindly provided by the Rector in the Parish Room, about 30 members sitting down.—The Rector welcomed the association to Rayleigh, and hoped they would accept him as a member. He said he was pleased to see so many towers represented, and hoped there would always be as much enthusiasm in ringing as there was at the present day.

The Rector was elected an hon. member, and nine members were also elected from Rayleigh.

Votes of thanks were passed to the Rector for the service, and for the excellent tea he had provided.

Touches were afterwards rung on the handbells, and other members again visited the tower, when the methods rung included Cambridge Surprise.

The bells have been recently recast (with the exception of the fifth, which is a Pre-Reformation bell), by Messrs. Gillett and Johnston. This was the first peal in the district to be put into their hands, and everyone present was pleased with the tone and 'go' of the bells.

ENCOURAGEMENT OF YOUNG CONDUCTOR.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I was pleased to read the report of the peal of Treble Bob rung at the R.C. Cathedral of St. Chad's, Birmingham, on the 23rd of September, which was conducted by Mr. George E. Large on his 20th birthday. Great credit is due to him for such a good performance, also to his brother ringers for encouraging so young a conductor.—Yours faithfully, Burford, Oxon.

THOMAS ROND.

FRODSHAM.—For harvest festival, evensong, 640 Kent Treble Bob Major: W. Bibby 1, T. Lightfoot 2, C. Valentine 3, J. C. Bibby 4, W. C. Collyer 5, B. Rutter 6, G. H. Randles 7, F. Bibby 8. Also a plain course of Cambridge Surprise Major.

NORTHOWRAM, HALIFAX.—At St. Matthew's Church, on Sunday, Sept. 20th, for evensong, a quarter-peal of Kent Treble Bob Major (1,344 changes), in 52 mins.: G. Bottomley 1, F. Jagger 2, W. Bottomley 3, S. Jackson 4, W. Ambler (Queensbury) 5, R. Squires (Halifax St. John's), 6, J. Greenwood (conductor) 7, A. Jagger 8. First quarter-peal for ringers of the 4th and 6th.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

'Young Bill,' by ringing the 7th to Stedman Cinques at Bow on Saturday, Oct. 3rd, rang his twelfth twelve-bell peal, and it is an interesting fact that he has rung the bells all round, viz.: Ten peals of Cinques and two of Maximus; 1, 2, 6, 8, 9, 10 at Southwark; 3, 4, 5, 7 at Bow; 11th at Cheltenham; and tenor at Cornhill.

The bells of Carlisle Cathedral are to be dedicated by the Archbishop of York on November 12th. These bells have recently been restored by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank, of London, after a silence of 180 years. This old peal of eight are not very musical, but have been especially preserved as an historical connecting link with the famous Duke of Cumberland, whose activities in the North of England led to the Old 'London Scholars' adopting a new title.

A peal of Cambridge Surprise Major on the new bells at King's Norton, on Saturday, should have been called by Mr. Percy O. Ladin, but on that day, unhappily, he had to attend his mother's funeral at Bury St. Edmunds. The sympathy of his many friends will be extended to him, and the other members of his family, including Mr. Peter Ladin, now in Toronto, in their bereavement.

The band of ringers at Sandal, Yorks, are old servants of the church. Mr. H. Robinson has been a ringer there for 55 years; Mr. W. Rayner, 50 years; J. Brewin (who recently retired), 47 years; Mr. A. Kilbury, 40 years; Mr. W. Moxon, 30 years; Mr. W. Robinson, 20 years; Mr. H. Spencer, 12 years. Such a record will be hard to beat.

In addition to his 50 years' service as a ringer, Mr. W. Rayner has also been a chorister for over 50 years. He is a life member of the Yorkshire Association, and vice-president of the Barnsley and District Association.

- It is reported that the bells of All Saints, Poplar, are to be restored. They have been in need of attention for many years.

At the harvest thanksgiving in Kington Magna Church, the 150th Psalm was sung to the accompaniment of the organ, tenor horn, violins, violoncello and handbells. The handbell part was very creditably played by four little boys—one aged eleven, the other three nine years old. It may be of interest to add that the parson (who is secretary of the Salisbury Guild) played the organ, and the clerk the tenor horn, probably a rare combination.

John Povey, who was an active member of the College Youths a century and a half ago, called 'a compleat peal of 5,040 Bob Major' at St. George's, Southwark, on Oct. 10th, 1799.

A band of parsons rang a peal for the first time, when ten clerical ringers scored a peal of Stedman Caters at St. Mary's Warwick, on October 11th, 1910.

Holt's ten-part, one of the classics of composition, was rung for the first time on October 12th, 1754, at Shoreditch.

On October 14th, 1872, a peal of Reversed Grandsire Triples was rung at Christ Church, West Bromwich. The bobs were made when the treble was in 2nd's place, with the bell in the hunt going up before the treble in every lead. This was the first complete peal with the bells in this position 'ever rung in this part of the country.' S. Biddlestone, who composed and conducted the peal, will be best remembered for his twelve-part bob and single peal of Grandsire.

The bells at Far Headingley, Leeds, were dedicated on Sept. 17th, 1872, and a fortnight later were utilised for a ringing contest in which fourteen sets of ringers competed for prizes. Last week we mentioned a contest at Glossop, which lasted from 9 a.m. to midnight, but what must the public near Far Headingley Church have thought of the competition at their parish church?

Ringings began about noonday, continuing throughout the night, and lasting until the following afternoon! Each party rang Violet, Oxford and Kent Treble Bob, and the contest lasted 30 hours in all. 'The conduct of the ringers throughout is highly spoken of,' commented the Editor of 'Church Bells,' 'but be that as it may, we should not be true to our principles if we did not repeat our disapprobation of such a use of the bells of the church. Prizes are not necessary to make proficient in the art.'

Messrs. Taylor and Co. have just completed the rehangings of the six bells at Offenham, Worcestershire, and they were rededicated on Saturday by the Rev. J. A. F. Peile (Archdeacon of Worcester). Immediately afterwards a peal in seven Minor methods was rung. The band were subsequently kindly entertained to tea by the Rev. G. H. B. and Mrs. Greening.

A visit to Wembley has been arranged by the Ladies' Guild, to take place on Saturday, Oct. 24th. Gentlemen are invited, and doubtless a goodly party will be made up.

The peal of Kent Treble Bob Royal at Trowbridge during the Wiltshire tour was the first peal of Royal in the county, as stated in the report. A peal of Bob Royal was rung in October, 1923. As a matter of accuracy, a correspondent informs us that Bradford (Holy Trinity) tenor is 30 cwt. 3 qrs. 14 lbs. (not 32 cwt.), and Chippenham (St. Andrew's) 20 cwt. in E flat (not 30 cwt. in B flat).

A peal of 7,020 Stedman Caters, composed and conducted by Henry Johnson, was rung at Aston on October 14th, 1850.

MULTI-METHOD PEALS.

HINTS ON 'SPLICING' AND RINGING MINOR METHODS.

By JOHN P. FIDLER. NINTH ARTICLE.

We now enter the last lap, and I wonder how many are in the running? Not many, I am afraid. Never mind, don't be discouraged, there is plenty of time to practise and pull up. I shall watch the columns of our paper, and follow the doings of those bands which take advantage of this series of articles, with no small amount of interest. Who will be the second to ring a thirty-five method peal?

The members of this seventh group or first Castle group, which we now have to consider, are 3rd's Place Delight methods, and if those of the preceding group have been thoroughly mastered, half the battle is over, for, with the exception of the odd method, we have similar work 'down' in this section.

In the work 'up' some may recognise New London Treble Bob. This is a method I have never rung myself, and the following will be a guide for those who have:—

| Work of Bells          | Work of Bells          | Resultant           |
|------------------------|------------------------|---------------------|
| Passing Treble 'up.'   | Passing Treble 'down.' | Method.             |
| New London Treble Bob. | Bogedone.              | Fotheringay Castle. |
| New London Treble Bob. | Knutsford.             | Skipton Castle.     |
| New London Treble Bob. | Wilmslow.              | Queen Victoria.     |
| New London Treble Bob. | Rotherne.              | Chenafaw Castle.    |

It will be necessary to record the work 'up,' so I will extract it from Chepstow Castle, No. 28, page 27, of the Collection. It closely resembles that of the previous group, so be careful not to confuse the two. The first item of note is, there is no second's place above treble, and the bell which snapped, works as at a 'bob' lead of the Ely group. The 2-3 bell runs through both ways. Instead of dodging after lying 6th's, the 3-4 bell returns to 3rd's; then, after making the place, runs up to dodge before lying. The 4-5 bell works in conjunction with the 1-2, i.e., as at a bob lead of Ely, and the 5-6 bell works opposite to 3-4.

The following details of the work 'up' must be recorded:—

Pass treble 1-2 up. Run out, lie and dodge.
 Pass treble 2-3 up. Run out, lie, run in.
 Pass treble 3-4 up. Run out, lie, make 3rd's, dodge 5-8 and lie.
 Pass treble 4-5 up. Dodge and lie, run in (snap treble).
 Pass treble 5-6 up. Lie and dodge, make 3rd's, run out, lie, run in (dodge treble 3-4 down).

BOB WORK

This should present no difficulty, as all the bells work as at a bob lead of the Ely group, although in this case it is those bells passing 1-2 and 4-5 which remain unaltered. To produce the extent, call tenor, 'In, Out, In,' twice repeated (or 1-2, 4-5, 1-2). The omit coming in the first lead of each part should cause no worry.

From the foregoing, it will be realised that each ringer must have his mind on the method being rung, otherwise the similarity of these two last groups will cause endless confusion.

It is now only necessary for me to state that Queen Victoria, No. 35, page 29, is produced by Wilmslow work in; Skipton Castle, No. 30, page 28, by Knutsford work in; and Fotheringay Castle by Bagedone work in. This latter method does not appear in the Collection, and is accordingly reproduced herewith.

The four methods, Chepstow Castle, Queen Victoria, Skipton Castle and Fotheringay Castle, will splice lead for lead, and the odd method, which splices only course for course, is Dover Castle. This is another method discovered after the present Collection was published: therefore, a lead of it is given above.

Whilst the work 'up' remains the same, do not confuse the work down with Ely. Three bells are occupied with the 'slow.' That which snapped treble remains in the whole of the lead, and its work is in two parts: (a) Place-making and double dodging on; (b) double dodging off and place-making. The bell which passed treble 2-3 down, leads full, does a double dodge off, and goes to places in 3-4, whilst the 3-4 bell, makes places in 3-4, does a double dodge on the lead, leads full and passes treble 2-3 up. Those passing 4-5 and 5-6, make 3rd's and up, as in Morning Star.

Make a record of the work, and get it mastered.

DOVER CASTLE.

Work 'up,' as in Chepstow Castle.

| Pass treble 1—2 down.         | Lead, 2nd's, double dodge on (lead), double dodge off, 2nd's and lead. |
| Pass treble 2—3 down.         | Lead, double dodge off, 4th's and 3rd's.                               |
| Pass treble 3—4 down.         | 3rd's and 4th's, double dodge on, lead.                                |
| Pass treble 4—5 and 5—8 down. | 3rd's and out.   |

The 'bob' work, of course, remains the same

'This is all.' The whole of the thirty-five methods have been dealt with, and the peal can be rung with a group of five methods to each extent. To those of you who attempt it, I, along with my 'brother strings,' wish you every success. As with us, many set-backs will be met; do not despair, but stick to your guns. If, for instance, the attempt at a fifteen method peal fails, the next time you meet, tack on more methods, as a sort of punishment for failing. You will be surprised at the result. And remember, whilst nothing succeeds like success, success often follows a failure.

In concluding this part of the 'Hints' to those who desire to take up 'Spliced' ringing, let me state, thirty-five is not the total number of methods it is possible to ring in seven true extents, but forty-two. There is an extra odd method to each group, and only three leads of it are rung, one in each part. Not having gone into this arrangement I am not in a position to describe it in detail, although I have rung one or two six method 720's. If I remember rightly, Mr. Lewis published some figures bearing on this subject, and I will, therefore, leave this matter for other hands.

BELL RESTORATION AT SHIPLAKE, OXON.

The peal of eight bells at Shiplake, Oxon, have recently been rehung and the two tenors recast, and the whole peal tuned. The rededication by the Vicar took place at morning prayer on Sunday, Oct. 4th, a touch of 97 Grandsire Triples being rung by the local ringers. The Vicar, some two years ago, undertook the responsibility of collecting the sum required, nearly £300, to carry out the work, and it is gratifying to him, who is leaving the parish, to see his efforts rewarded. From all sides have come praise for the restored bells.

The oak bell cage is good, but the beams that supported them were in a dilapidated state. Iron girders now carry the weight, and the bells are hung on ball bearings, the 'go' being perfect.

The peal was out of tune, the 7th cracked in the crown, and, unfortunately, on examination at the foundry the tenor also was found to be cracked in the crown. It was a beautiful bell by Robert Patrick. To the local ringers there used to be but one bell to be proud of, the tenor, and while to-day their sentiment goes back to 'the dear old tenor,' they are justly proud of a well-balanced peal, worthy of the House of God. Messrs. Mears and Stainbank are to be congratulated on their good work in the restoration of the bells.

AN OLD 'YOUTH.'

Born on the 4th of October, 'a long time ago,' Mr. W. A. Alps, who was elected a member of the Ancient College of Youths on March 17th, 1874, and who is known to his intimates as 'the man of few words,' received hearty congratulations and good wishes from a band of ringers who met at St. Botolph's, Bishopsgate, last Sunday to ring for his birthday, and for the harvest festival. A quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples was rung in 46 mins.: W. H. Hewett 1, W. J. Nelder 2, R. Sanders 3, T. Walker 4, W. A. Alps (composer and conductor) 5, J. E. Davis 6, T. H. Taffender 7, A. Marsh 8.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

A combined ringing practice for the Sonning Deanery was held on Saturday evening at All Saints', Wokingham, when twelve members attended from Beaconsfield, Wyford, Sandhurst, Binfield, Waltham St. Lawrence, and Wokingham. The visitors from Beaconsfield were very welcome. Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Plain and Kent Treble Bob Major were practised.

HERTS COUNTY ASSOCIATION'S PRESIDENT.

MR. F. R. BACON'S SUDDEN DEATH.

The passing away of Mr. F. R. Bacon, of Hitchin, with somewhat tragic suddenness on Friday, Sept. 25th, has cast a gloom of sadness amongst the ringers of the county of Hertford. He joined the association in the early days of its formation, and in 1913 became district secretary for the Northern Division of the County. He took great interest in this duty, and the arrangements for the quarterly meetings were managed with a master hand, every detail receiving thought and attention. Especially did he value the opportunity of enlisting the sympathy of the incumbent in permitting a short service on these occasions, and in most cases he was successful. It was at his suggestion these quarterly services were held, for he realised

It is the house of prayer
And Thou, O Lord, art there
Thy chosen flock to greet.

In recognition of his services he was unanimously elected president at the Easter meeting of 1925, an honour which he greatly appreciated, not for himself alone, but the district he represented.

He was assiduous in his duties at St. Mary's Church, both as sidesman, and as a member of the Parochial Church Council, serving also as a member of the Finance Committee on that body.

He had been associated with Hitchin for over thirty years, being cashier and estimating clerk for a local firm of builders, who held him in the highest esteem. For about 22 years he had been a ringer at St. Mary's Church, and was very capable in ringing the standard methods. His recent ambition was the ringing of an officers' peal during his presidency.

The funeral took place at St. Mary's Church on Wednesday, Sept. 30th, the service being conducted by the Rev. B. H. Tyrwhitt-Drake, Rector of Wigginton (an ex-president), and the Rev. L. B. Ashby, Vicar. During the service, the 90th Psalm was recited, and the hymn, 'Nearer, my God, to Thee,' was sung, the organist playing the 'Dend March' at the close.

In addition to the family mourners, a great number of people were present, including the bell ringers of St. Mary's Church. The treasurer and secretary of the county association, and other officers, were unable to be present, and at the secretary's request were represented by Mr. E. W. Day, the secretary of the Hitchin band. A beautiful wreath was sent, bearing the inscription: 'A token of esteem,' from the officers and members of the Hertford County Association of Change Ringers.

A half-muffled peal was rung on the bells of St. Mary's Church on Sunday evening, as a tribute of affection for a sincere colleague. The association, and the church he so faithfully served, have lost a man of high principle, and of him it could be said, 'I have set the Lord always before me,' in all his church activities.

To Mrs. Bacon the ringers extend heartfelt sympathy in her deep sorrow, and pray that God will comfort and console her in her trial.

THE GENERAL SECRETARY EXPLAINS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—With reference to the account in your last issue, of the meeting of the Ladies' Guild, Midland District, at which the secretary resigned, I should like to correct the impression given therein, that I have raised an objection to an hon. member being secretary of a district.

I had always been given to understand that the Midland district secretary was only carrying on until a ringing member could be found who would do the work. Moreover, at the last annual meeting of the district, the secretary expressed a wish to retire, and has since written me to this effect.

Shortly before the annual meeting at Reading, I received reports from the secretaries of districts on the work of the year, and that received from the Midland district was to the effect that the meetings were not being supported as they should be. I drew up my report accordingly, and submitted it to Mrs. Groves before the meeting. She entirely agreed with all my remarks, which were not to the effect that I objected to an hon. member being secretary, but that it was a pity there was not a ringing member sufficiently enthusiastic to take over the secretaryship from which Mrs. Groves wished to retire.

Had I any objection to an honorary member being secretary I should have brought the matter forward when the election took place in 1921.

In view of the report in 'The Ringing World,' there is not the slightest doubt that the case has been misrepresented to the members, and they were not informed by the secretary that she had seen the report before the meeting.

I much regret that it has been necessary for me to take up your valuable space in this way, but I feel some explanation should be made to correct the false impression conveyed in the report.—Yours truly,
EDITH K. PARKER.

CHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD.

CREWE BRANCH VISIT TO 'CATHEDRAL OF SOUTH CHESHIRE.'

The ancient and historic town of Nantwich was the venue of the monthly meeting of the Crewe Branch of the Chester Diocesan Guild last Saturday, when over 30 members attended, despite the unfavourable elements. Nantwich, where the last annual meeting of the Diocesan Guild was held, is always a popular venue. Campanologists, whenever they can, make a point of visiting the 'Cathedral of South Cheshire,' a name which the old church has for so long enjoyed. It is said to be 14th century work, and, apart from any bell ringing attractions, an inspection of this decorated Gothic architecture is well worth while. It is interesting to note that a peculiarity of the tower, which is octagonal, and rises from the centre of the church, is that it is square in the lower portion, and eight-sided above the roof level.

However, turning to the meeting, all agreed that a most enjoyable day was spent. The afternoon 'session' commenced with some excellent touches of Grandsire Triples, Stedman Triples and Bob Major. Towers represented were Crewe, Nantwich, Church Lawton, Sandbach, Acton, Tarporley, Davenham, Ightfield, Wistaston and Horton-in-Hales, while Mr. E. W. Elwell, the general secretary of the Guild, came from Capenhurst.

YOUNG RINGERS' INTEREST.

It was pleasing to see the good muster of youngsters, who took a keen interest in the ringing and all the proceedings. Visiting members expressed their keen satisfaction with the progress the younger members are making at Nantwich, under the able tutelage of Mr. W. Sutton, who has been willingly assisted by the enthusiastic members from Crewe. Great satisfaction was also expressed at the tone and 'go' of the eight bells, which were voted as one of the finest peals in the county of Chester. Nantwich members might well be proud of the compliments paid to their sweet-toned bells.

Following the afternoon ringing, the company adjourned to the Parish Hall, where a substantial tea was generously provided. Mrs. Sutton, Mrs. Barnard, Mrs. Langford and Miss Ethel Davies very kindly undertook the duties of waitresses, and right well did they carry out their work. The Rector (the Rev. C. W. Montgomery Bromley) was present, and occupied the chair for the business meeting which followed the enjoyable repast.

The popular branch secretary, Mr. R. D. Langford (Crewe) gave a brief report on current happenings. He remarked that the bells at Norbury would be dedicated on November 21st, which clashed with the date of the monthly meeting at Acton. It was suggested, he said, that the Acton meeting should be held on November 14th, so that members would be able to attend the dedication at Norbury, the Acton members being quite agreeable to such a change.—In this proposal the meeting concurred.

A REPRESENTATIVE ON DIOCESAN ADVISORY COMMITTEE.

Mr. Elwell also addressed the meeting, and expressed his pleasure at being present. He gave a brief account of the meeting of the Central Council at Chester some four months ago. He mentioned that the question of cheap railway fares for ringers was receiving his attention. Mr. Elwell said the Master of the Guild (the Rev. C. A. Clements, of Grappenhall) had been appointed by the Bishop of Chester to serve on the Diocesan Advisory Committee. He thought this was a step in the right direction, as it was most advisable that on such bodies there should be representatives with a practical knowledge of bell ringing, in order to safeguard such things as the mutilation or destruction of old bells with great historic value.

Mr. R. T. Holding (Crewe) echoed the sentiments expressed by Mr. Elwell with regard to ringers' representatives on the Diocesan Advisory Committee.—Mr. Holding moved a hearty vote of thanks to the Nantwich people for the excellent tea which had been served, to the ladies for their valued assistance, and to the Rector for the use of the bells. He said it showed how popular Nantwich was when they had such a good attendance. They certainly had in Nantwich a very fine peal of bells. Norbury were very fortunate if they had a better peal than Nantwich.

Mr. W. Holding seconded, and said Nantwich possessed the finest peal of bells on which he had ever rung.

The motion was carried with applause, and the Rector, responding, said he was extremely pleased to hear that their bells were such a fine peal. He referred to the great amount of time and trouble the Nantwich members devoted to the bells, and in keeping everything in order, and in conclusion expressed his pleasure at the visit the branch had made.

The Rector conducted service in church, and afterwards another visit was paid to the tower, where the members indulged in touches of Grandsire Triples, Kent Treble Bob Major, and Oxford Treble Bob Major, concluding a most enjoyable day.

LIVERPOOL.—At St. Nicholas' Church, for evensong, Sunday, Oct. 4th, in 53 mins., 1,287 Stedman Caters: W. Davies 1, W. H. Pickett 2, W. Fisher 3, A. Lintott 4, G. R. Newton (conductor) 5, C. I. Davies 6, J. Martin 7, T. C. Larkey 8, E. Caunce 9, A. A. Griffiths 10.

LINCOLN DIOCESAN GUILD. CENTRAL COUNCIL'S CARD OF INSTRUCTIONS TO BE CIRCULATED.

The half-yearly meeting of the Northern Branch of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild was held at Stow, on Saturday, Sept. 26th, and proved to be a huge success. Amongst the towers represented were the following: Bigby, Branston, Lincoln (Cathedral, St. Peter-at-Arches, and St. Peter-at-Gowls), Haxey, Willingham, Gainsborough, Welton (including the Rev. A. Hunt), and the local company. The ringers at Surfleet, who were having their annual outing, also honoured the branch with their presence. The bells were well utilised during the afternoon and evening in various methods, ranging from Grandsire Doubles to Cambridge Surprise Minor, while rounds were also rung for the benefit of the lesser advanced members. On one of these occasions the ropes were handled by six lady members of the Guild. These members of the fair sex were, however, not by any means all beginners, as one of them is much further advanced in the art of change ringing than the writer of this report.

At the service, the Rev. J. Barber (Rector of Stow) officiated, and Mr. F. F. Linley (president of the Northern Branch) read the lessons. The pulpit was occupied by the Rev. H. Law James (Guild Ringing Master), who preached a most appropriate and instructive sermon, taking for his text, 1 Corinthians x. 31, 'Whether therefore ye eat, or drink, or whatsoever ye do, do all to the glory of God.'

Subsequently an excellent tea was provided and partaken of by 59 members and friends. The business meeting followed. Owing to the Rev. H. Law James having to leave early, a hearty vote of thanks was accorded him for his excellent sermon.—In response, he expressed a hope that what he had said would be carried out by the members.

Mr. F. F. Linley presided over the meeting, supported by the Rev. H. T. Parry, Bigby (president of the Grimsby district), and members of the committee. Apologies for absence and best wishes for a good meeting were read from the Rev. G. S. Lyack, Caistor; Rev. T. Russell Warrilow, St. Andrew's, Grimsby; Rev. R. Bond, St. Peter-at-Arches, Lincoln; and the Rev. R. G. Fookes, Lea.

Bigby was selected as the place for the next half-yearly meeting, the arrangement of the date being left in the hands of the Rev. H. T. Parry and the hon. secretary.

Mr. F. F. Linley proposed, and Mr. C. H. Baker seconded, that the sum of £1 ls. be granted towards the rehanging of the bells of St. Peter's Church, Navenby, likewise, that the sum of £2 2s. be granted towards the rehanging of the bells at St. Peter-at-Arches Church, Lincoln.—On being put to the meeting, this was duly carried.

The next item on the agenda was a resolution in connection with ringing matters in the Sleaford district, which had been passed at a previous meeting of the Lincoln district, but, as Mr. W. H. Lloyd expressed a wish to withdraw it, stating he had been informed that there was a possibility of ringing being revived in that neighbourhood, the members acceded to his request.

The Secretary informed those present that he had recently received a copy of the card issued by the Central Council respecting the care and use of church bells. It was agreed that application be made, through the Guild secretary, for a sufficient number to enable a copy to be sent to each tower in the branch containing three bells and upwards. Should it not be possible to obtain the number required, it was suggested to make the best use of those available.

A very hearty welcome was accorded to the visitors from Surfleet, and to Mrs. F. F. Linley.

The President gave an interesting address, which was greatly appreciated by the members.

Votes of thanks were passed to the Rector for the use of the bells; the Stow members and friends for the excellent tea provided; and all others who had helped towards making the meeting such a success.—These were duly responded to by the Rev. J. Barber.

After the close of the meeting, further ringing took place until about 7.45 p.m., and brought to an end 'another perfect day.'

MUFFLED BELLS.

At St. Peter's Church, Nottingham, on Sept. 21th, 504 Grandsire Triples: F. A. Salter 1 M. Ward 2, S. Pinder 3, F. W. Bailey (conductor) 4, L. Chadburn 5, F. Vickers 6, G. West 7, A. R. Leader 8, was rung with the bells half-muffled as a last token of respect to Mr. J. Hawkins, who was interred in Bulwell Cemetery on the previous day.

On Monday, Sept. 21st, at Hambledon, Hants, as a last token of respect to the late Mr. Isaac Perkins (father of one of the local ringers), who was interred on that date in the local churchyard, and who for upwards of 24 years was a sidesman at the Parish Church, 780 Grandsire Doubles (being six and a half 120's), with the bells half-muffled, by T. Parker 1, W. E. Hunt 2, J. Turner 3, G. Spiller 4, R. Hasted (conductor) 5, E. Marb 6. R. Hasted hails from Farnham, Surrey, the rest belong to the local band.

THE BROADCAST OF BIRMINGHAM BELLS REV. MAITLAND KELLY URGES EXTENSION OF 'WIRELESS' RINGING.

The bells of St. Philip's, Birmingham, when broadcast on Sunday week, were heard in many parts of the country. Writing to the Hon. Secretary of St. Martin's Guild (Mr. A. Paddon Smith), the Rev. Maitland Kelly, the veteran ex-President of the Devon Guild, said: 'In this tiny parish, so many miles distant from Birmingham, we had indeed a treat last night, as we listened with pleasure to your ringing. We could hear it quite distinctly, and the only regret was that it was too short. I wish with you that the Broadcasting Company would try and develop this part of their splendid work. I have written them a letter this morning suggesting that they should do so, and thus bring the country folk into touch with some of the famous peals in London and elsewhere, by giving them an exhibition of really good change ringing. I can understand that it will not be easy (1) to find men to undertake the ringing; (2) to obtain consent of the church authorities; (3) to select a time suitable to the public to listen. The latter point seems to me the most difficult, but on the whole Sunday seems the best day; time either 6 p.m. to 6.30 or 7.45. In most country parishes evening service is at 6.30 p.m. or 7 p.m. If the company began with the London towers and got in touch with the different ringing societies, they would surely be able to get a really good band to give illustrations... May we not also hope that one day we may have parts of peals broadcast? We cannot expect to be in touch with a whole peal, but arrangements might be made for a half-hour of it. If a breakdown occurred the band would be willing to ring a touch during the specified time.'

AN ENTHUSIASTIC BAND.

Few bands of ringers have advanced more quickly in campanology than that at Kempston, Beds. Until about three years ago they knew nothing of the art of method ringing. Then Mr. P. Inskip joined the band, and introduced scientific change ringing into the belfry, and, with the assistance of Mr. C. W. Clarke, the company has made good progress. The following touches have been rung recently, viz.: Sunday, Sept. 27th, for morning service, 720 Cambridge Surprise: A. Waller 1, A. Dollin 2, G. Hutchings 3, C. W. Clarke 4, L. Turner (conductor) 5, P. Inskip 6. Also 720 College Exercise: C. W. Clarke 1, G. Hutchings 2, P. Inskip 3, N. Wiles 4, H. Beard 5, L. Turner (conductor) 6.—For evening service, 720 Kent Treble Bob Minor: H. Beard 1, A. Waller 2, L. Turner 3, A. Dollin 4, N. Wiles 5, P. Inskip (conductor); and also 360 Plain Bob Minor.

For harvest thanksgiving service, on Friday, Oct. 2nd 720 Woodbine Treble Bob: H. Beard 1, A. Waller 2, L. Turner 3, A. Dollin 4, N. Wiles 5, P. Inskip (conductor) 6.—720 Oxford Treble Bob: A. Waller 1, A. Dollin 2, H. Beard 3, G. Hutchings 4, P. Inskip 5, L. Turner (conductor) 6. Also 240 Oxford Treble Bob and 240 Bob Minor, after service.

'NO "MEN'S" CLATTER.'

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—In your issue of July 24th, you publish a letter on the subject of 'Nomenclature' by Mr. Fernly, which I think is the soundest piece of common sense that has been penned on this very fatuous subject.

The Council and its committee have no right in equity to change any name, once bestowed, and their hapless floundering in the slough of 'euphony,' 'redundancy,' etc., only make one smile at their want of logic. A name is, when spoken, merely a collection of articulated sounds; and when written a collection of hieroglyphics, which distinguish one article from another. The test of euphony is useless, for the very simple reason that what sounds euphonious to one ear would only grate on the ear of another. Beauty always is in the eye (or ear) of the beholder, and, when Press ridicule is called into question, well, any collection of letters can be ridiculed, or otherwise at will.

But the thing which seems to have escaped the hon. committee's notice is the fact that they are creating a precedent. If it is in order for this Council to change the existing names to suit the tastes of this committee, then it is possible for a future generation to appoint another committee to do likewise, so what tenure is any name going to have? Ridicule 'Bluebell' and 'Tulip' if you like; they certainly remind one of horticulture, but they are, as 'A Flat' pointed out, some of our Creator's finest work. I warrant the committee won't do any better work. The whole thing reminds me of the lady who had a small son, whom she called John when a good boy, and Jack when naughty: but 'twas the same boy. If 'names for methods' is more important than the history of the Exercise and a record of compositions, then I think it is time we shut up shop on Whitsun Tuesday. Should the committee succeed in their nefarious designs on our right to bestow what name we like on 'our own as first to ring it,' I have no doubt they would have the smug complacency to accept a vote of thanks for their arduous 'labours'!—Yours sincerely,

JOE. E. SYKES.

RINGERS' OUTINGS.

TOWERS JOIN FORCES.

On Saturday, Sept. 5th, a party of ringers from Cheadle, Kingsley and Norton, joined forces, and paid a visit to Edgmond, in Shropshire. 'Go' was called at Cheadle at 12.15 p.m., the Kingsley and Norton friends being picked up on the way. Forton was reached about 2.15, and here a well-struck 720 of Oxford Treble Bob was brought round. This was followed by 720 Cambridge Surprise, in which F. Edwards rang the treble, this being his first of Treble Bob. The Rev. E. S. Lewis came to the belfry and gave the visitors a hearty welcome, after which a move was made for Edgmond, which was reached at 5 o'clock. Here the ringers sat down to a bountiful tea, provided by Mrs. T. Mansell, sister of Mr. Carnwell, of Kingsley. Afterwards, at the church, 720 each of Duke of York and Kent Treble Bob were brought round. The Vicar (the Rev. Provost Talbot) being away, the curate welcomed the ringers. The bells were then lowered in peal, and the return journey commenced, Cheadle being reached at 11.15 p.m. The ringers taking part were J. E. Wheeldon, J. Walley, S. Ryles, H. and W. Carnwell, J. and H. Beresford, A., E. and F. Edwards, and A. W. Hall.

CARDIFF RINGERS' LONG TOUR.

On Saturday, August 29th, the ringers of St. John's Church, Cardiff, held their annual outing, for which ringing had been arranged at the Abbey Church, Tewkesbury, St. Mary's, Cheltenham, and Painswick. At 7.15 a.m. the party, accompanied by ringing friends from Llandaff, Whitchurch and Pentre, and Mr. John Clutterbuck, one of the original members of the association, and the wives and lady friends of several of the members, to the number of 25, set out by charabanc for Newport, where they were joined by Mr. J. W. Jones. Proceeding then via Caerleon, Usk, Raglan and Monmouth, a halt was called at Ross for light refreshments, and the party then proceeded via Gloucester to Tewkesbury, which was reached shortly after mid-day. Lunch was the first consideration, and all did full justice to a splendid spread at the Italian Restaurant, which adjoins the Abbey grounds. The ringers, under the guidance of Mr. Smith, next found their way to the belfry, and the bells were soon going to Grandsire Caters, a couple of touches being brought round. A short inspection of the famous old Abbey followed, and the party then moved on to Cheltenham, where Mr. Pates met them. The twelve bells were soon swinging, several of the party having their first pull on twelve bells in rounds. Afterwards, touches of Grandsire and Stedman Caters were brought round, with Mr. Pates taking a rope in the Stedman. Next, the visitors made for Painswick, where Mr. Albert Wright was awaiting them. The bells were soon going to Grandsire Caters, and afterwards, with Mr. Wright and one of his band standing in, two courses of Cinques (conducted by Mr. Wright) were brought round. This was the first touch of Cinques for several of the party. Gloucester was the next objective, and after tea and a brief look round the city, the last stage of the journey home was commenced. To the strains of 'For he's a jolly good fellow,' J. W. J. was left at Newport, and Cardiff was reached at 12.15 a.m. This ended a splendid day's outing, in which fine weather, grand scenery, and beautiful bells each contributed to the enjoyment of all members of the party, who take this opportunity to express their best thanks to Mr. Smith, of Tewkesbury; Mr. Pates, of Cheltenham; and Mr. Wright, of Painswick, for their hearty welcome, and the arrangements made for ringing.

WALSALL RINGERS VISIT INTERESTING CHURCHES.

On Saturday, August 22nd, the ringers of St. Matthew's Church, Walsall, with their wives and friends, bringing the number up to 20, had an enjoyable outing. Starting about 2 o'clock in a luxuriant motor coach, a 20 miles' run brought in sight 'The Ladies of the Vale,' as a celebrated novelist has described the spires of Lichfield Cathedral. Passing by the Close, the villages of King's Bromley and Yoxall, each with its church and ring of six bells, were also passed, the first stop being at Hoar Cross. Although the bells were in the hands of the bell hangers, and no ringing was possible, the party were all bent on seeing this wonderful church. Built by the late Mrs. Meynell-Ingram, of the adjoining hall, in memory of her husband, the building is of a cruciform design, with a fine central tower. The writer cannot attempt to describe the wealth of sculpture, carving and paintings which this church contains. The next stop was Hanbury. It was here that the body of St. Werburgh was buried in 699 A.D., to be taken afterwards to Chester (in 874) to save it from the Danes, and also to do more honour to her memory. The church, like Chester Cathedral, is dedicated to St. Werburgh. It is situated on a hill, and is well worth a visit. There is a most beautiful font, and some very old monuments, and the view from the top of the tower well repaid those who made the climb. Stedman Triples and Kent Treble Bob Major were rung here. Some of the bells are very 'false struck,' and were rather a trial to some of the younger members of the band. Though this and the previously named church are rather inaccessible, it was found that 'Uncle Joe,' of somewhere in Asia, had been to both of them. The next call was Burton-on-Trent, where a splendid tea was awaiting the party at Bailey's Cafe. The next move was to the well-appointed ringing chamber of St. Paul's, where Mr. J. Swinfield and ringers from Tamworth and Ashby-de-la-Zouch were waiting for the Walsall men, and the splendid peal of ten were soon set going to Stedman Caters, Kent Treble Bob Royal and Double Norwich Major. The visitors were loath to leave such an easy-going ring, and the last touch was a well-struck one of Stedman Caters, conducted by M. Swinfield. Home was reached at 10.30, after a most delightful time. The band wish to thank the Vicars of Hanbury and St. Paul's, Burton, for the use of the bells, and Mr. Deaville, of Hanbury, and Mr. J. Swinfield, of Burton, for having everything in readiness, and so kindly meeting them.

THAT UNLUCKY 13.

To the Editor.

Sir,—It's strange, passing strange, that I (that's Irenæus) should be the one destined to wrest supposed laurels from the brow of Edward F. Gobey, aged 13. Really it goes against the grain, and I don't at all fancy the job of depriving 'Young Falstaff' of the honour of being the youngest ringer to ring a peal on tower bells for the M.C.A. But, sir, 'Honestum Versatur in Tribuendo Suum Cuique,' which, translated into the 'Ilsonian' dialect, reads as follows: 'Honesty consists in giving each his own.' Now, sir, that's done it, and knowing what little I do know, I am duty bound to give honour where honour is due! If the person who sent in that report had put in a footnote stating that 'Young Falstaff' was believed to have the largest corporation for a youngster of that unlucky age 'Terminus Decimus' in the M.C.A., and was a budding and a most formidable rival of H. C., of 'Womanchester,' I might have 'believed' it.

Now, let's see what the daughter of William 'The Conqueror' did on Saturday, October 12th, 1912, at Quorndon. Miss Hilda Willson rang her first peal (Grandsire Triples) in 3 hours, and she was aged 13, and was presumed to be the youngest 'Girl' ringer—mark you, the feminine qualification is here—on record to accomplish a peal upon church bells. This peal was rung for the M.C.A. Hard lines, Falstaff! Keep 'following in your father's footsteps,' but for goodness' sake, lad, be careful, and cautious! When you approach 'Thacker Barn Pond,' you'll lose all trace of 'em there. I congratulate the youngest Ilsonian who has rung a peal! These flippant comments are written in kindly humour, and are not malicious! But compare the dates 1912 and 1925. There again you'll find that unlucky and dominating factor, to wit, 13. Personally, I'm not superstitious, but it's there nevertheless, 13!

'SPliced RINGING.'

With the article which appears in this issue, Mr. J. P. Fidler concludes the series of hints on the 'splicing' and ringing of Minor methods. Those who have studied them will, we think, agree that Mr. Fidler has handled the subject with great lucidity, and has shown the best and simplest manner of learning and retaining a great number of methods. Before he began there must have been many who felt that to memorise thirty-five methods, such as were rung in the Norbury peal, was a task which only super-ringers could tackle. Mr. Fidler has explained the plan adopted by himself and his Norbury colleagues in such a way that no band capable of ringing a Treble Bob method should now eschew 'spliced' ringing merely because of its complexity. Compared with the ordinary seven-method peal a 'spliced' peal will still be a difficult proposition, but the practical hints by a writer experienced in this phase of ringing have done much to indicate the surest path through the intricacies of the task, and must have disposed of much of the 'fearsomeness' of the undertaking.

The manner in which Mr. Fidler has simplified the work for the uninitiated should induce a large number of six-bell ringers to turn their attention to spliced ringing, which, at the moment, at any rate, is the highest form in which six-bell extents can be accomplished. It does not follow, of course, that all will be able, or even desire, to go on to the limit of thirty-five methods reached by the Norbury band, but even if only for a service touch, a 720 in five methods will surely be more interesting to the ringers than an extent in one method only. The whole idea of splicing gives so much greater scope to a ringer's ability and variety to his practice that no six-bell band should be satisfied until they are able to ring Minor in this way, albeit, as we have said, they have no ambition or opportunity to go to the length of thirty-five methods.

When the Central Council publish their new book of Major methods it may be that there will be among them, as there has proved to be in the Minor Collection, methods which can be spliced, if not in leads, perhaps in courses, and it is a suggestion worth considering that the methods (if any) which will so splice should be brought together in groups, and an indication given as to the extent to which they can be so dealt with. There is not, of course, the same demand for splicing on eight bells as upon six, but there is no reason why that form of ringing should not be encouraged as adding interest and a certain amount of difficulty to the ringing. Eight-bell ringers (to say nothing of those who operate on ten and twelve) are a most conservative lot of 'practitioners,' as the old authors used to call them. Anything beyond the 'standard methods' (and in standard methods we, of course, include Double Norwich and the three old Surprise methods) the majority refuse to look at. Only here and there does one find a band venturing outside the well-trodden paths, so that anything that can be done by the publication of text books extending knowledge beyond the present limited sphere of practice, and encouraging enterprise among ringers, should be done. But to return to the six-bell splicing, with the advent of the long evenings and the general resumption of practice nights, there ought to be a great advance made in ringing multi-method extents, and any average band, starting from the basis of Oxford Treble Bob, ought, before next Easter, to be able to score a peal consisting entirely of spliced 'seventwinties.' We wonder how many will do it?

DUDLEY PARISH CHURCH BELLS.

BISHOP OF WORCESTER TO BECOME PATRON OF DUDLEY GUILD.

The restoration of the bells of St. Thomas's Church, Dudley, has been completed by Messrs. Taylor and Co., of Loughborough, who have returned and quarter turned the bells and rehung them on ball bearings in new fittings. The work has been carried out in a highly successful manner, and in conjunction with the strengthening of the tower has cost about £350. The cost of four of the bells is being borne by members of the families of the late Mr. W. E. Russon, Mr. R. H. Wilkes, Mr. Samuel Spittle, and Mr. James Thomas Bayliss, each of whom was closely identified with the Church's activities, and to whom the improved bells will form a fitting memorial.

The dedication service was held on Saturday afternoon, Oct. 3rd. It was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. A. H. Phelps), assisted by the Revs. E. R. Wallace and W. G. Wilson. The Bishop of Worcester was present to perform the dedicatory rites, and the churchwardens (Mr. Hugh Watson and Mr. J. W. Naylor) were also in attendance. A large congregation assembled. After a beautiful rendering of the anthem, 'Rejoice in the Lord alway,' by the choir (accompanied on the organ by Mr. A. H. L. Cutler), the Bishop performed the dedicatory duties, and at the close of his utterances a short peal announced the completion of that part of the function. Afterwards, the Bishop preached an appropriate sermon, and subsequently the bells were again rung, and gave great delight to the congregation and all who heard them.

In connection with the dedication, the Dudley and District Guild held their postponed annual meeting, the members attending the service, and afterwards adjourning to the Schoolroom, where a bountiful tea was in readiness. The Bishop was present, and before leaving, Mr. Churchwarden Naylor, on behalf of those present, extended to his lordship a most hearty welcome to Dudley, and sincerely thanked him for his presence that afternoon.—Mr. Churchwarden Watson seconded the vote, and the Bishop briefly replied, promising to become patron of the Guild. Mrs. Phelps, Mrs. Naylor, Miss A. S. Payne, Miss Marks and Sister Francis presided at the tables.

At the business meeting which followed, the president (Canon Phelps) occupied the chair, and was supported by the wardens and Mr. Harry Mason.—The Vicar extended a cordial welcome to the Guild, on behalf of himself, the churchwardens and the Parochial Church Council.

The Secretary read apologies from Mr. C. E. Lloyd, M.P., Mr. F. R. McDowell, Mr. A. Spittle, and others, and then read his annual report and balance sheet, which were passed.

The Vicar of Dudley (the Rev. Canon Phelps) was re-elected president, on the proposition of Mr. H. Mason, seconded by Mr. James George, and the Vicar briefly thanked the members for the honour they had once again conferred on him. The following gentlemen were again elected as vice-presidents: Messrs. C. E. Lloyd, M.P., J. W. Naylor, H. Watson, H. Mason, A. Spittle, F. R. McDowell and J. McD. Tait.

Mr. John Goodman was re-elected Ringing Master; Mr. Herbert Sheppard, hon. secretary, with hearty thanks of the members for his services during the past year; Mr. S. J. Hughes, hon. treasurer; and Messrs. F. Evans and P. Justice, hon. auditors.

Several new members were added to the roll, and it was proposed to hold the next quarterly meeting at Netherton, the date to be left with the secretary. It was also proposed to attempt the annual peal at Dudley, the arrangements to be left with the Ringing Master.

At the close of the meeting, on the proposition of Mr. H. Mason, seconded by Mr. James George, the best thanks of the Guild were given to the president for his past services to the Guild, and for the great service he had rendered them that day, for conducting the service in church, for the use of the tower and bells, also for the Schoolroom in which to hold the tea and meeting. Thanks were also accorded to Mr. A. H. Cutler (organist) and the choir for their part of the service, to the donors of the tea, to the ladies who presided at the tables, and to those who helped in preparing and serving the tea, and looking after the wants and comfort of those present.

The President then closed the proceedings with prayer, after which members made for the belfry, where they kept the bells merrily going until late in the evening to the delight of crowds of listeners round the church.

On Sunday evening, Oct. 4th, in connection with the dedication of the bells, and the harvest festival, a quarter-peal of Grand sire Caters (1,260 changes) was rung in 48 mins., by B. Gough 1, S. J. Hughes 2, W. Goodman 3, J. Goodman, junr. (conductor), 4, J. Goodman, senr., 5, W. Bayliss 6, G. Guest 7, H. Sheppard 8, A. Greenfield 9, W. Meek 10.

The belfry is open for practice on Monday nights, from 7.45 p.m., and all ringers will be welcome.

NOTES BY THE WAY.

HEALING THE BREACH AT NORWICH AND WHAT CAME OF IT.

By J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

With the publication of Melchior's last letter, the curtain falls on the drama, and, as is usual in real life, on a drama with the last act missing. We do not know who the impartial umpire was, where he came from, or what his verdict was. We do not even know if the meeting was held. We can be sure that if it were, there was much talk, that argument begat argument, and at the end each side was the more convinced that they were right, and the others wrong. Whatever the verdict was, it was disregarded, for on the peal boards (which, of course, were not put up till a little time after the peals were rung), each band restates its claim that they and they only had composed and rung the first peal of Stedman Triples. But we do know that by some means or other, then or at a later time, the breach was healed. After a few years the curtain rises on an epilogue where all is peace and harmony.

In 1736, two trebles were added to the ring at St. Peter's, and this definitely re-established it as the leading ringing tower in the city, a position it never after lost. At the same time the bells were relunged or overhauled, and other alterations made. Visitors to Mancroft will remember that one of the striking features of that noble church is the tower arch with the great west window beyond, and the stone gallery which serves as the present ringing floor, and from which also the early peals were rung. In the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries men understood very little about Gothic architecture, and things were done which would have caused earlier and later generations to shudder. At St. Peter's they built a wooden gallery at the west end of the church, and put the organ on the top, completely blocking the tower arch and the west window. In that case no further harm was done when a new floor was put in the tower half-way between the stone gallery and the bells. This was done entirely for the convenience of the ringers, for, as an old description of the church I have by me states, the lower belfry was deemed too far from the bells. And I have no doubt the shorter draught of rope made ringing much easier.

In 1737, on this new floor was rung a very remarkable peal. This was one of Grandsire Caters, 12,600 changes, in 8 hours 15 minutes. Of the band, eight had rung in one or other of the two peals of Stedman, and four belonged to the Mancroft party, and four to the Coslany party. Notice the order in which they stood: Melchior of Mancroft rings the treble, Pettingall of Coslany the 2nd, Gardiner of Mancroft the 3rd, Robert Crane of Coslany the 5th, Porter of Mancroft the 6th, Blofield of Mancroft the 7th, Edward Crane of Coslany the 8th, and Booty of Mancroft the 9th. It may have been a coincidence, but the fact that there were an equal number from each tower, and that they stood alternately one from each band, does look as though it was intended to tell the whole world that the bitter dispute of six years back was all made up and forgotten. The other working bell was rung by Thomas Barrett, the tenor man in the first peal of Grandsire Triples and a Mancroft ringer. It is interesting to notice also who did not ring. Thomas Crane did not stand in. Perhaps he had not forgotten or forgiven Melchior's gibes and declined to join his brother and father in the general reconciliation. Perhaps, and likely enough, he was not considered a good enough ringer. His friend, Rice Greene, is also absent. Of the Mancroft party John Foster was gone to Coddensham, and John Webster, though he was good enough a ringer, and quite able to stand a long length, was not particularly ambitious to ring peals, and preferred to be one of the 'several ingenious ringers who were abroad the whole time with proper rules to prove the certainty of the performance.'

This peal is recorded by a very fine board which was hung in the belfry on the level of the new floor, and is, now that that floor has been removed, very high up, and except in a strong light hardly readable. It reads as follows:—

On March the 8th, 1737, was rung a peal of Grandsire Caters, which for the excellency of its ringing, Harmonious Changes and ye number of them, was certainly superior to anything of its kind ever done in the World and to Remove all doubt of the truth of the performance several ingenious Ringers were abroad the whole time with proper rules to prove the certainty of ye same. Thus was this great peal perfectly compleated to the entire satisfaction, surprise and amazement of thousands of hearers in the space of 8 hours 15 minutes. The number of changes were 12,600, rung by 9 men of the company, then belonging to the company. The tenor singly by a young ringer 8,000, then a second ringer rang her to the end of the peal. The persons names and the bells they rung as follows:—

Thos. Melchior 1. Wm. Pettingall 2. John Gardiner 3. Tho. Barrett 4. Robert Crane 5. Wm. Porter 6. Tho. Blofield 7. Edw. Crane 8. Christi Booty 9. James Jerom. Robt. Liddam tenor.

The rather curiously worded statement that 'the changes were rung by nine men of the company then belonging to the company,' tells us and doubtless was intended to tell us, that not only had the old enemies become friends, but the breach was so much healed that the two rival bands were joined into one company, with its headquarters at St. Peter's. The name of neither composer nor conductor is given, but we may be sure that Melchior called the bells. He had fully vindicated his right to be considered by all as the leading ringer of the city.

The figures of the composition are lost. I imagine from the length (12,600, which is 700 leads), that it was divided into regular and equal parts, and it is pretty certain that it was on the old plan with hunts, the big bells coming home at regular intervals.

It was about this time that Benjamin Annable discovered the superiority of the titum position in Cater ringing; but the Norwich men had their own ideas about composition, and are not likely to have copied London.

When you consider that this peal was rung only twenty-two years after the first in any method you will see that it was a really fine performance. It was the sixth length of over ten thousand, the first being the 10,080 of Treble Bob at Coslany in 1727, ten years previously, and five men took part in both peals. It remained the longest ten bell peal for a hundred and fifty-one years till April 11th, 1888, when the Oxford Diocesan Guild rang 13,265 of Grandsire Caters at Appleton, J. W. Washbrook being the composer and conductor, and the Rev. F. E. Robinson ringing the fifth.

Curiously enough, though, it was only by the barest chance that Norwich kept the record so long. Only forty-one days later than the Mancroft peal, that is on April 18th, 1737, the Painswick men rang 12,006 changes in the same method. Of course, neither band knew of the other's performance, or the Painswick company would surely have added the extra six hundred changes to give them the record. Mr. Snowden seemed to think that this peal was rung by relays of ringers in the same way that Barham's peals at Leeds in 1751 and 1761 were. Twice later the Norwich record was nearly but not quite beaten, once at Painswick in 1817, when 12,312 Grandsire Caters were rung, and once at Fulham in 1837, with 12,096 of the same method. Both these latter, however, were single-handed peals.

The long peal forms a fitting climax to the first stage of known history of ringing at Norwich. The first peal of Grandsire Bob Triples was rung by a band who had to struggle hard. In 1710 they accomplished half a peal, a very great performance then. Twice they rang the whole peal, but for some reason or other neither could stand, and when at last they did succeed they probably thought they had done enough, and Garthou and his contemporaries stood aside for younger and more ambitious men. Only one man of this band rang in the first peal of Grandsire Triples in 1718, and Garthou gave way as conductor to Melchior, who, as we have seen, nobly did his part in the development of the art of ringing. And now he and his men in their turn felt that they had done enough peal ringing, and could afford to rest on their laurels.

John Webster, who succeeded as leader, was not the ambitious man his predecessors and successors were, and so nearly thirty years went by, and a new generation of ringers grew up before the next peal was scored at Norwich. This was Imperial The Third Major, at St. Giles, in 1760. It marks the beginning of the second period in the history of Norwich ringing—a period associated with the names of Lindsey, Chamberlin, Barton, Cheshunt, and others, who proved that they were fully the equals of the ringers who had gone before them. But with these men and their doings we are not at present concerned.

It would be a great mistake to judge these old ringers by the number of peals they rang. In the early part of the eighteenth century peals were much more exceptional things than they afterwards became, and very much more exceptional than they are at present. At Norwich, at any rate, the idea seems to have been that there was not much reason for going for a peal unless it was in a method that had not previously been rung anywhere, or was a longer length than had previously been accomplished. The only exception I know of was the second peal of Grandsire Triples, the one in 1719, and it is noticeable that no board was put up for that.

Something of the same idea seems to have been held about composition. When the peal of Grandsire Bob Triples was 'at last found out to the truth by JOHN GARTHON,' after it had been 'studied by the most Acute Ringers in England (but to no effect),' that was a thing worth recording. So, too, when Garthou 'perfectly discovered these intricate methods [of Grandsire Triples] which were hidden from the eyes of all ringers of England.' So, too, when Stedman Triples was 'brought to light and truth' by Edward Crane. But a 'quarter-peal' of Treble Bob Major, though it were 10,080 changes, and a peal of Grandsire Caters, though it were 12,600 changes, were much lesser things in composition. Ringers elsewhere had done as much, and the Norwich boards pass them by in silence. During the thirty-nine years that St. Peter's had ten bells only two peals are known to have been rung on them, but both were of exceptional merit. One was the long peal of Grandsire, the other the first peal of Double Norwich Court Bob Royal.

It is not surprising, therefore, that although Stedman probably continued to be practised at Norwich, that no other peal of Triples was rung there till 1839, when Samuel Thurston conducted a 5,040 of Lutes, at St. Giles. The first peal of Caters was in 1843, and the first peal of Cinques in 1844. The first peal of Stedman Triples rung outside Norwich was on May 22nd, 1799, at St. Giles-in-the-Fields by the Junior Cumberland Society, composed and conducted by John Noonan. The first peal of Caters was rung by the College Youths on May 28th, 1787, at St. John's, Horsleydown, London, composed and conducted by John Reeves, and the first peal of Cinques also by the College Youths on October 6th, 1788, at St. Martin's-in-the-Fields, composed and conducted by Thomas Blakemore.

YOUNG BOURN RINGERS ELECTED MEMBERS.

A successful district meeting was held at Bourn on Saturday last, 30 ringers being present from Cambridge, Trumpington, Longstanton, Willingham, Great Shelford, Somersham, St. Neots, Barley, Royston, and Tottenham. A short service was held in the fine old church, conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. J. W. Joyce, and was followed by tea and business meeting in the School, the Vicar presiding. Melbourn was selected as the place for the next meeting.

The Vicar said he would like the young Bourn ringers to join the association, and stated that if they would join he would pay their subscriptions for the first year out of a small fund which he and the churchwardens had in hand.—Advantage was taken of this offer, and seven were elected.

The Vicar was elected as an honorary member.

Mr. F. E. Haynes, a very promising young ringer at Trumpington, was also elected as a member.

The Vicar said he wished to place on record his gratitude to Mr. A. G. Rivers, of Dry Drayton, for going to Bourn once every fortnight or three weeks to teach the young Bourn ringers.

Good use was made of the bells, ringing taking place until nearly nine o'clock, ranging from Bob Minor to Cambridge Surprise Major.

A SOUTH AFRICAN VISITOR.

Mr. E. Royston, of Durban, South Africa, is on a visit to this country, and on a recent Sunday evening took part in a touch of 336 Grandsire Triples at Rhyl, where he learned to ring. Although a stranger to the whole of the present band, he was, naturally, given a very hearty welcome, and expressed great pleasure in being able to ring at his old town: E. Royston 1, B. Collis 2, W. Bailey 3, J. Wilson 4, J. Evans 5, C. Egerton 6, A. S. Hughes 7, F. Bailey 8.

HALIFAX ASSOCIATION'S CONTEST.

WINNERS WHO COMPETED 33 YEARS AGO.

The quarterly meeting and six-bell contest of the Halifax and District Association were held at Sandal, near Wakefield, on Saturday, Oct. 3rd. Six bands had entered for the competition, in which they had to ring 600 changes in any method. The judges were Mr. A. Goodhall (Earlsheaton) and Mr. W. Idle (Batley), and the ringing went on merrily during the afternoon.

An excellent tea was provided by the Sandal ringers and friends in the Parochial Hall, to which over 80 ringers and friends sat down. The meeting was held later in the hall. The president (Mr. C. E. Carrington), who occupied the chair, proposed thanks to the Vicar of Sandal (the Rev. A. A. Parry), churchwardens and helpers. — Mr. Barraclough seconded.

The Vicar, in reply, said he was sorry he could not say 'fellow bell ringers,' as he had never attained the honour yet, but he was very pleased to welcome the Association to Sandal, and hoped they would visit it again. He urged young men to take up ringing, and said that most of his ringers were whole-hearted workers. Some Vicars, he said, thought that their bells were the best, and their ringers the best, but he was proud of the Sandal ringers. One had rung for 55 years, and two others over 40. He hoped that at some future date they would hear of Sandal bells being broadcast, as tower bell ringing was richer in tone than a carillon.

A suggestion was brought forward that the next meeting and eight-bell contest, should be held at Lightcliffe, and this was accepted.

The judges then announced their decision. The following are the names of the companies, the methods rung and the number of faults:

|                                 | Faults.   | Penalties. | Total. |
|---------------------------------|-----------|------------|--------|
| No. 1. Shelley, Oxford ... ..   | 293       | 10         | 303    |
| No. 2. Batley, Oxford ... ..    | 96        | —          | 96     |
| No. 3. Thornhill, Oxford ... .. | Rung out. |            |        |
| No. 4. Holmfirth, Oxford ... .. | Rung out. |            |        |
| No. 5. Birstal, Kent ... ..     | 204       | 10         | 214    |
| No. 6. Meltham, Oxford ... ..   | 312       | 10         | 322    |

Batley were declared winners, and the Vicar presented the cup to Mr. Senior, the conductor.—Mr. Senior, in reply, said he rang in his first contest at Sandal 33 years ago, and three of their present ringers also rang that day. He said the only way to achieve good striking was continual practice together.

A vote of thanks to judges and chairman closed a successful meeting.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

The bells of Doncaster parish church will not be rung again until certain ornamental stonework on the tower has been repaired and made safe. Doncaster parish church is a well-known landmark to all who travel on the main line from King's Cross to the North.

Will the ringer who is removing to the Bungalow, Glenfield Road, School Road, Ashford, Middlesex, kindly forward his name? He omitted this from his letter.

Mr. Henry F. Cooper, of Stisted, Essex, we are pleased to state, has so far recovered from his accident of Sept. 4th to be able to leave the Braintree Hospital, and is convalescent at his home. Through 'The Ringing World' he wishes to thank all who came to see him in hospital, and those who made inquiries.

When did 'Stedman' first become known by that name? The heated debate between Melchior and Crane, of which Mr. Trollope has been giving us a most interesting story, prompts the question. Melchior, in one of his letters refers to Doleman, and in an edition of what we believe to be that gentleman's 'Campanologia' (the title page of the copy inspected was missing), Stedman Doubles is given under the name of 'Crambo.' This was published in 1702. Melchior called the first peal of Stedman in 1731; when did the change occur, and to whom was it due?

At Harting, in Sussex, a new set of bell ropes is badly needed, but there are no funds to purchase them, or offers of help forthcoming. The rope of the 2nd has gone beyond repair, and this bell, therefore, is now silent. In the Parish Magazine the Rector says: 'This absence of No. 2 gives a very uneven and unsatisfactory result when ringing a peal.' Perhaps some tower could spare half a dozen second-hand ropes for Harting's peal of six, or at any rate provide one for the second bell. Doubtless, the Rector (the Rev. A. J. Roberts), as well as the ringers, would welcome an offer.

The all-important word 'not' omitted from a paragraph in this column last week made a statement about the first peal of Royal in Wiltshire convey the directly opposite meaning to that which was intended. The peal at Trowbridge during the Wiltshire tour was 'not' the first peal of Royal in the county.

There is a talk of touring the Lake District by a team from the Liverpool and London areas, at the end of the month, with a view to interesting the North of England Associations of ringers. Kendall, Ambleside, Keswick and Penrith are likely towers to be visited during the week-end trip.

A correspondent writes: 'The broken door at St. Chad's, Shrewsbury, was a sort of "boomerang" on the conductor, who, with a crowbar, was about to do the same when a band was ringing there some time ago, according to rumour.'

In All Saints' Church, Wakefield, there is a board recording a peal of 6,030 Grandsire Caters rung on Oct. 16th, 1820. It is additionally interesting not merely because it preserves what are apparently the part ends of the peal (in those days a part as we know it was often called a 'course'), but because of the footnote: 'This board was placed here by order of the Church Wardens in consequence of the attention and good conduct of the Ringers.'

Thomas Tolladay, a leading London ringer, and a prominent supporter of the St. James' Society, who called many peals, died on Oct. 18th, 1843.

The rivalry for the longest length of Treble Bob Royal between the College Youths and the Cumberlands, which culminated in the 12,000 by the latter in 1784, began seriously with 6,000 rung by the College Youths at Shoreditch on Oct. 19th, 1766.

The only peal of Cinques in which, so far as can be traced, John Holt took part, was rung by the Union Scholars at St. Bride's, Fleet Street. This was a 5,104 of Grandsire on Oct. 20th, 1751.

On Oct. 20th, 1776, the Cumberland Youths rang a peal of 5,376 Union Treble Bob at St. Mary's, Rotherhithe, and on the same day, in 1794, rang a 6,720 in the same method at St. Giles', Camberwell. This latter was a memorable performance, inasmuch as it was claimed by Shipway, who took part in it, to be the first ever rung containing the 120 course ends.

The Rev. Dr. Mason, of Trinity College, Cambridge, who nearly twenty years later interested himself in the publication of Holt's broadsheet, and received that interesting letter from John Webster, of Norwich, to which Mr. Trollope has recently referred in his 'Notes by the Way,' rang in a peal of Grandsire Triples at St. Mary's, Cambridge, on Oct. 22nd, 1734, with the Cambridge Youths.

London ringing societies, writes a correspondent, have none too many towers for their own members' use, without the intrusion of outsiders. It would be better if the county associations offered more opportunity and welcome to the London men to visit the suburbs of Greater London.

MULTI-METHOD PEALS.

HINTS ON 'SPICING' AND RINGING MINOR METHODS.

By JOHN P. FIDLER.—CONCLUDING ARTICLE.

Some day, perhaps, our mathematicians will tell us exactly how many different 5,040's (of seven methods each) it is possible to ring from thirty-five methods. Certainly enough to keep a band on the go for a year or two. At the request of the Editor, and for the benefit of those companies who, through lack of facilities, are unable to get the practice necessary to ring a large number of methods in a 5,040. I give below a few peals in less methods.

In the second article of the series, dealing with 'splicing,' I gave a seven method peal. There is no necessity to repeat it, but presuming it has been rung, let us look at Rochester, No. 5, page 9 of the Central Council's Collection. If 'Burton' has been mastered, this can be rung straight off, College Exercise being substituted for Oxford, Rochester being produced by ringing College Exercise 'up,' and Burton 'down.' Next, look at Killamarsh (No. 14, page 11). This is Kent 'up,' with a work 'down' which can easily be learned.

PEALS IN SEVEN METHODS.

1. Killamarsh. 2. Rochester. 3. Burton. 4. Overton. 5. Sandal. 6. London Scholars' Pleasure. 7. Kingston.
1. Disley. 2. Rochester. 3. Morning Star. 4. Trowel. 5. Duke of Norfolk. 6. College Exercise. 7. Nurbury.

In this peal each method has College Exercise work above the treble. Disley is No. 27, page 27 (Third's Place Delight section).

The following peal has two new methods introduced, viz., Hull (No. 14) and Tawal (No. 15), both on page 17. The work 'down' is the same in each, Hull having Woodbine work 'up' and Tawal, Willesden in the corresponding positions. To complete the peal add either the five methods of the Woodbine Group or those of the Willesden Group. If desired, two peals could be built up.

A peal of the seven 'odd' methods would test the abilities of a band, and an attempt for this would be very useful practice. Many others can be made up from the methods dealt with in the previous articles.

FOURTEEN METHOD PEALS.

Further useful practice could be obtained by taking two methods (which 'splice' lead for lead) from each of the seven groups, and, this having met with success, the following might be attempted.

The figures of the seventh extent will be found in 'The Ringing World' dated August 14th, 1925, page 522, viz., 'Spliced' Oxford and Kingston.

It will be seen that these methods only 'splice' course for course, so care must be exercised in their introduction.

TWENTY-ONE AND TWENTY-EIGHT METHOD PEALS.

Working to these figures, we can produce a twenty-one method peal. For guidance, I have commenced each 720 with the odd method of that particular group, so its introduction remains constant throughout. As seven more methods are required, take one from each group, and introduce it in the second part of the 720. For example, refer to the first 720, Ely and Bogedone, ring the first part as stated, but in the second part substitute Knutsford or other member of the group, and in the last part switch back to Bogedone, thus giving three methods per 720, or twenty-one methods in all.

Further use may be made of these figures, and a twenty-eight method peal rung. Ring the first two parts as instructed for the twenty-one method peal, but instead of returning to the original 'even' method after the first bob in the last part, make use of another member of the group.

Should this prove too difficult, there is an easier peal of this number of methods. It is obtained by cutting out the 'odd' method of each group, and using only the four methods which 'splice' lead for lead.

Those who have made themselves conversant with the subject should now experience no difficulty in building up peals to suit the standard of the band desirous of ringing peals of Minor.

Before concluding, what about the test of endurance coupled with the retention of the work of many methods? In the past we have had long lengths of Major Methods, Royal Methods, etc. Here is an opportunity for the strong six-bell men. How about thirty-five extents? Taking an average of twenty-five minutes per 720, it is only a matter of about 14 hours 35 minutes, and when you have done it, no doubt the Central Council will open a subscription list and erect an extra special Peal Board!

I close, hoping that this series of articles will create an added interest in six-bell ringing. If it does, I am rewarded.

[Previous articles have appeared in our issues of Aug. 14th, 21st, 28th, Sept. 4th, 11th, 18th, 25th, Oct. 2nd and 9th.]

THE LADIES' GUILD.

THE MIDLAND DISTRICT SECRETARYSHIP.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—May I trouble you for a little space, just to state that the members of the Midland District were not misinformed with regard to what happened at Reading. To prove that, I will call a meeting, if Miss Parker will attend, asking all those who were present at the last meeting to be present, and will again repeat Miss Parker's remarks verbatim. No report was submitted to me before the meeting, or read at the meeting. As Miss Parker had either lost or forgotten it, she remarked to me before going to ring, that she had a grumble against the Midland District, it being the only district with a non-ringer secretary. I replied: 'I was quite willing to resign, but no one would take on the work.' Her reply was: 'Perhaps they will now; anyhow I have mentioned it before the meeting.' At the meeting she said she had two grumbles, one was that a district she would not name had a secretary who was a non-ringer, and she thought it time a ringer came forward and took office, the present secretary was merely carrying on until a ringer took office. I still say that after the general secretary's remark, I could not carry on any longer. With apologies and thanks for space.—Yours faithfully,

3 Malvern Road, Handsworth.

A. GROVES.

P.S.—May I add that I shall not trouble you again; if Miss Parker will not accept my offer it must be settled privately.

SOUTHERN DISTRICT.

An enjoyable meeting of the Southern District was held at Ashstead, Surrey, on Saturday, Oct. 3rd. Ringing commenced about 3.30, and continued till 4.30, when the Guild service was held in the church, which was beautifully decorated for the harvest festival. Everyone enjoyed the service, especially the sermon preached by the Rector, who took for his text, 'She hath done what she could.'

A party of 25 sat down to tea, after which Mrs. Clark (president) extended thanks and appreciation to the Rector.

At the business meeting, it was decided to hold the next quarterly meeting at Seale on January 16th.

The belfry was revisited, and various methods rung from Grandsire to London Surprise.

Thanks are due to Mr. Wyatt for his kind help in getting everything ready and arranging for the choir and organist.

NEW PEAL OF BELLS AT CLEVEDON. MAGNIFICENT GIFT TO SOMERSET CHURCH.

For the first time for a hundred years, a peal of bells rang out from Clevedon's ancient Parish Church on Wednesday, Sept. 30th, when, with quiet, but impressive ceremonial, the Archdeacon of Bath dedicated the new peal generously given by Miss Jenkins, of Clevedon.

The church originally possessed five bells. In 1825 two were sold for church repairs, and in 1827 a third passed from the church. Of the two remaining, one (which was cast by John Cockey) now rests in the body of the church, and the other, which weighs 14 cwt. 1 qr. 20 lb., has been refound, and forms the tenor in the new peal of eight. It bears the inscription:—

'I to the Church the living call;
And to the grave do summon all.'

The seven new bells have been cast by Messrs. John Taylor and Co., of Loughborough, and the whole hung in a new steel frame.

The bells all bear appropriate inscriptions. One is inscribed in memory of the donor's sister; on another appears the name of the Vicar of the parish, the Rev. Preb. H. E. Badcock; and the names of the two churchwardens, Mr. H. C. P. Day and Mr. E. J. Hagley are inscribed upon a third one.

The splendid work of providing the new bells and strengthening the tower has cost over £1,100.

The dedication ceremony was attended by a large number of clergy and a crowded congregation. The combined choirs of the Parish Church and St. Peter's were in attendance. A shortened form of evensong was conducted by the Rev. W. E. Horsley (assistant curate), the lessons being read by the Rev. S. B. Berry (Vicar of St. Mary's, Bridgwater, and formerly assistant curate at Clevedon Parish Church), and the Rev. Preb. H. E. Badcock, R.D. (Vicar of Clevedon). The processional hymn was 'We love the place, O God.' Psalms cxlii. and xl. were chanted, and then, after another hymn, 'We give Thee but Thine own,' the Vicar and churchwardens, with the Archdeacon, proceeded to the entranceway to the tower, where the Vicar, on behalf of the donor, requested the Archdeacon 'to dedicate to the glory of God, and for the use of this parish, the peal of bells now hung in this church tower.'

The Archdeacon, after offering prayer, solemnly dedicated the bells, and the local ringers (a band of beginners) rang a few rounds, led by Mr. T. Francis.

The singing of the hymn, 'Now thank we all our God,' preceded the Archdeacon's sermon, which was based on the 95th Psalm, 6th verse, 'O come, let us worship and bow down; let us kneel before the Lord our Maker.'

During the singing of the hymn, 'Praise, my soul, the King of Heaven,' a collection was taken towards the cost of erecting an outside entrance to the belfry.

The singing of 'O God, our help in ages past,' closed an impressive and extremely well-ordered service.

Preb. Badcock having wished Mr. W. Gillingham to bring a band of ringers from the Chew Deanery, a quarter-peal of Grandsire was then rung: E. Goldstone (Portishead) 1, T. Wyatt (Clapton-in-Gordano) 2, R. G. Williams (Portishead) 3, J. Bishop (Wraxall) 4, G. Yeo (Long Ashton) 5, J. Nisbet (Portishead) 6, W. Gillingham (Portishead), conductor, 7, T. Francis (Clevedon) 8, after which touches of Stedman Triples and Bob Major were rung, everyone agreeing that the 'go' of the bells was everything to be desired.

Amongst those who took part in the ringing were Miss Fisher (Dorking), Misses Stokes and Broad, Mrs. Edwards and Mr. G. Rowbotham (Portishead), Messrs. W. A. Cave and W. H. Thomas (Bristol), Mr. Dart (London), Mr. H. Knight (Clapton-in-Gordano), and others.

Later in the evening, the churchwardens entertained the local and invited ringers at Sweet's Restaurant, and a very pleasant evening was spent.—In replying to the toast of 'The Ringers,' Mr. Gillingham wished the young band at Clevedon every success in the branch of church work they had undertaken, and offered to assist them whenever possible.

RINGER'S FAREWELL AT NORTON. PRESENTATIONS TO MR. COLIN OLDFIELD.

The ringers at St. James', Norton, Derbyshire, rang farewell touches on Sunday, Oct. 11th, to Mr. Colin Oldfield, one of the band, who is shortly leaving Sheffield for New York.

Mr. Oldfield has been a ringer and a church worker, as well as the company's handbell instructor, for several years, a chorister, and deputy organist.

The ringers presented him with a gold bell pendant, and the church choir gave him a handsome gold chain.

For the evening service, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples (1,260 changes) was brought round, under the conductorship of Mr. W. Biggin, to mark the occasion; also as a birthday touch for the ringer of the 2nd: W. Biggin 1, Miss Elsie E. Smith 2, H. Beardshaw 3, Tom O'Hara 4, George Smith 5, T. E. Lee 6, Jas. A. Dixon 7, Colin C. Oldfield 8.

W. ROCK SMALL'S MEMORIAL FUND.

In connection with the above fund, the following donations have been received: W. W. Worthington, 10s. 6d.; J. S. Pritchett, £1 ls. All contributions should be addressed to Mr. John B. Evans, 52 Park Lane, East Tipton, Staffs, and will be acknowledged through this paper.

BEQUEST FOR BELLS AT GORING, OXON.

A local tradesman, of Goring, Oxon, who recently passed away, left in his will £1,000 to the parish church, and £500 for the augmentation of the ring of six bells to the complete octave. The work is to be put in hand shortly, and a handy-going ring of eight should be the result. As there is a first-class band of Minor ringers attached to this tower, eight-bell ringing should flourish here before long, which will fill a long-felt want in the district, change ringing bands being few and far between in the Thames Valley between Reading and Oxford.

BATH & WELLS ASSOCIATION. CORRESPONDENCE WITH THE B.B.C.

On the occasion of the quarterly meeting of the Bath and Wells Diocesan Association, at Drayton, on Sept. 26th, proceedings started at 10.30 a.m., when members from Taunton, Ilminster and Midsomer Norton, together with the Vicar of Drayton, the Rev. A. Rhys James, met for a peal at Curry Rivel. The attempt, although productive of some very good ringing, ended in failure. Later, the band were the guests at lunch of the Rev. and Mrs. Rhys James. The Rev. T. H. Scott, Mr. Eastment (churchwarden) and Miss Eastment were present.

Ringing then took place on Drayton bells, members from Langport, Yeovil, West Pennard, Minehead, Curry Rivel, Wilton, Milverton, Shepton Mallett and Street, being present. A welcome visitor was Mr. A. B. Peck, of London, who, however, could not stay long.

At evensong, the Rev. A. Rhys James officiated, the Rev. E. S. G. Lock (Master) read the lesson, and the Rev. T. H. Scott, M.A., gave the address. Tea and the business meeting followed.

Routine business having been transacted, Mr. D. G. Taylor (Ilminster) gave an interesting account of correspondence he had had with the Director of Programmes of the B.B.C. Mr. Taylor said that he had written to express appreciation of the broadcasting of the ringing at St. Philip's, Birmingham. He had gone on to give a lengthy explanation of the difference between ringing and chiming, and had strongly deprecated the latter, as being liable to give a totally erroneous impression of bell ringing. He had further suggested that ringing from some of the London towers should be broadcast, and had given to the Director of Programmes the address of the secretary of the College Youths.

The B.B.C. had replied sympathetically, saying that they welcomed constructive criticism, and had filed Mr. Taylor's remarks for further reference.

Votes of thanks to the Rev. and Mrs. A. Rhys James, Miss Eastment, and all who had helped to make the meeting a success, were then passed. Further ringing, consisting of Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Plain and Kent Treble Bob Major, Cambridge Surprise and Kent Treble Bob Minor, concluded the evening.

ILCHESTER DEANERY BRANCH.

A meeting was held at Kingsway Episcopi, on Saturday last, when the peal of six bells was kept going to Grandsire and Stedman Doubles, Plain Bob, Grandsire and Kent Treble Bob Minor. The service was conducted and an address given by the Vicar (the Rev. E. R. Tuxford).

A short meeting followed tea in the Church Room. In the absence of both president and vice-president, the Vicar of Kingsbury kindly presided.

The local ringers decided to join the association as probationers, and Mr. G. Jeanes, of Langport, was made a full member.

It was proposed by Mr. T. Gale, seconded by Mr. J. E. Baker, that the annual meeting be held at Martock.

The secretary (Mr. F. Farran) proposed a hearty vote of thanks to the Vicar for his very kind welcome, his excellent address, and for making all arrangements. He regretted there was only a small attendance, and especially the unavoidable absence of the officers, the Revs. G. W. Saunders, A. Rhys James and Mr. D. G. Taylor, president, vice-president and Ringing Master, respectively. He also thanked Miss Bradford for presiding at the organ, and the ladies who had provided such an excellent tea.

Rev. E. R. Tuxford suitably responded, saying he was glad the secretary had not forgotten the ladies who had provided tea, as theirs had been the most arduous task, his had been quite a pleasure.

There were ringers present from Langport, Milverton, Street, Yeovil and Martock, and the local men.

THE CHEAPER FARES MOVEMENT.*NORTH WALES ASSOCIATION'S APPLICATION.

In support of the movement to secure cheaper railway fares for ringers, the following letter, which incidentally illustrates the handicap under which some societies labour, has been sent to the Chief Superintendent of the L.M. and S. Railway at Derby, and the G.W.R. Superintendent at Oswestry.

Dear Sir,—I have been requested by members of the North Wales Change Ringers Association to make application to you for reduced fares for our members when attending meetings in connection with the association of bell ringers. I would like to point out to you our association includes Flintshire, Denbighshire, Carnarvonshire, Merionethshire and Montgomery, and meetings are held in various towns in these counties, but, owing to lack of cheap fares, our members are unable to attend these meetings as regularly as they would like to do so. For instance, a meeting was held in Barmouth a few days ago, and owing to the heavy railway fare from Rhyl to Barmouth not one member was able to attend, but had a reduced fare been available, such as fishermen and golf players participate in, I think I could safely say seven-eighths of the members from Rhyl would have attended this meeting. And the same applies to members from Wrexham, Buckley, Ruthin bell ringers' societies and other societies in the North Wales Association. Then, again, various members of this society would often like to travel to visit bellries to ring peals, but owing to the lack of a reduced fare for bell ringers this cannot be done.

Our association consists of about 200 members, and if reduced fares were granted to members of bell ringers' societies going on bell ringers' business, I am sure many more would use the train service, to the mutual benefit of both parties.

I am given to understand various associations in Great Britain are applying for a special reduction in fares for use of bell ringers, and are forwarding their application to headquarters in their district. I trust you will give this application your consideration and that we may have a favourable reply granting us conditions of reduced fares, as enjoyed by other clubs and societies.

YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION.*NORTHERN DIVISION MEETING AT THIRSK.

The quarterly meeting of the Northern Division of the Yorkshire Association was held at Thirsk on Saturday, Sept. 26th, when ringers attended from Leeds, Bradford, Hull, Middlesboro', Thornaby, Helmsley, Pickering and Thirsk.

In the afternoon a service was conducted in the Parish Church by the Rev. H. G. Metcalfe (Vicar of Felixkirk, near Thirsk), who also gave an interesting address on the history of bell ringing.

During the afternoon, Bob Major, Kent Treble Bob, and Grandsire Triples were rung.

Tea was enjoyed at the Three Tuns Hotel, and was followed by a brief business meeting. The Rev. H. G. Metcalfe presided, and in expressing his pleasure at so doing, thanked the ringers' for the kind reception they had given him.—The Secretary read a letter from the Rev. C. C. Marshall (president), expressing regret at his inability to be present.

It was decided to hold the February, 1926, meeting at Kirby Moorside.

Mr. Metcalfe extended a cordial invitation to the ringers to hold a summer meeting at Felixkirk.—Thanks was expressed to Mr. Metcalfe by Mr. J. H. Blakiston (Middlesboro'), who suggested that the Felixkirk ringers should become members of the association, and that Mr. Metcalfe himself should become a honorary member.

Mr. J. Sinclair (Thornaby) thanked the Vicar of Thirsk for the use of the tower; Mr. J. Stolt (captain), and the local ringers for the arrangements made for the comfort and enjoyment of the ringers.

During the evening, Stedman Triples, Oxford Treble Bob and Double Norwich were rung. The ringers from Leeds and Bradford stayed the night at Thirsk, and on Sunday morning joined with the local ringers in ringing a very enjoyable touch for morning service.

FIRST DERBYSHIRE LADY PEAL RINGER.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I am sorry to have to reply again to the above subject, after having answered a like controversy some six months ago—in all probability from the same source of inquiry.

I venture through your generosity, after seeing the inquiry again in the 'Ringing World' of Sept. 11, to give the following particulars due to the performances of Miss Elsie E. Smith, a native of Norton, Derbyshire: Peal No. 2,971, March 10th, Midland Counties report, 5,376 Bob Major (1923). Also a peal for the Yorkshire Association at 'St. James', Norton, Derbyshire (Bob Major), in 1920. Miss Smith, being a native of Derbyshire, claims the title.—Yours faithfully,

T. E. LEE.

31, Hartshorn Road, Woodseats, Sheffield.

WINCHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD.*JOINT DISTRICT MEETING AT RYDE.

The first of a proposed series of joint meetings between the Portsmouth and Isle of Wight districts was held on Saturday week at All Saints', Ryde, when beautiful weather prevailed. About 30 ringers were present from Alverstoke, Bournemouth, Carisbrooke, Fareham, Hambledon, Newport, Portsmouth (St. Mary's and St. Thomas'), Ryde, Swanmore, Whitwell and Wickham; also Mr. J. Parker (Edmonton).

Ringing commenced about 3 p.m., and some good practice was indulged in for two hours, the methods being Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Bob and Treble Bob Major, Double Norwich and Superlative Surprise Major. The ringers then adjourned to tea, at a close-by institute, and this was followed by handbell ringing until 6.30 p.m.

Mr. F. W. Rogers (Portsmouth district secretary) pointed out how pleased they were to come to the island to meet their old friends, and hoped that they would make such meetings a regular feature between the districts.—In reply, Mr. H. Barton said that he was quite justified when he thought that the idea of holding such meetings would tend to improve the social as well as the practical side of ringing, as was seen by the large attendance.

The meeting closed with a vote of thanks to Mr. B. J. Snow (Ryde), who had kindly undertaken the catering arrangements, and also to those responsible for the meeting. It was proposed to hold the next meeting at Portsmouth.

During the afternoon, 252 Stedman Triples was rung in honour of the wedding of Mr. Fred Mabey, eldest son of Mr. A. Mabey, of East Ashley, I.O.W., and Dorothy M. Rolf, of Watford, who were married at St. Mary's, Watford, on that day: H. Barton (conductor) 1, H. Phillips 2, A. G. Bennett 3, F. A. Burnett 4, A. D. Callaway 5, J. B. Williamson 6, A. R. Ward 7, F. S. Bayley 8.—Mr. Barton proposed health and happiness to the bridal pair.

GLOUCESTER & BRISTOL ASSOCIATION.*SWINDON BRANCH MEETING.

A quarterly meeting of the Swindon Branch of the Gloucester and Bristol Association was held at Chippenham on Saturday, Sept. 26th. After ringing in the afternoon, tea was partaken of at the Waverley Hotel. The Rev. — Wood, Vicar of St. Andrew's, Chippenham, was voted to the chair for the subsequent business meeting, when the secretary read the list of subscriptions to the Washbrook Memorial Fund, amounting to £1 3s.

Towers for the two monthly practices were selected, viz., Brinkworth in October, and Blunsdon in November, and it was decided to advertise these meetings in 'The Ringing World,' as it is hoped to see a larger attendance at these practices.

The annual branch meeting is to be held at Swindon in January.

The Vicar of St. Andrew's was elected an hon. member, and given a hearty welcome, to which he suitably replied. A return to the tower was then made, and Grandsire, Stedman, Kent Treble Bob and Double Norwich were practised until 8 p.m., when the bells were lowered in peal. The following towers were represented: Chippenham, Melksham, Trowbridge, Swindon and Wootton Bassett.

Owing to Brinkworth bells not being available on the 17th October, two monthly meetings referred to above, will be reversed, as advertised in the notice column of this paper.

HAPPY GATHERING AT WEST BROMWICH.

After the peal at West Bromwich last Saturday, recorded in this number, the band and a number of other friends were entertained to a substantial meat tea by Mr. Reuben Hall, in commemoration of his 73rd birthday.

Mr. Paddon Smith, in proposing the health of Mr. Hall, congratulated him on the way he rang the tenor to the peal on the eve of reaching his 73rd year. The speaker referred to Mr. Hall's genial manner, and hoped he would be spared to live among them for many years, so that they might continue to enjoy his ready wit.

The health of Mr. Hall was drunk with musical honours.

On behalf of the Oldbury handbell ringers, Mr. Hall was presented with a very comfortable pair of slippers. He was also the recipient of a bottle of 'John Begg.' All this (including the bottle) was very much appreciated by Mr. Hall.

The rest of the evening was spent with tunes by the Oldbury handbell ringers, songs, etc.

Mr. Hall, who is the oldest ringer to take part in a peal in this part of the Midlands, is a native of Bourton-on-the-Water, Gloucestershire, but except for a few years spent in the back woods of America, he has lived the major portion of his life in West Bromwich.

NEWPORT, MON.—At All Saints' Church, on Thursday, Oct. 8th, for harvest festival, in 43 mins., a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples (1,260 changes): G. Day 1, T. Ford 2, J. W. Jones 3, A. E. Morgan 4, H. Morgan 5, F. Chapman 6, J. Hammond (conductor) 7, H. Forbes 8.

BERKSHIRE TOWER'S NEW BELL.

On Sunday, October 4th, at St. Mary's Church, Shaw-cum-Donnington, Berks, a new treble bell was dedicated by the Rector (the Rev. W. Kingsley Kefford) in the course of the morning service. The augmentation has been carried out by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank, of Whitechapel, and the bells now make a very nice ring of six.

After the service, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Doubles (1,260 changes), with ten different callings, was rung by the following members of the Oxford Guild, in 43 mins.: H. W. Curtis (conductor) 1, E. W. Smith 2, C. Poole 3, E. Crocker 4, T. Curtis (first quarter on an inside bell) 5, F. Owen (first quarter) 6.

THE STEDMAN CINQUES AT SHREWSBURY

The stopping of the peal of Stedman Cinques at St. Chad's calls to mind an incident of about 110 years ago, writes a correspondent.

About this time, the famous Samuel Lawrence, of Shifnal, anxious to ring a peal of Stedman Cinques, took a band from various parts of the country to make an attempt at Shrewsbury. After ringing some considerable time, it was brought to an end under peculiar circumstances.

It appears a sweep was engaged to sweep the vestry chimney, the top of the vestry being on a level with the belfry window. The sweep had—as they did in those days—to climb up the inside of the chimney, and just as he popped his head out of the top he heard someone call 'Bob.' His name being Bob Roberts, he went to inquire what they wanted with him; another bob was called, and he jumped inside!

Lawrence never rang his peal of Stedman Cinques.

A PROUD RECORD.

Sixty years as chorister, 50 years as ringer, and 40 years as parish clerk, is the proud, and we should imagine, unsurpassed record of Mr. J. Lovekins, of Sherifhales, Salop. A peal in his honour was rung on Saturday, and it was also a 'welcome home' to the Vicar, the Rev. R. A. Giles; after a world tour. The Vicar, churchwardens and ringers, after the peal, sat down to a meat tea, splendidly served by local ladies, in the Parish Hall, and the visitors would like to take this opportunity of thanking all who helped to make their visit most enjoyable.

CLEVELAND ASSOCIATION'S MEETING AT MIDDLEHAM

The little village of Middleham was the venue for the September meeting of the Cleveland and North Yorkshire Association, and the members from Ripon, Thirsk, Richmond, Darlington, Middlesbrough, Ormesby and Saltburn, who journeyed there, were entranced with its beauty. The splendid peal of eight were soon running, and excellent touches of Double Norwich, Kent, Plain Bob, Stedman and Grandsire were obtained, the striking being a most praiseworthy point.

Forty-one members and friends, including the local ringers, sat down to tea, the business meeting following, under the chairmanship of Mr. Young, the newly-appointed Vicar.

After nine new members had been elected to the association, the meeting debated their president's notice of motion as to the change of the date for the annual meeting. An amendment to the notice substituting Easter Monday for the second Saturday in September was moved and seconded, and it was decided to further discuss the matter at the Easter meeting.

The association decided to support the Gloucester and Bristol Association in their endeavour to obtain cheaper railway facilities, and the secretary was requested to write to the London and North-Eastern Railway Company on the matter.

The ringers then adjourned to the tower once more, and further touches were rung. The arrival of the bus for the last train home, however, brought the meeting to a close, and the members dispersed, after a most enjoyable day.

THAT UNLUCKY 13.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I read Irenæus' pithy notes with pleasure on every occasion, but must just make a small correction as to the youngest M.C.A. ringer to score a 5,000. On December 20th, 1919, I had the happiness to call a peal in which my brother, G. Stedman Morris, rang. This was on his 12th birthday, but was on handbells. On July 6th, 1920, however, I called a peal at Kirby Muxloe, in which F. J. Bowley, junr., rang the treble, he being then only 11 years 4 months old, and, therefore, claims the record.

I had already written to Mr. Gobey pointing this out, and, like Irenæus, want both he and 'Young Falstaff' to take this as written, in a kindly spirit, and accept our hearty congratulations. May the latter go on with the good work, and keep 'growing greater' every day. The best of luck to him.—Yours faithfully.

Leicester.

RINGERS' OUTINGS.

KETTERING RINGERS AT LEICESTER.

On Saturday, Sept. 12th, the Kettering ringers and friends had a very pleasant outing. Leaving Kettering at 1 p.m., they reached Kibworth, in Leicestershire, after a very interesting drive. Permission had been given to ring on the fine peal of eight bells, and the party were met at the tower by Mr. F. Staniforth. A good touch each of Stedman Triples, Double Norwich, Cambridge, Superlative and London Surprise were brought round. The next tower on the list was St. Saviour's, Leicester, where the visitors found the bells up, and the steeplekeeper (Mr. J. S. Needham) engaged in putting everything in apple-pie order. On this fine peal of eight (tenor 27 cwt.), Stedman Triples, Cambridge and London Surprise were successfully brought round, but Double Norwich for some reason would not 'go.' The bells were lowered in peal, and the party escorted by Mr. Ernest Morris to a cafe in Belgrave Road, where a substantial tea was enjoyed. By special permission, the party was very kindly allowed to ring for a short time on the beautiful peal of twelve bells at St. Margaret's. After a course of Stedman Caters had been brought round, an attempt was made for a course of Cambridge Royal, which ended unsuccessfully. A large number of Leicester ringers had by this time arrived, and, with their very able assistance, some of the party were able to ring their first course of Stedman Cinques. At the Black Boy Hotel a social evening was afterwards spent. Messrs. W. Willson, H. Poole and E. Morris delighted the company with some excellent tunes on the handbells, while Mr. Josiah Morris and Mr. J. S. Needham contributed songs. Several courses of Grandsire and Stedman Caters were rung 'in hand' on some very old cup handbells (kindly lent by Mr. J. S. Needham), which were cast at Kettering by Thomas Garry, the bell founder. Thanks of the visitors are due to the very great kindness of Mr. F. Staniforth, of Kibworth; Mr. Ernest Morris and Mr. J. S. Needham, of Leicester, for their arrangements for the comfort of the party, and to all those Leicester ringers who met them and gave them such a warm welcome. The Kettering men extend their warmest thanks, and trust in the future to have the pleasure of welcoming them to Kettering. D. J. N.

WALTHAMSTOW RINGERS IN SUSSEX.

On Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 19th and 20th, members of the St. Saviour's Society, Walthamstow, had a most enjoyable outing to Lindfield and Cuckfield. Ringing at Cuckfield on Saturday afternoon, with the help of some of the local ringers, touches of Grandsire and Stedman Triples, and a course of Kent Treble Bob Major, were brought round. At Lindfield in the evening, Grandsire and Stedman Triples were the methods rung: for service in the morning Grandsire and Plain Bob; and for evening service, Grandsire and Stedman Triples. The band wish to take this opportunity of thanking the Vicars of Lindfield and Cuckfield for so readily granting them permission to ring, and Messrs. A. Tomsett and F. R. Hounsell for making the necessary arrangements on their behalf.

VISIT TO LOUGHBOROUGH.

On Saturday, August 29th, the ringers of Sawley Church, with the two churchwardens, held their annual outing. Travelling by motor, they first called at Shephed, but owing to illness were not able to ring, so they proceeded to Whitwick, and enjoyed about an hour's ringing. The journey was then continued to Woodhouse Eaves, where tea was served, and afterwards the visitors had a short ring on the parish church bells. They next went to the bell foundry at Loughborough, where a good time was spent. Through the medium of the 'Ringing World' the ringers wish to thank the respective Vicars and the local ringers for the use of the bells, and also Mr. Taylor for the use of the bells at Loughborough. The methods rung during the afternoon were Kent Treble Bob and Bob Major, Grandsire Triples, Kent Treble Bob and Bob Minor, and Bob Doubles.

WOODFORD AND LOUGHTON RINGERS IN MID-ESSEX.

On Saturday, August 22nd, the above ringers and friends set off for the day by charabanc into Mid-Essex. Leaving Loughton at 8 a.m., Epping Town was reached, where a number of touches were brought round. After a nice run, Writtle was their next stopping place, and here a few more touches were successfully rung. Kelvedon was the next stop, where lunch (catered for by Mr. and Mrs. C. Rycraft, of High Street) was greatly appreciated by the company. The next halts were at Feering and Braintree, touches being rung on both these peals. A pleasant run then brought the party to Brentwood, where an excellent tea was provided by one of the ringers; this also was greatly appreciated by all. A move was made to the tower, where ringing was indulged in for about an hour and a half, home being reached about 9.30 p.m., the day having been greatly enjoyed. The ringers wish to thank the Vicars and steeplekeepers, especially Mr. W. Keeble, of Feering, for recommending the lunch headquarters, and Mr. F. Ringe, of Brentwood, for arranging tea.

SUNDAY SERVICE TOUCHES.

BIRMINGHAM.—At Bishop Ryder's Church, on Sunday, Oct. 11th, after evening service, a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples, 1,260 changes (from Thurstans' Four-part), in 47 mins.: James George 1, G. E. Large 2, L. Griffiths 3, St. Grove 4, F. Price 5, C. Dale 6, B. W. Wiltchell (conductor) 7, W. Gee 8. Rung in honour of the christening of the son and heir of the Rev. Canon G. E. Badger, M.A. (Vicar of this church), and Mrs. Badger; also as a birthday compliment to Mrs. Badger and Mrs. Gelling, the last-named lady being the wife of the donor of the bells. In consequence of illness near the church a full three hours' peal for these auspicious events was impossible.

TRURO DIOCESAN GUILD.

BRANCH MEETING AT KENWYN.

A quarterly meeting of the Truro District Branch of the Diocesan Guild was held at Kenwyn Church, Truro, on Friday, Sept. 25th, this being the occasion of the harvest thanksgiving. The attendance was somewhat small, owing to the wretched weather, only about 15 ringers attending, representing the Cathedral, Kea and Kenwyn bands. During the afternoon, touches of Grandsire Doubles were rung.

The Vicar, the Rev. F. Thomas, provided tea for the ringers, and afterwards touches of Grandsire Triples were practised. Before the thanksgiving service, 336 Grandsire Triples were brought round by W. E. Minors (Cathedral) 1, P. Harfoot (Kea) 2, W. Arthur (Cathedral) 3, A. F. Knight (Kenwyn) 4, E. C. Friend (Kenwyn) 5, A. S. Roberts (Cathedral) 6, W. H. Sleeman (Cathedral) 7, F. M. Roberts (Cathedral) 8. After the service, the bells were kept going for about 45 minutes, with short touches of Grandsire Triples and rounds.

THE LATE MR. F. R. BACON.

At the funeral of the late Mr. F. R. Bacon, of Hitchin, president of the Hertford County Association, the local ringers were represented by Messrs. E. W. Day, J. F. Foster, H. Day, C. Cannon, J. Hare and L. Fidler, and the band sent a floral tribute, fashioned in the shape of a bell.

Mr. Bacon, who resided at Elv before going to Hitchin, had rung several peals for the Herts and Ely Associations.

STRIVING AND STRIFE.

A most interesting light has been thrown upon an incident of early ringing history by Mr. J. A. Trollope in the articles which he has written around the first peals of Stedman Triples at Norwich in those far-off days, now nearly two hundred years ago. It is a story of striving as well as strife, and while the dispute between Melchior and Crane has its humours as well as its petty passions, it must not be overlooked that it was these Norwich men and their rather older colleagues who laid the foundation of peal ringing as we know it to-day. Mr. Trollope, as the result of his researches, has been able to paint in for us many picturesque details of the squabble between the rival composers of the earliest peals of Stedman Triples (whether the compositions were false or true—a question which the writer of 'Notes by the Way' discusses analytically this week—is of no matter), but through it all we must acknowledge that Melchior and Crane were men of enterprise, whose characteristics have shown themselves in all the generations of composers — and ringers—which have followed. Through the two centuries which have since elapsed men of outstanding merit in their day have come, and gone, most of them have squabbled with their rivals, though probably not all have made it up again as did the Norwich men.

And to-day there is still the striving there is still the strife. We all applaud the former; some who are spectators are inclined to look askance at those who engage in the latter. But striving and strife have through all time marked the progress of mankind, and without them there would have been less progress in the world. Ringers to-day owe most of their knowledge to the men who, in the past, have striven to master the mysteries of the Art, and have not shirked the strife which competitive claims have precipitated. We are not alluding now to the petty jealousies which arise in small-minded people, who can see nothing for praise except in their own doings, and have no honour for he who excels except it be himself; nor do we refer to those rather empty quarrels of which we hear from time to time arising out of personal feelings. Jealousy on the part of one or both of the Norwich antagonists doubtless led to their dispute, and similar feelings have constantly found vent in unseemly quarrels all through the history of ringing—for ringers, after all, are quite ordinary human beings. But what we are tempted to suggest is that out of many of the rivalries and resultant 'strife' a great deal of the advance in ringing has come. It is this spirit of seeking to score over one's neighbours which has led to some of the best compositions being produced; which has resulted in many a record peal being rung, and if sometimes these things have caused outbursts from opposition camps, or have been the outcome of challenges thrown down, the Exercise in the end has profited. It is not everyone who can quarrel gracefully, and if the spectacle is not always what one could desire, the lookers-on can generally find in these wordy battles something to improve their knowledge; something to increase their interest in the Art, so that out of the strife, as well as out of the striving, good has sometimes come.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

SOUTH OXON AND MID-BUCKS BRANCH.

The annual meeting of the above branch was held on Saturday, October 3rd, at Great Haselley, Oxon. At the service an excellent address was given by the Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn (Master of Oxford Guild). Tea was kindly provided in the Village Institute by Lady Muirhead, of Little Haselley Court, and was heartily appreciated.

At the business meeting which followed, the Rev. J. T. Fox was re-elected chairman of the branch, and the Rev. — Bown, of Haselley, was appointed secretary, the late secretary, Mr. P. Wilson, resigning owing to the probability of his leaving the district, much to the regret of the members.

Mr. F. W. Woodward was re-elected assistant secretary and representative on the General Guild Committee.

The spring meeting was voted to take place at Great Milton on Sunday, May 16th, 1926; service at 3 p.m. As most of the branch meetings are not very well attended on Saturdays, especially in the football season, Sunday was selected as an experiment.

The tower was again visited in the evening, when rounds and Grandsire Doubles were rung for the beginners; and a well-struck 360 of Bob Minor was brought round by P. Wilson 1, H. Tucker 2, E. Naish 3, F. W. Woodward 4, W. Hutton 5, Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn (conductor) 6. This brought a pleasant meeting to a close.

BARNSELEY & DISTRICT ASSOCIATION.

A well-attended meeting was held at Wath on Saturday, October 10th, members being present from Anston, Barnsley, Darfield, Crofton, Cawthorne, Horbury, Sandal, Rotherham, Shelley, Royston, Rawmarsh, and the local company.

Ringings commenced early in the afternoon. Service was held at which the Vicar of Wath (the Rev. F. B. Gunning) was assisted by the Rev. C. A. L. Woolley, Vicar of Cawthorne, who gave an admirable address, commending the great mysteries of change ringing, and the wonderful influence of ringers, through the skilful handling of bells, on other people. He especially pleaded for ringers to maintain their societies and their art in great repute.

Tea followed in a local cafe, and the Vicar and the Rev. C. A. L. Woolley were specially thanked for their kind help. Correspondence was read from the Railway Clearing House, London, declining to give cheaper fares for individual ringers.

There was competition for the next place of meeting, viz., Sandal, Royston and Crofton. Sandal received the majority of the votes, so the next meeting is to be held there on Saturday, November 14th.

Further ringing followed the meeting, a closing feature being some splicing of Minor methods, well and truly done.

SOUTHAMPTON.—At St. Mary's Church, on Oct. 12th, to celebrate the official opening of the new Parish Hall 1,008 Bob Major: Reg. Curtis 1, Mus. V. A. Jarrett, R.E., 2, J. W. Faithfull 3, F. Mursell 4, P. White 5, H. Reeves 6, F. Cole 7, George Williams (conductor) 8. Longest length for ringers of treble and 5th.

THE BELLS OF MARPLE, CHESHIRE.

THE FIRST PEAL ON AN ANCIENT RING.

The fine toned, but heavy going, ring of bells at Marple, for over a century, defied the efforts of peal ringers. The attempts have been numerous, but the result was always the same, the ringers had to give up. It was decided to have one more shot, and this was made on October 10th, happily with success, but no one was sorry when the conductor called 'This is all.'

A brief account of these interesting bells which formerly hung in Stockport will not be out of place at this juncture.

The first account of the bells of the Stockport Parish Church is supplied by the report of the commissioners appointed in the reign of Henry VIII. to inquire into the Church property of the Macclesfield Hundred. Their return, dated 1548, shows that, at that time, Stockport had a ring of iiij (4) bells, a number not exceeded by any church in the Hundred, except Northenden, which had five.

An inventory of the property belonging to the Parish Church of Stockport, made in 1683, states there were then 'five bells in the steeple, and one small bell at ye east end of ye church.' The latter was possibly the 'Sancto Bell,' the small bell that was rung in pre-Reformation times on the elevation of the Host during the service of High Mass (an example of a 'Sancto Bell,' and its position may still be seen at Prestbury).

In the year 1731, the five bells were exchanged for a ring of six by Rudhalls, of Gloucester (tenor 14½ cwt.), the Rev. Harry Style being Rector at that time. The following entries respecting them appear in the Churchwardens' accounts for that year:—

| Decr. Paid the Carters for carriage of ye bells to Salop | £ s d.   |
| and back   | 17 2 3½  |
| Pd. Francis Ringley, ye bell hanger his bill             | 8 1 4    |
| Pd. Mr. Rudhall, ye founder for ye exchange of ye bells  | 139 19 6 |
| Pd. for six new clappers                                 | 3 9 3    |
| Pd. for six new baldrings                                | 0 15 0   |

About the commencement of the 19th century, a portion of the tower gave way, and some rude buttresses were erected to support it. However, in 1805, the bells having been rung for several days in succession, in celebration of Nelson's great victory of Trafalgar, the old tower was so shaken that it became dangerous, so, therefore, the bells were seldom rung afterwards, and the last time they pealed from that tower was on 13th October, 1809, at the Jubilee 'when George III. was King.'

The following year, the tower was taken down, and the bells stowed away, some in an old mill in Portwood, and some in the Hearsa House, where they were allowed to remain for several years. The trustees for the building of the new tower being of the opinion that the ring of six was too small for the new tower, resolved that a new ring of eight be erected. These new bells were supplied by John Rudhall at a cost of £1,087, and they were rung for the first time on August 24th, 1817. In honour of this event, four prizes of fourteen, eight, six and four guineas, respectively, were offered 'for the best peal of Holt's Grandsire Triples, consisting of 5,040 changes,' and on September 11th and 12th, 1817, the Ashton, Chester, Manchester, Mottram Seniors, Mottram Juniors and Oldham ringers competed. Mottram Seniors, who rang the peal in 2 hrs. 46 minutes, were awarded the first prize. Oldham came second, Manchester third, and Mottram Juniors fourth.

The old six lying dormant, called forth the following amusing rhyme:—

'A Remonstrance from the Bells of St. Mary's Church, Stockport, addressed to the Churchwardens and Trustees of that building.'

Torn from the Tower where long we hung,

And borne on sledge away,

Our tuneful voices all unstrung

We've linger'd many a day.

No more with cheerful, solemn sound,

The Sabbath we declare,

Nor call the pious folk around

To fill 'the House of Prayer.'

No more resounding through the vale,

On summer's evening sweet,

Our wandering changes swell the gale

With harmony replete.

When Lubin weds his Susan dear,

And all around is joy,

They long one merry peal to hear,

Yet here, alas! we lie.

Ah, when shall our glad notes again

Salute the new-made Mayor,

As in procession with his train

He walks at Stockport fair?

Full oft when Nelson on the main,
The British Thunderer bore,
Our pleasing notes have caught the strain,
And echoed to the roar.

When Wellington, whose matchless fame,
Brings glory to our Isle,
How can our notes his praise proclaim,
Pent up in durance vile?

Oh, ye who took the work in hand,
Church Wardens and Trustees,
Why do ye thus inactive stand
And linger at your ease?

If bells, as ancient records say,
Have 'toll'd, untouched, unring,
Beware, lest at your long delay,
We, too, shall find a tongue.

And, therefore, we beseech you all,
Consider well our case,
And let us in a steeple tall
Most quickly find a place!

Then shall the joy inspiring peal,
Or sweetly soothing chimes,
Your spirits raise, your sorrows heal,
In these disastrous times.

Stockport, March 17th, 1814.

God save the King.

Mr. Rudhall, who made the new ring of eight, offered £400 for the old six, but there were many people who did not wish them to leave the district on account of their exceptionally fine tone. The trustees at a large meeting in March, 1816, unanimously resolved that the Township of Marple should have the option to purchase at the price offered by Mr. Rudhall. The following appeal resulted:—

'To the inhabitants of the Marple and its vicinity. The trustees appointed by Act of Parliament for the taking down and rebuilding of the Parish Church of Stockport having made the Township of Marple an offer of the peal of bells belonging to the former edifice, it is earnestly hoped that a subscription may be raised equal to the purchase of them. The sum required is four hundred pounds, being the price at which Mr. Rudhall, of Gloucester, a descendant of the original founder, has offered to take them from the trustees. Little, it is hoped, need be urged upon the inhabitants of Marple not to suffer these bells to be conveyed away from amongst them for ever. The real excellence of their tone must be well remembered by them, and scarcely an individual is there that has not listened to them with feelings such as few but would wish to experience again.

The site of the chapel is a consideration that ought to have its weight. On an eminence that commands an extensive view of the bold swelling hills of Derbyshire, as of the more fertile plains of Cheshire, no situation could be better adapted to give full effect to their uncommonly fine tone. From this hill the sound of them will go forth far and wide; and it cannot be doubted but that the inhabitants of the other townships, when they hear them, will rejoice that their neighbours did not suffer them to be removed for ever out of the parish, and will applaud both the spirit and the liberality of the Township of Marple.—March 28th, 1816.'

The appeal had such an effect that Samuel Oldknow, Esq., Nathaniel Wright, Esq., together with the Curate of Marple, the Rev. C. K. Prescott, concluded the bargain, and became personally responsible for the amount. On April 29th, Mr. Oldknow sent his dray for the treble and tenor, and Mr. Wright sent two carts for the remaining four. They were opened on June 30th, which was celebrated as a gala day, and prizes given which were competed for by the ringers of the district.

The cost was as follows: The bells, £407; hanging, etc., £324 13s., making a total of £731 13s. The first list of subscriptions amounted to £528 17s. 6d.

In 1886, the bells were rehung, and were reopened on Easter Day of that year by the Hayfield ringers.

The inscriptions on the second and tenor have been effaced, the former has only a floral wreath, and the latter merely A.R. 1731, with the figure of a bell between the initials.

Treble.—'Prosperity to the Town and Parish, A.R. 1731' (with the figure of a bell between the initials).

4th.—'Harry Style, Rector, A.R. 1731.'

JOHN P. FIDLER.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

It was reported at a meeting of the Barnsley and District Association that the Railway Clearing House had declined to grant cheap railway travelling facilities to individual ringers.

The composition of the peal of Stedman Caters rung at Leatherhead on Saturday was composed by Henry Haley, and first rung at St. James', Bermondsey, in January, 1858. It is believed to be one of the first compositions ever obtained on the half tittum and half handstroke plan, and has the treble in 2nd's place and the sixth in fifth's throughout.

Robert Catlin, the London bell founder, who in 1748 cast the fourth bell at Thakeham, Sussex, and got his inscription badly mixed up, as a report in another column of the restoration of Thakeham bells shows, was a practical ringer, and was admitted a member of the College Youths in 1722.

Visitors to Southampton should note the change in the times of ringing, announced in our notice columns, at St. Mary's Church.

At last! After years and years of uphill work, a 'local' peal has been accomplished at Bradpole, Dorset. Only Grandsire, some will say, but to achieve even this has required more effort than to ring Surprise peals with bands meeting regularly, and where change ringing is the only ringing attempted. Congratulations to the band, and especially to Mr. T. Hervey Beams, the conductor.

The bells at St. John's, Waterloo Road, London, where in past days peal ringing used to be done on an extensive scale are, we believe, hors de combat, if the phrase can be applied to inanimate things. The first peal on the bells was rung 101 years ago to-morrow. It was a peal of Oxford Treble Bob Major by the College Youths.

The peal of Grandsire Caters rung at Newport, reported in our last issue, and arranged for Mr. E. Barnett, senr., was Mr. Barnett's second peal in the county of Monmouth, nearly 40 years having elapsed since he rang his first there, and that, incidentally, was his first peal as conductor. In June, 1885, he rang a peal of Grandsire Triples at Monmouth. This was the second peal to be rung in the county, the first having been rung at Chepstow many years before. To accomplish this required some courage, as he had to teach every one of the band right from the beginning—from handling the bell to the peal—some job!

The bells of Croyland Abbey, Lincs. are to be broadcast on Sunday. It was here that a peal of bells was first supposed to have been hung in England. There is a ring of six, and some time ago we gave details of them in our columns.

Holt's Original was rung in St. Giles-in-the-Fields on Oct. 23rd, 1791, and until a few years ago this was believed to be the first occasion that it had been called by a conductor taking part in the ringing. It is only in comparatively recent times that it has been found that the peal was similarly called at an earlier date, among the places where this had been done being Saffron Walden in 1753. When the Original was first rung John Holt called it from manuscript.

A peal of 15,120 Bob Major was rung at St. Paul's, Oldham, on Oct. 24th, 1807, in 8 hrs. 46 mins.

The first peal of Stedman Triples—of which, with its sequel, Mr. Trollope has been giving such an interesting account in our columns—was rung at St. Peter Mancroft, Norwich, on Oct. 25th, 1731.

A peal of Stedman Caters was rung out of London for the first time on Oct. 25th, 1790. This was 5,292 at St. Philip's, Birmingham, in which Samuel Lawrence rang the 9th.

The first peal of Cambridge Surprise Royal was rung on Oct. 26th, 1822, at All Saints', Wakefield, the band being composed of nine members of the local society, with Joseph Tebbs, of Leeds. It was composed and conducted by William Woodhead, and the board erected in the belfry is one of the few records of its kind whereon the composition of the peal is preserved.

On Oct. 26th, 1837, Thomas Tolladay conducted a peal of 7,325 Grandsire Cinques at St. Martin's-in-the-Fields, rung by the St. James's Society.

At Holbeck, Leeds, a peal of 9,120 Kent Treble Bob Major was rung in 5 hrs. 15 mins., on October 8th, 1876.

Through a printer's error, the time of the peal of Bob Royal, at Southover, Lewes, published last week, was given as 2 hrs. 26 mins., instead of 3 hrs. 26 mins. The tenorman on that occasion is, we know, 'hot stuff,' but he would have been more than hot could he have accomplished the job in the time published.

A NEW BAND AT DUNEDIN, NEW ZEALAND

A 'brand new' band is being started at Dunedin, New Zealand, and a beginning in change ringing has been made. On Tuesday, Sept. 1st, on handbells, 720 Bob Minor was rung by James Kerop, recently of Newcastle-on-Tyne, and of Leeds, 1—2, Jas. N. Wilde 3, Jas. S. Wilde 4—5, Chas. Wilde 6. First 720 by ringers of 3rd and 6th.

NOTES BY THE WAY.

THE NORWICH PEALS OF STEDMAN.—WERE THE COMPOSITIONS TRUE?

By J. A. TROLLOPE.

And now comes the interesting question: Was either or both the peals of Stedman Triples true? The general opinion of the Exercise has long been that both were false. Shipway summed up the views of London ringers when he wrote in 1816 that the 'Norwich peals are entirely discredited'; Mr. J. W. Snowdon says that the 'claim made by the second performance to be the first true peal must be accepted as a strong reason for condemning the previous peal as false, but we have no means of deciding whether this latter peal was itself correct'; Mr. Rees, an indefatigable collector of records of the doings of old ringers, roundly called the Mancroft peal false; and every other person who has referred to them has done so in similar terms. The peals have been judged, and the verdict is always either 'guilty' or 'not proven, with a strong presumption of guilt.'

When we seek for the reasons on which these judgments are based, we find that (apart from the fact that if the second peal was the first true one, the first peal must have been false) they amount to these: The peals are very early ones; the figures of the compositions have perished; the first peal believed to be true was not rung until 1799; the first peal definitely known to be true was not rung until 1803; and the first peal on what Shipway calls the 'proper plan' was not rung until 1846. Men were entirely ignorant of everything connected with the Norwich peals, and took their ignorance as a proof that they could not possibly be true. We know a good deal more about them than did Shipway or Snowdon or Rees, and can, I think, arrive at a definite conclusion on the matter.

For a peal to be true there must be two things: The composition must be true, and the actual ringing must be correct. The ringing of both peals was sharply challenged at the time. Let us see what the charges amount to. The main objection to the Mancroft peal rested on Thomas Crane's sworn testimony that he had counted the changes, and they were 180 short of the full number. I think we can dismiss that without any trouble, as being altogether too fantastic and untrustworthy. Tom was honest enough, and believed what he swore, but it is far likelier that his count was wrong than the peal was short. It was, of course, quite easy for Melchior to make a mistake in calling, but if he had it is hardly likely that the bells would have come round.

The other objection was made when John Webster was under cross-examination before the justice. 'We asked him how many times their five bells struck together, and he owned four times. Then, how could the peal be rung without bells out of course?' This is an admission that there was one bad place in the striking, but it is hardly more. It is always a fine point how far a bad patch in a peal invalidates it. In this case, it must be remembered that the critics were bitterly hostile, and I do not think that anything they proved is sufficient to prevent the peal standing. That is, of course, so far as the actual ringing goes. This answers Mr. Snowdon's objection. Incidentally, it means that we cannot allow the Coslany party's claim that they had rung the first true peal.

The objections to the ringing in the St. Michael's peal are still less serious. Melchior said it 'was rung no otherwise than with changes alike, witness your 4th Bell dodging Behind with the 2nd instead of 2-4.' But Melchior was anything but a friendly critic; he was outside the tower, and had to depend on his ears. He does not say that 2-4 shifted for any length of time. Perhaps, the two bells were not quite sure which way each was dodging. Such things do happen in peals that find their way into the columns of 'The Ringing World,' and even on to peal boards.

It is very remarkable that though each band was criticising the other's peal and trying to find any and every fault there was, that neither was able to say that the other composition was false. And yet that would have settled the dispute without further question. There would have been no need for Tom Crane to take oaths about the number of changes rung. He only need to have said, 'Here are your figures. At such and such a place is a change, and here at quite another part of the peal is the same change.' Nor would Melchior have needed to make jokes about Crane's 'alteration,' or argue as to what was 'proper' Stedman if he could have shown that the peal contained repetitions. Moreover, there was money to be made. Each side had laid a wager, and the other had but to show the composition was false and claim the money. That neither could do this is, I think, good proof that the peals were not obviously incorrect.

Shipway and the London ringers rejected every one of the early Norwich peals. He says (this was in 1813), 'It is remarkable that of three peals, viz., Bob Triples in 1715; Grandsire Triples in 1718; and Stedman Triples in 1731; said to have been rung at St. Peter's Mancroft not one can be found to ascertain the truth.' But three years later, when in 1816 he wrote the general preface to his complete book, he himself answered this objection. He is pointing out that if people keep their peals to themselves they will be forgotten and superseded, and he goes on, 'He who publishes his productions will obtain all the honour, while the other will either be discredited or consigned to oblivion. The difference between Mr. Holt's peals and those said to be attained at Norwich are an illustration of this. Mr. Holt's peals are still admired by the best judges of the Art, while the Norwich, not being demonstrable, are entirely discredited.' That is just the point. The Norwich men did not print and publish, and they have suffered accordingly. Moreover, whether true or false, these peals were all on a very early plan. They were rung before the correct bobs and singles of the various methods had been settled by a process of evolution; and in any case they would not have survived except as curiosities. In this thing, Holt's peals are altogether superior. Yet even here we may see a similar law at work. Time was when the Ten-Part was the standard peal of Grandsire Triples. Now it is more and more dropping out of use, and its place is being taken by Mr. J. J. Parker's clever 12-part composition. And this not because the latter is, as a composition, in any way superior to the other (for it is not), but because the Exercise looks (and rightly looks) on Holt's singles as something abnormal, not to be used unless absolutely necessary.

And it is remarkable (to use Shipway's word) that such evidence as we have is all in favour of the Norwich peals being true. Shipway could just as easily have written, that of the peals said to have been rung at St. Peter Mancroft not one can be found to be definitely false. The 1718 Grandsire Triples is true. We have the figures, and can see why it has been superseded, and has dropped out of use. If Henry Hubbard's surmise as to the figures of the long peal of Treble Bob is correct (and I think it was correct), then that peal was true also. Circumstantial evidence tells us a great deal about the composition of the Bob Triples of 1715, and there is no reason to suppose that it was false. Of the long peal of Grandsire Caters we know nothing, but it is a fair supposition that men who were clever enough to ring the peal at that early time were clever enough to know if it were true or not. The next Norwich peal of which we have any figures, Lindsey's 6,048 of Imperial, is true, but that belongs to a later generation, and is hardly good evidence.

As for the Stedman peals, it is fair argument that since the Norwich men had led the Exercise in so many other things they may in this, too, have been in advance of ringers elsewhere. But Stedman's composition is not quite the same thing as the composition of Plain Bob, or Grandsire, or even Treble Bob. It has difficulties and pitfalls that required very much knowledge and ability to overcome. The peals of Stedman Triples we ring to-day are not one man's composition. It took many years and much hard work by a succession of clever men before the way was made clear. Thurstons did but put the final touch to work that Shipway and Hudson and Lates had done before him. It would have been wonderful indeed if one man so early as 1730 had already achieved this task. More wonderful still if two had done it. But there is no question whatever that the Norwich peals were not what would now pass as 'proper' Stedman. Their only hope of being true lies in the fact that they were constructed by means which we should consider illegitimate.

That is the external evidence as to the truth of the peals. It is very strong both for and against. If it concerned any other method but Stedman Triples, I think we could conclude that the peals were true; being Stedman Triples, we will suspend judgment. We now come to the evidence contained in the newspaper letters.

And first as to Melchior's qualifications as a composer. He was a clever man, with a good intellect, and not without education. He knew Stedman's book thoroughly, and the theory of the composition of the old Plain Changes. And, since that theory had developed change ringing out of the 'sixes' into full method ringing, the knowledge was an important thing. He was also the pupil of John Garthorn, who is entitled to rank as one of the great composers of the Exercise. Possibly, even probably, he knew something about the internal falseness of Treble Bob composition, though the London men were ignorant of it until nearly forty years later. Altogether he was not ill equipped as a composer. We know definitely that in composing his peal he modelled it very closely on Stedman Doubles. He found the chief characteristic in Doleman's statement, that 'in this peal every bell hath one and the same course, there being no proper Hunt (or Half Hunt) therein.' This ruled out the use of the plan on which peals of Grandsire and Plain Bob had been composed. But all turned on what 'one and the same course' exactly meant. Crane pointed out that it is not strictly true even of Stedman Doubles, for there the two bells which make the single do something which the others do not, and, therefore, 'Stedman was mistaken.' But Stedman was not mistaken in what he really meant, as Melchior clearly saw. Melchior argued something like this: The division of Stedman Doubles which corresponds to the lead of Grandsire or Plain Bob is the first twelve changes. One of these rung five times gives the plain course, in which every bell does the same work, the contradistinction being to such methods as Grandsire, where the treble does something different to the other bells. But a course consists of only sixty rows, and we want two to make the whole one hundred and twenty. Therefore, we join them together with a single.

Now the corresponding course on seven bells contains eighty-four changes, and so to get our whole peal we must have sixty of them,

How did he join them together? He certainly did not use the modern bob at the parting of the sixes. He certainly kept his divisions of twelve rows intact, and almost certainly his courses of eighty-four rows. What alterations he made were at the course ends in the middle of a quick six. Crane taunted him with 'taking to himself a peal of five bells and flying to Stedman for assistance.' Exactly what he meant is obscure, but I will hazard a conjecture which is worth what it is worth. Stedman, in his 'Tintinnalogia,' explains how Grandsire Bob on six bells (i.e., the 'old' 720 of Bob Minor) was got from Grandsire Doubles. And he points out that if you write out the lead ends (hand and back) only, you have a six score of Grandsire Doubles written out backwards. Now, Melchior had sixty courses to join together just as Richard Rock, the composer of Grandsire Bob, had sixty plain leads. If he could make five of his bells work a six score of Doubles at the course ends he would have done his job, and fulfilled all the conditions he laid down. And in no other way could he, I think, fulfil these conditions. If this conjecture is right, of course, the peal was false. Unfortunately for him Stedman Triples will not divide into sixty true courses. His singles were made half-way and end as follows:—

This, I think, in itself is sufficient to cast very grave doubts on the truth of the peal. I do not say that with no sort of bob, under no conditions, could such a peal be true, but it is very doubtful, especially if, as is likely, both halves were called alike.

KNARESBOROUGH BELLS.

The first peal on the bells at Knareborough, Yorks, since they have been hung in a new iron frame, quarter turned and the two trebles recast, with ball bearings fitted to all the bells, was rung on Saturday. As a matter of fact no peal had been rung on them for 22 years. The bells now go admirably, and reflect great credit on the excellent work of the bell hangers, Messrs. J. Taylor and Son, of Loughborough.

The band who rang the peal, take this opportunity of thanking the Vicar of Knareborough and his parishioners for the very kind provision of tea prior to commencing the peal, and for supper at the termination.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

The half-yearly meeting of the Maidstone District was held at Staplehurst on Saturday, October 10th, members coming from Barming, Bearsted, Benenden, Boxley, Canterbury, Frittenden, Hunton, Lamberhurst, Linton, Maidstone, Paddockwood, Rolvenden, and Ten-Terden. A short service was held, conducted by the Rector (the Rev. J. S. Clementson), the Association Form being used. Tea was partaken at the Rectory Room.

At the business meeting the Rector presided, and it was decided to hold the January meeting at Aylesford, and the annual district meeting at Maidstone.

It was also decided to hold meetings for combined practice.

The tower was again visited, and ringing continued until 9 o'clock.

VETERAN LANCASHIRE RINGER.

SUDDEN DEATH OF MR. THOMAS TURNER.

A remarkable demonstration of sympathy was witnessed on Saturday week at Holy Trinity Church, Bolton, at the funeral service of the late Mr. Thos. E. Turner, of Marshfield, Chorley New Road, Lostock, who was for over half a century a ringer at the Parish Church. The deceased was foreman of the roller department at Messrs. Dobson and Barlow's Bradley Fold Works, and had a 28 years' connection with the firm. Mr. Turner died suddenly earlier in the week.

The pathway from the street to the door was lined by 300 of the workmen from Bradley Fold as the coffin was borne into the church, and at the close of the service, which was conducted by the Rev. Canon Elsee, President of the Lancashire Association, of which deceased was a life member, and the Rev. G. A. Deakin, B.Sc., the workmen reassembled and walked in procession, preceding the cortege from the church to Tonge Cemetery, where the interment took place.

Amongst the mourners were Messrs. J. Lever (general manager), and H. Hill (assistant general manager), representing the Kay Street branch of Messrs. Dobson and Barlow's, and Mr. Ryce, manager at Bradley Fold. Messrs. J. H. Pickup, W. Turpie, J. Smethurst, J. Wilson and T. Williams attended as a joint deputation of foremen, and Messrs. C. Brownlow, J. Fielding, J. Johnson, J. Ormrod, J. Gee, J. Keighley, Hy. Lomax and T. Priece (workmen), acted as bearers.

After the service, the bells at Holy Trinity Church were rung half-muffled, and the following rang a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples, in 48 mins.: F. Morris 1, G. Pincott 2, E. Webster 3, A. Heywood 4, A. Hill 5, Ernest Cuttsforth (conductor) 6, A. Sewart 7, Peter Crook 8.

SIXTY YEARS A RINGER.

PRESENTATION AT BOLSOVER.

Mr. William Lambert, of Bolsover, celebrated his 70th birthday on October 15th. 'Old Bill,' as he is usually called, was born in Northamptonshire, and commenced to ring at 10 years of age. Coming to Derbyshire when still quite young, he joined the Parish Church ringers at Shirland, where there was a peal of five bells, and later emigrated to Treeton, and afterwards to Wath-on-Dearne, South Yorkshire. Twenty-three years ago he was induced to come to Bolsover to join the progressive band (there at that time). He has been one of the pioneers in the Chesterfield and Bolsover district for the advancement of the higher methods, and assisted in ringing the first peals of Double Norwich Major, Cutlers and Royal, Superlative, Cambridge, New Cambridge, Peterborough, London, Bristol, Yorkshire, Rutland and Pudsey Surprise; also Double Norwich, Superlative and Cambridge on handbells. Always a keen striker, he has a great knowledge of ringing generally.

On Sunday last the Vicar, on behalf of the local band, presented him with a black ebony walking stick, as a birthday gift, and in recognition of his long service as a ringer. The gift came as a surprise, and Mr. Lambert suitably replied.

Mr. Lambert has rung over 100 peals on the Bolsover Parish Church bells.

Long may he be spared to assist in calling others to worship in the House of God.

COALBROOKDALE'S PEAL OF TEN.

WORK NEARING COMPLETION.

Ringers and friends will be pleased to know that Coalbrookdale bells are fast nearing completion at the Whitechapel Foundry, where the old octave were cast in the year 1852. No effort on the firm's part is being spared to make the old eight into a fine peal of ten, by adding two new trebles. The new cast-iron frame for ten, all on one level, has been erected at the foundry, and stands on a specially constructed platform of steel girders. Two visitors to the foundry, one of them the heavy-bell man, from Bangor, North Wales, have reported that it is a very fine, strong and neat job. The ten bells are to be erected and hung in their respective pits, before leaving the foundry.

Of the eight bells, only the fifth was found to have an old crack in the crown. This bell had for years been looked upon as the faulty one of the peal. On the advice of the bell foundry who agreed to bear half the cost of recasting this bell, rather than have any defect in the whole of the work when complete, the committee decided to have same recast, and it now bears the names of the late patron, Mr. Alfred E. W. Darby, J.P., D.L., the Rev. Preb. C. B. Crowe, M.A., R.D., Vicar, and Herbert Hughes and Frederick Johnson, churchwardens. The complete restoration of the old eight is being carried out to the memory of the late Mr. Darby, who died suddenly since the order for the restoration and augmentation was placed. One of his last letters to the Rev. C. B. Crowe was to sanction the two new trebles being given as a memorial to his son, Lieut. Maurice A. A. Darby, Grenadier Guards, who gave his life for King and country in the great war. The two new bells will have a suitable inscription cast on them. This has been approved by his mother, Mrs. E. L. J. Darby, and sister, Mrs. M. Cope-Darby, and will conclude with the two following lines:—

'Who stands if freedom fall,
Who dies if England live.'

The girders and framework will leave London very soon, and the bells, complete, will follow at an early date. They will be sent to Ironbridge Station, to arrive there on a Saturday morning. A procession, etc., headed by the Coalbrookdale and Ironbridge Silver Band, will be arranged to welcome the bells back to the parish.

The whole cost of the scheme is being borne by public subscription, and a further £200 is still required to complete the work. The Rev. Preb. C. B. Crowe, the committee, and the Coalbrookdale ringers, the latter having made a tremendous effort and sacrifice, have spared no pains to secure one of the best jobs of modern times, and to leave the Dale bells better than they found them. They are all most anxious that about Christmas time, or early in the new year, the bells shall ring out, a grand peal of ten, free of debt.

Will any ringer or friends who have 1/- stamp collecting books, kindly send in any money they have collected to William Saunders, Institution House, Coalbrookdale, Shropshire; or direct to the Coalbrookdale 'Bells Restoration Fund Account,' Lloyds Bank, Ironbridge, Shropshire.

PRESENTATION TO FOLKINGHAM RINGER.

At Folkingham, Lincs, for Sunday evensong, 720 Grandsire Doubles: C. Hammond (first 720) 1, W. Wilson 2, J. Musson (first 'inside') 3, A. King 4, C. Bradley (conductor) 5, G. Rouse 6. Rung as a 'welcome home' touch to the Prince of Wales; also as a wedding compliment to Mr. C. Wilkinson, a member of the band, who was presented with a silver bell inkstand from the remainder of the local company.

LLANDAFF & MONMOUTH DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION. SUCCESSFUL MEETING AT PENDOYLAN.

A quarterly meeting of the Llandaff and Monmouth Diocesan Association was held at Pendoylan on Saturday last, and proved a huge success, not only from the number who put in an appearance, well representative of both dioceses, but from the fact that the object for which associations are formed was well met, the local young band of ringers, who ring rounds extremely well, all joining the association with the object of advancing to change ringing. Thus another tower is brought into the fold.

The bells were raised early in the afternoon, amongst the first to arrive being the champion of enthusiasts and ever welcome 'J. H. S.' of Swindon, who was quickly able to tell those that did not already know that the bells are Carr's, with a tenor about 8 cwt. Service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. M. C. Gower Williams). A lady ringer, the wife of the Vicar of St. Athan, very ably presided at the organ, and amongst the congregation was Canon David, of Llantwit Major, who had specially come to attend the meeting to champion the cause of teaching change ringing at his tower. The Vicar's fine address described the history of the church from early times, but at the outset he heartily welcomed the association to his parish. He pointed out that throughout the length and breadth of the land there was no body of church workers more deserving of praise than the ringers. Not only did they do their part for those actually attending church, but administered to all within the sound of the bells, and gave them room for thought. Following the service, tea, which had been very generously provided, was served.

The business meeting was presided over by the Vicar. Instructors' reports were presented, and excellent reports of recent and forthcoming restorations and augmentations were made.

Instruction was promised at Llantwit Major and Pendoylan, and new members elected.

The place for the next quarterly meeting was left to be decided at the annual meeting, and after the usual vote of thanks, the bells were kept going until late, bringing to a close a splendid and enjoyable meeting.

DEATH OF A SHROPSHIRE RINGER.

We regret to announce the death of Mr. Frederick Darrall, of Little Wenlock, Salop, who passed away, after a long and patiently borne illness, on September 27th, at the age of 39 years. 'Fred,' as he was best known to all his friends, maintained his affectionate and lovable disposition right to the end. Those who were able and privileged to visit him at his parents' home, will long remember the tender and loving care and nursing that was bestowed upon him. Although he suffered greatly, he wore his happy look right to the last, with never a murmur or complaint.

The funeral took place at Little Wenlock, on Oct. 1st. His grave is under the shadow of the tower, in which hangs a very pretty peal of five bells, on which he learnt to ring. The Rev. E. Howell (Rector) conducted the service, the Rev. Preb. C. B. Crowe (Vicar of Coalbrookdale) read the lesson, and one of the deceased's favourite hymns were sung in the church. Six of his old friends, five of them being his village ringing colleagues and two of them ex-churchwardens, carried him from the church to the grave. The organist (Mr. Shepherd) played the Dead March, and four old ringing friends rang a course of Grandsire Triples at the graveside on Mr. Leslie Hayward's hand-bells. Many beautiful wreaths were sent, including one from Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Hewitt, and one from the Coalbrookdale ringers.

Immediately after the funeral, the tower bells rang out half-muffled their last token of respect. Several 24's were rung by the local men, after which the visitors rang several 120's of Stedman and Grandsire Doubles.

The deceased was a ringing member of the Stafford and Salop Guilds. He rang several good peals on from eight to twelve bells. One of his favourite excursions was to visit and take part in the ringing at Coalbrookdale, he having been born and lived at a spot where 'The Dale' bells could be heard at their best. His aged father and mother and sisters will miss him, as will all his colleagues.

HARD LUCK!

At St. George's Church, Wilton, Somerset, on October 14th, for practice, 1,680 changes of Surprise Minor, being 240 each of London, Wells, Durham, York, Surfleet, Beverley and Cambridge: W. H. Coles 1, A. J. Wyatt 2, A. H. Hayward 3, G. Coles 4, P. Merson 5, J. Hunt (cond.) 6.—On Saturday last, a peal in the above method was attempted by the same band, but after ringing in good form to within 120 changes of the end a lapse on the part of the conductor brought the ringing to an untimely end. First 720 of Durham, Surfleet and Beverley by the ringers of the 5th and 6th. The conductor expresses his sincere regret to the band, but it may be taken for granted, we think, that he is forgiven.

AFTER THIRTY YEARS. THAKEHAM BELLS RING AGAIN.

For the first time for 30 years the bells at Thakeham, Sussex, were rung on Sunday, Sept. 27th. The occasion was also the parish harvest festival, and the church was very effectively decorated.

The five bells have been recast and rehung on ball bearings in a steel frame, and have been tuned on the 'five-tone Simpson principle.' The frame provides for an additional bell which, it is hoped, may be added in the near future.

The Storrington band of ringers, under Mr. F. Blunden, were invited to ring the bells for the first time, and after the service Grandsire Doubles were rung by visiting ringers, including Mr. and Mrs. R. Whittington (Cranleigh), Messrs. P. H. Doick and C. Greenfield (Pulborough), and Mr. C. F. Johnston, of the Croydon Foundry. It was agreed unanimously that the tone of the bells was particularly sweet and mellow, and that the work had been most expeditiously and satisfactorily carried out by Messrs. Gillett and Johnston, of Croydon, to whom it had been entrusted.

The tenor weighs 9½ cwt., and the total weight of the peal is 28½ cwt. The first four bells were originally cast in the middle of the eighteenth century, and the tenor in the early nineteenth century. The old inscriptions have been reproduced on the new bells. That on No. 4 bell is rather quaint, as the mediæval bell founder got the names of the churchwardens curiously mixed up with the inscription proper, with the following result:—

'I will be glad and much rejoyce on the .

Richard Soutter Richard Richardson Lond. Souttar .

O God most hie and make my songs extol thy name

Mr. George Nicholls, the only survivor of the old company of ringers, has undertaken the arduous task of teaching a new band. The parishioners are delighted with the bells, which now constitute the best peal of five in the district.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

A very successful meeting of the North and East District of the Middlesex County Association and London Diocesan Guild was held on Saturday last at Hornsey, when some 40 members and friends attended. Ringing commenced a few minutes after 3 p.m., with a touch of Bob Minor, which was followed by various methods until 5.30, when the usual short service was held. The Rector (the Rev. B. Spink), having welcomed the association to Hornsey, proceeded to give a really interesting discourse on bells, which was much appreciated.

An excellent tea was served at the Great Northern Hotel, after which the business meeting took place. Two new members were elected, and St. John of Jerusalem, South Hackney, chosen as the venue for the next meeting on December 5th.

Heartly votes of thanks were accorded to the Rector for his address at the service and for the use of the bells; to the Rev. C. G. Midwinter, Vicar of Wood Green, for permission to ring at that church; to the organist for providing some excellent music; and to Messrs. C. Ross, G. W. and H. Blee, for their successful endeavours to make the meeting an enjoyable one. An expression of sympathy to Mr. G. W. Blee at his illness was added, coupled with a hope of his speedy recovery. Messrs. Ross and H. Blee replied, stating their pleasure at the success of the meeting, and hoping that it would not be long before the society again visited Hornsey.

Wood Green was afterwards visited, and at that church and Hornsey several touches in various methods were rung, including Bob Minor, Oxford and Kent Treble Bob, Grandsire and Stedman Doubles, and Cambridge Surprise Minor.

YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION. SOUTHERN DIVISION MEETING.

The quarterly meeting of the Southern Division was held at Penistone on Saturday. The attendance was very small, the towers represented being All Saints', Sheffield, Barnsley, Arksey, Doncaster, Ecclesfield, Wortley and Worksop. A substantial tea was provided by the local company in the schools, and the business meeting was held in the same room, the Vicar (the Rev. E. B. Carleton) being voted to the chair.

Mr. G. Parkin, of Wortley, was elected a ringing member, and the Vicar an hon. member of the association.

No invitation being forthcoming for the next meeting, this was left to the secretary and committee to arrange.

Replying to votes of thanks for the use of the bells, etc., the Vicar said how very pleased he was to welcome the association to his church. He was sorry there were not more present, but he hoped they would come again before long.

A word of praise was due to Mr. G. Hill, of Hoylandswaine, for the work he is doing in training a young band at the church, and he has threatened to send the secretary a list of ten new members for the association before long. 'The best of luck' to him and his pupils is the sincere wish of all members of the Southern Division.

SUNDAY SERVICE TOUCHES.

LONDON.—On Sunday, Oct. 18th, by the St. Clement Youths, at the Church of St. Clement Danes, Strand, for evensong, 1,259 Grandsire Caters: Miss D. M. Bryant 1, Miss E. E. Chapman 2, Miss F. E. Orr 3, F. G. Symonds 4, E. F. Pike 5, Miss E. E. Hardcastle 6, J. Lee 7, C. W. Roberts (conductor) 8, H. A. Folkard 9, F. W. H. Sergison 10. This was arranged and rung for a special musical service, and as a birthday compliment to Mrs. W. Pennington-Bickford, wife of the Rector of St. Clements.

OXHEY, HERTS.—A quarter-peal of Stedman Triples was rung by the local society on Sunday, Oct. 18th: H. Hodgetts 1, L. Simmons 2, H. Cashmore 3, C. Leman 4, A. W. Dix 5, H. Dix 6, F. W. Brinklow (conductor) 7, G. Kazer 8. A birthday compliment to H. Hodgetts.

EDENBRIDGE.—On Saturday, Oct. 10th, for harvest festivals, a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples: R. Jenner 1, E. Leigh 2, W. Leigh 3, G. Malyan 4, E. Collison 5, G. Edwards (Penshurst) 6, J. Heasman 7, E. J. Jenner 8.—On Sunday, Oct. 11th, a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples: R. Jenner 1, E. Leigh 2, W. Leigh, senr., 3, E. J. Jenner 4, E. Collison 5, G. Malyan 6, J. ## LONDON COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

The Southern District held a very successful business meeting at Lewisham on Saturday. Ringing commenced at four o'clock, with a course of Cambridge, followed by touches of Stedman, Double Norwich, Grandsire and Kent Treble Bob. After tea, the business meeting was held, at which one lady member was elected. The other usual business formalities were gone through, and, after some of the ringers had given a tune on the handbells, a move was made to the church again, where some further ringing was done on the fine peal of bells.

The customary hearty vote of thanks was given to the Vicar, and Mr. Warnett, for the use of the bells, and for making all the necessary arrangements.

WARWICKSHIRE GUILD.

A quarterly meeting of the Warwickshire Guild was held at Sutton Coldfield on Saturday last. About 30 ringers attended, and during the afternoon touches of Stedman Triples, Double Norwich and Cambridge Surprise were brought round, but a course of London was unsuccessful.

After tea, which was arranged by Mr. B. Witchell, the business meeting was presided over by the Ringing Master (Mr. T. W. Chapman). Chilvers Coton was fixed for the next quarterly meeting in January, and after a further visit to the belfry, the proceedings were brought to a successful close.

RINGING IN BELFAST.

On the occasion of the Governor of Northern Ireland taking up residence in the Castle, at Hillsborough, on Saturday, Oct. 10th, ten ringers from St. Thomas', Belfast, rang the bells of the Parish Church.

The church is a fine old building, dating from 1663, and the bells are by A. Rudhall, 1774 (tenor 20 cwt.). With the exception of two of the small bells, which were recast about 1885, the ring comprises the original bells, frames and wheels, and the old-fashioned 'slider' arrangement is still there.

Only call changes were rung, and everybody had a pull during the afternoon. The following were the ringers: N. Robinson, W. Bruce, P. G. Elliott, N. Matson, D. Ireland, T. Waring, W. Long, R. W. Adamson, J. Bruce and A. Abraham.

Little progress has been made with change ringing in Belfast, and the band would be glad if any ringer who is visiting that city would call at the belfry, Lisburn Road, or upon Mr. Richmond W. Adamson, 71, Tate's Avenue.

NOTICE.

PETERBOROUGH DIOCESAN GUILD.—Northampton Branch.—A Quarterly meeting will be held at Kings-thorpe on Saturday, Oct. 31st. Bells (6) 2.30. Service 4.15. Tea 5 o'clock. Will all those who require tea notify me not later than Tuesday, Oct. 27th?—T. Tebbutt, 53, Louise Road, Northampton.

RINGERS' OUTINGS.

PAIGNTON RINGERS VISIT LAUNCESTON.

On Saturday, Sept. 19th, the Paignton Parish Church ringers had their annual outing, and, together with their wives and friends, made a party of upwards of 40. A start was made at 8.30 a.m. in two cars for Launceston via Ashburton, Dartmeet, Two Bridges, Princelown and Tavistock. A truly delightful route was somewhat spoilt by a deluge of rain, but it did not damp the jovial spirits of the party. Launceston was reached at 12.45 p.m. The ringers made straight for the Parish Church, and rang some touches on the light peal of eight bells. The rest of the company made their headquarters at the White Hart Hotel, where Host Miller had a splendid large room and a huge fire in readiness, which was much appreciated by all after the very wet journey. When ringing was over, all sat down to luncheon, following which Mr. F. T. Gover proposed the health of 'Our Captain,' Mr. O. Drew. He remarked how sorry they all were Mr. Drew could not be with them that day, because although unable to take an active part in ringing, he still took a very keen interest in the welfare of his band.

Mr. Drew's health was drunk with musical honours.

Mr. H. J. Hole proposed a hearty vote of thanks to the ringers' friends who had joined them and so helped to make the outing more enjoyable, and he hoped the same good-fellowship would continue for years to come (applause).—Mr. F. J. Laxton proposed a hearty vote of thanks to Mr. H. J. Hole, sub-captain, for making the arrangements for the outing, which he said had gone off splendidly in spite of the weather, which the sub-captain could not be blamed for, and again 'For he's a jolly good fellow' rang out.

St. Stephen's tower was next visited, and here a nice toned peal of eight was found, and some capital touches of Grandsire Triples rung.

The sun now shone out beautifully, and a start was made for Kelly, where the party was met by the Rev. Maitland Kelly and the Misses Kelly, the former conducting the ringers to the belfry, where touches of Grandsires were rung. The reverend gentleman took part in spite of his 84 years. He also drew the ringers' attention to a tablet in the belfry which recorded the first three six-scores of Grandsire Doubles rung in Devonshire by all Devonshire ringers, in 1865. The Rev. Kelly was one of the band, and there is one other member still alive.

The Misses Kelly very kindly entertained the party at Kelly House, where light refreshments and fruit were served, and very much appreciated. They also escorted the party over the beautiful grounds, gardens, etc., pointing out many items of historical interest. Time was now rolling on too fast, so the order to start had to be given, and Plymouth was the next stop. Here an hour was spent, and home was reached at 9.40 p.m., all thoroughly satisfied with the day's outing in spite of the wet morning. The ringers wish to thank the incumbents for the use of the bells, and the local ringers for having all in readiness.

CHESHIRE RINGERS' EXCURSION.

Six members of the Chester Branch of the Chester Diocesan Guild, Messrs. H. W. Wilde, J. Morgan, A. E. Richards, W. Thomas, G. Jones and J. W. Clarke, had a delightful outing on Saturday, Sept. 12th. The 'meet' was at Chester at 9 a.m., and the run was made by car and motor-cycle. The beautiful church of Hartford was reached at 9.45, and the opening touch was 240 Bob Minor, followed by 720 of Thelwall Minor and 120 Stedman Doubles. The next place on the list was Weaverham. The bells here were found to be very noisy, and some of the ropes rather awkwardly placed, but a well-struck 720 of Oxford Treble Bob was brought round before a move was made towards Northwich for lunch. The name 'Beeton' over a cafe suggested that it ought to be a good place, so the band (all exceptionally hungry) boldly entered, and soon found that the place lived up to its good name! After lunch, feeling like lions refreshed, they viewed the sights (P) of Northwich, and there made for Davenham. The bells were heavy going (especially after lunch!) but the band managed to pull off a good 720 of Double Oxford Minor and a touch of Kent. The next call was at Witton Parish Church, and in the tower of this massive structure a 720 of Kent Minor was rung on the back six, as well as a touch of Oxford. The company then made for 'Beeton's' again, where they were served with an excellent tea, and spent some time over a quiet smoke and a friendly chat. The last place on the list was 720 of Double Bob and Plain Bob (Spliced) concluded the ringing programme of the day. It is interesting to note that at both Witton and Over the bells are hung so that the ropes are anti-clockwise instead of clockwise, as is usual. At both places the bells have been recast within recent years, but the old frames have been retained. Home was reached shortly before 10 p.m., after a really 'tin-top' day. The company wish to express their sincere thanks to the incumbents and towerkeepers of the various churches for their kind co-operation.

VIGILANCE AND ACTION NEEDED.

Parliament, in the midst of its minor diversions, is shortly, we learn, to be confronted with an issue of really vital importance to the nation, before which the industrial situation, the coal crisis and the agitations of the 'Reds,' to say nothing of Pacts and tariffs, will pale into insignificance. A Bill, entitled 'The Bell Ringing (Restriction) Bill,' is to be introduced, having for its object the suppression of church bell ringing, and it is to be promoted on behalf of the 'Society for the Prevention of Public Nuisances.' At present the Society seems to be rather a vague affair, but we are promised in the near future 'a long list of influential and well-known people who are on the governing committee, or who have promised financial and moral support to the organisation.' At the moment all we know about it is that the secretary (pro tem.) is Mr. J. D. Lewis, of Penarth, and that the society will shortly secure a London office. Other 'nuisances' (at present unnamed), beside bell ringing, are to be tackled later, but the bells are to come first. It is something of a compliment to the acknowledged standing of bell ringing in its relation to the Church and its deeply established position in the national life, that a London office, a Press and public campaign and an Act of Parliament are deemed necessary to combat it. Mr. Lewis and his friends obviously do not imagine that they have a walk-over in front of them, and if their campaign really develops they will find that bell ringing will not be easily killed.

The 'anti-this' and 'anti-that' people, even though they be few in numbers, can very easily make a big noise, and presumably Mr. Lewis hopes to persuade Members of Parliament that, in the case of his society, the clamour of the few represents the views of the many. We may hear more of this society, but there is at present nothing to go into hysterics about. At the same time it is well that the Exercise should prepare for eventualities. There is always the risk that by backdoor methods, and without those chiefly concerned having any knowledge of what is happening until it is too late, some clause or Bill may be smuggled through Parliament which would jeopardise the right of the Church to the use of and control over its bells. Not only is it necessary, therefore, that the Central Council should, especially under the present threat, keep an extremely vigilant look out for any Parliamentary attempt to suppress the ringing of church bells, but should get into order and ready for immediate action an efficiently organised counter attack. The present Press Committee might be strengthened for the purpose, and we hope that, as the 'antis' have definitely announced their intention of getting busy, the committee will also get down to the task of preparing plans for the counterblast. # NOTES BY THE WAY.

CRANE'S PEAL OF STEDMAN.—HOW THE OLD COMPOSERS WORKED.

By J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

Edward Crane's peal is easier to understand. He was a lesser man than Melchior; lesser in knowledge; lesser in abilities; lesser in imagination. He argued that what was right for Plain Bob and Grandsire must necessarily be right for Stedman. The traditional form of composition was by hunts. By them the sixes were invented; by them the plain changes were rung; by them cross peals were developed; by them Garthorn had composed his extents of Bob Triples and Grandsire Triples. 'Then, I pray, let any man that is a judge in this art tell me, why Stedman on seven bells should not work as Grandsire on seven bells, and bring their great bells home at their quarter, half, three-quarter and whole peals' end?' True, Stedman said that 'every bell has a course alike'; and Doleman said that 'there is no proper hunt or half-hunt therein'; but 'Stedman is mistaken, and so are you,' and 'if I be right so it is.' Therefore, Crane composed his peal with hunts.

If you want to understand what hunts are, a good plan is to study Annable's peal of Bob Triples. It was composed somewhere about this time, and first rung in December, 1730, at St. Saviour's, Southwark, on the old ring of eight.

Observe the behaviour of the different bells.

First the Treble completes her whole work and comes home once in every lead. She is the whole hunt.

Next the seventh completes her whole work, and comes home once in every course of six leads. She is the half-hunt.

Then the sixth completes her whole work, and comes home once in every five courses. She is the quarter-hunt.

Lastly, the fifth completes her whole work, and comes home once in every ten courses. She is the half-quarter hunt. The other bells are extreme bells.

In each lead the treble occupies each position once and once only at handstroke, and once and once only at backstroke.

In each course the treble and seventh occupy every possible combination of positions, once and once only at handstroke, and once and once only at backstroke.

In each block of five courses, the treble, seventh and sixth occupy every possible combination of positions, once and once only at handstroke, and once and once only at backstroke.

In each part of the peal (consisting of ten courses), the treble, seventh, sixth and fifth occupy every possible combination of positions once and once only, whether at handstroke or at backstroke.

The extreme bells work their full combinations at the part ends.

You will easily see what an excellent plan this is for producing extents. The whole peal falls into regular and equal parts; the part ends are easily recognised; the calling is easy, and there are observations for every bob throughout; and the conductor can, without difficulty, know what each bell is doing all through the peal.

This was the plan used almost universally in the seventeenth century. It is the plan of Annable's peal of Bob Major and Holt's peals of Bob Major and Triples. It is the plan of the three-lead-course peals of Grandsire Triples. By its use, John Reeves obtained the full extent of Plain Bob on eight bells, and Harrison the full extent of Double Norwich Major. Mr. Earle Bulwer used it to get the extent of Duffield without moving the sixth, and by its means I produced the extent of Bob Maximus 479 million odd changes, as you may see in the Central Council Collection.

This was the plan Crane used, and he aimed to get in Stedman what Annable had so perfectly got in Bob Triples. It was not Annable's peal, however, that he took for his model, but John Garthorn's peal of Grandsire. Garthorn was the first man to compose a true peal of Triples, and when we try and understand his peals we must realise the conditions under which he worked.

His first peal was the 1,715 Bob Triples, the figures of which are lost. When he set to work to compose this, what he aimed at was not merely to get what would now pass as a peal of Plain Bob on seven bells. He had to extend the method known as Grandsire Bob on six bells to seven bells. Now, Grandsire Bob is not just Bob Minor, it is a particular 720 of Bob Minor—the one we usually call the 'old' 720. It is constructed by a whole hunt (the treble), a half-hunt (the sixth), and a quarter-hunt (the fifth). What Garthorn had to do was to extend the whole thing; calling and method alike. While in the absence of the figures, we cannot be quite sure what the peal was, one or two things are quite clear. The bobs used were the present bobs. The treble, of course, was the whole hunt; the seventh was the half-hunt, and not affected by the bobs; the sixth was the quarter-hunt, and must have worked in a similar way to the sixth in Annable's peal. It is doubtful how he managed the fifth. He may have made her a half-quarter hunt, and so his peal would be practically the same thing as Annable's; or he may have composed the whole in four quarters, with or without special calls. In any case, he followed the 120 of Minor very closely, and there is no reason to suppose that the peal was anything but true.

When he got to Grandsire Triples he had a much harder task, but one similar in all essentials. It was to extend the 120 of Grandsire Doubles (method and calling) to seven bells. We know how he did it, for we have the figures, and we know that it is true. It is usual to say that Annable's and Vicars' and Taylor's peals are improvements on Garthorn's, and Holt's very great improvements. But I fancy Garthorn himself would not have thought so. 'What!' he would have said, 'call them improvements when they take forty-six Doubles to do what I did with only two! As for Holt's peals they are, no doubt, very clever, but they are not Grandsire at all. Proper Grandsire should have hunts.'

In the same way, Melchior held that Crane's peal could not be 'proper' Stedman, because in Stedman 'every bell hath a course alike, and there is no proper hunt or half-hunt therein.' We should not be so particular. If Crane could have got a true peal with hunts it would pass muster with us. Indeed, in Thurstons' peal the seventh is a whole hunt and the sixth a half-hunt. But in the full sense that Crane understood the term, Stedman does not lend itself to composition by hunts. He, just as Melchior no doubt did, missed the fact that you cannot get sixty true separate courses of Stedman Triples. And apart from that he was not happy in his arrangement of his hunts. What bobs he used we do not know. He may have used the modern bob, more likely an adaptation of the Grandsire bob. He followed Garthorn's Grandsire Triples closely by composing his peal in four quarters. Then came the job of putting these quarters together. Half-way and end he had two Doubles, following the precedent set by Garthorn, and followed by Melchior also, but unlike the latter, he 'makes his two Doubles with the same two bells, dodging as Stedman does on five bells.' To get the bells into the positions he wanted at the quarter-peal end, he had to introduce his 'alterations,' those 'dismal changes,' as Melchior called them. Melchior gave us the figures of these alterations, and, though I am not quite sure I have given them correctly, we can tell pretty well what they were. And it is almost certain that the peal that contained them must be false. The work of the hunts is interfered with, and that is nearly sure to be fatal; and there are parts of Q-sets which cannot well have been completed elsewhere in the peal.

I am rather sorry that both peals must be put down as false. The Norwich men had done so much that it is a pity they failed in this. After all, success would have been almost a miracle, and when we remember that they had rung the first true peal in any method, the first true peal of Grandsire Triples, the first ten thousand and the first thirteen thousand, we can fully acknowledge that they made an honourable place for themselves in the history of ringing, even if they just missed ringing the first true peal of Stedman Triples as well.

We were talking a week or two ago about the possibility of writing a full history of change ringing. I wrote this sketch of the Norwich ringers as an experiment in what could be done if one had but the material to work on. There is no fact that I have used which has not, I think, been published before. All I have done is to bring it together, supply the local colour, weigh the circumstantial evidence, and make a narrative of it. There must be more material for a sketch of Annable and the early London ringers, or of the Birmingham men, but where can one put one's hand on it?

MUFFLED BELLS.

At St. Peter's Church, Nottingham, on Sept. 24th, 504 Grandsire Triples: F. A. Salter 1, M. Ward 2, S. Pinder 3, F. W. Bailey (conductor) 4, L. Chadburn 5, F. Vickers 6, G. West 7, A. R. Leader 8, was rung with the bells half-muffled, as a last token of respect to Mr. J. Hawkins, who was interred in Bulwell Cemetery on the previous day.

On Tuesday evening, Oct. 6th, at Boxley, Kent, as a token of respect to the late Mrs. F. M. Roper, who was interred on that date in the Parish Churchyard, and who, for a great many years, was a most devoted and untiring worker in the church and parish, a quarter-peal (1,260 changes) of Grandsire Doubles was rung, with the bells half-muffled, by A. Gower 1, W. Gosling (conductor) 2, G. Voules 3, V. Smith 4, H. Fuller 5, E. Voules 6.

At Broughton Astley, Leicestershire, on Monday evening, October 19th, at St. Mary's Church, 720 Doubles, being 240 Canterbury Doubles, 240 Plain Bob Doubles and 240 Grandsire Doubles: R. Turrell 1, J. Brunt 2, A. Woodden 3, F. Bodycote 4, H. Bird (conductor) 5. Rung with the bells half-muffled to the memory of the late Mr. Charles W. Berridge, of the Mill House, Broughton Astley, who was interred in the churchyard earlier in the day. The deceased gentleman had taken a lifelong interest in the church, and for nearly 40 years most assiduously carried out the duties of churchwarden.

ESSEX ASSOCIATION. SUCCESSFUL PROPAGANDA MEETING.

A meeting of the Northern District was held on October 17th at Black Notley, near Braintree. This meeting was held in order to give encouragement to a band of young ringers, who are struggling to grasp the details of change ringing, under the leadership of Mr. Pratt, who had worked very hard to keep the bells going for the Sunday services for the past two years without a break.

The church, dedicated to SS. Peter and Paul, is isolated from the small village, standing away in the midst of the fields. Parts of the church were built in the first half of the 12th century. Perhaps the parish is best known as the birthplace of John Ray, M.A., F.R.S., the entry of whose baptism may still be deciphered in the parish register, June 29th, 1628. He was the son of a poor blacksmith, but grew up to be the foremost naturalist of his age, and became mathematical lecturer and humanity reader to the University of Cambridge. Ray was a great friend of Sloane, the renowned London physician, to whom we are indebted for the British Museum.

The usual ringers' office was said by the Rector, and Mr. C. H. Howard (Master) read the lesson.

After the service, the ringers and a few friends sat down to tea, presided over by the Rector, in the Parish Room, 21 being present, representing Black Notley, Braintree, Maldon, Rayne and Great Bardfield. At the subsequent business meeting, with the District Master (Mr. L. Wiffen) in the chair, four of the Notley band were elected as change ringing members and two as probationers. One member from Rayne was also elected.—Major B. Allen, of Notley Lodge, was elected an hon. member.

Votes of thanks were proposed by Mr. Howard, and seconded by the district secretary, and unanimously accorded to the Rector for the use of the bells and holding the service; to the organist and choir, Major Allen, and Mrs. Johnson, a lady parishioner, who had taken considerable interest in the meeting.

After some touches on the handbells, the ringers adjourned to the tower for ringing, the methods being Bob Doubles, Grandsire, Stedman and St. Simon's Doubles.

The meeting, arranged for propagandist purposes, created a great amount of interest. Every effort was made to help the beginners in the art. Two little lads from Rayne, of 14 years or under, cycled over three miles to the meeting, and rang the treble, having to stand on a box to reach the rope at the back stroke.

FIRST QUARTER-PEAL OF TRIPLES IN NATAL DURBAN BAND'S PERFORMANCE.

The band at Durban, Natal, which includes ladies, is already making good progress with the introduction into the company of two or three ringers from England, and on Tuesday, Sept. 22nd, they rang the first quarter-peal of Triples in Natal. This was at St. Mary's Church, Greyville, and consisted of Collinson's 1,260 Grandsire, rung in 50 minutes: Miss Olive Clements 1, Miss Daisy Clarkson 2, Fred G. May 3, Tom Nash 4, Rev. Canon Ridout 5, John Prickett (conductor) 6, T. Ewart Prickett 7, C. Clarkson 8.

The quarter-peal was arranged for the Rev. Canon Ridout, of Johannesburg, who was spending a holiday in Durban. It was also the 20th birthday of Miss Daisy Clarkson, and the 30th anniversary of the wedding of the conductor. By this performance the ringers of treble, 2nd, 4th 7th and tenor, scored their first quarter-peal of Triples.

We look forward to an early peal success by the Durban ringers.

A WELL-EARNED PEAL.

The peal at Wouldham, Kent, recorded elsewhere, was truly well earned, as before the attempt could be made the band had to spend nearly two hours among the bells to get them ringable. It must have been months since the bells were raised; birds' nests were well in evidence and had to be removed; ropes spliced and generally repaired; bells oiled; and two of the band, with the C.S.M. as foreman, turned themselves into blacksmiths pro tem, to fix up defective hammers to allow the bells to swing. Anyway, 'all's well that ends well,' as, after some hard ringing, the first peal was rung on the bells, four of which were cast by Hatch in 1624, and two were added by Mears in 1899. It is believed that many unsuccessful attempts have been made to ring a peal on these bells, and it is pleasing to record the first, after such devotion before the attempt, and such a glorious display of blisters—and dirt—afterwards; even the invalid of the band was glad he did not stay at home.

WEDDING BELLS.

At Ringwood, Hants, on Wednesday, Oct. 21st, on the occasion of the wedding of Lady Amy Agar and the Hon. Michael Biddulph, 910 Grandsire Triples: W. Johnson 1, F. Green 2, E. Green 3, R. Jenkins 4, E. Whitfield 5, E. Collins 6, W. Cheater (conductor) 7, E. Bradford 8.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

There is every prospect of the annual dinner of the College Youths on Saturday week equalling the success of former years. There has been a big demand for tickets, and those intending to be present are reminded that the closing date for applications is Thursday next.

This is a festival week at Norbury, Cheshire, in connection with the restoration of the bells and church. The dedication of the bells and the consecration of the new chancel took place on Saturday, and on each day this week special services have been held, and special preachers have taken part. The latter have included the Archdeacons of Macclesfield and Chester, the Dean of Chester, and the Rev. A. T. Beeston. To-morrow, which will be an open ringing day, the preacher will be the Master of the Chester Guild, the Rev. C. A. Clements.

The broadcast of the bells at Croyland Abbey on Sunday was made quite a feature of the B.B.C. programme that evening. The bells were plainly heard in every part of the country, and we could have wished that for such an occasion the striking had been better. The main interest in the bells is the fact that it was at Croyland that the first ring was hung in England.

Capt. F. S. Yorke, R.A., through whose investigations the original engraving of the College Youths certificate was traced to the great Bartolozzi, has been promoted to Major, and is off to Bagdad. He took farewell of his colleagues of the College Youths at their meeting last week, and expects to be absent from England for three years.

The first peal rung on handbells was scored on Oct. 30th, 1811, by a band of Sheffield ringers. It was Oxford Treble Bob Major, and exactly a hundred years later, the late Mr. C. H. Hattersley, whose grandfather took part in the early performance, organised a commemoration peal in the same method, which was timed by the same clock that ticked off the minutes a century before.

The two hundredth anniversary of a peal of Grandsire Triples at the Church of St. Mary-the-Great, Cambridge, occurs on Thursday next. One may almost assume, we think, that this was the first peal on the bells. At this period there was a change ringing band maintained at this church for some years, for some of the ringers in the first peal took part in another in 1734.

In view of the bicentenary, the record of this peal, from the Osborne MSS., in the British Museum, is worth quoting: 'St. Mary-the-Great, Cambridge, Nov. 5th, 1725, was rung by the Cambridge Youths a complete peal of 5,040 Grandsire Triples in three hours and a half: Henry Milliner 1, Thomas Seare 2, Hewes Carter 3, John Tuck 4, John Mite 5, Wm. Anderson 6, Robert Barber 7, Thomas Cornwell 8.'

The first peal of Superlative Surprise Major was rung on Nov. 5th, 1821, at St. Peter's, Huddersfield.

Curiously enough, it was on Nov. 5th also that what was claimed as the first peal of Cambridge Surprise Major was rung. This was at St. Peter's, Sheffield (now the Cathedral), in 1787, when, according to the record, 'was rung on eight bells at this church a peal of 5,048 changes of that intricate method called Cambridge Surprise in 4 hours and 18 minutes . . . The above is the first peal of this method ever rung in the country.' The composition is lost, but it may be taken for granted it was false. But that does not detract from the fine performance of the eight Sheffield men. The weight of the tenor is given as 33 cwt.

The record of this peal does not give the name either of the composer or conductor, but the late Mr. C. H. Hattersley once saw a manuscript relating to it, which shows the conductor to have been George Wilde, who rang the second. That in itself was a remarkable performance for those days.

The bells upon which this peal was rung was a ring by Daniel Hedderly, of Nottingham, cast in 1745. The augmentation to ten, and then to twelve came later.

The bells of St. Paul's Cathedral were opened on Nov. 1st, 1878.

'The first peal ever rung on any bells by any society, the members being all of one name,' was performed at St. Martin's-in-the-Fields on November 3rd, 1796, by eleven members of the Royal Cumberland Youths, who rang a peal of Grandsire Caters. They all bore the Christian name of William, and the peal was called by William Shipway.

The name of the ringer of the tenor bell in the peal of Erin Triples at Nuneaton should have read 'John Thompson,' not John Morton. Will the Warwickshire Guild secretary please note?

In one of his concluding articles on method splicing, Mr. J. P. Fidler suggested that one of our mathematicians could perhaps tell us in how many ways a peal may be made up from the 35 methods, with which he had been dealing.

Mr. E. H. Lewis supplies the information, and the variety obtained will doubtless stagger some people, and, at any rate, give the enthusiasts something to get on with.

From 35 methods, seven can be selected in 8,811,440 ways. If the order of ringing the extents be also taken into account, this number must be multiplied by 5,040, and becomes 44,409,657,600. To get any further variety (if required) different callings must be introduced, but without it, at eight peals per day, it would keep a band going for rather more than 15 million years!

THE SUPPRESSION OF CHURCH BELL RINGING! A SUGGESTED ACT OF PARLIAMENT.

From time to time church bell ringing is threatened with extinction by sundry folk who have taken a dislike to the sound of bells, but devotees of the art may now consider that their 'number is up.' Mr. J. D. Lewis, of Stanwell Road, Penarth, secretary pro tem. of 'the newly-formed society for the suppression of public nuisances,' is announcing to the world at large that bell ringing is the first subject to be tackled by his society, and 'prominent Members of Parliament are already being approached with a view to bringing forward a measure entitled "The Bell Ringing (Restriction) Bill," which has for its object the suppression of so-called change ringing except on national occasions, and then at reasonable hours. One bell only to be allowed for worship, and this to be tolled for five minutes only before a service.' Mr. Lewis also tells us that 'funds are now being gathered for a Press and public campaign, but nothing should yet be sent until the society have secured a London office, which will be very shortly.'

So now we know what to expect.

In putting forward his case, Mr. Lewis, of course, indulges in the kind of tirade which one expects from those who imagine they have a grievance against a section of their fellow-men, and in his enthusiasm for a new-found outlet for his energy he assumes, what so many engaged in similar hopeless causes have assumed, that he has only to put his view before the public to carry everything before him. He will probably find that he and his society have a long way to go before they can convince the British public that their church bells (and note particularly it is only those upon which change ringing is done that are the real object of the attack) should be suppressed.

Like other men with a bee in their bonnet, Mr. Lewis is not particular as to his facts. He speaks of the 'banging and clanging of London bells, which disturb the sleep of hundreds of thousands who go to bed on Saturday night hoping for a real rest which they are unable to obtain all the week,' and adds that 'a hopeless minority make a hideous din of the Sabbath.' These statements he makes, apparently, on the authority of a London daily paper, but, in the interests of truth, Mr. Lewis might take the precaution, before going into print, of confirming the 'facts' upon which he would rely.

Those who know anything about ringing in London are aware that bells rung in the city on a Saturday night do not reach the ears of one thousand residents, much less of hundreds of thousands, for they cannot be heard above the din of the traffic more than a hundred yards away from a tower, and in the whole square mile of the city there are only 28,000 people who sleep there at night. Moreover, in the city, ringing does not take place every Saturday night, and ringing, in the vast area which is generally included in London and the suburbs, takes place on Saturdays even less occasionally, in proportion to the size of the district. And again, ringing in London ceases at ten o'clock or earlier, and whoever heard of Londoners making a practice of going to bed before 10 p.m.? Why, they are only just beginning to wake up! Perhaps in distant Penarth the inhabitants go to bed earlier, but Mr. Lewis does not even allege that Penarth bells have disturbed his sleep on a Saturday night.

And then the 'hideous din of the Sabbath.' What does Mr. Lewis know of this? We would suggest he should make a little personal investigation, and that his inquiries should not be limited to those who suffer from 'nerves.' Exaggeration is easy in an attempt to bolster up an empty cause, and Mr. Lewis falls into this common error. We only refer to these two things because they are the only two definite 'reasons' for the suppression of ringing which Mr. Lewis has apparently yet been able to advance.

We notice that funds are being gathered for the campaign, and we notice also that Mr. Lewis does not sign as 'honorary' secretary. Maybe he is going to throw himself into this campaign for purging the country of the first, and presumably, therefore, the greatest, of public nuisances, in a voluntary capacity. If he is, we hope he has plenty of leisure, for he will need it by the time he has convinced the country that its church bells are a public nuisance. We are afraid, if he carries this campaign to a successful issue, he will have to leave the 'other public nuisances which are to be tackled in a similar manner' to look after themselves, and it is as well, perhaps, that at the moment he does not enumerate them. At the same time, we are glad of the information that a busybody is going to try to interfere with the existing state of things. To be forewarned is to be forearmed.

We shall await with interest Mr. Lewis's promised 'full report of the formation of this society, together with the long list of influential and well-known people who are on the governing committee, or who have promised financial and moral support to the organisation.'

SPliced-METHOD RINGING.

MR. FIDLER'S ARTICLES TO BE PUBLISHED AS A BOOKLET.

The series of articles by Mr. John P. Fidler, giving practical hints on ringing and splicing Minor methods, which has appeared in recent issues of 'The Ringing World,' has been of great interest to Six-Bell ringers, and form the first real explanation of this fascinating subject which has been put into print.

The manner in which the subject has been treated has thrown an entirely new light on the practical side of splicing, and originated with the Rev. A. T. Beeston, who was first to develop the plan. Mr. Fidler's exposition of this scheme of ringing numerous methods in true extents has been ably written, and is a valuable contribution to the literature of practical ringing.

The splicing of methods will doubtless become a popular way of ringing Minor in the future, the more so as its attractions become known. It may not always be possible, however, for ringers to keep by them the copies of 'The Ringing World,' containing the articles—there is always the danger of their being lost or destroyed, or not being at hand when wanted.

It is, therefore, proposed, both with the idea of encouraging spliced-method ringing and for the convenience of ringers, to reprint Mr. Fidler's articles, in booklet form, with the addition of a general introduction to the subject, by Mr. Joseph W. Parker, of Sunderland, and the figures of some further extents—in which six and eight methods are employed—by Mr. E. H. Lewis and Mr. Parker.

In this way the publication will form a complete book of instruction upon Minor Method splicing, which will make it a standard work upon the subject, and one which should find a place on every ringer's bookshelf.

A further announcement with regard to the publication will be made in our next issue.

SOMETHING TO GET ON WITH.

The peal rung on the bells at Martley (which are over 250 years old) makes the 100th peal which W. Ranford and C. Camm have rung together. It was also the sixth peal that R. G. Knowles has rung on this old ring, each time ringing a different bell, and having a different conductor.

By ringing in the peal of Double Norwich at Lye on Saturday last, Mr. Chas. R. Lilley, of Shrewsbury, has now joined the rather small band of men who have rung a peal on the lightest and the heaviest rings in the country.

As will be seen from a notice elsewhere in this issue, a ringing meeting in connection with the reopening of Manchester Cathedral bells is to be held on November 14th.

RINGERS' CHEAPER TRAVELLING FACILITIES.

RAILWAY CLEARING HOUSE REFUSAL.

The secretary of the London County Association (Mr. A. H. Keighley), who laid the case of his association before the Railway Clearing House, in connection with the endeavour to get cheaper travelling facilities for ringers, has received the following reply:—

Railway Clearing House,
Sept. 29th, 1925.

Dear Sir.—Your letter of the 15th instant, asking for similar travelling facilities to those granted to anglers and others to be also conceded to bell ringers, has been submitted to the Railway Companies in conference, and I have to inform you that they regret they cannot see their way to accede to your request.—Yours truly,

(Signed) P. H. PRICE.

The Secretary,

London County Association of Change Ringers.

A letter from the Great Western Railway Company has been forwarded to the secretary of the Oxford Diocesan Guild to similar effect.

WHY THE PEAL WAS LOST.

A party of Wiltshire ringers attempted a peal at one of the neighbouring villages on Saturday, October 17th. The jovial 'captain of ringers' met them and took them to the tower, where, after he had departed, the door was secured by means of a large wooden stake propped up from the floor. Two hours after, in the midst of some splendid ringing, the door rattled, and a hand appeared thrusting the stake to one side. The door was then thrust open, and a heaving countenance, fringed with whiskers, looked in and remarked, 'You've 'ad a main peal, ain't ye?' This was too much for the ringers, who burst into uncontrollable laughter, and the peal had to be stopped, with fifty minutes to go.

SHREWSBURY.—On Oct. 8th, at St. Julian's Church, for harvest festival, 240 Cambridge Surprise; and on Oct. 12th 720 Cambridge Surprise Minor: F. Lyeett (first of Surprise) 1, C. Lee 2, W. Short 3, J. E. Lilley 4, W. B. Kynaston 5, C. R. Lilley (conductor) 6.

SUSSEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION. THE VENUE OF THE ANNUAL GENERAL MEETING.

Favoured by ideal weather, a most successful meeting of the Central Division was held at Turner's Hill on Saturday, October 17th. The tower was open at two o'clock, and though the village is somewhat difficult of access, the nearest railway station being a mile and a half from the church, members continued to arrive till the satisfactory total of 45 was reached. The bells are an excellent peal of six, tenor 14 cwt., by Meays and Stainbank, and the meeting was held on the anniversary of their opening in 1924; consequently this was the first visit paid to the tower by the majority of those present, and a halt was made in the ringing to allow those desirous of doing so to inspect the bells. These are hung on ball bearings in an iron and steel frame, pits being provided for two trebles to complete the octave. It is hoped that these will be added in the near future, and thus provide a useful peal of eight in this part of the county.

The Rev. G. Irvine (Vicar of Turner's Hill) conducted a short choral service at 4.30, in the course of which he gave a helpful and interesting address. The collection, in aid of the Benevolent Fund, amounted to 16s.

A move was then made to the Schoolroom, where a sumptuous tea had been provided by the kindness of the Parochial Church Council, at which the Vicar presided, supported by the Master (Mr. J. T. Rickman).

This was succeeded by the business meeting, at which the following new members were elected: Messrs. C. Nice, N. Elliott, J. Morley, H. Parry, F. Heathfield and K. Snelling, all of the Crawley branch, and Mr. John A. Warren, of Balcombe.

A discussion then took place as to the advisability of holding the annual general meeting of the association every year at Brighton.—Mr. Markwell, of Henfield, who introduced the subject, stated that this matter was debated at the last meeting of the Western Division, at Warnham, with the result that a unanimous opinion in favour of Brighton for every annual general meeting was expressed.

The Hon. Secretary of the Central Division (Mr. A. D. Stone), in reply to Mr. Markwell, pointed out that it was not within the competence of a divisional meeting to decide this question, the place of the annual general meeting being decided by vote at the previous annual general meeting, and that Brighton had been selected for the next of these gatherings, in May, 1926. A desire that the feeling of the meeting should be ascertained by a vote resulted in a unanimous expression of opinion that the annual general meeting should be held each year in Brighton.

At the close of the meeting, the Master proposed a hearty vote of thanks to the Vicar for the use of the bells and the bright and helpful service and address, coupling with this the organist and choir. The kind hosts, the Parochial Church Council, and the ladies who so kindly looked after the visitors at tea, all of whom had combined to give the company such a warm and hearty welcome.—This being carried by acclamation, the proceedings terminated.

The tower was again visited, and ringing continued till 8 o'clock, when the bells were lowered in peal, all having spent a most agreeable time. The following towers were represented: Aldington, Balcombe, Billingshurst, Brighton (St. Peter's and St. Nicholas'), Burgess Hill, Crawley, Henfield, Lindfield, Lower Beeding and Turner's Hill, and among those present were also independent, non-resident and honorary members.

The affiliation to the association of the Turner's Hill branch is due to the broadminded policy of approaching round ringers with an invitation to join, in the hope that they will eventually become change-ringers. An instructor has been appointed, and a certain amount of progress has already been made.

The next meeting of the division will be held at Burgess Hill, in January, 1926, by kind invitation of the Vicar (the Rev. F. G. Beddard).

LINCOLNSHIRE RINGERS IN LEICESTERSHIRE.

On Saturday, Sept. 12th, the ringers of Barton-on-Humber, with their wives, and three ringers from Bigby, had their outing by charabanc to Loughborough and Leicester. At Loughborough they visited the bell foundry, and were met by one of Messrs. Taylor's representatives, who kindly took them round the works, and explained the operations carried out in the various departments. In the tuning shop several of the York Minster bells were being tuned. After having a pull on the foundry ring, the party adjourned to the Empire Cafe, where a splendid lunch was served. Afterwards they visited Ayleston, where they were met by Messrs. Ernest Morris and Harold Poole, Miss Phyllis Hare, and some of the local band. After one or two short touches on this nice toned peal a start was made for Leicester, where Mr. Fred Dexter was waiting to greet the party, and also accompanied them to tea at the Co-operative Cafe. After tea, half an hour's ringing was enjoyed at St. Saviour's Church before starting for home, Barton being reached at 11 p.m., everyone having thoroughly enjoyed the day's outing.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD. WITNEY AND WOODSTOCK BRANCH.

The autumn meeting of this branch was held at Witney on Saturday, October 17th, when a good number of members attended. Ringing was started in the afternoon prior to the service, which was held in the Parish Church at 3 p.m. The preacher was the Rev. G. Tristram, Rector of Ducklington.

After service, the members sat down to tea at the Central Cafe, and this was followed by the business meeting. The Master (the Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn) and the president (the Rev. A. C. R. Freeborn, Kidlington), were present.

The president was unanimously re-elected for the ensuing year.—Mr. John Monk then reported, in his jovial manner, that the balance in hand was quite up to the standard.

The President said he was retiring from the living of Kidlington, but would still be very pleased to hold his office in the branch and help in every way he could (applause). He then had to make a very regretful announcement to the members, namely, the resignation of their popular hon. secretary and treasurer (Mr. John Monk), owing to failing eyesight.

Mr. Monk explained that he felt at times that he could not carry on any longer, and considered it his duty to hand over the duties to some younger member. He proposed Mr. W. Evetts, junr., of Tackley, and trusted the members would give their new secretary all the support they had given him during the eight years he had held office.—This proposal was seconded, put to the meeting, and carried unanimously.—Mr. Evetts suitably acknowledged his appointment.

Tackley was voted as the place for the spring meeting, owing to the recent addition of a new treble bell and the restoration of the old ring of five.—A hearty vote of thanks to the preacher brought the business to a close.

The members then returned to the church tower for ringing, in which several touches of Stedman and Grandsire Triples were rung by various bands. The untiring energy of the Master in helping the younger and less experienced members was much appreciated.

SPADE WORK IN BANBURY DISTRICT.

The first quarterly meeting of the Banbury and District Branch was held at Deddington on Saturday, Oct. 17th, and was a very successful beginning. The bells were rung for an hour before service, which commenced at 4 p.m., the service being conducted by the Rev. C. F. Cholmondeley, the president of the branch, while the address was given by the Rev. Canon Jones, R.D., Vicar of Banbury, who traced the history of church bells from the earliest times down to the present day. He also impressed upon his hearers that they were church officers, and asked them to show by their attendance at the services that they appreciated the fact.

After service, a company of twenty sat down to tea at the Unicorn Hotel.

The president occupied the chair at the business meeting, supported by the Rev. Canon Jones, the Rev. W. E. McFarlane (Vicar of Great Tew), and the Rev. M. Frost (Vicar of Deddington). Ringers were present from Banbury, Bodicot, Great Tew and Adderbury, while the local band mustered in full strength.

Nine new members were elected.

The Secretary reported that he had received a fairly generous response to his appeal for honorary members, and he trusted that all ringers in the district would become members.

Croperdy was chosen as the next place of meeting.

The usual votes of thanks to the chairman for presiding, to Canon Jones for his address, and to the Rev. M. Frost for the use of the bells, concluded the meeting.

As Banbury is the only tower with a change ringing band at present, it will be seen that much spade work will have to be done in the district, and at future meetings a little outside assistance would be greatly appreciated.

After the meeting the tower was again visited, several six-scores of Stedman, and Grandsire being rung, and three or four beginners being helped through their first attempt.

Triples were rung. At Devizes, ringing was impossible, owing to a funeral, but a splendid hot lunch was awaiting the party at Perry and Son's Restaurant.

In the afternoon, Melksham was visited, and on a lovely ring of eight bells touches of Grandsire Triples were rung. At Chippenham, the visitors were met by three of the local ringers, who, after a touch of Grandsire Triples had been rung, joined in several courses of Stedman Triples and Bob Major. The Vicar, the Rev. W. F. Woods (late of Ampney St. Peter), gave the party a splendid welcome. At tea, the visitors were joined by the local ringers, and the stay at Chippenham was very much enjoyed. Wootton Bassett was the last call, and here the party were met by Mr. Wilson, and this splendid peal was soon going to some well-struck Grandsire Triples. This is a favourite tower with the Fairford ringers, and the 'go' of these bells is all that can be wished for. Home was reached about 11.15 p.m., after a long but happy day.

RINGERS' OUTINGS.

AMONG CAMBRIDGESHIRE TOWERS.

On Saturday, Sept. 19th, the Laveham ringers held their fourth annual outing. The whole party assembled punctually at 8 a.m., but, alas! there was no charabanc! However, after a half an hour's wait it put in an appearance, and with the mascot (D.A.S.), and 'Tich,' seated beside the driver, the party were soon speeding to Newmarket. On entering this place a fine view was obtained of the 'Gee Gees' just returning from their early morning exercise. A halt was made at All Saints' Church, where Messrs. R. Sharpe and W. Moody met the party. Touches of Grandsire, Stedman and Double Norwich were rung, but the bells here sorely need the attention of a bell hanger. St. Mary's was next visited, and the beautiful six there were set going to Plain Bob, Double Court, Kent and Oxford, Mr. Sharpe taking part. A run was then made for Fulbourn. This village was found, after many inquiries on the way, and paying toll at a 'level crossing'; this to a railway orphanage. At this church, touches of Bob Major, Kent and Superlative were rung. Lunch was heartily enjoyed at the Six Bells Inn, after which the handbells were brought into use. —A vote of thanks was unanimously passed to Mr. Stedman H. Symonds for his great part in the day's splendid arrangements. Saying farewell to Mr. E. Webb, tracks were made for Cambridge, which place, some of the party vowed, was entered by the 'back door.' Mr. W. B. Kempton and his son welcomed the ringers, in the absence of the Vicar of St. Andrew's-the-Great, and touches in various methods were rung. Hurried steps, in a downpour of rain, were then taken to Great St. Mary's, to be greeted by Messrs. T. R. Dennis, J. and G. Taylor, also Mr. A. Sharman, who, with the Dunstable ringers, was on a visit to the town. Grandsire Triples, Stedman Caters and Oxford Treble Bob Royal were rung, Messrs. A. Sharman and J. Taylor taking part. Finally a course of Bob Minor was rung, to oblige Mr. Rowlinson, of Chatteris, on what is known as the 'ragged six' — 1, 2, 3, 6, 8, 10, one of the local men remarking that he had 'never heard that blooming six till now!' An interesting time was then spent, under the guidance of Mr. J. Taylor, walking around various colleges. Haverhill was reached an hour late, two of the 'bob-callers' having caused the driver to 'shift course.' A service at 7.30 cut the ringing here down to a course each of Bob Minor and Oxford, Mr. Making, Haverhill, taking part. Owing to the late arrival at Clare, the only changes performed were those at the 'bar.' Half-way on the last lap, 'Mary Ellen' turned down, and refused to climb until some of the party alighted and pushed. Then to the singing of Tich and Co., and the groanings of a thirsty engine, home was reached at 10.30. Mr. W. Jarvis, of Wisbech, joined the party for the day. The ringers wish, through the medium of 'The Ringing World,' to thank the incumbents of the churches visited for the use of the bells, also the tower-keepers and other friends who so kindly helped to make the outing a successful one.

NORTH STONEHAM RINGERS' OUTING.

On Saturday, Sept. 19th, the North Stoneham ringers had their annual outing, and in spite of a pouring wet day, all enjoyed themselves. The route had been planned by Mr. G. Williams, with his usual precision, and best thanks are due to him for making all arrangements.

A start was made at 8.30 by charabanc, and the first halt was at Ringwood, where the party were met by Messrs. Cheater and Collins, the indefatigable members of the local band. Double Norwich, Cambridge and Grandsire were rung on the fine ring of eight. The restart was delayed somewhat by the leading lights of the party being missing, and it was found that they had paid a visit to the monkey house. Wimborne Minster was the next objective, where Mr. Frank Earl soon had the fine ring of ten ready, and Grandsire Caters, Cambridge, Major and Stedman were enjoyed, a very welcome visitor being Mr. A. F. Martin Stewart, a former Master of the Salisbury Guild.

After a splendid lunch, the party proceeded to St. John's, Bournemouth, where Mr. H. Bennett and his son were awaiting them, and London, Superlative, Double Norwich, Kent, Stedman and Grandsire were much enjoyed on this very musical ring of eight. A move was then made to Christchurch, where, after tea, a visit was paid to the Priory Church, and the party found Mr. G. Preston, the local secretary, had everything ready, and Grandsire Caters and Stedman Triples were rung, but London proved too much for the strong men. Lynton was the last tower on the list, and here the party were met by Messrs. Arnold and Clark, and Cambridge, Kent and Grandsire rung. Home was reached about 9.30, after a very enjoyable day, in spite of the weather, which was so bad that one member had to resort to his bottle of smelling salts. This opportunity is taken to thank all who helped to make the outing so enjoyable.

FAIRFORD RINGERS' OUTING.

The annual outing of the ringers of St. Mary's Church, Fairford, Glos., was held on Saturday, Sept. 12th. At Broad Hinton, touches of Canterbury, Grandsire, St. Dunstan, Bob Doubles and Plain Bob Minor were rung, the Vicar (the Rev. H. V. White) taking the treble to 120 Grandsire Doubles. At Bishop's Canning, touches of Grandsire

WHAT IS IN A NAME?

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I read with delight the letter of Mr. Trollope, in your issue of July 31st, on Nomenclature, and agree with the whole of it. I think it is a great pity that (to quote Mr. Trollope) such an 'able and well-written document' should be wasted on such a piffling subject. Why such a combination of ability as that which is possessed by the members of this committee was not turned to work which is more needed, and of greater use to the Exercise, I can't see. That history of the Exercise wants writing up, and the register of all compositions is of vital import, for instance. I have no wonder that the 'Press laughs at our babbling, but perhaps my intellect is weaker than that of the committee, and my perception stultified that I should think their pet foibles are really of value to no one except their personal vanities. Their report and findings will be wasted because ringers will still ring peals under the names they have always used, and associations will put them in their reports, and the Editor will still publish them—they dare not do otherwise, as we ring to please ourselves, and we please ourselves in our own pet way.

Why can't the committee get to business and publish a book on how to splice, and ring all these methods, no matter what their names may be? That would be of real use to the Exercise. But no. The next move will be to appoint a sub-committee to petition all borough councils to change the names of all the Trinity Streets and Trinity Squares, and even the famous Trinity House of Lighthouse control fame might have to be rechristened; for if 'Trinity' is not a suitable name for a church bell method, then it certainly is not the name to apply to a dirty slum street. Or we might appoint a sub-sub-committee to prepare a report on whether a name is common or abstract; and whether methods are masculine, feminine or neuter; and whether masculine Delights could be spliced with neuter Treble Bobs, and whether feminine florals possess red or white corporeal shunts. All this would be quite as useful as the present subject the committee are 'spending' their time on.

Mr. Drake's letter in the issue of August 7th is a truly valiant effort to justify his share in an invidious position. Mr. Trollope may have a bad case; I should say from my knowledge of him that he is rather patting himself on the back that he has not been dragged into this 'hash up' of names, and I am rather pleased that that is so. Mr. Drake must allow me to point out to him that, if the Council's doings in the past were capable of being abused, it is no excuse for present and future committees to merit abuse; rather should they profit by the shortcomings of Mr. Trollope—if he had any. Mr. Drake seems to infer so in his letter. However that may be, I should say that if Mr. Drake is correct in his surmise, Mr. Trollope is to be congratulated on seeing the error of his ways, and I hope the remainder of the erring ones will follow the very excellent example of Mr. Trollope, and cut themselves adrift from these erring ways and nomenclature debacles: and help Mr. Trollope to compile 'Notes by the Way,' such as he has published in your recent issues. These are solid truth: they are what I have always thought and preached for years and years, but my syntax is so terrible that I was unable to put it before the Exercise in the form that we see it to-day, and my bat is off to 'J. A. T.' for his able exposition of what the Council's duties really are. If we want to ring a peal of Grandsire Major, why do we do so? Q.E.D. because it pleases the eight men who ring it, and the Council or Guild that says we must not do so is 'barking up the wrong tree.' And the paper that refused to publish it: the Guild that barred it from their report, and the Council that did not include it in the analysis, would be acting against their own interests. It might be an 'irregular' method, but if it was a well rung and true peal it would be at least a pleasure to those who rang it, and if I was in the band I should recommend all dissenting committees to 'sit up and take nourishment' from the very excellent and very instructive 'Notes by the Way' of Mr. Trollope. The 'green fly' sure is in the flower garden this year. Is Mr. Trollope official sprayer? I hope so. Yours sincerely,
JOSEPH E. SYKES.

RINGER'S SILVER WEDDING.

To commemorate the silver wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Avis, on Friday, October 16th, an attempt for a peal of Minor at Milton-next-Gravesend, was abandoned, owing to the late arrival of two of the band, but 720 of Kent and Oxford Treble Bob and a touch of Cambridge were rung, the ringers taking part being J. Avis, G. Ambrose, G. Morrad, G. Jones, E. Beer, Q.-M.-S. J. Bennett, H. Holden, A. Hill. The ringers then proceeded to the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Avis, whose hospitality was much appreciated. Around the festive board the towers represented were Gravesend, Milton, Chatham and Erith, with friends from Faversham and Gravesend, also the hon. secretary of the Lewisham district, Mr. A. Hill. The toast of the evening was given, with sincere wishes that Mr. and Mrs. Avis would continue to have good health, and see many more years of wedded life. Handbells and songs were afterwards the order. At midnight a very enjoyable evening came to a close. The ringers take this opportunity of thanking Mr. and Mrs. Avis for their kind hospitality; also the Rector of Milton (the Rev. G. W. Mennie) for the use of the bells.

CHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD. CREWE BRANCH VISIT SANDBACH.

The Crewe and District Branch of the Chester Diocesan Guild held a most enjoyable meeting at Sandbach on Saturday, Oct. 17th. Despite the inclement weather which prevailed there was an excellent muster of 33 members, representing Crewe, Nantwich, Ighfield, Wistaston, Lawton, Davenham, and also the local tower. During the afternoon and evening, the members rang touches of Grandsire Triples, Stedman Triples, Bob Major, Kent Treble Bob Major, Oxford Treble Bob Major, Cambridge Surprise Major, and Double Norwich Court Bob Major.

A substantial tea was provided, and at the meeting which followed, the Branch Secretary (Mr. R. D. Langford) informed the members of the alteration in the date of the opening of the Norbury bells, which had now been fixed for October 31st, instead of Nov. 21st. The Acton meeting would be held on Nov. 14th.

Mr. W. Holding (Crewe) moved a hearty vote of thanks to the Vicar (the Rev. J. H. Armitstead) for so kindly providing tea, and also for the use of the excellent bells. He spoke of the pleasure it gave to the members to visit Sandbach, and said it was over twenty years since the annual meeting was held there. He hoped it would not be long before Sandbach would again be selected (hear, hear).

Mr. R. T. Holding (Crewe) seconded, and said he was glad to find so many members present, despite the bad weather.

The motion was carried unanimously, and, the Vicar responding, said he was delighted to welcome them. Their thanks were due to the ladies, who had so kindly arranged the tea.

LONDON'S BELLS.

Just two years ago a suggestion was made in this column that the ringing societies of London might get together with a view to endeavouring to bring about an improved condition of affairs in the belfries of the Metropolis. Up to the present nothing has been done. It is an acknowledged fact that some of the towers in London are among the worst cared for in the country, and this is certainly not creditable to the authorities who are responsible for the upkeep of the fabric and the furnishings of the churches. Many peals of bells are in such a neglected state as to be almost unringable, and they are gradually falling into disuse. There is in this a cause for regret, particularly in view of the gradual closing, from various reasons, of other towers for peal ringing. For instance, among the eight twelve-bell towers there are only two which are freely available for peal ringing. There are, we believe, sixteen peals of ten within what may be termed London's inner radius, but how many of these are regularly rung and how many are available for regular peal ringing? How often now does one read of any noteworthy performance at towers like Christ Church, Spitalfields; St. James's, Clerkenwell; St. Dunstan's, Fleet Street—to mention only three out of the many rings of eight?

What does it all point to? That the majority of towers in London are closed to ringers, unless under exceptional circumstances. Surely there are some among the 'derelicts' that might be recovered for ringing if among the ringers of London some sort of united effort could be made. In might be an uphill task, and at the outset, perhaps, a discouraging one, but a steady application to the object would most assuredly result, in the long run, in improvements here and there. Joint action by the various London societies would, we feel convinced, be the best method of tackling the problem. It may bristle with difficulties, but to adopt an attitude of indifference is only to set a bad example to those whose apathy is largely responsible for the condition of many of the rings of bells in the Metropolis. We are not quite sure, however, that it is entirely indifference that has resulted in nothing being done by the ringing societies. It may be they feel they cannot press bell restorations in churches where they could not offer to provide service ringers. That is one of the chief difficulties which would confront any committee formed to deal with the subject, but we venture to think it is not entirely insurmountable; indeed it opens an additional avenue for effort in the training of more ringers. There is, however, another obstacle, we think, to any combined action, and one that we should like to see removed. Under the surface in London there is a certain amount of jealousy between rival societies, which erects a barrier against any kind of joint working. If only this spirit could be removed and a little more mutual good-will introduced, much, we are sure, might, with time, be accomplished. The peal ringing facilities in London are being gradually narrowed, and if the societies which centre in and overlap the Metropolis are to 'keep the flag flying' they will have to get fresh towers available in which to maintain the art.

SOCIETY FOR THE ARCHDEACONRY OF STAFFORD.

Favoured with beautiful weather, upwards of 40 members and friends attended a quarterly meeting at Kingswinford. The bells were set going soon after three o'clock, and amongst the methods rung were London and Cambridge Surprise, Plain Bob and Kent Treble Bob Major, Stedman and Grandsire Triples. A short service was held in church, when a helpful address was delivered by the Rev. A. H. Messiter (Vicar). A capital tea was provided in the Schoolroom.

The Rev. C. H. Barker (clerical secretary and treasurer) reported having made applications to the respective local superintendents of the L.M.S. and G.W. Railways re reduced fares for ringers, and the replies received from them, as well as one from the Clearing House, were not of a hopeful nature.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered the Vicar for his address, the use of the bells, etc., and to the ladies who arranged and served the tea.

DEATH OF A COLLEGE YOUTH.

MR. J. C. SMITH SUCCEUMS TO EFFECTS OF WAR SERVICE.

A talented musician, as well as a ringer and a member of the Ancient Society of College Youths, Mr. Joseph Cubitt Smith died at Friston, Sussex, on October 16th. Had he lived until the 21st he would have been 42 years of age.

Deceased was the son of Mr. William D. Smith, late superintendent of the E.C. District Office of the London Postal Service, now residing at 8, The Avenue, Eastbourne, and a brother of Mrs. A. A. Hughes, of the Whitechapel Foundry. Mr. J. C. Smith was well known to the older generation of College Youths, and although he never took part in a peal, he was always interested in ringing. On several occasions he had taken an orchestra to the College Youths annual dinner, and he was, like his sister, an expert handbell ringer.

The late Mr. Smith served from the outbreak of the war in the postal section of the R.E., but as a result of his service with the colours he contracted pleurisy, which developed into pulmonary tuberculosis. He made a most gallant fight against this insidious disease, to which, unhappily, he finally succumbed.

Besides being a proficient performer on a number of instruments he was a keen student of classical music, of which he had a valuable collection. After having to retire from the postal service through the breakdown of his health, he joined the orchestra at Devonshire Park Theatre, Eastbourne, and took a keen interest in local musical affairs. He also helped materially to resuscitate the Theosophical Society in Eastbourne, which owes its present sound position to his efforts.

The funeral took place on October 20th, at Ocklynge Cemetery, Eastbourne, when the Rev. A. B. Evans, Vicar of Friston, officiated, and many beautiful floral tributes were received.

At the meeting of the College Youths, on October 20th, a vote of condolence with the bereaved family was passed. Mr. Smith leaves a widow and a son (aged five years) to mourn their loss.

FIFTY YEARS OF CHURCH WORK.

Mr. Algernon Newman, of St. Mary's, Rawtenstall, has now completed 50 years' service as a church worker. A native of Wootton Waven, Warwick, he was a chorister in the church there when a boy. Moving to Chipping Campden he again joined the choir, and chimed the bells for service. Going North, he was stationed for some time at Workington and Barrow-in-Furness, where he joined the Cumberland Association of Change Ringers. Business again caused him to move to Heywood, and finally to Rawtenstall, where he has now resided 26 years, and has been actively identified with the church and ringers there ever since.

RINGER'S DEATH IN CANADA.

At Folkestone, Kent, on Friday, October 30th, a muffled quarter-peal of Stedman Triples, in 53 mins.: H. Jones 1, S. Baker 2, C. R. Millway 3, A. Binfield 4, S. Binfield 5, R. H. Stevens 6, C. Turner (conductor) 7, J. Coppins 8. Rung in memory of the late H. A. Potts, for many years a ringer at this church, who recently died in Canada. Messrs. Jones, Millway, Stevens and Turner from Dover; S. Baker from Cheriton; the rest are local men.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION.*BELFRY ELECTIONS.

The annual meeting of Lewisham District was held at St. John's, Deptford, on Saturday last. The bells were made good use of throughout the afternoon and evening.

Service was held in the church at 5 p.m. The Vicar (the Rev. R. R. Neill) officiated, assisted by the curate, and the former gave a very interesting address. The organ was played by Mr. Johnson.

The service was followed by a splendid tea, kindly supplied by the Vicar and churchwardens (Messrs. Jobson and Ward), and efficiently served by several ladies of the parish. After tea, some of the members performed on handbells to the delight of all those present.

Mr. F. W. Thornton proposed a vote of thanks to the ladies for all they had done to make the social part of the proceedings such a great success.—This was carried with applause.

The business meeting followed, the Vicar presiding.

The secretary's report for the past year was read and adopted. Five new members were elected, and the ratification of one member's election previous to a peal, was carried.

The retiring officers were re-elected, viz., Mr. A. G. Hill, hon. secretary, and Messrs. W. J. Jeffries and I. Emery, district representatives. St. John's, Erith, was chosen as the place of the next meeting.

A lengthy discussion of Rule 15 resulted in instructions being given to the District Representatives to give notice to the general committee of a motion to be put to the annual general meeting to delete the restriction of elections previous to peals to two new members.

Mr. W. J. Jeffries proposed a vote of thanks to the Vicar for the use of the bells, for conducting the service and for the address; to the curate and organist for their services; to the Vicar and churchwarden for the splendid tea provided; and to Mr. Bacon, secretary of the Church Room Fund, for the accommodation for the tea and meeting.—This was carried with applause.

Mr. E. Barnett, senr., endorsed the vote of thanks for the address, and made particular reference to the originality of the Vicar's remarks.—The Vicar responded.

Mr. F. W. Thornton then moved a similar vote to Mr. W. J. Jeffries for his ready aid on this and similar occasions in the past.

This concluded a successful meeting, the company repairing to the tower for further ringing.

DEATH OF OXFORD GUILD RINGER.*NORTH BUCKS PIONEER.

We regret to announce that death of Mr. R. Nicholls, which took place at Newton Longville, Bucks, on Sunday, Oct. 25th, after a few days' illness. He was 53 years of age, and a life member of the Oxford Diocesan Guild.

In 1904 he suggested to the Rev. Leslie Norris, at that time Vicar of Newton Longville, that he thought the time had come for a branch of the Guild to be started in their district, and invitations were sent to the ringers of surrounding towers to meet at Newton Longville on the first Saturday in July of that year.

A large number turned up, and the North Bucks branch was thus formed.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

The association of our church bells with Armistice Day has already been established by custom, and next Wednesday from all steeples in the land we may expect to hear the bells paying tribute to the dead, whom we mourn, and afterwards celebrating the anniversary of the conclusion of the war.

Mr. Fred Wilford, Master of the Peterborough Diocesan Guild, has been appointed by the Bishop of Peterborough to serve on the Diocesan Advisory Board. Some associations are finding it difficult to get representation, but Mr. Wilford is now in a position to give them information if they desire it.

The bells of St. Philip's Cathedral, Birmingham, are to be broadcast from 7.45 to 8 p.m., prior to a special service on Sunday evening next, November 8th.

At the request of the Rector of St. Martin's, Birmingham, the famous bells in the Bull Ring are being rung each Thursday from 12.30 to 1.10 p.m. for the business men's mid-day service, which is now a feature of the work at St. Martin's. Good ringers will be welcome.

Ringers will read with interest of the unique performance at Nottingham, where a peal of spliced Stedman and Grandsire Caters has been rung. The ingenious composition is the product of the fertile brain of Mr. A. J. Pitman, of Port Talbot, and we hope to publish the figures next week. The peal consists of 2,556 changes of Stedman and 2,521 of Grandsire.

The 1,000th peal by the Society for the Archdeaconry of Stafford was rung at Blakenhall, Wolverhampton, last week.

After several years in Mexico, Mr. James H. Bastow has returned to Blackburn, Lancs, and on Saturday rang the tenor to a 'welcome home' peal of Stedman Triples.

Newcastle Cathedral Guild has scored a Masonic peal with a band of Sunday Service ringers, except for one honorary member. When is the Ringers' Lodge to be formed?

'Six hats will be given to the company who ring the best round peal for the space of 30 minutes.' This novel offer accompanied the announcement of the opening of the bells at Glington, near Peterborough, which took place on November 11th, 1799. It would be interesting to know who was the donor of the hats, and who were the winners. The bells were a ring of six, cast and hung by Thomas Osborn, of Downham, Norfolk.

On Oct. 8th, 1888, a peal of 6,720 London Surprise Major was rung at Burton.

The jubilee of the first peal by the Yorkshire Association occurs next week. This was rung on November 9th, 1875, at Holy Trinity, Hull, and was Holt's six-part peal of Grandsire Triples, conducted by the late Mr. Charles Jackson. This event should be fittingly celebrated in the county of broad acres.

The first peal of Oxford Treble Bob Major in Liverpool was rung on November 9th, 1800.

The Society of Cumberland Youths rang a peal of 5,136 Oxford Treble Bob Maximus at Southwark on Nov. 10th, 1766.

Mr. William C. Rumsey, of Debenham, has had a unique, and, perhaps, a lucky experience in his ringing at Framlingham. Framlingham is eight miles from Debenham, and in eight successive attempts he has rung eight peals in the tower, and on each occasion has rung a different bell, the number of methods being six. It has taken Mr. Rumsey over twenty years to do it, but the 'circle,' or should it be the 'octagon?' was completed with the peal of Stedman Triples recorded in our issue of October 16th.

The policemen of Manchester have scored another peal. It is fortunate for them that the threatened Act of suppression is not yet passed, otherwise the dock instead of the witness-box might have been their future lot.

1,111 720's.

To ring one thousand one hundred and eleven 720's of Minor, and to keep count of them all, is the noteworthy achievement of Mr. F. Clinkard, of the Oxford Society. He reached the 'four ones' when he took part in 720 Kent Treble Bob at St. Mary Magdalene's Church, Oxford, on Sunday evening, Oct. 25th, the band being H. Tolley 1, F. Clinkard 2, G. Stace 3, W. Collett 4, C. Coles 5, W. H. B. Wilkins (conductor) 6.

BIRTHPLACE OF THE COLLEGE YOUTHS.

WHERE THE SOCIETY WILL MEET TO-MORROW.

St. Michael's, Paternoster Royal, situated on College Hill, in the City of London, where the College Youths will hold their service to-morrow, prior to their annual dinner, was the birthplace of the Ancient Society. Sir Richard Whittington founded the College, together with some almshouses, and the old church attached to the College possessed a peal of six bells.

THE FIRST 'HOME' OF THE COLLEGE YOUTHS.

Here the young gentlemen of the neighbourhood used to amuse themselves by chiming the bells in rounds. Some of them were members of the aristocracy, and in 1637, on the 5th of November, they founded the society.

They called themselves 'College Youths,' and their object was to practise and promote the art of ringing. Among those associated with the formation of the society were Lord Brereton, Sir Cliff Clifton, the Marquis of Salisbury, Lord Dacre, some of the city aldermen, and many gentlemen in the neighbourhood of the College. For some time only rounds and call changes were rung, but, in time, they studied change ringing, and eventually achieved 120 of Rob Doubles. This was, it is supposed, about 1642. Little progress, however, was made, until about 1677, when Fabian Stedman, the Cambridge printer, published his 'Campanologia,' and dedicated it to the society, of which he was an honoured member.

But this later advance in change ringing was not made at the church on College Hill. St. Michael's, with its tower and six bells, was swept away in the great fire of 1666, and was rebuilt from Wren's designs, and finished in 1694. The lantern and turret, however, were not added until 1713, and alas, the tower has since contained only one bell. It was originally cast by John Hodson in 1674, and was recast in 1892 at the Whitechapel Foundry.

OXFORD MASTER'S WEDDING.

On Monday, October 26th, at the Church of St. Mary Magdalene, Oxford, 720 Kent and 720 Oxford Treble Bob by members of the Oxford Society, in honour of the wedding of their present Master, Mr. William Harris, which was solemnised at the Church of St. Ebbe on that day: W. Finch, W. Henagough, H. Tolley, G. Stace, F. Clinkard, W. Collett and W. H. B. Wilkins (conductor).

OPENING UP A NEW FIELD.

A STANDARD WORK ON 'SP LICING.'

All that is best in six-bell methods has, it is believed, been obtained, and most of it has been included in the Central Council's Collection. A few years ago, however, seven true extents could not be rung unless it was made up of seven methods, or of less methods with one or more of them repeated. But recent advances in ringing have shown that it is possible to put quite a number of methods into a true 720, so coupled together that changes come in perfect sequence and rounds, or any other change, occurs only once in the 720.

A few bands have pursued this branch of Minor ringing, and have proved it a fascinating study. Up to the present, 35 methods have been included in a peal of 5,640 changes, but even that large number is not the limit, and the future of Minor ringing lies, we believe, in the direction of splicing—it is at any rate the only direction at present open for advance. Regular Minor ringers—and others who only ring on six bells occasionally—will find, therefore, that to keep pace with the times, they must understand method splicing.

Until 'the Ringing World' published the recent series of articles by Mr. J. P. Fidler, the subject was little understood, but Mr. Fidler has thrown a flood of light upon this interesting form of ringing, and numerous bands are now taking their first steps in 'splicing.' 'The Ringing World' articles stirred interest in and a desire for closer acquaintance with the subject, but a far more convenient means of study would be provided if all the information were collected under one cover.

This we propose to facilitate by reprinting Mr. Fidler's articles in book form, and supplementing the work by an exposition on splicing generally (Mr. Fidler having devoted himself principally to the practical application of the problem) written by that well-known authority, Mr. Joseph W. Parker, of Sunderland. In addition the book will contain a number of spliced extents, employing in their construction six and eight methods, so that in its complete form it will be a standard work upon the subject.

We anticipate a big demand for this publication, because interest in 'splicing' does not rest merely with those who desire to ring peals. Service and practice ringing will receive added interest if a band can ring a spliced 720 containing anything up to eight methods, instead of being confined to one only.

CHEAP RAILWAY TRAVELLING FACILITIESTo the Editor.*

Dear Sir,—As your readers are aware, efforts have been made to obtain cheaper travelling facilities, and, as you pointed out last week, I regret without success. I had, however, a final interview with one of the representatives at the Railway Clearing House on Thursday, and he was good enough to explain to me the general point of view of the other side, and what their difficulties were. Doubtless, if we could surmount these, and try again at some future date, we might hope to have, in my opinion, a more favourable result.

The subject may well be one for discussion at the Council's meeting at Ipswich next year.—Yours faithfully,

E. ALEX. YOUNG,

Hon. Sec., Central Council.

155, Rushey Green, Catford, S.E.6.

We are informed by Mr. H. Haigh, hon. secretary of the North Notts Association, that in and around Doncaster District the London and North-Eastern Railway Co. are granting return tickets to ringers at single fare on Saturdays only. This is a considerable concession, and ought to open the way to further negotiation.

THE FIRST PEAL AT STOCKTON, SALOP.

On Saturday last the first peal was rung upon the lovely ring of six at the Church of St. Chad, the conductor of St. Chad's, Shrewsbury, being invited to conduct this first peal on them. The Rector (the Rev. T. H. P. Hyett) met the ringers at the end of the performance, as did also some of the local men, who did not take part, and congratulated them on the excellent striking from start to finish. Afterwards, by kind invitation of the Rector and his wife, the local ringers were entertained to a meat tea at the Rectory, and a pleasant two hours were spent in the study. The Rector expressed his appreciation of the services of the ringers, and he was accorded a hearty vote of thanks for his kind hospitality.—The Rector thanked Mr. Lilley for coming over to Stockton for the occasion, he having ridden 18 miles to get there, some part of the journey being over very hilly country. The Rector told the ringers he proposed to have a board erected to record the first peal ever rung at Stockton, and hoped they would soon score another.

These bells were rehung by Messrs. Taylor and Co. about 1890, and the 'go' is perfect.

NOTES BY THE WAY.

THE EVOLUTION OF NAMES.—HISTORY IN TITLES.

By J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

The Rev. Mr. Herbert Drake is, I understand, not at all pleased with me. I have, so it seems, abused the committee, of which he is so distinguished an ornament. I have not played the game, inasmuch as when criticising that committee I said the same thing twice but in different form. But the head and front of my offending is that my criticism has not been constructive criticism; I have not helped the committee. True. Most true. But then I did not intend to help the committee; rather, in fact, I wanted to hinder them, and so far as in me lay, to bring their scheme to naught. Let us grant to the full ('tis but justice) their good intentions and their general abilities; but I have yet to learn that good intentions give a man immunity from error, or that general ability is any adequate substitute for technical knowledge.

The committee tells us that in the naming of methods 'a state of almost indescribable confusion has arisen,' and gives that as the reason for proposing drastic changes affecting the titles of methods past, present, and to come. I totally deny the truth of the statement. When you look at the names used for methods, you will certainly find a lack of any cast-iron system to guide their selection, but could you expect it? or should you wish it?

For more than three hundred years men have been inventing and naming, and ringing new methods, and these names are witnesses to the progress and history of the art. The ancients' ideals in method naming may not be the same as ours are to-day, but they had perfectly good reasons for what they did, and often you can learn a lot by studying the names they used. But of this our committee appears to take no heed.

For instance, the method Mr. Drake uses as an illustration—London Scholars' Pleasure. Apparently to him London is the name of the method, and Pleasure a classification subtitle, as Treble Bob is. Of 'Scholars' he can make neither head nor tail. It is rather brutal to tell him the truth, but I think it ought to be done.

During the seventeenth and early eighteenth centuries a good many ringing societies were formed, and their custom was usually to call themselves Youths or Scholars. Why, I do not know, but there is no reason why they should not have done so if they thought fit.

Among these were the 'Schollers of Clepepyde' (founded in 1603), the Norwich Scholars, the Eastern Scholars, the College Youths (not then ancient), the Union Scholars, the City Scholars, the Cambridge Youths, and the London Scholars. Doleman was a member of this last, and their performances included the first peal of Grandsire Caters, rung at St. Bride's, Fleet Street, on January 17th, 1717: 6,006 Grandsire Cinques on March 14th, 1727, at St. Martin's-in-the-Fields (the first peal on the bells), and 6,204 in the same method at St. Michael's, Cornhill, in 1729. These were three very notable performances, and show that the society included some very skillful ringers.

Exactly what happened to it is not quite certain, but the tradition is that it did not die out, as did the Union Scholars, the Eastern Scholars, and most of the others, but it changed its name, and continues to this day. In 1745 or 6, the Duke of Cumberland returned to London, after the battle of Culloden, which ended the last armed rising in favour of the exiled Stuarts. On his way to the City he passed St. Leonard's, Shoreditch, where the London Scholars were ringing to welcome him. He was pleased with the ringing, and sent and complimented the performers, who were so gratified by the princely condescension that they changed their name, and thereafter became the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths; and so continue to this day.

This was the society, and long before they aspired to Grandsire Caters or Cinques they were, like all the others, six-bell ringers. They had their favourite methods, and one especially, which, if I remember rightly, Doleman composed for them they took so much delight in, that they called it by their own name—London Scholars' 'pleasure.'

That is the history of the methods' name. It takes us back to the early days of the Exercise, and connects us with the men whose heirs we are. But the committee cares for none of these things. They do not understand the name; they think it unsuitable, and would draw a wet sponge across it and all its associations.

Mr. Burton is no happier in his illustration. He is consumed by a zeal for simplicity. When you are in the tower, he tells us, you do not say 'Go Double Norwich Court Bob Major.' You say, 'Go Double Norwich.' And even then there is one word too many; Norwich alone would suffice. Let us then get rid of all these superfluous words, and especially the word 'Bob,' which is ridiculous.

Now I suppose there is no name of a method or any other ringing term which is so eloquent of the life and progress of change ringing as the name of Double Norwich Court Bob Major. Each of the five words stands for an important fact in the history of the art. It took more than a hundred years before the full title was evolved, and each word was adopted to mark the recognition of an important truth.

The first scientific ringing that was practised was the old plain changes, the principle of which is that the bells normally keep the same position, and that individual bells called 'Hunts' were moved among them. This form of ringing, which superficially somewhat resembles modern 'Stoney,' was developed with great skill by Fabian Stedman and other seventeenth century ringers. It was in construction quite as scientific as modern method ringing, but was bound to be monotonous to the ringers other than the conductor, and in due course gave way to 'Cross Peals.' In a 'Cross Peal,' all the bells normally plain hunted, and to get variety and fresh changes, dodging had to be introduced. This dodging was called a bob—why, is pretty obvious. The distinction between the dodging of the method and the called bob did not appear till later. Thus, Stedman tells us that in Grandsire Doubles there are two sorts of bob, one single and the other double, which correspond to what we now call a plain lead end and a bobbed lead end. Now, as the difference between method and method consisted solely in the way and position these dodges or bobs were made, it was natural that men should speak of them and treat them as if they were the method. Thus, the name Grandsire Bob really means that arrangement of dodging, which we call Grandsire; in other words, it really means the Grandsire method.

As ringing developed, it was found necessary for the conductor to tell the ringers when to make some of the dodges; and, to do so, he naturally used the word 'bob,' which is sharp and to the point, and means what it says; but other dodges were none the less bobs, although they were not called. Nor was there any fixed rule as to which bobs should be called, and which understood by the ringers.

In Garthorn's peal of Grandsire Triples, the custom was, in some places at any rate, to call only the Fifth's place bobs, and leave the ordinary Grandsire Third's place bob to the individual ringer. Before the first quarter of the eighteenth century had passed, the present distinction between the dodges, which are the method, and the bobs, which are the composition, had been evolved.

A third use of the word bob survives. This is in the title Treble Bob, which means exactly what it says—a method in which the treble dodges.

So we have three distinct uses of this word; all are directly due to the original and natural use of the term. The word 'bob,' as the equivalent of 'method,' has in quite recent times been restricted to a particular class of method, but this is only carrying out a tendency which has for very long existed. And there is not and never has been any confusion or misunderstanding from this triple use of the word, either in practice or in theory.

When ringers began to practise different methods they naturally began to give them names to distinguish one from another, and like any other people they had various reasons for these names. Some mark the connection of a method with a particular town, as Cambridge Surprise or Oxford Bob. Some were called by the name of the society who first rang them, as College Bob, Union Bob, or London Scholars' Pleasure. Some were merely fancy names, such as 'Phoenix,' or 'What You Please,' or 'Paradox.' Some were descriptive names, such as Grandsire, or Crambo, or Old Doubles. And one of these names was Court Bob, a very good name which I suppose should be included in the fancy names.

Court Bob originally was a six-bell method. In fact, until nearly the end of the seventeenth century all ringing or practically all ringing, was five and six-bell ringing. Stedman has no more than a fairly long paragraph on changes in eight bells, and even this is taken up mainly by explaining how to ring six-bell methods on eight bells with 4-8 behind, or five-bell methods with 7-4-8 behind, 'which has of late been practised by the College Youths, and excellently well performed by them.' But when we get to the eighteenth century ringers are beginning to make use of all the eight bells for changes. What they did was to try and extend the five and six-bell 'peals' to seven and eight bells, as we saw last week; and they had to have some term to distinguish the different numbers of bells. Doubles, of course, would do for five bells, for you had double changes, and Triples for seven. But the first plan of calling six-bell ringing 'Trebles and Doubles' was cumbersome. And now you have a method rung on both six and eight bells. What better way could you have of describing them than to call one 'Minor' and the other 'Major'? 'Royal' for ten bells was to come later, and this was a most happy thought, whosoever it was. Maximus for twelve was fairly obvious.

Court Bob was one of the most popular of six-bell methods, as it deserved to be. So it was natural that when men had accomplished Grandsire Triples, Bob Major and Treble Bob Major, that they should turn their attention to Court Bob on eight bells. But Court Bob Minor, though it is very simple and regular in construction, has no obviously correct extension like Plain Bob or Grandsire or Treble Bob has. Why, we need not now stop to inquire. And so it was that almost every band that tried to produce Court Bob Major got a different method. Three at least were rung. When John Reeves

OPENING OF NORBURY BELLS.

COMPLETION OF GREAT SCHEME IN CHESHIRE TOWER.

A festival week in connection with the dedication of the new ring of eight bells at Norbury, Cheshire, began on Oct. 24th, when the bells and the new chancel, part of a greater church restoration scheme, were dedicated and the chancel consecrated by the Bishop of Chester (Dr. Paget). There was a large attendance of clergy and public. The service itself was an impressive one, and the Bishop's homely address was based upon the words of Haggai, 'From this day will I bless you.' It was an extraordinary happiness to be amongst them that afternoon, he said. St. Thomas's, Norbury, was one of the parishes in which he was particularly interested, for when he first came there he had to appoint a new Vicar of the parish. It was not in his gift, but he was asked to advise, and they would agree that he made a happy choice. From that day forwards he had always been struck with two things: One was that they at Norbury were an extraordinarily united set of people, amongst whom there had never been a suggestion of division or disunion. Another thing was that they were also an extraordinary hard-working and earnest lot of people, who knew how to put their shoulders to the wheel and carry a big business through. It was an extraordinary happiness on coming to dedicate such desirable and beautiful additions to the church as those with which they were concerned that day, to know and feel that they had been given by a people who believed in religion, in the religion of Jesus Christ, and who believed in the Church of England as a true branch of Christ's holy Catholic Church. His Lordship pointed out that there were cases where people had been so bent on building their own houses that they had shown great slackness in providing for the house of God. They had their clubs, their shops, their cinemas and generally two or three public-houses, but sometimes it was a little difficult to find adequate provision in the shape of a church. He supposed it must have been like that in the days of Haggai, and then when the people did begin to build in earnest for God, Haggai was able to say: 'I believe from this day further God will bless you.' In Norbury there had been nothing like neglect; on the contrary, there had been a splendid display of energy, and they had managed to make costly and durable additions to the fabric.

BELLS A GENUINELY CHRISTIAN THING.

Referring to the bells, the Bishop said they had a particular interest for Christian people, because, first of all, they were a genuinely Christian thing. The old heathen religions either had little tinkling bells or clanging cymbals, and it was not until Christian times came that people began to make those bells, which were the genuine ancestors of beautiful bells like their own. It could not be said that whilst completing the new peal they had failed to preserve the old bells. It was not always so, for he had only recently come across a case where, thoughtlessly and carelessly, old bells had been melted down to provide new ones. At Norbury, on the contrary, they had shown a worthy determination to preserve things which had a history and to which old associations clung. His Lordship went on to deal with church bells from different standpoints, beginning with that of their Christian origin and their antiquity. Regarding their value in reminding hearers of the claims of Divine worship, he made reference to Millet's famous picture of the peasants engaged at their field work stopping at the sound of the bells. Wedding bells if they tempted some to think and speak of broken marriage, lost love and ruined homes, were also useful in calling upon them to pray that God's blessing would rest upon those who were entering upon one of the most sacred of undertakings.

In addition to the local ringers, there were present at the service the Rev. C. A. Clements, Master of the Chester Guild; Mr. E. W. Elwell, general hon. secretary; Mr. J. H. Jackman, branch chairman, etc.

A GREAT RESTORATION SCHEME.

There are few instances of church restoration and improvement in which greater courage and enterprise have been shown than in the case of Norbury.

The alterations have included the extension of the chancel; extension of the vestries; repair and the re-slating of the roof; outside pointing; renewal of the windows; removal of the organ from the west gallery; re-seating of the galleries; the installation of electric lighting; decorations throughout; outside painting, and the recasting of four bells and the addition of four new ones, making a peal of eight instead of six.

It is estimated that the total cost will be over £5,000. The amount in hand is £4,700, and it is hoped to raise the remainder by means of the week's festival.

The old bells came originally from Disley Church. Two, now hung in the west porch, date from 1617, and are inscribed: 'Jesus be our speed,' and 'God save the King.' The other four date from 1632, 1748, 1750 and 1837. The oldest of these was recast in 1873. The old and the new inscriptions are as follows:

No. 1.—(Peter Lee, Esq., 1750). Recast 1925, as the gift of the Nonconformists of Hazel Grove. 'Behold, how good and joyful a thing it is, brethren, to dwell together in unity.'

No. 2.—(Peter Lee, Lord of Lime, 1748). Recast 1925. In memory of the men of this parish who gave their lives in the Great War, 1914—1918. 'For God, King, and Country.'

No. 3.—Ringers' Bell, 1925. In memory of Private Herbert Williamson, Loyal North Lancs Regiment, who died December 15th, 1918, aged 38, for many years a ringer at this church.

No. 4.—Dedicated by the Freemasons of Hazel Grove and district. 1925. (Square and compasses). 'Brotherly Love, Relief, and Truth.'

No. 5.—(God save this church. Thomas Legh, Esq., Lyme Park, 1837). Recast 1925.

No. 6.—(All people may behold and see the works of good Sir Peter Legh, 1632, recast 1873). Recast 1925.

No. 7.—Te Deum Laudamus. A thankoffering from the congregation, 1925.

No. 8.—Nisi Dominus Frustra, 1925.

Arthur James Humphreys, B.A., B.D., vicar; Edward Donovan Reeman, B.A., curate; John W. Fernley, John T. Coles, wardens.

MESSRS. TAYLOR'S FINE JOB.

The ringers opening on Saturday brought together a large gathering of members and friends of the Chester Guild. The bells were rung from 3 to 5 p.m., when tea was served in the Schoolroom, to which about sixty sat down. Amongst those present were the Master of the Guild, the Rev. A. T. Beeston (Guild treasurer), Mr. Pryce Taylor, representing the founders (Messrs. Taylor and Co., Loughborough), the Vicar (the Rev. A. J. Humphrey) and curate, and the local company.

Mr. W. Bibby, Frodsham, proposed a vote of thanks to the Vicar for the use of the bells, and complimented the founders on an excellent job.—The Vicar made suitable reply.

The bells were again requisitioned until 7 p.m., when a short service was held in the church, at which an excellent address, in keeping with the occasion, was delivered by the Rev. C. A. Clements.

Further ringing took place on its conclusion.

The whole of the work represents one of Taylor's most up-to-date jobs. The bells hang in two tiers (four and four) in a massive cast-iron frame, built up on rolled steel girders, well grouted into the walls. The bearings are the latest of the ball type, consequently the 'go' leaves nothing to be desired. Bells 7 and 8 have been fitted with Taylor's patent balanced clapper, which prevents the bell clappering wrongly, thus 'rising' the bells is a simple matter. A new two-inch floor has been put in, immediately under the frame, and whilst the ringing room is not too noisy, the hoisted bells can be distinctly heard. All praise is due to the contractors and their hanger, Mr. T. Dexter, who placed the bells in the tower.

and his coadjutors were preparing the 'Clavis,' they found two versions extensively practised, and to distinguish them they called them by the cities where they were rung, Norwich and London. The Norwich version is very much the superior of the other, and I think it likely that if it had been the other way about, the 'Clavis' authors would have given the London version as simply Court Bob, and rejected the other as incorrect.

On ten bells, they say, there is but one correct extension, and they call that Court Bob only. By what argument they persuaded themselves that this is in any way an extension of London Court Major I do not know. The truth seems to be that London had no rival to the Norwich method, which was allowed to hold the field.

Our method is now called Norwich Court Bob Major. One further step had to be made in the evolution of the name. William Shipway is one of the great men of the Exercise. In more than one thing he left his mark in the development of our art. And one of the things he did was to classify methods, and give them in their proper single, reverse and double variations. He was, of course, not the first who recognised these variations. Fabian Stedman had done so; so far as Plain Bob on four bells is concerned, a hundred and fifty years before Shipway's time. And several peals of Reverse and Double Bob and Grandire had been rung in the eighteenth century. But Shipway was the first to recognise it as a general law.

'Norwich Court Bob,' he says, 'being considered an excellent system, and much celebrated in the Double method, the author felt himself under the necessity of reducing it to a regular system conformably to his plan.' What had been called Norwich Court Bob, he now calls Double Norwich, and the single variation, which he introduces for the first time, he calls Norwich Court Bob.

Thus it was that our method got its full title. The 6,720 rung at St. Michael Coslany in 1771 was called Court Bob; the 5,440 rung at Bethnal Green in 1786 was called Norwich Court. So were all the peals rung down to 1817. The 6,000 rung at Gravesend in 1818 was called Double Norwich Court Bob, and so have all the peals rung since.

SUNDAY SERVICE TOUCHES.

We regret that, owing to the demands upon the space available for Sunday Service Touches, we are unable to undertake to insert anything less than a quarter-peal on eight bells and upwards, and 720 of Doubles or Minor. Many correspondents send us quite short touches for publication and they must not be disappointed if we are unable to find room for them.

FARNHAM, SURREY.—On Sunday, November 1st, at St. Andrew's Church, for morning service, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples (1,260 changes), in 49 mins.: H. Prior 1, J. Read 2, C. Wells 3, S. Meadows 4, G. Upshall 5, T. Upshall 6, R. Hasted (conductor) 7, A. E. King 8.—For evening service, 336 in the same method.

PUTNEY, LONDON.—On November 1st (All Saints' Day), for morning service, a quarter-peal of Bob Major, in 46 mins.: C. Moody 1, A. Keeble 2, W. H. Worsley 3, R. Bullen (first quarter-peal in the method) 4, E. Cassel 5, T. Bolton 6, W. T. Elson (composer and conductor) 7, J. Herbert 8. Mr. Keeble hails from Leiston, and was on a visit.

CHIPPENHAM, WILTS.—On Sunday, November 1st (All Saints' Day), at St. Andrew's Church, 832 Double Norwich Major: C. Ambrose 1, E. Truman 2, A. Dale 3, E. Perry 4, S. Wiltshire 5, R. Pearce 6, W. Hulbert 7, F. Lambeth (conductor) 8.

SHOULDHAM, NORFOLK.—At All Saints' Church, on All Saints' Day, for morning service, on November 1st, 720 Bob Minor, in 26 mins.: A. V. Bowen 1, J. W. Porter 2, R. H. Bowen, junr., 3, H. Porter 4, R. H. Bowen, senr., 5, E. Barker (conductor) 6.

NEWPORT, MON.—At All Saints' Church, on All Saints' Day, November 1st, for evening service, a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples (1,260 changes), in 45 mins.: H. Ridout 1, T. Ford 2, G. Day 3, F. Whitfield 4, H. Morgan 5, F. Chapman 6, J. W. Jones 7, A. E. Morgan (conductor) 8.

KILBURN, LONDON.—On Sunday, Oct. 25th, before evensong, at St. Augustine's Church, a quarter-peal of Bob Minor, in 43 mins.: Rev. M. C. Edgar 1, G. A. Margetts 2, E. M. Atkins (conductor) 3, F. G. Saxby 4, Arthur Gardiner 5, W. S. Ball 6, W. Ware 7, H. Nelson 8. All the above are regular service ringers at this church, and this is the first quarter-peal of Minor by a local band on these bells.

ARKSEY, DONCASTER.—On Oct. 25th, for evening service, a quarter-peal of Bob Major (1,344 changes), in 48 mins.: F. Garner 1, G. Clark 2, A. Hall 3, H. Arrand 4, H. Woodhouse 5, H. Walker (conductor) 6, T. Revill 7, H. Trou 8. First quarter-peal in the method by the ringer of the 3rd. Rung as a birthday compliment to the ringer of the 2nd, who is also churchwarden and choirmaster at Arksey Church.

EDGBASTON.—At the Old Church, on Sunday, Oct. 25th, 720 Bob Minor: H. Withers (conductor) 1, G. Pigott 2, F. Price 3, V. Hemus 4, R. Russell 5, E. Rose 6. The ringers wish to thank F. Price for his assistance.

CARDIFF.—On Sunday, Oct. 25th, for evening service, at the St. John-the-Baptist Church, 504 Grandsire Triples: L. Strong (longest touch) 1, F. Smith 2, E. Hunt 3, J. Davies 4, W. Richards 5, E. Coombes 6, A. Parnell (conductor) 7, J. Bovey 8.

MARTOCK.—On Sunday, Oct. 11th, for morning service, 504 Stedman Triples: J. E. Baker (Yeovil) 1, T. Gale 2, F. Strickland 3, F. Farrant (conductor) 4, A. E. Wornor 5, F. Priddle (Langport) 6, F. Sweet 7, A. Alexander 8.

EDGBASTON, BIRMINGHAM.—On Sunday, Oct. 11th, for morning service, at the Church of St. Bartholomew, 720 London Surprise Minor: R. Russell 1, E. Rose 2, G. E. Large 3, V. G. H. Hemus 4, G. Pigott 5, H. Withers (conductor) 6. First 720 in this method by all the band except the conductor.

HILLINGDON, MIDDLESEX.—On Sunday, Oct. 11th, for morning service, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Caters: A. Smith 1, Miss D. Feltham 2, Miss G. Baker 3, F. Corke (first quarter on 10 bells) 4, J. Lucas (first quarter on 10 bells) 5, Miss P. Moss (conductor) 6, G. Gutteridge 7, R. Carter 8, W. Honor 9, F. Smith 10.

EALING, MIDDLESEX.—On Sunday, Oct. 11th, on the occasion of the harvest festival, 720 Bob Minor, in 26 minutes, for morning service: J. H. Burton 1, J. E. Churchill 2, A. M. Stacey 3, J. H. Hunnisett 4, H. J. Hunnisett 5, F. W. Goodfellow (conductor) 6. Also for evensong, a quarter-peal of Plain Bob Major (1,280 changes), in 42 mins.: A. J. Moore 1, J. E. Churchill 2, A. M. Stacey 3, A. H. Fulwell 4, J. H. Hunnisett 5, H. J. Hunnisett 6, F. W. Goodfellow (conductor) 7, A. Harding 8.

CRESSINGTON, LIVERPOOL.—On Sunday, Oct. 4th, at the Church of St. Mary, on the occasion of the harvest festival, 720 Bob Minor: J. Alexander 1, T. Jennion 2, C. Benwell 3, J. Allen, junr., 4, T. Hammond 5, J. Allen, senr., 6. Also, after service, a 720 of Oxford Bob, the band as above, and both conducted by J. Allen, senr.

CRANLEIGH, SURREY.—On Sunday morning, Oct. 4th, for the harvest festival, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples: G. Charman 1, L. Charman 2, L. Warner (first quarter-peal on inside bell) 3, H. Tidy 4, R. Whittington 5, A. Charman 6, H. Charman (conductor) 7, E. Warner 8.

MALLOW, WORCESTER.—On Sunday, Oct. 4th, for harvest festival, morning service, 1,008 Grandsire Triples, in 38 mins.: F. Griffiths 1, T. Lane 2, P. Blissett 3, T. Bullock (conductor) 4, L. Clay 5, J. Bachelor 6, T. Green 7, F. Pugh 8.

HERTS COUNTY ASSOCIATION. EASTERN DISTRICT.

A very enjoyable meeting was held on Saturday, at Ware, members and friends assembling from Cambridge, Sawston, Fulbourne and Gt. Shelford, Cambs, Edmonton, Hertford, Hatfield, Braughing, Cheshunt, Barley, Barkway, Widford, Hunsdon, Naying, Great and Little Munden and Romford, and two of the Ware band were also present.

The Vicar visited the tower, and offered all a very hearty welcome, saying how pleased he was to hear the bells ringing out.

A short service was held, and was well attended, and the address by the Vicar much appreciated. Three hymns were sung, and the services of Mr. Austin, of Shelford, Cambs, at the organ, were a great help.

The tea and business meeting were held afterwards, Mr. G. Paice taking the chair.

Touques in various methods were rung till nine o'clock, and an enjoyable time was spent.

BATH & WELLS DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION. GLASTONBURY DEANERY BRANCH.

The autumn meeting of this branch was held at Street on Saturday, October 31st, when about 20 members were present. Ringing was started in the afternoon prior to the service, which was held in the Parish Church, the Rev. T. O. A. Sellick (curate) addressing the members, the Rev. H. S. Urch (Rector) having been called away owing to the death of his father-in-law.

After service, tea was partaken of in the Star Restaurant, and this was followed by the business meeting.

The Rev. H. S. Lewis (president of the Deanery) moved a vote of sympathy to the Rector, which was carried.

It was agreed to hold the annual meeting in January, at Wells.

Other business having been disposed of, votes of thanks were accorded to the Rector for the use of the bells, and to the curate for addressing the members; to the organist and the local ringers, and to the president for presiding, all of which were carried unanimously.

The members then returned to the tower for further ringing.

TOUR IN ESSEX AND SUFFOLK.

A very pleasant and successful tour was recently spent with Essex and Suffolk friends by a trio from Cambridge. Commencing at Ipswich, on Saturday, Oct. 10th, the arrears of two years ago were wiped off, and the other half with 'That's all,' became an accomplished fact. On Sunday morning, Mr. W. J. Nevard met the party at Manningtree, and ran them round the six bell towers in his trusty Ford. East Bergholt was the first call, to see the famous bells in the cage. Higham, Stratford St. Mary, Stoke-by-Nayland and Nayland were all visited in turn, and 720's brought round at all except Stoke, where time did not permit. Headquarters at Colchester were reached in time for evening service, and touches of Double Norwich and Stedman were rung with members of the St. Peter's Society. On Monday evening, Braintree was visited, and, with Mr. C. H. Howard's good wishes, and assistance of Messrs. Wiffen, Keeble and Saunders, Superlative was attempted, but unfortunately failed to materialise, after ringing 15 courses. On Tuesday evening better luck attended them at Earls Colne, and Superlative came round after various scrapes. Wednesday was gardening day, and apples were in plenty. Alfred was in great form with 'Hints on Gardening,' and W. J. N. should have a bumper crop next year. In the evening, 720's of Oxford, and Cambridge Surprise at Great Bentley and Thorrington respectively passed another day. On Thursday afternoon, the splendid peal of St. Peter's, Colchester, were set going to Cambridge, and after some tribulation, 'That's all' sounded just in time to get off home. Thanks are due to all and sundry for the excellent time, and especially to Mr. W. J. Nevard who so kindly saw the trio in and out of course as regards transport.

ST. MARY-LE-TOWER SOCIETY.

On Saturday, Sept. 19th, the St. Mary-le-Tower Society, Ipswich, had a most enjoyable outing by charabanc, visiting Leiston, Southwold, Lowestoft, Beccles, Bungay, Halesworth and Kelsale. The methods rung were Grand sire and Stedman Triples, Plain Bob, Oxford and Kent Treble Bob, Double Norwich, Superlative, Cambridge and London Surprise Major, supplemented by Stedman Caters and Cambridge Surprise Royal on the grand peal at Beccles. The society greatly appreciated the kindness of the various steepickeepers for having everything in readiness.

KEELE, STAFFORDSHIRE.—On Saturday, Oct. 24th, a peal of Minor, at the Parish Church, was brought to an untimely end by the 2nd rope breaking, after two hours' good ringing: J. Parker 1, J. Matthews 2, J. Brassington 3, G. Crawley 4, J. Addison 5, A. Allman (conductor) 6.

THE COLLEGE YOUTHS.

Year by year the festival of the College Youths grows in importance, both in its representative character and in the style of its celebration. A society with nearly three hundred years of history behind it, with the highest traditions of ringing as its heritage, and holding a position pre-eminent among the associations and guilds of this country, is worthy of a festival which ascends to a level above the ordinary feasting associated with 'annual dinners.' The College Youths, with roots deep in the centuries of the past, ranks in some measure with the old City Guilds, and deserves to do so, for does it not seek to uphold the best traditions of an art which in its execution requires both skill and craftsmanship? It occupies a unique place in the Exercise, and one which gives it not only an exceptional standing, but also exceptional opportunities.

The annual gathering, with which the anniversary of its foundation is celebrated, has long been a most enjoyable event, but more recently features have been introduced which have raised considerably the spirit of the occasion. That this action has been appreciated is manifest in all directions, not least by the fact that there were present last Saturday ringers from no fewer than twenty-two of the forty counties of England, and that the Church of St. Michael, Paternoster Royal, where first the College Youths came into being as a society, was filled by members and visitors for the special service, which was introduced for the first time last year, and serves to demonstrate that the society, doubtless originally constituted and for many years continued as a secular body, is now in practice, if not in constitution, as much a part of church organisation as any association of ringers founded under church patronage. The already high prestige of the College Youths is being steadily enhanced by the policy now being pursued, and, as we have already said, is finding wider and wider appreciation throughout the Exercise.

It is impossible to refer to last Saturday's gathering without brief mention of the almost tragic coincidence which was provided by the death on that very day of the veteran, Mr. Edwin Horrex. There is no space here to pay tribute to his worth, as a ringer and a man—that has been done elsewhere—but it is well that we should think for a moment what his death means by breaking the living link with some of those great exponents of our art of generations ago. Mr. Horrex, in his early days, certainly rang with men who were actively participating in ringing in London at least one hundred years ago, and who, in turn, would have had the acquaintance of such ringers as Shipway, and the contemporaries of

DEATH OF MR. EDWIN HORREX.

'FATHER' OF COLLEGE YOUTHS DIES SUDDENLY.

A LINK WITH THE PAST BROKEN.

The closest link which the Exercise had with the ringers of two generations ago has been severed by the death, which took place at his home at Clapham, London, on Saturday, of Edwin Horrex, the 'father' of the College Youths, who passed away quite suddenly in the course of the morning. Up to within a few hours of his death, Mr. Horrex, despite his great age—he was 87—was enjoying his normal health. On the preceding Sunday he was in his usual place in St. Paul's Cathedral belfry, and, on the treble, actually took part in ringing. He was out during the week when the weather permitted, and on Friday morning was to have met Mr. W. T. Cockerill at St. Michael's, Cornhill, to assist in getting the bells ready for Saturday's ringing. As he did not put in an appearance, Mr. Cockerill visited him in the afternoon, and found that he had actually started out for the city, but had had to return home, as his breathing had troubled him. Mr. Cockerill, however, left him apparently much better and quite comfortable, and the old gentleman remarked that he would be much disappointed if he could not attend the dinner next day. On Saturday he got up as usual, but after breakfast was taken suddenly ill, and expired about ten o'clock.

The news of his death was brought to the city by Mr. Cockerill, and the almost tragic coincidence of the day cast quite a gloom over the members, and especially those of Mr. Horrex's friends who had had the privilege of his intimate acquaintance for so many years. References to his passing were made at the service at St. Michael's, College Hill, and by several speakers in the evening at the dinner, where the company, at the request of the Master, stood in silence for a minute as a token of respect for an old comrade, and of sympathy with the bereaved relatives.

Edwin Horrex was a 'landmark' in London ringing, in which his active connection went back for nearly 63 years, but the link which he formed carries us back a century, for in his early manhood he knew and rang with men who were engaged in the art nearly a hundred years ago. Much of his early ringing in London was with the giants of a past age. Haley, Cox, Banister, Jameson, Stockham, Haworth, Ferris Wood, Lansdell, Muskett, Dwight, Cooter, Pettit, and others, and Ted Horrex (as he will always be affectionately remembered) was able to hold his own with the best of them in the art of ringing a bell. He was schooled in a company that put striking first, and his eye never lost its keen judgment nor his hand its cunning. In his prime, Ted Horrex was one of the finest big-bell ringers in London, and most of the heavy work was shared in those days between him and John Murray Hayes. Indeed, there was a friendly rivalry between them, which was productive of many fine performances. His recollections of those distant days of ringing were always a source of interest, and often of amusement to his many younger friends, for he had a store of reminiscences concerning men who came, left their mark upon the Exercise, and departed before many ringers of the present day were born.

A native of Ipswich, where he was born on Feb. 28th, 1838, Mr. Horrex began his connection with bells by chiming at St. Margaret's Church, where there was then a ring of six, for Sunday services. He learnt change ringing under the tuition of Mr. William Garrard, and in three months rang his first 720 of Minor. Shortly after, he joined the ten-bell band at St. Mary-le-Tower, Ipswich, where he practised Grandsire and Stedman.

In his youth, Mr. Horrex worked at Ransome's foundry in Ipswich, with his father, who was a pattern maker, and a local celebrity as a naturalist. Father and son would go out at nights to obtain specimens of moths, etc., in woods near the town. Afterwards, Mr. Horrex worked for some time at Chelmsford, keeping up ringing there, and in the neighbouring villages. Being out of employment he migrated to London in 1863, and worked for several firms in his trade as carpenter, afterwards going to Broadwood's piano factory, where he remained for many years, until they removed to Bow, E. He next went to Hulbert and Jones, piano makers, in Stockwell Road, and later for some time worked with Mr. E. P. O'Meara, in shop-fitting work.

On migrating to London in 1863, he rang at St. Matthew's, Bethnal Green. It was only in the natural order of things that he should join the College Youths, and this he did in September of the same year. He rang his first peal in London soon after, a peal of Stedman Caters, at St. James's, Bermondsey, and his last exactly 60 years' afterwards, for on October 20th, 1923, he rang the 2nd to a peal of Stedman Cinques at Southwark, at the age of 85 years. This in itself must be almost, if not quite, a record, but in between these two performances he took part in some memorable achievements.

On one occasion he rang the eleventh at St. Michael's, Cornhill, for close upon eight hours in an unsuccessful attempt for a record peal of Stedman Cinques, but in the opinion of many, his finest achievement was when, approaching his 60th year, he rang the eleventh at St. Paul's Cathedral to a peal of Treble Bob Maximus, a task which he undertook in an emergency, and performed with satisfaction to himself and the remainder of the band.

He had rung St. Peter Mancroft, Norwich, and St. Michael's, Cornhill, tenors to peals of Treble Bob Maximus, and he rang peals in all the twelve-bell towers in London except Shoreditch. He had taken part in many long lengths, among them two of 8,448 Treble Bob (one of them on the heavy eight at Spitalfields), and one of 8,896, which on April 27th, 1868, he rang the 6th at Bethnal Green to the famous 15,840 Kent Treble Bob, which occupied 9 hours 12 minutes. So regular was the striking in this peal that each of the three parts was rung in exactly 3 hours 4 minutes, and the striking was as near perfection as ringing can be, the secret of this being that in those days each man always rang the same bell week after week. The Bethnal Green peal stood as the record for some years, and in addition to being the longest length of Treble Bob was the longest peal that had then been rung by one set of men. The band which took part in this peal is worth recalling: Henry Haley (conductor) 1, William Cooter 2, James Pettit 3, Henry Booth 4, R. Hopkins 5, Edwin Horrex 6, Matthew Wood 7, J. Murray Hayes 8. Mr. Horrex was the last survivor of this company, and, curiously enough, while an attempt for a peal was in progress at Bethnal Green on Saturday, the thought occurred to more than one of the ringers, with the peal board in front of them, that 'Old Ted' was the last of the company, little knowing that at that moment he, too, had passed away.

Another memorable peal in which Mr. Horrex took part was at Fulham on November 18th, 1883, when, with Murray Hayes on the 9th and Walter Prime on the tenor, he rang the 8th to the then record length of 11,111 Stedman Caters, in 7 hrs. 12 mins.

Mr. Horrex was one of the band who opened St. Paul's Cathedral bells on All Saints' Day, 1878, and he was the last survivor of that company also. Ever since that time he has been a member of the Cathedral band. He has held an honoured place in the College Youths, of which he was the oldest member, and he was well known to ringers who had visited London from all parts of the country.

The manner of his death was one which he would, no doubt, have wished for himself—he was taken while still in 'harness,' and without lingering on a bed of sickness. His familiar figure will long be missed from London ringing circles, but his example as a painstaking and careful ringer, who made striking his first thought, and punctuality an unfailing principle, will long remain as a pattern to all who come after him.

A RECOLLECTION OF THE 'SIXTIES.'

Mr. G. F. Margetson writes: I regret to hear of the death of our old and respected comrade, Ted Horrex. Perhaps there are now very few ringers who remember him so far back as I do. I was a boy at school, and remember seeing him on the tenor at St. Margaret's, Ipswich, in the early sixties. He would leave the carpenter's bench without discarding his apron, to snatch a pull during the day.

And now he is gone, as many another I remember seeing on the occasion of the opening of the St. Mary-le-Tower's twelve bells, namely, Haley, Dwight, Wood, etc. May they rest in peace!

Men may come and men may go, but the old bells still send forth their tones of joy and sorrow, while younger men shall fill the gap in the ringing circle caused by the decease of such sturdy and good men as Ted Horrex, father of the College Youths.

THE FUNERAL.

The funeral will take place at Wandsworth Cemetery (near Earlsfield Station), to-day (Friday), at 3.30 p.m. At 7 o'clock the 'whole pull and stand' will be rung at St. Paul's Cathedral.

EXETER RAILWAYMEN-RINGERS.

On Sunday, for a special railwaymen's service, at St. David's Church, Exeter, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples (1,260 changes) was rung in 49 minutes by a band, all of whom are employed by the railway companies at Exeter, the ringers of 2nd and 3rd being in the service of the Great Western, and the remainder employed by the Southern Railways. This was their first attempt as a railwaymen's band, and the first quarter for L. G. Wharry: L. G. Wharry 1, J. Hosgood 2, E. B. Biffin (conductor) 3, F. M. Rogers 4, T. G. Bartlett 5, E. M. Sargeant 6, W. Richardson 7, J. Harris 8.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION.*PEAL TABLETS UNVEILED.

The erection of peal tablets in the City of London does not occur very often, and it was, therefore, a rather strange coincidence that two should be unveiled recently on consecutive evenings. The first of these tablets was dedicated on Thursday, Nov. 5th, at the Church of St. Mary-le-Bow, Cheap-side, by the Rector (Preb. S. Gordon Ponsonby). This board commemorates the first peal of Cambridge Maximus rung on these bells by members of the Middlesex County Association and London Diocesan Guild in April, 1922, and it is well worthy of such a fine performance.

The proceedings were opened by the Vestry Clerk (Mr. Trustans), who, on behalf of the churchwardens, welcomed the ringers present, and thanked them for the fine addition to the boards in the belfry.

Mr. C. T. Coles (hon. secretary of the association) then asked the Rector to accept the board, and to dedicate it to the glory of God. The Rev. S. Gordon Ponsonby offered a short prayer, then dedicated and unveiled the tablet. He afterwards thanked the association for their gift, and added that he was very pleased to see such a large number of ringers present. He would also like, he said, to thank Mr. F. E. Dawe, who was with them that evening, as being mainly responsible for two recent additions to the many tablets in the belfry, recording peals of Stedman and Grandsire Cinques rung by the London County Association. The Rector also said how much they all loved the famous bells in that tower, adding that when anybody asked him where he was Rector, he told them that he was Rector of Bow bells.

A very happy and pleasing ceremony was brought to a close by Mr. C. T. Coles, who thanked the Rector for his kindness in permitting them to erect the board, and for attending that evening to dedicate and unveil the same.

A few short touches were afterwards rung, but ringing had to be curtailed owing to the choir practising in church.

The board, which, as already stated, records the first peal of Cambridge Surprise Maximus rung in the tower, has been very handsomely written by Mr. A. W. Coles, and contains the names of those who took part in the peal, as follows: Harold W. Clark 1, George R. Pye 2, Charles T. Coles 3, John H. Cheesman 4, William H. Hewett 5, Albert W. Coles 6, Arthur Mason 7, James E. Davis 8, William J. Nudds 9, Reuben Sanders 10, Thos. Groombridge, sen., 11, William Pye 12, all of whom, with the exception of Mr. J. E. Davis, were present on the evening of the ceremony.

UNVEILING AT ST. MAGNUS-THE-MARTYR.

On Friday, Nov. 6th, the record of a peal in seven Surprise Minor methods, rung some 24 years ago, was dedicated and unveiled at the Church of St. Magnus-the-Martyr, London Bridge, by the Rector (the Rev. H. J. Fynes Clinton). The proceedings were opened with a short service in the very beautiful church, after which a move was made to the belfry, where Mr. C. T. Coles, on behalf of the association, and especially of those members who took part in the peal, requested the Rector to accept and dedicate the tablet.

The latter stated that he did not intend to make a long speech, but would like to welcome the members of the Middlesex Association, and of the Ancient Society of College Youths, who were present. He especially thanked the members of the Leytonstone company for their beautiful gift. He stated that the tablet recorded the first peal of its kind rung in the City of London, and that recently another first peal, Middlesex Surprise Royal was rung in the tower. He reminded ringers of the sacredness of their calling, and ventured to give them some advice. They should, when discussing ringing with the public, always insist that they did not ring only for their own pleasure, but for the glory of God. They should, in short, be missionaries, and in this way they would not only be doing good work for God, but also cause greater love for the bells.

The Rector then dedicated the tablet, and after a prayer the Doxology was sung.

Mr. T. Hervey Beams, now of Bradpole, Dorset, who conducted the peal, thanked the Rev. H. J. Fynes Clinton for his presence there to conduct the service, and for allowing the tablet to be placed in the belfry.

Afterwards, a touch of 240 Spliced Surprise Minor (Chester, Canterbury, Newcastle and Munden) was rung on the front six bells by members of the Leytonstone company, followed by Stedman and Grandsire Caters by the ringers generally.

Amongst the large company present were as many of the Leytonstone ringers as could find it possible to attend, also Messrs. A. A. Hughes, W. T. Cockerill, J. W. Rowbottom, and other members of the Ancient Society of College Youths, and the Rev. F. L. Edwards (secretary of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild), and other provincial ringers who were in London in anticipation of the big dinner of the following evening.

The tablet, which was placed in the belfry, through the efforts of Mr. T. Hervey Beams, and the Leytonstone ringers, is of marble, and records a peal in seven Surprise Minor methods rung on Nov. 18th, 1801, by the following members of the Middlesex Association, and all members of the Leytonstone company at that date: Henry Bottrill 1, William Miller 2, John Mardell 3, William Keeble 4, John Moule 5, T. Hervey Beams (conductor) 6. A footnote states that this was the first peal of its kind rung in the City of London, and that it was rung on the front six bells.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

A band of Mark Masons, taking advantage of the College Youths' gathering in London on Saturday, attempted a peal at Bethnal Green, but unfortunately it came to grief. This was the first attempt for a peal by this branch of the craft.

To ring peals in seventy towers in one county is no mean feat, but the enthusiastic hon. secretary of the Midland Counties Association, Mr. Ernest Morris, has just succeeded in doing this in Leicestershire. The peals have been rung on rings of from five to twelve bells.

Another interesting record which has just reached fruition is that a composition by the Chesterfield Master, Mr. Arthur Knights, has now been rung in every county in England. We fancy, too, that at least one of the band in the peal at Kendal must now be rapidly approaching the completion of a peal in every county. This comes of having no business to interfere with ringing.

Exactly forty years ago next Monday Jasper Whitfield Snowdon died.

The first peal of London Surprise Major was rung ninety years ago next Tuesday. The copy of the record of this interesting performance will be found in 'Notes by the Way' in another column.

The Cumberland Youths, on November 13th, 1797, rang the then longest length of Stedman Caters, a 6,003 at Christ Church, Spitalfields. It was composed and called by John Noonan, but unfortunately proved to be false, although this was not discovered for many years, and the composition was published by Shipway.

On November 13th, 1786, 6,000 Bob Major was rung in four hours at St. Peter's, Nottingham, and on the same day, in 1820, 10,080 New Treble Bob, at Huddersfield.

Thirty years ago, also, on Nov. 13th, the first 'Charles' peal was rung--Grandsire Triples at Bristol.

John Webster, of whom we have recently read in connection with the early peals at Norwich, died suddenly in St. Giles' belfry, Norwich, after having taken part in the first peal of Imperial Treble Bob Major on Nov. 17th, 1760.

The first peal of Grandsire Caters, at St. Martin's, Birmingham, was rung on November 19th, 1758.

Congratulations to Mr. John Austin, of Gloucester, whose 62nd birthday it will be next Thursday.

His many friends were indeed glad to see again at the College Youths' dinner, Mr. Geo. N. Price, after his long and serious illness.

The time of the peal of Cambridge Royal rung at St. Clement Danes, on October 15th, was 3 hours and 23 minutes, and not 3 hours 33 minutes, as stated. The ringer of the 2nd in the peal at Grimsbury on October 27th was George Bennet.

The ringing friends of Mr. F. S. Wilson, of Haddon Lodge, Diss, Norfolk, will be pleased to hear that Mrs. Wilson, who had to undergo a very serious internal operation in a nursing home in Norwich seven weeks ago, is now making slow but satisfactory progress. The many kind inquiries made on her behalf have been much appreciated.

The ringer of the 2nd in the peal of Cambridge at Penn Buck on October 18th was Miss Phyllis M. Moss, not Moore as printed.

THE COLLEGE YOUTHS' FESTIVAL.

REPRESENTATIVE GATHERING IN LONDON.

SERVICE AND DINNER.

One of the largest and most representative gatherings that have ever attended the annual dinner of the Ancient Society of College Youths was present in London on Saturday, when the 288th anniversary of the foundation of the society was celebrated. Nearly two hundred ringers from all over the country assembled, for, in addition to the London and suburban members, there were members and visitors present from more than half the counties of England, from Devon to Yorkshire, from Lancashire to Sussex, from Worcestershire to Essex. Unhappily, the proceedings were clouded by the news that the 'father' of the Society, Mr. Edwin Horrex, who had been looking forward to joining in the festivities, in spite of his advanced age of 87 years, had passed away quite suddenly earlier in the day, and the severance of this last link with a distant past in ringing, left a void which was keenly felt by many of those present.

Early in the afternoon the bells at St. Michael's, Cornhill, were set ringing, and later those at St. Magnus, London Bridge; St. Botolph's, Bishopsgate, and St. Andrew's, Holborn, were brought into use, the provincial ringers especially enjoying the privilege of ringing at these London towers.

SERVICE AT COLLEGE HILL.

Following the custom introduced last year, the members attended a special service at the Church of St. Michael, on College Hill, where in the year 1637 the society was founded. The church was filled almost to the extent of its seating capacity, and the service was conducted by the Rector, the Rev. Canon Bullock-Webster, a special form having been drawn up and printed in an elegantly prepared brochure. In this little booklet, as a frontispiece, is a print of the chased brass plate on the cover of the original Name Book of the Society, which in addition to the design of a tower, which may represent the steeple of the original church, destroyed by the Great Fire of 1666, is inscribed 'College Youths, London, 1637.'

The service opened with the hymn, 'We love the place, O God,' and it was inspiring to hear the building filled with the sound of men's voices singing in unison, led only by the organ. The Creed and prayers followed, and thoughts went again to him who had so recently 'Crossed the Bar,' when the words fell from the Rector's lips, 'Grant, O Lord, that all they for whose passing away from this world the Bells shall sound, may be received into the Paradise of Thine elect, there to find mercy, light and everlasting rest.' The lesson was taken from the 44th chapter of Ecclesiasticus, beginning, 'Let us now praise famous men.' The hymn, 'O God, our help in ages past,' which followed, was again singularly appropriate, for it was a reminder that

'Time, like an ever rolling stream,
Bears all its sons away.'

The sermon was preached by the Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn, Master of the Oxford Diocesan Guild, whose text was 'Study to show thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed,' 2 Timothy ii. 15. These were the words, he said, of one who had grown old in the Ministry of the Lord Jesus Christ to a young friend for whom he had a great affection, and who had comparatively recently entered that same Ministry. He (the preacher) had chosen those words for his text because they concerned more especially Church work. Although it was quite true that the Ancient Society of College Youths could not be called a definite Church Society, founded under Church patronage—indeed, he doubted whether in the days of its foundation any society of its kind was established under the Church—it was a society of churchmen and of men engaged in the service of the Temple, not only in London, but in various parts of the country. In the foundation of the society the idea in the minds of the founders, so far as he could gather by reading what there was to read about them, was the furtherance of something that was worth doing because it was worth doing. When a man took up any work—he did not mind what that work was—in order that it might be further improved and developed because it was worthy of it, then they might say that God had called that man to do that work, because it was in some way to further the Kingdom of God, to build up in some measure the walls of that Kingdom, to add beauty or strength to it. They believed that change ringing was one of these things. They were, as Churchmen, engaged in the service of the Temple, so far especially as it had to do with church bells, and the rendering of music on them in the very best way that was possible. The preacher proceeded to emphasise the fact that it was a very fine thing for a man to be able to show them something—some work—over which he had spent a long time, had taken a great deal of thought and pains, and into which he had put his very best, and it was, he thought, an equally fine thing when a man had done something, which he knew was not as good as it ought to be, to admit the fact—to know that he ought to be ashamed, and not be ashamed to say that he was ashamed. The saddest thing was when a man who had done a thing of which he knew he ought to be ashamed was not ashamed.

SOCIETY OF FINE TRADITION.

To belong to the College Youths was to belong to a society which had a fine tradition, which had come down to them through many generations, and it was in their hands to pass on this tradition to succeeding generations. There were things which had been done in the College Youths—he was speaking now of bell ringing—which would stand as long as ringing stands, which would be taken as an example and a criterion of what ought to be. That did not mean that everyone who belonged to the College Youths was a first-class ringer, and it did not mean that every bit of ringing was good ringing, but he ventured to suggest to them that it was just as foolish and wrong to say about something which they knew was not good enough, that it was good, as to say of something which they knew was good that it was not good. When they had been enabled by the grace of God to take part in something that was good, let them not be afraid to say that it was good, or pretend that as good things could not be done to-day as had been done by those who had gone before them. He believed a lot of young people were discouraged because it was always being drummed into them that what they did was not a patch on what their fathers and their forefathers did before them. When they found that things were well done, and ringing was well done, let them say so, and when they had taken part in something that was not as good as it ought to be, let them admit it. Good ringing took a tremendous amount of attention and thought and care, and they could not always expect to get through without having to be ashamed of some of it. Let them, as College Youths, take St. Paul's message as their motto throughout the coming year. It was perfectly true that when he was preparing what he had had to say to them that evening that he had in his thoughts one certain College Youth, who, he heard, only an hour or so ago, had passed away. He thought of him as a 'workman who needeth not to be ashamed.' He was not going to say more about him except that he would always count it a great privilege to have rung with Edwin Horrex who 'studied to show he was a workman who needeth not to be ashamed.'

The Rector heartily welcomed the society to their own mother church, and called attention to the fact that since their last service there the church had been thoroughly renovated. He pointed out the various features of the decorations, including the wonderful old candelabra hanging in the centre of the church, which is dated 'Birmingham, 1644,' and which has been finely regilded. The whole work, he said, had been carried out at a cost of over £600.

The closing hymn was 'Now thank we all our God,' and the offertory was devoted to the Church Restoration Fund.

THE DINNER.

The members proceeded to the London Tavern, Fenchurch Street, where the large gathering sat down to a splendidly served repast, under the chairmanship of the Master (Mr. Percy E. Clark). He was supported by Canon G. F. Coleridge (President of the Central Council), the Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn, the Rev. J. H. Ellison (Rector of St. Michael's, Cornhill), Canon Bullock-Webster, the Rev. H. J. Fynes Clinton (Rector of St. Magnus), the Rev. Gordon Pensonby (Rector of Bow), the Rev. E. C. Bedford (Rector of St. Andrew's, Holborn), the Rev. B. E. Simpson (Rector of Stepney), Mr. A. J. Wright (hon. treasurer of the Oxford Diocesan Guild), the Rev. F. L. Edwards (hon. secretary, Salisbury Diocesan Guild), Mr. W. Skinner (Dean's Verger, St. Paul's), Mr. J. F. R. Stainer (son of the late Sir John Stainer), Mr. B. Carter (Churchwarden of St. Mary Abbots, Kensington), etc. The vice-chair was taken by Mr. R. T. Hibbert, and among the company were Messrs. W. Hibbert and C. W. Roberts (stewards of the society), A. A. Hughes (hon. treasurer), W. T. Cockerill (hon. secretary), C. F. Winney and Walter Prime (trustees), H. Parsons (Ealing), now the oldest member of the society, J. H. Matthews (Master, Royal Cumberland Youths), J. D. Drewett, J.P. (Master of the Surrey Association), C. Dean (hon. secretary), C. T. Coles (hon. secretary, Middlesex County Association), J. T. Dyke (hon. secretary, Ball and Wells Diocesan Association), C. F. Johnston (Croydon), Pryce Taylor (Loughborough), Major J. H. B. Hesso, Major Yorke, Messrs. T. H. Beams, W. Northover and E. Bishop (Salisbury Guild), W. J. Nevard and D. Elliott (Essex), P. Crook, F. Cutsforth and C. Sharples (Lancashire Association), S. Palmer (Shelfield), J. F. Smallwood (Derby), J. E. Groves and H. Withers (St. Martin's Guild, Birmingham), W. J. Jefferies, F. M. Mitchell, F. A. Mitchell and H. Haigh (Kent County Association), F. W. Rogers, A. H. Pulling, C. H. Dobbie, E. and W. R. Melville (Winchester Guild), Mrs. R. J. Wilkins, and Messrs. W. A. Cave, G. H. Jennings, J. A.

Burford, W. Knight, H. Pring and C. Gordon (Bristol), T. King, A. Prince, G. Harding (Bath), H. Rodgetts and W. J. Hazell (Herts County Association), K. Hart (Brighton), G. Bowen (Ilfracombe), G. N. Price, E. C. Goldsmith, J. S. Goldsmith, E. P. Duffield (Alton), G. Hoad (Reigate), J. Wyatt (Ashted), E. F. Poppy (Eye), etc., the members in and around London being also strongly represented.

Prior to the news of the death of Mr. Horrex having been received, his chair had been reserved for him, and the place remained vacant throughout the evening.

'THE CHURCH.'

At the conclusion of the repast, the loyal toast was honoured, and the Master submitted the toast of 'The Church.' They as church bell ringers, he said, formed an important branch of the Church. They undertook a voluntary service, for the glory of God, and they were as stewards of the House of God. He thought that they sometimes did not take their work as seriously as they ought to do. They often heard it said that they took up bell ringing as a hobby. Was that all? Was it only a hobby? The bells were placed in the churches for the purpose of calling people to worship and thanksgiving in His House. He did not think they always fully realised that, and he urged the importance of ringers taking their place in church after they had finished ringing. If they did so they would get to know the clergy better. He advocated all ringers joining the C.E.M.S. as a means of coming into closer contact with the clergy. He pleaded for earnestness in their work and the setting of a high example to the younger men among them who were taking up the art of bell ringing. He could not close, he said, without a reference to him who had gone from them that day. No more would they see his face in the tower. He had been an example to all of them, an example which he hoped they would all try and follow so that when their time came, he, in whose service they now were, would be able to say to them, as he thought He was able to say of Mr. Horrex, 'Well done, thou good and faithful servant, enter thou into the joy of the Lord.'

Canon Bullock-Webster, who responded to the toast, emphasised the fact that the Church did not consist merely of the clergy, and it did not consist merely of the Church of England, it consisted of the churches all the world over that were united in the faith of Christ. He saw in the divisions of opinion in the Church at home, evidence that the Church was moving, and a church that was moving was a church advancing, and a church advancing was surely doing its work faithfully. Let them not, therefore, be discouraged by the controversies that were going on. The speaker referred to the great joy it was to him to welcome the society to St. Michael's, and said that whenever they chose to come they would find a cordial and hearty welcome (applause). The Master, concluded Canon Bullock-Webster, had referred to that rather nasty point, the disposition of some ringers to slip away from church after calling others to services. That did not, of course, apply to members of the College Youths (laughter), but possibly they might know others to whom it did apply. It reminded him of the old lines:—

Do not ring and run away, leaving other folks to pray.

THE LATE MR. HORREX.

Canon Coleridge said it was with very mingled feelings that he rose to propose the time-honoured toast of 'The Ancient Society of College Youths.' If he were to consult his own feelings he would have asked them to receive it in silence, because of the great blow that had fallen on them that day in the death of their dear old friend, Ted Horrex. 'I honoured him as a man,' continued Canon Coleridge. 'I loved him as a friend. It is forty-five years since I first met him at the meeting-house at St. Saviour's, Southwark, after ringing at the Cathedral. I sat between him and Mr. Murray Hayes, and there were present, among the others, Mr. James Pettit, Mr. George Mash, Mr. George Muskett and Mr. Jimmy Dwight. There were many others that I cannot now remember, but from that day to this Ted Horrex has always had a very affectionate place in my heart, and I shall always hold him in grateful and affectionate remembrance (applause). Turning to the toast, Canon Coleridge said they had not been able to come there that day with cheap fares, but the Central Council has done its best and the different associations and guilds have also done their best, but they have got a reply from the Clearing House that the companies cannot see their way to let ringers travel at reduced fares. Some of the younger members might not remember that the Council tried years ago to get cheap fares. They interviewed the Clearing House, but not only would they not give them the permission which they had given to golfers and fishing clubs, but they took away the privileges to the fishing clubs as a result of the representations made to obtain cheap fares for ringers (laughter). But they had a friend at court, and perhaps his gentle persuasiveness might do a great deal in a quiet way to bring these people to a better frame of mind. They had to face tremendous competition in the buses, and they would have to consider providing cheaper facilities for travellers, and the Council were determined to see that ringers were among the first in that category (applause).

'TIBBY'S FANCY.'

It must be nearly fifty years ago, continued Canon Coleridge, when I used to ring in Devonshire—where they taught me to strike, if they didn't teach me anything else—and we used to ring the thirty Doubles from cards on the floor (laughter), and also a certain method called 'Tibby's Fancy' (laughter). To the best of my recollection this consisted of each bell hunting up from the front to behind, until the original bell came to the front again. Those who could do that were considered 'somebody.' When we finished ringing one night an old fellow came over to me and offered me the tail end of the fifth bell rope, saying, 'Sir, I am getting old; my time won't be much longer here. Before I go I should like to hand over this fifth bell to you as you are the only man living besides myself that can do her justice' (laughter). I think the time has come when, as I am getting old, I should hand over this toast of the College Youths to somebody else who could do far greater justice to it ('Never'). What we have read lately on spliced methods is a vast advance on 'Tibby's Fancy.' I suppose everybody has read the wonderful work of Mr. Fidler in making everything plain to us in Spliced Minor methods, but what interested me deeply was this: I always pay the greatest attention to what Mr. E. H. Lewis has to say on mathematical matters, and Mr. Lewis has shown us something of what this spliced method ringing really means. Taking peals of seven 720's you can make them up with the 35 methods in no less than 8,800,000 combinations, and more than that, if you started to ring the whole of the extents, at the rate of eight peals a day, occupying three hours each, it would take a band of College Youths, or any other ringers, something like 15 million years to ring them. That is a great advance on 'Tibby's Fancy' (laughter). I am delighted to know that Mr. Fidler's work is going to be printed in book form; it will be of vast interest and vast use to six-bell ringers, and perhaps eight-bell ringers as well.

THE 'THREATENED SUPPRESSION.'

Speaking of Mr. Lewis, I am reminded of another Mr. Lewis, who has flung a bombshell. He is going to take an office in London and have a committee and work a Bill through Parliament for the suppression of bell ringing (laughter). If he does, he will get a very hot time of it. 'We are not going to be put down in that kind of way. Some people might look with trepidation on the prospect of being stopped from ringing. Let them take courage, because we all know that when the National Assembly (Powers) Bill came into force, it was through one of our clerical bell ringers of the National Assembly, who saw that it was proposed to put ringers under the control of parochial Church Councils, that an alteration was made to retain the control in the hands of the parish priests (applause). I think we shall be in similarly safe hands in Parliament. Only last September I happened to go to a district meeting of the Devonshire Guild, while on my holiday, and cycled many miles over hills to it. I looked in at the belfry door, and there I saw what looked like an extremely familiar figure. I looked at him again, and saw it was the son of his father, exactly like him in face and in the way in which he handled his rope. I said, 'I am delighted to see you taking your part here.' He was a busy Member of Parliament taking a rope in ringing six-scores of Grandsire; he was Col. Troyte, son of the late Colonel C. A. W. Troyte (applause). In him we have a very good friend in Parliament, and if such a Bill comes before Parliament I think we can trust ourselves safely to him. If such a Bill comes in, I can guarantee that Col. Troyte gets a letter from me, and I guarantee he gets letters from hundreds of his constituents in Devon. He will be bombarded with letters from people throughout the country with reference to this iniquitous proposal, and he will get other Members to take an interest, and the Bill will be thrown out with ignominy (laughter and applause). Just as we had a friend who saved us in the National Assembly, so we have a friend in Parliament who will help us if any difficulty should occur (applause). In conclusion, Canon Coleridge said it was the wish of them all that the College Youths would go on and prosper, as they had done in the past. They would not fail in this so long as they had such good officers as they had had for many years past, and the leading spirit was Mr. Cockerill (applause). They all regarded him as the 'father,' although he was not so old as some of the rest of them, but they looked to him to carry on the great work which the College Youths were doing (applause).

The toast was enthusiastically honoured, and a course of Stedman Cinques was then rung on handbells.

Owing to pressure on our space this week, a lengthy reply by the Rev. H. Drake to Mr. J. A. Trollope's Notes of last week, is unavoidably held over until our next issue, as are also some other items of news.

NOTES BY THE WAY.

HENRY HUBBARD AND SOME NOTABLE NORWICH PEALS.

By J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

It is much to be regretted that none of the Norwich ringers of the eighteenth century published a book. We should have, no doubt, learnt a good deal of a very interesting period of the history of the Exercise. And such a book was nearly written. The tale goes that when Jones and his fellows were collecting material for their book, Thomas Blackmore, the junior partner, went down to Norwich to gather information. He stayed with Christopher Lindsay, and found that his host also had got together material for writing a book. He quietly stole the papers, took them back to London, and, in due course, they were used in 'The Clavis.' That is the Norwich version of the story, which comes to us by way of Mr. Ellacombe.

The London account, if we had it, would no doubt be very different. But there is evidently some truth in the story. What more natural than that the authors of 'The Clavis' should go for material to Norwich, the only place where there were ringers the equals of the London men? And there are several things in 'The Clavis' which did come from Norwich by one way or another. Probably in any case Lindsay's book would not have appeared. It takes more than intention and the collecting of material to make a book. More than one ringer has had the intention and collected material, and nothing came of it at the finish. The great Benjamin Annable was going to publish a book, and it is a loss to the Exercise that he did not. His manuscript which is in the British Museum is evidently a draft of what he intended to print, so far as Minor methods are concerned. The references to Major and Triple ringing are more fragmentary and haphazard, are far less carefully written out; and probably he never got so far as to begin to arrange that part of his book.

Anyhow, Lindsay's book came to naught, and Norwich had to wait for two generations before she produced her one and only ringing author. This was Henry Hubbard, a man who, though not quite of the first rank, has yet earned an honourable position in the history of ringing, and deserves to be remembered for a few minutes.

Henry Hubbard was born at Norwich on Tuesday, August 25th, 1807, the son of William and Ann Hubbard. He began to ring in his sixteenth year, serving his apprenticeship in the five and six-bell towers of the city. The headquarters of ringing were, of course, at St. Peter Mancroft, but that was not the place to learn in, nor would a beginner get a chance to ring there till he had proved his capacity elsewhere. There was, however, a good deal of ringing in the other towers, especially round about Christmas time, and the young man speedily made his way. In two years he was good enough to be elected a member of the Norwich Scholars, and in 1829 he secured his place in the company, the favoured twelve, who shared all the privileges (including the pay for ringing), and took precedence of all other ringers in the city.

For a young, capable, and ambitious ringer, the time could hardly have been more favourable. One of the best bands Norwich ever had was then in its early prime, and in Samuel Thurston they had, as leader, the man who is usually reckoned the foremost ringer the Norwich Scholars ever produced. Hubbard's first peal was on Oct. 28th, 1827, at Aiburgh, a small village near Redenhall. This was 6,680 of Oxford Treble Bob, conducted by Thurston. In the same year he rang in 5,120 of the same method on handbells. Double-handed ringing was one of the things in which Thurston excelled. In those days it was a very rare accomplishment, and when, in 1831, four of the Norwich Scholars rang J. P. Powell's half peal of Stedman Triples 'in hand,' they considered, and quite rightly, that they had done something very much out of the ordinary. This half-peal and a quarter-peal are recorded by stone tablets in Mancroft belfry. Henry Hubbard rang 3-4. Oxford Treble Bob was then and for many years later the standard eight-bell method in Norwich, and all Hubbard's early peals were rung in that method. In 1831 the Norwich men rang 6,160 of Double Norwich Court Bob Major at Colney, 'which,' to quote the peal board, 'by reason of the intricacy of the composition might be properly called a performance of first-class eminence, and with respect to the superiority of the striking it was no less worthy of notice. The utmost regularity being retained from beginning to ending, which included an interval of 3 hours and 45 minutes. It was composed and expertly conducted by Mr. Samuel Thurston.' Hubbard rang the fifth to this peal.

The next year at the same church he first figures as a conductor calling John Reeves's 5,280 of Oxford Treble Bob, and in the same year he called 6,720 of the same method at St. Giles'. This peal had the one hundred and twenty course ends, and was his own composition. Then followed three very remarkable peals: 6,000 Double Oxford Bob Major, 5,376 Superlative Surprise Major, and 5,280 London Surprise Major. The first and third were the first peals ever rung in these two methods: the Superlative was the second ever rung, the first having been accomplished in Yorkshire. These peals are recorded by two boards both in St. Giles' tower:

On March 9th, 1832, was rung a complete and true peal in this steeple, comprising 6,720 changes of Oxford Treble Bob, in 3 hours and 53 minutes. The production has the peculiarity of the one hundred and twenty course ends. It was composed and conducted respectively by Mr. Henry Hubbard, and rung by the following persons:

Also on July 6th, 1832, was rung an excellent peal, consisting of 6,000 changes of that intricate double method of Oxford Bob in the space of 3 hours and 57 minutes, conducted by Mr. Samuel Thurston, and rung by us situated in the following order:—

|                                  |                              |

On February 6th, 1835, was rung in this steeple 5,376 changes of that intricate method, Superlative Surprise; this great achievement was perfectly completed (at the first attempt) in 3 hours and 16 mins., and was rung by the following persons:—

|                             |                             |

Also at St. Andrew's in this city, on November 17th, 1835, was rung 5,280 changes of London Surprise, the most difficult system in the art of campanologia. This insurmountable task was accomplished in 3 hours and 24 minutes. The bold and regular striking of both peals must ever reflect great credit on the company; they were conducted by S. Thurston, and are the first peals ever rung in the above variations:—

St. Giles' Church stands in one of the most prominent parts of the city, and its large and lofty tower on the crest of a hill is a conspicuous object from all sides. The bells are a mixed lot, some are Pre-Reformation, with very interesting black letter inscriptions. The present tenor (about 14 cwt.) is a Warner bell, and replaced a very old bell which was cracked in 1869.

At the time these peals were rung, the ropes, as at St. Andrew's, hung out of proper order. A good many years ago the bells were rearranged in the old frame, and the circle is now back-handed. The bells have been in a bad condition for many years, and are practically unringable. A few years ago, when I visited it, the belfry was in a neglected and filthy condition. The peal boards are high up on the walls in a bad light and except in favourable conditions hardly readable.

It is very noticeable how so many of the Norwich peal boards lay great stress on the quality of the striking; and good striking was one of the principal things on which the old Norwich Scholars prided themselves.

All these peals were rung by practically the same band. It seems that Thurston had got together just eight or nine first-class men, but no more. And this may be the reason why with the magnificent twelve at Mancroft at his disposal no peal of Cinques or Maximus was rung. St. Peter's, of course, had its full company, and the ringing there would be good; but probably some of the men were the survivors of Chestnutt's Band that rang the 5,016 of Double Norwich Maximus in 1817. They would keep their places in the company, for that was practically a life tenure, but they would feel they had done enough peal ringing, and it would be difficult—in fact, impossible—to ring peals without them.

In 1831 a peal of Stedman Cinques was started for, but Thurston made some mistake in the calling, and the bells came round in 4,885 changes. Probably he missed a bob at 19, and so cut two courses. It was not till 1844, when the older men had died off, that a peal was rung on the twelve.

PETERBOROUGH DIOCESAN GUILD.

A quarterly meeting of the Daventry Branch was held at Dodford on Saturday, and, in spite of the unfavourable weather, a goodly gathering was present. Mr. F. Wilford (Master of the Guild) presided, supported by the Rev. J. W. Strong (Vicar of Dodford), Mr. W. T. Wilson (Guild treasurer), and members from the following bell-fries: Daventry, Northampton, Isham, Flore, East Haddon, and the local ringers. During the afternoon and evening, several touches were rung, including Grandsire, Stedman and Treble Bob. The Guild form of service was taken by the Rev. J. W. Strong, assisted by Mr. F. Wilford, and the Vicar gave a very able address.

After tea, the usual vote of thanks was passed, and it was decided to hold the next meeting at Weedon on Saturday, Jan. 23rd.

CATHEDRAL PEAL DEDICATED.

The new ring of ten bells, which Messrs. Gillett and Johnston have made for Manchester Cathedral were dedicated on Tuesday, at an impressive service, and to-morrow there is to be a large gathering of ringers for the 'ringers' opening.'

Of the ten bells which the new peal replaces, eight of them were originally cast by Abraham Rudhall in 1706, the sixth having been recast by Abel Rudhall in 1749. The trebles also came from Rudhall's foundry, having been cast in 1825 by John Rudhall.

The history of the Cathedral bells, however, goes back a long way before 1706. The upper part of the tower was built in the fifteenth century, and a new set of bells presented by Warden Langley, and in addition to these five bells there was in the steeple in 1552 'one litill bell belonging to the said piche (parish) church of Manchester.' Warden Langley (1465-1481) was also Rector of Prestwich, and in addition to giving a new ring of bells to Manchester gave a similar benefaction to Oldham. In 1659 the churchwardens and overseers assessed a tax 'off the sum off threescore and Ten pounds for the Repaire off the Parish Church walls leades Roofe Casting off A Bell and other necessary Repaires.' With this exception Langley's peal apparently survived until 1679, in which year the condition of the bells and the church generally was so serious that the churchwardens, meeting on the 18th August and considering the decayes of the Church & the Bells one Beinge Burst & the rest not tuncable, And Agreeing to cast them being five into six, the repaire of the leades, the windowes, the floores and other its appurtenances Did conclude and Agree of five Church layes towards repaireing thereof and casting the said Bells into Six.'

The work of recasting the old peal of five and adding a new one was entrusted to William Noone, a bell founder, of Nottingham, who had been foreman to the celebrated firm of Oldfield. He, however, did not make a very satisfactory job of the bells. The fifth 'burst' about 1702 or 1703. In 1705 the fourth gave out, and a little later the tenor 'burst.' The result was that it was decided to have the peal recast, and encouraged by an offer on the part of 'the town of Manchester to advance over and above their quotas of Church-wardens, £100 to provide two additional bells,' the wardens ordered a peal of eight, and gave the contract to Abraham Rudhall, of Gloucester. In connection with this transaction, it is interesting to note that an exchange of bells was effected with Didsbury. This parish gave its broken bell metal and a substantial sum in cash, in exchange for some of the sound bells remaining from the old Manchester ring. With the recast 6th of 1794 and the additions made in 1825, Abraham Rudhall's bells did duty for over two centuries, and the spirit which was manifested in the gift which enabled two trebles to be added in 1706, can be seen in the munificent gifts of private donors for the restoration of 1925.

The inscriptions on the bells are:—

Treble.—I. R. Fecit. R. Smith, B. Townner, R. Ormrod, C. Wardens, 1825. I was recast in 1925 by W. E. Bramall, Churchwarden, 1897-1898.

No. 9.—1706. A.R. Tho. Garnet, Fran Beswick, Abra Clegg, George Richardson, C.W. I was recast by several Directors and Members of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce, 1925.

Tenor.—I was recast at Gloucester at the expense of the Parish, 1815. Thos. Salter, Josiah Kearsley, Thos. Brierley, Churchwardens. I was recast as the gift of Chas. Macintosh and Co., Ltd., of Manchester, in commemoration of the 100th anniversary of the Foundation of the Firm, 1824-1924.

Messrs. Gillett and Johnston have tuned the new bells on the five-tone Simpson principle, and a special patent 'clapper control' has been attached to the tenor bell. This device is designed to release the clapper from direct contact with the bell immediately after striking, and very greatly improves the general musical effect—particularly when attached to the tenor bell, the keynote of the peal. The weight of the tenor is 27½ cwt., note 'D,' and the total weight of the peal is 115 cwt. The bells are hung on ball bearings in the old oak frame, but with new fittings throughout.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

Chipping Norton Deanery Branch autumn meeting was held at Kingham on Saturday last. Ringing commenced early in the afternoon, and service was held in the Parish Church, when an excellent address was given by Canon Nolloth, D.D. Tea was provided in excellent style at the Women's Institute, cordial thanks being given to the members by the 47 ringers present.

A short business meeting followed, presided over by the Rev. W. J. Palmer (chairman of the Deanery Branch).—The Secretary (Mr. W. J. Keyte) read a letter from the Master of the Guild (the Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn, M.C.), wishing success to the meeting.

Enstone was selected for the annual spring meeting. Mr. Harry Miles gave a report upon the progress of the Washbrook Memorial work, which is now nearing completion.

Further ringing was afterwards indulged in, when several young ringers rang their first touch of Triples, and this ended a most successful meeting, at which every tower in the Deanery was represented.

SUFFOLK GUILD.

SAXMUNDHAM DISTRICT AT LEISTON.

A meeting of the Saxmundham District was held at Leiston on Saturday, Oct. 24th, and was attended by upwards of 50 members from eleven towers. Touches of Stedman Triples, Bob Major, Double Norwich, Kent Treble Bob Major, Superlative, Cambridge, London and Bristol Surprise Major were rung, some of the visitors ringing their first touch of Bristol Surprise. At the invitation of the Rector (the Rev. F. W. Morgan Jones), all adjourned to the Junior Council Schools, where a bountiful tea had been provided by a band of ladies. At the removal of the cloth, cigarettes were handed round, and a short business meeting was held, at which one new member was elected.

A pleasant hour was spent with songs and handbell ringing, and a vote of thanks to all who helped to make the meeting such a success, was proposed by Mr. C. F. Bailey, seconded by Mr. G. Wilson (district secretary), and responded to by Mrs. Adams, wife of the churchwarden.

A further visit was paid to the tower, where ringing was kept up to a late hour, and the most successful meeting held in the district was brought to a close.

VETERAN TENTERDEN RINGER DEAD.

We regret to have to record the death of Mr. George Neve, one of Tenterden's oldest ringers, who passed away on Tuesday, Oct. 26th, at the age of 77 years. Deceased had been a member of the Kent County Association ever since its formation, and had rung several peals of Bob Triples, Grandsire Triples and Stedman Triples, and, being a man of weighty build, was always found at the heavy end.

He was laid to rest in Tenterden Cemetery on Saturday, Oct. 31st, and as a token of sympathy and esteem a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples was rung with the bells muffled: Mrs. H. Baker 1, R. Edwards 2, A. C. Thay 3, C. Tribe 4, H. Baker 5, K. Pattenden 6, W. Wenban 7, M. Holdstock 8. Also a 504 in the same method: Mrs. Baker 1, G. Cramp 2, H. Baker 3, R. Edwards 4, C. Tribe 5, K. Pattenden 6, W. Wenban 7, A. Buttin 8.

DEATH OF MR. T. ALLIBONE.

The death occurred on November 5th, of Mr. Thomas Allibone, of North Wingfield, who was for many years secretary and later president of the East Derbyshire Association. The bells will be rung muffled at most of the churches in the association on Sunday morning next.

NOTABLE BELL RESTORATIONS.

Two notable bell restorations were completed last week. At Carlisle Cathedral the bells were heard again after a silence of 180 years, and at Manchester Cathedral a new ring of ten bells was opened, and it is doubtful whether ringing annals have any parallel of the dedication of two Cathedral peals within so short a space of time. The case of Carlisle has been unique. It is traditionally held that the last time these bells were rung was when Bonnie Prince Charlie entered the city in 1745, and we know of no other instance where, from neglect or any other cause, a ring of eight bells has lain idle and silent for so protracted a period. Whether or not there was any truth in the tradition that a 'ban' was placed upon them for the part they played in the welcome to the young Stuart, it is remarkable that indifference to the condition of the bells should have so long existed that nearly two centuries should have been allowed to pass before their restoration was taken in hand. We hope, now that the bells are once again in order, that the Cathedral will become a centre of change ringing in a county where the art has but a precarious foothold, and where the Cumberland Association is endeavouring under great difficulties, with few opportunities and little chance of outside assistance, to 'keep the flag flying.'

At Manchester the circumstances are vastly different. Here, in the centre of great ringing activity, a new peal of ten has replaced one which served its day and generation, and has had now to give place to something more worthy of the mother church of an important diocese. It is somewhat singular that Lancashire, considering its populous nature, is so poorly off for rings of ten bells. Sixes and eights it has in plenty, and it has its share of twelves—for three in one county is a fair average for this larger number. But with peals of ten the County Palatine is ill provided. There are, we believe, only three. Blackburn has a light peal, with tenor about 15 cwt., Manchester Town Hall has a heavy peal with a tenor of 52 cwt., and the only other ten is Manchester Cathedral, where, for the old 25 cwt. ring, there has been substituted one with a tenor of 27½ cwt., of more than average excellence of tone, and so well hung that only the slightest physical effort is necessary to ring them. These bells should prove of great advantage to Lancashire, both from the fact that they are of medium weight and are situated in a city so easy of access. The interest which the ringers of the county are already taking in them was manifested by the large number who, last Saturday, availed themselves of the opportunity to 'try' the bells. In recent years the bells in the cathedrals of the Province of York have received 'considerable attention. Apart from the augmentation to twelve at Newcastle just before the war, Sheffield and Durham have been restored, the restoration of Carlisle and Manchester is now complete, and the great renewal at York, where the new peal of twelve is to have a tenor of 60 cwt., is well in hand. This is indeed a record of progress which ringers throughout the country can ponder on with gratification.

HISTORY: ANCIENT AND MODERN.

A REPLY TO MR. TROLLOPE.

It is clear that Mr. Trollope is very angry with me for saying that it was not fair for him to say twice (in the same form) what he had been shown was incorrect. Like an organism which shall be nameless, he covers his retreat with a plentiful supply of ink, intended, of course, to hide his own movements from his pursuers, but which, unfortunately, for him, also prevents him seeing his own way about clearly. Or to change the metaphor, he cannot see the wood for trees, and often is found wandering in the opposite direction to that which he intends to follow. Still, as he truly says, he has 'yet to learn that good intentions give a man immunity from error, or that general ability is any adequate substitute for technical knowledge.'

The technical knowledge which Mr. Trollope on this occasion is displaying, is that of history, and of the history of ringing terms. As this appears, to use his own expression, to be inadequate, I propose to supplement it with some items of my own.

In order to show us how unprecedented a thing it would be to change the name of the 'London Scholars,' he tells us the history (of which he rashly assumes that I am ignorant), of the change of name of the society. Apparently he thinks it a good thing to change the name of the society, but a crime to suggest the change of name of the method.

Now it would be too cruel to quote the well-known lines:—

Teach not a parent's parent to extract
The embryo juices of an egg by suction:
The good old lady can the feat enact,
Quite irrespective of your kind instruction.

But I will now give an item, which Mr. Trollope may, perhaps, add to the history of the society, of which he is so distinguished a member.

A quarter of a century ago, or more, as a result of some articles I wrote for 'Bell News,' on this very subject of Nomenclature, I received the unprecedented honour of being elected a member of the Royal Cumberlands, and of the College Youths, on the same night. I had to choose which honour I would accept, and it was because of this change of name as an act of sycophantic adulation to the 'Bloody Butcher' (whose character I hate more than any other in history) that I decided to decline the kindness of the Cumberlands, much as I should have otherwise preferred it.

If Mr. Trollope's argument has any value, we ought to call the method 'The Cumberlands' Pleasure,' or 'The Butcher of Culloden's Pleasure,' or even 'Bloody Butcher's Pleasure.' This latter has a fine full-mouthed flair about it, that would have commended it to conductors in the noisy belfries of olden time.

But the real lesson which history here teaches, is that some people, when they have found a good name, are foolish enough to change it for a bad one. Apparently Mr. Trollope approves of this, but he does not want any unsuitable names changed for the better.

Incidentally, Mr. Trollope shows quite clearly that I was right in speaking of 'London Scholars' Pleasure,' not as any of the things he says I wrote, but as a description, and not a name.

Mr. Trollope is so fond of labouring the obvious that he sometimes misses even obvious things altogether. Thus he says he does not know why certain societies called themselves 'Youths' or 'Scholars.' I would suggest that they so called themselves because they were Youths or Scholars. And, further, their choice of those modest names indicates that even in those early days there were older men, who, as to-day, insinuated that they only knew everything, and that it was no use such beginners attempting to assume 'that general ability is any substitute for technical knowledge.'

Another omission to elaborate the obvious is when he declines to tell us why dodging was called a 'bob.' May I here supplement his 'technical knowledge'? Ringers often see the bob of a church clock pendulum swinging, and when it appears and disappears from behind some obstruction, its motion is very similar to that of a bell dodging.

But there is a more serious instance of 'inadequate technical knowledge' in Mr. Trollope's account of what was a 'Bob.' He gives a correct account of 'Plain Changes,' and of 'Cross Peals,' except that he says that Stedman developed the former. A statement so unlikely to be true, that one can safely say that it is impossible. But, besides Plain Changes and Cross Peals, there was before Stedman's time also Bob methods. Now, these were not, as Mr. Trollope seems to imagine, at first methods with one dodge in them, but methods that were all dodges, or at least as nearly so as possible. Plain (or Grandsire) Bob was not the original, but the last development, of Bob method building, and it was here that Stedman's work was so valuable. A method was not considered a true Bob method unless one bell at least dodged all the time, after the Hunt left it, until it returned to it again. But a Court (Curt) Bob method, was one in which the long dodge was shortened. This resulted in places being made at fourth's and third's: these latter are now called 'Court Places, and the meaning of the designation, Court Bob (i.e., 'shortened dodging'), has been overlooked.

It will be seen that there have been considerably more than the three uses of the word Bob which Mr. Trollope enumerates, and that there has, in fact, been much confusion in their use. I would go further and say there is likely to be more in future, especially in the ringing of spliced peals, and that the use of the word, except as the time-honoured call, should be restricted.

I am glad to note that Mr. Trollope has solved the puzzle of the meaning of the word Grandsire or Grandsir: he says it is a descriptive name; but unfortunately he does not say of what it is descriptive; until he does this the discovery is not of much value.

In conclusion, I must point out that, like all who have attacked our report, Mr. Trollope has not troubled to find out what we actually do recommend. Not one of his strictures on me personally, or on the committee generally, are founded on fact. We have never proposed that the three words of London Scholars' Pleasure, or the five words of the title of Norwich should be dropped, much less lost. What we propose is that the former method should have what it never yet has had, a name of its own; and that of the five words of the latter title, one only, and that the only distinctive one, should be its name and the name of that method only. If you call 'Go Norwich,' you do not mean nor imply that the method you want rung is not Double, that it has not Court Bob Places (or shortened dodging), and that it is not Major. In short, neither 'Double,' nor 'Court Bob,' nor 'Major,' are names of methods, none of them have at present anything to do with the Nomenclature Committee, and all that Mr. Trollope has written, so lengthily, and with so much repetition about them, is beside the point.

Will no one really read our report, and find some true objection to it?

CHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD.

THE CONDITION OF THE ACTON BELLS.

In spite of the hard-going bells, and cold and foggy weather, the Crewe and District Branch of the Chester Diocesan Guild held a thoroughly enjoyable meeting at Acton, near Nantwich, on Saturday, when there was a satisfactory muster of members from the local tower, Crewe, Nantwich, Norton-in-Hales, Wistaston, Church Lawton, and Ightfield, numbering 24 in all. It is a pity that this peal of six at Acton have not received the necessary attention by the church authorities. Practically nothing has been done since October, 1893, when the new wooden frame was erected, the fifth bell recast, and the remainder quarter-turned. The bells were all rehung on this occasion, and a new floor was laid. Since then the only expenditure which has been made has been on the six new clappers, and it is hoped that the authorities will give some little encouragement to the enthusiastic young ringers by putting the frame into proper order, for this is where the trouble lies.

In the afternoon the company rang touches of Grandsire Doubles and Bob Major, and afterwards adjourned to the ancient village hostelry, the Star Inn, where a substantial repast, provided by the Parochial Council, through the churchwardens, was thoroughly enjoyed.

There was little business at the meeting which followed.

Mr. W. Holding (Crewe) said he looked upon Acton as his 'second birthplace,' and expressed his pleasure at the visit he had paid. He moved a hearty vote of thanks to the Parochial Church Council for providing such an excellent tea, and also to the Vicar for the use of the bells.

Mr. R. T. Holding (Crewe) seconded, and said he would like to include the landlord of the Star (Mr. Trinder) in the vote of thanks. Mr. Holding expressed the hope that the bell frame would be attended to by the church authorities. He was surprised that the Acton ringers should be allowed to 'maul' themselves every Sunday, and they were very brave men to tackle it. He was sorry none of the church officials were there to hear their comments. Even if he resided in the parish he would not ring at Acton, and he thought it was a shame the bells should be in the condition they were. There was certainly something wrong with the frame, and it needed proper attention as soon as possible. Mr. Holding extended a hearty welcome to the Rev. M. Stevens, curate of Christ Church, Crewe, and said he hoped it would not be the last time he would be among them.

The Rev. M. Stevens said he had thoroughly enjoyed his visit. It was quite a change to leave behind such a large industrial centre like Crewe, and visit such a pretty spot, and the beautiful old church at Acton.

Mr. R. D. Langford, branch secretary, supported Mr. Holding's remarks with regard to the condition of the bells. He supposed the church officials would say they could only spend so much, but he sincerely hoped that things would get put right.

The company then visited the tower again, and rang touches of Grandsire Doubles, Minor and Stedman Doubles.

SHEFFIELD DISTRICT SOCIETY.*YOUNG ASPIRANTS' PROGRESS.

Following the custom of previous years, when the above society has held its November meeting, a very representative gathering assembled at Sheffield Cathedral and St. Marie's on Saturday last. Members, to the number of 60, came from the Derbyshire and Nottingham areas, the towers in and around Sheffield being also well represented.

At the business meeting, held in the St. Marie's Presbytery, a very hearty vote of thanks was accorded Mr. A. Knights, of Chesterfield, for his untiring and laborious efforts in compiling the necessary data for insertion in the society's peal book.

The secretary was also requested to write to all members who have not paid their subscription for the past and present financial years, urging them to do so at their very earliest convenience, so that the annual expenditure shall not exceed the annual income, and it is hoped that if any of them read this request they will comply without delay.

It was noticed that many of the younger aspirants to the art are making excellent progress, and continued assistance from the more advanced members will give them additional encouragement.

Ringings throughout the day was of a good order, Grandsire Triples and Caters, Stedman Triples, Caters and Cinques, Treble Bob Major and Royal, Bob Major, Little Bob Maximus, Double Norwich and London Surprise Major being the methods performed.

RINGERS' GOLDEN WEDDINGS.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Burgess, of Pontypridd, celebrated their golden wedding on November 9th. Mr. Burgess is 'father' of the local ringers, and in honour of the interesting anniversary, a presentation, as a token of respect, was made to Mr. and Mrs. Burgess at the Vicarage. The gift was subscribed to by the Vicar, churchwardens and ringers, and afterwards a peal of Grandsire Triples was rung at the Parish Church.

On Sunday afternoon, November 1st, an attempt for a peal of Superlative Surprise at Worlingworth, Suffolk, came to grief, after ringing 2 hours and 20 minutes, owing to the breaking of the clapper of the tenor bell. This was somewhat disappointing to the inhabitants of the village, as well as to the ringers themselves, as the peal was being attempted in honour of the golden wedding of the local veteran, Mr. David Collins, and his wife, which occurred a few days previously. The band were J. Hall 1, G. Pryke 2, L. G. Brett 3, G. A. Wighman 4, E. E. Grimes 5, T. H. Chappell 6, L. C. Wightman 7, W. C. Rumsey (conductor) 8.

BOW BELLS BROADCAST.*SUCCESSFUL DEMONSTRATION AT FAMOUS LONDON CHURCH.

Thousands of listeners—perhaps hundreds of thousands—heard bell ringing in perfection on Sunday night, when the famous Bow bells were broadcast from London. The ringing—a course of Stedman Cinques—was carried out by the St. Paul's Cathedral Sunday band, and this noble peal of bells was never heard to better advantage. As ringers, we all appreciate such broadcasting as this, but it is as well to know what other people think of it. Here is what the 'Daily Chronicle' said on Monday: 'To home-sick Londoners the full-toned, melodious message of the bells must have come as a breath of fresh air. "There are few sounds more beautiful than good bells, well rung," said Mr. W. Roughton, of the St. Paul's Cathedral band of the Ancient Society of College Youths, members of which rang the bells in the belfry of the famous old Church of St. Mary-le-Bow, Cheapside. The broadcast came through vigorously and purely, and those who obeyed the injunction, "Please shut your eyes and listen to the message of Bow bells," were warmly rewarded. So perfect was the reception that each of the twelve great bells of Bow could be identified separately.'

CORNISH BELLS TO BE BROADCAST.To the Editor.*

Dear Sir,—On Sunday next, Nov. 22nd, the bells of St. Mary's Cathedral Truro, will be broadcast, from 6 to 6.15 p.m. As your leading article of Aug. 29th, 1924, truly stated, the Truro Diocesan Guild is one about which the Exercise hears very little. Perhaps this occasion will be appreciated by some of the 'experts,' although the time is somewhat inconvenient to those who ring regularly for Sunday Services. It is hoped to broadcast a course of Grandsire Triples on the peal of ten (tenor 34 cwt.), with 9, 8, 10, covering.

I shall be glad to receive a criticism from any ringer who may hear this ringing. Scientific change ringing is only practised in about six towers in the whole diocese of Truro, the majority of these being only able to ring Grandsire Doubles. I am glad to see other towers are beginning to look for help, but a lack of conductors does not allow all the assistance to be given that we would like to give.—Yours faithfully,

A. S. ROBERTS,

Hon. Sec., Truro Cathedral Company.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

The dedication of Carlisle Cathedral bells on November 12th was attended by about 120 clergy. The ceremony was performed by the Archbishop of York. The bells have been retuned and rebung at the expense of Mrs. Rashdall, widow of Dean Hastings Rashdall. The last time the bells were rung is said to have been in 1745, when Bonnie Prince Charlie entered the city.

Mr. Thomas Allibone, whose death we briefly recorded last week, was for 35 years parish clerk of North Wingfield Church, where he was also a member of the tower band. He was 71 years of age, and was formerly secretary and later president of the East Derbyshire Association. He had a wonderful general knowledge of church bells.

Another of the rare old school of ringers, Mr. John Buffery, 'father' of St. Martin's Guild, Birmingham, has passed away. He died on Armistice Day, and was buried on Monday.

Last Saturday an attempt was made at Warnham, Sussex, for a peal of 10,560 of London Surprise Major, the company consisting of the able band which Mr. Alfred Pulling, of Guildford, has got around him. Things were going along very merrily, when, after 5,568 changes had been rung in 3 hrs. 20 minutes, the tenor clapper broke, and put an untimely end to the ringing.

One of the most interesting anniversaries of the week falls on Sunday, and, curiously enough, is of a very early peal which was rung on a Sunday. This was on November 22nd, 1721, at Mortlake, Surrey, and is recorded as follows: 'On Sunday, November xxii MDCCLXXI. was rung in this steeple by the Mortlake Society a true and complete peal of 5,040 Bob Major Tribbles in 3 hours and 4 minutes: Will Patten, First; Willm. Smith, Second; Jno Tomlinson, Third; John Brown, Fourth; Henry Lyford, Fifth; Willm. Walker, Sixth; Uriah Jelly, Seventh; Henry Cook, Eighth. N.B.—This is the third time this peal was ever rung, and the first by the method designed and called by W. Walker.'

Can our historians tell us whether this was Major or Triples? We are inclined to think it may have been a peal of Major, and that the 'designer' in this case is what we now know as the composer.

In this connection it is interesting to recall that William Walker, as a member of the Richmond Society, rang in a peal of Richmond Triples (whatever that may have been) in 1741 or 1742, at Richmond, and a peal of 'Grandsire Trebbles Double' in 1767. He (or, more probably, a son of the same name—and it may have been a son who rang in the 1767 peal) took part in a peal of 10,640 'Bob Majors' at Mortlake in 1776.

We understand the illuminated album, recently presented to the Rev. Maitland Kelly by the Devon Guild, containing views of every subscribing tower, handsomely bound, was greatly admired throughout the county. It was the work of Southwood and Co., of Exeter.

This firm has had considerable experience in illuminated peal book entries, also framed addresses, and as a good number of their staff are ringers, they know how to execute such work sympathetically and give complete satisfaction.

We regret that owing to pressure on our space, the reports of several peals, and other items, including 'Notes by the Way,' are unavoidably held over.

MANCHESTER CATHEDRAL BELLS.

A MAGNIFICENT RING OF TEN.

Manchester Cathedral is now in possession of one of the finest peals of ten bells, at their weight, in the country, and not only are the Cathedral authorities to be congratulated upon having in their massive tower a ring of bells of which to be proud, but the Lancashire Association is fortunate to have set up in this important centre a peal of medium weight which should greatly facilitate ten-bell practice in that part of the county.

Some details of the bells themselves were given in our last issue. They have all been recast as the result of generous gifts of individuals and firms in Manchester, it having been due largely to the enthusiasm of the late Dean, Dr. McCormack, who, unhappily, did not live to see the scheme brought to fruition, that the project was taken in hand. Dean McCormack made the restoration possible by his personal appeal to various institutions and associations of the city, so that the bells have been almost entirely recast at the expense of different sections of the community, as revealed in the inscriptions which we quoted last week. It is, however, a touching fact that one of the bells should be given in memory of the man who, in his life, had secured the success of the project.

MANCHESTER CATHEDRAL.

The contract was carried out by Messrs. Gillett and Johnston, of Croydon, and although they have had to place the new bells in the old oak frame, they have completed an undertaking which will deservedly enhance their already high reputation. The 'go' of the bells could not be better if they had been installed in a modern metal frame, but this result has only been made possible by the strengthening that has been carried out. Heavy angle plates have bolted the timbers into a rigid whole, and the foundation beams have been supported by a massive steel girder crossing the tower under their centres, and carried on steel corbels anchored into the walls. The bells are hung on ball bearings and 'go' like the proverbial 'fiddles.' Musically the bells are a grand peal. They are tuned on the five-tone principle, and the vast experience in this method of tuning which the Croydon firm have gained, from the fact that they have not only turned out numberless peals for hanging in English churches, but have also been the founders of many carillons, including such great sets of bells as those recently sent to New York (in which there were 53 bells, with the heaviest weighing nine tons and the lightest 15 lbs.), and to Hertogenbosch, Holland (in which a carillon of 43 bells was built up upon one of Hemion's masterpieces), has resulted in Manchester having a peal in which this phase of the founder's art has reached a high pitch of perfection. In the ringing chamber the bells are a little noisy, and from the ringers' point of view, another floor—say, immediately under the main supporting girder—would probably be a considerable advantage. Outside the Cathedral there are places where the bells, swinging at the level of the great louvres, crash down a tumultuous sound, and we would urge the authorities to consider the advisability of blocking up the louvres, if not altogether—there is ample opportunity for the sound to escape higher up the tower—at any rate, to a point above the level of the bells when they are ringing.

The bells have been hung with entirely new fittings, and an ingenious, patented device has been attached to the two trebles and the tenor. This is a 'gadget' which automatically lifts the clapper away from the bell the moment the blow has been struck, thus enabling the full effect of the note, or, perhaps more correctly, the chord to be heard. The device is actuated merely by the natural force of gravity. An arm standing up a foot or more on each side of the clapper, carries a toggle. As the bell travels upward in its revolution, this toggle lays back, as an extension of the arm, and clear of the clapper shaft, but slightly before the bell reaches the zenith of its turn, and after the clapper has struck the bell, the toggle drops inward—merely by gravitational force—and lifts the clapper from the bell. As soon, of course, as the bell reverses its motion the toggle drops back to the opposite position. The invention is simplicity itself, and it has the advantage that it can never get weak and 'tired' like a spring attachment. All the attention that it apparently needs is occasional lubrication. The effect of the device was strikingly manifest on the Cathedral tenor, for, when the bells were set up, the hum continued for a measurable period after all sound of the other bells had stopped.

As we briefly recorded last week, the bells were dedicated on the 10th inst., but Saturday was the ringers' day. The Cathedral authorities placed the bells at the disposal of members of the Lancashire Association, and other visitors, and there was a great gathering of 'the clans,' although, perhaps, that is not quite the right term to apply to the men of Lancashire. First of all they met for 'tea' at Winn's Cafe, Corporation Street, but if the repast put before the 120 men who were present at that stage is merely 'tea,' a mere Southerner is left guessing what a real Lancashire dinner would be like. Succulent steak and kidney pudding, which only a Dickens could adequately describe, 'hot pot' that was equally delicious—of such things was this tea composed, and there is no wonder that many who afterwards tried these light running bells were far too strong. It was a piece of subtle anticipation that induced the local ringers to lay in a stock of spare stays, although, be it said, the originals were of such stout stuff that they defied all efforts to break them—but more than one ringer will have to admit that he had a good try.

The tea was presided over by Mr. Manby A. Gibson (senior churchwarden), who offered the visitors a hearty welcome, and apologised for the absence of the Dean, who was unable to be present in the face of heavy duties on the morrow. Mr. Gibson was supported by one of the sidesmen, and Mr. C. F. Johnston.

Mr. W. C. Bridgford, leader of the Cathedral band, and Mr. A. Ridyard afterwards took the arrangements in hand, and bands of ten, each limited to not more than ten minutes, were sent off up into the belfry to try the bells. Thus for nearly four hours the new ring was kept going for brief spells. In that time nearly 200 ringers took part in the ringing, and if the striking was not always good there was no division of opinion as to the quality of the bells, or the satisfactory manner in which Messrs. Gillett and Johnston had hung them. On both counts there was unanimous praise. Ringers from outside the county included Messrs. J. Cotterill, W. Salmon and F. Maud (Yorkshire), H. W. Wilde (Chester), W. Bibby (Frodsham), W. Walsley (Macclesfield), J. P. Fidler and J. Fernley, jun. (Hazel Grove), E. Garside (Glossop), etc. Lancashire ringers were present from, among other places, Ashton-under-Lyne, Bolton, Blackburn, Church, Didsbury, Denton, Flixton, Liverpool, Heywood, Miles Platting, Oldham, Pendleton, Redditch, Rishton, Rochdale, Salford, Southport, Todmorden, Tyldesley, Walkden, Worsley, etc., as well, of course, as the members of the Cathedral band, and representatives of that stalwart company of police who are privileged to ring the Town Hall bells.

Before the company separated from the belfry, a vote of thanks to the Cathedral authorities for their welcome and hospitality, and to the local ringers for their arrangements, was passed with acclamation, on the motion of Mr. Walsley, seconded by Mr. Garside.

The dedication on the preceding Tuesday was a simple ceremony. In the midst of the special service, attended by the Lord Mayor of Manchester, the Bishop, with the Dean and churchwardens, ascended to the ringing chamber, where the ringers and Mr. Cyril Johnston, the founder, were awaiting them. The ropes had been drawn together in the centre of the belfry, and the Bishop released them by pulling a cord. After the dedicatory prayer, a few rounds were rung, and other appropriate prayers were said, and the little procession then wound its way down the spiral stair to the Cathedral, where the service was completed. The ringing afterwards was only of short duration.

Later, the ringers and Mr. Johnston were entertained to supper by Mr. Bridgford.

THE YEAR'S ACCOMPLISHMENTS.

Mr. W. T. Cockerill responded to the toast of 'The Ancient Society of College Youths,' and first referred to the death of Mr. Edwin Horrex, and the unexpected suddenness of his demise, as already reported in our columns. Mr. Cockerill added that during the last twelve months he had met Mr. Horrex three or four times every week. They had strolled together on Clapham Common, and Mr. Horrex had become endeared to him in that time even more than in the 40 years that he had rung with him. He felt the death of their old friend very much, and it had come as a bombshell to him. Proceeding, Mr. Cockerill said he had received letters of apology from Canon Haldane (Southwark), the Rev. Prebendary Isaacs (Cripplegate), Mr. J. W. Jones (Newport), and Mr. A. Walker (Birmingham), and a telegram of good wishes from Mr. A. Padden Smith, hon. secretary of St. Martin's Guild, Birmingham. During the year they had lost, by death, the following members: Rev. C. C. Child, Messrs. Harry Flower, Sam Perrett, William Tanner, Chas. Gordon, Joseph Cubitt Smith and Edwin Horrex. They had had 74 meetings for practice at the various city churches and Southwark Cathedral, and they had made 42 new members (applause). In the matter of peal ringing, they had been very abstemious, as, with one peal rung that day at Stepney, they had rung only 18 peals since the last dinner. On handbells, one of Stedman Caters and one of Bob Major: on tower bells, Grandsire Triples 1, Stedman Triples 1, Stedman Caters 3, Stedman Cinques 4, Bob Major 1, London Surprise 1, Kent Treble Bob Maximus 1, Cambridge Surprise Minor 1, Cambridge Royal 2, Cambridge Maximus 1. This last was the peal at St. Paul's Cathedral on February 7th, and was the outstanding feature of the year's performances. The practices had been well attended, and although they had not much to show in the way of peal ringing, they had done a great deal of good in teaching young members (applause).

At the request of the Master, the company then stood for a minute in silence as a mark of respect for the late Mr. Horrex.

Mr. R. T. Hibbert (the vice-chairman) submitted the toast of 'London and Provincial Ringing Societies,' and asked his hearers to think for a moment of what the pioneers of change ringing of a century or more ago had done for them. The Oxford Society, which was still going, had the cheek to come and compete against the College Youths in 1784, in a tower in his native county. The competition was for the cup they saw that night in front of the Master, and, said the speaker, 'we won it (laughter and applause). I have never seen it filled yet, but I hope to some day (laughter). There is another society in Essex, the Saffron Walden Society, who have taught change ringing for 300 years, and they still keep it up. Then there is another old society, St. Martin's Guild, Birmingham. I have rung with them, and if they keep on practising they will ring Stedman Cinques yet' (laughter). In his own days, he proceeded, there had sprung up the Diocesan Guilds and County Associations. He remembered a lot of them starting—they were only of mushroom growth compared with societies like the College Youths, but they were doing good work, and he hoped they would go on doing it (applause). Then he came back to their old friends, the Cumberlands. He hoped they would go on and prosper; and also that the London County and the Middlesex Associations would do the same. He hoped the old feelings and rivalries would disappear, and that in the future they would ring peals together (applause).

Mr. J. D. Drewett, J.P. (Master of the Surrey Association), first responded, and said it was a great pleasure to again attend that dinner after an absence of between 30 and 40 years. In the provinces, he said, many of the helpries had been much depleted owing to the war, and it took a long time to get up again to the original standard. In his own village they lost five or six members through the war, three of them killed. It was very difficult to pick up again, and they looked to the College Youths and other kindred societies to help them as much as they could. With regard to the threat that had been made to suppress bell ringing, he was quite sure the author of it did not know what he was up against. Whoever it was, would find it difficult to overcome the traditions of a society like the College Youths (applause).

'A NATIONAL OCCASION.'

The Rev. F. M. Edwards (hon. secretary of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild) also responded, and said it was a healthy sign that those gatherings were becoming more and more provincial. During the few years that he had been attending them he had noticed a great increase in the number of those who came from distant parts of the country, and that evening there was quite a good representation from Dorset and Somerset (applause). In these counties, he said, they were still in touch with the 'real article,' such as Canon Coleridge had told them about. It was always a great pleasure, he added, to come to those splendid gatherings, and to receive the hearty welcome which was always extended to visitors by the College Youths and other societies. Continuing, the speaker said in reading the abstract of the statement made by the gentleman who threatened to suppress bell ringing, it seemed to him that Mr. Lewis lacked a sense of humour. Bells were put in churches for the express purpose of being used for worship. Mr. Lewis would only allow them to be rung on national occasions, and not for worship, except a single bell for a few strokes. That was rather a topsy-turvy way of dealing with the subject, but at least it provided a great opportunity for ringers. If the Bill were passed into law, that would be a national occasion if ever there was one, and ringers would be able to celebrate the event with a whole week's ringing at reasonable house, and keep within the limits of the Act, defying Mr. Lewis to say it was not a national occasion (laughter).

Mr. C. H. Horton proposed 'The Visitors,' and gave them a hearty welcome. The society had no greater pleasure at that annual gathering, he said, than that of welcoming the visitors. They owed a debt of gratitude to the incumbents of the city and provincial churches where they rang: were it not for their great interest and kindly courtesy, that society would practically be unable to carry on its work—that of ringing for the services of the church, and for advancing the art of change ringing. He could assure them that the society greatly appreciated their very great interest (applause).

SHARING IN A COMMON CRAFT.

The Rector of Stepney made an interesting speech, in replying to the toast, and expressed the pleasure which the visitors had in attending that annual gathering. They enjoyed it tremendously, because they met men from all over the country with no common link except that of their common craft. It was a great thing to think that they came there from village churches, from large towns and from city parishes to join in one united gathering, because they shared in a common craft. There were three things which appealed to him in regard to it. In their craft they were missionaries calling people into church, and, in doing their work, they needed a certain amount of imagination, and to think of what the bells meant to other people. They created vastly different thoughts in different people, and the ringers could have no conception of the varying emotions which their ringing stirred. Those who were at Stepney that afternoon, for instance, could not have known that they were welcoming back a Rector who had had the offer of another living, but had refused to leave his parish (applause). That kind of thing must be constantly happening, and ringers needed imagination to realise the kind of message they were sending out, and which was being received in different ways by people in different frames of mind. The second point was that they were handing on a tradition and an art which had come down to them through hundreds of years; an art which had been going on with dignified precision for centuries. It had remained unchanged in its conservatism through the whirligig of time, and brought to them something of the beauty of the past in the medley of the present (applause). Then, too, the ringers were people who were doing their job without being seen—he did not mean seen in church (laughter). Most people in these days liked to live in the limelight, and it was rather wonderful to have a job carried on by people who were content to do their work unseen, who were unknown to the people who heard them, except in a few single instances, but who did their work merely for the joy of the job (applause).

Mr. T. Faulkner proposed 'The Press,' and remarked that ringers owed a great debt of gratitude to the ringing papers, and particularly to 'The Ringing World.' When they found people putting their capital and brains into a paper for the benefit of ringers they ought all of them to give it their support (hear, hear). Indeed it was their bounden duty to support their own Press, and he hoped 'The Ringing World' would go on and flourish. If they wanted a larger or a cheaper paper it was in the hands of the ringers themselves to provide the necessary additional circulation to make this possible (applause). Mr. Faulkner paid a personal tribute to the memory of Mr. Horrex, who was a man, he said, not only respected, but loved by all of them, not least by himself (the speaker). When ringing at Bethnal Green that day he noticed the peal board recording the 15,840 Kent Treble Bob in 1868—a wonderful performance in those days—and the thought passed through his mind, 'There is only poor old Ted Horrex left; all the others have gone.' He did not know that at that moment the Great Conductor had called 'stand,' and that Ted Horrex had set his bell. Peace be to his ashes.

Mr. J. S. Goldsmith responded to the toast of the Press in a humorous speech, in which he referred to the newly invented 'Autosonneur' for ringing church bells, and he added to the amusement with some verses denouncing the future before the Exercise, if the Bill for the 'suppression of Church Bells' was passed.

Thanks were accorded to the accompanist (Mr. H. Podger) and the artists who contributed to the programme, and the enjoyable evening concluded with 'Auld Lang Syne.' The feature of the music was again the handbell playing of Mrs. A. A. Hughes, whose great skill

THE LATE MR. EDWIN HORREX

FUNERAL AT WANDSWORTH.

The mortal remains of the late Mr. Edwin Horrex were interred last Friday in Wandsworth Cemetery. It was a bleak and cheerless November day, but, despite this, quite a number of representative London ringers gathered to pay a last tribute of respect to one who was held in the highest esteem, not merely for his long connection with the Exercise or his great ability as an exponent of the art of ringing, but for his sterling character and the genial nature which lay behind the somewhat rugged exterior. Ted Horrex was laid to rest with the same simplicity that had marked his life, but the beautiful words of the burial service, challenging death and holding out the promise of a Greater Life, were impressively read, and over the grave the hand-bells, quietly tapping out a course of Stedman Caters, paid a last farewell to one who for more than seventy years had given his best to the art he loved so well.

The first part of the service was held in his own parish church at Stockwell, but the majority of the ringers who attended awaited the cortege at the entrance to the cemetery. The family mourners were Mr. F. Horrex (son), Mr. and Mrs. E. Horrex (son and daughter-in-law), Mr. and Mrs. W. Horrex (son and daughter-in-law), Mrs. F. Mountain (daughter), Mr. and Mrs. McMenemy (son-in-law and daughter), Mrs. M. Mountain (daughter), Mr. W. H. Mountain (grandson) and Mrs. Mountain, Mrs. Dafford, Mrs. Waites, Mrs. K. McMenemy (grand-daughters), Mr. S. Horrex and Mr. W. Weston (grandsons), and Mr. P. Cornwall.

Among the ringers present were Mr. P. E. Clark (retiring Master), Mr. A. A. Hughes (treasurer), Mr. W. T. Cockerill (hon. secretary), Mr. Walter Prime and Mr. Challis Winney (trustees of the Ancient Society of College Youths), Mr. E. Alex. Young (hon. secretary of the Central Council), Mr. J. D. Matthews (Master of the Royal Cumberland Youths), Mr. and Mrs. R. Deal, Messrs. J. W. Rowbotham, J. E. Davis, H. S. Ellis, T. Beadle, T. Faulkner, Fenn, J. Osborn, W. E. Garrard, C. S. Burden, L. Attwater, A. R. Macdonald, H. Pasmore, H. Langdon, F. E. Dawe, G. R. Channer, Bibby, J. T. Hayes (son of the late Mr. J. Murray Hayes), H. Dew (Bishop's Stortford), J. S. Goldsmith (Woking), etc.

There were a large number of wreaths from members of the family and friends, and floral tributes were also sent by the College Youths, St. Martin's Guild, Birmingham, and Mr. F. E. Dawe. The course of Stedman Caters was rung by Messrs. Dawe, Attwater, Winney, Pasmore and Cockerill.

In the evening, after the funeral, the 'whole pull and stand' was rung at St. Paul's Cathedral, where regularly for forty-seven years Ted Horrex had rung for the services.

A similar tribute was paid to the departed veteran at St. Stephen's, Bristol, earlier in the week, and at St. Martin's, Birmingham, on Tuesday, while on Saturday a half-muffled peal of Stedman Cinques was rung at his native town of Ipswich.

IN MEMORIAM.

Of quiet mien, and inoffensive tongue,
He trod the even tenour of his way;
True to himself as night doth follow day.
Nor envied those who reach Parnassus' heights,
Of no distemper, of no shock he died,
But fell, like Autumn fruit that mellowed long;
E'en wondered at, because he dropped not sooner,
Fate seemed to wind him up for fourscore years.
Yet freshly ran he on eight winters more,
Till, like a clock, worn out with eating time,
The wheels of weary life stood still.
Nature's best work, he was an honest man.

Chigwell Row, Essex. G. F. MARGETSON.

The recent 'Cumberland' tour had an amusing 'prologue.' The meeting-place was Lancaster, and one well-known ringer, having got leave of absence from his wife and his business, set out to keep the appointment. Arrived at Lancaster, he found he had come just a week too soon. However did it happen, Harry?

We do not know who is the youngest ringer to score a hundred peals, but Walter P. Whitehead, of Leicestershire, must come nearly within the record, if not quite. He has rung his one hundredth peal at the age of 17. This is a remarkable achievement, especially when it is remembered that he has conducted many of them.

In her performance of Haydn Wood's 'Love's Garden of Roses' and Ballico's 'Killarney' was vociferously applauded. The vocalists were Mr. T. Warren ('The Wheel-tapper'), Mr. J. Bullock ('Friend o' Mine'), and Mr. E. E. Girling ('Wreck of the Birkenhead'). The course of Stedman Cinques was rung by Messrs. J. W. Goding, J. Thomas, C. F. Winney, H. Langdon, C. W. Roberts and W. A. Cave.

THE SPLICING OF CATERS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—While not having had time yet to go closely into Mr. A. J. Pitman's peal of Spliced Stedman and Grandsire Caters, I have no doubt, knowing this gentleman's work in past, of its correctness. It is a most ingenious blending of the two methods, and I congratulate the composer on the originality and cleverness of his peal.

However, it will not detract in any way from the merit of Mr. Pitman's work, if I point out, for the benefit of those who do not already know, the simplicity of splicing regular Cater methods into peals or touches. This is due to the fact that 'Cater' changes produce rows of like nature only, either all even or all odd. It follows then if one method is rung with all even changes, and the second with odd changes only, there can be no repetition of rows between the two. The only difficulty that presents itself is in cases where the Singles of the methods differ. This is easily got over by changing to the second method before calling the first single, when both singles will be alike. However, care must be taken that the even rows rung after the change over, and before the single takes effect, do not repeat with what has gone before.

As an example, take the two methods spliced by Mr. Pitman. A true half length of Stedman may be rung with bobs only, finishing with a quick six and the treble quick bell, the position of the remaining bells being immaterial. As the treble goes in quick, change over to Grandsire, at the same time calling and making a common Grandsire single. Note that although Grandsire is being rung from the point at which the treble comes into third's, the two following rows are the same as if Stedman had been continued; therefore, the even rows will be true. From the odd row produced by the Single, continue in the Grandsire method, so arranging the calls (bobs only till the finish), that the bells will be brought home true by a single at the end of the peal.

This ought to enable composers to arrange their own peals or touches, the only care needed is to be sure that each half-peal is true within itself.

Where the singles of the two methods coincide, as in Stedman and Erin, it is only necessary to compose a true half-peal of each by bobs only, and single one half-peal into the other. This may be done by ringing to about the middle of the half-peal of Stedman or Erin. At one of the calling positions (preferably 4, to keep the big bells together), introduce a single, followed by the half-peal of the second method, when another single will bring the bells to the point left in the first method, which is rung to the end of the peal.

It should be noted that if the single is in place of a bob, the second method must be commenced at a bobbed six.

It occurs to me that by these means, in combination with Mr. Pitman's plan, it may be possible to ring Stedman and Grandsire in the even rows, and Erin in the odd rows, giving three Cater methods in one peal. If this is so, no doubt Mr. Pitman will be able and willing to give us one.—Yours faithfully,

JOSEPH W. PARKER.

THE MINOR METHODS.

The new book which is shortly to be issued on the subject of Splicing Minor methods, and the basis of which will be Mr. J. P. Fidler's recent articles, will contain, in the 'Introduction' contributed by that eminent authority, Mr. Joseph W. Parker, an exhaustive treatise on the whole subject. Mr. Parker is always a welcome writer upon ringing matters, not merely because of his long experience and unrivalled knowledge of the theory of campanology, but because of his ability to elucidate in plain language the knotty points inseparable from the subject. In dealing with the splicing of Minor methods, Mr. Parker gives a full explanation of the whole of this phase of ringing, telling us how and why certain methods will splice, illustrating the various ways in which they may be incorporated into true extents; in short, dealing with the whole subject in a manner, and to a degree never before attempted in print.

The combination of the two contributions, Mr. Parker's dealing with the theoretical, and Mr. Fidler's, based upon experience, directed to the practical side, will make the publication an extremely valuable one. It will be not only useful to six-bell ringers, but ringers on the higher numbers will find it indispensable if they wish their knowledge to keep abreast of the times.

720 IN EIGHT METHODS.

At Norbury (Hazel Grove), Cheshire, on Thursday, Nov. 12th, a 'spliced' 720 of Minor, in the following methods, was rung: Wragby, Poynton, Grove, Wilsden, Neasden, Old Oxford, College Bob IV, and Bocking: John P. Fidler 1, William Fernley 2, Harry Langley 3, Walter W. Wolstencroft 4, James Fernley, sen., 5, John W. Hartley 6. This 720 was composed by Joseph W. Parker, and conducted by James Fernley, sen., and is the first true Minor extent ever rung in eight methods. It was also the first 720 on the new bells, and was rung on the back six.

RINGERS' MASONIC LODGE.To the Editor.*

Sir,—Apropos of the Masonic peal at Newcastle-upon-Tyne, I notice that you inquire about the suggested ringers' lodge. I regret to say that personally I have been compelled to abandon the idea as impracticable. I find that it would be impossible to obtain a warrant permitting the meetings to be held otherwise than in some fixed place. This means that the lodge would always have to meet in London, and so would be useless to the country ringers.

What I had in mind was a movable lodge meeting in connection with the Central Council, and other large gatherings of ringers. It may be that the London ringers would like a lodge of their own with a fixed place of meeting, but that is a different proposition which I must leave to others to consider.

I think I replied to all those ringers who were kind enough to write to me personally; if I overlooked anyone I am sorry.—Yours faithfully,

J. S. PRITCHETT,
Assistant Provincial Grand Master, Warwickshire.

HEREFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

A quarterly meeting of the district was held at Madley on Nov. 7th, when nearly 50 members, representing 13 towers, were present. A service was conducted by the Rev. G. W. Turner, and the ringers were afterwards entertained to tea by the Vicar, the arrangements being in the hands of Miss Turner.

The business meeting was presided over by the Vicar. The Cathedral was chosen for the December combined practice, and Holmer for January. One hon. member, two ringing members, and nine probation members were elected.

Mr. Edwards (Master of the Guild) proposed a vote of thanks to the chairman for presiding at the meeting, for his excellent address, and for providing tea for such a large gathering. The Vicar was, as they were all aware, hon. secretary and treasurer for the Guild, and a better man could not be found.

In thanking the Master for his remarks, the Chairman said that the Guild was a movement he had at heart, and he was always pleased to do anything in his power for the good of the Guild. He thanked Mr. S. T. Rackham for presiding at the organ, and congratulated him on his twelve months' office as Ringing Master for the Swansea and Brecon Guild, he being the first to hold the position in that newly-formed Association.

A KING'S NORTON COMMEMORATION.

The first annual dinner in commemoration of the recasting of the church bells at King's Norton was held by the members of St. Nicolas' Guild at the Bull's Head on Oct. 31st. The Ringing Master (Mr. F. B. Yates) was in the chair, and among those present were the Vicar (Rev. T. S. Dunn), Messrs. T. Izon and S. H. Smith (churchwardens), E. J. Boffey and W. E. Moore (ex-churchwardens), and P. O. Laffin (Deputy Ringing Master and conductor). The visitors included Messrs. A. Walker and J. Neal (St. Martin's, Birmingham), J. F. Smallwood (Derby), and Wiffen (Braintree).

After an excellent repast, the remainder of the evening was spent in music and handbell ringing, several good songs being rendered by Messrs. Dowding, Avery and Harry Withers. 'Auld Lang Syne' brought to a conclusion a very enjoyable evening.

BARNSELY AND DISTRICT ASSOCIATION.*PROPOSED JOINT MEETING WITH YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION.

A meeting was held at Sandal, near Wakefield, on Saturday last, when 16 towers were represented by forty members, viz., Badsworth, Barnsley, Cawthorne, Darfield, Crofton, Rotherham, Felkirk, Horbury, Royston, Rothwell, Wath, Shelley, Wortley, South Kirby, and the local company. The bells were kept going in good style during the afternoon and evening. Tea and business meeting were held in the Parochial Room, the president (Mr. R. Thickett, Horbury) being in the chair.

The chief item of interest was a proposal to hold a joint meeting with the Southern Division of the Yorkshire Association, and the secretary was asked to make inquiries of the Rector of St. Mary's, Barnsley, with a view to holding the December meeting there on the 12th.

Of the meeting on Saturday, suffice it to say, that Sandal is adjacent to 'Merrie Wakefield,' but Sandal is 'merry, wise and good.' The generous hospitality, under difficulties, was goodness itself, and a hearty vote of thanks was passed to the ringers' friend (the Vicar), the churchwardens, the ladies, and the local ringers, who contributed so much to the success of the occasion.

ST. MARTIN'S GUILD, BIRMINGHAM.*A FIRST VISIT TO NORTHFIELD.

For the first time in its history, the St. Martin's Guild for the Diocese of Birmingham held an official meeting at the ancient Parish Church of Northfield on Saturday last, when members made good use of a new, well-balanced and very musical ring of eight, with a 14 cwt. tenor, recently put in by Messrs. Taylor and Co. It was somewhat surprising to find that among those who are now rapidly becoming 'old hands' there were several who had never been to Northfield before, probably because the tower previously contained only six—and those 'nothing to write home about.' It says much for those who saw the job through, including the complete restoration of the tower, recasting and augmentation of the bells, that the work was carried out at a time when a considerable section of the church people was in favour of replacing the organ by a larger and more powerful instrument, and considered this should be done before the bells were touched. But on this occasion (unfortunately, a rare case) the bells won.

The old Church of St. Laurence belonged, in 1373, to the priory of Dudley, and there are traces in a doorway on the north side of its Norman origin of a church having been in existence here at the time of the Domesday Survey.

The present church is chiefly in the Early English and Early Decorated styles, and consists of chancel, nave aisles and an embattled tower. The latter is rather squat in appearance, being only about 55 feet high, and as the belfry is about 15 feet up, there is not much rope between man and bell. Careful attention has been paid to the regulation of the sound, however, and in the ringing chamber the bells are not a bit too noisy. A place where good peals should—and doubtless will—be rung. (Mr. Lewis, please note.)

By the courtesy of the Rector, tea was arranged in the Schoolroom adjacent to the church, which was followed by the business meeting, with the Deputy Ringing Master, Mr. Albert Walker, in the chair, in the absence of the Presiding Ringing Master, Mr. Alderman Pritchett. The latter gentleman had sent an apology, which the secretary read to the meeting, in which he explained he was unable to be present owing to the fact that he had promised to perform the initiation ceremony in connection with the admission to Freemasonry of a well-known ringer.

The Chairman made feeling reference to the loss the Exercise in general, and the College Youths in particular, had suffered by the passing over of that veteran, Mr. Edwin Horrex. He had conveyed the condolences of members of the Guild to Mr. Cockerill, and all present stood for a few moments in silence as a last mark of respect to the memory of 'Dear old Ted.'

Among new members elected was Mr. Harry Saunders, of the local tower, who is to be congratulated on the swift progress he has made in the art, and who owes much to the tutorship of Mr. Jack Withers, the Northfield Master.

Thanks are due to the Rector, the Rev. R. A. Haysom, M.A., for the use of his bells and the schoolroom, and to Mr. Jack Withers, who had everything in readiness.

After the meeting the tower was revisited, and ringing in many methods, including Cambridge and London Surprise, was indulged in, as well as 'simpler stuff' for the beginners.

Later on, as a bitterly cold north-east wind was blowing, several men sought shelter behind 'The Great Stone,' a relic of the glacial period, and were, perhaps, not too disappointed to find that at the back of the said stone some thoughtful soul had provided accommodation for cold and weary travellers, and warmth and sustenance were available.

Unfortunately bad news percolates everywhere, and the news that the 'father' of the Guild, Mr. John Buffery, had joined the great majority on the previous day, at the age of 73, cast a gloom over those present at the end of the day. A reference to his career will be made in our next issue.

A. P. S.

DONCASTER BELL RINGER GOES TO AMERICA.

On Saturday last, Mr. and Mrs. Roland Henson, late of Exchange Street, set sail from Liverpool for the United States, where they are to make a new home in Boston.

Mr. Henson was for three years a much-respected and enthusiastic member of the St. George's Society, Doncaster, and on Thursday evening a special meeting of the society was held in the belfry to bid farewell and 'godspeed' to him. As a small token of the esteem in which he was held, Mr. Henson was presented with a gold-mounted fountain pen, inscribed with his initials, from the ringers and vergers of St. George's. Mr. J. Holmes presided, and the presentation was made by Mr. G. Halksworth, the Ringing Master.

Owing to the condition of the tower of St. George's it was impossible to ring a farewell peal for Mr. Henson, but he takes with him to America the best wishes of the ringers of Doncaster and district, together with those of a large circle of friends.

ARMISTICE DAY RINGING.

The following were among the touches rung on Armistice Day, Nov. 11th:—

BALDOCK, HERTS.—At St. Mary-the-Virgin's Church, on Armistice Day, with the bells half-muffled, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples (1,260 changes), in 53 mins.: W. D. Pooley 1, J. Morley 2, A. C. Rose 3, J. J. Cawdell (conductor) 4, L. Squires 5, A. Buck 6, W. C. Hanscombe 7, E. Gentle 8. First quarter-peal by the ringers of the treble and tenor.

NOISY BELLS AND FAST RINGING.

Two points in connection with bell ringing have recently been brought prominently to notice, and both have a bearing with regard to the public. The first and most important is that relating to the noise of the bells in the immediate vicinity of some towers. This is an old subject, but it is one to which more attention should be given than is at present the case, especially in populous areas. All ringers of experience know of numerous instances where, admittedly, the public living near the church are treated to far more noise than they need be, merely from the fact that the bells swing on the level of the louvres, which throw the sound down on to the innocent heads of those just round about the tower, and it is from this, almost entirely, that the complaints about bell ringing arise, resulting in outbursts in the press and other forms of condemnation. To be frank, we, as ringers, cannot afford to ignore the just complaints of the public. We must move with the times, and in nine cases out of ten there is a simple remedy at hand. The blocking up of the louvres entirely (allowing the sound to escape through the spire) or to a height above the level of the bells when ringing, is an effective means of reducing or removing annoyance to those outside. It is a remedy known to everybody connected with bells, and yet it is constantly neglected. It is not necessarily a costly matter, and yet there are churches we know of where ringing is almost barred on account of the noise, but where the church authorities will not go to the expense of a few pounds which would put an end to all reasonable cause of complaint. Ringers should bring the strongest pressure to bear on church authorities, wherever it is necessary, to secure the provision of such slight structural work as would ensure this end.

The second point is in regard to the speed at which bells are rung. With many ringers one of the chief anxieties seems to be to get the bells along as quickly as possible. Some of the finest peals rung in the past have been distinguished for their 'bold and regular striking,' and it is to be regretted that some ringers of to-day do not emulate that style of ringing. As we have previously had occasion to remark, it is not 'the quickest peal on the bells' that merits most praise, but the 'best peal.' And what applies to peals, applies also to everyday ringing. Bells rung too fast give out a torrent of sound which is too confusing to the ear to be pleasant, and this is especially so in the case of bells with modern harmonic tuning. The public do not appreciate fast ringing as they do the 'bold and regular striking,' and ringers would do well to bear this in mind, for, after all, the public are their audience, and they should seek to give them all the pleasure they can. Modern bell hanging, with bells hung on ball bearings, increases the tendency to fast ringing, but this speedy running of the bells is, we feel sure, a mistake which needs to be seriously considered.

THE DEATH OF THE QUEEN MOTHER.

MUFFLED BELLS THROUGHOUT THE LAND.

'The church bells of England, above the noise of cities, or the quiet of villages, spoke as no other voices could of the joys, sorrows, tumults, troubles and thanksgivings of our common lives.'

In these words the Archbishop of York, at the dedication at Carlisle Cathedral, described the manner in which the bells of this country interpret the feelings of the community on all national occasions, and the muffled bells which poured their mournful sounds from the steeples of England on Saturday and Sunday surely struck a chord in harmony with the spirit of the nation at the passing of the Queen-Mother, whose death has touched the nation as that of few others has done. Wherever ringing was done on Saturday, whether at meetings or for peals, the clappers were muffled, and on Sunday service ringing was universally carried out in the same sad but impressive manner.

Queen Alexandra, it is said, was a lover of bells. Rung in the English fashion, they were strange to her when she landed on these shores in 1863, but their welcome was one of the things which struck her when first she came to the country which was so long to be her home, and she is credited with describing the sounds of the bells as 'angel music.'

Following the usual custom, the great bell at St. Paul's Cathedral was tolled for an hour on Friday evening. This bell is only used in this way on the death of a member of the royal family, or of a Bishop of London, a Dean of St. Paul's or a Lord Mayor who dies during his year of office. The last occasion on which its tolling was heard over the city was on the occasion of the death of King Edward VII., and now it has sounded for the passing of his gracious consort.

Immediately the news of Queen Alexandra's death became known the Rector of St. Clement Danes (Rev. W. Pennington Bickford) got together members of his ringing society, and the bells of the famous Strand church were rung muffled for her, who, seven years before, had opened the bells after their restoration.

Many muffled peals were rung on Saturday—not all of them specially arranged, of course—but wherever ringers met to pursue their art, muffles were put on the bells not only as a tribute of the ringers to the departed royal lady, but also as a mark of the public mourning.

RANG WHEN THE QUEEN ENTERED LONDON.

Mr. Joseph Waghorn, of East Ham, still hale and hearty, and, happily, active among us, was handling the ropes when Queen Alexandra entered London in 1863. He would like to know if there are now any other old ringers in London who did the same.

RANG FOR QUEEN VICTORIA'S DEATH.

In connection with the peal rung at St. Stephen's, Bristol, it is interesting to know that five of the band (Messrs. H. Pring, R. Clark, W. A. Cave, W. Knight and J. A. Burford) took part in a muffled peal of Double Norwich on the same bells on the day after the death of Queen Victoria, nearly a quarter of a century ago.

MUFFLED TOUCHES.

One of the first muffled touches rung was at St. John's Church, Hoylandswaine, Yorks, where, on Friday evening, with deeply muffled bells, 720 Bob Minor was brought round: W. Chappell 1, F. Broadhead 2, W. Marsden 3, E. Robinson 4, S. Fielding 5, E. Brooke (conductor) 6.

It will be impossible, we are afraid, to record in our columns all the ringing done for this mournful occasion, but below are given the particulars of some of the other touches:—

NEWPORT, MON.—On Saturday, Nov. 21st, at All Saints' Church, a peal of Stedman Triples, half-muffled, was attempted and lost after ringing over half-way. ## BELFRY GOSSIP.

It is a sad coincidence that two old ringing societies—the College Youths and the St. Martin's Guild—should lose their respective 'fathers' by the hand of death within a few days of each other. The bells of St. Martin's were rung muffled on Tuesday, the 17th inst., as a token of respect to their memories.

One hundred and ninety years ago to-morrow—on Nov. 28th, 1735—a peal of 6,012 Grandsire Caters was rung at Southwark, a similar length to the peal rung three years earlier at Cripplegate by the London Scholars.

In those distant days the London Scholars were active in ringing long lengths, for on Nov. 27th, 1729, they brought off a 6,204 Grandsire Cinques at Cornhill.

They had scored 6,006 in this method as the first peal on the bells of St. Martin's-in-the-Fields—which was beaten on the same bells the next day by the College Youths. The 6,204 at Cornhill followed upon an attempt earlier in the month, when they broke down after ringing 4,200 changes in 3 hours 10 minutes.

William Doubleday Crofts died on Nov. 29th, 1809, and was buried at St. Mary's, Nottingham, on December 2nd, on which occasion a 'mourning peal of 1,494 Grandsire Caters' was rung.

In view of the first peal on the restored Maneroft bells, which we recorded last week, it is interesting to recall that a peal of Grandsire Cinques, the first on the present twelve, was rung on Nov. 23rd, 1775—exactly 150 years ago last Monday.

A peal of 10,080 Bob Major was rung by the Cumberland Youths at Edmonton 130 years ago last Monday. It was composed and called by George Gross, sen., and Shipway was one of the band. Longer lengths of Bob Major had, however, been rung years before. On Nov. 25th, 1737, for instance, the Eastern Scholars had scored a peal of 15,120 in 8 hours 40 minutes at West Ham.

Friday was the anniversary of the first silent peal of Stedman Triples. It was rung on Nov. 20th, 1886, at Burton-on-Trent, by men whose names were household words in ringing in the closing years of last century—some of them, indeed, will be remembered as long as ringing lasts, and some, happily, are still with us: C. H. Hattersley, J. Carter, H. Bastable, J. Griffin, S. Reeves, W. Wakley, J. Jaggard, and A. Thomas.

St. Paul's Cathedral, Melbourne, has still a band of ringers, who are able to practise Grandsire Triples, and are hoping to ring a peal. They got nearly half-way in an attempt a few months ago.

The Master of the band is Mr. J. H. Guest, who is now 85, and who left England half a century ago. He formed the first society of change ringers in Melbourne in 1882. There are ringers in the band from Bedfordshire, Cheshire, Gloucestershire, Leicestershire, Worcestershire and Oxfordshire.

Twickenham (Middlesex) bells, we are informed, have been retuned and rehung, and will probably be opened about Christmas.

Mr. Alfred Waite, who has been a ringer at Barnwood, Glos. since February, 1868, has now rung every bell in that tower to a peal, and he completed the circle on Saturday as the same time that Mr. F. T. Waite finished the round. One is tempted to comment that he waited a long time to fulfil this ambition, but his friends will wish him many more years of active enjoyment of the art.

CARLISLE CATHEDRAL BELL RESTORATION.

HISTORICAL PEAL RING OUT AGAIN.

As already briefly announced in our columns, the restoration of the bells of Carlisle Cathedral has been completed, and Messrs. Mears and Stainbank, who carried out the work, are to be congratulated upon their successful efforts. The old six (one of them an early 15th century bell) have been made eight by the addition of two trebles, and a great improvement has been effected by tuning the ancient bells.

The dedication was performed, at a simple but impressive service, by the Archbishop of York. There were a large number of clergy present, headed by the Bishop of Carlisle, the Dean of Carlisle and the Bishop of Barrow-in-Furness. The congregation filled the Cathedral, and included the Earl of Lonsdale (Lord Lieutenant of Cumberland), the High Sheriff, the Mayor of Carlisle, and the chairman of Cumberland County Council.

After the opening hymn and psalm, the Archbishop, the Bishops, the Dean, and members of the Chapter, together with Mrs. Hastings Rashdall, to whose generosity the restoration is due, and Mr. Percy Matheson, a personal friend of the late Dean, proceeded to the north choir aisle, where Mrs. Rashdall set in motion the electrical chiming apparatus for the bells.

During the service also, Mr. Matheson unveiled and the Archbishop dedicated, a mural tablet placed in the south choir aisle in memory of the late Dean Rashdall.

The Archbishop gave an appropriate address, in the course of which he said the church bells of England, above the noise of cities or the quiet of villages, spoke as no other voices could, of the joys, sorrows, tumults, troubles and thanksgivings of our common life.

Crowds of citizens waited in the streets to hear the bells ring out, and were delighted with their pleasant chimings.

After the dedication, the bells were raised and rung by members of the Cumberland Association. Although nothing very great was accomplished in the way of ringing, as there was only the space of an hour before evensong, everybody was pleased with the 'go' of the bells. It is to be hoped that in the near future the Cathedral will have a band of ringers of its own to ring regularly for service.

A meeting of the association was held in the Refectory of the Cathedral, and the tower was affiliated to the association.—The election of eleven life members, proposed in Kendal belfry previous to starting for a peal, was confirmed. The Dean was elected a vice-president of the association.

Votes of thanks to the Dean, and everybody connected with the opening, concluded the meeting.

THE BELLS.

The particulars of the bells are as follows:—

Tenor (4ft. 4in. diameter, Note E flat; weight 20 cwt. 2 qr. 16 lb.).—Inscription: 'I warne you how your time doth pass away. Serve God therefor whil life doth last and say Glorie in Axcelis Deo. Anno Domini 1657. John and William Langshaw, Workmen.'

7th (3ft. 8in. diameter; weight 15 cwt. 1 qr. 10 lb.).—'x Ihe x In : Voce : Sum : Munda : Maria : Sonando : Secunda : I : B.' This bell was cast about the year 1420.

6th (3ft. 4in. diameter; weight 10 cwt. 2 qr. 11 lb.).—'C. and G. Mears, Founders, London, 1845.'

2nd (2ft. 5in. diameter; weight 4 cwt. 3 qr. 18 lb.).—'To the Glory of God; and in Memory of Hastings Rashdall his servant I ring, 1924.'

Treble (2ft. 4in. diameter; weight 4 cwt. 1 qr. 1 lb.).—'In Remembrance: Hastings Rashdall and Constance gave me to God, 1924.'

The 6th was originally cast by the Langshaws, and became cracked whilst being chimed for the Peace celebrations after Waterloo. It bore the following inscription:—

THIS RINGE WAS MADE SIX TUNEABLE BELLS AT THE CHARGE OF THE LORD HOWARD AND OTHER GENTREE OF THE COUNTY AND CITIE. AND OFFICERS OF THE GARRISON, BY THE ADVICE OF MAGER JEREMIAH TOLLURST, GOVERNOR OF THE GARRISON, 1658.

This is particularly interesting as being a unique instance of restoration work in the church carried out under instructions from one of Cromwell's officers (Major Jeremiah Tollurst). The three bells restored were the old treble, 4th and tenor, which were recast by the Langshaws, who were bell foundries in Carlisle.

CAST IN 1402.

The 'patriarch' of the tower is the 7th, which was cast about the year 1402 by order of William Strickland, Bishop of Carlisle from 1400 to 1419. Bells, however, hung in the tower long before this, for it is on record that in the beginning of the 14th century (A.D. 1307) the Pope's legate, Cardinal Petrus Hispanus, preached in the Cathedral, and later revealed himself, and with other Bishops which were present—with candles light and causing the bells to be rung, they occurred in terrible wise Robert Bruce, the usurper of the crowne of Scotland with all his partakers aiders and maintainers.' Although Bruce badly ravaged the rest of Cumberland, he never succeeded in taking Carlisle. It was, however, taken and burnt in 1345 by Sir W. Douglas, and was again burnt (by accident) in 1392, when 1,500 houses and a great part of the Cathedral were destroyed: it must then have been in reparation of the damage done in 1392 that Bishop Strickland raised the tower and installed the four large bells, the second of which was the existing 7th. The tenor of that ring of four must, therefore, have been a bell of considerable weight. The present 7th is the only one of Bishop Strickland's ring now left, and from a casting point of view, is a beautiful piece of work.

Until the present occasion, the last time the bells are supposed to have been rung was on November 18th, 1745, when Prince Charles Edward (Bonnie Prince Charles) made his entry into Carlisle, and for this offence the Cathedral bells were 'sentenced' to silence for a period of one hundred years. For many years past, however, it has not been possible to ring the bells on account of the bad condition of their hanging.

The present restoration consists of the addition of two trebles to complete the octave, cleaning the old bells by sand-blast, tuning them, and hanging the peal with entirely new fittings in a very heavy teak frame.

With the exception of the tenor and 6th, the old bells were very poor in tone, but the Cathedral authorities were particularly anxious that no recasting should take place on account of the historical interest. The old bells cannot, of course, be expected to come up to the modern standard for 'tone,' but a vast improvement has been effected by the tuning, and by the addition of the two trebles.

The framework is of very massive proportions, and the bells swing in the latest type ball bearings, the 'go' being perfect. Over 11 tons of timber were used in the construction of the framework and the beams.

A carillon machine has also been installed by Messrs. J. Smith and Sons, of Derby, to chime sets of changes for the week-day services.

The whole of the restoration scheme, including the fitting up of the ringing chamber and repairs to the tower, has been carried out through the generosity of Mrs. Rashdall, in memory of her husband, the late Dean of Carlisle.

COLLEGE YOUTHS' OFFICERS.

THE NEW MASTER.

Owing to business having taken him away from London, Mr. W. Hibbert, jun., who, as Senior Steward last year, would, in the ordinary course of events, have succeeded to the Mastership of the College Youths, was unable to seek nomination, and at their meeting last week the society elected Mr. H. R. Newton to the vacant office. The other officers elected were: Messrs. A. A. Hughes, treasurer; C. F. Winney and W. Prime, trustees; C. W. Roberts, senior steward; J. S. Hawkins, junior steward; and W. T. Cockerill, hon. secretary.

Mr. 'Bob' Newton, the new Master, has long been one of the best known of London ringers, having been associated for many years with the bands connected with St. Stephen's, Westminster; Westminster Abbey and St. Paul's Cathedral. He has taken part in some memorable performances, and has rung the 'heaviest tenor' to each of the three Surprise methods, Superlative at Southwark Cathedral in 1904; London at Bow in 1910; and Cambridge at Southwark in 1924. He also took part in the record length of 21,563 Stedman Caters rung in 12 hours 25 minutes at Appleton in 1922 and rang the eleventh in that great performance, the record peal of Stedman Cinques, 12,675 at Southwark Cathedral, in 9 hours 47 minutes, on Whit Munday, 1923.

BOW BELLS AGAIN NEXT SUNDAY.

ANOTHER BROADCAST.

The success of the broadcasting of Bow Bells on Sunday week, has led the British Broadcasting Company to repeat the experiment, and next Sunday evening we are promised a 'full quarter of an hour of the same bells.' The ringing will begin at 8 p.m., and will again be done by the St. Paul's Cathedral band.

Our readers will doubtless be interested to know the names of the band who so perfectly rang the touch of Stedman Cinques on the first occasion. They were C. F. Winney, E. G. Fenn, H. Langdon, H. R. Pasmore, A. B. Peck, C. W. Roberts, T. Langdon, H. A. Newton, C. F. Burden, T. H. Taffender, W. T. Cockerill (conductor), W. Prime. Messrs. Fenn and Roberts acted in the place of the late Mr. E. Horrex, and Mr. E. Gibbs and the two other members of the Cathedral band, Messrs. W. E. Garrard and E. Wallage were in reserve.

The ringer of the tenor in the peal of Doubles at Trumpington on November 1st was William Rayner, and not Frank Rayner, as published.

DURHAM & NEWCASTLE DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.*ANNUAL FESTIVAL.

The 48th annual festival of the Durham and Newcastle Diocesan Association was held at Durham on Saturday, October 31st. Service was held in St. Nicholas' Church (owing to the Cathedral not being available) at 1 p.m., the Vicar (the Rev. Canon W. Bothamley) officiating, and giving a very interesting address. Luncheon followed at the Royal County Hotel, Mr. C. Todd (the president) being in the chair, supported by Bishop Wood, Rev. Canon W. Bothamley, Messrs. E. Ferry (hon. secretary), Arthur Payne (treasurer), C. L. Routledge (auditor), Rev. A. W. Lister, and others, the company numbering 55.

At the business meeting, the balance sheet showed a deficit of £3 17s. 10d., caused by the heavy expense of printing the annual report.

The report, read by the secretary, contained some interesting items. The sad note came first, reporting the loss, by death, of Mr. A. G. Euden, who had been a member for 20 years of the Cramlington tower, where he will be sadly missed.

Some 20 years ago a scheme was introduced whereby each band of ringers should enter on a sheet hung in the belfry (supplied for that purpose) the number of changes, and the method rung for the Sunday service. Points are given for each 1,000 changes, varying according to the quality of the method. Thus all the towers in the two dioceses are induced to compete in doing the best Sunday service ringing. For this a first and second certificate are presented for the 8, 10 and 12-bell towers, and also for the 6-bell towers. For the year just ended (Sept. 30th) Whitley Bay won the 1st, in the former class, for the sixth consecutive year. If a band wins it for three consecutive years, or four times altogether, the certificate becomes their own property, to hang in their belfry. Whitley Bay have thus won two certificates in succession. Their points this year were 1,599.924. North Shields, who were 4th last year, with 439, take 2nd place this year with 1,193.96, a splendid performance. The other competitors were Gosforth, 1,005.544; St. Ignatius, Sunderland, 948.274; Newcastle Cathedral, 948.05; St. John's, Darlington, 326.78; Gateshead, 179.55; St. Michael's, Sunderland, 159.48; St. Oswald's, West Hartlepool, 145.25; Tanfield, 131.37; Shildon, 103.21; Chester-le-Street, 98.84; Consett, 76.25; St. George's, Jesmond, 35.99.

In the six-bell towers, Holy Trinity, Darlington, took first place for the fourth year in succession, with 1,185.54 points; Benfieldside, 590.75; Newton Hall, 566.76; Houghton-le-Spring, 223.68; Newburn, 148.15; Winton, 27.72; and Whickham, 21, being the other competitors. Twenty-eight peals have been rung during the year, against 29 last year. Ten of these were rung with friends from the South and Midlands, who were on a ringing tour in the district. In the 28 peals, 73 members took part, and there were nine conductors.

The following were elected officers for the ensuing year: President, Rev. A. W. Lister; vice-presidents, Messrs. R. B. Robinson (Southern District), R. L. Patterson (Eastern), F. Sheraton (Western), J. E. Goffon (Northern); hon. secretary, E. Ferry; hon. treasurer, G. S. Taylor; hon. Editorial secretary, Arthur Payne; hon. auditor, C. L. Routledge; district secretaries, W. Story (Northern Division of the Northern District), A. Deas (Newcastle Division), G. S. Taylor (Eastern), A. Hunter (Southern), H. Tyson (Western).

Two hon. members and 30 active members were elected.

Mr. Routledge presented the certificates to the winning towers for the best Sunday Service ringing during the year.

The Cathedral bells were not available owing to a meeting at the Deanery, but the two peals of six were kept going in different methods. Meetings for 1926 were fixed as follows: Pre-Lent meeting, Newton Hall, Saturday, Feb. 13th; Whit Monday, Hartlepool, May 24th; summer meeting, Staindrop, Saturday, July 24th; annual festival, Newcastle, Saturday, October 30th.

We are extremely sorry Mr. J. A. Goffon has retired from ringing by doctor's orders; we sincerely hope he will soon be restored to health and strength, and will again take up the art in which his name has world-wide fame.

It was extremely unfortunate that two peals were arranged for the evening. It prevented some members coming to the meeting, and caused others to leave early.

SWINTON RINGER'S FUNERAL

On Saturday, Nov. 7, the funeral of the late Mr. J. Brockland took place. He was for many years the highly respected captain of Swinton Parish Church belfry. According to the wishes of deceased, the ringers acted as bearers, and a course of Grandsire Triples was rung on handbells at the house, and also at the graveside. The first part of the service was held in St. Peter's Church, the interment following at the cemetery. In the evening a well-struck half-peal of Grandsire Triples (Taylor's six-part) was rung in 1 hr. 40 mins., with the bells fully muffled at St. Peter's Church, as a tribute to the late captain by a mixed band of St. Peter's and Christ Church (Pendlebury) ringers. Mr. Brockland was widely known among the ringing fraternity around Manchester.

COVENTRY BELLS.*WILL A CAMPANILE BE BUILT?

The announcement that the bells of Coventry Cathedral were to be used for a carillon has led to some natural anxiety on the part of change ringers generally. We are assured, however, that the authorities suggest nothing to prejudice the ringing of the bells in peal, whenever the time comes for the erection of a campanile. Though there are differences of opinion as to the propriety and need of recasting the existing bells, we are told that the metal for the proposed extra four will be entirely new. We may add that designs for a campanile have been hanging in the Cathedral vestry for some years.

AN AMBITIOUS SCHEME REQUIRED.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—The Exercise will regret to learn that the efforts to prevent the destruction of these bells have not met with that success which was first hoped. It will be recalled that the proposal was to melt down the bells to use the metal towards that required for a carillon, and that earnest representations were made to those responsible to prevent such an act of vandalism.

We have been fortunate in securing support and sympathy from those representing important bodies outside our own Exercise, and the views of all interested can be summarised in the reference made in the 'Morning Post' of the 8th July last, which, speaking of the Coventry bells, said:—

'Whilst on the subject of bells, it is interesting to note that a proposal is afoot to melt down the ancient peal of ten bells, said to be the finest of their kind, which used to ring forth from the famous tower of St. Michael's, Coventry. The desire is to provide bell metal for a new carillon, the tower being said to be too weak for the bells. Although we have had occasion of late to comment favourably on carillons, this proposal rather savours of exchanging "new lamps for old." Carillons are good, indeed very good. But it would be a serious thing to destroy a celebrated peal for this object. Ringers throughout the country are much concerned, and, urged on by their organ, the 'Ringing World,' the Central Council of Church Bell Ringers will make representations to the Bishop of Coventry with the view of saving this fine peal. Thus the citizens of Coventry, who have enjoyed the possession of these bells for nearly 200 years, may hope to continue so to do for still further centuries to come.'

I learn, therefore, with regret that the proposal is again revived, and that though slightly modified, it still involves the sacrifice of the bells. And I feel that the Central Council will desire that every effort must be used to defeat this project, even if it calls for an ambitious scheme, such as building a bell tower! I believe that such a proposal initiated and supported by the Exercise, would receive that backing from the public, which would ensure its success.

It is melancholy to recall that the late Mr. Horrex, who died so tragically on the morning of the College Youths' Festival, devoted his last speech to this subject. In the course of his remarks, which for him were of unusual length, he expressed the firm hope that these famous bells should be preserved. He also gave an interesting account of how he formed one of a band of College Youths who visited Coventry to ring them, and how George Muskett, the then Master, preferred to stand outside and listen, rather than ascend and ring. Muskett's verdict on this occasion was significant, viz., 'a wonderful peal, these bells are all brothers and sisters.'—Yours faithfully,

HERTFORD COUNTY ASSOCIATION.*WESTERN DISTRICT.

A very enjoyable (as usual) meeting of the Western District was held at King's Langley on Nov. 21st, when members and friends were present from Bletchley, Tring, Berkhamsted, Hemel Hempstead, Bray, Apsley, Watford, St. Albans, and the local tower.

Tea was held in the Church House, presided over by the Rev. and Mrs. Haythornthwaite. After tea, the Vicar, in a very eloquent speech, gave all present a very hearty welcome, and spoke feelingly of the death of the well-beloved Queen Alexandra, asking the company to stand as a token of respect, and loyalty to our King and Queen.

At the business meeting which followed with the Vicar in the chair, two new members were made, Messrs. Taylor and Russell, of Bray, Berks.—The next meeting was arranged for Hemel Hempstead in January, subject to the necessary permission being obtained.

Mr. F. J. Reeve proposed a very hearty vote of thanks to the Vicar, the ladies for their insistent attention at tea, and the local ringers for providing such an excellent tea free of charge.

Mr. Walker (local secretary) replied that there were only one fault—the company hadn't eaten enough.

The ringers then adjourned for further ringing until 7.45 p.m. All the ringing done was half-muffled, the methods rung being Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Plain Bob, Treble Bob and Little Bob Major, as well as rounds for the beginners.

Thus concluded another good meeting at King's Langley.

NOTES BY THE WAY.

THE LAST OF THE NORWICH SCHOLARS.

By J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

Samuel Thurston's sudden death on January 9th, 1841, was a severe blow to Norwich ringing, although the full effect was not seen till later. The work such a man as he does lives after his death; and, besides, there was the great ringing tradition of the Norwich Scholars that John Garthorn had started, and that Thomas Melchior and others had handed on. For one hundred and thirty years there had continuously been a first-class band connected with Mancroft, and this tradition was not to be lost all at once. In 1842 the Norwich band was equal, and, perhaps, the superior to any other in the country. Other good performances had yet to be accomplished, but the top-most point was passed. There were no more peals of the same merit as the Double Norwich Maximus, or the London and Superlative Surprise Major. The year 1835 marks the zenith of Norwich ringing; after that there was decline, slow at first, but certain, and after a few years, rapid.

When Thurston died he left quite a number of good ringers, but none of outstanding ability as leader. At St. Andrew's, Thomas Hurry was supreme; he had given the two trebles in 1825, and was generally in charge of the tower. Hurry was an ambitious, forcible man, but his abilities were not equal to his ambition. A good ringer, no doubt, but not of the very first class. He was not included in the band which rang the Double Oxford and the Superlative and London. The reason is pretty obvious—he was not good enough; otherwise he was not the man to be left out. And his many attempts to call a peal were all unsuccessful. 'I have known him,' said Hubbard, 'many times call four parts of a peal correctly, and then run wild in the fifth. In the year 1825 we rang, at St. Andrew's, about 40,000 changes in trying for a 5,120 of Reeves' in five parts without doing it.'

At St. Peter's the mastership fell to James Truman, an excellent ringer, one of the London and Superlative band. He afterwards proved himself a competent conductor, but he was hardly of the same class as Thurston. He held, I think, some official post connected with St. Peter's Church, either sexton or parish clerk, or something of the sort.

The one man who seemed marked out as Thurston's successor was Henry Hubbard. He had a much greater experience of peal conducting than any of the others, and he knew far more about composition and methods and the theory of ringing. But I think he lacked just that amount of push that a good leader must have. If Hubbard had had some of Hurry's masterfulness or Hurry had had Hubbard's skill and knowledge, the third quarter of the nineteenth century would no doubt have been as brilliant a period in the history of Norwich ringing as the second.

As it was the next two peals were called by Hubbard. The first was 5,040 Kent Treble Bob Royal at St. Andrew's. It was the first peal on the ten bells, and the first peal of Kent rung in Norwich. The composition was Reeves' one-part peal in ten courses, with double bobs at Home, and the sixth the extent each way. It is given on page 105 of Snowden's collection, and is pretty well as good a peal as Treble Ten as there is. Kent Royal on an ordinary ring of bells is, to a good band, one of the easiest things to ring, but it is a different thing altogether when the ropes fall in this order—1, 3, 2, 7, 10, 5, 4, 6, 9, 8, as they did at St. Andrew's.

Melchior and Crane rang their peals of Stedman Triples in 1731, and then for one hundred and eight years no peal in the method was accomplished at Norwich. In 1839, Thurston called a peal of Triples at St. Giles', the composition of Lates, with 180 bobs, 218 common singles, and 22 bob singles. Hubbard did not ring in this peal, and now the Norwich Scholars turned their full attention to Stedman. On Sept. 15th, 1842, they rang 5,295 of Caters at St. Andrew's, and on November 24th, 1843, 5,296 at the same church, both conducted by Hubbard. Charles Middleton, the composer of the peal of Cambridge Surprise, rang in both these peals. Two years later, at Mancroft, they rang 7,126 Stedman Cinques, at that time the longest peal anywhere in the method. The following is a copy of the very fine peal heard in St. Peter's belfry.

On Thursday, January 18th, 1844, was rung in this steeple that most intricate and ingenious peal called Stedman's Cinques in 5 hours and 17 minutes, consisting of 7,126 changes without the misplacing of a bell or the repetition of a single change. The bold and regular striking attracted the notice of the public, and is allowed to exceed any other performance ever attempted in England upon twelve bells. The peal was conducted by James Truman, and rung by the under-mentioned persons. The Minister and Churchwardens with a portion of the Inhabitants, have contributed to the erection of this tablet, the remainder being subscribed for by the company of ringers.

The tradition about this peal, when I started ringing, was that it was very finely rung indeed, and the claim as to good striking was well founded. Two of the band were alive in my time; Robert Palgrave was still a member of the company, but was an invalid, and had not rung for many years. William Freeman was still active, and still ringing. He had had a dispute with some of the later Mancroft men, and had left the company and formed a rival band which practised at St. Andrew's, and some of the six-bell towers. I do not think their performances went beyond Plain Bob Minor. I got to know the old man very well, and found him quite nice and agreeable, when you had made allowances for his age and real or imaginary grievances. He was steeplekeeper at St. Andrew's, and had rung the tenor there to the 1842 peal.

George Smith, who rang the tenor with the help of Robert Palgrave, was one of a family of ringers, all good men at the heavy end. The first was Matthew Smith, who helped Thurston to ring Mancroft tenor to the Double Norwich Maximus in 1817. His son was the George Smith of the 1844 peal, and his grandson, George Smith, the second, was the first man who turned Mancroft tenor in to 5,000 of Major, though for some reason or other the peal was false, and could not stand. He had, I think, the best action and pull of any heavy bell ringer I have seen.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION.
ROCHESTER DISTRICT.

After a lapse of many years, the annual meeting of the Rochester District of the Kent County Association was held in Gravesend. Nearly 100 ringers attended, including representatives from 18 towers in the Rochester District, Tonbridge, Maidstone and Lewisham districts, and Essex and Middlesex Associations. In the afternoon the bells of St. George's Church were rung, and later a special service was conducted by the Rector of Gravesend (the Rev. Elliott Mitchell).

Tea was served in the Co-operative Cafe, where the meeting followed. The Mayor of Gravesend (Alderman J. A. Axcell) presided, being supported by the Rector of Gravesend (the Rev. Elliott Mitchell), the Rector of Milton (the Rev. G. W. Mennie), Messrs. F. T. Grant, F. M. Mitchell (district hon. secretary), R. J. Tall, W. Haigh (Rochester Cathedral), and W. Harper.

Mr. F. M. Mitchell, who reported a record year, both in membership and financially, first thanked the Mayor of Gravesend for presiding, saying that was the first occasion in this county that a chief magistrate of the borough had presided at a ringers' district meeting. They had 21 towers in union, compared with 20 last year, Milton Regis being the newcomers. The number of practising members had increased from 177 to 185. Mr. John H. Chcesman headed the list of conductors with 16 peals. Gravesend tower had made history by having the first lady to conduct a peal in the county, when Miss Edith Parker, of Edmonton, acted in that capacity in November. Sunday service ringing had been fully maintained. The benevolent fund showed a balance of £90 19s 10d., and the district finances a balance of £17 18s., compared with £16 7s. 2d. The report expressed thanks to the incumbents and members of the towers for welcoming visiting ringers, and he (the secretary) personally added his sense of appreciation for the co-operation he had received from secretaries and members of towers in the district.

The Mayor warmly congratulated the secretary on the report, which, he said, showed they were a progressive body, and Mr. Mitchell was reappointed district hon. secretary.

Messrs. Haigh and Spice were elected district representatives to the Central Committee.

By 21 votes to 20, Upchurch (where the bells have been rehung), was selected for the next quarterly meeting, to be held in January.

It was moved by Mr. F. M. Mitchell, and supported by Mr. W. Haigh, 'that the Rochester district considers it advisable to discontinue the payment of half-railway fares up to 2s. to the half-yearly district meeting, and that the same facility be granted to members attending the annual meeting of the association, and that this item be placed on the agenda for discussion at the next annual meeting.'—This was carried.

Mr. R. J. Tall said he was not very pleased that a tower like Southfleet should be silent for so many years. He suggested they should write to the Rector and ask if anything could be done so that the bells could be rung.—This was seconded by Mr. W. Lane, and carried.

The Rector of Gravesend was thanked for conducting the church service, and also the churchwardens for the loan of the church for ringing.—The Rector replied, expressing thanks to the Mayor for presiding.

Ringing in standard methods afterwards took place at St. George's Church.

THE PASSING OF JOHN BUFFERY.

'FATHER' OF ST. MARTIN'S GUILD.

There's nae sorrow there, John,
There's neither could nor care, John,
The day is aye fair
In the land o' the leal.—Lady Nairne.

As briefly announced in our last issue, Mr. John Buffery passed out of human ken on the 12th inst., at his residence, at Smethwick, near Birmingham, after a long illness, at the age of 73 years.

He was the 'father' of St. Martin's Guild, in terms of years of membership (though not in age), having joined the St. Martin's Youths in 1863, and by his death another link with Birmingham ringers of nearly a century ago is severed.

John Buffery was born at Perry Barr, in 1852, and became interested in bells and ringing when the ring of eight was put in the tower of St. John's Church in 1868, the donor being the late Lord Calthorpe. He rang his first peal, Grandsire Triples, there in 1870, and conducted his first peal there in 1879, the method also being Grandsire.

He soon became attracted to St. Martin's, and as he was a good striker, and could handle the heavy end when necessary, he made quite a name for himself at one time as a tenor man.

He rang the tenor to his first peal of Stedman Cinques at St. Martin's in 1873, and took part in the first two ten-bell peals rung in Ireland, these being Stedman Caters at Christ Church Cathedral on May 20th, 1899, and Bob Royal at the R.C. Church of St. Augustine and St. John on the following day.

John Buffery had what he always called the great pleasure of witnessing the only peal ever rung on the high seas—a peal of Stedman Caters in hand by members of St. Martin's Guild, rung aboard the s.s. Cambria when crossing the Irish Sea on May 29th, 1901. A photo of this band, and the witnesses, kindly presented by Mr. J. S. Goldsmith, is carefully preserved in St. Martin's belfry.

Other notable peals in which he took part were the 9,238 Stedman Cinques in 6 hours and 48 minutes at St. Martin's on Feb. 28th, 1881 (then record), in which Henry Johnson (whose 72nd birthday it was) rang the 6th; and the 9,020 of Grandsire Cinques rung in 6 hours and 17 minutes at St. Martin's on March 23rd, 1887, which he conducted. He had a powerful voice, and the late Thomas Reynolds (who rang the 11th to this peal) used to declare that he called the last bob in such a loud voice that it could be heard in the Bull Ring, and was, in fact, heard by several outside!

In the early eighties John Buffery was also a prominent member of the Holt Society of Aston, later amalgamated with the St. Martin's Guild, for which society he called a number of peals. He 'called ye bobbes' in an attempt for a long peal of Grandsire Caters at Aston in 1883, when the peal was lost, after over 12,000 changes had been rung, and which he said was 'the longest breakdown he had ever had.'

Mr. Alderman Pritchett tells a story of how he invited Buffery, with others, to visit him at Oxford, when he was at college as a young man, and how John mistook the extra strong ale he had got in for the occasion for soda water, with the result, so says the alderman, that they could not get on with the Grandsire Caters at Magdalen in the afternoon.

John Buffery—how the name seemed to suit the man! To many of the elder brethren it will recall him as he was in his prime—sturdily built, with fresh complexion, plump cheeks and genial disposition—a typical John Bull.

Unfortunately he had not enjoyed good health for the last few years, and had been unable to take an active part in ringing. Towards the end he suffered with bronchitis, and had been confined to the house for some time.

It is interesting to reflect on the fact that it is now nearly 45 years since the 9,238 of Stedman Cinques was rung, in which John Buffery rang the 8th, and Henry Johnson, sen., rang the 6th. The latter was 72 years old that day (28th February, 1881), and had been ringing then for over 50 years, so these two men in the space of their ringing lives, span practically a century of Birmingham ringing.

The funeral took place at the Uplands Cemetery, Smethwick, on the 18th inst., and among the floral tributes was a wreath from members of St. Martin's Guild, who were represented by one of Mr. Buffery's oldest and most intimate friends, Mr. Thomas Miller.

No further seek his merits to disclose,
Or draw his frailties from their dread abode
(There they alike in trembling hope repose),
The bosom of his Father and his God.—Gray.

A. P. S.

A HALF-PEAL.

At Thorne, Yorks, on Armistice night, November 11th 2,520 Grandsire Triples: H. Rodwell 1, C. Thorley, jun. (conductor) 2, W. Sleight 3, D. England 4, C. H. Thorley 5, W. Hobson 6, R. Thompson 7, J. Thorley 8. The ringers of treble, 4th and 7th hail from Hatfield; the rest are local men.

YORK MINSTER BELLS.

HALF-TONE BELL TO BE PROVIDED.

So well has the appeal for funds for the restoration of York Minster bells been responded to that an effort is to be made to recast 'Great Peter,' and to provide a half-tone bell with the ring of twelve to give a light eight. Canon H. E. Nolloth has given particulars of the additional proposals, in a letter which appeared in the 'Yorkshire Herald.' He says: 'Since the report of the progress of the work recently appeared in your columns, more donations have been received. But, as often happens in these undertakings, additional expenditure has to be incurred. Only some £180 are now required to complete the task of furnishing the Minster with the deepest and finest-toned ring of twelve bells in the country, and the massive framework of iron and steel in which they are to be hung. But the ringers (who have shown their interest in the work by undertaking themselves the cost of recasting one of the bells) are very anxious that, as is usual in the case of so heavy a ring, an extra "half-tone" bell should be provided, in order that they may have a more manageable octave for practice than the lower or "back" eight; and this is, undoubtedly, most important for the cultivation of good ringing. The cost of this bell, if hung at the same time as the others, will be £179, in addition to the above-mentioned £180.'

'Now, with regard to the great bell "Peter," in size fully worthy of our great Cathedral, but so discordant, musically, that there is no reason to regret its present useless condition, impossible to be rung, and unconnected with the clock, to which it should serve as the hour-bell. As stated in the report already referred to, we propose to recast and retune it to a rich and musical E flat, in exact tune with the peal, hung in ball bearings, so as easily to be rung by two men without the slightest strain upon the tower. More than one-third of the cost of this work has already been given or promised, viz., £550, if it can be undertaken soon. If the balance of £975 can be provided, our desire to give the Minster we venerate a "Bourdon" entirely worthy of it, can speedily be attained.'

Donations will be gratefully received by me, as hon. secretary, or they may be paid to the account of the 'York Minster Bells Fund' at the Midland Bank, Ltd., Parliament Street, York.

ASHTON-UNDER-LYNE RINGER'S DEATH.

The death occurred, on November 8th, of Mr. Samuel Booth, president of the Ashton-under-Lyne Society, who passed away at the age of 52 years. He was buried at Hurst Cemetery on Nov. 12th, when the following members rang a course of Grandsire Caters over his grave: Joseph Mellor 1—2, Harry Heap 3—4, Samuel Wood 5—6, Jack Thomas 7—8, Harry Chapman (Manchester) 9—10.

The late Mr. Booth had rung in upwards of 200 peals, including the famous record length of Kent Treble Bob Maximus (12,240 changes), in 8 hr. 39 min., on Easter Monday, April 17th, 1911, at Ashton Parish Church. He also took part in that other celebrated performance on the same bells, the record peal of Kent Treble Bob Royal (14,000 changes), in 9 hours 24 minutes, on Easter Monday, April 13th, 1914. He was a safe ringer, and highly esteemed by his colleagues. He will be sadly missed by the members of the society.

A touch of Grandsire Cinques was rung on muffled bells at Ashton Parish Church on Sunday, November 15th, as a last tribute of respect: S. Wood 1, H. Heap 2, C. Bowers 3, W. Brammer 4, J. Mellor 5, F. Althorp 6, G. Gorrington 7, C. F. Johnston (Croydon) 8, B. Thorp 9, J. S. Goldsmith (Woking) 10, A. Adams 11, T. Jackson 12.

ACCIDENT TO BEDWAS RINGER.

An accident to Mr. G. Martin, of the Bedwas (Mon.) band of ringers, occurred recently near Bristol. Mr. Martin was out for a walk, and, accidentally falling, broke his leg. He was found lying on the road in a very weak state by the occupants of a passing motor-car, in which he was conveyed to Bristol General Hospital, where he is now progressing as favourably as can be expected. His ringing friends in the district are very much concerned, and hope for his speedy recovery.

LESSONS OF THE BISHOPWEARMOUTH FATALITY.

The accident in the belfry at Bishopwearmouth, by which Major Robert C. Hudson lost his life, is one of those distressing fatalities which, though rare, are a tragic reminder of the fact that work among bells which are 'up' is always a risky undertaking. Scores of men every week go up among the bells without giving a thought to danger; they move about over the narrow frames and between the bells, which can come 'off,' many of them, quite easily; they turn clappers or make other adjustments involving, perhaps, leaning over the bell itself, and never once do they take count of the risk that is being run. Major Hudson was familiar with the belfry at Bishopwearmouth; for years he had been accustomed to going up among the bells, and the tragedy which has overtaken him probably came when he was thinking least of danger. He will be deeply regretted throughout the Exercise. In his own diocese he was known as a competent and accomplished ringer. He was one who made a name for himself when quite young, and he always maintained a keen interest in the art. But not only will his death be mourned by the members of the Durham and Newcastle Association; his loss to the church and town of Bishopwearmouth is equally lamented. Churchwarden and Sunday School worker, he was also a valued officer of the local Territorials, one section of which he commanded during the war.

This fatality is the second within less than a year caused by a bell going over, for only last December an elderly clockmaker was killed while mending the hammer connections at Thetford Church, Norfolk. Can these accidents be averted? Obviously it cannot be said at any time that it is really 'safe' to go among bells that are up. There is never room to spare, and in these days of iron frames the available space is even less than in the old days, when the bell cages were made of stout wooden beams. The foothold is often precarious, and the slightest slip may end in tragedy, as it did in the case of Major Hudson, for it is believed he slipped off the frame, probably on account of some snow caked on his boot. Despite the risks, however, it is often necessary for someone to go among the bells while they are in the 'danger' position, and the most that can be done is to exercise the greatest care.

At present no 'locking' device of an effective nature seems to be on the market, otherwise, we imagine, the bell founders would have adopted it. They have introduced many 'gadgets,' but this is one which does not yet seem to have been sufficiently explored. Something simple and efficient is undoubtedly wanted. Failing this, in the case of heavy bells which have a knack of going up with the clapper on the wrong side, there ought to be provided a device for turning the clapper over. There is such a one in existence, and founders might well be asked to instal it where a bell habitually goes up the wrong way. Another partial safeguard would be to run a handrail above the frames about the height of the average man's head, so that it might easily be grasped by one hand when a person is making his way among the bells. And then there is the question of lighting the bell loft. Often, even in daylight, this is a dark apartment, and in many cases there is no artificial illumination, except perhaps a candle. It is almost inviting accident for a man to go among bells thus equipped, and wherever possible church authorities should be made to see the importance of proper lighting in this part of the tower.

The first peal of Stedman Triples rung by the College Youths was accomplished at St. Mary Abbots, Kensington, on Dec. 4th, 1803. It was thus more than 70 years after the first peal in the method rung at Norwich. Incidentally, the anniversary of the Goslany peal, also rung in 1731, occurs on Saturday.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

The South and West District of the Middlesex County Association and London Diocesan Guild held its last meeting of the year at St. John's, Hillingdon, on Saturday, Nov. 21st.

Owing to the death of Queen Alexandra the bells were rung half-muffled, and unfortunately it made a great difference to the attendance.

However, some good practice was put it. Grandsire and Stedman Cutters and Cambridge Royal and Major were rung before service, which was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. H. J. Kitcat).

After service, tea was served at the Church Hall by Miss Grace Baker. A company, numbering 30, sat down to an excellent repast, presided over by the Vicar, supported by the Ringing Master and Messrs. J. R. Mackman and C. T. Coles.

At the business meeting which followed, a vote of condolence was passed to His Majesty the King on his sad bereavement, the company standing in silence, with bowed heads, as a tribute to the late Queen.

The usual vote of thanks was accorded to the Vicar, organist, hostess and her assistants, and to the steeplekeeper (Mr. F. T. Smith), for their services.

Handbell ringing was indulged in by several members, after which the tower was again visited, and standard methods rung. The meeting closed with the Ringing Master's and hon. secretary's best thanks to all for their attendance and support.

BELL RESTORATION AT COUND, SALOP.

On Saturday, Nov. 14th, six members of St. Chad's Society paid a visit to Cound to test the go of the bells at St. Peter's Church, which have just been rehung by Messrs. J. Taylor and Co. in a new iron and steel frame of the 'A' type, in plain bearings. A set of guides has been put in on account of the long draught of rope. The bells, which are by Abraham Rudhall, have been tuned, and are now a very nice musical ring. Mr. C. R. Lilley, of Shrewsbury, acted as clerk of the works for the Restoration Committee. The bells date back to the 17th century, and hang in a very large and massive tower. The committee have had a new frame put in for eight bells, and it is hoped to complete the octave in the near future. The 'go' of the bells is perfect.

After the peal rung on them on November 14th, the ringers and some of the local men were entertained to tea by the Rector (the Rev. G. H. Lambert), who gave the visitors a hearty welcome. The band tendered their thanks to the Rector and to Messrs. Hartland (churchwarden) and Vincent for their assistance.

A BIRTHDAY PEAL.*HOW 'HENRY THE EIGHTH' NEARLY BROKE A ROPE.

'Henry the Eighth' decided we should go North for his anniversary peal this year. So on November 14th we hied us to that place which he had ordained. After groping our way through the fog ('we were led'), trying to view the ancient Abbey with its groined gateway, pointed out to us by the 'Deane of Bolton,' we eventually found 'ye kirk' of Whalley, but no sign of 'the Eighth.' Whilst viewing the stone coffin and very ancient tombstones, a bob loomed up out of the mist, 'Where's t'other' was hurled at it. 'Coomin,' was the reply. So we ascended the tower and pushed the bells oopside down.

'Eh, mon, but you tenor is a gradely bell.'

We sorted ourselves out, Henry planting himself on ye box, with the Knight of Preston for neighbour. Soon we were rolling along to Superlative. 'Ah wonder if yon pair were born on boxes.' We were tapping in grand style when it was observed that all was not well with the 'big un's' rope. He had about six feet too much; and, worse still, a large piece of fluff came floating down, followed by more and more. One and a half hours to go—would it hang on? Several faces were observed to be flat on one side, and a few hearts beat with a wooden clapper until 5-6 came home, followed by the welcome, 'That's all.' But ah felt real sorry for yon rope. Imagine seventeen stone leaning on a single strand. Mon, it were enough to bend it, but 'All's well that ends well,' and yon affair ended orest by Henry taking us to one of those houses where we had something damp, and cheese, bread and pickled onions in the titium position. Well, Sir Harry, many happy returns, and may you have 62 more of 'em, is the wish of

THE SIXTH BEHIND THE NINTH.

HALESOWEN PEAL TABLET.

An interesting event took place in the belfry of the Parish Church on Thursday, Nov. 5th, when Mrs. Kennerley, the wife of one of the churchwardens, unveiled a tablet recording the peal of London Surprise Major rung on the bells on 17th May, 1924, to celebrate the 80th birthday of Mr. Elijah White, Halesowen's oldest ringer. The Vicar (the Rev. H. C. A. Colville) dedicated the tablet, after which the non-ringing members of the congregation present in the belfry saw how Stedman Triples, Cambridge and London Surprise Major were rung. Mrs. Kennerley very kindly entertained the ringers and friends to refreshments afterwards.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

Among the memorial peals rung, one of the most noteworthy was that at Liverpool, where a band of Liverpool ringers scored a peal of Stedman Cinques, the first in the method by a resident band in Liverpool since March 25th, 1863—the year in which Queen Alexandra came to England. Such a success as that scored the other day, seemed far distant a week previously, but a quarter-peal rung during the week encouraged the band to make the attempt, and a splendid peal at the first attempt was the reward of their efforts.

In reference to the peal, at St. Clement Danes, in which Mr. Tom Bennet, one of the oldest and most respected members of the Ancient Society of College Youths, took part, it is interesting to recall, that previous to this peal, Mr. Bennet's last peal of Stedman Caters was rung at St. Dunstan's, Stepney, in the year 1878, conducted by the late Mr. Henry W. Haley.

It will interest members of the Exercise who are Freemasons to know that Mr. John D. Matthews, Master of the Royal Cumberlands, who conducted the half-muffled peal of Stedman Cinques at Shore-ditch on Saturday, is a member of the 'Rose of Denmark' Lodge, and that this lodge, established in 1863, was named after the Princess Alexandra of Denmark.

Another illustration of 'a way they have in the Army' was forthcoming on Saturday. C.O.M.S. Gilbert, R.E., rang in a muffled peal in the afternoon at Guildford, and the bells came round at 5.35 p.m. At 6 o'clock he was in Aldershot, ten miles away, ready to start for another peal, with his own band, and this also was successful. Some going this! We haven't heard how fast he travelled over the Hog's Back on his motor-cycle.

Master John Roscamp, son of the enterprising Vicar of St. Nicholas' Wallasey, recently gave a lecture on change ringing to his school-fellows at Birkenhead School, in the presence of their Form Master. The lecture was illustrated by pictures and diagrams, and was followed with close interest. The youthful lecturer is 16 years of age. He rings the treble to Minor methods, and hopes shortly to begin the inside work.

On December 8th, 1746, 10,080 Bob Major was rung at Harrietsham, Kent, and on the same day in 1883, the then record of 11,111 Stedman Caters at Fulham. Half of the band that rang in this latter peal are still alive.

For the first time, the anniversary of the first peal at St. Paul's Cathedral, rung on Dec. 10th, 1881, will find no survivor of that interesting performance, Mr. Ted Horrex having been the last of that company.

A peal of 'Real Double Caters' was rung at St. Magnus', London Bridge, on Dec. 10th, 1770, composed and conducted by George Gross.

At the age of 17 years, Robert Porter called '5,040 Holt's Grandfire Trebles' at Kingston-on-Thames on December 10th, 1780. This was probably a record in youthful accomplishment at that time, for in those days young men were not encouraged to rapid progress, and the art of 'conducting' was made something of a mystery by the men who were the 'bob callers', and their knowledge was only grudgingly imparted to others.

Members of the Surrey Association are advised that the meeting arranged for to-morrow at East Molesey has been postponed to Dec. 12th.

TRAGIC ACCIDENT IN A BELFRY.

MAJOR R. C. HUDSON KILLED AT BISHOPWEARMOUTH.

A terrible fatality occurred in the belfry of Bishopwearmouth Parish Church, Durham, on Thursday of last week. Major Robert Challis Hudson, churchwarden, and one of the ringers, went to the church to muffle the bells in readiness for the memorial service for Queen Alexandra, which was to be held the next day, and while engaged in the task, apparently slipped on the frame, and pulled the seventh bell over with him, jamming him between the bell and the ironwork, and killing him. The tragic discovery was made by his brother, Mr. Thomas Hudson, who went to the tower when Major Hudson failed to return. It was necessary to obtain the aid of police and firemen with block and tackle to release the body. Needless to say, the fatality caused deep regret in the town, where Major Hudson was well known and highly respected, and widespread sympathy has been expressed with the relatives.

The distressing circumstances were inquired into by the Deputy Coroner on Friday. Mr. Thomas Hudson said his brother was a member of his firm, which carried on business as ironmongers at 314, High Street West, Sunderland. About 11.15 a.m. on Thursday he went to the belfry to muffle the bells in preparation for the memorial service. He went alone, and was familiar with the work, having done it on previous occasions. It was his custom to do it alone. Witnesses heard the noise of the bells being raised while his brother was up, indicating that he was engaged on the work of muffling. As he seemed a long time in returning witness went up among the bells, and saw three of them turned up in position ready to be muffled. He found his brother lying over the framework between the two heaviest bells, Nos. 7 and 8. His head was hanging down into the pit, and the body was jammed between No. 7 bell and some of the ironwork between the bells. He was then quite dead.

The Coroner: What do you think was the cause?

Witness: I think the most likely thing is that he had some snow on his boot, which caused him to slip on the framework. I think he would fall against the wheel, and bring the bell over on to him.

Further questioned, the witness said the bell weighed about 11 cwt. His brother had been connected with the belfry about 35 years. He saw it was impossible to get the body out, and after ringing the bells down for safety he sent to the Ambulance Station for assistance. A block and tackle had to be obtained to get the body released, and it was taken to his residence close by. Witness did not think there would have been any advantage if another person had been there; it might have meant double risk. There was no one else in the church at the time. Drs. P. Hickey and G. Robinson saw the body before its removal from the belfry.

P.C. J. R. Bailes said that at 1.3 p.m. a telephone message was received from headquarters, and he took the ambulance to the church door. He went up to the belfry with Sergt. Harrison and other officers, and found the deceased man fastened between the wheels of the bells. They endeavoured to release him, but without success. A chain block and tackle was sent for, and by this means the bell was moved, and the body released. The injuries were about the chest and back, and there was bleeding from the nose and mouth, indicating internal injuries.

This concluded the evidence, and the Coroner, in recording his verdict of 'Accidental death,' took the opportunity of expressing his deep sympathy with the family in their bereavement. By the death of Mr. Hudson they had lost a faithful brother, the Parish Church and Sunday School a zealous worker, and the community a loyal citizen and a patriot. It seemed to have been very unfortunate that he should have met his death while performing a voluntary act to assist in the service of his Church and State, to both of which he had given so much time during his life. It would be some consolation to the family to know that they did not grieve alone, but that there were others that mourned his loss, especially on such an occasion.

The Rector (the Rev. Preb. A. B. Wynne Willson), who was present said he would like to be associated with those expressions of sympathy. There would be a further opportunity to deal with it, and he only desired to add that the family, the officials and congregation of the Church greatly appreciated the admirable way the police worked to extricate the body.

Mr. T. Hudson: I thank you, gentlemen, for your expressions of sympathy.

Major Robert Challis Hudson, who was born on December 31st, 1873, was the second son of the late Mr. Thomas Hudson, whose father established the ironmongery business in High Street West, with which the deceased gentleman was connected. He was a bachelor, and lived above the shop with a brother and two sisters.

From boyhood he had been connected with Bishopwearmouth Parish Church. For many years he had been in charge of the bell ringers' band there. He was a prominent member of Durham and Newcastle Diocesan Association, which he joined in 1889, and was vice-president for the two years before the war.

Major Hudson started ringing when quite young, and rang his first peal when 15 years of age. When only 16, he was included in a band which visited the Midlands, and he rang in two peals—at Leicester and Nottingham. He took part in the first peal of Royal by the Association at Newcastle Cathedral in 1892, and the first peal of Maximus by the Association, which was rung at St. Peter Mancroft, Norwich, in 1894. In all he rang some 60 peals, but his activities outside his own tower were curtailed in later years by the claims of business. It was he and his father, the late Mr. Thomas Hudson, who taught the rudiments of ringing to the band of St. Ignatius, Sunderland, when the bells were put in 27 years ago.

Major Hudson held several positions in connection with Bishopwearmouth Parish Church, to which he was devoted, and for the last three years he had been people's warden. He was a teacher in the Church Sunday School, and took a keen interest in the Church's Mission work and in work among the young people.

Originally joining the artillery as a private, he afterwards was promoted to the rank of sergeant, and then transferred to the Royal Army Service Corps, where he received a commission.

For many years before the war he had been an officer in the local Transport Section of the Royal Army Service Corps (Territorials), and when war broke out he was Major in charge of the section. In April, 1915, he went to France, attached to the 7th D.L.I. Territorials, for the provisioning of which his section was responsible. Major Hudson served in France until the end of the war, and for some time after, and was twice mentioned in dispatches.

Major Hudson was exceptionally well known in Sunderland and district in Church circles, and among military men, and he was held in the highest respect. He was present on the day before his death at the memorial service at Christ Church to the late Col. Vaux. His tragic death came as a great shock to his many friends, who treasured him for his sunny, warm-hearted disposition, and for his unselfish service to many good causes.

At the memorial service, for which Major Hudson was muffling the bells when the fatality happened, Canon A. McCullagh (Vicar of Christ Church) said, in the course of an address: May I say at the outset what I am sure must be appermost in all our hearts, how deeply we all feel the tragic calamity which took place yesterday within the precincts of this church, and which has cast an added sadness over this memorial service. It is hard for us to realise that only on Wednesday afternoon Robert Hudson was taking part in a memorial service such as this, and that now he has passed 'to where beyond these voices there is peace.' Words are poor things at a time like this, but I feel I must say on your behalf, as I do on my own, how deep and real our sympathy is with those whose home is darkened, and whose hearts are bleeding by this loss. It is with feelings of disappointment, I am sure, that the Rector finds himself unfitted to speak the few words we hoped to hear from him this morning, and it is at his request that I stand in his place.

The funeral took place on Monday.

At St. Oswald's Church, West Hartlepool, 648 Grandsire Caters were rung for evening service on Nov. 29th: G. Wright 1, Miss E. Stephenson 2, S. Cook 3, S. Breeze 4, S. Smith 5, F. Robson 6, E. Burnett 7, H. Champion 8, R. Stephenson (conductor) 9, A. Stone 10. All the above are local ringers, and the bells were rung muffled as a mark of deepest respect to Major R. C. Hudson.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

NEWBURY BRANCH SECRETARY RETIRES.

The annual meeting of the Newbury Branch was held at Newbury on Saturday, November 21st, 53 members being present. A service was conducted by the Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn (Master of the Guild), and tea was afterwards served in the Parish Room by the ringers' wives.

The business meeting was presided over by the Rector, the Rev. L. R. Majendie (chairman of the branch), who welcomed the ringers.

The Rev. E. M. Thorpe (hon. secretary and treasurer) wished to resign, after 17 years' service, and was accorded a hearty vote of thanks for the work he had done for the branch. Mr. H. W. Curtis, of Newbury, was then elected to the office of hon. secretary and treasurer.

The general secretary (Mr. R. T. Hibbert) being present, thanked the Newbury branch for the way they had subscribed to the Washbrook Memorial Fund. Reference was made by the Master in his address, and by the chairman, to the death of Mr. George Davis (foreman of Bucklebury tower), and all present stood for a few moments in silence as a last mark of respect.

Mr. H. W. Curtis proposed a vote of thanks to the Master for his excellent address, also to the Rev. L. R. Majendie for presiding at the organ.

The bells were rung fully muffled during the day as a token of respect to the late Queen Alexandra.

The broadcasting of Bow bells on Sunday was again a great success, and the striking was perfect.

NOTES BY THE WAY.

HENRY HUBBARD'S LAST DAYS.

By J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

In 1843 Hubbard rang the tenor to 5,248 Oxford Treble Bob at St. Michael's. James Truman, who had now made good his place as conductor, called the bobs. And then, from 1845 to 1852, Hubbard was away from Norwich, and did no ringing of any account. After his return he took part in a peal of Stedman Triples at St. Michael's Coslany, and 5,076 Stedman Caters at St. Nicholas', Yarmouth. This last peal also was called by Truman. The composition was by Shipway, and turned out to be false. That was the last peal Hubbard rang with the Norwich Scholars.

On February 2nd, 1856, he went to live at Leeds, where he passed the remaining twenty-five years of his life. He reached Leeds on a Saturday, and like a good ringer, went the next day to the parish church to ring for service. They were short-handed, and asked him to join them, and for the rest of his days he belonged to the Leeds St. Peter's Society of Ringers. But the St. Peter's, Leeds, band was a very different thing from the St. Peter's, Norwich, band. Some were incompetent, and some were indifferent, and nothing of any account was done all the time he was connected with them. It is related that as one of the band could not master the slow work of Stedman, Hubbard composed touches, and even a peal in which one bell always went in quick. We are not surprised to hear that the peal was never rung. He did ring a few peals in Leeds and the neighbourhood, one of Grandshire Triples, one of Kent Treble Bob Royal, and the rest Kent Treble Bob Major. His last peal which he conducted was 5,088 Kent Major, at Guiseley on August 23rd, 1868, when in his sixty-first year. In 1881, from bad health he had fallen into a state of destitution, and, at a general meeting of the Yorkshire Association, a fund was started for his relief. An appeal, signed by Jasper Snowden, was printed in 'The Bell News' (then just started and appearing in monthly numbers); but before all the money was collected Henry Hubbard was dead. He was buried at Hunslet, and after paying the funeral expenses the balance of the fund was devoted to providing a headstone to the grave. It is lettered as follows:—

As a Tribute of Respect to
HENRY HUBBARD, CHANGE RINGER,
Born at Norwich, August 25th, 1810.
Died at Hunslet, October 9th, 1881.
Aged 71 years.

Author of the 'Elements of Campanologia,' twenty years a member of the Society of Norwich Scholars, and afterwards for twenty-two years a ringer at the Leeds Parish Church. This stone was erected by the contributions of change ringers from different parts of the country.

Among the subscribers appear the names of J. R. Haworth, William Banister, C. H. Battersley, H. Johnson, J. Carter, Rev. F. E. Robinson and J. F. Penning.

Hubbard had one son, also called Henry, who rang a few peals. He was born while his father was up in St. Giles' belfry ringing the peal of Double Oxford in 1832.

With the departure of Hubbard from Norwich, the history of the old Norwich Scholars practically came to an end. There was still a first-class band and still first-class ringing, but they were now inclined to rest on their laurels. A peal or two was rung, but nothing worthy of any particular notice. The older men dropped out, and their places were not filled by men of the same capacity. Charles Middleton was the last man of outstanding ability that joined them. Especially they lacked a good leader. If such a man as Melchior or Chestnut or Thurston had appeared, there is no reason why the old tradition should not have lasted unbroken to the present day. But there was no such man. About 1880 ringing in Norwich had reached its lowest ebb. And then, when the bells were relung, the turn came. A younger generation was growing up, and under the leadership of Mr. Frederick Kinghs Norwich once more became a peal ringing centre. Circumstances, however, were now different. In other parts of the country progress was much more rapid, and Manroft had lost and has never recovered the predominant position in the Exercise it held for more than a century and a half.

The Society of Norwich Scholars still exists, but in a feeble and dormant condition. It has now no connection with St. Peter Mancroft. Some years ago a clean break was made with the past, and the Guild that now rings there is a recent society. The property of the old society is held by a small benefit or 'nurse' club, which was originally, and I dare say is still, composed of persons more or less connected with ringing. The property includes a leather trunk made by Porter, the composer of Double Norwich Court Bob, a set of handbells, a set of pewter flagons, a peal book, and several portraits of bygone ringers. As this nurse club has held this property for many years, its title to it is quite good, and so long as the present members are alive there is no fear that it will be lost. It would be a great pity, however, if in the future anything should so happen that it should be dispersed. The old ringers' jug of brown earthenware did get lost, and after some adventures was purchased by a local antiquary, and re-presented to St. Peter's belfry. It has now been placed among the other church treasures, but in the sacristy at the east end, and not, as it should be, in the tower. One must respect the rights and feelings of the remaining Norwich Scholars, but it would be a very desirable thing if some time in the future all this old and interesting property could be collected and placed in St. Peter's belfry.

THE FIRST PEAL AT CARLISLE CATHEDRAL.

NEWCASTLE CATHEDRAL GUILD'S VISIT.

The lure of the reorganised peal of bells in Carlisle Cathedral tower drew the Newcastle Cathedral Guild to fix their annual week-end vacation so late as November 21st, the new bells having been dedicated only as recently as November 12th. Starting early that Saturday morning, they arrived in time to find the Dean, Dr. Stuart, in consultation with the local saddler in regard to mufles for the bells, to the memory of the beloved Queen-Mother. Here our one and only, W. H. Barber, slipped in and fixed up the right stuff for an efficient half-muffle, and these were fixed in the afternoon while a band had a shot for a peal of Stedman at St. Stephen's. These, too, were muffled beforehand by Mr. Robt. Brown, of the local society, but unfortunately the peal only survived the second part of 'Heywood's No. 6,' and fell to a 'swap-course.'

The event of the visit 'got away' by 5.50 p.m., and a beautifully struck 5,040, necessarily slow, ran home at 9.20, much to the delight of both ringers and listeners. Here we must state our regrets that both Mr. Story, the ex-president of the Association of Durham and Newcastle, and our 'young' friend, Mr. Alf. Hillier, could not stand in the peal, through temporary indisposition, but their places were splendidly filled by Messrs. Payne and Sinclair, the former assuring the Ringing Master that he felt as if he had at last got his 'cap in the county team.' Thus was rung the first peal on the bells, and the first peal of Stedman in Cumberland.

The whole peal is now a most harmonious ring of eight, though there has been no recasting. They are a well-balanced and a perfectly running peal, and do credit to Messrs. Mears and Stainbank, who took the work in hand.

On Sunday, the 22nd, we rang for service at the Cathedral in the morning, with the 'whole pull and stand,' to finish, and in the afternoon practically the same band rang for that service also, bringing round three touches of Stedman Triples: J. E. Keen (conductor) 1, A. F. Hillier 2, G. Pickering 3, G. W. Murray 4, J. Foreman 5, W. W. Sinclair 6, R. Thompson 7, A. M. Hall 8. The other six of the 'fourteen strong' went to St. Stephen's, and were joined by two of the local company in a touch of 1,092 Stedman Triples, the first in the method for both these latter for over 13 years: C. L. Routledge (conductor) 1, W. Story 2, A. Payne 3, J. Rowell 4, W. H. Barber 5, Robt. Brown (Carlisle) 6, Oswald Simm 7, John Partington (Carlisle) 8.

We all attended the service, after ringing, by the kindly invitation of the Vicar (the Rev. D. W. Irving). The Dean of Carlisle gave the address, which had as its basis the history of the bells of Carlisle Cathedral.

After the service, we thanked the Dean and the Vicar of St. Stephen's for their kindly hospitality, and for the use of their bells, and wended our way back to the hotel for tea. Thence to the station for home, having spent a most agreeable, successful and happy time in Carlisle. The peal report appeared in last week's issue. C. L. R.

SUSSEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

CENTRAL DIVISION AT STEYNING.

A quarterly meeting of the Western Division of the Sussex County Association was held at Steyning on Saturday, Nov. 21st, when there was a good attendance of members from Brighton, Hoene, Shoreham, Shipley, Billingshurst, Pulborough, Slinfold, Ardingly, West Grinstead, Henfield, Warnham, and the local band. Owing to the death of the Queen-Mother, the bells were half-muffled. Some excellent courses and touches in the standard methods were rung during the afternoon, and the company were entertained to tea at 'The Tea Gardens,' High Street, by the Vicar (the Rev. E. W. Cox). Before the meal the company stood in silence as a tribute of respect to Queen Alexandra.

There was but little business at the meeting which followed, two members only were elected, viz., Mr. Bowden, of London, and Mr. J. F. Cole, of Godalming. Angmering was chosen as the venue for the next meeting.

Mr. J. T. Rickman (the Master) proposed a vote of thanks to the Vicar for his welcome, for granting the use of the bells, and for providing the excellent tea.—After a suitable response from the Vicar, during which he gave a brief history of the ringing of bells in Steyning some 500 years ago, a vote of thanks was accorded Mr. W. Hills for making the local arrangements. Another visit was then made to the belfry, and the bells kept going for another hour or so.

A HANTS PEAL RESTORED. SOPLEY BELLS HEARD AT ABERDEEN.

On Saturday, November 28th, the Bishop of Southampton dedicated the restored tower of the ancient Church of St. Michael, Sopley, and the light peal of five bells. A few years ago a serious fissure was found in the tower masonry, owing to the vibration of the loose bell frame. The belfry was cleared out, and with the use of liquid cement grouting the stonework was made sound. In the meanwhile the bells were sent to Croydon, where Messrs. Gillett and Johnston found it necessary to recast the first three and the tenor. The whole peal was originally cast in 1784 by Robert Patrick, a cheesemonger, who married Sarah Oliver, the grand-daughter of the celebrated Thomas Lester of the Whitechapel Foundry. Patrick started an opposition foundry in Whitechapel in 1782, which apparently closed down in 1786. His sole contribution to Surrey is the peal of eight at Reigate, one or two bells in Essex, the treble at Iwer, 2nd and 3rd at Pitstone, both in Bucks, and a few more elsewhere. The new tenor is 11 dia, and weighs 7 cwt. 1 qr. 5 lbs., the whole peal weighs 26 cwt. 0 qr. 11 lbs. They were all rehung with new fittings in a new steel frame by the Croydon firm, and the tuning and 'go' of this light ring are admirable.

The dedication service was at 6 p.m., when the church was completely filled with parishioners and others from the district. The Bishop was attended by the Rev. C. E. Matthews, Rural Dean of Lyndhurst, and vice-president of the Winchester Diocesan Guild, as chaplain. The other clergy present were the Rers. R. F. Pechey (Holy Trinity, Bournemouth), Dr. M. C. Potter (New Milton), W. G. Cobbett (Barton), A. K. Cobb (Bisterne), and the Vicar of Sopley (Rev. J. F. Vallings). The usual dedicatory prayers were said by the Bishop: Psalm 150, hymns 308 and 396, and the Te Deum by Villiers Stanford, led by the choir of Holy Trinity, Bournemouth, were sung.

The Bishop gave a short address, based on Psalm xvi, 12, 'In Thy presence is the fulness of joy.' He dwelt on the joyous voices of the bells in Christian lands, as opposed to the monotonous clang of single bells and gongs in heathen countries (especially Japan), and reminded his hearers of various notes of joy before, in, and after worship in God's church. Might these bells reflect some message of joy and happiness in the hearts of all who heard them, and called them to the House of God.

Mr. George Preston, hon. secretary of the Christchurch district, made admirable arrangements for the opening ringing. After service, various six-scores of Stedman and Grandsire Doubles were rung by Miss C. Sparshott, Rev. Dr. Potter, Messrs. A. N. Wooff, G. W. Stone, F. Sparshott, G. Preston, Cyril Johnson, (Croydon), G. Pullinger (hon. secretary of Diocesan Guild), W. Simmonds, W. Robinson, and others.

Ringers attended from Bournemouth, North Stoneham, Bransgore and Christchurch. The service and ringing were broadcast from the Bournemouth wireless station, and distinctly heard at Aberdeen.

The total cost of the restoration work was £1,200.

SEVENTY-TWO YEARS—YOUNG. MR. JAMES GEORGE'S GREAT FEAT.

Wonderful, and still more wonderful, are the feats of that concentrated essence of physical energy—James George, of England. Last Friday he celebrated his 72nd birthday; on Saturday he stood for four hours and seven minutes on the tenor box at Bow, Cheapside, London, and turned in the 53 cwt. bell to a peal of Kent Treble Bob Maximus. Most men at his age would be resting on their laurels, and talking of what they had done. Mr. George, on the contrary, is adding conquest to conquest, and is talking of what he is going to do—and he has got a lot more in his programme yet.

We cannot say what his tally of peals is, because he goes ahead faster than we can keep count, but up to last Saturday he had rung no fewer than 58 this year. If he had only thought about it in time he might have put in one for every year of his life, but he can see about that next year, when he will have to make it 73. His grand aggregate is—or was—870, it is probably more before this appears in print. Last Saturday he finished 'as fresh as paint, and just as pretty,' and we really believe he would have started for another peal on the same bell the same night if he had had the opportunity. Instead, he had to start for Birmingham.

But, jesting aside, Mr. George is to be congratulated upon his great performance. For a man of his years it is little short of marvellous. Twice, in 1925, within a year of reaching the 'allotted span,' he turned Southwark tenor (50 cwt.) in, and since he passed this memorable milestone, he has rung Sheffield (40 cwt.), Great Yarmouth (30 cwt.) and Bow (53 cwt.) tenors, to peals of Treble Twelve. Saturday's peal had been arranged as a birthday compliment to Mr. George, but it was converted into a memorial peal for Queen Alexandra, and rung with the bells half-muffled.

M.P. ON THE SUPPRESSION OF BELLS.

The Rev. F. L. Edwards, hon. secretary of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild, having written to a prominent M.P. on the subject of Mr. Lewis' proposed legislation, has received the following answer:—

'If the "Society for the Suppression of Expressions of Joy" try it on the bells, they will be sat upon by me and by every right-thinking member of the House. I have heard nothing yet of their activities, but they will hear of me, if they come into the light.'

A PEAL IN AUSTRALIA.

MELBOURNE CATHEDRAL BAND'S SUCCESS.

We referred last week to an attempt for a peal of Grandsire that had been made at St. Paul's Cathedral, Melbourne. News has now come to hand, via a letter to Mr. George Williams, of Southampton, from Mr. W. P. Madgwick, that another attempt made on Sept. 20th was successful. Reeves' variation of Holt's ten-part was rung on the back eight of the twelve in 3 hrs. 25 mins. This is the fourth peal rung on the bells, and it is 21 years since the last peal was rung there.

Mr. J. H. Guest, the Master of the band, who is 83, rang the sixth, and 'rang it very well.' When it is remembered that the tenor is 31 cwt., and that opportunities to practise long lengths are rare, this will be recognised as a fine achievement on the part of Mr. Guest, who was responsible for forming the first society of change ringers in Melbourne in 1882.

We hope we may receive full particulars of this peal by an early mail.

NORTHERN DISTRICT ANNUAL MEETING.

On Saturday, November 28th, the annual meeting of the Northern District was held at the beautiful Church of St. Andrew, Earls Colne, and notwithstanding a blinding snowstorm, and the dangerous state of the roads for cyclists, a good number of ringers met, and a very successful meeting was the outcome.

Earls Colne is noted for its connection with the De Vere family, Earls of Oxford and hereditary Great Chamberlains of England. They were also connected with Castle Hedingham, the Castle there being built by Aubrey de Vere (a general who fought with the Conqueror at Hastings), probably between 1088 and 1107. He also, about the same time, founded Colne Priory, where there are preserved four Altar-Tombs to the memory of various De Veres, Earls of Oxford.

The usual ringers' service was held, conducted by the priest-in-charge (the Rev. M. Wontner), who gave an interesting address to the ringers from the words, 'Let all things be done decently and in order.'

After the service, the ringers sat down to tea at the George Hotel, the Rev. M. Wontner being in the chair. Ringers, to the number of 23, were present from Earls Colne, Braintree, Greenstead Green, Feering, Rayne, Sible Hedingham, Great Tey, Halstead, whilst others from Maldon had had to leave earlier.

At the close of the tea, the annual business meeting was held. Mr. L. W. Wiffen, District Master, presided, supported by Mr. C. H. Howard, Master of the Association, and Mr. W. H. Dyson, district secretary. The secretary gave a report of the results of the past year in the district, which showed that 11 peals had been rung, viz.: Kent Treble Bob 1, Double Norwich 1, Superlative Surprise 3, Cambridge 4, London Surprise 4, on tower bells; and one of Bob Major on hand-bells, all of which had been conducted by Mr. Wm. Keeble, of Feering. During the year six meetings had been held, with an average attendance of 31, and 18 new ringing members and six probationers were elected. The secretary also touched upon the numerical and financial position of the district, and upon two important events; first, the opening of a peal board at Braintree recording four Surprise peals; and, secondly, the reopening of the restored ring at Welbersfield. He also mentioned that Mr. C. Bearman, of Bocking, had passed away in his 88th year, he being one of the original founders of the Essex Association.

Mr. L. W. Wiffen, the retiring District Master, declined, for business reasons, to stand again, and the meeting unanimously elected Mr. F. Claydon, of Earls Colne, to that office, and thanked Mr. Wiffen for his past services.

The district secretary, Mr. W. H. Dyson, was re-elected for the year 1926.

It was resolved that, subject to the approval of the authorities, the first meeting in the New Year be held at Kelvedon.

Votes of thanks were accorded, on the proposition of Mr. C. H. Howard, and seconded by the district secretary, to the Rev. M. Wontner for his helpful address, and for holding the service; to the organisers; and to the Earls Colne band for the arrangements they had made for the meeting.—To this suitable replies were made.

During the day, a number of touches of various methods were rung, the bells being deeply muffled.

QUEEN ALEXANDRA'S DEATH.

A considerable number of muffled peals were rung last week as a tribute to the dead Queen-Mother, and in practically every church, where there is a ring of bells, there has been muffled ringing. Among the large number of touches rung have been the following:—

LONDON COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

The bi-monthly meeting of the Northern District was held at St. Mary's, Whitechapel, on Saturday, Nov. 21st. The bells of St. Dunstan's-in-the-East were available during the afternoon. Ringing commenced at St. Dunstan's at 3 p.m., and good touches in standard methods and a course of Cambridge Major being brought round. A move was then made to St. Mary Matfelou, where a touch of Stedman Triples was rung prior to service, at which the Rector (the Rev. J. O. Mayo) officiated. Tea was provided in the Church Hall by the kindness of the Rector, about 25 members and friends being present. At the business meeting, the District Master (Mr. Allaway) presided. The tower of St. Magnus-the-Martyr, Lower Thames Street, was decided upon for the annual district meeting on Saturday, January 16th, subject to permission.

A hearty vote of thanks was accorded the Rev. J. O. Mayo for the use of the bells, and for so kindly providing tea; to the ladies who waited at table; to Mr. Wallage (steepiekeeper), and to the Vicar of St. Dunstan's and Mr. Taffender for the use of that tower.—In his reply, the Rev. J. O. Mayo alluded to the beautiful solemnity of the half-muffled ringing, the bells having been half-muffled during the whole of the meeting as a mark of respect, on the nation's loss in the death of the Queen-Mother.

SIXTY YEARS A RINGER.

On Saturday, November 21st, at Hambledon, Hants, Mr. John Knight was laid to rest in the local cemetery. He had been for upwards of 60 years a ringer in the Hambledon band, and as a last token of respect 720 Grandsire Doubles, with the bells half-muffled, and 720 open, were rung at St. Peter and Paul's Church by H. Perkins 1, W. F. Hunt 2, W. B. Batts 3, J. Turner 4, W. Boyes (conductor) 5, E. Marsh 6. The bells were again rung half-muffled on the following day, after morning service.

COVENTRY BELLS' FATE.

The fate of Coventry bells will be decided early in the new year. The hearing of the petition for the faculty to recast the existing bells and to add four others to make a carillon of fourteen is fixed for January 4th, and the scheme is likely to meet with strenuous opposition. It is the unanimous opinion of those who heard the old bells rung—it is forty years since that was done—that this peal was one of the finest rings of ten in the country, and it is for that reason that no effort has been spared to save them from the melting pot. On the other hand, those who are anxious to see the carillon erected are arguing that the bells are overrated, and we have heard the view expressed that they could not even be tuned up to form the nucleus of a respectable carillon. These are vastly divergent opinions, and the case, when it comes to be heard, is likely to be the most interesting of its kind that has ever had to be settled. While ringers are often only too glad to use all their influence to get bells recast, this is, so far we know, the first instance where they have taken steps to save a peal of bells in the face of an official desire for a wholesale melting up.

When we commented previously upon this matter we made a protest against the scheme to recast the ten bells into fourteen smaller ones, and we are glad to learn that the intention now appears to be that the other four bells shall be cast of additional metal, for, apart from the preservation of the existing ring, it would have set an extremely unpleasant precedent to have heavy ringing bells melted down for a more numerous but lighter carillon. That point, at any rate, seems to have been gained at Coventry, and it now remains to see if the existing bells can be saved. The Central Council's action in the matter has been officially recognised, for the secretary has received formal notice of the hearing of the petition, and Mr. J. S. Pritchett (Recorder of Lincoln and a member of the Central Council) will appear as counsel in the case. This is the first occasion upon which any such intervention has taken place, and from that point of view alone the inquiry will be of importance to the Exercise. Whatever happens to the old bells, and all who heard them in the past hope they will be saved, we trust the spirit of the people of Coventry will lead them to erect the campanile, for which plans have long been in existence, so that the bells may not only be mechanically chimed, but also properly rung—it is rather ominous that the petition refers to the provision of 'a chime' and not a 'ring' or 'peal' of twelve bells. The bolder and finer scheme ought not to be beyond the financial power of a city like Coventry, and courage and enterprise would, we feel sure, see such a project carried to a successful conclusion.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION. MEETING AT HACKNEY.

The last meeting of the year in the North and East District of the Middlesex County Association and London Diocesan Guild was held on Saturday last at the Church of St. John of Jerusalem, South Hackney, and, being attended by nearly 40 members, was voted a success. Divine service was conducted by the Rector (the Rev. G. T. McLean), and the address was given by the Rev. J. O. Vince, Vicar of St. Mark's, Dalston. Subsequently the party sat down to tea in the Rectory as the guests of Mrs. McLean, who was, however, unfortunately prevented from being present to welcome the members. The Rector presided, and was supported by the Rev. J. O. Vince, Mr. F. A. Milne (president), Mr. W. Pickworth (vice-president), Mr. N. A. Tomlinson (District Master), Mr. C. T. Coles (hon. secretary), Mr. W. I'ye (Master), and many others.

At the usual business meeting, five new members were elected, and St. Giles'-in-the-Fields announced as the place of the next meeting on January 23rd, this being the annual meeting of the district.

The Hon. Secretary proposed a vote of thanks to the Rector and Mrs. McLean for their hospitality, and to all others concerned in making the meeting a success, including Mr. Riley (towerkeeper), Mr. Alleyway, etc.—This was seconded by Mr. F. A. Milne, and carried unanimously.—The Rev. G. T. McLean, in acknowledging the thanks of the members, welcomed them to South Hackney, and proceeded to amuse the company with quite a number of humorous anecdotes, but to relate them all would occupy too much space. Here is one, however:—

Johnny had swallowed a penny, and Tommy was sent by his mother for the doctor. As the local parson was also known by that title, Tommy went to the Rectory and knocked, asking for the doctor. The Rector said, 'Well, Tommy, and what do you require?' 'Oh, sir, Johnny has swallowed a penny, and mother wants you to come and get it out of his inside.' 'Oh!' said the clergyman, 'you have made a mistake. It is the medical doctor you want.' 'No,' said Tommy, 'it must be you, as I heard father say the other day that you were the best man he knew for getting money out of people!'

Some Stedman Caters having been rung on the handbells, the tower was again visited, quite a large number of methods being practised, including Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Bob Major, and London, Bristol, Superlative, Cambridge and Norfolk Surprise.

LANCASHIRE ASSOCIATION. PRESTON BRANCH.

A well-attended meeting of the above branch was held at Hoghton on Saturday, November 14th, when over thirty ringers were present, amongst whom were visitors from the Blackburn and Wigan branches, as well as representatives from eleven of the Preston branch towers. During the day, touches in the standard methods, as well as Double Norwich and Cambridge Surprise, were rung.

Tea was partaken of in the Parish School, where the members' wants were well attended to by the local ringers' wives and friends, to whom a hearty vote of thanks was given for their services. One of the ladies responded.

The business meeting was held in the ringing chamber, at which Mr. J. R. Taylor presided, and welcomed the members from the neighbouring branches.—Mr. Wilson, of Blackburn, replied, on behalf of the visitors, saying that he had pleasant recollections of coming to Hoghton, as it was there that he rang his first touch.

The Chairman then said he had, with regret, to move a vote of sympathy with the relatives of the late Mr. Wm. Nelson, of Leyland, who was interred that afternoon. A 720 of Kent Treble Bob Minor had been rung, as a last token of respect to one who had been connected with St. James', Leyland, as a ringer, chorister, sidesman and warden, for nearly fifty years.

Mr. E. R. Martin, in seconding, said he would like to extend the vote also to the relatives of the late Mr. Edwin Horrex, of London, who died on the previous Saturday. He added, that although most of the members would not know Mr. Horrex personally, his doings as 'the grand old man' of the Exercise were well known to most of them.—The vote was then passed, with the members standing in silence.

Among other items of business was the confirmation by the meeting of the election of four new members, these being Mr. H. Foster, of Chorley; Mr. W. H. Fussell, of Slough; Mr. W. J. Nevard, and Mr. Cecil Mayne, of Bucks, the last three having been proposed as life members previous to ringing a peal at Samlesbury.

The meeting also congratulated three branch members on ringing their first peal of Cambridge Surprise, but the writer is sorry to say that congratulations to Mr. B. A. Knights, on his having rung peals of Kent Treble Bob on 6, 8, 10 and 12 bells, were omitted, and would like to offer them to him, on behalf of the branch, through the medium of this report.

The meeting closed with the usual votes of thanks.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

The peal of Cambridge Surprise Minor on the light six at Loughborough Bell Foundry, the tenor being only 2 cwt. 1 qr. 5 lbs., and 22 inches in diameter, constitutes a record for light weight. It was also the quickest tower bell peal yet rung. By this peal, G. Stedman Morris, who is not yet 18, has now rung in peals of Cambridge Minor, Major, Royal and Maximus, and is the youngest to do so. The lightest tenor previously rung to a peal was Lye, Worcestershire, where the weight is just over 3 cwt. It would be interesting to know how the weights of the two trebles compare.

It is good news to learn that the people of Camberwell are inquiring what has become of the bells at St. Giles' Church, which have not been heard in peal for a considerable time. The cause of their silence is the want of overhaul, and now that the public are becoming interested the church authorities may think it an opportune moment to raise a restoration fund.

The Taunton band, who rang last Saturday the first seven-method Surprise Minor peal in Somerset, are to be congratulated upon their success, which is the reward of their continued perseverance.

The bells of Blackawton, Devon, have been silent for ten years, and the parishioners are now anxious to hear them again. Their silence is stated to be due to the fact that the ringers would not regularly attend church, and therefore the Vicar debarred them from ringing. Another attempt is now to be made to organise a band of ringers in the parish.

One of the earliest peals rung at St. Mary-le-Tower, Ipswich, was a peal of Grandsire Triples on December 12th, 1735, so that to-morrow is the 190th anniversary. It was recorded in the 'Ipswich Gazette,' and it is curious to note that the names of the ringers are given in reverse order, that is, beginning with the tenorman. He was James Kieridge, and his age was 61.

A peal of 6,400 Oxford Treble Bob Major was rung at Isleworth, Middlesex, on December 11th, 1770.

On December 12th, 1848, 7,392 Stedman Cinques was rung at Birmingham. Henry Johnson composed and conducted the peal, which was the longest in the method at that date.

In the year 1806, the week from Dec. 13th to Dec. 20th was productive of a great deal of ringing at Christ Church, Spitalfields, where at that time there was a ring of twelve bells. On Dec. 13th, the Senior Cumberland Youths rang over 5,500 changes in a fruitless attempt for a peal of Stedman Cinques, but were successful on the following Saturday, Dec. 20th, when they brought round a 6,334 in 4 hrs. 55 mins.

Between these two bouts of ringing, viz., on Dec. 15th, the Junior Cumberlands rang a peal of 5,886 in the same method. What would the inhabitants say to-day to such a 'feast' of ringing?

'Uncle' Joe Sykes has landed safely in England, after his adventures in the wilds of Manchuria. He had not been long on his native soil before he was busy with 'Yorkshire Glory,' and would probably have scored a peal before this had not a forgetful verger turned off the electric light at the main switch, in the twelfth course. In another attempt, however, he landed his peal of 'welcome,' and is now getting down to ringing business.

THE WASHBROOK MEMORIAL. DEDICATION OF BELLS AT OXFORD.

A congregation of about two hundred people, mostly ringers, assembled at St. Ebbe's Church, Oxford, on Saturday afternoon, for the dedication of the Washbrook Memorial. Among those present were: Canon Stansfeld (Rector of St. Ebbe's), the Master of the Oxford Guild (the Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn), Canon G. F. Coleridge (president of the Central Council), the Rev. F. Ll. Edwards (Master of the Salisbury Guild), the Rev. R. L. C. Newhouse, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Barker, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Lock, Misses S. Davis and M. M. Webb, Messrs. A. A. Hughes (College Youths), G. H. Phillott (Cheltenham), H. Chapman, Councillor Trippier, J. W. Washbrook (Manchester), G. A. Smith, R. T. Hibbert (general secretary, Oxford Guild), A. J. Wright (treasurer, Oxford Guild), R. White, G. Holfield, J. F. Barlow, W. J. Nevard, D. Napper, and representatives from eleven of the branches, including the following towers: Chipping Norton, Shipton, Chalgrove, Witney, Benson, Ardington, Eynsham, Goring, Stanton Harcourt, Chilton, Abingdon, Newbury, Appleton, Tackley, Yarnton, and St. Giles', St. Ebbe's, and All Saints', Oxford.

The memorial, as is well known, takes the form of the addition of two trebles to the six bells of St. Ebbe's, the existing six having been cleaned, tuned and rehung. In addition a bronze tablet has been placed near the entrance to the ringing chamber, bearing the following inscription:—

A.D. 1925.

The bells in this tower were repaired and rehung, and the two trebles added by the Oxford Diocesan Guild and ringers of the British Empire, in memory of James William Washbrook, a highly skilled ringer and talented composer, able conductor, and for many years instructor in the Guild.

Born 27th April, 1864. Died Christmas Day, 1923.

The ceremony, which took the form of the dedication service from the Oxford Diocesan Service Book, was conducted by the Master of the Oxford Guild, and the address was given by the Rev. Canon G. F. Coleridge. Led by the St. Ebbe's choir, the singing of such a large body of men was very hearty and inspiring.

In the middle of the service, the clergy, the choir, and a band of ringers chosen for the purpose, went in procession to the ringing chamber, where the new bells were consecrated and dedicated by Canon Coleridge, after which a few rounds were rung by the following: Canon Coleridge, Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn, Messrs. R. T. Hibbert, H. Chapman, R. White, W. H. B. Wilkins, J. Monk, and H. Miles.

In the course of his address, Canon Coleridge said that the ringers there assembled had just joined together in dedicating a memorial to James William Washbrook, one of the most noted ringers, if not the most noted, of all time. They had given these bells into the care of the parishioners of St. Ebbe's to be used in his memory, and for the honour and glory of the church. Canon Coleridge said that there were three reasons why he had been specially asked to undertake the dedication ceremony, and to address the ringers: (1) Because the Bishop of the Diocese was unable to come, as he had two Confirmation services that afternoon; (2) because as President of the Central Council of Church Bell Ringers he represented in a sense all the associations and individuals who had contributed to the erection of the memorial; and (3) because he was the only living ringing cleric who knew James W. Washbrook from his youth upwards, and the only one among the ringing clergy who had rung 87 peals with him, including a number of long peals, one of which was the 15,000 of Stedman Caters at Appleton. The preacher said he had visited many counties in company with Mr. Washbrook on ringing tours, and thus had had many opportunities of noting and admiring the character of this veritable prince among ringers.

Speaking of his recollections of Mr. Washbrook, Canon Coleridge said that he had first come into contact with him nearly fifty years ago, when he (Canon Coleridge) was an undergraduate member of the Oxford University Society of Change Ringers. Every Wednesday afternoon in term at 4.30, the society used to meet at St. Thomas's Church to ring on open bells. Young Washbrook took every possible opportunity, and made every possible excuse to be in the ringing chamber when this ringing took place, creeping up to watch the undergraduates painfully endeavouring to ring six-scores, and as he watched he wondered when he, too, would be able to do the like. When only about eight or nine years old, Washbrook was able to ring a bell, and chime three bells for the daily services, and whenever possible he would carry out the duty of tolling the death-bell for a death in the parish. Washbrook and his great friend, John Jagger, would often climb the ivy on the tower walls at night, effect an entrance, tie some bells, and practice on them until the small hours of the morning. When Washbrook was about 16 years of age, one of the clergy of St. Thomas's Church gave him Troyte's book, and soon he was able to instruct others in Grandsire and Stedman Doubles and in Minor (probably Grandsire). About two years later (1881) he rang his first peal of Grandsire, and soon afterwards took part in a peal for the first time as conductor. In 1884 he conducted a peal of Stedman Triples from a non-observation bell, and from that time his ringing records grew apace. The year 1888 stands out as a most conspicuous example of his great feats in ringing a number of long peals, including 10,080 Double Norwich, 13,265 Grandsire Caters, and 12,041 and 15,041 of Stedman Caters. Later on he had to give up his work as instructor to the Oxford Diocesan Guild owing to the pressing claims of an increasing family, and he went to Hereford, where he did a great deal to promote the art of change ringing.

From Hereford he went to take up a post at Arklow Church in Ireland, where, out of very unpromising material, he formed a good band of ringers, and after a time astonished the ringing world by the wonderful feat of ringing two tower bells in a peal.

After some years in Ireland, domestic reasons caused his return to England, first to Staffordshire, and afterwards to Lancashire, where he rang many peals, and where he spent the last part of his life. Canon Coleridge suggested that it would be of great benefit to the Exercise at large if someone who had the necessary leisure and ability would study the available documents (such as the 'Bell News' and 'Ringing World'), and compile a complete record of Washbrook's peals.

The preacher emphasised the fact that Mr. Washbrook was an all-round man being distinguished not only for his wonderful knowledge of the science and art of change ringing, but by his general ability and knowledge. To this knowledge he was always adding, so that he became a many-sided man. He was, too, a man who was appreciative of his religion. He was fondest of all of going to the Cowley Fathers' Church, 'for there,' he used to say, 'you can always hear the best sermons by the best men in the church.' In conclusion, Canon Coleridge said, 'Two years ago this great ringer passed away. May that life go on in the Paradise of God, and may this peal keep alive his memory.'

Immediately after the service, the first touch on the bells (Stedman Triples) was rung by the same eight ringers who rang during the service. Many other visiting ringers then took the opportunity of ringing in touches of Grandsire Triples, Double Norwich, and Cambridge and Superlative Surprise Major, while those who were not actually ringing strolled about for a while to hear the bells from different parts of the parish. All agreed that the bell founders (Messrs. Mears and Stainbank) had effected an excellent blend, and that the bells went remarkably well.

By the kindness of Canon Stansfeld, tea was served at 4.30 in St. Ebbe's Parish Hall, and more than one hundred ringers participated.

After tea, the Master of the Oxford Guild said how tremendously he had been looking forward to that day, and how much he hoped that the bells had proved to all present that the Washbrook Memorial Committee had not betrayed their trust. The committee had to consider the work that could be done with the money likely to be placed at their disposal. They then took steps to get the opinions of experts, who advised the committee that the work of augmenting the six bells of St. Ebbe's could be undertaken with confidence. He and the Oxford Diocesan Guild were very glad to welcome the ringers from other associations who were present that day, and to be the hosts at the tentable of those who had come from far-off districts. He was especially glad to welcome there young James W. Washbrook. He was very pleased to hand over the bells to Canon Stansfeld, because the people who lived in this rather drab parish enjoyed the sound of the bells, and he sincerely hoped that the present ring of bells would bring to these parishioners the message of peace and joy. The speaker then suggested that the bells should be rung slowly in order that their beauty might be brought out, and he concluded by remarking what a splendid opportunity the young Oxford ringers now had of a step between six and ten bells.

Canon Stansfeld, in a few heartfelt words, voiced his own pleasure and that of his parishioners in welcoming them all that day, and said how very grateful they were for the generous and unexpected gift of the beautiful ring of bells.

Mr. A. J. Wright gave a brief account of the financial side of the undertaking, during which he stated that £232 9s. 4d. had been subscribed in all, of which £92 12s. 9d. came from outside the Oxford Diocesan Guild, Lancashire having sent a donation of £20. He estimated that there were some 600 subscribers to the memorial, and he wished to take the opportunity of thanking the ringers throughout the country for their generosity.

Mr. A. A. Hughes (Mears and Stainbank) said that he considered it a great honour and privilege to have been asked to make the new bells. The old six, although very light bells, were unusually deep in pitch for their weight, and it was, therefore, decided that two trebles could be added to them successfully if the old six went to the foundry and were adjusted in tune. Upon weighing the tenor bell, it was found to be but a few pounds over 4½ cwt.

Mr. R. White, who undertook the work of hanging the bells, expressed his thanks for having had the honour of hanging this light ring, and his pleasure that everything proved so satisfactory.

Mr. H. Chapman (Manchester) said that he was delighted with the two trebles, and that he would be able to take back to the north a very satisfactory account of the Washbrook Memorial.

Mr. G. H. Phillott (Cheltenham) expressed it as his opinion that the result of the work was most satisfactory.

Mr. R. T. Hibbert said that he spoke with a full heart, and that he was very proud that there were now eight bells in St. Ebbe's, put there to the memory of Will Washbrook, who was one of the finest of men.

The Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn thanked Canon Coleridge for dedicating the bells, and for addressing the congregation, and also expressed the thanks of all to Canon Stansfeld, the organist, and the choir for their help that day.

In responding, Canon Coleridge indulged in a number of reminiscences of his association with J. W. Washbrook, some of which had a distinctly humorous side.

Mr. G. Hollifield, senr., made a few remarks about the long peal of Stedman Caters at Appleton in 1888, after which Mr. J. W. Washbrook said how proud he was to know how much his father's memory was esteemed by so many ringers, and he expressed his most sincere and grateful thanks for what had been said and done.

After a few words about the wisdom of the choice of the memorial from Mr. H. Miles, the proceedings terminated, and the members of the assembly made their way to St. Ebbo's and other city towers for further ringing.

The following members of the Oxford University Society of Change Ringers were present: Mr. G. H. Phillott (one of the original members of the society when it was founded in 1872), Canon G. F. Coleridge (Master in 1881-2), the Rev. R. L. C. Newhouse (sometime hon. secretary), Mr. H. Miles (Master, 1921-2), Mr. W. E. Collier (present Master), Miss C. W. M. Small (late hon. secretary), and Mr. T. E. Green (present hon. secretary).

Four ringers who took part in the Rev. F. E. Robinson's 1,000th peal twenty years ago (1905) were present, namely, Canon Coleridge, and Messrs. J. W. Washbrook, G. A. Smith and H. Miles.

HISTORY OF SURPRISE MAJOR.

To the Editor.

Sir,—It would be a kindness, for which I should be exceedingly grateful, if any of your readers could supply me with a list and particulars as far as possible of peals in the three Major Surprise methods of Superlative, Cambridge, and London, to and including the year 1900, i.e., to the end of last century. By the goodness of Mr. Trollope, Mr. Burton, Mr. Samuel Page, and one or two other friends, I have the following:—

Superlative.—Norwich, 6th February, 1835

London.—Norwich, 17th November, 1835.

" Woolwich, 1849.

" Benington, 26th December, 1870.

" Burton-on-Trent, 1st September, 1887.

" Burton-on-Trent, 1st October, 1888.

" Burton-on-Trent, 8th October, 1888.

" Fulham, 8th December, 1888.

" Burton-on-Trent, 20th December, 1888.

Beyond this I cannot as yet get, and should be very thankful if anyone can help me to complete the list. I should imagine that hon. secretaries of Diocesan and County Associations would have them at hand, and easily accessible in their records. All that I require is the reference to 'Church Bells' or 'Bell News,' if later than 1874 or 1875. If earlier than that I should be glad of full particulars as far as possible.

DEVONSHIRE GUILD.

EXETER BRANCH MEETING.

The sixth annual meeting of the Exeter branch was held on Saturday at St. Sidwell's, Exeter. A hearty service in the Parish Church, conducted by the Rector (the Rev. H. Lanyon Owen), who gave an interesting address on the origin and antiquity of bells generally, and those of that church in particular, was followed by a tea at the Institute, at which about 130 members assembled.

At the subsequent meeting, Mr. E. Shepherd, chairman of the branch, presided, among those present being the Revs. Canon McLaren, B. C. Bennett, C. W. Bates, E. A. Julian and F. Knight, Sir Robt. Newman, Bart., M.P., the president and general secretary of the Guild, Mr. P. G. Bartlett, treasurer, and Mr. F. J. Laxton.—Nineteen affiliated bands were represented, and apologies for absence were announced from the Bishop of Exeter, the Archdeacon of Exeter, the Revs. C. E. Burditt, H. B. Clark and H. C. Onslow, and Mr. S. Hull.

It was resolved to hold the next meeting at Topsham on February 13th, 1926.—Three honorary and two associate performing members were elected.

Mr. E. Shepherd was re-elected chairman; Mr. J. C. Oke elected secretary and treasurer; and Mr. T. J. Stokes assistant secretary for the ensuing year.

Canon McLaren, in returning thanks, on behalf of the hon. members present, gave an amusing description of his early experiences in bell ringing, and Sir Robert Newman, who also spoke, declared his resolve to stand by his church, and oppose any attempt to interfere with its rights and privileges.

CHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD.

INTERESTING DISCUSSIONS.

The last meeting of the year of the Stockport Branch was held at Hyde on Saturday, November 28th, and those who braved the wintry elements were amply rewarded for their trouble. As a mark of respect for the late Queen-Mother, the bells were fully muffled, and ringing commenced on this fine-toned ring soon after 3 p.m. The usual Guild form of service was taken by the Vicar of Hyde, who also gave the address. Those present afterwards made their way to the cosy parish room, which was well warmed, and supplied with one of the chief features of a ringers' gathering, viz., 'a gradely tea,' to which about 25 sat down. This disposed of, the business of the day was transacted under the chairmanship of Mr. J. H. Jackson, and at his request all stood for a moment to honour the memory of the late Queen.

Mr. George Gorringe was elected a ringing member, and Stockport (St. Mary) was selected as the place of the annual meeting, to be held on the last Saturday of January, 1926.

Mr. T. Wilde then commented upon the leading article of the 'Ringing World,' published the previous day, on 'Noisy Bells and Fast Ringing.' In the opinion of the speaker, it was a pity such a one had not been written much sooner, and he hoped that it would have good effect. He said it behoved all to try and get the best out of the bells.—Several other members voiced their opinion and approval.

Eventually the topic turned into a most interesting and entertaining debate; first on the correct way of teaching a learner, in order that he may ring his bell to the best advantage, the primary object, of course, being striking, and it was unanimously agreed he should first be put on a light bell, and only be permitted to go into changes when he could ring rounds correctly. Afterwards, the discourse moved on to the ringing of the more difficult methods. Mr. J. P. Fidler suggested that a band who could ring Kent Treble Bob Major well, and who desired to make good progress, should commence to practise the Minor methods which had been detailed by him in the 'Ringing World,' and which would shortly appear in book form. In them they would find a good stepping-stone to higher things, and eventually the Surprise methods would appear less formidable.

Mr. W. W. Wolstencroft supported this view. In his own personal experience he had found that the knowledge of Minor methods obtained at Norbury had thrown a new light on the higher methods, and he had found them much easier to ring, through possessing a good knowledge of six-bell work.

Mr. A. Barnes took up the opposite view, stating that a six-bell band would find the two extra ropes an obstacle to good Major ringing without a vast amount of practise, and that the chief thing was ample study at home, not leaving it until arrival in the ringing-room, and relying on someone else to pull them through. This was agreed upon, but the argument had been on a band conversant with eight-bell ringing, and who desired to master the more intricate work. Therefore, being used to eight bells, once they had acquired a good knowledge of Minor methods, the two extra ropes would cause no trouble.

Eventually the Rev. A. T. Beeston was prevailed upon to express his opinion, and stated that if a band desired to make progress they must stoop to conquer. Many eight-bell ringers thought they were lowering their dignity if they came down to six-bell ringing, but if only they would lose that mistaken idea, then they had a much better chance of attaining the desired object, and he hoped that those who were so prejudiced would remove the bias, get down to work, and practise Minor methods. The work would be hard and slow, yet nevertheless, sure, with much better results when it came to ringing Surprise Major, etc.

The Hon. Secretary gave notice that at the annual meeting he proposed to bring forward a resolution, which he hoped would be passed on to the Central Council for their consideration and action. Knowing full well that many bells are almost inaccessible to Rural Deans, and even when they can get at them their lack of experience makes it a difficult task to report on the condition of the bells, etc., and, as it is the duty of Rural Deans to inspect belfries periodically, as with other church property, it is unfortunate that the bells are too often overlooked. He suggested, therefore, knowing the condition of many bells and belfries, that the Central Council, through Diocesan or other channels, draw attention to the advisability of Rural Deans, when they have no personal technical knowledge of bells, to appoint as their deputy for the purpose of inspection, some person with the requisite qualifications. A leading article bearing upon this subject appeared in the 'Ringing World' of July 10th, and the subject was one which ought not to be pushed in the background.—The Vicar of Hyde said he thought that Rural Deans would welcome the idea, and this was also the opinion of several clergy with whom the matter has been discussed.

The meeting terminated with the usual votes of thanks for the use of the bells, Church and Parish Room, and to the local ringers and their leaders for their efforts in attending to the comfort of the visitors; also to the chairman for his services.

Further ringing, notable for its good striking, took place.—J. P. F.

NOTES BY THE WAY.

HISTORY—AS WRITTEN BY MR. DRAKE.

By J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

Really, I cannot congratulate the Rev. H. Drake on his history.

He tells us that 'besides Plain Changes and Cross Peals, there were, before Stedman's time, also Bob methods. Now, these were not at first methods with one dodge in them, but methods which were all dodging, or at least as nearly so as possible. A method was not considered a true Bob method unless one bell at least dodged all the time after the Hunt left it until it returned to it again.'

There is not the slightest foundation for this statement.

All we know of the beginning and early development of ringing comes from Stedman's book, the 'Tintinnalogia,' published in 1668. Stedman was an accurate, thorough and accomplished writer, and can safely be trusted. He describes ringing under two distinct heads. The first is Plain Changes, which occupies roughly the first half of his book; the second is Cross Peals, which occupies the other and rather larger half. As these terms, no doubt, mean nothing to a good many readers of 'The Ringing World,' let me explain that the distinctive feature of Plain Changes was that only one pair of bells changed at a time. Plain Changes were like modern 'stoneys,' with the following important exceptions. They were composed on a highly scientific plan, and with as much skill as any modern peal. The truth of the changes was scrupulously adhered to. The bells changed at every blow; the conductor was dispensed with, every man himself knowing when to make a change. It will easily be seen that to ring a 720 under these conditions would require a skilled band, and we must not suppose that these conditions obtained everywhere. In some places the ringing was by whole pulls, and in others the changes were 'walked.' 'By walking them is meant that the bells go round four, six, eight or more in one change, which is commonly used by young practisers.' And when the bells were 'walked,' we may assume that there was a conductor.

It was not till a good many years after the birth of ringing that Plain Changes reached this stage. We may safely conclude that they were fully developed somewhere about 1680. Mr. Drake tells us that it is so unlikely that Stedman developed Plain Changes that one can safely say that it is impossible. I can only ask in astonishment, does he know who Fabian Stedman was, when he lived, and what he wrote? Perhaps the explanation is that he thinks I meant that Stedman invented Plain Changes. I said nothing of the sort. I said that he and other seventeenth century ringers developed them with great skill.

But Plain Changes had scarcely been brought to perfection before they were superseded by Cross Peals. The feature of Cross Peals was that instead of only one pair of bells changing at a time, general movement of all the bells was introduced. Our modern Change Ringing would have ranked as Cross Peals, but it was some time before methods in the present meaning of the term appeared. The first Cross Peals pretty obviously were variations of Plain Changes, but with the invention of 'Doubles and Singles on four Bells,' and 'Grandsire on Five Bells,' an entirely new thing was introduced into ringing composition, which made modern method ringing possible. By 1700 the distinction between the method and touches and peals produced by bobs was recognised in London. Previously everything was a 'peal.' Thus Stedman gives as Grandsire Bob on Six Bells a particular 720; but a man (whose name I do not know) who wrote on ringing in a book called 'The School of Recreation' in 1701 gives as Grandsire Bob what we now call Bob Minor, with Plain Course and touches produced by bobs. This writer says, 'There are two kinds of changes, viz., Plain Changes and Cross Peals.'

It is thus clear, both from direct testimony and from the nature of the case, that there was no room for a third kind of changes (the Bob methods), which Mr. Drake so confidently tells us existed before Stedman's time. Stedman only once used the word Bob as the equivalent of method, or in connection with methods, and that is in the case of Grandsire Bob, which is the exact opposite of what Mr. Drake says these Bob methods were. I have no means of consulting his second book, 'The Campanalogia,' to see if there are any developments shown there. The unknown man I just now quoted gives what he tells us are the methods rung in London in 1701. Eight of them are on six bells. Two of them have the sub-title 'Bob,' viz., Grandsire Bob and College Bob, and while the second might come under Mr. Drake's definition, the first certainly would not.

But we should not, I think, have heard anything about this phantom class of Bob methods if it were not for what I hold to be the gem of Mr. Drake's letter. Court Bob is not really (so we are told) the name of that method. It is a corruption of Curt Bob, and was given to methods (apparently more than one), because the long dodging of the Bob methods was shortened. A likely tale to tell anyone who has rung both Bob Minor and Double Court Minor (the old Court Bob Minor). Since there are no facts to warrant this statement, I suppose Mr. Drake will say that he arrived at it by a process of logical deduction. A rude person would call it reckless guessing.

Nor can it be said that Mr. Drake shows any understanding of history in his hysterical references to the London Scholars. To say that their change of name was an 'act of sycophantic adulation' is utterly unfair and utterly absurd. We may now think it not a good change, but that is another matter. To understand the situation you must realise that in the early years of the eighteenth century England was divided into two great parties, one of which, the Jacobites, favoured the restoration of the exiled Stuarts, the other who stood by the Hanoverian kings. Beside the question of the personality of the rival claimants to the English throne, there were some very big principles involved. The return of the Stuarts would have meant (or was believed to have meant) the establishment of personal autocratic government by the Sovereign, the favouring of Roman Catholicism, and the lapse of England to a position of dependence on France. The other side stood for Parliamentary Government, the Protestant religion (which meant the religion of the Church of England) and personal liberty. No doubt in practice it did not work out quite like that, but that was how it appeared to the majority of Englishmen at that time. In 1745 Charles Edward Stuart landed in Scotland, raised an army of Highlanders, defeated an English army at Prestonpans, and invaded England. He reached Derby, but receiving no support from any English rising, retreated to Scotland, where his hopes and those of his cause were finally crushed at the battle of Culloden Moor by an army commanded by the Duke of Cumberland, second son of George II. All this time England was at war with France, and as London was solid for the Hanoverians and the Protestant Succession, you can understand the panic when the Highlanders were in full march on the city, and the relief and joy when they were finally defeated. When the Duke returned to London he was received by everyone as the deliverer from a national catastrophe, and why should the London Scholars be blamed because they shared the general feeling? In later years the Duke became very unpopular, mainly for political reasons, and hard things were said about the cruelty and brutality with which the Northern rising was suppressed. There was cruelty, and there was brutality, but of that no one, least of all the London Scholars, knew at the time. There was no more 'sycophantic adulation' in the London Scholars welcoming the patronage of their king's son than there would be if a modern society welcomed the patronage of the present Duke of York.

If one had time and space there are quite a number of questions that one would like to ask Mr. Drake, and among them would be: Does he seriously say that Double Norwich has shortened 'dodging'? When have I made any 'strictures' on him, and where? What grounds are there for saying that belfries in olden times were noisier than they are now? Or that coarse and offensive names would have appealed to the old conductors? Or that I and others have not read the report of his committee?

COVENTRY BELLS.

RECASTING SCHEME TO BE OPPOSED.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—Will you be good enough to state, in regard to the action of the Central Council taken to help save these bells, that I am notified by the registrar that the hearing of the petition is down for January 4th, 1926, at Palace Yard, Coventry.

In view of the hope which you recently expressed, viz., that the original proposal would be modified, you will regret to observe that the application still reads thus:—

'For the recasting of the existing peal of bells on the five-tone principle with the addition of four bells, thus completing a chime of twelve bells and a carillon of fourteen, and providing a new electrically-driven machine in connection therewith.'

A caveat having been entered against this by Mr. R. Caldicott, of 29, High Street, Coventry; those who desire to help in any way, and are in a position to do so, should communicate with that gentleman.

The Exercise will be interested and grateful to know that Ald. J. S. Pritchett has kindly offered to act as counsel at the hearing, and also to do so without fee.—Yours faithfully,

E. ALEX. YOUNG.

Hon. Secretary and Treasurer, Central Council.

SHILLINGTON BELLS RESTORED.

The bells at Shillington, Beds, have been overhauled and rehung by Mr. A. Bowell, of Ipswich, and the 'go' of them is perfect. The first quarter-peal was rung on them on Saturday, Nov. 21st, when 1,263 Grandsire Doubles was brought round in 47 minutes: W. G. Church 1, H. L. Harlow (conductor) 2, J. W. Stock 3, J. Church 4, H. Stapleton 5. Tenor 20 cwt.

One hundred and ninety years ago next Tuesday, the College Youths rang a peal of 8,008 Grandsire Cinques at Southwark. This peal was called by Benjamin Annable, and for over a hundred and fifty years remained the record length in the method. It was beaten in 1887 by the 9,020 conducted by Mr. John Buffery, who has recently passed to his rest.

MUFFLED TOUCHES FOR QUEEN ALEXANDRA

The following were among the touches rung with muffled bells on the death of Queen Alexandra:—

HILLINGDON WEST.—On Sunday, Nov. 29th, at St. Andrew's Church, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples, with the bells half-muffled: H. Lucas 1, G. H. Gutteridge 2, J. H. Lucas 3, Miss P. Moss (conductor) 4, P. Jones 5, R. Carter 6, F. Corke 7, C. WINCHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD.*WINCHESTER DISTRICT AT ROMSEY ABBEY.

The annual meeting of the Winchester District was held at Romsey on Saturday, Nov. 7th, when the Abbey bells were kept going during the afternoon to Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Bob, Double Norwich Superlative, Cambridge and London Surprise Major. The Guild form of service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. W. B. Corban). Tea and the business meeting were held in the Church Hall, presided over by the Vicar, supported by the district chairman (the Rev. Canon Braithwaite), the hon. treasurer (the Rev. N. C. Woods), Mr. G. Williams (Master), Mr. G. Pullinger (general secretary), and members from Bournemouth, Stockbridge, Fareham, Southampton, North Stoneham, Ringwood, Romsey, and Winchester. The balance sheet for the year ending October 31st showed receipts £12 11s. 10d.; expenditure, £4 16s. 1d.; balance paid to treasurer, £7; balance in hand, 15s. 9d.—The balance sheet was considered satisfactory, and passed.

All the officers were re-elected, viz.: Chairman, the Rev. Canon Braithwaite; district secretary, Mr. W. T. Tucker; auditor, Mr. G. Smith; and Mr. W. Andrews and Mr. J. W. Faithfull, representatives on the Central Committee.

It was decided to hold the next annual meeting at Southampton on November 6th, 1926, when it is hoped St. Michael's bells will be available. Quarterly meetings were fixed for Bishopstoke first Saturday in February; Fawley and Dibden first Saturday in May; Hursley last Saturday in August.

On the proposition of Mr. G. Williams, seconded by Mr. W. T. Tucker, the Vicar was elected an hon. member of the Guild.—Mr. Williams also moved a hearty vote of thanks to the Vicar for allowing the use of the bells, conducting the service, and for presiding, to which the Vicar replied. Further ringing then took place on the Abbey bells.

YORKTOWN DISTRICT.

The annual meeting of the Yorktown district was held at Yorktown on Nov. 14th, when the attendance was the smallest experienced for a few years. Bagshot, Chertsey, Egham and Yorktown were the only district towers represented. The presence of the esteemed Ringing Master, Mr. G. Williams, from North Stoneham, and Mr. T. Fairey, of Camberley, was appreciated. The ringing was not very encouraging for such an occasion, Grandsire Doubles on the back five of eight being all that could be done to start with. It is hoped that members will make an endeavour to attend their meetings.

A shortened service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. R. M. Curwen), who also presided over the business meeting held in the Church Hall.

The membership for the past year has increased, and the balance sheet showed receipts £12 5s. 3d., and expenditure £4 18s. 11d.

The officers for 1926 were elected as follows: Hon. secretary, Mr. J. B. Hessey; Ringing Master, Mr. S. G. Armstrong; representatives on Central Committee, Mr. J. Smith and Mr. S. G. Armstrong; auditor, Mr. J. A. Crocker. The meetings for 1926 will be at Bagshot, February; Horsell, May; Yateley, August; Chertsey, November, annual.—Votes of thanks were given to Mr. H. J. Chaffey for his past valued services, also to the Vicar for readily granting permission for the meeting, and also for presiding.

LINCOLN DIOCESAN GUILD.*NEW DISTRICT FORMED IN NORTHERN BRANCH.

A general meeting was held at Sleaford on Saturday, Nov. 28th, with the object of attempting to form a district of the Northern Branch, with Sleaford as headquarters. A fairly good number was present from various towers in the Northern Branch, also Mr. J. Phillips (hon. secretary and treasurer of the Eastern Branch).

A service, consisting of shortened evensong, was held in the side chapel of St. Denys' Church, conducted by the Rev. — Chambers (curate-in-charge), who also gave an inspiring address. Mr. N. E. Snow presided at the organ, and the very hearty way in which those present joined in the singing of the hymns and the Magnificat was most impressive.

Tea was provided in the Churchroom, to which 38 ringers and friends sat down, including the preacher and Mr. W. W. Foster (churchwarden). The business meeting followed, at which Mr. F. F. Linley (president of the Northern Branch) presided, and explained the object of the meeting. Apologies of absence were announced from the Dean of Lincoln, Canon Hicks, Messingham; the Rev. C. H. Mylne, Burton Stather; and Mr. C. W. Taylor, Grimsby, who, owing to illness, was unable to be present. It was agreed that the secretary be instructed to write to Mr. Taylor, expressing the sympathy of the members.

The first item on the agenda was as follows: 'That a district of the Northern Branch of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild of Church Bell Ringers be formed, with Sleaford as headquarters, and that the neighbouring towers of the Northern Branch be invited to join the district.'—This was proposed by Mr. G. Chester, and seconded by Mr. C. W. P. Clifton.—In response to an invitation, from the president, for discussion on the matter, Mr. F. W. Stokes (Guild secretary) inquired where the boundary line would be drawn between the Lincoln and newly proposed district.—After some comment, as to whether the members at Timberland would care to remain in the Lincoln district or become attached to the Sleaford district, it was finally agreed to leave the arrangements in the hands of those two districts.

Mr. F. Linley proposed, and Flight-Sergt. F. A. Holden seconded, that Mr. N. E. Snow be invited to become president of the new district.—This was carried, and Mr. Snow kindly accepted the office.—Mr. Linley then vacated the chair, and the president of the new district presided over the remainder of the business.

The meeting then proceeded to elect (pro tem.) a secretary, a Ringing Master, and a representative to serve on the Northern Branch Committee, and the following were appointed: Hon. secretary and Ringing Master, Flight-Sergt. F. A. Holden; representative to serve on the Northern Branch Committee, Mr. W. H. Woods. Saturday, January 16th, was fixed as the date for the first annual meeting of the new district, the place chosen for the purpose being Sleaford.

It was suggested that the under-mentioned towers be invited to become affiliated with this district: Sleaford, Ewerby, Heckington, Great Hale, Ruskington, Ashby-de-la-Loude, Ancaster and Helpringham.—The President expressed a hope that these towers, and others if possible, would be well represented at the annual meeting.

It was reported that, from a ringers' point of view, Heckington bells are at the present moment in a very unsatisfactory condition.

Mr. Snow made reference to the recent death of Canon Langford (Vicar of Sleaford), and, as a token of respect, the members present stood in silence.

One honorary member and ten performing members were elected.

Votes of thanks were passed to the church authorities for the use of the bells; the Rev. — Chambers for conducting the service and for his excellent address; Mr. N. E. Snow for presiding at the organ; and the caterers for the capital tea provided.—These were duly responded to and concluded the business.

The best thanks of the members are also due to Flight-Sergt. Holden for the admirable way in which he made the necessary arrangements.

The bells of St. Denys' were available during the afternoon and evening, and kept going in various methods, including London and Cambridge Surprise Major. As a token of respect to the late Canon Langford and Queen Alexandra, the touches during the afternoon were rung with the bells half-muffled.

RINGER OFF TO INDIA.

At Ellesmere, Salop, on November 30th (St. Andrew's Day), a quarter-pearl of Stedman Triples, composed by J. W. Washbrook (1,260 changes), in 49 mins.: R. Biggs 1, G. H. Edwards 2, A. Allen 3, A. Haynes 4, T. Butler, sen. (conductor), 5, W. S. Higginson 6, T. R. Butler 7, W. Higginson, sen., 8. Also on October 19th, a quarter-pearl of Stedman Triples, composed by James Paget, conducted by T. Butler, sen., in 51 mins., with J. F. Sharp taking the place of W. S. Higginson. Rung as a farewell touch to Mr. J. F. Sharp, who has since left to take up an appointment for five years in India, and whose departure is very much regretted by all the band.

RINGER, CHORISTER AND SIDESMAN.*DEATH OF MR. GEORGE DAVIS, OF BUCKLEBURY.

By the death of Mr. George Davis, at the Royal Berks Hospital, Bucklebury, the Oxford Guild loses a familiar and respected member. He resided in the village of Bucklebury, Berks, all his life, having been born there in 1850. His father, Charles Davis, occupied the same house. 'George,' as he was familiarly called, received his education at the Blue Coat School, Thatcham, and was apprenticed at the Bucklebury Foundry. Here he worked for the long period of 61 years. He was an experienced engine fitter, and was well known over a wide area as a highly skilled mechanic, never flurried, but most thorough in all he undertook. He was a loyal Churchman, and loved the work he did as sidesman, chorister and ringer. In the choir his place was invariably occupied, and he filled it for more than half a century. For over 50 years, too, he was a ringer, and from the time the tower joined the Oxford Guild he was foreman of the ringers. His perfectly straightforward, firm, yet courteous and tactful handling, went a long way towards keeping the band together, and secured loyalty to his every wish. He last rang for the harvest festival on October 4th, the day prior to his entering the hospital. Although 75 years of age, he was physically much younger.

He was laid to rest near the tower he loved so well on Monday, Oct. 26th, the service being conducted by the Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn (Master of the Oxford Guild), assisted by the Rev. E. M. Thorpe, Vicar of the parish, and although rain was falling heavily, a great number of friends and sympathisers from far and near bore testimony to the great respect in which he was held. At the service, the choir sang 'On the Resurrection Morning,' and afterwards touches of Stedman and Kent Treble Bob Major were rung with the bells half-muffled. These were his favourite methods, among the several in which he was efficient. One touch of Stedman contained one change for each year of his life, namely, 75. He leaves a widow, three sons and two daughters.

BRIGHTER DISTRICT MEETINGS!

'Do we make our district meetings interesting enough?' That is a question which most associations might well ask themselves. Often the district meetings are really dull affairs, out of which members get but a small proportion of their time occupied with anything of a really educational nature. This may seem a sweeping statement, but if it be analysed it will be found to contain much truth. A man may put in six hours at a ringing meeting, and, on an average, is likely to get less than an hour's actual ringing; the remainder of the time will be spent in listening while others ring; attending service and tea and sitting through a meeting at which the business is largely a formality. It may be pleasant, but it cannot be said that it is always profitable.

The limited period of actual ringing practice cannot be avoided, because for every one who exceeds his fair share of actual bellfry work, someone else has to go short. Again, the service is a very appropriate recognition of the ringer's intimate association with the work of the Church, but the average address given on such occasions is on lines which tend to become monotonous in their reiteration. Unless there are special circumstances, we see no real reason why, ringers having joined in an act of corporate worship, the sermon on these occasions could not be cut out without any loss to the dignity of the service or detriment to the future of the congregation.

But a great deal more might be done with these gatherings to make them interesting and educative, if discussions on subjects relating to ringing and ringing affairs could be introduced at the meetings. Many matters about which ringers, both young and old, could enlarge their ideas by hearing the views of others, could be discussed, and those of our readers who perused the report, in our last issue, of the meeting of the Stockport Branch of the Chester Diocesan Guild must have been struck with the fact that several subjects of real importance and general interest were forthcoming for debate. The work of the associations themselves could be made more efficient, if 'domestic' affairs were more generally discussed at district meetings. Valuable suggestions, which would merit the attention of the Central Council, might spring from informal debates at these local gatherings, and the idea might even be extended to the reading of short papers on suitable subjects relating to ringing. This is a field in which there is much room for progress, and it might be utilised with excellent results. Advancement in the art does not depend entirely on practice in the bellfry. A ringer's education can be promoted outside as well as inside the ringing chamber, and we should like to see a

IMPORTANT TO CORRESPONDENTS.

Owing to the Christmas holidays, 'The Ringing World' will be published next week on Thursday. All matter intended for insertion in that issue must therefore reach 'The Ringing World' Office not later than Monday.

Conductors of peals rung on Saturday next are particularly requested to post reports the same night. Publication of those that do not reach us by Monday may be postponed in the event of congestion of our columns from Christmas and New Year ringing.

NEW RING OF SIX IN CHESHIRE.

On Sunday afternoon, December 6th, a new ring of six bells was dedicated at Astbury Parish Church, Cheshire, the Rector performing the ceremony. The new bells, installed in new frames, were made from the old four by Messrs. Taylor and Co. The total weight of these was about 39 cwt., the tenor being about 14 cwt. The weight of the new tenor is about 13½ cwt. The four old bells were recast by Paul Hutton, of Congleton, the treble in 1629, 2nd and 3rd 1638, and tenor 1647. The date of their original casting is not known by Astbury people.

As it took two men to ring one or two of the old bells, it was decided to ask Mr. Rigby, of Lawton, to take a band of ringers for the opening service, a request which was gladly accepted. During the service, 120 Bob Doubles was rung; after service, 720 Bob Minor, in 23 min.: J. Wildblood 1, J. Booth 2, E. Harper 3, W. Longman 4, G. Biddulph 5, W. Rigby (conductor) 6. Touches of Grandsire and Stedman Doubles and Kent and Oxford Treble Bob Minor were also rung.

A splendid tea was provided for the ringers by the Astbury Parochial Church Council.

The tone and 'go' of the bells, which are hung on the latest principles, were all that could be desired, and several ringers expressed the opinion that they are the finest ring of six in Cheshire.

On Friday, December 11th, 720 of Kent Treble Bob was rung on the new bells, in 25 mins.: W. Longman 1, E. Harper 2, T. Arrowsmith 3, J. Booth 4, G. Biddulph 5, W. Rigby (conductor) 6, being the first 720 of Kent on the bells.

WEST GRINSTEAD, SUSSEX. — On November 1st, for evening service, 720 Cambridge Surprise Minor: V. Turrell 1, T. Adams 2, G. Warnett (first in the method) 3, R. Stredwick 4, H. Turrell 5, W. Denman (conductor) 6. Also 288 Woodbine, with V. Goacher taking part.

WALTHAM ABBEY, ESSEX. — On Sunday, Nov. 1st, for evening service, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples (1,260 changes), in 50 mins.: Miss Grace Church (first quarter-peal) 1, G. Peace 2, G. Maxim 3, A. Radley 4, G. Thurgood (conductor) 5, F. Perrin 6, G. Radley 7, G. Cole 8.

GREETINGS AND ACKNOWLEDGMENTS.

BY IRENEUS PISTOR.

[A Chinese Scribe's complete outfit, purchased by 'Uncle Joe' during his wanderings in the Far East, has reached our correspondent, Ireneus Pistor, who sends his thanks and greetings.]

By all the tangible signs, I know that 'Uncle Joe' is again at home! Ah! 'Home, home, name how endearing!' Eh, Joey, we all look forward to being at home for Christmas. To home, the stranger in a strange land turns his thoughts at Christmastide, and to most of us this season, above all others, is bitter sweet! When we in the home circle enter, as it were, the unseen, and memories stir of Christmas past, the acute loss of some dear material presence is revived, and as the phantasmagoria passes, we realise the time is not far distant when we shall all have finished with school-days in this world, and when we shall again join our own in the 'Great Home Festival,' and be filled with a fuller knowledge of its meaning in the wonderful and Glorious Homeland of God! And as we muse, something within seems to say, 'Cast care aside, 'tis Christmas.' They who have preceded us into that 'Great Homeland,' would not have us grieve, but rejoice, and be happy, and right glad this Christmas.

So 'look to, here's gone,' Mr. Editor. Let's be 'Giddy-little-gay-young Curates.' For once in a way, let us play—I was going to suggest tennis, but that's unseasonable. Let's consider. 'Gifts'!

Ha! Ha! To-buy? or not-to-buy? To buy! for it's a joyous task. Still, it's not untingled with doubt, and agony. Nevertheless we 'flatter' among those who come under the prosaic name of Christmas shop window gazers. There in the 'Far East' we 'spot' Uncle Joe, with ink, pen, pencil and seal. Ah, he was out there present buying, and with tact he selected that which he knew the recipient would like. For Uncle Joe alone was master of the 'Wee Wee Chinese Cityvation.' No, he fears not, for his selection will not clash by some unhappy chance with that of a similar article, and one can imagine the delicious spirit behind the desire of 'Old Uncle Joe' to give a suitable present, which will intensify the asinine qualifications of I-re-n-e-us!

But Reader, 'Ye Pen' which writes these lines is most difficult to control, ye thing will insist on following ye laws of gravitation. Aye me, it writeth from 'Chief, to B-a-s-e'! Whereas, ye one we formerly wrote with ran from 'Dexter, toward a point sinister.' This 'Sing Lee Wee pen' persists in bringing me to the 'point of honour,' and that's just ye spot wherein I must offer 'Uncle Joe' my heartfelt appreciation, for this, his gift—which I shall cherish—even if it hath a tinge of a 'Yaller Peril' about it. Zooks! it strikes a keynote of real joy! and for the first time in my life, I write with a pen, which, if 'Grandsire'—who-was-my-pedagogue!—saw, he would unquestionably say that civilisation had not made very rapid progress, and he would prefer to go back to —.

But Dear Uncle Joe, many thanks for the Sing Ling Wee Wee outfit. Have no fears, for 'ye pen of my fathers' is in no wise enfeebled, it hath a 'real sturdy constitution,' and its 'temper' is very even, like unto 'laskit,' which has not yet reached ye modulus of 'laskitercy.' No, it's not taken a permanent set, and, 'D.V.,' it will keep spittin', and spurtin', blottin', and squirtin' in a vain endeavour to keep ye heart young, to triumph over ye insidious fiend, Time. May ye Happiness which my Writing Outfit gives me permeate ye whole Exorcise at this season. 'An-heres-to-hall-on-ye (ne-an-hall)' a Merry, Merry Christmas! and I do hope ye culmination of ye festivities will not synchronise! with ye Advent-of-ye-Pleece.—Yours merrily, IRENEUS.

SUFFOLK GUILD.

A district meeting was held at Long Melford on Saturday, Dec. 5th, when members attended from Cavendish, Cowlinge, Glemsford, Lavenham, and the local company. In the unavoidable absence of the Rector (the Rev. R. S. Bree), the Rev. W. Gilbert, of Cowlinge, presided at the tea, which was followed by a short business meeting.

Five new members were elected, and a previous election of another confirmed.—It was proposed to hold the next meeting at Clare, in March, and a joint by-meeting at Stansted and Glemsford in January.

Mr. S. H. Symonds, assistant secretary, again voiced the opinion that each district secretary should try to arrange at least one meeting per year in his respective district. Mr. Symonds also welcomed the young hand from Cowlinge, and urged them to aim at higher methods in the future.

Mr. A. Symonds, district secretary, suggested that a ringing anniversary be held at Holy Trinity Church, Long Melford, on the Saturday previous to Trinity Sunday.—Mr. C. Bixby, captain of the local band, replied that he would approach the Rector on the subject.

Votes of thanks were then accorded the Rev. R. S. Bree for the use of the bells; the Rev. W. Gilbert for kindly taking the chair; and also Host Bixby for the excellent tea provided. Touches on the handbells followed. During the afternoon and evening, touches of Grandsire and Stedman, Bob Major, Kent and Oxford were rung.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

The old-established firm of J. B. Joyce and Co., Church, Turret and House Clock Manufacturers, of Whitchurch, Salop, who have secured the contract for the clock at Nodbury Church, Cheshire (where Messrs. Taylor and Co. have just installed a new peal of eight bells), are erecting a new clock and bells at Cowling Church, Yorkshire. The clock will have four dials of six feet diameter, and will strike the hours and Westminster chimes.

Last week's sensational announcement in connection with the financial arrangements of the great firm of Vickers recalls the fact that this firm was started in Sheffield about sixty years ago for the purpose of making steel bells. Those ringers who have had experience of these 'instruments' know how unsuccessful, musically, they were. There are very few rings of steel bells left.

Ben Annable's peal of Bob Triples, a masterpiece of symmetrical composition, was rung for the first time, and conducted by the composer at Southwark on December 18th, 1730.

The first peal of Stedman Triples rung 'on handbells retained in hand' was accomplished at the 'Three Kings,' Clerkenwell, London, by the Royal Cumberlands on December 19th, 1853. The ringers were John Cox (conductor), Thomas Powell, Henry Haley and Thomas Brittan. The peal was rung in the presence of nineteen members of the College Youths and Cumberland Societies.

A peal of Stedman Caters on the bells of St. Saviour's, Southwark, was rung for the first time on December 20th, 1836. This was by the Junior College Society, and John Cox was the conductor of this also.

On December 17th, 1810, a peal of 8,448 Oxford Treble Bob was rung at Richmond, Surrey, in 5 hrs. 1 min.

CHRISTMAS BELLS.

FROM 'THE LITTLE COMPANY,' by ARMEL O'CONNOR.

I hear them chime—
The joy-bells swinging, saying:
'Come, busy world, start singing, praying,
'Tis Christmas time!'

The belfries sway;
With joy. Why do the people shiver,
Heart-cold to-day?

Have they not heard
The fairest truthful story
Of earth's unending, youthful glory—
God's human word?

For long, this morn,
Dear bells, keep swinging, playing . . .
And start a sad world singing, praying . . .
For Christ is born.

NOISY BELLS AND FAST RINGING.

To the Editor.

Sir,—Personally I am very pleased 'The Ringing World' has called attention to another 'nail in the coffin' of the Exercise. What with 'tubes' instead of a ring of bells, 'recasting' fine old peals, and mechanical devices to take the place of the older methods, and the serious depletion of our younger men owing to the recent war, it began to look as if campanology was soon to be—like myself—on its last legs.

I admit in all my public performances that the word and myself are old-fashioned.

Here's the attitude of many people to-day: A friend with an office in Fleet Street greeted me. 'Look here,' he said, 'you are a bell ringer, why on earth can't you go and stop that awful din?'

The 'din' in question was the bells of St. Bride's, Fleet Street! In vain I tried to explain the occasion demanded 'joy bells,' that St. Bride's had a very fine ring of bells, and the men engaged in ringing were the Society of College Youths, perhaps the very pick of campanologists! My final remark that they were trying for a peal, and would probably take some hours yet, if they were successful, brought such an outburst of language that compelled me to flee, forgetting the business that brought me there.

What can we do with such people? Educate them! But fast ringing won't do it.—Yours in the craft,

THE HANDRELL EXPERT.

'Brinsworth,' Twickenham.

NOTES BY THE WAY. THE LITERATURE OF RINGING.

By J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

Henry Hubbard was a first-class ringer, a good composer, and a skilled composer, but it is not for these that he chiefly deserves to be remembered. He was the author of a book on ringing; and while good ringers, conductors and composers have been many, authors of ringing books are of necessity few.

The earliest of all was Fabian Stedman, who published his Tintinnalogia as long ago as 1668. Stedman had, perhaps, the finest intellect of any man who has written on ringing, and his book is in some respects the best we have; not from the present day practical point of view, of course, for it deals largely with Plain Changes, which have long since been superseded and survive only in a debased form as 'Stoney'; and where it does deal with. Cross peals goes no further than a 720 of Bob Minor. It is the way in which those things are described and explained that is the excellence of the book, and it is here that the most modern writers can learn of Stedman and look up to him as a master. He professes to give 'a full Discovery of the Mystery and Grounds of each Peal,' and he does make good his word. Of this book one copy only survived to recent times. It was in the possession of the Rev. C. W. Lukis, of Wath, in Yorkshire. I am not quite sure what has become of it, but I think it is in the British Museum. In 1895 a reprint of it was issued by 'The Bell News,' and it has thus been made accessible to a good many ringers. The Exercise owes a debt of gratitude to the late Mr. Harvey Reeves for this.

Ringing was developing rapidly in Stedman's time, and after a few years he found it necessary to publish a second book, which he called the 'Campanalogia.' In this was printed for the first time the method with which Stedman's name is so widely associated. He gives it on no higher number than five bells, and he designed it as a system which should be an entire change from the traditional composition by means of Hunts. The 'Campanalogia' became the standard book on ringing, and its prestige is acknowledged by the fact that for nearly two hundred years every book on ringing bore the same name.

A few copies of this book are still in existence. Inevitably there is the risk that, as years go on, the number should get smaller. Ringers do not seem to appreciate the value of it, and to other people naturally it has no value at all. It would be a good thing if steps were taken to find out how many copies still remain, and where they are, so that in case of the death of an old ringer his copy should not be destroyed. Efforts should be made by associations to acquire any copy of this or other old book. Especially it would be a gracious act for anyone who has a copy to give or bequeath it to his association or to the Central Council or to any public library, where for all time it might be available for future generations of ringers. Within the last few years the Hertford County Association was given a copy by an old ringer, and it now forms the most valuable item in the valuable library in St. Peter's belfry at St. Albans.

The next book published was the 'Campanalogia, or the Art of Ringing,' by J. D. and C. M., issued in 1702, and dedicated to 'our honoured and esteem'd friends the Society of London Scholars.' 'J. D.' was Doleman, a noted ringer in the later part of the seventeenth and early part of the eighteenth centuries. He was the man, you will remember, who was bracketed with Stedman by Thos. Melchior as an authority on Stedman Doubles. The book follows Stedman's work closely. Two other editions of it were issued, and it remained the only text book on ringing for eighty years. Long before that time, however, it was hopelessly out of date. The first quarter of the eighteenth century saw ringing developed to its present form, and to men like Annable or Holt or Melchior, and their bands, the J. D. and C. M. book was as little good as it would be to us. Annable intended to write a book, but unfortunately it came to nothing, and it was not till 1788, one hundred and twenty years after Stedman's 'Tintinnalogia' that with the Clavis Campanalogia we have the earliest book that deals with ringing as we now practise it.

This justly famous book was the work of three London ringers—Jones, Reeves and Blakemore—and it is interesting to speculate on the share each had in it. John Reeves we know was a first-class ringer and composer, and to him has always been given the credit of all the compositions in the book. All that is, with such obvious exceptions as Holt's peals. Yet it should be remembered that no such claim is made in the book itself. The authors do say with no little pride that Superlative Surprise is 'our own,' but they are silent about the other methods and peals. It would be strange if no use at all were made of the work of other men, and there is one instance of a peal which since it is in 'The Clavis' is always given as Reeves', that in the Cumberland's peal book is said to be the composition of George Gross. Anyway, Reeves was a very clever composer, and the great majority of 'The Clavis' peals are certainly his.

Thomas Blakemore was also a good ringer. He called the first peal of Stedman Cinques ever rung. He was the man who visited Norwich in search of material, and is supposed to have taken Lindsay's notes. Perhaps his share was the collecting of methods and peals from different parts of the country.

I do not remember Jones as a composer or conductor. But his name stands first of the three on the title page, and he undoubtedly was the man who made the book out of the material the others supplied. He wrote the letterpress and descriptions which show very considerable literary ability.

Shipway's 'Campanalogia' appeared in 1816. This book is inferior to 'The Clavis' in some respects, but much superior in general arrangement and usefulness. I hope to say something about it at a future time.

Then in 1845 came Hubbard's 'Campanalogia,' of which more presently.

The next two books were written in Yorkshire. The first of them was by Benjamin Thackeray, and copies of it are very scarce. It is not a good book, though it contains several interesting things. Thackeray points out how, by making what he calls a Single in Cambridge Surprise, a good deal of its falseness may be done away with. This fact was rediscovered in later times, and the method so altered is rung as New Cambridge. What is called a peal of Superlative Surprise appears in the book. The calling is 1 M, 1 W, 3 R, 1 W, 3 R, 1 W; twice repeated. This, of course, is only twenty-one courses, but if you add 3 R in any one part you have a 5152, and if you add them in every part you have a 6048. This is the peal that is usually printed over John Cox's name. Now, Cox had a copy of Thackeray's book, and made a pencil note that the peal was incomplete. Cox was a perfectly honest and honourable man, and the incident only illustrates the fact that at that time the ideas of what constitutes an original composition were very different to what they are now. And likely enough in the future men will wonder how the composers of to-day could consider many of the modern peals original compositions. We ought to remember this when we feel tempted to condemn men like Shipway and Hubbard and Harrison for varying other people's peals, and claiming them as their own. And the man most needing charity in this respect is William Sottanstill, the author of the second book published in the north. This appeared in 1867. Properly speaking, it is hardly a book at all. It is a big heap of material from which a good book could have been made. There would have had to be careful selection and ruthless rejection. Reduced to about half its size and properly arranged, it might have been a good work. Sottanstill was a painstaking, industrious man, and a composer of more than average ability, but it takes something more than that to write a book.

After Sottanstill appeared Banister's book, which is very much like Hubbard's work, and that was the last of a series. The authors of all these books had the same object in view, and that was to deal comprehensively with the whole of ringing. They tried to give a text book which should assist ringers from changes on three bells up to London Surprise, or whatever was the most difficult method at the time, and they included composition and conducting as well as actual ringing. It is safe to say that no other similar book will again be published. Ringing has got too complex, and has expanded too much to be dealt with in a book that one can slip into one's pocket. All later books deal with only a small part of the subject. Troyte's and Canon Wigram's books are purely elementary. Jasper Snowden set the fashion of taking a single method and dealing thoroughly with that, and this is the plan adopted by Sir Arthur Heywood in his 'Duffield,' and Mr. Davies' in his 'Stedman,' while the Central Council books are for the most part frankly collections of compositions or methods.

Besides the books I have mentioned there have from time to time appeared broadsheets and pamphlets. Holt published one containing his peals. J. P. Powell published one containing Stedman Triples; so did Shipway. Then there are Mr. Thompson's two pamphlets, one on the composition of Grandsire Triples, and the other on the composition of Union Triples; Carter's broadsheet of peals, and a few others. If a man possessed the whole of the books published on ringing, including a copy of each of different editions, they would occupy but a modest shelf. Such a collection would be a treasure indeed, but to make it it would need a man with plenty of patience, plenty of enthusiasm, and, I think I may add, plenty of money.

MORE INFORMATION WANTED.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—In view of the remarks made by Mr. T. Wilde at the Stockport branch meeting, held at Hyde, I feel sure the Exercise would be interested to know what length of time Mr. Wilde considers should be occupied in ringing a peal of 5,040 changes, taking into consideration weight of bells, length of draft, nature, and condition of hangings, principle on which the bells have been tuned; and, further, Mr. Fidler's reasons for suggesting that a band who can ring Kent Treble Bob well, and who desire to make progress, should commence to practise Minor methods as a stepping-stone to higher things, and eventually Surprise Major methods.—Yours truly, Frodsham.

FUNERAL OF MAJOR R. C. HUDSON.

AN IMPRESSIVE SERVICE.

Public sympathy was strongly manifested on Monday, Nov. 30th, at the funeral of Major Robert Challis Hudson, O.B.E., who was people's warden and Master of the Bell Ringers' Guild at Bishopwearmouth Parish Church, Sunderland, and who died under tragic circumstances while muffling the bells for the memorial service for the late Queen-Mother.

Military honours were accorded, and a service was held in the church, which was filled to its capacity, many of the general public being unable to gain admission. The coffin, covered with the Union Jack, and with the dead Major's cap, sword and belt resting on the top, was carried direct from the residence near by to the church by warrant officers of the R.A.S.C. Immediately behind walked Col. Dent, O.C. Northumbrian Division Train, R.A.S.C., T.F., carrying the medals of the deceased officer.

The service was conducted by the Rev. Probendary Wynne Wilson, and the lesson read by the Rev. Chas. Hudson, Vicar of Sealswood, cousin of the Major. The Revs. F. J. Sinnamon and J. G. Nye, curates, assisted.

The principal mourners were Mr. Thos. Hudson (brother), Mr. Jas. Hudson (cousin), Mrs. J. and Mrs. C. Hudson, Mr. Wm. Hudson, Mr. and Mrs. Simpson, Mr. Albyn Coore (representing the Vicar of Scruton, Yorks, where the family had a residence), Rev. T. Rigby (Scruton), Mr. and Mrs. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. J. Hudson and Dr. Robinson.

The coffin was borne to the cemetery on a gun carriage supplied by the 74th R.F.A., with warrant officers as drivers, and great crowds of sympathisers watched the procession, and bowed the head, as the procession passed through the streets. A large number of the officers attached to the R.A.S.C., or of neighbouring units, attended, besides a large contingent of members and ex-members of Major Hudson's No. 3 Company, Divisional Train, R.A.S.C. The Durham and Newcastle Diocesan Association of Ringers was represented by Mr. E. E. Ferry, hon. secretary, Messrs. C. L. Routledge, J. T. Gofton and R. A. Gofton; Messrs. J. W. Parker, R. L. Patterson, G. S. Taylor (treasurer of the Association), from St. Ignatius' Belfry, Sunderland, while his own belfry was represented by Messrs. R. W. Langton, R. Towie, R. W. Towie, J. Pickering, F. Lingwood and R. Pick.

Other bodies represented were the local Ironmongers' Association, of which the deceased was a past president and a committeeman; the National Protestant League, Bishopwearmouth Church Council, Bishopwearmouth contingent of the Girl Guides, the Sunderland Photographic Association, the Boy Scouts' Association, the Allotment Holders' Association, the Sunderland Branch of the British Legion, and the Church Institute.

After the committal service at the graveside, four members of the Durham and Newcastle Association rang the handbells over the open grave, into which the coffin of their dead comrade had just been lowered. It bore the simple inscription: 'Robert Challis Hudson, died November 26th, 1925, aged 49 years.' Then volleys were fired by a firing party, and the 'Last Post' sounded by buglers from the D.L.I.

In the evening a peal of Stedman Triples was attempted at St. Ignatius' Church, but failed, too late to start again. A well-struck quarter-peal was, however, brought round by the following: T. Stephenson 1, G. S. Taylor 2, M. F. Harrison 3, R. A. Towie 4, E. E. Ferry 5, J. W. Parker (conductor) 6, R. L. Paterson 7, R. Langton 8.

The Bishop of Durham, Dr. Hensley Henson, in sending his condolences to the bereaved family, said: 'I can well believe that this untoward event is not only a stroke of heavy bereavement to the family, but also a very serious blow to the church of which he was people's warden. I recall Major Hudson on many occasions when visiting the church, and I regard his death as a grave loss to this diocese.'

Major Hudson rang his first peal on February 2nd, 1899, a peal of 5.392 Bob Major, at St. John's, Newcastle, conducted by Mr. W. Storey, and followed that up by many notable performances in the two Northern dioceses, and also in other counties, to wit, peals of Treble Bob Maximus at Ipswich and Norwich; Royal at St. Mary's Cathedral, Edinburgh, and at Newcastle Cathedral. In all he rang about 60 peals for the association, but since the outbreak of war had done no peal ringing whatsoever. The methods in which he rang his peals were Grandsire and Bob Triples, Bob Kent and Oxford Treble Bob Major and Royal, Stedman Triples and Caters, Double Norwich Major, and Superlative Surprise Major.

It is easy to write an appreciation of one who led so simple a life—so straight, honest and God-fearing—it was so patent to all that the man was sweetness and earnestness itself; anything said beyond that would be redundant. To quote his own Rector, in his tribute on Sunday morning, the 29th ult.: 'Of Robert Challis Hudson it may truly be said that he was a beautiful example of that pure religion and undefiled before God and the Father, which leads a man to love his fellow-men and to keep himself unspotted from the world. We hear the echo of his Saviour's welcome, "Well done, good and faithful servant, enter thou into the joy of thy Lord."'

At St. John's Church, Darlington, on Nov. 29th, 1,008 Grandsire Triples, with the bells half-muffled as a token of respect to the late Maj. R. C. Hudson, of Sunderland (an ex-vice-president of the Durham and Newcastle Association), who was accidentally killed on Nov. 26th: F. W. Johnson, jun. (longest length), 1, A. Coates 2, F. W. Johnson, sen., 3, W. D. Lister 4, W. Dowson 5, R. H. Johnson 6, H. Taylor (conductor) 7, A. Hunter 8.

A SAFETY HINT.

To the Editor.

Sir,—The tragic death of Major R. C. Hudson, of Bishopwearmouth, is so distressing that it is impossible to express one's feelings of sympathy and regret at the loss of a life like his.

Everyone who has the care of bells in a tower must face the same dangers, and having spent a period of fifteen years as towerkeeper, it may not be out of place if I mention some of the guides I have used during that time. I first had the care of six in a timber frame, and afterwards of eight in a modern iron and steel frame. Soon after I commenced these duties, I had been adjusting a rope on one of the bells at rest, being on the top of the frame. The bell in the next pit was set—very lightly set, too, which I did not realise at the time—and I took hold of the wheel to pass to the next one, when I felt a slight movement, and the bell almost overbalanced. This startled me for a moment, and without finishing my task, I came down. I thought if that is the result of being in a hurry, I must contrive to find a remedy, so after some consideration I went up very carefully, took a short piece of stout bell rope, and lashed it around the beam of the cage and the spoke of the wheel, which runs along the side of this beam; the bell was then secure, and I could work with safety. This can be lashed on in a few moments, and may save a life. If a piece of rope of a suitable length be kept in a convenient place, on entering the cage it can be got at easily, and used when required. I still think this is the best remedy for a bell that is set while one is working among them. It is simple, always at hand, and is efficient. Try it, and do not enter among the bells in a hurry. Lastly, have a good and convenient light. It was thought somewhat of a luxury when we introduced electric light in the church to have a light among the bells, but it has been a great boon, and all bell chambers should be properly lighted.

DEATH OF MANCHESTER'S OLDEST RINGER

A LIFE-LONG CONNECTION WITH BIRCH-IN-RUSHOLME CHURCH.

The death occurred, on Saturday, Dec. 5th, of Mr. William Edward Ryder, in his 80th year. He had been connected with St. James' Church, Birch-in-Rusholme, all his life; in fact, he was the first male to be christened in the church, and he had been a ringer there for 64 years. He was looking forward to attending the opening of Manchester Cathedral bells, but unfortunately he had a fall the day before, from which he never recovered.

Not a great peal ringer, having rung only about a dozen, yet he liked to be amongst ringers whenever it was possible. He was well known and respected by all ringers in the Manchester area, and had been a member of the Lancashire Association for almost fifty years. He had regularly taken his place in the belfry he loved so well up to the Sunday before his accident. All ringers will sympathise with his family in their bereavement.

On Saturday a muffled peal was rung at St. James' Church.

DEATH OF A STOURBRIDGE RINGER.

We regret to record the death of Mr. J. H. Parsons, of Wollaston, Stourbridge, which sad event took place at his home, very suddenly, on Monday, December 7th.

Mr. Parsons was for many years a member of the Worcester and Districts Association, and started to ring about 50 years ago at St. Thomas' Church, Stourbridge. For nearly 40 years, however, he had been attached to St. James', and during the last 16 years or so had held the position of clerk and sexton. He was attending to his duties on the Sunday morning before his death, although he was not well. His end came as a great shock to everyone on the following day.

The interment took place on Friday last at St. James', where many of the congregation and friends of the deceased were present. The Rector of Oldswinford officiated in the unavoidable absence of the Vicar of Wollaston. Deceased's fellow ringers acted as bearers. The choir boys were also present. The 90th Psalm was sung, and the hymns, 'Nearer my God to Thee,' and 'Abide with me,' the organist also playing the 'Dead March.' After the committal, three of the local band, kindly assisted by Mr. G. H. Pagett, of Stourbridge, rang a course of Grandsire Triples on handbells at the graveside. Muffled touches were afterwards rung on the tower bells, and a peal of Cambridge Minor on Saturday, which will be found recorded elsewhere.

Many beautiful tributes of flowers were received, amongst them being a magnificent cross from the Vicar and churchwardens, and a wreath from the ringers.

YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION AND DONCASTER SOCIETY.

JOINT MEETING AT PONTEFRAC.

A combined meeting of the Eastern District of the Yorkshire Association and the Doncaster and District Society took place at Pontefract on Saturday, December 5th, and was attended by some 40 visitors from Ackworth, Badsworth, Doncaster, Hemingbrough, Howden, Hull, Ripon, Selby, Shedbourn-in-Elmet, Wakefield, Wortley, Wragby, and the local ringers. A short service was held in the Parish Church, where a very instructive address was delivered by the Vicar (the Rev. J. Young), and was followed by an excellent tea, which was served in the All Saints' Church House.

At the business meeting, the chair was taken by the Rev. A. G. Shipley, the Vicar of All Saints.—Five new members were elected—Mr. W. Hobson (Holy Trinity), Hull; Mr. G. Eggleston (All Saints), Pontefract; Mr. W. Palmer, Ackworth, and Messrs. E. Bradley and H. Thornton, Sherburn-in-Elmet.

The annual meeting will be held at York (provided the new peal is ready), failing which, at Sherburn-in-Elmet.

An appeal made in August, 1924, at Eastrington for subscriptions from ringers towards the restoration of Thorne bells, resulted in a total of £11 15s. 6d. being subscribed, details of which are acknowledged in the Thorne Parish Magazine.

A movement has now been instituted for the restoration of the bells of St. Lawrence, Hatfield. The old peal of eight (tenor 18 cwt.) are to be recast and rehung with entirely new fittings in a new iron frame. The total cost will be over £800, and over £150 has already been given. Contributions will be gratefully accepted and promptly acknowledged by Mr. H. Walker, 3, Beech Crescent, Old Hexthorpe, Doncaster.

On the motion of Mr. J. H. Howell (Hull), and seconded by Mr. H. Walters (Pontefract), a unanimous vote of thanks was passed to the two respective Vicars for the use of the bells, service, and address, and to all who helped to make a successful meeting.

ANOTHER SUCCESSFUL JOINT MEETING.

The quarterly meeting of the Southern Division was held on Saturday, December 12th, at Barnsley, in conjunction with the Barnsley and District Society, and was very successful in every way, upwards of 40 members being present from Sheffield (the Cathedral, St. Marie's and All Saints'), Wakefield, Wath, Horbury, Ecclesfield, Hoylandswaine, Handsworth, Rotherham, Wortley, Bolsterstone, Earlsheaton, Arksey, Sandal, Shelley, Royston and Crofton. The bells at the Parish Church were kept going in various methods during the afternoon and evening; also a peal of six at Monk Bretton, which was placed at the disposal of the association, through the activities of Mr. Potter. A splendid tea at Whitham's Cafe, near to the church, was followed by the business meeting, Mr. F. Willey being in the chair.

Mr. Thickett, the president of the Barnsley and District Society, gave the association a very hearty welcome to Barnsley, and was supported by Mr. Potter, the secretary.

Mr. Willey moved that the congratulations of the Southern Division should be extended to the members of the Yorkshire Association who rang in the peal at Bradford on December 5th, and this was carried.

Six new members were elected, these being Miss Molly Davenport (Dore), Mr. M. Short (Totley), the Rev. W. P. Wright (Eyam), Mr. A. Smithson (All Saints' Sheffield), and Messrs. A. Haigh and F. Dyson (Bolsterstone).

Subject to the necessary permission being obtained, the annual meeting was arranged to be held at the Cathedral, Sheffield, on Saturday, March 13th, 1926. Messrs. G. Lewis, S. F. Palmer and F. Willey were selected to make the necessary arrangements for the annual dinner of the Yorkshire Association, to be held in Sheffield in September next, and were empowered to add to their number any member they thought desirable to make the gathering a successful one.

Mr. Willey proposed a very hearty vote of thanks to the Barnsley and District Society for the very kind way in which they had met the association that day, and Mr. G. Lewis, in seconding the resolution, said that seeing that the joint meeting had been such a successful one, he hoped that it would be possible next year to have a big meeting of all the societies in the Southern area, viz. the Sheffield and District, the Barnsley and District, the Doncaster and District, and the Southern Division of the Yorkshire Association.—This was supported by Mr. Palmer and Mr. Thickett, and the secretary was instructed to communicate with the various secretaries, and try to bring this about. It was suggested that the meeting be held in June if possible, and at some place which would be convenient for all.

This brought the meeting to a close, and the members dispersed, some to the church for more ringing; others, not so fortunate, to the train or bus.

WINDSOR.—On Sunday, Nov. 7th, at the Parish Church, for evening service, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples (1,260 changes), in 48 mins.: W. Phipps 1, W. P. Cross 2, T. Smith 3, W. Henley 4, J. W. Croft 5, E. S. T. Farr (conductor) 6, L. Stilwell 7, J. H. Cropley 8.

SHORTENED DODGING.

AN APOLOGY, by the REV. H. DRAKE.

To begin with I must apologise fully to Mr. Trollope and your readers for the blunder in the sentence first quoted by him. How the sentence got into my letter, or what it meant, I cannot imagine. It may be that the right words in a sentence were crossed out in error, and only the wrong ones copied; at any rate the phrase 'before Stedman's time' has nothing to do with the argument. These words entirely misled Mr. Trollope, and he is quite justified in the capital he makes out of them.

For the rest, I am quite unrepentant. To take this argument first, and to put it in another way: If one looks at page 2 of Standard Methods—Diagrams, one sees the Plain Bob diagram, and on the next page the two methods, Double Court Bob and Double Oxford Bob. In the order in which they are there printed, it would appear that the methods progress in complication of dodging; and in order to ring them nowadays, this is the only order to place them. My theory (this is theory, and not history) is that as far as the names go, the more complicated came first. At any rate, we have the fact mentioned by Mr. Trollope himself, that 'bob' originally meant 'dodge'; also the fact that in Double Oxford there is plenty of dodging, so that it could be called a full Bob Method. We also know that the word 'Court,' as a description, meant Curt or Shortened; and we see that in Double Court, the amount of dodging is considerably shortened; while in 'Plain' Bob, the dodging is reduced to its plainest or simplest form. The same thing will be found on pages 26 and 27, with regard to Double Norwich and Double Oxford. It certainly seems a more sensible thing to connect the terms, Bob, Court Bob and Plain Bob, with dodging than with places.

I did not expect that with Mr. Trollope I should need to write 'This is a joke' after most of my sentences, but at any rate the sequipedalian nature of the phrase 'Act of sycophantic adulation,' might have warned him not to take it seriously.

When I said that it was 'unlikely' that Stedman developed Plain Changes, I was obviously not stating history, but my opinion, to which I am as much entitled as he is to his. How much the latter is worth may be deduced from the fact that he makes these statements: (a) That our earliest knowledge on these matters is dated 1668, and gives us both Plain Changes and Cross Peals; (b) that we may 'safely conclude' that Plain Changes were fully developed somewhere about 1680; and (c) that Plain Changes had scarcely been brought to perfection before they were superseded by Cross Peals. Of these three contradictory statements only one can be true. Of course, it is the last, and that is the very reason why it is so unlikely that Stedman had anything to do with developing Plain Changes.

There have been found, as I have already mentioned in your pages, inscribed on the tower of Buxhall Church in this county of Suffolk, a set of Plain Changes signed by one John Gooch, who, according to the antiquary who discovered them, died before Stedman was born, as far as can be ascertained. If this is so, Mr. Trollope is about 100 years out in his history, and his 'safe' conclusion.

Mr. Trollope seems to give the impression that Touches with Singles and Bobs were not rung much before 1700; if so, he is wrong, as Stedman tells us how to do this in 1667; only he calls Bobs 'Double Bobs,' and Singles 'Single Changes.' A 'Single Bob' is his name for a Plain Lead (i.e. of Grandsire).

Stedman is, in his 'Tintinnalogia,' so pre-occupied with Grandsire, on five bells; and with Grandsire Bob (our Plain Bob), on six bells, that we may (not 'safely conclude,' as Mr. Trollope would say, but) say that it is the most likely conclusion, that he simply recorded Plain Changes as he had been taught them, but gave his own researches into Grandsire Doubles; and also a number of suggestions about Plain Bob Minor.

The 'strictures' which Mr. Trollope queries are contained in the lines following my use of that word.

I did not say that he had not read our report, but he certainly does not give much evidence of having done so, in either of these long articles on it.

HERBERT DRAKE.

GIRL OF 16 RINGS 19 cwt. TENOR.

At the Church of All Saints', Wootton Bassett, Wilts, a young lady of 16 years has rung the 19 cwt. bell to a quarter-peal. This was on Saturday, Nov. 28th, when 1,260 Grandsire Doubles was brought round, with the bells half-muffled, in 50 mins.: E. Flewelling (aged 13), 1. J. Gibbs 2, L. Box 3, L. A. Wilson (conductor) 4, H. Flewelling 5, Nora Reeves (aged 16) 6. This is the first quarter by the treble, 2nd, 3rd and 6th ringers, and great praise is due to Miss Reeves for the way in which she handled the tenor, the striking being perfect.

HEMINGFORD ABBOTS, HUNTS.—For 11 a.m. service, on Nov. 24th, 720 Kent Treble Bob: K. Sewart (first of Treble Bob) 1, E. Smart 2, H. Saunders (conductor) 3, G. Perkins 4, H. Lavender 5, F. Warrington 6.

WINCHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD. ISLE OF WIGHT DISTRICT.

The adjourned annual meeting was held at Brading on Saturday last, when a record gathering for the district attended. The bells were in use all the afternoon, touches being rung of Stedman and Grandsire Triples, Plain Bob, Treble Bob and Double Norwich Major, and Grandsire Doubles for the beginners. A gathering, numbering 35, sat down to tea, and as only 20 had notified that they would be present, it somewhat taxed the local caterer's accommodation. However, the party made the best of the space and the food at their disposal, and proceeded to the business meeting, at which the Rev. H. E. H. Coombes (Rural Dean of West Wight, and Rector of Freshwater) was elected next year's president, in succession to the Rev. J. C. Orr (Whitwell); Mr. B. J. Snow, of Ryde, succeeded Mr. Upton, Newport, as district secretary, and Mr. H. Phillips was appointed auditor in succession to Mr. W. Johnson. The other officers remain at their posts.

A motion, moved by Mr. H. Barton, that the Central Council's action in the matter of Coventry's bells be supported, was carried unanimously.

The Rev. Coombes proposed the Guild's thanks to the Rector of Brading for kindly entertaining the members to tea, and also for conducting the service.—The Rev. Weekes, in reply, hoped that next year the ringers would honour him with another visit.—Mr. Barton proposed thanks to the outgoing officers (the Rev. J. C. Orr president, Mr. W. Upton, secretary, and Mr. W. Johnson, auditor).—Mr. Callaway seconded, and, Mr. Upton having replied, the meeting terminated.

Ringers were present from Carisbrooke, Curdridge, Freshwater, Godshill, Newport, Ryde, Whitwell, Fareham, North Stoneham and Portsmouth.

GUILDFORD DISTRICT ANNUAL MEETING.

Probably on account of the last minute change of day (caused by the death of Queen Alexandra) the attendance at the annual meeting of the Guildford District of the Winchester Diocesan Guild was not so largely attended as usual, but about 60 members and visitors were present, the affiliated towers represented being: Ash, Cranleigh, Clondon, Farnham, Guildford (Holy Trinity and S. Nicolas'), Godalming, Haslemere, Seale, Woking and Worplesdon. During the afternoon, ringing took place at both Holy Trinity and S. Nicolas' Churches, and the service, in which the Guild's form and special hymns were used, was held at the latter church, the Rev. J. Palliser David (Rector of Merrow) officiating, and giving an address.

The business meeting followed tea in S. Nicolas' Parish Hall, Admiral T. P. Walker, of Woking, who is learning to ring, taking the chair. He was supported by the Rev. J. Palliser David, Canon Kirwan, and the officials of the district.

The Chairman first expressed his pleasure at the opportunity of meeting so many ringers, and welcomed the visitors. He had only got as far as ringing call changes, he said, but he had already found out that ringers were a first-class set of men, very sympathetic, very kind, and very helpful. There was among them an excellent spirit of camaraderie, and a great sense of humour.

As the preacher had to leave early, Admiral Walker took the opportunity of thanking him for his excellent address.

PROPOSED RECASTING OF A GUILDFORD PEAL.

Mr. R. Whittington said that a proposal was on foot to recast and relang the ten bells at S. Nicolas' Church. He was told that the ringers there had made themselves responsible for recasting the treble bell, which would cost something like £25. He thought it would be a brotherly sort of thing to 'go round with the hat' and hand it over to the S. Nicolas' ringers towards the cost of their bell.

A collection was accordingly made, and realised £1 14s. 4d.

Apologies for absence were received from Canon Coleridge, Mr. G. Pullinger (Guild secretary), and Mr. Vincent.

The Hon. Secretary (Mr. E. Raddon) reported that five meetings had been held during the year, and the balance sheet showed a sum of £7 5s. 8d. in hand. There were 143 full members, seven probationers, one unattached and four compounding members, the increase on the year being 18.—The report was adopted.

The Ringing Master reported that 22 tower bell peals had been rung during the year. Death had removed Mr. Lucas, of Shalford; Mr. Poyntz, of Godalming; and Mr. Boxall, of Dorking, the last named having been one of the pioneers of the Guild. He suggested that leaders of companies might advise the secretary of the death of any member so that it might be possible to send a wreath and representatives to the funeral, and even on occasion to provide a handbell party. The report continued that, while there was much for satisfaction in the present progress that was being made, there was also something to lament in the decay that was sometimes to be observed—decay by which bells were allowed to fall into neglect and ruin. He thought this was due to a wrong mental attitude towards ringing by ringers in the past, and, to some extent, to-day. He urged ringers to make ringing what it was already supposed to be—a definitely sacred art. This could not be done by merely printing the name of the Bishop and Dean on the front of their report. What they wanted was to change the atmosphere in which the art was often pursued. The report added that the committee had considered the possibility of arranging a series of combined practices for the benefit of outlying towers, which in the ordinary way could not be visited very often. They hoped, perhaps, to have a whole day tour on Whit Monday. Their experience in the past in this direction had not been very encouraging, but they hoped the members would rally to the support of the scheme when it was inaugurated.

The report was accepted, and thanks tendered to the Master.

A RULE THAT RULES OUT MEMBERS' VIEWS.

A number of new members and probationers were elected, and Mr. E. Raddon was re-elected hon. secretary, and Mr. C. Hazelden Ringing Master. Messrs. Whittington and Jones were reappointed to represent the district on the Guild Committee.

The District Committee recommended that meetings be held during the coming year at Farnham, Dunsfold, Witley, Woking and Ewhurst.—It was suggested that a meeting should be held at Seale, where a new band is making progress, but it was pointed out that, under the rules, that meeting had no power to interfere with the decision of the District Committee, the only over-riding authority being the Guild Committee.

A resolution was passed, recommending the Guild Committee to take steps so to amend the rule that members in annual district meeting assembled could decide the places of meeting for themselves.

The business concluded with a vote of thanks to the chairman, preacher, organist and choir, and a smoking concert was then held.

PORTSMOUTH DISTRICT'S PROGRESSIVE YEAR.

The annual meeting was held at Alverstoke on Saturday week, when the musical ring of eight at St. Mary's were available during the afternoon and evening. Owing to the death of Queen Alexandra the bells were rung with half-muffled clappers throughout the day. Members and visitors, numbering 40, were present from Alverstoke, Bishop's Waltham, Curdridge, Fareham, Gosport, Portsmouth (St. Mary's and St. Thomas'), Ryde (I.O.W.), Swanmore and Wickham. The visitors included Mr. G. Williams (Master) and R. J. Hasted (Farnham).

An enjoyable service was held in the church, at which the Rector (Canon G. Landon, R.D.), officiated, assisted by Mr. E. Douglas, F.R.C.O., at the organ. In the course of a few remarks, the Rector said how pleased they always were to welcome the Guild to Alverstoke, and how appropriate it was for them to be there that day in a period of national mourning to take part in half-muffled ringing. In conclusion, he thought that one of the chief aims of membership of the Diocesan Guild should be to ensure a good standard of change ringing, and also of members attached to the various towers.

The members adjourned to the Broderick Hall, where tea awaited them, after which the business meeting was held, the Rector taking the chair. The balance sheet, which was presented by the district auditor, showed receipts amounting to £13 3s., and expenditure to £5 19s. 5½d., leaving a balance to the general treasurer of £7 3s. 6½d.—Seven full members and ten probationers were elected, nine of the latter being from Gosport.

Mr. H. J. Smith (Wickham) asked that he should be excused re-election as a Central Committee representative, as he found, owing to ill-health, it was increasingly difficult to get about. Mr. F. A. Burnett (Portsmouth) was duly elected to serve on that body. All the other officers were re-elected, viz.: Chairman, Mr. R. J. Stone; secretary, Mr. F. W. Rogers; Central Committee, Messrs. C. J. Fray and F. A. Burnett; auditor, Mr. H. G. Reynolds.

It was decided to hold the next quarterly meeting at Wickham on Saturday, February 13th, 1926, and that application should be made for use of the peals of six at Shedfield and Swanmore.

On the proposition of the district chairman, votes of thanks were accorded the Rector of Alverstoke for the use of the bells and the hall, and also the organist, to which Canon Landon suitably replied.

This concluded the business, after which the members returned to the tower, the ringing during the day ranging from 'rounds' to Superlative Surprise Major.

A resume of the past year shows that meetings have been held at Portsmouth, Petersfield, Netley and Fareham, the average attendance being 26. The ringing, which had been quite up to standard, had included the standard methods, also Cambridge, Superlative, London and Bristol Surprise Major. There was an increase in full, probationary, compounding and honorary members, and also one affiliated tower, Hambledon being rejoined the Guild. It is hoped that the coming year will be an equally, if not, more progressive one than the past.

W. R. SMALL'S MEMORIAL FUND.

Previously acknowledged, £1 13s. 6d.; Willenhall ringers, 5s. All donations should be addressed to Mr. J. B. Evans, 52, Park Lane East, Tipton, Staffs, and will be acknowledged through this paper.

NEW PEAL FOR BELPER.

EIGHT LOUGHBOROUGH BELLS REPLACE SIX STEEL ONES.

Belper is one of the most historical towns in Derbyshire, with upwards of 12,000 inhabitants. At one time its staple trade was nail-making. It also possessed a cotton spinning mill early in the eighteenth century, which stood on St. John's Road, owned by a Mr. Robinson. It must have been very ancient, as it was worked by horses. In 1745 the Strutts built another mill on the banks of the River Derwent (the remains of which still stand). At that time the inhabitants numbered 541; ten years after the population had grown 5,000. This mill has been enlarged several times, and now employs over 1,300 hands. It is amalgamated with the English Cotton Co. In 1832, the Duchess of Kent and Princess Victoria stayed at Belper with the Strutt family. The land for miles round belonged to the de Ferrers during the two centuries succeeding the Conquest. Robert de Ferrers, who died in 1139, granted land at Heage for service in driving wolves out of the Lordship of Belper. They were a powerful and restless family, who held a Castle at Duffield and the Manor at Belper, but in the year 1266 the seventh Earl Robert rebelled against the king, Henry III., and at the battle of Evesham found himself on the losing side. He fled to Chesterfield, and hid himself among the bags of wool stored in the nave of the church for the Whitsuntide Fair. Being discovered, he was conveyed to Windsor in chains, and his land confiscated by the Crown. Duffield Castle was destroyed, and the estates of the de Ferrers were given to the King's second son, Edmund Crouchback, Earl of Lancaster.

About this date a chapel was built in the forest as a wayside place of worship for the keepers of the Duffield Forest, wayfarers, and the small isolated population, whose parish church lay several miles away across wild country at Duffield. In the official records of the Honour of Tutbury, which was the headquarters of the Duchy of Lancaster in these parts, in the year 1314, there is a charge of sixteen shillings for glazing the windows, and in 1398 we read that the honey and wax from wild bees in Duffield Ward were appropriated to the chapel. It was licensed for marriages, for in the year 1420 Sir Sampson Neverill, of Tideswell, was married to Isabella, daughter of Sir Roger Leche, Lord High Treasurer of England, who had a house at Belper. The chapel was disendowed, and had to depend upon an uncertain service from Duffield, and within a century of its disendowment it fell into dilapidation. In 1834 there are records of repairs, and so it went on until about 1870, when the Rev. F. A. Friend started an undertaking for the restoration which was carried out, and the church is now thoroughly restored and used for service. The present Church of St. Peter was built in 1822-24, and only had one bell, which was given by Mr. Strutt, but in 1861 a peal of six steel bells were installed, made by a Sheffield firm, and hung by a local carpenter. After sixty years' constant service they were found to be unsafe, and were only chimed.

Many meetings of the Church Council discussed the question of a new peal, and at length decided to have the bells restored and rehung in a new frame, leaving room for two trebles to be added. They were taken away to Messrs. Taylor and Co.'s Loughborough foundry. Messrs. Taylor then reported that, whatever was spent, it would be unsatisfactory. After the wardens and several members of the committee had heard a peal tapped at the foundry, the Council met to further discuss the matter, when a letter was received from Mr. G. H. Strutt offering to provide the largest bell. Mr. J. Hunter and Mrs. Hunter also promised two bells, and the Council, therefore, decided to go forward with the big scheme of eight new bells.

A subscription list was opened, and other bells promised by Mr. Sanders, Mr. Jackson, the Hey and Haynes families, leaving only two to be provided. The subscriptions rolled in so fast that in less than three months the amount required was raised. The eight new bells arrived on October 26th, and on November 5th the work was completed. The inscriptions are as follows:—

- Treble.—Venite. The gift of A. M. and E. Sanders.
  - 2nd.—Jubilate. Francis J. Jackson, 1854; Francis E. Jackson, 1858; Helen F. Jackson, 1898.
  - 3rd.—In Excelsis Gloria. In Memoriam. Robert Hey, Vicar, 1845—1885, and Maria Jane, his wife.
  - 4th.—Ad Majorem Dei Gloriam. From the Haynes family. In memory of our father and mother, J. Haynes, E. A. Haynes.
  - 5th.—Gloria in Excelsis Deo et in Terra Pax Homini-bus Bonae Voluntatis. Vicars, M. Tunstall, R. Hay, F. A. Friend, S. H. Clark, J. A. Cooper, 1925.
  - 5th.—Gloria in Excelsis Deo et in Terra Pax Homini-bus Bonae Vicar: H. Mellor, E. Gee, Churchwardens.
  - 7th.—Te Deum Laudamus. Given in memory of John Hunter, 1811—1886, and his wife, Margaret Hunter, 1820—1908, by their six children.
  - Tenor.—Laus Deo. Presented by George Herber Strutt, 1925.
- The dedication service was held on Saturday, November 28th, and there was a representative attendance, the church being crowded. After the hymn, 'O God, our help,' and the anthem, 'Send out Thy light,' the Bishop of Derby, accompanied by the warden, chaplain and Vicar, passed down the church to the tower, where the Vicar recounted the gifts offered, and asked the Bishop to dedicate them. The Bishop blessed the bells, with special prayers, and as the procession returned, the St. Andrew's (Derby) ringers rang the bells half-muffled, after which the Bishop gave a short address. The closing hymn was 'We love the place, O God,' and as the congregation left the church the bells rang out, open, to a touch of Stedman, followed by another of Duffield Major.

The bells are hung in a steel frame on ball bearings, and go like the proverbial 'fiddles.' Everybody was pleased with the work, and spoke of the excellent tone and easy 'go' of the bells.

A tea was provided for the St. Andrew's and local ringers, with the Vicar (the Rev. J. A. Cooper, R.D.), Mr. H. Mellor, Mr. E. Gee (churchwardens), Mr. J. Hunter, and others.

The Vicar said how pleased he was with the bells, and the way the work had been carried out by Messrs. Taylor and Co., and thanked the St. Andrew's ringers for their service during the afternoon. Other speakers also supported his remarks, and Messrs. C. E. Hart (churchwarden and captain of St. Andrew's) and C. Draper responded. The ringers then returned to the belfry, and, with a few visitors, kept the bells going until eight o'clock.

LAMBERHURST BELLS RESTORED.

There was a crowded congregation at the Parish Church, Lamberhurst, Kent, on Wednesday, December 2nd, when the bells, which had been silent for over four years, were dedicated, after restoration, by the Archdeacon of Tonbridge. Other clergy present were Canon Champneys, the Rev. E. Owen (Pembury), and the Vicar (the Rev. E. S. Jose).

The Archdeacon, in the course of his address, said he supposed it was not known exactly when the bells were first given, but they had been associated with their beautiful church for many years. He quoted instances to show how the bells entered into the lives, both religious and secular, of the people, and added that it was difficult to say when they were first introduced into the Christian Church. Might they who lived there this Christmas, and, indeed, through the successive seasons of the Christian year, never fail to listen to the message taught them by the bells. After the service, the bells were rung by the local ringers. The third bell has been recast, and the peal rehung with all new fittings in a new steel-frame by Messrs. Gillett and Johnston.

The tower was open on Saturday, December 5th, when ringers came from Tunbridge Wells, Kildown and Horsmonden to try the bells. At five o'clock the ringers were met by the Vicar and churchwardens, and all were kindly entertained to tea by Mr. Beach.

After tea the ringers went back to the tower and rang further touches, the methods ranging from Grandsire Doubles to Cambridge Surprise. All present were agreed that Messrs. Gillett and Johnston have splendidly carried out the work, the 'go' of the bells being perfect.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

NORTH BUCKS BRANCH.—SUGGESTED INTER-TOWER MEETINGS.

A successful quarterly meeting of the North Bucks Branch was held at Buckingham on Saturday, December 5th, when about 35 attended, representing the following towers in the branch: Bletchley, Beachampton, Fenny Stratford, Maids Moreton, Newport Pagnell, Padbury, Stony Stratford, Twyford, and Buckingham. The bells were ringing from 2.30 until 3.30 p.m., when service was conducted by the Rev. C. C. T. Naters, this being the first time he had been able to officiate at a Guild meeting. His address, though brief, was very interesting, and appreciated by the members. After service tea was served at the 'Bakery,' where a room had been set apart for the occasion. The Secretary (Mr. W. Sear) announced to the meeting that no special business had to be transacted, but he was very pleased to see such a nice gathering, which certainly showed that there was real life in the branch. He said that he had been asked to accept Shalstone tower in the branch for next year (1926), and he was sure they would all be pleased to welcome the band. The Twyford tower was once more in union, having rejoined this year. The secretary also said that it would be serviceable if several towers could meet and assist each other. The Buckingham tower was practically at a stand, and it seemed, with the grand peal of eight which it possessed, that it was a pity more advantage could not be taken of them.

Thanks were expressed to the Rev. C. C. T. Naters, Vicar of Buckingham, for entertaining the branch, for making the necessary arrangements for tea, and for conducting the service.—This was suitably responded to, and reference was made to the death of Mr. Robinson, of Buckingham, who for many years was the leader of the tower, and who was missed that day.

The members then adjourned to the tower for further ringing, the methods during the afternoon ranging from Grandsire and Stedman Triples to Cambridge Surprise Major.

SUNDAY SERVICE TOUCHES.

We regret that, owing to the demands upon the space available for Sunday Service Touches, we are unable to undertake to insert anything less than a quarter-peal on eight bells and upwards, and 720 of Doubles or Minor. Many correspondents send us quite short touches for publication and they must not be disappointed if we are unable to find room for them.

DEVELOPING A NEW INTEREST.

Anything which will encourage progress in the art of ringing deserves the warmest support, and we anticipate that the Exercise will welcome the new text-book on spliced-method ringing which will be published from 'The Ringing World' Office next week. It covers the subject most exhaustively, and deals with an entirely new phase of ringing. 'Splicing' is a modern development which was never anticipated by past authors, but it is unquestionably the direction in which six-bell ringing will now expand. The full scope of legitimate Minor methods has been explored, and there is, probably, nothing worth having in this category which is not already known. Ringers whose practice is limited to six bells would, therefore, be at the end of their resources if it were not for the introduction of the splicing system. Obviously, however, this new plan of ringing extends the field of practice to a remarkable degree, and opens up an entirely new interest.

Although the forthcoming publication is based upon the recent series of articles which Mr. J. P. Fidler wrote in these columns, it must not be thought that the book is confined merely to a reproduction of these hints on how to achieve a thirty-five method peal. The book goes far beyond this. The whole subject of 'splicing' Minor methods is dealt with by Mr. J. W. Parker, whose knowledge of this, as of many other phases of the art, is unexcelled. He discusses and illustrates the various ways in which Minor methods may be joined together in true extents, and gives the student ample information to enable him to pursue a further investigation of the various methods which may be coupled up. Mr. Parker's analysis of the subject is easily the best as well as the most exhaustive treatise that has yet been written on the theory of splicing, and, coupled with Mr. Fidler's practical hints, will enable any ringer, who cares to study the subject, to get a complete grasp of the whole matter.

The value of the book does not lie entirely in the fact that from it a band can learn to put into seven true Minor extents something like fifty different methods. Such a peal would, of course, be something to be proud of, but the publication will open up a new interest for thousands of ringers, even though they never ring a peal. The book will show ringers of plain methods how they can, if they choose, put two methods instead of one into their Sunday service touch; the more ambitious can learn how to include no fewer than ten methods in one true seven-twenty, or, if they prefer, any lesser number of methods. The important point is that it reveals a new field of operations, a new scope for the enterprising, and should imbue a really genuine new interest in the art of ringing. The time will come when the 'method' ringer who knows nothing about splicing will be as out-of-date as the 'stoney' ringer of to-day—the publication, which will be on sale on New Year's Day, will be the 'tutor' which will put every ringer in the path of acquiring that knowledge which will enable him to achieve success in this new phase of our art. It is a book which will not only appeal to six-bell ringers, but will be found equally interesting to those whose practical ringing is confined to higher numbers. We imagine that within a few weeks it will be on every keen ringer's bookshelf, to be taken down constantly for study and reference.

A LECTURE ON BELLS.

On the afternoon of Sunday, November 29th, members of St. James's Church, Birch-in-Rusholme, Manchester, had a new world of experience and interest opened up for them by the Rev. F. P. Cheetham, Principal of Egerton Hall, Manchester, and a member of the Cambridge University Guild of Change Ringers, who gave a lecture on 'Bells and Bell Ringing.' There is at Birch a fine ring of eight bells, but few except the ringers had any conception of the scientific skill and knowledge necessary before the bells could be rightly used.

The lecturer began by giving a short history of the origin and development of bells and their uses, showing how intimately connected they have always been with religious worship. He then explained the theory of change ringing, aided by photographs and a model swinging bell, kindly lent by Messrs. John Taylor and Co., of Loughborough. The value of this able lecture was considerably enhanced by illustrations of change ringing, rung by a band of handbell ringers, under the leadership of Mr. H. Chapman (Messrs. D. Brown, H. Jackson, A. Barnes, A. Bailey, and F. Page). They gave leads of Bob Minor, Bob Major, and Bob Royal, following up with a plain course of Grand-sire Caters, and a plain course of Stedman Caters. Those who faced inclement weather to attend the lecture were more than repaid for their trouble, and it is hoped that the present band of change ringers at Birch (most of whom have served for many years in the belfry) will be reinforced by younger men, who, having caught something of the fascination of change ringing from this lecture, are willing to give time to the mastery of this difficult art.

No account of ringing activities at Birch at this date can be allowed to close without mention of the death of Mr. William Ryder on Saturday, December 5th, at the age of 79 years, and to which reference was made last week. He had been a ringer at Birch for over 61 years, holding the position of conductor for many years past. The writer was privileged to see him a few hours before he lost consciousness, and his last desire was to hear some account of the Rev. F. P. Cheetham's lecture. He will always be remembered for his faithful service in the belfry, a service no less valuable because rendered week by week, unseen by the majority of worshippers.

SALOP RINGER'S LONG SERVICE.

SHERIFFHALES PARISHIONERS' GIFTS.

We recently recorded a peal rung at Sheriffhales, Salop, in honour of Mr. John Lovekin, for 60 years a chorister, 50 years a bell ringer, and 40 years parish clerk. On November 21st the parishioners made an acknowledgment of this long and devoted service to the church, the proceedings being in the nature of a parochial festival. They began with a service in the afternoon. The Vicar (the Rev. R. A. Giles) officiated, assisted by the Rev. T. H. Rabone (Rector of Weston-under-Lizard). The first part of the service was a short but impressive commemoration of her late Majesty, Queen Alexandra. Then the Vicar dedicated a handsome bronze tablet recording the peal, which was carried in procession to the belfry, it being formally placed in the tower by Mr. Lovekin himself. It is later to be placed in an oak frame and fixed in the tower.

At the conclusion of the service, the 'Te Deum' was sung as an act of praise and thanksgiving for the life and work of Mr. Lovekin.

The bells were then rung while the parishioners proceeded to the Church Hall, where tea was provided. The Vicar, who presided, afterwards read letters of congratulation and good wishes to Mr. Lovekin from the Bishop of Lichfield, the Archdeacon of Salop, and others, and proceeded to pay a warm tribute to the simple goodness, honesty, integrity and courtesy of Mr. Lovekin, who, he said, had lived to serve God and the district in which he lived.

The Vicar then presented to Mr. Lovekin a beautifully illuminated address, handsomely framed. It was worded: 'Parish of St. Mary, Sheriffhales-cum-St. Peter, Woodcote. Mr. John Lovekin, of Sheriffhales. We, the Vicar and churchwardens, and past and present parishioners of Sheriffhales wish to express to you our sense of the great services you have rendered to the church in this parish. You have been a chorister for 60 years, a bell ringer for 50 years, and parish clerk for 40 years. In these offices you have served with unflinching fidelity and cheerfulness. We ask your acceptance of the clock which accompanies this address, and in thanking you for all you have done for the church in this parish, we hope that the Eternal Father will give you strength of mind and body for your remaining days on earth.' The address was signed by the Bishop of Lichfield, and was to be signed also by the Vicar and churchwardens, being dated Nov. 21st, 1925.

The Vicar next proceeded to present to Mr. Lovekin a very handsome large eight-day clock, equipped with beautiful chimes, a gift of the parishioners past and present. This was also suitably inscribed.

In making the presentation to Mr. Lovekin, the Vicar remarked that they only offered him what they thought was his due. They offered it, not because it expressed what they thought of him from the standpoint of value in pounds, shillings and pence—that could not be done—but because it did express their very best wishes for himself, his wife, and the whole of his family (applause).

The Rector of Weston-under-Lizard, and other speakers, including Mr. W. Saunders, of Coalbrookdale, added their tribute to the life-long services of Mr. Lovekin, who was enthusiastically received when he rose to respond. He said he felt at a loss for words in which to express himself, and to return thanks for the way in which they had received him and treated him that evening. During his time there had been eleven organists, five vicars, and eleven curates. He thought that during his time he had been present at nearly 400 funerals, and over 500 baptisms, and 121 weddings. He had been trying the previous night to count up the ringers whom he had known and rung with. He thought there were over 50, many of whom he had broken in. He could only say that he was very grateful for the way in which the parishioners and friends had treated him, and for the beautiful gifts towards which they had subscribed (applause).

The remainder of the evening was devoted to a social, the proceedings being of a most happy and enjoyable character throughout.

The bells of the church were again rung, and performances given on the handbells.

All the arrangements had been made by the parishioners, headed by the Vicar.

BELLS FROM BRASS CANNON.

It is an old expedient in time of war to use church bells for munitions, but it is rarer for bells thus utilised to be replaced by others cast in their turn from guns. Such a curious sequence of events has occurred (according to the Danish Foreign Office 'Journal,' quoted by the 'Birmingham Daily Post') at Smith's Iron Foundries and Machine Works, Ltd., of Aalborg, North Jutland. The firm received an order for forty-four bells to be installed in churches in South Jutland. During the war a large number of bells were removed from these churches by the German authorities, and melted down for the making of munitions. The new bells have been cast from the metal of sixty old brass cannon supplied to the Aalborg foundry by the Copenhagen Arsenal. Eight of these bells have been hung in different churches in various parts of the town of Hadersley, and have been so admirably cast that although they are distributed over a wide area they ring in perfect harmony with one another.

ESSEX ASSOCIATION.

MR. F. PITSTOW RESIGNS MASTERSHIP OF N.-W. DIVISION.

The annual meeting of the North-Western Division was held at Bishop's Stortford, on Saturday, Dec. 5th. A short service was conducted by the Rev. Canon Lane, who welcomed the ringers, and expressed regret that, owing to other arrangements, he was unable to accompany them to their tea.

After tea, held in the Parish Room, the business meeting was presided over by Mr. C. H. Howard, of Braintree.

A letter was read from Mr. F. Pitstow (Master of the Division), stating that he thought it best to resign from office, and wishing the division every success in the future.—The Chairman spoke warmly of the most valuable work that had been carried out by Mr. Pitstow in the past, and proposed that the secretary should convey to him a most hearty and sincere vote of thanks from the meeting.—This was seconded by Mr. William Prior, and carried unanimously.

Mr. Smale proposed that Mr. H. Dew be elected Master of the Division.—Mr. Morris seconded, and the motion was carried.—Mr. Dew, amid applause, thanked the company.

Upon the proposition of Mr. Dew, and seconded by Mr. Hobbs, the secretary was re-elected.

Mr. W. Lawrence, on behalf of the Herts County Association, proposed that a joint meeting be held in the near future.—The matter was discussed, and eventually the meeting agreed that a joint meeting should be held, and that the arrangements be left to the two secretaries concerned.

Thaxted was decided upon for the next meeting-place. Various matters closely connected with bell ringing were then discussed.—Votes of thanks were passed to the Rev. Canon Lane, the steeplekeeper, and the organist.

Touchees of Grandsire Caters, Stedman Caters and Cambridge Major were rung during the day.

A JOINT MEETING AT EVESHAM.

A most successful and well-attended joint meeting of the Southern Branch of the Worcestershire Association and the All Saints' and St. Lawrence Guild, Evesham, was held at Evesham on Saturday, Dec. 12th, when nearly 80 members, representing every tower in the Southern Branch, with one exception, attended, together with seven visitors from the Western Branch. On account of the many six-bell beginners in the branch, rounds and Grandsire Triples figured largely in the ringing, but two well-struck touchees of Stedman Caters and a course of Cambridge Major were successfully brought round.

A fully choral service was held in the Church of St. Lawrence, and the Vicar (the Rev. E. O. Burbidge) gave an appropriate and interesting address from the words: 'Rejoice with them that do rejoice and weep with them that weep' (Romans xii., 15). The Rev. G. W. Webb, of Beddons Norton, read the special lesson, and a collection, taken on behalf of Offenham Bell Restoration Fund, realised £1.

Tea followed in the Church House, and at the subsequent business meetings, the Vicar presided, supported by the Revs. G. W. Webb and D. Fitzmaurice (Vicar of Hampton). The business was chiefly routine in character, the retiring officers in both cases being re-elected for the ensuing year.

Blockley was chosen for the spring meeting of the branch, and it was decided to attempt the quarterly peal at Evesham, with Mr. J. Hemming as conductor.

A vote of thanks to all who contributed towards making the meeting such a success was proposed by Mr. C. A. Binyon, and carried with acclamation.

The Vicar, in a suitable reply, said it was a great pleasure to welcome them to Evesham.

Further ringing until 9 p.m. brought an enjoyable afternoon and evening to a close.

A NOVEMBER CHARABANC EXCURSION.

The ringers of Farmborough Church, Somerset, had their annual outing on November 14th. The party, numbering 14, including the Rev. L. G. Ketchley, Mr. R. T. Clark (instructor), and friends from Camerton and Timsbury, left Farmborough by charabanc at 2 p.m., and called first at Dinder, where the bells were raised in peal, and touchees of Grandsire Doubles were rung. They then visited Croscombe, and Grandsire and Bob Doubles were rung. At Shepton Mallet tea was provided at Moon's Restaurant, kindly arranged by Mr. Wm. Richards, captain of Shepton ringers. Afterwards the party visited the tower, where more Bob and Grandsire Doubles were brought round. The journey then took the party to Doulting, where they were met by Mr. H. E. Webb (captain), and, after ringing, went on to Leigh-on-Mendip, where they were provided with light refreshments, kindly arranged by the Rev. J. E. Honnywill (late President of the Association). No ringing was done at Leigh, owing to a death in the village. Farmborough was reached just after 10 o'clock. The ringers wish, through the 'Ringing World,' to thank the respective Rectors for the use of the bells; also the towerkeeper for having everything in readiness, and the Rev. Honnywill for his kind hospitality.

WALTER P. WHITEHEAD'S 100 PEALS.

Mr. Walter P. Whitehead, better known in Leicestershire as 'Tich,' reached his century of peals by conducting, as already recorded, a peal of Bob Major on November 8th last. He has taken three years nine months to compile this hundred, having started peal ringing on Feb. 23rd, 1922, with Stedman Triples, in which he rang the treble. He is believed to be the youngest ringer to ring 'in hand' on 'inside pairs' peals of Stedman Doubles, Triples, Caters and Cinques, and to conduct a peal of Stedman Caters. This latter he did when only 16 years of age. It is probable also that he was the first to ring a peal of Superlative, Cambridge and London in his 14th year, and the youngest to call Holt's Original. Here is the list of his peals:—

BELFRY GOSSIP.

To all our readers we extend the old, old wish of 'A Happy Christmas.'

On Christmas morning Bow Bells will be broadcast to the world at 10.15. Call changes will be rung by special request of the B.B.C., in order to illustrate the popular changes.

A sum of over £800 is to be spent on the restoration of the bells of Hatfield Church, near Doncaster. The ring of eight (tenor 18 cwt.) is to be recast and rehung with entirely new fittings, and in a new iron frame.

Those ringers who seek information of the happenings in the Exercise for the past forty years will be interested to know that Mr. Harry Mason, who has now settled into a permanent home, 'The Goodrest,' Hagley, Worcestershire, has kindly volunteered to look up anything in reason which appeared in 'The Bell News' from the first number in 1881, onwards.

'Great George,' the 9½ ton bell in the new buildings of the Bristol University will be on view, and may be rung by holders of tickets for the Bristol United Ringing Guild's fifth annual dinner. Here is a chance for the other great George.

There will be many congratulations to the band of St. Mary's Church, Luton, upon ringing the first peal of Bristol Surprise in Bedfordshire, the peal being the first in the method by all the band. Even in these days of advanced ringing there are comparatively few 'local' companies who can put up a Bristol Surprise peal band.

The greatest scientific performance ever achieved in change ringing was the description applied to the peal of 6,048 London Surprise Major rung on December 26th, 1871, by Squire Proctor and a band of village residents at Bennington.

Boxing Day can claim quite a number of noteworthy achievements in the past. In 1760, at Hackney, the first peal of College Exercise Major was rung; in 1782, 5,040 London Union Trebbles by the Society of London Youths, 'being the first of that method,' was rung at St. Giles-in-the-Fields.

In more recent times, among the long peals rung on this holiday were: 1885, 8,064 Double Norwich, at Leiston, by the College Youths; 1894, 9,312 Superlative Surprise, at Crawley, Sussex; 1895, 10,080 Bob Major, at Helmingham; 1901, 11,111 Stedman Cinques at Birmingham; and 10,176 Kent Treble Bob Major, at Beeston, Notts; 1910, 9,728 Superlative Surprise at Clent, Worcestershire; 1923, 10,440 Cambridge Surprise Royal, at Walthamslow. It was on December 26th also that the 15,168 Kent Treble Bob Major was rung in 1831, at Elland, Yorks.

It was on December 27th, 1904, that the 17,104 Double Norwich Major was rung at South Wigston, Leicestershire, and on the same day in 1909, the 10,176 Double Oxford Bob Major, at Brierley Hill, Staffs.

The earliest peal of Treble Bob was rung on December 27th, 1718, a 5,040 Union Bob by the Union Scholars, at St. Dunstan's-in-the-East, London. This method we now know as Oxford Treble Bob, and, in view of the desire which is being evinced in some quarters to retain old names, may we not ask who it was that changed the name, for it was this peal as much as any that established the right of ringers of the first peal to give the method the name they choose. In this case the ringers called it after their own society.

In 1738 (December 27th), 'the Friendly Society of Ringers,' the forerunners, as it were, of the St. James' Society, rang a peal of 6,160 Bob Major, at St. Andrew's, Holborn.

COVENTRY BELLS.

We are asked to state that the printed leaflets relating to Coventry Bells received by the Secretaries of the Central Council's Affiliated Associations and Guilds are for their private information only, pending the hearing of the case on January 4th next.

CAMBRIDGE SURPRISE MAXIMUS RECORD.

MIDDLESEX ASSOCIATION RING A LONG LENGTH AT BOW. There was a great achievement at Bow Church, Cheapside, on Saturday, when members of the Middlesex County Association brought round a peal of 7,392 Cambridge Surprise Maximus on this far-famed ring of bells. There was some excellent ringing—as was only to be expected of the band, and the occasion—and no serious trip occurred throughout the peal, which occupied 5 hours 38 minutes.

This is, of course, the first 'long' peal of Cambridge Maximus, and, as a 'single-handed' performance, ranks high among the great achievements in the history of ringing. Apart from the complexity of the method, Bow is not an easy belfry in which to ring, and we believe this is the longest peal of Maximus ever accomplished on bells with a tenor of over 50 cwt. Mr. William Pye has thus added another record to his many great successes, and to him and to the whole band the Exercise will extend congratulations. It was a great performance.

WEDDING BELLS.

At Barrow-on-Humber, Lincs, on Wednesday, Oct. 28th, in honour of the wedding of Miss Elsie M. Mason and Mr. Roderick Marshall, at the Church of Holy Trinity, several 120's of Grandsire Doubles and Bob Doubles: R. Pratt 1, J. Barrick 2, J. Atkinson 3, H. E. Dannatt 4, J. W. Crowder 5, J. Parkin 6.

NOTES BY THE WAY.

THE ORIGINS OF CHANGE RINGING.

By J. A. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

It is a fascinating amusement to speculate how such a thing as change ringing was ever invented. Bells have been in use for a thousand years and more, and by all civilised people. You will find them all over the world, in the old countries of the East, as well as in Christian Churches. But change ringing is little more than three hundred years old, and is practised only in England and by a few Englishmen who have gone out to the Colonies. The whole thing is illogical. A bell is a musical instrument, but music is one of the last things with which change ringing (as change ringing) concerns itself. The bells are hung in church towers, and are dedicated by special services; but change ringing in its beginning and throughout the greater part of its history was purely secular. You will find many records of money paid for ringing in the past for many reasons, national, social, political, but seldom or never ecclesiastical.

They tell us that bells were put in church towers for the church's services, and it is largely true, but not altogether true. True for the bells of the Middle Ages; true for the present time. But not true to any great degree for the seventeenth and eighteenth and parts of the sixteenth and nineteenth centuries. You have but to study the inscriptions on the bells to see how secular the associations with them were at one time. The 'Ave Maria Gratia Plena Dominus Tecum,' or 'Santa Fides Ora Pro Nobis' of the fifteenth century, gives way in the seventeenth and eighteenth to such things as 'Let us tune and sound together England's sweet Peace for ever,' or 'At proper times my voice I'll raise to sound to our benefactor's praise,' or even 'Hark do you hear, our clappers want beer.' And only in modern times has the old style been revived, as in the noble inscription on Great Paul, 'Vae mihi si non Evangelisavers.' It is not the question of taste that is most remarkable; it is the purely secular idea that is associated with bells and bell ringing. It is not as anything connected with church services or ritual that we must look for the beginnings of change ringing, but purely as a secular sport.

But if the causes that first produced change ringing are obscure, the time when it began and the class of men among whom it began are pretty certainly known. Change ringing began in the first few years of the seventeenth century, and among ordinary everyday kind of people. It was not the deliberate invention of some great brain. It arose naturally and spontaneously, and in country villages at the same time as in the larger towns. It is not really difficult to understand how it began, and, once the first beginnings were made, its rise and development can be clearly traced.

Fabian Stedman is our authority for the date of the beginning of change ringing, but now Mr. Drake produces evidence to show that its start was much earlier. 'There have been found, inscribed on the tower of Buxhall Church, in the county of Suffolk, a set of plain changes, signed by one John Gooch, who, according to the antiquary who discovered them, died before Stedman was born.' This leaves the date of these figures very vague, but Mr. Drake assumes them to be 'about one hundred years' before 1668.

In any case the discovery is a most interesting one, but, before we accept it as any proof that Stedman was wrong, we must know on what ground the antiquary based his conclusion that John Gooch died before Stedman was born, and what his qualifications are for arriving at such a conclusion. We must also have the figures. Stedman was born in 1631, and plain changes were certainly rung before then. And so, if these are of an early type, the antiquary may be right, although Mr. Drake's conjecture is almost certainly wrong. But if the figures represent the fully developed plain changes that Stedman describes, then we can safely say that they are not earlier than the middle of the seventeenth century, and must probably belong to the last part of that century, or the early part of the eighteenth.

This is what Stedman has to say about the beginnings of our art—

'It is an Ancient Proverb with us in England (that Rome was not built in a day) by which expression is declared that difficult things are not immediately done, or in a short time accomplished. But for the art of ringing it is admirable to conceive in how short a time it hath increased, that the very depth of its intricacy is found out; for within these fifty or sixty years last past changes were not known nor thought possible to be rung. Then were invented the Sixes, being the very ground of a Six-score. Then the Twenty and Twenty-four, with several other changes. But Cambridge Forty-eight for many years was the greatest Peal that was Rang or invented; but now neither Forty-eight nor a Hundred, nor Seven-hundred and twenty, nor any number can confine us for we can ring changes ad infinitum . . . that is infinite in respect of our apprehension.'

It is quite clear that Stedman is not writing haphazardly, but deliberately, of facts which he knew. The picture he draws is of a humble beginning somewhere about 1610, a slow growth at first; and just before the publication of his book a rapid development. There was ringing before 1610, and long before 1610 there were even ringing societies, for the 'Scholars of Cheapside' was founded as far back as 1603. But Stedman was absolutely right when he places the beginning of change ringing at the 'invention of the Sixes.' For the invention of the Sixes was the first recognition that the production of changes is subject to strict law. He tells us how the Sixes were rung, and there you have the germ from which the whole of change ringing has developed, by a process or orderly evolution.

During the reign of Queen Elizabeth bell ringing had come to be one of the English sports. The hanging of the bells was very rough and crude; there were no slays and slides; no sallies, and the ringing a single bell was a great test of physical strength. Shakespeare gives us a sketch of a country bell ringer drawn, no doubt, from his personal experience in the days when, a boy, he roamed among the villages of Warwickshire. The name he gave him—Peter Bullen—is enough to describe him, a lusty young fellow, strong of muscle, and not too intellectual, an ordinary healthy yokel.

The early ringing was necessarily round ringing. The bells were raised, rung and lowered, as was and is the custom in some West Country towers, and then naturally enough there came the time when one man said to another, 'Let's have some variety: let's have a fresh tune. Change places with me.' And when that was said and done, change ringing became possible.

'A Change,' says Stedman, 'is made between two Bells that strike next to each other, by removing into each others places.' At first, these changes were made at random, but the invention of the Sixes established ringing for all time as a science as well as an art. The Sixes are, of course, the changes on three bells. All the early ringing was done on small numbers of bells, and much of it on three and four bells. The reader will, I think, get a correct idea of what the earliest of all Change Ringing was if I quote Stedman at length.

'On three bells there are six several changes to be made: in ringing of which there is one bell to be observed, which is called the Hunt, and the other two are Extream Bells (but they cannot properly be so called because every bell hunts in the Six Changes); yet because 'tis commonly rung by observing a Hunt and two Extream Bells, I will, therefore, proceed in that course. The name of Hunt is properly given to it because of its continual motion up and down amongst the other bells, which motion is called Hunting; and the other two are called Extream Bells because, when the Hunt is either before or behind them, that is at the Extream or utmost place, there is a change then to be made between them called an Extream Change. There are two several ways to ring the six changes, one whereof is to make the Treble the Hunt, and the other way is to make the Tenor the Hunt. I will give an Example in hunting the Treble, the bells are supposed to stand thus:—

| Now the Treble must first be hunted up over the Second      | 1 2 3 |
| and Third, which is to be done by making a change between   |       |
| the Treble and each of those two bells in order; therefore, |       |
| first I remove the Treble up over the Second into Second's  |       |
| place by making a Change between the Treble and Second      |       |
| thus: . . . . .   | 2 1 3 |
| The Treble being removed up over the Second it must next    |       |
| be removed up over the Third, as in this Change . . . . .   | 2 3 1 |

Always observe that when the Hunt moves from the foremost Bell towards the hindmost, then it hunts up, as in the Changes next before, but when it moves or hunts from the hindmost bell toward the bell that leads, then it hunts down, as appears by the Changes following.

|  |       |
|--|-------|
| The Treble being hunted up behind the Extream bell an    |       |
| Extream Change is next to be made between them . . . . . | 3 2 1 |

Here you may observe that if the Hunt had been hunted down without an Extream Change first made, these Changes in hunting it down would have been the same with those that were made in hunting it up.

|  |       |
|--|-------|
| The Extream Change being made, the Treble must be hunted |       |
| down again before the bells, thus: . . . . .             | 3 1 2 |
|  | 1 3 2 |

|--|-------|
| The Treble being now hunted down, the next is to be an |       |
| Extream Change. . . . .                                | 1 2 3 |
| which is the last Change of the six.'                  |       |

HASTINGS.—On Monday evening, Dec. 8th, at Christ Church, Blacklands, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples, in 50 mins.: R. G. Bryant 1, J. A. Downing 2, F. J. Pont 3, S. C. Driver 4, J. Livermore 5, W. H. Ropley 6, A. Levett (conductor) 7, A. Reid 8. Ringers of 1st, 3rd, 6th and 8th are from St. Peter's, Bexhill; 7th from All Saints'; Hastings; the rest are Blacklands ringers.

HARWICH.—On December 5th, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples (1,260 changes), in 44 mins.: J. H. Alderton 1, F. Ramplin 2, A. Alderton 3, E. Scarfe 4, G. Thompson (conductor) 5, J. Scarfe 6, F. Chaplin 7, C. Knopp (first quarter-peal) 8.

DEVONSHIRE GUILD.

SATISFACTORY POSITION OF NORTH-EASTERN BRANCH.

The annual meeting of the North-Eastern branch was held at Tiverton on Saturday, December 12th. About 55 ringers were present, nine out of the ten towers in the branch being represented. The visitors included the president and general secretary of the Guild, and ringers from Chipstable, Talaton, Payhembury, Thorverton, etc. The service in the Parish Church was conducted by the Rector (the Rev. E. Chapman).

It is hoped to hold the next meeting on Saturday, April 10th, at Silvertown, subject to the Rector's approval.

The report of the year's work was quite satisfactory. The membership had increased from 74 to 98, of whom all but seven are holding certificates. Eighteen certificates were awarded during the year. The financial position is also quite sound.

All standing officers were re-elected.

An excellent tea was arranged in the Church House by Mrs. Knowles and the wives of the local ringers.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD.

The annual meeting of the North Dorset Branch of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild was held at Gillingham on Saturday, December 12th, when 76 ringers were present, representing about 20 towers. At the service, an address was given by the Rev. N. E. G. Newman (the Vicar), after which the members had tea together in the Vicarage Schoolroom.

A business meeting followed, at which the Rev. R. H. Gundry (Master of the Diocesan Guild) was re-elected chairman, and the Rev. R. E. P. Gorringe secretary of the branch.

The ringers of the tower of Moro were elected members of the Guild, and two ringers from Croton were also elected.

Several of the neighbouring incumbents had given the ringers leave to use the bells of their churches, and during the evening, touches of Grandsire, Stedman, Double Norwich and Kent Treble Bob were rung.

LADIES' GUILD

CENTRAL DISTRICT AT WILLESSEN.

The quarterly meeting of the Central District was held at St. Mary's, Willesden, on Saturday, December 12th. Although the attendance of members was small (no doubt owing to the postponement of the date), with the help of the gentlemen who very kindly supported the ladies, the meeting was voted by everyone as very successful. All methods were rung from Grandsire to London, and also a course of Cambridge Surprise, with seven members, and a gentleman ringing the treble.

The service having been postponed, steps were taken to the hall at 5 p.m., where a good tea had been prepared by Mrs. Ebberson and Mrs. H. Kilby.

A short business meeting followed, Mrs. Deal being voted to the chair.—One new member was elected, viz.: Mrs. Burnett, of Southsea.

The next quarterly meeting was suggested to be held at Walthamstow, subject to the secretary obtaining the necessary permission.

A vote of thanks to Mr. Kilby and the ladies who so kindly made all arrangements, concluded the meeting.

Several touches on handbells were rung, and then a return was made to the tower, where the bells were kept going until 9 p.m.

'MISSION' RINGING AT DEPTFORD.

The following quarter-peals were rung for services during a mission held at St. John's Church, Deptford, Kent, on Wednesday, Nov. 11th: Grandsire Triples: F. Fraser 1, C. Walker 2, T. A. Easterby 3, H. James 4, J. Hurrell 5, H. Warnett, jun., 6, H. Warnett, sen., 7, W. J. Jeffries (conductor) 8.—On Friday, Nov. 13th, Grandsire Triples: J. Dafters 1, F. Bacon 2, H. James 3, C. Walker 4, J. Hurrell 5, R. Wood 6, H. Warnett (conductor) 7, W. Norwood 8.—On Monday, Nov. 16th, Stedman Triples: F. Fraser 1, E. B. Crowder 2, H. James 3, W. Martin 4, J. Dafters 5, R. Wood 6, W. J. Jeffries (conductor) 7, J. Hurrell 8.—On Wednesday, Nov. 18th, Bob Major: F. Fraser 1, J. Dafters 2, H. James 3, W. Anderson 4, J. Hurrell 5, E. B. Crowder 6, H. Warnett (conductor) 7, W. J. Jeffries 8.

of 150 years ago has been brought to light at such towns as Oldham, Hyde, Maidstone, Saffron Walden, Painswick, Abingdon, etc. Further light on the Norwich history could be obtained by a thorough search of the older newspapers. It requires a small energetic 'committee of investigation' to list up bellringing items on prepared sheets printed for the purpose. It would reveal, perhaps, the missing letter of the Crane controversy, the unknown conductors, and even the figures of some of the peals.

W. H. FUSSELL.

MORTLAKE—1721?

INTERESTING LIGHT ON EARLY PEALS.

With reference to the interesting note recently in 'Belfry Gossip,' relating to a peal of two centuries ago at Mortlake, there appears to be an error of date.

The first peal of Plain Bob Triples (see Snowden's 'Rope Sight,' p. 85) is recorded in the peal book of the Ancient Society of College Youths, No. 19, composed and conducted by Benjamin Annable, at St. Saviour's Church, Southwark, on Dec. 19th, 1730, wherein the footnote to the entry states: 'First that was rung.'

This composition was again rung by the same society at St. Stephen's, Coleman Street, City, on August 21st, 1731, conducted by William Laughton. The Mortlake peal took place the following November, so that the year 1731 would appear to be more correct. All three were rung within a twelvemonth, and similar peals were rung later as follows: At Camberwell, by the Eastern Scholars, 1735; at Harrietsham, Kent, 1744, by the Leeds Youths; at St. Martin's-in-the-Fields, by the Union Scholars, 1749; and at St. George's, Middlesex, 1753, by the London Youths.

The London societies were more correct in describing their performances in those early days of peal ringing, and this was mostly due to the professional peal writers employed. There are several instances of confusion in the use of the words 'Triples' and 'Trebles,' which was increased when the Treble Bob method (Oxford) came into popular vogue.

The outstanding feature of this first 'seven-bell' peal in the method is the fact that the time of the performance was minutely recorded in the peal book, although both Snowden and Banister, in their works on change ringing, have not mentioned it. Annable had conducted 16 of the 18 peals previously rung for the College Youths without giving the time, so that he was the first to include it in his records, viz., '3 hours and 25½ minutes.' Previous to 1730 the old peal boards gave the duration of a peal—one of which affords evidence of an isolated but early achievement—Grandsire Triples at Ellesmere, Salop, on Feb. 4th, 1730, in 3 hrs. 5 mins.

The misuse of words in describing methods was continued by our forefathers on the higher numbers of bells employed, and the following combination appears in the peal book of the Leeds (Kent) Society, 1751, describing Bob Caters:—

'Complete peal of Caters in the Method of Bob Major Triples in the Tittums.'

Mr. Walker's meaning in the 'N.B.' to his peal rung at Richmond is probably the 'first in the method composed and conducted by him.' It was not only the third time it had been rung; but he was the third man ever to have conducted such a performance. Henry Lyford, who rang the 5th bell at Mortlake, was a well known riverside ringer of his day, and the father or uncle of John Lyford, a keen College Youth, usually found at the back end of the octave.

The method known as Richmond Triples was much the same as Fulham Triples, the latter being practised by the Leeds and Lenham Youths, and a peal of it rung at Leeds in 1749, conducted by Barham.

A couple of years ago Mr. Tom Hensher very kindly sent me a MSS. pocket book, dated Lavenham, Bucks, 1734, in which are the figures of a number of five-bell methods employing an 'extreme,' which could very well extend to Triples, and when a 5040 was attempted successfully the name of the town or parish would be added to the title, especially so if it was the first performance in the district.

Mr. Trollope, in his valuable 'Notes by the Way,' refers to Bob Triples by the Norwich men in 1715 as the first peal ever rung. At the same time one must consider the opinion of Shipway, a famous composer and conductor of the Royal Cumberland Youths Society, whose version of the Norwich peal coincides with the College Youths' claim of first in this method.

There was much business intercourse between London and Norwich all the year round about this period of history, via the Thames, East Coast and the River Yare to Norwich, when the roads were impassable during winter months. The growth of coaching in the 18th century led to better road making, just as the motor to-day is vastly improving and rebuilding the older carriage routes through England. Therefore, whatever change ringing was practised in either city was very soon reported to the other.

We know now, at last, who the men 'J. D.' and 'C. M.' were—members of the London Scholars, who, in 1702, published a work on change ringing, and copies of that book were found in Norwich thirteen years before the 1715 performance. Melchior, of Norwich, Barham, of Leeds, and Lawrence, of Shifnal, all visited the City of London in their day, and, as practical 'country ringers,' no doubt took the opportunity of seeing and hearing what the Cockneys could accomplish in the art.

Of recent years it has been the custom of the editors of the provincial weekly journals to publish small paragraphs of local bellringing extracted from their issues of a century or more ago. In this way a curious confirmation of the peal at Windsor Castle was brought to my notice after an interval of 40 years, which I hope to report to you another day. By this means evidence of peal ringing

NOISY BELFRIES.*SIMPLE DEVICE FOR MODERATING SOUND.

The question of reducing the amount of noise of bells in the streets surrounding the church is one of the matters which should receive more attention from authorities than it does. Below we illustrate a simple device, designed by Major J. H. B. Hesse, by which the sound outside the tower can be regulated.

The sketch shows a tower wall, with the window opening in it. The V shaped piece marked 'wood' is merely a side piece filling up the gap between the wood boarding, which is shown on the slant, namely, 'B B,' and the top of the window. It would be briefly described as a screen blocking the whole of the window opening, leaning inwards towards the bells, so that all water will drain outwards again through the window. The sound waves have to go down through the opening 'O,' and the screen can, if necessary, have the flap 'E' fitted, so that sound is again restricted. If bells are on a level with the windows the wood portion 'B B' and V shaped piece can be raised to sufficient height to be well above the bells when set on end.

A DATE TOUCH.

At Boxley, Kent, on Tuesday, November 10th, being the eve of Armistice Day, a date touch of Grandsire Doubles (1,925 changes), with the bells half-muffled, in 1 hr. 16 mins., in memory of the 34 men of Boxley who gave their lives for their country in the war: D. Gower 1, W. Gosling (conductor) 2, R. Luckhurst 3, G. Voules 4, H. Fuller 5, E. Voules 6. First date touch by all except the 2nd.

SUSSEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION.*EASTERN DIVISION MEETING AT ROTHERFIELD.

A quarterly meeting of the Eastern Division was held at Rotherfield on Saturday, December 12th. Members attended from the following towers: Brighton (St. Peter's and St. Nicholas'), Eastbourne (St. Saviour's), Heathfield, Lewes, Mayfield, Pevensey, Tunbridge Wells and Waldron, together with the members of the local band.

The members were warmly welcomed by the Rector (the Rev. A. F. Thornhill, M.A.), who gave a most interesting address at the service. Excellent practice was had in methods from Grandsire to Cambridge Surprise.

Through the kindness of the Rector, the company partook of a bountiful tea at the Parish Hall. Owing to an accident sustained by Mrs. Thornhill, the Rector was unable to be present at the tea. In his absence, Mr. G. Penfold presided at the tea, and also occupied the chair at the business meeting which followed.

It was decided to hold the next meeting at All Saints', Eastbourne. —A hearty vote of thanks was passed to the Rector for the use of the bells, for his address at the service, and for providing such a splendid tea. Regret was also expressed with regard to the accident which had befallen the Rector's wife.

DURHAM AND NEWCASTLE DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

Members turned up in large numbers at a district meeting of this association, at Jarrow on Saturday, December 12th, and the bells of Christ Church and St. Peter's were kept going all the afternoon and evening. An excellent tea was provided at the Co-operative Cafe, and a short meeting was held afterwards, presided over by Mr. R. L. Patterson, of Sunderland, supported by the President of the Association, the Rev. A. W. Lister, of South Shields.

At the outset, Mr. William Story moved, in very feeling terms, a vote of condolence with the relatives of the late Major Hudson, whose tragic death has so shocked the Exercise. Mr. Story had known Major Hudson from boyhood, had rung many peals with him, and had always had a very high regard for him.—The vote was passed in silence, the members standing for a few moments.

The Rev. A. W. Lister proposed a vote of thanks to the local clergy for the use of the bells.—The Rev. T. H. Lilburn, of St. Peter's, in responding, said it was a very interesting occasion to him, as there were present friends from his old parish (St. Ignatius', Sunderland), friends from his present parish, and also friends from his new parish of St. Oswald's, West Hartlepool.

The next meeting was arranged to be held at Gateshead on January 30th, and the meeting concluded with the season's greetings from the chairman, with best wishes for many more successful meetings such as this in the New Year.

DUDLEY AND DISTRICT GUILD.

A quarterly meeting of this Guild was held at St. Andrew's Church, Netherton, on Saturday, December 5th. The eight bells were available for the members during the afternoon, and the beautiful Guild service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. R. A. Norris), who also gave a very helpful and inspiring address. After the service, an adjournment was made to Scrivens' Cafe, where tea was in readiness, about forty members sitting down.

At the business meeting which followed, the Rev. R. A. Norris presided, supported by Messrs. H. Mason, John Goodman, jun. (Ringing Master), and the secretary.—It was resolved to hold the next meeting, which is the annual one, at Dudley, and that the quarterly peal be attempted at Netherton, the arrangements to be left with the Ringing Master.

At the close of the meeting, on the proposition of Mr. Mason, seconded by Mr. S. J. Hughes, a hearty vote of thanks was accorded to the Vicar of Netherton for his kindness in granting permission to hold the meeting at Netherton, also for conducting the service, and for his address, for the use of the tower and bells, for his kind generosity for providing the tea, which was greatly appreciated by all present, and for presiding at the meeting.

The thanks of the Guild were also given to Mr. Albert Prestidge for making the necessary arrangements.

The Vicar replied, on behalf of all concerned, and closed the meeting, which was a most happy and successful one, with prayer.

FIFTY-TWO YEARS A RINGER.

At the Parish Church, Milnrow, Lancs, for evening service, on Dec. 6th, a quarter-peal of Bob Major (1,264 changes), in 45 mins.: W. Staff 1, G. Staff (conductor) 2, J. Fitton 3, J. B. Shaw 4, S. Dunn 5, C. Bennett 6, A. Buckley 7, J. H. C. Massey 8.

Arranged to celebrate the birthday of Mr. J. Fitton, the ringer of the 3rd, who reached his 71st birthday on the above date, and who is still a regular ringer at both service and practice, and also has a record of 52 years as a ringer at this church.

SYSTEMATIC INSTRUCTION.

By JOHN P. FIDLER.

One of the most outstanding features in connection with the art of campanology, is the absence of a definite course of instruction, a circumstance which bewilders the learner. In his own tower he is taught one way, whilst at another, which he may visit, a totally different system is in vogue, until 'he don't know where he are.' Some instructors bring their pupils up on a foundation which will afterwards carry them forward, without much trouble, to the most intricate systems of change ringing, but, unhappily, they are very few. More often than not, the student is taught by word of mouth only, and in a manner which makes it appear a most laborious undertaking. He is told to do this, that, or the other, but why he has to do it is very rarely mentioned. How often do we find a learner, who as soon as he can handle a bell, is put on the tenor to 'drum,' in order that the other seven may ring some good Triples, until the time arrives when he finds it a difficult task to manage a much lighter bell in the ring! Further, there is the great mistake of teaching a learner to handle a heavy bell before a light one. No doubt there is less risk of over-pulling the heavier metal, and consequently less risk of breaking a stay, but there is more to be said for the lighter bell; the knack of handling is more easily and quickly acquired, which is the fundamental. Should there be any risk of a stay going, take it off, then if the bell is over-pulled, there is nothing to break, and does not entail any expense to put things right. Moreover, a light bell can readily be lowered or raised when the student has finished. Thus we come to the first stage of a student's tuition, which is the best way for him to handle a bell? Opinions will differ, and no doubt will be aired, to the ultimate benefit of the Exercise.

The next step should be striking in rounds and call changes, with plenty of stress on the striking. Too often is the beginner put into ringing changes before he can strike correctly, with the result that he is always a bad striker. On the advertisement pages of the 'Ringing World' are advertised two books, 'Rope Sight,' by Snowden, and 'Change Ringing,' by Troyste, so whilst the student is becoming master of his bell, he ought to be in possession of one of these books, studying the opening chapters and so preparing himself for his first lesson in change ringing. The next point to decide is, which is the first lesson?

In my opinion, it is Bob Minor and on the Treble until capable of ringing the extent without prompting, after which, an inside bell could be taken. The main object will be frustrated if force is used, no matter the number of bells in the tower. Teach your man by easy stages, and he will be all the better for it, and certainly will be a more capable ringer. If yours is an eight bell tower, I think you will find much better Bob Major will eventually be rung if a thorough knowledge of Bob Minor has been obtained, and the same can be said with ten and twelve. No doubt some will say, what about the odd methods? Grandsire should present no difficulties, but if you want Stedman, the pace is being forced, which a proper course of instruction will not permit.

After Plain Bob has been mastered, go back again to Minor to master the Treble Bob principle, or if it is desired to ring a number of Plain Major methods, much good will come of a thorough study and practise of the Plain in Minor methods which appear in the Central Council's 'Collection of Methods.' The different kinds of work will be more readily learned, and more easily seen on six than on eight or more. The same also applies to the more difficult Treble Bob and Surprise methods.

When a person commences to learn an instrument, he knows full well that success cannot be accomplished without hard practice, and going slow but sure. Does he attempt to execute the work of masters before he has done his finger exercises? Certainly not, yet ringers want to do so. Are not exercises the mainstay of our present musicians? And so it ought to be with our craft. How often do we find ringers on the higher numbers scoffing at six-bell ringing! It is, however, done without thought or of the knowledge of the benefits offered by the Minor methods. In this branch of the art there is an open field for development, and a host of difficult 'passages,' which if thoroughly mastered would aid the aspirant to the more difficult methods on the higher numbers.

At the College Youths' dinner, Canon G. F. Coleridge paid me a very great compliment, for which I thank him, but I wonder what was at the back of his mind when he said 'it will be of vast interest and vast use to six-bell ringers, and perhaps eight-bell ringers as well.' Those eight-bell ringers who have attained the Treble Bob standard and aspire to ring the higher methods, will find the new book, 'Method Splicing,' a good stepping-stone. Why? In the methods detailed therein, there is a large variety of work and hints on mastering new methods, which, on being thoroughly learned, will be found beneficial when it comes to tackling Major methods.

Campanology is an interesting craft, but keeps its attractiveness very much in the background. For many, much tedious work has to be undertaken before the enjoyment comes. How many learners have given up when on the point of deriving some benefit from their labour! Chiefly, no doubt, because they thought there was nothing more in it than hunting and dodging. Or again, there are towers where no variety is introduced, the same method being rung year in and year out, with the result that the young ones get 'fed up' and leave. Can anyone wonder? The heads of our calling and those responsible for training young ringers must make it attractive, and let the student see that change ringing is much more absorbing than at first appears. The present-day ringer calls for something better than that which suited his grandfather, but the trouble is to get hold of that something. I commend this problem to the members of the Central Council for their careful consideration, with a view to ultimately drafting a 'Course of Training' which will bring out the best with the minimum of effort, instead of the present happy-go-lucky methods which prevail, and the attendant waste of time as a result.

OXFORD GUILD.

TWO HUNDRED YEARS OLD AND STILL PROGRESSING.

The annual general meeting of the Oxford Society was held at the society's headquarters, Holywell, Oxford, recently, when a large number of members were present. The Master (Mr. W. Harris) presided, supported by the hon. secretary (Mr. H. Tolley), the hon. treasurer (Mr. V. Bennett), and the steward (Mr. S. Hounslow). The accounts for the year were passed as satisfactory, and show a balance of £3 13s. 6d. in hand.

After various sums of money due for ringing at All Saints' and Christ Church Cathedral had been paid out to the members concerned, Councillor C. H. Brown, on behalf of the society, presented a handsome clock to the Master on the occasion of his marriage. Councillor Brown said he had just left the Trades Exhibition, where he had been in company of the Mayor, whom he had almost persuaded to join him in coming to that meeting. He had acquainted him as far as he was able with the records and performances of the society during its 200 years' connection with the various towers, and said he was sure the Mayor would welcome the opportunity of being present at gatherings such as that. He expressed a desire that the society would extend an invitation to the Mayor to be present at the next meeting, when he himself would also be pleased to attend. He had been approached, he added, with regard to the new dance hall at Carfax, as the weekly practice in the tower on Saturday evenings somewhat interfered with the dance. This was rather a delicate point to settle, as, of course, the ringing had the prior claim, but there was no objection to the practice taking place a little earlier in order to accommodate the officials of the Carfax Assembly Room. He thought the society would be pleased to meet them, and so prevent any friction. In making the presentation, he said he felt it a very great honour to do so, especially as it was to one of the youngest Masters the society had ever had, and one who, he knew, had the society's welfare always at heart. It was his special pleasure to present the clock, on behalf of himself and his colleagues, with their best wishes for his future health and happiness.

Mr. Harris, in thanking Councillor Brown and the members, said he had been very happy in doing all he could for the society during his year of office, but had no idea that it was going to terminate with such a pleasant surprise. He hoped the new Master would be as lucky.

Mr. W. H. B. Wilkins was selected as Master, and Messrs. H. Tolley, V. Bennett and S. Hounslow were re-elected as secretary, treasurer, steward, respectively.

In reply to a question re the Washbrook Memorial, Mr. Wilkins stated that the dedication of St. Ebbe's bells would take place on Saturday, December 5th, at 3 o'clock. He had that day been to view the ringing chamber, and reported that five of the bells were already hung, and were awaiting the arrival of the other three from White-chapel.

Some discussion then took place with regard to the irregularity of payments made from time to time, and the consequent confusion which had resulted, and it was proposed by Mr. Wilkins, seconded by Mr. V. Bennett, that the society's rule on the subject should be strictly adhered to, Mr. Bennett adding a suggestion that all money received other than the regular annual amounts should be paid out on the society's quarterly nights.—This was carried. A few words by Mr. F. Payne on the advisability of pressing for the restoration of the bells at St. Peter's-in-the-East brought the meeting to a close.

Councillor Brown, before leaving, presented Mr. H. Tolley with a sum of money, on behalf of the members, as a mark of their appreciation for his untiring efforts as their secretary.

WEDDING BELLS.

At Oswestry, Shropshire, on Tuesday, Nov. 17th, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples (1,260 changes), in 46 mins.: T. Marshall 1, R. Evans (conductor) 2, J. Hughes 3, H. Hughes 4, H. Jarman 5, E. H.
