A THOUGHT FOR THE NEW YEAR.

Our first words to-day must be of greeting to all our friends. To ringers everywhere we extend the most cordial good wishes for a happy and prosperous New Year. It is a common course at this period to take stock of the past and contemplate the future. So far as ringing is concerned we feel it can be said that the year which closed yesterday has seen a steady maintenance of the standard of the art, and, without being markedly noteworthy, has nevertheless continued the progress made since the war. At the same time it must be admitted that more might have been accomplished, and it is in considering this aspect that the question of the future is pressed upon us.

We can only profit from the past to the extent that we learn the lessons which it offers us, and one of these lessons is that, among ringers, there is a spirit of self-complacency which is far too prevalent, a lack of ambition and enterprise which leaves a large part of the Exercise in a semi-dormant condition. There are conspicuous exceptions, but what do we find among individuals, among bands and among associations? Everywhere there are those content to do nothing better than they have been doing for years past—the man who is content to ring tenor or treble, and not bother his head to further probe the mysteries and the interests of the science; the band which is satisfied to ring Grandsire Doubles and never aspire to Stedman; the band which will ring Treble Bob and never dream of going on to the Surprise methods; the association which offers to its members no attraction better than, perhaps, an allowance towards an occasional tea, which shows no initiative and neglects its opportunities.

Is it too much to suggest that at the opening of the new year, individually and collectively, ringers should make more serious efforts to overcome that apathy which seems so ingrained in the Exercise, and which comparatively few members seem to throw off. What we want is a spirit of greater enthusiasm, which will give a man a fresh and wider interest in what is, after all, one of the most fascinating pursuits that any person can follow; a new energy and enterprise in companies that will increase their numbers, drag them out of the rut and lead to a more general advance in the art; and among the associations a keener desire to educate and encourage their members and stiffen their interest in all affairs relating to ringing, whether it concerns merely their own belfry or those wider subjects which affect the whole Exercise. There is scope for all in such an effort, but it is to the young men that we must look for the 'drive' which must be put into it. The men of the older generation have done their part in raising the standard of ringing and the status of the ringer; it is for the youth of the Exercise not only to carry on the work which has been begun, but to expand and accelerate it, and it offers great opportunities for those who desire to see the development of the art. This is a thought which we offer to every ringer, with our greetings, at the opening of the New Year.

THE INSTRUCTION OF RINGERS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir.—In reply to Mr. Bibby, it will be necessary to illustrate my view by first of all dealing with an outside subject, viz., instrumental music. What is the embryo musician's first act? No matter the instrument, he places himself in the hands of a capable tutor, and obtains an instruction book. He has then to master the rudiments of music, and to practise scales and exercises, simple at first, gradually becoming more difficult, until in time he is able to execute difficult passages with ease. Even when he can play the works of the masters, he does not fail to continue the practise of scales. He has a big advantage over ringers, I admit, being in no way dependent upon others before he can practise, and, moreover, is able to practise passages which call for expert fingering without having to run through the piece, whereas we are dependent upon others for practice, and if a method does contain tricky places, a full course has to be rung to enable each ringer to go through them.

Some will say it can be studied at home. I agree, but home study will not give rope sight, which I consider is the equivalent of fingering on an instrument.

I am not an old hand at ringing, but a feature which has struck me very forcibly is the haphazard manner in which students in campanology are trained. Systematic instruction being the exception rather than the rule in this matter, our craft, like 'The Handbell Expert,' is old fashioned.

Appearing on the same page as Mr. Bibby's letter is an article on 'The Literature of Ringing,' by Mr. J. A. Trollope, in which he states: 'The authors of all these books had the same object in view, and that was to deal comprehensively with the whole of ringing. They tried to give a text-book which would assist ringers from changes on three bells up to London Surprise, or whatever was the most difficult method at the time.' and 'It is safe to say that no other similar book will again be published. Ringing has got too complex, and has expanded too much to be dealt with in a book that one can slip into one's pocket.' If this is so, then it is time the Central Council got to work and arranged a suitable syllabus of training. This would cut out that groping in the dark which entails at many towers where systematic instruction is not the order, and I firmly believe it is the absence of a proper system of learning which accounts for many bands being backward. They are so from circumstances and not from choice. Therefore, I contend that to a competent Kent Treble Bob Major band, desiring to make progress, Minor is the best stepping-stone, because many Kent ringers rely on coursing. If their course bell goes wrong, so do they, nine times out of ten; the order of passing treble is not thought of. How many Kent ringers can carry on with tenors parted? Not many, I think. I have seen many stumble in Oxford for this reason. Often with mixed bands at meetings, part the tenors and the ringing gets broken up. Why? There is too much reliance on the coursing system, and it is this which prevents many from mastering difficult methods. They cannot course the bell they turned from behind straight down to lead, and we are all at sea. To permit of tricky work being accomplished, good rope sight is essential; it is only acquired by constant practice and by easy stages; the easy stages being found in Minor. All Major methods have certain characteristics, which will be found in Minor, and not always in a method bearing the same name. On six bells there are not so many ropes to watch, a circumstance which enables the student to acquire the necessary rope sight to permit of tricky dodging or place making to be successfully accomplished. The work upon which special stress would be laid will, perhaps, appear in a different place in the extensions to the higher numbers, but, nevertheless, it is there.

Anyone who has gone carefully through the series dealt with by me will see that from a simple beginning I have gone by easy stages to more difficult methods, and, amongst them, Major method ringers will recognise work which is found in eight-bell methods. Does it not then stand to reason, once a certain piece of work has been mastered on six, no matter where it appears on eight, there is a much better chance of its successful accomplishment in a shorter time than would otherwise have been the case?

How often does a plain course break down, just because one man cannot do a certain piece of work, and frequently many attempts have to be made before a touch can be brought round. Attendant with this is the loss of valuable time and often temper, which timely advice would have saved. Again, an eight-bell band meets one short; rather than ring six the practice is declared off, whereas, if they attempted something out of the ordinary on six, some benefit would be derived. Somehow or other the mere mention of Minor to some ringers on the higher numbers is like showing a red rag to a bull. In fairness, I ask them to give a little thought to the question, study the methods, and look upon the Minor variations as the musician looks upon scales and exercises; the result, I feel sure, will be beneficial.

Space will not allow me showing the similarity between a number of methods; but, in conclusion, I should like to ask Mr. Bibby a question.

Of two Kent Treble Bob Minor ringers, one has rung nothing more difficult, the other is conversant with Cambridge and London Surprise Minor. Which of the two would be the quicker to ring the Major extensions of these methods, and why? Yours, JOHN P. FIDLER.

PRESTBURY'S OLDEST RINGER.

SUDDEN DEATH OF MR. THOMAS COMPTON.

We regret to record the death of Mr. Thomas Compton, of Prestbury, Glos., who passed away suddenly on Monday, Dec. 21st. Deceased left home at 7.30 a.m., apparently in his usual health, to go to his work at the Cheltenham Cemetery, where he was employed as a gardener. At 8.45 a.m., while sitting in the messroom, he suddenly fell forward, and expired immediately. He was picked up by a fellow ringer (Mr. J. Harrison), who was in the room at the time.

Deceased was 73 years of age, but carried his years well. He was a member of the Parochial Church Council, and a sidesman at the parish church. He had been a ringer for about 50 years, and was rarely absent from chiming or ringing. On the evening before his death he rang the treble through 840 Grandsire Triples for evensong.

The funeral took place at Prestbury Church on Christmas Eve, and the number of people present and many floral tributes testified to the respect and esteem in which deceased was held.

After the funeral, a touch of 504 Grandsire Triples was rung with the bells muffled: T. Pendry 1, W. Rose 2, H. Newman 3, G. Walters 4, R. Court 5, W. Dyer 6, J. Causon (conductor) 7, J. Harrison 8. Afterwards, the whole pull and stand was rung 73 times, W. Hale replacing W. Dyer.

A HALF-PEAL.

At Stokesay, Shropshire, on December 26th, at St. John's Church, a half-peal of Grandsire Doubles (2,520 changes) was rung in 1 hour 25 mins. by T. W. Nash 1, J. G. Nash 2, W. R. Nash 3, W. Wainwright 4, J. P. Hyett (conductor) 5, A. C. Nason 6.

'NOISY BELLS AND FAST RINGING.'To the Editor.*

Dear Sir,—In reply to Mr. Bibby's query, I would like to explain that my remarks on the subject of 'fast ringing and noisy bells' were made for the purpose of creating a discussion at our local branch meeting on this subject, which I think is one that ought to obtain more consideration from ringers than it generally does.

I stated that, along with 'good striking,' these were the things that concerned the outside public, and that we ringers ought to give them our earnest consideration if we wish to reduce complaints to a minimum.

I believe that the public as a whole greatly appreciate the ringing of church bells when they are rung well, and that the majority of complaints are made either when the bells are noisy or when strict attention is not being paid to the striking. I think one of the greatest causes of bad striking is by ringing too fast, especially on bells which are tuned and hung on modern principles. The tones of modern bells require a longer period in which to get away than do the bells which are tuned on the old system, and I find that they are much more pleasant to the ear if they are given plenty of time.

It is impossible to give a stated time in which to ring a peal, as requested by Mr. Bibby. There is a 'right speed' for every ring of bells, and most ringers of experience can soon tell, when they are ringing together, if they have found it or not.

One ring of bells may take ten to fifteen minutes longer to ring a peal at the 'right speed' than another ring of the same weight, though they may both be running well. To give an example of what I mean: We, at Hyde, have a modern peal of eight by Taylor (1920), with a tenor just over 18 cwt. To ring a peal of Major at what I consider the right speed—that is, when the striking is at its best, and we can strike them—on these bells, requires three hours and twelve to fourteen minutes. Our old bells had a tenor of 15½ cwt., and we used to ring our best Major peals in 2 hrs. 58 mins. to 3 hrs. Now the additional 2½-cwt. in the tenor has not made all that difference.

The bell founders have realised that these modern tuned bells require to be rung slower than the old ones, and they have helped the ringers by putting larger wheels on them. I do not say that this is the only reason for fitting larger wheels, but it compels the ringers to take more time if they wish to ring them to the best advantage. Now all ringers do not seem to have realised this, and still think they ought to be able to push them along at the speed of the old ones.

To me there is no special credit in ringing the 'quickest' peal on the bells. What we ought to strive for is to ring the 'best' peal on the bells.

My experience has been that the quickest peals in which I have rung have certainly not been the best. Nor is this the case with peal ringing only, but it applies equally to service ringing, or any other ringing for that matter.

The question of 'noisy bells' is one that has been discussed many times before, and we ringers ought to do our best to get church authorities to tackle the problem where it is necessary. It is not a big or costly job to brick or board up the louvres, and the cost is not to be compared with the improvement achieved.

I advise ringers to discuss these matters at their meetings, as it is really surprising the amount of interest that is shown when once the subject is opened.

Perhaps others will express their views through 'The Ringing World' for the benefit of us all.—Yours faithfully,

T. WILDE.

STONY STRATFORD RINGER'S DEATH.

The Christmas Eve ringing at St. Giles', Stony Stratford, has been touched with sadness by the unexpected death of Mr. Alfred Clarke, one of the oldest ringers, who died on the 21st, after a few days' illness. At the funeral, on Saturday last, four of the ringers acted as bearers, and afterwards muffled touches were rung on the bells. Deceased had been a member of the North Bucks branch of the Oxford Guild since it started.

A DATE TOUCH.

At Ellesmere, Shropshire, on Monday evening, December 14th, a date touch of Stedman Triples (1,925 changes), composed by Louis Head, in 1 hour and 17 mins.: R. Biggs 1, G. H. Edwards 2, A. Allen 3, A. Haynes 4, T. Butler, sen., 5, W. S. Higginson 6, T. R. Butler (conductor) 7, W. Higginson, sen., 8. The above band rang a date touch on March 24th last, which was afterwards found to be false.

FARNHAM, SURREY.—On Christmas Day, for morning service, at St. Andrew's Church, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples (1,260 changes), in 49 mins.: H. Prior 1, J. Read 2, H. Kemp 3, S. Meadows 4, R. Hasted, jun. (Havant), 5, T. Upshall 6, R. Hasted, sen. (conductor), 7, A. E. King 8.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

Two popular association secretaries, each of whom has done remarkable work in the encouragement of change ringing, last week reached a memorable milestone in their peal records: Mr. Joseph T. Dyke, at Bristol; and Mr. John W. Jones, at Cardiff, each rang their 250th peal.

The long peal of Cambridge Surprise Maximus at Bow was rung on Saturday, December 19th, and not on December 12th, as published in record of the performance in our last issue.

At Kington Magna Church, on Christmas Day, a handbell part was introduced in the musical accompaniment of the Magnificat, and later in the service three carols were played on handbells by a group of boys at the chancel steps.

The following extract from Pepys' diary, describing a visit to Philip Norton, may be of interest to members of the Bath and Wells Association: 'Here is a very fine ring of six bells, and they mightly tuneable.'

We should be glad to receive from ringers who rang 40 peals and upwards during 1925, the number of peals both rung and conducted in the year, and the number of towers in which the peals were rung.

Exactly a hundred and fifty years ago to-day William Doubleday Crofts, the Nottingham lawyer, and one of the greatest ringers of his day, conducted a peal of 8,046 Grandsire Caters at St. Mary's, Nottingham, the peal occupying 5 hours 48 minutes.

James Barham, that famous old ringer, of Leeds Kent, rang his one hundredth peal on New Year's Day, 1793. At that time a hundred peals was a remarkable record, and Barham takes an honoured place among the ringers of the past. It was noteworthy that the total ages of the band who took part in Barham's 'century' peal was 582.

A board in the belfry of St. George's Church, Gravesend, records a peal of Grandsire Triples rung there on January 1st, 1786—140 years ago—by members of the Society of Union Youths of Gravesend. St. George's had been burnt down in 1727, and was rebuilt and eight bells installed in the tower in 1738. The bells were by 'Pheips and Applebee,' of the Whitechapel Foundry, but Applebee was probably only the bell hanger.

The first peal of Halifax Treble Bob was rung on January 1st, 1666, at Huddersfield, Sottanstill being the composer.

A peal of 5,200 changes of Treble Bob Royal, 'being the full extent of nine courses and the first peal in that method rung by ten men only,' was accomplished in 4 hours 7 mins. at St. Mary-le-Bow Church by the Cumberland Youths on January 3rd, 1803. James Matton was the name of the tenor ringer.

On January 4th, 1784, a peal of 14,480 Bob Major was rung in 8 hours 24 mins. at St. Paul's, Oldham. As far as we are aware there have only been three longer lengths rung in this method, viz., 15,120 at West Ham in 1737, and at Oldham in 1807, and 15,369 at Aston in 1793.

Gloucester was the second church in England to have a peal of twelve bells, and the first peal on them was rung by the College Youths on January 7th, 1767. This was a peal of Grandsire Cinques.

DEATH OF MR. GEORGE BOLLAND.

At the moment of going to press, we learn with deep regret of the death of Mr. George B. Bolland, the veteran Yorkshire ringer, of Tong. The interment will take place on Friday at Tong Church, at 2.30 p.m.

BRIGHTENING UP THE RINGERS.

A LANCASHIRE LAD'S SUGGESTIONS FOR GAYER APPAREL.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—Ah were greatly interested in that leading article o' thine yester week about brighter ringing. Now ah thinks ma'sel tha knows that it's ringers that ought to be breetened oop a bit. Ah reckon that they ought to wear livelier costumes when on a ringing 'do.' Now there's Henry the Eighth; ah think he should wear a frog shooting suit, well forard in front and back beheend in the Tit-tum position, permanent turnups. And then there's the Knight, he should ride a charger with the famous gingham beheend on a trailer. 'O' lor, wave the flag,' our old friend, the Duke of Grinarch, would look o'reet in a kilt, and the Squire of De Bent could do a gallop in Oxford bags. And now us cooms to professor. Tha knows Professor, doesn't tha? Imagine him out Box wearing a Shepherd's smock and spurs. 'What's the dia?' Ye goode docter would parade in gown and mortar board with leggings, he 'Is a membah.' Think on Bill a short skirt! Ah were nearly forgetting Samel, he looks after a swan thou knows. Ah thinks that tha could fill a jazz bathing costume o'reet with collar and t'e to match. Eh, lad, tha would push 9th along then, wouldn't thou? And now us cooms to Uncle Tom, of Seat-de-Monkston. Ah thinks tha'd shape o'reet in a crinoline skirt with a high-heeled radiator. Ah quite think ah shall get a lot of glory! For these suggestions anyway ah shanna exologieze for 'em.—Thine much,

ORIGINS OF CHANGE RINGING.

OUR FUTURE HISTORIAN.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—Our future historian, who has been the subject of some speculation with us of late, will scan your recent columns with much interest. The Exercise is indeed much indebted to Mr. Trollope, and now to the Rev. H. Drake for again directing our attention to this fascinating but neglected side of our art. It is all to the good for us to know that our obscure but early days go back into mediæval times. These have been called the 'Dark Ages,' partly because so little was known of them. They have left us, however, a legacy from the active religious life of times which were remarkable for the Crusades, architecture and religious literature. Had this latter been devoted to the great facts of everyday life, how much happier the lot of our historians.

The written word, whether full or scanty, has, however, three useful handmaidens, viz.: Tradition, legend and shards. Research has, during the past 50 years, proved them to be remarkably true, and their equivalents may help us in the present case also. Our historian, therefore, must have a wide angle of view, a nice and careful sense of selection, and a spirit of detachment. These attributes will depend upon his imagination, training and temperament. Thus, no two historians are quite the same, and a work by Mr. Trollope would differ greatly from one by the Rev. H. Drake, though both were of equal value. Some of us would be drawn to the one, some the other. We have others from whom such a work might worthily come, as, for instance, the Rev. C. D. P. Davies. There is, however, much to be done in sectional parts, which are of the greatest value, ere the Master comes to weld all into one comprehensive work. It may be a secret, but a Midland ringer informs me that he is already engaged upon this very history. I observe that he has a flowing pen, but whether he has the leisure, material and funds, I know not.

I take up my pen, away on holiday and far from my books, to ask our future historian, whoever he may be, to lend a kindly ear to the possibility of a remoter antiquity for our art, Stedman (with all his glamour) to the contrary notwithstanding. I would suggest firstly (and with due humility) that it is difficult to accept Stedman as being the first to devote himself to our literature. He may have thrown aside his forerunners, even as he himself was so soon after pushed aside. Also he springs like Minerva, full, finished and complete, as Mr. Trollope justly remarks. He succeeded that brilliant, self-confident Elizabethan period; a new age, and one replete with writings upon all subjects of interest, and why not ringing? Probably two-thirds of their books and nearly the whole of their MSS. have disappeared since Stedman's period, though he, especially as a printer, knew of many such works. Whatever facilities he may have on the one side enjoyed, he was handicapped by the fact that news travelled very slowly, and each part of the country was isolated; thus, whilst say East Anglia had developed change ringing, Wessex might be placidly pursuing the old way.

Secondly, wherever located, our early change ringers were probably so enthusiastic that, having climbed the Achievement, they promptly kicked away the ladder by which it was reached. The lower rungs were 'call changes,' but the upper were a mixed period or transition, which would have produced such hybrids as 'Christmas, '25,' etc. These, of course, would be duly held in scorn, and we can hear the men of Cromwell's time saying, 'We belong to the Modern, yea! the Scientific School, Away with the "Stoney," Give us To-day, and "the 50 or 60 years last past," and the rest may go hang.' After all, to them the earlier Tudor times were misty, remote and irreligious. They were indeed sadly separated from the time of Morris dances and Maypoles, and from that 'Merrie England,' which in Stedman's time had come through a Scottish wedding, followed by rebellion, puritanism, two plagues, and other ills, its very capital only escaping Van Tromp's guns, to be itself laid in ashes in the Great Fire a year or two later. Small wonder if they forgot!

Thirdly (and more tangibly) our historian will find that 'Funeral Peals' were rung in early Tudor times (vide Ellacombe). Unfortunately we do not know what they meant by 'peal,' there being no Dr. Johnson then to define it for us. But I observe that in the 18th century the word was used for a '720,' and these 'peals' may quite well have been a fixed number of incipient changes, commencing and returning to 'rounds,' especially if we remember that 'call changes' or certainly ringing had then been in existence for some two hundred years (for so our old oak heavily braced and framed cages tell us). More definite, of course, is the reference to Gooch, which the Rev. Drake published on his descriptive cards, and produced to the Central Council at the last London meeting. It is not stated whether the figures are in 'black-letter,' but simple changes in these characters are to be found elsewhere in old towers and belfries, as at Moulton, and go back into the 16th century.

Returning to the 'handmaidens,' our historian will puzzle over our tradition that in 1603 the 'Scholars were founded to practice and promote, not to invent, change ringing,' the Exercise being then itself so far advanced. The word 'Exercise' itself, like 'bob' and 'dodge,' may have come down from Maypole and Morris dances, but further back and more particularly puzzling are such words as 'Doubles, Triples, Caters, Cinques,' and their pronunciation, too, will give him cause for thought. It would almost appear that in Norman French times, and by those old semi-clerical Guilds, something was done to make 'call changes' more scientific and orderly. Did they also invent a something which they named after a noble patron 'Grande-Sieur'? Is our art older, very much older than we think?

I have asked the above questions, but it is unfortunately impossible to answer them, and they remain quaint and arresting. It is a big jump, however, back to Stedman's time, and much must have happened, and his '50 or 60 years last past' sounds a trifle vague when we use it again.

But returning to Tudor times, we may yet have the luck to dig up some MSS. in a gentleman's park, or find them folded away in an old library, which when examined would throw a light on this very subject. The period is not so remote that we must abandon hope. I have often felt that in London at the end of the 15th century, say, in the time of the famous Whittington, a time of keen citizenship, a settling into peace after a war, an awakening of the English School of Music, a dying but brilliant native art just being confronted with the Renaissance—that at such a time might we find the foundations of 'change ringing,' I mean apart from 'call changes'; and that thus laid they slowly permeated the rest of England.

I will conclude with the testimony of two visitors to London, probably about the time of Henry VIII., viz., the Scottish poet Dunbar and a German traveller. The former sings of the 'sweete belles of London,' and the latter tells something about our foregoers' habit of shutting themselves up in a tower and ringing great bells 'for hours together.' I note that we their descendants still shut ourselves up in a tower for hours at a time to ring something very interesting. What was it which they found so very interesting? Was it 'Pre-Stedman-Major' or 'Proto-Grandseur-Bobbe'?—Yours faithfully,

E. ALEX. YOUNG.

'METHOD SPLICING.'

Published to-day, the new book on 'Method Splicing' will be a valuable addition to every ringer's library, for it deals in the fullest manner with the newest phase of the ringers' art. It is not confined in its treatment to the difficult Treble Bob methods, but those who can ring only plain methods will find that they will be able, after a study of the pages of 'Method Splicing,' to join up a variety of methods into true 720's. But to the man with the ability to ring Treble Bob, an entirely new field is opened up, and he will find fully explained the means by which he can include anything from two to ten methods in a single 720, and he will have before him the figures which will enable him to go into the tower and put it into practice. The 48 pages which the book contains are packed with instructive matter and useful compositions by Mr. Joseph Parker, Mr. E. H. Lewis and Mr. H. W. Wilde.

The price is only 1s. 3d., post free, and orders, with remittance, should be sent to 'The Ringing World' Office, Woking.

CHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD.

CREWE BRANCH AT ALSAGER.

INTEREST OF MR. ERNEST CRAIG, M.P.

The Crewe and District Branch of the Chester Diocesan Guild held a most enjoyable meeting at Alsager on Saturday, when towers represented were Crewe, Nantwich, Lawton, Barthomley, Ightfield, Norton-in-Hales, Sandbach, Davenham, and the local tower. During the day the company rang touches of Plain Bob, Stedman Triples, Grand-sire Triples and Kent Treble Bob Major. An interested visitor was Mr. Ernest Craig, the popular Member of Parliament for the Crewe Division.

Tea was kindly provided by the church authorities, and the Vicar (the Rev. A. L. Moir) extended a hearty welcome to the ringers, and invited them to service.

Mr. R. D. Langford, branch secretary, referred to the excellent attendance, over 40 members being present, and said it was always a pleasure for them to visit Alsager.

Mr. Ernest Craig, M.P., who had a hearty reception, expressed his pleasure at the invitation extended to him to attend, and said he hoped to come to many more meetings. He invited the members to visit Alsager in the summer time, so that he would have the opportunity of entertaining them at Milton House. With regard to bell ringing, Mr. Craig said he had never pulled a rope in England in his life. The only bell he had pulled was one in Mexico, which was brought across the plains and deserts by mules and donkeys from Spain.

Mr. Craig was unanimously elected an honorary member of the Guild.

Votes of thanks were accorded the church authorities for providing tea, to the ladies for their services, and to the Vicar for the use of the bells.

THE CRITICISMS OF 'CRITICUS.'

GREETINGS AND GOOD RESOLUTIONS.

The first of January, Anno Domini, One thousand nine hundred and twenty-six. My salutations to the members of the Exercise! Health and good fortune attend you, merry gentlemen—and ladies! May your shadows never grow less, and your pockets never emptier—in my case it would be impossible, for I am already worn to a 'rasher' in the endless endeavour to 'save my bacon.' What with the Christmas bills and all those other little reminders of the presence of quarter day, which just now take the edge off the romance of Yuletide, I can see a more than usually busy time ahead in dodging the local tradesmen, and eluding the broker's man. But away with dull care—this is not the occasion or the place (as politicians and leader writers are wont to say when faced with a poser which they are not able to answer) to discuss my empty pockets with my readers: As a matter of fact, it was only a passing thought, which would persist in intruding itself, when I settled down to pen these lines of greeting. What I really intended to add was: More power to your elbows, and more peals in your books. I may as well pass on to you the greeting which I received from a humorous (?) friend—humorous because he knows I am a teetotaler, or, well, nearly so:

Beer by the bushel; peals by the peck;
May you be in 'em, up to the neck.

Now, I do know some people who would have no greater desire than this, even if they only went in head first, but I am a moderate man, and a little at a time is enough for me. However, I appreciate the spirit.

No doubt, like me, you will all have made a host of good resolutions for the new year. For instance, you will never, never again (for have you not resolved it?) be late for ringing—service, practice or peals; you will never be the 'one short,' so that the other seven, or however many it may be, will have to waste their time, or start for something less than was intended. What a sermon one could preach on this subject alone! But the worst of it is, habitual offenders do not seem to think any the worse of themselves for such delinquencies, and, therefore, a sermon would leave them unmoved, so the 'appropriate address' is 'off,' as far as I am concerned. But we all know of regular late-comers, who delay the start for five or ten minutes, or a quarter of an hour, and the pity is they cannot sometimes be paid out in their own coin. Then again, it being January 1st, we will all determine to pay our association subscriptions promptly, and so save our secretaries lots of trouble and our associations the prospect of a deficit in the next balance sheet. What a lot of ringers put off paying these subs. to the last minute—or altogether! It ought to be just as easy to pay in January as in the following December, and doubtless the good resolutions of to-day will include the determination to reform among all the conscience-smitten. The only thing I would advise is that those who are inclined to indulge in deferred payments should strike while the iron's hot, and pop round to the post office to-day, get a postal order, and send it along to their secretary.

And while there, why not send the one and threepence that will ensure a copy of this new book on 'Method Splicing?' It is not often a new book makes its appearance in the ringing Exercise, but in this new publication we are promised something which has never been dealt with in print before. When Jasper Snowden published his 'Rope Sight'—the best book a beginner in ringing ever had—he dealt with something which other writers had for a couple of centuries, more or less, included in their works, although he dealt with it in a better manner. But my fingers are itching to get at the pages of 'Method Splicing,' because here is a subject whose ramifications have never before been gathered up into a volume. Everybody who read that part of the work which Mr. Fidler wrote in 'The Ringing World' must have had his mind illumined by the lucid explanations of how these involved extents of Minor can be rung—not by supermen, but by common or garden ringers like you and me. Now we are to have in addition something further to elucidate the subject from the Wizard of the North. The mere fact that Mr. Joseph Parker is explaining the theory of splicing will make the book at once a work of authority and value. But there is another reason why I shall appreciate having all this information in the form of a book. In our domestic establishment is a lady with a mania for 'clearing up,' and, when my back is turned, she usually clears up so thoroughly that I can never find anything afterwards. And that is what happens to my copies of 'The Ringing World.' I have no doubt, too, that it happens in many another household, and the result is that when one wants to find anything in particular, 'The Ringing World' has disappeared. Now those articles by Mr. Fidler, spread over several weeks, were beginning to worry me. I had kept them for future reference, but I never knew the moment they might disappear, never to return. Therefore, I welcomed the announcement that they were to be reprinted, for I am privileged to enjoy the use of one shelf in my own bookcase for ringing 'books'—loose papers dare not make their appearance there. Now, I'll warrant there are many other ringers in like case—I don't mean that they are in a bookcase—and they will be glad to see those 'Hints' tucked away in a handy little volume where they know they will be safe for all time—or until the next move, or fire. Yes, it was a good idea to reprint those 'Hints,' and I should imagine ringers will be falling over themselves to get a copy—with an instructive explanation thrown in on the theory side of the subject by Mr. Parker.

Is it a fact that the old-fashioned practice of parties of handbell ringers going out to play at the 'big houses' at Christmas is dying out in our villages? There was a time when, almost everywhere, the handbell ringers were as much a feature of Christmas as the carol singers, but of late years they seem almost to have disappeared—and the waits seem to be following them. I am glad to say, however, that old customs die hard down our way, and some of the 'old 'uns' from our tower still pay a round of Christmas visits with the handbells—and they seem to be welcome wherever they go. I couldn't join them this year, being unable to get my boots on for chilblains—my wife calls it gout—but old Charlie took my place—with the collecting book. They started out on Christmas Eve, when it was real old-fashioned Christmassy weather, with snow, and mince-pies, and mulled ale, and such like. But old Charlie isn't the man he was. Whether it was the snow, or the mince-pies, or the mulled ale, or all of them combined, I don't know, but late in the evening, when making their way from one house to another, his mates missed him. They went back over their tracks and searched, and found Charlie nice and comfy in a snow drift. They might not have troubled so much if Charlie had not been the cashier.

There seems to have been a capital race going on to see who could ring most peals in 1925, and it will be interesting to know who finished first. I like to see the old 'uns setting the pace for the youngsters, even if they are out-stayed in the end. It looks as if there were a good many in the running for honours, and by honours I mean those who can average one a week for the year. James, of England, ought to be well to the fore, and the evergreen Isaac G. is another of the youngsters who keep up the pace. There are some men of Kent, and others in the Midlands and North, who have made some very good going, but if you want really to go in for ringing, take my tip and join the Marines. Judging by the Sergeant-Major's record this year, ringing must form one of the methods of training in that branch of the services. There used to be a slogan, 'Join the Flying Corps and see the world.' It might, perhaps, be adapted for the R.M.'s, and read as follows: 'Join the Royal Marines and see the ringing world.'

LLANDAFF & MONMOUTH DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

A SUCCESSFUL YEAR.

The annual meeting of the Llandaff and Monmouth Diocesan Association was held at the Pro-Cathedral, Newport, on Saturday, and was very well attended. The bells of both churches, St. Woolos' and All Saints', were kept busy during the day. At 4 o'clock a shortened form of service was conducted by the Vicar of St. Woolos' (the Ven. Archdeacon D. H. Griffiths), who, some thirty years ago, was the hon. secretary of the association. An excellent address was given. Following the service, tea was partaken of in the Waters Lane Mission Room. It had been very generously provided by the Archdeacon, who presided, and also took the chair at the subsequent business meeting.

Mr. A. J. Pitman, of Aberavon, was unanimously elected Master for the ensuing year, and the hon. secretary and both the auditors were re-elected.

Restorations and augmentations done during the year were reported on by the hon. secretary, the two most notable being at Abergavenny, where the old bells have been rehung with new fittings, etc., and at Usk, where the old six have been broken up and replaced with a new ring of eight, which at the moment are awaiting dedication. Progress was reported in regard to change ringing at Newton, Chepstow and Penmark. The year proved a good one, both in the number of peals and the variety of methods rung. The places for the next meetings were selected as follows: The annual to be held at Llandaff, the next quarterly at Merthyr and Blaenavon respectively.

Many new members were elected, including the whole band at Newton Nottage, where good progress is reported, thanks to Mr. A. J. Talbot, who is now living there.

The new Master, Mr. A. J. Pitman, was congratulated on his successful efforts in composition and conducting during the year, including his peals of spliced methods.

The question of a new certificate was discussed, and a committee formed to arrange designs and report at the next meeting.

Mr. Dawe read a statement in regard to the collection made in aid of the widow of the late Mr. W. Biss, which resulted in a sum of twenty pounds being handed over to her.

The meeting proved a most pleasant one, and can truly be described as a huge success. The Archdeacon was in his best form, causing much hilarity with his humorous remarks, and all went home with the recollection of a happy afternoon and evening.

COALBROOKDALE BELLS.*RESTORATION AND AUGMENTATION SCHEME COMPLETED.

All who know Coalbrookdale and its bells will be very interested to learn that the old eight have now been completely restored and augmented to ten, and are now erected in the tower. The work has been carried out by the founders of the old eight, Messrs. Mears and Stainbank. No effort has been spared on their part to make everything in connection with the scheme of the very best. A new floor has been fixed about a foot below the very massive platform of steel girders, 16 x 6 and 10 x 6. The floor has a special hatchway leading from the clock room direct into the pit of the eighth bell, there being ample room allowed to get about underneath the bells when down. There is also a very accessible way from the tower steps. The steel girders are firmly grouted into the four walls in twelve places, being cross tied and interlaced in every possible place, to make the whole of the foundation work quite rigid. The new cast-iron frame is, to all who have seen it erected in London and in the tower, an engineering feat, being a picture of neatness and strength. The bells, except the fourth, are arranged round the four sides of the tower, the fourth being cleverly housed between the tenor and fifth. The tenor has been specially placed on the north-east side of the tower. All the bells are beautiful in tone, and in harmony with each other. The improved effect of the hum tones, after the bells have struck, is most pronounced.

Locally, everybody has been interested in the scheme, and most anxious to know if the tone of the bells would be less mellow with the steel girders, cast-iron frame and headstocks, than with the old wood frame, etc. Several people living near the church, including two who are ill, have answered this most important question by saying what a delightful improvement there is, with none of the old harsh noise they had got so very tired of, especially when peals were being rung. Thick glass 3ft. high, the top of which is above the tenor, when raised, has been placed in all the windows. This also has made a great improvement in the sound in the immediate vicinity of the church, while it will also safeguard the bells from storms, and yet allow plenty of room for the sound to escape. The 'go' and evenness of clapping is perfect. The tenor was always very troublesome to raise the right way. She is now quite as easy as the treble. The gudgeons and double pulleys have all got ball bearings, and, together with the clapper spindles, are fitted with patent grease cups. The bells have been tuned on the firm's three-toned principle. This is quite distinct and accurate in each bell.

Of the ten bells, four are new. The two new trebles have been added as a memorial to Lieut. Maurice A. A. Darley. The third bell of the old eight was not correct in the hum tone, and the founders very generously recast this bell at their own expense. The former fifth was found to have an old crack in the crown, and this bell Messrs. Mears and Stainbank very kindly offered to recast at half-price rather than return a faulty bell.

The inscriptions on the bells are as follows:—

Treble.—Mears and Stainbank, bell founders, London, 1925. These two treble bells were erected here by public subscription, in grateful remembrance of Lieut. Maurice A. A. Darley, Grenadier Guards, who gave his life for King and Country in the Great War, 1914—1918.

2.—Mears and Stainbank, bell founders, London, 1925.

Who stands if freedom fall?
Who dies if England live?

5.—C. and G. Mears, bell founders, London, 1852. Recast Mears and Stainbank, bell founders, London, 1925.

7.—C. and G. Mears, bell founders, London, 1852. Recast Mears and Stainbank, bell founders, London, 1925. Alfred E. W. Darley, J.P., D.L., Patron, Rev. Preb. C. B. Crowe, M.A., R.D., Vicar. Herbert Hughes, Frederick Johnson, Churchwardens.

3, 4, 6, 8, 9 and tenor.—C. and G. Mears, bell founders, London, 1852.

The four new bells each have cast on them the firm's foundry mark of three small bells, which has descended through the generations from the days of Robert Mot, and which now bears the initials A. A. H. and R. A. H.

From the double rope pulleys down through the clock room the ropes are guided in specially constructed troughs, one side of those fitted to the heavy bells being left open to allow the sound to escape into the clock room. This is most effective in the ringing chamber, in which the ropes are a very nice circle. The clock room floor, which also forms the ceiling of the ringing chamber, has a 10-inch double floor which is tightly packed with sawdust.

Mr. William A. Radclyffe, the firm's bell hanger, very successfully completed his work on Friday evening, December 18th. The Vicar invited him to attend two Parochial Council meetings. At one of these Mr. Radclyffe explained that his firm had given him orders to have the whole of the bells rung and tested by the Coalbrookdale ringers; also to invite members of the various committees and the local engineers and fitters to inspect the work. It should be mentioned here that locally the work has been watched most carefully, and engineering experts have regularly visited the tower, and all agree that it is an exhibition job.

The trial of the bells took place on Friday evening, December 18th. The Rev. Preb. C. B. Crowe, Vicar, visited the ringing chamber at 7 p.m., and opened the ceremony with the usual Guild prayers, and said how very pleased he was to see all his local ringers back, after nearly a year's vacation with no bells. The back four bells were then raised singly, and the front six next raised in peal. These form a very fine light six, most necessary and handy for teaching, and desirable for six-bell ringers attending meetings. Next some very good rounds were rung on the ten. After settling down to new ropes, etc., they soon began to roll off in very regular 20's, with very distinct handstroke leads. Queen's, Whitlington and Tittums were next tapped off, and these at once proved the grandeur of a correctly tuned peal of ten. Following this, two courses of Grandire Caters ran nicely into rounds; then Stedman and Grandire Triples, Plain Bob and Kent Major on the back eight were rung, and afterwards the front six and back six were separately brought into action. A pretty run down of the ten brought to a close a happy gathering.

Before leaving, the Vicar thanked Mr. Radclyffe for the thoroughness with which he had carried out the whole of his work, and said he intended to write to the firm expressing his committee's thanks and gratitude for the wonderful way he had completed everything, even to the smallest detail. Pointing to the ringing chamber ceiling, he remarked he could not even see where the old rope hoics used to be.

Mr. Radclyffe thanked him for his very kind remarks, also for the hearty welcome given to him by all he had met during his stay in Coalbrookdale. He said he would always look back with pleasure to the restoration and augmentation of Coalbrookdale bells.

A complete chiming apparatus for ten bells of the firm's own special design has been installed. The clock is a very good one, having been made by Messrs. Joyce, Whitechurch, Shropshire, 1852. The whole of the work to this, which includes the fixing of the correct Westminster quarters on the bells, 1, 2, 3, 6, with the hour striking on the tenor, has been placed in the hands of the makers of the clock by the bell founders.

A further £100 is required so that the Bishop of Hereford can be invited to come and dedicate the new Darley memorial bells. To allow the whole scheme to be opened free of debt, two persons have each offered to loan £100 free of interest, so that the bells may be opened at the earliest possible date. The committee are very grateful for these most generous offers, but feel there are many who have happy memories of Coalbrookdale who would much like to contribute to the fund. The back eight were rung on Christmas morning, but they will not be rung again until they can be paid for. One bell will be rung for services, etc. Will readers who have any shilling stamp collecting books, with any 'Odd Bobs' collected on same, kindly send them, with remittance, at once to Mr. William Saunders, Institution House, Coalbrookdale, Shropshire.

SAFETY FIRST.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—On New Year's Eve probably scores of ringers risked their lives by taking the muffles off a few minutes before midnight. They have done it before and can do it again, if they don't stop. Whose turn will it be next to be caught in these death-traps?

Mr. W. T. Beeson's idea looks all right on paper, but I am afraid there is as much risk in lashing the wheel to the frame as doing anything else when the bells are up at 'set'; besides it would be quicker and much safer to 'fall' the bells.

Some twenty years or so ago a ringer at Stoke-on-Trent was killed while working among the bells. I then had a brain wave, and invented a device for securing the bells when up at 'set' by simply pulling down a wire in the ringing chamber and locking it with a padlock, but there was no call for it. Recently Mr. Fullwood, of Sedgely, Wolverhampton, took out a patent for a simpler device, which I believe was advertised in your paper.

It would be interesting to know if these cases are ever brought before the notice of the Board of Trade.—Yours, etc.,

JAS. E. GROVES.

PRESENTATION AT DARTFORD.

An interesting ceremony took place in the Holy Trinity tower, Dartford, on Sunday morning, December 13th, when, after ringing a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples, conducted by Mr. J. H. Cheesman, Mr. J. Whendon, late secretary of and a ringer in the local band for twenty years, who has now left the district, was presented with a silver-mounted walking stick. The quarter-peal was rung in 41 mins.: T. Groombridge, junr., 1. E. Bates 2. J. H. Cheesman 3. E. Brown 4. J. Whendon 5. H. Simmons 6. A. Audsley 7. R. Jenkins (now secretary of the band) 8.

LITTLE BADDOW BELLS DEDICATED. BISHOP OF COLCHESTER'S INTEREST IN RINGING.

The restored bells at Little Baddow Parish Church, Essex, were dedicated on December 19th, and were heard again after a silence of many years. The original peal of four bells were cast at different times, and are inscribed as follows: Treble, 'Miles Graye made Me, 1636'; second, 'Sancta Toma Ora Pro Nobis' (about 1450); third, 'John Dier Made Me' (about 1600); tenor, 'Sancta Maria Ora Pro Nobis' (about the end of the 14th century, and one of the oldest bells in the county). Of these, the tenor bell was found to be the only sound one. The two smallest bells were both cracked, and the clapper of the third came out with its cast-in crown staple. In addition, the mediæval timber frame was long ago found to be so worn and decayed in places as to be unfit to carry the strain of the ringing of the bells when in full swing. The Parochial Church Council decided to make a resolute effort to effect restoration and repair. Mr. Wykeham Chancellor, M.A., F.R.I.B.A., was consulted, and, among other things, he recommended the repairing of the oak frame, recasting the Miles Graye bell, supplying a new bell in the place of the second (the original bell to be taken down and preserved on the ground floor of the tower), repairing the clapper of the third bell, and providing new bearings, wheel fittings, sliders, and ropes. The Chelmsford Diocesan Advisory Board for Church Treasures supported the scheme, which cost about £300, and a special appeal by the Church Council met with an encouraging response. Of the two new bells, one is the gift of his wife, 'in memory of Philip Boldero, who died Sept. 25th, 1919. R.I.P.', while the other is inscribed: 'Et ego Dominum laudabo' (I also will praise the Lord). The work of restoring the bell frame, of recasting the treble bell, and of making the two new bells, was carried out by Mr. Alfred Bowell, of Ipswich.

There was a crowded congregation at the dedication service, the ceremony being performed by the Bishop of Colchester. The surpliced clergy, in addition to the Bishop, were the Rev. Jesse Berridge, Rector of Little Baddow; Canon F. S. Paynter, R.D., Rector of Springfield; the Rev. A. E. Hall, of Boreham; and the Rev. H. M. Laug, of Woodham Walter. The processional hymn, 'All people that on earth do dwell,' was followed by prayers by the Rector. Psalm 47, 'O clap your hands,' was chanted, and the special lesson (Numbers x. 1-11) was read by Mr. A. L. Woodhouse, J.P., one of the wardens. Then followed the hymn, 'Praise, my soul,' and Psalm 150, 'O Praise God.' During the chanting of the Psalm, the clergy and churchwardens (Messrs. A. L. Woodhouse and J. J. Speakman) proceeded to the tower, where the Bishop, taking the bell ropes in his hand, said: 'In the faith of Jesus Christ we do solemnly set apart and separate these bells from all profane and unhallowed uses, and do now dedicate them to the glory of God, and for the benefit of His Holy Church, in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Amen.' Then the Bishop offered petitions for those for whom the bells shall ring. A short peal was rung on the bells, during which the clergy proceeded to the chancel. The hymn, 'Unchanging God, Who livest,' was sung.

In the course of an address, based on the text, 'Let everything that hath breath praise the Lord,' the Bishop of Colchester said he was glad to be able to take part in that interesting and moving occasion, and in that service, which had such a great deal to say about praise and thanksgiving. They had a real cause for thanksgiving, as they met together in that glorious and ancient church. As the bells were rung, let Jesus Christ be praised, and let them be glad, as the Lord would have them be. Everyone who heard the church bells ringing would think of those who had lived and worked in that parish in the past, who had given one thing and another to beautify the House of God, and consecrated that place in every succeeding age by their prayers. They praised God's Holy Name for those who had been benefactors of that church. First of all, the church bells were meant to call people to the House of God, to remind them that the time had come when they were to assemble together for worship, to remind them of the promise that 'where two or three are gathered together in My Name, there am I in the midst.' As little children, pious parents brought them to be dedicated to Him at the earliest moment, then when the holy bond of matrimony was sealed they came to that beautiful and sacred service, and the bells rang with joy. Then some day, when they were laid to rest yonder in God's Acre, near God's House, the bells tolled for their passing. The Bishop added that one of the things he regretted most was that as a young man he did not study campanology. But he had taken the greatest possible interest in ringing and the message the bells had, and he was glad that his son became a ringer. Among that congregation he saw one, if not more, of the best ringers in the East of England. Of all the Church work in which they could be engaged, there could be nothing more beautiful than that of ringing in the House of God, calling men and women to worship.

After the Te Deum, the Bishop pronounced the Blessing, and as a recessional the hymn, 'Now thank we all our God,' was sung. Miss Paterson was at the organ. A collection was taken for the church bell fund.

During and after the service, the bells were rung, those taking part including Messrs. George Green, of Great Baddow (District Master), R. Thrift, of Boreham; H. Edwards, of Boreham; W. J. Nevard, of Great Bentley; and E. Runter, of Springfield. Dr. P. T. Spencer-Phillips, of Great Baddow, also joined the ringers during the evening.

SUNDAY SERVICE TOUCHES.

We regret that, owing to the demands upon the space available for Sunday Service Touches, we are unable to undertake to insert anything less than a quarter-peal on eight bells and upwards, and 720 of Doubles or Minor. Many correspondents send us quite short touches for publication and they must not be disappointed if we are unable to find room for them.

LONDON.—On Sunday, Dec. 27th, at the Church of St. Leonard, Streatham, for evensong, 1,230 Double Norwich Court Bob Major: J. Lee 1, Miss E. E. Chapman 2, Miss F. E. Orr 3, J. W. Chapman 4, C. F. Winney 5, W. S. Smith 6, C. W. Roberts (conductor) 7, H. Langdon 8.

NOTICE.

LANCASHIRE ASSOCIATION.

MEETING AT MANCHESTER TOWN HALL.

The last meeting of the year of the Manchester Branch was held at Manchester Town Hall, when a large number of ringers, including visitors from outside branches, were present. Ringing commenced at four o'clock, and continued in various methods till 7.30 p.m., when the business meeting was held. Mr. W. Wolstencroft was voted to the chair, and said Lancashire looked upon it as a great privilege to be allowed to come and ring on the city bells.

Two new members were elected to the association, and Manchester Cathedral was selected for the annual meeting, as in former years, to be held on Saturday, January 16th, 1926.

Mr. H. Chapman gave an interesting report on his visit to Oxford, when the new bells, to the memory of the late Mr. J. W. Washbrook, were dedicated, saying how pleased he was with them, and that great credit was due to all who helped to bring the work to a successful issue.—The Chairman made reference to the memory of Mr. Washbrook, remarking that it was two years ago that day that Mr. J. W. Washbrook took the chair at their meeting, full of life and energy, and giving his advice to all present, and then on the following Christmas Day came the great shock of his tragic death.

Votes of condolence and sympathy were passed to the relatives of the late Mr. S. Booth, of Ashton-under-Lyne, and Mr. W. E. Ryder, of Birch-in-Rusholme, two old and esteemed members of the association, who have lately passed away, the members standing in silence for a few moments.

Votes of thanks to the officials of the Town Hall and the local ringers were passed unanimously, and replied to by the leader, Mr. F. Page, who said he would convey the association's thanks to the proper quarter.

During the evening an interesting piece of regalia was on view, consisting of a massive chain and medallion in the shape of a bell of pure 'Sheffield gold,' presented by 'Ireneus' to Mr. H. Chapman to wear when presiding at any meetings. No doubt the donor of it was thinking of the size of the man when he ordered it, but the writer would need some help if he had to wear it.

After the meeting the handbells were brought into use, and touches of Grandsire, Stedman and Boh Royal were rung.

THE HAND OF DEATH.

Readers of 'The Ringing World' will have observed that the hand of Death has been busy recently among members of the Exercise, and not a few men with long associations with ringing have been taken from us. Within the last two months a dozen ringers, who in their day have done yeoman service in the art they loved so well, have been called to their rest; some, like Edwin Horrex, William Ryder, George Davis and John Buffery in the fulness of years; others like Samuel Booth and Robert Hudson, cut off almost in the prime of life. This week we chronicle the death of three men whose names are known to a wide circle of ringers, William T. Robson, George B. Bolland, and last, but not least, Herbert Baker.

Until a few years ago Mr. Robson was one of the band at Bishopwearmouth, where Major Hudson met his tragic death, and in the two northern counties of Durham and Northumberland he made a name not only as a sound method ringer and conductor, but as a perfect striker—which is equally, if not more, important, in that it is the foundation of all good ringing. Unfortunately, it is not always the first care of ringers in these days, but men like William Robson are an example to the careless, and their quiet, unostentatious work has its effect in the long run on all but the most indifferent.

George Bolland was almost, if not quite, the 'father' of Yorkshire ringers. He must have been the oldest, in length of service, of any of the officers of the Yorkshire Association, for he had been a vice-president for more than forty years. Six-bell ringing owes a great deal to his efforts and his advocacy, and he showed in a practical form in his young days that peals of Minor could be peals of merit. His wide experience and extensive knowledge were always at the service of anyone who sought his assistance, and his work contributed in no small manner to the successful building up of the great society whose destinies he so long helped to direct. In speech and manner George Bolland, born and reared a son of the soil, was a typical Yorkshireman—genial, large-hearted, and ever seeking, in any sphere open to him, the well-being of those around him.

Colonel Herbert Baker, of Hertford, was not so well known to the present generation as he was to the ringers of the older school, but the fact that he had rung over two hundred peals, including four of over twelve thousand changes—each a record at the time—and was one of the representative band chosen to open the bells of the Imperial Institute, is sufficient to show that in his day he played an important part in the Exercise. He was a man of great energy and devotion to any cause to which he put his hand, and he served his town and country in many capacities, among them as councillor, alderman and Mayor of Hertford; and as a member of the Volunteers, and afterwards the Territorial Force, in which he rose from the rank of private to the command of a battalion, going overseas in the Great War at the age of 51 years. His death is a great loss to the civic life in which he figured so prominently, and to the nation which he served so gallantly; while the Ringing Exercise has lost an enthusiastic and valued supporter. The passing of these men make gaps which it is difficult to fill, but their achievements and example should be an inspiration to all to give their best in the service which they render.

THE DEATH OF MR. GEORGE B. BOLLAND.

CLOSE OF A LONG AND ACTIVE LIFE.

Our readers will have learned with deep regret from the brief announcement made in our last issue, of the death of Mr. George Bean Bolland, of Tong, a vice-president of the Yorkshire Association. Some two years or more ago Mr. Bolland had a severe illness, from which he made a very slow recovery, but he was able to be present last September at the annual dinner of the Yorkshire Association, when he received a specially warm welcome from the members. It was obvious, however, that he had by no means recovered the full vigour of health, and that was the last time he participated in a ringers' gathering.

Born on February 2nd, 1852, and being thus in his 74th year, Mr. Bolland came of sturdy yeoman stock, and was a typical Yorkshireman. A bluff exterior covered an exceedingly warm heart and genial nature, and throughout his long and active life he endeared himself to all with whom he came in contact. His association with ringing began when he was sixteen years old, when he entered the band at Tong Church to take the place of one of the company who had removed from the village. He remained an active member of the band until illness prevented him from taking his place at the rope end, and his keen interest in the art remained until the end of his life. Mr. Bolland early showed a great aptitude for method ringing, and was a leading advocate among those who championed the cause of the six-bell ringers. In his early days there were many who put 5,040's of Minor into a different category to peals on higher numbers of bells. The tendency was to look upon them merely as 'performances,' but thanks to the persistent efforts of Mr. Bolland, and others, the Exercise came eventually to treat peals of Minor with a great deal more respect, until to-day many contributions to ringing made by the six-bell men are acknowledged to be, in merit, the equal of anything done on seven bells and upwards. Throughout his ringing career Mr. Bolland was ever ready with advice and assistance to those who needed help, and he did his share of spade-work. An illustration of this is to be found in the fact that at one time he undertook the tuition of two companies, who met four times each week, and for more than six months he joined them regularly at practice, which entailed a walk of over four miles each time.

Mr. Bolland rang in all, considerably over a hundred peals, the bulk of them being peals of Minor and Kent Treble Bob Major, his peals in other methods including Grandfire Triples, Bob Major, Oxford Treble Bob Major, Cambridge Surprise Major, and Kent Treble Bob Royal. In Minor ringing and conducting, Mr. Bolland was one of the most expert in the country. He conducted on one occasion a peal of 6,000 in twenty-five Minor methods, which was the record number of methods rung in a peal until the 'splicing' system was developed at Norbury. Another notable performance, which he also conducted, was a 10,440 in fifteen Minor methods, rung in 1896. In addition, he took part, in 1888, in a silent peal of Kent Treble Bob Major at Dewsbury. Mr. Bolland joined the Yorkshire Association in 1877, and took an active part in furthering the county organisation. On the death of Mr. James Crabtree, in 1883, he was unanimously elected to the position of vice-president, which office he held up to the time of his death, and no member of the committee enjoyed greater respect than he did. For a great many years Mr. Bolland was a representative of the association on the Central Council, at whose meetings he was a familiar figure, and a sturdy advocate of the claims of six-bell ringers.

Mr. Bolland occupied for many years the farm on which he was born, and despite the claims which his profession made upon him, he made time to take his share in local affairs in many directions. In addition to his devotion to ringing, he had filled the offices of parish councillor and overseer of Tong, treasurer of Tong Farmers' Association, and of the Village Reading Room. In his younger days he was no mean cricketer, and frequently appeared at the top of the halting averages of Tong Manor Cricket Club. As in the ringing Exercise, so in his citizenship, Mr. Bolland has always been respected and esteemed for his energetic and faithful endeavours to promote the welfare of those around him. The church had in him a loyal son, and he passes from our midst full of years and honour.

The funeral took place on Friday, and was attended by a large gathering of ringers and friends, who preceded the coffin in its progress to the church. Muffled bells proclaimed a solemn tribute at the church, where a crowded congregation were assembled. The service was conducted by the Vicar of Tong, assisted by the Rev. C. C. Marshall (president of the Yorkshire Association). The interment took place in a perfect deluge of rain, and a plain course of Grandfire Triples was rung on handbells at the graveside by Messrs. C. Pratt, J. Thackray, P. J. Johnson and J. Broadley. Among those present were Messrs. T. Maude (Pudsey), R. Maude, J. Austin (Gloucester), J. Cotterell (treasurer of Yorks Association), P. J. Johnson (secretary), J. Broadley (Ringing Master), W. Pearson, G. Naylor, P. Salmon, W. Idle, and some fifty other ringers.

DEATH OF A HORBURY RINGER.

We regret to record the death of Mr. James Smith, of Horbury, Yorks, which sad event took place on December 24th, in his 55th year. Mr. Smith was for many years the hon. secretary of the Horbury branch of the Yorkshire Association, for which association he had half a dozen peals to his credit.

The interment took place on Saturday, Dec. 26th, and was attended by Horbury and Ossett ringers, his workmates from Messrs. Charles Roberts and Co., Ltd., Railway Waggon Works (where deceased was employed as a blacksmith), the churchwardens, sidesmen, and members of the congregation of SS. Peter and Leonard's Church. The Vicar of Horbury (the Rev. Canon Hill, B.A.) officiated, and muffled touches of Grandsire and Stedman Triples were rung prior to the service. A course of Grandsire Triples was rung at the grave-side by E. Thickett 1-2, G. W. Pickles 3-4, H. Rowley 5-6, G. Hunt 7-8.

On Tuesday, December 29th, 1,260 Stedman Triples was rung as a last token of respect and esteem; W. H. Mitchell 1, F. Bennett (Ossett) 2, G. F. Pickles 3, H. Rowley (conductor) 4, G. Hunt 5, G. W. Pickles 6, R. Thickett 7, G. Bennett (Ossett) 8.

FOUR 720's FOR SUNDAY SERVICES.

Four 720's were rung for the Sunday Services at Springfield, Essex, on November 22nd. For morning service, 720 Oxford Treble Bob Minor: J. H. Myhill 1, E. P. Buckingham 2, E. Runter 3, A. E. Davis 4, W. E. Prail 5, E. Kemp (conductor) 6. Also 720 New London, with I. J. Poulton taking part. Conductor, E. Runter. For evening service, 720 Kent Treble Bob Minor: J. H. Myhill 1, E. P. Buckingham 2, E. Kemp 3, A. E. Davis 4, W. E. Prail 5, I. J. Poulton (conductor) 6. Also 720 Bob Minor by the same band, and conducted by E. P. Buckingham.

The bells were rung half-muffled as a token of sympathy for the late Queen Alexandra, and for the officers and men who perished in the Submarine M.1.

This is the first time that four 720's have been rung for Sunday Services at this church, and with four different conductors. This band has now been ringing regularly for morning and evening services for the past five years, and during this period only on two occasions have they missed, through indisposition. This is indeed a matter for congratulation.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

The total number of complete 720's rung at Little Munden, Herts, during 1925 was 82, in 15 methods. At Rock Ferry, in the Wirral Branch of the Chester Diocesan Guild, exactly a hundred complete 720's were rung.

The first known performance of the London Scholars was a peal of 5,940 Grandsire Caters rung at St. Bride's, Fleet Street, London, on January 11th, either in the year 1716 or 1717. It was also the first known peal on ten bells ever rung, and it is much to be regretted that the board recording it was taken down and destroyed when the church was repaired in 1796.

The 102nd anniversary of the Ancient Ringing Society at Redenhall was celebrated on January 17th, 1838, with a peal of 5,280 Oxford Treble Bob Major, conducted by Samuel Thurston, who died 85 years ago to-morrow.

At Twickenham, where the bells have just been restored, a peal of 6,160 Bob Major was rung on January 8th, 1769.

One hundred and sixty years ago next Monday, Holt's peal of Grandsire Triples (probably the ten-part) was rung at Epsom being 'the first in the steeple.'

On January 10th, 1837, the first peal of Stedman Cinques at Southwark was rung by the Junior Society of Cumberland Youths, composed and conducted by John Cox.

James Barham, of Leeds, Kent, died, at the age of 93, on Jan. 14th, 1818.

The bells of St. Philip's, Birmingham, will be broadcast by members of St. Martin's Guild on Sunday evening from 7.45 to 8 o'clock.

DEATH OF MR. W. T. ROBSON.

The death occurred, on December 28th, at Liverpool, of Mr. William T. Robson, who was well known to members of the Exercise in the North of England. He resided for some years at Sunderland, being then a member of the Bishopwearmouth band. A first-class method ringer, a perfect striker, and an almost infallible bob caller, he was welcomed in any company, and he rang many peals with the Newcastle Cathedral band.

He joined the Durham and Newcastle Association in 1890, and most of his peal ringing was done with them. He rang altogether some 75 peals, and among the compositions which he conducted were Holt's Original and Carter's odd-bob one-part peal of Stedman.

On going to Liverpool about ten years ago he kept up his service ringing and practices till the death of his wife two years since. This was such a severe blow to him that he was ill for some time, and seemed to lose his enthusiasm for ringing.

On Saturday last a half-muffled peal was rung to his memory at St. Ignatius' Church, Sunderland.

TWICKENHAM BELLS RESTORED.

On Saturday, December 26th, by invitation of the Vicar and churchwardens, a few members of the Middlesex Association were asked to try the bells at Twickenham, which have been retuned and hung with new fittings and new ropes. Those present were the Ringing Master (Mr. R. Holloway), the secretary (Mr. Hollier), Messrs. A. A. Hughes, A. R. Macdonald (representing Messrs. Mears and Stainbank), Mackman, Mackman, jun., J. A. Trollope, T. Beadle, Bird, Folkard, and others. After a few touches in the Standard methods, the company was piloted across the road for tea, provided by the Vicar and churchwardens. The Vicar gave the visitors a most hearty welcome, and said how delighted he was to know that at last the bells would be heard again after many years, and that such a good job had been made of them by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank.

Mr. Mackman paid a compliment to the bell foundry for the most excellent result of their contract, the bells going so well. — Mr. Hughes replied that he was pleased that all were satisfied.

The Ringing Master (Mr. Holloway) thanked the Vicar (the Rev. Cole Sheene) and churchwardens for their hospitality, and mentioned what a great pleasure it was to pay a visit to Twickenham, as the Vicar was always keenly interested in the work of the association.

The churchwarden said how pleased he was to meet the ringers, and to know the bells were now all right.

Mr. Mackman has promised to train a band of ringers, and the practice night will be on Tuesdays at 7.30 p.m. Help will be most welcomed.

On Sunday, December 27th, a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples was brought round for evensong.

COVENTRY BELLS LOST.*CONSISTORY COURT INQUIRY.*FAMOUS PEAL TO BE MELTED DOWN.

The Worshipful E. W. Hansell, Chancellor of the Diocese, Coventry, held a Consistory Court at Coventry on Monday to hear the petition of certain of the Cathedral Church authorities to obtain a faculty to melt down the ten bells of St. Michael's, Coventry, and erect in their place a carillon of fourteen bells. The Court sat in the Old Palace, Bailey Lane, and the hearing lasted some four hours. A caveat entered by Mr. R. Caldicott was strongly supported by the Ringing Exercise, as represented by the Central Council, for whom appeared Ald. J. S. Pritchett, the petitioners being represented by Sir H. Maddox.

Sir Henry, in opening his case, stated that it would be shown that the bells were all out of tune, and he called Dr. W. H. Brazil, B.Sc., who demonstrated on a piano a 'Simpson' chord, and also an 'Old Method' chord, the latter sounding most distasteful and discordant.

Professor Stanmer, who followed, said that he agreed that the bells were out of tune, and supported the petition.

Mr. R. Houseman, secretary to Messrs. Gillett and Johnston, said that he had examined the bells, and, though he was not an expert, he was of opinion that recasting would improve the bells.

Ald. Pritchett then outlined his case in opposition, pointing out that Coventry was singularly poor in rings of bells, both these famous ones and those of Holy Trinity being out of action. The fame of the former still endured, though they had not been rung for 40 years. He called Mr. R. Caldicott, who said that he took action because he felt that the case had not been properly considered.

He was followed by Mr. A. A. Hughes, of the Whitechapel Foundry, who said that, from a careful test of the bells, he was of opinion that they were practically in tune, and he disagreed with the previous evidence. He admitted some slight defects, but these could be easily set right in the tuning machine if necessary. The bells ought not to be recast.

In reply to the Chancellor, he said that he had cast a large number of bells in recent years, and had tuned in both styles — the 'Simpson' and the 'Old Style.' It was purely a matter of taste.

Mr. E. Alex. Young, hon. sec. of the Central Council, stated that the Council, as representing the Exercise of some 10,000 ringers, supported the caveat. He deprecated strongly the proposed recasting, and explained to the Court why he thought that the 'Simpson' principle was all wrong, and why it was futile to attempt to demonstrate bell tones on a piano.

The President of the Council, the Rev. Canon G. F. Coleridge, who followed, said that he was sure the general body of the Council would object to the proposal in toto. There were 46,500 ringers in England, and the best of them were represented by the Council. He was against the recasting, but admitted, in cross-examination, that he did not possess a musical ear.

RINGERS' EVIDENCE.

Three ringers who had rung upon the bells upwards of 40 years ago were then called. Mr. F. E. Dawe said that though he had rung in over 900 towers, including 22 cathedrals, he was confident that the Coventry bells were the finest of all. He objected to the statement that ringers had not a good ear for tone or music.

Mr. T. Miller, of Birmingham, said that he always considered that 'ring' a remarkably good one. He, as a bell-tuner, considered the 'Simpson' principle as faulty, the tones were not solid but 'shivery.' If the bells of Coventry were all out of tune, as alleged, by a quarter tone, except two, the latter should be adjusted to suit the others.

Mr. James George, from personal recollection, supported the statement, and Mr. J. E. Groves stated that, though he had not rung upon the bells, he had often listened to their chiming, and was convinced of their fine tones.

The case was closed with the evidence of the Rev. H. Drake, who said that whilst not objecting to 'Simpson' tuning, he felt it wrong to destroy an undoubtedly fine specimen of the founder's art of that particular time, which, if lost, could not be replaced.

Ald. Pritchett then addressed the Court, chiefly urging that if a carillon must be put in the tower, the present fine 'ring' of ten should be retained, and the four proposed new bells tuned to match them. He pointed out that, mathematically, there was much to justify the contention that the 'old style' tuning was probably quite scientific for bells rung in 'changes,' as the 'flat seventh' would tend to restrain the wave lengths of the many harmonics from getting undue control of the primary tones.

Sir H. Maddox, having reviewed the case and stated that the witnesses practically cancelled each other out, the Chancellor gave his decision at considerable length. He said that the ringers' evidence had been helpful, and that they were quite justified from their point of view in endeavouring to save the bells. He had to consider, however, that Coventry itself had taken no action, and was indeed very anxious to close with this very generous offer of a carillon, costing some £2,500 in which the old metal would be re-used and the old inscriptions reproduced.—He accordingly granted the petition.

DEATH OF LIEUT.-COL. HERBERT BAKER.*A NOTABLE HERTFORD RINGER.

The death took place at his home at North Crescent, Hertford, on December 23rd, of Lieut.-Col. Herbert Baker, an enthusiastic ringer and Master of the Hertford Society of College Youths. Col. Baker had been in failing health for some time, but up to the time when his illness confined him to his bed in November, he remained regular in his attendance at service ringing. Sixty-two years of age, Col. Baker was the fourth son of the late Mr. William Baker, brewer, of Hertford, who was three times Mayor of the town, and, like his father, Herbert Baker served the public in many capacities. He took a very active part in municipal affairs, and was first councillor and then an alderman of the borough, serving also, in 1907-8, in the office of Mayor. Recently he was elected a member of Hertfordshire County Council.

THE LATE COLONEL HERBERT BAKER.

Educated at Hertford Grammar School, he early developed an interest in all kinds of sports, and became an expert swimmer, a keen cyclist, and a 'crack' shot, and many are the trophies which his prowess brought him. In 1880 he joined the Hertfordshire Regiment (then a volunteer battalion of the Bedfordshire Regiment) as a private, and served for over forty years, rising eventually to the rank of Lieut.-Colonel. He went as second in command of his regiment to France in November, 1914, although he was then 51 years of age. Although invalided home soon afterwards he was placed in command of the Reserve Battalion of the Herts Regiment, and was responsible for the training of the men who went out to fill the gaps caused by casualties. For his war services he received the Mons Star, the general service medal and the Allied Armies medal, and he had previously been awarded the Volunteer Decoration for long service, and King George's Coronation medal. His devotion to the Volunteer and Territorial movement may be gained from the fact that for 34 years up to 1914 he never missed the annual camp, while for many years without break he took part in the National Rifle Association's meetings at Wimbledon and Bisley, and in his young days was a member of the famous 'A' company which won an international reputation in marksmanship.

Colonel Baker's ringing career began in 1880, and in those days he acquired much knowledge and experience by frequently journeying to Bennington, where Squire Leonard Proctor had round him one of the most expert companies in the country. His first peal was at All Saints', Hertford, and he rapidly came into prominence in the Exercise, and in 1883 was a member of the band that put up three records at Appleton under the Oxford Diocesan Guild, 12,041 Stedman Caters in 7 hrs. 26 mins.; 13,247 Grand sire Caters in 8 hrs. 5 mins., and 15,041 Stedman Caters in 9 hrs. 16 mins. In 1892 he also took part in the record of 12,036 Double Norwich Major in 7 hrs. 7 mins., at Boyne Hill, which was also credited to the Oxford Guild. Although all these peals have since been exceeded in length, they still stand as noteworthy achievements. Col. Baker was one of the representative band that opened the bells of the Imperial Institute, and during his Mayoralty took part in a peal at All Saints', Hertford, being the first Mayor to ring a peal. His last peal was Stedman Triples, conducted by his old friend, Challis Winney, at St. Andrew's, Hertford, in 1922. But as late as last Christmas Day he was talking of his next peal, which he hoped he was going to call shortly. The societies of which Col. Baker was a member were the Ancient Society of College Youths, the London County Association, the Herts County, Kent, Essex, Middlesex, Sussex, and Midland Counties Associations, the Oxford and Truro Diocesan Guilds, and the Devon, Warwickshire and Norfolk Guilds. Altogether Col. Baker had rung 214 peals as follows:—

Colonel Baker leaves a widow, a son and two daughters to mourn their loss. His other son, Mr. H. N. Baker, died on active service with the 2nd Nigerian Regiment in East Africa in 1917.

The funeral, with full military honours, took place on the last day of the year. Hertford was a town in mourning, and, despite the heavy downpour of rain, the streets were thronged with a reverent crowd of spectators, and a great concourse of people witnessed the final rites. The cortege was followed by representatives of every phase of life in the town, and immediately behind the coffin the deceased officer's decorations were carried. The firing party, guard of honour and band, were supplied by the Herts Regiment, and the service was conducted by the Rev. W. d'A. Crofton, Vicar of Codicote, for many years chaplain to the Herts Regiment, assisted by the Rector of St. Andrew's (the Rev. A. T. Gardner). Two hymns were sung in church, 'Peace, perfect peace,' and 'Now the labourer's task is o'er.' After the committal prayers, three volleys were fired over the grave, and the trumpeters sounded 'The Last Post.' The ringers were represented at the service by Messrs. C. Gray, E. Tyler, G. H. Baker and J. Pomfret, and muffled ringing afterwards took place at the three Hertford churches.

ORIGINS OF CHANGE RINGING.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—To supplement Mr. Young's statement about the Scottish poet Dunbar, it will interest your readers to learn that three different biographies give the following several dates for the death of that poet, i.e. 1513, 1520, 1530.

Provided that the latest date 1530 is correct, this would have been 101 years before Stedman was born; therefore, if Dunbar had been listening to change ringing when he wrote of the 'sweete belles of London,' we have a perfect right to assume that Stedman may have had the accumulated knowledge of, perhaps, two hundred years to work upon, and as a consequence, one can understand what a simple matter it was for Stedman (being a printer) to publish his 'Tinninnallogia' in 1668.

One can but wonder at times, when reading matter in your columns, whether any progress has been made, in the science, since Stedman's time.

In all humility may I ask the following questions:—

(1) Do we know anything more of the science than did Stedman, or later writers?

(2) Is it mere presumption for any of us to think that we do?

Perhaps some of your occasional contributors will favour the Exercise with their views on these two questions.—Yours faithfully,

OWEN KAY.

VARIETY IN SUNDAY SERVICE RINGING.

A NEW ERA IN SIX-BELL PRACTICE.

'Method Splicing,' the new book on ringing, which 'The Ringing World' has just published, will open up a new era in six-bell practice. Already the publishers are receiving congratulatory messages from subscribers on the value of the book, and there is no question that it takes Minor ringers as important a step forward as did the publication of the Central Council's 'Collection of Methods' some years ago.

Although the ultimate end of the book is to enable the aspirant to ring peals, if he chooses, in more than 40 methods, the primary object is to explain to the average ringer exactly how splicing is effected, and what its possibilities are. Illustrations are provided to enable ringers to practise the simple process of joining two plain methods in one extent, or to elaborate their ringing until they can put ten Treble Bob methods into one 720. Mr. Joseph Parker explains the basis of splicing, and shows how 'extents' may be obtained with the use of a number of methods without repetition of changes, while Mr. J. P. Fidler describes the manner in which any ringer of ordinary ability can commit the numerous methods to memory with the least mental effort, and apply them when they have been learned. The book will enable variety to be introduced into service ringing, as well as into peal ringing, and will prove as interesting to the non-peal ringer as to the man of greater ambitions.

A 'GROSS' OF 720's.

One hundred and forty-four 720's were rung during the year 1925 in ten different towers by Mr. F. Warrington, the methods being Plain Bob, Oxford and Kent Treble Bob, Double Court, London, Cambridge, York, Netherseale and Primrose Surprise. The last of the 'gross' was brought round on December 28th, at Willingham, Cambs, (this being 720 Bob Minor by H. Frohock 1, C. Frohock (first 720 'inside') 2, C. W. Cook 3, B. Huckle 4, F. G. BIRTHDAYS REMEMBERED—CHRISTMAS FORGOTTEN.

To the Editor.

Sir,—Your issue of January 1st contains reports of 18 peals rung on December 26th. Of these peals nearly one-half are stated to have been rung in honour of weddings, ringers' birthdays, or other domestic events. Not a single peal is regarded as rung in honour of the Christmas Festival.

Is it not time that ringers were again reminded of the proper use of bells?—Yours faithfully,

DISGUSTED.

NOTES BY THE WAY.

HUBBARD'S BOOK.—MIDDLETON'S PEAL OF CAMBRIDGE.

By J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

Hubbard's 'Elements of Campanologia' first appeared in 1845, a modest little volume of rather more than one hundred pages. It was needed at the time. The 'Clavis' was out of print, and largely out of date. Shipway's book was not out of date, but I do not think there were any copies to be found in Norwich; and it was for Norwich and the surrounding district that the book was primarily written. Like nearly all the early books on ringing it was published by subscription, and the list of subscribers makes very interesting reading. The most outstanding name away from Norfolk was that of Henry Johnson, of Birmingham, then thirty-six years old, and already well known as a distinguished ringer and composer. Mr. John Taylor, of Loughborough, subscribes for twelve copies, an instance of the great interest that family has always taken in the welfare of the Exercise; for I do not think that the firm had any trade interests at that time in East Anglia. The great majority of the names belong to Norwich and district. They include most of the men who rang in the peals which put the Norwich Scholars at the very top of the Exercise. Charles Middleton is there, and Truman and Joshua Hurry; but not his brother Tom. One wonders why. Is there here evidence of some jealousy that followed Thurston's death and the vacant leadership? Did Tom Hurry want to be Master himself, and, not being quite strong enough to have his way, was yet strong enough to keep out Hubbard and so let in James Truman? The other names are nearly all from the small towns and villages of Norfolk, not only where they were eight-bell towers, but chiefly from five to six-bell towers.

I suppose there was no part of England where the tradition of ringing was so strong as in Norfolk. Norwich took the lead, but they were only the first band out of many. At Aylsham and at Lynn some of the earliest recorded peals were rung. Exceptionally good bands existed at the little villages of Marsham and North Elmham, and at most of the village towers there was change ringing. Call changes were practically unknown, and in my early days in Norfolk it was either change ringing or nothing at all. It was some years after I became a ringer, and outside the county that I first heard 'Stoney.'

The list of subscribers contains one vivid contrast. There is the name of John Trowse, who rang in the first peal on Mancroft twelve a hundred and fifty years ago; and hard by the name of Benjamin Smith, who umpired the first peal of Triples (on handbells) that I myself called. Trowse, in his time, was a noted heavy bell ringer. With the help of his brother James (also a subscriber to Hubbard's book) he rang St. Peter's tenor to 6,240 Oxford Treble Bob Maximus in 1778. In 1771 he rang the tenor at Coslany to the first peal (6,720) of Double Norwich Court Bob Major ever rung, and in 1817 the eighth at Mancroft to the first peal of Double Norwich Maximus. His ambition was to ring Mancroft tenor to a peal single-handed. He tried once or twice to ring her to Bob Major, but always found the job too much for him.

Benjamin Smith was no relation of the Norwich Smiths. He belonged to Alburgh, the village where Hubbard rang his first peal. He was afterwards conductor to the Redenhall band that included Capt. Moore, and, for a time, the Rev. H. Earle Bulwer. His best performance was to call the first peal rung by the Norwich Diocesan Association, 5,152 Superlative Surprise on Nov. 6th, 1877, at Redenhall.

Four other editions of Hubbard's book were issued. The first of these in 1854 was much enlarged, containing nearly 200 pages. The next was a reprint issued by the printer without consulting the author, and differing from the 1845 edition only by leaving out some matter. The next in 1868 was practically the same thing. The final edition was in 1876, and in this Hubbard had some assistance (though probably not much) from Jasper Snowdon.

The difference between the first and last edition is so great that they are practically distinct works. In some respects the earlier is the more interesting. It contains references to the ringing of peals and methods which are omitted in the last.

The general plan of the books is the same. First a lead of a number of the methods the author considered the best is given, with a short description of the rules to ring it, and in the second part of the book a selection of touches and peals.

In the 1876 edition the rules for ringing are cut down to a minimum, probably to make more room for other matter. They are so short as to be of little or no use, and Hubbard himself probably recognised this, for he says of some of the methods: 'The experienced practitioner will by an examination of the given leads be enabled to form more definite ideas of the rules to be adopted in ringing them than any written statement could possibly convey, as it would of necessity be long and complicated, besides occupying more space than could consistently be devoted to this part of the subject, without furnishing any adequate degree of utility.'

And, indeed, Hubbard is very weak in the purely literary and the descriptive part of his work. Even if he had given sufficient space I doubt if he would have been able to put down any really useful ringing rules. Stedman could do that, and do it admirably, as his description of how to ring the sixes, which I recently printed, sufficiently shows. Jasper Snowdon could do it, as everyone knows. But none of the men who wrote between these two had this gift of exposition. Stedman, too, could explain the theory of ringing, he could give 'a full discovery of the mystery and grounds of each peal.' In modern times Sir Arthur Heywood's 'Duffield' is an excellent example of how the theoretic side of ringing can be explained. But Hubbard could do none of this. The following is his explanation of the 'In and Out of Course' of the changes. 'It is requisite that the student should be apprised that upon any number of bells there are half the changes which are termed in course and half out of course; the former division are of the same nature as the round, and the latter diametrically opposite to it, i.e., such as will come only within two bells of rounds, or can be brought to that state by transposing by fours, which have the effect of retaining them in the same course, they were in the preceding change.' I am pretty sure that nobody who does not already understand the nature of the rows will understand what the author means, and even those who do will have some trouble in sorting out the meaning.

This and the other passage I have just quoted will give some idea of Hubbard's literary style. It is far inferior to Stedman's, and far inferior to that of 'The Clavis.' The value of his book lies entirely in the figures he gives, and it would have been equally useful if he had omitted the letterpress and given figures only as in the Central Council Collection.

There is an interesting note in his preface which is an echo from his days with the Norwich Scholars, when good striking was almost the most important thing in ringing. 'It is almost incredible what extremely small portions of time are forced upon the observation in change ringing. Assuming a quarter of a second to elapse between the striking of any two bells (which supposition is very near the truth) it will appear that an error of a quarter of that space too quick or too slow would be distinctly felt and heard by an experienced ringer, and hence the sixteenth part of a second becomes an appreciable quantity.'

That was written by a man who knew what good striking is. Many ringers are quite satisfied if their rope falls down somewhere, after the bell they are following, or if two bells do not actually clash together. That is not good enough for Hubbard. He says with great truth that a good striker can 'feel' as well as hear when he is a shade too close or too wide.

It was in Hubbard's first edition that Charles Middleton's peal of Cambridge was first printed. It is given twice, once as Cambridge, and again as London. Hubbard remarks that, in keeping the tenors, together these are great improvements on previous peals in the same methods. When the Norwich Scholars rang their peal of London in 1835, Thurston called Shipway's 5,280 in five parts.

If Middleton's peal had been available it is almost certain that he would have called it. And so this narrows the date of the composition to somewhere between 1835 and 1845, and probably nearer the latter date than the former. Middleton did not die till 1886, but he never again produced a composition of any merit. It has been said (by Jasper Snowdon, and others) that Henry Johnson composed the peal independently. I do not know that Johnson ever made any such claim. He certainly was the first to discover the reduction to 5,056, which, according to old standards, might give him some sort of claim to that variation, as John Reeves' name is always associated with the well-known variation of Holt's Ten-part. But Johnson was a subscriber to Hubbard's book, and so must have known the peal when it first appeared; nor does Hubbard say anything in any of his other editions to show that Johnson had written to him claiming the authorship of the peal.

If Thurston had lived, probably the Norwich Scholars would have added Cambridge to their peals of Superlative and London. They did try, but they did not succeed. It was not till 1873 that Middleton's peal was first rung. This was at Bennington, by Squire Proctor's band. The composition was then given as by J. Miller.

LADIES' QUARTER-PEAL OF CATERS.

At St. Clement Danes, Strand, on Sunday, Dec. 20th, for evening service, a quarter-peal of Stedman Caters, in 52 mins.: Miss C. E. Chapman 1, Miss P. E. Shorter 2, Miss P. Upsher 3, Miss F. E. Orr 4, Mrs. A. D. Barker 5, Miss E. E. Harcastle 6, Mrs. F. I. Hairs 7, Mrs. R. Deal 8, Miss E. K. Parker (conductor) 9, Miss R. Hawks-worth 10.

STEDMAN AND THE 'TINTINNALOGIA.'

DOUBTS AS TO AUTHORSHIP.

BY THE REV. HERBERT DRAKE.

I.

How much of the 'Tintinnalogia' did Stedman write? Most ringers believe that he wrote it all; as a matter of fact, there is not a scrap of evidence, or even of tradition, that he wrote a word of it. On the contrary, all the evidence is the other way.

To begin with, the book is, on the face of it, a compilation, and not very well arranged at that. There is nothing in it that makes you feel that it is the work of a single mind, as there is, for instance, in 'Troyle,' or even 'Shipway.' Two sections at least are misplaced. That on pp. 83 and 84, should be before p. 41; while the section from pp. 84 to 90 should follow p. 50, or thereabouts.

So far from it being entitled as 'by F. Stedman,' it is said to be 'By a Lover of that Art.' Stedman's name appears, it is true, but as publisher. If his name was to appear at all on the title page, why should he, if he were author, be there also under a pseudonym? The title page is followed by a dedication to 'the Noble Society of College Youths,' by one who signs himself 'Campanista,' and who apparently was not a skilled ringer, only a 'Well-wisher to your Recreation,' and who did not know Latin, for he says he has 'seen' (not 'read') a Treatise on Carillons by a 'Dutchman' (? German) in Latin. Now Stedman was a skilled ringer, and could hardly describe himself as 'Campanista' does, and apparently knew a little Latin, but not much.

Next we have two pages of elegant poetry on the ingenious Art of Ringing, which speaks of an Eighteen Score, Grandsire (i.e., Grandsire Doubles), Tendring's Peal, a Plain Six-score, and Rounds.

There follows some lines well written, but more after the manner of doggerel, or satire, entitled 'Upon the presentation of Grandsire Bob' (i.e., Plain Bob Minor) 'to the College Youths, by the author of that peal,' and signed R.R.

II.

The Treatise itself then begins with a page of exordium, a large part of which has been quoted by Mr. Trollope, with his wonderful facility of seeing what is not there, and of not seeing what is. Now, the first thing that appears from this page, is that it is a panegyric, such as was usual for an exordium of books in those days, and ending with some sort of a deprecatory expression to show that the wording was not to be taken too literally.

Now, a panegyric is intended to praise something. That which is here praised is the speed with which change ringing has developed. But Mr. Trollope says, 'It was not until a good many years after the birth of ringing that Plain Changes reached this stage.' I am inclined to agree with him, and to say that this is one of the strokes of genius which Mr. Trollope shows when he is writing about what he understands. But he must not say he learnt it from 'Tintinnalogia,' for that book says the exact opposite. Apparently the writer of the exordium imagined that Plain Changes and Cross Peals were worked out very shortly after changes were begun. He says that, to begin with, were invented the Sixes, being the very ground of a Six-score. By this he means that the six changes on three bells can be developed, either in the direction of Plain Changes, or of Cross Peals. Then he mentions 'the Twenty,' i.e., Plain Changes; then 'Twenty-four, i.e., Cross Peals,' with several other Changes.

This was the end of the first period of change ringing, and was brought to an end at the beginning of the seventeenth century by the invention of Cambridge Forty-Eight. This was neither Plain Changes, nor a Cross Peal, but a method which was developed into what we now know as Stedman, more than ten years before this book was published. This appears to make the second period of the history of our art, and the writer before us says that it lasted 'for many years.' But now, he says, we have advanced another long step, so that we can look forward to working out changes to infinity. Had this been written by R.R., or whoever wrote the later parts of this work, he would here have said something about Grandsire. As he does not, we may conclude that Grandsire was not then 'invented.' What he was referring to was 'Plain Bob Doubles,' here called 'Old Doubles,' and a number of methods similar to that but worse. The very fact that this method is called 'Old,' shows that it must have been rung for some years when this book was compiled.

The exordium goes on to make a few jokes on the word infinity, which Mr. Trollope characteristically takes quite seriously. Now the man who could thus jest delicately, and introduce his delicious Latin tag, could not—no, he could not—have been guilty of such an atrocious hybrid as the word 'Tintinnalogia,' or even 'Campanalogia'; and, whatever Fabian Stedman did, he at any rate was responsible for unloading these two names on the public. Therefore, we say he sure that Stedman, at any rate, did not write this. Nor did the writer of the rest of the book. For the latter's idea of 'infinity' does not extend much beyond 720. It is true that he speaks of 1,680 as being the greatest peal that was ever rung on eight bells, but he does not seem to know how it was done. The longest touch for which he gives direction is what he says the College Youths have lately practised, viz., Grandsire Bob (Bob Minor), with 4.8 behind, 'Half-pulls.' If this latter word means that the two bells behind dodged one way for one 720, and the other way for the next, it would only make 1,440 changes in all; indeed, the writer recommends that eight bells are best rung in six-scores, with three bells behind, those behind being altered in between the six-scores by Plain Changes, from which it appears that Plain Changes were still rung occasionally.

III.

Now let us try to visualise the circumstances of the publication of this book. A year before, all, or most, of the records and books, whether written or printed, which were in London, were destroyed in the Great Fire, and this also destroyed most of the bells, St. Bartholomew, Smithfield, being one tower which escaped. Londoners would be too busy with more important matters to be able to spend much time in replacing the lost books; thus, in their difficulty, they turned to the other centre of ringing of those days. In 1657, the College Youths had visited Cambridge, and rung Stedman's Principle, for the first time, on the five bells at St. Benet's Church (by the way, early in 1892, Dr. Nickson, the present Bishop of Bristol, was appointed Vicar of St. Benet's, and on the advice of Mr. Bankes James, I at once approached him, and, by his permission, those bells were once more rung in changes, by the Cambridge University Guild, after centuries of neglect).

The Cambridge men were able to get together sufficient material to enable the book to pass the censor in a little more than a year after the fire. But this business of licensing so unusual a work would not be easy in those suspicious times, when excess and repression went hand in hand. So they turned to Fabian Stedman, as a Government official, and he made himself responsible, as the nominal publisher.

Whether Stedman actually did any of the compiling of the work, we shall probably never know. All we can say is that there is no evidence that he had any hand in it; and as it does not contain his own Principle, it is most likely that he merely lent his name, in order to get the book licensed. At any rate, his book 'Campanalogia' was published only a year later, and that does contain his Principle.

SUNDAY SERVICE TOUCHES.

We regret that, owing to the demands upon the space available for Sunday Service Touches, we are unable to undertake to insert anything less than a quarter-peal on eight bells and upwards, and 720 of Doubles or Minor. Many correspondents send us quite short touches for publication and they must not be disappointed if we are unable to find room for them.

ERITH, KENT.—On Sunday, December 27th, for evening service, at the Church of St. John-the-Baptist, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples (1,260 changes), in 44 mins.: S. Stagg 1, F. J. ## HOW COVENTRY BELLS WERE LOST.

Nothing now will save the famous Coventry bells from the fiery ordeal through which they are destined to pass, but a stiff fight was put up by the Central Council last week to save what had been looked upon, not merely for years, but for more than a century, as the finest peal of ten bells in England. For this act on the part of the Council, in which the initiative was taken by Mr. E. A. Young, the hon. secretary, our central body deserves the thanks of the Exercise, and, despite the fact that in this case they were unsuccessful, we hope the Council will continue to keep a watchful eye on all attempts to destroy church bells, hung for their original purpose, in order to provide carillons. Admittedly the position at Coventry was unique. The cathedral was in possession of a peal of bells which could not be utilised for ringing because the tower is not deemed sufficiently stable to carry a ring of bells when in motion, and under present conditions nothing more than chiming is possible. The suggestion that the bells should be recast into a carillon of fourteen—the necessary funds having been offered—was seized upon with avidity by the local authorities, but they have at least had to bow to public opinion in so far as to revise their scheme to provide that the extra bells should come out of new metal, and that the old should be retained at their present weights. So far, so good. They also incorporated in the plans provision for hanging twelve of them for ringing purposes, if and when a suitable tower is provided. That, we are afraid, will not be in the lifetime of any reader of these lines.

These points having been conceded by the petitioners, the battle of the Consistory Court turned on whether there was any need to recast the bells at all, and here the decision went with the theorists against what, we venture to think, was the weight of practical evidence. Dr. Brazil, whose musical knowledge no one questions, but who, as a bell expert, was unknown to anyone in ringing circles, and Mr. W. Starmer, whose antipathy to the good old English practice of change ringing has often been revealed in the past, were the two witnesses upon whom the petitioners relied to carry through their scheme, and, to be candid, we do not think the opposition were fully prepared to meet their evidence. For instance, an utterly misleading piano demonstration was given, but these 'illustrations' doubtless carried great weight with the Chancellor, as they would with anyone who did not know how really fallacious the comparison is. On a piano one gets a chord of five equal tones, but in a single bell this is not the case. When a bell is struck the fundamental and harmonic tones are not equal—if they were, bells in peal would be unbearable—but the piano illustrations, of course, ignored this all-important fact.

There was one other striking instance in which the case for recasting was put in such a manner that, to say the least, put the present bells in a worse light than they really were. Dr. Brazil said that the front seven bells were each a quarter of a note flat, and he based this statement upon the judgment of his own ear. Actually, proved by instruments, and based upon the note of the tenor, two of the bells were dead correct, and the other five were each out to the extent of only from one to three vibrations per second. So that, after all, Coventry bells, which could have been tuned at the saving of some hundreds of pounds, thus enabling the authorities to install a much larger carillon had they desired it—a point which was, perhaps, overlooked in the eagerness of the 'Simpson' enthusiasts—have been condemned not only unheard; but, if one may perpetrate the crime of using such a phrase, on 'earsay' evidence alone. What we hope for in the future is not only that the Central Council will act as energetically in all cases where church bells, hung for ringing, are threatened, as in this case, but that our English founders, upon whose advice church authorities very rightly largely rely, will always throw their weight into the scale for retaining English bells for English bell ringing.

PRESTON BRANCH SOCIAL.

The fifth annual social of the Preston Branch was held at St. James's, Leyland, and was a very successful function. About 120 ringers and friends were present. The proceedings commenced with ringing on the tower bells until tea-time, and one band who preferred ringing to whist, rang a touch or two after tea, whilst the whist was in progress.

An excellent tea was provided by the local ringers and their lady friends. A short whist drive then took place, the prize-winners being very varied in age.

The rest of the proceedings, which took the form of a concert and dance, were presided over by the Vicar (the Rev. — Dawson), who welcomed all present to St. James's, and added, that although he knew very little about change ringing, he had rung one bell at his last parish for Matins and other services. He added that he would always be pleased to welcome the ringers to St. James's, and he hoped at some future time to welcome them to a full peal of bells.

Mr. J. Booth, of Standish, and his daughter, opened the concert with a selection on the handbells. This item was heartily applauded, and an encore given. A comic sketch by Mr. Hopwood, entitled 'The Tram Conductor,' caused much merriment, and this item also was encored. Other contributions to the programme were songs by Misses Alty and Bibby; comic songs and duets by Messrs. Barwise and Lancaster; also some laughable stories by the Vicar. The various items were interspersed with dances, old and new.

Mr. J. R. Taylor moved that the heartiest thanks of the gathering be given to all who had assisted in making the social a success. — This was seconded by Mr. E. R. Martin, and carried in the usual hearty manner, and brought another enjoyable gathering to a close.

EALING RINGERS' SUCCESSFUL YEAR.

On Thursday, December 31st, at St. Mary's Church, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples (1,260 changes) was rung in 52 minutes, with the bells half-muffled, for the watch-night service: J. E. Burton 1, J. E. Churchill 2, H. A. Harding 3, P. E. Clark 4, E. J. Walsom 5, A. H. Fulwell 6, H. A. Folkard 7, Fred W. Goodfellow (conductor) 8. The composition, by L. Stillwell, contains 72 bobs and singles. At midnight the tenor was tolled twelve times, and the bells were rung 'open' in rounds. After firing the bells twelve times, a course of Grandsire Triples was rung, and the bells lowered in peal.

This was the thirty-second quarter-peal rung at St. Mary's during 1925, and with the exception of it and one other, all were rung for Sunday service. By compiling the above total, the local band again head the list of quarter-peals rung in towers affiliated to the Middlesex County Association. The methods rung during the year were Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Plain Bob and Kent Treble Bob Major. The conducting was shared between Messrs. Stacey, Fulwell, Trolope, Hollier and Goodfellow, and Miss Moss, of Uxbridge, called her first quarter-peal of 'Ealing Delight.' The 'go' of the bells is not all that could be desired, and in view of the regular service ringing, it is satisfactory to hear that a proposal for their rechanging is under discussion.

STEDMAN AND THE 'TINTINNALOGIA.'

By the Rev. H. DRAKE.

IV.

While it is, of course, impossible to assign each part of the book to its original source, and indeed it is not worth while making any very elaborate attempt to do so, we can at any rate get some idea of the sort of material the compiler had to work on.

(1) Probably the earliest is that from which the dedication is taken. It seems to have been a small pamphlet of, maybe, 16 or 32 pages. The writer calls it 'a Dayes labour,' a phrase which, even with the exaggeration to which reference has already been made, one could hardly use to describe our present volume. As the writer apologises for publishing what he does not altogether understand, the book may have consisted of some older ringer's manuscript notes, which a learner thought would be better in print.

(2) It is possible that the greater part of the title page was from the same, or a similar source. It is also possible that several of the shorter descriptions of various methods, (perhaps quite obsolete at the time this work was published) had been handed down in traditional form, from these early works, on Plain Changes and Cross Peals.

(3) Then there is the puzzle of the Cambridge Eight and Forty.

(4) Then would come the work from which the Exordium is taken, which, as we have seen, would include Bob Doubles.

(5) Then, the work containing the verses on ringing, and including Grandsire.

(6) Finally, and almost certainly written for this work, the verses on Grandsire Bob by R.R.; and (by him, or by a collaborator of his) all that part of this work which is about Grandsire Bob, together with any parts of the former works which may have seemed to need re-writing.

Whether any or all of these works had ever been printed, one cannot, of course, say, but it is most probable that both the Dedication and the Exordium were copied from printed books. The latter may have been written by a Cambridge Don, who was a friend of the writer of the rest of that book, and the same person may have supplied the line of Latin poetry which adorns the title page. (The meaning of this line is, that when we are learning, we should not lose our temper, nor be frivolous.)

Of course, by speaking of different 'works,' one does not imply that they all necessarily appeared separately. And there is always the possibility that we have here a collection of what we may call 'cuttings,' made by Stedman, or more probably a friend of his.

The vague '50 or 60 years' may be a reference to the date of the earliest book on ringing then known. If so, the Exordium may be half a century later than the Dedication.

V.

One or two points remain for consideration. First, as to the 'Cambridge Eight and Forty.' At the end of Plain Changes on three and four bells, there is a section (apparently misplaced from the end of five-bell changes), introduced with these words: 'I will here insert two or three old peals on five bells, which (though rejected in these days, yet) in former times were much in use, which for antiquity's sake, I here set down.'

Then follows (a) 'The twenty all over,' (b) 'An Eight and Forty,' and (c) 'Cambridge Eight and Forty.' The two former have instructions for ringing given, and are merely Plain Changes. But the last has no instruction; one may almost say, less than none, for the only comment on the figures is a remark on its defects, viz., that the Treble and Second never come behind, neither does the Fourth or Fifth come before. The figures consist of eight slow sixes rung on the inside places of five bells. They are clumsily arranged, for they begin with two plain changes, and two of the sixes are one row short each, in order to avoid repeating these changes when they would occur in the natural course. This method is clearly neither Plain Changes nor a Cross Peal, yet it is here placed in the middle of Plain Changes, and treated very summarily, compared with the way it is praised in the Exordium. If it were not that many works of genius seem trifling and obvious when once they have been made, one would say that the two changes which Stedman made in this method, in order to form his Principle, were trifling and obvious. He merely inserted a quick six before each slow six, and placed the sixes in the front instead of in the middle. But he was clearly only adapting Cambridge Eight and Forty, for he kept on the two alien changes to begin with, only making them two changes of Grandsire instead of the two Plain Changes of his model.

The way this Cambridge obsolete method is treated would seem as though Stedman had got his ideas for his 'Campanalogia' in his mind, but wanted to get these other methods, that some ringers wanted to have printed, out of the way first.

Another point is, why the 'Bob' in 'Grandsire Bob'? When Grandsire was first introduced, what we should call the Work of the Method, would appear to ringers then as: (a) Cross Peal work in pieces 1 and 2; (b) Plain Changes (making third's place); and (c) a Bob (or 'Dodge').

Now, when ringing this on six bells, an additional place for making bobs (or 'dodges') was found by making second's place instead of third's. Thus, this method could be described as Grandsire with an extra Bob. Or, in short, as Grandsire Bob. Therefore, if now we are to go back to the old way of using the word Bob, in the name of a method, it must mean that the method, to which this word has been added, contains an extra place for dodging, compared with the method called by the same name, but without the word Bob.

We may also note that our author uses the word 'Dodge' to describe two simultaneous 'Bobs' (or Dodges). That is, two columns are occupied in making his 'Bob,' but it takes four in which to make his 'Dodge.'

Also, that the ringer of the Quarter Hunt (we might say of the 'Observation Bell') is instructed to give notice of every Bob Change by saying 'Bob.' That is to say, he had to call 'bob' when there was a plain lead! Whether he had to call 'Double Bob' at a Bob lead, and 'Single' as we do now, we are not told. It may be the ringers were expected to learn the position of what we now know as 'Calls,' before they began to ring a touch. The wording shows that 'calling' was a new practice, introduced in order to ring Grandsire Bob.

We may notice, too, that the fact that many variations are given for ringing Grandsire Bob, shows that the method was quite new when our book was written, and had not then settled down to any definite standard.

Finally, that the difference between Plain Changes and Cross Peals lay in this: In Plain Changes each bell in turn was pricked (or appointed hence 'pricking the changes') to hunt up (or down); the other bells meanwhile lying still. In Cross Peals, the bells all hunted up and down, across one another.

NOISY BELFRIES.

To the Editor.

Sir.—In your issue of December 25th, I see the simple device said to be the design of Major J. H. B. Hesse for reducing the amount of noise of bells in the streets surrounding the church. I wish to inform the Major, and all others whom it may concern, that the same was erected in the bell chamber at St. Michael's Church, Bishop's Stortford, Herts, 40 years ago.—Yours,

HENRY JAMES TUCKER, Late Sexton and Steeplekeeper

TRURO DIOCESAN GUILD. MEETING AT TRURO CATHEDRAL.

About 30 ringers attended a gathering at the Cathedral on Boxing Day, the towers of Gulval, Helston, St. Agnes, St. Columb Minor, St. Gluvias, St. Newlyn East, and Kenwyn, being represented.

Most of the visiting ringers were unable to ring anything but rounds, and found the bells rather difficult to control, owing to the number (10) and long draft of rope, consequently the striking was often exceedingly rough. However, some quite good ringing was done by combined members of the Cathedral, Kenwyn and Gulval bands, by whom touches of Grandsire Doubles and Triples were brought round, under the conductorship of the Diocesan Ringing Master, Dr. Symons, of Penzance. This was the first time that the majority of those attending had rung on more than six bells.

After tea, which was provided in St. Mary's Hall, Dr. Symons proposed a vote of thanks to the lady helpers.—The Truro District Secretary (Mr. A. S. Roberts) pointed out how difficult it was to arrange these meetings when towers did not reply. Out of the 22 towers invited only nine replied.

PRESENTATION TO BELFAST RINGER. CHANGE RINGING DIFFICULTIES IN NORTH IRELAND'S CAPITAL.

A beautiful pocket book and wallet was presented on December 30th to Mr. A. Abraham, a member of the St. Thomas's band, Belfast, who is leaving for London to take up work in the Church Army. The gift was subscribed to by the members of the company, and the presentation was made by the Dean of Connor (President of the Ringing Society).

Mr. Abraham's departure will remove from Belfast one of a little band which has been striving hard to keep the bells of St. Thomas's Church ringing. The chief difficulty is the lack of keenness and the constant changes in the band. As a result no progress can be made with change ringing, but the call changes that are rung are always well struck.

The custom of ringing out the old year and ringing in the new was observed, the muffles being on before midnight. The 'witching hour' was announced by twelve 'volleys,' and then the open bells burst out merrily and continued for half an hour. The heltry was crowded with visitors, who were much interested in seeing the ringers at their work.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

A faculty has been applied for, for the recasting and rehangings of the peal of ten at Minehead, Somerset. A peal of six near Minehead is to be augmented to eight.

Mr. Keith Hart, who has done such yeoman service to Sussex ringing, is the only member of the band left at St. Peter's tower, Brighton, which took part in the first peal which he conducted thirty-three years ago next Tuesday.

One of the Central Council witnesses at the Coventry inquiry found himself sitting beside one of the Cathedral clergy, and after listening to the long schedule of faults ending with 'Then comes the tenor, and that is not in tune with itself,' the former whispered to the latter, 'What a rotten lot of bells,' to which the response eagerly whispered back, was 'Yes, only these wretched ringers can find a good word to say for them.' He had evidently not recognised the Council's representative.

In response to an urgent appeal from the Diocese of Jerusalem, the Rev. F. Llewelyn Edwards, hon. secretary of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild, is undertaking temporary work in the Island of Cyprus. Mr. Edwards will have charge of four churches—with no bells at any of them. The Rev. C. A. Phillips, one of the branch secretaries of the Guild, will be in charge of Kington Magna during his absence.

To-day's anniversaries include the 8,720 Norwich Court Bob rung in 1771 at St. Michael's Coslany, Norwich, and a peal of 7,040 Oxford Treble Bob Major at St. Peter's, Nottingham, in 1774.

'The first true peal of five thousand that ever was rung here' was recorded of a compleat peal of Bob Trippl'es rung at St. John's, Croydon, on January 17th, 1734 or 1735 (it is not certain which).

The first peal of Grandsire Cinques was rung on January 19th, 1724, at St. Bride's, Fleet Street.

A 5,040 of Garthing's Trebles (Grandsire) was rung at St. Margaret's, Lynn, on January 20th, 1740.

Wm. Cooter, who condemned as false the handbell peal of Stedman Triples rung by the Cumberlands on December 19th, 1852, conducted by John Cox, called a peal of Stedman 'in hand' on January 20th, 1854. It would be interesting if any of our readers can throw light on this disputed peal to settle the claim to the first peal of Stedman Triples 'on handbells retained in hand.'

A peal of 6,600 Bob Maximus was rung at St. Mary-the-Great, Cambridge, on January 21st, 1788.

The modern vogue of Cambridge Surprise Royal was introduced by a peal rung at Cheltenham on January 21st, 1898. It was published in the belief that it was the first peal in the method, but a peal had been rung at Wakefield on October 26th, 1822.

Bishopwearmouth ringing has suffered yet another loss by death. Mr. Robert W. Lovie, who passed away in Sunderland last week. He joined the Durham and Newcastle Diocesan Guild in 1892, and rang 28 peals. He took up the art about the same time as the late Major Hudson and Mr. W. T. Robson, they were all members of the same band, and rang a number of peals together.

Orders for the book on 'Method Splicing' should be sent, with remittance of 1s. 3d. per copy, to 'The Ringing World' Office, Woking. Every ringer should have a copy of this book, from which can be acquired a full knowledge of the system by which many Minor methods can be rung in one true extent. To those who know nothing of the theory and practice of method splicing this book will come as a revelation.

The British United Guilds dinner at Bristol on Saturday was again a great success, and a large company enjoyed an extremely pleasant evening. A report will appear in our next issue.

Writing from Portsmouth, a correspondent says: 'The broadcasting of Stedman Caters from Birmingham on Sunday night came through perfectly. With 6-8 bobbed behind, whilst the 9th came out slow, made the bob, and went in quick and dodged to 6-7 up, the last course was very musical, the bells running into rounds perfectly at the last change of the six, after excellent striking. It was, indeed, a pleasing contrast to the chiming of St. Martin's-in-the-Fields.'

OUR CHAMPION RINGERS.

Peal ringers are really a modest lot of men. They ring peals, but it is with the utmost difficulty one can wring out of them any particulars of what they have done!

A fortnight ago we asked those who had rung 40 peals and upwards in 1925 to send us the number they rang, the number conducted, and the number of towers over which their peals for the year were spread.

Surely there were more than four who passed the 40 mark! Yet this is all who have responded. Perhaps those who have not yet obliged us with the particulars asked for will send us the details by Monday next.

COVENTRY BELLS.

FACULTY FOR RECASTING GRANTED.

The petition by the Vicar and churchwardens of the Cathedral Church of St. Michael, Coventry, for the recasting of their bells was heard on Monday, the 4th inst., and, as already indicated by the summary of the proceedings which appeared in our last issue, was granted.

The Chancellor of the Diocese (Mr. E. W. Hansell) held his Consistory Court in the ancient buildings of the Palace Yard, Coventry, and the case occupied over four hours. Sir Henry Maddocks, K.C. (instructed by Mr. W. P. Legender), appeared for the Vicar and churchwardens, and Alderman J. S. Pritchett, Recorder of Lincoln (instructed by Messrs. Rotherham and Co.), was for Mr. E. Caldicott, who opposed the petition. The Apparitor-General (Mr. G. J. Dalton) having opened the court, Mr. Walter Brewitt, the Diocesan Registrar, declared the terms of the application.

After the usual preliminary statement on either side, Sir H. Maddocks opened the case for the petitioners. He said the original proposal to melt down the ten bells into 14 had been amended, as stated, and the present scheme was unanimously approved by the Parochial Council on June 17th last. He said that the inscriptions upon the present bells would be again used. He outlined the history of the bells from the 15th century, and said the peal was recast in 1774, and subsequently two others (6th and 10th) in 1799 and 1804 (the tenor for the third time in its history). They were thus not ancient bells in the ordinary sense of the term. The present bells were not harmonious, the first seven bells were each a quarter-tone flat, the eighth and ninth were 1-8-tone flat, and when they came to the tenor, that was not in tune with itself, the hum note being an augmented seventh (nearly a tone within the octave). He was told that these bells were cast at the worst period of bell founding in history, and that was why they were so discordant, and not in harmony with themselves. It was only of recent years that one great secret of the harmony of bells had been rediscovered. This was known as the Simpson or five-tone principle, and it was this principle which it was proposed to adopt, so as to obtain the best results. He added that it was proposed to recast the ten bells as they were, with headstocks provided, so that they could be rung in the English manner if ever fortune gave them some place strong enough to allow them to be rung. It was proposed to add two bells to match the ten bells, so that there would be a ringing peal of twelve bells; and two other bells would be added for carillon purposes.

PIANO DEMONSTRATIONS.

Dr. W. H. Brazil, B.Sc., was then called, and gave particulars of the defects which he had found in the bell tones (as previously enumerated by counsel). He explained the tones of a bell, viz., fundamental, hum and nominal, with certain overtones or harmonics, i.e. the tierce (or Minor-third) and quint (or Major-fifth), illustrating them severally on a piano. All the bells in the peal, he said, were distinctly out of tune, their harmonics all wrong, and in most cases the hum note nearly a full tone sharp. The bells were horribly inharmonic, and indeed belonged to the very worst period of English bell-founding, the last half of the 18th century and first half of the 19th. Dr. Brazil then proceeded to explain the Simpson five-tone principle, and demonstrate its tones by chords on the piano, and also those of the old-style tuning, the one sounding harmonious and the other very discordant. (The notes were (1) C, C, E flat, G, C, and (2) C sharp, C, E, G, C.) The new bells would be fitted with headstocks, so that if, at Coventry, they ever had a tower, they might be rung.

Cross-examined by Mr. Pritchett, he said he had made a special study of bells. He had musical taste and a good ear, and could judge one-eighth of a tone. His statements were not merely conjecture, nor his illustrations upon the piano misleading.

Upon being asked if he was aware that the bells of Coventry had always had the reputation of being the finest peal in England, he replied: 'I have heard so, but do not agree with it.' He admitted, however, that he had not heard them rung, as they had not been rung for 40 years. He had heard them chimed. He denied that when bells are rung in peal in the English fashion, the harmonics are merged into one sound. Asked if he knew that for centuries they had been regarded as one of the finest peals, he said he had heard so, but the opinion only came from ringers, who were not to be relied on; they cared much more for the 'go' of a bell than for its tone. He wished the bells to be the very best and perfect of their kind. Asked which he considered a perfect peal, he replied, 'Manchester Cathedral is a perfect Simpson peal.'

Answering the Chancellor, the witness said these bells had been recast on the Simpson principle, a system universally adopted by all modern bell founders with such success that we had been able to export £500,000 worth during the last few years.

Mr. Pritchett then asked the witness if he had heard that Mr. Young, on behalf of the church bell ringers, had offered to purchase the bells at the price the founders had allowed them for old metal, with a view of their being stored, and later rehung in Coventry, or, failing that, elsewhere?

Dr. Brazil: I have heard of it.

Mr. Pritchett: Was the offer considered by the Parochial Council?

Dr. Brazil: It was not.

Mr. Pritchett: What do you say to such an offer yourself?

Dr. Brazil: I should certainly decline it.

Mr. Pritchett: On what grounds? There would be no pecuniary loss, for you would get the price of the metal.

Dr. Brazil: It seems to me unnecessary.

The Chancellor said it would mean getting a faculty, and it was difficult to get a faculty to sell church property.

Mr. Pritchett: You know that the bells are going to the foundry to be melted down?

Dr. Brazil: Yes, but we shall have the same metal back.

RINGERS NOT GOOD JUDGES.

Dr. William Wooding Starmer, Professor of Campanology at Birmingham University, said he was a writer of articles upon bells. He had examined the Cathedral bells, and found the hum-tones irregular. He agreed with Dr. Brazil's evidence, but he preferred to concentrate upon three notes in a bell, viz., the nominal, strike and hum. These three settled everything. The hum-notes of these bells ranged from the sixth to the seventh, and this tone was so adopted he thought by English bell tuners in view of change ringing. All the bells varied, and even one bell out made the rest inaccurate. As regards the Simpson principle, it was not a new one. It had been carried out by the greatest of Belgium founders of all time. He instanced the Hemony's, the Aerschols, etc. The system would improve St. Michael's bells. He had spent 30 years analysing bells all over Europe.

Cross-examined by Mr. Pritchett, witness said he was, as a boy, a ringer, but had never rung a peal he was glad to say. He could not agree that ringers were good judges of bell tones; they thought more of the 'go' of a bell. Asked as to his knowledge of practical bell tuning, he said he was afraid that his knowledge did not lie that way. He admitted that defects were common in bells, and modern ones must be adjusted after casting.

Mr. Pritchett: Have you heard these bells?

Dr. Starmer: Yes, I heard the hour bell this morning, and the hum-note was not correct.

Mr. Pritchett: Would the man in the street find any defect in the hum-note?

Dr. Starmer: Not unless he were a musical man.

In reply to further questions, witness said it was possible to make the bells as proposed, scientifically adjusted and accurate. The citizens might not hear the Minor third, nor could ringers judge the tone of bells. Possibly bells might be too much tuned.

Mr. Pritchett: When these bells are adjusted, would they be any better to the man in the street?

Dr. Starmer: I am not concerned with the man in the street, it is whether it is good.

Mr. Pritchett: Do you think, supposing the fundamental note is correct, that it matters one farthing to the citizens of Coventry?

Dr. Starmer: I cannot answer for the citizens of Coventry; one thing is good and the other not.

In re-examination, Dr. Starmer stated that if the bells were recast there would be more tone and resonance.

Mr. R. Ashton Houseman said he was the secretary of Messrs. Gillett and Johnston, makers of bells and carillons, of Croydon. He had examined the bells, but was not a musical expert. His experience was that recasting always improved the tones of bells, and would effect a great improvement in these ten.

Cross-examined by Mr. Pritchett: He said he had never read or heard of 'Shipway.' He was not concerned with the technical side of the business, but with the administrative side only. Their experience showed that these bells are inharmonic, and when contrasted with a Simpson-tuned peal, very bad, the defects being marked indeed.

By the Chancellor: The defects would be more apparent in chiming than in ringing.

This concluded the evidence for the petitioners.

CASE FOR THE OPPOSITION.

Mr. Pritchett, in opening his case for the opposition, said that though he appeared nominally for Mr. Caldicott, he practically represented the ringers of England, and he was supported by the Central Council of Church Bell Ringers. Coventry bells had the reputation of being an extraordinarily fine peal, and consequently the Exercise took the greatest interest in them, and were loath to have the bells melted on any pretext whatever. He was proud to be one of the four present who had rung upon the bells over 40 years ago. He would call these witnesses to testify as to the excellent quality of the bells as a peal. If the peal was a first-class peal, surely it ought to be preserved, and the citizens of Coventry ought not to be deprived of a heritage, simply because certain experts said that the harmonics were defective. It might be possible, theoretically, by recasting these bells to produce a more perfect peal, but he submitted that it was not at all necessary. With the exception of the light ring at Stoke, Coventry had no bells which could be rung to-day, in the old English fashion, on occasions of public rejoicings. As far as bell ringing was concerned, the city would be isolated from the rest of England.

The Chancellor: It is now.

Mr. Pritchett: Yes, but if this petition is granted, all hope of having a ringing peal will be taken away.

Mr. Pritchett concluded by stating that the ringers of England desired this matter to be thoroughly investigated ere the identity of such a famous peal should be destroyed, nor could such a desire be wondered at, considering that as a peal the bells were simply excellent.

After the luncheon interval, Mr. Pritchett called Mr. R. Caldicott, a churchwarden of Coventry until last year. He had entered a caveat, he said, on the ground that he thought the scheme had not been properly thought out. He was also influenced by the fact of finding that the bell ringers of England were against it, and because of the more than ordinary reputation of the peal. He had never heard any citizen raise any objection to the present bells.

Sir Henry Maddocks, in cross-examination, asked if he still objected, now that he was to have the ten bells kept as such, but improved, to which witness replied that he objected to the bells losing their individuality. He could not accept the suggestion that they would be better.

Sir Henry: But you have heard the guarantee of the bell founders?

Mr. Caldicott: Yes, but I beg to differ.

The Chancellor: By previous recasting the bells have already lost their original identity, and have not preserved their original form, why would they lose their identity by recasting in 1926?

Mr. Caldicott replied that he considered the old way better than the modern upon which they were to be recast. Replying further to the Chancellor, he said he was 'non-musical.'

The Chancellor: To the non-musical they are not out of tune?—No (laughter). If, however, you get five so-called musical people to say the bells are out of tune, no two will point out the same faults. (To be continued.)

A WITNESS'S IMPRESSIONS

Dear Sir,—Alas! the famous Coventry bells are now in the condemned cell—probably on their way to the execution shed by this time, without any chance of a reprieve, consigned to this ignoble fate by a cleverly prearranged plan to wilfully destroy 'the finest ring of bells extant,' in order to satisfy the whims of a new craze.

I would like the ringers of England, the older ones at any rate, who remember these bells, to know that a necessarily small section of us did all in our power to save these bells. It was the first time we had ever been in a Consistory Court, and, I for one, hope it may be the last, for I was as much surprised at the proceedings as if I had met Canon Coleridge there dressed as a boy scout!

To begin with, I must say, in justice to the Chancellor of the Diocese who presided, that in the manner in which the case was presented, he could not very well have arrived at any other decision. From the very beginning it was easy to see the carefully prepared scheme, and the able manner in which all in authority had been 'spoon-fed' on the five-toned principle; also that the good people of Coventry ignored the fact that they had already in their possession a national monument, in the shape of a ring of ten second to none for sweetness of tone and richness of sound. The bells are, indeed, an outstanding feature of the bell founders' art in days gone by!

I was staggered at the amount of time occupied in the condemnation of the bells—anything the 'campanological experts' could invent was eagerly listened to and made a note of. The three or four well-known ringers present who spoke on behalf of the bells, and had actually rung on them, were at once interrupted the moment anything was said likely to upset the arrangements. I am not a 'self-constituted campanological expert,' but having been a ringer for nearly 50 years, and rung in over 900 bellfries, from Inverness to the coast of Cornwall, including every Cathedral, Abbey and Minster where ringing takes place, I certainly ought to be credited with knowing a good ring of bells when I hear them—for my experience includes good, bad and indifferent. I made special application to have three or four minutes only, in order to 'build up' my various reasons for retaining Coventry bells, but this was at once crushed! Certainly I strongly denounced the 'howl' for I am sure it affects the changes in ringing, then so surely must it also affect the harmony in tune playing.

One procedure I thought most unfair, and that was the provision of a piano, for a hostile expert, who had already taken up more time than anyone else, to strike certain discordant notes, and declare to the Chancellor that each sound represented a certain bell in St. Michael's tower!

I stated clearly that I did not agree with the 'experts' who gave lengthy demonstrations on the 'hum-note,' and the 'lap-note' and all the other notes, on the ground that they must hear the bells ringing in the orthodox manner, high up in the steeple, to properly judge their tone. Another thing I made a strong protest against was the statement that ringers' ears were non-musical, and that they were concerned more with the 'go' of the bells than with their tone! In answer to counsel as to what test I applied to St. Michael's bells, it seemed that I was at once 'out of court' because I do not carry a pocketful of sensitive tuning forks about with me! My memory of 40 years ago was also questioned, but the answer that those who call peals of 5,000 changes and upwards are blessed with singularly good memories, was also unheeded.

Isolated cases of good bells may be found in various places. For example, Bow tenor, the 11th at St. Saviour's, and the corresponding bell at Exeter Cathedral, all stand out in bold relief, but at Coventry they are (or were) all good. In my early ringing days the very name of Coventry was revered among ringers all over the country—it was, indeed, a sort of Mecca, to which occasional pilgrimages were made, and anyone making this visit at once obtained the hall-mark of an enthusiast.

During the luncheon hour, the Rural Dean approached me on the subject, and when I congratulated him on the superb bells already there, he replied, 'Ah! but you will soon hear something so much better when they are recast!' I 'hac mee doots.' Our counsel, Alderman Pritchett, of Birmingham, made a very able appeal, out all to no purpose, and, strange to say, during his address, two or three fire engines dashed past outside, their clanging bells causing a considerable din. Alderman Pritchett certainly missed a chance in not suggesting that they were 'Simpson-tuned'—I am sure they made noise enough!

An offer was made to purchase the bells at the price the bell founders would allow for old metal—but no, the 'wonderful' new bells must be of their 'own metal'!

So let those authorities, who have a good ring of bells under their care, be ever on their guard, and prepared to resist the overtures of any 'experts' who may for some unknown motive, wish to 'improve' their bells!

Many years ago, a well-known bell founder told me of the finest peal they had ever cast—in fact, described it as the firm's masterpiece. I called the first peal on that ten nearly 40 years ago, and, strange to say, some of us had 'been about the country' all agreed that they were 'a magnificent peal, but they don't come come up to Coventry'!—Yours truly,
F. E. DAWKIN.

COUNCIL DESERVE THANKS OF EXERCISE.

To the Editor.

Sir,—It has been sometimes stated by detractors of the Central Council that it serves no useful purpose to the Exercise at large, but I submit that the grateful thanks of the whole body of ringers is due to the Council for the gallant fight made, firstly for the preservation of Coventry Cathedral bells from the hands of the founders, but chiefly for the defence of the principle involved.

It is true that the Council was unsuccessful in its efforts, but that fact does not detract from the merit of their action in the matter.

It should be noted that the supporters of the faculty for the recasting were not able to bring forward one practical ringer to give evidence on their behalf, notwithstanding the presence of the 'Professor of Campanology' and an ounce of practical experience is worth a ton of theory.

The apparent apathy of the citizens of Coventry to the project is easily accounted for by the fact that for over 40 years they have heard no ringing at all, and it is a truism that what one has never had, one does not miss.

And, therefore, instead of a chorus of praise to Almighty God, for which purpose surely the bells were designed and dedicated, we are to have selections of popular secular airs for the edification of street loungers—and Professors of Campanology. It will, I suppose, be some compensation for the loss of the Savoy bands from the Radio programmes, and doubtless the Cathedral authorities can be induced to include 'Ukulele Lady' in their repertoire.

The bell founders are not open to blame. After all, it is business, and there is no sentiment in business, but ringers have proverbially long memories.—Yours faithfully, OSWALD J. HUNT.

NOTES BY THE WAY.

THE HISTORY OF IMPERIAL TREBLE BOB.

By J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

Historically, one of the most interesting methods printed by Hubbard is Imperial Treble Bob; a method long since obsolete, but once very popular at Norwich. The 12,600 of Grandsire Caters at Mancroft in 1737 was the climax of the first period of the history of the Norwich Scholars. There followed twenty-three years, about which at present we know nothing. So far as peal ringing went, the older men, Melchior, Crane, and the others, were resting on their laurels; but we must not suppose that these were years of decline or stagnation. No doubt there was plenty of good ringing, and younger men were growing up who were to show themselves worthy successors of Garthorn and his men. Some of them, like William Porter and Christopher Lindsey, were interested in the theory as well as the practice of change ringing. William Porter was the composer of Double Norwich Court Bob, and Lindsey was, I believe, the composer of Imperial. Both these methods were extensively practised in the city, and the next recorded peal, after the long Grandsire Caters was one of Imperial. It was rung at St. Giles', on November 17th, 1760. It was called Imperial the Third, and the following men took part in it: John Chamberlain, Christopher Lindsey, John Barton, James Watling, John Havers, John Webster, James Vines, and John Dye. These are all new names except one, John Webster, who had been for many years one of Melchior's band, and of whose tragic death at the end of this peal I have already told. The others were to make their mark on the history of ringing. The peal was conducted by John Chamberlain, and he afterwards rang in and conducted three other notable peals, the first peal of Double Norwich Royal, at Mancroft in 1769; the first peal of Double Norwich Major, at Coslany in 1771; and a 6,048 of Imperial at Coslany in 1772.

For some reason or other none of these three peals is recorded by a peal board, as was the custom in Norwich both earlier and later; and it is possible and even probable that other peals were rung at this time by this skilful band, of which we have no record. St. Giles' bells had been made eight as far back as 1738, but this Imperial seems to be the first peal rung on them. We must remember that bell hanging in those days was not the accurate thing it is now. It was very much a matter of luck whether the bells went well or not. St. Michael's seem to have gone well from the first, but I imagine that it was otherwise at St. Giles' and St. Andrew's. Anyhow, it was not for lack of good ringers that the first peal at St. Giles' was not rung till twenty-five years, and the first at St. Andrew's not till one hundred and eighteen years after they were respectively made eights.

The following is the account of the second peal of Imperial, from the 'Norwich Mercury':—

On January 13th, 1772, was rung at St. Michael's, Coslany, Norwich, 6,048 changes of IMPERIAL the THIRD, in 3 hours and 66 minutes, conducted by John Chamberlain. Stations of ringers thus:

John Chamberlain	Treble	James Watling	5
William Warner	2	James Vine	6
John Havers	3	John Dye	7
John Dixon	4	Simon Watling	Tenor

The peal was composed by Christopher Lindsey, and, unlike most of these old compositions, has come down to us. Lindsey, no doubt, composed a good many more peals, but they have all perished, and we can hardly judge what advance had been made in composition by him and the other Norwich ringers. The last we hear of him was when, in 1778, he rang the sixth at Mancroft to the 6,240 of Oxford Treble Twelve, then the longest peal of Maximus rung.

Whatever else Thomas Blakemore took back with him to London as the result of his foraging expedition to Norwich, where you will remember he was Lindsey's guest, it is pretty certain that Court Bob as rung at Norwich and Imperial were among his spoils. Both of these methods duly appeared in 'The Clavis.' The authors explain the rather curious title of the latter by saying that it was called Imperial the Third because there had been two older Imperial methods, and this Third was the result of improvements in the other two. What Imperial the Second was I do not know. I believe it is entirely lost. But the original Imperial has survived, and a very interesting method it is. It is, so far as we can tell, the oldest of all the Treble Bob Major methods. It goes back to the last quarter of the seventeenth century, and is older than Oxford, which was not known in 1700, and, of course, much older than Kent, which was not rung till James Barham's time.

One of the earliest books that deal with ringing was called 'The School of Recreation.' It was first published in 1684, and there seem to have been two other editions dated 1701 and 1732. The notes I have are from the 1701 edition, but I am not too sure of the date, as I am quoting from notes and not from the original which I have never seen. The author (who he was I do not know), after dealing with Grandsire Bob, goes on, 'I shall next collect what London peals I think most harmonious and agreeable without troubling myself to go to Oxford or Nottingham or Reading to inquire after their different methods of peals, as indeed needless, and my reason is this, because I think the same rules for peals that are suitable to our London genus may challenge likewise an acceptance amongst other cities, provided their steeples are furnished with as many and good bells, and their belfries with as ingenious and elaborate ringers as here in London.'

The first method on eight bells he gives is Imperial Bob. When we examine it we find that it is the same as what we now know as Norfolk Surprise, with the addition of second's place when the treble is leading and seventh's place when the treble is lying behind; or, to put it another way, it is Double Oxford turned into a Treble Bob method in the same way that Norfolk Surprise is Double Norwich turned into a Treble Bob method. Historically there is this difference, that Norfolk actually was got from Double Norwich, but Imperial Bob is more than a hundred years older than Double Oxford Major.

Imperial Bob is an interesting example of a cross peal being made out of and on the lines of the older plain changes. The treble has a continuous Treble Bob hunt, the other bells move only sufficiently to let her pass, but instead of lying still as in plain changes, they dodge in pairs. Thus you get eleven-pull dodging at lead and behind—an excessive amount, monotonous to eye and ear; and we can easily understand that very early attempts were made to improve the method by shortening the dodging.

This was done in Imperial the Third by leaving out the internal places at the cross sections, i.e., the Double Norwich places. The result is to give you a method which constructionally is Double Bob turned into a Treble Bob Method, but spoilt because the places in 3-4 and 5-6, which are necessary to prevent repetition of rows, are no longer made on the same two bells, and consequently you do not get Bob Major lead ends. The tenors are badly parted, and the music cannot be good. If you compare Imperial the Third with Albion you will see how this defect can be remedied by substituting the Kent places of the latter for the Oxford places of the former.

If a line is drawn through the places in these three methods they can easily be compared.

So far as the work is concerned Imperial the Third is much the most difficult of the three, and it would take quite a good band to ring it. Although 'The Clavis' printed it and Shipway included it in his book, I do not think it ever was practised in London. One or two peals were rung away from Norwich, and then the method died out. It is not at all likely that another peal of it will be rung, unless it be as a mere curiosity.

THE FIRST 1926 DATE TOUCH.

At St. John's Church, Hoylandswaine, Yorks, on New Year's Eve, to 'ring out the old and ring in the new year,' a date touch of Bob Minor (1,926 changes), in 1 hour and 11 minutes: L. Wilkinson, jun., 1, F. Broadhead 2, L. Wilkinson 3, W. E. Robinson 4, S. Fielding 5, E. Brooke (conductor) 6.

On January 4th, at All Saints', Rettondon, a date touch of 1,926 changes, in 1 hour 1 minute, in the following methods: 720 Kent Treble Bob, 720 Oxford Treble Bob, 334 Plain Bob, 72 Kent Treble Bob, and 30 of Grandsire Doubles: W. Jay 1, A. Cardy 2, W. May 3, R. Whetton 4, G. Frost (longest length) 5, F. C. May (conductor) 6.

INSTRUCTION OF BEGINNERS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—It is pleasing to note in your columns that the above subject has come to the front again. I am pleased, because in my opinion, instruction to beginners is the most important work the Exercise can undertake, and, I am afraid, the most neglected.

I quite feel with Mr. Fidler when he speaks of the haphazard way in which beginners are instructed. I have seen a great many cases which have reminded me of a man instructing a sparrow to fly. He throws it up, and if it comes down again he throws it up again until away it flies; then the man stands up with pride, and says: 'There, that's the way to do it.' A great many of our young ringers are taught in the same way. If they are fortunate to have that natural gift they soon fly away; if not, they get disheartened with the hard knocks they get, and either give it up altogether, or, eventually, are content to remain at the bottom.

What is the cause of this haphazard instruction? I should say it is the haphazard way in which our instructors, who are very often towerkeepers, are elected. At our meeting, Bob proposes Dick, and there you are. Never a question as to Dick's abilities. Then again, where the church authorities appoint the man to take charge of the tower, do they ever raise the question of ringing ability? If they did, why, they have no ringing knowledge, and, therefore, nothing to guide them in their choice. What happens when a church requires an organist; the applicant has to place on the table his papers to show what he can do, and invariably the man appointed is a capable one. If we are to have better ringing for our services, and I certainly think we need it, then we shall only get it when we get the right man in the right place.

My travels have convinced me of this; where there is an indifferent leader, there you get indifferent ringing. Where is the remedy?

I often feel at a great loss to know why the Central Council do not get into this matter thoroughly. I do not see why they should not set various tests in a ringer's career, with the reward of some certificate or other. I firmly believe that this would not only be an incentive to progress, but it would eventually put every man in his proper place.

If the Council set the tests, each association could appoint its own examiners. The whole system would work smoothly, and with very little cost, and would lift ringing on to a higher plane. I very often think that our business and workings are just a little too much controlled by the leading peal ringers. I hope I am not here misunderstood. Peal ringers are necessary, our expert conductors are great men, and entitled to all the praise and appreciation we can give them, but 'Instruction to Beginners' is equally important, and ought to be brought a little more into the limelight.—Yours truly,

H. LUDRIN.

STEPPING-STONES.

Dear Sir,—In your issue of January 1st, Mr. Fidler asked me the following question:—

'Of two Kent Treble Bob Minor ringers, one has rung nothing more difficult, the other is conversant with Cambridge and London Surprise Minor. Which of the two would be the quicker to ring the Major extensions of these methods, and why?'

Now, of these two ringers the first is a Kent Treble Bob Minor ringer, but the second is, I should say, a Surprise Minor ringer. It is obvious, therefore, that the second, the Surprise Minor ringer, would be the quicker to ring the Major extensions.

Mr. Fidler previously suggested that the ringer who is desirous of becoming a Surprise Major ringer should use the Spliced Minor methods detailed by him in 'The Ringing World,' as a stepping-stone to these methods.

Again, had I three ringers, one a Kent Treble Bob Minor ringer, another a Surprise Minor ringer, and a third who is conversant with the Spliced Minor methods, I should again choose the Surprise Minor ringer as being the most capable of passing on to Surprise Major methods, Surprise Minor being, I consider, a better stepping-stone to higher methods than the more complicated Spliced Minor methods.

As a course of study for a ringer who is desirous of becoming a Surprise Major ringer, I should suggest that he takes methods in the order given in 'Standard Methods' that is—Bob Minor, Oxford and Kent Treble Bob Minor, Cambridge and London Surprise Minor, Kent and Oxford Major and Double Norwich. Ringers who are not desirous of becoming Surprise Major ringers will undoubtedly find Spliced Minor methods an interesting study, but certainly not the best stepping-stone to higher methods.

Mr. Fidler asserts that eight-bell ringers look down on Minor ringers.

With this I, with many other ringers, entirely disagree. There may be individual cases of this, but most eight-bell ringers have previously been Minor ringers, and in view of their early struggles it is not in the nature of things that they should look down on Minor ringers.

W. BIBBY.

THE VALUE OF 'COURSING.'

Dear Sir,—There is much in Mr. Fidler's letter on the above, with which I cordially agree, but on one sentence I beg to differ. Mr. Fidler says 'there is too much reliance on the coursing system.' Will he give us a better system? I maintain that if ringers were taught more largely by the coursing method, they would pick up the different methods quicker and easier. I entirely agree with his view that six-bell ringing is a good stepping-stone to Major, that is why so many six-bell ringers find Cambridge Major easier to ring than Superlative, provided they have been able to get the practice of Cambridge on six.—Yours truly,

W. KEEBLE.

SUNDAY SERVICE TOUCHES.

We regret that, owing to the demands upon the space available for Sunday Service Touches, we are unable to undertake to insert anything less than a quarter-peal on eight bells and upwards, and 720 of Doubles or Minor. Many correspondents send us quite short touches for publication and they must not be disappointed if we are unable to find room for them.

INSTRUCTION OF BEGINNERS.

Recent letters which have appeared in our columns with regard to the instruction of beginners and the right course to follow from the elementary to the more advanced stages of the art, raise a subject which is of paramount importance to the Exercise. It has been discussed before, but it is well that it should be brought again to the front, because it is too often lost sight of. While individuals may disagree as to details, there ought not to be much difficulty in laying down a general course of instruction, which experience has shown to provide the best line of advance in the Art, and it might be possible for the Central Council to issue some simple handbook dealing with the question, which would put the 'curriculum' on to well defined lines, that could be recommended for general use.

In our opinion, however, there is even more immediate need for some sort of organised tuition to be instituted by the various associations. There is, it seems to us, need for a general scheme setting up a system of properly directed instruction, under efficient tutors, whose duties should not end when a new band has been taught to ring Doubles or simple Minor methods, but should be extended until they are led on to much more advanced stages, and have been taught, those of them who are capable of learning, something of the art of calling and conducting. There are few instances at present where instruction supplied officially by associations takes a band beyond the very fringe of change ringing, the result being often a waste of effort, because as soon as the instructor ceases his work, the band, left to their own devices, do not know sufficient to maintain either progress or interest.

Instruction of beginners has been a much too casual business. It is really an extremely important part of the work of the Exercise, and ought to be given a much more prominent place in the policy of our associations. There is no more reason why a Grandsire band should not be given the services of an instructor in Stedman, or a Bob Major company provided with a tutor for Double Norwich or Treble Bob, than that a company of 'stoney' ringers should be shown the first step in change ringing. Indeed, there is ample scope even among Treble Bob ringers for instructors to lead them on to the Surprise methods, and if associations are really anxious to raise the standard of their ringing, this is a plan which they could adopt with profit so far as progress is concerned. For the most part, ringers now have to shift for themselves and make their own opportunities of extending their accomplishments; but, if the Exercise would make real progress, new means will have to be adopted. Once the associations showed the will to advance in this all-important work, the Council could then prepare and issue a manual which might prove of real service to ringers. In the meantime they might turn their energies to stirring up the indifferent associations to a realisation of the importance of the whole subject.

HELD OVER.

We regret that, owing to the unusual demands on our space this week, we are compelled to hold over Mr. J. A. Trollope's usual 'Notes by the Way,' and letters to the Editor.

PRESENTATION OF PEAL RECORD IN MACCLESFIELD.

After the watch-night service on New Year's Eve, the Vicar (the Rev. H. E. Stevens) attended in the belfry to present a record of the last twenty peals which had been rung in the tower, which he had had printed and framed at his own expense. He said how pleased he was to present the record to be hung in the belfry, and as that would be his last time in the belfry he thanked the ringers for their cordial and hearty co-operation in the eleven years he had been Vicar. He was leaving to take up work as Vicar of Billesden, in Leicestershire, where he was to be instituted and inducted on the following Tuesday, January 5th, and he assured the ringers that he should never forget the eleven happy years he had spent in Macclesfield.

On Tuesday, January 5th, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Cater* (1,260 changes) was rung in 53 minutes, in honour of his institution by the following: J. Burgess 1, E. Atkin 2, W. Wainsley (conductor) 3, G. Bottomley 4, S. Dean 5, H. Davenport 6, T. Mottershead 7, J. Westwood 8, J. Norbury 9, J. V. Norbury 10.

BRISTOL UNITED RINGING GUILDS.

FIFTH ANNUAL DINNER.

The 'Dinner of the West,' organised by Bristol United Guilds, was held at Bristol on Saturday, January 9th. The Guilds were again fortunate in having the valuable help of Mr. W. S. Emery, of the Medical Department, Bristol University, and, through his good offices, the arrangements were augmented by his having obtained from the Bristol University authorities permission for ticket holders to view the new buildings and inspect and ring the 'Great George' bell, weighing 9½ tons. This privilege was greatly appreciated by approximately 120 of the guests. The party went straight to the belfry, and found Mr. Roberts, the chief engineer, waiting to extend a cordial reception and assist in the party's happiness. The honorary secretary was highly amused to find that, having detailed a big heavy man to ring the bell, 'little ladies' were having a 'pull.' Whilst the bell was swinging, a press photographer took a picture of the party who surrounded the great mass of moving metal. After a good long stay with 'Great George,' which was much admired, he was silenced and bidden 'adieu.' The rest of the University buildings were viewed with interest, and, in the case of the beautiful hall, with 'awe.'

Ringers afterwards made their way to the various towers in the city to find the usual disappointments (not due to the lack of organisation) and satisfactory alternatives. Ringing took place until 6 p.m., and even then some of the visitors seemed loath to leave the bells and consequently delayed the dinner, which was served at the Grand Hotel. During the meal, which was splendidly served, the party were entertained with music provided by Mr. George Lloyd and Mr. Alec Clark, who were later engaged in the Grand ballroom.

The chairman was Mr. W. Knight, and the visitors included the Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn (Master of the Oxford Diocesan Guild), Mr. John D. Matthews (Master of the Royal Cumberland Youths), Mr. Chas. Burden (College Youths), Mr. H. Walker and Miss Kathleen Jackson (Yorkshire Association), Miss E. Emu (Devonshire Guild), Messrs. J. T. Dyke (Secretary), E. E. Burgess, J. Hunt and G. Stacey (Bath and Wells Association), Messrs. S. Jones (Newport), J. W. Jones (Secretary, Llandaff and Monmouth Diocesan Association), S. R. Roger (Croydon), W. J. Nevard (Essex), J. Austin, H. Beckett and E. Davis (Gloucester), C. Gardiner and S. Hopper (Swindon), Cecil J. Matthews, J. Sparrow and W. J. Hazell (London), W. Farley (Willis), J. Dart (London), A. Wright (Painswick), and many ringers from Bath and surrounding districts.

The Chairman gave the loyal toast, and remarked that it was a great gratification to him and his colleagues to see such a fine gathering. He believed it was a record as far as members went. The success of those annual meetings was entirely due to the indefatigable energy of the hon. secretary, Mr. Edgar Guise, backed with a hard-working committee, and he (the speaker) did not know how they would get on without their secretary.

Apologies for absence were received from the Lord Bishop of Bristol and many church dignitaries of the West. An apology was also read from Sir Thomas Inskip, Solicitor-General, who, it is hoped, may attend the sixth annual dinner. Apologies from ringers showed that those unable to attend were thinking and wishing success to the West.

A GIFT FOR THE GUILDS.

Mr. F. G. Leaker (past chairman) then presented to the Guilds a chairman's hammer, made from oak which was, in the 15th century, used for roofing in Temple Church (the Leaning Tower).

The Chairman, accepting the gift, thanked Mr. Leaker, and humorously expressed the hope that it would not be used for what it was intended. It is a handsomely carved gavel.

The Chairman then proposed the toast of 'The Church,' and said we now had preachers of the Church of England and the Free Churches speaking in each other's pulpits, and he hoped that one day there would be the union of churches into one great Brotherhood. He asked that all ringers should take an interest in their church. His experience with the clergy was that—with one or two exceptions—their sympathy towards ringers depended upon the amount of interest the ringers took in the church. He coupled with the toast the name of the Rev. M. Paterson, Vicar of St. Thomas's, City, who had done so much for the Bristol United Ringing Guilds. The Vicar of St. Thomas's was always prepared to help the Guilds, and without his help in the past the work of the committee would have been very difficult.

The Rev. M. Paterson, responding, said that it had been said that clergy did not know what men were (laughter), but he must be an exception, as not only did he know his ringers, he actually knew them by their nicknames, such as 'Bolshevik Sam' and 'My Enemy.' He regarded his friendship with his ringers as most important in his life. It began the day when he was walking with trembling knees towards the church to be inducted, but his courage returned when, nearing the church, the bells of St. Thomas's struck out. He was not nervous after that (laughter). He felt that the men in the belfry were doing good service. He found a remarkable spirit amongst them, and also several virtues that might well be copied by others. The relations between the clergy and ringers should be the closest in the work of the Church. Many of the ringers were most devoted Churchmen, and the clergy wanted them to take an even greater share in the work and services of the churches to which they belong. The clergy had invaded the belfries and wanted the ringers, not singly, but as a body, to invade the churches (applause).

Mr. J. T. Dyke proposed 'The Bristol United Ringing Guilds.' He said that whenever he came to Bristol he was sure of a hearty welcome. This welcome was extended to all ringers, whether they were Surprise ringers, or even only rounds ringers. He also paid a compliment to Bristol in respect of good ringers and conductors, and he made special comment upon the fact that they were not confined to one tower, or even to two or three. The reason for that lay in the fact of the word 'United.' Bristol, he said, was also showing the progress that was being made, and was in front of many places. Bristol was a city in which ringers from other places were always welcome, and had taken a lead in helping and encouraging all ringers in their work. He coupled with this toast the name of Mr. Guise (hon. secretary of the United Guilds), to whose energetic work to further the interests of ringing in the West he paid tribute.

Following the drinking of the toast, musical honours were accorded to Mr. E. Guise, and cheers were also given for Mrs. Guise. When these had subsided there was a call for a cheer for 'all the little Guises,' but there is only one. By this time, unfortunately, Mr. Guise had had to leave the festivities, but his response had been left in the hands of the vice-chairman (Mr. H. J. Way), who stated that Mr. Guise, on behalf of his committee, expressed thanks to those whose continued help made their efforts successful. He also urged that the facilities for cheaper travelling should be persistently forced. The efforts during the past few months had arisen from the Bristol United Ringing Guilds, and the question should be kept to the front.

'The Visitors' was proposed by the Vice-Chairman, who said it was a great compliment to the Bristol Guilds to find that they had received as visitors that night members of the Central Council, College Youths, Cumberland Youths, Yorkshire Association, Bath and Wells, Essex Association and other bodies. He was very gratified to find that the visitors had made such long journeys to visit Bristol, and he hoped that their visit would be a very enjoyable one. He coupled the names of the Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn and Mr. J. D. Matthews with that toast.

A PRICELESS ART.

Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn, responding, said that it was largely due to the country enthusiasts that the priceless art of ringing was kept going. It seemed to him that change ringing and all that the present gathering stood for, was intended to preserve what he believed to be the British way of using church bells. They stood between the animal way, though he was not lacking in admiration for good, straight ringing, and the mechanical. He did not think there was anything else in the whole world like it in its social influence. Long might the Guilds stand for it, and such social gatherings as that present be held in order to preserve, strengthen and increase the science and art of change ringing.

Mr. J. D. Matthews, also responding, remarked how different it was in Bristol now to what it was in the days when he resided there. He had, however, the satisfaction of knowing, that in the advance of the West he was instrumental, because he was one of the band that rang the first peal of Double Norwich Caters and the first peal of Surprise. He was agreeably surprised to find the present day state of things, and those who, as he could remember the old 'rats and mice' day, would appreciate what had been done and what was being done by the present day ringers in Bristol to uplift the art and science of change ringing (applause).

Rev. R. H. Whitford proposed the toast of 'The Press,' and made comment upon the Shakespearean quotation, beneath the toast, 'I rather would have been his hangman,' saying he would be the last person in the world that would hang an editor, especially the editor of 'The Ringing World.' He thought that the editor of 'The Ringing World' was too generous in praising the clergy for giving addresses at ringers' meetings, and felt that they (the clergy) did not deserve his praise, as they were only doing what he thought was their duty. He was very pleased with the articles published in 'The Ringing World,' and felt quite sure that the editor was doing his best for the Exercise (applause).

Mr. James Hunt, of Taunton, spoke, in the unavoidable absence of the editor of 'The Ringing World.' He thought that the reference in 'The Ringing World' to the clergy attending the meetings was a compliment to those clergy who were interesting themselves in ringing and to induce all ringers to get their own clergy interested also. The editor, Mr. Hunt said, had recently done the Exercise a great service in making prominent 'Spliced Methods.' The book was a masterpiece of change ringing, and every change ringer should immediately become possessor of a copy.

Toasting 'The Artists,' Mr. F. G. Leaker said he thought after the first annual dinner the committee had made a great mistake in aiming at so high a standard, because he was afraid it could not be maintained, but he had to admit a wrong conception. It had gone higher every year. He thanked Mr. Spurrier, churchwarden of St. Thomas's, for the active interest he had displayed in securing, by kind permission of the Prince's Theatre, a flying visit of Messrs. Teddy Brogden and Walter Outhwaite, the dame and demon respectively of the Prince's Theatre pantomime, whose items will long remain a happy memory. They were 'just great.' He also thanked Mrs. William Snowden and Mr. Charles Read (accompanist). The latter one of the busiest men in Bristol's musical circles. To both they owed an immense debt of gratitude, for so willingly giving their services year after year.

The following also contributed to the delightful musical items: Miss Ivy Baker (contralto), Miss Stella Walters (elocutionist), Mr. Fred Esbester (in some Bransby Williams' character studies), Mr. G. Palmer (violin solos), and the Guilds' great friend, Mr. Herbert Spiller, the baritone of whom Bristol is so justly proud. That every artist was recalled for an 'extra' conveys the true sense of the company's appreciation.—Mr. Read responded to the toast.

The proceedings concluded with 'Auld Lang Syne.'

MIDLAND COUNTIES ASSOCIATION. RECORD YEAR DESPITE LACK OF ENTHUSIASM IN NOTTINGHAM DISTRICT.

The annual meeting of Nottingham District was held at St. Mary's, Nottingham, on Saturday, January 2nd, and was attended by the vice-president (Mr. A. Coppock), Mr. F. Blood (hon. local secretary), Mr. F. W. Bailey (a member of the committee), Mr. H. Walker (Doncaster), and representatives from Beeston, Bottesford, Greasley, Ilkeston, St. Mary's and St. Peter's, Nottingham, Lenton. Ringing commenced about 4 p.m., and the meeting was held in the tower at 6 p.m., the vice-president being in the chair.

The secretary's report was read, and, after several members had offered congratulations on the successful condition of the district, and warmly praised the local secretary for his work.—The report was passed.

The Secretary stated that the year had again been a record as regards members and financially. Eleven monthly and quarterly meetings had been held, and the attendance at some was good, but at others not very encouraging. He therefore appealed to the members to try and make the present year a record for attendance at these gatherings. It was with regret the Wollaton meeting was abandoned owing to the death of Queen Alexandra, but the permission still held good, so he trusted they would pay this promised visit early in the new year. They had lost by death two ordinary members in Mr. E. Foster (Bulwell) and Mr. G. Oldham (late of Beeston), also two old hon. members in Mr. G. H. Johnson and Mr. J. Woolley. The association was represented at three out of the four funerals. The position of the district now stood as follows:

Hon. members 34, a nett increase of 3; ringing members 205, a nett increase of 16. In addition to the above, three life members were also elected in peal attempts. Total receipts amounted to £25 2s. 6d., and the hon. local secretary's expenses to £1 3s., leaving a balance on the year of £23 19s. 6d. Eleven members were in arrears on December 31st, 1925. The receipts did not include the hon. members' subscription obtained through the president (Ald. R. B. Chambers), which, when added to the above, would reach nearly £30, which was a record for the district. During the secretary's three years of office the receipts had risen from £12. He asked the members seriously to consider the question, now that the association was in a good financial position, of making some allowance to the local secretaries, on whom depended the success or failure of the branches. The secretaries had to incur expenses out of their own pockets, and were not always in a position to afford the expenses of seeing others' pleasures assured. Having now held the position three years, he would be very grateful to be relieved of the duties, as he felt it might do good to have a change.

The secretary, having been induced to undertake office for another year, the officers were re-elected en bloc.

It is a matter of regret that so little enthusiasm was displayed amongst the members; that there were only fifteen present out of a membership of 200; representing seven towers out of 21 affiliated. The secretary appeals to the members to assist during the present year to alter this state of things and give the officers more encouragement.

LOUGHBOROUGH DISTRICT.

A successful meeting of the Loughborough District was held at Loughborough on January 9th, when some 80 ringers from various parts of the country sat down to tea. The bells of the Parish Church and at the bell foundry were utilised during the afternoon and evening, some admirably struck touches on Stedman Caters and Kent Treble Bob Royal being brought round. The Rev. — Street acted as chairman at the business meeting, in the place of Canon Briggs, who was away through illness. Two new members were elected, viz.: Mr. Allen W. Rands, of Hugglescote, and Miss B. M. Bailey, of Loughborough.

Canon Briggs was again elected as president, Mr. J. Saddington as hon. district secretary, and Mr. J. H. Dean, of Hugglescote, and David Collins, Loughborough, on the committee.

A hearty vote of thanks was passed to the district secretary for his past services, also to the Rector and to Messrs. J. Taylor and Co. for their kind permission to ring and for enabling the visitors to look round the foundry.

Hugglescote was chosen as the next place of meeting.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

The Monmouthshire town of Usk is now in possession of a fine new ring of eight bells which Messrs. Taylor and Co. have supplied, by recasting the old six and adding two trebles. They were dedicated on January 13th by the Bishop of the Diocese. The peal, which has been replaced, was cast by Abraham Rudhall in 1713.

Mr. E. H. Lewis, as president of the West of Scotland Iron and Steel Institute, was in the chair at the annual dinner of the organisation in Glasgow on January 15th, when the guests included Sir John Gilmour, Secretary of State for Scotland. Mr. A. A. Hughes (of the Whitechapel Foundry) and Mrs. Hughes were among the party of 350, and Mrs. Hughes delighted the company with her handbell selections, playing with marvellous skill, 'Laud of Hope and Glory,' 'Solvieg's Song' and 'Annie Laurie.'

The Rev. Bernard Oliver Francis Heywood, M.A., Vicar of Leeds, has been appointed to the Bishopric of Southwell, vacant by the death of the Rt. Rev. Sir Edwyn Hoskyns. The new Bishop was a cousin of the late Sir Arthur Heywood, and he was last year's guest of honour at the Snowdon Memorial Dinner at Leeds. His presence resulted in a renewal of interest in the need for bell restoration at Leeds Parish Church, and it is to be hoped that his departure will not result in losing sight of the necessity for the work.

A conducting performance of more than ordinary interest, and, may we say, merit, was that achieved at Bushey, Herts, on Saturday, when Mr. Maurice Hibbert called an 'odd and even' bob peal of Stedman Triples from the tenor. This peal is in five equal parts, has 400 calls, and this is the first time it has been rung. It is the composition of Mr. J. W. Parker, of Sunderland.

A peal is to be attempted on Saturday at Croylund Abbey, Lincs, on the famous old bells which were heard both near and far when broadcast quite recently.

In reference to the peal rung at St. Mary Abbots, Kensington, last Saturday, it is interesting to note that it was rung on the 152nd anniversary of the first peal on the old ring of eight bells, which hung in the old tower before the present handsome steeple was built, and which were placed there in 1772. When the new tower was erected and the bells augmented to ten, all the old peal boards were restored and hung in the ringing chamber. Among them is one recording this ancient performance, worded as follows: 'Sunday, Jan. 16th, 1774. The Society of London Youths rang in this steeple the true and complete peal of 5,040 Grandsire Triples, in 3 hours and 10 minutes, it being the first complete peal ever rung on these bells. Performed by: Edward Butler treble, Jno. Frazier 2, Wm. Hadden 3, Thos. Groves 4, Fras. Beale 5, Davd. Davis 6, Edwd. Fagin 7, Jno. Tofield tenor. The peal was called by Jno. Frazier. Mr. Thos. Stokes, Mr. Jno. Fossbrook, churchwardens.'

The St. James's Society rang the first peal of Stedman Caters at St. Sepulchre's, Snow Hill (one of the London churches where little ringing is now done), on Jan. 24th, 1857. Some well-known men of that day took part, including Cooler, Mat. Wood, Stockham, Nobles and Haworth. A peal of 5094 Grandsire Caters was rung here on Jan. 28th, 1751.

By a coincidence two false peals of more than ordinary length were rung in Gloucestershire on Jan. 25th, 1842. One was 8105 Stedman Caters at Painswick, and the other 8081 Grandsire Caters at Stroud.

On Jan. 26th, 1735, a peal of 10,080 'Bob Majors' was rung in 6 hrs. 40 mins. at Fulham, by the Fulham Youths. The anniversary of a 10,386 Grandsire Caters, rung at Kingston, Surrey, occurs on Jan. 27th. This peal was rung in the year 1803.

One hundred and ten years ago next Thursday, was rung at Richmond, Surrey, 'a complete Peal of real Double Eight in, 5040 changes, with two bobs in a lead, as many 7th's as 2nd's, with bobs behind and before alternately.' There must have been a good band, who kept well together for some time, at this church about that period, for seven of the company who rang in the peal referred to, took part in 8448 Oxford Treble Bob on the same bells in December, 1810, over five years before, and five of those in the 1810 peal rang in the first peal of Stedman Triples on the bells in 1824. The conductor of all three of these peals was George Cole.

THE GRAMOPHONE AND CHANGE RINGING

To the Editor

Dear Sir,—Although I have quite recently made inquiries from all the producers of records known to me, I have so far found it impossible to obtain any gramophone records of actual change ringing. There are, however, records by the Gramophone Company ('His Master's Voice' series) of a few leads of Grandsire Caters, and also of some call changes, both tapped on the Rouneville carillon. In this respect, the gramophone appears to be at a disadvantage, as compared with 'wireless,' the latter having given the public at least occasional displays of scientific change ringing.

Do any of your readers know if any gramophone records of actual change ringing are to be obtained? And if so, might I suggest it would be of interest to have the information through the medium of your columns?—Yours very truly,

G. P. BURTON.

COVENTRY BELLS' INQUIRY.

WELL-KNOWN RINGERS GIVE EVIDENCE.

Mr. A. A. Hughes, of the Whitechapel Foundry, London, next gave evidence. He said that his firm were responsible for casting the present bells in 1774. He had made a great study of bells and their tones, going back over a long period. He certainly did not agree that these bells were cast at the worst period, so much depended on the foundry. As a matter of fact, the 18th century was better than the 17th.

Asked by the Chancellor as to what was the worst period, he replied that the first half of the last century was.

In further examination he said that at the same period they had cast three very similar peals to the one in question, viz., Steppney, Rotherham and Wakefield, all considered good peals; but he thought Coventry still better, and undoubtedly a very fine peal.

The Chancellor: Your firm have cast a number of peals of different kinds?

Mr. Hughes: Yes, we have cast many hundreds of peals, some vary, certain peals stand out, and always have done so. He had always heard Coventry bells well spoken of.

Further evidence was then given as to the history of the bells, and Mr. Hughes was examined as to his report. He said that he had recently inspected the bells, and closely checked their 'tap-tones' with the aid of specially tested forks. He certainly could not agree with Drs. Brazil and Starmer. As an old peal the bells were remarkably in tune. He pointed out that only the 9th had any appreciable error, viz., 0.25 of a tone, or 5½ vibrations per second out in a total of 308. So much for the main tones. He then described the 'hum-notes.' These were not based upon the octave, but varied from a seventh to an augmented seventh. As regards the 'fundamentals,' the faults were quite negligible, and as to the 'hum-notes,' they could, if it were desired to bring them into accord with present foundry practice, be readily adjusted by the modern tuning machine.

Asked what he would propose, he said it would be better to have the four new bells cast to agree with the old ten, that was, cast upon the old line, with a flat seventh 'hum-note.' In further reply, he said that he thought that the latter had been adopted because in change ringing it was more pleasing to the ear. Nothing useful would be effected by the proposed recasting.

The Chancellor: Would there be an improvement if the peal were recast for chiming purposes only?

Mr. Hughes: Some improvement might be noticed by those with very musical ears.

The Chancellor: Would it not be noticed by the great majority of people?

Mr. Hughes: I cannot say, my experience is (and I have spoken to many on the subject) that most people are quite surprised when I tell them that there is more than one note in a bell.

Sir Henry Maddocks (cross-examining): Then, Mr. Hughes, we may now take it that there are two kinds of peals, one in perfect tune suitable for weddings, and the other out of tune, to ring for funerals? (laughter). At any rate, you will agree that the peal would sound better if the defects which you have enumerated were removed?

Mr. Hughes: Undoubtedly.

Sir Henry: And still better if improved on the five-tone principle?

Mr. Hughes: That is a matter of opinion. Some people object to bells being tuned on the 'Simpson' principle.

The Chancellor: And some people object to bells being tuned at all (laughter).

The Chancellor followed his remark by a series of questions as to bell-tones, and also as to modern practice in the various foundries.—In replying, Mr. Hughes said that the present day foundry cast a large number of 'Simpson' tuned bells, and they had at Whitechapel cast many such. His experience was, however, that whilst many might prefer one style, there were, on the other hand, many who preferred the other. He found himself that, as regards tone, a flat seventh gave a certain quality of tone or character to a bell. The 'Simpson' principle had now, however, become very generally adopted.

Sir Henry: What objection can you urge against the 'Simpson' tuning?

Mr. Hughes: My objection, especially in the case of very heavy bells such as we have here, is that the harmonic overtones are very greatly accentuated, producing a howl which is very disagreeable to many people.

The Chancellor: If you were asked to produce again such a peal of bells from your foundry, I take it, then, that you would cast them in the same manner?

Mr. Hughes: Yes, but with the 'hum-notes' adjusted to a more uniform pitch.

OLD BELLS NOT FOR SALE.

Mr. E. A. Young, district surveyor for Lewisham, in giving evidence, said that he had been a ringer for some 35 years. He was the present secretary of the Central Council of Church Bell Ringers, which represented the Ringing Guilds throughout the country. It represented some 10,000 ringers, but it was impossible to give the exact figures. There were, however, 140 delegates who were sent by the Guilds. On the instructions of the President and the Standing Committee, he had, last June and since, taken whatever steps he could to save the Coventry bells. As a ringer he had always understood that these bells stood foremost among the bells of England, and as secretary of the Council he desired, on its behalf, to heartily deprecate the proposed destruction of them. He supported the caveat entered by Mr. Caldicoit.

Mr. Pritchett: Do you know Shipway's book?

Mr. Young: Yes, it was published in 1816.

Does it contain a list of bell towers?—Yes, and it quotes Coventry amongst the famous peals.

Sir Henry Maddocks, intervening, said he objected to the evidence, and eventually the Chancellor said: I think we can all agree that Coventry's bells are famous, and we will do our best to preserve them.

In further examination, Mr. Young said that he had made a study of bell-tones, had a musical ear, and did not agree with 'Simpson' tuning. He considered it wrong to melt down these bells.

Mr. Pritchett: Did you, last June, on behalf of the ringers of England, offer to guarantee the purchase of these bells?

Mr. Young: Yes, my object being to store them for Coventry until in better times the proposed campanile should have been built.

Sir Henry Maddocks, cross-examining: You have heard all the experts' evidence to-day, that these bells would be considerably improved by recasting and retuning. Do you disagree with it?

Witness: I do.

Sir Henry: What, entirely?—Yes.

Sir Henry: But your own Mr. Hughes says they can be improved. Do you disagree with him, too?

Mr. Young: Yes, I say let well alone.

Sir Henry, proceeding to put questions as to the chords by which tones had been demonstrated on the piano, Mr. Young admitted that the one was harmonious and the other discordant.

Sir Henry: Then you admit that our bells are discordant?

Mr. Young: I admit nothing of the kind, what I say is that it is futile to attempt to demonstrate such tones upon a piano.

A bell is a musical instrument, he added, but of a totally different kind; it has very indeterminate tones, as to the theory of which it was desirable that they should know far more than they did at present. He further elaborated this, and said that he considered it wrong for the 'Simpsonians' to attempt to push their theory by piano demonstrations as they often did.

Replying to the Chancellor, Mr. Young said that he was convinced that our bell foundry in the 17th century definitely adopted the flat seventh 'hum-note' from sheer knowledge that it was an improvement, consequently the 'Simpson reversion' was wrong.

The Chancellor: Why was the flat seventh adopted?

Mr. Young: It was put there to fulfil the function of keeping certain of the upper harmonies in check, and to brighten and give character to the 'tap-tone' and further to reduce what we know as the 'Simpson-howl.'

Mr. Young offered to refer to a standard book on the 'sounds of musical instruments,' and said he would be pleased to give the Court an imitation of the 'Simpson-howl.'

The Chancellor: Please don't, I think we will imagine it (laughter).

Sir Henry Maddocks then questioned the witness at some length in respect to the offer to buy the bells and the reasons underlying it—if the ringers expected to make money by re-selling at a bigger price—and why he was so suspicious that he could not leave them in the tower where at least they could be chimed.

Mr. Young replied, in effect, that he had thought the Cathedral might require further funds. The offer might be quixotic, but it was bona fide, and Coventry would have had the bells back at cost. He agreed that the bells might remain in the tower for chiming. He was always pleased that bells should remain in their towers, as all sorts of unfortunate accidents often happened to them when they left it.

The Chancellor: What do you mean?

Mr. Young: Well they might get cracked, or otherwise injured in lowering, or in their long journey to and from London.

Sir Henry: You would rather they went to Taylors?

Mr. Young: Yes, it certainly has the advantage of being nearer.

Sir Henry concluded his cross-examination by saying, 'Our bells are not for sale.'

46,500 RINGERS.

Canon G. F. Coleridge, M.A., then gave evidence. He said that he was the President of the Central Council of Church Bell Ringers and he had had 50 years' experience of ringing, from the time he was at Oxford until now. He had rung peals of from 5,000 to 15,000 changes. The question had been asked as to the number of ringers. He was able to state that there were according to a recent census, 46,500, and all the best of them were in touch with the Central Council. He had always known that the Cathedral Church of St. Michael at Coventry was famous for its bells, and that they were compared with two other famous peals, St. Peter Mancroft, Norwich, and Painswick (the old 10). It would be disastrous to tamper with them, and he was sure that if this proposal came before the Council at Whitsun next, it would be rejected in toto.

Questioned by the Chancellor, Canon Coleridge said that he thought the 'Simpson' principle might be all right so long as it was confined to town halls and such public buildings, but for St. Michael's and such towers, nothing should be done to alter the bells.

Sir Henry Maddocks, cross-examining: What principle do you advocate should be adopted in respect to this proposal?

Canon Coleridge: I should put them in as they now are.

Sir Henry: Would you recommend the augmented seventh?

Canon Coleridge: Don't ask me anything about music, I know nothing of it or augmented sevenths.

Sir Henry: You, as President of the Bell Ringers' Association, say you know nothing about it?

Canon Coleridge: No, I am not musical, and it is the practical side of ringing which I enjoy.

Sir Henry: What you want is to get a bell with a good swing with it?

Canon Coleridge: Exactly! And one that has got a wheel on it (laughter).

In further reply to the Chancellor, he said that not having a musical ear, it could not be said to make much difference to him personally, whether the bells were in tune or out of tune.

Mr. F. E. Dawe, in giving evidence, said that he had been a ringer for 50 years, and had rung Coventry bells over 46 years ago. Examined as to the reputation of the bells, the witness said: There are, of course, in the many peals up and down the country bells good, bad and indifferent, and there are exceptional cases of one, or, even more rarely, two good bells standing out because of their fine tone. There was, for example, Bow tenor, the 11th at Southwark, the old 9th at Exeter.

Sir Henry, intervening, said he protested against irrelevant statements, and asked that the witness should confine himself to the question on Coventry bells.

In reply to the Chancellor, Mr. Dawe said that he was going to say that all the bells at Coventry were exceptionally fine, absolutely perfect.

Cross-examined by Sir Henry, the witness was asked as to his manner of testing or coming to an expert decision in regard to a peal. He said that he disagreed with the experts on both sides (laughter), as he did not think the tests fair to the bells, the latter should be allowed to speak for themselves. Asked further as to whether his memory could be relied upon after so long a period as over 40 years ago, Mr. Dawe replied that all knew that peal conductors necessarily had exceptionally fine memories. His chief objection to 'Simpson' tuning was that as a conductor it made his task more difficult, inasmuch as owing to the 'howl' he had often to rely on rope-sight, and not upon being able to check the bells coming up at the course-ends by ear. He took great exception to the statement that had been made that ringers had not good 'ears,' the exact contrary was the case.

A FINE PEAL OF HISTORICAL INTEREST.

The Rev. H. H. Drake, secretary of the Suffolk Guild, said that his Guild of 500 members were, as a body, opposed to the scheme. He was not an opponent of 'Simpson' tuning, his point being that it was wrong to destroy old peals simply because they were not on that principle. St. Michael's, Coventry, bells were not only a fine peal, but were of the greatest interest historically. If we thus went on destroying peals we should have no record left of the fine craftsmanship of the old founders.

Mr. T. Miller, of Birmingham, stated that he had had 50 years' experience as a ringer. By trade he was a bell-tuner. He was one of the few left who had rung upon these bells, having rung there as many as eight times, he thought. Ringers would often rather listen than ring. He and everyone knew them to be a very fine peal. Their notes had a certain quality which he called 'solid.'

In cross-examination, his attention being called to the series of faults in the bells, as enumerated by the experts, he said if these faults did exist (i.e., that all the bells except the two lower ones were 1-tone flat), then it was quite easy to lower those two, so as to bring the whole into line.

The witness was asked several questions by the Chancellor in regard to tuning, and 'Simpson' tuning in particular. Mr. Miller referred to his retaining work on the Lichfield Cathedral bells, for which he got a special testimonial. As regards 'Simpson' bells, he did not like them, they had a peculiar quality, inasmuch as their main tones lacked solidity, and their harmonics were nearly always 'shivery.'

Mr. J. George, of Birmingham, in giving evidence, said that he was a ringer of 50 years' standing. He had rung in 300 towers, including St. Michael's, Coventry. He had never come across a finer peal of bells, and it would be unwise to recast them. When he was in the railway service, and travelling to and fro, Coventry was in his district, and taking advantage of this he had on many an occasion spent an hour at Coventry just for the pleasure he found in hearing the bells, though they were only chimed.

Sir Henry: I notice that you appear somewhat deaf; can you hear?

Mr. George: Fairly well.

How long have you been deaf?—30 years.

Sir Henry: But do you think your hearing good enough to judge bell tones?

Mr. George: Though one ear is deaf, I hear twice as well with the other.

Mr. J. E. Groves, of Birmingham, said that he was a ringer of 40 years' experience, and was by trade a bell hanger. Though he had not been fortunate enough to have heard Coventry bells in peal, he had often heard the bells chimed. In all his experience he never heard anything better as bells, and he did not think that they could be improved.

THE PETITION GRANTED.

Mr. Pritchett then addressed the Court. He said that there was a conflict of evidence as to the necessity of recasting the bells for the purpose of improving them. He thought it would be seen that it was quite possible to keep the present bells and add the new four on similar lines. The bells had historical value as a type of a remarkably good peal of their period, a point to which he lent great emphasis. It was somewhat on a parallel with church plate, etc., two or three centuries old. Eight of the bells had been in existence since 1774, and it was not suggested that they were inefficient, cracked or unusable. They had heard a lot about musical defects, regarding which there was much difference of opinion. He would like to remind the Chancellor, in regard to the properties of the flat seventh, that it was analogous to what they had studied in mathematical problems where a factor was introduced for the purpose of preventing recurrence. He thought the function of the flat seventh hum-note was very probably somewhat similar, inasmuch as it prevented the harmonics getting control of the primary wave lengths of sound. Ringers would gladly see these bells preserved as a fine peal, and he submitted on their behalf that a case had not been made out for the destruction of the identity of the peal, and that the petitioners ought to have time to reconsider it.

Sir Henry Maddocks said there was common ground for agreement on either side that the bells were not harmonious. It was strange that the only opposition practically was from outside Coventry. The petitioners were quite unanimous, and all they desired was to do their very best for Coventry and its Cathedral bells. Here they had an anonymous generous donor prepared to spend £2,300, whose only impulse was a desire to effect an improvement.

The Chancellor: Can the inscriptions be reproduced on the recast bells?

Sir Henry: Easily.

The Chancellor then reviewed the evidence, and said a friendly spirit had prevailed throughout. They had had considerable evidence from the ringers, and this had been very helpful, and he felt that from their point of view their intervention was quite justified. He must, however, give due weight to the fact that this was a very generous offer, and that it would appear that the 'Simpson' principle would make the peal in tune in every respect. If scientifically they could tune to an octave, why not do it? As to the 'howling,' that could not take place until a campanile was built. He had come to the conclusion that to recast the bells was the proper method; they would be having the same metal, and the same inscriptions and the same weight and keynote, the same bells, but improved. The faculty would be granted in accordance with the amended petition. There would be no order as to costs.

[Letters which we have received on this subject will appear in due course.]

NEW RING OF SIX AT COUNTESTHORPE.

On Friday evening, January 8th, a new ring of six bells was dedicated at Countesthorpe (Leicestershire), by Canon Payne, R.D., of Knighton, the service being conducted by the Rev. S. H. Thomas (Vicar). After the dedicatory prayers in the belfry, the bells were chimed while the clergy proceeded to the chancel, after which Canon Payne gave an address on the origin of bells, and went on to say that in no other country were bells rung as they were in England.

At the close of the service, a good and well-struck 720 of Minor was rung, the ringers being very pleased with the 'go' of the bells, which reflect very great credit on the bell founders, Messrs. Taylor and Co., of Loughborough. The whole of the work of recasting and rehanging has been splendidly carried out.

ATTEMPT ON THE 'LONDON' RECORD.

On Saturday, Feb. 6th, eight members of the Sussex County Association will (D.V.) attempt 14,114 London Surprise Major at Warnham, Sussex.

Time of starting will be notified later.

The present record is the 14,112 rung at King's Norton by the Worcestershire Association.

DEVON MEN'S PEAL OF CINQUES.

The congratulations of the Exercise will be extended to the men of Devon upon having rung the first peal of Cinques with a resident band. The bells at Exeter Cathedral were augmented in 1923, but the opportunities for practice (despite every help given by the Cathedral authorities) have been very limited, and the ringers have had to acquire their twelve-bell knowledge without any outside help. Indeed, practically all the band learnt to ring under the auspices of the Devon Guild. The peal, Grandsire Cinques, rung on Saturday week, is a highly creditable performance, and is a fine tribute to the general enthusiasm and progress of ringing which is being shown by the Devon Guild. It was rung at the first attempt, and for eleven of the band was the first peal on twelve bells.

By a typographical error the time of the peal was given in our report last week as 2 hrs. 55 mins.; it should, of course, have been 3 hrs. 55 mins.

On Wednesday, January 6th, at Emmanuel Church, Plymouth, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples (1,260 changes) was rung in 44 minutes: J. D. Lewis 1, T. G. Myers 2, F. Tippett 3, W. Richards 4, J. O. Pook 5, W. Rundle (conductor) 6, J. Woodley 7, S. Symons 8. This quarter-peal was rung as a compliment to the Rev. R. D. Wynne, R.A., curate of the above church, who was married on Jan. 5th at Rhosddu, near Wrexham, and also as a birthday compliment to Mr. Pook, the ringer of the 5th.

On Thursday, January 7th, at Plympton St. Maurice, Devon, a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples (1,260 changes) was rung in 45 mins.: H. M. Ashton 1, T. G. Myers 2, A. W. Meyers 3, R. J. Beer 4, W. Rundle 5, W. Richards 6, W. Wonnacott (first quarter-peal as conductor, and first attempt) 7, W. G. Lavers 8. * First quarter-peal of Stedman.

BARNESLEY & DISTRICT ASSOCIATION.
CUP CONTEST PROPOSED.

The annual meeting was held at Barnsley on January 9th. The bells of St. Mary's, Barnsley, and Monk Bretton, were rung during the afternoon, and also in the evening at St. Mary's. Service was held in the Lady Chapel, ornamented and enlarged in memory of the men of the parish who fell in the Great War. About 30 members attended the service, which was conducted by the Rector (the Rev. H. H. Hone), special prayers and hymns being used, and an address given. Mr. S. Palmer presided at the organ. Tea was served at Whilham's Cafe, Church Street, 41 sitting down. The Rector was present, and kindly consented to fill the chair for the business meeting.

The passing away of several veterans in the art was duly noted, and a letter was read from the family of Mr. James Smith, a respected member of the association, and of the Horbury company, with whom sympathy had been expressed, and all stood to pay a silent tribute to the deceased.

The secretary was requested to note in the minutes the death of Mr. Geo. Bolland, a vice-president of long duration in the Yorkshire Association a great exponent of Minor methods, so much admired and practised by Yorkshire ringers.

The question of the society's headquarters was then raised by the secretary (Mr. C. D. Potter), who advocated change of place and probable change of name. No support whatever was offered to this suggestion, however, and the association's headquarters will remain as at present.

In the election of officers little change was made. Mr. S. Palmer (Badsworth), a young and enterprising brother ringer, who has yet to earn his laurels in the art, was elected president; Messrs. Wm. Reynor and R. Thickett were elected vice-presidents; and the treasurer (Mr. A. Panther) and secretary (Mr. C. D. Potter) were re-elected. The auditor's report was given in detail, and passed: £15 is in the bank ready for use or investment. Messrs. E. Crossley and Ottley were elected members.

A committee meeting was ordered to be held at Barnsley on Saturday, January 23rd, at 6 p.m., in the Parish Room, Barnsley, to consider the question of a cup contest on association lines.

The meeting terminated with a vote of thanks to the Vicar for presiding, and to Mr. T. Bone, of the Barnsley company, for the arrangements made.

RINGER'S GIFT OF NEW BELL.

A new treble bell, to augment the old five to a ring of six has been added to the bells at Butterwick, Lincs, by the generosity of one of the local band, Mr. John Phillips, and his cousin, Mr. A. N. Whitworth. Mr. Phillips had the satisfaction of ringing in the first peal of Minor on the bells on Saturday last, and kindly entertained the ringers after the performance. Messrs. Taylor and Co., of Loughborough, carried out the addition, and also rehung the other bells.

LONDON COUNTY ASSOCIATION.*SOUTHERN DISTRICT OFFICERS.

The Southern district of the above society held their annual meeting at Fulham last Saturday. The tower was opened at 10h o'clock, and the company were soon warming themselves with touches of Grandsire, Stedman, etc.

Tea was held at the 'Cosy Cafe' over the bridge, and while thus engaged, the party were also entertained with a loud speaker. The children's corner was in progress, but no ringers present were fortunate enough to have their birthdays on that date, so no one was asked to look inside the tenor bell, or do anything so exciting.

The business meeting followed the tea, Mr. H. Mance (the Master) taking the chair.

The balance sheet was presented, and showed that the past year had been very successful.

The Master then vacated the chair in favour of the secretary, who requested the members to elect a Master for the forthcoming year.—Mr. Mackrill moved, and Mr. Hardy seconded, that Mr. Mance be re-elected as chairman, a proposal which met with loud applause from the members present.

The posts of secretary, treasurer and steward were filled by Messrs. Mitchell, Wood and Essery, respectively.

In conclusion, the usual hearty vote of thanks was accorded to the retiring officers, who had carried out their duties so efficiently during the past year, and this note of appreciation was duly acknowledged by those concerned.

It is the desire of all the ringers to tender their most sincere and grateful thanks to the Vicar for very kindly placing the tower at their disposal.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

The South and West District held a meeting at Aclon on Saturday, January 16th, and, though the weather was very wintry, 32 members attended, and good work was done. Service was conducted by the Rev. F. L. Fulcher Medcraft, in the Rector's absence, and Mr. F. L. Bull (organist) presided at the organ. Tea and business meeting followed in the Church Hall, Mr. C. S. Bird (vice-president) presiding, supported by the Ringing Master and the Rev. F. L. F. Medcraft.

Two new members were elected, and the election of four others confirmed.

The annual meeting was announced to take place on February 13th.—A vote of thanks was accorded to the Rector, organist, the Rev. F. L. F. Medcraft, the vice-president, the Ringing Master, Mr. Bruin (steepkeeper), and the hostess and lady helpers.

The tower was again visited, and touches of Stedman, Bob Major, Treble Bob, Double Norwich and Cambridge was rung. The ladies were well represented by the Misses R. Hawksworth, G. Baker, P. Moss, E. E. Harcastle and F. E. Orr, and among those also present were Messrs. F. Goodfellow, R. A. Fardon, F. Corke, A. Harding, C. W. Roberts, H. Kilby, E. V. Ebberson, E. Pike, H. Folkard, J. H. Hunnisett, and others. The bells were lowered at 9 p.m., and all agreed that splendid work had been done, and a pleasant afternoon spent, in spite of the weather.

KING'S NORTON RINGERS ENTERTAINED.

On Saturday, January 9th, the St. Nicolas' Guild, King's Norton, held another of its successful social gatherings. On this occasion the members were the guests of their Ringing Master, Mr. F. B. Yates, at a dinner given by him at the Bull's Head. Others who received invitations were the Vicar and churchwardens, Messrs. A. Walker, A. Paddon-Smith, J. F. Smallwood, W. Brett, W. B. Cartwright, J. Neal, W. Dowding and Harry Withers.

A splendid repast had been provided, consisting of turkey, plum pudding, mince pies and all that go to make a good and substantial old-fashioned Christmas dinner. Needless to say, it was heartily enjoyed.

Afterwards the company were entertained with songs by Messrs. Dowding and H. Withers, and handbell ringing by Messrs. Luffin, Walker, Smallwood, Williams, Neal and H. Withers.

Several toasts were submitted, blended with humour as well as seriousness, and were received with much enthusiasm.

Mr. Paddon-Smith gave 'Our Host.' He stated that the St. Nicolas' Guild were very fortunate in having for their Ringing Master a gentleman with such enthusiasm and generosity as Mr. F. B. Yates. He congratulated the King's Norton ringers accordingly.—The toast was received with musical honours.—Mr. Yates, in reply, stated that he held the office with very much pleasure, and felt highly honoured in doing so. He paid a tribute to the great help he received from the deputy ringing master and conductor, Mr. P. O. Luffin, whose experience and ability were of so much practical use to the Guild.

Amongst other toasts were 'The St. Martin's Guild, Birmingham,' and 'The Visitors.'

Mr. G. H. Smith, churchwarden, spoke in high terms of the local band and its accomplishments.

CHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD.

CREWE BRANCH ANNUAL MEETING.
SATISFACTORY STATE OF AFFAIRS.

The Crewe and District Branch of the Chester Diocesan Guild held their annual meeting at Crewe on Saturday, when there was an excellent muster of 60 members, representing the towers of Christ Church (Crewe), Barthomley, Davenham, Wrenbury, Sandbach, Ightfield, Wistaston, Church Minshull, Stoke, Nantwich, Hodnet (Salop), Church Lawton, Acton, Norton-in-Hales, Alsager, Marbury and Market Drayton.

During the afternoon the members rang some excellent touches of Kent Treble Bob Royal, Grandsire Caters, Stedman Triples and Grandsire Triples, and afterwards attended a service in Christ Church, where an appropriate and inspiring address was delivered by the Vicar (the Rev. H. W. Haworth).

An excellent tea was provided by the Christ Church Parochial Council in the Council Room of the Mechanics' Institute. The chair was occupied by the Vicar, who was accompanied by the Rural Dean of Nantwich (the Rev. W. H. Brind, Vicar of St. Paul's, Crewe), and the Rev. S. T. Stevens (curate of Christ Church).

At the business meeting which followed the branch hon. secretary (Mr. R. D. Langford) read a communication from Mr. E. W. Elwell, of Capenhurst (general hon. secretary of the Guild) expressing regret at his inability to attend.

Mr. Langford, submitting the statement of accounts, said the total income for the year, including a balance in hand of £10 6s. 10d., was £21 17s. 10½d. The expenditure included the sum of £7 18s. 6d., the contribution to the Guild, and there was a credit balance of £11 4s. 6d., an increase of £1 4s. 7d. on the balance for the previous year (applause). The finances were in a satisfactory condition (hear, hear).

The Chairman expressed his satisfaction with the accounts. 'I wish the parish accounts were as good,' he remarked, amid some laughter. 'I suppose most parishes here will probably wish that. I am afraid we don't get on as we should like to do these days.'

On the motion of Mr. C. Peake, seconded by Mr. J. Brassington, the accounts were adopted.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

Mr. R. T. Holding proposed the re-election of the Rev. H. W. Haworth as chairman, and said the Vicar had fulfilled his duties with every satisfaction to the branch (hear, hear).—Mr. E. Harper seconded, and the motion was carried unanimously.

The Vicar, returning thanks, said he was sorry he had not been able to attend the meetings of the branch as often as he had intended. When one had a young family at home, it was difficult to get away on Saturday afternoons, but he hoped this year to do better than he had done. He expressed his pleasure at the large attendance of members that day.

The Rev. H. H. Corshie, the Rev. J. H. Armitstead and the Rev. G. S. Tudor Evans were re-elected vice-chairmen.

Mr. C. Peake moved the re-election of Mr. R. D. Langford as hon. secretary. He said Mr. Langford had discharged his many duties with great credit to himself and the branch, and he did not think they could find a more capable and hard-working official.—Mr. H. Edwards, seconding, said Mr. Langford was a 'chip off the old block.'—Putting the motion, the Chairman said he did not think they could find a better branch secretary than Mr. Langford, and they 'would be wise not to let him go' (hear, hear).—The motion was carried amid applause, and Mr. Langford briefly responded, thanking the members for the renewed confidence placed in him.

Mr. W. Holding was unanimously re-elected hon. treasurer, tribute being paid to his excellent services.

Mr. Albert Crawley was elected instructor, and Mr. Ek. Crawley (Wistaston) and Mr. King (Wrenbury) were appointed hon. auditors.—Mr. Harry Holding (Crewe) was appointed representative on the General Committee.

Mr. R. T. Holding stated that he wished to relinquish the office of Ringing Master for the branch meetings, he being of the opinion that such office should go round. His experience had been a very pleasant one, and he had been able to discharge his duties with comparative ease. The idea was to take charge of the ringing in the towers, so that both novices and experts would have an opportunity of taking the rope.—Mr. Albert Crawley was appointed to fill the office.

NEW MEMBERS.

Mr. Ernest Craig, M.P. for the Crewe Division, the Rev. A. L. Mott, the Rev. W. H. Brind and the Rev. S. T. Stevens were elected hon. members. Fifteen new ringing members were elected, and satisfaction was expressed at the increasing interest of the younger ringers.

It was decided to arrange meetings for the year as follows:—February, Bunbury; March, Church Lawton; April, Market Drayton and Chester (Easter Monday); May, Barthomley; June, Church Minshull; July, Alsager and Audlem; August, Wrenbury; September, Tarpoley; October, Nantwich; November, Wybunbury; December, Sandbach.

On the suggestion of Mr. R. T. Holding, it was decided to invite the Macclesfield branch to a joint meeting at Astbury, near Congle-ton. He said the probability was that the tower would be surrendered to the Crewe branch in future years.

Mr. R. T. Holding suggested that in the future the list of meetings for the year should be compiled and passed at the last ordinary meeting, so that the secretary could have the cards printed and issued for that annual meeting. The secretary could then forward the list to the general secretary, and it could be printed on the cards hung in the towers. As it was, they were a month behind, and the list of meetings had gone to press. If his suggestion was carried out it would reduce the business at the annual meeting, and would inflict no great hardship on anyone. He moved that this be done.—Mr. Geo. Crawley seconded, and the motion was carried.

Hearty votes of thanks were accorded the officials for their services during the year.

On the motion of Mr. W. Holding, votes of thanks were accorded the Parochial Church Council, who had provided tea, and to the Vicar for presiding over the meeting and for the use of the bells.—The Vicar briefly responded.

Mr. Langford appealed to the representatives of the various towers to inform him how many members were expected to attend the meetings of the branch, so that the catering arrangements could be properly carried out.

After the meeting, the company adjourned to the tower, and rang touches of Grandsire Triples, Bob Royal, Stedman Caters, Kent Treble Bob Major, Stedman Triples and Double Norwich Court Bob Major.

TAVISTOCK'S NEW BELLS.
DEVON'S FINE NEW PEAL OF EIGHT.

The bells of Tavistock, Devon, have been recast and rehung by Messrs. J. Taylor and Co., who have carried out the work in a highly satisfactory manner, and given delight to the residents of the ancient town, the old bells having been long silent. It was when the bells were used in connection with the peace celebrations, that their dilapidated condition was fully brought home to the authorities, who, after examining a number of schemes, decided to make a clean sweep, and do the thing properly while they were about it. The octave have been recast, and the old oak frame has given way to a new steel one. The cost has been something like £1,150, and when the bells were dedicated by the Bishop of Exeter on December 30th, £1,000 had been secured, the amount including two anonymous gifts of £100 and £50 respectively. The new bells have a tenor of 25 cwt. in D, and are one of the finest rings at their weight in the county. The old peal were cast in 1769 by Thomas Bilbie, of Culmpton, and were the gift of the then Duke of Bedford. There were bells, however, at Tavistock Church at a much earlier date, for it is on record that they were melted down for use as cannon balls.

The restoration of the bells has been shared in by Nonconformists as well as the church people, and this spirit of union was dwelt upon by the Bishop, who presided at a luncheon held in the Congregational Schoolroom prior to the dedication service.

After the act of dedication the bells were rung by Messrs. Marsh, sen., 1, Marsh, jun., 2, W. Hiscott 3, W. H. Rundle 4, A. Westcott 5, the Rev. E. S. Powell (President of the Devon Guild) 6, W. Richards 7, W. J. Woodley 8. Subsequently a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples was rung, and among the listeners was the Rev. Maitland Kelly, ex-President of the Devon Guild.

A public tea was afterwards held in the Town Hall and the day's proceedings concluded with choral evensong in the Parish Church.

BRAMLEY RINGER'S DEATH.

At Bramley, Yorks, on Sunday, January 17th, for evensong, 720 Woodbine Treble Bob: W. Waterhouse 1, T. Latimer 2, S. Hollowell 3, J. Guy 4, J. W. T. Holgate (conductor) 5, J. S. Eastwood 6. Rung with the bells fully muffled in memory of J. W. Chadwick, who died on the 13th inst., Woodbine being his favourite method.

SUNDAY SERVICE TOUCHES.

We regret that, owing to the demands upon the space available for Sunday Service Touches, we are unable to undertake to insert anything less than a quarter-peal on eight bells and upwards, and 720 of Doubles or Minor. Many correspondents send us quite short touches for publication and they must not be disappointed if we are unable to find room for them.

STRATTON ST. MARGARET'S, WILTS.—On Sunday, Nov. 8th, for Armistice service, with the bells muffled, 720 Oxford Treble Bob Minor for morning service: T. Moulden 1, Miss Ellen Moulden 2, J. Woodroffe 3, J. Tuckwell 4, A. Simms 5, G. Lancaster (conductor) 6. For evening service, 720 Plain Bob Minor: N. Sperring 1, Miss Ellen Moulden 2, J. Woodroffe 3, J. Tuckwell 4, T. Moulden (conductor) 5, G. Lancaster 6.

ISLEWORTH, MIDDLESEX.—On Sunday afternoon, Nov. 8th, for Armistice service, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples: E. Webb 1, F. G. Goddard 2, A. E. Hawthorne 3, T. Beadle 4, E. F. Coles 5, J. Milner (conductor) 6, A. Beckensale 7, A. Sheard 8.

A BAD PRECEDENT.

The fight for the preservation of Coventry bells is finished, and the peal, as it has existed for a hundred and fifty years—recognised as one of the finest peals of ten in the country—is irretrievably lost. One last effort to save them was made by the hon. secretary of the Central Council (Mr. E. A. Young), who deserves the utmost thanks of the Exercise for the energetic and tenacious manner in which he has carried on the struggle to prevent these bells from going into the melting-pot. His letter to the Bishop of Coventry was a last, despairing attempt to gain a respite, but the curt reply from the Bishop's secretary, published in another column, makes it clear that the sentence of the Court will not be interfered with. We believe that ringers throughout the country will regret the passing of these bells, which, though few of the present generation have heard them, were a 'tradition' in the Exercise, and, of their kind, a supreme example.

There are very few old peals of bells whose preservation, except for sentimental reasons, could create the feeling that has been aroused by those of Coventry, and there are many which ringers would be only too glad to see go into the furnace and be recast. The points, however, that strike us most in connection with this question are, first, the fact that the thin end of the wedge has been inserted to substitute, in church towers, for our fine old English art of bell ringing the mechanically played carillon; and, secondly, there has been established a precedent for melting up good peals merely because they are not 'Simpson' tuned.

It is in the former that we see the most danger. When next a big restoration at an important church or cathedral is talked of, we shall not be surprised to hear of some Dr. Brazil or Professor Starmer coming along, calling themselves campanological experts, and advocating following the example of Coventry. And, if we are not very careful and wide-awake, the church authorities may decide to follow the example of Coventry. Moreover, it might even develop into a 'fashion,' and if it did so it would be a sorry day for our art. The people who are in the best position to counter any 'aggression' of this kind are our bell founders, who, until recently, at all events, found their 'bread and butter' in the towers of our English churches. Lately, however, the carillon for abroad has, happily, increased the English bell foundry trade considerably, but it will only continue to be, 'happily' for the art of ringing, as long as the carillons are sent overseas, or, at any rate, are kept out of our church towers. In this matter, we say, the bell founders, who can get the first word in the ear of the church authorities, have an overwhelmingly strong position, and

NOTES BY THE WAY.

EARLY PEALS OF DOUBLE NORWICH.

By J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

The one method about which we should have expected Hubbard to give us particular information is Double Norwich Court Bob, but in this thing he is woefully disappointing. The first peal of Major was rung in 1771; the first of Royal in 1769; and the first of Maximus in 1817. But Hubbard seems to have known nothing about any of them. Of course, he could not help knowing that the Maximus was rung, for there was the big board in Mancroft belfry that records its performance; not, as now, high up and almost out of sight; but easily read from the old floor. But what was rung Hubbard did not know, and could not tell us. As for the other peals, they were written on no boards, and the memory of them seems to have died out in the city. According to Mr. Snowdon, the 6,160 which Thurston called at Coslany in 1831 was claimed to be the longest in the method at the time. I do not know where the claim was made (it is not on the peal board), but sixty years before in the same tower 6,720 had been rung; and the remarkable thing is that the man who rang the tenor to that peal, John Trowse, was still alive, still living in Norwich, and still taking an interest in ringing. Most probably he was still a member of the Mancroft company, for membership was practically a life tenure. Once elected, a man remained a member till he died, or resigned, or left the city. If he got too old to take any active share in the ringing, a younger man could always be found to deputise for him, and after the latter was paid there was still something for the old man, which doubtless came very welcome. Trowse's ringing career began very soon after the revival of peal ringing under Chamberlin, and he outlived Samuel Thurston and the climax of ringing in Norwich.

The first peal of Royal was rung before Trowse was a ringer, but he knew the men who took part in it, and it is strange that in his lifetime it should so completely have been forgotten. But it always is the case that imperfect sympathy exists between old men and young. The old are not always willing or able to give the knowledge they possess, and the young are still less willing to listen. Otherwise we might know a great deal more about early ringing than we do. After all, it would not take many consecutive memories to carry us back to the very beginning of peal ringing. I knew Ben Smith, who knew John Trowse, who knew Chamberlin, who knew John Webster, who was one of Garthor's pupils.

Double Norwich Royal was composed by William Porter in 1751, and was regularly practised at St. Peter's for many years. As late as 1857 John Cox, when on a visit to Norwich, rang a course or two with the Norwich Scholars, and during the intervening century it seems to have been a standard method at Mancroft. But only one peal was rung. Some time ago, Mr. George Burton found the full record of this in the files of the 'Norfolk Chronicle.' 'On Monday, April 17th, 1769, was rung at St. Peter's Mancroft in this city, a compleat 5,040 of that most ingenious peal called the Court Bob. It was performed in three hours and 29 minutes, without a bell being out of course; and from the harmony and regularity of its changes filled every lover of the art of ringing with the most pleasing wonder and astonishment. This incomparable peal was invented in the year 1751 by Mr. Wm. Porter, one of the ringers belonging to St. Peter's company, and though from that time it has been annually practised, yet never was perfectly gone through with without bells being out of course till now; so that it may be affirmed that this is the first compleat 5,040 that ever was rung in the known world, performed by

John Chamberlin	Treble	Charles Jarvis	6
(and call'd the peal)		John Dixon	7
John Peak	2	James Watling	8
Thomas Barton	3	Simon Watling	9
Robert Dyke	4
John Havers	5	John Dye	Tenor

Published by desire of the churchwardens.

Thomas Blakemore, on his visit to Norwich, talked and rang with many of the men who took part in this peal, and the note he inserted in 'The Clavis' is the only thing that preserved any memory of it.

Double Norwich Major was composed about the same time, whether before the Royal or after is doubtful. Somewhere or other I have come across a tradition of a peal of Major being rung before 1769, but I cannot trace it, and the 6,720 at Coslany is the earliest we have any record of.

The following is Osborne's account of it:—

'St. Michael, Coslany, Norwich, January 15th, 1771, was rung by Norwich Scholars a peal of 6,720 changes of Court Bob, in 4 hours and 25 minutes, by the underwritten members, as follows:—

Jno. Chamberlain	1	William Warner	5
Jno. Peake	2	Jno. Dye	6
Jno. Havers	3	James Vine	7
Simon Watling	4	Jno. Frowse	8

Conducted by Jno. Chamberlain.'

The method is called Court Bob only, but there is not the slightest doubt that it was Double Norwich. I have already told how the Norwich men called it Court, because it was what they thought was the correct version of Court Bob Minor; how 'The Clavis' authors added the word Norwich to distinguish it from the Court Bob then rung in London; and how Shipway further added the word Double. You will notice, too, that Osborne spells the conductor's name Chamberlain, but the usual Norwich spelling of the name is Chamberlin, as given in the 'Chronicle' account of the peal of Royal. He also spells the tenorman's name Frowse, and Mr. Snowdon does the same when copying the 1778 peal of Treble Twelve from the Cumberland's peal book. But the correct name is Trowse, and is evidently derived from the village of that name on the outskirts of Norwich.

Chamberlin, as conductor, was succeeded by James Watling, who called the 5,170 of Grandsire Cinques in 1775, and Thomas Barton, who composed and called the 6,240 of Oxford Treble Bob Maximus in 1778. They, in turn, were followed by Robert Chesnutt, who occupies a foremost place in the history of the Norwich Scholars, and who is especially associated with Double Norwich Court Bob. His leadership lasted from the closing years of the eighteenth century till his death in 1821, and he conducted one or two notable performances. But the next peal to the Maximus was not rung by the Norwich Scholars, but by a young and energetic band who practised at St. Giles'. This was on October 22nd, 1809, a peal of Bob Major. It was conducted by Jeffrey Kelf, and was the first by all the band, which included Samuel Thurston. Kelf does not seem to have done anything else, but a Charles Kelf, obviously a relative, rang in the Maximus in 1817; unless it is the same man. The Mancroft ringers probably despised such simple stuff as Bob Major, and their next peal was Double Norwich Major at Coslany in 1815.

Monday, December 18th, 1815, 5,040 changes of that intricate Method of Norwich Court Bob were rung in three hours and 20 minutes in this steeple without the misplacing of a bell, or the repetition of a single change. The peal was conducted by Mr. Robt. Chesnutt, with his accustomed precision, and the bold and regular striking reflects great credit on the ringers; after which a short length of that Ingenious and Harmonious Peal, Sledman Triples, was rung by the same company, and performed by the following persons:—

Jno. Clarke	Treble	Robert Chesnutt	5
Willm. Mann	2	Thos. Burrell	6
Jno. Giddens	3	Saml. Havers	7
Fredk. Watering	4	Josh Lubbock	Tenor

This board was erected by the churchwardens to commemorate the above Display of Genius in the extensive science of Campanologia.'

Meanwhile Thurston was making a name as a ringer of outstanding ability. For a long time he was outside the Norwich Scholars. The company, no doubt, was full up, and Chesnutt was not too tolerant of the claims of a young and brilliant rival. The rivalry between the two was pretty keen, and led to the younger man challenging the older in the local paper to ring with him for £100. Whether this challenge was more than rhetoric, and how, if accepted, it was to be decided do not appear, but it came to nothing. Thurston joined the Norwich Scholars in 1814, and with his help one of the very best performances they ever did became possible. This was the peal of Double Norwich Maximus at St. Peter's on January 20th, 1817. The following is a copy of the tablet which records it:—

'Monday, January 20th, 1817, were rung in this steeple 5,016 of that most ingenious and intricate peal, Norwich Court Bob Maximus, in 4 hours and 2 minutes, without the miss of a bell or the repetition of a single change. The peal very much resembles Norwich Court Royal on Ten; there being very short dodging on the bells before and behind, and tenth's place at the hob. The ingenuity of its composition and the bold and regular striking reflects great credit on the company, and are allowed by judges to be a performance which if ever equalled can never be surpassed. It is the first peal ever accomplished in England in that intricate method of twelve bells; was conducted by Robert Chesnutt, and rung by the following persons:—

Robert Chesnutt	Treble	George Hames	7
Peckover Hill	2	John Trowse	8
John Giddens	3	Joseph Lubbock	9
Charles Gittings	4	Thomas Hurry	10
Samuel Havers	5	Nathaniel Beales	11
Charles Kelf	6	Samuel Thurston and Matthew Smith	Tenor

The peal was composed by Thurston, and as a reward for that and for the way in which he rang the tenor the Norwich Scholars presented him with a silver-gilt jewel with the following inscription: "Presented to Mr. S. Thurston, July 4th, 1825, by the United Ringers of St. Peter Mancroft, for his eminent services in composing the peal of Norwich Court Twelve In, and ringing the tenor in a Superior Style."

This presentation was made after Chesnutt was dead, and when Thurston was the undisputed leader of the Norwich ringers.

It is most probable that Thurston extended the method to twelve bells as well as composed the peal, and that, in contrast with Double Norwich Royal, it was not rung much before or after the peal.

Hubbard told Mr. Snowden that he never heard any of it. He 'thought it was one of the methods given on page 37 or 38 in the fourth edition of his book,' which means he did not know anything definite about it. He does not give it in his first edition, and apparently in the six years that had elapsed between the ringing of the peal and his becoming acquainted with the company it had been completely dropped.

A QUERY.

A correspondent writes: Isn't Mr Trollope making too 'vivid a contrast' in his last 'Notes by the Way' concerning the Brothers Trowse? If John Trowse rang a peal in 1771, he would be at least 94 years of age, when Hubbard was dreaming of his 1845 edition? The names appear in the subscribers' list merely as 'J. Trowse and J. Trowse, junr.' They were probably descendants, but surely not the 1771-1817 brothers. Nor was George Smith the son of Matthew Smith, as stated in a former article.

One would have thought that he would have been sure to have inquired about such a notable performance, especially with the big peal board so continually before his eyes whenever he was ringing at Maneroft. He was intimate with Thurston, the composer, and though Thurston was dead when he wrote his book, John Trowse and Nathaniel Beales and Thomas Hurry were still alive, if not others. But Trowse was very old, possibly there was a slight coldness between Hurry and Hubbard, and Beales seems to have been a silent, reserved man, not given to talking about himself and his doings. William Freeman told me that as a young man he worked alongside Beales, and knew him well, but never heard him so much as mention the peal, surely the most outstanding thing in his personal history.

BIRTHDAY COMPLIMENTS.

At Bishop Ryder's Church, Birmingham, on Monday, Dec. 28th, a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples (1,260 changes), in 43 mins.: J. W. Pemberton 1, George E. Large 2, R. C. Ingram 3, B. W. Witchell 4, S. Elton 5, F. W. Richworth 6, James George (conductor) 7, W. C. Dowding 8. Rung specially in honour of the Rev. Canon G. E. Badger's birthday, which occurred on December 23rd.

At Staveley Parish Church, for evensong, on November 1st, a quarter-peal of Boh Major (1,344 changes), in 51 mins., to celebrate the Rector's 83rd birthday: A. Markwell 1, L. G. Palmer 2, W. Palmer 3, S. Smedley 4, H. Stow 5, A. E. Parsons 6, S. Smedley, sen., 7, F. Parsons 8.

LONDON COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

The annual meeting of the Northern District was held at St. Magnus-the-Martyr, Lower Thames Street, on Saturday, January 16th, about 24 members being present.

The annual report showed a very improved interest in the district, particularly in the attendance at the bi-monthly meetings. Six meetings have been held during the year, with an average attendance of 24, a great improvement on previous years.—The cash statement showed the highest balance since the inauguration of the district.

The following officers were elected: Masier, Mr. Alleway; secretary (pro tem.), Mr. W. Bottrill; treasurer, Mr. Darnell; steward, Mr. Riley; committee, Messrs. Carmen and Newman.

It was decided to ask for the tower of St. Mary, Islington, for the next meeting on Saturday, March 21st, and if possible, also to obtain the use of St. Mary Magdalene's bells.

The Master thanked the committee and members for their support during the past year, and a hearty vote of thanks was accorded the Rev. Fynes Clinton for the use of the bells, and the verges, Mr. Hughes, for preparing the room for the meeting.

OXHEY SOCIETY SOCIAL GATHERING.

On Saturday, January 9th, the above society had a dinner and social evening at the Tea Rose Rooms, Watford Heath. The ringers, accompanied by their wives and friends, sat down to an old-fashioned English dinner, consisting of hot roast beef, mutton, Christmas pudding, mince-pies, etc., which was excellently cooked and served, and which moreover was equally enjoyed. The evening was spent in song, music, and handbell ringing, to which nearly everyone present contributed. Flute solos by Mr. Richard Brinklow were specially enjoyed, his instrument being not only a very valuable one, and rich in tone, but his rendering of the solos was simply delightful.

A course of Superlative Surprise Major was rung on the handbells by C. Leman 1-2, H. Hudgetts 3-4, H. Cashmore 5-6, F. W. Brinklow 7-8. Although these two performances are mentioned specially, all the other items were equally well rendered and enjoyed to the full; there was not a dull moment.

This dinner being the first occasion at which the wives of the ringers were present, the arrangements were entered into with a certain amount of trepidation, but it is pleasing to record that it turned out a complete success, and was voted a delightful evening by all.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

One of the men who contributed enormously to the foundations of the art of ringing was Benjamin Annable, who died on February 1st, 1756—one hundred and seventy years ago next Monday. He was buried under the tower of St. Bride's, Fleet Street, where in 1724 he had taken part in the first peal of Cinques on record.

A newspaper paragraph of that day may well be quoted, and, although there may be fulsome flattery, it indicates something of Annable's ability, and of the admiration which was held for his work.

A few nights ago was buried under the tower of St. Bride's, Mr. Benjamin Annabel, the best ringer that was ever known in the world. Till his time ringing was only called an art, but from the strength of his great genius he married it to the Mathematics, and 'tis now a science. This man of figures and ringing was like a Newton in philosophy, a Ratchiffe in physic, a Hardwick in wisdom and law, a Handel in music, a Shakespeare in writing, and a Garrick in acting. O rare Ben!

Forty years ago to-day Henry Haley, one of London's foremost composers and conductors, died at Bethnal Green, at the age of 66.

The first peal of Double Bob was rung at St. Mary's, Whitechapel, on January 29th, 1769.

At Warnham, where, next Saturday week, there is to be an attempt on the London Surprise record, Harrison's 10,176 of Kent Treble Bob was rung on February 2nd, 1891. On Feb. 4th, 1861, 10,032 Grandsire Major was rung in 6 hrs. 18 mins. at Walsall.

For a young ringer who only rang his first Surprise peal on Dec. 31st, 1924, John A. Cole, of Godalming, has a most creditable record for 1925, his peals including five of Superlative, four of Cambridge and 13 of London.

In connection with the first ten-bell peal rung by a band of ladies, namely, that at St. Clement Danes last week, referred to elsewhere in our columns, it is interesting to recall that the first ladies' peal was Grandsire Triples at Cubitt Town on July 20th, 1912. Peals, exclusively by ladies, since then have not been numerous—three or four altogether. Miss E. K. Parker, who called the first on eight, had the pleasure also of conducting the first on ten bells.

LADIES' TEN-BELL PEAL.

FINE PERFORMANCE AT ST. CLEMENT DANES.

The ladies have added to their conquests of the belfry by ringing, for the first time in history, a peal of Stedman Caters without the aid of 'mere man.' On Wednesday of last week ten members of the Ladies' Guild, all of them now well known in ringing circles, met at the famous Church of St. Clement Danes, Strand, London, where the bells had been placed at their disposal by the Rector (the Rev. W. Pennington Bickford), and the local 'Youtlis' had given up their practice night to enable the peal attempt to be made. Under the conductorship of Miss E. K. Parker, a splendid peal was rung in three and a half hours, and when it is remembered that the weight of the tenor is 24 cwt., the merit of the performance, even only as a test of endurance for the 'back-enders,' is one on which they are to be heartily congratulated.

In such a performance, interest will doubtless turn to the lady who had the pluck and physique to tackle the 24 cwt. tenor, a heavier bell than any lady has previously rung to a peal. This was Miss Ruby Hawksworth, a robust brunette, who is only 17 years of age. She commenced her ringing career at her native village of Bradfield, in Berkshire, at the age of 12, but on her removal to London two years ago, her knowledge was limited to Grandsire Doubles. She has now to her credit peals of Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Plain Bob and Kent and Oxford Treble Bob Major, and Stedman Caters, and is ringing Double Norwich and Cambridge Surprise. Considering the restricted amount of practice she has been able to obtain, Miss Hawksworth has developed into an excellent ringer, her bell management and striking being superb, and she possesses the happy qualification of being equally 'at home' on the heavy end as on the light bells. Reliability is just another of her strong points.

Many eminent ringers were present who heard the performance from start to finish, and all were enthusiastic in their praise, for it was unanimously agreed that the ladies had accomplished a feat of which they might naturally be proud.

MALE LISTENERS' CONGRATULATIONS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—On behalf of the 'Male Listeners,' we wish to congratulate the ladies on their very successful attempt for the first peal of Stedman Caters ever rung by ten ladies.

COVENTRY BELLS.

UNAVAILING APPEAL TO THE BISHOP.

The final effort to save Coventry bells from the melting-pot has been made by the hon. secretary of the Central Council (Mr. E. Alexander Young), who, under date 18th January, wrote to the Lord Bishop of Coventry as follows:—

My Lord,—As the Worshipful Chancellor has now given his decision by granting a faculty in respect to the bells, I take it that the desire expressed in your letter to me (that I should not write to you, the question being sub judice) no longer applies. I am anxious, however, to make a final appeal on behalf of my Council whilst there is still a chance that some mutually satisfactory way out might be found, and the bells saved for future years.

It has always been a matter of regret to us that our offer to send down a strongly representative deputation was never accepted. They would have been able to point out many interesting and valuable things.

I venture to enclose you a copy of the current number of the 'Ringing World,' which has several articles and letters, together with the evidence for the petition.

Mr. Caldicott has been in correspondence with me, and I believe he has endeavoured to persuade the donor to modify her views, and he has told me that he is sure the money could be immediately raised in Coventry to save the old bells and leave them in the Cathedral tower, where they might still be chimed by hand and form a complement to the magnificent gift, which you have been so fortunately offered, of a carillon.

My appeal is this. Firstly, as you will see by all the standard words, carillons are always preferably composed of a series of light bells, indeed running up into quite small ones, their success depends on this. You are now constrained to endow the carillon with a replica of your ten existing heavy bells.

Secondly, that whatever Dr. Brazil and Dr. Stanner may say (the one we know is distinctly in favour of foreign carillons, and neither of them are what we call ringers, nor have the ringer's ear), I feel sure that in your own mind on due reflection, you will feel that there must be a great tone-value in these old bells for them to have had such a remarkable reputation. There is never smoke without fire! The appeal is, therefore, mainly to allow us to indemnify the donor against all loss, and at the same time leave the bells of the City of Coventry untouched in their tower to await a campanile. I cannot but feel that this is a splendid offer for the Cathedral Church of Coventry, and will not be rejected without careful consideration.

I feel sure that we are passing through a period in respect to these bells, which will at some future time be looked upon as historical. I would beg to remind you that the terrible Wyatt was actuated by the very best of intentions when he 'scientifically' restored Salisbury. His name is now a by-word.

The reply received by Mr. Young from the Bishop's secretary was as follows:—

Dear Sir,—The Bishop of Coventry has been seriously ill, and in bed for nearly five weeks. He is unable to write to you personally. He has, however, seen your letter, and bids me to tell you that the matter of the Cathedral bells has been decided in the Chancellor's Court.

DIPLOMAS OF AUTHORITY.

To the Editor.

Sir,—When a splendid ring of bells, which have always been pleasing to the ears of skilled judges in the past, has been condemned unheard, by 'experts,' I think most ringers will agree that the less we hear of experts the better! To the average musical man in the street, surely it can matter little whether a bell has 400 vibrations per second, or whether the exact number is 396!

During the last few years, many new subjects and fresh fields, brimful of interest, have appeared in the columns of your excellent 'Ringing World,' but with the beginning of the present year, surely the palm must be awarded to 'something' which has recently come to light in the case of the Cathedral bells at Coventry.

I, for one, am simply thirsting for information, so perhaps some of the more enlightened and talented members of the ringing fraternity will kindly tell us how, when, and where we may be possessed of the coveted diploma or certificate of some sort or other, in order to qualify and become 'an expert' on bells, and professor of campanological matters generally.

Independent of my own experience, we have many well-educated men who have been devoted to bells and ringing ever since their school days, and who are now greatly marveling to think that none of us have ever heard of—much less seen—any person before calmly walk into the witness-box and openly declare themselves as professors of campanology.

It would indeed be most interesting to be informed of the existence and whereabouts of the college or university from which such a degree may be obtained, or do they only study as a hermit and suddenly come into being similar to a butterfly from a silkworm?—Yours truly,

F. E. DAWK.

THE LESSON OF COVENTRY.

There is no doubt that if the ringers of Coventry Diocese had a Diocesan organisation, their Cathedral bells would not have been lost. As ringers, we were considered outsiders at the Consistory Court, not to say meddlesome busybodies, interfering where we were not wanted. Ringers are clearly a nuisance in that Diocese.

Under the new system of Church government, Church bodies which are not Diocesan are clearly out of date, and not only useless for many purposes, but are preventing others doing the necessary work.

There is no doubt whatever that those now in authority in the Councils of the Church, look on ringing with a very unfriendly eye, and would gladly turn all our rings of bells into carillons. If we had, as we ought to have, a proper organisation in every Diocese, these people could do nothing.

As the Midland Counties Association was the first ringing association I joined, it has a tender place in my heart; but I cannot shut my eyes to the fact, that unless it reorganises itself on Diocesan lines (which it could easily do, without altering many of its arrangements, or its work), it will have to record the loss of many rings, which it might have preserved for the art.
HERBERT DRAKE.

WHAT DO RINGERS THINK OF SIMPSON TUNING?

Sir,—I also attended, as an interested spectator and listener, the Consistory Court held at Coventry to consider the recasting of these famous bells, and now that the result is known, I would like to give your readers some of my impressions. To all those who have heard these bells rung or chimed, it must have been a shock to hear the startling evidence of the supporters of the petition, that some of these bells were out of tune, and also by our own witnesses that they could be improved by the tuning machine, which really goes to show how careful one has to be when judging a peal of bells by the ear. I have heard Coventry bells chimed, and thought they were splendid, and all in tune with one another, but according to the musical experts they were not, although I do not agree they were out of tune to the extent of the piano demonstration, which was entirely misleading. Still we had no evidence, as you remarked in your leading article, to meet it.

As one reads this case, it will be very evident that one of the main arguments was whether bells should be Simpson tuned, or, as we know them, tuned on the old plan; and, in view of the fact that the question of the Simpson tuning of bells is, I believe on the agenda for the Central Council meeting to be held at Ipswich this year, my object in writing is that you invite ringers and non-ringers interested, who have had their bells recast or retuned on the Simpson principle, as carried out by our English bell founders, to say whether they consider they have a better and more tuneful peal of bells than those cast and tuned on the old plan. This expression of opinion would be very useful to show the general opinion of ringers before the meeting at Ipswich. I have in mind among recent recast and retuned peals of bells, St. Chad's, Shrewsbury; Westbury, Wilts; St. Margaret's, Leicester; Monks Kirby, Warwickshire; St. Mary's, Warwick; Macclesfield, Manchester Cathedral, Westminster Abbey; St. Andrew's, Holborn; and St. Clement Danes, Strand; and nearer Birmingham, we have St. Peter's, Wolverhampton; Wednesbury; Bishop Ryder's, Birmingham; King's Norton, and Northfield, and which represent recent work by our three bell founders. There are many others I could quote, such as Tiverton, Devon, but there are sufficiently well known members of the Exercise amongst these towers mentioned who could give us their opinions. In conclusion, I for one am convinced that the art of bell founding, as it exists to-day, is a vast improvement, both in casting and tuning, and that where peals of bells can be improved we should all assist in getting the very best that is there for us. I apologise for taking up so much space, but I feel certain all ringers are keenly interested, and I hope we shall have the views of others on the question of Simpson tuned bells.
Birmingham.

THE 'LONDON' RECORD.

NEXT WEEK'S ATTEMPT AT WARNEAM.

As announced in our last issue, an attempt is to be made at Warnham, Sussex, on Saturday, February 6th, to beat the existing London Surprise Major record, of 14,112, rung at King's Norton by the St. Martin's Guild, on May 11th, 1903.

The length of the composition which is to be attempted is 14,144 changes, and the figures, by the Rev. H. Law James, were published in our issue of January 27th, 1922.

The band is that which, under the conductorship of Mr. A. H. Pulling, of Guildford, has recently been scoring numerous peals of London Surprise, but as this attempt is to be made in Sussex, it will be under the auspices of the Sussex County Association. The start will be at 11 a.m.

NEW BELLS AT USK.*FINE PEAL OF EIGHT FOR SOUTH WALES.

The complete restoration of the bells at Usk, Monmouthshire, has just been completed by Messrs. John Taylor and Co., of Loughborough, the scheme including the recasting of the old six bells with extra metal and the addition of two trebles, the whole being rehung in a new iron frame on a steel foundation. The tenor is now 14½ cwt., and the old inscriptions have been reproduced on the bells, which are tuned on the firm 'true harmonic' principle.

An improved Ellacombe chiming apparatus has been installed, and the old Sanctus bell has been rehung with new fittings, in new framework, above the new bell frame. The inscriptions on the bells are as follow:—

Treble and 2nd.—1925.

3rd.—Let us ring and merrily sing. A : R. 1713.—Recast 1925.

4th.—Prosperity to this place. A : R. 1713. Recast 1925.

5th.—Peace and Good Neighbourhood. A : R. 1713.—Recast 1925.

6th.—Abr Rudhall of Gloucester Bellfounder Cast Vs 1713.—Recast 1925.

7th.—William Jones, Esqr. Edward Prytherh Churchwardens 1713.

Mr. Samuel Morgan, Vicar. Prosperity to This Place Amen.—Recast 1925.

Tenor.—The Living I to Church do Call and to the Grave do Summon All. 1713.—Six Bells Recast and Two Added. 1925.

E. MORGAN, Vicar. u. D. R. SAGE and H. T. PEARCE, Wardens.

The name of John Taylor and Company appears on each bell also. The dedication took place on Wednesday, January 13th, the ceremony being performed, in the presence of a large congregation, by the Bishop, who also dedicated a memorial stained glass window. The Bishop preached an impressive sermon, in which he dwelt on the message of the bells. Their exercise, he said, should be subservient to the spiritual life, and they should not be used for anything that was purely worldly or secular. When they rang they carried a message to every Christian soul in the place, and they acted as a sort of bond to keep them together. To the devout the bells were living messengers giving a call from God. They spoke not only a message, but he thought it would not be irreverent to say that, provided the community was a devout and spiritual community, they might be regarded as giving pleasure to God Himself; that just as God was pleased to hear His praises sung from a thankful heart so was He pleased to hear the bells as a memorial before Him. God would never have made the birds to sing unless He loved music, and He would accept the music of the bells. God intended them to become His real children, and if they were slack, indifferent or below the level they ought to reach, the bells would call them back and cause them to return to that path of righteousness which should lead them up to God.

At the dedication the bells were rung by the local band, under Mr. P. T. Clift, and after the service members of the Llandaff and Monmouth Diocesan Association rang touches of Grandsire and Stedman Triples, and Bob Major, and the delightful tones of the bells were much admired, as well as was the easy 'go' of them, and Messrs. Taylor and Co. are heartily to be congratulated upon giving South Wales another fine peal of eight.

THE LEADING PEAL RINGERS.*WHAT THEY DID IN 1925.

Among the ringers who rang 40 peals and upwards in 1925 were the following:

C.S.M. J. Bennett, R.M., who rang 80 in 111 attempts, on all numbers from 6 to 12 bells, in 37 towers. Six peals were conducted.

Mr. James George, who rang 66 (2 on handbells) in 44 different towers.

Mr. H. E. Audsley, who rang 60 peals (conducted 31 in 28 towers.

Mr. Ernest Morris, who rang 57 (conducted 16) from Doubles to Maximus in 29 towers in ten counties. Five of the peals were on handbells.

Mr. Robert Sperring, who rang 48 peals (conducted 28) in 21 towers.

Mr. A. H. Pulling, who rang and conducted 47 peals in 31 towers.

Mr. William Keeble, who rang 41 peals (including 2 on handbells) in 25 towers in five counties. Mr. Keeble conducted the whole of the peals in which he took part.

Mr. Edward Barnett, senr., who rang 40 peals and conducted 21 of them.

There are a few others who rang over 40 peals during last year.

NOISY BELFRIES.To the Editor.*

Dear Sir,—I am much obliged to Mr. H. J. Tucker for pointing out that the shutter arrangement recently shown in this paper is not my idea. I hope, however, the sketch may be of some use.

J. H. B. HESSE.

GLOUCESTER & BRISTOL DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.
CHELTENHAM BRANCH.

The annual meeting of the Cheltenham Branch of the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association was held on Saturday, January 16th, at Leckhampton. It was not an ideal day, for the snow lay several inches deep, and this in some degree affected the attendance. The light ring of eight were early set going to Stedman Triples, and, later, service was held in church, conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. F. R. Standfast), who had with him a full choir. After service, all adjourned to the spacious Village Hall, where an excellent meat tea was provided by the Vicar and friends, and about 40 members, besides the choir, sat down.

The business meeting followed, with the Vicar in the chair, and one was pleased to see several friends from Gloucester, including Mr. John Austin, the esteemed Ringing Master of the Association.

The Secretary gave a short report of the year's work, and congratulated everyone on what had been accomplished. A reference was made to the death of an old and esteemed member, in the person of Mr. T. Compton (Prestbury), and the secretary was instructed to write a letter of condolence to the relatives of deceased.

The balance sheet was considered very satisfactory. Two honorary and six performing members were elected, and all the retiring officers were re-elected, viz.: Branch chairman, the Rev. A. D. Pennington (Alderton); branch representative, Mr. W. Townsend (Leckhampton); branch hon. secretary, Mr. Walter Yeend (Swindon); and they were heartily thanked for their past services.

Withington was chosen for the next meeting, and details were left to the secretary to arrange.

Mr. Hale urged all members to take in the 'Ringing World.'

Mr. W. Devetoux, in a very earnest speech, voiced the thanks of the members to the Rev. and Mrs. Standfast, Capt. Lyne, R.N. (churchwarden), the organist and choir, and all who had helped make the gathering so successful.—This was seconded by Mr. J. Austin, and carried with cheers.

The Vicar, responding, said how pleased he had been to do anything for the branch, for they at Leckhampton all loved their bells.—This concluded a very happy meeting. Afterwards the handbells were brought into use, and the tower again visited.

PROPOSAL TO DIVIDE LIVERPOOL BELLS.*ASSOCIATION'S OPPOSITION TO ST. PETER'S SCHEME.

The Liverpool and Wigan Branches (Liverpool Diocesan Guild) of the Lancashire Association met at St. Nicholas' Church, Liverpool, on January 16th, and passed a resolution regretting the proposal to divide up the ring of ten bells at St. Peter's Church. Forty-three members attended from Walton, Woolton, Chidwall, Halewood, Garston, St. Luke's, Rainford, Poolstock, Upholland, Ormskirk, Aughton, Crosby, Southport, and St. Nicholas.

A short service was conducted by the Rev. F. H. Keatch, the Rev. E. C. Collier, and the Archdeacon of Warrington, warden of the guild. The sermon, preached by the Rev. E. C. Collier, was a 'friendly talk,' as the preacher described it, to ringers, emphasising the parallels between ringing and living, preparation, concentration, and unity being special points of analogy.

After service, tea was provided, and the annual meeting held, under the chairmanship of the Warden, who congratulated the St. Nicholas' company on ringing a muffled peal of Stedman Cinquies in memory of the late Queen Alexandra.

A resolution was carried that 'The Liverpool Diocesan Guild learns with regret the suggestion to split up the St. Peter's ring of ten bells into a ring of eight, and urges the diocesan authorities to use their influence to the utmost to retain the St. Peter's bells as a ring of ten.'

This resolution has been forwarded to the Bishops, the Vicar of St. Helens, and the president of the Lancashire Association.

The secretary of the Liverpool and Wigan branches gave satisfactory account of the doings in their respective areas.

SURPRISE RINGING AT LAVENHAM.

A WEST COUNTRY FESTIVAL.

BRIDGERULE'S BELL OPENING.

A programme, which began with an early celebration of Holy Communion, and included after the bell opening ceremony, a luncheon, tea, concert, supper and dance, as well as ringing from 9 a.m. till midnight, marked the completion of the restoration of the bells at Bridgerule, a little parish near Holsworthy, Devon, on New Year's Day. Posters announcing the event had been displayed in every village for miles around, and ringers from every parish invited. Never, probably in all history had there been such a day of public festivity in this little village, where the church is dedicated to St. Bridget.

In May last the 2nd bell of the old peal of 5 broke away from its headstock, and fell into the pit. This bell and Nos. 4 and 5 were already cracked. The Vicar (the Rev. F. H. Kingdon) promptly took the matter in hand, and called in expert advice. It was found that the old oak frame and fittings were in a badly rotted condition, and dangerous. In June, at a Parochial Church Council meeting, it was definitely decided to recast the three cracked bells, add a treble to make a peal of six, and to provide a new frame and fittings. It was later decided to recast the whole five bells, and to increase the weight of the peal from 8 cwt. tenor to 10½ cwt. tenor. The work was entrusted to Messrs. Gillett and Johnston, Croydon.

New Year's Day saw the crowning of the efforts of those who had laboured to have everything worthy of the beautiful church.

It may be mentioned that during the 35 years' ministry of the Vicar, £7,000 have been collected and spent for various restorations and improvements to this building, and this in a village of under 300 inhabitants. Although the church is a mile from the village, a crowded congregation assembled for the reopening and dedication, which took place during the choral eucharist service, the Vicar performing the ceremony. In this he was assisted by the Rev. J. C. L. Johnstone, Vicar of Egg Buckland, who preached a very forceful and homely sermon, referring especially to ringers and their part in the worship of Almighty God.

Rounds were rung during the service by F. Gilbert, F. Gilbert, jun., C. Sangwan, R. Goulden, J. Honey, J. Sangwan. It was indeed a very beautiful service, and one long to be remembered.

After the service, an adjournment was made to the schools for luncheon. It would be impossible to provide a more bountiful feast. This, together with the tea and supper, was given by the residents, the proceeds going towards the bell fund.

After luncheon, the Vicar proposed a comprehensive vote of thanks to all donors and helpers, and also to Messrs. Gillett and Johnston. He said he felt sure that everyone would agree that that firm had given them a sweet-toned and beautiful peal of bells, beside hanging the bells with the most up-to-date fittings and frame. He was assured by the ringers that the 'go' was perfect. He thanked Messrs. Gillett and Johnston for the courteous and businesslike way they had carried out their contract. He was very glad to announce that there would be no debt on the bells, as all the money had been collected.

Mr. S. R. Roper (who represented Messrs. Gillett and Johnston) thanked the Vicar for his kind remarks on the firm's work. It had been a real pleasure to work with such a business man as the Vicar.

The Rev. C. E. Southern supported the vote of thanks, chiefly referring to the loyal support and work of all connected with this restoration. It said much for the good feeling in the village, when all sects and creeds had contributed.

For those who were not ringers, games, a concert and a dance were provided. As to the ringing, this was kept up until midnight, the total hours of ringing during the day being 13½. The following bands of the 'Tamar Valley Guild of Ringers' took part: Bridgerule, Frithulstock, Whitstone, Marhamchurch, Davidslowe, Poundstock, Black Torrington, Sheepwash, Werrington, Pyworthy (2), Kilkhampton, Tamerton, Launcells, Thornbury, St. Teath (2). The first scientific ringing was 120 Grandshire Doubles by the following: W. Slee, Pyworthy (conductor) 1. C. Cholwill, Pyworthy, 2; W. Shears, Pyworthy, 3; F. Rogers, Heavitree, Exeter, 4; S. R. Roper, Croydon, 5; J. Sangwan, Bridgerule, 6. This was followed by several 120's by the Pyworthy band. It would not be right to close this account without saying what a wonderful day it was, both from the ringers' and visitors' point of view. To show everyone's enthusiasm it should be mentioned that it rained in torrents all day. Many people had to wade through a foot of water to join in the festivities. The proceeds of the day came to over £70.

The following are the bells with their inscriptions:—

Treble.—G. Mears and Co., founders, London, 1866. Recast by Gillett and Johnston, Croydon, 1926. Weight, 3 cwt. 2 qr. 16 lb.

2.—Mr. William Braddon and Mr. John Jewell, churchwardens, T. B. Feet 1777. Recast January, 1926. M. I. Sanders. Recast by Gillett and Johnston, Croydon. Weight, 4 cwt. 0 qr. 14 lb.

3.—Erected September, 1877, when this church was restored, H. G. Southcomb, Vicar. Mears and Stainbank, founders, London. Recast by Gillett and Johnston, Croydon, 1926. Weight, 4 cwt. 2 qr. 25 lb.

4.—Mr. William Braddon and Mr. John Jewell, churchwardens. T. B. Feet 1777. Recast by Gillett and Johnston, Croydon, 1926. Weight 5 cwt. 1 qr. 6 lb.

5.—Rev. Thos. H. Kingdon, Vicar, 1818. John Inch and Nicholas Roger, C.W.I.P. Recast by Gillett, etc. Weight, 7 cwt. 1 qr. 23 lb.

6.—(A flat, 38 inches).—Erected January, 1926. F. H. Kingdon, Vicar. 'Ave Maria.' Gillett and Johnston, Croydon. Weight, 10 cwt. 1 qr. 21 lb.

Total weight: 35 cwt. 2 qr. 21 lb.

MIDLAND COUNTIES ASSOCIATION.

REVISION OF RULES.

Although wintry weather prevailed, and the elements were forbidding, quite a large number of Midland Counties Association members were present at Eastwood, Notts, on Saturday, January 16th, on the occasion of the quarterly meeting. The bells of the Parish Church, a beautifully toned peal of eight, were kept going during the afternoon and evening to most of the standard methods.

The committee met in the afternoon, and after the usual routine business, the question of rules was again gone into, and after several minor alterations, were proposed and passed, the whole was proposed to be laid before the annual meeting at Burton-on-Trent on Easter Monday for final settlement and adoption.

Mr. W. Lambert, of Bolsover, a highly-valued member, was transferred to the hon. life members' list, and 25 new members admitted, viz. two honorary, five life, and 18 ringing.

At the subsequent tea, some 50 members from Burton, Cotgrave, Derby, Ilkeston, Nottingham, Loughborough and Leicester sat down, and later the general meeting took place. Owing to a severe cold, and on the doctor's orders, the president, Alderman R. B. Chambers, J.P., was unable to be present. Mr. W. E. White, of Cotgrave, therefore, officiated in his stead.

The usual business was transacted, and two auditors elected to check the last year's accounts, which are in a most satisfactory condition. It cannot be too clearly shown to the members, however, that the present balance is not due to their own subscriptions, but to the magnificent roll of patrons and honorary members which the president (Ald. Chambers) has secured.

A discussion followed on the 'Sherwood Youths,' in which it was shown that any suspicion as to whether the M.C.A. were bearing the expenses of this body was absolutely unfounded, as they were simply an independent society formed to revere the memory of the late W. Doubleday Crofts, of Nottingham, and to revive the old society for social intercourse.

Votes of thanks were passed to the local committee for their arrangements, and Mr. Pollard replied. Further ringing on the bells brought a successful meeting to a close.

BATH & WELLS DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

AXBRIDGE DEANERY GOING AHEAD.

The annual meeting of the Axbridge Deanery Branch of the Bath and Wells Diocesan Association was held at Weston-super-Mare, on Saturday, January 16th. Despite the climatic conditions, some 30 members from different parts of the Deanery turned up at the Parish Church (St. John's) by 5 p.m., where the bells, with tenor of 12 cwt., were soon going to Grandairs and Stedman Triples, Bob Major, etc. The party, including the Rev. A. C. Schofield (president) of the association, the Rector of Weston-super-Mare (the Rev. G. Porcher), and the secretary (Mr. G. Chamberlain, of Burnham-on-Sea), later met at the Paragon Cafe, High Street, where a good tea was served, after which business was dealt with. The Rev. R. T. Sydenham was elected a member, and it was gratifying to hear the secretary propose that 24 new performing members be admitted to the association, which shows that the art is gaining in popularity. The new members are from Winscombe (3), Worle (3), Uphill (1), Mark (6), Burnham-on-Sea (3), and Bleadon (8). The last-named village has recently had a new treble bell added to its peal, and they now have a good-toned ring of six, the work having been carried through by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank.—The Rector of Bleadon (the Rev. Powys David) was made an honorary member of the association. Congressbury was chosen as the next place of meeting.—The balance sheet, which showed a creditable balance on the right side, was adopted.

Mr. Alec. Evans suggested that their president should act for another year. That gentleman agreed to do so, stating that his interest in ringing was keener than ever, as he had begun to ring again. It would certainly be an incentive to him to do his best. The indefatigable secretary (Mr. Chamberlain) was re-elected, after remarking that he had held office for the last ten years, and intended to resign. He was, however, persuaded to carry on for one more year.

A hearty vote of thanks was passed to the Rector (the Rev. Porcher) for the use of the bells and in responding, the reverend gentleman said the more frequently they could have their meetings at Weston-super-Mare the more pleased he would be.

A special service at the Parish Church was then held, the Rector officiating, and giving a most appropriate address to the ringers, after which the bells were again set going.

STEPPING-STONES.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—Mr. Bibby, in his reply to my query, is in agreement with my argument, whether he intends to be or not. Firstly, he says it is obvious that he who can ring Surprise Minor will ring the Major extensious quicker than he who is only a Kent Treble Bob Minor ringer. He makes a distinction between a Spliced Minor ringer and a Surprise Minor ringer; I cannot see why. The chances are, that when a ringer is capable of ringing a number of spliced extents he will be far in advance of his Surprise brother; in fact, he may be splicing Surprise methods. If, when a ringer has mastered the 'Abbey Group,' page 32, 'Method Splicing,' he cannot ring London Surprise Minor, he ought to give up ringing.

In Mr. Bibby's suggestion for a course of study, he includes the elementary and advanced, but excludes the intermediate stage. Nine bands out of ten, capable of ringing Kent Treble Bob Minor, are not in a position to jump to Cambridge or London Surprise Minor, without outside help. Even those who do accomplish it have had to put in many hard practices and waste much time before they were successful. Does not 'Method Splicing' supply this intermediate stage?

Without giving any reason, Mr. Bibby states that the book is not the best stepping-stone, yet that stage which it undoubtedly leads up to, is. Further comment from me is unnecessary.

I thank Mr. Keeble for his very favourable remarks, and I think if he will study splicing carefully, learning methods by order of passing treble will be found the better way. Coursing is a very good guide, but has too much of 'follow my leader' about it. At the present moment, I am not conversant with a great number of Major methods, but should imagine there are some which are combinations of two or more methods, similar to the Minor methods, and if the time comes when two or more Major methods are introduced into one course, the order of passing treble will prove its superiority. Take Mr. Parker's eight method 720, for example (page 41, 'Method Splicing'), it would be a difficult matter to ring it, other than by the order of passing treble.—Yours, etc.

JOHN P. FIDLER.

A WORD FOR THE COURSE BELL.

Dear Sir,—To those of us who have been taught, and have taught by, the coursing method, Mr. Fidler's letter reads rather strangely. Surely the coursing method is the foundation of change ringing, and there does not seem to be a better way of starting off beginners than by giving them something to follow. Certainly ringers thus taught are more reliable, and take to different methods much quicker than those who simply learn the work of their own bell.

Good striking may not be obtained by this means alone, but repetition is greatly helped by this method. Then again, how are young conductors to be brought out if they have not acquired the art of coursing a bell themselves? They will not be able to put a strayer right by telling him his course bell, will they?—Yours truly,

J. E. BAKER.

INSTRUCTION OF BEGINNERS.

To the Editor.

Sir,—I have read with much interest your article on 'Instruction of Beginners,' and also the letters commenting on it. I hope a book will be published on this subject; it would be greatly appreciated by such counties as Cumberland, where we are always having to teach new ringers to fill the gaps in our bands, which are often being depleted through members having to leave the districts to seek work and experience further afield.

There is another subject which I think the Central Council ought to take up, and that is getting more into touch with outlying counties. Of course, this would no doubt mean considerable expense, but if some Guild or Association would get together a band of ringers to tour these counties it would be greatly appreciated. We in Cumberland had some ringers touring the towers in the association recently, and I can assure them their visit was greatly appreciated, but their stay in the towers was rather short, and members of some of the belfries were consequently unable to meet them. Is it possible that a tour like the above could be arranged this year? It is well worth while visiting Cumberland to see the beautiful lake scenery. I hope to hear soon of some move being made in this direction. Yours truly,

T. HOGARTH.

WHERE ASSOCIATIONS LOSE GROUND

Sir,—With reference to your leading article of last week, you have touched an important point. I think associations lose a lot of ground in not allowing the instructor to keep on till a young band can ring the four standard methods. I hope, therefore, your leading article will be read by every ringer in England, and well studied by all officers of associations.

A. J. SKELDING.

SUNDAY SERVICE TOUCHES.

We regret that, owing to the demands upon the space available for Sunday Service Touches, we are unable to undertake to insert anything less than a quarter-peal on eight bells and upwards, and 720 of Doubles or Minor. Many correspondents send us quite short touches for publication and they must not be disappointed if we are unable to find room for them.

OLD LAKE.—After being silent for several weeks, owing to the restoration of the church tower, which is now completed, 720 changes of Plain Bob Minor was rung on Sunday morning, in 25 minutes: P. Lakin 1, J. W. Lakin, sen., 2, F. Harwood 3, W. Small 4, S. W. Houghton 5, J. W. Lakin, jun. (conductor), 6.

ODD AND EVEN PEALS OF STEDMAN TRIPLES.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I observe that you published in your last issue a five-part peal on the above lines. It is with regret that I must ask the composer, Mr. Parker, to withdraw his name from it.

In my book of Stedman peals, I have six constructed in this manner, viz., Nos. 60 to 65. I used them as the foundation in building up my peal No. 82. I enclose you No. 63 as typical.

I gave the six peals, with others, to Mr. Samuel Grove and the reason I have done nothing with them is because each has 40 singles. I saw they were capable of improvement, and I composed my peal with the two singles only, referred to above. This peal has been rung.

THE SHERWOOD YOUTHS.

Although the majority of our ringing associations are the product of the last half century, we have several societies in the country whose roots go deep into the past. The College Youths and the Royal Cumberlands in London, and St. Martin's Guild, Birmingham, are among the oldest and best known of these ancient institutions, but in the provinces there are smaller societies with equally long traditions, among them notably the Painswick Youths, St. Stephen's Youths, Bristol, the Saffron Walden Society and the Sherwood Youths. The last named has, in recent years, taken a renewed lease of life, and, thanks largely to the enthusiasm of Mr. Albert Coppock and Mr. Fred Blood, of Nottingham, has been raised from a moribund condition to one of active and vigorous growth. The gathering which took place on Saturday showed the increasing interest which is being taken in the organisation, which dates from 1672, although, under a different title, namely, that of the Northern Youths, who gave two trebles to St. Peter's Church, Nottingham, nearly three hundred years ago, the society may have existed before that date.

The Sherwood Youths took a prominent part in building up the history of ringing in the northern midlands, and its most distinguished member was William Double-day Crofts, a Nottingham attorney, who lived in the eighteenth century, and whose competence as a ringer has been revealed by the manuscripts he left, showing his knowledge of composition and his ability as a ringer and conductor. He was actively engaged in the art at a time when ringing was confined to comparatively few centres, when intercommunication between men engaged in ringing was a matter of great difficulty, and travel was a thing not lightly to be undertaken. Crofts must have been a close student of the art of ringing, for he appears to have mastered many of the early problems, and that, too, without much, if any, outside assistance. He travelled widely over the district in connection with peal ringing, and in several instances he had a hand in opening a new peal of bells, having, doubtless, in some cases, exercised his influence in getting the work done.

Crofts was unquestionably an outstanding man in his day, and the decision of the present generation of Sherwood Youths to commemorate his memory, and keep it green, is highly to be commended. The efforts which have been made by the Nottingham men to discover the history of this 'light of other days' has been also an interesting task, and it is an example of what may be done by perseverance. There have been many men whose names have been well known in ringing history, and who deserve a niche in the Temple of ringing fame, but concerning whom there is little tangible record now available. Researches in this direction should provide a field of interesting work for amateur investigators, and would, when completed, be an invaluable acquisition for the future historian of the Exercise. There must be material available; the difficulty is to unearth it, but it was only perseverance that brought to light the story of W. D. Crofts, and a similar application in connection with other societies and individuals might lead to equally interesting and excellent results.

LONDON SURPRISE RECORD.

As already notified, there is to be an attempt to-morrow at Warham, Sussex, for a record peal of London Surprise Major, the length being 14,144 changes, which is one lead more than the peal rung at King's Norton by St. Martin's Guild, on May 11th, 1903. The start is at 11 a.m.

Mr. George Williams writes: 'I am very pleased to see above attempt is to be under Sussex County Association, as it is at a Sussex tower. I wish my old colleagues success, but it would have looked more consistent if one or two peals recently rung in Sussex had been on similar conditions.'

MIDLAND COUNTIES ASSOCIATION.

NOTTINGHAM REPORT CRITICISED.

To the Editor.

Sir,—I regret to criticise the Nottingham report in your issue of Jan. 22nd, but the inaccuracies call for a reply. First: If the report was written by the local secretary, let me say at once that he had no right to put forth a statement of accounts, at least before the accounts have been audited. Moreover, the figures are wrong. Secondly, he had no right to ask the local members for a 'grant to the secretary,' neither have they the power to make it. That is the business of the general committee and the whole association. There has been a series of attempts to force the hand of the committee for a grant of money to the branch 'for local funds'? It now resolves itself into a request for an allowance for the secretary. In plain English—a paid job. It may be worth it, but I incline to the view that if a man seeks office to serve his fellow men, he should do it for the honour, seeking what he can give to the cause, and not what he can get out of it.

Lastly, he states, 'Secretaries pay expenses out of their own pocket . . . and cannot afford it.' This is ridiculously untrue. No secretary is called upon to pay one penny out of his pocket. The whole expenses of the branch are defrayed and have never yet been questioned. I have before me at this moment a scrap of paper of one word: 'Expenses £1 3s,' with no details, although I know that this amount does not cover half the expenditure, for other bills are due. The fact that at the Nottingham mass meeting only 15 (fifteen) out of 200 turned up—and these from seven sections—shows that either the members are tired of being 'bored stiff,' or are satisfied with the management as it at present exists.

WILLIAM WILLSON,

Hon. Treasurer, M.C.A.

RINGING STANDARDS.

THE ISSUE OF CERTIFICATES.

With reference to the suggestion that the Central Council should formulate a series of standards of ringing attainment, the secretary of the Suffolk Guild writes to say that his Guild has had printed a number of certificates of proficiency, but that none have as yet been issued. They could, therefore, be used to certify the attainment of any standards laid down by the Council. The Guild Committee have suggested that the following achievements should entitle a member to a certificate, certifying the fact that it has been accomplished: (a) First 720; (b) first peal (5,040); (c) every first peal in a new method; (d) every 50th peal; (e) any 'name' peal; (f) any peal over 7,000.

He suggests that those interested in the matter should get their representatives on the Council to send in notices of a resolution without delay.

DURHAM & NEWCASTLE ASSOCIATION.

PEAL RINGING SLACKNESS.

A meeting of the Western Division was held at Chester-le-Street on Saturday, January 16th, when there were present members from St. John's, Darlington; St. Ignatius, Sunderland; Newcastle Cathedral, Tanfield and Consett. In spite of other attractions and the wintry weather prevailing, a very enjoyable time was spent, and several methods were rung under the conductorship of Mr. Patterson and Mr. Sheraton, vice-presidents of the Eastern and Western Divisions respectively.

General regrets were expressed at the absence from the meeting of Mr. C. T. Brice, of Pulham, and hopes were expressed that he would soon be sufficiently recovered to visit them on a future date.

Congratulations were extended to Mr. Wm. Story, one of the esteemed ex-presidents of the association, on having been made W.M. of the 'Hotspur' Lodge of Freemasons, Newcastle-on-Tyne.

There was a strong feeling among the members that a certain slackness was noticeable throughout the association in connection with peal ringing, and if any was attempted it was generally the favoured few who were selected. Obviously, writes our correspondent, the passing over of several deserving ringers is harmful, and against the best interests of the association.

Also a word in season to the local secretaries. It would be as well to remind them, when arranging their meetings, to get in touch with each other so that the gatherings would not clash, as was the case on this occasion.

The next meeting of the Western Division, of which due notice will appear in 'The Ringing World,' will be held at Consett.

At the close of the meeting, the Rector, Canon Jackson, D.D., was thanked for kindly granting the use of the bells, and thanks were also accorded to those members who looked after the arrangements.

ST. MARTIN'S GUILD, BIRMINGHAM.

The annual meeting of the St. Martin's Guild for the Diocese of Birmingham was held at the St. Martin's Hotel, City, on January 19th, when a good attendance was presided over by Mr. Vice-President J. H. Shepherd, in the unavoidable absence of the Presiding Ringing Master, Mr. Alderman Pritchett. The latter gentleman, in the exercise of his office, as acting judge in Herefordshire on that date, expressed his regret at being unable to be present, but it is understood that several persons who had perforce to make his acquaintance, in the course of the said duties, would have been quite ready to spare him, and probably consigned him, when commencing inwardly, to a place further even than Birmingham!

The members passed a hearty vote of congratulation to the alderman on having reached his 71st birthday, and wished him 'Many Happy Returns,' and a continuance of the robust health which he has fortunately enjoyed.

All officers were re-elected for the ensuing twelve months, as follows: President, the Lord Bishop of the Diocese; vice-presidents, the Rev. Canon T. Guy Rogers, B.D., M.C., Rector of Birmingham, Alderman J. S. Pritchett, M.A., B.C.L., Messrs. W. H. Godden, John Carter, J. E. Shepherd, Wm. Kent and Thomas Russam; Presiding Ringing Master, Ald. J. S. Pritchett, M.A., B.C.L.; Deputy Ringing Master, Mr. Albert Walter; trustees, Messrs. T. Russam and C. Dickens; auditors, Messrs. T. H. Reeves and Jonathan Preston; hon. secretary and treasurer, Mr. A. Paddon Smith.

The balance sheet for 1925 was approved and adopted, and several new members were elected.

The Secretary reported that the Connaught Room at the Imperial Hotel had been booked for the Henry Johnson Commemoration Dinner, which would be held on Saturday, March 6th.

The next quarterly meeting will be held, with the Vicar's permission, at Rowley Regis.

A DATE TOUCH.

At Goldhanger, Essex, on January 23rd, a date touch of Minor (1,926 changes), consisting of 720 each of Kent and Oxford Treble Bob, 360 of College Exercise and 126 Plain Bob: J. D. Buckingham 1, S. J. White 2, H. B. Gardner 3, J. R. Owens 4, G. H. Neville (conductor) 5, A. Appleton 6. Longest length by the ringer of the 2nd; also by G. H. Neville as conductor. Rung as a birthday compliment to A. Appleton.

NORTH NOTTS ASSOCIATION.*FLOURISHING POSITION.

The first meeting of the new year was held at Worksop on Saturday last, when members were present from Anston, Blyth, Barborough, Shireoaks, Mansfield, Handsworth, and the local company. By the kind permission of the Rev. Canon d'Arcy the bells of the Priory Church were at the disposal of ringers, and the methods rung during the day included Kent Treble Bob Major, Grandsire Triples, Oxford, Kent, Violet, Duke of York and London Scholars' Pleasure. The Blyth ringers, who brought a full company, raised the bells in peal, and rang a well-struck 720 of Oxford Treble Bob, conducted by A. Eastland. Tea was served at the Co-operative Cafe, and the business meeting followed, presided over by Mr. Hargreaves (Shireoaks).

The Secretary announced that Tuxford bells would shortly be rehung in a new iron frame, the 4th bell recast, and all the others cleaned and retuned. Thus one more ring of bells would be put in good order for the association, and for the Tuxford ringers, who have laboured hard in the past to ring the bells at all.

The next meeting is to be held at Ordsall, shortly after Easter, and will be advertised as usual in 'The Ringing World.'

The Hon. Sec. mentioned that the association was never in a better position than it was to-day, numerically and financially. Every six-bell tower except one was affiliated to the association, and the membership was over 200. One thing he would like to see carried out was that at least one representative should be sent to every meeting from each tower, to keep in touch with the association and extend that spirit of brotherhood that had existed amongst them for so many years. Whilst many association secretaries regretted that members' subscriptions came in badly, and ringers attended meetings who had not paid anything for a number of years in the shape of subscriptions, he was proud to say it was just the opposite in the North Notts Association. What he wanted to see was a better attendance at all their meetings to give the hon. secretary some encouragement to continue in office. While some of the meetings had been well attended, there were many that were not, but perhaps the weather had had something to do with it.

A hearty vote of thanks to the Rev. Canon d'Arcy for granting the use of the bells concluded the business.

Ringings was finished at 8.30 p.m. by a well-struck touch of Kent Treble Bob Major, in which three six-bell ringers took part in their first attempt of Major.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

Mr. Cyril Johnston, head of the Croydon Bell Foundry, has just returned to England after a trip to the U.S.A., where he attended the official opening of the great New York carillon.

Next week the Croydon Foundry are sending to Guelph, Ontario, a carillon of 23 bells, which will be fitted with an improved kind of keyboard. Instead of the old-fashioned clavier, it will have a board, similar to that of a piano, which is electrically controlled.

To-day is the anniversary of two peals of 12,000. At Bromley, Kent, on February 5th, 1783, a peal of 12,672 Bob Major was rung in 7 hours 48 minutes. The same date in 1683 witnessed the 12,041 Stedman Caters at Appleton, where, after a 13,054 in the same method had been rung at Cheltenham in the following May, a 15,041 was rung on the last day of the same year. It was at Appleton, too, that the existing record of 21,363 was put up in the year 1922.

The attempt to be made to-morrow for a record length of London Surprise recalls the interesting fact that it is the anniversary of the first peal rung in this method on handbells. This was at Romford on February 6th, 1904.

Exactly a hundred years to-morrow, the Society of Change Ringers of Bingley (Yorks) met in the tower of the parish church and rang during the day in three touches of 12 twelve-scores each, without a single breakdown or a false change, the extraordinary number of 36 twelve-scores, making a total of 8,640 changes. Thirty-six different methods were rung, among them many of the names we know to-day, but one there is which appears to be lost in oblivion—Symphony.

When St. Botolph's Bishopsgate, bells were opened on Feb. 7th, 1783, three peals were rung in the one day by three different bands, viz. 5,120 Oxford Treble Bob, 5,040 Grandsire Triples, 5,216 Oxford Treble Bob. The neighbours didn't grumble in those days—at least, if they did, it didn't have much effect.

COVENTRY BELLS.

HARMONICALLY TUNED BELLS BEST.

To the Editor.

Sir,—I heartily support Mr. A. Walker's letter in your last issue, it being wholly to the point. I never had the pleasure of hearing these bells, although I saw them many years ago in the tower. But from the evidence in support of the petition the case was hopeless, the witnesses as a whole 'giving the show away,' by their admissions as to tuning.

Personally, I am against old and historical bells being recast, if they are good; and no bell would be classed good in these days unless harmonically in tune with itself. That is why individual old bells are picked out up and down the country as of exceptional merit.

I will only mention one, the 11th at Exeter Cathedral, which the late Mr. J. W. Taylor described as an exceptionally fine bell, and could not be improved, and when asked why there was such difference in the weight of the tenor, replied: 'We had to put the extra metal to correspond with the extraordinary quality of the 9th' (now 11th). Therefore, if recasting is necessary to get the bell in true harmony with itself, undoubtedly it is the right thing.

I used to have the idea that if the top note was right, that was sufficient for change ringing, but after many years' experience on so many harmonically tuned bells, I come to the conclusion the better in tune the bells are the more enjoyable the ringing.

I find in Major ringing, when bells are well struck to time, every last blow of the backstroke is a perfect finish, if the bells are truly in tune; if they are not, you do not get that finish.

Therefore, I am with Mr. Walker, if bells can be improved let us assist in carrying it out.

West End, Hants.

THE 'COVENTRY TRIAL.'

To the Editor.

Sir,—It was in the year 1870 and again in 1871 my father took my brother and I to hear and ring on St. Michael's bells. My father, who was a good musician, always carried a pitch pipe and a tuning fork, and I always remember him saying the bells were a perfect peal. I rang in a touch of Grandsire Triples, and the treble in a course of Caters. (I was nine years of age then.) In 1883 or 1884 I went with Mr. Thomas Holmes to Coventry, and he, too, always carried a tuning fork, and he said the bells were true to tune, and I say so now, but what were our representatives doing? Was there not one who could argue with Drs. Brazil and Starmer? I must agree with Mr. A. Walker that the modern tuning is the best. If you have a peal of handbells, one should know if they are in tune, and the same thing applies to our church bells. I have rung on some of the best and the worst bells in England, and know it. I wrote to Mr. Caldicott my version in good time. My old friend, the late Rowland Cartwright, and I were appointed to go and judge a new peal (I won't mention where), but we soon condemned them, and they had to be taken away. At the same time, we must give our representatives credit for doing their best. Mr. Dawe's letter is good, and should be appreciated.—Yours, etc.,

JOHN JAGGAR.

THE SOCIETY OF SHERWOOD YOUTHS

CROFTS' COMMEMORATION AT NOTTINGHAM.

An interesting and enjoyable gathering took place at Nottingham on Saturday, when the Society of Sherwood Youths met for the fourth successive year to commemorate the memory of William Doubleday Crofts, one of Nottingham's most distinguished ringers of a century and a half ago. The Sherwood Youths established themselves 250 years ago, and although the society never really lapsed, there was a period when its activities reached a low ebb. Since the war, however, the Nottingham ringers have resuscitated the society, and in addition to the dinner which is now annually held, periodical meetings for ringing and social entertainment take place. The society is a useful adjunct to the Midland Counties Association, and in no sense a rival organisation for membership of the M.C.A. is a sine qua non of election to the Sherwood Youths.

Saturday's gathering brought together a company of between 70 and 80. Ringing was enjoyed by many at St. Mary's Church in the afternoon, and then the party assembled round the festive board at the Welbeck Hotel, where an excellent dinner was served. Mr. Albert Coppock (Master) presided, and among the company, which included many ladies, were the Mayor of Nottingham (Alderman Foulds), Canon Field (Vicar of St. Mary's), Mr. George Walker (Birmingham), Mr. C. F. Johnston (Croydon), Mr. H. F. Stubbs (representing Messrs. J. Taylor and Co., Loughborough), Mr. J. S. Goldsmith (Woking), Mr. F. Blood (honorary secretary), Mr. E. C. Shepherd (honorary treasurer), Mr. F. W. Bailey (steward), Mr. W. E. White (Cotgrave), Messrs. A. Archer, W. Flinders, J. Ward (one of the original members of the Midland Counties Association), and W. Clifford (hon. members of the society), Mr. E. C. Gobey (Ilkeston), Mr. F. Spencer (Radcliffe), Mr. J. E. Hobbs (Greasley), Mr. J. Bailey (Long Eaton), Mr. A. Ward (Bottesford), Mr. A. C. Hickton (Sawley), Mr. G. Copeland (Eastwood), Mr. Collins (Loughborough), while the local towers well represented were St. Peter's and St. Mary's, Nottingham, Beeston, Basford, etc. An excellent repast was served and much enjoyed, and the toast of 'The King' was honoured.

WELCOME TO THE MAYOR.

The Master, as the Mayor had to leave early to attend another engagement, took the opportunity of welcoming his Worship. They of the Sherwood Youths, he said, with the tradition of Robin Hood and Little John behind them, looked on the Sheriff as their lawful prey last year, but this year they had angled for larger fish, and the Mayor had risen to the bait admirably (applause). He not only honoured them with his presence, but he came among them as an honorary member of the Midland Counties Association. In the course of his official duties, the Mayor came into contact with numerous small societies which existed for a variety of purposes, and which were working for the benefit of their members. He submitted that the Sherwood Youths was one of these societies. They could compare the Midland Counties Association, he continued, with a valve set, with Alderman R. B. Chambers as the detector valve, and if there was any money about he found the carrier wave (laughter). The branches they could take as amplifiers, but the Nottingham branch, using as it did the other society in conjunction, could be taken as a valve with two filaments in parallel, and was, therefore, the strongest of the association's branches. Their duty, he pointed out, was to clear the belfries of all undesirables, and to replace them with men and women who both recognised their duty to the church, and pursued their hobby with enthusiasm. Thus they found ringers taking their position in the church as sidesmen, choristers, organists, and churchwardens, while the number of ringing clergy grew larger every year. That was the first occasion on which they had not had a ringing parson with them at that annual gathering, although they could hardly exempt Canon Field, who had 'done a bit.' In that district, however, they had one or two very clever ringing parsons, in the Rev. C. J. Sturton, the Rev. A. D. Hill, who rang in the first parson's peal of Stedman Triples, and their old friend, Mr. Wilkinson, who must be now one of the greatest living authorities on the bells of Nottinghamshire. The Master then gave 'the Health of the Mayor,' which was honoured with enthusiasm.

The Mayor, in responding, said his term of office had revealed to him that there were in Nottingham societies of a most interesting and varied character, of which one heard little, but scarcely a week passed without him coming across something fresh, something which, before, he had not had the slightest idea existed. He did not know until that night that that society had for its main object the study and practice of campanology. He knew there was some association with that old Nottingham worthy, Mr. Doubleday Crofts. He gathered from their chairman that little was known of him outside his bell ringing operations. Had he been a clergyman they would probably have heard more about him, but being a solicitor he had so much to do for his clients that he had no time to write his own records. It was to be regretted that a man occupying such an interesting position had not left some better record behind him. It was, however, very nice to have that dinner in his memory. It was a very creditable thing to keep alive the memory of this old gentleman of Sherwood, and he was glad to be there as representing the city to give every possible encouragement to their society (applause).

BADGES FOR THE OFFICERS.

At the Master's request the Mayor then presented to the officers of the society silver gilt badges of office, which had been presented to the society by two of the members. The recipients were the Master (Mr. A. Coppock), the secretary (Mr. F. Blood), the treasurer (Mr. E. C. Shepherd), and the steward (Mr. F. Bailey).

The Mayor having taken his leave, the Master gave a review of the year. He said the membership of the Nottingham District of the Midland Counties Association had reached the record figure of 205, and the membership of the Sherwood Youths was between 50 and 60. To a great extent that success was due to a gentleman named Blood (applause). There was one thing they must do, and that was to protect their secretary from attacks similar to those of which they had read in 'The Ringing World'; the integrity of the secretary was the integrity of them all, and it was for them to put up a bold front to deal with it. It might only be a small thing, but it might have grave consequences. Continuing, Mr. Coppock referred to the peal performances of the past year, and said the outstanding peal was that rung twelve months ago that day, a peal of London Surprise at Beeston, the first in the district by a local band, and easily the first for quality ever rung in that district. It had two unique records, in that it was the conductor's first peal in the method, and a greater one was that their old friend, William Clifford, was a participant in it, and thus rang his first peal of London at the age of 76 (applause). Turning from the oldest to the youngest member—Edward Gobey, jun., had rung his first peal during the year. Another peal of interest was the London Surprise at Long Eaton, while the peal at Grantham, credited to the Sherwood Youths only, was rung on the 150th anniversary of the first peal rung there by the Sherwood Youths, in which W. D. Crofts took part. Then there was the spliced peal of Grandsire and Stedman Caters at St. Mary's, one of the finest peals of Caters he had ever heard. Early last year the bells of St. Mary's were broadcast, and were heard as far away as Barcelona. Proceeding, the Chairman said they had with them as guests four veterans whom they were glad to welcome. They were Alf Archer, the only connecting link between the old society of Sherwood Youths and the new; Jack Ward, William Clifford, and old Billy Flinders, wielder of the oil can at St. Peter's (laughter and applause). During the year death had removed four of their members, Enoch Foster, Geo. Johnson, George Oldham and Joe Woolley. They had also lost the Bishop of Southwell, whose last act in a belfry was to unveil the board for the peal of London in the belfry at Beeston. 'They have passed from our midst,' said the Chairman, 'do not let them pass from our minds.'

A silent toast was drunk to their memory.

RINGING IN AMERICA.

Mr. Cyril Johnston then proposed the toast of 'Church and State.' It was hardly necessary for him, he said, to repeat what had been said so many times before, that the ringers were now much more in alliance with the clergy and the officials of the church than they were in years gone by. To-day they had a considerable number of ringing clergy, and he was glad to know that their Vicar is a ringing clergyman (The Vicar: Was.) Mr. Johnston said he used the word 'is,' because 'once a ringer, always a ringer' (applause). He added that he had just come back from America. The last time he rang, before ringing that day, was in Boston, U.S.A. The Boston Guild mustered a band to meet him, and one man came 40 miles for the purpose. Among them was Dick Newton. There were five English ringers to meet him, and they were pleased to have another English ringer to come among them for a pull. It showed how strong the love for ringing was in those men who had stuck to it in face of great difficulties. They rang that night, about three weeks ago, the third 720 Kent Treble Bob ever rung in the United States. He went to a dinner later in the evening, and when the people there heard about this ringer they looked upon him as having just come from a party of lunatics (laughter), but they became interested, and still more interested when he told them they could ring 479,001,600 changes on twelve bells, and it was a bit of a shock to them when they learnt it would take about 37 years to ring them (laughter). Continuing, Mr. Johnston said the bells were rung in this country on other than ecclesiastical occasions—they rang on great State occasions. Long might it be so. Ringers were always willing to give up their work, and spend time, trouble and money to ring for special occasions, and he did not suppose bells had ever been rung so universally as on a certain November 11th, which they all remembered.

Canon Field, who responded, said it was the first dinner he had attended in Nottingham at which that toast was honoured. He reminded his hearers that that day was the anniversary of the martyrdom of King Charles, and said it was very little more than a hundred years ago that festivities of all sorts were prohibited on Jan. 30th. He was not one of those who could regard King Charles' character without stain, but in responding to that toast it would be the greatest ingratitude not to recognise that King Charles might have saved his life if he had consented to sacrifice what he thought was his duty to the Church of England. Those who put King Charles to death would have viewed with absolute disfavour any such nefarious practice as that of ringing church bells. Proceeding, Canon Field spoke of the change which had come about in the atmosphere of the helpries, and the attitude of the ringers towards the church, its services, and its organisation, and he hoped that the spirit which now prevailed would continue to grow.

A PIONEER OF CHANGE RINGING.

Mr. Walter Hunt was entrusted with the toast of 'William Doubleday Crofts and the Sherwood Youths.' He said, in reviving the memory of Crofts, a pioneer of change ringing over a hundred years ago, and in assembling as they did once a year in that manner, they were paying a tribute to his memory in the truest and sincerest form. They owed a debt of gratitude, he said, to their chairman, who had done so much to unravel the history of Mr. Crofts. On March 3rd, 1778—148 years ago—Mr. Wm. Doubleday Crofts and nine of his colleagues rang a peal of Grandsire Caters, consisting of over ten thousand changes, on St. Mary's bells, Nottingham. That might not be a great performance in view of the established records of the last 25 years, but it was a wonderful performance in those distant days. The resuscitation of the Sherwood Youths re-established the link with those far-off years, although the link had never really been severed, for they had with them that night one who was a member of the old society. The excellent manner in which the society had been put on its feet revealed that it had a bright and prosperous future before it. The society was secondary to that great organisation, the Midland Counties Association, and it was in no sense a rival, for, before any ringer could become a member of the Sherwood Youths, he must first become a member of the Midland Counties Association. The wealth and success of the M.C.A. was largely due to the enormous area which it had under its wing. It was governed by excellent officials, with their energetic president, Mr. Chambers, at their head, but he thought the time was ripe when each centre should control its own finances, and deal with its own affairs. Mr. Hunt urged that peal attempts should not be made by members on days appointed for meetings, for they should remember that meetings of the past had been the training grounds of those who are successful to-day.

When the toast had been honoured, Mr. Blood proposed the election of Mr. Cyril Johnston as a member of the Sherwood Youths. This was seconded by the Master, and carried with enthusiasm.—Mr. Johnston briefly acknowledged his election.

Mr. F. S. Price, in a pointed and telling speech, proposed 'The Ringing World.' 'Whatever ringers would do without "The Ringing World,"' he said, amid laughter, 'God above knows.' The paper deserved every ringer's support, for they could not possibly keep abreast of the times unless they read the paper. He knew of some helpries where they took only one copy; and that, he thought, was a very paltry thing to do (hear, hear). Ringers should give their whole-hearted support to the paper, which was doing its utmost for ringing (applause).

Mr. J. S. Goldsmith replied, and emphasised the point that it was up to the ringers themselves to secure a cheaper paper, if they wanted it, by showing they were willing to shoulder some of the financial responsibility. A cheaper paper could only be produced by a larger circulation, and if ringers would unite in showing that they were ready to ensure this larger circulation by taking practical action, there would be encouragement to give them what it was his great desire to see, a better journal at a lower price (applause).

Mr. W. E. White proposed 'The Visitors,' whom he welcomed, and especially thanked the ladies for their presence.

Mr. George Walker responded, and thanked the Sherwood Youths both for their hospitality and their entertainment. He had been delighted to meet and talk with their Rector. In him they had got the right man in the right place, and, he believed, if they handled him properly it would not be long before they had a peal of twelve in Nottingham (applause). Mr. Walker extended to the members of the Sherwood Youths the promise of a cordial welcome if they attended the Henry Johnson dinner at Birmingham on March 6th.

The musical programme was a feature of the evening, the principal vocal items being contributed by a quartet, Messrs. L. C. Pearce, A. Coppock, J. F. Adkin and J. Warren, whose splendid singing gave great delight to the company. Members of the party also gave songs and duets, and added greatly to the enjoyment of a pleasurable evening. Miss Winnie Gobey sang two songs, in very sweet voice, and Mr. Matthews provided the humorous element with some highly diverting contributions. Master Fred Blood played piano solos in masterly style, and the programme was completed by a course of Grandsire tapped on handbells by Miss Edith Gobey, a course of Caters rung double-handed, and, most weird and wonderful of all, a course of Duffield played on the saxophone by Mr. W. C. Hunt.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION. NORTH AND EAST DISTRICT.

The annual meeting of the North and East District was held on Saturday, January 23rd, at St. Giles-in-the-Fields, when upwards of 70 members put in an appearance. The bells were set going soon after 3 o'clock, most of the standard methods being rung. Quite a large number of members attended at St. Bartholomew-the-Great, Smithfield, to take advantage of the somewhat rare opportunity to have a pull on the ring of five pre-Reformation bells, and several 120's of Grandsire, Plain Bob and Stedman Doubles were rung. Service was held at 5.30, with an address by the Rector (the Rev. W. H. Davies), who heartily welcomed the members of the association to St. Giles-in-the-Fields.

Subsequently an excellent tea was partaken of in the School House, Endell Street, and was followed by the business meeting. The chair was taken by the president (Mr. F. A. Milne), who was supported by Messrs. W. Pickworth (vice-president), N. A. Tomlinson (District Master), C. T. Coles, hon. secretary, and a large company of ringers, several of whom, it was noticed, had come from the neighbouring counties of Hertfordshire, Essex and Surrey—quite a pleasant and healthy sign of the good feeling existing amongst the associations.

The balance sheet, showing a credit of £18 0s. 8d., plus £73 13s. 8d. invested, was adopted, and fourteen new members were elected. The sum of £5 was voted towards the fund for providing two new bells at Isleworth, and the hope was expressed that it would soon be possible to say that the scheme was a success.

The whole of the district officers were re-elected.

A hearty and unanimous vote of congratulation was passed to the Ladies' Guild on their fine achievement in ringing a peal of Stedman Caters on January 20th at St. Clement Danes'. It was noted with satisfaction that the whole of the band were also members of this association. The congratulations of the meeting were briefly acknowledged by Miss P. A. Upsher, one of the band, on behalf of the Ladies' Guild.

It was decided to hold the next meeting of the district at St. Mary's, Islington, if possible, on March 6th, whilst Southgate was chosen as the venue for the next district annual meeting.

A hearty vote of thanks was accorded to the Rector for the use of the bells, and for his address at the service; to the Rev. W. F. G. Sandwith (Rector of St. Bartholomew-the-Great) for allowing the members to ring at that church; to the organist; and to the several friends who had so ably assisted at the tea tables.—This was acknowledged by the Rev. W. H. Davies.

The bells were afterwards kept going until 9 o'clock, Grandsire, Stedman, Plain Bob, Cambridge, Bristol and London Surprise being amongst the methods rung.

SPLICED TRIPLES.

BY A. J. PITMAN.

Mr. A. J. Pitman, of Port Talbot in sending for publication the figures of the peal of Spliced Oxford and Grandsire Triples, rung at Bridgend, on January 27th, says: I would like to draw attention to the advantages of splicing touches and peals on this plan. If a stated method is rung in every lead in which a certain bell is in the hunt, the truth of a composition will be ensured. Thus it is possible to ring six or more methods if desired, and in this way the ringing can be made more intricate and interesting.

Further than this, I have discovered that peals can be obtained on this plan without singles, as shown in this composition, only bobs being used, so that all the changes are Triple Changes.

With 2, 3 or 4 in the hunt, ring Oxford; with 5, 6 or 7 in the hunt, ring Grandsire. Repeat 5 times, omitting sixth bob * in parts 2, 4 and 6. First rung at Bridgend on January 27th, 1926, conducted by the composer, this being the first spliced peal rung in these methods.

Double Court may be rung instead of Oxford. With the 7th in the hunt, Double Grandsire, St. Clement's or College Single may be rung.

NOTES BY THE WAY.

THE FIRST PEALS OF DOUBLE NORWICH MAXIMUS.

By J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

From what I last wrote it is clear that we have no direct evidence as to what was rung in 1817 as Norwich Court Bob Maximus. We know definitely from 'The Clavis' that the peal of Court Bob Royal rung in 1769 was Double Norwich Royal, and that the Court Bob Major rung in Norwich during the latter part of the eighteenth century was Double Norwich Major. But we have no corresponding evidence about the twelve-bell peal. The first time that Norwich Court Bob Maximus was printed was in the first part of Shipway's 'Campanologia' in 1812. He gives a lead of the double variation, and tells his reader how to get from it the single and reverse variations. It is clear that he himself made the extensions from ten bells, and he knew nothing about anything that was practised at Norwich. He says that it has been confined to the double method, and that on eight bells only, and has not until late years been rung on ten bells. He is here referring to two peals rung in London in 1801, the first at Christ Church, Spitalfields, by a band selected from the three principal societies of ringers in the Metropolis, and on a tablet in that steeple it is stated to be the first ever rung in that intricate method. The 5,220 was rung at St. Leonard's, Shoreditch, by a band of the Society of Cumberlands. Consequently by that statement they are the first and only society that has accomplished so arduous an undertaking. J. Noonan composed and called the first peal, George Gross, sen., the second. On the other hand, the Norwich Scholars knew nothing about Shipway's system of classifying methods into Single, Reverse and Double Variations. By 1827 the custom of calling the method Double Norwich was adopted by the Mancroft men, but the peals of Major they rang in 1815 and 1817 (which we know were in the double variation) were still called Norwich Court. Whatever the twelve-bell method was, it was produced by a Norwich man without outside help, and the evidence is clear that that man was Samuel Thurston.

Nearly forty years ago this point was raised in a very interesting way. The Ipswich men had already rung peals of Double Norwich Royal, and, in 1886, they began to practice Double Norwich Maximus. They were naturally anxious to know if, when they should ring a peal, it would be the first in the method. Mr. Percival Heywood (afterwards Sir Arthur) collected all the evidence in the matter at that time available, and wrote a series of articles in 'The Bell News' of January 26th, 1889, and following weeks. After reviewing the evidence he came to the conclusion that the Mancroft peal was undoubtedly Double Norwich Court Bob Maximus.

The evidence was purely circumstantial, and the Ipswich men were not satisfied. When at last they did succeed in scoring a 5,000 they claimed it as the first in the method. The reasons that influenced them were, I think, three. First, Jasper Snowdon, in his book, had left the matter undecided; second, the Mancroft peal is called Norwich Court Bob on the tablet, not Double Norwich Court Bob; and Norwich Court Bob is the title usually given to the single variation; and thirdly, and chiefly, by a piece of what they considered direct evidence. In October, 1879, five of their band paid a visit to Norwich, and when in the tower looking at the board with the late Mr. James Young, then Master of the Norwich Scholars, the question was asked: "Was it Double Norwich?" He replied, "No, it was a single method." Really, Young was simply guessing. He came to Norwich in 1856. More than one of the old ringers were living in 1896 who were members of the Mancroft company many years before Young, and who were sure that all memory of what was rung had faded away before 1856. It seems strange; for some of the 1817 band, Thomas Hurry for one, lived to be old men. The late Henry Dains remembered Hurry quite well. Yet Hubbard's silence about the method is significant, and it certainly was the tradition that there had been some unpleasantness about the peal, some jealousy or other: on account of which it was not even mentioned among the ringers. Some of them (presumably not any of those who rang in it) spoke of it contemptuously as 'Bob Major spoiled.' All this is hard to reconcile with the peal board, and the fact that eight years after it was rung the united ringers of St. Peter Mancroft presented Samuel Thurston with a jewel for his eminent services in composing the peal.

And yet I think there cannot be any shadow of doubt that the peal was well and truly rung, and that it was Double Norwich Court Bob Maximus. It is quite evident from the peal board, and from the nature of the case, that the ringers intended to ring the proper extension to twelve bells of Double Norwich Major and Royal, both of which had been regularly rung at Norwich since 1751.

Now, the construction of Court Bob is such that it has not one and one only obvious extension, as most of the standard methods, Plain Bob, Oxford, Kent, Grandsire, Stedman, etc., have. If you are extending Court Bob Minor to eight bells there are several extensions all of equal value. If you are extending Double Norwich Major to ten bells there are several extensions possible; and we know how regularly somebody writes to 'The Ringing World' to say that Double Norwich Royal ought to be so and so, and not what is usually accepted. But once you have got both Double Norwich Major and Royal, this difficulty disappears. What you have to do is to get a twelve-bell method, which bears the same relation to Double Norwich Royal that Double Norwich Royal does to Double Norwich Major. And there is only one such method. When Shipway and Thurston extended the method they worked entirely independently, but I am sure they used the same argument, which amounts to this. In both the Major and the Royal Fourth's and Third's are made round the treble, as she is passing through 3-4. Therefore, similar fourth's and third's must be made in Maximus. In Major, sixth's and fifth's are made round the treble when she is passing through 5-6; in Royal eighth's and seventh's are made round the treble when she is passing through 7-8. Therefore, in Maximus, tenth's and ninth's must be made round the treble when she is passing through 9-10. Having got that you have got the method.

As for the suggestion that a single method was rung, that will not stand any examination at all. The Norwich men never rang any single Norwich Court on any number, nor did any other band till, in recent years, the Cambridge University Guild rang a peal of Single Norwich Major. Besides, the only Single Court methods known anywhere in 1817 were Shipway's, and they are definitely excluded by the wording of the peal board which says that there was 'very short dodging before and behind.' There is no dodging before in any of Shipway's single methods. Hubbard's so-called Single Norwich Maximus, which is printed in his 1876 edition, was a production of much later time.

But though we cannot allow the Ipswich claim to have rung the first peal of Double Norwich Maximus, we shall all agree that their performance was an exceedingly fine one, one that ranks high among the most famous peals in the history of the Exercise. On November 23rd, 1886, they rang their first peal of Double Norwich Royal, the fourth ever accomplished, and the first after the two I mentioned above. A week later they began to practise Double Norwich Maximus on handbells, single-handed; but it was not till 1888 that a full course was rung on the tower bells. The first touch was rung in October, 1893. Then followed many attempts for a peal, which was at last successful on November 28th, 1896, a good example of patience and perseverance rewarded. The following is the record of the performance from 'Campanology' of December 2nd, 1896:—

'The St. Mary-le-Tower Society, Ipswich.—The Norwich Diocesan Association and the Ancient Society of College Youths, Ipswich, Suffolk.—On Saturday, November 28th, 1896, in three hours and forty-seven minutes, at the Church of St. Mary-le-Tower, a peal of Double Norwich Court Bob Maximus, 5,016 changes. Tenor 32 cwt.:

Stephen Cook .....	1	Robert Hawes .....	7
Edgar Pemberton .....	2	Henry Bowell .....	8
Isaac S. Alexander .....	3	James Motts .....	9
Albert Durrant .....	4	William Wood .....	10
William L. Catchpole .....	5	Robert Brundla .....	11
William Motts .....	6	Frederick Tillett .....	Tenor

Composed and conducted by James Motts.

This is the first peal in the method ever rung.'

Less than a month later, on December 12th, they rang a second peal, also 5,016, which was composed and conducted by William L. Catchpole.

To an outsider one of the most pleasing features of the Ipswich band was the harmony and co-operation which existed between Mr. Motts and Mr. Catchpole. The two men were about equal in skill and ability, and ambition. In too many cases this would have led to rivalry, jealousy and division. At Ipswich they worked together, taking turns with the conducting, and helping each other. This co-operation which lasted for forty years was, I think, the chief factor in the causes that put the Ipswich men for so many years at the very top of the twelve-bell bands in the country.

In after years two more peals of Double Norwich Maximus were rung at Ipswich, and these are all that have been accomplished. The method is not one that I should particularly advise a twelve-bell band to practise. Double Norwich Major is the most perfect method that can be got on eight bells. Double Norwich Royal is a good method, but by no means the best to be had on ten bells. And when you get to twelve bells the comparative scarcity of dodging makes the music too thin; although it has the advantage of keeping the tenors well together. The method would be very much improved, both from the point of music and interest in ringing, if you make Court Places in 5-6 as well as in 3-4 and 9-10.

FAMILY RINGING.

On Sunday morning, Jan. 24th, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Lakin, jun., of Old Leake, was christened, the Rev. W. S. Brindley conducting the ceremony. After the service, Mr. J. W. Lakin, sen., and three of his sons and two daughters rang a touch on the church bells in honour of the event, the ringers being two of the child's aunts, two uncles, the father and grandfather.

LINCOLN DIOCESAN GUILD.*THE NEW SLEAFORD DISTRICT.

About 40 ringers attended the annual meeting of the newly-formed Sleaford district at Sleaford on Saturday, Jan. 16th. The towers of the district were well represented, and many enthusiasts came from Lincoln, Spalding, Pinchbeck and Hough-on-the-Hill. Apologies were received from the Rev. H. L. James, Master of the Guild; Mr. J. R. Freeman, Branch Ringing Master; Mr. F. F. Linley and Mr. F. W. S. Butler, branch president and hon. secretary.

The ringing of Triples and Major alternately, in short touches, gave everybody a chance of a ring, and many got their first touch in Grandsire Triples, while a good course of Cambridge was much enjoyed.

A very appropriate service for ringers was conducted by the Rev. Chambers, curate-in-charge, assisted by Mr. N. E. Snow at the organ.

At the business meeting, after tea, Mr. Norman E. Snow was elected as president and chairman of the district. Many older London ringers will remember this gentleman's activity about 30 years ago.

Mr. Reginald Scott was elected as district hon. secretary; Flight-Sergt. F. A. Holden as District Ringing Master, and Mr. Walter H. Wood as the member to serve on the branch committee. Twenty old and new members paid their annual dues; and at the other meetings later on, the committee hope to make the acquaintance of many more.

A very old and respected member of the Guild, Mr. John T. Holmes, has been very ill, and it was the wish of all present that the hon. secretary should write and send him a few cheery words, as it was always his wish to see a district formed near his beloved tower of Heckington.

Ringing in the evening had to be cut down, owing to the shopkeepers in the market square, where the church stands, so a few tried their hand at double-handed ringing in front of a nice fire, and found it not a bad game either. F. A. H.

GAINSBOROUGH DISTRICT.

The annual meeting of the Gainsborough District was held at Gainsborough on Saturday, January 23rd, when members were present from Stow, Scotter, Briggs, Blyton, also the local company. The bells at the Parish Church were available, and kept going to the methods of Grandsire, Stedman, Plain Bob, Treble Bob, Little Bob, Forward and Double Norwich.

The Vicar (the Rev. Canon Morris) gave an inspiring and helpful address at the service which was held.

Tea was served at Everatt's Cafe, when the ringers were joined by Mr. F. F. Linley, president of the Northern Branch; the Rev. Canon Morris, Vicar; the Rev. J. S. Walton, curate; and Mr. A. Stephenson, organist.

At the business meeting, the chair was taken by the Vicar, and the officials for the year were elected as follows: President, the Rev. Canon Morris; secretary, Mr. H. Cooper; member to serve on the Northern Branch Committee, Mr. E. Dawber; Ringing Master, Mr. H. Morgan.

The towers chosen for meetings were: April, Blyton; May, Covingham; June, Broughton; July, Stow; August, Brigg; September, Kirtlington-Lindsey, the dates being left open.

Mr. F. F. Linley then spoke on the need for good striking, and urged the ringers to take up the higher methods.

After the usual votes of thanks to the Vicar and churchwardens for the use of the bells, and the organist for his services, the tower was again visited, and further ringing took place.

ST. MARY-LE-TOWER SOCIETY, IPSWICH.

The annual meeting of the above society was held on Tuesday, January 5th, when the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Master, Hobart E. Smith; Deputy Master, Robert H. Brundle; steeplekeeper, Frederick J. Tillet; treasurer, Chas. J. Sedgley; auditors, R. H. Brundle and W. P. Garrett; secretary, G. E. Symonds, 28, Chevallier Street, Ipswich.

The spire of St. Nicholas' Church, Liverpool, fell on Feb. 11th, 1810. There were 22 people (mostly children) killed, and it is supposed that the accident happened in consequence of the bells having been rung while the spire was undergoing repair.

A Winchester Guild veteran, Mr. E. Clapshaw, who has been a ringer at Farnham for over sixty years, has just celebrated his 81st birthday. He still enjoys a turn at the rope end, and is keenly interested in the art.

ORGANISED PEAL RINGING.

A question which has more than merely local interest was referred to in the report of the Western Division of the Durham and Newcastle Association, which appeared in our last issue. Comment was made that there was a noticeable slackness in peal ringing throughout the Association, and that, what peals were rung, were generally shared by a favoured few, the passing over of deserving ringers being harmful and against the best interests of the Association. What happens in the Durham and Newcastle Diocesan area and its effect upon the Association is best known to its members, but in a wider aspect much of the same kind of thing exists in many associations. A study of the report of any society will show that peal ringing is not general among members, and an analysis of the peal ringing activities of some of the leading associations indicates that, even where the annual list of peals makes a good showing, the proportion of members taking part averages only from 25 to 30 per cent for the year, and where, of course, the number of peals are few, the percentage is considerably less.

Peal ringing is not, and ought not to be, the be-all and end-all of our art—there are other claims upon the energies of ringers which should come first—but peal ringing does mark to some degree the standard and efficiency of the band or association. Peal ringing, however, is very much the result of individual effort and organisation; it is seldom an undertaking initiated or organised by an association as part of a policy of furthering the art. Associations encourage peal ringing inasmuch as they give permanent record to such performances in their archives—albeit sometimes at the personal cost of the performers—but it is seldom one hears of an officially organised peal. It may be, perhaps, that the present method of leaving peal ringing to private enterprise is the best course, but it has got the drawback which was mentioned in the Durham and Newcastle Association, that deserving ringers sometimes find no opportunity of getting into a peal. It is individual 'push,' or somebody else's convenience, which more often than not gets a man his place in his first peal. There are many conductors ready to give a man a chance when he asks for it, but conductors are rare who make a practice of inviting 'deserving' men to come and try their hand, purely for these men's encouragement. It is not all due to selfishness. It is only natural that he who organises a peal should get the best-trying and most reliable men he can lay his hands upon; he does not always want to be schooling the inexperienced—and who can blame him? And yet there is the other side to be considered. In our view it is up to the associations themselves to organise peals for their members, just as they organise meetings—it should be part of that larger educational policy which we have so constantly advocated, for there is no finer training in the ringing of a method or greater encouragement to a man to aspire to higher things in the art than to enable him to ring a peal. Associations cannot do this unless they have the support of their best conductors, but we feel sure that all the leaders in this department would periodically put their services willingly at the disposal of the association for their less fortunate brethren if the question were properly approached and dealt with on some systematic plan.

MR. TROLLOPE'S CONVERSION.

To the Editor.

Sir,—On December 11th last, you printed a long article by Mr. Trollope, entitled 'History—as written by Mr. Drake,' in which he attempted to prove, with much sarcasm, the absurdity of my contention, that besides Plain Changes and Cross Peals, there were also, 'Bob Methods—methods which were all dodging, or as nearly so as possible.'

On January 15th, he now turns quite round, and publishes the actual proof of what I said, by giving the figures for the first method on eight bells in 'The School of Recreation,' viz., Imperial Bob.

On December 11th he writes, 'The first Cross Peals pretty obviously were variations of Plain Changes'; and on January 15th, 'Imperial Bob is an interesting example of a Cross Peal being made out of and on the lines of the older Plain Changes.' It would be interesting to see how he is going to prove these doubtful statements. In any case, Imperial Bob is not a Cross Peal at all.

One is always glad to find anyone giving up the error of their ways, but it would have been, to say the least, more graceful if Mr. Trollope had acknowledged the fact that I had already drawn attention to what he seems to claim as his own discovery.

I must thank Mr. Trollope for pointing out (what I had forgotten) that 'The School of Recreation' tells us that these Bob Methods were the product of the London School of Ringers in those days, it being, in that book, opposed to Grandsire Bob, the Bob Method of the provinces (in which we note that the town of Cambridge is, perhaps pointedly, omitted).

What, however, emerges from both our accounts, is that a Bob Method is one that is noticeable for its dodges; either in an extra pair of columns, or for its being nearly all dodges; as opposed to the incessant place-making of Plain Changes, or to the unrelieved hunting of Cross Peals. To attempt to identify a Bob Method by places, as Mr. Trollope proposes to do in future, is shown from his own researches to be contrary to history, misleading to use, and false to write.

HERBERT DRAKE.

RINGING IN AMERICA.

The visit to America of Mr. Cyril Johnston, of the Croydon Foundry, in connection with the official opening of New York's great carillon, resulted in some ringing being done by the Boston Guild. A party was got together to meet him at Watertown, Massachusetts, and on the back six bells of the Perkins Institute for the Blind, on January 4th, 720 Kent Treble Bob Minor was rung by Joseph Goodhead 1, Cyril F. Johnston 2, William Bashford 3, Richard Newton 4, Rowland G. Henson (late of Doncaster) 5, Reginald A. (Tony) Price (conductor) 6.

Mr. S. W. Sturgis motored 36 miles from Groton Schools to ring with Mr. Johnston, but as only seven met, kindly stood out while the 720 was rung.

Very little ringing is now done in the Boston district, as the ringers are very scattered.

DONCASTER & DISTRICT SOCIETY.

On Saturday, Jan. 23rd, the annual meeting of the Doncaster and District Society was held at Arksey. The meeting should have been held at Doncaster, but owing to the fact that the bells of St. George's Church cannot be rung, Arksey was chosen as the venue. The beautiful light ring of eight bells of Arksey Church was utilised at intervals during the afternoon and evening, touches of Bob Major, Kent Treble Bob Major, Grandsire and Stedman Triples being rung. There was a representative gathering of members, about 30 being present from all parts of the district. Choral evensong was conducted in the church by the Vicar (the Rev. H. C. Fraser), and the bell ringers' hymn was sung to the tune, 'Belfry Praise.'

Tea was provided by the local band, and was partaken of in the Schoolroom, the Vicar presiding. At the business meeting, which followed tea, three new members were elected, and Mr. G. Clarke, of the Arksey band, was re-elected Ringing Master, to serve another three years.

The secretary's report for 1925 and the balance sheet were considered satisfactory. The secretary was instructed to make arrangements for the annual outing, to be held on the last Saturday in June, the venue being York.

It was suggested that the proposed great rally of South Yorkshire ringers should be held at Rotherham.

Adwick-le-Street was chosen as the next place of meeting.

RAYNE RINGERS.

On Saturday, January 9th, the All Saints' Guild of Ringers, Rayne, Essex, held their third annual supper in the Old Schoolroom. The Rector and Mr. H. Hance, churchwarden, were present, and thanked the ringers for their good services.

Mr. H. Redgwell was elected leader for the year, and the question of providing a set of handbells was discussed, the Rector promising to bring the matter up at the next meeting of the Parochial Church Council.

CHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD.*AN EFFORT TO IMPROVE THE STANDARD OF RINGING.

The annual meeting of the Stockport Branch was held at Stockport (St. Mary's) on Saturday, January 30th. The church, being situated in the Market Place, and the day being market day, it would be hardly fair to say that further pandemonium was let loose at 3 p.m., when the early arrivals commenced to ring, but the miscellaneous collection of quack doctors, cheap-jacks and other vendors, who had taken up position immediately under the tower, might not agree.

A short committee meeting was held at 4 p.m., and fixed the meetings of the year as follows:—Rosthorpe, May 15th; Chapel-en-le-Whith, July 3rd; Bowdon, September 18th; and Ashton (St. Peter's), November 27th. It was recommended that the meetings, in future, be arranged at the last meeting of the year, as had been suggested by the Crewe Branch.

The usual service was conducted by the Rector (the Rev. C. G. Calthrop), who also gave the address, and the presence of a choir of twenty boys was much appreciated. Those who state that ringers are not musical have never attended a meeting of this branch. It is a common practice for a certain section to get the organist to play for them after service; very rarely, if ever, is a refusal given, and, on this occasion, every stop was well tried out.

Under the supervision of Mrs. W. Gordon, a splendid tea was provided in the Schoolroom, to which fifty members and friends sat down. The twenty choir boys were also provided with tea, all under a cost of £2, which speaks well for those in charge. During the course of the tea, Mr. E. W. Elwell, Guild secretary, put in a belated but welcome appearance.

At the business meeting, which followed, the Hon. Secretary (Mr. J. P. Fidler) presented his annual report. The general condition of affairs remained about the same as for previous years. Five meetings had been held during the past year, with an average attendance of thirty. Six peals had been rung, ranging from Doubles to Major. There was, however, vast room for improvement.—All officers were re-elected to the respective posts.

After due consideration, it was resolved that the following resolution be sent to the General Committee: 'That the Central Council be asked, through diocesan or other channels, to draw the attention of Rural Deans, when they have no technical or practical knowledge of bells, to appoint as their deputy, for the purpose of inspecting bells and belfries, an official of the ringing organisation in whose area the tower to be inspected stands, who has the requisite knowledge.'

The places and dates of the meetings fixed by the committee were confirmed, and it was resolved their recommendation be adopted.—Eight new members were elected.

It was reported that the bells of Holy Trinity, Stalybridge, were to be recast and rebung in a new frame, the contract having been let to Messrs. J. Taylor and Co.—It was decided to open a subscription list in aid of the restoration fund.

As a means of trying to improve the standard of ringing, the hon. secretary was instructed to ascertain whether the bells of each tower would be placed at the disposal of the branch for the purpose of combined practices, one evening per month, and to try and arrange such practices.

The usual votes of thanks concluded the business. Further ringing took place, the bells of St. George's, Heaviley, and St. Thomas', Norbury, being also available.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

The quarterly meeting of the Rochester district was held at Upchurch on Saturday, January 30th. The peal of six at this church has recently been rebung in a new steel frame by Mr. Bowell, of Ipswich. Nearly 50 members attended, which, taking into consideration the weather and the limited transport to such an out-of-the-way place, was very satisfactory. The bells were going from 3 till 5, when the association service was held in the church, conducted by the Vicar, during which a collection, in aid of the local Bell Restoration Fund, realised 10s. 6d.

Tea followed in the Convalescent Home adjoining, and it was very different to a convalescent group that sat down.

The business meeting followed, presided over by the Vicar. Twelve new members were elected, and Cliffe-at-Hoo was chosen as the next meeting place, on Saturday, April 24th.

A hearty vote of thanks was accorded all concerned in making the arrangements for such an excellent meeting, and the Vicar suitably responded.

Minor methods up to Cambridge Surprise were rung, and the bells were lowered at 8.30 on a very successful meeting.

HASTINGS.—On Monday, January 11th, at Christ Church, Blacklands, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples (1,260 changes) in 48 mins.: A. Groome 1, Miss G. Clift 2, W. Franks 3, J. Livermore 4, S. Driver 5, J. Downing 6, A. Levett (conductor) 7, E. Prior 8. First quarter for A. Groome and E. Prior. W. Franks is from Battle. Miss Clift and A. Levett are from All Saints', Hastings. Rung as a birthday compliment to Mr. S. Driver.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

We hear that there is prospect of an attempt in the near future to set up a new tower bell record, and that on the famous bells of Leeds, Kent, where James Barham and his merry men (13 of them, it is recorded) once rang a 40,320 of Bob Major, certain enthusiasts will go for something over 22,000 of Stedman Caters.

The death has taken place suddenly of Mr. William Lomas, one of Sheffield's oldest ringers. He had been connected with the belfry at the Cathedral for over 50 years.

A peal of Bob Major rung at Silverdale, Staffs, on January 23rd, was claimed in our issue of January 29th as the first peal of Bob Major on the bells. Mr. C. H. Page, of Stoke-on-Trent, writes to say that a peal in that method was rung on the bells by the Stoke Association on May 27th, 1909.

As recorded in our peal columns, the St. Mary's, Prittlewell, Essex, band visited Gravesend on Saturday, January 30th, and rang a good peal of Double Norwich Major for the Kent County Association, they being all non-resident life members of the latter. It would be interesting to know if such a peal has previously been rung, in which a band all from one tower go into another county and ring a peal as members of the county association whose area they are visiting.

Mr. P. C. Williams has, much to the regret of the members, resigned the secretaryship of the Bristol Branch of the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association. The vacancy has been filled by the election of Mr. C. H. Jennings, who has had previous experience of office as secretary of the Dorchester Branch of the Salisbury Guild.

For the first time for over 20 years a peal has been rung at St. Mary's Church, Plympton, Devon, and the ringers found that the bells badly need rehangings.

Mr. John Carter's wonderful creation, the ringing machine, is now in the Campanological Exhibit, at the Victoria and Albert Museum, South Kensington, and is to be found on Second Floor, 'E' Centre Gallery, Science.

Last Saturday the first peal on the bells was scored at Wyburnbury, Cheshire. These bells were cast in 1791 by J. Rudhall, of Gloucester, and were rehung 26 years ago by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank. The tower is a landmark for miles around, as it is known as the Wyburnbury 'Lighthouse.'

Mr. G. M. Eastman, who took part at short notice, to fill a gap, in a peal of Kent Treble Bob, at Tunstall, Kent, had not rung a peal for nearly twelve years, and his only previous practice in Major ringing was one plain course. He is congratulated by the band on the capable and masterly manner in which he rang, and thanked for obliging them at the last moment.

About a hundred years ago they used to 'do things' at Oldham, where, in these days, there is a peal of twelve bells packed into the tower in three tiers. On February 12th, 1821, a peal of 14,016 Kent Treble Bob Major was rung there in 7 hrs. 26 mins., and on Feb. 15th, 1825, a peal of 9,999 Grandsire Major was rung. There were also other long peals rung about that time.

The first 7,000 of Grandsire Cinques was rung at Cornhill on February 14th, 1731. The same day is the anniversary of the 13,001 in the same method, rung at Painswick in the year 1920.

There has been a lot of Stedman Caters rung on the famous bells of St. Dunstan's, Stepney, but the first peal in the method was rung there on February 15th, 1834.

St. Martin's Youths rang a 14,224 of Bob Major at Aston on February 16th, 1789. Probably they were unaware of the 14,480 which had been rung at Oldham five years before, for it seems strange they should have stopped short of the existing record for the sake of less than three courses. But then, there was no 'Ringing World' in those days.

Ninety years ago next Wednesday, which, by the way, in that year was Ash Wednesday, Christ Church, Spitalfields, was destroyed by fire, and in the conflagration the peal of twelve bells was lost.

A round ten thousand of Oxford Treble Bob Royal was rung at Shoreditch on February 18th, 1777. On the same date in 1822 the first peal of what we now call New Cambridge Surprise Major was rung at Huddersfield.

The bells of Croyland Abbey were to have been broadcast on Sunday night, but soon after they started to ring, the transmission ceased, and it was ascertained that a land line had been deliberately cut. When these bells were broadcast on a previous occasion an unsuccessful attempt was made to stop them by the same means, but the culprit severed the wrong wire.

MUFFLED RINGING FOR CENTENARIAN.

On Wednesday evening, February 3rd, at Christ Church, Blacklands, Hastings, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples in 45 minutes: H. Parkin 1, Miss G. Clift 2, W. H. Easton 3, S. Driver 4, H. Rapley 5, J. Downing 6, A. Levett (conductor) 7, J. Livermore 8. Rung, with the bells half-muffled, as a token of respect to the late Mrs. Slade, who passed away in her 103rd year, and whose funeral had taken place earlier in the day.

THE ATTEMPT ON LONDON SURPRISE RECORD.*A BREAKDOWN IN THE FOURTEENTH COURSE.

The attempt to beat the London Surprise Major record on Saturday was unsuccessful. As our readers are aware, a band, under the auspices of the Sussex County Association, was to endeavour to ring the Rev. H. Law James' composition of 14,144, at Warnham, a tower where, in the past, a number of long lengths in various methods have been rung and where, thirty or more years ago, the local band were so favoured that they were able to ring at almost any hour of the day or night without complaint from the parishioners. The same spirit prevails there to-day, apparently, and there was considerable local interest in the attempt which was made on Saturday to beat the 14,112 of London rung at King's Norton, Worcestershire, by the St. Martin's Guild on May 11th, 1903.

The band which Mr. A. H. Pulling has got round him is one now well in practice in the method, and there was every hope that they would pull off the attempt. When the company arrived on the scene they found Mr. Harry Withers, of Birmingham, who had come to act as witness for St. Martin's Guild, awaiting them. He had been there since 7 a.m., so we imagine he had travelled all night. He brought with him St. Martin's Guild's best wishes for the success of the attempt. The ringers took their places as follows: J. H. B. Hesse (Haslemere) 1, J. A. Cole (Godalming) 2, W. T. Beeson (Walton-on-Thames) 3, O. Sippetts (Crawley) 4, G. Steere (Guildford) 5, C. Dobbie (Teddington) 6, G. Gilbert (Aldershot) 7, A. H. Pulling, conductor (Guildford), 8. The bells went into changes at 11.10 a.m. In the fourth course a 'treble-bob-7-8-man' wanted to come down too soon, but was soon put right. From that point to the 14th course there was some excellent ringing, but then someone went astray. The trip was got over, but a shift had occurred, and 'stand' was called in the 15th course.

Mr. Harry Withers had been seated in the church during the ringing recording the course ends as they came up, and his quick ear had caught the error, and when he went up to the ringing chamber, after the bells had stopped, was able to tell the ringers which pair of bells had turned over, and thus confirmed the conductor's observations. London Surprise with the tenors parted is not easy stuff to pick out, but Mr. Withers had got it down in black and white! What an ear!

After an interval for refreshment a start was made for the part of the peal with the tenors parted. But the interest was to some extent gone, and in tenth course a shift again took place. The conductor, however, let the bells run on to the fourteenth course to see exactly what happened on the first occasion, and when that was settled, the bells were stopped. It is evidence of the spirit which prevails at Warnham that the band were informed before the second start that if they got to the end of the portion with the tenors parted, and cared to go on in an attempt to complete the full length, 'it would be all right,' although that would have meant ringing until nearly eleven o'clock!

During the ringing visitors from Brighton and London came on the scene. Some stepped until the evening and enjoyed, with those of the peal band who remained, touches in various Surprise methods. Everyone spent a pleasant time, and the band look forward to another attempt at a future date.

The conductor has no illusions since this attempt about the fact that it is 'a different story' to pick up a trip in London Surprise when the tenors are parted, compared with the task when they are together. The band would like to thank all those who sent their good wishes for success—one by telegram—and especially Mr. Albert Walker, Deputy Ringing Master of St. Martin's Guild, who sent a most encouraging message from the Guild. They also desire to thank the Warnham church authorities and the local band, and especially Mr. Walter Charman, who had everything ready, and to whom they are much indebted for the preparations made.

A REPLY TO MR. GEORGE WILLIAMS.To the Editor.*

Sir,—I must thank Mr. Williams for his good wishes for the peal on Saturday last, but his other remark was quite unnecessary, and a little unkind, and would have been better left unsaid. It hurt some of my friends' feelings. Mr. Williams must be quite aware that we do not mind what association we ring under, but it is not always convenient for men who only ring occasional peals to pay out railway fare, and, in addition, 5s. for an association fee for an afternoon trip, even if it is only 'once for all.' I may say it is a pleasure for me personally to ring peals for the Sussex Association, as I am a Sussex man by birth.—Yours, etc.,
A. H. PULLING.

GRAMOPHONE RECORDS.

Mr. H. F. Cooper writes that three leads of Grandsire Triples were taken from the back eight of the old peal of ten at St. Mary's Church (now the Cathedral), Chelmsford, by Mr. Judge, of the Market House, Chelmsford, in 1912. Six leads, also a course, proved too long for the barrel record, but three leads were a success. He adds that he is not sure if Mr. Judge still has the record.

COVENTRY BELLS.'TIN CAN' TYPE.To the Editor.

Sir,—On reviewing the evidence for and against the retention of these bells, one cannot help being struck at the predominance of the 'Simpson' tuning theorists. No one else was supposed to know anything or to have any ear for music except Dr. Starmer, and our newest critic, Dr. Brazil, who seems to have suddenly sprung into prominence as an authority on bells. While we are all ready to acknowledge their ability as musical critics, we must not lose sight of the fact that they are not ringers, and, therefore, in my opinion, should not be allowed to sit in judgment on matters of such vital importance affecting ringers.

No wonder, when a bell hanging job is required to be done, the incumbent and church authorities often do not know whether they are standing on their heads or their heels, when they are told by these so-called bell experts that their bells are badly out of tune (some of them being, perhaps, a few vibrations per second out), and in the end allow themselves to be talked over, and perhaps sanction the breaking up and recasting of what may be a priceless peal of beautiful old bells, in order to replace them by a 'Simpson' tuned peal of 'noisy howlers' which can only be heard to advantage about a mile or more away, while the people who live in the vicinity are punished by the howling noise they make. Is it any wonder, under such circumstances, that some people object to the ringing of church bells? I think it is quite time these self-styled experts were told to mind their own business, and not interfere with matters they know very little about.

It is all very well to bamboozle and hoodwink the public with fractions and a few vibrations per second, and all that kind of talk, but an experienced musical ringer knows a good bell when he hears one, quite as well, or even better, than some of those critics who are not ringers.

What would these musical experts say if two eminent ringers were consulted to determine the fate of a grand old church organ in defiance of the opinions of skilled organists? This, I contend, is exactly the position of the Coventry decision.

A Simpson tuned bell is always a thin bell, and when it is rung, gives out a note which savours very much of the 'tin can' type, because it has been robbed of the amount of metal necessary to produce a good, bold, rich note. I can assure the bell founders that the outcry against the Simpson tuning of our church bells is far more general among ringers throughout the country than perhaps they imagine, for they are beginning to recognise that it is slowly but surely killing our beloved art, and I appeal to all ringers and lovers of church bells to do their utmost to stop this wicked vandalism and wholesale destruction of our lovely old bells.

E. BARNETT, Senr.

MODERN BELL TUNING.

Dear Sir,—Mr. Walker's letter seems to suffer from 'indeterminate undertones,' inasmuch as some of your readers construe its purport as they would it should be. He refers, however, to St. Clement's bells; may I, therefore, make a few remarks? Though the various founders were, two or three years ago, more than willing to melt them down, they are still as cast in 1693. They went to Whitechapel simply to be adjusted in the modern tuning machine, of which we heard at Coventry. But strangely enough their overtones are now more pronounced, so that some of my Simpsonian friends almost mark them for their own. The bells, however, have the major-thirds and the flat seventh lun-note, and so far have not started 'howling,' so one trusts that everyone is satisfied.

Personally, I think that modern work is over-clappered, and the balance of tone disturbed thereby, whether the bells are Simpson or old style.—Yours faithfully,
E. ALEX. YOUNG.

SIMPSON TUNING.

Sir,—Mr. Walker asked those who had new peals to express an opinion. Holy Trinity, Guildford is a peal with four bells recast and the others retuned. Those of us who remember the old bells—a good old peal, lovely tenor—will willingly admit we have gained by having them recast. It is worth going miles to hear this peal ringing in Bristol Surprise. Of course, it is my tower, so people may say I am not in a position to judge.

I have in mind a peal of eight by each of the three principal founders, all practically the same weight, but, to my ear, different peals altogether. Now which are we to say is the true Simpson tuning? If our bells are Simpson tuned, then personally I am in favour of modern tuning, but, to speak candidly, I would sooner listen to some of the old peals, even if some of the bells are vile, than to some of the present day 'howlers.'—Yours, etc.,
A. H. PULLING.

In the reports of the peals at Chislehurst and Bromley the conductors' names were transposed. The Chislehurst peal was conducted by Mr. T. Groombridge, senr., and the Bromley peal by Mr. T. Groombridge, jun.

NOTES BY THE WAY.

SINGLE, DOUBLE AND REVERSE METHODS.

BY J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

The first recognition of the fact that some methods can exist in three variations, Single, Double and Reverse, occurs in Stedman's 'Tintinnologia' (1668). He is describing Doubles and Singles on four bells, i.e., Plain Bob Minimus. He goes on: 'With one hunt this peal may be rang six wayes (viz.), three wayes in hunting it up at the beginning of each peal, and three other wayes by hunting it down; the three wayes in hunting it up differs only in the making the extreame changes; in one of the three wayes you must make an extreame change every time the hunt comes before the bells to lead. Another way is to make an extreame every time the hunt comes behind. And the third way is to make an extreame every time the hunt comes before and behind the bells.'

So far as Plain Bob and Grandsire are concerned the Exercise early recognised these variations, and they were all practised during the early part of the eighteenth century, not only on six and eight bells, but also on ten and twelve. Benjamin Annable seems to have had a liking for Double Bob and Double Grandsire, and when he was supreme among the College Youths that society rang several peals in these variations. The first peal of Double Bob Major was at St. Dunstan's, Fleet Street, on January 14th, 1726. This was only eight months after the first peal of Bob Major, which was rung at St. Bride's at the other end of Fleet Street, on April 26th, 1725. James Barham called the first peal of Reverse Bob Major at Harrietsham in Kent on March 23rd, 1751. The first peal of Double Grandsire Caters was rung by the College Youths in 1732, and four years later the same society rang the first peal of Double Grandsire Cinques. Altogether the College Youths rang in these early days six peals of Double Bob Major, one of Royal, and one of Maximus; two peals of Real Double Bob Maximus; two peals of Reverse Bob Major; two of Royal and one of Maximus; two peals of Double Grandsire Caters and one of Cinques, and one peal of Reverse Grandsire Caters.

Towards the end of the eighteenth century the practice of the Double and Reverse variations died out. In recent years one or two peals of Double Bob Major had been rung, but Reverse Bob is quite obsolete, except for a solitary peal that Mr. Edwin Barnett called a year or two ago in Kent.

As to what are the proper Single and Double variations of Plain Bob and Grandsire there never has been, and never could be, any doubt. The single variation has the place made when the treble is leading; the reverse variation has the place made when the treble is behind; the double variation has both places. But when you get to the more complex methods a great deal of doubt and disagreement has arisen as to what are the correct single and reverse variations. William Shipway was a man with a very methodical brain, and he it was who first tried to establish this classification as a general law for all methods. The system he adopted was a thoroughly scientific one, but it has never been entirely accepted by subsequent writers and leading men of the Exercise; and the definitions of Single, Double and Reverse methods, at present officially adopted, although founded on his system and mainly the same, differ in one important point.

If you examine the lead of any plain method you will find that the path of the treble divides it into four triangles.

One of the chief rules in the construction of a regular method is that if you fold the lead along the line CD then the places made in CDEF must fall on those made in ABCD. This is what we call the 'Law of Symmetry,' and the reason for it will appear later.

According to the official definition, a Double Method is one in which the arrangement of the places in all four triangles is exactly alike, and if the places are alike it follows, of course, that all the hunting, dodging and other work are alike.

A method in which places are made above the treble only is a Single Method.

A method in which places are made both above and below the treble (but which is not a double method) is a Compound Method.

To get the Reverse variation of a Single Method transfer the places from ARD to ACD.

To get the Reverse variation of a Compound Method transfer the places in ABD to ACD, and those in ACD to ABD.

If you have a skeleton course of a Single or of a Compound Method, and you hold it up in front of a looking-glass, what you will see there is the skeleton course of the reverse variation. If you do this with a double method you will find that the mirror will give you the same thing as the original.

Shipway's idea of a double method was one in which the places made in DEF are the same as those made in ACD, and the places made in CDE are the same as those made in ABD. A good many methods, which we should now call unsymmetrical compound methods, he ranks as double methods.

To get the Single variation he substituted continuous plain hunting for all the work below the treble; and to get the Reverse variation he substituted continuous plain hunting for all the work above the treble.

In his last edition, Hubbard copied Shipway's idea of a double method. When he wrote his first edition it is clear he was not acquainted with Shipway's book, and he makes no attempt to give any Single or Reverse variations of any method other than Double Bob. I think, too, it is extremely likely that later on he did not get his idea of a double method directly from Shipway, but through other people. What he calls a single method is one in which you ring the full method while the treble is going up, and all the bells plain hunt when the treble is coming down. Bannister simply copied Hubbard.

Sir Arthur Heywood's idea of the Single variation of Double Norwich was that the places in fourth's and third's should be retained, while those in sixth's and fifth's should be omitted. In Reverse Norwich the places in sixth's and fifth's should be retained, and those in fourth's and third's omitted.

Shipway prints a method which he calls Double Court Bob Major. It was his own composition, and he held (not without some reason) that it is the correct extension to eight bells of Double Court Minor. In it he makes Court places in 3-4, when the treble is going up, and in 5-6, when she is coming down. According to Heywood the first half lead would be Single Norwich, and the second half lead Reverse Norwich.

In the forthcoming Central Council Collection of Plain Major methods no method that is not symmetrical is printed, and consequently this one is omitted. But, if you make the places in 3-4, both with the treble ascending and descending, you have a really good method, which is included under the name of Shipway's Court Bob.

In estimating the value of Sir Arthur Heywood's opinion we must remember that he was writing solely from the point of view of Double Norwich. Shipway and Hubbard both had a system that could be applied generally to methods. It will hardly be doubted that the latter is the correct way to deal with the matter.

But both Shipway and Hubbard, in working out their systems, lost sight of the importance of the Law of Symmetry.

Now, I should not like to say at this time of day that no unsymmetrical method is ever worth ringing, but the experience of the Exercise is that this is a rule that generally should be kept. In practical ringing you can tell a symmetrical method by noticing that there are two places in the plain course where the work is reversed, where you begin to do backwards what you have already done forwards. These places we call the turning places of the methods. In London Surprise they are second's and centre fifth's; in Cambridge and Superlative second's and seventh's; in Double Norwich the whole pulls before and behind in full work; in Bob Major second's and the full lead when the treble is behind, and so on.

One of the greatest defects of an unsymmetrical method is that it is very liable to internal falseness, which does not show at the lead ends.

A notable instance of this is a method which Hubbard prints, and which he calls Yorkshire Court. It was his own composition, and is constructed by making the fourth's and third's of Double Norwich when the treble is going up, and second's place when she is leading. All the bells plain hunt when the treble is going down. This method was widely practised on six bells, and was included in many peals of Minor, no one suspecting its falseness. But one day Mr. J. J. Parker pointed out that no true 720 was possible in the method, and all those peals were brought to naught.

If you take Yorkshire Court Major and turn it into a symmetrical method by making the places in 3-4 when the treble is descending as well as ascending, you have a first-rate method. This was what we rang at Willesden in 1924, under the name of Winchester Bob.

The following example will show you how Yorkshire Court Minor and other unsymmetrical methods can run false internally, without showing at the lead ends:—

A DATE TOUCH.

At St. Thomas's Church, Moorside, Oldham, on Wednesday, February 3rd, a date touch of Stedman Triples (1,926 changes) was rung in 1 hour and 16 minutes: J. Lees 1, H. Barlow 2, Miss C. Thorp 3, A. Clegg 4, C. Platt 5, T. Chapman 6, B. Thorp (composer and conductor) 7, J. Cox 8. Rung as a birthday compliment to Mr. James Cox, of Oldham.

THE LADIES' GUILD. NORTHAMPTONSHIRE DISTRICT.

Saturday last was an important occasion in the history of the Northamptonshire District of the Ladies' Guild, when the members had the pleasure of welcoming the general secretary of the Guild to their meeting at Cranford. A large number of members attended to show their appreciation of Miss Parker's visit, and the meeting was also extremely well supported by members of the Peterborough Diocesan Guild.

The Guild service was conducted at 4 o'clock by the Rev. R. C. Thursfield, who also gave an address, the lesson being read by Mr. F. Wilford, Master of the Peterborough Diocesan Guild.

After tea a hearty welcome to Miss Parker from the whole company was expressed by the Rev. R. C. Thursfield, and in responding this Mr. Wilford added congratulations on the ladies' peal of Stedman Caters. Miss Parker, in replying, expressed her pleasure in finding the Northamptonshire District of the Guild so well supported by gentlemen, and said that she was also very pleased to meet so many members.

The general secretary took the chair at the business meeting which followed, when eight new ringing members and one honorary member were elected.

The bells were rung in various Minor methods during the afternoon and evening, Plain Bob, Kent Treble Bob and Cambridge Surprise being rung by the Ladies' Guild.

ESSEX ASSOCIATION.

GOOD GATHERING AT INGATESTONE.

A meeting for the South-Eastern Division was held at Ingatestone on Saturday, Feb. 6th. After ringing during the afternoon, a service was held, conducted by the Rector (the Rev. Pemberton), Mr. C. E. Howard, Master of the Association, reading the lesson.

A splendid tea was provided in the Parish Room by the Rector. Forty-five members, representing twelve different towers, were present, including Mr. C. H. Howard, Mr. W. H. Dyson (secretary of the Northern Division), Mr. E. J. Butler (secretary of the South-Western Division), and Dr. Spencer Phillips from Great Baddow.

At the business meeting, over which Mr. Geo. Green (District Master) presided, four new members and two probationary members were elected.

It was decided to hold the next meeting at Great Waltham, in May, and a bye-meeting at Galleywood, when the restoration work there is finished.

Mr. Howard proposed a vote of thanks to the Rector for making the association so welcome, and to the organist for helping with the service. A welcome such as they had received, he said, brought the ringers in closer touch with the clergy, and enabled them to carry on their work with a feeling that they were doing a work for the church.

Fryering tower was open for ringing during the evening, and several members proceeded there, while others returned to Ingatestone tower and brought round touches on the handbells.

LINCOLN DIOCESAN GUILD. GRIMSBY DISTRICT.

The annual meeting of the Grimsby District was held at Grimsby on Saturday, January 30th. Members attended from Ulesby, Bigby, Barrow, Burton-on-Stather, and the local members, St. James's bells (8) and St. Andrew's (8) were open to the members both afternoon and evening. The service was conducted by the Vicar of St. James's (Canon A. A. Markham), who also gave an address. Tea was served in the Church House, 23 members sitting down, the catering by Mrs. Long being much appreciated.

The business meeting followed, when the Rev. H. T. Parry was re-elected president, Mr. E. I. Mingay secretary, Mr. C. W. Taylor to serve on the General Committee, Mr. G. Blanchard ringing master, and Mr. J. Bray deputy ringing master.

Two new members were elected, and two members were re-elected. The Secretary read his report for 1925, and places and dates of meetings were chosen: Ulesby June 5th, Barrow July 3rd, Elsham July 31st, Scunthorpe August 21st, Burton October 23rd.

The President referred to the great loss the district had sustained through the death of the Rev. H. C. Frith, the late Vicar of Elsham, who only recently had removed to the living of Hemingford Abbots, Hunts. He had done a great work in Elsham for the art of change ringing, he himself being a ringer and an honorary member of the branch.—Canon H. A. Markham also paid a tribute to the deceased gentleman, and members showed their respect by standing in silence.

Votes of thanks to the Vicar for the use of the bells, for conducting the service, and for the excellent address were carried, and also to the caterers for such an excellent tea, which brought a very pleasant meeting to a close. Members then adjourned to St. James's and St. Andrew's towers for more ringing. The methods rung were Stedman Triples, Grandsire Triples, Bob Major, Bob Doubles and Kent Treble Bob.

DEATH OF MR. EDWARD SNOWDON. MEMBER OF FAMOUS RINGING FAMILY.

The death occurred on January 28th, at Embsey, of Mr. Edward Snowdon, brother of Mr. Jasper Snowdon, and the last surviving and youngest son of the late Rev. John Snowdon, who was Vicar of Ilkley from 1842 till his death in 1878. The present Ilkley Vicarage was built in 1848, and Edward Snowdon was the first child to be born there, on August 14th, 1849. He was educated at Rossall School. Along with his more famous brothers in the bellringing world, Jasper Whitfield and William Snowdon, he was, for many years, a regular bellringer at the Parish Church. He married, in 1885, Ellen (eldest daughter of the late Mr. Richard Armitage, of Highfield, Ilkley), who survives him, along with three daughters. His only son, Jasper Whitfield (named after his uncle) was killed in action near Basra in Mesopotamia, whilst serving with the Worcester Regiment, on February 17th, 1917, in his 21st year. A tablet to his memory, the gift of his uncle, the late Dr. Edward Armitage, was unveiled in the Parish Church within the last year.

The greater part of the late Mr. Edward Snowdon's business career was with Messrs. Lister and Co., Ltd., of Manningham Mills, Bradford, and in latter years he had resided at Embsey.

The funeral took place at Ilkley Cemetery on Monday, February 1st. The mourners were Mrs. Snowdon (widow), Miss Olive Snowdon (daughter), Mr. and Mrs. Graham (son-in-law and daughter), Mrs. Carter-Squire (sister), Miss Agnes Carter-Squire and Mrs. Eurich (nieces), Mr. John Carter-Squire and Major B. H. Archer (nephews), Others present included Mrs. Symes and Mrs. Harrison (Ilkley), Professor Stuart (Leeds), Mr. and Mrs. Corns (Embsey), Mr. and Mrs. Tom Philip, Messrs. Tom and Fred Dean and Mrs. Isaac Dean and others. The service was conducted by Canon Haymer, assisted by Rev. Lister, Vicar of Embsey.

A UNIQUE ACHIEVEMENT.

WEDNESBURY FIRM'S EMPLOYEES' PEAL.

Except it be a firm of bell founders or a big corporation like a railway company, there are few concerns which possess a complete band of change ringers. One such, however, is Messrs. Edward Elwell, Ltd., of Wednesbury Forge, and a company of employes rang a peal of Stedman Triples on Saturday week. The peal took place at St. Paul's Church, which the Elwell family partly endowed over fifty years ago, and it is a remarkable fact that the ringers, without exception, were all born within a stone's throw of the church, were baptised there, were all taught in its Sunday School, and prepared for Confirmation by its clergy. Between them they have 177 years' service with the firm of Elwell, an average of over 22 years each.

Incidentally, it may be mentioned that it was not only a works' peal, but also a parochial officers' peal, as the ringers have held, or are holding, practically every position in the parish it is possible for laymen to hold, including the offices of churchwarden, vice-chairman of Parochial Council, Sunday School teachers, superintendents and secretary, vergers, sidesmen, choristers, lay preacher, leaders of Young Men's Club, leader and secretary of Bible Class, etc.

The peal has only been secured after seven years of perseverance. First the hand of death removed one of the company; then, after teaching another, other hindrances arose, but by dint of the 'never say die' spirit, and after several unsuccessful attempts, the peal is now an accomplished fact. It is claimed to be unique in the annals of campanology.

GOSFORTH RINGER'S DEATH.

A muffled peal of Stedman Caters was rung at All Saints' Church, Gosforth, Newcastle-on-Tyne, on February 3rd, as a memorial tribute to Mr. Norman Cuthbertson Fleck, a regular ringer at this church for 18 years. He was buried earlier in the day, and after the funeral a course of Grandsire Triples was rung on handbells over the open grave. He will be sadly missed from the belfry by his sorrowing comrades. The deceased was 34 years of age, and died as the result of being 'gassed' in the war. He leaves a widow and son and daughter, with whom much sympathy is felt.

Mr. Fleck's mother died exactly a week before her son and the peal was a last tribute of respect to her, and also to Mr. Martin Dods-worth, for many years a sidesman of All Saints' Church, who died recently.

A PROMISING YOUNG BAND IN IRELAND.

At Bray (Ireland) on Tuesday, January 19th, 720 Bob Minor, on the front six: F. Lane 1, G. R. Heatley 2, A. R. Mackenzie 3, R. H. Simpson 4, G. Lindoff (conductor) 5, J. B. Tough 6, W. F. Simpson 7, W. Smith 8.

This is the first 720 by all except ringers of 5 and 8. There is at this tower a young band, under the leadership of Mr. J. B. Tough, who are making promising progress.

It was at Bray that the first Surprise peal ever rung out of England was accomplished. This was a peal of Superlative by St. Martin's Guild rung in the year 1901.

GLOUCESTER & BRISTOL DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

MR. P. C. WILLIAMS RETIRES FROM BRISTOL BRANCH SECRETARYSHIP.

The annual meeting of the Bristol Branch of the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association was held on Saturday, January 30th, at St. Peter's (City), Bristol. St. Peter's is one of the oldest churches in Bristol, and the tower dates from the eleventh century. It appears, however, that another church stood on this site, dating about 600.

The weather was anything but pleasant for the meeting, and no doubt affected the attendance. There was good practice on the eight bells (especially for the learners) in Stedman, Grandsire and Bob Major, under the conductorship of Mr. Jack Brown. The association form of service was conducted in the church by the Rector (Rev. C. Dobson), the singing being led by the organist and choir. The Rector gave a thoughtful address.

Tea was held in the Parish Hall, 44 members sitting down. Miss N. Williams (Bath) and Messrs. F. Green and C. D. Heginbotham (Devizes) were welcome visitors, although the two latter had to leave early.

The business meeting followed, at which the Chairman (Mr. J. Gould) said he had visited several of the many towers in the Branch. He quoted some of the articles in 'The Ringing World,' which he referred to as good educational work, and he hoped in the future more time would be given to teaching the more advanced methods in the country districts. He found in the summer that some of the ringers gave up their ringing practice for cricket and gardening.

The Secretary's report gave a satisfactory account of the year's working, and was adopted.—The balance sheet, which showed a balance on the right side of over £16, was received with acclamation and passed.

It was resolved to vote £5 towards the members' expenses in attending the annual meeting of the association at Painswick on Easter Monday. The quarterly meetings were arranged as follows: Highbury on April 24th, Almondsbury on July 24th, Abbots Leigh on October 30th, and the annual (if possible) at Christ Church, or, failing Christ Church, St. Phillip's, Bristol, on January 29th.

The next monthly meetings were arranged: St. Matthew's, Kingsdown, on February 27th, and Winterborne on March 27th.

The Chairman, Mr. J. Gould, was re-elected, and thanked for his past services. Mr. J. G. Jefferies was re-elected on the Management Committee. Mr. P. Williams was proposed for re-election as hon. secretary and treasurer, but declined to be re-elected, and the members could not again induce him to accept office. He stated he had now acted as their secretary and treasurer for the past five years. It was a very large branch, and took up a great amount of time; in fact he could not give the necessary time to it. This was regretted very much indeed by all the members, and Mr. C. H. Jennings was then proposed and seconded, and general satisfaction was expressed when he decided to accept the office.

Mr. Jennings moved, and Mr. F. Leaker seconded, that a hearty vote of thanks be passed and placed on record to Mr. P. Williams for the great service he had rendered to the branch and the Guild in general, Mr. Leaker remarking that the branch was in a better position to-day than it ever was, thanks to Mr. Williams and the assistance that had been given him by Mrs. and Miss Williams (loud applause). Indeed, too much praise could not be given to him for the amount of time and work he put in on behalf of his fellow-members.

In conclusion, the Chairman proposed a hearty vote of thanks to the Rector for the use of the bells, for taking the service, and for the use of the Parish Hall, and to the organist, blower and the choir.

The members then repaired to St. Nicholas' Church, where the grand ring of 10 was placed at the disposal of the members, and, under the conductorship of Mr. W. A. Cave, some nice touches of Stedman and Grandsire Caters were brought round.

MIDLAND COUNTIES ASSOCIATION.*BURTON-ON-TRENT BRANCH.

The annual meeting of the Burton Branch was held at St. Paul's Church, Burton, on Saturday, January 23rd. There was a good attendance, over thirty members being present, and eight new members being elected.

The present general officers were nominated en bloc, and a vote of confidence in them was unanimously passed.

The district officers for the forthcoming year were elected as follows:—Mr. W. W. Worthington vice-president, and Messrs. E. W. Beadmoore, A. J. Moore and R. H. Dove (local hon. secretary) committee.

A meeting was arranged to be held at Measham on February 20th, and the best thanks of the meeting were accorded to the Rev. and Hon. S. G. W. Maitland (Vicar of St. Paul's) for his presence in the belfry, and also for the use of the bells.—The latter was carried with applause, and the meeting closed with a hearty vote of thanks to the chairman.

SUNDAY SERVICE TOUCHES.

We regret that, owing to the demands upon the space available for Sunday Service Touches, we are unable to undertake to insert anything less than a quarter-peal on eight bells and upwards, and 720 of Doubles or Minor. Many correspondents send us quite short touches for publication and they must not be disappointed if we are unable to find room for them.

SPliced OXFORD AND GRANDSIRE.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—The figures of the Spliced Oxford and Grandsire Triples, as published, are not quite in correct order. The row 463257* was printed as the third row instead of the sixth in the composition. Also the footnote to the peal should read: First peal of Triples ever rung without Singles 'or Special Calls.' Correct Order.

KEENNESS—AND INDIFFERENCE.

Among the towers in this country there are many where the ringers do not come much into the limelight of peal ringing, but where the ringers nevertheless make good and substantial progress by steady and sustained effort. Their work is done on practice nights and for Sunday services, and, in the case of some six-bell towers especially, a marvellous proficiency in method ringing is exhibited. The details published elsewhere in this issue show what some of these bands accomplished in the past years, and among them the first place is undoubtedly taken by the men of South Anston, Notts, who rang one hundred and three Minor extents in one hundred and three methods. This surely must be a record! A few methods were rung twice, and the total, which so exactly corresponded with the number of seven hundred and twenties, was made up by ringing some of the extents by method-splicing. This enterprising band was among the first to introduce this system into their ringing, for they practised it soon after it was put forward by the Rev. H. Law James. Another company who, while ringing fewer methods, rang even more 720's in the year, was the band at Bucknall, Staffs, who completed one hundred and eight extents in nineteen different methods. The Leytonstone company, who for many years have been among the most expert 'practitioners' on six bells, also had a proud record. Other companies can doubtless claim to have done well, and they also have the satisfaction of knowing that their work is as commendable as some of that which receives a wider notice.

But there are other bands, ringers on eight as well as on six, who might ask themselves if they have done as well as they could have done with more whole-hearted effort. What the Exercise suffers from to-day is the indifference of so many of those who call themselves ringers. Here and there throughout the country we have notable examples of a genuine enthusiasm for progress, but for the most part ringers are content to carry on in a style which just keeps the breath in the art in their district, but respiration is so feeble as to be almost invisible. This is revealed in many directions—in the attendance at meetings, in peal ringing, in the slackness with which service ringing is maintained. There are notable exceptions, of course, but it is nothing unusual to find meetings with only ten or fifteen per cent. of the members present. Peal ringing is confined principally to the activities of a more or less limited number of bands—we doubt if fifteen per cent. of the ringers affiliated to the associations of this country ring a peal a year—and efficient service ringing at a large number of towers is conspicuous by its absence. The progress of the Exercise is made by the keenness of a comparatively small minority—would that it were otherwise. Despite all that the associations are doing, there is big scope for driving out this spirit of apathy and indifference.

ANOTHER VETERAN BULWELL RINGER DEAD.

The ringers of Bulwell, Nottingham, have lost yet another veteran—the fourth since the bells were augmented to eight four years ago. It is a pathetic circumstance that the four should have passed away, one in each year. All of them had given between 30 and 40 years' service in the belfry. They were William Spencer, Enoch Foster, George Tyers, and now William Wadley. The parishioners of Bulwell, as well as the ringers, feel they have sustained a great loss by the death of the stalwarts, whose places it will not be easy to fill.

COVENTRY BELLS.

MR. W. W. STARMER'S ATTITUDE TOWARDS CHANGE RINGING.

Mr. William Wooding Starmer, F.R.A.M., who was one of the expert witnesses called in support of the petition for recasting Coventry bells, takes exception to the comment, which we made in one of our leading articles, that he has in the past shown antipathy to the art of change ringing. Mr. Starmer informs us that he has never written or said anything from which this could be inferred. We are glad, therefore, to be able to correct this mistaken impression of Mr. Starmer's attitude towards bells rung in English fashion.

Delivering the second of a series of six lectures at the University of Birmingham on Wednesday in last week, Mr. Starmer dealt with English bell music, explaining that change ringing was a mathematical problem involving no musical considerations. It was a science and an art possessing a language of its own, and, he said: 'In change ringing, bringing the bell from one 'set' position to the others demands skill and judgment so that the successive 'striking' shall be regular and even. An expert band of ringers secures perfect precision in the 'striking.' This, together with the full tone of the bell in whole swing, the ever-changing notes, the continuity and the mingling of sounds, constitutes the indescribable charm of good change ringing. In many ways the succession of sounds, has little real musical significance, but the indefinite rhythmic tonal progression is ever most fascinating.'

Mr. Starmer also referred to famous ringing societies and their histories, some of the great achievements in peal ringing, and old belfry rhymes and rules.

OUR FAMOUS BELLS IN JEOPARDY.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—Your recent article, 'How Coventry Bells were lost,' should be taken to heart by all members of the various ringing societies and associations throughout the length and breadth of these islands. Scientific change ringing on church bells will become as dead as the dodo if ringers do not wake up to the true position of affairs. Commercialism has entered the field cap-a-pied, be it disguised as campanological experts or exponents of the 'terrace' and 'quint' makes no difference; it is there to supplant change ringers by a soulless carillon machine. Now, ringers, ask yourselves, each one of you, 'What am I doing to prevent this?' It is of no consequence if, at your general and other meetings, you simply pass pious opinions against the vandals, and then as meekly enter the like in your minute book. This will not avail one iota to arrest the march that vandalism has already made, and will continue to make if we do not see to it, and that right soon. It is imperative that representative ringing societies should take active steps to educate the public generally, and church people in particular, in regard to what is at stake. Apparently, at present, any Tom, Dick or Harry can come along and throw to the four winds of heaven the pious intentions of the donors of our famous and beautiful bells, taking only into account present fads and fancies, drilled into their heads by the insistent warblings of the aforesaid experts.

The great responsibility of the possession of any famous peal in regard to its upkeep as a priceless gift to the church, through the piety of our ancestors, has recently become a negligible quantity, and goes with the bells into the melting-pot. How long is this to be tolerated? Nothing can be advanced against melting down bells that have become fractured or so badly worn as to be unfit for their original use, but even then they can, and in some cases, are preserved as good examples of a by-gone founder's art. Be this as it may, the case under review strikes an alarm, and we must come to attention, using our greatest endeavours to prevent any repetition in regard to our remaining famous bells, to preserve them from their would-be destroyers, preserving them as far as possible in their entirety for those that are to come and take our places.

We must bear in mind that 'Simpson tuning,' so-called, is only a stalking horse, the real issue following closely in its shadows is a carillon, played upon by multitudinous wires—exit bell ropes and scientific bell ringers. What appears to be a phantasy to-day may become a reality to-morrow if we ringers take this challenge lying down, turning our ringing ropes into objects of pity and the bells into a roaring mass of inarticulate vibrations, with the horrid 'howl' of the tierce (or minor third) thrown in as a companion to the work of the vandals.

The line of least resistance must be dropped, and a live substitute found in propagandist work. It may be uphill for a time to get out of our present lethargic state. Our detractors are using all their efforts to effect their purpose, so be up and doing, interview members of Diocesan Advisory Committees, join Parish Church Councils, do your duty as staunch Churchmen, feeling and accepting the responsibility that your predecessors have left to you for safe keeping, and so help to arrest the canker which, if not stopped, will surely pursue its deadly course. Simpson tuning has the same relation to bells as water to milk, both are weakened in their constituent parts, more or less as the case may be. Now we know, this being an age of discovery, why the old people used to call a milk seller who added water to his milk so as to increase quantity, not quality—'Simpson'—Yours truly,

CLOCHES DE L'ARCHE.

SOUTH ANSTON RINGERS' REMARKABLE FEAT.

103 MINOR EXTENTS IN 103 METHODS.

The company at St. James' Church, South Anston, had a fairly successful year during 1925, considering sickness amongst the ringing members, and sickness near the church, which caused them to stop ringing for a time. They rang altogether 103 720's in 103 methods, as follows: Spliced 720's of Oxford, London Scholars' Pleasure and Kingston; Combermere, Vale Royal and St. Werburgh. 720's of Duke of York, London Surprise, Primrose Surprise were rung twice, and the following were rung once: Violet, College Exercise, Ordsall Delight, Snowdrop, Old Primrose, Palm Sunday, Easter Morning, Burton, London, Sandall, Kingston, New London Pleasure, Kent, Trinity, Duke of Norfolk, Mirfield, Morning Star, Overton, Grove, Woodbine, Tanner's Pleasure, Tulip (Old), Royston Delight, College Bob 4th. Norwich, Wragby, Willesden, Morning Exercise, Middlewood, London Victory, City Delight, Braintree, Hull Delight, Kent Delight, Neasden, St. Oswald, Old Oxford Modernised, Duke of Clarence, Baden Powell, Elstow, Evening Star, Wath and Pontefract Treble Bob; Worcester, Chichester, Lancashire, Lightfoot, Stamford, Wearmouth, York, Durham, Cambridge, Norfolk, Norwich, Lord Roberts, Annable's London, Nethersale, Kitchener, Hull, Bourne, Cuncaster, Canterbury, Westminster and Ebor Surprise. Extents in the following methods were rung during 1925 for the first time by the company: Marigold, Foxglove, Daffodil, Hyacinth, Fuchsia, Shamrock, Bluebell, Taxal, Bogodone, Ludlow Castle, Warwick Castle, Berkeley Castle, Pevensy Castle, Dunedin Castle, Ely Castle, Leasowe Castle, Gonway Castle, Carnarvon Castle, Evesham Abbey, Tewkesbury Abbey, Crowland Abbey, Canterbury Abbey, Waltham Abbey and Burslem Abbey Treble Bob; Hexham, Surfleet, Bacup, Bamboorough, Kentish Delight, Woodcock's Victory, York Minster Surprise. The total number of changes was 74,160 rung by the following: Edgar P. Stenton, 85 720's; Gordon Turner, 102, conducted 82; Henry Stenton, 95, conducted 4; Francis Stenton, 81; Chas. Fowler, 97, conducted 13; William Platts, 62; Samuel Smith, 3; Herbert Turner, 83, conducted 2. Visitors: J. E.

Causar (Tickhill), 4, conducted 1; Chas. Levern (Killamarsh), 1, conducted 1; Herbert Haigh (Worksop), 5.

Gordon Turner, who has rung 102 and conducted 82 of the 720's, is only 15 years of age, and this is not the least remarkable fact in a wonderful performance.

At St. Mary's Church, Bucknall, Stoke-on-Trent, during the year 1925, 108 720's of Minor were rung as follows: London, 19; Burslem, 12; Bucknall, 10; Milton, 8; Biddulph, 2; Cambridge, 14. Wells, 3; No. 17, 3; College P., 7; College Ex., 7; College S., 1. Duke of York, 2; Woodbine, 1; Violet, 10; Oxford and Kent, 3; Oxford, 2; Oxford Bob, 1; Plain Bob, 3.

SOCIETY OF ROYAL CUMBERLAND YOUTHS

The annual general meeting was held on Saturday, January 30th, at St. Martin's-in-the-Fields, Trafalgar Square, about 40 members being present. Ringing on the famous peal of twelve took place, and all the officers were re-elected, viz.: Mr. J. D. Matthews, Master; Mr. J. Sparrow, secretary; Mr. J. W. Cornford, treasurer; Mr. C. Matthews, senior steward; Mr. T. Bevan, junior steward; Messrs. F. Smith and A. Hardy, trustees; and Messrs. W. Norton and E. Bevan, auditors.

The balance sheet for 1925 was presented, and passed, and several new members were made.

A resolution was passed that there be held some kind of social gathering during the early part of the summer, and a committee has been formed to make the necessary arrangements, particulars of which will be announced later.

LADIES' GUILD.

A quarterly meeting of the Southern District was held at Seale on Saturday, Feb. 6th. Owing to the weather the party only numbered 20, and represented three towers, Seale, Aldershot and Guildford. There was ringing on the six bells during the afternoon, and service was conducted by the Rev. R. S. Arrowsmith. Tea was served in the Parish Room, where the Rector said a few words of welcome.

At the business meeting, Miss Melville, of Guildford, and Mrs. Rogers, of Aldershot, were elected members.

The next meeting was fixed for April 24th, at Cliddingfold. The tower was re-visited, and the following methods rung: Grandsire, Stedman, Plain Bob, Double Court, Oxford and Kent Treble Bob.

Mr. Harold J. Poole has become a member of the Leicester Police Force, and policemen-ringers, who are a numerous body, have thus received a valuable recruit.

The first peal of the Brighton Variation of London Surprise Royal is recorded this week, and it is interesting to recall that it was exactly twenty-five years ago next Monday that in the same tower (St. Peter's) the first peal of Bristol Surprise was rung.

Oxford University Guild was founded on Feb. 20th, 1872.

To-morrow is the anniversary of a peal of Grandsire Triples rung at Kettering in 1729.

A peal of 6,720 Oxford Treble Bob Major was rung at Epsom, Surrey, on February 21st, 1802.

On Sunday, Feb. 23rd, 1783, a peal of 5,152 Cambridge Surprise was rung by the Ancient Society of College Youths (there were two societies of College Youths in those days) at St. Giles-in-the-Fields, being deemed the greatest performance ever achieved in the Campanistancan Art as so intricate a method was never practised by any other set of men whatever; indeed the same people (except one) did ring a peal in this same method, and at the same place on Sunday, January 30th, 1780, they being then London Youths, but as this was rung with the tenors together it proved false on the new discoveries which happened about this time, and was the cause of their ringing another peal.

J. E. Lilley, son of the towerkeeper at St. Chad's, Shrewsbury, although only just 18 years old, has rung five twelve-bell peals, including two Stedman Cinques, one each of Grandsire Cinques, Bob Maximus and Kent Treble Bob Maximus.

For the sixth year in succession the record peal of 13,001 Grandsire Cinques at Painswick, in 1920, has been commemorated by a peal in the same method. This surely must be a record in its way. And the band on this occasion included a King, a Prince and a Bishop!

An untimely interruption by an outsider put an end to a peal of Stedman Triples on Saturday at Llangollen, which was attempted as a sixtieth birthday compliment to a highly-respected member of the North Wales Association, Mr. Thomas Cathrall, of Wrexham. The chagrin of the ringers may be imagined, as some of them had come 30 and 40 miles for the peal. They had to get what consolation they could from ringing a quarter-peal.

'I received the copy of "Spliced Methods," and a fine book it is; many thanks,' writes a correspondent. He's right, it is a fine book, and should be in the hands of every ringer.

YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION.

ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual meeting of the Yorkshire Association was held at Thornaby-on-Tees, on Saturday, January 30th. By the great kindness of the Vicar of Thornaby, the audit was conducted in the Vicar's study in the morning by Mr. F. Barker and Mr. J. Sinclair. The bells of the Parish Church of St. Paul were available for ringing from noon onward, and were extensively used during the day. Service was held at 4 p.m., when the Vicar of Thornaby (the Rev. P. W. Worster) preached a kindly and encouraging sermon, which was much appreciated by the congregation. Tea was served in the neighbouring Parish Hall, and was immediately followed by the business meeting.

The president (the Rev. C. C. Marshall) was in the chair, supported by some thirty members.

The following resolution was moved by the president: 'That this meeting of the Yorkshire Association of Change Ringers desires to place on record its sense of the great loss which it has sustained by the death of Mr. George B. Bolland, who joined the association in the second year of its history, and had been a vice-president for 42 years.' George Bolland, said the President, was rightly looked upon as the 'father of the association,' and no one commanded the respect and affection of the members more than he did. His interest in six-bell methods, and his keen advocacy of that branch of ringing, did much to lead to the truer acknowledgment of Minor ringing by the Exercise, and his wide experience and extensive knowledge were always at the service of any one who sought his assistance. No one did more than he did, by his work and strong personality, to build up the association, whose destinies he so long helped to direct, and the memory of his genial, robust Yorkshire character will ever be an inspiration to those who follow him.

On being re-elected as general secretary of the association for the ensuing three years, Mr. P. J. Johnson thanked the members for their confidence.—The auditors' report and the balance sheet were passed, on the motion of Mr. F. Barker, seconded by Mr. J. W. Addison, while the report of the general committee was passed, on the motion of Mr. J. H. Blakiston, seconded by Mr. Reyor.

Five new members were elected, and a vote of thanks to the Vicar and wardens of Thornaby and to the local company, responded to by Mr. J. W. Addison, brought the meeting to a close.

LONDON COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

GROWING AND PROSPEROUS.

Those who, like the present Master, recollect the old St. James's Society twenty-five or thirty years ago, when by lack of interest it almost died of inanition, and who were present on Saturday at the annual meeting of the London County Association, into which the old society has developed, must have been more than gratified at the progress which is being maintained. From a nearly moribund condition it has developed into a live society, with a rapidly growing membership, and activities extending not merely to peal ringing, but to the important work of keeping the bells going in several London towers for Sunday Service ringing. For this state of affairs the association has largely to thank the energies of Mr. T. H. Taffender, who, first as secretary and since in the office of Master, has worked untiringly to rebuild the fortunes of the society.

Two towers were open for ringing on Saturday afternoon, and early arrivals in the Metropolis visited All Hallows', Lombard Street—one of London's hidden churches—where the ten bells, now so rarely heard, were utilised for an hour or so. Here Mr. Joe Rayner, steeplekeeper at St. Andrew's, Holborn, now past his 90th year, was present. Although not now able to take a rope, he climbed the lofty steeple. That very morning he had been the subject of an interesting article in one of the great London dailies. To an interviewer who visited him in his workshop, behind his house in Clerkenwell, he said, 'I've been making and mending clocks since 1843, when my first job was to carry a clock away from Clerkenwell Church.' 'I can still do anything with a clock,' he said and proudly exhibited some of the work which had just left his clever old hands. When asked how trade was, he had nothing to grumble at, for although the English clock trade was 'done' since the war, old firms he had dealt with kept sending him work. And so this fine old English craftsman goes on with an almost boyish heart, delighting in his work, and in the bells, to which he has been devoted for nearly three-quarters of a century. His birthday is the first of January, and for almost fifty years without a break he 'rang in' his anniversary, with the new year.

The other bells available were those of St. Clement Danes', the headquarters of the society. Here, too, a group photograph was taken, and a service was held. This latter was conducted by the Rector (the Rev. W. Pennington Bickford), who is chaplain of the association, and the singing was led by the organ and choir. The preacher was the Rev. Gordon Ponsonby, Rector of St. Mary-le-Bow, whose text was the words in Zechariah xiv. 20, 'In that day shall there be upon the bells of the horses "Holiness unto the Lord."' He spoke of the memories of sorrow and joy called up by the bells, and emphasised that above all was the memory of the glory of God. He referred to some of the historical bells of the early centuries, and urging ringers to carry out their work with holiness unto the Lord, bade them go forth with fresh resolution to carry on their tasks, in every detail of life, to God's glory and in His service.

Over a hundred members and visitors sat down to tea at St. Clement's Hall as the guests of the Rev. W. Pennington Bickford and Mrs. Bickford, whose cordial welcome and generous hospitality were warmly appreciated by the visitors. Mrs. Bickford personally superintended the serving of the repast, and, before leaving the hall, said she had been delighted to see them all, and wished success to the society. Ringing, she said, was a wonderful thing—it was even more wonderful than the parsons (laughter)—it brought the people into church, and it spoke for God. She wished them success in their noble work and their wonderful science.

ENCOURAGING PROGRESS.

The chair at the business meeting was occupied by the Master, who was supported by the chaplain, the hon. secretary (Mr. A. H. Keighley), the assistant secretary (Mr. Newman), the trustees (Mr. E. Alex Young, who is also hon. treasurer, and Mr. J. George), and the district officers. There were a number of provincial members present.

The number of elections were ratified, and several new members (some of them now growing old in the Exercise) were elected.

The Secretary presented an encouraging report, which was accepted, and ordered to be entered on the minutes. He said the fortnightly practice at St. Clement Danes' had been well supported, but there had been no revival of the practice at St. Botolph's (which was dropped on account of repairs to the tower). Against this, however, they had instituted a monthly practice at St. Mary's, Lambeth, and a quarterly practice at St. John's, Wilton Road. The bi-monthly meetings of the districts had been uniformly successful, and particularly encouraging was the progress made by the Northern district. Some time ago this district gave them anxiety, but their efforts had been rewarded, thanks to the energetic manner in which the Master (Mr. Ailway) and the secretary (Mr. Bottrill) had worked. The year had been one of the most successful in the history of the association and the balance in hand was a record. The association had taken its share in the agitation to secure cheaper railway travelling facilities for ringers, and although this agitation had not been successful, no doubt it would be revived again later on. During the year the association had rung 22 peals, as follows: Grandsire Triples, 3; Caters, 1; Stedman Triples, 9; Caters, 2; Cinques, 1; Kent Treble Bob Major, 2; Royal, 1; Maximus, 1; Cambridge Surprise Major, 1; Royal, 1. Eight members had rung their first peal. The balance in hand, including the sum invested in savings certificates, was £39 18s. 8d., an increase of £5 9s. 3d. over last year, but of this sum £1 10s. was earmarked for the writing up of twelve peals in the new peal book.

The auditors presented the balance sheet, which was adopted.

Mr. James George said the record of the muffled peal of Kent Maximus rung at Bow, for the death of Queen Alexandra, had been sent to the King, and had been acknowledged. Mr. George added that he had been very pleased to ring the tenor to that peal, and he wished to thank the band, and especially the 11th man, who had helped him to do it.

A PRESENTATION.

Mr. F. E. Dawe, who stated he joined the St. James's Society nearly fifty years ago, said when, some time ago, the question of providing a new peal book for the society was raised, their untiring and excellent Master, in the diplomatic, ingenious and clever manner in which he conducted everything connected with that association, approached him and said they were in 'a pretty pickle,' as they wanted the peal book, and it was going to cost a lot. He (Mr. Dawe) suggested changing the subject (laughter), and the subject was changed (laughter), but when Mr. Taffender was gone, he (the speaker) rang up Mr. Young, who, in his usual generously-hearted manner, at once agreed to share with him the cost of the new book (applause). He had great pleasure in presenting the book to the society, on behalf of Mr. Young and himself, and he hoped it would be possible for the peal of Maximus at Bow to appear on the first page. He was not in the peal, but he heard it, and congratulated their 'aged brother,' Mr. George, on the way he rang the tenor on his 72nd birthday (applause).

Mr. Young said it was only the old societies who retained the practice of entering peals in volumes, and he was glad that they continued to do so. They all knew what a pleasure it was to look at the ancient peal books of the old societies, and these books were justly treasured. They (the London County Association) had a most interesting first book—the others were, perhaps, not so interesting to them of the present day, but they would become more interesting as the years went by, and probably in a hundred years' time ringers would look at this new book with great interest. He was very happy to be associated in the presentation (applause).

Mr. T. W. Taffender proposed, and Mr. George seconded, that the gift be accepted with hearty thanks to the donors, Mr. Dawe and Mr. Young.

Mr. Joseph Waghorn, senr., in supporting the motion, as 'grandfather' of the society, said he had been a member for just over 60 years. He said the association not only accepted the generous and splendid gift, but would cherish it, and he hoped his own name would appear in it—he did not think he was too old (applause).

Mr. W. H. Fussell, on behalf of the older members, added thanks to the donors, and the Master also voiced the gratitude of the association.—The resolution was then put, and carried by acclamation, and acknowledged by Mr. Dawe.

The new peal book is a handsome volume bound in red leather, and inscribed, 'London County Association, late the St. James's Society (established 1824). Master, Thomas H. Taffender; hon. secretary, Arthur H. Keighley; treasurer, E. Alexander Young. The gift of Francis E. Dawe and E. Alexander Young, 1925. Peal Book, vol. 4.'

The Master announced that the offertory at the service amounted to 30s., and the Rector left its disposition to the members. It was suggested that it would be appropriate to ask the Rector to apply it to the fund for the choir boys' entertainment, and this was unanimously agreed to.—The Rector, in thanking the members, said it was a most excellent idea, and was thoroughly appreciated by him, as it would be by the choir boys.

MASTER RE-ELECTED.

The election of officers followed, and in vacating the chair Mr. Taffender thanked the members for their support during the year. He said he was honoured to see so many of the old members around him. He thanked the chaplain and Mrs. Bickford for the welcome they had given the association.

Mr. A. D. Barker proposed the re-election of Mr. Taffender, and referred, in eulogistic terms, to the work which Mr. Taffender had done for the association.—The motion was seconded in several places, and speeches in support were made by Mr. Dawe and Mr. George, and the resolution was then carried with enthusiasm.

Mr. Taffender returned to the chair, amid applause, and in acknowledging his re-election referred to the great assistance he had received from the hon. secretary. He added that there was more good-fellowship amongst the members than there used to be (hear, hear), and he thought the jealousy that used to exist among London ringers was dying out (applause). They were all working for one and there was no reason why they should not do it with good feeling (applause).

Mr. Keighley was re-elected hon. secretary, and Mr. E. A. Young, hon. treasurer. Messrs. F. E. Dawe and J. George were appointed trustees, Mr. R. Newman was re-appointed senior assistant secretary, and Mr. T. W. Taffender, junior assistant secretary.

Mr. Chorloy was appointed senior steward, and, after a contest, Mr. T. Wyatt was elected junior steward.

The meeting terminated with a vote of thanks to the chaplain and Mrs. Bickford for the arrangements made for the convenience of the members, for the service, for the tea, and for the use of the hall.—This was acknowledged by the Rector, who referred to the fact that they were indebted to the organist, who had given up another engagement in order to assist them at the service.

We understand that the group photograph was entirely successful. Orders should be sent to the hon. secretary.

A NEW ROYAL METHOD.

BRIGHTON VERSION OF LONDON SURPRISE.

As will be seen in the peal columns this week, a peal of Royal, the first in the method, has been rung at the Parish Church of St. Peter's, Brighton, and named 'London Surprise Royal (Brighton Version).'

The reason for giving the method this name is the fact that, so far as the author (Mr. George Baker) can find out, it is the nearest possible approach to what London Surprise Royal ought to be.

The method is true. It contains all the features of London Surprise Major, including central fifth's.

The mathematical progression is not what it should be, owing to the pivot bell alterations at the 5th and 37th changes, and to the fact that there are two slow 4th's places, instead of slow 8th's, one on either side of the treble's whole pull behind. With these slight differences, which are necessary to bring up the correct lead head, the method is London Surprise, pure and simple, and all the band taking part in the peal agree that it is the most difficult Royal method they have yet attempted.

Appended is a lead of the method—

MEMORIAL TO THE LATE DR. A. B. CARPENTER. SURREY ASSOCIATION TABLET AT BEDDINGTON.

The annual meeting of the Surrey Association was held at Beddington on Saturday. Although the meeting had been previously fixed to take place at Croydon, the venue was specially altered in order that the memorial to the late Ringing Master might be unveiled. The original intention had been to provide one of a ring of bells at St. James' Church, Croydon, but owing to the war it was found impossible to carry this into effect, and the memorial, therefore, takes the form of a polished marble tablet fixed on the wall in the ringing chamber at Beddington, where the late Master had enjoyed so much of his ringing. The Rev. Canon G. F. Coleridge (president of the Central Council) journeyed specially from Crowthorne in order to unveil the tablet, the ceremony taking place in the ringing chamber in the presence of the Rector of Beddington, his two churchwardens, and many members of the association. The tablet bears the following inscription:—

In thankful memory of ARTHUR BRISTOWE CARPENTER, M.A., M.D., M.R.C.S., a foundation member 1880, honorary secretary 1883-1892, and first Ringing Master 1912-13 of the Surrey Association of Change Ringers, by whom this tablet is erected.

In this tower on 8th February, 1913, he rang his last peal, Stedman Caters, and was called by the Great Physician to Higher Service, 15th October, 1913.

Following this, the Rector of Beddington unveiled a peal board recording a peal which was rung on the occasion of the death of Mr. Charles Gordon, who had been a ringer at the tower for over fifty years.

Subsequently a short service took place in the church, at which Canon Coleridge gave the address, in which he dwelt specially upon the high character of the late Dr. Carpenter, and his influence in the ringing Exercise.

Tea was provided in the Parish Hall, when a vote of thanks was passed to Canon Coleridge for coming to perform the unveiling.—Canon Coleridge, replying in characteristic terms, said it gave him great pleasure to accede to the request to come to Beddington, and urged the younger members of the association to follow the example set by their late Ringing Master, and strive to strike their bells in perfect time. He said he was sorry he could not remain to the business meeting, as he had a long journey to make on the Southern Railway.

Mr. James Drewett occupied the chair at the general meeting, when the officers were re-elected for the ensuing year, and the accounts of the branches and the general fund were passed. The next annual meeting was fixed to take place at Reigate. It was decided that in future the members should pay the full cost of the tea at the meetings, both branch and general, as the funds of the association were being depleted, and this would be one way of economising.

A vote of thanks to the Rector for the use of the bells, and for arranging for the service and to the churchwardens and organist, concluded the meeting.

HERTFORD COUNTY ASSOCIATION. WESTERN DISTRICT MEETING.

The meeting of the Western District, held at Hemel Hempstead, was quite an enjoyable one. Members and friends attended from Apsley, Tring, Luton, Berkhamsted, Harpenden, Wigginton, and the local tower. The bells were raised soon after 3 p.m., and the methods rung were Grandsire Doubles (for the beginners), Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Plain Bob and Kent Treble Bob Major. A short service, conducted by the curate, in the unavoidable absence of the Vicar, was much appreciated.

Tea, generously provided by the Vicar and Mrs. Robson, was partaken in St. Mary's Hall, presided over by the Rev. H. B. Tyrerwhitt-Drake, Vicar of Wigginton, who subsequently took the chair at the business meeting.—The Curate welcomed the ringers, on behalf of the Vicar, who hoped the ringers would have a good time, though regretting his inability to be present.

Seven new members were elected, all from Apsley—a very promising sign. Northchurch was selected for the next place of meeting, the date to be left to the hon. secretary, but to be before Easter if possible.

It was decided to attempt a quarterly peal at Hemel Hempstead on February 20th, the band and conductor being duly arranged.

On the motion of the chairman, the usual votes of thanks were passed: To the Vicar for the use of the bells, and the splendid tea provided, and to the curate for the very nice service.

Before closing, the chairman reminded the members that the hon. secretary would be very pleased to receive subscriptions long since due. After this, the tower was again visited, and ringing indulged in until the bells were lowered at 7.45, thus bringing another very pleasant meeting to a close.

NOTES BY THE WAY.

REV. W. C. PEARSON'S ENVIABLE COLLECTION OF BOOKS.—STEDMAN AND THE 'TINTINNALOGIA.'

By J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

Some weeks ago I gave in these notes a slight sketch of the various books on ringing that have been published from time to time. This brought me a very interesting letter from the Rev. W. C. Pearson, from which I take the following: He writes: 'You will, perhaps, be interested to know that the "Tintinnalogia" formerly belonging to Mr. Lukis is in my possession, and it is not quite so scarce as you suppose; as I have heard of two other copies, and doubtless there is also one in the British Museum. In his "Church Bells of Devon," Mr. Ellacombe says a 2nd edition was published in 1671, but I know of no copy being now in existence.

'I have a nice, clean and perfect copy of Stedman's "Campanalogia" published in 1677, and I see you refer to one at St. Albas. P. Sadler, of Norwich, also has an imperfect copy. In 1677, J. White published "a Rich Cabinet with a variety of Inventions," in which is an article on ringing, cribbed more or less from Stedman's "Tintinnalogia." White also published the same article about 1700, under the title of "Tintinnalogia." I have an imperfect copy of this, and a good copy of the former.

"The School of Recreation" was first published in 1684. You mention a copy dated 1701, and I have heard of another dated 1732. So apparently it went through three editions, but I have not been fortunate enough to pick up any of them at present. The "Campanalogia," by J. D. and C. M., went through five editions, 1702, 1705, 1733, 1753, 1766, the last corrected by J. Monk, and reprinted by H. Reeves. I have copies of all these five editions, and was glad to learn that J. D. is John Doleman. But what about C. M.? There was a Charles Marsh, a Union Scholar, in 1717, but I have no evidence that he was the man. I have copies of the 1788 "Clavis," one of the so-called 2nd edition, and three of the third. But I don't quite know what to say about these later editions. The letter-press is identical in all respects, and from the same type by the same printer, J. Raw, of Ipswich. But one little page says "Printed for R. S. Kirley, Paternoster Row," and the other "Printed for Youngman, Hurry, Rees, Orme, and Browne, by J. Raw, Ipswich." Both are without date, though one is said to have been printed in 1798. One of my copies has some advertisements attached, and on the head of the first page of this is the date, "December, 1819."

I have two copies of Shipway's book, 1816, one of which is in its original paper boards, with rough uncut edges. I have the 1st and 4th editions of Hubbard's book, 1845 and 1876. I have J. W. Snowden's copy of B. Thackrah's book, inside of which he has made the following note: "Amongst W. Harrison's papers I find the following note:

Dewsbury, Feb. 9/66.

Gentlemen,

You are requested to attend the funeral of B. Thackrah on Sunday next at 2 o'clock. As many as can attend will oblige.

Yours, etc.,

Ro. S. Thackrah,

J. C. Spiking.

J. W. S., August 8th, 1881. Is this the author of this book?"

I have two copies of Sottan's book, one of which was formerly J. W. Snowden's, and contains a photo of the author, published in 1887; and I have a copy of Bannister's, published in 1874. Also the "Bell News" reprints, and the later book by Snowden, etc., Powell's "Stedman Triples," and Thompson's "Grandsire." Also I have all the county volumes that have been published of bell inscriptions, etc., but possibly you are not interested in the archaeological side.

I thought you might like to know where some of the old ringing books are.

Mr. Pearson is to be congratulated—and envied. It is certain that there is no other collection that in any way approaches his in completeness and value. Especially was I interested to know what had become of Mr. Lukis' copy of the 'Tintinnalogia.' This is undoubtedly the rarest and most valuable of all ringing books. I was told that it had completely disappeared, that after being used for the 'Bell News' reprint it had gone, no one knew where. From another source I was informed that it had got into the British Museum. Recently, so I understand, a gentleman—not a ringer—picked up a copy of the 'Campanalogia' on a secondhand bookstall in Farringdon Road. That is the sort of luck that you read about, but which never comes your own way, though you may, as I do, turn over hundreds of old books during the course of a twelvemonth. Quite frequently, in the Charing Cross Road, I come across copies of the archaeological books on bells, but the prices are always very high.

The 'Tintinnalogia' is the book that Mr. Drake has lately tried to show was not written by Stedman. The tale he asks us to believe is as follows: 'Before 1666 there were several books on ringing, some printed and some not. In that year came the great fire of London, and burnt them all up, or practically all. The ringers of the day searched around in other towns for what fragments remained, collected them, and printed them in one book. According to law, every book, before being published, had to be licensed, and the names of the printer and the person or persons responsible for what was in the book had to appear on the title page. The London ringers went down to Cambridge and asked Fabian Stedman if he would lend his name for that purpose, which he did; and that was all he had to do with it.'

Now you will see that this tale rests on several pretty cool assumptions, any one of which failing the whole thing comes to naught. If there were no books before 1666, then there is an end of the matter; and we may be quite sure that there were no such books. First, because neither in writing nor in tradition is there the slightest trace of any such thing; and second, because the writer of the 'Tintinnalogia' distinctly states that his reason for writing that book was that the rules of ringing existed only in oral instruction. 'I thought it,' he says in his preface which takes the form of a dedication to the noble Society of Colledge-Youths. 'I thought it worth a Dayes labour to write something on this Art or Science, that the Rules thereof might not be lost or obscured to some, as the Chronicles before William the Conqueror, being given only by Tradition from Father to Son.' Oh, but, says Mr. Drake, this is not really the proper preface to the 'Tintinnalogia.' It really belongs to an older book, and the later men simply reprinted it as it stood. You are to believe that in the eighteenth century there were ringers clever enough to write elaborate and careful treatises on ringing, and yet so stupid that they could not write a proper preface, but must needs borrow one, which, placed where they placed it, simply told a lie.

Well, having collected these fragments of the books which never existed, our mythical London ringers go all the way to Cambridge to get Stedman's help. Why to Stedman? Because, says Mr. Drake, he was a Government official, and had influence. Was he so, indeed? I cannot, of course, prove that Stedman was not a Government official, or even a Cabinet Minister, but if it were so, it is strange that not a hint of it should have come down to us, but has been revealed to Mr. Drake alone in these latter years.

Tradition says that Stedman was a Cambridge printer, and from his writings we gather that like the average printer of the time he was a man of considerable literary attainment—a studious man, and a thinker, rather than a man of action. In any case, why should the London men go to Cambridge? Why not apply for a license in their own names? But, says Mr. Drake, Stedman could not have written the book because his Principle does not appear in it. Is it not more likely that it did not appear because he had not yet composed it? Mr. Drake says the book is evidently a composite production. I say that it is most certainly the work of one man, and that a man who possessed the kind of brain which is very rare in any class of society, and practically non-existent among ringers, Stedman was of the sort of thinker that you will find in the older universities, and seldom elsewhere, the sort of man who, when he has the advantages of proper training, writes on such things as philosophy, higher mathematics, and such abstract things. I am not surprised that the Norwich men, who knew his 'Campanalogia' well, thought that he was a University don. The Exercise has had all along a succession of brilliant and clever men, but never another like Stedman. If Shipway or Jasper Snowden had lived in the eighteenth century, either, no doubt, could have written an excellent text book on Plain Changes and Early Cross Peals. Probably it would have been quite as useful a book as the 'Tintinnalogia,' but it certainly would not have been the same. It will take better arguments than Mr. Drake's before we shall consent to displace Fabian Stedman from his position as our earliest and, in some respects, our greatest author.

Some time ago, Mr. Drake made another excursion into historical writing. When his facts were challenged his explanation was that part was somehow written by his pen without his intention, part was a joke he had omitted to label, and part was a 'theory.' Will he tell us to which of these three categories this latest of his belongs?

FIFTY YEARS' SERVICE.

At Heptonstall, Yorks, on Sunday, Feb. 7th, to commemorate the completion of 50 years of faithful service by Mr. J. Robertshaw, and also to celebrate the renovation of the Parish Church, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples (from 'Shipway'), for afternoon service, and a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples (from 'The Clavis'), for evening service, in 47 mins.: W. Spencer 1, A. Ingham 2, J. Robertshaw 3, T. Robertshaw 4, J. A. Robertshaw 5, L. Greenwood 6, F. Robertshaw (conductor) 7, R. Nowell 8.

RINGING AT 81.

At St. Mary's Church, Eastbourne, in honour of the 81st birthday of Mr. T. Lewis, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples, in 48 mins.: G. M. Hobbs 1, E. Gower 2, F. G. Waymark 3, C. Lewis 4, E. Bray 5, T. Lewis 6, B. Hobbs (conductor) 7, E. Savage 8. Also a 504 Stedman Triples.

SHEFFIELD DISTRICT SOCIETY.*SUCCESSFUL MEETING AT ROTHERHAM.

On Saturday, Feb. 6th, members of the above society, to the number of 50, from Anston, Bolsover, Chesterfield, Dore, Eckington, Handsworth, Norton, Rawmarsh, Sheffield Cathedral, All Saints', St. Marie's and Ranmoor, Sheffield, Tickhill, Wath and Worksop, paid a visit to Rotherham. The very representative gathering took full advantage of the time the bells were available for ringing, from 2.30 to 8.30 p.m., some very good ringing from Bob Minor to London Surprise and Cambridge Royal showing that the 'hand' of the bell founder has made a great improvement on the original maiden peal of ten. Visitors were left to make their own arrangements for tea, with the result that the bells were continually kept going, and it is hoped that, where refreshment facilities are ample, other towers will follow the example of Rotherham.

Mr. G. Lewis (president of the society) occupied the chair at the business meeting, which was held in the spacious ringing chamber, and astounded the majority of those present when he announced the very sudden death of Mr. William Lomas, a much-respected member of the society, and whose connection with Sheffield Cathedral extended over 50 years.

It was decided to accept the invitation of St. Marie's to hold the annual meeting there in May, and, if possible, in conjunction with Sheffield Cathedral.

A review of certain alterations to the rules was given to the hon. secretary, confirmation of which will be sought at the annual meeting.

The members present unanimously agreed to accept the invitation of the Yorkshire Association (Southern Division) to hold a joint meeting in June in co-operation with the Barnsley and District and Doncaster and District Societies, and the place selected will be advertised in due course.

Rotherham, being easy of access, resulted in a very successful meeting, and a suitable vote of thanks was accorded for the very efficient arrangements made for ringing.

ODD AND EVEN PEALS OF STEDMAN TRIPLES.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—Mr. John Carter's letter in your recent issue regarding my five-part peal of Stedman is, to say the least, surprising. It is most remarkable, considering his knowledge of what has been done in the method, for him to now claim a composition which was published over 18 years ago.

Reference to the 'Bell News' of August 17th, 1907, will show that it contains the identical composition called by Mr. Hibbert, with some remarks beginning as follows: 'The following peal of Stedman Triples, although not a good one for ringing purposes, will, I venture to believe, be of interest to all students of Stedman. Its most noticeable feature is that, although produced with forty singles only, the observation bell is undisturbed throughout, which quality has, I think, only been previously obtained on Mr. Lancashire's plan.'

Then there is a description of how the courses are built up with truth, and the various means of joining them.

This was passed without comment by the Exercise, and I know that Mr. Carter's attention was drawn to the peal by a mutual friend. One can hardly believe that I am now being asked to withdraw my name after this lapse of time.

Although the scope for composition with these courses is very limited, I should not think of claiming all the peals got from them, yet, according to Mr. Carter, all the peals he mentions as being in his book should be credited to me, and I am sure, realising the misapprehension under which he has written, he will be the first to acknowledge me as the discoverer of this plan.

It is pleasing to note that this plan helped Mr. Carter to get the odd and even peal with two singles. This is of entirely different construction, for it may be safely said that a peal of Stedman Triples with the 7th undisturbed and two singles only, has not been, and is never likely to be, discovered.—Yours faithfully,

JOSEPH W. PARKER.

NEWBURY RINGER'S DEATH.

At Newbury, Berks, on Saturday, January 23rd, the death took place of Mr. William A. Dormer, formerly of Reading. Deceased was a regular ringer at St. Nicholas' Church for the past six years. He died on Monday evening, January 25th, at the early age of 35 years. A touch of 350 Grandsire Triples was rung at Newbury by W. Adkins, jun., 1, C. Poole 2, C. Pearce 3, W. H. Dymont 4, E. Smith 5, E. Cracker 6, H. W. Curtis (conductor) 7, T. Thorne 8. The bells were rung fully muffled as a token of respect.

The funeral took place on Thursday, January 29th, at St. Giles', Reading, and the Newbury ringers again rang a 350 of Grandsire Triples, conducted by H. W. Curtis, with the bells half-muffled.

DEATH OF SHEFFIELD'S OLDEST RINGER.*LAST LINK SEVERED WITH DISTANT PAST.

Sheffield has suffered a profound loss by the death of its oldest ringer, in the person of William Lomas, which took place with dramatic suddenness on Friday, Feb. 5th, after a very brief illness.

Deceased was at his usual post and took part in the service ringing at the Cathedral on the previous Sunday, but, not feeling well the following day, he decided to have a few days' rest. He, however, was not confined to his bed until Thursday, when pneumonia set in, and the end came swiftly but peacefully the following morning.

The interment took place at Burngreave Cemetery on Wednesday, Feb. 10th, which would have been his 71st birthday.

The coffin was borne to the grave by six of his fellow ringers at the Cathedral (Messrs. J. Thorpe, H. Thorpe, F. Ward, S. F. Palmer, G. Holmes and J. Holman), and at the conclusion of the service a course of Grandsire Triples was rung at the graveside on the hand-bells by Messrs. C. Harrison, G. Lewis, P. Johnson and W. Bugar.

The service was conducted by the Rev. B. F. Sheppard, M. A. (precentor), hon. member of the Cathedral company, assisted by the Rev. W. F. Sykes, curate.

In addition to the family mourners, and the members of the Cathedral company, there were also present Messrs. P. Johnson, hon. secretary of the Yorkshire Association; F. Willey, vice-president; G. Lewis, president of the Sheffield District and Old East Derbyshire Society; C. Harrison, hon. secretary; R. Harrison, H. Hurst (St. Marie's), W. Biggin, T. Lee (Norton), etc.

A large number of beautiful wreaths were sent by friends, including one from the Cathedral company, the Sheffield District and Old East Derbyshire Society, and the employes of Messrs. W. Turner and Sons, with whom deceased had been employed for a great many years.

A peal of Sledman Cinques, with the bells half-muffled, was attempted in the evening, but owing to a miscall the bells were run round, after two hours' ringing.

Being of a somewhat retiring disposition, Mr. Lomas was never one of the great men in the limelight, and his great knowledge of ringing was not generally known to others than those with whom he came into immediate contact.

He was a member of the old school, being a grandson of the late William Booth, one of the pioneers of Sheffield ringing fame, whilst his father was also one of the old Sheffield stalwarts. The family connection with ringing dates back 120 years.

Although not an ardent peal ringer, he was a great advocate of Stedman Cinques, of which he had rung some thirty peals, many of which were his own composition.

Always a safe conductor, he followed the late Charles Henry Hattersley as leader of the Cathedral company, and it was not until quite recently that he was compelled, through advancing years, to give way to the younger generation.

In addition to his services as a ringer he was a staunch Churchman, and a devout attendant at the Sunday services.

Thus passes away the last link with the old founders of Sheffield ringing history, who, although gone, will never be forgotten.

CANTERBURY CATHEDRAL BAND'S SECRETARY.*RETIREMENT OF MR. A. A. ANDREWS.

Owing to advancing years, Mr. A. A. Andrews, of Canterbury, has given up the secretaryship of the Cathedral company, a position which he has held since 1882. Mr. Andrews is a native of Canterbury, having been born in St. Dunstan's parish in 1851, and has resided at his present address in New Street, St. Dunstan's, for 52 years. As a lad of 14 he was apprenticed to Mr. Henry Ovenden, builder of St. Dunstan's—he was already in the church choir—and as Mr. Ovenden was then secretary of the old Cathedral band of ringers, Mr. Andrews found among his early duties the care of the bells and ropes. He continued this work until 1869, when, through the death of Mr. Samuel White, a vacancy occurred in the Cathedral band, and he was enrolled as a regular member.

Mr. Andrews' record in connection with change ringing and church work generally is a remarkable one. He has taken part in the New Year peal in the belfry of Canterbury Cathedral for 53 years without a break, he has rung in the peals for the enthronement of four Archbishops—Taft, Benson, Temple and Davidson—and served under five Deans—Alford, Payne-Smith, Farrar, Wace and Bell. In addition, he has sung in St. Dunstan's Church choir for 60 years.

BIRTHDAY COMPLIMENT.

At Llangollen, Denbighshire, on Saturday, February 13th, Thurstaun's quarter-peal of Stedman Triples (1,260 changes) was rung in 44 mins.: S. Meadows 1, E. V. Rodenlurst 2, T. Cathall 3, W. Cathall 4, W. S. Higginson 5, A. J. Hughes 6, T. R. Butler (conductor) 7, T. Davies 8. Rung for the North Wales Association as a compliment to Mr. Thomas Cathall, of Wrexham, on the eve of his 60th birthday, after a peal attempt had been unsuccessful, owing to an interruption.

SUNDAY SERVICE TOUCHES.

We regret that, owing to the demands upon the space available for Sunday Service Touches, we are unable to undertake to insert anything less than a quarter-peal on eight bells and upwards, and 720 of Doubles or Minor. Many correspondents send us quite short touches for publication and they must not be disappointed if we are unable to find room for them.

LONDON.—At St. Saviour's, Southwark, before evensong, on Sunday, February 7th, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples: R. Walden (churchwarden) 1, H. Langdon 2, C. Bray 3, G. Radford 4, E. D. Lillywhite (conductor) 5, C. F. Winney 6, H. R. Newton 7, W. H. Seabrook 8. First quarter by the ringers of the 1st, 3rd and 4th.

PORTISHEAD.—On February 7th, for evensong, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples, in 43 mins.: Miss B. Stadden (first quarter-peal) 1, Miss G. Stadden (first inside) 2, Miss Stokes 3, Miss A. Stokes (conductor) 4, J. Nisbet 5, — Colburn 6, W. Gillingham 7, J. Thomas 8.

SHREWSBURY.—On Sunday, January 24th, at St. Chad's Church (on the back eight), a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples (1,260 changes), in 48 mins., for evening service: J. Griffiths 1, J. E. Lilley 2, C. Leo 3, Jim Evans 4, W. B. Kynaston 5, R. R. Pole 6, C. R. Lilley (conductor) 7, John Evans 8. Rung as a birthday compliment to J. E. Lilley.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT TO CARDIFF RINGER.

Ringers generally, and those who have visited Cardiff in particular, will regret to hear that Mr. Fred Chamberlain, the popular leader of St. John's ringers, has met with a serious accident, and is now lying in Cardiff Royal Infirmary. Whilst following his employment he was knocked over on the railway by a train, the engine and coaches of which all passed over him. His injuries are to the head, a dislocated shoulder, a smashed front portion of foot, the toes of which have already been amputated. He is, however, progressing as favourably as can be expected.

THE CENTRAL COUNCIL.

Although the Central Council meeting at Ipswich on Whit-Tuesday is still somewhat distant, there is, we think, promise that this gathering will be one of the most interesting in the annals of the assembly—interesting, we mean, in the business to be transacted. Usually we hear nothing of the Council from one Whitsun to the next, but during the past year the Council, through its officers, has been active, as, for instance, in the agitation to obtain cheaper railings travelling facilities for ringers, and the Coventry bells' case, upon which members may be likely to want a 'say.' Then, too, there are topics promised for discussion which are likely to find the Council sharply divided, as, for example, the question of method names, and the advantages, or otherwise, of Simpson tuning for bells. One or two resolutions, also, are likely to be coming up from the associations, such as that recommended by the Stockport Branch of the Chester Guild, to get practical ringers appointed as advisors to Archdeacons as to the conditions of belfries and bells.

There will be a large number of associations holding general meetings between Easter and Whit-Tuesday, and it might be well if they took the opportunity of expressing their ideas on any controversial points, so that representatives on the Council may go equipped with the views of their own members. In the case of the method names consideration of the committee's report was adjourned for a year in order that the proposals might be properly digested, and doubtless members of the Council will be glad of a guide on this subject from those who elect them, but we wonder how many associations will even give five minutes to discussing this matter? So, too, with Simpson tuning; will members at any association meeting be invited to express their views? We still hear ringers ask what good does the Council do, but how often do ringers bother themselves to consider Council questions, even though they may be specifically invited to do so? We should like to see a change in this respect.

Very little of the business before the Council is ever the product of discussion at an association meeting, and yet this is where questions ought really to originate. The Council will not reach the zenith of its utility until the affiliated bodies do their part in providing work for the Council. At present the central body is left almost entirely to find its own topics, and it gets blamed if the Exercise does not think them interesting or important enough. Perhaps some day the Council's agenda will include motions submitted officially by the associations, and when that comes to pass its decisions will be more valued than they are now, when a large number of ringers continue to treat it as a gathering of individual ringers rather than as a representative body. Except for a small proportion of honorary members, who, by the way, are generally men who are doing or have done a great deal of the 'donkey' work, the members go to the Council meetings as the elected representatives of their associations, and it is to the associations that they ought to be able to look, not only for support in the decisions that are come to, but for the initiative in all those matters which go to improve and uplift ringing and the Exercise.

MORE DISTRICT MEETINGS WANTED.

A meeting of the Clare District was held at Glemsford on Saturday, February 6th, when members were present from Cavendish, Cornard, Cowlinge, Hartest, Henny, Lavenham, Long Melford, and the local company. Touches of Bob and Kent Minor were rung at the Parish Church; also Grandfire Doubles by the Cowlinge band, a promising five-bell company. Touches in the same methods were also rung at Stanstead Church. Twenty-one members partook of a splendid tea at the Rectory, kindly provided by the Rev. W. and Mrs. Bankes-Williams.

This was followed by a short business meeting, at which four new ringing members were elected, and the Rector kindly consented to become an honorary member.

The chairman, Mr. S. H. Symonds (assistant secretary) made an urgent appeal to the district secretaries, asking them to hold at least three meetings in their respective districts each year. He also asked for a revival of peal ringing in the Sudbury Archdeaconry.

The Rector then gave an interesting address on 'The origin of bells and their uses,' which was much appreciated. He extended a hearty welcome to the members, and thanked them for honouring him and Glemsford with a visit.

Mr. W. Underwood was elected district secretary for Clare pro tem. in the place of Mr. D. Gridley, who has resigned the office owing to ill-health.

The usual votes of thanks were accorded the Rev. and Mrs. W. Bankes-Williams for providing tea; to the Rector and the Rev. L. Finch, of Stanstead, for the use of the bells; and to all those who had helped to make the meeting a success.

The next meeting will be held at Clare on Saturday, March 27th.

MIDLAND COUNTIES ASSOCIATION.

A most enjoyable and successful afternoon and evening were spent at Hugglescote by the Loughborough Branch of the Midland Counties Association. The meeting was fairly well attended, ringers coming from Ashby-de-la-Zouch, Humberstone, Desford, Whitwick, Loughborough, and local ringers. The bells were well utilised in Grandfire and Stedman Doubles and Triples, and several ringers rang their first touches, the striking being fairly good.

Mr. J. W. Hopkins, of Ibstock, was elected a member.—A hearty vote of thanks was passed to the Rector for the use of the bells.

The next meeting is fixed at Kegworth.

BELLS RUNG TOO FAST.

KENT RECTOR'S VIEW.

The prosperous Tonbridge District of the Kent County Association met at Penshurst for the annual meeting on February 13th, when about sixty members attended from Tonbridge, Tunbridge Wells, Speldhurst, Chiddingfold, Edenbridge, Leigh, Lamberhurst, Sevenoaks, Hever and Penshurst. After ringing during the afternoon, a short service was conducted by the Rector (the Rev. E. Hugh Rycroft), who extended a hearty welcome to the visitors, and said that if it were not for the electric light and the modern dress one would think they were going back into the past of Penshurst. It reminded them of the mediæval age, when the life of the people was linked with that of the Church. As men and women became able to look after themselves, so they look over the arrangements of their own pleasures, sports and work. The Guild House, which was associated with the Church, was where men practised their trades and formed their associations, but they never dreamed of doing anything without the Church. The amusement of the people had been left to the Church, but now there was only one thing left for their interest, amusement, recreation and education, which was still in connection with the Church, and that was bell ringing. He thought that would have gone, too, if it had not been for the fact that there were no other towers except at the churches. The bells were used in the Church, and for calling the people to Church. It was still recreation and education to the ringers. From the listeners' point of view, he continued, he thought the English ringers had got into the habit of ringing too fast. He thought that in calling the people to Church it should be done more slowly and reverently. If it was too fast the sequence and order was lost.

The Rector presided over the tea and meeting, supported by Mr. W. Latter (District Secretary) and Mr. G. Edward, (Penshurst Secretary).

BETTER ATTENDANCE AND BETTER RINGING DESIRABLE.

Mr. Latter read the annual report, which stated that on the whole the district was in a satisfactory state, but there was room for improvement. In the first place, there should be better attendances at the district meetings, and, secondly, greater attention should be paid in ringing to ensure accurate striking, as nothing was more annoying to listeners than to hear the bells clashing frequently instead of the clear tap of the clappers. There were 20 towers in the association. Brencley had joined, and Staplehurst, at their own request, transferred to the Maidstone district. The number of practising members was 173, against 172 last year, with 19 new practising and three new honorary resident life members. The honorary members (14) were one less than the previous year. The bells at Brencley had been completely restored, and after four years the Lamberhurst bells had also been restored. The peal of Doubles at Leigh last year was the first rung by an entirely local band. At Brencley Mr. F. White rang his 100th peal on March 21st. A peal was rung at Tunbridge Wells on June 20th, when the bells were half-muffled in memory of the late Archdeacon Scott, who was a practical change ringer, and for many years a vice-president of the association. The premier lady ringer of the district, Miss D. E. Orlebar, rang her first peal of Superlative Surprise Major at Tonbridge, and her first of Cambridge Surprise Major at Tunbridge Wells. They regretted the death of one of their oldest members, Mr. J. Muggidge, Tunbridge Wells, who was 85, and joined the association in 1884. They had also lost by death Mr. W. Levett, of Sevenoaks, and Mr. W. J. Wilson, of Sevenoaks, an hon. life member. Tunbridge Wells had lost the services of Mr. F. White, but Cranbrook had gained them, and Mr. L. Adams, of Sevenoaks, had gone to Canada. He thanked the incumbents of the various churches, the local secretaries and organists.

The balance sheet showed total receipts £21 2s., and expenditure £7 13s., leaving a balance of £13 8s. 6d.

The report and accounts were adopted.

The following life and honorary members were elected: Lord Hardinge, Brig-General McFarlan, Col. B. W. L. McMahon, Dr. Louis Wood, Miss Arnold and Miss E. Arnold, all of Penshurst.

Mr. W. Latter was unanimously re-elected the district secretary, while as representatives to the General Committee Messrs. G. Edwards, and F. White were re-elected.—In thanking the meeting for re-electing him, Mr. Latter mentioned that he joined the association 42 years ago, and had spent more than half that time as an officer.

Tunbridge Wells was selected for the next annual meeting, while for the district meetings Lamberhurst (May), Westerham (Midsummer), and Edenbridge (Autumn) were selected. It was decided to hold a bye-meeting at Leigh.

Votes of thanks were passed to the chairman, Mr. J. M. Sturgess and Mr. Edwards.

The touches rung during the afternoon and evening included Stedman and Grandfire Triples, Kent Treble Bob and Cambridge Surprise Major.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION. LEWISHAM DISTRICT.

The quarterly meeting of the Lewisham District was held at St. John's Church, Erith. The peal of eight bells here have recently been rehung by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank, and all those who rang on them agreed that the 'go' is splendid. About forty members attended, and the bells were made good use of during the afternoon and evening. Service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. W. M. Browne), who gave an intensely interesting address on 'The community's indebtedness to the Parish Churches.'

A splendid tea, kindly supplied by the Vicar, followed, and was served by several ladies of the congregation.

At the business meeting, over which the Vicar presided, eleven new members were elected, and SS. Peter and Paul's, Bromley, was selected as the place of the next meeting.

Mr. W. J. Jefferies (district representative) gave a report of the proceedings at the general committee meeting held at Rochester in November last.

A hearty vote of thanks was accorded all concerned in the arrangements of such an excellent meeting, and the Vicar suitably responded. Ringing was then resumed till 9 p.m.

A DEVON PEAL RESTORED.

Messrs. Taylor and Co., of Loughborough, have recast three of the bells at Sidbury Church, Devon, and the peal of six has been rehung in a new metal frame carried on steel girders. A chiming apparatus has also been installed. The total cost has been about £600, and towards this £270 has been obtained by public subscription, including £100 with which Sir Charles Cave, of Sidbury Manor, opened the fund.

The bells have been rededicated by the Bishop of Exeter. The Vicar (the Rev. J. A. Prendergast), who is also Rural Dean, and acted as the Bishop's chaplain, and the Rev. W. S. Airy, took part in the service. The Bishop, in his address, congratulated the parishioners on having undertaken the work, and remarked that they had responded with great readiness and liberality to the call made upon them. Nothing could be done in the world except all the community acted together.

Immediately following the dedication the bells were rung by the Sidbury ringers, under the captaincy of Mr. T. Clarke. Subsequently they were rung by bands from Sidmouth, Ottery St. Mary, Bucknell, and Talaton, all of whom expressed satisfaction with the rehanging.

The Bishop, clergy, members of the Church Council, ringers, and collectors for the fund had tea in the Village Hall.

HANLEY CASTLE BELLS.

RINGING CHAMBER IN THE CHANCEL.

The parish of Hanley Castle, Worcestershire, contains two churches, each with a peal of six bells. At the mother church of St. Mary, the bells have recently been overhauled. The work was entrusted to Messrs. Taylor and Co., of Loughborough, who have recast the first three bells, and provided a new frame, girders, etc. Provision has also been made to add two more bells. The parish is fortunate in having a churchwarden who is a ringer, viz., Mr. Ernest Gibbs, and this restoration scheme has been made possible through his exertions.

At the rededication service the Vicar (the Rev. Hubert Jones) made a strong appeal to the parishioners to form a local band of ringers; at the same time he expressed his thanks to the visitors for their services.

The Ven. Archdeacon Peile offered the dedicatory prayers, after which the bells were rung for a few rounds, and the Archdeacon then gave an address.

The bells were rung before and after service by members of the Western Branch of the Worcestershire and Districts Association, the methods including Cambridge Surprise, Oxford Bob, Grandsire and Stedman Doubles.

This is now a handy ring of six, the tenor being 14 cwt., and the ringers consider this to be an excellent piece of work of the Loughborough firm. At present the ringing chamber is in the chancel. This is to be altered when the money is raised to provide a new floor.

Mr. E. Gibbs is to be congratulated on his untiring efforts to get these bells put in order, and all are pleased to know his efforts have been successful.

The writer considers that the addition of two trebles, with the same quality of tone, would make the octave equal to any in the county.

DEVONSHIRE GUILD.

A meeting of the Exeter Branch was held at Topsham on Saturday, February 13th. Nearly a hundred members sat down to a sumptuous tea, provided by the Topsham Parochial Church Council in St. Margaret's Hall. The bells of Topsham, Exminster, Lympstone, Woodbury and Clyst St. George were rung during the afternoon and evening.

It was proposed that a meeting be arranged in Exeter to synchronise with the ceremony of unveiling a tablet recording the recent peal of Grandsire Cinques, and also that a meeting be held at Withycombe on September 28th.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

After a long delay, owing to necessary work on the tower, the new ring of eight for St. Michael's, Southampton, are likely to be hung and completed in a week or two.

The Bucks veteran, Mr. John Evans, of Hughenden, is satisfactorily recovering from an illness which followed an accident whilst on the Wills tour last September, and the Oxford Guild hope to see his name in a peal report during the coming summer.

One of old Joe Gutteridge's (Old Windsor) pupils has 'done it' again by honouring Sir Edward Clarke and Sir Wm. Carter with full peals on church bells at Staines and Beaconsfield respectively.

Clun, Salop, belfry has nine bells at present, an octave and a sanctus, and it is rumoured that another is to be added, but you won't 'bet us' as to where it is coming from.

There are reasons for believing that a peal of Treble Bob Major was rung at All Saints', Hereford, some 70 years ago. Will the Committee of Investigation for Bristol please look up the records of the Ancient Society of St. Stephen's in that city?

Readers are asked to inform the Editor, 'What Is-a-Bella without a Clapper?' [This is not our conundrum, or we should expect bricks through the office window.—Ed. R.W.]

The band that rang the peal at Beaconsfield last week to celebrate the 55th wedding anniversary of Sir Wm. and Lady Carter was composed for 'relics' of the Old Berks and Bucks Association, founded fifty years ago. They desire to thank the Rector for his kind assistance on Shrove Tuesday, but our correspondent does not say what form the assistance took. Was it a feast of pancakes!

The origin of the Henry Johnson Dinner was a little gathering of ringers, 25 in number, who 'sat down to a good supper at the Dog and Partridge,' on February 28th, 1882, the famous old man's 73rd birthday, after a peal of Stedman Cinques had been rung at St. Martin's Church. With one exception, viz., Henry Johnson, jun., the last of the band that rang in the peal disappeared when the death of William Rock Small and John Buffery took place.

The anniversary in the previous year was celebrated with a 9,238 Stedman Cinques, the record length at the time.

Two long peals of Grandsire Calers, at Painswick, are celebrated on March 1st, 8,064 in 1734, and 10,080 in 1735. March 1st is also the anniversary of the 13,440 Canterbury Pleasure at Warnham, rung in 1889.

On March 3rd, 1778, W. D. Crofts called 30,260 Grandsire Calers at St. Mary's, Nottingham.

'The first peal performed on the bells' of St. Giles' Camberwell, was rung on March 5th, 1845, by the Surrey Youths of St. Giles'. It was composed and conducted by John Cox.

We mentioned in this column last week the first peal of Bristol Surprise, which was rung at St. Peter's, Brighton. The date of this peal was March 22nd, and not Feb. 22nd, 1901, as stated.

RINGER'S DEATH IN CANADA.

MR. JOHN T. TOMPKINS, LATE OF FINEDON.

A letter just received by Mr. D. J. Nichols, of Kettering, from Mr. W. R. Hensher, of Dundas, Ontario, Canada, who will be well remembered by many ringers as the very highly-esteemed and respected leader of the Kettering ringers some 26 years ago, states that Mr. John Thomas Tompkins (late of Finedon, Northamptonshire) passed away in his 61st year on January 28th last at West Hamilton. He was buried in Dundas Cemetery on the 30th ult.

Besides his widow he leaves three sons (who are all married) and two daughters, for whom much sympathy will be felt by all those who knew the deceased.

In a short tribute to his memory, Mr. Hensher says: 'John was a good, honest and upright man; a man it was good to know, and whom you could respect, and he leaves a family all of the same kind behind him.'

Mr. Tompkins was one of the earliest members of the late Central Northants Association, and represented the Finedon tower as delegate to the association until he went to Canada some 20 years ago. Always a very keen Churchman, he took a very great interest in the management of the association.

In 1906, when a resolution was brought forward to divide the association into three districts, Mr. Tompkins seconded the motion, which was carried; and, as events have proved, the step was very beneficial to the work of the association.

Mr. Tompkins' first peal on eight bells was one of Bob Triples in 1898, and this was followed by two peals of Stedman Triples, to both of which he rang the tenor. They were conducted by the Rev. F. E. Robinson, the last one being rung to commemorate the golden wedding of the Vicar of Finedon, the Rev. Canon Paul, in 1901. It is believed he also rang a six-bell peal somewhat earlier.

SIMPSON TUNING.

A CHAMPION OF THE MUSICAL 'EXPERTS.'

To the Editor.

'Ireneus,' writing with regard to the action of the officials of the Central Council, says that these representatives of the Central Council had no commission from the whole Exercise, and that their evidence on that point was ambiguous and very misleading. The Coventry question, he adds, is settled! Why not settle the question of 'Simpson Tuning' once and for all? Ballot the whole Exercise, and let each ringer speak for himself! I've no apprehensions! and our friends of the old style of tuning will, I feel sure, get a rude awakening. I do not doubt for one moment, if a ballot were taken, what the result would be, for ringers are to be found everywhere who admire the Simpson-tuned peal. The reports in 'The Ringing World' prove its popularity up to the hilt. Let any ringer prove for himself what I say—that is, if he preserves his weekly copy. Pick out twenty copies, take them as you like, and there will be found most startling facts. Happily, I have taken 18 copies; therein I find, in all, twelve peals have been recast and tuned on the Simpson principle. Surely the ringers of England have had something to do with these recasts, and they are all praise of TONE.

No, sir, I have no fears. We have ringers who can tell a 'round ball of velvet tone' when they hear it, and we have ringers who cannot tell whether tone is round, or whether it is oval! We have ringers who cannot tell when tone is impure, and we have ringers who dislike the 'specks' in impure tone. We have a striking illustration in the Coventry inquiry. The musical experts for the petitioners told us that there were 'specks' in the tone of Coventry bells, and mark you this, we for the opposition had a professional founder and a practical ringer who went to tell the court that Coventry bells were 'undoubtedly a very fine peal,' but in the end he had to confess that there were elements of sound which disturbed the oneness of pure sound, which he enumerated, and said could be removed.

My experience of people who profess to know a lot about the old style of tuning bells is that when they are tackled and cornered by a cultivated knowledge the batteries of abuse are opened. One correspondent complained of unjust treatment, and another talks about 'an ounce of practical experience, etc.' If I am any judge, there were 'tons' of practical experience from the change ringing standpoint, but from that opposition (who were practical change ringers) we do not find 'half an ounce' of practical musical experience, and that's why the opposition had no legs to stand on. And it is well to remember that it was not the carillonies who committed the first work of destruction at Coventry; it was the noble art and science of change ringing that unquestionably robbed Coventry of the identity of mediæval bells. Take that! with Coventry medicine! And as an antiquary, permit me to say there is no historical value in a peal of bells that came out of the furnace, contemporary with the entry of our great-grandfathers into this vale of woe. Aye! an' wait for York! they'll have wheels on, and resonating breath!

AN ORGANIST'S VIEWS.

Sir,—As an organist of some 48 years' standing, and a bit of a ringer, also an amateur smatterer on theology and ecclesiastical matters, may I be allowed a word? I quite agree with my friend, Mr. Barnett. I reckon that it is as impertinent for a musician who is no ringer to poke his nose into the question of the disposal of bells as it is for a skilled ringer who is no musician to have 'his say' in the disposal of a fine organ. I also agree with Mr. George Williams that it was a great pity the ringing side did not make the most of their opportunity, but 'gave the show away.'

I suppose it is utterly hopeless to bombard the Chancellor of Coventry Diocese with petitions to reconsider his decision; but I am sure that my ringing sisters and brothers will agree with me in hoping that this worthy gentleman, and those who advocated the destruction of these bells, will live to repent the error of their ways, and perhaps compensate Coventry by setting the ball rolling to get a peal of bells for ringing purposes as nearly as possible approaching what is lost.

W. E. PITMAN, Mus.Bac. Oxon., F.R.C.O.
Organist of S. Gregory's, Canterbury, and Stedmarsh.

THREE KINDS OF SIMPSON-TUNED BELLS.

Sir,—I have read with interest the letters in 'The Ringing World' on the above bells, and should like to make a few remarks. I am afraid Mr. Barnett has rather overstepped the mark in saying 'all' Simpson-tuned bells are thin. To my mind, there are three kinds, viz.: Good, indifferent and rotten. If Coventry bells, which I always understood were good, could have been improved, as were St. Clement Danes', or even Crayford, then I say it is vandalism to break them up. What appeals to me most is why, and by whom, were Drs. Brazil and Starmer asked to give their advice? I do not doubt we have men in the ringing fraternity with as good ears as they have, and who can play instruments, or strike chords equally with them. The matter brings to my mind the remarks of a gentleman, over thirty years ago, when presenting the prizes at an athletic club's race meeting, he said: 'I hear some of our members are contemplating marriage; I, being a bachelor, cannot speak with certainty, but they tell me it's a matter o' money.' T. GROOMBRIDGE, Sen.

AN ARGUMENT AGAINST THE MUSICAL EXPERTS.

Dear Sir,—It has been said that 'fools rush in where angels fear to tread.' So be it, I apologise for the following.

On reading the account of the proceedings of the Consistory Court at Coventry, one is struck with a curious phase of the situation. That is, why did not someone attempt to take up the musical experts on their own ground? Dr. Brazil demonstrated on the piano tones contained in Simpson tuning and old style tuning, and gave the following chords: (1) C, C, E flat, G, C; (2) C sharp, C, E, G, C.

Having thus used the piano, and musical terms in support of his argument, it could have done no harm to have quoted a few musical terms against him, and carry the argument a bit further.

I cannot see in the account that Dr. Brazil played a succession of these chords, in either style; but had he done so, so as to represent a peal of bells, a succession of parallel or consecutive 5th's and octaves would have been heard, particularly in No. 1 style, as the 'root' is doubled.

Now, on page 19 of Sir John Stainer's 'Harmony' are given six chords, from C to A, each chord containing its perfect 5th. Dr. Stainer says of them, 'If the pupil will now play all these chords in succession he will find they produce a very bad effect. This is on account of the consecutive 5th's (they contain, nor will he find any less unsatisfactory result if consecutive octaves be added. Therefore, consecutive 5th's and octaves are forbidden.'

The chords given, being from C to A inclusive, are the same as would represent a peal of six bells, tenor in C. If Dr. Stainer was right, and a trial on the piano proves it, then one of two things is evident, either that both the specimens given by Dr. Brazil fall under condemnation; or that the ordinary rules of musical theory cannot be applied to bells at all, and probably the latter is correct, for a chord on the piano, or a succession of chords, have notes of equal loudness within each chord. In a bell the keynote or 'root' is predominant; the harmonics are not so noticeable.

In future, in a case of this sort, it would be a great idea to have one of our ringers who is also an organist (there are a few such) to take on the musical theorists at their own value, for it seems that most of the 'defenders' disclaimed a 'musical ear,' thus leaving the field to those anxious to recast the bells.

Every defence of Simpson tuning is based on musical theory solely, and ignores the cumulative effect of ringing bells in succession, where-in there must arise discords to an acute ear, no matter how the bells are tuned, and until each bell can be confined to a single tone these will continue to be heard, even in a Simpson carillon. Finally, whilst the 'experts' are allowed to confine the discussion to the chord contained in each bell, one at a time, they will continue to win converts to the 'shivery' gospel.—Yours faithfully, P. LAFLIN.

Toronto.

BELLS TUNED ON THE FIVE-TONE PRINCIPLE.

Dear Sir,—in reply to Mr. Walker's request, I beg to say our bells at Haslemere were recast in 1923 by the Loughborough foundry, and tuned on the five-tone principle. Our ringers are delighted with the result, and I have a document in my possession signed by 125 parishioners, which states they are delighted with the bells. People who used to be annoyed by the ringing before the bell were recast now enjoy it.—Yours truly, J. H. B. HESSE.

SHREWSBURY BELLS.

Dear Sir,—Mr. A. Walker mentioned St. Chad's, Shrewsbury, in his letter. Where can he find a better peal of twelve than these, every bell being well balanced, and there is no howling? Many experienced ringers have pronounced them perfect. I have rung on several rings of twelve, and found none to equal them. If Mr. E. Barnett heard them he would have a different opinion to that which he now holds, as they are a perfect 8, 10 or 12. Perhaps we may have the opinion of some of our first-class experts who have rung on them, I might say the old twelve were a poor old peal.—Yours faithfully, C. R. LILLEY.

A DATE TOUCH.

At Hyde, Cheshire, on Thursday, Feb. 11th, to celebrate the opening of a bazaar, a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples (1,260 changes) and a date touch of Kent Treble Bob Major (1,926 changes) by the following: C. Bower 1, J. Mellor 2, J. Brierley 3, H. Norgrove 4, A. Houghton 5, S. Bowker 6, B. Thorp (conductor) 7, J. Harrison 8. Ringers of 1, 2, 7 and 8 from Ashton; rest local.

NOTES BY THE WAY.

BELLS AND THE LAW.—LORD GRIMTHORPE.

By J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

Probably the most notable thing about the Coventry bell incident is neither the result of the case, which was almost a foregone conclusion, nor the arguments used, which were pretty familiar, but the fact that the Exercise as a whole was, by the mouth of its Council, pleading in a Court of Law. The memories of many of us who are, as ringers go, still mere striplings, easily go back to the time when such a thing would have seemed impossible. We change ringers are a peaceable lot, and though, if need should arise, we hope that our influence may be increasingly felt, the less we have to do with law matters the better; and it is good to know that there is not much connected with bells and bell ringing that is likely to bring any of us as ringers into a law court. Every now and then we hear of some aggrieved person who threatens to get an injunction to stop the ringing of some peal of bells or other, but such cases never actually come into the courts. There was one some years ago (of which I have no particulars) which did result in some restriction of ringing. But that was in connection with a Roman Catholic Church, and such stand on an entirely different legal footing to Church of England Churches.

The case you hear often quoted is St. Gabriel's, Pimlico, and what happened there was something like this. St. Gabriel's is in Warwick Square, not far from Victoria Station, in what is called a high-class residential district. Some of the inhabitants bitterly objected to the ringing of the bells, and, being of a contentious disposition and having plenty of money, put the matter into lawyers' hands, with instructions to apply for an injunction to restrain the Vicar and churchwarden from having the bells rung. The church authorities took up the position that they had in law the right to ring their bells, but as it was not their wish nor to their interest to have a feud with any of the parishioners about a matter on which no doubt they did not feel very strongly, they decided, as an act of grace, and without prejudice to their rights, that the bells should not be rung, and so they remain silent to this day.

I have no doubt that in the particular circumstances they acted wisely. If a sufficient number of people close to a tower really mean business, and are sufficiently energetic (and disagreeable), they can always get ringing stopped or curtailed. It is a good thing for us that such people are rare. There are a good many persons who object bitterly to bell ringing, but under the circumstances they are not at all likely to take any common action. The man who objects to the ringing in the tower next his house is only concerned to have those bells stopped. His grievance abated, he does not care twopence about the trouble of a man who lives close to another tower. And as the great majority of people live sufficiently far away from bells for them to be a pleasure and not a nuisance, there is not any particular cause to fear any real attempt to curtail by legislation the ringing of church bells. But we must recognise, and indeed we are increasingly recognising the fact, that noisy bells can be a real nuisance and hardship to those who live immediately next them, and especially so when the ringing is bad. I myself am very fond of music, but I think I should object if beginners began to practice brass band music just outside my sitting-room door.

And then, ringers being merely men and church authorities no more, we do hear now and again of trouble and disputes between them. Sometimes of the ringers' striking, because the parson has displeased them, and sometimes of the parson shutting out the ringers, because they have displeased him. But these disputes do not get into courts of law, as did the following, which I copied from a newspaper of just over a hundred years ago. The first cause was the proceedings for divorce by George IV. against his wife, Queen Caroline. This case caused great feeling all over the country. When it was decided in favour of the queen, her partisans gave themselves up to all manner of rejoicings, and among them were many ringers, who celebrated the occasion by ringing the bells. You will remember the board in Hammersmith Parish Church, which I quoted some time ago in these notes, and how the bells were rung for three days, and nine bottles of wine was drunk here on the 13th in honour of the victory.

The ringers of Chardstock, in Dorset, had similar opinions, and wanted to ring the bells. So had not the parson who either was a king's man or a sensible person who thought it no fit occasion for the ringing of church bells. They persisted, and so did he, and it led to an unseemly squabble, and a charge of common assault brought by one of the ringers against the parson. Here is the newspaper cutting:—

At the Dorset Sessions, an indictment was preferred by one of the bell ringers of the parish of Chardstock in that county against the clergyman of the parish for an assault. The charge arose out of the proceedings against the Queen. The bell ringers persisted in forcing themselves into the belfry, and ringing the bells in defiance of the repeated prohibitions of the clergyman. He thought it his duty to support his authority by personally endeavouring to remove them from the belfry, and for that purpose proceeded to the church at nine at night whilst the bells were ringing. The ringers rushed out of the church when they heard the clergyman coming, and he caught the first that issued from the belfry in order to ascertain who he was. . . . The jury acquitted the defendant.

The most important legal case which concerns bells was Stainbank v. Beckett. This was an action for libel, and was tried at the Lords Justices' Court at Westminster on June 27th, 1881, and the following six days. This was before the opening of the present Law Courts in the Strand. The plaintiff was Mr. Robert Stainbank, at that time proprietor of the Whitechapel Foundry. He was a native of Nottingham, and before becoming interested in bell founding was a timber merchant. It is said that at one time, when 'The Daily Telegraph' in its early years was at a low ebb, he nearly became its proprietor. Instead, in 1861 he joined Mr. George Mears in bell founding, and four years later the style of the firm, which had been G. Mears and Co., was altered to Mears and Stainbank, and has continued the same to the present time. He died on January 24th, 1883, and was buried at Boston, in Lincolnshire.

The defendant, Sir Edmund Beckett, Q.C., was a most remarkable man. First known as Mr. E. Beckett Denison, he changed his name to E. Beckett, and then, when raised to the peerage, to Lord Grimthorpe. He was by profession a lawyer, and made one of the largest fortunes, if not the very largest, ever made at the Bar. He did not appear in the ordinary criminal or divorce cases which bring a man's name prominently before the public, but at the Parliamentary Bar, where the fees for a first-class man are enormous, and where, too, solid legal knowledge and ability count rather than more showy qualifications. But law was only one of his many activities. He wrote books on architecture on domestic houses, as well as churches; he was an acknowledged authority on clocks; he took a big part in the ritualistic and doctrinal controversies which agitated the Church of England in the latter half of the nineteenth century; and he posed and was largely accepted as an authority on the founding of bells.

In everything he did he pressed his opinion with a dogmatic assumption of superior knowledge. He was one of those men who can hardly admit that anyone could differ from them and be right, and naturally enough he found himself involved in perpetual disputes with architects, clockmakers and bell founders. He used to write long letters to 'The Times,' which were equally distinguished by the force of their expression and the extraordinary English they were written in. The most important thing he did in architecture was the restoration of St. Albans Abbey, first as one of a committee, and afterwards practically single-handed, when he not only acted as architect, but supplied most of the money. What he did there was bitterly criticised by the professional architects. He made mistakes, some of them bad ones, but on the whole I think his work was not any worse than what would have been done, if one of these architects, who found so much fault, had had the job. The architects wanted to keep the old low-pitched roof, he wanted to put on a high-pitched one, and got his way, and I think he was right.

In other things he was just as certainly wrong. There is a tale told of him, which illustrates the kind of man he was. When he proposed to undertake the restoration of the Abbey by himself, the parish authorities rather timidly suggested that he should have a committee of architects to advise him. 'A committee of architects!' he said, 'I would not have a committee of archangels!'

When the Houses of Parliament were built the proposal was to have a big clock, and he was entrusted with oversight of the matter. He drew up a specification, and a condition was that it should not vary more than a certain small fraction of time per week. The clockmakers said it could not be done; he said it could, and proceeded to invent a new escapement which turned out to be even more accurate than his specification required. Other big and accurate clocks have since been made, but the Westminster clock still holds its own among them, and the credit is Beckett's.

In bell founding his opinions were just as definite and just as forcibly expressed, but in this matter he was more often wrong than right. In one of his books he speaks sarcastically of an architect who had put the bells below the sills of the sound windows. Bells are meant to be heard, and, to be heard, he maintained, they must swing level with the louvres. At the present time we are doing all we can to alter that, either by lowering the bells or by boarding or bricking up the lower part of the windows. The bells themselves, he held, were made much too thin. When Michael Thomas Bass, the brewer, built St. Paul's Church, Burton-on-Trent Beckett controlled the designs of the building, and the bells which were hung in the tower. They have recently been recast, but many ringers will remember them, a twenty-six hundredweight tenor in F sharp.

Other peals which he did not actually design, but which indirectly show his influence, are St. Paul's Cathedral, the Parish Church, Croydon, and the Roman Church at Cambridge. They are to a certain degree quite good bells very powerful but decidedly hard in tone. Beside the clock at Westminster, Beckett was in general charge of the

DURHAM & NEWCASTLE ASSOCIATION.*PROPOSED MEMORIAL TO THE LATE MAJOR HUDSON.

The pre-Lent meeting was held at Newton Hall on Saturday, Feb. 13th, in beautiful weather. In the absence of the president (through a cold, and parochial work) and the vice-presidents, Mr. Story (the Northern District secretary) presided over the committee and general meetings.

At the committee meeting it was unanimously decided to give whole-hearted support to the memorial the Bishopwearmouth Parochial Council are erecting to the late Major R. C. Hudson, and when the printed appeals from the Council come to hand, the hon. secretary of the association will send them out to the bellfries affiliated with the association, asking for their support and help.—It was also unanimously decided to ask Mr. J. W. Parker to represent the association on the Memorial Committee.

The invitation of the All Saints', Gosforth, Guild to hold a special meeting at Gosforth on Easter Monday (the 25th anniversary of the dedication of the bells) was accepted with thanks. It is proposed to have an all day meeting, with a service at 1 o'clock, and light lunch at 1.30 (at a nominal charge for lunch). Further particulars will be given later.

It was recommended that district secretaries, when fixing the dates for their district meetings, should confer with each other to avoid clashing.

A company of 28 sat down to tea, the chairman being supported by Mr. J. E. Tully, of the Hall, Newton, and the Vicar (the Rev. C. D. Pothergill). These gentlemen became hon. members.

The Chairman proposed a vote of thanks to the Vicar for the use of the bells, and for his presence at tea, and also welcomed Mr. Tully.—Both these gentlemen responded.

A very hearty vote of thanks was accorded to the ladies for so kindly and so well looking after the needs of the company at tea-time, the proposer saying he hoped some day to meet them in the heltry with a rope in their hands. Three honorary and three active members were elected.

A course of Grandsire Triples on handbells brought the meeting to a close, and another visit to the tower was made, the handy ring of six, with a tenor 12 cwt. in good condition, running on ball bearings, being kept going in various Minor methods during the afternoon and evening, some young ringers scoring their first touch of Minor.

Thanks are extended to three of the members who went in their cars and took others with them, and so helped to swell the number at the meeting, Newton Hall being three miles from a station, and rather a difficult place to get at. The following towers were represented: Newcastle Cathedral, Gosforth, Jesmond, Gateshead, Whickham, St. Ignatius', Sanderland, Winton, and the local men in full force.

The secretary desires to add his personal thanks to the local ringers, and 'their sisters, their cousins and their aunts,' for the admirable way in which they carried out the arrangements for the meeting and tea, and thus relieved him of much anxiety.

BRINGING ON YOUNG RINGERS.To the Editor.*

Dear Sir,—With reference to the report of the Western District meeting, held at Chester-le-Street, on January 16th, it is only right to say we take exception to the paragraph which deals with the slackness in peal ringing, and says that the attempts are for the favoured few. The gentleman who wrote this evidently has not studied the inner workings of our association, or read the annual report. Last year there were 28 peals rung, 73 members taking part; five rang their first peal; five their first on eight bells; nine their first in the method; three travelled 15 miles by 'bus, and one 10 miles to put a local band through a peal which was lost two courses from the halfway; another date was fixed, but one of the 15-milers missed the 'bus, but came on by the next, which was, however, too late to start for a peal, as the last 'bus back left at 9.15, so it was made a practice, and a quarter-peal was rung. We are only waiting for a favourable opportunity for another attempt. About three weeks ago an attempt was made for Kent Major. The band were all six-bell men from outlying districts except two. The peal was lost just before the 2nd part end of a three-part peal. This would have been three 'first peals,' and one 'first on eight bells.' The same conductor a few years ago travelled out 35 miles and scored a peal with 'six first peal' men.

founding of the bells, and out of that arose the law suit I am going to describe. Warner's cast the four quarter bells, and the original Big Ben. The latter was cracked before she was hoisted into the tower, and the Whitechapel foundry was entrusted with the recasting. The second bell also cracked, and still, as everyone knows, remains cracked. A dispute arose as to whether she was properly cast.

The 7th man scored his first peal a few weeks previously, and belonged to the same band. The treble man had not seen eight ropes before. About twelve months later, seven 'first peals' were scored, and at the first attempt. This conductor is not the only pebble on the beach. There are others doing equally good work amongst the beginners.

It is the object of our association to bring on as many of the younger ringers as possible. We recognise by so doing we are building up the foundation of our association for the future. We 'old fogies' have only our allotted span, and then hand the reins to others. Another illustration: The peal of Bob Major at Whitley Bay, where six Surprise ringers piloted two young ringers through their first peal at the first attempt. It wasn't a case of giving the young ones a chance, because they were short of a band, for they have plenty of Surprise men and could have rung a Surprise peal. Take, for instance our late friend, Major R. C. Hudson: Where could you find a better ringer than he was, and one who spent more time and care in bringing on young ringers, or was more attentive to the Sunday Service ringing at his own church, and took a keener interest in our association? Yet for some years you could not tempt him into a peal. We have several others who are doing splendid work in the same way, and yet will not ring peals. This diminishes the number of peal ringers. I say without fear of contradiction that every conductor we have is most willing to help the young ringer, either through his first peal or train him up ready for it, and where the young ringer does not come forward we go out to try and find him. If there is any young ringer who wants his first peal or first in the method let him come forward, and he shall have an opportunity, provided he will look up the method.—Yours, etc., E. FERRY,

Hon. Sec.

PEAL RINGING IN THE ASSOCIATION.To the Editor.*

Dear Sir,—With reference to your comments upon organised peal ringing in your issue of Feb. 12th, in which you state that what peals were rung in the Durham and Newcastle Association were generally shared by a favoured few, the passing over of deserving ringers being harmful, and against the best interests of the association, I have been looking over last year's report in order to discover how far such a statement is correct; and I find in the year ending Sept. 30th, 1925, that 29 peals were rung by this association, and these included 10 peals that were rung by a party of ringers from the South of England who made a tour of this district in June. This, therefore, leaves 19 peals that were rung by Sunday Service ringing men of this association. From the secretary's report, 71 members had rung in the 29 peals; the largest number rung by any one member being 11 peals, and 35 members rang one peal each. I further find that in these 29 peals were 25 first peals in the method.

It seems to me, judging from these facts, that it is hardly correct to make such a sweeping statement as was made by your correspondent and also by yourself; and I think it would be of interest to the Exercise to know whether such a record as this association has in the matter is really a selfish one. I know of many ringers who have made great sacrifices indeed to help the novice forward, and I would like to know, in comparison with other associations, if our position is really so selfish as the remarks lately made upon the subject have led people to believe?—Yours truly,

ARTHUR PAYNE.

[Our comments were based upon the statement that at the meeting of the Western Division 'there was a strong feeling among the members that a certain slackness was noticeable throughout the association in connection with peal ringing, and if any was attempted it was generally the favoured few who were selected.'—Ed. 'R.W.']

THREE SCORE AND TEN.

On February 6th, a band met at Great Bentley to attempt a peal of Superlative Surprise to celebrate the 70th birthday of Mr. W. J. Nevard. Meeting one short in Colchester at the appointed time, 'Tim Lizzie' and another took seven of the party on to Bentley, where the band was fortunately made up, and a start made. But disappointment was yet to come, for when only three courses and a lead from home the clapper of the 7th dropped out, much to the regret of all the band. Adjourning to a near-by house, 'within the meaning of the Act,' a capital repast was partaken of, generously provided by Mr. Nevard, to mark the occasion. Many expressions of regret were made at the loss of the peal, but all united in wishing Mr. Nevard many happy returns of the day.

On the following Saturday, however, some compensation was gained by a peal at Great Baddow.

UXBRIDGE, MIDDLESEX.—On Thursday, January 28th, at St. Margaret's Parish Church, on the occasion of a visit of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Barker, of Stoke Poges, a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples: Miss P. Moss 1, Mrs. A. D. Barker 2, A. D. Barker (conductor) 3, G. H. Gutteridge 4, E. Hancox 5, F. Corke (first attempt for a quarter in the method) 6, P. E. Jones 7, J. Lucas 8.

DEATH OF WELL-KNOWN LANCASHIRE RINGER.

The death occurred, on Tuesday, February 9th, of Mr. John Harrison, of Heywood, Lanes. He was well known throughout the whole of the county, and at various towers in other parts of the country as a ringer of ability. He had been interested in ringing for over fifty years, during the greater part of which he had been connected with St. Luke's Parish Church, Heywood.

The interment took place on Saturday, February 13th at Heywood Cemetery, and four of the local band acted as bearers.

Sixteen members, representing different towers of the Rochdale Branch of the Lancashire Association, were also present, and after the committal, a course was rung on handbells over the grave.

Touches were also rung on the tower bells, fully muffled, including the 'whole pull and stand,' on the evening prior to the interment, and short touches after the funeral. Among the floral tributes was a wreath from his fellow-ringers at St. Luke's.

HEREFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

The annual meeting of the Hereford District was held at Hereford on Saturday, February 13th. A service was held at St. Nicholas' Church, and the Cathedral and All Saints' bells were available for ringing during the afternoon and evening. A business meeting was held at the Spread Eagle Hotel, the Rev. G. M. Gough presiding, supported by the Dean of Hereford, Miss M. Bull, the Rev. J. Dent, the Rev. G. W. Turner, the Rev. S. Scarlet Smith, Mr. C. Edwards (Master), and the secretary. — The secretary presented the balance sheet for 1925, showing a balance in hand of £8 2s. 6d.

The Secretary, Treasurer, Ringing Master and Assistant Ringing Master were all re-elected, and Holm Lacy was chosen for the May quarterly meeting, Wellington for August, and Kingstone for November. Sulton and Hampton Bishop were chosen for combined practices for March and April. Twelve new members were elected.

The Rev. J. Dent proposed a vote of thanks to the Rev. G. M. Gough for presiding at the meeting; he also thanked Mr. Davies for the help his tower had received from him.

LINCOLN DIOCESAN GUILD.

One of the best gatherings held in the Eastern Branch of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild took place at Butterwick, when the annual meeting was held.

The Rev. J. R. Trotter was unanimously re-elected as president; the vice-presidents were re-elected en bloc; Mr. J. Phillips, of Butterwick, was also unanimously re-elected to the offices of secretary and treasurer; Mr. W. E. Clarke, of Boston, was proposed for the office of Ringing Master of the branch, and unanimously elected. Mr. Alec. Sharp was also unanimously re-elected as the Branch's Guild representative.

Two new ringing members from Stickney were elected, as were also three honorary members, the churchwardens of Freiston and Butterwick.

The president (the Rev. J. R. Trotter) conducted the service, and entertained the members to tea, and he was heartily thanked for his kindness and hospitality.

There was ringing during the day, both at Butterwick and Freiston.

ROMNEY MARSH GUILD.

Members of the Romney Marsh Guild from in and around Ashford had an adventurous journey when they chartered a motor conveyance to take them to a meeting at Appledore—twelve miles away. After a variety of experiences, during which the car chewed up a front tyre, and eventually broke a back axle, the party set out to complete the last six miles afoot in the snow. After covering four miles, they were lucky to be picked up by a public bus, and reached their destination in time for 168 Stedman Triples before service, with three other members of the association who had been patiently awaiting their arrival.

At the business meeting, the Rev. A. O. Scutt was re-elected president, and Messrs. C. W. Everett and C. W. Franklin Master and hon. secretary respectively. The following committee was elected: Messrs. C. Player, G. Youngs, G. Thomas, H. Balcombe, E. Powell, C. Tribe, G. Johnson, K. Pattenden and H. Baker, and Miss R. Thomas. Mr. Everett was elected to represent the Guild on the Central Council.

WARWICKSHIRE GUILD.

The Warwickshire Guild, at a meeting at Chilvers Coton, discussed the question of issuing an annual report, but adjourned the question to the annual meeting, the hon. secretary (Mr. J. A. Fenton) having pointed out that the cost would be about £16, while the assets of the Guild were nowhere near that figure.

Six new members were elected to the Guild, and Monk's Kirby chosen for the July quarterly meeting.

SUNDAY SERVICE TOUCHES.

We regret that, owing to the demands upon the space available for Sunday Service Touches, we are unable to undertake to insert anything less than a quarter-peal on eight bells and upwards, and 720 of Doubles or Minor. Many correspondents send us quite short touches for publication and they must not be disappointed if we are unable to find room for them.

COALBROOKDALE'S PEAL OF TEN.

The official opening of the peal of ten bells at Coalbrookdale, Snop, will take place on Saturday afternoon, April 10th. An advertisement invites ringers to attend so that they may form their opinion of what can be done by tuning old bells to modern ideas. The treble, 2nd, 5th and 7th are new bells, the rest were cast in 1852 by Mears, and have been retuned. The old bells were always considered a fine eight, with a tenor in E. This bell, we are informed, has been lowered to D without recasting, and is of splendid tone. The other nine are beautifully balanced. The tenor is one pound short of 19 cwt., and the treble one pound more than 5 cwt. They are not Simpson tuned, and the Coalbrookdale ringers are anxious that all who can should hear them, in view of the discussion with regard to Coventry bells.

The work at Coalbrookdale has been carried out by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank.

THE SHREWSBURY STEDMAN CINQUES.

The peal of Stedman Cinques at Shrewsbury was the first in the method on the recast bells, the last on the old ring having been about 50 years ago. Mr. James George took part in both. It completed the four standard methods on the bells, Bob and Kent Treble Bob Maximus, Grandsire and Stedman Cinques, all of which have been called by the Master and towerkeeper, Mr. C. R. Lilley. After the peal the conductor entertained the band to a meat tea, and was thanked on the motion of Mr. James George.

A USEFUL PROPOSAL.

A step towards the better upkeep of some of our belfries would be made if the resolution, which it is suggested the Chester Diocesan Guild should bring to the notice of the Central Council, should be passed by the latter body. The duty of inspecting church bells, as of all other church property, lies with the Rural Dean, who has to present a report to the Bishop. In the case of the bells the Rural Dean, more often than not, we imagine, takes the 'inspection' as completed without climbing the belfry stairs to see for himself what is the condition of affairs up aloft, and, unless he is a ringer, like the Rural Dean who is also president of the Central Council, he probably learns as much by stopping down in the church as he would by adventuring up into the steeple. The consequence is the belfry and its contents do not always come in for that criticism of their condition which they need, and which might lead to improvement in those cases where improvement is not only desirable but a long delayed necessity, if the efficiency of the bells and their fittings is to be maintained.

The Chester Guild proposal, which was discussed last year, and has been again revived in order that it may come before the next Central Council meeting, is that steps be taken with a view to a competent, practical man being appointed in each rural deanery where the Rural Dean has not himself the requisite technical knowledge, to advise as to the condition of bells and belfries. The scheme, if it is found to be practicable, would, we believe, be most valuable in bringing about improvements in the condition of many of our rings of bells, now in a dilapidated condition. Rural Deans and Bishops have no power to enforce restorations of bells, but recommendations coming from this quarter naturally carry great weight with church authorities. At the present time there are many neglected belfries of which Rural Deans and Bishops really know nothing, but given the appointment of a competent and independent advisor for the former, it would not be long before dilapidations in the belfry would be systematically and regularly brought to the notice of those responsible. Such a course, also, would probably in the long run mean a saving of money to the churches, for early notification of defects would enable them to have overhauls carried out at comparatively small cost, where, at present, cumulative neglect eventually results in a big outlay upon a large restoration scheme. The Chester Guild proposal has much to recommend it, and it will be for the Central Council, if they approve of it, to devise the best means of securing its adoption by the Rural Deans.

BATH & WELLS DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.
DUNSTER DEANERY BRANCH.

The annual meeting of the Dunster Deanery Branch of the Bath and Wells Diocesan Association was held at Dunster, on Saturday, Feb. 20th, when there was a large attendance from Minehead, Carhampton, Old Cleeve, St. Decuman's, Stoqumber, Chipstable, Milverton, Selworthy, St. Audries', Dulverton, Timberscombe, and Dunster. At the service, which was conducted by the Rev. J. C. L. Isard, of Minehead, the lesson was read by the Rev. H. W. Milward (Dunster) and the address given by Preb. W. T. Reeder, Rural Dean, Dunster. The Rev. T. S. Dawson, chairman of the branch, presided at the organ.

Prebendary Reeder entertained the members to tea in the Memorial Hall, the company numbering 55. The Rev. T. S. Dawson occupied the chair at the subsequent business meeting, at which Mr. G. Stacey (hon. secretary) gave a report on the branch activities during the year. There had been, he said, an average of 57 in the attendances at the quarterly meetings. Two new honorary members and nineteen ordinary members had been elected, and there had been one re-election. Two members had died, nine left the district, and the total membership was now 161. The statement of accounts for the year showed that after paying expenses there would be £7 ls. 6d. to be sent to the general secretary, leaving a balance in hand of £4 13s.—The accounts were passed.

After deciding to hold the next meeting at Selworthy, the meeting elected the following new members: Messrs. D. Bates and V. Stevens, Old Cleeve; A. N. Williams, Dulverton; L. Ferris, Minehead; and Jas. Hunt, Minehead. Messrs. C. Thrush, Dunster, and Jas. Cridland, Carhampton, were re-elected on the membership roll.

The services rendered by the Rev. T. S. Dawson as chairman were warmly eulogised when he was re-elected to office on the motion of Mr. Stacey, seconded by Mr. F. Arscott.—The Chairman, in proposing the re-election of Mr. Stacey as hon. secretary, alluded in appreciative terms to his work for the branch, and this motion was seconded, and carried by acclamation.

Mr. W. A. Hawkins was re-elected hon. auditor, and Mr. H. A. Phillips was added to the management committee.—Mr. I. Farmer, Carhampton, was elected Ringing Master, in the place of Mr. Wm. Hoyle, Minehead. Mr. Hoyle, who has been Ringing Master for several years, and has done good service for the movement in the instruction of younger members, had expressed his wish to resign. His resignation was accepted with much regret, and the Chairman, in moving a vote of thanks to him, expressed the regret they all felt that he was unable to take office again, but the members would sympathise with him in his present trouble, and remember him in the tower and in church.

Votes of thanks were heartily accorded to Preb. Reeder for his kindness in allowing the use of the tower, and for the tea provided, and to all others who had helped to make the occasion a pleasant one.

The Rev. M. L. Winterton (Trull) addressed a few words to the meeting, in which he voiced the pleasure he felt at seeing such a good attendance, and wished that he might see as many at the meetings in his deanery.

Preb. Reeder also referred to the pleasure given him by such a large gathering, and especially on seeing so many young ringers, who would, he hoped, keep the bells going for many years to come.

NOTES BY THE WAY.

AN OLD LAW ACTION RECALLED.—SIR EDMUND BECKETT'S LIBEL.

By J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

Stainbank v. Beckett was tried on June 27th, 1881, and following days, by Baron Huddleston and a special jury. The action was for libel, arising out of certain letters written by the defendant in 'The Times.' The counsel engaged in the case were: For the plaintiff, Mr. Charles Russell, Q.C., M.P., Mr. W. G. Harrison, Q.C., and Mr. Hilbery; for the defendant, Sir J. Holker, Q.C., M.P., and Mr. Jeune. These were among the leading lawyers of the day, and three of them at least were afterwards judges. Russell is recognised as being among the leading English advocates of all time. He was Attorney-General in Gladstone's Government, of 1836, when he was knighted; in 1894 he became a Lord of Appeal with the title of Lord Russell of Killowen; and in the same year Lord Chief Justice of England. He would have been Lord Chancellor, but that the law forbade a Roman Catholic to hold that office. Among the many famous cases he appeared in were the trial of Mrs. Maybrick for poisoning her husband, the Parnell Commission, and the Behring Sea arbitration.

The alleged libels were contained in the following letters to 'The Times.' On October 31st, 1878, the defendant wrote, 'Though I do not profess to write about dominants and minor thirds, or to guess how a Belgian bell founder would probably begin to rebune this peal, I have no hesitation in saying that no modern Belgian bells which have come over here, and been heard in public, are superior or equal to the best English ones, though they are superior to such as used to be made by the English firm which had a practical monopoly of the business until about 20 years ago. Of course, I agree with Mr. Haweis about the present condition of Big Ben of Westminster, which is a disgrace to the nation, as it was to its founders, and as their York bell was still more, and as the clock bells of St. Paul's were to their predecessors, and Tom of Oxford to its maker, which is the worst of all the great ones.'

And again in 'The Times' of November 20th, 1878: 'Bells without number, which moreover were never cast for it with a properly adapted crown, have been ringing for years and centuries with bolts in their crowns to hold in the clappers when the bells have been turned in the stock, before I introduced the now common practice (except, I believe, at the oldest and worst of the foundries in England) of having the clapper bolt independent of the bell.'

Mr. Charles Russell, in opening the case, first expressed his regret in having to appear against so distinguished a member of his own profession. He went on to state that the defendant had largely interested himself in bells and clocks, especially the bells and clock of the Houses of Parliament. Twenty years ago, his criticisms of Big Ben had resulted in an action brought against him by the late Mr. Mears, who cast the bell. The defendant at first justified, but afterwards withdrew his plea of justification, and the case was withdrawn from the jury upon the terms of the defendant withdrawing all charges against Mr. Mears, and paying all the costs incurred. Now, when Mr. Mears was dead and gone, the defamatory statements were repeated and reiterated without regard to charity or common sense. The plaintiff's foundry was started in 1570, and was the oldest in the kingdom. A business of that sort had a continuous identity. When the firm sent out a peal of bells they had the name of Mears on them.

The learned counsel then gave a history of the first Big Ben which was cast by Warner's, and cracked before she was hung, and went on to say that a contract was made with the firm of Mears for a new bell. The defendant designed it, and it had to be made to his approval and that of the Rev. W. Taylor. The bell was cast on the 18th of April, 1858. It had an indent on its surface, which, by order of a Government official, was filled up. Soon after it developed a crack on the sound bow, opposite to that struck by the hammer at a point where witnesses would explain the two currents of vibration attained their greatest force. The hammer used with which the founders had nothing to do, was one of 7 cwt., and it was the opinion of some experts that the excessive weight of the hammer was the cause of the crack. However, on the discovery of the crack the 7 cwt. hammer was replaced by one of 4 cwt., which was still in use. On the discovery of the crack the defendant was attacked in the newspapers, and defended himself through the same medium. The strictures then passed by the defendant on Mr. Mears led to the action mentioned above. An inquiry was instituted into the state of the bell, and as a result the hammer was reduced in weight, and the bell turned round so that the crack was no longer opposite to the point where the hammer struck. Years passed, and in 1878 the controversy was re-opened. In a letter to 'The Times' the defendant used the phrase, 'the oldest and worst foundry in England,' which undoubtedly referred to the plaintiff's foundry, as he believed would be admitted by the defendant in the witness-box.

Mr. John Mears was the first witness. He said that he had been manager for his brother, but had had nothing to do with the foundry for many years. He described the casting of the bell. The proportions of metal were according to contract, viz., 22 of copper to 7 of tin. It was run into ingots, and submitted to the defendant. The metal used was the best that could be obtained. The melting was done in three furnaces, by a wood fire, and the molten metal was run into one reservoir. The defendant had said that the bell was a freer toned bell than the old one.

In cross-examination by Sir John Holker, witness said that he never heard of any holes being stopped up. If there were any, they would have been noticed when the bell was hung up.

Mr. Edward Thomas Loseby, a clock and watch maker, of Leicester, said he had seen Big Ben before the cracks were discovered, and had closely examined it afterwards. He took casts of the holes or cavities, which he now produced. The cracks were discovered by covering the bell with acid; when the bell was struck a stream of air bubbles showed themselves along the line of the cracks. There were three cracks of 6in., 7in. and 18in. in length respectively. They would not have been noticed without wetting the bell. The hammer struck exactly opposite to the 7in. crack. He said that bells were never of the same thickness all round. There was a difference of at least 1-20th of an inch, and in comparison with that the small holes or cavities were of no importance whatever.

Cross-examined by Mr. Jeune, the witness admitted that he had had a dispute with the defendant in 1851. The defendant was chairman of the Horological jury at the exhibition of 1851, and gave satisfaction to no one.

Mr. John Ismay, consulting engineer and founder, was examined as to the composition of bell metal, and the porosity and want of homogeneity described in the official report on the bell by Dr. Percy. He said the proportions of 22 of copper to 7 of tin would make a hard brittle bell metal, and in the course of setting the tin, being the lighter metal, would be found in greater quantity on the upper surface, especially on the surface of the sound bow. He examined the bell in 1851 and again in 1881. As far as he could see the cracks were unchanged. He considered the casting an excellent one.

In cross-examination, he said it was physically impossible that the metal in this case could be otherwise than porous, unless the metal cracked.

Mr. J. Jones, the contractor, who raised the bell in the tower, said the casting was an excellent one, but he considered the proportions of copper and tin were dangerous, and told defendant so.

Several other witnesses gave evidence that in their opinions the casting was a good one, and then followed a number of ringers whose names at least are familiar to readers of 'The Ringing World.'

Mr. Matthew A. Wood, examined by Mr. Russell, said that he had rung at St. Paul's, Bow, St. Michael's and All Hallows', London; also at Yarmouth, St. Gabriel's, Pimlico, St. Peter's, Norwich, and St. Stephen's, Rochester Row. He had assisted at the opening of many peals of bells, many of them coming from the Whitechapel Foundry. He had also rung on Warner's bells and Taylor's bells, and decidedly gave Mears the preference, big or little.

Cross-examined, he said he thought the words 'the oldest and worst' were intended to apply to the Whitechapel foundry. He had no doubt that Mears' was the best foundry, not the worst. He thought that many of the others were not in it at all. They might make a good bell, but casting a peal was another matter. It was very difficult for some of them to cast a peal.

Mr. Jeune: They are much the best?—Yes.

Of Warner's and Taylor's, which is the best of the two?—Warner's. Messrs. Taylor's are the worst?—I did not say that. You asked me which was the better of the two.

The Rev. F. E. Robinson and Mr. James Dwight also gave similar evidence.

Mr. William Reed, the president of the Durham and Newcastle Association of Change Ringers, testified to the excellence of Messrs. Mears' bells. In his opinion they had a distinctness of tone possessed by no other bells.

Mr. Goslin said he was manager to Messrs. Warner's when the first Big Ben was cast. He explained the process of casting, and said that the rising of the tin during cooling could be prevented, but how he preferred not to say. He thought the present Big Ben had not been properly cooled.

The plaintiff, in his evidence, said that the proportion of tin to copper in the bell was higher than he thought right, but was fixed by the contract.

Sir J. Holker, in his address to the jury, denied that it was the case that his client had waited till Mr. Mears was dead before renewing the attacks on him. He called Dr. Percy, who said that he had, at the request of the Government, made several reports on the condition of Big Ben. He had no practical experience, but expected that there was a great difficulty in preventing porosity, especially in a large casting where some of the metal cooled before the rest.—Cross-examined, he said it was a common thing to fill up holes left in casting, as could be seen in the lions in Trafalgar Square.

Mr. Taylor, of Loughborough, said that he had cast bells of 8½ tons without any difficulty, and was now preparing to cast one of 14

tions for St. Paul's Cathedral. It was quite possible to cast a homogeneous bell. Porosity was very prejudicial to tone. In cross-examination, he admitted that the Manchester hour bell was cracked. That was due to the weight of the hammer, and to no fault in casting. It was possible to conceal holes unless they were suspected and searched for.

Sir Edmund Beckett, the defendant, gave evidence. He said he had great experience of bells, and was entrusted, with Mr. Taylor (the Rev. W. Taylor, not the bell founder), with the oversight of the casting of the Westminster bells. Without their approval no payment was to be made to the contractors. He had made many experiments to find out the best proportions of copper and tin, and had analysed portions of Tom of Lincoln and other big bells. Finally, 7 of tin to 22 of copper was fixed on as most likely to give sufficient softness to prevent cracking, and sufficient hardness to give a good tone. In old bells there was more tin in proportion. He examined the bell at the foundry, and at Westminster, and was satisfied with it, especially with its tone. When he saw the bell in November, 1859, the holes were visible. There were 40 of them, and some had been stopped with zinc. If he had known what was disclosed in Dr. Percy's report he would not have withdrawn his plea of justification in the former action; He did so under advice, not understanding the dodges of common law pleadings.

In their verdict the jury found that one letter was libellous, and applied to plaintiff; the other was libellous, but did not apply to plaintiff, and that the plaintiff was entitled to £200 damages.

Judgment was entered for plaintiff accordingly.

ODD AND EVEN PEALS OF STEDMAN TRIPLES.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I observe by Mr. Parker's letter that the five-part peal he recently published, and which I also claimed, goes back to the year 1907, when it appeared in the 'Bell News,' so I presume we must both abandon our claim to it. I see that it is in my Stedman book, under the year 1913. My 'odd-bob' peal has the date 1898, and was first rung at Harborne in December of that year, and conducted by me. The 'odd and even' is, of course, much later, and bears the date 1922, when it was rung at St. George's, Southwark.

In regard to Mr. Parker's statement that the peal with only two singles and the 7th undisturbed will never be obtained, I am inclined to agree with him. I have myself tried to get it but without success.—Yours faithfully,
JOHN CARTER.

GLOUCESTER & BRISTOL DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.
CIRENCESTER BRANCH.

The annual meeting of the Cirencester Branch was held at Cirencester, and was well attended, over 40 members and friends, including the Master (Mr. A. Wright, of Painswick), representatives from Cirencester, Northleach, Fairford, Coin St. Aldwyns, Swindon and Minchenhampton being present. Watermoor bells were rung during the afternoon to Grandsire and Stedman Doubles and Triples and Bob Major, and a well-struck course of Cambridge Surprise Major was brought round.

Service was conducted at Watermoor by the Rev. A. H. Longley (curate-in-charge). Tea was followed by the business meeting, the chairman of the branch, Mr. F. Edwards, presiding. The following officers were re-elected: Chairman, Mr. F. Edwards; secretary, Mr. F. J. Lewis; member on management committee, Mr. J. Hope. Coin St. Aldwyns was chosen as the place for the next meeting.—Three honorary, two performing and two probationary members were elected.

The Parish Church bells were rung during the evening to Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Caters and Cinques.

SWINDON BRANCH.

The annual meeting of the Swindon Branch was held at Swindon. Ringing took place at Christ Church and St. Mark's during the afternoon, and tea was partaken of at the Midland Temperance Hotel, after which the business meeting was held. Mr. E. Bishop was elected to the chair, and welcomed the visitors, especially Mr. Albert Wright, of Painswick (Master of the Association).

The Branch Committee was re-elected en bloc, and Mr. E. Bishop was elected representative on the management committee.

Three new members from St. Mark's tower were elected—the two next meeting-places were chosen, viz., Brinkworth and Highworth, for February and March respectively.

Other branches are asked to note that the Swindon branch have made a rule to keep to the third Saturday in every month for their meetings, and to advertise them in 'The Ringing World.'

This concluded the business, and a return was made to the towers, where Grandsire and Stedman Caters, Kent Treble Bob, Plain Bob and Double Norwich were practised.

The following towers were represented: Blunsdon, Cirencester, Chippenham, Farrington, Fairford, Stratton St. Margaret's, Painswick, Wootton Bassett, and the two local towers.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

In a peal at Launton, Oxfordshire, Mr. Edwin Hims, of Bicester, rang the 2nd and 3rd. Very few men have rung two tower bells to a peal, Mr. J. E. Groves (Birmingham), the late Mr. J. W. Washbrook and Mr. W. Lawrence (Little Munden) being, we believe, the only others to accomplish this feat, although there are one or two ringers, in addition, who have rung touches with a rope in each hand.

Mr. C. H. Kippin writes: 'You ask, "What is-a-bello without a clapper?" We rang three hours and three minutes of Double Norwich last Saturday at the Parish Church, Croydon (tenor 31 cwt.), when the tenor clapper flew out. I am, therefore, instructed by the band to inform you.—N.B.G.'

Saturday, June 26th, has been fixed as the date for the unveiling of the war memorial of the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths, together with a tablet recording the muffled peal of Stedman Cinques rung for the death of Queen Alexandra. Both will hang on the north wall in the porch at Shoreditch Church. There will be a special service in the church, and it is hoped to have two or three towers available for ringing.

In the evening a social and musical evening is to be held at the Bedford Head Hotel, Maiden Lane, Strand, to which all members and ringers, both London and provincial ladies and gentlemen, will be heartily welcome. Detailed particulars will be given later. In the meantime ringers are asked to make a note of the date.

Having missed his last train, after ringing a peal at Limpsfield Chart, Surrey, on Saturday week, the conductor walked home—15 miles!

They did not always get their peals in the old days without labour. A peal of 'Double Bob Royal Ten-in' was called by W. D. Crofts at St. Mary's, Nottingham, on March 7th, 1791. The bells required two men on the 8th, and two on the tenor. By the way, will St. Mary's become the next peal of twelve?

One of the outstanding long lengths of the early days of ringing was the 12,602 Grandsire Caters at Norwich, rung on March 8th, 1737. Mr. Trollope has recently thrown an interesting light on this and the history of Norwich ringing in his 'Notes by the Way.'

The first peal of Grandsire Caters rung at Slepney was scored on March 8th, 1807, by the Junior Cumberlands, and exactly a year later George Gross called the first peal of Stedman Caters, at Bow, Clearyside, then only a peal of ten.

A peal of Richmond Triples was rung by the Richmond Society at Richmond, Surrey, on March 10th, 1741, or 1742—the actual year is uncertain. What method was Richmond Triples, we wonder?

The peal of Grandsire Caters at Ashton-under-Lyne last week should not have been published as a Lancashire Association peal; it should have been credited to the Ashton-under-Lyne Society only. It was the first peal of Caters by S. Holt and Miss C. Thorp.

Wireless listeners to the London Broadcasting Station on Sunday night heard some splendidly struck Stedman Triples rung at Barking.

Tickets for the Johnson Dinner on Saturday have been going 'like hot cakes,' and a splendid company is expected for this gathering. The week-end promises all its customary enthusiasm and attractions.

THE PENANCE OF AN ABSENTEE.

AFTER MANCHURIA—PARIS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—The hour approaches when all good followers of the Prophet turn their faces towards Mecca—the Johnson Dinner. I regret that on this occasion I shall again be an absentee. Like the small boy on the postcards—nobody loves me, so on the day of days I will go out into the garden and eat worms, in effect that is to say, as there is no garden to this caravansary. I will, however, go into the salle à manger and eat snails!! As penance for non-attendance.

On the last occasion that I dined in the 'Cedar Room' a certain Mancunian, the Lord Mayor's adgrandvizier, I believe, was collecting brass to buy two new 'hoss-shoes' to add to the eight existing 'hoss-shoes' which still hang in Eccles steeple. I had always thought that Eccles folk preferred cakes to bells, but, on reflection, I remembered that Eccles bells certainly did sound a bit like Eccles cakes, with the currants shaken out of them, and I should not be a bit surprised if they didn't cast that set of bells in one of their famous bakeries, out of the dough they had left over from the day before, and tuned 'em with candied peal!! Nuff said! But all the cakes are not at Eccles; that prince of cakes, Amos, found not a few cakes of the first baking at 'Brum.' I know—as I tasted some of 'em. Should he again be collecting 'currants,' please bestow upon the fund my benison, and a wish that those ten 'hoss-shoes' will eventuate some day.—Yours sincerely, Yvett's Hotel, 41, Rue Alain Chartier, Paris.

IPSWICH VETERANS.
FAMOUS PEALS RECALLED.

Forty-five years ago last Monday—namely, on March 1st, 1881—the first twelve-bell peal at the famous Church of St. Mary-le-Tower, Ipswich, was rung. It was a peal of Kent Treble Bob Maximus, and was the first in the method for the old Norwich Diocesan Association. Of the band that took part in this peal there are now only two survivors, Robert Brundle, who rang the 7th, and Edgar Pemberton, who rang the 11th. The others of the company, who have all passed away, were Daniel Prentice (composer and conductor) Henry Bevan, Isaac Alexander, Thomas Sadler, John Fosdike, William Meadows, Henry Bowell, William Catchpole, Robert Hawes and Edward Reeve. The first attempt made for the peal was on Boxing Day, 1880, and it came to an untimely end for a curious reason. An old five-bell call-change ringer was sitting in the belfry, and when things were going well, he jumped up and remarked, 'Two hours gone, gentlemen.' All eyes turned to him in astonishment at his interruption, and the peal collapsed. The next attempt was also a failure. The bells had been going for a considerable time, when the second and fifth changed course. The conductor put them back after a lead or two, and went on to the end, but some of the band very rightly objected to its being published as a peal, and said if they could ring a false one they could also ring a true one, so, after a successful peal of Royal a fortnight later, a further attempt for the Maximus was made, and the result was a peal of which all the band were proud.

Ringling history has been made at Ipswich since then but one by one the old band have passed on their way. Robert Brundle, still hale and hearty, and able to take his share in ringing, remains, with, as his sole companion of those early days, Edgar Pemberton, who, we are sorry to say, is no longer able to climb the belfry stair or handle a bell rope. At 74 years of age, Mr. Pemberton is crippled with arthritis, which prevents him going out, except in a bath chair. But while active participation in the art he loves so well is now denied him, he is still keenly interested in it, and he has many happy recollections and memorable performances to look back upon. He has kept a careful record of his peals, which, beginning with Grandsire Triples at St. John's, Waterloo Road, London, on May 22nd, 1878, number 270. That peal was nearly fifty years ago, but there are still two or three of the company left to us, the band, it is interesting to recall, being George Newson, Thomas Sadler, David Stockwood, William Coppage, Edwin Gibbs, William Baron, Edgar Pemberton and George Isley.

Mr. EDGAR PEMBERTON.

Mr. Pemberton rang in the first peals of Stedman Triples, Caters and Cinques in Suffolk; the first peals of Double Norwich Major, Royal and Maximus in that county, and the first peals of Cambridge Surprise Major, Royal and Maximus in Suffolk. The Cambridge Maximus was the first peal in the method ever rung, and in this, as in all the Surprise peals in which he took part, Mr. Pemberton rang the treble. In 1880 he rang in 7,296 and 10,272 Kent Treble Bob Major at Debenham, and he also rang in an 8,896 in the same method at Rochester Row, Westminster. He took part in a 10,176 Oxford Treble Bob Major at Uford in 1894, but he was not in the 16,608 at Debenham in 1892, although he was in two previous attempts for it at that tower, and in two others at Leiston. In each of the latter they rang over 10,000 changes and broke down. When, eventually, the peal was rung, Mr. Pemberton, whose trade is that of a carpenter, was working at Bury St. Edmund's, and was unable to take part. In long lengths of Double Norwich, Mr. Pemberton rang 6,608, 8,064 and 10,080. Thus he had a great share in the ringing which the Suffolk men of those days—men like Daniel Prentice, William Ireland, James Molts and William Catchpole, and the enthusiasts who comprised their band—made memorable.

Mr. Pemberton's peals are as follow: Kent Treble Bob Maximus, 38; Oxford Treble Bob Maximus, 3; Cambridge Surprise Maximus, 2; Double Norwich Court Bob Maximus 3; Bob Maximus 1; Stedman Cinques, 25; Grandsire Cinques, 3; Kent Treble Bob Royal, 11; Oxford Treble Bob Royal, 3; Cambridge Surprise Royal, 1; Double Norwich Court Bob Royal, 6; Bob Royal, 1; Stedman Caters, 18; Grandsire Caters, 7; Kent Treble Bob Major, 23; Oxford Treble Bob Major, 17; Bob Major, 2; Superlative Surprise Major, 9; Cambridge Surprise

Major, 9; London Surprise Major, 4; Double Norwich Court Bob Major, 38; Stedman Triples, 26; Grandsire Triples, 17; Plain Bob Triples, 1; Minor, 2—Total, 270.

Mr. Robert Brundle, while sharing in many of the peals in which Mr. Pemberton rang, has not kept such an accurate record, and he is still adding to his list. His total is now round about 280, and he hopes to reach the 300 mark. That Mr. Brundle will be spared to realise this ambition will be the wish of all his many friends.

SIMPSON TUNING.

'THE PROOF OF THE PUDDING.'

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—In connection with Mr. Walker's suggestion, I should like to state our recent experience at King's Norton. We had undoubtedly the best old peal of eight in the Birmingham district, and most ringers about here agreed on that point. On the other side of the city, we had at Erdington a modern peal of Taylor's. Living there for five years, and at King's Norton ten years, I had every opportunity of judging both peals. To my ear, Erdington were very much more musical and uniform in tone, and the tower was not one that would do them full justice. The King's Norton ringers naturally thought their old bells the finest peal in existence, but after visiting such peals as Leicester, Loughborough, Burton, Warwick, Shrewsbury, and numerous others with modern bells, they soon altered their opinions. On these outings, various officials of the church who were interested in bells accompanied us, and the question was always arising, 'Why don't our bells sound like these?' and 'These sound more like an organ than bells.' After this there was not much trouble in having our bells recast on modern principles. Certain of my Birmingham friends were very pessimistic as to the result, but now they congratulate us on what they consider the finest restoration in the district. Some of them have openly stated that they did not think such an improvement possible. If these are the class of bells that Mr. Barnett says sound like tin cans, I am surprised, and would suggest to him that he visits some of the peals mentioned, and listen to them: not ring a peal on them. Then, if he is of the same opinion, his is indeed a very sad case.

The complaints against modern tuning come chiefly from those ringers who do not happen to have such bells, and from those interested in the bell business who cannot produce them. When good old bells and peals are alluded to, we are taken from the tenor at Bow, to the eleventh at Exeter, then to Newcastle and home by Norwich, and I am convinced that it is just as far as you must go to get anything on the old system worth mentioning. The majority of the old bells are a real public nuisance, and only an ear like H. W.'s could tell which possessed the most tone, the bell or the clapper. Our old friend, 'Marble Arch,' or 'Cloches de l'Arche,' has butted in again, and I am surprised to find he is still at large. I would remind him that Simpson tuning will not do away with change ringing half so quickly as those peal-scoring fanatics who fall over each other to ring a peal on the same bells once a fortnight. To those who are contemplating having their bells recast on the modern tuning system I would say, 'Don't let these dear old gentlemen who went to Coventry influence you at all, as they were born a good many years ago.'—Yours truly,

PERCY O. LAFLIN.

SIMPSON TUNING WILL POPULARISE CHANGE RINGING.

Dear Sir,—From your correspondence on Simpson tuning it seems probable that some of the first peals cast and tuned on the principle may have been guilty of 'howling'; modern peals are not. Having rung on two peals tuned on this principle, the bells, though more resonant, offer no difficulty to good striking. A curious fact is the disagreeable fatness and deadness of an ordinary peal after becoming used to hearing Simpson-tuned bells; it is a matter of use. Contrary to some of your correspondents, I think these new bells will do more to popularise change ringing with the public than anything else.—Yours faithfully,

E. CORNER.

STOKE POGES' 'YOUNG ARABS.'

The team of young 'Arabs' who carry on the Sunday Service ringing at St. Giles' Church, Stoke Poges, made a valiant attempt for a peal of Cambridge Surprise Minor on Saturday, Feb. 20th, which ended, after 2 hours and 24 minutes' good ringing, owing to an error in the work of the last lead of the sixth 720. Each 720 was called differently, and this was the first attempt of the bob caller at the helm.

Owing to the illness of Willie Hartley, the 'boys' were much obliged to W. Hanley on the 5th for making up their team at 24 hours' notice, and they hope to complete the undertaking in the near future.

The ringers were Messrs. Stevenson (treble), Skuter, Hawkins, Atbrow, Hanley, and Gutteridge (conductor).

WORDS AND QUOTATIONS.

STEDMAN AND THE 'TINTINNALOGIA.'

There is one thing that Mr. Trollope is most anxious just now to impress upon the Exercise. That is that he, and not the Nomenclature Committee chosen for that purpose, is the only authority who always uses the correct word, and who alone can select the name which fits perfectly.

In order to show us how well he can do this, he selects from my article which appeared on January 8th some words that I wrote; many more which I did not write (as no one is likely to look up the article and compare it with his article on February 19th, this does not matter much); and out of them he makes a sentence which he puts in inverted commas, and says that I ask you to believe it.

After this exhibition of his correctness in quotation, he calls this concoction (which is due, it is to be noted, to his imagination—not mine), not unreasonably, a 'tale.' As I have before had occasion to point out, Mr. Trollope has a little weakness in the way he repeats himself. And this reminds us of the last time he called what I wrote a 'tale.'

It was in your issue for December 11th, in which he wrote a long article to show how absurd it was for me to state that in the early days of ringing there were Bob Methods, as well as Plain Changes and Cross Peals. As I pointed out on February 12th, Mr. Trollope has already had to eat those words of his. My description of Bob Methods on November 20th, was that they were 'methods that were all dodges, or as nearly so as possible.' On December 11th, in order to wallop me, Mr. Trollope makes unmerciful fun of this. But on January 15th, in describing Imperial Bob, the first Bob method, he says that besides the hunt, 'the other bells move only sufficiently to let her pass, but instead of lying still, as in plain changes, they dodge in pairs.' I do not know whether your readers will prefer my wording or Mr. Trollope's, but I can assure them that they mean the same thing. It will be noticed, however, that in order to make the eating of his words the more palatable, he omits to mention the fact that I had already drawn attention to this point, and calmly states it as if it were his own discovery.

This is not the only instance; for he does the very same thing again in the same paragraph. On December 11th he asks, 'Does Mr. Drake seriously say that Double Norwich has "shortened" dodging?' On January 15th he says that very early attempts were made to improve the Bob methods, by 'shortening the dodging.' This is exactly my argument, but he is not honest enough to admit it. Some people want to get the credit for everything.

Nothing of all this has anything to do with my statement. Even Mr. Trollope cannot disprove a theory by attempting to show that a suggested reconstruction is a 'likely tale.' My statement was that there is no evidence that Stedman wrote the 'Tintinnalogia.' That is a plain straightforward statement, and it cannot be controverted by any wriggling and squirming, such as Mr. Trollope indulges in. It can be controverted, and controverted entirely in one way, and one way only, and that is by producing such evidence. If Mr. Trollope can produce such evidence, there is nothing more to be said. I am wrong. If he cannot produce such evidence, again there is nothing more to be said. I am right.

There is only one sentence in the long article with which Mr. Trollope has inflicted us that bears on the point, and these are the words of it: 'I say that it is most certainly the work of one man.' Never was a more brilliant instance of an ipse dixit. No matter how impossible it may be, Mr. Trollope has said it, and, therefore, it must be so.

Still, it may be that even here he will eat his words, as on the occasion of the other 'likely tale.' Let him look at the title page again, and he will find three persons referred to. The author is called 'A lover of that Art.' The printer is 'W. G. at his shop in St. Dunstan's Churchyard in Fleet Street.' The publisher is 'Fabian Stedman.'

Mr. Trollope believes Stedman to have been a printer. Now, printers do not usually publish one another's books (even if ringers publish one another's discoveries). So that these three designations are, we must suppose, intended to deceive us, and really are only referring to one person. But why this foolish deception? Before Mr. Trollope can maintain that Stedman was falsely assuming either of these other designations, he must assign some reason for such an improbable suggestion. On the first page of the book is the dedication, signed by 'Campanista.' Is this a third deception? If so, why? If 'Campanista' is not intended to represent Stedman, Mr. Trollope says that this page 'simply told a lie.' The ordinary person would have said just the opposite. But then some people are so clever you can never tell what they will be saying.

Moreover, the writer of that page says distinctly that he is not a ringer, but a 'well-wisher to your recreation'; also that in writing about ringing he is 'over-belled,' by which he evidently means that he is trying to do something that he cannot manage. Mr. Trollope says that Stedman wrote this, and that he was the most brilliant and clever ringer that ever lived. I do not deny this latter statement, but if so, there are here two more deceptions. We turn a couple of pages, and we find two pages signed by 'R. R.,' who also claims the authorship of 'Grandsire Bob,' that is, a large part of the book. Is 'R. R.' also Stedman? If so, here are two more deceptions. So far we have looked at six pages only, yet if Mr. Trollope's statement is true, there are already seven deliberate, meaningless, and stupid deceptions in this book—'certainly the work of one man'!

I need not repeat my arguments any further; nor does one blame Mr. Trollope for not being able to appreciate literary criticism. But I can assure him that it is capable of quite as certain conclusions as the study of changes. Still, in order not to take an unfair advantage of him, I will let him get any competent literary critic to examine what I have written, and I am content to abide by the result.

Mr. Trollope has praised Shipway though hardly sufficiently, to my thinking. Now Shipway says that Fabian Stedman presented the College Youths, when they visited Cambridge in 1657, with his principle-rung first at St. Benet's, Cambridge, and College Hill, London. Yet Mr. Trollope declares that it was not yet composed in 1668. Why?

As for the last paragraph, I will only say that probably when he reads it again, Mr. Trollope will be ashamed of it. In my article on November 20th there was a slip of the pen which caused one sentence to be ungrammatical. Mr. Trollope quoted this sentence, and, as he thought, corrected it. Unfortunately he corrected it in the wrong place, I apologised for the slip, and I think your readers will agree that the apology was an ample one. One hates teaching people good manners in public, but one must point out that it was up to Mr. Trollope to acknowledge this courtesy; and on his part to apologise for his own misquotation, on which he had founded so much invective. Instead he writes this—which is not even true!

HERBERT DRAKE.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

SOUTH AND WEST DISTRICT AND ISLEWORTH BELLS' FUND.

The annual meeting of the South and West District of the Middlesex County Association and London Diocesan Guild was held at Isleworth on Saturday, Feb. 13th. The bells were set going soon after 3 p.m., and under the management of the Ringing Master (Mr. R. Holloway) members had an opportunity of ringing a variety of methods from Grandsire to Cambridge. A ringers' service was conducted by the Vicar, after which tea was provided in the Church Hall by the Vicar and churchwardens. The Vicar occupied the chair during the tea and business meeting that followed, supported by Mr. Edgley (churchwarden) and Mr. C. S. Bird (president). Messrs. W. Pickworth (vice-president), C. E. Coles (hon. secretary), and N. A. Tomlinson (Ringing Master of the North and East District) were among the welcome members present.

A satisfactory report for the year recorded eleven meetings held with good results, and 37 ringing members and three honorary members elected. About the same number ceased to be members owing to the non-payment of subscriptions, etc.

A vote of thanks was accorded to the officers for their services rendered during 1925, and they were re-elected for the ensuing year, viz., Messrs. J. A. Trollope, hon. treasurer; R. Holloway, Ringing Master; and W. H. Hollier, hon. secretary. Messrs. J. H. Hunnisett, H. W. Lidbetter and F. Cooke were elected on the Central Committee.

The secretary made a statement on the Isleworth Bells' Fund to augment the peal to ten; £60 has been collected or promised, but over £100 is needed before the task of collecting is over. The secretary, therefore, suggested that a committee be appointed to decide ways and means of raising the sum required, 'or otherwise.' At this point, the Vicar and churchwardens became greatly interested, and congratulated the association on raising about one-third of the amount needed, and promised to co-operate, as they were in a better position to help than a year ago. The committee appointed were: Messrs. F. Edgley (churchwarden), C. S. Bird, J. A. Trollope, R. Holloway, J. R. Mackman, T. Beadle, and the hon. secretary (Mr. W. H. Hollier). The committee earnestly appeal to all members and ringing friends to help, and, however large or small the amount may be, it will be thankfully received.

A hearty vote of thanks was accorded to the Vicar and churchwardens for their kind hospitality, which was much appreciated; also to the organist, hostess and lady assistants, and Mr. T. Beadle.—The Ringing Master and Hon. Secretary wish to offer their very best thanks to all members for their loyal support during the year.

RESTORATION OF BELLS AT ACTON, SUFFOLK.
THANKOFFERING FOR FAMILY'S ESCAPE FROM TOKIO EARTHQUAKE.

Saturday, February 13th, was a notable day in the history of the little village of Acton, for it saw the consummation of a work which, for many months past, had been the main interest of every one of the parishioners. Every seat in the church was occupied when the Ven. Archdeacon of Sudbury dedicated the peal of five bells. Owing to its unsafe condition, the tower was pulled down in 1885, and, according to the memory of old parishioners, change ringing had ceased at this tower some twenty years before. Three years ago, Mr. J. K. Rodwell, a descendant of the well-known local family of Kerington, whose memorial is to be seen in the church, paid a visit to the parish, and during his stay offered to supply the timber needed for a bell frame from his Acton estate. The first movement was to raise funds for the rebuilding of the tower. The required sum was soon to hand, and the tower was completed, and dedicated by the Archdeacon of Sudbury on All Saints' Day, 1924. Mr. Rodwell, so impressed with the success attained, generously renewed a previous offer to reling the bells at his own expense. This generous offer was gratefully accepted, with the happy results above-mentioned. The massive bell frame was made by Messrs. A. Brown and Sons, of Acton, and the work of reling and rehanging was carried out by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank, of the Whitechapel Foundry.

The inscriptions on the bells are as follows:—

- Treble.—'John Thornton made me 1716.'
- 2nd.—'Nicholas Kerington, Miles Gray, made me 1679.'
- 3rd.—'Miles Gray made me 1663.'
- 4th.—'Tho. Gardiner, Peccit, 1747.'
- Tenor.—'Miles Gray made me 1687. God save the King.'

A tablet, bearing the following inscription, has been fixed on the interior of the tower: 'To the Glory of God these bells were rung in January, 1926, by J. K. Rodwell, of Baberg Hall, as a thank-offering for the escape of his son, H. J. Rodwell, and his family, in the earthquake at Tokio, Japan, Sept. 1st, 1923, the tower having been restored in 1923 by the efforts of the parishioners. — A. C. Harpur, Vicar; A. J. Wildman, A. Webb, Churchwardens; A. Hunt, G. L. Coates, architects; A. Brown and Sons, builders.'

The service took the form of evensong, the Rev. A. C. Harpur officiating. Appropriate lessons were read by the Revs. Dr. H. F. Banham, R.D., and Bankes-Williams, late Vicar of Acton. The hymns sung were, 'We love the place, O God,' 'When morning gilds the sky,' 'O God, our help, in ages past,' and 'Now thank we all our God.' The choir sang the hymn, 'Hark! the concert of the Bells,' the solo being excellently taken by Mrs. Harpur, L.R.A.M. After this hymn, the Archdeacon, accompanied by the Vicar, proceeded to the tower, where the bells and also a new flag for the tower were dedicated, Archdeacon Farmiloe delivered a short but stirring address, selecting his text from 1 Chronicles, xxix. 9.

Immediately after the service, the bells were opened by the Little Waidingfold band. Other towers represented were Sudbury, Lavenham, Long Melford, Cornard, Cavendish, Glemsford, Henny, Assington, etc. In the evening a tea and social were held in the Schools. A pleasing feature at this gathering was a charmingly decorated table, at which were entertained free all Acton parishioners 70 years of age and upwards. The oldest were a married couple, both of whom are over 90 years of age.

In the course of a genial speech, Archdeacon Farmiloe said he would always regard Acton people as an example of perseverance in connection with their parish church.

Touches of Grandsire, Plain Bob and St. Simon's Doubles were rung on the bells.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.
NEWBURY BRANCH.

A meeting of the Newbury Branch was held at East Ilsley on Saturday, February 13th, when over 30 members attended from Newbury, Woolton Hill, Highclere, Brightwalton, Bucklebury, Beedon, Pease-more, Compton, and the local band. The service was conducted by the Rector (the Rev. A. Ogle), who also gave an address. Tea was served in the Old School Room, the catering by Mrs. W. Hilbert being much appreciated. At the business meeting, Mr. R. T. Hilbert presided, in the absence of the Rev. L. R. Majendie (chairman of the branch).—The Hon. Secretary reported two deaths, namely, Mr. W. A. Dormer of Newbury tower, and Mr. F. Vokins, formerly of Chieveley, and all present stood in silence for a few moments as a token of respect.

Shaw was proposed for the next meeting, on April 24th, and Bucklebury for the summer meeting, on June 19th (if convenient).

A hearty vote of thanks was accorded to the Rector for the use of the bells and for his address; also to the organist, and to the ladies for providing such an excellent tea.

Touches of Grandsire and Stedman Triples and Bob Major were rung during the afternoon and evening. The Master (the Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn) and general treasurer (Mr. Wright) were present in the afternoon, but had to leave after the service.

LEICESTER RINGERS ORGANISE DINNER.
PROPOSED ANNUAL GATHERING.

On Wednesday of last week ringers of Leicester and District assembled round the festive board, and it is hoped to make the gathering an annual event. The dinner was held at the Anchor Hotel, Leicester, a company of forty, including ringers, from Anstey, Belgrave, Humberstone, St. Saviour's, St. Margaret's, St. Martin's and St. John's, Leicester, and friends. Mr. William Willson was voted to the chair, and referred with pleasure to the fact that after nearly half a century such a gathering had come about. That was the first dinner of its kind in Leicester, and he hoped they would meet again in future years, with a more numerous company.

The toast of 'The King' was honoured, and the Paradise Mission Handbell Ringers, under the conductorship of P.C. Harold Poole, entertained the party to some excellent selections. Songs were rendered by Mrs. F. Howe, Messrs. W. Clarke, J. Morris, T. H. Vallance and Mr. Roseviar.

The chairman, having to leave early, handed over his duties to Mr. F. H. Dexter, who, report says, carried on to the 'bitter' end.

Det.-Sgt. Jenny, who proposed a vote of thanks to the artistes and the host, said he felt that all should be better for such occasions as that. Rivalries would then be understood, and not lead to ill-feeling or jealousy.

A most enjoyable evening was spent, and the thanks of the company are due to Mr. Jenny and Mr. W. Willson, junr., for bringing the event to a successful issue.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD.

A quarterly meeting of the North Dorset branch of the Salisbury Guild was held at Motcombe on February 13th. Fifty members were present, representing 14 towers. In addition to the six bells in Motcombe Church tower, those in the towers of Holy Trinity (6) and St. Peter's (6), Shaftesbury, were used by the members. At the Guild service the Rev. E. C. King (Vicar) gave an address. Mr. and Mrs. King very kindly catered for the tea, and only charged the branch what it actually cost, which was a great saving to the branch funds.

After tea, there was a short business meeting, at which the secretary presented his balance sheet for 1925, which showed a balance in hand of £1 13s. 7d. Two new members were elected from Shroton.

This peal contains 2,528 changes of each method.

Double Norwich and Bob Major courses, even against even, are false to a considerable extent. The principle which ensures the truth of the above composition was pointed out, in relation to plain Minor Methods, by Mr. E. H. Lewis in 1912, see 'Spliced Methods,' paragraph 9 on page 14.

The above peal was rung at St. Ignatius' Church, Sunderland, on Feb. 25th, 1926, conducted by the composer.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD FESTIVAL. BANBURY BRANCH PROPOSE CHANGE OF DATE.

A quarterly meeting of the Banbury and District Branch was held at Cropredy on Saturday, January 30th, when upwards of forty ringers assembled, the following towers being represented: Adderbury, Banbury, Cropredy, Great Tew, Wardington, Warmington, and Summer-ton. The bells were kept going for an hour prior to service, Bob Minor, Grandsire Doubles, and Stedman Doubles being the methods favoured. The service was conducted by the Rev. G. Barr (Vicar of Cropredy), and an appropriate address given by the Rev. C. F. Cholmondeley, chairman of the branch. After service, the party were hospitably entertained to tea by the Vicar of Cropredy. The business meeting was presided over by the Rev. G. F. Cholmondeley, supported by the Master and general secretary.

Seventeen new members were elected, and Great Tew was chosen as the next place of meeting.

The following was passed as a recommendation to be sent to the Guild secretary for consideration by the Guild Committee: 'That this branch recommend the following amendment to Rule X, line two, Guild rules. Delete the words "in July," and substitute "1st Monday in August," the amended rule to read, "The annual festival and general meeting shall be held on the first Monday in August at the place selected," etc., etc.

The Master, in a few congratulatory remarks, pointed out the absence of young faces, and urged the desirability of getting young men to take up ringing.

The usual votes of thanks brought a most enjoyable and successful meeting to a close. The tower was then again visited, and the bells kept going till a late hour.

PORTISHEAD BAND ELECTS MORE LADY RINGERS.

The annual meeting of the Portishead Society was held on January 19th, when the attendance included the president (the Rev. H. W. Jukes, M.A., Rector), the churchwardens, and Messrs. Harris and Wilkins. Before commencing the business, the captain (Mr. W. Gillingham) asked the Rector to unveil the new peal tablet, erected in memory of the late churchwarden, Mr. R. Hudleston. The captain thanked the Church Council for their individual contributions, which totalled half the cost of the peal tablet.—The report for 1925 was read by the captain, who welcomed the return of Miss Crocker and Mrs. Edwards. The outing to Malvern had been a most enjoyable one, as also was the visit to Tewkesbury Abbey. The chief local event of the year was the opening of the new peal at Clevedon Old Parish Church. This was celebrated by ringing a quarter-peal, and also (at a later date) a peal. The latter was rung by the local Portishead band, and the Rector of Clevedon (the Rev. Badcock) gave permission for a peal tablet to be erected in that belfry. The attendances for 1925 were good. The bells had been rung on 148 occasions, this being eight less than 1924, owing to illness near the church.

The president thanked the captain for his report, and said he was very pleased they had had such a successful and happy year.—The treasurer's account showed a balance of about £2.—All the officers were re-elected, and Misses Hillman and Jefferies were elected as probationers.

Thanks were accorded to the ringers for their services, and to the chairman for presiding.

By request the handbells were rung, and all the visitors were very interested.

SOCIETY FOR THE ARCHDEACONRY OF STAFFORD.

A quarterly meeting was held at Wednesbury, and a fair number of members attended. A service was held in church, at which the Vicar (the Rev. H. W. Jones) officiated, and gave an address. A capital tea was provided in the Parochial Hall, the Vicar presiding.—A vote of thanks to him for his address, use of the bells, etc., and to the ladies who had prepared tea and waited at the tables, was carried with applause.

A move was made to the church again, when the Vicar explained some interesting items connected therewith.

The bells were made good use of during the afternoon and evening, and among touches in various methods was one of Cambridge Surprise Major.

The next meeting is provisionally fixed to take place at Stafford on April 17th.

PETERBOROUGH DIOCESAN GUILD.

A very pleasant meeting of the Peterborough Branch was held at Chatteris on Saturday, January 23rd, members and friends attending from Peterborough, Long Stanton, Willingham, Somersham, and the local band. A short business meeting followed tea, when two new members were made. Some good ringing was done during the afternoon and evening, the methods ranging from Plain Bob to London Surprise.

SUNDAY SERVICE TOUCHES.

We regret that, owing to the demands upon the space available for Sunday Service Touches, we are unable to undertake to insert anything less than a quarter-peal on eight bells and upwards, and 720 of Doubles or Minor. Many correspondents send us quite short touches for publication and they must not be disappointed if we are unable to find room for them.

FALSE PEAL.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I am sorry to have to give notice that the peal of Double Norwich C.B. Major rung at Whalley, Lancashire, on Dec. 19th, 1925, was false, and I offer every apology to those who rang in it. The peal is No. 158, C.C. Collection, Section III., 5,088, by A. B. Carpenter, there being a repetition in the 3rd and 13th courses.—Yours faithfully,

ARTHUR TOMLINSON.

Blackburn, Lancs.
[All conductors, before calling peals from the C.C. Collection, should obtain from the Librarian (the Rev. G. W. O. Jenkyn, Broadlands, Caversham, Reading), the Corrigenda Leaflets, showing the false peals, etc., which have been discovered since publication of the books. The Corrigenda is only 2d.—Ed. 'R.W.']

DEATH OF A BROUGHTON ASTLEY RINGER

The death took place, on February 18th, of Mr. Robert C. Turrell, a regular ringer at St. Mary's Church, Broughton Astley, at the early age of 22 years, following an operation for appendicitis, at the Royal Infirmary, Leicester. A large number of friends were present at the interment in the churchyard on Feb. 22nd, the service, which was fully choral, being conducted by the Rector (the Rev. B. W. Machin), who expressed the deepest sympathy with the family in the loss of such a promising young life, so suddenly cut down.

The numerous floral tributes included a lovely cross from the Rector, bell ringers and choirmen. In the evening, following the interment, 720 changes were rung on the church bells, being 120 Plain Bob Doubles, 120 Canterbury Doubles and 480 Grandsire Doubles, with the bells half-muffled as a last token of respect, by C. Carr 1, J. Brunt 2, A. Woadden 3, F. Bodycote 4, H. Bird (conductor) 5.

SPliced METHOD RINGING.

There are many ringers who look upon 'spliced' method ringing as something, interesting perhaps, but rather freakish. It is, however, far removed from that category, and is almost certain to become a matter of regular and general practice in the not very distant future. There are many living to-day who remember when Surprise methods were looked upon as 'crank' stuff, and it was not until the closing years of the last century that ringers began to treat peals in these more advanced methods as anything beyond the hobby of the interested few. Gradually, however, thanks to Snowdon's 'Standard Methods,' and a spirit of emulation among those who showed a real enthusiasm in the art, the practice of Surprise ringing has spread until now no ringer's education is considered complete until he is at least conversant with the best known of the Surprise methods.

By the same process 'spliced' method ringing may be expected to develop. At present it is practised by but few, and that principally in six-bell towers. The obvious reason of this is that very little of the system of joining up a number of methods into true touches or peals has hitherto been understood, and it has been chiefly in connection with Minor methods that the idea has been applied. In this department the adoption of the principle offers almost as great a scope in variety as the construction of methods themselves, and, while the crowding of forty or fifty methods into a peal of 5040 changes may at present be looked upon merely as a curiosity, the practice of changing to two or three methods in the course of each 720 is a plan which adds immensely to the interest.

In its application to eight bell ringing, the system is proceeding more slowly. At present constant changes of method in the course of a peal are limited to one or two types, as in Spliced Superlative and Cambridge, or in Mr. Pitman's plan of joining up plain Triple methods, which are changed according to the bell in the hunt. The splicing of plain Major methods, like that of Double Norwich and Plain Bob, which was published in our last issue, offers certain stumbling-blocks to frequent switching over, but probably when the new 'Collection of Plain Major Methods,' which is to see the light in the near future, makes its appearance a wider scope will offer itself, just as the 'Collection of Minor Methods' revealed the possibilities in six-bell ringing. We would suggest that the committee, which has in hand the preparation of this publication, should, either by grouping, or by an index, indicate which of the methods can be spliced into true peals. The whole subject is one of fascinating interest, and its practical application, so far as Minor ringing is

A FALLING OFF IN THE READING BRANCH.

The annual meeting of the Reading Branch of the Oxford Diocesan Guild was held on Saturday, February 6th, at Reading. The programme commenced with ringing at St. Mary's, St. Giles' and St. Laurence's Churches, from 3 p.m. until 5 p.m., Doubles, Triples and Caters being rung. A well-attended service was held at St. Laurence's, at which the Master of the Guild (the Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn) officiated, and the Vicar (the Rev. J. T. Mumford) gave an appropriate address.

A party of 66 sat down to tea at the Central Cafe, members being present from Ivor, Goring, Newbury, Mortimer, Henley, Checkendon, Purley, Caversham, Tilehurst, and the three central towers mentioned above.

At the business meeting which followed, all the officers were re-elected, with the exception of Mr. J. R. Mackman on the general committee, he having left the diocese. Mr. H. Tucker was elected in his place.

The chairman (Mr. W. P. Routh) wished to retire after 15 years' keen and faithful service. His resignation was received with regret, and he was then unanimously elected hon. president. The Rev. J. T. Mumford was elected chairman of the branch.

The secretary's report showed a small decrease in the number of members, and a considerable drop in the number of peals rung by the branch, while the attendances at combined practices were very poor. After considerable discussion it was decided to hold quarterly meetings instead of combined practices, and the three places chosen for 1926 were Tilehurst, Mortimer and Henley.

Following the business meeting, the members were entertained with a pianoforte solo by Mrs. Wood, a vocal duet by Mr. and Miss Pike, and songs by Mrs. F. W. Lane, Miss Pike, and Messrs. A. W. Pike, J. Goodenough, H. Simmonds, and the Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn, Mrs. Wood being the accompanist. Thanks were tendered to all the above for their kind services.

DUAL CELEBRATION AT ECCLESFIELD.

RINGERS' 'JUBILEE.'

On Saturday, February 13th, a very interesting event took place at Ecclesfield, when a supper was held to celebrate the occasion of 50 years' service as change ringers of Mr. William Turton and Mr. Sam Hemmingfield. The bells of the 'Minster of the Moors' were thrown open to all visitors during the afternoon, during the course of which a date touch of 1,926 changes of Kent Treble Bob Major was well rung by a mixed band.

In the evening, at the Black Bull Hotel, guests assembled from Sheffield Cathedral, St. Marie's, All Saints', and Norton, reinforced by members of the local company and sports club, and other residents of the township of Ecclesfield. A big fire, spotless table cloths, and an appetising smell, greeted all who entered the large dining-room, and Yorkshire and season pudding, served in double quick time, followed by roast beast heart, vegetables of all kinds and apple pudding, satisfied the pangs of hunger in a very satisfactory manner. Owing to the generosity of the local residents who had given all the food required, the charge for this sumptuous repast was only three-pence per head.

Tables cleared and pipes lit, everyone settled down to enjoy a really good night, local talent being to the fore with entertainment of all kinds.

A good course of Grandsire Caters opened the proceedings, followed by 'The Wolf,' sung in splendid style by Mr. Bingham, who sang as an encore 'Asleep in the Deep.' The singer could not have been more than 4ft. 10in. in height, but the depth and volume of his voice were simply astounding. Mr. R. Harper then obliged with two songs, by Sims Reeves, to which he gave full effect with his beautiful tenor voice. And so the evening was spent until D.O.R.A. put her foot down, when, with handshakes and good wishes, the visitors wended their way home.

Both Mr. Turton and Mr. Hemmingfield have passed their 75th birthday, but the latter, owing to failing health, was unable to be present. His 'inner needs' were, however, seen to by the kindly thought of the hostess, Mrs. Jackson, to whom many thanks are due for the efficient way in which she catered for all.

During the course of the evening, Mr. Willey presented, on behalf of the local company, a briar pipe in case to Mr. Turton, and Mr. Willis Whitham also received one on behalf of his father-in-law, Mr. Sam Hemmingfield.

The thanks of all present are due to the Ecclesfield company and local residents for their generous hospitality, and to the entertainers for the excellent fare they provided.

HANDBELL RINGING IN NEW ZEALAND.

At Dunedin, N.Z., on Tuesday, January 26th, at the residence of J. S. Wilde, on handbells, 720 of Bob Minor: Charles Wilde 1—2, James Kemp (conductor) 3—4, James S. Wilde 5—6.

NOTES BY THE WAY.

WILLIAM SHIPWAY AND SOME OF HIS PEALS.

By J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

Among the names of the distinguished ringers of the past, few hold a more honourable position than that of William Shipway, and to few of our predecessors do we owe more for the advancement of ringing than to him. He was a practical ringer of considerable ability, and a composer of much more than average talent, but his chief claim to be remembered lies in the fact that he was the author of a book on change ringing, which was for long the standard text book, and which, on its own lines, and within its own limits, has never been surpassed.

William Shipway was born in the city of Bath on September 29th, 1760, three weeks before the peal of Imperial at St. Giles', Norwich, began the second period in the history of the Norwich Scholars; four years after the death of Benjamin Annable, and about twenty years after the birth of John Reeves. He was apprenticed to a certain Mr. Handcock, a cabinet maker, who was also sexton to the Abbey Church. His master employed him, no doubt, to do odd jobs in the tower, and this brought him into contact with the ringers. He soon, as he tells us, 'became much attached to the art, in which he made such proficiency as to have rung as far as Treble Bob Royal before he left the city.'

Ringling got to be a passion with him, and, though Bath 'had a respectable and able band,' he soon reached their limits, and, finding that 'the art did not improve so rapidly as he wished,' he decided to leave the town for London. He reached the Metropolis on July the 29th, 1785, and joined the Junior Society of the Cumberlands. With them he rang about nine peals, two of them in the first year of his arrival in London, one 5,248 of Oxford Treble Bob at St. Matthew's, Bethnal Green, the other, 5,184 Grandsire Cinques, at Southwark. In the next year he rang three peals, one of Grandsire Triples and two of Oxford; and in 1786 also three peals.

Two of these latter were of more than ordinary interest. The first was 8,448 of Kent, at St. Mary's, Whitechapel. This was John Reeves' composition, and was, at the time, the longest peal composed or rung with the tenors together in the methods. For some reason or other it was not included in the Junior Cumberlands' peal book. The other was a peal of Double Norwich Court Bob Major, and was the second known to have been rung in that method, the first being the 6,720 by the Norwich Scholars, at St. Michael's Coslany, in 1771. The following is the record of the 1786 peal from the Junior Cumberlands' peal book: 'St. Matthew's, Bethnal Green, 11th April, 1786. The society rang a true and complete peal of 5,440 changes of Norwich Court Bob Major in 3 hours and 33 minutes. Performed by Chas. Burt treble, Anth. Cavalier 2, Wm. Shipway 3, Daniel Mallen 4, G. Gross, jun., 5, William Gibson 6, John Wooding 7, G. Gross, sen., tenor. Composed and called by G. Gross, sen. N.B.—The first peal ever rang in that method.'

Two years later the Senior Society of Cumberland Youths rang 5,040 of the same method at the same church, and claimed it as the first true peal rung in London. This seems to show that the other was false, either in composition or execution, and this is corroborated by the fact that Shipway makes no reference to it in his book.

In 1788 Shipway joined the Senior Society of Cumberlands, and remained with them till his death. Altogether he rang sixty-two peals with that society. The first was 5,184 of Stedman Caters, at St. Leonard's, Shoreditch, in 1788; the last, 5,040 Stedman Triples, at St. James', Clerkenwell, in 1834. His first peal as conductor was one of Grandsire Caters in 1792, and altogether he called seventeen peals.

The following are the records of the most interesting of his peals: 'St. Saviour's, Southwark, on Monday, May the 7th, the society rang a true peal of 5,112 Grandsire Bob Maximus in 4 hours and 10 minutes, being the first in that method:

Call'd by J. Reeves	1	Thos. Reeves	7
Rd. Bartell	2	Wm. Shipway	8
Will. Gibson	3	Abrhm. Smith	9
Will. Richardson	4	Mali Channon	10
John Darby	5	W. Stephens	11
J. Frazier	6	Thor. Mariss	12

The method was undoubtedly Grandsire Maximus. If it had been rung sixty years earlier under the name of Grandsire Bob we should have known that it was Plain Bob Maximus.

'At St. John's, Hackney, Tuesday, 17th February, 1801, the society rang a true peal of Triples, 5,040, on a new principle that reverses the present system of ringing by dodging, in 3 hours 46 minutes, without a dodge:—

T. East	Treble	T. Freeth	5
F. Poulden	2	J. Hints	6
G. Gross	3	W. Shipway	7
S. Cowling	4	C. Earl	Tenor

The principle of this peal being by place-making, and is the first peal ever rung in the method. The society, to commemorate the Union of Great Britain and Ireland, entitled it Cumberland Imperial Place Triples, composed and called by W. Shipway (without a single), the author of this system of ringing.'

The following is a lead of the method:—

Bobs and Singles as in Bob Triples.

The method, it will be noticed, is not a good one. Shipway does, indeed, get his 5,040 without a dodge, but to manage that he has to let a bell lie behind for three consecutive blows, and he has to make sixth's place when the treble is not behind. These things would now, and, I think, always, be considered serious defects. Purists, too, have never been able to tolerate a seven-bell method in which the changes are not continuous triple changes, and dodging is, musically, one of the charms of ringing, a thing to be encouraged, not to be done away with. It is possible, however, to get interesting and musical methods without dodging, and last year at Willesden we all but rang a peal in a Major method which has no dodging.

The composition of Shipway's peal was a three-part, a clever production, in which the out-of-course course-ends are produced by making the seventh run in and out at bobs. Shipway seems to have been rather proud of the place method, and he also called a peal of Major, and one of Caters. The first was at St. Mary's, Islington, the second at St. Leonard's, Shoreditch, both in 1802.

'St. Mary's, Lewisham, Kent, Sunday, September 15th, 1816, the society rang a true peal of Grandsire Triples, being the first ever rang with all bobs containing 5,040 changes, in 3 hours.

The performers were: W. Crosswick treble, W. Shipway 2, R. Otley 3, T. Freeth 4, J. Glide 5, E. Taylor 6, F. Mathew 7, R. Margetts tenor. Mr. William Shipway, conductor.'

The composition was the well-known five-part one by Shipway. He obtained it from Holt's Ten-part. Each part consists of one part of the Ten-part, and its reverse, with the addition of a Fifth's Place bob. Shipway was evidently very proud of this composition. He says: 'I shall conclude Grandsire Triples with the above 5,040 in five parts, which may be considered as the ne plus ultra of composition in this admirable method, it being produced without a single, which was never before attained, although it has long been an object of research. The author composed this peal purposely for the present work; his wish to render it as complete as possible induced him to make the attempt, though its accomplishment has somewhat retarded the publication.'

E. Taylor, who rang the 6th at Lewisham, was the composer of the well-known Bob and Single peal of Grandsire Triples, and of several peals of Bob Major of more than usual interest. He seems to have been a Greenwich man, and was at one time the leading ringer and conductor of the Eastern Scholars.

Quex House, Isle of Thanet, Kent (the seat of John P. Powell, Esq.), on Wednesday, August 4th, 1819, the society rang on that gentleman's new peal of twelve bells in a steeple erected for the purpose in his park, a true peal of Grandsire Cinques, consisting of 5,213 changes, composed in the titum position, having the eighth behind the eleventh throughout, in 3 hours 39 minutes:—

G. Gross	Treble	T. Freeth	7
J. Nash	2	T. Ovenden	8
W. Shipway	3	J. Stickbury	9
J. Hints	4	J. Riley	10
P. Jones	5	T. Grainger	11
J. Blacklock	6	F. Matthew	Tenor

Mr. George Gross, conductor. This is the first peal on these twelve bells. The like is not to be found in the three kingdoms of a private gentleman erecting a steeple and having a peal of twelve bells for his own amusement, nor likewise a peal of that light weight hung for ringing. Tenor 15 cwt. Key of F.'

'St. Leonard's, Shoreditch, Cumberland Youths. This inscription will hand to posterity the unparalleled abilities displayed in the performance of a peal that was rung in this steeple on Tuesday, 7th April, 1801, a 5,220 changes of Court Bob Royal, in 3 hours 27 mins., being the first ever rang by any society in that intricate method. Composed and called by Geo. Gross, sen. Mr. George Lassigned, Master.

'St. James', Clerkenwell, Wednesday. The following members of the Cumberland Society rang a peal of 5,040 Triples upon Stedman's principle, in 3 hours 15 minutes, viz.:-

W. H. Burwash .....	Treble	W. Kelliatt .....	5
H. Pratt .....	2	W. Ludford .....	6
W. Shipway .....	3	A. G. Frost .....	7

Conducted by Mr. W. H. Burwash. The above is the original composition of Mr. William Shipway, with 362 calls, and is the first time it was rung, and the first peal of Stedman Triples by this society.'

J. Miller, who rang the fourth, was something of a composer, but is better known as a man who varied other men's compositions, and, as possibly allowed by the standards of the time, passed them on as his own. Three notable peals were rung at Benington, in Herts, all as the composition of Miller. The Superlative in 1855 was the reverse of a peal by John Cox, which again really belonged to Benjamin Thackrah; the London in 1870 was the reverse of a peal by W. Harrison; and the Cambridge in 1873 was Middleton's peal begun at a different course end. Another peal (of Double Norwich), rung at Saffron Walden in 1817, composed and conducted by Miller, was the simplest variation of Annable's Three-part peal of Bob Major.

John Cox, who rang the tenor at Clerkenwell, afterwards became the leading man among the Cumberlands. This was his third peal.

Other notable peals in which Shipway took part were 6,360 Oxford Treble Hob Royal, at Christ Church, Spitalfields, in 1793; 5,120 Cumberland Treble Bob, at Edmonton, in 1795; 10,008 Bob Major, at the same church and in the same year; 5,104 London Court Bob, at St. John's, Hackney, in 1801; 7,104 Treble Bob Maximus, at Southwark, in 1804; 7,104 Stedman Cinques, at Spitalfields, in 1806; and 6,000 Treble Bob Maximus, at Shoreditch, in 1809.

The Stedman Triples at Clerkenwell was his last peal. He died in 1842, aged 82.

FALSE PEAL OF DOUBLE NORWICH.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—In reference to the false peal of Double Norwich that was rung in Lancashire last year, and withdrawn in the last number of 'The Ringing World,' the peal is perfectly true if a single is called at 1 instead of 6. (See peal 162, which was rung for the first time at Mitcham, Surrey, 1903, conducted by Mr. W. Pye.) The note under the peal is entirely wrong, and I can assure your readers it was not my doing. All I can put it down to is a typographical error. When the collection of peals was published in 1908, I wrote the late Dr. Carpenter, asking if peal 158 had been rung or published. He replied in the negative. I also wrote to 'The Bell News' withdrawing all claim to it.—Yours faithfully,
J. HUNT.
Taunton.

SUSSEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION.
WESTERN DIVISION ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual meeting of the Western Division was held at Angmering on Saturday, February 20th, when just over 30 members were present from Angmering, Arundel, Chichester, Aldrington, Heene, Lyminster, Shoreham, West Tarring and Havant, and Mr. F. Beckett, of Oxford. During the afternoon several Minor methods were practised, also Doubles and rounds for beginners.—At the church room they were met and welcomed by the Rector (the Rev. T. L. Palmer) and Mr. J. H. Loveys, churchwarden, who had provided an excellent tea.

At the business meeting, with the Rector presiding, the following new members were elected: E. C. Hills and R. P. Reene, of Angmering; Arthur Holden and Sidney James Broadbridge, of Pulborough; H. Hunt, of Lyminster; A. Dawkes, of West Tarring, and Clarence Dobbie.

The following officers were re-elected for the ensuing year, viz.: Mr. A. W. Groves, district secretary; Messrs. Challen, Lindup and Doick, committee; and Messrs. Charman, Burdfield and Burtenshaw, committee of advice.

It was proposed to hold the next quarterly meeting at Pulborough. A hearty vote of thanks was accorded the Rector for presiding, and granting the use of the bells, and providing the tea. That gentleman having suitably responded, the company paid a further visit to the belfry, and the bells were kept busy for another hour or two.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

We are able to publish this week the details of the peal rung in September last at Melbourne, Australia. Apparently the report sent by the secretary got lost at sea.

At present the Melbourne band, when they are able to meet, which is not regularly on account of the distances at which the members live, are practising Grandsire Caters and Stedman Triples.

The four old bells at Burmarsh, Kent, have been recast and rehung, with the addition of two new trebles, by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank. The tenor is 10 cwt. The bells will be dedicated on Saturday, March 20th, at 3 p.m.

The many ringing friends of Mr. Fred Chamberlain, who is now lying in Cardiff Infirmary, and who recently met with a serious railway accident, may be pleased to know that he is making excellent progress. He is deeply grateful to all who have made and sent inquiries, and to those who have visited him.

The first peal of Treble Bob Maximus, which would, of course, have been in what we know as the Oxford variation, was rung at Southwark on March 12th, 1758, by the College Youths.

On March 13th, 1849, the College Youths rang a peal of 7,040 Kent Treble Bob Major at St. Peter's, Walworth, a tower which appears to be 'coming into the picture' again.

The first peal on the twelve bells of St. Martin's-in-the-Fields, Trafalgar Square, was rung by the London Scholars on March 14th, 1727. This was a 6,006 Grandsire Cinques, and on the following day the College Youths rang a 6,314 in the same method.

A peal of 10,133 Grandsire Caters was rung at Christ Church, Bristol, on March 14th, 1837.

March 16th is the anniversary of a peal of 10,080 Bob Major at Debenham, rung in the year 1767. It was accomplished by a local band, and is significant from the following note appended to the record: 'This peal was excellently completed in six hours and one minute, a performance never before accomplished by eight men without assistance to ye great bells.'

Eighty years ago next Wednesday, 7,025 Stedman Caters was rung at All Saints', Poplar, 'the first time the extent of 60 courses (out of course) has ever been rung.' It was composed and conducted by H. W. Haley.

At the famous church in the Bull Ring, Birmingham the first peal of Duffield Maximus was rung on March 17th, 1891.

Illness has compelled Mr. D. J. Nichols, of Kettering, to resign the secretaryship of the Peterborough Diocesan Guild and Mr. R. G. Black is carrying out the duties pro tem.

The attention of readers is directed to the alteration of date in the Coalbrookdale bells opening. It will take place on April 17th, but the other arrangements will stand as advertised.

Mr. W. Keeble rang his one hundredth peal of Superlative Surprise on Saturday. This century has been distributed over 61 towers in 16 counties.

SHEFFIELD DISTRICT SOCIETY AT BOLSOVER. THE COMING CUP CONTEST.

With ideal weather and a grand peal of eight bells, members of the Sheffield District Society spent a very pleasant time at Bolsover on Saturday, March 6th, when 50 ringers were present from Chesterfield, Dore, Eckington, Ecclesfield, Handsworth, Killanursh, Rotherham, Sheffield Cathedral, St. Marie's, Sheffield, and North Wingfield. About a dozen learners were present, and took many advantages of the opportunities offered with experienced ringers to guide them through their courses, and if the present rate of progress is continued the society will have very little difficulty in finding aspirants to the art ready to fill the gaps which the hand of fate so consistently makes.

Tea was served in the Church Hall, where the Vicar, the Rev. Joseph Pagat, extended a hearty welcome to all, and in his address at the business meeting appealed to ringers in general to give their very best ringing for Sunday services. The congregation would then not only realise that the ringers had the cause of the church at heart, but it would be a direct incentive in filling the church with worshippers, thus giving encouragement and confidence to the preacher.

The secretary announced that the annual cup contest would be held again in June, and in order that more companies might enter, it has been decided that entrants, whether belonging to a 6, 8, 10 or 12-bell tower, could give their exhibition of ringing on either 6 or 8 bells, at their own option. Members are reminded that all applications for entry must be in the secretary's hands for the annual meeting in May, when the tower chosen for the event will be announced.

Thanks were accorded to the Vicar and churchwardens for their presence and welcome; to the ladies for their untiring labours at tea-time; and to the local company for the excellent arrangements made in the ringing chamber.

Ringings continued until 8.30 p.m., the methods ranging from Treble Bob Minor to London and Bristol Surprise Major.

THE JOHNSON COMMEMORATION DINNER.

LAST SATURDAY'S GATHERING AT BIRMINGHAM.

The sustained popularity of the annual gathering at Birmingham, commemorating that grand old man of the ringing Exercise, Henry Johnson, was never better displayed than during the last week-end, when over a hundred and fifty ringers, representative not only of Birmingham itself but of many of the important Guilds and Associations throughout the country, assembled to do honour to the memory of one of the most remarkable and distinguished, as well as the most lovable of men who have ever adorned the ranks of the Exercise. In these days, perhaps, the event has taken on a wider aspect, but the spirit which prompted the originators of the gathering, to keep alive the memory of one who was a giant among the men of his day and generation, is still faithfully maintained, and the occasion loses none of its intention by reason of its greater social appeal. Visitors to the city found a welcome awaiting them at the belfries of St. Martin's, the Cathedral and Bishop Ryder's Church, and ringing was enjoyed for a couple of hours or more. Later, at the Imperial Hotel, the Rector of Birmingham, Canon T. Guy Rogers, B.D., M.C., who is Chaplain to the King, presided over a very happy party. He was supported by Alderman J. S. Pritchett (Presiding Ringing Master of St. Martin's Guild), Canon Blöfeld (Vicar of Edgbaston), Rev. T. B. Harvey Bruce (Rector of Solihull), Lieut.-Col. the Rev. F. J. Cheverton (Rector of Rowley Regis), Messrs. J. J. Kendall and F. W. Blake (churchwardens of St. Martin's), R. A. Eaton (churchwarden of Boldmere) and Mrs. Eaton, Mr. E. Alex Young (hon. secretary of the Central Council) and Mrs. Young, Mr. A. Paddon Smith (hon. secretary of St. Martin's Guild) and Mrs. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Goldsmith (Woking), Mr. H. Mason (Hagley), Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Parsons (Old Hill), Mr. W. R. Heaton, Mr. A. A. Hughes (White-chapel Foundry), Mr. C. F. Winney (College Youths, London), Mr. A. Walker (Deputy Ringing Master) and Mrs. Walker, Messrs. T. H. Reeves and J. Preston (auditors), J. Waghorn (London), C. Dean (hon. secretary, Surrey Association), A. E. Sharman (hon. secretary, Bedfordshire Association), A. Coppock (Master of the Sherwood Youths, Nottingham), Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Smallwood and Mr. A. Ward (Derby), Messrs. E. C. Shepherd (Beeston), T. J. Salter (Kidderminster), J. Oldham (Messrs. Taylor and Co., Loughborough), S. R. Roper (Messrs. Gillett and Johnston, Croydon), Mr. and Mrs. W. Thomas and Mr. W. Knight (Bristol), Messrs. T. King (Bath), H. W. Wilde (Chester), S. E. Palmer (Sheffield), Mr. W. Saunders (Coalbrookdale), A. J. Hughes (Rhyll), R. G. Knowles and C. Camm (Worcestershire Association), E. C. Gobey (Ilkeston), B. Gough (Coseley), Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Groves, Mr. P. Laffin (King's Norton), Mr. J. George (Bishop Ryder's), Mr. J. Neal, Mr. S. Bragg (Solihull), etc.

After an excellent repast, the toast of the King was honoured, and the Secretary announced apologies from Canon W. J. Cole (Vicar of Aston), Rev. T. S. Dunn (Vicar of King's Norton), Rev. A. T. Jenkins (St. Martin's), Messrs. O. Johnston (Croydon), J. H. Shepherd (Swindon), H. Chapman (Manchester), J. Carter (London), T. Russam, W. Kent and Baggs (Birmingham), and P. B. Yates (Ringing Master, King's Norton Society). He said they would all specially regret the absence of Mr. Russam, who, until that night, had attended the whole series of dinners without a break. For 37 years Mr. Russam had been present, and that evening was a break in the chain which they and he all regretted. The question had been raised in one letter as to why the dinner was frequently held in Lent. The reason was that it had been their custom, and they did not intend to depart from it, to hold it on the nearest convenient Saturday to Feb. 28th, which was the birthday of Henry Johnson. The secretary added that a wire had been received as follows: 'Bristol United Ringing Guilds send best wishes to all assembled for Henry Johnson Commemoration Dinner. Guise, Bristol' (applause).

Alderman Pritchett said one apology had not been mentioned, and that was from Mr. J. E. Sykes, the well-known Yorkshire ringer, who had recently been in China, and was now in France. He had brought back from China three pairs of chopsticks, which he wished to be presented that night to the three ladies who most deserved them (laughter), and he (the speaker) had been asked to present them to Mrs. Groves, Mrs. Goldsmith and Mrs. Walker (applause).

CHURCH AND STATE.

Mr. A. E. Parsons proposed the toast of 'Church and State,' and referred to the part which the Church had played in making the country and the Empire what it is to-day. He spoke of the debt which we owed to the noble gifts and sacrifices of our forefathers, and went on to ask if we were maintaining the glorious traditions which had been handed down to us? There was cause to-day, he said, for grave apprehension on this score, for men who took Holy Orders, and at their ordination gave their solemn pledge to observe the tenets embodied in the Thirty-Nine Articles of the Church, violated their vows, and, when reproved for their actions, openly defied the Bishops placed in authority over them. Such a state of things, he said, was a cause for anxiety.

The Rector of Birmingham responded to the toast. He referred to the welcome given him at the previous dinner, when he came among them just prior to his induction, and expressed his appreciation of the compliment they had now paid him by asking him to preside. With regard to the toast, he liked to think he had some relationship both to the Church and State, for he had the honour to be a chaplain to His Majesty, which very directly connected him with the State, and he had the honour to be Rector of Birmingham, and no one could have a higher honour than that paid to him (applause). Continuing, he said the Church and State were co-operating forces, and he would be the last to wish to see the church allied to any political party. It was important that the Church should stand forth as an independent, co-operating force. It would be bad for the Church if it attempted to dominate the State, and it would be equally foolish for the Church to surrender its independence. He hoped the day would never come when the Church would not count for something in the life of the State, and be recognised as a force that made for righteousness. He hoped the Church and State would long continue to co-operate to uplift the lives of the people, and to set before them the highest ideals (applause). Canon Rogers added that it was a great pleasure to be there that night. He was proud to think he was there as their chairman, and to think that he had not outworn his welcome in that great city; that they had a place for him and a use for him, as an Irishman having the misfortune to come to them from London (laughter). He was warned before coming that Birmingham took nobody for granted, and, after a year's residence in that city, which he had already learned to love, he was glad to feel they were ready to accept him, and had a use for him (applause).

HOW THURSTANS COMPOSED HIS MASTERPIECE.

It has always been the custom at these gatherings to entrust the toast of 'The Memory of the late Henry Johnson' to someone who knew the famous old ringer in the flesh, and this year Mr. Thomas Miller was given the task, which he performed in characteristic style. He had many reminiscences to tell of ringing in Birmingham in the days when he knew Henry Johnson, whom he first met in 1877. No peal was rung at St. Martin's Church between 1863 and 1878, owing to structural alterations, and he (Mr. Miller) joined St. Martin's company in 1879, so that he came early on the scene after ringing started. He had heard Johnson say more than half a dozen times how Thomas Thurstans got his famous peal of Stedman Triples. Thurstans and Johnson worked at two business places about three hundred yards apart, and Thurstans used to pop down to the timber yard where Johnson was manager, and hand him the figures of his attempts to get the peal, saying, 'Harry, I want you to look at these.' Johnson would look at the figures, and Thurstans would come back later to know the result. Johnson would point out where the figures repeated, and Thurstans kept trying, although he seemed for a time to get worse and worse. Eventually, of course, his perseverance was rewarded, but he (the speaker) had heard Johnson say he could have done Thurstans out of his peal if he had wished to do so. But Johnson was a different man to that; he was straightforward, upright and conscientious, and would not take advantage of any man who was in the position of Thurstans. Thurstans succeeded in getting his peal, which he conducted for the first time on August 8th, 1842. Although Johnson suffered from rheumatism, he was a very healthy man, and was dancing at his son's house nine days before his death. Mr. Miller told numerous amusing anecdotes of other old ringers, contemporary with Johnson, and the toast was drunk in silence.

A count of those present who had actually known Henry Johnson revealed that eighteen of the company had had the old gentleman's acquaintance. A course of Stedman Cinques on handbells was rung at this stage by Messrs. P. Laffin, G. F. Swann, A. Walker, J. E. Groves, A. E. Norman and M. J. Morris.

THE ALDERMANIC REVIEW.

Alderman Pritchett submitted 'Continued prosperity to St. Martin's Guild,' and, following his usual custom, reviewed the principal events of the year. First of all he congratulated the Guild on that splendid gathering of members and visitors from all parts of the country, although, he said, there were one or two whom they missed, and who they would never see there again. Among them was the veteran ringer, the late Mr. Ted Horrex, who, until well past eighty years of age, came frequently to their gatherings, and whom it was always such a pleasure to welcome, whose kindly face and genial company they so greatly appreciated. His absence was in some measure compensated for by the presence of Mr. Joseph Waghorn, now 83 years of age, who had come from West Ham to support his old Vicar in the chair, and to take part with them in that gathering. He hoped Mr. Waghorn would live long to be with them on many future occasions. Another whom they missed and would not see again was their old friend, William Reek Small, one of the best of men, and the best of ringers. It would be a great satisfaction to all who knew him to know that as a memorial his five sons were going to place a window in Tipton Church, side by side with one which Mr. Small erected to the memory of his first wife. Another name which would occur to them all was that of John Buffery, who, at the time of his death, was 'father' of the Guild. He was the last of that celebrated band who visited him (Alderman Pritchett) more than fifty years ago at Oxford—but they had all heard that story (laughter, and a voice: 'Tell it again.') They had lunch with him, said the speaker, and he had provided them with ale to drink. On the sideboard was a tankard of extra strong ale, which he intended should be sent round as a sort of loving cup, when the cheese came on. But Buffery passing the sideboard, thought the old ale was similar to that which he had already been drinking, and took a deep draught (laughter). The consequences were disastrous (laughter). They had had some very creditable ringing in the morning, but in the afternoon they had no more (laughter). John Buffery was dead and gone, but that was a little memory of him which he would never forget. Bastable, Henry Johnson and Mr. Robinson were among that company.

Continuing, Alderman Pritchett said the Guild had not rung so many peals during the past year as usual. There were only 33, which was small in comparison with their previous records. But despite this they might fairly say they had made continued progress in ringing. The peals ranged over all the methods usually rung, from Grand-sire Triples to London Surprise, while one peal was accomplished by a band who went from Birmingham to Canterbury and rang a peal of Siedman Cinques on the splendid ring of twelve in the Cathedral. Practices had been somewhat interfered with since last September, owing to illness near St. Martin's. For several months, the usual evening practice was suspended, but happily they were able to continue the Sunday morning ringing without seriously troubling the invalid. Alderman Pritchett went on to refer to the absence of Mr. John Carter, whose continued illness they all so much regretted. They deeply sympathised with him, and he asked the hon. secretary to send him a letter conveying their feelings. In conclusion Ald. Pritchett thanked the Guild for having again elected him as their presiding Ringing Master. He appreciated the tolerance which the members showed on account of his infrequent attendance. He would not hold the office for one moment did he not know that the duties were so efficiently discharged by his deputy, Mr. Albert Walker with the assistance of Mr. Laffin, Mr. Swann and Mr. Neal, who together with Mr. Paddon Smith, their indefatigable hon. secretary, were the mainstay of the Guild, and mainly responsible for its continued prosperity. (To be continued.)

HERTS COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

RECORD MEETING AT HERTFORD.

An exceptionally well attended meeting of the Eastern District was held at Hertford on Saturday week, when 60 members were present from Edmonton, Southgate, Luton, Cheshunt, Barley, Barkway, Cambridge, Sawston, Broxbourne, Kimpton, Ware, Hitchin, Royston, Hunsdon, Widford, Braughing, Nazeing, Walford, Hatfield, St. Albans, Great and Little Mundon, and Bengoe. Service was held in All Saints' Church, the Vicar giving a short, interesting and helpful address.

The fine ring of ten bells at All Saints' were raised just after three o'clock, and many methods were rung upon them, while the eight at St. Andrew's were also utilised both before and after tea. Cambridge Royal and London Surprise were amongst the methods rung by the more advanced members, and all present were provided with a pull, from Grand-sire Triples upwards. This meeting may well claim to be the largest district meeting ever held at Hertford.

Mr. J. Parker, of Edmonton, presided at the business meeting, and votes of thanks were accorded to him, to the Rector of St. Andrew's, and the Vicar of All Saints' for their welcome, and the splendid address by the last named.

CHESHIRE RINGERS' FIRST QUARTER OF LONDON.

On Monday, March 1st, at the Church of St. Mary-within-the-Walls, Chester, a quarter-peal of London Surprise Major (1,344 changes), by W. Thomas 1, J. Hayes 2, H. W. Wilde 3, W. Bibby 4, J. Swindley 5, R. Sperring 6, J. Morgan 7, S. Jones, jun., 8. Conducted by R. Sperring. First quarter-peal of London Surprise Major in the county by a resident band.

BRIGHTON RINGER'S DEATH IN AMERICA.

We have received from Mr. Richard Newton, of Boston, Massachusetts, news of the death in that city, from cancer, of Mr. Philip J. Allfrey, formerly of Brighton, Sussex. Mr. Allfrey, who was 54 years of age, went to Boston in 1913, at the time when several English ringers crossed over at the invitation of the late Dr. Nichols. He took an active part in such ringing as the Boston Guild was able to arrange, and was greatly esteemed by his fellow-members. His death leaves only six ringers in Boston.

Before going to America Mr. Allfrey was attached to St. Paul's tower, Brighton, and took part in a number of peals for the Sussex County Association.

BARTON TOWER UNSAFE FOR RINGING.

AN APPEAL.

To the Editor.

Sir,—We should be grateful if you would kindly allow us to appeal to your many readers, on behalf of the Barton (Cambridge) Church tower. In the opinion of two eminent architects, the tower has considerable charm, chiefly by reason of its triangular stair turret and its well-shaped buttresses, but it is in need of considerable repairs. The east and west walls are badly cracked, and the belfry windows considerably weathered. There is a peal of five excellent bells, which, however, it is considered unsafe to have rung with the tower in its present condition. The estimated cost of repairs is £300.

Barton is a small and poor parish; we have raised locally £200, and are stuck for the last hundred. Perhaps some of your readers who have admired the tower, or who are interested in the preservation of ancient buildings, or who are interested in bell ringing, may feel inclined to help us. Donations may be sent to Barclays Bank, Cambridge, or to either of us.—Yours,

J. C. CATER, Vicar.

H. S. MARR, Churchwarden.

CONDITION OF BELLS AND BELFRIES.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I note with interest in your leading article this week that the above subject is likely to come up for discussion at the next Central Council meeting. This matter, I believe, has been discussed by the Council several times already, and I think it time that they should pass a measure which would help bring about better conditions in belfries.

I know of cases even here in Devon where bells are out of order, and the church authorities do practically nothing to improve them. Rural Deans also, I am afraid, do not trouble to inspect them. This state of affairs is, in my opinion, a drawback to those who contemplate taking up change ringing, and I think it is up to the Central Council to see that a better state of affairs is brought about.

I might add that we sometimes read of dioceses granting funds to a church or churches for various objects. I think it would be a good thing if these sums were granted to churches where the bells require attention also.—Yours truly,
A. L. BENNETT.

GRANDSIRE DOUBLES.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—In addition to the arrangement of Grand-sire Doubles, which you were kind enough to publish some time ago, I have now the following arrangement, which may also be found useful to conductors.—Yours faithfully,
A. J. PITMAN.

240 GRANDSIRE DOUBLES.

2345 Continued.

S 3254	S	2345
S 4532	—	4523
4253	—	4352
S 3542	S	2543
— 4235	—	4325
S 5342	S	5243
5234	—	5324
S 4352	S	4253
— 5243	—	5342
3245	—	2345

This arrangement will be found to consist of two distinct blocks of 120 changes, and has the advantage of running in 24 different variations. Thus a peal of 5,760 may be rung called on this plan in 24 different callings. First rung at Baglan, Glam, on Feb. 18th, 1926, conducted by E. Stitch.

DURHAM & NEWCASTLE ASSOCIATION.
PEAL RINGING SLACKNESS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—With reference to the report of the meeting of the Western District, held at Chester-le-Street on January 16th, and your comments in 'The Ringing World' of February 12th, it is obvious that until the supposed extremely unfavourable facts mentioned by your correspondent are, at any rate, made much clearer, it is evidently the opinion of some members that it is foolish and probably mischievous for the outside critic or member to attempt to pass any judgment upon the working of the association. Yet it is clearly as grave as it is sudden, and the members have an equal right to demand full information as to what is going on in their interests. The worst of effusions of this kind is that they almost inevitably produce equally indefensible retorts from the other side.

However, one can only hope that the very small volume of smoke which is arising may lead to the suppression, before it is too late, of the fire which is causing it.

What is already certain is that the action of a clique has raised a storm of protest among members in the outlying districts, which is spreading by degrees. There must, presumably, be some very cogent reasons for voicing their feelings, and it is up to the association to remedy such a state of things.

The letters of your correspondents of 26th February hardly bring out the salient points in dispute. The question at issue is that when peals are attempted it is generally the same lot, with few exceptions, who are selected. Having carefully perused the report for 1924-25, it would appear that the centres for ringing peals are Newcastle Cathedral, Whitley Bay, North Shields, and St. Ignatius', Sunderland, with Tanfield occasionally thrown in, the towers being within reasonable distance of each other, better train and bus services are obtainable, also lower expenses. Your correspondents, in telling their story, differ in the number of peals rung and the members who took part in them for the year under review, and, although I give preference for veracity to he who quotes 29 and 71 respectively, yet it reads to the ordinary man that 71 members took part in each of the 29 peals, which is obviously incorrect. In unravelling these figures, I find that out of the 29 peals (ten of which were rung almost exclusively by London men, on holiday in the north, at different towers in the two dioceses), there is only to the credit of the association 19, which were mostly rung at Newcastle, Whitley Bay, and North Shields, not by 71 members, but by that number less our friends from London.

The largest number of peals rung by any one member is as under: W. H. Barber, Newcastle Cathedral, 11; J. E. Keen, Newcastle Cathedral, 10; W. I. Gofton, Whitley Bay, 11; T. T. Gofton Whitley Bay, 10; R. A. Gofton, Whitley Bay, 8; Wm. Story, Newcastle Cathedral, 7; J. A. Gofton, Whitley Bay, 7; E. E. Ferry, St. George's, Newcastle, 7; A. Payne, Newcastle Cathedral, 6; S. Stratford, Whitley Bay, 6; E. Hern, North Shields, 5; W. Shuckford, Newcastle Cathedral, 5; R. Alder Gofton, Whitley Bay, 5; J. W. Parker, Sunderland, 4; J. E. Gofton, Whitley Bay, 4; Joe Rowell, Newcastle Cathedral, 4.

Those members registering less than four peals, in which there are several first attempts, are omitted on account of space. The above list alone is sufficient to emphasise the meaning of the phrase, 'The favoured few who are selected to ring,' and is intended for those whom it may concern.

There is no necessity to advertise, but we are glad to observe that the association is the happy possessor of such a plodding, unselfish, and painstaking secretary. His untiring efforts in search of new recruits, and his excellent results at training a young band of ringers are most praiseworthy; his attitudes and methods when conducting peals are also a revelation. It even surprises those who know him that he has got such a poor opinion of his own capabilities; yet with all the journeys he has made in search of new talent, etc., he prefers to class himself as an 'old fogey.'

Every credit is due to those energetic members who are doing work for the association, but what about the distant towers where there are several ringing members of undoubted ability left in obscurity, and who would welcome and help to still further expand their knowledge, if the chance came their way? But, alas! no, our experts seek their ringing pleasures nearer home, and consequently the feeling arises when any peals are on the carpet that those who are in the swim get the first pickings. At the Newton Hall meeting of the association on the 13th February a very sensible resolution was passed about future meetings, and district secretaries were recommended to confer with each other with a view to avoid clashing. Let us hope much good will result thereby.

Comparisons.—Peals rung in the year 1923-24 were 28 in number, as under (1924-25 show 19 only by the association): — Handbells, 11, by the Gofton family; church bells, 17, rung practically by the same band who took part in 1924-25.

Number of towers where change ringing is possible.—Durham Diocese, 40, in one of which the bells are not hung to ring; Newcastle

Diocese, 25, in one of which the bells are not hung to ring; total, 65. 1923-24.—28 peals rung (including handbells, and Edinburgh Cathedral), spread over 14 churches. 1924-25.—19 peals (excluding 10 rung by London contingent), spread over 11 churches.

The latter, when closely examined, shows that peal ringing in the association is on the wane, with the exception only of the Gofton family.—Yours faithfully,

FAIR-PLAY.

STEDMAN'S 'TINTINNALOGIA.'

To the Editor.

Sir,—Regarding the authorship of the above work, lately questioned by the Rev. H. Drake, in 1880 and 1881 the late Canon Ellacombe published in 'Church Bells' a long list of British and foreign books dealing with bells and ringing. In the issue for December 10th, 1881, appears: 'Tintinnalogia, 1668.—Registered at Stationer's Hall, February 8th, 1667, by Fabian Stedman, SO THERE CAN BE NO DOUBT ABOUT THE AUTHOR. This is the work so highly spoken of by Father Burney in "History of Music," Vol. III., p. 413.'

The capitals are mine, and the sentence shows that Canon Ellacombe accepted the registration as proof of authorship. Perhaps, one of your readers versed in the 'making of books,' will say if it was, and is, necessary for the author and no other to register at Stationer's Hall.

Canon Ellacombe was given the 1671 edition, and compared it with the 1668 himself. He says the books were identical, save the title page, which in the 1671 is worded, 'Printed for F. S., and are to be sold by Tho. Archert at his shop under the Dial of St. Dunstan's Church, Fleet Street, 1671.' What became of Canon Ellacombe's books, and this one in particular?

An interesting point to me is why Stedman should trouble to give the number of changes possible on twelve bells, and also the positions of the semi-tones. Who was the first ringer to consider 12-bell ringing 'practical politics'? We know that York (1681) had the first twelve in the country, followed by St. Bride's (1724), and yet Stedman talks of changes on twelve bells fourteen years or more before a twelve was put up!—Yours truly,

CHAS. E. BORRETT.

BRIGHTON RINGERS AT DINNER.

ST. NICHOLAS' COMPANY'S ANNUAL GATHERING.

On Tuesday, March 2nd, the annual gathering and supper of the St. Nicholas' Ringers, Brighton, was held at the Pavilion Creamery. The Vicar (the Rev. H. Collinson) presided, with Mr. F. Bennett, Master, as vice-chairman, and supported by Mr. H. Woolley, churchwarden, Mr. J. Jay, secretary, and Mr. P. A. Coard, the oldest ringing member of the society.

After justice had been done to the good things spread by Host Morley, Mr. Bennett read to the company an account of a similar gathering—from 'The Bell News' of 1883—this being previous to the formation of the Sussex County Association, and at which meeting the association was first mooted.

This reading was followed by a musical entertainment and recitations by several of the company; a notable contributor being Mr. P. A. Coard, with songs self accompanied, and recitations.

Mr. J. Jay, Mr. G. Bleach, Mr. D. Hoather, Mr. Simpson, Mr. W. Hart and Mr. E. C. Merritt all contributed to a delightful evening, the songs being accompanied on the piano by Miss Hoather, who also gave several items herself.

The Vicar congratulated the ringers, and thanked them, on his own behalf, and that of many parishioners, for their services on Sundays, and for the assiduity shown in their practices.

This was supplemented by Mr. Churchwarden Woolley, who said that it was one of his greatest pleasures to hear the bells ringing for the Sunday services.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

Nearly 40 members attended a meeting of the North and East District of the Middlesex County Association and London Diocesan Guild, held at St. Mary's Church, Islington, on Saturday last. Ringing commenced shortly after 3 o'clock, and a variety of methods were rung. The ringers attended evensong, at which the Vicar officiated. After tea, the business meeting was held, the district vice-president, Mr. W. Pickworth, taking the chair.

Five new members were elected, and Hendon chosen as the venue for the next district meeting, on May 1st. It was also announced that the annual general meeting was fixed for April 10th, at Fulham.

A hearty vote of thanks was accorded to the Vicar for the use of the bells; also to Mr. J. Bullock for arranging for the meeting to be held.

Ringing was continued until 8 p.m., and included Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Rob Major, Double Norwich and Cambridge, London and Bristol Surprise.

WINCHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD.*YORKTOWN DISTRICT'S SUCCESSFUL MEETING.

On Saturday week one of the most successful meetings of the Yorktown district was held at Bagshot, and the following towers were represented: Blackwater, Chertsey, Farnborough, Weybridge, Yorktown, and the local band. Ringing took place during the afternoon, and the service was conducted by Canon Stewart, a most interesting address being given by Canon Challacombe, of Farnborough. An excellent tea was served in the new parish hall, admirably prepared by Mr. Nye, and other lady helpers.

At the business meeting, Canon Stewart occupied the chair, supported by Mr. C. Gray, churchwarden, and Mr. E. J. Hickox, organist.

The representatives gave their report of the proceedings at the Central Committee meeting.

Three new members were elected, viz., two from Chertsey and one from Yorktown.

The Ringing Master gave a very encouraging account of the towers and ringing in the district, and a vote of thanks was given to Canon Stewart, Canon Challacombe, Mr. Hickox and Mr. Corbett, who had done everything possible to ensure an enjoyable meeting.

Standard methods were rung during the afternoon and evening.

ISLE OF WIGHT DISTRICT.

The spring quarterly meeting of the Isle of Wight District was held at All Saints' Church, Freshwater, on Saturday, Feb. 27th. About 30 ringers from all parts of the island and several from the mainland were met by the district president, the Rev. H. E. H. Coombes, R.D., Rector of Freshwater, who took an active part in the ringing, conducted the service, and gave an interesting address. The ringers were afterwards entertained to tea in the Parish Hall by the Rector and Mrs. Coombes.

At the business meeting which followed, four probationary members were elected, and the representatives on the Central Committee gave their reports of the general committee meeting held at Winchester on the previous Saturday.

It was resolved to hold the next quarterly meeting at All Saints' Ryde, on Whit Monday, also a combined practice at St. Thomas' Church, Newport, on Thursday evening, April 15th.

The President voiced his pleasure in meeting so many members of the Guild, including those from the mainland, and Mr. G. Preston, hon. secretary of the Christchurch district, responded, on behalf of the visitors. The meeting concluded with a vote of thanks to the president and Mrs. Coombes for their kind hospitality, also to Mr. R. Ridett for presiding at the organ during the service. Touches of Triples and Major were rung on the handbells, and further ringing in Minor methods was afterwards indulged in on the church bells until 8 p.m.

GUILDFORD DISTRICT.

A meeting of the Guildford District was held at Farnham on Feb. 13th, when there was a good attendance, ringers being present from Aldershot, Ash, Cranleigh, Godalming, Guildford (Holy Trinity and S. Nicolas'), Haslemere, Seale, Worplesdon, and Witley, as well as members of the local company. Ringing was indulged in during the afternoon, and a short service was conducted by the Rector (the Rev. J. M. C. Crum), who also gave an address. Forty sat down to tea, and, in the absence of the Rector, the chair was taken by Mr. F. E. Goddard (Rector's warden), supported by Mr. Granger (churchwarden), Major J. H. B. Hesse, Mr. A. C. Hazelden (Ringing Master), Mr. E. Haddon (secretary), and others. Amongst the visitors was Mr. E. B. Richardson, of Brockley, Kent.

At the business meeting which followed, the Ringing Master's report was adopted, and two honorary, two full members, and one probationer were elected.

After the usual vote of thanks to the Rector and wardens, to the organist, and to the members of the local company for making the arrangements, the members again visited the tower, and several touches in various methods were brought round.

PORTSMOUTH DISTRICT AT WICKHAM.

A quarterly meeting was held at Wickham on February 13th, when members and friends, numbering nearly 30, were present from Alverstoke, Bishop's Waltham, Curdridge, Gosport, Hambledon, North Stoneham, Portsmouth (St. Mary's and St. Thomas'), Ringwood, Shedfield, Swanmore and Wickham; also the Master (Mr. G. Williams) and the general secretary, Mr. G. Pullinger. Five full members and two probationers were elected, viz., Messrs. J. Hooker (Hambledon), R. Thorne (Havant), W. Greenwood (Portsea), A. Apps (Bishop's Waltham) and P. W. Burnett (Portsmouth), W. Poole (Hambledon) and S. Rogers (Bishop's Waltham).—It was decided to hold the next meeting at West Moon on May 15th next, due notice of which will appear in 'The Ringing World.'

Mr. R. J. Stone gave a short report on the course of instruction he had concluded at Havant, and Mr. F. A. Burnett reported on his tuition at Hambledon.

RECORD PEALS.

There seems to be no finality to the records which ringers will attempt, and each new longer length seems to be only an incentive to the acquisition of fresh laurels. We publish to-day the official notification that on Easter Monday, at Leeds, Kent, the tower made famous a century and a half ago by James Barham, a company under the auspices of the Kent County Association will attempt a twenty-two thousand of Stedman Caters, the present record of which is the 21,363 rung at Appleton four years ago. Throughout the history of peal ringing there have sprung up from time to time bands who have essayed to put up bigger performances than their predecessors, but there has never been a period when more records have gone by the board than in the last quarter of a century, and that, too, despite the period covered by the war and its after-effects. Although the preceding twenty-five years saw some keen competition for record lengths, which culminated in 1899 with the much debated 17,024 Double Norwich at Kidlington, the present century has seen no fewer than thirteen peals rung of over 12,000 changes in length, and they include the longest peals on all numbers from eight to twelve bells ever accomplished by men without relief. There have been the 17,280 of Kent Treble Bob Major at Over; the 21,363 Stedman Caters at Appleton; the 14,000 Kent Treble Bob Royal at Ashton-under-Lyne; the 13,001 Grandsire Cinques at Painswick (to say nothing of the 12,675 Stedman Cinques at Southwark) and the 12,240 Kent Maximus at Ashton-under-Lyne. Anyone, therefore, who sets out to beat the existing record length on any number of bells has a big task in hand, and, apart from anything else, has to face a strenuous test in physical stamina and in mental concentration. We can think of no other pursuit in which more collective effort is necessary than in the ringing of a record peal. It is not like records in many other fields of pleasure, where usually it is a 'one man' show; or where, under the urge of keen excitement, a team may, by supreme endeavour, 'go one better' than any previous competitors. To set out upon a record peal is to embark upon a task in which not the energies of one man but of a whole company are slowly dissipated over a long period; where mental alertness is necessary from beginning to end, even when fatigue has sapped the strength of the human frame, for the least lapse, even in a simple method, may bring disaster to the attempt. A record peal, therefore, especially now that the number of changes required is well past the twenty-thousand mark, is a trial which will make demands upon the physical fitness and the mental calibre of the best of men, and the attempt at Leeds will be awaited with interest by the Exercise.

Even if it is admitted that these 'super-lengths' serve little purpose except to gratify the ambition of enterprising and enthusiastic ringers, one cannot take exception to them so long as their performance is no annoyance to the public. They are an object lesson in patience and endurance, and should create a certain spirit of friendly rivalry that ought to be good for the Exercise.

'OLD MOORE'S' BIRTHDAY.

On a recent Saturday, 'Old Moore's' birthday was duly celebrated at King's Norton, in real ringers' style. Attempting his first peal, our secretary gave a very good account of himself, considering the length of time he has been ringing. After 2½ hours our efforts came to grief by a 'swop course.'

I should like to explain why our worthy secretary is sometimes referred to as 'Old Moore,' but be sure it is not due to any disrespect to the old gentleman. For some years he has been very fortunate in not having a full-time occupation, and is regarded locally as the village handyman. He wastes his time chiefly by being secretary of the St. Nicolas' Guild of Ringers, head teacher at the Council School, organist and choir-master, lay reader, etc., and doing all the parochial work that others cannot or will not do. His 55 years of inactivity have dealt very kindly with him, as he is fairly robust, and not at all bad looking, but we have warned him that, if he sticks to ringing, he will not only have blisters on his hands, but crow's-feet on his face.

After the peal attempt, he exhibited with pride a handful of medals, but was very pleased that he did not turn into the little grease spot that we had prophesied. Adjourning to the Navigation Inn, we sat down to a slashing sucking-pig supper, and all the refreshment one could desire, at the invitation of 'Poor Old Moore.' The way some of us devoured that little pig gave one the impression that we were taking a loving farewell of a very near relative. After the little pig had vanished we proceeded to an enjoyable evening with the hand-bells, and musical items were rendered by Messrs. Withers, Moore and Dowding.—Mr. F. B. Yates, on behalf of the band, thanked Mr. Moore for his kindness in providing such a capital spread, and one of the company quietly remarked that he wished he had as many birthdays as Walker, who usually manages to get four in a year when he wants a peal or two.

PRESENTATION AT YORKTOWN, SURREY.

On Sunday morning, for morning service, also a farewell to Mr. J. Smith, late captain of St. Michael's, Yorktown band, who has left the district, and is now at Long Sutton, Lincolnshire, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples, conducted by Mr. B. Hawkins, was rung in 45 mins.: E. Hunt 1, F. Ewens 2, F. Marchant 3, B. Hawkins 4, H. Hunt 5, F. Nye 6, C.Q.M.S. G. Gilbert 7, H. Hunt, sen., 8.

The members of the local band have presented Mr. J. Smith with a handsome silver-mounted walking stick, engraved with the inscription: 'Presented to Mr. J. Smith, from the Yorktown Bell Ringers.' Mr. and Mrs. J. Smith and family departed with good wishes for every success and happiness in their new sphere.

BELLS BROADCAST FROM VANCOUVER.*GREAT NEW YEAR RECEPTION IN FAR WEST.

The bells of the Pro-Cathedral of the Holy Rosary, Vancouver, where the first peal in Canada was rung on July 1st, 1911, were broadcast on New Year's Eve, and from reports the results were the finest, from many points of view, achieved by the Canadian National Railway Broadcasting Station. The experiment roused special interest and appreciation, and particularly is it noteworthy that it stirred in the hearts of settlers from the Old Country happy and tender memories.

The 'Vancouver Sun' said 'directly the sound of the bells ceased telephone messages came into the "Sun" office, telling how the peal had been heard in distant places, and what pleasure it had given to radions over a radius of many miles.' But more interesting still are some of the letters which reached the Broadcasting Company. A few extracts are worth publishing, and we should like to know what other sounds than bells rung in the good old English fashion could have awakened such feelings.

'We are now listening to bells ringing in the New Year,' wrote one lady, 'and it's lovely; it's the first time I have heard a peal of bells since I came to Canada nearly 14 years ago. At my home town, Newbury, England, one of the churches there had a peal of bells, and they were played exactly as these bells were played of the Holy Rosary Pro-Cathedral. Thank the bell ringers for giving us such a pleasure.'

'I am writing to tell you,' said another, 'how very much we enjoyed hearing the bells chime the Old Year out and the New Year in. We had talked about the bells at home in the Old Country, and told our children how they rang on Christmas morning and also New Year's Eve, and last night we all sat around the fire and listened to them for the first time for 19 years for me, and 25 years for my husband, and we both said it was the best thing we ever heard on the radio.'

From Fair Cakes, Sacramento, Mr. Ernest Pouting wrote: 'We had lots of your jazz hornblowing from our stations here, but being from Essex and not having heard the real church chimes since leaving the old Country, now over 17 years, it brought that little tear of remembrance that after all the church chimes are the only message at the appropriate time.'

W. A. Dexter, of Alameda, California, U.S.A., wrote to the C.N.R.V.: 'Would you please acknowledge reception of swing chimes of the Pro-Cathedral Holy Rosary ushering in the New Year. Of all the celebrations we heard yours was the finest, and it was only by accident I tuned in on it. I was astonished when I heard where it originated, such volume and clarity. I can assure you it was enjoyed as nothing else was. I think it would be splendid if the broadcast of the chimes could be made a regular feature, at least, say, on Sundays. It would surely help to make radio really worth while.'

These characteristic expressions of opinion from sons and daughters of the homeland show how deeply the memory of bells dwells in their hearts.

Before the ringing began, the announcer, speaking from the belfry, gave a short description of the bells, and explained how they differed from the ordinary chimes of Canada and the United States. He also referred to what had been performed on them in the past. The microphone was then switched from the ringing chamber to the instrument above, which was situated some 20 feet outside the tower on the roof of the church, and the word 'go' was given. A few excellent rounds were rung with the bells half-muffled, followed by two courses of Grandsire Triples rung at a slow pace. This concluded about two minutes to midnight, when Mr. A. C. Limpus, who was waiting aloft ripped off the mufflers and gave the signal for the tenor to strike midnight. Following the last stroke, some excellent open rounds were rung, followed by a short touch of Grandsire, lasting some 7½ minutes. Every detail went off perfectly.

The ringers were: A. F. Hodges 1, W. Sampson 2, A. King 3, Geo. W. Foster (conductor) 4, Frank Dunaway 5, Mathew Bennett 6, A. B. Lomas 7, R. H. Sapper 8. The greatest distance between points where the bells were heard was as far as is known 1,470 miles, viz., from High Prairie, near Lesser Slave Lake, Alberta, to San Francisco, California.

DEFIANCE.To the Editor.*

Sir,—Religious controversy is rightly barred at ringers' meetings, but it seems to have got into the Johnson Commemoration Dinner, of all places. I am quite sure you will not open your columns to religious controversy, but there is an aspect of what was said which does concern ringers, and I will mention it in such a way as, if possible, to avoid offending anyone.

But first I must tell the gentleman who said that the clergy at their ordination give their solemn pledge to observe the tenets embodied in the 39 Articles, that this has never been the case. Up till the nineteenth century we had to affirm our adherence to them; but now for 50 or 100 years all we are required to do has been to express our 'Assent' to them, and it is carefully explained to us that this means only a very general agreement with them, for all parties are agreed on this, that some of the statements in these Articles, which were believed to be right when they were drawn up, are now known to be wrong.

The same gentleman referred to fifteen churches in Birmingham which were openly defying the Bishop. Now, I doubt whether any of these fifteen churches have any towers yet, let alone bells, so it does not seem to be in any way a matter that concerns a ringing meeting. But my point is, that none of the clergy thus attacked could be present then to defend themselves. I hope, therefore, you will allow me to say that very many people, perhaps most people, would say that the words I have quoted convey a very wrong impression of the position.

I will not say more on this point, but there was another point which does concern ringers. The secretary, it seems, had been asked why this dinner is usually held in Lent; and he replied that they did not intend to alter it. Is not this a defiance of Church Order, and that an order which is not disputed or doubted, as in the other case?

May I beg of ringers to continue, as in the past, more sympathetic with those they differ from than most Churchmen are?

And that I may practice what I preach, I may say that I find that Mr. Trollope is hurt by the words I used about his writing, in especial 'not honest,' and 'eat his words.' I did not intend these expressions to be taken seriously, but merely in a 'Pickwickian' sense. As they have done harm, I will acknowledge that I ought not to have written them, and am eager to withdraw them. Nothing that I wrote was intended to be in the least personal and I hope no one so misunderstood me.

HERBERT DRAKE.

ESSEX ASSOCIATION.

A quarterly meeting of the North-Western Division was held at Thaxted on Saturday, March 6th. Fortunately the weather was favourable, and a large company attended. Members and visitors arrived from Epping Town, Epping Upland, Roydon, Nazeing, Maldon, Braintree, Bishop's Stortford, Sawston, and Swindon. The eight bells were kept in constant use from 3 p.m. until 4.45 p.m., when the Rev. Conrad Noel conducted a short ringers' service, and gave the address. Afterwards, at the Swan Hotel, 35 members were supplied with tea. The Rev. C. Noel, presiding, welcomed the ringers to his tower, and complimented them upon their afternoon's performance. To this, the Master (Mr. C. H. Howard) replied, and thanked the Vicar for the use of the bells, and for the warm welcome he had extended to the ringers.

Mr. H. Dew (District Master) took the chair at the business meeting. It was suggested that Hatfield Broad Oak be fixed for the next meeting-place, and this was agreed to. After the business meeting, most of the company returned to the church for more ringing. During the day, touches of Grandsire, Bob Major, Stedman, Cambridge and Double Norwich were rung.

NORTHERN DIVISION.

A very enthusiastic meeting of the Northern Division of the Essex Association was held at Kelvedon on Saturday, February 27th. The Vicar (the Rev. R. W. Croft) conducted the ringers' office, and gave an impressive address. The lesson was read by Mr. C. H. Howard (Master of the Association). Tea and meeting followed. Mr. F. Claydon, District Master, presiding, supported by Mr. W. J. Nevard, District Master, N.-E. Division, Messrs. W. Keeble, D. Elliott, W. Elliott, and 46 members from eighteen parishes.

The meeting expressed its regret at the enforced absence, through illness, of the district secretary, Mr. W. H. Dyson.

One new member was elected, and it was decided to hold the next meeting at Dunmow as soon after Easter as the work of rehanging of these bells is completed.

Touches of Bob Minor, Treble Bob, Cambridge and London Surprise were rung on the heavy and melodious ring of six, which are in excellent going order.

NOTES BY THE WAY.

SHIPWAY AND QUEX PARK.—THE QUEST FOR PEALS OF STEDMAN TRIPLES.

By J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

The peal of twelve bells at Quex Park was put up by J. P. Powell in 1819, and about the same time he induced Shipway to go and live at Birchington and act as instructor to the band he was forming. Quex Park is a large park with a mansion, which lies a mile or two inland, behind Birchington, a seaside village in the Isle of Thanet, not far from Margate. The bells hang in a tower specially built for them, called the Waterloo Tower, in the middle of the park, and at a considerable distance from the house. It is of brick; the main structure is circular, with four smaller circular turrets, one at each corner (if I may be allowed to talk of the corners of a round building). These act as buttresses, and carry the staircase. The base of the tower is flanked by four buildings, one of which has been consecrated as the mausoleum of the squire's family. The others are storerooms. The tower is surmounted by an openwork iron spire, copied from the stone at Faversham Church, and similar in general design to those at St. Dunstan's, London, and Newcastle Cathedral. The tower is surrounded and screened on all sides by trees. It is anything but a handsome building, but the general situation makes it an ideal spot for an enjoyable ringing expedition.

The bells are a peal of twelve, with a tenor of fifteen hundred-weight, and are still by far the lightest twelve ringing bells in England. They are not particularly good bells, and as a peal are decidedly a failure. When they were made, founders had not solved the problem of making really good little bells with high-pitched notes. Whatever opinions one may hold of the relative merits of the best of the old and the new big bells, there can be no doubt whatever that in very light peals modern bells are incomparably superior to old ones. Such peals as Surfleet; St. Martin's, Epsom; or the Loughborough foundry (to mention only three), could not have been cast a hundred years ago.

Ringing at Quex is done from the ground floor, and, as the bells hang in two tiers, and there are several floors between them and the ringers, the hearing is defective. The little bells especially are very difficult to distinguish, but the circle is a good one. On the wall of the belfry are painted the records of all the peals rung in the tower down to the time of the war. It is the intention now, I believe, only to record the first peals in any method or any peal of outstanding interest. The present owner of the estate, Major Powell Cotton, is naturally proud of his unique possession, and keeps the bells in order, but as is almost inevitable there is no local band, and they are only rung by visiting ringers. Any band who wishes to ring in the tower, or attempt a peal, can always be sure of getting permission, and receiving every kindness and courtesy at the hands of Major Cotton.

Besides the twelve bells, there are other very interesting things to be seen at Quex Park. In a turret over the stable is a clock which chimes on three bells, one of them dating from pre-Reformation times, which originally belonged to one of the city churches of Canterbury. It was one of a ring of five that was sold during the eighteenth century by the churchwardens, probably to raise money for some repairs to the church. Two more bells, one of them, if I remember rightly, an Eastern bell, hang in the Waterloo tower but cannot be rung or used in any way. Grouped at the base of another tower in the park is a big collection of field guns of different sizes and dates. The house itself contains a magnificent collection of wild animals from all parts of the world. It ranges from tiny little beasts up to lions and elephants, giraffes and hippos. Every one of them was shot either by the Major or Mrs. Cotton, and it is said to be by far the finest collection ever shot by one man.

When Squire Powell built his tower, he, of course, wanted ringers, and Major Cotton told me that every man and boy on the estate was expected to learn to ring. What success Shipway had as an instructor I do not know, but he certainly did give a filip to ringing in that corner of Kent. At St. John's, Thanet, the parish church of Margate, is a board recording a peal, and at Quex a peal of Bob Triples was rung. J. P. Powell rang the tenor to the latter, and notwithstanding his enthusiasm, this seems to have been the limits of his practical ringing. In 1825 he visited Norwich to ring at Mancroft. He tried the tenor there, but finding it too much for him, he covered some Stedman Triples on the light eight. Under the tuition of Shipway he attained a considerable proficiency as a composer, chiefly in Stedman Triples. He published in 1828 a pamphlet of compositions in that method, which does not bear his name, but is said to be by 'An Amateur.' Hubbard printed a quarter-peal by him in his first edition, and this, too, is given as by 'An Amateur.' The Norwich Scholars rang a long length of his, 'double-handed,' either a quarter or a half peal, I forget which. Samuel Thurston was the conductor.

The reason why Powell devoted so much time and labour to Stedman Triples was, no doubt, because this was the one thing more than another which was baffling Shipway. When the latter published his 'Campanalogia' he had solved practically every problem that he set before himself. He had got his peal of Grandsire Triples without singles; he had got his peals of Cambridge, London and Superlative; he had got his 12,000 of Treble Bob. But Stedman Triples had proved a harder nut than he could crack. He says, 'A true and complete peal of Triples on this principle has for many years been the constant research of the most eminent professors of the art. The author has paid great attention to the subject, but hitherto without effect; he has, therefore, chosen to relinquish it for the present, rather than delay the publication of the work. The authors of "The Clavis" have published no more than 1,260, deeming that nearly the extent, except by using a multiplicity of bobs, which would keep two bells dodging together behind at various times during fifty-four changes; a practice justly reprobated as being both tedious and unmusical: although peals on that plan have been obtained and rung for want of better.'

And now he was at Birchington with, no doubt, plenty of leisure; he took up the problem again, and interested Powell in it as well. How much of Powell's pamphlet was really Shipway's work we cannot tell, but the latter's influence was great, as can be seen from what Powell himself writes. He begins by saying, 'Professors of the scientific Art of Change Ringing have for many years been endeavouring to compose a whole peal of Stedman Trippies, which might be considered the most perfect by having the fewest number of bobs and singles.'

Shipway's principle appears to me to be the best adapted for that purpose, but all attempts on his principle have failed as yet. There is a very curious peal I have seen composed at Birmingham, which has the 7th bell at home at each course-end, and really is an extraordinary and ingenious peal altogether. I have myself as an amateur been much interested toward the accomplishment of this peal, and although having studied it for the last six or seven years, and having experienced a vast deal of difficulty and perplexity, have also failed. I have, however, been successful in a few "touches" which I have great pleasure in sending forth for the gratification and amusement of all the above societies.'

And then later on: 'Feeling now a conviction of having pursued every plan where I have entertained any idea or possibility of success, and having failed, I do not further hesitate to pronounce this most harassing and perplexing peal of Stedman Triples is totally unobtainable on Shipway's principle, either in five parts; or if in ten having a single at the end of the first half to turn it; and the same number of bobs and singles in the second half, and in the same places as in the first half.'

Shipway's investigations were not altogether fruitless. He did not get the composition he aimed at. But he produced one with 362 calls—240 bobs, 120 common singles, and two Holt's singles. This was the one rung at Clerkenwell in 1834, and was of a succession of peals by different composers, all of whom were trying to reduce the number of calls used in earlier peals. Edwards' peal, composed in 1792, had 722 calls; Cooper's peal, rung in 1819, had 582 calls; Tobbs' peal, rung in 1828, had 622 calls; Thomas Day's peal, rung in 1830, had 422 calls; J. P. Powell's peal had 382 calls; Shipway's peal had 362 calls; and William Hudson further reduced the number to 262. Later he beat this with a peal with 248 calls, and James Lockwood went one better with one with 244 calls. All these contained In-Course Singles, besides bobs and ordinary singles.

About 1831 Shipway published a broadsheet which gave the peals of Stedman Triples which had been composed up to that time. Before that time he was back again in London. No doubt he found the country too slow. He had left Bath, where he could get ringing up to Treble Ten, because the art did not advance so quickly as he wished. At Birchington he was in a worse case, and for all the inducements that the squire held out he longed to be back once more among the steeples of London. Once he left Quex, and was induced to return, but he soon quitted it again, and returned to his old companions in the Cumberland Society.

M.C.A. ANNUAL MEETING.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I see in your columns the notice of the above meeting. It contains the following, with regard to the facilities for ringing: '(except during the time of association service). Last year, at Leicester, the same notice was displayed in all the towers, yet the bells of St. Margaret's were rung during the service! I should like to ask, therefore, will the notice be observed this year at Burton-on-Trent or not?—Yours truly,

W. R. E.

CHESTER.—On March 8th, 1,344 London Surprise Major, at St. Mary's-within-the-Wall: J. W. Davies 1, J. Hayes 2, H. W. Wilde 3, A. J. Hughes 4, J. Swindley 5, R. Sperring (conductor) 6, J. Morgan 7, S. Jones, jun., 8.

NOTICE OF RECORD PEAL ATTEMPT.
TWENTY-TWO THOUSAND OF STEDMAN CATERS.

On Easter Monday, April 5th, 1926, ten members of the Kent County Association will (D.V.) attempt 22,033 of Stedman Caters at Leeds, Kent. Starting time, six o'clock in the morning.

KENSINGTON RINGERS' DINNER.

ST. MARY ABBOTS' GUILD ROUND THE FESTIVE BOARD.

The annual dinner of the St. Mary Abbots' Guild took place recently in the Parish Hall, when 27 members and friends sat down to an excellent meal. The chair was taken by the Vicar (the Rev. E. Marling-Roberts, M.A.), supported by the two churchwardens, Messrs. R. Carter and H. Kenyon. Among the guests were the Rev. S. A. Spackman, who was, until lately, chaplain to the Guild, and also Messrs. R. A. Daniell, C. F. Winney and Mrs. R. J. Wilkins, of Bristol. Letters of apology for absence were read from Bishop G. Forrest-Browne, and Messrs. E. G. Stibbons and A. W. Davis.—Bishop Browne, in his letter, stated that he very much regretted not being able to be present, as when he used to live at Bristol the ringers played a great part in his life, but he found that, at the age of 93, it was impossible for him to attend evening gatherings of any description, though he very much enjoyed hearing the bells, and if he went anywhere, it would be to a ringers' gathering.

After everyone had enjoyed all the good things to the full, the Chairman proposed the toast of 'The King,' which was enthusiastically honoured.

The toast of the 'St. Mary Abbots' Bell Ringers' was next proposed by the Chairman, who wished the Guild success, and said their ringing was very much appreciated by the parishioners, and no complaints had reached him during the past year.—Mr. W. E. Garrard, in replying, said it pleased him very much to hear that the ringing of the bells was appreciated, and that the Vicar had not been troubled with complaints. He thanked the members for their support to the Guild during the past year, and hoped that it would continue.

Mr. A. V. Selby then proposed the toast of 'The Chairman,' to which the Vicar suitably replied.

'Visitors and absent Friends' was proposed by Mr. A. B. Bennett, who told the company that it gave him great pleasure to welcome visitors to the dinner, especially Mr. Kenyon, who was present for the first time. In reference to 'absent friends,' the speaker mentioned the name of Bishop Browne, and also of two ringers, Messrs. J. S. Wilde and W. R. Madgewick, now in Australia, one of whom, Mr. Madgewick, rang at St. Mary Abbots' on the last occasion that he came to England. He also welcomed the Rev. S. A. Spackman to the gathering.

Mr. Daniell replied, and stated that, although he now took no active part in ringing, it pleased him to hear the bells.—The Rev. S. A. Spackman also responded in a very happy speech, expressing his great pleasure at meeting old friends again, and recalling past incidents of great interest to the members. He also gave the company a most interesting description of his work in his parish in the East of London. His speech was received with great applause.

Mr. A. B. Bennett next proposed the 'Health of Mr. R. Carter,' thanking him most heartily for his great kindness to the Guild at all times.—Mr. Carter replied, stating that it gave him great pleasure to do anything for the Guild, and wishing the ringers every success.

This concluded the toast list, and the rest of the evening was given over to harmony, some good songs being given by Messrs. A. B. Bennett, R. A. Daniell, A. F. Harris, J. A. Dart, H. G. Miles, E. G. Locke and M. Giel. The Rev. S. A. Spackman and Mr. J. A. Dart acted as accompanists.

A course each of Grandsire and Stedman Caters was rung on the handbells, Messrs. R. A. Daniell, C. F. Winney, W. E. Judd, A. F. Harris, H. G. Miles and C. W. Roberts taking part.

A most enjoyable evening concluded with 'Auld Lang Syne' and 'God save the King.' The members wish to thank everyone who helped to make the gathering such a success, especially Mr. Carter, whom the Guild cannot thank too much for his kindness.

BISHOP OF LONDON VISITS RINGERS.

At Hornsey, on Sunday, March 7th, at St. Mary's Church, 720 Bob Minor, in 29 mins.: G. Northcott 1, E. G. Hibble 2, H. Blee 3, A. Howell 4, J. G. Nash 5, C. H. Ross (conductor) 6. Also 720 Bob Minor, in 28 mins.: G. Northcott 1, E. G. Hibble 2, H. Blee 3, J. G. Nash 4, T. Langdon 5, C. H. Ross (conductor) 6. Rung for service, and also in honour of the visit of the Lord Bishop of London on the 40th anniversary of his first sermon. The Bishop, with the Rector, paid a visit to the heltry, and gave his blessing to the ringers. His lordship also gave a short address, and spoke very highly of the work of the ringers in ringing the bells to call people to church.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

Mr. Albert Chivers, who rang his first peal at Eye, Suffolk, last week, has only one arm, and is to be congratulated upon the way he rang and struck his bell.

Mr. Kippins' mono-mark, 'N.B.G.', as applied to the Croydon tenor (27th February) is equally applicable to Great Bentley (February 6th), where the 7th became 'Is-a-belle.' Our Bentley correspondent did not state that 'we finished the peal with the clapper out.' Is this possible?

Several bell hangers want to know if the hon. secretary of the Central Council, as an architect, would allow bells to be placed in a tower if it was built with masonry, as shown in the Major's recent sketch for eliminating noise from a belfry.

One of the visitors to the St. Martin's dinner was overheard in the Bull Ring asking 'the way up to the Cedar room.' Apparently he was anxious to have a touch of 'Imperial' or O'Cedar Mop. Alfred, put the Padd-on!

Another well known Midlands' ringer, found near Bishop Rydler's Church very early on Sunday morning, was inquiring the way to Gem Street, and explained that he was anxious to see where the early Cuckoo Netchells.

Peals of Forward Maximus have been few and far between, but one was rung on Saturday at St. Mary-le-Tower, Ipswich, thus adding another to the many methods of which peals have been scored in this famous belfry. The band would be interested to know how many peals of Forward 'Twelve-In' have been rung.

The first peal of Reverse Bob Major was rung at Harrietsham, Kent, on March 23rd, 1751, conducted by James Barham.

The College Youths, on Sunday, March 23rd, 1783, did ring in this steeple (Fulham) 5,020 Old Double Caters, in 3 hrs. 32 minutes, being the first peal ever rung in that method.

A peal of 'Double Twelve-In' was rung at St. Bride's Church, Fleet Street, by the College Youths on March 24th, 1784, and two days afterwards they rang 6,048 'Real Double Twelve-In,' at St. Saviour's, Southwark.

March 18 was the anniversary of a memorable handbell performance. On that date, in 1895, Mr. Harry Williams called a peal of Bob Major from 5-6 while blindfolded. The peal was rung for the Yorkshire Association in 2 hrs. 23 mins., and the other ringers were John and Joseph Thackray and John Whitaker. Mr. Williams still rings occasionally with the St. Michael's, Headingley, Leeds, company, and he is employed at New Wortley Cemetery.

March 20th is the anniversary of the first peal of Double Norwich Royal ever rung in the Midlands. This was, at Duffield, Derbyshire, on Monday, March 20th, 1893, composed and conducted by the late Sir Arthur Heywood.

In Mr. J. Hunt's letter, which appeared in our last issue, with regard to the false peal of Double Norwich, the writer is made to appear as if he withdrew all claim to the correct version of the composition. It was the late Dr. Carpenter who withdrew all claim to the peal, leaving Mr. Hunt in undisputed authorship.

There is a day's work before Mr. A. H. Pulling and his merry men on Easter Monday if they achieve what they set out to accomplish. At Leeds, Kent, there is to be an attempt for 22,033 Stedman Caters, which will be a 14 or 15 hours' job. Shades of Barham!

We understand that certain ladies are already assiduously practising eating soup with chopsticks, in preparation for the next Johnson dinner.

THE CENTRAL COUNCIL.

The annual meeting of the Council will be held on May the 25th (Whit Tuesday) next, at Ipswich. Full particulars of the meeting will be published later. Notice of any motion should be sent before April 24th.

Will secretaries please note that the annual subscription is now due, and, together with the names and addresses of representatives, should be sent to the Hon. Secretary, Mr. E. Alexr. Young, 155, Rushey Green, Catford, S.E.6.

The following Guilds have already paid, in the order given: Peterborough, Norfolk, Bath and Wells, Ladies', Llandaff and Monmouth, Dudley and District, Ely, Salisbury, Lincoln, and Surrey.

LIVERPOOL PEAL TO REMAIN INTACT.

ST. PETER'S BELLS TO BE REHUNG AT ST. HELEN'S.

As a result of the representations made by the Lancashire Association, and their president, Canon Elsee, the bells belonging to St. Peter's Church, Liverpool, which it was proposed to split up, so that only eight would be left in the ring to be transferred to St. Helen's Church, the complete peal of ten, we are informed, will now be hung in the lower of the latter church.

TWO BELLS AT A TIME.

MR. EDWIN HIMS' PERFORMANCE.

Few men can handle two church bells at the same time, fewer still have rung two to a peal. Mr. Edwin Hims, of Rochester, as we recently recorded, has succeeded in this unusual task, by ringing the 2nd and 3rd to a peal of Minor at Launton, Oxfordshire. He has, however, long been an adept at handling two ropes, and was one of the first to do so. Years ago he used to ring two bells for evening service at All Saints', Oxford, and since going to Rochester he has constantly rung two bells in Triples for the Sunday service, as well as doing the conducting.

Mr. E. HIMS RINGING TWO CHURCH BELLS.

Mr. Hims is probably better known to the older generation of ringers, for he has done comparatively little peal ringing in recent years. He has no record of his peal performances, but the two most notable achievements in which he has taken part are the 17,024 Double Norwich Court Bob Major, rung at Kidlington, Oxon, on May 22nd, 1899, in 11 hours 15 minutes, in which peal he rang the 7th; and the 11,328 London Surprise Major, at Drayton, Berks, on Sept. 17th, 1896. Mr. Hims has rung peals from Minor to Maximus, and, in addition, is a composer of no mean ability, his most notable composition being the 12,896 Cambridge Surprise Major, which was rung at Stoney Stanton, Leicestershire, and which took him twelve months, in his spare time, to obtain.

A PEAL CHALLENGED.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—With reference to the publication of a peal of Superlative Surprise as having been rung at Turner's Hill on Saturday, February 27th, I would like to mention that I, among others, had the pleasure of listening to the last two-thirds of the ringing. The striking generally was good, but the point I want to get at is, what happened during the last four courses?

From a listener's point of view, the ringing during that period was such as to cause me to suggest that it was not a true peal. Generally speaking, this part of Sussex is not a district where one would expect to find ringers enthusiastic enough to make a journey with the object of listening to a peal. But on this occasion the unexpected happened, and I am very much surprised at the conductor allowing such a performance to be published as a peal.—Yours truly,

'LISTENER.'

THE BELLS OF LYDD.

NEW RING OF EIGHT AT THE 'CATHEDRAL OF THE MARSH.'

By E. EDWARDS.

Saturday, March 6th, will be long remembered in the ancient town of Lydd as one of the most important and interesting days in its history, for it was the occasion of the dedication of the church bells.

The Church of All Saints, dating, in part, from Saxon times, chiefly built eastward in the 13th century, lengthened westward in the 14th century, and finally completed about 1450 by its magnificent perpendicular tower, is one of the most beautiful in the county of Kent. It is the longest parish church in the Diocese of Canterbury, measuring from east to west 199 feet, and its tower is 132 feet in height. Situated in this corner of Kent, so rich in noble churches, it is often designated the 'Cathedral of the Marsh.'

Its bells, only five in number, had been long in a parlous condition; they were pronounced unsafe to ring, the framework was decayed, and the tenor bell cracked and chipped beyond repair. Messrs. Gillett and Johnston were consulted, and upon their advice the five old bells were recast with metal added, and the ring augmented to a peal of eight. The bells have been hung in a solid teak frame, and tuned on the Simpson principle. The whole work has been most successfully carried out, and, in the opinion of all who heard it, Lydd now has a peal perfect in tone and quality, and unsurpassed in the county.

The dedication ceremony was a short festal evensong, commencing with a hymn, in procession, sung by the choir and a large number of clergy from neighbouring parishes. The service was conducted by the Rev. Canon Collins (the Rector), assisted by the Rev. Dr. Lummas. The Dean of Canterbury gave an address of great interest, in which he described the history and various uses of bells from early times, and referred to bell ringing as a great work in the house of God. The choir and clergy then moved in procession to the tower, singing the hymn, 'When morning gilds the skies,' and the Mayor (Mr. Arthur Finn, F.S.A.) requested the Dean to dedicate the bells to the honour and praise of God. The bells then rang out for the first time.

At 4.15, a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples was begun by the selected band from the Kent County Association. This was broadcast by the R.B.C. with great success, and brought telegrams of congratulation from Wales and France, while innumerable letters had been received from all parts of the country, expressing admiration of the sweetness of the bells, and the excellence of the ringing.

At 5 o'clock the Mayor entertained the ringers of the district, with the choirmen and sidesmen of the church, to tea at the Town Hall, about 90 being present.

Some friendly discussion took place on the much debated subject of Simpson tuning, and it was unanimously agreed that nothing could be more beautiful than the bells which had been heard for the first time that day.

A word of praise should be given to the excellence of the singing of the choir during the service. The Mayor and Mr. E. C. Mitchell shared the duties of presiding at the organ.

Too much cannot be said of the splendid work carried out by Messrs. Gillett and Johnston, who spared no trouble to ensure a satisfactory result.

On Sunday, for evening service, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples (1,260 changes): T. W. Player (Stone) 1, C. W. Player (Stone) 2, R. Birch (Hythe) 3, H. S. Humphrey (conductor, New Romney) 4, A. C. Kay (Ashford) 5, A. G. Wratten (Hythe) 6, E. W. Powell (Ashford) 7, S. J. Bouldeu (New Romney) 8.

FIRST PEAL OF LONDON AT NETLEY.

The peal of London Surprise, at Netley Abbey, Hants, on Saturday, was the first peal on the bells since November 30th, 1912.

After the peal the band were kindly entertained to an excellent meat tea at the Victoria Cafe by the Vicar (the Rev. R. E. Henty Summers), who is himself a ringer, and an hon. member of the Winchester Diocesan Guild, and to whom a vote of thanks was accorded for his kindness and welcome.

It is very gratifying to know the local band are anxious to join the Guild, and thus affiliate the tower again to the Guild.

READING'S VETERAN VERGER.

On Friday, March 5th, the bells of St. Laurence's Church, Reading, were rung half-muffled, as a last mark of respect to Mr. G. Foxell, for more than 50 years verger and parish clerk, who passed away on March 1st, at the ripe age of 99 years and eight months. The following touches were rung: 518 Grandsire Triples: R. T. Hibbert 1, Miss D. Blencowe 2, Miss S. Davis 3, Miss V. Robinson 4, J. W. Higgs 5, C. Brown 6, H. Tucker 7, H. Simmonds 8. 504 Stedman Triples: C. Brown 1, Miss M. Cross 2, Miss S. Davis 3, Miss V. Robinson 4, J. W. Higgs 5, H. Tucker 6, R. T. Hibbert 7, W. Hibbert 8. Also 306 Grandsire Caters.

THE JOHNSON COMMEMORATION DINNER. A BROAD HINT TO EDGBASTON.

Mr. A. Paddon Smith, the hon. secretary, responded to the toast of 'Continued Prosperity to the St. Martin's Guild.' If he had been able to do anything at all for the Guild it had been due almost entirely to the loyalty and hearty support of the officers, and of every member. They were a very loyal body indeed, and the secretary would indeed be a 'ring' if he could not get on with such a body behind him (applause). They were particularly fortunate in having Alderman Pritchett as their presiding Ringing Master. At their annual meeting they re-elected him, and they would not let him resign as long as they could induce him to accept office (applause). He was an ornament to the Guild, and a distinguished man outside ringing. Continuing, Mr. Smith said they as ringers thought 'no small beer' of themselves. They thought they were an important body of men, and perhaps they might be, but it was well sometimes to take notice of what other people thought of them. The following appeared in the 'Birmingham Mail' recently: The diocese of Exeter has 3,000 bell ringers. In other parts of the country the trouble is 'foot-and-mouth disease' (loud laughter). 'Foot-and-mouth disease', of course, was a very mild term compared with some of the things which would be orators in the Bull Ring sometimes called them (laughter). Proceeding, Mr. Smith said they had had a very successful year. They did not regard peal ringing as the sole hall-mark of a good or successful society, but their chief object was to perform efficiently in the belfries on Sundays for Divine Service. He took strong objection to their work being described as a means of calling people to church. It was one of the greatest acts of worship that ever took place in connection with any church—a good peal of bells well rung (applause). It had nothing to do in these days with calling people to church. They had an excellent band at St. Martin's, and there were good bands at, among other churches, Erdington Parish Church and Catholic Church, King's Norton, where an excellent job was made of recasting the bells, and where, if the ringers were not altogether satisfied, they were not grumbling at the tone of the bells, but because they were anxious to get two more (hear, hear). They could do very well with an excellent peal of ten in that neighbourhood—they were not too well off near the city for ten-bell towers—and he hoped at no distant date that they might be able to congratulate the King's Norton men on having two more bells. There were also excellent hands at Perry Barr and Solihull, and a good six-bell company at Edgbaston. Unfortunately the band there was considerably better than the bells warranted (laughter). The bells were not in keeping with the church to which they belonged, and he could not understand how the people of that wealthy parish put up with their piffling little peal of six (laughter and hear, hear). The Vicar of Edgbaston was present that night, and they all hoped he would take steps to provide his ringers with a peal of bells worth ringing on. If their use was merely to call people to church, he suggested that the Vicar had a very poor congregation (laughter). The speaker added that at St. Martin's they had been able to do a little special ringing in connection with the mid-day services on Thursdays, and it was a fact that on many Thursdays they had rung eight, ten, and, sometimes twelve bells. He doubted whether there were many places in the country where they could get together twelve ringers to ring voluntarily for an ordinary mid-day service on a week-day (applause).

A HANDBELL GIFT.

Mr. Albert Walker submitted 'The Visitors,' and said they welcomed the Birmingham clergy who were present, as they also did the representatives of the numerous ringing societies from all over the country. They were specially delighted to have with them Mr. Challis Winney (applause), so that they could bestow on him the welcome which he always gave to visitors to London, where he was a real 'guide, philosopher and friend.' He would find many friends in Birmingham, and he hoped he would now come every year (applause). They also welcomed Mr. Young, the secretary of the Central Council. They had to thank Mr. Young for all he was doing in trying to alleviate the suffering of their dear old friend, Mr. John Carter. Mr. Young had brought with him Mr. Carter's handbells, which he (Mr. Carter) desired he (the speaker) should accept as a personal gift. He accepted those bells as their Deputy Ringing Master, and he took it as a tribute to the Guild that they had been presented to him. Mr. Carter hoped that a peal each of Forward Major, Royal and Maximus would be rung on them, and in this they would endeavour to gratify him (applause). In conclusion, Mr. Walker again welcomed the visitors, and wished success to their respective associations.

Canon Blofeld, who first replied to the toast, said the gentle hints thrown out about the bells at Edgbaston had been going home for some little time, and he had dropped gentle hints in his parish. After what he had heard that evening he would continue to drop hints, a little less gentle, perhaps. He had found it difficult just at this moment to make a positive appeal. It would be a great help to them to have a good peal of bells, but his parish, in common with others, was being appealed to strongly for large sums of money to provide, not bells, but more churches for the one hundred thousand people in that diocese who at the present time had no church in their own district, and he found it difficult, therefore, to make a positive appeal for what was, to some extent, a luxury for themselves. But that did not mean that he would not take still fuller opportunity of reminding people that here was an opportunity for a gift, either in memory of someone or for some other high reason, to provide Edgbaston with what they certainly ought to have (applause). He was always an optimist, and he did not think he would leave Edgbaston without seeing these bells hung and hearing them rung many a time (applause). He agreed with Mr. Smith in the view that the ringing of church bells was as essential part of the worship itself, and he admired the spirit which was always manifest among ringers in doing all they could in promoting their particularly high calling.

Mr. C. F. Winney had a cordial reception when responding to the toast, and had some interesting reminiscences to tell.

Mr. E. A. Young also replied, and remarked that dinners like that had a great value in maintaining the social atmosphere which was characteristic of ringers. It was all to the good that St. Martin's Guild held a gathering of that kind to preserve the memory of Henry Johnson, and he hoped the traditions which had been set up would long continue.

'THE RINGING WORLD.'

Mr. Frank Smallwood proposed the toast of 'The Ringing World.' He complimented the editor upon having, since the very first number, written the weekly leading article, which always gave them something to think about, and also upon the splendid fight which the paper had put up in the endeavour to save Coventry bells. He stood, said the speaker, for the protection of the Exercise from the results of acts of vandalism, and the support which was given to ringing in every way was a great asset to ringers. Ringers in their turn, therefore, should support the paper, and should do their utmost to increase the circulation among those who at present did not subscribe to it. He often wondered what would happen if the editor got tired of his task and gave it up. Would the Central Council take over the paper? It certainly could not be run by a body of the financial standing of the present Council, which affiliated members at half a crown a time. While they had a good man at the head of affairs they should support him, and increase their support so that he might do what he knew it was his desire to do, give them a larger paper at a cheaper price (applause).

Mr. J. S. Goldsmith, in responding to the toast, said the solution of a larger paper at a lesser price was a larger circulation. Like the B.B.C. programmes, the contents of the paper was often criticised, some critics being of opinion that it was too 'high-brow,' and others that it was too 'low-brow.' Within the limits of the present size it was impossible to satisfy everyone, and the most important thing at the moment was more pages. That was an expensive course, and it was not fair that the extra cost should, under existing circumstances, fall either on himself or on the present readers. The people who should provide the money were those ringers who at present did not buy a weekly copy. If these would, just for a few weeks, demonstrate their willingness to regularly support the paper by becoming subscribers, it would be possible quickly to decide if a permanent enlargement of 'The Ringing World' was a financial possibility.

Mr. A. Paddon Smith, in the absence of Alderman Pritchett, who had had to leave to attend another gathering, gave 'The Chairman.' Their Rector was already very much appreciated in that city. London's loss was Birmingham's gain, and although they did not want to pat their own backs it was gratifying to know that there was still one place a man might go to after London, and that was Birmingham (laughter and applause). They hoped, as they believed, that the Rector had a distinguished future before him and some day doubtless they would see him a Lord Bishop (applause). Without wishing him ill-luck, however, he hoped that day, for the sake of Birmingham, might be fairly distant (laughter and applause).

The toast was drunk with musical honours, and the Rector, in replying, said, although he had been present at a great many dinners, that was the first time he had had the opportunity of taking the chair, so that one of his pleasantest memories would be associated with the honour they had conferred upon him in that assembly (applause).

This concluded the speeches and the proceedings, which had been most enthusiastic and enjoyable, concluded with the National Anthem.

The whole of the vocal music was splendidly sustained by Mr. Tom Davies and Mr. Dai Thomas, who each gave some delightful songs, and were also associated in duets, Mrs. Tom Davies being the accompanist. Tunes on handbells, played by Messrs. A. Walker, T. Miller and H. Withers, also gave great pleasure.

SIMPSON TUNING.

To the Editor.

Sir,—I have very little to add to what I have already said on this matter. My chief complaint is against the vandalism which is continually going on, in smashing up so many beautiful peals of bells of good mellow tone, absolutely true to ear. Just because some of them happen to be a few vibrations out, a fact which it is impossible to detect except by the tuning fork, they are ruthlessly condemned, and in many instances substituted by bells of vastly inferior quality. There is no denying that five-toned Simpson-tuned bells when rung, produce poor, thin, soulless music, with an enormous amount of hum, and can only be heard to any advantage a long way away, which certainly does not benefit those whom they were intended to benefit.

Let our bell founders drop those two top harmonics. They can then give us proportionately thicker bells with an improved tone. I am pleased to note that this is now being done by 'some' of our founders, and might well be copied by others. We should not then be having bells falling off at the crown, as we have had in more than one instance recently.

Last year I was able to examine a peal of bells, with a tenor of over 30 cwt., tuned on the five-toned principle, and noted how some of the larger bells were laced about on the inside, especially near the crown, presumably to produce the two top harmonics, the inside of some of them presenting an appearance like the waves of the sea. I remarked then to some of my ringing friends that it was no wonder bells fall off at the crown when they are subjected to such unequal vibration, and I should not at any time be surprised to hear of many others sharing the same fate.

Of the peals of bells Mr. Laffin mentions, I have only heard one, the peal of twelve at Leicester, which are undoubtedly a very good peal, certainly not over-Simpsoned, and cannot by any means be classed with a new light peal of eight recently installed in this neighbourhood, which a very musical friend of mine, who lives near the church, describes as the finest set of tin cans he ever heard. I agree with what Mr. Groombridge says, with one exception, where he says a bell is improved in tone when it has been retuned. You may bring a bell in line with the tuning fork by retuning it, but you certainly do not improve its tone. On the contrary, you make the tone harsh and iron, compared to what it was before.

About two years ago a peal was augmented to eight at a church in the Rochester Diocese. The tenor was a tolerably good bell, by Taylor, and had done duty for between forty and fifty years. It was a little out of tone, and was taken away to be retuned. When put in the tuning machine, and its outer skin was cut away, the metal was found to be spongy, and the bell became a 'dud,' and had to be recast. Now, this was no fault of the firm who did the work, but I mention this case, which proves to the hilt the theory I advanced more than three years ago, when I stated that the resonance of a bell lies in its outer skin.—Yours, etc., E. BARNETT.

MACCLESFIELD'S SPLENDID RING.

Dear Sir,—May I have a few lines, in answer to Mr. Walker's invitation to the ringers who have had new peals recently to give their opinions re the old and new methods of casting the tuning?

We had here what I always thought were a very good peal of ten bells, eight by Rudhall, and the trebles by Taylor. The tenor cracked about sixteen years ago, and, because we proposed a scheme to make them into a peal of twelve, we had, for various reasons, to wait a long time to get the job completed. Personally, I think this has been a blessing in disguise, as I don't think we should have had as good a peal as we have got now if the job had been done at once. I have heard nothing but praise for the twelve bells we have got now, and although I thought our old peal were good, they were not to be compared to the present ring.

When the bell hanger, Mr. R. Lane, came to hang them, the first words he said to me were, 'You have got in your tenor one of the best bells for its weight we have ever turned out at Loughborough.' When, at the opening day for ringers, one of the church officials asked for the opinion of visiting ringers, the late Mr. J. W. Washbrook said he had never heard better trebles than the first four bells.

Mr. Barnett, in his letter, said Simpson-tuned bells were always thin, and of the tin can type. We have got no tin cans in ours.

Mr. Lilley says he thinks Shrewsbury bells will want a lot of beating, and I am of the same opinion as regards Macclesfield. We have got a beautifully balanced peal of good tone, and no howlers, which are a credit to the firm who cast them, and everybody here thinks the £2,000 they cost well spent.—Yours truly, J. NORBURY.

SURPRISE MINOR AT FULMER.

On February 15th, at St. James' Church, 720 Wells Surprise Minor. On March 2nd, 720 Norwich Surprise Minor. On March 10th, 720 Primrose Surprise Minor: J. W. Harrison 1, Miss P. M. Moss 2, G. H. Gutteridge 3, F. Corke 4, H. Wingrove 5, C. C. Mayne (conductor) 6. First in these methods by all the band.

REVIVAL OF RINGING AT BRAMSHOTT, HANTS.

On Wednesday, March 3rd, at the invitation of the Rector (the Rev. Mr. Polchampton) and the members of the Parochial Church Council, the members of the Holy Trinity Society of Guildford visited the Parish Church of Bramshott, Hants, with the object of reviving change ringing there. Demonstration touches were rung in Bob Minor and Grandsire Doubles, and one or two of the local men also took part in some of the ringing.

After ringing, the visitors were entertained to supper in the Liphook Village Hall, at which the Rector presided. Those also present included the Rev. A. H. Taylor and the Rev. A. H. Bowles, Colonel Overton and Mr. W. H. Wright (churchwardens), Mr. A. C. Dryden, Mr. W. R. U. Critton and Capt. Spriggs (members of the Church Council), and about twenty young men of the parish who are interested in the art, and anxious to learn to ring.

Afterwards, the Rector proposed a hearty vote of thanks to the Holy Trinity Society, and Mr. A. H. Pulling, who responded, gave some practical advice on change ringing, which was very much appreciated, and at the conclusion of his remarks he was accorded musical honours.

Mr. W. H. Wright, who made all arrangements necessary for the ringing, including the provision of a conveyance for the visitors from Liphook Station to the church, and Mrs. Wright, who was responsible for catering for the supper, must have worked very hard to make the evening such an enjoyable one.

LANCASHIRE ASSOCIATION.

A meeting of the Rochdale Branch was held at East Crompton on Saturday, March 6th. About 30 members were present, including ringers from East Crompton, Todmorden (Unitarian), Newhey, Teesfield, Crossstone, Milnrow, Todmorden Parish, Balderstone, Middleton, Ashton and Disbury. Touches in various Minor methods, including Grandsire, Kent and Oxford, London Scholars' Pleasure, Woodbine and Plain Bob, were rung during the afternoon and evening. In the evening, two framed peal boards were unveiled, one by Mr. Mason, one by the churchwardens, and the other by Mr. G. Wild, the chief ringer. They each expressed their pleasure in being asked to unveil the boards, and afterwards a vote of thanks to them was passed.

The business meeting then followed, the Vicar of East Crompton, who extended a hearty welcome to those present, being in the chair.

A vote of condolence to the relatives of the late Mr. J. Harrison, of Heywood, was passed.

It was resolved to hold the next meeting at Whitworth on April 10th, and a vote of thanks to the Vicar and wardens for the use of the tower and bells, and also to the local ringers for having everything in readiness, brought the meeting to a close.

BELLS ON THE GRAMOPHONE.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—Referring to your correspondent's letter re gramophone records and bell ringing, the only record which, to my knowledge, reproduces changes on bells is one issued by the 'His Master's Voice' people—the Gramophone Co., R. 599, 10-inch. The description in their catalogue is 'Changes on Ten Bells,' so it is probably a recording of 'popular changes.' It was made by the carillon at Bournville Village.

I might warn your correspondent against the Columbia records of the Trinity Chimes of New York, as the trebles are dreadfully flat. Of course, these are only hymn tunes.—Yours sincerely,

JOSEPH W. HIGGS.

BOW BELLS.

Sir,—You were so kind as to print a letter from me, on the subject of gramophone records, in your issue of January 22nd, and I have now to thank Mr. H. F. Cooper for the information he supplies in your issue of February 12th. From Mr. A. L. Coleman, I have heard also of the following, which is actually on sale, and which I have thus been able to obtain:—

'Homochord,' Part I. and Part II., S. 020. L. 00474.5. 'Full peal of the original Bow bells, Chempside, London.'

Rounds on the 12 bells on one side, and some changes of Cinques on the other, this record gives a very fair representation of actual ringing, although its title leaves something to be desired.

Much has been said of late on the subject of preserving records of the past. Present-day records become in time records of the past; and one wonders why it is more gramophone 'records' of ringing have not been taken, especially on some of the more celebrated rings of bells. In the recent case of Coventry bells, it would have been possible, with the help of the gramophone, to have preserved some record of them rung in peal for the benefit of those of the present day, as well as for posterity, and as an example of the work of the 18th century bell founders, which it seems is doomed to vanish.—Yours very truly,

G. P. BURTON.

Beechwood, Old Cailton, Norwich.

SUNDAY SERVICE TOUCHES.

We regret that, owing to the demands upon the space available for Sunday Service Touches, we are unable to undertake to insert anything less than a quarter-peal on eight bells and upwards, and 720 of Doubles or Minor. Many correspondents send us quite short touches for publication and they must not be disappointed if we are unable to find room for them.

HARBORNE.—At St. Peter's Church, on Sunday, March 14th, for evening service, 720 Grandsire Doubles: L. Grosvenor 1, E. Cairns 2, S. Grove (conductor) 3, F. H. Hawkins 4, G. W. C. Virgo 5, N. James 6, T. Otley 7, R. D. Clark 8. Rung, with the bells half muffled (6 and 8 covering), as a last mark of respect to Mr. H. Grosvenor (for 40 years tower keeper at the above church), who died earlier in the day.

CAERPHILLY, GLAM.—On Sunday, March 14th, for evening service, at St. Martin's Church, and also for the 15th anniversary of the opening of the bells, a quarter-peal of Kent Treble Bob Major, in 50 mins., the first quarter by all the band: S. Addicott 1, E. Dare 2, W. Pike 3, P. Jones 4, A. Addicott 5, W. Dare 6, H. Broughton (conductor) 7, G. Cooke 8.

RICKMANSWORTH.—At the Parish Church, on March 14th, for evening, a quarter-peal of Bob Major (1,264 changes), in 50 mins.: W. Croseley 1, H. W. Kirton 2, T. Stephenson 3, F. W. Elliott 4, A. Jones 5, E. Hookham 6, J. B. Marks 7, J. H. B. Freeborn (conductor) 8. First quarter-peal in the method by ringers of 1, 5 and 6; and by a local band.

NORTH REPPS, NORFOLK.—On Sunday, March 14th, for evening, 720 Grandsire Doubles (six extents each differently called), in 24 mins.: E. L. Riscrow 1, J. W. J. Brown 2, C. Pooley 3, H. F. Carter 4, F. N. Golden (conductor) 5.

SANDIACRE, DERBYSHIRE.—At St. Giles' Church, on Sunday, March 14th, 720 Ipswich Surprise: W. Halford 1, W. R. Drage 2, J. Hall 3, A. Freeman 4, R. H. Cox 5, H. Turner (conductor) 6.

PETERBOROUGH.—On Sunday, March 14th, for evening service, at St. Mary's Church, 720 Cambridge Surprise Minor: P. Rowlinson 1, Miss K. A. Jutson 2, E. Wakeling (first in the method) 3, Miss A. M. Dale 4, W. H. Waldron 5, J. J. Jutson (conductor) 6.

CHIPPING BARNET.—On Sunday, March 7th, at St. John's Church, for evening, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples (1,260 changes), in 49 mins.: T. Smith 1, R. Sturgeon 2, F. Chandler 3, J. Sumpter 4, R. Roffey 5, F. A. Milne (conductor) 6, H. J. Eldred 7, G. Herbert 8.—On Feb. 27th, for evening, a quarter-peal of Bob Major (1,264 changes), in 49 mins.: T. Smith 1, S. Casley 2, F. Chandler 3, R. Roffey 4, J. Sumpter 5, J. A. Dart 6, H. J. Eldred (conductor) 7, S. Child 8.

ELM, CAMBS.—At the Church of All Saints, before evening, on Sunday, March 7th, 720 Bob Minor, in 26 mins.: R. Welbourne 1, S. J. Haw 2, F. Crofts 3, L. Fletcher 4, G. F. Mason (conductor) 5, R. W. Crofts 6.

PORTISHEAD.—A very impressive service took place at Portishead Parish Church, on Sunday, March 7th, to consecrate the new burial ground, which piece of land adjoins the church, and was presented by the late Mr. R. Hudleston (churchwarden). Numerous clergy were present, and the church was crowded. A quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples was rung in 45 minutes for this service: Miss G. Stadden 1, Miss A. Stokes 2, W. Edwards 3, Miss H. Orchard 4, J. Nisbet 5, A. E. Colburn 6, W. Gillingham (conductor) 7, J. Thomas 8.

YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION.

The annual meeting of the Southern Division was held at the Cathedral, Sheffield, on Saturday, March 13th. Most of the towers in the division were represented, ringers being present from Rotherham, Tickhill, Arksey, Wath, Handsworth, Barnsley, Doncaster, Bolsterstone, Wortley, Ecclesfield, Ramoor, St. Marie's, All Saints', and the Cathedral. Out-county members were also present from Norton, Bolsover, Dore, Eckington, Chesterfield and Killamarsh, bringing the number up to about 50.

The business meeting was held in the ringing chamber, the vice-president (Mr. F. Willey) presiding. The Rev. E. S. Powell, of Holbeton, Devon, was elected an out-county life member, and Messrs. E. Davenport, A. S. Robinson and R. Johnson, of Dore, were elected ringing members. Mr. F. Clark (Arksey) was re-elected secretary for three years, and was heartily thanked for his past services. Messrs. G. Holmes (Sheffield Cathedral), G. Clark (Arksey), C. D. Potter (Barnsley) were re-elected to serve on the committee for three years.

It was resolved that a letter of condolence with the relatives of the late Mr. William Lomas, of the Cathedral company, be sent.

For the joint meeting of the societies in the Southern Division area, Whiston, near Rotherham, was selected, if the necessary arrangements can be made; the date to be Saturday, June 19th.

Mr. G. Lewis gave a short account of the arrangements made to date for the annual association dinner, and appealed to all who possibly could to try and be present at that function.

Votes of thanks to the Cathedral authorities and to the local band brought the meeting to a close.

CANON ELLACOMBE'S BOOKS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—Mr. Borrett asks what became of Canon Ellacombe's books? I imagine that they were scattered. A few years ago I purchased 'An Account of Church Bells,' by the Rev. William C. Lukis, M.A., F.S.A., which is inscribed, 'The Rev. H. T. Ellacombe from the Author.' It contains a number of manuscript notes, and two reviews, one cut from 'The Guardian,' of December 8th, 1858, and the other from 'The Athenaeum' of December 19th, 1857.—Yours, etc.,

EDWIN H. LEWIS.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

A meeting of the Ashford District was held at Hythe on February 27th, when 20 members attended. The service was conducted by the Vicar (Rev. H. Dale), who also presided at the tea and meeting, it being the last occasion that he would do so before his retirement.

Ten new members were elected, and Sellindge was chosen for the next meeting-place, in April.

Touches of Stedman, Oxford and Kent Treble Bob, Plain Bob and Double Norwich were brought round till 8 o'clock, and a very successful meeting came to a close.

SUPERLATIVE SURPRISE ROYAL.

To-morrow is an anniversary of considerable interest to ringers. It is the centenary of the first, and, as far as we are aware, the only peal of Superlative Surprise Royal. On Monday, March 27th, 1826, at All Saints' Church, Huddersfield, 5,400 of this method was rung by a local band at the first attempt. Allowing for the fact that this company was, in its day, one of the most advanced, as it certainly was one of the most enterprising in the country having within the five preceding years rung, among other things, peals of Superlative Surprise Major, New Cambridge Surprise Major, and Cambridge Surprise Royal, the performance was both noteworthy and meritorious. It was Shipway, whose work for the Exercise Mr. J. A. Trollope is now discussing in his 'Notes by the Way,' who gave us this method of Royal, and it was Joseph Tebbs, of Leeds, one of the most able composers of that day, who made the peal possible by producing the composition. Unlike many of these old performances, where the truth of the composition is in doubt through the disappearance of the figures, this peal at Huddersfield has stood the test of time, for the composition has been preserved.

If the method had been produced in these days there is every probability that someone would have disputed it as the true extension of Superlative Surprise. At the Central Council meeting, in 1913, the Rev. H. Law James moved a resolution, expressing the opinion of the Council, to the effect that the method as published by Shipway was the same method as Superlative Surprise Major. The Council discussed, not the problem, but their ability to judge the subject, and adjourned it for a year, when the motion was ultimately withdrawn, in view of the general feeling that the Council was not competent to express an opinion. Now, at that time, we fancy, the peal of 1826 was unknown to the members of the Council, but the Wakefield performance practically sets the seal on the question, and we doubt if anyone would now seriously challenge its claim; especially as it is backed by so eminent an authority as Mr. Law James, who, if we remember rightly, produced figures to show that the plan, and that plan alone, upon which Shipway extended the method would enable Superlative to be extended symmetrically to infinity.

This peal at Huddersfield, therefore, has an added importance, in that it was not only the first of Superlative Royal, but clinched in practical and traditional manner the question as to what method should be designated Superlative Surprise Royal. The fact that Superlative Surprise Royal is not practised to-day is hardly a matter for wonder. Although more intricate than Cambridge, for the reason that the place making is broken up and the direction of the work is variable, the method is not to be compared with its rival, but it is rather surprising that, as a matter of curiosity, some of the expert companies have not rung a peal of it. In this centenary year, at all events, one may hope to see a peal of it rung. It would be an interesting performance, and one which, as a passing variation to the general trend of present ringing practice, should not be above the attention of the eminent exponents of Surprise Royal ringing.

SIMPSON-TUNING.

WHERE DOES THE RESONANCE LIE?

To the Editor.

Sir,—There is not the least doubt at all, Mr. Laffin has given it us in a nutshell; and, briefly, in plain but forcible English, has told us what is the cause of all this comment on Simpson-tuning. Those who are so prejudiced against it know that what Mr. Laffin wrote in 'The Ringing World' of March 5th last is the truth, and nothing but the truth. My congratulations to Mr. P. O. Laffin.

In the end one feels convinced we shall convert Mr. Barnett; that is, if he would come away from the 'sunny South' and come nearer the icy North than the Leicester twelve, which he agrees 'are undoubtedly a very good peal, certainly not over-Simpsoned.' That's done it! Simpson-tuning (as we know it) is not half done, or over done, but it's done 'just' as we Simpsonites like it, and as we get it from the leading founders of the day. Surely Mr. Barnett will agree the Leicester twelve 'might well be copied by others.'

Concerning bells that are a few vibrations out, Mr. Barnett says this is 'a fact which it is impossible to detect except by the tuning fork.' Really, when will Mr. Barnett realise that if he cannot detect vibratory loss, or gain, without the aid of a pitch-fork, there are people in this land who can! This is not conjecture, and if he will reason with himself he can only arrive at one conclusion, and that is, nature in her wisdom endowed mankind with diversified senses, and that accounts for one hearing what another cannot, or will not! As Mr. Barnett has mentioned the tuning fork, may one ask him a question? Is that fork forged, or cast to the standard pitch, or is it 'skinned' till it becomes the requisite standard? He speaks also of a bell which was found to be 'spongy.' Now, Mr. Barnett has let the 'eat out of the bag,' and we understand how far he is advanced in the science of metallurgy.

Admitted that years ago Mr. Barnett advanced his theory, 'that the resonance of a bell lies in its outer skin,' but I maintain that not only the outer skin, but also that theory, is rubbish! If I am wrong I am open to correction, but only when Mr. Barnett has shown us a bell that is nothing but outer skin! Will Mr. Barnett tell us what that metal is for which comes within the outer skin? If we are to believe his theory, all that which comes between the outer skins is 'mute'!

One may be pardoned for advancing a common-sense theory, and say (1) The resonance of a bell lies in the alloy, which must form one homogeneous whole, free from porosity! (2) The distribution of the metal in a bell—as well as the composition—has much influence on the tone, and founders who know how to do so, and can Simpson-tune, just 'skin' off any malproportions which are detrimental. (3) The Worshipful Company of Painters Paperhangers and Decorators have a practical knowledge of skin-deep tone in paint or paper, but it would be ridiculous, and the very height of presumption, for that body to attempt to lecture on the resonance of metal till they have passed through varying stages in the School of Metallurgy, and know a bit about blow-holes-and-sand, cohesive attraction and repulsion, and the tensile strength of that alloy which alone is resonant, and of a truth lies WITHIN the outer skin.

Take that! And wait for York! They won't be over-Simpsoned, nor half done. That's the faith of all Simpsonites, such as IRENEUS.

SOME COMPARISONS.

Sir,—There is one, and only one!—'Tis a truism, and we can only say what Shakespeare said, by saying what he said—

'That rises like the issue of a king;
And wears upon his baby brow the round
And top of sovereignty'!

With Mr. Groombridge I differ, there is only one Simpson-tuning, and that is Simpson-tuning! (there is no alternative) which is good! and it is because it is the 'Round and top of sovereignty' which is causing all the 'fuss'! Mr. E. Barnett says: 'A Simpson-tuned bell is always a thin bell, and when it is rung gives out a note which savours very much of the "Tin Can" type, because it has been robbed of the amount of metal necessary to produce a good, bold rich note.' I am going to put my old friend into a quandary, or the handstroke tittum position. Pardon the poetic diction. For—

'A little learning is a dangerous thing,
Drink deep, or taste not the Pierian spring'!

Mr. Barnett seems to me to be very interested in the Simpson-tuned peal, but from what I can gather from his letters his knowledge is very limited indeed on the subject. He talks about 'robbery,' 'the Tin Can type,' and thin bells, which is good proof that he is talking, or writing, without the knowledge he would have us believe he has. What has my friend got to say about that bit of interesting reading at the bottom of page 140 in the recent issue of the 'R.W.'? Mr. Barnett will, perhaps, pardon my saying that he is on the 'wrong horse,' and I am inclined to think he is slightly mixed, and is confusing 'Simpson-tuning' with 'bells tuned to modern ideas.'

What is my friend's opinion of Coalbrookdale? The old tenor of eight was a ton in E, 'this bell, we are informed, has been lowered to D without recasting, and is of splendid tone. . . . The tenor is one pound short of 19 cwt. . . . (and) they are not Simpson-tuned.' Will our friend denounce or vindicate this 'robbery' of 113lbs. of metal taken from the tenor alone? Will he tell us in what way he considers that reduction will affect this bell, whether she will be 'Tin Can type,' or a good, bold rich note? Reader, these are fair questions, but they are nasty ones for Mr. Barnett to answer, and is only a turning of the tables on my old adversary, for these bells are not Simpson-tuned at Coalbrookdale. And come—

'Come all the four corners of the world in arms, and let me hurl a 'real Simpson-tuned peal' in your faces, to wit, 'the bells of St. Mary, Ilkeston'—they, with their own brazen lips, refute anything which any Simpson critic may have to say, either against tone or robbery of metal.

Let our friend study these facts, let him go into detail, and find out from this peal alone where thin bells are to be found. I quite agree, our friend has a perfect right to his own opinion but he must also agree that other people hold an equal right, and there are people N., E. and W. also, as well as the South, who have ears to hear, eyes to see, and have an idea of what constitutes a bell inside and out!

The Old Peal.				The New Simpson Peal.

For invidious reasons, the name of the founder of the 1902 bells is withheld, and the new peal was founded by 'Strad-e-various,' and he redistributed the metal, and these bells are 'GOOD,' second to none in the county.

Will Mr. Thomas Gofton confirm this statement? He, I understand, was held spellbound by their beauty of tone! and has got the 'twin sister' installed in his tower.

A final thrust, Mr. Editor, Simpson-tuning is established, and it's come to stay, and in the ear of the 'Simpson-tuner,' I whisper—

Ye tuneful ploughman, bear in mind
Your labour is for future hours;
Advance—spare not—nor look behind—
Plough deep, and tune with all your powers!

for—A.M.D.G.—and His Church!—Yours sincerely,
A. TOUNSEND BAKER.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.

As Good Friday falls in next week, 'The Ringing World' will be published on Thursday. This necessitates going to press one day earlier than usual, and correspondents are requested to note that all matter for publication should reach this office as early as possible, and in no case later than Monday.

NOTES BY THE WAY.

SHIPWAY'S CONTRIBUTION TO THE ART OF RINGING.

By J. A. TROLLOPE.

Shipway published his 'Campanalogia or Universal Instructor in the Art of Ringing' in three parts, which, with reprints, appeared at different dates during the years 1812 to 1830. The title page says that it was printed for the author, and sold by Sherwood, Neely and Jones, Paternoster Row, and by all booksellers and newsmen. The 1830 reprint was printed by Charles Wood and Son, Poppin's Court, Fleet Street, and sold by Sherwood, Gilbert and Piper, Paternoster Row. We are told that it contains 'full and comprehensive instructions for the young practitioner, with a variety of methods and peals both curious and entertaining, each method arranged under its proper system, on an entirely new plan, including such new compositions as will be either useful or ornamental to the Exercise, in which is introduced the favourite systems of TREBLE BOB, WITH VARIATIONS, also general rules for composing, calling (or conducting), and proving peals; and the manner of bringing bells into rounds when required. The peals composed and collected from the authors, and carefully revised.' The title page of the 1816 edition differs from the above, and adds that the book contains 'an account of the origin of bells in churches with the principal peals of bells in England.' The claim is made, you see, to deal with the whole of the subject of ringing, and in his preface the author tells us that he 'presumes to add' that it 'is the most complete treatise ever published on the subject.' And after studying the book, I think we must admit that he has fairly justified his claim.

The one thing which strikes us most about Shipway is that he was eminently a man of system and order. He first of all saw exactly what he had to do, he mapped it out in proper proportion and order, and he carried it through according to a regular and well thought-out plan. None of the books on ringing is better arranged than this one, and though it is a big book, running to over seven hundred pages, there is no need of an index; one can always know exactly where to look for anything that is wanted.

The book opens with 'a concise account of the origin of bells in churches,' followed by 'a short view of the antiquity of ringing in peal, and the origin of change ringing, with a list of the principal peals of bells in England.' This part of the book is of comparatively little value; Shipway probably thought he ought to include it for the sake of completeness. He then comes to his main subject, which he divides into three parts, which were published separately. In the first he gives a lead end of each of a selected number of methods, with rules for ringing it. In the second he deals with composition and proof, and gives touches. The third part consists of peals.

His selected methods he divides into twelve systems, each system consisting of a method and its variations. These systems are as follows: 1 Bob, 2 Place, 3 Grandsire, 4 Union, 5 Oxford Bob, 6 Court Bob, 7 London Court Bob, 8 Norwich Court Bob, 9 Stedman's Slow Course, 10 Treble Bob, 11 Stedman's Principle, 12 Shipway's Principle. Except in the case of Treble Bob the variations comprised in any system consist of the Single, Reverse and Double on all numbers, both odd and even. These variations do not easily apply to Treble Bob methods, and, in that system, he includes not only Oxford and Kent, but the three Surprise methods, London Treble Bob, Imperial, and College, Cumberland and Morning Exercise. Of the systems, Place, Court and Shipway's Principle were his work, and entirely new. Oxford Bob was new, except for the double variation on six bells; London Court was new except for the double variation on eight bells; Norwich Court was new except for the double variations on eight and ten bells; Stedman's Slow Course was new except for the double variation on six bells; of the Treble Bob methods, London Treble Bob and London Exercise on all numbers were new, and so, too, were the extension of College Exercise to Caters, and Morning Exercise, Imperial and Superlative Surprise to Royal; and the even bell variations of Stedman and the double and reverse of the same method were new. Double Norwich Maximus was new to Shipway and the London ringers, who did not know that about the same time the Maneroft men had not only produced it, but were ringing it.

It will be seen that Shipway's contribution to method construction was very large, but it cannot be said that his new methods have proved of any particular value, or have been to any extent adopted by the Exercise. As I have already told, peals of Place Triples, Major and Caters were rung by the Cumberlands, but after then the method, of which Shipway seems rather proud, died out. No doubt, the fact that a bell lies for three consecutive blows in one position was sufficient to condemn it in the eyes of ringers. Still, constructionally, it is a very interesting method, and worth studying by those who are interested in the theory of ringing.

I have already given the version on seven bells. Here is Double Place Major. It will be seen that the plan of the method is quite simple. All the bells plain hunt backwards; that is, the odd bells come down and the even bells go up, and they lead and lie at back and hand instead of hand and back. To make this work fit in with the plain forward hunting of the treble, every bell has to make two places as it passes that bell, one on either side of it, and the bell next the treble's whole pull before and behind has to lead or lie three blows. Now, it is one of the great constructional laws of methods that when any bell makes two places on either side of the treble immediately next it, the result is to reverse these two bells in coursing order. This is how Double Norwich is constructed, and it is what I have called a 'Court Shunt.'

This operation by itself will produce on eight bells the lead end, 13527486. In Double Place Major you have got as many of these Court Shunts as you can have, i.e., ten. You have also got Second's and Seventh's, when the treble is leading and lying (the Extreme Shunts). Each of these Extremes by itself will give the same lead end as a Court Shunt. And so the lead end of Double Place Major will be 2345678, transposed by 3527486 twelve times, i.e., 6482735.

Some later composer tried his hand at improving Shipway's method. His object was to get rid of the three consecutive blows, and to vary the method just enough to do that, and bring up the same lead end. Here is the result of his labours, which was printed by Hubbard, under the title of London Place Major. I imagine that it was called London, because below the treble it is something like the arrangement of London Surprise.

- 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8
- 2 1 3 5 4 7 6 8
- 2 3 1 4 5 7 8 6
- 3 2 4 1 7 5 6 8

- 6 8 1 7 5 4 3 2
- 6 1 8 7 4 5 2 3
- 1 6 8 4 7 2 5 3

In this variation the defect of the three consecutive blows is, indeed, done away with but the method is not symmetrical, and the general plan that Shipway had in his mind is entirely spoiled. Neither of the methods has ever been practised, and neither is really worth practising. Shipway's remarks on his method are rather interesting. 'This system originated with the author of these pages by whom it was matured and brought forward in the year 1800. The propriety of thus early introducing it to notice will be apparent if we consider the similarity of operation that prevails between this and the first system (he gives it as his second method next to Plain Bob), for though constructed upon opposite principles, the one consisting of dodging, the other of place-making, yet whatever composition is produced by the one can, with equal certainty and regularity, be produced by the other; and like that may be obtained on any number of bells (from four to twelve) without any dodge whatever; it is, indeed, superior to it in one respect, which is that it is as regular on an odd as on an even number of bells.

'Double Place ringing is the third method of this system, no part of which has yet been rung. This, therefore, may be considered as affording an excellent opportunity to the young admirers of this most ingenious art of rendering themselves more perfect; for, although rung without any dodgo, the practitioner will find his mind abundantly occupied in the making of places, and as they succeed each other with the utmost rapidity he will find it necessary to bestow the greatest attention when so employed.

The comparison with Plain Bob seems to me very strained, and the appeal to the young ringers is revealing. No doubt then, as always, older ringers were conservative and hard to be induced to take up new methods. What was good enough for our fathers is good enough for us.

Rung at Overseal, Derbyshire, by the Midland Counties Association, conducted by M. Swinfield, on February 6th, 1926.

SUFFOLK GUILD.

A quarterly meeting of the Suffolk Guild was held at Framsdon on Saturday last, and was attended by about 20 members from Debenham, Framsdon, Helmingham, Ipswich, Otley, Uford, Earl Soham, and Framlingham. Helmingham bells being available, ringing was indulged in there during the afternoon, after which the visitors proceeded to Framsdon, and partook of tea at the Greyhound Inn.

The business meeting followed, with the Master in the chair, supported by the secretary of the Guild.

A little discussion took place over the question of nomenclature of methods, also on the advisability of getting a practical ringer to assist archdeacons when reporting on the condition of bells and fittings.

It was decided to hold the next quarterly meeting of the Guild at Framlington, on April 17th, and a meeting of the Debenham district at Stonham Aspal on May 1st, due notice of which will appear in 'The Ringing World.'

The methods rung during the day included Bob Major, Treble Bob, Double Norwich, Cambridge, London and Stedman Triples.

EXTENSION OF COURT BOB.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—The extension of Double Court Bob to Maximus that I gave in 'The Ringing World' on July 10th last has a progression of 231 to infinity.

Further discoveries have settled the mathematical relationship of Double Court Bob Minor, Double Norwich Major, and the methods known as Double Norwich Royal and Maximus.

Following are the half-way transposition rows: Equivalent to a progression of 345612 from Major upwards, but how it is arrived at is a secret best known to myself for the time being.

- Minor 345612.
- Major 34567812.
- Royal 3759182046.
- Maximus 37521e406t98.

Yours faithfully,

BELFRY GOSSIP.

The bells at Christ Church, Southport, are being rebung. Owing to the local Point-to-Point Steeplechases, the meeting of the N.-E. branch of the Devon Guild at Silverton, announced for April 10th, has been postponed to April 24th.

While steeplechases and church bells have little in common, it is not uninteresting to know that the former word is derived from the fact that originally this form of racing took place across country with the winning post at some prominent landmark, usually the church steeple.

One hundred years ago to-morrow, on March 27th, 1825, the first, and, so far as we are aware, the only peal of Superlative Surprise Royal was rung.

A record peal of Treble Bob Royal which stood for a hundred and thirty years was put up by the Cumberland Youths at Shoreditch on March 27th, 1784. This was a round 12,000, and was the culmination of a period of rivalry in long lengths between the two old London Societies.

On March 27th, 1815, 10,008 Grandire Caters was rung at New College, Oxford.

The only peal that was ever completed in that method—a peal of 5,040 'New Double Triples,' was rung at Shoreditch on March 28th, 1750.

The first peal rung by a band of Kent men was at Wye on March 29th, 1736. It was a peal of Grandire Triples.

A peal of 10,080 Oxford Treble Bob Major was rung on April 1st, 1727, at St. Michael Coslany, Norwich, in 6 hours 28 minutes. A next year will be the bi-centenary, perhaps the present Norwich ringers will begin to think of suitably celebrating the event.

Mr. J. F. Galyer, who rang his first peal of London Surprise last Saturday at Beddington, is only 16 years of age. His progress has been rapid, for he only learned to pull a bell 15 months ago, and his opportunities are limited, as his work keeps him engaged on Saturday afternoons in the ordinary course.

THE LATE MR. GEORGE BOLLAND. REQUEST FOR ANNIVERSARY MUFFLED PEAL.

The will of the late Mr. George B. Bolland, of Tong, Yorkshire, a vice-president of the Yorkshire Association and member of the Central Council, has just been proved.

Mr. Bolland left £4,221 (net personally £4,071). He bequeathed a sum to the Vicar and Church Council of Tong Church for the benefit of the ringers, and expressed a desire that the latter should ring a muffled peal on the anniversary of the testator's death.

THE CENTRAL COUNCIL.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I shall be much obliged if, through your columns, you would allow me to ask whether any representatives of the Central Council who may have saved their agenda leaflet of the Salisbury meeting in 1924, will kindly send it to me. Unfortunately, through an oversight, the spare leaflets were not brought back from the meeting, and there is consequently not one for the Council's archives. Such a donation will be much esteemed.—Yours faithfully,

E. ALEX. YOUNG.

THE TURNER'S HILL PEAL.

To the Editor.

Sir,—I shall be pleased to answer the letter criticising the above, if your correspondent will: (1) Specify his charge; and (2) sign his name. Anonymous attacks of this description should not, in my opinion, be admitted to your columns.—Yours, etc.,

KEITH HART.

BOW BELLS ON THE GRAMOPHONE.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I was rather puzzled on reading Mr. Burton's letter in last week's 'Ringing World' regarding the Homochord Record of Bow Bells. Being one of the band, I thought it would be a good idea to have one tried over, which I did, and found that Part II. side gives all rounds, and Part I. side call changes, including a good many repetitions of the 'Whittingtons.' This is exactly as I expected. Where Mr. Burton gets his Cinques from I do not know. Still, the record gives a very fine reproduction of the tone of Bow bells, especially if the rate of the motor is adjusted to produce the note of the tenor, which I think is B. Also a soft needle should be used.

I shall be pleased to post any ringer a record who cannot get one locally, on receipt of postal order for 2/6, plus postage.—Yours faithfully,

F. G. SYMONDS,

THE FIRST PEAL OF SUPERLATIVE ROYAL CENTENARY OF A MEMORABLE PERFORMANCE.

A peal of Superlative Surprise Royal was rung for the first, and, so far as our information goes, only time at All Saints' Church, Huddersfield, one hundred years ago to-morrow. The extension from the Major was obtained by Shipway, who published it in his 'Campanologia' in 1816. Whether it was ever practised elsewhere than in Huddersfield we do not know, but this Yorkshire tower had an exceedingly capable band at that time, and, after ringing what was believed to be the first peal of Superlative Surprise Major in 1821, they went on to Cambridge Major and Royal, and then accomplished the Superlative Royal. That they were proud of their performance is only natural, and a record of it, surmounted by a woodcut of the church and giving in addition to the customary particulars the figures of the method and the peal, was printed and privately circulated. The record is as follows:—

On MONDAY, March 27th, 1826, the COMPANY of All Saints' RINGERS, Wakefield, ascended the Tower of the Parish Church, and had the honour of Ringing, in a masterly style a true and complete Peal of Superlative Surprise Royal, consisting of 5,400 Changes, in Three Hours and Twenty-Six Minutes by TEN MEN only (Tenor weighing 31 cwt.). The great superiority of this Peal over any other is it being the only true Peal ever rung in the Kingdom in so intricate a method, and will be a standing laurel for the Society for ages to come. The Peal was composed by Mr. JOSEPH TEBBS, of Leeds, and was by him presented to the Society, and rung by them at the first attempt. The peal was nobly conducted by Mr. WILLIAM WOODHEAD, and Rung by the following Persons:—

Shipway gives the figures of Superlative Royal under the heading of 'Trebis Bob Royal, with variations.' There are only three given, viz., Morning Exercise, Imperial and Superlative. He remarks, 'The Oxford and Kent methods being omitted, the following are inserted as specimens of the manner of putting those difficult methods on ten bells; such as the surprise, imperial, etc., peals; and which, most probably, will only serve for the speculation of the curious. But if at any time there should be found a set of ingenious men, bold enough to attempt such difficult methods on ten or twelve bells, I have no doubt that they would be enabled to produce, if desired, more than is here inserted; as I have only given one of the exercise and surprise peals, with the imperial.'

THE RECORD PEAL ATTEMPT.

EASTER MONDAY'S BIG JOB AT LEEDS.

The announcement that an endeavour is to be made at Leeds, Kent, on Easter Monday, to put up a new long length record, by attempting 22,033 Stedman Caters, has aroused considerable interest in the Exercise, and the band of Kent Association men will start with good wishes for their success from all quarters.

The company will be a mixed one, and includes several well-known names. The 'man at the helm' is that brilliant conductor, Mr. A. H. Pulling, of Guildford, who, among other things, called the 19,738 Stedman Caters on handbells in 1912.

Mr. H. R. Newton, one of the band holding the existing record, the 21,365 Stedman Caters at Appleton on April 22nd, 1922, writes: 'Good luck and a good peal is the wish of H. R. Newton to Mr. Pulling and his band on Easter Monday next at Leeds.'

The attempt will almost coincide with the anniversary of the 40,320 Bob Major rung at Leeds on April 7th and 8th, 1761, in 27 hours. James Barham and twelve other ringers took part in this peal.

James Barham, who was the leader of the Leeds Youths, died in 1818, having been a ringer from the year 1744.

The tower at Leeds is a curiosity, in that it is little higher than it is wide. It was built in the year 1119.

The tenor is a very good bell of just over a ton, cast by Joseph Hatch, of Ulcombe, a parish in the neighbourhood.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

NORTH BUCKS BRANCH AT PADBURY.

A meeting of the North Bucks Branch was held at Padbury on Saturday, March 20th. This meeting had been previously arranged to take place at Chicheley on Saturday, March 6th, but had to be postponed at short notice owing to serious illness near the church. An outstanding invitation from Padbury was, therefore, accepted, and the meeting proved to be quite a success, the attendance numbering about 30, which was considered good, seeing that Padbury lies rather wide of those towers in North Bucks which are in union with the branch. The following were represented: Bleckley, Beachampton, Buckingham, Fenny Stratford, Stony Stratford, Shenley, Twyford, and the local ringers. The service was conducted by the Vicar of Padbury (the Rev. Dr. W. K. Firminger), it being the first time that he had had the pleasure of addressing the North Bucks branch, he having spent many years in India at Calcutta. On returning to England he accepted the Padbury living. The Guild form of service was used, and a friend of the Vicar (Dr. Faulkner), who was on holiday from India, and who only arrived the previous day, very kindly officiated at the organ.

Tea had been provided near the church, and the Vicar welcomed the members to tea as his guests.

After tea was over, the secretary stated that he had no special business to bring forward, only to explain why they could not hold the meeting at Chicheley, as previously arranged. He hoped to visit that place at a later date. He selected Padbury because he had been specially asked to visit that tower as soon as convenient, and thought it an opportune time. It would appear by the attendance that it had been quite a success. He wished most heartily, on behalf of the North Bucks branch, to thank the Rev. Dr. W. K. Firminger for so kindly entertaining them at Padbury, and felt sure that the members appreciated what he had done, and hoped that they would have the pleasure of coming again.

The Vicar responded, and remarked on the good work that such organisations did. The branch could visit Padbury at any time when they cared to come.

Votes of thanks were also passed to Dr. Faulkner for officiating at the organ (it was learned afterwards he fulfils a position of organist in Calcutta), and also to the ladies for providing tea and attending to the requirements of visitors.

This brought a most pleasant meeting to a close, and further ringing took place, the methods including Grandsire and Stedman Doubles, while Minor methods ranged from Plain Bob up to London Surprise.

M.C.A. ANNUAL MEETING.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—With reference to the note signed 'W. R. E.,' as I have no bona-fide member on the roll with these initials, and the writer prefers to be nameless the matter cannot be discussed.

My notice appeals to all members to come and join in the service, and I sincerely trust this will be generally responded to. Further comment is needless.—Yours truly,

ERNEST MORRIS,

24, Coventry Street, Leicester.

BARNSELY & DISTRICT ASSOCIATION.

The March meeting was held at Royston, near Barnsley, on Saturday, March 20th. Ringing commenced at 3 p.m., and was kept going until 4.15 p.m., when, by special invitation, service was held in church, conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. C. Lambert), who, while brief in his selection of suitable prayers and hymns, gave an address, which was wide in its warm judgment and happy inspiration.

Tea followed, under equally happy auspices, in the Schoolroom, about 40 sitting down. All were then invited to join in a photographic group taken in front of the church porch, the Vicar and officials of the association being in the centre.

The business meeting was held in the Schoolroom, many interesting items being dealt with in detail.

The next meeting may be at South Kirby.

The remainder of the evening was spent in ringing.

VETERAN BLACKPOOL RINGER'S DEATH.

A well-known figure in Lancashire ringing circles has passed away, in the person of Mr. Robert Rawcliffe, whose death took place at his home, Rawcliffe Farm, Lytham Road South, Blackpool, on March 16th. He had been a ringer for more than half a century, and came of an old and honoured Blackpool family, for there have been Rawcliffes in Blackpool since its village days.

The deceased was one of the band of eight ringers who, fifty years ago, rang a peal of welcome in the belfry of St. John's Parish Church to the first Mayor, the late Dr. W. H. Cocker. He afterwards became chief ringer at South Shore Parish Church, where he served for 25 years, from the time the bells were dedicated, after being recast and rehung in 1898. He resigned in 1923, after having occupied the position of hon. secretary of the Fylde branch of the Lancashire Association for a number of years. He had also served for some years as sidesman at South Shore Parish Church.

Until his health gave way, Mr. Rawcliffe was very regular in his attendance at service ringing and meetings.

Mr. Rawcliffe leaves a widow, two sons, and two daughters to mourn their sad loss.

The funeral took place at Bispham Parish Church on Saturday last, and on Sunday the bells at South Shore Parish Church were rung half-muffled.

Mr. Rawcliffe's son is now one of the ringers at South Shore.

DEATH OF A SHEFFIELD RINGER.

MR. J. W. SMITHSON, OF ALL SAINTS' BELFRY.

The death took place, at Sheffield, on Sunday, March 14th, of Mr. John William Smithson, who passed away in his 44th year. The deceased was a ringer at All Saints' Church for over 25 years, being the eldest son of the late Mr. William Smithson, who also was a ringer at the same church for a long period.

The funeral took place on Thursday, March 18th, when deceased's brother ringers acted as bearers from the church to the grave, after a very impressive service, which was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. W. G. Largie). At the graveside a course of Grandsire Triples was rung by Messrs. A. Craven, C. Harrison, W. Stubley, and the Rev. B. F. Sheppard, Precentor of the Sheffield Cathedral, all members of the Yorkshire and the Sheffield and Old East Derbyshire Associations.

In the evening, touches of Treble Bob Major and Grandsire Triples were rung at All Saints', with the bells half-muffled as a last token of respect by his colleagues, and friends from the Cathedral, St. Marie's and Dore.

DUDLEY AND DISTRICT GUILD.

The annual meeting of the Dudley and District Guild was held at Dudley on Saturday, March 13th, when the proceedings began with ringing on the bells of St. Thomas's Church. A service was conducted by the Vicar of Dudley, the Rev. Canon Phelps, R.D., president of the Guild, who also gave an eloquent address. At the close of the service an adjournment was made to the King Street Schools, where tea was in readiness, the funds for which were provided by subscriptions collected by Mr. Herbert Sheppard, from prominent members and friends of St. Thomas's congregation, who are all staunch supporters of the Guild. The following ladies presided at the urns: Mrs. John Goodman, sen., Miss A. S. Payne, Miss E. Marke and Miss Bessie Sheppard.

At the business meeting which followed, the president occupied the chair, and was supported by Mr. Harry Mason and Mr. Arthur Spittle, vice-presidents.—The Chairman, on behalf of himself and the churchwardens and Parochial Church Council, gave the members a most hearty welcome to the Parish Church and to Dudley. Apologies were announced from Mr. C. E. Lloyd, M.P., Messrs. Naylor and Watson (churchwardens), Mr. F. R. McDowell, Mrs. Phelps, Miss Piggett, Mrs. Holbrook, and others.

The Secretary referred, in very feeling terms, to the terrible tragedy that had occurred in Dudley in the families of two of their most respected members, Mr. Arthur Spittle and Mr. James Bayliss, and a vote of sympathy was passed.

The secretary then read his annual report, which, with the balance sheet, was duly confirmed and passed.

The election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows: President, the Rev. Canon Phelps, R.D.; vice-presidents, Messrs. C. E. Lloyd, M.P., J. W. Naylor, H. Watson, F. R. McDowell, Harry Mason, Arthur Spittle and J. M. D. Tait.

Mr. John Goodman, jun. (Dudley) was re-elected Ringing Master, and Mr. Herbert Sheppard was re-elected as hon. secretary, and thanked for his valuable services to the Guild during the past year. Mr. S. J. Hughes (treasurer) was re-elected, as were also the hon. auditors, Mr. E. Evans (Sedgley) and Mr. T. Justice (Bilston). Several new members were added to the roll of performing members.

It was proposed to hold the next quarterly meeting at Wombourne, providing the usual permission was obtained.

Other business of a routine character having been transacted, a vote of thanks (proposed by Mr. Harry Mason, and seconded by Mr. Arthur Spittle), was accorded the president for his kindness in welcoming the Guild to Dudley, for conducting the service in church, for his eloquent and forceful address, and for the use of the tower and bells and schoolroom. The subscribers to the tea fund and the ladies presiding at the tables were also thanked, and a similar vote was passed to Mr. Cutler, the organist, for the musical portion of the service.

The President briefly replied, on behalf of all concerned, and several members then returned to the belfry, and kept the bells merrily ringing until nearly nine o'clock.

OFF TO NIGERIA.

Mr. W. Hibbert, junr., sailed for Nigeria on Wednesday week, and will be absent for two years. On Monday, Mar. 15th, a party of ringers met for some farewell touches at St. George's, Heaviley, Stockport, when Stedman and Grandsire Caters were rung, but the breaking of a rope put a finish to an attempt for a touch of Double Norwich. On handbells, 413 Stedman Caters was rung by A. Barnes 1-2, H. Jackson 3-4, A. F. Bailey (conductor) 5-6, F. Page 7-8, W. Hibbert 9-10.

Mr. W. Hibbert served for two years in the office of steward in the Ancient Society of College Youths, but was unable to accept the Mastership this year owing to his removal from London, and was thus prevented from following in the footsteps of his father, Mr. R. T. Hibbert.

'DE QUACKINABILIS.'

TO THE NOBLE SOCIETY OF (CAMBRIDGE) COLLEDGE YOUTHS.

Gentlemen,—I have seen a Treatise (not) intituled de Quackinabilis—that is, of Little Ducks, the Language Higher Critics, but penned by a Double Dutchman—being a discourse of playing tricks with little words with traps under the syllables, and I thought it worth a Drake's labour to write something on this art or science, though, when I say 'write,' I mean not that I write, but that my friends write and I attach my name, not that it is my name really as I call myself by three several, and as you are intended to understand mutually exclusive names, and if anyone objects a fault, excuse it with the ringing term of which I am not to know the meaning, being a well-wisher to your recreation, and so no partaker nor reputed expert in it, as all these take their part only for the love of filthy lucre—he was over-belled—and you will much oblige him, whoever 'him' is by failing to point out that, according to the aforementioned treatise, 'him' is the acknowledged clever exponent of this recreation, and is not I, that is—no—is reputed to a well-wisher to your—our—my recreation.

CAMPANISTA SECUNDUS.

MUFFLED BELLS.

At the Parish Church, Bispham, Lancs, on Sunday, Feb. 21st, for evensong, a quarter-peal of Minor (1,260 changes), consisting of 540 Plain Bob and 720 Oxford Bob, with the bells deeply muffled, as a last tribute of respect to the late Rev. Canon Leighton, for 38 years Rector of Bispham Parish Church, who died on Sunday, Feb. 14th, and was interred. It was mainly through the Canon's efforts that the peal of eight bells was placed in the church as a war memorial. The Canon retired from the living about four years ago, and has been residing near Mansfield, Notts: G. Parkinson 1, A. Parkinson 2, J. Jackson 3, G. Dewhurst 4, R. Benson 5, C. Sharples (conductor) 6.

At St. Mary's Church, Bucknall, Stoke-on-Trent, the following three new Double Surprise Methods were rung by the local band, and at the first attempt: February 11th, for practice, Audley; February 21st, for morning service, Stoke; February 28th, for evening service, Stafford, conducted by Mr. W. Wheeldon.

LOUGHBOROUGH CARILLON.

A correspondent of the 'Nottingham Evening News' writes as follows: 'Has Loughborough lost interest in its fine War Memorial Carillon? Certainly appearances seem to point to this state of affairs. I visited Loughborough yesterday with the idea of ascertaining when recitals are given on the bells. At the gate of the park the only notice was almost indecipherable owing to fading. This notice informed the visitor that the tower could be ascended for a fee of sixpence. There was no indication of the time recitals are held. I asked several passers-by, but they all expressed complete ignorance, and their faces almost expressed surprise that anybody should be showing interest in the Carillon.'

MISCELLANEOUS PERFORMANCES.

METHOD NAMES.

New recommendations on method nomenclature, by the committee appointed by the Central Council to go into this question, are embodied in a report which appears in our columns to-day. The subject is to be considered at the Whitsuntide meeting at Ipswich, but the report makes a timely appearance, in view of the annual meetings of so many of the leading associations which will be held on Monday and in the succeeding weeks. It is hardly likely that there will be any general discussion on the report at the majority of these provincial gatherings, but ringers will be able if they so desire to express their views and so get their opinions represented to the Central Council through their delegates. Moreover, the early publication of this report will give the Council themselves ample time to digest its contents and make up their minds in regard to it.

The recommendations are in somewhat different form to those which appeared in the original report last year, but they cover practically the same ground; hence some of them will be found highly debatable. As will be seen, the committee suggest one or two primary principles in regard to method naming with a view to avoiding the muddle which has arisen in the past through a method having more than one title, or the same name being used for more than one method. In addition, they propose that for the future the use of only approved titles shall be recognised by the Council. If the Council indicate the limits within which they are prepared to give their sanction, we imagine that these points will be readily agreed to by all except those who decline to be governed by any rules, and who desire to be a law unto themselves.

Some of the remaining recommendations, however, are likely to be challenged either wholly or in part, and particularly those which relate to the changing of existing names. Had it not been for the Peals Analysis Committee's obduracy in extending the application of floral names to new methods—the science of change ringing, after all, has nothing, even remotely, to do with horticulture—the proposal for finding new titles for old methods would probably never have been made. Ringers generally would have been content to let sleeping dogs lie, but to have a further instalment of this absurd class of nomenclature—absurd, that is, for what is, after all, a mathematical science—thrust upon them naturally aroused them to opposition. The Nomenclature Committee's efforts in regard to the alterations have been directed to substituting place names, but even so objection to individual changes is bound to arise, as well as the opposition which may be expected from some quarters to the whole principle of interference. The early publication of the report will, however, as we have already mentioned, provide everyone with the fullest opportunity of giving mature consideration to the details, and the rank and file of the ringers will, in a large number of cases, have the chance of expressing their opinions if they wish to do so.

CRITICISMS OF 'CRITICUS.'*LONG PEALS AND THE PUBLIC.—PEAL RINGING CLASSIFICATION.—SHIPWAY AND SHAKESPEARE.

Some people are never happy unless they can get one better than the rest. We see it in all walks of life, among both sexes, in all creeds and countries. Mrs. Jones like to out-do Mrs. Brown in the smartness of her hats just as much as Mr. Brown longs to out-vie Mr. Jones in the size of the gooseberries which he grows. If Mr. Phineas Grabham can 'put it over' Mr. Theophilus Snatchit in a deal in bananas or imported rabbits he inwardly rejoices, while outwardly showing that calm and inscrutable countenance which we are taught to associate with those who do the big things with other people's goods. And do not we all feel cock-a-whoop if we can do something in the way of ringing which some other fellow cannot or has not done? The microbe of 'go-one-better' eats into the vitals of all of us more or less if we have a ha'porth of ginger in our composition, and we are usually so reckless about it that, like a certain peer, whose utterance has passed into an historical saying, we are usually prepared to 'damn the consequences.' We mind not what the public may say about us, it may be even more forcible than the above quotation, but we ought to be a little wary of what we inflict upon the listeners. Wasn't it a mistake, for instance, to ring a seven thousand and something of Cambridge Maximus at Bow? Those who are interested in ringing admire the ability of men who can put up a performance like this—and I am one of the greatest admirers of these men—but what must the people who are not interested in ringing think about it? I mention this, not specially to criticise the ringing of this peal in the midst of a great city, but as an illustration of what sometimes happens when the ringers think only of themselves.

And now we come to the point. In arranging for the record-breaking attempt on Easter Monday, has the public been considered? I have never had the pleasure of visiting Leeds, and for aught I know there may not be a house within a mile or two, but if it stands anywhere near the village street—well, much as I like bells and ringing, my sympathy will go out to the parishioners. In old James Barham's days, apparently, they had to like it or lump it, but the times have moved since then, and folk are not so inclined to take things lying down. In these days they quickly sit up, and I hope that when the bells are getting towards the end of that twenty-two thousand irate villagers will not make the ringers 'sit up' as well. We all hope for the best, however, and will await with interest the result of this test of muscle and brain. There will be a certain fitness in things if the longest length single-handed is rung in the tower where the longest length of all was rung. No one, I think, disputes that the 40,320 was rung there in 1761, but out of the thirteen who are said to have taken part I wonder how many of them saw the clock round at a stretch, as the ten men will have to do, and more than do, if they are to get home with the peal they are out for next Monday?

It is wonderful what ringers will put up with in the shape of personal discomfort in order to get a peal. Even a common or garden five thousand will give some men such crops of blisters as keep their hands tender for a week; yet they even take a pride in them. But ask the same men to suffer similarly for the sake of digging an allotment, and—well, they'll tell you that's a different story. And I suppose it will be the same at Leeds next Monday. Ask those same ten men to dig in their respective gardens for fourteen or fifteen hours without pause, without food, aye, and without a drink, and what would they answer you? If I am mistaken in my surmise, I have a pretty expansive plot of ground which needs digging, and which they can come to any day by appointment and demonstrate the fact that it is not merely for ringing that they do these things.

The breeze from the North-East—I don't mean the one that a week or two ago sent us back to our greatcoats by day and hot-water bottles by night, but the one that rustled the pages of 'The Ringing World' recently—has died away, and left a perfect calm, but all the same, whatever may happen in the dioceses of Durham and Newcastle, I know there are many ringers up and down the country who feel they are 'out in the cold' so far as peal ringing is concerned. They see week after week peals rung by more or less the same ringers; crack bands who, as an occasional act of grace, condescendingly let in a solitary soul for his 'first in the method,' but who for the most part are an exclusive company. They form the opinion that these men, already set in the seats of the mighty, do not want to be bothered with the humble and meek who have not reached the 'Surprise' stage, or, probably, have not yet got beyond plain methods. They may be wrong in their view, but that is what they feel. Why cannot the men who belong to this category be organised into peal ringing bands by the associations to which they belong? If this were to be done, and, in effect, second, third and fourth 'class' companies—'class' based upon their ability as method ringers—helped systematically in their peal ringing aspirations by the associations to which they pay their annual subscription—often for no more opportunity than attending an occasional district meeting—there would soon be more enthusiasm among these men. It would mean that sometimes some of the 'top sawyers' would be asked to make a little personal sacrifice to help, but, unless they were utterly selfish folk, I do not think they would mind.

Most ringers will agree with Mr. Keith Hart that when a man wants to challenge a peal he should come out into the open. In effect, a person who challenges a published peal questions the honesty of the ringers, and it would be far better if he said plainly who he was, instead of assuming a nom de plume. There is always a disinclination to question the peals rung by others, and I can understand the reluctance a man may feel in calling a performance into question, even though he may honestly feel it has been a distinctly bad one. But when he does publicly cast doubt upon the validity of a peal it would be better for all concerned if he appended his name.

Every reader must have been interested in the peeps into history which Mr. Trollope has been giving us, and I am glad he has been able to tell us something about Shipway, and to give us an expert's valuation of his work. I don't know why, but I have always looked upon Shipway as the Shakespeare of ringing. They have nothing in common that I am aware of, except their initials, but I think of Shipway as having done for ringing what Shakespeare did for literature. Shipway left an indelible mark upon ringing, as Shakespeare did upon poetry. He had knowledge, insight and ability, but perhaps there may grow up a 'Baconian' school of thought some day who will say that Shipway was not the author of the work which bears his name. Some of us got a shock the other day when we first read that perhaps, after all, Fabian, of Cambridge, didn't pen his 'Tintinnologia,' and that we have been under a misapprehension all the time in giving his name to a method he didn't invent. For the moment, however, he seems to be reinstated on his pedestal, but when Stedman comes off his perch, who knows but that Shipway may not follow, and then perhaps someone may even say that 'Notes by the Way' were not written by J. A. Trollope, but by

'CRITICUS.'

THE LOUGHBOROUGH CARILLON.RECITAL SEASON BEGINS ON EASTER DAY.To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I have had my attention drawn to your paragraph taken from 'The Nottingham Evening News' regarding the Loughborough Carillon.

If Loughborough has lost interest in the carillon it is a very strange fact, but nevertheless true, that it has been decided to further enhance the appearance of the tower by completing it for all time at a further cost of £1,200. This sum has already been donated, and the work is to be finished this summer.

The notices at the gate of the Park are frequently renewed, but owing to the inclement weather we have been experiencing of late, these notices very soon become indecipherable, and it is unfortunate that the correspondent should arrive when the notice in question had faded.

As there are no recitals during the winter months it is obviously foolish to expect to see notices of recitals which are not to be given. I am surprised at the correspondent stating that all passers-by expressed complete ignorance regarding the recitals, and feel almost certain that if any stranger visits our Park and asks information regarding recitals, etc., almost anyone will be only too pleased and willing to give this information.

Our recital season commences on Easter Sunday, when the first recital will be given at 3.30 p.m. There will also be a further recital on Easter Monday at 3.30 p.m. Recitals will then follow every Sunday at 3.30, and as the weather improves there will be a mid-week recital on Thursday evening. I might also add that arrangements have been made for the carillon to be broadcast on Sunday, the 2nd May.

If any of your readers want any information whatever regarding the carillon I shall be only too pleased to supply it upon receipt of a letter asking for this information, but please disabuse your readers' minds of any ideas that we at Loughborough are not proud of our magnificent memorial.—Yours very truly,

Carillonneur to the Borough of Loughborough.

THE CENTRAL COUNCIL.

OFFICIAL MINUTES OF THE CHESTER MEETING.

The second session of the 12th Council (33rd meeting) was held in the historic Refectory of Chester Cathedral, on Tuesday, June 2nd, 1925, at 11 a.m. The chair was taken by the President, Canon G. F. Coleridge. There were present 72 members, representing 41 Guilds and Associations.

The proceedings opened with prayer, offered by the Dean of Chester, who extended a welcome to the Council.

The minutes of the last meeting having been published were taken as read, and duly confirmed and signed.

Apologies for absence were received from the Revs. A. H. F. Boughy, E. W. Carpenter, C. C. Cox, B. H. Tyrwhitt Drake, F. J. O. Helmore, Maitland Kelly, C. C. Marshall, C. E. Matthews and H. Simpson, Major J. H. B. Hesse, Alderman R. B. Chambers, Messrs. J. Barton, G. Bolland, C. E. Borrott, J. Carter, E. H. Lewis, C. R. Lilley, T. E. Metcalfe, J. T. Rickman, T. H. Taffender and W. Willson.

At this point the Lord Bishop of Chester, who had now arrived, addressed the meeting, and gave the Council a most hearty welcome to Chester.—The President, on behalf of the Council, thanked the Bishop and Dean for their welcome, and the Precentor for his presence.

Arising out of the minutes, the Hon. Secretary explained what had been done in reference to ringers' representatives being elected on Church Parochial Councils. Canon H. J. Elsee thought that further action was necessary, and after remarks by the Rev. C. D. P. Davies, the Rev. Canon W. W. C. Baker, the Rev. H. Drake, Messrs. C. T. Coles, E. W. Elwell and F. Wilford, the hon. secretary undertook to send a circular letter to the 36 diocesan secretaries.

The hon. secretary and treasurer (Mr. E. Alexr. Young) presented a financial statement, which showed that the year began with a balance at the bank of £82 17s. 1d., and that the balance, after the receipts and expenditure had been dealt with, was £71 8s. 7d.—The accounts were adopted, on the motion of the Rev. H. Law James, seconded by Mr. J. Griffin.

The hon. librarian (the Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn) then presented his statement of accounts, which showed receipts amounting to £8 4s. 3d. from the sale of publications, and an expenditure of £10 9s. 8½d., leaving a deficit of £2 5s. 5½d. The sales had been 250, as against 265 the previous year. The hon. librarian referred to some of the publications of the Council being now nearly exhausted or out of print, and the book of rules now being out of date. Arising out of his statement, it was agreed, on a proposal by the Rev. H. Law James, and seconded by Mr. T. Hervey Beams, that the hon. librarian should re-purchase copies of 'Preservation of Bells' held by Canon Elsee, and that he should also be authorized to sell the Corrigenda leaflets at 2d. per set, and further be authorised to obtain copies of the 'Bell News' for the years 1912-1915.

On the motion of the Hon. Secretary, seconded by Mr. A. A. Hughes, it was carried that the Council's publications be advanced in price by 50 per cent.

The President stated that the Standing Committee recommend that the Council's 'Rules and Decisions' be brought up to date, and submitted for approval by the Council at the next meeting, which was agreed to.

ELECTION OF HONORARY MEMBERS.—Those retiring, with the exception of Mr. H. Chapman, were unanimously re-elected, viz., Rev. A. H. F. Boughy, Rev. H. S. T. Richardson and Mr. J. W. Parker (the vacancy not being filled).

PEAL COLLECTION COMMITTEE.—The Rev. H. S. T. Richardson reported on behalf of the committee, and, though he had to apologise for the delay, said that they were now able to produce the result of many years' work, which was all in MSS. After some discussion as to whether the whole or part should be printed, the committee, at the request of the president, agreed to reconsider the matter, and return to it later on in the day.

THE LITERATURE AND PRESS COMMITTEE.—Mr. G. P. Burton reported on behalf of the committee, in the absence of the Convener (the Rev. C. E. Matthews). Mr. Burton was asked by the president to give a verbal report. He regretted that he was unable to make a statement. After a further statement by Mr. A. Paddon Smith and the Rev. F. Ll. Edwards (who was able to advert to useful work which was done during the year) on the motion of the president, the verbal statement was accepted.

METHOD COMMITTEE.—The Rev. H. Law James reported on behalf of the committee, and said they were now in a position to print the selection of some 70 or 80 Plain Major Methods. Year by year they had regretted the delay, but it was only now that the papers, as finally revised by Mr. Lewis, were to hand. The Rev. H. Law James formally moved the adoption of his report.—Mr. Trollope, in seconding, said that he hoped that the Major Methods would meet with the same success as the Minor, and he strongly recommended the work to the Exercise.

Mr. G. P. Burton, supported by Mr. T. Hervey Beams, deprecated the printing of the methods, especially as another committee (the Nomenclature) might have something to say as to the naming of them, but the Rev. Law James reminded the meeting that the committee was ordered at Lincoln to print the methods and attach the names, and this they proposed to do.—After some further discussion, the report was adopted.

PEALS ANALYSIS COMMITTEE.—The adoption of the report of this committee (which had already been printed in 'The Ringing World') was moved by the Rev. A. T. Beeston, and seconded by Mr. J. W. Parker. The former also moved that the names of the conductors of peals be omitted from the analysis, whereupon Mr. C. T. Coles moved further minor alterations, but, at the instance of the president, the report as presented was first adopted.—The Rev. H. Law James then moved that it be an instruction to the Analysis Committee to omit all points for peals, and this being seconded by Mr. C. T. Coles, was carried by a large majority.

TOWERS AND BELFRIES COMMITTEE'S REPORT was forwarded by Mr. E. H. Lewis. In this it was stated that experiments in the welding of cracks in bells were being made.—The report was adopted.—Arising from the report Mr. H. Fairclough, in referring to welding cracks in old bells, was prepared to put any member in touch with a firm in Warrington who were able to do such work.—After further discussion as to examples of welding cracks, the Council adjourned for lunch.

RECORDS COMMITTEE.—After the interval, the Rev. A. T. Beeston presented the report of this committee, which incorporated two years' records of new methods rung, and the new progressive lengths, which he read to the meeting, and moved its adoption, which was seconded by Mr. T. Hervey Beams, and carried.

The President here called upon the Rev. H. S. T. Richardson to resume the report of his committee. He said that the members had consulted together, and that Miss Parker had kindly undertaken to type the remainder of the collection, so that it could be placed in the library with the other typed volumes. The committee did not make any recommendation as to printing a selection of the peals, and it was decided to bring the collection up to date by including peals published since the first selections were compiled.—The report was adopted.

SCIENCE MUSEUM EXHIBIT COMMITTEE.—The Hon. Secretary verbally reported for the committee, and explained that the exhibit was still waiting to go into the new science gallery, and that Mr. Carter's ringing machine, which was still at Mr. Young's house, was being put into proper order, and a descriptive book of instructions being prepared to show how it was worked and controlled.—He moved his report, and the Rev. C. D. P. Davies, in seconding, referred to the unique value of the ringing machine, and stated that the committee would be glad to avail themselves of every opportunity given them by the authorities to form a good exhibit.—The report was adopted.

NOMENCLATURE COMMITTEE.—The report of this committee was read at length by Mr. G. P. Burton, who further explained the attitude of the committee. They admitted that many Minor names had been put right by the Analysis Committee in 1925, but there still remained considerable work to be done. They recognised that many of the old names which seemed absurd to laymen were deeply rooted by use amongst the Exercise. They deprecated the use of the word 'Bob' in many new methods. With regard to the suggested names, it would be seen that they had as far as possible endeavoured to link them with those previously used, where they had made a change. He appealed to the Methods Committee to work in cordial co-operation with them.—The report was seconded by Mr. T. Hervey Beams, who submitted that now was the time to get rid of objectionable names, especially in view of the re-issue of the Council's publications in the near future.—Mr. E. W. Elwell moved, and Mr. J. A. Trollope seconded, that the consideration of the subject should be adjourned until the report had been published, the former stating that it would be fairer if further consideration could be given to what they knew was a very difficult problem. He was not certain that some of the proposed names were any better than the old.—Mr. J. A. Trollope stated that the Methods Committee would have to move various amendments if the report was to be considered then. He did not think the use of the word 'Bob' in many methods was always redundant or objectionable. After some remarks by Alderman J. S. Pritchett, in favour of postponement, the Rev. H. Drake, as one of the committee said he had no objection to the adjournment, but he would remind the meeting that a year ago they were informed that the matter was an urgent one. He thought that an opportunity should be given to those who first rang new methods to state whether they approved of a proposed new name. He felt, however, that the Council should give its authority as to what term should be used, and as to the actual meaning of any term. After some further remarks, the motion to adjourn the discussion was carried.—The Hon. Secretary said he would like to propose a vote of thanks to the committee, who had endeavoured to do well by the subject.—This being seconded by the Rev. C. D. P. Davies, was carried, whereupon, at the suggestion of the president, the vote was amplified by being accorded also to the other committees for the work they had done during the year.

The hon. secretary then presented the card of instruction as to the care and use of church bells, of which 500 copies had been printed, one of which, at the desire of the Standing Committee, was handed to each of the members then present. It was for the Council now to instruct him how to proceed.—It was ultimately decided, on the proposal of Mr. T. Hervey Beams, seconded by the Hon. Librarian, that a copy be sent to each of the Archdeacons and the Secretaries of the Guilds, with a view to the cards being distributed amongst ringing towers and the Rural Deans.

The President then called upon Mr. Elwell to move his resolution: 'That considering the future possibilities of radio, the attention of the Literature and Press Committee of the Central Council be drawn to the performances of "bell chiming" occasionally broadcast, as such performances are liable to create a wrong impression of the true nature of bell ringing, and, further, to request the committee to bring to the notice of the British Broadcasting Company all unsuitable imitations of bell ringing which may be broadcast.' Mr. Elwell said he was desired by the Chester Guild to introduce this motion, as it was felt that reproductions of bell chiming and carillons gave the public the impression that ringing was of a mechanical nature.—The motion was seconded by the Rev. C. D. P. Davies, and carried, it being suggested that Mr. A. Paddon Smith might get into touch with the British Broadcasting Company.

Alderman J. S. Pritchett then proposed: 'That this Council, as a general rule, disapproves of the augmentation of peals of eight into peals of ten,' pointing out that the music of eight bells was from many points of view the most satisfactory, and that often a good ring of eight was sacrificed for a poor ring of ten, and that these were sometimes placed in towers which were totally unsuitable for them, both in respect to size and strength.—It was seconded by the Hon. Secretary.—The Rev. C. D. P. Davies, the Rev. H. Law James, Messrs. A. Paddon Smith and T. Faulkner, having spoken against the motion, and Canon Elsee partly in favour, it was lost by a large majority.

Mr. W. A. Cave moved his resolution: 'That, Rules and Decisions, 1891-1903, page 13 in the paragraphs headed: (a) On nine and eleven bells; (b) on eight, ten or twelve bells, to omit the words "in any one method."—This was seconded by Mr. T. Hervey Beams, and carried without discussion.

The Rev. E. S. Powell then moved: 'That, Rules and Decisions, 1909 (Rules 9 and 12), that it be an instruction to the hon. secretary, that he add the names of the proposer and seconder of a motion, when the same is printed in the agenda.' He said that he thought it would facilitate the transaction of the Council's business.—Mr. G. P. Burton seconded, and the motion was carried nem con.

THE NEXT ANNUAL MEETING.—The President said that the Standing Committee had considered where the next meeting should be held, and he desired to point out that the next one would be in the South-Eastern Counties. Canterbury and Ipswich had been suggested, and on behalf of the Standing Committee, he asked the Council to select the latter.—The Rev. H. Drake and Mr. C. Mee having supported this, and offered the Council a hearty welcome on behalf of the Suffolk Guild, the proposal was carried nem con.

THE WASHBROOK MEMORIAL.—The Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyr reminded the meeting that the Council had entrusted the Oxford Guild with the task of providing this memorial in Oxford. He asked those associations who had not yet subscribed to the fund to kindly do so.

The Hon. Secretary gave notice that at the next meeting he would move, 'That the time has now arrived when the Council should consider whether the so-called scientific or Simpson tuning is in the best interests of the Exercise.'

The meeting closed with a vote of thanks by Alderman Pritchett for the kind welcome given by the Bishop of Chester, the Dean, and the Cathedral authorities.—This was carried nem con., as was also a vote of thanks to the President, proposed by Mr. J. Griffin, and also a vote of thanks to the committee and secretary of the Chester Guild, which was proposed by Mr. W. H. Hillier.—This terminated the proceedings, and the Council rose at about 4.30.

HERTFORD COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

We are asked to state that the proprietor of the 'Herts Advertiser' is anxious to secure a photographic group of the ringers at St. Albans on the occasion of the annual meeting on Monday. The hon. secretary, therefore, appeals to the ringers to assemble in strong force at the west front of the Cathedral at 4.45 p.m. sharp. He trusts there may be a strong muster.

ELTHAM, KENT.—On March 19th, for Confirmation service, a quarter-peal of Kent Treble Bob (1,280 changes): F. Fraser 1, C. A. Andrews 2, Capt. Anderson 3, J. Lydiard 4, E. G. Goldring (first in the method) 5, W. J. Jeffries 6, F. Cullum 7, R. Brett-Smith (conductor) 8. Also 1,264 Bob Major on March 11th: H. Flowers 1, F. Fraser 2, J. Hurrell 3, C. Anderson 4, E. G. Goldring (first quarter-peal) 5, W. J. Jeffries 6, R. Brett-Smith (conductor) 7, F. Cullum 8.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

'Old Moore' is a boon to all 'Navigators,' for he not only foretells the weather, but gives the high water times. When he smiles, the wrinkles round his eyes resemble a horse's 'withers.' Old P. O. L. ought to have given the time of the pig party—did they pipe at eight or six bells?

In a recent attempt for Cinques at Bow Church, the tenor man performed a sort of mountebank feat, owing to the rope getting under his foot, which projected over the edge of the box. It may easily have been a very serious accident, due to the foolish practice of a somewhat careless habit. Peal ringers should beware.

The Cumberland Association's report, just issued, shows excellent progress made in the past year. The membership is now 16 on the honorary list, 40 performing members and 12 life ringing members.

A Sunday service ringing scheme has been tried for the first time, and Bridekirk, with 565.5 points, came out first, and have been awarded the association's certificate. Cockermouth were second with 431.9 points and Crosthwaite third with 422.3 points.

On April 5th, 1808, a peal of 10,097 Grandsire Caters was rung at Shrewsbury.

To-morrow is the anniversary of the 15,072 Double Norwich rung by the Kent Association at Erith in 9 hrs. 24 mins. in the year 1889.

In 1741, on April 7th, the Eastern Scholars rung the first peal of Treble Bob Royal, but this was afterwards found to be false. The peal was rung at St. Sepulchre's, Snow Hill.

The anniversary of the 40,320 Bob Major at Leeds, Kent, in 1761, falls on April 7th and 8th.

The first peal of Court Bob Royal was rung at Shoreditch by the Cumberland Youths on April 7th, 1801.

The long peal of Bristol Surprise Major (12,160) was rung at Knebworth, Herts, on April 8th, 1912.

Mr. George Baker tells us that Shipway's Superlative Royal is not the correct extension of Superlative Major. He says there is no correct extension to ten, any more than London can be correctly extended to ten, and the nearest that can be got on twelve was discovered by Mr. H. W. Wilde. This latter embodies the exact features of the Major, with the 'odd' place belonging to the 5-6 and 7-8 places made in 3-4 and 9-10 respectively, and with three pull dodges instead of double dodges in front and behind except before and after treble work. In the adaptation to ten bells, the extension only runs to a seven-lead 'touch.'

By a slip of the pen we referred to the first peal of Superlative Surprise Royal last week as having been rung at Huddersfield, whereas it was at Wakefield, as the extract from the record, which we reproduced, showed.

The ringer of the 5th in the peal of London Surprise at West Wycombe, published in our last issue, was Frank Bonham, and the ringer of the 4th in the peal of Minor at Wood Green was John G. Nash, not James G. Nash, as published.

The address of Mr. F. G. Symonds, who can supply gramophone records of Bow bells, is 52, Church Road, London, N.1.

MONDAY'S RECORD PEAL ATTEMPT.

All arrangements are completed for the attempt on the long peal record on Monday next at Leeds, Kent. At 6 a.m. a start will be made for 22,033 Stedman Caters by ten members of the Kent County Association.

Influenza, which prevented one or two well-known ringers taking part in the peal laid hold of the conductor during last week-end, but he hopes to be fit in time for the undertaking. In any event, we learn there will be a hand ready for the peal on Monday.

SALISBURY GUILD SECRETARY IN CYPRUS AN EXCITING EXPERIENCE.

The Rev. F. Ll. Edwards, secretary of the Salisbury Guild, has had a somewhat exciting experience in the island of Cyprus. In company with the Director of Education he went on a visit to a mining establishment on the north-west coast, where the two visitors were accommodated for the night in a hospital. Next morning, on going out for a stroll before breakfast, Mr. Edwards found one end of the hospital on fire, and within two hours the flames had spread through the whole building. Fortunately, he had plenty of time to remove his belongings, but his companion, in blissful ignorance of the swiftly approaching flames, was quietly taking a bath and on emerging from the bathroom found that his clothes had been carried out of doors. His toilet had to be completed in a clump of bushes.

It will interest members of the M.C.A. to know that the Director of Education in Cyprus is a native of a village near Loughborough, and was at school with one or two of the Taylor family.

SANDY BEDS.—At St. Swithin's Church, on Sunday, March 7th, for morning service, a 720 Woodbine Treble Bob: W. Fox 1, W. Deacon 2, G. Wells (conductor) 3, W. Holden 4, C. J. Ball 5, T. Bram 6.

NOTES BY THE WAY.

HOW THE ANCIENTS SURMOUNTED SOME OF THEIR DIFFICULTIES.—SHIPWAY AND COURT BOB.

By J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

The second new 'system of ringing,' introduced by Shipway, was one to which he gave the name of Court. What we now know as Double Court Bob Minor was an old and popular six-bell method, dating from some time about 1700. I imagine it was first rung in London, and was the production of one of the clever and energetic ringers (such as Dolan and Laughton), who filled the gap between Stedman and Benjamin Annable. We hear little and know little about these men, for they were before the days of peal ringing and peal boards, but it is quite safe to say that what they did had more effect on our present ringing than the doings of almost any other men who have since lived. It was they who gave us most of the standard methods, and who brought ringing out of its elementary stages into its present form.

If a man of 1660 were to re-visit us he would be very much at sea. He would not know our methods; most of our terms would be meaningless to him; peal ringing and calling by tubs and singles would be strange to him. But if the first-class ringer of fifty years later walked into one of our bellries, he would not find himself much out of place. He had never rung a peal it is true, and never heard of anyone else having done so; but he, no doubt, had made the attempt, and was looking forward to the time when his attempts would be rewarded with success. He would be able to ring Grandsire and Plain Bob, Stedman and Oxford Treble Bob; and, on six bells Cambridge and London Surprise. Even to-day a man with the same qualification need not feel himself a mere novice.

Ringing is a progressive art; there is always something fresh to be done. However experienced you may be, the methods you have not rung will always vastly outnumber the ones you have rung. But ringing has this striking quality, that owing to the fact that it is based on certain simple strong mathematical laws it has certain outstanding fundamental methods which will never grow out-dated and old-fashioned. As long as the Exercise lasts the standard methods will always remain the standard methods. As time goes on the number of them may be added to (though very slowly); the old ones are not in the least likely to become obsolete. And the great majority of these methods in their present form date from the years just before or just after 1700. There are ten of them in all. Bristol Surprise is the one modern production. Superlative Surprise dates from 1738, and the publication of 'The Clavis,' Grandsire and Plain Bob, composed in the middle years of the seventeenth century, were extended to seven bells and upwards, and equipped with recognised calls and with peals and touches in the closing years of that century, and the early part of the next. Stedman's Principle, designed solely as a five-bell method, and published in the 'Campanalogia' of 1669, was turned into a method for all odd numbers by 1730. Oxford Treble Bob was in regular practice soon after 1700. Cambridge and London Surprise were rung on six bells in Annable's time, and early extended to Major. Kent was an improvement on Oxford, first rung by Barham's band about the middle of the eighteenth century. The tenth method is Double Norwich, and that was intended at first to be no more than the eight-bell extension of Court Bob Minor.

It is not easy to see why every one of these standard methods should be so much more suitable for ringing than any others: why London, for instance, should be the outstanding one of a host of others, apparently just as difficult and as interesting; but we can see why Double Court Minor is a fundamental method. The linked places (4th's and 3rd's) about the treble are a bit of construction which occurs again and again in other and more complex methods. And the method itself has every quality to make it a popular and useful one. It was inevitable, then, that the ancients who were extending Plain Bob and Grandsire, Stedman and Treble Bob from six bells to eight, and from eight to ten and twelve, should try and extend Court Bob also. But here they had to face a problem which has almost completely baffled all succeeding composers down to the present time. That is to understand what are the real laws and rules of extension.

With the other simpler standard methods there is no difficulty. It does not take much thought to find out what are the correct extensions of Plain Bob, Grandsire, Stedman and Treble Bob. They are obvious. Not so with Court Bob. And not so with most of the methods other than those I have mentioned. Men worked without any general rules to guide them, and purely by experiment; and the results, generally speaking, have been so very unsatisfactory and unconvincing that it is not surprising that thirty years ago the best of our authorities held the opinion that except for those simple methods there could be no such thing as a proper extension at all.

In the introduction to his 'Duffield' Sir Arthur Heywood says that of all the even-bell methods there was not one, save Plain Bob, Treble Bob and Double Oxford which could be extended satisfactorily from eight to ten and twelve bells. Until such a method could be found, he felt that there was no hope of any substantial advance in method ringing on these higher numbers. That was why he introduced Duffield.

Neither he nor anyone else at the time knew that in Cambridge the Exercise already had the method required. But then Sir Arthur Heywood and all the other authorities despised Cambridge as almost everything that a method should not be. But the trouble about extension is not that the more complex methods will not extend. It is partly because they do not extend in just the way that ringers want them to do; and partly because there are so many ways and not so few in which they will extend.

The matter should be studied as a whole, and the general rules and laws understood. Then you will find that extensions will come almost automatically. Into these technical matters I do not propose to enter in these notes, I am only concerned at present to point out the difficulties which confronted the men who first tried to get a Court Bob Major. That they should have attempted it was inevitable, and the first Court Bob Major was rung in London early in the 18th century. On Saturday, May 17th, 1735, the College Youths rang 5,040 at St. Laurence Jewry; John Holt called a 5,040 at St. Margaret's, Westminster, for the Un on Scholars in 1752; on Sunday, December 16th, 1764, the London Youths rang 5,200 at St. Mary's, Whitechapel; and on October 12th, 1767, the Cumberlands rang 5,312 at the same church. Exactly what was rung on these dates is uncertain. Mr. Jasper Snowdon came to the conclusion that the peal by the London Youths was neither what was afterwards known as London Court nor Norwich Court. But the probability is that most, if not all, of the others were in the former method. At any rate, London Court Bob was a popular method in the Metropolis during the eighteenth century, and is probably the first attempt to extend Court Bob Minor to eight bells. It is an excellent example of how an extension should not be done. Like so many men since his time, the composer took what he thought to be the leading feature of the six-bell method, and tried to reproduce it on eight bells. He argued like this: In Court Bob Minor all the bells single dodge before and after leading and lying and plain hunt elsewhere. This he reproduced on eight bells, putting in the places so as to give the required result. As the method is obsolete, and probably unfamiliar to most of my readers, I give a lead of it. It does not require very much close examination to see that it is not a correct extension. Meanwhile, the Norwich men, too, tried their hands, at extending Court Bob Minor. I think it extremely possible that (as has been suggested) Double Norwich Royal was composed and rung before Double Norwich Major. On ten bells you do get the single dodging that you find in the Minor, and that, I suppose, is the reason 'The Clavis' people had for saying that in Double Norwich Royal which they call simply Court Bob Royal you have the proper extension of both London Court and Norwich Court. Double Norwich Major was in existence as early as 1750, and was brought to London and published by the authors of 'The Clavis,' who first called it 'Norwich' Court. It is so superior a method to London Court that it very soon superseded its rival. Both of them were known and practised in their double variations only, and both were first called Court Bob without any qualification. This was the state of the case when Shipway set himself to write his book.

Shipway, in his thorough fashion, examined the methods, extended them to all numbers, odd and even, and worked out the single and reverse variations. 'It is a remarkable circumstance,' he says, 'that all the Court Bobs that have hitherto been rung are double, and some there are who cannot understand anything else to be Court but the double method; but this is an error which I trust is here sufficiently refuted.' Remarkable, no doubt, to a methodical man like Shipway, but not so remarkable, after all, when we remember that methods are to be rung, and that the single variations of Court, let alone the reverse variations, are altogether inferior to the double variations.

Further, he compared the two eight-bell methods with the original Court Bob Minor, and as a result he rejected both as proper extensions. 'On eight and upwards a difference of opinion has prevailed in the cities of London and Norwich, as to which should be the right way of producing it from the six-bell method, each party adopting its own plan, and thereby dividing it into two systems. But after a close investigation of the subject, the author ventures to doubt the propriety of them, and he here introduces a third system which, after the most careful examination, he believes to come nearest to what was originally intended by a composition on six bells.' And in his second volume, 'This system of Court Bob was produced by the author, and is intended by him as an improvement on the other two, of the London in keeping the bells together and of the Norwich in the complexity of it, besides being apparently the most proper one taken from the original on six bells as the similarity of its work, and likewise the leads of the treble on each number of bells testify.'

Double Norwich both on eight and ten bells was an esteemed method with Shipway's contemporaries of the Cumberlands, and they also rang London Court Major. Possibly they objected to his assertion that his new method was an improvement on the others, for in his third volume he says that "here I wish to correct an error in part II, where I observe " it was intended as an improvement, etc.," but although it proves to be so my intention was as stated in part I., when I discovered that neither the London nor the Norwich was the proper Court on eight bells, etc., from the six, and that those Courts in use were the double methods only. The London Court will suit those gentlemen who are partial to the parting of the large bells (as some are both in London and the country), especially as in its natural work the musical positions of the changes are equal, if not superior, to anything which can be brought by bobs in the Bob Major or Treble Bob systems. The Norwich Court will suit those ardent minds who delight in intricacy, and emulate each other in surmounting the difficulties of complex systems; but those who prefer the easy methods will find the author's Court to contain every essential quality of the Norwich."

To which the only objection seems to be that the Exercise has not found it so. Still, there is something to be said for Shipway's point of view. His method is a correct extension of Court Bob Minor, which London Court is not. It is not, however, more correct than Norwich Court, and otherwise is not nearly so good. It is rather difficult to say which is really the best extension. Probably you should make the Court Places in the middle of the half lead, i.e., 5th's and 4th's in Major, and 6th's and 5th's in Royal. In that case, Court Bob Major would be unfit to ring, for a bell would lead from consecutive blows, and another lie the same number. But on ten bells it is a first-class method, and that was what Mr. Law James' band rang some years ago at Surfleet. Here is Shipway's version which you will see is not symmetrical:—

BIRMINGHAM AND DISTRICT LADIES' MEETING.

Lady ringers of Birmingham district had a very good practice meeting at St. Peter's, Harborne, on Saturday, March 13th. Solihull, Smethwick and Clent were represented, and several gentlemen were also present, amongst whom were Mr. W. W. Worthington (Lichfield), Mr. Waye, Mr. Withers, and others, who all gave valuable help during the afternoon and evening. A party of 27 sat down to a splendid tea, arranged by Mr. and Miss Hawkins.—Mrs. Groves proposed, and Miss Pigott seconded, a hearty vote of thanks to the Rector (the Rev. — Petri), who came in during tea, and gave the ringers an invitation to visit Harborne again.—Thanks were also accorded to Mr. Hawkins for making all arrangements and having everything ready; to the local and visiting ringers for the help they always gave the ladies; and to the ladies who had waited on the visitors.

At a discussion after tea, it was decided to have a practice meeting only, at Edgbaston Parish Church, after Easter, if permission could be obtained; also to pay a visit to Clent on June 19th, other meetings to be arranged later.

LADY SURPRISE RINGERS IN KENT.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I must challenge the announcement contained in the footnote to the peal of Cambridge Surprise at Erith, which is published in 'The Ringing World' of March 26th.

Miss Dorothy E. Orlebar rang the 4th to a muffled peal of Cambridge Surprise Major at Tunbridge Wells on June 20th, 1925, and has undoubtedly the honour of being the first lady ringer to accomplish a peal in that method for the Kent County Association. As Miss Orlebar also rang the 3rd to a peal of Superlative Surprise at Tonbridge on January 16th 1925, it is possible that first honours in that method also belong to her. The Tunbridge Wells ringers (while regretting that Miss Chapman's fine achievement must take second place) will be grateful to you if you will publish this correction in 'The Ringing World.'

S. H. GREEN (Conductor).

THE EXTENT OF SUPERLATIVE SURPRISE.
11,360 TO BE ATTEMPTED BY MIDLAND COUNTIES ASSOCIATION.

Members of the Midland Counties Association are to attempt the extent of 'Real' Superlative Surprise Major at All Saints' Church, Gilmorton, Leicestershire, on Saturday, April 10th, starting early afternoon.

The composition, by Mr. A. J. Pitman, of Port Talbot, is appended:

The first 5/4 is 5th's from front, treble leading, and 4th's from behind, treble in 8th's.

The 2nd 5/4 is 5th's from behind, treble in 8th's, and 4th's from front, treble leading.

In the first six parts the Befores are 1st, a natural one, followed by bobs in the two successive half-leads. In the last six parts the first Before is called when the tenor would otherwise have made 7th's under the treble, followed by bobs in the two successive half-leads.

The composition contains the 60 course ends, also 59 each of the middle and wrongs with tenors together. In the peal there are 9,792 changes with tenors together. Where Befores are called in the last six parts the courses are 320 changes each, all other courses are 160 changes.

STOW-ON-THE-WOLD.—On Sunday, March 21st, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples: S. Pethrick 1, E. Pardon 2, W. Large (conductor) 3, E. Hill 4, B. Phillips 5, C. Robins 6, F. Davis 7, W. Richings 8.

NOMENCLATURE.

COMMITTEE'S PROPOSALS FOR THE COUNCIL.

It will be recollected that, at the last meeting of the Central Council, at Chester, discussion on the report, presented by the Nomenclature Committee, was adjourned, until that report had been printed, that is to say, until the next meeting of the Council. By the courtesy of the editor of 'The Ringing World,' the report appeared in full, in the columns of this paper, on the 26th June, pp. 409-410; and a typographical error, as regards para. 111, of the recommendations was corrected in a subsequent number—the 10th July, p. 438. By referring to these pages, the report may be consulted in extenso.

The Committee, while adhering to the views expressed in the report, and although still of opinion that the resolutions therein meet, at the moment, the requirements of the case, desire to present the essential details of that report at the forthcoming meeting of the Council, at Ipswich, by way of resolution.

They feel that, in view of the complexity of the details, there might be some difficulty, as the report stands, in its being tackled by the Council, within the limited time available for discussion.

The resolutions, on the other hand, as now proposed, and as given below, enable the subject to be more easily dealt with piecemeal, and what is, also, of consequence, to be more readily assimilated by the associations.

THE RESOLUTIONS.

- (1) No method shall have more than one name.
- (2) No name shall belong to more than one method.
- (3) No name shall contain more than one word.
- (4) Class designations, when added to a name, shall always have some reference to the thing designated. Thus the word 'bob' in this connection shall always, as originally, have reference to dodging.
- (5) The names 'Pasallatessera' and 'Pasallatria' shall not be used in any C.G. publications; should it be necessary to distinguish the classes which were once so designated, they shall be otherwise, and properly, described.
- (6) The fifteen floral names shall be changed.
- (7) The following names shall be substituted:—

Old Floral Name.	Proposed New Name.
Bluebell.	Blundell.
Daffodil.	Dartford.
Dahlia.	Darlington.
Foxglove.	Foxton.
Fuchsia.	Folkestone.
Geranium.	Grantham.
Hyacinth.	Hyde.
Lily.	Leyton.
Marigold.	Marlow.
Primrose.	Preston.
Shamrock.	Shadwell.
Snowdrop.	Somerton.
Tulip.	Tamworth.
Violet.	Ventnor.
Woodbine.	Woodstock.

- (8) 'Edinburgh Castle' shall be called 'Edgware.'
- (9) In 28 names the word 'Castle' or 'Abbey' shall be omitted, so that they read as follow:—

Beeston.	Laulow.
Belvoir.	Melandra.
Berkeley.	Melrose.
Carisbrooke.	Pembroke.
Conisborough.	Pevensy.
Conway.	Peveril.
Chepstow.	Pontefract.
Dover.	Richborough.
Dunotlar.	St. Albans.
Elstow.	Skipton.
Fountains.	Sherborne.
Glastonbury.	Stirling.

SUSSEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

EASTERN DIVISION.

The annual meeting of the Eastern Division was held at All Saints', Eastbourne, on Saturday, March 20th. Members attended from Bexhill, Brighton (St. Peter's), Crawley, Eastbourne (St. Mary's and St. Saviour's), Lewes, Heene, Pevensey, Rotherfield and St. Leonards, together with members of the local band. The bells were set going at 2.30 p.m., and touches in several methods were indulged in. At the service the Vicar (the Rev. G. M. Hanks) welcomed the members, and gave an interesting address.

Tea was provided in the Parish Hall, through the kindness of the Vicar. About 32 members were present, including the Master of the association (Mr. J. T. Rickman) and the general secretary (Mr. A. D. Stone).

At the business meeting the Rev. G. M. Hanks occupied the chair, and several new members were elected.

Mr. G. W. Stokes was re-elected hon. secretary, and Messrs. G. H. Howse, W. Franks, and A. R. Milne were re-elected on the committee.

It was decided to hold the next meeting at Alfriston, if convenient. Mr. J. T. Rickman moved a hearty vote of thanks to the Vicar for the use of the bells, for his helpful address at the service, and also for his hospitality in providing tea.—The Vicar, in responding, stated that it had been a great pleasure to welcome the members, and wished the association success.

A collection for the Benevolent Fund realised 8s. 7d. Following the meeting the members returned to the tower, and further ringing was indulged in until 6.30 p.m., when the ringers proceeded to St. Saviour's Church, where the tower was open at 6.45 to 8 p.m., and methods from Grandsire to Cambridge Surprise Major were practised. Altogether it was a most successful meeting.

HERTS COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

WESTERN DISTRICT.

The meeting held at Northchurch on March 20th was a very enjoyable one, members being present from St. Albans, Hemel Hempstead, Apsley, Tring, Berkhamsted, Watford, Halton, and the local tower. The bells were raised at 3.30, and the following methods rung during the afternoon and evening: Plain Bob, Grandsire and Stedman Doubles, Plain Bob, Oxford Bob, Double Court, College Single, Reverse College Single, Double Oxford and Kent Treble Bob.

A short service was conducted by the Rector, assisted by the Rev. B. H. Tyrwhitt Drake, at which the Secretary rendered a bass solo.—Tea, very kindly provided by the Rector, followed in the Church Room.

The Rector was unanimously appointed chairman of the business meeting, when it was suggested that Great Gaddesden be the next place of meeting on the first or second Saturday in May.

The Secretary reported that the quarterly peal was successful, and so another (Minor) was fixed for as soon after Easter as possible.

A hearty vote of thanks was accorded to the Rector for his kindness, and also for the service, as well as to the organist for his services.

Further ringing then took place until 8.30 p.m., when another good meeting came to an end.

A HALF-PEAL.

On Saturday, March 27th, at St. Mary the Virgin's Church, Almondsbury, Glos., a half-peal of Grandsire Triples (from Groves' Variation of Parker's 12-part) in 88 mins: V. E. Wills 1, W. H. Brown 2, H. Robbins 3, S. H. Wood 4, S. Poole 5, T. Fowler 6, G. E. Capewell (conductor) 7, K. Kingston 8.

SUNDAY SERVICE TOUCHES.

We regret that, owing to the demands upon the space available for Sunday Service Touches, we are unable to undertake to insert anything less than a quarter-peal on eight bells and upwards, and 720 of Doubles or Minor. Many correspondents send us quite short touches for publication and they must not be disappointed if we are unable to find room for them.

PEAL OR NO PEAL?

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—The question was raised in 'Bettry Gossip'—Did we finish the peal at Great Bentley on February 6th when the clapper of the 7th dropped out? True, we went to the end, and the last bob at H was called, but I am under the impression that the Central Council decided some years ago not to recognise such as peals, and I think rightly so. Unless every bell strikes the number of times that there are changes in the composition, how can anyone claim to have rung a peal? I had a reason for going to the end, which, however, does not concern the Exercise generally.—Yours truly,

W. KEEBLE.

NEW MINOR METHODS.

To the Editor.

Sir,—You published in last week's 'Ringing World,' under the above heading, an account of three new Double Surprise Minor Methods, recently rung at St. Mary's Church, Bucknall, Stoke-on-Trent. If Mr. Wheelton will be good enough to send you for publication the figures of these new methods, no doubt many, like myself, will be interested to see them.

For the past 35 or 36 years I have been interested in the construction of Minor Methods, but I have not yet seen any Double Surprise or Double Treble Bob Methods that will produce the 720 changes. Eccleston, Chester.

'RECRUITING' DIFFICULTIES.

Here and there among associations there is sometimes complaint of the difficulty of drawing young men into the ranks of ringers, the many counter-attractions of the modern age being blamed. Recently a writer in a local paper expressed the disappointment of the officials of the Halifax Association that more young men do not come forward to take up the art. There is no doubt that present day inducements to easy pleasure—the tendency to watch sport rather than to take part in it, to find amusement in those things which require the least physical or mental effort—divert a large proportion of the youth of the country from any interest in a pursuit—to put it upon no higher plane—such as bell ringing offers. As with most other things into which intelligence and skill enters, there is required in the art of ringing a certain amount of preliminary drudgery, which, not infrequently, effectually deters many beginners, blunts their interest and eventually results in their giving up, after, perhaps, a great deal of work on the part of a tutor. A succession of losses of this kind, not unnaturally, has its effect upon all but the most enthusiastic teacher, and wherever you find a man who has devoted himself to training young ringers you can learn of innumerable failures, and perhaps dozens of disappointments for every single success.

The difficulties which are existing in Halifax and district are not peculiar to that area, and, although there are to be found conspicuous instances of youthful enthusiasm, there are many places where, when the present band disappears, there will be no young ringers to carry on. In the old days the young men, however aspiring, were taught to take a back seat, and were made to understand that it was a privilege to sit in the belfry and watch the old ones ring. To-day we have not got sufficient young men to replace those of whom time and circumstance take toll. As at Halifax, it is not always the fault of the present ringers. The counter-attractions are so strong that recruits seem, in many places, impossible to obtain; and, even when obtained, are difficult to keep.

What steps can be taken to overcome these problems? We believe that much more might be made of the ranks of the Church of England Men's Society as a recruiting ground. In this organisation there is a body of men pledged to the Church's service, and there is no higher service they can give than by assisting in the belfry. Already many ringers are members of the C.E.M.S., and where that is the case the way is already prepared for bringing the subject to the notice of the local branch. Where ringers are not thus in membership, their incumbent would doubtless be only too ready to take action and bring them into touch. How to keep the young ringers is almost a greater difficulty. The drudgery cannot well be avoided, but encouragement, example and enlightenment are three things which old ringers can offer, and which should be sufficient to stimulate the interest of those whom we must train and help so that they may carry on when the older ones have gone.

HALIFAX ASSOCIATION'S CONTEST.

ONLY THREE COMPETING TEAMS ON EIGHT BELLS.

The Halifax and District Association held their quarterly meeting and eight-bell contest at St. Matthew's Church, Lightcliffe, on March 27th. Only three teams entered for the competition, which was a matter for regret, but there were a number of visitors to listen to the ringing. The contest consisted of 800 changes in any method, and each of those which entered rang Kent Treble Bob. The judges were Messrs. G. H. Hardy (Earlsheaton) and J. Broadley (Bradford). A company of over 50 sat down to tea, immediately after the ringing, the president (Mr. C. E. Carrington) occupying the chair.

Mr. W. Frith (Huddersfield) proposed thanks to the Vicar and churchwardens for the use of the fine peal of bells, and to the lady friends for providing the tea.—Mr. Squires (Halifax) seconded.

The Vicar of Lightcliffe, in reply, briefly acknowledged the thanks in a few appropriate words. He said that whatever his other qualifications, he could not ring a bell, although he had tried several times. He thought that the officials of each church should take more interest in the bell ringers than they did. Most of them seemed to think that the belfry was another part of the church. He was glad to say that at Lightcliffe they held their ringers in the highest esteem, and three of them had attained a ripe age.

Mr. J. Lawson (Lightcliffe) briefly replied, on behalf of the ringers and ladies, and welcomed the association to Lightcliffe at any time they wished to go there.

The judges gave their decision as follows: No. 1 (Birstall) rung out: No. 2 (Batley), 221 faults; No. 3 (Lindley), 458 faults, 10 penalty, total 448. The president then declared No. 2 (Batley) as winners of the cup.

The Vicar presented the cup to Mr. S. Gibson, the Batley conductor, who suitably replied, and said he wished the members would listen to their striking, for he was assured that Batley could be beaten, although they had won the cup on several occasions.

A vote of thanks to judges and chairman closed a successful meeting.

'METHOD SPLICING.'

By JOSEPH W. PARKER.

In mixing with ringers on eight bells and upwards, and discussing the value of splicing on the higher numbers, one is forced to the conclusion that they consider the true joining of methods for seven bells and over is based on entirely different principles to the splicing of Minor methods. For that reason even those who are interested in this form of ringing have formed the opinion that the little book with the above title can have nothing to teach them.

This is due in some measure to the limited number of methods practised, for very few of them have the relationships required in Minor methods which will splice. However, it is a matter of fact that, generally speaking, the true splicing of methods on all numbers depends upon the same principles as shown for Minor.

The few exceptions have mostly been illustrated by peals already rung and published, such as Plain Triples (the truth depending upon a change of hunt), Cambridge and Superlative, Oxford and Kent in ordinary courses, Caters, and Cinques, all of which have to be carefully proved one against the other. That these (Major and over) exist is due to the increased number of changes permitting a certain amount of falseness to be overcome.

The rarity of these exceptions goes to show that the mixing of methods on any number will mainly be confined to those having the same changes in a course, or in a lead or number of leads.

Then it follows that anyone who studies 'Method Splicing,' and has taken the trouble to master the principles there explained, will be able to apply them to Triples and Major, and to know whether any method examined is likely to have one or more companion methods with which it will splice.

Take as an instance Double Oxford Minor, and alter fifth's place when the treble lies behind to a whole pull at lead; and second's place when the treble leads to a whole pull behind, and the result is Double Court; alter the first named only, and it is Hereward Bob and the last named only gives Hereward Reverse. 'Spliced Methods' shows that methods varied thus have the same changes in a course, and can be spliced. The same principle must apply to Major, if the extensions are correct; therefore, Double Oxford Major treated in the same way gives Double Norwich, Hereward Bob, and its reverse, and all will have the same changes in a course.

To splice them safely it is only necessary to see that each complete course is rung in one method only.

The same facility for variation is shown in the case of Treble Bob Methods. Instances in Major are the extensions of Surfee' and Hexham Surprise Minor, which may be combined in one peal. Brighton Surprise Major, by Mr. George Baker, gives, in all, four companion methods which will splice, and there are many others.

In the case of Plain Methods it is also shown which methods cannot repeat with each other, if one set is confined to the even and the other to the odd part of a peal, and thus by using two suitable combinations of four methods, eight may be introduced into one peal.

The student of Method Splicing may discover many wonders, such as a short course of two or more leads. Take two well-known methods, Double Oxford and Double Norwich. It has already been said that they have the same changes in a course, and that each complete course should be rung in one method only. However, portions of the course may be rung in two methods, and when it is seen that the first and second leads of Double Norwich do not repeat with the last of Double Oxford, the truth of the following short course, and its alternative A, is assured:—

By combining the methods in this way the course-ends are brought up in 48 changes, and the 120 course-ends, and at least 637 78's, may be obtained in 5,760 changes. This is well worth ringing, but is likely to prove a 'tough nut' for even a 'cracker' band.

Not the least remarkable feature of these combined blocks is in regard to composition. This is due to the fact that the alteration brings the M. position into the same place as 1. in the basis block, and permits the 120 courses to be obtained in a simple way, which is impossible with complete courses.

The following peal, for which no originality is claimed, is a remarkable illustration of this:—

RINGERS' PUBLIC DINNERS IN LENT.

To the Editor.

Sir,—I wonder whether the Henry Johnson Commemoration Dinner could be fixed each year in future for the last Saturday before Lent. It would vary very little from the present arrangement, and would bring an extra number of ringers in who do make it a rule not to go in for extras at any rate during that one season. The enterprising officials of St. Martin's Guild could easily make that little alteration, especially as an ever-increasing number of ringers are coming to regard Lent as a non-ringing season (not Sunday service ringing, of course, unless it is on the two last Sundays during Passiontide). I know a place where the early Easter morning pealing was appreciated more than anything by all classes, and raised some to the seventh heaven of delight after a very quiet Lent season. This always prepared the ground for a few extra peals during Easter-tide, and made a good excuse for slipping a long one in, which is worth thinking about in these days. Lent does not last long, and I think that a rest once a year is beneficial for both ringers and listeners, apart from church reasons.

NOTES BY THE WAY.
SHIPWAY AND METHOD EXTENSION.—NEW CATER METHODS.

By J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

Mr. Drake quotes me as saying that Stedman was the most brilliant and clever ringer that ever lived. I don't think I have ever said anything of the sort. I certainly never intended to. What I did say was that the Exercise has had all along a succession of clever and brilliant men, but never another like Stedman. I meant the words to be taken literally. And what is pre-eminently true of Stedman is true (though in a far less degree) of all the great ringers of the past. Men differ from each other; one made his name and his mark because he possessed this gift, and another because he possessed that. Unfortunately, we know so little about the men themselves, even about those of whose doings we know quite a lot. It is only here and there that we have some hint by which we can reconstruct them. Now nothing, perhaps, so reveals a man as his casual sayings and letters; and, if we only had a few more like those of Melchior I lately printed, we could make the history of ringing so much more real and interesting. As it is, too many of the old ringers are names, and nothing else. I cannot even guess what manner of man George Gross was. Of Holt and John Reeves we know they were gifted composers, but neither has left any writing, for I do not think any of the letterpress of 'The Clavis' is Reeves.

Benjamin Annable stands out vividly as a big man, a dominating personality, a great leader. Of him, perhaps, an interesting sketch could be made. There is a fair amount of material available, only it requires collecting, and that takes time and trouble. Shipway was neither a great leader as Annable was, nor a great writer as Stedman was, nor a composer of the first rank as Holt and Reeves were. He was no genius. He was not a man of original thought. His great gift was, as I have already said, that he was a most methodical and systematic thinker and worker. And such a man can do a lot and go far in a thing like change ringing. This system and method of his are at once the making of his book, and the direct cause of its greatest defect. For when he is dealing with a method he is not content unless he can give it in its different variations, and on all numbers.

Now there are many methods which are excellent in one form, and on one number of bells, but are useless in other forms and on other numbers. To this Shipway shut his eyes. He seemed to think that because, say, Double Norwich Major is a most excellent method he must give single and reverse Norwich also; though they never have and never will prove much more than curiosities. And especially is this shown by his treatment of Stedman's Principle. Stedman on odd numbers is a unique and excellent method, its usefulness proved by two and a half centuries of experience. That does not content Shipway. He must need extend it to even numbers, and to double and reverse variations and gives a number of abortions with bells lying still instead of dodging. They are so much lumber which adds to the size of the book, without in any way increasing its usefulness. Yet it must be admitted that no little skill is shown in the arrangement of these extensions; and that is generally true of everything Shipway does in method construction. You may not always agree with him, but you must always admit that he invariably shows skill and knowledge and ability. But he himself was evidently dissatisfied with these even bell extensions of Stedman; and, because the plan on which he was writing his book, required that everything should be complete and rounded off, he sets himself to supply an adaptation rather than an extension of Stedman's Principle to even numbers. This was his third entirely new system which he called 'Shipway's Principle.' New it was, but original it certainly was not. It was admittedly in everything, not only in form, but also in name, an imitation of Stedman.

I do not think that Shipway had any particular enthusiasm for this system, and certainly the Exercise found no use for it. It was not till a year or two ago that a peal was rung in it, and then, no doubt, more as a curiosity than anything else. And, indeed, experience has proved that only those methods which have a fixed treble are of any real value on even numbers.

The fixed treble working in succession among the other bells allows the tenors to be kept fairly close together throughout, and at the same time gives variety both to work and music. If you do away with it you have to use one of two constructions. Either you must use an alternate quick and slow which makes the greater part of the course a mere jumble, or you must adopt the plan of Duffield and Forward of all your sixes alike, which means that both work and music are altogether too monotonous.

- 6 2 4 1 8 3 7 5
- 2 6 1 4 3 8 5 7
- 2 1 6 4 8 3 7 5

There is one form of extension which Shipway largely used, and in which he showed real insight into the laws of extension; and that is in the production of an odd bell variation of an even bell method. He did not, perhaps, originate this, but he certainly did reduce it to a general law. When you have a method with hunt and working bells, and you want to extend it to a higher number, the first thing that seems natural to do is to add to your working bells. But you will speedily find that, if the first number is even and the 2nd odd, your extra bell will not fit in with the dodging, and you will have to have more than two consecutive blows in different positions. This is bad enough with Plain Bob, where you have a bell lying for four blows; in such a method as Double Norwich you would have a bell leading and lying for eight blows, which would be intolerable. The way out of the difficulty is to add, not to your working bells, but to your hunts.

SIMPSON-TUNING.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—On behalf of 'S.T.' enthusiasts I would like to reply to Mr. Barnett's assertions in your issue of March 19th. This latest outburst proves to the Exercise that his experience and knowledge of these bells is absolutely nil. He has not the courage even to name the peals that he finds fault with, and so give others the opportunity if they desire of contradicting or disagreeing with his statements. One regiment does not make an army, neither will one light peal of eight condemn Simpson-tuning. Every Simpson-tuned peal in this district gives the impression that they are ten cwt. heavier than they really are, and the clappers do not have to be as heavy as the bells themselves to get any sound out of them. I would remind Mr. Barnett that casting, tuning, hanging and clapping have these last few years been brought to a fine art, and if he thinks that modern foundries are going back to these rule-of-thumb methods that were in vogue years ago he is mistaken. Mr. Barnett, with his super-knowledge, should know to-day (1926) that foundries, when casting, always allow extra metal for the amount that is turned out of a bell in the tuning process. To quote a bell by Taylor cast 50 years ago as an illustration shows that he has not yet woken up. Why! even Taylors, I imagine, would like to forget those days. His theory that the resonance of a bell lies in its outer skin is laughable, and he is the only one who believes it. A good bell has to be correct in shape and have the correct mixture of metal, and modern foundries have given up the idea of throwing into the melting pot any old boots and shoes that happen to lie about the foundry. There are a few ringers who, under no circumstances whatever, will say a fair word for Simpson-tuning, and in their smoke room arguments pose as authorities on the subject, and condemn Simpson-tuned peals which they have never heard and take good care to keep away from.

To those who have an open mind on this subject I would suggest, when an opportunity occurs, a run over to Loughborough to hear one of the best old peals put side by side with a 1926 Simpson-tuned peal. The result, I can assure them, is startling, and would give Mr. Barnett and his friends the shock of their lives. It is interesting to note that Mr. Walker's letter has not yet brought one word of complaint from those who have had their good old peals recast and Simpson-tuned. Yet 'The Ringing World' informs us, year after year, that some of the most noted peals have been recast and Simpson-tuned. No, Mr. Barnett, leave Simpson-tuning to those who understand it and have built up such a large business with it. This could not have been done if the ringers and public were not satisfied with it.

I should like to say that at the recent gathering at Birmingham this discussion on Simpson-tuning was one of the chief topics, and I am very pleased and satisfied with the many kind expressions and letters I have received by those who are evidently in agreement with me.—Yours truly,

PERCY O. LAFLIN.

Sir,—I would like to tell 'Irenæus' that I certainly have never claimed to be a professor of metallurgy; but having worked forty years in the metal trade, I am not entirely ignorant of the nature of metals.

I notice that no explanation has been given why those highly Simpson-tuned bells fell off at the crown if they were not too thin. This fact has been left severely alone. Abuse and ridicule are no argument from the person who hides his identity under a nom de plume.—Yours, etc.

E. BARNETT.

SOME TOWERS NOT SUITABLE.

Sir,—I cannot quite agree with all Mr. Barnett has to say on Simpson-tuning. There is no doubt a lot of howl with some of the present Simpson-tuned bells, but not with all. Neither would I class them all as 'tin cans.' In my opinion there is improvement in the system. Shall we see still further improvement? I think so. Again, some towers, I think, are not suitable for Simpson bells, particularly so in confined spaces, with buildings all round, which do not allow the sound to disperse quickly enough. This, I believe, causes more howling than would be the case if the tower were more isolated from other buildings.—Yours truly,

W. REEBLE.

NOMENCLATURE.

BY THE REV. H. DRAKE.

This article has nothing to do with the Nomenclature Committee, but merely with finding correct names generally.

Some ten or twelve years ago, Mr. Law James and Mr. Trollope began publishing references to 'Hunting Backwards.' I could not find a sufficient clue in the context to this mysterious operation, and have asked them both, in private letters, and in public, what the words mean; but have been met with absolute silence. Now, however, in 'The Ringing World' for March 26th, Mr. Trollope explains it to mean that 'the odd bells come down, and the even bells go up.' No wonder we were all puzzled, for it seems that 'hunting backwards' is neither hunting, nor is it backwards.

This is an instance of the difficulties into which practical men get, when they try to give names to theoretical processes. When a man is taught to ring, he is shown that, when his bell hunts up, he takes the other bells in the ascending order of their numbers if they are even, and in the descending order if they are odd. You may write them down for him like this: 2, 4, 6, 5, 3, 1, and then it is quite true that if you write that row of figures out backwards—1, 3, 5, 6, 4, 2—you will get the order in which you meet the bells when doing what Mr. Trollope calls 'hunting backwards.' Thus, to call it by that name gives it a very vivid idea which will strike his attention, and help him to remember what it means, quite irrespective of whether it is either true or correct.

As a matter of fact it is neither. The rows of figures which I have written out are not hunting, but the figures of the bells out of which he takes those that he follows in the order designated by that row. This is usually called the 'coursing order,' and the difference between that and 'hunting,' is the difference between meum and tuum. In the one case, you are thinking of one bell's work, in the other, of the work of all the rest that are ringing. Now this difference in actual ringing does not matter very much. Indeed, the ringing of your bell in the tower is the making one fit in rightly with the other.

But in theory, or in writing out the figures of a method, one does not usually look at the matter from that single bell point of view, with which the beginner in the tower has to be content, nor does one think so much of hunting, which is the work of one bell, as of the coursing order which concerns the bells as a whole.

And if it is incorrect to use the word 'hunting' in this connection, it is also untrue that the motion described is backwards. If one could prove that either of the rows I have written down were 'forwards,' the other could be truly described as 'backwards.' But, as a matter of fact, each is just as much the one as the other, and therefore such an epithet does not apply to either.

To describe these alternatives as 'coursing odd,' or 'coursing even,' according as one took the odd or even bells in their ascending order, would seem to meet the case, and would have the advantage that the term 'odd' would apply to the less usual alternative.

A few lines further on Mr. Trollope uses the word 'reverse' when the word 'alter' would be quite sufficient. Surely the word 'reverse' is already much too overworked among ringing terms, without adding a new use to increase the existing confusion.

I am very glad that Mr. Trollope has given a few lines to the consideration of the making of three places. I have found that three places, made in the middle, turns the succeeding series of rows upside down; but I have not worked out the matter to see if this was only accidental, or an invariable result. It has always seemed to me that this is a point which is worth more than the summary treatment is usually receives.

This leads me to point out that the process of 'reversing' sometimes means taking the last change first, and so on, until the first becomes the last. Is not this really 'inverting' the rows, and should not the process be called 'inversion'?

'Reverse' is more usually applied to alteration of the columns: you take the last column of figures (or the work done in that column), and put it in the first column, and so on, until once more the first becomes the last. Is it not possible to confine the word 'reverse' to this use? The original arrangement of columns would then be the 'obverse,' or usual one.

TREBLE BOB MAJOR.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I notice in 'The Ringing World' of the 29th ult. a peal of 17,440 Treble Bob Major by E. Timbrell, which is claimed to be the longest length of Treble Bob Major yet produced. In 'The Ringing World,' dated March 14th, 1924, there is a peal of 25,920, which I produced, and which I have extended to over 26,000 in one part form.

Seeing that Kent and Oxford are variations of Treble Bob, the fact that it is spliced makes no difference.—Yours faithfully,

A. J. PITMAN.

[Mr. Timbrell was not responsible for the note appended to his composition. Mr. Pitman's 'spliced method' peal was overlooked when we wrote it, and for this we are sorry.—Ed. 'R.W.']

BELFRY GOSSIP.

Hearty congratulations to Miss Norah Bibby, of Frodsham, on having rung at the first attempt an inside bell in a peal of London Surprise as reported last week. In doing this Miss Bibby has probably created a new record, as this is believed to be the first time father, daughter and two sons have rung a peal together in this method.

A new striking clock is to be fixed in Everton Church, Bawtry, by Messrs. G. and F. Cope and Co., of Nottingham, who have recently completed the renovation of the old clock in Market, Deeping Church, Lincolnshire, made in 1765, and have also just received the order for overhauling the church clock at Crowle, Worcestershire.

Mr. John Carter sends his congratulations to the Ipswich band upon the ringing the peal of Forward Maximus. He says this is only the second peal rung on tower bells, the first having been rung at Birmingham. He believes that one peal has also been rung 'in hand' at Birmingham.

Even in these times some ringers look upon two peals in a day as a considerable undertaking. What must it have been 170 years ago? On April 9th, 1751, John Holt took part in 5,800 Double Bob and 5,040 Plain Bob Major at St. Mary's, Hillingdon.

April 11th is the anniversary of the 13,265 Grandsire Caters at Appleton. This record, has, of course, since been exceeded, but it was a great performance. Appleton, however, still holds the record, with the 21,363 Stedman Caters rung on April 22nd, 1922.

Seventeen years ago next Monday, another record, which still stands as one of the greatest performances ever accomplished, was made—18,027 Stedman Caters at Loughborough on a peal of bells with 30 cwt. tenor.

Easter Monday, 1914, which in that year was on April 13th, saw the achievement of 14,000 Kent Treble Bob Royal at Ashton-under-Lyne.

THE BELLFOUNDER'S REBUKE.

(Verses, upon observing in 'The Ringing World,' that yet another 'ring' of Rudhall's bells, from the old Gloucester Foundry, had followed so many of their fellows to the melting pot.)

Oh! sweet Vale of Usk, why misgivings or fears?
The bells you have lost, tho' you had had them for years,
Were at best but a poor lot, in very sad state,
Out of tune, and—what's worse—all out of date.
For the Treble was sharp, and the Second quite flat,
The Third or (say) Fourth badly cracked; and that's that!
And the rest, you'll remember, were all on the shelf,
With the Tenor, of course, 'not in tune with itself.'

You say—'But tears of grief and joy,

'So truly beatific,

'Had blended with their tones for years'?

Humph! that's not scientific.

Come! Simpson's notes are quite soft, tho' we'll say they're not bold,
Still, surely, you'd not let our furnace go cold?

No! Rejoice that we smashed 'em, be careless who groans,
For though made by Great Rudhall, he missed the 'five tones.'

'TURNER'S HILL PEAL CRITICISM.'

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—The second half of my previous letter clearly indicates the nature of my criticism, and, upon seeing Mr. Hart's reply thereto, I shall have no objection to my name being published.—Yours truly,

'LISTENER.'

MIDLAND COUNTIES ASSOCIATION.

The quarterly meeting of the Leicester district was held at St. Peter's, Belgrave, on Saturday, March 27th. Touches of Stedman Triples, Kent Treble Bob Major, Cambridge and Superlative Surprise and Double Norwich Major were brought round during the afternoon. Tea was partaken of by 15 members in the parish room, after which the belfry was again visited, when a touch of 'Real' Superlative Surprise Major was successfully accomplished. This was followed by London Surprise, Grandsire and Stedman Triples and Bob Major. The London Surprise, however, chose to run round unexpectedly at hand-stroke.

After the bells had been lowered, a move was made to the Talbot Inn, where the business meeting was held. Following the meeting, a course of Stedman Caters was rung on the handbells. Mr. W. Willson obliged with a recitation, and Mr. J. Morris with a song, whilst the 'Old English Gentleman,' by the veteran, 'Old Joe' (Mr. J. S. Needham) was greatly appreciated by all. In conclusion, three leads of 'Treble Ten' were successfully brought round on a light set of handbells kindly supplied by Mr. Needham.

THE RECORD PEAL AT LEEDS.

A BREAKDOWN AFTER 3½ HOURS.

The attempt to create a new record length on tower bells at Leeds, Keal, on Monday, ended in failure, after three and three-quarter hours' ringing, a mis-call bringing the effort to an end.

The band assembled at the quaint little village, with its equally quaint old tower, no taller than the roof of the church, and nearly as broad as it is high, on Sunday, and rang for the evening service. 'Early to bed and early to rise' was a strictly applied motto, and the party were at the belfry well before six o'clock in the morning. Mr. Herbert Langdon was present as witness on behalf of the band of the Oxford Guild and College Youths, of which he was the conductor, and which set up the existing record. Motoring through the night on the long journey from Appleton came Messrs. William and George Holfield, keen to hear the start.

In the lower the band were positioned as follows: P. I. Spice 1, J. H. Cheesman 2, O. Sippetts 3, A. H. Pulling (conductor) 4, C. H. Dobbie 5, H. E. Audsley 6, G. Gilbert 7, J. Bennett 8, J. T. Dyke 9, J. George 10. Two sixes, and the rope end of one ringer came out of tuck. Then, at 6.17 a.m., away the bells went again on Mr. Louis Head's 22,033 Stedman Caters, and the ringing settled down. At the end of an hour or so, however, the oiler up among the bells got in the way of the eighth and momentarily she dropped, but soon was righted, and, after that, the course-ends rolled up regularly until the first turning course from titmuss to handstroke arrived. Then, 'stand.' The conductor had made a mis-call, and the attempt was finished, to the regret of all, and not least to the Vicar and the good folk of Leeds, who had been keenly interested in the great task. The time of the 'stop' was 10.2, and the number of changes rung 5,940.

The Vicar was one of the first in the belfry to express regret, and he at once offered to place the tower at the disposal of the band at a later date. Without making any excuses, it is only fair to say that two of the band were not really fit for such a gigantic task, for the effects of influenza had not entirely worn off. It is hoped, however, that when next they meet for the peal they will be in better condition.

The rest of the day was not exactly wasted, for the band, after an interval, knocked off a peal of Kent Treble Bob Royal, just to show, as it were, that they were not downhearted.

BELLS THAT MADE THE YEWES SWAY AND DAFFODILS DANCE.

Considerable prominence was given to the attempt in some of the London daily papers, and we think the following report from 'The Special Correspondent' of the 'Daily Chronicle' will be read with interest, and, perhaps, amusement:—

Ten Kentish bellringers started an attempt to ring a world record peal of bells at the ancient parish church here at sunrise to-day.

Locked in a twelfth-century belfry without food or drink, they began a 15-hour task at 6.10. They broke down at 10 o'clock, having rung only 5,900 of the 22,033 changes called Stedman Caters.

Thus the ten men who rang the bells of Appleton, Berks, for 12½ hours in 1922 retain the record.

To-day's attempt was a noteworthy one. Mr. Herbert Langdon, of the Ancient Society of College Youths, was here to see fair play, and Messrs. William and George Holfield, two of the record-making Appleton team, motored through the night to hear the first bell at dawn.

The Kentish ringers had a short practice before evensong last night, and were all abed by 9 o'clock. As fresh as daisies they stepped out into misty morn at daybreak, and, after being checked by the adjudicator, ascended the belfry and were locked in.

The party were a case of 'Old Uncle Tom Cobleigh an' all.' At their head was 'Old Jimmy George,' of Birmingham, an ex-railway servant, 72 years of age, who came to ring the one-ton tenor bell.

Then there were Percy Spice, of Bromley; Jack Cheesman, of Greenhithe; Oliver Sippetts, of Crawley; Clarence Dobbie, of Teddington; Bert Audsley, of Crayford; Quartermaster-Sergeant Gilbert, of Rainham; Sergeant-Major Bennett, of Chatham; Joe Dyke, of Chilcompton (Somerset); with Fred Pulling, of Guildford, as conductor.

The peal began nobly. Straightway the old tower throbbled with energy, churchyard yews swayed, daffodils danced, gay cherry-trees shook themselves with delight, and scattered blossom over the village while its good inhabitants arose and smiled over their Easter eggs and bacon.

The Vicar, the Rev. S. N. Swain, pondered with pride on the age and wisdom of the bells. 'These bells,' he murmured to me as they rang to the hazy heavens, 'easily make up for all our letters which go to a Yorkshire city.'

At 10 o'clock, nevertheless, the rhythmic message of the bells was tempered by human frailty. Tall Fred Pulling (caretaker at Guildford Grammar School, by the way) was forced to call a stop because three of the bells were out of their order.

With the good grace which grows of long association with bells, Fred smiled as he left the belfry.

'Somebody's memory gone?' I suggested.

'Oh, no,' he replied. 'It has really nothing to do with memory. It's rope-sight that counts. You get the knack of seeing which rope is being pulled before and after your own, and the conductor—that's me—shouts "Bob" or "Single" to certain ringers when they change the progression.

'When I found three were out, I had to "call" a stop.'

ELY DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

MONDAY'S MEETING AT CAMBRIDGE.

The annual meeting was held at Cambridge on Easter Monday. The committee met in the vestry of Great St. Mary's Church before the short service at noon. In the absence of the Vicar, who has gone abroad, on account of his health, the short service was conducted by the hon. secretary of the association (the Rev. R. Copeman). A forcible and most practical address was given by the Rev. R. F. R. Routh, Rector of Castle Camps.

The lunch and general meeting took place at the Dorothy Cafe. The Rev. A. H. F. Boughey presided, and 28 members and visitors were present.

The Hon. Secretary read his report, and announced that 26 peals (six on handbells) had been rung during the past year by the association. The accounts were presented, showing a balance in hand of about £9, after paying for the long-delayed report for the years 1921—1924.

It was decided that a report be printed for 1925, members to pay 6d. a copy.

The district secretaries were reappointed, viz. Mr. A. E. Austin (Ely), the Rev. H. B. Woolley (Hunts), Mr. H. W. Giddings (Wisbech), and Mr. W. G. Cross (Marshland).

The hon. secretary was reappointed, and also the auditor (Mr. T. R. Dennis). In addition to these, the Revs. A. H. F. Boughey and R. F. R. Routh, and Messrs. J. Taylor and G. Rivers, were chosen to form the Diocesan Committee.

Votes of thanks were given to the preacher and the incumbents, who had granted the use of their bells, and it was the desire of the members that a letter be sent to Canon Hulbert, the Vicar of Great St. Mary's, expressing their regret for the cause of his absence, and hoping that he would return with his health restored.

A vote of thanks was passed with acclamation to Mr. A. E. Austin for the time and care he had bestowed in the preparation of the report. — The meeting closed with a hearty vote of thanks to Mr. Boughey for presiding.

The bells of Great St. Mary's were going before the service and after the meeting. Stedman Caters and Cinqus and Bob Royal being some of the methods rung. Ringing also took place at St. Andrew's-the-Great.

LANCASHIRE ASSOCIATION.

BLACKBURN BRANCH.

A meeting of the Blackburn Branch was held at Clitheroe on Saturday, March 20th. There was a fair attendance of ringers, representing Blackburn Parish, Blackburn St. Michael's, Whalley, and Clitheroe. During the afternoon there was an excellent practice of Grandsire Triples for the benefit of the young ringers.

Mr. W. Wilkinson presided over the business proceedings, and it was proposed to hold the next meeting at Padiham on Saturday, April 17th. One new ringing member from Whalley was elected.

The ringing secretary to the association (Mr. A. Tomlinson) gave a paper and demonstration on pricking changes in Grandsire Doubles, Triples, and short touches, which was followed attentively, especially by the young ringers.

Mr. Wilkinson, in proposing a vote of thanks, said how highly they appreciated the paper given by Mr. Tomlinson.—This was seconded, and carried with acclamation.

The usual votes of thanks to the Vicar and wardens for the use of the bells, to the Clitheroe ringers for their hearty welcome; and to Mr. Wilkinson for presiding were accorded.

The branch president was absent until after the meeting was concluded, but was doing good work in the meantime by scoring a peal of Bob Minor at Waddington with five of his young ringers.

DEATH OF AN ESSEX RINGER.

CHELMSFORD CATHEDRAL'S VETERAN VERGER.

Mr. James Oswick, who for the past twenty-seven years was verger at Chelmsford Cathedral, passed away on March 25th, after a short illness. The deceased, who was 75 years of age, was well known and highly respected by all who knew him, and was fulfilling his duties in the Cathedral until about a fortnight before his death. Although he had done no ringing for a number of years he always took a keen interest in the ringing at the Cathedral, and his name appears on a board in the tower recording a peal of Grandsire Triples.

The funeral, which took place on Saturday, March 27th, was attended by a large number of mourners and friends, including the Bishop of the Diocese and the Bishop of Barking. The first part of the service was held in the Cathedral, and the interment took place at the Borough Cemetery.

On Sunday morning, March 28th, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Caters was rung, with the bells half-muffled, as a token of respect: F. Tolworthy 1, C. Gentry 2, R. O. Clark 3, A. Saltmarsh 4, J. Wood 5, A. Head 6, C. Pease 7, P. Timson 8, L. J. Clark (conductor) 9, G. Cooper 10.

HERTFORD COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

EASTERTIDE FESTIVAL AT ST. ALBANS.

The annual meeting of the Hertford County Association took place, as usual, at St. Albans, on Easter Monday, when there was an unusually large gathering of members, some of whom visited the various towers of the city, and afterwards assembled for evening at the Cathedral, the service being followed by tea and the annual meeting at the Abbey Institute, where Mr. E. P. Debenham presided, owing to the death of the President (Mr. F. R. Bacon). Among those supporting him were the Dean of St. Albans, Canon G. H. C. Shorting, the Rev. B. H. Tyrwhitt Drake, Mr. B. Jarman, Mr. E. N. Wix and the Honorary Secretary (Mr. G. W. Cartmel).

The Chairman, in the name of the ringers of St. Albans, conveyed a hearty welcome to those assembled for the annual meeting, expressing pleasure at seeing such an excellent muster, as well as at the performances that day in the towers of St. Albans, which had shown some real progress in some directions.

Alluding to the death during his year of office of the association's president (Mr. F. R. Bacon), the Chairman asked those present to stand in silence for a few moments as an indication of their sympathy with Mrs. Bacon in her bereavement, which they did forthwith.

NEW MEMBERS.

The following were then elected honorary members of the association:—The Dean of St. Albans, Canon G. H. C. Shorting and Mr. H. S. Cox. The provisional election of Messrs. S. T. Chappell (Berkhamsted), F. Kirk (St. Albans), Jesse Pulett (Hemel Hempstead), W. Theobald, R. Molton and E. G. Smith (Leytonstone), J. Conquest (Hertford) and Mr. J. Saxby (Edmonton) took place.

The following were elected ringing members:—A. Dollin, E. J. A. Kendall, E. Cutmore, A. J. Constable, J. E. Sanders, of St. Albans Cathedral Society; C. A. Baker, Gainsborough; R. Styles and B. McKie, Northaw; G. Carl, Harpenden; S. Frost and T. Cannon, Bennington; H. Brackley, Tring; S. J. Carley, Barnet; A. Stanley and G. Johnson, Stevenage; W. R. Smith, St. Albans; H. W. Anstee, Breachwood Green; G. Cain, Kimpton; J. R. Gittings and R. W. Gittings, Welwyn; W. Kimble, Kimpton.

The balance sheet, presented by Mr. E. P. Debenham, as honorary treasurer, showed that the year opened with a balance in hand of £8 ls. 3d. Subscriptions from honorary, ringing and life members, and fees for peal entries brought the total income to £46 14s. 9d. After the expenses for the year had been met, there remained an increased balance at the end of the year of £13 13s. 2d. On the reserve fund there was £17 9s. 8d. deposited in the Post Office Savings Bank, and interest received during the year brought the total to £18 13s. 10d. In addition, the association holds £15 15s. 9d. five per cent. War Stock.

On the proposition of the Chairman, seconded by Mr. H. E. Good-enough, the balance sheet was received and adopted.

When presenting his annual report, the Honorary Secretary called attention to an interesting record established by the St. Albans Cathedral Society, who, he said, on Easter Day, starting at five o'clock in the morning, rang quarter-peals in the following methods:—Stedman Triples, Bob Major, Double Norwich and Grand sire Triples.

A generation, continued the Secretary, has passed away since our formation, but increasing years have not damped our enthusiasm for ringing, and though we have naturally to face the problems of retirement and the inevitable passing away of our members, yet we have preserved our existence numerically, and continue to render to the Church our loyal service. The year has been normal as far as the number of peals that have been rung; but the variety of methods rung has been excellent. To judge by the published reports of quarter-peals for evening service, I should say there has been a keen appreciation of bands to give of their best in service ringing. This we acknowledge to be our first duty, and is one which I feel sure will ever be recognised. To the incumbents we would acknowledge our indebtedness to them for their continued interest in the association, expressed in so many kindly ways, by their readiness in giving permission for peal ringing, and in addressing ringers at the quarterly services. Thirty peals have been rung during the year, 25 on tower bells and five on handbells.

There have been fifteen conductors for the tower peals, and two conductors for the handbell peals. Messrs. W. N. Cooper, W. C. Hughes, R. Wilkinson, E. Loversuch, C. Cooke, L. A. Weare, F. Blunt, S. T. Chappell, J. E. Graney, E. J. Rowe and Miss R. S. Cooke have rung their first peal. Many others have rung their first on eight and ten bells and the first in new methods. Congratulations to Mr. Maurice Hibbert and his band in ringing the first peal of Norfolk Surprise Major for the association, also to Mr. Hibbert for his splendid achievement in being the first conductor to call J. W. Parker's odd and even five-part peal of Stedman Triples. The King's Langley band are progressing, and Mr. Cooke must feel proud in piloting his daughter through her first peal. The Rickmansworth band has made excellent progress, and now possess a first-class company. They are anticipating an addition to their ring, which we hope will come to fruition, as it will give a splendid impetus to ten-bell ringing. Change ringing is also being practised at Redbourn, and Mr. Ayre has had the credit of conducting the first peal on the bells; also the first on the Flamstead bells. A note to the peal of Doubles recently rung at Berkhamsted states that Mr. Norris has been a member of the local company for 52 years. But our friend, Mr. Conley, of St. Albans, who has only recently given up ringing, has a record of over 70 years. One important matter was brought before the committee by Mr. Horton, who reported that peals had been fixed in his district on the day of meetings, which he considered was against all principles of sport and good fellowship. The committee deprecated the action as being not conducive to the prosperity of the association, and lacking in moral support of the secretary's effort. As a solution to the difficulty I would suggest that the 'seventy times seven' injunction be put into practice by all concerned, which alone can bring happy fellowship.

DEATH OF PRESIDENT.

It is with feelings of sorrow that I have to record the death of our President, Mr. F. R. Bacon, which occurred on September 25th. The funeral service was held at St. Mary's Church, Hitchin, being conducted by the Vicar of Hitchin and the Rev. B. H. Tyrwhitt-Drake. The association was represented by Messrs. E. W. Day, J. F. Foster, H. Day, C. Cannon, J. Hare and R. Fidler, of the local band, who placed a bell-shaped wreath upon the grave of their comrade. One was also sent in the name of the members of the association. One regretted that other officers and members were not present; but many knew nothing of the sad event until the appearance of their ringing paper. Our late president came from Ely to Hitchin about 30 years ago, and for some time acted as secretary to the local band. His peals were few; he was essentially a Sunday service ringer, one who rang from the highest motive of praise. He succeeded the Rev. B. H. Tyrwhitt-Drake as secretary for the Northern Division at Easter, 1914, which duties he continued up to date of death. He was an excellent secretary, his secret of ability emanating from a mind centred on spiritual things. To our late friend we owe the starting of the quarterly service at district meetings, which was seldom omitted in his arrangements. But he had also a great love for the historical fabric, possessing a knowledge of architecture, which he wore so interestingly into the paragraphs he contributed to 'The Ringing World.' He was also a devoted member of his Parish Church, being on the Finance Committee of the Parochial Church Council. The Vicar of Hitchin, writing to me, says: 'We shall miss him so dreadfully in the parish, and I myself have lost a very old and very good friend, whom I was very fond of.' May God raise up many more such men, fearless in their allegiance to Him, and with a warm-hearted desire not only to forward the cause of change ringing, but all other good works. I have tendered personally to Mrs. Bacon our deepest sympathy.

By the death of Colonel Baker we have lost a pioneer of change ringing in Hertfordshire, and one of the few remaining original members of the association. He was a magnificent ringer, and one who has left behind the fragrance of delightful companionship, and a record of notable achievements in the belfries of Hertfordshire—and beyond. The committee were desirous that he should become president, and to that end he was approached on several occasions, but each time he declined the honour, probably through stress of public duties which he considered more urgent. His life was the inspiration of the Hertford bands, and I trust that the town which possesses such an ancient history not only in change ringing, but in bell founding, will continue to furnish other men of outstanding ability to carry on the traditions of the craft.

The Secretary added satisfactory reports from each of the districts, and thanks were given to the district secretaries, to the Rev. B. H. Tyrwhitt-Drake, the association's representative on the Central Council, and to the librarian (Mr. T. J. Hull).

In conclusion, the Secretary said: I would remind you, and myself, of our calling, 'Workers together with Him.' Failure to realise this is causing disaster in our Church to-day. It is a great privilege, one of the greatest bestowed upon mankind, and the wonderment of all ages. Let us remember that bellringers are included in the 'workers.' True, our work is not directly spiritual; but surely it is included among the God-appointed helps that St. Paul mentions, if that service is rendered to His praise. If we get a clear insight into the meaning of the words 'Workers together with Him,' it will revolutionise our conception of service. Then there is the fellowship that exists amongst us, the beauty of which is sometimes marred because of failure to appreciate our calling. I would stress this most strongly. Difficulties, misunderstandings, jealousies creep in often unawares, and maybe you cannot keep them out. But when in you can deal with them promptly under Divine guidance. Good fellowship is congenial and helpful, but it will lack power and initiative unless its aims and ambitions are centred upon the One 'Who is able to make all things abound.' May you, my brothers, go back to your respective belfries refreshed and cheered in your work because of our fellowship to-day, and may you ever continue to prosper in the science we all so much love.

When proposing the adoption of the annual report, the Dean of St. Albans congratulated the association upon the width and extent of its activities, and the amount of enthusiasm and keenness for working for the Church which its members displayed. It was a wonderful thing to see that organisation, spread over the whole diocese, and bringing men together in feelings of good fellowship, and a desire for real Christian service. He congratulated the association also upon the possession of such a secretary as Mr. Cartmel, who threw himself so thoroughly into the work, and was evidently in living touch with the members in every district.

The Rev. B. H. Tyrwhitt-Drake, seconding the motion, endorsed the observations of the Dean, remarking that they always listened to the hon. secretary's annual report with the intensest interest and keenness, and were grateful to Mr. Cartmel for the spirit he always imparted to it.

The report was adopted.

A PEAL OF TWELVE FOR THE CATHEDRAL?

The Rev. B. H. Tyrwhitt-Drake next proposed a vote of thanks to the Dean for his sermon at the ringers' service, declaring: 'I have never heard a better address in any cathedral or any other place.' Coupled with this vote of thanks was an expression of gratitude to the Dean and the Vicars of St. Peter's, St. Michael's and St. Stephen's Churches for the use of their bells during the day. Thanks to the editor of 'The Ringing World,' added Mr. Tyrwhitt-Drake, the St. Albans meeting each Easter was one of the best known meetings held anywhere around London, and they owed a good deal of that to the cheery welcome which the ringers of the Hertfordshire Association always received in the four towers he had mentioned.

The vote was seconded by Mr. B. Jarman, and heartily accorded. Incidentally, the Chairman observed, when putting the matter to the vote, if the bells of St. Albans Cathedral could be increased from eight to twelve, it would be a very happy day for the ringers of the county (applause). The present Dean was the third holder of the office to whom that suggestion had been made, and he hoped, as this was 'the third time of asking,' it would produce the result they desired (laughter).

In the course of his reply, the Dean said he had always found the ringers among his best helpers, both in Scotland and England, although he frankly confessed his ignorance about bellringing was abysmal—he hardly knew a Bob Major from a sergeant-major (laughter). There was a tradition, he said, that the number of strokes on the bell that an incumbent gave when being instituted indicated the number of years he would remain in the place. He had been told by the ringers that when he was instituted at St. Albans Cathedral, he only rang three—and one of those years had nearly gone. The Dean spoke in terms of admiration of the qualities of the St. Albans Cathedral Society. As soon as he saw the leader of the cathedral band, he said to himself, 'That's Goodenough' (laughter). Two things he was very proud of—one was that someone who took part in the peal rung at his institution was one of his ringers from St. Mary's Cathedral, Edinburgh, and the other was that he believed he was to have a whole peal rung on the anniversary of his institution (applause).

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

On the recommendation of the committee, and at the proposal of the chairman, seconded by Mr. W. H. L. Buckingham, Mr. B. Jarman was unanimously elected president of the association. Mr. E. P. Debenham was re-elected honorary treasurer, on the motion of Mr. Buckingham, seconded by Mr. W. G. Whitehead; Mr. G. W. Cartmel was re-elected honorary secretary, on the motion of the president, seconded by Mr. F. E. Smith; Mr. T. J. Hull, proposed by the president, and seconded by Mr. W. Nash, was re-elected honorary librarian; Mr. W. Mercer was re-elected honorary auditor, with thanks for past services; the Rev. B. H. Tyrwhitt-Drake was re-elected representative of the association on the Central Council; and Messrs. E. W. Day, W. H. Lawrence, W. Nash, C. H. Horton and W. Ayre were re-elected as district secretaries for the Northern, Eastern, St. Albans, Watford, and Western Divisions respectively.

The meeting closed with a vote of thanks to the caterer (Mr. C. F. Haunaford).

At the service in the choir of St. Albans Cathedral, which preceded the annual meeting, the sermon was preached by the Dean of St. Albans (the Very Rev. E. L. Henderson), who based an interesting discourse upon the word 'Remember,' from Ecclesiastes xiii. 1. This text, he said, seemed to contain a special message for ringers, because it was the message of their bells as they rang out over the countryside calling men to lift up their hearts to God; to turn away from the world that was so close to them, pressing upon them every moment, to the unseen world that lies behind. It was a message which ringers needed, for it was so easy to let their ideals of service drop down. The heftily did not bring them so closely into touch with the Church as it did other church workers, and it was so easy to get slack and get discouraged, and let the whole tone of their service drop. Let them not forget that all service counted alike with God; if it was done for Him, and for His sake. He reminded them of the solemn occasions on which they came into being in men's lives with their bells, in their call to service, on wedding days, in the passing of the old year, in national rejoicing and sorrow; and when death came the bell tolled, calling men to pray for the soul of the departed, and for the bereaved, and bidding men remember that they, too, must die. Let them think of the responsible and worthy work that God had called them to, and let them remember if the work was to be done well, if the message of their bells was to reach not merely people's ears, but their hearts, their lives, as ringers, must be in tune with their message. They must join in the worship of the congregation, and in the life of their parish as a whole, and not be a little clique, a small select body, interested in ringing and ringing only, and in themselves. So would their work be blessed, and so would their message ring out true and sweet and strong. They would be taking their part in the preaching of the gospel of God's love for every soul.

YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION.

EASTERN DISTRICT.

The annual meeting of the Eastern District was held at Sherburn-in-Elmet on Saturday, March 27th, and was attended by upwards of some thirty members and visitors. Choral Evensong was held in church, at which the Vicar of Monk Fyston gave a very interesting address. This was followed by an excellent tea, served in the Church House.

At the business meeting the chair was occupied by the Vicar (the Rev. P. Bone, M.A.).—Mr. F. Cryer (Selby) was elected vice-president for one year, in place of Mr. A. E. West (Sutton-on-Hull), resigned.

Mr. A. B. Cook was re-elected hon. secretary, Messrs. G. T. Miller (Hull) and R. B. Smith (Howden) were re-elected as committeemen, and Mr. J. H. Howell (Hull) was elected to fill the vacancy caused by Mr. Cryer's election as vice-president.

The next meeting will be held at St. Mary's, Beverley, in June.

The Hon. Secretary proposed a hearty vote of thanks to the Vicar of Sherburn-in-Elmet for the use of the bells and for the beautiful service; also to the Vicar of Monk Fyston for his address; to the ladies for serving tea, and to the local ringers for their very excellent arrangements, and was seconded by Mr. P. J. Johnson, hon. general secretary.—Replies by the two respective Vicars brought a pleasant meeting to a close.

LADIES' GUILD.

The quarterly meeting of the Western District was held at Mangotsfield on March 13th, members attending from Bath, Bristol, Clapton, Corston and Portishead. The bells were going soon after 3 o'clock, touches of Grandsire, Stedman and Bob Major being rung. The Guild service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. F. R. H. Crews), and was followed by tea and the business meeting, at which Miss E. Smith presided.

It was decided to hold the next meeting at Portishead in June, and the possibility of arranging an intermediate practice meeting was discussed, but, after various places had been suggested, the idea was finally abandoned, owing to the difficulty of securing a sufficient attendance.

The members wish to express their thanks to the Vicar for the use of the bells, and to Mr. Jefferies for so kindly making all the necessary arrangements.

SUNDAY SERVICE TOUCHES.

ST. GEORGE'S-IN-THE-EAST.—On Sunday, March 28th, 720 Grandsire Doubles, in 29 mins.: G. Buffles 1, S. Kelly 2, E. Butler 3, A. Annis 4, J. Warneck 5, H. Bullwinkle 6, A. Barrett (conductor) 7, A. Hall 8. Rung with 4, 6, 8 covering, with bells half-muffled.

A MOTHER OF RINGERS.

DEATH OF MRS. F. WHITE, OF APPLETON.

At Appleton, Berks. on Saturday, April 3rd, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Caters (1,259 changes) was rung in 46 mins.: W. Holifield 1, H. C. White 2, G. Holifield, senr., 3, C. G. White 4, F. Messenger 5, A. H. White 6, F. S. White 7, G. Holifield, junr. (conductor), 8, R. White 9, F. White 10. The bells were muffled as a last token of respect to the late Mrs. F. White, who passed away at the advanced age of 85 years, and who was laid to rest on Good Friday. Mrs. White was mother of the ringers of 4, 6, 7, 9, 10, and widow of the late Mr. F. White bell hanger, of Appleton.

EASTER DAY TOUCHES.

FIRST PEAL AT SEVENTY.

VETERAN LEICESTERSHIRE RINGERS' ACHIEVEMENT.

We wonder how many ringers have passed their 70th birthday before attempting their first peal. Mr. J. W. Hopkins, of Ibstock, Leicestershire, who is over 70, made his first attempt last year, when he volunteered to ring the treble in a peal of Bob Minor, which he did to avoid disappointment to five visitors, through the failure of the sixth man to turn up.

His ringing career commenced more than fifty years ago, but many of those years were spent in pulling hard at the old peal of four, which were almost unringable. It was largely due to his efforts that they were rehung and increased first to five, and later to six. He is a great lover of bells, and urges the young members of his belfry to strive to become proficient exponents in method ringing. He confided to the writer that, given an enthusiastic band of ringers, the present six would soon be turned into an octave.

In addition to ringing, his activities have extended in many other directions. He has for many years been people's warden, secretary to a large lodge of the M.U.I.O.F., as well as other organisations.

We heartily congratulate him on his fine example, and trust he will be spared many more years, and that he may see the fruit of his untiring efforts.

AWAKENING INTEREST.

It is not only interesting, but encouraging, although only what it ought to be, to find that several associations at the annual meetings on Easter Monday discussed topics concerning the Exercise generally, as well as matters of purely domestic policy. Questions which are to come before the Central Council at the Ipswich meeting were debated at several meetings, and in this evidence of a wider interest in ringing affairs one may see an indication of the extension of the average ringer's horizon. Hitherto, with few exceptions, association meetings have been confined to association concerns, and, even if individuals have realised that they are part of a much larger body than their own territorial or diocesan unit, they have seldom shown any desire to talk of matters outside the affairs of their local organisation. They have not apparently fully appreciated the fact that they are members of a country-wide brotherhood and followers of an art the welfare of which throughout the land is largely a matter of their own concern.

When, however, we find important county and diocesan associations discussing subjects of general importance to the whole body of the Exercise it is a gratifying sign of a growing realisation of the share which all ringers ought to take in fostering the growth of the art and furthering the spirit of fraternity of which we so often boast. It matters little in what direction members of an association demonstrate their interest—whether it be in Simpson-tuning, in method nomenclature, in cheaper travelling facilities, or any other question—so long as they show that they have a conception beyond purely parochial ringing politics, it is all to the good. To say, as is sometimes said, that the introduction of these outside matters interferes with the opportunities of ringing on these occasions is not always true, but even if it were it is surely not the least important part of an 'annual meeting' that business should be discussed, and it will generally be found that these topics of more than local application prove also of more than ordinary interest to the average ringer when he hears them debated.

We feel quite certain that the subjects discussed at Chester, Bury St. Edmunds, Painswick and Worcester—to mention only a few of the places where general affairs were talked over—were of as much interest to the average member as the more or less routine business, and as these topics, or most of them, will occupy the attention of the Central Council at Ipswich, members of this body are provided with pointers to the feeling of the rank and file, while among the latter we may look for some real interest in the Council's doings. On the other hand, the Council, as a body, will profit from the fact that the associations have been reviewing some of the questions which are to come before them, and added weight will be given to their decisions if it is realised that the Exercise as a whole is not only interested, but ready to express its views. The Easter meetings this year, therefore, have been valuable in showing some measure of awakening interest among ringers.

GLoucester & BRISTOL DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION. ANNUAL MEETING AT PAINSWICK.

The annual meeting of the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association took place at Painswick, Gloucestershire, on Easter Monday, when there was a large gathering of members. Two 32-seater charabancs had been requisitioned to convey the Bristol branch members, and the first of these reached Painswick at 11 a.m., when the management committee meeting was held in the Vicarage Rooms.

At 12.15, service took place in the church, by which time the members had increased to about 120. The Vicar (the Rev. C. H. Veroy) gave a very interesting address, in the course of which he referred to the history of the famous Painswick bells. After the service, luncheon was partaken of at the Falcon Hotel, and the general meeting followed in the Town Hall, where several volumes of peal books were on view. Mr. Albert Wright (Painswick), Master of the Association, presided, supported by Mr. W. Lansdown (hon. treasurer), and Mr. E. Guise (hon. secretary).

The Master reported progress in various branches, which was particularly gratifying, and expressed the hope that others would show some improvement in 1926. He alluded to the loss the association had sustained by the death of Mr. Walter Wood, late chairman of the Gloucester branch, and to the recent death of Mr. William Short, of St. James's Guild, Bristol. He also referred to the activities of the association during 1925 in connection with cheaper railway travelling for ringers.

Mr. W. Lansdown presented the balance sheet, pointing out that, although the profits upon the year's work were about £8 less than 1925, this was easily accounted for by the fact that heavier expenditure had been caused by additional travelling expenses to Central Council meetings.—It was generally considered that the financial position of the association was very satisfactory.

An addition was made to Rule III., whereby branch hon. secretaries are now officially appointed members of the management committee.

The following resolution was unanimously carried, and ordered to be sent to the Central Council: 'That the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association earnestly request the Central Council to continue to press the Railway Clearing Board for cheaper travelling facilities to be granted to ringers.'—This was proposed by Mr. E. Guise, and seconded by Mr. J. Austin, who remarked that this concession should have been made long ago.

Mr. W. A. Cave, strongly supporting the resolution, said that what they wanted was that ringers should be able to travel anywhere, any day, at reduced costs. He remarked that, had the Central Council worked as hard in days gone by as they had quite recently done in connection with the Simpson-tuning principle, ringers would have had this facility long ago (applause).

SIMPSON-TUNING.

Mr. J. Jefferies proposed: 'That the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association, at their annual meeting held at Painswick on April 5th, 1926, unanimously agree that historic bells should not be tuned by the Canon Simpson principle, even though it is necessary for them to be recast, but that the Canon Simpson principle may be used upon modern bells only.'

This was seconded by Mr. J. Austin, and supported by Mr. W. A. Cave, who remarked that it would be sacrilegious to use the principle on the bells of Bishop Sutton, and upon many other beautiful old bells of this country. If the advocates of Simpson-tuning wanted to use their principle they should do it on new bells, but the old ones should not be touched.

It was unanimously agreed to hold the next annual meeting at Stow-on-the-Wold on Whit Monday, 1927, and that the management committee meeting should be held at Lydney at least one month before.

The hon. secretary was given permission to have 200 copies of the Central Council's instructions upon the use and care of bells printed (with the printing all on one side), and issued to every tower in the association area.

Mr. Edwards, of Cirencester, moved that the arrangements for the association's jubilee meeting in 1928 be handed to the Bristol United Ringing Guilds, and that they report their scheme to the management committee.—Mr. Austin favoured a special committee being appointed there and then.

After a short discussion it was proposed that the jubilee meeting be held in Bristol on Whit Monday, 1928, and that the Bristol United Ringing Guilds be asked to make the arrangements, and to report their scheme to the management committee.—This was seconded, and unanimously carried.

The sum of £3 3s. was voted from the Belfry Repair Fund to the Abson Church Bell Reliance Fund.

The whole of the officials were re-elected, with the addition of the Rev. Canon White, of Bourton-on-the-Water, as a member of the Executive and Management Committees.

A vote of thanks was accorded to the Vicar of Painswick for his kindness in granting the use of the bells, and for arranging the service. Mr. A. Wright was also thanked for the assistance rendered to make a successful meeting.—This was proposed by Mr. A. Cave, who, in the course of this proposition, referred to the lack of enterprise on the part of the British Broadcasting Company in not having made arrangements for such bells as those at Painswick to be broadcast. Famous old bells associated with famous old ringers should have been broadcast in preference to some of the bells, such as peals of five and six, that had received priority in the B.B.C.'s programme.

Votes of condolence were passed to Mrs. Walter Wood, of Barwood, and to Mrs. Short and her son, of Bristol.

This concluded the meeting, and as there was some spare time before tea, the bells were soon in changes again.

Stroud bells were available during the evening, and good use of them was made.

Apologies for absence were received from the Bishop of Bristol, and the Bishop of Gloucester, the Archdeacons of Bristol, Swindon, and Cheltenham, Vice-presidents Revs. M. E. Thorold, T. C. Fowler, Penington and Paterson, and Mr. F. K. Howell.

CHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD. ANNUAL MEETING AT CHESTER.

The annual festival of the Chester Diocesan Guild was held at Chester on Easter Monday, and was well attended by ringers from all parts of the Diocese.

At the Guild service in the Lady Chapel of the Cathedral, the sermon was preached by the Bishop of Chester, who referred to the great strides the art of ringing had made within the last decade, especially in Cheshire. He emphasised the wonderful way in which church bells preach the gospel of Christ to all who hear them. Bells had a beauty of their own, and their exquisite tone was a thing of beauty and a joy for ever. 'Blessed are the pure in heart,' said his lordship, and went on to show how that text seemed to fit the music of the bells. By their gospel, preached whenever they were rung, bells helped materially to aid the extension of the Kingdom of Heaven. Singleness of heart should always be the aim of ringers, and as long as they kept their hearts single they could not fail to do good work. The beauty of the tenor and the exquisite tinkle of the treble can often, with the power of the Holy Spirit, convert an erring heart to the truths of the Catholic religion. Let the ringers of the diocese go forth and continue their good work. God be with them!

At the business meeting, which had preceded the service, the Rev. C. A. Clements was re-elected Master of the Guild, and Mr. E. W. Elwell was again made secretary. The Rev. A. T. Beeston, whose absence through temporary ill-health, was much regretted, was again elected treasurer. Certain changes in the way in which the investments of the Guild are held were deemed advisable, consequent upon the passing of the new Law of Property Act, and were accordingly made.

The formal business of passing the accounts and adoption of the report then took place, and this was followed by a complete revision of the rules of the Guild.

The payment of a grant of £5 towards the rehanging of the bells of Holy Trinity, Stalybridge, was confirmed.

On the invitation of the Master, Grappenhall was accepted as the place for the next annual meeting, and the date was fixed as the last Saturday in July.

A short discussion took place on the revised report of the Nomenclature Committee of the Central Council, and instructions were given to the representatives of the Guild, to be carried out at Ipswich. It was decided that only those points in the report which contravened the ancient rights of ringers should be opposed.

After lunch in the Refectory, the ringers visited various towers in the neighbourhood, and their bells were kept going until a late hour.

YORKSHIRE TREASURER'S BEREAVEMENT

Mr. J. Cotterell, the well-known hon. treasurer of the Yorkshire Association, has suffered a severe loss by the death of his wife, who passed away on April 3rd.

The interment took place at Undercliffe Cemetery, Bradford, on April 7th, the Yorkshire Association being represented by the president (the Rev. C. O. Marshall), and several well known members. An attempt for a half-muffled peal of Treble Bob Royal at Bradford Cathedral on Saturday, April 10th, came to grief, after two hours' good ringing.

The deceased lady was well known among Yorkshire ringers, being much esteemed by a wide circle of friends, and great sympathy is expressed for Mr. Cotterell in his bereavement.

A HALF-PEAL.

At Stow-on-the-Wold, on April 9th, a half-peal of Grandsire Triples (Holt's), in 1 hour and 33 minutes: S. Petrick 1, E. Pardon (conductor) 2, H. Hill 3, R. Hicks 4, B. Phillips 5, C. Robins 6, F. Davis 7, W. Richings 8. First half-peal as conductor, and first half by ringers of 1, 3, 4, 6, 8. The tenor is 30 cwt., and the age of the ringer of this bell is 72 years.

LANCASHIRE ASSOCIATION.

WIGAN AND PRESTON BRANCHES' JOINT MEETING.

A very successful joint meeting of the Wigan and Preston branches was held at Wigan Parish Church on Saturday, April 10th. Ringers were present from no less than five branches, and over twenty towers, among those present being the association president (Canon H. J. Elson), the ringing secretary (Mr. A. Tomlinson, of Blackburn), Mr. H. Chapman (Pendleton), and a good muster of the Wigan and Preston members.

There was no business meeting, the idea being to try and create more interest among some of the local ringers in the Wigan branch. It is to be hoped that the meeting will bear fruit in that direction in the future. Judging from the numbers present, and the distance some of them had travelled, it would seem that Wigan is a very good centre for a meeting, or perhaps it was owing to the very limited opportunities there have been for some time of having a pull on these bells, which are a heavy peal, with a tenor of 28 cwt., in the key of C, according to the peal tablets in the tower.

The bells were kept going for the best part of the afternoon and evening in the various methods, from Plain Bob to Double Norwich, and although the ringing was not quite up to the best standard, it was very fair considering that a large proportion of the ringers present were unused to ringing bells much over 15 cwt.

The joint secretaries take this opportunity of thanking (on behalf of the members who were present) the local authorities for the use of the bells, and also the ringers for having all in readiness.

LINCOLN DIOCESAN GUILD.

The meeting of the Gainsborough District, held at Corringham on Saturday, April 10th, was fairly well attended, members being present from Gainsborough, Stow and Ashby, in addition to the local ringers.

The bells were raised at 3 p.m., and the following methods rung during the afternoon and evening: Grandsire and Stedman Double, Plain Bob and Treble Bob Minor; also some very useful ringing for the learners.

A short service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. R. Thornton), and tea was served in the Schoolroom. This was followed by the business meeting, the Rev. Canon Morris presiding.

The tower was then again visited, and further ringing took place until about 7 p.m.

YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION.

VISIT TO KNARESBOROUGH.

A general meeting of the Yorkshire Association was held at Knaresborough on Easter Monday. By the kind permission of the Vicar (the Rev. J. Ogle) and churchwardens, the fine peal of eight bells in the Parish Church were available for ringing throughout the day. As is usual, when ringing meetings are held in country districts, when splendid weather graces them, the visitors to Knaresborough greatly exceeded the number of applications sent in for tea, the result being that many had to seek accommodation in the town.

The day's proceedings commenced with ringing in various methods, with a meeting of the general committee in the Church House at 2.30 p.m. The general meeting an hour later was also held in the Church House, the president (the Rev. C. C. Marshall) presiding. He was supported by the principal officers of the association and a large gathering of members. Apologies for absence were received from Mr. J. Cotterell, Mr. F. Willey, Mr. F. Clark and Mr. J. Broadley. It was decided, on the motion of Mr. H. N. Imeson, seconded by Mr. T. B. Kendall, that the September meeting be held at Selby, if it can be conveniently arranged.

Mr. F. Smith, of Knaresborough, was elected as a new member.

A hearty vote of thanks to the Vicar and churchwardens of Knaresborough was responded to by the Vicar, who extended a cordial welcome to the association, and expressed a wish that the town of Knaresborough should soon have a further visit.—A vote of thanks to the local company for their kind arrangements was moved by Mr. J. Lawson, seconded by Mr. P. J. Johnson, and responded to by Mr. F. Smith, who took the opportunity of urging visitors to Knaresborough to consider the wisdom of making application for tea in writing prior to the meeting day.

The news of the death of Mrs. J. Cotterell, the wife of the greatly respected treasurer of the association, came as a great shock to the meeting, and the following resolution, moved by the president, and seconded by the hon. general secretary, was carried by the members rising in silence: 'This meeting desires to place on record its great sorrow at the news of the death of Mrs. Cotterell, and wishes to convey to Mr. Cotterell the very sincere sympathy of all present.'

An excellent tea was afterwards served to some sixty members at Cooper's Cafe, and more ringing, chats of former boat races, hunting for eggs, etc., brought to an end a most delightful and pleasant meeting.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

Some 70 members attended the annual meeting of the Middlesex County Association and London Diocesan Guild, held at Fulham on Saturday. A report of the proceedings will appear in our next issue. 'Notes by the Way' are unavoidably held over this week.

Mr. L. G. Brett rang in two peals of London Surprise Major on Easter Monday, one at Earls Colne, and the other at Colchester, and during the day cycled 80 miles. He had to leave home at 4 a.m., and he started on his return journey at 8 p.m. Actually he spent 13 hours in cycling and ringing! Would that all ringers had the same energy and enthusiasm!

The peal of eight at Alton, Hants, which have been recast, will be opened on May 1st.

Twenty-five years ago next Sunday, Mr. W. Matthew's twelve-part peal of Grandsire Triples was rung for the first time. This was at Prestbury Church, Cheshire, for evening service.

The 10,400 Double Norwich Major, at Epsom, on Easter Monday, was certainly the longest length rung by Mr. Jack Lee, of Streatham, but it is interesting to record that he had rung 10,176 Treble Bob Major at Foxearth in Essex, as far back as March, 1838. This was called by C. Sillito. Mr. Lee is now 62 years old. Twelve months ago he lay between life and death in a South London Hospital, but is now game for an even longer length than that on Easter Monday. Two only survive of the Foxearth peal band.

There will be a great 'do' at Coalbrookdale this week-end, when the augmented and restored peal will be opened. Ringers are expected from all parts of the West and Midlands, and they will find a hearty welcome.

Mr. George Baker, of Brighton, is just recovering from a serious operation at the nursing home at 33, St. Michael's Place, whither he was rushed on Easter Monday evening. It is the sequel to an appendix operation he went through in 1922, and his many friends will wish him a speedy return to health.

Mr. John S. Collings, for 29 years a ringer at Paignton belfry, Devon, has been the recipient from the ringers of a framed photograph of the church, suitably inscribed, and a silver spoon, on the occasion of the silver wedding which he and his wife celebrated on April 8th.

The peal of Forward Maximus at Ipswich was the third on tower bells, and not the second. Two peals have been rung at St. Martin's, Birmingham, the first on January 13th, 1903, and the second on June 6th, 1905.

Ringng on three peals of bells, in addition to the chiming at St. Martin's-in-the-Fields, was broadcast on Sunday, viz., Chester Cathedral; St. Mary's, Swansea; and St. Cuthbert's, Edinburgh. In the current issue of the 'Radio Times' is a photograph of some of the ringers taken in Bow belfry, conspicuous among them being the Master of the College Youths (Mr. Bob Newton) and Mr. Challis Winney. St. Philip's Cathedral bells, Birmingham, are to be broadcast on Sunday at 8 p.m. We are getting on!

Fifteen years ago to-morrow the present Treble Bob Maximus record was set up at Ashton-under-Lyne, when 12,240 of Kent was rung in 8 hours 39 minutes.

Sunday is the tenth anniversary of the death of Sir Arthur Heywood.

On April 18th, 1737, 12,006 Grandsire Caters was rung at Painswick, in 7 hours 55 minutes—a great performance for those early days of ringing.

The 22nd is the anniversary of the 15,227 in the same method rung at Cheltenham in 1889 in 9 hours 43 minutes, and the same day is the anniversary of the existing 'longest length,' the 21,363 Stedman Caters at Appleton, in 12 hours and 25 minutes, rung on Easter Monday, 1922.

THE CENTRAL COUNCIL.

The annual meeting of the Council will be held on May the 25th (Whit Tuesday) next, at Ipswich. Full particulars of the meeting will be published later. Notice of any motion should be sent before April 24th.

Will secretaries please note that the annual subscription is now due, and, together with the names and addresses of representatives, should be sent to the Hon. Secretary, Mr. E. Alexr. Young, 155, Rushey Green, Catford, S.E.6.

TURNER'S HILL PEAL.

To the Editor.

Sir,—In reply to your correspondent's last letter, as he still refuses to make any specific charge I have nothing further to add to my previous letter.

We are in possession of 'Listener's' name and grievance, which will be mentioned, together with such qualifications as he may possess, when the question is brought up for discussion at the meeting of the Central Division to be held at Cuckfield on Saturday next, 17th inst.—Yours, etc.,
KEITH HART.

WORCESTERSHIRE AND DISTRICTS ASSOCIATION. CLERICAL SECRETARY'S ADVICE AND WARNING.

In glorious weather, everybody looking cheerful in the sunshine, the annual meeting of the Worcestershire Association was held at Worcester on Easter Monday. The bells of the city churches were early going, in methods from Grandsire Doubles to Bristol Surprise Major, and fulid attempts were made on the Cathedral twelve for Stedman Cinques. An extra half-hour was granted by the Dean and Chapter, which did not add to the success or pleasure of the ringing. Now that the £5,000 expenditure on the organ is practically wiped out, the association would like to hear of the next item on the programme being a determined effort to make the bells ringable without strained muscles, wet shirts, and grumbling.

At 2.30, the president, Dr. W. Moore Eds (Dean) heartily welcomed a very full gathering. He was supported by the Rev. J. F. Hastings and Mr. J. R. Newman (clerical and lay honorary secretaries respectively), Mr. R. Matthews (Master), the Rev. J. Willis (Rector of Deford), and others. The report and balance sheet were also accepted. The former contained advice, warning, and a healthy financial position. It was stated that there was possibly a small minority who affected to consider church bells a nuisance in towns; but the vast majority of Englishmen loved the bells and their associations, and ringers were, in most places, a highly respected class of men. 'If our art is to be attacked,' continued the report, 'it will find a host of keen defenders, but, most of all, we must defend it ourselves by reasonableness in ringing and especially by excellence in ringing. If bells are too noisy outside the tower, there are sure and inexpensive methods of lessening the noise of the metal and allowing only the music to be heard; and we feel sure Church authorities would readily have the work done, of partly shuttering up the louvre windows, if the advantage were pointed out to them by the ringers of a noisy peal of bells. And then the ringing itself; let us avoid the fast, hurried striking, the absence of a clear lead at handstroke, the careless rising and falling, which are not uncommon in some towers; let us give the enemy little real cause of complaint, and he will find he has enough rope to hang himself! Bells are the most public voice of the church, heard by all, a reminder of religion in the very air itself; it would be a real spiritual loss to the nation, as well as a musical and sentimental one, if bell ringing—good bell ringing—were silenced.'

The Dean inquired who proposed the Bill, and what constituency he represented.

The Rev. J. F. Hastings said he wrote on the subject, seeing that it was likely that a Bill would be brought forward. Letters appeared in newspapers stating that bell ringing was a nuisance sometimes. He hoped that ringers would be incited to improve in their ringing. He had not put a cap on anybody's head, but, wherever it fitted, he hoped the cap would be put on. If bell ringing could be improved in the ways mentioned, he was certain that there could not be any public opinion behind the proposal to stop bell ringing.

The warning contained in the report referred to the lamented death of Major Hudson at Bishop's Wearmouth, caused by moving among bells when set up, and members were urged to take note of the danger. The balance sheet showed the financial worth of the association to be the highest since its inception in 1882. Membership, both honorary and performing, was well maintained. The Belfry Repairs Fund voted £5 to both Offenham and Hanley Castle restorations. The report also demonstrated two ideas from the fertile brain of that most unostentatious ringer, Mr. T. J. Salter: a 'Peals Analysis and Points Table,' a stimulus to individual bands, in which the honours went to: 1 Wollaston, 296 points; 2 Brierley Hill, 292 points; 3 Halesowen, 292 points (26 ran); an 'In Memoriam' table showing the date of death of ringers from 1885—1925, with the number of peals each had rung from the association.

It was resolved that the next annual meeting be held at Worcester, on Easter Monday, 1927 (D.V.); and that Mr. Sydney T. Holt arrange and conduct the annual peal.

Mr. J. R. Newman then put forward correspondence with the Worcestershire Archaeological Society. A very lengthy discussion followed, the Dean, Mr. J. Armiger Trollope (London), Alderman J. S. Pritchett, the Rev. J. Willis (secretary of the society), and others, taking part.

Alderman Pritchett said he was sure, if an act of vandalism was attempted with bells and towers, they would have a strong friend in the Archaeological Society, to whom they could appeal for help.

After it had been decided to co-operate with the society, Ald. Pritchett kindly offered to pay the fees for this year and next, which was accepted. This step is only an initial one, and it is hoped it will develop and prove an invaluable asset on matters connected with churches, towers and bells.

The question of Minor method naming was also briefly discussed.—On Mr. Salter's suggestion no vote was taken.

A further question was also discussed on the appointment of a competent person to accompany the Archdeacon on his visitation, it being recognised that Archdeacons generally do not report on towers and bells as other parts of the church.

Then followed the re-election of all officers excepting the Master, Mr. Robert Matthews, who expressed a desire to retire, and proposed Mr. J. D. Johnson, of Eresham, who was elected. Mr. Matthews said he would like to see the position refilled annually. This, he said, would be a goal for young aspirants to aim at.

The Secretary then announced that Canon Wilson had paid him his subscription, and regretted it must be his last. He was a true, loyal and interested vice-president for very many years, and a staunch friend of the Cathedral Guild, always ready to help when help was needed.

The Dean feelingly spoke of Canon Wilson, who, in his 90th year, was nursing an invalid wife.—The usual votes of thanks were accorded the Dean and Chapter, and afterwards the service in the Cathedral was attended, at which an excellent address was given by the Rev. Willis. The lengthy discussions absorbed the greater part of the allotted time, which caused but brief consideration of other business, which surely deserved attention.

Nevertheless, the day was well spent, and everybody enjoyed it, the younger ones especially.

The opportunity is here taken of thanking that giant of ringers, Mr. Robert Matthews, for his services during the past two years, and indeed all the years.

BEDFORDSHIRE ASSOCIATION. A RECORD YEAR.

Under ideal weather conditions, the annual meeting of the Bedfordshire Association was held at Bedford on Easter Monday. Members from most of the towers affiliated attended during the day. Many visitors, too, were heartily welcomed, among the well-known ringers present being Messrs. R. Sanders, A. W. Coles, W. H. Hewitt, A. H. Winch, from the South, and Mr. F. Salmon (Halifax), from the North, as well as many Northants and Hertfordshire friends. The fine peal of ten at St. Paul's Church proved a great attraction, throughout the day some excellent ringing being heard in many methods, including Grandsire Triples and Caters, Stedman Caters, Cambridge Surprise, Kent and Oxford Treble Bob Royal, London, Bristol, Norfolk, Superlative and Cambridge Surprise Major, and Bob Major, so that all could be catered for. St. Peter's tower, too, was visited by many, and methods up to London Surprise Minor rung on the peal of six.

Luncheon was held at the Silver Grill, after which the business meeting took place, presided over by Canon W. W. C. Baker (president), supported by Mr. E. Ransome, Miss E. Steel and Mr. Cyril Herbert (vice-presidents).

In a brief resume, the President congratulated the members on scoring a record number of peals for the association in one year, viz., 42, the previous best being 41 in 1903. He paid a passing tribute to the late Mr. H. Thody, who had died during the year, Mr. Thody being one of the very few original members who had been faithful through the 43 years of the association's existence.

Canon Baker was re-elected president, on the proposition of Miss Steel. The vice-presidents were also re-elected, as were the hon. secretary and treasurer (Mr. A. E. Sharman), and hon. auditor (Mr. T. F. Tanqueray).

Bedford was selected for the next annual meeting, and Dunstable and Cardington were proposed for the summer festival. On being put to the vote, Cardington won by a big majority.

The president then brought forward the Nomenclature Committee's proposals, as printed in 'The Ringing World,' and asked the members' opinions upon them. An interesting discussion took place, but a proposal was made that the question should be left to the discretion of the Central Council representatives to vote as they thought fit on the matter.

The meeting closed with the usual votes of thanks to all who had made the day so successful, and the members then dispersed, some to the towers for further ringing, others to the river, etc..

Ringing took place until a late hour, St. Paul's bells pealing forth Cambridge Major when the writer left for home at 7 p.m.

TREBLE BOB MAJOR COMPOSITION.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I think Mr. Pitman was wrong in saying that my peal is not the longest length of Treble Bob Major. Spliced Treble Bob is altogether different from a genuine Treble Bob composition.

I feel sure that every Treble Bob composer will agree that the 17,440 is the longest length of Treble Bob Major.

I believe it was the late Henry Johnson who produced the extent 40,320 changes of combined (Spliced) Kent and Oxford.—Yours faithfully,

E. TIMBRELL.

LADY SURPRISE RINGERS IN KENT.

Dear Sir,—In reply to Mr. S. H. Green re the above, I beg to withdraw the claim, and apologise for not making a more exhaustive search beforehand. I might add that the claim was made on behalf of Miss Chapman and Miss Orr (not by them), and, although I searched the reports, I must have overlooked Miss Orlebar's accomplishment, the only previous record of a lady Surprise ringer I noticed being the peal of Superlative at Gravesend on November 22nd, 1924, conducted by Miss E. K. Parker.—Yours faithfully, Crayford.

MIDLAND COUNTIES ASSOCIATION. REDUCTION OF THE ANNUAL SUBSCRIPTION.

The annual meeting of the Midland Counties Association took place at Burton-on-Trent. The weather was ideal, and a large crowd of visitors made themselves heard on the bells of St. Paul's (10), St. Modwen's (9), Winhill (6), in all the usual standard methods and many surprises. The committee met in St. Paul's Institute at 3 p.m., and, after the usual routine business, discussed applications for grants from the Bell Repair Fund from Great Bowden (Leicester district) and Sharnford (Hinckley district), and, after receiving the local committee's report, a grant was duly authorised in each case.

New rules were discussed, and the proposals mentioned in the general committee's report were accepted and authorised to be laid before all the members at the general meeting.

A short service was held in St. Paul's Church, at which a large body of ringers attended, and a most inspiring address was given by the Rector of Seals (the Rev. H. E. Worthington, M.A., R.D.). A collection for the Bell Repair Fund amounted to £3 6s. 10d.

Tea was served at 5 p.m. in the St. Paul's Institute, and 150 or more members and friends sat down to an excellent meal.

The general meeting followed, at which the president (Ald. R. B. Chambers, B.A., J.P.) took the chair, supported by Mrs. Chambers, the Rev. H. E. Worthington, Mr. W. W. Worthington Mr. J. Griffin, Mr. W. Willson (treasurer), Mr. E. Morris (hon. secretary). The report and balance sheet, which gave great satisfaction, were duly carried.

The general officers were then elected, viz.: President, Ald. Chambers; hon. treasurer, Mr. W. Willson; hon. secretary, Mr. E. Morris.

New members elected included 29 ringing, five honorary and four life, whilst extreme satisfaction was felt that the president had got the Right Rev. Lord Bishop of Southwell and his Grace the Duke of Rutland to consent to be patrons, in place of their deceased predecessors.

NEW RULES ADOPTED.

The towns selected for the next general meetings of the association were: June, Belper; September, Beeston; January, 1927, Loughborough; and next annual meeting, Derby. The suggested grants from Bell Repair Fund were ratified, and finally the president read over the suggested new rules, and these were agreed to, and it was resolved that they be printed and distributed to all members.

The usual votes of thanks to the local committee for the excellent arrangements made, and also to the respective Vicars for the use of the bells, were unanimously passed. Thus ended a most successful meeting.

The annual report stated that during the year 1925 144 peals, including four on handbells, had been rung, compared with 130 in 1924, 143 in 1923, and 149 in 1922. It was pleasing to note the continued variety of methods, the list coming under 28 divisions. Surprise peals were spread over several districts. 'During the year,' continued the report, 'many new and interesting compositions have been rung by the "Wednesday" teams from Burton and Derby. A new addition to our records is the first peal of Pudsey Surprise Royal, this having been rung by the same band who rang a peal of Leicester Surprise Royal the same afternoon—a record performance. We also scored the first peal of Stedman and Grandsire Caters rung "spliced," and we record our first of Cambridge Surprise Minor. In the "Surprise" methods, Cambridge is the favourite, and during the year we record the extent from 6 to 12 bells in this method, viz.: Minor, Major, Royal and Maximus. It is regretted to note the falling off of handbell peals, only four (all Stedman) having been rung. Chief among the conductors were: W. P. Whitehead (22), H. J. Poole (18), M. Swinfield (17), E. Morris (14).

The year 1925 has been one of continued progress from every point of view. It does not constitute a record—nor indeed can it be expected that the M.C.A. will each successive year exceed the previous best, for the simple reason that the harvest has already been gathered—but the balance sheet shows that we are still making a surplus over expenditure, and thereby putting by for the proverbial "rainy day," which may come sooner or later. It is interesting at this stage of our career to show how the funds of the association have grown during the past seven years, the chief credit for which must be accorded our honorary president for his untiring zeal. When the present officials took office there was in hand in round figures, about £30, with numerous accounts outstanding. In 1920, the balance was £80. In 1921 it had risen to £124, in 1922, £132, 1923, £170, 1924, £230, while at the present time a sum approaching £290 including investments.

LOCAL AUTONOMY NOT REQUIRED.

'With such a surplus, it is natural that members would ask—"to what purpose?" Suggestions have been made to divert some of the surplus capital to local funds, and though there is something to be said for this, it is patent that each district would in such case have to be prepared to carry on independently of the parent body. At present the great majority have shown that they do not wish it. Should that time arrive, it is obvious that there would be no need of the parent body. Local autonomy is simple in a county association. It is not so easy in an area covering four counties, unless dissolution is intended. Our surplus has grown from the splendid support of honorary members, without whose help there would be a deficit. Nevertheless, since the amount of ringing members' annual subscriptions was increased 50 per cent. to cover post-war expenses, it seems but rational, that having regard to our financial position, they be reduced to pre-war standard. In the code of new rules to be submitted to the annual meeting on Easter Monday for confirmation, there are two which carry relief. They are: "That entrance fees be reduced to 2/6, with annual subscriptions at 1/- (ringing members only)"; also "that the train fares of all committees be paid to general meetings of the association." As these reductions will benefit every member, although depleting our income, your committee, in thanking their patrons and hon. members for their staunch support, of which we are proud, trust that the same will be continued in the future as in the past. The membership roll was 232 patrons and hon. members, and 823 ringing members, a total of 1,055.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION. ANNUAL MEETING AT THANET.

The forty-seventh annual general meeting of the Kent County Association took place on Easter Monday, under most favourable weather conditions, at St. Lawrence, Thanet. The attendance was rather better than in recent years, but nothing like what it used to be in the days before the war, when the membership was smaller, but the railway authorities held out better inducement in the matter of cheap fares, and there were not so many other attractions, or rather distractions.

The proceedings were much the same as in previous years. A meeting of the Central Committee was held in the Church Vestry at 11.15 a.m., at which £5 was voted from the Belfry Repairs Fund towards the restoration of the bells at Harrietslam.

At the service which followed, the Association Form was used, the Vicar (the Rev. A. G. Wilcox) taking the prayers, and giving an appropriate address from the text, 2 Cor. vi. 1: 'Workers together with Him.' The lesson, Rom. xii., was read by Colonel Bamber, churchwarden. Mr. W. E. Pilman presided at the organ. Three hymns were sung—the Easter hymn, 'Unchanging God, Who Lives!', and 'Fight the good fight.' The collection for the Benevolent Fund amounted to £2 6s. 2d.

The towers open for ringing were the same as those available in 1903, when a most enjoyable meeting was held at Margate on Whitsun Monday, a perfectly heavenly day, about the only really fine day for the whole of that dismally wet summer. St. Lawrence had only eight bells then, whereas now two trebles added make a fine peal of ten. St. Peter's (8), St. John's, Margate (8), Birchington (8), where there were only six in 1903, and Quex Park (12), give plenty of opportunity for members to 'have a pull.' But even so, it was rather disappointing to hear that some young ringers did not have a chance of trying their hand at any of the towers. Either there were too many at one tower at the same time, or not enough at another.

The dinner at the Ramsgate Commercial Hotel was at 1.30 p.m., by which time the members had managed to cover the half mile or so between the church and the hotel. The Mayor of Ramsgate (Alderman Coleman) presided, and was supported by the Vicar (the Rev. A. G. Wilcox), and churchwarden, Colonel Bamber, the hon. secretary (the Rev. F. J. O. Helmore), district secretaries, and members of the committee. The superior sex was represented by Mrs. Gatehouse, Mrs. Baker (Frittenden), Misses Chapman and Harcastle (Balham), and Miss E. Chambers (Canterbury). Grace before and after meat was pronounced by the Vicar.

The toast of 'The King' was given by the Mayor, and was received in the usual fashion.—The health of the Archbishop and Clergy 'was proposed by Colonel Bamber, to which the Vicar responded.—The health of the Mayor,' proposed by the Hon. Secretary, was received with acclamation.

The business meeting followed. The report and balance sheets showed the soundness of the association's position, both campanologically and financially. We are not afraid to hold large balances in our various funds, nor ashamed in the matter of ringing, though it could be wished that some bands gave more evidence of a desire to make progress.

The name of Lord Hardinge, of Penshurst, was added to the list of vice-presidents, and that of Mr. W. J. Beer (life member), of Gravesend, to the committee.

In the late afternoon a large number of members were attracted to Birchington where the Vicar (the Rev. H. A. Serres) had kindly provided tea for those who wrote accepting his invitation. He had expected only about thirty or forty, the usual number attending a district meeting, such as he had kindly entertained on more than one previous occasion. As it was, some of the party had to be sent to a local confectioner's, the Institute not being sufficiently large to take in all the company. No fitting opportunity occurred to propose a vote of thanks, but no doubt all would agree that the Vicar of Birchington and Mrs. Serres ought to be thanked twice over for the hospitality at the Institute and the 'overflow' tea at the confectioner's.

Thus a very pleasant termination was made to a thoroughly delightful day.

ST. MICHAEL'S CATHEDRAL BELLS, COVENTRY.

Mr. C. F. JOHNSTON'S REPLY TO CRITICS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—Over 45 letters and articles have been published since June last on the above subject. As my firm has been entrusted with the work of recasting the bells and installing the new carillon machine to play Coventry's old airs, may I ask you to insert in your columns my comments on the correspondence which has taken place?

Obviously one could go on indefinitely—challenging criticism and replying to individuals. I have thought it better, however, to deal with the more important statements and theories that have appeared from week to week in your paper in connection with the Coventry bell scheme all in one letter, and to let it rest at that.

I have struggled for five years to restore St. Michael's bells as a ringing peal; and it was only after repeated and determined refusals of our many different schemes for this purpose that the retention of the peal as a chime as heretofore was decided upon finally.

Even after we had received the order, however, I set one of our best men to try and evolve a ringing scheme again, as my own attempts had failed. He, too, was unable to suggest anything acceptable. One or two plans for ringing which I submitted to the Diocesan Advisory Committee were not given anything but a brief hearing; in fact, were not considered seriously one way or the other by the members of this committee, for whom I had prepared drawings and a detailed description.

I then persuaded the authorities to call in Sir Giles Gilbert Scott, R.A., one of our most brilliant architects, who would not have been afraid of a bold scheme, if there had been any reasonable chance of hanging the bells for ringing with success in the present tower. After a searching inspection he pronounced any proposal for ringing impracticable and dangerous.

In order, however, that the bells could be used as a ringing peal at any future date, the proportionate weights and dimensions of the recast bells are being arranged with a view to the remote chance of the heavy cost of a new tower, strong enough to withstand a ringing peal, being found ultimately.

There is no danger of ringing peals being supplanted by carillons. A carillon requires 23 bells at least, or 35 and more for preference; at Coventry, although the machine that will play on the bells automatically at set hours is known as a carillon machine, the bells will constitute a chime, being only 14 in number. The carillon industry is quite distinct from the ringing peal industry.

(July 17th, 1925).—Mr. E. A. Young says: 'In the opinion of the experts, both ancient and modern, these bells are amongst the finest in the country,' and quotes Shipway as having put Coventry bells on a par with St. Peter Mancroft, Norwich; York Minster, Painswick, Gloucester and Westbury. Westbury bells were recast recently, and York Minster bells are done, or being done, at the present moment for the same reasons as Coventry.

I have never yet condemned a bell that can be rectified without recasting, nor ever intend to; many instances of bells corrected satisfactorily, and with due regard to safety, can be quoted. The bells at Coventry have no claim to antiquity, seven of them having been recast as recently as 1774, and the other three more recently—all during one of the worst periods of British bell founding. There is, therefore, no question of vandalism.

I dispute entirely the statement that there is a howl with bells properly and carefully tuned on five-tone Simpson lines. This erroneous description results from a confusion in the minds of some ringers who have rung on bells tuned in this way in towers where there is no intervening room between ringers and bells, and where certain precautions to soften the sound have not been taken. This would apply to any bells. If there is a howl with bells at all, it is to be observed in bells with false harmonics, in which case hums and thirds—all out of tune in varying degrees in each bell—shriek and howl at the listener either in the belfry or on the stairs.

Scores and scores of ringing peals have been recast without the slightest suggestion at any time of replacement by a carillon. They have been recast because it is just as advisable to have tuneful and musical bells for ringing as for chime or carillon purposes. The harmonics in these old bells at Coventry vary widely in each bell throughout the peal, and it is obvious to anyone who has tested the bells accurately that they were tuned in the old-fashioned 'hit and miss' manner, and with no knowledge of harmonics or correct methods of tuning at all.

'Simpson-tuned' bells, though not noisier than 'the other kind,' are more resonant viz., their tone lasts for a greater period of time.

(W. E. Pitman, February 26th, 1926).—I hope all fair-minded people and ringers deeply interested in this matter will 'live' to attend the opening of the new chime (not carillon), and then give a fair and unbiased verdict on the result of the restoration.—Yours faithfully, of Gillett and Johnston, Croydon.

CYRIL F. JOHNSTON,

THE ATTEMPT ON THE PEAL RECORD.

'FLU' ROBBED THE BAND OF A SPORTING CHANCE.

To the Editor.

Sir,—May I trouble you for a little space to make a few remarks on the record attempt at Leeds? It is only fair to the rest of the band to say they never had a sporting chance. I do not suppose there was ever a long peal attempted with such a hopeless prospect. Twice before, the company was fixed up, and on both occasions well-known ringers fell with 'flu. A week before the peal, I had an attack, and was unable to move out of the house on the Sunday. None of my friends here expected me to attempt the peal, but, as all arrangements had been made, it was only fair to the band to make a start if possible. When we met at Quex Park on the Saturday we heard that another member of the company had also been a sufferer for a week; and, as one of the ringers remarked, the pair of us together would not make one ringer for a record. It certainly did not look very promising.

Actually the losing the peal was my fault, but it was a mistake which neither the company nor myself regret in the least. It may be unpleasant at the time, but on the other hand it may have saved us all a life-long regret. The other ringer whom the 'flu attacked belongs to a service where they are trained to stand until they drop, and we all believe he would have done so.

It may be interesting to 'Criticus' to know that the local people were more disappointed over the lost peal than anyone, and are all most keen on another attempt being made. One of the band remarked he would not mind the garden job, if there was any music when you put the spade in.—Yours,

A. H. PULLING.

SUFFOLK GUILD.

ANNUAL MEETING DISCUSSES CENTRAL COUNCIL TOPICS.

On Easter Monday, the Suffolk Guild held their annual meeting at Bury St. Edmunds. There was a service in the Cathedral, with a powerful sermon by the Rev. G. D. Castleden, Rector of Dennington. Speaking as a ringer himself, he showed how, through the new Easter life, they could make their work as ringers worth while, and part of their preparation for Heaven.

Afterwards the ringers, who, to the number of about fifty had assembled from all over the county, were entertained to tea by their president, Archdeacon Farmiloe, who afterwards presided over the meeting, supported by the Rev. Canon Goldsmith, and the Rev. G. D. Castleden, with the Rev. H. Drake (secretary).

It appeared that the accounts showed a balance in hand of over £12, even when the new certificates were paid for.

The report, presented by the committee, was adopted. This pointed out that the Guild could not function unless more district secretaries held regular meetings. It also referred to the deplorable destruction of the Coventry Cathedral bells; and a resolution was passed endorsing the efforts which the secretary had taken to try to save them, and thanking him for his action in the matter. The meeting was unanimous and enthusiastic on this matter.

The officers were then all re-elected, with the addition of Mr. Chas. Hy. Lomas, of Bury, to the committee.

The forthcoming meeting of the Central Council on Tuesday in Whitsun week was mentioned. This will bring delegates from all over England to Ipswich this year, and the arrangements made by the sub-committee were explained; and two of the subjects for decision by the Council were discussed. These were the proposed new names for certain ringing methods; and the suggestion that when a Rural Dean cannot examine the bell or bells of a church personally, he should always depute a skilled ringer to do so for him.

Both these proposals were quite in favour with the meeting, and the representatives were instructed to support them.

The usual votes of thanks concluded the meeting.

There was excellent ringing all day on the bells of the Cathedral and St. Mary's.

OLNEY RINGER'S DEATH.

The death occurred suddenly, at Emberton (Bucks.) on Saturday, April 3rd, of Mr. Frederick William Booth, at the age of 48 years. For 26 years he had been a ringer at the Emberton Parish Church, and was for some years hon. secretary of the North Bucks Branch of the Oxford Diocesan Guild. He had also fulfilled the duties of overseer of the parish, assistant overseer, parish constable, a member of the Olney and District Hospital Week Committee, Emberton Fishing Club Committee, and other offices.

At the funeral, on Wednesday afternoon, fellow bell ringers, Messrs. J. Lovell, E. S. Mynard, Ern. Mynard, Fred Mynard, acted as bearers. Other ringers were present from Olney, and after the service a muffled peal was rung; also on Sunday evening. The Rev. C. B. Hulton, himself a ringer, conducted the service. Deceased served in the Royal Engineers during the war.

THE NORFOLK GUILD.*NEARING THE JUBILEE.

The annual meeting of the Norfolk Guild was held at Norwich on Easter Monday, when the bells of St. Peter Mancroft (12), St. John de Sepulchre (8) and St. Michael Coslany (8) were kindly placed at the disposal of the members. At 12.30 p.m. a shortened form of service was conducted by the president (the Dean of Norwich) in the Church of St. Peter Mancroft. The Vicar (Canon F. J. Meyrick) read the lesson, and gave the Blessing at the end of the service. An excellent address was given by the Dean, on the text: 'There are, it may be, so many kinds of voices in the world, and none of them is without signification.' The organist of St. Peter Mancroft kindly presided at the organ, and the service was of a very bright and happy nature. At the conclusion of the service, a group photograph of the assembly was taken at the foot of the tower of St. Peter Mancroft.

Luncheon was served at Messrs. William Grix, Limited, Criterion Restaurant, the Dean of Norwich presiding. Supporting him were Canon F. J. Meyrick, the Rev. W. C. Pearson, the Rev. R. Bulstrode, Mr. C. E. Borrett, the hon. secretary (Mr. A. L. Coleman), and the following members of the committee: Messrs. W. B. Duncan, Denison Hayward, G. H. Cross, and representatives from all the Guild districts, with one exception. Last, but not least, there was the welcome presence of several brother members from Ipswich and Suffolk—a happy reminder of old times of the meeting together of Norfolk and Suffolk ringers. The total number present was 50.

The President proposed the toast of 'The King,' which was duly honoured.

The business meeting then took place. The president read the annual report for 1925, which showed a total membership of 786. Peals rung during the year 1925 numbered 61. A satisfactory feature of the report was the record of restoration and augmentations of rings of bells during the year, which had been more than usual.

The secretary and treasurer (Mr. A. L. Coleman) presented the balance sheet. He said the total income for the year, including a balance in hand of £4 5s. 10d., was £50 6s. 9d., the total expenditure was £46 13s., leaving a balance in hand of £3 13s. 9d., and that the reserve fund of the Guild was £178 9s. 6d.—On the motion of Canon F. J. Meyrick, seconded by Mr. C. E. Borrett, the report was adopted, and on the motion of Mr. Ben S. Thompson, seconded by Mr. C. E. Borrett, the balance sheet was adopted.

No change was made in the election of officers. The Dean of Norwich was re-elected president; Mr. Arthur L. Coleman secretary and treasurer; and Mr. G. P. Burton hon. auditor.

Mr. A. L. Coleman proposed, and Mr. C. E. Borrett seconded, the election of the following new members: Messrs. William Digby, William R. Catchpole, Henry John Richardson, Herbert Greenacre, Ernest A. Shipp, Arthur G. King, Herbert Hall, Percy Alfrey, Stanley W. Cooke, Frank V. Gant Norman L. Dye; and they were duly elected.

It was resolved to hold the Whit Monday general meeting at Aylsham, and that on August Band Holiday at Fakenham.

The secretary read a letter from Mr. Charles S. Tuthill, tendering his resignation as district secretary of the Fakenham district. Mr. Coleman said that he had only received Mr. Tuthill's letter at the meeting, and had not received any nominations for the office.—It was resolved that the Fakenham district be requested to nominate a member for the office of district secretary, and forward such nomination for confirmation to the secretary (Mr. A. L. Coleman).

Votes of thanks were passed to Canon F. J. Meyrick for his kind permission for holding the service in St. Peter Mancroft Church and for the use of the bells, and also to the Rev. A. Henderson and the Rev. L. E. Waghorn for the use of their bells.

The President announced that at the next annual meeting, in April, 1927, they would be celebrating the Guild's jubilee, the Guild having been founded April 4th, 1877, and kindly invited the committee to meet at the Deanery in the near future to make special arrangements for celebrating that event.

The meeting then closed and the members adjourned to the belfries for more ringing. Touches during the day were rung in the standard methods of Triples, Major, Royal, Caters, and Cinques, the ringing being good, and well above the average. This concluded a most successful and enjoyable meeting—the best for several years past.

TO CYCLIST-RINGERS.

To the Editor.

Sir,—It has been suggested in the columns of 'Cycling' that a peal be rung by members of the Cyclists' Touring Club. A tower has been obtained, and the attempt will be made on Saturday, May 8th. One more ringer is required to complete the band, and I should be grateful if any ringers who are interested, and are not already in the band, will communicate to me at 121, Standard Road, Hounslow, Middlesex.—Yours, etc.,

FRED W. GOODFELLOW.

THE JUBILEE OF RINGING SOCIETIES.

References made, both at the Norfolk Guild meeting and the meeting of the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association, on Easter Monday, are a reminder that quite a number of our Associations are approaching their jubilee. Two years ago the Devon Guild achieved this distinction; last year the Yorkshire Association completed its half century of existence; this year the Lancashire Association reached its jubilee; next year the Norfolk Guild will reach its fiftieth year, having been established as the Norwich Diocesan Association; and in the following year the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan organization will celebrate a similar milestone in its history. In the course of the next few years also the majority of the other territorial and diocesan associations will reach this important stage, and it is well to recall that it is the period which has elapsed since their foundation which has seen the most rapid advance in the art.

Prior to the 'seventies,' ringing had no organizations within its ranks except the old London societies, and a few provincial bodies, whose activities were confined mostly to the towers from which they took their names. For the rest the ringers were chiefly a nondescript body, owing allegiance to no one, not even to the church whose bells they rang. Change ringing, except for a few shining examples, made but poor progress, and bell ringers, as a whole, had fallen into sad repute. Between fifty and sixty years ago, however, a spirit of reform in the conduct of church bell ringing began to make itself felt. Some of the clergy became interested in it and, in turn, interested others, and, gathering round them men of enthusiasm in the art, they laid the foundations of modern ringing associations, whose slogan was 'belfry reform and advancement of the art of change ringing.'

The success which has been achieved in both these directions is, in these days, apparent, but for many years it was an uphill struggle, and the present generation probably does not recognise to the full the debt which it owes to those early pioneers who had not only to fight down the prejudice, which existed among many ringers against the introduction of scientific change ringing, but to strive with determination to eradicate those practices which had brought ringing into disrepute with the public. It was a slow process, but the work has been none the less successful. Not only is the standard of method ringing generally much higher, but change ringing has vastly extended in the number of those who practice it. There are probably nearly as many peals rung now in a week as there were in a year half a century ago. The elimination of the undesirable element has raised the status of the ringers themselves, and they occupy in these days in relation to the church a position of honour and respect. To the associations largely this is due, and as in turn they each attain their jubilee they are, while realising that much yet remains to be accomplished, entitled to take credit for and congratulate themselves upon good work patiently and well done.

A ringing meeting in connection with the Burton-on-Trent District was held at Overseale on Saturday, upwards of twenty members being present. The vice-president, Mr. W. W. Worthington, took the chair, and was supported by the Revs. H. E. Worthington and E. A. Merryweather, of Seales.

It was unanimously decided to accept the Rector's invitation to hold a similar meeting at Netherscale during June, the actual date to be fixed later.

An excellent tea was provided in the Church of England Schools, and during the afternoon and evening the peal of eight was kept going in various methods.

DURHAM AND NEWCASTLE DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

A very successful meeting of the Eastern District of this association was held in the beautiful old city of Durham on Saturday, April 10th. The Cathedral bells were available after the usual three o'clock service, and most of the company had the pleasure of a ring on these splendid bells, and on the rehung six of St. Oswald's.

After an excellent tea at Pattinson's Cafe a short meeting was held, the vice-president, Mr. R. L. Patterson, in the chair. — A vote of thanks to the Dean and the Vicars of St. Nicholas' and St. Oswald's for the use of the bells was proposed by Mr. J. W. Parker, and responded to by the Rev. — Norris, of St. Oswald's.

The next meeting was arranged to be held at Sunderland on June 26th.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

ANNUAL GENERAL MEETING AT FULHAM.

The 29th annual general meeting of the Middlesex County Association and London Diocesan Guild was held at All Saints', Fulham, on Saturday, April 10th, when some 70 members attended. Divine service was held at 4.30, when an inspiring sermon was preached by the Rector of Acton (Rev. J. H. Newsham Taylor), an honorary member of the association, who based his address on the text, 'Lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world,' taken from Matthew 28, verse 20.

After tea, which was served in the Church Hall, the usual business meeting was held. The chair was taken by the President (Mr. F. A. Milne, J.P.), who was supported by Messrs. W. Pickworth (vice-president), W. Pye (Master), R. Holloway and N. A. Tomlinson (District Masters), C. T. Coles and W. H. Hollier (hon. secretaries), T. Beadle, J. Waghorn, A. W. Coles, G. R. Pye, W. H. Oram, etc.

The adoption of the report was moved by the President, seconded by Mr. G. R. Pye, and carried. Extracts from the very interesting report are appended:—

Last year we commented briefly on the necessity for regular practices, especially at those churches where lack of facilities for practice had caused ringers to become slack. We urged our clergy to set aside a definite night which the ringers could consider their own, and pointed out that unless ringers had practice, the Sunday ringing would suffer. We hope that our few words on this subject have not been entirely without good results, but there are still some of our towers where we feel there is room for improvement. Without practice we cannot train young ringers, and the need for a continual supply of recruits to our ranks is ever present. Some of our bands have had no additions to their numbers for years, and we would urge the leaders of our towers always to be mindful of the necessity of providing for the days ahead, when age causes members to fall out of the ranks. Even apart from the latter as a motive, it is for the good of ringing in general, and for the Association in particular, that we should always be on the look-out for somebody whom we can teach to ring. In these days of the broadcasting of ringing it should be easy to get people quickly interested, and we should make the most of our opportunities.

NEGLECTED BELLS.

There is another matter that gives us cause for concern. The state of the bells in several of our towers is far from satisfactory. Some of them have been going badly for years, and urgently need the attentions of the bell-hanger, but for various reasons nothing is done. If bells go badly it is essential that they should not be neglected, and we would urge those responsible to do all that is possible to have the bells in their charge kept in good going condition. There are far too many peals of bells which to-day are never rung, simply because of neglect in the past, and it is our duty to see that the bells handed down to us are left in good order for those who come after us. A card of instructions, drawn up by the ringers' Central Council, and containing expert advice on the care of bells, has recently been distributed in all our towers, and we hope that our bands will see that the bells in their charge are properly looked after. Ringers should also see that the attention of the clergy and Parochial Church Councils is continually drawn to cases of badly going bells, with a view to their having proper and expert attention.

The meetings held were again very satisfactorily attended. Our present membership is 759, an increase of ten compared with last year. In the N. and E. District we elected 2 honorary and 38 ringing members, whilst in the S. and W. District 3 honorary and 36 ringing members were admitted. The continued increase in our membership is a matter for congratulation; but the losses of members by resignation, or by their falling into arrears with subscriptions, is to be deplored, and we trust that every effort will be made by masters of local bands to stimulate interest in ringing amongst their members. A standing still attitude is never a good one, and attempts to improve on what we have already done is the only sure way of retaining ringers in our belltowers.

During the year the hand of death has taken three of our members from us. Edgar Wightman, of Uxbridge, died on February 15th at the age of 50. He had only recently rejoined the Association on moving into the county, but had been a member in our earlier days. He was a good ringer and a capable conductor, and rang 31 peals for the Association, having conducted five of them. He took part in the first handbell peal of Cinques rung by our members.

On June 14th the death of Daniel Lovett occurred, in his 73rd year. He had occupied the position of sexton and verger at St. Sepulchre's, Holborn, for upwards of 45 years, and during his quarter century of membership had proved a loyal friend to us. He did not greatly aspire to peal ringing, but on one occasion he rang the tenor at his own church to a peal of Stedman Caters with this Association.

Herbert Baker, of Hertford, died on December 28th, aged 62. He had been a member since 1902, and had rung three peals with us. He served in the late war in France, and was second in command of his battalion of the Herts Regiment. He served the public at Hertford in many capacities, being in turn councillor, alderman, and mayor.

NOTEWORTHY PEALS.

Turning to the peals, we note a considerable reduction in the number rung during 1925, but as we have no record of the number of attempts that have been made we are unable to say whether the reason for the decrease is that fewer have been attempted, or that a larger number than usual have been lost. As, however, peal ringing, if not the whole object of our existence, is a sign of our liveliness as an organisation, we hope that members will put their best into this branch of our activities. It is in this direction that interest among the younger members may be stimulated.

The total number of peals rung was 60, and 178 members took part in them, 26 sharing in the conducting. Thirteen members rang their first peals, and 54 their "firsts" in a new method or on a different number of bells. Among the latter were three of Cambridge Maximus, one of Cambridge Royal, one of Stedman Cinques, three of Bristol, and two of London. Seven members rang their first peals of Bob Royal, two their "firsts" of Stedman Caters, and six of Stedman Triples. Among those who rang their first peals was Master C. T. W. Coles, aged 14, son of the joint hon. secretary, who rang the treble to Grandsire Caters at St. Mary's, Walthamstow, on February 28th. Master Howard Mackman, also at the age of 14, accomplished a fine performance in ringing his first peal of Stedman Triples at Acton on June 10th. Miss M. Ringrose rang her first peal at Burnham-on-Crouch on August 20th. Mrs. R. F. Deal rang her first peal of Cambridge Maximus at Waltham Abbey on January 31st, and her first of Bristol Surprise at Cubitt Town on October 17th; whilst Miss P. Moss accomplished Double Norwich at Willesden on January 13th, and Bob Royal at Hillingdon on December 26th. Several others of our lady members are well to the front in the list of peal ringers, and it is worthy of notice that on January 20th, 1926, ten members of the Ladies' Guild rang a peal of Stedman Caters at St. Clement Danes' Church, the whole of the band being also members of this Association. Messrs. A. F. Putland and A. Cross have the honour of appearing in the list of conductors for the first time, the former actually calling his own first peal. Mr. R. Sanders rang his 500th peal during the year. To all of these we extend our heartiest congratulations.

Of the peals themselves, 59 were rung on tower-bells in 33 different towers, and one on handbells. Four tower-bell peals were rung with half-muffled clappers as a token of respect to her late Most Gracious Majesty Queen Alexandra, at Stanmore, Heston, Edmonton and Bishopsgate, whilst several quarter-peals were rung at other towers as part of the national mourning. At the meeting of the S. and W. District held at Hillingdon on November 21st the bells were rung half-muffled. A vote of condolence with the King and Queen, passed at this meeting, was most graciously acknowledged by their Majesties.

One outstanding performance was accomplished, i.e., a peal of 7,392 Cambridge Surprise Maximus, which was rung at St. Mary-le-Bow on December 19th. This is the longest peal yet rung in the method on twelve bells, and also the longest length in any method rung on the bells in the tower.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS.

So far as bell restoration is concerned, there is little to report. At Twickenham, Messrs. Mears and Stainbank have retuned and rehung the bells in new gudgeons and bearings, with very satisfactory results, whilst John Taylor and Co. are at present engaged in re-hanging the bells at All Saints', Poplar, in an entirely new frame. The scheme to add two trebles to the existing peal of eight at Isleworth is maturing. About a third of the sum of £180 required has been collected. A small committee has been formed to carry the matter to a successful conclusion, and we trust that our members will give them all the financial help they can.

Before closing, it is our pleasant duty to record our grateful thanks to Mr. T. Beadle on his retirement from the office of District Vice-President. An original member of the Association, he was one of those mainly instrumental in bringing about the amalgamation of the two district societies. He has served the society in many ways, and was for some years Master of the S. and W. District. He has our sincere thanks for the good work he has done for the Association, and our good wishes for many more years of happiness amongst his ringing friends.

Mr. G. B. Lucas, too, retired from office last year, although his interest in the Association is in no way lessened. An unfortunate accident whilst cycling was the cause of his giving up ringing, and he resigned the office of Master of the N. and E. District, which he had held since 1922. Prior to that date he had been a member of the Central Committee since the commencement of the society. We thank him for his many years of service, and trust that he will fully recover from his unfortunate accident, and may again be able to take an active part in the work of the Association.

Quite a number of our members deserve our thanks for their work as voluntary instructors, among them being Miss P. Moss, Messrs. A. W. Coles, F. Corke, F. A. Edwards, R. A. Fardon, F. W. Goodfellow, J. H. Hunnisett, J. R. Mackman, J. Milner and N. A. Tomlinson. Without such assistance as is given by these members, the Association would quickly come to an end.

We also wish to acknowledge the invaluable services rendered to the Association by the joint hon. secretaries. A great deal of their work is done silently and unseen; we can best show our appreciation of their efforts by supporting them at the Association meetings and by prompt payment of subscriptions.

The balance sheet was next considered, and it was especially noted that, in spite of an expenditure of over £7 on a new and improved association certificate, there was a small balance to the good on the year's working.

The whole of the officers were re-elected, as follows:—President, Mr. F. A. Milne, J.P.; vice-presidents, Messrs. C. S. Bird and W. Pickworth; Master, Mr. W. Pye; hon. treasurer, Mr. F. A. Milne; hon. secretaries, Messrs. C. T. Coles and W. H. Hollier. Messrs. J. E. Miller and W. Pickworth were appointed auditors.

A recommendation by the Central Committee that 60 per cent. of the subscriptions, in lieu of the present 70 per cent., be allocated to the Central Fund, was carried.

The committee also recommended that a grant of £2 2s. should be made towards a peal board or tablet to commemorate the peal rung by the Ladies' Guild at St. Clement Danes on January 20th. It was pointed out that the whole of the band were also members of this association, and members were asked to show their appreciation of the efforts of these ladies by making a substantial grant towards a suitable record of the peal. It was not the intention of the committee to do or say anything towards pressing the Ladies' Guild to erect a board, but if they, in their own judgment, decided to do so, the money was at their disposal. After a suggestion that a general appeal to ringers throughout the country should be made was ruled out of order, as being beyond the scope of this meeting, the recommendation was carried.

It was decided that the next annual general meeting should be held at All Saints', Poplar.

A hearty vote of thanks was accorded to the Rev. G. K. S. Marshall (Fulham), Rev. P. Swain (Putney) and the Rev. T. Walsh (Hammersmith) for the use of the bells at their respective churches; also to the Rev. J. H. Newsham-Taylor for his address at the service. Thanks were also given to Mr. Driver, and to the towerkeepers at Putney and Hammersmith for their able assistance in having everything ready for the ringing.

During the afternoon and evening several excellent touches of Grandsire and Stedman Caters, Plain and Kent Treble Bob Royal and Cambridge Surprise Royal were rung at Fulham, whilst most of the standard methods were rung at Putney in the afternoon, and at Hammersmith in the evening.

MUFFLED BELLS.

On Wednesday, April 14th, at the Church of All Saints, Gainsborough, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples (1,260 changes), in 49 mins.: F. S. W. Butler (conductor) 1, H. Cooper 2, H. Torr 3, J. Dixon 4, C. H. Baker 5, H. Morgan 6, E. Dalingwater 7, C. A. Hewitt 8.

The above was rung with the bells half-muffled, as a tribute of deep and sincere respect for the late Mr. T. A. Dyson, solicitor, who passed away on the Sunday previous, at the age of 73. He was a loyal and devoted member of the parish church congregation for a considerable number of years, during which time he held various offices, including that of churchwarden. In his younger days he was a Sunday School teacher; also a member of the choir.

At Keymer, Sussex, on Thursday, April 8th, a quarter-peal of Bob Minor, in 45 mins., with the bells half-muffled, in memory of Capt. Garbett, for many years churchwarden at the Parish Church: H. Bransden 1, W. Horney 2, A. Feist 3, J. Backshall 4, J. Parsons 5, J. Feist (conductor) 6.

At St. Mary's, Portsmouth, on Thursday, April 15th, 1,260 Stedman Triples, in 48 mins.: J. J. Symons 1, J. D. Harris 2, C. Groves 3, J. Topp 4, T. R. Taylor 5, R. J. Stone 6, F. W. Rogers (conductor) 7, A. T. Greenwood 8. Rung with half-muffled clappers, as a token of respect to the late Bishop Ingham, Vicar of St. Jude's, and also to the two Portsmouth victims in the recent air disaster.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

The total number of peals rung last year was 1,689. Of these 1,629 were on tower bells, and 60 on handbells. This is 171 less than in the year 1924. We hope to publish the Central Council's full analysis next week.

A new peal of eight bells by Messrs. John Taylor and Co. were dedicated on Saturday week at St. Mary's, Wolborough-Newton Abbot, Devon. Over a dozen teams of ringers afterwards tried the bells, which were warmly praised.

A book describing the principles of Mr. John Carter's wonderful ringing machine, has been compiled by Mr. E. Alex. Young, and deposited with the machine in the Central Council's Campanology exhibit at the South Kensington Science Museum.

A Masonic peal of Stedman Caters is to be attempted at Solihull, Birmingham, on Saturday.

The broadcast of the bells of St. Philip's Cathedral, Birmingham, will take place on Sunday evening, May 9th, 8 to 8.15 p.m.

Miniature bells, as supplied by Mr. J. P. Fidler, of Hazel Grove, Stockport, are proving a useful source of income for bell restoration funds. They went like hot cakes at Coalbrookdale.

The membership of the Devon Guild increased from 623 in 1924 to 669 in 1925; the performing members being 559 last year against 520 in the previous year. This is a very healthy sign.

The peal rung at Titchmarsh, Northants, on April 10th, and published last week, was the first peal in the method by the ringer of the 3rd, not the 60th peal by him; it was the 60th peal by the ringer of the 2nd.

To-day is the anniversary of a peal of 10,080 Bob Major rung at Braughing, Herts, in the year 1778.

The first peal of Bob Major ever rung was accomplished by the College Youths at St. Bride's, Fleet Street, on April 26th, 1725.

Fifty years ago next Tuesday the Royal Cumberland Youths rang 8,896 Kent Treble Bob Major at St. Ann's, Highgate. It happened to be the eighth anniversary of the then record of 15,840 in the same method at Bethnal Green, by the College Youths, of which band the late Mr. Edwin Horvex was the last survivor.

April 27th is also the anniversary of 8,580 Stedman Cinques rung by the College Youths at Cornhill in 1861.

In the 'Annual Register,' under the date April 28th 1800, the following appears: 'A short time since, eight members of the Society of Cumberland Youths made an attempt to ring 15,136 changes of Oxford triple-bobs on Edmonton Church bells. It requires upwards of ten hours time to perform this task at 25 changes a minute. They had entered the ninth hour when an unlucky accident befel Mr. Gross, the composer of the peal. Making an attempt to slacken his knee buckle, his leg entangled in the coil of the rope, by which he was elevated to a considerable height, and thence, falling down on his head, he broke his collar-bone. Had it not been for this accident, no doubt the feat would have been accomplished, and the performers crowned with perpetual honour, as nothing to be compared with such an achievement of strength and skill can be found in the records of the campanilogers' art.'

FIRST PEAL IN OLD AGE.

THE LATE MR. WM. HEATON'S PERFORMANCES.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—In your issue of April 9th, you published the unique record of Mr. Hopkins of Ibstock, Leicestershire, and asked how many ringers had passed their 70th birthday before attempting their first peal.

The late Mr. Wm. Heaton, a member of the Colne Parish Church ringers, who died in April, 1920, had a similar record. He was a ringer at the same church for over 70 years. Four years after the two trebles were added he rang his first peal, Bob Major, at the age of 72. He rang nine peals in all: 4 Bob Major, 3 Kent Treble Bob Major, and 2 Grandsire Triples. He rang the tenor (16 cwt.) through them all. His first peal was on Whit Monday, 1904, and the last on Whit Monday, 1908. He rang the tenor to within a few months of his death, which occurred in his 88th year.—Yours, etc.,

JOHN P. FOULDS.

NOISY BELLS.

To the Editor.

Sir,—We have heard from time to time different suggestions for reducing, in near-by districts, the sound of a noisy ring of bells. I have a hazy sort of idea that I have read in 'The Ringing World' a recommendation of sheets of stout glass fixed vertically, but I cannot turn up any back number in which it appears.

I should be glad of any advice in this matter, either through your columns, or by personal postcard.—Yours truly,
Gargrave, Yorks.

J. McKELL.

DEDICATION OF BELLS AT POPLAR.*PEAL OF TEN RETUNED AND REHUNG.

The rehung peal of ten bells at the Church of All Saints, Poplar, was dedicated on Saturday last by the Bishop of Stepney. A special form of service was used, and at the appropriate time the Bishop was conducted to the belfry to dedicate the bells. A few rounds were then rung by seven of the local ringers, assisted by three visitors. After an address by the Bishop, and during the singing of the hymn, 'When morning gilds the skies,' a collection was made for the Bell Fund, which yielded about £7.

After the service an excellent peal of Stedman Casters was rung by members of the Middlesex County Association and London Diocesan Guild, which is recorded in its proper place. This peal was rung by the special request of the Rector (the Rev. C. Mayne).

After the peal, the ringers, with members of the local band, were entertained to tea in the Church Hall. The Rector expressed his thanks for the very fine peal that had been rung, and Mr. C. T. Coles and Mr. W. Pye both stated that they considered the bells very good. The work had been done exceedingly well, and Poplar had every reason to be proud of the bells. Mr. Coles also thanked the Rector for inviting them to ring the peal, and for his hospitality.

After Mr. W. Partiss had also welcomed the visitors, Mr. Askew, who had made himself responsible for collecting the money necessary for the work, stated that the whole of the amount required to retune and rehang the bells, over £600, had now been raised. Apart from two or three fairly large sums, most of the money had been collected by means of a farthing fund, and thousands of people in the district had subscribed sums from two farthings upwards. It was a fine example of what perseverance would do.

The bells have been retuned and rehung with ball bearings, in a new steel frame, and Messrs. Taylor and Co. are to be congratulated on the excellence of the work.

The practice night at Poplar is Tuesday, at 7.30, and visitors will be welcomed, although all the ringers are comparatively novices. Two members of the Middlesex Association are acting as instructors.

LLANDAFF AND MONMOUTH DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION
THE NEW MEMBERSHIP CERTIFICATE.

Merthyr Tydfil was the scene of the quarterly meeting of the Llandaff and Monmouth Diocesan Association, which was held on Saturday last. The tower contains a ring of eight bells, with a tenor weighing a ton, by Taylor and Co., which, it is worth mentioning, were given some years ago to the church by eight 'old Merthyr boys,' thanks to the efforts of the late Sir Wm. Thomas Lewis, afterwards Lord Merthyr.

A goodly number of ringers put in an appearance, and at 4.45 a service was conducted by the Rector (the Rev. J. Richards Pugh). An excellent tea, served in the Schoolroom, was very kindly provided by the ladies of the parish, to whom the very best thanks were accorded for their hospitality. The business meeting was presided over by the Rector.—Augmentations and restorations were reported on, and instructors' reports received.

The new certificate, which had been authorised at the annual meeting, was shown. It was greatly admired, and the best thanks were accorded the committee entrusted with the task for the choice of such a beautiful piece of workmanship so ably carried out by the 'Western Mail.'

The next Glamorgan quarterly meeting was arranged for Newton Nottage, Porthcawl.

A number of new members were elected, including the whole of the newly-formed band at Chepstow. There were expressions of regret and sympathy with Mr. Fred Chamberlain, the leader of the Cardiff band, who had met with a serious accident since the last meeting, and all were pleased to hear that he was making good progress.

A hearty vote of thanks was accorded to the Rector for his great kindness, and for his welcome to the parish.

The meeting was a most successful and pleasant one thanks to the immense help given by the local band, and especially by the leader, Mr. J. Cole.

MR. S. HOLT'S CENTURY.

Mr. Sidney Holt, who rang his first peal on October 10th, 1920, completed his first century on April 12th. His 100 is made up as follows: Grandioso Triples, 5 (conducted, 2); Grandioso Casters, 2; Stedman Triples, 2; Stedman Casters, 3; Bob Major, 2; Bob Royal, 1; Double Norwich Major, 4 (conducted, 1); Kent Treble Bob Major, 4 (conducted, 1); Oxford Treble Bob Major, 2 (conducted, 1); Cambridge Surprise Minor, 4 (conducted, 4); Cambridge Surprise Major, 20 (conducted, 2); Cambridge Surprise Royal, 3; Superlative Surprise Major, 1; London Surprise Major, 3; Bristol Surprise Major, 1; Minor in 14 methods, 2; Minor in 10 methods, 1; Minor in 7 methods, 39 (conducted, 13); Minor in 3 methods, 1; total, 100 (conducted, 24).

THE CENTRAL COUNCIL.*SCIENCE MUSEUM EXHIBIT COMMITTEE.

The members of the above committee are requested to note that it is not deemed necessary to circularise them in regard to the annual statement. I intend to report, on behalf of the committee, at Ipswich, that it should now be allowed to lapse. This is in view of the fact that its work is done, inasmuch as in the gallery allotted to 'Sound' at the Victoria and Albert Museum, there is a section devoted to campanology. Its chief feature is, of course, the Carter ringing machine, which has been permanently deposited, and under the trusteeship of the Central Council. I would suggest that the latter, with any functions which we may have, be in future administered by the Standing Committee.

Will any members of our committee who may differ from the above be good enough to let me know?

E. ALEX. YOUNG,
Convener.

CENTRAL COUNCIL MEETING.*ARRANGEMENTS FOR THE IPSWICH MEETING.

The following are arrangements by the Reception Committee in connection with the annual meeting of the Central Council at Ipswich on Whitsun Tuesday, May 25th.

Hotels: 'Great White Horse,' bed and breakfast, 9s. 6d. (Saturday dinner to Wednesday breakfast, inclusive terms, £2). 'Crown and Anchor' (headquarters), bed and breakfast, 9s. 'Grand,' bed and breakfast, 7s. 6d. 'Queen's,' ditto, 7s. 6d. 'Victoria' Temperance, ditto, 5s. 6d. A room will be reserved for the use of members on Saturday, Sunday and Monday evenings, at the 'Crown and Anchor.' The manager of the 'Great White Horse' is reserving a separate dining-room for members, if they will ask for it (without extra charge). This is the hotel immortalised by Dickens. Mr. Pickwick's room is still shown to visitors, and also that of the Lady in Curl-papers.

Peals are being arranged on the Saturday afternoon, and later. Will any who would like to be included please send word as soon as possible to Mr. C. J. Sedgely, 14, Suffolk Road, Ipswich, mentioning day and methods preferred?

It is suggested that members may like to visit Felixstowe or Norwich on the Sunday. If a party for Norwich is desired it can be arranged, if sufficient notice is given. The steamers to Felixstowe (no bells) are very pleasant, and an extension to Harwich (eight bells) can be made.

An excursion has been arranged for Monday, leaving at 10 a.m., for Stowmarket, Bury St. Edmunds (lunch can be had at the 'Angel'), Lavenham, Sudbury and Hadleigh. The bells will be available at each of these places. The motor coach will hold 30, and it will be open, as long as seats are available in it, to all members who send their names to Mr. G. E. Symonds, 28, Chevalier Street, Ipswich, to whom other inquiries should be addressed.

The Suffolk Guild invite the members of the Council to meet them at tea at the Co-operative Hall at 5 p.m., after the Council meeting; and, after tea, Mr. Chas. J. Sedgely will conduct members round some of the interesting antiquities of Ipswich.

At 8 p.m. there will be a social meeting for members of the Council, and of the Suffolk Guild, in the large room at the 'Crown and Anchor.'

Visitors from the South by road are advised to explore Gainsborough country just over the county boundary at Flatford and Dedham; they will beware of the dangerous Dedham Gun Hill, leading to the bridge by which one leaves Essex. On the other journey, they may like to go through Polstead and Stoko-by-Nayland, with their beautiful country and fine churches.

Those from the North, by a half-mile detour from the Yarmouth Road, may see Ufford Church, with its unique font-cover, and the Vale of Ufford. Sudbury is supposed to be 'Eatanswill'; though some say Ipswich and others Bury.

Members are also recommended to visit 'Christchurch Mansion' (admission free) in the park adjoining St. Margaret's Church. The bells of St. Mary-le-Tower (12), St. Margaret's (8) and St. Clement's (6) will be available on Monday.

There will be a service of the Holy Communion at St. Mary-le-Tower Church on Tuesday at 8 a.m.

FIRST BY ALL.

At Lamberhurst, Kent, on April 15th, 720 London Surprise: W. Marshall 1, H. J. Hammond 2, G. Fuller 3, A. Marshall 4, A. H. Smith 5, A. Relfe (conductor) 6. First 720 in the method by all the band, all of which are Sunday Service ringers.

At St. Nicholas' Church, Wallasey, on April 14th, 720 London Surprise Minor: H. Rogers 1, E. Lloyd 2, A. Howard 3, E. Parry 4, T. Rogers 5, J. Greasley (conductor) 6. First in the method by the first three ringers.

THE TURNER'S HILL PEAL. SUSSEX ASSOCIATION MEETING DISCUSS CORRESPONDENCE.

The letters which have appeared in our columns on the subject of the recent peal of Superlative Surprise at Turner's Hill formed the chief topic of discussion at the meeting of the Central Division of the Sussex Association at Cuckfield on Saturday. The letters of 'Lastener' and the replies of Mr. Keith Hart, the conductor, were read, and the latter declared that the portion of the peal complained of was, in fact, the best.

Anonymous challenges of peals were condemned in a resolution which will be found embodied in the letter of the secretary below. The meeting was presided over by Canon C. W. G. Wilson (Vicar of Cuckfield), and the annual report was presented by Mr. A. D. Stone, the division hon. secretary.

Before the business meeting, representatives from the various towers rang touches in a variety of methods on the bells at the Parish Church, and took part in a service conducted by the Vicar, with the assistance of the Rev. S. G. Farrar, and tea was served in the Parish Room.

After the business meeting there was further ringing. The representatives, numbering 45, came from Brighton, Burgess Hill, Lindfield, Balcombe, Hurstpierpoint, Bolney and Ditchling, etc.

ANONYMOUS CHALLENGES CONDEMNED. To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—At the annual meeting of the Central Division of the Sussex County Association, held at Cuckfield on Saturday last, forty-five members being present, the letters which had appeared in 'The Ringing World' on the above subject were read and discussed. The following resolution was unanimously passed: That this meeting strongly condemns the practice of challenging ringing performances in anonymous letters, and asks the secretary to forward a copy of this resolution to the Editor of 'The Ringing World.'

A. D. STONE,

Hon. Sec., Central Division.

NORTH NOTTS ASSOCIATION. WELCOMED AT ORDSALL BY RINGING RECTOR.

A most interesting and enjoyable meeting took place at Ordsall on Saturday last. The six bells, with tenor  $7\frac{1}{2}$  cwt., rehung and augmented by Taylor and Co. in 1892, were in capital going order, and all arrangements made by the new Rector (the Rev. R. F. Wilkinson) and Mr. H. Revill, with a band of lady workers, to make the visitors happy and comfortable, were a splendid success. Notwithstanding the thunderstorm in the district during the afternoon, a large number of ringers, some from kindred associations, turned up to try their skill on the bells. The following towers were represented: Auston, Blyth, Barborough, Shireoaks, Norton Cuckney, Mansfield, Gainsborough, East Markham, Sutton-on-Trent, Collingham, Corringham, West Retford, Workop, and the local company, including six promising youngsters of Ordsall, who are under the tuition of the Rev. R. F. Wilkinson and Messrs. Piercy and Revill, and who acquitted themselves admirably in the way in which they handled the bells. The methods rung during the afternoon and evening were Stedman Doubles, Plain Bob, Oxford and Kent, Duke of York, Violet, London Scholars, and Killmarsh Treble Bob. Four ladies took part in the ringing. Tea was served at the new Parish Hall, presided over by the Rev. R. F. Wilkinson, and 45 sat down.

The business meeting followed, at which the Rector gave a very hearty welcome to the members of the association, and visitors from kindred associations, to this the first meeting of his incumbency. The next meeting, which will be the annual meeting, will be fixed for a date in June, and will be advertised as usual in 'The Ringing World.'

Mr. F. Houchen, of East Retford, was elected a member.

A discussion on the proposed alterations of the names of six-bell methods to be brought before the Central Council meeting at Ipswich took place, mirth and wit characterising the proceedings.

The Gainsborough ringers, with the Rev. R. F. Wilkinson, rang a touch of Grandsire Triples on handbells, which was very much appreciated.

A hearty vote of thanks to the ladies for serving tea, and to the Rev. R. F. Wilkinson for presiding over the tea and meeting, and for the use of the bells, was passed, and this part of the proceedings concluded with a suitable reply from the Rector. The ringers then once more adjourned to the tower, and rang a variety of Treble Bob methods. The probationary members were not neglected, and some good rounds of 'Queens' and 'Whittingtons' were rung on the bells, which were lowered in good style at 8.40 p.m.

DITCHLING, SUSSEX.—On Easter Day, at the Church of St. Margaret, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples, in 44 mins.: M. Killick 1, H. Branden 2, W. Horney 3, A. Feist 4, J. Parsons 5, G. Killick 6, J. Feist (conductor) 7, F. Hobden 8.

PEALS AT EXETER CATHEDRAL.

DEDICATION OF TABLETS.

An interesting ceremony, which will be memorable to those privileged to be present, took place on Saturday, at Exeter, when members of the Guild of Devonshire Ringers assembled in the Cathedral belfry for a short service of dedication on the unveiling of three oak tablets, recording the last three peals on this great ring of bells, and which have been placed on the west wall just above the wainscot dado. The first board commemorates a peal of Grandsire Triples on the 'Thomas' eight, rung by the Devon Guild on May 5th, 1923, and conducted by Mr. A. W. Searle. Another tablet records the peal of 5,017 Stedman Cinques by the St. Martin's Guild, Birmingham, on July 5th, 1924, the first of Cinques on the bells, conducted by Mr. A. Walker, while a third, given by the Rev. M. Kelly (ex-President of the Guild) records a peal of 5,015 Grandsire Cinques, the first rung by members of the Devon Guild on January 9th, 1926, conducted by the president, the Rev. E. S. Powell. Punctually at 2.15, the time appointed, the Dean (the Very Rev. H. R. Gamble) with Canons McLaren and Newton Lecke, arrived in their robes, the congregation then numbering 44, which included eight ladies.

Canon McLaren recited the sentences, and led the singing of an appropriate hymn, which was heartily rendered. Then Mr. Searle, on behalf of the Triples peal band, Mr. Walker, for the Birmingham peal band, and the Rev. E. S. Powell, on behalf of Mr. Kelly, respectively offered the tablets for the acceptance and custody of the Chapter. Following the dedicatory affirmation, a psalm and prayer, the Dean gave an instructive and encouraging address, which, with the usual Blessing, concluded the function.

Two touches of Grandsire Cinques by members of the various peal bands who were present, were then rung prior to the afternoon service. The Rev. M. Kelly himself, in spite of his advanced age and physical infirmity, managed to ascend the tower steps, and Mr. A. Walker came specially from Birmingham to be present.

A tea and meeting were held later in the afternoon at the Trade and Labour Hall, about 60 (representative of five of the six branches) being present.—Mr. Kelly, addressing the meeting, commented on the great advance in change ringing by the Guild since the early days when he scored his first 120 of Doubles, and pointed out that the ceremony for which they had met that day, was, and probably would be, unique in the annals of the Guild. The first tablet, he said, was made possible by the munificence of a worthy Exonian, Mr. A. C. Thomas, who had given the two new tables. The second, for the peal of Stedman Cinques by their Birmingham friends, of which they were equally proud, for ringers were brothers all the world over, and the uninitiated could not understand their language, was a handsome tablet well worthy of the occasion, for he had the pleasure of listening to a part of the peal himself, and could testify to its excellence. And then the one for their own Devon peal of Grandsire Cinques, which was a consummation he never really expected in his lifetime, although he had long hoped for it, and he considered Mr. Powell, as conductor, deserved especial praise.

The Rev. E. S. Powell expressed the gratitude of the Guild to Mr. Kelly for his gift of a tablet, and his continued sincere interest in the Guild's welfare. He hoped members would realise the peal was rung by the hand as representatives of the whole Guild, and that, in the words of the dedication office, it should become an incentive for further peals, with which object they should now go on to practice Stedman Cinques.

Mr. A. Walker also added his appreciation of the courtesy they had experienced from Mr. Kelly, and others in Devonshire, and declared that the idea of 'snatching' a peal at Exeter had never been their intention or desire. He gave, from his experience, a useful tip for ringing Stedman Cinques, that was, to keep the bells well up, both hand and back, especially the latter in ascending from the front work. Other members of the Stedman peal band would have been with him had it not been that the Coalbrookdale opening happened that day.

The Birmingham tablet is a particularly handsome one, with a bold moulded frame, the panel lettered from a design supplied by Mr. Walker, with gilt old English heading, which shows up effectively. It was the production of Messrs. J. Wippell and Co., of Exeter.

After the meeting, an adjournment was again made to the tower, and several courses of Stedman Cinques, under Mr. Walker's pilotage, were more or less truly brought round.

STOKE ASSOCIATION CHANGES ITS NAME

At a specially convened meeting of the committee for the alteration of rules, it was unanimously decided that the Stoke Archidiaconal Association shall in future be known as 'The North Staffs and District Association.' This was confirmed by the committee at a monthly meeting of the association, held at Norton on Saturday, April 10th.

NOTES BY THE WAY.

EXTENSION OF METHODS.

By J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

In the issue of April 9th I stated that the way to extend a method with hunt and working bells, from even to odd numbers, was to add, not to the working bells, but to the hunts.

How this can be done you will easily see from the following diagrams. The first shows one hunt and five working bells, and beside it two hunts and five working bells. The second shows Oxford Bob Minor, and beside it the same thing with two hunts. To enable these to be compared I have marked the hunts A and B, and in both cases given the working bells as 23456. Finally, I have written out the Minor and Triples leads in the usual way.

Now you will notice that Oxford Bob Triples bears exactly the same relationship to Oxford Bob Minor that Grandsire Triples does to Plain Bob Minor. 'And, indeed,' as Shipway says, 'The Grandsire system is in reality nothing more than the Bob system with a bell in the hunt, being imperfect without it on account of the two whole pulls behind at the dodging.' And further on he repeats that 'Grandsire is merely Bob ringing with a bell in the hunt.' And he goes on to suggest that all the extensions with a bell in the hunt should have Grandsire as a sub-title. Thus it would be Oxford Bob on even numbers, and Grandsire Oxford Bob on odd. Double Norwich Court Bob Major on eight bells and Grandsire Double Norwich Court Bob Caters on nine bells. I wonder what Mr. Burton thinks of the last?

Putting a bell in the hunt does not alter the work of a method other than you have to reckon on two trebles instead of one, and that the dodging above the treble, which is at back stroke on even numbers, comes at hand stroke on odd numbers, and necessarily different bobs and singles must be used. So that if you know a method on eight bells you will have no particular difficulty in ringing it on nine. And herein lies a big opportunity for improving ringing in ten-bell towers. At present, Cater ringing is practically confined to Stedman, with occasionally a little Grandsire. But for a progressive band there are quite a number of excellent, and by no means difficult methods ready to hand. Double Norwich Caters, for instance, which is much superior to Stedman Caters; Cambridge Court is another. And every one of the fifteen Major methods described in 'The Ringing World' of April, 1924, can have an additional bell in the hunt, and be turned into a good Cater method.

NEW PEAL AT AXBRIDGE.

ONE OF THE FINEST FOR ITS WEIGHT IN SOMERSET.

The bells at Axbridge Parish Church, Somerset, have been recast by Messrs. Taylor and Co., of Loughborough. An iron frame on steel girders has been substituted for the old wooden cage, and the six bells, with tenor of one ton, in E flat, have been hung in modern fittings.

For about eight years this ring had been silent, and the scheme for the restoration of the tower and bells has been carried out at a cost of about £1,000, towards which a legacy of £550 will be devoted.

The rededication was performed on March 24th by the Rural Dean (the Rev. Prob. G. M. Lambrick, Rector of Blagdon), and was attended by a large congregation. The service was conducted by the Rector (the Rev. E. Toft), and after the formal ceremony the Rural Dean preached. He took as his text the words, from a preface of the Prayer Book, 'The Curato shall cause a bell to be tolled,' and his address was wonderfully historical, interesting and practical. The collection, in aid of the Bell Fund, amounted to £4 17s. 1d.

After the Blessing had been pronounced, the congregation remained seated listening to the sweet tones of the bells as they were being rung by some of the old Axbridge ringers, assisted by friends from Winscombe and Cheddar. Everybody was enthusiastic in their praise of Messrs. Taylor's work, and it is considered that Axbridge now possesses one of the finest peals for its weight in the county of Somerset.

On Sunday, April 11th, for the evening service, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Doubles was rung in 40 mins.: G. E. Shallish (conductor), I. G. R. Brown 2, E. Avery 3, G. Gilling 4, R. Roberts 5, J. Vincent 6. The first quarter-peal on the bells since they have been rehung.

DEATH OF A BATH RINGER.

A well-known Bath ringer, Mr. Thomas Hogsflesh, passed away suddenly at his home on April 1st, at the age of 57 years.

Mr. Hogsflesh had had a long ringing career, and went to Bath 20 years ago. For many years he was tower master at St. James's, and at another time was a ringer at St. Mary's, Bathwick. Twelve years ago he became a ringer at the Abbey, where he remained up to the time of his death. He was extremely popular among his colleagues, and had an interesting record, and had rung a considerable number of peals, his last being Grandsire Cinques at Painswick on February 13th.

Besides being connected with the Bath and Wells Diocesan Association, Mr. Hogsflesh was connected with the Gloucester and Bristol and Salisbury Guilds, and the Ancient Society of College Youths. Only last November he was one of the party from the West who attended the society's annual dinner in London.

The funeral took place at St. James's Cemetery on April 7th, when the Rector of Bath (Archdeacon Boyd) officiated. Many ringers and fellow workmen of deceased attended. The chief mourners were the widow, Mr. Donald Hogsflesh (son), Miss Allard (niece), Mr. and Mrs. Mabley (Exeter), and Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Dyke (brothers-in-law and sisters-in-law), and Mr. W. C. Lee (Charles Lee and Sons, Ltd., deceased's employers for over 30 years). Among those who also attended were: Messrs. J. N. Wake (Abbey tower master), G. H. Alford (St. Michael's ringers), F. C. Rich (Abbey and St. Andrew's ringers), and branch sec. of the Bath and Wells Diocesan Association, R. J. Cousins (St. Mary's, Bathwick, ringers), A. G. Cole (St. Mark's ringers), G. James (Bathampton ringers), T. F. King (Abbey ringers), A. Prince, W. A. Cave (Past Master Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association, Bristol), F. G. Leaker (St. Thomas', Bristol, ringers), Mrs. E. Wilkins (vice-chairman of the Ladies' Guild, Bristol), etc.

After the committal, a course of Grandsire Triples was rung on handbells at the graveside by T. King, F. G. Leaker, A. Prince and C. W. Bell.

The following ringers acted as bearers: Messrs. C. W. Bell, J. Taylor, T. Grant (St. Saviour's), F. Cunnings (Bathford), H. Merrett and W. Scers (St. Matthew's), the latter being responsible for the funeral arrangements.

SUNDAY SERVICE TOUCHES.

We regret that, owing to the demands upon the space available for Sunday Service Touches, we are unable to undertake to insert anything less than a quarter-peal on eight bells and upwards, and 720 of Doubles or Minor. Many correspondents send us quite short touches for publication and they must not be disappointed if we are unable to find room for them.

BARNESLEY AND DISTRICT ASSOCIATION.

The April meeting was held at South Kirby, on Saturday, the 10th, a goodly number of members being present from Darfield, Wath, Penistone, Rotherham, Felkirk, Pontefract, Royston, Barnsley, and the local company. The bells were kept going without intermission from 3 to 7.10 p.m., when the ringing had to cease owing to serious illness near the tower. Tea was amply supplied to parties of ten at the Rose and Crown Inn.

The business meeting was held in the ringing room. The Vicar of South Kirby was present, and gave a hearty welcome to the visitors to his church at any time. An invitation to hold the next meeting on May 22nd at Shelley was accepted.

A hearty vote of thanks to the Vicar, churchwardens and local ringers was duly passed, and this ended the meeting.

CLEVELAND AND NORTH YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION.

The Easter meeting was held at Skelton-in-Cleveland, a village which lies in the heart of Cleveland, surrounded by the ironstone mines. It has a beautiful church and tower, and magnificent peal of eight bells (tenor 23 cwt.), recently rehung on the latest principles, by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank. These were merrily ringing at an early hour of the day to the delight of those who took part in the day's proceedings. Members attended from Saltburn, Middlesbrough, Darlington (St. John's), Whitby, Stockton, Richmond, Ormesby, Sheldon, West Hartlepool (St. Aidan's), Ripon, Guisborough, and the local band. Touches in the following methods were rung: Cambridge Minor, Grandsire Triples, Stedman Triples, Bob Major, Kent Treble Bob Major, Double Norwich.

The service was well attended by ringers and friends and all greatly enjoyed the eloquent and instructive address given by the Rector (the Rev. R. W. Wheatley), who pointed out the fellowship of ringers with other church workers, and the need for 'those who called' to respond to the call of the Church.

Lunch and tea were provided in the Churchroom by one of the Saltburn ringers (Mr. G. Kemball), and were presided over by Vice-President W. Newton, of Stockton. Everyone enjoyed the good old English fare. During the tea, the Rector paid a visit to have a chat with the visitors, and listen to a beautifully struck course of Grandsire Caters on the handbells.—The Chairman proposed that the best thanks of the association be given to the Rector for the use of the churchroom, also for the use of the bells and for his most able address at the service, and this was carried with acclamation.—The Rector, replying, welcomed the association to Skelton saying it was a very great pleasure to hear the bells rung at any time. He hoped that the association would pay them another visit in a short time.

It was rather late before the beauties of the church, with its magnificent memorial window, were examined. The town and the countryside paled on the ringers, but as they wended their several ways homewards their one thought was 'a jolly good day well spent.'

FOUR QUARTER PEALS ON EASTER DAY

At St. Albans, on Easter Day, the Cathedral band rang four quarter-peals in four methods. With the exception of Mr. C. H. Baker, of Gainsborough, for whom one of the local band stood down to allow him to take part in one of the touches, the ringing was done entirely by the Cathedral company.

LESS PEAL RINGING.

The Analysis of peals rung during the year 1925, compiled by the committee of the Central Council, reveals a substantial falling off in the number for that year compared with 1924. That is the outstanding feature of the committee's report, which is again full of interesting statistics. The number of peals last year was the lowest since 1921, and was, in fact, nearly 660 lower than the peak year of 1913, when the amazing aggregate of 2,358 was reached in the twelve months. While peal ringing is one of the best marks of the standard of ringing reached by various associations—it is an indication of keenness, as well as of ability—there need be no cause for pessimism in so striking a drop in the total figures. The falling off is nearly ten per cent., but it may be accounted for by many factors, and we cannot say that it is due to any lessening of enthusiasm unless there was some record—which there is not—to show that fewer attempts for peals had been made. Indeed, one explanation may be that there has been a more or less general endeavour to ring higher methods, and consequently a greater percentage of peals have been lost.

As a consequence of the Council's decision at Chester, peal points disappear this year from the table, and no comparison can, therefore, be made through this means with preceding years. The only use of points was to indicate with some degree of accuracy the relative value of the methods rung—they could be no criterion to the merit of any particular performance—and a large number of peal ringers will miss this feature from the analysis table without having any regrets at its absence. Another decision taken last year was to omit for the future the list of conductors, which had figured annually as part of the report, the object being to make the statistics as impersonal as possible. This year, however, the committee, as a graceful gesture to the ladies, who are coming more and more into the field of peal ringing, give some fairly exhaustive details of their performances, while carefully omitting names. We see no objection to this action on the part of the committee, if they care to take out the statistics, but why not include similar particulars about the men, some of whose records would be found equally interesting? We cannot, however, seriously ask this hard-worked committee to do more than they already do. Their labours extend throughout the year, and are stupendous. The Exercise, as well as the Council, owes them a big debt of gratitude, not only for providing a permanent record of a year's work in compact form, but a report which is full of interest and valuable information if we would compare the activities of the associations throughout the country.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

A very successful meeting of the Newbury branch was held at Shaw, near Newbury, on Saturday. This was the first meeting to be held at Shaw, and 50 members attended during the afternoon and evening from the following towers: Bucklebury, Beedon, East Ilsley, Highclere, Kintbury, Newbury, Peasemore, Thatcham, Woolton Hill, Yattendon, and the local ringers. The service was conducted by the Rector (the Rev. W. Kingsley-Kefford), who gave an excellent address. Tea was served in the Parish Hall, 38 being present, and a hearty vote of thanks, proposed by Mr. H. W. Curtis, and seconded by Miss S. Davis, was accorded to the Rector for his excellent address, and the use of the bells, to the organist, and to the ladies for providing such an excellent tea.

The Rev. Kingsley-Kefford welcomed the ringers, and hoped this would be one of many meetings to be held at Shaw.

Apologies were received from the Rev. L. R. Majendie (chairman of the branch), and the Rev. E. M. Thorpe, of Bucklebury.

Some good touches of Grandsire and Stedman Doubles, Plain Bob, and Kent Treble Bob Minor, were rung on this musical peal of six during the afternoon and evening.

The summer meeting is fixed for June 19th, at Bucklebury.

DURHAM AND NEWCASTLE DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

A very successful meeting was held at Gosforth on Easter Monday, being the 25th anniversary of the opening of the bells of All Saints'. Ringing started at 11 a.m., and continued until 8 p.m., members from Whitley Bay, Sunderland, Darlington, Tanfield, Cramlington, Newcastle Cathedral, Jesmond, Chester-le-Street and Gosforth, taking part.

A short service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. W. A. S. Kennedy), who gave a suitable address. A collection was taken for the fund for erecting a memorial to the late Major Robert Hudson, who was killed in a Sunderland belfry, and £1 2s. 5d. was forwarded to the treasurer.

Dinner was served in the Church Hall, and was much enjoyed by the twenty-five who were present, the catering being done by the wives of the local bell ringers.

Mr. James E. Gofton (vice-president) took the chair, after the toast of 'The King.'—Mr. William Story proposed 'The welfare of All Saints' Ringing Guild.' He gave sound advice to the Gosforth ringers, and to the other members present. He also referred to the great losses the Guild had suffered through the deaths of Mr. R. Falconer and Mr. N. Fleck.

Thanks to the ladies for their services was proposed by Mr. J. W. Parker, of Sunderland, and was suitably responded to by Mrs. Oubridge.

The Chairman proposed a vote of thanks to the Vicar for the use of the bells and the Church Hall.—The Vicar, in replying, said he always gave the members of the association a warm welcome, and was delighted at any time to help the ringers in their great work.

The methods rung during the day were Bob Major and Royal, Stedman Triples and Caters, Erin Caters, Forward Royal, Kent Treble Bob Major and Royal and Double Norwich. Thirty ringers took part in the ringing during the day.

NOTES BY THE WAY.

METHOD NOMENCLATURE.—THE POINTS OF THE QUESTION.

By J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

On several occasions lately, both privately and at association meetings I have attended, I have been asked to explain the question of the naming of methods, which is to come before the Central Council at Ipswich. As the matter concerns every ringer, I take this opportunity.

Three of the Council's committees are involved. They are:—

(1) The Analysis Committee, consisting of A. T. Beeston, J. W. Parker, G. Williams, and Miss E. K. Parker.

(2) The Nomenclature Committee, consisting of A. D. Barker, T. Hervey Beams, G. P. Burton, A. L. Coleman and H. Drake.

(3) The Methods Committee, consisting of H. L. James, E. H. Lewis and J. A. Trollope.

In 1907 the Methods Committee issued a book containing the total number of Plain and Treble Bob Minor methods, which conform to the conditions generally accepted as necessary for a method. (As a matter of fact four were omitted in error.) The success of the book has been altogether beyond expectation. It is not too much to say that it has revolutionised six-bell ringing. In place of the dozen or so Minor methods at one time available, the progressive six-bell ringer has now twenty-seven Plain and two hundred and thirty-two Treble Bob methods, all of which I believe have been rung. Moreover, the book made splicing possible, and as spliced ringing is still in its infancy, and is being adopted by eight-bell ringers, the book has indirectly had an influence wider than its immediate scope.

The greater part of the methods included were necessarily new and unnamed, and the question arose whether to supply them with names or merely to give them numbers and leave the naming to others. The second course was adopted. It was decided to give to the band that first rang any method the opportunity and the privilege of naming it.

It has long been held in the Exercise that the band which first rings a method has a right to give it a name. Thus, when in 1718 the Society of Union Scholars rang the first peal of Oxford Treble Bob they renamed it. To quote Mr. Jasper Snowdon: 'In accordance with a custom prevailing at that time the society called the method after their own name, Union Bob, as they considered themselves entitled to do this by reason of their being the first company who accomplished a peal in the method.' And in later years we have had many instances of the same thing. Of course, when we talk about rights in this matter, the word must always be understood in a limited sense. A band has the right to call any method what they please, but they cannot always get other people to adopt it. In the instance I have just referred to the title 'Union Bob' was only partially accepted, and very soon died out. The 10,080 rung at Norwich in 1727 was called a 'Quarter Peal of Oxford Treble Bob, all eight in, or the Union Bob,' and very shortly the newer title was entirely dropped.

And, too, there are other rights of naming methods which have been and are equally recognised. The first man who produces a method or the first man who publishes a method usually calls it what he thinks fit. And the names of some have come by a process of natural evolution: as, for instance, Double Norwich, Stedman's Principle, Kent Treble Bob, etc. So long as the method gets a good name it is no great matter who supplies it, and the people who first ring it are at least as suitable as any other.

But whatever plan had been adopted with these six-bell methods there was bound to be things against as well as for. There is no doubt that the idea of being the first to name a method did act as a great incentive to bands to practice fresh ones. On the other hand a certain amount of confusion and misunderstanding was inevitable. The methods were rung and named here and there, and at different times, and though each fresh name was duly published there was no means of knowing easily what was named and what was not. Consequently some of the methods were named twice or even three times. But gradually the names were supplied, and then came the time when it was felt that they should be revised, the missing ones supplied, and an official list issued. The Analysis Committee found themselves hampered in their work of collecting statistics by the want of such a list, and they pressed for its being prepared. As the Analysis Committee consisted of a number of as able and experienced men as you are likely to get, it seemed fitting that they should do the job. The proposal came from the Methods Committee, Mr. Law James moving and I seconding.

The Analysis Committee undertook the work, adopted a comprehensive scheme, and prepared a list of names. So great was the confidence placed in their abilities that most people supposed that their list would be accepted without comment. Indeed, at Salisbury, where their report was received, the president inadvertently declared it carried without discussion. But this apparently excellent and uncontested list contained two things which gave rise to great opposition.

First, the Analysis Committee had not only revised the new names and supplied the missing ones, but had altered some of the names—printed in the book. These were put there by the Methods Committee, and they objected to alteration. It is not to be supposed that the book does not need any revision; but the Methods Committee held that that must be done when the whole matter of the methods (apart from the names) is overhauled for a second edition. Meanwhile, names deliberately put there should not be altered.

And when the list was printed it was found that some of the names caused great dissatisfaction outside the Council. Objection was strongly taken to names of flowers being used. Floral names have been in use in the Exercise for very many years. Tulip and Primrose are names already printed in the book, and it is not easy to see why such as Daffodil, Bluebell and Shamrock should be objectionable. Personally, I do not like these floral names, but it is hard to answer Mr. Pritchett when he says: 'You call ladies by the names of flowers, and what is good enough for your wife and your sweetheart or your daughter is surely good enough for the methods you ring.' I suppose the real reason is that people feel that they are too pretty and feminine. Ladies' Christian names are, after all, very intimate and personal things, not as a rule used by any but their closest acquaintances. In the rare cases where a woman has to have a Christian name that everyone uses you look for something more dignified. Queen Mary or Queen Elizabeth or Queen Victoria sound all right, but anyone can see that there is something wrong with Queen Pansy or Queen Violet—unless it were in a fairy tale.

Anyhow, ringers did object to these floral names. The Leytonstone band, one of the foremost of six-bell companies, led the opposition. They had abundant support throughout the country; the Editor of 'The Ringing World' lent his powerful aid, and Mr. George Burton became the spokesman.

It was clear that the matter would be brought up at the London meeting, and many representatives had instruction from their associations to vote against these new names. But as it happened, the matter was so handled that the Council did not have the opportunity of giving a direct vote for or against these floral names. It was proposed to appoint a committee with instructions to go into the whole question of the naming of methods. Now, there were quite a number of members who would have voted against the floral names, but who were not convinced of any great need for altering the names of other methods. These people were rather in a difficulty and there was some cross voting. I knew of two men whose opinions were practically identical, one of whom voted for and the other against.

The committee was appointed by a small majority. It is not quite fair to go behind the exact terms of the resolution, but I think it may be taken that the vote did mean that a majority of the Council was against the floral names, but not that there was any great wish for any alteration of names in general.

GUILDFORD RINGER'S SUDDEN DEATH.

Ringling at S. Nicolas' Church, Guildford, on April 19th, in connection with the church's jubilee celebrations, Mr. Geo. J. Nichols, of Merrow, was taken ill afterwards, and died unexpectedly the next evening. The tragic suddenness of his death came as a heavy blow to his fellow ringers, as well as to his friends in the village of Merrow, where for many years he had been connected with practically every phase of village life, and the deepest sympathy goes out to the widow, son and two daughters who are left to mourn their loss.

Mr. Nichols, who was 57 years of age, had been head gardener to Mr. F. Baring-Gould, at Merrow Grange for the last 30 years. He was one of the oldest members of the Merrow Show and Fete Committee, and was closely connected with the running of the Village Hall Club. He was a member of the late Merrow bell ringers' band, and for some years had been a ringer at S. Nicolas' Church, Guildford. He served on the show committee of the Guildford and District Gardeners' Association, and for a considerable time was a member of the now extinct Merrow Rifle Club. He was also interested in the Cricket Club, having been a member of the committee. He was also a member of the Guildford Constitutional Club and the Guildford and District Chrysanthemum Society.

The funeral took place at Merrow Parish Church on Friday, and was attended by a large gathering of villagers and representatives of the various organisations with which Mr. Nichols had been connected. Before the service, the bells were rung muffled by Mrs. Hazelden, Mrs. Melville, Messrs. S. Radford, A. H. Pulling, C. Hazelden, W. R. Melville (Guildford), J. F. Goacher and N. Harding (West Clandon), and after the committal, a course of Grandsire Triples was rung on handbells over the grave by Messrs. W. Melville, C. Hazelden, A. H. Pulling and S. Radford. Among the wreaths was one from the S. Nicolas' ringers.

On the evening before his death, Mr. Nichols took part in a touch of 1,226 Stedman Caters, rung by members of the S. Nicolas' Society: E. Raddon 1, F. Radford 2, E. Etheridge 3, Mrs. Hazelden 4, C. Hazelden 5, W. W. Thorne 6, G. J. Nichols 7, G. Tomsett 8, S. Radford (conductor) 9, E. G. Heath 10.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

We understand that London is shortly to gain a modern peal from the Loughborough foundry, an order having been placed with Messrs. John Taylor and Co. to install a ring of eight, tenor 15 cwt., in the tower of Holy Trinity Church, West Hill, Wandsworth.

The bell hangers are now at work erecting the massive frame at York Minster for the new ring of twelve which Messrs. Taylor and Co. are shortly to install there. A great deal of careful work has, of course, to be done before the peal can be ready for opening.

The Whitechapel Foundry has in hand the rehanging of the eight bells of Bennington, Herts, associated with Squire Proctor. They are also rehanging the peal of eight at Pinner, Middlesex, and have just cast a heavy hour bell and quarter bells for Westminster chimes at the Prince of Wales' College, Achimota, West Africa.

The many friends of Mr. George Baker, of Brighton, will be glad to learn that he is improving excellently after his recent operation, and is now back in his home.

Mr. William Markwell, of Henfield, an old member of the Sussex Association, died on Thursday of last week, after a long illness.

The band who rang the heavy handbell peal at Leicester in February of last year wish to congratulate the band who rang the handbell peal reported last week with a 15 cwt. tenor. They are not thinking of trying to beat this, but hand over the 'laurels' gracefully, writes 'E. M.' Of course, we feel duly chastened for the typographical error.

Only a few weeks ago the Ipswich band rang the only peal of Forward Maximus achieved out of Birmingham. On Saturday they added a peal of Duffield Maximus to the methods rung at the famous St. Mary-le-Tower Church. They would like to know whether more than one previous peal (that at St. Martin's, Birmingham), has been rung in this method.

The anniversary of the first peal ever rung, the Grandsire Bob Triples at St. Peter Mancroft, Norwich, in 1715, falls on Sunday next.

A peal of 12,312 Grandsire Caters was rung at Painswick on May 5th, 1817. The first peal (Grandsire Triples) in Dorset was rung at Bridport on May 5th, 1887.

The first peal of Grandsire Bob Maximus was rung at Southwark on May 7th, 1792.

A band, which included John Reeves, rang the first peal on Harrow bells, '5,040 Bob Majors,' on May 7th, 1780.

The peal rung at Wicken on April 12th was Grandsire Triples, not Stedman, as published in last week's 'Ringing World.' Also it was the first peal of Triples with a bob bell by the ringer of the 4th.

We regret to record the death, which occurred suddenly at Coleshill, Warwickshire, on Saturday, April 24th, of Mr. Frederick Clayton, in his 55th year.

LANCASHIRE'S VETERAN TREASURER.

Ringers will congratulate Mr. Henry W. Jackson, the worthy treasurer of the Lancashire Association, on having taken part in a peal of Grandsire Triples, as reported elsewhere.

Mr. Jackson, who is in his 80th year, has been a ringer at Bolton Church for 62 years. He is the sole survivor of the band who rang the first peal for the association (incidentally rung at the same church), and has not taken part in a peal during the last 43 years.

He handled his bell in a manner that would do credit to more able-bodied ringers.

RINGERS' SILVER WEDDING GIFT.

At Oswestry, Shropshire, on Sunday, April 25th, for morning service, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples (1,260 changes), in 45 mins.: T. Marshall 1, R. T. Evans 2, R. Martin 3, R. Kynaston 4, W. B. Kynaston 5, E. H. Kynaston 6, E. Jones (conductor) 7, R. Edwards 8. This was rung in honour of the silver wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Griffith Whitfield. Mr. Whitfield has been Ringing Master at this tower for 38 years, and the happy couple were presented with a silver table centre piece by the ringers.

LEAD OR NO LEAD ON SIX.

To the Editor.

Sir,—I shall be obliged if you can find room in 'The Ringing World' for a few words relating to six-bell ringing. For some time there has been a difference of opinion as to whether an open lead should be made on six, the same as is done on eight bells. As a boy, I started ringing with a band of ringers, all learners, in Suffolk. Capt. Moore was our instructor. He always said we should never have good striking unless we made an open lead. Now, in Lancashire and Yorkshire, some make a lead, others do not. It follows that when a mixed band get together the ringing is also mixed; then an argument starts as to which is right. Generally, Yorkshire ringers say no lead should be made on six. I should like to hear what the 'big guns' have to say on this subject.—Yours truly, is not included in the figures. We, however, congratulate the band on keeping the art alive, under great difficulties, in their far-off land.

ONE OF THE SMALL FRY.

Summarising the footnotes to peals, it is found that 539 rang a peal for the first time, 735 their first in the method, and 33 their first in Surprise; 250 rang a method on a different number of bells for the first time, while their first of Doubles was accomplished by 20 ringers, first of Minor, 85; Triples, 21; Major, 76; Caters, 13; Royal, 17; and Maximus, 8. Six succeeded in ringing their first on six bells, 35 on eight bells, 30 on ten, and 9 on twelve.

New conductors numbered 58, while 79 conducted their first peal in the method.

Forty-eight peals were the first, and 165 the first in the method on the bells, also 32 were the first after restoration, etc. Sixteen peals were stated to be by the service ringers; six were the quickest on the bells, including the quickest peal on tower bells. The number of peals for particular occasions or reasons was as follows: Birthdays 231; weddings (including silver and golden), 83; welcome, 28; farewell, 15; anniversaries, 47; memorial, 1; complimentary, 7; thanksgiving, 2; Empire Day, 11; Armistice celebrations, 14; watch-night, 4; death of Queen Alexandra, 81; and for church festivals, 22: 31 peals were rung fully muffled, and 114 half-muffled.

Ladies are now taking such a prominent part in peal ringing that some few particulars of their doings cannot fail to be interesting. During the year no less than 80 ladies rang peals, the number of peals which included at least one lady being 225. One of the peals, Stedman Triples, was rung by ladies alone, while one was rung with four ladies, five with three, thirty-six with two, and 182 with one lady in the band.

That they are not daunted by the higher methods is shown by the fact that this number included seven peals of London four of Bristol, nine of Superlative, ten of Cambridge, and one of Rutland Surprise Major, four peals of Cambridge Royal, while two ladies took part in a peal of Cambridge Surprise Maximus. Twelve of the peals were on handbells, being five of Royal, two of Caters, and 5 of Major.

Coming to individual performances, one lady rang 18 peals, one 14, one 12, two 11, one 10, three 9, five 8, three 6, three 5, four 4, seven 3, nineteen 2, and 30 ladies one peal.

There were four lady conductors, one having one peal of Bristol, one of London and two of Stedman Triples to her credit, one with two peals of Grandsire Triples, one with a peal of Stedman Triples, and the fourth conducted a peal of Doubles in six methods.

We conclude our report by giving the number of peals rung in representative years since 1881, the total for the whole period being 48,331 :-

DEVON GUILD.

The N.-E. branch of the Devon Guild held a very successful quarterly meeting at Silvertown on Saturday. About 50 ringers were present, the visitors including the general secretary of the Guild, and representatives from the Cathedral and other Exeter towers, also from Exmouth, Talaton, Thorverton, Christow, Newton St. Cyres, Ken, Sowton and Chipstaple. The striking was above the average usually attained at meetings, and touches of Grandsire, Stedman and Bob Minor were brought round. It was proposed to hold the next quarterly meeting on Saturday, June 19th, at Bradninch, subject to the consent of the Rector of that parish.

PONTEFRAC T RINGER HONOURED.

At the Vestry meeting, on Monday, April 12th, the Vicar (the Rev. John Young, M.A., R.D.), appointed Mr. J. H. Lenton as his warden.

The Vicar stated that, as a ringer, he was pleased to pay this compliment to the belfry, which rarely received the reward it deserved.

In honour of the occasion a peal of Grandsire Triples was attempted on the 13th, but came to grief half-way. Therefore, on the 15th, touches of Grandsire Caters were rung by the following: Rev. J. Young, J. H. Lenton, W. Fox, A. Fox, J. Agar, V. Applegate, A. Walker, T. Holder, H. Waters, J. Carter, E. J. Pickard, B. Moody.

The Pontefract company commenced a series of evening outings on Monday, April 19th, by visiting Wakefield Cathedral. They were welcomed by the Wakefield and Horbury ringers. Touches of Grandsire and Stedman Caters were rung; also a course of Grandsire Cinques.

SUSSEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION. ANNUAL MEETING OF CENTRAL DIVISION.

As mentioned in our last issue, the annual meeting of the Central Division of the Sussex Association was held at Cuckfield on Saturday, April 17th. Ringing commenced at 2.30, and ringers continued to arrive until the very satisfactory number of 45 were present. A short service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. Canon C. W. G. Wilson), who gave a very interesting and helpful address. A splendid tea was partaken of in the Churchroom, and the Vicar presided at the tea and the business meeting which followed, supported by the curate, and the Master of the Association (Mr. J. T. Rickman). The following new members were elected: Messrs. W. Morey, Henfield, G. W. Swallow and E. Wadey, Lower Beeding.

The Divisional Secretary gave a brief report of the work of the division during the past year, stating that the position of the division had been well maintained, and they had had the pleasure of welcoming two new branches, viz., Lower Beeding and Turner's Hill. The accounts showed a small increase on the previous year, but owing to the rail allowance there was a slight decrease in the amount paid over to the hon. treasurer. The local secretaries again gave valuable assistance in arranging the meetings.

The following divisional officers were elected: A. D. Stone, hon. secretary; Messrs. J. A. Hart, O. Sippetts and J. Wren, committee; Messrs. K. Hart, F. Bennett and C. Tyler, committee of advice.

The secretary then called the attention of the meeting to the anonymous attack on the peal rung at Turner's Hill, and read the original letter and the correspondence which followed, as published in 'The Ringing World.'

The author of the attack, who had received an invitation to the meeting, was asked to come forward and justify his assertions; but as no one answered this invitation, the conductor of the peal, Mr. Keith Hart, was invited to speak on the matter.

Mr. Hart stated that with the exception of one or two false blows, the ringing was good from start to finish. There was nothing approaching a shift course, and the bells came home perfectly at the end of the peal. This evidence was supported by other members of the band, six of whom were present at the meeting. The result of the discussion was the unanimous resolution, as published in 'The Ringing World' of April 23rd.

At the conclusion of the meeting, Mr. Rickman proposed the usual vote of thanks to the Vicar for the use of the bells, the service and address.

Ringing had just recommenced when a request came for it to cease owing to very serious illness close by. This was most unfortunate on account of the large number of young members present. The Lindfield ringers kindly placed their tower at the disposal of the meeting, consequently a number set off on the four-mile journey across the fields, taking a good deal of the day with them. The bells were soon got going, a good hour's ringing being obtained, and at 9 o'clock the bells were lowered. Grandsire Doubles to Loudon Surprise were rung during the day.

The following towers were represented: Barcombe, Lower Beeding, Bolney, Brighton (St. Peter's and St. Nicholas'), Burgess Hill, Crawley, East Grinstead, Heene, Hurstpierpoint, Lindfield and Shoreham. There were also one or two visitors present.

RINGERS' OUTING.

The ringers of All Saints', Boyne Hill, Maidenhead, held their outing on Easter Monday, visiting towers at Henley, Watlington, Haddenham, Thame and Long Crendon. There was some good ringing at each place, and the party wish to thank the Vicars and the foremen of the respective towers for the use of the bells, and especially the Vicar of Long Crendon for his kind invitation to tea and concert. At the latter, the visitors gave a few selections on the handbells, which were much appreciated. The ringers taking part were: Messrs. G. Martin, A. Martin, J. Eldridge, T. Goodchild, E. Eldridge and L. W. Copey. The conductors for the day were G. Martin, A. Martin and J. Eldridge.

MISCELLANEOUS PERFORMANCES.

EDENBRIDGE.—On Easter Monday, 1,260 Stedman Triples and a touch of Grandsire Triples were rung for the wedding of Mr. Vincent, who has been a frequent visitor to the tower. The ringers in the quarter-peal of Stedman were: E. Leigh 1, E. Collison 2, G. Malvan 3, W. Leigh, sen., 4, H. Leigh 5, E. Seal (Hewer) 6, J. Hoasman 7, E. Leigh, sen., 8, W. Leigh, jun., and E. Leigh, jun., took part in the Grandsire.

BEXHILL.—On Easter Monday, at St. Peter's, Bexhill, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples, in 50 mins.: H. Parkin 1, W. H. Easton 2, S. Driver 3, F. J. Pont 4, H. Rapley 5, J. Downing (conductor) 6, W. H. Rapley 7, A. Reid 8. This was John Downing's first quarter as conductor, and was rung at his 3rd attempt. Treble, 3rd and 6th ringers are from Blacklands, Hastings; the remainder are of the local band.

NORFOLK'S NEW PEAL OF EIGHT. GENEROUS GIFT TO NORTH LOPHAM.

The original peal of five bells which hung in the tower of North Lopham, Norfolk, and had been in a dilapidated condition so long that few if any of the inhabitants have ever heard them rung, have now been restored by the recasting of three of them, and with the addition of three trebles now constitute a useful peal of eight. The renovation and augmentation have been made possible by the munificence of Mrs. Stephen Beales, in memory of her husband. The work has been most satisfactorily carried out by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank. The old tenor and fifth were found to be sound and also satisfactory in tone. These bells have been preserved, and now form the tenor and seventh of the reconstituted peal. Both the old treble and second were badly cracked, and with the third have been recast, three new bells being added to complete the octave. The old inscriptions on the three bells which were recast have been reproduced, thus preserving their record. The reconstituted peal have been hung with completely new and modern fittings, in new framework. The latter is constructed of cast iron mounted on a foundation of steel girders, the foundation being so arranged that it takes a bearing in all four walls of the tower, and acts as an effective tie to the tower, upon which there will now be less strain with the eight bells than was the case with the old five. The bells are hung on the latest type of ball bearings, and the guide rollers also revolve on ball bearings, thus reducing all friction to the minimum. A chiming apparatus has also been fitted which will allow of the eight bells being chimed by one person when the ringers are not available.

Affixed to the wall of the tower is a brass memorial plate, inscribed: 'To the Glory of God and in memory of Stephen Beales, the devoted husband of Annie Caroline Beales, the bells in this tower were renovated, rebung and augmented, A.D. 1926.' The bells and tablet were dedicated on Sunday afternoon, April 11th, by the Archdeacon of Norfolk (the Rev. A. R. Buckland, Rector of Pullham Market) in the absence of the Lord Bishop of Norwich, through indisposition. A very large congregation was present, including many well known local residents, the service being specially arranged for the occasion, and the children of the parish took a prominent part in the singing.

The service, which was conducted by the Rev. C. J. Eastwood (Rector), consisted of the customary form of evening prayer, and commenced with the singing of the hymn, 'Praise to the Holiest.' The special Psalms were 96 and 150, and the lessons were taken from Zechariah xiv. v. 16, and Revelation xix. 1-16. The anthem, 'Let God arise,' was admirably rendered by the choir, the solos being taken by Mrs. Bussey and the Rector.

After the second hymn, 'Angel voices ever singing,' the Archdeacon, accompanied by the Rector and churchwardens (Mr. Thomas Crowe and Mr. Tim Stevens), proceeded to the belfry, where they were met by Mrs. Beales, who, addressing the Archdeacon, said: 'Reverend sir, I respectfully request you to dedicate this renovated belfry and three new bells to the glory of God and in loving memory of my husband, Stephen Beales.'

The Archdeacon then said the form of dedication and prayers, after which the clergy and churchwardens returned to the chancel and the choir sang, 'Ring out, O bells, in gladness,' and the dedicated peal was then rung for a few minutes by members of the Diss company of change ringers.

The Archdeacon delivered an appropriate address and the service concluded with the hymn, 'For all the Saints.' Mr. A. A. Hughes was present at the dedication, representing the founders.

Ringers from Diss and other places, under the conductorship of Mr. John Souter, rang the bells after the service, and it can be said that through the generosity of Mrs. Beales, who has borne the entire cost of the work, North Lopham now has a very fine 'ring,' constructed on the latest and most up-to-date lines. Touches of Grandsire, Stedman, Plain Bob, Treble Bob, Double Norwich and Superlative were rung, and all were delighted with the tone and 'go' of the bells. The weights and inscriptions on the bells are as follows:—

Tenor.—10 cwt. 2 qr. 0 lbs., F sharp. Thomas Osborn, Founder, Downham, Norfolk, 1799. Saml. Porter and Nathl. Cook, Churchwardens.

7th.—7 cwt. 1 qr. 7 lbs., G sharp. William Dobson Founder, 1811. —Samuel Porter, Churchwarden.

6th.—6 cwt. 1 qr. 6 lbs., A sharp. Robert Gurney, Founder, Bury St. Edmunds, 1666. (This bell was recast and the following added.) These bells were restored and augmented as the gift of Annie Caroline Beales, A.D. 1926.

5th.—5 cwt. 3 qr. 0 lbs., B sharp. Thomas Newman, Founder, Norwich, 1733. John Cook and James Aldrich, C. W. Robert Howlett. Recast 1926.

4th.—5 cwt. 0 qr. 7 lbs., C sharp. Thomas Newman, of Norwich, made mee, 1733. Recast 1926.

3rd.—4 cwt. 0 qr. 24 lbs., D sharp. (New Bell). 'Thanks be to God for the life and work of Stephen Beales.'

2nd.—3 cwt. 3 qr. 9 lbs., E sharp. (New Bell). 'May God bless all whom we do call.'

Treble.—3 cwt. 2 qr. 4 lbs., F sharp. (New Bell). 'Day by day we magnify Thee.'

A number of young men of the village have intimated their willingness to learn the art of campanology.

It is interesting to note that the late Mr. Stephen Beales for many years carried on the business of a linen manufacturer, and kept a number of men and looms constantly employed in making hand woven goods; in fact, he was practically the last of a school of manufacturers of hand woven materials in Norfolk. All the looms are now silent, and most of the weavers have died.

THE WARWICKSHIRE GUILD. FUNDS DEPLETED.

The 19th annual meeting of the Warwickshire Guild was held at Warwick on Saturday, April 17th. There was a moderate attendance, and the bells of St. Nicholas' were used in the afternoon until 4.30, when the members attended evensong, which was conducted by the Rev. W. H. Trickett, curate of St. Mary's. Tea was provided at the Dale Temperance Hotel, at which 24 members sat down.

After tea, the Rev. H. A. Hayden, Vicar of St. Nicholas', warmly welcomed the Guild to Warwick. The general meeting followed, and the Vicar was voted to the chair.

The Rev. J. L. White, who was absent through illness, was re-elected president, and the following officers were also re-elected: Ringing Master, Mr. T. W. Chapman; general hon. secretary, Mr. J. A. Fenton; auditor, Mr. O. J. Hunt. The district secretary for Coventry, Mr. F. Pervin, having resigned, Mr. J. H. White was elected in his stead.

The Secretary presented a statement of accounts, which showed a balance in hand of £5 6s. 4d., the lowest in the history of the Guild. The funds being so low, there will be no annual report this year.

The monthly meetings for May and June will be held at Allesley and Bulkington.

Mr. Wilkerson brought the meeting to a close by proposing a hearty vote of thanks to the clergy of Warwick for the use of the bells, to which the Rev. H. A. Hayden suitably replied.

Ringings during the day included Stedman and Grandsire Triples at St. Nicholas', and Stedman and Grandsire Caters, Kent Treble Bob Royal, Bristol and London Surprise Major at St. Mary's.

THE CUMBERLAND ASSOCIATION.

The annual ringing contest of the Cumberland Association was held on Easter Monday at All Saints' Parish Church, Cockermouth. All the teams failed at the first test, which was 720, so it was decided to ring 360 to decide the winners. The first team, Egremont, rang 360 Oxford Treble Bob Minor in 14 minutes, with 27 faults. Crosthwaite (Keswick) rang Kent Minor for 10½ minutes, when they broke down with 84 faults. Bridekirk rang Woodbine for four minutes, when they broke down with 72 faults. Cockermouth rang 360 Woodbine in 13 minutes, with 10 faults, and being the home band, were penalised another 10, making 20 in all.

At the meeting which followed, the judge, Mr. G. R. Newton (Liverpool) gave his report, and awarded the shield to the Cockermouth hand to hold for another year, they having won it the previous year.

Workington (St. Michael's) were affiliated again to the association, after an absence of 13 years, and Workington was chosen for the next quarterly meeting, to be held on July 31st.

Votes of thanks were accorded to the Vicar for the use of the bells and rooms, to the judge for coming, and to the chairman for presiding. Tea was afterwards partaken of in the Churchroom, followed by ringing by various mixed bands present.

THE STRIKE.

In common with the majority of other newspapers and periodicals, the 'Ringing World' was temporarily 'throttled' by the National Strike, and this number is produced under considerable difficulties; for, although the strike was formally called off on Wednesday, the disturbance and dislocation of business which it involved cannot be righted in a moment. With the action of the Trades' Unions in this great industrial upheaval we have no concern in this journal. We have no politics and express no views as to the rights and wrongs which plunged this country into a disastrous domestic struggle; but we do feel this—that whatever their motives, the Trades' Union Congress made a wild tactical error when they attempted to muzzle the Press in these islands. In the grave matters which have been involved, the publication or otherwise of the 'Ringing World' is of small moment; but, had the Unions been successful in their efforts in regard to the Press, they would have created a condition of affairs which would have precipitated this country into a calamity the results of which no one can estimate, and we feel it is necessary that we should add our little protest to the widespread condemnation which this action has aroused.

We feel perfectly sure that no apologies on our own part will be necessary for the non-appearance of 'The Ringing World' for May 7th. Apart from the first and vital fact that the printers' operatives 'came out,' and no type could be set up, we were faced with further obstacles in the matter of distribution—for this journal goes into every corner of England. That it was missed we have ample evidence, from the various enquiries which we have received, and it has to be placed on record that in the fifteen years of the paper's life this is the first occasion that the firm which, from the first, has carried out the printing contract has failed to produce the journal on contract time—and this though we passed through more than four years of war. The dislocation which has thus occurred will not, we hope, prevent our recording, for the interest of present readers and future ringers, anything of importance which has happened in the interim. But ringing affairs themselves were put badly out of joint. It was hardly possible to ring bells while the country was in the throes of such a struggle, while the breakdown of transport caused the postponement of a number of meetings in different parts of the country. The various organisations will, no doubt, quickly get back to work again, if only the uncertainty caused by the dislocation disappears. It is hoped that matters will settle themselves in time for definite announcements as to the Whitsuntide gatherings to be made through our columns.

'THE MUSIC OF THE BELLS.'

Under this heading the 'Birmingham Mail,' one of the most influential daily papers in the Midlands, had the following leading article recently:—

There is no harder annual among newspaper correspondences than that relating to what complainants term "the church bell nuisance." It crops up in our own columns from time to time, as it did a few weeks ago, and as it does, no doubt, in most of the other newspapers which their readers are accustomed to regard as the medium for ventilating their grievances. The bell ringers of Worcestershire discussed the matter at the annual meeting of their change ringing association, and were rather perturbed by a threat on someone's part to bring forward a Bill in Parliament to suppress or restrict church bell ringing. We do not think they need have any serious fears that the practice of the very fascinating and intricate science of campanology will come under the ban of Parliament. Nor need they, we believe, assume that the objectors represent more than a minute fraction of the community. The music of the bells is linked up too intimately with our national life and history to be dispensed with at the behest of a few people who, with or without real cause, protest against it as an unnecessary or disturbing survival. There may be cases in which it is a real trouble, where people reside in very close proximity to the church, where they are nervy or poor sleepers, where cheap bells with irritating notes are installed, or where they are rung unreasonably and too insistently. But with most of us, whether we be churchgoers or not, the silencing of the church bells would be a distinct loss. To hear them at their best, one needs to be in a pleasant countryside, when their sound is borne across the open fields, and blends harmoniously with the music of the birds, the hum of the insects, and the peaceful atmosphere of rural surroundings. Even in town, most of us find them inspiring and cheering, and would miss them sadly if they were stilled. Modern life in crowded cities has given us too many noises of its own, not all of them pleasing, and some distinctly nerve-wracking—the hooting of motors and the roar of street traffic, the often raucous strains of neighbours' gramophones or loud speakers, and, as aerial traffic develops, the drone of the aeroplane engine may add another disturbance to everyday life.

Bells, when they are musical in their tones—we would gladly support a Bill prohibiting the erection of any bell whose note would not pass a committee of musicians—have an appeal which goes down to the fibres of our being. They have a spiritual and a traditional significance which we could ill afford to banish in this too materialistic age. For well-nigh countless centuries they have touched human life at the most intimate points, have been associated with occasions of joy or mourning, have roused the worker from his slumbers or marked the close of his day of toil, have celebrated the ingathering of the fruits of the earth, have heralded the approach of danger from fire or from the enemy without the gates, have turned our thoughts to God and to worship. The "passing bell" is a symbol of the equality of man in the presence of "death, the leveller," tolled as it is for king or peasant, for the infant who has been snatched from life on its very threshold and for the traveller gathered to his rest at a ripe old age. They have marked the triumph of tyranny, as in the case of the "curfew" carrying in its note the order that all lights and fires must be extinguished and no person must walk abroad, and the passing of tyranny, for peals on the church bells have always been an accompaniment of public rejoicing. They have guided and still guide the fog-bound mariner along a rocky coast, and the lost traveller on the lonely moorlands in dark of night. Even now, we believe, in certain remote parts, the evening bell is rung for this purpose, thanks to the request of some grateful soul in generations past who found guidance and safety through the ringing of a church bell. And even now in villages here and there, where the march of human progress is little felt, the morning bell—a much pleasanter institution than the raucous steam whistle or "buzzer" of the urban factory—rouses the horse-keeper, stockman, and agricultural worker to a realisation that the time for slumber is gone and a new day has awakened. In many villages, too, a merry peal yet returns thanks for the safe garnering of the harvest, and the "gleaming bell," which gave the freedom of the cornfields to the country folk, is still rung. No, we certainly cannot afford to lose the music of the church bells, even if, as must happen with most of the accompaniments and conveniences of communal life, they may occasionally be disturbing to the individual whose temperament or whose occupation do not fit him easily into the general scheme of things.

NOTES BY THE WAY.

THE NAMING OF METHODS—COMMENTS ON THE COMMITTEE'S REPORT.

BY J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

In the issue of 'The Ringing World' of April 30th I traced the history of method nomenclature up to the appointment of the committee at the meeting of the Council in London in 1924.

In due season, the Nomenclature Committee prepared its report, and this was presented to the Council at the Chester meeting. It was soon clear that it would meet with opposition, and opposition for two distinct reasons. First, the Chester Guild had made itself champion of the floral names, and intended to fight to the end against their alteration. They took the step of ringing the methods, and they claimed that now they had been rung with the floral names the matter was settled. Secondly, the proposals of the report respecting names of methods generally were disputed. The Council ordered the report to be published, and the consideration of it to be deferred till next year. This is the question on which the Council will vote at Ipswich.

You will notice that really there are two questions distinct from each other. The lesser, but much more immediate, is the question of floral names. The other is the series of proposals relating to the naming of methods generally. Presently I will explain what they are. I think it will generally be agreed that, however desirable it may be to overhaul and reform the naming of methods generally, there is no need for any hurry in the matter. The Exercise has got on tolerably well with the present system for a good long time. But the six-bell method names do require settling at once. For this reason, among others—the book is already sold out, and a new edition will have to be prepared and issued. In the ordinary course this task will fall to the Methods Committee. As a body, that committee has no views for or against the floral names. It is prepared to accept either the Analysis Committee's list or the Nomenclature Committee's list but it does want the Council to give definite instructions as to which is to be used. And on that point there is no question that the Council is entitled to give orders.

You may, if you please, argue that the Council should not interfere with the names which have been given to methods, but you cannot dispute that it can print what it pleases in its own publications. I think it would be for the general convenience (it certainly would be for the Methods Committee's convenience) if matters are so ordered that these two questions are voted on separately. I commend to the Nomenclature Committee's consideration the suggestion that they should first submit to the Council the clauses of their report dealing with the six-bell names, and, when they have been voted on, the clauses dealing with more general matters. Quite likely such a course might turn out to be good tactics.

And now turn to the report itself. It opens with a preamble or general statement, giving a general justification of what is to follow, 'without any system to guide the selection of fresh names,' so we are told, 'and with a multitude of new methods produced of late years a state of almost indescribable confusion has arisen, especially as regards Minor, and, more recently, Major nomenclature. Every would-be method author has been a law to himself, there having been no authority to decide as to the names to be adopted.' On whether you agree with this statement or not will largely depend what you think of the proposals of reform which follow. If you agree that method names are actually in a state of almost indescribable confusion you will welcome sympathetically any attempt to put matters right. Even if you do not agree with the details of the suggested reforms you will still welcome them, hoping that they may be modified to meet your objections. Your criticism will be constructive. But on the other hand, if you think that the system of naming methods which the Exercise has used for three hundred years has, on the whole, worked remarkably well, and that the names in use are almost invariably good and suitable ones you will be disposed to reject any suggestion of change entirely. You will not bother much about the details of the proposed reforms, you will meet the whole with a flat and single negative.

But assuming that you think reform necessary you will turn to the recommendations offered. First of all, the committee suggest 'that method classification should be simplified, and should in future fall into three main divisions: 1. Plain; 2. Treble Bob; 3. Surprise.' Here I think the Nomenclature Committee are going beyond their terms of reference, and are dealing with matters on which, apparently, they have no technical knowledge. Simplify method classification by all means if you can, but these gentlemen do not realise that all this has been thoroughly thrashed out already, and is the subject of a report adopted by the Council. They must give us a definition of what a Treble Bob method is, and what a Surprise. They must show us how all methods can be put into the three classes. They will find there is more in the matter and greater difficulties than they suppose. At any rate, I do not think they ought to suggest a repeal of the report on classification before they have made themselves acquainted with what it contains.

The second recommendation is one for which a lot can be said. It is that the same name should not be used for two methods; that if, for instance, you have a Brighton Surprise you should not also have a Brighton Court. This is a point which may well be remembered in naming future methods; but not every one will agree to make it apply to old and established methods. When we remember that the titles, Oxford Bob and Oxford Treble Bob, are equally historical, we shall not be very willing to alter either. We shall ask ourselves whether, as a matter of fact, there is any inconvenience and confusion in having the word Oxford applied to two distinct methods.

Thirdly, all what are called non-essential words, such as 'Pleasure,' 'Delight,' 'Court' and 'Bob,' are to be dropped. 'Bob' applied to methods is a meaningless appendage. We should like to have the committee's reasons for saying that these words are non-essential and meaningless. They are neither one nor the other to anyone who knows something of the history and value the continuity of ringing. Once more this committee is referred to the report on classification.

Fourthly, only selected topographical names are to be employed in the future. The growing custom of the Exercise is to call methods only by the names of towns, villages or counties, and it is the safest plan to adopt. If you do so you are not very likely to get a bad name, but we may ask why this should be a rigid rule. Why, if a man hits on another name equal to Superlative or Grandsire, he may not use it?

Then follows a long list of names which it is proposed to substitute for old ones. You can go through the list and see if you think the new ones are sufficient improvement to justify the trouble and inconvenience of change: whether Grimsby, for instance is any better than Duke of Norfolk; Lambeth than London Scholars' Pleasure; or Norton than Morning Star. Perhaps you may think that the men of long ago who rang and named these methods are deserving of some consideration, and you will not lightly break these links with the past.

Future methods are to be dealt with as follows: A selected list of names is to be published, and none outside it is to be used unless a committee of the Council gives permission; concerning which two comments seem suitable to be made. It is easy enough to say to ringers you may call methods only by such names as a committee thinks fit. But who is to make them obey? If they say we shall call our method what we please, as we have always done, what answer can you make? And, secondly, what guarantee have you that any committee would select any better names than leading ringers and composers do at present?

DEATH OF ANOTHER SHEFFIELD RINGER

The hand of death has fallen heavily amongst Sheffield ringers this year. First Mr. William Lomas, of the Cathedral band, passed away in February, followed by Mr. Jack Smithson, of All Saints', in March. Now we regret to record the death of Mr. Thomas G. Sarel, of St. Marie's, who died on April 27th.

Mr. Sarel came from the southern counties some 45 years ago, and his associations with the St. Marie's Company covered about 40 years. He was a member of the company up to his death, but, bronchitis having taken a firm hold of him, he had not been able to attend Sunday service ringing for the last two months.

A 'mender of soles' by trade, the perseverance and thoroughness with which he carried on his work was exemplified in the belfry; to make a mistake was a very rare occurrence with him, and he was recognised as being one of the safest of ringers.

He had rung about 35 peals, all in the standard methods, the last one being when, in his 72nd year, he rang the 3rd bell to Holt's Original with not a word of correction, striking admirably throughout the peal with a delight which would have done credit to a much younger man.

Handbells he had a special liking for, though his abilities in change ringing never passed beyond taking the trebles for Grandsire, but he was far from being a novice with 'four in hand' for tune ringing.

Although Mr. Sarel had passed 'the allotted span,' being in his 74th year, he will be sadly missed by Sheffield ringers, and it was with feelings of regret that four members of the Yorkshire Association and the Sheffield District Society paid the last tribute to his memory at Abbey Lane Cemetery, when a course of Grandsire Triples was rung at the graveside at the close of the funeral service by: J. Evinson 1-2, C. Harrison 3-4, G. Lewis 5-6 and A. Craven 7-8.

For evening service, on May 2nd, at Norton, Derbyshire, with bells half-muffled, as a token of respect to the late Mr. Sarel, 1,260 Grandsire Triples was rung by: *N. Harrison 1, H. Beardshaw 2, J. Berridge 3, C. Bates 4, G. Smith 5, T. E. Lee 6, W. Biggin (conductor) 7, *L. Coupe 8. *First quarter peal.

ALTON BELLS RECAST.

A FINE RING FROM CROYDON FOUNDRY.

The recast ring of eight bells at St. Lawrence's Church, Alton, Hants, were reopened by members of the Winchester Diocesan Guild on Saturday, May 1st. Members present included Mr. G. Williams (Master) and Mr. G. Pullinger (general sec.), and about 30 ringers from Aldershot, Bishopstoke, Bishop's Sutton, Farnham, Guildford, North Stoneham, Seale, Wickham, Winchester and the local band. A very welcome visitor was Mr. J. H. Shepherd, of Swindon, complete with notebook and rule.

All the bells have been recast and hung in a new iron H. frame, on ball bearings, with new and modern fittings. The work has been carried out by Messrs. Gillett and Johnston in their customary excellent manner, and gave every satisfaction. The weight of the tenor is 13 cwt. 1 qr. 20 lbs. in E., and the total weight of the peal is 74 cwt. 15 lbs. The general opinion was that Alton now possesses an exceptionally fine ring of bells.

The reopening service was conducted by the Rev. C. E. Matthews, R.D. (vice-president) and the Guild form of service used. He gave a most interesting address on the origin and meaning of the use of bells, and the history of change ringing down to the present time. There was a large congregation present.

The ringers sat down to a sumptuous meat tea, provided by the generosity of Mr. H. P. Birrell (churchwarden). The Rev. F. R. Dawson (Vicar) presided, and was supported by Mr. H. P. Birrell, Mr. Bond, Dr. Leslie (churchwardens), Rev. C. E. Matthews and Mr. Cyril Johnston. Following tea speeches were made by the gentlemen mentioned, and Mr. G. Williams, in reply, voiced the thanks and appreciation of the ringers.

Afterwards a move was made to the tower, and ringing enjoyed up to 8 p.m., the methods rung being Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Bob, Kent Treble Bob, Cambridge and London Surprise Major.

It is interesting to note that change ringing has been practised in Alton from an early date, and two peal boards record that peals of Grandsire Triples were rung on the bells on March 7th, 1777, and on February 15th, 1785. It is believed that the former was the first peal rung in the county. William Dyer, who was a subscriber to 'The Clavis,' took part in both these peals, and his descendants, who still reside in Alton, subscribed towards the work just completed.

As the opening clashed with the quarterly meeting of the Winchester District, at Fawley, the latter was postponed to June 5th. Due notice of this will be given in 'The Ringing World.'

For evening service on Sunday, May 2nd, 1,260 Stedman Triples in 48 mins.: H. Perry 1. G. Pullinger 2. V. Lowton 3. G. Noakes 4. E. Ham 5. A. Evans 6. A. Hardiman (conductor) 7. H. Sutton 8.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

The half-yearly meeting of the Rochester District was held at Cliffe-at-Hoo on Saturday, April 24th, and, for once, fewer members put in appearance than had notified, which is something unusual these days, as in this district generally about twenty more than are catered for turn up at the meetings. If, therefore, this should catch the eye of those who did not put in an appearance, they might like to send on the price of their tea to the secretary of the district to balance matters.

The tower was open for ringing at 3 p.m., and at 5 o'clock the Association service was held in the church, conducted by the Rector, the Rev. A. T. Wallis, who gave a very interesting address on the history of the church.

Tea was partaken of at the Six Bells, and was followed by the business meeting, at which Mr. W. Harper, of Swanscombe, was elected chairman, in the absence of the Rector. Five new members were elected, and the election of one non-resident member was confirmed, he having been proposed previous to a peal.

Northfleet and Borden were proposed as the place of the next meeting on the last Saturday in July, the former place being decided on by the majority of one vote.

Votes of thanks were passed to all concerned, and the tower was again visited and ringing continued until 8.45, Standard methods up to Superlative being rung. In spite of the small attendance, the meeting was thoroughly representative of the district.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

A meeting of the North and East District of the Middlesex County Association and London Diocesan Guild was held at Hendon on Saturday, May 1st, and was attended by some 24 members from Finchley, Southgate, Hornsey, Stamford Hill, Willesden, Walthamstow, Leytonstone and other parts.

At the special service the Vicar (Rev. S. E. Chettoe) gave a very interesting address on the history and uses of bells, which was much appreciated.

After tea in the Church House, the usual business meeting was held. Stanmore was chosen for the next meeting on June 19th, which it is hoped will be held jointly with Hertfordshire friends.

It was much regretted that the president of the association, Mr. F. A. Milne, J.P., was unable to be present owing to a chill, and his speedy recovery was hoped for.

A hearty vote of thanks was accorded to the Vicar, also to Mr. C. H. Martin and the local ringers for their very warm welcome.

Much use was made of the pretty peal of six bells, touches in several methods from Bob Minor to Cambridge Surprise being rung.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

Secretaries are reminded that notices of meetings should reach us by TUESDAY, in order to be included in the same week's issue. Notices which arrive on Wednesday are often too late for insertion, and inconvenience is thus caused.

We understand that Dr. J. B. Williamson, a late Master of the Cambridge University Guild, has now returned to Ventnor permanently, and is practising there in partnership with one of the local doctors.

A red covered memo book with addresses and touches, also a black leather letter case, with a course of Bristol Surprise inside, were picked up at Fulham, where the annual general Middlesex Association meeting was held. These can be had on application to Robert Holloway, 10, Summerlands Avenue, Acton, W.3.

A very 'Ernest' band met at the Loughborough Foundry campanile on May 1st, when they rang the first Ernest name peal. It is said they were deadly earnest about getting it, and we congratulate them on their success, as ringers with this name are not quite so easily found as those with a common or garden name like John, or Thomas.

Mr. William Reyner, for two years president, and now vice-president of the Barnsley and District Association, who has completed fifty years as bell ringer and chorister at Sandal Parish Church, and Mr. John Glover, another chorister of fifty years' service, have been honoured by the choir, who entertained them to supper, and presented each with a silver-mounted walking stick, suitably inscribed. Mr. Reyner's family have been connected with the church since 1700.

The Hereford Diocesan Guild was founded in March, 1886, and it is expected to have a record festival at Whitsuntide to celebrate the 40th anniversary. We understand the Bishop hopes to be present.

The Coalbrookdale 'Cater Band' hope to ring a touch of Shropshire at the Guild Festival.

Edmonton bells were opened by the Royal Cumberland Youths on May 8th, 1788, with a peal of 5,280 'Oxford Treble Bobs,' composed and conducted by John Reeves.

A peal of 10,200 Treble Bob Royal was rung at Shoreditch on May 10th, 1777, and on the same day, in 1779, 12,240 Bob Major was rung at Braughing.

May 14th was the anniversary of the record peal of London Surprise, 14,112, rung at King's Norton, in 1903.

We are glad to state that Mr. F. S. Wilson, of Haddon Lodge, Diss, who two months ago, in a nursing home in Norwich, had to undergo a serious internal operation for gastric ulcers and removal of the appendix, is now making satisfactory progress. Mr. Wilson wishes, through the medium of 'The Ringing World,' to specially thank Mr. C. E. Borrett and Mr. G. P. Burton, ringers of St. Peter Mancroft Church, Norwich, for their great kindness to him while in the nursing home.

Over £5 was raised the other day in aid of Cound Church Bell Restoration Fund by a dance at the Guildhall.

METHOD NOMENCLATURE.

As I have opposed Mr. Trollope so often on this matter, it seems only right that I should say that so far as his article under 'Notes by the Way,' with the above title, goes, I agree with him entirely. The only word I could object to is the last, and here a mere verbal alteration would probably find us agreed. Instead of reading that there was no great wish for any alteration of names 'in general,' I would suggest that it read 'for a general alteration of names.'

I have never concealed the fact that I quite agree with Mr. Pritchett's argument, as quoted by Mr. Trollope, that some names of flowers are suitable names for methods. In my experience, I find that nearly all ringers (and outsiders too) object very strongly to certain names of flowers. I would mention dahlia, helonia, geranium. These may be called 'botanical,' rather than 'floral' names. The introduction of these 'botanical' names has, however, set many ringers against 'floral' names altogether. What we want to find out is, whether the Exercise generally wants to dispense with the 'floral' names, or with the 'botanical' ones only.

Naturally, the condemnation of some names led to the criticism of names in general, and it is this that the Nomenclature Committee seem to have been appointed for. I do not mean a general change of names; but that in each class a few need consideration.

It is here that most, if not all, of our critics fall foul of our report. Both in your columns, and by word of mouth, we have frequently been told that such 'drastic' alterations are not required. When we have been able to find out to what reference was being made, in every case it appeared that it was supposed that all the old favourite names were to be discarded. When it was pointed out that not a single well-known and popular name has been scheduled for alteration in our report criticism has at once ceased.

Probably it will be decided to keep some floral names. The question is, which?

COALBROOKDALE BELLS.

A FINE RING OF TEN.

The consummation of the scheme for the restoration and augmentation of Coalbrookdale bells was reached on Saturday, April 17th, when the new trebles were dedicated by the Bishop of Hereford. The original peal was an octave (tenor 19½ cwt.), cast by C. and G. Mears in 1852. Of this ring the 3rd and 5th have been recast, and the peal harmonically tuned, the tenor being now 18 cwt. 3 qrs. 27 lbs. in the key of D. The two trebles have been added as a memorial to Lieut. Maurice A. A. Darby, son of the late Mr. A. E. W. Darby, patron of the living, who was killed in the war.

The first bell has the following inscription cast on it: 'These two treble bells were erected by public subscription in grateful remembrance of Lieut. Maurice A. A. Darby, who gave his life for King and Country in the Great War, 1914-1918.'

DEDICATION SERVICE.

The dedication service was attended by a large congregation of people from the surrounding district, including Mrs. A. E. W. Darby and Mrs. Cope Darby. The service was conducted by Preb. Crowe, and other clergy present, in addition to the Bishop of Hereford, were the Revs. R. A. Giles (Sheriffhales), A. C. Howell (Little Wenlock), E. Roberts (Iron Bridge), T. R. J. Fawkes (Dawley), H. Scott (Clun), and H. S. T. Richardson (Hopesay). The service opened with the hymn, 'We love the place, O God,' and following prayers, a psalm, and the lesson, the Bishop formally dedicated the two new bells, 'from all profane and unhallowed uses, to the glory of God, and the service of His holy Church.' After the hymn, 'Now thank we all our God,' the ten bells rang out for the first time, the set changes

COALBROOKDALE CHURCH.

The inscription on the second bell, which was chosen by Lieut. Darby's mother and sister, is:—

Who stands if Freedom fall?
Who dies if England fall?

The ten bells are hung on one level, in a heavy cast iron frame, mounted on a double tier foundation of steel girders, spanning the tower north and south and east and west, thus tying the four walls together. The bells are fitted with the latest type of ball bearings and cast iron headstocks, everything in connection with the work being of the most modern type.

To Mr. William Saunders, for thirty years the conductor at this tower, is due the carrying out of this enterprise to a successful issue. He has laboured strenuously and unobtrusively for the accomplishment of the scheme, and his part in it has been wholehearted and unselfish.

The completion of the work has been marked by the following inscription on a tablet in the tower: 'To the glory of God. The peal of eight bells in this tower was restored in 1925. The fifth bell bears the following inscription: "Recast by Mears and Stainbank 1925. Alfred E. W. Darby, Esq., J.P., D.L., Patron; Preb. C. B. Crowe, M.A., R.D., Vicar; Herbert Hughes, Frederick Johnson, Churchwardens." Also two treble bells were added in grateful remembrance of Lieut. Maurice A. A. Darby, Grenadier Guards, who fell in the Great War, 1914-1918, son of Alfred E. W. Darby, and Frederica, his wife, of Adcote and Sunnyside, in this county, grandson of Alfred Darby, donor of the eight bells. The cost, £650, was raised by public subscription. Dedicated by the Lord Bishop of Hereford, April 17th, 1926.'

In his address, the Bishop said that it was not untrue to say that Christianity had taken up and developed the use of bells as no other faith had done. In China and Japan, too, bells were used in connection with worship, but the idea of them in those countries was to attract the attention of the god. When Christianity was freed from persecution and became the religion of the Empire, bells were introduced to gather together the faithful, and from that time until now that was the main purpose of bells in Christian worship. So intimately associated were bells with Christianity that when Islam poured across Eastern Christianity Mahomet determined to dissociate himself entirely from that symbol, and he forbade the use of the bells. Different Christian nations had developed bell ringing according to their natural characteristics and idiosyncracies. In the south of Europe, on Easter eve, the bells suddenly jangled out after their Lenten silence, but in no sense of order or harmony; in Belgium there was the carillon ringing, and our English sense of order had produced the peal and chime, and change ringing, which expressed in some subtle way our national characteristic, with its love of orderliness and rhythm. His Lordship said that he wished to remind them that the ringing of bells had played a great part in our national life. In days gone by there was the market bell, the gleaming bell, the fire bell, and how often along the border countryside must the tocsin bell have rung out—the alarm bell of some raid across the Welsh border calling able-bodied men to arms to repel the invader? Then there was the vestry bell and the curfew bell, which was still rung. In a study of church

CENTRAL COUNCIL MEETING.

The following are arrangements by the Reception Committee:—
Hotels: 'Great White Horse,' bed and breakfast, 9s. 6d. (Saturday dinner to Wednesday breakfast, inclusive terms, £2). 'Crown and Anchor' (headquarters), bed and breakfast, 9s. 'Grand,' bed and breakfast, 7s. 6d. 'Queen's,' ditto, 7s. 6d. 'Victoria' Temperance, ditto, 5s. 6d. A room will be reserved for the use of members on Saturday, Sunday and Monday evenings, at the 'Crown and Anchor.' The manager of the 'Great White Horse' is reserving a separate dining-room for members, if they will ask for it (without extra charge). This is the hotel immortalised by Dickens. Mr. Pickwick's room is still shown to visitors, and also that of the Lady in Car-papers.

Peals are being arranged on the Saturday afternoon, and later. Will any who would like to be included please send word as soon as possible to Mr. C. J. Sedgely, 14, Suffolk Road, Ipswich, mentioning day and methods preferred?

It is suggested that members may like to visit Felixstowe or Norwich on the Sunday. If a party for Norwich is desired it can be arranged, if sufficient notice is given. The steamers to Felixstowe (no bells) are very pleasant, and an extension to Harwich (eight bells) can be made.

An excursion has been arranged for Monday, leaving at 10 a.m., for Stowmarket, Bury St. Edmunds (lunch can be had at the 'Angel'), Lavenham, Sudbury and Hadleigh. The bells will be available at each of these places. The motor coach will hold 30, and it will be open, as long as seats are available in it, to all members who send their names to Mr. G. E. Symonds, 28, Chevalier Street, Ipswich, to whom other inquiries should be addressed.

The Suffolk Guild invite the members of the Council to meet them at tea at the Co-operative Hall at 5 p.m., after the Council meeting: and, after tea, Mr. Chas. J. Sedgely will conduct members round some of the interesting antiquities of Ipswich.

At 8 p.m. there will be a social meeting for members of the Council, and of the Suffolk Guild, in the large room at the 'Crown and Anchor.'

Visitors from the South by road are advised to explore Gainsborough country just over the county boundary at Flatford and Dedham; they will beware of the dangerous Dedham Gun Hill, leading to the bridge by which one leaves Essex. On the other journey, they may like to go through Polstead and Stoke-by-Nayland, with their beautiful country and fine churches.

Those from the North, by a half-mile detour from the Yarmouth Road, may see Ufford Church, with its unique font-cover, and the Vale of Ufford. Sudbury is supposed to be 'Eatanswill'; though some say Ipswich and others Bury.

Members are also recommended to visit 'Christchurch Mansion' (admission free) in the park adjoining St. Margaret's Church. The bells of St. Mary-le-Tower (12), St. Margaret's (8) and St. Clement's (6) will be available on Monday.

There will be a service of the Holy Communion at St. Mary-le-Tower Church on Tuesday at 8 a.m.

accounts in ancient parishes one might almost write the history of the country from the way in which the bells were rung on every possible occasion: all through the 17th, 18th, and early 19th centuries every great event was signalised by the ringing of bells. But while bells had been used for secular and sacred purposes, and to express sorrow or rejoicing, the main purpose for which they were hung in our church towers was for the calling together of Christian people to worship God. The proverb which said that 'bell ringers call others to church, but will not enter themselves,' was false, because he was pleased to say that in that diocese those who took part in bell ringing, for the most part, joined in the worship to which they had called others. It was little less than hypocrisy for men to join in calling others to worship and then absent themselves.

Visiting ringers were present from London, Birmingham, Bradford, Derby, Wolverhampton, Bridgnorth, Southampton, and many towers in Salop and neighbouring counties, and the ringing included touches in a variety of methods, including four well-struck courses of Stedman Caters immediately after the service by P. O. Laffin 1, E. T. Allaway 2, G. Williams 3, W. Short 4, T. Salter 5, R. Matthews 6, A. A. Hughes 7, A. Padidon Smith 8, J. E. Groves (conductor) 9, W. Farley 10.

The bells are a very fine ring, and everyone was delighted with both tone and 'go.' The work of Messrs. Mears and Stainbank has been splendidly done and Coalbrookdale now possesses a peal of bells of which it may be justly proud. Many of the visitors stayed over Sunday, and good ringing was enjoyed prior to the services.

DEATH OF A SUSSEX RINGER.

THE LATE MR. WILLIAM MARKWELL'S MANY ACTIVITIES.

As already briefly reported, the Sussex County Association, and the Central Division in particular, has lost an old and valued member by the death of Mr. William Markwell, Henfield Church, and many organisations in connection with the life of this little Sussex town, will sadly feel his demise, for in many spheres he was an active and enthusiastic worker. In addition to being a ringer for many years, he had been vergar and sacristan for about eleven years. He was a member of the Communicants' Guild and of the C.E.M.S., which he had represented at various conferences. A visit to Bradford in this capacity had always been to him an interesting one, as he was able to take part in the ringing arranged for the delegates' special service. He was chairman of the Eardley Hall Memorial Institute, Lecture Master of the local lodge of the M.U. Oddfellows, and in various other ways he gave his help in the social affairs of Henfield. Early in January his health began to fail, and, despite all that could be done, he passed away on April 22nd at the age of 63 years.

He was the eldest son of Mr. James Markwell, of Wilburton, Combs, who was the captain of the Wilburton ringers for over 40 years. During that period the bells were rung by the family of Markwells, to commemorate which a tablet is being placed in Wilburton Church. In 1893 he came to Henfield to take up service with the late Canon Lowe, and it was not very long before he began to prove his worth in all matters ecclesiastical and social, and his passing will be a serious loss to the whole district.

On Sunday, April 25th, the bells at Henfield were rung muffled for the morning and evening services. For the evening service a touch of 1,008 of Stedman Triples was rung by C. Tyler 1, F. Parsons 2, E. Morey 3, F. Cruttenden 4, A. E. Baker 5, W. J. Alliss 6, G. Payne (conductor) 7, A. Hodges 8.

The funeral took place on Monday, April 26th, the service at St. Peter's Church being attended by a large congregation. The officiating clergy were the Vicar (Rev. R. J. Len) and the Rev. B. J. Boodle, M.A. The hymns chosen were 'Jesus lives' and 'Father of all.' With the singing of the Nunc Dimittis the procession, headed by the cross bearer, choir and clergy, wended its way to the cemetery, where again there was a large gathering of sympathisers. After the committal course of Stedman Triples (the deceased's favourite method) was rung on the handbells over the grave by C. Tyler, G. Payne, L. Payne and A. E. Baker.

The County Association was represented by Mr. John T. Rickman (Master), Mr. Keith Hart and Mr. Richard Stredwick.

The local hand was represented by Messrs. W. J. Alliss, S. Burt, A. Hodges, F. Parsons, E. and W. Morey, C. A. Barnes, E. Court, E. Lish and A. Trevatt.

Immediately after the funeral the visiting ringers, with Mr. Herbert Markwell (Tunbridge Wells), brother of deceased, joined the local ringers and assisted to ring muffled touches of Stedman Triples, Kent Treble Bob and Double Norwich Major.

A VISIT TO SHEFFIELD.

On Easter Monday members of the Society for the Archdeaconry of Stafford paid a visit to Sheffield to attempt to ring a peal of Stedman Cinques on the Cathedral bells. On arrival at the city station, the visitors were met by several of the Cathedral company, including Messrs. S. F. Palmer, J. Thorpe, F. Wilkey, A. Craven, P. A. Knights, and others. A delightful tram ride through the city to Norton Church, Derbyshire, was the first move, where a handy and musical ring of eight were soon turning over to the tune of Stedman Triples. Time did not permit of a long stay, and steps were turned towards the Angel Hotel, where a hot lunch was provided, through the kindness of the Rev. D. T. Sykes, M.A. (a former curate at St. Giles' Church, Willenhall). Mr. S. F. Palmer presided, and, in the name of the reverend gentleman (who was unavoidably absent) and the Cathedral company, gave the visitors a hearty welcome. At 2.30 the Cathedral bells—a noble ring of twelve—were set going to Stedman Cinques. Some good tapping was obtained up to the turning course, which alas! did not finish as it should have done. The hand stood thus: S. Elton 1, W. Biggin 2, H. Knight (conductor) 3, J. Perry 4, C. Wallater 5, A. J. Hughes 6, A. Craven 7, T. J. Elton 8, E. F. Mitchell 9, S. F. Palmer 10, P. A. Knights 11, J. Thorpe 12. A course of Cambridge Surprise Major was rung on the back eight as a wind-up for the day's tower bell ringing. Tea, at the Angel Hotel, was the next item, after which a pleasant evening was spent at the Museum Hotel, where handbells were brought into use.

Sincere thanks are tendered to the Dean and Chapter for the use of the bells, to the Rev. D. T. Sykes for his hospitality, and the Cathedral company (especially Mr. S. F. Palmer, who made all necessary arrangements) for their entertainment.

LINCOLN DIOCESAN GUILD.*PROGRESS OF THE CATHEDRAL BELLS FUND.

The annual meeting was held at Lincoln on Saturday, April 24th. Favoured by fine weather, quite a goodly number of members put in an appearance, although ringing facilities in the city were again confined (as last year) to the two six-bell towers of St. Peter-at-Gowt's and St. Botolph's. Through the kind offices of the Dean, who also gave the address, a special service was held in the Ringers' Chapel at the cathedral. This small chapel, on the walls of which are records, carefully restored, of the companies of ringers attached to the cathedral during the 17th century, was filled to overflowing with present-day ringers, who listened with the deepest interest to a short account of the history of this ancient portion of the cathedral, given by the Dean as the subject of his address.—A collection was made for the Cathedral Bells Memorial Fund.

After service, a move was made to the Co-operative Hall, Silver Street, where about a hundred members and friends sat down to tea, including both the Bishop and the Dean of Lincoln, patron and president of the Guild respectively.

The Bishop of Lincoln presided at the business meeting, supported on the platform by the Very Rev. the Dean, the Rev. H. Law James (Master) and Mr. F. F. Linley (vice-president and treasurer). All the officers were re-elected, as follows:—President, the Very Rev. the Dean of Lincoln; Master, the Rev. H. Law James; hon. secretary, Mr. F. W. Stokes, hon. treasurer, Mr. F. F. Linley.

In proposing the re-election of the Dean as president, Mr. F. F. Linley offered to him the hearty congratulations of the Guild on his (the Dean's) 80th birthday a week earlier.—In replying, the Dean thanked the ringers for their good wishes, and especially those of them who had taken part in the peal of Stedman Triples rung at Washington on the previous Saturday in honour of the event.

Mr. C. W. P. Clifton, speaking on the Cathedral Memorial Bells Fund, said that, although he had been very pleased to see so many at the service, yet many more were present at tea than had been able to get up to the cathedral. He proposed that a collection be made in the room to enable those who had not been present at the service to contribute to the fund.—This was unanimously agreed to, and resulted in the welcome addition of £3 2s. 8d.—The Treasurer (Mr. Linley) stated that the collection at the service amounted to £3 10s. 7d., including a contribution sent by a member who was not able to be present, and thus a total of £6 13s. 3d. had been added during the day, leaving a balance of about £84 still required. He urged the Guild to make still further efforts during the year to complete this amount, so that the order for the new bells could be put in hand, and the full peal of twelve ready by the time the restoration of the cathedral was finished.

In closing the meeting, the Bishop of Lincoln said he was very sorry that the two eight-bell towers in the city were still closed for ringing. The position as to St. Peter-at-Archies' was very uncertain, as it was quite possible the church would be demolished in the near future, to make way for street improvements.—To this the Dean added that the reopening of the cathedral tower depended solely on the amount of work required to be done to complete the restoration of this tower. This could not be ascertained until the scaffolding was erected, but that would be commenced very shortly.

A very hearty vote of thanks was passed to the Bishop for presiding, to the Dean for arranging the service, and for his address, and to the incumbents of St. Peter-at-Gowt's, St. Botolph's and St. John's, Washington, for kindly placing their bells at the disposal of the Guild during the afternoon and evening.

DEVON GUILD'S PROGRESS.

In the annual report of the Devon Guild it is stated that 1925 was again a period of steady advance by the Guild, not so much in extension of its influence as in making good on existing ground. A total of 61 certificates were issued to performing members who had qualified. This showed that the system of organised instruction is having good results, and the branch reports fully bear this out. Four new hands joined during the year, making a total of 56, and there was evidence of great activity towards a higher and more conscientious standard. The peals rung comprised two of Grandsire Cutlers, seven of Grandsire Triples, three of Stedman Triples, and one of Kent Treble Bob Major, this latter being the first by a local hand for sixteen years.

WEDDING BELLS.

On Thursday, April 22nd, the bells of Conisborough Parish Church were rung on the occasion of the marriage of Miss Ruth E. Strawbridge (elder daughter of the Rev. W. A. Strawbridge, Vicar of Conisborough, and of Mrs. Strawbridge), and Mr. D. F. St. Ledger Gordon, of Sticklepath, Devon. In the evening, the bells were again rung, and a half-peal of Minor was brought round in 1 hr. and 27 minutes. It consisted of 720 Bob Minor and 1,800 Kent Treble Bob Minor: R. Sarsby 1, M. C. Fowler 2, O. Greathead 3, A. W. Gledstone 4, P. Gledstone 5, H. Walker (conductor) 6.

SIMPSON-TUNING.SUGGESTIONS FOR AN IDEAL RING.To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I have read with interest the letters in your columns on the 'Five-tone Principle' of tuning bells, and am sorry that I shall miss the discussion of that question at the Central Council's meeting this year, which promises to be thoroughly engrossing. For my own part, I agree that the new system fairly well ensures a musical peal, but I do not think that the last word in this matter has by any means been said. Probably most of the founders will admit that further progress may yet be made towards perfection.

One criticism frequently made on bells so tuned always surprises me. Ringers are often heard to say that in 'Simpson-tuned' bells they hear too much of the overtones. My complaint is that they are heard too little. To my ear the triplicated octave so dominates the other harmonics that the third is not heard clearly enough. It has always seemed to me, from my earliest boyhood, that a strong, true third is the very making of bell music. The ideal bell will need to have this defect remedied.

Then again in actual practice the result of five-tone tuning appears to me much more satisfactory in large than in small bells. I have heard some magnificent heavy bells tuned on this principle, also some very musical middle-weight peals, but, of the light bells that I have heard, those tuned on old-fashioned lines sound decidedly the most pleasing. And for some reason, doubtless well known to the bell founders, five-tone tuning appears to produce disproportionately light triples.

Moreover, the whole question of correct harmonics may yet call for much further exploration. The system at present in favour is to produce three octaves with a Minor third and a Major fifth. Now, in the case of the great carillon for New York it was observed that tunos in a Minor key could be played with more satisfactory effect than those in the Major. The reason appears obvious. When a bell automatically sounds the Minor third of its keynotes, that overtone will clash with the Major third of the same note. Thus, if the carillonneur strike the chord of C major, with E natural as its third, the bell in C sounding the tonic of the chord inevitably sounds also E flat, which jars against the E natural.

But we as ringers are more concerned with the effect of harmonics in the case of bells rung in peal, where only one bell sounds at a time; yet the tones necessarily blend. The question may well be raised, whether even in the overtones any note should be introduced, which is foreign to the key, in which the bells are cast. Thus it may be that the ideal ring of bells in the natural key would not produce any sharps or flats. In an octave tuned on such a system, the treble, tenor, 4th and 5th would be tuned to the Major 3rd and 5th, the 3rd, 6th and 7th to the Minor third and Major fifth, the second alone to the Minor 3rd and Minor 5th. This suggestion may at least afford material for thought and discussion.

Let me conclude with all good wishes to your editorial self and all ringing friends in the British Isles.—Yours truly,

Cyprus, 21st April, 1926.

F. LI. EDWARDS.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.*PRESENTATION TO LATE CHAIRMAN OF READING BRANCH.

The first quarterly meeting of the Reading branch of the Oxford Diocesan Guild was held at Mortimer on Saturday, April 24th. The bells of both towers, St. Mary's and St. John's, were kept merrily going during the afternoon, and the service at St. John's was well attended, the preacher being the Vicar (the Rev. Beckwith), who gave a very appropriate address on St. Mary's bells, and mentioned records dating back to 1700.

Tea was served to a company of 48 at St. John's Hall: when all were seated, Mr. E. J. Foster, on behalf of the Reading branch, presented Mr. W. Pole Routh (late chairman of the branch) with a handsome pair of silver candlesticks, in recognition of the 15 years' service he had given as chairman of the branch.—Mr. W. Pole Routh was rather unprepared for this pleasing incident, and in acknowledging the gift said it was a great pleasure to have been chairman of the branch. He mentioned that it was the first occasion on which he had ever had a presentation made to him.

Full justice was done to the excellent tea, which was provided by much hard work on the part of Mr. H. Punter, who had collected the catables from various residents at Mortimer.

Mr. A. D. Cullum proposed, and Mr. H. Goodyer seconded, a vote of thanks to the Vicar for the beautiful service and for the use of the bells, and this was carried with acclamation.

Good touches of Stedman, etc., were then rung at both towers, until about 9 p.m. everyone agreeing it had been a very successful meeting.

WARMINSTER WILTS.—On Saturday, April 17th, at the Minster Church of St. Denys, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples (1,260 changes), in 53 minutes: Reg. Webb (first quarter-peal) 1 E. F. White 2, Jas. Gard 3, F. Precey 4, F. Ashworth 5, T. Holloway 6, W. E. Fletcher (conductor) 7, Ed. Marlow 8.

DEATH OF A COLESHILL RINGER.*THE LATE MR. FREDERICK CLAYTON'S WORK.

A gloom was cast over the Colehill district on Saturday, April 24th, by the sudden death of Mr. Frederick Clayton at the age of 54 years. A native of Worlingworth, Suffolk, he came to King's Norton, Birmingham, about the year 1896, at which place he became a prominent member of the local band, ringing in numerous peals for St. Martin's Guild, Birmingham. He went to reside at Colehill about 20 years ago, and there held the position of honorary instructor to the local band on a peal of six bells. He formed several bands of ringers from absolutely raw material, as nothing but call changes had been attempted previous to his coming. His keenness in ringing matters was unbounded. He was one of those rare ringers, who was never known to arrive late at the tower. He was a stickler for men under his charge becoming members of the Warwickshire Guild and regular readers of 'The Ringing World.' His agitations for two trebles to make up a peal of eight were unceasing, and, through the generosity of the churchwarden (Mr. A. Piffeld), his desire was gratified on January 1st, 1924, when the trebles were installed. He set about the task of forming an eight-bell band with his usual vigour, from men who had never rung on a peal of eight. He now leaves a company capable of ringing Bob, Grandsire, St. Dunstan, Canterbury and Stedman Triples and Bob Major.

Besides being connected with the ringing, Mr. Clayton took a large part in founding and developing the Colehill Town Brass Band.

The funeral took place at Colehill Parish Church on April 26th. The Archdeacon of Aston (Vicar of Colehill) officiated. The Colehill Town Band played Chopin's Funeral March on the way to the church. The bearers were six of the local ringers. The service in church was most impressive. The hymn 'On the Resurrection Morning' was rung, and the coffin was carried from the church to its last resting-place to the strains of 'The Dead March' in Saul, feelingly rendered by the organist (Mr. Sinclair Davey).

At the graveside the hymn 'Peace, Perfect Peace' was sung, accompanied by the Colehill Town Band.

Among the ringers present was Mr. B. W. Witchell, district secretary of the Warwickshire Guild, who was a friend of the late ringer for over 30 years. During the evening muffled touches were rung on Colehill bells.

NEW PEAL AT PENSNETT.

A new peal of eight bells was opened on Saturday, April 24th, at St. Mark's, Pensnett, the bells having been erected to the memory of Mr. Fred E. Griffiths, J.P., C.C., a well-known and very philanthropic gentleman who resided in the above village.

The bells have been made by the well-known founders, Messrs. Charles Carr, Ltd., Woodland Works, Grove Lane, Smethwick. It is very satisfactory to note that under new management the company maintained their reputation in executing the work, which has been carried out under the supervision of the new managing director, Mr. D. Meese. The architects were Messrs. Webb and Gray, Dudley.

The dedication was performed by the Archdeacon of Stafford, assisted by the Rev. Norman Edwards, M.A., Vicar of Pensnett, in the presence of a large and distinguished congregation. Amongst the ringers who opened the bells was Mr. T. Miller, of St. Martin's Guild, Birmingham.

The company have a further contract for rehunging the peal of bells at Wordsley Church, which were rehung by them in 1892.

A COMING-OF-AGE TOUCH.

At Acton, Middlesex, on Wednesday, April 7th, a quarter-peal of Cambridge Surprise Major (1,280 changes): Robt. Fardon 1, Miss R. G. Hawksworth (first in the method) 2, G. M. Kilby 3, H. Kilby 4, F. W. Goodfellow 5, C. V. Ebberson 6, F. Skevington 7, A. W. Coles (conductor) 8. Rung in honour of the 'coming-of-age' of Mr. F. W. Goodfellow, to whom the best wishes of the band were extended. The touch was accomplished subsequent to the unfortunate failure of a peal.

A YOUTHFUL BAND.

At St. Mary and All Saints' Church, Whalley, Lancashire, a band, including five youths of less than 19 years of age, rang their first six-bell extent on April 21st, a 720 Bob Minor being brought round by H. Hargreaves 1, B. Potts 2, T. Jackson (Exton) 3, H. J. Hoyle (conductor) 5, W. Proctor 6.

EYNESBURY HUNTS. — On Monday, April 19th, at the Parish Church, 720 Cambridge Surprise: S. W. Hawkford 1, Miss C. Fields 2, S. J. Coleman 3, F. S. Bayley 4, G. D. Coleman (conductor) 5, H. Fields 6.

SIMPSON-TUNING.A STAFFORD EXPERIENCE.To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I think Mr. Keeble's letter is getting nearer the real source of trouble than any other. The experience we had at Stafford might be of interest to your readers. Owing to a few of the loud-speaking gentry objecting to new ideas, we had to be content with our bells tuned on the old principle and rebung. When the bells were taken out, the double floor with air-space between was removed, and a 2½-inch plank used in its place; the result was that calls could not be heard across the heltry in an ordinary voice, and there were general complaints about the howl of the bells inside and out. I mentioned this to the founder, and he suggested cutting off the clapper buffer, which was the cause. However, it was decided to put in a second floor, which entirely did away with the howl, and the clapper buffers are in use to-day.

Personally, I have always been convinced that, provided bells are properly founded, the chief trouble is in the tower. In the early days of 'The Ringing World' I suggested that all towers should work on the principle of the Venetian blind, so that during ringing they should point upwards, as I believe these to be the real conductors of sound. Ringers who have not yet done so should attend a lantern lecture on sound. They would be well repaid by doing so, and I am sure they would come away convinced that sound could be properly conducted.—
Yours truly,
J. J. TAYLOR.

DUNMOW BELLS RESTORED.*TWO TREBLES SHORTLY TO BE ADDED.

The restored ring of six bells in Dunmow Parish Church, Essex, were dedicated and reopened in the presence of a large congregation at a special service on Sunday, April 18th. The work, which has been carried out by Messrs. Taylor and Co., of Loughborough, included recasting three of the bells, the retuning of the rest, and the re-hunging of the whole on ball bearings in a new steel frame. The cost of the work exceeded £700, all of which has been raised, and a sum of £50 is in hand towards adding two more bells at a cost of about £150 to complete the octave. A very generous response had been made to an appeal for subscriptions to the bell fund, some of the neighbouring villages contributing, for the sound of Dunmow bells had long been a welcome feature of the countryside, and a house-to-house collection in Dunmow yielded £68.

In the large congregation at the dedication were over 70 ringers from all parts of Essex, and some from beyond the county. The Rev. W. J. House, D.D., Vicar, who had taken a great interest in the restoration of the bells, officiated. The Rev. G. A. Campbell, Witham, gave the address (in the absence of the Bishop of Colchester owing to ill-health), and the Rev. J. Evans, Colchester, a former vicar of Dunmow, dedicated the bells in the ringing chamber. A few rounds were then rung on the bells by the Dunmow band, conducted by Mr. H. Smith. Immediately after the service the first touch was rung, being 240 Kent Treble Bob Minor, conducted by Mr. C. H. Howard, Master of the Essex Association. Subsequently the visiting ringers took part in ringing the bells. Col. T. Gibbons, D.S.O., J.P., was hon. treasurer to the bell fund. The work was carried out by Messrs. Taylor and Co., Loughborough, the bells are hung with ball bearings, and the tone and 'go' were the admiration of all who rang and heard them. The visiting ringers who took part included Mr. C. H. Howard, Master, and Mr. F. J. Pitslow, secretary Essex Association; Mr. C. T. Coles, secretary, Middlesex County Association; Mr. W. J. Nevard, Master, North-Eastern Division, Essex; Mr. E. J. Butler, secretary, South-Western Division; Mr. F. Clayton, Master, Northern Division; Messrs. W. and G. R. Pve, Romford; W. Keeble, FeCering; W. Elliott, Kelvedon; and H. E. Hammond and L. W. Wiffen, Braintree.

The collection for the Bells Fund, including a contribution of £2 1s. 2d. from the ringers, amounted to £17. Among the contributors were the local band, who gave £10, and put in a new floor, thus saving the Parish Church Council over £30. It is hoped the two trebles will be added before the end of the year. During the afternoon and evening, touches of Cambridge Surprise, Treble Bob, and various other methods, were rung. The work of restoration of the bells reflects great credit on the famous Loughborough firm.

When the octave is completed, Dunmow bells, with a tenor 21 cwt. 1 or 16 lb. in E natural, will rank among the most melodious in the Eastern Counties.

A DATE TOUCH.

On Tuesday, April 13th, at Kendal Parish Church, Cumberland, a date touch of Minor (1,926 changes), consisting of 436 and 720 Plain Bob and 720 Canterbury Pleasure, was rung in 1 hour 10 minutes: I. R. Todd 1, W. Aitkinson 2, W. Pichall 3, T. Haslam 4, T. J. Clement 5, E. Jennings (conductor) 6. This is the longest touch of Minor yet rung on the bells, which are 110 years old.

ST. WERBURGH'S 'GEESE.'

St. Werburgh's day again arrives:
Her Geese to Ipswich Town she drives.

Autolycus.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I know I am quite safe from being 'extincted,' though I may suffer from redundancy, as they don't use the battleaxe in Ipswich. In Rotherham they use the 'Cross Daggers,' in Blackburn they use the 'Cross Axes,' but in Ipswich they use the Halberd: an ancient and honourable, though clumsy weapon; but, as used in Ipswich, a very delightful one, and I have passed some pleasant hours in the use of it. So the Halberd for mine, sir, every time; such a fine old English tone about it, peopled as it is by ye shades of Motts and Prentice and Catchpole, not forgetting dear old Harry Howell, who said so little and thought so much and rang so well. To sit and commune with shades like theirs is a treat which amply repays any good ringer for his trouble in journeying to Ipswich Town. That's the place to get a five-toned 'thurst' adjusted. And you but give Simon the Cellarer of the Halberd the job, by the time your five tones are in harmony, corrected with all the world, you won't have a grumble left for the flat seventh, nor e'en a care, 'at peace with all the world' will be your slogan. So just call in there on your way to the meeting, my merry disciples of Saint Werburgh and St. Maturin; 't will save you much breath. Ah, yes—I know what it means now: Ye Ancient Halberd, Ipswich Town, a Council Meeting—what a combination! Could Gray but have known how apt an illustration of 'far from the madding crowd,' this year to sit in ye Halberd in sweet commune, what time ye Council sits elsewhere in solemn conclave. Yes, take them away, good Saint Werburgh, Shepherd them to their seats, to split hairs (and infinitives) over their paltry 'names for methods,' and, good Saint Werburgh, please ask your flock to tell me, is it the names we ring, or only the methods? I begin to have my doubts as to whether or not my ringing has been properly learnt, but there, ye shade of good Harry Howell consoles me with the information that those who are clever enough to tell us whether or not a method is correctly named will surely put my mind at rest on so small a matter.

But, what say you, good sir? let's form a committee to decide the matter, and sit, perforce, in Ye Halberd. And, by the way, perhaps good Oliver Cromwell (who represents Brum) will point out to those interested that 'The Press' never have ridiculed our names for methods. What the press has done—say, is still doing—is to expose its own ignorance and bumptious conceit. 'The Press' thinks, that, being ringers, we must perforce be illiterate, and that, when we publish 5040 of Grandsire Triples or Bob Major, we have omitted, through our lack of education, to make the matter plural. So they, of their benevolence, thinking to do us a kindness, supply the s. I recently had the pleasure of pointing out to a pressman that Major and Grandsire, like press and sheep, were both singular and plural, and that, though I knew the difference between Major and Grandsire (as defined by the Central Council), I had not as yet discovered the difference between press and sheep. I should like good Oliver to demand a Roland — let our committee give us a real example of 'press ridicule' of our method names, and when he gets it, he can tell them to 'Take that Bauble away.' The press but emphasise the fact that a little knowledge is a dangerous thing, making themselves look very silly in the eyes of all good ringers, for, after all, 't is us who get the best laugh when we read their paltry piffle. Though, of course, if one must be thin skinned enough to take every shaft to heart you can see a bogey behind every tree, and it always is the man of least import who fancies that the world has little else to do but gibe at his vain carcase.

Yes, good Dame Werburgh, marshal them to their nests, don't spare your switch, parade the dear old Simpson-cum-Carillon bogey for their delectation; won't they just straighten their necks and preen their feathers over such a momentous question.

But really, sir, there is no need for the dear things to moult a single feather, as Simpson-tuning sings its own requiem. After about three decades the champion of all the 'so-called' Simpson Howlers will have howled his last despairing howl, and be relegated to the category of things 'as used ter be'—the limbo of all good dye pans. So why let your flock be turned into disgruntled dyspeptics over such puffing fads, such theist's whims? They'll fatten far better on 'register of compositions grass,' some good, some green and some luscious.

And as to carillons—well, a light ring of six is the best—that the majority of country parishes can afford: a carillon, such as that at Loughborough, is only within the reach of very few towns, and the pitiful struggles of the gravedigger, who tried to delight the rustics with his version of 'The Tales of Hoffman,' would soon put the average parishioner off his church going for a spell. And could one imagine a 'Bristol Surprise Ringer' trying airily with St. Botolph's carillon and broad-casting 'The Pilgrim's Song' down Bishopsgate the morning after—well, 'the night before.' I know him, sir, and I think not. No, we Brits, so heastly insular, of such phlegmatic temperaments, like a bit of vim behind our call to worship (and some require dynamite,

I regret to say). Not, as one writer put it, 'the plaintive strains of the carillon stealing at twilight o'er the meads of the low countries.' That wouldn't suit a rugged land (of 'ruggeded' ringers) like ours.

But the most powerful nail in the carillon coffin is the fact that real change ringing makes work for the founders, at any rate in this country, and they know full well that there is good money made out of recasting and rehanging rings of bells that have been well handled by good change ringers; they know that as soon as they fill our towers with carillons the plums of their trade are all pulled. Who ever heard of carillons wanting rehanging even once in a century? So put your flock to sleep, good Saint Werburgh, tuck them warmly into their basket, to invent in their dreams a few fresh bogies for next year's seance, and tell them—

We've shooed away that Simpson howl;
The Carillon Spectre's dropped his cowl,
We've shelved that nomenclature mess;
So kiss them all ' Good-night: God bless'—

SAMIWELL.

SOCIETY FOR THE ARCHDEACONRY OF STAFFORD.

A quarterly meeting was held at Stafford on April 17th, attended by a fairly good muster of members. A short service was conducted by the Rev. I. O. Johnson, who also gave an address. He apologised for the absence of the Rector (the Rev. Lionel Lambert), but in his name he welcomed his hearers to the county town.

Tea was provided at the Gresham Restaurant, after which the question was raised with regard to a memorial to the late William Rock Small. It was explained that the window which is to be put in St. Martin's Church, Tipton, and unveiled on Saturday, May 22nd, is to be done by the family of the late veteran. A suggestion was made that a brass tablet might be erected by subscription from the members of the society, and it was eventually decided to leave the question open till the annual meeting, which is provisionally arranged to take place at Lichfield on June 19th.

The bells were made good use of during the afternoon and evening, and touches of Grandsire Triples and Caters, Stedman Triples and Caters, Bob Major and Royal, etc., were brought home. A course of Cambridge Surprise Major unfortunately came to grief, when nearly home, through indisposition of one of the band.

MR. JOHN CARTER'S 72ND BIRTHDAY.

On Friday, April 30th, Mr. John Carter, the well-known ringer and composer, reached his 72nd birthday, and in honour of the event, a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples (1,280 changes, composed by Mr. Carter) was rung at St. Clement Danes', Church, Strand, by F. G. Newman 1, Miss F. E. Orr 2, Miss E. E. Hardcastle 3, Miss E. E. Chapman 4, C.S.M. J. Bennett 5, J. C. Doel 6, C. W. Roberts (conductor) 7, E. A. Young 8.

Mr. Young very kindly conveyed the best wishes of the band to Mr. Carter, who is lying seriously ill at his house at Honor Oak Park. The band desire to thank Messrs. F. W. H. Sergison, F. G. Symonds and E. F. Pike, who came to avoid meeting short, but did not ring.

Mr. Carter received callers and letters, including one from the College Youths.

MR. WALTER PRIME'S GOLDEN WEDDING.

One of the best known and most respected of London ringers, Mr. Walter Prime has just celebrated his golden wedding. Mr. Prime has had a long association with the College Youths (of which he is one of the trustees) and St. Paul's Cathedral, where he has rung the tenor to a peal single-handed.

In celebration of Mr. and Mrs. Prime's wedding jubilee a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples was rung at St. Andrew's Church, Holborn, for evening service on Sunday, April 25th: J. Bullock (conductor) 1, C. Choout 2, W. J. Norton 3, R. Green 4, A. E. Darvell 5, E. C. Russell 6, E. Brett 7, J. S. Hawkins 8.

RAILWAYMEN'S PEALS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I notice in 'The Ringing World' of April 30th, a peal of Double Norwich Major rung at Chippenham, Wilts. and published, 'believed to be the first peal of Double Norwich by a band of railwaymen.' I would point out that eight members of the Chester Diocesan Guild, all of whom were railwaymen employed by the old L. and N.W. Railway, rang a peal of Double Norwich at Tarnorley, Cheshire, on June 11th, 1921.—Yours truly, J. H. RIDING.

THE IPSWICH GATHERING.

In the event of the railway service returning to normal by Monday next, the arrangements for the Central Council meeting at Ipswich on Whitsun Tuesday will stand.

MANCHESTER RINGER'S DEATH.

The death occurred, on Monday, April 5th, at the Manchester Royal Infirmary, of Mr. William Hy. Cooper, after only a very brief illness. Deceased, who was 54 years of age, had been a member of the choir for many years, and a regular ringer for 25 years or more at St. John's Church, Dean's Gate. He was always considered a safe man and a good striker. He had rung in some 33 peals, including Grandsire Triples and Caters, Stedman Triples and Caters, Bob Major, Kent Treble Bob Major and Royal.

The interment took place at the Southern Cemetery on Thursday, April 8th, when the mortal remains were borne to the grave by members of the R.A.O.B., of which he was a member.

Among those present at the graveside were ringers and their wives, representing the following towers: St. John's, Town Hall, St. Thomas', Pendleion; the Sacred Trinity, Salford; and Christ Church, West Didsbury.

INFORMATION WANTED.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I am giving a lecture on June 19th on 'Bells and Bell Ringers,' and would be pleased to receive any interesting information from any ringer or association secretary as to notable peals, historical or curious events, ladies' guilds and branches, and the number of members, humorous events, curious inscriptions or epitaphs, etc.—

Yours truly,
WM. REYNER.

THE NORFOLK GUILD.

The annual report of the Norfolk Guild for 1925 is hardly encouraging reading, for it chronicles a 'stationary' position, with a reduction in membership, a slight financial loss on the year, and a considerable drop in the number of peals rung. Compared with the report of 1924, there appears to be a net loss of 49 performing members resident in the county. It is true that if non-resident and other life members be included the figures show a reduction of only 30—that is serious enough—but it is disturbing to find that from one reason or another fifty ringers within the borders of the county have been lost to the Guild in 12 months. Taken in conjunction with the reduction of 25 peals, it looks as if there is a waning interest, and this is emphasised by the fact that, although the Guild is divided into about a dozen districts, only two district meetings were held during the year. It is not surprising, therefore, that the report draws the attention of district secretaries and members to this lack of activity, and commends the matter to their earnest attention.

Apparently the organisation needs overhauling. Districts are of no use unless they are made centres of activity, and secretaries who are merely officials in name are equally unnecessary. It may be that those who occupy these positions in the Norfolk Guild are awaiting a lead in the matter of bringing their members together in district meetings; if so, they have that lead in the appeal made to them in the report. There is, among ringers, far too much of that spirit which leaves things to others, and an association does not fulfil its proper functions if it neglects to provide opportunities for the meeting of its members. It is obvious that three general meetings a year for an association of the size of the Norfolk Guild can in no way be said to be adequate, and it is little wonder that the report regrets that in 1925 they were all very poorly attended. The fault may not be all with the district secretaries, and perhaps their hands would be strengthened if the rules of the Guild were made to provide for, say, two meetings in each district per annum. So far as the rules are at present framed, they do not even recognise the existence of districts, except to say that district secretaries shall be members of the general committee, and it would materially strengthen the position if periodical district meetings were also provided for by rule. It is recognised by all associations who have divided into districts that by far the best method of creating and maintaining interest is the holding of frequent district meetings, and what has proved successful elsewhere would doubtless prove of equal value in Norfolk in reviving a flagging interest and renewing that vigorous support for which the annual report makes an urgent appeal.

THE CRITICISMS OF CRITICUS.

'THE RINGING WORLD' IS MISSED.—THE CENTRAL COUNCIL AND NOMENCLATURE. — A WORD ON SIMPSON TUNING.

There were several things about the Strike that I didn't like from the selfish point of view. I didn't like walking to business instead of jumping on my customary bus; I didn't like it when my wife told me one day that she had not been able to get any butter and that I must eat margarine. And there were other minor things I didn't like, but the thing I liked least of all was the absence of my morning and evening newspapers, and when 'The Ringing World' failed to appear it was really a black Friday for me. For I don't know how many years, this faithful friend had never failed me on Friday morning. It came as regularly as breakfast that day, but twice now it has absented itself at the appointed hour, and I feel lost. But perhaps this hold-up of the ringers' own weekly may serve one good purpose—it may help to impress upon the unthinking something of the outlook for the Exercise if it had no newspaper to further its interests and keep us all in touch with the doings of the rest of the fraternity throughout the world. For instance, no one knew whether Saturday's meetings were on or off; whether any peals had been rung or not; nor even whether the Guilds had 'called out' their members at the behest of the T.U.C., or whether we were to remain 'in' when it came to a question of discharging public services. Failing official instructions, our little band stuck to their job, so that it was unnecessary to call in volunteers. In that way we may even have saved life, for volunteers might have hanged themselves had they tried to handle the ropes—thus may we consider ourselves heroes!

But, what is to happen to the Central Council? We are all waiting anxiously to know whether the august assembly is to meet at Whitsun, and, without our journal, how are we to hear? I am penning these lines in the hope that 'The Ringing World' will again see the light in a few days, and that our Parliament will be able to sit in dignified session at Ipswich. At the time of writing we have not seen the agenda, and we can only guess at a few of the things they are going to talk about. Anyhow, there are in two of the subjects more than enough to fill out the available time unless the President lays down a time limit for the speakers. Nomenclature and Simpson tuning are enough in themselves to fill the bill. But, on second thoughts, why need they waste a lot of time to the exclusion of other business? Both these subjects have been long under discussion in the Exercise. Every member has, therefore, had time to consider his views, and, one may hope, to make up his mind. Therefore, why make a lot of unnecessary speeches? Here is a hint to the members to save boring one another. If everyone has to make a speech in the hope of converting the opposition to his views, the stay in Ipswich will have to be extended to a week. This might be very nice for the members, but what would those associations say who have to pay the expenses? But don't let me say anything that will seem like putting a wet blanket on the 'show.' We may look for a lively debate on both these topics, and if we were robbed of it we, who have to be content with reading the reports, will lose a great deal of entertainment if not of enlightenment.

Nomenclature is a very thorny subject. Some people object to the change, merely because it is change; 'What was good enough for father and grandfather is good enough for me,' is the attitude of not a few ringers. Others find a ground of legitimate objection to certain of the suggested alterations, and these are the obstacles which the committee will have to be prepared to meet. What the majority of ringers quarrel with is not the fact that curious and inappropriate names have come down to us from past generations, but that a committee of the Council should have endeavoured to extend and perpetuate them. Our forefathers had their funny little ways, just as we have ours, and if Mr. Woodcock liked to call a method his 'Delight' it is no worse than Mr. John Carter calling a method his 'Principle.' If someone rang the first 720 of a new method on Trinity Sunday, and liked to commemorate it by calling it by that name, we need not quarrel much about it, but why go round the garden looking for names which, while quite charming in their own setting, are really entirely out of place in their application to ringing matters? If the committee cannot get all their proposed changes through, they should concentrate on amending the absurd category of names which have been bestowed upon some of the methods which were unnamed until the Peals Analysis Committee got down to the job. Ringers in these days don't want more ridiculous names added to their vocabulary, but it must not be overlooked that, if the principle of permitting ringers to name the methods which they first ring is admitted, it will be difficult now to change some of those which the Analysis Committee found for those in the Minor Collection, because they have since been rung and the ringers claimed the titles. But there's going to be a fight over these names, if I read the signs aright, and I am looking forward to perusing the debates, as I am sure thousands of others are.

And then there will be the Simpson tuning debate. Those who have a liking for the old methods of tuning will doubtless fight for the principle to the last ditch, but I don't think they will really be able to stem the progress in the art of tuning—I am not sure whether it is right to use the word 'progress,' it is probably the Irishman's backward progress, for is not Simpson tuning older than change ringing itself? The Dutchmen, or whatever they were called, practised it under another name three hundred years ago. Perhaps we have not yet reached the stage of perfection in bell tuning, but this every open-minded ringer must, I think, admit, that peals of bells tuned harmonically are infinitely superior to those tuned on the old happy-go-lucky methods. We talk of some of the fine old bells which are left to us—they are usually to be found singly and seldom in complete rings—but do they not possess their fine qualities largely because by a happy chance they come very near to a harmonically-tuned bell? One thing is quite certain, however, that to get the best out of Simpson tuned bells, they need to be rung slowly. The anxiety on the part of some ringers to ring quick peals must be curbed on Simpson tuned bells if the best is to be got out of the ringing. Simpson-tuned bells rung fast are the cause of that jangle of sound, and probably the howling of which we hear so much complaint. And that being the case, why do not the founders hang the bells right out, instead of tucking them up in the stocks, and add slightly larger wheels? This would help to slow down the pace of those who are out for the quickest peal ever. But, for the Central Council to think of condemning modern tuning — well, it is likely to be as effective as the old lady's broom when she endeavoured to keep the sea back with it. The endeavour to preserve the fine old peal at Coventry was of course entirely another matter. The effort there was highly commendable, because here was a ring of bells of exceptional quality condemned to the melting-pot to make way for a chime, and the justification of the Council's action is to be found in the fact that the scheme was eventually amended so that ten of them can be utilised as a ringing peal if and when a suitable tower is provided. That is hardly likely in our time, but to have gained so much is all to the good, and, what is more, the Exercise owes a great deal to the efforts of Mr. C. F. Johnston in his long endeavour to have the new bells hung for ringing. Whatever views the Exercise held, they now know that the founders went to unusual lengths to secure a ringable peal for Coventry, and the compromise is something at least to be thankful for.

CRITICUS.

SENSATIONAL BELFRY TRAGEDY!

Simpson-tuning, writes 'I. P.,' is alone responsible for a shocking accident which happened in the bellchamber of St. Mary's, Ilkeston, recently. While a party of visitors, interested in Simpson-tuning, were inspecting this noble peal—which were in the inverted position—the sexton, unaware of anyone being above, pulled off the tenor bell. The dramatic event was followed by heartrending and terrible screams. The spectators were horrified to see the monster swing round, tearing away at one fell sweep a right arm and left leg completely from the body. The latter was in turn hurled with great violence to and fro against the solid masonry of the tower, with sickening thud.

The sexton, hearing the panic-stricken cries, with superhuman effort, brought the bell to a standstill. With alacrity the terrified visitors, trembling in every limb, struggled to the rescue, across the massive framework. Reverently, with tender care, they lifted from the bottom of the bell pit all that remained of the torn and dismembered body of the steeplekeeper's overalls!

SALISBURY GUILD SECRETARY IN THE EAST

The Rev. F. Llewellyn Edwards, during March, paid a visit to Jerusalem, where he had the privilege of taking an official part in a historic service. Near the Church of the Holy Sepulchre is an old church long disused, and now underground, with another built over it. It is said to date from the eighth century, or earlier, and to have been used by the Knights of St. John at the time of the Crusades. On the occasion of the recent pilgrimage of that Order to the Holy City this ancient building was again furnished for divine worship, and at the invitation of the Bishop of Jerusalem, who celebrated the Holy Communion, in the presence of Lord Plumer and a large attendance of knights and ladies, Mr. Edwards took part in the first service held there for some seven centuries.

The Archbishop of the ancient Church of Cyprus, founded by St. Paul and St. Barnabas, has accepted from Mr. Edwards a short poem, 'In Praise of Cyprus,' written in classical Greek, and has caused it to be published in a Greek newspaper.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

The annual meeting of the Maidstone district was held at All Saints', Maidstone, on Saturday, April 17th. St. Michael's tower also being open for visiting ringers. Members attended from most of the towers in the district, also from Ashford, Canterbury, Rochester, and Tonbridge districts, no fewer than 26 towers being represented. Service was conducted by the Rev. R. Sinclair, who gave an interesting address. Mr. W. E. Pitman presided at the organ.

Tea was provided at the Palace Tea Rooms, 83 members being present.

At the business meeting, Mr. C. H. Sone was re-elected hon. district secretary, and Messrs. G. Pound and L. Head district representatives. Fifteen new members were elected, and it was decided to hold the next meeting at Hunton, and the half-yearly meeting at Leeds.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

Members of the Durham and Newcastle Diocesan Association should note that the Whit-Monday meeting at West Hartlepool has been postponed.

The announcement that the Central Council meeting would stand was broadcast by the B.B.C. on Monday evening.

Reports of peals rung on Whit-Monday should be posted to us the same night.

Eighty years ago last Tuesday Thurstans' famous peal of Stedman Triples was rung for the first time. This peal is one of the most interesting compositions in the art, and was the consummation of years of striving and rivalry between composers, particularly at Birmingham. Thurstans, Cooper, Lates, Day and Johnson, all competent to do justice to the subject, were turning their attention to this method. The rivalry was especially keen between Thurstans and Lates, both of whom previously had peals on the same plan, but with special singles to couple up the parts.

The composition was first rung at St. Martin's Church, Birmingham, by St. Martin's Youths, and conducted by Henry Johnson, who had had the figures in his possession for some months before it was actually rung. The story of the evolution of this peal is really a very interesting one, and it may be read in Snowdon's 'Stedman.'

On May 18th, 1883, Mr. Sam Wood, of Ashton-under-Lyne, called the famous peal of 16,608 Kent Treble Bob Major at Mottram-in-Longendale.

In view of the fate of Coventry bells, now being, or shortly to be, recast, it is interesting to recall that on May 20th, 1780, a peal of 5,220 Tittom Bob Royal was rung on them by St. Martin's Youths.

To-day is the anniversary of the 13,054 Stedman Caters rung at Cheltenham in 1888.

The first peal of Stedman Triples rung outside Norwich was achieved at St. Giles'-in-the-Fields, London, on May 22nd, 1799.

The opening of the bells at St. Andrew's Cathedral, Sydney, New South Wales, took place on May 27th, 1862.

NORFOLK GUILD.

MORE LIFE WANTED.

In the annual report of the Norfolk Guild, at the completion of its 48th year of existence, it is stated that the revised list of 785 members and the small balance of £3 15s. 9d. each show a small reduction upon last year's figures. The peals in 1925 were 61, against 66 in 1924. The three general meetings were very poorly attended, and all members really interested in the welfare of the Guild are urged to a realisation of the necessity for more vigorous support and recruiting. With the large membership that support could readily be obtained if the members would only remember the claims of the Guild due from them for carrying on its objects; the recognition of church bell ringers as office holders in the Church; the promotion of scientific change ringing. In an area covering nearly the whole of Norfolk, general meetings were of little use to the districts, obviously so, on the score of expense and distance; therefore, if they were to be a live Guild, it was imperative that members in the districts should have district and combined practice meetings more frequently than hitherto. During the past year they had had only two district meetings, both of which were satisfactory in point of attendance and the quality of the ringing. This matter is particularly commended to the district secretaries and members.

ESSEX ASSOCIATION.

A meeting of the South-Eastern Division was held at Great Waltham on Saturday last. The bells were raised about 3 o'clock, and were kept going until 4.30, when a service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. Morgan). The lesson was read by Mr. C. H. Howard, and the organist (Mr. Franklin) and the choir gave their services. Tea, served at the Beehive, was followed by the usual business meeting, presided over by Mr. G. Green (district master).

The Rev. Douglas and Mr. P. Green, of Great Baddow, were elected probationary members, and Messrs. A. Boyce, L. Day, C. Claydon and J. Franklin were elected ringing members.

It was decided to hold the next meeting at Galleywood, as soon as the bells are ready.

Mr. C. H. Howard proposed a vote of thanks to the Vicar for the use of the bells and his helpful address, and also thanked the organist and choir. He said it would be a great benefit to the ringers if the chiming apparatus could be removed from the ringing chamber, or the ringing chamber placed lower down in the tower.

The Vicar, responding, welcomed the association to Great Waltham, but said he was afraid no improvements could be made at present.

About 24 members attended, representing Great Baddow, Writtle, Broomfield, Rettendon, Springfield, Chelmsford, Maldon and the local company. The methods rung included Cambridge Surprise.

CRADLEY.—At the Parish Church, on Monday, April 19th, 1920 Cambridge Surprise Minor, by the local band: H. Pritchard 1, J. Holder 2, C. Horne 3, G. Fincher 4, R. Lewis 5, G. Lewis (conductor) 6. First 720 of Surprise Minor for ringers 2 and 4.

THE CENTRAL COUNCIL.

AGENDA FOR NEXT TUESDAY'S MEETING.

The Third Session of the Twelfth Council (34th annual meeting) will be held in the Council Chamber of the Town Hall, Ipswich, on Whitsun Tuesday, May 25th, at 11 a.m. precisely.

The morning sitting will be adjourned from 1 p.m. till 2.30, from which hour the Council will sit, if necessary, until 5.30 p.m.

The Standing Committee will meet previously at 9.45 a.m. in the same room.

AGENDA.

GENERAL.

1. Minutes of the last Meeting.
2. Apologies for Absence.
3. Statements of Accounts and Sale of Publications.
4. Election of Honorary Members.
5. Introduction of New Members to the President.
6. Coventry Bells; to confirm action taken by the Council.
7. To receive and discuss the Reports of the following Committees, viz. :—
  - (a) Peal Collection.
  - (b) Literature and Press.
  - (c) Methods.
  - (d) Peals' Analysis.
  - (e) Towers and Belfries.
  - (f) Records.
  - (g) Science Museum Exhibit.
  - (h) Nomenclature.*

MOTIONS :—

8. That the time has arrived when the Council should consider whether Simpson-tuning is in the best interests of the Exercise.
(Messrs. E. A. Young and W. A. Cave.)
9. For as much as the Church Towers of England contain a large number of valuable old bells, the Central Council of Church Bell Ringers requests the Diocesan Advisory Committees of the various Dioceses to co-opt some members having knowledge of the archæology, tuning and proper hanging of bells, to form a special sub-committee to advise them, when necessary, on all questions relating to the tuning, recasting or rechanging of bells, in order that bells may not needlessly be recast, and that rechanging shall be carried out in a proper manner.
(Rev. H. Law James and Mr. R. Richardson.)
10. That the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association earnestly requests the Central Council to continue to press the Railway Clearing Board for cheaper travelling facilities to be granted to ringers.
(Messrs. E. Guise and E. Bishop.)
11. That the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association, at their annual meeting held at Painswick on April 5th, 1926, unanimously agree that historic bells should not be tuned by the Canon Simpson principle, even though it is necessary for them to be recast; but that the Canon Simpson principle may be used on modern bells only.
(Messrs. E. Guise and W. A. Cave.)

12. That the Council consider the question of the institution of a 'Bellringers' Sunday' by means of an annual service throughout the country, or otherwise, and make recommendations.
(Messrs. T. H. Taffender and A. D. Barker.)
13. Other business, if any.

* Notice of amendment to resolution to adopt report of Nomenclature Committee. 'That this Council, while urging on the Exercise the extreme importance of choosing suitable names for new methods, declines to interfere with such rights as bands and individual ringers at present enjoy of giving names to new methods. And, further, is of the opinion that no alteration should be made in the names of old and historical methods, except where urgently necessary.'

(Mr. J. A. Trollope and Rev. C. D. P. Davies.)

SOME COMMENTS ON THE AGENDA.

The general strike finished just in time to enable the announcement to be made that the arrangements for the Central Council meeting will stand. Had the dislocation of the railway services lasted one more day the proceedings at Ipswich would have been postponed, for it would have been impossible to go on with the arrangements when there was any uncertainty about the representatives getting to their destination from distant parts of the country. Happily matters got back more or less to normal on Monday, and the programme, therefore, will be carried out as arranged. So far as our readers are concerned, the strike has robbed them of early information of the business which is to come before the Council, but above we print the full agenda, and we are sure it will be perused with interest.

Judging from the business done for discussion, there is a full day before the Council on Whitsun Tuesday, and it will be well if the more routine matters which come in the early portion of the agenda are expeditiously dealt with. The usual reports are to come from the committees, but the most contentious of these will be found to be the last, viz., that of the Nomenclature Committee. This subject of method names has come before the Council every year since 1921, and it is full time that the Council made up its mind upon general principles at least. In this respect the Committee, in its report published in our issue of April 2nd last, has endeavoured to lay down lines upon which method naming should proceed in future, as well as proposing wholesale alterations to names which are already in existence. Whether the Council will consider they have gone too far in this respect, and whether all the alterations are looked upon as improvements remains to be seen, but it is quite certain there is going to be a full dress debate on the subject.

Already there is an amendment tabled, which would just leave the matter where it is—in a most chaotic and unsatisfactory condition. A pious resolution urging the importance of choosing suitable names will be forgotten in a week, and, as it is suggested that ringers are to be left to enjoy their present rights of naming new methods, this amendment will carry the matter no further. Even the Analysis Committee, whose action in allocating floral names to Treble Bob Minor methods was the real starting point of the present controversy, stated in their report, presented to the Council in 1922, that they felt strongly that some central authority should be appointed to control nomenclature in the future, and so prevent difficulties arising which may extend beyond Minor methods. And with the confusion which undoubtedly has been created through irresponsible individuals giving to methods any names they fancied, it does seem reasonable that something should be done to straighten out the tangle and lay down defined lines for the future. Men like Mr. J. A. Trollope and the Rev. C. D. P. Davies, in whose names the amendment appears, could be trusted to use good sense and good taste in selecting method names, but left as proposed by the amendment, there is nothing to exclude the most freakish of titles if it pleased the fancy of some eccentric individual to apply it to a method of which he claimed authorship. Nomenclature is going to provide an interesting feature in next Tuesday's proceedings, and our readers will, we are sure, look forward with interest to the report of the debate.

There are no fewer than five motions on the agenda, and the first is on 'Simpson-tuning.' To carry the resolution as it stands would, it seems to us, be perfectly innocuous and non-committal. If the Council like to say that the time has arrived when they should consider whether Simpson tuning is in the best interests of the Exercise, it will not commit anyone to approval or otherwise of Simpson-tuning itself. Doubtless the President will allow a full expression of views on the merits and demerits of this modern method of tuning bells, although it seems to us he would be well within his rights if he kept speakers strictly to the terms of the motion. In any case, the carrying or rejection of the motion as it stands will not put on record what the Council thinks of Simpson tuning, and one could have wished that the hon. secretary's resolution had been a little more concrete in form. But probably an amendment would bring the subject to a direct issue.

The motion of which the Rev. H. Law James has given notice bears upon an important question, which has, in somewhat different form, already been before the Council. Representations have been made by the Council to the various Diocesan Advisory Committees that each committee should include at least one member having expert knowledge of bells, bell hanging and change ringing. The resolution before the Council next Tuesday carries this a step further, and is sure to meet with the approval of the Council, for the suggestion, if it can be given effect to, is a most valuable one. The difficulty will be to get the Advisory Committees to see it in the same light, for even the former resolution has not yet been successful, we believe, in placing a practical man on every committee. This is such an important matter, however, that the Council must keep pegging away at the Advisory Committees, and at those who have an influence in the appointments thereto. Mr. James's motion will bring the matter again under their notice with a still more impressive note, and will help Advisory Committees to realise that the question of bell restoration is as important as any other that can come under their consideration.

Two resolutions from the Gloucester and Bristol Association will be moved by Mr. Edgar Guise, the hon. secretary of that organisation. The effort to get cheaper railway travelling facilities is one which will appeal to all ringers, and it might be well if the Council appointed a committee, not only to investigate the best way to approach the railway authorities, but to properly organise the matter. When, last year, the railways were asked for the facilities, it was rather hurriedly done, and associations were left to take individual action. Some did their part, others did nothing, and the result was an uncoordinated effort, which failed to impress the railway companies sufficiently. The endeavour to obtain the cheaper facilities is well worth making, and, if obtained, would be a great gain to ringing, but the campaign does want to be effectively organised.

The second of the Gloucester and Bristol motions may meet, in part, with approval, but to suggest that old bells when recast should not be Simpson-tuned is, we imagine, more than the Council is likely to endorse. Probably by the time this is reached the Council will have heard enough of Simpson-tuning for one day.

The proposal that there should be an annual 'Bell Ringers' Sunday' throughout the country is an interesting one. Here again, to make it a success, careful organisation would be required, but if it could be effectually carried out it would help to impress the public with the importance of the ringers' service to the Church. There are likely to be many difficulties in the way of getting uniform action, but if the Council approve of the idea in principle a committee might be able to draw up a scheme which, with the approval of Bishops and clergy, might be given effect to, even though it is not possible to make the 'day' universal.

On the social side, the visit to Ipswich promises to be a very pleasant one. In recent years much more attention has been paid to the entertainment of the members, and the Suffolk Guild have made preparations which will enable anyone who can spare the time to spend a full and enjoyable holiday in East Anglia.

THE SOCIAL ARRANGEMENTS.

The following are the arrangements by the Reception Committee:—
Hotels: 'Great White Horse,' bed and breakfast, 9s. 6d. (Saturday dinner to Wednesday breakfast, inclusive terms, £2). 'Crown and Anchor' (headquarters), bed and breakfast, 9s. 'Grand,' bed and breakfast, 7s. 6d. 'Queen's,' ditto, 7s. 6d. 'Victoria' Temperance, ditto, 5s. 6d. A room will be reserved for the use of members on Saturday, Sunday and Monday evenings, at the 'Crown and Anchor.' The manager of the 'Great White Horse' is reserving a separate dining-room for members, if they will ask for it (without extra charge). This is the hotel immortalised by Dickens. Mr. Pickwick's room is still shown to visitors, and also that of the Lady in Curl-papers.

Peals are being arranged on the Saturday afternoon, and later. Will any who would like to be included please send word as soon as possible to Mr. C. J. Sedgely, 14, Suffolk Road, Ipswich, mentioning day and methods preferred?

A peal of Stedman Cinquos is being arranged at St. Mary-le-Tower on Saturday, at 5.30 p.m., and a peal at Debenham (8 bells) on Sunday at 12 noon or 1 p.m.

It is suggested that members may like to visit Felixstowe or Norwich on the Sunday.

An excursion has been arranged for Monday, leaving the 'Red' Eastern Counties Office, in the Old Cattle Market, at 10 a.m., for Stowmarket and Bury St. Edmunds. The motor coach will hold 30, and it will be open, as long as seats are available in it, to all members who send their names to Mr. G. E. Symonds, 28, Chevalier Street, Ipswich, to whom other inquiries should be addressed.

A good lunch will be provided at the Angel for 3s. 6d., for those who desire it, before leaving Bury. Archdeacon Farnilow invites the whole party to have tea with him at the Abbey House, at 3.30. On the return journey the bells of Lavenham and Hadleigh will be visited.

The Suffolk Guild invite the members of the Council and their friends to meet them at tea at the Co-operative Hall at 5 p.m., after the Council meeting: and, after tea, Mr. Chas. J. Sedgely will conduct members round some of the interesting antiquities of Ipswich.

At 8 p.m. there will be a social meeting for members of the Council, and of the Suffolk Guild, in the large room at the 'Crown and Anchor.'

Visitors from the South by road are advised to explore Gainsborough country just over the county boundary at Flatford and Deham: they will beware of the dangerous Dedham Gun Hill, leading to the bridge by which one leaves Essex. On the other journey, they may like to go through Polstead and Stoke-by-Nayland, with their beautiful country and fine churches.

Those from the North, by a half-mile detour from the Yarmouth Road, may see Ufford Church, with its unique font-cover, and the Vale of Ufford. Sudbury is supposed to be 'Eatanswill'; though some say Ipswich and others Bury.

Members are also recommended to visit 'Christchurch Mansion' (admission free) in the park adjoining St. Margaret's Church. The bells of St. Mary-le-Tower (12), St. Margaret's (8) and St. Clement's (6) will be available on Monday.

There will be a service of the Holy Communion at St. Mary-le-Tower Church on Tuesday at 8 a.m.: also at St. Mary-at-Elms (near H.Q.) on Sunday at 8, Monday at 9, Tuesday at 8, Wednesday at 7.15.

ESSEX ASSOCIATION ANNUAL MEETING.

If representatives of associations travelling to the Central Council meeting at Ipswich on Whit-Tuesday would care to call on their way at Chelmsford on Whit-Monday, and pay a visit to the Essex Association annual meeting, they would receive a hearty welcome.

CHAS. H. HOWARD.

Master.

BAGSHOT, SURREY. — At St. Anne's Church, on May 1st, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples, in 47 mins.: E. Hunt 1, Miss M. Nye 2, J. Corbett 3, H. Hunt 4, F. Nye (conductor) 5, B. Hawkins 6, S. Armstrong 7, C. Hunt 8. Rung to celebrate the birthday of H.R.H. the Duke of Connaught.

NOTES BY THE WAY.

MORE COMMENTS ON NOMENCLATURE.

BY J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

But the Nomenclature Committee (so it seems) intend to withdraw the report presented at Chester and to substitute thirteen separate resolutions. The change is one of form and not of substance, and it has some undoubted advantages and some undoubted disadvantages. The committee think it will save time. That is at least doubtful; for if the Council is to debate and vote separately on thirteen propositions, every one of which will excite some opposition, there will not be much time left to deal with other matters. These resolutions do, however, state the committee's intentions quite clearly, and members of the Council would do well to study them thoroughly beforehand. The chief objection to dealing with the matter thus piecemeal is that, on the face of it, there would be no opportunity for expressing an opinion on the report as a whole. As I have already said, many of us are not interested in the details. We feel that the whole of this attempt to alter the naming of methods is on wrong and mistaken lines. We want to be able to say 'No' definitely to the whole. We do not want the bother of having to say 'No' thirteen times over.

But, if we must discuss the details, we have to say that the more we see of these proposals the less we like them. They are either unnecessary or noxious.

The first resolution declares that no method shall have more than one name. That can be put down as unnecessary. It is the present custom of the Exercise to have only one name for each method. Where any method has been named twice it is either because its name has been changed for some reason, or because the people who named it the second time did not know that it already had one. The resolution would not touch these cases. The committee themselves have attempted a wholesale renaming, and unless they can absolutely blot out the old names (a most unlikely thing) they would actually be doing what they declare should not be done.

The second resolution says that no name shall belong to more than one method. The Exercise is accustomed to the use of names for two and sometimes more methods. Thus we have Oxford Treble Bob and Oxford Bob, Cambridge Surprise and Cambridge Court, London Surprise and London Court, and so on. In theory, no doubt, this is all very wrong; but, as a matter of fact, has any inconvenience resulted? I do not think so. Certainly not sufficient to warrant any rigid prohibition. And here, too, the committee propose to do the thing they forbid. One of their names for the six-bell methods is Dartford, and a peal of Dartford Little Bob Major, a totally different method, was rung last year.

Resolution No. 3 says that no name shall contain more than one word. And pray why not? Names have various uses besides the simple and obvious one of being means of identification. They are sometimes descriptive and sometimes ornamental. If you want to be brief you can talk about Double Norwich, or even Norwich, if you choose, but that is no reason why you should want to deprive Double Norwich Court Bob Major of its full style and title. But the committee (or perhaps Mr. Burton) does use words when they are quite unnecessary. Copying the jargon employed by some business men, he signs his letter 'for and on behalf of' the Nomenclature Committee. Five words, and four of them are redundant.

Resolution 4 says that 'Class designations, when added to a name, should always have some reference to the thing designated. Thus the word "bob" in this connection shall always, as originally, have reference to dodging.' Precisely what that means I do not profess to know. I do know (though it is possible the committee do not) that what are here called class designations have been very carefully defined, and have definite meanings. If the reference to 'bob' methods is an allusion to the theory lately put forward by a member of the Nomenclature Committee, it must be said clearly that there are no grounds for that theory either in history or in probability.

Then come the alternatives proposed to the floral names. I cannot say I like these floral names, but when I see what is proposed to put in their place I wonder whether it is worth while, after all, to make any change. Is Hyde any better than Hyacinth, or anything like as good? or Marlow than Marigold; Preston than Primrose; Blundell than Bluebell; Shadwell than Shamrock?

Or, again, what gain shall we have if we do away with the long list of old names and adopt the proposed new ones? Evening Star and Morning Star are fine poetical names. College Bob and London Scholars' Pleasure are old historical names, connecting the methods with the two great London Societies who first rang them. What object can there be in altering them to Borking and Fulham?

And, finally, there is the proposal that the Council should try and forbid the use of any name or the alteration of any name unless it has been allowed by its committee. That, I think, is the worst of all the recommendations of this report. It is not workable, and, if it were, it is mischievous and clean against the best interests of the Exercise.

BEDDINGTON, SURREY.—On Thursday, May 13th, at St. Mary's Church, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples (1,260 changes), in 44 mins.: P. Lane 1, F. Jennings 2, G. Jennings 3, A. J. Trappitt 4, T. G. Bannister 5, C. H. Kippin 6, J. F. Galver (conductor) 7, J. Avery 8.

SPIRE RESTORATION AT ALMONDSBURY, GLOS.

INTERESTING BELL HISTORY.

The restoration has recently been completed of the unusual lead spire at Almondsbury, Glos. There are only four or five lead spires of this type in England, the most famous being the ones at Chesterfield, Godalming and Barnstaple. The work has thus been nearly unique, and very interesting.

The entire covering of lead, a matter of some 14 tons, has been taken off, recast and refixed in the most up-to-date fashion, consistent with not altering its original appearance. It should therefore be many years before this work has to be considered again. When the lead covering had been removed, and it was consequently possible to see inside more clearly, it was found that some of the main beams had rotted to a greater extent than previously imagined; the spire was indeed in a dangerous condition, and the work had not been taken in hand a day too soon. The whole structure of the spire has now been greatly reinforced by the addition of several new beams (some of them 10 inches square and 30 feet long) and the strengthening of some of the old ones.

The work has taken over a year to complete, and the total cost is nearly £1,700. Thanks to the untiring efforts of the Vicar (Canon G. R. Wood) and to the generous response of the parishioners and friends of the parish, over £1,500 of this has already been collected, and it is hoped that the remainder will soon follow.

On Friday, April 16th, a service of thanksgiving was held in the church, conducted by the Bishop of Bristol, followed by a social gathering and concert in the Schools, at which about 280 people were present, including the Bishop, the Archdeacon, the Vicar (Canon Wood), the diocesan architect (Mr. P. Harland Thomas) and the contractors, Mr. Dowling, who did the interior work and the scaffolding, and Mr. Shull, who was responsible for the lead work, and some of the workmen, all of whom combined to do a difficult and interesting piece of work thoroughly and well.

Almondsbury is fortunate to possess a peal of bells in every way worthy of its beautiful spire. For sheer tone they are second to few in the country, and some of them are 300 years old. Their history is best given by the inscriptions on them, which are as follows:—
