Tenor (23 cwt.). 'Come at my call to serve the Lord all.' W.P., R.P., 1601.

7. These bells were recast into six by Abel Rudhall, Anno Domini 1743, out of the rents of the Church Lands in the hands of Thomas Chester Esq., Treasurer thereof.

6. David Cooper, Vicar. Sholto Vere Hare | Churchwardens. Recast A.D. 1881
George Luton | by Llewellyn & James; Almondsbury, Gloucestershire. Bristol.

5. Wm. Hollister, Thos. Grasman, Charles Prowse, Churchwardens. 'Richard Purdue & Wm. Purdue first cast mg.' 1652, A.R.

4. Thos. Bilby Vicarius, 1676, Thos. Stephens, Ino. Seager, Churchwardens.

'Roger Purdue and Wm. Covant first cast me.' A.R.

3. 'Florat Almondsbury.' A.R. 1743.

2. 'Prosperity to our benefactors.' A.R. 1751.

Treble. 'Peace and Good Neighbourhood.' A.R. 1751.

The initials W.P., R.P., on the tenor presumably belong to the same family as the Richard and William Purdue mentioned on the 5th. They were, it is believed, a firm of Bristol bell founders. Great Peter, the 5-ton clock bell in Exeter Cathedral, was cast in 1676 by a Thomas Purdue, probably a descendant of either William or Richard. He also cast the 9th and 11th of the present ring of twelve in the same year, and No. 8 in 1693. The original dates of 6 and 7 are unfortunately lost, but the 5th was cast in 1652, a date of great interest, as at that time England was in a state of ecclesiastical anarchy. It was no common thing to procure a new bell in the midst of that chaos, but Almondsbury seems to have procured three, as it is believed that 6 and 7 were added at the same time as 5.

In 1743 Almondsbury possessed five bells, and wanted more. They therefore had four of them melted down and recast into five, leaving the tenor as it was. This work was done, as is seen by the inscription on the 7th, by Abel Rudhall, of Gloucester, a descendant of the famous Abraham Rudhall. He also cast the two trebles, which were added in 1751.

About 1875 the 6th was struck and cracked by the clapper of the 7th, which broke during ringing. It was recast in 1881 by Llewellyn and James, of Bristol. The inscription on it before this was 'William Moseley, Vicar; John Bartlett and Thomas Cox, Churchwardens. A.R.'

The bells were quarter-turned and rehung in a new frame in 1903, by John Sully, of Stogumber, Somerset.

As far as is known five peals have been rung on the bells, the first being Grandsire Triples in 1836 by 'the Society of Union Youths.' A peal has not yet been rung on them by an entirely local band, the only attempt, as far as we know, being on April 17th of this year, the day after the rededication service. This was thought a very suitable time for the first local peal, and, accordingly, the attempt was made, but unfortunately it broke down after 2½ hours' ringing.

Those who took part in the attempt were as follows: V. Wills treble, W. H. Brown 2, H. Robbins 3, S. H. Wood 4, S. Rosser 5, T. Fowler 6, G. E. Capewell (conductor) 7, H. Kingston tenor. Six of these have yet to score their first peal. The band expect to make another, and they hope successful, attempt in the near future.

PORTISHEAD NOTES.

On Tuesday, May 4th, the ringers of St. Peter's, Portishead, with their President and the Rev. H. S. Briggs (curate), met with a special object.—The Captain asked Rev. H. W. Jukes (President) to present Mr. E. J. Goldstone with a fumed oak clock, on behalf of his fellow-ringers, on the occasion of his approaching marriage with Miss Elizabeth Jutsan (Exmouth). The clock had a silver plate, with the following inscription: 'Presented to Mr. E. J. Goldstone, on the occasion of his marriage, May 10th, 1926.'

The President remarked on the many years (26) Mr. Goldstone had been a ringer. For several years also he had held the office of hon. treasurer.—Mr. Goldstone, who was almost overwhelmed, acknowledged the gift.

As soon as the news came through, calling off the General Strike, a band of willing ringers gathered in the belfry to ring for so important an occasion. For evensong, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples was rung: Miss B. Stadden 1, Mrs. N. Edwards 2, Mrs. M. Briggs 3, Miss G. Broad 4, Miss G. Dobbs 5, J. Nisbet 6, W. Gillingham (conductor) 7, A. E. Colburn 8. This was also a birthday compliment to the ringer of the 2nd.

May 13th being Ascension Day, the bells were rung at St. Peter's Church. On that day also a confirmation service was held by the Bishop of Taunton, when no less than five ringers from the local band were confirmed. For this service a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples was rung, and celebrated these ringers' confirmation: Miss V. Crocker 1, Mrs. N. Edwards 2, Miss A. Stokes 3, Miss D. Willett 4, Mrs. M. Briggs 5, Miss H. Orchard 6, W. Gillingham (conductor) 7, J. Thomas 8.

THE TURNER'S HILL PEAL.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I have seen the report of the Central Divisional meeting of the Sussex County Association, held at Cuckfield on April 17th, and note the remarks made in connection with the Turner's Hill peal. If the last four courses formed the best part of the peal, as Mr. Hart has stated, I shudder to think of what the first part of the peal must have been like.

As pointed out in my letter published in 'The Ringing World' on April 9th, I shall be quite willing to publish my name in connection herewith, but before doing so perhaps Mr. Hart will apologise in the columns of this paper to the gentleman he has already accused of writing the anonymous letters. Surely one should make quite sure of one's information before writing such a letter as I know he has done to a member of the association.—Yours truly, 'LISTENER.'

COVENTRY CATHEDRAL BELLS.

To the Editor.

Sir,—Ringers will agree with most of Mr. Cyril Johnston's letter, and will be grateful to him for his hard work in trying to save this peal to ring on. Where most of us will disagree with him is in his remark that the bells were cast in one of the worst periods of bell founding; implying that that was a reason for destroying them. On the contrary, if, in spite of it being a bad period, the bells were good ones, this very fact makes them so much more valuable, and especially a ring which should be preserved.

But most of all do we disagree with his statement that the bells were not old enough for their destruction to be vandalism. Old is a comparative term, and 150 years is certainly old enough to make the destruction of a musical instrument of that age vandalism. Moreover, the value of this peal did not lie in the individual bells, but in the fact that they were as they had been tuned 150 years ago, and this cannot be said of any other ring.

But has age really anything to do with vandalism? A few years ago, a certain peer cut out the face of a portrait which an eminent artist had just painted of him, and returned him the rest of the canvas. This was vandalism, although the work was only just finished. However, in this case, he was certainly entitled to commit the act of vandalism, for he had paid for the painting, and he may have been justified also.

In the case of these bells, the question is whether the destruction was justified. We who say that it was not, can point to the many who considered the ring a thing of beauty and a joy (not now, alas!) for ever.

But as to whether those through whose hands these bells have passed were entitled to destroy them, there can, I think, be no question at all. These instruments (for which, by the way, America would have put up thousands of pounds, before they were recast, but nothing now), were a legacy from past generations. No man living today was entitled to lift a finger to injure them. And all who have helped in any way to do so are undoubtedly the worst of vandals.

Vandalism does not consist in destroying what is old but in destroying what some one else values, merely because you do not value it. Mr. Cyril Johnston is entitled to say that he does not value these beautiful old bells, but he cannot say that we do not. When the offer was made to buy them out, what was formerly bad enough became wanton.

HERBERT DRAKE.

ISLE OF WIGHT RINGER'S DEATH.

We regret to record the death, which occurred at Ryde on Saturday, May 1st, of Mr. Philip S. Parker, following a seizure. Deceased, who was 47 years of age, was a member of the Isle of Wight District of the Winchester Diocesan Guild, and had been an active ringer at All Saints' Church, Ryde, for over twenty years, and his services as a regular service ringer will be greatly missed, while the I.W. District deplore his demise. By his death the district has lost its first ringing member since its formation over five years ago.

The bells at the Parish Church were rung half-muffled prior to the funeral, which took place at Ryde on the following Tuesday afternoon. The Rev. D. E. Hunter (in the absence of the Vicar) officiated, and, in addition to the family mourners, eight of the local ringers, including Mr. E. Hatcher (foreman) and Mr. B. J. Snow (hon. district secretary), were present, also Mr. W. Upton (late district secretary). Several members of the British Legion also followed the coffin, to pay their last tribute of respect to their assistant secretary, and members of the local Foresters, of which Court deceased was a P.C.R., also attended. The floral tributes included one from 'his brother ringers' and one in the shape of a bell from the members of the I.W. District. The Rev. H. E. H. Coombes, R.D., of West Wight, President, and Mr. H. Barton, of Ventnor, Ringing Master of the district, were both prevented from attending the funeral. During the evening half-muffled ringing again took place at the Ryde tower, Mr. A. R. Ward conducting.

'DURHAM AND NEWCASTLE DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

A meeting of the Western District was held at Cossett, and was well attended by members from Newcastle, Chester-le-Street, Blackhill and Tanfield, while the local ringers also turned up in good numbers. A hearty invitation was received from the Vicar (the Rev. — Feddan) and his curate (the Rev. — Beadlehole). Ringing commenced with Grandsire, and some good touches were brought round in this method, also in Kent, Boh Major, Stedman Triples and Bob Triples. A splendid tea was partaken of at the Commercial Hotel, and a short meeting was held, when a vote of thanks was accorded to the Vicar for the use of the bells.—In responding, the Vicar said it would be sixty years on November 15th next when the church was opened, and he asked for the association's co-operation with him in making the celebration a success.—The meeting promised to give him all the help possible.

Afterwards ringing went on till 8 o'clock, and brought an enjoyable day to a close.

STEPS TO PROGRESS.

The Winchester Diocesan Guild report contains some practical suggestions by the hon. secretary for increasing the usefulness of the Guild and the interest of its members. The proposals are not new, but it is well that they should be constantly brought to the attention of ringers, among whom, in every society, there is such a large proportion of lukewarm or apathetic individuals. This lack of keenness may not be altogether the fault of the ringers themselves. Up to a stage they make progress; then comes the time when they can get no further by their own unaided efforts, and being, as it were, against a blank wall their enthusiasm flickers out, and they drop back into that unfortunately large group who ring when they have a mind to, cannot always be relied upon when they are wanted, have no further desire to advance in the art, and no interest in their association, let alone in the Exercise generally. This state of affairs is often lamented, and we have been told that dynamite would not move this class of ringer from his lethargy. Once this condition of atrophy has set in, it is indeed hard to overcome. The remedy is to prevent its getting a grip on the ringer, and this could be done more generally than is now the case if associations would give greater encouragement to the aspirations of young ringers—not merely beginners, but those who have reached a stage where they are groping on the fringe of the art, who have learnt enough to excite their interest, and yet, in their own belfry, cannot get that assistance which is necessary to help them up the ladder.

The secretary of the Winchester Guild urges individual members to help in arranging extra meetings, combined practices and peal attempts in more isolated towers. These are three steps which, if carried out generally, would not only educate the clergy and ringers to the advantages offered by membership of the Guild, as the Winchester report points out, but would result in a rapid advance of the art in places where at present it is languishing or entirely absent. Men who follow other pastimes—and church bell ringing has a claim to a higher title than this—are ready to devote their week-end leisure to practice, and clubs organise a complete season's fixture list of Saturday engagements. Certain bands of ringers, too, where they can be kept together and have sufficient enthusiasm because they are an accomplished company, get in a regular weekly peal attempt, and thus maintain and increase their own standard. Why cannot this plan be adopted in regard to less advanced ringers? A quarterly district meeting is quite inadequate to sustain the interest of a large body of members. It may be enough for the transaction of business, but to keep and raise the enthusiasm of the greater number of members of an association frequent gatherings, at which instruction should be the main object, are needed. It is a question of organisation and of securing the interest of those best able to give the necessary help. SILENT BELLS AT DURBAN.

BAND AT GREYVILLE BROKEN UP.

The peal of ten bells at Greyville, Durban, South Africa, has been silent since October. A promising band had been formed there, which included one or two ringers from England, but a 'rift in the tube' has put an end to their work. The silence of the bells has led to newspaper correspondence, which opened with the following letter to the 'Natal Advertiser' from 'One Interested':—

'There has been quite a lot of criticism over the Cenotaph, or War Memorial, but no one seems to have noticed that what was considered a suitable and lasting memorial to the men who lost their lives in the Great War, from the Greyville district, viz., the bells of St. Mary, Greyville, have been silent for months past.

'On the main wall of the base of the tower are the names of those who gave their lives for their country. Sir Charles Smith was the patriotic donor of a peal of bells (10 in number), and surely Sunday, March 7th, was a day when a muffled peal should have been rung upon them, but for some reason unknown these beautiful bells were silent.

'Was it because the ringers were too interested in the unveiling of the memorial, rather than spend that same time in the belfry, doing honour to the unveiling of the "Light of Remembrance?" One wonders whether Sir Charles Smith has been notified of the omission, and, if so, what he thinks of those who are responsible for that omission. If he does not know, he should most certainly be acquainted with the fact, as if the bells are not rung they will get out of order, and many pounds will be required to put them in proper order again.

'There was a time when St. Mary's bells were heard regularly on Sundays, and generally once in the week, but for some months the bells have been silent. As the bells were given as a lasting memorial to the men of Greyville who lost their lives in the Great War, then by all means let us hear them, or hear a reason why, for it is known that the tower had a guild of ringers second to none in Africa, who had worked very hard to acquire the difficult rudiments of change ringing.

'Sunday next is one of the greatest of the church festivals, one wonders if the bells will be silent as they were on Christmas Day, and other days important in the church calendar. Is it too late to arrange to have the bells rung on Easter Day?'

A newspaper representative interviewed the Rev. W. Maddock, of St. Mary's, regarding this letter, and elicited the statement that the main reason why the bells are not at present ringing is the difficulty in securing the services of competent ringers. There are, of course, very few efficient campanologists available in this country; and, furthermore, the climatic conditions as a general thing are rather against the work being taken up by amateurs. Mr. Maddock, however, is hopeful that there may be a resumption ere long.

At the same time it should be pointed out that the writer of the above letter is not necessarily representative of the general public of Durban. 'One Interested' wants the bells to ring out again, but there are plenty of others who do not. The St. Mary's Church authorities have been pointedly requested by many people living within sound of the bells to ring them no more; some folk have been quite rude about it, and others have even hinted darkly at interdicts and injunctions.

DIFFERENCE BETWEEN RINGERS AND AUTHORITIES.'

The 'Natal Advertiser' returned to the subject with the following article:—

'Many townspeople of Durban will recollect the peal of joy there was when the last of the fine set of bells arrived to be installed in the tower of St. Mary's Church, Greyville, and how hopes were high that at last South Africa had a peal of bells worthy of the name. They were installed as a memorial to the brave dead. Since that day they have been rung occasionally, but for the past few months they have remained a silent memorial.

'The Vicar of the parish, the Rev. W. Maddock, has been blamed for this condition of affairs, and, recently, in reply to a question, he openly gave as reasons that people had complained to him of the noise; and that there was difficulty in obtaining a change of bellringers.

'In an interview one of the leading bellringers stated that, some 18 months ago, the churchwarden was in charge of the bells, but this charge was handed over when it was arranged to secure a full set of bellringers. Some 14 bellringers were obtained, including three ladies, and this was sufficient strength to ring the ten bells and leave a few spare members for emergencies.

'Things went well for a time, until some difference arose between one of the ringers and the church authorities. The ringer in question felt obliged to resign from the tower. At the time the Vicar was certainly not totally averse to the bellringing, for he caused an advertisement to be placed in the Parish Magazine asking for a bellringer to take the resigned one's place. Nobody responded except the latter, who was not reappointed.

'Some time afterwards a meeting was called, at which it was decided to close the tower down in view of the continued impasse regarding personnel.

'The bellringers pointed out that there has never been any difficulty in obtaining enough ringers, and at the time when the Vicar gave his reasons for closing the tower, there was sufficient strength to keep the bells going, even without the resigned member.

'With regard to the Vicar's statement that objections had been received from residents, the bellringers point out that the bells were only pealed on Sundays at morning and evening service, and once during the week for practice. Moreover, they feel that the opposition does not justify the entire closing down of the tower. "We feel that the bells, which cost several hundred pounds, were purchased to be used, and even to-day we have the men and women who are able to use them."

'Asked what the outlook was, it was stated that at present there was a deadlock. The bellringers were ready to resume, but they were unable to do so in the face of the Vicar's attitude. This position was likely to continue indefinitely.

'Meanwhile, the bells that were intended to ring a merry peal are silent, and the ringers who gave their services gratis are necessarily silent too, and what has been described as one of the finest peals in South Africa might as well not be there.

'Mr. Maddock, who has been approached, says the matter is purely a parochial one, which he does not care to discuss in the columns of a newspaper, and, further, he states that the peal of bells was not given as a war memorial, but purely as a private gift to the church. The tower of the church was erected as a memorial of the Great War.'

A PERSONAL GRIEVANCE.'

There followed a protest against a revival of ringing by someone with frayed nerves, who signed himself 'Peace and Quietness'—the kind of protest which makes its appearance from time to time in newspapers in this country. But the situation has not been cleared up, as the following letter from 'One Still Interested' shows:—

'I am extremely obliged that you were courteous enough to publish my letter on April 6th, re St. Mary's bells, and I ask for your further indulgence, because I am satisfied that there has been, and now is, some undercurrent at work to prevent the bells being rung, and the following may answer many questions to those who do not quite understand the position as it is to-day.

'The bells of St. Mary's Church, Greyville, were accepted by the late Vicar, the Rev. Robinson, about four years ago. Since which date, until November last, they were regularly rung for service and practice. During that period no real complaint was made that the bells were a nuisance, if it were, it was not made known to the ringers, and "Peace and Quietness" must be alone in his misery when he writes of the large amount of annoyance he was subjected to when the bells were being rung, and which happened to be for the Sunday services, and for about one hour one evening in the week. What are the bells for if not to be rung? And yet he says, for God's sake leave things as they are. What a spirit? But I question whether "Peace and Quietness" has the brain power to recognise what ringers of church bells do to become proficient in the science and art of change ringing.

'I would also call attention to the Rev. Maddock's statement that the main reason why the bells were not rung was because of the difficulty of securing efficient ringers; if he is properly reported, then I can say, without fear of contradiction, that his statement is grossly exaggerated, because up to the time the bells ceased to be rung, there were ringers attached to the tower with Home experience, and classed among the best ringers in England, who were competent, and fully qualified to give instruction to anyone willing to accept it. Why quibble? It would be more manly on the part of the Rev. Maddock if he openly stated that it was a personal grievance with certain individuals which caused the breaking up of the band of competent and experienced ringers, who rang the bells, and who gave their services for the good of the cause. Is it any wonder that Mr. Maddock pleads that the matter is purely a parochial one? If he had said personal, instead of parochial, he would have been much nearer the mark, and is a strong reason why he does not wish the matter discussed in the columns of the newspaper.

'One other matter should be mentioned, and that is, if the bells are not given as a war memorial, why should each bell have an inscription impressed upon them, relating to important personages and events of the late war? The diocesan trustees are, I believe, vested with the absolute right of being able to dispose of the bells; if the Rev. Maddock finds they are so distasteful to himself and a few others, he could apply for their removal. In the meantime the question asked in the first letter has not been answered. Why?'

It is now stated that a chiming apparatus is to be installed.

THE BELLS OF TRUMPINGTON, CAMBS.

Campanologists have published several volumes describing the church bells of a great many of the English counties, but here we have a booklet giving a brief description of the bells of a village church. Trumpington is a village about two miles south of Cambridge. Its fine church contains among its interesting features the famous brass to the memory of Sir Roger de Trumpington. It is 6ft. in length, and, owing to its position upon a raised tomb, instead of being as is usual let into a marble slab in the pavement, it is in a very good state of preservation.

This booklet gives particulars of the five bells and their founders. There is also an illustration of the 4th bell 'set up.' This, the oldest bell, is believed to have been cast at the Bury St. Edmunds foundry by Henry Smythe, who died in 1476, as like other bells from that foundry it has the usual shield, and has initials 'H. S.' in black letters.

The bells, three of which were recast in 1900, are hung in a wooden frame, which was repaired at that time, but now needs to be replaced.

The earliest reference to the bells is in the Burial Register in the following entry: '1692, Septemb. 6. Mr. Thomas Allen was buried aetat: 81. He was born at Stenning in Sussex, in his old age he so-journed in this parish to the ring of 4 bells he added a treble.'

It is hoped that the interest awakened by this little book may lead to the work being soon put in hand, and there is ample room in the tower for another bell. Perhaps a donor or donors will follow Mr. T. Allen's example and 'add a treble,' which will improve the ring, and give more scope to the keen voluntary society of ringers, founded in 1918, who have already rung four peals in a variety of methods.

ROCK FERRY RINGERS' SUPPER.

On Monday, December 28th, the ringers of St. Peter's Church, Rock Ferry (Wirral branch, Chester Diocesan Guild), held an informal supper to celebrate the year's activities. The guests of honour were Messrs. Ludkin, Barnes and Battle, three Wirral ringers who have stood by Rock Ferry on numerous occasions (Mr. Sydney Barnes, by the way, should note that it is not 'the thing' to pin one's invitation card upon one's waistcoat). After supper, the Rev. Archibald Ball, M.A., Vicar of St. Peter's, made an appearance, and delighted the company with some Irish 'yaros,' and also declared his appreciation of the initiative shown by his ringers. The Vicar made a generous offer respecting the Guild members, if they desired a similar evening upon a larger scale. The singing of Messrs. Fitzsimmons and Withers, who are concert artistes of local renown, was one of the features of the night, as also was the tremendous feat of memory Mr. Barnes displayed during his recitation. Mr. and Mrs. Hughes were thanked very warmly for the accommodation of the ringers, and a very enjoyable evening came to a close with the singing of 'Auld Lang Syne.'

The Rock Ferry ringers, who are under the leadership of Mr. John Cooke, have rung 100 720's in various Minor methods during 1925, which is believed to be a record for the Wirral branch. They were as follows: Cambridge Surprise Minor, 5; Kent and Oxford Treble Bob Spliced, 1; Oxford Treble Bob, 12; Kent Treble Bob, 19; Double Court, 1; Single Court, 8; Oxford Bob, 29; Bob Minor, 25; total, 100.

HANDBELLS.

To the Editor.

Sir, — From my experience during all my ringing career, I have noticed one great thing lacking, viz., the number of peals of handbells that are either hanging up or in boxes, and never used from one year to another. Let me suggest that they are got out, and tune ringing from music practised. It does not take a lot to learn, especially with Mr. Gordon's arrangement to single score work. Look how useful ringers could be to assist at parish functions, etc. There are lots of good ringers who don't understand music at all. What do they know about a bell? Nothing. Then let's learn it, and be able to discuss it, and if there should be another Coventry case crop up, we can go for a win.—Yours, etc.,

Oldbury.

JOHN JAGGAR.

THE CRITICISMS OF CRITICUS.
PEAL QUALITY GIVES PLACE QUANTITY.—
SOME INTERESTING COMPARISONS.

The falling off in the number of peals rung last year has been the subject of comment among many ringers, and I have heard a variety of views expressed as to the reasons for it. Some hold the opinion that in past years the organising and conducting of peals was largely in the hands of a comparatively few enthusiasts, who for some reason have cooled off or have had to content themselves with less ringing. Others say that there is less keenness among ringers as a whole, while others again are inclined to accept the suggestion put forward in 'The Ringing World' editorial that there is in these days a general desire for a higher standard of methods, and consequently, perhaps, more peals are lost. All these things are largely speculation, but I fancy most of us have been inclined to think that the great disparity in the quantity of peal ringing now and before the war is due to a diminished enthusiasm.

If that be so, this much, at least, can be said, that in quality ringing to-day has reached a higher standard than twelve years ago—that is, if figures go for anything. This year, for the first time, we are without the relative point values, so I cannot say accurately what progress has been made, but there certainly has been advance all round. I have taken the trouble to look up the Analysis table for the year 1913, when the record total of peals was rung. In that twelve months no fewer than 2,359 peals were recorded, out of which there were 204 peals of Surprise Major, Royal and Maximus, which is 8.6 per cent. Last year, out of the 1,689 peals rung, 282 were Surprise Major, Royal and Maximus, which is 16.1 per cent., which is nearly double. Now this, in my opinion, shows a really striking advance. There has been little change in the variety of methods, but there is no question that, taken between these periods, there has been a very excellent rise in the standard of ringing. As between year and year it may not be so noticeable, but between 1913 and 1925 there is a wide contrast, and quantity has given way to quality. On this score, at any rate, there is no need to give way to pessimism.

There is one feature which some may consider disquieting. The six-bell men do not seem to be so active as they used to be, and the 522 peals of Minor and 178 peals of Doubles in 1913 fell to 283 and 93 respectively in 1925. Can anyone tell us whose fault this is? Is it that the associations are not giving their six-bell men the same encouragement as they used to do? On all numbers peal ringing could do with a fillip, and perhaps it could be done if more conductors were encouraged. There are still far too many towers where the conducting is in the hands of one man, and the rest of the company are entirely dependent upon his favours for any peals they want to ring. This brings us back to an old cause of complaint. There are some men who will brook no rival in a tower. They seem to forget that if anything happens to them, the rest of the band are on the rocks, so to speak, and might easily break up. However capable a man may be, it is a mistake to have only one conductor in a tower. By that I do not mean there should be divided leadership. There can be only one responsible leader, but the best leader is he who trains those under him to become leaders as well. To become a conductor a man needs practice as much as he does to become a good ringer, and every promising hand should be given the opportunity of learning this branch of the art.

I have in mind more than one instance of a tower with a capable band, content to place their destinies in the hands of a brilliant conductor. For a time all went well, and peals came as plentifully as any enthusiast could desire. Then the inevitable happened. The conductor moved away—in one or two cases died—and the band was heard of no more, or, at any rate, for a very long time, until, indeed, another had learned sufficient to take up the mantle of the departed. Now, in every case, this could have been avoided if other members of the band had been encouraged—and instructed, for there are many hints which a capable man can give to his pupil if he chooses. I do not say that in every case it has been the selfishness of the leader. Sometimes the rest of the band have been to blame, for they have been not only content, but desirous of leaving it all to the one individual. It is, however, a mistake, and a mistake that is often costly to ringing.

From all that one can gather, the strike kind of knocked ringing temporarily sideways. It is almost as if ringers had gone on strike with the other millions who 'downed tools.' Perhaps the 'downed ropes' has been of a compulsory nature, not because of Trade Union orders and truculent pickets, but just inability to 'get together.' If we take our pleasures sadly, as Englishmen are said to do, we also like to take them easily, and it is astonishing how little is necessary to put some ringers out of their stride. I can understand that men did not feel like ringing bells in the uncertain days of the great emergency, but they seem very slow in recovery. We have heard no news from Birmingham lately—that is, news that matters—and I am beginning to wonder whether Cuckoo Road was the scene of any rioting and any of the inhabitants bludgeoned. Or is it that our old friend, the redoubtable George of England, has merely had to cancel his arrangements because the services of the L.M.S. were no longer at his disposal? Surely, however, a young man of his energies would not be kept out of a peal because there were no trains? At least he could have walked—wherever the peal might have been—at worst he could have ridden his tricycle?

So we were able, after all, last week, to learn officially what the Central Council were to talk about. It is of no use at this moment to speculate what the Council will decide on all the many things that will come before them. As I write I have no doubt they will all be enjoying themselves at Ipswich, with its memories of Jimmy Motts and other stalwarts. But what I said last week about a fight over the method names looks as if it was likely to mature. If Mr. Trollope's amendment is carried, I, as a law-abiding citizen, who will retain my freedom to give any old name I choose to a new method when I ring it, shall claim my rights to call it what I please. I've got the method, and I've found a name for it. It is not my favourite flower, but my favourite dish, and if I like to call it 'Tripe and Onions Minor' who shall say me 'Nay.'

BELFRY GOSSIP.

The anniversary of the first peal of Stedman Caters occurs to-day. It was rung at St. John's Church, Horsleydown, London, by the College Youths on May 28th, 1787, and was composed and conducted by John Reeves. Although the composition, long years after, turned out to be false, the performance was a landmark in ringing history.

A peal tablet recorded the event, and part of the inscription is worth quoting: 'In honour to a most noble performance by the Ancient Society of College Youths, who, on Monday, May 28th, 1787, did ring in an excellent manner, the first complete peal of Caters upon Stedman's Principle, 5,076 changes, in 3 hours and 27 mins. May this peal transmit their names to posterity with that of the ingenious Mr. W. Jones, on whose abilities his inimitable commentaries so happily concludes with "Here the Cynic and the Panegyrist stop, and join in eulogiums to such distinguished merits."'

Exactly a quarter of a century ago to-day the first Surprise peal was rung out of England—a peal of Superlative Surprise at Bray, Ireland. It was rung during a tour in the Emerald Isle by members of St. Martin's, Birmingham, Guild—a tour which still holds pleasant memories for those who took part, although much water has flowed down the Liffey since that time.

On the following day the first and only peal on the sea was rung on handbells while the tourists were crossing from Dublin to Holyhead, and that evening the first Surprise peal in Wales (New Cambridge) was rung at Bangor. Looking back, it seems scarcely possible that these events, of no small historic interest in ringing annals, happened twenty-five years ago.

Thirty years ago to-morrow the then record length of Grandsire Cinques, 10,075, was rung at Ashton-under-Lyne. The record since made, and which stands as the greatest number of changes on twelve bells, is the 13,000 Grandsire Cinques at Painswick in 1920.

A 5,000 of Union Bob Royal was rung at St. Sepulchre's, Snow Hill, by the College Youths on May 30th, 1741, and to the record was appended the following tag:—

'When merit's justly due, a little praise then serveth;

A good peal needs no frame, a bad one none deserveth.'

The only previous peal of Treble Ten had been rung about seven weeks earlier at the same church by the Eastern Scholars, and the lines above quoted are thought by some historians to show that this first peal was false, but the bad may have been intended to refer to the striking and not to the truth of the composition.

The first peal of New Cumberland Surprise was rung at Burton-on-Trent exactly 40 years ago next Monday.

Tuesday is the anniversary of the 14,051 Stedman Caters on handbells at Guildford, rung on June 1st, 1912.

On June 3rd, 1773, the first twelve-bell peal in Birmingham was rung. This was 5,329 Grandsire Cinques. It is almost safe to say that at no church have more twelve-bell peals been rung than at St. Martin's, in the Bull Ring, which began its twelve-bell history 153 years ago.

Arrangements are now practically complete for the dedication of the Royal Cumberland Youths' War Memorial and Queen Alexandra peal tablet, on Saturday, June 26th, at 3.30 p.m. Bells will be available from 1 p.m. till 6 p.m., at different towers, and at 7 p.m. a reunion meeting and social will be held at the Bedford Head, Maiden Lane, Strand. All ringers are heartily invited, and, to facilitate arrangements for providing light refreshments, those intending to be present are requested to let the Master know early at 130, Clonmore Street, S.W.18. Full arrangements will be announced next week, if possible.

The annual festival of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild, postponed on account of the General Strike, will take place at Trowbridge on June 19th.

All ringers will be welcome at the dedication of the bells at Timberscombe, Somerset, on Saturday, June 4th. These bells have just been augmented from six to eight.

SIX SURPRISE METHODS IN ONE 720.

WHAT METHOD SPLICING WILL DO.

On Monday, May 17th, for practice, at St. John-the-Baptist's Church, Leytonstone, a spliced 720, comprising Beverley, Cambridge, Hexham, Primrose, Surfleet and Berwick, by G. L. Joyce (conductor) 1, A. Prior 2, W. Theobald 3, J. Moule 4, W. Miller 5, E. D. Smith 6.

This 720 was arranged on the plan laid down by Mr. J. W. Parker in 'Method Splicing,' and is the first to be so rung.

The Leytonstone Company are indebted to Mr. Parker for his work in this little book, as he has opened up a field which is well worth exploration by the most blasé ringer. Methods separately rung may become monotonous to an accomplished hand, but the same methods, spliced one with another, grip the attention, and stimulate the interest in what is to be tried at the next practice. The experience of the Leytonstone Company is that its members have shown keener interest in what is going to be done since the advent of the possibilities opened up by Mr. J. W. Parker's work, which is decidedly away from the beaten track.

WINCHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD.
MORE DISTRICT PEALS AND COMBINED PRACTICES WANTED.

In the annual report of the Winchester Diocesan Guild, just issued, the secretary, Mr. George Pullinger, is able to state that there are many encouraging signs in the work of the Guild. Portsmouth, Guildford and Yorktown districts have increased their membership, and several of the districts have a number of young ringers coming on. The number of members who paid contributions during last year were: Honorary 66, full 541, probationers 69, life 1, compounding 16; with 79 towers in union. Restoration work has gone on steadily, but at Holy Rood Church, Southampton, the bell frames and fittings are in a very dilapidated state, almost unsafe for ringing. It is hoped, he says, that the Archdeacon may be induced to pay a visit to this tower, so that the Parochial Church Council may be enlightened as to the conditions, and that a fund may be started for the restoration.

It is to be regretted, the secretary adds, that more district peals are not rung. A quarterly district peal, at least, should be arranged for the purpose of giving young hands an opportunity to ring a peal, whereas now some never get a chance, for peal ringing usually stimulates keenness and improves striking. A conductor can be provided on application for a quarterly peal. A welcome item of expenditure appears again in the balance sheet (after many years' absence), viz.: that of instruction, but only in two towers; this is very small considering the large area. Much good might be done to advance change ringing in the higher methods if towers in fairly close proximity to each other would co-operate and arrange more regular combined practices. It is hoped that individual members will do their best to help in arranging extra meetings, combined practices and peal attempts in the more isolated towers, for the purpose of educating the clergy and ringers there to the advantages offered by membership of the Guild, as such work is bound to prove educational in the long run. The secretary expresses the hope that all will strive to increase the membership, the towers in union and the methods practised during 1926.

The general balance sheet shows receipts amounting to £44 0s. 6½d., and expenditure to £51 1s. 4d., reducing the balance in hand from £37 16s. 7d. to £30 15s. 9½d. Out of the special purposes fund, increased from £39 1s. 4d. at the end of 1924, by a life member's subscription and interest on deposit account, to £41 18s. 5d., the following donations were granted: Washbrook Memorial, £5 5s.; Raynor Tomb Fund, S. Nicolas' (Guildford), Farnborough and Woolton Hill Bell Funds, £2 2s. each; leaving a balance in hand of £28 5s. 5d.

SOME SWISS BELLS.

A chance break of a journey by a Swiss mountain railway gives us a glimpse of a small village delightfully situated by the side of the stream and flanked on either side by the mountains. The dirt and squalor are worthy of the slums of any of our great cities, but beneath the grime of years some of the wooden houses show most exquisite carvings. They are indeed the Swiss chalets of our picture books.

Suddenly from the spire of the church, a fairly new building standing prim and white on the outskirts of the village, the chime of the clock is heard. To English ears it seems strange, for it is the three top notes of the major chord struck in order and repeated—the 1, 4, 6 of the ring of eight. Shortly afterwards the service ringing begins, although it is only a week day. There are four bells, 1, 4, 6, 8 we should call them, and the tenor sounds from the distance as if it must be about a ton. It is impossible to say if the ringing is meant to be rounds or changes, for the striking is so erratic that the ringers might be pulling at random. But the effect is beautiful beyond words. To the musical notes of really good bells is added the reflection of the sound backwards and forwards from the mountain walls on either side. In about ten minutes all is quiet, and peace reigns over the village, except for the rush of the water from the turbines of the huge electric power station which supplies the railway—and the meanest cottage too.

This is a Roman Catholic Canton, and we expect to hear the sound of the Angelus bell. But in the Protestant Cantons we hear it too, and from the Protestant churches; for none but the official church in any Canton is allowed to have bells. The ringing of the Angelus bell over three hundred years after the service has been banished from the church is a quaint reminder of the deceit of those days, when it was ordered to be continued so that the common people should not realise the changes made at the Reformation. At any rate, that is the story told now.

THE CENTRAL COUNCIL.

TUESDAY'S MEETING AT IPSWICH.

The 34th annual meeting of the Central Council was held at the Town Hall, Ipswich, on Tuesday, when there was an attendance of just over fifty members.

The Suffolk Guild had made excellent arrangements for the entertainment of the visitors, some of whom arrived on Saturday, and took part in a peal of Stedman Cinques at St. Mary-le-Tower, and on Sunday in a peal at Debenham.

On Monday there was an enjoyable excursion by charabanc to a number of interesting churches in the district, including Sudbury, Long Melford and Lavenham, while at Bury St. Edmunds the visitors, nearly forty in number, were able to ring at both churches, and were entertained to tea by Archdeacon Farniloe.

ARCHDEACON AND BISHOP'S WELCOME.

Archdeacon Farniloe, on behalf of the Suffolk Guild, welcomed the Council to the diocese. They came there, he said, representing those who were interested in ringing throughout the country, and recognised it as an essential part of Church work. Many of them came from dioceses which had behind them a long tradition of church work, and a long history of diocesan organisation, and they came to one of the youngest dioceses, and to the Suffolk Guild, which, in its present form, had a history of only two years. He felt himself, some years ago, when he was asked to take part in organising the affairs of the diocese, that it was a matter of great importance that they should have their own diocesan organisation for their ringers, and, in face of a little difficulty, ably seconded by their secretary, the Rev. H. Drake, they had succeeded at last in forming what was a real diocesan body of church bell ringers. In their name, and in his own, he offered them the most cordial welcome to their diocese (applause).

The President thanked the Archdeacon for his welcome, and a little later the Bishop of St. Edmundsbury and Ipswich came to welcome the Council to the town of Ipswich and the diocese. He knew, he said, that there were a few people who did not appreciate bells, just as there were a few people who did not appreciate music, because they had no ear for it, and if they lived within the shadow of a tower which had a fine and celebrated peal of bells no doubt there were times when people did not want ringing. He was certain, however, that the majority of people realised that bells were one of the joys of life, and one of the ways of expressing it. It was rather in an accidental way that they were in the position of claiming as workers for the Church and as Churchmen pretty well all the bell ringers in the country. It was partly due to the accident that towers had always been associated with churches, and had not been associated much with any other kind of buildings. Thus they got almost a monopoly of bells, and it followed that bell ringers were doing something for the Church. The Church accepted their help with great joy, and realised that they were fellow workers. One of their interests in ringing was that it was a call to worship, and he hoped ringers would be conscious of that aspect of their work. It was an uplifting work, and he hoped that that feeling would be uppermost in their hearts when they took part in it (applause).

The President fittingly thanked the Bishop for his kindly welcome, and the Council then proceeded with the business of the day.

Arising out of the minutes of the last meeting, the Hon. Secretary said between 30 and 40 letters were addressed to the authorities in the various dioceses requesting that there should be on each Advisory Committee a representative with a knowledge of bells and bell ringing. They had had replies from 18 or 20, saying, in effect, that the suggestion was a useful one. With regard to the Cards of Instruction which the Council instructed him to have printed, the first 500 were rapidly exhausted, and, with the sanction of the President, another 750 were printed. The Lincoln Guild took up 250 in one batch, and that was why the original number was quickly used up. Copies could now be had from the Librarian.

At the request of the Hon. Secretary, the Council confirmed his action in printing the further 750 copies.

Apologies for absence were received from Revs. A. T. Beeston, Canon Baker, A. H. F. Boughey, E. W. Carpenter, C. C. Marshall, C. E. Matthews, H. S. T. Richardson, H. Tyrwhitt Drake, F. J. O. Helmore, C. C. Cox, L. S. Clark, Mrs. N. Edwards, Messrs. J. Carter, J. D. Matthews, J. Cotterill, P. J. Johnson, T. Metcalfe, D. J. Nichols, W. Willson, A. Paddon Smith, E. H. Lewis, H. W. Wilde, R. B. Chambers, H. Haigh, H. Day, etc.

FINANCES.

The balance sheet, presented by the Hon. Secretary, showed that the year started with a balance in hand of £67 14s. 3d. The receipts included a donation of £5 towards the publication of the Cards of Instruction from the Rev. H. Drake, affiliation fees £13 10s., interest on stock £4 10s. 8d., and sale of Cards of Instruction £1 13s. 1d., a total of £24 13s. 9d. The expenditure, including the loss on the sale of publications of £5 12s. 2d., was £16 13s., leaving a balance in the bank of £70 16s.

The accounts were adopted, on the motion of the Rev. H. Law James, seconded by Mr. P. Taylor.

The Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn (Hon. Librarian) reported the completion of the scheme for the Washbrook Memorial, remarking that the bells at St. Ebb's, Oxford, had met with the complete approval of all concerned. They were left with a £28 balance, part of which would go to a fund, to be augmented by the parish, for the upkeep of the bells, and the remainder was to be devoted to that other parish in Oxford, St. Giles', which found favour with some as the place for the memorial. Full particulars would be given later in 'The Ringing World.'

Continuing, the Hon. Librarian said the sales of publications realised £4 19s. 1d., and the expenses were £10 11s. 3d., including £9 2s. for advertising. It cannot be said, added the Librarian, that the resolution to put up the price of publications has entirely justified itself, though it may well be that we have reached a point when there is no longer a popular demand for these works, but the few who do want them are quite ready to pay the extra cost. And here a lesson seems to be indicated, namely, for the future to greatly diminish the number of copies of publications issued by the Council. It surely is not advisable that the Council should risk having on its hands such an accumulation as it possesses in the 'Glossary' and the 'Peal Collections.' In the past twelve months the few remaining copies of the 'Collection of Minor Methods' were quickly sold; the demand, which was always considerable, being increased by the issue of the book on 'Method Splicing,' by Mr. J. P. Fidler. Of the rest it may be remarked that there is now apparently more demand for publications that have to do with the care of bells than with peal ringing. The 'on sale or return' agency only produced a matter of a few shillings, actually 5s. 4d., chiefly in one locality. According to instructions, I purchased for the Council the remainder of Canon Elsee's stock of 'On the Preservation of Bells.' I have also secured a considerable number of copies of 'Bell News' for the years 1912-1915 inclusive, but these have been gifts. The following numbers were still need to make these years complete:—1912, Nos. 1,551, 1,594, 1,595, 1,596, 1,598; 1913, Nos. 1,605, 1,606, 1,625, 1,631; 1914, Nos. 1,658, 1,675 to 1,680, 1,687, 1,688, 1,689, 1,696, 1,697, 1,700; 1915, Nos. 1,717, 1,729, 1,735, 1,737, 1,739, 1,741, 1,755; the receipt of any of which will be gratefully acknowledged.

The four retiring hon. members, Mrs. Edwards, Rev. E. W. Carpenter, Mr. J. George and Mr. H. W. Wilde, were re-elected, on the recommendation of the Standing Committee.

The following new members were introduced to the President, Messrs. J. Hammond (Swansea and Brecon), F. J. Davey (Devon Guild) and E. F. Poppy (Suffolk Guild).

COVENTRY BELLS.

The Hon. Secretary then reported on the steps taken to preserve Coventry bells. The action was taken after consultation with the President and the Standing Committee, and he asked the Council to confirm what was done. Unfortunately, they were not successful in convincing the Chancellor that the bells should be saved. He referred to the long efforts which Mr. Johnston had made to induce the authorities to keep the bells as a ringing peal, and to the labours of Mr. J. S. Pritchett, who appeared as the advocate for the Central Council.

Mr. J. S. Pritchett spoke in appreciation of the splendid work done by Mr. Young, and pointed out that the labour was not wasted, for, by the action taken, they secured that in the recasting of the bells ten of them were preserved as a peal of ten, instead of making them merely part of a carillon. That change of front was brought about by the efforts of their secretary (applause).

Confirmation of the action taken was agreed to and payment of certain incidental expenses voted, cordial thanks being given to Mr. Young and Mr. Pritchett for the part they had taken.

Miss Parker reported for the Peal Collection Committee that the work of adding the new compositions was proceeding, but it was involving the examination of the original peals to see that variations did not creep in. When the work was completed by the Rev. H. S. T. Richardson it would be sent to her to type, and it was hoped to have it in the hands of the Council by the next meeting.—The report was adopted.

The Hon. Secretary reported that the Literature and Press Committee had in hand the revision of the Council's rules and decisions, and he hoped these would be before them at the next meeting.—The report was accepted.

The reports of the various committees were adopted, except that relating to nomenclature. A debate on the latter resulted in the carrying of the amendment, which, while urging the extreme importance of choosing suitable names for new methods, declined to interfere with such rights as bands and individual ringers at present enjoy.

Simpson-tuning was discussed on the Hon. Secretary's motion, and an amendment carried that the Council was not at present qualified to pass an opinion.

It was resolved to ask Diocesan Advisory Committees to co-opt some members having knowledge of the archaeology, tuning and proper hanging of bells to form a special sub-committee to advise them when necessary.

It was also resolved to continue to press the Railway Clearing Board for cheaper travelling facilities for ringers.

The Council did not accept the proposal to consider the institution of a bell ringers' Sunday by means of an annual service throughout the country or otherwise.

Votes of thanks concluded the meeting.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

EAST BERKS AND SOUTH BUCKS BRANCH.

The annual meeting of the branch was held on April 24th, at Beaconsfield. At the Guild service, the Rector (the Rev. A. S. Commeline, M.A.), gave the address on the text, 'Thou shalt speak my words unto them, whether they will hear, or whether they will forbear.'—Fifty-two sat down to tea, the chairman (the Rev. W. S. Riddelsdell) presiding, supported by the Master (the Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn, general secretary (Mr. B. T. Hibbert), general treasurer (Mr. A. J. Wright), the Rev. W. S. Commeline and Mr. C. A. Bennett, J.P. The branch accounts were accepted, and showed continued prosperity, financially.

After a lengthy discussion, it was decided to create the office of branch Ringing Master. The following officers were then elected for the ensuing year: Chairman, Rev. W. S. Riddelsdell, M.A.; secretary and treasurer, Mr. A. D. Barker; branch Ringing Master, Mr. C. C. Mayne; branch representatives, Mrs. A. D. Barker, Messrs. F. Boreham, T. J. Fowler, G. R. Gutteridge, J. L. Kirk, C. C. Mayne and J. C. Truss.

The bells were afterwards kept going until a late hour in various methods.

BARNSELY AND DISTRICT ASSOCIATION.

A meeting was held at Shelley on Saturday, May 22nd. A good number of members assembled at this picturesque village, which combine town and country attractions without ostentation. The church is noble in its design, standing on a site open all round to views, where quiet devotions may be done, and possessing bells in a well-proportioned tower that are rich in tone and in such good order. They are a credit to the ringers who thus care for them and use them decently. The day was also very important in that a new altar table and vestry screen were to be dedicated, for which a service was held at 3 p.m. Space will not permit particulars to be given, but let it be said that the ringers did take their part well in these services, and do take an interest in their church as well as the ringing room. Tea was partaken of and a short business meeting held. A vote of condolence was passed to the widow of Mr. George Hill, of Penistone, all standing in silent grief. The usual business followed, ten new members were elected, and a vote of thanks passed to all concerned. The next meeting is the annual cup contest at Hoylandswaine on Saturday, June 12th.

DEATH OF A PENISTONE RINGER.

The death of Mr. George Hill, Barnsley Road, Penistone, took place with startling suddenness on Friday, May 14th, at the age of 40 years. He was regarded by his many ringing friends as a strong man, with many years of active life in front of him, but, alas! it is the unexpected that happens. That insidious disease, pneumonia, which spares not the strongest, has taken away one who will be sadly missed in ringing circles. His ringing career commenced about the age of 19 at Hoylandswaine, the place of his boyhood. For about ten years he had associated himself with Penistone, and since the ring of six has been increased to eight, about 16 months ago, he had endeavoured to teach a young band, and had succeeded in mastering 720's of Plain Bob Minor, and hopes ran high of greater peals to follow. The interment took place on Monday, May 17th, at Hoylandswaine, a large company, probably two hundred or more, consisting of railwaymen, his fellow workmen, walked in front of the hearse and family coaches. Many mourners and brother ringers followed on foot, a distance of two miles. The marks of respect shown en route were simple and sincere, workmen stood with bared heads and heavy teams of horses stood still as the cortege passed. As the village church came in sight the bells could be heard, adding their mournful sound. The service of burial was shared by the Vicars of Hoylandswaine and Penistone inside the church and the churchyard. Both these reverend gentlemen can and do testify to the good done and the sublime character of such a layman, who was straight to bluntness and fearless in his endeavours for the right.

Of our friend's ringing, it may also be said it was one period of continued sociable enjoyment. His peals were 41, of which he conducted 18. They were spread over many counties. The last two appeared in 'The Ringing World' issue of May 14th at Consett and Whitley Bay. He was a member of the principal ringing associations. Being a railway servant, his travelling ticket enabled him to visit distant towers from Dundee to Brighton. His holidays were thereby spent in a ringer's style. The sympathy of ringers is hereby extended to his widow and family, who have to mourn the loss of one who was full of love to all around him.

MUFFLED BELLS.

At Old Leake, on Wednesday afternoon, May 12th, 720 Bob Minor was rung with the bells deeply muffled, as a last token of respect to Mr. L. R. Shearwin, of Wrangle Manor, who had been a most generous contributor to Leake Church. The funeral had taken place at Wrangle earlier in the afternoon: Miss Elsie Lakin 1, P. Lakin 2, J. W. Lakin, sen., 3, J. W. Lakin, jun. (conductor) 4, T. W. Houghton 5, W. Small 6.

MUFFLED RINGING.

BELGRAVE, LEICESTER.

On Thursday, May 20th, at St. Peter's Church, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples (1,260 changes), in 45 mins.: H. W. Martin 1, W. A. Skinner (first quarter-peal of Triples and first 'inside') 2, W. P. Whitehead 3, A. Disney 4, R. Barrow (conductor) 5, K. R. Elliott 6, H. Reeve 7, J. A. Bishop 8.

Mr. Hubbard, who was in his 83rd year, had been a chorister at St. Peter's Church for over 50 years. He was also a ringer for a great number of years, and was at one time captain of the Belgrave ringers.

PONTYPRIDD VETERAN'S DEATH.

We regret to record the death, which took place on Wednesday, May 12th, of Mr. A. Burgess, the veteran Pontypridd ringer, who passed away, after a long illness, at the age of 72 years. The funeral took place on May 18th, when local ringers acted as bearers, and three bob leads of Grandsire Triples were rung at the graveside. Afterwards the ringers returned to the belfry of St. Catherine's Church and rang a quarter-peal with the bells half-muffled in 50 minutes, those taking part being the local Sunday service ringers: Hallett 1, Iver Mitchell 2, F. J. Thyer 3, Idris Mitchell 4, A. E. Gray 5, J. Darch (conductor) 6, S. Ridgway 7, W. Hyett (first quarter-peal) 8. The same ringers rang at the graveside. The ringers also sent a wreath.

ELLESMERE, SALOP.—On Tuesday, April 27th, a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples (Brooks') (1,260 changes), in 52 mins.: R. Biggs 1, G. H. Edwards 2, A. Allen 3, W. S. Higginson 4, T. Butler, sen., 5, T. R. Butler 6, E. V. Rodenhurst (first touch of Stedman as conductor) 7, W. Higginson, sen., 8.

'AS IT WAS IN THE BEGINNING !'
THE MAN WHO FORGETS.

To the Editor.

Sir,—Ad Me Heri Vesperi Venit Stedman.' And he whispered in my ear, 'Would you? Don't say no, do!' And I didn't say 'No,' I did! And eight ropes hanged from holes in the belfry ceiling, an' the bells hung up above 'em. Seven grunting men arose from their seats, and stretched themselves, and walked about, and they met, and met!—but they were not sufficiently developed to know that they had met—'Two short of being one too many.' Then, the awful reality of life forced itself upon 'em, and their dreams were like ice-cream, collapsible, but not perishable, and they simply melted away. They sighed gruffly, 'No Slow,' 'No Quick,' 'No Dodging!' and, sir, with a 'Bob,' straightway they passed—The Treble—into a 'Place,' where they exchanged notes for 'stuff' that was anything except Grocery or Butchery! Here endeth the first lesson.

'Labuntur Anni.' Approximately three centuries slip by.

Ad Me Heri Vesperi Venit 'Ted-man,' and he whispered in my ear, 'Would you? Don't say no, do!' And I didn't say 'No,' I did! And eight ropes hanged from holes in the belfry ceiling, and the bells hung up above 'em. Seven grunting men arose from their seats, and stretched themselves, and walked about, and they met, and met! But they were highly cultured—perhaps, I should mention, the first consonant in 'highly,' is as silent as a mausoleum!—and they did not appreciate the fact, that they had met, 'Two short of being one too many.' Then, the awful reality of life forced itself upon 'em, and their dreams were like ice-cream, collapsible, but not perishable, and they simply melted away. They sighed gruffly, 'No Slow,' 'No Quick,' 'No Dodging!' And, sir, with a 'Bob,' straightway they passed—the Treble!—into a 'Place,' where they exchanged notes for 'stuff' that was anything except Grocery or Butchery!

Here endeth the second lesson.

But, sir, whether it be Grocery or Butchery, I shall insist in future, and nothing will induce me to deviate one iota from what I am now going to write, and that is, I am of the opinion 'that All Conductors' should be 'Filleted!' Then they would get about their business more freely. Of course, you, sir, will observe, that I have laid especial emphasis again on the 'All.' And that infers All! Even that uniformed Conductor who presses himself upon us in the bus or tram-car. He wants—or, to speak more correctly, requires—filleting long, long, before he reaches the 'Penny Stage,' tinkling his little bell of the Tintinabulum order in our ears, thrusting his knees into our ribs, knocking our bowlers over our eyes, treading with his plus eights on our pedal extremities, squeezing here, there and everywhere. Yes, sir, he requires filleting, so that he may perform all the contortions that are required of 'an' uniformed Conductor, in his daily round.

But, sir, it is the 'Un-Uniformed Conductor' 'wot's legg'd us down!' and made all seven of us feel 'sore'! It is not only our one-will-wish-an'-desire to see him filleted, but to see him 'Grilled' 'an' that's all, except saymg in conclusion, 'As it was in the beginning.'—Yours sincerely,
IRENEUS.

BELLRINGERS' RULES

The following quaint old bellringers' rules, neatly written and framed, are hung in the tower of Gouthurst Church, Somerset:—

Let awful Silence first proclaimed be and praises given to the Trinity then Love and Honour pay unto our King
thus with a blessing raise the cheerful ring
Hark! how the chirping treble sounds it clear and covering Tom cans rowling in the rear now up on end at stay com let us see what laws are best to keep sobriety
Soe with consent lets make this firm decree
Who swears or curses or in angry mood quarrels or strikes although he draw no blood who wears his hatt or spurs or turns a bell or by unskilful handling mars a peal
Let him pay sixpence for each single crime twill make him cautious against another time but if the Sexton's fault at hindrance he
we call from him a double penalty
Who doth our parson disrespect or warden's orders any time neglect let him be held in foul disgrace and ever after banished this place
Now round lets go, with pleasure to the ear and peirce with pleasing sounds the yeelding air and when the bells are ceast then let us sing
God save the Church God bless the King.

These rules are, with a number of slight differences, a copy of those of St. Andrew's Church, Plymouth, which date from the year 1700.

THE CENTRAL COUNCIL'S WORK.

If justification were needed for the existence of the Central Council we think it is to be found in the proceedings of the Ipswich meeting last week. There are still ringers who hold the view that the Council is of no service to the Exercise, and that ringing could get along as well without it as with it. With the former opinion we entirely disagree. In connection with the latter we would point out that the existence of the Council has coincided with the marked advance which the art has made in recent decades, and, if this progress has not been due to the Council, it has certainly been co-ordinated and made good by the work which the Council has done. There was a period when the central body appeared to have exhausted its usefulness, but the advent of new blood and the arousing of a wider interest in the work, in which we hope we may claim to have had a share, have regorganised the Council, and the Ipswich meeting was proof that at no stage of the Council's existence has it shown greater vitality or more readily grappled with matters of general concern to ringers than it is doing at present.

Thus we find that during the past year it has made its great effort to save Coventry bells, and, if it was not successful, some valuable lessons have been learnt, which may be of the utmost use in the future. The Council has also taken a leading part in endeavouring to get cheaper railway travelling facilities for ringers, and, here again, although not successful, it has taken up a line of action, which will be maintained, and may bear fruit in future. Its actual meeting at Ipswich, despite the smaller attendance which uncertain and restricted travelling facilities imposed, was of a very interesting character, probably as interesting as any that has been held. Ringers may not all agree with the whole of the decisions come to, and on some of them we shall have more to say later, but from the ringers' point of view there was a useful programme before the members.

Nomenclature and Simpson tuning provided two first-class debates, both of which were instructive; while proposals for expert sub-committees to assist Diocesan Advisory Committees, and for further pressing the Railway Clearing Board for cheaper travelling were matters of practical politics in which ringers have a real personal concern. Even the committee reports showed 'something attempted, something done,' as witness the decision to print at once the new book of plain Major methods, and the completion of the Science Museum exhibit, in which Mr. John Carter's wonderful machine is the central feature. Work in bringing the Treble Bob peal collection up to date; and the carrying out of inspections by members of the Towers and Belfries Committee, to say nothing of the work done in other directions by other committees, notably the compilation of the Analysis, is all evidence that the Council is not only alive to its objects and responsibilities, but is seeking to carry them out with a single eye on the interests of the art of ringing and of ringers.

PETERBOROUGH DIOCESAN GUILD.

THE SECRETARYSHIP.

The annual meeting was held at Northampton on Whit-Monday, and was well attended. The Guild form of service was used at All Saints' Church, conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. G. Trevor Lewis), the lesson being read by Mr. F. Wilford, Master of the Guild. In his address the Vicar said he had been warned not to speak of bells, and it was the long-delayed appearance of the sun that morning that gave him his theme. Astronomy, he said, was the oldest science in the world, but originally people believed the earth stood still, and was the centre of the sun, moon and stars, which moved round it. Many to-day still placed the earth as the centre of all hope and desire; their aims were earthly, so were their aspirations. That was why they found themselves faced with problems they were unable to solve, and he mentioned, as an instance, the coal mining industry. Once they made God their centre, their aim and their hope, their problems would disappear, and the world and its affairs would run smoothly and happily.

Luncheon was served at the Plough Hotel, 70 sitting down, and was followed by the annual business meeting. Mr. F. Wilford (Master) presided, and amongst those present were Rev. J. P. Friend, Rev. R. C. Thursfield and Rev. J. C. Hichens (vice-presidents), Rev. C. J. Watkins (Vicar of St. Giles'), Rev. E. C. Channer, Messrs. W. T. Wilson (treasurer), S. F. Millward (auditor), T. Tebbutt, R. G. Black, F. Barber and W. Bott (branch secretaries), A. King (Luton), A. Moors (Daventry), W. J. Sharpe (Towcester), etc.

The Master proposed the toast of 'The King,' and afterwards referred with regret to the absence of the general secretary (Mr. D. J. Nichols) through ill-health. He said how sorry they all were that Mr. Nichols was not able to carry on the office, the duties of which he had discharged so well. All Mr. D. J. Nichols had done for the good of the Guild and for ringing in so splendid and unselfish a manner was for the love of the work. He moved that a letter of sympathy and appreciation be forwarded to him from that meeting, and this was at once agreed to.

Apologies for absence were received from the President (the Dean of Peterborough), the Revs. L. H. Lethbridge, L. S. Clark, C. H. L. Hopper, J. P. de Putron, E. J. Atkins, E. V. Martin, J. White, Canon Dodson, and Mr. J. J. Jutson and Mr. W. Moore.

The secretary's report and statement of accounts were adopted, and the following officers were re-elected: President, the Dean of Peterborough; Master, Mr. F. Wilford; treasurer, Mr. W. T. Wilson; auditor, Mr. S. F. Millward.

Mr. R. G. Black, who has been acting as secretary during Mr. Nichols' illness, was unanimously elected general secretary.

After a ballot, Messrs. P. Wilford, R. G. Black, T. Tebbutt and F. Hopper were elected as representatives to serve on the Central Council for the ensuing three years, 1927, 1928 and 1929.

Northampton was again chosen as the place for the next annual meeting.

Members of the newly-formed Daventry branch were welcomed on their first appearance at the annual meeting of the Guild. Words of welcome were also extended to the Rev. E. C. Channer, a very well-known and much esteemed member of the late Central Northants Association.

The Rev. R. C. Thursfield moved a hearty vote of thanks to the clergy of Northampton for so kindly placing the various peals of bells at the disposal of the ringers during the day, to the Vicar of All Saints' for conducting the service and for his address; also to the officers of the Northampton branch for so ably making all the necessary arrangements for the meeting.

The Rev. J. P. Friend moved a vote of thanks to the Master for presiding.

During the day touches were rung in most of the standard methods at the various churches.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

EAST HAGBOURNE BELLS UNSAFE.

The North Berkshire branch of the Oxford Diocesan Guild held their annual meeting at Wantage on Saturday week. Some 70 members and friends attended a special service in the church. The Master of the Guild (the Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn, M.C.), with the Rev. H. A. Smith-Masters, M.C. (chairman of the branch) officiated, an able and appropriate address being given by the latter from the words 'Sirs, ye are brethren.'

After service tea was provided at the King Alfred's Head, and, at a business meeting which followed, the Hon. Secretary's report and balance sheet were presented, and again showed that the branch was in a prosperous position, both as regards members and funds.

The Chairman having reported that East Hagbourne bells had been condemned as unsafe for ringing, a grant of £4 was voted from the branch funds towards their restoration, and the hope was expressed that all who are interested in bells and ringing will speedily subscribe, so that this noble ring will not remain silent for long.

The meeting over, the tower was again visited, and members also enjoyed ringing at Childrey, Ardington and the Hundreds.

SWANSEA AND BRECON DIOCESAN GUILD.*SECOND ANNUAL RINGING COMPETITION.

Favoured with glorious weather, the second annual ringing competition, organised by the Swansea and Brecon Diocesan Guild, was held in the parish of Baglan, Glamorgan, on Saturday, May 22nd. The competition was open to the members of the Guild, and a shield was given to the team gaining the highest number of points in raising and falling the bells in peal, and 120 changes of Doubles (any method). Several bands who had competed last year were unable to appear this year, owing to the uncertain train services, and the competing bands numbered seven. The Guild were fortunate in again securing the services of Mr. W. H. Fussell, of Slough, to act as judge, and his report resulted in the competitors being awarded the following points:—St. David's, Brecon, 197; Llanelly, Brecon, 220; Baglan, 232; Cadoxton, 229; Neath, 225; Gorseinon, 227; Aberavon, 221; the maximum points obtainable being 240.

It will be observed that the home team (Baglan) secured the highest number of points, but the committee had previously decided that a handicap of nine points be imposed, and they were thus relegated to fourth place. Certificates were presented to the first three teams.

The Judge, in his report, stated that the general proficiency of the teams competing was up to the standard of last year's competition, with the exception of one team. There was no breakdown, and there were no broken ropes or fittings, and, although the method was Grandsire Doubles, one team successfully accomplished Stedman. The raising and falling in peal appears to need further practice, as a considerable number of points were lost by all the visiting competitors in this branch of church bell work. Nearly every team lost points through the mis-striking of the second bell, due to the fitting of the clapper being worn. Although the home team came out three points ahead of all the rest, they were sporting enough to accept the penalty of nine points imposed by the Guild Committee. Baglan are a somewhat heavier peal of bells (tenor 16½ cwt.) than St. David's, Brecon, used last year, but the teams kept good compass, and generally maintained a fair efficiency in the methods rung.

A cold luncheon was served in Baglan Schools, the Vicar of St. Catherine's, Baglan, being in the chair, and he was supported by the Revs. W. G. Davies and T. W. B. Thomas (Llanelly). Rev. R. A. Sluman (Swansea), the Master of the Guild (Mr. J. Hammond), the hon. treasurer (Mr. Charles Powell), and the hon. secretary (Mr. W. R. Howells). Nearly 70 ringers enjoyed the repast. The competition had commenced at 11 a.m., and finished at 4 p.m., when tea was served. After tea, the Rev. Howard C. Morton (Baglan) presented the shield and certificates to the successful teams, the judge having, in the meantime, delivered his report referred to above.

The thanks of the company present were given to the Vicar and his Parochial Church Council and parishioners for the hearty invitation extended to the Guild, and for their excellent luncheon and tea, provided free of charge to all ringers, on the proposition of Rev. W. G. Davies, and seconded by the Hon. Secretary. Led by the Rev. W. G. Davies, the ringers gave three hearty cheers. Thanks were also accorded Mr. and Mrs. Bellringer for the use of a room at their house to accommodate the judge during the competition, for seeing that the bells were in good ringing order, and for their services to ringers throughout the day.

The ladies serving at the tables were also accorded thanks.

The Hon. Treasurer thanked Mr. W. H. Fussell for the able way he had delivered his adjudication, and for again honouring them with his presence. After tea a collection was made towards the funds of the church.

It was interesting to again note that the Baglan team included two lady ringers, one of whom was a Bellringer by name. Her husband was also a member of the team.

The Vicar was kind enough to throw open the grounds of his Vicarage for the use of the ringers.

THE DISPUTE AT BLACKAWTON.

The trouble which, as already mentioned in these columns, has arisen at Blackawton, Devon, between the Vicar and the ringers because the latter declined to continue their ringing services when the Vicar requested that they should remain at church for the service after ringing, is still unsettled.

The Vicar invited application from seven men who understand change ringing, 'who are in the habit of keeping holy the Lord's Day and are willing to stay, as a rule, for the service they ring for.' An honorarium of £1 each per year was offered. Five ringers replied, but they did not think it possible to attend every church service regularly; while they were willing to ring and attend service on festivals of the church, they could not offer to ring either every Sunday or for three services out of four. Three other ringers offered their services 'when work permitted.'

The Vicar, at a meeting of the Church Council, refused to give a decision on these offers, and left the meeting. The other members remained, elected a chairman, and discussed the desirability of bringing the question before the Bishop of Exeter.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

The anniversary of the opening of two celebrated peals of bells occurs to-day. On June 4th, 1762, How bells, then a peal of ten, were rung for the first time. In 1814 the bells at St. Nicholas', Liverpool, were opened.

Debenham, which was visited by members of the Central Council during their Whitsun excursion to Ipswich, is recalled this week by the anniversary of the 16,608 Oxford Treble Bob Major, which was rung on June 6th, 1892, in 10 hrs. 32 mins.

Twenty years ago next Tuesday this length of Treble Bob was exceeded for the first time when the Chester Guild rang 16,800 in the Kent variation at Moltram.

The last peal on Coventry bells was rung on June 9th, 1883.

It was on June 9th, 1850, that the first peal was rung in America. This was Holt's ten-part, conducted by H. W. Haley at Christ Church, Philadelphia.

The Society of Cumberland Youths (residents of Croydon) rang Mr. Holt's Peal of Grandire Triples, consisting of 5,040 changes, with 98 bobs and 2 singles, which was executed in a masterly style in 2 hours and 50 mins., being the shortest time in which it was ever accomplished on these bells. This reference appears on a tablet recording a peal at St. John's Church, Croydon, on May 29th, 1827. Next year will, therefore, be the centenary year.

Mr. John Sully, who hung the bells at Almondsbury in 1903, writes to point out that the article on these bells in our issue of May 21st says that the only peal attempted on them by a local band was made on April 17th this year. As this might make it appear that no peal had been rung on them since he put in a new frame in 1903, he points out that a peal was rung there the same year, when, in the opinion of the ringers, the work of rehanging 'could not have been done better.'

It is said that one important member of the Central Council was unable to take part in the peal of Stedman Cinques at Ipswich on the Saturday before Whitsun because he had some broody hens to attend to. We hope that when the eggs are hatched out there will be no cuckoos among the chicks.

Mr. N. Bagworth, 36, Turner Road, Leicester, requests C.S.M. Geo. Gilbert to communicate his present address.

The report of the annual meeting of the Essex Association, held on Whit-Monday, when all the officers were re-elected and a sound numerical and financial position shown, will appear in our next issue.

The Bedfordshire Association meeting, which was to have been held at Toddington to-morrow, has had to be postponed. While the bells were being rung for service the tenor clapper broke, and, getting caught in the wheel, broke that also.

DEATH OF MR. W. A. WEBB. READING.

The Reading branch of the Oxford Diocesan Guild, and particularly the St. Mary's Society, have sustained a great loss by the death of one of their old members, Mr. Walter Arthur Webb. He joined the society about 23 years ago, and had been an earnest and enthusiastic member to within a few months of his death, which occurred on Sunday, May 23rd.

The funeral took place on Thursday week. The first part of the service was held at St. Mary's Church, Reading, and was attended by a goodly number of his friends. The second part was held in the cemetery at Caversham, where a plain course of Grandire Triples was rung on handbells over the grave, by four members of the Reading branch, the Master of the Guild, Rev. C. W. O. Jenkin, ringing 7 and 8. Both services were taken by the Vicar of St. Mary's. In the evening several touches of Stedman Triples were rung on St. Mary's tower bells, half-muffled, as a last token of respect to the deceased.

Mr. Webb was a native of Beccles, in Suffolk, where he learnt to ring, and was a member of the band of ringers there. He was apprenticed to the firm of Messrs. Close and Son, printers, of that town. Trade, however, took him to Reading, where he worked first for Messrs. Petty and Sons, printers, and then for Messrs. Wyman and Co., being one of their leading machine hands, and he remained in their service till he was taken ill last year.

He was a man of amiable disposition, always cheerful, kind and ready at all times to help any one in the belfry or out of it. A good, steady and reliable ringer in nearly all methods, his heart was thoroughly in his work and in the science he loved so well. His loss to St. Mary's is very great, for all respected and liked him. He will be keenly missed, but not forgotten, by any who had the privilege of knowing him. The peals he rang numbered about 70, in many methods.

He leaves a widow, six sons and three daughters.

RUGBY SURPRISE.

In printing this method, by Mr. E. Tipler, last week, an error was made in describing it as having a clean proof scale. It has four false course-ends, viz., 46325, 54263, 62345 and 34562, and was published by us in error for another method, Wycliffe Surprise, by the same author.

THE CENTRAL COUNCIL.

COVENTRY BELLS.—DISCUSSIONS AT IPSWICH MEETING.

In reviewing the action taken to preserve Coventry bells, the Hon. Secretary (Mr. E. A. Young), speaking at the Central Council meeting at Ipswich, said that the progress of the negotiations was shown, step by step, in a booklet which he had had privately printed, and which he asked the Council to accept. (This booklet reproduces all the correspondence that had taken place and runs to 44 quarto pages.)

As the Council was aware, said the Hon. Secretary, their efforts were not successful in saving the bells, but they put up a good fight. The inception of what was done was an article in 'The Ringing World' suggesting that it was desirable the Central Council should take action, and the Standing Committee took the serious step of deciding, without calling a general meeting of the Council, to endeavour to save the bells. They were very much indebted to Alderman Pritchett, an eminent member of the Bar and a member of the Council's Standing Committee, who was able to look after their legal interests, and to meet Sir Henry Maddox, who was in charge for the other side. Unfortunately, they did not succeed in convincing the Chancellor that the bells should be saved, and it had occurred to him (the speaker) that, if at any future time they engaged in another case of the kind, they ought to get on their side similar heavy guns to Dr. Starmer and Dr. Brazil, who appeared for their opponents. It was of much interest to him to see Mr. Johnston's recent letter in 'The Ringing World,' stating that he had for two or three years earnestly wrestled with the authorities at Coventry to see if some intermediate course could not be adopted to save a total loss of these bells as a ringing peal. It was unfortunate that, at the time, Mr. Johnston did not realise he had the Council at his back. If he had done so two years ago they might have met with success. Founders might, in the future, find themselves in similar difficulties, in restraining local authorities, and they would be in a much stronger position if they could come to the Council for assistance in defence of the bells. The Hon. Secretary then moved that the Council confirm the action of the Standing Committee, and pay the incidental expenses incurred.

Rev. H. Drake seconded, and thanked Mr. Young for what he had done. He put in a great deal of hard work, and was put to considerable expense, of which they had had some evidence in the book now laid before the Council. He (Mr. Drake) had been challenged as to whether the Suffolk Guild had actually supported the action of the committee, and he would therefore like to say that he brought the matter before two of their district meetings and their annual meeting, and everyone was enthusiastically in favour of what he did, and thanked him for doing it.

Mr. James George, one of the few surviving ringers who rang on the old Coventry bells before they were silenced 40 years ago, supported the thanks to Mr. Young.

Mr. J. S. Pritchett spoke of the splendid effort which Mr. Young made to save this most famous peal of bells. He added that he would not like the impression to remain on their minds that the effort was entirely unsuccessful. To a considerable extent it was successful. The original proposition was to melt up the bells and recast them in the form of a carillon of 14 bells, but at the last moment the scheme was modified in such a way as to meet the strongest objection, and the proposal which the Chancellor was finally asked to sanction was to recast the ten bells as a peal that could be rung as ten bells in the future if ever it was desired and was practicable to do so, the other four bells being added from new metal. That change of front was brought about by the splendid effort made by their secretary (applause).

The President expressed the Council's heartiest thanks to Mr. Young and Mr. Pritchett, and the motion was carried.

COMMITTEES' WORK.

The Council then dealt with committee reports.

Miss Parker, for the Peal Collection Committee, reported that the work of adding the new Treble Bob compositions to the collection was proceeding, but it was involving the examination of the original peals to see that variations did not creep in. When the work was completed by the Rev. H. S. T. Richardson it would be sent to her to type, and it was hoped to have it in the hands of the Council by the next meeting.

The report was adopted.

A report for the Literature and Press Committee was made by the Hon. Secretary (in the absence through illness of the Convener, the Rev. C. E. Matthews). During the past year, he said, the committee's principal task had been revising the Council's book of rules. He had supplied the committee with a précis of all the decisions that had been arrived at, and the book was to be brought right up to date. They were much indebted to the Rev. F. L. Edwards, who was at present in Cyprus, for what he had done in this connection, and to the late Hon. Sec. (Rev. C. D. P. Davies) for a nice little preface which he had written. Incidentally, during the year, the committee had been looking after their interests in the Press, in which department Mr. Paddon Smith had lent valuable assistance. The committee hoped to put a typed draft of the revised rules before the Council at the next meeting.

The Rev. H. Law James said the book contained the Report on Methods. That report should not be reprinted until the members of the Methods Committee had brought it up to date. The Literature and Press Committee were not competent to revise that part of it—they knew nothing at all about it (laughter).

The Hon. Secretary said he took it the Convener would see that the draft was submitted to the Methods Committee.

The report was accepted.

The Rev. H. Law James, asked to report for the Methods Committee, said: We were ready to print the Plain Major Methods last year. The book would have been printed and in your hands to-day if it had not been for the interference of the Nomenclature Committee (laughter).

The President: Is that all you wish to say? (laughter).

The Rev. H. Law James: There is nothing more to say, except, of course, we want to go to print straight away.

Afterwards Mr. James moved that 300 copies be printed. He thought this number would be sufficient, because the book would contain just one lead of a method, and consequently a band that wanted to ring a method would buy one copy and make their diagrams from it. They would not want seven or eight copies for each tower.

Mr. G. P. Burton: Will there be anything in the book beside the figures of the methods? Will they be named? (laughter).

Mr. J. A. Trollope: They are named, every one of them. The names have been submitted to the Nomenclature Committee and approved of to them, but not the sub-titles.

Mr. Burton said he received a list of names, and to those names the Nomenclature Committee objected in some measure. The names themselves might not be open to objection, but their application was a point which might lead to confusion.

The Rev. H. Law James (warmly): I have been at this for 26 years; this new committee has been at work about two years. You can take the report as it is, or we will put it in the fire, names and all. ('No.') It is a matter of pure pedantry.

Mr. T. H. Beams suggested they should leave the consideration of this matter over until the Nomenclature Committee's report had been dealt with.—This was seconded by the Rev. C. D. P. Davies, and agreed to.

The Peals Analysis Committee's report, which had already been published in 'The Ringing World,' was adopted, on the motion of Miss Parker.

IMPORTANCE OF PAINTING BELL FRAMES.

The Hon. Secretary reported for the Towers and Belfries Committee that they were in reserve in case of emergency to give technical advice, and he and Major Hesse were asked by the Winchester Guild to go to Southampton and inspect the tower of St. Michael's Church. They were able to report satisfactorily, so that the bells, which had been recast, could go back into the tower, the peal having been left unhung for some time previously, as there had been a doubt as to whether the tower was safe to take them.

Major Hesse said he had made two inspections during the year. He wished to draw the attention of ringers to the need of keeping the authorities alive to the necessity of painting metal bell frames. Where they were allowed to rust there would come a time, in a few years, when a great portion of the frame would have to be renewed. Authorities should be reminded of the importance of painting bell frames at least every five years. He had come across some bad cases of neglect lately.

The President said he could corroborate Major Hesse as to the need for painting frames, and it ought to be the duty of any ringer who was in charge of an iron or steel frame to tell the churchwardens that it required painting every three years. It was the duty of ringers to see that it was done. There ought to be a ringer on every Parish Church Council, and he should bring this matter up every three years.

The reports were accepted.

Mr. T. H. Beams said the Records Committee had nothing outstanding to report, but there was a slight alteration to make. A progressive length of Cambridge Surprise was put down under the heading of Royal, it should have been Maximus.

THE CARTER RINGING MACHINE.

The Hon. Secretary said the position with regard to the Science-Museum Exhibit Committee was as outlined in the notice which appeared in 'The Ringing World' recently. They had to congratulate themselves on the fact that in the National Science Museum they had a small section illustrating their art. It was more than justified when they remembered that in the exhibition case was the famous ringing machine invented by Mr. John Carter. They had now arrived at the stage when there was no more for the committee to do, and, with the sanction of his fellow members, he proposed that the committee should now be allowed to lapse, and that the duties should be taken over by the Standing Committee of the Council. These duties were rather important, and turned upon the Carter machine. It had been Mr. Carter's wish that it should be in that Museum, and he had deposited it on permanent loan. He had done the Council the honour of making them trustees, and he and the Rev. C. D. P. Davies were the first trustees. They had had to consider whether they should ask others to join with them, and, with his fellow trustee's concurrence, they proposed to appoint a ringer in London, who was thoroughly well up in ringing methods, and had a certain amount of technical skill in regard to machinery, to assist them. The machine, for delicacy of work, was of the calibre of a French striking timepiece; in fact, parts almost approached watch work. Through Mr. Carter having constantly to take the machine to pieces and reassemble it, parts were already somewhat worn, and would need adjustment. The trustees proposed to appoint Mr. C. Roberts, a young London ringer, who was a watch maker, and who had agreed to master the machine and to demonstrate it, he hoped, for many years to come. He (Mr. Young) had been able to extract from Mr. Carter details of the machine, which he had incorporated in a book, deposited with the machine. This described it in great detail, and showed what the machine would do in any method now known, or which could be invented in the future.

The Rev. C. D. P. Davies, in seconding the proposal to dissolve the committee, said he regarded the machine as one of the most wonderful things he had ever seen. It was an asset to the Exercise which he hoped would go down to the generations to come. He rejoiced to hear that Mr. Young had secured the services of a younger man, who would be able to understand the machine, keep it in order, and work it when necessary. That was a thing about which he (the speaker) had always felt concern. He was terrified with the thought that its use or explanation might be lost, and the Exercise deprived of it as an asset. He was glad they had secured a young man who would, he hoped, be able to keep it going for many years to come.

Mr. J. S. Pritchett expressed appreciation of the services which Mr. Young had rendered in this matter. Although that other wonder, Babbage's Calculating Machine, was still in existence, no one now knew how to use it. That was a fate they would not like to befall Mr. Carter's machine, and it would be saved from it by the exertions of their secretary (applause).

It was resolved that the committee be dissolved, that its duties be carried on by the Standing Committee, and that representatives be appointed by the Council to act as trustees of the Carter Ringing Machine.

METHOD NOMENCLATURE.

Mr. G. P. Burton, moving the adoption of the report of the Nomenclature Committee, said they presented a report in 1925, which was before the Exercise for a whole year. Instead of a report for 1926 the committee had put forward a series of recommendations which they had likewise seen printed in 'The Ringing World.' Those resolutions would be put to the meeting in due course. The committee were compelled to bring forward proposals which would produce some opposition, but that could not be helped, for when any reform was undertaken there must be some controversy about it. During the past year the greatest possible publicity had been given to the matter in the ringing press, and friends and critics alike had had ample opportunity afforded them to hear all there was to be said on the subject from both sides. Their greatest critic, at any rate in regard to the amount of space he had occupied, had been Mr. Trollope. He had had to declare himself in some respects on the side of the committee, but it had to be confessed that not one bit of his criticism had been in the least bit helpful. The committee was put forward to do something, and help the Exercise out of the mire in which it had been for some time in regard to names, but Mr. Trollope's criticism had been obstructive. Not one helpful suggestion had been made by the critics, they could only say 'No' to every proposal—and of what good was that? Dealing with some of the points which critics had made, Mr. Burton said Mr. Trollope, in one of his articles, showed how method names had been built up. Did that not show that by the same process they could undo them? When a word was encumbered by too many adjectives they lost their force and had to be dropped, but Mr. Trollope argued that when they had a name it must stand as it was for ever. As to the difficulties accompanying change, they were quickly got over, and people soon became accustomed to new names, as they had seen in recent years when Christiania became Oslo, and St. Petersburg had become Petrograd and afterwards Leningrad. As to the supposed right of any man to give what name he liked to a method, they knew the confusion it had led to, and they wanted the Council to transfer the authority from the individual to the Council, or a committee of the Council. The committee said it was not right that the individual should have the authority to choose a name which might cause trouble and difficulty, and perhaps bring them to ridicule. They were now frequently getting change ringing broadcast, and it was becoming the practice for the announcer to give the name of the method, and to say that such and such a society would ring a touch of Grandsire Triples, or whatever the method was. They gave out a name—that was the point. It showed that the Exercise wanted to be careful what names it used: that they had the right sort of names. What would the public think of an announcement that someone was going to ring a touch of Princess Mary Royal? They had come to a stage where they wanted no more language of flowers, no generalities. The time had passed for that. The committee wanted a plain 'Yes' or 'No' to their plain, reasonable and practicable proposals. They were doing something now for the future, and not just for their own present-day likings or convenience; they were looking further ahead, so that whatever developments might come, they could have names which were suitable, names of which they were not ashamed.

Mr. Burton then moved the resolutions which appeared in the committee's report.

THE RESOLUTIONS.

The proposals were, briefly, as follows:—

- (1) No method shall have more than one name.
- (2) No name shall belong to more than one method.
- (3) No name shall contain more than one word.
- (4) Class designations, when added to a name, shall always have some reference to the thing designated. Thus the word 'bob' in this connection shall always, as originally, have reference to dodging.
- (5) The names 'Pasallatessera' and 'Pasallatria' shall not be used in any C.C. publications; should it be necessary to distinguish the classes which were once so designated, they shall be otherwise, and properly, described.
- (6) The fifteen floral names shall be changed.
- (7), (8), (9) and (10) gave the name changes proposed in the various groups, and the following resolutions were added:—
- (11) No names or terms, supplementary of, or in substitution for, those published by authority of C.C. should be used until the sanction of C.C. has been obtained.
- (12) A supplement to the Glossary, containing new names and terms up-to-date, should be at once put in hand.
- (13) In the case of all new methods, which have been rung under names it is proposed to alter, an opportunity should be given to those who first rang them, or to their society, to approve of the proposed new name.

The question was raised as to whether the resolutions were in substitution for the 1925 report, and, at Mr. Pritchett's suggestion, it was agreed to take the resolutions as an amended report.

Bury, as everyone knows, is an historical place, and once the seat of the great Benedictine Abbey, whose church was one of the biggest and most magnificent in England, over 100 feet longer than Norwich Cathedral, and only nine feet shorter than Canterbury. Far away back in the seventh century Felix of Burgundy was missionary bishop of East Anglia. To him came an Irish priest, named Fursey, offering help. Felix sent Fursey to a place called Bedericsworth, in the midst of the heathen Saxons. There they laboured, and not without success. King Sigebert, the ruler of the land, himself became one of them, and for two hundred years they prospered. Then came the great irruption of the Danes, those fierce heathen warriors from the North of Europe. First as raiders, and then as conquerors, they overran the whole land, and town and village, abbey and church, went down in one common ruin by fire and sword. Edmund was king of East Anglia at the time. In a great battle fought at Hoxne, near Eye, he was killed, and his body was taken to the abbey at Bedericsworth. By that time it was a strong and noted place, but it did not escape the common ruin.

Time passed, Christianity and peace returned to the land. The church of Bedericsworth was rebuilt by a colony of monks from the Abbey of St. Benet Hulm, in Norfolk, and as King Edmund had now become a saint, it was henceforth St. Edmundsbury. As the years went on it grew in wealth and splendour to a position among the very greatest of the abbeyes of Europe. The mitred abbot ranked among the greatest of the nobles of England, more powerful and wealthier than the bishop of the diocese, his lordship of Norwich. How big the whole thing was you can imagine from the fact that the two fine churches which remain, the present Cathedral of St. James and St. Mary's, were but hangers-on to the great abbey church. Then came the great crash of the sixteenth century, the abbey was suppressed, and church and monastery fell in one ruthless ruin, so that to-day hardly one stone remains on another.

What was once the abbey is now a very pleasant public garden, and round this Archdeacon Farmiloe conducted us, pointing out the many objects of interest.

NOTES BY THE WAY.

IPSWICH RECOLLECTIONS.—SOME SUFFOLK BELLS.

BY J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

Twelve months ago, with the memories of that delightful Chester meeting still fresh, I asked the question, 'What can Ipswich do next year?' Salisbury had set up a new standard for the comfort and pleasure of the members of the Council. Chester had lagged not a whit behind. Each has exceptional facilities, a fine cathedral, an historical city, and lovely scenery ready to hand. And each saw that we enjoyed them to the full. And what could Ipswich do? Well, we have seen, and know; and this year's meeting will go down to history as one of the most successful and enjoyable.

The whole thing was in doubt till the last moment. The shadow of the industrial crisis lay on everything. Would the Council be held? And, if it were, how many could get there? We in London, as usual, had the best chance, and even here, two days beforehand, could not be sure what trains would run, or even if there would be any at all on Sunday. For those who were faced by a cross country journey the prospect was not inviting. And so, though the number of those who attended was below the average, on the whole it was exceedingly satisfactory. I think there were fifty-three present, and they came from as far afield as Wales, Lancashire and Devon.

The overture was a peal of Stedman Cinques at the Tower Church on Saturday, the particulars of which have been published. On Sunday there was service ringing. Some of the visitors went on to Norwich and some to Felixstowe, the day ending with a social meeting and handbell ringing at headquarters. On Monday, the Suffolk Guild had arranged a motor trip to a few places, and here was an opportunity for Suffolk to show what she can do in the way of scenery and in bells, compared with Salisbury and Chester. And we can say truthfully that she fully held her own in the first, and more than held her own in the second.

Perhaps you think that Suffolk and the East of England have no really first-class scenery. Ah, but you forget what surprises an English spring has in store. Suffolk produced one this last week-end. It was not the may blossom, though the hedges were smothered with it, nor the freshness and richness of the green grass. It was the oaks. They were late; and the immature leaves of golden green with the sunlight on them turned the country roads into avenues of most marvellous colouring. It will be long before we shall forget that drive from Stowmarket to St. Edmundsbury.

The Suffolk Guild had arranged for us to visit five peals of bells, all of them heavy ones, and all of them of the old style. There was to be a discussion on the Tuesday on the advantage or otherwise of modern Simpson tuning, compared with the old style; and if the latter can be justified it is by such peals as we visited. The first was Stowmarket. They are a very fine ring of bells—that every one would agree—but they are a most extraordinarily mixed up lot. They were cast by no fewer than seven different men, and not two of them in the same year. The oldest, the fourth, goes back to 1460, and is by John Danyell; the youngest, the sixth, came from Whitechapel in 1823, and bears Thomas Mears, junior's, name.

John Danyell was a London bell founder of great repute in the fifteenth century. John Darbie (or should it not be Michael Darbie?) cast the third and seventh, one in 1669, the other in 1672. He was an East Anglian founder, who moved about from place to place, probably to find new work. His bells are said to be generally bad ones. The fifth, cast in 1699, was by Charles Neuman, of whom, at the minute, I recollect nothing. I think he was a Norwich founder. The treble and second both came from the Downham Market foundry, the second in 1791, cast by Thomas Osborn, and the treble, in 1810, by his grandson, William Dobson. Both these men cast some well known and admired peals. Dobson's masterpiece was the ring at Diss, in Norfolk, which was usually considered the best of its weight in the East of England. The old twelve at Liverpool were also by him. The tradition is that they were made from measurements of St. Peter's, Mancroft, but were a failure.

Stowmarket tenor was by Miles Graye. She is three years older, and about the same weight as her more famous sister, the tenor at Lavenham. It is inevitable that in a peal like this, cast at so many different times and by so many different people, the undertones must be very varied, and yet it is a fact that the bells make a very fine whole. Get them down into the foundry and test them with tuning forks, and doubtless you will find them all sixes and sevens. Up in the tower you need not notice anything of the sort.

From Stowmarket we went on to St. Edmundsbury, and there there are two heavy and noted peals. The eight at St. Mary's are all from the Whitechapel foundry, but at different times. Treble, second, sixth and tenor are by Richard Phelps in 1734, the fifth by the same man in the following year. These, apparently, are what are left of the original peal. The seventh was recast by Pack and Chapman in 1776, the year after they had cast the twelve for Mancroft, and two years after they had cast the ten for Coventry; 3 and 4 were recast by Mears and Stainbank in 1869 and 1903. I was very much impressed with this ring. We had divided ourselves into two bands for the two towers, and while we were waiting for the key of the ten-bell tower the others were pulled up and rung. The tenor especially (she is 27 cwt.) is a noble bell.

The ten bells of St. James', the Cathedral Church of Bury, hang in the Norman tower formerly part of the abbey buildings. They have always stood very high in reputation among the old style peals. Some will tell you they are the best ten of their weight in England. In one respect they are, I think, unique. They were all cast by the same founder, and in the same year, 1785, and none has been recast. Their founder was Thomas Osborn, and they came from Downham Market, a small town in West Norfolk. This foundry was the lineal descendant of one established at St. Neots by Joseph Eayre. Osborn was Eayre's foreman, and, after Eayre's death, he carried on the business in partnership with Edward Arnold, Eayre's cousin. This partnership was dissolved. Arnold stayed at St. Neots for a time, and then went to Leicester, and ultimately the business was acquired by the Taylor's, of Loughborough.

Osborn set up business at Downham, and in his time, and that of his grandson, William Dobson, the foundry had a great reputation. Dobson seems to have been a good craftsman, but a poor man of business, and in 1833 the foundry was absorbed by Thomas Mears, of Whitechapel.

DEVON GUILD. THE ANNUAL FESTIVAL.

Ottery, associated with the Coleridge family, and where some years ago the ex-President of the Devon Guild (the Rev. Maitland Kelly) was Vicar, was the venue of the Guild on Whit-Monday, when the annual festival was held. In addition to the bells at this church, the rings at Feniton, Honiton, Sidbury, Sidmouth and Talaton were at the disposal of ringers during the day, and a great deal of ringing was enjoyed. The total attendance was close upon 200, wonderful evidence of the present vitality of the Guild, and the members were delighted to see Mr. Kelly among them again, and able to take a rope in a touch. The bands represented included the Cathedral, St. Sidwell's, St. David's, and Heavitree (Exeter), Topsham, Kelly, Ilfracombe, Holbeton, Combemartin, Tiverton, Whimble, Bucknell, Littleham, Washfield, Talaton, Sowton, Upton Pyne, Christow, Whitstone, Otterton, Withycombe Raicigh and Ottery.

Service was conducted by the Rev. I. B. Stallard (Vicar) in Ottery Parish Church shortly after noon, and exceedingly well attended by the ringers, who entered into it with great heartiness and sang the hymns with much zest. The Vicar, in the course of a short address, cordially welcomed the Guild to Ottery, expressed high appreciation of the services of the local ringers, urged all to look upon ringing as a real gift, and that it was something in God's service, and enlarged upon the value of the unifying influence of the Guild.

Dinner followed at the London Hotel, and, at the close, the annual meeting was held, with the President (the Rev. E. S. Powell) in the chair.

The report of the General Committee was as follows: The year 1925 has again been a period of steady advance by the Guild, not so much in extension of its influence as in making good on existing ground. A total of 61 certificates has been issued to performing members who have qualified. This shows that the system of organised instruction is having good results. Reports from branches show an addition of four new bands during the year, making the total 56, and there is evidence of great activity towards a higher and more conscientious standard. The Guild practices at the Cathedral have been regularly kept up, with the result that an excellent quarter-peat of Grandsire Cinques was rung there on November 14th, and, although not strictly within the year under review, a peal of 5,015 changes was brought round on January 9th, 1926, the first by Devonshire men, and composed and conducted by our esteemed president, to whose initiative and perseverance much of the success of this crowning achievement must be attributed. Our peals record comprises two of Grandsire Caters, seven of Grandsire Triples, three of Stedman Triples, and one of Kent Treble Bob Major, this latter being the first by a local band in Devon for 16 years. The finances of the Guild and its branches continue in a satisfactory state.

The general accounts showed a balance in hand of £51 6s. 9d., against £42 11s. 7d. at the commencement of the year, but an investment of £25 had been sold out.

The report and accounts were adopted.

The following re-elections took place:—President, the Rev. E. S. Powell; vice-presidents, Bishop of Crediton, Bishop of Plymouth, Dean of Exeter, Archdeacon of Exeter, Canon McLaren, Sub-Dean Martin, the Revs. Maitland Kelly, H. L. Pigot and G. E. F. Molinucx, Mr. W. E. Pitfield Chapple, the Revs. J. E. B. Ball, Canon J. A. Kempe and E. V. Cox; hon. treasurer, Mr. T. G. Bartlett; hon. secretary, Mr. T. Laver; honorary members' representatives, the Revs. H. B. Clark and A. S. Hutchinson, and Mr. H. B. Kindersley; representatives on the Central Council of Church Bell Ringers, the President, Messrs. A. W. Searle, F. J. Davey and E. W. Marsh; hon. auditor, Mr. E. Shepherd.

A cordial vote of thanks was passed to officers for past services (special compliments being paid to the president and hon. secretary for their enthusiastic and excellent work), to incumbents for use of bells, and to the Vicar and organist of Ottery for their help in the service.

It was agreed that branches should be able to exercise the option of appointing Ringing Masters for themselves, and that representatives of the Guild on the Central Council should be ex-officio members of the General Committee of the Guild.

Newton Abbot was approved as the meeting place for next year's annual festival.

EDGBASTON BELLS.

During the past year the six-bell band at Edgbaston, Birmingham, rang, all for Sunday services, 720's of Minor in ten methods, ranging from Plain Bob to London Surprise. Mr. Holt's 'celebrated 720 Bob Minor without a single' was included. The band hope, in the near future, to get these bells augmented to eight.

WINCHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD.

THREE MORE TOWERS AFFILIATED TO THE PORTSMOUTH DISTRICT.

Despite the restricted travelling facilities, an excellent meeting was held at West Meon on Saturday last. Although the weather was not at its best, over 30 members and friends assembled at this picturesque village, in the heart of the Meon Valley. The Church of St. John-the-Evangelist, a beautiful flint structure, contains a good peal of eight bells, which were used to full advantage during the afternoon and evening.

The Guild form of service was conducted by the Rector (Rev. W. H. Thomas), who welcomed the members and expressed pleasure that they should find time during their outing to have a half-hour set aside for a service of thanksgiving and prayer. He thought that ringers who were members of a society such as the Diocesan Guild were doing a great work for the church, and he wished them prosperity in the future.

An excellent tea was partaken of at the Red Lion Hotel, after which the business meeting was held, the Rector being voted to the chair. Five full members and five probationers were elected from Bramshott, 11 probationers from Netley and two full members from West Meon, thereby affiliating these three towers to the district.

The Master (Mr. G. Williams) proposed a vote of welcome to these new towers, and congratulated the district on its progress in this direction, this making 17 towers in union.

Four honorary members were elected from Bramshott, and it was very pleasing to have amongst the company one of the churchwardens (Mr. O. Woods), who is keenly interested in change ringing.—The Rector of West Meon expressed a wish to become an honorary member, and he was unanimously elected. He was glad to see that some of his ringers had joined the Guild, and said he would do his best to urge the remainder to become members.

A letter was read from Mr. C. J. Fray, expressing his regret that he would have to resign as a representative on the general committee, as he was now residing out of the district. The meeting expressed appreciation of his past services, and Mr. R. J. Stone (Portsmouth) was elected in his place.

It was resolved to hold the next meeting at Bramshott on August 21st, and that application be made for the use of the bells at Liss. Due notice of this meeting will appear in 'The Ringing World.'—A vote of thanks was accorded the Rector of West Meon for the use of the bells and conducting the service, after which the meeting concluded.

During the day members were present from Bramshott, Bishop's Waltham, Farcham, Netley Abbey, North Stoneham, Portsmouth (St. Mary's and St. Thomas'), Swanmore, Wickham, Winchester and West Meon. The ringing ranged from rounds to Superlative and Cambridge Surprise Major.

WEDDING BELLS.

CARDIFF RINGERS MARRIED.

The marriage took place on Monday, May 17th, of Miss Constance E. Jones to Mr. George Day. Both are ringers at All Saints' Church, Newport, the bride being the daughter of Mr. J. W. Jones, the hon. secretary of the Diocesan Association and leader of the All Saints' ringers. The marriage ceremony took place in St. Mark's Church, in which parish the bride and her parents reside, and was performed by the Vicar (Rev. Isaiah Roberts, M.A.), assisted by the Vicar of All Saints' (Rev. Sidney G. Morgan). The wedding was witnessed by a large congregation, and the bride was given away by her father.

A peal of Stedman Triples was attempted on All Saints' bells in honour of the event, but came to grief. Afterwards a quarter-peat in the same method was rung by H. Ridout 1, T. Ford 2, J. W. Jones 3, C. Greedy 4, H. Morgan 5, F. Chapman 6, J. Hammond (conductor) 7, A. Williams 8.

HERTS COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

Although held under strike conditions, a very useful meeting of the St. Albans District was held at Harpenden on May 8th. Ringers arrived—somehow—from Luton, St. Albans, Hitchin, Dunstable, Kimpton, Watford, Hemel Hempstead and Redbourn—the whole band of learners. These, with the local company, enabled the following methods to be rung: Grandsire Doubles, Stedman Triples, Kent and Oxford Treble Bob, Bob Major, Double Norwich, Superlative, Bristol and London (Grandsire Caters in hand), with Bob Minor for beginners.

At the meeting, which followed the tea, the President took the chair, and the Western District secretary officiated for Mr. W. Nash. Nine members from Redbourn, one from Harpenden and one from St. Albans Abbey were elected.

The next meeting was proposed for St. Albans on June 12th, when the Western District are asked to join them in 10-bell ringing in the afternoon, and 8-bell in the evening.

A hearty vote of thanks to the Rector for the use of the bells closed the meeting, the members adjourning to the tower for further ringing until 8.30 p.m.

NOMENCLATURE REPORT JETTISONED

The efforts of the Nomenclature Committee of the Central Council to give effect to the task for which they were appointed were brought to naught at the Ipswich meeting. Two years ago the Committee was set up 'to review existing method nomenclature and suggest a suitable system of nomenclature for the future.' True, it was a closely divided Council that appointed them, but when the results of their labours, carried out at the direction of the Council, were finally put before the general body, the report was unceremoniously thrown overboard, and instead, a pious expression of opinion, embodied in an amendment, was carried. For the moment, therefore, nomenclature reform is as far off as ever. Perhaps the result was partly due to the fact that, in the view of many members of the Council, the report went too far, and was too drastic in its proposed changes, while a further influence, we are inclined to think, was to be found in the fact that, in endeavouring to get away from the floral names while retaining the same initial letter for the title (a matter in which we could see no necessity or even convenience), the Committee did not always succeed in finding any more euphonious titles. But the chief obstacle to the report was its own comprehensiveness—the Council did not seem able to swallow so much at one gulp. Let it be remembered, however, the Committee were only carrying out their terms of reference, and in throwing over the report the Council have only emphasised what has all along been apparent in this matter, that they are not certain of their own mind. Even in the amendment which they carried they showed a double change of front, for not only did they decline to revise the names of methods which they had previously indicated, by the appointment of the Nomenclature Committee, they desired to have changed, but they upheld the principle that bands and individuals have the right to name new methods, when they ring them, after having directed the Analysis Committee to carry out a wholesale naming of methods of which they were not the authors and which they had not rung. This vacillation on the part of the Council leaves the ordinary ringer somewhat bewildered.

There is still need for reform, however, and probably in time some of the more urgently required changes will be brought about. No one really wants to get rid of titles which are in themselves indicative of history; what is wanted is to rid the Exercise of the unsuitable names, which, while pleasing to the ears of certain sentimentalists, are entirely out of harmony with a mathematical science. Despite what our correspondent in 'Notes by the Way' says this week, the good taste and sense of the Exercise has not always prevented freakish names in the past, and all the while the Council deliberately admits the right of individuals to confer upon methods whatever names they choose they cannot complain if here and there some title is applied which offends against the said good taste and sense.

NEWCASTLE'S RECAST PEAL.

DEDICATION OF ST. JOHN'S BELLS.

Another milestone in the renovation of St. John's Church—the old twelfth century edifice near the Central Station, which is costing over £6,000—was reached on Sunday, May 30th, when the recast peal of eight bells was dedicated and blessed by the late Vicar, the Rev. A. E. Cornibee, now of St. Matthew's, Kensington. The bells are now a delightfully pleasing and musical octave in A flat from the Croydon foundry, and Messrs. Gillett and Johnston have not only made every effort to make the peal musically a success, but have succeeded in getting the bells all on one tier in H frames, a feat impossible with the old oak beams. The bells are hung on ball bearings, and have all the latest improvements, including a most ingenious 'clapper control' on the tenor, a very kindly gift from the firm itself. The bells have been tuned on the Simpson principle, and the harmony is most exquisite, not only in the tower, but at a distance. The tower has been gutted of its old frame and beams, and the bells set four feet lower than the louvre ledge. The old roof was removed and a new system of sound ventilation worked into the new roof, while the old louvres have been removed and practically filled with glass. This allows the sound to filter gently down to the street below, but carried in greater volume to a distance.

The three trebles, cast by John Warner and Sons in 1884, now bear, in addition, the following inscriptions:—

Treble: The Ringers gave me, 1926.

2nd: The Wardens gave me, 1926.

3rd: The Samaritan Bell. Those who did not pass by gave me, 1926.

The old inscriptions on all the bells have been reproduced, and those on the larger bells are as follows:—

4th: Deo Gratias. F.B.

5th: In Divino benevolentia. 1706. (New inscription: The Communicants of S. John's gave me.)

6th: Robert Peraval. Te deum laudamus. S.S. Ebor, 1706. Jesu Mercy.

7th: Benedicimus et veneramus Te. William Ramsay, Esq. S.S. Ebor, 1706. (New inscription: Recast to the glory of God and in loving memory of his mother, Mary Ann Story, and his brother, Robert Spencer Story, by William Storey, 1926.)

Tenor: Gratias agimus pro gloria tua immensa. Mr. Andrew Bates, Minis, 1706. (New inscription: A thanksgiving for S. John's and its services, C.B.M. and the Guild of S. Mary. These bells were recast at the restoration of this church, 1924-1926. A. E. Cornibee, Vicar. Gillett and Johnston, Croydon, 1926.)

The weight of the tenor is 11 cwt. 5 lbs. 'S.S. Ebor' on two of the bells refers to the original founder, Samuel Smith, of York.

The opening of the bells was placed in the hands of the Newcastle Cathedral Guild, and each bell was dedicated singly as it was raised, by the Rev. A. E. Cornibee, beneath the tower by pulling a bell rope as a signal. After the dedicatory prayers, the bells were set off to the tune of a short touch of Stedman Triples, while the procession of clergy and wardens returned to the church: G. L. Routledge 1, W. H. Barber 2, E. Ferry 3, R. Thompson 4, J. E. Keen 5, J. Rowell 6, W. Story 7, J. Foreman 8. The service finished with a voluntary from the belfry, when 504 Stedman Triples rang the congregation out, with Mr. A. Hall on the 8th.

Tea was provided at the County Hotel for the ringers and their friends, the clergy, churchwardens, etc. Handbells and speeches of a congratulatory nature followed, and passed a very pleasant hour and a half before ringing for evensong commenced. It was announced that funds had come in so well that the bells and tower were now free of debt, and that all remaining to be done was the grouting of the walls and sundry small improvements.

During the day the ringing was of a very high tone, and the Guild were fortunate in having the assistance of old and valued friends to help them to keep both towers going for the services in the evening. The evening service closed with a touch of 448 London Surprise Major by: J. E. Keen 1, G. L. Routledge 2, J. E. Gofton 3, W. Gofton 4, J. W. Parker 5, A. Deas 6, T. T. Gofton (conductor) 7, W. H. Barber 8.

Mr. C. F. Johnston, of Croydon, was present during the week-end, and was heartily congratulated by all concerned on the success of his work in the tower. This is his first peal in this district, but evidently will not be the last, if excellence of tone and smoothness of working be any testimonial.

At the close of the proceedings, the Rev. N. B. Hudson, the recently appointed Vicar, thanked the ringers, and hoped to see a large gathering on Saturday, June 5th, when the bells were thrown open to the Durham and Newcastle Diocesan Association, from 3 a.m. till 9.

C. I. R.

An attendance of over thirty on Saturday last, when the bells were thrown open to the Durham and Newcastle Association, kept ringing going from about 3.30 till 8 o'clock service. Members attended from Darlington, Sunderland, Tanfield, Chester-le-Street, Gosforth, Whitley Bay, Winton, Mirburn, Suen, Cramlington, Newcastle Cathedral and North Shields, and touches and courses were rung in Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Double Norwich, Cambridge and London Surprise Major. Tea was held in the Roma Café, Mr.

NOTES BY THE WAY.

LAVENHAM BELLS. — REV. W. C. PEARSON'S
WONDERFUL LIBRARY OF RINGING BOOKS.

BY J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

A few miles from St. Edmundsbury brings you to Lavenham, and it was a happy thought of the Suffolk Guild to include that place in our itinerary. Every ringer has heard of Lavenham and its famous tenor bell, but the place is hard to get at, and very few of us had previously the opportunity of visiting it. It is worth a visit. The church is one of the finest in East Anglia, with a magnificent tower built somewhere about 1500, a time when so many of the big churches of Norfolk and Suffolk were rebuilt. That was a time when, according to history text books, the church was most corrupt and worldly, and yet there never was a time in England when there were so many magnificent parish churches built.

In Norfolk and Suffolk you can account for it partly by the fact that they were then the manufacturing part of England, and Lavenham Church was chiefly erected by the generosity of a wealthy family of cloth manufacturers.

It was the tenor we particularly wanted to hear. Years ago, long before Simpson tuning was anything more than a theory, she was said to be the best bell of her weight in England, and we were told that this was because her undertones were a perfect common chord. I believe that is not quite correct. I believe that experts have decided that such a bell, the ideal bell, is not really possible: but, compared with the older bells, it is approximately true. She is certainly a very fine bell. The more you critically judge her, the more she satisfies. She is a bell that both the advocates of older tuning and of the newer unite in praising. For when men praise old bells it is such as Lavenham tenor they are thinking of; and the Simpsonians retort that she practically is a Simpson tuned bell. If all old bells were like this you would not hear anything about need for recasting, and if all Simpson bells were like this you would not hear any complaints about 'howling.' The ring, as a whole, is a very fine one, though it certainly is the tenor that makes it what it is. Of the others, I liked the seventh least, and was not surprised to find afterwards that she was cast in the middle years of the last century—1846 to be exact.

Different opinions are often expressed as to which is the worst period of English bell founding. A gentleman, whose knowledge of the matter is far superior to mine, gave evidence at Coventry that it was the early years of the nineteenth century. I am inclined to put it later, from the middle of that century right down to the great revival which coincides with the introduction of Simpson tuning. There can be no shadow of doubt that the adoption of the five-tone tuning has played a very big part in the marvellous improvement in the bells that are cast nowadays. At the same time, we must remember that equal improvement has taken place in bells cast by founders who have not adopted the Simpson tuning.

Like so many of the admired old peals, Lavenham are a mixed lot. They were cast at six different dates, and by five different founders. The latest is the seventh, by Charles and George Mears, in 1846—the worst period in the long history of the famous Whitechapel firm. The two trebles were founded in 1811 by William Dobson, of whom I have already spoken. Henry Pleasant cast the third and the fifth in 1702 and 1703. Richard Bowler cast the fourth and sixth, both in 1603. And the tenor was by Miles Graye in 1625. Her weight is 23 cwt., and her diameter 52 inches. Richard Bowler set up a bell foundry at Colchester in 1790, and Miles Graye was his successor. He is usually reckoned (and with justice) the greatest of the East Anglian bell founders, and had no superior anywhere in England. There are a good many of his bells left in different parts of the Eastern Counties, but no complete peal of his exists, I believe; certainly no eight. The nearest is St. Margaret's at Ipswich, where the back six are all his, and Swaffham, in Norfolk, where the back six were all his, but the fifth has been recast. One of his best known bells is the eleventh at St. Mary-le-Tower, Ipswich. Miles Graye died in 1649. His son, Christopher, and his grandson, Miles, carried on the business, but they were a long way inferior as craftsmen to the great Miles. The business then passed to Henry Pleasants, who removed to Sudbury.

Talking of bell founders, I find it was John Darbie and not Michael (as I half thought) who cast the third and seventh at Stowmarket. John was Michael's brother, and a good many of his bells are to be found in different parts of Suffolk. The eighth and tenth at St. Mary-le-Tower are his, and other bells of his are at Grundisburgh, Horham, Kelsale, Leiston, Ufford, and elsewhere. It was brother Michael whose bells had such a villainous reputation. Dr. Raven says: 'Michael was a rolling-stone that gathered no moss. While John, his brother's travels were confined to East Anglia, Michael's wretched bells are to be found in many districts, for one specimen of his casting appears to have been enough for a neighbourhood.'

After Lavenham, Long Melford and All Saints', Sudbury, were visited, but of these I cannot say anything, having returned to Ipswich, but now I am chatting about the bells we rang on I ought to say something about the very pretty little peal at Henley, where the Council's visit to Ipswich was wound up with a peal of Treble Bob on the Wednesday morning. They, too, are a mixed lot. The seventh and tenor were cast at Bury as far back as 1480. The sixth is a Whitechapel bell by Phelps and Lester in 1736; the fourth by T. Mears and Son in 1809; the rest by John Taylor and Co. in 1902. They are an excellent example of what can be done with old bells by judicious tuning.

In the all too short time at our disposal we had an opportunity of just glancing at Mr. Pearson's splendid collection of ringing books, about which I lately wrote in these notes. I was naturally interested to see and handle Mr. Lukis' copy of the 'Tintinnalogia.' While I was looking at it and explaining to a friend its unique value as the only copy left of the first book published on ringing, Mr. Pearson produced another copy, which he had discovered somewhere or other. So there's another tradition of the Exercise gone. And it shows that a systematic search may still bring to light books and manuscripts relating to early ringing that at present we know nothing of. Another recent and most valuable addition to Mr. Pearson's collection is a copy of 'A School of Recreation,' a very rare book, which treats with different kinds of sport and gives a chapter to ringing. Its author was not a man of the calibre of Stedman, or Doleman, or Annable, but the book is interesting, as showing what progress the London ringers of 1700 had made in our art.

The Council meeting itself does not call for much comment here. There was a pretty full agenda, with two highly debatable subjects, and the businesslike way in which the President got the meeting through the most formal business so as to leave sufficient time for these was highly commendable. I have already, in these notes, dealt pretty fully with the question of the naming of methods. The amendment moved by Mr. Davies and myself was carried, and about that I should like to make one comment. In 'The Ringing World' of May 21st it is written that, 'as left by the amendment, there is nothing to exclude the most freakish of titles, if it pleased the fancy of some eccentric individual to apply it to a method of which he claimed authorship,' and, in the next issue, 'Criticus,' raising the reductio ad absurdum argument, asks what is to prevent him calling a method 'Tripe and Onions Minor' if he wills. Well, if these writers will consider the matter a little, they will find there are a good many things to prevent it. Chiefly, the good taste and sense of the Exercise, which has prevented freakish names in the past, and given us the really fine set of names we have. Then, their own good sense. You can trust most men to do their best, not their worst, in a case of this kind for their own credit's sake. And, again, no man willingly makes a fool of himself, and we all know that a man who tried to introduce a really absurd name like the instance given would be making a fool, not only of the Exercise, but especially of himself. The Exercise has now, as it always has had, the remedy against any bad name. It need not and would not use it.

The discussion on Simpson tuning was most interesting and instructive. Perhaps, at a later time, we may return to it in these notes.

THANET RINGERS' OUTING

Once again the ringers of St. Lawrence, Thanet, were favoured with beautiful weather, when, on Whit-Monday, accompanied by their wives and the Vicar, they went for their annual tour. The party, numbering 33, left the church at 7.45 by charabanc, passing through Canterbury, Chilham and Charing, the first stop being made at Lenham, where an hour's good ringing was accomplished. The party then continued their journey to Maidstone, where a good spread was awaiting them at the Carlton Café, after which they visited the fine old Parish Church of All Saints, and enjoyed good touches on the fine peal of ten bells. At Biddenden another stop was made for an hour's ringing, some very good Stedman, Grandsire and Plain Bob being brought round. By the time Tenterden was reached the party were ready for the tea awaiting them. Afterwards an unexpected offer to ring on the beautiful peal of bells in the Parish Church was made (a previous peal attempt having broken down). The party were limited to time, but touches of Stedman, etc., were rung. Previous to this ringing, however, the Vicar, in a few kindly and encouraging remarks, said how happy he was to be one of such a happy party, and, on behalf of all, he thanked Mr. S. G. Twyman and Mr. W. G. Birch (the conductor and secretary respectively of the company), who had been responsible for making the arrangements of the day.—Messrs. Twyman and Birch replied in a few humorous words.—A most enjoyable day was brought to a fitting conclusion by the drive home in the cool of the evening through Ashford, Chilham and Canterbury, Thanet being reached at 11 p.m. The company wish to tender their thanks to the various Vicars for the use of the bells, which added so much to the pleasure of the outing; also to Mr. Arch Kay, of Ashford, for piloting them through some of the by-ways of the journey.

C. L. Routledge taking the chair, in the absence of the President (the Rev. A. W. Fisher), who regretted his inability to be present. Mr. E. Ferry (the hon. secretary of the association), Mr. Jos. W. Parker and Mr. Robt. Patterson (vice-president), of Sunderliand, etc., supported the chairman.

The Chairman thanked those present and others who were not there also for their kindly and generous support in providing the ringers' bell—the treble—in the new peal. He was pleased to say the money had been fully subscribed, and the fund was now closed.

Unfortunately, there was a competitive concert close by at the Town Hall, and the Cathedral ringing had to be abandoned.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

A Surrey youth, who, despite limited opportunities for peal ringing, is proving himself a promising ringer, is John F. Galyer. He is only 16 years of age, and started ringing about 18 months ago. He has already rung peals in methods up to London Surprise, and last week, as his first effort in peal conducting, called Holt's Original. Although the Exercise contains many young men of outstanding merit, this performance is a noteworthy one, and one upon which he is to be congratulated.

A curious difficulty has arisen at King's Langley, Herts. The Vicar has mislaid a letter from a band who desire to go there for an hour's ringing on a Saturday early in July, and, consequently, is unable to reply to the writer, for want of his name and address. The visitors, we are asked to say, will be welcome, but they are requested to communicate with Mr. R. S. Cook, High Street, King's Langley, giving the correct date and time.

The first peal of Grandsire Maximus rung out of London was achieved at Birmingham on June 12th, 1815.

The first peal at Lincoln Cathedral, where the ring of eight will, it is hoped, shortly be augmented to twelve by the ringers of the diocese in memory of their fellow-members who fell in the war, was rung forty years ago next Tuesday. It was Treble Bob Major, conducted by Mr. F. E. Dawe.

On June 16th, 1816 (110 years ago), a peal of 5080 Oxford Treble Bob Royal was rung by the Cumberland Youths at Shoreditch. In this peal William Booth, grandfather of the late Mr. C. H. Hattersley, took part. In those times, it was a three days' stage coach journey from Sheffield to London, so that the excursion was something of an undertaking.

Mr. Hattersley had in his possession the Cumberland's emblem, presented to Mr. Booth, and the autograph of William Shipway, as 'beadle,' dated June 9th, 1816. Mr. Booth rang in the first 'double-handed' peal of Oxford Treble Bob Major, in 1811. He died in 1849.

SIMPSON TUNING.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I have read various letters in your columns on the principle of 'Simpson Tuning,' or a similar system supposed to be used by Continental founders.

We have many good peals in this country cast by British founders, and I am very doubtful if experts who heard them ringing could tell us if they were tuned on the old system, or on the five-toned principle. I am of the opinion that the whole system is a farce and nonsense, and I believe the best results are had, only, from practical experience on the part of the bell founder.

It would be interesting, to founders especially, to see a sketch of a bell showing the thickness and position of the metal, and at the same time showing the difference in tuning to the Major 3rd and 5th, and Minor 3rd and Major 5th, and Minor 3rd and Minor 5th.—Yours faithfully,

THOMAS BOND.

CONDUCTORS—MORE OR LESS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir.—With the remarks of 'Criticus,' in your issue of May 28th regarding conductors, I quite agree, especially the phrase, 'On all numbers, peal ringing could do with a fillip, and perhaps it could be done if more conductors were encouraged.'

Since reading the above I have stood in an attempt for a peal in nine Minor methods, and we were fortunate (?) in having two qualified (?) conductors in the band.

All went well until we had reached the eighth method, when one of them, A, said that the bells were not in their proper order. B thought they were, and said, 'Keep on ringing.' During the next course A again expressed his doubts, again getting the same reply. In a few seconds he again clipped in, 'I'm sure they are not right.' B apparently was by now of the same opinion, for he called a bob, and then said, 'Stand,' after ringing two hours and ten minutes. On producing the figures it was found that all was in order, every bell being in its proper place.

Now I have changed my mind on this point (conductors), and thoroughly agree with friend 'Ironæus,' that all conductors ought to be filleted, and will gladly assist him in carrying out his idea, if he will provide the necessary battle-axes.

NINE METHODS (NEARLY).

SPICED MINOR.

At Lamberhurst, Kent, on Sunday, June 8th, for evening service, 720 Spiced Cambridge, Norfolk, Ipswich and Primrose: W. Marshall 1, G. Fuller 2, H. J. Hammond 3, A. Marshall 4, A. H. Smith 5, A. Relfe (conductor) 6. First 720 in four methods by all.

Ringers can learn all about ringing a 720 on the above lines by purchasing 'Method Splicing,' post free 1s. 3d., from 'The Ringing World' Office, Woking.

THE CENTRAL COUNCIL.

DEMAND FOR NO INTERFERENCE WITH METHOD NAMES.

Mr. J. A. Trollope then moved the amendment of which he had given notice, as follows:—That this Council, while urging on the Exercise the extreme importance of choosing suitable names for new methods, declines to interfere with such rights as bands and individual ringers at present enjoy of giving names to new methods. And, further, is of the opinion that no alteration should be made in the names of old and historical methods, except where urgently necessary. Mr. Trollope said they had been told that the names of methods were in a most indescribable state of confusion, and that statement was the justification for these thirteen resolutions which the committee had put before them. He denied entirely that there was any confusion. The names which they had for methods, taking them as a whole, were very effective, very suitable, and, from a literary point of view, quite good. They were told there was no system. The Exercise had been in existence for nearly 300 years, and for some of the method names they had to go back nearly as long as that. In all that time they had been inventing names, and different men had different ideas. It was true they had no system, but they were all good names. The second point was that even if names were capable of improvement they would not get improvement from any committee—he did not mean that particular committee, but any committee—simply because good things, like names, were the result of evolution; they were happy inspirations which a man got. A committee which sat down, with cast-iron rules before them, would not perhaps do anything very bad, but certainly would do nothing good. No committee would ever give them names which in any way would approach the oldest names they had. Double Norwich Court Bob Major was a name full of history, and so was London Scholars' Pleasure. What was the matter with names such as these? The committee wanted names of one word, and preferably of one syllable. Why on earth they wanted that, he (the speaker) did not know. The amendment which he had put down meant that they left things as they were. It was put very vaguely, and asked the Council to decline to interfere with such rights as bands and individuals now enjoyed. What the rights were that anybody had in the name of a method was altogether indefinable. It was a matter of common sense, compromise and good taste, and it was best to leave it at that. The second part of the amendment related to historical names, and in this he thought the Council ought not, for any reason whatever, to break the continuity of the history of the Exercise.

The Rev. C. D. P. Davies, in seconding, said they did not want to upset historical things, and they liked the names of methods to be, to a certain extent, indicative of their history as well as of their structure. He was, therefore, very much against altering names to which the Exercise had got accustomed, the names by which certain methods were well known, and had been well known for years, and, perhaps, for generations. Like 'Topsy' in 'Uncle Tom's Cabin,' they just 'grewed,' and there was no surer principle to be guided by than that. He did not say that he was against all the alterations which Mr. Burton's committee proposed, but he was strongly against a general uprooting of old names. He must say he should not be sorry to see the disappearance of the names 'Pasallatessa' and 'Pasallatria' which Mr. Law James invented, but, as a matter of principle, he was entirely with Mr. Trollope.

NAMES WITH A HISTORY.

The Rev. H. Law James said he was going to support the resolution, but that did not mean that he was going totally to disregard what Mr. Burton and Mr. Drake had done. First of all, with regard to 'British Scholars' Pleasure.' He was not familiar with the name, but it promptly raised the question in his mind, 'Who were the British Scholars?' There was history there somewhere, if somebody could find it out. It suggested at once that a search might produce information about the society. Just as the Union Scholars' book came to light, so somebody or other might find some record of the British Scholars, and the name should stand to keep that historical fact alive. Then there was College Bob IV.; it was a horrid name, but it told him that there were four methods known as College Bob. The first was naturally called College Single. The second and third he had never heard of, but the fourth had come down to them. It meant that in the early days the College Youths rang these different methods, and named them in that way, and because there was history in the name it was best left alone. Then there was London Scholars' Pleasure. They had all heard of the London Scholars. Unfortunately, their books had disappeared, but they were represented to-day by the Cumberland Youths, and he did not think they should tread on their toes by altering the name which implied that the first 720 was rung by them centuries ago. As to 'Pasallatessa' and 'Pasallatria,' he was not a literary man; he was a science man, and when he went through the classification of methods he found two classes which had never been noticed, and he had to get them in somehow or other. He, therefore, did what every science man did, he coined them out of Greek roots. He was not going to fight for these two names; they could alter them if they liked. The meaning of one was 'All except four,' and the other, 'All except three.'

The Rev. H. Drake, referring to the names which it is proposed to give to the new collection of Plain Major Methods, agreed that the names were a very fine set, but some had already been used for other methods. He did not see how Mr. James could say that the Nomenclature Committee had interfered with the appearance of the book, as they let the question of the sub-titles drop, and they understood the Methods Committee were going on.

The Rev. H. Law James: I didn't understand so, so there it must rest as a misunderstanding.

Mr. W. A. Cave said very few would be able to vote either for the resolution or for the amendment, because some of the old names they wished to see retained, and some of them they wanted to see 'go west.' He thought they should go through the list line by line, and vote on whether they wished to keep or reject them.

Mr. E. W. Ewell (Chester Guild) supported the amendment, which, if carried, would meet the wishes of his Guild, which had taken a large part in naming methods scientifically. In the last few years they had taken care to give similar names to methods of the same class, but the Nomenclature Committee seemed to be trying to undo the classified distinction which the Chester Guild members had made, and which had been made in accordance with the good old Yorkshire custom of two hundred years ago, and about which there was nothing funny or silly. They must, he said, make a protest for the right of ringers, as in the past, to ring methods and name them; in any event let them preserve the rights of the ringers of the past and preserve as an honourable trust for the future the old and glorious heritage of their ringing craft (applause).

After the luncheon interval, which was taken at this stage, Mr. J. S. Pritchett spoke in support of the amendment. He said the difficulty that the Council felt was undoubtedly that of debating en masse what was really a multiplicity of resolutions. It would take a week to discuss the report line by line. Each of the resolutions invited amendment and prolonged discussion. He thought the committee had begun at the wrong end by proposing wholesale changes, involving so much controversial matter. They would better have begun at the other end by proposing to reform the worst of the abuses in nomenclature, and then proceeding gradually upward. He thought the amendment afforded them that opportunity, as it laid down lines on which it suggested the committee should proceed, and concluded by saying, 'and is further of opinion that no alteration should be made in names of old and historical methods except where urgently necessary,' leaving it open to the committee in the future to bring forward changes which they thought to be urgently necessary. If they confined themselves to a less elaborate report they should be able to deal with it in a short period of time. Personally he objected to very much in the report. He saw no harm in the adoption of names of flowers for six-bell methods. He thought the list given in the committee's report, and which they proposed to alter, was a charming list—one could hardly imagine a more charming one. He much preferred them to affixing the names of towns to every method indiscriminately—that was a soulless method. There was no connection between the method and the town, and he wondered if the ringers of the various towns had been consulted before the names were foisted upon them. He agreed with what had been said about the preservation of historical names, and he agreed that those which were not historical and were uncouth might be altered. Where names were duplicated the Council might select one name, and if this course was followed they might make some progress in the subject.

COMMITTEE ONLY ACTING ON INSTRUCTIONS.

The Rev. H. Drake said, having listened carefully to what had been said in support of it, he could not see why this had been moved as an amendment. The committee had discussed the amendment, and agreed with it, and if the proposer would put it as a rider and not an amendment, they would all be agreed. The committee did not want to make great alterations. He agreed with everything Mr. Pritchett had said. The unfortunate part of the matter was that the committee were asked by the Council to propose some way of getting rid of these floral names, and what, therefore, was the use of blaming the committee when they had done only what the Council had asked them to do? He would not have opposed them himself, but at the London meeting he was put forward by those who did object to these names, and he brought up a resolution which resulted in the committee being formed. That committee was the result of the opposition to the floral names, and the Council could not blame the committee for what they had done, they could only blame themselves. The committee had made a list of the names to which they thought anyone could take exception, and had substituted others for them; it was for the Council to say whether they wanted them altered or not. Personally he did not think all of them ought to be accepted, and he had asked, in the pages of 'The Ringing World,' that those changes which were objected to should be mentioned. They had half-a-dozen mentioned by Mr. Trollope, and he had been asked by the treasurer of the Suffolk Guild, who was not a member of the Council, to propose two other names. When the time came he would propose that these six or eight names should be left out, and they could then, perhaps, get a division on the question of the floral names. With regard to the old and historical names, they had not proposed that these should be altered, except those two of which so much had been made.

London Scholars' Pleasure and British Scholars' Pleasure. They were the only two that were historical, and the amendment before them said that, if necessary, historical names should be altered. If they passed a resolution that only one word should be used in a name, it was necessary to alter these names; if they did not pass that resolution these names could be left standing. His own suggestion was that these historical names should be used as a sub-title, so that, for instance, in ringing they would call 'Go, Lambeth,' but in the record they would describe the method as 'Lambeth (London Scholars' Pleasure).' Thus they would keep their historical names, and have a convenient one-word name for the method. There were two things in their former report which the committee had dropped; one was the question of classification, and they had also dropped the words, to which Mr. Trollope took so much exception, that the names were in a state of 'indescribable confusion,' and they left it in the hands of the Council to say whether they were in a state of confusion or not. All the committee said was that there was 'confusion'; it might not be great, but here was an opportunity, brought about by the opposition to floral terms, to clear up the difficulties. Mr. Drake illustrated his point by an instance in which he was concerned. They had been discussing in the tower the ringing of Oxford Bob, and afterwards started to ring it, but in the band was one who was not present when the discussion took place. The conductor said, 'Go, Oxford,' and the ringer mentioned started for Oxford Treble Bob. There was one of the practical difficulties in having names liable to confusion. They ought to pass Mr. Trollope's proposal as a rider, and not as an amendment. The committee would then not waste all the work they had done, but would carry on on somewhat different lines to what they had done.

The suggestion to make the amendment a rider was not accepted, and, on being put, was declared carried by 29 votes to three. It was then put and carried as a substantive motion, and the report of the committee therefore fell to the ground.

THE COLLECTION OF PLAIN MAJOR METHODS.

The Council then returned to the proposal of the Methods Committee that they should proceed at once to print 300 copies of the Collection of Plain Major Methods, which was formally proposed by the Rev. H. Law James.

Mr. Burton again called attention to the fact that if the names proposed by the committee for the new methods were allowed to stand there were three or four which had been employed in the past, and, perhaps, entitled to be considered historical. To use these names still further would lead to additional confusion.

The Rev. H. Law James: I think Mr. Burton is entirely mistaken.

Mr. Trollope said he took careful note of the hints Mr. Burton made, and so far as it was possible every suggestion he made was followed. The only ones where Mr. Burton's suggestions were not acted on were Cambridge Court and Cambridge Surprise. The methods had been rung under these names, and they had no right to alter them. They also held that sub-titles were outside the scope of the Nomenclature Committee. Otherwise, everything that committee recommended received the Methods Committee's best attention, and was followed out. The Methods Committee held themselves responsible for everything in the proposed new book, including the names, under the terms of the reference to them, until such time as it was handed over to the Council.

Mr. Burton said 'Cambridge' was already used three times; then there was St. Clement's Court Bob and Trinity Court, which had been used before, while the word 'London' already appeared in methods six times. Hereward Bob was already a name used in the Minor methods. Then there was Dublin Court introduced, when there was already a well-known method called Dublin Surprise. They also suggested a change in the name of Llangollen Court, which no Englishman could properly pronounce.

Mr. Trollope: Every one of those names was in existence before; we have only acted on the facts.

The President appealed to the members of these two committees to come to an amicable agreement.

The Rev. H. Law James: If they will drop the whole thing a great deal of good will result from the discussion, and, in the future, things will go on smoothly.

Mr. Burton: I was prepared to accept that, but Mr. James did not give me the chance.

The Rev. H. Law James: We want next year to revise the Minor Methods, and we shall pay careful attention to what has been said about the names.

The motion to print 300 copies of the Major Method Collection was thereupon put to the meeting and carried.

ESSEX ASSOCIATION.

ANNUAL MEETING AT CHELMSFORD.

Ringers from all parts of Essex assembled in large numbers at Chelmsford on Whit-Monday for the 47th annual meeting of the Essex Association. During the morning and afternoon the twelve bells in Chelmsford Cathedral tower were rung by visitors, and touches were also rung at the following neighbouring church towers:—Writtle (8), Wulford (8), Great Baddow (8), Great Waltham (8), Springfield (8), Broomfield (6), Boreham (8). There was a large congregation of ringers for the special service in the Cathedral, the Association's form of service being used. The Rev. Canon Lake, sub-Dean of the Cathedral, conducted the service, and Mr. C. H. Howard (Brintree) read the lesson.

The Bishop of Colchester, who gave the address from the lectern, said Christians did not thank God as much as they might. They were ready to pray to God, but not always so ready to praise Him. Their lives ought to be full of praise and thanksgiving. The note he desired to strike was the note of praise. Most of the ringers did prize in a wonderful way the beautiful old churches in our dearly-loved land, but it was not possible to over-estimate what the churches of this land meant for England and the world. We could not thank God enough for the village churches—those houses of God all over the land consecrated in ages past to pious uses, and consecrated in every generation by the prayers of good men and women. How much those churches had meant to England through the long centuries it was impossible to estimate. The bellry was an important part of the House of God, and again it was hardly possible to think of England for the last 1,500 years without its bellries and its bells inviting people to the House of God. The bells rang when men and women were united in holy bond, and they rang again at the parting of soul and body. How much had the bells been to this land, and how delighted the people had been to listen when they spoke of God, of heaven, and of prayer. They called to prayer and praise; they filled people's hearts with gladness. He knew how much the Church owed to the devoted band of men who year in and year out officiated with such devotion and skill at the ringing of the bells. They were always ready to do their work, they were keen upon it, and anxious to go on ringing as long as they had the strength to fulfil their duty they felt God had placed upon them. They made great efforts to do their work in the best possible way, and they had the grace of perseverance. All men who were Christian in anything more than name had to face the question what God wanted them to do for His Glory, for the good of souls, and for the benefit of His Church. Every Christian had to decide that for himself, and the bellringers felt called to this beautiful work. As servants of God they served Him by ringing the bells, not for self, but for the love of God and His Church.

EXCELLENT WORK ACCOMPLISHED.

The annual business meeting was held at the Cathedral Hall, Mr. C. H. Howard, Master of the Association, presiding, supported by the Bishop of Colchester, Canon Lake, the Rev. H. T. W. Eyre (a former hon. sec. to the Association), and Mr. E. J. Pitstow (Saffron Walden), general hon. secretary and treasurer to the Association.

The Master read his report for the year 1925 as follows:—Although our membership again shows a slight decline, some very excellent work has been accomplished in the past year. It has been found necessary to again strike out a considerable number of names due to non-payment of subscriptions and other causes. This falling off in numbers to 996 does not indicate that the Association is slackening its efforts, or is losing its influence in the diocese. On the contrary, never in its existence was the enthusiasm of its members more pronounced or the results more encouraging. More meetings are held each year with increased attendances, and the Association is successfully carrying out the aims for which it was formed. A very satisfactory feature is that in nearly every contemplated restoration or bellry improvement, we have an opportunity of offering advice. My position as a member of the Diocesan Advisory Board brings to my knowledge the proposals that are contemplated in bellry improvements, and as a representative of the Board I am pleased to have the privilege of visiting the towers to give advice and to make reports to the Board, where applications for faculties for carrying out the work are necessary. Several district meetings were held in parishes where change ringing is not practised. There is a need for more meetings for propaganda, especially in the rural districts, to stimulate interest and to bring new members into our ranks. The joint meeting with the Middlesex Association at Waltham Abbey was a great success. Such gatherings give opportunity for friendly intercourse with our neighbours, and it is hoped this practice may be extended in the future. An unusual number of bellry improvements have been carried out or are in hand. At Little Baddow the old ring of four has been rehung, a new bell replaces the cracked mediæval one, and a treble added to make a ring of five. The ring of five at St. Leonard's, Colchester, is to be rehung with provision for augmentation to eight at some future date. Two trebles are to be added at Kirby-le-Soken to complete the octave. At Newport, the second and fourth are to be reconstituted, the remaining four bells are to be returned, and the whole rehung. The ring of eight at Galleywood is being rehung, and rope guides are to be fixed. The three trebles at Great Dunmow have been recast, the three tenors returned, and the whole rehung in a new iron frame for eight. A fund is being raised to complete the octave, which it is hoped will be accomplished within a year. It is also contemplated rehanging the rings of five at Morten and Great C'acton. Sixty peals have been rung during the year: fifty-eight on tower bells and two on handbells, viz., Cambridge Surprise Maximus and Stedman Cinques, 1 each; Treble Bob Royal, 2; Grandsire Caters, 1; Bristol Surprise Major, 2; London Surprise, 9; Cambridge Surprise, 9; Superlative Surprise, 11; Double Norwich Court Bob Major, 1; Treble Bob Major, 7; Bob Major, 1; Grandsire Triples, 3; Cambridge Surprise Minor, 2; Seven Surprise Methods, 1; Minor in three methods, 3; Bob Minor, 2; Doubles, 2; and Bob Major on handbells, 2. Of these, no less than 31 were conducted by Mr. W. Keeble, to whom the Association is indebted for his indefatigable energy in assisting numerous young ringers to score their first Surprise Peal. In four cases it was the first peal on the bells; the first peal in the method on the bells in 15 towers; while 23 members rang their first peal, and 29 first in the method. We have lost, by death, Rev. A. F. Curtis, sometime Vicar of Feering. The deceased always took a deep interest in our work, and was a regular attendant when meetings were held in his parish. Mr. A. Mansfield, of Maldon, was for many years a member, and his death is a great loss to us. We shall also greatly miss Mr. J. Oswick, of Chelmsford, the Cathedral verger, who was a familiar figure at the service at our annual gathering.

FLOURISHING FINANCES.

Financially, continued the report, we are in a very flourishing condition. Exclusive of interest on the Reserve Fund, our income was £90 19s. 5d., and expenses £46 0s. 4d., which enables £15 to be transferred to the Reserve Fund, leaving a balance in hand of £28 5s. The total Reserve Fund now stands at £121 17s., showing an increase for the year of £19 9s. 5d. As a result of the resolution passed at the last annual meeting a new fund is formed, to be called the Bell Restoration Fund. We have always regarded it as an important part of our work to encourage restorations and belfry improvements. The creation of this fund will enable us to show our practical interest by contributions to assist local efforts in needy cases where improvements are being carried out. The continued success of the Association is due to the loyalty of the district officers and the efficient manner in which they carry out their respective duties. In conclusion, I would like to express appreciation of the warm welcome and encouragement received from the clergy when visiting their parishes. It is a privilege, with great responsibilities, to be entrusted with the ringing of the bells summoning the people to assemble in God's House of Prayer for public worship. If the music of the bells is to convey to the ears of the listeners their true message, we must see that 'We walk worthy of the vocation wherewith we are called.'

The Master, commenting on the year's balance sheet, said the expenses of the Association were very low, due to the great care with which the treasurer and general secretary carried out their duties, and the Association was much indebted to Mr. Pitslow for the interest he took in the finances; the economy shown was also due to the district secretaries. The Master also referred to the absence of Mr. W. H. Dyson, hon. secretary to the Northern Division (who wrote regretting he was unable to attend, due to illness, and sending kind remembrances to old friends), and stated Mr. Dyson was one of the founders of the Association. He had not been well for some time, but the members hoped, in the course of a few weeks, Mr. Dyson would be able to get about again.—It was decided to send a letter of best wishes to Mr. Dyson, with the hope he would soon recover his health.

THE MASTER'S LONG SERVICE.

For the election of officers the Master temporarily vacated the chair, which was occupied by the Bishop of Colchester. Mr. E. J. Butler proposed the re-election of Mr. C. H. Howard as Master. He had occupied the post for a great number of years, and the members looked forward to Mr. Howard continuing for at least another three years, because the Essex Association would be celebrating its jubilee. Mr. Howard had done good work for the Association, which the members appreciated.—The motion was seconded, and carried unanimously.

Mr. Howard, in resuming the chair, said he was extremely obliged to the members for their renewal of confidence. He had been Master of the Association for 18 years, so that in three years' time, when the Association celebrated its jubilee, he would be coming-of-age at the same time. He attended his first meeting of the Essex Association in 1886, when the Rev. H. A. Cockey retired and Canon Papillon was elected hon. secretary. The Master said he looked back over the 40 years with pleasure, for the Essex Association had made great progress during that period. It had been his pleasure to attend every meeting but one in that time, and he always regretted that he missed one. As long as he was Master he should make the annual meeting of the Essex Association a fixture, whenever and wherever it might be held.

Mr. F. J. Pitslow, Saffron Walden, was re-elected hon. secretary and treasurer; the Rev. H. T. W. Eyre, Messrs. W. Lincoln, T. Faulkner, F. Donch, with the Master, secretary, district masters, secretaries and auditors, were re-elected the General Committee; Messrs. F. Pitslow, T. Faulkner, G. R. Pye and W. Keeble were re-elected the Peal Committee; Messrs. C. H. Howard, G. S. Pye, W. J. Nevard and

E. J. Butler were elected representatives on the Central Council, and Messrs. W. H. Theobald and G. W. Falkner were re-appointed auditors. One new member was admitted, and the admission of two, elected at Feering tower previous to a peal attempt, was confirmed.

PUBLICATION OF 'TOUCHES' IN 'THE RINGING WORLD.'

Mr. E. J. Butler stated that he wished to raise the question of the editor of 'The Ringing World' having declined to publish in that paper records of touches of less than quarter-peal or 720 changes. He said 'The Ringing World' made strong appeals for more support, and he considered the paper would get better support if it were to encourage young ringers by publishing the shorter touches, which would create interest. He moved that the secretary to the Essex Association be asked to write to the editor of 'The Ringing World' on the matter.

The Master said he was in agreement with Mr. Butler that it would be to the interest of 'The Ringing World' if more space was given to the shorter touches, which would be an encouragement to younger ringers. 'The Ringing World' was the only paper that devoted the whole of its columns to ringing matters. It was not intended by this proposal to make an attack upon the editor, but to ask him to reconsider his decision.

The motion was carried, and the general secretary was directed to write to the editor of 'The Ringing World,' as suggested.

Mr. Pitslow proposed thanks to Mr. H. Edwards, who had written up the peal book.—The Rev. H. T. W. Eyre proposed thanks to Canon Lake for the service at the Cathedral, and to the Bishop of Colchester for his address, and to the various incumbents for the use of the bells.

The Bishop of Colchester, in reply, said he was very pleased to be with the Essex ringers on Whit-Monday. One of the great regrets of his life was that he never had the opportunity when a boy to learn to ring, because there was no belfry in the church where his father was near, but he saw that his children had the opportunity to ring, and his eldest son, who was killed in France in the first year of the war, was an accomplished ringer, and, when he went to Cambridge, joined the University Guild.—Canon Lake, in reply, welcomed the ringers to Chelmsford, and mentioned that when he began as a curate in Oxford he once tried to learn ringing, but had to let go the rope, and that was the first and last attempt he made to ring. He thanked the Essex ringers for the honour they paid Chelmsford in visiting it for their annual festival.

Luncheon was served, and ringing continued in the afternoon and evening.

Among the various touches rung were: Grandsire and Stedman Cinques, Treble Bob and Cambridge Royal, London, Cambridge and Superlative Major, Double Norwich Major, Stedman and Grandsire Triples, and various Minor methods.

[We are giving earnest consideration to the suggestion put forward at the Essex meeting, but, in view of the large number of long touches which at present are sent for publication, it would be no easy matter, having regard to the limitations of space, to give effect to the proposal. We hope, however, shortly to be able to make an announcement on the subject, and to give the suggested encouragement to young ringers, by the incorporation of a new feature.—Ed. 'R.W.']

SOCIETY OF ROYAL CUMBERLAND YOUTHS DEDICATION OF WAR MEMORIAL.

The arrangements for the dedication on Saturday, June 26th, of the War Memorial to members of the Royal Cumberland Youths, and a Queen Alexandra peal tablet, both of which are being placed in the porch of St. Leonard's Church, Shoreditch, are as follows:—

Ringling at Bethnal Green from 1 p.m.—2.30.

Ringling at Shoreditch from 2.30—3.30.

Dedication at 3.30. Address by the Rev. W. Pennington Bickford, Rector of St. Clement Danes'.

Ringling at St. Dunstan's-in-the-East from 4.30.

Ringling at St. Martin's-in-the-Field, 4.45—6.

Ringling at St. Clement Danes', 6—7.

The large room at the Bedford Head Hotel, Maiden Lane, Strand, has been reserved from 7 p.m. for the purpose of a reunion of old and new ringing friends, and all are cordially invited.

PONTYPRIDD RINGERS' TRIP.

The ringers of St. Catherine's Church, Pontypridd, had an outing on Whitsun-Tuesday, when they made a long tour by bus and car. Leaving Pontypridd at 9 a.m., they visited Whitechurch, where they rang Grandsire Doubles; Radyr, where the bells proved the best handled during the day, and where Grandsire Triples was rung; Llandaff, where they were met by Messrs. Hobbs and Dawes, and again rang Grandsire Triples; St. John's, Cardiff (Grandsire Triples and Caters); and Marshfield (Grandsire Triples). The ringers wish to thank the incumbents and ringers at all the towers visited for their kindness, the Vicar and churchwardens of Pontypridd for generously providing the outing, and Mr. Ridgway for making the arrangements.

SUPERLATIVE SURPRISE ROYAL. ANOTHER PEAL AFTER A CENTURY'S INTERVAL.

In our issue of March 26th we gave the record of the first peal of Superlative Surprise Royal, which was rung at Wakefield on March 27th 1826, and suggested that the centenary of the event might well be commemorated by another peal in that method.

Last Saturday a peal in the same method, namely, that given by Shipway, was rung at Ewerby, Lines, by a Lincoln Diocesan Guild band, conducted by the Rev. H. Law James. We are not aware of any peal of Superlative Royal having been rung in the interval, and the Ewerby peal is therefore not only an interesting but an outstanding performance.

The composition of the peal rung on Saturday is as follows:—

GLOUCESTER AND BRISTOL DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION BRISTOL BRANCH MEETING.

The monthly meeting of the Bristol branch was held at Olveston on Saturday, May 29th, when the following towers were represented: Bristol (St. Matthew's, St. Michael's, St. Nicholas', St. Philip's and St. Stephen's), Henbury, Mangotsfield, Olveston and Stoke Bishop, while visitors were present from Bath, the total attendance being 35. The bells, a fine peal of eight, were raised in peal at 3 o'clock, and a few learners took advantage of the opportunity offered and rang courses of Stedman and Grandsire Triples.

A well-attended service was held, at which the Vicar (Rev. Canon W. H. Fisher) officiated, and the ringers heartily joined in the service.

Tea followed in Mr. George White's barn, which had been decorated for the occasion. The building is set amidst beautiful surroundings.

At the business meeting, which followed, the Chairman (Mr. J. Gould) welcomed their ringing visitors, Miss N. G. Williams, Messrs. C. W. Bell, F. W. Canning and F. C. Rich, of Bath.

Mr. Pitcher, the local secretary, on behalf of Canon Fisher, gave them all a hearty welcome, and regretted that at the last moment the Vicar was unable to be present at the meeting.

Mrs. H. Bennett was elected associate member, and Messrs. Check, E. H. and W. Haskins, and T. Parker were elected performing members.

It was resolved (after a very interesting discussion about the next meeting at Dyrham) that the members take train to Staple Hill, and thence to Dyrham by motors. Notice of this meeting will appear in due course in 'The Ringing World.'

The Chairman proposed, and Mr. J. Jefferies seconded, that a hearty vote of thanks be given to the Vicar (who was a true ringers' friend), also to the organist, and Mr. Harding, in a humorous speech, proposed a vote of thanks to Mr. White for providing such a bountiful tea. He also said how pleased they were to welcome their secretary back again.

This concluded the business, and the members enjoyed the stroll through the well-kept gardens. Nature was looking at her best.

The tower was afterwards revisited, and touches of Stedman and Grandsire Triples and Cambridge Surprise Major ended a very successful and pleasant meeting.

THE IRISH ASSOCIATION.

The annual meeting of the Irish Association took place in Dublin on Whit-Monday, when members attended from places as far distant as Bangor in the North to Waterford in the South.

The various rings in the City were made good use of during the day.

Eighty-two members sat down to luncheon at the Central Hotel, Exchequer Street, after which the business was proceeded with, the President (Mr. D. Kennedy) occupying the chair.

Mr. C. Evans (Arklow) was elected president, Mr. W. E. Lynch hon. treasurer and Mr. G. Lindoff hon. secretary.

The shield was presented to the Arklow Society, who were congratulated upon winning with 100 per cent.

Twenty-five new members were elected, including the Bangor Society. Belfast was selected as the place for the next annual meeting.

EALING RINGERS' OUTING.

On Whit-Monday the ringers of St. Mary's, Ealing, held their fifth annual outing. Leaving shortly after 8 a.m., the party quickly made themselves comfortable in the small, speedy charabanc. After a ride across London, the open road was reached on the fringe of Epping Forest. The drive through the Forest was much enjoyed. Sawbridgeworth was reached shortly after ten o'clock. An inquiry of a passer-by as to the whereabouts of the church revealed the fact that our informant was none other than the foreman of the local ringers. Truly a strange coincidence! Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Plain Bob and Kent Major were rung on the bells. Messrs. Turling and Bird joining in the ringing. The journey was then resumed for Cambridge. Immediately on arrival, luncheon was partaken of at the Livingstone Restaurant. The students being 'up,' no ringing was available. Some of the party spent the afternoon boating on the Cam, and others—well, that is best known to themselves. After tea, the road to St. Neots was taken, and Bourn reached about 6.15 p.m. Various methods were rung on the new peal of eight by Taylor and Co., and the tone of the bells was much admired. After leaving expressions of appreciation and thanks at the Vicarage, the 'last lap' was commenced. Shortly after leaving Ware, one of the rear tyres gave up the ghost, and a change of wheel became necessary. Curiously enough, the charabanc stopped immediately outside a wayside refreshment hut, and it is a matter of conjecture how much commission the driver charged the proprietor on the large sale of tea, etc., that resulted. The new arterial road had not been traversed many miles before a sharp hissing in the region of the rear wheels made it evident that another puncture had been contracted. No coffee stall being handy, the handbell experts rang some touches by the wayside, the moon casting a dim light on the strange scene. No further breakdowns occurred, and Ealing was reached an hour late. The party wish to express their hearty thanks, through the medium of 'The Ringing World,' to the Vicars of Bourn and Sawbridgeworth, Messrs. Turling and Dew, of Sawbridgeworth and Bishop's Stortford respectively, for their kind assistance.

It has been decided to close the above memorial fund at the end of June. ### WANTED—THE LOCAL ENTHUSIAST.

'The Guild's greatest need to-day is the "local enthusiast." Thus the master of the Oxford Diocesan Guild in his annual report. The statement is prompted by the fact that considerable bell restoration is going on throughout the Oxford diocese, and by the anxiety, which is not unnatural, that these bells may not be left sooner or later without anyone specially responsible for their ringing. This is, however, not merely an Oxford Guild matter; there is here food for thought among all our associations. 'It is the "enthusiast" that is needed,' adds the Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn, 'mere names and numbers are not enough.'

The question which may well be asked is: Are the bells of our churches, as a whole, being used and tended to the extent that they ought to be, or are there not far too many instances to be found in every diocese and county where the ringers are indifferent to the art and even to the duty which they owe the church, as well as being negligent of the bells which are actually in their charge? Association meetings may be well attended, peal ringing may even flourish, but an analysis of these two things, which to some extent are taken as the guide to the success or otherwise of an association, would probably show that there is really only a very small proportion of the ringers who are thus actively interested in the art, and that in considerable degree it is practically the same men who time after time attend the meetings, and whose names figure in the peals. If one could feel satisfied that all the others, while not able to attend meetings or to take part in peal ringing, were nevertheless displaying a genuine interest in keeping going the bells in their own parishes, there would be ground for gratification, but we know that with comparatively few exceptions it is not so. It is true that there was never a time when change ringing had so many devotees as it has to-day, but there is also an apathy so marked as to be almost the despair of association officials. Doubtless the many counter-attractions of the age are to a large extent responsible. They sap the interest of young men, while the older ones, discouraged by the unprofitable results of their efforts, gradually have their patience worn out, and end in a condition of indifference. Service ringing as well as the art itself suffers and we join with the Master of the Oxford Guild in his appeal to all who love church bell ringing to bestir themselves, if the art is to be maintained in our land. These are difficult days in many respects, and the call for the 'local enthusiast' is urgent. The associations can help and help greatly. They ought not to be content until at every church with a ringable peal of bells there is a band not only capable but willing to ring

'CONDUCTORS—MORE OR LESS'

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—With regard to the letter of 'Nine Methods (Nearly),' it appears to have been a case of too many cooks (or conductors) spoiling the broth (or peal). One hopes that if and when a battle-axe arrives the fair arm of 'Nine Methods (Nearly)' (rumoured to be one of the gentler sex), will be strong enough to wield it, so that both of the qualified (P) conductors may be quickly put out of their misery, and may not die a lingering death, which, however, one must admit they deserve.

By the way, it would be interesting to know if 'Nine Methods (Nearly)' really did write the letter, or whether he or she received any inspiration from an outside source.—Yours truly,

'DOUBTFUL'

NOTES BY THE WAY.

WHAT OTHERS THINK—METHOD NAMES.

BY J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

The Ipswich newspapers sent their reporters to the Central Council meeting and next day the 'East Anglian Times' had a full column on the proceedings. A good deal of it was occupied by the debate on methods' names, and as I read it I rather wondered what the general public would make of it all. Our good, old-fashioned names, Treble Bob Major, Grandsire Triples, have always had something of a fascination for outsiders, though they usually get them wrong. Now Mr. Symonds has sent me a cutting from the 'Suffolk Chronicle and Mercury,' thinking it might interest the readers of 'The Ringing World.' The writer is evidently not one of the large number of people who like bells, and I gather he takes frequent opportunities of expressing his opinion. He is one of those whose role is to play the funny man. Nobody pays much attention to such and I doubt whether he takes himself seriously. I can assure him if he should read these notes (which is unlikely) that we do not. However, since it is sometimes amusing to read what other people think, or say they think of us, here is his effusion:—

I think most of my readers know by this time, from remarks I have made, how much I love bellringers. Whenever I hear them begin to ring on Sunday mornings, I always think of the man mentioned in Scripture who always had a trumpet sounded before him when he started out to go to church, or wherever it was he went to say his prayers. There is no occasion to sound trumpets to-day, nor bells, because everyone carries a watch in his pocket. But a report in the 'East Anglian Daily Times' of the past week reports a disagreement amongst the bellringers themselves. Some of them want to abolish the old nomenclature of the peals, such as Bob Major, Grandsire Triples, College Bob Four, Kent Delight, etc., and replace them by modern designations, and it was suggested that names like Woodbridge, Kenilworth, Preston, etc., should be substituted. Now, when I hear the infernal clanging of the bells from the steeples, I have not the least idea whether they are ringing single Bob, married Bob, or any other Bob, and I don't care. They are all equally offensive when one wants to do quiet work. But some people are never satisfied unless they are upsetting old traditions, and if they must do this, why not localise the names? I beg to submit some suggestions.

Preston and Kenilworth have no connection with Ipswich, so why introduce them here? Give the peals local names. For instance, Bob Major might be called 'Running Buck' or 'Light Tolly.' Grandsire Triples might be 'Saracen's Head,' or 'No. 1 Bass,' and College Bob fours 'Halberd' or 'Cobbold's Stout.' These would soon be familiar to the ringers of St. Margaret's—if they are not so now. Then, if the tower ringers preferred their own names, let them adopt the 'White Horse,' 'Mixed Vermouth,' the 'Crown and Anchor,' and 'Gin and Angostura.' Then, possibly, the townfolk might get reconciled to the sound of the bells, but it might also lead to discussions as to whether St. Margaret's were ringing—'Light Tolly' or 'Cobbold's Stout.' I suppose, however, the 'unco' guild' would say this would lead to betting. Well, why not? Now that we are to have a tax on betting, we may as least hope for a small reduction on the income tax.

By-the-by, does anybody know who Bob Major was? Is he any relation to Major's Corner? If not, why not? And if you carry this matter still further, who was the major who gave the name to Major's Corner? These are matters of Ipswich history, and I should be glad to have them elucidated. Is there a schoolmaster in the town who could give his scholars information on the subject?

Detailed comment seems uncalled for but I am rather surprised that a man should think it worth while nowadays to repeat or at any rate to insinuate the old charge against ringers of being too fond of public-houses. I do not think that ringers were ever in this matter worse than the generality of men, and if they were it was a long time ago. Thirty years ago the charge was a libel, to-day it is simply ridiculous. The writer is hopelessly out of date.

And now I think I ought to refer to the leading article of last week's issue of 'The Ringing World.' I have found out that the Editor speaks for a no small number of ringers when he expresses regret that through my amendment the Council rejected the report of the Nomenclature

Committee, but I do think after a very considerable experience of the Council's work that the lines on which that report was drawn were wrong. Ringing is a progressive and continually growing art and the duty of the Council and its Committee is to further that progress. This can only be done by educating ringers. What you have to do is to get them to realise for themselves what is best. We want good names for our methods. Well, I think we shall realise this by letting ringers see that the Exercise expects that they must do the very best they can in this matter; and not by trying to take the whole thing out of their hands and putting it into the hands of a Committee. After all, a system that has grown up out of the three hundred years' experience of the Exercise has something to say for itself. Nor do I think the Council can justly be accused of vacillation because it 'declined to interfere with the rights that ringers and bands at present enjoy' and yet directed the Analysis Committee to carry out a wholesale naming of methods of which they were not the authors and which they had not rung. You must remember that the methods first appeared in a book of the Council's, that their author (if there is such a thing) was the Method Committee acting for the Council (actually Mr. Law James first worked them out); and that the Method Committee suggested that the Analysis Committee should do the naming. So the Council had full rights in the matter just as it would have full rights in the naming of the new methods in the Major Collection now in the press.

I sympathise to the full with the idea which is in the editor's mind. He wants the best and nothing but the best for the Exercise in naming of methods as in other things. It is only a question of ways and means. He thinks that reform can be had on the lines of the Nomenclature Report. I do not think so, and I get my opinion from the experience I have had in the Methods Committee.

DUDLEY AND DISTRICT GUILD.

SUCCESSFUL MEETING AT WOMBOURNE.

A quarterly meeting of this Guild was held at St. Benedict's Church, Wombourne, on Saturday, June 5th, when over thirty members and friends were present, it being an ideal summer afternoon. The following towers, among others in union with the Guild, were represented, viz.: Coseley, Dudley, Sedgley, Old Hill, Smethwick, Oldswinford, Kingswinford, and Wombourne. The bells (eight) were placed at the disposal of the members from 3 o'clock, and service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. H. L. Langley), who also gave an inspiring and helpful address.

At the close of the service an adjournment was made to the Vicarage gardens, placed at the disposal of the visitors by the Vicar and Mrs. Langley, where tea was partaken of on the lawn, and, needless to say, was greatly appreciated. At the business meeting which followed the Vicar presided, and it was proposed that the next quarterly meeting be held at Oldswinford, subject to the consent of the Rector and local ringers being obtained.—It was decided to leave the arrangements for the quarterly peal attempt in the hands of the ringing master.

Several new members were added to the roll at the conclusion of the meeting on the proposition of Mr. E. Mason, seconded by Mr. J. Price, and supported by the ringing master (Mr. John Goodman, jun.). A hearty vote of thanks was given, in the Black Country fashion, to the Vicar of Wombourne for his kindness in welcoming the Guild to his church and parish, for conducting the service in church, also for his able address, for the use of the tower and bells, and for the pleasure and the privilege of using his beautiful gardens and lawns. Thanks were also given to the ladies for preparing and serving the tea and looking after the comfort of those present; to the organist and choir boys for their share in the musical part of the service. The Vicar suitably replied on behalf of all concerned, and thanked the members for their appreciation of what had been done for them.

Afterwards some of the members made their way back to the tower for more ringing, whilst others stayed for a game of cricket, and others strolled round the beautiful gardens until the time came only too soon for the party to disperse, after a most happy and enjoyable afternoon. Thanks are tendered to Mr. E. T. Thorpe and his fellow-ringers for making the necessary arrangements for so successful a meeting.

DURHAM AND NEWCASTLE DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION THE HUDSON MEMORIAL.

The Whit-Monday meeting was held at West Hartlepool, where twenty-five sat down to dinner. In the absence of the president (who was prevented by parochial duties from attending), Mr. E. L. Patterson, vice-president of the eastern district, presided over the committee and general meeting. This meeting was not the success it was anticipated owing to the General Strike having upset the arrangements.

At the committee meeting the local men suggested another meeting be held at West Hartlepool at an early date, when it was hoped there would be a better attendance. After a discussion, it was decided to hold another meeting on Saturday, June 12th.

It was decided to insert a notice in 'The Ringing World' to the effect that the 'Major Hudson Memorial Fund' was close at the end of June, and it was hoped that all towers will be represented on the subscription list. It was recognised that Major Hudson was not well known to the younger members of the association, but he was well known to the elder members, of whom there must still be some in most bellfries. Subscriptions, however small, will be thankfully received and acknowledged. Should any of Major Hudson's ringing friends in other parts of the country, who are not members of the Durham and Newcastle Association, wish to subscribe, the donation will be thankfully received by the hon. secretary, Mr. E. E. Ferry, 16, Gordon Avenue, Gosport. The memorial is to take the form of a lectern at Bishopwearmouth Church, with which Major Hudson was connected for the whole of his life, and where he shared the reading of the lessons as well as many other duties in connection with the church.

At the general meeting the chairman apologised for the smallness of the meeting, and explained how it had been upset by the strike. They were, however, favoured by having the company of some ringing friends from Yorkshire (who were on a motor tour), in the persons of Mr. and Mrs. Cotterell, Mr. and Mrs. Harcastle, Mr. and Mrs. Salmon, Miss Lumley, and Miss J. Salmon.

Mr. J. W. Parker, on behalf of the meeting, extended to them a very hearty welcome, to which Mr. Cotterell replied.

The bells of the three churches were kept going in various methods during the day, varying from Bob Minor to Cambridge Surprise Major, Grandsire and Stedman Caters, and Kent Treble Bob Royal. Mr. W. Sheraton proposed a vote of thanks to the Vicars of the three churches for kindly granting the use of the bells.

DEATH OF LIVERPOOL'S OLDEST RINGER.

It is with extreme regret that we record the death of Mr. Thomas Hammond, sen., of Liverpool, at the age of 74. Deceased was for a period of 43 years a ringer at St. Peter's Church, prior to which he belonged to the towers of Garston, Grassendale and St. Francis Xavier. After the closing of St. Peter's, the late Mr. Hammond rang at St. Nicholas' Church, until failing health prevented him from climbing the tower steps. Mr. Hammond died on Saturday, June 5th, and was buried at Smithdown Road cemetery on Wednesday, June 9th. Those present at the graveside, in addition to the members of his family and near relatives, were members of St. Nicholas' tower and Messrs. W. James and J. Gardner from Aughton.

The late Mr. Hammond rang his first peal in 1874, and his last, a peal of Stedman Triples, at Port Sunlight in 1908. He was an excellent ringer and very safe conductor. Of a most lovable disposition, he was held in high esteem by his fellow-ringers in the city.

When he joined the St. Peter's company they were only ringing Grandsire and Plain Bob, but on his initiative Stedman was introduced into the tower, and for years Mr. Hammond was the leading conductor in this method in the district.

Much sympathy is extended to his widow and family in their sad bereavement.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

Messrs. Taylor and Co. have this week begun the removal of the bells of St. Nicolas', Guildford, for overhaul and improvements, including the recasting of the tenor and four trebles. The peal of ten will not be in use until about the end of September.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kilby on their silver wedding.

Jasper Snowdon, the greatest 'instructor' the Exercise ever had, was born on June 18th, 1844.

One hundred and seventy years ago next Sunday 5,040 Carathan's Triples was rung at St. Peter at Arches, Lincoln. The peal was probably Garthon's 5040 Grandsire Triples—the peal rung at Norwich in 1718.

On June 20th, 1790, a peal of 6,016 Oxford Treble Bob Major was rung at St. Mary's, Battersea, 'being the most ever rung true on the bells.'

The first peal by the Midland Counties Association was rung on June 23rd, 1882. This was Grandsire Triples at Derby.

THREE BROTHERS' UNIQUE RECORD.

ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY YEARS' RINGING SERVICE.

For upwards of fifty years three brothers, James, Joseph and Henry Markwell gave their services as ringers at Wilburton Church, near Ely. This is a remarkable record, and it has been suitably recorded by a brass tablet placed in St. Peter's Church. This was dedicated at evensong on Sunday, June 6th, by a former Vicar, the Rev. S. J. Wayne, who, in the course of his sermon, dwelt on the devotion of the three brothers to the church and bells. Before the service 720 Collego Single was rung by Alfred Markwell (Stawley) 1, Arthur Markwell (Woburn Sands) 2, George Markwell (Wilburton) 3, A. Hazel 4, H. Sharp (conductor) 5, A. Alsop 6.

The Vicar (Rev. Atkinson) has taken great interest in providing the commemoration tablet, and the members of the three families feel greatly indebted to him.

Commencing ringing in their early teens, the three brothers Markwell had, until the time of their death, been associated with the parish of Wilburton and its bells, and it is little wonder, therefore, that their sons should wish to raise a suitable memorial to them. This takes the form of a tablet of old English brass, placed in the belfry, and inscribed: 'In grateful memory of James, Joseph and Henry Markwell' (with their respective ages and dates of their decease). These three brothers were faithful ringers in the church for a period of 50 years.'

During this long period Markwell Bros. saw many changes in the belfry, for in their early days all that they knew of ringing was by figures. Not until the late Mr. Frederick Day, of the firm of G. Day and Sons, bellhangers, of Eye, Suffolk, some time in the eighties, came to add a sixth bell to the existing five, did they learn of 'method' ringing, but once having got to know of such an art, they set themselves diligently to learn it, and by patience and perseverance mastered it.

Only one 5040 (in six different methods) stands to their memory, for they were not keen on peals, the one object of their ringing being to 'call to worship.' Whether for practice or Divine service, only the best of striking would do for them.

Though partially an invalid, Joseph, like the other two, was seldom absent. Referring to their life and ringing, the Rev. S. J. Wayne spoke of all they did as 'being done with a "soul" in it,' and to other ringers, could they but speak again, this would be their message, 'Go and do thou likewise.'

THE CENTRAL COUNCIL.

SIMPSON TUNING.

The Hon. Secretary (Mr. E. A. Young) moved a resolution, of which he had given notice at Chester, 'That the time has arrived when the Council should consider whether Simpson tuning is in the best interests of the Exercise.' He referred to the fact that probably most of those present differed with him on this subject, but said that he felt sure they would find it interesting, and hoped that, whatever happened to the motion, the Council would consider the subject as worth ventilating, for, after all, the question of bell tones was something very near to them. The work of the late Canon Simpson and his ideas were outlined, viz., that the founders should return to the medieval bell with its octave hum-note; the contrary view of Mr. T. C. Lewis, the well-known organ builder and bellfounder, who maintained that the hum-note should be a major seventh, was also referred to by the speaker, who said that the present position had grown up largely without much knowledge on the part of ringers themselves, and without, as far as he had been able to discover, any discussion in that Council. Mr. Young, in explaining why he had stepped into the breach that day, pleaded that even if they did not look upon him as much of a ringer, they should as a listener to and a lover of bells from his earliest childhood. Born at Southampton, he remembered as a very little boy, whilst at play on the Western shore there, stopping to listen to the sound of St. Michael's bells as their notes came across the water. Of course, first impressions were deep, but his ear had always approved of the old tuning. Perhaps he did not realise how beautiful the new tuning was (musical tastes differed greatly), but he was a delighted convert to its principles, when first he read of them. That was, of course, on paper, but in reality, on making a journey on purpose to hear the then much praised bells of St. Mary's, Southampton, he felt sadly disappointed and disillusioned. It was, however, some years after, when ringing a peal at this same church on the occasion of his 60th birthday, that, having to ring by ropesight the whole time, on account of the howling overtones, he resolved to call the attention of the Exercise to the question. In asking those present to consider the case against Simpson tuning, Mr. Young said that he would first instance that of the church of which they were all members. In these days it was very hardly hit financially, as they knew. It was therefore necessary for it to husband its resources, and spend with wisdom. Much as they might like to see £2,000 spent on a carillon for some church, it might be much more to the general good to give it to the fabric fund for the upkeep of the church, or even to augment the fund for poor curates. Money should be spent to the best advantage, if it largely went for new 'rings' there was less left for other towers in the diocese. He maintained that they should not spend money on recasting bells merely in order to get a peal tuned on the modern ideas, for, after all, were they sure that they were getting something that was better? Turning to the practical side, the speaker said that some conductors told him that it was difficult to find where they were by the sound of the bells, and, instead of being able to listen to the course-ends, they had to rely entirely on ropesight. Others had spoken to him upon experiencing a feeling of fatigue in the ear after coming through a peal, and he was not sure but that the bells themselves suffered in time from permanent fatigue by excessive vibration acting on thin sections.

The mover of the resolution then, in referring to the musical value of various peals, said that, of course, there were good peals and bad ones. Unfortunately, there were many of the latter up and down the country, and none of them liked to listen to an old, badly cracked and badly mixed 'ring.' If they had a good Simpson tuned ring, he liked to listen to it; if they had a good old-standard ring, he thought it still more enjoyable. Recognising the difficulty of the subject, he had felt that it was a case for 'horse, foot and artillery,' in making his attack. He had, therefore, ordered as good a bell as could be cast, so that they could have tested it there that day, but circumstances had been against him: for one thing, the strike, and also objections to its being trundled up the marble staircase there. Then he arranged with one of the leading gramophone companies to have some records taken illustrating both the Simpson and the old-standard, but here again the strike interfered with the arrangements. Finally, the local committee thought that they could provide him with a harp, to demonstrate the differences between pure tones and overtones, but there was not a harp in Ipswich! So they saw him there as a sort of forlorn advocate, without his heavy guns, and in light skirmishing order only.

THE MINOR-THIRD.

Proceeding, Mr. Young said that there was something about Simpson tuned bells which many people disliked; the reason, he thought, was to be found in the principles of Sound and Music. He claimed to have a musical ear, and to be something of a musician, but admitted that the subject bristled with difficulties. He said that it could, however, be urged against this tuning that bell tones, being naturally percussive, were too smooth, but the rock they split on was, undoubtedly, so far as music went, the minor-third, and this threw the whole peal into the minor scale or key. Of course, there was beauty in the minor key, but it was inferior to the major, both in theory of Sound and in the practice of Music. Helmholtz, the great German authority classed the intervals thus—in order of consonance—the octave, fifth, fourth, major-third, minor-third, major-sixth, and, lastly, the minor-sixth. So much for science, but he would have to state, for the benefit of the Simpsonians, that the ear on account of some curious inward quality, or because it was not scientific, put the order thus—or so musicians said—viz., the major-third, minor-third, major-sixth, minor-sixth, then the fourth and fifth, and the poor octave last of all. The speaker said that though the minor-third had come up a bit, it would be noticed that the octave had dropped to last—so much for the Simpson hum-note, and its belauded value in a ring. Returning to the question of the minor key, he said that it was recognised in musical circles that no one could sit down for any length of time and listen to music in the minor scale with comfort. It was the old scale, but had been improved. The present major scale was finally crystallised by the great Bach in the 17th century, and before his time several scales had been in vogue, more or less based on minor intervals. It was then also that our bell founders definitely adopted the major-third. When they listened to Simpson bells they had this minor interval droned into their ears the whole time. It was inevitably brought about by the lengthening of the bell to produce the octave hum-note, this length too with the thinning of the crown, accentuated the overtones, or such was his opinion, and he was certain that the founders would have done away with, at any rate, the minor-third, if they had had the power; the rest was a matter of taste.

In his concluding remarks, Mr. Young said that, though the Simpsonians claimed that their method was scientific, he considered that they had 'jumped' the claim, and that it belonged to and should be reserved for the old standard. He believed that the old founders deliberately altered their bells from the Simpson shape, which was well known to them in the sixteenth century, and that the present change in shape and tuning was a retrograde movement. He regretted that time did not allow him to read certain paragraphs from the two books he had there by Simpson and Lewis, and which he had briefly referred to earlier, and finally passed on to the founders' point of view. These had, he understood, suffered several lean years, and to them, of course, the great Simpson movement meant everything. It was to the founders' interests to recast bells, within reasonable lines, because they could make a job of what they undertook. He believed that they were overwhelmed with orders for work, and peals were being recast up and down the country at the rate of three or four a month. It seemed as if they would be busy for years in casting down both good and poor bells; let them endeavour to cast down the bad ones and leave as many as possible of the good ones.

Mr. W. A. Cave, who briefly seconded the resolution, said he thought Mr. Young would move to appoint a committee to consider the matter.

ARE RINGERS AFRAID OF THE CARILLON?

Major J. H. B. Hesse said he saw no occasion for any ill-feeling on this question. The proposition was one of science and art. They must first define clearly what they meant by 'Simpson' tuning. In his opinion it was on this point that they began their misunderstanding one with another. He need mention no names, but they all knew that this revolution in the method of tuning was originated and developed some thirty years ago by a certain firm of bell-founders, which, for a time, then used, concerning their bells, the phrase—'tuned upon the principle propounded by Canon Simpson,' the Canon being then living. Later on, this firm thought it wise to drop this method of describing the tuning, and decided to define their bells as 'in true harmonic tune,' that is, each bell having its harmonic tones in tune with its fundamental note. Now, did they all agree that this was what they meant when they used the term 'Simpson' tuning?—if so, they could proceed with the debate, with understanding between them. In 'The Ringing World' report of the inquiry re the Coventry bells one witness said he thought the Simpson principle was all wrong. One would like to know if he really thought that bells and peals of bells cast and tuned with understanding was all wrong, while a peal cast by chance was far preferable. One wondered, did he really think this, or was it that he tried to think that those past masters of the art, viz., the Rudhalls, Bayleys, Penningtons, Purdues, Bilbies, etc., were so gifted instinctively that they could, without knowledge and unconsciously produce finer work than mere knowledge, art and science could attain to. They understood an objection on sentimental or archaeological grounds to the disappearance and destruction of old bells, but let them be honest about this, and say that their objections were sentimental and archaeological, for it would not do their cause good to bolster it with false assertions and claims as to the tone and tune of the instruments if the objectors did not at heart believe thoroughly in their protests on this point. There was an issue he would like to mention, and that was: 'Are we ringers, as a body, afraid of the carillon—do we fear its shadow to be growing over us, and that our beloved change ringing is going to be ousted by carillon playing?' For his own part he had no fear of this at all. When they considered their thousands of ringing peals, and totalled up the carillons in this country, the comparison was ridiculous. Still, he did think this fear haunted some of them, and they asked: 'What has that to do with the tuning of the bells?' Perhaps these timid spirits knew also that the Rudhall, etc., bells and similar ones were absolutely hopeless for carillon work. Personally, he thought the 'Simpson'-tuned bells were the only possible. Therefore it was that those fearing folk decried the new and lauded the old, in the hope that they might thus help to keep out the dreaded carillon and retain the change ringing peal! As he had said, he had no fear for change ringing, and in any case, here again, as with the archaeologically inclined, let them have the truth first. Some had said 'Simpson'-tuned bells howled. As to howling, he would like to ask if the following peals howled, that had been cast since Norton near Sheffield, in 1896, viz.: the rings of ten of Loughborough Parish Church, and Holy Trinity, Hull; the two Beverley churches; Selby Abbey; Bradford Cathedral; Rochester Cathedral; St. Nicholas', Brighton; St. Peter's, Croydon; Manchester Cathedral; Hunley and Rotherham; the rings of eight at Pendleton; Sunbury; Alton; Ilkeston; Colchester (St. Peter's); Lincoln Cathedral; St. Neots, Hunts; Skipton; Westbury; Chewton Mendip; Gravesend; St. Stephen's, Clapham; Haslemere; Bishop Ryder's, Birmingham; Tiverton; Tavistock; King's Norton; Potworth; Northfield; Great Baddow; Burnley; Penistone; Hinckley; the rings of twelve at St. Chad's, Shrewsbury; St. Margaret's, Leicester; Oldham Parish Church; Macclesfield Parish Church; to which they should add the ring of twelve at St. Patrick's Cathedral, Dublin, although not really recast, as the old peal still occupied one of the chambers in the tower. The foregoing were peals all composed of 'Simpson'-tuned bells, and were not ringers as a body proud of these modern examples of the bell founder's art? He would say, without fear of contradiction, that the very large majority of them would praise their tone with enthusiasm—indeed, he would like to learn what proportion called them 'howlers,' and preferred the Rudhall, Pennington and Bayley bells, etc., to them, and regretted the previous peals which these took the place of, and would like to have the old ones back again. The old bells that had gained a good reputation, such as the 11th at Exeter, the tenor at Queen Camel, and others in the West Country and other parts, when they had been heard by competent judges, had been found to be true to the five-toned or 'Simpson' principle, or nearly so; but this most probably was due to chance.

SHEFFIELD DISTRICT SOCIETY. STRENGTHENING THE FINANCIAL POSITION.

On Saturday, June 5th, with the 'weather clerk' in the best of moods, some 65 members and friends turned up at the beautiful village of Dore on the outskirts of Sheffield, the following towers being represented:—Anston, Bolsover, Barnsley, Chesterfield, Eckington, Ecclesfield, Handsworth, Norton, North Wingfield, Rotherham, Sheffield Cathedral, All Saints' and St. Marie's, backed up by the local company and visitors from Eyam and Halifax. The fine little peal of 8, by Taylor, with a tenor of 11½ cwt., was made full use of during the afternoon and evening, everyone present having the opportunity of a pull, the efforts of many learners showing that the encouragement given them is bearing good fruit.

The Vicar (the Rev. W. R. Gibson) provided a choral service, which was commendable for its brevity, after which an adjournment was made for tea in the Church School, the efforts of the local company in this respect being much appreciated.

The annual business, which was postponed last month on account of the General Strike, was dealt with at this meeting, the Vicar presiding, and, with a long agenda before them, the company settled down to tackle the various items in earnest style, members showing an excellent spirit in viewing the various resolutions from the point of the society's interest as a whole.

The Dore Company opened the proceedings with a course of Grand-sire Caters (with four novices taking part), after which the President (Mr. George Lewis) paid eloquent tribute to the late Mr. T. G. Savel, of St. Marie's, and the late Mr. George Hill, of Penistone.

The balance sheet was passed, showing a net balance in hand at December 31st last of £7 6s. 1½d.—The Secretary gave a verbal report of the society's activities during the preceding year, this being received with great satisfaction by all present.

Amongst the amendments to rules which were accepted, owing to the desire to increase the capital account, were the following:—That the authorised payment of 1s. to each of the steeplekeepers visited during the year be withdrawn; that the society cease to hold meetings in the months of October, November, January and February, these usually being only sparsely attended, and not warranting the consequent expenditure; and that the annual meeting take place in the month of March, instead of May, as formerly.

A new rule was passed to the effect that members attaining the age of 70 years shall continue their membership without further subscription.

There was no alteration in the election of officers, excepting that Mr. Lewis, much to the regret of all present, found he could not accept the post of president again, with the result that Mr. Arthur Craven, whose name is known throughout the Exercise, was unanimously voted to that office for the ensuing year, whilst Mr. C. Harrison was also confirmed as secretary, he having occupied that office, pro tem., during the latter portion of 1925.

SUSSEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION. SATISFACTORY FINANCES BUT FEWER PEALS.

Postponed on account of the strike, the annual meeting of the Sussex County Association at Brighton on Saturday was poorly attended, less than fifty members being present. The meeting took place in St. Nicholas' Hall, with the Master (Mr. J. T. Rickman) in the chair. He was supported by the hon. secretary (Mr. A. D. Stone), the hon. treasurer (Mr. Ellman Brown), Mr. G. W. Stokes (hon. secretary Eastern Division), and Mr. A. W. Groves (hon. secretary Western Division), and members were present from Aldrington, Brighton (St. Nicholas' and St. Peter's), Battle, East Grinstead, Eastbourne, Heene, Lewes, Lindfield, Steyning, Shoreham, and Waldron, together with Mr. F. W. Rogers (Portsea), and Mr. J. S. Goldsmith (Woking).

The annual report was as follows: The past year, though not marked by any events of outstanding importance, has been one of regular and steady progress. We are glad to welcome the towers of Chichester, Allrington, Lower Beeding, and Turner's Hill, which have become affiliated during the past twelve months. Among the other activities of the association we may mention the courses of instruction that have been given at Bexhill, Little Horsted, and Turner's Hill, an address on the work and aims of the association delivered by the Master before the Cuckfield Ruri-decanal Conference, and statistics supplied by the general secretary for the Diocesan Review. We regret that an application made by the general secretary to the Railway Clearing House for increased travelling facilities met with an unfavourable reply; but we share this disappointment with many other county associations throughout the country. The attendances at the twelve divisional meetings have been satisfactorily maintained; and, as in the past, our warmest thanks are due to the clergy and other kind friends for their hospitality and co-operation. Lastly, we have to record the loss that the association has sustained through the death of the following members:—J. Smart, of Steyning; T. Deadman, of All Saints', Eastbourne; A. Reed, of Waldron; and E. Rice, for many years a member of the Crawley Branch.

The balance-sheet showed a balance in hand of £39 19s. 2½d., against £85 2s. 1½d. at the beginning of the year. Members' subscriptions totalled £52 3s. 6d., but only £3 was received from honorary members, in addition to £2 2s. from an honorary life member. The expenditure included £3 on ringing instruction. The reserve fund stands at £50, and a balance of £65 3s. 1½d. is to the credit of the benevolent fund, from which a grant of £2 2s. had been made during the year.

The report and balance-sheet were adopted. Mr. Frank Bennett (penis secretary) presented his analysis, and reported a considerable falling-off in the number of peals rung. It was, in fact, the lowest since the second year of the association, viz., 1886. The peals were: Grand-sire Doubles 2, Minor 3, Grand-sire Triples 7, Grand-sire Caters 1, Bob Major 1, Bob Royal 2, Treble Bob Major 2, Treble Bob Royal 3, Stedman Triples 1, Stedman Caters 2, Double Norwich Major 2, Superlative Surprise Major 5, Cambridge Surprise Royal 1, London Surprise Major 1—a total of 33, and equivalent in point value to 566. St. Peter's, Brighton, headed the point list with 95.85.

The report was received, and the peals secretary thanked by the Master for his services.

The president and vice-presidents were re-elected en bloc. The meeting enthusiastically reappointed the master, who expressed the opinion that the office should not be held for too many years by the same person. Mr. Ellman Brown was re-elected hon. treasurer, and Mr. A. D. Stone hon. general secretary, special thanks being accorded to the latter for his services. Mr. F. Bennett was re-elected peals secretary, and Mr. W. C. Hart and Mr. R. J. Dave were elected auditors. In this connection the Master referred to the loss the association had sustained by the recent death of Mr. Markwick, of Henfield, who had been one of their auditors.

The members stood in silence for a few moments as a mark of respect.

Brighton and Horsham were proposed for the next annual meeting, and on being put to the vote Brighton was selected.

The meeting concluded with votes of thanks to the clergy and authorities at St. Nicholas' and St. Peter's for the use of the bells, and, at the former place, for arranging the service which was to be held later.

After tea at the Imperial Hotel, the members attended evensong at St. Nicholas' Church, where they listened to an address on the history of bells and their uses.

During the day the two excellent rings of ten were fully utilised, touches and courses in a variety of methods being rung, and ranging from Grand-sire Triples to Cambridge Surprise Royal and Bristol and London Surprise Major.

The fixtures for the ensuing year are as follows:—July, Bradfield; August Bank Holiday, Handsworth; September, Bolsterstone; December, Rawmarsh; and the annual meeting next March, Ranmoor.

Eight new members having been elected, further ringing was indulged in until 9 p.m., when some took the bus for home, while others, living in the city, enjoyed a leisurely stroll along the countryside to the car terminus, all feeling satisfied that the meeting had been one of the best for many years.

BELL RESTORATION IN THE OXFORD DIOCESE. AN APPEAL FOR LOCAL ENTHUSIASTS.

The Master of the Oxford Diocesan Guild (the Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn), in his annual report to the Guild, is able to show that a considerable amount of bell restoration has taken place in the diocese, but he finds reason to ask for local enthusiasm among ringers to ensure that the bells now being put into order in many places may be preserved for their intended use. He says:

'Of English leads at the present time it would appear that none is in a more healthy state than that of the bell founder and bell hanger. We are sending bells all over the world, as well as restoring and augmenting the rings of the homeland.

'In this diocese work of this kind has been completed in all the towers that I advised upon in 1924—though I am not sure whether this can yet be said of Swinsson—and, in addition, also at Caversfield, St. Ebbe's, Oxford, North Marston, Shaw, Stoke Lync, and Yattendon, all of which I advised upon in 1925. The old thirteenth-century bell at Caversfield—perhaps the oldest in the country—being badly cracked, has been relieved from further duty, and is now hung dead to a beam in the tower. At St. Ebbe's there is now a remarkable and beautiful little ring of eight, the two trebles being added and the necessary work in the tower carried out by the ringers of the British Empire in memory of the late J. W. Washbrook. I have also visited and reported as to what needs to be done at Ambrosden, North Crawley, Farnborough, West Hanney, Hinton Waldrist, Hughenden, Hungerford, Pangbourne, Whaddou, and Woughton.

'With all this work going on, I think that the Guild's greatest need to-day is the "local enthusiast." What is to happen to all these restored and augmented rings in the future? Will they in a short time be uncared for and merely rung from time to time and on special occasions in any sort of fashion and by almost anybody, while the regular Church services are honoured only by the tolling of one bell? Or will they, for lack of ringers, in course of time, be turned into miniature carillons and sounded from a keyboard, as on the Continent and in America? Or will they be rung regularly in a manner peculiarly English by a devoted band of church folk of the place? If this latter is to be, as surely we all must wish, it is for such as love church bell-ringing, at all ages and of either sex, to bestir themselves. It is the "enthusiast" that is needed. Mere names and numbers are not enough, else there would be satisfaction in the ever-increasing Guild membership. The science and art of ringing cannot be followed up in a half-hearted fashion, in which practices—if they held at all—and Guild meetings are made to give way to any other attraction that may present itself. In connection with what I have written I think with respect and affection of one who for many years was foreman of the Bucklebury tower, George Davis, a real church bell-ringer, and a leader whose chief asset was the absolute consistency of his life. It is only in the hands of such that bell-ringing will be preserved to the Church.'

A sound financial position is revealed by the treasurer's report and accounts. The balance for 1925 is £86 7s. 2d., compared with £86 14s. 8d. in the previous year, but £10 was given to the Washbrook Memorial Fund. The actual receipts were £107 7s. 10d., and expenses £107 5s. 4d. The Guild's general funds amount to £166 15s. 10d., including balance on general account £86 17s. 2d., reserve fund £13 8s. 9d., restoration fund £11 9s. 11d., war stock at face value £55.

The secretary's report shows that the membership increased by 115, and the number of towers in union by 15, which was a very healthy sign. One regretful thing, however, is that the hon. members have decreased by 24. Towers in union now number 182, ringing members 1,515, life and unattached members 440, hon. members 217, total 2,172. The peal list was very small for the Guild, only 40 being rung, and of that number only four Surprise, viz., two each of Cambridge Major and Minor.

NORTH BUCKS BRANCH.

The annual meeting of the North Bucks Branch was held at Blotchley on Saturday, June 5th, and, despite the restricted travelling facilities, a representative gathering attended, although the number was not quite so large as usual. The towers represented were Beachampton, Calverton, Penny Stratford, Great Brickhill, Loughton, Milton Keynes, Newport Pagnell, Stony Stratford, Shenley and the local ringers. Representatives of the Beds Association and Towcester and District Association were also present. The bells, a nice ring of 8, were set going about 2.30 p.m. A fully choral service was held, at which the Rev. J. A. Amies, of Edgecote, gave the address.

An excellent tea was partaken of on the Rectory lawn. Before the meeting started the Secretary asked the members to stand in silence as a tribute of respect to the memory of Mr. F. E. Booth, of Emberton, who had been a member of the branch since its formation, had occupied the position of secretary and treasurer, and had also been on the branch committee.

The usual business was then proceeded with, the Rev. L. Moxon, of Newport Pagnell, taking the chair.—The Secretary (Mr. W. Sear) presented the balance sheet, which was considered satisfactory.

The Master (the Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn) addressed the meeting, giving details of the Guild's work, and also the business of the Central Council. He reported on the completion of the Washbrook Memorial.

Mr. A. J. Wright, the Guild treasurer, explained the financial position of the Guild, and complimented the branch on its healthy condition, which reflected credit on the work of the branch officials.

Mr. R. T. Hibbert gave a few words of advice, and thanked the members for their contribution to the Washbrook Memorial.

The Chairman (the Rev. L. Moxon) moved a hearty vote of thanks to the preacher for his address, to the choir for assisting, and to the ladies for providing tea.—This brought a very enjoyable meeting to a close.

Ringling was then resumed, the methods being Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Superlative and Cambridge Surprise.

DOUBLE EVENT AT EAST BUDLEIGH. BELLS DEDICATED ON VICAR'S 89th BIRTHDAY.

East Budleigh parishioners joined heartily on Saturday, May 29th, in celebrating the re-opening and dedication of the bells of All Saints' Church after restoration. The day was also the eighty-ninth birthday of the Vicar and the forty-second year of his vicariate.

The six bells have been restored by Messrs. Gillett and Johnston, of Croydon (where the Vicar of East Budleigh was at one time a curate), Nos. 1, 2 and 5 being recast, and the others tuned. They have been hung in a new iron frame, carried on girders that will stand the strain of two more bells if it should be decided to complete the octave in the future. The fittings throughout and the ropes are new, and on the most approved principles.

The bells were used during the afternoon by ringers of the parish and district, including Otterton, Colaton Raleigh, Withycombe Raleigh, Hartford, Littleham (two bands), Exeter, Honiton, and Mr. L. A. Wilson, of Merton Bassett, Wilts. They all expressed themselves delighted with the 'go' of the bells and their vastly improved tone and tune.

The formal dedication of the bells took place at 5.30 in the afternoon, when the church was crowded. Dr. Trefusis, Bishop of Crediton, performed the dedication in the ringing chamber, and gave an address from the chancel steps.

After a public tea, the Vicar was presented with a wireless set on behalf of the parishioners.

HERTFORD COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

A very successful meeting of the St. Albans district was held at St. Albans on Saturday, and was attended by about forty ringers, including the president, hon. treasurer, and three of the district secretaries of the association. St. Peter's tower was open from 2.50 till 5 p.m., and every advantage was taken of the opportunity, some very good ringing being done in various methods. Tea was served and the business meeting held at the Clarendon Hotel, the president (Mr. B. Jarman) occupying the chair.

It was proposed to hold the next meeting at North Mymms on Saturday, July 17th, but a clashing of local events makes it necessary to hold the meeting on the 24th.

A vote of thanks was accorded to the various incumbents for the use of the bells.

Mr. Horton (secretary Watford district) invited those present to Aldenham on the following Saturday for the re-opening of the bells.

The cathedral was visited afterwards, and the methods rung included Bristol and London Surprise. Other ringers visited the two six-bell towers of St. Michael and St. Stephen.

MIDDLESEX ASSOCIATION. SOUTH AND WEST DISTRICT.

On Saturday, June 5th, a most successful meeting of the above district was held at Sunbury. The bells are by Taylors, one of their early Simpson-tuned peals, and are acknowledged by everyone to be exceptionally fine. Ringing was in charge of Mr. J. R. Mackman, Acting Master of the district; and courses and touches in the standard methods were brought round, ranging from Grandsire Triples to Cambridge, Bristol and London Surprise.

A welcome ringing visitor was the Rev. W. P. Cole Skeane, Vicar of Twickenham, who had just been appointed Rural Dean, and who said that his first official duty was this visit to the ringers.

Forty members sat down to tea, and the usual business meeting was afterwards held, Mr. J. A. Trollope being in the chair. Those present included Messrs. T. Beadle, Pullinger, Hunnisett, Pike, Herbert, Miss Moss, and the hon. secretary, Mr. W. H. Hollier.

After tea the pretty village of Shepperton was visited by some, and ringing done on the five bells there.

SUPERLATIVE SURPRISE ROYAL.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—It is quite true that Shipway published a Surprise Method to which he gave the name of 'Superlative Royal.'

I venture to say it is also quite certain that if Shipway had known anything about the Round Blocks of which methods are formed he would never have given the name of 'Superlative' to the Royal Method that he published.—Yours faithfully,

GEORGE BAKER.

Brighton.

WINCHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD. GUILDFORD DISTRICT'S TOUR.

In order to get in touch with some of the outlying towers in the Guildford district, a ringing tour was arranged for Whit-Monday, and proved very successful. The towers selected were Newdigate and Capel, close to the Sussex border. In the absence of the Ringing Master (Mr. A. C. Hazelden), who was in Spain on business for his firm, Mr. W. R. Melville, chairman of committee, was in charge, assisted by Mr. R. Whittington, District Representative of Cranleigh. Newdigate was reached about 11 a.m., and touches of Grandsire Doubles, Plain and Kent Treble Bob Minor were brought round.

At Capel, the ringers were met by the Vicar, the Rev. C. F. Carver, who gave them a hearty welcome. There is a promising young band here, just able to ring, and they are being instructed by some of the members of the old change ringing company, including Mr. E. Jordan, one of the band who rang the peal of 10,080 changes of Minor in 14 different methods in the early days of the Winchester Guild. The methods rung were Grandsire Doubles, Plain Bob and Kent and Oxford Treble Bob Minor. A move was then made to the district meeting at Ewhurst, passing through Ockley, where there is another ring of six bells, but unringable, the bell frame being in a very unsatisfactory condition.

The bells at Ewhurst were available at 3 p.m., and a service was held at 4.30, conducted by the Rector, the Rev. A. J. Hamlyn, who also gave an address. The Guild form was used, with special hymns from the mission hymn book. Tea was provided on the lawn of the Crown Inn, 40 sitting down.

Ringers were present from Guildford, Godalming, Clandon, Cranleigh, Ewhurst, Wimbledon, Seale, Shere and Haslemere. After tea, there being no business to be done, the ringers again visited the belfry, and indulged in various methods till about 8 o'clock, when the company dispersed, thoroughly satisfied with the day's outing.

WINCHESTER DISTRICT.

A quarterly meeting of the Winchester district of the Guild was held at Fawley on Saturday, June 5th. The peal of six bells was available during the afternoon by kind permission of the Rector (Rev. F. N. Harvey). Only two towers of the district were represented, however, viz., North Stoneham and Winchester. A welcome was extended to Mr. F. Rogers, district secretary, Portsmouth, Mr. F. Burnett, St. Thomas', Portsmouth, and Mr. and Mrs. F. Bayley (Fareham). The methods rung were Kent Treble Bob, Stedman Doubles, Cambridge Surprise, Oxford Treble Bob, and 120 Grandsire Doubles, in which two of the local band took part.

After tea a short meeting was held, Mr. Geo. Williams presiding. Two of the local band were elected members of the Guild, thereby adding another tower to the district.

A vote of thanks was passed to the Rector for the use of the bells, and Mr. Wills for the arrangements made.

A vote of sympathy was passed to the Rev. C. E. Matthews, vice-president of the Guild, who is lying ill in Lyndhurst Cottage Hospital.

A touch of Stedman Triples was rung on handbells—G. Williams (conductor) 1-2, F. Rogers 3-4, F. S. Bayley 5-6, F. E. Burnett 7-8.

The next meeting will be held at Hursley on August 28th.

BATH & WELLS DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION PEAL BOARD DEDICATED AT YEOVIL.

A meeting of the Ilchester Deanery Branch was held at Yeovil on Saturday, June 5th, the following towers being represented: Exeter Cathedral, Wootton Bassett, Dorchester, Street, Yeovil, Martock, Stoke-under-Ham, and East Coker. After a short service in the church, conducted by the Rev. A. N. S. Holbrook, an adjournment was made to the belfry for the unveiling and dedication of a peal board recording a peal of Stedman Caters rung on Saturday, September 19th, 1925, by members of the association.

At the request of the branch secretary, Mr. F. Farrant, Mr. J. E. Baker, a member of the peal band and captain of the Yeovil Guild, unveiled the board. The Rev. A. N. S. Holbrook said the dedicatory prayers and committed the board to the safe keeping of the steward, Mr. John Goodchild, who is also churchwarden of the Parish Church.

Mr. Goodchild said it gave him great pleasure to accept this handsome tablet. He apologised for the absence of the Vicar of Yeovil, who took the greatest interest in the bells and the ringers.

Mr. L. A. Wilson, on behalf of the peal band, said it gave them great pleasure to be able to place a board there recording such a performance. It had been their endeavour to provide a board worthy of being placed on the walls of the belfry of this very fine church, and he hoped new members would look up to it and try to follow the example. He believed in Yeovil they had a hand of ringers who rang for the love of their art and the service of the church.

Tea was served in the schoolroom by ladies of the congregation of the Parish Church. A business meeting followed, Mr. Holbrook presiding in the absence of the president (the Rev. G. W. Saunders, Vicar of Martock).

East Coker was chosen for the next meeting.

The secretary expressed the thanks of the branch to the Vicar of Yeovil for the use of the bells, etc., and also thanked the organist and the ladies who had provided such an excellent tea. Mr. Goodchild suitably responded.

Touches of Stedman and Grandsire Caters and Triples and Bob Major were rung during the afternoon.

MARLOW RINGERS' EXCURSION.

The annual outing of the ringers attached to All Saints' Church, Great Marlow, Bucks, took place on Saturday, May 29th. Leaving Marlow by charabanc at 1.30 p.m., they arrived at Hurst, their first stop, about 2.15 p.m., and, after viewing the church, rang short touches of Stedman Triples, Grandsire Triples and Kent Treble Bob. At Wokingham, where they arrived at 4 o'clock, they were met by Mr. Brown, who had the bells ready, and several short touches were rung. After tea the journey was continued to Warfield, where there is a lovely peal of eight, both in tone and going. Touches of Major (Kent), Stedman and Grandsire were tried till 7.30, when the journey was started for home. After passing through glorious scenery, Marlow was reached as the clock was striking nine, all having spent a very enjoyable afternoon.

A CURIOUS DECISION.

The discussion by the Central Council on the subject of whether the Simpson tuning of bells is in the best interests of the Exercise had a curious ending, for the members accepted an amendment that they were not qualified to express an opinion. In our view this was rather a humiliating admission to make, but it enabled the Council to get out of what was, perhaps, to some of the members, a somewhat awkward position. If the Council had been asked to decide a technical point between two musical schools of thought, embodying that of which we heard a good deal in the course of the discussion, the claims between the minor third and the major seventh, then we could have understood their attitude in saying that they were not qualified to express an opinion, for it is perfectly true, as Mr. Faulkner, who moved the amendment, put it, that there were many present who were excellent ringers, but who were not musicians.

The debate really lost itself in technicalities, when the simple question to be decided by the meeting was whether, from their experience as ringers, these representatives of the Exercise believed that, all things considered, Simpson-tuned bells were in the best interests of ringers and change ringing. All of those present who were practical men must have had, by this time, considerable experience of ringing bells of modern tuning as well as on old-fashioned peals, and they ought to have known their own minds as to which type of bells gives the most satisfaction from the point of view of the ringer. Yet this side of the question was little touched upon. They were asked to say whether Simpson tuning was in the best interests of the Exercise, of which they were the elected representatives, and we believe that on that question alone every man would have been prepared to give a vote. But wrapped in the technicalities of harmonics, undertones, hum notes and what-not, the subject took on an air of difficulty with which many of the members were not fully acquainted, and with this conspicuously in mind, they, perhaps, were quite honest in believing they were not qualified to express an opinion.

To some extent, perhaps, the mover of the original motion was to blame in challenging the bell founders from the musical standpoint instead of dealing with it more particularly from the ringers' point of view. At any rate, whatever the cause, the Council's decision, in the light of after reflection, does not exactly do them credit. If the Council is not qualified to say whether or not Simpson-tuned bells are in the best interests of ringers and ringing (for that is what is meant by the motion), where does the ordinary ringer stand when advocating the recasting and restoration of the bells of his church? We think he would show the courage of his convictions much more definitely than the Council did collectively at Ipswich. Probably, however, the amendment would not have been put in the precise form in which it was tabled had there been a little more reflection on its wording. In fact, a direct negative might have been a more dignified method of shelving the subject, for by that means the Council would have said that the time had not arrived when they should consider the matter. As it is, they have put on record that on a question which really is of some importance to ringers they are not qualified to speak.

SUPERLATIVE SURPRISE.

THE METHOD AND HOW TO RING IT.

When Slipway extended Superlative to ten bells he showed a knowledge of the structure of methods far beyond that of any of his contemporaries, for the first step to take is not at all obvious, and we should be tempted to make the same mistake which was actually made by the authors of the 'Clavis' when they first attempted to extend Cambridge Surprise Minor to Major. Cambridge Minor does not contain the whole of the method, and the first attempt at extension omitted 5th's place when the treble dodges in 3-4. In just the same way Superlative Major does not contain the whole of the method, and at first sight one is tempted to make 4th's place in Royal when the treble passes from 2nd's into 3rd's, because it is actually made in Major; but the proper place to make is not 4th's, but 6th's, and we shall presently see why.

First of all, it is necessary to point out that there is always a difference between Major and Royal. Consider the plain hunting course: at first sight one would be tempted to say that this is always the same on 4, 6, 8, 10 and 12 bells, and so on to any even number, but is it? In every one of these the tenor and the treble change places in the middle, but compare this point on four and six

On four bells two lie still, the 2nd and 4th; on six they all six change, and so on up the scale. Major and Maximus belong to Minimus, and Royal belongs to Minor. Now, in the plain hunting course this makes no difference in practice, but in many methods it makes a difference which is very obvious indeed. Consider Double Court; the bell, the treble, turns from lead, makes a place, exchanges with the treble in the middle, makes another place, and turns the treble from behind.

1234	214365	42613587	4628135079
2134	241356	46231857	6482310597
2314	423165	42638175	4628301957

Minimus, Major and Maximus are all one family, and of no practical use, but Minor and Royal are of the other family, and good practical methods, and yet the method is the same throughout.

Now, I turn to Superlative, and, first of all, we find that there are only two constructional places in the method; 2nd's when the treble leads, and 7th's, 9th's, 11th's, etc., when the treble is behind. We can, therefore, omit them both, and study the system without them, and then we find that the tenor and treble change places in the middle, and when the treble gets to the back the bells run up 87654321, and come round at the lead end. The system is such that the treble rings a treble bob hunt, and the other bells make certain places which are always whole pulls right. The places prevent repetition of rows, and also reverse the bells in half a lead. There is only one system of place making which will do this on 8, 10, 12, 14, 16, etc., bells.

Now for the distinction between Major and Royal. In Major, tenor and treble cross in the middle, but in Royal they dodge together in the middle.

The next thing to do is to write out a quarter of a lead on a large number of bells, say twenty, and then on 18, and so reduce the number step by step until we get down to the Major. This means a large number of figures, and it is impossible to have them printed in 'The Ringing World,' but I will give directions for pricking the method, which will show the true nature of the system:—

Write down 1 2 3 4 5 a b c d e . . . . etc.

Change all the bells.

Make 3rd's and 6th's.

Change all the bells.

Divide the number of bells by two, if the result is even make 4th's, if odd make 6th's.

Change all the bells.

Make 5th's.

Change all the bells.

Make 3rd's and 8th's.

Change all the bells.

Make 4th's and 7th's.

Change all the bells.

Make 3rd's and 10th's.

Change all the bells.

Make 6th's and 9th's.

Change all the bells.

Make 5th's and 12th's.

Change all the bells.

Etc.

until the treble crosses the tenor in the middle or dodges with the treble in the middle, when you will find that in the first of these two rows 1 is to 2 and the lead as 1 is to 3 and the back; in the second rows 1 to 3 and lead as 1 to 4 and the back, etc.

Now notice all the places are made by 2, 3, 4 and 5, and when the treble is above 4th's place 2 and 3 make places at the same time, and 4 and 5 at the same time, and 4 and 5 always make the places when the treble and tenor cross or dodge together.

These five bells are all hunts; the treble is ringing a treble bob hunt, the others are playing leap frog, two above the treble and two below the treble, and the five of them spread out over eight places when the treble passes from 6th's place into 7th's in Maximus, and continue to do so until the treble passes from the 7th's place from behind into the 6th from behind, and then close in again to become + . . . 54321 behind.

The whole of the rest of the bells are divided into two groups, one above the hunts and another below the hunts, and each of these groups is ringing Treble Bob, dodging when the treble hunts, and hunting when the treble dodges. They then pass through the hunts in proper course order, 8 hunting straight through, 10 dodging with the treble on the way through, 12 hunting through, 14 dodging with the treble, etc.

Finally, practical rules for ringing Royal and Maximus:—
Work with the treble (front or back as Major).

Odd place last.

Long dodging (a simple extension of the Major).

Odd place first.

Place making:—Odd place first from the front.

Dodge 5-6, make odd 6th's, dodge treble in 3-4, 3rd's, 4th's, 3rd's, 8th's dodge 1-2, 5th's, 6th's.

Odd place last is this reversed, and we get the same from the back:—

Long dodging, double dodge 1-2, single dodge 1-2, 5-pull dodge 3-4, single dodge 9-0, 5-pull 9-0, single with treble 5-6, 5-pull 1-2, single 1-2, 5-pull 7-8, single 9-0, double 9-0.

Having given these rules, let me say that I hope Superlative Royal will be taken up by ten-bell bands more quickly than Cambridge Royal was when St. Michael's Juniors rang it at Cheltenham; it is much more difficult and far more interesting, as it contains a greater variety of work.

NOTES BY THE WAY.

PEAL TAPPING.

BY J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

A few years ago it was quite a common thing to find in the columns of 'The Ringing World' reports of peals tapped on handbells. One or two gentlemen performed some really wonderful feats in this way, the methods being of increasing complexity, and including even London Surprise Major. These peals have for the time ceased. Mr. Morris, the most brilliant performer, unhappily is dead, and the others have intermitted or ceased their activity. While they were being done it seemed an ungracious thing to make any criticism, but now we may profitably, I think, consider whether they should be booked among ordinary peals. At the time the point was raised in the association most concerned — the Essex Association, to which Mr. Morris belonged. I forget the actual decision, but whatever it was a good many of us felt a great difficulty in expressing a view which might even in appearance seem to depreciate Mr. Morris' wonderful performances. Nevertheless, I am fully of the opinion that these should not be booked as peals.

Now, it is unnecessary for me to say that no one does or can deny the extraordinary skill and mental power required to tap a peal of London Surprise. The thing is altogether beyond the capacity of ordinary ringers. The great majority of us could not tap half-a-dozen changes, let alone a peal. Try it and see. If you do manage to get the first few rows of the Plain Course you will probably find that you are doing it because you remember either the actual rows or the music, and neither will help you in the least to tap a peal. If it were not that these performances have been properly attested and are absolutely beyond doubt we should almost be inclined to say they are impossible. But they should not be booked as peals. And, first, because they are not ringing. They are a different thing altogether. Ringing is something besides the producing certain music on bells. The essential thing is the way in which it is produced. You can produce changes on handbells by 'lapping,' but that is not change ringing. You can produce changes by means of Mr. Carter's machine, but that is not change ringing. And you can produce changes by tapping, but that is not change ringing. Tapping is probably as much more difficult than ringing a pair 'in hand' as the latter is than 'lapping.' Tapping and lapping are poles apart in difficulty; but have this in common, that they are neither change ringing, and neither ought to be booked among the peals.

The process of tapping is mental transposition. To begin with you must know what places must be made and what pairs of bells must be turned over. You start from rounds; you get the first change by turning over the bells in 1-2, 4-5 and 6-7. You remember this row, and from it you get the next by turning over the bells in (say) 1-2, 3-4, 5-6 and 7-8. And so you go on. It is just the same way that you write out changes, but with this tremendous difference, that when you write out changes each row is fixed before your eyes. You can see what you have done, and therefore know what you have to do. When you tap all this has to be done mentally, and done rapidly and evenly. Let but one row or a part of a row escape the memory and the chain is broken, the whole thing collapses.

It hardly needs to say that only men with exceptional and peculiar mental qualities can do this, but in view of what I am going to relate further on it must be pointed out that the differences between the difficulty of tapping of one thing and another are not the same as in ordinary ringing. The difficulty is to tap at all. But if you can tap Bob Major it is not so very much harder to tap London Surprise. It is a question of knowing where the places come, and the arrangement of places in London is comparatively simple.

In the same way, if you can write out the simple methods with any degree of facility, it is only a question of knowing the position of the places to write out any of the most complex methods with equal ease. On the other hand, the more bells you have the far greater is the difficulty of tapping. It is harder to tap eight bells than six; it is very much harder to tap ten than eight, and when you get to twelve and upwards the difficulties are enormously increased. Probably (for in these things I can only speak approximately) it is very much harder to tap a peal of Bob Royal than London Surprise Major.

And this leads me on to the second reason why I think tapped peals should not be booked. I gravely doubt whether they ought to be encouraged. In the nature of things no man can tap changes who has not got a brain which is strongly developed in a particular way. To practice tapping to any great extent is inevitably to increase that development, and it is a common experience that a man whose brain is unduly developed in one way pays for it in another. If you can do it, to tap courses and touches is well enough, but the strain of a whole peal lasting for more than two hours is surely more than a man has a right to subject his brain to. Especially when the result is of so little worth. One of these young gentlemen wrote to a well-known parson ringer and composer, asking for the figures of a peal he intended to try and tap. The parson's reply (can you guess his name?) was something like this: 'Elijah Roberts tapped peals, went mad and shot himself. I am not going to help you to a like fate.'

It is of Elijah Roberts, the greatest of all tappers, that I am going to write later. So far as I know, there are no records of any tapping in early days, though we may be pretty sure that where there were handbells hung in a row men amused themselves with more or less successful attempts to produce a few changes. The first account I have come across concerns Samuel Thurston, the great Norwich ringer. On Saturday, July 1st, 1809, at the New Theatre in Norwich, he tapped on the handbells belonging to the Norwich Scholars plain courses of Bob Triples, Bob Major, Reverse Bob Major, Double Bob Major and Grandsire Caters. 'This was at the time considered the greatest performance ever completed by one person in the world.' He was then in his twentieth year, and this is the first time his name appears in connection with ringing. A later record says that April the 24th, 1814, 'he struck on his musical peal of eight bells at The Eight Ringers in Norwich three full courses of Bob Major with the 6th, 7th and 8th making bobs, and containing 336 musical changes, which he nobly brought round in 14 minutes, being the greatest performance in the Art in the British Dominions.'

In his later years Thurston appears not to have developed his powers of tapping. I imagine it was a case of finding some vent for his enthusiasm and abilities in ringing matters. In those years a young man, however brilliant, was not at once admitted by the older ringers. It took Thurston some years before he made good his place among the Norwich Scholars, and not till Chestnut's death was he acknowledged the leading man in the city. Tapping gave him an opportunity of showing what he could do in ringing until he had a full opportunity of exercising his facilities in the tower. And there is no reason at all to suppose that in any case he could have rivalled Roberts' feats.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

It has been proposed to make a presentation to the ex-chairman of the Chipping Norton Deanery branch (the Rev. W. J. Palmer), who has carried out the duties most earnestly for the past twelve years. The branch secretary, Mr. J. Keyte (Charlbury), would be pleased to receive subscriptions from any members of the Exercise who have visited this deanery and are now far away but who would like to make the presentation a worthy one.

NEWBURY BRANCH.

The summer meeting of the above branch was held at Bucklebury on Saturday, June 19th, when the recent bell was dedicated to the memory of George Davis, for many years foreman of this tower. The service was taken by the Master (the Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn), who also gave an excellent address. Sixty members attended from various towers, six journeying from Swindon, two from Bray, and three from Abingdon. Tea was served in the Parish Hall by Mrs. E. M. Thorp, assisted by other ladies.

The Master presided, in the absence of the Rev. L. R. Majendie (chairman of the branch). Mr. R. T. Hibbert (general secretary) and Mr. A. J. Wright (hon. treasurer) were also present. Six new members were elected.—It was proposed to hold the next meeting at Chieveley on Saturday, September 4th.

The Vicar (Rev. E. M. Thorp) referred to the loss of George Davis, who was such an excellent leader in the tower.

A hearty vote of thanks was accorded to the Master, the organist and the ladies for providing such an excellent tea. Some good touches were rung during the afternoon and evening, and the company were photographed on the Vicarage lawn.

The bell was recast by Mr. Alfred Bowell, of Ipswich.

THE SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD.

In the annual report of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild, just issued, the assistant secretary (Mr. T. Hervey Beams), in the absence of the general secretary, who is on a mission to Cyprus, refers first to the steady but continued work that has been and is being carried out in the towers to improve the condition of the bells, and he claims that this restorative work is largely due to the activities of the Guild in urging on the authorities the need of the proper upkeep of the bells in our churches.

A peal of Stedman Triples, by a resident band in West Dorset, marked a decided step forward in that branch. More intervisitation of bands for combined practice would, adds the assistant secretary, greatly benefit those taking part, for often at the regular meetings the numbers are such as to prevent any good practice being obtained.

The balance-sheet shows receipts amounting to £59 4s. 3d. The balance in hand is reduced from £60 17s. 8d. to £54 8s. 4d. more than accounted for, however, by the £15 16s. 4d. devoted to the Diocesan Memorial Fund.

WINCHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD.

A quarterly meeting of the Yorktown district was held at Horsell on Saturday week, when members attended from Bagshot, Chertsey, Pirbright, Yorktown, and the local band, while Mr. E. Raddon (hon. secretary of the Guildford district) was also present. Ringing was carried on until 4.45, when the members adjourned to the Institute for tea, which was given by the Rev. Canon Norman Pares, Vicar of Horsell, who occupied the chair for the business meeting, at which eight new members were elected.

A hearty vote of thanks was accorded to Canon Norman Pares for kindly providing the tea and for the use of the bells.

The members then attended the Guild's service. With the help of the organist and young ladies' choir, the service was of a very pleasant character. Ringing was afterwards indulged in until 8 p.m.

MUFFLED BELLS.

At the Parish Church, Old Woking, on Wednesday, June 16th, two short touches on half-muffled bells were rung as a tribute of respect to the late Mr. James Brackley, father of the conductor, J. Brackley, first 120 changes of Bob Doubles, and afterwards 360 Bob Minor. The deceased had, for the past thirty-six years, been organ-blower at the Parish Church.

UPCHURCH, KENT.—On Wednesday, June 9th, for practice, 720 Oxford Bob Minor: T. Dennis (first 720) 1, E. Boakes 2, T. Jull 3, W. J. Walker 4, C. Shipp 5, G. Gilbert (conductor) 6.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

The address of Mr. E. E. Ferry, to whom subscriptions should be sent for the Hudson Memorial Fund, is 16, Gordon Avenue, Gosforth, Newcastle-on-Tyne, not Gosport as printed on page 375 of our last issue.

At a recent meeting of the Peterborough Diocesan Guild a member came on a new cycle. This he carefully left inside the church. When he came down from the belfry it had disappeared, and the police up to date have not discovered either the thief or the cycle.

The Truro Diocesan Guild now numbers nearly 600 members, and there is a desire to learn change ringing, but the officials are still finding difficulty in providing teachers.

A feature appears in the balance-sheet of the Guild which is unusual in accounts of ringing associations. Two church collections are given to the funds. The Guild has a balance in hand of £85 3s. 6d.

It is rumoured that the peal of Stedman Cinques at Shrewsbury last January will be the last peal ringing in the twelve-bell tower for many years. We hope the rumour is unfounded.

Coventry bells were rung for the last time on Sunday, June 28th, 1885.

The peal of ten at Taunton, since augmented to twelve, were opened on June 25th, 1885. A peal of Stedman Caters, which was afterwards admitted to be false, was rung on that occasion.

The late Mr. Henry Dains was born on June 28th, 1837.

Forty years ago next Friday the first peal of Grand sire Cinques was rung 'in hand' at Birmingham. Perhaps St. Martin's Guild will celebrate the anniversary.

Royal Cumberland youths are expected to gather in force in London to-morrow, when the war memorial to fallen members will be dedicated at Shoreditch, together with a peal tablet recording the muffled peal rung on the occasion of the death of Queen Alexandra. The ceremony is at 3.30 p.m.

St. Andrew's, Holborn, Society hold their annual outing on Saturday, July 3rd. It is proposed to visit Beaconsfield, West Wycombe, Maidenhead, and Slough. A social at the latter town will take place (after ringing at St. Mary's at 7 p.m.), and some of the Berks and Bucks men will join them.

'When Is-a-Belle properly tuned?' asks our tame conundrum merchant. In this case he supplies the answer: 'When there is a Sound Beau of suitable calibre to produce the proper harmonies.'

Mr. Howard Freeborn (Achilles Club) won the 'Throwing-the-hammer' event in the A.A.A. Southern District Championships at Chatham on Saturday. His distance was 125ft. 8ins., which is 15ft. longer than the British championship standard.

Some good Grand sire Triples 'came over' the wireless from St. Botolph's, Bishopsgate, on Sunday evening; but the most striking event that has yet happened, so far as bells and the B.B.C. are concerned, is in the programme for to-morrow, when a talk on bells is to be given to children by Mr. W. Roughton, at 6.15, accompanied by a practical demonstration by members of the College Youths on the bells of St. Mary-le-Bow.

The peal of Double Norwich Major, rung at Long Stanton, Cambs, and recorded in our last issue, was completed in 2 hrs. 40 mins., and not 2 hrs. 45 mins. as at first reported. It was thus the quickest peal of Major on the bells.

Another new Major method has been added to the records by the peal of New Gloucester Surprise rung at Edmonton last Saturday. The method was published in our columns on December 8th, 1911, and is only a slight alteration from the original Gloucester Surprise. Kent places in 5-6 are substituted for Oxford places in 3-4, and the alteration enables fourth's place hobs to be used, and all peals of Treble Bob run true to it.

Ringers who did not receive the issues of 'The Ringing World' for May 14th or 21st should send 3d. per copy to 'The Ringing World' office, when the missing numbers will be forwarded post free. The strike prevented many of our readers obtaining these two issues.

HOYLANDSWAINE CUP CONTEST.

IN THE WINNING TEAM AT 81.

The third annual change-ringing contest for a silver cup, promoted by ringers and churchpeople of Hoylandswaine, took place on Saturday, June 12th, under the auspices of the Barnsley and District Association. Six companies entered, viz.: Cawthorne, Darfield, Felkirk, Sandal, Shelley, and Wath. Mr. J. Broadley, of Bradford Cathedral Company, the judge, gave his awards as under:—Cawthorne 151 faults, Shelley 160, Darfield 264, Sandal 313, Wath 333, Felkirk rang out, Cawthorne were therefore awarded the cup for one year, and six biscuit barrels as prizes. The company stood in following order: H. Crossland 1, E. Crossland 2, H. Crossland, jun., 3, A. Fish 4, G. Broadhead 5, J. Fish 6.

Much interest was taken in the various attempts by ringers and visitors. The presentations were made after tea by the Vicar. The winners received a great ovation, the treble ringer, Mr. H. Crossland, being 81 years of age, with sixty years' practice and experience. He is father to the third ringer. It is the second successive time that he has assisted his company to carry this trophy to Cawthorne.

The Barnsley and District Society take this opportunity of thanking all the kind people of Hoylandswaine who have voluntarily and generously maintained the contest, which has helped materially to attain the best and highest in the great art of change-ringing.

THE CENTRAL COUNCIL.

BELL FOUNDERS AND SIMPSON TUNING.

A member suggested that item No. 11 on the agenda should be discussed at the same time as the hon. secretary's motion, as it practically dealt with the same subject. This motion was as follows: 'That the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association, at their annual meeting held at Painswick on April 5th, 1926, unanimously agree that historic bells should not be tuned by the Canon Simpson principle, even though it is necessary for them to be recast; but that the Canon Simpson principle may be used on modern bells only.'

The President said this was only a pious opinion by the Gloucester and Bristol Association, and he would have to rule it out of order altogether. If they wanted it discussed they must put it in the form of a resolution. The President said they had three of their members very intimately acquainted with this matter of bell tuning, he referred, of course, to the three founders. They might have considerable difference in speaking on the subject, and it was perhaps rather invidious to ask them, but he was perfectly certain that the Council would like to hear what they had to say on the matter.

Mr. C. F. Johnston, accepting the invitation of the president, was the next speaker, and, referring first of all to Coventry bells, which, he said, were not being destroyed but were being recast so as to have a long life and, he hoped, a musical one before them, said the bells were to be cast to weights which would enable them to be converted into a ringing peal at a later date if a proper tower for their installation should ever be provided. The bell founders now responsible for their restoration were only too thankful if any assistance which had been given in this matter by the Council had assisted to this end. The whole difficulty, as he explained in 'The Ringing World' a few weeks ago, was with regard to the tower, and the authorities turned down any idea of having the bells hung for ringing as they were thirty or forty years ago. Proceeding, Mr. Johnston said they kept hearing about the Simpson or new principle of tuning. There was nothing new under the sun, and he took it they meant by the new principle the red-tower and, he trusted, the improvement of the principle that was practised 300 and 400 years ago on the continent. He felt sure in the examples of particularly good bells in this country, especially in the eastern counties, they had the result of this work by men who were driven over here from one cause or another, and the effect of their knowledge in casting was felt in the places where they worked. Mr. Young had referred to the bells of St. Michael's, Southampton, as the first to give him a love of bell tones. The harmonics in most of these bells were very good, and they would never have been recast had it not been for their structural defects—there were holes in some of them into which one could get two fists. It was a good thing to ventilate the subject; the bell founders did not mind being shot at at all. Mr. Young referred to the question of the seventh, and said he was sure that in the old system the seventh was put into the bell or was a result of a natural sequence. He (the speaker) could disprove that. In No. 10 bell at Coventry the hum tone was one tone sharp, in No. 9 bell a quarter-tone sharp, and in No. 8 bell one semi-tone sharp. There was absolutely no sequence in their falsities. They were not sevenths at all, but anything that happened to come from bells designed in the old-fashioned way. Proceeding, Mr. Johnston remarked that Mr. Young said it was a pity to spend so much money in recasting bells, because it might be devoted to other diocesan purposes. He (Mr. Johnston) held that it was better to put six first-class peals of bells into a county in one year than dabble with twenty-four or thirty. The noise in the belfry where there were bells tuned on the five-tone principle, and to which people had objected, was caused by the absence of protection for the ringer from the bell tones. If they would have a proper double floor and take other precautions, or for preference put the ringers two rooms below the bells, he defied them to have any annoyance when the bells were ringing.

Mr. T. H. Beams: You get it outside as well as in.

Mr. Johnston: If you block up the louvres to the correct level I defy you to get any annoyance outside the tower. Continuing, Mr. Johnston said it was unfortunate that Mr. Young turned down the offer to have a correctly cast bell there for demonstration. He would have been prepared to send down a bell tuned on the old principle and another bell of similar proportions tuned accurately on the five-tone principle, so that Mr. Young might have given an illustration of both types of tuning. He had no doubt that with his friends, Mr. Taylor and Mr. Hughes, they could have got over the difficulty of getting the bells up the marble staircase. Mr. Young also regretted that it was not possible to produce a harp for the purpose of demonstrating, but he would point out that certain of the witnesses at the Consistory Court objected strongly to the use of a piano for that purpose. With reference to the minor third as against the major third, there were no good old bells with the major third; they had the minor third. There was a difficulty, and founders realised that they had the minor third in, say a C bell, clashing with the E bell, but if they had a major third, this in one bell would clash with another bell in the same peal. They could not have it both ways, and as the minor third was a component note of the bell, and not actually the note of the bell itself, they did not get much clashing between the minor thirds of different notes. As an instance of the possibility of tuning an old peal, Mr. Johnston quoted the case of St. Maurice's, Winchester, which underwent considerable tuning of the right kind to make them the improved peal they are at present. It so happened that the harmonics were so placed in these bells, and there was enough metal in them that, without hurting the bells, they were able to bring them into accord with one another. They had gone a long way since Canon Simpson's days, but they were indebted to him for drawing attention to the possibilities of the art and in taking a large part in inducing certain founders to improve on their work. He would like just to refute utterly the very strong aspersion thrown out by Mr. Young that it was all a question of business with the founders. He wanted ringers and the public to understand, and it was borne out almost weekly in the pages of 'The Ringing World,' that if a bell was a good one in the honest opinion of the founder, it was bad business for him to try to recommend it should be recast for the sake of putting a little more on the bill. That was not the way to build up a big business or a good reputation, and the man who knew his job did not do it (applause).

CANON SIMPSON'S OPINION.

Mr. Pryce Taylor said the name of his grandfather had been closely connected with that of Canon Simpson in this question of bell tuning, and since the days, which he well remembered, when Canon Simpson, who was then Rector of Fittleworth, came to their foundry at Loughborough, considerable advances had been made. He (the speaker) had been brought up among bells, and his chief, indeed his sole interest was bells, and to give them, as ringers, the finest instruments it was possible to produce. He was proud of the name of Taylor and of these bells, and he was proud of the traditions of his grandfather and his father. Mr. Taylor went on to quote from a letter written by Canon Simpson after one of his visits when he heard a peal of eight that had been cast for Wellington. In that letter Canon Simpson spoke of the satisfaction and pleasure it gave him to witness the realisation of an ideal that had occupied no inconsiderable part of his time and attention for twenty years, and he thanked Mr. Taylor for having invited him to test scientifically this peal of bells, which he found simply perfect. Habit and prejudice, he added, were powerful hindrances, but no one who had once experienced the musical satisfaction of such a peal as that could be content with the incomplete tuning which had hitherto passed muster. Proceeding, Mr. Taylor referred to the fact that Mr. Gorham Rice, the great authority on the carillons of Belgium and Holland, gave every credit to Taylor of Loughborough as the first English founder to produce scientifically tuned bells. It would, he thought, be a pity if the Central Council could not endorse the work which they had initiated. With regard to Mr. Young's remark about the minor third, he thought Mr. Young was inconsistent when he picked out the seventh. He did not think Mr. Young could find a peal of bells in which that seventh was even throughout the peal. They had at the Loughborough foundry produced, in their experiments, a series of bells with that seventh, and they had also produced bells according to their latest ideas, and there was no doubt, if ringers heard them side by side, which they would select for their own tower. The minor third was a necessity in a bell, and any particularly good bell, whether old or new, would have that minor third in its composition.

Mr. A. A. Hughes said there was little left for him to say after all that they had heard. There could be no doubt that scientific tuning must in the future take the place of the old method of tuning.

Mr. E. Barnett said there was no denying the fact that many Simpson-tuned bells were preferable to the ones they displaced. First impressions were not always the best, and one's views often changed as time went on, but what he did find with Simpson tuning was that it made bells offensively noisy. The tone, generally speaking, was harsh and shrill, and did not possess that beautiful softness which they got in many of the bells by old founders which had been handed down to them. That, at any rate, was his experience.

COUNCIL NOT QUALIFIED.

Mr. T. Faulkner said he had come to the conclusion that the Council as a body, was not qualified to pass a resolution on that subject. For instance, their president gave evidence at the inquiry at Coventry, and he admitted in the witness-box that he was not a musical man. How, therefore, could he vote for or against a resolution like the one before them?

The President: The president doesn't want to vote (laughter).

Mr. Faulkner said there were a great many members present who were in the same position. There were plenty of men who were excellent ringers but who were not musicians, and he ventured to say that the majority of the members that day were not qualified to say whether Simpson tuning was in the best interests of the Exercise or not; they had not the requisite knowledge. They might have opinions and like or dislike certain peals of bells, but they were not qualified by training, education or knowledge, to say whether Simpson tuning was in the interests of change ringing or not. He would, therefore, move an amendment that 'This Council as a body is not qualified to pass an opinion on the subject at present.'

The Rev. E. S. Powell seconded, and he did so, he said, partly because certain of his ringing friends in the Devon Guild had been rubbing into him their dislike of Simpson-tuned bells, and pointing out how superior Heavitree bells were to Simpson-tuned bells. As a matter of fact, Heavitree bells were Simpson-tuned (laughter).

The Rev. H. Law James said he was glad the whole question had come up. As a member of the Standing Committee he signed the paper out of which grew the attempt to prevent the re-casting of Coventry bells. He read everything that appeared in the papers about it, and he was very well satisfied with what occurred and with the result. He had not been satisfied, however, in the first instance, because Coventry bells had such a tremendous reputation, but he came to the conclusion that it was definitely proved that they wanted re-casting. He thought it was well that the Council stepped in, and there would, perhaps, be other cases where the Council should step in in the future, and, from what Mr. Johnston had said, they might have to step in to support the bell-founders. There was no doubt many peals had been enormously improved by the Simpson-tuning principle. Reference had been made to the way in which the sound of some bells interfered with ringers in the ringing chamber. He was going to make a suggestion to the bell-founders. In future, when they gave an estimate for hanging a new peal of bells or re-hanging an old peal, they should include in their price provision for leaving the bells so that the ringers could hear every bell in the tower (hear, hear), and, further, they ought to include in their estimate the treatment of the tower so that those bells should be a pleasure to everyone round about and not a nuisance in the neighbouring houses. If the founders did not do it, nobody else would, and often the job was spoilt for the sake of a few odd pounds which could be put in the estimate and which nobody would notice (hear, hear). Mr. James deprecated the practice of putting any attachment on a bell to cause it to go on humming all the time, by lifting the clapper after it had struck. Some people, he said, had an idea that that was the proper thing. If they were going to ring one bell by itself, it might be an advantage to put something on the clapper to allow the bell to hum, but when they were ringing bells in peal they wanted each bell to speak with its full note and then stop, like a piano. Howling came from the sustained humming of the bells. They wanted one clear note, which wanted to be perfect in tone. If they had this, there would be no more complaints about howling (applause).

Mr. T. R. Dennis mentioned the case of St. Andrew's, Cambridge, where they were now unable to ring on account of the deafening noise outside the tower. The sound came down into the street in such volume that it was said to be a danger to traffic.

PLASTER CEILING ADVOCATED.

The Rev. C. D. P. Davies said Mr. James had advocated that founders should include in their estimates the cost of means of deadening the sound of the bells so that they were not a din in the ears of the ringers, and also that the sound of each bell should be deadened as quickly as possible. He thought this could be secured in a perfectly simple way by putting an ordinary household plaster ceiling in the ringing chamber.

Canon H. J. Elsee questioned the wording of the resolution, which was whether Simpson tuning was in the best interests of the Exercise. Surely, he said, it was not so much a matter for the Exercise as for the public outside. If it were put in that way, then he had no doubt at all that Simpson tuning was in the interests of those who listened to the bells. He had been a great lover of bells all his life, and he had listened to all sorts of bells, but he must say that he would rather listen to one of the modern peals than to any of the older bells that he knew. But having said that, he wanted to add that he thought it would be a great pity if all the older bells were melted down and re-tuned on modern principles. He would put out of consideration historic bells, for everyone was agreed there should be no question of re-casting mediæval or sixteenth-century bells. It would be pure vandalism to destroy anything of historic interest like that, but with regard to rings of the eighteenth century it would be a great pity if a clean sweep were made of all the examples of the bell-founders' art of that period which had come down to them. This did not apply to bells of a hundred years old or less, but on historic grounds they should retain their old bells where possible. There was, he continued, a good deal in what Mr. Young had said in regard to the point of view of the clergy. They had at times to consider the proportion between what they could ask for for luxuries—and, after all, bells were luxuries—and the vital things for the Church. He was thinking of the tremendous appeal being made for the work of the Church overseas—a world call. It would mean a vast appeal to all Churchmen to help in the work, which was absolutely vital at the present time. He was not sure that that being so he could press forward a big scheme to put bells into the very best condition if a lesser scheme would serve for all practical purposes fairly well. On the other hand they often found people ready to give to the re-casting or re-hanging of bells who would not be ready to give on the same scale for other branches of Church work, and in such a case there would be no reason why they should not have the best scheme they could get. But he wanted to support Mr. Young in what he said as to the need of thinking in proportion on what they spent on various objects. As to Simpson tuning, he thought a Simpson-tuned peal spoke for itself, and there could be no question whether it was superior to the old method or not.

Mr. Young briefly replied on one or two technical points which had been raised, and the amendment moved by Mr. Faulkner was then put and carried.

APSLEY END, HERTS.—On Friday, June 18th, after the induction of the Rev. C. Goodwin as Vicar of Apsley, 720 Grandisire Doubles: F. Tompkins 1, C. Munt 2, C. Henley (conductor) 3, A. Brinklow 4, J. Slopp 5, G. Dolt (first 720 as conductor) 6.

NOMENCLATURE—SOME CONSIDERATIONS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—Another year has come and gone, and another Council meeting has been held, and once again, stalemated as regards nomenclature reform! One is tempted to ask, 'What has been wrong with the Nomenclature Committee? What is wrong with their proposals?' And, perhaps, even the question is justifiable. What is wrong with the Council, that not a single definite step forward has been taken?

Much has been said, and even more written already, by the 'big wigs' in this names controversy, so much, that one might well wonder if any more can be said to advantage in that quarter. But it would surely still be helpful if an expression of opinion came from some of those members of the Council who were afforded no opportunity of taking part in the debate on Whit-Tuesday, and if the rank and file of ringers, also, now had a say.

It has been hinted that the committee did not employ the right 'tactics' at the meeting. Such a suggestion, however, implies that by some sleight-of-hand the Council might have been jockeyed into doing what it would otherwise not have done; it, also, involves the implication that the procedure of the Council meeting was influenced in some sort of way to the avoidance of a full discussion of the subject. However, it is unnecessary to look round for any explanation other than the obvious one—that the Council, by a majority vote, preferred accepting an amendment to adopting the resolutions put before them. There is, however, this anomaly in their action, that the same Council which, by a majority two years ago, gave leave for the committee to work, should do no more than just dismiss the proposals offered. Reform was definitely mooted, yet it seems to have been expected that reform might be had without any real change being made.

One has further to recollect that the Council has never assumed legislative authority to impose any laws, or any particular policy, on the Exercise. It has not gone beyond its 'Rules and Decisions'; its constitution is not that of a miniature Parliament, and it has, in consequence, been cautious not to make any pronouncement it has not the power to enforce. Apart from all which, the 'front benchers' and the leading luminaries of the Council have not yet been converted to the cause of nomenclature reform.

Not the least of the difficulty, however, in the way of reform, has been that the Nomenclature Committee's proposals run counter to the ideas of the Methods Committee. Now, to give that committee its due, it is one of the most important committees of the Council, and there is no gainsaying that its members are experts at their job; their sphere of work is highly technical; they have not only the requisite knowledge; but, above all, that grip of the subject, without which no one could tackle such a task as method classification. The Council appreciates all this to the full, and recognises that the services of this committee are indispensable. But, having said so much, it is not evident why they should expect to have a hand also in naming the methods when classified; that is another job altogether, and one that does not necessarily come within the scope of their work. The Council has appeared inclined tacitly to admit their claim, while, on the other hand, the Nomenclature Committee has asked to have a voice in the matter.

Now, the Methods Committee is about to print, and publish, its collection of Major methods, the result of some years of labour; they have given names to all these methods; when once these new names are in print they are stereotyped, if not for all time, at least so nearly permanently, that any alteration would be exceedingly difficult. Hence the very natural request that these particular names (and any other names to be given to new methods in any C.C. publication) should not in future be printed, without having first been examined in detail, and approved by the Council, if need be, in session.

It may be argued there is a disparity between the two cases—the selection of a new name (by an individual author) and the changing of old names (Nomenclature Committee); there is admittedly a difference. But to bestow new names wholesale (Methods Committee) is likewise another matter entirely, not covered by existing rights, whatever they be. It should be known that among the names selected, which are already applied to well-known methods, are irreproachable so far as names go, is one of a Welsh town, unpronounceable by the average Englishman; there are, also, seven names selected, which are already applied to well-known methods, and which have in course of time become identified with those methods absolutely.

Another serious objection is the plentiful use of the word 'Bob,' which is thrown in here and there throughout the collection as an appendage to the other main name selected; e.g., 'Billingsgate* Bob,' instead of 'Billingsgate*'—pure and simple—a veritable blot on the collection. But that is not the worst. We have the cataloguing of a number of so-called 'Little' methods. 'Little' is a very poor-sounding little word, and one wonders by what authority (or perhaps it has been lack of authority) that such a term came into vogue at all. Thus we may now have 'Little Bob' as well as big bob. And thus, we arrive at the absurdity, and awkwardness, of such a combination as 'Little Bursley* Bob'—or, should it be 'Bursley* Little Bob'—the correct position of the objectionable adjective seems in doubt. It reminds one of the 'bloomer' seen in a bootshop window, 'strong men's boots.'

And to come to the conclusion of the matter. Doubtless there will be some disappointment amongst those who desire nomenclature reform, that the matter is again apparently 'as you were.' We shall have to wait until there is, in course of time, a new Council. The associations, and those individual enthusiasts who want reform, must not only work for the desired changes, but also return representatives to the Council committed to vote that way; until such a time, but little as regards nomenclature reform, will be achieved.—Yours very truly,

G. P. BURTON.

LINCOLN DIOCESAN GUILD.

NORTHERN BRANCH.

The adjourned annual meeting was held at Grimsby on Saturday, June 19th, and was fully well attended. Amongst the towers represented were Bigby, Burton-on-Stather, Ulceby and Gainsborough, in addition to St. James' and St. Andrew's, Grimsby. There were also present the Rev. H. Law James (Guild Ringing Master) and Mr. J. T. Brown from the Elloe Deaneries Branch. Owing to inconvenient travelling facilities, and much to the regret of those present, the Lincoln and Sleaford districts were unrepresented. The bells of St. James' and St. Andrew's were available during the afternoon and evening. A short, but very impressive service, at which the Guild office was used, took place at St. Andrew's Church. The Vicar (Rev. T. Russel Warrilow) officiated, and gave a most appropriate address to those present. Mr. H. Rushby, one of the local ringers, presided at the organ. Subsequently an excellent tea was provided in St. Andrew's Hall, to which forty-seven sat down.

The business meeting followed. Mr. F. F. Linley (Northern Branch President) presiding, supported by the Rev. H. T. Parry (Grimsby District President), Mr. H. I. Mingay (Grimsby District secretary) and Mr. E. Dawber (Gainsborough).

The annual report and balance sheet for 1925 were passed, and the general secretary's report for that year was also adopted.

The whole of the officers were re-elected. Apologies for absence were announced from Canon Hicks, Messingham, also from Messrs. G. Chester, J. A. Freeman and J. Walden.

The following new members were elected: Major H. D. Marshall, T.D., D.L., J.P., G.C., of Pilham Hall, Mr. J. J. Stokes, Mr. F. G. Wileman and Mr. E. Dyson, all of Gainsborough, as honorary members; also Mr. G. Tyson (Coxhill), Messrs. G. Troop, P. Scrimshaw and L. Ayre, all of Willingham, as performing members.—Sleaford was selected as the place for the next annual meeting, the date to be arranged by the general secretary, in conjunction with the secretary of the Sleaford District.

Mr. Linley made reference to the Cathedral Bells Memorial Fund, and expressed the hope that the members of the branch would do their best toward bringing this scheme to a successful issue. He also, later on, gave some interesting information respecting the Cathedral ringers in days gone by.

The Rev. H. Law James, in acknowledging a hearty welcome from the branch, said he was pleased to see such a good number of young members, and intimated that that was the best time for them to take up the art of change ringing.

Votes of thanks were passed to the incumbents for the use of the bells; the Rev. T. Russel Warrilow for his address; the acolyte who assisted at the service; Mr. H. Rushby for presiding at the organ; the caterers for the excellent tea provided; the general secretary for his report, and Mr. Linley for acting as chairman.—This concluded the business, after which further ringing took place.

The best thanks of the members are also due to Mr. Mingay and all those who assisted him in making the meeting such a success.

HANDBELLS IN CHURCH SERVICE.

On Sunday afternoon, June 13th, a special service in connection with the Men's Brotherhood was held in Lawton Church, Cheshire. The bells were rung for the service, then six of the ringers went down from the belfry to the body of the church and rendered a handbell accompaniment for all the hymns. They also played a selection and the voluntary as the people were leaving church. The organist played the opening voluntary and accompanied two solos sung by Miss A. Bigby. Everyone expressed the opinion that it was one of the most delightful services they had been to.

The collection was for the War Memorial, which takes the form of a new porch. The address was given by the Rector, Rev. W. Harrison, and the subject was 'The Power of Music.'

The ringers would like to know if this has ever been done in a church before. The writer is of opinion that if more use were made of those dusty handbells seen hanging in many belfries, beginners would show a much keener interest in the Exercise than they do at present in many towers.

NORTH NOTTS ASSOCIATION.

ANNUAL FESTIVAL AND MEETING.

The thirty-ninth annual meeting of the North Notts Association was held at East Retford on Saturday, June 12th. The weather was not all that could be desired, and delayed and also prevented a large number from attending. Nevertheless, thirty-seven members from local and kindred associations took part in the ringing, and attended the service and tea which followed. They came from Anston, Barlborough, Cuckney, Tickhill, Sutton-on-Trent, Hough-on-the-Hill, Treton, Doncaster, Arksey, Gainsborough, Misterton, Worksop, North Wheatley, East and West Retford, and Ordsall. At the service an appropriate and helpful address was given by the Rev. R. F. Wilkinson, Rector of Ordsall. Mr. H. Blagg, one of the ringers, officiated on the harmonium.

Tea was well served at Cooke's Cafe, after which the business meeting took place, presided over by the Rev. R. F. Wilkinson, and supported by the hon. secretary (Mr. H. Haigh) and others, including a number of lady ringers. Allusion was made to the decease of two members since the last meeting, viz., the president (the Bishop of Southwell) and the Rev. Berham Darby, of Richmond, Surrey, formerly of Harthill, who was hon. secretary of the association from 1895 to 1912, and an honorary member for twenty-nine years. A tribute was paid to both, and the ringers stood in silence for a few moments.

The hon. secretary read a letter from the present Lord Bishop of Southwell, who stated that he would be glad to accept the office of President of the Association as successor to Bishop Hoskins. His Lordship stated that his cousin, the late Sir A. P. Heywood, was very keen on change ringing, and occupied at one time the position of President of the Midland Counties Association and also of the Central Council. He regretted that it would not be possible for him to attend the meeting.

The Hon. Secretary read the annual report and financial statement, which were unanimously adopted. In the course of his report the hon. secretary was able to record progress, both numerically and financially, in this the 39th year of the association's existence. In the list of special performances, the Sutton-on-Trent ringers, which included two ladies, were the only band to ring a full peal of 5,040 changes during the year, this being the first peal ever rung on the new bells.

The East Retford Company had rung during the year eight quarter-peals of Bob Major and Grandsire Triples—some of the members ringing their first quarter-peal. Last, but not least, the St. James's Society, Anston, had again rung upwards of one hundred Minor extents, viz., 103 720's in 103 methods. They had met for practice weekly, and rung twice every Sunday for Divine service (with few exceptions) to achieve this wonderful record. Sickness amongst the ringing members, and also near the church, caused them to stop ringing for a time. What it was possible for the Anston ringers to achieve, other companies could do, with grit and ambition to reach a higher standard of ringing. In the matter of bell restoration, the Secretary reported that the six bells at Tuxford are to be re-cast, and a new iron frame put in, with arrangements made to hold two more bells in the tower to complete the octave. The Everton tower, once affiliated to the association, and which it is hoped very shortly to include in the ranks again, is also having the bells re-hung in a new frame, and thus two more rings of bells in North Notts will be in good order for the ringers of the association; and especially for the Tuxford ringers, who have laboured hard in the past to ring the bells at all. The list of new members has not been quite so large as last year: all towers but one are now affiliated. We are pleased to welcome the following as vice-presidents: Rev. R. F. Wilkinson, Rector of Ordsall; Rev. F. W. J. Daniels, Rector of North Wheatley; Rev. A. Parkinson, Vicar of East Retford; Rev. P. E. Boswell, Rector of Harthill; and a number of probationary, performing, and unattached members. The membership roll contains the names of 17 vice-presidents, 217 probationary, performing, unattached and non-resident life members. The balance in bank and secretary's hands showed a sum of £29 5s. 10d., being a gain on the year's working of £2 0s. 10d.

The Rev. Alfred Parkinson, East Retford, was elected a vice-president; Mr. George Challans, of Shireoaks, a performing member; and Messrs. Sydney Mason and Cecil Lye, of North Wheatley, probationary members.

The officers were all re-elected, except the assistant hon. secretary, Mr. H. Weaver, who resigned on account of the claims of Saturday afternoon and Sunday work. Mr. H. Revill, of Tunnel Road, Ordsall, Retford, willingly consented to fill the vacancy.

Votes of thanks to the three incumbents for use of bells, to the Rev. Alfred Parkinson for arranging the service, and to the Rev. R. F. Wilkinson for his valuable address to the members in church and for presiding over tea and meeting, concluded the business.

During the afternoon and evening the following methods were rung: Plain Bob, Kent and Oxford Treble Bob Minor, Grandsire Triples, Stedman Triples, Grandsire Caters and Kent Treble Bob Royal.

The next meeting will be held at Cuckney in July, and will be advertised as usual in 'The Ringing World.'

BURES, SUFFOLK.—On Friday, June 11th, at the Parish Church, 720 London Surprise Minor: C. Smith 1, A. Saunders 2, F. Claydon 3, W. Arnold 4, W. Burgess (conductor) 5, D. Elliott 6. This is the first 720 in the method on the bells; also first of London by all, with the exception of W. Burgess.

KING'S NORTON TO HAVE TEN BELLS.

Things are moving forward at King's Norton. The popular ringing master, Mr. F. B. Yates, has offered to give two new trebles to the recently re-cast peal to make a ring of ten.

The Vicar has expressed his great pleasure in accepting them, and the Church Council, at their last meeting, enthusiastically passed a resolution requesting the Vicar and churchwardens to apply for the necessary faculty.

DEVON GUILD.

The quarterly meeting of the North-East Branch of the Devon Guild was held at Bradninch on Saturday, June 19th, and was blessed by glorious weather. About 45 members of the Guild were present, and were warmly welcomed by the Rev. H. Voden (curate-in-charge), in the absence of the Vicar, and the local band of ringers. Towers represented were Christow, Talaton, Sowton, Calverleigh, Chipstaple, Ken, Tiverton, Paignton, Thorverton, Silverton, Huntsham, Messrs. Shepherd and Laver from Exeter, the Rev. E. V. Cox from Exmouth, and Rev. E. S. Powell (President) from Holbeton. Touches of Bob Major, Stedman Triples and Grandsire were brought round.

The local ringers were elected an associate band of the Guild, and arrangements will be made for their instruction in the art of change ringing.

An excellent tea was provided in the Church Hall by Mr. and Mrs. Squire and many willing helpers.

HEREFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

A most successful annual festival was held at Hereford on May 24th, in spite of the fact that many were kept away by the want of railway facilities. After the service in the Cathedral, the members to the number of seventy-seven sat down to dinner in the beautiful Boothe Hall. The Bishop of Hereford presided, and in the course of his speech said that he valued very highly the work that the Guild was doing in the diocese.

Mr. W. Allen bore witness to the good work done by Mr. Edwards, both while he was Ringing Master and now that he was Master of the Guild. Mr. W. H. Fussell, a life-member, reminded the members that this was the fortieth anniversary of the founding of the Guild.

Mr. A. W. Davis made excellent arrangements for motoring ringers to towers in the district.

A business meeting was held after the dinner.

ST. ANDREW'S BELLS, PLYMOUTH.

The fine peal of ten bells of St. Andrew's Church, Plymouth, have recently been overhauled and rehung by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank. The work comprised rehanging the 10 bells in ball bearings, new rollers, additional holding-down bolts and dogs to main girders, new ropes, scraping and painting frame and fittings, new crown staples to some of the bells, and readjusting all the clappers.

At the opening trial, at which the president and many prominent members of the Devon Guild were present, all expressed themselves highly pleased with the 'go.'

Mr. Jesse Tyler, who was in charge of the work, is to be congratulated upon the result, particularly the even clapping of the bells, which is as near perfection as possible. All the bells clapper up right, a boy being able to clapper the tenor up as easily as the treble. This is remarkable, considering the tenor weighs 35 cwt. Messrs. Mears and Stainbank have certainly completed a most satisfactory job in every respect.

THE ANCIENT BELLS OF EYAM.

AN APPEAL.
To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—The little village of Eyam, in the Peak of Derbyshire, was visited by the Great Plague of London in 1655-6, when 300 out of its population of 360 fell victims to the disease. The people, by their heroic unselfishness in voluntarily isolating themselves, prevented the plague from spreading to the country round. At that time four bells hung in the church tower dating from 1618-28. They have just been taken down as unsafe, and are to be re-hung with the addition of two new ones given as memorials. The re-hanging, together with repairs to the tower roof and doors, will cost about £400, and the work is already in hand.

Perhaps the story of the brave men of Eyam, which finds a place in 'A Book of Golden Deeds,' may be an inducement to some of my brother ringers, who are lovers of the village and its history, to help us in preserving for future use our bells which rang in the days of the Plague.

Any donations entrusted to me will be very gratefully acknowledged and handed over to the Church Council.—Yours etc.,

(Rev.) W. PETER WRIGHT.

'EDUCATING' THE PUBLIC.

The extraordinary ignorance of the majority of the public on matters relating to bells and ringing is perhaps not all the fault of the public. Hidden away in the belfry, heard but seldom seen, the ringer carries on his craft, perfectly content in his art, and indifferent to outside applause or interest. Indeed, there is sometimes a tendency to encourage an air of mystery, and we cannot therefore blame the public if they get some very ill-conceived ideas, not only as to what change ringing really is, but as to how it is done. Only last Saturday, in one of the leading London dailies, a writer describing the great scoring board at Lord's Cricket Ground, in anticipation of the Test match, explained its mechanism, which, it was stated, is operated by one man. 'But,' said the writer, in a graphic phrase, 'when a Carr, a Chapman or a Woolley gets going, and puts on twenty runs in an over, the operator has to jump about like a bell ringer engaged in a Grandsire Triple.' It would be interesting to know exactly what this writer imagines the actual practice of bell ringing involves. Presumably he thinks there is one ringer to eight bells, who jumps about the belfry pulling each rope in turn. Be that as it may, it is an admirable example of how little outsiders know of our craft.

We have often urged that greater opportunities should be made to educate the public in regard to the science of change ringing. We believe that a wider knowledge on the part of the public would give them a greater interest in the bell ringers' work. Not that it would ever remove the objections of that small minority who desire to see all church bells perpetually silenced, but it would enable people to realise that in ringing a peal, the men engaged are performing a feat which ranks for merit, both in its physical and mental application, far higher than many of the things for which others are acclaimed as popular heroes. To this end, therefore, we welcome the first talk on bells and bell ringing given last Saturday from the London Studio of the British Broadcasting Company, and illustrated by ringers at Bow Church. This talk was given mainly to young people, but their interest is of at least as great importance as that of older folk. Not only is it likely that imagination in them may be stirred, but one result of a series of these talks—and it is proposed that others shall follow—may be that young folks may come into the ranks of practical ringers. Even if it has no such ultimate effect, a better understanding of some mysteries and of the fascination that lie behind the art must lead to a greater appreciation of bell ringing. At the same time, the ringers themselves can do something by way of interesting the public, and one of the most important is to give them good ringing. Bad striking is a bad advertisement; good striking will win appreciation from listeners outside. A broadcast talk will educate the public, good ringing will retain their interest.

THE DISTRIBUTION OF 'THE RINGING WORLD.'

HOW TO OBTAIN THE STRIKE PERIOD ISSUES

As one of the effects of the strike in the newspaper distributing trade, many of our readers appear not to have received their copies of 'The Ringing World.'

For their information we would say that the only week for which there was no issue of the paper was May 7th. The issues of May 14th and 21st were published as usual, and should be obtainable through the newsagents.

Ringers who have not yet received 'The Ringing World' for these dates should send 3d. per copy to the EDITORIAL OFFICE, 63, COMMERCIAL ROAD, WOKING, when the paper will be dispatched to them, post free.

Those who are unable to obtain 'The Ringing World' regularly and promptly through a newsagent can have it sent direct from our Woking Office for 4/- per quarter (including postage), prepaid.

FIRST BROADCAST LECTURE ON BELLS.

The interesting broadcast talk on bells and bell-ringing last Saturday brought the subject before a far larger audience than ever before had listened at one time to a lecture on this matter. From the London studio of the B.B.C. Mr. W. Roughton, of the College Youths, talked in a homely manner to young folks about the way in which bells were cast and rung, and his remarks were illustrated by examples of ringing at Bow Church, Cheapside, carried out under the direction of Mr. Herbert Langdon. The 'tapping,' chiming and ringing of bells were all illustrated. The co-operation between studio and belfry was perfectly arranged, and those who listened had a lucid, practical exposition of the subject, which took them as far as the ringing of bells in rounds.

Later there is to be another talk on change-ringing, and if in the meantime ringers find strangers making their way to the belfry and wanting to be shown the bell chamber and the bells in motion, they will know it is the result of Mr. Roughton's talk over the wireless, for he concluded with the suggestion that those who were interested should get in touch with their local church and find out about the ringers and their work.

WORCESTERSHIRE & DISTRICTS ASSOCIATION.

A quarterly meeting of the northern branch was held at the beautiful village of Kinver on Saturday, June 19th. The bells were kept going in various methods during the afternoon, and service was held in the Parish Church, conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. T. A. Cooper Slipper). Mr. W. Basterfield presided at the organ.

The business meeting which followed was held in the schools, the Rev. T. A. Cooper Slipper presiding. He was supported by Messrs. A. Hackett (ringing master of the branch), R. Matthews (ringing master of the association), A. E. Parsons, W. Short, T. J. Salter and A. J. Skelding (secretary of the branch).

Several new members were enrolled, and it was decided to hold the next meeting on the third Saturday in September at Wolverley.

Mr. T. J. Salter moved that a very hearty vote of thanks be tendered to the Vicar of Kinver for arranging the service and presiding at the meeting, and also to Mr. Basterfield.

The following towers were well represented: Selly Oak, Smethwick, Rowley Regis, Netherton, Old Hill, Cradley, Harborne, Brierley Hill, Wordsley, Wollaston, Lye, Stourbridge, Clent, Bromsgrove, Kidderminster, and Kinver.

NOTES BY THE WAY.

ELIJAH ROBERTS—THE GREATEST OF ALL PEAL TAPPERS.

BY J. ARMIGER TROLOPE.

Elijah Roberts was born in Birmingham on May 23rd, 1807, when Thurston was eighteen years old. He began to take an interest in ringing at the early age of twelve, and became a skilled ringer, composer and conductor. His first peal was at Aston in 1821, one of Grandsire Triples, when he rang the second. This peal was conducted by Thomas Day, and was his first peal also. Day was afterwards one of the leading men in Birmingham, and a composer of much more than average ability. He is best known to-day as a composer of Treble Bob. His 16,608 was for long considered the extent possible in the method. It has been twice rung, first in the Kent variation at Mottram, conducted by Samuel Wood, and later in the Oxford variation at Debenham, conducted by James Motts.

In all, Roberts rang over a hundred tower bell peals, and we must always remember that fifty years ago a hundred peals took as much getting as five times that number to-day. I make this statement as to the number of Roberts' peals on the authority of Henry Johnson, who, of course, knew him intimately, but Jasper Snowdon was very sceptical on the point, and did not believe he had rung anything like that number. Among his peals were the following: February 1st, 1832, 5,104 Treble Bob Cinques at St. Martin's, Birmingham, the first in the method; Sept. 23rd, 1833, 6,000 Kent Treble Bob Royal at St. Mary's, Cheltenham, which he composed and conducted from the seventh; and July 6th, 1834, 6,282 Grandsire Caters at Aston, which he composed and conducted from the ninth. He seems to have started tapping changes from the very first, and his first peal in this way was in 1824, when he was sixteen years old. It consisted of a plain course of each of the following: Grandsire, Plain Bob, Stedman and Treble Bob Triples; Grandsire, Plain Bob and Treble Bob Major; Grandsire, Plain Bob and Treble Bob Caters; Grandsire, Plain Bob and Treble Bob Royal; Grandsire, Plain Bob, Stedman and Treble Bob Cinques; Grandsire, Plain Bob and Treble Bob Maximus; and a plain course of Treble Bob Sixteen-in; the whole consisting of 5,186 changes in 3 hours and 27 minutes. This was and still remains a marvellous performance. Only ten years before, Thurston's three courses of Bob Major in 14 minutes had been hailed as 'the greatest performance in the art in the British Dominions.' What a difference between the two performances! I should imagine that even the tapping of a peal of London Surprise Major does not compare with this.

Three years later he tapped 5,040 of Kent Treble Bob Maximus in 3 hours and 40 minutes, and on April 9th 7,536 in the same method in 4 hours and 51 minutes. This was longer than any peal at that time rung in the method; but, of course, such comparisons have no value at all.

In 1833 he was living at the Union Tavern, Jamaica Row, Birmingham, and on June 30th in that year he performed a memorable feat. This was a peal of 5,016 Stedman Cinques, composed by himself and conducted by Henry Cooper. Roberts and Cooper were in a room by themselves, and in the adjoining room was a large number of ringers, who heard the peal from start to finish. Henry Johnson was one of these, and his testimony alone is sufficient to prove the truth of the performance.

In 1835 he left Birmingham, and afterwards went to Liverpool, where he was landlord of the Derby Arms, and there he accomplished two performances, which completely put in the shade everything that he had previously done himself, and everything that has since been done in tapping. The first, on March 23rd, 1837, was a completed peal of Kent Treble Bob Maximus, 19,440 changes, which took 13 hours and 43 minutes, and a fortnight later 6,720 Kent Treble Bob Sixteen-in in 6 hours, 28 minutes. This last was not a complete peal. He started for 33,600 changes (think of it!) but after six courses he probably found the strain too great, and stopped at the part end.

Here is a letter written by himself, in which he describes his tapping performances:—

'The 19,440 of the Treble Bob Maximus I rung in Liverpool on the 23rd of March, 1837. I commenced at 19 minutes before Four in the morning and finished at 24 minutes past Five in the afternoon. I am sorry that no amateur heard it. The neighbours said they thought I should never give in, for they heard the bells ringing hours before they got up and almost until bed time again. The peal of Treble Bob on 16 bells, if you can call it one (for the bells did not come round) I rung about a fortnight after the 19,440 in Liverpool, and is called exactly the same as the first six courses of the 19,000, and consisted of 6,720 changes, the course end where I stopt being 1 4 5 6 2 3 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16. I was 6 hours and 28 minutes doing it. Now, my ambition was to have rung all the 30 courses, which would be 33,600 changes, and at the same rate I should have been five times 6 hours and 28 minutes, or 32 hours and 20 minutes, so I abandoned the idea; but I have rung every change by one course at a time. As you request me to send you all the particulars, I have rung the greatest number of Treble Bob Maximus and Treble Bob Cinques in the world. There has only been one peal of Treble Bob Cinques rung, and that was at St. Martin's, Birmingham. You and I assisted in it. The peal of Treble Bob Cinques I rang contained 6,424 changes, and is the same peal as the 7,536 of Treble Bob Maximus. I was 3 hours and 48 minutes. The first peal I rung on the handbells was about 20 years ago, for I don't know the precise date, but it was published in one of the Birmingham newspapers. The number of changes was between 5 and 6 thousand, and was composed of nothing but Plain courses, viz., Grandsire Triples, Plain Bob Triples, Treble Bob Triples, Grandsire Caters, Plain Bob Caters, Treble Bob Caters, Grandsire Royal, Plain Bob Royal, Treble Bob Royal, Grandsire Cinques, Plain Bob Cinques, Treble Bob Cinques, Grandsire Maximus, Plain Bob Maximus, Treble Bob Maximus. Also one, and the last course was Treble Bob Sixteen, for I don't know what other name to give it. Now, this may not be considered of much note, but I assure you that to ring three different methods and on different number of bells; and as soon as one plain course is rung and the bells come round to strike immediately into another from 8 bells into 16 is no joke.'

We can well believe his last statement. You will notice that, writing from memory, he omits to mention the course of Major he rang, and also the Stedman on all the odd numbers.

CLEVELAND & NORTH YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION

The annual meeting was held at Northallerton on Whit-Monday, when members attended from Tadcaster, Darlington (St. John's), Middlesbrough, Wath, Stockton-on-Tees, Saltburn, and the local company. Service was arranged for noon, but had to be put off as no ringers could get there in time on account of the railway strike having interfered with the train service. Lunch at Twiddle's Cafe was presided over by the Rev. Canon Brown, Vicar of Northallerton, in the absence of the president (the Rev. A. Simpson), who was under the doctor at that time.

The business meeting was presided over by Mr. J. C. Pollard, and after the loyal toast had been honoured a letter was read from the president, tendering his resignation on account of his being unable to attend the meetings regularly. It was, however, decided to ask Mr. Simpson to carry on for another year.

The secretary's report and balance-sheet were read and approved.

The motion, of which the president had given notice, to alter the date of the annual meeting to September instead of Whit-Monday, was proceeded with.

The Sunday service sheets sent in were very creditable, and the officers hope that there will be more sheets sent in at the end of another year. Saltburn-by-the-Sea took first place, and Skelton-in-Cleveland, where there is a very promising young band, were second. Several new members were elected.

All the retiring officers were re-elected, and votes of thanks passed to the Vicar and churchwardens for allowing the use of the bells, also to the retiring officers for their services during the past year. The following towers were selected for meetings during the year:—September 4th, Carlton-in-Cleveland; Easter Monday, 1927, Stockton-on-Tees; annual meeting, 1927, Thirsk.

CHORLEY'S SWAYING TOWER.

Owing to the considerable movement of the tower there has been little ringing done since the war on the bells of St. Mary's (R.C.) Church, Chorley, Lancs, but on Sunday, June 20th, the bells were rung on the occasion of the R.C. Sunday School's procession. Touches of Grandsire and 720's of Kent Treble Bob and Plain Bob Minor were rung, the following taking part: A. Blogg, H. Lucas, E. Coxhead, W. Blackledge, J. Watkinson, J. H. Gartside, F. Rigby, W. Sharples and G. Hewitt.

The bells are a good toned peal by Warner, with tenor over 18 cwt. in E, and it is hoped that they may be shortly re-hung at a lower level in the tower, and thus render the latter safer when ringing takes place.

IRTHLINGBOROUGH RINGERS VISIT BEDFORDSHIRE TOWERS.

On Saturday, June 5th, the Irtlingborough ringers, their wives and friends, had their annual outing. A start was made about 7 a.m. by charabanc, and after calling at Finedon, Wellingborough, and Wollaston for other ringing friends, the party settled down very comfortably for the run to Woburn, where they arrived about 9.5, and were met by Mr. Cyril Herbert. Some of the visitors soon had the delightful peal of eight going to various methods, while others inspected the beautiful church and strolled through the park to see the rhododendrons, now in all their beauty. After spending an hour and a half in this pleasant spot, the bells being kept going the whole of the time, another move was made to Dunstable, and here they were welcomed by Mr. A. E. Sharman, and finding another fine eight they soon had them raised. Some of the party were rather 'windy' about climbing the ladder to the ringing chamber, although some of the ladies bravely did so. Another way, however, being found, most of the ringing members eventually found their way up to have a pull, and touches in several methods were successfully brought round. The journey was then continued to Luton, the headquarters for the afternoon. They received a hearty welcome from Mr. A. King, and after an excellent dinner went to the beautiful Parish Church, and had the pleasure of hearing a short recital on the magnificent organ. Three pieces were played—a 'Prelude and fugue,' a 'Pastorale,' and the ever-welcome 'Hallelujah Chorus'—a treat which was heartily appreciated. Then the bells were set going to various methods for about an hour and a half, after which there was an adjournment for tea. A course of Grandsire Caters and selections were then rung on the handbells, to the great delight of the company present, and the return journey was commenced about 7 p.m. The methods rung during the day were Stedman Triples, Double Norwich, Kent Treble Bob Major, Superlative, Cambridge, Bristol and London Surprise. There was some very good ringing; in fact, both at Woburn and Dunstable every touch and course attempted was successfully brought round, and at Luton only two attempts came to grief, one of these being due to a misunderstanding, a false start being made.

The best thanks of the party are due to the clergy of the three churches for the use of the bells, also to Mr. Cyril Herbert and Mr. A. E. Sharman, and last, but not least, to Mr. A. King for his kindness in making the necessary catering arrangements, also for his arranging with the organist for the musical treat which was so thoroughly enjoyed.

STAPLEHURST, KENT.—On Whit-Sunday, for morning service, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples in 46 mins.: B. Thirkell 1, H. Baker 2, Mrs. H. Baker 3, T. Pope 4, L. Honess (Wingham) 5, J. Head 6, B. Baker 7, T. E. Sone (conductor) 8.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

Mr. Frederick W. Thornton, of Greenwich, writes: 'The first "Frederick" peal was one of Stedman Triples, rung for the Middlesex County Association at the Church of All Saints, Poplar, London, E., on Saturday, October 17th, 1903.' This was conducted by Mr. Thornton. The claim for the Rolvenden peal has been withdrawn.

In our last issue we recorded a 720 London Surprise Minor rung at Bures, Suffolk, as the first in the method on the bells. An extent in this method was, however, rung here by the Leytonstone company during their annual outing on June 24th, 1922.

The late Canon Simpson's widow has been much interested in the Central Council's discussion on Simpson tuning and a pamphlet issued by the honorary secretary on 'Hell Tones.'

The first peal on the ten bells at All Saints', Poplar, which have this year been re-cast and re-hung, was rung on July 3rd, 1923, in celebration of the consecration of the church.

The anniversary of the first performance of Holt's Original is on Wednesday next. It was on Sunday, July 7th, 1751, that John Holt himself called the peal from manuscript at St. Margaret's Church, Westminster.

James Barham's last peal was rung at Leeds, Kent, on July 8th, 1817. He was then ninety-one years of age. In course of time this record may go, for while there's life there's hope for that other James—he of England.

The friends of Mr. Bernard W. Witchell, of 58, New Street, Erdington, will be sorry to hear that he is now in the General Hospital, Steelhouse Lane, Birmingham, to undergo an internal operation.

By a peal of Cambridge Surprise Minor at West Grinstead, on Saturday, Messrs. F. Bennett and Keith Hart completed the Cambridge circuit, having now rung peals in this method on 6, 8, 10 and 12 bells.

Apparently bell-ringing is not Mr. James George's only forte. A garden party is held annually at 'St. Helena,' Gravely Hill, Erdington, the residence of Councillor R. R. Gelling, in connection with Bishop Ryder's church, Birmingham. Both in 1924 and 1925 Mr. J. George won a first prize. On Wednesday in last week he won two first prizes—one for 'ping-pong,' the other for 'quoits.' In 1911 he knocked out sixty-three players, and won the record prize in the bowling alley at the Rugby Conservative Club.

A JUBILEE PEAL.

In connection with the jubilee of St. Mark's Church, Glodwick, a peal of Kent Treble Bob Major was rung on June 19th, as recorded elsewhere. It was also the jubilee of the first peal on the bells, which was rung on June 14th, 1876. This was John Holt's ten-part peal of Grandsire Triples, and the ringers were: Joseph Wilkinson (conductor) treble, James Platt 2nd, John Whittaker 3rd, William Kenworthy 4th, William Ashworth 5th, George Ashworth 6th, Samuel Woodcock 7th, and Abraham Weeder tenor.

TINY PARISH APPEALS FOR BELL FUND.

The Vicar and churchwardens of All Saints' Church, Tilsforth, Leighton Buzzard, a small parish of about 140 inhabitants, comprising four farms and the Vicarage, which has been let for years to Col. Fenwick (the Vicar having charge of two parishes, Stanbridge and Tilsforth), have issued the following appeal for the Bell Fund:—

The belfry of this ancient church is in a complete state of decay. The bells, a peal of five, all cast in 1776 by Emerton, of Wootton (Beds), are cracked and out of tune and need re-casting. The oak frame supporting the bells, probably of pre-Reformation date, will have to be entirely renewed.

Before these repairs can be effected and the bells once again peal over the countryside, £350 will have to be raised. The parish, a poor one, while doing all in its power to contribute itself, is compelled to appeal for help outside, and invites your kind sympathy and support.

ISLEWORTH BELLS FUND.

In connection with the scheme initiated by the Middlesex County Association and London Diocesan Guild for augmenting the ring of eight at Isleworth to a peal of ten, special collections were made on Sunday week. Three quarter-peals were rung for the services—the first time this has been done at Isleworth.

A quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples was rung for morning service: E. V. Beadle 1, W. H. Hollier 2, T. Beadle 3, A. Harding 4, E. F. Cole 5, H. W. Lidbetter (conductor) 6, J. A. Trollope 7, A. Sheard 8.—For evening service, a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples: W. H. Hollier 1, J. A. Trollope 2, W. H. Wood 3, H. Bungay 4, R. Thompson 5, A. Harding 6, J. R. Mackman (conductor) 7, H. Brooks 8.—After evening service, 1,378 Bob Major: T. Beadle 1, J. A. Trollope (conductor) 2, W. H. Wood 3, H. Bungay 4, R. Thompson 5, W. H. Hollier 6, A. Harding 7, J. R. Mackman 8.

THE CENTRAL COUNCIL.

RINGERS ON ADVISORY COMMITTEES.

The Rev. H. Law Jones moved the following resolution:—For as much as the church towers of England contain a large number of valuable old bells, the Central Council of Church Bell Ringers requests the Diocesan Advisory Committees of the various dioceses to co-opt some members having knowledge of the archaeology, tuning and proper hanging of bells, to form a special sub-committee to advise them, when necessary, on all questions relating to the tuning, recasting or re-hanging of bells, in order that bells may not needlessly be re-cast, and that re-hanging shall be carried out in a proper manner.

He said they would remember some years ago the Council passed a resolution somewhat similar to this, and, as far as he knew, very little came of it. In his own diocese the Dean pointed out to him the reason why the original proposal was fruitless. It was that advisory committees could hardly put a change ringer on their own body as a permanent member, because the committee had to deal with all sorts of things besides bells, and the ringer might be totally incompetent to deal with anything else.

Mr. Rupert Richardson seconded.

The Rev. H. Drake said he thought they would all be agreed about this. He would like to say the reason why he held up his hand against the amendment which the Council had just carried (relating to Simpson tuning) was that they as a Council were in the habit of making out they could not do things they ought to do and which they had a duty to do. He did not think they should have passed a resolution in the words adopted. Their work as a Council of ringers for the whole of England was to lay down certain lines on which other people could act. They could not expect advisory committees to know anything about the technical uses of bells, or to know much about the periods when, from an historic point of view bells became worthless. These were matters on which the Council should lay down lines; there was no one else could do it if they didn't. He thought the Council should go on and lay down lines as to when they thought bells were so old that they ought not to be broken up, and also lay down lines on which bells should be hung so that they were no nuisance to ringers or, what was more important, to the people outside the tower.

Mr. C. H. Howard said he was acting on the Advisory Committee in the Chelmsford Diocese, and had been able to do some useful work. At first he was received by some with suspicion, but he found they were now only too ready to co-operate and to listen to any suggestions that came from a society of change ringers. His committee had been exceedingly kind, and had listened to his suggestions, and he believed they had now scrapped the idea of a professional man coming down to the tower to inspect the bells; instead they asked him to do it for them. Mr. Howard spoke of the danger of 'clocking' bells, and suggested the Council should do all they could to get rural Deans to find out from all incumbents whether this practice was allowed. A lot of beautiful old bells had been destroyed by 'clocking.'

Mr. C. Mee said this had been done in Suffolk.

Mr. F. Wilford said in the Peterborough diocese the authorities at first were a little shy of taking anyone who was a ringer on the committee, but, as with their friends in Essex, these little difficulties were soon got over, and the committee were now very thankful for the information which some of the ringers could give them.

The Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn said it was not always necessary that an advisory committee should co-opt someone who had a knowledge of bells, if they had someone to refer to. In the Oxford Diocese he was not on the Advisory Committee, but he was now referred to in every single case; if a tower contemplated having anything done, he was sent for and reported. On the question of bell-tuning, he did not consider he was learned in the subject, but he did know something about it; he knew, in fact, how little he did know, and he always left the point open for the people of the church concerned. His reports came before the Advisory Committee and were considered, and the chairman had told him that he was in a far stronger position than if he were on the committee.

The President pointed out that the matter was before the Council last year, when a letter was sent to the secretary of every diocesan conference, calling attention to the fact that it was absolutely necessary that someone acquainted with ringing and ringing matters should be placed on the Advisory Committee, pointing out that in several dioceses that had been done, and asking that it might be done in all. There was no harm in hammering at the matter again.

The motion was put and carried nem. con.

RAILWAY TRAVELLING FACILITIES.

The following motion was proposed by Mr. E. Guise: That the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association earnestly requests the Central Council to continue to press the Railway Clearing Board for cheaper travelling facilities to be granted to ringers. He said, when the association took the matter up last year with the local superintendent at Bristol they were able to convince him that cheaper travelling facilities for ringers were as essential as they were for golfers. They pointed out to him that it was difficult to get a party of twelve ringers from one station when, perhaps, there were only five or six, or even eight bells, in the town or village. He clearly saw their point of view, and promised to lend them all his help.

Mr. E. Bishop, who seconded, said the matter was one of vital interest to ringers, and it would be very much appreciated if they could get the concession. They would have to go cautiously to work, and what they wanted was someone with influence in the railway world to be interested in it, so that he could put their views before the Railway Clearing House. It had been suggested that a committee should be appointed to consider the matter and bring it forward at an opportune time. The present was, perhaps, not an opportune time, but they ought to be ready to put the scheme forward at the right moment.

The President said that this matter had been brought forward again and again. Many years ago a deputation went to the Clearing House and they were turned down. The question had been brought up again since, but with no better result. He was perfectly certain of this, they must get into touch with one of the magnates of the railway world if anything was to be done. As Mr. Bishop lived at Swindon he was probably acquainted with someone connected with the railway whom he could 'sound' on the matter.

The Hon. Secretary said that last year he had an interview with a prominent railway official, and they discussed some of the difficulties, one of which was the question of identifying the bona-fide ringer going out for practice or peal-ringing. The companies wanted to see that they were not being cheated, but he thought they could get over that difficulty by the production of identity cards. The official whom he saw thought the companies would be inclined to consider the matter again if the difficulties that presented themselves could be overcome, and that they might raise the matter again in, say, twelve months' time. He presumed it would be the Council's wish that he (the secretary) should take the matter up again?

Mr. James George said he did not think the Council were going the right way to work. If they saw or communicated with the general managers they would do better.

Mr. T. E. Beams said thirty years ago this privilege used to be granted on the South Coast Railway. The members had to produce a printed voucher issued by the secretaries, filled in with the ringer's own name. This had to be presented at the booking-office. The Council were only trying to revive what was once a custom on some railways.

Mr. H. E. Pyle said on the Great Eastern Railway they used to have to produce the previous year's subscription receipt to prove membership.

It was resolved to leave the matter in the hands of the president and hon. secretary to take whatever action might be necessary.

'BELLRINGERS' SUNDAY' IMPRACTICABLE.

Mr. T. E. Taffender proposed 'That the Council consider the question of the institution of a "Bellringers' Sunday" by means of an annual service throughout the country, or otherwise, and make recommendations.' This matter had, he said, been given to him by the London County Association to bring forward, in the hope that the Council might be able to draw up a scheme that could be made universal. He was aware that most associations had services at their annual or branch meetings, but the idea behind the resolution was to have services throughout the country on the same Sunday, such as was the case in regard to Hospital Sunday and Territorial Sunday. If such a day could be fixed, ringers would make it their duty to attend in a body, and, if possible, get a ringing parson to give the address.

Mr. A. D. Barker, who seconded, said he believed the proposal originated from a suggestion made by the Vicar of St. Clement Danes.

The Rev. C. D. P. Davies said when he saw the motion on the agenda it almost gave him a little shiver. He did not suppose the lay members of the Council, including the proposer and seconder, had any idea of the way in which the poor parson was requested to have a Sunday for this, a Sunday for that, and a Sunday for the other thing. If they were to take them all up, he doubted if there would be a Sunday left. He rather gathered from what the proposer said, however, that what was in his mind was to have a big service in one big place in each diocese. That, of course, would be quite another thing, but if they had a Sunday for the purpose all over England, where were they going to get their ringing parsons as preachers? A service in some great central place was one thing; a universal Sunday throughout the country was another, and he could not say that he was heart and soul with the proposer.

Mr. T. H. Beams said there were great difficulties in the way of having services throughout England on one Sunday; it could be worked better if it could be a recommendation that every Guild should have a service on one Sunday in the year. That was a more practical proposition and might be possible. Each Guild could arrange such a service or series of services. They might have a central service, as Mr. Davies suggested, but individual services, he thought, were impossible, even in a diocesan manner.

The Rev. H. J. Elsee said in many parishes in the North there was already a 'Ringers' Sunday,' when the collection was given to the Ringers' Fund, and special mention was made in the sermons of their services, and very often a ringing parson was got to preach to the ordinary congregation. He thought, therefore, it would be better worked as a matter for each parish than centrally.

SOCIETY OF ROYAL CUMBERLAND YOUTHS. MEMORIAL SERVICE AT SHOREDITCH.

The coal strike cast its reflection on the attendance at this service on Saturday, inasmuch as the absence of cheap excursions from the provinces, and an irregular train service, prevented many who had intended being present from making the journey. Nevertheless, a good congregation was present, including a fair number of parishioners who take more than a little interest in their fine peal of bells. From 2.30 till the time of the service, Stedman Cinques pealed forth from the tower, previous to which many of the ringers had had a pull on the famed peal at Bethnal Green.

The service opened with the hymn, 'Soldiers of Christ, arise,' followed by prayers and a lesson from Ecc. xlv. 1-15, read by the Rev. W. Pennington Bickford, Rector of St. Clement Danes'. During the singing of 'Ten thousand times ten thousand' the congregation, followed the choir and clergy into the porch under the tower, on the north wall of which the tablets have been placed, the war memorial (of white Sicilian marble on a green marble background) in the centre, and the marbetta peal tablet, recording a half-muffled peal of Stedman Cinques rung to the memory of Queen Alexandra and the victims of the submarine M1 disaster, on its right.

The congregation having taken up position as far as possible to obtain a view of the dedication, Mr. J. D. Matthews (master of the society) asked the Vicar of Shoreditch to accept the tablets from the society and dedicate them. The Rev. F. E. Bird, in a few well-chosen words, expressed his pleasure in complying with the request, and pulled aside the Union Jacks, exposing the tablets to the view of all.

The usual dedicatory prayers were said, followed by an interval of silence. Then came the impressive rendering of 'The Last Post' by buglers of the Boy Scouts, succeeded by the 'Reveille.'

The choir and congregation having returned to the church, 'O God, our Help in ages past,' was sung, and then the Rev. W. Pennington Bickford, well known for his interest in ringing, gave a most appropriate and impressive address.

The concluding hymn, 'The saints of God,' and the Blessing were followed by the singing of the National Anthem.

The memorial tablet is of exceptionally neat design, being headed by a bell. The wording is simple:

The Society of Royal Cumberland Youths.
The Great War, 1914-1918.

Dell, C.
Dewey, H. J.
Lee, W. C.
Stubbs, B. C.
Warner, A.

R.I.P.

It is the work of Messrs. Hoare, of Shooter's Hill, and all present were exceedingly pleased with it. The peal tablet is black marbette with gold lettering.

Ringings took place at the various towers mentioned in the programmes, and in the evening a large company assembled at the Bedford Head, Maiden Lane, and spent a pleasant evening chatting over times gone and times to come.

PRINCE OF WALES' MESSAGE TO M.C.A. CONGRATULATIONS ACKNOWLEDGED.

The first quarterly meeting of the year was held at Belper, near Derby, on Saturday last, and good use was made during the afternoon of the new peal of eight by Messrs. Taylor and Co., all the Standard and several Surprise methods being rung, although the striking left much to be desired. A short service was held in this fine church, at which the Rev. W. Greenwood officiated, and at which the Vicar (the Rev. J. A. Cooper, R.D.) gave an inspiring address.

A committee meeting was held in the Cadena Cafe, and was followed by a substantial meat tea, at which some fifty members from many places sat down. The general meeting followed, the president, Alderman R. B. Chambers, B.A., J.P., being in the chair. He was supported by Mrs. Chambers, the Revs. J. A. Cooper, R.D., and W. Greenwood, Mr. Salter, and the churchwarden.

The new members elected included 6 honorary, 2 life, and 15 ringing.

Mr. Pryce Taylor then gave a brief but interesting account of what transpired at the Central Council meeting at Ipswich on Whit-Tuesday.

The President announced that the new Rules had been printed and issued to each local honorary secretary for distribution. The committee had also granted the £10 10s. promised to Creswell, Derbyshire, towards their new tower and bells, now that the work is progressing favourably.

The Honorary Secretary read out the following letter he had received that morning from H.R.H. the Prince of Wales.—The Private Secretary is desired by the Prince of Wales to ask Mr. Morris to convey to the members of the Midland Counties Association of Change Ringers his sincere appreciation of their good wishes on the occasion of his birthday. His Royal Highness was interested to hear of the peal rung at St. Mary's Church, Coleorton, on Wednesday last.

Heartly votes of thanks to the clergy and local committee were proposed by W. E. White, seconded by J. H. Swinfield, thus bringing a successful and delightful meeting to a close.

SALOP GUILD.

PROPOSED RE-ORGANISATION ON COUNTY BASIS.

A special meeting of the Salop Guild was held at St. Alkmund's Vicarage, Shrewsbury, on June 24th. The Venerable Archdeacon Lambert, of the Salop Archdeaconry, presided, and others present were the Rev. Preb. C. R. Crowe (Coalbrookdale), Major E. R. Trevor Corbett, Mr. E. W. Rodenhurst, ringers from St. Chad's and other towers in the archdeaconry and county, and the Rev. F. Tennison (honorary secretary and treasurer).

The Chairman explained that the object of calling the meeting was to try and revive the activity of the Guild throughout the archdeaconry and county. It was, he said, most desirable that the work done by the Guild should receive every help, encouragement and support.

After carefully discussing the existing rules, it was suggested that the Guild in future should be known as the Salop Guild, leaving out the word 'archidiaconal,' especially to allow the Guild to extend over the whole of the county of Salop. It was also proposed that the Bishops of Hereford and Lichfield should remain patrons, and that the Venerable Archdeacon of Ludlow be a president.

A public meeting, at which all ringers will be welcome, will be held at St. Chad's, Shrewsbury, on Saturday, July 24th. The twelve bells will be available from 3 o'clock, and a service will be held in the church during the afternoon and evening.

A general meeting will be held in St. Chad's Vestry at 5.30, with the Venerable Archdeacon Lambert in the chair. It is desirable that all interested should try and attend—honorary, life and ordinary members.

The Secretary reported that St. Mary's spire was completely restored, also that efforts were being made to have the peal of ten rung for service on Sunday, June 27th. The ringing chamber had been thoroughly cleaned, whitened and painted out; the bells had been overhauled and bearings cleaned, etc.

After the meeting, the visitors met at St. Chad's for a real good practice on handbells. Salop ringers are asked to keep open Saturday, July 24th, and are invited to attend the meeting, further particulars of which will be advertised in 'The Ringing World' of July 16th and 23rd.

After a committee meeting of the Guild, the following touches were rung on handbells at St. Chad's Church: A course of Grandsire Caters, 209 Grandsire Triples, 168 Stedman Triples, 144 Kent and 144 Oxford Treble Bob Minor.

ARCHDEACONRY OF STAFFORD SOCIETY. CATHEDRAL BELLS DENIED TO MEMBERS.

Upwards of eighty members and friends attended the annual meeting, held at Lichfield on Saturday, June 19th, in beautiful weather. The bells of St. Mary's and St. Michael's Churches were at the disposal of members during the afternoon and evening. Unfortunately, the Cathedral bells were not available. Tea was provided at Lloyd's restaurant, after which the general meeting was held, when Mr. J. Perry was voted to the chair.

The report and balance-sheet were read and accepted, the latter showing a satisfactory balance on the right side.

The officers for the ensuing year were re-elected except the ringing master, to which position Mr. C. Wallater was unanimously elected. The following places were selected for the forthcoming meetings:—September, Pensnett; January, Darlaston; April, Bloxwich; June (annual), Lichfield. The suggestion to arrange cycle runs to out-of-the-way places was not supported. The usual vote of thanks terminated the meeting.

The committee's report was as follows: Since the last annual gathering at Lichfield, meetings have been held at Kingswinford, Wednesbury, and Stafford, and they have all been well attended. We are sorry to meet again at Lichfield under the cloud of being forbidden to ring the Cathedral bells. We gratefully acknowledge the kind welcome we receive wherever we go in the archdeaconry, and regret that the one exception should be the mother church of the diocese. A ring of eight bells has been installed at Pensnett, and they have a promising band of young ringers, whom we hope very soon to welcome into the society. The number of peals rung during the year was twenty-seven, the same as last year. A peal of Stedman Triples should have been included in last year's list, which unfortunately was overlooked, but is counted in with the following:—Grandsire Doubles, 1; Grandsire Triples, 4; Grandsire Caters, 2; Stedman Triples, 14; Stedman Cinques, 1; Bob Major, 3; Bob Maximus, 1; Double Norwich C.B. Major, 1; Cambridge Surprise Major, 1; total 28.

Who is the oldest member of our Society? According to the books there are three who have been members since the first day of the society, June 30th, 1885, namely, F. J. Cope and J. Key, of Lichfield, and Reuben Hall (unattached). It is interesting to note that on that same day Roland Cartwright, Wm. Rock Small and Tom Horton also joined. For aggregate years of membership, Tamworth comes easily first. Their six senior members have an average of more than 38 years' service, namely, 40, 39, 39, 38, 37, 36, followed by two more who have been members for 31 and 29 years respectively. The sum of £2 12s. was collected from various towers and sent to the Washbrook Memorial Fund. We regret to record the loss, through death, of Thomas Taylor, of All Saints', West Bromwich, and Frederick Clayton, of Coleshill (life member). R.I.P.

ESSEX ASSOCIATION.*NORTHERN DISTRICT AT FINCHINGFIELD.

One of the most successful meetings of the northern district was held on Saturday last at Finchingfield, under ideal conditions. The weather was perfect, and the village is one of the prettiest in Essex. Built upon the slope of a hill, it is crowned by the magnificent old Parish Church, with its massive tower and Norman doorway dating from 1170, its fine screens (that at the chancel dated fifteenth century, and at the south-east aisle of the fourteenth century) and its ancient font of 1376.

There was an attendance of about forty ringers, representing the following parishes, viz.: Assington, Bardfield, Braintree, Dunmow, Earl's Colne, Feering, Felstead, Finchingfield, Greenstead Green, Great Henny, Rayne, Sudbury, Springfield, Sible Hedingham, Stebbing, Wethersfield, Yeldham, and the visitors received a very hearty welcome from the Vicar and Mrs. Jordan.

The usual Ringers' Office was said in the church by the Vicar, and a most instructive and interesting address given by Mr. A. W. Ruggles Brise, of Spain's Hall, Finchingfield, upon the history of bells and their uses. He also gave the ringers a very hearty welcome to the parish.

After the service the ringers (amongst whom was Miss Wicks, of Wethersfield) sat down to tea generously provided by the Vicar and Mrs. Jordan. The usual business meeting followed, presided over by Mr. F. Claydon, district master, supported by the Vicar, Mr. C. H. Howard, master of the association, Mr. W. Keeble, Mr. D. Elliott, and the district secretary.

The Secretary thanked the meeting for their kind message of sympathy with him in his illness which was passed at the Kelvedon meeting.

Two members (including Miss Wicks) and three probationary members were elected.

The next meeting is to be held at Great Yeldham, subject to the approval of the authorities.

A vote of thanks was passed, upon the proposition of Mr. C. H. Howard, to the Vicar for the use of the bells and holding the service, to the organist for his assistance, to Mr. A. W. Ruggles Brise for his instructive address, to the Vicar and Mrs. Jordan for providing the tea, and to the other ladies who assisted. The Vicar replied that it had been a great pleasure to him to have the meeting at Finchingfield.

At the invitation of the Vicar the company adjourned to inspect and admire the beautiful Vicarage garden, where some well struck touches of Grandsire Caters were rung upon the handbells.

Gradually most of the ringers drifted back to the tower, where touches were rung in the following methods: Grandsire, Kent Treble Bob, Stedman, Double Norwich, Superlative and London Surprise. Some of the ringers upon their way home rang at Great Bardfield and Wethersfield.

TWENTY-ONE TOWERS REPRESENTED AT DISTRICT MEETING.

On Saturday last the members of the north-eastern division of the Essex Association held a very successful meeting at Ardeigh. A service was held at the Parish Church, conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. E. H. Grubbe. Afterwards, by the kind invitation of Mr. R. W. Neuth, fifty-three members sat down to tea in the Neuth Hall. A short business meeting followed, at which four new members were elected. The Harwich company entertained the party with some fine tune ringing on their musical handbells.

The Rev. Gledhill, of Kirby, invited a company to his church for the opening of the new ring of eight bells on Sunday, July 25th, which offer was readily accepted.

It was resolved that the mid-September meeting be held at Langham. It was also proposed that an effort be made to get a joint meeting with the Suffolk Association on that date.

Votes of thanks were passed to Mr. Neuth for his kindness, and also to the Vicar for the use of the bells and for his services. No fewer than twenty-one towers were represented at the meeting.

LADIES' GUILD.

The seventh annual meeting of the southern district was held at Worpleston on Saturday, June 19th. Various methods were rung during the afternoon, but unfortunately the service had to be postponed owing to the indisposition of the Rector. The members, however, enjoyed a welcome tea in the delightful grounds of the Rectory.

Mrs. Bruce was voted to the chair for the business meeting. Miss Hazell and Miss Futler, of Bucklebury, and Miss Evelyn Brown, of Worpleston, were elected ringing members, and Mrs. J. J. Jones, of Guildford, a life member.

The secretary was asked to continue in office, and the committee was elected as follows: Miss B. Mills, Mrs. Whittington, Miss Avenell and Mrs. Melville.

A vote of thanks was accorded to the Rector and Mrs. Bruce for their generous hospitality. The belfry was again visited, and bells kept going until 9 o'clock.

GREAT YARMOUTH.—On Wednesday, June 23rd, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples (1,260 changes): A King 1, W. Harwood 2, W. Arnett 3, D. Hayward 4, H. Wright 5, W. Lee 6, E. Kett (first quarter as conductor) 7, H. Jermy 8. Rung as a compliment to the conductor, whose son, Raymond Ronald, was being christened while the bells were ringing the quarter-peal.

YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION.*A JOINT MEETING.

The quarterly meeting of the Southern Division of the Yorkshire Association at Whiston on Saturday, June 19th, was admirably supported by the various societies in the southern area, including the Sheffield and District, Barnsley and District, and Doncaster and District Societies, and an attendance of nearly sixty was considered very satisfactory, considering the conditions prevailing at the present time in the district. Visitors were present from Conisborough, Tickhill, St. Marie's, Cathedral and All Saints' (Sheffield), Ecclesfield, Bolsover, Rotherham, Arksey, Killamarsh, Doncaster, Pontefract, Handsworth, South Anston, Halifax, Leeds and Bradford, and it was a great pleasure to see the honorary secretary and honorary treasurer of the Yorkshire Association present. The bells, a very nice peal of eight, with tenor of 14 cwt., were kept going from 2.30 up to 5 o'clock, when tea was provided in the Village Institute—a building of which the villagers are very proud, and rightly so, for a more convenient and beautiful place for the purpose would be difficult to imagine. Would that there was such a place in every village in the country.

Touching reference was made by the vice-president (Mr. F. Willey) to the great loss the society had lately sustained by the deaths of three of the members, Messrs: Smithson (All Saints', Sheffield), Sarel (St. Marie's), and Hill (Penistone), and the company showed respect by standing in silence for a minute.

The Rector of Whiston (the Rev. A. G. Alton) was voted to the chair for the business meeting, and was supported by Mr. Willey and Mr. A. Craven (president of the Sheffield District Society). Mr. C. D. Potter (honorary secretary of the Barnsley and District Society) sent an apology for his non-attendance, as he was in Scotland on holiday. It was decided, owing to the annual dinner of the association being held in Sheffield in September, to defer the next quarterly meeting to October 16th at Conisborough.

Mr. G. Lewis, as the originator of the joint meeting, thanked all for their attendance, and hoped that, as it had been such a great success, they would consider the desirability of making the June meeting an annual joint one.

Votes of thanks to the Rector, churchwardens and the ladies were heartily carried, and replied to by the Rector.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION*PLEASANT MEETING AT STANMORE.

In ideal weather some forty members and friends attended a north and east district meeting of the Middlesex County Association and London Diocesan Guild at Stanmore on Saturday, June 19th. Soon after 3.30 the bells were set going to Grandsire Triples, which was quickly followed by Stedman, Bob Major, Bristol Surprise, etc. A short service was held, at which the ringers were addressed by the Rector (Rev. W. A. Hewett). Tea was served in the Institute, and the usual business meeting followed. The president, Mr. F. A. Milne, J.P., took the chair, being supported by the Rev. C. S. Durham, Vicar of Harrow Weald, Mr. W. Pickworth (vice-president), Messrs. Hughes, Hill, Goodship, etc. Four members were admitted, including the Vicar of Harrow Weald as an honorary member.

A short report of the Central Council meeting was given by the president.

The arrangements for the next meeting were left to the honorary secretary, who announced that it was hoped to hold an Essex and Middlesex joint meeting at Waltham Abbey early in August.

A hearty vote of thanks was accorded to the Rector of Stanmore for his address at the service and for the use of the bells. It was regretted that a prior engagement caused his absence from the meeting. Thanks were also given to the Vicar of Harrow Weald for permitting his bells to be rung; also to Messrs. Hill and Hughes for arrangements so ably made for the meeting.

Several members took full advantage of an invitation to use the lovely Rectory garden, handbells on the lawn and boating on the lake being pleasant features. Others made their way to Harrow Weald, where they were welcomed by Mr. Goodship, and assisted the 'locals' in touches of Grandsire Doubles and Bob Minor, and also took part in Kent Treble Bob and Cambridge Surprise.

REVIVAL OF 'RINGING DAY' AT LONG MELFORD

On Saturday, May 29th, a 'ringing day' was held at Holy Trinity Church, Long Melford, when upwards of thirty ringers assembled. The towers represented were Sudbury, Lavenham, Glemsford, Cavenish, Stanstead, Polstead, Coruad, Assington, Henny, Foxearth and Clacton-on-Sea, Essex, and Fulbourn, Cambs. During the afternoon and evening, touches in the following methods were rung:—Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Plain Bob, Double Norwich, Kent and Oxford Treble Bob, and Superlative Surprise, Cambridge coming to grief.

An excellent tea was served at the Scutcher's Arms, to which most of the assembly sat down. Mr. W. R. J. Poulson proposed, in very pleasant terms, a hearty vote of thanks to Host Bixby for the splendid tea provided, to which the latter responded.

This most pleasant gathering was the outcome of a suggestion previously voiced by Mr. A. Symonds, Lavenham, in which he asked for the revival of the old 'ringing day,' which had been in former years held on the local fair-day.

MIDLAND COUNTIES ASSOCIATION.

The Burton-on-Trent district of the above association held a most successful meeting at Netherseale on Saturday, June 19th. Thirty members from Burton, Ashby, Derby, Alvaston, Anstey, Long Eaton, Overseale and Netherseale attended, and two new ringing members and one new honorary member were elected.

A short service was conducted by the Rector (the Rev. H. E. Worthington), who was assisted by the Rev. A. E. Merryweather. The Vicar of St. Helen's, Ashby-de-la-Zouch (the Rev. Basil C. F. Andrews) gave a brief address, and at the meeting which took place after tea extended a hearty invitation to the district to hold a similar meeting at Ashby.

The offer was gladly accepted, the date being fixed for Saturday, September 4th.

The Rector was thanked cordially for the excellent tea, the motion being carried with applause.

During the afternoon and evening numerous touches in various methods were rung on the eight bells, which were lowered about 7.30, after a most enjoyable meeting.

SUPERLATIVE SURPRISE ROYAL.

To The Editor.

Dear Sir,—There are three printer's errors in my article in last week's 'Ringing World.'

After 'show the true nature of the system,' read:—

'Write down 1 2 3 4 5 a b c d e . . . . +.'

You printed 'etc.' instead of +. I wrote +, and it is important in writing out the methods on a number of bells to always keep + for the tenor.

Then there are two errors in the section following 'etc.'

Read: 'Until the treble crosses the tenor in the middle,' when you will find that in the first of these two rows 1 is to 2 and the lead as 1 is to 3 and the back in the second; 1 is to 4 and the lead in the first as 1 is to 5 and the back in the second, etc.

Let me supplement this:—

16 bells	. . . . 4 2 . 1 + 3 . 5 . . . .	1-2 and lead.
	. . . . 2 + 1 . 3 5 . . . .	1-3 and back.
14 bells	. . . . 2 . 5 + 1 4 3 . . . .	1 to 5 and lead.
	. . . . 2 5 1 + 4 . 3 . . . .	1 to 4 and back.

You can add two bells in front and two behind to either of these, and so on, four at a time, to any extent, and 1 2 3 4 5 + will always come in this order, so that when the treble comes up behind we always get:

+	. . . . . 4 5 2 3 1
+	. . . . . 5 4 3 2 1

Supplement to Maximus rules:—Long dodging: Double dodge 1-2, single dodge 1-2 and 3-4, 5-pull 5-6, single dodge 11-12 up and down, 5-pull 9-10, dodge treble 5-6, single dodge 1-2, 5-pull 1-2, single dodge 3-4, cross treble middle, single dodge 9-10, 5-pull 11-12, single dodge 11-12, dodge treble 7-8, 5-pull 3-4, single dodge 1-2 down and up, dodge treble 3-4, 5-pull 7-8, single dodge 9-10 and 10-11, double dodge 11-12.

Note.—Always two single dodges between the 5-pull dodges.

After long dodging add place 1st from the front.

Dodge 5-6;

odd place 6th's.

Dodge 5-6;

5th's, 10th's, 9th's, 10th's.

Dodge treble 9-10;

9th's, 10th's.

Single dodge 9-10 and 7-8;

5th's and 6th's,

and work with treble in front. Then odd place last as above in reverse order, and the same from the back, reading 7th's for 4th's, 8th's for 5th's, 3rd's, 4th's, 3rd's for 10th's, etc.

H. LAW JAMES.

To The Editor.

Sir,—I am glad to take the opportunity of supporting the conclusion reached by Mr. Baker that Slipway's Royal is not a true extension of Superlative Surprise Major. As we have reached our decisions along quite different roads, there is the greater likelihood that we are not mistaken in our opinion.—Yours, etc.,

E. S. POWELL.

Hobeton Vicarage.

WEDDING BELLS.

At the Parish Church of All Saints, High Wycombe, on the occasion of the wedding of Miss Gibson and Mr. Anderson, on June 23rd, two excellent quarter-peals were rung on the bells: 1,260 Stedman Triples in 51 minutes: S. Hayes (conductor) 1, S. Goodchild 2, R. Coles 3, G. Hinton 4, E. R. Coles 5, C. A. Smith 6, J. W. Wilkins 7, and F. Plumridge 8; 1,265 Stedman Caters in 53 minutes: F. Hayes 1, R. Coles 2, G. Hinton 3, E. R. Coles 4, J. W. Wilkins (conductor) 5, E. Markham 6, F. Boxell 7, C. A. Smith 8, S. Goodchild 9, and F. Plumridge 10. The ringing was excellent throughout, and many expressions to that effect were made by the general public, a large number of whom congregated outside the church both before and after the ceremony.

At St. Luke's Church, Bromley, Kent, on June 24th, after an unsuccessful attempt for a peal, in honour of the wedding of Mr. J. Lyddiard, one of the local band, a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples: Miss E. E. Chapman 1, G. Durling 2, Miss F. E. Orr 3, I. G. Shade 4, T. Groombridge 5, F. E. Collins 6, I. Emery (conductor) 7, E. Mounter 8.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION.
APPEAL TO EIGHT-BELL RINGERS TO SUPPORT SIX-BELL MEETINGS

A meeting of the Tonbridge district was held at Lamberhurst on Saturday, June 19th, when the local members turned up in full force. It would have been very pleasing if the same could be said of the other members of the district, as it was only about half a dozen of these attended, and had it not happened that Mr. and Mrs. E. A. G. Allen and Mr. S. T. Jarrett from Frindsbury, who had motored up to pay a visit to the Vicar of Lamberhurst (who was formerly Vicar of Frindsbury), the meeting would have been rather flat.

The usual service was held, conducted by the Vicar, and the organist (Mr. H. Burrows) presided at the organ. Mr. C. E. Noakes (churchwarden) was also present. Tea was partaken of at the Chequers Hotel, followed by the business meeting, the Vicar presiding, supported by Mr. Noakes and Mr. H. Burrows.

Mr. C. E. Noakes was elected an honorary life member, and the district secretary, Mr. W. Latter, proposed votes of thanks to the Vicar for the use of the bells, for conducting the service, and presiding at the meeting, to Mr. Noakes for attending, to Mr. H. Burrows for his services at the organ, and to Mr. A. Relfe for making the arrangements. This was seconded by Mr. E. Woodage and carried.

The Vicar, in reply, said that he was very glad that the members had held a meeting at Lamberhurst so soon after the bells had been restored, and he hoped that the time was not far distant when they would add two trebles to complete the octave. He had been Vicar at two churches where there were bells, and he was much struck with the keenness of the ringers, and it would be a good thing if others were as keen in other recreations. He welcomed three of his old parishioners from Frindsbury, and especially Mr. and Mrs. Allen, as he had the pleasure of officiating at their wedding.—Mr. Noakes and Mr. Burrows also replied, the former expressing his pleasure that they had elected him a member of the association.—Mr. Relfe (local secretary), in reply, expressed his deep regret that there were not more members of the district present. He thought that the eight-bell ringers ought to support the six-bell towers when meetings were arranged at these bellries. It was very disheartening to both the district and local secretaries when meetings were arranged that so few took the trouble to attend.

The District Secretary echoed Mr. Relfe's remarks. It was not expected, he said, that members could come from one end of the district to the other, but he thought that the members of the towers in the neighbourhood of the meeting should make an effort to attend, whether it was a six or an eight-bell tower. He complimented the Lamberhurst band on their accomplishing a peal of seven 720's of Surprise Minor in so short a time after the restoration of the bells. This was the first time this had been done by an entirely local band in the district, and they had also shown their skill in ringing short touches in four Surprise spliced methods.

This concluded the meeting, and the members returned to the tower, where ringing methods from Grandfire Doubles to London Surprise was kept up until nine o'clock.

A DIFFICULT PROBLEM.

The problem of how to increase the interest of the average member is ever present with all the associations, but not all of them seriously set out to consider the best means of solving it. It is refreshing, therefore, to find this question put down for consideration at a meeting of a large association like the Winchester Diocesan Guild, which held its annual festival at Portsmouth on Saturday. The subject found its way on to the agenda through the initiative of the Hon. Secretary, who fully realises that the success of the organisation depends upon the keenness of the individual member, and, with youthful enthusiasm, is anxious to see the work and aims of the Guild furthered by every possible means. Strangely, however—it may have been through lack of warning that the subject was to be debated—few members had come prepared with suggestions, and the most pointed proposals, which by no means met with full approval, came from an absentee member. The result of such discussion as took place was a request to the committee of the Guild to consider the whole question and present a report at the next annual meeting.

This is a satisfactory step, and, in the present position of the Winchester Guild, probably a necessary one, for the diocese will shortly be divided into three, and the future of the Guild, as it at present exists, is uncertain. There are many things to be taken into consideration if any special scheme of propaganda or instructional work is to be undertaken, but the essential point is that this important matter is not to be shelved after having been somewhat casually talked over. The committee may be expected to form some concrete proposals, for in the Winchester Guild, as in other associations, there is still scope for a great deal of useful work. There has as yet been no remedy found for curing the lethargy of the apathetic, and in everything that is undertaken for the encouragement of ringers the old proverb, aptly quoted by one speaker at Portsmouth, that you may lead a horse to the water but cannot make him drink, forces itself upon the pioneers.

The question is nevertheless an important one for all associations. Their future depends not only on maintaining the interest of present ringers, but on securing the interest of those who are to come into the Exercise in the future. Merely to sit down and wait for ringers to show an interest in the association is fatal to progress. It should be the constant business of all our associations to find ways and means of interesting the ringers of their particular areas not only in the organisation itself, but, by progressive stages, in the higher branches of the art. There will always be a few enthusiasts, what is wanted is a more progressive spirit among the main body. How it can be developed is the task which the associations must face, and as a first step in this matter, that taken by the Winchester Guild is one which may commend itself to others.

WEEK-END IN EAST ANGLIA.

St. John-the-Baptist's Association, Lcytonstone, again visited the eastern counties for their annual outing, Halesworth being the headquarters. They arrived on Saturday, June 19th, in time for breakfast, and 9 a.m. saw them seated in a charabanc ready for the two-days' exertions. At Cratfield (the first place on the list) 720 Beverley Surprise Minor was rung on the good peal of six. Laxfield was next visited, and 720 Cambridge tapped off. Next on the list was Wilby, where 720 each of Surfleet and Norwich was rung before returning to Halesworth for dinner.

After a good meal in the old Suffolk style, a move was made to Wenhamston, 720 Ipswich being rung before paying a visit to Southwold, where, on a handy ring of eight, Stedman, Cambridge, and Double Norwich were rung. After tea there was a trip to Wrentham, where 720 London Surprise was rung (strictly non-conducted). A visit was then paid to the ancient ruins of Covehithe, where on a good old peal of five Grandsire and Stedman Doubles were rung. A few minutes were spent on the cliffs near the church, and it was then time to return to headquarters, where handbell ringing, etc., brought supper and bed.

On Sunday two good touches of Stedman Triples were rung for the 8 a.m. service at Halesworth, where the bells hang in the unusual order of 1 7 6 3 4 5 2 8. Breakfast over, the pilot quickly had the party on the move again, arrangements having been made for a trip to Bungay, where Stedman and Treble Bob Major were rung before going on to Beccles to ring on the grand peal of ten for the eleven o'clock service.

Here Stedman Caters and three leads of Kent Treble Bob were rung. On the way back a call was made at the old ruins of Mettingham Castle. This is the scene connected with the story of the Christmas bells of Bellingham, published in 'The Bell News' about the year 1904. The visitors were greatly indebted to the head gardener for showing them round this interesting place. After dinner was the final trip of the tour, this time to Chediston, where a 720 (Spliced) Beverley Durham and Surfleet Surprise was rung; thence to Wissett, where 720 Ipswich was brought round. Touches were also rung at all the places visited to give everybody a chance to ring at all the towers.

The company wish to tender their best thanks to all the clergy for so readily granting permission to ring, to the Suffolk ringers who met them and had the bells ready for use, and, last but not least, to their pilot, Mr. F. C. Lambert, who kindly made the arrangements and gave them such a very enjoyable time in East Anglia. The weather being perfect throughout the trip added pleasure to the outing.

ST. MARY-LE-TOWER SOCIETY'S LONG EXCURSION.

The annual outing of the St. Mary-le-Tower Society, Ipswich, took place on Saturday, June 12th, and proved most successful and enjoyable. Starting about 6 a.m. aboard Mr. Mayhew's charabanc 'Marguerite,' Hadleigh and Sudbury were soon passed, as was Pentlow, from whose tower forty-five churches can be seen on a clear day. Through Cavendish (the family name of the Duke of Devonshire), breakfast at Clare and a ring on the fine peal of eight. Forward Maximus, Stedman and Grandsire Cinques on the twelve at Saffron Walden were well executed, and then the party passed through Hempstead, the birthplace of Dick Turpin on September 21st, 1703, and also of Dr. Harvey, who discovered the circulation of the blood. Hempstead tower fell down in January, 1882. On to Thaxted, where

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

WITNEY AND WOODSTOCK DEANERIES BRANCH.

A large number of ringers assembled at the little village of Tackley, Oxon, on Saturday afternoon, June 26th, on the occasion of the spring meeting (postponed owing to the General Strike) of the Witney and Woodstock Deaneries of the Oxford Diocesan Guild. These occasions are always interesting, and a most enjoyable time was spent by those present. Representatives from the following towers attended:—Tackley, Steeple Aston, Witney, Freeland, Rousham, Woodstock, Yarnton, Kidlington, Appleton, Wootton, Oxford, Ducklington, Stanton Harcourt, Bladon, Standlake and Bicester. The clergy present were the Revs. F. R. Marriott, T. Lovett, A. C. R. Freeborn (president), G. Ward-Jackson, and E. J. Lee (Rector of Tackley), with Messrs. W. Evetts, jun. (honorary secretary), and John Monk.

The fine peal of bells at the church, which was an old church in 1100, heralded the arrival of the visitors, and the proceedings opened with an impressive service conducted by the Rector, the Rev. E. J. Lee, who has just returned from missionary work, and was only inducted as Rector of Tackley on Thursday, the 24th. In his address the Rector said one of the greatest pleasures in coming to England was to hear the beautiful chimings of the bells, for out in the West Indies, where he had been, church bells were practically unknown, and he missed them very much, especially on Sunday mornings. Upon his arrival at Tackley he was more than pleased to learn what a splendid ring of bells they had. He had known cases of men who, although they rang church bells, never took any part in divine worship, but he hoped that those present treated religion far more seriously and recognised bell-ringing as one small way in which to serve God.

After a stroll round the charming grounds of Tackley Park, the company assembled at tea, which was followed by the quarterly business meeting, at which the Rev. F. R. Marriott presided. He gave them a cordial welcome, and expressed his interest in bell-ringing from the outside, as he was not a ringer himself.

Mr. Evetts (honorary secretary and treasurer), in his financial statement, said that they had £30 17s. 7d. in the bank, and there were still a few contributions for this year to come in. He appealed to the members to pay their subscriptions early in each year.

The names of the following were confirmed as honorary members of the branch:—The Revs. F. S. K. Gregson, J. H. Pearson, G. B. Vaux, Canon Carroll, Ward-Jackson, and Messrs. J. F. Mason, W. Evetts, T. D. Hughes, A. E. Bradshaw, and Frank Gray. The following new towers were also accepted:—Lower Heyford, Standlake, Rousham, and Steeple Aston.

The absence of the master of the Guild (the Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn) and the Guild secretary and treasurer (Messrs. R. T. Hibbert and A. J. Wright) was much regretted by all, and especially by the new branch secretary and treasurer, it being his first meeting in which he held the dual office.

The Vicar of Standlake extended a hearty invitation to the branch to visit his parish for the next meeting in October, and this was accepted with thanks.

A hearty vote of thanks to Squire Evetts for the use of a green-house in the spacious grounds for tea, and also to the ladies who so excellently waited on the visitors, was proposed by the Rector and carried unanimously with applause.

Afterwards several bands of ringers visited the tower and rang touches of Grandsire and Plain Bob Doubles and Boh Minor, while others tapped off on handbells, lent by the branch secretary, several touches of Triples.

About 7 p.m. the visitors left and visited Wootton and Bladon churches, where ringing was carried on for about an hour. All expressed themselves as having had a very good time.

RESIGNATION OF THE PRESIDENT.

It is with much sympathy and deep concern that the secretary of the Witney and Woodstock branch has to inform the members of the resignation of the president, Rev. A. C. R. Freeborn. A letter received by the secretary on June 29th expressed a wish that he should be relieved of further duty towards the branch and also of his responsibility to the general Guild, owing to failing health. The secretary feels sure that all members will read this with profound sorrow, that their president, for so many years—i.e. since the branch was formed about twenty-five years ago—has found it too much for him to carry on any longer. He has been a very staunch member of the Guild in the various offices he has held, and all wish him 'Farewell,' and extend to him great gratitude for the untiring support he has given to the branch, and the cheerful way in which he has filled the office of president.

there are eight bells and a spire 181ft. high, then to Dunmow, of Fitch of Bacon fame. Next a pull on the grand eight at Great Waltham. By this time each of the company had an 'aching void,' but mine host and hostess of the Bell Hotel, Chelmsford, effected a speedy and satisfactory cure. It was a pleasure both to ring and listen to the twelve splendid bells at Chelmsford. The final ring was at St. Peter's, Colchester, and the trip home with just one more enlivening call brought the 17 hours' excursion to an end. The society wish to thank all the incumbents, steeplekeepers and others for their kindness, which added so much to the enjoyment and smooth running of the outing.

NOTES BY THE WAY.
MORE ABOUT ELIJAH ROBERTS.
 By J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

It was thought very remarkable that, though Roberts was such a prodigy at tapping, as a double-handed ringer he was nothing out of the ordinary. Mr. Snowdon seems to think that this was because he had no opportunity of doing much in this way. He seems to have thought that Roberts tapped his peals in the same way that we ring one in the tower or two 'in hand,' that is by following the work of the individual bells. He says: 'Roberts used to tap the changes and follow each bell through its varying course during thousands of changes. Of course, it may be said that with the heavy bells working in a certain relation to each other the mental difficulty of ringing a long peal in such a method as Treble Bob does not increase in the same ratio as the number of bells increases.' When you are dealing with a genius it is impossible to say what is and what is not impossible, but I am inclined to think that it would be absolutely impossible to tap peals by following the work of the individual bells. The thing is only conceivable if we suppose it was done by transposition. But probably Roberts himself could not say exactly how he did it; only that he could do it, and that he did do it. The fact that he was no particular master of double hand ringing seems to me to prove that he did use transposition, and I imagine all tappers do the same.

The composition of the 19,000 of Maximus and the 6,720 of Treble Bob Sixteen-in was Reeves' 13,800 of Treble Bob Royal, the extent with the tenors together.

Roberts was by trade a brass foundry, a skilful mechanic and a maker of clocks. Apparently he abandoned his trade and became an innkeeper. After he left the Union Tavern he was guard on the 'Erin-go-Bragh' stage coach, which ran between Birmingham and Chester and Liverpool. His skill as a performer on the keyed bugle got him this appointment, for, of course, the guard with his bugle was a very necessary feature of the old stage coaches. Then, when the 'Erin-go-Bragh' ceased through the competition of the new railways he owned and drove a coach, the 'Adelaide,' between Derby and Newcastle-under-Lyne. This coach he is said to have driven for eight years without missing a single journey, and during that time he covered nearly 100,000 miles. The Midland Railway ultimately purchased the coaching business, and the 'Adelaide' ceased running on September 18th, 1848.

When he left Birmingham Roberts, for a time, held the Duke of York Inn at Eccles; afterwards he moved to the Derby Arms, Whitechapel, Liverpool, where, as we have seen, he tapped his two last and greatest performances. And here it was that he ended his own life on January 26th, 1865, in the fifty-eighth year of his age.

Any particular reasons for his suicide are not, I think, known. There is no suggestion of financial loss, or failing health, or family bereavement. In a case like this one naturally thinks of Pope's famous line: 'Great genius is to madness near allied.'

Certain it is that a man who can do such amazing things as Roberts did must have a brain abnormally developed in one particular direction. That inevitably means a want of mental balance and a personality which is outside ordinary standards and conditions. The men of the greatest of all genius, the Shakespeares, Miltons, Newtons and such like have been men of great mental balance and sanity. But there have been many men whose extraordinary abilities in one particular way have been accompanied by very unequally balanced brains; and among such madness and suicide is not rare. We can look on such feats as those of Roberts with wonder and admiration, but I do not think we can wish them to be repeated.

I will conclude this sketch with a short account of Roberts by Henry Johnson: 'In the manly and scientific art of change ringing Elijah Roberts is the most accomplished and unparalleled change ringer upon the handbells the world has hitherto produced. Mr. Roberts has repeatedly challenged, and is still open to ring changes with any man in the world. He is now residing at the Derby Arms, Whitechapel, Liverpool. He commenced the study and composition of changes when about twelve years of age. In the year 1824 (then in his seventeenth year) he rang his first peal which consisted of courses in various methods commencing with changes on seven bells, namely, Grandsire Triples, Plain Bob Triples, Stedman Triples, Treble Bob Triples; changes on eight bells: Grandsire Major, Plain Bob Major, Treble Bob Major; changes on nine bells: Grandsire Caters, Plain Bob Caters, Stedman Caters, Treble Bob Caters; changes on ten bells: Grandsire Royal, Plain Bob Royal, Treble Bob Royal; changes on eleven bells: Grandsire Cinques, Plain Bob Cinques, Stedman Cinques, Treble Bob Cinques; changes on twelve bells: Grandsire Maximus, Plain Bob Maximus, Treble Bob Maximus, and finishing with a course of Double Treble Bob Major on sixteen bells, the whole containing 5,186 changes, in 3 hours and 27 minutes; rung at Birmingham. His next peal was rung on October 14th, 1827, comprising 5,040 changes of Treble Bob Maximus with the Kent variation in 3 hours and 22 minutes; rung at Birmingham. His third peal was rung on the 9th April, 1830, consisting of 7,536 changes of Kent Treble Bob Maximus, occupying 4 hours and 51 minutes; rung at Birmingham. His next performance was rung on the 30th of June, 1833, being an intricate peal of that much admired and musical method, Stedman Cinques, with the bells in the tittums and every musical position, comprising 5,016 changes; rung at Birmingham. His next peal was rung at Liverpool on the 23rd of March, 1837, comprising 19,440 changes of Kent Treble Bob Maximus, being the full extent with the large bells at home, occupying him thirteen hours and forty-three minutes. Thus Mr. Roberts has solely and unassisted surpassed by many thousands of changes the longest peals that have ever been rung on twelve bells by any twelve men in the world. Besides ringing the above peals, Mr. Elijah Roberts has composed, conducted and rung upwards of 100 peals on eight, ten and twelve bells in various churches in the United Kingdom.'

MR. JOSIAH MORRIS'S 200 PEALS.

With the peal of Bob Major at Loughborough, on June 22nd, Mr. Josiah Morris, of Leicester, completed his second century as follows:—
 Doubles, one and four methods, 2; Minor, Plain Bob 3, Oxford Treble Bob 1, three methods 1; Triples, Grandsire 37, Plain Bob 2, Stedman 14; Major, Grandsire 2, Plain Bob 30 (a), Little Bob 1, Canterbury Pleasure 1, Kent Treble Bob 22 (b), Spliced Treble Bob 2 (c), Double Norwich 23 (d), Superlative Surprise 7, Cambridge Surprise 2, Bristol Surprise 1; Caters, Grandsire 16 (e), Stedman 16; Royal, Plain Bob 2, Kent Treble Bob 4, Cambridge Surprise 2; Cinques, Grandsire 2, Stedman 4; Maximus, Kent Treble Bob 1, Cambridge Surprise 2; total 200. (a) Includes 7,488 Northants record; (b) 10,176 and 10,912 M.C.A. record; (c) 9,120 record; (d) 11,008 and 17,104 record; (e) 7,001 M.C.A. record. Eight peals were on handbells.

NEW RING OF BELLS AT TUXFORD.
A COMPLETE RESTORATION.

For many years the condition of the old ring of five bells at Tuxford, Notts, which had been augmented by a new treble in 1893, was very bad owing to the swaying of the old frame and timbers. The rehanging of the bells, however, had to be postponed for some time owing to much needed repairs and alterations to the church having had first attention by the church authorities. But this having been done, the Vicar, churchwardens, ringers and Church Council, by dint of hard work and assiduous perseverance, succeeded in enlisting the sympathy of the town at large in the scheme to restore the bells. When Messrs. Taylor and Co., of Loughborough, were called in, it was discovered that the 4th bell was cracked, and it was thereupon decided to recast the 4th, and rehang the whole peal. The efforts of the church authorities were so warmly responded to that the bell found soon warranted them to entrust the work to Messrs. Taylor and Co., and in having the whole of the six bells recast, adding to the tenor another 1½ cwt. of metal to make a bell of 11½ cwt., suitable for a ring of eight at a later period. Provision has been made in the tower to carry the two extra bells to complete the octave. The tuning of the bells is on the new harmonic principle; all the old inscriptions on the bells have been retained, and the old framework, beams and fittings have been replaced by a modern example of bell framework, the whole construction being absolutely rigid, enabling the bells to be rung with the utmost ease. The bells now hang in an iron frame, supported on main steel girders, firmly grouted into the tower walls, thus binding the walls together and being a source of strength to the structure. Everything is new throughout and of the most improved style, including metal headstocks, independent crown staple points for the clappers, which are fitted with lubricators. The bells run on ball bearings, totally enclosed and dustproof, which require lubrication only about once in every ten years or so. When the octave is complete, the ring of eight bells will be quite equal, if not superior, to any in the county of Notts. The beautiful 'go,' combined with the excellence and sweetness in tone, reflects the greatest credit on the Loughborough firm.

The dedication of the new bells took place on Wednesday, June 30th, and was performed by Archdeacon Hocking, of Newark, supported by the Rev. Walter Smith (Vicar of Tuxford) and the Rev. J. C. Crosse (Vicar of East Markham).

The opening ringing was done by the local ringers, who raised the bells in peal and rang a course of Bob Minor, after which the Tuxford ringers very generously handed over the ropes to the honorary secretary of the North Notts Association, who with a chosen band rang the first 720 changes of Oxford Treble Bob on the bells: H. Haigh (conductor) 1, T. Bartholomew 2, Miss Grace Burchnall 3, Miss Kathleen Burchnall 4, E. Dulingwater 5, L. Pierrepont 6.

GLOUCESTER AND BRISTOL ASSOCIATION

BRISTOL BRANCH SUMMER MEETING.

In glorious weather the Bristol branch held its monthly meeting at Dyrham on Saturday, June 26th. Members and friends to the number of fifty-three were present from Bristol (St. James', St. Michael's, St. Nicholas', St. Philip's, St. Stephen's, St. Thomas', St. Peter's, and Redcliffe), Almondsbury, Dyrham, Mangotsfield, Marshfield, Warmley, Westbury-on-Trym, Stoke Bishop, and visitors from Bath. Arriving in all kinds of motors, the Bristol party (thirty in number) in particular had an enjoyable ride; nineteen were packed in one lorry, but all arrived merry and bright. The bells were available early in the afternoon, and the ladies rang a touch on their own account.

A short service was held in the beautiful little church, at which sixty-seven were present. It was conducted by the Rector, who, after the service, gave the members a very interesting talk on the church, explaining its history. This was followed by tea (kindly provided by the Rector, the Rev. W. E. Blathwayt) on the spacious lawn and a short business meeting. Miss E. Sumsion (Bristol), and Messrs. H. Lamble (Bristol), F. J. Beazer, F. Beazer, C. Jukes and R. Swift (Marshfield) were elected performing members.

A very hearty vote of thanks was proposed by Mr. Harding to the Rector for his great kindness to them that day, and especially in providing tea for such a large number. The Rector, in rising to respond, was given a cordial reception, and said how pleased he was to have them there that day, and hoped they would pay another visit.—Votes of thanks were also passed to the organist and the ladies for waiting at the tables.

The beautiful estate and Manor House were thrown open to the members, and were much admired, the Rector and head gardener acting as guides. Many fine trees were passed, the lake and the scene from the hillside forming a picture of remarkable beauty. Reluctant to leave this Gloucester beauty spot, the company parted from their kind host. Some of the members stayed for ringing till after 9 p.m., everyone voting it was a delightful meeting. The Bristol contingent reached home in their 'lorry' coach after some run, quite safe and sound.

CHICHESTER.—On Sunday, July 4th, at the Cathedral, for morning service, a quarter-peal of Bob Major (1,264 changes) in 49 mins.: W. Falconer 1, P. H. Doick 2, A. D. Rowe 3, H. J. Tucker (composer and conductor) 4, W. E. Ticehurst 5, J. H. Blake 6, M. Heffer 7, C. Button 8. First quarter peal in the method by ringers of 1, 3, 5 and 7, and rung as a birthday compliment to A. D. Rowe.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

Respecting our correspondent's note re handbells used in a church service, Mr. E. Morris writes that during carol service at St. Margaret's Church, Leicester, Christmas, 1919, several hymns and carols were rung, and the concluding 'voluntary' was a 'rise and fall' on a peal of twelve handbells.

Wireless listeners heard 'splashes' of the ringing in the peal at St. Margaret's, Westminster, which we recorded last week. Mr. E. F. Poppy, of Eye, Suffolk, writes: 'I heard the bells quite distinctly at seven o'clock, between the "tuning-in" note and the quarter chimes of the clock, and also between the quarters and the hour struck on Big Ben at 7 p.m. It was a very still evening. On one previous fine evening, some weeks ago, I heard the tenor being raised, but I did not then know what bell it was.'

Here is a coincidence worth recording. On Wednesday, August 8th, 1911 (which, by the way, was the hottest day registered at Greenwich for a hundred years), a band of the Kent County Association rang the first peal of Treble Bob on the bells at New Romney, and then went on to Rye (and those who biked over Romney Marsh will never forget it), and rang the first peal of Stedman there. On Saturday, a company reversed the order and accomplished the same feat. But it wasn't quite so hot.

We are glad to learn that the rumour that peal-ringing at St. Chad's, Shrewsbury, was at an end for some years to come is wide of the mark. Rumour was ever a lying jade.

The work of restoring, at a cost of several thousand pounds, the fine spire of St. Mary's, Shrewsbury, has just been completed, and the beautiful peal of ten bells, with a tenor of 2½ cwt., were rung for the first time on Sunday, June 27th.

On July 9th, 1800, William Sottanfall, one of the foremost composers of his day, was born at Sowerby, Yorks.

John Holt took part in a peal of 6,000 Bob Major at St. Margaret's, Westminster, on July 9th, 1749.

A 5,000 'New Treble Bob' was rung at Leeds on July 16th, 1830.

We regret that pressure on our space compels us to hold over an article, by Mr. George Baker, on 'Round Blocks,' and their relation to the extension of methods, also the reports of several outings, and letters to the Editor. These will appear in due course.

ANCIENT BELLS RETUNED.

WHITCHURCH CANONICORUM PEAL RESTORED.

The parish of Whitchurch Canonicorum, situated in the famous Marshwood Vale, was seen at its best on Monday, June 21st, when the Bishop of Sherborne visited it for the purpose of re-dedicating the tower and bells.

The church itself, dedicated to SS. Wite and Candida, is an epitome of architecture from late Saxon to early Perpendicular times, while in addition to its varied details it contains the famous shrine of St. Wite. The tower is a remarkably good specimen of early fourteenth century work, and contains eight bells. The stone-work has been renovated and the tower tied and re-roofed, while in addition the bells have had a most thorough overhauling.

The history of the bells is interesting. The present fourth is an undated bell, having a Latin inscription in Old English lettering, and is undoubtedly the oldest of the ring. The sixth and seventh bear the date 1603, the fifth 1641, and the tenor 1669. These constituted the peal of five till the year 1904; but in 1892 attention to them had been given by hanging them in a new frame with pits for eight. This frame, however, was fixed on the old bearing beams. In 1904 a treble was added to make six, while in 1912 two trebles were added to make the octave. But these additions were not musically a success, so that by no stretch of imagination could it be called a peal, but rather a collection. When examining the stone-work of the tower last year, with a view to restoration, it was discovered that the beams carrying the bell frame were not only loose but in a sad state of decay, so much so that it was deemed advisable not to ring the bells.

The Parochial Church Council immediately took steps to raise sufficient money, not only to restore the tower, but also to have the bells made safe and ringable.

This latter work consisted of taking down the bells, hoisting the frame from the old beams and removing these, substituting for them four massive iron girders anchored to the walls, re-setting the frame and cross-tying it, and re-hanging the bells in new bearings.

While the work in the tower was being done, the eight bells took a journey to London, where in the ancient Whitechapel foundry they received such careful attention from a tuner that no one who heard them previously would recognise them as the same bells. That such a poor peal could be so improved without recasting is indeed a matter of satisfaction to all concerned.

No one who heard them on Monday but had a word of praise for work that had been so successfully carried out.

PEAL 'LAPPING.'

To the Editor.

Sir,—Apropos of Mr. Trollope's chatty articles on 'Peal lapping,' it would be interesting to have the opinion of some of your readers as to who they consider to be the greatest exponent of these wonderful performances.—Yours, etc.,

H. DEW.

Continuing the discussion on the proposed 'Bellringers' Sunday,' Mr. T. R. Dennis said he thought the time had arrived when associations should seriously consider the question of propaganda work amongst the lay public. As associations he did not think they did enough. Ringers' services might have the effect of awakening the general interest of the public in ringing matters.

Mr. E. W. Elwell said he rather objected to the suggestion that church services should be used to promote interest in the ringers. It was the ringer's duty to make every Sunday his Sunday, and to turn up at his church and not have just one Sunday in the year, making it appear as if he did not go to church on any other Sunday.

Mr. J. Hunt said he did not think any useful purpose would be served by a 'Ringers' Sunday.' Nearly all the associations held quarterly and annual meetings, when they had their church services, and he could not see why, for instance, they should drag all the men of the Bath and Wells Association to Taunton for a service on one Sunday in the year. It was not workable.

Mr. W. A. Cave suggested as an amendment that they should have a 'Bellringers' Saturday.' Dinners were being held during the autumn and winter season at Birmingham, London, Bristol and Sheffield, and he would like to see inaugurated a Saturday afternoon when they might all meet in a social way somewhere on the banks of the Thames, or some place like that.

The president pointed out that this was not an amendment to the resolution, which he then put to the meeting. It was negatived by a large majority.

The resolution of the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association, deprecating the Simpson tuning of historic bells, was ruled out of order by the president, as it was not put in the form of a motion.

This concluded the formal resolutions on the agenda, but one or two matters were referred to under the heading of 'other business.'

Replying to Mr. F. Wilford, the president said a member of the Council was elected for the full session of three years, but if he died or was laid aside by illness, it was lawful for an association to elect another in his place for the remainder of the term.

PEAL UMPIRES.

Mr. T. Faulkner raised the question of whether it was in order for the umpire of a record peal to open the sealed copy of the figures of the composition before the peal was rung. He thought it would be absolutely necessary for him to see the figures in order to check them.

The Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn said no one except the secretary of the society whose record was to be challenged should have a copy of the figures, and he should keep them in the sealed envelope and return them to the conductor with the seal unbroken if the peal was not rung. If the conductor sent them to anyone else he ran the risk of what might be done with the figures.

Mr. A. H. Pulling said he sent the sealed figures of the peal attempted at Leeds to Mr. Langdon, who was coming to umpire the peal, and to the Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn. It was a great surprise to him when he had a letter from Mr. Langdon to say that he was going to open the figures. He (the speaker) was always under the impression that the figures should not be opened until the peal had been rung. He held that the umpire should come and take down the figures and, after the peal, open the sealed envelope and compare them with the composition. It did not much matter in connection with a peal of Stedman Caters, but if it were a long peal in some other method composers might not like their figures handed about, and the band might also object to others seeing them.

Mr. Beams: If he has not got the figures before him, what is there to umpire? We are not all Withers.

Mr. Pulling said if the umpire was to have the figures before him, the Council should alter their rules.

The President said the rules provided for sending the sealed figures to the secretary and no one else.

Mr. G. R. Pye: There is no rule of the Council that you must have an umpire.

The President: No rule at all.

Mr. Pulling: The association can send an umpire.

The Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn: He is not called an umpire.

Mr. W. A. Cave: The rule says that a competent representative of the bands shall be present during the whole of the performance.

The matter then dropped.

APPEALS AND THANKS.

The Rev. H. Law James said they were collecting funds to add four trebles to the bells at Lincoln Cathedral in memory of the members of the Lincoln Guild who fell during the war. They had got within £90 of the amount they wanted, and he would be glad to receive subscriptions from any non-resident life members, of whom they had many scattered all over the country, and whom he did not know how to get at.

The Rev. C. D. P. Davies said he was the incumbent of a country parish of under a hundred inhabitants. He was hoping to be able to get the five bells at his church made into eight, and he hoped members of the Council would assist him by taking collecting cards.

The Council accepted the offer of the honorary secretary to send to absent members of the Council and to the secretaries of the various affiliated Guilds and associations a copy of the booklet he had prepared on Coventry bells, which is to be completed by the addition of the report of the proceedings in the Consistory Court.

Before separating, the president expressed the Council's sense of appreciation of all that had been done by members of the Suffolk Association for their reception and convenience. They had made excellent arrangements for the Council's comfort and for that meeting. They must not forget that they came there primarily for the transaction of business, but there were certain creature comforts which the Suffolk Guild had looked after, and they very much appreciated it (applause).

Canon H. J. Elsee said that as that was the last meeting of the present Council they could not break up without thanking the president for the way in which he had conducted their business. They could not have had a better chairman (hear, hear). Though they would meet, some of them, as a new Council next year, he hoped it would be many years before they thought of suggesting another chairman than Canon Coleridge (applause).

Canon Coleridge briefly replied, and the proceedings then terminated. Afterwards the Council, with members of the Suffolk Guild, were entertained to tea by the Guild and in the evening, after ringing at various Ipswich churches, there was a social gathering at the headquarters, at which an enjoyable musical programme was carried out.

METHOD NOMENCLATURE.

COMPLETION OF COMMITTEE'S REPORT, 1926.

In the course of the debate on Nomenclature at the Ipswich C.C. meeting, reference was made to (a) two corrections required in the text of the resolutions (page 219 'R.W.' April 2nd); and to (b) the final list of Method names recommended for alteration. As these details were not reached in the course of the debate, it is desirable that the proposals of the committee, complete and final, should appear in print. These corrections and additions are as follows:—

(A) 1. For Dartford (Resolution 7) (proposed new name for 'Daffodil') read 'Darwen.'

2. For the figures '28' (Resolution 9), Castle and Abbeys Series, read '33.' In other words, the list of names from which it is proposed to omit the word 'Castle' and 'Abbey' is to be amplified by the following five names:—

Evesham.
Tewkesbury.
Waltham.
Carnarvon.
Fotheringay.

(B) Unsuitable names, second and final instalment:—

Old Name.	Class.	Remarks.	Suggested New Name.
ABBEEVILLE	4th Place Delight Minor (5)	Abbeyville is neither English nor correct French spelling.	ABBEYDORE
ANNABLE'S	Surprise Minor (27)	Standardise like Stedman.	ANNABLE
BACUP	Surprise Minor (19)	A case of an awkward topographical name.	MANCHESTER
BODEDONE	3rd Place Delight (40)	" "	BOLNEY
CUNECASTRE	Surprise Minor (17)	" "	CHELMSFORD
GROVE	4th Place Delight (34)	" "	GROSVENOR
HORSMONDEN	Plain Minor (17)	" "	HORSHAM
PUDSEY	Surprise Major	" "	BRADFORD
TAXAL	4th Place Delight Minor (15)	" "	CREDITON
TROWELL	T.B. Minor (25)	" "	BRIDGFORD
WATH	3rd Place Delight Minor (11)	" "	WILTON

Although an 'amendment' was carried at the Council meeting in place of the resolutions, yet that amendment did not claim to take the place of the report, which latter is thus apparently still before the Council, and not yet accepted nor rejected.

G. P. BURTON,

Convener of Nomenclature Committee.

A LANCASHIRE PEAL RESTORED.

The bells at St. Paul's, Ramsbottom, are to re-opened to-morrow (Saturday), at three o'clock, by Canon H. J. Elsee, of St. George's, Bolton, president of the Lancashire Association, and will be available for ringing after the service.

These bells have been cleaned, retuned and rehung on the latest principle by Messrs. J. Taylor and Co., Loughborough. The iron framework is supported on steel girders, and the bells are in ball bearings.

WINCHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD.

THE ANNUAL MEETING.

COMMITTEE TO CONSIDER MEANS OF FURTHERING THE WORK.

About 120 members of the Winchester Diocesan Guild attended the annual meeting at Portsmouth on Saturday, all the districts from the Isle of Wight to Surrey being represented. In the absence of the vice-president (the Rev. C. E. Matthews), who everyone regretted to hear was ill, the Master (Mr. G. Williams) presided over the business meeting held in St. Thomas' parish room.

Arising out of the minutes, the question of the suggested free issue of certificates to members was referred to. The honorary secretary (Mr. G. Pullinger) said the committee had considered the matter, and had decided that the price should be sixpence as hitherto. To issue them free might cause confusion as to who was entitled to them and who was not.

In writing to the honorary secretary from Lyndhurst Hospital, regretting his absence from the meeting, the vice-president said, with regard to one item on the agenda inviting suggestions as to how the work and aims of the Guild might be furthered, he firmly believed that the work and aims of the Guild would never be fully realised until the clergy whose churches possessed rings of bells took a more active and deeper interest in the welfare of their ringers. The members would remember he had appealed in the 'Diocesan Chronicle' for more interest in their work, but without success. He knew the members welcomed the clergy in the belfry, and he thought many a young curate could find time to learn to ring if he would only realise what an interesting art it was, and what a fine bit of service for Christ's Church. Thirty years ago he remembered at least a dozen clergy who rang, some more, some less, and although he would not exaggerate their office or position unduly, he did honestly feel that incumbents had a great influence at their disposal which their very position gave them, to use for the best advantage of the men who ring and call the faithful to worship. As to the future of the Guild, when the new dioceses were created, he saw no need for hurry, and they would do well to act with mature judgment. There was no reason why a committee (ad hoc) should not be elected consisting of members from the three areas. This committee might be empowered to collect information and ascertain the wishes of the members and report of the next annual meeting. The vice-president concluded with an expression of sorrow for his absence from the meeting, and best wishes to his many old friends and for the Guild's continued prosperity.

On the motion of the Master it was resolved to write a letter of sympathy to the vice-president, expressing deep regret for his illness, and the hope that he might have a speedy restoration to health.

The balance sheet and report were adopted, and the officers were re-elected en bloc as follows:—President, the Bishop of Winchester; vice-president, Rev. C. E. Matthews; master, Mr. George Williams; honorary secretary, Mr. George Pullinger; honorary treasurer, Rev. N. C. Woods; recorder of peals, Mr. F. W. Rogers; auditor, Mr. G. Smith.

SUGGESTION TO INCREASE INTEREST IN CENTRAL COUNCIL.

The representatives on the Central Council were re-elected as follows:—The vice-president, the master, Mr. A. H. Pulling, and Mr. H. Barton.

Mr. Williams gave a lengthy report of the proceedings at the Council meeting at Ipswich, and Mr. Pulling said he did not think the Council would be a real success until they could get the Exercise as a whole to take more interest in it. At present the representatives went to the meetings without any idea of what their own members really wanted. He thought it would be an advantage if the agenda of Council could be talked over at the meetings throughout the Guild, so that the representatives could get to know the wishes of the members. At present the Council had not got the weight of the Exercise behind them, and that was where the weakness lay.

Thanks were accorded to Mr. Williams and Mr. Pulling for attending the Ipswich meeting, and the Rev. C. D. P. Davies added a few comments on the Council's proceedings. The debates, he considered, were on a high level all through. Although he had not the honour of representing that Guild, but was a member of the Council in another capacity, he was perfectly sure the Guild had done right in re-electing their representatives, as they could not find better men to serve them than those who now represented them.

The honorary secretary, returning to Mr. Pulling's point, said the difficulty of getting Central Council matters discussed at the annual district meetings was that these meetings were held six months before the Council meeting. If the Central Council agenda could be out earlier, the associations would have more opportunity of discussing it. He suggested that if ringers or bands objected to any matters which appeared in the agenda, they should communicate either with him or the representatives.

Mr. J. S. Goldsmith said the difficulty the associations were up against was the Standing Orders of the Council itself, which required only one month's notice to be given of any proposal for the consideration of the Council. It would, he considered, create more interest in the Council's proceedings if associations had the opportunity of considering questions which were to come before the Council; but this opportunity could only be obtained by an alteration of the Standing Orders. To enable the matter to be proceeded with, he proposed that the Guild's representatives place on the agenda for the next Council meeting a motion to amend the Standing Orders in order that the Council's agenda may be published at least three months before the meeting, to give Guilds and associations the opportunity of discussing it. He pointed out that within the three months prior to the Council meeting many associations held their annual meetings, and where they were divided into districts the districts themselves would hold at least one meeting.

The Rev. C. D. P. Davies said a similar suggestion had occurred to him. He had thought the publication should be before Easter in each year, as many associations held their annual meeting on Easter Monday.

Mr. W. Andrews (Winchester) thought three months was the better period, and the motion, on being put, was carried unanimously.

Messrs. V. Godwin and A. Walters were elected probationary members of Bishopstoke tower.

THE WORK OF THE GUILD.

The next item on the agenda was: 'Suggestions (if any) as to how the work and aims of the Guild can be furthered.' The honorary secretary said he had put this on the agenda, because, as he moved about the Guild, he sometimes heard grumbles and received inquiries as to why this, that or the other was not done. He had, he said, received a letter from Mr. E. C. Elliott, of Lymington, with regard to his (the secretary's) report which had been printed in 'The Ringing World.' Mr. Elliott said: 'One suggestion made is "that a conductor for a peal can be provided on application." What benefit will this be to the band? What is most wanted is instructors to get the band up to the peal-ringing stage; by that time the conductor will usually have developed with the band.'

'Do the officers of the Guild know what is going on in all the towers of the diocese? If not, they should know, and until they know this their knowledge of the ringing ability of the diocese is valueless. I maintain that the officers of the Guild should so arrange matters that they should see that all towers where progress is not being made should be assisted, but the knowledge referred to above is first essential.'

'In Lymington (and probably this is true of many other towers) it would make one's head ache to think of the last visit (if any) of any officer of the Guild, and one is forced to the conclusion that the only towers visited by officers of the Guild are those where a good band exists, so that the officers can enjoy themselves and ring peals for their own glorification. This sort of thing will not advance change-ringing. What is wanted is to give help to those towers who are handicapped either by numbers or lack of teaching.'

Mr. Elliott went on to acknowledge the assistance received at Lymington from Christchurch and Mr. G. Preston particularly, and to suggest that the officers of the Guild do something more practical than make suggestions in the annual report. He made the following suggestions:—

1. That every tower in the diocese should be periodically visited on their practice nights to see what work is being done, if any help is needed, what sort of a conductor is in charge, the number of ringers and (or) learners on the roll.
2. That a record of these visits should be made and passed on to the Council and comparisons made yearly as to progress or otherwise.
3. That such visiting officers should have a book in which to make a report, and which should be signed by the officer and ringer in charge of the tower.
4. That some effort should be made to train ringers to become conductors and qualification certificates given.
5. That, in addition to the secretary's report, the master should also make a report on the ringing of the diocese.
6. That the president should be informed as to the amount of help (or otherwise) given by the clergy, where there are towers, to their ringers.

Mr. H. J. Chaffey suggested that the letter be allowed to lie on the table. He said they could take a horse to the water, but they could not make him drink. Their officials might go round to the towers, but generally, if it were known that a good change-ringer was coming, some of the band stopped away. There were ringers who went round to towers every week to try and help, but when it came to a district meeting or combined practice, where members of those bands could learn something, they did not trouble to attend. It was all very well to put blame on to the Guild's officials. The gentleman who wrote the letter should have come to that meeting and said what he had got to say.

The Master concurred with Mr. Chaffey that if it were known that a visit was to be paid to a tower, some of the band usually stopped away, so that they were short of enough ringers to do any good. The committee had considered this letter, and had decided that he and the secretary should reply to it.

The question of a report that had been made on the condition of Shanklin bells was raised by Mr. J. Bruce Williamson, but after some discussion it was considered advisable that, as the report was made by the Rev. C. E. Matthews as a member of the Diocesan Advisory Committee and not as an official of the Guild, and as the incumbent was against anything being done, no steps could advantageously be taken at present.

There was some discussion with regard to the rules governing district meetings, and Mr. Whittington made the suggestion that greater

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD. THE WAR MEMORIAL.

Postponed in May on account of the strike, the annual festival of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild was held at Trowbridge on June 19th, and was attended by ringers from all parts of the counties of Wilts and Dorset. The day's proceedings opened with a service in the Parish Church, conducted by the Rector (the Rev. A. S. Weatherhead), assisted by the Rev. Canon E. P. Knubley (Vicar of Steeple Ashton). The special form of service was used, and the lesson was read by Mr. T. Hervey Beams, honorary assistant secretary.

Canon Knubley was the preacher, taking as his text, 'Let brotherly love continue' (Ephesians xiii, 1). As ringers, he said, they were members of a brotherhood, and they should be guided by the same principles as those of the great Christian brotherhood.

The closing hymn was 'Angel voices ever singing,' during the singing of which a collection was taken for the Ringers' Memorial Fund.

Subsequently the members, to the number of about 120, assembled for luncheon at St. James' Hall, where an excellent repast had been prepared by Trowbridge ladies, assisted by office-bearers of the church.

The Rector of Trowbridge presided, and was supported by the Rev. Canon Knubley, Rev. F. L. Edwards, Kington Magna, Gillingham (honorary secretary and treasurer, who had just returned from his work in Cyprus), Rev. H. E. Tilney Bassett, of Beechingsstoke (a former master of the Guild), Rev. C. C. Cox, Wimborne, Mr. T. Hervey Beams, Mr. E. Perkins Garlick (people's warden of the Parish Church), Mr. C. D. Heginbotham (chairman of the Devizes branch), Mr. S. J. Hector, of Trowbridge (representative on Central Council), etc.

Following the repast, the Rector extended a hearty welcome to the visitors. Three years ago, a few months before he came to Trowbridge, he was told there was a big gathering of ringers in the town on the occasion of the completion of a peal of ten bells, the first in the county of Wilts. Trowbridge thought a great deal of itself because of its peal of ten. Personally, he was aware that attempts at ringing peals did not always succeed. He lived quite close to the church, and knew when a peal was in progress (laughter). It began, perhaps, at six o'clock, and he thought to himself that it would be over somewhere after seven. It might so happen that at ten minutes past seven there came a silence, an ominous silence (laughter). He often wondered to himself whether under such circumstances there was an ominous silence in the ringing chamber, or what was being said (renewed laughter). However, it was a great pleasure to welcome the ringers of the diocese to Trowbridge, and he hoped they would have an enjoyable time. He added that Trowbridge was not satisfied yet, and if any tower in the county secured a peal of ten they were out to get twelve (applause).

THE GUILD WAR MEMORIAL.

The report of the association secretary (already published in these columns) and the accounts were adopted.

Mr. Beams gave a report on the position of the Guild War Memorial Fund, instituted to commemorate the fifty-eight ringers of the diocese who fell in the Great War. The total received from the Wiltshire section of the diocese was £18 14s. 3d., out of a total re-interest could be created by splitting the districts into smaller areas. He said he was very much in favour of forming an independent Guild for the Guildford diocese when it was divided from the Winchester diocese. This was not because he wanted to part with the Winchester Diocesan Guild, but he thought if they had smaller diocesan Guilds and smaller districts, they could work more intensively.

The Master said that the carving out of more districts from existing districts was proposed in 1914 by the committee, but it fell through owing to the war.

After some further general discussion, a motion was passed that the committee should consider the question as to how the work and aims of the Guild can be furthered, and should present a report to the next annual meeting.

THE DIVISION OF THE DIOCESE.

The Master said that at the committee meeting that morning it was resolved to form a special committee, consisting of the district secretaries, with the vice-president, the master and the honorary secretary, to consider the position of the Guild in connection with the division of the diocese.

The Master, on behalf of the committee, then presented a framed photograph of the officers of the Guild to the honorary secretary as a slight appreciation of his services, and, Mr. Pullinger having acknowledged the gift, the business terminated with a vote of thanks to the master for presiding and to the incumbents of the various churches for the use of the respective peals of bells.

The members afterwards attended service at St. Thomas' Church, where the Rev. C. D. P. Davies preached an inspiring sermon, as a ringer to ringers, his text being, 'Whether one member suffer all the members suffer with it, or one member be honoured, all the members rejoice with it' (1. Cor. xii, 26).

Subsequently a large party sat down to tea together at St. Thomas' Parish Room. During the day there was ringing at St. Thomas' Church (which is to be the pro-cathedral of the new Portsmouth diocese), St. Mary's, Portsea, and Alverstoke. The methods ranged from Grand sire Triples to London and Bristol Surprise.

ceived, together with Dorset, of £75 8s. 3d. After allowing for the cost of the appeal, the net balance in the bank was £71 6s. 10d. He regretted that the amount was not £100, and it was for the meeting to decide whether the fund should be kept open or closed. The provision of the screen, a portion of which formed the ringers' memorial, was not yet completed, but was being extended. It was thought at first that the Guild would have been able to raise £200, which was considered as their quota. But out of the 114 towers only 54 had subscribed. He added that whether the ringers paid their share or not the work would be paid for.

Rev. C. C. Cox said it was incumbent upon the Guild to meet their obligations in this matter, and to pay for what was a very worthy and handsome memorial. At the beginning all were very enthusiastic about it, and they quite thought they would raise £200. He would like to see every member of the Guild subscribe, and, as the inscription had already been erected, it was incumbent they should do so, and he therefore moved that the fund be kept open and a further appeal issued.

Mr. C. D. Heginbotham (Devizes) seconded, and this was agreed to. SECRETARY'S EASTERN RINGING EXPERIENCES.

The Rev. R. H. Gundry (Shroton Rectory, Blandford), was unanimously re-elected master.—A letter apologising for absence was read, and in it the desire was expressed that he should retire from office.—The members, however, were unanimous in their decision that he should remain.—The Rev. F. L. Edwards was also re-appointed honorary secretary and treasurer, and paid tribute to the able assistance the Guild had received from Mr. Beams during his absence.

Rev. F. L. Edwards proposed a vote of thanks to the Rector of Trowbridge for conducting the church service and for presiding. He was greatly surprised to find that a new Rector had come since his last visit, on which occasion he had the pleasure of meeting the Rev. P. A. Nash. From what he had seen there was no need for the reformation of the clergy in that district (hear, hear). In Trowbridge they had a Rector who was interested in, and appreciated, the music of the bells, one who, because of the geographical position, had the full benefit of them (laughter). He also desired to thank Canon Knubley for his address, also the organist (Mr. A. E. Howell) for the sympathetic manner in which he accompanied the singing of the male voices; also the incumbents of the various churches whose towers were open that day to the Guild. Explaining that in response to an urgent appeal from the diocese of Jerusalem he had been doing temporary duty as chaplain in Cyprus, he said he had only had three opportunities of ringing while away. On two of them he rang on a peal of three bells in a monastery church with monks, and on the third at Florence Cathedral, where there were also only three bells. The hanging of the bells at the latter was such that so heavy was the going that he thought he was ringing the tenor, whereas it was the treble (laughter).

Canon Knubley replied, and urged the importance of the appeal for the War Memorial Fund being pushed forward in every tower in the diocese.

Mr. Beams voiced thanks to the ladies who had provided the lunch, especially mentioning the name of Mrs. Cooper, and also the gentlemen who had assisted. He thanked, too, the members of the local branch, who had made his work of arranging the festival all the lighter.

Mr. Heginbotham seconded, and this was carried with enthusiasm. The visitors then made their way to the various towers. Unfortunately, ringing was not possible at Warminster owing to illness, and the ringers of Melksham sent an apology for not being at home to greet them because they were taking their annual holiday.

BELL RESTORATION AT EALING.

PART OF £3,000 SCHEME AT ST. MARY'S CHURCH.

The parishioners of St. Mary's, Ealing, have undertaken the restoration of the bells, organ and the fabric in general. The bells are to be re-tuned and re-hung in an iron frame, with new fittings throughout. The estimate of a well-known firm has been accepted, and the work will be put in hand within the next few months. The sum of money required for the whole scheme is £3,000.

A garden sale was held in the grounds of Ealing Vicarage on Friday and Saturday last. This resulted in a substantial sum being added to the fund, and, incidentally, takes the total past the first £1,000. On Friday evening, the following ringers rang courses of Grand sire Caters, Bob Major, etc., on handbells, viz.: J. A. Trollope, F. Corke, A. H. Fulwell, A. M. Stacey, and F. W. Goodfellow. During Saturday afternoon a course of Grand sire Caters on Mr. J. K. Mackman's fine handbells brought forth the usual expressions of appreciation. The ringers on this occasion were: J. R. Mackman, H. Mackman, H. Belcher, A. H. Fulwell, and F. W. Goodfellow.

Although the bells have been going indifferently for several years, it is a commendable fact that the ringers have headed the list of Sunday service quarter-peals rung in towers affiliated to the Middlesex Association for the last three or four years. The majority of the band were taught their ringing in this tower, and it is satisfactory to know that their enthusiasm will cost them fewer wet shirts than has been the case in the past.

Anybody who would care to subscribe to this worthy object should send their donations to Fred. W. Goodfellow, 121, Standard Road, Hounslow, Middlesex.

NINE HUNDRED PEALS.

MR. JAMES GEORGE'S GREAT ACHIEVEMENT.

In the space of less than two years Mr. James George—of England—has added another one hundred peals to his record, and brought his total to 900. This was completed on Saturday last, when he made a new departure by ringing a peal of Cambridge Surprise Royal, and it is safe to say that no other ringer has rung his first peal on ten bells in this method at the age of seventy-two. Mr. George's many performances on heavy bells—he delights in picking out the 'big uns' and slogging where there's man's work to be done—are well known to all readers of this journal, and have long been accepted as evidence of his perpetual youth, physically at all events. Now we have testimony of his mental vigour and alertness, for Cambridge Royal, even in these days, is not everybody's job.

Mr. George has spent just half his life in ringing, for he did not begin until he was thirty-six years of age, and the older he gets the more he does. Nearly all the big jobs there are to do he has done, and our readers will find a list of some of his memorable achievements between the ages of sixty-eight and seventy-one in our issue of August 29th, 1924. To these we would add one or two of the things he has accomplished since he passed his seventy-second birthday. He has turned in Bow tenor (53 cwt.) to Treble Bob Maximus, and it is worth noting that no man over the age of fifty-six has done this, so Mr. George has got a start of sixteen years over the oldest of them. He has rung Canterbury Cathedral tenor (30 cwt.) to Treble Bob Maximus, and St. Luke's, Derby (tenor 30 cwt.), to Double Norwich Major.

And he is seventy-two! We wonder whether it is the ringing or the ping-pong, of which he appears to be local champion, that keeps him thus fit. He is still looking for more worlds to conquer. There are not many left, but he has designs on them all. In the meantime our readers will be interested in the following list of his 900 peals, which have been rung in 328 different towers, and 42 different counties, in England, Scotland, Ireland and Wales:—

EDUCATING THE PUBLIC.

RINGING DEMONSTRATION TO MEMBERS OF SELBORNE SOCIETY.

Many influential members of the well-known Selborne Society, including Mrs. E. M. Richardson-Rice, member of Council in charge, and the honorary secretary, Mr. Wilfred M. Webb, paid a visit to the village of Iver, Bucks, on Saturday, when they were met by the Vicar, who explained the interesting features of the church.

By the kind permission of the Vicar, a demonstration of change-ringing was arranged by some members of the Oxford Diocesan Guild, and the company had an opportunity of viewing the bells when in motion (there is good standing room on a staging in a safe position), and afterwards to watch the manipulation of the ropes in the ringing chamber.

All points were practically and clearly explained by Mr. Wm. Lawrence (Ealing), who had assistance in the ringing of Miss Phyllis Moss (of Uxbridge), Mr. Geo. H. Guttridge (Iver Heath), and others. The methods rung were Grandsire, Stedman, and Bob Minor.

Several of the ladies and gentlemen asked many questions, and this was a good sign that interest was taken in the proceedings, and one lady in particular was with difficulty restrained from making an attempt to ring one of the bells.

Mr. Friend Sykes entertained all to tea on the lawn at Richings Park, afterwards taking the members for a ramble around his fine wooded park.

GRIMSBY DISTRICT MEETINGS.

A Grimsby district meeting was held at Barrow-on-Humber on Saturday, July 3rd, when members attended from Bigby, Ulceby, Burton-on-Stather, Grimsby, and the local band. The bells were kept going during the afternoon, and the Guild service was conducted by the Vicar, who gave an excellent address from I. Cor. xii. 12.

Tea was served in the Vicar's room, when nineteen members sat down, including the president (the Rev. H. T. Parry), the Rev. G. H. Newton (Vicar of Ulceby), and the Vicar of Barrow.

At the meeting which followed, with the president in the chair, the Vicar of Barrow (the Rev. L. S. Officer) was elected an honorary member of the Northern Branch. Mr. W. E. Broughton, of Goxhill, was elected as a performing member.—The secretary read a letter re Stallingborough bells.

A comprehensive vote of thanks to the Vicar for the use of the bells, for conducting the service, and for his excellent address; also to the caterers for the excellent tea, and to Mr. H. E. Dannett for his untiring efforts in the cause of change-ringing, and for the arrangements he had made for the meeting, was heartily carried.

Members then adjourned to the tower for more ringing.

At a meeting held at Ulceby on June 12th, members attended from Bigby, Barrow-on-Humber, Grimsby, and the local tower. A vote of sympathy was passed with the relatives of the late Mr. T. Mann, of Burton-on-Stather.—The president, as one of the Guild's representatives on the Central Council, explained to the members why he did not attend at the Central Council meeting.—The collection for the district bell fund amounted to 8s.—Votes of thanks concluded the meeting, and further ringing was then indulged in.

INTEREST IN THE CENTRAL COUNCIL

The difficulty of getting ringers in many towers to take an interest in anything outside their own belfry, or even in it for that matter, has been the subject of constant comment. It is, as pointed out in this column last week, one of the problems with which all the associations are confronted, and if men cannot be induced to interest themselves in the things that concern their own association or guild, how much more difficult is it to create any widespread interest in a body like the Central Council, which is a step further distant from the orbit in which the individual ringer revolves? Yet the Council will never completely or even adequately fulfil its purpose unless the whole body of the Exercise takes a real interest in its operations, and the associations themselves are ready to participate actively in the work of the Council.

One obstacle to this was pointed out at the meeting of the Winchester Diocesan Guild. The business which is to come before the Council at any meeting is not known until a week or two before the meeting takes place, with the result that the associations generally are unable to consider any of the questions that are down for discussion, and to pass on their views through their accredited representatives. When, for any reason, the business of the Council is known beforehand, there is ample proof that ringers are ready to interest themselves in it. There were two instances prior to the last meeting. One was the adjourned report of the Nomenclature Committee, which many associations discussed and expressed opinions upon, and the other was the warmly debated subject of Simpson tuning, which the Honorary Secretary brought to a head by giving notice of his motion twelve months in advance, and which created almost unbroken interest and discussion among ringers throughout the year. This is proof that some ringers, at any rate, given the opportunity, can be interested in Council topics.

The question raised at the Winchester Guild meeting was how this opportunity could best be afforded as a regular part of the procedure, and a proposal was made that the Council should be induced so to alter their Standing Orders that the agenda should be published three months instead of three weeks before the meeting. There seems to be little objection to such a course, but to give the associations full opportunity of considering proposals it means that committee reports ought also to be published well in advance. It has been a noticeable failure on the part of some of the committees of the Council in the past that they are really unprepared with any actual report. An impromptu verbal statement is all that is often forthcoming—indeed, at Ipswich there was more than one instance in which the members of a committee did not themselves know who was to report or what was to be said. It ought to be a rule that each committee's report should be in print before the meeting, and if the committees could bestir themselves to complete their work so that these reports could be published round about the time the agenda appeared the Exercise might then be able to raise some little interest. As at present arranged the Exercise knows nothing until it is too late to express any views, and when the question has been one on which the Council has been desirous of getting an opinion it has meant an inevitable delay of at least a year.

Attested by H. STANLEY ROBINSON.

The conductor's fiftieth peal. The composition, which has only 4, 5, 6 in 6th's place and the full combination of 4, 5, 6 in 5-6, in the least possible number of changes, is now rung for the first time.

The following three peals were rung during a week's holiday spent by G. H. Cross in Hertfordshire, and he desires, through the medium of 'The Ringing World' to thank his ringing friends for their many kindnesses.

PRITTLEWELL MEN IN KENT.

A most enjoyable day was spent by the Prittlewell band on Saturday, July 3rd, when they paid a visit to Kent, that happy hunting-ground of Prittlewell ringers, where the bells, the scenery, and the welcome are always superlative, and, on this occasion, the weather too. Starting from Southend by the 6.31 a.m. train to Gravesend, the company, some eighteen strong, gathered at the Clock Tower to await the charabanc, which arrived more than punctually, and at 7.55 the journey to Maidstone commenced, the county town being reached somewhat before the appointed hour. A pleasant time was spent by most of the party admiring the beautiful church, while others supplemented their apparent inadequate breakfasts. However, the sound of the bells being raised all to the church, and touches of Stedman Gaters and Bob were rung, though unfortunately, a plain course of Cambridge all did not materialise. Ashford was the next stop, and an hour was pleasantly passed in the belfry ringing Double Norwich, Stedman Triples, Cambridge Major, and almost a course of London. By now, even those who had indulged in two breakfasts were sorely in need of food, while the others were ravenous, so hasty trucks were made to the Saracen's Head, where luncheon had been bespoken. Everyone did justice to an admirable meal, and, feeling as the famous tiger of Riga must have felt, the party set out for Wye. The bells here were much admired, and touches of Double Norwich and Stedman were thoroughly enjoyed, both by the actual performers and the critical listeners outside. The next stop—a short one—was at Ospringe, where in the peculiar-looking church Double Norwich, Stedman and Cambridge were rung. From Ospringe to Sittingbourne was the next move, and here a plentiful tea had been prepared and was much appreciated. The belfry was then visited, and about an hour's ringing obtained, in which Double Norwich and Stedman were brought home, but the London still proved unattainable.

After a pleasant interlude the last stage of the journey was undertaken, and Gravesend was reached just after 9 p.m. As the last train for Southend did not leave till 10.55, the majority agreed that they had better make a day of it, so they forgathered in the British Tar, whose hostess is well known amongst the Cumberland youths, and a delightful hour was passed in an inner room. (Ringers passing this way should make a note of this—they may be assured of a real hearty welcome.) The time for departure from this pleasant retreat came all too soon, and tired but happy the company embarked for Southend. The day was enjoyed to the full by all. The weather was grand, and everywhere the welcome was splendid. The Prittlewell ringers wish to express their appreciation and thanks to all concerned who helped them to spend such a happy day S. W. ## NOTES BY THE WAY.

A PROBLEM IN COMPOSITION.

BY J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

For very many years the great question in composition was: Is it possible to get a peal of Grandsire Triples with common bobs only? On the face of it, there seemed no reason why it should not be done. The 'In-and-out-of-Course' of the changes offered no obstacle, as it does in Grandsire Caters. In Caters every row of the plain course is in-course, and as a bob does not alter the nature of the rows, obviously all the out of course rows (one half of the total) cannot be had unless you have some special call which does alter the nature of the rows. In Triples the hand strokes are out of course, the back strokes are in-course; and there is no row which cannot be brought up by ordinary bobs. Why, then, should not they all be brought up in one block?

Nearly two hundred years ago John Holt, in his Original, got all except three leads, and less than fifty years ago composers were still trying to get the lot. It was held, and rightly held, that because no man had done it was no reason why no man should ever do it. Dr. Carpenter pointed out that the number of ways in which you can mix up plain leads and bobbed leads in a 5,040 is stupendous; and surely, he said, out of that number one, and perhaps many, would give the desired result. Then came two men who settled the question. First, Mr. Davies proved that a peal of Grandsire Triples is not possible under certain limited conditions—the conditions under which Holt was working when he produced his Ten Part. And then Mr. W. H. Thompson proved that it is not possible under any conditions at all. Mr. Thompson was not a ringer, and he did not approach the problem from a ringer's point of view. He was a mathematician, and he dealt with it as a problem of mathematics. He was the first man who showed ringers that there are far more efficient ways of dealing with problems of composition than the old method of experiment, of trial and failure, and trial again, until you get success or drop the problem as beyond you.

He published his results in a pamphlet called 'A Note on Grandsire Triples showing that the construction of a peal of Grandsire Triples by means of plain leads and common bob leads only is impossible.' The date is 1886. This pamphlet is rather rare now, and I daresay few of the younger ringers have seen it. An account of it and an explanation of its arguments are included in Mr. Davies' edition of Snowdon's 'Grandsire.' But I have no doubt that that part of the book is unknown to most people. Ordinary ringers are frightened by these explanations of mathematical problems. They seem unable to use the required amount of concentrated thought to follow the arguments. And so, though everybody is content to take it on authority that you cannot have a peal of Grandsire Triples with common bobs, only few know why it is so.

Mr. Thompson was able to complete his proof by establishing a law which we call the 'Law of the Q Sets.' This is a universal law of composition, and must be understood by any one who wants to take an intelligent interest in the science of ringing. It is quite a simple law, but the simple things are usually those which are most difficult to explain and to understand. For instance, the nature of the rows—the In-and-out-of-course of the changes—was for years looked upon as a most difficult thing, a mystery, clearly a fact, but a fact which could hardly be explained, and had to be taken as axiomatic.

I have found that in explaining these things it is best to state the problem as simply as possible. Thus, if you want to understand the law of Q sets, do not go at once to Mr. Thompson's explanation of it in connection with Grandsire Triples. There you will find it fairly complex. But go to Bob Major, where the conditions are much simpler. You will understand why you cannot get a peal of Grandsire Triples with common bobs only if you first consider a very much simpler problem in Bob Major.

In Bob Major, with the sixth fixed, there are twelve in-course courses. Can you by bobs alone join them into one round block, and, if not, why not? You may use only bobs at Wrong and Home, for any others would shift either sixth, seventh or tenor; and that is outside the conditions of our problem.

Now, in these twelve courses there are three 5-6s, three 4-6s, three 3-6s, and three 2-6s, and the first and important thing is to realise that if one course end with 5-6 at home is brought up bobbed all three must be brought up bobbed. And, if one is brought up plain, all three must be brought up plain.

That this is a fact you can easily see by experiment. Here are the three course ends brought up bobbed, hand stroke being shown as well as back stroke:

14235678	13425678	12345678

and here are the same brought up plain:—

14326587	13246587	12436587
14235678	13425678	12345678

Now try and mix the two in any way you like. You will find that you will always get repetition at the hand strokes. Here are the first two plained and the third bobbed:—

The handstrokes of the second and third are, you see, the same. And, however you mix up bobbed and plained, you will find that you cannot get all the three handstroke rows you want.

It follows that if you want all three of the possible 5-6s you must have a set of three bobs or three plain leads. What is true of the 5-6s is similarly true of the other courses. And what is true of the bobs at Home is similarly true of the bobs at Wrong. The rows that compose one of these sets is called a Q set. In Bob Major a Q set consists of three members, because there are three bells altered at a bob. In Grandsire Triples it consists of five members, because there are five bells displaced at a bob.

RINGERS' OUTINGS. ST. IGNATIUS', SUNDERLAND.

The ringers of St. Ignatius', Sunderland, had a very enjoyable charabanc outing on Wednesday, June 23rd, Barnard Castle, Staindrop, and Darlington being visited. The party numbered fifteen, including the Vicar, Mr. G. Attey (churchwarden) and Messrs. Ritson and McMillan, members of the Church Council. On arriving at Barnard Castle, the very fine peal of eight of St. Mary's were soon got going with Stedman, Grandsire, and Double Norwich, and it is hoped that at least some of the inhabitants would notice something different to the 'stony' to which they have been accustomed. After an excellent dinner the motor was again brought into use, and the pretty village of Staindrop was reached soon after two o'clock. Here the visitors were welcomed by the Vicar and two local ringers, and, through their good offices, were shown through the fine old castle of Raby (the seat of Lord Barnard), and also through the gardens and conservatories.

The bells of St. Mary's, Staindrop, now claimed the ringers' attention, and a most enjoyable hour was spent in ringing various methods, two sons of Mr. Dan Shipp taking a rope in Grandsire and Kent Treble Bob Major. The bells have recently been augmented to eight and re-hung by Messrs. Taylor, who have made a perfect job of them, and it was with difficulty the ringers could tear themselves away. After a substantial tea, thanks were accorded to the churchwardens for their contribution to the expenses, to the clergy of the three towers for the use of the bells; and the health of the visitors was proposed, Mr. Ritson responding in his usual humorous vein, and Mr. H. Shipp replied on behalf of the local men.

A rainstorm was encountered on the way to Darlington, but this did not depress the party in the slightest, and a very pleasant hour was spent in the belfry of St. John's, Darlington, several of the local men joining in the ringing. The homeward journey was then commenced, the thirty-five miles being done in excellent time.

GREAT YARMOUTH.

On Saturday, June 26th, the Great Yarmouth St. Nicholas' company held their annual outing. Leaving Yarmouth at 8 a.m. by charabanc, the party proceeded to Wrentham and rang touches in the standard methods on the six bells. Halesworth was next on the list, and here they rang Grandsire and Stedman Triples on the mellow old peal of eight. A capital dinner followed at the Swan Hotel, and Chediston and Wissett towers were then visited, and touches of Grandsire, Plain Bob and Treble Bob were brought round. These ancient churches were inspected with much interest, the old Dane stone at Halesworth and the Saxon and Norman work at Chediston and Wissett churches being especially noticed. A long run then brought the ringers to Lodden Church, and here some good touches of Plain, Treble Bob, and Stedman Triples were rung. A good tea was partaken of at the Swan Hotel, where Oliver Cromwell once spent the night and played bowls on the green. Yarmouth was reached at 10 p.m., after a most enjoyable day in the country. The ringers desire to thank the various clergy for the use of the bells, and the local ringers for meeting them, also Messrs. F. Naunton (Wrentham), F. C. Lambert (Halesworth), and F. Finch (Lodden) for helping to make the arrangements for a most successful outing.

JOYS OF THE OPEN ROAD.

Many are the joys of the open road, and wonderful are the beautiful Derbyshire dales, but to fully appreciate all these splendours you must be careful how you view them. On Saturday, June 19th, along with my fellow-ringers at St. Peter's Church, Ashton-under-Lyne, I journeyed in a five-seater touring car, via Chapel-en-le-Frith and Buxton, to the picturesque little village of Burbage. The weather was excellent, and so was everyone's spirits until we pulled up three miles from Buxton with a flat tyre. However, the puncture was repaired in about three-quarters of an hour, and we resumed our way in peace. For the return journey we travelled over Axe Edge, past the 'Cat and Fiddle' and through Macclesfield. After a thrilling ride round numerous hair-pin bends, at one of which I almost choked myself with a beastly piece of toffee, we were obliged to stop at Poynton with another flat tyre. I might mention that the leading car had continued its way in blissful unconsciousness of our predicament on the occasion of both punctures. Between gasps and curses the tyre was levered off, inner tube examined, but no trace of a puncture could be found. At half-past eleven, after an hour and a half's hard work, we discovered that the valve of the tyre was leaking beyond repair, and the nearest garage was two miles away. The car was pushed into a by-road, and the driver and myself walked from Poynton to Hazel Grove, where, after the garage proprietor had been disturbed from his beauty sleep, we purchased a new inner tube. We returned to Poynton at a quarter to one, and careworn and weary we decided to rest awhile. Suddenly we heard footsteps approaching, and with beating hearts perceived the burly forms of two policemen. It was only after lengthy explanations and the number of the car had been taken that we were again left in peace. Bathed in moonlight and with spiders, flies and goodness-only-knows-what falling on us from the trees above, we slept the sleep of the just. As the dawn of a new day broke, we resumed our labours, and at half-past four on Sunday morning a mysterious car, bearing five grimy occupants, was seen to crawl through the deserted streets of Ashton. Yes, as I previously stated, many are the joys of the open road!

BELFRY GOSSIP.

A meeting of the Western District of the Ladies' Guild is to be held at Portishead to-morrow, when ringers of both sexes will be welcome.

Two re-openings will shortly take place in Essex. The ring of five at St. Leonard's, Colchester, have been rebung, and will be re-opened on July 29th. On Sunday, July 25th, two trebles, completing the peal of eight at Kirby-le-Soken, will be dedicated.

It is no mean record to score one hundred peals in one tower, and Mr. Samuel Wood, the Lancashire veteran, has just added that to his other distinctions, a peal of Treble Ten last week completing his century on the bells of his own parish church.

The peal of twelve at St. Chad's, Shrewsbury, was opened on July 18th, 1798, with a peal of 5,184 Grandsire Cinques rung by the College Youths.

The first peal rung by ladies only was at Cubitt Town on July 20th, 1912.

The record length of Kent Treble Bob Major was rung at Over, Cheshire, on July 21st, 1923, when 17,280 was brought round in ten hours.

RINGER'S DEATH IN AUSTRALIA.

Lancashire ringers will hear with great regret of the death of Mr. James Adams, a former member of the Ashton-under-Lyne Parish Church band, who has died in Australia, where he had resided for some years.

Mr. Adams visited England in 1924 and rang a farewell peal of Treble Bob at Salford, on December 23rd, before sailing for Australia on January 3rd, 1925.

On Tuesday of last week a muffled peal of Kent Treble Bob Royal was rung at Ashton in his memory.

RECORD PEAL CONDITIONS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—May I make a correction in your report of what I said at the Central Council meeting at Ipswich on the subject of peal umpires? I did not say that 'no one except the secretary of the society whose record was to be challenged should have a copy of the figures,' but 'no one except the secretary of the society under whose title the hand is to ring should have a copy of the figures.' I think I also said that the conductor of the peal which it is intended to surpass, or the secretary of the society under whose title that peal was rung should have notice sent when an attempt is to be made to surpass it.

I am not now, nor was I then, giving my opinions of what should be, but quoting, so far as I was able, from the Central Council Publication, 'Rules and Decisions,' pages 11-13, where the conditions to be fulfilled are quite clearly set forth.—Yours truly,

CYRIL W. O. JENKYN.

Broadlands, Caversham.

NORTH NOTTS ASSOCIATION.

The Midsummer meeting of the North Notts Association was held at Cuckney on Saturday last. The bells, a sweet-toned peal, were augmented from four to six and rebung in 1914 by Taylor and Co., the tenor being recast. They were in splendid going order, and with two more trebles would make a fine octave. The weather was all that could be desired, though possibly too hot for some. The Vicar (the Rev. H. R. Peel) welcomed the first arrivals, and the bells were raised in peal by the Barlborough ringers about 2.30. Mr. H. Cafferatta, of Newark, a vice-president, brought over a full company of the Sutton-on-Trent ringers, including two ladies (Misses Burch-nall), who succeeded in ringing touches in three methods. Members were also present from Barlborough, Treeton, Shireoaks, Ordsall, Worksop, Sutton-in-Ashfield, Bolsover, Mansfield, Staveley, Killam-marsh, and a number of the local company. The following methods were rung during the afternoon and evening: Plain Bob, Double Court, Kent and Oxford, Violet, Killammarsh, London Scholars' Pleasure, Duke of York and Cambridge Surprise.

Tea was served in the Church Institute, after which the business was transacted. The Rev. H. R. Peel presided over tea and meeting. The next meeting will be held at North Wheatley, near Retford, in September.

The usual vote of thanks was accorded to the Vicar for the use of the bells and presiding over the tea and meeting, and the Rev. H. R. Peel, in a brief speech, welcomed all the ringers to Cuckney. He said how much he loved to hear the ringing of church bells. He believed Cuckney had got one of the sweetest peals of bells in the district, and it was so nice to hear them skilfully rung. Their service ringers at Cuckney performed their duties every Sunday in an admirable way, and he was pleased the tower was affiliated with the association. It was much better for the ringers to have their meetings in the villages in summer than in winter.

The Sutton-on-Trent ringers will be pleased to see a large number of ringers present on August Bank Holiday at their annual sports and gala in aid of the Church Bells Restoration Fund. Both these meetings will be advertised in 'The Ringing World' later.

LANCASHIRE ASSOCIATION.*PRESTON BRANCH ANNUAL MEETING: A HINT TO MEMBERS.

The annual meeting of the Preston branch was held at Samesbury on Saturday, July 10th. During the day between 20 and 30 ringers and friends were present, amongst whom were visitors from the Blackburn branch, Mr. Edwin Timbrell, of Chipping, who had not had a pull on eight bells since visiting this tower fourteen years ago, and Miss May Clayton, who has been very busy in the last twelve months ringing peals in most of the standard methods, as well as representatives from ten of the branch towers.

Ringings commenced about three o'clock, and tea was partaken of at a farmhouse near by, where, owing to lack of accommodation, there were two sittings, so that those having tea were able to do so within sound of the bells. At the business meeting which followed, the Vicar, the Rev. G. Webster Clarke, presided, and after opening the meeting with prayer welcomed the ringers to Samesbury. He looked on ringers, he said, as men who were doing good work for the Church.

The secretary gave the following report on the work of the branch for the year: During the year we have held meetings at Higher Walton, Eccleston, Chorley, Hoghton, Broughton, Preston Parish Church, and Chipping. We have also had a successful joint meeting with the Wigan branch at Wigan Parish Church, as well as the annual social at St. James', Leyland. The average attendance at the meetings has been slightly higher than the preceding year, the average being 29 for this year, against 27 last year. The annual social was another success, both in numbers and other respects, and St. James' ringers and friends can say they succeeded very well when comparing their efforts with those of their predecessors. Thirteen branch peals have been rung as follows: One Minor in three methods, 2 Kent Treble Bob Minor, 2 Cambridge Minor, 1 Oxford Treble Bob Minor, and 1 Minor in seven methods, all at Brindle, 2 Double Norwich (1 at Preston parish and 1 at Samesbury), 1 Kent Treble Bob and 1 Spliced Treble Bob at Whittle-le-Woods, also 1 Spliced Treble Bob at Chorley, 1 Minor in four methods at St. James' Leyland, the first peal of Minor for all the band and by the local band, also 1 peal of Stedman at Whittle-le-Woods. Thirty-four members have rung in one or more peals during the year, no less than twenty-six ringing their first in one or more methods. Four members have reached a total of fifty or more peals for the association. Since September last sixty-nine honorary life, honorary, non-resident and ringing members have paid £8 7s. in subscriptions. We have made two honorary life members, three non-resident, and eight ringing members during the year. I regret to say we have lost one honorary life member, the late Rev. P. Lancashire, one time Rector of Brindle, for whom a muffled peal of Cambridge Minor was rung at Brindle. We have also lost one of the Whittle stalwarts, Mr. Wm. Lancaster, who has left the district on account of his employment, but I am pleased to see he continues to be active in ringing. We have also lost one or two others from other causes. The year has been fairly successful compared with previous ones and with other branches of the association, and although our members are probably equal to any other branch as regards paying their subscriptions, I would like to warn some of them who are getting a bit behind that according to rule they are liable to be crossed off the list. I mention this because some of them have rung peals during the year. The list of members is as follows:—4 honorary life members, 1 honorary member, and 123 ringing members.

Mr. J. R. Taylor, in moving that the report be accepted, said he considered it a splendid one. Mr. J. Binson seconded, and the report was accepted.

Mr. Wm. Sharples then gave a report of the General Committee meeting held at Manchester last month.—The report was accepted, and the best thanks of the meeting given to the branch representatives at the committee meeting.

The branch secretary and the ringing master, Mr. E. R. Martin, were then re-elected without opposition.—Mr. J. R. Taylor, in proposing the resolution, said he didn't think the branch could improve on them, and that they ought to stick to them as long as they could.—The motion was carried unanimously, and the secretary and ringing master thanked the meeting for their confidence.

The question of the annual branch social was next considered, the meeting deciding to hold the same at Chorley.

The ringing master then had a word to say about the state of ringing in the branch. He thought they had lost ground recently in the higher methods, as two or three years ago they had rung peals of Superlative, but now it was little practised, and he would like anyone to suggest a way by which they could improve things. They were, he said, equal to any other branch, but he thought they might do better.

Other members spoke on the subject, one suggesting that a peal should be attempted at each tower during the year. Another thought touches at the meetings should be cut shorter, especially when there was a large number of ringers present.

Votes of thanks to the local authorities for the use of the bells and to the local ringers for having all in readiness as well as arranging teas, concluded the meeting, the Vicar and one of the wardens, who is also a ringer, suitably replying.

The tower was again visited, when the tit-bit of the day in ringing was accomplished, this being a long touch of Double Norwich, conducted by B. A. Knights, who seemed to enjoy it so much that he could not resist prolonging it, at the risk of getting in hot water with those who were waiting for a pull. During the day most of the standard methods were rung, as well as some good practice being obtained for the beginners.

THE CHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD.
STOCKPORT BRANCH SECRETARY'S DEPARTURE.

The Stockport and Bowden branch held the summer quarterly meeting at Chapel-en-le-Frith on Saturday, July 3rd. This church, although outside the diocese of Chester, is one of the border parishes which comes within the area of the Guild. Standing on a hill 850 feet above sea level, in the lovely Peak District of Derbyshire, and within a few miles of Buxton, the church is ideally situated for a summer meeting. The tower contains a peal of six by Rudhall, cast about 200 years ago, and although they go fairly well they are hopelessly out of tune. The weather was perfect, and the walk of over a mile from the station to the church was very pleasant indeed, the route laying along lanes profuse with briar roses and wild flowers of all kinds. At the church gates the Rev. J. C. Streddar (Vicar) personally welcomed all who arrived prior to the service, which was held in the church at 4.30, and was attended among others by Mr. E. W. Elwell, the general secretary of the Guild. The service was short and much appreciated, and in his remarks the Vicar said he had promised to provide a short service and long tea, and he had arranged the latter for five o'clock in the schools. Here it was found the promise was no idle one, the tables being a joy to see, and although only about half the forty-two who attended had sent in their names, yet all were welcomed and liberally provided for.

After tea, Mr. J. H. Jackson, of Disley, the branch chairman, thanked the Vicar for the kind welcome he had given, and for the generous way in which he had provided the tea.—This was received with acclamation, and the Vicar, in reply, said it was a great pleasure to him to receive the Guild members and their friends, and mentioned that it was twenty-five years ago on the previous day since he came to the parish. He thanked the six members who rang the peal for him last year to commemorate the seven hundredth anniversary of the church. Owing to the ill-health of one of his sons he was leaving that part of the country, and had accepted a living near Stratford-on-Avon, and he would be very pleased to receive any of the members there if at any future time they were in that district.

The business meeting followed, and the chairman announced that the members had to find a new branch secretary in place of Mr. J. P. Fidler, who had left the district to take up an appointment with Messrs. Taylor and Co., the bell-founders.

For the remainder of the current year, Mr. T. Wilde, of Hyde, was elected honorary secretary pro tem. The best thanks of the members were accorded to Mr. Fidler for his work as secretary during the two years he had held office, and best wishes were extended to him in his new sphere.

One new member was elected, and a practice meeting was arranged to take place at Hayfield on Saturday, August 28th, to give encouragement to the new band which has recently been formed there. It was also arranged to attempt a peal at Chapel-en-le-Frith in September to commemorate the Vicar's twenty-five years' service, and also as a farewell to him on leaving the parish.

Votes of thanks to the local ringers and to the helpers at tea concluded the meeting, and the bells were afterwards kept going until nearly nine o'clock, when tracks were made for home after as pleasant a day as one could wish for. The ringing was arranged to suit all who wanted a pull, and the methods extended from Grandsire Doubles to Cambridge and London Surprise Minor.

MR. SAM JONES, JUN.'S. 100 PEALS.

Completed at Pulford, Cheshire, on Saturday, Mr. S. SIMPSON TUNING.
THE CLAIM OF OLD-FASHIONED TUNING.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—The question of Simpson-tuned bells and bells cast on what is known as the old system has been extensively ventilated in the pages of 'The Ringing World' recently.

I should like to put my views on the matter before your readers. The old system I would deal with first, because from a skillful point of view they are first, for bells cast and properly tuned on this plan are very hard to beat for all towers and any form of ringing, odd or even methods. There is nothing more pleasing to the ear, when well struck, than these peals. Several peals I have heard will satisfy the most fastidious. One stands out perhaps more prominently than others, that is Privett (Hants). A better peal for their weight no founder has ever cast. I could mention a good number besides, and not include the famous Rudhall's peals, and more of other scientific founders of long ago.

Let us now turn to the Simpson principle. Some founders turn out bells on this so-called system. Why? Because it is next to the impossible for them to cast bells superior to the old-fashioned peals for sweetness and mellowness of tone. (I fancy I hear someone say 'rot!') Never mind, it is true nevertheless. This system with the noisy hum note of one bell overlapping another covers up defects which cannot be done in an old-fashioned peal. Will some of these Simpson peals stand the tuning-fork test any better than the Coventry peal? I venture to say 'No.' I know of several good peals on this plan, and I know of some that are indifferent, and how people can shout about them is past my comprehension. Peals cast on this principle, if hurried in ringing in some towers, will set up a howl that is not very pleasant. Simpson bells should never be put into cramped towers, but only into towers with plenty of space upwards, and where the spires are suitable.

Then, sometimes, bells get put on the tuning machine to try and turn them into a so-called Simpson bell, when they were not cast for it. I am referring to old bells, and when so treated it is vandalism. When bells are not cast to the proper shape you cannot put it right in the lathe to that extent. A lot of bells are finding their way back into the melting pot; some require it, others for business. As a ringer I strongly object to anyone, after making a thorough inspection in the tower for re-fitting and re-hanging in a new frame, and after bells are at the works, writing to the Church authorities saying the whole peal must be re-cast. No one wanted it done, as it was a very fine old peal. How is it that in some peals (Simpson) the clappers are not graded? I know of bells in peals that, alongside the others, have not got breath enough. For instance, if it is the 5th bell in an octave, a clapper is put in several pounds heavier than the sixth clapper. Is this perfect casting and tuning?

What is required to-day is a qualified architect. Is there one to-day who could answer a simple question, Which is the hand-stroke side of bell or clapper when it is down? Sometimes the poor bell-hanger, who always does his best to make bells go well, comes in for his share of the blame if anyone happens to be a bit critical. I will give one instance. A peal had been rung, and the local captain of the ringers thought one of the bells did not go as well as it should. He eventually told the bell-hanger, and also went so far as to say the bell was not level. 'Come up,' he said, 'and I will show you.' Up they went, the captain armed with a level. No ringer would ever guess where he put the level to test the bell. To the consternation of the bell-hanger he put it on top of the stay. When I order a peal, it will be on the old plan, and I shall stipulate for a musical peal. It takes good metal to produce such. Thanking you for your valuable space,—Yours truly,

J. HUNT.

Taunton.

BELLS THAT WANT MORE METAL.

Dear Sir,—I am pleased to see that the bell-founders have at last had something to say about Simpson tuning. This question has periodically been raised for some years, and I hope that the real experts have at last put paid to it. I am pleased to observe in your report that the bell-founders do not mind being shot at, as one would like to know the opinions of twelve bell-ringers with regard to the modern-tuned peals of twelve that have been put up in this last few years. I have recently had the opportunity of listening to two such peals. Both are very musical, the tenors the same weight and note, and from different foundries. I consider one peal more uniform than the other, but both could be greatly improved as peals of twelve if ten cwt. more metal had been put in the front, five at one place and fifteen cwt. more in the front eight at the other.

Competition may be the cause of this skimping of the smaller bells, if so ringers and those concerned must insist on the individual weight of each bell when inviting tenders from the firms concerned. Another point that is frequently discussed amongst ringers is whether the tucking up of the back bells into the headstocks has not been overdone, as a lot of them have a tendency to turn too slow, and also to be short gaited at handstroke. To ring heavy bells in comfort it is essential that they should turn quickly. A large number of ringers should be able to write with considerable knowledge on the points I have raised.—Yours truly,

PERCY O. LAFLIN.

ACTS OF VANDALISM.

Dear Sir,—In view of the prolonged sources of indifference that continue to find way into the columns of 'The Ringing World' on the subject of 'Simpson tuning,' may I be permitted a little space to make a few remarks?

Firstly, these critics who condemn Simpson-tuned bells as being 'noisy howlers' of the 'tin-can' type, etc., appear to have a very limited knowledge of the subject. Evidently they are only associated with the 'early Simpson-tuned' bells, cast at the time when the system was in an experimental stage. As a result of continued research, so much improvement has been effected that modern peals are quite distinguishable from their ancestors.

On the other hand, I take strong objection to acts of vandalism being allowed by authorities concerned, because some grand old peal does not happen to be tuned on the Simpson principle. It was stated at the consistory court at Coventry 'that good bells, tuned on the old plan, were few and far between'; but, as can easily be proved, this statement is entirely unfounded. And, further, quotes Mr. J. Armiger Trollope, the 'Simpsonian' allege that these occasional fine examples of the old founders' art are outstanding because they constitute practically a Simpson-tuned bell. This statement, of course, is ridiculous, and only serves to substitute a blank, where a correct reply cannot be given.

Simpson tuning is all right as long as it is confined to modern peals; but I think that it is very wrong of the 'Simpson enthusiasts' to push themselves, in conjunction with 'self-styled' bell experts, into the act of persuading authorities to replace a grand old peal with an inferior 'Simpson-tuned' one.—Yours faithfully,

'BOW TENOR.'

RAMSBOTTOM BELLS RE-OPENED.

The bells at St. Paul's Church, Ramsbottom, Lancs, were re-opened on Saturday last by Canon H. J. Elsee, of Bolton, president of Lancs Association, a good number of ringers being present from various places, including Mr. Rollerson, vice-president, Mr. W. H. Shuker, general secretary of the association, Mr. A. Tomlinson, ringing secretary, and Mr. Pryce Taylor, of the Loughborough foundry.

The bells have been cleaned, retuned and fitted up on the latest principle on steel girders, iron framework and ball bearings. Everyone present was unanimous that Messrs. Taylor and Co. had done their work well, there being a great improvement both as regards tone and the 'go' of the bells.

Ringing was carried on from 4 o'clock until 9, the methods including Grandsire, Bob Major, Double Norwich, Kent Treble Bob, Stedman and Surprise. Everyone was delighted with the bells. There was an attendance of 46 ringers, including the local men.

DEATH OF A BOLTON RINGER.

All Souls' Church, Bolton, has lost its oldest ringer in Mr. Joseph Markland, who passed away in his seventy-seventh year. He had been a regular ringer at the church for thirty-five years, up to about two years ago, when his health failed him. Since then he had only made rare visits to the belfry.

He died on July 3rd, and was interred at Heaton Cemetery, a service having first been held at All Souls' Church. The Rev. Canon H. J. Elsee, M.A., President of the Lancashire Association, officiated, members of the company acted as bearers, and representatives of other towers rang the bells fully muffled to the 'Whole Pull and Stand,' followed later with handbells over the grave.

The deceased was a keen ringer, and in his younger days put many peals to his credit.

ROUND BLOCKS.

BY GEORGE BAKER.

Some day the science men of campanology will, perhaps, realise that by the individual Round Blocks of a method or principle it is possible to prove whether a method is the same on all numbers or not.

Below are the Round Blocks of the first half-lead of Bob Minor and Bob Major, also of London Surprise Minor and London Surprise Major.

To find the relationship of the individual Round Blocks of Minor and Major all we have to do is to add 7-3 to the Minor Round Blocks and then compare with the Major, and we shall find that we have in the simplest method and the most difficult a similar mathematical progression.

I have previously proved there is one general law in method construction, whether it be method, principle, or system, and it is ridiculous to suppose, or say, that an extension is the same method unless the mathematical progression of the individual Round Blocks is the same on the higher numbers.

A double Major method when extended is not necessarily a double method on ten and twelve, any more than Double Court Minor is; the latter can be extended as a single method or as a double method to infinity, and in my next article I will give single extensions of Superlative to Royal and Maximus in which the Round Blocks are the same as in the Major plus the extra bells.

PLAIN BOB.

24153678	24153678	.....	24183657

It will be seen that the progression between Bob Minor and Bob Major is alternately 231 and 312.

Now we will examine London Surprise Minor and London Surprise Major to see if what is true of the most simple method is also true of the most complex.

LONDON SURPRISE.

Minor Round Blocks. Plus 7, 8.	Major Round Blocks.

23465178	23465817	.....	312
34251678	34257681	.....	231

It will be seen that the progression in London Surprise is alternately 312 and 231, which is accounted for by the different lead-heads:

$$135264 \text{ and } 13527486 = 231, \\ \text{as against } 142635 \text{ and } 14263857 = 312.$$

Anyone who knows anything at all about the pivot bell question will know that the fixed pivot bell cannot be altered in her work. If she is a Treble Bob hunt bell in Major, she will be in Royal and Maximus. For this we need only examine the work of the third in Cambridge from Minor to Maximus. Shipway, instead of keeping the pivot bell, the third, to Treble Bob hunts, forces her to make places in his so-called Superlative Royal—a thing unheard of in any other method with a fixed pivot bell.

St. Mary's, where the lovely peal of eight was kept going for an hour, while the visitors were taken by the Vicar to watch the sailing of the 'Aquitania.' At 1.15 the party sat down to a splendid lunch at Lowman's Restaurant, and then a move was made for the Grand Pier, and a motor-boat trip around the 'Olympic' was thoroughly enjoyed. On returning, the pier sports were the attraction, the Sker Ball coming in for particular attention. After tea, the return journey was made through Salisbury, where a wonderful view of the grand Cathedral, with its awe-inspiring spire, met the eye. A halt was called at Warminster, and Evercreech was reached about 11 p.m. by a tired but happy party, who tender their thanks to the Vicars and captains of Ringwood and St. Mary's, Southampton, for the use of the bells, and Mr. R. Rood, of Southampton, for his help in making the splendid arrangements.

RINGERS' OUTINGS.

OXHEY SOCIETY.

In brilliant weather on Saturday, June 19th, the Oxhey Society held its annual outing. Leaving the Parish Church at 2 p.m. in motors, the party, numbering twenty-two and including the wives and friends of the ringers, started for Aston Clinton. On arrival there, they found a delightful peal of six bells, which the writer was informed had not been rung since Armistice Day. They were, however, notwithstanding this, in splendid condition, and were soon set going to Minor and Doubles. After ringing for about 45 minutes, the party made tracks for their next call, viz., Hardwicke, another peal of six. The ladies of the party were quite content to rest in this beautiful cool old church, while the ringers gave themselves up to their hearts' delight, and although only elementary methods were rung, it was, nevertheless, most enjoyable.

To crowd four churches in an afternoon's outing does not give one very much spare time, so off again to Whitechurch, and now, sad to relate, here the party, so far as the ringers were concerned, met their Waterloo. These fine old bells, the dates of which were discernible on some, viz., 1570, 1625, 1675, were in a deplorable state. The ringing chamber is on the ground floor, and there are no guides up to the floor above. After superhuman efforts with three on the tenor, the bells were got up, and after a rest an attempt was made to ring rounds. Not one caught the sally first time, and, thinking it was no use over-exerting themselves (Nanny was by this time almost a grease spot), the ringers let the bells down. With a band of William Cookerills, rounds might be rung.

Nothing daunted, they were quickly off to Aston Abbots, where the Vicar had kindly given permission for the use of the Church Hall for the party to have tea, and what a tea! If every party on an outing did such justice to their tea as was done on this occasion, goodness help the poor caterer—cold meats, salads, cakes and home-made jams disappeared in a manner that would have made the Fat Boy of Pickwick lame roll his eyes in astonishment!

All being satisfied, a short turn on the Parish Church bells brought the ringing for the day to a close, and mounting the motors once more faces were turned homewards, the ever-changing summer scenes of beauty in this lovely country being deeply appreciated by all. Opportunity is here taken of thanking all the incumbents for the use of the bells, and the local ringers for having things in readiness.

BOLSOVER PARISH CHURCH.

On Wednesday, June 16th, the ringers of Bolsover Parish Church had their annual outing. Travelling in a Fiat saloon 14-seater car, they made the first stop at Wortley, where 'Father' Robbins and two younger Robbins went to see a still older Robbin. The second stop was Penistone, about 10 a.m., where a nice peal of eight bells were soon going merrily, touches of Plain Bob, Treble Bob, Double Norwich and Superlative being brought round. Afterwards the party proceeded to the Rose and Crown for breakfast, and were admirably catered for. They then proceeded to Glossop, which was reached after a beautiful run across the Yorkshire moors, with many splendid views. Glossop Church, which has a record of Vicars from the year A.D. 1000, is a very fine building, and it has also a very fine peal of eight bells, on which the visitors brought round touches of Cambridge, Superlative, Treble Bob, Double Norwich and Plain Bob. After the bells were lowered in peal, the Vicar kindly escorted the party round the Vicarage gardens, which was greatly enjoyed. The journey was then resumed across part of the Derbyshire hills to New Mills, where the party were met by a very old friend in the Rev. A. T. Beeston. The bells were soon going to the same methods rung at Glossop. Credit must be given to the young members of the party—six in number—for the way in which they rang at all the churches. A sumptuous tea was very kindly provided by the Rev. A. T. and Mrs. Beeston. Afterwards Mrs. Beeston expressed a desire to take a photo of the party. She first took the older members in one group, and the younger members in another group. After a short look round the town and a visit to the Rev. A. T. Beeston's residence, the party started for home, which was reached at 9.10 p.m., after a fine and delightful day's outing.

ST. PETER'S, EVERCREECH.

On Saturday, June 26th, the ringers of Evercreech, Somerset, accompanied by their captain, Mr. R. Whitehead, the Vicar, and friends, had ideal weather for their annual outing, when Southampton was visited. The party left the church at 6.30 a.m. The sun was shining brightly, and there was a keen nip in the air, which was most invigorating. The outward journey led through the New Forest, where a wonderful view was thoroughly appreciated. A halt was made at Ringwood, and here the party were heartily welcomed by the Vicar and ringers' captain. The ringers enjoyed touches of Grandshire and Stedman, while the other visitors explored the grand old-fashioned Vicarage garden, with its lawns and rustic bridges. The journey was continued through the Forest, passing within a stone's throw of the Rufus Stone, and Southampton was reached about mid-day. Again the ringers turned their steps to the tower of

Mr. James Bennett, whom ringers have long known by his association with the Royal Marines, and who for some years held the rank of Company Sergeant-Major, recently completed his service with the colours. He rang more than 300 peals while in the Marines, and the following is the list which makes up three centuries. BOLSOVER'S YOUNG RINGERS

At Bolsover, Derbyshire, there is a band of 15 Sunday service ringers. Six of these are under the age of 17, viz., two are 13, three 15, and one 16. These lads commenced to pull a bell the first week in October, 1925, and can now ring Bob Major well, and three of them ring Treble Bob, and are now practising Double Norwich. Under the tuition of the veterans, some of whose names are almost household words in the Exercise, they have been taught to 'strike' their bells, and they have profited by their lesson.

The society has kept up an outing fund for 25 years, each member paying threepence weekly, while all fines for being late and absent go to the same fund. Often the society has two outings in a year. This year they have had two, and still have at the bank £15. This helps greatly to keep the men together.

In addition the society is busy training a band of eight from the neighbouring village of Cresswell, where a new tower is being built to receive a peal of eight bells. The scheme will be completed this year.

For practice on July 6th, a quarter-peal of Kent Treble Bob Major (1,260 changes): Remaliah Coupe 1, William Lambert 2, Jesse J. LAVENHAM'S RINGING ANNIVERSARY

On Saturday, June 19th, the 115th anniversary of the completion of the octave at SS. Peter and Paul's Church, Lavenham, was celebrated. Upwards of fifty ringers assembled from Norfolk, Suffolk, Essex and Cambridgeshire. Many touches were rung during the day in the following methods:—Stedman, Plain Bob, Kent, Oxford, Double Norwich Superlative, Cambridge and London. Among those present were Messrs. G. Fardon, J. Bullock and F. G. Symonds, London; Tony Price, Boston, U.S.A.; R. Narborough, Wisbech; W. Keeble, Peering; and D. Elliott, Assington. Other parishes represented were: Bury St. Edmunds, Cornard, Cretingham, Debenham, Henny, Ipswich, Long Melford, Otley, Polstead, Sudbury, Ufford, Wormingford, Ardleigh, Coggeshall, Earl's Colne, and Terrington St. John.

The grand church and its noble tower were greatly admired by the visiting ringers, their wives and friends, most of whom climbed to the top of the tower for a splendid view of the surrounding country. After partaking of tea, the tower was again visited, and further touches rung. All the visitors spoke highly in praise of the tone and 'go' of this far-famed eight. Before dispersing, some of the ringers had the pleasure of contributing their share towards the 'mile of pennies' being collected for the restoration fund of the church, which is now in a critical state owing to the extensive ravages of the 'death watch' beetle.

800—AND SOME REFLECTIONS.

This is our eight hundredth number. For more than fifteen years, which have included some very difficult times, we have done our best in the interests of the Exercise, and we may, perhaps, be pardoned if, on reaching another 'century,' we have a word to say of a more or less personal nature. We are proud to feel that through the growing years we have maintained the friendship of a large body of friends, including many who were well-wishers when our first number appeared. Some, alas, of that first circle are no longer with us, the inexorable hand of Time having carried them beyond our ken. But the passage of time has brought us new friends, whose numbers, we hope, will continue to grow, and whose support we shall continue to value.

From the first the aim of 'The Ringing World' has been to further the art of ringing and the recognition of ringers as church workers. Those are the two-fold objects of all our associations, and they have been the guiding principles upon which this paper, also, has been run. The advance of the art has been our foremost desire, and we hope we have never failed to aid it as far as it has been in our power to do so. The articles which have appeared on this page every week have always been written with that end in view, and we hope that none of them has ever left any feelings of bitterness. Of course what has been said here has not always met with unanimous approval—we confess that sometimes articles have been deliberately penned to arouse criticism, but perhaps we may, on an occasion like this, be permitted a moment's egotism, and say that we have evidence that much of what has appeared has reflected in many controversial subjects the broad opinion of the Exercise. We have always endeavoured to write fairly, even if sometimes strongly, on the matters on which we comment, and while we know that on the whole we have fairly gauged public ringing opinion, our object has never been to gain applause, but to arouse interest. We set out to write here from week to week something which we hoped would give ringers a subject to talk about. In the limited field which is open to us, it has, frankly, not always been easy to find even a suitable topic—much less a bone of contention—but we believe that on the whole this feature of 'The Ringing World' has not been unacceptable to the Exercise at large.

The one question which has long been disturbing us is how the cost of the paper to the ringing fraternity can be reduced without a crippling financial loss to the paper itself. No one has a keener desire to see the price lowered than we have, but the solution which will ensure 'The Ringing World' against monetary loss is still to seek. Our view, as constantly expressed through the Editor from time to time, is that a vastly larger circulation is the keystone, and it has been suggested, as at the Essex Association annual meeting, that a wider appeal might be made by introducing fresh features. Elsewhere we make an announcement with regard to the specific proposal of the Essex Association, and other new features are under consideration, but their introduction, if adopted, will, it must be remembered, mean the curtailment of some of those details which ringers at present rely upon us to publish. It will have to be recognised that if new articles are introduced other matter must inevitably be excluded, and it is this problem which is now giving us anxious thought, because a false step might do almost irretrievable damage to the paper. We trust, however, as we embark upon a new 'century' that our readers will believe that in whatever we do we are actuated by the desire to put the interests of the Art first, and to ensure the continuity of 'The Ringing World,' well knowing that the Exercise would receive a staggering blow if it were deprived, even for a short time, of a journal in which its interests were paramount. We appeal, therefore, to all ringers to support us in the future, and thus enable us, as they and only they can, to provide them with a cheaper journal.

THE LADIES' GUILD.

MISS E. STEEL ELECTED PRESIDENT.

The annual general meeting of the Ladies' Guild was held on Saturday, July 10th, at St. Clements Danes', Strand. Although the restricted train service prevented many from attending, there was a very good muster of members and friends. The ringing commenced at three o'clock, and the methods were varied, and included three leads of Kent Treble Bob Royal by ten members of the Guild.

A most enjoyable service was arranged by the Rector (the Rev. W. Pennington-Bickford), who gave a very interesting address. During the service, a peal board recording the peal of Stedman Caters rung by the Guild in January, was unveiled by Mrs. Pennington-Bickford, who congratulated the members on the achievement, and spoke of the pleasure it gave her to unveil the board. The members are indebted to Mr. R. F. Deal for the board, and to Mrs. A. W. Clark and the Middlesex Association for the writing and fixing.

After tea, to which forty members and friends sat down, the meeting was held in the Parish Hall. The chair was taken by the president, Mrs. A. W. Clark.

The accounts were presented, and showed a surplus on the year's working of £3 4s. 10d., which was considered very satisfactory. Two honorary and three ringing members were elected. The secretary's report showed a progressive state of affairs and an improvement in the standard of ringing.

It was decided to hold the next annual meeting in the Northamptonshire district, but the selection of a suitable tower was left in the hands of the secretary and the committee of the Northants district.

Miss Evelyn Steel, of Bedford, was unanimously elected president for the year.

The honorary secretary and treasurer (Miss E. K. Parker) was re-elected, and also the Central Council representative.—The printing of reports was left over until 1927.

A hearty vote of thanks was passed to the Rector of St. Clements Danes' and Mr. Sergison, who had worked so hard to make the meeting a success, and also to the organist and choir who assisted at the service. The members also thanked their fellow-ringers who turned up to give a helping hand and to show their interest in the Guild.

SHIPWAY'S (SO-CALLED) SUPERLATIVE ROYAL.

BY GEORGE BAKER.

In last week's article I finished up with a reference to Shipway's Surprise Royal. Instead of reverting to the single extensions of 'Superlative' to Royal and Maximus, as I intended, it will be more of interest to your readers to examine the Minor and Major (both single methods) from which Shipway's Double Royal method is evolved:—

Minor.	Major.
214365	21436587
124635	12463578
216453	21645387
261543	26154378
625134	62513487
261534	26153847
625143	62518374
265413	26581734
624531	62857143
642513	68251734
465231	86527143
642531	68572413
	86754231
Lead head,	68745213

68745231
Lead head,

Anyone who has an inkling of method construction will not fail to see the relationship, and here we have the pivot bell, the 3rd, doing the same work in Minor and Major as she does in the Royal, and it can also be carried on to Maximus; but here again, if we wish to bring up the correct lead-head in Maximus we must perform be content with a single method.

It will be as well to mention that the Minor is one of the methods interdicted by the Methods Committee because it has 5th's place made without the treble being in 6th's place.

Oh, those arbitrary definitions!

The Major is a worthless method, having no less than eight false course-ends to each course.

It is useless to expect the round block progression to be perfect when comparing single methods with a double method—it can't be done.

In Cambridge, as I have pointed out many times, the method is a double method on all numbers minus two places behind when the treble is not lying her whole pull, and for this reason in 'Cambridge' there are more than the two round block progressions of Double Bob—i.e., 3412 and 4321, equalling a progression of 2143.

The same thing happens in the Minor, Major, Royal, and Maximus, of which Shipway gives the Royal only.

It will help your readers to understand more of the single round block progressions if I give them irrespective of any method:—

142635 x 78 x	14263857 =	312
156342 x 78 x	15738264 =	3412
164523 x 78 x	16482735 =	4321
18674523 x 90 x	1860492735 =	54132

When it is realised that any method with the lead head of 13527486 when it is reversed is 14263857, it will be easy to understand why we get 231 first in the one, and 312 in the other, and alternately in a method.

The same applies to the other lead heads: 15738264 and 16482735 are interlocking lead heads; and the lead heads 17856342 and 18674523 have a like relationship.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

A very successful quarterly meeting of the Reading branch was held at Tilehurst on Saturday, July 10th. During the afternoon good touches were rung on the beautiful bells. A well-attended service followed, with an appropriate address given by the Rev. J. T. Munford, chairman of the branch. An excellent tea was then partaken at the Church Hall, kindly provided by the Vicar (the Rev. H. B. Cooper-Smith, D.D.), to whom thanks are due. After tea, more touches were rung on the bells.

Among those present were: The Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn (Master of the Guild), the Rev. F. W. Lane, and members—about thirty-five in all—representing Henley, Mortimer, St. Mary's, St. Giles', St. Laurence, Reading and Tilehurst.

BRADING, ISLE OF WIGHT.—At St. Mary's Church, on July 9th, in 43 mins., a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples: J. C. Rymer 1, W. Scott 2, W. Johnson 3, H. Jennings 4, E. Barton 5, W. Upton 6, F. E. Dawe (conductor) 7, R. Ward 8. Rung after losing a peal of Bob Major.

RINGERS' OUTINGS.

A SALOP TOUR.

On Saturday, July 10th, the Market Drayton ringers held their outing. The party left Drayton at 12.30, and proceeded by bus to Shrewsbury, via Hodnet, where they were joined by Mr. E. V. Bodenhurst. Having arrived at Shrewsbury, tracks were made for St. Chad's, where the party were met by Messrs. Short, Pole, Fullick, Tudor, Lee, and other Shrewsbury ringers, also Messrs. Saunders, Hewitt, and Stanier, who had cycled from Coalbrookdale. A few rounds were first rung on the twelve, to enable those who had never rung on twelve bells to do so. This was followed by 168 Grandsire Triples on the back eight, two courses of Stedman Caters, and three courses of Grandsire Caters. After a good fall, some of the members had a look round the church, which is a circular one, and others took a walk round the 'Quarry.' Cound was the next place to be visited. This is an old-world village, seven miles south-east of Shrewsbury. There is a very ancient church, containing a fine peal of six bells, by Rudhall, recently rehung by Taylor and Co. in a frame for eight. Touches of Grandsire Doubles, Grandsire Minor and Bob Minor were rung here. An interesting feature of the church is that it contains a very ancient 'parish coffin.' This was used years ago to carry the dead to the grave in; on reaching the grave, the body was taken out and placed in the grave, and the coffin returned to the church for further use.

An excellent tea was much enjoyed at Cound Lodge Inn, and Coalbrookdale was the next stopping-place, and the handy ring of ten (tenor 18cwt.) were soon got going in Grandsire Caters, also Bob Major and Grandsire Triples on the back eight. After a call on 'friend Bayley,' the party boarded the bus once more, and, after a run of twenty-two miles, home was reached just before midnight, everyone having had an enjoyable time, the total mileage for the day being between 55 and 60.

BEECLES RINGERS' TRIP.

On Saturday, July 3rd, the Beccles company, with ringing friends from the adjoining district, held their annual outing. The journey, which was made by charabanc, was favoured with glorious weather. The first call was at Redenhall, when some good touches were rung on the fine peal, after which they went on to North Lopham, where the new peal of eight bells were recently installed by Messrs. Mears and Steinbank, and everyone was delighted with their 'go' and tone. Then a short run brought the company to Thetford, where lunch awaited them, for which everyone was ready, after which they went to Elvedon where the fine peal of eight in the new Memorial tower were set going, and the beautiful little church was much admired. Then back to Thetford for a short ring on the bells at St. Peter's Church (which was not appreciated by the townsfolk near the tower), after which tea was ready. Next, a long run brought them to the last ringing call at Wymondham, where Mr. Peynall met them and showed them round the Abbey Church, and some good touches were rung. The homeward journey then commenced, and after an hour spent in Norwich, home was reached at half-past eleven, everyone being very tired but happy. The ringing throughout the day was good, and included Grandsire, Plain, Treble Bob, Stedman and Double Norwich, several of the company ringing their first courses of the latter method. The thanks of the party are due to the clergy for the use of the bells at the various towers visited, and to the ringers who kindly assisted in making the necessary arrangements.

ST. MARY'S, APSLEY END.

On Saturday, June 26th, the Apsley End Ringers, with friends from Watford, Rickmansworth, and Hemel Hempstead, had a most enjoyable outing. Leaving Apsley by motor at 2.15, the party made their first call at Redbourn, there being welcomed by one of the local ringers. Short touches of Doubles and Minor were rung to allow all to have a pull. A rather full programme would not allow a long stay, so after lowering the bells in peal the party made their way to Flamstead. Here hangs another peal of six, but a little more difficulty was experienced by some owing to the long draught of rope, and the third being placed behind the fourth. Totterhoe, with its handy peal of five was next visited, the only regret here being that a treble had not been added when the bells were rehung a short time ago. The next move was to Leighton Buzzard, where the party were met by Mr. F. Vickers, of Linsdale. The chief item at this stage was a sumptuous meat tea, provided by Messrs. Gurnes, Wood and Co., the arrangements having been made by Mr. Vickers. The 'inner man' being satisfied, Linsdale was next visited, where the light peal of eight was quickly put to use, Plain Bob, Kent and Stedman being accomplished with the aid of local ringers. At eight o'clock the party left for Cheddington, where they were met by the Vicar, who gave them a most hearty welcome. Several touches were rung on this fine peal of six, until 9.15, when the bells were lowered and a move made for home. During the day touches in the following methods were rung: Grandsire and Stedman Doubles, Bob, Oxford Bob, College Single, and Double Oxford Minor, Stedman Triples, Bob Major and Kent Treble Bob Major. The band wish to thank the various incumbents for the use of the bells and the tower-keepers and ringers who met them, making such an enjoyable outing possible.

RINGERS' OUTINGS.*ST. CLEMENT'S, IPSWICH.

On Saturday, June 26th, the members of the St. Clement's Church, Ipswich, and friends had their annual outing, which took the form of a ringing tour in the Suffolk and Essex borderland. Starting from the church at 8.15 a.m., the journey was made to Assington Church via Hadleigh and Boxford. Here the church stands in a very pretty park. The bells were soon set going, and they were admired from the road by motorists passing. Next a move was made to Sudbury, where they were met at St. Gregory's Church by Messrs. G. Dixon, Silvester and C. Smith of Great Cornard. After ringing some Kent Treble Bob, a start was made for the Essex side. This was entered on passing over Ballingdon Bridge. A call was made for a ring on the light peal of five at Wickham St. Paul. Here one ringer had to stand on the gallery while the others stood on the ground floor to ring. Nevertheless some Grandsire Doubles were brought round. The next stop was made after many turnings through some very pretty scenery at Gestingthorpe. Here there are six bells, which were soon going to Oxford Treble Bob. In the church, it is interesting to note, is a fine memorial stone erected to the memory of the late Commander Oates who met his death on the Scott Expedition. His home was opposite the church in this village. A move was next made for Great Yeldham via Little Yeldham. This ride was through some very narrow roads. Here a short stay was made for a ring on the six bells. It being near dinner time, a quick run was made for Sible Hedingham, where dinner was ready at the White Horse Inn. Dinner over, and a short ring on the eight bells, a move was made for home. Calling at Castle Hedingham some difficulty was experienced owing to the long draught of rope. Some Oxford Treble Bob were brought round. Leaving there, the journey was via Great and Little Maplestead to Pebmarsh. At Little Maplestead is one of the only five round churches in England, built by the Knights of St. John of Jerusalem. It is interesting to note that this is the latest and smallest of them, the circular part being about 28 feet, and length about 60 feet. Tea was kindly provided at Little Maplestead in an old-fashioned house by a friend of one of the ringers. This was not the programme, but was a great and pleasant surprise. Pebmarsh was reached much behind time, but the bells (5) were soon going to Grandsire Doubles. After some more very narrow roads Colne Engaine was reached, and some Treble Bob brought round on the six bells. This and the preceding villages are well worth a visit for scenery. From here, the last stop was made at Earl's Colne, where some good Treble Bob and Bob Major was rung. Home was reached at 10.15 p.m., after a most enjoyable day, aided by the delightful weather. The party numbered thirteen, which in this case was in no way unlucky. They wish to thank all the incumbents for the use of the bells and the ringers who met them.

KING'S NORTON RINGERS IN GLOUCESTERSHIRE.

On Saturday, June 19th, the King's Norton ringers went on their annual outing by charabanc. The party included their ringing master, Mr. F. B. Yates, the two churchwardens, and six ringers from the Edgbaston tower. At 7 a.m. they set off, and by 9 o'clock the bells of Malvern Link Church were being raised in peal. The ringing here was much enjoyed, the bells possessing a very pleasing tone and 'go.' The next stopping-place was Ledbury in Herefordshire, where the bells are hung in a tower detached from the church. After a ring on them and a 'refresher' in the quaint old town, the party proceeded to Gloucester, where they were met by Mr. John Austin, who joined them at dinner at the Gresham Hotel. After dinner a move was made to Barwood, where Mr. Austin had arranged for a ring on the very pleasing peal of eight.

Later in the afternoon Painswick was reached, and all were eager to get a pull on the bells of this famous tower. Mr. Wright, of the local band, had previously got everything in readiness, and soon the bells were going to various methods. A feature of the ringing here was a touch of Cambridge Surprise Major on the back eight by the 'experts' of the band. Mr. Austin joined in this. After tea the party set out for Cheltenham, and some very enjoyable ringing took place in St. Mary's tower on the fine peal of twelve. Here the band made the acquaintance of Mr. W. T. Bates, who gave them a very cordial welcome.

Cheltenham was left behind about 8 p.m. Passing through Evesham, the party ultimately reached King's Norton at the precise moment that their own tenor bell boomed out the hour of 11 p.m. Very fine weather prevailed all day, and everybody thoroughly enjoyed them.

STREATHAM RINGERS VISIT HORNSEY.

On a recent Saturday afternoon the bell-ringers of Immanuel Church, Streatham Common, visited St. Mary's, Hornsey, a notable old church dating back from the thirteenth century, the purpose of which was to enable the father of the Immanuel Tower, Mr. W. Shepherd, to ring once more on the bells where he learned the art of ringing when a lad. He is now over eighty-one years of age, and still going strong. A most cordial welcome was given to the visitors by the Rector (the Rev. H. C. Montgomery Campbell), who was ably supported by the ringers of the tower, Messrs. Ross, Blee and Deal. The afternoon proved a great success, due in a great measure to the welcome and assistance given by the above-named. Some pretty touches on the beautiful peal of six bells were rung, after which an adjournment was made for tea, at the kind invitation of Mr. J. S.

Daniels, one of the leading members of the church at Streatham, who takes interest in the Immanuel tower, and who, with Mr. Shuffle, is always anxious on such occasions to give others a pleasant time. Further touches were afterwards rung on the bells.

BUCKNALL AND BURSLEM.

On Saturday, June 26th, Bucknall and Burslem ringers held a joint outing. Leaving Bucknall by charabanc at 9 a.m., the Burslem ringers were picked up, and Eccleshall reached about 10.30. After viewing the old church, ringing was enjoyed, and afterwards the journey was continued to Audlem. The bells were rung before dinner, and afterwards the party went on to Overton, where they were met by Mr. C. Pointon, one of the late members of the Bucknall band. The bells were set going for a time, and then the next call was made at Elsemere, where tea, which Mr. and Mrs. C. Pointon provided, was partaken of in the village school. After a two hours' stay with their old friend, the ringers made the return journey, everybody being pleased with a most enjoyable day. The methods rung were: Cambridge, Violet, Duke of York, Oxford, Woodbine, Plain Bob, etc. The ringers of both bands wish to thank the various Vicars and the local ringers for the use of the respective bells.

IN DEVON AND DORSET.

St. James' Guild, Taunton, had an excursion on June 26th, when by charabanc and Mr. D. G. Taylor's car they made a run of 122 miles through some of the most glorious scenery to be found in Devon and Somerset. The route was via Milverton, Wiveliscombe, Bampton, Oakford, South Molton, Barnstaple, Ilfracombe, Combe Martin, Lynton, Lynmouth, Porlock, Timberscombe, and Dunster. Ringing was indulged in at seven eight-bell towers and one six (Porlock). Hot lunch was partaken of at Ilfracombe, and a never-to-be-forgotten tea at Porlock. The flavour of the strawberry jam and clotted cream still clings about. The party numbered 22, including 17 ringers. Some excellent touches were brought round in the following methods: Grandsire, Steadman, Plain Bob, Treble Bob, and Double Norwich, also Cambridge Minor. Grateful thanks are tendered to the respective incumbents and all those who met the party, to Mr. D. G. Taylor for placing his services and car at the disposal of the Guild, and also to Mr. W. Cording, the organiser, and Mr. W. J. Tarr, the treasurer.

WESTON-SUPER-MARE RINGERS' EXCURSION.

The ringers of the Parish Church had their annual outing on Saturday, July 3rd, thanks to the generosity of a well-known local lady. The party, numbering 24, included ringers and friends. The company left the Grand Pier at 8 a.m., by charabanc, the weather looking none too bright. But the prophet of the party kept reminding his comrades that they were in for a 'lovely day,' which ultimately proved to be correct, in more ways than one. Passing through North Petherton and Taunton, Wellington was reached about 10 a.m., and here the ringers were met at the Church of St. John by Mr. W. T. Taylor, the captain of the local tower, who kindly showed them around the sacred edifice, a notable feature of which is the tomb of the late Sir John Popham. Later, several touches of Grandsire and Stedman Triples were rung on the bells. The Westonsians took their departure at 11.15 a.m., and after passing through Sampford Peverell, arrived at Tiverton, where they at once made for St. Peter's Church, and were cordially welcomed by Mr. G. Grater, who told them he had been ringing at that church for the last 49 years, and 30 years ago he had rung in a 'family peal.' The tone of the bells here is exceptionally melodious, this no doubt being partly due to the fact that they were recast and rehung in 1923. The tenor weighs 25 cwt. The Westonsians soon had them going to the tune of Grandsire and Stedman Triples, after which they adjourned to the Half Moon Hotel for luncheon. At 2.30 farewell was made to Tiverton, and passing through most beautiful country, the ringers eventually reached Dulverton about 3.15 p.m. Here the Parish Church was visited, and the very nice peal of eight bells sampled. Mention should be made that Mr. Parker, sen., despite his age (he is in his 81st year), succeeded in climbing the narrow stairway to the tower. Not only so, but he insisted on doffing his frock coat and taking a firm hold of the rope; to the utter amazement of all present he proved that he had not yet forgotten the art of ringing, although it is more than twenty years since he pulled a bell. Dulverton was left at 4.30 p.m., and after passing through the gorgeous wooded and fern-covered country, so well known to tourists in the Exe Valley, the party made a short halt at Wheddon Cross, near the O Rest and Be Thankful Hotel, for refreshments, after which the journey was resumed until Timberscombe was reached. The Parish Church here dates back to the thirteenth century. Two new treble bells have recently been added to make an octave, also a new clock fixed about midway on the northern side of the tower. The Rector of Timberscombe welcomed the party, and merry touches were rung on the bells for some time. Minchew was the next stop, and here tea was served at Stevens' Cafe, on the Front. The charabanc was again boarded at 8.30 p.m., and the homeward journey commenced, passing through the lovely country between Withycombe and Old Cleeve, and on through Washford until Williton was reached at 9 p.m. Later the pretty little church of St. Audries came into view, and beyond it in the distance a magnificent view of the Bristol Channel could be obtained. At Nelher Stowey a short halt was made, and then on to Bridgwater and Weston, which was reached about midnight. The party wish to thank Mr. B. J. Over for his kind gift of strawberries, which were enjoyed en route.

LONDON RINGERS VISIT SOUTHEND.

The first annual outing of St. Olave's and All Hallows' Guild took place on Saturday, July 3rd, when a party of twenty-three, including members and friends, had a trip to Southend-on-Sea. They left Fenchurch Street Station at 7.55 a.m. by a crowded train, but this did not prevent a few members of the band from vainly trying to compose a Surprise method of their own. They reached their destination at 10.30, and after sampling the air, cockles, whelks and oysters of Southend in one deep breath, the band went to the Kursaal, where they had some good sport. Then they satisfied the 'inner man' and went on to St. Mary's Church, Prittlewell. Although the band are not well versed in the art of change-ringing, some good courses of Grandsire Doubles were rung on the pretty peal of ten for about two hours. Courses of Grandsire Triples, Bob Minor, and Kent were also rung on a very good peal of handbells. After tea and a round of pleasure in the evening, the party left for London about 10.15, a good sprint being necessary to catch the train. The band would like to thank the Vicar and ringers of Prittlewell for allowing them the use of the well-appointed tower.

DARLINGTON RINGERS AT HEIGHINGTON.

On Friday evening, July 16th, a party of ringers from Holy Trinity, Darlington, accompanied by Mr. Wm. Lister, of St. John's, visited the pretty little village of Heighington, which is about six miles distant, and rang on the bells (the first three of which are pre-Reformation bells) the following touches: 504 Kent Treble Bob Minor, 360 Beverley Surprise, 240 Oxford Treble Bob, 240 London Surprise, and 120 Plain Bob. Every touch attempted was brought round, and everyone of the party thoroughly enjoyed the outing. This is the first time Beverley Surprise has been rung on these bells.

[Reports of other Outings are unavoidably held over.]

HELPING A YOUNG BAND

On Saturday, July 17th, Rayne Guild paid a visit to Black Notley, Essex, to help on the young band of ringers. Some 120's of Bob Doubles and Grandsire were brought round after tea. A 720 failed in the fifth part. Thanks are due to Mr. Pratt for making the excellent arrangements.

GOODNESTONE, KENT.—On Wednesday, July 14th, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Doubles, with ten different callings, was rung in 45 mins.: H. Smith 1, J. Sharp 2, L. J. Honess (first quarter as conductor) 3, F. A. Fairbeard 4, H. Stringer 5. Rung as a birthday compliment to L. J. Honess.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

A meeting of the Ashford district was held at Brabourne on Saturday, June 26th, when thirty-five members were present from: Ashford, Appledore, Cheriton, Hythe, Mersham, Stone, Tenterden, Willesborough, and Wye. There was ringing during the afternoon, and the members attended service, at which a very appropriate address was given by the Vicar (the Rev. S. K. Lockyear). A collection was taken for the Church Tower Fund. Tea was kindly provided by the Vicar and his friends on the beautiful lawn at the Vicarage, where more than seven years previously, at a similar gathering, the guns announced peace.

The handbells were brought out, and touches of Grandsire and Stedman Triples were brought round; then returning to the tower the visitors rang Kent and Oxford Treble Bob, Stedman and Plain Bob.

A very successful combined meeting of the Ashford district of the Kent Association and the Romney Marsh Guild was held at Tenterden on June 12th, when about fifty members were present, representing the towers of Ashford, Brabourne, Benenden, Boxley, Canterbury, Cranbrook, Cheriton, Frittenden, Headcorn, Hawkhurst, Hythe, Maidstone, Margate, Mersham, Rye, Rolvenden, Stone, Smarden, Tenterden and Wye. A special service was conducted by the Vicar, the lessons being read by the Mayor of Tenterden. Mr. W. E. Pittman, Mus. Bac., presided at the organ. After tea the business meeting was presided over by the Mayor, who gave all present a hearty welcome to the church and town.

Touches in six different methods were brought round, and all thoroughly appreciated the welcome they received from the Mayor and the Vicar, who hoped to soon welcome the party again.

MISCELLANEOUS PERFORMANCES.

Collings 4, W. Shepherd 5, F. E. Parnell 6, H. J. Hole 7, C. Boyce 8. Conducted by Mr. W. Shepherd, who hails from Walton-on-Thames. This is the longest touch yet rung on the bells.—On Sunday, July 11th, for evening, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples (1,260 changes) in 46 mins., as a birthday compliment to Mr. J. S. Collings: F. Winchcombe 7, F. Pickering 8. Rung on the occasion of the wedding of Mr. G. Lancashire (son of Mr. T. Lancashire, the Rector's warden) to Miss Carr.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

The bells at Harrietsbam, Kent, where daughtly deeds were performed in the past, are now in the hands of Messrs. Mears and Stainbank. Some of the bells are to be recast, the rest retuned, and the whole rehung with modern fittings.

Messrs. Charles Carr, Ltd., of Smethwick, who put in the new peal at Pensnett, Worcestershire, have been heartily congratulated on their work by the conductor of the first peal of Stedman rung on these bells. The peal was duly recorded in our issue of June 18th, and Mr. Robert Matthews, who called it, afterwards expressed the opinion that from the ringers' point of view the bells were as perfect as they could be. 'The tone,' he said, 'was magnificent, and reflected the greatest credit on the makers.'

'Uncle' Joe Sykes, now in Paris, is, we learn, hors de combat. He is apparently suffering from the effects of his sojourn in Manchuria. The Chinese diet disagreed with his 'gear box,' and he has a couple of feet on which he would have some trouble now to stand up to a peal of Yorkshire 'Glory.' A Paris doctor is trying to put him right, what time 'the best of spouses' does the round of the Parisian shops. The good lady is of opinion that if he wore among ringing or ringers neither his stomach nor his feet would ever get better—which is rather unkind. But then, English shops are not so attractive as those of Paris, it is said.

A new aspirant for honours on Bow tenor has come upon the scene. Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Deal upon the advent of a son and heir.

Another 'Somerset week' has been arranged for the second week in August. Two peals a day have been fixed up, but the party will by no means be slaves to ringing. They intend to enjoy other pleasures besides those of the belfry.

A 'James' peal of Grandiuro Triples was rung at St. James' Church, Clerkenwell, London, by the St. James' Society on July 25th, 1889.

A peal of 5,000 Double Oxford Bob was conducted by Samuel Thurston at St. Giles', Norwich, on July 26th, 1832.

The first peal in Ireland was rung at Waterford Cathedral on July 27th, 1872.

Shipway first arrived in London, whither he migrated from Bath, on July 28th, 1785.

The first peal on twelve bells by a band of Freemasons was rung at Chelmsford on Saturday, July 10th, when members of twelve lodges and twelve different ringing societies scored a peal of Stedman Cinques.

SALISBURY GUILD'S OCTOGENARIAN.

SIXTY-EIGHT YEARS A BELL-RINGER.

The record of Mr. F. Bridle, one of Donhead St. Mary's many old inhabitants, is, says the 'Western Gazette,' one which must surely rank high in the annals of bell-ringing in this country. Mr. Bridle, who is now 81 years of age, rung his first peal in the Donhead St. Mary tower in 1858, when he was thirteen years of age, and the present month completes his sixty-eighth year of ringing in the same tower. Closely associated with the Donhead St. Mary Church throughout his life, Mr. Bridle was for 62 years a chorister in the church, and for 42 years its clerk. He relinquished these offices in 1918. A member of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild from its inauguration in 1892 until 1918, he has rung in most of the towers affiliated with the Guild, including all in Salisbury, and at Bridport, Broadwindsor, and elsewhere. This veteran was also a member of the first local team to ring the bells in the Semley tower after a rebuilding of that church about half a century ago. Despite the handicap of advancing years, Mr. Bridle's activities in this sphere are by no means ended. He led the ringing in the Donhead St. Mary tower on Whit-Sunday last.

ANCIENT RINGERS' RULES.

We record in this issue the first peal on the bells of Bowden Magna, Leicestershire. The oldest of these bells is dated 1593, and Messrs. Taylor and Co. have just rehung them. The ancient rules of the ringers are still preserved on a board in the belfry:—

Whoe'er designs harmonious Bells to sound
In tuneful changes or the merry Round,
These Orders must Observe.

If you get Drunk and hither Reel,
Or by your Brawl disturb the Peal,
Or with *mumlunguous horrid Smoak,
You cloud the Room, and Ringer's Cheak;
Or if you dare profane this Place
By Oath, or Curse, or Language Base,
Or if you shall presume in Peal
With Hatt, or Coat, or armed Heel:
Or turn your Bell in careless way,
For each Offence shall Two Pence pay;
To break these Laws if any hope,
May leave the Bell, and take the Rope.

Thomas Buckby, Edward Englehorn, Churchwardens.

N.B.—He who plucks his Bell over when turn'd, shall Pay six Pence.*

* Mumlunguous—i.e., stinking tobacco.

FOR THE BEGINNERS.

A NEW FEATURE FOR YOUNG RINGERS AND CONDUCTORS.

With every desire to help the young ringer, who, admittedly, is encouraged if he sees his performances recorded in print, we propose to set aside a certain amount of space each week in which we may record beginners' progress, and we invite conductors to send us paragraphs giving particulars of ringing done in which learners participate.

We shall not necessarily deal with this matter in precisely the same way as we at present record Sunday service touches—indeed, it will add to the interest of the reports if correspondents will tell us something about the young ringers themselves and their general advance in the art. Nor can we be expected to devote space week after week to a repetition of previous performances. What we hope conductors will send us will be, what we may term, the progressive steps of their young hands. We are prepared to give these future stalwarts of the Exercise a 'place in the news,' when their first 120 of Doubles is achieved, but we know they will not expect us to go on recording 120's. We want to encourage them to advance, so let the next stage be 360, and the next 720; then a fresh method—if this is not reached sooner.

To be included in this beginners' feature, the young hand will have to move along and not remain stagnant. We think that is a fair bargain. Above all, we hope we may get a few of those personal items which will relieve the monotony of a 'dry bones' report of a touch, and add a little human interest to the records of what has been accomplished.

Young conductors' performances will be welcomed in the same way for this new feature, and, we propose, also from time to time and as space permits, to add a few hints on the conducting of some of the simpler methods, which we think may perhaps be appreciated by those who are without the regular help of more experienced men.

We hope that what we propose will not only encourage young ringers, but give them an early interest in 'The Ringing World,' and that they, in their turn, will give us their support.

One other word. It will be essential that matter for inclusion in this new column should reach us early, and we really cannot entertain paragraphs that come to hand two or three weeks after the performance. It is that delay which in other matters at present throws out of joint all our efforts to publish reports promptly. Tuesday is the last day for receiving items relating to anything rung within the preceding week, and the earlier it comes to hand the better chance it will have of appearing.

AFTER FORTY YEARS.

For the first time for forty years the bells at Twynmerton Parish Church, near Stone, Staffs, were rung on Thursday, July 15th, when a 720 Grandsire Doubles was brought round by the ringers of St. Michael's Church, Stone, who were invited by the Rev. J. B. Frith, Vicar of Twynmerton. Much credit is due to the Vicar for getting those bells put into order again. He has had the 3rd and 4th rehung on ball bearings, and has himself carried out repairs to the fittings of the other four. He is very anxious to get a band of ringers together in his parish, having himself learned to ring a bell. The following ringers took part in the 720 Grandsire Doubles: J. Head 1, J. Moulson 2, T. Hodson 3, W. Buckley 4, A. Rowly (conductor) 5, E. Baker 6, and they wish to thank the Vicar for his kind invitation to ring and for his hospitality.

DEATH OF MR. ISAAC G. SHADE.

KILLED IN A MOTOR ACCIDENT.

Just as we go to press we learn with deep regret that Mr. Isaac George Shade, of Greenwich, was knocked down and instantaneously killed by a motor-car in Blackheath Road, S.E., on Monday night, as he was returning to his home at 72, Blissett Street, after attending a ringing practice at St. Botolph's Church, Bishopsgate.

The news will, we are sure, be received with profound sorrow by the whole Exercise, for Mr. Shade was one of the best-known men in the ringing world, in which he has figured prominently for a great many years, having rung more peals than anyone else, with the exception of Mr. William Pye, with whom he was associated in a great many of his ringing performances.

Mr. Shade was seventy-six years of age and a bachelor.

He rang his last peal at Swanscombe, Kent, on Saturday, one of Superlative Surprise. He was to have been in an attempt for a peal at St. Nicolas', Deptford, to-morrow, and this will now be rung with the bells half-inuffed in his memory.

The funeral will take place at Charlton Cemetery to-day (Friday) at 2 p.m.

ORSETT CHURCH DESTROYED.

Fire, which started in the roof, destroyed Orsett (Essex) Church on Friday, despite the frantic efforts of the villagers to save the building. The tower, with its six bells and clock, happily escaped the conflagration.

FAKENHAM BELLS RESTORED.

DEDICATION OF BELLS AND ORGAN.

On Sunday morning the Bishop of Norwich paid a visit to SS. Peter and Paul's Church, Fakenham, Norfolk, for the twofold purpose of dedicating the restored and rehung peal of the church bells and dedicating and opening a new organ in the north aisle of the church. As the bells had been completed a few months previously, permission had been granted to the ringers to ring them for Sunday services.

A good force of the ringers of Fakenham and district mustered early for the service, and, under the direction of the captain of the tower, Mr. Chas. S. Tutlill, two touches were rung on the eight bells, so arranged that all ringers present could take part, the conductor being Mr. Robert Cooke. The service began at 11.15 a.m., and at that time the church, which is a large one, was well filled, amongst the congregation being the parish councillors, officials, boy scouts, girl guides, and others. The morning service was taken by the Rector (the Rev. J. Pole Simeon, M.A.), and the dedicatory prayers were offered by the Lord Bishop. Immediately the strains of the new organ were heard with splendid effect. After the hymn, 'When morning gilds the skies' had been sung, the Bishop gave an excellent sermon, in which he touched upon the characteristics and uses of church bells, which, he said, he always heard with much pleasure whilst travelling about his large diocese. The bells called to service and worship, and reminded those who could not attend of the need for prayer and for thinking of God. Next he referred to the new organ and its uses, help and bearings upon religion and its assistance in many ways in Church life. Finally, he remarked that the day would be a lifelong memory to Fakenham, with the dedication of the bells at one end and the organ at the other of this spacious building. He concluded by thanking all the parishioners for their efforts in contributing to such large works to the glory of God.

After the Blessing, the hymn 'Angel voices ever singing' was sung and collections taken for the organ fund.

The work of rehanging and restoration connected with the bells included removing all the bells, the old beams and floors, and practically dismantling the inside of the tower. The frame has been reconstructed upon new steel girders, and the bells rehung, with the fifth bell recast. The planning and execution was in the hands of Mr. Alfred Bowell, of Ipswich, and was carried out under his personal supervision with great care and excellent results. Every satisfaction has been given. The opening day for ringers is shortly to be held, and will be advertised in our columns.

'CHARTER DAY' AT LEEDS

At Bramley, Leeds, on Tuesday, July 13th, a quarter-peal of Kent Treble Bob Major (1,280 changes) in 48 mins.—W. Waterhouse 1, J. S. Eastwood 2, E. Redshaw 3, F. Blakeith 4, J. Guy 5, F. Jackson 6, J. W. Cordingley 7, J. W. T. Holgate (conductor) 8. Rung on 'Charter Day,' in connection with the Leeds Tercentenary celebrations.

WALTHAM ST. LAWRENCE.—At the Parish Church, for evening service, also as a compliment to the ringer of the treble on the occasion of his marriage, 720 Oxford Treble Bob: J. Cooper, jun., 1, J. Cooper, sen., 2, V. Darvill 3, W. Mortimore 4, R. Darvill (conductor) 5, G. Martin 6.

NOTES BY THE WAY.

HOW THE Q SET DOMINATES COMPOSITION.

BY J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

Now, bearing in mind the facts about Q sets which I set out in these notes last week, let us turn to the solution of our problem. We have twelve courses; can we link them up into one round block by bobs only?

These are the courses:—

35426	45236	25346	34256
43526	24536	32546	23456

We start with the plain course 23456. In it we can call a bob at either the Wrong or the Home. Let us call a bob at the Wrong. That will put us into the course 52436. Having called this bob at the Wrong according to the law of Q sets, we must also call two others, that is, we must bob every member of that Q set. This will give us:—

23456	W	R
23456	—	—

Now notice what we have done. We have gathered into one round block three of the courses we want. In this block there are three places where we may call a bob—the three Homes. Suppose we call a Home in the first course. Again we must call two more Homes as well—we must bob the Q set. This will give us:—

24536	—	—
52436	—	—
23456	—	—

What we have done is to gather into one round block five of the courses we want. Now select another place to call a bob. Again we must complete the Q set.

Let it be the Wrong in the third course. We get:—

45236	—	—
24536	—	—
32546	—	—
43526	—	—
52436	—	—

What we have done is to gather into one block seven of the courses we want.

Now, every time we bob a Q set we add two courses. We started with one course, the plain course. But, if you start with one and keep on adding two, the result must always be an odd number. And since the number of the courses we want to join into one round block is twelve, and twelve is an even number, the problem we set ourselves is proved to be impossible.

This is a fairly easy problem, and not very difficult to understand. The problem of Grandsire Triples which baffled composers for a couple of centuries (and they were clever men) is exactly the same, except that the conditions are more complex.

There are two points in connection with our illustration that I ought to mention. First, when you are bobbing any Q set you must take care that you are not adding any course you already have, otherwise your touch may be false. But, false or true, it will always consist of an odd number of courses.

And, second, I do not mean that in every touch or peal every Q set must be bobbed or plain. But, if you do bob one member of a Q set and plain another then the third cannot be had at all, and consequently your touch cannot be an extent.

The greatest number of courses with the sixth fixed which can be gathered into one round block by bobs only is eleven. Here they are, and, as an illustration, I have marked the Q sets by a distinctive letter:—

YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION.

EASTERN DISTRICT AT BEVERLEY.

The summer quarterly meeting of the Eastern District was held on Saturday, July 10th, in glorious weather, at Beverley. The attendance was rather below the average, owing, no doubt, to other attractions and reduced travelling facilities, but those present had a very enjoyable time. The two magnificent peals of ten, at St. Mary's and the Minster, were made good use of during the afternoon and evening, by kind permission of the respective Vicars, the Rev. E. Hope, M.A., and the Rev. W. H. Rigg, D.D.

A short service was held in St. Mary's Church, conducted by the Vicar, who gave a very interesting address. This was followed by tea, held in St. Mary's Church House, to which some twenty-seven members did full justice.

The business meeting followed, presided over by the Vicar of St. Mary's (the Rev. E. Hope). Apologies for absence were received from the vice-president (Mr. F. Cryer) and the Ringing Master (Mr. H. Fairham), who intimated his desire to resign, and Mr. W. Middleton was elected in his stead. A vote of condolence was moved with Mr. G. Thornton (Sherburn-in-Elmet) on the death of his wife, who took a very great interest in everything connected with bells and ringers' gatherings, and much sympathy was expressed with Mr. Thornton in the overwhelming loss he has sustained.

The next meeting will be held at Cottingham in October, by desire of the Vicar (the Rev. A. Fergusson).

On the motion of Mr. J. H. Howell, a unanimous vote of thanks was accorded the Vicar of St. Mary's for the use of the bells and for the service, also to the Vicar of the Minster for the use of his fine peal of bells, and to Mr. W. Gibson and the local ringers for their excellent arrangements.—The Vicar, in responding, was given a cordial reception, and expressed his pleasure in having the first visit of the association to St. Mary's.

MUFFLED BELLS FOR BENEFACTOR.

THE LATE MR. C. P. MARKHAM'S GENEROSITY.

At Staveley, Derbyshire, on Sunday afternoon, July 4th, a quarter-peal of Bob Major (1,376 changes) was rung on the Parish Church bells in 55 mins.: A. Markwell, sen., 1, A. Markwell, jun., 2, F. E. Parsons 3, S. Smedley, jun., 4, H. Stow 5, J. Knott 6, S. Smedley, sen., 7, A. E. Parsons (conductor) 8. The bells were half-muffled as a last tribute of respect to Mr. C. P. Markham, J.P., D.L., of Ringwood Hall, the well-known chairman of the Staveley Coal and Iron Company, and a very generous benefactor to Chesterfield and the surrounding district. Some time ago Mr. Markham gave £800 to complete the restoration of Chesterfield's crooked spire, and £10,000 to the Chesterfield Royal Hospital. He died suddenly on June 29th, and was interred at Staveley on July 2nd. The bells were rung half-muffled for an hour after the interment, and also for both the morning and evening services the following Sunday. Upwards of 25,000 people attended to witness the last sad rites.

BATH AND WELLS DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual meeting of the Bath and Wells Diocesan Association was held at Bath on July 3rd. The proceedings commenced with ringing at the various towers. Evensong, conducted by the Rev. W. A. J. Martyr, was then sung in the Abbey. The Rev. L. Fitzmaurice, one-time president of the Dunster branch, and now Vicar of St. Stephen's, Bath, gave the address. After tea at the Red House, the members adjourned to the Abbey Church House for the business meeting. The Master (Rev. E. S. C. Lock) read his report on the year's work. In connection with this, the Master mentioned that the association had lost by death one of the vice-presidents, the Rev. Preb. C. E. L. Corfield. The meeting stood in silence as a tribute to his memory.

MEMBERSHIP MAINTAINED

The Master's report referred to the prosperous condition in which, on taking office, he found the association. This was owing to the good work of Prebendary Parker and Mr. E. E. Burgess, their late master and secretary. It would be the aim of himself and their new secretary (Mr. J. T. Dyke) to build upon their foundations and work for the further growth of the association. The number of towers was now 145—a gain of three on last year, seven having joined the association, whilst four had resigned. The number of members was 1,629, a gain of 4, the total being made up of: hon. life members 8, hon. members 89, performing members 1,285, non-resident ringing members 9, non-resident life members 189, unattached 49. The peals rung numbered 67, a pleasing feature being the large number of members (37) who had rung their first peal, the number who had rung a peal in a further method, and the number of new conductors (7). All this pointed to an advance in the art amongst the members. The peals of Surprise Minor rung at Wilton, and Double Norwich at St. James', Taunton, by resident bands, and the seven peals rung by a visiting band, were excellent, and the band who rang these peals were thanked for their courtesy. Mr. James Hunt was congratulated on ringing his 450th peal, and Mr. Dyke on ringing his 250th peal.

There was a balance on current account of £79 18s. 6d.

The honorary secretary and treasurer (Mr. J. T. Dyke) then presented the balance-sheet, which, on the proposition of Mr. T. F. King, seconded by Mr. A. Prince, was adopted. The latter commented favourably on the manner in which the accounts were presented. There was some discussion, although no resolution was forthcoming, on the practice of one of the branches retaining a balance in hand, apparently contrary to the rules.

The usual honorarium was granted to the secretary on the proposition of Mr. W. Prescott, seconded by Mr. A. Prince.

Mr. J. Hunt, who attended the Central Council meeting at Ipswich on behalf of the association, then gave a lengthy and interesting account of the proceedings. He particularly emphasised the cordial welcome accorded the delegates by the Suffolk Guild. A further point that Mr. Hunt stressed was the suggestion that each association should appoint an expert to give advice where augmentations to and re-hanging of existing peals of bells were proposed in the association area. He also commented favourably on the continued efforts of the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association to obtain rail concessions to ringers.

On the proposition of Mr. A. Prince, a vote of thanks was accorded to Mr. Hunt for his services.

The Master, the Rev. E. S. C. Lock, was re-elected on the proposition of Mr. D. G. Taylor, seconded by Mr. A. Prince. The hon. secretary and treasurer was also re-elected. The hon. auditor, Mr. D. G. Taylor, was again elected to the post, and was thanked for his past services, on a motion by Mr. Hunt, seconded by Mr. G. Temple.

The triennial election of representatives on the Central Council was then proceeded with. It was proposed that the master and secretary be elected without ballot, and this was agreed to. The remaining two places, after a vote, were allotted to Mr. J. Hunt (Taunton) and Mr. H. W. Brown (Bath).

PRESENTATION TO LATE OFFICERS.

A pleasing ceremony then took place, when the late Master, the Rev. Preb. C. C. Parker, was presented with a gong, in the shape of a bell, and the late secretary, Mr. E. E. Burgess, was given a solid silver half-hunter watch, both gifts being suitably inscribed.—Mr. D. G. Taylor, one of the few members who were present at the election of these officers, performed the pleasant duty of making the presentations, which were suitably acknowledged by both recipients.

Votes of thanks were passed to the Venerable the Archdeacon of Bath, the Rev. W. A. J. Martyr, the Rev. L. Fitzmaurice, and Mr. F. C. Rich, to whom the success of the meeting was mainly due.

Mr. Starr (Swainswick) then brought up the question of the method of the notification of the dates and places of the annual meeting. He did not consider that an annual postcard, supplemented by advertisements in 'The Ringing World,' was sufficient, as some members, particularly honorary members, did not see 'The Ringing World.' This question was left to the committee.

Further ringing at the various towers afterwards took place.

FARMBOROUGH, SOMERSET.—At All Saints' Church, for morning service, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Doubles (1,260 changes) in 40 mins.: Wm. Rosewell 1, A. Gould (longest length inside) 2, E. Flower 3, Wm. Shore (first quarter as conductor) 4, Rev. L. G. Ketchley 5, D. Parfitt 6.

DEATH OF MR. ALFRED HILLIER.

NEWCASTLE CATHEDRAL GUILD'S LOSS.

After a long and painful illness, Mr. Alfred Francis Hillier, of Newcastle-on-Tyne, passed to his rest on Monday, July 12th, and his loss will be keenly felt at Newcastle Cathedral, as well as in the association for the two northern dioceses. He was born in Bristol some seventy-one years ago, and later lived at Crawley, in Sussex, where he learnt his ringing. He was always connected with livery stables, and eventually came to Newcastle in 1891 to take charge of Messrs. King and Gillespie's stables. With this firm he worked until they closed down, since when he had a small business of his own.

He joined St. John's Guild of Ringers immediately he came to Newcastle, and proved a splendid help to a then young and struggling band of enthusiasts. He was not only a very good method ringer but a fine striker, and reliable in his attendance at either service ringing, practice or peal events. He had rung more peals with the Durham and Newcastle Association than any other member, namely, 325 in all, his last peal being one of Cambridge Surprise Royal on December 6th, 1924, at All Saints', Gosforth. Unfortunately, he kept no records of his peals, but he had rung many peals with the Sussex County Association before coming north, probably another fifty in all. Besides ringing many peals in all the old Standard Methods, his list included Cambridge, Superlative and London Surprise, Double Norwich and Double Oxford, Erin Triples and Caters, Stedman Triples, Caters and Cinques.

The funeral took place on Thursday, the 15th, and was attended by some forty or fifty ringers, besides many relatives and friends, Messrs. Keen, Barber, Deas and Forman acting as underbearers. A course of Grandsire Triples was rung on handbells over the grave by Messrs. C. L. Routledge, W. H. Barber, T. Gofton, and J. E. Keen. The Vicar of Newcastle conducted the burial rites, with the assistance of the Rev. A. W. Lister, president of the association. The Vicar, Canon Newsom, gave a very beautiful and impressive eulogy at the graveside.

The 'whole pull and stand' was rung on the Cathedral bells, and a touch of Stedman Caters, muffled, till five o'clock. A peal of Caters, muffled to his memory, was rung at the Cathedral on Saturday, the 17th.

BARNESLEY AND DISTRICT ASSOCIATION.

THE PROPOSED CONTEST.

The July meeting was held at Cawthorne on Saturday week, when members were present early in the afternoon from Barnsley, Darton, Darfield, Felkirk, Penistone, Wath, Sandal, Horbury, Rawmarsh, and Shelley, as well as members of the local company. The bells were put into use at 3 p.m., and freely rung. The shield recently purchased was on view, and the committee considered the rules for the contest, which in all probability will be held on the second Saturday in October.

Tea was partaken of in a local cafe, where the Vicar (the Rev. C. A. L. Woolley) kindly joined the party. He had to leave early, but was not allowed to part from the company until expressions of pleasure were accorded to him for his welcome and his presence, which is always a cheerful one to ringers. His reply was kindly and full of good wishes for the prosperity of ringers and a desire to see them take more interest in the Church Councils and take a place on those bodies.

The business meeting then followed. The senior vice-president, Mr. W. Reynor, having recently given two lectures before the Paxton Society, Wakefield, he was awarded a hearty vote of thanks for having thus displayed the art of change-ringing and the practical use of church bells. In replying, he promised to give another practical display before the association in the winter.

One new member, Mr. Lawrence Wilkinson, of Hoylandswaine, was elected. The next meeting is to be held at Ackworth.

HERTS AND ESSEX JOINT MEETING.

A joint meeting of the Herts and Essex Associations was held at Bishop's Stortford on June 5th, and proved a very successful and enjoyable reunion. A special service was held in St. Michael's Church, conducted by the Rev. Canon Lane. Afterwards nearly forty members sat down to tea provided in St. Michael's Parish Room.

A short meeting then followed, at which Mr. H. Dew welcomed the visiting ringers, and proposed a hearty vote of thanks to all who had helped with the meeting and had made arrangements for same. This was seconded by Mr. W. Lawrence and carried unanimously.

Mr. C. H. Howard (Master of the Essex Association) then addressed the meeting, saying that when the suggestion of such gatherings between county associations was made, he at once fell in with the idea. He could strongly recommend the holding of such meetings frequently. There was no rivalry; they met with one object and worked together for one common aim—church bell ringing. To meet like this enabled them to help each other by comparing notes, making suggestions for betterment, and social intercourse. Mr. Howard's remarks were enthusiastically received.

This closed the meeting, and the company again repaired to the tower for an evening's ringing. The towers represented were: Royston, Fulbourn, Edmonton, Barkway, Harlow Common, Leytonstone, Barley, Braintree, Stansted, and Little Mundon.

TERRIBLE FATALITY TO A RINGER.*BURNT BY BOILING TAR.*WORKMATE'S BRAVE EFFORTS AT RESCUE.

By a shocking fatality last week, Cyril Whybrow, a young and promising ringer, of Leighton Buzzard, lost his life while working on the road between Leighton and Hockliffe. The deceased, with David Underwood, another employee of the Bedfordshire County Council, was engaged in tarring the road surface and was using a portable tar cauldron containing tar which was kept heated by a small fire underneath. At the end of the stretch of road being tarred stood a tripod bearing a red flag to warn approaching traffic to exercise caution, and as a preliminary to starting on a fresh length of road Underwood was sent by Whybrow, who was brushing the tar on the road, to move the tripod.

Relating the story of the fatality at the inquest, Underwood said he was by the tripod and Whybrow was in close proximity to the cauldron at the time of the accident. Hearing Whybrow call out, 'Oh, David,' he looked round and saw Whybrow sitting in the bath of tar, as the workmen call the cauldron. Being a 'biggish' fellow, Whybrow tipped the bath over when he fell into it. He rolled over into the road, and the tar caught fire and blazed up and set fire to Whybrow's clothing.

'I ran to his assistance,' said Underwood, 'and pulled him out of the tar and got him to the side of the road. He was all in flames, and I got smothered with tar and my clothing caught fire as well, and I could not see him for the flames. I rolled myself over and over in the grass and put out the flames, and when I saw Whybrow again he had rolled back again into the flaming tar. I ran and pulled him out again and rolled him into a heap of sand stuff which put out the fire.'

Underwood also tore Whybrow's shirt from his body, and covered him up, and asked a man who came along on a bicycle to go for the police and telephone for a doctor.

The Coroner: How do you think this happened?—My opinion is that he came back too far and stepped straight into the bath of tar.

Walked backwards?—Yes, sir, he had to use it backwards.

You think he might have forgotten it was so close to him?—I don't think he realised it was so close to him.

The witness added that he had worked with Whybrow for about twelve months, and they had been on the Leighton Road all day.

Police and medical assistance were quickly forthcoming, and the terribly injured man was conveyed to hospital, where he was found to be very extensively burnt on both legs and arms, and on both the front and back of the trunk of the body.

The coroner returned a verdict of 'Accidental Death,' and the county surveyor (Mr. F. W. Smart) expressed deep regret to the parents and relatives on behalf of the County Council, and associated himself with that message of sympathy. Whybrow, he said, was a young man of splendid character, and was an excellent workman. Mr. Smart also expressed the view that Underwood's conduct in the sad affair was most commendable, remarking that he did all that he possibly could.

Cyril Whybrow's death is deeply lamented by the Leighton Buzzard ringers, as it will be by members of the Exercise everywhere. He was of a cheery disposition, and will be much missed in All Saints' belfry, where he was always regular in his attendance. He was a safe ringer in Plain Bob, Double Court, Grandsire, and Stedman. He was only twenty-one years of age, and much sympathy has been extended to the relatives.

The funeral took place on Saturday, when three of the ringers of All Saints' and three of St. Barnabas', Linslade, acted as bearers. The first part of the service was held at All Saints' Church, which was filled with friends of the deceased, including many of his fellow-workmen and bell-ringers. Among the wreaths were one from the county surveyor and staff, fellow-workmen, football friends, bell-ringers, etc.

In the evening the ten bells of All Saints' were rung half-muffled by the combined bands of Leighton and Linslade.

TRURO DIOCESAN GUILD.

A quarterly meeting of the Truro Branch was held at St. Agnes, on Saturday, July 3rd, by kind permission of the Vicar, Perranwell, St. Kea, St. Newlyn East, Truro Cathedral, and the local band were represented. A short service was conducted, and an address given by the Vicar (the Rev. W. H. Browne). Tea was provided and served by the lady ringers of St. Agnes.

A vote of thanks was passed to the Vicar and those who provided tea, and the Vicar, responding, said how glad he was to welcome the Guild there that day, and he would be delighted to welcome them at any future date.

Afterwards the bells were again set going, and several members of the Perranwell band, who have just taken up scientific ringing, were able to obtain good practice with the help of the Cathedral ringers, one lady ringer ringing her first 120 of Grandsire Doubles.

The last item on the programme was a dance (perhaps a novelty at a ringers' meeting). This was thoroughly enjoyed by many of the younger ringers who took part.

A PROBLEM BEFORE THE EXERCISE.

The Oxford Diocesan Guild's festival is usually productive of an interesting meeting, and last Saturday's gathering at the University city was no exception to the rule. There can be no question that the members of the Guild take a live interest in the affairs of their organisation, and only the difficulties of travel prevented even a larger assembly than met in the Chapter House at Christ Church. Yet, despite the fact that the Guild is excellently officered, that meetings are really well attended, and members display a keen interest, it is a healthy sign that there is no smug complacency in the contemplation of the Guild's position. Would that this were so in all associations. A few weeks ago we commented on the Oxford Guild Master's rousing call for the local enthusiast, and on Saturday the Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn enlarged upon this important matter, and offered it to the members as a subject for discussion at their district meetings in the hope that practical suggestions may be forthcoming, so that one of the pressing needs of the day, so far as the art of ringing is concerned, may be met in the towers in the diocese of Oxford.

The question, however, is not confined to the Oxford Guild; it affects every association in the country. In numerous centres there are to be found, of course, the local enthusiasts who keep both service and peal ringing bands going with more or less success, but in the vast majority of towers there are no such leaders. The men are content to go on doing their little bit of Sunday ringing, and practising, while they can keep together, but let a breach occur in the ranks, and in all too many cases the company practically drops to pieces. Recruits are hard to get, difficult to keep, and harder still to train, because of the many other attractions which now offer allurements to young people. It is only the real enthusiast who will overcome the obstacles, and this type of man in the ranks of ringers, as the Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn pointed out, is not increasing in numbers in proportion to the numerical growth of our associations.

Only those who have had the disheartening experience of years of fruitless endeavour in raising and maintaining a change ringing band know the real weariness of the task; some who have laboured thus in vain are still valiantly carrying on, others as time goes on give up the seemingly impossible task. These are the men who can offer their associations valuable counsel on this subject of maintaining local interest in the art of change ringing. By their unaided effort they may not have been able to succeed, but they of all people should be able to point out where that individual effort has failed, and associations which will seek out the help of these ringers, as well as of those who, at the moment, are reaping the reward of successful labour, might learn much which would enable them to help establish weak bands on a firmer footing. The Oxford Guild will discuss the matter at their branch meetings; other associations could profitably follow suit, and the Central Council might well debate the subject, for they could bring together the accumulated wisdom of the whole Exercise on this matter which, perhaps, more than anything else, concerns the future of our Art.

NOTES BY THE WAY.

FAST RINGING.—A LANCASHIRE CONTEST.

BY J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

It has been remarked on more than one occasion lately that a notable feature in recent peal ringing is the quickness of the time. We frequently see footnotes saying that such and such a peal was the quickest on the bells, and, indeed, many ringers appear to think that there is merit in ringing a 5,000 faster than has been done before. Now there is a certain fascination in ringing bells very fast, and very fast ringing must (usually, at any rate) be very good striking. But the thing can be overdone. Good fast ringing is difficult, but really good slow ringing is much more difficult still. This is a point that ringers might attend to.

There are many rings of bells on which the ringing ought to be slow to produce the best effect, and especially is this the case with half-muffled ringing. A fast half-muffled peal, however good the striking, is artistically a bad peal. Yet, if you compare the times of half-muffled peals, you will find that they are usually just as fast as peals rung open. To get the best effect half-muffled ringing should be as slow as it can conveniently be rung; and the tenor should be turned in and not rung behind. Three hours and a half, where the open time is about three hours, is not any too long. Most of the modern Simpson-tuned rings, too, sound better if they are rung on the slow side.

But for the ordinary ring and for ordinary peal ringing it matters very little at what pace you ring, so long as the striking is good. Most rings have a time of their own, and the best effect is got by keeping somewhere near it. What is wanted is to get a good beat and keep to it. Look after the striking, and let the time take care of itself. Any deliberate attempt to force the pace or to slacken the pace usually means bad striking, though, of course, a really skilful ringer can very often smarten up the ringing without appearing to be forcing the pace. I have rung in some very fast peals where the striking has been excellent, and my experience is that these fast peals are rung without any deliberate intention. When a band sets out with the intention of ringing a fast peal the result is usually choppy striking and not very quick ringing.

But it would be a mistake, when you see the record of a peal accomplished in a very short time, to say, as so many people are inclined to do, that it could not be done. Very fast and very good peals have been rung, and will be rung, but I should not advise a band to try to ring one, and I do think that the enthusiasm (shall we say?) which prompt ringers to slash the big bells along in the idea that no ringing is good unless it is fast is to be discouraged.

Nearly a century and a half ago there were rung in Lancashire some peals of Grandsire Triples in exceedingly fast time, so fast that the writer from whom I am taking the following declared that it was impossible. In fact, he declared that the bands were deliberately lying. I do not think we need go so far as that. The peals were rung as the result of a keen rivalry between two bands; they were rung under prize ringing conditions, and the times of at least some of them were attested by judges, and may fairly be said to be authentic.

Ringling for prizes and as a competition between different bands was at one time a recognised thing in the Exercise. It was never very popular in the East and the South. Occasionally we hear of the rivalry between two bands leading to matches between them, and at such times wagers were made. There is the instance of the rivalry at Norwich between the Mancroft and the Coslany bands, of which I have written in these notes. Then, in the early eighteenth century, the College Youths and the London Scholars rang against each other. There was the historical contest between the College Youths and the Cumberlands to see which could ring the longest peal of Treble Bob Royal, and a good many more such like. In these cases, although no doubt money passed as bets, the bands rang for the honour of victory, and not from any fixed money prize.

In the North and the West it was different—ringing for money prizes was an organised affair. Bands met at a particular tower, took their turns at ringing, and competent men were appointed to judge the ringing and award the prizes. There is no doubt whatever that this did lead to most excellent striking among the competing bands. But it was attended by some very discreditable circumstances. The men who, fifty years ago, set themselves to bring about belfry reform and the general raising of the standard of everything connected with ringing, used all their influence to stop prize ringing, and though it lingered on in places till comparatively recent times, it is now a thing of the past.

In the latter part of the eighteenth century the two leading bands in Lancashire were Oldham and Ashton-under-Lyne. The Oldham men rang one or two long peals, notably a 10,080 of Bob Major on September 30th, 1783, in 5 hours and 30 minutes, and on January 4th, 1784, 14,480 in the same method in 8 hours 24 minutes. Both were conducted by Thomas Kay. The Oldham and the Ashton bands were keen prize ringers, and they frequently met in contests with varying results.

In 1808 a new ring of bells was put up at St. Michael's, Flixton, and on the opening day a prize ringing meeting was held. Both bands competed, and so keen was the contest that the judges were unable to decide between them, and the prize money was divided. Neither side was satisfied with the verdict, and a match was arranged between them to take place at the same church on June 24th. The match, as was usual, was treated and arranged as an ordinary sporting event, in just the same way as a prize fight would be arranged. The prize was £40, articles were drawn up and signed, and a deposit lodged with a Mr. John Travis, a publican, and prominent sporting man of Oldham. Money was freely wagered on the event, the betting being evens. The prize, it seems, was to go to the band which could ring the best peal in the quickest time. Before the actual match took place each band set themselves to ring some practice peals, and the following were accomplished in very fast time. On Sunday afternoon, May 15th, the Ashton men rang Holt's ten-part peal in 2 hours 38½ minutes. What the weight of the tenor was then I do not know. The writer whom I am following gives it as 28 cwt., and, on the strength of that, declares that the time was impossible. But probably he made the mistake of thinking that the peal was rung on the same bells which were in the tower when he was writing—the Whitechapel ring of twelve, which were put up in 1871, and of which the tenor weighed 27 cwt.

The next day the Oldham men rang the same peal in 2 hours 38 minutes. The tenor was 14 cwt., and, of course, the time is quite possible on that weight. On Tuesday, May 24th, the Ashton men cut the time down to 2 hours 33 minutes, and five days later the Oldham men beat this by ringing the peal in 2 hours 29½ minutes. The very same day the Ashton men rang the peal in 2 hours 29½ minutes, just a quarter of a minute quicker; and on Saturday, June 4th, the Oldham band knocked off the odd quarter of a minute, and rang the peal in 2 hours 29 minutes.

The rivalry, you see, was intense, and probably both bands had now reached the very limit of speed at which a good peal could be rung at either of the two churches. But Ashton were determined not to be beaten even in the practice peals, and by no more than a quarter of a minute. On Thursday, June 9th, they walked over to Mottram-in-Longdendale, and there they rang Holt's peal in 2 hours 23½ minutes. I am not quite certain what is the fastest peal of Triples on record, but I believe this time has been equalled in recent years, and when we remember all the circumstances and the practice these men had had in fast ringing, there is no reason to doubt the truth of the time. Mottram tenor is, or was, usually given as 14 cwt., but the weight in Rudhall's list is 12 cwt. A contemporary writer says that 'the average speed of ringing the peal was thirty-four changes per minute, and toward the close of the peal thirty-six changes per minute, being the best and quickest ringing ever performed in this kingdom.' A fortnight later the same band repeated the performance at the same church and in the same time.

As I have already said, these very fast times seemed to many ringers quite impossible, and it was the usual thing to conclude that either the conductor had faked the calling, or that the band had mistaken the time, or were deliberately lying. Some years ago the late Mr. J. W. Washbrook rang the tenor to a peal of Stedman at Drayton, the Rev. F. E. Robinson's church, in 2 hours 30 minutes. Several people wrote to 'The Bell News' to say that it could not be done, and here is a comment written in 1883 on these Lancashire peals: 'I am sorry to call in question the veracity of any writer, much more of any writer on bells or ringers, but it is an utter impossibility for any band to ring 5,040 Grandsire Triples in the time stated—2 hours 23½ minutes. At the present day the Ashton-under-Lyne ringers are admitted on all hands to be a remarkably good set of ringers, and yet on the 31st of March, 1883, it took them 3 hours 18 minutes to ring a peal of 5,568 of Treble Bob Major on the Mottram bells, being at the rate of 28½ changes per minute with a tenor stated to be 14 cwt. Last year the Eccles men rang a peal in 2 hours 45 minutes, being the quickest on record with a tenor 12 cwt. Having been engaged in that peal, I certainly should have doubted the time had it not been taken by at least a dozen independent people, both inside and outside of the tower. I am, therefore, satisfied that a 5,040 cannot be rung properly with a due regard for striking in much less than the Eccles time. Again, I am afraid that something besides a spirit of rivalry had sprung up between these two bands of ringers, for, on reference to the time, the first peal was rung in 2 hours 38 minutes, the next in 2 hours 33 minutes. Then came 2 hours 29½ minutes, followed by one in 2 hours 29 minutes, and then came the last one in 2 hours 23½ minutes, evidently showing that neither side would be beaten if a bit of lying could help them.'

FOR THE BEGINNERS.

KENT ASSOCIATION'S SPECIAL INVITATION.

Our announcement last week that we intend to devote a space to record the progress of beginners in the Art has been welcomed in many quarters, and, in opening our columns for this purpose, we would remind ringers that what we desire to do is to encourage beginners to make progress. Therefore, while we are quite willing in this column to publish first 120's of Doubles, we ask that subsequent performances sent for insertion shall be of progressive lengths or of fresh methods.

There can be no question that the encouragement of beginners is the surest foundation on which to build the future of the Exercise, and for this reason it is particularly gratifying to notice that the Rochester District of the Kent County Association, which will hold a meeting at Northfleet to-morrow, specially invites beginners. If young ringers are given the opportunity to do some ringing at association meetings, however humble the effort may be, they will soon become more interested and eager to progress.

Articles are in preparation for the help of young conductors, and will appear in due course.

Some of the young band at Bolsover on Sunday rang their first touch of Kent Treble Bob Major. A touch of 276 was rung by W. Lambert (conductor) 1, *A. Robbins 2, H. Robbins 3, *E. Wagstaff 4, E. Robbins, sen., 5, *H. Kent 6, J. Flint 7, J. Moss 8. * First of Treble Bob. Afterwards S. Slaney rang his first course, and then six of them (on the front six bells), all under 17 years of age, rang 224 Bob Major: E. Forbitt 1, A. Robbins 2, J. Saxton (longest length) 3, S. Slaney 4, E. Wagstaff 5, H. Kent 6, R. Coupe 7, J. Moss 8.

At Holy Trinity Church, Rothwell, Yorks, 1,680 Bob Major was rung on Tuesday, July 20th, in 65 mins. *A. Wood 1, *P. Massam 2, †G. Copley 3, *E. Ward 4, G. W. Steel 5, C. Lawson 6, *H. Jones 7, †F. W. Strangeway (conductor) 8. * Longest length. † Longest length in the method.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION. LEWISHAM DISTRICT.

The quarterly meeting of the Lewisham District was held at St. Peter and Paul's Church, Farningham, on Saturday. The bells were raised at 3 p.m., and were kept going in various methods during the afternoon and evening. Service was conducted by the Rev. Fowler, who gave an interesting address. A splendid tea was provided at the Lion Hotel, by the generosity of Mr. Grey, of Farningham, about forty-five members participating.

The business meeting followed, Captain Skelton of the local band presiding.—One new member was elected, and the election of one member previous to a peal was confirmed. When the place of the next meeting was considered, it was stated that there was a hearty invitation to visit Crayford and also Lewisham from the Rector and Vicar respectively. On being put to the meeting, Lewisham was chosen, a hope that Crayford would be available for the next occasion being expressed.

Mr. W. J. Jeffries then informed the meeting of the tragic death of Mr. I. G. Shade, of Greenwich. He moved that a letter of condolence be sent to the deceased's relatives.—This was seconded by A. Bates, and the motion was carried with the company standing.

Mr. T. Groombridge, sen., moved a hearty vote of thanks to Rev. Fowler for conducting the service and for the address, to the Vicar for the use of the bells, to the organist (Mrs. Skelton), the donor of the tea for his generous hospitality, and to Captain Skelton for making such excellent arrangements.—This was carried with applause.—Captain Skelton responded in a happy speech.

This concluded a very successful meeting, and the company dispersed, some back to the church and others to the neighbouring tower of Eynsford for further ringing.

YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION. NORTHERN DIVISION'S NEW OFFICERS.

By kind invitation of the Rev. H. G. Metcalfe, the annual meeting of the northern division was held at Feliskirk. The chief business of the day was the election of officers for the district, the vice-president and the secretary having resigned.

Mr. J. H. Blakiston, of Middlesbrough, was elected vice-president, and Mr. Barker, the Ringing Master, also of Middlesbrough, was elected secretary.

The ringers were very grateful to the Rev. H. G. Metcalfe for his kindly hospitality and to the president of the association (the Rev. C. C. Marshall) for presiding at the meeting.

THE DEATH OF MR. I. G. SHADE.

TRAGIC CLOSE OF A LONG CAREER.

The brief announcement which we were able to make last week of the tragic death, by accident, of Mr. Isaac George Shade, of Greenwich, has been received with the deepest regret throughout the Exercise, for Mr. Shade was not only one of the most widely known ringers, but was a link with a past generation of men of whom few to-day have any personal recollection, but whose names are almost household words. Mr. Shade, as we reported, met his death on Monday of last week when returning from a practice at St. Botolph's, Bishopsgate. It was a wet, dark night, and when in Blackheath Road, not far from his home at 72, Blissett Street, about 9.45 o'clock, he attempted to cross the street. A car containing two ladies as passengers was approaching, and when the horn was sounded, Mr. Shade apparently attempted to run across in front of the vehicle. The driver swerved, but Mr. Shade was struck by the off-wing of the car and knocked down. The car struck a lamp-post, which it demolished. Mr. Shade appeared to be quite dead, but with all speed he was conveyed to the Miller Hospital. Here, however, the doctor could only pronounce life extinct.

Thus closed, in tragic manner, a life which, to all appearances, might have had many years yet to run, for Mr. Shade, despite his more than 75 years, enjoyed, as he had always done, the best of health. But Providence ordained otherwise, and the Exercise mourns the death of one of its most respected members.

At the inquest a witness estimated the speed of the car at 15 miles an hour, and said the driver appeared to do all he could to avert an accident. Another witness said there had been three accidents at the same spot, which he described as 'a wicked road' and badly lighted.

The driver, William Albert Goffin, of 37, The Grove, Gravesend, gave evidence, and stated that he was a garage proprietor, and was driving towards Gravesend at a speed of 15 miles an hour. He immediately gave the warning sound when he saw deceased step off the kerb, but deceased ran, and he was caught by the car. Witness jumped down and went to deceased at the rear of the car. He also went to Miss Pryke, who had fainted, and someone went to the assistance of Mrs. Pryke (these ladies were the occupants of the car). In reply to his solicitor, he said that he was 15 yards from deceased when first he saw him start to walk across the road, and if he had continued to walk the car would have cleared him, but he ran right into the car. Witness had driven for over two years, and held a clean licence.

Medical evidence showed that Mr. Shade suffered a fractured skull and fractured ribs. Death was practically instantaneous.

A verdict of 'Accidental causes' was recorded, and sympathy expressed with the relatives.

A LOSS TO THE EXERCISE.

The death of Mr. Shade causes a distinct loss to the Exercise, in which he has figured prominently for more than fifty years. His father, William George Shade, was a ringer before him at Greenwich and Deptford, and the ringing history of father and son covers a period of the greater part of a century. Mr. I. G. Shade, who was born on April 27th, 1851, began ringing in the early seventies, and rang his first peal in 1875. From that time onward he added steadily to his total until, at the time of his death, he had scored no fewer than 1,450 peals—a number exceeded only by Mr. William Pye. To say that Mr. Shade was an enthusiast in ringing is to use but a mild term. Throughout his long working life, which began as a gas-fitter with the old Phoenix Gas Company, of Greenwich (later absorbed by the South Metropolitan Gas Company), and afterwards as a gas inspector, Mr. Shade utilised most of his spare time in the pursuit of his pastime, ringing regularly for services at St. Alphege Church, Greenwich, and seeking his peals wherever and whenever opportunity occurred. When he reached retiring age, and was pensioned by the company, he had leisure to prosecute his hobby even more intensively, and was ready to go anywhere at any time. While he could take his place in any band in any method, he was one who never raised a question of what was to be rung or made it a condition of his taking part. He would as willingly go a hundred miles for a peal of Grand-sire Triples as for a peal of London Surprise or Stedman Cinques. His kindly and unassuming nature won him the respect of all who knew him, and, for all his wonderful performances—he had rung in many record peals—he was one of the most reticent of men. He never boasted, and, although he had done much upon which he might openly have prided himself, he was content to do his best with the job on hand and to leave whatever there was to say about it to others. And yet his record was one which is really and truly great in the peal-ringing sense. Sparingly built, he must have had a frame of whipcord. He looked extremely frail, but appearances belied him. He would stand the most strenuous tests of endurance with the best of ringers, and, though his place was always round the front, men of experience know that even here on heavy rings of bells the task is not always a sinecure.

When Mr. Shade began his ringing career, there were many obstacles in the way of those who desired to advance in change-ringing, and the 'stoney' hand at Greenwich long resisted the efforts of Mr. Shade, his father and his brother Harry, to introduce the art into that tower. Consequently, although they shared in the ringing at Greenwich they had to go further afield for their change-ringing practice. But even in the towers where the art existed, it was not easy for a young man in those days to get initiated into the mysteries; but a keenness such as that which Mr. Shade showed could not be kept down, and gradually he worked himself to ringing circles which led him on to higher things.

A WONDERFUL RECORD.

When he got to the Surprise stage and could get little or no practice near home, he made frequent journeys to Crawley and Brighton, where at the time Surprise ringing was being carried on by two of the best eight-bell bands then in existence. Afterwards great strides were made in the advanced methods and on the higher numbers by the new-formed Middlesex County Association. Mr. Shade was one of the first of those able ringers whom Mr. William Pye has the genius for drawing round him, and not only in and around London, but on many tours into near or distant counties, peals were scored in great numbers. The association between Mr. Pye and Mr. Shade has been remarkable, for they had rung together no fewer than 875 peals—in itself a wonderful as well as almost a unique achievement, for only Mr. Wm. Pye and his deceased brother Ernest had taken part together in a larger number, they having been associated in 890.

Mr. Shade's vitality and mental keenness in his advancing years has been shown by the share he has taken in ringing expeditions in various parts of the country, attempting and often ringing two peals a day, while he has also participated recently in peals of unusual character, such, for instance, as that of only three weeks ago when he was one of the band which rang the first peal of Spliced Bob Major and Double Oxford. One of the traits in Mr. Shade's character was that of punctuality, and a band which assembled at St. Luke's, Bromley Common, for a peal of Stedman Triples, in which he was to have taken part on Thursday of last week, ignorant of the tragic occurrence of the previous Monday night, wondered at his absence. It was not until a late-comer brought news of his death that they knew the cause of his non-appearance. The information came, naturally, as a great shock, and no ringing was done.

Among the many noteworthy performances in which he took part were the then record of 18,027 Stedman Caters at Loughborough, on April 12th, 1909, in which, through the whole of the 12 hrs. 18 mins. ringing, Mr. Shade did not so much as miss a dodge, while three years later, at the age of 63, he took part in four Surprise peals rung in one day in four different counties.

Mr. Shade was a member of the following societies, etc.:—The Ancient Society of College Youths, Ashton-under-Lyne Society, Bedfordshire Association, Chester Diocesan Guild, Devonshire Guild, Durham and Newcastle Diocesan Guild, Essex Association, Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Guild, Hertford County Association, Irish Association, Kent County Association, London County Association, Lancashire Association, Llandaff Diocesan Association, Manchester Cathedral Society, Middlesex County Association, Midland Counties Association, Norfolk Guild, Oxford Diocesan Guild, Peterborough Diocesan Guild (formerly Central Northants Association), Sussex County Association, St. Martin's Guild, Birmingham, Stoke Archidiaconal Association, Salisbury Diocesan Guild, Surrey Association, Suffolk Guild, United Counties Association, Winchester Diocesan Guild, and Yorkshire Association.

Mr. Shade's ringing career has been an interesting one, and we hope in a subsequent issue to give our readers some further details concerning it.

THE FUNERAL.

The funeral took place on Friday afternoon at Charlton Cemetery. The service was quite a simple one, and was impressively conducted by the Vicar of Greenwich (rev. F. J. Tackley). The family mourners were Miss Shade (who had kept house for her brother), Mrs. Everett (sister), Mrs. Phillips (sister), Miss Phillips (niece). Among those who attended were the following ringers: Mr. E. Alex Young (hon. secretary, Central Council), Mr. W. Pye (Master of the Middlesex County Association and London Diocesan Guild), Mr. F. Wilford (Master of the Peterborough Diocesan Guild), and Mrs. Wilford, Mr. J. J. Lamb (who was closely associated with Mr. Shade), Mr. J. Waghorn, sen. (East Ham), Mr. G. R. Pye (Romford), Mr. T. Groombridge (Chislehurst), Mr. I. Emery (Bromley), Messrs. F. W. Thornton, F. H. Gooch and E. E. Richards (Greenwich), Mr. H. Warnett, jun. (St. Mary's, Lewisham), Mr. W. Martin (St. John's, Deptford), Mr. E. Barnett, sen. (Crayford), Mr. A. G. Hill (hon. secretary, Lewisham District, Kent County Association), Mr. J. S. Goldsmith (Woking), etc. The South Metropolitan Gas Company (with which Mr. Shade was employed for 47 years) was represented by Mr. W. E. Collins and Mr. W. D. Harvey. Mr. Shade's known wishes that there should be no flowers resulted in no floral tributes being sent from any ringers' organisations, while the family desire that there should be no handbells was also respected.

At St. Nicholas', Deptford, on Saturday, after an unsuccessful attempt for a peal with the bells half-muffled in memory of Mr. I. G. Shade, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples was rung: A. Harding (first quarter-peal) 1, E. E. Richards 2, H. Hoskins 3, A. J. Ford 4, G. H. Daynes (conductor) 5, W. H. Daynes 6, T. Jakeman 7, P.C. Elliott 8.

A half-muffled peal was rung by the Middlesex County Association and London Diocesan Guild at Willesden on Saturday.

AN OLD FRIEND MOURNED.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—The pen which I use to-day is the same pen that I used when I congratulated you on your first issue, but I don't believe that this beloved pen has ever been called upon to perform such a melancholy task as I now endeavour to perform. I have written you on several occasions, on different subjects, but—I know not how to express my sorrow at the demise of my dear old friend, George Shade. A friend, indeed, a friend in need, he always was. For nearly thirty years have I known the dear old gentleman: we were both in the same trade, and oft have we joked together that 'gas' had kept us from knocking at the workhouse door all our lives and always would do so.

George stood behind me while I rang my first course of Stedman Triples; he called my first quarter of Stedman, he rang in my first peal of Stedman—'twas also Alf Grimes' first of Stedman. He stood behind me what time I rang my first courses of Norwich, Cambridge and Superlative, and gave me much good advice. I have rung with him in many places—Painswick, Cirencester, Birmingham, Quex Park—and always has he been the same kindly, unassuming old friend, always the gentleman nature intended he should be. This world is the poorer; the hereafter is the richer for the sad demise of Isaac George Shade. I could wish for no better mentor to guide my tottering footsteps in the methods I must learn in the place to which he is gone. I, more than many, mourn his loss.

JOSEPH E. SYKES.

LAVENHAM DISTRICT.

A successful bye-meeting was held at St. Mary's Church on Saturday, July 24th. The ringers were welcomed at the Church by the Vicar (the Rev. S. J. Buchanan) and Miss L. Barton, churchwarden. Several touches of Plain Bob, Kent and Oxford Treble Bob were rung during the afternoon and evening. During an interval the assembly partook of refreshments, kindly provided by Miss L. Barton.

The members present were: Messrs. S. H. Symonds (assistant secretary), A. Symonds (district secretary), W. R. J. Poulson and F. Turner (Lavenham), A. Keeble (Monks Eleigh), H. D. Lister (Bildeston), J. King (Polstead), L. Poulson (Stowmarket), F. A. Salter (Nottingham), W. Hollocks, C. Pryke and R. Poulson (Preston). A member of the Thetford band was also present.

It was unanimously agreed that similar bye-meetings were urgently needed throughout the county.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

We have received many congratulations upon the completion of 860 issues, and we tender our thanks to all our well-wishers.

Miss Phyllis Routledge, daughter of Mr. C. L. Routledge, of Jesmond Road, Newcastle, who recently graduated M.B., B.S., Dunchin, has since sat the final of the Conjoint Medical Board in London, taking the L.R.C.P., M.R.C.S., England. All these examinations were taken within the calendar month. Mr. Routledge's many friends in the Exercise will join in congratulating his daughter upon her distinguished successes.

The famous Belgian carillonneur, M. le Chevalier Jef. Denyn, gave a recital on the new carillon of 40 bells in the Croydon Foundry tower on Tuesday evening, when he delighted a large audience with a varied programme, in which he brought out all the beauties of the bells in this latest creation of Messrs. Gillett and Johnston.

The lady members of 'St. Clement's Youths' were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. Alexander Young at a garden party given at 277, Stansstead Road, Forest Hill, recently.

The opening of the ring of twelve bells in the Waterloo tower, Quex Park, Kent, took place on August 4th, 1819.

The first peal of Grandsire Major of which there is any record was rung at Aston, Birmingham. It was a 7,552, accomplished on July 30th, 1792, but it would be strange if some shorter length had not been previously rung.

It was at Aston also that the first peal of Grandsire Royal was rung. This was in the year 1814, but it turned out to be false, and the honours of the first true peal went to the Painswick Youths, who rang 5,099 'Tittum Grandsire Royal' on August 6th, 1815.

CENTRAL COUNCIL AND COVENTRY BELLS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—In accordance with the instruction given at Ipswich, I am sending out during the next few days the booklet dealing with the whole of the action taken by the Council in respect to Coventry bells. This is already in the hands of those who were at the meeting, and will thus be sent to those who were not. If the Guild secretaries have not supplied me with the latest addresses of their representatives, will they notify the latter to get into touch with their postmasters, who would then forward the booklets on?

The illustrated booklet is confined to a limited issue, and for private circulation only. It contains the letters which passed and also interesting reports and descriptions of the bells and Cathedral together with a reprint of the proceedings, in the Consistory Court at Coventry, before the Chancellor.

As the members who were at Ipswich also had given them my pamphlet on 'Bell-tones and how to observe them,' it being hoped at the time that it would help them to appreciate and discuss my motion on 'Simpson' tuning, I have ventured to insert a copy of the pamphlet in the booklets being sent, and do so with my best compliments.

—Yours faithfully,

E. ALEX. YOUNG.

RINGING RESUMED IN DURBAN.

After several months' silence, the bells of St. Mary's Church, Greyville, Durban, are being rung again. All the old members of the band are back again, and under the guidance of Messrs. J. E. Prickett and F. Heywood May great progress should be made by this enthusiastic band. Practices have been resumed, and many weeks need not to pass before the first peal for the diocese of Natal is recorded.

SOUTH AMERICAN BELLS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—In the church tower at Lincoln, a small town about 150 miles west of Buenos Aires, there are four bells. The inscriptions are as follow:—

Treble: G.E.G. V. Bochumer Verein Bochum 1903.

Tenor: B.V.G. Bochum 1903.

Two and three have the same, or very similar, inscriptions. Do any of your readers know where these bells, which are individually quite good, were cast, and by what firm?—Yours sincerely,

M. G. C. HOOTON.

ELIJAH ROBERTS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—The following appeared in the 'Liverpool Daily Post' of February 1st, 1865:—

'Inquest on the body of Elijah Roberts, licensed victualler, 21, Whitechapel.

'The deceased had been drinking heavily for the last fortnight, and on Thursday last (that is, January 26th) was in a delirious state. In the afternoon he went into the water-closet, and soon after a rushing and gurgling sound was heard by the servant. The barman opened the door and found the deceased sitting on the floor with his throat cut, and a large quantity of blood in the closet. A razor covered with blood was also found there. Life was extinct. Verdict, "Temporary Insanity."

A similar account of the tragedy occurs in the same paper on the day following the event. It concludes with the sentence: 'He had been very widely known as a clever handbell ringer.'—Yours faithfully, University Club, Liverpool.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

THE ANNUAL FESTIVAL.

There was a large attendance of members of the Oxford Diocesan Guild at the annual meeting at Oxford on Saturday, all the branches being well represented. The city, with its numerous rings of bells, offers many attractions to ringers apart from the general interest which centres in its fine old colleges and buildings. The festival began with a service in Christ Church Cathedral, which was conducted by the Master (the Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn), and at which the address was given by the Bishop of Oxford. Bell-ringers, said his lordship, were church-workers; they had their place and duty in the system of the work of the church. They should not look upon their work as merely the source of energy which caused the bells to call the faithful to worship. It was much more than that if approached in the true spirit, and they would perform their task best and carry their message home most successfully if that message came from their own hearts. They might ask how a man, shut out of sight in the tower, could make any difference to the message. They could, he urged, show the spirit in which they sent out the message by themselves joining in the services for which they rang. If, when their task was done, they left behind those whom they had summoned, it might be taken as a fact that their work was a mere mechanical job, in which they had no special or real interest so far as the church was concerned.

The whole service was an inspiring one, and the singing, led by the organ, was not the least impressive part of it. An offertory was taken for the Guild's Bells Restoration Fund, and concluded with the 'Te Deum' and the 'Blessing.'

The business meeting was held immediately afterwards, in the Chapter House, the Master presiding, supported by the hon. treasurer (Mr. A. J. Wright), the secretary (Mr. R. T. Hibbert), the Rev. R. H. Hart Davis, and Rev. Canon G. F. Coleridge.

THE LOCAL ENTHUSIAST WANTED.

A summary of the reports of the Master, the treasurer and the secretary has already appeared in our columns. The Master, in proposing that his report be adopted, said he hoped, if members had not read it, they would do so, because he had touched on a subject which he thought was a very important one, not only for that Guild but for the whole of the Guilds of the country—that was to say, the question of the recruit. The difficulty at the present time was not that their Guilds were not increasing in numbers—their own certainly was—it was not that they did not get good meetings, both annual and branch meetings, but they did find they got names in their report from a tower one year, and they were changed almost entirely the next year, which meant that a certain number were constantly dropping out. He was told that was the case all over the country. What accounted for it was, he thought, the changing conditions through which the country had passed and was passing. Whereas in the old days there was very little for the young ringer to do, at any rate in the country parishes, in the evening, now there were many attractions. There used to be no cinemas or motor-bicycles and few village clubs. Now there were many attractions that called the young men, and, for that matter, the young women too. The difficulty was to get the young men to really devote sufficient time to the mastery of the art of change-ringing. They would, perhaps, come and ring as long as what they were doing was fairly easy, but there were a great many who did not seem able to afford the time to master the more difficult side of the art. In fact, it was the local enthusiast who was wanted. He did not think the local enthusiasts had increased with the general increase in members. They had just about the same number of local enthusiasts as they had in the days when he first joined the Guild. He did not want to discuss the subject that morning, but he wanted the members to think about it and to talk it over at their meetings, and perhaps there might be some suggestions forthcoming at their next committee meeting. A valuable suggestion had been made by the Editor of 'The Ringing World' in an article which he had printed on the subject, and perhaps they might have others. He did not think, of course, that change-ringing was in any prospect of dying out; the point was, were they going to see to it that in all their bellfries change-ringing was encouraged so that their bells were rung for service, and that they could give the very best that was possible? They would always have talented bands of ringers, taken from here and there, who would delight people with their ringing, but were they to have a hand in every tower able to ring methods for the church's services? They could not do it without the local enthusiast (applause).

All the reports were adopted, the treasurer making the request that members would pay their subscriptions at the beginning of the year instead of waiting until the end.

OLD OFFICERS HONOURED.

The Master was re-elected with acclamation, and the treasurer and secretary were also unanimously re-elected. The committee was re-elected as follows:—Messrs. F. Barlow, J. Evans, G. Caudwell, G. Holfield, E. Humfrey, W. Hibbert, sen., G. Martin, F. Webb, R. White, A. D. Cullum, H. Sear, and J. W. Wilkins.

The Master submitted the names of the vice-presidents for re-election, and said he wished also to propose two other names of men who had done good work for the Guild, and who, for various reasons, were not able to continue that work, but whom, he thought, the Guild would like to honour. The first was the Rev. A. C. R. Freeborn, who had been chairman of the Witney and Woodstock Branch since it was started at the beginning of this century. He believed that in the whole of that time he had missed only one meeting of the branch, and that was when the motor which was conveying him broke down. He was always ready to put the tower at Kidlington at the disposal of ringers, and always made them welcome. He had also regularly attended their annual festival, but now he (the Master) regretted to say his health had broken down, and he had been compelled to resign the chairmanship of the branch, much to the regret of the members. The second name was that of a layman, one who had done good work for the Guild for many years, who rang many peals with the old Master, who had been chairman of his branch and rang in many of the early peals for the Guild. That gentleman was with them that day, but he did not think he had any knowledge of the proposal to make him a vice-president. He referred to Mr. W. P. Routh, whom they all loved and, he was sure, would delight to honour (applause).

Canon Coleridge seconded, remarking that there were no two men who would honour the Guild more than by accepting office as vice-presidents.—The motion was carried amid applause, and Mr. Routh briefly replied, being obviously surprised at the compliment paid him.

The Master said he would like to make mention of another branch chairman who was about to leave them—the Rev. W. J. Palmer—who was going to take up work in a parish in another county. He would like, in the name of the Guild, to propose a vote of thanks to him, and to wish him health and happiness in his new sphere of work.

The motion having been carried, the Rev. W. J. Palmer thanked the members, remarking that he was going to the diocese of Lincoln, his native county, to try and send forward the work of restoring a beautiful and ancient shrine.

The representatives on the Central Council were re-elected as follows:—The Master, the Rev. Canon Coleridge, Mr. F. W. Hopgood and Mr. J. Evans.

Canon Coleridge made a report on the proceedings of the Council at Ipswich. He remarked, at the outset, that it ought hardly to be necessary to do so, as the detailed account of the meeting should have been read in 'The Ringing World' by every member. In his reference to the confirmation of the action of the officials of the Council in regard to Coventry bells, he said the matter was an important one, and if ever such a question came up again in connection with any other church, authorities would know that they would have to contend with the Central Council, who would look into the rights of the ringers and do their best to preserve good and ancient bells from the melting pot (applause). The Council, he said, had a full day's business, and there was the greatest good-humour and good-feeling all round. It was a most successful meeting in every possible way. He had now been president for six years, and he thought it was full time that the Council looked round for a younger man to take his place.

The Master, in thanking Canon Coleridge for his report, said his presence as chairman of the Council had had a good deal to do with the improvement of the meetings in the last few years.

THE NEXT ANNUAL MEETING.

The following recommendation from the General Committee, moved by Mr. Wright, and seconded by Mr. A. D. Barker, was carried without discussion: 'That a collection be taken at the service of the annual festival each year, the proceeds to be added to the Guild's Restoration Fund.'

Mr. Culliam moved, and Mr. Barlow seconded, the following recommendation of the General Committee: 'That the annual festival for 1927 be held at Oxford. If for any reason Oxford be not available, Slough be the alternative.'

Mr. Barker proposed that the meeting be held at Slough. This, he said, had nothing to do with the recent disagreements on the subject, but he proposed it because the East Berks and South Bucks Branch had been through some very hard times lately, and they wanted the other branches to visit them and give them a 'leg up.' He was quite sure that a visit of the Guild to the branch for the annual festival would do a great deal of good, and he hoped the amendment would be supported out of friendship for the branch and in the interests of the Guild.—Mr. J. Evans seconded, and the motion was supported by Mr. C. C. Mayne and Mr. Fowler.

On being put, 16 voted for the amendment and 44 against, and the original motion was then carried by 49 votes to 5.

The committee recommended a grant of £4 to the restoration of East Hagbourne bells, which Mr. Butler explained, it was proposed to rehang in an entirely new frame. At present they had about £123 in the bank, and other promises amounted to £40 or £50.—Replying to a question, the Master (to whose satisfaction the work must be completed before the grant is paid over) stated that he most certainly could not advise the bells themselves being touched. At present the scheme was merely for rehousing.—At the suggestion of Mr. Trollope, it was resolved that the amount given to the fund should be £5, and the secretary said that if the people of East Hagbourne would have the job properly done he would do his best to help them in raising funds.

The election of 175 members during the year was confirmed, and, after reports by the Master and the treasurer upon the completion of the Washbrook Memorial had been made, the Memorial Committee, having completed its work, was discharged.

It was stated that after the cost of the work had been defrayed, £28 9s. 8d. remained in hand. £18 of this was given to St. Ebbe's Church to help form a fund for the maintenance of the bells, £10 to

St. Giles' towards the proposal to place two more trebles in the tower (a scheme which was much favoured as a memorial to Mr. Washbrook), and the balance to the Guild's Restoration Fund.—Mr. Miles stated that it was possible St. Giles' peal of eight might be completed much earlier than many of them had at one time hoped.

Mr. W. P. Routh proposed a vote of thanks to the Memorial Committee, and this was seconded by Mr. J. P. Fidler, of Norbury, Cheshire, a visitor to the meeting, who said that the ringers of Cheshire and Lancashire, who were associated with Mr. Washbrook in the later years of his life, much appreciated what the Oxford Guild had done in connection with the memorial. They were extremely pleased with the support that was given to the fund and with the way in which the work had been carried out.

A vote of thanks to the Bishop for his sermon, to the Dean and Chapter for making them welcome in the Cathedral and Chapter House, to the governing body of Christ Church for the use of the Hall for the luncheon, and to the organist, whose services they much appreciated, was passed on the motion of the Master, seconded by Sir George Dashwood, Bart.

This terminated the business, and the members then adjourned to the handsome dining-hall of the college for the luncheon.

Afterwards they dispersed to the various towers of Oxford and neighbouring villages for ringing.

INTEREST IN THE CENTRAL COUNCIL.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I doubt whether the Council take into consideration the subjects that are most interesting to ringers. They spend a good deal of energy upon the naming of methods, analysis of peals and the tuning of bells, and seem more like a debating society than a body instituted for the purpose of upholding the interests of the ringing Exercise. The question of cheap railway fares, although essentially practical, is purely one of business negotiation. What is our status, and how do we stand with the British public? One of the principal aims of the Guilds and Associations is to be 'recognised as church officials.' I think that object has already been attained. At most meetings there are a number of clergy, and generally one in the chair. Many of the chief offices of the different Guilds are occupied by a parson. Altogether we have become 'recognised' by them, and I do not see how anyone can say that we are not treated as church officials. As such we have our duties to carry out and position to uphold. If on descending a tower after a peal a band is met with a complaint, it is hardly playing the game to coolly refer the complainer to the church authorities who gave the permission. The least that can be done is to express regret for any annoyance that may have been caused, and remind that man that for every one who did not like the ringing there were probably hundreds who did. Is not our position as ringers that of assistants to the clergy in their work? The time has gone by when one went to the parson and said, 'Please, sir, may we ring?' or 'Thank you for permission to ring.' Surely we do our bit from the tower to the best of our ability, as does the parson from the pulpit and the choir from their stalls. We are rather more important than we have hitherto led ourselves to believe. But if I read the signs of the times rightly many towers in large towns are becoming closed for peals. Is public opinion becoming alienated slightly against ringing, especially peal ringing? If this is so, what are the Council going to do about it? The clergy, I am sure, are on our side, but what about the people as a whole?—Yours faithfully,

HARRY BARTON.

Ventnor.

LADIES' GUILD.

A very successful meeting of the Ladies' Guild, Western District, was held at Portishead on July 17th. The weather was delightful, the bells all that could be desired, and the number of members attending much larger than usual. The Guild service was held at half-past four, Miss Orchard, of Portishead, kindly presiding at the organ. The members then adjourned to the White Cot Dairy, where an excellent tea was served.

The Rev. H. S. Briggs, on behalf of the Portishead ringers, extended a very kind welcome to the Guild, and in this he was seconded by Mr. Gillingham, who said that he should like it to be known that in Portishead they had been, for many years, almost entirely dependent on their band of ladies for their Sunday service ringing.

Tea was followed by the annual business meeting, at which the officers for the district were re-elected for the following year, and Clevedon chosen as the next place of meeting.

STREATHAM OCTOGENARIAN STILL ACTIVE

Mr. William Shepherd, for many years a member of Immanuel Church bell-ringers, took part in a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples in 44 mins., in celebration of his 87th birthday on Monday, July 19th: W. E. G. Hawson 1, W. Shepherd 2, C. H. Shuffell 3, E. E. Bish 4, J. Lee 5, J. L. Watkins 6, J. W. Chapman (conductor) 7, H. Turner 8.

RINGERS' OUTINGS.

BRAINTREE RINGERS IN SUFFOLK.

The St. Michael's Guild, Braintree, had their annual outing on Saturday, July 10th. Starting at 8 a.m. and accompanied by some of the members' wives, the party made for Bury St. Edmunds via Haverhill. An enjoyable ring at St. Mary's was the first item on the programme, followed by touches of Stedman Triples and Double Norwich at the Norman tower. After an excellent lunch at Everard's Hotel, the party again visited the Norman tower, and rang some well struck touches of Grandsire Caters, several making their first attempt on ten bells. Lavenham was reached about 3.30 p.m. No ringing was anticipated here, as previous arrangements had been made by the Suffolk Guild for an attempt for a peal. A rest of about half an hour was made to listen to the ringing, and the splendid striking of these world-famed bells to the tune of Double Norwich was much enjoyed. At Long Melford a few touches were rung on the recently restored bells, and Sudbury was reached at 5.30 p.m.

After a bountiful tea, supplemented with strawberries and cream, St. Gregory's tower was visited. Some enjoyable touches were rung, the 'go' of the bells being excellent. The last item on the programme was at All Saints'. Here was quite another proposition, with a tenor of 28 cwt., but some good touches of Stedman Triples and Bob Major were brought round on this noble and melodious ring. Leaving Sudbury at 8.15 p.m. with a slight shower falling, the run was via Heddingham, and home was reached at 9.30 p.m., concluding one of the most pleasant outings the Guild have ever experienced. The Guild wish to tender their sincere thanks to Mr. Woodwiss, of Bury, Mr. Bexley, of Melford, and Mr. Dixon, of Sudbury, for the excellent arrangements made for ringing, and to the band that provided the rare treat at Lavenham. The courses with the 5th in 6th's place were almost faultless.

ST. ANDREW'S GUILD, HOLBORN.

The annual outing of the above took place on Saturday, July 3rd. Leaving St. Andrew's Church at 8.30 a.m. by charabanc, the route was to Beaconsfield, where at the church the party were met by Mr. C. Mayne. After pulling the bells up in peal, touches of Double Norwich, Treble Bob and Stedman were rung. The next destination was West Wycombe, and here, after stabling the charabanc and leaving the steeplekeeper, Mr. Joe Rayner (who is over 90 years of age) in charge of Mr. Harman, who is 85 years old, the party undertook the climb up to the church. After much gasping, they succeeded in reaching the top, where Messrs. Hoing and Coles were awaiting them. The bells were soon going to Stedman, Grandsire and Bob Major, and most of the party took the opportunity of going up in the ball at the top of the tower, from where a fine view is obtained. At dinner, at the George and Dragon, they were joined by the Vicar of West Wycombe, who gave the party a hearty welcome. After a substantial repast, cigars, which had been kindly sent by the Rector of St. Andrew's, were passed round, and his health was heartily drunk. Next going by way of Stockenchurch, Lane End and Marlow to Boyne Hill, Messrs. Copey and G. Martin were awaiting the party, who had an hour's ringing in various methods before continuing the journey to Slough for tea, for which Mr. Fussell had made arrangements. It had been intended to ring at Slough, but owing to illness this could not be done, but Mr. Fussell, with ever-ready thought, had got permission for the use of Windsor Parish Church bells for an hour's ringing. Stedman, Double Norwich and Cambridge Surprise were tapped off, and after leaving the tower the company adjourned to the Carpenters' Arms for a social, in the course of which songs, handbell selections and gramophone selections were enjoyed. After a splendid run up the new West Road, St. Andrew's was safely reached, all unanimous in having spent a perfect day. The ringers take this opportunity of thanking the various vicars and steeplekeepers for their kind permission for use of the bells, Mr. Hoing for making arrangements for dinner, and, last but not least, Mr. Fussell for making all arrangements at Slough and Windsor.

NETHERTON RINGERS VISIT DERBYSHIRE.

On Saturday, June 26th, the annual outing of the St. Andrew's company took place, a visit being paid to the beautiful town of Matlock, Derbyshire, by motor charabanc. The company, under the leadership of Mr. Albert Prestidge, included Mr. A. Greenfield, who had assisted the first-named gentleman to make the whole of the arrangements, the veteran 'Dick' Round, who is serving his fifty-fourth year as a Sunday service ringer at Netherton Parish Church, and Mr. Reuben Hall, of West Bromwich, who was looking and feeling exceedingly well considering he is in his 74th year. Mr. Hall is now the 'father' of the Black Country ringers. Another ringing enthusiast was also with the party, namely, Mr. Alfred Rowley, formerly of Martley, Wore., and now of 'Pepper Box' fame, for he holds at present the position of leader at the latter tower, an office held for many years by the late Mr. Wm. Rock Small. The party, numbering fifteen, among whom were twelve accomplished ringers, prepared themselves for a long 'peal' of pleasure. The conducting was placed in the hands of Mr. A. Greenfield, and the word 'go' was given shortly before eight a.m. The outward journey reminded one of the 'treble' in Surprise methods, for it was a zig-zag 'course' until Walsall was reached. A good 'compass' was attained, for the 'charm' was running smoothly and well. At Alrewas the first 'part end' came up in something like an hour and a quarter. By this time the appetites of the party needed a 'splice.' The first strand of this was well 'overlapped' by a second, and the third fitted in and was well 'tucked,' making a 'long splice' to last through Burton, Derby and Duffield, the latter being well known as the home of the late Sir Arthur P. Heywood. The last part of the outward route was through beautiful scenery, and Matlock was reached shortly before mid-day. The next 'course' was dinner at the Crown Hotel. This was splendidly served, and there was not a 'trip' in this 'turning course.' During the afternoon places of interest were visited, and one important event took place which was appreciated by the 'twelve,' but the special request of 'Leader' Prestidge forbids the writer to give account of the same.

Later, two hours were spent at picturesque Matlock Bath, and then the return journey was made, and home was reached about 9.40 p.m., after such a long and enjoyable outing. Thanks are extended to the clergy and wardens of Netherlinton Parish Church, and to all those who assisted to make the outing a success. The ringers also wish to thank their leader, Mr. A. Prestidge, and Mr. A. Greenfield for carrying out the arrangements in such an excellent manner.

CHICHESTER RINGERS' TOUR.

Chichester Cathedral ringers had their outing on Thursday, June 24th. Leaving by cars at 9 a.m., Mr. P. H. Doick was picked up at Pulborough, and Billingshurst was reached in good time. There they were met by the Vicar, who gave them a very hearty reception. Two touches were brought round on the bells, and then the party went on to Warnham, where they were met by another good friend, and after two touches proceeded through some lovely country to Capel (Surrey), where a cold luncheon was awaiting them. Having afterwards visited the tower for ringing, they proceeded to Newdigate, but could not ring there as one of the chiming hammers was in the way. Tracks were, therefore, made towards Horsham, a heavy thunderstorm being encountered on the way. Mr. Stephen Knight, a very old friend, met the party and rang with them. After a 'knife and fork' tea the journey was resumed to Petworth, which was reached by seven o'clock, where two more touches were rung. The conducting was shared between Messrs. W. E. Ticehurst and H. J. Tucker. Chichester was eventually reached at 10 p.m., after a most enjoyable day. The best thanks are due to all the incumbents for the use of the bells, and also to all those who met the party on the tour.

SOUTH CROYDON RINGERS.

On Saturday, June 19th, the ringers of St. Peter's, Croydon, again enjoyed a very pleasant day, visiting a few of the beauty spots of Sussex and Kent, bent on climbing the belfry steps and ringing the bells of the churches which greatly help to make such places so picturesque. Leaving South Croydon by charabanc soon after eight o'clock, and favoured with lovely weather, they spent the morning visiting the churches at Turner's Hill, Edenbridge and Coleman's Hatch, after which they proceeded to Lewes to enjoy an excellent luncheon which was prepared for them, to be followed by a visit to the ten-bell tower there. At Lewes they had the pleasure of meeting Mr. Robert J. Dawe, who accompanied them to Chailey, where they had another pleasure of meeting Mr. Western and Mr. King. After enjoying a few good touches on the six bells at Chailey, the journey was continued to Hartfield, where an awaiting tea was thoroughly enjoyed. Unfortunately no ringing could be done here as the bells were being renovated, so tracks were made for the tower at Oxted, where the last ringing of the day was very much enjoyed. Touches of Stedman, Kent and Grandsire formed the programme of the day, and after a pleasant evening run through the country lanes from Oxted, South Croydon was reached soon after ten p.m.

ST. JAMES', LEYLAND.

On Saturday, June 26th, the ringers of the above church, with their wives and friends, and accompanied by the Vicar, had their annual outing. A start was made about 1.30 p.m. in cars kindly lent by friends in the parish. At Scorton, the church was visited, and after a look round the ringers made for the tower, where the bells were raised and several touches rung. A move was then made for Lancaster, which was reached about 4.30. Here the ringers paid a visit to St. Thomas' Church, where they were met by some of the local band, and enjoyed an hour's good ringing. They then made for the Empire Cafe, where a substantial tea was provided, after which they proceeded to Hornoy, where they were again met by the local ringers. Full advantage was taken of this lovely peal of bells, and touches were rung of London and Cambridge Surprise, Kent Treble Bob, Oxford Single Bob and Plain Bob. After viewing the scenery and the ancient church, a start was made for home, which was reached in safety, all expressing pleasure with the day's outing. The ringers wish to thank the Vicars, steeplekeepers, and all those who helped to make the outing a success.

CHELLENHAM (ST. MARY'S) GUILD.

On Wednesday, June 30th, the annual outing of the above Guild took place. A start was made at 9.30 a.m. for Arle, where photographs were taken of the party after others had joined up. The route lay through Gloucester, Newnham-on-Severn, where on the river bank lunch was partaken of. After a few touches on the eight bells, a move was made to Lydney, where dinner was served at the Swan Hotel. After dinner a short toast list was gone through, and then a move was made to the tower. The eight bells were raised in peal, and a few touches were rung with the assistance of Mr. Davis and other Lydney ringers. At Newland, a few more short touches were rung. Going on to Coleford and Kerne Bridge, the party arrived at Ross for tea, and the last ringing of the day was on the Parish Church bells. The Guild had the company of their old friends, Mr. Clark and Mr. Richards, and the Vicar paid them a visit while the ringing was in progress. Cheltenham was eventually reached about 9.30 p.m., all having spent a most enjoyable day.

ST. MARGARET'S, WESTMINSTER.

On Saturday, the ringers of St. Margaret's, Westminster, held their annual outing. Train was taken to Hatfield, where there is a peal of eight bells (tenor 26 cwt. or thereabouts). Here touches of Stedman Triples and Double Norwich Major and courses of Cambridge, Bristol and London were rung, and the interesting features in the church, so closely connected with the Cecil family, were inspected. Mr. J. T. Kentish joined the party here and acted as guide. After the ringing, the ringers sat down to an excellent meat tea served at the 'One Bell.' Next came a drive by charabanc through the delightful scenery of Hertfordshire by Hertford town to Ware, where there is a good peal (tenor 22 cwt.). Stedman, Double Norwich and Bristol were rung here, and then on to Knebworth Church, which is situated in the middle of a park and near the mansion of Lord Lytton. Superlative and London Surprise were rung here, and a postcard signed by all the party was sent to Mrs. Deal congratulating her on the happy advent of a son and heir. And time was getting late a move had to be made back to Hatfield to catch the last train. Whether it was the coal strike or the pure 'cussedness' of railway companies or whatever it was, that train was late coming in and later still getting on with its journey, and it was just midnight before it arrived at King's Cross. Now, the St. Margaret's ringers do not live at King's Cross. Some had a dozen or fifteen miles more to go, and as it was a case of catching last trains south and east and west, they stood not on the order of their going, but directly the train did arrive, went. Fortunately, no one did miss his last train, so that was all right. The thanks of the party are due to Mr. Hewitt, who was general secretary and treasurer, and to Mr. Kentish, who made the local arrangements, for a most successful and enjoyable outing.

STANMORE RINGERS' OUTING.

The ringers of Stanmore, Middlesex, had an outing on June 26th, when, en route to Haslemere, they stopped to ring at East Molesey, At Haslemere they had lunch, then rang at the Parish Church, touches of Grandsire and Stedman being brought round. The return journey was made via Staines, where, after tea, there was ringing at St. Peter's Church, and a visit to the British Legion, where Messrs. J. Milner, F. Goddard and C. Tucker gave selections on handbells.

A SUFFOLK TRIP.

The ringers of Thornham Magna, Suffolk, had a long motor trip to a number of towers, at each of which ringing was indulged in. The first was Earl Soham, where there are six bells, then Framlingham, with its peal of eight, Dennington, a ring of six, Peasenhall, also a peal of six, and so to Southwold with its octave. Old friends were met in the person of Mr. W. Crickmer at Earl Soham, J. Hall at Framlingham, J. Wardley at Dennington, and several of the local men at Peasenhall, while at Southwold Mr. J. Larter received them. Dinner was partaken of at Wrentham, and some of the local men, with Mr. F. W. Nauton, joined them at the towers. The tour was continued to Lowestoft and Beccles, the eight at the former town and the fine peal of ten at the latter being rung, tea, arranged by Mr. R. J. Goate, being enjoyed at Beccles. The last call was at Bungay, where there was ringing with the local men and Mr. E. Lincoln. The Thornham ringers were accompanied by Messrs. E. F. Poppy and H. Day, of Eye.

'RINGERS' SUNDAY' AT HANLEY.

Sunday, July 18th, was set apart as 'Ringers' Sunday,' and the collections at both services were set apart to defray the expenses of the ringers' outing which was held at an earlier date. An invitation to visit the belfry after each service was accepted in a warm manner by the congregation, who came in good numbers to see how the bells were rung.

They were welcomed by the head ringer (Mr. S. Sargeant), who showed them the manipulation of a bell and gave a short talk on ringing generally.

The idea underlying this was the education of the public, as has often been urged in 'The Ringing World,' and it was felt to be a good thing if, on 'Ringers' Sunday,' at least a few of the congregation should get to know a little about how church bells are rung and who rings them. The innovation was successful, and visitors were both interested and instructed.

During the day the band rang the following touches—504 and 168 Stedman Triples, 350 Grandsire Triples, and a Plain Course of Stedman Caters.

QUARTER PEAL IN A NEW METHOD.

At Norbury (Hazel Grove), Cheshire, on Monday, July 19th, at the Parish Church of St. Thomas, 1,280 Clarendon Surprise Major in 48 mins.: L. Clough 1, W. W. Wolstencroft 2, J. Fenuley, jun., 3, H. Langley 4, T. Wilde 5, W. Fernley 6, J. Fenley, sen. (conductor) 7, J. W. Hartley 8. Longest length yet rung in the method.

SINGLE METHOD 'SUPERLATIVE' EXTENSION.

By GEORGE BAKER.

Having cleared up the misapprehension concerning Shipway's Surprise method, let us now turn our attention to 'Superlative.'

Everyone knows that Superlative Surprise Major is a double method, but only a few know that Superlative on ten bells is an irregular double method except for three lead-heads, for which see below:—

1st lead-head	1234567890	REGULAR.
2nd	083974526	irregular.
3rd	658243907	"
4th	795038264	REGULAR.
5th	429685073	irregular.
6th	302759648	"
7th	860492735	REGULAR.

We are all, or nearly all, agreed that methods with irregular lead-heads are not worth ringing, and that is the reason I discarded this extension of 'Superlative' many years ago, and why I am not now going to ask the Editor to publish the figures: they are not worth the space they would occupy; but in passing I might add that this irregular extension of Superlative Major to Royal can be carried on to twelve bells, and the lead-head of 13527496e8t0 can be brought up by leaving out the Extreme when the treble is tying her whole pull behind. If the Extreme was made in that position, the Maximus, too, would be an irregular method.

Following are Single Method Extensions of Superlative Major to Royal and Maximus, and anyone who will take the trouble to compare the place-making will find there is no alteration from Major in either Royal or Maximus until the Treble passes into 9-0; and the Royal extension, discovered in 1915, is a true method.

For reasons which at the present time would hardly be intelligible to the Exercise, but in which reciprocal relationship of the opposite pairs of bells, as found in the Primary Principles and the Treble Bob Principle, have a large part, I am more than ever convinced that the double extension of Superlative Major to Maximus discovered by Mr. H. W. Wilde is the nearest and probably the only true double extension of Superlative to 12 bells.

BISHOP OF LONDON'S DEPARTURE.

The Bishop of London left London yesterday for Quebec on his world tour, and on Sunday last he went to his old Parish Church of St. Matthew, Bethnal Green, to preach, at evensong, his last sermon in this country before leaving. He was welcomed in the usual way by the ringers, and a quarter-peal (1,260 changes) of Grandsire Triples was brought round in 45 mins.: T. O. Bone 1, J. H. Parrott 2, F. Parrott 3, W. W. Stevens 4, S. Penfold 5, H. Hills 6, F. Smith (conductor) 7, H. C. Taylor 8. After service a short touch of Grandsire Triples, conducted by S. Penfold, was rung as a farewell to the Bishop and an expression of good wishes for the success of his tour. During his sermon the Bishop made mention of the bells and congratulated the parish on the splendid peal it possesses.

EDUCATING THE PUBLIC.

By a curious coincidence our leading article of July 2nd on 'Educating the Public' appeared at a time when the suggestions were being carried out in a practical manner at Wakefield by Mr. William Reyner and brother ringers. Two societies amongst others in the city with which Mr. Reyner is connected are the 'Wakefield Paxton Society' (the first of its kind in England) and the 'Wakefield Naturalists' Society.' Both these societies have regular weekly meetings and lectures on a variety of subjects, and recently Mr. Reyner was invited by the committee to contribute to the programme. He chose, 'Bells and Bell-ringers,' and his address was illustrated with lantern slides. This lecture was a complete success. Mr. Reyner was fortunate in securing slides and valuable information from Messrs. John Taylor and Co. of Loughborough, Messrs. Mears and Stainbank of Whitechapel, and Messrs. Gillett and Johnston of Croydon, while Mr. Ernest Morris, of Leicester, loaned interesting literature. To all these Mr. Reyner tenders his sincere thanks.

The audience were deeply interested, and on the following Saturday over fifty of them, both ladies and gentlemen, visited the tower at Sandal (about two miles from the centre of the city) and saw a practical demonstration of change-ringing. For the lantern lecture, Mr. Reyner had a few special slides prepared, including one of that famous campanologist, Jasper Whitfield Snowdon, and recited the lines on his death, composed by the Master of the Ancient Society of College Youths, which made an appropriate conclusion to the lecture.

THE PARISH CLERK AND HIS DUTIES.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I shall be much obliged to you if you will give me a little space to supplement my advertisement appearing among your notices. The resignation of our clerk, after twenty-nine years' service, renders a new appointment necessary. As in most country parishes, the office includes the various duties attaching to the church and churchyard—cleaning, lighting, heating, bell-ringing and other details. (For digging graves the clerk makes a special charge.) Canon law provides that the clerk shall be 'of honest conversation, and sufficient for his reading, writing, and also for his competent skill in singing.' In our case we require a man with a good tenor voice. We also want a change-ringer in elementary methods—a bob-caller will be acceptable—but one, like the late James Washbrook or Mat Wood, not above ringing well-struck call-changes for the benefit of the 'weaker brethren.' Naturally, such a church official must be a regular communicant.

I imagine readers making the ironical comment that the authorities of Kington Magna Church 'don't half expect something for £18 a year!' But given the qualifications, the actual hours of work amount on the average to quite a few in the week. Obviously, the man appointed needs to have an independent occupation. A shoemaker could well ply his trade here. A jobbing gardener, or any man handy with a spade, scythe and reaphook, could find a fair amount of employment. We can, as stated, provide a small allotment, and by an apt coincidence a good house and spacious garden, with apple trees and pigsty all complete, will be vacant at Michaelmas, and can be let under certain conditions at a very reasonable rent. Many applications for the house have been received, but it is being held open at present for this purpose. An early reply to the advertisement is invited. Needless to say, any applicant should be a genuine and devoted churchman.—Yours obediently,

F. LL. EDWARDS.

Kington Magna.

SHROPSHIRE'S EXTENDED ASSOCIATION

The re-establishment of the Salop Archidiaconal Guild as an association for the whole of the county of Shropshire is a welcome step for the advancement of ringing in that part of the country. For some years past little has been heard of the organisation which was supposed to unite the ringers of that area, and in Shrewsbury, particularly, which should have been the centre round which the Guild should, as it were, have revolved, there has been an obvious falling off in loyalty to the Archidiaconal scheme. It was not surprising, therefore, that the interest in the Guild should slacken in the towers further afield, but changes of influence seem now to have suggested not only a revival, but a more extended scope for the society. The whole of Shropshire is to be included in the new organisation, and it is in future to be known as a county association.

The tendency in recent years has been towards diocesan areas for ringing associations, but in this case diocesan status could only have been secured by amalgamation with the Stafford Archdeaconry Society, which is already a flourishing and active organisation, and the Stoke-on-Trent Society, making one comprehensive Guild for the Diocese of Lichfield. This, presumably, is a step which has not been contemplated by any of the societies concerned, and Shropshire is still apparently 'to paddle its own canoe,' if we may borrow the metaphor.

The attitude of the Hereford Diocesan Guild towards the reorganised area remains to be seen, for, as far as we are aware, nothing has been suggested as to the exclusion from the activities of the new association of those parishes in Salop which are situated in the diocese of Hereford. There is no reason, of course, why the two societies should not work side by side in the same area, but there is sometimes a little feeling of jealousy when an association extends its boundaries to overlap those of another society. This is one of the difficulties which will always exist while some societies define their areas on a county basis and others adhere to diocesan divisions. We are not suggesting that there is any likelihood of friction between Shropshire ringers and the ringers in the diocese of Hereford, but, in the absence of any specific reference to this question in the report that has been furnished, we hope that the matter has not been entirely lost sight of by those who have now decided upon a county association for Salop. Everyone will wish well to the new organisation. There is room in the county for much spade work, and happily there are among the members a number of enthusiasts who will doubtless see to it that under the auspices of the new association every effort will be made to foster and spread the art of change ringing.

Rung as a compliment, on the eve of his wedding, to Mr. A. F. Bailey, a much respected member of the 'tall hat' band.

A NOISY PEAL.

Elsewhere we record a peal of Double Norwich Major rung at Mildenhall, Suffolk, on Thursday, July 29th. It was originally intended also to attempt a peal at Elveden, Suffolk, but time did not permit, and a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples was therefore rung as follows: Fredk. R. Borrett 1, A. G. Harrison 2, W. C. Rumsey 3, J. Souter 4, E. E. Grimes 5, E. F. Poppy 6, C. J. More (conductor) 7, G. Howlett 8. These bells are so noisy in the ringing chamber that it is very difficult to make anything out of them or even to ring them at all. The band were just beginning to get the 'hang' of them after the quarter-peal of Stedman.

FOR THE BEGINNERS.

HINTS FOR YOUNG CONDUCTORS.

We would ask correspondents who send us paragraphs for insertion under this heading to indicate that they are intended for this column.

It is pleasing to be able to announce that the first of the helpful hints which we intend to give for young conductors is to be contributed by that well-known ringer, Mr. George Williams, Master of the Winchester Diocesan Guild, than whom no one has had more experience in helping young bands. For fifty years Mr. Williams has been doing spade work, whilst his skill as a conductor is too well known to need comment.

CONDUCTING.—BY GEORGE WILLIAMS.

Before attempting to shine as a conductor, the beginner should learn to ring and strike correctly, and be able to ring the method in hand, free from mistakes. When that stage has been reached you can then concentrate on calling.

I will deal with Bob Doubles first. Although, as an odd-bell method, Plain Bob is not now encouraged, the calling of Bob Doubles provides the A.B.C. or foundation for most of the methods to follow.

Having made yourself proficient in ringing Bob Doubles, and wishing to call, I would suggest, for a start, that the fifth bell be rung, and every time you pass the treble in 3-4, that is, when you are going to lie the four blows behind, you call a 'Bob.' With the fifth, this is really at the end of the course; and if this is done three times in all, or, put in the way that composers set out their peals, 'twice repeated,' the 120 changes are produced. It will be noticed that the work of the fifth is never disturbed by a bob. This bell keeps doing the work which comes to it in a plain course, and it is called the 'observation' bell.

DEATH OF MR. ROBERT RICHARDS.

PASSING OF ANOTHER NEWCASTLE STALWART.

The Durham and Newcastle Association and the Cathedral Guild in particular have suffered a further great loss in the passing of Mr. Robert Richards, whose death occurred on July 24th. It is fitting that 'Bob's' obituary should be told in high esteem, for his was a character of dominant influence, full of original thought and scheme. They say that most of the reforms of this world, sometimes unfortunately accompanied by revolutions, have emanated from the wits of the 'cobbler,' and our old friend was no exception to this. His reforms and suggestions, however, were all to the good of ringing, and the improvement in the working of the association of which he was most emphatically part of the backbone. Much of this was done in such a modest retiring manner that no one knew from whom the ideas came. Though Mr. Richards was well short of the ordinary span of life—he was only 56—he had done as much or more than any other man in the North of England for the Exercise, and he will live long in the memory of his ringing friends. He had very strong views on the propriety of ringing unmusical methods, and no amount of persuasion would get him to ring in a peal or even a touch of Superlative. London and Cambridge he was fond of, and rang many peals of both. He was a very safe method ringer, and in his days of good health rang the tenor-in on all the heaviest peals in this district. He had rung only 98 peals with the Northern Association, but they were all of good quality. When required he could call a touch of Stedman Caters or Cinques more intelligently than most conductors, and his first essay at calling a peal in this neighbourhood was Holt's Original.

Through a long, distressing and painful illness he was most patient and cheery, and even had a leg removed to prolong his useful life. Even this did not deter him from mounting the Cathedral stairs and ringing for service, but the disease eventually wore down his magnificent spirit, and his ringing came to an end over six months ago. He leaves a widow and many sorrowing friends, not only in these dioceses, but all over England, and they will never know his like again.

Following so quickly on the passing of dear old Alf. Hillier, the association has lost two of its finest and most intelligent supporters. Both had been members of the committee for many years, Bob on the sub-committee and a peal referee.

He was buried in St. Nicholas' Cemetery on Tuesday, July 27th, with all the honours ringers can give on these sad occasions. The Vicar of Newcastle, Canon G. E. Newson, and the president of the Durham and Newcastle Diocesan Association, Rev. A. W. Lister, Rector of St. Stephen's, South Shields, officiated at the cemetery. After the burial service Canon Newson gave a kindly appreciation of Mr. Richards' good qualities, embodying much of what has been written above, deploring the great loss the Cathedral had suffered in losing the services of two such fine helpers in Church work as Mr. Richards and Mr. Hillier.

A course of Grandsire Triples was rung on handbells over the grave by Messrs. C. L. Routledge, J. Keen, W. H. Barber and W. Story (four of his oldest friends). The bells of Newcastle Cathedral were afterwards rung half-muffled, in the manner he had requested before his death—he had seen it done in Norwich, where he had lived and rung some years before coming North. The 'whole pull and stand' was rung 56 times, to record his age, and then the bells were set one by one starting at the treble and finishing with the tenor, the 'whole pull and stand' going the whole time. A most beautiful effect and very impressive.

A peal of Stedman Caters was attempted later, which failed, but a quarter-peal in the same method was brought round afterwards to his memory. The ringers in the whole pull and stand were: C. L. Routledge 1, W. Story 2, Wm. Holmes 3, Rev. A. W. Lister 4, A. Payne 5, W. Shuckford 6, J. Foreman 7, W. Baskill 8, J. Keen 9, W. H. Barber 10, R. Thompson 11, E. E. Ferry 12.

The service was attended by ringers from all the neighbouring towers as a token of respect to departed merit. C. L. E.

After Mr. Richards' death we received a letter written by him on May 6th, and which he had requested should not be posted until after his passing, which he realised could not then be long delayed. In this letter he spoke with gratitude and heartfelt thanks of the kindness which he had received from the members of the Newcastle Cathedral Guild through his long illness, a kindness which had taken the very practical form of a weekly collection among the members. 'They will never tell you what they have done,' said Mr. Richards, 'but the magnificent spirit of comradeship which they have shown should not go unrecorded.' This letter from Mr. Richards was a deeply pathetic document, coming as it did in such a way that it conveyed the intimation of his death. In it there was no word of complaining, although the brief facts of his long illness which the letter recorded made it obvious that his later years had been full of intense suffering. It was indeed a letter written in heroic spirit and out of the gratitude of a dying man's heart in appreciation of the kindness of friends who had been friends indeed.—Ed. 'R.W.'

NOTES BY THE WAY.
THE RINGING MATCH AT FLIXTON.

BY J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

All the peals to which I referred in last week's 'Notes by the Way' were only practice for the great match which was to come off on June 24th. The preliminaries were all settled, and the remainder of the stake money paid in. The judge was Joseph Grayson, of Birmingham. Two men, Joseph Tebbs, of Leeds, and Jonathan Hague, of Manchester, were appointed to take off the lead ends as they were rung. And four 'censurers' were chosen — Thomas Ogden and John Moss representing Ashton, and John Wolstencroft and Daniel Bamford representing Oldham. The lead-takers and the competing bands alone were allowed in the belfry while the ringing was going on. They were locked in, and the key kept in the possession of the judge. This was to prevent any interference by outsiders either to help or hinder, and was probably not an unnecessary precaution when we remember that there was a lot of betting on the result, and a good many people besides the ringers, and those not altogether the most desirable of people, were interested in the success or failure of the various bands.

The duty of the lead takers was to see that the peal was rung truly without any shifts, and that every bob was duly called and made. Two censurers were locked by themselves in a convenient room near the tower, where they could hear the bells. Their duty was to judge of the quality of the ringing. Every missed dodge, every bell too wide or too close was noted, and marked down as so many 'faults.' At the end these faults were added up, and the band which had the fewest number debited to them won the prize. The judge's business was to decide any point on which the censurers disagreed. He was not otherwise called upon to express an opinion, but when he had to settle anything his decision was final. This was the ordinary procedure in prize ringing, and was in use in Devon and some parts of the North down till about forty or fifty years ago.

The best known among these officials is Joseph Tebbs. He was the composer of one of the early peals of Stedman Triples, a peal with a multitude of bobs and singles which has been rung a good many times down to recent years. Shipway referred to him as 'that ingenious composer, Mr. J. Tebbs, of Leeds,' and included two or three of his peals in the 'Art of Ringing.' One is a 5,600 of Cumberland's Exercise, an obsolete method rather difficult to compose peals in; another is a 5,040 of Treble Bob Royal; and another is a peal of Grandsire Caters, 'a curious production having in so few as 5,579 changes the sixty 8g's and the sixty 978's.' A very interesting 10,080 of Treble Bob Major is also given us by Tebbs. Tebbs may have composed it independently, but there is good reason for supposing that this was the peal the Norwich Scholars rang at Coslany in 1727.

That Tebbs was fully competent to judge of the truth of a peal is shown by the following incident. Somewhere about 1820 a band, made up of ringers from Leeds, Wakefield and the district, went for a 14,000 of Treble Bob at St. Laurence's Church, Pudsey. The peal was the composition of Hugh Wright, and was at that time the longest produced in the method. After they had been ringing about six hours a shift occurred between the third and fifth. The conductor did not notice it, but Tebbs, who was outside listening, did. He sent word up to Hewitt, of Wakefield, who was calling, and Hewitt, when he came to one of his observation places, found it was so, and stopped the bells. Tebbs rang in several peals, the most notable being a 12,320 of Treble Bob Major at Otley on August 27th, 1814, when he, with assistance, rang the tenor; and 10,080 Bob Major at Leeds on December 27th, 1790; when he rang the tenor and called the bobs. He died on February 14th, 1836, aged 68 years.

Wolstencroft was an Oldham man, and a good ringer. He seems to have been a thriftless, happy-go-lucky sort of person, who never would work as long as there was enough food in the cupboard for one meal, holding, as he said, that one meal without work was better than two meals with work. His mother was a well-known character in Oldham, and was usually called in the Lancashire dialect, 'Owd Mally.' Her son from this got the name of John O'Mally, which was further corrupted by the original recorder of this ringing match to John Amellows.

On the day before the 24th of June both bands and a great number of their supporters betook themselves to Flixton. The ringers put up at the Dog and Partridge, an inn adjoining the churchyard. The rest had to sleep where they could, and for the most part in the open air, for there was nothing like sufficient accommodation in the village. At 6 o'clock next morning the two bands turned out, and after a walk in the fields, returned to breakfast. Then the censurers tossed up to decide which was to make the first attempt. Oldham won, and just before eight o'clock they were locked in the tower. They raised the bells in peal (which would be part of the test), rang rounds for a few minutes, and at eight struck into changes for Holt's ten-part peal of Grandsire Triples. Directly after half-past ten the bells came round, amid the loud cheers of their supporters, and the judge immediately gave his verdict that they had rung a true and complete peal in 2 hours and 33 minutes. This was very fast time, almost as fast as the quickest of their practice peals. It could hardly have been expected that they would have equalled the time of the practice peals, for those were rung on their own bells, and now in the match they had other things to think of besides speed. They had to avoid 'faults,' and it would never have done to have lost the peal through trying to rush the bells too fast. The band stood as follows: James Taylor treble, Robert Coope 2, Henry Hindle 3, Joseph Newton 4, William Rigby 5, Joshua Kershaw 6, John Whitehead 7, James Gartside tenor. Conducted by Joseph Newton.

It was now the Ashton men's turn. After greasing the bells and inspecting the ropes, they raised the bells in peal, and struck into changes at eleven o'clock. There was a certain Oldham man, named Abraham Fitton, who had been a very good ringer, but who had gone blind. Like many blind men, his sense of hearing had become very keen, and, as he still kept up his interest in ringing, he had acquired the gift of accurately following ringing by hearing, and could take down course ends outside the tower. There was also the publican, John Travis, who was one of the promoters of the match, and whose interest in prize ringing was chiefly in the money he made by the betting. Travis took Fitton with him to Flixton, and engaged a quiet bedroom for him in a cottage near the church, where he could listen to the ringing and report if anything happened in the peal. Soon after the Ashton men had passed the half-way single Fitton sent word to Travis that the conductor had made a miscall.

After he was convinced that this was the case, Travis went into the churchyard and began backing the Oldham men with anyone who would take his bets. As the Ashton men were still ringing, and ringing excellently well, he had no difficulty. In due course the Ashton men finished, and, on coming out of the tower, were greeted by their supporters with a rousing cheer, which quickly changed into surprise and disappointment when the prize was awarded to Oldham.

BOYNE HILL RINGER'S DEATH.

The death took place on Friday, July 23rd, of Mr. L. W. Copey, of Boyne Hill, Maidenhead, after a long illness patiently borne. He had been suffering from diabetes for several years, but only took to his bed on the previous Sunday.

He had been a ringer at All Saints', Boyne Hill, for twenty years, and was foreman of the ringers for the last fifteen years, being always at his post till within a fortnight of his death. Ever a regular and punctual ringer, his place will be hard to fill. He was not a large peal ringer, and never kept account of what he had rung, but he estimated his total at about sixty. He was a native of Romford, where he first started ringing, and afterwards went to Leicester and then to Ealing.

He was laid to rest on Tuesday, July 27th, at All Saints' Churchyard, four of his brother ringers acting as bearers. There was a very large number of floral tokens, including one from his brother ringers in the shape of a bell, and a wreath from the Cookham bell-ringers, etc.

On Tuesday evening the following rang, with the bells half-muffled, a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples, deceased's favourite method: A. Martin 1, W. A. Garraway 2, G. Martin (conductor) 3, A. Walker 4, J. Eldridge 5, W. Walker 6, A. Walker 7, T. Goodchild 8. Afterwards the 'whole pull and stand' was rung fifty-five times to correspond with the deceased's age.

HYDE BAND'S FIRST SURPRISE MINOR.

At Hyde, Cheshire, on Tuesday, July 20th, 720 Cambridge Surprise Minor in 26 mins.: W. Shaw 1, A. Haughton 2, J. Brierley 3, J. Shaw 4, T. Wilde (conductor) 5, A. Hough 6. First 720 of Surprise Minor on the bells and by all the band.

GLOUCESTER AND BRISTOL ASSOCIATION. BRISTOL BRANCH MEETING.

A quarterly meeting of the Bristol Branch of the Gloucester and Bristol Association was held on Saturday, July 24th, at Almondsbury, where the bells were available from 2.30 p.m. The methods rung were Stedman and Grandsire Triples, Kent, Double Norwich, and Cambridge Surprise Major. The association form of service was conducted by the Rev. T. C. Fowler, of St. George's, Bristol, in the unavoidable absence of the Vicar (Rev. Canon R. G. Wood).

Tea followed on the Vicarage lawn, kindly provided by the Vicar. Halfway through the meal the rain came down in torrents, and a hasty retreat had to be made inside the Vicarage, where the large drawing-room served to accommodate the party.

The business meeting followed, presided over by the chairman (Mr. J. Gould), and 55 members were present, representing 20 towers. The chairman welcomed the visitors—Miss N. G. Williams, Messrs. F. C. Rich and W. H. Crocker (Bath), C. D. Heginbotham (Devizes), J. W. Jones (Newport, Mon), and A. H. Drew (Dorchester), the latter having cycled over 60 miles from the old Wessex town during the morning. He also welcomed their vice-president, Rev. T. C. Fowler, again among them, and hoped they would see him more often. He congratulated him on his 'ruby' wedding that week.

The following members were elected: Mrs. F. Jewell, associate member; Messrs. V. Wills (Olveston), performing member; and A. H. Drew (Dorchester), life member.

It was resolved to hold the next two monthly meetings as follows: At Marshfield on Saturday, August 28th, when a motor omnibus will run from Bristol; and Abson on Saturday, September 25th, where the peal has been renovated. Particulars will be advertised in 'The Ringing World.'

Mr. J. W. Jones said no doubt they had read the sad news in 'The Ringing World' of the death through an accident of one of their life members—Mr. Isaac G. Shade. He knew him personally, having rung several peals with him, and he asked the meeting to stand in respectful silence to his memory.

The chairman moved votes of thanks to the Rev. T. C. Fowler for coming to take the service, the organist (who came from Olveston), the organ blower, and, last but not least, to their kind host, Canon Wood. Although the last-named was not present, his son, Mr. H. S. Wood (who is a very keen ringer) was with them, and he was asked to convey their thanks to his father on his return. Mr. Wood promised to do so, and said his father would always give them a hearty welcome.—Thanks were accorded to the ladies for waiting at table.

The bells were kept going until 9 p.m.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

We understand that the Peal Books of that old London Society, now defunct, 'The Trinity Youths,' cannot be traced, and a gentleman interested in their preservation for the purpose of placing them in the British Museum, is prepared to give a reward of £10 for their recovery for this purpose.

The bells of St. Mary's, Chorley, are now at the Loughborough Foundry, Messrs. Taylor and Co. having in hand the contract to rehang the peal in all new fittings, including iron headstocks and ball-bearings. When they are re-installed they will be on a lower level in the tower.

After ringing a peal at East Tytherleigh, Hants, on Monday, the band called at Lockerley, where, by kind permission of the Vicar, touches of Bob Major and Cambridge Surprise were rung on the fine peal of six. Touches of Stedman Triples were rung on handbells outside on the green, much to the pleasure of the Vicar and his friends.

Incidentally, it may be mentioned that three peals have been rung in one day (on December 26th, 1900) at East Tytherleigh, and on another occasion three Surprise peals—nearly. Cambridge and Superlative had been safely accomplished, but someone put 'paid' to London when it was well on the way.

It was on the return journey to Romsey, by wagonette, in the dark of the night, that the writer heard the late Mr. I. G. Shade sing a song for the first and only time.

Trowell Church tower is, subject to the approval of the Bishop of Southwell, to have erected in it the clock from the Nottingham Exchange. It was at Trowell that two well-known members of the Exercise learnt the rudiments of change ringing, and the village has given its name to one of the methods in the Minor Collection.

It is hoped that, with the gift of the clock, the parishioners will make an effort to get the ring of six recast, for, we are informed, they are a peculiar peal for a clock to strike on. There is now a band at this church ringing Grandsire Doubles under the instruction of Mr. E. C. Gohy.

Thurstans' masterpiece—his four-part of Stedman Triples—was called for the first time on August 8th, 1842. It is, of course, impossible to say definitely, but it is probably a fact that this composition has been called more often than any other, not even excepting Holt's ten-part of Grandsire.

Exactly 150 years ago next Thursday a peal of 6,012 Grandsire Caters was rung at Leicester.

The Union Scholars rang their first peal on August 12th, 1749. This was a 5,040 Bob Triples, rung at St. Martin's-in-the-Fields, London, composed and conducted by Henry Hubbard.

The peal of Stedman Triples rung at Hugglescote on July 10th should be credited to the Midland Counties Association.

The Somerset tour, which begins at Wrington on Saturday, includes visits for peal attempts to the following churches, as at present arranged: Sunday, Clevedon; Monday, Weston-super-Mare and Winccombe; Tuesday, Congresbury and Wraxall; Wednesday, Chewton Mendip and Shepton Mallet; Thursday, Ditcheat and Evercreech; Friday, Mells and Mere; Saturday, Yeovil and East Coker.

HEAVY METAL.

THE BELLS IN SOMERSET TOWERS.

In looking through the recently issued report of the Bath and Wells Diocesan Association, one thing in particular which impressed itself on my mind was the weight of metal in the peals.

Every branch has not recorded the weight of their tenor bell, so that a complete average cannot be arrived at, but from those which are given some interesting figures can be ascertained.

In the area covered by the association there is one peal of twelve with a 30 cwt. tenor.

Coming to ten-bell peals, there are five affiliated to the association with tenors varying in weight from 20 cwt. to over 57 cwt., and giving the high average of 38 cwt. tenors—truly a good weight.

The weight of forty-six peals of eight which are recorded give an average tenor weight of over 21 cwt. per peal. The lightest of these has a tenor 9 cwt. 3 qrs. 11 lbs., while the heaviest has a 35 cwt. tenor. Again an uncommonly high average.

Next we have the weights of sixty-eight peals of six, the lightest being 8½ cwt. and the heaviest 29 cwt. 2 qrs. 21 lbs., giving the remarkable average of 15 cwt. 1 qr. 19 lbs. But even the Queen Camel tenor of 36 cwt. 3 qrs. 7 lbs. is not included in this return.

Peals of five also hold their own, for of the eleven given, varying between 18½ cwt. and 8½ cwt., the average is 12½ cwt.

One can thus see that the county of Somerset offers exceptional facilities for heavy bell work from Minor to Royal, and give to men of muscle every opportunity to test their strength and endurance.

THE LATE MR. SHADE'S 1,450 PEALS.

HOW HIS WONDERFUL RECORD WAS BUILT UP.

Such a peal record as that of the late Mr. I. G. Shade is so remarkable that our readers will, we are sure, be interested to hear something more about it than the brief information which is conveyed in the tabulated totals of his performances. It forms a striking example of the enthusiasm which a man may develop in the art of ringing, for Mr. Shade, during the fifty years that he occupied in compiling his total of 1,450 peals, must have travelled thousands upon thousands of miles. He had rung peals in nearly every English county, and in Scotland, Ireland and Wales, and on all numbers of bells from six to twelve. With the one exception of the record made by Mr. William Pye, his is an unparalleled performance.

Mr. Shade's first peal was Grandsire Triples, rung at St. Alphege's Church, Greenwich, on April 30th, 1875, when the late Mr. James Pettit called Holt's Original. During the few succeeding years peals were few and far between, and there being no regular paper for ringers at that period, the details of Mr. Shade's performances at that time have been lost. His first eight peals, however, were all Grandsire Triples, his first as conductor being the sixth that he had rung. In this performance he gave conspicuous evidence of his ability, for, although he had never previously called a peal, he conducted Holt's Original as his first essay in this capacity at SS. Peter and Paul's Church, Bromley. His ninth peal was a peal of Grandsire Caters at St. Alphege's, conducted by William Baron. Mr. Shade's first excursion into Sussex, where he was afterwards to ring many peals, was on July 23rd, 1881, when he called the Original at the little town of Hurstpierpoint. This was his tenth peal, and thereafter there is a complete record of all his performances, in the keeping of which his friend, Mr. John J. Lamb, has been the diligent recorder.

Strangely enough, after the peal at Hurstpierpoint, Mr. Shade brought further of note until the year 1884, when, on March 1st, he rang his first peal of Stedman Triples, which was conducted by William Coater at St. Matthew's Church, Bethnal Green. His next peal was his first of Kent Treble Bob Major, which he called at Mottram, in Cheshire, for the Manchester Cathedral Society. Thereafter, for three of four years he called most of the peals he rang, including Grandsire, Stedman and Treble Bob, and he also took part in a memorable performance at St. Giles-in-the-Fields with the College Youths, when a picked band rang, for the first time, Holt's Original non-conducted. It was looked upon at that time as one of the finest things that had ever been done in change ringing. This was on October 23rd, 1884, and evidently Mr. Shade had made careful preparation for the performance, for two days before he had conducted the same composition at St. Mary-atte-Bow. Many of his peals round about this period were rung with the College Youths, and one with the St. James's Society, for these were the days when the territorial associations were in their infancy, in fact many of them had not then seen the light. In 1885 he visited Manchester again, and rang a peal of Treble Ten, conducted by John Thorp, for the United Counties Association, a society long since defunct. Among the famous conductors of that day under whom he rang were Pettit, Coater, Mat. Wood and Murray Hayes, and from that time onward one can find the names of practically all the famous ringers in his peal book.

On his visits to Manchester and district in the years 1884, 1885 and 1886 he rang peals of Kent Treble Bob Major and his first two peals of Kent Treble Bob Royal. His first 'long' peal was a 6,240 Kent Treble Bob Major, which he conducted at Bethnal Green on May 7th, 1887. His first peal of Stedman Caters was rung under the auspices of St. Martin's Society, Birmingham, at Aston in 1888, and with the same society at the famous Bull Ring Church he rang his first peal of Stedman Cinques in the following year, both these being conducted by his old friend, Harry Bastable. On April 9th, 1892, at Bethnal Green, he called a 7,040 of Kent Treble Bob.

HIS FIRST SURPRISE PEALS.

His first peal of Double Norwich was rung at Cuckfield in Sussex on May 26th, 1894, conducted by Mr. George Williams, and of Superlative at Crawley, Sussex, on August 25th of the same year conducted by Mr. James Parker. In September he took part in a Winchester Guild tour in Hants, and attempts from the 15th to the 19th resulted in the ringing of three peals of Double Norwich, one of Stedman Triples and two of Superlative. In the following months came a succession of peals of Superlative in Sussex, and further visits to that county and Hampshire in the next year resulted in a considerable addition to his list of peals of Stedman and Superlative. Most of his other peals at this time were rung with the Kent Association.

Mr. Shade's first peal of London Surprise was at Crawley on May 10th, 1896, and of Cambridge Surprise Major on October 3rd, 1898, on the Winchester Guild tour (then an annual event), when, between the Saturday and Wednesday, three peals of Cambridge, two of Superlative and one of Stedman were rung. Meantime, on August 2nd, 1897, Mr. Shade rang in the one day a 6,336 Kent Treble Bob Major at Woolwich, and a 6,000 Bob Major at Erith, the latter being his first in this method! At Erith, too, on December 26th, 1898, he took part in a 10,464 Kent Treble Bob, conducted by Mr. William Pye, and at the same tower, on April 3rd, 1899, he was one of the band that rang the 15,072, the then record length, of Double Norwich, which was also conducted by Mr. W. Pye, the time being 9 hrs. 24 mins.

Peals came now in increasing numbers. His first hundred had taken over twenty years to accumulate, but his 200th peal, which he scored on January 20th, 1900, was reached but little over four years later. On March 24th, 1900, he rang his first peal of Maximus. In the same year, between October 6th and 17th, he rang no fewer than eleven peals, six of them on a Norwich Guild tour, beginning with his first peal of Grandsire Cinques, at Ipswich, and including Kent Treble Bob Maximus at St. Peter Mancroft, Norwich, and the remaining five with the Winchester Guild, including three in a day at East Tytherleigh. Peals followed thick and fast in succeeding years, mainly of Stedman and the Surprise methods on eight bells; Stedman Caters and Cinques, and Kent Treble Bob Royal and Maximus on the higher numbers. The counties around London, as well as the towers of the metropolis itself, were his happy hunting ground, and the majority of the peals were called by Mr. William Pye, with whom, as we mentioned last week, Mr. Shade rang altogether 875 peals.

VISITS TO IRELAND, WALES AND SCOTLAND.

There were week-end excursions to more distant places, and in 1901 came the first tour in Ireland, when the first Surprise peal out of England was rung, and, on the way home, the first Surprise peal in Wales, in both of which, as in the other tower bell peals rung on that trip, Mr. Shade participated. His first peal of Surprise Royal was conducted by Mr. William Pye at St. Magnus', London Bridge. This was New Cambridge.

He took part in a tour in Scotland and the North of England in 1902, when peals of Stedman Caters were rung in Edinburgh and Newcastle on the same day. But of the many tours in which Mr. Shade took part none was more successful than that in September, 1905, when he stood in twelve peals in a week, and of these it is worth giving some details: Saturday, September 12th, Stedman Caters at Christ Church, Bristol; Monday, the 14th, Stedman Caters at St. Sidwell's, Exeter, followed by that great performance of Stedman Caters at the Cathedral, when Mr. William Pye rang the 72 cwt. tenor single handed, a feat never equalled before or since; Tuesday, September 15th, Stedman Caters at Taunton and Superlative Surprise Major at Bridgwater; Wednesday, September 16th, New Cambridge Surprise Major at Martock and Stedman Triples at Glastonbury; Thursday, September 17th, Stedman Triples at Long Ashton, and Kent Treble Bob Royal at St. Nicholas', Bristol; Friday, September 18th, Stedman Cinques at Cirencester, and Stedman Caters at Cheltenham; and Saturday, September 19th, Stedman Cinques at Painswick. That is, we imagine, one of the most prodigious week's ringing that has ever been undertaken and brought to a successful conclusion, although in the following year another trip to Ireland produced no fewer than eleven peals. At Whitsun, 1905, there was another special trip to Ireland, the principal object of which was a peal at Waterford Cathedral, and this was duly brought off, a peal of London Surprise Major being rung. In the meantime the 500 peal mark had been passed, for at this time Mr. Shade was averaging round about 60 peals a year. All sorts of methods in all sorts of places added steadily to the total, the most noteworthy points which can be gathered from his peal book being the various tours in which he took part. For instance, the same year that he went to Waterford, he shared in a tour in Lancashire and Derbyshire; in 1906, in which year he rang his first peal of Bristol Surprise, there was a week's excursion in Cheshire; in 1907 it was again Cheshire, with an incursion into Wales; in 1908 it was Derbyshire and Notts.

RECORD PEALS.

The year 1909 is ever memorable for the great performance at Loughborough. In that peal of 18,027 Stedman Caters, which occupied 12 hrs. and 1P mins., Mr. Shade rang the 2nd, and he is the second member of the band to cross the bourn—Bertram Prewett was killed in action in 1918. There was another visit to Ireland for two or three days in 1909, and in 1910 the tour was in Norfolk. South Wales was the attraction in 1911, when twelve peals were rung, in nine of which Mr. Shade took part. That same year he joined in a little excursion to Sussex, when, within the space of 48 hours, there were rung the first peal of Cambridge Royal in the county and peals of London and Bristol Surprise Major and Stedman Caters.

The outstanding performance of 1912 was the 15,264 Bristol Surprise at Hornchurch, Essex, rung in 9 hrs. 49 mins. on Whitsun Monday, and later in the year Mr. Shade joined a tour in Wessex, which included peals at Wroughton, Sherborne and Yeovil. He reached his 1,000th peal on April 26th, 1913, when he rang Bristol Surprise at St. James's, Clerkenwell. A month before that he had rung his first peal of Cambridge Surprise Maximus. The tour in that year was in Devon and Cornwall, and incidentally a trip to Cambridge, which resulted in peals of Cambridge Maximus and Stedman Cinques being rung in one day.

January, 1914, produced for him four peals of Stedman Cinques on four consecutive Saturdays, and on Easter Monday he shared in the ringing of four Surprise peals in one day, the only time that this has been done. We said last week that these peals were rung in four different counties. That was an error, as two of them were ring in Surrey, but they were in four different methods. The peals were: Bristol at Egham; London at Chertsey (both in Surrey); Cambridge at Staines (Middlesex); and Superlative at Old Windsor (Berks). A trip to the Midlands came in the first days of August, and then the war put an end to peal ringing for the time being. From August 8th, 1914, to November 9th, 1918, Mr. Shade rang only four peals, and these muffled for various special reasons. But peace brought a resumption of activities, although some of the names that had figured in Mr. Shade's earlier records were no longer there, and no one felt their absence more than Mr. Shade. Among those who were missed there was none whose loss was more keenly felt than Bertram Prewett, with whom Mr. Shade had rung some hundreds of peals.

In 1919 touring was resumed, and Cheshire was visited once more. There was an Essex tour in 1920, and one in Beds and Bucks in 1922, followed, in 1923, with a tour in Sussex and an increasing number of peals in a great variety of methods in Kent. The year 1924 was Mr. Shade's record year for peals. He had rung 83 in the year 1902, but in 1924 he exceeded this total by one. Having by this time retired on pension, he was able to devote even more attention to ringing, and he joined in tours in Norfolk in June, in Norfolk and Suffolk in August, and in the twelve-bell week in September, when peals of Cinques were rung at Leicester, Birmingham, West Bromwich, Painswick and Cirencester. Last year he had one trip to Durham and Newcastle, and another to Lancashire, Westmoreland and Cumberland. Indeed, there were very few counties in England, besides the considerable number in Wales and Ireland, in which Mr. Shade had not rung a peal.

SEVENTY-EIGHT 'DOUBLES.'

There is not space to go into other individual performances in which Mr. Shade shared, though many of them were interesting, for there were first peals in methods in various counties and in some of the spliced ringing which he had done with Mr. Edwin Barnett's band, the first of their kind ever rung. It is worthy of note, however, that during his long career Mr. Shade had on no fewer than 78 occasions rung two peals in a day: three times he had rung three in a day, and once four in a day. Six times he had rung over 40 peals in a year, three times over 50, four times over 60, three times over 70, and twice over 80. He had rung twelve-bell peals in 23 different towers, but in how many towers in all he had rung peals we are at the moment unable to say. The total number of peals which Mr. Shade rang was 1,450, and he had conducted 54, the majority of them before the end of the year 1897.

A review of Mr. Shade's long ringing career is necessarily taken up almost entirely with his peal ringing activities, because it is only of these that there is any permanent record. But Mr. Shade did much more than this. He was ever ready to assist beginners, he took his full share of service ringing, and, when at home, was always in his place at his own church. The fact that he had gone to the city for a practice on the night he met his death is testimony to his general keenness, and probably few men have ever done more than he has to put their ability at the service of others.

MISS SHADE'S ACKNOWLEDGMENTS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I am desired by Miss Shade to express her most sincere thanks to the numerous change-ringing friends of her beloved brother for their valued letters of sympathy, as well as the personal tribute paid by those attending the funeral at Charlton Cemetery. Such kindly thoughts for Miss Shade in her hour of trial have brought her much comfort, and will not soon be forgotten.—Yours faithfully,

FRED W. THORNTON.

Greenwich.

At several association meetings tributes have been paid to the late Mr. Shade, and muffled peals were rung at Gravesend and Earl's Colne, as recorded in their proper place.

At St. Alfege's Church, Greenwich, on Saturday, July 31st, Thurstan's quarter-peal of Stedman Triples (1,260 changes) was rung with bells half-muffled, as a tribute of respect to the memory of Isaac G. Shade, who was for upwards of fifty years a ringer at this church. A peal attempt in the same method failed through the bad 'go' of the 4th bell. E. E. Richards 1, H. Hoskins 2, J. J. Lamb 3, G. H. Daynes 4, A. C. Mason 5, W. Berry 6, F. W. Thornton (conductor) 7, E. Alex. Young 8.

THE WARWICKSHIRE GUILD.

The 53rd quarterly meeting of the Warwickshire Guild was held at Monk's Kirby on Saturday, July 17th. There was a good attendance, and the fine peal of eight bells were set going soon after 3 p.m. Tea was served on the lawn at the Denbigh Arms, and 36 sat down.

At the invitation of the Vicar, the meeting was held on the Vicarage lawn. In the absence of the president, the Rev. R. L. B. Oliver took the chair. Nuneaton was selected for the October meeting, and Shilton and Whitnash for August and September.

The bells were kept going until 8 p.m., the ringing including Grand-sire and Stedman, Plain Bob, Double Norwich, Superlative, Cambridge, Bristol and London Surprise Major.

SHROPSHIRE ASSOCIATION FORMED.

ARCHIDIACONAL GUILD UNDER NEW TITLE.

A meeting to re-form the old Salop Archidiaconal Guild into an association for the county of Shropshire was held at Shrewsbury on Saturday, July 24th, and was largely attended, ringers being present from many Shropshire towers, together with visitors from Birmingham, Crewe, etc.

The business meeting took place in St. Chad's vestry, the Ven. Archdeacon Lambart presiding. The Rev. F. Tennison (secretary to the old Salop Guild), Preb. C. B. Crowe (Coalbrookdale), Revs. E. C. Pigott (Moreton Corbet), H. S. T. Richardson (Hopesay) and F. E. Overton (St. Chad's, Shrewsbury), were among those present.

The chairman said that they wanted to get the Guild, which practically lapsed for a short period, going again on a sound basis. With that object they had invited all who were interested in church bell-ringing to that meeting.

The old rules, with some suggested amendments, were considered, and the meeting decided to change the title of the Guild, which would be known in future as the Shropshire Association of Church Bell-ringers.

On the motion of Mr. W. Saunders, Coalbrookdale, the meeting invited Major Trevor Corbett to serve as Ringing Master, and, in accepting office, Major Corbett impressed on bell-ringers that they were church workers; that bell-ringing was not the end of their work for the church.

Rev. F. Tennison consented to continue to act as secretary, and Mr. E. Rodenhurst was elected to join him in the office.

Mr. W. Short, Shrewsbury, was appointed instructor.

A vote of sympathy was passed with the relatives of the Rev. J. Mackay, who, the chairman remarked, did a good deal for the old Guild.

The Archdeacon, replying to a vote of thanks, said that by the law of the land the parson had control over the tower of the church, and in most parts of the country he was in sympathy with the bell-ringers; but occasion might arise when it was not expedient to ring the bells.

Touchees of Grand-sire and Stedman Caters were rung on St. Mary's bells before the meeting, and Grand-sire and Stedman Caters and Cinques and Treble Bob Royal at St. Chad's during the evening.

ANOTHER ESSEX EIGHT.

DEDICATION OF TWO TREBLES AT KIRBY-LE-SOKEN.

On Sunday week, the two new treble bells at Kirby-le-Soken, Essex, were dedicated at matins by the Lord Bishop of Chelmsford, in the presence of a large congregation. Ringers attended from Assington, Ardleigh, Braintree, Great Bentley, Great Bromley, Colchester, Clacton-on-Sea, Great Cornard, Edmonton, Earls Colne, Feering, Greenstead Green, Mistley, Romford, Swindon, Sudbury, Thorington, Thorpe-le-Soken, Tondering and Weeley, about forty in all, including Mr. C. H. Howard (Master of the Essex Association), Mr. W. J. Nevard (district Master), Mr. R. W. Stanward (district secretary N.E. Division), Mr. W. J. Butler (district secretary S.W. Division), Mr. F. Claydon (district Master N. Division), Messrs. D. Elliot, W. Duffield, F. Sheppard, and many other well-known ringers. During the service a few rounds were rung, and immediately after service 304 Double Norwich Court Bob Major: P. Almond 1, W. J. Nevard 2, F. Claydon 3, W. Keeble 4, C. H. Howard (conductor) 5, D. Elliot 6, W. J. Hazell 7, A. Saunders 8. During the afternoon and evening touchees were brought round in all the standard methods.

The work was carried out by Mr. A. Bowell, of Ipswich, who also supplied the treble to the old ring of five and erected the steel frame a few years ago. The completed octave is a very musical ring, and the 'go' is excellent.

The arrangements for ringing were admirably carried out by the evergreen veteran, Mr. W. J. Nevard.

LLANDAFF AN MONMOUTH ASSOCIATION

A well-attended quarterly meeting was held at Blaenavon on Saturday, July 31st. The bells, a light ring of six by Rudhall, were raised early in the afternoon and kept busy until 4.30, when the Vicar (the Rev. D. Ivor Jones) officiated at the service. The address given was on the history of bells, their customs and uses, and was most interesting. The church looked very beautiful, the whole of the interior, including the chancel, having just been painted and decorated by volunteer workers of the parish.

Tea followed the service, and had been very generously provided by the ladies of the parish.

At the business meeting, over which the Vicar presided, reference was made to the death of Mr. Isaac G. Shade, of Greenwich, under such tragic circumstances, and the usual mark of respect was shown by all standing in silence. Mr. Shade was a life member of the association.

The representatives to the Central Council meeting gave their report, for which they were thanked.

It was decided to hold the next quarterly meeting at Caldicot.

Several new members were elected, including the Vicar as an honorary member.

The weather was delightfully fine, the exceedingly hearty welcome given was much appreciated, and the visit greatly enjoyed.

THE DURHAM AND NEWCASTLE ASSOCIATION.

The summer meeting was held at Staindrop on Saturday, July 24th. After a thunder-storm, with rain coming down in torrents at intervals in the morning and early afternoon, the sun came out about four o'clock to cheer the soaked motorists. The view of the very fine old castle of Raby, with the deer scattered about the extensive well wooded park surrounding the old pile, was well worth the journey. A few hundred yards beyond the castle is the fine old church of Staindrop. The tower here, up to the end of 1923, had contained a 'tubby' ring of six bells. These have given place to a very fine ring of eight (tenor 13½ cwt.) by Messrs. Taylor and Co. The 'go' and tone give pleasure to all who ring or hear them. Staindrop is so far away from everywhere that it was newly four o'clock before a full band of eight men had arrived. From that time onward the bells were kept going in various methods, thirty-three ringers taking part, representing the following towers: Newcastle Cathedral, St. John's and St. George's, Holy Trinity and St. John's, Darlington, Tanfield, Gosforth, and the local ringers. Five o'clock found thirty ringers and friends seated round the well-laden tables at the Central Cafe. The Bishop of Tanfield asked the blessing before tea. Although his lordship is not the oldest member as regards length of membership, he is looked upon as the 'father' of the Guild, for he has only two or three milestones to pass to complete his four score years.

This was not a business meeting, but Mr. Story, on behalf of those present, proposed a vote of thanks to the Vicar (the Rev. H. S. C. Spervies) for the use of the bells, and also a vote of condolence with Mrs. A. F. Billier and family upon the death of her husband, who will be greatly missed by all members of the association. He was most regular in his attendance at the meetings, and a good ringer in all standard methods.

The Tanfield contingent arrived in good style in a private motor with 'Harry the Great' in charge, and the Bishop bringing up the rear just in time for tea.

Afterwards, some had a pleasing stroll about the very pretty countryside, and some returned to the tower for more ringing. The shades of night brought a most enjoyable afternoon and evening to a close.

A NORFOLK RING RESTORED.

VILLAGERS DELIGHT IN HEARING THEIR OLD BELLS AGAIN.

The bells of the village of Neeton, in mid-Norfolk, a soft-toned peal of six, with the tenor 14 cwt., which have been silent in the tower for over fourteen years, have just been overhauled and rehung, fitted with new steel headstocks, the old wood frame has been strengthened with angle and fitch plates, and new ropes have been supplied. The work has been done by Mr. A. Bowell, bellhanger, of Ipswich. On Monday evening of last week a company of ringers visited the tower to have a trial ring, but long before their arrival the tower was packed with village folk anxious to watch the proceedings and get a knowledge of the art. They showed keen interest in watching such a mechanical wonder as the new sallies going up and down, followed by the mellow tones of the bells blending from the campanile. Ringers from Fakenham and other parishes joined in touches of Oxford Minor and Grand-sire Doubles, followed by a 720 of Bob Minor: H. Cooke 1, A. W. Baldwin 2, Bertie Simpson 3, C. S. Tutill 4, G. Cooke 5, Robt. Cooke (conductor) 6. The occasion formed quite a pleasing and interesting evening, and a little encouragement in this way should help show unenlightened brother ringers the proper way to ring. Neeton is near Swaffham, with its grand peal of eight, and forms one of a group of six-bell towers with the bells all in good order and available for ringing.

STONHAM ASPAL BELLS.

VISIT OF SUFFOLK GUILD MAY LEAD TO RESTORATION.

A quarterly meeting of the Suffolk Guild was held at Stonham Aspal on Saturday, July 31st, and was attended by about twenty members, representing the towers of Debenham, Earl Soham, Wetheringsett, Framsen, Helmingham, Otley, Ufford, Bury, Ipswich and Lavenham. Two visitors were present in the persons of Mr. J. H. Shepherd, of Swindon, and Mr. T. Fitzjohn, of Scartho, Grimsby.

The fine ring of ten at the Parish Church were kept going to the tune of Kent Royal, Grandsire and Stedman Caters, also Bob Royal, London and Cambridge Surprise Major, and Stedman Triples, with two courses of Bob Major to help on some of the local band. Tea was served at the Ten Bells Inn, and was followed by a short business meeting, at which the Rector presided, supported by the Guild secretary (Rev. H. Drake).

It was decided to hold the next meeting at Southwold at the end of the month, if this can be arranged.

The Rector (Rev. —, Wonacott) was elected an honorary member of the Guild, and several belfry elections were confirmed.

Some of the bells at Stonham Aspal go rather badly, and as a result of the meeting the Rector became so much interested that he decided to have them inspected by a bell-hanger, and it is to be hoped that they will eventually be put into good order.

THORNHAM MAGNA, SUFFOLK.—On Saturday, July 17th, 720 Double Court Minor: E. Youngs 1, E. F. Poppy 2, H. Moss 3, A. J. Herry 4, B. Blaxall 5, G. Cattermole (conductor) 6. The first 720 Double Court by Poppy, Moss and Blaxall.—On Saturday, July 24th, 720 of Double Oxford Minor: C. Nunn 1, E. Youngs 2, H. Moss 3, G. Kemp 4, E. F. Poppy 5, G. Cattermole (conductor) 6. First 720 of Double Oxford by E. F. Poppy and H. Moss.

RINGING IN BOSTON, U.S.A.
A WEEK-END AMONG THE BELLS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—May I claim a small space in your paper as to our doings out West for the week-end of July 10th, when we had a busy time and a happy meeting of friends from a wide area. Although this is a large country, we can make arrangements to meet here and help to satisfy their hunger for a pull. So we had with us Mr. J. Oldham (from Messrs. Taylor and Co., Loughborough, England), who was over on a business trip—perhaps he will say later what he thinks to this country—Mr. Weatherby, from Montreal, who wanted again to feel what a bell rope was like, and had travelled 500 miles to do it; Mr. E. Randall from New York, 250 miles from here, and he had not handled a rope for eight years. Mr. Warren Sturgis, of Groton School, who was away on his vacation, travelled 140 miles to join us; and Mrs. A. A. Shurtleff (president of the Boston Guild) came a distance of 50 miles to be with us. Our secretary, Mr. Richard Newton, had made all arrangements for our meeting and ringing at different towers, and first we made our way to Hingham on Saturday afternoon. This place is 18 miles out of Boston, and some went by cars and others by train. We did our best to satisfy our wants of Kent Treble Bob and Grandsire Triples on a peal of 10 bells installed in a brick tower, in memory of the Stowell family and dedicated November 25th, 1912. But the bells might have been put up better for ringing, as the 6th rope hangs nearly in the centre of the floor.

After the meeting we returned to Boston, and next morning took another car ride to Groton Schools, 40 miles away. These bells, however, do not go any too well in a weak frame, and we were not very sorry when we were asked to stop ringing through sickness near the church. These bells could do very well with the attention of a bell-hanger to put them in a good, strong frame. After lunch, partaken of by some on the lawn, and by others by the wayside, we went on to Perkins' Institute for the Blind, at Watertown, where we had a good afternoon's ringing on a good peal by Mears and Stainbank. The bells hang in a fine tower, close to the Charles River. Later, we journeyed on into Boston to ring for service at the Church of the Advent on another good peal, where some good Grandsire Triples were brought round and our day to a close, after ringing in three towers and travelling nearly 100 miles to do it. Then came the farewells, and we had to make towards our homes in different parts of the country with pleasant memories of the time we had had together, and hoping to meet again.

Although we do not get regular Sunday ringing here, we can, through our worthy secretary, get together when we have visitors coming to this part of the world, and make them feel as if they are still in the 'Old Country' by having a pull. If at any time there is anyone who is thinking of making a trip, the secretary will be pleased to give them as much information as possible.

Those who took part in the ringing were: Mrs. A. A. Shurtleff, Mr. J. Oldham (England), Mr. Weatherby (Montreal), Mr. E. Randall (New York), Mr. Richard Newton (Boston), Mr. G. Goodhead (Boston), Mr. W. Bashford (Boston), Mr. J. Laker (Boston), Mr. Tony Price (lately returned from England), Mr. G. R. Henson (Everett), and Mr. W. S. Sturgis (Groton School).—Yours truly,

G. R. HENSON.

DOUBLE NORWICH COURT BOB MAJOR.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I have to point out that the length of my peal of Double Norwich (four-part) appearing in your issue of April 18th, 1924, is 5,312 and not 5,120 as stated. This composition has only been rung to my knowledge on one occasion, at Holy Trinity, Loddon, on March 29th, 1924, for the Norfolk Guild, Guild Collection No. 66.

I regret the error, and append a peal of 5,120, containing the same qualities as the 5,312 but with 8 singles less.—Yours truly,

GEORGE H. CROSS.

RINGERS' OUTINGS. BRISTOL GUILD'S TWO TRIPS.

Early in the year St. Stephen's Guild decided, as an experiment, that two half-day trips should take the place of the customary Bank Holiday outing, and on Saturday, June 5th, the first of these excursions took place. The members with a few friends, including the Rector and Mrs. Thomas, made a trip by charabanc. Stourton, a lovely, old-time village just over the border of Wiltshire, was the first place of call, a special permit having been granted to Mr. Cave for the party to view the mansion (the seat of Sir Henry Hoare). This fine old house is full of the most rare and wonderful art treasures imaginable, and was quite worth the time given to the visit. Tea was taken at the Spread Eagle, and was followed by some of the party taking a stroll through the charming grounds of Stourton House, while others made use of the peal of six at the church, and a band of handbell ringers was made up for a fete which was being held at the Rectory. The next move was to Bruton, where the visitors were welcomed by an old Guild member, Mr. Geo. Naylor, and the ringing of Stedman Doubles took place on the six bells at the Parish Church. The stay here was short. At Shepton Mallet the party met yet another old member of the Guild in Mr. Charles Millard, and here touches of Stedman Triples and Cambridge Major were rung, after which the homeward journey was begun, Bristol being reached at 10.30, after a most enjoyable afternoon.

The second of the outings took place on Saturday, July 10th, when again the glorious county of Somerset was selected. Wells was the first place of call. Permission had been obtained to ring for half an hour only on the unsurpassable peal of ten at the Cathedral (this was extended to three-quarters of an hour by the lenient steeplekeeper). Two touches of Stedman Caters were rung and enjoyed by the ringers. The next stop was at Glastonbury, and the party were met by Mr. Trim, the steeplekeeper of the Parish Church. Touches of Stedman Triples and London Major were rung, and after a substantial tea a move was made for Burnham-on-Sea, where Mr. G. Chamberlain had the bells up and waiting for the party. While the non-ringing members were enjoying the breezes on the sea-front, the remainder were indulging in Stedman Triples, Double Norwich and Cambridge Major, three of the local ringers taking part. Bristol was reached shortly after eleven o'clock, the Guild being perfectly satisfied with their selection of the two half-day holidays, which proved so delightful in every way. The ringers wish to thank the clergy for the use of their bells and the various steeplekeepers for their kindness in having everything ready.

A TOUR IN ESSEX.

The Stowmarket company had their annual outing on Saturday, July 17th. A party of fourteen started from the headquarters, The Post, at 7.30 a.m., by charabanc, and the first stop was made at Sudbury, where at St. Gregory's Church bells were placed at the disposal of the company. Here a few touches were rung before the party went on to Halsted, eight miles away. Here they found the bells running well. Two of the local company took part in a touch with the visitors, but the stay had to be very short. Dinner at Earls Colne, where Mr. Clayton had arranged a splendid meal, which was well served and much enjoyed, after about 35 miles' drive, was the next important item. Here Mr. Tarrant proposed a hearty vote of thanks to Mr. Clayton, also the host and hostess, for the kindness shown in arranging and catering for the party. After this a move was made to the church, where several touches were rung on the very musical peal, and much enjoyed. The next run was to Great Tey, where there is another good peal of eight in quite the old style of belfry. Some of the small bells do not sound very well when being raised, but in peal the ring was very passable. The last and best tower of the day was Colchester. Here the party were met by Mr. Nevard, Mr. Bumpsted and Mr. Duffield. A welcome tea, arranged by Mr. Nevard, was ready at Day's Restaurant, and after this had been enjoyed a move was made to the tower, where the best ringing of the tour took place. The bells are of very fine tone and go well. Mr. Nevard took a rope in a touch of Double Norwich, Mr. Duffield called a musical touch of Stedman, and Mr. Bumpsted stood in a touch of Oxford, this concluding the ringing for the day. After looking round the town, a move was made for home, which was reached at 11 p.m. The company wish to thank the various incumbents and steeplekeepers, also Mr. J. Nevard, Mr. Clayton and their guide, Mr. Tarrant. The following methods were rung during the day: Bob Major, Grandsire, Oxford Treble Bob, Stedman, Double Norwich, etc.

ST. PETER'S, CARMARTHEN.

On Thursday, July 22nd, ringers of St. Peter's Church, Carmarthen, had their first annual outing. The party left Carmarthen by motorbus at 8.30 a.m., and Haverfordwest was reached about two hours later. After a stroll through the town, dinner was served, and ringing took place afterwards, the Vicar welcoming the visitors in the belfry. After a very enjoyable time, the party proceeded to Tenby, where tea was arranged, and afterwards the tower was visited, where another happy hour was spent. Mr. Claude I. Davies, of Liverpool, who was on a visit to Carmarthen, accompanied the party. The homeward trip was begun at 9 p.m., and Carmarthen was reached at 10.30 p.m., after a very enjoyable day. The St. Peter's ringers desire to thank Mr. Rogers, of Haverfordwest, and Mr. Jenkins, of Tenby, for so ably arranging the ringing in their respective towers.

PUTNEY RINGERS IN WILTSHIRE.

The ringers of St. Mary's, Putney, had their annual outing on July 17th and 18th, and the venue chosen was the Trowbridge and Westbury district of Wilts. The secretary had the party out at 6.15 a.m., which was a bit of a strain for some (himself included), and 7.15 saw all safely aboard the train at Paddington, eleven men answering the roll. A good run to Chippenham and forty minutes to wait, gave an opportunity to make a hurried tour of the town, but no ringing was either contemplated or performed. On (by permission of the railway authorities) to Melksham, and the time having arrived when one might refresh, a slight lunch preceded a visit to the Parish Church, where hung a peal of Taylor's of very recent date, with tenor of about a ton. Grandsire, Stedman and Plain Bob were accomplished, pleasure being expressed at the good going, while the Simpsonians were elated with the tone. Having been hurried up by Mr. Secretary, all were able to catch the train to Trowbridge, where dinner was partaken of at headquarters. The programme said Westbury next, and this tower being duly reached, some of the standard methods were rung. This secretary man gave one no rest, for he demanded that his charges should catch a train for Frome, which was accomplished by a hair's breadth. Arrived at Frome, the visitors were escorted round the historic church by the sacristan, and then raised the bells for more ringing. After tea, the party pushed on to Trowbridge, where they had the pleasure of meeting some of the local ringers, and Stedman Caters, Kent Royal, and a bit of Double Norwich were accomplished. Afterwards they adjourned to 'a place, etc.' History may relate how some heroic souls rang a course of Grandsire Caters in spite of the 'plaudits' (?) of the company present. 'Ringing for service this morning,' said Mr. Secretary at breakfast next day, and with the locals this was duly done, Stedman Caters and Bob Royal being the order. The rest of the morning we were allowed to have to ourselves, but he was soon after us again, for, said he, 'Our Teddy is to call a quarter of Grandsire this afternoon.' Result, the party were hounded off, regardless of those who wished to 'nap,' to Beckington Abbey, where hung a very useful and tuneful eight in the old style and of not much weight. However, 'twas not to be, for someone had the nap all the same, and 'stand' was called at about forty minutes, everybody voting the bells topping. More ringing was done, and then back to headquarters to tea. Brave spirits went for more Stedman Caters, 'If we have to run for the train,' said they. They got 'em, too. A good journey brought the Putneyites back to London at the very respectable hour of 10.15. It might be mentioned that the country was looking its best, the weather was better than expected, and the help and welcome received from steeplekeepers and ringers generally went a long way towards making the outing the success it was, and the company take this opportunity of expressing thanks to all the gentlemen who did so nobly for them.

ERDINGTON RINGERS AT WESTON.

The ringers of the Parish Church, Erdington, held their twenty-first annual outing on Saturday, July 17th, and visited Weston-super-Mare. The party numbered 17, including the wives of the ringers and Rev. C. W. d'Ombrain, M.A. Leaving Birmingham at 8 a.m., Weston was reached shortly after 11 a.m. The ringers went straight to the Parish Church, and were met there by Mr. Parker, one of the local men. The bells were soon going in various methods, Grandsire, Stedman, Erin, Treble Bob and Plain Bob being rung. The party then adjourned to the Imperial Hotel, where a good repast was served, and presided over by the Rev. C. W. d'Ombrain, M.A. In the afternoon the visitors all made their own arrangements for sight-seeing, and then returned to the hotel for tea. After tea, the secretary, Mr. J. Preston, reminded the members that it was the twenty-first annual outing of the society. They had had many successful outings, but this year had ventured to a seaside resort, and he trusted they had all enjoyed it. They had also for the first time brought with them one of the clergy, and were proud to have him with them. The speaker also hoped they had many more pleasant outings in store.—Mr. W. J. Meers said a hearty vote of thanks should be accorded to Mr. Preston for the way he had arranged the outing. He went to a lot of trouble to make these outings a great success. On behalf of the company Mr. Meers also thanked all those who had subscribed to the outing and made it one of the best in the history of the society.—Mr. C. Cottrell seconded the vote of thanks.—The Rev. C. W. d'Ombrain, M.A., said it gave him much pleasure to be with them, and he had enjoyed himself very much. He would also like to add his appreciation of the work of the secretary. He had known him for some time, and knew he was always willing to do anything he could for the benefit of the parish.—The secretary briefly replied to the vote of thanks.—The party then made the best of the time left before leaving Weston. Home was reached shortly before midnight, after a most glorious and splendid day. The ringers wish to thank the Vicar of Weston for the use of the bells and Mr. Parker for his kindness in having everything ready.

READING RINGERS AT OXFORD.

On Saturday, July 17th, the ringers, with friends, of St. Giles' tower, Reading, had their first summer half-day's outing—a party of twenty going by charabanc to Oxford, where they were welcomed by Messrs. Finch and Clinkard. The object of this visit was to test the Washbrook Memorial trebles in the peal at St. Ebbe's, and this lovely little octave was soon going well to Grandsire, Stedman, Oxford Treble Bob and Double Norwich.

The big end men expressed surprise at the statement displayed on the wall that the tenor was actually under 5 cwt., when more weight might have been expected, but the 'go' and tone of the peal were considered excellent, although there was some difficulty in hearing one or two of them in the lower, especially the treble, to which possibly some day a sounding pipe might be fixed. The well-designed tablet placed in the church, at the belfry entrance, to Mr. Washbrook's memory and describing his great ringing abilities, was duly admired by all, and more especially perhaps by one of them who had the privilege of first learning change-ringing from this great instructor in the first Victorian Jubilee year, and subsequently knowing him so well. The return journey was made through Crowmarsh and Henley, reaching home about 11 p.m., a most enjoyable run on a perfect day.

FARNHAM, SURREY.

The ringers of St. Andrew's Church, Farnham, accompanied by their wives and friends to the number of 30, had their annual outing on Saturday, July 17th.

Leaving Farnham in a saloon bus at 7 a.m., they journeyed by way of Odiham and Swallowfields to Reading, which was reached at 8.40 a.m. The ringers then made their way to St. Giles' Church, where they were met by Mr. A. W. Osborne, of the local band, and a pleasant hour was spent in ringing on the splendid peal of eight. After a stay of just over two hours in Reading, the journey was resumed, the destination being Windsor, which was reached at 12.30 p.m. The party then broke up to enjoy themselves in their own way, most of them visiting the Castle and going through the royal apartments during the afternoon. The ringers visited St. John's Church, where they were met by Mr. T. Smith, steeplekeeper, and the bells were kept going for nearly an hour. Whilst in the belfry they were welcomed by the Vicar (the Rev. Hamilton), some of whom were known to him when he was curate at Farnham a few years ago. The return journey was made by way of Staines and Virginia Water, a stop being made at the latter place for about an hour for the purpose of having a view of the lake and waterfalls, the journey then being resumed, and Farnham reached at 9.30 p.m., everybody having thoroughly enjoyed themselves. The ringers wish to thank the incumbent of St. Giles', Reading, and St. John's, Windsor, for so kindly granting permission for the use of the bells, and Messrs. Osborne and Smith for meeting them and having everything in readiness at their respective towers.

AN OPPORTUNITY.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I have had no replies to my advertisement in your columns for a first-class motor mechanic and driver. It appears that I must make the qualifications necessary for the post somewhat easier, and I am prepared to consider applications from ringers who can guarantee that they are first-class mechanics. A general knowledge of motor mechanism and experience of driving heavy vehicles is very essential, and it is possible that I might find accommodation for a married man with not more than two children. I can, of course, obtain the man I want in this district, but he would not be a ringer; and I have always wished to give ringers preference when I have a vacancy on my staff. I shall be pleased, therefore, to receive applications as a result of the publication of this letter.—Yours faithfully,

J. H. R. FREEBORN.

A SPEEDING-UP REQUIRED.

A general review of the position of the Exercise at the present moment leads one to the almost inevitable conclusion that, in the last two or three years, there has hardly been the progress which might have been expected. The most encouraging feature of this period has been the amount of bell restoration carried out practically all over the country, but apart from this there have been few indications of any real forward movement. We have had societies, like the Norfolk Guild, lamenting the lack of interest in their organisation and their meetings; we have had men like the Master of the Oxford Diocesan Guild calling for a greater display of local enthusiasm; we have seen among some associations a net decrease in effective membership, and what must have been apparent to all, an all round falling off in keenness, if keenness in ringing is to be measured by the number of peals recorded. There is nothing at the moment to be alarmed about; it is probably only a passing phase, but it is well that a warning note should be sounded.

For a few years after the war ringing rapidly made good; but there seems to have come a lull in the progress, and it corresponds to some extent with the trade depression which has settled on the country. It is possible that there may be some relation between the two; for partial or complete unemployment would be almost certain to affect the activities of many ringers, who, as a whole, are members of the wage-earning class, and consequently are suffering from the present economic conditions. Be this as it may, we think the various Associations and Guilds should seriously consider what steps they can take to deal with a situation which, while being at present no menace to the art, might, if allowed to develop, cause a serious set-back to the Exercise.

We seldom read of any society even discussing ways and means of increasing either membership, interest or knowledge. They are, for the most part, content to let those join who will; to leave individuals to work up their own enthusiasm and educate themselves in the art. Pre-tentious lists of instructors may appear in reports; but it is seldom that any of them are employed. The work of many of our associations wants overhauling, and, in not a few cases, speeding up. In this the members will look to their officials, but this is not entirely the officials' job. There will be work for the rank and file; they must not only do the 'gingering up,' but shoulder some of the task themselves. Officials with initiative and enterprise are essential, but a handful of men cannot do all the detailed work. They can and should organise, but every member of an association should realise that he, too, has some responsibility; that it is his task to bring in new members; to encourage the beginner; to disseminate the knowledge which he has gained; to improve the standard of his own ringing, and to raise the efficiency of his own band. If everyone would do this, the association officials would find that encouragement which is now so often lacking, and the art itself would be in no danger of suffering that species of paralysis which, from a broad view of the situation, now seems to threaten it.

FOR THE BEGINNERS.

CONDUCTING.—BY GEORGE WILLIAMS.

Those who are attempting to call Bob Doubles from the hints which appeared in this column last week will soon find, if they have not already done so, that there is not enough interest to be continually ringing the fifth or 'observation' bell. They will, therefore, be looking to see how the other three bells are working at the bobs. If you prick out the figures and examine them, you will see that each of these so called working bells is called:—

'IN' (which means running straight in to take the treble off lead, instead of dodging in 3-4 down).

'OUT' (which is running straight from lead out behind, instead of making 2nd's place), and

'MAKE THE BOB' (which, of course, is the 4th's place, and returning to lead, instead of dodging in 3-4 up).

In the full 120 changes each of the three bells is called into each of the three positions, but, of course, beginning in a different place. One is called 'In,' 'Out' and 'Make the Bob'; another is 'Out,' 'Make the Bob' and 'In,' and the third one 'Make the Bob,' 'In' and 'Out.' The importance of recollecting this will be found on the higher numbers, for it is an infallible rule for remembering the course you are in.

At Rayne, Essex, on August 3rd, Basil Redgwell conducted his first 720, which was Plain Bob. It was also the first 720 by J. Claydon, J. Gentry 1, G. Wiffen 2, J. Claydon 3, H. Reason 4, H. Redgwell 5, Basil Redgwell (conductor) 6.

Six ringers of Rishton, Lancs, rang their longest length of Bob Major on Wednesday, August 4th, when they scored 1,230 changes in this method, the only members of the band who had previously rung a quarter-peal of this method being the ringers of the sixth and tenor: W. Aaron 1, R. Hall 2, A. Yates 3, A. Ingham 4, A. Lord 5, F. Read 6, J. Hirst 7, L. J. Williams (conductor) 8.

On Thursday evening, August 5th, at Ightfield, Salop, 120 Grandsire Doubles was rung by the whole pull by the local ringers: C. Ellison 1, A. Ellison 2, W. H. Ellison 3, J. Ellison (conductor) 4, H. Ellison 5, R. H. Faulkner 6.

GALLEYWOOD'S RESTORED BELLS.

ESSEX CELEBRATION MEETING.

A meeting of the South-Eastern Division of the Essex Association was held at Galleywood on Saturday, July 31st, on the occasion of the celebrations in connection with the restoration of the bells. These have just been rehung on ball bearings, the frame has been considerably strengthened, and a set of guides fitted, which has made ringing much easier than used to be the case at this tower. Messrs. Day and Sons, of Eye, have carried out the work.

A large congregation assembled at the service, which was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. Roughton), who said that their hearts were filled with thanksgiving for the way in which their endeavours had been blessed. The work was costing £147, and they had been able to raise £139 19s. 3d. mainly by voluntary subscriptions without having to resort to whist drives or dances.

The lesson was read by Mr. C. H. Howard, Master of the Essex Association, and Mr. R. Mead presided at the organ. The choir rendered the anthem, 'Praise ye the Lord,' the congregation joining in the concluding verses. The Rev. Denyer, of High Roding, gave an excellent address. The collection amounted to £5 4s. 2d., so that only a small sum is left outstanding.

A touch was rung on the bells as the congregation left the church. Tea was served in a marquee, about 50 ringers sitting down. This was followed by the business meeting, presided over by Mr. F. Green, district Master. Several new members were elected, including the Vicar as an honorary member. It was decided to hold the next meeting at Broomfield in September.

Mr. C. H. Howard proposed a vote of thanks to the Vicar, to the organist, and the Rev. Denyer for his address. He said the Vicar was to be congratulated on the way in which he had raised the money for the restoration, and it was pleasing to know that he had not had to resort to whist drives and dances. He referred to the death of Mr. Shade, who was a member of the association, and it was proposed that a vote of condolence be sent to his sister.—This was passed by the members standing in silence.

The methods rung during the evening included Cambridge Surprise.

DEATH OF A WELL-KNOWN THRAPSTON RINGER.

It is with deep regret that we have to record the death of Mr. Daniel Redhead, of Thrapston, Northants, who passed away suddenly on Saturday morning, July 31st. Deceased was working up till midnight, Friday, and, after retiring to bed, complained that he could not get to sleep. His wife got up about 5 o'clock and made him a cup of tea, thinking he would get off to sleep after it, but after lying down a short time she heard a noise in his throat, and Mr. Redhead passed away before a doctor could arrive. The facts were communicated to the coroner, who deemed an inquest unnecessary.

Dan, as he was known, was an ardent churchworker. For about 28 years he had been vice-captain of St. James' Church ringers, and could always be relied upon on Sunday or practice night. He was a safe ringer and a good striker, always willing to help a learner. He was for a number of years a sidesman, a member of the Church of England Men's Society, and a trustee of the Royal Oak Lodge of the Nottingham Order of Oddfellows. The number of peals he had rung was 53, as nearly as the writer can ascertain. They consisted of Double Norwich (6), Kent Treble Bob (11), Plain Bob (11), Oxford Treble Bob (3), Grandsire Triples (2), Minor (17), Doubles (3). He was a member of the Peterborough Diocesan Guild, formerly the Central Northants Association.

The deceased was 54 years of age, and his place will be hard to fill. His character was one that may worthily be copied by many.

He was laid to rest on Wednesday, August 4th, the service being of a quiet and impressive character, conducted by the Rector, Rev. A. G. Bagshaw, assisted by the Rev. F. C. Westacott, Rector of Wilby. The bearers were two of his fellow-ringers and two of his workmates. A number of members of the Peterborough Diocesan Guild attended to pay their last tribute of respect to the deceased, viz.: Messrs. R. G. Black (general secretary), J. Nickerson (branch secretary), F. Stubbs (treasurer), W. J. Gilbert, F. Kirk, G. H. Roberts, E. Mayes, T. Wilson, A. Smart, W. Cheney, G. Jeffs, sen., G. Jeffs, jun., J. Coleman, A. Smart, A. Brown, W. Perkins, J. R. Main, J. King, also a number of Oddfellows and fellow-workmen.

Immediately after the interment, a touch of Kent Treble Bob Major was rung with the bells half-muffled by J. Nickerson (conductor) 1, J. Coleman 2, Fred Stubbs 3, W. Cheney 4, A. Wilson 5, T. Wilson 6, G. Jeffs 7, F. Kirk 8. In the evening other members of the Guild rang short touches, and on Sunday the bells were rung half-muffled for service.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT.

To the Editor.

Sir,—On behalf of my sister (Mrs. D. Redhead, of Thrapston) I sincerely thank my fellow-ringers who attended in such numbers to pay their last tribute to the late Mr. D. Redhead at his funeral on Wednesday, August 4th. Also for the beautiful wreath sent, and the extreme kindness and sympathy shown to my sister in her sudden bereavement.—Yours sincerely,

F. BARBER.

SOME THOUGHTS ON SIMPSON TUNING.

'PEPPERY'S' CAUSTIC COMMENTS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I have read with interest the three letters on Simpson tuning by J. Hunt, P. O. Laffin and 'Bow Tenor.' All three are very good friends of mine—at least, I believe the first two are in that category. I know the last is—the tenor, I mean, for I regret to say that I have not the pleasurable honour of knowing who the writer happens to be. 'Tis, however, but a treat in store. I agree with these three gentlemen in toto. In fact, I agree with all who favour us with such columns in your valued organ. I wish your paper was a daily, then I could agree with such a lot more friends and with what they all have to say. I might also have the pleasure of agreeing with one or two gentlemen I know—alas! very few—who really know something about this subject—what metal is, what the effects of time and usage will be on metal subjected to different treatment, what effect on elasticity is attained when metal is subjected to the two systems of tuning: the mechanical operation of the one is known as turning in the lathe, and the other the old hammer and chisel system.

I daresay many of your readers will smile when I suggest that there is a difference in effect, notably the bell-founders, but they don't make me lose one wink of sleep, as I know that they have their own pet axes to grind, and I am glad to know that that is so, because when several men each have a pet theory which they wish to persuade the great and long-suffering B.P. to accept, sooner or later an advance is made in the right direction. The only people who won't smile when I say that difference in the treatment of metal will have an effect on the elastic life of metal are the few experts in metallurgy whom we have the honour to number in the ranks of our Exercise. Mr. E. H. Lewis is one of them, and he has not yet spoken. When he does speak, your columns will not longer be troubled by the vapourings of myself and others who possess 'that little knowledge which is such a dangerous thing.'

To return, however, to the letters in your issue of July 16th, there is no doubt that the subject of the acoustic properties of towers, taken in conjunction with their situation as to surrounding buildings, has never yet been efficiently dealt with. When towers are built, the fact that they are to be the future housing of an expensive musical instrument is not even looked at. A tower in these days is a mere ornament, a fetish to be attained at all costs because a church does not look finished without one. It is an expensive luxury, of no use whatever, if it contains no bells or clock; the grave-digger's tool shed, equipped with a pigeon loft, would answer equally well, at about one-hundredth part of the cost; and as to a means of calling people to worship, a good ship's syren would arouse the choir boys equally well, and they would squabble to pull the string just as much as they now fight to pull the ting-tang, and the parish would not be any more vitriolic in the local Press on the subject.

But there is no doubt that many a good peal has been damned, and many a poor peal boosted up, on account of the acoustic properties of the towers they have been hung in by lucky chance. Just to take one good peal that never had a chance to be anything else but a nuisance, its worst qualities magnified a hundredfold, take St. Mary's Cathedral, Glasgow. Were these bells hung in Evesham steeple and Evesham bells transported to Glasgow, I fancy we should hear a different tale told. Glasgow defects would be lost and Evesham's enhanced; and if Pershore bells were hung in Jewry steeple, oh, lor! And yet Pershore are a very good peal. I believe that those who claim that such bells as Lavenham Tenor, Queen Camel Tenor, Wells and others like them are tuned on Simpson's principle, are technically wrong; they never were, because the men who cast them knew nothing of this later-day system or science. They did not even boast a tuning machine—a hammer and chisel or an axe was about all their tuning kit comprised. The fact that these bells conform to Simpson's principles (has it ever been proved?) was a happy accident, plus the excellent acoustic properties of their housings, which resulted in these landmarks they left behind. But I must say that with all our advance and the science at our command to-day, not even half the peals which leave the foundry to-day are the equal in quality of Macclesfield or Bradford Cathedral. But more important than all this tuning fetish is the casting of the bells. I think, if you look at the bells which have weathered a matter of two or three centuries and are now claimed to be Simpson bells, you will find that the thickness of metal at the various points on the contour of the casting will be found to conform to what they would be if they were cast to-day and tuned on Simpson's principle. What is more important, how were they tuned?—with a hatchet! Modern methods are not always perfect, neither are ancient ones, nor are all ancient bells perfect. Just compare Worcester Cathedral with Paisley for quality: some shock you will get.

It is easy to calibrate such castings. Cannot someone give us such a table accurately set out? I cannot do so, as I have neither the ability, the time nor the inclination. The latter I say advisedly, because I believe that if Simpson tuning pleases about fifty thousand parishioners who are paying for the bells, against eight or ten ringers who want the tap-note system, the pound notes will have their way against the tap notes every time. I know which I like to ring, they know which they like to hear, and as the years roll on they will get it—I shan't. Friend Hunt says when he orders a ring of bells he will order the old style; so shall I. I shall order a couple of rings like St. Paul's and Bow, and a replica of 'Pats' and Exeter, but I shall take good care that I put them in towers like Quex Park with similar surroundings—museum and all, Sir, in which to store those who do not like St. Paul's and Bow. And if ever I can afford to order such glorious bells as those I have mentioned, I shall also be able to afford the band to ring 'em. Eh? Oh, yes; I know where to find 'em. My two brothers will be there, and, yes, my alter ego—the best company in London he is. I could find someone who knew three courses with a coat behind the ninth tuned on Stedman's principle, and you may be sure you would always find 'prime' ringing there; and I'd fetch Jack Perfect from Bingley to roll the tenth along, and when we landed down, our three courses well and truly laid, who would pronounce the 'Benneydiction' over us? Well, who would? Only one is qualified, that I know. He did it for me once, and I hope he'll live to do it again—tuned on Stedman's principle.

It is quite true that you cannot ring Simpson peals as quickly as you can the old-fashioned ones, and the reason is that the Simpson bells emit a much greater volume of sound—i.e., the quantity of reverberations emitted by each bell is greater in Simpson bells than in tap-note bells, and it is necessary to allow some of this to escape before you strike another bell, or else the result is discordant, or, as I have heard it called, 'one solid mass of metal,' or a near approach to firing. But if you notice the time taken to ring five thousand changes on a new Simpson peal and then ring the same number of changes on the same bells ten years later, you will be able to do it ten minutes quicker, and then you don't seem to have packed the bells too close together. Why? 'Q.E.D.' quoth Euclid.

I do not blame the founders for trying to make the contract as large and lucrative as possible; I blame the Church authorities who place those contracts for allowing themselves to be talked into the larger job. The founders are business people, and it is a very good thing for the Exercise that that is so, or else we should not be pre-eminent in the matter of bells as we are to-day. We should still be stagnating in 'the slough of despond of the Middle Ages.' I hope the founders won't think I am crediting them with all the advance made in the science of casting bells; the demand for bells to ring changes on creates supply. If all ringers suddenly decided to stop ringing for a decade, the founders could shut up shop at once.

I believe that Simpson casting is to be preferred to Simpson tuning. I have been told that a certain modern Simpson ring of twelve came out of the sand so near to what was required that at least half the bells were hardly scraped in the machine. In my very humble opinion these bells will retain their breath, or, to be correct, their volume of sound, longer than those bells which have been heavily skirted, because in a casting the heart of the metal is always softer, or more pliable, than the exterior, and the softer the metal the sooner does it become inert—i.e., the nearer you cut to the heart of the casting the more do you undermine its resilient life. I have been dubbed 'an old fool,' 'a fanatic,' 'a theorist with bees in my belfry,' but there is no smoke without fire, and my very good friends the founders (no, not the enemies, Sir) would not bestir themselves to bestow their nomenclatic favours upon me if there were not still 'some oil' left in my lamp!

The twelve bells I have in my mind would suit Mr. Laffin, as the trebles are well weighted and toll a good tale; the tower is in a good situation as regards the surrounding buildings and on a hill-top. I think Mr. Laffin is correct about heavy bells which are 'lucked up' and hung in ball bearings; being 'short gaited,' it takes more out of the ringer in a peal in an even method, as the bells don't help themselves much, and must be 'put' into their places; they don't cut and rise at the dodges as easily as they might do. But a heavy bell, well lucked up and hung on ball bearings can be rung behind with the minimum of effort; hence the opinion one often hears expressed that 'you can ring her with a piece of cotton.'

I do not profess to know much about heavy-bell ringing compared with William Pye, Henry R. Newton, Reuben Sanders, James George and Charlie Kippen, just to mention a few. I have been ringing big 'uns, but the above remarks are prompted by the little experience I have had during my short ringing career, during which I have handled almost one thousand different tenors. I agree with Mr. 'Bow Tenor.' I hope I know him, because I also believe that Simpson tuning is condemned because of one or more lots of noisy howlers. I would not have it otherwise, but the howl of one or more bells in a tower is often accentuated by the acoustic properties of the position of those particular bells; but no one has yet given us a scientific reason for the existence of that howl or what it really is, neither has it yet been explained why in some towers the howl starts when the bells start, but in others the howl starts after half an hour's ringing has been done. I have heard it described as 'the overtones.' In some cases the overtones are pleasant; in others they are too prominent, and these are the sort that get on one's nerves. Be that as it may, the howl exists, so, as it exists, perhaps someone will be kind enough to 'parse and analyse' it for us. What a chance for some budding scientist to 'let his light shine before men.'

But even as many Simpson bells are condemned by their howl, so are many good ancient bells condemned for the same reason, viz., the acoustic properties of their housing. They certainly don't sound to advantage lying on sand in the foundry. Vandalism in these days is almost unheard of where our church is concerned, except in connection with the bells. If 'Bow Tenor' were ordained and called to preach a sermon, it would, without doubt, choose for its text Hebrews xiii. 14, and I for one would say with very good reasons for doing so, and as a recessional hymn, 'We love the place, O God, wherein Thine honour dwells.' Poor bells; honour seems to have been eliminated on the score of redundancy and inconsistency substituted in its place where the belfry is concerned. If the choir stalls which date from, say 1818, are a bit—well, 'choir worn' (you all know what lads you were when you were choristers and had a new knife), they must be carefully restored; none of the old wood must be touched, nothing must be taken away or renewed; only that which the worms and choir have eaten must be replaced, because this ancient relic was given to the church by one of our forefathers. Uncle Tom Cobley, to wit, gave the oak, and the village wood spoiler carved the stall ends, so a faculty is obtained to restore them. THEY must not be scrapped; oh no, our pious forefathers gave them. But the bells, they are out of sight of all except the parish jackdaws. One never thinks of giving the bells a dose of furniture polish. It may be, and often is so, that a three hundred years' accumulation of filth, and the acoustic properties of the tower and its position, in conjunction with surrounding buildings (which were not there when the bells were put in), may be responsible for the evil reputation they have attained. That is not thought of at all. Antiquity and sentiment are set at naught where bells are concerned. The choir stalls are mediocre, rotten, crude of design, but in the lime-light; the bells may be three times as old: they are not in the lime-light, so they must go, and the ringers have no say in the matter, for has not our Central Council, that 'tree of knowledge of good and evil' of all things campanological, decided that ringers do not know anything about bells?

Therefore, when the founders step in, theirs is the last word, for they have had presented to them by our own Parliament a two-edged sword wherewith to cut down all opposition to their wishes:—'But, my dear Vicar, even the Central Council admits that ringers know nothing about bells.' I can just hear it being volleyed at the Rev. O'Flynn's bowed head.

Dear Jim, bells that one likes don't suit everyone; beauty is in the ear as well as the eye of the beholder, so Simpson may be the thing to suit the parish, and they pay the bill. Dear Percy, the founders have not yet spoken. One of them has written a few disjointed remarks, void of logic, and another has passed a few—oh, so few—remarks, but the facts have never yet been published in the same way that Mr. E. H. Lewis' 'stress and strain on towers' has. Dear Bow Tenor, good old bells are few and far between, and as the years roll on they get few and further between, and in another fifty years there will be none (but that fact won't trouble me), as the good new bells will never make good old ones: they'll be bad long ere their tuners have passed to their repose and back in the melting pot midst the acclamation of Vox Populi.—Yours very sincerely,

SAMIWELL PEPPERY.

RINGER'S GOLDEN WEDDING.

Mr. and Mrs. Ebenezer Mayes, of Ringstead, Northants, have just celebrated their golden wedding. Both are natives of the village, where they have lived all their lives and have brought up a family of two sons and three daughters. For about fifty years Mr. Mayes has been a ringer at the Parish Church, and was one of the first members of the Central Northants Association, now the Peterborough Diocesan Guild. A lifelong abstainer and non-smoker, Mr. Mayes is wonderfully active and young-looking for his 73 years. In addition to being a ringer, Mr. Mayes has for many years been a sidesman at the Parish Church, and has always been ready to help in any good work. Needless to say, he and his wife are highly respected in the village, and they received many congratulations on completing their half-century of married life.

In honour of the event the bells were rung to numerous touches, including 720 Oxford Bob, by: R. C. Loveday (Thrapston) 1, A. Baxter (Ringstead) 2, W. J. Gilbert (Raunds) 3, G. H. Roberts (Ringstead) 4, F. Kirk (Raunds) 5, F. Chapinan (Ringstead) 6.

Afterwards Mr. and Mrs. Mayes entertained the ringers and other friends to a splendid repast, and good wishes were expressed for their continued long life and good health.

A SILVER WEDDING PEAL.

The peal of Stedman Triples at Bridport, on Saturday, was arranged in celebration of the silver wedding of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Jennings. It was to have been rung at Wyke Regis, where Mr. and Mrs. Jennings have made their home, but owing to local difficulties it was transferred to Bridport. Messrs. Drew and Benger came from Dorchester as reserve men, and through one of the original band not turning up, and Mr. T. Hervey Beams not being anxious to ring, they both scored their first peal. Several previous unsuccessful attempts for a peal of Stedman Triples have been made at Bridport.

After the peal, the band were entertained to a lobster tea at the Greyhound Hotel by Mr. Jennings, and hearty congratulations and good wishes were extended to Mr. and Mrs. Jennings.

GREAT WYMONDLEY, HERTS.—For evening service, at St. Mary's Church, Sunday, July 18th, 720 Oxford Bob Minor: W. C. Lindsey 1, F. W. Webb 2, F. Gardener 3, G. Cherry 4, F. W. Croft 5, Geo. T. Craft (conductor) 6.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

Mr. William Pye has set up a new great record by ringing his 1,500th peal. This he accomplished at Henley, Suffolk, on August Bank Holiday.

Three generations of the Mash family have held the office of tower-keeper at Southwark Cathedral, formerly St. Saviour's, Southwark, and Mr. Thomas Mash, the present holder of the office, having been 33 years in this service, completes a link of a century of bell-ringing at this famous steeple. His father, the late Mr. George Mash, was for 30 years in charge of the tower, and his grandfather, James Mash, was a ringer there a hundred years ago. This must be, we imagine, a family record.

The pending opening of the new ring of twelve at York Minster is a reminder that August 19th is the anniversary of the opening of the peal of ten at this sacred fane. There had previously been a peal of twelve (the first in the country), but they were recast. This peal of ten were eventually destroyed in a fire in the year 1840.

The Rev. C. D. P. Davies, Deane Rectory, Overton, Basingstoke, writes: It would be a favour if the gentleman who spoke to me at Ipswich concerning some old letters from Birmingham would kindly communicate with me.

By a slip we stated in these notes last week that Henry Hubbard called the peal of Bob Triples which was the first peal by the Union Scholars. The composer and conductor of that peal was John Holt.

The first peal of Double Norwich in Wales was rung at Rhyd on August 13th, 1883.

Sunday is the anniversary of the first peal of Cambridge Surprise Maximus, which was rung by the Norwich Diocesan Guild on August 15th, 1908.

Another notable Norwich Guild peal was the 10,080 Double Norwich, rung at Henley, Suffolk, in 5hrs. 50mins., on August 16th, 1902.

A peal of 5,000 Oxford Treble Bob Royal was rung on the 'late lamented' Coventry bells on August 17th, 1812.

At Keighley, Yorks, on August 18th, 1811, 'a peal of 5,376 Cambridge Surprise Eight-in, the first in the north of England,' was rung.

RESTORATION OF YORK MINSTER BELLS.

The new ring of twelve bells at York Minster will be dedicated at 4 o'clock evensong, on Sunday, August 29th.

A 'Ringers' Day' is being arranged for Saturday, September 4th, when the bells will be available for ringing from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m., and 5 p.m. to 8.30 p.m.

SOMERSET TOUR'S UNLUCKY START.

ROAD ACCIDENT TO MR. AND MRS. A. H. PULLING.

The Somerset tour, which began last Saturday, opened in unfortunate conditions. While on the way to Wrington from Queen Camel, Mr. A. H. Pulling riding a motor-cycle, with Mrs. Pulling in the side-car, was involved in a smash. Mr. Pulling was not much hurt, but Mrs. Pulling, unfortunately, was thrown out and sustained concussion, which necessitated her removal to Sherborne Hospital, where, according to a report sent off on Monday, she was going on as well as could be expected. The accident kept Mr. Pulling out of the first part of the tour, and considerably damped the spirits of the whole party. Kent Treble Bob Major was substituted for Royal at Wrington on Saturday, and rung in 3 hrs. 40 mins. Superlative was rung at Clevedon on Sunday, Mr. Oliver Sippetts stepping into the breach as conductor.

Her many friends among ringers will wish Mrs. Pulling a speedy recovery. Two years ago Mrs. Pulling was president of the Ladies' Guild.

BROADCASTING OF BOW BELLS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—Being one of the 'kids' who were 'kidded' to 'listen in' to Bow bells on Saturday evening, July 31st, may I ask the question, Was it really the 'Ancient Society of College Youths' that were giving the performance? We 'country youths' have always looked to the A.S.C.Y. as IT, but after the above-mentioned 'stunt' I am wondering what sort of job they would make of Plain Bob Maximus! I have heard the A.S.C.Y. tap off Stedman Cinques très bon, so am thinking it must have been some other society acting as substitutes on the 31st.

To whatever society it was, 'ancient' or 'modern,' I would offer this advice: Leave duck-hunting alone until a few lessons have been received from the monks of Buckfast Abbey.—Yours sincerely,

UNCLE PETER'S BIG NEPHEW.

ELLESMERE, SHROPSHIRE.—On Monday, June 14th, a quarter-peal of Erin Triples (1,260 changes) in 53 mins.: W. S. Higginson 1, G. H. Edward 2, A. Allen 3, A. Haynes 4, T. Butler, sen. (composer and conductor) 5, E. V. Rodenhurst 6, T. R. Butler 7, W. Higginson, sen., 8. Arranged for Mr. E. V. Rodenhurst, this being his first quarter-peal in the method, and also the first quarter-peal in the method for Mr. T. Butler, sen., as conductor.—Haley's quarter-peal of Stedman Triples was rung on May 25th in 53 mins. by the same band and conductor, and Brooks' quarter-peal of Stedman Triples on June 7th in 54 mins., with R. Biggs taking the place of E. V. Rodenhurst and conducting same.

THE SHROPSHIRE ASSOCIATION.To the Editor.*

Dear Sir,—The Coalbrookdale ringers and all others interested will, I feel sure, have read with very great interest your leading article in 'The Ringing World' of last Friday. You very wisely mention and remind us of the attitude that might be taken by the Hereford Diocesan Guild. An explanation here might, therefore, be most helpful to all concerned.

For about twenty years Coalbrookdale ringers have been loyal supporters and subscribing members to the Hereford Diocesan and the Salop Archidiaconal Guilds, while the Rev. Preb. C. B. Crowe has been an honorary member. It is also a fact that the Coalbrookdale ringers have been the only annual subscribers to the Salop Guild for several years, and it was largely due to their annual subscription for 1926 being sent that sufficient interest was aroused for the revival and extension of the Guild. I think, then, all your readers will agree that if county towers will follow the example of Coalbrookdale all will be well. Coalbrookdale is over 50 miles from Hereford, being situated right on the extreme border of the diocese, whilst it is only 12 miles from Shrewsbury. No matter how loyal we feel towards our diocesan Guild, it is very expensive to attend the annual meeting held at Hereford. On the other hand, it is a real joy and pleasure to meet as a whole, if only once a year.

To be quite clear, I feel sure if the members and those desirous of becoming members in the county will loyally work together, all will be well. Our object in life, whatever our lot or bit or work may be, should be to do it thoroughly, without personal or selfish motives. In conclusion, I feel sure there is a great future in front of the new and extended organisation, providing unity and fairness be our aim. Shrewsbury with St. Chad's 12 and St. Mary's 10, Coalbrookdale with 10 and lots of nice 8's, together with many peals of 6 and 5 bells, will give scope for those of us who are willing to teach.—Yours faithfully,

WILLIAM SAUNDERS

Coalbrookdale.

P.S.—It may be interesting to note that Coalbrookdale will still remain loyal as ever to their diocesan Guild.

HEREFORD GUILD MASTER WELCOMES NEW ASSOCIATION.

Dear Sir,—I must heartily congratulate the Shropshire Association upon their very wise decision in forming a county association. I personally think it the only thing to be done; and if those with the ability and time at disposal will only put their backs into the work, good results should be attained.

I must say, on behalf of the Hereford Guild, that Shropshire need not fear that Hereford will do anything to impede this work. We have realised for some time that something should be done which the Hereford Guild have found it impossible to do in the far-off Salop part of the diocese. As the Hereford diocese extends to within about four miles of Shrewsbury and then northward to Coalbrookdale and Bridgnorth, which means 50 miles or more from the city of Hereford, anyone would quite realise the difficulties of access.

I am well aware that there is plenty of talent in the Bridgnorth area, and they can cater for themselves, but the same cannot be said of other districts which only struggle on. I sincerely hope that all districts that are now affiliated to the Hereford Guild will remain so, and at the same time do all they possibly can to help the county association. No member of the Hereford Guild knows better than myself the difficulty we have had of late in reaching these districts to help them, and I do not suggest for one moment that we want to get rid of any of them, as the Shropshire members have been most loyal and helpful to us.

I feel very strongly upon the matter of an association for each county, for in these remote parts progress is slow, as, often when associations have to cover more than one county, some parts are seldom, if ever, visited by the officials of the Guild.

I quite intended to be present at the Shrewsbury meeting, but found it impossible owing to the wet afternoon, and as I should have had to ride a motor 'bike' 58 miles each way in pouring rain, I decided to remain at home.

CHARLES EDWARDS,
Master, Hereford Guild.

THE LATE MR. I. G. SHADE.To the Editor.*

Dear Sir,—I read with much interest Mr. Joseph Sykes' letter on the late Mr. Isaac Shade, with whom I have had the pleasure of ringing on several occasions. The peal of Stedman the writer mentions as his first in the method was also my first of Stedman, as well as the late Mr. Alf. Grimes' first in the same. Altogether there were three firsts of Stedman in the band, ably conducted by our worthy top scorer, Mr. William Pye, on November 13th, 1902.—Yours very truly,

W. E. PITMAN.

Canterbury.

BOTTESFORD, LEICESTERSHIRE.—On Friday evening, August 6th, at St. Mary's Church, a quarter-peal (1,260 changes) of Grand sire Triples in 49 mins.: T. Samuel 1, M. Bend 2, J. R. Jackson 3, C. H. Jallands 4, J. W. Kirtton 5, C. Hallam 6, A. W. Ward (conductor) 7, R. Jackson 8. Rung as a wedding compliment to C. Briggs, a member of the local band. Also a birthday compliment to C. H. Jallands.

SUSSEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION.*VISIT TO THE 'CATHEDRAL OF THE DOWNS.'

A delightful afternoon was spent at Alfriston, on Saturday, July 31st, when a meeting of the Eastern Division was held. The following towers were represented: St. Peter's, Brighton, St. Saviour's, Eastbourne, Pevensey, Waldron, Lewes, Heathfield and Hellingly, together with members of the local band. Messrs. W. L. Hulbert and Lanadum, of Clippenham and Bristol, were also present. Ringing commenced at 3 p.m., and a service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. Marchant Pearson). Tea was provided at Ye Olde George Inn, to which 26 members sat down.

At the business meeting Mr. W. D. Smith occupied the chair. Several new members were elected.

Following discussion, it was decided to hold the next quarterly meeting at Brightling if convenient.

After the meeting, the members returned to the church, where the points of interest in the building were eloquently described. The church is of cruciform shape, with central tower. This latter contains a peal of six bells, the tenor weighing about 8½ to 9 cwt., cast about 1390-1400 by William Wodeward, a London founder; the fifth was cast in 1698 by John Wood, an itinerant founder; the fourth in 1597, by a founder unknown; the third in 1811 by Thomas Mears, and recast in 1908 by Mears and Stainbank; second in 1698 by John Wood; and treble in 1819 by Thos. Mears.

The bells are rung from the floor of the church in full view of the congregation, as no ringing chamber can be provided owing to want of height. The bells are reached from the churchyard by means of an iron ladder, to the north transept roof, and thence by a trap door. They hang in a medieval frame of oak, which stands about 8 feet high, and when viewed from above presents a very remarkable composition of additions, patchings, etc., and altogether makes the most curious assemblage passing as a bell frame to be seen anywhere. The bells are on one level, and all swing in the same direction. The task of greasing the bells at any time is not an enviable one, especially when the wind blows a full north-westerly gale. In such circumstances the steeplekeeper undoubtedly uses the greatest of prudence, which comes before valour. The church, which is dedicated to St. Andrew, is called the 'Cathedral of the Downs,' and it well merits that title, situated as it is in the heart of the hills, with the placid waters of the river Cuckmere running close by. The village is one of the most picturesque in the county of Sussex, and contains very ancient inns. Many a scene between smugglers and excisemen has been witnessed here.

Great thanks are due to the Vicar and churchwardens for the welcome offered to the association members, who spent a most interesting afternoon.

THE NORFOLK GUILD.*DISTRICT SECRETARIAL CHANGES.

A general meeting of the Norfolk Guild was held at Aylsham on Bank Holiday, when the ring of ten bells of the Parish Church were kindly placed at the disposal of the members by the Vicar (the Rev. C. A. Manley). The luncheon was served at the Black Boys' Hotel. The secretary (Mr. Arthur L. Coleman) announced that the president (the Dean of Norwich), owing to an engagement, regretted that he would be unable to preside. The Rev. J. W. S. Tomlin, principal of St. Boniface College, Warminster, who was in charge of the parish during the Vicar's absence on holidays, was therefore voted to the chair. Supporting him were the secretary and the following members of the committee, viz.: Messrs. G. H. Cross, W. B. Duncan, and W. J. Howson, and representatives from Norwich, Northrepps, Loddon and Aylsham, etc.

The secretary moved the election of the following new members:—Victor H. Robinson and Herbert A. Skipper, both of North Elmham; and also the re-election of Messrs. John Aldis, jun., Richard Baldry and George Pointz, all of Saxlingham. The following belfry elections prior to a peal on May 26th, 1926, were ratified, viz.: Mr. Frank Davey, of Exeter, Mr. Thomas Groombridge, of Chislehurst, and Mr. Frank Hoggood, of Reading.

Mr. Robert W. Cooke was elected district secretary for the Fakenham district, in the place of Mr. Charles S. Tuthill, who had resigned.

The secretary announced the resignation of Mr. George T. Peggall, district secretary for Wymondham, and said that he had at present no nomination to put before the meeting, and proposed writing to the district requesting the members to meet with the view of nominating a district secretary in the place of Mr. Peggall.

A vote of thanks was passed to the Rev. J. W. S. Tomlin for presiding, and at the close of the meeting the members adjourned to the belfry for more ringing until the evening.

HOME FROM U.S.A.

At Bocking, Essex, on Wednesday, August 4th, at the Parish Church, 1,314 Kent Treble Bob Major: F. Webb 1, C. H. Howard (conductor) 2, W. Radley 3, B. Redgwell 4, G. Wiffen 5, H. T. Reason 6, W. H. Hammond 7, L. W. Wiffen 8. This was rung to meet Mr. W. Radley, who has resided in the United States for several years and is on holiday in his native parish. He was formerly a Bocking ringer.

NOTES BY THE WAY.

THE SEQUEL TO THE FLIXTON CONTEST.

BY J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

I do not pretend to understand the ethics of betting, but John Travis' betting on a certainty seems a very unsportsmanlike action, in fact a dirty trick. There is another point worth noting in connection with this ringing contest at Flixton. The listeners did not know that a miscall had been made; neither, it is likely enough, did the men who were ringing. But the conductor knew, and he still went on and brought the bells round at the proper time. He could hardly have expected to throw dust in the eyes of Tebbs and the other lead taker who were inside the belfry, even if the censors, who were outside, failed to notice the mistake. But I am afraid it shows that all the peals which are supposed to have been rung were not above suspicion.

There is no method which is so easy for a clever and unscrupulous conductor to fake as Grandsire Triples. The three lead course peals—the Bob and Single peals—used to be called 'Bob and Swindle' peals because the large number of Singles gave an easy opportunity for conductors to put a shift of course right by adding or omitting one. But those were not the real 'swindle' peals. The frame work of composition on the three lead course plan is a pretty rigid one. Very little deviation from correct calling will upset the regular work of the sixth or the fifth, and be at once noticed by the band. In a peal like Holt's Original the conductor can usually do what he pleases, and provided that the second and sixth are not called before and the plain course is rung somewhere about seven hundred changes from the end, nothing would happen to cause suspicion. There was one fully authenticated occasion where a conductor started to call Holt's Original and finished up with Pennings' one-part. In that case, as at Flixton, there happened to be a man outside who had good enough an ear to follow what was going on. I am not suggesting, of course, that such faking of peals was ever a common thing, but undoubtedly it has happened.

I do not know what the Ashton men's time was; as they did not ring a true peal it would have been without any value for comparing with the other times. The ringers were: Jonathan Wild treble, Thomas Dewsnap 2, Samuel Moss 3, Thomas Hammond 4, Aaron Walker 5, Joseph Burgess 6, James Moss 7, Charles Greaves tenor. Conductor: Jonathan Wild.

After the match both bands were entertained by a Mr. Wright. This gentleman was a magistrate, and a great lover of bells. He gave the seventh at Flixton, and it was chiefly due to him that the rest of the money for the new ring was collected. As a consolation prize he sent ten guineas to a Major Lees, of Ashton, to be divided among the losing band:—'Mr. Wright begs to present his best compliments to Major Lees, and to request that he will take the trouble to divide ten guineas among the Ashton-under-Lyne ringers, as a small compliment due to their merit on this day in delighting the villagers of Flixton with the most excellent peal of Holt's Grandsire Triples.—Flixton, Midsummer Day, 1808.'

So ended this most famous ringing match. Such a thing would be quite impossible nowadays. The betting was an ugly feature, and the use of the church tower for a money contest was in every way undesirable. Otherwise, the match seems to have been carried out in a fine sportsmanlike manner. We should condemn any such thing nowadays, but it would not be fair to condemn these men of a hundred years ago. They had the active support and encouragement of leading church laymen, and, if not the support and encouragement of the clergy, at any rate their consent. Men's ideas and standards were different then from what they are now. The other day I came across an account of a church dignitary who, in the early days of the nineteenth century, used to boast that he made three hundred pounds a year by betting on the cricket matches at Lord's.

The Ashton men and their supporters returned home, light in pocket and heavy of heart. They were bitterly disappointed at the loss of the match; the ringers felt sore at losing after having rung the length and rung so well; the others were angry about the trick that Travis had played on them. Moreover, we may be sure that many of them had been drinking freely, and were in a quarrelsome and excited condition. Presently some of the baser sort began to whisper among themselves that the missed bob was not so innocent as it looked. The thing was a planned affair; the conductor had been 'got at,' and to benefit his own pocket had sold his band and his supporters. Under the conditions it did not take long for the whispered suggestion to become a certainty. With angry cries a mob surrounded the cart where Wild was, and was hardly prevented from doing him bodily injury. So furious was the outcry that he thought it safer to take an opportunity of slipping away from the party, and not thinking it safe to go home, he went away for the night to Stockport. Bad news travels fast, and long before the party reached Ashton the report was all over the place that their men had lost through the treachery of the conductor. A big crowd assembled to meet the returning ringers, and all were bent on showing their feeling towards Wild, and likely enough of dealing out personal punishment.

When they were disappointed by his absence they made a lay figure out of rags and straw to represent him after the manner of a Guy Fawkes; they set this astride a horse, and, having paraded it round the town with jeers and curses, hung it from a pole which they thrust out from the window of the church tower, and then set fire to it. A silly and childish exhibition, but one with a very ugly side to it.

A few days later, hoping the excitement had calmed down, Wild returned home. But, although he does not appear to have been molested, he found that nobody would speak to him. His protestations of innocence were utterly disregarded. Everybody was absolutely convinced of his guilt, and not the less so because they could not possibly have had a shadow of proof of it. The fact that he had gone away would no doubt be quite sufficient to condemn him. No man would employ him, he was turned out of his lodgings, and the very tradesmen were afraid to sell him food to eat. He had to return to Stockport, and for twenty-six years he was an exile from his home. Even if he had been guilty, the punishment was surely heavy enough.

Most conductors have at one time or another missed a bob, and we all know how easy it is to do so. Just a momentary lapse of the memory or the attention, at the critical time, and the thing is done. Half a minute later you realise your omission, and it is then too late. A ringer can make a mistake and can put himself right, or be put right; but a conductor has, except in very rare cases, no second chance. Fortunately, people have not now any occasion to suggest that a missed bob means treachery to the band who is ringing. There is not the slightest reason to suppose that Wild was not perfectly innocent in the matter. He is described as a mild, harmless, inoffensive fellow. In after years, when speaking of the Flixton match, he would cast his cap on the ground, and exclaim, 'Sithee, if ah sowed um, ah hope my hed may drop in my hat!'

But such things as selling a match were not unknown in those old prize ringing meetings. Where there was a lot of betting on the result there was necessarily a lot of people of the most undesirable sort, who cared nothing for the ringing as ringing, but only for what money they could get out of it. We have seen the trick that John Travis played. Men like him were quite capable of trying to bribe a ringer to lose the match by making a mistake, or, if it were the conductor, making a miscall. And it is to be feared that not all the ringers were always proof against temptation. The rule that the belfry should be locked and only the ringers and the lead-takers allowed inside was made necessary by attempts to partly cut a rope or drop sand into the bearings while a particular band was ringing.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION. THE ISLEWORTH BELL FUND.

Another successful meeting of the South and West District was held at Twickenham on Saturday, July 31st, between 60 and 70 members and friends being present. Ringing of short touches to suit both the probationers and Surprise ringers was the order of the day, under the supervision of the Ringing Master, Mr. R. Holloway, and was much appreciated, the methods ranging from Grandsire to Bristol.

A service was conducted by the Rev. E. P. Cole Sheane (Vicar), after which the ringers adjourned to the Church Hall for tea. The usual meeting followed, the Vicar presiding, supported by Mr. Etherington (churchwarden), the Ringing Master, and Mr. G. R. Mackman.

A hearty vote of thanks was accorded to the Vicar and churchwardens for their kind hospitality and welcome, and the Vicar, in reply, said nothing gave them greater pleasure than to welcome the association to Twickenham, and to know how the members appreciated their welcome.

Six new members were elected, and much regret was expressed at the lamentable death of Mr. I. G. Shade, beloved and respected by all the ringing fraternity. As an act of reverence and respect, members and friends rose, and with bowed heads remained in silence for two minutes.

The hon. secretary made another appeal for the Isleworth Bell Fund, first for a silver collection, and a copper one to follow, to bring the fund up to £100. This was successful, all members and friends responding most liberally, and, in return, received the secretary's best thanks. The amount collected, with one or two donations, was £3 4s. 6d. One rare and valuable coin was found in the plate, viz., a golden half-sovereign; and should any reader of 'The Ringing World' be interested in collecting rare coins, the secretary would be pleased to make them a present of this one, if they first send along a pound note or two towards the fund.

The usual vote of thanks was accorded to the host and lady helpers, Mr. Mackman and the Twickenham ringers, the Ringing Master, and all who helped to make the meeting a success.

Handbell ringing and more touches on the church bells brought a most enjoyable and pleasant afternoon to a close.

HEREFORDSHIRE RINGERS IN GLOUCESTERSHIRE.

On Saturday, July 17th, the Holmer ringers, with their two churchwardens and Messrs. C. Edwards, A. W. Davis, H. Hurcombe, H. Symonds and W. Taylor (invited guests), had an enjoyable outing. Leaving Hereford at 8.30 a.m., ringing took place on the heavy ring of six at Dymock. Newent was the next stop, where the party were met by ex-Sergt. J. Williams. At this church there is another heavy six and a well-kept ringing chamber. Mr. Williams kindly volunteered to act as pilot to Corse, which would have proved a difficult route to find without him. The nice ring of six here is in good order. The party went on to Gloucester for lunch, and there took leave of Mr. Williams. Churcham and Huntley were afterwards visited, and at both these places it was found the bells did not 'go' any too well. The next stop was Foy, where the Rector had invited the party to tea with the Ross district members, and an enjoyable two hours were spent in strolling in the gardens and ringing on church and handbells. Hereford was reached at 9 p.m., after a most enjoyable day.

RINGERS' OUTINGS.*NORTHANTS RINGERS IN RURAL TOWERS.

On Thursday, August 5th, a very pleasant day's ringing was spent by the following members of the Peterborough Diocesan Guild:—Mr. and Mrs. H. Clark (Kingshorpe), A. Marlow (Watford, near Rugby), P. Amos, J. Bennet and T. Wise (St. Edmund's, Northampton), E. Sibley (St. Peter's, Northampton). The weather was ideal when a start was made from Northampton at 9 a.m. for Bugbrooke, and although the party then numbered only four, writes 'T.W.', 'we were not discouraged by the fact. The bells were soon got going, and some good 120's of Grandsire were brought home considering the conditions of the bells. It was here we picked up Mr. A. Marlow.

A tablet in the belfry is inscribed as follows:—

'He that rings and breaks a stay, half a crown will have to pay;
He that rings in spurs and hat, a quart of ale will pay for that.'

Mounting our cycles again, Dodford was reached, where the Rev. J. W. Strong gave us a hearty welcome, and was very interested in our day's work. On the road again, Newnham came in sight by the scheduled time, and here we expected to do big things. Some delay was experienced, however, owing to the ropes having been recently repaired. Finding a local ringer, we contemplated ringing the six bells, but on commencing ringing the treble proved too much for Percy Amos, and the rope disappeared from view on the go-off. Being somewhat disappointed with Percy's performance, we rang the remaining five and managed to get through a six-score. Some discussion then took place as to the cause of the catastrophe, and the ropes were severely censured.

We then had lunch at the village inn, where we heard such a bad account of Badby bells that they were struck off the list, and Everdon was made the next objective and safely reached. The Rev. F. Churchill came along and set us going. The bells pealing, soon brought a member of our Guild to strengthen us, it being Mr. Atterbury, who was on holiday there. While ringing Stedman, Mr. Sibley came along, looking very hot. We were all very pleased to have his company, and greatly admired his pluck in reaching us so promptly. On reaching the ground floor, the Rector showed us the beautiful work about the church. He was very pleased to learn that the Daventry Branch of the Guild had been formed, and hopes to attend the Staverton meeting with a view of learning more about the Guild and forwarding the movement.

Awheel again, Farthingstone was the next place. Here, owing to the three front bells having no stays and the 2nd only half a wheel, I leave the reader to guess what happened. Lichborough possesses a beautiful peal of five. Grandsire, Plain Bob and Stedman went well, and I have orders to reserve a date for a peal. Unfortunately, ringing was out of the question at Cold Higham owing to a funeral. Patishall brought back memories of losing a peal after ringing two and a half hours. Mr. J. W. Haynes left his job of preparing shallots for pickling and joined us at this church, and the bells were got going to Minor. After tea, Mr. Clark's free wheel had to be rectified, and Percy's tyre sprang a leak. At Gayton, ringing in three methods was indulged in, and at Blisworth, the last place of call, the Rector greeted us heartily. This brought our tour to an end. May I express my thanks to all ringers who assisted me in making the outing such a success, also the clergy in allowing us the use of the bells.'

ST. NICHOLAS' GUILD, HARWICH.

The Harwich ringers had their annual outing on Saturday, August 7th. The party, numbering 15 with a few friends, drove by charabanc to Bury St. Edmunds, which was reached at 12.30 p.m. After sight-seeing, the company sat down to a capital spread at the Rose and Crown, nicely served by Host Gaskin. Tracks were then made to St. Mary's Church, and the fine ring of eight were soon set going to Kent Treble Bob, Grandsire and Stedman, with the assistance of some of the local band. At the Norman tower, Grandsire Caters were brought round on this fine ring of ten. The journey was then continued to Sudbury, where the Church of St. Gregory was visited, and great interest was taken in the skull of a former Bishop. Touches of Kent Treble Bob, Oxford Treble Bob, and Grandsire Triples were rung on the bells, and after tea handbell ringing was indulged in. Tunes were rung, and double-handed touches of Grandsire Triples and Kent Treble Bob brought round. Harwich was eventually reached at 11.30 p.m. The ringers wish to thank the various incumbents for the use of the bells, also Messrs. Chinery and Watson at Bury and Mr. Dixon at Sudbury for having things in readiness, and all those who helped to make the trip so successful.

A SUSSEX TOUR.

The annual outing of St. Peter's, Tunbridge Wells, company was held, as in former years, on August Bank Holiday, and took the form of a motor trip in Sussex. Starting from Tunbridge Wells at eight o'clock in favourable weather conditions, the course was set through Coleman's Hatch and over the lovely Ashdown Forest to Cuckfield, the first halt. Here the bells were set going to Superlative, and a first class course was tapped off, followed by Grandsire for the less advanced members, Stedman with local ringers standing in, and finishing with a course of Cambridge. The next call was at Bolney, the original 'eight' of Sussex, where Superlative and Grandsire were rung and other methods attempted. Next came Henfield, a lovely eight from Loughborough, where Superlative, Cambridge, Stedman and Grandsire were rung, after which came lunch, well deserved and thoroughly enjoyed. A move was next made for Steyning, where there were more failures than successes, all being somewhat sleepy after the lunch and the heat of the afternoon. All sails were then set for Shoreham harbour, where the ringing chamber has no windows, and all ringing has to be done by gas light. Courses of various methods were rung, and then a move was made to tea. Afterwards by the coast road to Brighton. Tea seemed to have awakened the travellers, and good rounds were rung on the ten at St. Nicholas' by the novices, many of whom saw ten bells for the first time, followed by courses of Treble Ten, Stedman, and Grandsire Caters. Finally came the Sussex 'Mecca' of ringers, St. Peter's, where Messrs. Rickman and Keith Hart were waiting together with Mr. C. W. Clarke. Here was rung an excellent course of Treble Ten, followed by a course of Superlative and a touch of Stedman Caters conducted by Mr. Hart. This finished the programme for the day, and the bonnet was then turned towards home, Tunbridge Wells being reached at 10.30. All enjoyed the day's outing, and join in thanking the Church authorities for their donation to the funds, Mr. W. Latter, in whose capable hands were the arrangements, for his staff work, and the incumbents, steeplekeepers and ringers at the various churches for permission to ring and having things in readiness.

AMONG EAST YORKSHIRE TOWERS.

The ringers of Hemingborough Church had their outing on August 3rd, when they were accompanied by Mr. H. Morley, of Selby Abbey, Mr. R. B. Smith, of Howden, and ringing friends. The party left at 7.30 a.m. by motor-bus for Hedon via Hull, visiting the church and having a pull on the peal of six (tenor 17 cwt.), which want a 'doctor.' They went on to Patrington, where is a nice peal of 6 (tenor 11½ cwt.), and from there to Withenssea, where dinner was served. In the afternoon they proceeded to Hornsea, and had 'a trot on the prom,' then on to Middleton-on-the-Wolds via Driffield, where tea was provided. Here they enjoyed a pull on the grand peal of 6 (tenor 13 cwt.), and continuing the journey via Market Weighton to North Cave, where there was further ringing on the peal of six (tenor 11½ cwt.). The methods rung during the day were: Oxford Treble Bob, Kent Treble Bob, Plain Bob and St. Clement's. The party reached home at 10.30 p.m. The arrangements were made and the conducting done by Mr. W. A. Hudson.

WARMINSTER RINGERS IN DORSET.

The ringers of the Minster, Warminster, had their annual outing on Saturday, July 24th. Accompanied by the Rev. A. R. Bellars, the party of twenty left Warminster by charabanc and car at 8.15 a.m., and proceeded to Mere, where the bells were soon swinging to Grandsire Triples and Bob Major. Yeovil was the next objective, and the visitors were charmed with this fine ring of 10 (tenor 45 cwt.). Several members of the party had not previously rung on ten bells, but with the assistance of two local ringers a touch of Grandsire Caters was attempted; unfortunately, however, this came to grief. The journey was then resumed, and Lyme Regis reached about 1 p.m. Here an excellent lunch was partaken at the Cosy Restaurant, through the generosity of Canon Jacob (late Vicar of Warminster), who, to the great regret of all, was unable to be present. After lunch, the belfry was visited, and touches of Grandsire, Stedman, and Bob Major brought round. The party then disbanded, to seek enjoyment in various ways, until 4.30, when the road was again taken. Bridport was the next stop, the party being met at the church by Mr. W. S. B. Northover. Ringing was indulged in for about an hour, after which full justice was done to a sumptuous 'knife and fork' tea at the Wessex Temperance Hotel, where Mr. T. Hervey Beams was awaiting the visitors, and afterwards accompanied them to Bradpole. Good use was made of the short time allotted for ringing here. The last item on the programme was a halt at Dorchester, where Mr. W. J. Simons met the party. Touches of Grandsire Triples and Bob Major were rung, and the homeward journey was then resumed, Warminster being reached about 11.30 p.m. The outing was thoroughly enjoyed by all, and hearty thanks are extended to Canon Jacob for his kind hospitality, also to the incumbents of the various churches for the use of the bells, and to all ringing friends who met the party on the tour and so helped to make the day such a successful one.

HIGH WYCOMBE RINGERS' TOUR.

The annual outing of the All Saints' Church, High Wycombe, took place on August Bank Holiday. The party, to the number of eighteen, left Wycombe by train, and on arrival at Maidenhead took bus to Old Windsor Church, the first stopping place. After some enjoyable ringing on this light peal, the trippers 'ran into' the Caversham ringers with the Master of the Oxford Guild (the Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn), who were also touring the district, and the visit was thus made additionally interesting with friendly chats and reminiscences. Windsor Parish Church was the next venue, and after a number of touches on these bells a move was made to Peasod Street, where Messrs. Denny had a fine meat tea in readiness. This was well served and equally well relished, 'the cups that cheer' being particularly welcome, as was also the rest and quietness after mingling with the 'madding crowd,' for, as one tersely put it, 'all the world and his wife must be at Windsor to-day.' To Slough was the next item, and here again a good many touches were indulged in, a capital 'let down' and a stroll round the town and then to the station in good time to catch the train for home, which was reached safely and in good time, after a fine outing favoured with brilliant weather. Thanks are extended to the foremen of the towers visited, and especially to Mr. T. Smith, of Slough, for his very valued assistance, which helped to make the outing so enjoyable.

[Reports of other Outings are unavoidably held over.]

SINGLE METHOD 'CAMBRIDGE' EXTENSIONS.

By GEORGE BAKER.

Cambridge Surprise, if converted into a double method, would be a Regular Method spoiled.

In Minor, instead of one false row—i.e., the lead-end—there are five false rows to every lead. In Major, instead of five false course-ends to the plain course, there are ten, consequently both Minor and Major in the double form are worthless.

The question that suggests itself from a knowledge of the above, and the fact that Cambridge Minor is true in the single form is: Can the Minor be extended to the higher numbers as a Single Method? The reply to this question is in the affirmative. Cambridge Surprise can be extended as a single method to infinity and, the lead-heads and the individual round block progressions being the same as in Double Bob, there can be no question as to the method being correctly extended. Following is a half-lead each of Major, Royal and Maximus:

Major.	Royal.	Maximus.

At the moment I am not prepared to say that a peal of Major in this method is possible because there are seven false course-ends to every course—i.e., 32546, 24365, 53624, 46253, 65432, 63542, 56423.

In one method, 'Crofton' Surprise, seven false course-ends do not prevent peal production, but whether peals are possible in Cambridge Single Major is at present an unsolved problem.

The Royal is a true method, which is certainly an advantage in peal composition, and for this reason is worthy of the attention of ten-bell ringers.

In my next article I propose to show how 'London' Surprise Minor can be converted into a true double method, and to prove that in its double form it can be extended on even numbers to infinity.

FATE OF CITY BELLS.

It is probable that the proposals for the demolition of a number of city churches and the disposal of their sites will be advanced a considerable step further when Parliament reassembles in the autumn. The House of Lords has already approved, and the House of Commons will, in the coming session, be asked to approve of a Measure setting up the machinery by which the scheme can be carried out. 'The Union of Benefices and Disposal of Churches (Metropolis) Measure, 1926,' details the procedure to be followed when schemes are framed and it authorises the disposal of church property and the application of funds thus acquired when such schemes, after passing through the various stages, have received the approval of His Majesty in Council. For the purposes of the Measure the 'Metropolis' is defined as including eighteen Rural Deaneries in the Diocese of London; nine Rural Deaneries in the Diocese of Southwark, and three of the Rural Deaneries in the Diocese of Chelmsford.

When this Measure becomes law, one of the first things, presumably, will be a scheme for the demolition of the nineteen 'condemned' City Churches and the disposal of their sites. Upon the fate of these churches, as churches, ringers may have their own individual views; but with the fate of the bells which they contain the Exercise at large is directly concerned. Six years ago, when this particular scheme was first mooted, the Central Council, at Northampton, passed a resolution 'urging the desirability of preserving all towers in the City of London in which there are notable rings of bells.' This resolution misfired, because, as it afterwards transpired, it was forwarded to a committee which had ceased to exist. In 1923, at Salisbury, another resolution expressing the hope that no sanction would be given to any further demolition of churches in the city, designed by Wren, was shelved by 'the previous question,' largely on the ground that such a motion was outside the purview of the Council.

We are now approaching a time when London will, in all likelihood, be faced by a scheme under the Measure (unless, as is most improbable, it is defeated in the Commons). The City is perturbed about it, and the City Council has already raised its voice in opposition. As a collective body the Exercise may, perhaps, desire to leave the defence of the churches to others; but what of the bells? The scheme, as at present projected, leaves some of the towers standing, notably, from the ringers' point of view, St. Michael's, Cornhill; St. Magnus-the-Martyr, London Bridge; and St. Dunstan's-in-the-East, but does it follow that the bells will be left intact and available for ringing? Although the Measure specifically deals with the disposal of church plate and organs, bells are not particularly mentioned, but we may presume they are covered by the words 'furniture' and 'hereditaments,' and in that case can be dealt with in common with the bricks or the hassocks. The Central Council intervened in the case of Coventry bells; there is a ten-fold reason why they should take in hand the question of the City bells, to ensure that, in the case of those where it is proposed to demolish the towers as well as the churches, the bells, even if recast, are re-erected in churches where they can be used for their original purpose; and, in the towers which are to remain, that they continue to be available for use, and that means are provided for their upkeep, or that, alternatively, these, too, may go to other churches where they can be utilised. Unless some steps are taken in time to secure these ends it is possible that many of the London bells may be lost in the wholesale clearance which is contemplated, and we urge the Central Council, not only to keep in touch with all that is going forward in this direction, but to take such action as will enable them to safeguard the bells.

THE ESSEX AND MIDDLESEX ASSOCIATIONS.

JOINT MEETING AT WALTHAM ABBEY.

For the third year in succession, a joint meeting of the above associations was held at Waltham Abbey, and again proved an attraction, some 40 ringers being present. From about 3.30 until 5, touches of Grandsire and Stedman Caters, Kent Royal and Stedman Cinques were rung, and although age, represented by Mr. Joe Rayner, of St. Andrew's Church, Holborn, did not join in the ringing, youth, represented by the young enthusiast in knickerbockers from Woodford, was not at all backward, and succeeded in ringing a good touch in the last-named method, which should stimulate him to further success in the art. Tea was served at the Green Dragon, and in spite of the service being slow it was none the less sure, and everybody enjoyed a nice meal.

As usual, there was no business, but Mr. W. Pickworth (vice-president, Middlesex Association) read letters of apology for non-attendance from Mr. C. H. Howard (Master, Essex Association) and Mr. F. A. Milne (president, Middlesex Association).

The hon. secretary of the latter association (Mr. C. T. Coles) spoke of the objects of the meetings, stating that the continued support given to them was a sure sign of their being appreciated. He was exceedingly pleased to see Joe Rayner with them again, in spite of his 90 odd years, and hoped he would be enjoying those meetings when he was 100.

Mr. F. J. Pittow (general secretary, Essex Association) said that he quite agreed with the objects of these joint gatherings, and he hoped they would be extended. The Essex Association had held joint meetings with neighbouring societies in other parts of their area, and it was all for the good of ringing.—Mr. E. J. Butler (district secretary, Essex Association) also welcomed the ringers present.

After a good touch of Stedman Cinques had been rung, a well-struck course of Cambridge Maximus, arranged for the benefit of the Saffron Walden contingent, was brought round, and the proceedings were brought to a close with more Stedman Cinques, Stedman and Grandsire Caters, Cambridge Royal and rounds on twelve for the boys, who, it is hoped, will next year be able to take part in something better. Mr. W. Pye proved himself a good ringing master, and saw to it that all were served, and in this he was ably assisted by 'Brother Bob' and other well-known ringers.

THE RECENT BOW BROADCAST.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—As another 'juvenile' who, unfortunately(?), did not hear Mr. Roughton's broadcast lecture on July 31st, and its accompaniment, but has heard quite a lot about the latter, may I point out to fellow-members of the College Youths directly concerned that such a badly staged affair as this appears to have been does not enhance the dignity of the society, and even brings ridicule upon members who were quite innocent with regard to it?

Perhaps the 'Noble Scroof' now find the ordeal at Bow 'a little too much' for them; if so, it wouldn't be a bad idea if they 'sublet' these jobs. Recent events have proved that there are quite a number of people in London capable of dealing with really big undertakings at Bow, and who would not therefore be expected to come to grief over simple ones.

I enclose my name for reference, if required.—Yours faithfully,

NOTES BY THE WAY.
MORE ABOUT OLDHAM AND ASHTON.
BY J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

During the time Jonathan Wild lived at Stockport he rang at St. Mary's. In 1817 a new peal of eight was put up in that church, and the bells were opened with a prize ringing match. There were four prizes, and eight bands competed. The first prize of fourteen guineas went to the senior Mottram band. Oldham were second and won eight guineas. The Parish Church band from Manchester third, and won six guineas. The Mottram juniors fourth, and won four guineas. The Oldham men's peal took two hours, forty-nine minutes and eighteen seconds. As the tenor was 25 cwt., this was quick ringing, probably too quick to get the best effect from the bells; but, as a matter of comparison, I may mention that a couple of years ago we rang a 5,040 of Grandsire Triples at St. Margaret's, Westminster, tenor 26 cwt., in 2 hours 48 mins. That was done without any deliberate intention of ringing a fast peal. Wild taught a local band to ring Grandsire Triples, and called the first peal for them in that method.

Shortly before he died, Wild was allowed to return to Ashton, and there he was buried. There, too, are buried all the others of the band that rang in the Flixton match, one in St. Peter's Churchyard, the rest in St. Michael's. Two only of the graves are marked with tombstones. That of Aaron Walker, who rang the fifth at Flixton, has a bell and rope carved on it and the following inscription:—

'To perpetuate the memory of Aaron Walker, who died January 30th, 1851, aged seventy-six years, twelve days, and was interred on the fifth of February following. He had been a ringer at this church fifty-seven years, and had assisted in bringing round fifty-seven peals of 5,000 changes and two peals of 7,000 changes. He was the first man who rang the tenor bell of the said church single-handed in a peal of 5,000. He rung his last peal of 5,000 in his seventy-fifth year.

'No more thy hand shall ring thy favourite bell,
The ninth in St. Michael's, which none can excell;
Yet the bells of this church shall ring o'er thy clay,
As thy soul finds repose from life's troubled way.'

The other man who is commemorated with a tombstone is James Moss, who rang the seventh at Flixton.

'James Moss, sexton of this church fifty-three years, who after faithfully discharging the duties of the above situation, died April 18th, 1834, aged sixty-six years.

'Here lies an honest, inoffensive friend,
Peaceful in life and happy in his end,
Harmless in words and in his dealings just,
Constant to his friends and faithful to his trust.'

As would be expected, the match at Flixton intensified rather than allayed the rivalry between Oldham and Ashton, and attempts were made to arrange a further match for one hundred pounds, but it never came off. So great was the general feeling in Ashton against the Oldham ringers that if one of them ventured into the place he was promptly turned out of it by the indignant inhabitants.

Through the greater part of the nineteenth century there continued to be good bands and good ringing in both places. At Oldham, on February 21st, 1821, was rung 14,016 Kent Treble Bob Major in 7 hours 26 minutes. This was the composition of W. Eversfield, and was the longest peal at that time rung in the method. It was conducted by Joseph Newton, the conductor of the Flixton peal, and three others of that band—James Taylor, William Rigby and John Whitehead—also took part.

On October 24th, 1847, the Oldham men beat their long peal of Bob Major rung in 1784 by scoring 15,120 in 8 hours 46 minutes. Joseph Newton called this peal also. They did not know that in 1793 a still longer peal in the method, 15,360, had already been rung at Aston, Birmingham. This latter remains the record for Bob Major, except for James Barham's two peals rung at Leeds in Kent, viz., 20,160 in 1753, and 40,320 in 1761. These were rung by relays of ringers, and, of course, cannot count among the record peals.

At Ashton two long peals of Grandsire Caters were rung, the first on April 8th, 1844, 10,259 changes in 6 hours 10 minutes, conducted by W. Underwood; the second on January 1st, 1858, which was one lead longer and took two minutes less time. This was conducted by James Adams. On Friday, May 18th, 1883, the Ashton men rang at Mottram-in-Longendale Thomas Day's 16,608 of Kent Treble Bob Major in 9 hours 48 minutes, at the time the longest peal rung in any method. It was conducted by Mr. Samuel Wood, who has since taken part in many other fine performances, including the 18,000, which, though it cannot rank as a peal, will stand in the history of ringing as one of those failures which only just fall short of the most brilliant successes.

FOR THE BEGINNERS.

CONDUCTING.—BY GEORGE WILLIAMS.

By studying the work of the three bells engaged in making a hob in Bob Doubles, as detailed last week, you will get to know the effect which a bob has upon the 'coursing order' of the bells. The 'coursing order' is the order in which the bells follow one another through a plain course, or between two bobs. For example, if the 5th is the observation bell, you will notice that, whereas, in the plain course the coursing order of the bells is 5, 3, 2, 4, after the first bob it is changed to 5, 2, 4, 3, and, after the second bob, to 5, 4, 3, 2.

To make yourself more proficient, make each of the other bells the observation bell. By comparing the alterations in coursing order and the bob lead ends, you will see that the transpositions are relatively exactly the same. Thus, if the 3rd is the 'observation,' the coursing order will be 3, 2, 4, 5 in the plain course, 3, 4, 5, 2 after the first bob, and 3, 5, 2, 4 after the second bob, reverting again to 3, 2, 4, 5 after the third.

A young conductor should be continually pricking out what he wishes to ring; this will teach him much more than all the explanations.

The first quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples by the whole band at Rawmarsh, Yorkshire, was rung for practice on August 9th, and was a very creditable performance. The 1,316 changes were rung in 45 mins.: O. Torr 1, S. Walker 2, A. Ensor 3, T. Cooper 4, E. Pammenter 5, T. Winchcombe 6, H. Mortimer (conductor) 7, B. Ingle 8.

SANDIACRE.—On Sunday, August 15th, for evening service, at St. Giles' Church, 720 London Surprise Minor: W. Thornley 1, W. Halford 2, W. R. Drage 3, A. Freeman 4, R. H. Cox (conductor) 5, H. Turner 6.

HORNSEY, MIDDLESEX.—On Sunday, August 15th, for evening service, at the Parish Church, 720 Bob Minor in 27 mins.: W. Blee 1, Mrs. J. Thomas 2, J. Thomas 3, H. Blee 4, R. Lister 5, C. H. Ross (conductor) 6.

YORK MINSTER BELLS.

A special article on York Minster Bells, with illustrations, will be a feature of our issue next week.

WINCHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD. ISLE OF WIGHT DISTRICT.

The quarterly meeting was held at Whitwell on Saturday, when ringers from Carisbrooke, Chale, Freshwater, Godshill, Newport and Ryde were met and welcomed by the Rev. J. C. Orr and the local band. The bells were raised in peal, and ringing commenced with 369 Kent Treble Bob Minor: J. O. Rymer (Whitwell) 1, A. Brading (Ryde) 2, H. Phillips (Godshill) 3, B. J. Snow (Ryde) 4, H. Barton (Ventnor, conductor) 5, A. R. Ward (Ryde) 6. The touch was arranged and conducted by the District Master as a birthday compliment to the ringer of the 2nd. Touches and courses of Bob, Grand-sire and Stedman Doubles, also Plain Bob and Kent Treble Bob Minor and Double Court were then rung, in the course of which several probationary members rang their first course, and others their first 120.

The service was conducted by the Vicar, who gave a very interesting address. The ringers were then entertained to tea at the Vicarage by the Vicar and Mrs. Orr, and at the business meeting which followed the Rev. H. E. H. Coombes, R.D., Vicar of Freshwater, and president of the district, occupied the chair.

It was resolved to hold the annual meeting at Carisbrooke on Saturday, November 27th, also a combined practice meeting at Newport on Thursday, September 30th, at 6 p.m.

The meeting concluded with a hearty vote of thanks to the Vicar and Mrs. Orr for their kind hospitality. Some of the ringers then indulged in a game of bowls on the Vicarage lawn, whilst others returned to the church and made good use of the bells.

DEATH OF A SHROPHAM RINGER.

On August 7th, at the Norfolk and Norwich Hospital, the death occurred of Mr. Wilfrid Allen, of Shropham. About three months ago Mr. Allen developed throat trouble, and this has resulted in his untimely decease at the early age of 44, leaving a widow and two young children to mourn their loss.

Deceased was well known and respected, and had held offices in connection with the Loyal Provident Lodge of Oddfellows, also as chairman of the Parish Council of Rockland All Saints, where he had lived for several years. He had also been district councillor for his native village of Shropham. It is worthy of note that since the war Mr. Allen succeeded in training, unaided, a company of method ringers as far as three five-bell methods at Rockland All Saints.

Residing in a district where ringing on the higher numbers is very scarce, Mr. Allen's peals, of which he rang eight for the Norfolk Guild, were confined to Doubles and Minor. His enthusiasm, however, for ringing was none the less keen and very unselfish. He was always willing to stand in or to give place to anyone who was anxious for a pull.

The funeral took place at Shropham Cemetery, on Wednesday, August 11th, the minister officiating being the Rev. Bulman Fleming, Rector of Rockland St. Peter, in the unavoidable absence of the Vicar, the Rev. G. W. Watson. The coffin was borne to its last resting-place by deceased's fellow-ringers, who afterwards rang muffled touches as a last tribute of respect to an old comrade.

A NEW TREBLE AT SIMPSON, BUCKS.

An interesting event took place on Sunday, July 25th, at Simpson, Bucks, when a new treble was dedicated by the Bishop of Buckingham (Right Rev. P. H. Eliot, D.D.), who for his address took a text from the Gospel of the day, 'I am among you as he that serveth.' He pointed out how the bells in our churches fulfilled this mission, and how our lives must bear out the truth we ring. Let our work be done to the glory of God. By regular attendance in church, by constant practice in perfecting our art, and by an honourable life, each would indeed show himself 'a workman that needeth not to be ashamed' in the service of the Master.

Immediately after the dedication a few rounds were rung by the local band. After the service a touch of 240 Bob Minor was rung by the following members of the local company: H. Giles 1, G. Guest 2, R. C. Underwood 3, A. E. Hanks 4, J. Clare 5, C. W. Smith (conductor) 6. The ringers and visitors then adjourned to the Rectory for tea, kindly provided by the Rector (Rev. J. T. Lawson) and Mrs. Lawson. An enjoyable hour was spent, and afterwards the ringers again ascended the tower, and touches in various methods, ranging from Grand-sire Doubles to Cambridge Surprise Minor, were brought round.

The new treble is by Messrs. A. Howell and Son, of Ipswich. It is in perfect harmony with the old five, and the 'go' is excellent. Messrs. Howell are to be congratulated on the excellent 'splice' they have made. Simpson now possesses one of the handiest rings of six in North Bucks, the tenor, of 7 dwts. 1 gr. 7 lb., in A flat, having been cast in 1630 by James Keene, of Woodstock.

On Sunday, August 8th, for evening service, 720 of Bob Minor, the first on the bells, was rung by: H. Giles 1, G. Guest 2, R. C. Underwood 3, A. E. Hanks 4, J. Clare 5, C. W. Smith (conductor) 6. First 720 of Minor by all the band except the ringer of the 2nd and the conductor.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

The re-opening of the bells and dedication of new ones at Penwortham, Lancs, will take place on Saturday, September 11th. The cost of the entire work is being defrayed by local Freemasons, and it is hoped the opening ringing will be carried out by a Masonic band. In this respect the whole scheme is really unique in the annals of church bells and church-bell ringing. The work has been carried out by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank.

It had been proposed to attempt the record peal of Stedman Caters at Leeds, Kent, on Saturday, September 4th, but the event has now been indefinitely postponed.

Members of the College Youths should note the change of venue of the meeting on Tuesday. It will be at Bow, instead of Cornhill. Ringing at St. Andrew's, Holborn, on Thursday is cancelled.

John Garthorn's peal of Grandsire Triples, the first true peal ever rung, was performed at St. Peter Mancroft, Norwich, on August 26th, 1718.

One hundred and fifty years ago next Thursday, the College Youths rang 10,640 Bob Major, in 6 hrs. 31 mins., at Mortlake.

The Royal Cumberland Youths rang their first peal of Stedman Caters, 'the second peal ever performed in the method,' on August 23rd, 1788; it is described in their peal book as '5,184 Grandsire Caters on Stedman's Principle.' It was composed and conducted by John Reeves, and George Gross and William Shipway were in the band.

Henry Hubbard, who was born on August 25th, 1807, took part in a peal on August 24th, 1868, at Guiseley, Yorks, in which the united ages of the band were said to total 553 years. If, however, the above date of his birth is correct, then the aggregate of years falls short of the figure given by three.

The record of the peal was published in 'Bell's Life,' and his age was there given as 64 years 5 months, whereas, if he was born in 1807, he could have been only 61.

The peal of Kent Treble Bob was 'rung in masterly style in 3 hrs. 4 mins. 30 secs.' by J. Hanson, Huddersfield, aged 78 years, 1; J. Kendal, Otley, 73 years 2 months, 2; C. Isles, Leeds, 74 years 3 months, 3; W. Senior, Earlsheaton, 68 years 4 months, 4; H. Hubbard, Leeds, formerly of Norwich, 64 years 5 months, 5; T. Dawson, Bradford, 62 years 6 months, 6; J. Illingworth, Bradford, 66 years, 7; W. Dumblicton, Pudsey, 63 years, tenor.

COVENTRY BELLS.

The record of all the steps taken by the hon. secretary of the Central Council in the efforts made to preserve Coventry bells has now been published in a neatly printed and nicely bound volume, which Mr. Young has compiled and circulated to the members of the Council and others interested.

As an introduction, there is a short description of the Cathedral and the bells, and the whole of the correspondence, which was very voluminous, is given in chronological order. There are extracts from articles in 'The Ringing World,' together with a reprint of the proceedings before the Consistory Court, and the whole makes an interesting volume which places on record for all time the valuable work which Mr. Young did in his endeavour to save these famous bells.

DEATH OF ILMINSTER'S OLDEST RINGER

The Iminster ringers have lost a faithful member in Mr. Henry Raison, better known to his friends as 'Harry,' who died on Saturday, August 7th, from heart trouble. He had been a ringer for 52 years. He was not a great peal ringer, having stood in four peals only, his last being on May 10th, 1924, which was rung to celebrate his completion of 50 years' ringing, but he was a most regular service ringer, and during the past 36 years, since when the writer had been associated with him, had seldom missed a service or practice, and was hardly ever late. He was always to be found at the 'back end,' and was just the kind of ringer it is difficult to replace in these days when there are so many counter-attractions.

He came to Iminster in 1892, and joined the local band. Previous to that he rang at Puckington (about three miles out), where he was born.

He leaves a widow, two daughters, and one son who is following in his father's footsteps, having taken up ringing in 1898, and is now ringing at Trowbridge.

The bells at Iminster were rung muffled for the funeral

MR. F. W. ROGERS' 100 PEALS.

With the peal of Stedman Caters at Yeovil, on August 14th, Mr. F. W. Rogers, of Portsmouth, reached his 100th peal. A peal of Cambridge Major at Mere the previous afternoon was his 50th Surprise peal.

Grandsire Triples 3, Stedman Triples 18, Bob Major 3, Kent Treble Bob Major 5, Double Norwich Major 13, Cambridge Surprise Major 14, Superlative Surprise Major 16 (conducted 1), London Surprise Major 15, Bristol Surprise Major 1, Kent Treble Bob Royal 3, Cambridge Surprise Royal 4, Stedman Caters 3, Stedman Cinques 2; total 100. Rung in 10 counties, 51 towers, for 7 associations.

SCIENTIFIC REPAIR OF BELLS.

By C. W. BRETT

(Managing Director, Barimar, Ltd., Scientific Welding Engineers).

It is only during the last few years that there has been any scientific method of restoring cracked, broken or damaged bells; indeed, there are still many bell-ringers and carillonners who consider that the only procedure whereby rehabilitation can be achieved is by recasting.

Now, there may be several objections to this means of repair. It involves, for example, an expenditure which is usually quite unnecessary; it sometimes entails the dismantling of a whole peal, and the carrying out of structural alterations to the belfry. It is time-wasting. Then, again, in the case of historic bells or those possessing sentimental value, there is something unpleasing in the idea of recasting. The bell as it was is gone, and in its place is a replica having the appearance of, and suggesting, newness.

It is not easy to convey the actual feelings aroused when an ancient bell is taken from the place where it has hung for perhaps 400 years and is unceremoniously flung into a patent furnace or crucible. It is difficult, too, when the bell is delivered from a one-ton Ford lorry to recognize the 'sweet-toned tenore' made by Roger Datcherde, 1642, or some renowned founder of bygone days.

The art of the bell-ringers is to a large extent bound up with sentiment, so that—quite apart from economic considerations—anything that jars on the feelings may well give place to a method which does 'less violence' to the sensibilities, especially when its employment means a rapid, economic and absolutely efficient repair.

The question of interest to all ringers is, therefore: How can fractured or damaged bells be restored so as to retain their purity of tone? The answer is by scientific welding.

AN INTERESTING EXAMPLE.

Now, without attempting to deal with the matter from a metallurgical or severely technical point of view, the following instance may serve to prove that bell-repair is simply a question of handling the problem scientifically and in accordance with the latest discoveries.

THE BROKEN BELL REFERRED TO IN THE ARTICLE.

The accompanying illustration shows a bell which is over three hundred years old. Its sentimental value was quite beyond computation on a pounds, shillings and pence basis, and those interested were averse from having it recast. A nobleman, who had seen similar restorations carried out on the Continent, suggested that the advice and opinion of a welding expert might be sought. His report being favourable, the work was put in hand without delay. At a cost of a few pounds the bell was restored to the 'ring' in just under three days. Not only was the appearance entirely satisfactory, showing no signs of having been repaired at all, but, after tuning, the tone was found to be true and perfect.

The authorities, as might be expected, were not only delighted with the job, but were astounded by the efficiency of modern metallurgical methods. The restoration was voted a positive engineering triumph.

In France, Belgium, Germany, and the Continent generally, the employment of scientific welding for this and similar purposes is by no means exceptional, and details of innumerable cases of successful bell restoration could be gathered which prove that ancient difficulties have given way before the march of modern science.

After all, there is nothing fantastic in the idea that that which has been fabricated by heat should be amenable to high temperature treatment at the hands of experts. The problem, actually, is fairly simple, and the solution is merely a question of using a selected fusive agent suitable to the purpose in hand, the utilization of the services of qualified and competent craftsmen, acting under the direction of a metallurgical specialist, who has made the high temperature treatment of modern metals his special study, and the use of up-to-date apparatus giving complete control of temperatures ranging between 1,000 and 6,000 degrees Fahr.

SILENT PEALS.

There are, in this country, a very large number of peals which cannot be rung because one or more bells have been cracked or damaged, and the cost of recasting involves a larger cash expenditure than those interested feel justified in incurring, and, as we have already said, there are many among those who are responsible for the maintenance of Church fabric who, owing to a natural fear that bells of great age and enormous antiquarian value may be injured by submission to a form of treatment which is relatively new, refrain from considering the claims of welding.

To all such we would say that, so great have been the strides made in welding practice during recent years, there is now scarcely an industrial metal which does not come within the scope of this unique process of metallic reconstruction.

There is, however, one point of vital importance: the excellence of the method adopted can never counterbalance lack of knowledge and skill on the part of the operator. Scientific welding is not child's play: actually it is an extremely technical process which, in the hands of incompetent craftsmen, can do infinite damage, not only to bells but to high-grade plant and machinery of every description, used for whatsoever purpose.

THE SAME BELL REPAIRED BY SCIENTIFIC WELDING.

Now, regarded in the light of modern knowledge, there is no ineluctable mystery in bell-founding; the metals or alloys used are familiar to all metallurgists; the methods employed are no longer secret; every operation and stage in fabrication is well known to those whose business it is to deal with each and every problem which arises from the employment of metal in any capacity and for any purpose.

From this point of view, then, the devotee to the 'Exercise' or the celebrated carillonner need have no fear in entrusting the restoration of his 'ring' to the welding specialist. His only concern need be: Is this man an expert? If proofs can be adduced to show that he is the safety of the bell or peal is assured; if no evidence of competence is forthcoming, there is no hope for an efficient restoration.

SCIENTIFIC TESTS.

Welding, which embraces no fewer than six regularly used processes, is a very simple affair, so simple, indeed, that many mechanics armed with a 'torch' and unlimited confidence advertise themselves as welders. Fortunately for them, but unfortunately for the prestige and progress of scientific welding, it is difficult, if not impossible, to distinguish between good and bad welding by superficial examination. This has compelled the specialist to devise and adopt elaborate and rigorous workshop and laboratory tests calculated to reveal instantly such faults as are commonly observed in the work of untrained operators. These include the employment of 'X' rays, radio-metallographs, and photo-micrography, and other reliable means of ascertaining the soundness of the work executed.

It cannot fail to be of interest to all concerned with metallic recreations to know that these tests prove that in something like ninety-five per cent. of the work undertaken by unqualified craftsmen, or qualified craftsmen employing an unsuitable process, the following defects are almost invariably detected: Cold shuts, hard beads, oxidation, distortion, injury to crystalline structure of parent metal, loss of specific physical qualities, warping, out of alignment, burning defects arising from wrong thermal preparation, the use of unsuitable 'filling' metal, overheating or underheating, etc.

Now, any one of these is sufficient to reduce the efficiency of any metal to a negligible quantity, and, in the case of bell repairs, to rob the unit of every quality it possesses. You cannot preserve tone, you cannot retain true pitch by guesswork. Either a man knows precisely what he is about, when he tackles any problem in practical metallurgy, or he is groping blindly in the twilight of ignorance.

The bell-ringer, however, will not fail to see the folly of entrusting 'his cherished treble,' or any other valuable bell, to the experimental operations of the optimist. The man to undertake the work is he whose experience enables him to speak authoritatively on all questions and cases of metallic reconstruction.

WELDING PROBLEMS.

As has been indicated above, the mere junction of metals is the least difficult part of welding; indeed, to unite broken members by any of the fusive agents now commonly used is an almost inevitable result of exposure to high temperature. No special knowledge is required, no particular training is necessary. It is, in a sense, 'any fool's job,' and any fool's job is generally lacking in every desirable quality.

No man can reasonably call himself a specialist unless he is capable of dealing with each and all of the problems which arise in all cases of metallic reconstructions. This naturally does not refer merely to any one class of work, such as bell-repair. Welding specialization, nowadays, means the ability to deal successfully, and in a manner which will yield 100 per cent. efficiency, with all industrial metals.

The operator who cannot deal with modern ferrous composites, and the high-speed alloy series comprising steels containing varying proportions or combinations of zirconium, molybdenum, vanadium, tungsten, chromium, nickel, manganese, titanium, cobalt, etc., is not the man to attempt bell-repairs, simply because the restoration of peals is insufficient of itself to maintain any firm of welders in existence.

But probably enough has been said to indicate that scientific welding represents the solution of the problem of the economic upkeep (or restoration) of 'rings.' It should be borne in mind, however, that no claims are put forward on behalf of the process itself. Frankly, welding, apart from skill and experience, is just as likely to ruin a peal as it is to rehabilitate it. Its actual value consists in the competent application of the appropriate process, and not in the merits of the method.

We have written at some length upon this subject, because, if ever there existed a test for the potentialities of welding, it is to be found in its applicability to bell-construction. It has, as records will show, survived this test, so that the only question remaining for those interested in the art of bell-ringing is the selection of an expert to 'give music to the silent tongue.'

Any and every bell can be restored, but the restoration emphatically implies the services of the acknowledged specialist.

INGOLDSBY LEGENDS.

WAS THEIR AUTHOR A RINGER?

To the Editor.

Sir,—Whilst re-reading my beloved 'Ingoldsby Legends' for the 'nth' time, the idea came to me that their author, the Rev. Richard Harris Barham ('Thomas Ingoldsby') must have been acquainted with technical terms of the Exercise, if not, indeed, an active participant.

About 1812 he was curate of Ashford, Kent, '21 Minor Canon of St. Paul's Cathedral, '24 Priest in Ordinary to the Chapel Royal, and, later, incumbent of two more churches in the capital; so, therefore, he must have known his ecclesiastical London well. Let us examine portions of 'The Legends':—

THE WEDDING DAY.

'Spare we to tell of . . .
The toot-toot-toot,
Of the tabour and flute,
Of the white-wigged Vicar's prolonged salute;
Or of how the blithe "College Youths"—rather, old stagers—
Accustomed for years to pull bell ropes for wagers,
Rang faster than ever their "triple bob majors,"
So loud as to charm ye,
At once and alarm ye,
"Symbolic," of course, of that rank in the army.'

Or, again:

'Ah! well aday!
Little deem they,
Poor ignorant dears! The bells ringing away
Are anything else than mere parish bells,
Or that each of them, should we go into its history,
Is but a "Symbol" of some deeper mystery—
That the clappers and ropes
Are mere practical tropes
Of "trumpets" and "tongues" and of "preachers" and popes," etc., etc.'

There are two other stanzas amongst the 'legends,' but space forbids my mentioning them. Are there any records to the fact that the Rev. R. H. Barham was a ringer? Presumably in the above it should read 'Treble Bob.'

HEREFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

PRESTEIGN DISTRICT.

The summer quarterly meeting of the Presteign District Branch of the Hereford Diocesan Guild was held at Old Radnor on Saturday, August 7th. Ringing commenced at four o'clock. The Guild form of service was, later, held in the church, conducted by the Vicar, Rev. C. Markham Evans. Tea was prepared in the schoolroom, and was kindly given by the Vicar and Mrs. Evans. Twenty-three members were present.

The business meeting was held afterwards, the Vicar presiding. The district secretary (Mr. J. Preece) reported combined practices, held on June 12th, at Wigmore, when twenty-four members were present from five towers, and Grandsire Doubles and Bob Minor were rung, and on July 10th, at Weobley, seventeen members being present from twelve towers (including Mr. C. Edwards, Guild ringing master), and Grandsire and Bob Doubles and Treble Bob Minor rung.

It was decided to hold monthly practices at Eardisland in September and Presteign in October, and the autumn quarterly meeting at Kington in November, each meeting to be on the second Saturday in the month if possible.

The Vicar and Mrs. Evans were accepted as hon. members, being transferred from Clifford district.

Votes of thanks were proposed to the Vicar and Mrs. Evans for their kindness in providing tea, and to the Vicar for taking the service.

The tower was again visited, where ringing was kept up until nearly nine o'clock, Grandsire and Bob Doubles and Bob Minor being rung. Six towers were represented, and three unattached members were also present.

The church, dedicated to St. Stephen, contains a ring of six fine-toned bells, with tenor about 16 cwt. It is situated on the extreme edge of the diocese of Hereford.

THE BEDFORDSHIRE ASSOCIATION.

LUTON DISTRICT.

A most enjoyable and successful meeting of the Luton district was held at Toddington, on Saturday. It was the first meeting held at this place for many years, owing to the tower being considered unsafe, but extensive repairs have now been finished, and members look forward to many pleasant visits. The church, dedicated to St. George, stands on one of the highest points in the county, and is a landmark for miles round. The bells are a very fine peal of eight (tenor 22 cwt.), and were a pleasant surprise to many of the younger members, who had never heard them. Some excellent ringing was done during the afternoon and evening, comprising Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Bob Major, Double Norwich, Superlative, Cambridge, Bristol and London Surprise Major, this being the first Surprise ringing ever done on these bells.

Tea was held at the Sow and Pigs Hotel. After tea, a short business meeting was held, presided over by Mr. A. Ring (chairman of the branch), supported by the priest in charge of the parish (during the absence of the Rector on holiday), and members from Dunstable, Houghton Regis, Bedford, Barton Le Cley, Woburn, Husborne Crawley, Linslade, and Apsley.

It was decided to hold the next meeting at Husborne Crawley, in a few weeks' time.—A hearty vote of thanks was accorded the Rector of Toddington, and the local men for having everything in readiness. Several of the Toddington ringers took the greatest interest in the visit, and it is hoped they may take up change ringing in the near future.

In the evening the ringing concluded with a good course of Cambridge and the lowering of the bells in peal, which made an excellent ending. A course of Grandsire Triples and Caters on handbells in the village street evoked lively interest among the crowd which began to gather.

THE SOMERSET TOUR.

A 'BAG' OF TWELVE PEALS IN AN ENJOYABLE WEEK.

By G.W.S.

The Ringing Tour last week in Somerset, although at first dampened by the accident which resulted in Mrs. Pulling being detained in hospital at Sherborne, resulted in a successful and an enjoyable time being spent, twelve peals being rung.

Another ringing week has come and gone. Spoken of in whispers at the conclusion of our tour last year as a vague possibility, it gradually took definite shape until a complete programme was set forth, comprising some fourteen towers. Mr. G. Pullinger was prevented from joining us at the last moment owing to his wife failing with appendicitis, and Mr. E. P. Duffield's business ties kept him at home. Wrington was our headquarters for the first part of the week.

On arrival there, a telegram from Mr. Pulling, stating that he had had a motor-cycle smash and his wife was injured, caused a great cloud of regret and disappointment to spread over us. The message also told us to carry on with the programme until he was able to join us.

The last of the ringers arrived at Wrington about 4 p.m., the time the first peal of the tour on the grand ring of ten at this church was supposed to start. Kent Treble Bob Royal was the method originally decided on for this tower, but owing to the enforced absence of our conductor we had to make an attempt for Major instead. Oliver undertook the job of calling the bobs, and made a good start for the tour, bringing the bells round after 3 hrs. and 40 mins. of music. It was at the second attempt, however, for three successive bobs in the first instance brought the initial effort to a standstill after about half an hour. That our ringing gave pleasure outside the tower as well as in it is evident by the following extract from a letter received by a member of the company from a lady visitor to the village, who resides in Canada, and is shortly returning to that country:—

'It was a great happiness to listen to the bells, and last night I went over to the church and stood under the tower to hear the sweet clashing! It delights me and never tires, also it will be a sweet memory when I am back in my own cold country. I never expect to see lovely England again.'

It may be mentioned here that this lady listened to the whole peal, and her letter indicates the affection people in the colonies have for the church bells in their homeland.

At night Major Hesse, who is, incidentally, a native of Wrington, took some of us out to show us the haunts of his boyhood. The remains of a tree, on which forty men were hanged in Judge Jeffreys' time, was pointed out to us; then some went further, and others who were feeling footsore stayed where they were to await their return. Unfortunately, our guide lost his bearings, and after groping our way through a narrow and overgrown lane, he was forced to admit that we should have to retrace our steps. The hour being in the neighbourhood of eleven p.m., it was decided that this was the best course to adopt. The bell founder, however, seemed rather to enjoy the joke, as he said he came with us for the purpose of getting his weight down a bit.

On Sunday morning we rang for service, and all but two went into the church. I won't disclose who the black sheep were, but it was glorious on the Mendips in the region of Burrington Combe that morning. Our friend lost about five pounds in weight while hill-climbing on this journey alone.

At Clevedon, in the afternoon, we rang Superlative, and Mr. Sippetts again had the privilege of saying, 'This is all.' Right well did he take the place of Alfred. Rain interfered with what might have been a pleasant evening here, so we returned to headquarters looking forward to the good fare we knew would be placed before us.

On Monday, we made our way to Weston-super-Mare, where we met 'old Alf' for the first time since his spill. He had been conveyed hither by Clarence Dobbie, his own bus being out of action. We learned with some satisfaction that Mrs. Pulling, although badly hurt, was making satisfactory progress. A peal of London was successful here. Thence to Wincobine, where a somewhat hurried peal of Cambridge, owing to the 'go' of the bells, was brought round. We were met at this place by Mr. G. R. Fardon, of London, who is recuperating in the district after his long illness.

At Congressbury, known locally as 'Coomsbury,' Stedman Triples was the order for Tuesday morning. After ringing an hour, a mix-up caused another start to be made, and this time we did the job as it was expected of us. After four hours and a half on this lumpy peal (the tenor is 35 cwt.) we were ready for our lunch. We were supposed to go to Wraxall for a peal in the afternoon, but, as so much time had been taken up in the morning and we were to ring at Wrington in the evening, it was decided to just visit the tower to sample the bells and come away again. Mr. Taylor, who so very kindly put his car at the disposal of the band throughout the week, took some of us on first to find the road, as he was not sure of his ground, but Mr. Dyke, a native of the county, said he would show Dobbie a quicker way across country, as he had noticed a signpost pointing in that direction earlier in the day. The short cut was all right to start with, but after a mile or so it developed into nothing more than grass track just wide enough to accommodate a motor-cycle and sidecar outfit. First of all Dobbie, with Alf at his side and Popsie behind, got stuck in a rut. After extricating him, we made a little more strenuous progress, when Joe had to pull up to move a lump of brush-wood out of the path. By this time both passengers in the rear machine thought it would be safer to be on their feet. Then came a very sharp decline, down which it took Joe all his time to prevent the bike running away with us. This doesn't sound much, but when you consider that no one knew what lay round the next corner, it was a different proposition, especially when there was a possibility of pushing those bikes up that hill again. On pulling up, I went in front to reconnoitre, and as no further obstacle could be seen for the next hundred yards we pushed on, in more senses than one, a bit farther. A locked gate, which then came into view, appeared to put an end to our endeavours, but on inspection it was found that a smaller unlocked gate at the side gave access to open moorland country. Joe then had to unship his sidecar cargo, in the shape of young Bert, for the first time in his history, and we had literally to carry the 'Trusty Triumph' through. Then came a sharp rise up a grassy slope, with lumps of rock bulging out at all angles; the wheels would not grip owing to the recently fallen rain, so more pushing was resorted to.

At the summit of this hill, which we were now told was Rexhill, not a sign of a road could be seen anywhere. Inspection of the map showed a road somewhere close at hand, but where was it, and how to get to it? There was nothing but a sea of bracken in all directions. A track was forced through this, to the consternation of the rabbits in the vicinity, towards a farmhouse in the distance, where joy! the track of a motor-car could be plainly seen on the greensward. Another gate then faced us, on which was displayed a notice that all the ground which we had just covered was private. Fortunately for us, no one was there to question our movements, so we moved on once more. Our troubles were now at an end, for we found ourselves at the top end of Brockley Coombe, through which we descended, and a prettier little piece it would be hard to find. Once on the main road, it was not long before Wraxall came into view. Mr. Taylor's party, who had been waited patiently for us for an hour, had been indulging in Grandsire Doubles. It might be of interest to record this performance, considering the band that rang it. In fact, the editor might find room for it in the 'Beginners' column.' The band stood thus: Oliver Sippetts 1, William Beeson, sen., 2, Canon Coleridge 3, Pryce Taylor 4, William Beeson, jun., 5, Frederick Rogers 6. Here, again, the prowess of the treble ringer was exhibited.

It was a great disappointment to all of us when we heard the bells that we had not sufficient time to start for a peal on them.

RINGERS' OUTINGS.*ST. MARGARET'S, RAINHAM, KENT.

Yes! we did have our outing on August 11th. We chartered a 32-seater for ourselves and friends (male and female), and left Rainham at 7.30 a.m. The first stop was Linton, where we were met by Mr. Sone and Mr. Edwards, of Ealing. A very pleasant hour was spent in ringing on the eight bells (tenor about 15 cwt.). Then a move was made to Hawkhurst, where our old friend, George Billenness, met us, and on this ring (tenor 23 cwt.) a little Bob Major and Grandsire were rung. The journey was afterwards resumed through some more glorious country, and brought us into Hastings by 12.45, where an excellent lunch was thoroughly enjoyed by all. We will draw a veil over the happenings to the party until 4.30, when all except two (male members) sat down to a very nice tea. At 5.30 the old bus had its engine running again, and everybody was aboard (including the defaulters, who could not give a satisfactory account of themselves). Away we went to Penterden, and were met by Mr. Need. The ringing was very much enjoyed by all (they are a lovely eight, with a tenor of 30 cwt.). The idiot of the company (the writer) invited a female member of the party to pull the tenor off at back-stroke. The pulling-off was accomplished, but for some unknown reason the lady in question stepped backward off the box and landed on the floor of the belfry at full length. However no damage was done other than a slight 'kink' in the lady's neck. It should be mentioned that our old friend, 'Charlie' Tribe, came up and had a pull with us. Off again to our last stop on the road (not for ringing) at Sutton Valence; then came the last stage of the journey, bringing us to Rainham about 10.20 p.m., where 'Good-nights' were said. Lieut. W. A. Cooke, R.N., is to be congratulated on his excellent arrangements, which made everything such a success. What we are now wanting to know is, 'Who went down the cellar?'

TIVERTON RINGERS VISIT KELLY.

The Tiverton ringers had a most successful outing on Saturday, August 14th. Punctually at 7.30 the 'Cosy' left the Lychgate, passing through Witheridge and Eggsford en route for Windleigh. The Rev. J. S. Shenton and some of his ringers gave the party a hearty welcome. Several touches on the ring of eight (tenor 19½ cwt.) at this beautiful church were much enjoyed. Leaving there at 10.30, the excursionists passed through Okehampton on the way to Kelly, where the Rev. Mailland Kelly, the veteran ex-president of the Guild, was on the look-out for them, and bountifully regaled them with fruit and light refreshments before conducting them to the belfry. Nearly two hours were spent in this beautiful church and the gardens, and the ringers will never forget Mr. Kelly's hospitality and welcome. The result of this stay made the party an hour or more late at Tavistock, the next stopping place, but members of the local band, who were still kindly waiting to receive them, appeared to be very long-suffering and welcomed them warmly. Good use was made of the half-hour allotted to the visitors, who thoroughly appreciated the 'go' of the newly restored ring of eight. After a good tea, they started for home through Princetown, Two Bridges and Moreton Hampstead. The weather conditions were perfect—sunshine and shadows, while 'old Dartmoor' was at its very best. Thanks to the excellent skill of the driver, even the most timid had no qualms in spite of precipitous hills and hairpin corners, and Tiverton was reached without mishap at 9.45. Hearty thanks are tendered to all who contributed in making the outing so enjoyable.

PORTISHEAD RINGERS' LONG JOURNEY.

On Thursday, July 29th, the ringers of St. Peter's, Portishead, had their annual outing. This year Southampton was the place chosen. The party started at 7.30 a.m. in a charabanc, and as the sun rose so their spirits rose. The route was through Warminster and Salisbury, a stop for refreshments being made at the latter city. The Cathedral aroused much interest, but it was unanimously agreed that the Cathedral at Wells (in their own diocese) was before it in grandeur. The destination was reached at 12.15 a.m., and the party then (through the untiring efforts made by the captain) visited the docks and saw several of the largest steamers. The afternoon was spent in exploring the place, which proved most interesting. After tea at the Cadena, the return journey was made via the New Forest. Although such a long time was spent in travelling, the ringers were just as jolly when Portishead was reached, after a thoroughly enjoyable day.

RISHTON RINGERS VISIT SOUTHPORT.

On Saturday, August 7th, the Rishton Parish Church ringers, accompanied by friends, held their annual outing to sunny Southport. After much plotting and counter-plotting, the 'old man' eventually succeeded in obtaining the back seat, and was thus able to keep an eye on the 'tribe.' Chorley was the first call, and touches of Bob Major were rung. Mr. F.N. Rigby and others joining in, whilst the ladies, with the exception of Miss Ellen Shaw, who took part in the ringing, explored the market. The party then proceeded to Ormskirk, but were brought to a temporary standstill by a slight argument between their driver and the owner of a coupe re 'grazing restrictions.' However, after a 'committee meeting' matters were settled amicably, and the company arrived (with a change of drivers) very suddenly at Ormskirk, with its tower and steeple side by side. Ascending to the spacious ringing chamber (the largest in Lancashire), touches of Bob Major were rung on this ring, with its 25 cwt. tenor, Miss E. Shaw again taking a rope. Afterwards rounds, etc., for the latest recruits, in which Mrs. L. J. Williams also took part. This concluded the ringing, and the party arrived at Southport to do justice to tea at the Albion Cafe, and enjoy the diversions of this seaside resort. Home was reached at 11.30 p.m., and all voted it one of the best outings ever held. Thanks are due to the Vicars of both churches, also to the ringers who so kindly prepared the bells and met the party, Mr. F. Rigby and Mr. J. Sholcar.

A SHORT TRIP TO HARLINGTON.

A few ringing friends connected with St. Paul's, Hounslow, had an enjoyable half-day at Harlington on Bank Holiday. Six scores of Grandsire and Stedman Doubles and touches of Bob Minor and Kent Treble Bob Minor were successfully brought round, in which latter the veteran Harlington ringer, Mr. Harry Payne, took part. Mr. Ellingham also rang his first 120 of Stedman Doubles. The ringers played a selection of tunes on handbells on the Vicarage lawn, much to the delight of the Rev. Wilson and family, to whom best thanks were expressed for the use of the tower. The visit followed an attempt for a peal of Grandsire Triples at Hounslow in the morning, which came to grief after 2½ hours' good ringing. A tired but happy party had perforce to walk back to Hounslow in the cool of the evening.

LANGPORT RINGERS' TRIP.

The ringers of Langport, Somerset, with friends, had an outing on Saturday, August 7th. The party, including friends, numbered 32, and left for Weston-super-Mare. The first call was at Glastonbury, when some good touches of Minor were rung. Then Cheddar caves and cliffs were visited and much appreciated. After stopping at Uphill for more ringing, in which Master D. Hale, aged 13, took part, Weston-super-Mare was reached, and a happy time spent until eight o'clock. The ringers wish to thank the various clergy for the use of the bells.

ACROSS DARTMOOR.

Monday being St. Sidwell's Day and Bank Holiday, the St. Sidwell's (Exeter), Society held their annual outing over Dartmoor to Tavistock and back. Bovey Tracey was the first stop, reached after an exhilarating drive over Haldon, and here half-an-hour's good ringing was done. Ashburton was the next halt, where the party were joined by Mr. Bennett, of Buckfastleigh, and several touches on these grand bells occupied an hour, after which an adjournment was made to the Exeter Inn for lunch. In the afternoon the best of the moor was traversed by the way of Holne Bridge, Paignton waterworks, Dartmeet and Two Bridges to Princetown. Arrived at Tavistock, the party were met by the Rector, Rev. H. Lanyon Owen, and here another pleasant hour was spent on these far-famed bells, with touches of Grandsire and Stedman Triples and Bob Major. The Rector presided at the subsequent tea at Phillips' Cafe, and expressed his great pleasure in being amongst his ringers again, a sentiment appreciated by the band and suitably voiced by Mr. Richardson. The homeward journey was via Okehampton and Crockerwell, a halt being made at the latter place for supper, kindly provided by Mr. W. Drake (treasurer), to celebrate his birthday, the members all joining in hearty congratulations. Exeter was reached at 10.20 p.m., after a most enjoyable day. Thanks are due to Mr. E. Shepherd for the excellent arrangements made, and to the Rector and Mr. Betts for songs which enlivened the journey home.

PENDLETON RINGERS AT MOTTRAM.

On Saturday, August 14th, a delightful afternoon and evening were spent at Mottram-in-Longdendale by the Pendleton company, their wives, sweethearts and friends, some of whom came from Glossop. The bells of the famous tower were set going first to call changes, for the benefit of one of the ladies just commencing to study the art, and who rang very well indeed on a strange bell. This was followed by what the Canadian 'guy' understood to be 'George Washington's Fire Brigade,' but which, in fact, turned out to be a very musical touch of Stedman Triples. Touches of Bob Major and Treble Bob followed. A move was then made to the local inn, where a splendid meat tea was speedily lost sight of, amidst sparkles of wit from various members. One has only to stand on the Mottram hills and look around at the surrounding valleys to see what a place it is to build up both appetite and wit, and, above all, to hear the bells, and under such conditions one does not have to wonder why this place has been selected so often for long-peal attempts.

The wind blew so strongly that even the burly leader—not Henry the Eighth, but Harry just the same—seemed to have some difficulty in keeping his coat tails from decorating his shoulders like wings ('some' angel!) especially when he locked the belfry staircase door. It is easy to believe that the present style of brimless ladies' hats might have been designed at Mottram. Anything with a brim on it would be in Glossop in five minutes. After tea, more ringing was indulged in, some of the local men kindly taking a rope, and then, after a final meeting at headquarters, where the newly-married conductor (not Allan Adair) received congratulations and much instruction, no doubt, the party took the road for home, everyone voting it a splendid outing. One lady ringer hopes to turn Mottram tenor in some day to Double Norwich, which is a laudable aspiration.

OUR CATHEDRAL BELLS.

In recent years there has been a gratifying amount of attention bestowed upon the bells of our cathedrals—not more than is commensurate with their importance and their intrinsic value, but more than in any similar period in their earlier history. Some of them have been brought into prominence by the addition of extra bells, others by restorations, but no scheme has reached the dimensions of that undertaken at York, where a clean sweep has been made of the old bells and fittings, and an entirely new and heavier ring installed. The story of this restoration is told and illustrated in our columns this week, and we need not repeat what is said elsewhere. We would, however, congratulate Messrs. Taylor and Co. upon the highly successful completion of their important contract, which has had no equal in English church bell annals since the same firm erected the ring at St. Paul's Cathedral nearly fifty years ago. How well the work at York has been carried out ringers themselves will have the opportunity of testing at a near date. At the moment the gathering on September 4th is postponed owing to the fact that the contractors for the flooring in the tower have not yet completed their work—but this much is certain, Messrs. Taylor have not only left nothing undone to ensure that these bells shall add to their already great reputation, but that they shall in all respects add to the glories of the noble minster in which they have found a home.

Looking down the list of the cathedrals in possession of peals of bells, one is struck by the fact that the large majority really have bells in good, or tolerably good condition, and certainly pealable. There are a few instances where improvements might with advantage be effected, and we hope that the example of York may induce those responsible to undertake the work in order that it may soon be said that, in the quality and condition of their bells, the cathedrals of England form an outstanding and complete illustration of what our church bells should be throughout the land. In those instances where the state of affairs demands that attention should be given to the bells, we hope the ringers will take every opportunity of bringing the matter before the responsible authorities. Equally important is the question of having competent ringers to handle them. Although the bells are in good condition, as we have said, in most cathedral towers, we are not so sure that the same can be said of as many of the bands. Here it is purely a matter for the ringers so to improve their competence that the ringing, as well as the bells of our cathedrals, shall be an example to every church in the country.

THE SOMERSET TOUR.

By G.W.S.

The return from Wraxall to headquarters at Wrington was without incident, except that the writer, in riding pillion to the Somerset hero who was showing us some more scenery, became smothered in slush from head to foot in going through a stretch of real good mud at about 25 miles per hour. The victim did not see the joke in the same manner that it appeared to amuse the other members of the party.

Wednesday was a day of very mixed feelings. First of all we had to bid farewell to our host and hostess at the Golden Lion Hotel, Wrington, which caused us many regrets, as we had all been made very comfortable. The parting was only softened by the knowledge that we were going to spend the rest of the week with Mr. Lucas, at the Midway Arms Hotel, Queen Camel, where we knew we should meet an old friend and receive a right warm welcome. If any readers are desirous of spending a holiday in this part of the country, they will not do better than go to either of the above-mentioned places, where real friends of ringers abide and a hearty welcome is assured.

Chewton Mendip was our venue in the morning, and after all we had heard of the bells in this parish we expected something good. It is needless to say that we were not disappointed, for a more magnificent and melodious peal none of us has ever heard. The trouble here was selecting the band. Two of our members who had already had the good fortune to ring a peal, namely, Canon Coleridge and Joe Dyke, were quickly eliminated, but there still remained nine men for eight ropes. Lots were cast to settle the matter, and the unfortunate person to stand down was none other than Oliver Sippetts, who had been of such great assistance to us earlier in the week. The peal was safely brought round, and was, in the words of one of the listeners, a 'Superlative' one in more senses than one. We then journeyed to Shepton Mallet, where a peal of London was rung. This is a pleasing ring, but after the morning it is to be feared that they were not appreciated as they should have been. In other words, they suffered from comparison. As soon as we arrived at our destination at night, mystery surrounded the movements of our youngest member. From 7 o'clock until 9.30 p.m. he was reported missing; not a sign could be found of him anywhere. The rest of the party, who had gone to the belfry to sample the grand peal of six (tenor 37 cwt.), were casting furtive glances out of the window to see if any trace of his fair head could be seen. Half-way through supper, however, he turned up, with his face wreathed in smiles, but not a word would he vouchsafe as to his movements—no, not even under the close cross-examination of his bedmate. It is known that he enjoyed himself in the same village last year, and—well, one can only surmise.

On Thursday we rang at Ditcher, which has also a very fine peal. To the ears of some they would be superior to Chewton if hung in that tower. This appears a case for argument, and as no controversy is desired on the subject it will be best just to state the fact, and let the matter drop. Lunch was partaken of at the local hostelry, where his reverence took the carving business unto himself. By the time he had finished, a shoulder of mutton looked very sorry for itself.

At Evercreech we started for London, but before the end of the peal was reached it proved a bigger task than was anticipated, especially to the back-end men.

At Milborne Port, Double Norwich was specially arranged for Bertie, as he had not rung a peal in this method, notwithstanding that he has nearly thirty peals of London to his credit. Thence we made our way to Mere, where the local band were so enthusiastic about our visit that they very kindly engaged the services of a bell-hanger to put the bells in proper order before we started for the peal. Cambridge was the time selected for this tower.

At night, Canon Coleridge presented Mr. Dyke with a new smoking apparatus. Mr. Pulling was the recipient of a tobacco pouch and a handbag for Mrs. Pulling (who, to everyone's deep regret, was not able to be present owing to her accident), as a small token of our appreciation for the work they had done to make the tour such a success.

East Coker, on Saturday morning, was the scene of our only failure. We tried to ring Bristol, but couldn't. No one was to blame in particular; we were all 'pretty much of a muchness.' The person we were sorry for was Alfred, who was troubled with nerves, probably the reaction from his spill a week before.

While waiting lunch, some of the members went out to Clossworth. It was in this village that Purdue had his foundry. His tombstone, which is in the churchyard, is getting into a sad state of disrepair, the lettering being scarcely decipherable. Cannot something be done from amongst the ranks of present-day ringers and foundries to restore the grave of the man who gave us so many magnificent bells in the West Country, of which his masterpiece is undoubtedly the 11th at Exeter? Mr. Taylor, who was with the party, rested for a moment on the stone; whether he was offering up a prayer for the repose of Purdue's soul, or seeking inspiration, cannot be said.

At St. John's, Yeovil, we rang Stedman Caters in the afternoon, and what with the sun pouring through one of the windows and the lumpy going of some of the bells, it proved one of the warmest jobs throughout the week.

It would not be fitting to close without a word of thanks to all the incumbents of the various churches for granting permission to use their bells, and for showing such general interest in our activities.

Also to the ringers at these churches for extending such a hearty welcome to everyone and getting everything in order.

Mr. R. T. Beck, of Chilcompton, kindly took the vacant rope in our first peal at Wrington, as Canon Coleridge could not join us until Monday evening, and Mr. W. Beeson, jun., was prevented from coming until Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Dobbie took on the role of medical attendant, and with her case of needles performed yeoman service by pricking the blisters of the tender-handed. She also made the arrangements for lunches at the various places at which we stopped, and coupled with her in this business we should mention Mr. W. Beeson, sen., of Godstone, Surrey, who accompanied the party for the outing. It is unfortunate that the state of his health will not permit him to ring peals, as he evinces such interest in the art. Then last, but not least, there is Mr. Pryce Taylor, whose car was always at our disposal and solved many transport difficulties.

Thus ended another week's holiday, marred by that very unlucky accident to our conductor and his wife on the very first day. We all missed Mrs. Pulling very much, and it was her express wish that her husband should join us as early as possible. It is good to know that the news of our successes brightened her wonderfully, and that she is now making good progress. It is the earnest wish of everyone that she will make a rapid and complete recovery.

Before we finally broke up, a large barrel was seen being lifted into the car of the gentleman from Loughborough. The taste for cider seems to be lasting. Another took a liking for Cheddar cheese, and was last seen rolling about half a hundredweight along Sparkford Station.

As last year, the possibility of a tour for next year was hinted at. Where will it be? Who can say? We can only surmise, but it's always the same old glorious —

FOR THE BEGINNERS.

CONDUCTING.—BY GEORGE WILLIAMS.

Keeping to Doubles, before going on to Bob Minor, etc., a few lines on the Grandsire method may be useful. I take it for granted that the young conductor has made himself perfectly acquainted with the difference in the dodging places, viz., 4—5 instead of 3—4, and has ascertained that this is brought about by the making of 3rd's place instead of 2nd's, with an extra bell in the hunt.

By ringing, to start with, the 5th, and making it the observation bell to what is known as the 'old 120' of Grandsire Doubles, a bob is called every alternate lead (or 'Home'), that is, the lead following 3rd's place. The fifth passes the treble in 3—4 up, and this will cause it to double dodge in 4—5 up, with the bell coming out of the hunt. The bob also has the effect of causing the bell that would have dodged in 4—5 up to make 3rd's place and take up the hunt.

This calling, twice repeated, brings rounds in 60 changes; therefore, to ring the full 120, a single must be called instead of a bob, half-way and end, or at either of the calling places, providing you call each half to correspond.

Miss Jessie Davenport, a young lady only 15 years of age, has rung her first 720 at Dore, Sheffield. This was for practice on Friday last, when 720 of Bob Minor was brought round by the following: Miss Jessie Davenport 1, Miss M. Davenport 2, A. S. Robinson 3, J. W. Sykes 4, J. E. Lewis Cockey 5, W. Biggin (conductor) 6.

On Friday, August 20th, a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples (1,260 changes) was rung by the following: W. Edwards 1, A. F. Bailey 2, P. Lakin 3, J. Winterbottom 4, T. Jones 5, S. Greenhalgh 6, H. Greenhalgh (conductor) 7, W. J. Howard 8. It was the first quarter-peal of Stedman by the ringers of the treble, fifth and tenor, and first quarter-peal as conductor by H. Greenhalgh, and first attempt. Unfortunately our correspondent omitted to mention the tower at which this quarter-peal was rung.

On Wednesday, August 18th, at Rishton, Lancs, Fred Read called his first 720 (an extent of Bob Minor) at the first attempt. It was also the first 720 inside for Albert Yates, and the treble ringer's first pull for three years. The band were as follows: A. Chadwicke 1, R. Hall 2, A. Lord 3, L. J. Williams 4, A. Yates 5, Fred Read (conductor) 6.

At Washfield, Devon, on Tuesday evening, August 17th, Miss E. A. Snell rang her longest touch, which consisted of a quarter-peal (1,260 changes) of Grandsire Doubles, which occupied 45 mins.: Miss E. A. Snell 1, Miss G. M. Snell 2, Sergt. W. E. Snell, R.M., 3, H. G. May 4, W. Snell (conductor) 5, F. C. Balmont 6. A. J. Pitman's arrangement.

NOTES BY THE WAY.
MORE ABOUT PEAL TAPPING.
 BY J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

My notes in 'The Ringing World' of June 25th on Elijah Roberts and peal tapping have brought me a most interesting letter from Mr. J. Segar, of Retford, which, with his permission, I will reproduce. Those who remember the peal tapping achievements of a few years ago will agree that no one has a greater right to express an opinion on this matter than Mr. Segar. I raised the question whether the mental strain of tapping a peal was not greater than any one has a right to subject his brain to, and I quoted an incident to show what other people thought of it. One of the young gentlemen who were tapping peals, I said, wrote to a well-known parson ringer, asking for the figures of a peal he intended to try and tap. The parson's reply was something like this: 'Elijah Roberts tapped peals, went mad and shot himself. I am not going to help you to a like fate.' Here is Mr. Segar's letter to me:—

'I have been interested in your articles on tapping because I sometimes do a little, and also because I am the "young gentleman who wrote to a parson ringer." In the first article you give a very clear explanation of how it is done. I use the transposition or mental vision method. I can see six figures so well that in 1913 I could tap thirty-five methods, and have brought round a 720 in each. My best published peal was one tapped in Anston belfry, consisting of seven extents in different Surprise Methods ("Ringing World," September 12th, 1913). I differ from your opinion with regard to the mental strain, and should be less fatigued tapping a peal than in conducting one of Grandsire Triples on tower bells.

'I also think different to you with regard to the comparisons you make, namely, that it is very much harder to tap a peal of Bob Royal than London Surprise Major. I do not know whether you are personally acquainted with any tappers, or whether they will not divulge the secret, but there is another way of producing the changes in methods such as Plain Bob or Kent. The method is so easy that friends of mine with no previous experience have tapped a plain course of Bob Major with less than half an hour's instruction. It also has the advantage of making it easier to tap 5,000 of Plain Bob. Sixteen than Major, because the greater number of bells the less courses required. I am not proficient in this system (as I use the vision system), but could manage several courses of Plain Bob. I do not wish to convey that it is easy to tap 5,000 of Bob Maximus. I mean that the system is easy to understand, and that inexperienced persons can almost immediately produce the plain course. From there it requires a great deal of practice, but a man who was desirous of tapping a 5,000 of Plain Bob would find Maximus easier than Royal, and Royal easier than Major. The disadvantage of big numbers is the tremendous number of blows which have to be struck.'

Mr. Segar enclosed me an explanation of this system, which I will come to later. He concluded his letter:— 'As a tapper I have great admiration for a man who can "see" eight figures, namely, Mr. Morris's London Surprise, and I cannot understand the means of producing Stedman Caters, but the old idea of tapping peals made up of many plain courses was never deserving of the praise they received.

'I appreciate the good intentions of the Rev. — but he forgets that one swallow does not make a summer. I am sorry that some marriages are unhappy, and should not have to search back to 1865 to find a shooting affair ending a life of misery. Do you think the reverend gentleman has ceased officiating at weddings in order to save the young men and maidens of his parish from a similar fate?'

I certainly was quite ignorant of any system of tapping, and I am sure the vast majority of ringers are so too. My comparison between London Surprise Major and Bob Royal was based on the transposition or 'vision' system, as Mr. Segar calls it, and so far he corroborates me. For if it be so difficult to 'see' eight figures that only one man, Mr. Morris, is certainly known to have been able to do it to any extent, then to 'see' ten figures must be very much more so, while the task on the higher numbers becomes stupendous. The plan Elijah Roberts used is still uncertain, and probably will always remain so, but after reading Mr. Segar's letter I am almost sure that he used some system similar to the one explained by that gentleman. The way he arranged his bells was as follows:—

and this is the arrangement required by the system Mr. Segar describes. But we do not know how he adapted this system to Stedman, and it will be remembered that a peal of Stedman Cinques is the best authenticated of all his performances.

The other point Mr. Segar makes is a good one. Different men differ so much in mental equipment that it is neither wise nor fair to dogmatise as to what any individual can or ought to do, though it is certainly true that no man ought to subject his brain to a long strain if there is the slightest chance of its doing him any injury. And, after all, it is possible that Elijah Roberts' suicide was only remotely the result of his abnormally developed brain. On this point, Mr. R. O. Street's letter, with the quotation from the 'Liverpool Daily Post,' throws a lot of light. For many years Roberts lived an active and outdoor life, and no one has ever suggested that he was then in any way eccentric. In his latter years he followed the trade of a publican, and a publican has peculiar and strong temptations. Perhaps with advancing years his interest in life and in ringing grew dim, and he may gradually have got into the habit of taking more than was good for him. At any rate, for a fortnight before his death, he had been drinking heavily, and the immediate cause of his cutting his throat was delirium tremens. A very sad ending to one whose name will always be remembered in the history of the Exercise, but fortunately not one which our recent peal tappers are likely to come to.

EALING BELL RESTORATION.

REHANGING OF ST. MARY'S BELLS COMMENCED.

On Sunday, August 22nd, for evensong, an attempt for a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples at St. Mary's Church, Ealing, came to a premature conclusion through the tenor rope becoming obnoxious. The ringers on this important occasion were: Miss G. Baker 1, J. E. Churchill 2, E. J. Walsom 3, A. M. Stacey 4, P. E. Clark 5, A. H. Fulwell 6, P. W. Goodfellow (conductor) 7, J. H. Hunnisset 8. This is the last time the bells will be rung for some time, as Messrs. Taylor and Co., of Loughborough, commenced work the following day. The bells are to be retuned and rehung with new fittings throughout. Funds are still required, and, as mentioned in this paper a few weeks ago, donations will gratefully be received and acknowledged.

There will be no further ringing at St. Mary's until further notice.

RINGERS' OUTINGS.

ICKLETON RINGERS VISIT SEVEN TOWERS.

The Ickleton Society had a most enjoyable outing on Saturday, July 31st, when some were accompanied by their wives, while a few friends made up a party of twenty-four. Permission had kindly been given to ring at seven churches in Hertfordshire, and as they were several miles apart it meant no dilly dallying by the way. The first stop was at Barley, where they were met by Mr. Tack, who had everything in readiness, and a few short touches were rung. A move was made for Standon, where a local ringer was awaiting the party. The bells are a lovely ring of six (tenor 17 or 18 cwt.), and short touches were the order to give everyone a chance of a pull and in order to carry out the programme of ringing at all the churches on the list. At Great Munden, Mr. Barnard Patmore had everything in readiness, and accompanied the visitors to Little Munden, where some of the local men were present to give the party a hearty welcome, including that well-known ringer, Mr. W. H. Lawrence, who kindly rang two bells to a touch for the benefit of several who had never seen one man ring two tower bells before. Here, in the churchyard, is a yew tree reputed to be a thousand years old, and still going strong. The next stopping place was Stevenage, where justice was done to a good meat tea. Mr. W. H. Stanley kindly met the party, and piloted them to the church, which is a good way out of the town. The bells here are a heavy ring of six. On leaving the church the visitors were met by a ringer from Beddington and one from Graveley, and the latter kindly offered to ride in front on his cycle to direct the party to St. Ipoly's—a very out-of-the-way place. After a few short touches on the bells, the visitors went on to Graveley, the last place for ringing and a 216 Kent Treble Bob concluded the programme. Home was reached about 10.30 p.m. The members wish to express their best thanks to all the vicars for their kind permission to use their bells and to all ringing friends for their kindness in meeting the party, and also to Mr. W. H. Lawrence for his kindness in supplying the Hertfordshire routes.

BEDS RINGERS VISIT BUCKS AND HERTS TOWERS.

For the annual outing of the All Saints', Leighton Buzzard, ringers, a tour was made by motor-car to various churches. Included in the party were several members of the belfry of St. Barnabas' Church, Linslade. The first stopping place was Hardwicke, the journey being made through Soulbury, Stewkley, Dunton and Whitchurch. The belfry of Hardwicke, which contains a peal of six bells, was one of the most popular stopping places of the tour, and the ringing there was particularly good. A visit was paid to an interesting tombstone in the churchyard upon which is the following inscription: 'Within are deposited the bones of 247 persons, which were discovered A.D. 1818, buried in a field adjoining to Holmans Bridge, near Aylesbury. From the history and appearance of the place where they were found, they were concluded to be the remains of those officers and men who perished in an engagement fought A.D. 1642, between the troops of King Charles I., under the command of Prince Rupert, and the garrison who held Aylesbury for the Parliament. . . . May the memory of brave men be respected and may our country never again be called to take part in a contest such as that which this tablet records. Erected by the late Lord Nugent.' A stop was next made at Aylesbury for an hour and a half, whilst tea was obtained, and a visit was paid by some half-dozen of the younger members to the swimming baths. The church at Wendover was the next stopping place, and several good touches were rung. The bells in this tower are hung just above the ringing chamber, and much more of them is heard by the ringers than in most belfries. A nice ride followed by way of the reservoirs to Tring, where just over an hour's ringing completed the programme. The methods which were rung during the tour were Grandsire Doubles and Triples, Stedman Doubles and Triples, Plain Bob, Oxford, and Kent Treble Bob Minor, and Plain Bob Major.

PAIGNTON RINGERS' 200 MILES OUTING.

On Saturday, July 17th, the Paignton ringers and wives and friends, making a party of thirty-two, had their annual outing, and journeyed in two charabancs to Weston-super-Mare, via Exeter, Taunton and Bridgwater. A short halt was made at Taunton, and the next stop was Bridgwater. The ringers at once made for the tower, where they found the local captain waiting. A nice-toned peal of eight was raised in peal, and a few touches of Grandsire were brought around. Ringing had to be brief, however, as another band were waiting. The party were soon merrily sailing along again for Weston-super-Mare, but near Brent Knoll the second car got slightly entangled in a huge load of hay. Luckily no one was hurt, but the hood of the car was badly damaged. This caused an unfortunate delay, which somewhat upset the dinner arrangements. However, Host Huntley did his best for the visitors, but, as they had not done half their journey, ringing had to be 'cut out,' much to the ringers' regret. Off they started again for the famous Cheddar caves, where a delightful and interesting hour was spent. Next came a charming run through Wells, Glastonbury, Street and Taunton, where another halt was made. On reaching the borders of Devon, a vivid thunderstorm was seen raging in the distance, but ere the party reached home it had all gone to sea, much to everyone's delight. The trip, which was over 210 miles, was thoroughly enjoyed. The ringers wish to thank the incumbents and local steepiekeepers for kindness shown.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

A peal of 5,040 Bob Major St. George, the first peal on the bells, was rung at St. George's, Southwark, on August 27th, 1750. It was conducted by Benjamin Annable. Was this a variation of Plain Bob, we wonder, or only the old method with a frill on the title because it was the first to be rung at St. George's Church?

On August 27th, 1814, a peal of 12,320 Treble Bob Major was rung at Otley in 7 hrs. 15 mins.

Forty years ago next Tuesday the first ten-bell peal was rung in Scotland—Grandsire Caters at St. Mary's Cathedral, Edinburgh.

The record handbell peal of 19,738 Stedman Caters was rung at Guildford on August 31st, 1912.

Bertram Prewett was killed in action on August 31st, 1918. One of the finest ringers that ever lived, he had rung 953 peals.

The ringer of the third in the peal of Oxford Treble Bob, at Over, on August 14th, was Frederick R. Crawley, and not George H. Crawley, as printed in our report last week.

A railwaymen's peal of Doubles was rung on Sunday, at Holmer, Herefordshire. It is the first peal that a band of railwaymen have rung for the Hereford Diocesan Guild.

THE TRINITY YOUTHS' PEAL BOOK.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—With reference to the enquiry under the head of 'Belfry Gossip' in your issue of the 6th inst., I should be interested to know whether the Trinity Youths' Peal Book has been found. It was given into my charge temporarily by the late Wm. Weatherstone, and returned by me to him about forty years ago. He and my old friend of pleasant memory, Wm. Peard, were then, I understood, the only surviving members of the society. There was some idea of reviving the society, but this was, I believe, never carried into effect. The first entry in the book was a peal of Grandsire Triples at St. Nicholas', Deptford, on February 18th, 1782, conducted by John Day, who conducted the seven next peals rung by the society. The last entry, the sixty-seventh, was a peal of Grandsire Triples on January 20th, 1845, conducted by Richard Smith. The last peal but one, rung on December 20th, 1843, was stated to be the first peal with the new tenor.—Yours faithfully,

E. F. COLLE.

PROPOSED AUGMENTATION OF BELLS AT DEANE.

To the Editor.

Sir,—Somewhat unexpectedly it has become necessary for me to press forward with all energy and speed in the project of rehanging and, as is hoped, of augmenting the number of our bells here at Deane. May I, therefore, ask all the kind friends who were good enough to take collecting cards after the Council meeting at Ipswich if they will very kindly return them, together with any amounts that they have happily collected, to me as soon as convenient?

CHARLES D. P. DAVIES.

PEALS OF CAMBRIDGE ROYAL.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—Will you kindly state that the peals of Cambridge Surprise Royal, published in your issue of the 20th inst. by Mr. Frank Bennett, were published by me some years ago. In Cambridge Royal or Maximus, the 6th bell must be placed into 3rd's place before being put into 5th's; likewise it must go first into 2nd's before being placed into 6th's. It is, therefore, quite obvious when the extent of the 6th was obtained very little knowledge was required to fill in the extra courses.—Yours faithfully,

F. DENCH.

STEDMAN TRIPLES.

To the Editor.

Sir,—Will you please inform me through 'The Ringing World' whether it is permissible to start a peal in this method from a slow six instead of a quick one? Would it be recognised by the Central Council?—Yours truly,

J. W. D.

As far as we are aware, there is nothing to prevent a peal of Stedman Triples beginning with a slow six, and as long as it is all Stedman Triples, it would be recognised as a peal by the Central Council.—Ed. 'R.W.'

A LONG TOUCH

The greatest number of changes yet rung on the bells at St. Peter's Church, Felkirk, Yorks, was accomplished on August 4th, when 2,160, comprising three different 720's of Bob Minor, was brought round: A. Cole 1, H. Chant 2, M. Perry 3, D. Smith 4, F. Priestly 5, J. T. White (conductor) 6.

THE NEW BELLS.

The opening of the new ring of twelve at York Minster, which is to take place on Sunday, August 29th, marks the completion of the greatest scheme for a peal of church bells carried out in England since the erection of the peal at St. Paul's Cathedral, London, in the year 1878, and the event will remain a landmark in the history of bell restorations in this country. The scheme has been a comprehensive one, and was first considered seriously in 1924, when it became obvious that something must be done to put the Minster bells into proper ringing order. Recasting as well as rehanging was proposed. The Dean and Chapter were prepared to bear the cost of the rehanging out of the Minster funds, but were not able to undertake the recasting. This, however, was made possible by the readiness with which new bells were offered. Three were at once promised by three of the Minster canons, the chapter clerk offered a fourth, the ringers undertook to provide another, and so quickly, by generous gifts, the grand old city, whose history goes back to the time of the Romans, was assured of a peal of bells in keeping with the glory of its ancient fame.

The important work was entrusted to Messrs. John Taylor and Co., of Loughborough, who have thus been responsible for the three largest ringing peals in the world—St. Paul's with a tenor of 62 cwt., Exeter with a tenor of 72 cwt., and now York with a magnificent ring, whose tenor is 60 cwt., and sounds a fine deep B flat—actually the deepest toned tenor of any ringing peal in the world. The old ring, cast in 1844, were broken up, and with the addition of new metal have been converted into a peal of a full and rich quality of tone and perfectly 'voiced.' The bells have been tuned on the 'Taylor True-Harmonic' system, which ensures absolute sweetness and purity of tone, all harshness and dissonance being eliminated thereby. The perfection achieved in this ring is the result of years of exhaustive research work by the Loughborough firm, by which they have obtained vast experience of bell tuning.

The addition of a new semitone, an A flat bell, between the 6th and 7th bells of the peal of 12, has provided a middle ring of eight in E flat, and thus, like Exeter, York will have four rings of six, a minor and two major eights, a minor and a major ten, as well as the ring of twelve.

The bells have been hung with new fittings of the most modern type, incorporating all the latest and original improvements introduced by Messrs. Taylor and Co., designed not only with a view of reducing the labour required to ring the bells, but so also that the bells should remain in perfect ringing order, with the minimum amount of attention. The patent 'balanced' type of clapper is fitted to several of the bells, and this ensures each bell 'clapping up' on the right side without any checking of the rope on the part of the ringers, in addition to giving the bell a sharp blow, thereby producing a full tonal effect.

The bells are hung in a new massive iron framework, on a foundation of stout steel girders, well braced and firmly bolted together, the ends being grouted into the tower walls, thereby forming a bond and becoming a source of strength to the tower; in fact, on ringing up the heavier bells, with clappers tied, during the course of restoration, it was possible to be in the bell chamber without being aware that the bells were in full swing, the general design and strength of materials being so perfect that no movement or looseness was apparent.

The diameter of the tenor is 5ft. 8in., and the inscriptions on the bells are as follows:—

THE HISTORY OF YORK MINSTER BELLS.

The bells of York Minster have had an interesting history, and from the ringer's point of view the famous peal is the more noteworthy because it was the home of the first peal of twelve bells hung for ringing in this country. Moreover, within one period of 79 years it possessed two separate rings of twelve and one peal of ten bells. The following particulars of the bells are extracted from a history which Mr. J. R. Ferram, of Salisbury, wrote for 'The Ringing World' in one of our early numbers, and they are well worth reproducing now that the Minster is in possession of a new and magnificent ring of twelve.

The earliest notice of the bells is found in an old record extracted from the fabric rolls, dated A.D. 1371, written in mediæval Latin, wherein it appears that several bells were recast and rehung, and some work done to the clock, which altogether amounted to the sum of £60 10s. 1d. Later on, in Torre's manuscript, we find that certain metals were delivered to Thomas Innocent, bell founder of York, for casting four bells on July 11th, 1466.

UNLOADING THE ELEVENTH BELL AT THE MINSTER DOORWAY.

In the 16th century there appear to have been four bells in the north-west tower and eight in the south-west one. On January 7th, 1655, these four were removed to the south-west tower, and this seems to have formed the first peal of twelve in England. In 1657 the eleventh bell was cracked; the fourth also, being untunable, both were recast. The metal of the largest of the three bells of St. Nicholas-without-Walngate (at that time pulled down) was added to make up the weight required. A further record stated that: 'T. Dickinson, being Lord Mayor of the City of York in the year 1657, in conjunction with the Alderman and Councillors, gave £150 towards refounding some of the old bells, and making the chimes sound delightfully and perfectly on them all.' According to the dates on the old bells the fourth, seventh and eleventh seem to have been the ones recast at that time; and possibly also one or more of the smaller bells. Notwithstanding all this the four bells from the north-west tower did not even then harmonise with the other eight. So in 1681 Samuel Smith, bell founder of York, was employed to recast them. The inscriptions on the twelve bells at this time were as follows:—

- Treble. DEO ET REGI SACRVM. 1681.
- 2nd. IVBLATE DOMINO PSAL. LXVI. 1681.
- 3rd. EXVLVATE DEO PSAL. LXXXI. 1681.
- 4th. GLORIA IN EXCELSIS DEO. 1681.
- 5th. SUM . . ROSA PULSATA . . MUNDA MARIA . . VOCATA.
- 6th. I WILL SOVND AND RESOVND TO THY PEOPLE LORD WITH MY SWEET VOICE TO CALL THEM TO THY WORD. 1595.
- 7th. BEATVS EST POPVLVS QVI AGNOSCVNT CLANGOREM. 1657.
- 8th. TE DEVM LAVDAMVS. 1671. IOHANNES LAKE RESIDVS ROBERTVS HITCH DECANVS ROBERTVS SORESBY PRECANTOR CHRISTOPHERVS STONE CANCELLARIVS. PETRVS PSALLO PETRVS XPE TIBI DVM RESONAT CHORVS ISTE.
- 10th. SWEETLY TOLLING MEN DO CALL TO TASTE ON FOOD TO FEED THE SOUL. 1627.
- 11th. FVNERA DEPLORO, POPVLVM VOCO, FESTA DECORO. THOMAS DICKENSON MILITE MAIORE CIVIT: EBORACI VICE 2 DA SVMPHIBVS PROCVRANTE 1657. H. HARWOOD, E. CLAYERT, E. ELCOCK.
- Tenor. EXVLTEMVS DOMINO. 1627. PHINEAS HODSON CANCELLARIVS . . . WICKHAM ARCH — NVS EBOR.

(The three dots between words on the 5th represent three lions passant, the two upper ones crowned.)

These bells were hung in two tiers, the front five above, and the back seven below. They were never perfectly in tune. Even after being recast by Samuel Smith the front four were too light for the back eight, the treble being only two feet in diameter, and the second, third and fourth in the same proportion, there being a difference of nearly six inches between the fourth and fifth. It may also be noticed that the treble of the late peal of twelve was two feet six inches diameter, whereas the late tenor was quite three cwt. lighter than the one cast in 1627.

In 1733 it was decided to try what rehanging would do towards improving matters. The 'York Courant' for November 26th, 1733, gave the following account of this:—

'On Monday, Mr. James Harrison, of Barrow, in Lincolnshire, finished the rehanging of the peal of twelve bells in the south-west tower of the Cathedral, according to the article entered into by him with the Venerable Dean and Chapter. This was the first peal of twelve bells in England, the tenor or largest bell being upwards of a note deeper than the tenor of any other peal of twelve, and is near six foot in diameter. The eleventh is about 54 hundredweight. The rest of the bells, indeed, are not in proportion to those, in which disadvantage the skill of the undertaker appears very much, for they perform their revolutions very regularly, and their clappers are so well managed as to make every agreeable harmony. All twelve are hung upon one surface, or plain, in one frame. After this alteration several peals of Triples, Bob Minor and Caters have been performed on the said bells by the new Society of York Scholars, who design to shortly attempt those of Bob Major, Cinques, and Maximus. The tenor may be rung by one man for some time; but two can manage it with ease. All the rest are raised and maintained by one man to each bell for a considerable time. The whole is completed to the satisfaction of the church, and is agreed by most able judges to be the best finished piece of work that has been known in these parts. The said Mr. Harrison has also regulated the chimes upon the said bells in a very elegant manner.'

It should, perhaps, be pointed out that the 11th, said to be about 54 cwt., was actually one 42 cwt. 1 qr. 14 lb., and the tenor, reputed to weigh 63 cwt., was found to be only 55 cwt. 1 qr. The 'several peals' referred to were probably only touches.

WHEN THE MINSTER HAD A PEAL OF TEN.

Notwithstanding the rehanging by Harrison, the old peal of twelve bells was still considered unsatisfactory, and in Dean Fountayne's time an estimate for a new peal of ten was obtained from Lester and Pack, of the Whitechapel Foundry, London, the new peal to be as nearly as possible like the peal of ten at St. Mary-le-Bow, London, cast by the same firm in 1762, just three years previously. The estimate was to cast a peal of ten bells, weighing collectively ten tons, at 13s. per pound, £1,213 6s. 8d. To take 13 old bells, computed to weigh 12 tons 18 cwt., and allow 10d. per pound for them, £1,201 19s. 8d., leaving a balance of £11 7s. The 13 old bells mentioned were presumably the back seven of the old peal of twelve, the old four bell and two quarter bells of the clock, and the three bells formerly at St. Michael, Spurriergate, to which church the front five of the old Cathedral bells were removed, where they still are, a treble having been added to them to make a peal of six.

The Cathedral bells were accordingly taken down in 1765, and it appears that then the eighth bell was sold to a Mr. Beckwith for eleven pence per pound. The back six bells were then found to weigh as follows:—

	cwt.	qr.	lb.		cwt.	qr.	lb.
Seventh	14	2	15	Tenth	40	3	26
Eighth	19	2	11	Eleventh	42	1	14
Ninth	26	1	7	Tenor	55	1	0

From this it appears that not only were the front four bells of the old peal too small for the back eight, but there was also an immense disproportion between the ninth and tenth, nearly 15 cwt. There was a difference of quite seven inches in the diameter of these two bells. The order to cast the new peal of ten as nearly as possible like 'Bow bells' was faithfully carried out, the tenor weighing 53 cwt. 0 qr. 25 lb., just 3 lb. heavier than Bow tenor. The bells were opened on August 19th, 1765, and the following advertisement relating thereto was published:—

'This is to give notice to all Gentlemen ringers and others that there is a new peal of ten bells (cast by Lester and Pack, of London), to be open on Monday, the 19th of August next, at York Minster, and allowed by the best judges in London to be as fine a peal of that number as any in the kingdom, and as heavy. Free liberty being given any strangers to open the peal. Any ringers that choose to come the Sunday evening before will be allowed to ring a round peal upon trial. They are now hanging by Samuel Turner, bell hanger to the above firm. If any gentleman, churchwardens, or others want any new peals of bells, or any that want new casting, or hanging, by sending a letter to the said S. Turner, at the Cross Guns, near the Minster, betwixt this and the first of September next, they shall be waited upon immediately, and their work faithfully executed after the very best manner by their most obedient and humble servant, S. Turner.'

The inscriptions on this peal of ten, as taken from an old history of York Minster, printed in 1763, are as follows:—

- On each bell: 'Lester and Pack of London Fecit. 1765.'
- Fifth: 'Musick is Medicine to the Mind.'
- Sixth: 'Our Voices shall with Joyful Sound: Make Hills and Valleys eccho Round.'
- Seventh: 'In Wedlock Bands All ye who Join, With Hands your Hearts Unite: So shall our Tuneful Tongues combine, To Laud the Nuptial Rite.'
- Eighth: 'Ye Ringers all that Prize Your Health and Happiness: Be Sober Merry Wise And You'll the same Possess.'
- Ninth: 'To Honour both of God and King: Our Voices shall in Concert Ring.'
- Tenor: 'J. Fountayne, Dean. W. Cowper, W. Berdmore, W. Cayley, W. Mason, Residentaries.'

We must here notice that an old clock bell used to hang in the south transept. It was 43 inches in diameter, and weighed about 14 cwt., and was inscribed 'Ave Gratia plena Dominus tecum.' The clock, being worn out, was removed in 1752; and this bell, together with the two quarter-jack bells was removed in 1762 and sold to Lester and Pack with other old bells, as before stated.

There was also a service bell which formerly hung in one the turrets of the south transept. It measured 30 inches in diameter, and was inscribed as follows:—

'Surge Cito Propera Cunctos Citat Excitat Hora Cur Dormis Vigila Me Resonante Leva, 1592.'

This bell was removed in Dean Gale's time to the top of the central tower and, later on, to the south-west tower, where it was destroyed in the fire of 1840. Lester and Pack's peal of ten bells escaped the fire of 1829, caused by Jonathan Martin, the mad incendiary, which only destroyed the eastern part of the Minster, but in the evening of May 20th, 1840, another fire broke out in the south-west tower, which quickly spread to the roof of the nave. In a short time the whole tower was on fire, and Lester and Pack's peal of ten bells was totally destroyed, as well as the roof of the nave and the old service bell.

When the Cathedral was restored, Stephen Beckwith, M.D., presented the peal of twelve bells, which occupied the tower until last year. The peal were in the key of C, the same as the former peal of ten. The tenor was about half cwt. more than the old one, and was put up, together with the clock, before the rest of the peal. The whole peal were rung for the first time on July 4th, 1844. The inscription on the 11th was:

'Soli Deo Gloria Anno Domini MDCCCLXIII. Regius Victoris Britanniarum Regno Septimo, Archiepiscopus Edwardi Archiepi: Ebor XXXVII. Stephanus Beckwith, Medicinus Doctor inter Eboracenses Primarius Testamento Legavit. Carolus et Georgius Mears, Londini Fecerunt.'

All the other bells simply bore the inscription, 'Carolus et Georgius Mears, Londini Fecerunt MDCCCLXIV.'

'Great Peter' was cast in the year 1845, the cost being defrayed by subscription.

The bells were last rehung in 1913. The dedication of the new bells takes place on Sunday. Owing, however, to the fact that the flooring in the tower has not yet been completed, it has become necessary to postpone the arrangements for the 'Ringers' Day,' which had been announced for September 4th. Due notice will be given in our column when another day is fixed.

SAWBRIDGEWORTH, HERTS.—On Wednesday, July 7th, as a farewell compliment to the Rev. A. ### WINCHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD. PORTSMOUTH DISTRICT AT BRAMSHOTT.

A successful meeting was held at Bramshott on Saturday last, and, incidentally, it was the first time that a district meeting had been held there. Considering that it is rather an awkward place to get at, being in the north-east corner of the district, a good muster turned up, including ringers from Bramshott, Portsmouth (St. Mary's and St. Thomas'), the Master (Mr. G. Williams), Messrs. J. H. Shepherd (Swindon), C. W. Player (Stone, Ashford), and C. Tribe (Tenterden). Apologies for absence were received from Mr. G. Pullinger (general secretary) and also Mr. A. H. Pulling, who has been instructing the Bramshott ringers.

The handy ring of six were fully utilised during the afternoon, while Mr. E. Woods (churchwarden) kindly showed some of the members many interesting features of the church. An enjoyable service was held in the church, when the Guild's form was used, and an interesting address on ringing during the last century was given by the Rev. O. S. Watford, of Haslemere.

By the kind permission of Colonel B. F. R. Holbrooke, D.S.O., and Mrs. Holbrooke, tea was partaken of in their lovely grounds. At the business meeting which followed, the colonel kindly accepted the invitation to take the chair. Mr. A. Booker (Bramshott) was elected a full member, Messrs. C. W. Player and C. Tribe compounding members, and the Rev. H. A. Howies and Colonel Holbrooke honorary members.—It was decided to hold the annual district meeting at Havant on November 13th next, due notice of which will be given in 'The Ringing World.'

A letter was read from Mr. A. H. Pulling complimenting the local band on the progress they had made and on the spirit in which they had taken his instruction, which he hoped to continue.—In reply, Mr. W. H. Wright (Bramshott) said that they could not have had a better instructor, as he had a very genial manner with young ringers. He was delighted to hear that Mr. Pulling was going to continue, and that they would have him as long as he wished to come to Bramshott.

The Master then read a letter from the vice-president (Rev. C. E. Matthews) who had recently had a long illness. It was resolved that a letter of sympathy be sent from the district to him, also to Mrs. Pulling, who had met with an accident on the Somerset tour, and to Mrs. Pullinger, wife of the general secretary, who was in Winchester Hospital.

Votes of thanks were accorded the Rectors of Bramshott and Liss for the use of the bells, Colonel Holbrooke for the use of his grounds, and also to the gentlemen who had kindly entertained the members to tea, the clergy, the organist and the caterers. Some of the members then journeyed to Liss, where an enjoyable half-hour was spent, while others took the opportunity of looking round the beautiful grounds. Thanks are also due to Mr. E. Woods, who kindly met some of the ringers at Liphook station and took them to the church in a motor conveyance.

During the day the ringing included Grandsire and Stedman Doubles, Plain Bob, Oxford and Kent Treble Bob and Cambridge Surprise Minor.

LANCASHIRE ASSOCIATION. BLACKBURN BRANCH SOCIAL.

The annual meeting, tea and social of the Blackburn Branch was held at SS. Peter and Paul's Church, Rishton, on Saturday last. The bells were raised about 2 o'clock, and were kept going in various methods during the afternoon. An enjoyable tea was provided in the schoolroom, about 70 ringers and friends participating.

The business meeting followed, the Rev. Ira Brown (Vicar) presiding, supported by the Ringing Master, Mr. L. J. Williams.—Several new members were enrolled, and it was proposed to hold the next meeting (for ringing only) at St. Michael's, Blackburn, on Saturday, October 2nd, this to be followed by a business meeting at St. Peter's, Burnley, on Saturday, November 7th.

Mr. Rennie Hartley was re-appointed on the general committee for the next two years, and Mr. J. Watson was re-elected branch secretary.

A vote of thanks was proposed to the Vicar for presiding, to the church officials for the use of the bells and schoolroom, also to the Rishton ringers and lady friends who had helped to make the tea and meeting a success.—The Vicar suitably replied.

Then followed the 'tit-bit' of the day. A splendid social had been arranged. Songs and recitations were rendered in fine style, and afterwards a short dance programme was carried out.

HEREFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

A quarterly meeting of the Ludlow and Church Stretton district was held at Cleobury Mortimer, and ringers were present from Bridgnorth, Bromfield, Coalbrookdale, Knighton and Ludlow, also Rev. H. S. T. Richardson and Mr. Wm. Short.

During the afternoon and evening touches of Grandsire and Stedman Doubles and Plain Bob Minor were rung, and before tea a 720 Kent Treble Bob Minor, in 25 minutes, by the following: Wm. Saunders 1, Rev. H. S. T. Richardson (conductor) 2, Wm. Short 3, Geo. Oliver 4, L. Hewett 5, W. Lago 6.

The Rev. H. S. T. Richardson presided at the business meeting, at which it was decided to hold combined practices at Bromfield in September and Church Stretton in November.

BARNSELY AND DISTRICT ASSOCIATION.
THE FORTHCOMING SHIELD CONTEST.

The monthly meeting of the Barnsley and District Association was held on Saturday, August 14th, at the picturesque village of High Aekworth. The bells are an ancient ring of six, and were ringing at intervals from 5 p.m. until 9 p.m. Tea was partaken of at the Brown Cow Hotel, where there was a warm welcome and homely attention. The business meeting followed tea. The company included one of the churchwardens, who apologised for the absence of the Vicar (Rev. Boucher), who was away on holiday, and emphasised the welcome already given by saying he was a 'brother string' of twenty-five years' experience, and was thus able to share their feelings as church workers.

The business of the meeting was of the usual happy order. A sum of 13s. 6d. was allowed out of the funds to pay for the teas of some of the members who are affected by the strike troubles in the coal world. Twelve new members were elected.

The committee's report of arrangements for shield contest, which is to take place on September 11th, at Barnsley, was approved.

Mr. R. Ricketts (Wath) honoured the society by an offer of six silver medals as a second prize for the contest, on condition that prizes are also awarded the winners of the shield. This was accepted as a challenge by the secretary, and duly accepted.

A hearty vote of thanks was unanimously passed to the Vicar, the two churchwardens, to the ladies for tea, and all the local company for their arrangements.

BELLS AND 'WIRELESS.'

A pertinent point is raised by a correspondent in another column, by the suggestion that some step should be taken to ensure that only the best ringing should be broadcast. The writer is quite correct when he says that some of the ringing which has been 'sent over' to listeners has been of very poor quality, and likely to be detrimental to the interests of ringing. Readers will remember that at the Central Council meeting at Chester last year a resolution was passed with a view to getting the British Broadcasting Company to substitute, for the chiming, which at that period was the only sound of bells which the public heard by wireless, some genuine examples of our art. Since that time, undoubtedly largely as the result of the representations made, there have been numerous broadcasts of bell ringing, but unfortunately not all of them have been above reproach in regard to the striking. The fault has sometimes been due, as our correspondent points out, to the fact that the B.B.C., anxious to include the bells of some particular church in their programme, usually as a prelude to a service, has done so without realising the capabilities of the ringers. The consequent performance must occasionally have left the lay public far from impressed with the rhythmic beauty of change ringing, and such dislike as may thus be created might quite possibly become the germ of opposition to ringing generally.

Unquestionably it would be a step in the right direction if the B.B.C. could be induced to set up a sort of consulting committee of ringers, who would be able to advise them on this matter. The Central Council might well take the initiative, although in this case it does not necessarily follow that an Advisory Committee exclusively of members of the Council would be best able to give the broadcasting authorities the information they ought to have. It is delicate ground, but the position ought nevertheless to be faced, for bells have been very much to the fore in broadcasting programmes recently, and not only are early impressions lasting, but they will doubtless decide whether bells shall form any part of future programmes. Admitting that every hand does its best upon this, as it should upon every occasion, it has also to be realised that some men are far from perfect strikers. We have heard broadcasts in which, perhaps, one bell has been consistently slow, with the result that in every change there has been an irritating gap. The ringer of the bell, in such a case, obviously had no 'ears,' neither presumably had the conductor. This is but one example of the type of ringing which may be injurious to the art in the public opinion, but it illustrates our point that it is not every band that is fitted for such an important task as broadcasting. We hope our correspondent's letter second peal was attempted, but came to a sudden end after one and a half hours' ringing.

Sunday, August 22nd.—Three of the more energetic members of the party were early astir, and a peal of Bob Minor was brought round previous to breakfast, thus enabling Mr. and Mrs. F. I. to complete the list of Plain Bob on handbells, both having now rung peals of this method on 6, 8, 10 and 12 bells.

Cambridge Royal and Grandsire Caters were rung for morning service at the Church of St. Lawrence. After dinner, an attempt was made for Bob Major with mine host and hostess, this being successfully accomplished in 2 hours 27 minutes. Rupert being desirous of christening his new 'rifle range,' a peal of Bob Royal was rung after tea; thus the last day of a very pleasant week closed with ringing Minor, Major and Royal all within thirteen hours.

Monday, August 23rd.—The unwelcome day had arrived, and parting commenced at the early hour of 7 a.m., the 'bachelors' leaving later, that hour being far too early for the notorious trunk and its owner.

Once again the party thank Mr. and Mrs. Rupert for their unstinted hospitality.

THE SURFLEET 'DIARY.'

Saturday, August 14th, saw the arrival of the party for the 'good old annual' at Surfleet, the now famous trunk arriving in good time, with 'Old Bill' bringing up the rear. Unfortunately, the gathering was not so large this year, Mrs. W. Ayre being unable to be present owing to her little daughter being on the sick list.

Sunday, August 15th.—In the morning a visit was paid to the Parish Church, Cambridge Royal and Grandsire Caters being rung for morning service. After dinner, preparations were made for a visit to Boston. Arriving at the famous 'Stump,' a gentle climb to the ringing room (180ft. from the ground) was not at all appreciated by some of the members, but the view to be seen from the top of the tower was full compensation for the climb. The close proximity of the bells to the ringing room, and the huge dome standing up in the middle of the floor, make the tower unique, although not conducive to comfortable ringing, but, despite these drawbacks, touches of Grandsire Triples were rung for evening service.

Monday, August 16th.—Work was the order, and after the 'townies' had spent a full day in the field amongst the wheat and oats there was more than one aching limb, but no one regretted doing a little work for a change. Retiring at 11 p.m., old Bill's bed was not at all to his liking, which necessitated its removal to the bottom of the stairs, where he was left heaping showers of blessings upon the ladies.

Tuesday, August 17th.—A visit was first paid to Spalding market. At 3 o'clock in the afternoon the bells at the Parish Church were set going to Cambridge Surprise Major, and after 3 hours 23 minutes' ringing a good peal was brought round, this being Rupert's first in the method as conductor and his better half's first peal of Major in the method. After the peal, the party were welcomed by the Vicar, full justice being done to the meat tea kindly provided by him. The band were unanimous in their opinion that Messrs. Taylor had made a good job of rehanging the peal.

Wednesday, August 18th.—Work was again the order of the day, but the clerk of the weather was in an undecided mood until mid-day, when he finally settled matters for the party, a peal of Bob Royal being brought round in fine style. This day will always be remembered as a black one, the behaviour of the 'bachelors' necessitating a visit from the local police.

Thursday, August 19th, was allotted for a day at the seaside, and all were on the move earlier than usual, despite the fact that the 'bachelors' had had a somewhat restless night!

Friday, August 20th.—Breakfast over, an early start was made for Bob Royal, which came round a few minutes before dinner. The afternoon was spent in watching other people work, while in the evening a peal of Kent Treble Bob Royal was brought round, much to the satisfaction of all.

Saturday, August 21st.—This was commenced in the usual way by the party wishing Rupert 'many happy returns of the day,' and then ringing a peal of Bob Royal in honour of his birthday. A (Continued at foot of previous column.)

NOTES BY THE WAY.

BY J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

The following are Mr. Segar's instructions for tapping changes, according to a system which will work in Plain Bob, Grandsire, Treble Bob, and the few other methods in which the coursing order of the bells is not broken or practically not broken throughout the course.

At first do not use handbells, but obtain a circular piece of cardboard, say, seven or eight inches in diameter, and write on its edge, as on a clock face, as many figures as required in this order—

2 4 6 8 10 9 7 5 3 1
For example, try eight figures—

It is necessary to use two hands, say the forefinger of each. Place R.F. (right-hand finger) on 1 and L.F. (left-hand finger) on 2. Move them in opposite directions until they meet.

Thus R.F. will tap 1 3 5 7 and L.F. will tap 2 4 6 8.

Now tap alternately, starting with R.F. on 1, and you produce rounds. Then, still starting with R.F. on 1 and L.F. on 2, tap alternately, beginning with L.F., and you will produce 2 1 4 3 6 5 8 7. You have now finished (both ways) with pair 1—2.

Take the next pair in clock-wise direction, namely, 2 and 4.

First R.F. start produces 2 4 1 6 3 8 5 7.

Then L.F. start produces 4 2 6 1 8 3 7 5.

It should be noted that in arithmetic there are only four pairs in eight, but round this clock face there are eight pairs, which must be used clock-wise—12—24—46—68—87—75—53—31.

Start twice from each pair, first clock-wise, and then anti-clockwise, which produces the first lead of Plain Bob on any number so far as the row 1 3 2 5 4 7 6, etc.

Every time the treble leads move the treble anti-clockwise, as shown:—

This clock face contains the sixteen changes of the second lead. After satisfying himself that this is so, the tapper should throw away this card and practice this lead on the original clock face. He must get used to tapping 1 between 3 and 5 and omitting it where written.

Similarly with all the other positions of the treble moved anti-clock-wise, until you have tapped the plain course. Then fetch out the handbells and hang them as under—

    8 6 4 2

You still have the clock face, but it is a very much flattened circle.

For Kent move 2 round, then 4, and so on.

For Grandsire move 1 and 2 round.'

I have copied these directions exactly as Mr. Segar wrote them, for they are quite clear. Obviously, however, the directions for tapping Kent would in practice require a little amplification.

Now here is something to amuse a ringer for an hour or two on a winter's evening. And when he understands it he will learn something more than just how to tap a plain course. For the system is based on the most important thing in Method Construction—the law of cyclical movement.

If the reader is interested he may, when he has mastered Mr. Segar's directions, turn to the article I wrote in 'The Ringing World' of February 20th, 1925, on Constructional Shunts. This tapping is a practical example of what I was there trying to explain. And, perhaps, if he is clever enough, he may from my article find a way to adapt this system to such methods as Double Norwich or Double Oxford. It is easy to see from Mr. Segar's letter how it can be adapted to Reverse Bob and Double Bob. Note, too, the light it throws on another question at one time much disputed about by the experts of the Exercise—the question of whether Plain Bob and Grandsire are the same method.

Here you have a proof of the truth of Shipway's statement that Grandsire is only bob ringing with a bell in the hunt, for in tapping them you use exactly the same means, only in the latter you move 1 only through the other bells, and in the former you move 1—2.

Though Mr. Segar does not deal with anything beyond the plain course, it is easy to understand how to ring touches. When a bob is called you must not only move the treble one step anti-clock-wise, but also the two bells at the time coursing one in front and one behind it. You must then remember the altered coursing order of the working bells, and move the treble among them. The thing now begins to be difficult—not nearly so difficult as tapping by transposing every change, for you have to alter the imaginary positions of your bells once only every lead. From lead head to lead end the process is practically mechanical—but more than difficult enough to be the master of the vast majority of us ordinary ringers.

EARL SHILTON AND BARWELL RINGERS COMBINE.

A long run was enjoyed by the ringers of Earl Shilton and Barwell, on the occasion of their annual outing, when they were accompanied by a few friends, including Mr. Harry Briggs, of Stoney Stanton and Mr. Tom Cooper, of Sapcote. A lovely bus was 'commandeered,' and a start was made from Barwell about mid-day. Leadenham was reached about 3.30, the journey being a very pleasant one, which took the party through Leicester. A halt was made to refresh the inner man at Melton Mowbray, then on through Grantham. A nice view was seen whilst travelling through Rutland, with Belvoir Castle towering above the tall trees in the distance, and looking a fine picture in the bright sunshine. When Leadenham was reached, the fine peal of six bells were soon going to Plain Bob, Grandsire, and Kent Treble Bob. A call was made at Fulbeck, and several touches rung on the light six there before the party got back to the eight bells at Caythorpe, but this was the Eight Bells Inn, where a fine meat tea awaited the visitors. When all were satisfied, the other eight bells were visited, namely, those in a grand tower and steeple. The bells, a beautiful light peal, were soon set going, but unfortunately the ringing was brought to a sudden stop. Everyone had had a good ring, the methods being Grandsire and Stedman Triples and Bob Major. During a course of Kent Treble Bob Major the sixth rope broke. This put 'paid' to the ringing, except for the handbells. The return journey was made through Newark, and home reached about midnight, after a pleasant day.

KEYMER, SUSSEX.—On Sunday, June 20th, for evening service, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples (from Groves' Variation of Parker's 12 part) in 41 mins.: C. Lovell 1, A. J. Backshall 2, H. Gravett 3, A. J. Feist 4, J. Parsons 5, T. Stringer 6, J. Feist (conductor) 7, G. Gaston 8. The ringers belong to Burgess Hill and Keymer.

GLOUCESTER AND BRISTOL ASSOCIATION.*BRISTOL BRANCH AT MARSHFIELD.

In delightful weather the monthly meeting of the Bristol branch was held at Marshfield, on Saturday last. The Bristol contingent enjoyed the motor trip of 12½ miles from the city. It is hoped that this chartering of a motor for all meetings outside the city will be made a feature of the excursions in the future. The following towers were represented: Bristol (St. James', St. Philip's, St. Stephen's, St. Thomas', St. Luke's), Almondsbury, Henbury, Mangotsfield, Warmley, and a full muster of the local band, and the following were welcome visitors: Miss N. G. Williams, Messrs. W. H. Brown, T. F. King, W. Prescott (Bath), J. T. Dyke (Chilcompton), C. D. Heginbotham (Devizes), F. C. Haynes (Cambridge University Guild), F. Lambell (Chippingham), and A. H. Drew (Dorchester), making a total of 42.

Ringling commenced at 3, and the service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. L. O. Asplen). At the short business meeting, presided over by the chairman (Mr. J. Gould), who welcomed all their visitors, Messrs. F. C. Benger (Dorchester, Dorset) and F. E. Haynes (Cambridge University) were elected life members.

A card was sent round in support of the restoration of the peal of bells at Deane, Hampshire, where the present Vicar (the Rev. C. D. P. Davies) is making a special effort to raise funds for this worthy object, and the chairman, Messrs. W. A. Cave, and E. Guise appealed for support. It is pleasing to be able to say that the appeal was not made in vain. The Rev. C. D. P. Davies took great interest in the Gloucester and Bristol Association while living in the diocese.

Mr. Heggimbotham proposed a comprehensive vote of thanks - the Vicar for taking the service and for the use of the bells, to the organist and blower, to the local band, especially Mr. Beazer, the local secretary, for preparing tea, and to the ladies for waiting at the tables. He also gave the meeting, in his well-known gifted style, his own opinion on many matters appertaining to making ringers and ringing a success.

After the meeting, several of the members visited the Vicarage grounds and gardens, which were much appreciated. They also visited the last resting place of the late secretary of the local band, Mr. W. Lewis, who did much in his time for the ringers and ringing at Marshfield, and his happy face was missed at the meeting.

Good practice was obtained on the bells, the methods varying from Grandsire Triples to Cambridge Surprise Major, and some of the ringers had their first touch in the different methods. The members spent a very pleasant and interesting afternoon.

The next monthly meeting will be held at Alsom, where the grand old peal have been restored, and it is hoped to see a large gathering of the clans present.

FOR THE BEGINNERS.*CONDUCTING.—BY GEORGE WILLIAMS.

The explanation of the calling of Grandsire Doubles given last week should have given the young conductor sufficient insight to enable him to call any of the different 120's that are given in the ringing books, with which every aspirant in ringing should have armed himself. In case, however, there may be any young conductor who has no such book in his possession, it may be pointed out that in addition to the calling explained in the last notes, namely, a bob at alternate leads, with a single substituted for one of the bobs at a corresponding place in each half, there is another simple form which produces 120. This is to call a single every time the observation bell is in 4-5 up and a bob at each alternate 'Before,' which is when the observation bell makes 3rd's. Thus you can call a single the first time the observation bell is in 4-5 up, a bob the next lead (when it is 'Before'), and a single the next lead, when it is again in 4-5 up. You then omit a call the next lead, when the observation bell is again 'Before.' Or you can begin with a bob at the first 'Before,' and omit it the next time the observation bell makes third's.

The quarter-peal of Stedman Triples reported in last week's issue, in this column, without giving the tower, was rung at Pendleton.

At Walthamstow, on Tuesday, August 24th, for practice, at St. Mary's Church, 720 Bob Minor was rung by: Leslie R. Welch (aged 14) 1, C. T. Coles 2, F. C. Maynard 3, R. Maynard, sen., 4, J. C. Adams 5, H. Rumens (conductor) 6. First 720 and longest length by the ringer of the treble.

BOLNEY, SUSSEX.—On Sunday, August 8th, for evening service, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples in 46 minutes: T. Gasson 1, W. Watts 2, L. Wheatland 3, E. J. Davey (conductor) 4, W. Wheeler 5, G. Lewry 6, W. Vincent 7, A. Absalom 8. Rung in honour of W. Watts' birthday.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

In a very impressive service, on Sunday afternoon, the new ring of twelve bells at York Minster were dedicated. The important event was broadcast, and thus hundreds of thousands of people throughout the country were able to listen to and, in a sense, share in this noteworthy event. The rounds rung on the bells were eagerly listened to by ringers, and from many parts of the country we have received praises of the magnificent ring which Messrs. Taylor and Co., of Loughborough, have erected. The 'ringers' day' has not yet been fixed.

The first peal on the bells at Michaelchurch Eskley, Herefordshire, was rung on Sunday. These are a ring of five cast by Rudhall in 1732. It is hoped to add a new treble in the near future. At present there is a sum of £40 in hand towards the fund, and the parishioners intend to endeavour to raise the remainder during the coming winter.

Arrangements are now nearing completion for the Yorkshire commemorative dinner, which will be held this year at Sheffield, on September 18th. Notwithstanding the present crisis in the industrial world, it is hoped that an effort will be made by ringers to attend the gathering to honour the memories of past founders and uphold the traditions of the association.

Mr. Segar's explanation of one method of 'tapping,' which Mr. Trollope deals with in his 'Notes by the Way,' recalls the letter of Mr. H. Dew, in our issue of July 9th, suggesting that it would be interesting to have the opinion of some of our readers as to whom they consider the greatest exponent of these wonderful performances. Mr. Dew's letter was printed as referring to 'peal lapping,' whereas it should have been 'peal tapping.'

Yesterday was the anniversary of a peal of 5,039 Grandsire Caters, the first on the bells, rung at Bishop's Stortford, on September 2nd, 1820, by the Junior Society of College Youths.

On September 6th, 1807, a peal of 6,140 'Bobb Major Royal' was rung in 4 hrs. 23 mins. on the famous and now departed Coventry bells.

Thomas Tolladay took part in a peal of 6,144 Oxford Treble Bob Major at St. Peter's, Walworth, on September 7th, 1830.

At St. George's, Southwark, a peal of Bob Triples was rung on September 9th, 1750.

Mrs. Pulling, of Guildford, who suffered from concussion owing to the motor-cycle spill on the first day of the Somerset tour, was still in Sherborne Hospital at the beginning of this week. She is, however, going on very satisfactorily.

NEW PEAL OF EIGHT FOR BRIGHTON.

Brighton is to have another new peal of bells. An order has been placed with Messrs. Mears and Stainbank for a ring of eight for the Church of the Good Shepherd.

Brighton already has two modern peals of ten, viz., at St. Peter's and St. Nicholas'. If two trebles were added at the former church, where the tenor is 25 cwt., the borough would possess modern rings of eight, ten and twelve. There is already an old peal of eight at St. Paul's Church, where there is now little or no ringing.

A QUAIN CAMPANOLOGICAL PERFORMANCE IN 1809

In 'The Meteor,' the Rugby School Magazine, of July 14th, 1887, is an account, written by Mr. M. H. Bloxam, then 82 years of age, of the celebrations at Rugby on the occasion of the Jubilee of King George III. on October 25th, 1809. This account also contains some reminiscences of the Rev. Charles Hume, who was a boy at the school at the period, and was, at the time of writing, Rector of Moonstoke, Hants, and 89 years of age. Mr. Hume gives the following account of a performance on Rugby Parish Church bells:—

'It was cried round the town that in the course of the day tunes would be rung on the church bells and royal salutes given in honour of his Majesty, George the Third, the whole to be performed by one person. This excited so much curiosity in me, that I determined I would see how it could possibly be done, and to satisfy myself I went up into the tower of Rugby Church, before the performance commenced. The professor was a strong-built man, and his evident self-assurance gave me confidence and expectation as I watched his proceedings. I observed that having taken a central point of the very solid floor of the belfry, he described with chalk a circle around it. He then, with the help of his assistant, a strong-looking man, drew each bell-rope just short of actually sounding the bell, and in succession secured each rope on the chalk circular line by strong staples cleverly driven home into the floor. This done, the soloist sat down in the centre of the circular arrangement of ropes, and with a surprising command of his "corporation sole," head, shoulders, elbows, wrists, hands, back, knees, feet, with a versatility and precision I could not have believed unless I had seen it done, the professor played on those strong hempen cords the popular tunes of the day, finishing with "God save the King," and for a royal salute sweeping those strong hempen cords with a continuous rolling of himself round his central pivot on the floor, which I may describe as a centrifugal convoluted hob major of himself, well deserving the applause elicited by a performance so surpassing expectation and challenging proof.'

DEATH OF MR. F. J. COPE.*RINGER AT LICHFIELD CATHEDRAL FOR OVER FIFTY YEARS.

It is with regret we record the death of Mr. Frederick James Cope, of Lichfield, which took place on August 17th, at the age of 71 years.

Deceased's occupation was that of a printer, and he had worked at Messrs. Meacham's for the long period of 56 years when in March last he had to give up owing to illness, which proved, later, to be cancer. For the last eight weeks he had taken to his bed, and his sufferings were acute.

The funeral took place on August 22nd. The first part of the service was taken at St. Mary's Church by the Rev. H. Cresswell, Vicar, assisted by Archdeacon Bright and the Rev. Canon Penny, and the interment in St. Michael's churchyard. At the conclusion of the obsequies a course of Grandsire Triples was rung on handbells over the grave by A. Walker 1-2, H. Knight 3-4, J. E. Groves 5-6, and A. Paddon Smith 7-8. The bearers were six of deceased's old ringing friends from the local towers, viz.: Messrs. A. Bowler, J. Powles, C. Barratt, W. Rogers, S. Gregory and H. Gallimore. Other ringers who attended were Messrs. J. Key (aged 84) (St. Mary's), J. W. Finnis (Tanworth), and J. Swinfield (Burton). Many floral tributes were sent, amongst which was one from members of the Stafford Archdeaconry in the shape of a bell with wheel attached.

A widow, five sons (two of whom are ringers), and a daughter are left to mourn their loss.

Although no record has been kept, it is known that deceased rang in upwards of 100 peals, many of which he conducted, including the four standard methods and Double Norwich. These were rung under the auspices of the Midland Counties Association, St. Martin's Guild, and the Society for the Archdeaconry of Stafford. Mr. Cope was one of the original members of the latter, when it was formed in 1883, and attended each annual meeting except the one in June last, when he was too ill to do so. He had been a ringer at St. Mary's for 57 years, and at the Cathedral for 53, the ringers at these towers being more or less one band undertaking duty at both places, and Mr. Cope was the conductor. His interest in ringing was maintained to the last, and a few minutes before his demise he asked that his glasses might be put on so that he could read 'The Ringing World.'

Touches of Grandsire Triples, half-muffled, were rung at St. Mary's Church and at the Cathedral, and Bob Minimus on the four old bells at St. Chad's, the tenor of which is reputed to have been cast in A.D. 1255.

GREAT DUNMOW'S NEW TREBLES.*ANOTHER PEAL OF EIGHT FOR ESSEX.

An order has been placed with Messrs. J. Taylor and Co., Loughborough, to add two trebles to complete the octave in St. Mary's Church, Great Dunmow, Essex. The same firm recently re-hung the existing ring of six in an iron frame and recast the three trebles. The new bells are to be dedicated by the Bishop of Colchester on Sunday, October 31st, at 3 p.m.

LONDON.—On Sunday, August 22nd, for evening service at St. Clement Danes', Strand, 1,277 Grandsire Caters: F. W. Chorley 1, T. H. Taffender (conductor) 2, L. Gray 3, R. H. Bullen 4, W. G. Matthews 5, J. Scholes 6, F. C. Newman 7, L. Hill 8, F. Winney 9, H. Taylor 10. First quarter-peal of Caters by ringers of 3rd, 4th and 8th.

BELL RINGING BROADCASTS.

To the Editor.

Sir,—Although one can never get much sound information, one hears from time to time that the change-ringing 'broadcast' from various towers is far from satisfactory. While the bells themselves may be satisfactory in every respect, the quality of the ringing sometimes is the subject of adverse criticism, not only from ringers, who understand the difficulty of producing a perfect touch to order, but from members of the general public who do not, but naturally expect to hear as perfect a piece of music as they would if listening in to a piano solo, for instance. Even from cathedrals and famous towers, one hears of poor performances on the wireless. This is important and serious, because it is liable either to lower the public opinion of the art of ringing or decrease the number of opportunities to broadcast, or both. It seems to be assumed that because a cathedral or other tower has a good peal of bells that the ringers there are sure to put up a good performance, whereas it is well known to ringers that this is often far from being the case.

Frequently the perfect ringing that will occur in long stretches during a peal cannot be attained in a short touch, sometimes not even in a plain course, especially on what I will call a 'nervous' occasion before the listening-in public. A company broadcast a touch of Grandsire Caters some months ago, which was severely criticised, on a good peal of bells. It is the only method they practise, and there is plenty of evidence that they seldom, if ever, accomplish a well-struck touch. To use a common term, they have been in the 'same rut' for years.

I am aware that the suggestion I shall now put forward is liable to cause controversy by its very nature, but as this question is entirely in the hands of ringers, to secure good ringing for broadcasting it should be tackled in a spirit of broadmindedness.

The suggestion is that a committee, preferably of the Central Council, be formed, to draw up a list of towers suitable for broadcasting, where competent bands are known to be in good practice, and likely to put up good performances.

This committee should be empowered to get in touch with the broadcasting authorities, and be in a position to explain why certain good peals are not available because at present the ringing is not up to the standard; secondly, to present their list of towers where good ringing is likely to be obtained. Lastly, that in big centres, at any rate, a special band might be obtained for special occasions where the local company is inefficient and could be induced to stand down.

This suggestion is drastic, but surely necessary. If ringers are to get control of the broadcasting of their own art, some scheme should be started before the situation is out of control. It could scarcely call up bad feeling if ringers generally really love the best of their art, and have the desire to present only the best to the public, always remembering that a bad performer in any other form of art is liable to be hissed off the stage.—Yours, etc.,

OUT-OF-COURSE.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD.*DEVIZES BRANCH.

The usual monthly meeting of the Devizes branch was held at Bratton, Wilts, on Saturday, August 21st, when a very pleasant and instructive time was spent.

Some ringers took inside bells for the first time, one lady ringer ringing rounds for the first time, and others taking a hand in new methods. Ringing commenced about 3 p.m., and at 4.40 the Guild service was conducted by the newly-appointed Vicar (the Rev. Seymour Collett, M.A.), Miss Hobbs, the organist, being at the organ.

Tea was held at the Church Institute, and between 20 and 30 sat down, including the Vicar, the chairman (Mr. C. D. Heginbotham), and the secretary (Mr. F. Green).

The Vicar spoke a few words of welcome on the first visit of the branch to Bratton since his appointment to the parish, saying how nice it was to be again, after a space of twelve years, in a parish where there was a peal of bells. He gave advice to the ringers to undertake ringing from a right motive as a work for God and His Church.

A short business meeting followed, presided over by the chairman (Mr. C. D. Heginbotham), who welcomed the new Vicar into the branch, and thanked him for the use of the bells, and conducting the service.—A vote of thanks was also accorded to the organist.

Further ringing then took place, touches of Grandsire and Stedman Doubles, Bob Minor, and Kent Treble Bob Minor being rung.

Ringers were present from Bratton, Devizes (St. John's and St. Mary's), Edington, Trowbridge, Holt, Melksham, Westbury and Warminster.

Several new members were elected, including the Rev. S. Collett (Bratton) and Mrs. W. West (Melksham).

The chairman drew the attention of the ringers to a recent article in 'The Ringing World' about individual members taking an interest in the work of their Guilds, and showing how important this was if the work was to progress.

Ringings was continued till 7.30 p.m., when some of the ringers proceeded to the fine old church at Edington, where touches of Grandsire Doubles were rung. Everyone present spent a pleasant time.

SWANSEA AND BRECON DIOCESAN GUILD. THE ANNUAL MEETING.

The third annual meeting of the Swansea and Brecon Diocesan Guild was held on Saturday last, in the parish of Brecon, the towers of St. Mary's (eight bells) and St. David's (six bells) being open for ringing. A large number also journeyed by charabanc to Llanfagan, a parish situate within a few miles of Brecon, where there was a peal of eight bells also available. The towers represented at the meeting were: St. Mary's and St. David's (Brecon), Llanelly (Brecon), Talgarth, Glasbury, Aberavon, Baglan, Neath, Cadoxton, Morriston, Gorseinon, Llangatlock, and Llanstephan. Visiting bands from Bodwas and Caerphilly were also present, as well as Mr. John P. Fidler, of Stockport (who was on a visit to the district). Ringing commenced shortly after 11 a.m., and continued practically throughout the day.

A short service was held at the Cathedral Church of St. John at 3.15 p.m., when the president of the Guild, the Lord Bishop of the diocese, preached to a large congregation. The service was intoned by the sub-Dean (Canon Roberts), assisted by Minor Canon T. R. J. Jones, whilst the Rev. John Simon (Rural Dean) read the lesson. In the course of his address, the Bishop welcomed the ringers, and remarked that bell-ringing was quite an indispensable part of church work and life. The work of the church would be a very dull affair, and the life of the parishes would also be dull unless there came forth from the church towers the inspiring sound of the bells. He hoped in time to come there would be bells in many more towers in the diocese, and that existing bells that needed it would be improved and added to and brought up to a full number.

The Lord Bishop afterwards entertained the company to tea on the lawn of Ely Tower (the Bishop's residence).

The annual business meeting followed, presided over by the Bishop, who was supported by the sub-Dean, the Rural Dean, and Minor Canon T. R. J. Jones.

His Lordship was unanimously re-elected as president of the Guild, and the vice-presidents (the Archdeacons of Gower and Brecon), the sub-Dean (Canon Roberts), Canon H. J. Stewart, the Rev. R. M. Cole-Hamilton, were also re-elected, with the addition of the Rev. J. Simon (Rural Dean).

Mr. J. Hammond, owing to his having removed to Newport, Mon., desired to be relieved of his duties as Master of the Guild, and Mr. A. J. Pitman (Aberavon) was elected in his stead. Mr. Hammond was also secretary for the Southern District.

Messrs. W. R. Howells and Charles Powell were re-elected hon. secretary and hon. treasurer respectively, and the committee elected were Messrs. George Lewis (Morriston), S. T. Rackham (Llanelly), Fred Thomas (Brecon St. Mary's), Charles Powell (Llangatlock), R. E. Sparkes (Builth Wells), W. D. Griffiths (Talgarth), C. Morse (Sketty), D. J. Williams (Gorseinon), E. Stitch (Aberavon), J. P. Evelt (Glasbury), Geo. Morris (Llanstephan), D. J. Lewis (Cadoxton), Mrs. E. G. Bellringer (Baglan), A. Hatton (Neath), George Hardwick (Brecon St. David's), and Minor Canon T. R. J. Jones.

The hon. treasurer presented his accounts, which were adopted. A discussion took place as to what items should be a proper charge to the general fund, and several suggestions were made. It was also agreed that the expenses of the Central Council representative should be paid out of the general fund, and not made a charge on district funds as before.

It was decided that the next annual meeting be held at Llanstephan, on July 2nd, 1927, whilst the next ringing competition is to be held at Llanelly, Breconshire, on Saturday, May 21st or 23rd, 1927. The details of the latter were left in the hands of the committee.

Mr. A. J. Pitman (the newly-elected Master of the Guild) was nominated to attend the Central Council meetings.

Mr. E. Stitch (Aberavon) was appointed secretary of the Southern District, and Mr. Fred Thomas (Brecon) was appointed secretary of the Northern District.

A hearty vote of thanks to the Lord Bishop for his helpful address, for presiding over the meeting, and also for having provided tea, was proposed by Mr. D. J. Williams (Gorseinon) and seconded by Mr. Bellringer (Baglan), and unanimously accorded.

It was encouraging to find that over 100 members attended the meeting, despite the fact that many of them have been severely handicapped owing to the industrial crisis. Their effort to attend is therefore all the more to be admired. A fine tribute was paid them by the Lord Bishop in the course of his address.

ST. GILES-IN-THE-FIELDS RINGERS' OUTING.

On Saturday, August 7th, the St. Giles-in-the-Fields Guild held their annual outing. The first stop was made at Christ Church, Epsom, and, after a short ring there, the party proceeded to St. Giles', Ashted, where a very enjoyable ring for about an hour was indulged in. Leatherhead Institute was then visited for tea. Later, in company with members of the Ashted and Leatherhead bands, ringing in Grandsire, Stedman Triples, London and Bristol Surprise was carried on during the evening. An adjournment to the King's Head concluded a very happy afternoon's programme. All were grateful to the respective incumbents, also to Mr. J. Wyatt, Mr. A. Dean, and the local ringers for their kind welcome and arrangements for the visitors.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD. BANBURY BRANCH.

The annual meeting of the Banbury branch of the Oxford Guild was held at Banbury on Saturday, August 14th. After some preliminary ringing, service was held in the Parish Church, at which the Rev. Canon Jones officiated, and the sermon was preached by the Rev. W. E. MacFarlane, Vicar of Great Tew.

Tea was served at the George and Dragon Hotel, and was followed by the annual meeting, at which the Rev. W. E. MacFarlane presided, supported by Canon Jones and the branch secretary and treasurer, Mr. R. R. Lewis.

The balance sheet, showing a balance in hand of £2 11s. 4d., was adopted, and the Rev. C. F. Cholmondeley was re-elected president and the Rev. W. E. MacFarlane vice-president.

At the suggestion of the chairman, Canon Jones, who was an honorary member of the Guild, was elected a patron of the district, the motion being carried with acclamation.

Mr. Lewis was unanimously re-elected hon. secretary and treasurer, with thanks for his past services. An invitation from the Vicar of Wardington to hold the next branch meeting in that parish was accepted with thanks, the date fixed being October 30th.

Mr. R. T. Hibbert, general secretary of the Guild, was present, and also represented the Master, the Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn. He said he was pleased to be with them that day. If the Master of the Guild could not come to every meeting they must not think that he was not thinking of the branches. They had thirteen branches in full swing, and every branch held four meetings a year, and if they kept their dates separate they would see what a job the Master of the Guild had. They had, however, the finest Master (applause). What they wanted, not only in the Oxford Guild, but in every association in the country, was local enthusiasm. Fifty years ago there were plenty of enthusiasts and change-ringing was brought up to a fine standard, but to-day the picture palaces, dances and whist drives had their attraction, and it was difficult to get young ringers. They must not, however, be discouraged, for by helping someone to become a ringer they were doing something for the Church. Another thing was to make a branch successful like their chairman, vice-chairman, and secretary had made that one, which entailed a vast amount of work and a good deal of patience. He would ask the members to back them up to the best of their ability, and one of the finest ways of doing that was to be local enthusiasts and get the young blood. He felt sure that if the members paid their subscriptions when due he did not think Mr. Lewis would want to resign the branch secretaryship (applause).

A Deddington member asked if the Banbury ringers could visit the Deddington Church.

Mr. Lewis said they had tried to arrange monthly practices at the different towers affiliated to the branch, but the difficulty was to get six change-ringers together. In their local band they had eight or nine change-ringers, but unfortunately when one was free another would be working at nights.

Mr. R. Coleman, of Great Tew, was elected as a new member, and certificates were presented to the members elected at the last meeting.

Mr. Lewis proposed a vote of thanks to the Vicar of Banbury for the use of the bells, to the organist for presiding at the organ during the service, and to the vice-chairman for his admirable address and also for presiding at the meeting. The proposition was carried unanimously.

Canon Jones said it had been a great pleasure to allow the use of the tower and also the use of the church on that occasion. Their thanks, he thought, were really due to the Vicar of Great Tew for his very interesting and instructive address, and to the organist, Mr. C. B. Palmer, for coming to play. Their thanks were also due to their excellent secretary for the arrangements made, which had passed without a hitch. A secretary's life, like a policeman's, was not always a happy one, but Mr. Lewis was always happy when working in the belfry and on behalf of the Guild (applause).

After the meeting, the bells were again rung. The methods practised during the day were Grandsire and Stedman Triples and Bob Major. Several rang their first touch of Triples.

Ringers were present from Appleton, Banbury, Churchill, Adderbury, Deddington, Cropredy, Wallington, Southam, Warmington and Great Tew.

MANGOTSFIELD RINGERS' TRIP.

On Saturday, August 21st, the members of the St. Giles' Guild, Mangotsfield, together with a few friends, to the number of 28, held their annual outing. Leaving Mangotsfield at 9 a.m. in a 'Maid of the Mountains' charabanc, they proceeded through Nailsworth, Stroud, Painswick, Cheltenham, and Tewkesbury, to Upton-on-Severn, where they pulled up at the Star Hotel and sat down to lunch. They were met by Mr. Charles Camm, who escorted them to the church tower, where there is a lovely ring of eight bells. These were raised, and touches of Stedman Triples, Bob Major, and Kent Treble Bob Major brought round. The bells were then lowered, and the party proceeded to Great Malvern, and visited St. Anne's Well, where they all imbibed and felt much better. Having walked round the hills to Malvern Wells, they reached the Nag's Head Inn for tea. The return was through Ledbury and Gloucester, and everyone enjoyed a delightful outing.

REASONED THOUGHTS ON SIMPSON TUNING

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I didn't smile when I read 'Sammy's' comments on the treatment of metal. It may be rude, but I laughed outright. For a start, my friend Sammy must disabuse his mind of some of his thoughts concerning the above. I agree with this Sammy (or any other)—difference of treatment will have an effect on metal. But anyone with one grain of common sense will agree that a bell is not like beetroot! If the latter is scraped or chipped the least, the juices run out, and the beetroot loses its beautiful carmine. People who are born under the planet of Mercury are quick to understand this: they don't want a hammer and chisel to drive it in, and they love 'harmony' in all things.

Millet must have been born under Mercury, or he would not have given us that picture of two Norman peasants, standing with bowed heads in the mellowing shades of twilight, blending in perfect harmony with the Angelus!

Ah! Mr. Editor, 'The Angelus' bell was tuned with hammer and chisel, in the old style, and those who do know a little about this subject will agree that the Angelus and the Ave Maria bells have weathered the storms of centuries; but I ask, Was the usage the same? With emphasis I say 'NO!' These medieval specimens left to us—to say nothing of other rubbish (from a musical standpoint) which ousted other Pre-Reformation examples—were subjected to far different treatment from the time they were first cast, and for centuries afterwards. Has it ever dawned on the people who profess to know so much about bells—old and new—that the ringing of a 5,000 to-day will have a more far-reaching effect on that ancient bell, which alone chimed three strokes at the Elevation of the Host year in, year out, as the ordered preface demanded? Just consider this same mass of metal now throbbing, throbbing, throbbing for three solid hours—not one fraction of its whole constitution in a state of inertia. What's going on internally in that bell? Who's ruining these 'beautiful old bells'?

Bells of to-day are bashed and bumped, peal snatching! Bells of old, that have weathered the centuries, were treated quite differently. They told the canonical hour; we are not content with Aves, Matins, Tierce, Prime. No; we must have the whole twenty-four hours boomed out, and, gluttons as we are, not content with that, we demand the quarters. Every one of these blows brings about slowly, but surely, a transformation in that metal! The elasticity is undermined and undermined, till at last the modulus is reached, the metal takes a permanent set. What then? A fracture!

'Our Sammy' has given Simpson tuning one of the best uncollected testimonials it ever had. Like all other critics, he alleges this, that, and the other. Ye gods! He blames it, but he'll never shame it by saying, 'The quantity of reverberations emitted by each bell is greater in Simpson bells than in tap-note bells.' What a statement to make, especially when we know he's got some oil in his lamp.

I have before made allusion to beetroot, and we all know the juices run out; but the resonancy, which is the juice in a bell, does not sizzle out in great pools to the bottom of the bell-pit; it doesn't evaporate or dry up similar to the clothes on the clothes line on washdays.

Is it not logic, and will not even the lay mind agree, that if the reverberation in a Simpson bell is greater than it is in the tap-note bell, it is only reasonable not to suppose but to be sure that the elasticity in the former is greater than it is in the latter? Common sense tells one that elastic limit will be reached first by the tap-note bell, which does not contain the elasticity of the Simpson bell.

Take a spliced ring of bells, Simpson tuned, or tap-note tuned, I don't care which. Will the elasticity in the old bells be on a par with that which has been recently fused and put in the new bells? No, it will not! The old bells have been subjected to vibratory action; the percussion blow of the clapper has set up in greater or lesser degree a granular structure; the more pronounced this is the sooner will the elasticity be expended. Now, then, where are we? The new bells are free from this crystalline weakness, which really and truly is decomposition. The old bells are in an advanced stage, the new ones quite fresh. If these bells are all treated alike, clanged and clanged in peal ringing, the new bells will develop the same trouble. Yes, and their more elderly sisters will gradually advance from stage to stage till at last there is no throb left in 'em, and they are as dead as 'Queen Liz.' The others, however, will still be breathing, possibly for centuries after we have done knocking the elasticity out of bells, which Sammy admits are checkfull of it when they are 'S.T.'

One has not had occasion to seek counsel's advice on this question, and, in conclusion, I may be pardoned for pointing out one or two other facts (not wild imagination). My friend speaks of speed-merchants, when he suggests tapping a 5,000 in ten minutes less time than it took to tap one a decade previously. To quote four peals, well over the decade, two of which I am convinced he has heard and rung on, to wit, Dore east 1909, Norton 1896, Ilkeston 1910, Eastwood (Notts) 1905. Have the former—Dore and Norton—lost any resonancy? That's a naughty one, Sam! I'll answer for the lot of them. They have not as yet depreciated the 1,000th part of a vibration, and to rush such peals to gain ten minutes only adds further testimony to the decision of the 'C.C.' on Simpson-tuned bells.—Yours fraternally,

IRENAEUS.

P.S.—The howls evolve from the ghosts of the old vaudal founders who haunt the towers, and that's that!

BELL DEDICATION IN PEAKLAND.

EYAM'S NEW TREBLES.

Saturday, August 28th, was indeed a red-letter day for the Peakland village of Eyam, which is situated in one of the most beautiful districts in England. The place has become historic because of the visitation of the Great Plague of London in 1665-1666, and for the heroic unselfishness shown by the people of that time in deciding to remain in the village and face death rather than flee away and spread the infection. The story tells us how out of 360 people there were only 60 left when the plague died out.

There were at that time four bells cast by Oldfield, of Nottingham, dated 1618, 1618, 1619 and 1628. These four bells have been rehung with new fittings, retuned, eighth turned, and, together with two new trebles, hung in a new iron frame on steel girders.

The new trebles are memorial bells, one given by Rev. W. P. Wright, in memory of his parents, Canon Charles Sisum Wright and Charlotte Elizabeth, his wife; the other, the gift of the village and friends in memory of their daughter, Emily Georgina Wright. The work has been admirably done by the Loughborough foundry, and gives the greatest satisfaction.

The new bells were dedicated on Saturday, August 28th, by the Bishop of Derby.

Immediately after the service a very excellent opening 720 was rung by the following band: C. Harrison (St. Maria's, Sheffield) 1, Arthur Craven (Sheffield Cathedral) 2, F. Watkinson (Sheffsworth) 3, J. H. Brothwell (Rotherham) 4, W. Biggin (Norton) 5, Rev. W. P. Wright (Eyam) (conductor) 6.

The bells were kept ringing in various methods until nine in the evening by visiting ringers from Sheffield Cathedral, Rotherham, Norton, Handsworth, Dore and Baslow. Ringers and village people alike were loud in their praises of the tone and go of the bells.

The visiting ringers were entertained to tea by the Rev. W. P. Wright. There is a promising band of learners in the village, where, of course, hitherto, with only four bells, change-ringing was unknown, but already half a dozen have been through the plain course of Minor on handbells, and it is hoped that before long they will be able to do the work on the tower bells. If depends, of course, on their own enthusiasm and perseverance.

WINCHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD.

YORK TOWN DISTRICT AT A QUIANT TOWER.

The tower of Yateley Parish Church, where the York Town District of the Winchester Guild held a meeting on Saturday, August 21st, is one of the quaintest to be found in the diocese. The bell frame is carried on heavy timber supports carried up from the ground, but for all that they go reasonably well. The village is quite off the beaten track, and rather inaccessible to the majority of ringers in the district. It was not surprising, therefore, that the attendance was somewhat small. The towers represented were: Bagshot, Blackwater, Bray (Berks), Chertsey, Sandhurst, Weybridge, Yorktown, and the local band, while the visitors included Miss Moss, of Hillingdon. Owing to the Vicar (the Rev. A. J. Howell) being on holiday, no service was held. Tea was served in the Parish Hall.

At the business meeting, Miss B. E. Stilwell occupied the chair. Three compounding members were elected, and it was decided that for the good of the district a combined practice should be held in the various towers on the regular practice night, these to be arranged at each end of the district.

Mr. Nye proposed a hearty vote of thanks to Miss B. E. Stilwell for presiding over the business meeting, to the local ringers who had arranged the tea, also the Rev. A. J. Howell for allowing the use of the bells. The standard methods were rung during the afternoon and evening.

SUSSEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

WESTERN DIVISION.

A quarterly meeting of the Western Division was held at Pulborough on Saturday, August 21st, but owing to various reasons was very poorly attended, only about 16 members being present from Billingshurst, Chichester, Fulham, Lymminster, Havant, Heene, Horsham, Shoreham, Slinfold, Pulborough, and Warnham. Various methods were practised during the afternoon, and tea was partaken of at the Five Bells Hotel.

At the business meeting, the Rector (the Rev. E. J. Frost) presided, supported by the churchwarden, Mr. A. G. Dewdney. The following new members were elected: Miss Irene Hastie (non-resident member), Willis Aylmore, Herbert Elliott, William Thomas Ayling, and Edward Sturt, acting members, and the Rev. E. J. Frost, hon. member.

Slinfold was chosen for the next meeting.

A vote of thanks was accorded the Rector for presiding, for granting the use of the bells, and for his kindness in finding part of the expense of the tea. Another visit was then made to the belfry.

At the commencement of the meeting, mention was made of the very sad death of the well-known ringer, Mr. I. G. Shado, for many years a member of the Sussex Association, and the company stood in silence for a few moments as a mark of respect to his memory.

RINGERS' OUTINGS.

TAUNTON RINGERS AT WELLS AND BRISTOL.

St. Mary's Guild of Change Ringers, Taunton, had their annual outing on Saturday, August 14th. Leaving Taunton by charabanc at 8 a.m., the places visited were: Wells Cathedral, Shepton Mallet, Frome, Beckington, Trowbridge and Bristol. The methods rung at the various places during the day included Stedman, Grandsire, and Bob Major. Lunch was partaken of at the White Swan, Trowbridge, the enterer being Mr. S. J. Hector, the well-known Wiltshire ringer, who supplied a splendid lunch, which was thoroughly enjoyed by everyone. Leaving Trowbridge at 4 o'clock, Bristol was reached at 5 p.m., and, after tea, steps were turned to St. Mary Redcliffe. Here some well-known Bristol friends and ringers were waiting for the visitors, among them being Mrs. R. J. Wilkins, who took part in the ringing. Stedman Cluques were rung on this very fine ring of twelve. Bidding their Bristol friends 'Good-bye,' the party left at 8 p.m., arriving home at 10.45 p.m., everyone having thoroughly enjoyed the day's outing. The Guild wish to thank the Cathedral authorities and the various Vicars for the use of their bells, and the ringers who met them. They wish to give special thanks to Mr. S. J. Hector for the splendid lunch he provided, and their Bristol friends, particularly Mrs. R. J. Wilkins.

SHEFFIELD AND ECCLESFIELD RINGERS' TRIP INTO DEBBYSHIRE.

On Saturday, August 28th, a party of 20 ringers from Sheffield (St. Mariu's and the Cathedral) and Ecclesfield left the city at 2 p.m. in two ton-seater charabancs, their objective being Longstone, near BAKEWELL. The Ecclesfield band had made this journey six weeks previously, when the outing was such a success that it was decided to renew acquaintance with this glorious part of Peakland at the earliest opportunity, so when the St. Mariu's company were considering where to spend their annual outing they eagerly joined hands with Ecclesfield in the adventure.

With two highly-powered buses, 40 miles an hour being 'touched' several times, they were soon on the moors passing the Fox House Inn, down through Grindleford and on to Eyam (the scene of the plague in 1665-1666). Here two of the party were dropped to take part in the opening of the light peal of six which have been put in line fettle by Messrs. Taylor and Co. The remainder of the party went on their journey, and at Monsal Head a stop was made and a course of Grandsire Triples rung on the handbells. Proceeding, the buses went on their way and forgot to take a turning to the left, with the result that the party found themselves three miles from Buxton, but with glorious weather prevailing this was regarded as a treat, for the scenery in Peakland during August has no rival in the whole of England. However, Longstone was reached at 4.30, and the little peal in a very little tower were soon ringing out changes of various Minor methods. The tenor is only about seven cwt., and, owing to the ropes falling so close to the wall, the 4th and 5th ringers had to stand back-to-back, but, nevertheless, some excellent striking was heard. John from Rotherham, with his 'flying' machine, brought the two over from Eyam when they had finished their little job, and, after a touch of Cambridge Minor, an adjournment for tea was made at the Crispin, where everyone had their fill. All then settled down to a jolly evening, piano, vocalists and handbells, for both tunes and touches, keeping the ball rolling. George from Ecclesfield gave that amusing recitation, 'Betsy Hutchins,' and also 'Keg-Meg' on the handbells, the copyright of which 'Uncle Joe' is reputed to hold, but for this occasion 'French leave' was taken. Twilight setting in, the party started on their way home by Baslow, Peacock Inn and Cross Scythes, one bus dropping its cargo in the city and the other rattling on to Ecclesfield just in time to 'have another.' The outing was such a success that the company are already thinking about next year, when it is hoped that industrial troubles will be a thing of the past and a more ambitious programme fall to their lot.

BUSINESS COMBINED WITH PLEASURE.

On Monday, August 9th, the Halesworth and Chediston company had their annual outing. Accompanied by their Rector and churchwarden, the party (15 all told) proceeded in a charabanc to Henley, near Ipswich, ringing at Wickham Market and Pettistree (both six-bell towers) en route. They were met at Henley and welcomed by the Vicar, Rev. W. C. Pearson, and rang touches on the musical peal of eight bells. Dinner followed in the Vicarage garden, after which the annual meeting was held. All the officers were re-elected, with thanks for past services. The secretary's report showed that the Sunday service ringing had been well maintained, and four peals had been rung since their last meeting. The treasurer reported a satisfactory balance in hand. The Rev. Pearson's unique collection of old ringing books, etc., was inspected with much interest, and further ringing followed, in which their host took part. Bramford, with its pretty peal of six, was next visited, and several touches rung.

Tea followed at Ipswich, and an hour's ringing on the eight bells of St. Margaret's, with several old Ipswich friends, concluded the day's ringing. The methods rung were Oxford, Kent, Bob Minor, Grandsire, and Stedman Doubles, at the six-bell towers, and Stedman and Grandsire Triples, Plain Bob and Kent Treble Bob Major on the peals of eight. A very hearty vote of thanks was accorded the various clergy, churchwardens, towerkeepers, and ringers of the churches visited for the use of the bells, and home was reached at 10 p.m., after a most enjoyable day.

A VISIT TO THE NAPLES OF NORTH WALES DOUBLE NORWICH AT LLANDUDNO.

A long-thought-of visit to Llandudno was brought off on Saturday week, when a band collected from points between Crowe and Bangor assembled. The last man arrived at 3.15 p.m., and we were welcomed by the local ringers and the Rector (the Rev. Canon Watkin Davis), who informed us that a little refreshment had been arranged for at Sumner's Restaurant. A demonstration of ringing, to show the Rector and a friend, in the form of a course of Grandsire Triples, was accomplished by a mixed band, including some very youthful locals. Doors were then locked, and after a false start (the right men never heard the single called) a good peal of Double Norwich came home in fine style in 3 hours and 4 minutes. We were again met outside by several of the local ringers and escorted to the restaurant, where ample justice was done to good 'eats' and long and short 'drinks,' Mr. Brown acting as host on behalf of the Rector. Votes of thanks were then passed to the Rev. Canon Davis for his extreme kindness and hospitality, and to the local men for having everything in readiness. A short tour of the sea front and part of the Great Orme, with a view of 'Happy Valley,' was very enjoyable. The party were then escorted to the railway station, and as we took our departure the opinion was expressed 'that it's a great pity there ain't a few more like him.'

A TASK WHICH MUST BE FACED.

When is the Exercise to be furnished with a reference file of compositions? This question, often asked before, is prompted yet again by the publication in our columns of two peals of Cambridge Surprise Royal, obtained quite as the result of independent effort by Mr. Frank Bennett, but which, immediately upon their appearance, were claimed by Mr. Frederick Dench. Had there been a register of compositions Mr. Bennett could have satisfied himself before publishing the figures whether they had or had not been previously obtained, but no means were open to him to do this unless, perhaps, it consisted of laboriously wading through all the volumes of all the ringing press. Such a procedure is, of course, an almost impossible undertaking.

But the case in point is only another illustration of the real need there is for the register of compositions which we have so long advocated. In a field where research is always going on, where generation after generation is adding to the store of productions, the Exercise is only getting deeper and deeper into the mire while it permits things to drift on as they are doing at present. Even now the task of collecting and filing all known compositions would be a formidable one, but it will yearly grow in difficulty the longer it is left untouched. There are numerous uses which such a register would serve. It would be open to all conductors who wanted compositions of any special qualities; it would be a safeguard against claims of future generations of composers to the original work of men of the past; indeed, it would offer a source of considerable education to the studious man who desired to know what has and what has not been done by others in peal production. It would be an indisputable authority as to the ownership of compositions, and would answer a question which is often put to us by readers who submit figures of peals and ask for the name of the author!

How the work of compiling the register should be carried out is a matter for the Central Council, but it will need to be supervised by someone with a gift for organisation. Before, however, we talk of how it is to be done, the Council have to be induced to face the business as a whole. If it were merely a question of tabulating published figures, the task would present no serious difficulties. The trouble is that many excellent, as well as a still greater number of indifferent compositions, have never seen light in cold print, but are tucked away in private collections. But there are no really insuperable obstacles, if only the Council would make up their minds to start upon the work. This is a task in which they might enlist the assistance of some of the enthusiasts outside the circle of the Council, and without, necessarily, co-opting them on to the body. There are among the younger generation of ringers some very capable men, whose interest in the art is sufficiently keen to induce them to share the work if asked to do so, and it is to these that the Council might confidently appeal for help in a task of this description.

JUST ONE RINGER'S OUTING.

THE STORY AND THE MORAL OF EYAM.

By 'IRENÆUS.'

There ain't no trustin' nobody in this 'Wringin' Whirld' to do nothink but wringin'! One is not jealous when we read the dry, stereotyped reports of outings. One is, however, disgusted when we realise that they (who write these reports) have eyes to see and see not! That's writ with all the sarkazin. Mr. Editor, one can conjure up, and that's from one who lost one-half of the field of vision twenty years ago, and now the remaining half is so affected that the outline of objects alone is discernible—detail is all lost, except to touch.

Ah! 'touch'—that's the slogan of the majority of ringers' outing reports. Who wants to know that I rang a touch of this, that, or the other method? Nobody! Well, then, why waste space? Surely, they who write these reports 'seed summat.' 'Spliced' is very popular with ringers nowadays. Then why on earth don't they try to splice with the pen that wot they seed with wot they swallowed an' done? Surely they are not devoid of imagination when they see a 'mark' left by that downtrodden biped, man! Aye! Man alive! one wasn't feeling full of 'nothink' on yestereen but languor an' debility, so I popt round to Dr. Pinch Pulse. 'Very well'—he said that after he'd pulled me eyelid down to me collar-stud—'sir, you must have a complete change of air. Take advantage of the medicinal properties of "Chinley Tunnel"! Get out of this "Hellsmouth" into a "Paradise," where they don't spread the butter on your bread with a paint brush, or apologise for having none by asking you to wipe your bread on a kipper wots hung on the wall.' And then the doctor got nasty, or, should I say, 'dramatick,' and he said, 'Get thee hence, varlit, and let's see wot effect a change of air will have on the mentality of a microcephalous idiot like thee.'

'Struth, reader, let's see what effect a change of air had on one, a ringer, who can't see very well. Let's see, Man! Man is the only creature in God's creation who leaves behind a conscious monumental record of his having lived, and, mark you this, 'ye that have eyes and see not.' Everywhere the foot of man has trod, signs tangible are to be found; this superior animal, man, is the only animal to invent means of locomotion over and above that with which Dame Nature in her wisdom endowed him, and here one is without a car(e) bumping out with one's forehead an existence on the anvil of adversity. But what care I? Ungrudgingly 'other men hath laboured' (those are the words of my tex', Mr. Editor). Ha! ha! I laugh, I chuckle, as I take advantage of the labours of other men, and as I myself hurried and whirled through the black gloom and vile bowels of the Chinley Tunnel. 'Whirled,' my friend, 'whirled' without end! till out of the mouth of hell one finds oneself standing in the very land of one's own fathers, my native shire, a paradise of precipitous rock and of steep ravine, all bathed in glorious sunlight. One boards a waiting charabanc, off she goes, and one drinks in the much needed 'fresh air' till the bus pulls up in that once plague-stricken village of Eyam. As I alight, my thoughts flash back to the time when grass grew in the streets of London, to the rumbling wheels of the dead-cart, to the lurid glow of the torches and that heart-searching command, 'Bring out your dead!' Yes, reader, if you are destined to write a report of a ringer's duty, remember that command, 'Bring out your dead!' Other men have laboured, other men have hung open the casements of imagination, when their eyes have fallen on 'man's mark'; and with these phantasms of the past man communes, he reclothes fleshless bones, he sees again the mason, be he rude Saxon, conquering Norman, or feudal serf.

My advice is, don't let the ringing occupy all your time; have a few 'touches,' don't be a glutton, but go and swallow some of the beauties in or about that sacred edifice, which, remember again, 'other men hath laboured to build,' select some object of interest, be it font, screen, arcade, or what you will, weave round it a story—'bring out your dead.' Our 'C.C.' admit that they are not qualified to judge certain things, therefore it seems imposition to turn to the rank and file and ask how many of them have seen a 'squint.' Hundreds will have, but how many of them know what it was intended for, and what function it performed? And there we are 'swanking about,' having rung this method, and that principle—hundreds and thousands of 'em, and yet they are ignorant of a thousand and one things in connection with their very own church. On the whole, ringers as a body know little, or nothing, of the very bells which they ring in their own steeple; the man in the street takes far greater interest in the bells themselves, from the legendary or historical standpoint.

But, to resume, just imagine we are standing in that once plague-stricken village of Eyam, gazing on that venerable edifice of stone—St. Laurence's Church—surrounded by stately sycamore and shady elm, and consisting of chancel clerestoried nave of four bays, aisles, south porch, a Norman font and a Saxon font, embattled western tower with crocketed pinnacles at the angles, the louvre windows fashioned in 'decorated' style, though which 'Venite' and 'Te Deum Laudamus' have poured for three full centuries from the throats of those four historic bells of Eyam, cast by the first George Oldfield of Notts, and dated respectively 1619 (treble), second and third 1618, and the tenor 1628. With caution these bells rang through Civil War and Protectorate, mournfully they throbbled, on, on to when plague swept with merciless blast into the vortex of eternity 318 souls out of a population of 350. One poor orphan boy, the sole survivor of a whole family, migrated to Sheffield—Thomas Bolsover was his name. He it was who brought fame to the 'Steelopolis'; 'twas the inventive genius of this humble village boy, who gave not only Sheffield a name, but he gave to the wide world 'silver plate'! Other men have laboured, but do we enter into their labours? I ask myself this question as I pen these lines, seated—with pride—in a chair of massive oak of the Tudor period, and, on reflection, my mind flashes back twenty-four hours when, with reverence and awe, I sat in a similar chair, but of later date (Stewart times)—a chair which stands 'neath the northern side of the chancel arch of Eyam Parish Church. Carved on the rail of the base of the pediment of this chair is this: 'Mom 1665 Eyam' (the abbreviation Mom stands for Mompesson). There, reader, is the 'empty chair' which has come down through centuries for us to gaze upon, and, as we fix our thoughts on that piece of furniture, fashioned in the reign of Charles II., we realise that its former occupant was no 'armchair parson.' William Mompesson, the heroic Rector of Eyam, steadfastly continued to succour the plague-stricken and afflicted in the parish of Eyam; 'twas he who drew a line of safety around the village, and with the assistance of neighbouring inhabitants caused the food supply to be maintained. Certain stones were set up and food was placed thereon. Those who brought it returned later for the value, which the self-sacrificing parson deposited in a trough of running spring water for purification.

Church and churchyard were closed alike, graves were hastily dug in garden or field, by wife, husband, and child, for husband, wife, child and parent. Still, with fortitude this servant of Christ held divine service in a dell a short distance from the village, and from a lofty perforated rock he preached to his stricken and afflicted flock, scattered here and there on the grass. 'All he believed' from this pulpit of stone (known now as Cucklet Church) Wm. Mompesson preached. Not only did he preach, but he practised, and he ministered amongst them the truths and consolations of the Gospel of Jesus Christ.

'Lord have mercy upon us!' Who will dispute that this fervent prayer fell from the lips of William Mompesson as he stood by the open grave of his own dear wife on the south side of the church? That grave is marked by a massive stone tomb, which is revered to-day after a lapse of centuries by sincere parishioners, who consider it a sacred duty and a trust handed on to them, ever to keep green the name of 'Mompesson' as they bestrew the whole of the covering stone of that tomb with the very choicest of flowers, such is their gratitude after a lapse of centuries. A few feet from this tomb, westerly, stands an ancient stone cross of the eighth or ninth century, another charming example of the work of other men's hands, ornamented on the arms with symbolic devices of angels blowing trumpets. The centre representation is of the Virgin and Child. (N.B.—The writer borrowed another man's eyes to look up at this eight-foot cross.) This symbol of our faith casts its shade over the sleeping dust of the heroic Rector's wife. 'Other men have laboured' is driven forcibly home as one stands in meditation beside the tomb of Eyam's historian. Again, one mused over the ashes of the village poet. Truly these men have laboured, each in his sphere. And now my thoughts turn from heroic priest, village poet, historian or genius, to what? To bells and the village squire and ringing parson—the Rev. W. P. Wright, of Eyam Hall.

The bells, four in number originally, now six, have a story to tell, but I shall not bore my readers with that, other than to say 'other men had laboured' and placed them there in the tower at Eyam. The Rev. W. P. Wright saw this, and he realised it, and truly may it be said that he has joined his labours with the labours of other men. Reader, this is not a sermon, but one hopes it may go home to those who forget the 5th commandment. The Rev. W. P. Wright has honoured his father and mother by placing a bell in the tower of Eyam to keep green their memory. The villagers have given another to perpetuate the memory of Miss Emily Georgina Wright.

Saturday, August 28th, was 'the festal day' set apart in this village for dedication of the augmented bells, as already recorded in your columns. A shortened form of evensong was intoned by the Rector of Eyam, Rev. H. Saunders Williams, and the lesson was read by the Rural Dean, Rev. E. C. Vincent, of Hope. The Bishop of Derby gave an address, after which his lordship set apart from all unhallowed purposes these new bells. The service ends, the bells are raised in peal for the first time, reminding one of the words which had echoed through gate porch and columned aisle:

'Craftsman's art and music's measure.'

Indeed, 'twas so when the following lung out over the housetops of this once plague-stricken village the very first 720 ever rung in Eyam, which was conducted by the most 'happy man' in that village, the squire himself: C. Harrison 1, A. Craven 2, F. Watkinson 3, J. Brothwell 4, W. Biggin 5, Rev. W. P. Wright (conductor) 6. The method was Plain Bob.

During the remainder of the day the bells were kept going by visitors in various methods. The 'go' is excellent, the splice perfection itself, the trebles, blending with the old bells in correct musical relationship, tuned on the principle initiated by the late Canon Simpson, 'amplified and perfected' by the founders, John Taylor and Co., of Loughborough.

One cannot, in conclusion, let the opportunity slip a second time of tendering the best thanks of those who filled the 'bottomless pit' and partook of the hospitality of the happy ringing parson of Eyam Hall.

NOTES BY THE WAY.

PRIZE RINGING: ITS ABUSES—AND ITS USES.
BY J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

A week or two ago I said in these notes that prize ringing was a thing of the past. I am told that the statement is not quite true. Here and there in parts of the country, in obscure towers, it still survives. But it is a sickly survival, and the end is certain to be not far distant. The meetings, too, are shorn of those features which were so prominent in days gone by, which caused at one time a mild scandal, and which raised the uncompromising opposition of those leaders of the Exercise to whom we owe our present territorial associations and all the other benefits associated with what was once called belfry reform.

Time was once when success at a prize meeting was the highest aim among a very large proportion of ringers, and particularly those of the North and the West. I am trying in a loose and disjointed way to describe in these notes something of the various steps by which change ringing and the Exercise have arrived at what we now know them; and we shall not understand what ringing and ringers were in old times unless we know something of prize ringing.

In my account of the Flixton match I related the history of a prize ringing meeting which is fairly typical of all of them. The record of it has come down to us because of the eminence of the bands engaged, and because of the striking circumstances which attended it. But in essentials it was no different from hundreds of other meetings, and there are many living men who remember prize ringing meetings in Devon, where the accompanying scenes were very similar.

Here is an extract from a paper read by the Rev. A. Du Boulay Hill at a meeting held during the Church Congress at Reading in 1883. He was speaking of the need for belfry reform, and went on: 'The old style is that a dozen or more sets of ringers are locked in the church to prevent any of the collusion or veniality inseparable from such like sporting events, and proceed by lot to raise, ring round for ten minutes or so and lower the bells. Meanwhile, at the church gate, the local publican, armed with a special licence, erects his booth and his barrel of beer and drives a brisk trade, because, next to ringing rounds, listening to them is most thirsty work. In dignified silence sit two judges to mark down on paper a dot for every stroke missed, every bell that hesitates. It requires much experience and an accurate sense of time. Perhaps there are not more than half-a-dozen men in the county who are considered sufficiently good judges of ringing to attain to the dignity of this post. Finally, there is the distribution of some £12 or £15 in prizes to those who have received fewest marks upon the judges' paper.'

The good and the bad features of these meetings lie on the surface, and are easy to see. The drunkenness, the betting, the occasional foul play, the heated arguments between partisans, which sometimes degenerated into brawling, would be undesirable anywhere; within the precincts of the church they became a scandal. Not that all or perhaps a great many had all these bad features, but prize ringing had to be judged by its worst examples, and those, there is not doubt, were very bad indeed. To many men it seemed intolerable that any sort of competition for money should take place in a church. The principle of the thing was wrong, and if there had been no betting and no quarrelling, and all the ringers and listeners had been strict teetotallers, the objection would have been just the same. Prize ringing, beside, was a fatal obstacle to two of the things which the Exercise most values. It prevented the advancement of the art of change ringing, and it precluded that friendly meeting of ringers from different towers in one belfry and ringing together as one band, which is one of the most agreeable and helpful features of our present-day ringing meetings. For where the prize depended solely on good round ringing, ringers naturally would concentrate on that. Changes, even call changes, are much more difficult to strike perfectly, and the band that practised them would be merely handicapping themselves against their more conservative opponents. And, of course, where the whole meeting was one of rivalry between different bands, there could be no opportunities for any joint ringing.

The Devonshire Guild to this day have a custom which is probably the direct result of this. At their meetings it is usual to hand over the tower to each of the visiting bands in turn. A man rings with the members of his own band, and ringing together by men from different towers is rare. The reason for this is partly to give every one a proper chance of a pull, and, as the attendance at their annual meetings is very large, no doubt some regulations have to be made so that everyone has his turn.

An outsider has no right to criticise the arrangements that any association may make for its meetings, but it is certain that most associations have found that the free mixing up of men from different towers is one of the best ways of advancing the ringing of the higher methods. Here, for instance, in West Middlesex, there is no tower which by itself and unaided can ring a course of Surprise, or even Double Norwich; but at our meetings we seldom miss ringing Cambridge, and not often London, Bristol and Superlative; which means that there is hope that in a few years' time individual bands will be able to practise those methods.

Of course, as we saw, in the North prize ringing was not confined to rounds. There they did ring changes, but the tendency must have been to keep to the simpler methods like Grandsire Triples, where it is so much easier to get good striking.

DUDLEY AND DISTRICT GUILD.

A quarterly meeting of this Guild was held at St. Mary's, Oldswinford, on Saturday, August 28th, when over thirty members and friends were present, it being a most beautiful summer day. Service was conducted by the Rev. H. J. Freienseuer, assistant priest, who also gave a very interesting and helpful address. At the close of the service an adjournment was made to the Parish Hall, where the business meeting was held, the Rev. H. J. Freienseuer being voted to the chair in the unavoidable absence of the Rector.

It was proposed to hold the next quarterly meeting at Rowley Regis, subject to the usual permission being obtained. It was also decided to leave the arrangements for the quarterly peal in the hands of the Ringing Master.

Several new members were added to the roll, including Mr. Walter Hayward, of Bridgnorth, as a life member.

At the close of the meeting, on the proposition of Mr. Hayward, and seconded by Mr. H. Mason, a hearty vote of thanks was accorded to the Rector of Oldswinford (the Rev. H. H. Williams) for his kindness in granting permission to hold the meeting at his church, also for the use of the tower, bells and Parish Hall in which to hold the meeting. The resolution also included thanks to the Rev. H. J. Freienseuer for conducting the service and for his address, to the organist for the musical part of the service, and to the local ringers for making the necessary arrangements.

Mr. Mason moved that a vote of sympathy be passed to an old and respected member of this Guild, Mr. W. A. Pugh, who was very ill, and the assistant priest very kindly consented to convey the message to him.

Ringing took place on the eight bells before service was then resumed, and maintained during the remainder of the evening.

FOR THE BEGINNERS.

CONDUCTING.—BY GEORGE WILLIAMS.

Only two singles are required to produce 120 of Stedman Doubles (although more can be introduced). The first of the two singles may be called in any 'six,' but the second one must come exactly sixty changes later—so that the same pair of bells is affected. The method should be well learnt. You cannot make yourself too perfect in your knowledge of the working of each bell in the sixes and at the singles, to enable an error to be detected immediately, otherwise the ringing will soon come to grief by what we so often read—'a trip in the slow,' or by the wrong bell wanting to come down first after a single. Therefore, as in the plain methods, coursing order must not be neglected.

The opportunity provided by the presence of a number of visiting ringers at Southover Church, Lewes, on Sunday, enabled R. G. Dawe, the son of Mr. R. J. Dawe, conductor of the local band, to ring his first touch of Stedman Caters, viz., 394: R. G. Dawe 1, W. Pye 2, C. T. Coles (conductor) 3, G. R. Pye 4, J. E. Davis 5, J. Bennett 6, F. W. Rogers 7, A. J. Turner 8, J. S. Goldsmith 9, W. Ward 10. This young ringer also rang his first touch of Bob Royal.

On Sunday morning, at Twickenham, Middlesex, Miss K. Bradford, aged 15, was successful in ringing the treble in her first 120 Grand-sire Doubles, which was conducted by W. F. Ellingham. Miss Bradford was only elected a local member of the Middlesex County Association on July 31st. Touches of Grandsire Triples were also rung for this service, E. Morris, another local member, ringing the third in his longest touch.

The first 720 rung at Cranford, Northants, by an entirely local band since the war was accomplished on September 2nd, when 720 Bob Minor was rung: *F. Hackney 1, Miss S. Thursfield 2, *Miss V. Askew 3, E. Berridge 4, *F. Penn 5, F. Lewin (first 720 as conductor) 6. * First 720.

At Aberavon, for practice, on September 3rd, 1,320 Grandsire Doubles, with 7, 8 covering: *C. Mathers 1, F. E. Stone 3, *Nurton 4, E. Stitch (conductor) 5, *C. Hughes 6, A. J. Pitman 7, J. Weathersby 8. * First quarter of Doubles and first attempt.

At St. Stephen's Church, Hampstead, on Sunday, September 5th, for evening service, 120 Grandsire Doubles: Reginald P. Hunt 1, Herbert Watson 2, S. C. Reeve-Flaxman 3, Robert W. J. Hudson 4, Edward Aylett (conductor) 5, John Carter 6. First attempt by Mr. Aylett as conductor.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

Messrs. Mears and Stainbank have just put up a 12 cwt. bell at Harrow School. It was given in memory of Walter, first Viscount Long of Wraxall, by his Harrow friends. The bell is tuned on the Simpson five-tone system, and is hung in steel framework for ringing.

The Whitechapel Foundry are also refitting and rehangings the ring of eight bells (tenor 22 cwt.) at Ash-by-Sandwich, Kent.

This week we publish another new departure in 'spliced' peals, an amalgamation of Major and Triples, composed by Mr. Albert J. Pitman, of Port Talbot. It was rung at Bridgend on Wednesday, September 1st, the Bob Major portion being conducted by C. H. Perry and the Grandsire Triples portion by the composer. What will be the next?

The invasion of Devonshire starts to-morrow, September 11th, at Exeter, when upwards of 20 towers will be visited by some 18 ringers from eight counties during a week's tour.

'Dear Irenæus,' writes a correspondent, 'the famous Angelus painting depicts the "rescatehues of dawn" rather than the "shades of night were falling fast," and the Angelus or Sauctus bell is generally sent out from the foundries untuned, as it does not form one of a ring of bells in the majority of instances in England, and still less often on the Continent.'

The same correspondent asks: Can any of your readers say who invented the 'pulley wheel,' that is the secret of half-pull in bell-ringing?

Miss Emily Packham was married on August 21st, at Laughton Church, Sussex, to Mr. G. Cecil Bowley. The bride and her sister had been valued members of the Seaford ringers' company. A merry peal was rung by her colleagues for a good send-off.

I would rather be a belle that's ringed than a bell that's rung;

The one transported is; the other hung.

The Crowfield Society rang a peal of 'Gathrine' Triples (assumed to be Garthorn's peal of Grandsire Triples) at Coddenham, Suffolk, on September 10th, 1741.

A 5,040 Imperial Place Major, the 'first ever performed in the method,' was rung on September 13th, 1802, at St. Mary's, Islington. It was composed and conducted by Shipway.

The first peal at St. George's Church, Camberwell, was Grandsire Triples, and it was rung by the Junior Society of College Youths on September 13th, 1823.

Forty years ago next Tuesday Charles Middleton died. His peal of Cambridge Surprise Major is the only possible one with the tenors together.

The first peal by the Society of St. Martin's Youths, the forerunners of the present St. Martin's Guild, was rung on September 16th, 1755. It was a peal of Bob Major at St. Philip's, Birmingham.

No fewer than ten bands have entered for the first contest arranged by the Barnsley and District Association, which is to take place at St. Mary's Church, Barnsley, to-morrow. A handsome shield has been provided, to be held by the winning team, and members of the first and second bands will receive individual mementoes. The draw will take place at 2 p.m., and the first band has to be in the tower at 2.20.

TENOR BELL BROKEN AT ICKLETON. RINGERS' OPPORTUNITY TO HELP A POOR PARISH.

On Sunday evening, August 29th, while ringing for evening service was in progress at Ickleton, Cambs, the tenor bell suddenly started to go badly. A deep thud was then heard, and the rope hung dead. After the service some of the ringers went up to find out what was wrong, and were surprised to see the tenor broken clean off near the crown, the lower part of the bell lying on the beams below the frame. One gudgeon was broken off, and there is no doubt that as the bell was swinging when the gudgeon gave way it struck the frame and was broken.

The tenor was cast by Thomas Lester, of London, in 1751, and is recorded as 18 cwt. in E. The bells were rehung in 1907.

As the village is very small, and about £60 is still to be raised for a new organ, it looks like a case of 'work and wait' in order to restore the tenor.

There is a Sunday service change-ringing band at this church, who will be much handicapped by the indefinite suspension of their work.

This is a case in which ringers and associations throughout the country might well lend a hand to assist the parish.

CANNON BALL IN CHURCH TOWER.

While clearing the tower, in connection with the rehangings of the bells at All Saints' Church, Faringdon, Berkshire, workmen found embedded in the wall a cannon ball weighing about twenty pounds. It was in two pieces, and is believed to have been fired by Cromwell's Ironsides. The church is the only one in the neighbourhood without a spire. According to local tradition the spire was destroyed by Cromwell's artillery when Faringdon was besieged in 1646. Henry James Pye, Poet Laureate in 1790, wrote of Faringdon:

Where once the tapering spire conspicuous grew,
Till civil strife the sacred pile o'erthrew.

NORTH NOTTS ASSOCIATION.*'OPEN' VERSUS 'CLOSED' LEADS.

The fifth meeting of the year was held at Barlborough, a rather remote tower, in beautiful weather, on Saturday. The bells are a fine ring of six, augmented and rehung in 1914, the good 'splice' made by Messrs. Taylor and Co. leaving nothing to be desired. Placed at the disposal of the ringers from 2 p.m., a good company of ringers assembled at that time to try their skill in various methods, arriving by motor-car, motor-cycle, buses, push bikes, and 'Shanks' pony. A wedding at 2 o'clock and a funeral at 3.30 p.m. delayed the commencement somewhat, but at 3.50 p.m. upwards of thirty were present from Anston, Harthill, Shireoaks, Ordsall, Sutton-on-Trent, Southwell Cathedral, Sutton-in-Ashfield, Mansfield, Staveley Town, Killamarsh, Bolsover, and Worksop, with a good muster of the local company. Some of the methods were rung with open handstroke leads, others with closed leads, keen competition taking place between the competitors to obtain the best results, and making the ringing most interesting and enjoyable. Some time ago a letter appeared in 'The Ringing World' asking for the proper way to ring on six bells, whether with closed or open leads. The various opinions of ringers generally, and especially of six-bell ringers, would no doubt be heartily welcomed by all. The methods rung were: Plain Bob, Kent, Oxford, Violet, New London Pleasure, Duke of York and Killamarsh Treble Bob, also Cambridge and London Surprise, with a variety of fairly good and indifferent striking.

A meat tea was served in the Church Institute at 5.30 p.m., splendidly catered for by Mr. W. Sherman, one of the local ringers, and finally, to whom a hearty vote of thanks was accorded.

In the unavoidable absence of the Rector, Rev. J. D. Griffiths (who had recently undergone an operation and is now slowly recovering), the Rev. T. Earnshaw, naval chaplain, of Plymouth, who is officiating in the Rector's absence from duty, kindly took the chair, the ringers giving him a hearty welcome.

The following new members were enrolled: Mr. Harold Pickett, of North Collingham, performing member, and Mr. Alfred Markwell, of Staveley Town, non-resident life member. It was decided to hold the November meeting at Tuxford in November with a view to testing the new bells.

A hearty vote of thanks was accorded to the Rev. T. Earnshaw for presiding over the tea and meeting, and to the Rev. J. D. Griffiths for use of bells and Institute, the ringers requesting the hon. secretary to write a message of sympathy to the Rector, with hearty good wishes for his speedy recovery.

The Rev. T. Earnshaw briefly returned thanks, and said that a pleasure it was to hear the church bells ringing after serving a life on the sea. He looked upon ringers as the best of church workers.

The business finished, the ringers adjourned to the tower and kept the bells in motion until 9 p.m. H. H.

LLANDAFF AND MONMOUTH DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION*WILL NEWTON NOTTAGE HAVE EIGHT BELLS?

A quarterly meeting of the above association was held at Newton Nottage, Porthcawl, on Saturday last. There was a remarkably good attendance, members coming from the extreme ends of Glamorgan and Monmouth. The bells, a light ring of six, were available early in the afternoon, and were kept going in the standard methods until 4.30, when service was held, the Rector, Rev. T. Holmes Morgan, officiating. The address, a very fine one, was immensely appreciated. The Rector remarked they had their shortcomings in Newton Nottage, inasmuch as there were only six bells at their church, but he hoped the next time the association visited Newton there would be a complete octave.

Following the service an excellent tea, which had been very kindly provided in the schoolroom, was partaken of.

The business meeting was next proceeded with, the Rector presiding, and at the outset moved a vote of condolence with the family of the late Archdeacon of Monmouth, Vicar of St. Woolos', Newport, who had died, following an operation, in St. Bartholomew's Hospital, London. He had been hon. secretary of the association for four years, and it was owing to his efforts that the ten bells for St. Woolos' were secured. He was a great friend to the ringers, and never once refused the bells when asked. The vote was carried in the usual way by all standing in silence.

Restorations and augmentations were commented on, but there was nothing tangible to report, although there undoubtedly will be at the next meeting.

Application was made for an instructor to go to Llantwit, Pandoylan and Pontypridd, and in each case it was agreed to.

Congratulations were accorded the Master, Mr. A. J. Pitman, on his composition of a spliced peal of Bob Major and Grandsire Triples, which had been successfully rung at Bridgend on the previous Wednesday.

A number of new members were elected, and the usual vote of thanks to Rector for his kindness was passed. In reply he said no thanks were due to him, but to Mr. Cooke and Mr. Talbot, the two local ringers who had done everything. Success was bound to follow wherever there were such keen and good fellows as those two.

The meeting was a huge success, and much enjoyed, and it is sincerely hoped still greater efforts will follow.

BELLS AND WIRELESS.To the Editor.*

Sir,—Your leader in the current issue is, indeed, timely, and something should certainly be done, and at an early date, as you say, to co-operate with B.R.C. in securing 'only the best performances of our art for wireless listeners.' I have looked in 'The Ringing World' each week for some reply from, perhaps, Mr. Cockerill or some other College Youth, to 'Uncle Peter's Big Nephew's' letter of August 13th, re broadcasting of Bow Bells on July 31st. I happened to be, quite by accident, giving a demonstration to a prospective client that afternoon, and when I found that 'the College Youths' were to broadcast from Bow, I enlarged pretty considerably as to what we might expect, and as to what the Ancient Society of College Youths were, and had been, etc. But, oh, dear! to say that I was disgusted was to put it very mildly indeed, and I ask the same question again as was asked in the letter referred to above: Was it really the 'A.S.C.Y.' that were giving the performance? I cannot believe it. It was certainly 'one of the performances which left the lay public far from impressed with the rhythmic beauty of change-ringing,' vide your leader, and, sir, was supposed to be performed by our leading change-ringing society. May I ask, Where else on earth you would expect to get a good performance from, unless from Bow and by the College Youths? Even given the committee suggested in 'Out of Course's' letter in this week's 'Ringing World,' any list of towers drawn up by such a committee would certainly have to include Bow and 'the College Youths,' and we, even then, stand the risk of a very questionable performance, if the broadcasting on July 31st is to be credited to the A.S.C.Y. It is true, as your correspondent says, that anything but good ringing 'is liable either to lower the public opinion of the art of ringing, and, or, decrease the number of opportunities to broadcast. It is necessary that such bad performances should be stopped, both from a change-ringing standpoint and also from the trade or purely wireless standpoint. Every artiste who broadcasts from the various studios has to be 'top hole,' and it is up to the ringing fraternity to see that whatever is broadcast from our bellies is 'top hole,' too. We have the men who can do it, but I am inclined to think they did not get the chance on July 31st.—Yours faithfully,

ROBERT WHITTINGTON, Electrician.

The bells of the Cathedral, Birmingham, will be broadcast by members of St. Martin's Guild on Sunday, from 8 to 8.15 p.m.

SHEFFIELD DISTRICT SOCIETY AT BOLSTERSTONE.*THE IMPORTANCE OF GOOD STRIKING.

On Saturday last, with glorious weather prevailing, some thirty members of the Sheffield District Society climbed the hills leading to Bolsterstone, ringers hailing from Barnsley, Handsworth, Killamarsh, Norton, Rotherham Parish Church and St. Stephen's, Eastwood, Rawmarsh, Sheffield Cathedral, St. Marie's, All Saints' and Ashton-under-Lyne.

Many methods were rung during the afternoon and evening, though it must be admitted that the quality of the striking was not up to the usual standard—a fault which does not altogether lie with the bells, and which tends to prove that some members would do better to study the striking of their bell rather than the number of methods they are able to 'get through.' Ringers should realise that a well-struck touch in one of the standard methods is far more pleasing to the outside public (who must be considered) than a badly performed exhibition in a Surprise method due to bad striking, and that if this incentive is gained by a learner in his early stages many of the difficulties encountered in Surprise ringing will be automatically overcome or minimised. The writer hopes that these remarks, which are tendered in the best interests of the Art, will be accepted by those concerned in a similar spirit.

The Vicar (Rev. J. H. Mason) very kindly provided a free tea and extended a most cordial welcome to the society, speaking in high praise of his own hand of ringers, who, at the meeting which followed, were admitted as members along with Mr. R. Fletcher, of Eastwood, and Mr. R. W. Collier, of St. Marie's. Mr. F. Wolstencroft, of Ashton-under-Lyne, was also accepted as a non-resident life member.

The secretary reported that subscriptions for the current year had been paid in an exemplary manner, and that the peal book was entered up to December last with the exception of one peal, to which the committee were giving their attention.

The thanks of members were voted in a hearty manner to the Vicar for his hospitality, and local members for their support, for what with the Vicarage grounds being placed at their disposal, eleven new members added to the roll, and Bolsterstone becoming affiliated to the society, the meeting can certainly be said to have been happy and successful.

The next meeting will be held at Rawmarsh in December.

EAST RETFORD.—On Sunday, September 5th, for early morning service, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples (1,260 changes) in 48 mins.: F. Thompson 1, F. Hind 2, G. Swanlack 3, W. H. Johnson, V.C., 4, H. Haigh (conductor) 5, P. Woodward 6, W. Norton 7, H. Blagg 8. First quarter-peal by W. Norton.

A BIRTHDAY PEAL. RINGER'S MOTHER HONOURED.

Two Surprise peals rewarded certain visitors to Sussex during the past week-end. The first was Cambridge Surprise Royal, rung at Southover Parish Church, Lewes, on Saturday, and was the raison d'être of the excursion into the county of downland and sea—not that the ringers, however, saw much of either of these. The visit to Lewes was directly concerned with a birthday celebration—the 80th birthday of Mrs. E. Goldsmith, whose connection with the church and parish has extended over more than fifty years, during part of which time she actually held the office of parish clerk. Daughter, wife, and mother of ringers, it was her encouragement which induced the Editor of this journal to take up the art of ringing, and she has always evinced the deepest interest in the happenings at Southover Church tower, sharing in the pleasures and disappointments of the ringers when success or failure attended their efforts.

Previous birthday peals had been rung in her honour, but the completion of fourscore years was felt to be an occasion specially worthy of celebration, and a band, including some well-known names, was readily found to undertake the ringing. About the peal there is nothing that calls for comment. It just began and went merrily on to a splendid finish, then, before the bells were finally set, eight volleys were fired on them, one for each decade of the long life.

Later, when the party had assembled at 'another place,' Mrs. Goldsmith's health was heartily drunk and good wishes expressed to her, and, in return, Mrs. Goldsmith thanked the ringers for the honour they had done her.

On Sunday, two good touches of Stedman Caters and one of Bob Royal were rung for morning service, with some of the local men taking part, and then the cars—both of them rather sadly overloaded—were called upon to convey the party of ten to one of the most delightful spots to be found in all the county. This was Buxton, where the spacious and ancient church of St. Margaret stands enshrined in the beautiful park belonging to the Portman family. Except for the mansion, which adjoins the church, there is hardly a house within earshot of the bells, and here, by kind permission of the Rector, a peal of Bristol Surprise Major was rung in the afternoon. The two members of the party who stood out of the peal wandered round the glorious domain, listening to the rhythmic beat of the bells, and eventually reluctantly leaving them to be enjoyed—outside the tower, at any rate—only by the deer, the cattle, and the rabbits. At least, that is what one might have imagined on driving away from this beauty spot, but it was not quite true in fact. The Rector had heard the peal and enjoyed it, and when the ringing ceased he went to the church and congratulated the ringers, and, what is more, invited them to come again whenever they liked.

In all respects the excursion was an enjoyable and successful one, and while the ringers desire to thank the respective incumbents for the use of the bells, the writer of these lines would especially like to thank the other members of the band who enabled a very cherished desire to be accomplished—a peal on his mother's 80th birthday!

Southover Church, by the way, has been a happy hunting ground for peal-ringers. The earliest peal of which there is any record in the tower was one rung in 1869, in which the father and grandfather of the Editor of 'The Ringing World' took part, but, in addition, exactly one hundred peals by the Sussex County Association, down to the year 1910, are recorded in the belfry. And a great many have been rung there since. The tower contains the only peal of ten bells in Sussex, outside Brighton.

WELSH RINGERS' LOSS.

The Llandaff and Monmouth Diocesan Association have lost a great friend by the death of the Vicar of St. Woolos', Rev. D. H. Griffiths, Archdeacon of Monmouth, who was buried on Monday week. The bells of both churches (St. Woolos' and All Saints') were rung half-muffled for all services on Sunday and again on Monday, and also in a great many churches throughout the county. A peal was rung at Bridgend, recorded in the usual place. The deceased Archdeacon left Newport apparently in the best of health, motored to London, and on arrival complained of pains. He was taken at once to Hospital and operated on, but never recovered.

Archdeacon Griffiths was secretary of the association for four years, and it was mainly due to his efforts that the bells at St. Woolos' were augmented to ten.

MASONIC BELLS.

RESTORATION OF PENWORTHAM'S RING.

The masonic opening of the restored bells at Penwortham, Lanes, on Saturday, will be an event unique in ringing annals. The bells have been renovated and rehung at the expense of Freemasons, and the dedication service is to be attended by the West Lancashire Provincial Grand Master and his officers.

The cracked 3rd in the old six has been recast, and two trebles have been added to make a ring of eight. The old bells have been cleaned by sandblast and tuned.

The eight bells have been hung with cast-iron headstocks and ball bearings. The bell frame has been re-arranged and additions made to accommodate the eight bells on one level.

Messrs. Mears and Stainbank have carried out the work.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

NEWBURY BRANCH.

A quarterly meeting of the Newbury Branch was held at Chiovelly on Saturday, September 4th, when 35 ringers attended from Beedon, Brightwalton, Bucklebury, East Ilsley, Peasemore, Shaw, Newbury, Thatcham, Abingdon, with the local band, Mr. R. T. Hibbert (general secretary) also being present. The service was conducted by the Rev. G. O. Cheese, who also gave an excellent address, the Rector being away on holiday. Tea was served in the Vicarage barn.

At the business meeting, Mr. R. T. Hibbert presided in the absence of the Rev. L. R. Majendie (chairman of the branch).

The annual meeting was fixed for November 15th, at Newbury. A hearty vote of thanks was accorded to the Rev. G. O. Cheese, to the organist, and to Mr. E. E. Prinsall for providing the tea.

Some good touches of Grandsire and Stedman Doubles, Plain Bob, Kent Treble Bob, and Cambridge Minor were rung during the afternoon and evening. Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Lock and Mr. Caldwell were present from Abingdon.

PONTEFRAC'T'S OLDEST RINGER.

DEATH OF MR. WILLIAM PEARSON.

It is with great regret we have to record the death of Pontefract's oldest ringer, Mr. William Pearson, who passed away on Wednesday evening, August 25th, at the age of 68 years. Though he had been in failing health for some time, the end came quickly. His last visit to the belfry was on Sunday evening, August 1st, when he took part in a touch of Stedman Caters. The following week he consulted a specialist, who gave no hope of a cure. He gradually became weaker, and died most peacefully at his residence, Campsall House, Pontefract.

Mr. Pearson, who was a plumber, had a long and honourable record as a tradesman. He was head of the firm of W. Pearson and Sons, and had built up an extensive business.

The funeral took place in Pontefract Cemetery on Saturday, August 28th, and was attended by a large number of fellow tradesmen, the ringers from the Parish Church and All Saints' Church, also representatives of the Yorkshire Association from Bradford, Doncaster, Barnsley, Selby, Leeds, Pudsey and Dewsbury. A course of Grandsire Triples was rung over the grave by H. Walters and J. H. Lanton (Pontefract), J. Cotterell (Bradford), and G. Halksworth (Doncaster).

Mr. Pearson's ringing career commenced at Campsall. He then went for a short time to Wetherby, eventually settling down in Pontefract, where he soon made his presence felt. He had rung several peals before joining the Yorkshire Association in 1880.

For many years he was a member of the General Committee and was a well-known personality at the association meetings. He was a man of retiring disposition, but when consulted always spoke with great authority and to the point.

For the association he had rung 72 peals, many of which he had conducted, but his record cannot be judged by his number of peals. He had devoted a great portion of his life in teaching the art to others, and many are the peals he had arranged, but to which, with his unselfish nature, he listened instead of taking part. He had a most wonderful ear and could jot down the changes as they came up. It was always very interesting after a jumble to find William Pearson at the church door with paper and figures to greet you. There could be no disputing him, and he could tell where the trouble commenced. Had he set out for an individual record, he had all the necessary gifts to place himself on a high pedestal, but as long as he was helping others to progress he was satisfied.

It was mainly through Mr. Pearson's perseverance and tact that the Pontefract Parish Church bells were re-cast and augmented to ten, as a war memorial in 1919.

Great was his interest in all church bell restoration. When his strength was failing fast he talked of York Minster bells. No matter how ill he was, even if he had to be pushed up the steps he wanted to be there when they were dedicated, such was his spirit to the last.

He was a very keen churchman, and for many years was a sidesman and a member of the Parochial Council.

He has left a wife, four sons and three daughters, but only one son has taken up his father's hobby, and is instructor at All Saints' Church, where his father has turned out so many good ringers.

SHIPWAY'S FALLACIES.

By GEORGE BAKER.

Shipway during the time he lived was far in advance of the writers who had gone before, and also of his contemporaries, but he certainly was not the infallible man that some present-day writers would have us believe; and he has handed down to us in his Campanalogia a whole host of fallacies, the greatest of which is the false notion that a construction with two hunts is, or can be, an extension of a construction with one hunt.

What brain-wave started the idea in Shipway's head is past comprehension. Shipway knew perfectly well that Grand sire and Plain Bob are two distinct methods, and he gives them as such from Singles to Maximus with one exception—i.e., he gives the bob lead of Grand sire Singles instead of the plain lead.

With the knowledge he possessed, why it never occurred to Shipway that two-hunt constructions can be obtained on all numbers to infinity, as well as one-hunt constructions, is a mystery. Anyway, Shipway believed in this particular fallacy and stated it as a fact, and nearly every writer since has accepted this false doctrine.

That it is false can easily be proved by extending Double Court Bob Minor as a Single construction to Triples, Major and Caters, and then showing a similar two-hunt construction for comparison.

One-hunt Construction.
Minor.	Triples.	Major.	Caters.
123456	1234567	12345678	123456789
214365	2143657	21436587	214365879
241356	2413567	24135678	241356789
423165	4231657	42316587	423165879
243615	2436175	24361857	243618597
426351	4263715	42638175	426381957
462531	4627351	46283715	462837175
642531	6427351	64287351	642873515
Lead-head	6472531		869472531
156342	Lead-head	68472531	Lead-head
	1573624	Lead-head	157392846
		15738264	157392846

It is quite true that the above Triples and Caters are only touches, but no one can deny that they are the same construction, and when proved by reciprocal proof, the Minor, Triples, Major and Caters each have only one false row to the lead—i.e., the lead-end.

Two-hunt Construction.
Minor.	Triples.	Major.	Caters.
123456	1234567	12345678	123456789
214365	2143657	21436587	214365879
241635	2416375	24163857	241638597
426135	4261357	42613587	426135879
462315	4623175	46231857	462318597
643251	6432715	64328175	643281957
	4637251	46382715	463829175
463521		64837251	648392715
Lead-head	6473521		884937251
126543	Lead-head	68473521	869473521
	1275634	Lead-head	Lead-head
		12758364	127593846

In the one-hunt construction the Minor is the only double method. In the two-hunt construction the Triples is the only double method, and is known as Double Court Bob Triples. Shipway and the science men of to-day tell us that Double Court Bob Triples is Double Court Bob Minor with a bell in the hunt. If they, the science men, still think so after reading this article, perhaps they will kindly tell the Exercise what the one-hunt Triples is on the one hand, and what the two-hunt Minor is on the other hand.

To help them come to a decision, the following is the result of proving the two-hunt constructions by reciprocal proof:

In the Minor there are seven false rows to every lead; in the Triples, Major and Caters there are nine false rows to every lead.

In a recent article I should have qualified what I wrote about the impossibility of comparing round block progressions of Single and Double methods by stating that I was referring to Treble Bob hunt methods. It will be seen by the foregoing there is no such difficulty when methods have one or two plain hunts.

DEATH OF LITTLE HORKESLEY'S ONLY CHANGE-RINGER

We regret to record the death of Mr. Arthur Worth, of Little Horkesley, who died on August 25th, in Saffron Walden Hospital. He had been under treatment for over six months for tuberculosis of the spine.

Deceased was a member of the Essex Association, and had started a young band at Little Horkesley Church before going into the hospital. He was the only change-ringer in the parish.

He was laid to rest on Tuesday, August 31st, at the Parish Church, and the bells were rung half-muffled after the interment.

YORK MINSTER BELLS.

IMPRESSIVE DEDICATION SERVICE.

A congregation which overflowed the noble Minster, and is said to have numbered thousands, attended the rededication of bells at York on Sunday week. The service was a continuation of evensong, and those present included many public men from various parts of the three Ridings. Representative citizens, including the Lord Mayor and Lady Mayoress (Councillor and Mrs. W. Wright), were, of course, present in large numbers, and as the service of dedication was broadcast it can be assumed that the bells were heard in many parts of the country. The service was most inspiring, the music being beautifully sung.

The clergy present were the Dean of York (Dr. Lionel Ford), the Rev. Chancellor Austen, Canon Nolloth (late Vicar of Beverley Minster, who has been largely responsible for the work that has been carried out), the Rev. H. T. S. Gedge (sub-chanter), and the Rev. Harold Spence (vicar-choral and chamberlain).

After the anthem (Holst's 'Lord, Who hast made us for Thine own'), the clergy, who in the meantime had assumed processional vestments, together with the choir, walked in procession singing down the centre aisle, headed by the processional cross, to the open space immediately under the south-west bell tower. It was here that two bell-ropes hung down from the bell-chamber.

Originally it was arranged that the Dean, accompanied by the other clergy, should ascend to the bell-chamber and there greet the bell-ringers, who had already taken their places, together with the representatives of the bell-founders, but the bell tower was not ascended by them, and the exhortation that 'their going out and their coming in' would be preserved, and that they would be strengthened to perform the service to which they had been called, was made from below.

Chancellor Austen requested the Dean to rededicate the bells, which Dr. Ford did 'in the faith of Jesus Christ and to the glory of God.' The Dean then beseeched God to accept the offering at their hands, and prayed that the bells might be blessed, sanctified, and hallowed, 'that they may call together Thy faithful people to praise and worship Thy Holy Name.' A prayer followed 'that they who shall ring these bells may be filled with reverence and Godly fear and may be counted worthy to stand with those who praise Thee in the heavenly Jerusalem.'

Canon Nolloth, on behalf of those responsible for the renovation of the bells, delivered them into the keeping of the Dean by placing the two suspended bell-ropes in the hands of the Dean.

Dr. Ford, accepting them, said: 'I receive these bells, that have been solemnly set apart from all profane and unhallowed uses, as a sacred trust committed to the Dean and Chapter of this cathedral church, and do promise and profess that we will give our utmost care that they be ever and only used in God's service and for His glory.'

While the clergy and choir stood for a few moments at the west end the bells rang a short peal, and their great beauty of tone impressed and pleased everyone.

The clergy and choir returned to their places in the nave again in processional order, and prayer was offered that whosoever be called by the sound of the bells to the house of prayer might enter into His gates with thanksgiving and into His courts with praise.

During the singing of the last hymn, 'O worship the King,' a collection was taken, to be devoted towards the cost of recasting and re-hanging 'Great Peter,' the Minster 10-ton bell. The cost of that work is estimated at £1,525, and towards that amount £770 has been given or promised.

The service concluded with the Blessing, pronounced by the Dean, and the clergy and the choir proceeded to the south choir aisle by way of the choir.

The new bells were rung for a lengthy period after service, crowds of people gathering to hear them.

WINCHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD.

A quarterly meeting of the Winchester district was held at Hursley on Saturday, August 28th, by kind permission of the Vicar (Rev. L. R. Husband). The bells were kept going during the afternoon and evening to Grand sire and Stedman Doubles and Triples, Double Norwich and London Surprise Major. Tea and meeting were held in the Club Room, the Master, Mr. G. Williams, presiding, in the absence of the Vicar. He was supported by the general secretary, Mr. G. Pullinger, and Mr. F. W. Rogers, district secretary, Portsmouth.

The election of Mr. R. Clark, Bristol, as a compounding member, was confirmed.

The Master announced that he had received a postcard from the Rev. C. E. Matthews, vice-president of the Guild, stating that he had left the Lyndhurst Cottage Hospital and was now at his home at Milford-on-Sea, steadily improving.

A vote of thanks was passed to the Vicar for the use of the bells and to the ladies for their kind attention at tea.

Those present were from Twyford, North Stoneham, Southampton, Stockbridge, Portsmouth, Winchester and Hursley.

The annual meeting of the district will be held at Southampton on Saturday, November 6th, notice of which will be given in 'The Ringing World.'

RINGERS' OUTINGS. A VISIT TO 'THE DALE.'

Members of St. Peter's, Wolverhampton, and friends from Tettenhall, Brewood, Bradley, Coseley and Bloxwich spent the afternoon of Saturday, September 4th, in a trip by motor charabanc to Coalbrookdale. The journey was made via Bridgnorth and Much Wenlock. At the latter town a stop was made to view the ancient ruins of the abbey associated with this old and probably smallest borough in the country. Again boarding the charabanc, tracks were made for 'the Dale' and Holy Trinity Church, where the genial tower-keeper, Mr. William Saunders was waiting with a hearty welcome. Soon the bells were up and going merrily to touches of Grandsire Caters and Stedman Triples. After tea, advantage was again taken of some more ringing, and touches of Stedman Caters, Bob Royal and Minor were successfully brought round. The Bob Minor was first rung on the front six and then on the back six in order to hear what a lovely little ring of six either would make. Great pleasure was expressed at the 'go' and tone of the bells recently rehung and augmented by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank, and the ringers desire to record their sincere thanks to the incumbent (Rev. Presb. C. B. Crowe, M.A., R.D.) for allowing the use of the bells and for the personal welcome he gave them, and also wish to thank Mr. Saunders for all he did towards making the outing such a pleasurable afternoon's enjoyment.

HERTFORD COLLEGE YOUTHS.

On August 14th, the members of the Hertford College Youths held a most enjoyable outing in Hertfordshire. Leaving Hertford at 9 a.m. by charabanc, they journeyed to Bishop's Stortford, where they were privileged to ring on the fine peal of 10 bells of the Parish Church for upwards of an hour. Some excellent ringing was accomplished. Leaving Bishop's Stortford at 11.15, the party proceeded to Royston, where the handy peal of eight had been placed at their disposal. These bells go perfectly, and some excellent touches of Stedman and Treble Bob were got home. Lunch was partaken of at The Cross at Royston and thoroughly enjoyed, after which a beautiful cross-country journey of practically 30 miles, via Baldock, Hitchin and Luton, terminated at Harpenden at 3.45. Here the party were met by Mr. B. Jarman, the president of the Herts County Association, and a visit was paid to the Parish Church, where some very enjoyable ringing was indulged in on the peal of eight. At five o'clock the party sat down to an excellent tea at the Trust House at Harpenden, and were joined by Alderman A. P. Ginn, Mayor of Hertford, who is president and Master of the society, and who was accompanied by Mrs. Ginn. After tea Mr. H. J. Gray, the hon. secretary of the society, who was responsible for all the arrangements, expressed, on behalf of the ringers, their pleasure in the presence of the Master of the society and also Mrs. Ginn, and the president of the Herts Society. He also expressed his thanks to the clergy of the various churches where they had been privileged to ring, and to the Dean of St. Albans for the permission which had been granted to the party to visit the belfry at St. Albans Cathedral.

At 6.15 the ringers left for St. Albans, where they were met by several of the members of the Cathedral band. The visit was unique to a number of the Hertford ringers, and they were delighted with the opportunity afforded of looking over the Cathedral and ringing on the grand peal of eight. Here, in spite of the decidedly difficult conditions for which the Cathedral belfry is notorious, some excellent touches of Stedman and Treble Bob were accomplished, and the party eventually took leave of their St. Albans friends to return to Hertford at 8.15, arriving home at 9 o'clock, unanimous that the day was the most enjoyable they had spent.

ABSON BELLS. TO-MORROW'S DEDICATION.

The official opening of Abson bells will be held on Saturday, September 11th, at 3 p.m. by the Ven. Archdeacon of Bristol.

The bells, which have not been rung since June 5th, 1911, have just been sandblasted and rehung in a steel and iron frame, the work having been carried out by Messrs. Gillett and Johnston, of Croydon, to the entire satisfaction of all concerned. All ringers will be most welcome at the dedication, and arrangements will be made for all ringers to have a pull.

Bristol tramway buses leave Carey Lane, Bristol, at 1 p.m., and every hour until 9 p.m., to Pucklechurch, which is 15 minutes' walk from Abson.

METHODS VERSUS STRIKING.

An interesting question is raised by the comment in the report in our last issue of the meeting of the Sheffield District Society. In the best possible spirit, our correspondent urged that more attention should be paid at such meetings to the striking of the bells, and condemned the sacrifice of good ringing to the desire to bring round touches in more difficult methods. In other reports in this issue the same matter is mentioned, and it is one to which attention may well be directed. There can be no doubt that bad ringing seriously prejudices the public against the Art, and the public must be considered in these matters as well as the ringers, even though the latter are using the bells with official permission. Continual 'banging about' in attempts to ring a method which is really beyond the capabilities of a band is to be condemned, and, if carried to extremes, may become a genuine source of annoyance to those outside who are compelled to listen. To persist in such attempts, moreover, stamps the ringers as tactless, if not selfish, as well as creating the impression of incompetence. For their own reputation's sake, therefore, bands should know when to stop experimenting.

But there are two sides to the question, even in this matter. For some ringers, district meetings form almost the only opportunity of practising a fresh method, and the most valuable part of these gatherings would be lost if those who attended them were debarred from ringing anything fresh. It is by the experience gained at district meetings that men are often able to return to their own towers and take the ringing there a step further on, or at least to quicken their interest and intensify the desire to advance themselves in the Art. To limit the Grandsire Triples man to Grandsire Triples, or to forbid the Treble Bob ringer to attempt anything a stage more advanced, at an association meeting, would not only be to discourage the individual, but would soon kill the associations themselves.

There is no real need for one extreme or the other. A tactful man, capable of judging a ringer's capacity when he sees him at the rope end, even if he had no previous knowledge of his ability, should be in charge of every belfry during a ringing meeting. He would know what to encourage and what to reject; he could quickly gauge his band and ensure that the ringing is passably good. It is, of course, a well known fact that, at the majority of district meetings, the striking leaves something to be desired. With all sorts of ringers—good, bad and indifferent—taking a turn, some of the ringing is bound to be of a poor standard, but the capable ringing master would give his attention, by helpful hints to the weaker brethren, to improving this important phase of the practice as much as he would endeavour to raise the standard of the methods rung. It is not easy to find the ringer with the necessary qualifications for this task, but every district ought to try to place such a man in authority for the conduct of the ringing at its meetings.

CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY GUILD.

UNLUCKY THIRTEEN HAVE AN ENJOYABLE OUTING.

The fifteenth annual ringing week of the Cambridge University Guild was held this year in Cheshire, headquarters being at the Rectory, Grappenhall, just outside Warrington.

The superstitious seekers of coincidences may find contentment in the fact that thirteen members were present, thirteen towers were visited, and all the peal attempts ended in failure. This in no way prevented the week being a great success, and the splendid programme which had been arranged by the host, Rev. C. A. Clements, was thoroughly enjoyed by everyone. The ringing was of a higher standard than usual, and the methods rung during the week in the tower and on handbells included Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Plain Bob, Little Bob, Kent Treble Bob, Norwich Court, Double Norwich, Cambridge Court, Cambridge, Superlative, and London Surprise Major, Grandsire, Stedman and Double Norwich Caters, Cambridge Surprise Royal, and Grandsire Cinques.

Although no peals were rung, the Guild can look back with satisfaction on some of its performances, perhaps the three best of which were: A touch of London Surprise Major by: Rev. R. H. Whitford (Pembroke) 1, F. E. Haynes (St. Catherine's) 2, J. T. Rickman (Jesus) 3, E. M. Atkins (St. Catherine's) 4, W. H. J. Hooton (Queen's) 5, Rev. H. S. T. Richardson (Trinity) 6, Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn (Trinity) 7, Rev. H. Law James (Calus) (conductor) 8; a course of Cambridge, 'in hand,' by: Rev. H. S. T. Richardson (Trinity) 1-2, E. M. Atkins (St. Catherine's) 3-4, W. H. J. Hooton (Queen's) 5-6, Rev. H. Law James (Calus) 7-8; and 769 Grandsire Cinques, at Macclesfield, by: Rev. H. Law James (Calus) (conductor) 1, J. T. Rickman (Jesus) 2, Rev. R. H. Whitford (Pembroke) 3, Rev. H. S. T. Richardson (Trinity) 4, W. H. J. Hooton (Queen's) 5, Rev. B. F. Sheppard (Trinity) 6, Canon H. J. Elsee (St. John's) 7, E. M. Atkins (St. Catherine's) 8, F. E. Haynes (St. Catherine's) 9, S. H. Wood (Magdalen) 10, Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn (Trinity) 11, Rev. C. A. Clements (St. Catherine's) 12. This was the first touch of Cinques that the Guild has rung.

RINGERS' OUTINGS.

FAIRFORD RINGERS IN OXFORDSHIRE.

The ringers of St. Mary's Church, Fairford, Glos., held their annual outing on Saturday, September 4th. The party left by car at 8.10 a.m. and proceeded to Hook Norton, where the bells were soon swinging to Grandsire Triples, the Rector, the Ven. M. Beardsham, taking the treble to a plain course of Triples for the first time. Bloxham was the next objective, with its very high spire with eight bells, the first six only being available for ringing, as the two heavy bells cause too much vibration to the tower, the tenor 28 cwt. Touches of Grandsire, Plain Bob, and Canterbury Doubles and Bob Minor were rung. The journey was then resumed, and Banbury reached at 12.45. Here an excellent hot lunch was partaken at the Elephant and Castle Hotel, kindly arranged by Mr. Tandy, one of the local ringers. Afterwards the tower was visited, and touches of Grandsire Triples were rung. The interior of the church was very much admired by the party, who then disbanded, returning later very heavily laden with Banbury cakes. Adderbury was the next stop. This is a fine old church, but the arrangement of the chimés and clock in the centre of the ringing chamber, and the fact that the tenor rope comes down between treble and 2nd, rather upset the ringers, who were some time before they could get a touch of Grandsire Triples round. Tea was then taken at the Red Lion Hotel. Great Tew was afterwards visited, with its lovely peal of eight rehung in 1925 by Mears and Stainbank. Here the party overstayed the allotted time, ringing Grandsire Triples and playing tunes on the chimés. Tea Field was the next stop, and, on a nice peal of six, touches of Grandsire Doubles and Plain Bob Minor were rung. Then last, but not least, Bampton was reached one hour and thirty minutes late—too late to ring, but Mr. Tanner had kindly arranged a nice supper, which was very much appreciated. Fairford was reached at 11.10 p.m. Thanks are tendered to the incumbents of the various churches for the use of the bells, and to all ringing friends who met the party on the tour and so helped to make the day such a success.

IN GLORIOUS DEVON.

St. Thomas' (Exeter) ringers' outing took place on Saturday, September 4th. The party, numbering eleven, journeyed by motor-car through lovely scenery, on a beautiful day, visited and rang at Huntsham, Oakford, Bampton and Dulverton. Some excellent ringing of Grandsire and Stedman Triples was done, and all the rings of bells were found to be in first-class order.

A VISIT TO LOUGHBOROUGH FOUNDRY.

On Monday, August 9th, the North Wingfield Parish Church ringers went on their annual outing. According to a pre-arranged plan, the places to be visited were the Bell Foundry, Loughborough, St. Margaret's Church, Leicester, and the Parish Church, Melton Mowbray. The party included two lady ringers, Miss Dorothy Tarlton and Miss Doris Dilks of the local band, and four ringers of the Morton Parish Church company.

At Loughborough Mr. Pryce Taylor had very kindly arranged for the ringers to make a tour of the foundry. On arriving, the party were taken in charge by an official, who discharged his duty as guide in a very efficient manner. He explained the different processes through which bells and their fittings have to pass before being ready for their destination, and the ringers had a most interesting and enjoyable time. Carillons were in course of preparation for U.S.A. and Holland. One large bell, for which the mould was being prepared, was to weigh ten tons. Two peals which interested the ringers most were a new peal of eight for Creswell, Derbyshire, and one of six for Eyam, the latter having since been delivered and rehung. It was the peal for Creswell that attracted the attention of the ringers most. They were in a row mouth upwards in the tuning shop, where they had just been tuned. The tenor is about 14½ cwt., and the beautiful tone of this peal was demonstrated by the guide. The ringers left the tuning shop feeling quite envious of Creswell people who are to possess such a fine peal, but as these bells will not be many miles away when hung in the tower the band are looking forward to sampling their musical qualities in the near future. Afterwards the campanile was visited, and the light but musical peal of ten bells were tried. Much amusement was caused by the difficulty experienced in handling these light bells, and the ladies took much persuading before they would try their skill. Bob Major was brought round on the back eight, and some well-struck Kent Minor on the front six. This ended the tour of the foundry. The ringers extend their special thanks to the guide for the way in which he conducted the party and made their visit so enjoyable and interesting. After leaving the foundry, a visit was paid to the War Memorial Campanile, with its now famous carillon. The party were disappointed to find it was closed until 2 p.m., as by this time a start had to be made for St. Margaret's, Leicester. They had, therefore, to be satisfied with a view of the exterior. After lunch, the journey was continued to St. Margaret's. Here Mr. J. Morris was waiting to welcome them and conduct them to the spacious belfry with its fine peal of twelve. Although the ringers could not man the twelve for change-ringing, some Kent Major and Stedman Triples were rung on the back eight. The twelve were then set going in rounds and Queens, in which the lady ringers took part. At Melton Mowbray, after enjoying a good tea, the ringers made their way to the church, and were welcomed by Mr. Bartram and two other local ringers. After pulling up the bells, Treble Bob, Plain Bob Major and Stedman Triples were brought round. An attempt was made for Stedman's Caters, but this refused to go. After leaving Melton, the party had a splendid run home.

The company wish to take this opportunity of thanking Mr. P. Taylor for making such admirable arrangements for their tour of the foundry, Mr. J. Morris and fellow-ringers of St. Margaret's who were present to welcome them, and Mr. Bartram and the two other ringers of Melton Mowbray who gave them a welcome there, and also the Vicars of St. Margaret's and Melton Mowbray for the use of the bells.

LADIES HOLD THE FORT.

On the re-organisation of the ringers of All Saints', Harrow Weald, in January, a mixed band was formed under a new instructor. The ladies having made good progress and become quite efficient in handling the bells without the instructor, six male members availed themselves of the opportunity on Sunday, August 22nd (no other day being convenient for all to get together) of a trip to Oxford and Reading. Leaving Harrow Weald at 7.55 a.m. on a 'Sunbeam' car, a most enjoyable ride was experienced through very pretty country by way of Watford, Berkhamsted, Tring, Aylesbury and Thame, reaching Oxford at 10 a.m. Here they were met by Mr. W. Harris, who promptly escorted them to St. Ebbe's Church, where the bells were raised and rung for morning service. The tone and 'go' of this little peal left nothing to be desired, and the weight just suited the party, this being their first ringing experience away from their own tower.

The remainder of the morning was spent in exploring the famous old city under the guidance of Mr. Harris. The Thames from Foley Bridge, Carfax Tower, Martyrs' Memorial, the Sheldonian Theatre and St. Mary's Church were amongst the items of interest brought to their notice. After an excellent lunch at the Oriol Cafe, they were taken round Magdalen College, All Souls' Chapel and Christ Church Cathedral. This more than exhausted the time at their disposal, and hurried tracks had to be made for the car to start for Reading.

Arriving at the biscuit town just half an hour behind scheduled time, they were very kindly entertained to tea by Miss Goodship, who severely scolded them for 'keeping the pot waiting.' Unfortunately, owing to the late arrival, tea had to be somewhat hurried, as the visitors were due at St. Giles' Church at 5.30 p.m. Here the bells were heavier than any previously handled by the majority, and, taken somewhat unawares, they made a very poor show at the commencement. With a second start, however, there was a considerable improvement, and the experience was thoroughly appreciated by all. After some twenty minutes of call changes, the ropes were taken over by the local ringers, and it was an education to the visiting novices to watch and to listen to the finely struck touch of Stedman Triples, followed by some Double Norwich Major which, unfortunately, came to grief. At 7.30 the car was again requisitioned, and a start made for home, which was reached by 9.45 p.m., everyone having had a most enjoyable day. The first outing of the 'All Saints' Guild' will be long remembered. Thanks are due to Mr. Harris for placing so much of his time at the party's disposal, to Miss Goodship for entertaining them to tea, and to Mr. A. W. Osborne fcc giving them the opportunity of ringing on the bells of St. Giles'.

AN ESSEX EXCURSION.

The Maldon ringers' outing took place on September 11th. The party, numbering about twenty, left Maldon soon after 8 a.m. by charabanc, the first stop being at Great Bentley, which was reached at about 9.30, where they were met in the churchyard by a jackdaw, which seemed overjoyed to welcome them. After a good ring on this light peal of eight, the company left for Tendring. At this pretty little church they found a ring of six bells, which were soon going to various methods. After a light lunch this quiet spot was left with regret. Harwich was reached a little earlier than expected, so a move was made to the waterside. Two or three members were particularly interested in the train ferry, and were to be seen wandering round this and other nearby vessels for quite a considerable time. Afterwards a few touches were brought round on the eight bells, and tracks were then made for Mistley. An excellent tea was awaiting the party at the Thorn Hotel. After a most satisfying meal, a walk through fields brought the company to the church, which is charmingly situated for ringing. Some good touches were brought round on this musical six, the melodious sounds floating down to those who were outside in the calm of the setting sun. These bells, it may be mentioned, are shortly to be rehung. The last stop was at St. Peter's, Colchester, where all enjoyed ringing on a grand ring of eight. Home was reached at 10.30 p.m., after a very pleasant day. The ringers wish to thank the incumbents for the use of the bells, and those who met them at the various towers.

HOLT, WILTS.—On Wednesday, August 25th, 720 Bob Minor: A. Stokes 1, I. Bilby 2, J. Francis 3, W. West 4, W. Baxter 5, C. F. Andrews (conductor) 6. Rung with the bells half-muffled, as a last token of respect to Mrs. Wiltshire, wife of one of the local band.

NOTES BY THE WAY.
MORE ABOUT PRIZE RINGING.
BY J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

But prize ringing had its good points as well as its bad. The matches were, as a rule, carried out in a proper sportsmanlike manner. In itself, and apart from the betting and the excessive drinking, and the fact that the venue was a church, there is nothing objectionable about a competition between ringers. And prize ringing did do one thing. It discouraged slovenliness, it promoted keenness, and it put the highest premium in good striking. And good striking, though not everything, is a very important thing in ringing. What those ringers did was, in our eyes, a poor thing, but they did it well, better, you may be quite sure, than any of us could do it. If we were to pick as good a band as we could, I do not think we should stand much chance of winning a prize for raising, ringing round, and falling, in competition with the old Devon prize ringers. Here is a further quotation from Mr. Du Boulay Hill's paper: 'The zeal in practice beforehand, the marvellous accuracy of the performances, such as they are, would astonish many change ringers, and give many a wholesome lesson in the finish and care that can be bestowed upon the very best sound of the ceasing bells. Popular they are, too, for they produce that which pleases the popular ear far more than the ragged performances which pass muster under the name of change ringing.'

Now you will wonder why, if prize meetings had so many objectionable features, they were ever begun, or, if begun, why they were permitted to continue. The clergy are the sole custodians of the bells. They alone can say whether they shall be rung or not. Why, then, did they allow these prize meetings? I am going to try and answer that question presently. Meanwhile, there is the fact that, for more than a century, prize ringing was not only allowed, but encouraged and arranged by church authorities. We saw that it was so at Flixton in 1808, and though, as years went on, it is pretty certain that the clergy merely tolerated what they really did not approve, the real opposition to prize ringing came from within the Exercise, and not from without; from the men who were responsible for the formation of our great territorial associations, which have done so much for ringing and ringers during these last fifty years.

The general attitude of the clergy and especially of the older parsons is well illustrated by an incident which happened in 1882. In that year a prize ringing meeting was held at Crediton in Devon, and this is the notice of it which appeared in 'The North Devon Herald':— 'Crediton Ringing Competition. There was capital competition for the ringing prizes at Crediton on Monday, which resulted in Alphington bearing off the first prize of £5, St. Thomas the second of £3, and Paignton the third of £2. The ringers in Northtawton, Ide and Pilton also contended. The triers were Mr. S. Wilson, of Crediton, Mr. Southcott, of Thorverton, and Mr. Moas, of Exeter. The Rev. Prebendary Smith distributed the prizes after a dinner at the King's Arms Inn.'

Apparently this was an ordinary prize meeting, such as had been held scores and hundred of times before, and none of those who took part considered that they had done anything they should not have done. But the Devonshire Guild thought differently, or perhaps we should say that the men who had recently founded the Guild and who were controlling it thought differently.

They knew that prize ringing was the one great obstacle in the way of those things for which the Guild stood—belfry reform, the raising of the status of ringers and the promotion of change ringing. At the annual meeting the following resolution was passed: 'The members of the Guild of Devonshire Ringers cannot allow their annual meeting to take place without formally recording their very great regret that a prize ringing match should lately have been held at Crediton with the full approval of the Vicar, one of the Prebendaries of Exeter Cathedral; and they wish earnestly to impress on all persons connected with the Church in the diocese that infinite harm is done by such meetings.' This was proposed by the President, C. A. W. Troyte, Esq., and seconded by G. F. Coleridge, Esq. The last is a very unfamiliar title to a very familiar name.

The Vicar of Crediton's reply to this is the interesting thing. He decidedly did not like being told that his support of prize ringing was wrong. 'Is there anything debasing,' he asked, 'in the fact that sets of orderly and well conducted ringers vied with each other as to who should ring the best peal?' He protested 'against the proceedings, which were from first to last conducted in as orderly a way as possible, being characterised as a scandal.' He declared that he 'did not recognise the authority of a self-constituted body like The Devonshire Guild of Ringers to administer a rebuke to me as to my conduct in matters relating to my own parish, the surrounding circumstances being utterly unknown to them.' And then, having worked off his pique, he made some very significant admissions. He had 'consented' to the meeting, but he had not 'approved' of it. He was 'more sinned against than sinning.' He was 'quite sure that if I had refused my consent to the ringing match, though it had not my full approval, I should at once have alienated the ringers, and lost whatever hold upon them I may have gained. In a parish like Crediton a reformation of this kind cannot be carried with a high hand, and perhaps the Guild of Devonshire Ringers may see a consideration that their most laudable object is not so likely to recommend itself to the parochial clergy generally if they treat all who cannot at once see their way to adopting their rules in the belfries of their churches as they have treated me.'

This letter gives us a very good idea of the obstacles our early reformers had to contend with, and also of the general attitude of the clergy of the time towards ringers and ringing. For the sake of peace and quiet they shut their eyes; they allowed things that they really disapproved of, and they let matters slide. A few, indeed, did do something to improve matters, and there were cases where a service was held in the church and an address given to the ringers. And there were cases where parsons did try a root and branch reform, but these appear to have been sometimes the reverse of successful. The following letter appeared in the 'Church Times,' signed by the Rev. C. W. Molony, Rector of West Worlington, North Devon:—

'We are exposed to the greatest outrages on the part of the bell-ringers here, aided by associates from the neighbouring parishes. All this is owing to my having endeavoured to put a stop to the bell-ringing during what is called Revel Week, which occurs yearly in the early part of August. My reason for so doing was that during that week there is such a great amount of drunkenness, even on the part of some of those ringing the church bells. The belfry key, however, was taken from the door, and a strong barricade which I had placed inside the door was broken through and the bells were set pealing. I then got a new lock and put to the door, and have since kept the key myself. I then drew up a set of plain and easy rules, which, however, they refused to sign, and they insisted on having the key in their power and ringing whenever they liked. They threatened to do something dreadful. The first thing they did was to come at night and steal a number of chickens, pulling down the wire fencing and a number of posts and wringing off the heads of some of the chickens on their way back. Since then my wife and daughters have had large stones thrown at them from the public-houses, one of which came quite close to their heads, and from that time we have been yelled at very often when we have been out by one or other of these men or their associates. We were alarmed on Monday by a cry of fire, and on rushing out found 100 feet of building, consisting of coach-house, two stables and a large cow house in sheets of flame. With the greatest difficulty we got out everything except one fine cow which was already burned to death in the stall which blazed like a furnace. The yard was soon filled with villagers and others, and by incessant hard work and through God's great mercy the flames were kept from the house. The outbuildings, being thatched, caused the fire to spread most rapidly. Since that awful night the police have been trying to trace the deed home to the perpetrators of it. Although a constable is sent here every night from a large village three miles off to be on guard till the following morning, yet until the criminals are arrested our lives are not safe, as they still threaten the most horrible things, and declared this is only the beginning.'

It is possible that the ringers might have had something to say on their side. Anyhow, it was never proved that they were responsible for the outrages, and, though there was a Police Court sequel, it only resulted in a man being bound over to keep the peace for using threatening language against the Rector in a public-house. And even he, it seems, was not a ringer.

Since writing the above I have received from Mr. G. W. Moss a letter enclosing a couple of extracts from an old monthly newspaper called the 'New Monthly Magazine and Universal Register.' The date is 1819.

June 1st. 'For the Silver Cup, which is to be rung for at Hurst, Berkshire, on the 24th inst., there will be no less than six sets allowed to ring. No person residing at Hurst to be an umpire.'

July 1st. 'A ringing match took place at Hurst, Berkshire, for a silver cup and six beaver hats by six sets of ringers. The cup was won in great style by the Reading Youths and the hats by the Mortimer Youths. The ringing in general was performed in the best manner and a great number of people attended.'

These extracts are interesting, because they show that prize ringing meetings were at that time held over a wider area than is generally thought. I should be glad if any one else who has any records of any such competitions will send them to me. At present I have no trace of any in the London district or in the Eastern Counties, in both of which there were energetic bands of change ringers.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION. TONBRIDGE DISTRICT.

The summer meeting of the Tonbridge district was held at Westerham in glorious weather, and the opportunity of visiting this old-time town, with its fine peal of bells, was taken advantage of by nearly forty members, including several from the Lewisham district. Ringing commenced about three o'clock, and it would have been more enjoyable if more attention had been paid to the striking and thus allowed the full effect of the bells to be heard.

The usual service was held, and in the absence of the Vicar (Canon Boyd) was conducted by Rev. F. G. Popham, Rector of Tatsfield, who also gave an excellent address. The organist (Mr. Ellis) very kindly came specially from Bromley to preside at the organ, and the service was very bright throughout. An al fresco tea was partaken of at the George and Dragon Hotel, and although more members had turned up than were anticipated, extra tables were speedily laid, and an excellent tea was provided.

The Rev. F. G. Popham having to leave immediately after, a hearty vote of thanks was accorded him for kindly coming to conduct the service.—In reply, the reverend gentleman said that he had been very much interested during the afternoon, and he hoped that whenever the members held another meeting at Westerham, they would give him an opportunity of meeting them again.

The business meeting followed, Mr. G. Edwards, of Penshurst, presiding. Four new members were elected.—Votes of thanks to the Vicar for the use of the bells, to Mr. Ellis for his services at the organ, and to Mr. G. B. Selby, the local secretary, for the most excellent arrangements made, concluded the meeting, and the members then adjourned to the tower.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

Mr. T. Conley, who has been attached to the band at St. Peter's Church, St. Albans, for the long period of 73 years, celebrated his 90th birthday on Tuesday. In honour of the event a peal of Stedman Caters was rung at St. Peter's Church on Saturday.

More than one well-known ringer has this year made Paris the centre for his holiday. Has it been the blandishments of 'Uncle Joe,' who has been sojourning in the gay city quite a while, that have induced these travellers to risk their lives on the Channel?

The new bells at St. Michael's Church, Southampton, which were cast and had to be kept at the Croydon foundry for a long time, owing to the condition of the tower, have now been erected, and will be dedicated by the Bishop of Winchester on Thursday, September 30th.

With three men on the tenor and two on the 9th, the first peal on the new bells at St. Wulfram's Church, Grantham, was rung on September 19th, 1775. The peal was conducted by W. D. Crofts, and one of the men who rang the tenor was James Coppock, of Nottingham, whose great-grandson, Mr. Albert Coppock, is one of the active leaders in Nottingham ringing circles to-day.

Thirty years ago to-day, the Oxford Diocesan Guild rang the then record peal of London Surprise Major, 11,328 changes. This was at the late Rev. F. E. Robinson's church at Drayton, and was conducted by the late J. W. Washbrook.

Matthew Wood, of Bethnal Green, who died on August 27th, 1912, was born exactly one hundred years ago next Wednesday. He sprang from Huguenot stock, his grandfather, Francois Du Bois, a silk weaver in Lyons, being driven out of France. He settled in Spitalfields and changed his name to Wood. He became interested in ringing, rang over 70 peals, died, and was buried at Bethnal Green in 1784. Matt. Wood's peals numbered 380.

Mrs. A. H. Pulling has so far recovered from the motoring accident, which befell her and her husband on the opening day of the Somerset tour, as to be able to return to her home at Guildford. We are pleased to say she is still progressing favourably.

SUPERLATIVE SURPRISE MAXIMUS.

IPSWICH SOCIETY RING THE FIRST COURSE.

For the first time in the annals of change-ringing a course of Superlative Surprise Maximus has been rung. This was accomplished on Sunday evening, September 12th, for Divine service, by St. Mary-le-Tower Society, Ipswich, when 528 changes were rung in 25 minutes at St. Mary-le-Tower Church, Ipswich: S. W. Kinsey 1, P. May 2, H. C. Gillingham 3, C. J. Sedgley 4, W. P. Garrett 5, A. A. Fleming 6, G. A. Fleming 7, H. R. Roper 8, C. A. Catchpole 9, W. Wood 10, G. E. Symonds 11, F. J. Tillet 12.

The society hope one day to complete a peal in this method, but something of its difficulty may be realised by the fact that in five months they have had 34 practices before ringing a plain course.

THE TRINITY YOUTHS' PEAL BOOK.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I may be able to throw some light on the question of the Trinity Youths' Peal Book. Some years ago I was in the tower of St. Margaret's, Westminster, with the late Mr. William Weatherstone, and said, 'Billy, do you keep any records of your ringing, etc.?' He replied, 'I did once, but unfortunately they got destroyed. Burnt, and not by fair means,' he added. I could see that he was upset, and did not press him further, so, no doubt, if the peal book was in his possession at the time, it went with the rest of his papers.—Yours faithfully,

EDWIN GIBBS.

SPLICED-METHOD PEALS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—At pretty frequent intervals an account of a 'spliced' peal appears in 'The Ringing World.' Whether they can be truly described as spliced is another matter. I have given this question a certain amount of study, and I am of the opinion that the method must be changed once or more within the course. The Norbury band set the fashion in a grand way by ringing five different methods in each of the seven 720's they rang to complete their peal. It is a performance that will take a bit of beating. The peal of Triples rung recently by our friends in Wales, Grand sire and Oxford Bob, ringing Grand sire when 2nd is in the hunt and Oxford Bob when 7th is in the hunt, requires the ringers to be on the alert to note when either of these bells are called into that position.

To ring a quarter-peal of Double Norwich, then a quarter of Double Oxford or Plain Bob, then repeat the dose—well, there is not much in it, and it is not worth making a fuss about. One good thing has taken place—that is, that these peals have now no points' value, seeing that the Central Council have dropped the points business.—Yours, etc.,

J. HUNT.

SOMETHING NEW FOR BOB MAJOR RINGERS.

'LITTLE' METHODS WITH THE TREBLE BEHIND.
By J. S. GOLDSMITH.

In recent years there has been a growing practice of ringing what have become known as 'Little' methods, that is to say, Major methods in which the treble hunts only up to fourth's place and back to lead, instead of going right through to eighth's place. It began in its application to the Plain Bob method, and it has since been extended to others. While it has given a spice of variety and an added interest to the ringing by introducing more frequent dodging, it has also become sufficiently 'recognised' to lead to the inclusion of 'Little' variations of a number of methods in the forthcoming 'Collection of Plain Major Methods' which is to be published by the Central Council.

To some ringers, however, there has always seemed a blemish to a 'Little' method, inasmuch as one of the bells—the treble—never gets above fourth's place. That, in their opinion, detracts from its value, and not a few ringers have deliberately set themselves against the practice of 'Little' methods for that reason. This attitude led the writer to look into the possibility of finding a method incorporating the principles of Little Bob, but with the treble working through all the places. The simplest form which evolved itself was one which is a combination of Little Bob and what is really Little Reverse Bob. Investigation gave some interesting results. Here is a lead of each:

Little Bob.	Little Reverse Bob.
21436587	78563412
24163857	75836142
42618375	57361624
46213857	75831264
64128375	57382146
61482735	53728416
16847253	35274861
16482735	53728461

The joining of the two methods, obviously, is by letting the treble step from 4th's into 5th's going up, and from 5th's into 4th's going down. If this were done every time, the result would, of course, be merely Double Bob, and to bring it out of this category, therefore, it is necessary to allow the treble to remain both in front and behind for a series of leads.

If the changes are pricked out, it will be found that a block of three leads (divided at the point where the treble crosses in 4-5, or 5-4), with the treble either in front or behind, reunites the rows with the treble in the opposite section exactly at the point at which they were broken. Thus, if in the above illustration of Little Bob the treble were to continue its progress up behind from the row 42618375, remain behind for three leads, and then return to the front, the first row with the treble in 4th's on the way down would be 46213857—the row which would have been produced had the treble made 4th's instead of going behind.

The advantage of adopting a three-lead plan of splicing is, therefore, manifest, for it enables the complete course of Little Bob to be rung, plus the additional leads of Little Reverse Bob. Two three-lead blocks of the latter can be inserted, with three leads of Little Bob between, so that in the two blocks of Little Reverse Bob six consecutive leads are obtained, while all the seven leads of Little Bob appear in their natural sequence. Similarly, one may have, if one chooses, the seven leads of Little Reverse Bob, with six leads of Little Bob spliced in, in two three-lead blocks.

The rows are all Bob Major rows, but it does not appear to be possible to splice into one course the whole of the changes of a course of Bob Major. One lead of Little Bob or Little Reverse Bob has to be sacrificed, and the consequence is that the length of a course containing a maximum of the two methods without bobs is 104 changes.

This, however, can be reduced in length in various ways, and a course of 80 changes, for instance, can be had by splicing in only one three-lead block of Little Reverse Bob. An interesting contraction is also a course of 24 changes, which is got by having two leads with the treble behind and one in front (by which it is possible to have a bob at W., M., and H.) or one behind and two in front. In view of the fact that if full courses only are used, 49 are required for a peal, making the minimum length 5,096 changes, these contracted courses can have their use.

Peals with bobs made only when the treble is in front can be got with ease, on the same lines as Bob Major composition, and peals are, of course, also obtainable with bobs when the treble is behind, or both in front and behind. If an equal or an approximately equal number of changes of each method should be desired in a peal, alternative courses may be rung—that is to say, one with seven leads of Little Bob and six of Little Reverse Bob, and the other with six of Little Bob and seven of Little Reverse Bob.

If doubled bobs are to be used all through it is necessary that the first section of Little Reverse Bob in the course should be rung from the fifth change after each course-end, otherwise the equivalent of the 'Wrong' with the treble behind is cut out. The positions of the bells in alternative courses, at the relative 'lead ends' in front and behind, are shown in the following:

W. (Reverse)	68472531	68472531
M. (Reverse)	75836241	76836241
	32547681	32547681
	16482735	46283751
	17856342	17856342
W.	13527486	13527486
M.	14263857	14263857
H. (Reverse)	87654321	87654321
	53728461	53728461
	24365871	24365871
	18674523	18674523
	15738264	15738264
H.	12345678	12345678

The effect of a bob 'Before' in Little Bob differs in some respects from a bob 'Before' in Plain Bob. It produces the same course-end transposition (35264), but whereas in Plain Bob Major the bob is called at the next following lead to that in which the tenors appear on the front, thus: in Little Bob the bob is called three leads after 78 appear on the front, consequently such a bob extends the course by three leads, as against one lead in Plain Bob. This extension of three leads in the Little Bob, when spliced, enables three further leads of Little Reverse Bob to be introduced, if desired, and the course can thus be composed of 19 leads, or 152 changes. But if the bob is called in the Little Reverse Bob only (at the lead immediately following the 'Middle'), the course is cut to 48 changes. The bob, however, can be doubled (i.e., called both behind and in front), and the length of the course is then 96 changes.

There are also other elaborations of courses with bobs 'Before' which the reader who is interested may work out for himself.

There is nothing in the arrangement which any ringer of Bob Major should not be able to ring, but the change from method to method is such that considerable concentration by the treble man would be necessary and quick perception and constant alertness on the part of the 'inside' men would also be required, while a peal, especially if rung with the above courses alternately, would present an interesting task. A feature of these alternative courses is that they may be substituted one for the other indiscriminately.

Various other 'Little' methods can be spliced together on similar lines, but enough has here been said to show that, even by the use of Plain Bob only, peals of considerable complexity could be evolved. The writer's one desire is to offer ringers of plain methods another way to break from the 'rut,' while the system also offers a fresh phase of ringing to others who are more advanced and may be looking for something by way of a change.

Here is a peal of Little Bob and Little Reverse Bob, introducing a short course and with doubled bobs at x throughout the remainder—that is to say, where 'Wrong' appears a bob must be called both when the treble is behind, at the equivalent of the first lead (see figures given above) and again at the ordinary 'Wrong' lead with the treble in front. Similarly, the bobs at 'Middle' and 'Home' must be doubled.

MIDLAND COUNTIES ASSOCIATION.

MEETING AT ASHBY-DE-LA-ZOUCH.

The Burton-on-Trent district of the above association held a successful meeting at the historical Parish Church of St. Helen, Ashby-de-la-Zouch on Saturday week. There was a good muster of members from Burton, Seales, Measham, Uttoxeter, Hugglescote, Nuneaton, and Loughborough, in addition to many of the local band. Touches of Grandsire and Stedman Triples and Bob Major were rung, and several beginners had a pull in rounds, etc.

Glorious weather prevailed, and an excellent tea was provided on the Vicarage lawn, by kindness of the Vicar (the Rev. B. C. F. Andrewes).

The usual business meeting took place after tea, at which five new members were elected, including the Vicar, and the October meeting was fixed for Newhall.

On behalf of those present, Mr. J. H. Swinfield thanked the Vicar for his kind invitation, and the latter suitably replied and welcomed the visitors.

After evensong, further ringing was indulged in, the bells being eventually lowered about 8 o'clock, after a very pleasant and successful meeting.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD.

WIMBORNE BRANCH'S SUCCESSFUL PRACTICE MEETING.

On Saturday, September 4th, a monthly practice of the Wimborne branch of the Salisbury Guild was held at the fine church situated in Bryanston Park, near Blandford, Dorset. The weather was splendid, and the motor-coach trip to the scene of action was very much enjoyed by members from Bournemouth, Poole, Wimborne and Ringwood. On arriving at the church, the fine ring of six, with a 19 cwt. tenor and all in excellent running condition, were soon set going to well-struck touches of Grandsire and Stedman Doubles, Plain Bob, Little Bob, Kent and Oxford Treble Bob, while Cambridge Minor was also practised. During the afternoon, the Rev. Gundry, Master of the Salisbury Guild, walked from Shroton, which was a good performance on his part after his recent long illness. That North Dorset enthusiast, Mr. W. Shute, with another enthusiast from Mere (Wilts), rode from Buckhorn on his motor-cycle. At five o'clock a good tea was enjoyed by the members in a hail close to the church, after which the Rev. C. A. Philips expressed, on behalf of himself and the members present, the pleasure it gave all to see the Master well enough to be among them again. After this a move was made to the belfry for a short time. It was then arranged to visit Blandford, where hangs a good peal of eight, but suffering badly from frame weakness. However, a very enjoyable hour was spent here, and some really good touches in the four standard methods were brought round.

BELLS AND BROADCASTING.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—Being the originator of the resolution passed at the Central Council meeting held at Chester last year, relative to the broadcasting of bells, I fully endorse the contents of the letter from 'Out of Course' and your leading article in the issue of 'The Ringing World' dated September 3rd.

Since the resolution was passed there has been a greater amount of change-ringing broadcast, but with varying degrees of excellence. It is common knowledge that the B.B.C. do not allow an instrumentalist to appear before the microphone just because he or she possesses a good instrument; the performers have to prove their capabilities as exponents of the instruments. It would appear that the B.B.C. do not put this principle into practice where change-ringing is concerned; they seem to take it for granted that because a church possesses a good ring of bells it has a good company of ringers also.

The suggestion that a committee be formed to co-operate with the B.B.C. in this matter is a timely one, and such a committee would have opportunities of creating a much greater interest in our art and of setting a very high standard of ringing, particularly the 'striking' part of the performance.

It is an acknowledged fact that broadcasting has had a very marked effect on the music trade and created a demand for that which is best; it also allows the student of music to follow the works of their favourite composers and at the same time learn how to interpret the various works. If the B.B.C. did not give of the best in this respect, they would, like many peal attempts, come to an untimely end; therefore, if they continue to 'send over' indifferent ringing, there is a grave possibility of complaints being sent in which may have a detrimental effect upon ringing in general. If only the best ringing is broadcast, the students of campanology will have a standard set for them, and, in addition to this, it may cause local ringers to look to their laurels, especially when their ringing is compared with the radio ringing. It is certainly small encouragement for a stony band to take up half-pull ringing after hearing some of the ringing we have been treated to, especially when they pride themselves on their striking. Further comment at present is unnecessary.—Yours faithfully,

JOHN P. FIDLER.

WINCHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD.

A meeting of the Guildford district was held at Old Woking Parish Church on Saturday, when there was a good attendance from neighbouring towers. The Vicar (Rev. G. Askwith) conducted the service, and gave an address. Afterwards he presided over the tea and meeting held in the Parish Hall, supported by Admiral T. P. Walker, D.S.O., churchwarden, who is also a ringer, the district Ringing Master (Mr. C. Hazelden), and the district secretary (Mr. E. Radford).

Several new members were elected, and a discussion took place as to holding combined practices in the district.

Votes of thanks concluded the meeting, and the ringers returned to the tower, where the six bells (with tenor of 20 cwt.) were kept going throughout the evening. The methods ranged from Bob Doubles to Cambridge Surprise Minor. Admiral Walker took part in some of the Doubles.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

NORTH BUCKS BRANCH'S SUCCESSFUL MEETING.

A quarterly meeting of the North Bucks branch was held at Chicheley on Saturday, September 4th, when the attendance was very satisfactory, and a most enjoyable meeting was held. After three days of continual rain, the weather was gloriously fine, which accounted for the attendance being fairly well representative, members attending from the following towers: Bletchley, Emberton, Penny Stratford, Newport Pagnell, Olney, Shenley, Stony Stratford, Stoke Goldington, and the local tower. The bells, a fine peal of six, were kept going from 2.30 p.m. until the service. The Vicar of Chicheley (Rev. V. I. Eason) had arranged for the attendance of the choir, and the Guild form of service was used. The Rev. C. W. Fulmer, of Clifton Reynes, gave a short address, which was very much appreciated. At tea, the members were the guests of the Vicar, who most heartily welcomed the branch to Chicheley.

The secretary (Mr. W. Sear) announced that there was no special business to be brought forward, but he would like to tell the meeting how pleased he was that the attendance was so good, seeing that they were right on the outside of the branch area. It showed that this part of the branch was still interested in the Oxford Guild, and he hoped they would continue to be so. He would, in the near future, visit them again in the hope of getting still another tower in union with the North Bucks Branch.—The chairman, the Rev. L. Moxon, proposed a very hearty vote of thanks to the Vicar of Chicheley for giving the branch such a hearty welcome. This was suitably responded to.—Mr. W. Sear moved a vote of thanks to the Rev. C. W. Fulmer for the address at the service, and in reply the Rev. C. W. Fulmer extended an invitation to the branch to visit Clifton Reynes to enrol his tower and ringers.—This brought a very happy meeting to a close.

Further ringing then took place, the methods rung during the afternoon ranging from Grandsire Doubles to London Surprise Minor.

RINGERS' CRICKET MATCH.

BATH VERSUS BRISTOL.

At Corston, near Bath, on Saturday, September 4th, a very interesting cricket match between Bath and Bristol ringers resulted in a narrow victory for the Bath ringers by four runs.

Bristol batted first, having won the toss, and opened with county style. Very few runs were made, however, and after a loss of four wickets the versatile Bristol United Guilds' jester was called upon to stop the rot. This he very successfully did, but it is not quite certain whether it was due to his skill in batting or by disarming the opposition with his witty tongue and a tight belt. Age creeps on, and so in consequence a good deal of time was lost by having to wait for the batsmen to regain their wind. Mr. Thomas made a useful fifteen. The Bristol side, who made 47, was composed of: Messrs. Newman (Coalpit Heath), Payne (St. Werburgh's), Marsh (Mangotsfield), Durbin (St. Thomas'), Parker (St. Matthew's), Thomas (Clifton), Davis (Stoke Bishop), Burnard (St. Stephen's), Way, jun. (St. James'), Browning (unattached), William- (St. Philip's), and Braven (St. Luke's).

An adjournment was then made for tea, after which the Rev. C. C. Parker welcomed those present, and hoped that the cricket match would be made an annual fixture.

Mr. Prescott proposed a hearty vote of thanks to the Rev. C. C. Parker, Preb. Vaughan, of Newton St. Loe, and the ladies who had helped to make the tea arrangements so successfully.

A move was then made to the playing field for the Bath ringers to bat. Their innings proved very interesting, especially when the burly men tried to cover the wicket with themselves as well as the bat; as a consequence leg-before was given.

The Bristol fielders were original, one in particular turning somersaults to catch. (He will hear about this when his wife washes his laundry next week!) The Bath ringers hit up 51, and thus proved winners by the close margin of four runs, the team being: Messrs. Prescott, sen., Harding, King, Blackmore, Angell, Trevy, White, Adlam, Prescott, jun., Davis, Hapgood, and Hill.

A tug-of-war resulted in two wins for Bristol and one for Bath. Bristol team: Messrs. W. Parker, A. Parker, E. Guise, H. Way, J. Jeffries, P. C. Williams, U. Braven, W. H. Thomas. Bath team: Messrs. Prescott, sen., King, Harding, Prescott, jun., H. Davies, Smith, Hallett, H. J. Davis.

A skittle match will take place in Bristol in a short time, and these events will cement much firmer the friendship existing between the ringers of two neighbouring cities.

Repeat calling as from 3265478, finishing the peal by calling singles instead of last two bobs.

This composition contains 2,572 changes of Bob Major and 2,524 changes Grandsire Triples. It was rung at Bridgend on September 1st, 1926, by the Llandaff and Monmouth Diocesan Association, and was the first peal rung in which Major and Triples have been spliced.

SHIPWAY'S FALLACIES.

By GEORGE BAKER.

There is no need to labour the point that one-hunt constructions have no relationship to two-hunt constructions; this fact can be proved every time by the round blocks and half-way transposition rows; but before passing on to another subject it will be interesting to readers of these articles to examine the following methods, both of which Shipway describes as Double Oxford Bob Triples (see pages 53 and 176 of Reprint). With regard to the second method, Shipway calls particular attention to the fact 'that it has only one hunt, and that the lead-head is the same in Caters and Cinques.'

Of course, the truth is that neither method is Double Oxford Bob Triples, and the second of the two is not even a double method, so once more Shipway is at fault in his diagnosis.

When proved by reciprocal proof, No. 1 has nine false rows to the first lead, and No. 2 has but one, the lead-end. There are no two-hunt constructions, so far as I can find out, that have not a counterpart from the lowest number of bells that will produce the construction. Even the method that is known as Double Norwich Caters has a counterpart, a single construction on eight bells as follow:

Major.	Caters.
12345678	123456789
21436587	214365879
24163857	241638597

46382517	463825197
64835271	648352917
46385721	648395721

When proved by reciprocal proof, the Major has eleven false rows to each lead, the Caters has thirteen false rows to each lead.

A method that is symmetrical within the lead will never have but one false row, the lead-end, when proved by reciprocal proof. (To be continued.)

DEVON GUILD.

The North-East Branch of the Devon Guild held their quarterly meeting at Washfield on Saturday last, about forty ringers being present from Bickleigh, Bradninch, Calverleigh, Huntsham, Silverton, Stoodleigh, Tiverton and Washfield, and visitors came from Sidmouth, Trull, Chipstable and Tallaton.

Charles Kelland and Thomas J. Bowerman (both of Huntsham) qualified for certificates.

Messrs. Arscott and Snell worked untiringly to see that everyone should get their fair share of the use of the bells. The service was taken by the Rector (the Rev. J. Thompson), and Miss Snell presided at the organ.

An excellent tea was served in the Parish Hall by Mrs. Arscott, Mrs. Snell and Miss Britton.

In the absence of the Rev. E. Barton, the Rev. F. Carter took the chair at the subsequent meeting. The date of the annual meeting was fixed for Saturday, December 11th, at St. Peter's, Tiverton. Letters of regret for non-attendance at the meeting were received from the Rev. E. S. Powell and Mr. Laver (president and secretary of the Devon Guild), the Rev. E. Barton, and the Rev. J. E. F. Molineux.

Thanks to the kindness of Mr. Woodley and Mr. Flew in going back to Calverleigh during the evening, the two visitors from Tallaton and two from Sidmouth much enjoyed a ring on that delightful little peal of six.

WEDDING BELLS.

A quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples (1,260 changes) was rung at Paignton, Devon, in 49 mins. on Tuesday, the 7th inst., on the occasion of the marriage of the Rev. L. W. Weatherburn, M.A. (priest-in-charge), of St. Andrew's Church, and Miss T. H. Biddle: F. Allwood 1, D. Green 2, J. S. Collings 3, T. S. Collings 4, F. E. Parnell 5, F. T. Gover 6, H. J. Hole (conductor) 7, C. Boyce 8.

FOR THE BEGINNERS.

CONDUCTING.—BY GEORGE WILLIAMS.

Having briefly explained, by a few simple hints, the way in which the young conductor can call Doubles, I come now to Bob Minor. Here again the beginner at conducting will most likely ring the observation bell, which, in most of the touches or 720's, is undisturbed from the work of the plain course. This will be the tenor in the 720 known pretty well by all as 'the old original,' and one way of remembering how to call it is to call a bob every time the 6th dodges behind without the 5th, and the third time 5-6 come together behind call a single. This, repeated, gives the 720. In other terms, call the tenor W. H. W., five times repeated, adding single at 3rd and 6th part ends.

I presume our young conductor has made himself acquainted with the meaning W. H. W. If not, perhaps it would be as well to explain that 'W.' means called 'wrong,' that is, when dodging in 5-6 up after passing treble in 3-4 going up; 'H.' means called 'home,' that is when dodging in 5-6 down after passing the treble in 4-5 up. The 'home' position is actually the position at which the 6th arrives at the plain course end.

As a compliment to R. Gillings, on his 13th birthday, 360 Grandsire Doubles were rung at Kimpton, Herts, on September 10th. In the band, also, was J. Gillings, his brother, whose age is 15, and G. Cain, another thirteen-year-old boy. R. Gillings 1, G. Cain 2, J. Gillings 3, T. Caun 4, H. Anstee 5, H. Fellows 6.

On Sunday, August 22nd, the band at St. Mary's, Mortimer, Berks, rang their first touch of Kent Treble Bob Major, a 288: E. Barrett 1, F. Ham 2, W. Ballard 3, W. Ford 4, A. Ham 5, H. Punter 6, G. Parsons 7, E. Holloway (conductor) 8.—On Wednesday, August 25th, for practice, 576 in the same method: E. Barrett 1, F. Ham 2, W. Ballard 3, W. Ford 4, C. Osler 5, A. Ham 6, G. Parsons 7, E. Holloway (conductor) 8. Longest touch in the method by all excepting the conductor.

CANNON BALL IN BELFRY&WALL.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—Noting with interest in this week's 'Ringing World' the paragraph concerning the cannon ball found at Faringdon, the following may help to solve the mystery:

Close to the wall of the church lies the body of Mr. John Beckley, formerly surgeon to his Majesty's Navy, who, in an engagement off the West Coast of Portugal, on the 17th day of August, 1759, had his right leg shot off by a cannon ball, which is to be seen built into the church wall.

John Beckley was born in 1680, and died in 1761. He was steward to Henry Pye, Esq., upwards of twenty years, which place of trust he discharged with the utmost fidelity.

Postcards were, and, I believe, can now be, bought in the town showing this.

The bells of this church run round the reverse way, and only stony ringing used to be practised, each man having a huge card for the particular bell he was ringing, laid on the floor, with rows of figures on it, and, as far as I could make out, when placed in position was the plain course of Stedman Triples.—Yours faithfully,

E. J. PANNETT.

Lewisham.

OPEN LEADS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—In answer to your correspondent, my opinion is emphatically, 'Yes, always have an open lead at handstroke on all numbers of bells.' The bells should be rung for the whole pull in regular order—123456123456, followed after every whole pull with a pause. On six bells, when ringing a 720 on the grindstone system, that is, without open leads, the bells will run round several times, instead of only producing rounds at the end, as is the case when rung with open leads. Our friends of North Notts should give the open lead preference—try it. Every one of the band, however, must be of the same mind, otherwise if open lead is kept by 3 or 4 and the other two ignore it, the ringing is spoilt.—Yours, etc.

J. HUNT.

DURHAM AND NEWCASTLE DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

JOINT DISTRICT MEETING AT CHESTER-LE-STREET.

There was a good gathering in the light and spacious belfry of St. Cuthbert's, Chester-le-Street, on Saturday week, on the occasion of a joint meeting of the Eastern and Western Districts of the Durham and Newcastle Association. Every opportunity was given to learners to ring new methods, and full advantage was taken of it, so that although the 'striking' may not have been good, it is hoped the younger members went away encouraged.

After an excellent tea at the Crown Hotel, the vice-president of the Eastern District, Mr. R. L. Patterson, proposed 'The Health of the King,' and a vote of thanks to the Rector for the use of the bells was proposed by Mr. R. S. Russell, of Jarrow.

A meeting of the members of the Eastern District was then held, and Mr. Russell, leader of the ringers of Christ Church, Jarrow, was elected vice-president for the coming year, and Mr. G. S. Taylor was re-elected secretary.

A move was then made for the belfry, and the very fine ring was kept going until after eight o'clock.

RINGING CONTESTS.

The Barnsley and District Society has just held its first ringing competition for a challenge shield and prizes, and, from the report which we publish elsewhere, it will be seen that the contest aroused considerable interest among ringers in that neighbourhood, and keen rivalry among the participants. In thus setting up a competition the society is following the example of some few of the minor organisations of the Exercise, but it would be interesting to learn what is the general view of these contests. It is a revival, in another form, of the competitions which, in days gone by, the associations and those responsible for their formation laid themselves out to eradicate. The circumstances are different; to-day there are no money prizes, and the debasing conditions which sometimes accompanied the contests of those long past years are not countenanced. Mr. Trollope's interesting articles have shown to what extremes the old-time contests occasionally went, and it was imperative that steps should be taken to cleanse the belfries of this kind of thing.

One cannot shut one's eyes to the fact, however, that ringing competitions lead to improved striking. We read in connection with the Barnsley contest that some of the bands went into training, meaning, we presume, intensive practice, because there was nothing that called for more than ordinary physical fitness. Obviously, therefore, those who competed, and they came in bands from nearly a dozen towers, must have raised their skill in striking to a higher level than it was before, and, if this is the case with one contest, a general adoption of competitive ringing would have a beneficial effect on the quality of the striking throughout the country. No one can say that this is not needful. There is far too much slovenly and bad ringing heard in these days, even among men who consider themselves good method ringers. It is due to a variety of causes—frequently lack of competent instruction in the early stages—but whatever the reason, there is ample room for improvement, and one of the means for raising the standard would be by the more universal adoption of ringing competitions.

There is, however, strong and influential objection in many quarters to such contests, and, the belfry being what it is—a part of the church—there is real cause for vetoing its use as a sporting arena. Bells at their dedication are set aside from all profane and unhallowed uses, and there is a powerful argument in the contention that a prize competition comes within the latter category. On the other hand, it can be urged, probably with equal force, that such a contest has for its object the improvement of the ringers' service to the Church. There we have the two divergent views, coupled with the fact that nothing is likely to induce a man to make greater effort than the rivalry of his fellows, and that a ringer has nowhere to practice and to pit his skill against others but the church tower. It is a problem which would form an interesting subject for discussion by the Central Council.

DEATH OF MR. G. H. PHILLOTT.

ONE OF THE FOUNDERS OF THE GLOUCESTER AND BRISTOL DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

A well-known figure in Gloucestershire ringing circles, and one whose name was formerly prominently before the Exercise, has passed away in the person of Mr. G. H. Phillott, of Cheltenham. Mr. Phillott had been in ill-health for a considerable time, and his death took place at the age of 73 years on Sunday, September 12th.

A Master of Arts (Oxon) and an architect by profession, Mr. Phillott was one of the founders of the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association in the year 1878. Although he had never occupied the position of Master, he had, in the past, taken an important part in the councils of the association, and latterly acted as the association's appointed authority upon bells in the dioceses of Gloucester or Bristol. Two of the most memorable peals in which he took part were the 13,054 Stedman Caters at Cheltenham on May 21st, 1888, in 8 hours 16 minutes, and the 15,227 Grandsire Caters in 9 hours 43 minutes on the same bells on April 22nd, 1889. In both these peals Mr. Phillott rang the 2nd, and both were conducted by Mr. W. T. Pates. In 1914, Mr. Phillott took part in the first peal on the twelve bells at Cheltenham.

The funeral service took place at Cheltenham Parish Church on Wednesday in last week, and the interment at Charlton Kings Cemetery. A number of local ringers were present, as was also the Rev. C. D. P. Davies, a co-founder of the Gloucester and Bristol Association and a former Master and secretary.

Afterwards, a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples was rung with half-muffled bells at the Parish Church.

At Quedgeley, on Friday evening, a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples was rung in 44 minutes with the bells half-muffled: T. Baldwin 1, W. H. Harris 2, J. Gillett 3, H. Beckett 4, G. Condie 5, J. Austin (conductor) 6, E. E. Davis 7, A. Martin 8.

At the monthly meeting of the Gloucester Branch of the association, held at Moreton Valence, on Saturday, Mr. J. Austin referred to the loss the association had sustained by the death of Mr. G. H. Phillott. Mr. Austin said that a muffled peal of Stedman Triples was attempted at Quedgeley on the 17th inst., but came to grief owing to the slipping of one of the muffles, but a quarter-peal was afterwards rung. He suggested that the branch secretary be instructed to write a letter of condolence to the relatives of the deceased, and concluded by asking the members present to stand in silence as a last token of respect.—This was accordingly done.

cumbents of the various churches for permission to ring, to the steeple-keepers and local ringers who met them, particularly Mr. Harry Sear (who arranged for ringing and accompanied them to several towers), and Mr. A. E. Sharman at Dunstable. Rickmansworth was reached by the last of the party, after dropping the visitors at Watford, at 10.30 p.m., everyone agreeing that it had been a capital outing.

RINGERS' OUTINGS.

DARTFORD AND ERITH RINGERS.

Members of the Holy Trinity (Dartford) and St. John's (Erith) towers had a most enjoyable outing to Long Crendon, Bucks, on Saturday, September 11th. The party left Dartford at 6.40 a.m., and on reaching Paddington a comfortable journey was made to Thame, previous arrangements having been made with the railway company regarding seating accommodation. The Rev. D. R. A. Williams, late curate of Dartford Parish Church, met the party at Thame, and a journey by car was then made to Great Milton, a distance of about seven miles, where an hour's ringing on the bells at Great Milton Church passed the time pleasantly. The next move was to Long Crendon Vicarage, where the visitors were heartily welcomed and partook of luncheon, which was kindly provided by the Rev. D. R. A. and Mrs. Williams. Afterwards ringing took place until 4.30 p.m. The local bus then conveyed the company to Thame, where tea was enjoyed. A visit to the church for 45 minutes' ringing followed, and the company then had to bid adieu to the Rev. D. R. A. Williams, whose kindness and hospitality all had appreciated. Dartford was reached at 11 p.m. at the close of a most enjoyable day.

MARSHFIELD RINGERS' OUTING.

On Saturday, September 4th, the members of St. Mary's band, Marshfield, held their annual outing. Leaving Marshfield at 8 a.m. by charabanc, the first stop was at St. Mary's, Almondsbury, where a few touches of Triples were rung. The secretary proposed a vote of thanks to the Vicar and captain of the ringers for the use of the bells. The visitors then proceeded to Gloucester where they had a short stay to look around the grand old cathedral before going on to Ross, where they met the Vicar of St. Mary's Church, who gave them a kind welcome and escorted them to the church tower. After lunch, ringing took place on the lovely peal of eight bells, of which the ringers of Ross have reason to be proud. The Vicar was thanked for his kind welcome and for the use of the bells. The journey was continued through the Wye Valley to Chepstow, where the party were met by ringers of St. Mary's Church and had their last ring for the day. The captain of the local band was thanked for escorting the party to the tower and for the use of the bells. After tea, the return journey was made through Newnham and Gloucester, home being reached at midnight, after a most enjoyable day.

RICKMANSWORTH MEN VISIT EIGHT TOWERS.

The second annual outing of the Rickmansworth ringers took place on Saturday, August 21st. The company comprised ten members of the local band, including Mr. J. H. R. Freshborn, Messrs. H. Hodgetts (Oxhey), F. A. Smith (Bushey), S. H. Hoare (Watford), and A. V. Good (Apsley End), the charabanc driver, Mr. J. A. Jones, being also one of the ringers. The 'Rover' moved off at 7.30 a.m., the first place of call being Wendover. A very good peal of six bells was found there, although rather noisy in the ringing chamber, and by nine o'clock the inhabitants had heard, possibly, the first touch of Cambridge Surprise on the bells. Leaving here, a run of 20 miles over a good road, through Aylesbury, brought the party to Buckingham. Here they were met by that well-known Bucks ringer, Mr. Harry Sear. The bells are a fine ring, with tenor 27 cwt., in a roomy tower, but the rope on the tenor, apparently local made, needed a pair of hands of more than average size to grasp it, whilst the seventh bell appears to need the attention of a bell-hanger. It was noticed that one touch on it was enough for the most gluttonous of the 'back-enders.' A tower not on the programme was next visited, on the invitation of the local ringers, one of whom, Mr. J. Stopp, is known in the Watford district. This was the ancient church of Maids Moreton. Over the main porch is some old timber bearing the date 1637, whilst on the wall of the inside of the tower hangs an old door, under which is a tablet stating that it was shot at by the soldiers of Cromwell. All had a pull on the handy ring of six, and a move was made for Bletchley. A course of Double Norwich was rung by a Rickmansworth band, amongst other ringing, and lunch was obtained at the Eight Bells, arranged for by Mr. Sear. The next objective was Linslade, with a nice going peal of eight. 'Rather like Oxhey,' was the general opinion. Leighton Buzzard was next visited, and several of the company had their first ring on ten bells. Dunstable for tea was the next order, and arrears of time having now been wiped out, the visitors pulled up to the minute at the place appointed, with Mr. A. E. Sharman, the popular secretary of the Beds Association, awaiting them. All did justice to the good things set before them, and a move was made to the fine Priory Church. The bells here are probably second to none in tone and 'go,' and everyone thoroughly enjoyed ringing on them, so that they made rather a long stay and reached Hemel Hempstead, the eighth and last tower at 8.15 p.m., where ringing took place till 9 o'clock. Methods rung during the day were Bob Minor, Kent Treble Bob and Cambridge Surprise on six bells, Stedman Triples, Rob Major, Double Norwich, Cambridge and Superlative Surprise on eight bells, and Grandsire and Stedman Caters and Bob Royal on ten bells.

One member of the company who passed the word up to the driver from the back seat during one of the morning runs to tell him not to go so fast received word back that if anything more was heard from him he would hand the wheel over to Mr. Freshborn. This proved a fairly efficient silencer. The band wish to thank the in-

NOTES BY THE WAY.
GOOD TIMES AND BAD IN RINGING.
 BY J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

When we look back over the history of ringing, now more than three centuries long, one of the things that most strikes us is that it is a record of continual growth and development. Every generation, as it passed, saw something fresh added to the achievements of ringers, both in the practical side and the theoretical side of the art. But, as we look closer, we find that this development is by no means regular. There have been times when change ringing progressed by leaps and bounds, and there have been times when it is difficult to see that there has been any progress at all. Of the former periods the most notable were the middle of the seventeenth century, the time which saw the full development of Plain Changes and the rise of Cross Peals; the early part of the eighteenth century, the time which saw the general adoption of the Standard Methods and the establishment of peal ringing; the early part of the nineteenth century, though this is less marked; and the period in which we are now living.

It is, of course, not possible to set any definite dates to these periods; they merge into the time preceding and following them without any noticeable break. It is only when we look broadly on the history of ringing we can see that these alternations of progress and comparative stagnation did occur. And so, when we speak of the modern period of ringing, it is not easy to say exactly when it began, but it will be convenient and pretty near the truth if we take it to be the last forty years, and date its beginning somewhere about 1885 or 1886. If you compare 1880 with 1890 you will find many evidences of a great change and improvement in everything connected with ringing. If you compare 1870 and 1900 you will find the changes and improvements far more definitely marked. In the first case you will see causes at work that were bringing about reform and improvement; in the second you will see results. For while this modern period is one in which general development has taken place more widely and in a greater variety of ways than almost at any other time in the history of ringing, the period to which it succeeded is, on the whole, the most unsatisfactory in the record of the Exercise. Here again definite dates are impossible, but we may put this period of stagnation as roughly the thirty years before 1880. At no time were ringers and ringing so little esteemed by the general public; at no time was the status of ringers so low; at no time were there so many neglected belfries and rings of bells out of order; at no time were the relations between ringers and the clergy and church authorities so unsatisfactory; at no time was there so little improvement in method ringing.

In 1854 a writer in the 'Quarterly Review' thus speaks of ringers: 'Bellringers as a class have always had the credit, or discredit rather, of being a disorderly set. The fellowship commenced in the belfry conducts to the public-house, all gratuities are spent in tipping, and it is a common observation that the ringers, after summoning the congregation to church, are prone to slip away themselves.'

Ringers were generally looked on as a very undesirable lot, with whom the less one had to do the better. More than one clergyman held and expressed the opinion that 'there is no desirability to have change ringing in the parish—the fewer bells and the fewer ringers the better.' And Mr. Snowden told a tale of a certain man 'who had become religious, had stopped cursing and swearing, had turned teetotal and given up change ringing.' We have seen something of prize ringing and its attendant circumstances. Prize ringing was confined to the North and the West, and was never held in the East and the South. But the general state of ringers and ringing was no better in the latter districts than in the former. The one notable thing throughout the country was the almost complete secularisation of bells and ringing. The bells hung in the church towers, but the ringing of them was almost entirely secular.

In the city of Norwich there had been, from the first, bells and excellent ringers. The bells were always chimed for service; never rung, not even on the great church festivals. The ringing was done either as a purely secular sport, or for national, civic or personal reasons, and was paid for either by the city authorities or by the people who were getting married; seldom or never by the church authorities. At Christmas there was much ringing, but this was to celebrate the social festival, not the ecclesiastical, and was the preliminary to a house-to-house collection for Christmas boxes. In London it was very similar. None of the famous bells were rung for Sunday service except St. Paul's, where there has always been a paid band. Ringing on Lord Mayor's day and other civic occasions was done by a number of men, most of whom did not otherwise appear in the belfries. They were called the 'Scroof' ringers. This is a very old name, and how it originated I do not know. For many years Mr. J. R. Haworth was head of the Scroof, and controlled the paid ringing in many towers. The ringing was always Call Changes, never change ringing.

BELLS IMPORTED FROM AMERICA.

A chime of thirteen bells, the heaviest 3,000 lbs. in weight, has been installed at the Parish Church, Falkirk. They are the gift of Mr. Robert Dollar, an 82-year-old San Francisco shipping magnate and millionaire, to his native town, and are a replica of the bells given by Mr. Dollar to the Presbyterian Theological Seminary, San Francisco. They were cast by the Arc Stone Bell Foundry Company, of Baltimore, and brought over from America. At the dedication, which was attended by Mr. and Mrs. Dollar, three pieces of sacred music were played on the bells.

'SEASONED' THOUGHTS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—We know reasoned thoughts are often 'seasoned' thoughts, and it is evident by your 'gossip' column and from what I hear that the humorous references to beetroot, etc., are the subject of much comment and some laughter. The Exercise must bear in mind, however, that a laugh often disarms a difficult opponent. Thus 'Irenæus' says, 'Laugh at me, but believe in "Simpson."' This is proper business and good propaganda.

Since we have now got on to Millet's masterpiece, one might say that we are mostly in agreement that it depicts eventide. Probably 'Irenæus' had recalled to him Gray's well-remembered lines:

'Now fades the glimmering landscape on the sight,
 And o'er the air a solemn stillness steals,
 Save where the beetle wheels his droning flight,
 And Ange-lus its five-toned "Simpson" peals.'

Of course, we must also admire the way in which the pathos of the Angelus is blended as a foil to the comic cuts of the beetroot. If we knew him better, 'Irenæus' would probably still more remind us of the versatile Irish priest, so famed in song, and, indeed, he might well have taken 'Father O'Flynn' as a pen-name. Of course, we may be on the wrong scent, but a knoll is as good as a mount to a blind horse, as a Diarist says.

Will you allow me space to conclude with another quotation (again, quite from memory), which seems apt:

'Dads and the divil an' all, at Divinity,
 Father O'Flynn would make hares of 'em all.
 Faith! And I venture to give you my word,
 Never the likes of his logic was heard,
 Down from Mythology into Thyology, or Troth! Campanology! if hee'd the Call.'

FOR THE BEGINNERS.

CONDUCTING.—BY GEORGE WILLIAMS.

If the young conductor will prick out the lead ends of the 720 which I gave last week, he will see that the 5th makes the first bob in each part, and is called 'out' (that is, when it would otherwise have made 2nd's place) at the other two bobs. This is an extra guide for calling correctly, and the 720 will soon become as easy to call from any bell as from the tenor (the observation). It will be observed, on pricking out the whole of the lead ends of this 720, that to call by certain bells 'Before' (that is, when they hunt down before the treble, and, instead of making 2nd's place, are caused by the bob to run out, as described above) amounts to this: 3.55; 4.55; 2.55; S2 halfway; 4.55; 3.55; 2.55; S2 end.

This will be interesting for the young conductor to practise, and should very soon prove to be even more simple than ringing the observation bell, as he will only have two other working bells to be looking out for, because he is ringing the other one of the three himself.

On Thursday evening, September 16th, at St. Michael's Church, Kirby-le-Soken, for practice, a 720 of Bob Minor in 25 mins.: C. Mann (Kirby) 1, M. Ling (Kirby) 2, C. Marven (Tendring) 3, F. W. Goodfellow (Ealing, Middlesex) (conductor) 4, E. Durrant (Thorpe-le-Soken) 5, E. Davey (Clacton) 6. This was Mr. Mann's first 720. Mr. Ling is also to be congratulated on ringing so well. These two, together with the other local ringers, have only recently taken up change-ringing. The conductor was on holiday at Walton-on-the-Naze.

At Hartford, Cheshire, for practice on Tuesday, September 14th, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Doubles (1,260 changes in ten different callings) was rung in 42 mins. by: A. Moore 1, R. Rigby 2, H. Parker (conductor) 3, J. S. Royle 4, J. Hornby 5, H. Howard 6. It was the first quarter-peal of Doubles for the ringers of treble and tenor, and first quarter-peal for the ringer of the 5th.

A HUGE CLOCK.

MESSRS. JOYCE AND CO.'S CONTRACT.

Messrs. J. B. Joyce and Co., the well-known clock makers, of Whitechurch, Salop, have secured the contract for the construction of one of the largest clocks in the world. It is to be erected at the new Customs House, at Shanghai, China, and Messrs. Joyce have been successful against the competition of all the biggest clock manufacturers of the two hemispheres.

The building for which the clock is required is being erected by Chinese Maritime customs, for whom Messrs. Joyce have already supplied several smaller clocks. Much of the steel work, it may be mentioned incidentally, is being made in this country. It will be of a skyscraper design, consisting of twenty or thirty storeys, and the clock will stand in a tower several hundred feet from the ground. The building is to cost about a million and a quarter sterling.

The huge timepiece will have four faces, each of which will be 13 feet in diameter, and it will strike the hours and Westminster chimes on five bells whose total weight will be ten tons, the largest, the tenor bell, weighing  $6\frac{1}{2}$  tons. Each of the faces will weigh over a ton, and, together with the bells, it is estimated that the clock complete for shipment will not scale less than thirty tons.

The clock will be on similar lines to the one erected by the firm at Birmingham University about twenty years ago, but it will be slightly larger than that. As for the amount which the contract represents, with the bells it is sure to run into several thousands of pounds, but Messrs. Joyce and Co. have been given practically a free hand. It has been pointed out to them that the clock 'will give standard time to the whole of Shanghai, a city of  $2\frac{1}{2}$  million inhabitants, and one of the world's most important ports,' and they are therefore left to add any refinements which will ensure its strict accuracy as a timekeeper. There will, of course, be exceptional climatic and other conditions to provide for. The temperature, for instance, ranges from 25 degrees Fahrenheit to 105 degrees Fahrenheit in the shade, and that will have to be provided for in the compensation of the clock. The glass in the front of the dials will also have to be of exceptional thickness similar to that used in lighthouses, for Shanghai is subject to typhoons, and the wind pressure is at times as high as 60 lbs. to the square foot. The clock will be illuminated at night, and a special feature will be the treatment of the centre portion of each dial with flaked opal in burnt sienna, which, when lit up, will represent the colour of the sun.

Messrs. Joyce and Co. are one of the oldest firms of watch and clock makers in the country. The firm was originally established in 1692 at Cocksbutt, and the business has been carried on ever since with an unbroken record, first at Ellesmere and then at Whitechurch.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

A short-course peal, the 'first ever,' was rung at Ipswich on Saturday. It is the third peal of Maximus which Mr. G. E. Symonds has conducted this year, and in them he has called an aggregate of 448 bobs and four singles! Some calling for 12-in!

English bell founders will have to look to their laurels. A chime of thirteen bells has been imported to Falkirk from America!

Will the gentleman who took the wrong cap from St. Peter's tower, Staines, at the recent Middlesex Association meeting, kindly return it to Mr. Parker, c/o St. Peter's Vicarage, Staines?

William Shipway was born at Bath on September 29th, 1760.

A peal of 6,701 Stedman Caters was rung on September 25th, 1845, at St. James' Church, Bermondsey, 'the greatest number attainable with treble in 2nd's place and bobs only.' It was composed and conducted by John Cox.

Braughing bells, Hertfordshire, were made into eight and rung for the first time on September 25th, 1745, the trebles being given by William Freeman. It was a year later—September 30th, 1746—that the first peal was rung on the bells, the band being all local men.

On September 30th, 1783, a peal of 10,080 Bob Major was rung at Oldham. It was followed in January of the next year by a 14,480.

Fifty years' service by each of four ringers at one church is the noteworthy record which has been completed by Messrs. A. Goodall, G. H. Hardy, J. Raddlesden, and Herbert Dransfield at Earlsheaton, Yorkshire. A peal to commemorate the event was rung on Saturday.

The fifth annual Yorkshire Association dinner was held in Sheffield on Saturday last, when a widely representative gathering paid tribute to the memory of Jasper Whitfield Snowdon and past officers of the association. The event was a huge success, and will be fully reported in our columns in due course.

St. Giles' (Camberwell) ring of ten bells (tenor 24 cwt.) are to be restored, and work upon them commenced this week when the bells were taken down. They are to be rehung in the old frame with all the new and latest fittings by Messrs. Taylor and Co. It is of note that this is the Parish Church of the Master of the London County Association, Mr. T. H. Taffender, who is also Master of the local society. He has been authorised to see the work carried out.

'Chanticleer' asks which is the well-known London ringer who intends to swim the Channel to visit 'Uncle Joe' and to qualify for the £1,000 prize (which he, quite erroneously, imagines is being offered by 'The Ringing World'), as soon as the liquid is changed to that purveyed in the neighbourhood of Amen Corner.

He also inquires if it is a fact that, on the occasion of the recent Row broadcast, so severely criticised, it was not the A.C.Y.'s showing the Children's Corner what 'changes' are, but the children showing the A.C.Y.'s Corner a few stunts.

The marriage took place at Holy Trinity Church, Southwark, on September 11th, of Mr. A. H. Keighley, the popular general secretary of the London County Association, the bride being Miss Alice May Tomlinson. As the tower bells were unringable, a course of Stedman Caters was rung on handbells in the church porch as the bridal party left.

Full details of the Devon and Cornwall tour last week had not reached us up to the time of going to press. Up to Saturday morning, eleven peals had been rung, including three on the Tuesday.

Owing to pressure on our space, Mr. George Baker's concluding article on 'Shipway's Fallacies,' the reports of a number of outings, and other items are unavoidably held over.

SPLICED PEAL RINGING.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—It is pleasing to see Mr. J. Hunt's letter in your issue of September 17th, for it shows there is a growing interest in this fascinating form of ringing.

I hope that Mr. Hunt, in his study of this question, has procured a copy of 'Spliced Methods,' now on sale, and has found it helpful. It deals exhaustively with the subject, and what is said applies to all numbers, as well as to Minor.

As to whether it is worth while to ring a peal where the method is only changed at the quarter or half-peal ends, there can only be one logical answer. If a peal of 5,000 true changes in one method, say, Bob Major, is worth ringing, it must be equally worth while, and more interesting, to ring a peal in two methods.

In whatever form two or more methods are joined together into one peal, they can correctly be described as 'spliced.' To take the simple analogy of rope, whether you connect two or twenty different pieces, the resultant length of rope is 'spliced.'—Yours faithfully,

JOSEPH W. PARKER.

HYPHE, KENT.—At St. Leonard's Church, on Thursday, September 16th, a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples (1,260 changes) in 46 mins.: C. R. Millway (Dover) 1, S. A. Baker (Cheriton) 2, R. J. Birch 3, A. G. Wratten 4, W. Bidnell 5, W. H. Joiner (Mitcham, Surrey) 6, C. Turner (Dover) (conductor) 7, W. Probble 8. Arranged for Mr. W. H. Joiner, who was on a visit to Folkestone.

BELL TONES.
HOW TO OBSERVE THEM.
 By E. ALEXANDER YOUNG.

PART I.

It is said of bells that strictly they are not to be classed as musical instruments, though we as ringers shall be inclined to disagree with this, and certainly believe that when combined into a 'ring' they are quite musical. We shall have to allow that bell-tones are not, as regards their partials, balanced by Nature, like piano tones, inasmuch as bell-tones are a compromise where Man has approached as near to Nature as his instrument would allow. This sets the musical ear an unfamiliar task, which at first makes judgment difficult. The aim of these observations is to help the ear in overcoming this and other difficulties.

There is much difference of opinion in the Exercise as to which single bell or 'ring' of bells has the most pleasing sound; and as to whether (1) the Old Standard, or (2) the 'Simpson,' is the better way of tuning them. But most ringers will agree that certain 'rings' have a grand general tone (few of us had the privilege of hearing Coventry). This tone marks them out from others, even though the latter be from the same foundry and of the same note and weight. Though in such outstanding cases ringers may have given judgment, it is a thing not to be done generally without carefully considering all the points involved. Skill, experience and taste are required. As regards the last, each person is a law unto himself. In music, as in all arts, there must always be divergence of opinion, for as no two men see alike so no two hear alike, yet their differences will be gradually lessened by the study of their art.

To beginners (most of whom have ears, but hear not) and to the whole of the general public and even to most round ringers, criticism upon the merit or otherwise of a certain bell or a particular peal may appear to be based upon mysterious nothings. All they hear, if outside the tower, is a roar of sound, and, if within, the addition of a clatter of ropes, etc. The non-ringer has a difficulty in picking out any bell save the tenor, and does not know the number of bells being rung, and even the experienced ringer may hesitate to state the number and method, when first hearing the bells at a little distance, and some will ring through a 'touch' or even a peal relying nearly the whole time upon 'rope-sight.' These are also amongst those who 'hear not.' A striking example of non-hearing was shown after the Central Council meeting, 1924, when many of the representatives met at St. Martin's-in-the-Fields (of course, it was a mixed band and a strange tower). But it was only after they had been ringing the '12' in 'rounds' for some time it was discovered that the 4th bell was not being rung (the rope being hooked back over a wall peg). The foregoing remarks will suggest how much more valuable to his band and how much looked up to is the ringer who has the gift of a good and well-trained ear.

It is, therefore, much to be desired that beginners should, as soon as possible, train their ears so that every bell will stand out clearly and recognisably; first their own and then the rest. This in itself will almost produce that esteemed ringer, the 'good striker.' There is, however, no way to mastery other than that of concentration and practice, in which it is hoped that the following suggestions may prove useful.

A 'ring' of eight, in key C, is assumed for reference. Firstly, let the tyro stand in 4th's position and pull off his own bell, and attune his ear to its note, then in going off in 'rounds' watch the three bells in front and note also their intervals, checking both by eye and ear, and paying no attention to the covering bells behind. The position can next be changed to one further back, say 5th or 6th, and the observations repeated. Secondly, while not himself ringing, let him take a position from which the tenor, 7th, 6th and 4th can be seen, then one at a time watch the rise of the ropes and note the incidence of the sounds in each case. Upon getting a note well established in the ear, it will stand out much more boldly than the others (it is merely a trick of the ear, of which there are more to follow). The further illusion will almost be felt that the note is produced by the hands of the ringer, as they rise upwards to the rest position at either 'hand' or 'back.' The observer's next step in such a practice should be to extend it to two bells at a time, selecting those of dominating notes, such as tenor and 7th, tenor and 6th, and 4th and 6th. Beginners will find it indeed surprising to see how soon the maze of flying ropes begin now to speak out their special notes at once to eye and ear. The perceptive faculty next begins to anticipate the sounds, and to know the music of the falling ropes ere they rise, and before the blows are actually struck. This is more especially so if the listener is something of a musician or even knows but the tonic sol-fa of the major scale. The beginner is now on the way to good striking. If he will refer to Shipway's remarks as to 'beat' (which has to do more with the compass of a peal, and the rhythm of falling into any 'place'), he is on the right road.

Having thus paid deference to Youth, one might be allowed to ask what use Age has made of its privileges. It has listened for many years to that great heritage it shares with the Church—i.e., fine outstanding 'rings.' How has it appraised the bells such as those we still have at, say, Mancroft, Fulham, Bow, Painswick, Lavenham, etc.? One would hold a brief for Age and say that, of course, it has felt that questions of music and taste are full of difficulty, and so it has allowed Youth to rush in and lay down the law. If the older ringers were apathetic, the recent loss at Coventry came to them as a disagreeable jolt, and the result has been a considerable re-awakening of interest in bell-tones and bell-tuning. The evidence given at the Court and the subsequent correspondence in 'The Ringing World' were closely followed, though much of the latter was vague and some of it misleading. It is felt, therefore, that these notes are quite topical, and it is hoped that they will help to clear the air.

In considering the tones of bells, it must be remembered that, with few exceptions, musical notes are compound. The main tone, or tap-note, is reinforced, and should also be beautified by a natural succession of overtones. These being only a part of the whole are called 'partials,' and it is worth noting in passing that the main tone itself is only a 'partial,' for it has to join with the others in producing the whole or mass tone. It is upon this composite tone that the ear has to pass judgment.

At Coventry, one of the witnesses said that it was difficult for some people to believe that there was more than one note in a bell. There is much more, for all bells are endowed with an embarrassing wealth of notes, and founders probably wish that there were many less. Returning to our opening lines, in Nature there is hardly such a thing as a simple tone; for instance, the sound produced by the voice or by a musical instrument, is composed of a large number of 'partials,' the first, or 'fundamental,' being the lowest and nearly always the loudest, and the higher ones the faintest. (In the case of bells, however, the first partial, or 'hum-note,' is by no means the loudest.)

For instance, taking C in the bass clef as No. 1, the natural series is, up to No. 10, as follows: C, C, G, C, E, G, B flat, C, D, E, etc. A set of tuning forks so tuned to C and its nine harmonic overtones produces a full and rich tone of fine musical quality. Unfortunately we cannot get this sequence of overtones in a bell; its tones are natural to its shape and thicknesses, they are a compromise, and can only be adjusted slightly by tuning on either of the accepted lines, viz.: 'The Old Standard,' or else the medieval method (now revived as the 'Simpson'). They will be called (1) and (2) respectively in these observations. The following table gives their reputed tones, together with their accepted names as adopted by the Exercise perhaps a little loosely:

	(1) Old Standard.		(2) 'Simpson.'
	C		C
	G		G
	E		E natural
	C	Overtones	C
	G		G
	E		E flat
Nominal	C		C
	E		E
Tap-note	C	Undertones	C
	D		C
Hum-note	D		C
			Hum-note

It will be seen that a new term has appeared—i.e., the 'nominal'; there is yet another, the 'strike-note.' These with the term 'tap-note' have been used for years quite vaguely, and are at times interchanged. It is probable that the octave which they embrace, being the key note of the bell, strikes the ear as one dominant chord, and so the difference has arisen. Examining the respective notes, it will be seen that the difference on paper is only slight and that both make but a small departure from the scale of 10 tones given above. In (1) we have the enharmonic interval, D, C, whilst in (2) we have another, E flat, E natural. If tried upon a piano both will be found extremely distasteful. In the above only eight partials are shown, but, of course, following the laws of sound they will go on, repeating and splitting up until they pass beyond the range of recording instruments. The laws governing sound, music and the ear are difficult and elusive, and, despite their splendid knowledge, our scientists admit that they have yet far to go ere these are fully known. For an elementary insight into them, the reader is recommended to consult a good encyclopædia.

[The above article was intended for publication in 'The Ringing World' before the last Central Council meeting, but the strike prevented this being done, and Mr. Young circulated it privately. As, however, the matter is of interest to ringers generally, it is now published for the perusal of the Exercise at large.—Ed. 'R.W.']

ELY DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

A meeting of the Hunts Archdeaconry was held at Huntingdon on September 11th, and was attended by ringers from Huntingdon, Godmanchester, St. Neots, Hemingford Abbots, Somersham, Long Stanton, Chatteris, Cambridge, Trumpington, Peterborough, and Debenham (Suffolk). The general secretary, the Rev. R. Copeman, was among those present, but had to leave immediately after tea. A short service was held in St. Mary's Church, conducted (in the absence of the Vicar) by the district secretary (the Rev. H. B. Woolley), and tea and the usual business meeting followed in the Oromwell Cafe.

At the meeting, at which the Rev. H. B. Woolley (district secretary) was in the chair, it was proposed to hold the next meeting at St. Neots in November.

A resolution was carried unanimously, requesting the general secretary to arrange, if possible, for a meeting of the association at Ely at an early date.

Touches were rung on the bells of St. Mary's, Huntingdon, during the afternoon, and at Godmanchester in the evening.

A vote of thanks was passed to the incumbents for the use of their bells, to the Rev. C. F. Burde for the use of St. Mary's Church, and also to the organist for playing at the service.

DEDICATION OF PENWORTHAM BELLS.

IMPRESSIVE MASONIC SERVICE.

Penwortham Church, dedicated to St. Mary and beautifully situated upon a tree-clad hill near Preston, was the scene, on Saturday, September 11th, of a unique ceremony, when, at a Masonic service, the restored and augmented bells were dedicated by the Bishop of Whalley. The work which has been done has been carried out at the expense of local Freemasons, and this is the first time in history that a dedication of bells has taken place with official Masonic participation. The restoration is the result of the unremitting efforts of Mr. J. R. Taylor, of Penwortham, who has been a vice-president of the Lancashire Association and is one of its representatives on the Central Council. For over 25 years Mr. Taylor had the ambition of seeing the peal of six augmented to an octave, and, after several unsuccessful attempts, he was able to get the scheme definitely started this year, with the support of Lt.-Colonel J. Yates Foster (chairman of the committee), the Rev. T. J. Cunningham (vice-chairman), and brother Masons of Penwortham and district.

The bells were originally a peal of five, cast by Abraham Rudhall, of Gloucester, in 1712. A treble was added in 1858, and was recast in 1891 by Meers and Stainbank.

The present restoration, which has now been admirably completed by the Whitechapel firm, consists of recasting the old 3rd, which was found to be cracked, cleaning the others by sand-blast and tuning them, and adding two trebles to complete the octave. The bell-frame was reconstructed to take the eight bells on one level, and the bells relung with the latest type fittings, including cast-iron headstocks and ball bearings.

The tenor weighs 8 cwt., and the peal is in the key of A flat. The inscriptions on the new trebles and recast (old) third are:—

2nd.—'Lieut.-Col. J. Y. Foster gave this bell in memory of his beloved wife, Elisabeth Steuart Foster, 1926.'

Treble.—'Rev. T. J. Cunningham gave this bell in memory of his beloved wife, Ada Cunningham, 1926.'

Recast (old) 3rd.—'This bell was recast at the cost of W. S. Rawkins in memory of his mother, Eliza Regent Rawkins, 1926.'

The rigidity of the old oak frame after reconstruction has been specially commented on.

It should be mentioned that the lowering, hoisting and cartage of the bells was done by Mr. C. Miller, a ringer of St. Mark's, Preston, about 25 years ago.

A MEMORABLE SERVICE.

A large number of Freemasons attended the dedication service, and their varied regalia added a wonderful colour effect to the impressive proceedings. The centre of the nave was wholly occupied by the brethren, and the aisles were filled with parishioners.

The service opened with the processional hymn, 'O God, our Help in ages past,' and the procession formed by the clergy included: The Right Rev. Dr. A. G. Rawstorne (Bishop of Whalley and Archdeacon of Blackburn), the Bishop's chaplain, Rev. Oliver Burton (Vicar of Penwortham), Rev. A. E. Nock, R.D. (Vicar of St. Peter's, Chorley), Rev. Canon Morris, R.D. (Vicar of Preston), Rev. A. A. Dallman (chaplain 'Unanimity' Lodge), Rev. D. R. Davies, W.M. ('Newby Bridge' Lodge), and several other visiting clergy. The Masonic brethren who attended included: The Right Worshipful Brother John Hearn Burrell, P.G.D. (Eng.), Provincial Grand Master of the Province of West Lanes, accompanied by: Wor. Bro. C. Jefferis, Provincial G.D.C., Wor. Bro. Llewellyn C. Bailey, P.G.D. (Eng.), Deputy Provincial Grand Master, Wor. Bro. J. A. Wilson, P.A.G.D.C. (Eng.), Provincial Grand Secretary West Lanes, Wor. Bro. A. Foster, P.G.D. (Eng.), Assistant Provincial Grand Master, Wor. Bro. J. Y. Foster, P. Provincial G.W., Wor. Bro. A. Milner, P. Provincial G.W., and many other Provincial Grand Lodge officers.

On arrival at the lectern, and at a sign from the Provincial G.D.C., the officers lined each side of the centre aisle, whilst the Provincial G.M. proceeded to his seat near the sanctuary, each officer following in order of seniority.

After special Psalms 19 and 84, the Provincial G.M. was conducted to the lectern to read the lesson, which was taken from Numbers x., 1-11, following which the Bishop, clergy, the donors, and the Provincial G.M. proceeded to the ringing chamber, where the Bishop dedicated the restored and augmented bells.

The opening touch was rung by the following brethren: W. Taylor, J. R. Taylor, C. B. Taylor, S.W., E. W. Hutchinson, P. Provincial, A.G.D.C., C. Miller, S.W., E. Blundell, G. Phillipson, P.M., and W. Nelson, this band including father and two sons.

Immediately following the ringing, the memorial tablet in the west entrance to the church was unveiled by the Right Worshipful the Provincial G.M.

Lieut.-Col. Foster said this function was the opening of a fresh chapter in the long story of Penwortham and its church, which went back for many centuries. There was a church on that site in Saxon days, and William the Conqueror found a castle and a church there when he landed. It was mentioned in Domesday Book. The present building was built in the fifteenth century. How long it had possessed a peal of bells was uncertain, but the old peal of six bells was cast in 1712, and had been in constant use from that day to this. The fittings and appliances had become in a bad state of repair, and one bell was cracked circumferentially. The Craft of Freemasonry in the parish, having regard to the close connection which had always existed between them and the church, decided to restore the bells.

The Provincial Grand Master of West Lancashire, in unveiling the tablet, said the connection between the Masonic body and the church building and restoration was a very ancient and close one, dating back to the days when operative masons gathered themselves into guilds and societies and indented the stones of the cathedrals and churches with their individual or guild marks.

At the request of Brother the Rev. T. J. Cunningham, the Bishop of Whalley dedicated the memorial tablet, which is inscribed as follows: 'To the glory of God the Freemasons of Penwortham and district restored and rehung five bells in this tower and erected this tablet. The existing peal of six bells was augmented to one of eight by the gift of two new treble bells, one by Worshipful Brother Lieut.-Colonel J. Y. Foster, P.P.G.W., of White Friars, in memory of his wife, Elisabeth Steuart Foster, and one by Brother the Rev. T. J. Cunningham, M.A., of Penwortham House, in memory of his wife, Ada Cunningham, 1926. One bell was recast at the cost of W. S. Rawkins, Esq., of Bank Top, in memory of his mother, Eliza Regent Rawkins.'

After the anthem 'I have surely built Thee an house,' other appropriate prayers and the hymn 'O worship the King,' the Bishop gave a brief address, speaking upon the words inscribed on a restored bell in his own church at Croston, 'Ring clearer than before God's praises evermore,' which, he said, crystallised the message of the age to the Church. They had, he continued, a history to be proud of, one which went back to the very origin of time, and which reminded them that God's mercy had been with His people in days gone by and would be with them in days to come. The Church stood for continuity, and its message was the same to-day as in days gone by. The Church to-day stood for goodwill amongst every class, and longed to see more and more that barrier which seemed to have risen between one class and another broken down, that goodwill should unite them all in harmony, and that God should show them the way to find a just and honourable solution of those difficult problems which had been causing so much dispute. The Bishop also spoke of his great appreciation of the honour conferred on him in being chosen for this service. He held a special position in relation to that ancient parish, as his grandfather, father, and uncle were all Vicars of Penwortham, covering altogether a long period of time. He was himself baptised in that church as an infant, and it had fallen to his lot to become patron of the benefice.

The memorable service closed with the recessional hymn, 'Ring forth, holy bells.'

LANDMARK IN HISTORY.

At the conclusion of the service, touches were rung by the following visiting brethren: G. I. Davies and J. Wilkinson, of Liverpool, I. Whalley and W. Riley, of Oswaldtwistle, J. Hurst, of Leyland, T. Crookall, of Blackpool, A. A. Hughes, of London, assisted by J. R. and W. Taylor, of Penwortham. Visiting ringers also came from Preston, Manchester and Leeds.

The Masonic brethren assembled at tea afterwards, to have an opportunity of meeting the Provincial G.M., after which Masonic toasts were honoured. The Provincial G.M., in his speech, congratulated the brethren of Penwortham and Preston district on the successful termination of their efforts. He mentioned that it was particularly interesting to him, as he had that evening gained some knowledge of the work involved in church bell ringing. He referred to the recent peal of Stedman Cinques rung at Chelmsford by brethren of twelve lodges and twelve associations, thus showing that Masonic ringing events are being noted by those in authority. Further, he had also arranged, in company with the Lord Bishop of Liverpool, to unveil a tablet recording the Masonic peal of Kent Treble Bob Major rung at Garston on March 29th, 1924.

The entire ceremony was wonderfully impressive, and was particularly interesting, as it is the first occasion on which the restoration of a peal of bells has been carried through solely by Freemasons. It is, indeed, a landmark in the history of Freemasonry and church bells. A special feature was the ringing by brethren in full Masonic clothing, this being the first occasion such an event had taken place, and for which a special dispensation had been granted.

At the invitation of the Vicar, twelve courses (1,344 changes) of Double Norwich were rung on Sunday afternoon by: W. Taylor, J. R. Taylor, H. France, R. Armstrong, — Richardson, F. Harwood, B. A. Knights, and E. Armstrong.

An incident occurred at a garden party in connection with St. Mark's, Preston, just over the river, which testifies in a striking manner to the excellence of the augmentation and musical qualities of Penwortham bells. A lady, hearing the sound of the bells of Penwortham from across the river, went to the Vicar of St. Mark's, Preston, and promised him £200 towards the cost of rehung his bells, which have been in bad repair for several years. These are now being restored by Messrs. Meers and Stainbank.

FIRST 'SPliced' RINGING IN CUMBERLAND

At St. Mary's Church, Egremont, Cumberland, on Wednesday evening, September 15th, 720 spliced Kent and Oxford Treble Bob Minor: Ben Douglas 1, A. Eilbeck 2, J. Rothery 3, W. Douglas 4, W. Norman 5, G. W. Towley (conductor) 6. This was the first spliced method ringing by all, the first by the association, and was rung at the first attempt.

BARNESLEY AND DISTRICT ASSOCIATION.*FIRST SHIELD COMPETITION.

The first ringing contest for the handsome shield purchased by the Barnesley and District Association for competition among its members, took place on Saturday, September 11th, at St. Mary's Church, Barnesley. The event had been eagerly anticipated, and many companies went into serious training. Eleven bands entered, and the draw resulted in the ringing taking place in the following order, the points lost for faults and penalties being also shown:

1, Folkirk, 482 faults and penalties; 2, North Anston, 233 faults; 3, Darfield (rung out) 448 faults and penalties; 4, Cawthorne, 232 faults; 5, Shelley, 162 faults; 6, Wath (No. 1 band), 386 faults; 7, Horbury (rung out in 18 minutes), 632 faults; 8, Hoylandswaine (rung out in 18 minutes), 382 faults; 9, Spotborough, 627 faults and penalties; 10, Ackworth, 600 faults in part of 720; 11, Wath (No. 2), 352 faults and penalties.

The winners were, therefore, Shelley, with 162 faults, and they take possession of the shield for one year, and the ringers won six plated teapots as prizes. Cawthorne, with 232 faults, took second prize (six silver and gold medals); North Anston, with 233 faults, third prize (six cases of half-dozen tea spoons).

The time occupied in the ringing was lengthy, and tended to weary the waiting visitors, many of whom, as well as ringers, had to leave for home before the results were declared.

Prior to the judge's decision being given and the distribution of the prizes, some pleasing songs were given by local singers in the Parish Room. The business meeting was also held there, and at 9.30 Mr. R. N. Brearley made known his awards, which were read by Rev. Willes, curate of St. Mary's.

Mrs. Hone, the Rector's wife, gracefully presented the prizes.

The winners of first and second awards were present, and were much elated. The winners of third prize had had to leave, so were not present. No fewer than 95 ringers and visitors partook of tea at the Regent Cafe.

It may be asked, Are these contests good and of lasting benefit for striking? It must be admitted that it has proved successful in the past, and is so still.

The handsome shield is modelled with the figure of a ringer standing at the rope in the handstroke position, with a tower bell above, inverted, ready for ringing. The unique trophy has been purchased by the association out of the savings of many years.

ST. ALBANS' VETERAN RINGER.*MR. TOM CONLEY REACHES HIS NINETIETH BIRTHDAY.

Mr. Thomas Conley, of St. Albans, who on Tuesday of last week celebrated his 90th birthday, has been connected with bellringing at St. Peter's Church, St. Albans, for nearly 75 years. He was born at Stapleford, a village near Hertford, and went to St. Albans when quite a boy. He lived for some time at an inn, in St. Peter's Street, close to St. Peter's Church, called the Ten Bells, which many years ago became a private dwelling house, and it would seem that he must have caught the beginnings of his enthusiasm for bells from the ringers who frequented the house, for at the age of fifteen years he counted himself a ringer, although ringing in those days was confined to 'stone.'

Thus he has, as mentioned above, a record of 75 years' connection with St. Peter's tower. He retired from active ringing about two years ago, although still capable of mounting the staircase. In March, 1921, he was still young enough to ring a touch of 1,000 Grandsire Caters. In the tower he always rang the treble, and has scored several peals. During the war he did his 'bit' by deputising for Mr. Whiteman, the Abbey steeplekeeper, and was responsible for the daily chiming of the bells for the services of the Church—no mean task in view of the many steps that had to be climbed on each occasion.

Mr. Conley has a passion for tune ringing on handbells, and possesses a good set. It has been his custom for a long period of years to visit gentlemen's houses and other places in the district to bring cheerfulness at the Christmas season. He is also fond of a good song, and members of St. Peter's Society always used to look forward, at their annual supper, to 'Tommy's' repertoire of songs of long ago—still now, perhaps, some of the best.

By trade, he is a cabinet maker, etc., and quite an expert at his business. Up to quite recent times he proceeded daily to his shop in The Cloisters to do some little job, proceeding home regularly at one o'clock for the mid-day meal. A few weeks ago he met with an accident in the street, but is now about again, taking his walks about the city and the church which he has known so long.

WHEN THE LIGHT WENT OUT.

On Saturday week an attempt was made for a peal of Stedman Triples at St. Mary's, Prestbury, Glos. After ringing about twenty minutes, however, the electric light was unexpectedly switched off, and, as no one came to the rescue and it would have been impossible to finish before darkness set in, the conductor allowed the bells to run round half way, the 2,520 changes being rung in 1 hour 29 minutes by: W. Dickenson 1, G. Walters 2, H. Halford 3, J. Causon 4, W. Dyer (Charlton Kings) 5, W. Townsend 6, J. F. Ballinger (conductor) 7, J. Harrison 8. The attempt was arranged for Mr. Dickenson, who was on a visit from Heckington (Lincs), and also for the anniversary of Mr. Halford's wedding day.

CORNWALL'S NEW PEAL OF SIX BELLS.*A REMARKABLE FEAT OF BELL-HANGING.

St. Ewe, Mevagissey, Cornwall, is to be congratulated on its new possession of a peal of six bells, which were dedicated by the Archdeacon of Cornwall, Ven. G. W. Hockley, on Thursday, September 9th.

This was a day long to be remembered in this quiet little village. It was a happy thought to combine the harvest festival with the dedication of the bells, for the bright harvest hymns and the tastefully decorated church added much to the joy of hearing the bells rung for the first time.

The Archdeacon gave an interesting address on the history and uses of bells, after which the warden, Mr. W. H. James, handed the ropes to him, with the request that the bells be dedicated to the service of God. After the dedication, the Rector, the Rev. A. E. Beynon, received them with the charge that they be used only for holy and hallowed purposes.

A few rounds were then rung by the St. Goran ringers, who were in the charge of the Rev. Yonge, Vicar of St. Goran (who is himself a ringer) and Mr. Richards, five lady ringers taking part. After the service, the bells were kept going by different bands from the surrounding districts (including St. Austell and St. Mewan) until a very late hour. Cornish ringers are not great at 'scientific' ringing, but for perfection of striking in 'raising, rounds, call changes and falling,' they have not their superiors, and the bells were thus heard to their fullest advantage.

There were originally three bells in this tiny tower, two of which were cast in 1684, but had become cracked, while the third was cast in 1826 by Rudhall. These were dismantled some two years since because of the unsafety of the old wood frame. The third bell was rehung in an iron frame and new fittings, but having one bell only to call the people to service was not considered good enough for this fine old church. The late Mrs. Lovering recognised this, and in her will she left £200 for the restoration of the bells in memory of her brother, the late Mr. J. Stevens, of St. Austell, and a handsome marble tablet recording the gift was unveiled by the Archdeacon at the dedication service. Mr. Lovering faithfully carried out his late wife's wishes, and with the wholehearted efforts of the Rector and the parishioners enough funds were raised to enable them to approach the bell firms to see what could be done. It was the earnest wish of the parishioners that a ringing peal should be installed.

SMALLEST TOWER WITH RING OF BELLS.

Eventually the plans and specifications of Messrs. Gillett and Johnston, Croydon, were accepted for recasting the three bells, adding sufficient metal to make up a peal of six with a tenor of 7 cwt., and hanging the whole in a steel and iron frame with all the most up-to-date fittings. The total weight of the bells is about 25 cwt.

It seemed an almost impossible task that this firm undertook, when it is considered that the available space was only 5ft. 2in. square for a height of 11ft., and above that 7ft. square for a height of 8ft. It has been necessary to hang the bells in three tiers. This is believed to be the smallest tower in existence containing a ringing peal of six bells, and is more remarkable still when the size of the peal is considered. Even in so crowded a space it was found possible to fit a complete Ellacombe apparatus, so that the bells can be chimed while a band of ringers are being taught.

How well the work was carried out was the subject of general comment, and Messrs. Gillett and Johnston are to be heartily congratulated on this their latest success in perhaps one of the most difficult jobs which has been done in hanging ringing bells. All ringers commented on the perfect 'go' of the bells, while all who heard the bells praised their perfect balance of tone. No inconvenience was found in ringing in the ringing-room, which is 5ft. 2in. square, an ingenious rope guide being fixed at a suitable height to prevent the ropes catching each other during ringing.

The church itself is a large one, and will seat 400 people. The tower and broached spire on top (72ft. in height) were built in A.D. 1320, and are an architectural joy. The small space available for bells is due to the fact that the tower (the walls of which are 5ft. 6in. thick) was only designed to carry the spire, and so is narrow.

151 YEARS AGO.

September 19th, 1775, was the date on which the first peal of Grandsire Caters was rung on the then new peal of ten bells at St. Wulfran's Church, Grantham, by a band of Nottingham and Newark ringers.

The present company of ringers at St. Wulfran's marked the 151st anniversary by ringing for evensong on Sunday, September 19th, a quarter-peal of Stedman Caters (1,263 changes) in 51 minutes: T. Hall 1, H. Thorpe 2, E. Nedd 3, P. Turner 4, W. Thorpe 5, A. Parker 6, G. Corner 7, E. Proctor 8, S. Proctor (conductor) 9, and R. Pick 10.

SOUTHAMPTON.—At St. Mary's Church, for the wedding of Miss Edith Ada Barnett to Mr. Harry Tipton on Wednesday, September 15th, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples (1,260 changes): W. J. Butler 1, O. Gollop 2, J. W. Faithfull (conductor) 3, H. Payne 4, F. Mursell 5, H. Reeves 6, F. Cole 7, A. Newman 8.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT TO MR. ARTHUR CRAVEN

Following closely on the Jasper Snowden commemoration dinner, held this year in Sheffield, at which he was present, his many friends will learn with regret that Mr. Arthur Craven, of 79, Carver Street, Sheffield, has met with a rather serious accident. Whilst returning home from church on Sunday morning he was knocked down by a motor-cyclist. Among the numerous injuries he has sustained are a broken nose and a broken rib. Although suffering a good deal of pain, Mr. Craven is as comfortable as can be expected.

MIDLAND COUNTIES ASSOCIATION.

THE ATTRACTIONS OF LOUGHBOROUGH.

On Saturday, September 11th, despite the fact that the morning had promised anything but fine weather, many ringers with their characteristic optimism 'renewed their licenses' in order that they could be present at Loughborough on this date. For some reason or other this town has a great attraction for ringers; whether it be the 'bells' or 'bells' is a mystery which remains unsolved. It was rumoured that a section of the young bloods from Lincoln area sent an advance party out on the previous Saturday in order that the latest and best road surfaces might be attacked, and that a certain lady riding pillion should do so with the minimum of 'bumps.'

According to custom, the bell foundry was open to the visitors. Some took the opportunity of touring it for the first time, whilst others renewed their acquaintance, and, as on previous occasions, saw many 'have beans' mingling with those that 'are,' and the appearance of those bells that 'are' made one look with disdain at their humbler sisters, some covered with the grime of an industrial town, while others were more suggestive of the country-side and birds.

Always a great attraction, the foundry 'ten' were well in demand, yet they demanded their fair share of attention and more careful handling than many were capable of giving, and if good ringing was not always produced some good laughs were. These cost nothing and often help strangers in getting to know one another. The more sober-minded went on to the Parish Church and soon had the noble ten pouring forth their sweet music.

Under the able guidance of the energetic hon. secretary and his band of lady helpers, tea was served in the Fearon Hall, to which about 57 members and friends sat down. They represented: Hugglescote, Lockington, Staveley, Lincoln, Boisover, Surfleet, Weekley, Rathwell, Kegworth, and local ringers.

In the absence of the district chairman, the business of the evening was transacted under the chairmanship of Mr. J. P. Fidler. Nothing of exceptional interest being on the agenda, and none being brought forward, the business was of a routine character and was soon disposed of.

After the usual votes of thanks, the bells of the Parish Church and the foundry campanile were again requisitioned. Some of the ringing was good, but a good deal was of the usual meeting 'hotchpotch,' and one well-known ringer was heard to ask, 'Cannot Taylors make ears?' Still, everyone had a good time. Those who were fortunate enough to possess a bus had no need to hurry, and departed in a far more dignified manner than those who had to rush for trains. In some instances the rush was in vain, and it is hoped that those who did miss their train got home the same day in order that they might get permission to visit Loughborough next time there is a meeting there.

WYCOMBE RINGER'S WEDDING.

An interesting wedding took place at All Saints' Church, High Wycombe, on Saturday afternoon last, when Mr. George Francis Hinton (a member of the Wycombe bellry) and Miss Edith Martha Green were united in the bonds of holy matrimony. On the Monday evening previous, the Rev. W. L. P. Float, M.A., LL.B., on behalf of the ringers, presented Mr. Hinton with a clock as a wedding gift, extending the good wishes of himself and fellow-ringers for the health and prosperity of the happy pair.

Immediately after the wedding ceremony, the bells of the church rang out merrily in honour of the event, and the opportunity was taken of throwing open the tower till six o'clock to any visitors who cared to take advantage of the privilege of ringing here on a Saturday. The local men were very glad to welcome those old and new friends who came.

CLEVELAND AND NORTH YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION.

The September meeting was held at Carlton-in-Cleveland on Saturday last, members attending from Darlington (St. John's), Stockton, Middlesbrough, Guisborough, Stokesley, Skelton, Saltburn and Ormesby. The meeting was also honoured with a visit by the Rev. W. P. Wright, who was the first secretary of the association, and afterwards became president, from 1903 to 1914. Tea was provided at the Fox and Hounds Inn, Carlton, which, by the way, belongs to the Vicar, the Rev. J. L. Kyle. The tea was presided over by the president (the Rev. A. Simpson). After tea, the president thanked Mr. Kyle for the use of the bells, and expressed pleasure in seeing the Rev. W. P. Wright amongst them again. The fact that he had taken up ringing again made one think that ringing was worth considerably more energy than seemed to be put into it by the young men of to-day. The president also congratulated 'the father of the association' Mr. W. Newton (Stockton-on-Tees) on his seventieth birthday. The family of three generations ring together Sunday by Sunday. Continuing, the president referred to the loss the association had sustained in the death of Mr. Walter Pick, and to show their sympathy he asked them to stand in silence for a few moments. He hoped the secretary would convey their condolences to the widow and family.

The Rev. J. L. Kyle, Vicar of Carlton, in his usual breezy way, welcomed the association, and hoped that it would not be long before there was another meeting there, as he liked to hear the bells rung.

The ringers returned to the tower, and kept the bells going until 7 o'clock, the methods rung being Bob Minor and Major, Kent Treble Bob Major, Double Norwich Major, Grandsire and Stedman Triples.

CHARING BELLS PUT IN ORDER.

Charing, a village near Ashford, in Kent, has a peal of six bells, the tenor weighing 13½ cwt., which was presented to the church in 1878 by Bishop Tuftnell, who was curate-in-charge of the parish at the time of the restoration of the church, which was destroyed by fire about 1590. It was recently found necessary to overhaul the bells and framework. This was entrusted to Mr. A. Bowell, of Ipswich, who put in new bearings and gudgeons, new headstock to the tenor, and steel plates on every corner of the frame. Between the 5th and 6th bells there used to be only a round iron bar to keep the frame together, and this has been replaced by a strong set of tie bars which has considerably strengthened the frame. All the pulley wheels have bronze bearings in place of the old squeaking iron ones, whilst the bell wheels have been repaired and fitted with blocks to prevent friction as much as possible where the ropes pass through the wheels. Other smaller items have been put in order, and the work very well done.

Friends from Brabourne and the local men had the pleasure of trying them on Friday evening, September 17th, and the 'go' was found to be perfect.

The Vicar (the Rev. C. R. Fotheringham) and the Parochial Council's secretary inspected the work, and after getting the opinion of the ringers as to the 'go,' etc., the Vicar invited the party to the White Swan, where he suitably thanked Mr. Bowell for the excellent and prompt manner in which he carried out the work.

DEATH OF MR. W. PICK OF SHAROW.

A RINGER FOR 64 YEARS.

We regret to record the death of Mr. Walter Pick, of Sharow (Ripon), who died on Saturday, September 11th, at the age of 75 years. Mr. Pick, who was well known and highly respected in the district, was a native of Sharow, and lived the whole of his life in the same house. He was educated at the local village school, and at an early age was apprenticed to gardening, which he followed for many years. He became an overseer of the parish of Sharow forty years ago, and he always had the pleasure of meeting the Government auditor with great credit. He also took a very great interest in friendly society work, and became a member of the Kingston Unity of Oddfellows at a very early age. He attended to the business of the Lodge up to the last. He passed through the various offices of both Lodge and district, and his advice on Lodge matters always carried great weight. He took up church bellringing when only twelve years of age, and followed it to the end of his days. He became a member of the Yorkshire Association in 1873, and a life member of the Durham and Newcastle Association in 1881. He was one of the original members of the Cleveland and North Yorkshire Association, for which he had rung ten peals. The latter part of his ringing career was mostly confined to teaching young ringers, of which there are a good many in the district of Ripon. He was one of the men who attended most diligently to his church, and was verger for a great number of years. He was also a manager of the Sharow Schools.

The funeral took place on Tuesday, September 14th, at Sharow Church, in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends. The service was fully choral, and was conducted by the Rev. R. A. Powtall, Vicar of Sharow. The hymns were 'Now the labourer's task is o'er' and 'On the resurrection morning.' The bells, which he loved to hear, were fully muffled, and were rung both before and after the service.

The deceased leaves a widow and grown-up family to mourn their loss.

ASSOCIATION PIONEERS.

The Lancashire Association is the latest among the ringing organisations to celebrate its jubilee, and the Exercise at large will congratulate the ringers of the County Palatine on reaching this interesting 'birthday.' In this it has followed closely after the neighbouring county of Yorkshire, whose association was founded only in the year prior to that of Lancashire. It is extremely interesting, also, to know that there are still living in Lancashire men who helped to form the association in 1876, and that they continue to be actively concerned in the fortunes of the sturdy tree which they helped so successfully to plant. To those who can recall the early days of these associations these jubilees are a rather painful reminder of the rapid flight of time, but there must be at the back of any such feeling a considerable sense of gratification that the associations have developed as they have done into organisations of influence and importance. They came upon the scene in those days which the writer of 'Notes by the Way' — quite by a coincidence — describes this week as the worst period in ringing history. It was, of course, the necessity for action, both to uplift the position of the Art and the status of the ringer, that led to the formation of the modern associations, and the need for them was recognised in the north as early as anywhere. Not that in the north ringers were any worse than elsewhere, or that ringing had slipped back into a more deplorable condition there than in any of the other counties, but these men of Yorkshire and Lancashire were among the first to realise that organised effort was necessary if the use of church bells was to be preserved for the Art — nay, more, if the Art itself was to be preserved. How well they carried out their task, the flourishing condition of the two great associations remains as proof. The fine spirit which prompted their founders has continued to animate the actions of those who have followed them throughout the years, and the examples of Yorkshire and Lancashire were in no small degree the source of inspiration which led, in the immediately succeeding years, to the establishment of many similar societies throughout the length and breadth of the land. Ringers of the younger generation, who have only come on the scene in the last fifteen or twenty years, can hardly realise, perhaps, all that the early work of the county and diocesan organisations has really meant to the Art and the Exercise. It was a movement from within to bring about reforms and the development of change ringing at a time when ringers were in general disrepute, and, except in a few places, which formed a striking contrast to the general position, change ringing had drifted into a state bordering on inanition. It was the labours of those who founded the associations and did the heavy spade work of those early years which prepared the way for the advances which have been made in this century, which raised the Art to another plane and helped to make ringing easy for the men of to-day. These labours have resulted in tremendous advances in the science; they have brought about the restoration of hundreds of peals of bells; they have given ringers a totally different idea of their duty to the Church, and they have given the clergy and a considerable portion of the public an entirely different view of the standing of the bell ringer and his place in the entity of the Church.

DEVIZES BRANCH.

The monthly meeting of the Devizes Branch was held at Hilperton on Saturday, September 18th. Ringing commenced about 3 p.m., and later the Guild service was held in the church, conducted by the Rector (the Rev. R. S. B. Proby), Mr. Watts, who had come from North Bradley for the purpose, playing the organ. Tea was provided in the new Church Room, in the Rectory Garden, by the kindness of the Rector.

A short business meeting followed, at which the chairman of the branch (Mr. C. D. Heginbotham, of Devizes) presided, supported by the Rector and Sir Edward Wallington, C.V.O.

The chairman read a letter which the secretary had received from the Master of the Guild (the Rev. R. H. Gundry, of Shroton, Dorset), which expressed his regret at being unable to be at the meeting, but all present were pleased to hear that he was better.

The chairman then thanked the Rector for his kindness in providing tea and for conducting the service and for the use of the bells. He also thanked the organist.

The Rector appealed for more young men to come forward and help with the ringing, saying how very different it was on Sundays when the bells were rung.—Sir Edward Wallington endorsed all the Rector had said, and hoped the holding of the meeting at Hilperton would have the desired effect.

Mr. W. Mees, the foreman of the Hilperton ringers, mentioned the interesting fact that on St. Stephen's Day next (December 26th) he would have completed 50 years as a ringer.

Ringling was then continued till about 8 p.m., ringers being present from Devizes (St. John's and St. Mary's), Rowde, Bratton, Trowbridge, North Bradley, Bradford-on-Avon, Trowbridge, and Hilperton. Touches of Grandsire, Stedman, and Plain Bob were rung.

At the meeting the chairman drew the attention of the ringers to the leading article in 'The Ringing World' on good striking, and while agreeing that good striking was to be desired said, nevertheless, ringers should not be discouraged because good striking could not be always attained.

Keovil was proposed as the place for the next meeting, and the quarterly meeting was postponed till November, at Warminster, for the convenience of the chairman.

SOCIETY FOR THE ARCHDEACONRY OF STAFFORD.

An enjoyable afternoon was spent on Saturday, September 18th, at Pennsett, where the autumn meeting of the above society was held. The new ring of eight bells, recently installed by Messrs. Charles Carr, Ltd., of Smethwick, were kept going in the standard methods during the afternoon and evening.

The service in church was conducted by the Rev. C. H. Barker, clerical secretary and treasurer, and a very interesting address delivered by the Rev. N. Edwards, Vicar. About 30 members and friends sat down to a good tea on the Vicarage lawn, which was much enjoyed. Of the nine new members enrolled, three were of the local company.

Darlaston is selected for the next meeting on January 8th.

SOUTH SHROPSHIRE RINGERS JOIN.

A successful meeting of the above was held at Church Stretton on Saturday last, when thirty-three ringers attended from Shrewsbury (St. Chad's and St. Mary's), Coalbrookdale, Ludlow, Bishop's Castle, Hodnot, Hopesay, Church Stretton, etc.

Ringings commenced soon after three o'clock, and the bells were kept going in various methods till 5 p.m., when the members adjourned to the State Cafe for tea.

At the business meeting, Major E. R. Trevor Corbett presided. A number of new members were elected from South Shropshire towers.

It was decided to hold the annual meeting at Shrewsbury, as usual, in January, and Mr. Rodenhurst was asked to obtain estimates for new certificates for the association and to have the peal book entered up to date.

After the meeting, the members returned to the tower, and some well-struck touches of Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Plain Bob and Kent Treble Bob Major were rung.

MIDLAND COUNTIES ASSOCIATION.

NOTTINGHAM DISTRICT.

Always a 'bright' spot in the Nottingham area, Greasley, with its fine peal of eight, was visited on Saturday by nearly thirty members, who did ample justice to the splendid tea as well as to the opportunities in the belfry.

The usual business routine resulted in one new member, and the selection of Bulwell, Mansfield and Radcliffe for the next three meetings. The annual meeting of the Nottingham district was also fixed for January 8th, 1927, at St. Mary's, Nottingham.

The vice-president announced that owing to two societies existing in Nottingham now, and it being deemed advisable that no member should hold office in both, he, along with the hon. secretary and Mr. F. Bailey (committee), would not seek re-election at that meeting.

The customary votes of thanks to the Vicar and the locals for a really first-rate entertainment, to which Mr. J. Hobbs replied, ended the business, and ringing continued until 8.30 p.m.

RETURNING TO AMERICA.

After a stay in this country of eleven months, Mr. Albert Crossley, a former ringer at Oldham, is returning to New Bedford, U.S.A. On Sunday evening a farewell touch of 504 Stedman Triples was rung at St. Mary's Parish Church: V. Sykes 1, S. M. Butterworth 2, E. Geary 3, J. Lees 4, J. W. Taylor 5, C. H. Marsland 6, R. Greenwood (conductor) 7, J. Cox 8.

LONDON COUNTY ASSOCIATION SECRETARY'S WEDDING

Large numbers of people flocked to the Church of the Holy Trinity, Trinity Square, Southwark, on Saturday, September 11th. It was the occasion of the wedding of Miss Alice May Tomlinson to Mr. Arthur H. Keighley, the well-known secretary of the London County Association. The church was nearly full, as Mr. Keighley has done much social work in connection with the church of South London, and the interest taken in his wedding shows how much his labours have been appreciated. Among the congregation were several officers of the London County Association, including the Master (Mr. T. H. Taffender), the treasurer (Mr. E. A. Young), assistant secretary (Mr. T. W. Taffender), senior steward (Mr. F. W. Chorley), Past-Master (Mr. C. F. Winney), and a large number of ringers.

The choir, of which Mr. Keighley is a member, met the bridal party at the church porch, and the service, which was choral, was conducted by the Rev. Hammell Smith, the curate-in-charge.

There was one regret, that the eight splendid-toned bells in the tower (tenor 20 cwt.) could be neither rung nor chimed, an examination having revealed that the pits were choked with birds' refuse. But the ceremony was not allowed to pass without the bells playing their part for, as the bride and bridegroom passed out of the church, a course of Stedman Caters was rung on handbells.

The wedding breakfast and reception were held in St. George's Hall, Borough Road, where the festivities were kept going till a late hour. A number of ringers were present. During the afternoon six courses of London Surprise Major were rung at St. Dunstan's-in-the-East by: A. J. Neale 1, T. H. Taffender 2, C. Wingrove 3, W. Miller 4, G. Faulkner 5, J. R. Gammon 6, A. Card 7, E. D. Smith 8.

LADIES' GUILD.

The Western District of the Ladies' Guild held a quarterly meeting at St. Andrew's, Clevedon, on Saturday, September 18th, about thirty members and friends being present. The Guild service was held, and an address given by the Vicar (Preb. Badcock).

At the business meeting, which followed tea at the Cinema Cafe, it was decided to hold the December meeting in Bristol, St. Andrew's, Clifton, being the tower chosen.

The attendance in the belfry after tea was small, owing to the beauty of the evening and the attraction of the sea front. Those, however, who did find their way back quite enjoyed themselves.

Earlier in the afternoon All Saints' Church was visited by some of the party, who had the pleasure of meeting and ringing with the lady members of the local band.

The great hour bell of six and a quarter tons and the four quarter bells (the total weight being about ten tons); for use with the gigantic clock which Messrs. J. B. Joyce and Co. are to manufacture for Shanghai, will be cast at the Loughborough Foundry by Messrs. John Taylor and Co.

The meeting of the South and West District of the Middlesex Association, which was to have been held at Hillingdon on October 9th, has been postponed to the 30th.

To-day is the anniversary of a peal of 5,040 Bob Major rung in the year 1749 by the Eastern Scholars, being the first 'on ye eight new bells at St. Mary Rotherhithe.'

On October 1st, 1793, Joshua Short called a peal of 15,360 Bob Major at Aston.

The first peal of Stedman Caters on the bells at All Saints', Fulham, was rung on October 3rd, 1819.

A peal of Stedman Cinques was rung for the first time on October 6th, 1788. This was at St. Martin's-in-the-Fields by the College Youths, and 'is an instance of that unrivalled merit only to be equalled by a similar assiduity and perseverance.'

Born in 1783, William Booth, one of the most famous of old Sheffield ringers, and grandfather of Charles Henry and Thomas Hattersley, died on October 6th, 1849.

The first known Northamptonshire bell-founder, Henry Bageley, son of a blacksmith, at Chaceombe, was baptised on October 2nd, 1608. He apparently started bell-founding in 1632, and died about the year 1676.

Mr. Isaac Emery, of Bromley, Kent, and Mr. John Emery have sustained a sad bereavement by the death of their father, who passed away on Friday within three weeks of his 88th birthday. The funeral took place at St. Mary Cray, Kent, on Wednesday.

The death has occurred at Liversedge of Mr. William Collins, at the advanced age of 81 years. He had been a ringer since the year 1861, and some details of his long career will be given in our next issue.

Part II. of Mr. E. A. Young's article on 'Bell Tones' will appear in our next issue.

METHODS VERSUS STRIKING. APPLIANCE FOR OBTAINING PUBLIC ANNOYANCE.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—With reference to your leader, 'Methods versus Striking,' and in particular to the continual 'banging about,' which applies not only in attempting to ring a method which is really beyond the capabilities of a band but to novices who bang about the bells in attempting their first plain course, in Jasper W. Snowdon's book, 'Rope Sight,' on pages 4 and 5 he states: 'A very efficient apparatus capable of being fixed to any ring of bells, by which, when the clappers are lashed or fixed, blows, corresponding to the times at which the clappers of the bell would have sounded, are struck on miniature bells fixed in the ringing chamber. By this means the ringers have the benefit of the sounds from their bells when practising, without any annoyance being given to the public by irregular sounds from the tower bells. Having had several opportunities of practising with this apparatus, and of hearing the opinion of those who have it fixed to their bells, I can with confidence recommend it, and consider that it ought to be fixed in every tower where the practising of beginners is likely to cause any annoyance.'

It would be interesting to know the makers of this apparatus and its cost, as it would probably be a means to overcome the annoyance to those outside who, as you say, are compelled to listen.—Yours truly,
ARTHUR C. WALSH.

WORDSLEY BELLS RING OUT AGAIN.

AN INTERESTING CEREMONY.

Shortly before noon on Sunday, September 12th, and immediately following the celebration of Sung Eucharist, a very interesting ceremony was performed at Wordsley Parish Church. The tower, which had been closed for many months for repairs and strengthening, was re-opened by the Rector (Rev. R. H. Fowler).

A procession was formed, consisting of the clergy, the wardens of both the Parish and Glynn Mission Churches, the architects (Messrs. Webb and Gray, Dudley), Miss Carr, representing Messrs. Carr, of Smethwick, the bell-founders responsible for the retuning of the bells, and the choir, and upon arrival at the tower the Rector read prayers of dedication.

Upon the stroke of 12 the Rector pulled the wire and started the clock, which had stood still for about 12 months. As soon as the clock had finished striking, the ringers ascended to the belfry and rang a short but merry peal. In the afternoon they again, with the assistance of two ringers from Wollaston, rang a peal of Cambridge Surprise Minor, and the ringers afforded much pleasure to the villagers.

The ringers were unanimous in their opinion that the bells had been splendidly hung, and that the highest possible credit was due to the firm responsible for the work of retuning.

It has been decided to have the dials of the clocks illuminated, and for this purpose a fund has been opened. Mr. W. H. Stuart, J.P., of The Mount, Wordsley, has consented to act as treasurer, and will be pleased to acknowledge any donations which may be forwarded to him. It is hoped that the new dials will be fixed in the course of the next three weeks.

YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION COMMEMORATION DINNER ENJOYABLE GATHERING AT SHEFFIELD.

The fifth annual dinner of the Yorkshire Association was held at Sheffield on Saturday, September 18th, at the King's Head Hotel, Change Alley, when a widely representative gathering of ringers and friends paid tribute to the memory of Jasper Whitfield Snowdon and past officers of the association. The bells of the Cathedral and of the neighbouring church of St. Marie were available for visitors during the afternoon, some very good ringing being heard at both churches.

At 6 p.m., the Ven. Archdeacon of Sheffield (the Very Rev. John Russell Darbyshire, M.A.), took the chair, supported by the Rev. C. C. Marshall (president of the Yorkshire Association), Mr. Frank Willey (vice-president), Mr. P. J. Johnson (secretary), and Mrs. Johnson, Mr. J. Colterill (treasurer), Rev. W. G. Lalgie (Vicar of All Saints', Sheffield), the Revs. H. F. Sheppard and David T. Sykes (of the Cathedral), Mr. A. Walker (St. Martin's Guild, Birmingham), and Mrs. Walker, Mr. S. R. Roper (Messrs. Gillett and Johnston), Mr. J. Oldham (Messrs. Taylor and Co.), Mr. J. F. Smallwood (Derby), Mr. A. Knights (Chesterfield), Mr. W. Knight (Bristol), Mr. T. King (Bath), Mr. H. R. Newton (Master of the Ancient Society of College Youths), Mr. W. H. Shaker (secretary of the Lancashire Association), and Mrs. Shaker, Mr. W. Payne (Durham and Newcastle Association), Mr. J. H. Howell (Beverley), Mr. C. D. Potter (secretary of the Barnsley and District Association), Mr. G. H. Walker (secretary of the Doncaster and District Association), Mr. J. P. Fidler (Chester Guild), Mr. A. Craven, Mr. J. Holman, Mr. J. E. L. Cockey, and Mr. C. Harrison, all of the Sheffield District Society, Mr. S. P. Palmer (secretary of the Dinner Committee), and many ringers from towers both near and far.

The toast of 'The King' having been proposed by the chairman and honoured in the usual custom, the toast of 'Church and State' was proposed by Mr. P. J. Johnson, who said he did indeed consider it a privilege to be invited to say a few words that night on the subject of Church and State, and to ask them to join with him in drinking that toast. He thought that the subject first mentioned was of all toasts the most misunderstood. By the 'Church,' in many cases they referred to Bishops, Archdeacons and old gentlemen who took care of their cathedrals, and they did not always realise, perhaps, the part which the Church had played in their history. It was responsible for their code of laws. Having outlined something of the history of important movements in the churches, he went on to say that, so far as the clergy were concerned, those who were with them that night were an excellent example of what every member of the Church should be. He felt, and was sure, that deep down in their hearts everyone connected with the Church believed that they should ring true in every sense of the word. During the last fifty years they found that enormous strides had been made in belfry reform, and what was a very pleasing fact was that it did not come from outside but from the ringers themselves. In the present state they found that the clergy came amongst them more and more. The example they had that day was a very good proof of this. With regard to the State, never in the history of the nation had they had a position such as they had to-day, which engaged the thought of all classes, yet they ought to see, and would see, the desired results if they realised that in dealing with matters connected with the Church and State they put the Church first. Such principles should be reflected in national legislation, and these would then, no doubt, be embodied in the national life. The clergy had come forward in the present dispute with proposals of their own, which, unfortunately, had not produced the desired results, but if they followed the principles of the clergy in viewing affairs of the State, they would find that the interests of the Church and State were the principles of the country combined (cheers).

RINGERS AND THE CHURCH.

The Archdeacon of Sheffield, who responded, said Mr. Johnson had remarked that the toast was a theme that was perennial, and it was most appropriate that it should be so. In most ancient times bells were used for State occasions as well as for ecclesiastical occasions. In ancient belfries one use of the bells was undoubtedly to summon the people to civic assemblies or to give the alarm in the case of the irruption of the foes of the State, and it was frequently the case that in unsettled times one of the first precautions was to annex all bells or even to destroy them in order that they should not be the means of summoning the people for any hostile purpose. That this was not an unnecessary precaution would be proved by an amusing little experience which befel their colleague, the Rev. B. F. Sheppard, in the course of the recent Cambridge Guild tour. Raising the bells for a peal in a certain village belfry, the effect must have sounded to the authorities very like their fire alarm, for within a few minutes the local fire fighters descended upon the church enquiring for the fire (laughter). Continuing, the chairman said that the association between Church and State appeared to be closer in the case of ringers than in that of any other body of church workers, and he expressed the hope that it might always be the outstanding feature of ringers as a body that they well represented in themselves the union of Church and State. He would like to take the word 'church' in a wider sense than Mr. Johnson had done, the latter having apparently indicated by his remarks the Established Church, and quite naturally so, as the vast majority of the company present represented towers of the Established Churches. Nevertheless, it was not only the towers of such churches that possessed bells, as even in his own city there was a very fine peal of eight in the Roman Catholic Church of St. Marie, whilst in some places there were peals in the belfries of Nonconformist places of worship. The real cleavage between Church and State would be liable to come if they were to take the possibly controversial stand-points to which Mr. Johnson objected. If the Church were viewed simply as a number of old gentlemen taking care of cathedrals (this remark brought a smile from the clergy present), then it would be pretty useless; it could not stand against the opinion of the great bulk of the civilian population. If every ringer, Established Churchman or otherwise, would make it his business to be a Churchman as he individually construed the word, he would be able to do a great amount of work and exert a considerable measure of influence to bring about the communion of interest between Church and people which Mr. Johnson desired to see. Referring to the present industrial crisis, without touching on the ground covered by the proposer, he expressed the hope that all present were filled heart and soul with a genuine desire for a lasting settlement devoid of bitterness which would provide a natural occasion for all ringers of Yorkshire to ring 'the wildest peal of years.' Since the possibly not too good old days when the leather jug was a prominent feature in belfry furniture, great progress, continued the speaker, had been made towards unity of ideas and purpose between clergy and the laity, particularly that section of the latter occupied in ringing, and it was essential that this should continue and that an increasing freedom of intercourse between them should come about. He felt that coupled with this toast should have been the name of the society's esteemed president, the Rev. C. C. Marshall, who, in view of his great abilities, both ecclesiastical and campanological, might very fitly, in his own person, stand for both Church and State. He was very glad that Mr. Marshall was not the only clerical gentleman lurking in the midst of the evening's gathering. In addition to the Rev. B. F. Sheppard, by now well known to those present, they had a newcomer in the Rev. D. T. Sykes, a colleague in the cathedral work who was very welcome, although up to the present had not been infected by Mr. Sheppard's 'bell-ringing mania' (laughter). He was not alone in that respect, as the speaker had to confess that his only experience of campanology so far extended to the ringing of a single bell for matins and evensong at the Cathedral, in the occasional absence of the verges. In conclusion the Archdeacon thanked the company for having invited him to take the chair and to join them in doing homage to the memory of their worthy founder, Jasper Whitfield Snowdon, to whose memory he would ask them to drink the toast in the time-honoured manner by passing round to each individual present their historic loving cup and observing the toast in silence, standing (loud applause).

HONOURED MEMORIES.

The company having so honoured the society's founder, the vice-president (Mr. Frank Willey) then proposed the toast of 'The late Jasper Whitfield Snowdon and Past Officers of the Yorkshire Association.' He said: 'It is impossible in the short time at my disposal to give a resume of the many vivid memories I have of the sterling character and inspiring leadership of our great predecessor, Jasper Whitfield Snowdon, and, really, I think it is unnecessary after the splendid way in which the Rev. C. C. Marshall described his services to our Exercise in his address four years ago.'

As evidence of the way in which the passing of years is robbing the art of its old stalwarts, it is interesting to note that on Mr. Willey asking how many of the company (which included men whose names have been a household word for very many years) remembered the founder, personally, no one present, save Mr. Willey himself, could claim that honour.

The speaker continued by referring to the early struggles in the middle of the nineteenth century, during which the foundation of the present prosperity of the Exercise was laid by the founder, ably assisted by such worthies as Robert Tuke, Wm. Whitaker, Charles Jackson, George Breed, Tom and Charles Henry Hattersley, the friendship of whom he had known and enjoyed. Of them all could it with truth be said, in the words of Tennyson, 'Ne'er shall their memory fade, long live their names.' Mr. Willey's remarks (he is a great favourite with all ringers) were greeted with loud and prolonged applause.

At this juncture a well executed course of Stedman Cinques was rung by: C. Harrison (St. Marie's) 1-2, J. Thorpe (Cathedral) 3-4, S. F. Palmer (Cathedral) 5-6, S. Briggs (Rotherham) 7-8, A. Walker (St. Martin's) 9-10, R. Harrison (St. Marie's) 11-12.

The toast of 'Kindred Ringing Societies' was proposed by Mr. C. Harrison (secretary of the Sheffield District Society), who drew attention to the very cosmopolitan nature of the gathering, including, as it did, representatives from as far north as Newcastle, from London in the south, Bath and Bristol in the west. They missed especially Mr. J. Rowbotham, of the College Youths, and although he had sent his apologies for absence and wired his good wishes, they would have much rather had him there in the flesh. The speaker referred to the long-standing associations between the Yorkshire Association and the College Youths, and said they were indeed honoured that Mr. H. R. Newton had found it possible to come. In speaking of the St. Martin's Guild, and the welcome which they habitually extended to visitors, he said that the consistency with which Mr. Albert Walker attended their Yorkshire gatherings proved and showed the mutual desire of both societies to cement the friendships begun in the days of such men as Charles Henry Hattersley, Henry Johnson and John Carter. They especially welcomed the ladies that night, to share the memories of men who had made ringing what it was to-day and to join in the friendships, cemented and made anew that night (loud cheers).

DIFFICULTIES OF BROADCASTING

In reply, Mr. Albert Walker said how gratified he was to have the privilege on that further occasion. He was most struck by the wide area from which the visitors had come, which indicated their interest in the work of the Yorkshire Association. He felt that they were particularly honoured by the presence of the Ringing Master of the College Youths, and he heartily congratulated the College Youths upon a very notable achievement which would be a prominent milestone in the history of the art, namely, the broadcasting of change-ringing on Bow bells. He might say he had the honour of arranging the first broadcasting of any church bells, and was aware, as few people were, of the tremendous difficulties to be overcome before this could be satisfactorily executed, as the wireless transmission greatly accentuated even the slightest trip or other defect of any kind. Whilst congratulating the College Youths, he would also sympathise with them, as he understood that in a recent broadcasting programme they had the misfortune to have a stay break while ringing for transmission. Their several performances of Stedman Cinques for broadcast purposes were worthy of the highest appreciation. It was particularly pleasant for him to be responding on this topic in a Sheffield gathering, as both towns owed so much to each other, Birmingham being especially indebted to Sheffield for the assistance and encouragement which their members and he, personally, had received in their early struggles from such men as the brothers Hattersley. He recalled with pleasure a most enjoyable visit to Sheffield which the Birmingham ringers paid on invitation some years ago. For some time past it had been in the speaker's mind to arrange a suitable return compliment, and had it not been for the present industrial crisis this would have taken place at Duffield this year. However, he had every hope that this fraternal event would materialise during the course of the coming year (applause).

Further messages of goodwill were voiced by the representatives of two of the most distant bodies, namely, Mr. H. R. Newton, of the College Youths, and Mr. W. Payne, of the Durham and Newcastle Association.

The 'Continued Prosperity of the Yorkshire Association' was admirably proposed by the Rev. David T. Sykes, who said he was specially pleased as what might be termed an outsider to be asked to propose such a toast. He felt, nevertheless, a certain amount of kinship with the ringing art, as when 'a young man' he had been a member for a year of the Cambridge University Guild, and had also pleasant memories of many outings with ringers in the Staffordshire area. He recounted an amusing incident which occurred to a band who were invited to a village church outside Cambridge to ring a peal. The only means of entry to the ringing chamber was by a ladder leading to a trap door. However, the band climbed in, got started, and rang without incident until about twenty minutes from the end, which he was told was a very critical time. At this juncture, however, a pale young curate, who was about to say evensong in the Lady Chapel, but who feared he would be unable to make himself heard, came climbing up the ladder, raised the trap door, and in a very gentle voice said, 'My dear friends, I am just going to say evensong, and I must really request you to stop.' Without a moment's hesitation, the conductor, who was nearest the trap door, extended his foot, and, applying his whole weight, closed the trap door and rang on to a successful conclusion without a word (laughter). He (the speaker) felt that he was similarly placed to the 'pale young curate,' and inasmuch as the gathering was undoubtedly keenly looking forward to Mr. Marshall's speech, he would close the trap door upon himself and without further ado would ask the company to join him in the toast he was so delighted to propose (laughter and applause).

PRESENCE OF CLERGY WELCOMED.

The Rev. C. C. Marshall (president of the association), in proposing 'The Chairman,' said although this toast was the last on the list he felt that it was by no means the least important for two reasons, firstly, he was so often the chairman himself at similar gatherings that it was a real pleasure to sit aside for once and see the duties carried out by an abler hand. Secondly, he spoke as a ringer and not as a clergyman or a president, and as such he heartily welcomed the presence of so many different clergymen and officers of the Church. At no time had a better feeling existed in Sheffield between ringers and the Church than during the Archdeacon's stay. In the past it had been felt that the clergy had not considered them enough or been amongst them sufficiently often, but that time was now rapidly getting past, and such gatherings as that evening's did a great deal to help both parties to know each other and appreciate each other better. It might be said that the laity did not often really know the clergy, and this was possibly because there was still a tendency for the layman to shun the clergyman, as having no sympathy with many of his walks of life. Nothing could be further from the actual facts, and he hoped that as time went on this impression would be banished for ever. A concrete instance of this was the attitude of 'the man in the street' towards a cleric of great renown and striking ability, who for a long time now had been popularly known as 'the gloomy Dean.' As a matter of fact, no description of such a many-sided and talented character could be wider of the mark. Anyone who had the time and privilege to read that gentleman's book which had recently appeared would have no difficulty in refuting the suggestion conveyed by such a description, and the speaker put the gathering in laughing vein by quoting some really first-class 'howlers' from Dean Inge's book, which showed that, at all events, that gentleman certainly did not lack the saving grace of a splendid sense of humour. It was obviously quite wrong to say that a man with such a trait could be indifferent to the aims and interests of the English layman (cheers).

The Archdeacon suitably replied, and announced that ringing would be permitted on the Sunday morning between the hours of 9.30 to 10.30, and in the event of any of his 'pale-faced curates' interrupting their wita requests to stop for Matins, they were to 'chuck him out' (laughter).

During the course of the evening the Sheffield Orpheus Male Choir and the Norton Handbell Ringers rendered various acceptable items, it being a special treat to hear the choir whose fame is by no means confined to the Sheffield district. The visitors had a real sample of the Yorkshire dialect in their rendering of the famous Yorkshire folk song, 'On Ilkka Moor 'bart 'at,' which was received with tremendous applause.

About a score of the visitors stayed overnight and visited the various towers on the Sunday.

LINCOLN DIOCESAN GUILD.

FUND FOR CATHEDRAL MEMORIAL BELLS COMPLETED.

The half-yearly meeting of the Northern Branch was held at Bigby on Saturday, September 18th. The weather being ideal for the occasion, a large number availed themselves of the opportunity of visiting this village with such charming surroundings, also of inspecting its fine old church and having a ring on the nice toned peal of six bells. About 90 members and friends were present from the following places: Ashby, Barrow-in-Humber, Barton-on-Humber, Branston, Brigg, Burton-on-Stather, Gainsborough, Grimsby, Haxey, Lincoln, Retford, Scotter, Scunthorpe, and Uleoby, in addition to the local company, also Mr. J. H. Brothwell, Treeton, near Rotherham. The bells were available during the afternoon and evening, when several touches were brought round in various methods, ranging from Grand sire Doubles to Cambridge Surprise Minor.

Service, consisting of the Guild Office, was held, at which the Rector (Rev. H. T. Parry) officiated. The Rev. T. E. Muerig Davies (Vicar of Barnetby) was the preacher, and delivered a most appropriate and instructive address to the large congregation assembled. Amongst those present were the Very Rev. the Dean of Lincoln (president of the Guild), and Mrs. Fry, Dr. F. P. H. Birdwhistle, Barton-on-Humber, and Mr. E. Dawber, Gainsborough (honorary members). Mr. H. Rushby, one of the ringers at Grimsby St. Andrew's, presided at the organ. The hearty way in which the members joined in the singing added considerably to the brightness of the service, and left an impression which will be remembered for some time to come.

Subsequently, through the kind generosity of the Rev. and Mrs. H. T. Parry the company were entertained to tea in the schoolroom. It was at this juncture that the Dean of Lincoln informed the members that he had been successful in raising sufficient money to meet the balance required for the augmentation of the Cathedral bells to twelve, as a memorial to the ringers in the diocese who sacrificed their lives in the Great War. This announcement was received with applause.

At the conclusion of tea, a collection was taken for the fund and realised the sum of £4 7s. 7d.

Owing to the Dean having to leave early, Mr. F. F. Linley, on behalf of the members, extended to him and Mrs. Fry a very hearty welcome and also thanked them for their presence.

The business meeting followed, at which Mr. Linley (Northern Branch president) took the chair. Apologies for absence were announced from Canon Hicks, Messingham, Revs. H. A. C. Herbert, Broughton, R. Bond, Lincoln, and E. W. Carpenter, Kingerby. Reference was also made to the loss which the Gainsborough company had sustained through the departure of Mr. H. Morgan, owing to his removal to Leicester.

One new honorary member, Rev. Hall, Welton, was elected. It was decided to hold the next half-yearly meeting at Harleston, an amendment to visit Barton-on-Humber finding no seconder.

Votes of thanks were proposed as follows: To the Rev. and Mrs. H. T. Parry for their kind hospitality, the church authorities for the use of the bells, the Rev. T. E. Muerig Davies for his excellent sermon, Mr. H. Rushby for presiding at the organ, the ladies who so willingly assisted at the tea tables, and all others who had helped towards making the meeting such a success. These were carried and duly responded to.

A vote of thanks to the chairman concluded the business, after which further ringing took place, thus bringing to a close what will be remembered for some years to come as a red-letter day in the annals of the Northern Branch. It was with regret that the members received information of the indisposition of the Rev. H. T. Parry, but all hope and trust that he may soon be once again restored to health and strength.

SILVER WEDDING.

On Tuesday, September 14th, at Kidderminster Parish Church, 1,344 of Stedman Triples in 49 mins.: Keith Salter 1, G. Davies 2, T. J. Salter 3, E. J. Brooks 4, J. Smith 5, J. Woodberry 6, C. H. Woodberry (conductor) 7, J. Bennett 8. Composed by A. J. Pitman, and contains 108 6-7's, 48 4-6's, and 48 7-4's. Rang as a compliment to the ringer of the 3rd on his silver wedding day.

LANCASHIRE ASSOCIATION. THE JUBILEE MEETING.

The Lancashire Association assembled for its annual meeting on Saturday at Bolton, and there was special interest in the proceedings inasmuch as it was the jubilee gathering. All and sundry did their best to make it a success, but each one disclaimed that he did more than anyone else. The result, however, was highly gratifying. The eight rings of bells of Bolton and also Walkden were at the disposal of members during the afternoon, and were well used in the various methods beloved by ringers.

The real business of the day commenced at 4 p.m., when service was held at Holy Trinity Church. The association had been fortunate in securing the services of the Rev. C. C. Marshall, president of the Yorkshire Association, for their preacher, and he was assisted by Rev. G. A. Deakin, Vicar of Holy Trinity, who intoned the service, Rev. Canon Lloyd (Wigan), who read the lesson, and Rev. Canon H. J. Elsee (president of the Lancashire Association), who gave the blessing. Also in robes were the Rev. F. E. Cheetham (principal of Egerton Hall, Manchester), Rev. W. Moore Smith (Walkden), Rev. J. H. Martin (All Souls', Bolton), Rev. J. W. Willis (St. Bartholomew's, Bolton), Rev. H. W. Bland (curate of Bolton Parish), and Rev. C. A. Clements (Master of the Chester Diocesan Guild).

Tea followed in the schools, when 133 sat down, the tables being presided over by the ringers' wives and friends. After tea, handbells were brought out, and the desire for 'more' delayed the start of business. The meeting was presided over by Canon Elsee, supported by the Mayor of Bolton (Councillor Percy Knott) and officers of the association.

After the president's address, the Mayor extended to the members a welcome to Bolton in a witty speech. As he could not stay long, he was thanked for coming to the meeting.

The committee's report showed 106 new members and a balance of £9 on the year's working. It also mentioned repairs and renewals in the various belfries in the county and the loss by death of 15 members. A printed balance sheet was in the hands of those present, and, after the auditors' report, was passed.

As there was only one nomination for each office, the following were re-elected and thanked for past services: President, Rev. Canon Elsee; general secretary, Mr. W. H. Shuker; hon. treasurer, Mr. H. W. Jackson.

A ballot took place for the election of Central Council representatives, and of the seven candidates Canon Elsee, Messrs. H. Chapman, P. Crook, and W. H. Shuker were elected.

Wigan was chosen as the venue of next year's meeting.

Votes of thanks were passed to the Vicar and wardens of the various churches for the use of bells, also to the organist and choir of Holy Trinity, and, last but not least, to Mr. P. Crook, the energetic local secretary, and his band of ringers for the labour they put in to make the day one to be remembered.

As the meeting was closing, a telegram was received from the Yorkshire Association, congratulating the Lancashire Association on attaining its jubilee, and the good wishes were highly appreciated.

Among those at the meeting were Mr. W. G. Mann, one of the founders, Mr. Marsden, of Chorley, and Mr. H. W. Jackson, the treasurer, who met together at Chorley 50 years ago to put the association on its feet. To-day it has 1,066 ringers in the county.

WORCESTERSHIRE ASSOCIATION. NORTHERN BRANCH MEETING.

The Northern Branch of the Worcestershire and Districts Association held their quarterly meeting on Saturday, September 18th, at Wolverley. Ringers from all parts of the branch began to assemble at three o'clock, the towers represented being: Harborne, Halesowen, Old Hill, Brierley Hill, Wordsley, Hartlebury, Kidderminster, Kinver, Stourbridge, Wollaston and Wolverley. The bells were kept going in various methods until the service, which was conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. T. E. Wilson, who also kindly entertained the ringers to tea on the Vicarage lawn.

The business meeting followed, at which the Vicar presided. He gave the members a cordial welcome to Wolverley, and apologised for the absence of Mrs. Wilson, who was indisposed.

Mr. A. Hackett (Halesowen) was re-elected ringing master of the branch, Mr. A. J. Skelding (Stourbridge) was re-elected secretary, and Mr. J. Piggott (Smethwick) was elected as Central Council representative.

Mr. J. Price invited the branch to hold their next meeting at Old Hill, and it was unanimously agreed that the invitation be accepted.

Mr. A. E. Parsons thanked the Vicar, on behalf of the branch, for his excellent address in the church and also for entertaining the members to tea in such beautiful surroundings. He expressed the hope that Mrs. Wilson would soon be recovered from her illness, and thanked the organist and choir for their services. The Vicar, in replying, thanked the ringers for their kind wishes for Mrs. Wilson's speedy recovery, and said it gave him great pleasure to have the association at Wolverley. He knew that through the great work of the ringers' associations, belfries had become occupied by men who were real church workers. It was one of the best meetings of the branch.

The ringers again visited the tower till about 7.30, and touches of Cambridge Surprise and various other Minor methods were brought round.

A GLOUCESTERSHIRE RESTORATION.

QUAINT STORY OF A STOLEN BELL.

After a silence of 15 years, the bells of Abson, a little village hidden away in the Gloucestershire countryside, on the Bristol-Chippenham Road, have been heard again, their restoration having been carried out by Messrs. Gillett and Johnston. The task of raising the necessary sum of nearly £300 has been a long one, but patience and perseverance have rewarded the authorities, and much of the success of the scheme is due to the unflagging zeal of Mr. Frederic Lewis (the people's warden) and Mrs. Lewis, who undertook the work of raising the last £150. Only a few pounds remained to be cleared off when the restored bells were rededicated on Saturday week, amidst the rejoicings of the villagers.

The bells, a peal of six, with tenor 10½ cwt., have an interesting history. There are two pre-Reformation bells among them, and the treble, known as the 'Vicar's bell,' has passed through many vicissitudes, having been, so local legend states, taken away from the church 120 years ago, only to be recovered in a daring manner by two villagers. The bell was then hidden, it is said, in a garden for two years; afterwards it was melted down and a smaller bell made from the metal. The present overhauling included sand-blasting and tuning, each bell also being one-eighth turned, and the original cannons have been preserved in a patent head stock.

The Rural Dean (Rev. J. H. Robertson, Rector of System) performed the dedication in the presence of a crowded congregation, and gave an interesting address.

The bells were first rung by members of the former body of ringers, Messrs. H. Perry (foreman), W. Nelmes, F. Hembery, T. Mizen, T. Smith and A. Amos. They were followed by members of the Mangotsfield Guild, and during the evening the bells continued to sound their mellow notes, while the villagers made merry on the green below. The programme included a public tea in a huge neighbouring barn lent by Mr. W. Brown, while during the evening the Staple Hill Concert Party gave enjoyable items, Mr. R. Brimble also taking part.

Arrangements are now being made to organise a new body of ringers for the parish. A collection at the service in aid of the bells realised over £4 10s.

On Saturday a meeting of the Bristol Branch of the Gloucester and Bristol Association was held at Abson, and sunshine again favoured the proceedings. When the roll call was made for the Bristol party, thirty members boarded the motor, and Abson was reached in good time, everyone enjoying the drive into this remote part of the county, where for the first time in the history of the association a meeting was held. A good gathering of the clans had been asked for on this particular occasion, and the spirit was manifest when sixty gathered together from over a good radius. All the ringers were eager to try the bells, but some proved too strong for the light going little ring.

The association form of service was held in the church, which was tastefully decorated for the harvest festival, and was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. E. E. Lewis), who gave a splendid address and quoted Schiller's beautiful poem on bells, which was heard for the first time by several present.

Tea followed in the neighbouring barn, which was also decorated, and in right good fellowship the good things that had been arranged by Mr. and Mrs. F. Lewis and a band of lady helpers were much enjoyed. The large company, in addition to members of the local church, included the Vicar and the following visitors: Miss N. Williams, Messrs. F. W. Canning, T. Grant, J. G. Taylor (Bath), S. R. Roper (representing Messrs. Gillett and Johnston, Croxford), and C. D. Heginbotham (Devizes), Mr. Spurrier (vice-president) and Mrs. Spurrier, while it was also gratifying to renew friendship with old ringers from St. George's, including the redoubtable 'Charlie.'

A short business meeting followed, presided over by the chairman (Mr. J. Gould), at which Messrs. S. Riches, W. H. Payne, W. True, P. Bryant, and W. Greenland, of St. Werburgh, Bristol, were elected performing members.

Mr. F. Lesker proposed a vote of thanks to the Vicar for taking the service and giving the address, and said it was the finest address he had ever heard at a ringers' meeting. He also thanked Mr. F. Lewis for arranging the tea, the ladies for looking after their comfort, and Mr. W. Brown for the use of the barn. He concluded by congratulating Messrs. Gillett and Johnston for the excellent way they had carried out their contract.—Mr. Heginbotham seconded and, in a humorous speech, 'brought the house down' by his folk-lore stories.—The Vicar, in responding, thanked the meeting, and said he would do his best for the ringers and all concerned.

At the conclusion of the meeting, the St. Thomas' (Bristol) ringers gave a fine selection of tune playing on the handbells, which was much appreciated by all. Further ringing on the tower bells took place till after eight o'clock, and thus another happy meeting ended. The motor ride home to Bristol in the fine, autumnal weather was again enjoyed, 'Old Charlie' keeping the company alive. The next meeting (quarterly) will be held next month on the banks of the Severn, at Abbots Leigh.

CHRISTCHURCH, HANTS.—On Sunday, August 29th, for evening service, 1,285 changes of Grandsire Caters in 56 mins.: E. Hinton 1, W. Stone 2, C. W. Player (Ashford, Kent) 3, J. W. Chandler (Rugby) 4, G. Stone 5, C. Tribe (Tenterden) 6, A. Woolf 7, W. Fowler 8, G. Preston 9, B. Kerley 10.

NOTES BY THE WAY.

THE WORST PERIOD IN RINGING HISTORY.

By J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

Last week I referred to the low ebb to which ringing came in the years before the 'eighties' of last century. In country districts there was a great decline in ringing. The repeal of the Corn Laws and the consequent cheapening of wheat badly hit the agricultural interests, and caused a great change in village life. The younger and more intelligent men crowded into the towns, where there was at the time a great industrial expansion. The old sports seem to have died out, and there was little for the farm labourer to do after he had finished his day's work except to loaf about and go to the village public-house. All this affected ringing, and for the worse. The Rev. Dr. Jessopp, a widely known writer of the time, in a book he called 'Arcady,' laments the decline of the old English sport of ringing. He did not stop to inquire the reasons. If he had done so he could have found one, and a quite sufficient one, in the tower of his own church at Scarning—the bells shamefully neglected and totally unringable. And all round there were towers with the bells in similar condition, at once the cause and the result of the bad times that ringing was going through.

The period we are talking about has always seemed to me to be the very worst in the history of English bell founding and hanging. In bell hanging no improvements had been made for many years. Bell frames and fittings were the same as had been used for two centuries, the only difference was that the work was worse done. And there are few rings cast in this period which are of any great merit. There are, of course, exceptions like Southgate (1874), but there are none to compare with the fine rings of the eighteenth century by Rudhall and the Whitechapel Foundry, nor with those in the early nineteenth century by Osborn, Dobson and others, nor with the many excellent modern peals. The most ambitious rings cast in this period were those at St. Paul's Cathedral and at Worcester Cathedral. Both show the influence of Lord Grimthorpe, and neither is a good peal. The Worcester bells especially are poor and very hard in tone.

If it were possible to arrive at the number of change ringers in England in the year, say, 1870, I think we should find that it was actually less than a hundred years previous. There were, of course, many good bands, but method ringing outside one or two of the simpler standard methods had declined. In London, Grandsire Triples and Caters, Stedman Triples, Caters and Cinques, and Kent Treble Bob Major and Royal were practically all that were practised. In the East, Oxford Treble Bob and nothing but Treble Bob. In Yorkshire, Kent Treble Bob and Grandsire Triples. Elsewhere Grandsire Triples. Birmingham had a good band, and rang peals in some methods off the beaten track, such as Stedman Royal in 1876. But nowhere will you find bands anxious to push on and do something fresh in method ringing like the College Youths in Annable's time, or the old Norwich Scholars, or the Cumberlands when Shipway was ringing with them, or many other bands of the eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries. The Woolwich band, when the Bannisters were ringing there, and the Bennington band, with their three peals of Surprise—Superlative in 1855, London in 1870, and Cambridge in 1873—were almost the only companies that practised any of the higher methods. Between 1851 and 1876 no peal of Double Norwich Major was rung. Then a solitary peal in 1876, and another in the following year; and it was not till 1882 that peals in the method began to be fairly regularly rung.

During this period there were several eminent names associated with the theoretic side of ringing. Henry Johnson and Thomas Day, in Birmingham; James and Tom Lockwood, in Leeds; William Harrison, of Mottam; John Thorpe, of Ashton; and others. Apart from Johnson, most of their work was in Treble Bob, and in that method they produced a number of fine peals. In many respects the standards of composition were deplorably low. Many men got reputations as composers by the simplest and most obvious variations of other people's work. Two of the worst offenders in this respect were Jeremiah Miller, who was supposed to have composed the three Surprise peals rung at Bennington; and William Sottanstell, whose book is packed with simple variations of older peals. To be fair, it must be added that Sottanstell did compose a good many good and original peals. And there is no reason to think that he was consciously dishonest in his variations. The truth was that the general standard was low.

Now, I have painted a very depressing picture, but there are quite enough men still living whose memories go back to at least the last years of this period, and who can testify that it is a true one. It will be interesting next to see how the Exercise got into this state, and then the various steps it took once more in the direction of growth and development.

NORTHERN DIVISION'S VISIT TO AN INTERESTING CHURCH.

A meeting of the Northern Division was held on Saturday, September 18th, at Great Yeldham. This church possesses a very fine tower, dating from the end of the 15th century, and there are also many other interesting features, parts of the building dating back to 1350. The churchyard, neatly kept, with its fine trees and wealth of flowers, could not fail to impress the visitors on this lovely sunny day.

The bells, which were kept going during the afternoon and evening, are a nice little light ring of six, the 'go' of which is everything to be desired. The usual service was held in the church, when the Rector gave a short address, laying great stress upon the beauty of their form of service, and giving them a very hearty welcome to the parish.

Afterwards, the ringers sat down in the village school to a tea which had been provided by the Church Council, the Rector occupying the chair. There were 23 present, representing the following parishes: Earls Colne, Great Yeldham, Rayne, Great Henny, Sible Hedingham, Feering, Halstead, Greenstead Green, Stobbing, Braintree, Wethersfield, Black Notley.

At the business meeting, the chair was occupied by the District Master, Mr. F. Claydon, supported by Mr. C. H. Howard (Master of the association), Mr. W. Keeble, Mr. L. W. Wiffen, and the district secretary. It was decided to hold the annual meeting at Halstead, subject to the consent of the authorities.

Mr. C. H. Howard moved a resolution thanking the Rector for the use of the bells and for taking the service, also the organist for his services, and the Church Council and all those who had assisted in providing the tea.—To this the Vicar responded, saying it had been a pleasure to him to have the meeting at Great Yeldham.

After the tea, the Rector invited the company to walk round the Rectory garden, and also took them over the house—a fine old timber-built structure, part of it dating from the year 1500, and it goes without saying that this was greatly appreciated by all present.

During the day touches were rung in various methods from Bob Minor to London Surprise.

MUFFLED BELLS.

On Wednesday, September 15th, the bells of Holy Trinity Church, Darlington, were rung half-muffled as a last token of respect to the Rev. C. H. Holt, a former highly respected Vicar of the parish and later of Hornchurch, Essex. Touches were rung in the following methods: Bob Minor, Kent and Oxford Treble Bob Minor, and London Surprise Minor.

The bells were also rung half-muffled on Sunday, September 19th. For matins, 360 Bob Minor; for evensong, 720 Bob Minor: Wilfred Park 1, E. Brown 2, W. Oliver 3, W. N. Park 4, R. Park 5, G. W. Park (conductor) 6. This was the first 720 in any method by the ringer of the treble, and the first 720 inside by the ringer of the 2nd.
