ESSEX ASSOCIATION.ANOTHER TOWER GAINED IN NORTHERN DIVISION.

A very successful meeting of the Northern Division was held at Great Easton on May 4th, about 50 members and friends attending from Braintree, Earls Colne, Greenstead Green, Dunmow, Stebbing, Maldon, Stapleford, Royston, Barley, Melbourn, Trumpington, Chelmsford, Springfield, Bardfield and Writtle. Methods ranging from Bob Minor to London Surprise were rung. The service was conducted by the Rector (the Rev. P. E. T. Widrington), Mr. C. H. Howard (Master of the association) reading the lesson. Afterwards the ringers sat down in the Parish Hall to an excellent tea kindly provided by the Rector and Mrs. Widrington, Mr. H. S. Woodcock and the local ringers and their wives.

At the business meeting which followed, the District Master (Mr. A. A. Saunders) was in the chair, supported by the district secretary (Mr. W. Arnold), the Rector, Mr. C. H. Howard and Mr. H. S. Woodcock.—Three honorary members, one life member, and 13 ringing members were elected.

Mr. Howard gave a short account of the work of the association since it was formed, for the benefit of the new members from Great Easton.

It was decided to hold the next meeting at Colne Engaine on July 6th.

The business concluded with a vote of thanks to the Rector, Mr. Woodcock, and the local band for the hearty welcome they had given the association on their first visit to Great Easton.—To this the Rector responded, saying it had been a pleasure to him, and that all ringers would always be sure of a good welcome when they visited his parish. Some then found their way back to the tower, while others rang courses of Grandsire Caters and Bob Major on the handbells. The association has thus gained another new tower with its twelve new members, who are making good progress with the help of Mr. H. W. Smith and other friends from Dunmow.

RIVERSIDE CHURCH, NEW YORK, U.S.A.

ESSEX ASSOCIATION'S JUBILEE.

Founded on Whit-Monday, 1879, the Essex County Association celebrated its jubilee this week, and the large and enthusiastic gathering which assembled at Chelmsford on Monday was a striking testimony to the continued vitality of the organisation after an existence of fifty years. The association was established at a time when belfry standards were at a low ebb—change ringing was practised at comparatively few churches, the conditions in many towers were little short of a disgrace and the status of ringers generally was about on a par with the neglected state of the belfries. It was in the seventies that the spirit of reform began to reveal itself—a spirit which, once it became manifest, spread rapidly in the course of a couple of decades. Led by a few earnest clergy and ringers who realised the responsibilities and the possibilities of their office, the movement quickly gripped the imagination of thinking men in the Exercise and the outcome was the modern county and diocesan associations which we have to-day.

It was uphill work, however, in those early years, and it was not all ringers, nor all clergy, who welcomed the reforming zeal of the new organisations. That such a movement was necessary is plain from a statement of the objects of the Essex Association set out in 'Church Bells,' in referring to the first anniversary meeting. 'The object of the association,' it said, 'is not only to cultivate and improve ringing and to rescue our belfries from the state of neglect into which they have very generally fallen, but to make ringers feel that we look upon them as helpers in Church work and, by associating with them in these friendly meetings, raise their tone of self respect and thus promote order, moral tone and reverence in belfries and in the service of the bells.' We have gone a very long way since those days and, speaking generally, we can say that the objects for which these associations set out fifty years ago have been very largely accomplished. The practice of change ringing has been put upon a vastly wider basis; neglect has been swept away from the majority of our towers—if unhappy examples can still be pointed to they are the more striking because of the vast improvement which has been generally effected—while most complete of all has been the uplift in the moral tone in the belfries, the reverent observance of the belfry as part of the Church and the recognition of the ringers' office as a department of church work.

The reforms which have been accomplished were not, however, the work of a day or a year. They have required steady and persistent effort, and some honoured names stand out among those who have helped the Essex Association to achieve what has been done in that county. The Rev. J. B. Seaman, the actual founder and first secretary, is perhaps not so well recollected, although he was the pioneer, but the Rev. H. A. Cockey, who succeeded him, the Rev. T. L. Papillon, who followed Mr. Cockey, and the Rev. H. T. W. Eyre, who was fourth in the line of secretaries, are all remembered for their labours and their enthusiasm. None of these have been spared to share in the celebration of the jubilee of the association, but there is still in office one who for twenty years has, with unselfish devotion, laboured in the interests of the organisation. Mr. Charles H. Howard succeeded Canon Papillon as Master in 1909, and the energy and enthusiasm he has displayed in promoting the welfare of the association is immeasurable. He has won the admiration and esteem of its members, and small wonder is it, therefore, that on Monday they marked their appreciation of his long and faithful service with a tangible expression of their thanks. The officers of the Essex Association to-day are carrying on with complete success the work begun by their predecessors, and while the association can command the services of such men the objects for which it exists are never likely to suffer.

LINCOLN DIOCESAN GUILD.

PROPOSAL TO PRINT A COMPREHENSIVE REPORT.

The annual meeting at Lincoln on 'Fair Saturday' was the most successful one held since ringing at the Cathedral tower was stopped some years ago owing to the dangerous state of the fabric. Happily this state of things exists no longer, and the full peal of twelve bells was opened by the Guild on December 15th last. With such an attraction, a larger attendance was assured, and visitors from as far afield as Sheffield and Birmingham were in evidence. By kind permission of the Dean and Chapter the bells were available earlier than in former years, and from 1.45 until 3.30 the ringing chamber was crowded. Many also took the opportunity of climbing the tower to inspect and admire the unique internal arrangements. Nothing has been omitted to render these as perfect as possible. The lower parts of the louvres have been blocked up, and the only exit for the sound of the bells is near the top of the tower. An ample opening in the roof itself has also been provided. The tower might well be an outstanding example for architects, and, indeed, for any person or body of persons who have anything to do with the installation of a peal of bells. The sound of this beautiful peal can be heard at long distances in the city and the surrounding country, and yet in the immediate vicinity is so pleasantly soft and melodious that residents who formerly suffered greatly from the clanging and vibration now say that they actually look forward with pleasure to the ringing of the bells.

At the close of the afternoon's ringing a well-attended service was held in the morning chapel, when the address was given by the Very Rev. the Dean of Lincoln. A large company sat down to tea at the Co-operative Hall, and the business meeting immediately followed, the Dean of Lincoln taking the chair.

The officers were all unanimously re-elected, namely: President, the Dean of Lincoln; Master, Rev. H. Law James; hon. secretary, Mr. F. W. Stokes; hon. treasurer, Mr. F. F. Linley.

In thanking the meeting for their re-election, the Rev. H. Law James and Mr. Linley both referred to their long connection with the Guild, ever since its formation 30 years ago. They congratulated the Guild on the great progress that has been made during that time, and emphasised the fact that whereas in 1899 there were only two or three centres where change ringing was practised, now the art had spread practically to all parts of the diocese. The Master especially referred to the great achievement of the past year, namely, the accomplishment of the peal of London Surprise Major at Waddingborough in December last, the first for the Guild, and the first peal in the method by all the band.

The most important matter before the meeting was the consideration of the proposal to print a large report for next year, to include lists of members' names under the respective towers, and other matter which was deleted after the war on account of the great expense of printing. After some discussion a resolution was passed authorising a committee (formed of representative members from each branch) to meet and investigate the whole matter, with power to decide the form in which the next Report shall be issued.

After the meeting, the towers of the Cathedral and the two six-bell towers (St. Botolph's and St. Peter-at-Gowt's) were again visited. Naturally the Cathedral was again the centre of attraction, and a variety of methods were rung on the twelve, as well as a fine course of Cambridge Royal on the ten and a well-struck touch of London Surprise on the magnificent back eight.

ESSEX ASSOCIATION.

The quarterly meeting of the South-Eastern District of the Essex Association was held at Great Waltham on May 11th, there being 23 members present from Great Baddow, Braintree, Chelmsford, Bromfield, Springfield, Maldon, Writtle, Dunmow and Greenstead Green. Service was conducted and an address given by the Vicar, who spoke about the bells of his own church. The 6th bell is 600 years old. The lesson was read by Mr. C. H. Howard (Master of the Association). Ten at the Six Bells Inn was followed by the meeting, over which Mr. George Green (District Master) presided, supported by the Master and Mr. A. Saunders (North-Eastern District) and Dr. Spencer Phillips. One new hon. member and one ringing member were elected, and it was proposed to hold the next meeting on July 13th at Sandon, which is a three miles' bus ride from Chelmsford. Mr. C. H. Howard proposed a hearty vote of thanks to the Vicar for giving the association the use of the bells, and for his splendid address; also to the organist and to Mr. Davis for having everything in readiness. The members again visited the tower, where Grandsire Triples, Bob Major and Double Norwich to Cambridge Surprise were rung during the afternoon and evening.

THE BUST OF MR. W. T. COCKERILL.

'The Builder' newspaper has had a review of some of the Royal Academy exhibits, and its critic, Mr. T. P. Bennett, F.R.I.B.A., writes of the bust of the hon. secretary of the College Youths as follows:—

'W. T. Cockerill, Esq. A bust by Miss Muriel B. G. Hiley is a very clever piece of modelling by a very good artist. This essay in portraiture would appear to pave the way to real success in the near future.'

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD.

NORTH BRADLEY CHURCH AND BELLS.

The monthly meeting of the Devizes Branch was held at St. Nicholas' Church, North Bradley, on Saturday, May 4th. Ringing commenced about 2.30 p.m., and service was afterwards held, conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. D. F. O. Poulter). The lesson was read by the chairman of the branch (Mr. C. D. Heginbotham), and Mr. Wheeler was organist. Tea followed, after which a short business meeting was held, Mr. C. D. Heginbotham presiding. The Chairman extended a welcome to Mr. Coward, of Mere, Wilts, Mr. Woodroffe, of Stratton, and Mr. Knapp, of Swindon, and congratulated Mr. S. J. Hector on his first peal of Superlative. He also referred to the death of Mr. J. D. Roberts, the respected organist of Seend Parish Church, who was a great friend of the ringers, and was always pleased to welcome the branch to Seend.—Those present stood in silence as a token of respect.

In proposing a vote of thanks to the Vicar for the use of the bells and conducting the service, he referred to the Vicar's leaving, and on behalf of the branch wished him 'God-speed.' The Chairman also thanked the organist, and those who prepared the tea.—The Vicar suitably replied.

The annual Report of the Guild was handed to those present.

Ringers, including those mentioned, were present from North Bradley, Bratton, Devizes, St. John's and St. Mary's, Holt, Trowbridge and Rowde, and touches of Grandsire and Stedman Doubles and Plain Bob were rung during the afternoon and evening. Cambridge Minor was also attempted.

The church at North Bradley was formerly attached to the Monastic Church at Edington. It consists of clerestoried nave and aisles and two chapels. In the fifteenth century the church was remodelled, the clerestory added to the nave, the north chapel erected, and the chancel aisles, porch and tower rebuilt. Both north and south chapels retain their ancient roofs. The octagonal font is a very fine one, of Perpendicular date, having the symbols of the four Evangelists, and the instruments of the Passion carved upon it. The tower, too, is worthy of Somerset. One wonders if John Stafford, Archbishop of Canterbury, whose family lived at Southwick Court, and who was, before his translation, Bishop of Bath and Wells (temp. Henry VI.) having anything to do with the rebuilding. He certainly built the north chapel, because it contains the tomb of his mother, Emma (d. 1446).

There are six bells. The tenor, approximately 14 cwt. (cast by John Wallis), has the inscription, 'Prayed be Thy Name, O Lord. I.W. 1591.' The front five bells were cast by Thomas Bilbie, of Chew Stoke, Somerset, in 1748, the fifth having the inscription, 'Mr. James Werratt and Mr. Thomas Pepler, Churchwardens, 1748. T. Bilbie Fecit.'

A brass plate in the ringing chamber records that they were rehung by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank, Whitechapel Bell Foundry, London, in 1893, at the cost of £160.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

The spring meeting of the Tonbridge District was held at Cranbrook on Saturday, May 11th, and was attended by nearly 50 members. The heavy going of the bells was not conducive to good striking, but good practice was obtained in methods ranging from Grandsire Triples to Cambridge Major. The young band that Mr. F. White has formed also had good practice in rounds, and received valuable hints from members as to managing their bells.

The usual service was conducted by the Vicar (Rev. H. T. C. Swingler), who is an hon. member, assisted by the curate (who is learning to ring). Mr. W. E. Pitman, of Canterbury, presided at the organ, and the Vicar gave an excellent address. Capt. E. R. W. Lewis (one of the churchwardens) was also present at the service.

Tea was partaken of in the Parish Room, followed by the business meeting, the Vicar presiding, supported by Capt. Lewis, Mr. F. White, etc.—Over a dozen new practising members were elected, including the newly-formed local band, and Capt. Lewis was elected an hon. member.

The District Secretary announced that the next meeting would be held towards the end of July at Westerham.

Votes of thanks were accorded to the Vicar for the use of the bells, for conducting the service, and presiding at the meeting, to Mr. Pitman for his services at the organ, and to Mr. F. White for making the arrangements, and to Capt. Lewis for his attendance, and replied to, and the members adjourned to the tower.

BISHOP WITNESSES RINGING.

The Lord Bishop of Sherborne preached at evensong at Bratton, Wilts, on Sunday, May 5th, and after the service visited the ringing chamber, where he shook hands with all the ringers, saying it was a great pleasure to visit the church at which his old school friend was Vicar. His lordship remained while the ringers rang 120 of Stedman Doubles, after which, at the request of the Vicar (the Rev. S. Collett), he gave his blessing.

WINCHESTER AND PORTSMOUTH DIOCESAN GUILD.

A meeting of the Andover District was held at Amport on Saturday, May 4th, when 18 members were present from Andover, Highclere, King's Somborne, St. Mary Bourne, North Stoneham, Woolton Hill and Winchester, with a very welcome visitor from Swindon. During the afternoon and evening good use was made of the ring of six bells, touches of Grandsire, Bob and Stedman Doubles, Bob and Kent Treble Bob Minor being rung.

A splendid tea was enjoyed in the Church Hut, and the business meeting followed. The Vicar of Amport, who was voted to the chair, extended a hearty welcome to the Guild. He said that he was sorry that his own ringers were not present, but in the near future he hoped that they would take their place in the fellowship of the Guild.

It was decided to hold meetings at Laverstoke on June 29th and Andover on October 5th, also a combined practice at Andover on June 12th.

During the evening a party went over to Thruxton and rang various touches of Doubles on the old ring of five bells, which badly need the attention of a bell hanger.

A very successful meeting of the Alton District was held at Froyle on Saturday, May 11th, when 28 members were present from Binsted, Blackmoor, Selborne, Froyle, Fareham, North Stoneham and Winchester. During the afternoon and evening good practice was had in various methods on the ring of six bells.

After the service, the party were very kindly entertained to tea by Sir Hubert Miller at the Shrubbery House. At the business meeting which followed, Rev. E. Eyres presided, supported by Rev. B. C. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. G. Williams, Mr. Andrews, Mr. Bayley, Mr. Read and others. Sir Hubert Miller, Bart., was elected a life member, and four members of the Froyle band were elected members of the Guild.—It was decided to hold meetings at Privitt on September 21st and Selborne on November 23rd.

Votes of thanks were passed to Sir Hubert Miller and the Vicar of Froyle.

HESTON.—On Sunday, April 13th, for evensong, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples (1,260 changes) in 43 mins.: C. Gash (first quarter of Triples away from tenor) 1, F. G. Goddard 2, W. F. Ellingham 3, H. Payne (Harlington) 4, F. E. Hawthorne 5, C. J. Tricker 6, J. Kent (conductor) 7, S. Stilwell 8. A birthday compliment to Mr. F. E. Hawthorne and to Mr. L. Mannering, who is in India.

A JOINT MEETING IN SURREY.

A joint meeting of the North-West Branch of the Surrey Association and the Leatherhead District of the Guildford Diocesan Guild was held at Ewell on Saturday, but the attendance proved disappointing, only twenty-one ringers being present. The following towers were represented: Croydon (St. John's), Ewell, Woking, Leatherhead, Ealing (Christ Church), St. Martin's-in-the-Fields, St. Margaret's, Westminster, Guildford (Cathedral), Dorking, Banstead, Mitcham (Parish Church), 'Balham-in-the-Fields,' 'Beddington Cathedral,' 'House of Commons Church,' and 'Chelsea Abbey.' The Leatherhead District secretary would be glad to know something regarding the situation of the four last-named, as he has only a hazy notion as to their whereabouts. The almost total absence of ringers from the locality was commented upon, no members being present from either of the Epsom towers. Ringing commenced on the nice peal of eight at St. Mary's Church at 4 p.m., and was continued after the tea.

The service was conducted by the Vicar of Ewell, the Rev. E. C. Usherwood, who, after welcoming the members to his church, proceeded to give an interesting address on the uses of church bells, and reminded his hearers that they were primarily a call to prayer.

A bountiful tea was partaken of in the Church Room, the Vicar presiding. The tea was so bountiful in fact, that in spite of the presence of certain members who have notoriously large appetites, plenty remained after all had been satisfied.

This being a friendly meeting, no business was transacted, but the Leatherhead District Secretary (Mr. A. R. Pink) called for a hearty vote of thanks to the Vicar for his interesting address and for his presence amongst them that evening, to the organist who kindly stepped into the breach at the last minute, to all those who had waited upon them at the table, and to Mr. C. E. Read, of Ewell, for making all the necessary arrangements. This was carried with acclamation, and the Vicar said how pleased he was to be present, and hoped to listen afterwards to their further efforts on the bells.

With regard to the ringing done during the day, although numbers were few, the standard was high. The meeting opened with a course of London Surprise, which augured well for that which was to come. Other methods rung were Grandsire Triples, Stedman Triples, Kent Treble Bob, Double Norwich, Superlative Cambridge and Bristol. Much attention was devoted to 'splicing,' and touches of 'spliced' included Grandsire and Stedman, London and Cambridge, Superlative and Cambridge, several members ringing their first touches of 'spliced' methods. Ringing was kept up till 9 p.m., when the members departed to their other 'duties,' having voted the meeting a success, despite the small attendance.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

The Oxford Diocesan Guild has now over two hundred towers affiliated, and over two thousand members.

The opening of the bells at St. Andrew's Cathedral, Sydney, Australia, took place on May 27th, 1862.

It was on May 28th, 1787, that the first peal of Stedman Caters was rung. This was by the College Youths at Horsley Down, London, and last year the same composition was rung by the society.

Next Tuesday is also the anniversary of the Bristol Surprise record (15,264) rung in 9 hrs. 49 mins. at Hornchurch, Essex, in 1912.

The same date is the anniversary of the first Surprise peal rung out of England—Superlative Surprise Major at Bray, Ireland.

The first Surprise peal in Wales was rung the next day (New Cambridge at Bangor), after the ringing of the only peal ever rung on the sea (Stedman Caters), which was accomplished during the crossing between Dublin and Holyhead. It is not often that three peals of such historic interest are rung in two days. There are four men ringing to-day who took part in all three of these peals, which were rung in the year 1901.

His many ringing friends will join in congratulating Mr. Fred Chamberlain, of Cardiff, on conducting his first peal since his serious accident three years ago last February. As Mr. Chamberlain had to stand throughout practically on one leg, his pluck will be greatly admired. It is a triumph over severe disability. Incidentally it may be mentioned that the peal was the first of Stedman Caters by all the band and by resident ringers of the Llandaff and Monmouth Association.

SHOULD NONCONFORMISTS RING AT CHURCHES.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I have read with much interest that point in your current number. Though I am the son of a colonel, who was a great churchman, I entirely agree with Colonel Robson in admitting Nonconformists to take a rope. This is a day of much talk about reunion of Christians. Why not take this small step towards it? Some say that Nonconformists separated from the Church; if so, there are faults on both sides. Is it not our place to hold out a friendly hand? Let any readers who love their Bibles read, for instance, Paul's first epistle to the Corinthians. They need go no further than the first chapter, especially the third verse, to see the broadness of Paul's mind. Let us take a hint from that.—Yours truly,

W. E. PITMAN.

GIFTS TO MARSDEN BELFRY.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—As captain of the Marsden Parish Church bellringers I have just received four certificates of membership, two framed, one of which is an engraving by Bartolozzi (the College Youths' certificate) and several works on bellringing and numerous copies of peals. These were articles that our late friend, Mr. Joseph Edwin Sykes, of Ainsley House, Marsden, well known to many ringers, had desired should be handed over to the custody of the belfry of St. Bartholomew's, Marsden. I was pleased to receive these useful gifts on behalf of the ringers from Mr. J. E. Syke's brother, Major Frederick Sykes, of Marsden.—Yours faithfully,

H. SHAW.

FALSE COMPOSITIONS OF BOB MAJOR.

Mr. H. W. Gayton writes that a peal of Bob Major (5,056 changes) in the Beds Association Report for 1927, and a peal of 5,120 Bob Major in the Beds Association and the Peterborough Diocesan Reports respectively for 1928, are both false, the trouble in each case being identical, viz., a lead in each half repeating at the B leads. Mr. Gayton has brought this to the notice of the hon. secretaries concerned, so that the peals may be withdrawn from the records.

Mr. A. Craven's composition published in 'The Ringing World' of April 5th is also false as it stands.

IN CORNWALL.

Notice of a peal attempt, which was successful and has already been recorded, was included in the usual Sunday notices by the Vicar of Perranarworthal, Cornwall. Unfortunately, however, he instructed his congregation that this would take place exactly a week earlier than the actual date.

Notices of this kind certainly give those who dislike prolonged ringing a chance to 'go out' for the evening, but on this occasion, if any left, they went prematurely.

Mr. A. R. Pink, of Dorking, who conducted this peal, had the misfortune of standing in attempts that failed for Grandsire Triples at St. Kea, Bob Minor at St. Erme, and Grandsire Triples at Phillack, on the previous Thursday, Friday and Saturday respectively.

This 'minor' tour in humble methods concluded with a splendid peal at Truro, Cathedral on the 3rd inst.

THE CENTRAL COUNCIL. TUESDAY'S MEETING AT CHELMSFORD.

The thirty-seventh annual meeting of the Central Council was held in the Cathedral Hall, Chelmsford, on Tuesday, and was attended by 78 members. Canon G. F. Coleridge (president) presided, and a welcome was extended to the members by Canon Morrow (the Sub-Dean) and by the Mayor of Chelmsford.

The statement of accounts was adopted. It showed receipts amounting to £21 9s. 6d., and expenses amounting to £16 5s. 6d., thus increasing the balance in hand from £26 15s. 6d. to £31 19s. 6d.

The receipts from the sale of publications was £6 5s. 3d., but there was a loss of £3 9s. on this account.

The Librarian's report was adopted, and it was resolved that the pamphlet on the 'Preservation of Bells,' which was out of print, should be revised and reprinted.

Rev. E. W. Carpenter, Mr. James George and Mr. H. W. Wilde were re-elected hon. members, and Mr. W. A. Cave was elected an hon. member.

After new members had been presented to the president, the Hon. Secretary (Mr. E. A. Young) reported the loss by death during the year of three members, Mr. J. D. Drewett, Alderman R. B. Chambers and Mr. R. Holloway, and the members stood in silence as a mark of respect. He also reported that the Standing Committee had considered the question of general ringing on the day of national thanksgiving for the King's recovery, and it was agreed that a letter of congratulation be sent to His Majesty with a record of the peals that are rung in connection with the event.

The Roll of Honour had been completed by the addition of six names, and Mr. Carter's ringing machine was having a new motor put to it. It was hoped this machine would be available for demonstration by November.

The Peal Collection Committee's report was brief, Mrs. Fletcher stating that the Rev. H. G. T. Richardson was now proving the peals of Treble Bob with the tenors parted.

The Rev. F. L. Edwards presented the Literature and Press Committee's report, which commented upon the generally satisfactory nature of press references to bells and bell-ringing, and added a word of warning that careful watch should be kept on any legislation promoted to deal with noises, in order that nothing should creep in which would be detrimental to the ringing of church bells. The report asked that the members of the legal profession on the Council be asked to keep an eye on legislative measures of this nature and be prepared to take such action in conjunction with the Standing Committee as emergency might demand.

A sub-committee which has been revising the 'Rules for a Local Company' had, it was reported by Mr. E. W. Elwell, practically concluded its labours, and a new edition would shortly be printed.

As was expected, the report of the Methods Committee (published in 'The Ringing World' of April 26th) aroused great controversy. Its acceptance was moved by the Rev. H. Law James, and seconded by Mr. J. A. Trollope in reasoned speeches.

Mr. W. Willson moved to refer it back for the deletion of the Morris and Pitman arrangement of Grandsire Doubles, the Bankes James Cambridge Surprise Minor, and the Law James London Surprise Minor, on the ground that they were 'hopelessly false.'—Mr. James George seconded.

The debate was interrupted by the luncheon interval, and during the afternoon a number of members took part, and on a division the amendment was carried by 30 votes to 29 on a second count.

On being put as a substantive motion, however, Mr. Willson's resolution was defeated, and a deadlock was thus arrived at. At the suggestion of Mr. Trollope it was eventually decided to print these compositions in an appendix with a note that their publication did not commit anyone to the opinion that they were suitable to be used in a peal.

This suggestion was adopted by 44 votes to three.

The Peals Analyses Committee's report, already published, was adopted, on the motion of Mrs. Fletcher, seconded by Mr. G. Williams.

Mr. J. W. Parker and the Rev. A. T. Beeson having resigned from the committee, Mr. James George and Mr. G. R. Pye were added to it, and the committee were thanked for their valuable work.

The Towers and Belfries Committee's report (also already published in these columns) was adopted on the motion of the Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn, and the committee were entrusted with the preparation of a revised edition of the book on the preservation of bells, which will include the committee report on acoustics of towers.

The Records Committee's report, presented by Mr. T. H. Beams, was adopted, as was also an important and valuable report presented by Mr. F. A. Milne for the Legal Committee on 'The Law Affecting Church Bells.'

The Rev. E. S. Powell suggested that the motion should read: 'The Council then came to the motions on the agenda, and another important discussion centred round that moved by Mr. R. Whittington and seconded by Mr. A. H. Pulling: 'That this Council will not recognise as a peal of Minor or Doubles any composition in which the bells do not strike in 720 or 120 different orders respectively before beginning the next 720 or 120.'

The Rev. E. G. Powell suggested that the motion should read: 'That the Council will not recognise as a peal of Minor any composition in which each 720 is not true and complete, and which does not start from and end with rounds.'—Mr. F. W. Perrens seconded.

Eventually the proposer and seconder withdrew their motion in favour of the amendment, but an amendment moved by the Rev. F. L. Edwards, and seconded by Mr. C. T. Coles, was put, that further consideration of the matter be deferred until a future meeting.—The amendment was declared carried by 34 or 35 votes to 24, and was then adopted as the substantive motion.

In the absence of Mr. Elwell, who had had to leave early, the Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn proposed: (a) 'That honorary members pay an affiliation fee of 5s. each per annum'; (b) 'That associations in future pay a fee of 5s. per representative per annum.'—Rev. C. A. Clements seconded.—The first part (a) of the motion was defeated, and the second portion (b) was carried.

The following motion, proposed by Rev. H. Drake and seconded by Mr. C. J. Sedgley, was also approved: (a) 'The Council asks each association to appoint a consultant to the Advisory Committee or Committees in its area'; (b) 'The Council asks each association to make every effort to get as many ringers as possible elected to Parochial Church Councils, to Diocesan Conferences and to the Church Assembly.'

On the proposition of Mr. J. S. Goldsmith, seconded by Mr. C. T. Coles, and supported by the hon. secretary, it was resolved that the rules of the Council be amended in order to provide that the notice and agenda of each annual meeting of the Council be published at least eight weeks, instead of twelve weeks, prior to such meeting.

On behalf of Mr. Walter Ayre (who was unable to be present owing to illness), Mr. E. A. Young moved: 'That a committee be appointed to consider the best method of dealing with cases of extraordinary sickness amongst members of our affiliated change ringing associations, with power to report to the next annual meeting.'—Mr. J. George seconded.—The motion was negatived, the opinion of the meeting being that this was a matter best left in the hands of the associations themselves.

Next year's meeting falls to be held in London, and, amid applause, the Council learned that the hon. secretary had been able to secure (subject to no unforeseen circumstances arising) the use of a room at Lambeth Palace for the meeting.

Mr. James George made a suggestion that the Council should undertake the publication of a complete directory of ringers, and was informed by the president that a matter of this kind could only be discussed upon a formal resolution, which he told Mr. George must appear on the agenda.

A vote of congratulation to the president on his recovery from his illness, and of thanks to him for the admirable way in which he had presided over what was at times a difficult meeting, was passed on the motion of the Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn, seconded by Mr. T. Faulkner, and the meeting concluded at 5 p.m. with a vote of thanks to the Mayor, the Sub-Dean, Mr. Howard and the members of the Essex Association for the arrangements made for the comfort of the members.

Afterwards the members and their friends were entertained to tea at the County Hotel by the Essex Association, and in the evening, after ringing at the Cathedral, there was a social gathering at the hotel.

A full report of the proceedings will appear in subsequent issues of 'The Ringing World.'

YOUNG RINGER'S DEATH.

The S. Nicolas' tower, Guildford, has lost a valued ringer by the death of Sidney Stedman Radford at the early age of 16 years.

The funeral took place on Monday, May 20th, and was attended by a number of ringers, a touch of Grandsire Triples being rung at the graveside, and afterwards a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples half-muffled on the S. Nicolas' tower bells. The deepest sympathy is extended to Mr. Septimus Radford, his father, who has been steeple-keeper for 35 years at this tower.

BEDFORDSHIRE ASSOCIATION.

A very successful meeting of the Bedford District was held at Milton Ernest on Saturday, May 4th. It had originally been decided to hold this meeting at Thurlough, but this arrangement had to be altered at the last minute owing to a death in the parish. Over 30 members, however, were present at Milton Ernest from the following towers: Bedford, Cardington, Thurlough, Keysoe, Riseley, Harrold, Turvey, Clapham, Bromham, Kempston, Wilden, Roxton, Milton Ernest, Sandy, Higgleswade and Olney, Herts, and methods ranging from Grandsire to London Minor were rung during the afternoon and evening.

A pleasant feature of the meeting was the election of eight new members, and another was the number of young ringers present. It was agreed to hold the next meeting at Copple on June 1st.

ESSEX ASSOCIATION'S JUBILEE.

MONDAY'S CELEBRATION AT CHELMSFORD.

FIFTY YEARS OF PROGRESS.

The jubilee celebration of the Essex Association at Chelmsford on Whit Monday brought together a large number of members from all parts of the country, and representatives of many other associations attended to show their interest in the proceedings and to extend their congratulations to the association upon the interesting event. The association was founded on Whit Monday, 1879, at Writtle, by the Rev. J. B. Seaman, who was then priest-in-charge of that parish. The preliminary meeting held at Writtle Vicarage on May 9th, 1879, was attended by representatives from six neighbouring parishes. At this meeting a set of rules was drawn up, and it was decided to circularise every incumbent, churchwarden and band of ringers attached to towers of five bells and upwards in the county inviting them to Writtle on the following Whit Monday. The inaugural meeting was attended by clergy, churchwardens and forty-seven ringers from fifteen parishes, and the association was duly launched. Of those present at that first meeting only six are known to be alive to-day, viz., Messrs. W. Hawkes (Springfield), W. Bearman (Bocking), F. Rudkin, T. Edwards and T. Watson (Braintree), and B. Keeble (Romford). Messrs. Rudkin and Hawkes are still members of the association. The Rev. J. B. Seaman, who convened the preliminary meeting, was appointed the first hon. secretary. He held office for four years, and resigned on going to Manitoba to join his son there. He was succeeded by the Rev. H. A. Cockey, who held the position until 1886, when the Rev. T. L. Papillon was elected. During his term of office, the association made great strides, and by 1901 the membership had increased to 532. The county was then divided into four divisions, each with its own District Master and Secretary.

At the same time another new office was created in the appointment of a Master for the whole association. To this position the Rev. T. L. Papillon was elected, and held office until 1909, when he left the county. The Rev. H. T. W. Eyre, who had acted as assistant secretary since 1890, was appointed to succeed Canon Papillon as hon. secretary and treasurer. He remained in office until 1921, when the present esteemed secretary and treasurer, Mr. F. J. Pitstow, was elected. During the time the Rev. H. T. W. Eyre held office the association increased in numbers and usefulness under his able guidance. Upon the resignation of Canon Papillon Mr. C. H. Howard was appointed Master, and has held office up to the present time.

To-day there are in the county 3 rings of twelve bells, 3 of ten, 45 of eight, 63 of six, and 60 of five, making a total of 174 rings of five bells and upwards. Of these, 93 are in union with the association.

A revival in the restoration of bells has taken place in the county during the last twenty years, in no small measure due to the advocacy of the Master, and a great many augmentations and re-hangings are due to the association's efforts and influence. Among them is the ring of 12 for the Cathedral to which the association gave the treble bell, being the first association of ringers in the county to make such a gift. At this time, when the association is celebrating its jubilee, the membership is the highest yet attained. It exceeds the record of last year by 24, and is made up as follows. Hon. members 89, resident ringing members 780, non-resident ringing members 215, making a total of 1,064.

A WORK OF TREMENDOUS IMPORTANCE.

Monday's gathering was both large and successful. Members were present from all districts and most of the affiliated towers. In addition there were many members of the Central Council from distant parts of England who had arrived for the proceedings on Tuesday, and something approaching 300 ringers must have visited Chelmsford to share in the celebration, which officially began with service in the Cathedral. The building was well filled, and the singing was led by the organ. The association's customary form was used, and the sermon was preached by the newly-enthroned Bishop of Chelmsford, who, as president of the association, met the members for the first time. He expressed his pleasure at meeting so many of them, and in taking a prominent part in that service, which was a kind of annual consecration and rededication of the work in which they were engaged. They were, he said, a people who practised and preserved an art intimately associated with the romantic, sentimental and profoundly religious moments in the lives of the community, and a people who were doing a work of tremendous importance in our national life to-day. They were living, he said, in days when every institution and every society was being challenged with the question, 'What is the good of it?' The test of value in these days was generally the test of crude gain. They could say quite truly that bellringers were not essential to life; that they did not increase the national income, or make any contribution to the increase of exports or imports. They could not pass any financial tests, and in the spirit which prevailed in many directions to-day they might say there was no place for the bellringer—let him go. But that, he thought, was a mistake of the most serious kind. There were certain embellishments and adornments in life which were absolutely essential. Who could deny that life to-day would be infinitely poorer if it were shorn of the multitude of things that had no value in £ s. d.? He looked upon bellringing as one of those adornments and embellishments of life, one of the things which beautified worship, and he said without hesitation that if an art of that kind were banished from among them, their moral and spiritual life would be so much the poorer. The work in which the ringers were engaged was a beautiful and gracious contribution to life to-day, and he hoped the day would never come when worship would be robbed of the art of the change ringer. In giving the ringers a message, the Bishop quoted an inscription to be found on a bell at Colchester: 'Different in size, in note, and weight, both small and great we harmonise.' That was a thought which he would ask them to carry away with them. They were all different in size, in note and in weight—different in moral and physical and intellectual weight—but could it be said of them that, small and great, they harmonised? Were they each making their contribution towards the common stock, which was essential if there was to be harmony among them? They had each a contribution to make to the common stock; a contribution for the common well-being; but if it were made by them all, then, 'different in size and note, both small and great, we harmonise.' If the bells they rung taught them that priceless lesson, their lives would be enriched and blessed by the dignified work in which they were engaged.

MR. C. H. HOWARD.

Twenty years Master of the Essex Association.

THE BUSINESS MEETING.

After the service, at which a collection was taken for the association's bell restoration fund, the members adjourned to the Cathedral Hall, where the Bishop presided over the annual business meeting, and was supported on the platform by Canon Morrow, the new Rector and Sub-Dean of Chelmsford, the Master (Mr. C. H. Howard), the hon. secretary (Mr. F. J. Pitstow), and four of the original members of the society, Messrs. W. Hawkes, W. Bearman, F. Rudkin and T. Edwards.

The Master extended a welcome to the Bishop and the Sub-Dean, and, having expressed the association's deep regret at the death of Canon Lake, the company stood in silence as a mark of respect.

The Bishop thanked the members for the honour they had done him in electing him as president. He said he could not but feel, as he looked round that gathering, what a fine body of people they were. To find so many ready to turn up at the annual meeting was a most impressive thing. It was particularly pleasing to see so many young men among them, apparently determined to carry on the fine tradition associated with bellringing. In carrying on this work, these young men were doing something of great value, and he congratulated them and the association as well (applause).

The business of the meeting was then proceeded with, and under the able guidance of the Bishop was disposed of with commendable dispatch.

The report and balance sheet were first adopted.

STILL SCOPE FOR EXPANSION.

In his annual report the Master remarked that even with the present record membership of 1,064 there is ample scope for increase. A considerable number of towers, especially in the outlying villages, are not yet affiliated, and change ringing is not yet practised. He appealed to those more fortunate members in the parishes where the art is firmly established to pay visits during the summer months to some of those towers, a word of encouragement, and, where possible, to offer their services as instructors, and so give their less fortunately placed fellow-ringers an opportunity to acquire the art.

The Master also commented upon the number of belfry improvements that had taken place during the year, and remarked that the fifty peals rung, although rather less than the previous year, made a very creditable list. The peal of Superlative Maximus at the Cathedral, and New Cambridge and Kent Surprise Major at Harlow Common were each the first in the method by the association. The peal of Spliced Surprise Minor in twenty-two methods at Chigwell Row by the Leytonstone band was a very remarkable performance requiring great concentration of mind, and deserved special mention. The association was again indebted to W. Keeble for his indefatigable services as conductor in 19 peals in nine different towers. Quite a number of young members had been piloted by him through their first peal, or first peal in a Surprise method, during the year. The financial statement was quite satisfactory. Including the balance in hand from last year, the total income from all sources in the general secretary's account amounted to £70 15s. 5d., and expenditure to £35 17s. 8d., leaving a balance in hand of £24 17s. 9d. The balance of the Bell Restoration Fund was gradually increasing. Grants of £2 2s. to Elmdon, £3 3s. to Great Bardfield, and £2 2s. to Saffron Walden had been made, leaving a balance in hand of £21 15s. 10d. The reserve fund had increased from £178 14s. 3d. to £186 6s. 7d.

A large measure of the association's success was due to the excellent services rendered by the officers, and for the ready co-operation given by the clergy, without whose assistance it would be almost impossible to continue, and the association tender to them their grateful thanks. Encouraged with such a past record, the Master appealed to the members to go forward with renewed effort, strengthened by the spirit of brotherhood and fellowship, determined to accomplish even better results in the future, ever remembering the responsibilities of their office of summoning the people to public worship.

MASTER'S 21st ELECTION.

The Master was unanimously elected for the twenty-first time with applause, on the motion of Mr. T. Faulkner, seconded by Mr. Butler.

Mr. Pitstow was re-elected hon. secretary, and heartily thanked for his past services, the Master mentioning the long connection which the Pitstow family had had with the association, and the work which they had done for it.

The five members, to act with the officers on the committee, were re-elected, viz., Dr. Spencer Phillips, Messrs. W. Keeble, W. Lincoln, T. Faulkner and F. Dench. A vacancy on the peal committee, caused by the death of Mr. F. Pitstow, was filled by the election of Mr. G. L. Joyce, the other members (Messrs. T. Faulkner, G. R. Pye and W. Keeble) being re-elected, as were also the association's representatives on the Central Council, Messrs. C. H. Howard, G. R. Pye, W. J. Nevard and E. J. Butler, for the triennial term commencing in 1930.

The auditors, Messrs. W. H. Theobald and G. W. Faulkner, were re-elected, some amusement being caused by the suggestion that their salary should be doubled. Eventually they were elected at the same salary as heretofore, but, as the Bishop pointed out, this did not matter one way or the other; the amount was the same—nothing.

A number of new members were elected, including Canon Morrow, the Rev. H. V. Riess (Vicar of Harwich), as hon. members, and Messrs. C. H. Jennings (Weymouth), W. H. Shaker (Manchester), and J. Hunt (Taunton) as life members.

Mr. T. Edwards, one of the foundation members, expressed his pleasure at being present at the jubilee meeting, and recalled the formation of the association and some of his experiences in ringing in those early days in the Braintree district.

Mr. Faulkner invited the association to hold a meeting at Barking in September in connection with the tranksgiving which was then to be held to celebrate the completion of the restoration of the church.

At the suggestion of Mr. L. Wiffen the Master undertook that the committee should consider the question of making a contribution to the Canon Lake memorial.

Canon G. F. Coleridge (president of the Central Council), who had arrived during the meeting, extended congratulations to the association upon celebrating its jubilee. He could, he said, go back to the time when the association was founded. One of the prime movers was a dear old friend of his, the Rev. H. A. Cockey. They were undergraduates together at Oxford, and both learned to ring there. Mr. Cockey began by helping to form a county association, and if he had been alive he would have been a leading spirit there that day, and would have been overjoyed at that large assembly of ringers, properly taken notice of by their Bishop. He wished them all success in the future, and hoped by the time they kept their second jubilee their numbers would not only be doubled but, rather, trebled or quadrupled (applause).

The Master proposed a vote of thanks to the Bishop for preaching to them, to Canon Morrow for the use of the Cathedral and the bells, and to the other incumbents of neighbouring churches who had placed bells at their disposal.

Canon Morrow replied, and promised that anything he could do to further the interests of the association in the tower of the Cathedral or in any other way he would be pleased to do for them.

Luncheon was afterwards served in the Corn Exchange, when over 250 sat down. The chair was taken by the Bishop, who was supported by the Mayor and Mayoress of Chelmsford, Canon Morrow, Mr. C. H. Howard, Rev. Canon Coleridge, Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn (Master of the Oxford Guild), Mr. E. A. Young (hon. secretary of the Central Council), Mr. W. Pye (Master of the Middlesex Association), Mr. F. J. Pitstow, Mr. T. Faulkner, Mr. W. J. Nevard, Mr. E. J. Butler, Mr. Black, etc.

MAYORAL THEORY OF THE FIRST BELL.

The Bishop proposed the toast of 'The King,' and the Mayor submitted 'The Church,' in which he was both grave and gay. He often had wondered, he said, who invented the bell, and he had come to the conclusion that a Mayor must have had something to do with it. As they had recognised, Mayors were pretty good people in turning up at feasts (laughter). In primitive times Mayors and councillors, when they assembled to dine, often prepared their meals in a pot over a camp fire, and in that he saw the discovery of the bell (laughter). He could imagine some Mayor having had a good dinner round the camp fire, and, at the conclusion of the meal, taking up his mace and tinkling the pot which had contained his dinner, with the mace. He thus discovered the soloist quality of a hemispherical measure (laughter). Having got their bells, they got campanologists, and hence mayors and bellringers' luncheons seemed bound up together (laughter). The Mayor went on to voice appreciation, on behalf of the public, of the manner in which the ringers devoted themselves to their work in the cause of the Church. Bells, he said, were the voice of the Church: they touched and searched the hearts of young and old, and their speech and meaning was manifold.

The Bishop replied to the toast, and Canon Morrow proposed 'The Essex Association,' referring to its magnificent growth, which he attributed largely to the untiring efforts of Mr. Howard (applause). Canon Morrow proved that he was no stranger to a belfry, and caused amusement by relating an experience in West Ham belfry many years ago, when he and a friend, who rose to a high position in the Navy, were both swung up by the tenor bell, and had their heads knocked together in the process.

Mr. Howard, replying to the toast, disclaimed the credit given him for the success of the association, and said it was due to the excellent officers which the association had had during its whole history. Mr. Howard briefly reviewed the progress of the association, and referred to the fact that a great many bells in Essex had been restored through the efforts of the association. They had succeeded in stopping the pernicious practice of 'clocking,' which had cracked so many ancient bells, and added that much greater care was taken of bells than used to be the case. Wherever there was a band of change ringers they would find that the bells were properly cared for, which proved that the association was fulfilling a valuable duty. The association had on many occasions been the means of getting bells rehung where they would not otherwise have been touched. At such towers they usually held a meeting and put before the authorities the need for improvement, and they usually found that they were well supported. The Master went on to refer to the interest and enthusiasm which many of their members maintained, and spoke of the fact that Essex had produced some of the finest ringers and composers known to the Exercise. They were particularly fortunate in having had among them the Pye family, who began their ringing at a five-bell tower, and had become the most remarkable family of ringers in the country (applause). The spirit of brotherhood which existed among ringers was, said Mr. Howard, largely responsible for the success of all their associations. There was no stronger brotherhood existing in any branch of the Church more than existed among the ringers of to-day (applause).

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

BICESTER BRANCH'S RECORD MEETING.

The annual meeting of the Bicester Branch was held at Ambrosden on Saturday, May 4th, 43 being present, including Rev. W. O'Rieley (chairman), Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn (Guild Master), Mr. A. J. Wright (treasurer), Mr. R. T. Hibbert (secretary), Rev. C. E. Edwards (Piddington), Rev. Oake (Ambrosden), and representatives of Bicester, Islip, Middleton, Stoney, Launton, Caversfield, Piddington towers, and visitors from Tring, Burford, Oxford, Abingdon and Heyford. Several excellent touches in various methods were rung in the afternoon, after which the Guild service was conducted by Rev. Oake, a particularly interesting sermon being preached by Rev. Dr. Busher (Rector of Charlton-on-Otmoor), from the 122nd Psalm words, 'I was glad when they said unto me, we will go into the House of the Lord.'

After the service, the party adjourned to the Vicarage, where an excellent repast was waiting. At the meeting which followed, the branch chairman (Rev. W. O'Rieley) extended a welcome, and said how pleased he was to see so many present. It was easily the largest number at a branch meeting.

The hon. secretary gave his report, which was considered highly satisfactory. The balance sheet was next presented, and was adopted.

Rev. Oake next spoke of the work that had been carried out at Ambrosden, the ring of six bells having been augmented to eight by the addition of two new trebles, and said how very much he had to thank Mr. F. Sharpe, of Launton, for his invaluable services during the carrying out of the scheme. The branch also accorded to him their appreciation of all the time and energy he had spent to make the alterations a success.

Rev. O'Rieley was unanimously re-elected chairman of the branch with acclamation.—The hon. secretary and treasurer, Mr. E. A. Clifton, was re-elected, and the representatives on the Guild Committee (Mr. F. Sharpe and Mr. F. Neale) were also re-elected.

Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn, Mr. R. T. Hibbert and Mr. Wright each gave an interesting address. Two new members were elected (one honorary and one ringing member).

Votes of thanks were passed to Rev. Dr. Busher for his address, Mrs. Oake for her services at the organ, and Rev. Oake for all his trouble in arranging the meeting and tea, and making the whole proceedings a great success. Later there was some excellent ringing on the bells.

MASTER'S SERVICES RECOGNISED.

An interesting presentation to the Master was then made by Mr. T. Faulkner, who, on behalf of the members, handed to Mr. Howard a handsome silver tea and coffee service. It had been said in 'The Ringing World' last week that the Essex Association was a virile association, and that the officers were tactful and energetic. Not the least tactful and not the least energetic, proceeded Mr. Faulkner, had been their Master, and they desired to give him some slight recognition of the tact and energy which he had shown in the work of the association for many years. That gift was a tangible token of their affection and regard. That day he entered upon his 21st year as Master. He (Mr. Faulkner) proposed him on the first occasion, and he was thankful to have been there to propose him on the 21st (applause). Mr. Howard had been one of the most kindly and complacent Masters of any association in any part of the country. He had made them feel that he was not their Master but their brother (applause). Whoever had suggested the form of the present must have had a thought for Mrs. Howard and the sacrifices she must have made in sparing her husband to do so much for the association. He hoped Mr. and Mrs. Howard would use this service, and every time they used it would remember that it was a present from the ringers of Essex in appreciation of what they had done for the Essex Association. The teapot was inscribed, 'Presented to Charles H. Howard by the Essex Association in appreciation of his services as Master, 1909-1929.'

The gift was handed to Mr. Howard amid cheers, followed by the singing of 'For he's a jolly good fellow.' The Master had to acknowledge that he had been taken completely by surprise. He expressed his gratitude for the gift, and said that as long as the association required his services it would be his endeavour to serve them as faithfully as he had done in the past.

This concluded the speech making, and the members dispersed to the many towers in the district, where they enjoyed ringing throughout the rest of the day. The twelve bells at the Cathedral were the centre of attraction, but private cars and specially chartered buses took visitors to Writtle, Widford, Galleyswood, Great Baddow, Great Waltham and Boreham, which all have peals of eight, and Broomfield and Springfield, which have rings of six.

The day was one of the most successful and enjoyable in the long history of the association.

THE 18½ TON RINGING BELL,
the Bourdon of the Carillon of 64 Bells, about to be installed at
RIVERSIDE CHURCH, NEW YORK, U.S.A.

THE SECESSION OF GLOUCESTER AND BRISTOL

Quite as important as anything that happened inside the Central Council last Tuesday, was the step taken by the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association on Monday, when it was decided no longer to be affiliated to the Council. The main ground on which this drastic action was taken was, if we have comprehended the position correctly, that the Council does not recognise the right of any association to instruct its representatives how to vote on any question; in other words, that representatives go to the meetings of the Council as free agents unfettered by any wishes which may have been expressed by those who send them and who, in many cases, pay their expenses. The difference of opinion which has led to this secession has, in the case of the Gloucester and Bristol Association, been somewhat aggravated by other grievances, but we say without hesitation that it is a matter for great regret that such an important organisation should have withdrawn upon any pretext without having first made an effort to remedy what was thought to be wrong.

A vital principle is involved in this matter. There are many who hold that it is useless for a member to go to a meeting with his hands tied, to vote as directed, without having first heard all sides of the question. They argue, and it must be admitted not without reason, that it is waste of time and money for a man to attend a meeting to vote, when the way in which he shall use that vote has already been decided for him and that it is a slight upon his intelligence not to allow him to use his discretion. On the other hand, there are those who hold just as strongly that the Council cannot retain a commanding position in the Exercise unless it is the interpreter of the wishes of its constituent bodies and, for this to be effective, it must accept the principle that 'those who pay the piper shall be allowed to call the tune,' at any rate in all important matters. Among those who take this latter view is the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association, as represented by a majority at the annual meeting.

The action of the association in withdrawing from the Council must, we think, bring this question to a head. Obviously it cannot be allowed to remain where it is, for the retirement of the association may have a damaging effect. It is not a question of apathy, or loss of interest which has caused the Gloucester and Bristol organisation to drop away from the central authority; it is a direct challenge to a policy which has been pursued since the Council was inaugurated, and it cannot be ignored. It is a pity, as we have already said, that the association renounced its connection with the Council, before taking steps to test the opinion of the Exercise, as might very opportunistically have been done through a resolution passed by the Council last week, to bring the subject before all the associations during the coming year, when the triennial election of members takes place. But the Gloucester and Bristol Association has now taken action and has thus forced a position which calls for immediate con-work it has done and can do, and for the welding force which it exerts throughout the Exercise.

SUSSEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION. ANNUAL MEETING.

Preaching at the service prior to the annual meeting of the Sussex Association at Brighton on Whit Monday, the Rev. W. J. R. Allen (Vicar of the Church of the Good Shepherd) said the ringers were doing the highest service to the Church when they rang the bells.

'They were, he said, helping the Church to carry on in the task of seeing that the world did not forget Jesus Christ. 'All the time they hear the bells they must think,' he added.

The service, which took place at Brighton Parish Church of St. Peter, was preceded by the ringing of a number of touches at the towers of St. Peter's and St. Nicholas'. Ringing continued at these towers after the meeting, and later in the evening the bells of the Church of the Good Shepherd in Dyke Road were available.

A meat tea, served by Morleys, Brighton, followed the service, after which the general meeting was held.

The Master, Mr. J. Thornton Rickman, who presided, referred to the fact that since the last meeting the association had lost through death three of its principal officers. Before proceeding to the business he suggested they should pay a tribute to the memory of their president, the Bishop of Chichester, one of the vice-presidents, the Bishop of Lewes, and their highly respected hon. treasurer, Mr. Ellman Brown.

The Hon. Gen. Sec., Mr. A. D. Stone, associating himself with the Master's remarks, observed that it was exactly 11 years ago that day when Mr. Ellman Brown became hon. treasurer of the association. 'The association has lost an officer, and the hon. secretary has lost a friend,' concluded Mr. Stone.

The meeting stood for a few moments as a mark of sympathetic respect.

FINANCES.

The financial position, it was stated, was good. Notwithstanding an increased expenditure on rail fares, a useful balance of nearly £4 was shown on the year's work. At the same time members were receiving the maximum benefits compatible with sound finance. The Benevolent Fund continued to be of assistance to members, and hope was expressed that by collections at meetings—the fund's sole source of income—the balance would steadily increase until a total of £100 invested capital was reached. Several new towers had become affiliated, and the co-operation of every member was urged in this direction. 'We make no apology,' concluded the report, 'for reminding members once more than our first duty is to maintain the level of service ringing in our individual towers at the highest possible standard and to spare no pains to attain this end by punctual and regular attendance.'

The general account showed a balance of £116 8s. 4d. from receipts of £179 6s. 6d., and the balance from general account and reserve and benevolent funds totalled £237 10s. 11d.

The report and accounts were adopted.

The Bishop of Chichester was re-elected president, and the vice-presidents were reappointed with the addition of the Bishop of Lewes. Mr. J. T. Rickman was re-elected Master, and he also agreed to fill the office of hon. treasurer. Mr. A. D. Stone, who was again elected hon. secretary, expressed satisfaction at the financial position of the association. Mr. F. Bennett was re-elected as hon. peals secretary, and the hon. auditors, Messrs. W. C. Hart and R. J. Dawe, were re-elected.

Mr. J. T. Rickman was appointed representative to the Central Council.

It was decided to again hold the annual meeting at Brighton next year.

RAIL FARES.

Some discussion resulted from Mr. G. F. Norris' proposition that rail fares be increased from half-fare, maximum 1s. 6d., to half-fare, maximum 5s. He contended that 1s. 6d. was not sufficient to help in journeys to outlying districts, and suggested that an increase might bring other towers into the association.

The Hon. Secretary asked where the money was coming from. He did not think it would bring other towers in. Practically all those with bands were affiliated.

A representative of the Kent Association said they only paid half-fares to a maximum of 2s. once a year for district meetings. He did not think, for a membership fee of 2s., they should stand a chance of getting back 8s.

An allowance up to 1s. 6d. per member is made for 12 divisional meetings, while for the annual meeting the allowance is up to 2s. 6d., with 1s. 3d. for tea.

After the Chairman had read a letter from Mr. F. B. Tompkins, one of the vice-presidents, expressing the opinion that it would be a mistake to alter the present satisfactory position, Mr. Norris withdrew.

The question of making a grant to Holy Trinity, Rudgwick, whose bells were stated to be cracked and unringable, was raised. The Hon. Secretary pointed out that the association had no fund from which such a grant could be drawn.

Mr. Rodgers was thanked for having instructed the Rogate band.

The following towers were represented: Aldrington, Angmering, Battle, Brighton St. Peter's, St. Nicholas and the Good Shepherd, Burgess Hill, Billingshurst, Chichester, Crawley, Cuckfield, East-

IRISH ASSOCIATION.

CERTIFICATES OF PROGRESS TO BE ISSUED.

The annual meeting of the Irish Association was held at Drogheda on Whit Monday in glorious weather. About seventy members attended from Bangor, Holywood, Arklow, Bray, Dublin (four towers) and the local tower. By 10 a.m. the bells of St. Peter's were set swinging, and were kept going till late in the evening, except for the usual intervals, Plain Bob, Grandsire and Stedman being the methods rung. Several of the Northern members got their first touch of Triples (Grandsire), in which they acquitted themselves very creditably.

Luncheon was partaken of at the Central Hotel, followed by the business meeting in the Church Hall, kindly lent for the purpose. The president, Mr. R. S. F. Murphy, P.C., occupied the chair.

The report showed that most of the members had been 'putting their backs into it' during the past year, and although no peals had been recorded, several branches could now ring Bob Minor who only about a year ago were ringing call changes.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Rev. W. B. Allman, A.M.; secretary, Mr. G. Lindoff; treasurer, Mr. D. Gibson.

Arklow was selected for the next annual meeting, and Mr. Murphy was elected to attend the Central Council meeting in London next year, with an invitation for that body to visit Dublin in the near future.

It was also decided that the association rent a space in 'The Ringers' Directory.'

Regarding a proposal for a second trophy for progress in change ringing, in addition to the shield presented to the society gaining the highest percentage of bells rung for Sunday services, it was decided to issue framed certificates to any society in union which showed progress under the following heads: First 120 Doubles by society; first 720 Minor by society; first 720 Minor by society, in a new method; first 1,260 Triples, etc., by the society; first 5,000 by the society; and subsequent peals in a new method; for a record length by association if over 6,000, such diplomas to have room for a number of subsequent additions.

The challenge shield, in making its first visit to Dublin, was presented to Christ Church Cathedral Society, who obtained 100 per cent., Bray and Arklow being very close on their heels. Mr. R. Lynch, who received the shield for his society, returned thanks.

A substantial tea was provided by the Drogheda ringers, after which Mr. Murphy proposed a hearty vote of thanks to Rev. W. B. Allman for the use of the bells and the Church Hall, to the Drogheda ringers for so kindly providing the tea, and to the ladies who assisted.—Rev. W. B. Allman suitably responded.

Then, while some of the members visited the various places of interest in the neighbourhood, others kept the bells going till motor and train time brought a very successful gathering to a close.

DEVON GUILD.

SUGGESTED FOUNDERS' COMMEMORATION DINNER.

The annual general meeting of the Guild of Devonshire Ringers was held at Tiverton on Whit Monday, and attracted an exceptionally large attendance of 226 members and friends. The glorious bells of St. Peter's Church started their music at 10.15, and at noon a service was held, conducted by the Rector (Rev. A. E. Chapman), who gave an inspiring address of welcome, exhortation and thanks. The large party were well catered for at Clapp's Cafe for dinner, after which the business meeting was proceeded with, the Rev. E. S. Powell, chairman, presiding.

Sympathy was expressed with the family of the late Mr. E. Munday, whose sudden death a day or two previously deprived the Tiverton band of one of their oldest members.

The annual report and financial statement for 1928, as published, was adopted, and the officers were re-elected as before.

A vote of thanks to the Rector, the organist, and Miss Hanson, branch secretary, for the excellent arrangements made, was duly acknowledged.

A proposal to hold an annual founders' commemoration dinner was referred to a committee consisting of the branch secretaries and officers of the Guild to ascertain the views of the bands severally on the subject.

Exmouth was selected as the place for holding the next annual meeting.

Two life members and nine performing members were elected. Subsequently parties were made up to visit Bickleigh and other neighbouring towns, and Tiverton bells were kept in operation up to 7 p.m. bourne St. Saviour's, East Grinstead, Heathfield, Hensfield, Hastings Christ Church, Blacklands, St. Clement's, Hartfield, Lindfield, Pulborough, Ringmer, Seaford, and Worthing, also non-resident members.

A collection taken at the service for the Benevolent Fund amounted to £1 1s. 6d.

The hon. secretary greatly regrets tea could not be provided for all. About 45 were expected according to replies, but 76 were present, and 62 of these were provided for.

NORFOLK GUILD. THE REORGANISATION.

A general meeting of the Norfolk Guild was held at Pulham, St. Mary-the-Virgin, on Whit Monday, when, by the kind permission of the Rectors of St. Mary-the-Virgin and St. Mary Magdalene, the two rings of eight bells were placed at the disposal of the members. Luncheon was served at the King's Head, Pulham St. Mary, Mr. G. P. Burton presiding in the absence of the president. He was supported by Messrs. C. E. Borrett, A. L. Coleman (hon. secretary), and a small number of representatives from Norfolk and Suffolk.

The toast of 'The King' was proposed by the chairman and duly honoured.

The secretary brought before the meeting Mr. Charles S. Tuthill's notice with respect to the appointment of an adviser to the Guild on matters pertaining to church bells and belfries.—After a short discussion, it was resolved that the secretary should endeavour to obtain an interview with the Archdeacon of Norwich on the subject and of the possibilities of a representative on the Church Fabrics Advisory Committee for the Diocese.

The Secretary read notice of an amendment to Guild Rule I., handed in at the annual general meeting on April 1st last, viz., 'That Rule I. as regards the title of the Guild be altered in accordance with the referendum.' A short debate followed, whether the word 'Association' or 'Guild' be used in the amended title of the Guild. Mr. C. E. Borrett proposed, and Mr. W. L. Duffield seconded, 'That the notice of the result of the referendum as regards the change of the title of the Guild be ratified, subject to the recommendation that the word "Guild" be substituted for the word "Association" in the amended title, and the matter to come up at a subsequent general meeting of the Guild for ratification.'—The motion was carried nem con.

A sub-committee was appointed to make recommendations for the grouping of the eleven existing districts into three divisions, and it was resolved that a report of the sub-committee be sent to the district secretaries. The following members were appointed to serve: Messrs. C. E. Borrett, F. R. Borrett, G. P. Burton, A. L. Coleman, with the president ex-officio.

The Secretary moved the election of five new members and the re-election of one member and the transfer of three members to life members (non-resident), and these were all duly elected.

A vote of thanks was passed to the Rev. E. W. Field and to the Rev. R. Stacey for the use of their bells, and also to Mr. and Mrs. C. T. P. Brice for their genial hospitality and hearty welcome, which more than compensated for the small attendance of members.

HISTORIC PEAL RECAST AND REHUNG. REDEDICATION OF BIDEFORD BELLS.

The Bishop of Exeter on Friday afternoon, May 17th, dedicated at St. Mary's Church, Bideford, the peal of eight bells which have just been recast by Messrs. John Taylor and Co., of Loughborough, extra metal having been added to make a heavier ring.

The inscriptions which were on the old bells have been copied, and the announcement added that the bells were recast in 1929. The fifth bell has been recast and rehung at the cost of the Nonconformists of the town, through the initiation of the Mayor, Mr. H. W. Fulford, and the bell is inscribed to that effect.

The inscription on the tenor bell, which weighs 17 cwt., records the fact that it was recast and rehung by public subscription in 1929, and bears the name of the Rector, Rev. W. E. Manning, and the churchwardens, Messrs. W. Ascott, F. R. Robertson and J. Street. The total cost of the restoration is approximately £1,000, and the whole of this amount was raised by the day of the dedication.

During the recasting, the church was loaned an ancient bell by the Bideford Corporation, taken from the local museum.

The official ceremony was attended by the Mayor and Corporation in State, and the Lord Bishop, in his address, congratulated the people on their gift, and more especially as it had not come from one section of the populace. His lordship recalled that at Bideford the bells were not merely used for calling them to worship, but were used in olden times to warn the town in the time of pirates. At one time, he thought, Lundy was the rendezvous of such pirates. He supposed one of the occasions when those bells were used was on the historic night of the invasion of the Armada. Then those bells had clashed with joy when the news came that the Armada had been absolutely destroyed, and that England was safe from the Inquisition.

Following the service there was a public tea and a dance, and the bells were rung by eight visiting hands of ringers, all of whom were loud in their praises as to the tone and 'go' of the peal.

A special feature of the restoration is the treatment of the tower roof to the designs of the bell founders, Messrs. Taylor and Co. A most wonderful effect has been produced, resulting in the bells being heard over a very large area, and reports came in late on the night of the dedication day that the bells were distinctly audible at villages five miles away, which had never before heard any sound of Bideford bells.

HUGHENDEN, BUCKS.—On May 19th, for morning service, a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples: F. D. Boreham 1, J. Kimber 2, R. M. Kimber 3, H. Stratford 4, F. G. Biggs 5, John Evans 6, R. Biggs (conductor) 7, J. Evans 8.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

St. Clement's Youths, attached to the famous Church of St. Clement Danes, in the Strand, have just joined the Central Council. The report of a peal at Creswell, Derbyshire, has been sent without the date.

Twenty years ago to-day a peal of 11,040 Double Norwich Major was rung at Leiston.

To-morrow is the anniversary of the 14,031 Stedman Caters rung on handbells at Guildford in 1912. The time occupied was 7 hrs. 3 mins. The previous longest length on handbells was 13,440 Rob Major rung at Pudsey on June 5th, 1911.

The first twelve-bell peal in Birmingham was 5,324 Grandsire Cinques at St. Martin's on June 3rd, 1773.

Bow bells were rung for the first time as a peal of ten on June 4th, 1762.

The 16,608 of Oxford Treble Bob was rung at Debenham in 10 hrs. 32 mins. on June 6th, 1892.

THE BELLS OF EDENHAM, LINCOLNSHIRE.

Some few years ago the bells of this very fine old church were tuned and rehung and a new treble added, making a good peal of six. Not long afterwards hopes ran high for the completion of the octave, as the Vicar of the parish at that time promised to give the bells. But alas! death called him away from Edenham. It was found later that he had bequeathed a sum of money to provide the bells, but once again hopes vanished, for owing to some difficulty arising word came that the money for the bells would not be forthcoming.

The parish is now tackling the job, and with this object in view a bazaar, etc., was held last Whit Monday, and a sum of £50 was realised. There is a band of ten Sunday service ringers who will be grateful if any kind friends, who are interested in their effort to improve the peal, will help them to raise the next £50 or £100 by sending donations to Arthur I. Holmes, hon. treasurer of the Bell Fund, Edenham, Bourne, Lincs. All contributions, large or small, will be gratefully acknowledged.

FIRST PEAL IN YORKSHIRE.

To the Editor.

Sir,—The rule books of the Ancient Society of College Youths (1912, page 13; 1928, page 14) state that in 1787 the society visited York and rang a peal of Grandsire Caters, and two days previously rang Treble Bob at Halifax, and these are recorded as the first peals in the county. There is a peal board at Sheffield, dated March 8th, 1785, recording a peal of 5,120 Union Treble Bob (eight in), and the band who rang this also rang on November 30th, 1787, 6,018 'Cambridge Surprise.'

Can any of your readers tell me if the 1785 peal is the earliest complete 5,000 in Yorkshire?—Yours faithfully,

ERNEST MORRIS.

WARWICKSHIRE GUILD.

A successful monthly meeting of the Guild was held at Clifton, near Rugby, on Saturday, May 25th. About twenty members and friends journeyed there in delightful weather, the following towers being represented: Allesley, Chilvers Coton, Nuneaton, Rugby, Shilton, Willoughby and the local band. Tea was provided by the Vicar (Rev. E. P. Hindley) and Mrs. Hindley, and was much appreciated. It was partaken of in the Vicarage garden.

The five bells of the church were kept going during the afternoon and evening to touches of Grandsire, Plain Bob and Stedman, some of the local band being shepherded through their first 120.

The chair was taken by Canon Coleridge (president) who opened the proceedings with prayer. At the outset, Canon Morrow, Sub-Dean and Rector of Chelmsford, and the Mayor of Chelmsford were present to welcome the Council, and the President, referring to this fact, said they had hoped to have the Bishop with them, but unfortunately he was prevented by other engagements. Had it not been for these, nothing would have given him greater pleasure than to welcome the Council to the diocese.

Canon Morrow, who extended a welcome to the members on behalf of the Church, said that during the past twenty or thirty years the whole personnel of the ringers had practically changed. The whole idea of ringing had been placed on a much higher level, and this was due to the labours of the organisations which that Council represented. Anything they could do in Chelmsford to make their visit a happy one they would be pleased to do (applause).

The Mayor gave a hearty welcome to the members on behalf of the city to what he described as one of the most beautiful of English counties and one of the 'hubs of the universe,' of which they were very proud. As the members of the Council would have seen for themselves on the previous day, the art which they particularly represented was flourishing in that county with the rest of things. He hoped the Council's session would be as happy and successful as good welcome could make it.

The Council then turned to the business of the day, and after confirming the minutes of the meeting at Hereford, received apologies for absence from the following members: Revs. C. D. P. Davies, A. T. Beeston, H. S. T. Richardson, F. J. O. Helmore, Canon Elsee, E. W. Carpenter, Messrs. J. W. Parker, J. Cotterill and the other representatives of the Yorkshire Association, J. S. Pritchett, A. Paddon Smith, H. Knight, E. H. Lewis, H. Haigh, W. Barton, W. Ayre, J. Clark, J. D. Matthews, T. H. Taffender and H. G. Fretwell.

The President said the reason why some of these members could not be present was on account of illness. He did not like to single out one beyond another, but if there was one whose absence caused them especial regret it was the Rev. C. D. P. Davies, who was their secretary for eighteen years, and who was the life and soul of the Council while he held office.

FINANCE.

The statement of accounts, audited by Messrs. J. Griffin and A. A. Hughes, was then presented by the hon. secretary and treasurer. The balance in the bank at the beginning of the year was £26 15s. 6d. The receipts included £5 5s. for the broadcast lecture on bells, £15 2s. 6d. in affiliation fees from the associations, and £5 interest on investments. The expenditure showed a loss on sale of publications of £3 9s., secretary's expenses £2 10s. 9d., Peals Collection Committee's expenses £5 2s. 6d., expenses in connection with the broadcast lecture £6 19s. 6d., printing and advertising £2 1s. 9d., leaving a balance in the bank of £31 19s. 6d.

Mr. Young added that subscriptions to the Council were due on January 1st, and notice of this fact appeared in 'The Ringing World' within two or three months of this date, calling attention to the fact. Unfortunately, a great number of the subscriptions did not come in until the last minute, and it was therefore difficult for him to get his balance sheet out. He hoped that secretaries in future would send him the affiliation fees as soon after the first of January as possible, or at any rate not after Easter. If they would do so it would be a great help. Mr. Young then explained the expenses incurred in connection with the broadcast lecture, which actually cost the Council about 35s. The subscriptions came from the same number of associations, one association, the Gloucester and Bristol, having gone out, one Guild, the Oxford University Guild, having come in.

The accounts were adopted on the motion of Mr. Griffin, seconded by Mr. Hughes.

The Hon. Librarian (Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn) presented his report as follows: There is not much to be said regarding the sale of publications during the past year. The amount realised is £6 5s. 3d., that is one pound in excess of the previous year, and this is owing to better business being done by the 'on sale or return' agents. There is an adverse balance of £3 9s. I had hoped to have two revised books for sale, namely, 'Rules for a Company' and 'Minor Methods,' but it was not to be. 'On the Preservation of Bells, etc.,' issued in 1892, may now be said to be out of print, as only a few copies are left. A new issue of this may well be considered. It might be worth while also having some more cards printed of 'Outlines of Change Ringing,' but that is only a small affair. Regarding the library, I have received the last instalment of the Treble Boh Peals Collection, a stupendous work in type, of which the Library possesses three copies and the Peal Collection Committee one. Mrs. Fletcher is again to be heartily thanked for her work and congratulated on its result (applause). The Heywood MSS. are still with Mr. Trollope, awaiting a report from him, when he can spare time to make one amid his many labours for the Exercise.

The Librarian added that it was rather remarkable that there had been a demand especially for their publications which had to do with the care of bells and so forth. Mr. Jenkyn also commented on the fact that he received numerous applications for things which were out of print. He wished members of the Exercise generally would watch the advertisements more carefully, and he would then be saved a good deal of writing and postage.

THE HEYWOOD MSS.

The Hon. Secretary said he had been in consultation with Mr. Trollope with regard to the Heywood MSS., and it was very difficult to say what should be destroyed and what kept. What they destroyed to-day might be valuable in 25 years' time, and they therefore came to the conclusion that the best thing would be to have the papers sorted out, put into covers, docketed, and put away so that they might be reviewed at some time in the future when, perhaps, they would be of more service than they were to-day.

Mr. J. A. Trollope said the MSS. consisted largely of letters which Sir Arthur Heywood received when he was corresponding with various people while writing the articles which appeared in 'Bell News' and afterwards in books like the book on 'Stedman Triples.' They consisted chiefly of letters from Mr. Thompson, Rev. Earle Bulwer and one or two other people. A large proportion of the letters were unintelligible unless one took a great deal of trouble, because they only had one side of the correspondence. They had the letters from Thompson, for example, but they had not got Heywood's letters to Thompson. At that time Thompson was working out the application of the theory of Q sets to methods like Bob Major and also Cambridge Surprise. He (Mr. Trollope) was rather interested to find that Thompson had anticipated lots of things which they thought were not found out until much later. Thompson had anticipated a good deal of what Sir Arthur Heywood wrote in 'Bell News' that proved that there was not more than one true peal of Cambridge Major with tenors together. Those papers, therefore, were not such as could be read like one would read a novel, but they might be of use to some selected person who might turn up in the next twenty or fifty years. He would not advocate their being destroyed. There were manuscripts in Bulwer's writing, on his articles on Stedman Triples, and a fairly complete manuscript in the writing of Haley, and lots of odds and ends of methods and letters on the theory of change ringing, which Heywood thought were worth preserving, and he (Mr. Trollope) did not think should be destroyed. At the suggestion of the President, the Council decided that the book on the Preservation of Bells should be revised and brought up to date before being republished.

NEW HONORARY MEMBER.

The President said four hon. members retired by rotation—Mrs. Edwards, Rev. E. W. Carpenter, Mr. James George, and Mr. H. W. Wilde. The Standing Committee had taken this matter into careful consideration and had come to the conclusion that as Mrs. Edwards had not attended any meeting of the Council it would not be advisable to re-elect one who was not an active member. In place of Mrs. Edwards, the Standing Committee were anxious to put forward for nomination a well-known member of the Exercise, one who had done a tremendous amount of work for the Council in many ways, and who had now ceased to be a representative member, owing to the Gloucester and Bristol Association having withdrawn. He was invaluable to the Council, and the Standing Committee thought he ought to be on the Council in some way or other—he referred to Mr. W. A. Cave, of Bristol (applause).

Mr. J. Hunt said it was with great regret he heard of the withdrawal of the Gloucester and Bristol Association, and he congratulated the Standing Committee on having suggested the retention on the Council of Mr. Cave, who was an able and capable man. He proposed that the Standing Committee's recommendation be adopted. Several members rose to second, and the Rev. E. S. Powell was accepted as seconder.

The motion was carried, and the President, in the name of the Council, congratulated Mr. Cave. He said it would be a thousand pities if that great district covered by the Gloucester and Bristol Association was not represented in some way or other.

Mr. Cave briefly thanked the Council for electing him.

The Rev. E. W. Carpenter, Mr. J. George and Mr. H. W. Wilde were re-elected.

After presentation of 'new' members to the Council (Rev. B. H. Tyrwhitt Drake, now representing the Ely Diocesan instead of the Hertford County Association; Mr. F. W. Elliott, Hertford County; and Mr. W. Shepherd, Guildford Diocesan Guild), the Hon. Secretary mentioned the loss by death of Mr. J. D. Drewett (Surrey Association), Mr. R. B. Chambers (Midland Counties Association), and Mr. R. Holloway (Middlesex County Association), and the Council stood in silence as a mark of respect.

On behalf of the Standing Committee, the Hon. Secretary reported that as only about 30 applications were received from members for cheap railway tickets for that meeting, and as the minimum number was a hundred, no request was made to the railway companies for the issue of vouchers, but he hoped, when they met in London next year, there would be a sufficient demand to enable them avail themselves of the facilities.

RINGERS AND THANKSGIVING DAY.

With regard to the King's recovery, there would shortly be a thanksgiving day, and the Standing Committee proposed that, in connection with that event, they should send to the King a letter of congratulation, and giving particulars of the peals rung in celebration of the occasion.

The Council's 'Roll of Honour' of Ringers who fell in the war had been brought up to date. It was rather wonderful that Mr. Jonkyn was able to get it as complete as it had proved to be. After four or five years they had only had to add six more names. Those had now been added. Their roll was one of the finest pieces of workmanship of its kind that had been produced, and the writer had called attention to the fact that it had been rather badly treated by those who had inspected it. He asked them all to use the book as tenderly as possible, and particularly to be careful not to finger-mark the pages or to damage the leaves in turning them. With regard to Carter's ringing machine, which was now in the custody of the Council, and was in the museum, a new motor had been put to it, and a form of resistance had been put in whereby a defect in the machine—if one could speak of a defect in such a marvellous machine—had been remedied. In the past the machine had been apt to be a trifle too fast in striking, especially in Cinques, but this had now been adjusted, so that if necessary it could be struck as if it were a muffled peal. The machine had been overhauled, and he hoped it might be exhibited, if not before, at any rate in November.

The President said the Standing Committee thought they should not send a letter expressing thankfulness at the King's recovery to His Majesty at the present time, but that, after the day of thanksgiving, and when peals, possibly, had been rung all over the country, it would be more fitting that they should collect these peals, make a resumé of them, and send them to the King to show what the ringers of England had done in the way of practical thanksgiving. They would let him know how many peals of 5,000 had been rung, where they were rung, and how long each peal had taken. He thought that would open the eyes of those in authority very considerably to the loyalty of the ringers (applause).

It was stated that the date fixed was June 16th, and at a later stage of the meeting, replying to Mr. James George, the President said they hoped to include in the list to be sent to His Majesty all the peals rung as a thanksgiving, whether they were rung on the 16th or before or after. Doubtless many would be rung in the following week. (To be continued.)

POLICE GUILD'S FIRST SURPRISE PEAL.

CELEBRATION OF THE METROPOLITAN POLICE CENTENARY.

Last Saturday was the one hundredth anniversary of the passing of the Metropolitan Police Improvements Bill by the House of Commons, and the event was celebrated by a parade of some 12,000 members of the Metropolitan Force. H.R.H. the Prince of Wales inspected the parade in Hyde Park, and afterwards took the salute in front of Buckingham Palace.

The Metropolitan Police Guild of Ringers were officially detailed to ring for the occasion, and appeared on the official programme and in the orders of the day.

Twelve officers and men of the Metropolitan Police, assisted by Sergt. H. Jenney, and Det.-Constable H. J. Poole, Leicester City Police, Sergt. W. Dowding, Birmingham City, Sergt. A. Lawrence, Herts Constabulary, P.O. W. T. Beeson, Surrey Constabulary, and P.C. Walter Clayden, Reigate Borough Police, took part in the day's ringing.

Prior to the parade a representative band rang on the bells of St. George the Martyr, Southwark, a peal of Cambridge Surprise Major, conducted by Det.-Constable H. J. Poole. This is the first peal of Surprise ever rung by a band of police officers, and it was most appropriate that the occasion should be so marked in the annals of ringing, and especially in the annals of the Police Guild.

During the parade and march past the Guild rang on the bells of St. Margaret's, Westminster, by kind permission of Canon Carnegie, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples (1,259 changes) in 50 mins., the band being: Sergt. G. Schleuter, Metropolitan, 1, Insp. W. Bottrill, Metropolitan, 2, P.C. Elliott, Metropolitan, 3, P.C. Brown, Metropolitan, 4, Sergt. Shipp, Metropolitan, 5, Det.-Sergt. W. Dowding, Birmingham, 6, P.C. C. Pease, Metropolitan, 7, Sergt. T. Walters, Metropolitan, 8, P.C. T. Bannister, Metropolitan (conductor), 9, and P.C. Taylor, Metropolitan, 10. On the bells of St. Martin-in-the-Fields, by kind permission of Canon McCormick, a quarter-peal of Stedman Caters (1,261 changes) in 55 mins., was rung by: Insp. Bottrill 1, Det.-Constable H. J. Poole, Leicester City (conductor) 2, Sergt. W. Dowding, Birmingham City, 3, P.C. C. Pease 4, P.C. F. Digby, Metropolitan, 5, Sergt. T. Walters 6, Sergt. A. Lawrence, Herts Constabulary, 7, P.C. T. Bannister, 8, P.C. W. T. Beeson, Surrey Constabulary 9, P.C. Wilmington, Metropolitan, 10.

The Metropolitan Police Guild wish to thank Mr. W. Hewitt, St. Margaret's, Westminster, and Mr. J. D. Matthews, St. Martin-in-the-Fields, for the excellent arrangements made at those towers, and Rev. W. Neep, Rector of St. George-the-Martyr, Southwark, for the use of the bells, and Mr. R. Spink, towerkeeper, for having the bells in readiness.

GUILDFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

A meeting of the Guildford District of the Guildford Diocesan Guild was held at Chiddingfold on Saturday. About thirty members and visitors from St. Nicolas' and the Cathedral Church, Guildford, Godalming, Haslemere, Old Woking, the local company, Crawley, Seale, Pulborough, Aldershot, and Kirdford were present. The bells were available from three o'clock. The Guild's form of service was conducted by the Vicar. Tea was provided in the Village Hall, and the business meeting followed. The Vicar (Rev. E. P. Pellos) was unable to stop to the meeting, but before he left a vote of thanks to him and to the organist was carried with applause. He was also elected an hon. member of the Guild.

The Surrey Association North Western District, having suggested holding a joint meeting with this district at Guildford, it was resolved, subject to obtaining the bells, to agree to this. The loss by death of two members, namely, Mr. William Moorey, of Godalming, and Mr. Sidney Radford, of St. Nicolas', Guildford, was reported, and the members stood in silence for a few moments.

Three new ringing members and one compounding member were elected.

Mr. A. Pulling gave an interesting report of the proceedings at the Central Council meeting at Chelmsford.

Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Plain and Treble Bob Major, and a plain course of Cambridge Surprise Major were rung during the day.

A 'LONG' 240.

To mark the anniversary of the induction of the Rector (the Rev. the Hon. S. G. W. Maitland, M.A.), after meeting short for a peal, with the assistance of the captain of the local ringers, Mr. Wright, visitors to Ingestre, Stafford, on Whit Saturday rang several touches of Grandsire and Bob Doubles. The church, on the estate of the Earl of Shrewsbury, is full of interesting features, not the least being the bells, which, with one exception, No. 5, were cast in Rome in 1692.

On the wall of the ringing chamber it is recorded that a peal consisting of 240 changes was rung (for a wedding) in one hour and five minutes!

The visitors, Messrs. C. Smith and R. G. Lewis (Uttoxeter), A. W. Hall (Cheddar R.C.), W. H. Curson (Overseal), and R. H. Dove (St. Peter's, Croydon), take this opportunity of thanking the Rector for his excellent hospitality afterwards.

GLOUCESTER AND BRISTOL ASSOCIATION. WITHDRAWAL FROM THE CENTRAL COUNCIL.

The annual meeting of the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association was held at Chippenham, Wilts, on Whit Monday. Proceedings commenced with ringing at the towers of St. Andrew's and St. Paul's Churches, both very nice peals of eight bells.

At noon a ringers' service was held in St. Andrew's Church, conducted by the Vicar, Rev. W. F. Wood.

Luncheon was partaken of at the Bear Hotel, where the Mayor of Chippenham welcomed the association to the town and wished them every future prosperity.

The business meeting was afterwards held, by kind permission of the Vicar, in the grounds of the Vicarage. In delightful weather, the beautiful setting of the gardens was enhanced by the steady waters of the River Avon, upon which some very fine swans moved gracefully.

A tree was used as a 'dais,' and the meeting opened with the hon. secretary reading a letter from the Master (Rev. C. D. P. Davies), stating that infirmity prevented his attendance that day, and, furthermore, asked for his release from office upon that account.

The Hon. Secretary asked the meeting to elect a chairman, and this position was entrusted to Rev. E. S. Saleby, an hon. member.

Arising from the minutes, the Secretary stated that Messrs. Leaker, Hale and Shepherd had been appointed advisers on behalf of the Association.

Apologies for absence were read from the Revs. Davies, Phillips, Pennington, Stephens, Gott, and Chambers, and from Sir Audley Need, Messrs. Howell and Spurrier.

The Hon. Treasurer (Mr. W. Lansdown) presented a statement of accounts, showing a balance in hand of £80 in the general fund, £39 in the belfry repair fund, and £8 12s. in the peal book fund, making a grand total of about £120.

Mr. Yeend (Cheltenham) thought that the members were neglecting the belfry repair fund.—The balance sheet was adopted as read.

Mr. E. Guise (the hon. secretary) moved that the association cease to affiliate to the Central Council of Church Bellringers. His points in favour of this step were that ringers throughout the country really thought that they sent 'delegates.' Only a few weeks ago 'The Ringing World' had recorded the meeting of the Midland Counties Association, and the committee of that body had used these words: 'That they agreed the expenses of their "delegates" to the Central Council should be paid,' and later in their report that the 'delegates' be instructed to vote in favour of an item upon the Central Council agenda. The whole difficulty had arisen by the Council referring an item from their agenda to the associations, yet, at the following meeting, upon a member stating that he had been instructed to vote in favour, although he was personally against, the ruling given was that he was there as a member of the Council and not as a 'delegate' from his association. Another point was that the associations were not considered. The Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association had placed an item upon the Central Council agenda in 1926, and although it was accepted by the Central Council officials several weeks before their meeting, with the proposer and seconder given, it was left to the day of the meeting and then not allowed to be put, the ruling being, 'I will not allow it to be put as it is the pious opinion of one association.' Furthermore, not only was the association so treated, but the officials had, during the last few weeks, been treated somewhat discourteously in the following way: On March 19th, 1929, the hon. secretary of the Central Council had been informed that the affiliation fees could not be paid pending a decision on the motion upon the agenda of the Gloucester and Bristol Association, and to this he had replied acknowledging the information. It was clearly pointed out that these fees, in the event of the motion being defeated, would be placed in the hands of the Central Council's hon. secretary at 9 a.m. on Whit Tuesday, so that the representatives would be qualified to vote. On or about April 23rd the hon. secretary of the Central Council actually accepted anonymously affiliation fees from the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association, and without ascertaining its validity forwarded an official receipt. Upon being pressed for further information, he replied unless the donor relieved him of his anonymity he could not give his name, also that he failed to see how he had been discourteous to the duly appointed officials of the Gloucester and Bristol Association. Mr. Guise asked, Could the meeting conceive that such an action was possible on the part of the hon. secretary of the Central Council?

The Chairman thought that the definition of the word 'representative' was not clearly made out, and suggested a motion. Mr. Austin favoured this, but Mr. Yeend thought it too mild, and supported the motion as put.

Mr. Jeffries, in the absence of Mr. Gould (through illness), seconded the motion.

Mr. Cave, speaking against the motion, asked what would the association have done without the publications of the Central Council? Passages were quoted from the late Sir Arthur P. Heywood's speech at the inauguration of the Council. Mr. Cave mentioned that the Council were trying to place practical ringers as advisers upon the Diocesan Advisory Boards. There was, he urged, a good deal to thank the Council for.

Mr. Bishop, in a brief speech supporting Mr. Cave, said that in his opinion the Council had not only done their work, but had done it extremely well.

Mr. Prescott, expressing an opinion upon the motion, said it was in the interests of the representatives to regard their associations' views, and he felt certain that if a representative did not do that, he would soon find himself left out in the subsequent elections.

Mr. Braven, waving a frame, said, 'Look what the Central Council does for the young ringers.' (Since the meeting it has been ascertained that the frame contained a letter from the hon. secretary of the Central Council commending him upon his work in teaching the young ringers at St. Luke's, Bristol, and further congratulating him upon the ringing of 100 peals on the tenor behind, to Triples, Caters and Cinques.)

No one else wished to speak against the motion, and the Chairman asked Mr. Guise to speak, and then the motion would be put.

Mr. Guise, replying first to Mr. Prescott, said that it was impossible, according to the rules of the Council, to be other than a member of that body, and he would ask what was the value of two members who, as was quite possible, each voted for opposite views. Better to have spared the expense incurred and only send one. Replying to Mr. Cave, he said that there were books that could be obtained for a small sum, and, after all, the Council had been in existence for nearly 40 years, and as this meant a sum of £4,000 provided by ringers and associations, they would expect some results. He mentioned the sum of £4,000 as an approximate sum, of course, but the members would realise what this sum of money was worth. It had been suggested that he (Mr. Guise) should place the matter before the Council, but his reply was that the Council could not be approached from within, and a good deal of talking would be done by other associations when they realised that a large association like theirs decided to withdraw. Upon all matters of importance to the Exercise, the associations should be considered an authority, and they alone should have the right to decide which way their representatives voted. Upon scientific matters the representatives could be entrusted to use their discretion, but the Council was a Council of 'church bellringers' according to their own terms, and the question of scientific matters was of secondary importance. Another point, Mr. Guise said, was that the five and six bell ringers had had their enthusiasm damped by the continued bartering of what they could ring, and what they must not, and the effect of that upon the Gloucester and Bristol Association was a drop of from 14 to 8 peals upon five and six bells during the last year.

He then moved, 'That the words "and shall be affiliated to the Central Council of Church Bellringers" be deleted from the rules.'

Upon being put to the meeting, the motion was carried by 35 votes to 25 votes against.

It was decided that the recently created office of Ringing Master should be abolished.

A new rule was agreed to in which prize ringing would not be allowed.

A necessary adjustment was made to a branch rule.

The vice-presidents were re-elected with the addition of Rev. C. D. P. Davies.

Rev. E. S. Saleby was elected Master, Mr. P. C. Williams was elected hon. treasurer, and Mr. Guise was re-elected hon. secretary. Mr. A. Wright was re-elected hon. peal secretary.

Rev. E. J. Phillips and Mr. C. H. Gordon were reappointed hon. auditors. Messrs. Perrens, Coles, Duffield and Bennett were elected life members, and the popular Mayor of Chippenham was elected an hon. member.

Lydney was chosen as the next place of meeting in 1930 on May 31st.

Votes of thanks to Rev. E. S. Saleby as chairman, to the Vicar, organist of St. Andrew's, and the Mayor of Chippenham, were accorded, while the officials of the past year were also thanked for their work.—This brought the meeting to a close.

BELLS ON BALL BEARINGS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—It has been brought to our notice that a pamphlet recently issued from Croydon contains a statement to the effect that the first peal of bells to be fitted throughout with ball bearings was at St. Stephen's, Clapham Park, in 1919.

May we, through the medium of your columns, draw the attention of those interested to the fact that in the early part of 1914 we fitted ball bearings to the eight bells of the new peal from our foundry which we hung at Hensingham Church, Cumberland.

We may add that in 1913 we had hung on ball bearings six of the eight bells at Chester-le-Street, and in that same year, 1913, we had hung very many bells on ball bearings, including the tenors of such well-known peals as Lincoln Cathedral, Loughborough Parish Church, Chewton Mendip, Somerset, Rainham, Kent, Newport, St. Woolos' (now Cathedral) St. Chad's, Shrewsbury. Also, in 1914, the tenor at Waltham Abbey, and at Longney, Glos, the full peal of eight bells.—Yours faithfully,

JOHN TAYLOR AND CO.

WINCHESTER AND OXFORD GUILDS JOIN HANDS.

A very successful joint meeting of the Newbury Branch of the Oxford Guild and the Andover District of the Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild was held at Highclere, Hants, on Saturday, May 18th, over 40 members and friends being present. The following towers were represented: Binfield, Brightwalton, Bucklebury, East Isley, Newbury and Thatcham from the Oxford side, and Highclere, North Stoneham, St. Mary Bourne, Winchester, Wootton St. Lawrence, and Woolton Hill from the Winchester area. Ringing, carried on in various methods up to Cambridge Surprise Major, commenced upon the musical ring of eight at 3 p.m., and continued, with a break for service and tea, up to 9 o'clock, a feature of the ringing being the handling and striking of the band of ladies from Bucklebury.

The service was conducted by the Vicar of Highclere, the Rev. G. D. Dunlop, M.A., who, after welcoming the members to Highclere, gave a very interesting and helpful address upon 'Fellowship,' which the Church and the ringing Guilds, as part of the Church, stood for.

A splendid tea was enjoyed in the school, the Vicar of Highclere very generously paying half the cost. The Rev. L. R. Majendie (Rector of Newbury) presided, and was supported by Rev. F. C. Sear, Rev. G. G. Dunlop, Mr. W. Andrews, etc.

The Rev. L. R. Majendie said that all present would be sorry to hear of the illness of Mr. H. W. Curtis (Newbury Branch secretary), who was thus prevented from being present. Mr. Curtis had looked forward to this meeting, and was keenly disappointed.—Mr. Andrews, in reply, voiced the regret of all present at the absence of Mr. Curtis, and the Chairman promised to convey to him the best wishes of the members.

The Chairman said that it was hoped to arrange a return meeting at Newbury on August 10th.

RIVERSIDE CHURCH, NEW YORK, U.S.A.

RESULTS OF THE COUNCIL'S MEETING

Although, in the opinion of some of the members, the Central Council meeting at Chelmsford was to a large extent 'negative' in its results, it was certainly one of the most interesting of recent years. A number of minor topics came under consideration, but there were two outstanding features. One was the really excellent discussion on the Methods Committee's report, which involved an important principle as to what the Council should include among the compositions in its forthcoming new edition of Five and Six-bell Methods; and the other was the report presented by the Legal Committee, about which there was no debate, but which laid before the Council, in clear and concise form, the various aspects of the law relating to church bells and bellringers. It was one of the most important, informative and useful reports ever presented to the Council.

The Methods Committee's report and the motion defining what the Council should recognise as a peal of Minor and as a peal of Doubles, although distinct, were to some extent interlocking, and there were some representatives who would have liked to discuss the motion before coming to a decision on the report. They thought, if the Council defined anew its views as to what should constitute a peal, they could more readily settle what should and what should not be included in one of their publications, to which ringers will in future turn for the purpose of obtaining peal compositions. The president, however, held the members to the agenda, and in this the ruling was obviously the strictly correct one. Even had he acceded to the request to reverse the procedure, it is doubtful if time would have been saved.

Altogether something like three hours were spent over the subject, and in the end no one got exactly what they wanted. The decision on the Methods Committee's report became a compromise; the motion was postponed to a future meeting. On both these matters we hope to have something to say when the report of the discussions have appeared in our columns, but it was this indecision, coupled with the rejection of a proposal to set up a committee to consider the best method of dealing with cases of extraordinary sickness among members of the Exercise, that probably led to the view in some quarters that the day had been largely one of 'negative' results, for the other business transacted, if we except the Legal Committee's report, was not of far-reaching importance. Yet it was by no means a wasted day. It is often in the small things that the most effective work is done. Here are some of the things which resulted from the meeting: The new Collection of Minor Methods will now be published; a revised edition of the publication on 'The Preservation of Bells' and of 'Rules for a Local Company' are to make their appearance; and, in addition to their valuable report, the Legal Committee are to be kept in being to keep an eye on legislative matters which might be prejudicial to the use of church bells. GRANDSIRE TRIPLES.

To the Editor.

Sir,—Though the one-part peal of mine which you kindly publish in this week's issue is quite original, and is mine in every sense of the word, I must withdraw all claim to its being the first to be composed with only three bells called Before. Only two days ago, in searching through some old numbers of 'Bell News,' I found that Mr. Moorhouse, of Wakefield, had forestalled me as long ago as 1907. See 'Bell News,' vol. xxxi., p. 244, issue of August 16th, 1907.

DEATH OF COL. E. F. STRANGE.

A FIRST MEMBER OF THE CENTRAL COUNCIL.

The death has recently taken place of Colonel Edward F. Strange, well known among ringers of a generation ago. Col. Strange was late keeper of the Department of Engraving, Illustration and Design, at the Victoria and Albert Museum, London, and was an expert upon, among other things, Japanese colour prints, on which he had published several books. He was an honorary fellow of the Royal Society of Painter-etchers, an honorary member of the Art Workers' Guild, and the Society of Graver Printers, and a member of the Council of the Japanese Society.

Col. Strange began his ringing in the Kidderminster district, but migrated to London something like 45 years ago, when he became a member of the College Youths, and later joined the various other societies operating in and around the Metropolis, including the St. James' Society, the Waterloo Society, the Essex, Middlesex and Surrey Associations, with most of which he rang peals. He was one of the first members of the Central Council, on which he represented the Surrey Association, and his name was proposed as first secretary, but on a vote he was defeated by Mr. F. E. Dawe, who was elected to the office.

Col. Strange was always deeply interested in the Volunteer movement, in which he rose to C.O. rank. He was interred at Mortlake Cemetery.

THE PEAL AT HASLEMERE.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—Re peal of Stedman Caters at St. Bartholomew's, Haslemere, on Saturday, May 18th, in 3 hrs. 25 mins. (tenor 13 cwt.), taking into consideration the ability of the tenor man and the weight of the tenor (recently rehung), myself and friends wondered if the number of changes had been correctly quoted, or perhaps they rang Stedman Royal. Perhaps they rang the last quarter twice, or did they put the 'ralliantandoes' in at backstroke? Hoping you will be able to relieve our anxiety, Yours etc., TINTINNABULATOR.

London.

DEATH OF MR. DAVID J. NICHOLS.

FORMER NORTHANTS SECRETARY.

The Kettering band and the Peterborough Guild have sustained another loss by the lamented death of Mr. D. J. Nichols which took place at his home, 3, York Road, Kettering, on Friday, May 24th, at the early age of 48 years. Mr. Nichols was one of the best-known and most accomplished ringers and conductors among the Guild members. In 1899 he joined the Kettering band, of which he was leader for some years, until unable to carry on owing to ill-health. He was a man of fine character, and a splendid disposition, whose place will be hard to fill. The work of the Peterborough Guild was very dear to him. He was specially gifted in teaching young ringers, and many in his locality owe what they know of the art and of conducting to Mr. Nichols' able tuition.

When ill-health kept him from climbing the belfry stairs, he always made welcome at his home any ringers, young or old, who called to see him, and several (the writer included) have, during that time, learned many things of benefit to them on ringing matters.

Mr. Nichols served on the Central Council of Church Bellingrings from 1912 to 1926, and was elected general hon. secretary of the Central Northants Association in 1920, which position he held up to the formation of the Peterborough Diocesan Guild in 1924. He took an active part in the reorganisation, and was elected the first general secretary of the Guild, which position, however, he had to resign early in 1926 owing to ill-health.

He served in the R.F.A. on the Western Front during the war, and his war services had ill effects on his health. He was practically an invalid for the last five or more years.

All his peals, 124 in number, were rung for the Central Northants Association, of which he conducted 80. Mr. Nichols was writing a history of the bells and ringers of Kettering, and the peals which have been rung there, but this is unfinished.

The funeral took place at Kettering Cemetery on Monday, May 27th, the first portion of the service being conducted by the Rev. S. M. Morris, assisted by Mr. P. Wilford (Master of the Guild), who read the lesson, in the Church of SS. Peter and Paul. As the cortege approached the church, the bells were chimed by his fellow-ringers. In addition to the family mourners, a large number of ringers met to pay a last tribute of respect to a departed friend, and amongst these were Rev. R. C. Thursfield, J.P., president, Kettering Branch, Rev. L. H. Lethbridge, Rev. E. J. Atkins, Mr. F. Wilford (Guild Master), Mrs. Wilford, Miss Thursfield and Miss Hepburn (Ladies' Guild), Messrs. W. T. Wilson (treasurer), R. G. Black (general secretary), F. Barber and H. Baxter (branch secretaries), A. E. York, W. Perkins, T. R. Hensher, A. Tompkins, S. J. Lawrence, W. Lawrence, A. Bellamy, A. Smart, C. Moore, B. Morris, and the Kettering ringers.

After the committal sentences a course of Grandsire Triples was rung over the grave by Messrs. A. V. Inns 1-2, R. G. Black 3-4, E. Chapman 5-6, A. Henman 7-8.

The bells of the Church of SS. Peter and Paul were rung half-muffled in the afternoon and evening to touches of Grandsire and Stedman Triples and the 'whole pull and stand' 48 times by Messrs. W. Perkins, A. Henman, A. E. Payne, R. F. Turner, C. W. Bird, R. G. Black, T. R. Hensher, and A. V. Inns.

On Monday evening at St. Giles', Northampton, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Caters (1,259 changes) was rung in 53 mins., as a last token of respect by: Messrs. H. Key 1, W. Rogers 2, J. J. Taylor 3, S. J. Lawrence 4, T. Tebbutt 5, T. Law 6, J. T. Hensman 7, F. Wilford (conductor) 8, G. Flavell 9, and W. Gammage 10.

MIDLAND COUNTIES ASSOCIATION.

THE NEW PEAK DISTRICT.

A successful meeting of the Peak District was held at Great Longstone, near Bakewell, on Saturday week. About 20 members were present from Baslow, Bakewell, Castleton, Derby, Dore, Eyam and Great Longstone. The bells, a ring of six in a tower little more than eight feet square, were kept going in Grandsire, Bob Minor, St. Clement's, Kent and Oxford till about 8 p.m., some fair striking being accomplished in spite of the rather difficult 'go' of the bells.

A substantial tea was provided at the Crispin, followed by a short business meeting, presided over by the Rev. W. D. Wright (Eyam), supported by Mr. W. Wallace (Derby), treasurer of the M.C.A., and Mr. J. E. Lewis Cockey (Dore), hon. district secretary.

Mr. Wright welcomed those present, and appealed to them to urge their fellow-members to attend the meetings of the new district to make it not only a success from a ringing point of view but to make the meetings of a happy social nature, and to give every possible facility for those learning the art. The delightful nature of the villages in the district was emphasised, ideal places for a summer outing, and the hope was expressed that members from other districts would pay occasional visits to some of the little-known towers at which it was hoped to hold meetings.

A full quarterly meeting of the M.C.A. having been arranged for Bakewell on the last Saturday in June, it was decided to defer the next monthly meeting till July 13th, and if possible to hold it at Castleton and Hope. It was suggested that, in order to encourage an advance in the art, members might like to select a particular method for special practice at each monthly meeting, and for the July meeting it was decided to recommend Cambridge (Major and Minor) for special attention, this, however, not to interfere with the opportunities of those less advanced.

A hearty vote of thanks to the wardens for the use of the bells (the incumbency being vacant), and to the local company for the arrangements made, concluded the proceedings.

MR. H. F. COOPER'S 100 PEALS.

'Looker-on,' who posted a letter to us from Burton-on-Trent, is not a very courageous correspondent, otherwise he would have added his own name and address. Either 'Looker-on' is not a regular reader of 'The Ringing World' or his memory is defective, and we would refer him especially to our issues of August 27th, 1926, and December 21st, 1928. He might also be interested in our issue of November 30th, 1928.

Is there any older practising ringer than Mr. C. Slingsby, of Aldington, Kent? He was 92 on May 26th, and still 'going strong.'

The Middlesex County Association's practice meeting, which was to have been held at St. Mark's, Dalston, on June 13th, has been postponed.

The postponed meeting of the Suffolk Guild at Stowmarket will be held on June 15th.

Yesterday was the anniversary of the 16,608 Oxford Treble Bob Major at Debenham, in 1892; to-day is the anniversary of the performance of the next longest length of Treble Bob, 16,800, rung in the Kent variation at Mottram in 1906.

The first peal on the bells at Ashbourne, Derbyshire, was rung on June 13th, 1821, by Nottingham men, who walked the distance, 27 miles, each way and had a free fight in the churchyard with the Ashbourne ringers after the peal!

It was on June 9th, 1850, that the first peal was rung in America. Some English ringers, touring the States with handbells, got together a party in Philadelphia, and rang Holt's Ten-Part peal of Grandsire Triples at Christ Church. Henry Haley was the conductor, and for the first 2½ hours of the peal the tenor was rung by R. Dodd, a one-legged man.

It was originally intended to combine the jubilee festival of the Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild, and the summer festival of the Guildford Diocesan Guild, the places tentatively chosen having been Petersfield and Haslemere. The difficulties in combining with success at places so far apart and so much on the extremity of the big area of the Winchester and Portsmouth dioceses have, however, led to an abandonment of the project. Winchester Guild is to meet at Winchester, and the Guildford Guild will go on with its arrangements at Haslemere. Unfortunately, both meetings are to be held the same day.

THANKSGIVING DAY.

To the Editor.

Sir,—When the date of the Thanksgiving for His Majesty's restoration to health is officially announced, there are two ways in which ringers may distinguish the day from an ordinary Sunday. One is by ringing in the early morning, wherever it is practicable: the other by ringing at the conclusion of the Thanksgiving Services as well as before them. There may even be an opening in the special form for ringing a few rounds at a central point in the service itself. It is also to be hoped that many endeavours will be made to provide for the ringing of bells seldom otherwise used, whether for lack of ringers or any other reason.—Yours faithfully,

F. LL. EDWARDS.

THE BEGINNING OF THE ESSEX ASSOCIATION.

The jubilee of the Essex Association brings us, from Mr. C. F. Winney, the following extract from 'Church Bells, 1879:—

'Change ringing at Writtle, Essex.—On Easter Monday, the following members of the Ancient Society of College Youths paid a visit to Chelmsford with the intention of ringing a peal at the Parish Church, but finding the bells were not in peal ringing order they went on to Writtle, where, by the kind permission of the Rev. John B. Seaman, M.A., they rang a peal of Kent Treble Bob Major (5,024 changes) in 3 hrs. 15 mins.: H. Bright (70th year) 1, W. Cecil 2, G. Mash 3, S. Reeves 4, E. Carter 5, F. Bate 6, E. Horrex 7, J. M. Hayes (conductor) 8. Composed by H. Hubbard, sen. Tenor, 18 cwt. When the ringing was over, the Rev. Seaman entered the belfry and invited the party to the Vicarage to partake of refreshments, and kindly promised a tablet.'

Mr. Winney adds that the Rev. J. B. Seaman greased the bells for the peal, and it was he who at the following Whitsuntide started the Essex Association. J. Murray Hayes was a native of Bocking, and, says Mr. Winney, always counted himself a pioneer of the association. All the band of this peal of fifty years ago are now dead.

THE 'BEER FETCHER.'

At Steeple Claydon, Bucks, on Whit Monday, 720 Grandsire Doubles were rung by: C. Everitt 1, F. Case 2, H. Stopp 3, H. Jones 4, J. Stopp (conductor) 5. This is believed to be the first time the bells have been rung to changes for 36 years. In this village is an old member of the local company, who recalls the 'days gone past.' He qualified as a member, not by his ringing abilities, but as 'beer fetcher,' his duty being to carry two gallons of ale to the belfry whenever the bells were rung.

THE CENTRAL COUNCIL.

Mrs. Fletcher, representing the Peal Collection Committee, reported that the Rev. H. S. T. Richardson was proving the peals of Treble Bob with the tenors parted, and the work was still in hand.

A WATCHFUL EYE NEEDED.

The Rev. F. L. Edwards presented the following report of the Literature and Press Committee:—

Nothing has occurred during the past year to call for concerted action on the part of the committee. We are glad to be able to give a satisfactory report on the press generally in relation to bells and bellringing. The publication of the book, 'Bells through the Ages,' constitutes a distinct landmark in the literature of our art, and we understand that a further work on the history of bellringing is in course of preparation.

References to ringing in the newspapers have as a rule been accurate and appreciative. The jubilee of St. Paul's Cathedral bells and the College Youths' anniversary, as also the commemoration of John Briant, the Hertford bell founder, were the occasion of interesting and well-informed paragraphs in the daily press. A request received from the editor of a musical publication for an article on church bells is not without its significance. The statement made by a clergyman of Derby, that he placed church bells, bagpipes and cats at night in the same musical category, naturally provided good copy for journalists, but the reverend gentleman's views were evidently treated as a humorous contribution to popular literature.

In a recent number of the 'Church Times,' a writer of eminent literary ability indited an admirable article on 'The Music of Bells.' It is true that he described the two bells used for the daily services at Westminster Abbey as 'two mean and sour bells,' but there is little cause for ringers to quarrel with that description, for what bell could sound anything but mean, when it is subjected to the lifeless thud of a chiming hammer? Indeed, the author shows a very enlightened attitude on this point. 'Sometimes,' he writes, 'musical experts have sought to tame the bells. They have hindered the freedom of their swinging by mechanical contraptions. And what is the result? The charm has gone. . . . One further sentence is well worth quoting: 'We in England,' says the writer, 'should be proud of our bells, for our fathers before us, alone among Christian men, devised the plan we call change ringing.'

The campaign conducted in some journals against street noises has inevitably elicited an occasional letter from misguided persons disliking the sound of church bells, but these objections have not been followed up with any enthusiasm. At the same time, it might easily be in this direction that danger lies. There seems to be considerable likelihood of legislation being promoted to deal with noises, and a proposal from some M.P. with an obsession against bells to include them in the purview of a Bill might be passed by a bare majority of a thin House and a clause to that effect inserted without attracting any notice. Any such provision would be especially dangerous, if it took the insidious form of giving general powers to the Minister of Health to make orders under such Act, or to local authorities to frame by-laws. We suggest that members of the legal profession on the Council be asked to keep a watchful eye on legislative measures of this nature, and to be prepared to take such action in conjunction with the Standing Committee as emergency may demand.

The President: It is a most admirable report of great interest and great usefulness.

Rev. E. S. Powell said a son of Troyte was a member of the last Parliament, and if he was a member of the next Parliament he (the speaker) did not think anything affecting bells would go through without notice or without comment, for Mr. Troyte was himself a change ringer (applause). He would no doubt watch the interests of ringing in that respect.

The report was adopted.

Mr. E. W. Elwell, reporting for the sub-committee entrusted with the revision and reprinting of the 'Rules for a Local Company,' said the revision had been completed, and the committee were now negotiating with 'The Ringing World' with regard to the price for printing the work. He thought it would be possible not to exceed the £5 which the Council had already authorised, and to publish the rules at 6d.—The report was adopted.

THE METHODS COMMITTEE'S REPORT.

The next report to be dealt with was that of the Methods Committee, which appeared in 'The Ringing World' on April 26th, and which related to the inclusion of certain types of compositions in the new edition of the 'Collection of Minor Methods.'

The adoption of the report was moved by the Rev. H. Law James. Last year at Hereford, he said, the committee was authorised to publish a new edition of the Minor Methods. Mr. Jenkyn that day had said he was sorry the book had not come to hand, and he (Mr. James) must tell them why it had not done so. The committee wished to give the Minor ringers a perfect book containing the whole of the information that they had gathered together with regard to Minor methods and their composition. As the Council was aware, a controversy broke out in 'The Ringing World' some months ago on the question of peals of Minor and Doubles, and the committee felt if they published the book complete with all the information they had got, the members of the Council and the Exercise at large might think they were trying to force upon the Exercise a fresh definition of peals of Doubles and peals of Minor, and it would have been very difficult indeed, after publishing the book, to prove that they had no such intention. They had no such intention. They wanted to publish a complete book, but they did not want to define a peal of Doubles or a peal of Minor—that was not their business. They wanted to give the Exercise all the information they possessed. The Exercise possessed an excellent book, written by Snowden and edited by the Rev. C. D. P. Davies. It contained 'incomplete' peals of Grandsire Triples. What were they put there for? They were of no use, but they were put there in order that the book might be complete, and, secondly, in order that some time in the future people should not waste their time in producing things that were useless. The Methods Committee had gathered a lot of information, and they wanted to publish all the information they had got in Doubles and Minor. In dealing with the matter he would confine his attention to seven-hundreds of Treble Bob Minor. A 720 being a complete round block, there were exactly five compositions of Treble Bob Minor and only five, and those five were very old. Yet there appeared in 'The Ringing World' two 720's of London Minor supposed to be new, and not only so, but someone wrote and congratulated the author of these two 720's on having produced them. The man simply wasted his time—the things were in existence long before any of the ringers of to-day were born. How did the mistake come about? Simply and solely because there was no complete collection of Treble Bob 720's in existence. They found one here and another there; one in 'Bell News' in 1887, and another in 'The Ringing World,' and so on. When the committee published this book it would contain all these 700's, and in future no one would be tempted to waste his time in trying to produce new ones. In addition to that, there had appeared on the scene, within the time of his own experience, fresh compositions of Treble Bob Minor which were not in keeping with the tradition of the Exercise. A good many things had appeared in course of history which were not in keeping with the tradition of the Exercise, some of them had vanished, others held the field. Take for instance Holt's peals, Holt's Original and Holt's ten-part. Someone wrote from Norwich to Dr. Mason of Trinity College, Cambridge, to say that the ringers at Norwich would not subscribe to the broadsheet because Mr. Benjamin Annable would have nothing to do with it. The tradition of the Exercise at that time was that Grandsire Triples must be a complete peal with bobs only, but the tradition of the Exercise had changed, and rightly changed. A similar thing happened with regard to Treble Bob. The first peal rung happened to be true, but the great majority of the next peals rung were found out to be false, and the tradition of the Exercise had to change; and that sort of thing was likely to happen again in the future. The tradition of the Exercise was very valuable; they must not go against it if they could avoid it, but it was quite likely that something or other would come to light which would cause them to change tradition. The committee wanted to put into this book all this fresh information that had come to light, but they did not wish to force any fresh definition of a peal of Minor or Doubles on the Exercise. They could have published this book months ago, and nobody could have said they were not entitled to do so, but they came to the Council and said: 'Please accept this report. We want to put in certain compositions, but that does not mean that they are either valuable or not valuable, but it does mean that if the Exercise finds them valuable they will come into use; if the Exercise finds they are of no value they will disappear.' But, anyhow, whether valuable or not, there would be nobody in fifty years' time producing these things as new compositions in the way the gentleman he had referred to had published two 720's of London Surprise Minor. If the Council accepted the report they would have a perfect book, containing every mortal thing the committee knew up to date. If they rejected it, they would have a book out of date before it was printed. The question of what constituted a peal of Doubles or a peal of Minor was a question which had got to be settled on scientific grounds; it was the only way in which it could be settled. How did they settle any question which arose in natural science? They settled it by experiment. If they put all these things in the book, it did not mean that people were going to use them for peals of Doubles or peals of Minor, but that the whole Exercise would have these things before them, and ringers could go into the tower and test for themselves whether they were any good or not. They would then some day be in a position to define peals of Minor and Doubles. At the present moment, if they asked him to do so, he would tell them he was quite incapable of doing anything of the kind.

MR. TROLLOPE AND 'THE RINGING WORLD.'

Mr. J. A. Trollope seconded, and reminded the Council that that was the thirtieth anniversary of the first appointment of the Methods Committee. Out of the original members, John Carter, Henry Dains and Earle Bulwer were dead; two other members, Arthur Craven and Bankes James had retired, and the only two remaining were Mr. Law James and himself (applause). The whole of their equation with the Council was practically bound up with the Methods Committee, and, speaking for himself, he thought he should feel strange if he woke up one morning and found himself no longer a member of the Methods Committee. The one thing the committee did which had the most direct influence on ringing was the publication of the book containing the 'Collection of Six-Bell Methods.' It was fair to say that book had revolutionised Minor ringing and given to the six-bell ringer hundreds of good methods where before they had only a handful. It had done more than that, it had made spliced ringing possible. Mr. Trollope went on to refer to the hindrances which had occurred in the publication of the new edition of the book, and remarked, with regard to the discussion on the naming of the methods, that when the committee got the matter into their own hands they settled it to the satisfaction of everyone. They thought they would then be able to go straight forward, but before the year was out the editor of 'The Ringing World' threw his bombshell. He said he was not going to print as a peal of Doubles anything which contained a certain composition (hear, hear). I am not going to criticise the way he carries on his paper, said Mr. Trollope; that is his own matter. I believe he is sincerely desirous of carrying on that paper to give expression to the wishes of the Council and to the opinions of the Exercise (applause). As a matter of fact, his particular opinions on that particular thing are not ours. We had to take up the challenge. When we first started to make this new book, the ideal we set before us was to have a complete book. I was very much impressed by something Mr. Hunt said at one meeting. He said, 'When you are getting this book out, don't assume we know too much. There are lots of things which you may take for granted, which the ordinary five and six bell ringer does not know.' We took that largely as a motto, and we were going to give everything in that book that the ordinary man in the five or six bell tower might want. We felt, therefore, that we should give the whole of the compositions, within limits, for five and six bells. We found in use two compositions, one of Doubles and one of Minor, and both had this in common, that both broke away from the traditional idea that in ringing you were confined to a complete 120 or 720. Let us be clear about one thing. A 720 starts from rounds and ends with rounds, and there is nothing else as a 720 but that (hear, hear). We have got Bankes James' Cambridge and Morris' Doubles; they were being rung, and I personally have reason to believe that the use of those Doubles was of great help to young conductors. Then the question arose, Are we going to put these things into the book? In the first place, are these compositions of value or likely to be of value to the Exercise now or in the future, and, in the second place, is there anything in them which in any way contradicts any fundamental law or rule of ringing? ('Yes.'). When I say 'contradicts any fundamental law or rule of ringing,' I do not mean any written law; I mean is there anything in it, from the point of view of the five-bell ringer, which would compel us to say they must not ring it? 'The Ringing World' threw out its ultimatum, 'If you ring Morris' Doubles you are not going to have it published.' There were two ways in which we could have acted. We could have said, 'The Council has given us power to print these things; we have had thirty years' experience, and are as likely to know the rights and wrongs as anyone else, and whatever we do somebody will find fault, and so we might have gone ahead and printed the book.' If we had done that, it would have been completed by now. We decided, however, that on the whole it would be a good thing if ringers had the opportunity of arguing these things, and we decided on the same thing as we did about the names at Hereford. There we published the list and came to the Council and said, 'Here is the list; give us your instructions as to what alterations you want.' That is what we are doing to-day, and you have the opportunity of saying 'Yes' or 'No,' but we strongly advise you, having looked on the matter from all points of view, to agree to the insertion of these compositions.

'VERBAL' INCONSISTENCIES.

Continuing, Mr. Trollope said a letter appeared in 'The Ringing World' from Mr. Stephen Wood, who, he thought, they would all agree had a brilliant future before him, charging the committee with being inconsistent, and the editor of 'The Ringing World' had taken out remarks by members of the committee and set them side by side to show that they had been inconsistent. It was not a difficult thing to go through anybody's statements made over a controversial thing over a period of years, take a statement out of its context, put it beside another statement, and make out that one had contradicted himself. 'I don't profess,' added Mr. Trollope, 'to go in for verbal consistency, but I should be quite prepared to defend any of these contradictions, although I do not think I need do so here.' One thing, said Mr. Trollope, the committee were agreed upon, was that these compositions ought to go into the book, but they were not agreed by any means upon the reasons for including them: in fact, they had a 'terrible scrap' over them (laughter), but they were agreed that they should be included. A second point which had been emphasised in the criticism of the committee was that there should be 'no juggling with truth.' He believed everyone agreed that the essential thing in a peal was that it should be true, and that it should be complete. That was a fundamental rule. Change ringing was an art founded on a mathematical science, and they had to be true to their mathematical basis, but, when they came to the application of it, it was not always easy; it was not always easy to say what was true and what was false. ('Oh, yes.'). If they rang 120 of Doubles followed by another 120 of Doubles, they said that was true. What they did in Morris' Doubles was, they rang a true 120 at handstroke and a true 120 at backstroke; the repetition between Morris' handstrokes and backstrokes was no more or less than the repetition between one 120 followed by another 120. If mere repetition meant falseness, then the old idea of the Devonshire Guild must stand, that a peal consisted of an extent and nothing but an extent (hear, hear); a peal of Doubles, therefore, was 120, and a peal of Major 40,320—that was the old idea. If they were going to give that up, as they had given it up and must give it up, then mere repetition, as repetition, did not mean falseness. They had got to get out of the idea that, in opposing a thing like Morris' Doubles, they were standing up for the question of truth. A very large number of people were willing to accept Bankes James' arrangement of Cambridge, but could not swallow Morris' Grandire Doubles. His (Mr. Trollope's) difficulty was that he could justify to some extent the Morris Doubles, but he found great difficulty in justifying the Bankes James Cambridge. If they could once admit the Bankes James arrangement of Cambridge, there was no difficulty at all about the other, but let them not be led away with the idea that because they could write out Bankes James' 5,000 and get 720 different rows followed by 720 different rows, and so on, that it was true. They did not write out rows when they were ringing. The 720 in the tower was 720 'changes,' and 720 true changes was not 720 true rows. If the thing was false in one change, it was false. The committee, continued Mr. Trollope, had been accused of setting up a new standard. It was all very well to say that, but if the Council put these compositions into this new book, it was not in fact setting up a new standard. By putting these things into the book they would not be altering the standard. The standard of five and six bell ringing had been changed twice within the last two or three years, and the last alteration was made last year at Hereford. That alteration was proposed by Mr. Goldsmith, and all the committee had done was to accept the alteration. The issue before the Council was, were they going to agree that the arrangements of Morris, Pitman and Bankes James should go into the book, or were they not? He asked the Council to agree to their insertion on the grounds that they have proved themselves useful, that they were likely to be useful in the Exercise, and did not in any shape or form contravene any law of truth or any other law of the Council.

SOUTH-WESTERN DIVISION'S HAPPY GATHERING.

The recent fine weather no doubt accounted for the large number of members and friends who found their way to Bentley on Saturday last for the meeting of the South-Western Division of the Essex Association. The church is a modern one of flint and rubble, situated just off the main Brentwood-Ongar Road, amidst beautiful pine woods. These, together with other delightful surroundings, make an ideal spot, and there is no wonder at the several comments being passed as to its being one of the beauty spots of Essex. The church was opened for worship in 1880, and the authorities are looking forward to celebrating their jubilee next year, and it has been suggested an appropriate way would be, if possible, to add another bell to the existing five, thus making a handy ring of six.

Members arriving soon after three o'clock had the bells going to Grandsire, Stedman, etc., till 4.30 p.m., when those present attended the association service taken by the Vicar. It was pleasing to note that, in addition to the ringers, several prominent members of the Church were present, and all had the pleasure of once again hearing Miss Dawson's splendidly rendered solos. At the conclusion, tea, kindly provided by some members' wives and other helpers, was ready, 52 sitting down to a most enjoyable repast, after which the business meeting followed, presided over by the Vicar, supported by Mr. C. H. Howard (Master of the Association), and Mr. A. Prior (District Master).

One non-resident, one honorary and two ringing members were elected, and Orsett chosen as the place for the next meeting, to be held, if possible, on July 13th.

A vote of thanks to the Vicar for allowing use of the tower and bells, and for conducting the service, to the organist (Mr. Pettit), Miss Dawson for her splendidly rendered solo, Mesdames Butler, Rainbird and Wyatt for providing the tea, and ladies for helping, Mr. Rainbird for having everything in readiness, and to Mr. E. Heasel for so kindly placing his car at the hon. secretary's disposal.

The Vicar and Mr. Rainbird, in response, stated how pleased they were that the association had paid them a visit, and hoped it would not be long before they had the pleasure of entertaining them again.

After tea, some wended their way back to the tower, whilst others went for a walk across the fields to Navestock Side to view the green and cricket pitch, where the Essex County Cricket Club first played their fixtures, the programme and list of members for the year 1790 still being in a good state of preservation at the local hostel. Shades of evening were well advanced when thoughts of home arose, and regrets were numerous that it was not possible to stay longer, but the special bus could not wait, and the lights of Brentwood reminded all that time and trains wait for no man. Thus ended a most delightful afternoon, voted one of the best in the annals of the South-Western Division.

THE SECESSION OF GLOUCESTER AND BRISTOL.

To the Editor.

Sir,—With the tenor of your leading article on the secession of the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association from the Central Council no one, I feel sure, will disagree, and I most cordially endorse the last two or three lines of your opening paragraph.

My special object in writing is to endeavour to point out what I strongly feel to be the wholly inadequate, and I may add, the utterly unreasonable grounds of the action taken.

Perhaps the shortest way in which to explain what I feel will be to take the speech of Mr. Guise as reported in your columns, and to comment upon each point as it arises.

But before doing so, let me disavow any feelings but those of the warmest personal friendship for the hon. secretary, with whom, during the two years of my mastership, it was the greatest pleasure to work. My warm esteem for him, however, cannot blind my eyes to his utter want of logic.

(1) Ringers throughout the country really thought they sent 'delegates.'

What if they do? What does it matter? As regards their being 'members' or 'delegates,' we send them as our representatives, and it lies wholly between ourselves and those we send to arrange the terms on which we send them. We may regard them (wrongly, as I personally think) as 'delegates,' but the Council has every right, if it so likes, to regard them and treat them as 'members.' If they regard themselves and act as delegates, they break no rule of the Council. They merely accept a lower status.

(2) 'Upon a member stating that he had been instructed to vote in favour, although he was personally against, the ruling given was that he was there as a member of the Council, and not as a delegate from his association.'

Where was this ruling wrong? Any other ruling would have been absolutely indefensible, and would have lowered the position of the Council before the whole Exercise.

What did the ruling mean? It meant that as far as the Council was concerned the member was free to vote in any way that he chose. The Council not only has no power (I hope it never will have) to order a member to vote in any particular way, but is far too jealous of its own freedom and of that of each and all of its members to gag their freedom of speech. What arrangements there may be between any individual member and the association which sends him, or what limitations they may put upon him, are matters that concern them and him and his sense of his own dignity and independence, and are no affair of the Council. On this point Mr. Prescott spoke most valuably and to the point.

3. Concerning the item on the agenda for 1926, which Mr. Guise complains was not allowed at the meeting, my memory does not serve me with sufficient accuracy to enable me to speak, but there was probably some formal flaw somewhere that could easily have been rectified in readiness for 1927.

4. As regards the fees payable this year, Mr. Guise shows misapprehension of the position in more than one particular. First, by the rules of the Council the fees are payable, as in most other organisations, in time for the treasurer to balance the accounts for presentation at the annual meeting, and in deferring their payment at the proper time this year Mr. Guise was not only running counter to the rules of the Council, but was treating the hon. treasurer in a manner that he himself would have resented had he been in his place.

Next, as the Council does not expire till next year, the elected representatives were actual members of the Council, and the association was not only bound in honour to pay their dues, but could not prevent them from attending the meeting, if they were able and willing to go. Mr. Guise was therefore mistaken all through this part of the business, and, so far from any blame attaching to the hon. secretary of the Council in anything that he said or did, it seems to me that the very reverse is the case.

No: I fear that Mr. Guise has managed to get fogged on the whole question. The pity of it is that he found 35 members at rather a small annual meeting to follow his lead and land the association in a regrettable position.

One comfort is that it has been the means of the Council securing the—as I hope—permanent services of such a good man and a good ringer as Mr. W. A. Cave.

CHARLES D. P. DAVIES.

WHAT THE COUNCIL HAS RECEIVED.

Dear Sir,—I am exceedingly loath to pour oil on a conflagration, but will you kindly allow me to point out that, possibly through a printer's error, Mr. Guise is stated in your last issue to have said the Central Council has received £4,000, approximately, during the past forty years.

In case some of our members should say, 'What have we done with so large a sum?' I would state that the gross amounts received to date are £650. Most of the money available, as your readers are aware, has been spent on producing the Council's publications. I must add that, despite our serious disbursements of late years, the Council still has upwards of £130 cash in hand or invested.—Yours faithfully,

E. ALEX. YOUNG,

Hon. Secretary and Treasurer.

NORTH WALES ASSOCIATION.

The picturesque village of Gresford was the venue of the North Wales Association's annual meeting held on Whit Monday. The weather was gloriously fine, and a most enjoyable day was spent. Ringing commenced at 1 p.m., and a service was afterwards held, conducted by the Rev. W. H. Boulton in the absence of the Vicar (Canon Williams), who was indisposed. A very interesting address was given on the history of the bells, and of Gresford bells in particular. The 3rd bell is over 300 years old.

The business meeting was presided over by the Vicar of Tryddyn, who referred to the death of Mr. Edward Rowland, of Wrexham, the treasurer of the association for many years.—Those present stood in silence as a token of respect.

Two new ringing members, and one life member were elected.

Two new officers were elected, viz., Ringing Master, Mr. W. Jones, Wrexham; hon. treasurer, Mr. T. Catherall.

It was decided to hold the next half-yearly meeting at Llandudno in September, and the annual meeting at Portmadoc.

The meeting closed with a vote of thanks to the chairman. About forty members and friends afterwards sat down to an excellent tea, prepared by Mrs. G. Williams. The tower was then again visited, and excellent touches of Stedman and Grandsire were rung.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

The spring meeting of the Witney and Woodstock branch of the Oxford Diocesan Guild was held at Yarnton on Saturday, May 11th. A service was conducted in the Parish Church by the Rev. E. N. Aston. Mr. W. Evetts, jun., the district secretary, read the lesson, and the Rev. E. M. Thompson (Rector of Woodstock) spoke on the words, 'Make a joyful sound to the God of Jacob.'

After tea the spring meeting was held, the Rev. F. R. Marriott (president of the branch) being in the chair. The Rev. E. N. Aston welcomed the members to Yarnton, and Mr. W. Evetts, jun., thanked the Rector of Woodstock for his address.

The balance sheet showed that at the beginning of 1928 there was a balance in hand of £24 15s., and at the end of the year there was £29 18s. The number of ringing members was 120, and Mr. Evetts said the number of hon. members kept up well. They had lost, by the death of Mr. J. F. Mason, of Eynsham Hall, a valued hon. member.—It was agreed to hold the autumn meeting of Witney on October 5th.

The meeting decided to give a testimonial from the branch funds to Mr. John Monk, of Witney, who had been connected with the branch for half a century, the greater part of which time he had been hon. secretary.

Touches were rung at Cassington and Yarnton. Ringers were present from Yarnton, Cassington, Stanton Harcourt, Freeland, Standlake, Witney, Eynsham, Wootton, Woodstock, Summertown and Swindon.

BELLS ON BALL BEARINGS.

The following is a copy of a letter, sent by Mr. Cyril F. Johnston, of Croydon, author of the booklet, 'Bells, Old and New,' to Mr. E. Denison Taylor, of Loughborough:—

Dear Mr. Taylor,—I am writing to you direct to reply to your firm's letter which appears in last week's issue of 'The Ringing World,' under the heading 'Bells on Ball Bearings.'

In my pamphlet, 'Bells, Old and New,' I have dealt only with complete peals hung on ball bearings, and I am glad to know of that at Longney, so that it can be added to that of St. Stephen's, Clapham Park.

Would you mind telling me if this applies to Hensingham also? I mean, are there eight bells only in the peal? In that case, I will add mention of both those towers in the paragraph referred to, before any more copies are issued, as only the first hundred have been presented, and my idea has been to keep the booklet as impersonal as possible and entirely clear of the name of any bell founding firm. It is an attempt to put the truth forward as clearly and moderately as possible to those interested in bell restoration generally.

I am asking the editor of 'The Ringing World' if he would be good enough to publish a copy of this letter.—Yours very truly, (Signed) CYRIL F. JOHNSTON.

P.S.—Before going to press, I was told that the entire peal at Waltham Abbey had been hung on ball bearings, and I therefore sent a representative to verify my own belief that the two tenors only had been so treated.

Messrs. Taylor and Co. have replied as follows to Mr. Johnston:—Dear Sir,—Referring to your letter of the 1st inst. (addressed to Mr. E. Denison Taylor), we have to inform you that, as stated in our letter in last week's 'Ringing World,' we fitted ball bearings to the eight bells of the Hensingham peal in 1914.—Yours faithfully,

JOHN TAYLOR AND CO.

LINCOLN DIOCESAN GUILD.PRESENTATION TO NORTHERN BRANCH PRESIDENT.

In glorious weather the annual meeting of the Northern Branch was held at Gainsborough on Saturday, May 25th. Among the towers represented were Barrow-on-Humber, Bassingham, Bigby, Blankney, Brantson, Elsham, Grimsby (St. Andrew's), Haxey, Lincoln (Cathedral and St. Peter-at-Gowts), Scotter, Scunthorpe, Stow, Ulceby, Upton and Willingham, in addition to the local company. Mr. and Mrs. R. Richardson, from the Elloe Deaneries Branch, Mr. J. H. Brothwell, Treton, Mrs. East, North Collingham, and Mr. T. Bartholomew, were also present.

The bells were available during the afternoon and evening, and were kept going in various methods ranging from Grandsire Triples to London Surprise Major. Service, consisting of shortened evensong, was held, a large congregation being present. The music was led by a number of the choirboys, and the singing was heartily joined in by all. Mr. F. F. Linley (Northern Branch president) read the lessons, and an eloquent address was given by the Very Rev. the Dean of Lincoln (Dr. T. C. Fry).

Afterwards over 100 members of friends partook of an excellent tea at the Parish Church Institute. This was followed by the business meeting, over which the Dean of Lincoln presided, supported by Mr. Linley, Canon Morris (Vicar of Gainsborough), Rev. H. T. Parry (president of the Grimsby District), and members of the committee. Apologies for absence were received from Mr. R. Scott (Sleaford district secretary), Rev. R. Bond (Caistor, late of St. Peter-at-Arches, Lincoln), Mr. H. Knott (Washingborough), Mr. H. Haigh (secretary of the North Notts Association), Alderman J. S. Pritchett (Recorder of Lincoln), and Major H. D. Marshall, D.L., J.P. (Pillham Hall, Gainsborough).

The balance sheet and secretary's report for 1928 were passed, and the whole of the officers re-elected, viz.: President and treasurer, Mr. F. F. Linley; hon. secretary, Mr. F. S. W. Butler; hon. auditors, Mr. F. W. Stokes and Mr. J. R. Sharpe; Ringing Master, Mr. J. A. Freeman; two representatives to serve on the Guild Committee, Mr. Geo. Chester and Mr. J. A. Freeman. Messrs. H. Marcon (Lincoln), H. I. Mingay (Grimsby), and R. Scott (Sleaford) were elected to serve on a sub-committee, consisting of representative members from each branch, for the purpose of considering the printing of a more extensive Guild annual report, similar to those of pre-war years.

A resolution from the committee, 'That an honorarium of £2 2s. be granted to the hon. secretary,' was carried.

The last, but not by any means least, interesting item on the agenda was the presentation of a handsome easy chair by the Dean, on behalf of the members, to Mr. Linley, as a token of their affection and appreciation of the invaluable services which he has rendered for the welfare of the ringing community during his term of office, first, as a vice-president of the North Lincolnshire Association from its formation in 1884 to 1899, then as a vice-president of the Northern Branch of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild from its amalgamation in 1899 to 1905. In the latter year he was elected president of the Northern Branch, and without a break has held that office down to the present day.

The Dean spoke appreciatively concerning the excellent work that Mr. Linley has done, particularly in regard to the augmentation of the Cathedral bells, while the members showed their full approval by singing 'For he's a jolly good fellow.'

Mr. Linley suitably thanked the members for the kind way in which they had shown their appreciation of his services.

Votes of thanks to the church authorities for the use of the bells, to the organist (Miss Cox), to the caterers for the excellent tea provided, and to any others who had helped toward making the meeting such a success, concluded the business.

ELY DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.A BRANCH MASTER APPOINTED.

A well-attended meeting of the Ely Archdeaconry was held at Sawston on Saturday, May 25th. Members were present from Cambridge, Fulbourn, Great Staughton, Ickleton, Long Stanton, Melbourn, Newmarket, Over, Stapleford, Trumpington, Willingham, and the local band. It was agreed, on the proposition of Mr. A. E. Austin, supported by Mr. C. W. Cook, to hold the next meeting at Bourne in July.

The appointment of a Branch Master was next discussed, and, after Mr. A. E. Finch had explained the matter, he proposed, and was supported by Mr. F. Hurry, that Mr. F. Warrington carry on as Branch Master, which was carried unanimously. Mr. P. Webb, Ickleton, also remarked on the necessity of a Branch Master who would see that at the branch meetings all got a pull. More satisfaction would thus be given.

A vote of thanks was accorded the Vicar for the use of the bells, for his inspiring address and for presiding.—The Vicar, in reply, welcomed the association to Sawston, and thanked his organist (Mr. G. Robinson) for his services that afternoon. To Mr. F. Hurry, who made arrangements for tea and also had the bells in readiness, credit and thanks are also due, as everyone had a good time. The methods rung included Superlative and Cambridge Surprise Major, Double Norwich, Kent Treble Bob and Plain Bob Major, Stedman and Grandsire Triples.

SHEFFIELD DISTRICT SOCIETY.

A most successful meeting of the Sheffield District Society was held at Bolsover on Saturday, June 1st, when over 40 members turned up to ring on the fine musical peal of eight, tenor about 15 cwt., founded by Taylor and Co. in 1902. With a ring of bells in such good going order, and possessing a sweet, melodious tone, it is not surprising that they are so frequently used for peal attempts.

Favoured with bright, sunny weather, the visitors who hailed from Chesterfield, Staveley, Ecclesfield, Barlborough, Sheffield Cathedral and St. Marie's, North Wingfield, Rotherham, and several other towers, had a very pleasant time. The local company, as usual, were in full force.

Tea was provided in the Parish Hall, at which the ringers were joined by the Rev. Canon Paget, Vicar, who welcomed the visitors, and presided over the business meeting, at which new members were elected, and a hearty vote of thanks was accorded to the Canon for the use of the bells, to the local company for their arrangements, and to the ladies for providing a bountiful tea. To this the Canon suitably replied, his remarks being supplemented by a clerical relative. Courses of Triples, Major and Caters were afterwards rung on handbells, and a move then made to the tower, where touches ranging from Plain Bob to London Surprise were successfully accomplished.

GUILDFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.SECRETARIAL CHANGE IN FARNHAM DISTRICT.

A meeting of the Farnham District of the Guildford Diocesan Guild was held at Bagshot on Saturday, when about forty ringers were present. The Rev. R. L. Board, Vicar of Wolverton, Hants, hon. secretary of the Basingstoke District of the Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild, was the preacher at the service, conducted by the Vicar of Bagshot (Rev. R. W. H. Stuart). The latter also presided at the tea and meeting held in the Village Hall. The principal business was the election of a new district secretary in place of Mr. Bernard Clark, whose business ties made it necessary for him to resign. A young and enthusiastic ringer, Mr. C. Denyer, was elected in his place, and a vote of thanks to Mr. Clark was passed and ordered to be recorded on the minutes.

Mr. W. J. Francis, churchwarden, of Bagshot, who was also present at the meeting, was elected to fill a vacancy on the Executive Committee as a representative of the honorary members.

Major Gale was elected a ringing member of the Hawley band.

A vote of thanks was accorded to the preacher and to the organist, on the motion of the chairman, who in turn was thanked for conducting the service, allowing the use of the bells, and presiding at the meeting.

Afterwards, the district secretary, with the secretary of the Basingstoke District of the Winchester and Portsmouth Guild, and the secretary of the Sonning District, of the Oxford Diocesan Guild, discussed arrangements for a joint meeting of the three Guilds which is to be held at Hawley and Vateley on August 31st.

It is rather remarkable that circumstances have compelled a change in the secretaryship of each of the four districts of the Guild this year.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD.DEVIZES BRANCH AT BROMHAM.

The monthly meeting of the Devizes Branch was held at St. Nicholas' Church, Bromham, on Saturday, June 1st. The Guild service was conducted by the Rector, the Rev. J. L. Thorold, Miss King being the organist. Tea followed, to which 35 sat down. Mr. C. D. Heginbotham, chairman of the branch, presided over the business meeting, and extended a hearty welcome to the visitors, Miss N. G. Williams, Weston, Bath, Messrs. T. Davison and J. Harris, Chippenham, and Mr. R. Horton, Calne.

The following were elected members of the Guild, viz.: Messrs. G. Poppall and W. Williams, of Bedwelly, Mon., and Mr. J. Trout, of Chippenham. The usual vote of thanks was passed, to which the Rector replied.

Ringers, in addition to those mentioned, were present from Devizes St. John's and St. Mary's, Bromham, Bratton, Rowde, Holt, Bishop's Cannings, Melksham, Warminster, Trowbridge. Touches in the various standard methods were rung during the afternoon and evening.

Bromham Church, which is dedicated to St. Nicholas, is, except for north and west walls of the nave, and the lower part of the tower, which are Norman, a Perpendicular building. Its glory, however, lies in the south transept and chapel, which were, the one remodelled and the other erected, by William Beauchamp, Lord St. Amand, who there founded a chantry in honour of our Lady.

The bells, tenor 17 cwt. 2 qr. 12 lb., E flat, were cast by John Warner and Sons, London, 1875. A tablet in the church commemorates the recasting. The old bells are supposed to be the bells which inspired the poet Thomas Moore, who lived at Sloperston Cottage from 1817, and who died in 1852, and is buried near the belfry steps, to write the poem 'Evening Bells.'

ANOTHER 'WOBBLE.'

Those who studied the Methods Committee's report and who now read the debate upon it at the Central Council meeting will be struck by the fact that once again the committee have 'wobbled.' In their report they set out to justify the inclusion of the compositions, which have been the subject of such strong controversy, on the ground that they were true and complete and fully in harmony with the fundamental principles of change ringing. When they came before the Council the committee pleaded to be allowed to include them not on their merits, but on the ground that it was desirable that they should be put on record as something of interest, while, when, eventually, after a singular deadlock, caused by the defeat of an amendment when it became the substantive motion, a compromise was reached, the committee said they had got all they wanted by being allowed to put the compositions in an appendix with a note that the inclusion did not mean that they were suitable for ringing in a peal! The fact was that, having realised after the publication of their report, the strong feeling in the Exercise against the recognition of peals in which such compositions were used; the committee trimmed their sails to meet the gale and rescued their craft by putting in at another port. They would have saved a great deal of discussion had they said from the first that their only intention was to place these compositions on record, without committing themselves as to whether they were suitable for inclusion in a peal. Although one might not agree with them that a Collection of Minor and Doubles methods, published for the purposes of practical ringing, was the place in which to create a museum, the Exercise would have been much more generally inclined to meet the committee's wishes had they originally been told this, instead of having thrust upon them the contention that these compositions should be included because they were in accord with the fundamental principles of change ringing. That was the crux of the whole matter.

The generally agreed argument advanced in favour of the Bankes James arrangement of Cambridge has been, of course, that it was the only means by which seven 720's in the method would be got, with tenors always the right way together behind. The claim for saving the Pitman and Morris arrangement of Doubles is that it gives an opportunity for variety. It may, perhaps, surprise the Methods Committee, as well as the majority of the Exercise, to know, after all that has been said about the impossibility of obtaining seven 720's of Cambridge starting from and ending with the rounds and having the tenors the right way, and all the 'sob stuff' that has been written about robbing the five-bell ringers of opportunities if the Pitman and Morris Doubles are scrapped, that a well-known ringer has in his possession no fewer than eight 720's of Cambridge with the tenors the right way, and 52 true six-scores of Grandsire Doubles with ordinary bobs and singles. These will shortly be published, and will therefore remove all excuse for the use in future peals of any of the other 'mixed' compositions round which so much argument has centred. These can be relegated to 'history' with the 'incomplete peals' of Grandsire Triples and other less interesting stuff which has disappeared from practice, unwept, unhonoured and unsung.

NORTH NOTTS ASSOCIATION.

MR. H. HAIGH RESIGNS SECRETARYSHIP.

The annual general meeting of the North Notts Association was held at East Retford on Saturday, June 1st. Service was held at the Parish Church, conducted by the Rev. A. Parkinson (Vicar), and the address was given by the Rev. H. R. Peel (Vicar of Norton Cuckney). The preacher referred to the uses of church bells, and said the work of ringing them was a work for the honour and glory of God, and a most beautiful and interesting art. The ringing associations, by their rules and regulations, were careful not to degrade it, and it was now looked upon as an important branch of church work.—Mr. Harry Blagg, one of the ringers, presided at the harmonium, and 35 members were present.

Tea was provided at Cooke's Cafe, and the business meeting followed, presided over by the Vicar of East Retford, supported by the Rev. R. F. Wilkinson (Ordsall), Rev. F. S. Curtis (Everton), the Misses Burchall, Mrs. East, Mr. W. D. Metcalfe (churchwarden), Mr. Stenton, the hon. secretary of the Northern Branch of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild (Mr. F. S. W. Butler), the hon. and assistant secretaries (Messrs. H. Haigh and H. Revill), and many others. Apologies were received from the Rev. A. J. Lindsell (Rector of West Retford) and the Rev. R. Hodgson (Vicar of Anston).

The balance sheet and annual report, which were presented by the hon. secretary, showed a balance on the right side after a grant of £5 had been made to the fund for the new bells at Anston. The number of peals rung during the year was 12, an increase of 4 over 1927. The Misses Burchall had taken part in six peals and attended every district meeting during the year. The membership roll up to the end of the year contained 21 vice-presidents, 126 resident attached members, 12 unattached members, and 53 non-resident life members, making a total of 217.

The financial statement for the year ended December 31st showed a gain of 5s. 7d., and a balance in bank and treasurer's hands of £34 3s. 5d. The Hon. Secretary tendered his resignation, after 17 years' service, and thanked all who had done so much to make the meetings successful during these years, the local press and 'The Ringing World,' the vice-presidents, by their financial support and attendances at a great many of the meetings; all of which had given him joy and inspiration to carry on as hon. secretary for a greater number of years than he intended to. He had beaten all records by serving in all for 43 years as one of the committeemen, having been one of the founders, with the late Vicar of Worksop (Rev. H. T. Gladden).

A vote of thanks was heartily accorded to Mr. Haigh for his long service, on the proposition of the Rev. A. Parkinson, supported by the Rev. R. F. Wilkinson.—The hon. secretary briefly replied and thanked the members for their good words of comfort and cheer.

Mr. Robert W. Stockdale, 34, High Street, Ordsall, Retford, was elected hon. secretary, and Mr. H. Revill, 18, Tunnel Road, Ordsall, Retford, assistant secretary. Mr. H. Haigh was elected hon. treasurer, and the Rev. R. F. Wilkinson was elected representative on the Central Council.

The next meeting will be held at Everton on July 13th, and advertised in 'The Ringing World.' The following new members were duly elected: Horace W. East, of North Collingham, A. Towler, D. Newbould, W. Furness, of East Retford, G. Stevens, L. Robinson and A. Pethyn, West Retford.

During the afternoon and evening touches were rung at all three towers, in a variety of methods, and members were present from Anston, Barborough, North Collingham, Cuckney, Edwinstowe, Gamston, East Markham, Ordsall, East and West Retford, Sutton-on-Trent, Wheatley, Warsop, Worksop, Gainborough, Misterton, Lincoln Cathedral, Southwell Cathedral, Sheffield Cathedral and Hough-on-the-Hill.

A comprehensive vote of thanks was accorded to the three incumbents, Rev. A. Parkinson, Rev. R. F. Wilkinson and Rev. A. J. Lindsell, for the use of the bells at East and West Retford and Ordsall respectively, and for their presence at the tea and meeting; to the Rev. H. R. Peel for his address; to the tea makers, and all others who had used their best endeavours to make the meeting a success.—This concluded the meeting, and the bells at all three towers were rung until 9 p.m.

'BROMLEY YOUTHS.'

A peal was rung at Bromley, Kent, as recorded last week, by the Society of Bromley Youths, to commemorate the 156th anniversary of the completion of the bells at SS. Peter and Paul's Church. A peal board in the belfry states: 'In January, 1773, the old five bells in this tower were taken down, recast and augmented to eight. And on May ye 29th they were finished, on which a sett of Youths of Bromley in Kent did join in articles to learn to ring.'

The opening ringing was done by some London ringers, and a fortnight later, namely, on June 12th, James Barham took his band there and rang a peal of Oxford Treble Bob Major. Barham rang the 7th and called the peal. A footnote to the peal copied from a pocket book of his says: 'This was the first long peal on them bells, although two companies had been from London to try.' There had thus been three attempts in a fortnight.

OPENING OF SHAROW BELLS.

On Whit Tuesday, May 21st, the Bishop of Knaresborough, in the presence of a large congregation, rededicated the bells of Sharow Parish Church, Yorks. This ring of eight, six of them cast in 1824, and the two trebles in 1871, has been retuned, fitted with ball bearings, and rebung in the old frame, by Messrs. J. Taylor and Co. at a cost of some £300.

The service opened with the hymn, 'When morning gilds the skies,' sung in procession to the base of the tower, where the Bishop offered up the two dedicatory prayers. A few rounds were then rung by the following ringers: F. Jingle 1, G. Richmond 2, R. Pearson 3, C. Mowforth 4, E. Schofield 5, T. Shepherd 6, C. Howroyd 7, E. Hudson 8.

The service then proceeded, conducted by the Rev. R. E. Pownall (Vicar), the lessons being read by the Rev. W. E. Laidman, Vicar of Kirkby Mill. The Bishop preached an eloquent sermon, taking as his text Psalm xix. 3, 'There is neither speech nor language, but their voices are heard among you.'

Further touches were rung by the local ringers after the service, and again at night, with the assistance of the Ripon Minster company.

The tone of the bells is vastly improved, and the 'go' of the ring has greatly surprised some of the local ringers, whose efforts in the past have at last met with reward.

HERTFORD COUNTY ASSOCIATION.MEETING AT OLD-WORLD BENINGTON.

The spring meeting of the Eastern District was held on Saturday, and a goodly number attended, and much enjoyed the visit to this historical tower and the old-world village, with its timbered houses clustering round the old village green, and its old rookery, from which, mingling with the sound of the merry little ring of bells, the cawing of the rooks could be heard. The church is an interesting and ancient building, and two old monuments are of interest, one being to the memory of a Crusader.

The Rector, who is himself a ringer, and who is trying hard to restore in some measure the status of ringing at his tower which once was so famous for its band of Surprise ringers, provided tea and extended a warm welcome to all.

Some good practice was put in, the highest achievement being Cambridge Surprise, a method which the old bells had rung out hundreds of times sixty years ago. While some of the visitors were busy at the bells, others enjoyed the beauty of the surroundings in the spring sunshine.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.NORTH BUCKS BRANCH'S FINANCIAL POSITION.

The annual meeting at the North Bucks Branch was held at Shenley on Saturday, June 1st, and, the weather being fine, attracted a gathering numbering about 80, and representing the following towers in the Branch: Bletchley, Beachampton, Bradwell, Chicheley, Fenny Stratford, Great Buckhill, Loughton, Milton Keynes, Newport Pagnell, Stony Stratford, Simpson, Twyford, Whaddon and the local tower. Various methods were rung until service, which was conducted by the Rector of Shenley (Rev. H. Evered), and was fully choral. It was a very inspiring service, and was attended by a good number of parishioners as well as by the ringers. Tea was supplied on the Rectory lawn, and thoroughly enjoyed by all, the surroundings making it very pleasant.

At the business meeting the Secretary (Mr. W. Sear) read the report and presented a statement of accounts which was considered very satisfactory. The Branch's financial position showed £17 11s. 9d. in hand, and £10 invested. The Secretary, after briefly stating the work done, proposed that a grant of £5 be given to the Guild Restoration Fund, and that was approved. The Branch now had 176 ringing members and 19 honorary members.

The officers were re-elected, the Rev. L. Moxon, of Newport Pagnell, chairman, and Mr. W. Sear secretary and treasurer.

The Master, the Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn, was present, as also the secretary, Mr. R. T. Hibbert. An apology was received from Mr. A. Wright, the Guild treasurer. Both the Master and secretary addressed the meeting, stating their satisfaction with the healthy condition of the Branch.

The Chairman proposed hearty votes of thanks to the Rector, the choir, and the ladies for providing tea.—This was responded to by the Rector, and further ringing took place. The methods rung during the day ranged from Grandsire and Stedman Doubles to London Minor.

DISAPPOINTED VISITORS TO HEREFORD.

To the Editor.

Sir,—May I state, through your columns, how disappointed I was at not being able to enter Hereford Cathedral on Whit Monday for the ringing which was advertised from 6.30-8.30 p.m.? I was on holiday in Monmouth, and made a purpose journey for the ringing, only to find that I was one of about a dozen who only had the pleasure of hearing this fine peal.—Yours sincerely,

DONALD C. MEARS.

ESTIMATES SUBMITTED

Recasting, Retuning and Rehangings.

HANDBELLS

in sets of any number.

BELL ROPES MUFFLES &c

BELFRY GOSSIP.

Messrs. Gillett and Johnston have been entrusted with recasting and rehangings in a new frame the peal of eight at Penn, Staffs, and the rehangings of the following peals of six: Pucklechurch, Glos, Graveley, Herts, Maisey Hampton, Wilts, and Garstang, Lancs.

To-day is the first recorded peal of Stedman Caters rung on handbells. It was accomplished in the year 1851 by some famous old College Youths—John Cox, George Ferris, William Cooter, Matthew Wood and James Dwight—and was rung at the Osborn Arms. Ferris, Cooter, Wood and Dwight afterwards rang the first peal of Stedman Triples 'in hand,' and with John Cox and Henry Haley rang the first of Stedman Cinques.

The interest which has been shown in the recently augmented ring at Lincoln Cathedral, recalls the fact that the first peal in this belfry was a peal of Treble Bob conducted by Mr. F. E. Dawe on June 15th, 1886.

Another Lincoln anniversary occurs on the 20th, for it was on that date in 1756 that at St. Peter-at-Arches Church a peal of 5,040 Carathan's Triples was rung. This is believed to be Garthorn's peal of Grandsire which was rung at Norwich in 1715.

The peal rung at Bletchley on May 4th was conducted by H. Sear and not H. V. Sear as published.

THE NEW BELLS AT HATFIELD.

The two new bells given to the Parish Church at Hatfield by the Bishop of Exeter and his wife in memory of their son will be dedicated by the Bishop on Thursday, June 20th. The bells have been cast and are being erected by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank.

The bells bear the following inscriptions:—

Treble: 'In memory of Rupert Edward Gascoyne Cecil, born January 20th, 1895. Killed in action at Ypres, July 11th, 1915.' Mears and Stainbank, 1929.

New 2nd bell: 'In memory of Rupert Edward Gascoyne Cecil, son of William, Bishop of Exeter, some time Rector of Bishop's Hatfield, and of Florence, his wife.' Mears and Stainbank, 1929.

The chime room and bell chamber have been thoroughly cleaned by the Rector, his family, his gardener, and Miss Elizabeth Bennett. Eighteen sackfuls of dirt and rubbish were thrown down from the tower and burnt. Such a clearance had probably not been effected since 1847, 82 years ago, when the spire was built, and those concerned in the cleaning feel relieved that the same task will not fall to them again in their lifetime.

The new bells will give Hertfordshire another peal of ten. At present there are only two such, at St. Peter's, St. Albans, and All Saints', Hertford.

MR. AND MRS. B. KEEBLE'S DIAMOND WEDDING.

OLDEST COUPLE TO RING HANDBELLS.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Keeble, 53, Vine Street, Romford, celebrated their diamond wedding anniversary on June 7th. Both attended the eleven o'clock Eucharist at St. John's Church, at the close of which the hymn, 'O God, our Help,' was sung as a thanksgiving for the blessing of 60 years of married life.

Mr. Keeble was one of the founders of the Essex Association, and taught the whole of his family, including Mrs. Keeble, change ringing upon handbells. Five years ago, when the whole of the family of three sons and four daughters were home to celebrate Mrs. Keeble's 77th birthday, every member of the family took part in method ringing. On June 7th last a 120 Grandsire Doubles was rung: A. Keeble 1, Mrs. Bonny (daughter) 2, B. Keeble 3-4, Mrs. Keeble 5-6. Mr. Keeble was 82 in April, and Mrs. Keeble reaches the same age in August, and it is claimed that they are the oldest man and wife to accomplish such handbell ringing, simple as it may be to many thousands of ringers.

A peal of Bob Major to celebrate the event was rung at Earls Colne on Saturday.

FIRST PEAL AT WESTBURY-SUB-MENDIP.

To the Editor.

Sir,—The first peal on the bells at Westbury-sub-Mendip, Somerset, was rung about eight years ago, when a peal of Minor was scored. I therefore wish to withdraw the claim to the first peal on the bells which was published in 'The Ringing World' on June 7th, 1929. For the above information I must thank Mr. J. T. Dyke.—Yours faithfully,

F. D. RICKARDS.

VETERAN CHORISTER'S DEATH.

The death has occurred at Edenham, Lincs, of Mr. Edward Furness, for many years a member of the village choir. He passed away on May 31st, at the advanced age of 81 years, and was interred on June 3rd in the village churchyard. In the evening the bells were rung half-muffled to 720 Oxford Treble Bob: C. Bottomley 1, S. Smith 2, E. Green 3, A. Holmes, jun., 4, G. Mills 5, A. I. Holmes (conductor) 6. Also 720 Double Court: A. I. Holmes (conductor) 1, C. Bottomley 2, A. Holmes, jun., 3, A. Neal 4, G. Mills 5, E. Green, 6.

THE CENTRAL COUNCIL.

THE DEBATE ON THE METHODS COMMITTEE'S REPORT.

Mr. William Willson, speaking against the Methods Committee's Report, paid a tribute to Mr. Law James' speech, which, he said, was the acme of sense. Mr. Willson spoke in terms of eulogy of what had been done for ringing by both the Rev. E. B. and Rev. H. Law James. Some of their compositions, he said, were marvellous productions, and the name of James would be honoured in the ages to come. That, however, was no reason why they should accept the proposal of the committee of which Mr. Law James was a member. In the publications of the Council regulations were laid down for ringing, and the first of them was this, that all peals upon all numbers of bells should commence from and end with rounds. That was in print still; it had never been repealed, and he contended it still stood and put out of court these composite peals which the committee suggested should be included in the Minor Methods book ('No, no.'). They talked of progress. That word was the most abused word in the English vocabulary, and every man who boasted of progress wanted watching (laughter). There was usually a reason behind it. When change ringing was evolved from rounds, the first principle was truth, otherwise they would never have troubled to try to get true peals. The day the 120 and the 720 were obtained, that day 'finality' was written across the extent of Doubles and Minor, and no man could go a step further, not even Mr. Law James. They might get new methods; they could not get a change further. The Doubles about which they were disputing were all hopelessly false. Mr. Trollope would have them believe that because the handstrokes were true and the backstrokes were true, the composition must be 'as nice as pie.' But he did not tell them all. The moment they mixed these things up they became hopelessly false. Mr. Willson created amusement when he compared them to the mixing of beer and water. If you take a pint of cold water and a pint of good beer and pour them into a quart jug, the highbrows would tell them that they had a quart. 'You have,' said Mr. Willson, 'and you can drink it, for me' (laughter). The water was pure and undiluted; the beer was good enough for anyone, but they are no good for anything when you mix them' (laughter). In regard to the Cambridge Minor, he said, he had no objection to one of the compositions going into a museum to show how close they could sail to the wind without going overboard, because they could get 719 changes true, but he left them to get 720. Changes and rows were synonymous terms as far as ringers were concerned. One counted the rows when one counted the number of changes in a peal, and if they did this they did not take the rounds before the start as the first change of a 720. Scientific or unscientific, it was simply rot to talk about rounds before they began as being incorporated with the figures they rang. They had always considered that a peal started from rounds, and it was lined off in the composition. The composition ended when the bells came round, if it were not so there was no need for a coming home course. All they would have to do would be to saw off the false changes and call it a peal, because the conductor would say the bells were not bound to come home. In the Bankes James Cambridge 134256 was 'plained' in the body of the 720, and came up at the end as a bob change; in the second 720 142356 repeated, and rounds came up in the last 300 of the third 720, and rounds completed the first block of 2,160. Each 720 was thus hopelessly false. If they wanted rounds at the beginning they could not have it at the end without repetition, and no peal on earth would come round at the end if they once included the rounds at the beginning. It would mean the end of all discipline in change ringing if they once admitted these false compositions, and there were those who viewed the proposal with great alarm. They could not get a true 720 in Bankes James arrangement unless they counted rounds before they started, and he would ask Mr. James, as an expert—

Mr. James: I am not an expert, and I don't think there is one in this room.

Mr. Willson said he would ask them two questions: Would they recognise any performance that failed to come round? Would that be a peal or no peal? (Several members: 'No peal.')

The Rev. E. S. Powell: These 720's do not come round, but the 2,160's do. These two blocks are true.

Mr. Willson: It comes round twice in the last 720.

Rev. E. S. Powell: You ring rounds twice, that is another thing.

Mr. Willson: Rounds comes up twice.

Rev. H. Law James: Mr. Willson has gone away from what we were dealing with in the report. He is discussing peals of Minor; we are not discussing peals of Minor.

Mr. Willson: Mr. Trollope did. He added that he was going to move that the report be referred back in order that the controversial figures might be deleted.

Mr. Trollope suggested Mr. Willson should move definitely to delete the items by name.

Mr. Willson said he was prepared to do this. There was no end to what would occur if they once admitted false peals. To suggest that a false peal would be a help to any man, and especially that it was going to help a young ringer, was absurd. It was not progress, unless it was the rake's progress. He proposed that the report be referred back for the deletion of the Morris and Pitman Doubles, the London Minor and the Cambridge Surprise Minor.

Mr. James George seconded.

ONE PEAL OR SEVEN PEALS?

Mr. C. T. Coles said Mr. James' explanation had cleared the air a great deal and showed that the Methods Committee did not intend to foist these compositions on the Exercise as necessarily being true in accordance with the tradition of the Exercise, but that they merely wanted them published as historical and useful. He submitted, therefore, that all the talk about whether the compositions were true might easily be left until they came to resolution No. 7 on the agenda. There was one remark made by Mr. Willson which he would like the Council to consider during their dinner time. When they were ringing a peal of Minor, did they ring one peal or seven peals; did they ring seven peals of 720 and publish it as such, or did they say they rang a peal of Minor? He submitted that they rang a peal of Minor, and in doing so they commenced from and ended with rounds. If in between rounds came up only six times, and any other change came up seven times in between, they rang only one peal.

Rev. B. H. Tyrwhitt Drake suggested that the Council should defer settling the report until they had dealt with question No. 7 on the agenda.

The President: The two things have nothing whatever to do with each other. The committee want to publish a book up-to-date; the question whether these things should be rung is another matter.

Mr. Pulling: Does the Methods Committee intend to publish these peals with a note saying that they do not conform to the rules of Central Council?

Mr. Trollope: Certainly not; it is not necessary.

Mr. Pulling: Then you will publish them in the book as 720's that can be rung as a peal? If they are published in the book, they will be published as fit for a peal?

Mr. Trollope: Obviously.

The Hon. Secretary: Would it be possible to put them into an appendix?

Mr. Trollope: They practically are an appendix.

Mr. Cave: I propose that the report be adopted, and the book be published, provided these peals are put as an appendix, just to show what has been done. Mr. James told us that in 25 years' time someone might be bringing it out as something fresh, but if the compositions are put as an appendix it will save people trouble.

Mr. C. Mee seconded.

'COMPLETE CHANGE OF FRONT.'

Mr. J. S. Goldsmith said the committee had made a complete change of front. In their report they attempted to justify the publication of these compositions on the ground that they were true and in harmony with the tradition and usage of the Exercise. To say that they were in harmony with tradition and usage was a travesty of the use of words. But the committee had now apparently abandoned that ground for inserting the compositions, and appealed for permission to include them for historical purposes. The book which the committee proposed to publish was never intended to be what the Snowdon publications, like 'Grandsire' and 'Stedman,' were, historical surveys as well as books of instruction. The committee's compilation was for practical purposes only, and was not concerned with the historical side at all, and therefore compositions which had a purely historical interest should have no place in the publication. As some of the Council probably knew, he was not prepared to go the whole way with those who said the Bankes James' Cambridge Minor was false, and he put before the Council a new suggestion as to what might be considered true. In the construction of a method, he said, rounds was the first row; that was a matter which no one who studied method construction in these days disputed. It took two rows to make a 'change,' and, obviously, therefore, it required 721 rows to make 720 changes. As 720 was the extent obtainable on six bells, it followed that one of the rows required to make the 720 changes must be a repetition, and in an ordinary 720 the row that was repeated was rounds; the last row repeated with the first row, and in between them they got the 720 changes. The rounds which came at the end, was the first row of the next 720. In the Bankes James Cambridge the row which repeated was not rounds, but in the first 720 134256, which was the 721st row, but before that row was reached they had had 720 true rows and 720 changes, and he submitted that as that had happened and the second 134256 belonged to the second 720, the first 720 must be considered as complete as if the 721st row was rounds. It seemed to him it did not matter whether the 721st row repeated with the first or the 600th. He had submitted this argument to some well-known leaders of the Exercise, and they agreed with him that it was sound. He asked those who thought on these matters to consider this point with an unbiased view, and he believed if they did so they would agree with him that the Cambridge was both true and complete in each of its 720's in so far as completeness meant the production of 720 changes by means of 721 rows. The other compositions in dispute did not by any means stand this test, and as 120's and 720's were absolutely false. That being so, he hoped the Council would decide that they should be excluded from any publication which was to be issued in the name of the Council.

After the lunch adjournment, Mr. Pulling asked if the committee would give a definite assurance that if published these compositions should be inserted with a footnote that they should not be rung in peals. If they were only to go in as history, they should put a note that they should not be rung as peals.

Mr. Coles asked, on a point of order, whether that was not prejudging motion No. 7, which had not yet been before the Council?

Mr. Trollope said the committee would not put any note to say that compositions should not be rung.

Mr. Coles: Mr. Trollope is infringing on the same point.

The President: I think you are right.

A RETROGRADE STEP.

Mr. James Hunt said his association (the Bath and Wells) felt very strongly on this matter. He gave the Methods Committee every credit for the magnificent work which they had done, but in his association, where out of 130 towers 80 were six-bell towers, the feeling was so strong that he had been instructed to vote against the committee's proposal to include these compositions. As ringers they must stand for truth. In their report the committee said the principle of truth and completeness was so deeply implanted in the tradition of the Exercise that it would be an ample safeguard against any excess, and, furthermore, that the Exercise had preserved a high standard in these matters and kept within rigid bounds for more than two centuries. There was no Central Council in the old days, said Mr. Hunt, and the old ringers stood for everything that was good and true in ringing (hear, hear). They started from rounds and finished with rounds, and he would like to ask whether anyone there would ring a peal going off in any way than from rounds? They could not count the rounds at the start, and therefore the Bankes James Cambridge was out of order. He supported the amendment that these four things be deleted from the book.

Mr. H. W. Wilde said he had been interested in six-bell ringing for forty years, and he had taken great interest in what the Council had done for the six-bell ringers in this matter. He admired the work that had been done, but he considered the Methods Committee now proposed to take a retrograde step. The compositions of Doubles and Mr. Law James' London Minor should not be passed without very careful consideration. In introducing these Doubles and the other things which had been mentioned, they were, in his opinion, going backward. In the past the committee had been very careful not to pass undesirable things in the way of methods, such as by omitting Grandsire Minor, while in other ways they had brought other methods such as College Single Minor into line with the resolutions passed by the Council. If they went backward and introduced these compositions of Doubles and Minor they might as well reintroduce Grandsire Minor and Woodbine and Violet Treble Bob Minor which were not regular methods. He certainly could not vote for the report as it stood.

The Rev. E. S. Powell, a member of the Methods Committee, said the committee were in an extraordinarily difficult position; they were between cross fires. Naturally all those who for one reason or another disapproved of these new developments, or some of them, were likely to vote against the committee, but he was sure the Council was aware of one thing, and that was that the different opinions that had been expressed contrary to the Methods Committee had negated one another. One party said, and he had an inkling of sympathy with them, that an extent should be true and complete. If so, that meant that the 120 of Doubles had got to start from rounds and end with rounds. The position was a logical and consistent one, but if they were going to object to that they must be prepared to go a step further. After all, the modern ideas of splicing extents were contrary to the tradition of the Exercise. If they were going to scrap one of these new ideas he was afraid they would have to scrap the lot ('No.'). He did not want to develop the point—and he was not at all sure that he was in order in mentioning it—but there was undoubtedly a certain parallel between the two and many of the Council would realise it. Dealing with Mr. Goldsmith's argument that Mr. Bankes James' Cambridge Surprise produced a true peal—he thought there were others of the Council who accepted it as true—Mr. Powell said that if they had a true round block, they could start the composition just wherever they liked, and it did not make any difference to the truth or falseness of it.

Mr. F. Hopgood: Provided you start from rounds.

Rev. E. S. Powell: Yes, of course, starting from rounds. If, however, continued the speaker, they started Bankes James' 2,160 of Cambridge Minor from any lead, except three, they would get a repetition before the end of the first 720, and yet it was said, because they could ring 720 true rows without repetition, it must be true, while if they could not ring 720 rows without repetition it would not be true. Therefore, they were told in many quarters, Bankes James' Cambridge must be true and other spliced arrangements false. The only reason for ringing Bankes James' composition was to avoid the 6-5's at backstroke, and they could not start anywhere but at these particular lead-ends to do that. The Pitman Doubles was on exactly the same lines. There were 24 possible places at which they could start, but there were only two of them from which they could get 120 rows without repetition, and who wanted just two 240's of Grandsire Doubles?

NO TRUE PEALS ON PITMAN PLAN.

If the theory of those who supported the argument of the James Cambridge and the Pitman Doubles was true, continued Mr. Powell, he was perfectly certain there had never been a peal of Grandsire Doubles rung on the Pitman plan which was a true peal. It was perfectly obvious that those who had used the Pitman arrangement had started from various lead-ends in order to get variety. It was because these compositions did not differ in principle that the committee found itself up against a dead end. It was not that they wanted to press the Law James London or the Morris Doubles upon them. They had got to come before the Council with some consistent case, and they could not put a case before them which would show the Bankes James Cambridge as true and the others hopelessly false. With regard to the question as to whether these were useful peals to put into their report, they had never tried to persuade the Council, if they read the report carefully, that they wished to recommend them to be rung for peals. He was afraid that Mr. Goldsmith had been misled by the leading article in his own paper (laughter). All they had said was that they did not feel in a position, from their knowledge, to condemn them wholesale—it was a matter to put before the Exercise. There seemed to be several members of the Council who said, 'That is all very well, but even so we do not agree with the Methods Committee as to what is fit for peal ringing' (hear, hear). All right, why then did they not raise the same objection when the Peals Collection Committee were doing their magnificent work in the Collection of Treble Bob Peals? It would be out of order for him to ask Mrs. Fletcher what percentage of those hundreds of peals were fit for peal ringing, but a very large number would be recognised as not fit for ringing in the tower in a peal.

A Member: That is a matter of opinion; it is not because they are false.

Mr. Powell said it was a matter of opinion whether it was advisable to ring a peal with the 2nd the extent in 6th's place, but was there not a certain parallelism between the two things? The Methods Committee were asking the Council to allow them to put these compositions on record; if such compositions were condemned by the Council, that could be made known afterwards.

A Member: Too late, then, sir.

Mr. Willson: They should be stamped like the false peals of Double Norwich in the Double Norwich book with the word 'False' across them.

Mr. Powell said it had yet got to be proved whether they were false. He hoped he had shown sufficiently clearly that the argument, the only effective argument which up to the present had been used, and that was the one about the 120 true rows, had nothing in it. The committee simply asked that the matter be dealt with in order that these compositions might be placed on record, and they would leave the Council to deal with the other question of peal ringing. The committee did not feel able to express a definite opinion; they did not feel able, either individually or collectively, to condemn all or any of these compositions as false. He could go into details to explain why, but he did not think it would carry things any further than they were at present.

Mr. Wilde, a member of the Methods Committee, having been given leave to reply to what Mr. Powell had said with regard to the peals of Treble Bob, said it was true some of the peals sent in for the Collection were not worth ringing, but the great majority of them were—there were some excellent peals in it. The Peals Collection Committee had instructions to include them all. If it came to printing the peals, he had no doubt that all those not worth ringing would be cut out. Some of the peals were not worth proving, but they had instructions to prove, and they did it.

A DEADLOCK.

Mr. Willson's amendment was then put to the meeting, and, after two counts, was declared carried by 30 votes to 29.

Mr. Trollope then asked: What about the book?

Members: Publish it.

Mr. Willson: Publish it without the compositions.

Mr. James: No, sir. What is the use? I have done my best for the Council; the Council does not want me to do anything more.

This statement was greeted with a chorus of noes.

Mr. James: Yes. I have got a brother, said Mr. James speaking with agitation, who has done a vast amount of work for this Council, and he has been treated with just the same contempt as I have been treated to-day. My brother has done precious little for the last ten years, and it is entirely due to that abominable treatment from a lot of ignorant people.

Mr. Coles said he was surprised at some of the members of that Council when some of these compositions were already in their own peal books.

When the amendment was read by the president before putting it as the substantive motion, it took the form of proposing the omission of the four compositions under discussion, 'because they are all hopelessly false.'

Several members expressed disagreement with this addition, and Mr. Goldsmith asked permission to move a further amendment to delete these words.

The Rev. E. S. Powell objected, as, he said, this was the specific ground upon which the amendment had been carried.

The objection was upheld by the president, who, on putting the motion, declared it lost. (Continued at foot of next column.)

NEW RING OF TEN FOR LANCASHIRE.

DEDICATION AT LEYLAND.

Lancashire, none too well off for rings of ten, has gained another by the addition of two trebles at Leyland Parish Church, and enthusiastic scenes marked the parochial May Festival on Saturday, May 11th, when the recast and augmented peal was dedicated by the Bishop of Blackburn. The church was crowded from end to end, over 2,000 gaining admittance to the service, while many more were unable, to find even standing room. The service was fully choral, every resident member of the choir being present.

The Bishop, standing on the chancel steps, pronounced the dedicatory prayer, while the whole congregation knelt.

Following immediately upon a long and clear call to action from a cornet player, a voice from the tower was heard to say, 'Treble going,' and within another moment the engineering skill and workmanship of Messrs. Gillett and Johnston, of Croydon, was manifest, as without a fault every bell was pulled off, and the sweet music of the beautiful bells rang through the village. Probably the only dissentients were the two young owls whose mother had hatched them out in the tower behind the mechanism of the clock.

No efforts have been spared by the famous Croydon firm to produce a truly model and ideal peal, second to none in the country. The eight bells have been recast and augmented by two trebles, and the whole hung in new fittings, including ball bearings, in a metal 'H' type frame. The span of the stately tower is such as to enable all the bells to be accommodated on the one level. The tenor has been equipped with the firm's patent clapper control, by means of which a beautiful hum travels across the air, and the ease with which the local ringers handled the bells for the first time the following day is a grand testimony to the excellence of the work.

The old bells weighed in all 79 cwt. 3 qr. 7 lb., with the tenor 22 cwt. 22 lb. The metal has been redistributed, and the new peal of ten weighs in all 100 cwt. 2 qr. 13 lb., with the tenor 23 cwt. 20 lb. in E flat. An Ellacombe chiming apparatus, for tune-playing purposes, has also been fitted to the whole peal.

The firm was represented at the dedication by Mr. Cyril F. Johnston, who took part in the Sunday ringing as an honorary member of the band.

There is already an enthusiastic band of ringers in the parish, including a number of ladies.

The treble is inscribed 'Prayer'; the 2nd, 'Obedience'; 3rd, 'May Jesus Christ be praised, the gift of Margaret Kellett, 1897; John Taylor and Co., Loughborough, "Unity"; 4th, 'Hope'; 5th, 'Truth'; 6th, 'Loyalty'; 7th, 'Love'; 8th, 'Peace'; 9th, 'Joy'; tenor, 'Morning, evening, noon and night praise God. The gift of John Stanning, 1897. John Taylor and Co., Loughborough. "Faith." Eight of these bells were recast and rehung and two trebles added in 1929 at the expense of the congregation by Gillett and Johnston, of Croydon. G. H. Ensor, M.A., Vicar; W. Dawber and R. Stopford, Churchwardens.'

On Nos. 1 and 2: 'Gillett and Johnston, Croydon, 1929.'

This left a deadlock, and Mr. Trollope asked for instructions for the committee. They wanted some guide as to what they were to do. Obviously, what they wanted to do, he said, was to carry out the Council's wishes. Would they meet the wishes of the Council if they printed these compositions separately, as a sort of appendix, at the end of the book, and said that the compositions contained repetitions of changes, and that the insertion of them did not commit the Council to the opinion that they were fit for ringing in peals?

Mr. Willson: You admit, then, that there are repetitions of changes?

Mr. Trollope: I am admitting nothing at all. I am asking whether we should do this, not what we want to do, but what the Council wants us to do. Shall we put these in the end of the book and say these compositions apply to five and six-bell methods, but the insertion of them here does not commit anyone to the opinion that they are valid for peal ringing?

Mr. G. J. Sedgeley proposed that that should be done.

Mr. Cave: That was my proposition just now; accept the report and publish these compositions as an appendix.

Mr. Willson: Why print them if they are not worth ringing?

Mr. Pulling: When Mr. Trollope gets a thing in his own hands, he generally does what the committee wanted beforehand (laughter).

Mr. G. P. Burton suggested that the words should be: 'The insertion of these compositions as an appendix does not commit anybody to the opinion that they are suitable for peal ringing.'

Mr. Whittington: Will the inclusion of these compositions legitimise them, and will it give people the right to have those peals recognised by the Analysis Committee if they are rung because they are in that book?

Rev. H. Law James: No.

The President: That entirely depends on resolution No. 7.

On the proposal being put to include the compositions as an appendix with a note in the terms suggested, it was carried by 44 votes to 3, and Mr. James remarked: 'Thank you, gentlemen; that is all we want.'

A YOUNG CONDUCTOR.

In these days when young ringers are hard to get and still more difficult to keep, it is always a pleasure to find a youthful recruit making headway, and this week we record a peal of Grandsire Triples at Bolton, Lancs, conducted by Peter Crook, jun., who is only fifteen years of age. Few ringers have called a peal of Triples at an earlier age than this.

Peter, junior, is the son of Mr. Peter Crook, of the Bolton Police, who is honorary secretary of the Bolton Branch of the Lancashire Association and an active leader in the Exercise in that district. Young Peter, who inherits his father's love of ringing, rang his first peal at Holy Trinity, Bolton, on May 26th, last year, when he was but fourteen years of age, and it was conducted by a proud father. He has now shown the stuff he is made of by himself calling a peal, and the way in which he accomplished the task marks him out as a most promising member of the Exercise. Ringers generally will congratulate him upon his performance, and will wish him every success in the future.

The photograph is reproduced by the kindness of Messrs. Tilloison's, Ltd., 'Bolton Evening News.'

The inquiry made in our 'Belfry Gossip' column recently as to who were the youngest ringers to ring a peal, has brought us the following letters:—

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—Adverting to your enquiry with regard to youthful record makers, I beg to inform you (in all modesty) that at the age of 14 years, a month after my 14th birthday, I rang an inside bell to a peal containing seven different Minor methods, and while still 14 years old I rang my first eight-bell peal.

Have these performances been accomplished at an even earlier age, I wonder? I should very much like to know if I was the youngest ringer to ring a seven-method Minor peal 'inside.'—Yours faithfully,

EDWARD H. SPICE.

Gravesend.

SISTER AND BROTHER'S PERFORMANCES.

Sir,—Re your correspondent's query, I can give the following information: Miss N. Denyer, of Aldershot, rang in a peal of Bob Major at the age of 13; Master C. Deuyer rang in a peal of Grandsire Triples at the age of 13. The above are brother and sister (children of the captain of the Aldershot band), and I had the pleasure of teaching both from the beginning. Miss Nancy Denyer rang in two peals of Grandsire Triples, one of Bob Major and two of Minor in four methods, whilst Master Charles rang two peals of Grandsire Triples and one of Oxford Treble Bob Major.—Yours, etc.,

GEO. GILBERT.

Slough, Bucks.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

A well-attended bye-meeting of the Canterbury District was held at Petham on Saturday, June 8th, by kind permission of the Vicar, the Rev. Clairemont. The following towers were represented: Canterbury Cathedral, St. Alphege, Wickham, Sturry, Wingham, Herne, and St. Nicholas-at-Wade. Ringing commenced at about 2.45 p.m., and later the Vicar paid a visit to the tower and welcomed the ringers. He expressed disappointment at not being able to join them at the tea, owing to another engagement.

The tea was served at the Duke's Head, where a considerable amount of surprise seemed to exist that 'people should come such a long way just to knock bits of iron about'—a remark which caused a good deal of laughter.

After tea, ringing continued until half-past seven, touches in the following methods being brought round: Kent and Oxford Treble Bob, Plain Bob, Double Oxford, Stedman and Grandsire. Cambridge Surprise was attempted.

WEDDING BELLS.

The bells of King's Somborne were rung on May 11th, to celebrate the wedding of the daughter of Mr. Reynolds, a sidesman and church councillor. As the happy couple were leaving the church, a touch of 720 Grandsire Doubles was rung. The ringers then attended the reception at the Village Hall, after which they returned to the tower where a quarter peal of Bob Minor was successfully brought round, conducted by Mr. W. Tucker. The remainder of the evening was spent with touches of Stedman and Doubles. The local ringers were assisted by ringers from North Stoueham and Romsey.

We much regret that, owing to pressure on our space, several letters to the Editor and reports of meetings are unavoidably held over.

WINCHESTER AND PORTSMOUTH DIOCESAN GUILD.

FORTHCOMING JUBILEE CELEBRATION.

The annual general meeting of the Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild was held at Portsmouth on Saturday, June 1st, at St. Mary's Parish Institute, this being the jubilee year of the former Winchester Diocesan Guild, which was founded at Basingstoke on June 26th, 1879. The Vicar of St. Mary's (Ven. G. C. L. Lunt, M.A., M.C.) presided, supported by the Master (Mr. G. Williams), general secretary (Mr. G. Pullinger), treasurer (Rev. N. C. Woods) and the peals recorder (Mr. F. W. Rogers).

The balance sheet presented to the members showed an income for the year amounting to £86 18s., and an expenditure of £30 7s. 6d., showing an increase on the general fund of £56 10s. 6d. The accounts were adopted unanimously.

In presenting the annual report, Mr. Williams remarked that the past year had been the first under the newly-formed Winchester and Portsmouth Guild, and had in many respects been an unqualified success. The smaller districts had been formed at the beginning of the year and had resulted in a great deal of activity in all parts of the diocese. In the Christchurch district only one tower was not affiliated, and only three had failed to join the Guild in the Portsmouth district. The completion of the memorial to the late Rev. C. E. Matthews had been the most important event of the year. A splendid response to this appeal had resulted in over £100 being collected, and the memorial had taken the form of two treble bells at Milford-on-Sea. He was happy to report that the majority of the towers and bells in the district were in good condition; but at Arretton, Avington, Hurstbourne Prior, Southampton (Holy Road) and Warnford the bells needed rehanging, and great efforts to raise money for this purpose were being made. Three augmentations had been carried out during the year—at Milford (five to eight), Highclere (six to eight), and Sherborne St. John (five to six). In concluding, Mr. Williams observed that at the end of last year the total membership was 57 life members, 68 hon. members, and 590 ringing members, with 88 towers in union.

The Master gave a lengthy and interesting report of the proceedings of the Central Council meeting at Chelmsford, for which he was thanked.

The Rev. F. Saar (hon. secretary of the Andover District) presented to the members a draft copy of the Guild's proposed new form of service, and it was unanimously decided, subject to the Bishop's consent, to print copies of the same for subsequent use.

On the question of the suggested new Guild certificate, the Secretary said they had been fortunate to obtain the help of Mr. W. H. Fussell (Slough) in this direction, and as he was with them that day he would like to thank him (Mr. Fussell) for his kind help.

Mr. W. H. Fussell said that it would be a great pleasure if he could help the members in this way. He had had the honour to do similar service for the Swansea and Brecon Guild, and he suggested, as he did in that case, that the certificate should not be too much on the large size, but rather compact and neat.—The members thanked Mr. Fussell for his help, and it was left to him to draw up one or two suggested designs for approval at the next annual meeting.

A NEW TREASURER.

The vice-presidents of the Guild were re-elected and Mr. G. Williams was re-elected Master. Mr. G. Pullinger was re-elected general secretary, and was heartily thanked for the untiring efforts he had given to the Guild during its first term of office, especially in the direction of spade work required in the new districts.

The Hon. Treasurer (Rev. N. C. Woods) asked to be relieved of his post owing to medical reasons, and it was with regret that the members consented. They thanked him for his splendid service to the Guild in the past.

The General Secretary mentioned that when he first heard of the treasurer's desire to be relieved of office, he at once communicated with the Rev. Evan Jones (Vicar of Hedge End), a former secretary of the Basingstoke District, who replied saying how pleased he would be to accept the post, and remarked that he had been 'like a fish out of water' since he was compelled, owing to another appointment, to give up his former job.—It was unanimously resolved that the Rev. Evan Jones be asked to become hon. treasurer.

The Recorder of Peals (Mr. F. W. Rogers) asked that this office should be performed by another member of the Guild. He was opposed to any one member holding more than one job, and thought that a straightforward work like this could easily be performed by another. He could then devote his whole time as secretary of the Portsmouth District.—Mr. H. R. Aitken (Portsmouth) kindly consented to become recorder of peals, and hoped that he would perform this duty as efficiently as his predecessor.

JUBILEE MEETING.

At the last annual meeting it had been decided to hold the jubilee celebration of the formation of the Winchester Diocesan Guild in co-operation with the Guildford Diocesan Guild at Haslemere and Petersfield on July 6th. Since then, however, it has become doubtful if a joint gathering at two such widely separated towers could be made a success, and the general secretary (Mr. J. S. Goldsmith) wrote suggesting that the whole idea of a joint meeting at these towers should be scrapped, but mentioning that if it was decided to proceed with the idea the Guildford Guild would co-operate to the best of their ability. He also suggested that greater success would attend a jubilee meeting at Winchester, and hoped a later date than July 5th, when the Guildford Guild would hold their festival, would be chosen.

In view of this letter and also that the places mentioned were on an extreme side of the Winchester and Portsmouth Guild's area, Mr. W. Andrews (Winchester) proposed that the idea of the jubilee meeting be adhered to, but that it be held at Winchester on Saturday, July 6th, with a special service to be conducted by Minor Canon N. C. Woods during the afternoon in the Cathedral. This motion was seconded by Mr. R. J. Stone (Portsmouth) and carried.

It was decided to hold the next annual meeting at Southampton on Saturday, July 12th, 1930.

Afterwards the usual votes of thanks were accorded the Vicar of St. Mary's and the Provost of the Cathedral for the use of the respective peals of bells, the business meeting terminated.

The members attended service at St. Mary's, at which the Vicar officiated. The Provost (Ven. B. Williams) read the lesson, and an eloquent and inspiring address was given by the Vicar of Fareham (Rev. A. Cory).

An excellent tea was served in the Parish Institute, the clergy being present with the members. This concluded, some indulged in hand-bell ringing, whilst others visited St. Mary's belfry and also the Cathedral.

During the day members were present from Alverstoke, Blackmoor, Carisbrooke, Fareham, Highclere, Newport, North Steneham, Portsmouth (St. Thomas' and St. Mary's), Ryde, Swanmore, Southampton, St. Mary Bourne, Wickham and Winchester, also Messrs. E. C. Merritt, K. Hart, A. D. Stone (Brighton) and W. H. Fussell (Slough). The ringing practised during the day ranged from Grand-sire Triples to Cambridge, London and Bristol Surprise Major.

LINCOLN DIOCESAN GUILD.

NORTHERN BRANCH.

A Grimsby District meeting, held at Louth on Whit Monday, proved a great success, and brought together ringers from far and near. Amongst those present were Rev. J. Barker, Rector of Great Coates, and members from Ulceby, Barrow-on-Humber, Barton-on-Humber, Grimsby St. Andrew's, Burton-on-Stather, Scunthorpe, Laceby, Goxhill, and the local ringers. There were also ringers from Lincoln, Boston, Derby, Leicester, Nottingham, Hull and Rotherham. The fine peal of eight, which have recently been rehung, were kept going until the service, which was conducted by the Rector, the Rev. H. Burton, and at which the address was given by the Rev. J. Barber. A splendid tea was awaiting the company, 41 sitting down. Others went on the hills for tea.

Mr. H. Rushby presided over the business meeting in the absence of the president (the Rev. H. T. Parry), who was attending the Central Council meeting.

The election of Mr. Martin Walker and Mr. L. England was confirmed by the meeting.

Mr. George Dixon, of Scunthorpe, was re-elected a member, subject to the approval of the general committee.

Mr. Rushby proposed a hearty vote of thanks to the Rector for the use of the bells and for conducting the service, and to the Rev. J. Barber for his address, to the caterers, and to those who made the arrangements.—This was seconded by Mr. C. W. Taylor, and carried. Mr. H. Rushby was thanked for presiding over the meeting and also for playing the organ for service.

The meeting proved a great success, and further ringing was indulged in.

The Grimsby District and the Ladies' Guild combined meeting at Burton-on-Stather is held on Saturday, June 15th, and not the 22nd, as previously arranged.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION. LARGE GATHERING AT PINNER.

The North and East District meeting of the Middlesex County Association and London Diocesan Guild held at Pinner on Saturday, June 1st, attracted a large number, upwards of 50 attending. Ringing started punctually at 3 p.m., and the fine peal of eight bells were utilised to the fullest extent until service time. The Vicar (Rev. C. E. A. Rowland) gave a most interesting discourse on the history of bells generally, and of the Pinner peal in particular. The present peal were recast in 1926 at the Whitechapel Foundry, and are famed all round the neighbouring district for their sweet tones. The Vicar also expressed his appreciation of the visit of the association, which he wished every success.

Service over, the members adjourned for tea. Some difficulty was at first experienced in finding seating accommodation, owing to the unexpectedly large muster, but eventually all were served.

At the business meeting ten new members were admitted, including the confirmation of the election of three policemen who rang in the police peal at St. George's, Southwark, on the previous Saturday. In proposing that their election be confirmed, the Hon. Secretary (Mr. C. T. Coles) congratulated the band on ringing the first Surprise peal by a band of 'bobbies,' which would find an honoured place in the records of the society.

The Hon. Secretary reported on the meeting of the Central Council, referring at length to the Doubles and Minor controversy. He also mentioned the splendid report by the Legal Committee, of which their president (Mr. F. A. Milne) was a member.

Mr. Milne added that the report in question fully covered the ground, and would be published shortly. The next meeting was arranged for Harrow Weald and Staunmore on June 29th.

A hearty vote of thanks to the Rev. C. E. A. Rowland, and to Mr. R. H. Collyer, was unanimously passed, and the meeting terminated. Mr. W. Pye looked after the ringing, and all the standard methods were rung, including an excellent touch of Spliced Surprise in four.

Amongst the many visitors was 'he of England,' who, when he is at home, resides at Birmingham. He might now have been the oldest inhabitant of Pinner (his birthplace) had he not taken a fancy to roaming. On this occasion he roamed round Pinner looking for old friends, but, like the ringers in his early peals, 'they're all dead.'

BRISTOL UNITED RINGING GUILDS.

DISPLAY OF ACCURATE STRIKING ABILITY.

On Friday, June 7th, a display of accurate striking was held at St. Michael's Church, Bristol, under the adjudication of Mr. J. T. Dyke (of Chilcompton, Bath). One of the earliest features was the excellence of striking by the St. Michael's Guild, and a further conspicuous feature was the ability of the newly-formed Guild of St. Werburgh. The St. Michael's No. 2 band very pluckily took part in spite of the handicap of having four of the most recent learners.

The result will not be discouraging to either of the Guilds quoted, but rather tend to bring about a desire to make further displays more difficult for those who have had such a long experience. The results were as follows:—

Guild.	Method.	Number of Faults.
1st—St. Stephen's.	Cambridge Surprise Minor.	10.9 per cent.
2nd—St. Matthew's.	Stedman Doubles.	15.0 per cent.
3rd—St. Werburgh.	Grandsire Doubles.	25.0 per cent.
4th—St. Michael's (No. 1)	Grandsire Doubles.	34.0 per cent.
5th—St. Michael's (No. 2)	Rounds and Queens	56.0 per cent.

Mr. Dyke, in making the award, said how pleasing it had been to him to listen to the striking through an open window, and he assured the Guilds competing that much had been done that evening to improve the most essential part of ringing, viz., the striking.

Mr. Thomas and Mr. Pring also spoke of the good that must inevitably result by the effort of the Bristol United Ringing Guilds to ensure better striking. Mr. Dyke was thanked for his services.

'UNDER WHICH KING?'

The article which appeared in this column last week has brought forth, as we expected it would, a reply from the principle spokesman of the Methods Committee. It is a justification of the Committee's change of front in their reasons for wishing to include, in the new edition of the Collection of Methods, the much debated compositions. At this stage it is hardly worth while disputing at length over what happened at Chelmsford. Mr. Trollope may not think the Committee 'wobbled,' but Mr. Trollope has publicly admitted that he does not profess to go in for verbal consistency. That is exactly our complaint. You can never pin them down and we leave Mr. Trollope to get whatever comfort he can from his letter. The greatest sin which anyone in the Exercise can commit is to disagree with the Methods Committee. That has frequently been apparent. Unless one worships at their particular shrine, the wrath of the gods is called down upon him.

'The Ringing World' in this discussion has stood for a principle—upholding the decisions of the Central Council. The Council at Hereford passed a resolution which required that in peals of Doubles and Minor the component 120's and 720's respectively should be true and complete. It was a motion passed, after three months' notice, if not with the expressed acquiescence of all the members of the Methods Committee, at least without disapproval from any of them, and one of them seconded it. When 'The Ringing World' endeavoured to support this decision of the Council, the Committee, Mr. Trollope has said, had 'to take up the challenge' because 'on that particular thing his (the Editor's) views were not our views.' The real issue here raised is, 'Under which king?' If the Exercise is to have a lead, is it to take it from the Council, or from the Methods Committee? The contention of 'The Ringing World' in regard to the inclusion of some of these compositions in one of the Council's publications is that it would give authority to their use, when the Council had already laid down requirements for a peal which deliberately excluded them. Moreover, that to include such compositions would open the door to the admission of even less desirable compositions, which would lend themselves to all kinds of peal 'faking' by unscrupulous conductors—the traditions and good sense of the Exercise notwithstanding.

It is as well, perhaps, that, amid all the steam that has been let off, this position of 'The Ringing World' should again be made clear. It was because the Methods Committee were proposing to offer something to ringers which their own Council declined to recognise that we criticised them, and it will not, we think, be disputed that but for this criticism the Committee would have included in the promised new edition of Minor Methods without comment the compositions which they are now prepared to label as of questionable suitability for use in peals.

The question now, however, is not so much what has passed, as what is to be done in the future. The position of what shall be recognised as a peal of Doubles or Minor is at the moment in a most unsatisfactory position. The resolutions in the Council's minute book still stand, but things cannot remain as they are. A motion by which it was sought to define again what a peal on five or six bells should consist of was postponed, but sooner or later the question has got to be settled. Obviously there are two schools of thought, and it might be well, if they cannot come to any unanimous agreement, that they should endeavour to arrive at a temporary compromise and draft resolutions which might be put before the next Council meeting so that ringers may know exactly what is expected for a peal. Such resolutions, if passed, should be loyally observed by those who look upon the Council as the central authority of the Exercise, and if new ideas develop which render such definitions out of date, they should be properly amended before any Committee of the Council attempts either directly or indirectly to override them.

HOYLANDSWAINE CUP CONTEST.

This annual event took place at Hoylandswaine on Saturday last. Five bands entered, and were drawn to ring as under: 1, Wath; 2, Cawthorne; 3, Sandal; 4, Felkirk; 5, Shelley. Mr. J. R. Brearley was the judge. The first band commenced at 3.20 p.m., the last band finished at 6.30 p.m.

Tea was served in the Parochial Room. About 60 ringers and friends, among whom the fair sex were prominent, sat down to a feast of good things.

The business meeting followed, the Vicar (Rev. J. Hewitson) kindly acting as chairman.

The following were elected members: Mr. Noel Moxon (Cawthorne), Mr. R. Harrison (Ecclesfield), Mr. Hemingway Dransfield (Dewsbury, non-resident), Mr. George Simon, Elland (non-resident).

The Barnesley and District Shield Contest, proposed to be held at Monk Bretton, was discussed. Several members referred to the hard going of the bells at that church, and the proposal was therefore cancelled, and Crofton, near Wakefield, substituted.

For the July meeting Wentworth was selected.

The judge's award for the cup contest was declared as under: Shelley, 76 faults, first prize, silver cup and six clocks; Wath, 210 faults, second prize, six sets of half a dozen dinner knives; Felkirk, 3; Cawthorne and Sandal 'rung out.'

Of this, the sixth annual contest, it may truly be said its effect for good was very marked. An excellent social feeling prevailed throughout. The victors walked away with the trophies, but sound friendship was triumphant.

The annual meeting of the Cleveland and North Yorkshire Association was held at Ripon on Whit Monday. Ringers gathered in the old town from Thirsk, Darlington (St. John's and Holy Trinity), Middlesbrough, Sharow, Ormesby, Tadcaster, Hurworth, and, joined by the local band, kept the beautiful peal of ten going until a late hour at night. Grandsire and Stedman Caters, Treble Bob Royal, Plain Bob, Treble Bob, Double Norwich and Superlative Major, and Grandsire and Stedman Triples were rung, and the feature of the ringing was the beautiful striking. Visitors to the gathering, in the shape of Mr. H. Withers, of Birmingham, and two Preston ringers, were welcomed.

At the annual meeting, which was attended by about 25 ringers, the secretary (Mr. T. Metcalfe) presented his annual report, which alluded to the diamond wedding of one of the members, which had been celebrated during the year. That was Mr. James Barnett, who, at the age of 80 years, is still a ringing member of the association, and has been a ringer at Northallerton Church for 50 years. He is one of the original members of the association. The association had suffered loss by death in the passing of Mr. G. Neesom, of Thirsk, at the age of 84 years.

The referees under the Sunday service ringing scheme announced that Middlesbrough had won the first certificate and Whitby the second certificate for the last year's competition, and it was decided that the Skelton tower should become the owners of the first certificate and Middlesbrough tower the owners of the second certificate at the expiration of the twelve months.

The officers were re-elected, and the president (Mr. J. C. Pollard) was appointed as one of the association's representatives to the Central Council in the place of the Rev. A. Simpson, the other representative being the hon. secretary.

A vote of thanks to the Cathedral authorities for the use of the bells was passed, and the members expressed their appreciation of the kindness of the Dean in so readily consenting to their request to be allowed the privilege of the use of the bells.

The meetings of the association for the next year were fixed for Ormesby in autumn, Thirsk pre-Lent, Robin Hood's Bay on Easter Monday, and Northallerton on Whit Monday, and in addition a special meeting was arranged to take place at Sharow on June 8th.

The weather was glorious, the ringing was good, the meeting was a quick and businesslike one, and the meals were excellent. No ringer can expect more than that.

SURREY ASSOCIATION.

A very enjoyable meeting was held at Ranmore Common on Saturday, members attending from Beddington, Canterbury, Croydon (St. John's and St. Peter's, Dorking, Ewell, Guildford, Leatherhead, Mitcham (St. Peter and Paul's and Christ Church), Reigate, Streatham (St. Leonard's and Immanuel), and Wandsworth. Ringing commenced about four o'clock, and continued until 5.30, when a party of 24 sat down to a substantial tea, which was thoroughly enjoyed.

The business meeting followed, and was of the usual routine nature.—A vote of thanks was accorded to the Vicar for the use of the bells, and to Mr. Dobinson for having everything in readiness. The members then returned to the tower, and further ringing was enjoyed throughout the evening, the methods practised ranging from call changes to London Surprise.

YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION.

The quarterly meeting of the Western Division of the Yorkshire Association was held at Marsden on Saturday, June 15th, ringers being present from Queensbury, Denholme, Lindley, Guiseley, Bradford, Leeds, Headingley, Earlsheaton, Shipley, Birstall, Lightcliffe, Drighlington, Longwood, Almondbury and the local company. In the afternoon touches of Treble Bob, Plain Bob and Double Norwich were rung. Tea was served in the Parochial Hall, and the business meeting was held immediately afterwards, Mr. J. Cotterell (vice-president) being in the chair.

Mr. H. Hoyle gave a hearty welcome to the Yorkshire Association, and appealed to the members to give all the help they could to the young ringers of the Marsden band, assuring them it would be greatly appreciated.

Three new members were elected: A. Rothery (Longwood), A. Hancock (Northowram), and F. W. Rishworth (Perry Bar, Birmingham).

As there were no invitations for the next meeting, which will be arranged, if possible, on Saturday, August 24th, it was decided to leave it in the hands of the secretary.

Votes of thanks to the Vicar and churchwardens for the use of the bells, to the ladies who helped at the tea tables, and to the local company for the arrangements made, were carried unanimously.

Mr. M. Harrison raised the question of the order of ringing at these meetings, which, he said, was unsatisfactory. This caused a considerable amount of discussion.

Afterwards the tower was again visited, and further ringing indulged in.

HERTFORD COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

A very successful and well-attended meeting of the Northern District was held at Offley on June 8th. Ringers were present from Baldock, Bedford, Kimpton, Hitchin, King's Walden, Letchworth, Luton, and the local band. Touches in most of the standard methods were brought round, and a short service was conducted by the Vicar. During the service a peal board was dedicated in the belfry.

After tea several of the company indulged in handbell ringing, Grandsire Caters and Triples being rung. Further ringing on the tower bells brought a pleasant meeting to a close.

CRAWLEY.—On Sunday, June 9th, for matins, 1,344 Double Norwich Major in 48 mins. by the local company: Miss F. Wyman 1, R. Swift 2, G. Olliver 3, K. Snelling 4, C. Nice 5, N. Elliott 6, R. V. Johnson 7, O. Sippetts (conductor) 8.

THE PEAL AT HASLEMERE.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—As one who took part in the peal of Stedman Caters at Haslemere on May 18th, I hasten to relieve the anxiety of 'Tintinnabulator' and his friends by saying that the details as recorded are perfectly true. Although the ringing was a bit on the slow side, it was perfectly good, and as regards his remarks about 'the ability of the tenor man and the weight and "go" of the tenor,' I think that can be left to any ringer to know that in all odd-bell methods the tenor man can only 'cover' as fast as the remainder will allow him, otherwise it will end in chaos. Judging by his suggestion that the last quarter-peal was rung twice, I take it that he and his band would expect to ring a peal there in less than three hours, but either they have not rung at Haslemere, or are comparing bells of similar weight tuned on a different principle. For my part, I like to enjoy the ringing, and would not give a 'button' to race bells for the sake of doing so, even if they go well.

I am afraid that as 'Tintinnabulator' has not the courage to sign his name and mention the ringers on whose behalf he wrote the letter, we shall not be able, if they ring a peal of Caters in exceptionally quick time, to ask them if they left out the last quarter-peal.—Yours, etc.,

F. W. ROGERS.

Portsmouth.

['Tintinnabulator,' who obviously delights in a little 'leg pulling,' or, should it be, 'pulling Pulling's leg,' will perhaps be interested to know that after the peal, so a correspondent informs us, the said tenor man remarked that he would like to go to the tower again with a band with plenty of leisure, so that they might take their time over a peal and ring it at 'a nice steady pace.'—Ed., 'R.W.')

WHY SPOIL THE PEAL?

Sir,—As an absolute 'tyro,' although having rung about fifty peals with the conductor of the peal at Haslemere, I feel that 'Tintinnabulator' has not had the pleasure of ringing a PEAL (capitals, Editor, please) with the conductor in question. (Anyone can ring a fast peal, but it takes a good hand to strike a slow one.)

This same conductor has often said, 'Why spoil the peal for the sake of a few minutes' extra ringing?' and I would suggest that any critics where 'length of time' is concerned should pay a visit to Holy Trinity, Guildford, when a band of this gentleman's training are ringing a peal of Bristol or Superlative, and afterwards express their opinion. Forgive me trespassing. I am not afraid to sign my name.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

Master Edwin A. Barnett, the youngest member of the Royal Cumberland Youths, son of Mr. Edwin Barnett, and grandson of Mr. Edwin Barnett, sen., of Crayford, has won a scholarship tenable for eight years at Dartford Grammar School. About 250 boys competed for 20 free places, and Master Barnett's success is all the more noteworthy from the fact that he is only 10½ years of age.

The bells of St. Philip's Cathedral, Birmingham, will be broadcast on Sunday from 7.50 to 8 p.m.

Mr. Bernard H. Clark, who until recently was hon. secretary of the Farnham District of the Guildford Diocesan Guild, met with a serious accident on Sunday week while motor-cycling. He was struck broadside-on by a car, and in addition to receiving a number of minor injuries sustained a fracture of the right thigh. He is now in hospital at Chalfont St. Peter, and his many ringing friends will wish him a speedy recovery.

A correspondent writes: 'In "Belfry Gossip" last week it was stated that the first peal of Stedman Triples "in hand" was rung by the College Youths, no date being given, however. Is this correct? Was not the first peal of Stedman Triples in hand rung by the Royal Cumberland Youths on December 19th, 1853, by John Cox (conductor), Thomas Powel, Henry Haley and Thomas Britten?'

We find that the Cumberland's peal book describes this as 'the first peal of Stedman's Principle ever rang on handbells.' This claim was evidently justified from the fact that the 1851 peal of Stedman Caters proved to be a false composition, and that a peal rung in 1855 by the College Youths is ranked as the first peal of Stedman Caters on handbells.

The first peal by the Midland Counties Association was rung on June 23rd, 1882. This was a peal of Grandsire Triples at Derby.

The only peal rung on 14 bells, Stedman Sextuples, was achieved on handbells at Birmingham on June 24th, 1922, and no one seems very anxious to repeat the performance.

Mr. William Pye must have set up a new record by having rung one thousand peals for the Middlesex Association. This extraordinary achievement was completed last Saturday.

THE TWELVE BELL RECORD.

Arrangements are being made to attempt a twelve-bell record at Ashton-under-Lyne, Lancs. on August Bank Holiday. A band of well-known ringers, with Mr. William Pye as conductor, will then endeavour to ring a 15,312 Cambridge Surprise Maximus.

Many great performances have been achieved at St. Michael's Church, Ashton-under-Lyne, and it was there, in April, 1911, that the present Maximus record, 12,240 Kent Treble Bob, was rung in 8 hrs. 39 mins. Three years later the existing record of Royal, a round 14,000, was accomplished on the same bells in 9 hrs. 24 mins. The tenor at Ashton-under-Lyne is 27 cwt.

The greatest number of changes yet rung on 12 bells is the 13,001 Grandsire Cinques at Painswick, Gloucestershire, on February 14th, 1920, which occupied 8 hrs. 45 mins., but the biggest twelve-bell performance undertaken up to the present is the 12,675 Stedman Cinques rung in 9 hrs. 47 mins. at Southwark in 1923.

READING RESTORATIONS.

ST. MARY'S BELLS RETUNED AND REHUNG.

In connection with the peal of Grandsire Triples rung on the bells of St. Mary's Church, Reading, on May 22nd last, it may be interesting to many to know that this heavy old peal is made up of four bells by R. Catlin, 1740; two by Knight, of Reading, 1640, and two by Mears (recast 1863). The bells were terribly out of tune, and going very roughly at the end of 1928. Expert advice was therefore taken, and the whole frame and fittings condemned. As £2800 had been raised to repair the fine old tower, which even then was in the hands of the builders, things looked very black, but a true son of the Church, keenly interested in ringing, came forward and said, 'Get the bells done; I will do the needful.' The job was put in the hands of Messrs. Mears and Stainbank, who cleared the tower and put in heavy girders and cast-iron frame, took the bells to Whitechapel, tuned them, and sent back a very fine peal of eight. The 'go' is now all that can be desired, and St. Mary's, Reading, to-day can boast of one of the finest peals of eight in the diocese of Oxford. A young band is being instructed in the art, and it is hoped at no distant date that change ringing will be well established again as in old times. The band who rang the peal were entertained to supper afterwards by the ringer of the second, and a very pleasant hour was spent.

The bells of St. Lawrence's, Reading, are, we understand, also to be rehung by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank.

PEALS OF TEN IN HERTFORDSHIRE.

By the addition of two bells at Hatfield, Hertfordshire will have four peals of ten, as at present there are three, namely, St. Peter's, St. Albans, All Saints', Hertford, and St. Michael's, Bishop's Stortford, which were increased to ten and opened on July 19th, 1920, and retuned and rehung by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank, and re-opened on August 6th, 1928.

Last week we mentioned only three—those which are given in the list of towers in the Herts County Report.

THE CENTRAL COUNCIL.

NEW MEMBERS OF PEALS ANALYSIS COMMITTEE.

The formal adoption of the report of the Peals Analysis Committee, which appeared in 'The Ringing World' of May 10th, was moved by Mrs. Fletcher and seconded by Mr. George Williams.

The Hon. Secretary said he regretted that Mr. J. W. Parker had written saying he felt compelled to withdraw from the committee, with which he had been associated so many years, and also to withdraw from the Council, of which he was an hon. member. He (the secretary) had written to Mr. Parker urging him to defer any action until the London meeting next year, and Mr. Parker had agreed to leave his resignation from the Council in their hands. He, however, desired to come off the Analysis Committee. The question arose whether they ought not to have someone in his place on the committee instead of waiting until next year.

Mrs. Fletcher said Mr. Parker and she did the work between them last year. Mr. Beeston checked part of it, but was not able to finish it. This year Mr. Parker had done the analyses with her, but he had now sent her the papers, and she had no one to check the figures at the end of the year.

Mr. Goldsmith proposed that Mr. James George and Mr. George R. Pye—two gentlemen with a certain amount of leisure—should be added to the committee to assist Mrs. Fletcher.

Both these gentlemen signified their willingness to help and were therefore elected.

The report was adopted, and the President expressed the Council's debt of gratitude to Mrs. Fletcher and Mr. Parker for the enormous amount of work they did in connection with this report, which was of very great interest to ringers throughout the country.

TOWERS AND BELFRIES.

Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn moved the adoption of the Towers and Belfries Committee's report, dealing with belfry acoustics, which appeared in 'The Ringing World' on May 3rd. He added that he had had a good deal to do in the territory of his own Guild during the year. There was certainly now no excuse, when anyone was setting out to renovate a tower, and so forth, why everything should not be, from the acoustic point of view and the ventilation point of view, perfect. There were many towers where bell restoration work was not necessary, but where a great deal could be done to improve acoustics or ventilation. He did not think any band of ringers ought to remain content when they could either not hear their bells in the belfry, or hear them too much, or when people outside complained. He was sure from his experience that these things could be put right.

Rev. H. Law James suggested that the committee should visit Lincoln Cathedral and hear the bells inside and outside the tower, and examine the tower, because there they had succeeded in getting carried out the whole of the principles that were contained in Sir Arthur Heywood's book on the hanging of bells and on acoustics, and the result was absolutely satisfactory. People living under the tower would not object to the bells being rung for twelve hours at a stretch, while in a distant village, he had been told, it was said it was no good ringing the church bells when the Cathedral bells were being rung.

Major Hesse, who seconded the report, said he had also had a busy year. With regard to Lincoln, he had a drawing of the tower sent him by the late Mr. Pryce Taylor, showing various elevations at which the bells might be put. He would like to know how far below the louvres they were.

Rev. H. Law James: About 40 feet.

Mr. E. M. Atkins asked whether the committee had made any inquiries about the welding of bells?

Major Hesse said he was afraid nothing had been done. He believed the welded bell at St. Mary-le-Tower, Ipswich, was still standing up.

Mr. C. J. Sedgley (Ipswich) said the 7th at St. Mary-le-Tower was welded. It was much cheaper than recasting. It had been rung to two or three peals of Maximus, and seemed to be unaffected.

Asked whether he thought the bell was as good as it was before it was cracked, Mr. Sedgley said he thought it was.

Major Hesse said he saw one job. It looked all right, and he heard the bell after it was done. But he did not hear it before, so he could not compare the tone.

The Hon. Secretary said after the Hereford meeting he wrote to Mr. Symonds, at Ipswich, on the matter, and he reported very favourably on the bell that they had welded there. It was useful to know it was still standing up all right.

Major Hesse: I think a welded bell is a blemish in a tower; it is not the same as a recast bell.

Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn asked if the committee should undertake the revision of the book on the preservation of bells? He supposed it fell to their lot.

The President: Yes.

Rev. H. Drake: Will this report be included, or something to the same effect?

Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn: That was our idea.

The report was adopted, and the committee requested to revise the book on the Preservation of Bells.

THE YEAR'S RECORDS.

The Report of the Records Committee was presented by Mr. T. H. Beams as follows: First peals in new methods, and progressive lengths in others, rung since the last report and up to the end of March this year, were:—

Peals in new methods include 5,040 Gainsborough Little Bob Major by the Yorkshire Association; 5,184 Kent Surprise Major by the Essex Association; 5,280 New Cambridge Surprise Maximus by the Suffolk Guild; 5,040 York Surprise Royal by the Midland Counties Association; 5,040 Melton Surprise Royal by the Midland Counties Association. In Spliced Methods have been rung a 5,000 in six Plain and Treble Bob Methods, Little Canterbury, Canterbury Pleasure, Plain and Little Bob, Kent and Oxford Treble Bob; a 5,040 'Mixed' Bob Major (?) by the Durham and Newcastle Association; a 5,184 in Spliced Surprise Major methods, London, Bristol, Cambridge, Superlative and Lincolnshire Surprise, by the Middlesex County Association; a 5,184 in six Surprise Methods, London, Rutland, Bristol, Superlative, Cambridge, and Pudsey, by the Middlesex County Association; 5,040 Spliced Surprise Minor, in 22 methods, by the Essex Association. A progressive length, 5,056 changes, of 'Here-ward' Bob Major, has been rung by the Kent County Association.

The report was adopted.

THE LAW AFFECTING CHURCH BELLS.

The Legal Committee (Messrs. J. S. Pritchett, F. A. Milne and E. W. Elwell) presented the following report, which was read by Mr. Milne:—

The sole right of access to the belfry is vested in the incumbent (Blunt, ed. 1921, 273), but the incumbent's rights are not given him for his sole use, and he must permit access to the belfry to allow of such use of the bells as is consistent with the purpose for which they are placed there (Blunt Book of Church Law, ed. 1921, 328), e.g., summoning parishioners to worship or tolling at a funeral which is an essential part of the rites of the Church.

The bells should only be rung with the incumbent's consent, and they must not be rung against his express wish. The property in the bells as in other church ornaments is in the churchwardens (Whitehead Church Law, sub-tit. 'Bells,' 1921 ed., p. 42); hence it was formerly held that a churchwarden could not be convicted of stealing a bell. The churchwardens have the custody of the keys of the belfry, and are to take care that the bells are not rung without proper cause; but the minister conjointly with them is to be the judge of the proper cause. They would seem, therefore, to have a right to interfere in the belfry and in the ordering of the ringers, but in what manner or to what extent it is difficult to define. For the custody of the keys implies that the belfry is to be open or not at their discretion, and the property of the bell ropes is in them (Jackson v. Adams, 1835, 2, Bingham p.c. 402), and if the bells were improperly rung the churchwardens, according to Canon 88 would be the responsible parties. But the churchwardens are not authorised without the consent of the incumbent to give orders for the bells to be rung, and it would be an ecclesiastical offence if they were to break open the belfry door in order to have the bells rung, for the freehold of the church is in the incumbent, and the lawful custody of the key of the church belongs to him, so that unless he consents the parishioners cannot except on the occasion of divine service procure the ringing of the bells. Should they break in and ring the bells they would be guilty of an ecclesiastical offence, and if proceedings should be taken against them by the incumbent they would be mulcted in costs (see Redhead v. West (1862), 6, L. Times 580, and Cripp's Law of Church and Clergy, ed. 1921, p. 190, 1921).

The Parochial Church Council's Measure (1921), while leaving the property in the goods and ornaments of the church (which, of course, includes bells, bell fittings and bell ropes) in the churchwardens, transfers to the Parochial Church Council all the powers, duties and liabilities of the churchwardens relating to the care, maintenance, preservation and insurance of such goods and ornaments. The Parochial Church Council is the body to be first approached, if anything goes wrong with the bells, and it is its duty, so far as may be possible, to put things right. So far, however, as the ringing of the bells is concerned, it would seem that the Parochial Church Council Measure has made no alteration in the law, and that save in so far as ringing for the church services is concerned, it remains with the incumbent to decide if and when and subject to what conditions the bells shall be rung, the churchwardens still having the same indefinite right of interference.

As it rests with the incumbent to appoint all church officers other than those as to whom special provisions are made by Ecclesiastical Law and the Parochial Church Council Measure of 1921, e.g., churchwardens, sidesmen, parish clerk and sexton, it would seem that every regular ringer should be appointed or approved by him. In every well-regulated belfry the ringers are formed into Guilds or societies subject to regulations approved by the incumbent, and there is practically no difficulty in the matter. But on every change of incumbent it would be advisable that the rules for the time being in force should be submitted to and formally approved by him. The Parochial Church Council have no voice in the matter, any more than they have in the appointment of organist, but if any remuneration is to be made by the Council to the ringers for their services it is obviously the duty of the incumbent to keep the Council informed on all matters relating to the ringing of the bells.

This raises the question as to who is responsible, if anyone, for the safety of the ringers and for compensation in case of injury. So far as all ringers are concerned, it is the duty of the church authorities to see that the bells, bell chamber and fittings are reasonably safe and that there is nothing in the nature of a trap whereby an incautious person might meet with injury. It is possible that if the incumbent was aware that the bells could not with safety be rung, and with that knowledge permitted ringing to take place, he might be civilly liable in damages for any injury sustained. The same would apply to any person who left a bell 'up' and without warning invited a stranger into the belfry or (as in a case within the writer's recollection) omitted to close a trap door in the belfry and anyone fell through. Such things are, of course, very unlikely to happen, but it may sometimes occur that a ringer is accidentally injured without blame attaching to anyone. In such a case, if he was a paid ringer, the question of compensation under the Workmen's Compensation Act would arise. There would then be contract of service with an employer who would be the person liable to pay. Who was the employer would be a question of fact which would largely depend upon who paid the money. It might be the incumbent, the churchwardens, or the Church Council who enlisted the hand of ringers or arranged the terms of payment. Whoever it was would probably be held liable. The Church Council, however, being a corporate body, its members would not be personally liable, and the Council itself only to the extent of moneys in hand.

With regard to bells generally, a faculty is required for their removal, alteration (such as recasting) or erection. The granting of a faculty for a new peal of bells is by no means a matter of course. The Chancellor will hesitate where there is a risk of annoyance being caused by their being rung with unnecessary frequency or for an unnecessary length of time, and this should be carefully borne in mind when a new peal is in contemplation especially where there is a crowded population.

The ringing of church bells is almost of necessity an annoyance to some people, however pleasing it may be to others. It cannot, therefore, ever be held a public nuisance rendering the ringers criminally liable on indictment, but it may be a private nuisance liable to be restrained by injunction at the instance of any person specially aggrieved (Soltau v. de Held, 2 Sim., 133). There is, however, no reported case in which an injunction has been granted to restrain the ringing of the bells of a parish church, and so long as bells are rung in moderation—even for peal ringing—it is unlikely that the Courts will interfere with such an old-established custom, however much it may annoy individuals who reasonably or unreasonably hold church bells in abhorrence.

The President said they were all very grateful indeed to the three members of the Legal Committee for their report, which he took it the Council would accept.

A Member: Will it be printed?

The President said no doubt it would be printed, but he could not say for certain that it would be done at present. It was most important, he added, in view of what might happen, that the Legal Committee should be kept in existence to watch events, and to act in case of emergency on the Council's behalf. They would be grateful if the committee would do this.

Rev. H. Drake asked whether the committee had considered how far the law regarding moving machinery applied to bells?

Mr. Elwell said he thought it was quite clear that the Factory Acts did not apply to church bells.

The report was adopted.

THE COUNCIL AND THE METHODS COMMITTEE'S REPORT.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—One of the most astonishing decisions ever made by the Council was that when it decided, by 30 votes to 29, that the Bankes James Cambridge Minor, the Law James London Minor, and the Pitman and Morris Grandsire Doubles arrangements are all 'hopelessly false.' This, at the behest of members who could not back up such a proposition by a single sound argument.

When we ring a 5,040 of Minor under the conditions laid down in the Council's 'Rules and Decisions,' we ring 720 changes each seven times, excluding rounds at the beginning, but including rounds at the end of the last 720. When we ring the Bankes James Cambridge Minor, or the Law James London Minor, we ring 720 changes each seven times, excluding rounds at the beginning, but including rounds at the end. We call each of these performances A PEAL, and my dictionary informs me that A equals ONE. Therefore, our ONE PEAL contains exactly the same 720 changes, each rung exactly the same number of times, whether it is called under the old conditions or under the spliced arrangements. To say that the latter are false is to condemn all the peals of Minor that have ever been rung. (A similar argument can be put up in connection with Doubles.)

The question for the Council to decide is whether it is going to admit as a peal of Minor any composition that does not consist of at least seven separate 720's, each true and complete in itself, and each ending with rounds, and if members had confined themselves to these points at the Chelmsford meeting much valuable time would have been saved.

Some members evidently realised this soon after the 'hopelessly false' amendment had been carried, for, as the substantive motion, it was rejected, and a compromise arranged whereby the compositions in question are to be published as an appendix, with a note that their publication does not commit anyone to the opinion that they are suitable to be rung as peals.

According to 'The Ringing World' records, the Bankes James Cambridge Minor composition has been rung some 56 times by 21 associations. The representatives of some of these associations voted for the 'hopelessly false' amendment. I presume they are by this time congratulating themselves that the Council, by rejecting the amendment as the substantive resolution, has saved them from having to recommend their respective associations to delete the 'false' peals from their records. Or will they stand on their own expressed opinions in the matter?

It is unfortunate that the president found himself unable to adopt the suggestion that Mr. Whittington's resolution as to the definition of a peal of Minor (and Doubles) should be discussed before the Methods Committee report. A decision on that resolution might then have been come to. As it was, members had exhausted their vocabulary, grown tired of the subject, and so they eagerly voted to postpone, until the next or some subsequent meeting, coming to a decision on the very vital point as to what shall constitute a peal. Had this point been decided, the acceptance of the report of the Methods Committee would have been a matter of course, or arrangement, according to the decision on the resolution.—Yours faithfully,

THE DEBATE ON THE METHODS COMMITTEE'S REPORT.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—It should be emphasised that Mr. Wm. Willson's reference back of the report was on the very definite grounds 'that they are hopelessly false,' but unfortunately this is omitted from your report of the debate. A great deal of the debate following the reference back ranged round these words; indeed, an attempt was made to have them deleted, but it was ruled out of order by the president. It is not an exaggeration to say that several members who would otherwise have voted for the deletion of the compositions, could not bring themselves to say that they are false; three or four members actually told me after the meeting that they were unable to vote for the reference back for that very reason.

In your report of the debate these words come in for the first time when the amendment was put as the substantive motion. In 'The Ringing World' for May 24th you give a summary of the proceedings, and there Mr. Willson's amendment is given in its correct form.

I am sure you have no intention of misleading, but the omission of this sentence in your report alters the sense of much of the subsequent debate.—Yours faithfully,
21, Vincent Road, E.4.

DUDLEY AND DISTRICT GUILD.

The quarterly meeting of the Dudley and District Guild was held on Saturday, June 1st, at the Old Church, Smethwick. The Guild's beautiful form of service was said in church at 4.30, and was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. F. S. Girdlestone, M.A., D.S.O.), who also gave a very interesting and helpful address. The Rev. H. T. Robins (assistant priest) read the lesson.

At the close of the service an adjournment was made to the schoolroom, where a bounteous tea was in readiness, and, needless to say, full justice was done to the good things provided. The business meeting followed, at which the chair was taken by the Vicar, who gave a right cordial welcome to the members to Smethwick on behalf of the churchwardens and other church officials, as well as of himself. Several new members were added to the roll.—On the proposition of Mr. S. J. Hughes, the secretary was instructed to send a letter of sympathy and condolence to Miss Pigott, of Smethwick, on the death of her mother.—The proposition was carried in silence.

It was resolved to hold the next quarterly meeting at Wombourne, subject to the usual permission being obtained. It was also decided to attempt the quarterly peal at Smethwick, the date and arrangements being left in the hands of the Ringing Master (Mr. John Goodman, jun.).

At the close of the meeting, on the proposition of Mr. J. Price, seconded by Mr. B. Gough, a hearty vote of thanks was given to the Vicar of Smethwick for his warm welcome, for his kindness in granting permission to hold this meeting at his church, also for conducting the service, and his eloquent address, and for the use of the tower, bells, and schoolroom in which to hold the tea and meeting, also to the Rev. H. T. Robins for the part he took in the service, and to the organist. Special thanks were also given to the donors of the tea, and to those ladies who prepared and served it, and to all who had in any way assisted in making the meeting a happy and successful one.

The bells were kept merrily going during the afternoon and evening.

THE REV. MAITLAND KELLY, M.A. DEATH OF DEVON'S PIONEER IN CHANGE RINGING.

AN APPRECIATION: BY CANON G. F. COOLERIDGE.

At a good old age, respected and revered by all with whom he came in contact, the Rev. Maitland Kelly passed from this life to a higher one on Saturday last in a nursing home in Plymouth, whither he had been taken for an operation after four weeks of intense suffering at home, his mortal remains being laid to rest in the quiet churchyard of Kelly, adjoining the beautiful gardens of his well-loved home, on Wednesday last, amid a great concourse of friends and neighbours assembled to pay a last tribute to departed worth.

Much might be said of his devoted work as a parish priest, first as curate of Abingdon, with a notable set of colleagues, 1868-70, then at Newton Ferrers 1871-73, as Rector of Plympton St. Maurice 1873-76, Vicar of Salcombe 1877-90, Vicar of Ottery St. Mary 1890-1900, where he also held the responsible office of Rural Dean for seven years, having also served in that capacity when holding the living of Salcombe, as Rural Dean of Woodleigh. In 1900 he succeeded his older brother as squire of Kelly, and from 1905 to 1912 was Rector of Kelly as well. On all these parishes his devoted work has left an indelible mark.

It is, however, rather of his work as a ringer, than as a parish priest, that our readers would wish to remember him. In his early days change ringing was practically unknown in the West of England—it had never penetrated further than Bristol. The earliest record is to be found on a tablet in the tower of Kelly Church which runs: 'Be it remembered that on Saturday, January 21st, 1865, 3 six-scores of Grandsire Doubles were rung in this church, being the greatest number of changes ever rung in Devon by men of the county,' Mr. Kelly, at that time an undergraduate at University College, Oxford, ringing the 3rd bell. From that time, for a space of over 60 years, he has been identified with all that has tended to foster ringing in the West. For all that long period it has largely been a matter of spadework, coupled with a determination ever to press on in spite of difficulties known only to himself; yet he lived long enough to rejoice that change ringing, though not an indigenous plant, had firmly taken root and was flourishing in the fair county of Devon.

One of the very oldest of the members of the College Youths, and one of the first elected members of the Guild of Devonshire Ringers when founded in 1874, Mr. Kelly lived to fill the office of secretary (1890-1896), and, later, president (in succession to Col. C. A. W. Troyle), which office he held from 1896 till the jubilee meeting in 1924, when he felt he ought to hand over the reins to one younger than himself. At this time, also, he solely, by his own wish, ceased to represent the Guild on the Central Council, whose annual meetings never failed to afford him deep pleasure.

On six occasions, between 1895 and 1907, he organised a ringing week in the West, inviting picked ringers to ring peals with a view to showing local men what could and what ought to be done. These tours, luxuriously engineered, not only gave unbounded pleasure to those who took part in them, but aroused immense interest and enthusiasm in the localities visited. Some 47 peals were rung on these tours, the greater number in places where change ringing had never been heard before. In some of these the organiser himself took part. It is not, however, so much as a peal ringer as a pioneer that the Rev. Maitland Kelly should be remembered. His frequent, and often, lengthy journeys, by road or rail, sometimes for weeks and months at a stretch, to help on a struggling band at its weekly practices; his genial presence ever welcomed at annual or branch meetings—in fact, wherever and whenever he felt he could do something for ringing in the West, there was he invariably to be found. Above all should mention be made of his unremitting work in the Kelly tower, ever engaged in training young men, with the certainty of losing them in the near future, but well content to know that he had laid the foundations, leaving it to others to make use of the materials so diligently prepared by him.

Though a gun accident some years ago caused the amputation of a foot, he still carried on his instruction work till nearly the end, when, supported by the belfry wall, he would ring, conduct, or stand behind a youngster and steer him through a plain course or six-score.

Clergy not only sought his ready help in preaching, but many of the laity were accustomed to seek his advice in many unexpected quarters. As an example, barely two months ago, as the oldest subscriber to the Lamerton Hunt, his good offices were sought to solve difficulties which had arisen over the mastership.

Everywhere, and by all sorts and conditions of men, will his genial presence be missed, and not least by the ringing friends, whose name is legion. It was always a great delight to him to meet them, whether for ringing or social converse. As a proof of this, less than two years ago, on the termination of a tour in Cornwall, three of the band called at Kelly on their way home on the Saturday afternoon, on the chance of seeing him. His delight in meeting them was profound. He talked of their kindness in visiting an old man, not only at dinner that evening, but again before bedtime, and several times on the Sunday. So late as two months ago he more than once spoke of the pleasure their visit had given him. It was ever so; what he felt on that occasion he felt towards ringers whenever he met them.

A family of nine sons and daughters are left to mourn him, a great number of neighbours and friends, and not a few of the Ringing Fraternity. R.I.P.

ACTIVITIES IN THE CHURCH.

The Rev. Maitland Kelly, who was 86 years of age, was born at Kelly in 1842, the third son of Mr. Arthur Kelly, of Kelly. He was educated at Marlborough College and University College, Oxford, where he took his B.A. degree in 1869, and M.A. in 1872. He was ordained a deacon in 1869 and a priest a year later by the Bishop of Oxford. While at Salcombe he added a chancel to the church and started a surpliced choir. Ottery also benefited from his activities, and while there he built a Church Institute, as well as a chapel-of-ease at Waggaton, a hamlet a mile distant from Ottery. In remembrance of the work Mr. Kelly did as Rector of Plympton St. Maurice, three choir stalls were presented by his friends, and a brass tablet in the church commemorates the gift. During his Rectorship an alteration of seats in the chancel was made to accommodate the choir, the font was presented, the bells rehung, improvements made in the tower and churchyard, and an organ installed. He was an enthusiastic supporter of the Diocesan Choral Union, and it owes him a debt of gratitude for his long years of service in his endeavours to improve church music in the diocese. As a boy he tolled the bell at Kelly, when the Duke of Wellington died.

TRIBUTES AT DEVON GUILD MEETING.

The Rev. G. E. F. Molineux (chairman of the North-East Devon Branch of the Guild) announced the sad event at a meeting of the Branch at Rackenford on Saturday afternoon, and there was a general feeling of sincere regret. Mr. Molineux said many present, being young men, could know little of the great and important work Mr. Kelly did for the Devonshire Guild, and perhaps hardly realised the heavy loss it had sustained by his death. There were few, if any, in the room who were so closely acquainted with Mr. Kelly as himself. Mr. Kelly was his former Vicar at Ottery St. Mary as far back as 1889, and he was associated with him during his (Mr. Kelly's) presidency of the Guild for 14 years as hon. secretary of that organisation, and for four or five years as hon. treasurer. Mr. Kelly was always full of enthusiasm for the promotion of change ringing. When Mr. Kelly went to Ottery the ringers had started half-pull methods. Mr. Kelly took up the instruction, and the Ottery band became one of the most efficient in the Guild. Perhaps the greatest work in which Mr. Kelly engaged in connection with the Guild was the annual visiting of the different bands, who always cordially welcomed him, and the Guild was indebted to him for the enormous amount of service he did in this and other directions. There was no one in those days—40 years ago—with the same enthusiasm and opportunity to get about the county to congratulate ringers on their efforts, be helpful, and encourage them in every possible way to be progressive. Mr. Kelly was the spirit that animated the Guild in its early days, and brought it success, and he rejoiced that Mr. Powell, who had succeeded to the presidency, was worthily carrying on the old traditions.

The Rev. E. S. Powell, who succeeded Mr. Kelly as president, and was previously secretary of the Guild, said that from the moment he took office Mr. Kelly was always ready to help him, trust him thoroughly, give him a free hand in his work as secretary, and support him in every way. When the jubilee of the Guild came, and years and infirmities were pressing on Mr. Kelly so that he felt obliged to retire from the presidency, a situation arose that might have occasioned difficulty. For Mr. Kelly had been secretary, and then for nearly 30 years president, and was suddenly faced with a young man in the chief office. But he was full of cheer, ever ready to help, encourage, and advise, never expressing a doubt at things being done under a new regime by a young man that might not have been expected always to command the support of an older man. Mr. Kelly's love of the Guild and of change ringing in its best and highest form was at the back of it all. Whether the Guild would have survived without Mr. Kelly's inspiration was an open question, but the tremendous help and encouragement he gave and the work he did were things for which the members had every reason to thank God and to be grateful for the life of Maitland Kelly.

Members stood in silence as a tribute of respect, and, on the motion of Mr. Molineux, seconded by Mr. R. Grater, it was resolved that a vote of sincere sympathy be sent from the branch to the family, some of the members of which were themselves ringers like their father.

The Rev. E. Kelly, who had come over from Oakford, which is included in the Branch's area, thanked Mr. Molineux and Mr. Powell for what they had said about his father, and acknowledged the sympathy of the members. Personally, he had been lagging behind in ringing, but had the consolation of knowing that he gave a promise to do his best to carry on the good work associated with the name of his father.

'WOBBLING.'

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—Your leading article does the Methods Committee scant justice. I am not, of course, exactly unbiassed, but I should not have said we wobbled. I should have said that we went to Chelmsford with a very definite idea of what we wanted to do, and were pretty successful in doing it. I know that you have got into your head that we wanted to alter the standards of peal ringing, to change the traditions of the Exercise, to juggle with truth, and generally to play 'Old Harry' with ringing affairs. I should hate to destroy your pleasant delusion (even if I were able), but really our intentions were much more modest. We wanted to get the Council to agree to our printing those compositions; we wanted to prevent the Cambridge coming in under false pretences, and owing to those two we wanted to defeat the Whittington resolution.

We knew quite well our difficulties and the strength of the opposition. Months ago I calculated that more than half the Council were definitely against us, and less than a quarter definitely in our favour. In the Exercise the odds were much greater for, while we could reckon on being supported by all those people who want to ring peals of Cambridge Minor, we could reckon on the opposition (passive, if not active) of most of those who don't want to ring them, and you can calculate the opposition to us by the strength of these two groups. These things, however, are not settled by counting heads, and, anyhow, the Methods Committee is usually in a minority. It is part of our job. We have fought many fights against majorities in the past thirty years, and we always manage to win in the long run. After I had talked to people before the meeting I put the majority against us at about three to one. It behoved us, therefore, to walk warily. You, I know, would have wished us to go in like a bull at a haystack and be soundly beaten. We thought otherwise. We really had the best cards in our hands, and many of them, if we could manage to play them properly; and thanks partly to some bad blunders by our opponents we did manage to pull through. We lost the first division by one vote; we won the next by two or three; and all the rest by increasingly large majorities. Of course, we had to use every fair and sound argument at our disposal, and it is rather unkind of you to say that, because we did not tie ourselves to one argument, we wobbled. You must not run away with the idea that because we advanced other reasons we ever abandoned our contention that these compositions are true and complete, are in harmony with the usage and tradition of the Exercise, and are thoroughly fit for peal ringing.

And talking about 'wobbling,' what about yourself? I should say that the champion wobbler on this matter is the leader writer of 'The Ringing World.' Looking back through these articles the only thing consistent I can find is the opinion that whatever the Methods Committee does must be wrong. No doubt a sound and laudable opinion, but one which I can hardly be expected to agree to. You started on the grounds that the Bankes James Cambridge consists of seven true and complete 720's, and you tried to alter the standard of Minor peal ringing so as to admit that and exclude everything else. Logic, justice, and facts were against you. One thing, at least, has been proved by this controversy. If the Bankes James arrangement is sound, then a whole new class of Doubles and Minor compositions is available for five and six bell ringers. But you are afraid to take the risk. You do not know what to do, whether to stand to your commendation of the Cambridge, or to join with those who would 'scrap the lot.' And so we have in the same issue of 'The Ringing World' your speech, where you try, frantically and with a forlorn hope, to justify the Cambridge, and your article where you relegate it to history with other 'stuff unwept, unhonoured and unsung.' I do not blame you. There is more than one side to this question. But who is wobbling, you or we? And since you have been so hard on us, I should really like to ask you where you stand? Are you for any reasonable, natural developments in ringing, and willing to allow them to be put to practical tests, or are you with Mr. Willson and his hide-bound stick-in-the-muds, who don't want to see any progress at all?

But you tell us that the Methods Committee is going to be surprised and the Bankes James Cambridge made unnecessary by eight complete 720's each with the tenors the right way—to say nothing of fifty-two six-scores of Grandsire Doubles. I am not going to be surprised. Unless I am much mistaken, these compositions are already in the MSS. now in front of me. Only I think you have found a mare's nest. I think you will find, when you come to examine the eggs on which the old girl is sitting, that four of the eight are not genuine eggs at all, but only nice white china nest eggs. I think (mind, I say, I think) there are only two distinct 720's of Cambridge Minor which do not turn up 5-6 the wrong way. Each of these has a reverse, and one of them (and its reverse) may be started at three different places. That makes your eight. If anyone likes to ring seven of them as a peal of Cambridge Minor, I don't see what objection there can be, but it is rather stretching the meaning of words to call them eight different 720's. But supposing I am wrong, and these are eight different 720's, what of it? How will they affect Bankes James' arrangement? Will they make it false? If the latter were true when you moved the Hereford resolu-

THE SECESSION OF GLOUCESTER & BRISTOL.

'OUT OF ORDER.'

Dear Sir,—Just a few lines with regard to No. 3 in the Rev. C. D. P. Davies' letter of to-day's 'Ringing World' regarding the secession of the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association from the Central Council. If you look at page 51 of the latest edition of 'Rules and Decisions,' last paragraph but one, you will see the resolution in question printed in full: 'That in the opinion of the Gloucester and Bristol Association historic bells should not be tuned on the "Simpson" principle.'

Can anyone say that this resolution is not 'out of order' in any assembly, apart from that of the association named? It is, as the president rightly said, the pious opinion of an association, and still stands as such.—Yours, etc.,

W. A. CAVE.

[A long letter from Mr. E. Guise in reply to the Rev. C. D. P. Davies will be published as soon as space permits.]

PRESENTATION TO COLLEGE YOUTHS.

A silver mug, bequeathed to the Master for the time being, and the members of the College Youths for all time, by the late Mr. Joseph Edwin Sykes, eldest son of the late D. F. E. Sykes, LL.B., of Marsden, Yorks, and grandson of the Rev. Joseph Curr, Vicar of North Kelsey, Lincs, has been sent to the society by his brother, Major F. L. Sykes, of Ainsley House, Marsden.

A HAPPY GATHERING.

GUILDFORD AND LADIES' GUILDS MEET.

A very happy meeting, in which the Southern District of the Ladies' Guild joined forces with the Guildford District of the Guildford Diocesan Guild, was held at Worplesdon on Saturday, when a party of about fifty were the guests of the Rev. J. C. G. and Mrs. Bruce. A good deal of ringing was done before the service, which the Rector conducted, the Ladies' Guild form being used. Mr. E. Raddon, one of the S. Nicolas', Guildford, band, was at the organ, with Mr. Taylor, of Maidenhead, as 'blower.'

Tea was to have been served on the lawn, but the doubtful state of the weather caused the bountiful meal to be spread in a hut in the Rectory Grounds. Here the Rector and Mrs. Bruce attended to the wants of their guests, and afterwards Mr. J. S. Goldsmith expressed the thanks of the visitors for the hospitality extended to them.

The Guildford Guild had no business to transact, and the gentlemen therefore revisited the tower, while the ladies sat in solemn conclave, with Mrs. Bruce in the chair, and discussed the affairs of their district. Mrs. E. K. Fletcher, general hon. secretary of the Guild, was a welcome visitor. Three new members, viz., Mrs. Edwards (Old Woking), Mrs. Taylor (Maidenhead), and Miss B. Stewart (Aldershot) were elected.

Mrs. Bruce was elected vice-president, Miss H. Mills was re-elected hon. secretary, and Mrs. Hazelden, Mrs. Whittington, Mrs. Melville and Miss A. Fisher were elected to the committee. It was decided to hold the next annual meeting at Worplesdon in June, 1930, and a quarterly meeting at Wokingham in October.

The Hon. Secretary, whom everyone was glad to see so well recovered from her serious accident, regretted her inactivity during the year, and the members expressed the hope that she would soon be able to resume ringing.

The business concluded with a vote of thanks to Mrs. Bruce. Meanwhile the men had been busy in the tower, with touches to suit all tastes and capacities. Among other things Treble Bob was spliced, Cambridge rung and London tried by a band, some of whom did not know much about it. St. Clement's and Plain Bob Minor, Grandsire and Stedman Doubles were also rung, while when the ladies returned to the tower six of them rang Grandsire Doubles. The tenor is 18 cwt., with a rope big enough for Southwark tenor, but the lady on the end of it did well.

tion, it is, I suppose, true now. And if it is true, why should it not be rung and appear in our book, even if there is something else which some may prefer? As for the Grandsire Doubles, if anyone talks to you about new six-scores with ordinary Bobs and Singles, ask him if he has ever heard of a little book by one Fabian Stedman published in the year 1668.—Yours faithfully,

J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

[Mr. Trollope's vivid picture of our supposed 'wobble' is characteristic and entertaining. Characteristic, because he puts his fancies and his theories down as facts, and entertaining because it is just the stuff to tickle the palate of readers, and we have enjoyed it as much as they will. We have argued consistently that the Bankes James' Cambridge should be accepted as true and complete, and in this contention we are supported by one of the members of the Methods Committee (Rev. H. Law James) as well as by other leading authorities on the subject. There can only be 720 rows and 720 changes in an extent of Minor, and you get both these before a repetition is produced in the Bankes James extents.—Ed. 'R.W.']

THE 18 1/2 TON RINGING BELL,

RIVERSIDE CHURCH, NEW YORK, U.S.A.

THE LAW OF CHURCH BELLS.

We printed last week the report presented to the Central Council by its Legal Committee, and it is an extremely valuable contribution to a subject, affecting the interests of ringers, which has never been adequately dealt with before, as far as we are aware. Hitherto the relation between the ringers and the church authorities has been, in the minds of many members of the Exercise, of a very hazy kind. The majority could not have said, with any real knowledge, whether they were under the control of the incumbent, the churchwardens or, in recent years, the Parochial Church Council. Neither were they definitely aware who had the right to order the ringing of the bells. These and a number of other matters are now made plain in the report for everyone to read. The concise digest, which the committee have presented, covers a variety of aspects of the somewhat complicated subject in such a way that all concerned may know exactly what the law requires, except, apparently, that there is one matter which remains somewhat indefinite. This relates to the authority held by churchwardens in connection with the ordering of the ringers and ringing, but it is the kind of thing frequently revealed in law, and it would probably take a legal action, or even a series of legal actions, to enable the lawyers to argue the matter and the Courts to give a ruling.

So far as the appointment of ringers and the ringing of bells are concerned, however, the position is made plain. The appointment, or the confirmation of the appointment, rests with the incumbent, and the bells cannot be rung without his consent. Even the churchwardens cannot authorise the ringing of the bells without his approval, although when it comes to a question of deciding the proper occasions when bells should be rung they appear to have a voice in the matter.

The position of the Parochial Church Councils seems to be one in which their only legal privilege is to find the necessary funds to pay the ringers, where they are remunerated, and to keep the bells in order, while in the event of a claim under the Workmen's Compensation Act, in the event of injury to a paid ringer while in performance of his duties, the Councils, so far as they have funds in hand, and not their individual members, would be liable for damages. The report of the committee is one which should not be indefinitely buried in the archives of the Council or the record of its proceedings. It should be made readily available to all those whom it may concern, and will, in due course, we presume, make its appearance among the Central Council's publications, but in the meantime it should be carefully studied by those in our associations who may at any time be asked for advice.

HERTFORD COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

The Western District of the Herts County Association had a very enjoyable meeting at Tring, on Saturday, June 8th, members and friends attending from Southgate, Walthamstow, Apsley, Hemel Hempstead, Harpenden, Berkhamstead, Totterhoe, Cookham, Linslade, and Tring. Ringing commenced soon after three o'clock, and during the afternoon and evening the following methods were rung: Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Plain Bob, Little Bob, Kent, Double Norwich, and 'Leverstock Green Surprise.'

Through a clerical misunderstanding, no service was held. Tea was partaken at the Chequers Cafe, and at the close the Vicar, Rev. T. V. Garnier, attended and took the chair at the business meeting.

Apsley End was selected for the place of next meeting, to be held on July 6th for the convenience of the secretary. One new member, unattached, was elected.

Hearty votes of thanks were accorded to the Vicar for the use of the bells, and to Mr. Reeves for his trouble over this meeting.

The ringers then adjourned for a further pull on the bells until about 8 p.m., when the back six were lowered in peal. Then ended another pleasant meeting, although there were other 'meetings' afterwards.

SUSSEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

WESTERN DIVISION.

A successful quarterly meeting was held at Petworth on Saturday, May 18th, when between 40 and 50 members, their wives and friends, attended from Billingshurst, Heene, Pulborough, Warnham, West Tarring, Kirdford, Rudgwick, Rogate, Wisborough Green, Guildford, Portsmouth and Swindon. Standard methods were practised till five o'clock, when the company made their way to the Iron Room, where they were supplied with an excellent meat tea by Mr. Knight.

At the business meeting, with Mr. W. Charman presiding, two new members were elected, A. Ponsford (Rudgwick) and E. Etincap (Kirdford), and the new Wisborough Green band (Messrs. A. Chessman, W. Ford, C. Farhall, A. Gumbrell, A. Gumbrell, jun., H. Hoar, O. King, E. Luxford, B. McDonald, D. Poat, W. Puttick, G. Randall, J. Richardson, B. Skinner and H. Woods).

It was proposed to hold the next meeting at Rogate. After votes of thanks to the chairman and Rector for granting the use of the bells, the belfry was again visited. Wisborough Green bells being available, some of the company paid a visit there on their way home.

SUFFOLK RINGER'S DEATH.

We regret to record the death of Mr. Thomas Beckett, of Shipmeadow, at the age of 42, who passed away on Saturday, June 1st, after a long illness.

Until his illness he was regular ringer at Beccles and Bungay, and he took a very active part in the district in teaching beginners. Among his pupils was his daughter, Violet, who rang her first eight-bell peal at the age of 14.

At the funeral on June 4th, ringers from Beccles, Bungay, and Loddon attended, and, directly after, muffled touches were rung on the five bells at the adjoining Church of Barsham. In the evening half-muffled touches were rung at Bungay by a representative band from the district.

STALEY BELLS OPENED.

CHESTER GUILD AND LANCASHIRE RINGERS' BIG RALLY.

A combined meeting of the Chester Diocesan Guild and the Lancashire Association was held at St. Paul's Church, Staley, on Saturday, June 15th, to celebrate the recasting and rehanging of the bells. Ringers turned up in good numbers, and the bells were set going early. Service was conducted jointly by the Vicar, Rev. B. B. Slater, and Canon H. J. Elsee, president of the Lancashire Association. The address was given by the Rev. C. A. Clements, Master of the Chester Diocesan Guild. Taking his text from 2 Cor. vi. 1, 'We, then, as workers together with God,' the preacher said that all had their work to do, and all must bear their part if they desired to do their duty. The duty of ringers was to ring the bells, and to see that they fitted themselves to give the best service possible. They were acting in a position of great responsibility, and that brought with it great opportunity. The bells conveyed a great message. They were not calling people to hear a sermon, or to hear lovely music from the organ and choir, but were calling all to the service of God. They must, therefore, put their very best into that call, as only the best was good enough. Why had the people of Staley spent so much money to obtain such beautiful bells as they had heard that day? It was simply because they recognised that the old bells were not worthy of the service of God, and they, as ringers, must keep before them the knowledge that nothing but their best is good enough.

Tea followed in the schools, and over one hundred sat down and enjoyed an excellent meal. The Vicar, in welcoming all to Staley, reminded the ringers that when they were there on the last occasion, a little over a year ago, he said he hoped they would find a great improvement in the bells on their next visit. That hope had now been fulfilled, and he had been assured by all who had heard the new bells that they were a perfect peal.

The Rev. A. T. Beeston, in returning thanks to the Vicar and wardens for their kind welcome, said everything had been done to make the day enjoyable, and it was a real delight to be present.—Canon Elsee said that it was the first time he had attended a joint meeting between the two societies, but he hoped it would not be the last. They had had an enjoyable service, a most inspiring sermon, a good tea, and a very happy time together. He certainly agreed with everyone else that Staley had now a splendid peal of bells.

Mr. J. P. Fidler, representing the bell founders, Messrs. J. Taylor and Co., Loughborough, returned thanks for all the kind remarks that had been made about the new bells. He could assure them that they as founders had put everything of the best into the job, as they realised that only the best was good enough.

Mr. T. Wilde thanked the local ringers and their lady friends for all they had done to make the day such a success. It was a pleasure to arrange a meeting when the local people gave such ready assistance as they had done that day.

Members then returned to the tower, and the bells were kept going in methods ranging from Grandsire Triples to Bristol Surprise Major until nine o'clock.

The bells, which have been recast and rehung in a new steel frame, with ball bearings and all the latest fittings, are 'a perfect Taylor job.' They are indeed a glorious peal with a tenor 18 cwt. 24 lb. in E. They now only require the loupes in the tower to be treated, to control the sound in the immediate neighbourhood, and this is to be done at once.

Ringers present besides those already mentioned included Mr. E. W. Elwell, hon. secretary Chester Diocesan Guild; Mr. W. H. Shaker, hon. secretary, Lancashire Association; and others from as far afield as Rotherham, Sheffield, Greenfield, Bolton, Frodsham, Warrington, Walkden, Oldham, Middleton, etc., while almost all the towers in the Stockport and Manchester Branches were represented.

Many went to have a ring at Holy Trinity Church, where there is another fine ring of eight by Taylor and Co., which were installed about three years ago. The two churches are about a mile apart, and that Stalybridge is indeed now in possession of two perfect octaves of bells is the opinion of all who were present. Many ringers are already looking forward to an opportunity of renewing the acquaintance.

DURHAM & NEWCASTLE DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

NORTHERN RINGERS' OPPORTUNITY TO INSPECT NEW ZEALAND CARILLON.

By kind invitation of the proprietors of the 'Newcastle Evening Chronicle' and Messrs. Gillett and Johnston, of Croydon, the members of the Durham and Newcastle Association, and, in fact, all ringers are asked to inspect the Wellington (New Zealand) carillon now installed in the North-East Coast Exhibition, on Saturday, July 13th, at 2.30.

A special demonstration on these magnificent bells will be given by Mr. Clifford E. Ball, Mus.Bac., by courtesy of Messrs. Caddbury, of Bournville.

Tea will be provided in Carrick's Pavilion in the Exhibition Grounds, at 5 p.m., where the ringers will be welcomed by their kindly hosts, as well as by the Lord Mayor of Newcastle (Cdr. A. W. Lambert, M.C.), and the Assistant Bishop of Newcastle, Dr. Cecil J. Wood. Each ringer may be accompanied by one lady.

At 8.30 p.m. all are invited to assemble at the 'Chronicle' Hall, Pudding Chase, Westgate Road, for a musical evening.

Admission to the Pavilion will be by ticket only, which must be applied for before July 6th, to Mr. G. S. Taylor, hon. secretary of the association, 149, St. Leonard Street, Sunderland, giving the names of all those wishing to be present.

A DESERVING CASE.

APPEAL FOR AN ECKINGTON RINGER.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—Knowing the generosity of ringers in general, and quite unknown to the man concerned, I should like to make an appeal for a little timely help on behalf of Mr. Alfred West, of Eckington, near Sheffield.

Briefly, his case is this: Following a serious accident in the mine some years ago, which almost totally incapacitated him, his health has given way generally, and now consumption has him in its deadly grip. The compensation pay he receives is inadequate to meet the requirements of a growing young family, together with those of older ones who are not in regular employment.

Mr. West has been a Sunday service ringer for nearly forty years, but never cared for peal ringing on his own part. As a steeple-keeper, however, he excels, and our bells are in 'the pink of condition' owing to his efforts. A short time ago he quietly intimated that he felt his end was drawing near, and was endeavouring to get his beloved bells in good order before he left us for ever. Hence my appeal.

Any help given by your readers will be gratefully accepted, and should be sent to our Ringing Master, Mr. T. A. Howes-Smith, Solicitor, The Yews, Eckington, and will be acknowledged in 'The Ringing World.'—Yours faithfully,

P. JERVIS.

LONDON COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

SOUTHERN DISTRICT'S WELCOME TO HOUNSLOW.

A meeting of the Southern District of the London County Association and North Southwark Diocesan Guild was held at St. Paul's, Bath Road, Hounslow, on Saturday, June 15th. The bells, which are a light and tuneful peal of 8½ cwt., by Warner, were raised soon after three o'clock, and were set going to changes, under the supervision of the District Master, Mr. H. Mance. During the afternoon and evening some 35 members and friends rang touches in various methods, including London, Bristol, Cambridge, Superlative and Double Norwich, whilst the standard methods and the beginners were not forgotten. A feature of the ringing was the striking, not always too good at meetings. A party of 25 belook themselves to the house of Mr. Gash (verger), where tea had perforce to be taken in two 'shifts' or 'round blocks,' the waiting crew beguiling the time with 'Freddy's' famous handbells.

The business meeting followed, at which one hon. member, Rev. Hugh Eyton Jones (Vicar) and one ordinary member were elected.

There were no abstruse problems before the meeting this time, so the routine was quickly disposed of, and the tower was re-visited. The Vicar ascended to the ringing chamber and offered prayer, and a hearty welcome to the association. Ringing concluded at eight o'clock, and the company then adjourned to 'another place,' where the handbells were brought into use for both change and tune ringing. Messrs. Goddard, Tricker and Ellingham delighted the audience with their tunes, whilst Mr. Geo. Cross and others were able to bring off a course of Double Norwich. Successful attempts were made by novices at Grandsire Triples and Caters, Stedman Caters and Bob Major, not the least overjoyed being the novices themselves.

During the meeting a vote of thanks was passed to the Vicar for his attendance and the use of the bells; to Mr. and Mrs. Gash and helpers for providing and serving the tea; to the local men for the welcome extended to the association, the name of Mr. Charles Tricker looming large in this direction. How fortunate for a secretary to have a man on the spot who will so willingly help! It is worthy of mention that the meeting was attended by both young and old in the persons of Mr. Tom Bendle, of Isleworth, and Little 'Dick' Deal, of East Ham, complete with parents.

FUNERAL OF THE REV. M. KELLY.

The beautifully-kept little church in the picturesque grounds of the Kelly estate was crowded with a representative gathering on Wednesday week, when the funeral took place of the Rev. Maitland Kelly. All classes assembled to pay their last tribute of respect, and among the officiating clergy was the Rev. E. S. Powell, who succeeded Mr. Kelly as president of the Devon Guild. The Guild was represented in addition by Mr. T. Laver (general secretary), Rev. Hugh Pigot, chairman of the North Devon Branch, Rev. G. E. F. Molineux, chairman of North-East Branch, and Miss Hanson, secretary, Rev. E. V. Cox (Exmouth), Mrs. Powell, Mr. E. W. Marsh, secretary, South-Western District, and Mr. W. H. Marsh, chairman. The Guild, the Exeter Cathedral band, the Kelly ringers, and two old ringing friends (F. J. Davey and T. Laver) were among those who sent wreaths.

The bells of Kelly Church were rung muffled before the funeral, and were unmuffled afterwards, and at many Devon churches parting tributes were also paid by the ringers.

At Paignton, Devon, on Wednesday, June 19th, with bells half-muffled, a quarter-peal (1,260 changes) of Grandsire Triples in 58 mins.: F. Allwood 1, J. Huxley 2, C. R. Walker 3, T. S. Collings 4, C. F. Austin 5, F. E. Parnell 6, H. J. Hole (conductor) 7, C. Boyce 8.

PRESENTATION TO RETIRING RINGER.

On Tuesday evening, June 18th, a pleasant evening took place in the Parish Hall, Heighington, near Darlington, the occasion being the presentation of a chiming clock in rosewood case to Mr. T. Ranson, who has been a ringer at St. Michael's Church for 45 years, and has just retired. The Vicar of Heighington presided, and was supported by Major H. S. B. Surtees, of Redworth Hall, the Vicar of Staindrop (Rev. H. S. C. Spurrier) and others. Major Surtees handed over the gift, which had been subscribed to by the villagers and friends.

During the proceedings two courses of Stedman Triples were rung by ringers from Holy Trinity Church, Darlington, on their handbells, viz.: W. H. Porter 1-2, W. N. Park 3-4, G. W. Park 5-6, Roland Park 7-8.

Touches of London Surprise Minor and Kent Treble Bob Minor were also rung on the church bells before and after the ceremony by Messrs. W. H. Porter, G. W. Park, W. N. Park, Roland Park, R. W. Gay, W. Oliver, and J. T. Titt, of Holy Trinity, and Mr. T. Clark, of St. Guthbert's, Darlington.

LANCASHIRE ASSOCIATION.ARCHDEACON HOWSON HONOURED.

The very successful meeting of the Liverpool Branch held at Sefton was arranged to honour the Venerable Archdeacon Howson, and about sixty members and friends attended, including several of the senior members of the association. Sefton is an old-world village, and the church is an ancient and magnificent one. The bells were set going soon after 3 p.m., and kept busy until 5.30 p.m., when the service was taken by the Archdeacon, and Mr. George Lunt presided at the organ. After the service all adjourned to the Parish Hall, where a sumptuous tea had been provided by the Rector (the Rev. Canon Wells). The usual business meeting followed, and was speedily carried through.

At the conclusion the Branch Secretary moved a vote of thanks to the Archdeacon for his long and valued service to the Branch in particular, and ringing in general. He added that the members desired to show their appreciation in a more permanent form than by formally moving votes of thanks, and he asked Archdeacon Howson to accept the inscribed oak Westminster chiming clock with the good wishes of the members.

Mr. Geo. R. Newton added his testimony to the services of the Archdeacon, and reminded the members of the many ways in which he had helped the Branch.

In reply, the Archdeacon expressed his great surprise, and although he disapproved of such things as testimonials, he very feelingly and sincerely thanked the members for their kind thoughts.

An interesting item of the ringing part of the meeting was referred to—that of a touch of Bob Minor rung by six of the senior members present, their average age being 71½ years.

The meeting will long be remembered as one of the best and happiest gatherings of the Branch.

DISAPPOINTED VISITOR TO HEREFORD.

To the Editor.

Sir,—May I be allowed to reply to Mr. Mears' letter in your columns of June 14th, and to say that we all regret his disappointment on Whit Monday in not being able to get up to the Cathedral tower at Hereford. I am afraid Mr. Mears must have been a late-comer, as there was someone on the door at the west end until 7.15. The authorities are very strict upon having doors locked at 6 p.m. We shall look forward to seeing Mr. Mears at some future time.

Master.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

Mr. George Middleton, who has been elected Labour M.P. for Carlisle, was formally a ringer at Christ Church, Crewe. Mr. R. T. Holding informs us that in 1902 Mr. Middleton took part in several touches of Grandsire and Plain Bob Triples. He resigned from the tower owing to the irregular hours he had to work in the Post Office.

Mr. Edwin Shepherd, of Exeter, completed on June 6th 50 years as a member of the Devon Guild and of St. Sidwell's Society.

Capt. J. H. R. Freeborn has given up his appointment as a representative of Messrs. Gillett and Johnston, and has resumed his practice as an architect at 23, Station Road, Rickmansworth.

Mr. Joseph Potter, who has resided for many years in the United States, is now on a visit to England, and on Saturday rang with the Lancashire Association his first peal for 23 years.

The ringers, as well as the Church Council, of Cadeleigh, a Devon village near Tiverton, have resigned as a protest against an appointment to the incumbency made by the Bishop of Exeter, after the patroness of the living had offered it to the former curate of the parish.

The first peal of Grandsire Cinques 'in hand' was rung at Birmingham on July 2nd, 1886.

At the dedication of All Saints' Church, Poplar, on July 3rd, 1823, the Cumberland Youths rang the first peal (Grandsire Caters) on the bells.

THANKSGIVING DAY.

WHAT RINGERS CAN DO.

Sunday, July 7th, has been fixed as the Day of Thanksgiving for the King's recovery.

It is a day when the church bells throughout the country should play a special part in the national rejoicing, and an effort should be made at every church with a ring of bells to mark the occasion in some special way. Not only should the bells be rung before the thanksgiving service, and the other customary services, but, as suggested in our columns recently by the Rev. F. Ll. Edwards, something should be done to distinguish the proceedings from those observed on an ordinary Sunday, such as ringing in the early morning where it is practicable, or at the conclusion of the Thanksgiving Service. Also, as Mr. Edwards remarked, there may even be an opening in the special form for ringing a few rounds at a central point in the service itself.

Doubtless there will, in addition, be many peals rung in connection with the Thanksgiving, and it is hoped by the Central Council to lay before His Majesty, with an appropriate letter of congratulation, particulars of the part which ringers in this country play in connection with the national expression of joy.

HATFIELD'S NEW BELLS DEDICATED.

The two new bells, the gift of the Bishop of Exeter and Lady Florence Cecil to St. Etheldreda's Church, Hatfield, were dedicated on Thursday, June 20th, before a large congregation. Prior to the service, a quarter-peal of Kent Treble Bob Major was rung by the local society of ringers. The service was conducted by the Bishop, assisted by the Rector of Hatfield (the Rev. J. J. Antrobus). In his address the Bishop explained that the bells were erected in memory of his son, Capt. Rupert Edward Gascoyne Cecil, who was an enthusiastic member of the Hatfield Guild of College Youths, and whose wish it was the two bells should be given. The ceremony was well attended by ringers from St. Albans, Hertford, Baldock, Harpenden, North Mimms, and Essendon, and after the service touches of Grandsire Caters, Stedman Caters, Treble Bob Royal and Bob Major were rung.

The quarter-peal of Kent Treble Bob Major previous to the service was rung by the following: A. Shepherd 1, G. Austin 2, R. Richardson 3, J. Shepherd 4, L. Shepherd 5, D. W. Richardson 6, J. G. Dunham 7, J. T. Kentish (conductor) 8.

The new bells were cast and hung by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank.

ISLE OF WIGHT FIVE BELL TOWERS.

An interesting and most successful bye-practice meeting was held in the Island on Saturday last, when three somewhat secluded five-bell towers, viz., Chale, Shorwell and Brighthorne, situated in the southern part of the Island, were visited by Island members of the Guild, many of whom had their first pull on these bells. The attendance was most gratifying to those who suggested and arranged the meeting. Chale tower was first visited, and good use was made of the bells, the frame of which has a blank space in readiness for an additional bell. At tea, Dr. J. B. Williamson voiced thanks to the Rector for the use of the bells, also to the foreman, Mr. H. Chiverton, whom he proposed as a member of the Guild. This was seconded by Mr. B. J. Snow (district secretary), and carried.

A move was then made to Shorwell, where the party was met and welcomed by the Vicar and local ringers, and several touches in various five-bell methods were scored. Brighthorne tower was reached rather later than the scheduled time, but, thanks to Mr. Creeth, the bells were in readiness and were soon set going, and many good touches were rung. This will not be the last five-bell practice meeting to be held in the Island, especially if the doctor has his way again in the matter.

BROADCASTING.

The Rev. F. L. Edwards, reporting for the Broadcasting Committee, said that, as most of the Council knew, the talk on bellringing was given on September 19th, and he had received reports on it from personal friends in different parts of the country, saying that it came through very clearly, and the sound of the handbells was perfect. Undoubtedly, the broadcast had done a certain amount of good. It required a great deal of labour and time in preparation, owing to the fact that everything had to be done in a quarter of an hour. He was gratified to find that he so far succeeded in meeting the conditions that when they had a rehearsal in the belfry of St. Clement Danes—and they had to thank the Rev. Penington Bickford for the use of the handbells—they got through the lecture, with the illustrations, in 14½ mins. Actually at the studio the announcer took up a few moments, and they, therefore, overran the time a little, but the announcer in charge allowed them a little extra time, so that the course of Stedman Triples at the end might be finished. Mr. Edwards quoted from one of the letters he had received from a correspondent at Laughton, near Sheffield, which said that the talk had led to a band being formed, and the belfry invaded, to the delight of the Vicar. The bells were rung at Christmas, a thing which even the sexton, who had been there for 50 years, could not remember having happened before. There were three bells (laughter), and six ringers, and a splendid enthusiasm in the district, and it was now hoped to augment the bells (applause). Mr. Edwards added that the broadcast was almost worth giving for that one result.

The President said the Exercise at large was grateful to Mr. Edwards for all the trouble he took over the broadcast and the rehearsals. They were also grateful to the band of ringers who demonstrated with the handbells. He knew that the talk stirred up a good deal of enthusiasm and delighted many people in many parts of England.

Mr. T. H. Beams asked if they were going to have any repetition of the lecture.

The Hon. Secretary: Nothing has been arranged. Having 'made a hole in the ice,' we may, perhaps, be able to do something in the future, after allowing a suitable interval.

The report was adopted.

PEALS OF MINOR AND DOUBLES.

The Council next came to the various resolutions on the agenda, the first of which, 'No. 7,' was, 'That this Council will not recognise as a peal of Minor or Doubles any composition in which the bells do not strike in 720 or 120 different orders respectively before beginning the next 720 or 120.' It was moved by Mr. R. Whittington, who said that in the year 1911-12 the Council passed this resolution: 'That peals of Minor consist of at least seven true and complete 720's, the bells striking round only once at the end of each and immediately going into the next.' The object of the resolution now before the Council was, he said, to ask them to confirm that decision, and to say that peals of Minor and peals of Doubles must conform to those conditions.

Mr. A. H. Pulling, who seconded, said they did not want someone to come along later on and say that the Council did not mean what it said by the motion. What they intended was that in Doubles they should start the 120 changes from rounds and should finish at rounds; and the same with Minor, that they should start from rounds and finish with rounds, 'and have none of this "jiggery-pokery"' (laughter). They wanted to have things clear this time (hear, hear).

Rev. E. S. Powell suggested that Mr. Whittington should alter his resolution to read: 'That each 720 shall be true in itself and shall begin from and end with rounds,' and in similar terms with regard to Doubles. He sympathised with Mr. Pulling, because when he read the first resolution he thought they might try to drag in the Bankes James composition.

Mr. J. Hunt said the resolution carried at Hereford was the starting-point of this discussion, and Mr. Law James added fuel to the fire by saying that the resolution at Hereford implied seven different 720's as being required for a peal of Minor. He (Mr. Hunt) disagreed. It was never intended that a peal should consist of seven different compositions. That would be a great penalty on the six-bell men. There were plenty of men in that room who could call a peal of Stedman Triples or a peal of London from a non-observation bell, but there were a great many in the Exercise in the country districts who could not call 720 or even 120 from a non-observation bell. Last year Mr. Powell wanted to say that ten different 120's should be called in a peal of Doubles. He would like to ask Mr. Powell how many towers there were in his own county of Devon where there were men to call such a peal. To insist on seven different 720's they would be penalising the ringers, and instead of making ringing progress they would be putting a brake on.

Rev. E. S. Powell said the amendment he had got was to the effect 'that this Council will not recognise as a peal of Minor or Doubles any composition in which the 720's or 120's were not true and complete and which did not start from and end with rounds.' He would certainly prefer that to the motion as it stood, but if the amendment were carried he should much hope it would be defeated as a substantive motion. Muddled as the position was at the present time, he felt very strongly that the Council had better have things as they were with the Hereford motion, to see what happened and bring the thing forward in a year or two's time. At present they had not sufficient knowledge to affirm what was false and what was true.

Mr. F. W. Perrins seconded the amendment.

Rev. H. Law James said he took it the amendment brought out exactly what the proposer and seconder meant, but what the proposer and seconder said would have included the Bankes James Cambridge and would have excluded everything else. He took it they wanted to rule out everything except 720's which began and ended with rounds.

Several members: Yes.

Mr. James asked the members to imagine on the clock face in the room six rows of figures, spaced at ten-minute intervals. The first row was 1234, with the others in the following order round the dial: 1324, 1342, 1432, 1423, and 1243. If they read the rows from 1234 in either direction they would come back again to 1234. They thus had the whole six in one natural round block. How many times did rounds appear in these six rows? Once only. The fact was, there was a great deal of confusion arising in this matter simply and solely because when they wrote their peals and touches and courses they wrote 123456 at the top, went to the bottom and wrote it at the end. They wrote it twice, but if they wrote it round the clock face they would see that all this talk about beginning and ending with rounds amounted to nothing. There were six rows and there were six changes. Rounds at the end was the rounds at the beginning. If it was a repetition it was false, and it was either a repetition or it was not a repetition. Strictly speaking, it was not a repetition; it was the same thing. The whole thing was a round block, and they came back exactly to where they started.

Mr. W. Willson: Will you explain how, in your brother's Cambridge, in which the last change of the 720 is a bob change, and the bob is not made until the backstroke lead of the treble, that backstroke lead can be the first row of the next 720? The effect is not between the treble rows but at the backstroke of the treble, which proves that the full treble lead should be included.

Mr. James said according to Mr. Willson's idea rounds at the beginning and rounds at the end were counted as two rows instead of one, and if they counted them as Mr. Willson wanted to count them they would ring rounds not eight times but fifteen times in a peal.

Mr. T. Faulkner: Rounds at the beginning is only to steady the bells.

Mr. W. A. Cave: Would a peal, or 120, or 720 be legal if we had no rounds at all at the beginning? If we started off 214365 and rang to the end, would that be a 720? ('No.') Rounds at the start is only a preliminary. I maintain that 214365 is the first change, and 123456 is the last for all practical ringers.

Rev. F. L. Edwards: If you started off straight into a method without any preliminary rounds, there would not be 720 changes, because the first would not be a change. When you have your preliminary rounds and start into changes, then the first row of the method is the first change. If you started without preliminary rounds you would not change from anything, and the first row would not be a change at all.

Mr. Coles asked if the amendment meant that each 720 or 120 was to start from and end with rounds. He had been trying all day to get at this point, whether these 720's were to be treated as separate peals or one whole peal of seven 720's. Until they settled that point they would get no further with this motion.

Mr. Whittington said he was prepared to accept Mr. Powell's amendment, and Mr. Pulling, as seconder, also agreed.

Mr. Trollope said he wanted to make it clear that those who voted for what was now the resolution would quite certainly vote for the exclusion of the Bankes James Cambridge. He knew there were a lot of people there who wanted to preserve the Bankes James Cambridge; if they voted for that resolution it ruled it out. He suggested that the best thing they could do was for both the amendment and the resolution to be withdrawn and let them leave the question for a little while. The discussion that day had proved that there was a great deal of difference of opinion, and, whatever resolution they passed, this division would remain. Would it not be better, therefore, to leave the matter as it now stood with the Hereford resolution. It would have to be amended, but it was enough to go on with. Let them leave it and see whether the six-bell ringers wanted this Cambridge Minor. With all respect to the Council, the final judgment did not rest with them; it rested with the Exercise at large.

Mr. Willson: I move the closure. There is always this red herring drawn across the trail.

Mr. Trollope said the final judgment must be with the six-bell ringers, and if the six-bell ringers continued to ring this arrangement of Cambridge Minor it would be weighty proof that there was something in it. The Council ought not at this time to turn it down.

SUGGESTED DEFINITION OF A PEAL OF MINOR.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—The numerous letters and articles in your paper on the subject of peals of Minor have got me so mixed up that I hardly know how to start.

I have lately looked through a book called 'Rules and Decisions of the Council and an account of its work.' I can only think that the copy I have is either 'hopelessly false' and out of date, or that members of the Council, who occupy so much of your space in pouring out their wandering and complicated thoughts, have not read, marked, learned and inwardly digested it.

Will somebody please tell me if the following resolution, which appears in this book still stands good, or has it been overruled or repealed by the Council or lost by the Methods Committee: 'That peals of Minor consist of at least seven true and complete 720's, the bells striking round only once at the end of each and immediately going into the next. A peal may be lengthened, etc.' (1911-12.)

I believe that another resolution on the subject has since been passed, but it is not in the book which I have, and I cannot remember its exact wording, but so far as I know it only amplified the resolution quoted above, and was not intended to be in substitution for it.

Much as it may be regretted, the Bankes James Cambridge is not, and never has been, a peal which could be recognised by the Council. The first so-called 720 does not end with rounds. It may be intended to start with rounds, but no amount of argument will convince anyone with the slightest amount of intelligence that this is the same thing as ending with rounds.

I know nothing about the merits or otherwise of various callings of Doubles. Before the Hereford resolution there appears to have been no decision as to what constituted a peal of Doubles. At any rate, there is nothing about them in the book I have.

I have spoken to quite a number of six-bell ringers about Bankes James' composition. What of their opinions? They all seem generally agreed that this composition is more worthy of being called a peal of Surprise Minor than a peal consisting of seven 720's of Cambridge with the tenor called W.H.W. in each one.

And what of the opinions of the members of the Central Council? By whose authority can they say what or what shall not constitute a peal of Minor? How many of them are Minor ringers? I do not think it would be hard to find among them a few, at any rate, who cannot ring Cambridge Minor, who have never seen the figures of Bankes James' composition, who do not know what is the effect of calling five consecutive bobs in the method, or who could call the composition if they had the figures.

The only fair way of dealing with the matter is to let those who are regularly ringing the method decide, and I should like to know if there are among your readers ringers sufficiently interested in the subject to use their best endeavours to persuade their respective societies to send representatives to the Central Council pledged to support a proposition in favour of a rule in the form of enclosed draft.

Although this may not be 'bullet proof,' it is certainly far more definite than any of the vague resolutions which have previously been proposed or passed.

Any society interested in peals of Doubles can easily arrange to have placed before the Council a resolution as to them framed from the enclosed draft.

By the way, has any band ever rung a 5,040 of Minor with a covering bell or bells? If they have, let them read the Decisions of the Central Council and then say if they are entitled to claim it as a peal.—Yours faithfully,

G. L. GROVER.

East Clandon, Surrey.

The draft definition of a peal of Minor, which is sent by Mr. Grover, is as follows:—

'A peal of Minor (whether Plain, Treble Bob, Surprise or Mixed) shall consist of not less than seven extents comprising 5,040 changes. A peal may be increased beyond 5,040 changes by the addition of any number of extents and/or a touch. The extents shall be rung consecutively without other ringing or a cessation of ringing between any of them. The touch (if any) shall follow the last extent without other ringing or a cessation of ringing between the extent and the touch.

'For the purpose of this rule—

'(1) An extent shall consist of 720 different changes rung consecutively and without other ringing or a cessation of ringing between any of them, and shall start by changing from backstroke rounds to the handstroke change and finish by changing from the handstroke change to the backstroke rounds.

'(2) A touch shall consist of any number of different changes less than an extent and shall commence and finish in the same manner as an extent, and its changes shall be rung in the same manner as those of an extent.

'One method or any number of methods may be used to produce an extent or a touch.

'The calling of one extent may be the same as the calling of any other extent, and the calling of a concluding touch may be similar to the calling of any extent in a peal.

'Notwithstanding anything in this rule contained the composition of Cambridge Surprise Minor known as the Rev. Bankes James peal shall for all purposes be deemed a peal and always to have been a peal of Surprise Minor.'

THE COUNCIL AND THE METHODS COMMITTEE'S REPORT.

To the Editor.

Sir,—Mr. C. T. Coles has broken out again. He says: 'This at the behest of members who could not back up such a proposition by a single sound argument' (the assertion that the 120's and 720 are false), and adds: 'When we ring the Bankes James Cambridge Minor... we ring 720 changes each seven times, excluding rounds at the beginning, but including rounds at the end.'

If he is not wrongly reported, he condemns himself, for in the Cambridge Minor the exact reverse is claimed. It is claimed that the rounds rung before you go off must be included, otherwise the last change of the orthodox 720 repeats in each instance.

Mr. Coles and the Methods Committee can have it which way they like, but they cannot have it both ways. In a nutshell, if rounds are included at the beginning, you cannot come back into rounds again without a repetition. Is that clear?

If rounds are excluded at the beginning, and included (per Mr. C. T. Coles) at the end, then each of the six 720's are false, the last change of each repeating with a plain lead previously. Now, which way will they have it? Is that plain enough?

To say that there are no more false changes in the block of 2,160 than there would have been had the 720's been kept intact, is no excuse. I am quite aware of all the Cambridge virtues, and said so at the Council meeting, but the cold fact remains that there are 719 true changes, and the 720th is used as the first of the next 720. This means that the last change of a 5,040 must be at handstroke, and it must not be rounds.

Here is an argument—sound or otherwise, according to ability to digest it. If every bob in a touch or peal is necessary to complete the said touch or peal, then the backstroke of the treble lead is necessary, for in Cambridge the Bob is made at the backstroke change of the treble lead, proving, I think, the absolute necessity of including that change in the 720, which is fatal to the six 720's of Bankes James composition. (The seventh is not his.)

If Mr. Coles will write out any of the 'mixed Doubles' he can play tennis with the false changes. Just draw a line at the 120th change, and in the words of the jazz poet, 'anyone can see with only half an eye.'

Mr. Trollope in his letter describes me as 'Mr. Willson and his stick-in-the-muds.' I am not opposed to progress of any kind, but I am conscious that there are many things worth conserving, and which you cannot improve upon. There is very little virgin soil to dig in these days, and I see no true progress in adulterating the erstwhile genuine goods, to make more of them.

W. WILLSON.

P.S.—From 'Rules and Decisions,' Central Council: 'Practical ringing. On all numbers of bells, a true peal shall in all cases start from and end with rounds,' 1898 and following years, repeated 1902.

MUFFLED BELLS.

On Sunday evening, June 16th, at the Parish Church, Sutton-in-Ashfield, Nottingham, a quarter-peal of Bob Minor (1,260 changes) in 45 mins.: C. M. Heathcote (first quarter-peal) 1, T. Bettison (conductor) 2, J. Ginever 3, E. Wilson 4, C. Beckley 5, C. J. Partridge 6. Rung with the bells half-muffled as a token of respect to the late Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Heathcote, mother of the ringer of treble, who was interred in the churchyard on the previous Friday. The deceased lady was very well known and respected locally. She was also very interested in and fond of listening to the bells.

At St. Mary's Church, Nottingham, on June 21st, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples in 55 mins.: F. Collins 1, Miss I. B. Thompson 2, A. Goodwin 3, A. Coppock 4, L. Clay 5, F. Turner 6, D. Vincent (conductor) 7, E. Blood 8. Rung half-muffled in respect to the late Lady Dainsfort, mother of the Vicar.

Rev. F. L. Edwards proposed as an amendment that in view of the fact that the practices affected by this resolution were at present in an entirely experimental stage, further consideration be deferred until a future meeting.

Mr. C. T. Coles seconded, and said the question of seven 720's constituting one peal was the crux of the whole matter, which people must bear in mind.

Rev. H. Law James: If you vote for this resolution as it stands are you prepared first of all to cross out from every peal book in the country the peals of Cambridge Minor that have been rung with my brother's arrangement? ('No,' and Mr. Pulling: They have been rung before this resolution.) Is the Yorkshire Association prepared to cross out the 9,119 extent of Treble Bob Major with the tenors together, and in which Jasper Snowdon rang? Logically, they ought to, because, after all said and done, what is sauce for six-bell gander is sauce for the eight-bell goose.

The amendment to postpone consideration of the question, on being put, was declared carried by 34 or 35 votes to 24. It was then put as a substantive motion and carried.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD.DORCHESTER BRANCH AT MILTON ABBEY.

The summer meeting of the Dorchester Branch was held on Saturday week, when Milton Abbey was revisited after several years. To show the popularity of this remarkable place, over 100 ringers and friends met and joined in the service at the Abbey. Those ringers who were making their first visit to the Abbey (after an enjoyable motor drive from Bourne-mouth and Weymouth, picking up en route in three coaches), entered by the Milbourne Road, which sinks into a wooded glen and comes out on the Abbey Road, and their first impression was one of amazement. The place breaks unexpectedly on the view, and being at a height, the scene, looking down on the lake and the silver scenery all around the Abbey grounds, is indeed a sight worth visiting. The Abbey comes into view between the trees and makes a fine picture. The building stands in the great wooded park in the centre of Dorset. It is a superb Gothic structure, with an elaborate tower, many beautiful windows, and exquisite flying buttresses. It is of Saxon foundation. King Athelstan, the religious and warlike grandson of Alfred the Great, founded the Monastery of Milton in the year 938, as a thanksgiving to God for a remarkable revelation which he received on Milton Hill, and which told him he would conquer his many enemies and become King of England. Much more might be written, but enough has been said to show that the Abbey Church of Milton is not one of the least noteworthy and interesting of the great abbeys of Britain.

The first stop en route to Milton was made to Bere Regis (Kings-here), where the fine peal of six (in D) was rung to Minor and Doubles. This halt gave the visitors the opportunity of looking round the church, made famous in Hardy's novel, 'Tess of the D'Urbervilles.' The bells at the Abbey are a light peal of eight (but very noisy in the ringing chamber). They were available from 2.30, and were rung up to 4.30, when service was conducted by the Vicar (Rev. C. J. Ellwood), who gave the members a most hearty welcome. At the conclusion of the service he kindly conducted them round the Abbey. Subsequently tea was partaken of at the Hambro Arms, everything being laid out on the lawns for the large party. But alas, the poet's description of 'flaming June' was not realised, for by teatime the sunshine had all gone, and heavy clouds brought the rain, and consequently the meal had to be partaken indoors.

A short business meeting was held, at which 18 towers were represented, including a good number from the neighbouring Branch of Wimborne, and two ringers, Messrs. Chandler (Hereford) and J. A. Waught (Woodford).

In the absence of the chairman (Mr. R. N. Dawes), the Master of the Guild (Rev. R. H. Gundry), presided, supported by Revs. C. A. Phillips (hon. secretary, Wimborne Branch), C. J. Ellwood and C. D. Job, and Col. and Mrs. H. D. Robson (West Lulworth). Apologies for absence were received from the president (Earl Shaftesbury), Ven. Archdeacon W. S. Moule, Messrs. R. N. Dawes (chairman), J. W. Smith (Dorchester), E. Hutchings (Abbotsbury), and A. Gray (Frampton).

The following members were elected: Mrs. H. D. Robson (honorary), Mr. C. H. Howard, Master of the Essex Association (life), and Mr. W. Dorey (ringing). Wyke Regis having already been proposed for the next meeting, it was decided to hold this gathering on Saturday, July 27th.

A comprehensive vote of thanks was proposed by the chairman to the Vicar, the organist and blower (a noted ringer), and Mr. North, of the local band. The Secretary also thanked the Vicar for his kind assistance and for the use of the bells during the afternoon and evening, also the Rev. P. W. Taylor (Bere Regis), Rev. H. A. Caryll (Hilton), and Rev. Canon A. L. Helps (Puddletown). The business ended with a hearty vote of thanks to the chairman. Although it was still raining, the members motored through the park to Hilton and also to the Abbey, and rang several touches in the standard methods.

PRINCE OF WALES' BIRTHDAY.

For the Prince of Wales' birthday, on Sunday, June 23rd, 500 Spliced Triples, being ten sections each of Stedman and Grand sire, was rung for morning service at Milverton, Somerset: R. Scott 1, H. Norman 2, W. Cross 3, C. Tarr 4, W. Knight 5, A. J. Andrews 6, A. Tout (conductor) 7, S. Sharland 8.

At Farnham, Surrey, 630 Grand sire Triples: H. Burningham 1, C. Edwards 2, T. Upshall 3, S. Meadows 4, E. Clapshaw 5, F. Kemp 6, R. Hasted (conductor) 7, A. E. King 8. Also 464 Bob Major by: H. Prior 1, J. Read 2, F. Kemp 3, S. Meadows 4, T. Upshall 5, C. Wells 6, R. Hasted (conductor) 7, G. Upshall 8.

At St. Mary Abbot's, Kensington, on Sunday, June 23rd, in honour of the Prince of Wales' birthday, a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples (1,260 changes): H. G. Miles (conductor) 1, J. A. Dart 2, P. L. Miles 3, E. E. Welham 4, A. Culmore 5, A. Waddington 6, W. E. Judd 7, C. Warner 8.

BLEWBURY, BERKS.—On Sunday, June 9th, before evensong, 1,260 Grand sire Triples in 44 mins.: R. C. Smith 1, H. J. Balcombe 2, H. Greenough 3, R. G. Rice 4, G. F. James (conductor) 5, B. Corderoy 6, A. T. Busby 7, H. Appleton 8.

WORCESTERSHIRE ASSOCIATION.MAYOR OF BEWDLEY'S GIFT OF SOUVENIRS.

The quarterly meeting of the Northern Branch, held in the old-time borough of Bewdley, on Saturday, June 15th, brought together a good muster of ringers from all over the county. Good use was made of the bells in the afternoon, and service was held in the Parish Church, conducted by the Rector (the Rev. C. Raymond Hollis), who, after extending a hearty welcome to the Branch, gave a very appropriate address.

Tea was served on the Rectory lawn, the members enjoying themselves in the beautiful surroundings. At the business meeting which followed, the Rector presided, and was supported by the Mayor and Mayoress of Bewdley (Mr. and Mrs. H. N. Frost), Mr. A. H. James (churchwarden), Mrs. James, Mr. C. Skidmore (Ringing Master, Northern Branch), Mr. S. Holt (Ringing Master, Western Branch), Mr. T. J. Salter and Mr. W. Short (Central Committee representatives), etc.

Apologies were received from Mr. A. E. Parsons, Old Hill, who attended the service in the church, but was unable to come to the tea and meeting, having only just recovered from a serious illness, Mr. R. Knowles (Ringing Master of the association), Dr. Miles and Canon M. S. Newland.

Several new members were added to the roll, including the Mayor of Bewdley, who became an hon. member. The Mayor thanked the members for his election. He said it was the first time he had ever been to a meeting of bellringers, but now that he was a member he should try to be a frequent visitor. He announced that if they cared to accept, he would be pleased to give each one present, as a memento of their visit to Bewdley, a souvenir in the shape of a cigarette ash tray with Bewdley Church and tower impressed in the centre.

Mr. T. Hemming moved, and Mr. H. G. Bird seconded, a hearty vote of thanks to the Mayor for the kind thought which had prompted the gift.—The vote was carried with applause.

On the proposal of Mr. T. J. Salter, it was decided to hold the next meeting at Stone.

It was agreed to refer the question of instructors to the Central Committee.

The Secretary moved a very hearty vote of thanks to the Rector for presiding at the meeting, for arranging the service, for the use of the bells, and for allowing the use of his beautiful grounds. He coupled with the vote the names of the Mayor and Mayoress for gracing the meeting by their presence.

The motion was carried with acclamation, and the Rector, in reply, said it had given him the greatest possible pleasure to have the association at Bewdley.

The Mayor also acknowledged the vote of thanks, and said it had been one of the most pleasant afternoons he had spent amid quite a happy family gathering.

Mr. T. Hemming moved a hearty vote of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Broad and the splendid band of lady helpers at the tea table, also to the lady organist.—This was carried unanimously, and the members then returned to the tower to enjoy further ringing, which closed a very happy gathering.

YORKSHIRE SOCIETIES FRATERNISE.

The annual joint meeting of the societies in the Southern area of the Yorkshire Association was held at Whiston, near Rotherham, on Saturday, and although the numbers fell short of expectations, about 30 being present, a very enjoyable time was spent. The towers represented were Ecclesfield, Sheffield Cathedral, All Saints' and St. Marie's, Handsworth, Rawmarsh, Doncaster, Arksey, Tickhill, Treeton, Canisborough, Wortley, Rotherham, Norton, Staveley, Killamash, and Chesterfield. Tea was served in the Church Institute, and was favoured by the presence of the Rector (the Rev. A. G. Alton), who also took the chair at the business meeting, during the course of which he was elected an honorary member of the Yorkshire Association. Four resident ringers were elected, viz., Messrs. Shackleton, Smithson, Thorpe and Darby, all of All Saints', Sheffield. In addition, Messrs. McGuinness, Marcon and Carter, of Lincoln, and Mr. S. R. Roper, of Croydon, were elected out-county life members.

For the next quarterly meeting an invitation was given by the secretary to hold it at Arksey, near Doncaster, and this was accepted, the date to be October 19th, 1929.

Mr. S. F. Palmer gave a short account of the arrangements made to date for the annual Snowdon Commemoration Dinner, which is to be held in Sheffield on September 21st next. Votes of thanks to the Rector, to the ladies for their services at tea, and to the local company were heartily carried, and replied to by the Rector. It is hoped his appeal for help to teach his boys the science of change ringing will not be heard in vain.

A LEEDS BIRTHDAY.

On Sunday, May 12th, for evening service at Leeds Parish Church, six courses of Stedman Caters (648 changes) were rung in honour of one of the ringers, Mr. H. Lockwood, who celebrated his 71st birthday: J. A. Teale 1, J. Hutchinson 2, H. Lockwood 3, Redfearn 4, F. Renton 5, Jessop 6, F. Drake 7, G. Barraclough 8, V. E. Ash (conductor) 9, H. Smith 10.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.EAST BERKS BRANCH PRACTICES.

In spite of counter attractions such as fishing, military manoeuvres inside as well as outside the Branch, and regattas, an instructive practice took place in various standard methods at Old Windsor. One member succeeded in calling his first touch of Stedman, and still another man to 'turn in' tenors has been found. One of the ladies present also showed such affection for one bell that it was nearly presented to her.

Several weekly practices are now gradually being worked, and it is hoped that before many months are passed a definite and regular list of practices will be available for Branch members.

NEWBURY BRANCH.

The summer meeting of the Newbury Branch was held at Bucklebury on Saturday, June 15th, when the following towers were represented: Brightwalton, Beedon, East Isley, Hampstead Norris, Highclere, Newbury, Shaw, Thatcham, Woolton Hill, and the Bucklebury ringers. Visitors were also present from Oxford, Abingdon, Reading, Englefield and Berrham. The Guild service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. E. M. Thorp), who gave a very helpful address. Mr. G. Davis presided at the organ. Tea was served in the Victory Hall, when upwards of 50 sat down to an excellent tea.

The business meeting followed with the Rev. E. M. Thorp in the chair, supported by the hon. secretary (Mr. H. W. Curtis).

A combined meeting with the Winchester Guild was fixed for Saturday, August 10th, at Newbury. The autumn meeting will be held at Peasmore on Saturday, September 7th.

The Rev. V. W. Peake, of Midgham, was elected an honorary member, and two new ringing members were also elected.

A sum of £5 was voted from the Branch funds to Thatcham tower towards recasting and rehangng the bells.

The Secretary proposed a vote of thanks to the Rev. E. M. Thorp for his address and welcome to the ringers, to Mrs. Davis for presiding at the organ, and also to Mr. and Mrs. N. J. Blunden for providing the tea.—The motion was carried with applause, and the tower was then again visited, and some good touches rung, including Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Plain Bob, Kent Treble Bob, Double-Norwich and Cambridge Major.

GUILDFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.LEATHERHEAD DISTRICT TOWERS OUT OF ACTION.

The Leatherhead District held a highly successful meeting at Newdigate on Saturday, when 33 members and friends from Dorking, Newdigate, Leatherhead, Capel, Cobham, Croydon (St. John's and St. Peter's), Charlwood, Warnham, Thames Ditton, and Rudgwick, made good use of the 12 bells available (six on either side of the read). Methods ranging from Grandsire Doubles to Cambridge Surprise Minor were rung, and also rounds for those not yet able to ring changes.

The Rector (the Rev. J. W. Ward) officiated at the service, and gave the address, before which he welcomed the members of the Guild to Newdigate. The address was straight to the point, and was appreciated by all. The service over, tea was partaken of at the Six Bells Inn, and over this the Rector presided. The tea was a most excellent repast, and went far towards making the meeting such a success.

At the succeeding business meeting, the Rector was in the chair. The election of Mr. W. H. Southard, of Truro, as a compounding member prior to a peal attempt was confirmed, and one new member, Mr. F. Haseman, of Dorking, was also elected.

The Hon. Secretary, Mr. A. R. Pink, then proposed the usual votes of thanks, which were seconded by Mr. Albert Harman (Ringing Master).—The Chairman made a witty speech in response.

At this point it was made known to the meeting that Capel bells were now declared to be unringable. The Rev. J. W. Ward promptly invited the Capel ringers to use his bells when they wished to. This generous offer was much appreciated by all the members, and they marked their appreciation in no uncertain manner. We could wish for such an incumbent as this in many other parishes, the names of which spring readily to mind. This district has now two of its twelve towers out of action, and others that can do with alteration. It would seem well to consult that friend of all ringers, the Archdeacon of Dorking, about the matter.

Following the meeting, some of the members returned to the tower for further ringing, and the bells were kept going till 9 p.m., when they were lowered in peal.

This concluded one of the most successful meetings ever held by the Leatherhead District. A.R.P.

YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION.

On Saturday, June 8th, a very pleasant meeting of the Northern Division was held at Middleham, Wensleydale, when members from Aysgarth, Middlesbrough and Thornaby were cordially welcomed by the Rev. T. Young (Rector). Several touches of Plain Bob, Kent and Oxford Treble Bob were rung on the bells. At the business meeting which followed tea, six new members were elected. A vote of thanks to the Rector and the local band was responded to by the Rector himself.

DIOCESAN 'CONSULTANTS.'

One of the resolutions passed by the Central Council at their last meeting asked each association to appoint a consultant to the Diocesan Advisory Committee or Committees in its area. Some years ago the Council made an effort to get the Advisory Committees each to appoint a member who was conversant with bells and bell ringing. The response was very limited in extent, but wherever the suggestion was acted upon, valuable advice has been available to the Committee. Unfortunately many Committees ignored the request. We are not quite certain that they were approached by the right channel, but with some of them, at any rate, the result would probably have been the same from whatever direction the advance was made. On these committees the antiquarian side is always strongly represented, and we know of at least one instance where this element deliberately used its influence to keep the nominee of the local diocesan association off the Committee, for reasons best known to itself, but which our readers may very easily guess. It is this sort of prejudice which the ringing associations will find very hard to break down, and it is doubtful whether Advisory Committees with this kind of bias are likely to be any more inclined to consult a 'consultant' than they have been to welcome men with similar qualifications as fellow members of their Committee.

But if this second resolution passed by the Council is to have any effect at all, it must go further than the minutes of the Council. The associations must act and those who have not got a member on the Diocesan Board or who have no one who is regularly consulted when bell and tower restorations are involved, should take steps to appoint a competent consultant and to let the Advisory Board know that such knowledge and experience is at their disposal. It will probably be best if there is only one consultant for each diocese, and, if his opinions are to carry weight, he must have a practical knowledge which will stand the test of close examination by those who are likely to disagree with him. He must be able, if necessary, to argue his case, because where the antiquarian expert has to be met it would be futile if the 'practical man' could not keep his end up in an argument and fatal to any future acceptance of his recommendations if his contentions are lightly upset or his prestige damaged. Having found the man with the knowledge necessary adequately to fill the post, the association should then take steps to ensure his recognition by the diocesan authorities. Probably the best way in which this can be done is through some influential clergyman or layman who has the ear of the Bishop. A merely formal letter to the secretary of the Committee, or to the diocesan for that matter, is unlikely to bear much fruit, unless it happens that either is already interested. But where previous effort to get a member on the Committee has failed it will not be easy to 'break the ice' to secure recognition for a consultant.

BELLS AND THE PUBLIC.

Considerable attention has been drawn to the ringing of church bells by a letter which appeared recently in 'The Daily Mail,' from Mr. C. E. C. Kendle, of 71, Lewisham Park, S.E.13, who complained of the ringing of the bells at Lewisham, and asked if they came under the head of public nuisances. He added:—

'The jingle-jangle must be heard before the extent of the nuisance can be conceived. On Monday, June 3rd, for instance, the bells began at 6 a.m. and rang for 55 minutes. I got up and went to the church and protested to the chief bellringer.

'On Sundays the bells ring from 10.15 to 10.50, and often from 5.30 p.m. to 6.25.

'On Thursday the ringers surpassed themselves, ringing from 6.30 to 8.35 without a stop.

'These bells are not pealed; and they are rung without discrimination, method, or rhythm.

'I am not prejudiced against church bells, but they should be chimed rhythmically and tunelessly.'

One of the difficulties with complaints of this kind is that the ordinary public, reading such a letter, is unaware of the motives that have prompted it. Mr. Kendle is, we are informed, a school-master at Lewisham, and lives 300 or 400 yards from the church, and not long ago he publicly complained of St. John's bells, which are about a mile away from his house.

The ringing on June 3rd was, of course, to celebrate the King's birthday, and that 'on Thursday' was a peal attempt, which came to grief just before half-way, and when the names of the band are known (H. Warnett, sen., A. W. Coles, J. Bennett, H. Warnett, jun., E. Garrard, J. Dafters, J. E. Davis and C. W. Roberts), the suggestion that 'these bells are not pealed, and they are rung without discrimination, method or rhythm,' is really too funny—to ringers. Unhappily, the misrepresentation in the public Press cannot be countered by such knowledge, and Mr. Kendle may probably be well satisfied that his complaint received so much notice.

People who make complaints of this kind are not always prompted entirely by public motives; there is sometimes personal feeling behind them. It would be interesting to know if there is anything behind this present attempt to stir up trouble at Lewisham, where in the forty years' experience of Messrs. H. Warnett, sen., and C. H. Walker there has been only one previous complaint.

DURHAM AND NEWCASTLE ASSOCIATION.

The members of the Southern District held their meeting at Staindrop on Saturday, June 15th. There was a good attendance of ringers, the following towers being represented: Darlington, Holy Trinity, St. John, St. Cuthbert, Bishop Auckland, Shildon, Hurworth, Gainford and the local tower, members of the Newcastle Cathedral Band, also members of the Cleveland and North Yorkshire Association, from North Ormesby and Ripon. Touches of Bob Major, Double Norwich, Kent and Oxford Treble Bob Major, Stedman and Grandsire Triples, Cambridge Surprise Minor and Bob Minor were rung during the afternoon and evening. Twenty-three ringers sat down to a good tea, arranged by Mr. H. Shipp, captain of the local band.

A vote of thanks to the Vicar, the Rev. H. S. C. Spurrier, for the use of the bells was passed and it was decided to hold the next meeting at Shildon on Saturday, September 7th.

SECESSION OF GLOUCESTER AND BRISTOL.

To the Editor.

Sir,—In reply to the hon. secretary of the Central Council, I beg to point out that he has entirely misinterpreted my remarks regarding the sum of £4,000. I did not state that the Central Council had received approximately £4,000.

However, to make clearer my point stated in 'The Ringing World' of May 31st, I give the following:—

(The following figures are extracted from the hon. treasurer's books of the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association of Church Bellringers.)

It has cost this association to be represented at 16 Council meetings the sum of £35 19s. 1d., an average of £2 5s. per annum. Aggregating the 36 years that the association was affiliated or represented, this totals £81.

Take this average as a basis for 32 affiliated associations, Guilds and societies, the total is £2,592. To this add the sum received by the Council in affiliation fees (I have not included these in the extracts from the hon. treasurer's books), the total is £3,242 (not far off my mark). So you see, Sir, what affiliation to the Central Council has cost associations and members.

Now, I ask, are the associations entitled to express their opinion upon matters of importance to the Exercise and instruct their members how to vote?

I contend that, the sooner the Central Council realise that they are in existence to create Sunday service church bellringers, and that scientific matters are of an aside nature, the better for the future of the Exercise.

There should be a greater stimulus from the Central Council to urge the well advanced ringers to teach young ringers.

One point of Mr. Young's letter is interesting, that is, he states that the Council has £130 in hand or invested. Had he mentioned this in his statement of accounts printed in your journal of May 17th, would it have influenced the question of associations paying larger affiliation fees?

Now, to turn to Rev. C. D. P. Davies' letter, re the last two or three lines of your opening paragraph in your leader of May 31st, which Rev. Davies most cordially endorses, might I say that I, too, most cordially endorse what you have stated in your views. Furthermore, I can assure you that an effort was made to place the matter for discussion upon the Central Council agenda, but, alas! as I have previously stated, the members of the Council are afraid, or too reserved, to bring the matter forward even though for a healthy discussion. I have correspondence to substantiate this fact that an effort was made.

Having failed in that direction, I reverted to what has been attempted before by leading members of this association in 1912 and other periods before that.

The late Mr. Raymond (Jack) Wilkins was one of the most clear-minded of men, and his sole object was the welfare of the association and its younger members. He proposed in 1912 that the association should cease affiliation.

Mr. F. K. Howell, a stalwart of this association for nearly 50 years, has periodically remarked that the association merely wasted money by remaining affiliated, and urged that the money should be spent by sending the 'representatives' to our towers to teach the young ringers. Can it be said that these men were 'fogged'?

Mr. F. G. May, who was once a member of the Council, afterwards tried to reduce the number of representatives from this association.

Mr. Howell was, with Mr. Wilkins, anxious to keep to the most important point, i.e., the fundamental principle of teaching ringers to ring the bells of the House of God and for His service, not to the point as to whether to ring what the Central Council described or prescribed.

After all, Mr. Davies must agree with me that the main object of our being ringers is to ring the bells for Sunday service, and we should be better served in our organisation if the Central Council made efforts to fill the empty towers and attach ringers to the ringer-less ropes.

With regard to his points, I think further comment is necessary.

1. I must remind him that the president of the Council definitely stated to a member: 'You are not here as a delegate,' and in view of this I do not agree with what Mr. Davies writes.

Personally, I should not (and I do not think any member of the Council would) disregard the words of the president and continue as a delegate, even though Mr. Davies now suggests that this is what may happen. At this point I would remind him of the question of 'Diplomas for young ringers.'

This item was placed upon the agenda of this association in 1928 (according to its reference from the Central Council), and he will remember that there was a difference of opinion, but without full discussion he, as chairman, said, 'Of course, we leave that to the members' own discretion.' As a member of the Council at that time, I was anxious to have the views of my association, but could not get it.

2. The ruling of the president was not wrong, and some few days ago I wrote him stating that I considered his ruling just, according to the rules of his Council.

3. The motion from this association was in the hands of the Central Council in plenty of time to have been rectified, had the Central Council intimated that the motion was not in correct order.

4. I have had advice upon this matter, and I refer it to the Central Council that they might have an opinion from its Legal Committee.

Associations are constituted bodies for one year only. If it is clearly made out, as it is with this association, that the rules of the Council cannot be accepted as binding, then the rules of the association come first and foremost, and when the motion to cease affiliation is passed, there is the end of it. And that being so the fees are not payable. The hon. secretary of the Central Council has been good enough to confirm this in a letter of his dated April 25th, as follows:—

'I cannot give you the name of the person, inasmuch as the money was sent anonymously on behalf of the Gloucester and Bristol Association. But, of course, should your association elect to withdraw at your annual meeting, the money can be returned to you.' Therefore, Mr. Davies will see that the money was not payable according to our rules and according to the hon. secretary of the Central Council.

It is impossible for the officials of this association to run counter with the officials of the Central Council or to the rules of that body, because in 1920 this association (with other associations) informed the Central Council that they could not accept the rules of the Central Council as binding.

If I was wrong in regard to the holding of affiliation fees, as Mr. Davies asserts I was, would it not be proper for the hon. secretary of the Central Council to write to the executive committee and complain of my action? No, Sir, the action of the hon. secretary appears to negative the motion upon our agenda by accepting anonymous affiliation fees.

As then, and now, the Central Council will leave no stone unturned to reserve its autocracy.

With regard to the comfort that Rev. Davies speaks of in his last statement, I might mention that I forecast this to Mr. Cave at the conclusion of our meeting, and I agree with the selection and election of Mr. Cave as a 'permanent' member of the Council. I sincerely hope that this will prove to be so.

My contention is this, give the members of every Guild throughout the country a chance to bring matters of importance before the Central Council, not by haphazard methods, but by a duly constituted rule in both the Central Council rules and that of its affiliated bodies.

It would be ridiculous for any member to quote rules of the Central Council to the ringers of England, as they do not know, and, so far as my experience and knowledge goes, they do not care, what the rules are.

I would add a quotation from a speech by the late Sir A. P. Heywood at the inauguration of the Council:—

'They had yet to make a position for themselves; and it depended upon the judgment with which their decisions were drawn up, whether the Council would come to be regarded as the final authority upon all ringing matters.'

What was the reply to this of 80 per cent. associations affiliated in 1920? And, furthermore, why?

I reiterate my statement. Upon all matters of importance to the Exercise the associations should decide which way their representatives voted. Upon scientific matters (which are of secondary importance to the Exercise) they would use their own discretion.

The Literature and Press Committee of the Central Council are somewhat anticipating in regard to church bells and street noises. I could name many towers in the west where peal ringing used to take place every few weeks, and at that time there was Sunday service ringing. In these places there are no Sunday service ringers now, and peal ringing is gone for ever.

As long as parishioners are accustomed to the sound of bells there is no fear of their being suppressed, but immediately a lapse occurs then they prefer the silence.

To stimulate ringing by helping struggling Guilds and by gradually filling the empty ringing chambers should be the foremost point of all associations, and should be the main policy of the Central Council of Church Bellringers.

In conclusion, I would point out to Rev. C. D. P. Davies that the annual meeting of this association was extensively advertised and copies of the motions spread broadcast. I regard the small attendance as an indication of approval given to the motion, otherwise members would have been there to defend the Council. The other 34 members supporting the motion must reply, if necessary, to the point as to whether they were 'fogged,' but I rather fancy that they have sufficient intellect to know which way to vote.—Yours faithfully,

EDGAR GUISE,

Late Member of the Central Council.

IN THE GARDEN OF ENGLAND.

WHERE JAMES BARHAM RANG.

BY W. H. F.

Following his annual practice, Mr. Frank Bennett, of Brighton, spent Whitsuntide in the county of Kent, where Mr. H. Parkes, with Ashford as a centre, kindly fixed up five towers for peal attempts during a three days' stay. Members of the Kent County Association rallied round to help the visitors, and the respective clergy and towerkeepers did their share to welcome them, and the result was most satisfactory to all concerned both as to the weather and peals accomplished. A word of praise is due to the Southern Railway Company and the Cambrian bus service, who did yeoman work to convey masses of holiday folk through the 'Garden.' Their efficiency allowed the ringers to fulfil the programme, even if 'corridor stand' was enjoyed by the London men on homeward way.

The Church of SS. Mary and Ethelburga, Lyminge, has not lost any of its historical interest. The marble tablet beside the south porch reads: 'The Burial Place of St. Ethelburga the Queen, foundress of this Church and first Abbess of Lyminge, A.D. 638-47.' The relics of the Queen were removed in 1085 to St. Gregory's, Canterbury, by Lanfranc. She was a daughter of Ethelbert, King of Kent, 633, and portions of the original church founded by her are now visible, after a thousand years' interval. Excavations and restorations reveal Roman, Saxon, Norman and Danish periods, the last-named of destruction in their various raiding expeditions to England, before the Norman Conquest. The tower, usually of most interest to ringers, was built by Cardinal Morton, completed in 1527. The bells, dating from 1631, were cast into a ring of six, the trebles added in 1904 with new steel frame and fittings complete. They form a pleasing octave, ringing being carried on from the ground floor open to the nave.

Mr. J. Steddy, of the garden of Eden-bridge, has vivid recollections of the excavated ruins. Some 25 years ago he made a 'nose dive' into them whilst hurrying to the tower on a dark night for a peal attempt with the writer. Since then iron railings have been erected alongside the path. For many years Mr. W. E. Pitman, M.B., was organist at this church before moving to Canterbury, and there are several ringers in the county who have had the pleasure of acting as 'nurse' pro tem. to his young offspring, so that 'Father' might take part in a 'touch' on practice nights. Mr. J. H. Cheeseman, who began his career as a conductor with a peal of Minor in this tower on the old six bells, was born a few miles away, and we find the same family name in peals recorded by Barham, that man of Kent, at Maidstone more than a century and a half ago.

The towerkeeper, Mr. Tanton, met the company at the church. He is well over 70 years of age, and is still a 'goer.' He asked most kindly after the health of Harry Barton, of Deal, and his 'walking mate,' who both took part in the first peal of Major on the bells with him—a gentle reminder of another quarter-century gone.

The 'unexpected' is proverbial in ringing outings, and the beginnings of this one were very dismal when two men were marked up 'absent without leave.' The Lord Bishop, who resides beside the church, saved the situation by not only granting permission to ring but allowing the use of his telephone as well. The missing couple were 'rung up,' and soon afterwards switched into Double Norwich to the glory and honour of Queen Ethelburga.

On leaving the church, the party complied with the letter of the L.V. law by gathering round a small wooden box divided into 24 squares. They privately placed the contents of the box into the inverted handstroke tittum position. Readers will sympathise with the American prohibition tactics of the company when it is known that the contents suited all palates.

AT CANTERBURY AND ASHFORD.

At St. Stephen's Church, Canterbury, the absence of Mr. E. Buesdon, through indisposition, was regretted. His excellent substitute well earned the 'star' accorded him in the peal list. At the conclusion of the peal, local listeners congratulated the band at 9.30 p.m., whilst local closing hours, 10.30, allowed the latter to enjoy their second repast since early morning. The organiser met with another difficulty on the way home. A burst tube of the motor-cycle meant a five-mile walk in the clear moonlight for him and Mr. Pillion Cheeseman. At the time of writing, the Whitsun 'death roll' of motor cyclists number 21. A few more are on the 'same way home,' and it is rumoured that Parkes is on the list of eligible riders.

On Sunday, at Ashford, to quote from an 18th century peal board, 'The exponents of the grand art of change ringing ascended the noble campanile of the Parish Church and rang that ingenious peal, known to the Exercise as . . . There were 16 men present to do duty for the 10.30 a.m. matins, and some of them, it is to be feared, did not attend the 5 a.m. ringing to honour the gayest of the Church's festivals by an early morning peal. However, what was done was well done in Stedman, Double Norwich and Superlative, and the visitors' book duly signed.

The church, dedicated to St. Mary, has a tall and handsome central tower, a landmark prominent for many miles in all directions, surmounted with massive turrets at each corner, and finished each with spiral and weather vane. There is much oscillation when the bells are rung in rounds. Most of the towers in this part of the county are very similar in outline, and take after the Bell Harry tower at Canterbury Cathedral. There are ten bells, the two 'dead' trebles employed for tune chiming, which are none too happy in their selection, one for each day of the week. The majority of the old eight were cast by Hatch about 1620.

At Harrietsham, the Vicar kindly permitted a Sunday afternoon peal, the attempt for Superlative lasting an hour. The completely new peal of bells, frame and fittings, left the two men concerned no excuse for the failure. After tea, the party rang for service at 5.30 p.m. The tower is at the west end of the nave, with a large Gothic archway now filled up with the new organ, destroying the view of windows east and west the entire length of the church.

There have been three different ringing floors—the present beneath the bells and the former one on ground floor, where the iron sally guides are still to be seen. The original ringing floor, where the Lenham and Leeds company did so much ringing—after the eight bells were put in in 1742—was level with the head of the west door, and had an open balcony on the nave side. It was reached by the same old stone stairs, but the door is now built up.

OLD PEALS RECALLED.

An old peal board has been saved, and is now on the walls. The following are the lines recorded:—

'In this Tower was completely Rung by the Lenham Company the following eight-bell peal, viz.: December 8th, 1746, was rung 10,080 changes of that admired Peal call'd Bob Major Doubles, in 7 hours by John Epps treble, Saml. Grayling 2nd, Thos. Barham 3rd, James Barham 4th, Abm. Barham 5th, Wm. Hunt 6th, John Freeland 7th, John Hunt tenor.

'March 5th, 1743, was rung a Musical Peal of 6,720 Changes of Oxford Treble in 4 hours 21 minutes, including Jacob Blundell and Benjn. Walker.

'June 13th, 1743, was rung 6,720 Bob Major in 4 hours 31 minutes, including Wilm. Eagles.

'N.B.—Here was also Rung 5,040 Bob Major (including Nichls. Grayling and Ideu Plane), also 5,040 Bob Major Triples, 5,040 Plain Bob Triples, 5,040 Fullham Triples, 10,080 Bob Major and 5,040 Bob Major Doubles Reversed.

'The above Ringers first Instituted the Leeds Society, whose performance in Ringing has not been equalled by any Society of Ringers. And there is now surviving Saml. Grayling, John Freeland, Abm., Thos. and James Barham, and John Hunt, who new erected this Inscription, and these six Ringers, with the assistance of Thos. Lacey and Wilm. Davis, Rung at Leeds January 1st, 1793, 5,040 Bob Major in 3 hours 12 minutes, whose ages when added together is 577 years. And it is remarkable that this Peal completes one Hundred peals Rung at different Places not less than 5,040 changes each by the above James Barham. 1794. R. T. Bottle.'

Barham's 'century' is probably the first recorded by any change ringer. On examining his peal book it will be seen the two 1743 performances mentioned on the tablet are not recorded in it.

There is a framed card which says: 'Peal of 8 Bells were cast at Whitechapel in 1742,' and that Thos. Lester cast 14 peals for the county of Kent between 1735 and 1769.

There is a doubt as to this being the fact. Six bells were cast in 1742, and two trebles added, and the 5th recast in 1744, according to the inscriptions. Surely the old Kent veterans never broke three new bells in two years.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

A most successful meeting of Sonning Deanery Branch was held at Wargrave on Saturday, June 15th. Ringing commenced at 3.30 on the fine ring of bells, situated near the River Thames. Service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. S. M. Winter), who afterwards kindly showed the ringers the points of interest in this most beautiful church, now completely restored after being almost totally destroyed by fire early in 1914.

Tea followed in the Parish Room, kindly provided by the Vicar, and 30 ringers sat down.

The Hon. Secretary, Mr. W. J. Paice, gave notice that the next combined practice would be at Finchampstead in July, and that a joint meeting with the Farnham District of the Guildford Diocesan Guild and the Basingstoke District of the Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild would be held at Hawley, Hants, on August 31st.

The Secretary, on behalf of those present, thanked the Vicar for the use of the bells, for conducting the service and for providing such a bountiful tea: and the organist, who kindly attended at great inconvenience.—The Vicar briefly replied, and invited those present to take a walk round the Vicarage grounds.

Owing to illness no further ringing could be done at Wargrave, but at Twyford good use was made of the bells until nine o'clock, the methods rung being Grandsire, Stedman, Bob Major, Treble Bob, and Little Bob Major, with rounds for beginners. The towers represented were Binfield, Boyne Hill, Cookham, Finchampstead, Hurst, Hillingdon, Slough, Twyford, Wargrave, Wokingham (All Saints'), while the Master and the general secretary of the Guild were also present.

THE HISTORY OF BELLS AND RINGING.

To the Editor.

Sir,—The very fine report of the Literature and Press Committee of the Central Council, quoted in your issue of June 7th, p. 361, mentions the publication of the splendid volume, 'Bells Through the Ages,' which is, as stated, a great addition to bell literature. One has only to see the favourable criticisms of it in many of the leading papers and magazines, and to hear of the enthusiasm which it has evoked in 'outside' circles, to know that it really fills a long-felt want, i.e., a comprehensive work giving all sides of the subject of bells, viz., early history, celebrated bells, founding, decoration, change ringing, chimes, carillons, legends, etc. It has met with a splendid reception, and can be looked upon as a standard work of reference in this many-sided subject.

The 'L. and P.' Committee then state that a further work is in course of preparation, and I assume (I trust correctly) this refers to the work I have now been commissioned to write on the 'History of Change Ringing.' Whereas Mr. Nichols' work deals almost entirely with the many phases of bells, mine is to be on ringing. Already, in response to my last appeal in these columns, I have had much help from many ringing friends all over the world, and valuable MSS. and books kindly lent, as well as historical data copied for me. I have now completed several chapters, dealing with the commencement and growth of change ringing, early ringing societies, ancient peal records, etc., and many other sides of our interesting 'art and science.'

May I once more appeal to any ringers who have, or know of, any ancient accounts of ringing in the old days, old peal records or such-like, kindly to let me know, or send copies for insertion in my forthcoming book, which I want to be as comprehensive as possible.

I am sincerely grateful to the many who have already sent me much valuable information.—Yours sincerely,

ERNEST MORRIS.

A BISHOP IN A CATHEDRAL BELFRY.

On Sunday afternoon, June 16th, Bishop Thomas, of U.S.A., ascended the 250 steps to the Durham Cathedral belfry, and watched the ringing for the afternoon service. He said he was delighted, as he had never seen bells rung before. It would be interesting to know if a Bishop has sat in a Cathedral belfry and watched ringing for a service on any previous occasion.

THREE GENERATIONS PEAL.

COMMEMORATION BOARD UNVEILED.

A peal of Kent Treble Bob Royal was rung at Stockton Parish Church in 3 hrs. 25 mins. on March 15th, 1924. A unique feature of this peal was that three generations of the Newton family took part in it, their respective ages being at that date 68, 44, and 19. The ringers were as follows: William Newton (grandfather) 1, William L. Newton (grandson) 2, James W. Newton (father) 3, Alfred E. Bacon 4, Rev. Albert Simpson 5, Thomas Hensher 6, William Ellerington 7, Thomas Lancaster 8, Thomas Metcalfe 9, Joseph E. Sykes (conductor) 10.

To commemorate this peal, a board was unveiled on a recent evening by the Rev. G. W. Froggett, M.A., Vicar of Stockton, and a number of ringers from the district attended the ceremony.

Mr. Froggett made reference to the fact that Mr. W. Newton has been connected with the church and belfry for over 55 years, and expressed the hope that he and his family would continue their connection for many years to come.

As the board was unveiled and the ringers read the inscription, memories of the conductor, his genial personality and his never-failing enthusiasm for peal ringing came back to them. They realised with profound regret, that 'Uncle Joe' will conduct no more peals on this side of the veil.

The bells were rung in Grandsire and Stedman Caters both before and after the ceremony, the three generations taking part.

LAVENHAM RINGING ANNIVERSARY.

A very happy gathering took place at SS. Peter and Paul's Church on Saturday, June 22nd, when upwards of thirty visitors joined the local society for the ringing anniversary. During the afternoon and evening several short touches on these far-famed bells were rung, the methods being Grandsire, Stedman, Plain Bob, Double Norwich, Kent, Oxford, Cambridge and Superlative. The handbells were also brought into use. Among those present were Messrs. G. B. Lucas (Walthamstow), J. Lee (Streatham), T. King (Shipley, Yorks) and Miss K. Willers (Trumpington, Cambs). Other places represented were Bury St. Edmunds, Cornard, Culford, Colchester, Coggeshall, Bergholt, Fornham St. Martin, Groton, Halstead, Hassett, Horringer, Long Melford, Little Waldingfield, Sible Hedingham, Otley and Wallington (Surrey).

The ringers wish to thank the Rev. G. Lennox Conyngham for the use of the bells, and Mr. A. Symonds, towerkeeper.

On the Sunday evening following, an attempt for a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples, arranged specially for Messrs. T. King and G. B. Lucas, came to grief after 1,180 changes of excellent striking.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

The first peal of Double Oxford Bob was a 6,000 rung at St. Giles', Norwich, on July 6th, 1832.

Holt's Original was rung for the first time on July 7th, 1751, at St. Margaret's, Westminster, when the composer called it from manuscript.

Carter's odd-bob peal of Stedman was rung, non-conducted, on handbells by the College Youths on July 10th, 1917.

Father and son rang their first peal of Grandsire Caters at their first attempt at Dudley last Saturday, and a correspondent asks if this is the first time this has been done.

A sentence of two months' imprisonment was passed at Sandwich, Kent, on Monday week, on Charles Reynolds, who was accused of assaulting his uncle, Alfred Reynolds, in the belfry of St. Peter's Church. Mr. Alfred Reynolds is the sexton, and the assault took place while he was engaged in ringing the curfew. It was said that the younger man came to the belfry and shouted like a madman. He then struck his uncle on the cheek and in the mouth.

THE YOUNG BRIGADE.

At the age of 11 years 4 months, Master F. J. Bowley, jun., of Kirby Muxloe, near Leicester, rang a peal of Doubles, 5,040 changes, on five bells (no cove). Is this the earliest age yet in peal records?

W. P. Whitehead called Holt's Original twice before his 16th birthday. His first peal as conductor, however, was Superlative one month after his 15th birthday. Before he had turned 18 years he had called 40 peals and headed the M.C.A. conductors' list in 1925.

The correspondent who sends us the above particulars says he is unable to answer Mr. E. H. Spice's query regarding a seven-method peal, but he would like to ask a similar question in regard to the following methods, all rung at the age of 14 years by W. P. Whitehead: Stedman Triples, Grandsire Triples, Treble to Cambridge Major, Superlative, Cambridge, London, Kent Treble Bob Major, all rung 'inside' with the one exception, and the total for the year 17 peals.

Among others who have made an early start in peal ringing have been E. G. Matthews (youngest son of Mr. J. D. Matthews), who rang 1-2 to a handbell peal of Bob Major at the age of 13½ years, and Harold J. Witchell, son of the late Mr. Bernard Witchell, who rang the 5th at St. Chad's R.C. Cathedral, Birmingham, to a peal of Stedman Triples when he was 13 years 10 months old.

PEALS OF MINOR.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I have followed with interest the controversy on the question of the necessary conditions for a peal of Minor, and I think that those who are interested in the matter would do well to pause and consider why the ruling in the 'Rules and Decisions' was framed.

In the 'eighties' a habit had grown up of ringing fourteen 360's all in different methods; and these performances were considered by some to be superior to seven 720's in different methods. But, when the fact that in ringing a 'half-extent' the tenors could always be kept together was taken into consideration, it became apparent that these performances were inferior to, and not in advance of, the seven 720's. Hence the ruling as it at present stands.—Yours, etc.,

CUMBERLANDS AT EPSOM

One of the oldest and the youngest of ringing societies fraternised on Saturday at Epsom, when the Royal Cumberland Youths and the Guildford Diocesan Guild held a joint meeting. The Cumberlands came from a wide district round London, and included three generations of one family from Crayford, with 'Teddy' jun., with recent scholarship honours sitting lightly upon his shoulders, the youngest among Cumberlands. The Master of the Royal Society supervised the ringing, which began with rounds on the pleasant peal of ten for some of the least experienced. Grandsire and Stedman Caters, Cambridge Royal and London and Bristol Surprise Major followed.

The Rector (the Rev. C. R. P. Muir) had arranged a delightful service, the full choir being present and rendering music, including an anthem, worthy of a full church. Tea was served in the adjoining Church Hall, formerly a brewery, and now housing many of the parochial activities, including a boxing saloon, in which, in the winter, the jockey apprentices of this world-famed racing centre disport themselves. The Rector is a man of wide views and sympathies, and his welcome to the two societies was wholehearted. He presided at the tea and was accompanied by Dr. C. F. Waters, the organist. Mr. J. D. Matthews, the Cumberlands' Master, proposed a very cordial vote of thanks to the Rector and choir, and this was seconded by Mr. J. S. Goldsmith, who welcomed the Cumberlands to the area of the Guildford Diocesan Guild. The Rector replied, and the members then returned to the tower for further ringing.

AFFILIATION FEE INCREASED.

In the absence of Mr. E. W. Elwell, who had had to leave the meeting, the Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn moved: '(a) That honorary members pay an affiliation fee of 5s. each per annum; (b) that associations in future pay a fee of 5s. per representative per annum.' Mr. Jenkyn said the reason for the proposal was that the Council certainly wanted more money. They were going on to-day with the same affiliation fee that they started with, which, he thought, could hardly be said of anything else. Prices had all gone up, but the Council went on with the same affiliation fee. In these days the associations were considerably better in funds than they were when the Council began.—The Rev. C. A. Clements seconded.

Mr. J. Hunt moved that the portion of the motion relating to hon. members be deleted. His association (Bath and Wells) was quite willing to support the second proposal, and instructed him to vote for it, but they would not tie his hands with regard to the hon. members. The Council, he contended, were not justified in penalising the men who came there at their own expense, after being elected by the Council for the assistance they could give.

Mr. A. H. Pulling, who seconded, said honorary members were placed on the Council for the work they had done or were doing for the Exercise or the Council, and they ought not to ask them to pay five shillings, as well as defray all their own expenses. He thought it would be a 'cheek' to do so. If the Council were short of money, let them say so and go openly to the associations and ask for it.

The amendment was carried by a large majority, and the proposal to impose an affiliation fee on the hon. members was thus defeated.

There was no discussion on the second part of the proposition, to increase the affiliation fee of associations from 2s. 6d. to 5s. per representative, and it was put to the meeting and carried by 44 votes to six.

CONSULTANTS FOR ADVISORY BOARDS.

The Rev. H. Drake proposed: '(a) The Council asks each association to appoint a consultant to the Advisory Committee or Committees in its area. (b) The Council asks each association to make every effort to get as many ringers as possible elected to Parochial Church Councils, to Diocesan Conferences and to the Church Assembly.' Mr. Drake said the resolution had been described as one which the Council carried several years ago. That was not so. The difference was that on the previous occasion they did their best to get the Advisory Committees to recognise the associations and also to get the Parochial Church Councils to recognise the ringers. His present resolution put it the other way round. It asked each association to allocate someone whom the Advisory Committee for the diocese could consult, if they wished to do so, and it also asked each association to make every effort to get as many ringers as possible elected to the Parochial Church Councils, the Diocesan Conferences and the Church Assembly. The ringers, he said, were the best people in the different parishes to put on the Council—they were the most intelligent people (laughter and applause), because their art, as they had found out that day in the difficult questions they had discussed, had taxed the intelligence of the most intelligent people in the country (laughter). Therefore, they were the people who ought to be on the different Councils and who should make up the greater part of each Diocesan Conference and of the Church Assembly (laughter and applause). Why was it necessary to put forward this resolution? Ringers, as a rule, were rather retiring people and the result was they did not get put on the Parochial Church Councils. It seemed to him that it was their duty, as a Council, to do what they could to encourage ringers to stand for election. He hoped, if the resolution was carried, that the members would go back to their parishes and to their dioceses and say that they had been asked to put forward ringers as members of the Councils, members of the Diocesan Conferences and members of the Church Assembly, and, added Mr. Drake, amid laughter, he hoped they would all meet at the first meeting of the new Church Assembly.—Mr. C. J. Sedgley seconded the motion.

Mr. C. H. Howard asked what was the result of the previous resolution that was passed, recommending that on all Diocesan Advisory Boards there should be someone with a knowledge of bells and ringing. The present resolution, he thought, did not go far enough. A consultant was not in such a strong position as a member of the Advisory Board. He was appointed to the Chelmsford Diocesan Advisory Board by the late Bishop. At that time there was an application for a faculty concerning the bells from a certain parish, and the faculty had been refused. Had he been only a consultant he could have done very little, but, being a member, he was able to plead the case and eventually, after first getting the question postponed so that it might be further considered, he succeeded in getting through a unanimous recommendation that the faculty be granted. He was in a much stronger position as a member of the Board, because, as a consultant only, the case would probably have been decided in his absence. If they could get the Boards to allow at least one member from each association, they would be doing a great deal better service than merely asking for a consultant.

The Rev. C. A. Clements said the associations could not appoint anybody to an Advisory Board. It was entirely in the hands of the Bishop and his adviser, the Chancellor of the Diocese.

Mr. Howard said he did not suggest they could appoint anyone, but they could ask the Bishop in each diocese to do so and suggest that the association should nominate a suitable person.

Mr. Beams said what many of them wanted to know was how to get the Bishop's ear.

Mr. J. Hunt said in the Bath and Wells Association they appointed someone as adviser, who acted gratis, and was prepared to go to any church to make inspections and attend any meetings to report.

VARYING EXPERIENCES.

Mr. F. Wilford said in his diocese one or two clergy wrote to the Bishop of Peterborough suggesting that someone should be appointed with a knowledge of bells and ringing to serve on the Board, and the Bishop asked him to do so. If a Bishop were written to by some responsible person, he would no doubt be only too pleased to appoint someone with the necessary knowledge.

Major Hesse said in the Guildford Diocese the Bishop himself told him that he was a member of the Board, but he had never yet been invited to attend a meeting.

The Rev. Tyrwhitt Drake said as a result of the last resolution of the Council he received a request from the Advisory Board in his diocese to serve as a member to deal with questions arising in connection with bells. On leaving that diocese, he wrote to the secretary of the Board and pointed out that they had made no use whatever of his services. Unless a person was a full member of the Board and summoned to every meeting, they forgot his existence. The reply which he received was that no case had come up in his district. He did not like to give the secretary the lie direct, but two cases had come up within 15 miles of his own parish.

The Rev. H. Law James said in the Diocese of Lincoln the secretary of the Board sent him all the papers, in the cases where bells were concerned, and whatever he (Mr. James) told him to do, he did (laughter and hear, hear).

The President said exactly the same thing happened in the Oxford Diocese. There was no single thing to do with bells or towers which did not go first to their Master, Mr. Jenkyn, who made a report to the Advisory Committee, and they did what he recommended. He was much more valuable outside than on the committee.

The Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn said that at first he found himself up against certain members of the Advisory Board, who were mostly antiquarians. He had to fight it out with them: he won, and the purely antiquarians had more or less faded out.

The Rev. H. Drake said his resolution was not opposed to what Mr. Howard had said. There was no reason why they should not have a member on an Advisory Board if they could get one, but that was not a thing they could do as associations. What they could do was to have a consultant. In his diocese their difficulty was the same as it had been in Mr. Jenkyn's. They were supported by one of their Archdeacons and had appointed a consultant if the Advisory Committee chose to consult him. At the present moment it was hopeless to try and get a ringer on the Advisory Committee. He thought, if consultants were appointed, no Advisory Committee would dare to neglect them in the future as they had done in the past.

The resolution was then put and carried.

NOTICE OF THE COUNCIL'S MEETINGS.

Mr. J. S. Goldsmith moved: 'That the rules of the Council be amended in order to provide that the notice and agenda of each annual meeting of the Council be published at least eight weeks, instead of twelve weeks, prior to such meeting.' He said this motion had been framed, in consultation with the hon. secretary, to facilitate the arrangements for the meetings. The present twelve weeks' notice, which was given to enable associations to consider the items on the agenda, had proved to be somewhat too early, as it was found difficult to arrange the business so far ahead. If the notice appeared eight weeks before the meeting, little would be lost, as the four weeks deleted always came in Lent, when few, if any, important association meetings were held.—Mr. C. T. Coles seconded and the motion was carried without discussion.

A MATTER FOR INDIVIDUAL ASSOCIATIONS.

A motion stood on the agenda in the name of Mr. W. Ayre, who, however, was unable to be present through illness. It was as follows: 'That a committee be appointed to consider the best method of dealing with cases of extraordinary sickness amongst members of our affiliated change ringing associations, with power to report to the next annual meeting.'

The hon. secretary, whose name had been put on the agenda as seconder, moved the resolution. He said he did not expect to have to 'father' the resolution, because he only intended to second it 'pro forma,' in order that it might be discussed. He thought, however, there was something in the proposal. Some six or seven years ago it was rather urged there should be some sort of fund for this purpose, and the Council could not go very far wrong if it appointed a small committee to investigate the possibility of a scheme. If the motion was carried, he would suggest a small committee, consisting of Mr. Ayre, himself and one other member. They could then present a report in a year's time.—Mr. James George seconded, saying he thought it would be a very good thing.

Mr. T. Groombridge asked if it was a suitable thing to be taken up by the Council. He thought it was a matter for the associations. Several associations had formed their own benevolent funds, and he was of opinion that each association should run its own fund.

Mr. C. T. Coles said before the Council appointed a committee it should be very careful not to interfere with the financial provisions of the different societies, otherwise it would tread on the tenderest spot of the associations. Some of the associations might be pretty hard pressed to find the additional affiliation fee, but to formulate any plan which would spend some of their funds would be going a bit too far, and he should vote against it.

Mr. P. Crook said a Police Conference, of which he was a member, discussed a similar scheme at great length, and came to the conclusion that it was best to leave each individual place to carry out its own work.

The proposition was lost by a large majority.

THE NEXT MEETING.

The Council was next asked to fix the place for the next meeting. The President said their rules laid it down that the first meeting of a new session should be held in London, so that London was the place for next year. The secretary had been trying to get an invitation from the Archbishop of Canterbury to meet at Lambeth Palace, in the famous and magnificent library, and they had received a telegram saying that, subject to no unforeseen occurrence, the Archbishop would be only too pleased that the Council should meet there, and to welcome them if possible (applause).

'A BIG BUSINESS.'

Mr. James George referred to the fact that a directory of ringers was published by the Bristol United Guilds. It was, of course, by no means complete, and he thought the Council might consider the issue of a book which would contain the names and addresses of all ringers.

The President: That would be a big business. If you wish to discuss it you must draw up a resolution and send it to the secretary, and it can then be debated at the next meeting.

THE PRESIDENT'S RECOVERY.

The Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn said they were all fully aware, but they might be inclined to forget, that that was the first meeting of the Council since the very serious illness and operation of their president. It was perfectly wonderful how he had steered them through the business that day. It had been a trying meeting and difficult, but the way in which Canon Coleridge had gone through it had been perfectly splendid (applause). They were all glad to see him and congratulated him upon his recovery. He proposed a vote of thanks to him for presiding (applause).

Mr. T. Faulkner seconded, and, on behalf of 'the rank and file,' said how gratified they all were that their president had been restored seemingly to his normal health (applause).

'COUNCIL MUST BE KEPT YOUNG.'

The motion having been carried by acclamation, Canon Coleridge replied. He said that during his illness it was a great source of consolation to him to know that he was thought about, and in many cases prayed about, by ringers throughout the length and breadth of England. The best times that he had were when ringers came to see him. One of his visitors was an old man of 80, another was a boy of about 16, who gave up the whole of a Sunday and came a long distance on a bicycle to bring him a dozen eggs. It was most touching. Every Sunday he had visits from ringers, and he knew he was in the thoughts of many others. He was thankful to say that, so far as he knew, he was now in the very best of health (applause). He could not help feeling, however, that age was upon him. Therefore, he wanted them to think most carefully before the next meeting who they were going to elect as their president. He had had the privilege of serving for three sessions—nine years—and on one other occasion he took the chair, which made ten times altogether. By next year he would be 72, and election meant three years' work, and they ought to get a younger man. He had said that before, but he hoped they would bear it in mind this time. Youth must be served, and the Council must be kept young, with new ideas, and not have old fogies foisted upon them (laughter). The President then went on to propose a formal vote of thanks to the Mayor and to the Sub-Dean of Chelmsford for their kindness in welcoming the Council, also and especially to Mr. C. H. Howard and other members of the Essex Association, who had done so much for their comfort and entertainment. The association had done everything it could for them. Members of the Council had been welcomed on the previous day at the jubilee gathering equally with the association's own members, and they had enjoyed themselves immensely. He thanked Mr. Howard and all associated with him for all they had done (applause).

This concluded the meeting, and the members and their friends were afterwards entertained to tea by the Essex Association. Later a social evening was held at the County Hotel.

MIDLAND COUNTIES ASSOCIATION.

SUCCESSFUL MEETING IN PEAK DISTRICT.

A general quarterly meeting of the Midland Counties Association was held on Saturday, and, after what looked like a bad omen (a funeral and a serious illness near by), a successful meeting was held at the fine old Parish Church of Bakewell. Although on account of the funeral matters were held up for a time, eventually the bells were available, and good use made of them until 7.30 p.m. Visitors and friends from Burton, Derby, Dore, Eyam, Leicester, Nottingham and elsewhere arrived. The committee met and carried out the usual routine duties, and on several points made recommendations to the general meeting. Tea was held in the Town Hall, about 40 members being present, but, owing to the influx of other parties, it was not possible to hold the meeting there, so all adjourned to the Church Institute. The vice-president (Mr. J. Griffin) took the chair, and was supported by the general hon. secretary (Mr. E. Morris) and the hon. treasurer (Mr. W. Wallace).

The Chairman first spoke of the great loss the association had sustained in the death of the president, the late Mr. R. B. Chambers, B.A., J.P., and asked all to stand in silence a moment to his respected memory. It was decided to carry on for the rest of the year with the present officers, and the members are asked to think of some gentleman suitable to fill the office of president, but first to make quite sure that anyone so nominated will stand, as certain proposals have failed in the past for the reason of the nominee being unable to take the office.

The following members, elected since the annual meeting, were duly confirmed, viz., 2 honorary, 4 life, 21 ordinary ringing.

A good report of the Central Council meeting at Chelmsford was given by one of the delegates (or representatives), Mr. J. Swinfield, and supplemented by the chairman, Mr. J. Griffin, who is an hon. member of the Council.

Ringers members were asked to pay their subscriptions more regularly and to help all they could with the working of the association. A good start has been made in the formation of the Peak District, and this has added a stimulus to the good work originally begun by the Rev. W. P. Wright, of Eyam, Mr. J. E. Lewis Cockey, of Dore, and others. Several new members have been made, and at Castleton two were now becoming quite proficient. It was hoped all the band would join.

The Rev. W. P. Wright said he would do all he could for these members and for ringers at other towers, and hearty invitations would be given to them to join in at Eyam and Dore, or any other tower where change ringing was done. It was hoped gradually to get in all the towers of the district.

Mr. J. Griffin had to leave the meeting at this juncture, and Mr. W. E. White took his place for the concluding portion, which was principally occupied with the matter of finance trustees. The hon. treasurer explained that since the death of the president, who was joint trustee with Mr. W. Willson for certain War Stock held by the association, the usual notice had been sent to and duly acknowledged by the department dealing with such matters, and Mr. Willson was now sole trustee. The War Savings Certificates held by the late Mr. Chambers were now in the hands of his executors, pending final clearing up of the estate. It was proposed and carried unanimously that these matters stand over—being in quite safe and capable hands—until the annual meeting, when new trustees would be appointed.

Votes of thanks to the Vicar for the bells and to the local men for arrangements were duly passed. Adjourning to the belfry, further ringing was indulged in, ranging from Grandsire to Norfolk and London Surprise.

A FAREWELL.

On Thursday evening, June 27th, as a farewell to the Rev. C. H. Reynolds, who is shortly leaving the parish, a quarter-peal of Doubles (1,260 changes), consisting of Plain Bob and Grandsire, was rung at Huntingfield, Suffolk, by five members of the Halesworth Society: W. Pierce 1, F. C. Lambert (conductor) 2, A. H. Took 3, James Howard 4, C. Moss 5. This was followed by 720 Grandsire, in which R. Kemp, of Huntingfield, rang the treble to his first 720, also 360 Grandsire, with G. Gowan, of the local band, ringing the treble for his first 360.

A young band has been recently formed here, and is making good progress. A six-score of Stedman Doubles concluded the evening's ringing, after which the Rector came to the tower and thanked the ringers for their visit, which he much appreciated. The ringers wished him 'God-speed' and health and happiness upon his retirement.

EGHAM AND MAGNA CHARTA.

In honour of the Prince of Wales' birthday and in connection with the Magna Charta anniversary celebrations, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples was rung at Egham Parish Church on Sunday, June 23rd, in 46 minutes: W. Brants 1, W. Welling (conductor) 2, F. Worsfold 3, E. Goater 4, E. Burley 5, H. Chaffey 6, W. C. Parker 7, W. Peck 8. Rummymede, where King John signed the Charter, is within sound of Egham bells.

BELL RESTORATION.

AN AUTHORITATIVE BOOKLET.

A valuable booklet has been placed in private circulation, entitled 'Bells Old and New,' and deals with various aspects of bell restoration as they concern the Church, the Bell Founder and the Antiquary. It has been written by Mr. Cyril F. Johnston, head of the firm of Messrs. Gillett and Johnston, but, although coming from the pen of such an eminent authority, it is in no sense an advertisement, and no existing bell foundry finds mention in it. The little work is devoted to the enlightenment of all who are interested or concerned with the care of church bells, and is chock-full of information and guidance for the uninitiated. It deals briefly with the modern development of the bell and offers advice with regard to tuning and recasting, which could not be more disinterested if it came from a writer entirely outside the industry. In defence of the bell founders and the suggestions which they make to church authorities when called in to report, Mr. Johnston says:—

'Bell founding and hanging represent a skilled and highly technical trade carried out by only two or three firms in any one country; and the bell founders are normally the only experts. It is, therefore, difficult or impossible to get reliable expert opinion except from the firms engaged in the work. This is where the difficulty lies.

'There is, unfortunately, a tendency to judge the contractor merely from a commercial standpoint, because recasting means, obviously, an additional price. But, if the founder has sound business principles, he knows that only honest advice pays in the end, and that his reputation is built on consistent advocacy of what he believes to be the right course. He will not condemn a bell that is "nearly true within itself," or one that can be corrected satisfactorily, if he knows his work and has the interests of the church, his clients and bells in general at heart—as any successful bellfounder must surely have.'

Mr. Johnston quotes an interesting experiment which was carried out to show that harmonically tuned bells have a greater carrying power than, what we may for convenience call, 'the other sort.' Two bells, one false and one true, were a few years ago taken out to the North Sea on a Trinity House yacht. They were dropped on buoys in the ocean and the yacht drifted away from them, following a course which preserved an equal distance from each bell. At close quarters there was no noticeable difference in the power of each bell (they both weighed the same, viz., 3 cwt.). At a distance of half a mile the false bell ceased to be heard, whilst the true bell continued to be heard up to a distance of a mile.

As to whether or not a bell should be recast, Mr. Johnston says emphatically that if it is really old, but is going to spoil musically a peal that is being restored, it should be retained as a relic in the church and replaced by a new one of proper proportions and of good tone and tune; but where it is false in its harmonics and has no particular claim to antiquity, then it should be recast—if there is not sufficient metal to correct satisfactorily the harmonics. This is a sentiment which all those who have a practical acquaintance with old bells will readily endorse.

A section of the booklet is devoted to bell frames, and in regard to the myth that metal frames affect bell tones adversely, Mr. Johnston points out that actual practice does not bear this out. Tone and tune depend on the skill of the tuner, and the musical effect is influenced by the level of the bells in relation to the louvre openings, the height of the belfry and other proportions of the tower and the surroundings in general.

This booklet is one which should be placed in the hands of all church authorities where restorations are contemplated or needed. It deals with a technical subject without technicalities and contains so much sound advice that it ought to be read by everyone interested in church bells.

Mr. Johnston kindly offers to send a copy of the booklet free to any ringer who applies. Application should be made to Mr. C. F. Johnston at the Bell Foundry, Croydon.

SURREY ASSOCIATION.

A very successful by-meeting of the Southern District was held at Limsfield Chart on Saturday, June 22nd, ringers being present from Seale, Coleman's Hatch, East Grinstead, Crawley, Beddington, Croydon, Merstham, Burstow, Redhill, Reigate, Buckland, Horley and the local band. Tea was partaken of at the Village Hall, 24 sitting down. At the business which followed the Rev. Melville Williams occupied the chair, and thirteen new members were elected, including the Rev. Melville Williams as honorary member, S. Collins, of Seale, Sevenoaks, and eleven members from Kingswood tower as ringing members.

It was decided to hold the next meeting at Redhill in August. Votes of thanks were accorded the Rev. Melville Williams for the use of the bells, for addressing the members at the service, and for presiding at the meeting, also votes of thanks to those who provided the tea, and to those who helped the meeting to success. The tower was again visited, and methods from Grandsire Doubles to London Surprise Minor were rung.

THE METHODS COMMITTEE'S REPORT.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—In spite of Mr. Willson's attempt to confuse the issue, I still stand by all I wrote in my letter of the 8th inst. I have not been wrongly reported, but I have apparently been misunderstood by Mr. Willson. It is difficult to answer all the points he brings in, some of which are quite irrelevant to the main point of my last letter, but I will do my best.

I am not a member of the Methods Committee, and do not necessarily identify myself with anything the members of that committee may have said. It is, therefore, unfair for Mr. Willson to say that I want it both ways. I have never said that rounds at the beginning of Bankes James' Cambridge should count as the first change, and it is quite certain that the Methods Committee is not responsible for that statement. That point was made in 'The Ringing World' when the composition was first published, and it was put in as an argument that the composition thus conformed to the Rules and Decisions of the Council. It is no fault of mine that Mr. Willson did not write to you on the matter at the time.

I am quite aware that there is a repetition in each of the first six 720's of the Bankes James peal, but my argument consists of this: We ring ONE PEAL when we ring seven true and complete 720's, each starting from and ending with rounds. We also ring exactly the same 720 changes, exactly the same number of times, when we ring the Bankes James composition, and some of us also wish to call this A PEAL, i.e., ONE PEAL.

How can the latter be termed 'hopelessly false' when it contains the same 720 changes, exactly the same number of times, as any peal consisting of 'seven true and complete' 720's? To me it is a matter of definition, and the Council is at liberty to alter its definition of a peal at any time, in spite of anything it has previously decided.

This matter will never be settled if the 'hopelessly false' idea is persisted in, to the exclusion of the real issue, i.e., that of defining what peals on six (and five) bells are to consist of. I feel quite sure that if the Council had had before it the Bankes James Cambridge when it first decided what a peal of Minor should consist of, we should have a much different definition to that of 1911-12. Further, because that rule was laid down at a time when the splicing of compositions and methods was practically unknown, is it any reason why changing conditions should not be met? It would be a sorry day for the Exercise if such a peal as the Cambridge is to be banned for fear of opening the door to that 'peal-faking' by unscrupulous conductors that you yourself, Mr. Editor, seem to be afraid of. We should have more faith in members of the Exercise than that.

Members of the Council who were carried away by Mr. Willson's eloquence and his extraordinary illustration of beer and water mixing would do well to read very carefully the eighth paragraph of Mr. Grover's letter in this week's 'Ringing World.' That gentleman's questions are, indeed, very pertinent ones, but are quite justified. Our authority is, of course, that we are members of the Central Council, elected by our various associations. But are we justified in using our votes to condemn a composition, that has been rung 56 times, as 'hopelessly false' when six-bell ringers have shown that they want this peal by ringing it more times than they have rung the 'seven true and complete' 720's of Cambridge Minor during the period that has elapsed since the Bankes James' peal was first published?—Yours faithfully,

C. T. COLES.

P.S.—Will Mr. C. Severn please publish (with your kind permission) the figures of the peal of Cambridge Minor rung at Killamarsh on February 18th, 1928, described as 'including Bankes James' and Severn's arrangements'?

RINGER RETIRES FROM PUBLIC SERVICE.

PRESENTATIONS TO MR. F. W. THORNTON AT GREENWICH.

Mr. Frederick W. Thornton, well known in ringing circles in Kent, has just retired after 40 years' public service. He succeeded his father as messenger to the old Greenwich Vestry, and, upon the incorporation of the borough in 1909, he was appointed Mayor's attendant and mace bearer. In this post he has served under eighteen Mayors, of whom eleven are still living. These have joined in making a presentation to Mr. Thornton on his retirement, and on Wednesday of last week at Greenwich Town Hall Mr. Thornton was the recipient of a gold hunter watch.

The Mayor of Greenwich (Mr. R. F. A. Purkis) paid a warm tribute to Mr. Thornton's long and faithful services, and added that for punctilious rectitude and quiet decorum, which added so much to civic dignity, Mr. Thornton would be difficult to beat.

In the absence of the oldest living ex-Mayor of Greenwich, Sir Ian Hamilton Benn, the presentation was made by the next senior ex-Mayor, Alderman Jackson, who was present when Mr. Thornton was appointed messenger to the old vestry in 1889.

Mr. Thornton, in acknowledging the gift, recalled that throughout his service he had only been absent from one meeting of the old vestry and one of the Council.

From the Town Clerk Mr. Thornton has received an illuminated clock, and from the Town Hall staff an oak clock.

WELDED BELLS.To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—We have read with great interest your report of the discussion on welded bells that took place at the meeting of the Central Council, because the two bells mentioned are amongst the number that have been successfully repaired by the Barimar process during the last few years. We refer to the bell at St. Mary-le-Tower, Ipswich, and the bell mentioned by Major Hesse.

We think that we can safely say that everyone who has respect and regard for objects hallowed by time regrets the breaking up and re-casting of an ancient bell, because it is, of course, a new bell of no historic interest that comes back from the foundry.

Really we cannot understand why so many damaged bells have been dealt with in this way, when they could have been repaired by modern scientific welding methods at a much lower cost. The beauty of many an ancient church has been destroyed by 19th century 'restoration,' and it is distressing to think of the old bells which have been ruthlessly broken up and melted down, merely because of a slight crack which could easily have been welded at trifling cost.

We realise, however, that some of your readers may be more interested in the tone of bells and the technique of change ringing than in the history of old bells, and we would like to point out that the welding of cracked bells should be as attractive to them as to the antiquarian. All enthusiastic bellringers must deplore the fact that so many bells are not rung owing to one or more in the peal being cracked and discordant. The cost of re-casting has been too often quite prohibitive, and, as a result, the bells hang in idleness. On the other hand, the cost of welding the bells could no doubt have been raised, and if the bells had been repaired by this means, they would have been in constant use to-day.

Experience shows that a welded bell stands up to continual ringing as well as a new bell, and we say without fear of contradiction that the tone of the bell is restored. This, we think, is proved without a shadow of doubt by the repair carried out to No. 7 in the famous peal at St. Mary-le-Tower, Ipswich.

It, therefore, appears to us that from the points of view of both antiquarian and bellringer, the repair of cracked and damaged bells by scientific welding is a policy highly to be recommended.—Yours faithfully,

DEATH OF MR. YORK GREEN.VETERAN COMPOSER PASSES AWAY AT CAMBRIDGE.

We regret to announce the death of Mr. York Green, who passed away at his residence in Cambridge early on Sunday morning. The deceased gentleman, who was 77 years of age, had been in failing health for some considerable time, and had done no ringing for over twelve months.

He came to Cambridge in the early seventies, joining the Cambridge Youths in 1875, but soon afterwards left for London, where he was employed at Stratford Works until his retirement.

In London he became associated with many prominent ringers of the day, made many friends amongst the College Youths, and rang several peals for that society. He was a composer of considerable ability in various methods, and many of his compositions still find favour amongst peal ringers.

Retiring to Cambridge in 1922, he rejoined the Cambridge Youths and rang a few peals for the Fly Association, his last being at Fulbourn in 1926. Always of modest and obliging disposition, he was ever ready to help the beginner and to take a rope when his health permitted. He will be much missed.

BENEVOLENT SCHEMES IN THE EXERCISE

The question of how best to deal with cases of extraordinary sickness amongst members of the Exercise was one of the subjects which came before the Central Council, but as will have been seen from the report in our last issue, even the appointment of a committee to investigate the matter did not find approval. Unhappily there arise occasionally instances in which ringers fall upon evil times; when sickness or incapacity leads to a more than ordinary drain upon domestic finances and inflicts a hardship which the man's means are unable to meet. In such cases ringers have constantly shown themselves ready to lend a helping hand, but the help is largely of the haphazard kind, with little or no organisation behind it. In Kent and in Sussex, the associations have established benevolent funds which have done some extremely valuable work, by acting independently, or by being able to supplement, at the moment when it is most necessary, any effort made in local circles. There may be one or two other associations which do likewise, and it was obviously the feeling of the Council that this is the direction in which any aid for distressed ringers should be organised.

The difficulties of a more centralised scheme would, of course, be considerable. In the mass, ringers are an apathetic body, and while they would in all probability resent anything in the shape of a per capita levy for a benevolent fund, they would by their very lassitude make the collection of a voluntary contribution, however small, an almost impossible task, and one for which few if any association secretaries would care to make themselves responsible. We believe that a good deal of the funds which are already in existence has been accumulated from offertories at meetings. It is a well known fact, of course, that association meetings, for the most part, are attended by a limited circle of the more enthusiastic members and consequently the swelling of the benevolent funds is largely dependent on the generosity of a comparative few. And that is most likely what would happen in the case of any larger fund of a voluntary kind—its maintenance would devolve upon a minority of the Exercise.

The only effective way to finance such a fund, so that all contributed, would be by an annual proportionate charge upon each association and to propose that, or anything like it, would, as the secretary of the Middlesex Association pointed out, be treading on a very tender spot. A central benevolent fund, supported by the associations, could only be set up by whole-hearted co-operation and good will throughout the Exercise, but the motion which stood in Mr. Ayre's name did not go as far as asking for such a fund, or, indeed, of suggesting any scheme. It merely asked for a committee to investigate the best method of dealing with extraordinary cases, and we are inclined to agree with the proposer (Mr. E. A. Young) that the Council would not have gone very far wrong if it had adopted the motion to see what the possibilities were.

GRANDSIRE TRIPLES IN U.S.A.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I am glad of an excuse to send a message from our small group of American ringers to the many friends in England who encourage us to keep the Exercise alive in this country. The excuse is to report a pleasant trip to Groton School by four members of the Boston band, who, with ringers from the school, rang for morning service, and afterwards brought round several well-struck touches of Grandsire Triples.

The Boston men were R. Newton, J. R. Henson, J. Goodhead and W. Bashford, while members of the school who stood in with them were F. Potter, A. M. Brown, S. Whitney, S. W. Sturgis, S. H. Sturgis and W. Sturgis.

The 'go' of our bells is now excellent, since a year ago, when we shipped the headstocks to England and had ball bearings installed by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank.

Groton, Mass., U.S.A.

DOVER RINGER'S SUDDEN DEATH.

We regret to record the death of Mr. Richard Stevens, who was for over 16 years a prominent member of St. Mary's Bellringers, Dover. 'Dick,' as he was familiarly called in the town, was well known in the Canterbury and Ashford districts, where he had rung many peals in various methods. He was also a clever handbell ringer.

His death occurred suddenly at Southampton on Thursday, June 20th. On Friday, June 28th, the bells at St. Mary's, Dover, were rung half-muffled in three of his favourite methods.

EVERCREECH RINGERS' OUTING.

On Saturday, June 22nd, the Evercreech ringers, under the leadership of their esteemed captain, Mr. R. Whitehead, and accompanied by the Vicar and friends, had their eleventh annual outing. The party left Evercreech at 7 p.m. for Torquay by charabanc. At St. Thomas, Exeter, a touch of 630 Grandsire Triples was rung. Paignton was reached at 1.15 and at Dellers' a hot lunch was partaken of. Arriving at Torquay, a trip by motor launch to Brixham and back was much enjoyed. After tea the return journey started. At Taunton a break was made for supper, and home was reached shortly after 11 p.m. The weather throughout the day was ideal. Many thanks are due to the captain for his untiring energies in making this outing so delightfully enjoyable.

BRAINTREE RINGERS VISIT SUFFOLK.

The ringers of St. Michael's Church, Braintree, had their annual outing on Saturday, June 29th, when they visited some of the churches in Suffolk. Lavenham was the first stop, and these fine old bells were set going to Double Norwich and Cambridge Surprise. Then on to Stonham Aspell, where Grandsire and Stedman Caters were brought round.

Eye was the next stopping place, and, after more Double Norwich and Cambridge, luncheon was partaken of. Wilby, with its bells recently augmented to eight, came next on the list, and here an excellent touch of Superlative Surprise was rung. Thence to Framlingham, where Stedman Triples, Double Norwich and Cambridge were each brought round. Ipswich was reached about 6 p.m., and after tea St. Mary-le-Tower was visited. There, with the aid of some of the local company, Grandsire and Stedman Caters, Stedman Cinques and Kent Treble Bob Maximus were rung. A very enjoyable day was spent, and the ringers wish to thank the incumbents of the churches visited for the use of the bells, and also all the local ringers who helped to make the outing such a success.

MILNROW RINGERS AT LOUGHBOROUGH.

The ringers of Milnrow Parish Church, Lancs, and a few friends visited Loughborough for their annual outing. Messrs. Taylor and Co. have in hand the retuning and rehangings of the Milnrow bells, and the inspection of the celebrated foundry, therefore, had special interest for the party. Travelling by saloon coach via Stockport, Buxton and Matlock, breakfast was served at Belper. Loughborough was reached by 11.30 and at the foundry the visitors were received by Mr. C. Harrison and Mr. J. P. Fidler, representing Messrs. Taylor and Co., and conducted through the works, where the Milnrow bells, now retuned, were an object of special interest. Another 'job' which attracted special attention was a carillon. The ringers then turned their attention to the foundry peal, but the lightness of the bells defeated their attempts to bring round a touch. Visiting the Parish Church, however, they brought round touches of Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Bob Major and Kent Treble Bob on the five bells. On the return journey a stop was made at Derby for tea and ringing on the bells at the Cathedral, and the journey home was then resumed via Ashbourne, Leek, Macclesfield and Manchester, Milnrow being reached about 11.30 p.m. after a splendid day. The ringers desire to thank Messrs. Harrison and Fidler for conducting them through the foundry, and the authorities at Loughborough Church and Derby Cathedral for permission to ring.

THE NATIONAL THANKSGIVING.

CHURCH BELLS PLAY A TRADITIONAL PART.

Wherever there was a ringable peal of bells and a band of ringers to handle them, the bells in the churches throughout the land joined on Sunday in the 'national thanksgiving' to Almighty God for his good Providence whereby our Most Gracious Sovereign has been delivered from severe illness to the comfort of the whole Realm, and for the signal love and loyalty of his people made manifest in the time of trouble.' For centuries the church bells of England have played a part upon great national occasions in expressing the feelings of the public and on Sunday their notes resounded over city and hamlet, hill and dale calling the people to join in the service of thanksgiving or adding by some peal or touch a special distinction to the day.

Ringling in many places began on Saturday with a peal, and here are the records of some of the peals specially rung in connection with the Thanksgiving:—

SOME OF THE THANKSGIVING TOUCHES.

In many places circumstances did not permit of peals being attempted, but long touches were scored. In the Guildford Diocese an organised effort was made to secure the ringing of the bells at distinctive times, in addition to the usual service hours, and at many places there was ringing after the morning or evening service, or in the afternoon. At several churches, also, following out the suggestion made in these columns, the bells were rung for two or three minutes at a central point in the thanksgiving service itself, and where this was done the effect was most impressive.

Among the records of Sunday's lesser performances were the following:—

For Thanksgiving service at Brewood, Staffs, a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples (1,260 changes) in 46 mins.: F. I. Blewitt 1, H. Hood 2, J. Yarroll 3, A. E. Winterton 4, G. Warner 5, P. Bill 6, J. Perry (conductor) 7, T. Perry 8.

A RECORD FOR THE KING.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I desire to remind those affiliated to the Central Council that it was decided to tabulate the peals rung in celebration of the King's recovery, and send His Majesty the statement with the expression of our gratitude to the Almighty. This was to be done as soon after Thanksgiving Day as would be found possible.

In view of the above, I would suggest that any such peals be rung within the next fortnight and published in 'The Ringing World.'—

Yours faithfully,
155, Rushey Green, S.E.6.

Mr. J. C. Cherry, son of the late Lord Chief Justice Cherry, of Dublin, has recently taken his medical degree, and is now holding an appointment in a London Hospital. Mr. Cherry has scored several peals, but his pursuit of ringing has, of course, been restricted by his studies.

Mr. Ernest Morris has just been appointed as hon. consultant on bells, etc., to the Advisory Committee of Leicester Diocese, and has already been called upon to report on one ring of bells.

In addition to his ringing activities, which include the secretaryship of the Midland Counties Association, Mr. Morris is a member of the Leicestershire Archaeological Society, and has written a history of St. Margaret's Church, Leicester (transcribed from three ancient registers). He has also revised North's 'Church Bells of Leicestershire' up to date, and is now engaged upon a 'History of Change Ringing.'

At Pinner, Middlesex, four of the local band, who have been under the instruction of Messrs. G. and H. Kilby, scored their first peal last Saturday, and another rang his first peal of Triples. The 'first pealers' included Mr. T. Humphreys, who is 67, and rang the tenor; and Mr. Charles Lord, who is 72. Mr. James George is a native of Pinner, and it seems, even now, that he will have to look to his laurels.

A correspondent writes to ask whether the Londoners who visited Birmingham on Saturday now thoroughly understand what is meant by 'ye Nelson Touch,' and whether it is a fact that one distinguished visitor found it necessary to take off his coat, so as thoroughly to enjoy the said 'touch'?

Mr. F. E. Dawc, who recently visited Inverness, found the bells in the Cathedral in a very dilapidated condition.

The first peal of Erin Caters was rung 20 years ago to-day at North Shields.

The opening of the ring of twelve bells at St. Chad's, Shrewsbury, took place on July 18th, 1798, and on that occasion the College Youths rang a peal of Grandsire Cinquses.

The ringer of the fourth in the peal at East Peckham was Tom, not Sam, Saunders.

The bells of St. Martin's, Birmingham, will be broadcast on Sunday evening, from 7.50 to 8 p.m.

SECESSION OF GLOUCESTER AND BRISTOL.

To the Editor.

Sir,—Mr. Guise's long letter calls only for one or two remarks.

The idea that the Central Council is 'in existence to create Sunday service church bellringers' is quite new to me. I always looked on this as being the work of the associations, the work of the Council being to give advice to the associations, and through them to their members, who are already ringers.

'You are not here as a delegate.' It seems useless to try and explain to Mr. Guise, as I thought and hoped that I had done in my last letter, that these words of the president do not, and neither the president nor anyone else can, prevent a member of Council from considering himself, and acting in all respects as if he were, a delegate. By doing so, he merely lowers his own status quite gratuitously.

In his allusion to the discussion on diplomas at the jubilee meeting of the Gloucester and Bristol Association last year, Mr. Guise accuses me of putting an end to the subject 'without full discussion.' I must leave my conduct in the chair to the judgment in general of those who were present. There is certainly no hint of such action on my part in your report of the meeting in 'The Ringing World' of June 1st, 1928, and your correspondent was within a couple of yards of the chair throughout the meeting. I adhere to your report of what I did and said.—Yours faithfully,

CHARLES D. P. DAVIES.

APPEAL FOR ECKINGTON RINGER.

In response to the appeal made in our columns a fortnight ago on behalf of Mr. Alfred West, a ringer of Eckington, who is totally incapacitated, and who has a young family dependent upon him, the following contributions have been received:—

	s.	d.
Windermere Parish Church Ringers	...	14 0
W. Pole Routh (Reading)	...	10 0
Wm. Pickworth (Southgate)	...	5 0
W. H. Fussell (Slough)	...	5 0
A. W. G.	...	10 0
A Ringer	...	2 6
	£2	6 6

These gifts are thankfully acknowledged by Mr. T. A. Howes Smith, The Yews, Eckington, near Sheffield, to whom any subscription should be sent.

Mr. West has been a Sunday service ringer for nearly forty years, and his present illness follows upon a serious injury in a coal mine some years ago. The circumstances of the case and the pressing need make this an instance in which members of the Exercise can render invaluable help by a generous response to the appeal.

BELLS OF HATHERLEIGH RECAST. A DEVON RESTORATION.

The old eight bells at Hatherleigh, Devon, cast by Thomas Bilbie, of Cullompton, have been recast by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank, of the Whitechapel Bell Foundry, and rehung with all new fittings in the old frame. The work, together with the provision of a new clock, has been carried out at the expense of the Misses E. and H. Churchward in memory of their brother, Mr. George Gould Churchward. The bells, with tenor of 14 cwt. in E, are tuned on the five-tone harmonic principle, and are hung with the latest type of fittings. The oak frame, which was only about forty years old, has been reconstructed and strengthened and mounted on a double foundation of steel girders. The ringing chamber has been restored to its original position, about halfway up, thereby reducing the draught by about 30 feet. The inscription on the tenor bell is: 'Thomas Bilbie, fecit, Cullompton, Revd. G. Glascott, Vicar. John Southcombe and John Turner, jun., Churchwardens, 1813. These eight bells were recast and rehung in memory of George Gould Churchward by his sisters Elizabeth and Heroine. A.D. 1929. J. C. Rossiter, Vicar; F. W. Down and S. Palmer, wardens.'

The other bells bear the inscription: 'T.B. 1813. Recast by M. and S., 1929, of London.' The work of erecting the clock, which is to have Westminster chimes, will be begun shortly.

The dedication of the bells was performed by the Bishop of Exeter in the presence of a very large congregation, and following the dedicatory prayers the bells were rung while the Bishop and clergy returned to the chancel from the ringing chamber. The ringers were Messrs. E. Palmer (captain, who has been a ringer at the Parish Church for close upon 60 years), W. Ellacott, J. Short, A. Luxton, G. Weeks, S. Causeley, G. Short, and Tuck. All were agreed that the recasting and rehanging have effected a marked improvement. Everybody spoke very enthusiastically about the tone and 'go' of the bells.

In his address, the Bishop spoke of the early uses of towers and bells, and said that he understood that in Devonshire at the time of the Spanish Armada they were set ringing in all the towns and villages in the county to call men to arms. The bells were used for different purposes. They were rung not only to give the alarm in danger, but also at festivals. Their most important use, however, was to call the people to worship. 'The bells called us together in a body,' said the Bishop; 'don't let us think of ourselves only as a parish, but remember we all belong to one another. Do not regard other denominations as outsiders. Remember that a great army has many regiments with different forms of discipline. We are all fighting the same great enemy. When we hear the bells it is a call to arms. We must remember that we Christians are a great body, and we have a great enemy, and in the end we shall win the Kingdom.'

After the service the bells were rung both by the local men and visiting ringers. The Town Band also gave selections at intervals in the Market Square.

WINCHESTER AND PORTSMOUTH DIOCESAN GUILD.

A quarterly meeting of the Andover District was held at Laverstoke and Whitechurch on Saturday, June 29th, members attending from Andover, Binfeld, Overton, North Stoneham, Highclere, Winchester, Woolton Hill, Wootton St. Lawrence and Laverstoke. A service, with an excellent address, was conducted by the Rector, Rev. W. Wragge, who welcomed the members to the tower. Tea was served at Laverstoke Mills canteen, followed by the usual business meeting, at which the Rector presided.

Although quite a number of towers were represented, the number of members was small. However, good use was made of the bells, especially for the junior members, who had their first touch in various methods. It often happens that where a large gathering is present the younger members do not get so much opportunity to ring, and so get discouraged.

During the afternoon and evening touches of the following methods were rung: Grandsire and Stedman Doubles, Plain Bob, Kent Treble Bob, Cambridge Surprise Minor at Laverstoke, and Grandsire and Stedman Triples at Whitechurch.

A SEVENTEEN HOUR TRIP.

On Saturday, June 22nd, the annual outing of the St. Mary-le-Tower Society of Ringers, Ipswich, took place. Seventeen members started at 6 a.m. in a motor saloon, and by eight o'clock breakfast was being partaken of at the Blue Boar Hotel, Maldon. Ringing was indulged in at the triangular steeple of All Saints' Church, and also on the six bells at St. Mary's. Other towers visited were Galleywood, Widford, Writtle, and, after ringing at Writtle, the company had the pleasure of witnessing a cricket match in progress, also of listening to a well-struck attempt for a peal of Superlative Surprise Major by officers of the Essex Association.

Upon reaching Great Waltham a splendid dinner awaited the company at Ye Olde Six Bells Hotel, which gave them renewed vigour to manipulate the ropes attached to the heavy bells there. The last place was Chelmsford Cathedral, where a good course of New Cambridge Surprise Maximus was rung. The ringing throughout the day included methods up to London Surprise Major. The society wishes to thank all steeplekeepers and others who helped to make this 17-hour outing so successful.

ST. COLUMB'S CATHEDRAL, LONDONDERRY, IRELAND

The bells of this Cathedral were probably the oldest peal of eight in Ireland. One was 'recast for Londonderry steeple' in 1614. Another was given in 1630. Five more were added by King Charles I. in 1638, and the last was the gift of the citizens in 1671. These have now been recast by Messrs. Gillett and Johnston, of Croydon, with five additional bells, the tenor weighing 32 cwt., and the total weight being 7 tons 13 cwt.

A dedication service will be held on Thursday, July 25th, at 6.30 p.m., when the Bishop of Derry will officiate, and the preacher will be the Lord Primate of All Ireland (Dr. D'Arcy).

After the service the bells will be rung by ringers from St. Patrick's Cathedral, Dublin. The B.B.C. will broadcast the dedication and bells from 6.30 p.m. till 7.45 p.m. Those who hear the bells on the wireless are invited to communicate their impressions to the hon. secretary of the Cathedral, James Trimble, Chapter House, Derry Cathedral, Londonderry. Their letters will be preserved amongst the records of these historic bells.

The collection at this service will be for the purpose of providing a memorial tablet to two heroes of the siege of Derry who lie side by side in the North Aisle, Colonel Baker, one of the governors of the city, and Captain Browning, captain of the 'Mountjoy,' killed at the breaking of the boom when the city was relieved. For two hundred and forty years their graves have remained without so much as their names being inscribed over them. Those who have read Macaulay know how much the Empire owes to these men, and it is hoped that within the next year a memorial worthy of the Empire, and of such loyal and devoted service as they gave, may mark their resting place.

Ringers able to attend will be heartily welcomed.

ESSEX ASSOCIATION.

A very successful meeting of the Northern Division of the Essex Association was held at Colne Engine on Saturday. A short service was held in the Parish Church, at which the Rector, Rev. J. W. Dunne, officiated, and gave an excellent address. Tea and meeting followed at the Five Bells Inn. Mr. A. Saunders, the District Master, presided, supported by the Rector, Mr. C. H. Howard (Master), Mr. W. J. Nevard (District Master, N.E. Division), Mr. E. J. Butler (hon. sec., S.W. Division), and upwards of 30 members from Earls Colne, Colne Engine, Halstead, Greenstead Green, Braintree, Sible Hedingham, West Bergholt, Great Bentley, Great Yeldham, Wickham St. Paul, and Romford. The whole of the young local band, eight members, who are receiving instruction from Mr. F. Claydon, of Earls Colne, and making rapid progress, were elected members of the association.

It was decided to hold the next meeting at Gestingthorpe early in September, and the annual district meeting at Braintree in November.

A vote of thanks was passed to the Rector for the use of the bells and his address, and to the organist for his services, also to those who provided the tea.

During the evening a visit was paid by Miss Courtauld, by whose generosity the tower has been restored and the ring of six rehung. She expressed herself delighted with the enthusiasm of the ringers and her appreciation of the handbell ringing arranged especially for her benefit.

Touches in various methods, ranging from Bob Minor to London Surprise, were rung during the day.

SUSSEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

EASTERN DIVISION.

A most successful meeting of the Eastern Division was held at Ringmer on Saturday, June 29th, 35 members attending, representing Brighton (St. Peter's, St. Nicholas), and Church of the Good Shepherd, St. Saviour's (Eastbourne), Heathfield, Mayfield, Merstham, Southover, Christ Church (St. Leonards), and members of the local band. Mr. J. H. Shepherd, of Swindon, was also present. The tower was opened for ringing at 2.30, and the bells were kept going merrily until about 7.30 p.m. in methods ranging from Grandsire Triples to London Surprise Major.

Owing to a prior engagement, the Rector (Rev. the Hon. Campbell Douglas) was not present, and therefore there was no service. The Rector, however, provided a splendid tea for the members in the Parish Room, Mr. W. J. Wilmshurst, churchwarden, presiding, and the wives of the local ringers very kindly waiting upon the gathering.

At the business meeting which followed, Mr. Wilmshurst occupied the chair, and on behalf of the Rector and himself offered an enthusiastic welcome to the members of the association.—The Hon. Secretary, in responding, thanked Mr. Wilmshurst for his kind remarks, and asked him to convey to the Rector the best thanks of the members for the use of the bells and for the splendid tea which had been provided.

Mr. W. D. Smith, supporting the motion, also thanked Mr. Wilmshurst for his kindness in coming amongst them, and also for presiding at the tea and meeting; he also thanked the ladies who so kindly waited upon the members at tea.

At the close of the meeting the sum of 12s. 6d. was collected for the Benevolent Fund.

GUILDFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

A MESSAGE FROM THE KING.

'The King sincerely thanks the members of the Guildford Diocesan Guild of Church Bellringers assembled at their annual festival for their kind and loyal greetings.'

This royal message was received by the Master of the Guildford Diocesan Guild during the summer festival at Haslemere on Saturday in response to a telegram sent by the members of the Guild conveying their respectful greetings to His Majesty upon his recovery.

This was one of the interesting features of an extremely successful gathering attended by over a hundred members and visitors, who came from, among other places, Aldershot, Bagshot, Bramshott, Cobham, Dorking, Farnham, Guildford (Cathedral and St. Nicolas'), Godalming, Haslemere, Hawley, London, Leatherhead, Ottershaw, Walton, West Clandon, Woking, etc. The beautiful peal of ten bells, the tenor of which is only 13 cwt., and which can be heard perfectly both inside and outside the tower, were kept busily engaged in the afternoon, in rounds for the least experienced and Grandsire Doubles, up to Cambridge Surprise Royal, so that everyone who desired might ring. Quite a large proportion of the members travelled by road, and visited Chiddingfold on the way, where the eight bells were utilised during the afternoon.

Haslemere Church, which has associations with Tennyson, was the centre of the proceedings, and the festival service was well attended. In the absence of the Rector, the Rev. O. S. Walford officiated, and the singing of the hymns was led by a piano, the organ being at present under reconstruction.

A RINGING LESSON FROM THE PULPIT.

The preacher was Canon G. F. Coleridge, president of the Central Council, and his homely address was as from one ringer to others. His text was, 'I was glad when they said unto me we will go into the House of the Lord' (Psalm cxlii. 1). He spoke of the joy of service and of the privilege which ringers had of devoting their skill, their intellect and their strength to serving God in His House. Ringing, he said, was not a very easy thing to learn, and it took a lifetime to become perfect in it. He emphasised the need for perseverance and punctuality. A ringer was not worth much, in his opinion, if he was content to ring the same old thing week by week. God had given him a brain and hands to work and the ability to do something better than he had done before. There was a duty of punctuality due from every ringer. No hand could ever excel unless every member of the band was punctual on the stroke of the hour. The waste of time caused by unpunctual ringers was really terrible.

The preacher next referred to a conversation which he had had before the service with a youthful ringer, and then, quite spontaneously, there came from him a simple lesson to other young ringers present upon how to master Stedman. He added that they must not expect to leap before they could walk, and they must grasp the simple things thoroughly. They must be persevering at home with pencil and paper, and persevering and punctual in the tower at practice. If they would excel at practice it would be the greatest joy of their lives, Sunday by Sunday, to know that it was their privilege to call others to the House of God with the very best touch they could ring. It need not be in a very intricate method—he would sooner hear rounds struck perfectly than a five thousand with false blows in it. Especially on the morrow it would be a privilege to feel that they were among those who would voice the joy and thanksgiving for the restoration to health of their Sovereign Lord the King.

After service, a substantial meat tea was served in the schoolroom. The Rev. O. S. Walford, who is a great friend of the Haslemere ringers, presided, supported by Major J. H. B. Hesse (Master), Admiral T. P. Walker (hon. treasurer), and Mrs. Walker. Mr. Walter Harrison (vice-president), Canon G. F. Coleridge (president of the Central Council), Rev. A. W. Armitstead (Hawley), Mr. J. S. Goldsmith (hon. secretary), etc.

The Hon. Secretary subsequently said there was no business to transact at that meeting, but there were one or two things he wanted to mention. As the day of their summer festival was the eve of the Thanksgiving for the King's recovery from his serious illness, the Master of the Guild, the hon. treasurer, and hon. secretary came to the conclusion that it would be a fitting opportunity for them to send a message of congratulation to His Majesty. Accordingly that afternoon they sent this telegram: 'Lord Stamfordham, Buckingham Palace, London. The members of the Guildford Diocesan Guild of Church Bellringers now assembled at Haslemere for our annual festival, humbly submit to His Most Gracious Majesty the King our loyal and respectful greetings upon the recovery of His Majesty from his recent grievous illness. We shall join in the celebrations to-morrow by special bellringing, so that the church bells all over this diocese shall play their traditional part in the great national thanksgiving. Major J. H. B. Hesse (Master of the Guild), Admiral T. P. Walker (treasurer), J. S. Goldsmith (secretary).' (Applause.) Mr. Goldsmith said he would like to add that there was a certain personal touch in one of the signatures to that telegram. Admiral Walker had been a shipmate of His Majesty, and he believed that when the King, as Duke of York, toured in Australian waters, Admiral Walker was on His Majesty's staff. He hoped the King would recognise the name again when he saw it on the telegram (applause).

The reply, received later in the evening, is quoted above.

THE WINCHESTER GUILD JUBILEE.

Mr. Goldsmith went on to say that as many of them knew the old Winchester Diocesan Guild, now the Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild, from which the Guildford Diocesan Guild sprang, was that day celebrating its jubilee. It was most unfortunate that the two events clashed. Originally they had hoped the two festivals would have been a joint affair, but the Winchester Guild began to have some qualms as to the wisdom of having to bring their members across Hampshire to a place which was rather inaccessible to them. The result was that the Winchester Guild decided to give up the suggestion for a joint festival and were holding their jubilee at Winchester. Unfortunately they fixed it for the same day as the Guildford Guild festival, which had already been fixed. He was sorry that the Winchester Guild had not chosen another day, as many members of the Guildford Guild would like to have been with them. But as they could not be with them in person they wanted them to know that they were with them in spirit. They had therefore sent this telegram to the Master: 'Guildford Diocesan Guild assembled at summer festival, send hearty greetings and congratulations upon jubilee, and best wishes for continued success and prosperity of Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild.—Hesse, Master.' (Applause.)

In connection with the Winchester Diocesan Guild, some of them knew that a memorial was erected to the memory of the Rev. C. E. Matthews, a former Master of the Guild. That memorial took the shape of new bells at his old church of Milford-on-Sea, and Mr. Pullinger, the secretary of the Winchester Guild, had received from the founders of those bells two excellent photographs. He had sent him a letter with one copy of the photograph, in which he said the would like to offer it to the Guildford Guild as a small token of appreciation of the help which he received from the members in raising funds for the memorial to the Rev. C. E. Matthews. If the picture was accepted, he suggested, subject to the approval of the authorities, that when framed the photograph should be placed in the Cathedral chamber or some other tower prominently associated with the old Guild. Mr. Goldsmith assumed that the Guild would be pleased to accept this picture, and that the arrangements as to its destination be left to the officers of the Guild and the authorities of the Cathedral or some other church. In conclusion, Mr. Goldsmith referred to the illness of Mr. Bernard Clark, until recently secretary of the Farnham District. He was now in hospital having been involved in a severe motor accident which would probably keep him from work for more than six months. He had a fractured thigh and other injuries. With the approval of the meeting he proposed to send a letter to Mr. Clark expressing their regret at his inability to be present and their best wishes for his speedy recovery (applause).

Mr. Walter Harrison said he did not propose to make a speech, but in obedience to instructions he had to propose one or two votes of thanks, if they were going to do their duty as a Guild. First of all, to the Rev. E. P. Pelloe, of Chiddingfold, and the Rev. G. S. Richards, of Godalming, to whom they owed thanks for the use of their towers in connection with the festival that day. They regretted the absence of the Rev. J. M. La F. McNally, Rector of Haslemere, who was, unfortunately for them, away in Scotland, but they welcomed the Rev. O. S. Walford, who, he learned, was an assistant priest in Haslemere some 50 years ago. They were very pleased to greet him, and to see him in the chair. They also wanted to voice their thanks to Major Hesse and Mr. Richard Hayes for the excellent local arrangements they had made for the festival at Haslemere. Those arrangements had gone off very well. Walking up from the station he was much struck by the beautiful tone of the bells. They really sounded most delightful, as they came across the country. They owed one other expression of thanks, and that was to the organist, who had played the piano in church. They were very grateful to him, and, finally, he had to mention their old friend, Canon Coleridge, both for his presence and for his address. They rejoiced to see him fully restored to health after his serious illness.

Major Hesse seconded the vote of thanks, and said he was pleased to see such a good attendance at the festival. He was sorry that a few he had expected had not arrived, but he hoped that all who were present had thoroughly enjoyed themselves. He was particularly glad to see his old friend, Mr. Walford. He had had a great trouble to get him to sit where he was, but he had always been interested in bells and bellringers wherever he had been, and all of them were pleased to see him in the chair.—The motion was carried by acclamation.

The Rev. O. S. Walford, in reply, said it had been mentioned that he was a parish priest in Haslemere 50 years ago. He was afraid that it was even 58 years ago that he first came to Haslemere. He was sorry that the Rector was unable to be present, but he would be pleased to hear of the success of the festival when he told him about it.—Canon Coleridge also replied, and said he was pleased to see so many young ringers present. Some of them were old and

ST. MARTIN'S GUILD.LINK WITH HONOURED NAME RENEWED.

The quarterly meeting of St. Martin's Guild for the Diocese of Birmingham was held on Saturday, July 6th, at the Parish Church of St. Margaret, Great Barr, near Birmingham. The church has several interesting features connected with it. The porch and tower were restored in 1892, but built into the wall of the porch there is a stone which shows that the original was erected by George Merihurst in 1677. In the church are many fine stained glass windows; and in the chancel and on the wall of the north aisle preserved in glass cases are some almost priceless tapestry altar frontals. The tower contains a light peal of six, the front five cast by Edward Arnold, of Leicester, in 1796, and the tenor recast by Carr, Smethwick, in 1924. The ringing chamber has recently been painted, and is a credit to the authorities and the young band of ringers who ring there. It is here surely where the most ancient ladder in existence is in regular use. In order to reach the bells one has to ascend by it, and engraved on the side is the date 1715 a.c. The writer of these notes, however, was unable to obtain any reliable information to vouch for its accuracy.

About 24 members sat down to an excellent tea at the Beacon Inn, and this was followed by the business meeting. In the unavoidable absence of the presiding Ringing Master, Alderman J. S. Pritchett, M.A., Mr. Vice-President Paddon Smith proposed that Lieut. W. H. Hallsworth, of the Indian Army, now at home on leave, should take the chair. He remarked that the name of Hallsworth was an honoured one in connection with the St. Martin's Guild, Matthew Hallsworth, grandfather of Lieut. Hallsworth, having rung many peals in the Bull Ring.—Lieut. Hallsworth, in accepting, stated that although he had not done any ringing on tower bells in this country for 32 years, he was, however, keenly interested in the art of change ringing. He was happy to be present that afternoon, and would also like to become an honorary member of the Guild.—On the proposition of Mr. Smith, seconded by Mr. Johnson, and supported by the secretary, he was unanimously elected an honorary member.

Owing to the absence of the Deputy Ringing Master, Mr. Albert Walker, who was engaged in 'fathering' a company of London ringers to the city, the Secretary reported that the scheme for the restoration of Aston bells, although not to be put in hand immediately, had not been dropped, but would be proceeded with as soon as a small remaining debt on the organ fund had been cleared off.

It was decided to hold the next quarterly meeting at Edgbaston Parish Church on the first Saturday in October.

Votes of thanks to the Vicar for the use of the bells, to Mr. Merriam for having everything ready, and to the chairman for presiding, concluded the meeting.

A return was made to the tower, where some excellent touches in various methods from Grandsire Doubles to Cambridge Surprise Minor were successfully brought round, four lady ringers taking part.

Lieut. Hallsworth also took part in the ringing, and although he had not handled a rope for so long managed to ring the treble through a touch.

Although the attendance was not all that could be wished, yet the meeting was a most enjoyable one.

NEWCASTLE'S 'GREAT RINGER' DAY.

To-morrow will be a great day at Newcastle, when members of the Diocesan Guild and ringers from all over the North of England will be the guests of the 'Newcastle Evening Chronicle' and Messrs. Gillett and Johnston at the North-East Coast Exhibition, where they will inspect the Wellington (New Zealand) carillon, which was cast at the Croydon Foundry. Mr. Clifford E. Ball is to give a demonstration, and afterwards the visiting ringers and their friends will be entertained to tea, and will be welcomed by the Lord Mayor. In the evening there is to be a musical gathering at the 'Chronicle' Hall.

LEEDS AND DISTRICT SOCIETY.

The June monthly meeting was held at Rothwell, and members were present from Armley, Batley, Headingley, St. Chad's, Lindley, Guiseley, Drighlington, and the local company. Four new members were elected. The methods rung were Plain Bob and Little Bob Major, Kent and Oxford Treble Bob Major, Stedman Triples and Double Norwich Major. Special attempts were made on the last-named method by various ringers, and it is again to be the special practice method at the next meeting at Calverley.

grey and feeble, and they looked to the young ringers to carry on the work. If, as he said in church, they were punctual and persevering, they would not go very far wrong.

In the evening there was further ringing at Haslemere, and some of the members also visited Godalming, where, by contrast, the bells go very heavily. One party paid a visit to Privett.

The message to the Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild was acknowledged by the Master, who reciprocated the good wishes expressed in the telegram.

GLOUCESTER AND BRISTOL DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION

A combined meeting of the Cheltenham and Tewkesbury Branches of the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association was held by special invitation at Alderton on Saturday, June 29th. The company had the honour of welcoming their new Master (Rev. E. S. Selby), who had motored some 30 miles to be present. The weather being fine, members turned up early, and the nice light right of six were soon going.

Service was conducted by the Rector (Rev. A. D. Pennington), who had the assistance of a full choir. The lesson was read by the Rev. E. G. Benson, of Tewkesbury, and the Master (Rev. E. S. Selby) gave a most interesting address.

After the service, all adjourned to the Village Hall, where the members were the guests of the Rev. and Mrs. Pennington, who had a very efficient staff of helpers.

The business meeting of the Cheltenham Branch was held afterwards, and was cut down to the minimum.

The branch chairman (Rev. A. D. Pennington), was in the chair, supported by the Master, the Rev. E. G. Benson, Rev. W. W. Baker, Mr. W. J. Smith, and over 40 odd members from towers in the Branch.

The Chairman welcomed them all there that day, but he was sorry to inform them that that might be his last chance of offering his hospitality, as he expected soon to resign his living on account of his advanced age.

Charlton Kings was proposed as the place for the annual meeting, which was left for the secretary to arrange.

Mr. H. Wakeford, in a happy speech, proposed a vote of thanks to their host for all he had done for the ringers that day, and mentioned that Mr. Pennington had two hobbies—ringers and railwaymen (applause).—The motion was seconded by Mr. Wm. Hale, and carried with acclamation. The tower was again visited, and good practice obtained.

'GREAT RINGING DAY' AT SAFFRON WALDEN.

The 306th anniversary of 'Great Ringing Day' at Saffron Walden was held on Thursday, June 27th. There was a good attendance of visitors, among whom were Canon Ridout (St. Albans, Johannesburg), Messrs. C. H. Howard (Master of Essex Association), W. and G. R. Pye, E. J. Putler (Leytonstone), G. B. Lucas (Walthamstow), T. Groombridge, sen. (Chislehurst), G. W. Faulkner (Barking), E. Duffield (Colchester), C. H. Kippin, D. Cooper (Beddington), W. H. Lawrence (Little Munden), G. and T. Jordan, T. Watts (Stansted), Dr. E. Taylor (Sevenoaks), son of the late Mr. E. Taylor, J.P., of Saffron Walden (a former Master of the Saffron Walden Society), and others. The local ringers taking part were Messrs. A. E., E. A., F. J., and L. E. Pitstow, A. James, F. Dench, G. Sparrow, R. Strong, W. Parish, F. Ridgwell, A. Simmonds and H. Sketchley.

The day was opened by the society ringing Cambridge Surprise Major, and the bells were kept going all the morning. At noon, an excellent touch of Stedman Cinques was rung for the service, which commenced at 12.30 p.m., the sermon being preached by the Vicar, the Rev. Dr. L. Hughes.

After the service all went to the Rose and Crown Hotel, where an excellent hot lunch was served, the Vicar presiding. At the conclusion, Mr. A. E. Pitstow, on behalf of the Saffron Walden Society, welcomed the visitors, and said he was pleased to see so many present. In reply, Mr. W. Pye said he was pleased to be able to attend another anniversary of this ancient society. It was 37 years since he first visited the tower, and in those days he came to practice Double Norwich and Superlative. It was the first time he had been to Saffron Walden since the funeral of the late Mr. F. Pitstow, and he missed him very much. He looked to the other members of that family to keep up the traditions of the Saffron Walden Society.

Other speeches were made by Mr. C. H. Howard, Dr. E. Taylor and Canon Ridout, who gave an interesting account of bellringing in South Africa.

The ringers then returned to the tower, and the bells were kept going all the afternoon and evening, the methods including Stedman Cinques, Cambridge Royal, and the Major Surprises.

A LEAD TO WEST SUFFOLK RINGERS.

On Wednesday, June 26th, a practice meeting was held at the Monks Eleigh Church, when ringers attended from Bildeston, Lavenham, Little Walsingham and the local band. A visitor from Shipley, Yorks, was also present. Touches in the following methods were rung on the fine peal of six: Plain Bob, Kent and Oxford Treble Bob, including 720 of Oxford Treble Bob Minor, by: A. Symonds (Lavenham) 1, T. E. King (Shipley, Yorks) 2, K. Whittle (Bildeston) 3, W. Head (Little Walsingham) 4, A. Keeble (Monks Eleigh) 5, S. H. Symonds (Lavenham) (conductor) 6. It is hoped that other districts in West Suffolk will follow this lead by arranging other combined practice meetings, which is most essential for the revival of the art in this part of the country.

OLD GROUND REVISITED.

Thirty years ago St. John the Baptist Association, Leytonstone, started on their series of annual outings, Bury St. Edmunds being the place selected. This year it was decided to revisit this ancient place, and on Friday, June 14th, ten members left Liverpool Street by the 7.10 p.m. train. On arrival they were met by Mr. W. J. Nevard, of Great Bentley, and Mr. T. Faulkner, of Barking, and Mr. Chinery and another of the local band conducted them to headquarters, the White Lion Hotel. Next morning, after an early breakfast, a charabanc tour to a number of towers was embarked upon. Messrs. Durrant and Lott joined the party at Ixworth and Walsham-le-Willows was reached at 8.45 a.m. Soon the bells (a good peal of six) were going to Cambridge. It was found, however, that the bells sadly need the attention of a bellhanger, and very little could be done on them. Making their way to Ricklinghall, the ringers found things in good order, and on this handy ring 720 York was accomplished. After touches in other methods to give everybody a pull, a move was made to North Lopham. Here is a handy peal of eight, recently augmented from an old peal of five by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank, the tone and go being excellent. Touches of Superlative Surprise, Stedman and Grandsire Triples were rung. The church at Garboldisham was reached at 12.30. This place is very interesting to Minor ringers. Two stone peal tablets in the tower record peals rung by ringers in bygone days. One relates to a peal of Grandsire Bob rung in 1773, another rung in the year 1822 containing a peal of 5,040, being 720 each of Cambridge Surprise, Plain Bob, Oxford Treble Bob, New Treble Bob, Norwich Court Bob, Double Bob and London Court Bob, conducted by J. Mellows. 'This great and masterly performance was perfectly completed in 2 hours 54 minutes.' There is also a list of Vicars dating from 1305. A 720 Beverley Surprise was rung, also in masterly style, and a touch of Cambridge. Then at the Fox Inn a substantial hot lunch awaited the party. On the way they passed the grand old tower of South Lopham, where their late friend, W. Doran, used to say hangs the best peal of six in Norfolk, but, alas, they are now in too bad a condition to ring. At Hepton, on another handy ring of six, a good 720 Norwich and a touch of Wells were tapped off. At Bardwell the ringers were again disappointed, for this peal of six sadly need attention, and nothing more than a course of Plain Bob could be attempted on them. Ixworth was next reached, and on the splendid peal of six (tenor 16 cwt.) in this tower a 720 London Surprise, strictly silent, was attempted, but came to grief after two parts had been excellently rung. A 720 Cambridge followed, by No. 2 band, conducted by P. H. Avev. After tea at the Crown Hotel the grand old peal of five (tenor 17 cwt.) at Pakenham was visited, and several 120's of Stedman and Grandsire were rung. The last place of call on Saturday was Barton, where a faultless 720 Ipswich was rung on the light peal of six. Other short touches followed and tracks were then made for headquarters, where a social hour with local ringers was spent in handbell ringing, etc.

On Sunday permission had been obtained to ring on the fine peal of ten at the Norman tower, but time allowed only for two short touches of Grandsire Caters. After breakfast the party took a drive of twelve miles to Long Melford, and were amply rewarded by ringing on a grand peal of eight, recently restored by Messrs. Taylor and Co., Grandsire, Stedman and a long touch of Superlative being rung. Everyone regretted not being able to inspect this very old church, one of the largest and most historical in Suffolk. After lunch there was a trip to Elvedon, where arrangements had been made to ring at the memorial tower for an hour. On the way the party visited the war memorial, which stands in three parishes and can be seen for several miles standing high above the many trees in the district. Reaching Elvedon bell tower, they found one of the latest products from the Whitechapel Foundry, a grand peal of eight, and the 'go' perfect. Double Norwich and other methods were rung. The last church to be visited was St. Mary's, Bury, where on this well-known ring of eight (tenor 28 cwt.) Cambridge and Stedman were rung. Those who took part were Messrs. W. Miller and J. Moule (who went to the first outing 30 years ago), and W. Theobald, A. Prior, E. Smith, P. H. Avev, E. J. Butler, E. Furbank, G. Dawson, R. Molton and the two visitors above mentioned, and all wish to record their best thanks to the clergy for so readily granting permission to ring, to the local ringers for their assistance, and to Mr. J. Chinery, of Bury, for the arrangements made.

RIVERSIDE CHURCH, NEW YORK, U.S.A.

'We make no apology for reminding members once more that our first duty is to maintain the level of service ringing in our individual towers at the highest possible standard and to spare no pains to attain this end by punctual and regular attendance.' This is the concluding paragraph in the annual report presented to the members by the Master and Hon. Secretary of the Sussex County Association. It deserves to occupy a foremost place in the report of every association and guild throughout the country. Many bands suffer from the unpunctual and irregular attendance of the indifferent members, who check progress, induce apathy, and finally, sometimes, virtually break up the company. Why is it so many ringers think nothing of coming to the belfry five or ten minutes late for practice or service ringing? It must be because they do not fully appreciate the office which they hold. If they happen to be members of the choir they would not think of walking into their places ten minutes after the service has begun, yet they have no compunction about sauntering into the belfry many minutes late. They count for nothing the time of the five or seven other men they have kept waiting; they treat as of no importance the fact that the bells have been silent, waiting their coming; while their attitude with regard to practice is often one of still less consideration. Their colleagues have perforce to wait the slacker's convenience before they can begin and the wasted minutes, as the President of the Central Council said in a recent sermon to ringers, quickly mount up to hours in the aggregate.

There seems to be no remedy to cure the failing in ringers of this type. They know that the rest are to some extent dependent upon them, but instead of this being an incentive to punctuality, it seems to act in the contrary direction, and they rather delight in the 'let them wait' policy which they adopt. It is a great pity that all ringers are not imbued with the spirit of one well-known member of the Exercise, whose example was quoted at the Winchester Guild's jubilee the other day. He has declared that he would no more think of being late for service ringing than he would think of being late for work. And not only does he preach this gospel, but practices it most assiduously. If all ringers would do this, the standard of ringing in the service of the church would quickly be raised, because time, otherwise wasted, would be devoted to improvement. From the first day a man joins a band punctuality and regularity ought to be a creed instilled into him, by precept and example, and he should be taught to realise that, unless he responded, the belfry has no use for him. The finest example of punctuality is to be found at St. Paul's Cathedral. Here, a quarter of an hour before ringing time the ringers make the long climb up to the ringing chamber and prepare for their task. Two minutes before the moment for starting every man is at his rope; as the clock strikes, the twelve bells are pulled off and they do not stop again until exactly five minutes before the service hour. Sunday after Sunday, year in and year out, this unflinching programme is carried out—punctuality is looked upon as a duty; there are no wasted moments and the highest standard in service ringing is attained. Why cannot the same thing apply in every tower in the country where there is a band? It would raise the art; and it would raise the ringers in the esteem and respect of the people.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION.
MEETING AT HARROW WEALD.

The North and East District of the Middlesex County Association and London Diocesan Guild paid its annual visit to the north-west corner of the county on June 29th, the tower chosen on this occasion being that of Harrow Weald, with a pretty peal of six bells. In spite of the absence of several prominent members, including the hon. secretary and vice-president, on holidays, there was a good attendance, and Mr. Albert W. Coles saw that the methods rung suited all tastes.

The Vicar (Rev. C. S. Durham) conducted the service at 5 p.m., and also presided at the meeting, which followed a very excellent tea in the Institute. Mr. Goodship made an efficient secretary.

Eleven new members was admitted, whilst it was announced that joint meetings with neighbouring associations had been arranged at Hadley on July 27th (Herts and Middlesex), also at Broxbourne on August 24th (Essex, Herts and Middlesex). It was left to the hon. secretary to arrange the next meeting of the district. Votes of thanks to the Vicar and the Rector of Stanmore (Rev. W. A. Hewett) concluded the business.

Stanmore tower was visited in the evening, where Mr. G. A. Hughes met the members, and the ringing included a variety of methods up to London Surprise Major. Mr. W. Pye, as usual, made a very capable Ringing Master. In all, some 30 members attended and spent an enjoyable afternoon and evening.

LEICESTER MEN AT LINCOLN.

The members of the St. John-the-Divine Society, Leicester, accompanied by their wives, held their annual summer outing on Saturday, June 29th, when they visited the city of Lincoln. The party, numbering 24, were met at the railway station by Mr. George Chester, of St. Peter-at-Arches and the Cathedral, and piloted by him through the quaint old streets. A first-rate meat tea was provided at the Lincoln Co-operative Cafe. Five-thirty saw the party at the Cathedral—in the opinion of the writer, the premier Cathedral of Great Britain—where the new ring of twelve bells were soon mouth upwards. Touches of Triples, Caters and Cinques were rung to the satisfaction of all concerned, while the ladies were shown around the interior of the edifice. Train time came all too soon, and the company reached Leicester about 10 p.m. The best thanks of the society are herewith tendered to the Precentor and the Cathedral authorities for the kind permission to ring, and especially to the veteran Mr. George Chester (who, with the writer, rang in the last peal on the old eight in 1896, with Messrs. Lindoff and Craven) for his invaluable help in filling the role of 'guide, philosopher and friend.'

SOCIETY FOR THE ARCHDEACONRY OF STAFFORD. MEMBERS STILL ON THE INCREASE.

The annual meeting was held at Lichfield on Saturday, June 29th. The bells at the Cathedral were available from 3 p.m. to 3.45 p.m., and again from 6.15 p.m. to 7 p.m. This privilege was appreciated, as it is only possible to have the use of these bells in alternate years. At St. Mary's and St. Michael's Churches the bells were kept going, with intervals, from 3 p.m. until the evening.

Tea was served at the Minster Cafe, where upwards of 70 members and friends refreshed themselves. While tea was in progress the Bishop of Lichfield (Dr. J. A. Kempthorne) entered the hall and welcomed the members to Lichfield, at the same time kindly inviting the company to inspect his garden and grounds.

The general meeting followed, presided over by the Archdeacon of Stafford (Ven Hugh Bright). The Chairman congratulated the members upon the satisfactory statement of accounts and report of the year's work. The officers were re-elected, with the exception of Ringing Master, to which office Mr. John Perry, of Brewwood, was elected in the place of Mr. John C. Adams, retired.

The following places have been selected for meetings to be held during the year: Wombourne in September, St. Peter's, Wolverhampton, in January, Cannock in April, and Lichfield (for the annual) in June.

The sum of £1 ls. was voted to the Penn bell restoration fund.

When the business was disposed of, the Chairman invited his hearers to visit his garden and to have a 'roll-up' on his bowling green. Those who took advantage of this and the offer from his lordship were well repaid.

The committee, in their report, were happy to state that the society was financially sound, and the number of members still on the increase. Bell restoration in the Archdeaconry was still on the move, the latest additions to the list being the recasting of the ten at Walsall, with two trebles added. This brought the number of rings of twelve in the Archdeaconry up to three, which was unique for so comparatively small an area. The ring of eight at Pattingham had been rehung, while those at Lapley (four) were being rehung, two recast, with the addition of a new treble. The eight at Penn were about to be recast and hung in a new iron frame, ready for opening in the coming autumn. The following peals had been rung during the year: Grandsire Doubles 4, Grandsire Triples 7, Grandsire Caters 2, Stedman Triplets 7, Stedman Caters 2, Stedman Cinques 1, Double Norwich Court Bob Caters 1, Bob Minor 1, Bob Major 1, Kent Treble Bob Major 1, Cambridge Surprise Major 1; total 28. The committee regretted to record, through death, the loss of Albert Addison, of Bushbury, and Eric Lownes, of Kingswinford.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

A meeting of the Northern District of the London County Association is to be held at St. Sepulchre's, Holborn, to-morrow. The notice of this meeting reached us too late to appear in our last issue, and we would remind secretaries that all notices must reach us on Tuesday to ensure insertion in the following Friday's issue.

There was Bob Major in a peal of Grandsire Triples at Lawton, Cheshire, last week, yet the tenor was always kept behind. The solution will be found in our peal columns.

Mr. William Hawkes, who took part in a quarter-peal at Springfield, Essex, on Thanksgiving Sunday, is 84 years of age, and still a regular service ringer.

The first peal by a band of ladies was rung at Cubitt Town on July 20th, 1912.

Sunday is the anniversary of the peal of 17,280 Kent Treble Bob Major rung at Over in the year 1923. The peal occupied exactly ten hours.

Forty years ago next Thursday eight James's rang a peal of Grandsire Triples at St. James', Clerkenwell, for the St. James' Society.

THE ATTEMPT ON THE MAXIMUS RECORD.

As has already been mentioned in these columns, an attempt is to be made on August Bank Holiday to set up a new record on twelve bells, and the following notice is now formally given:—

'An attempt will be made on Monday, August 5th, to ring 15,312 Cambridge Surprise Maximus at Ashton-under-Lyne Parish Church, starting at about 8 a.m., under the auspices of the Lancashire Association and the Ashton-under-Lyne Society.

A HERTFORDSHIRE PEAL REHUNG.

The six bells at King's Walden, Herts, have been rehung in ball bearings, by Messrs. White, of Appleton, the treble having been recast by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank. The greater portion of the cost has been borne by Major Harrison, of King's Walden, Bury, within whose beautiful grounds the church is situated.

The first change ringing on the bells since the rehangng, took place on July 10th, when a quarter-peal of Grandsire Doubles was rung in 44 minutes by A. Gillings (conductor) 1, T. Cann 2, D. C. Mears 3, H. W. Anstee 4, H. Fellows 5, J. Parkyn 6. This was the first quarter-peal by the tenor man, who is one of the local ringers, and the first on an inside bell by D. C. Mears. Mr. H. W. Anstee hopes to form a band of change ringers at his tower in the near future.

LADIES' GUILD.

CENTRAL DISTRICT TO BE REVIVED.

The fifteenth annual general meeting of the Ladies' Guild was held at St. Clement Danes' Church, London, on Saturday, July 6th. The attendance was small, only nineteen members being present. Ringing took place in the afternoon and evening, and several members had their first experience of ten-bell ringing.

A short service was conducted by the Rector, the Rev. W. Pennington Bickford, who gave a very interesting and helpful address. The members were afterwards cordially welcomed to St. Clement's by the Rector and Mrs. Pennington Bickford, who both take a very keen interest in the Guild and its work.

At the business meeting, held in the choir vestry, Miss Steel, the president, took the chair. Five new members were elected.

The accounts showed a surplus on the year's working of £3 14s. 11d., which is a very gratifying state of affairs.

The Secretary (Mrs. E. K. Fletcher) reported that the year had been a very quiet one, no peals having been rung. Keen interest was shown in most districts, but the attendance at some of the meetings was not all that could be desired. The Southern District secretary had met with a serious accident while on holiday, and had been unable to carry on for some time, but was now much better and able to resume her valuable work for the Guild. The Central District had lapsed temporarily, but was being revived in the near future. In all other districts regular meetings had been held, and all district secretaries were thanked for their untiring work. Death had claimed three members, viz., Mrs. A. W. Clark, of Croydon, Miss N. Johnson, of Hinton, near Evesham, and Miss B. Stilwell, of Yateley, all keen ringers and supporters of the Guild. Members were again urged to forward their subscriptions as they became due, and save the secretaries time and expense in collecting them.

Miss Steel was unanimously re-elected as president, and Mrs. Fletcher as hon. secretary and treasurer.

The revised rules were discussed and adopted. It was decided to issue reports this year, and to include under their respective districts the names and addresses of all members.

The next annual meeting was fixed to be held in the Western District, at a centre easily accessible, and it was left to the general and district secretaries to make the necessary arrangements.

The thanks of the Guild are due to the Rector of St. Clement's for his kindness in allowing the meeting to be held, and to Mr. Sergison for making all arrangements.

RINGING CONTEST AT MELTHAM. NINE TEAMS TEST THEIR SKILL.

The Halifax and District Association's annual meeting and six-bell contest took place at Meltham on July 13th. It was a glorious day, and nine sets had entered the contest. It was decided by the committee that each band should ring 600 changes, any method, and to do away with the usual practice of three leads. The draw was as follows: No. 1, Thornhill; No. 2, New Mill; No. 3, Sandal; No. 4, Friczland; No. 5, Shelley; No. 6, Huddersfield; No. 7, Liversedge; No. 8, Holmfirth; No. 9, Batley; and all the companies selected Treble Bob.

An excellent tea was provided in the school, to which about one hundred and twenty sat down. Ringing was completed at eight o'clock, and the meeting followed immediately afterwards. The president, Mr. E. Earnshaw, occupied the chair. The balance sheet was presented and adopted, on the proposition of the chairman, seconded by Mr. Lawson (Lightcliffe). It showed a slight increase on the year.

Mr. J. E. Carter proposed a hearty vote of thanks to the Vicar of Meltham (Rev. H. F. T. Barter) for the use of bells, also to the churchwardens and ringers, and to the ladies for providing such an excellent tea.—Mr. W. Idle seconded the motion, which was carried unanimously.—The Vicar acknowledged the thanks, and said he thought that bellringing went a long way towards this country getting its name of 'Merrie England.' The mother church of that parish was the proud possessor of one bell, and the same bell was used for over one hundred years. He said the people of Meltham went as far as Marsden to meet the lorry which brought the present peal to the church in 1836, and he thought that great credit was due to Messrs. Taylor, the bell founders, as it was still a 'virgin peal.'

The officers elected for the present year were: President, Mr. E. Earnshaw (Meltham); treasurer, Mr. F. Salmon (Halifax); secretary, Mr. L. Hargreaves (Halifax).

The judges (Mr. J. Broadley, Bradford, and Mr. E. Whitely, Meltham) gave their decision on the contest as follows:—

	Penalties.	Faults.	Total.
New Mill	...	Rung out
Sandal	...	295	295
Friczland	10	254	264
Shelley	...	Rung out
Huddersfield	...	253	253
Liversedge	...	156	156
Holmfirth	...	142	142
Batley	10	311	321
Thornhill	...	Rung out

Holmfirth were therefore declared winners of the cup. It should be pointed out that Thornhill drew No. 1, but were unable to ring, and therefore, according to rule, had to ring last.

The Vicar presented the cup to Mr. J. B. Booth, of Holmfirth, and congratulated them, as it was the first time they had won it.—Mr. Booth suitably replied.

It was decided to have the next six-bell contest at Friczland, near Oldham, as the authorities had kindly offered the use of the bells. It was resolved that in future two six-bell contests be held to one eight-bell.

A vote of thanks to judges and chairman closed the meeting.

THE DISTRICT SECRETARY'S PROBLEM.

A meeting of the Guildford District of the Guildford Diocesan Guild was held at Pirbright on Saturday, July 13th. As the bells are rung from the ground floor it proved an ideal place for a meeting on a hot day, as not only was it cool in the ringing room, but just outside the door in the churchyard is a shady tree, under which those not ringing could sit. Members were present from Old Woking, Worplesdon, Pirbright, West Clondon, the Cathedral Church and S. Nicolas, Guildford, and visitors from Croydon, Aldershot, Leatherhead and Beddington. The light ring of six were kept going all the afternoon and in the evening to rounds and methods from Grand sire and Bob Doubles to London Surprise Minor.

The Vicar of Pirbright (the Rev. H. S. Kelsey) conducted the service, and in the course of his address referred to the fact that although the music of the bells could be heard outside the church, the ringers producing it were hidden from view, so that the general public had very little idea of what was really happening in the ringing room. At least one of the members present could not help but think that if the people of Pirbright do not know how their bells are rung it is because they do not want to, for even the oldest inhabitant sitting in his bath chair could see into the ringing room from the churchyard gate. One of the things the District Secretary is sure the ringers did not see is the said secretary a few days before the meeting scratching his head in the middle of the following problem: 'If six members notify you of their intention of attending the meeting, will the weather be fine, and, if so, how many will endeavour to find a place at the tea table?' Fortunately, this time the answer at which he arrived was fairly accurate, for there was ample tea for the 34 who sat down to it.

The Vicar presided at a short business meeting. One new member was elected, and the election of one compounding member was confirmed.

THE RINGERS' RALLY AT NEWCASTLE.

Between 500 and 600 ringers and friends attended the great gathering of ringers at Newcastle on Saturday, when they were the guests at the North-East Coast Exhibition of the proprietors of the 'Newcastle Chronicle' and Messrs. Gillett and Johnston, founders of the great Wellington War Memorial carillon, which is one of the outstanding features of the exhibition.

A full report of the proceedings will appear in our next issue.

A TRAGEDY OF THE ROAD.

CRANLEIGH RINGER'S DEATH FROM MOTOR ACCIDENT.

A distressing fatality has occurred to one of the Cranleigh, Surrey, company of bellringers, Mr. Elwin Charman, a member of an old ringing family, having been knocked down by a motor-car and dying as a result of his injuries.

It appears that on Saturday Mr. Charman was pushing his bicycle up a hill in a rather narrow road near Cranleigh. He paused at the entrance to Hall Place Drive and beckoned out a motor-cycle combination. Before the combination could come out of the drive a motor-car came over the brow of the hill. The two vehicles collided, and the motor-car crushed Mr. Charman against a pillar-box. He was removed to the County Hospital at Guildford, but succumbed to his injuries on Sunday. An inquest was held on Tuesday, when a verdict of 'Death from misadventure' was returned. He leaves a widow and family, with whom the greatest sympathy is felt.

Mr. Charman had been associated with the belfry at Cranleigh for many years. He was an old member of the Winchester Diocesan Guild, and became one of the foundation members of the Guildford Diocesan Guild.

LLANDAFF AND MONMOUTH DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION

A most successful quarterly meeting was held at Monmouth on Saturday, when members mustered well from both Monmouthshire and Glamorganshire. The bells, a ring of eight by Rudhall, were recast, it is stated, from the original bells brought over from France and presented to Monmouth, after his successive victories, by Henry V., who was born at Monmouth. Very welcome visitors were the Coseley (Staffs) ringers, who were on their annual outing, and who, prior to the service, took part in the ringing. Service was held at 4.30, both the Vicar and curate taking part, the latter giving a very interesting address.

Following the meeting, tea, which had been very generously provided, was served in the Church Room. The business meeting followed, the Rev. C. K. Smith presiding.

Augmentation, restoration, and instructors' reports were received, and the representatives to the Central Council meeting at Chelmsford presented their report.

Progress since the last meeting in various ways was reported by the hon. secretary, and it was decided to hold the next Monmouth meeting at Caldicot in September, the next Glamorgan meeting to be held at Llantrisant. New members were also elected. After the usual vote of thanks to all who had helped to make the meeting such a pleasant one, special mention was made of Mr. Leonard Jones, the local leader, for all he had done.

The bells were then rung until late, and brought a most successful and pleasant gathering to a close.

MIDLAND COUNTIES ASSOCIATION.

SPADE WORK IN PEAK DISTRICT.

A meeting of the Peak District was held at Hope and Castleton on Saturday, July 6th. Ringing commenced on the heavy peal of six at Hope (tenor reputed to be 19½ cwt.), and some amusing antics were witnessed as one after another tried their hands at keeping her going, not the least interested being the venerable and genial Vicar, who seemed quite tickled at the idea that his bells should present a problem to experts in the art. A pleasant chat with the Vicar and local ringers completed the proceedings, the question of the renovation of the bells and the taking up of change ringing by the local company being mooted and courteously received. Several of the locals accompanied the party to Castleton to receive a little variation.

Arrived at Castleton, a very well-going but rather unmusical peal of eight awaited the party, with a tenor about 15 cwt., and good use was made of the bells by ringers from Ashton-under-Lyne, Bakewell, Castleton, Dore, Hope and Sheffield Cathedral, a welcome addition to the gathering being Mr. W. W. Wolstencroft and party from Ashton, who were on a motor tour.

A substantial tea was provided at the residence of Mr. Payne, the genial vergier and steeplekeeper, and a short business meeting followed.

The usual votes of thanks were passed, one new member, Mr. R. R. Somerset, of Hope, was elected, and Eyam was suggested as the next meeting place on the second Saturday in August. Further ringing took place till about 8 p.m., plenty of opportunity being given to the Castleton and Hope ringers, several of whom expressed their intention of attending future meetings.

JUBILEE OF THE WINCHESTER GUILD.

FIFTY YEARS OF GROWTH.

The jubilee celebration of the Winchester Diocesan Guild, which took place at Winchester on July 6th, was a great success, over a hundred members and friends being present. The Guild was established at a meeting at Basingstoke on June 26th, 1879, largely as the outcome of efforts that had been made by the Rev. A. Du Boulay Hill (then of Winchester College and now of Berkhamstead), and the Rev. Canon Madge (Winchester). Both these gentlemen, happily, survive, but a number who were actively associated with them are no longer with us. The diocese at that time was a huge one, taking in the county of Hampshire, a big part of Surrey and the Isle of Wight. Change ringers were few and far between, and the means of intercommunication limited. But the spirit of belfry reform was abroad; the enthusiasts worked unsparingly. Various centres became rallying points, and among the practical ringers who did some wonderful spade-work were men whose names should ever remain emblazoned on the records of the Guild, like the late Henry White, the late John W. Whiting, George Williams and others, Mr. Williams having, since his return to the diocese, filled the offices of hon. secretary and Master. Other names which have been prominently associated with the progress of the Guild have been the late Rev. C. E. Matthews as secretary, Master and president, and the Rev. E. W. Carpenter, who was secretary for four years.

The division of the diocese in 1927 led to the towers in the new Guildford Diocese forming their own Guild, but the reorganisation of the remaining territory into the Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild has given new life and growth to the old organisation, which to-day is more vigorous than ever. Interest in the jubilee commemoration was shown by ringers throughout the area, and representatives were present at the gathering from the following towers: Basingstoke, Bishopstoke, Blackmoor, Brockenhurst, Christchurch, Fareham, Freshwater, Highclere, Hursley, King's Somborne, Lynton, Micheldever, Milford-on-Sea, North Stoneham, Portsmouth Cathedral, Portsea, Romsey, Ryde, Sherborne St. John, Southampton, Stockbridge, Swanmore, Titchborne, Titchfield, Twyford, Wickham, Whitechurch, Woolton Hill, Winchester, and Yateley.

Among the visitors were Mr. E. Alex Young, hon. secretary of the Central Council, Mr. E. C. Merrett (Brighton), representing the Sussex County Association, Mr. C. T. Coles, hon. secretary of the Middlesex County Association and London Diocesan Guild, Mr. C. T. W. Coles (Walthamstow), Mr. F. E. Dawe (Woking), Mr. S. Quintin (Newbury), and Mr. G. Bull (Binfield). Canon Madge joined the members at the service, but was not able to attend the tea. The two next oldest members present were Mr. G. Williams, who joined at Soberton in February, 1880, and Dr. Beales, who joined at Weybridge in June, 1880. The twelve bells at the Cathedral and the six at St. Maurice's Church were rung during the afternoon, and the members then sat down to tea together in the Masonic Hall. Canon Braithwaite presided, supported by the Master (Mr. G. Williams), Rev. N. C. Woods, the hon. secretary (Mr. G. Pullinger), the Rev. Canon Goodman, the Rev. S. M. Watson (St. Maurice, Winchester), the Rev. Harold S. Morris (Twyford), Mr. E. Alexander Young, Mr. J. W. Elkins, Mr. Wilfred Andrews, etc.

After tea, Mr. G. Williams announced apologies from several, including the Rev. B. C. Taylor (Binsted), Rev. F. C. Sear (St. Mary Bourne), the Rev. W. E. Thomas (Romsey), the Rev. Evan Jones (Hedge End), Mr. A. H. Pulling (Guildford), Mr. H. Barton (Ventnor), and others. He also read letters from the Rev. A. D. Hill regretting that, owing to rheumatism, he was unable to be present and conveying his congratulations. He wrote that he was proud to see that the Guild had grown and prospered so well. The Master also read a telegram of greeting, congratulation and good wishes sent by members of the Guildford Diocesan Guild at their annual festival.

EARLY HISTORY.

Mr. Williams then went on to say that the Guild was founded on June 26th, 1879; he was elected a member on February 25th, 1880, and was probably the oldest member present that afternoon. There was very little ringing and very few ringers in those days, and one had to run all over Hampshire and Surrey to get enough men to ring a peal. The first peal was rung by the Guild on December 27th, 1881, at St. Nicolas' Church, Guildford, and was conducted by Stephen Brooker. Of the eight who took part in the peal, Mr. George Sayers, of Ashted, and Mr. C. Dudley, of Dorking, were the only survivors. The second peal rung by the Guild, and the first in Hampshire, was at Soberton, on January 17th, 1884. That was his first peal, and he was the only survivor. Not till September 24th, 1887, was a peal of Stedman rung by the Guild—the tower was that of St. Peter's, Fareham; the occasion was the birthday of J. W. Whiting, and the conductor was J. W. Washbrook. The next peal of Stedman was by a resident band on August 26th, 1889, also at St. Peter's, Fareham. This was the 50th peal by the Guild in a period covering just over ten years. It was only in recent times that peals in more advanced methods had been rung in Hampshire by resident bands. He would like to see more of the enthusiasm of the old days shown by the younger members in turning up for practices and for Sunday service ringing. In this connection, he passed on to them the remarks which he read recently in the annual report of the Sussex County Association, reminding members that 'their first duty is to maintain the level of service ringing at the highest possible standard, sparing no pains to attain this end by punctual and regular attendance.' Mr. Williams gave the names of the secretaries of the Guild during the 50 years of its existence as follow: Rev. A. D. Hill, 1879-81; Rev. H. A. Spyers, 1881-90; Rev. R. C. M. Harvey, 1890-96; Rev. C. E. Matthews, 1896-1902; Rev. E. W. Carpenter, 1902-06; Rev. C. W. Scott, 1906-08; Rev. W. E. Colchester, 1908-12; Mr. G. Williams, 1912-19; Rev. Sir John Herschel, 1919-21; Rev. N. C. Woods, 1921-23; Mr. G. Pullinger, 1923 to the present time. The Master concluded by extending a hearty welcome to visitors from other districts.

The Rev. N. C. Woods said he had two messages to give. One was from the Bishop of Portsmouth, their co-president, who rang him up that afternoon to give his very best wishes and blessing to the Guild, and the other was from Canon Robinson, who also sent his very best wishes (applause).

Canon Braithwaite, who was greeted with applause, said they were grateful to Mr. Williams for the information he had given them. It was always interesting to know the history of any society, because they built their future on the history of the past. They saw the great progress that had been made in the ringing in the diocese, and were glad to see such a large number of young men present on that jubilee day. He did not want to make a speech, but in his position as chairman he wished to give a toast—that of 'Prosperity to the Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild of Church Belling-ringers.' He did this with all his heart, and he hoped that the towers visited that day would be pleased with their work, and that they would go on giving more and more advanced touches as they were able, commencing with simpler ringing and going on further and further. He appealed to the younger members to regard the advice Mr. Williams had given with reference to regular and punctual attendances, by which they would learn more and more of the great and beautiful art of bellingring (applause).

Mr. E. A. Young said it was very kind of Mr. Williams to mention him as a visitor. As secretary of the Central Council, he felt he was there in a representative capacity, and, on behalf of the great body of bellingringers throughout the country, he cordially endorsed all the good wishes that had been expressed by the chairman.

Mr. C. T. Coles (Middlesex Association) warmly congratulated the Winchester Guild—which was one of the first in the country—on its success during the past 50 years. In listening to what had been said about those early days, one could but feel that the Guild met a long-felt want. In congratulating them on the past, he wished them even greater prosperity in the years to come (applause).

Mr. E. C. Merritt (St. Peter's, Brighton) also expressed the pleasure it gave him to be present, and added his congratulations on the jubilee.

Rev. S. M. Watson and Mr. F. E. Dawe also spoke. The latter endorsed what Mr. Williams had stated as to bellingring in the days when the Guild was started. There was a difficulty in getting practised ringers in those days; he was living in Devonshire at the time, and they had to go all the way to Oxford to get a man to make up a peal of Grand sire Triples.

THE DEVELOPMENT OF RINGING SOCIETIES.

The members then attended evensong in the Cathedral, where the Rev. N. C. Woods gave an address from Zechariah xiv. 20, 'The bells—Holy unto the Lord.' He spoke of the first importance of everything which concerned in any way the worship and praise of Almighty God, and said that by no means the least important item was the belfry. He therefore made no apology for addressing them on the subject of bells, bellingringers and bellingring on the 50th anniversary celebration of the Winchester Diocesan Guild. 'Worshippers,' he said, 'have, from time immemorial, been summoned to church by the ringing of bells; indeed, the church bells were, for centuries, the only means by which the people knew the time of day. The study of bell lore is an intensely fascinating one. It is so full of romance, and takes us back to early times in a way which cannot fail to hold us enthralled. Who does not know country villages—and, indeed, cities and towns, too—where very ancient customs still prevail in connection with bellingring? What memories bells bring back to us! What associations they have with important events in our lives! As time goes on, and people become less romantic in a utilitarian age, these old customs drop out one by one; but we, in this city, have at least one such ancient custom remaining—that of ringing the curfew at 8 o'clock each night.'

The preacher went on briefly to sketch the evolution of change ringing and the growth of ringing societies from the days of the Scholars of Cheapside, formed in 1603, and the Ancient Society of College Youths, established in 1637. 'The 18th century and the earlier part of the 19th century,' he said, 'are well known as times when matters ecclesiastical were not as we would have them to be, and it is not surprising to read that ringers and ringing were greatly prejudiced in the eyes of the public. However, about half-way through the 19th century things began to improve, and in our own diocese we find our Cathedral ringers being taken in hand by two clergy, one a Minor Canon of this Cathedral, and the other an

DEATH OF A YOUNG LANCASHIRE RINGER.

On Friday, July 5th, there was laid to rest in the graveyard of Halsall Parish Church, Lancashire, the body of James Whittaker, one of the local band of ringers. The deceased was only 19 years of age, and was respected by all with whom he came in contact. He was a most promising young ringer. Four members of the belfry acted as bearers, and shortly after the interment 720 Treble Bob Minor was rung with the bells half-muffled: J. Gardner 1, T. Prescott 2, A. Mawdesley 3, W. Huyton (conductor) 4, H. Serjeant 5, E. Blundell 6.

VISIT TO YORK.

The ringers of St. Ignatius' Church, Sunderland, accompanied by the Vicar (Rev. G. H. J. Baily), the curate (Rev. G. D. John), the churchwardens, and by their wives and lady friends, a company of 32 in all, had their annual outing on June 26th, when they visited York. An early start was made, and, arriving at York at 9.20, the visitors were welcomed by two of the Minster ringers, Messrs. Fearnley and Ricketts, who kindly acted as guides, and after a most interesting walk along the city walls a visit was paid to Messrs. Rowntree's Works. The great chocolate makers have very complete arrangements for the entertainment of visitors, and five lady conductors showed the party through the various departments. After dinner at the White Swan, a visit was paid to Escrick, a lovely model village six miles south of York, with a beautiful church which has been restored after being burnt down about five years ago. The belfry is very well appointed, and large enough to have accommodated the whole of the party, and the lovely bells were soon set going in touches of Stedman Triples, Double Norwich and Superlative. A real Yorkshire tea followed at the Black Bull Hotel, and full justice was done to it. Heartily thanks were then accorded to the churchwardens for their presence and their contribution to the expenses, a welcome given to the visitors, and thanks to the Dean of York and the Rector of Escrick for the use of their bells, and the secretary for his services in making all the arrangements, in which Mr. Imeson, of the Minster, had rendered valuable assistance. The party were then photographed by Mr. Frank Ainsley, and the visitors and ladies had a walk through the beautiful gardens of the Rectory, by kind invitation of the Rev. Trollope, and the ringers returned to York for a ring on the middle eight of the Minster, but unfortunately they found there was not sufficient time for a ring. They, however, had the pleasure of seeing 'Great Peter' (10½ tons), and learnt with amusement that he is half-raised every day at noon, and continues to sound for 7 or 8 minutes after the ringer leaves the chamber? Reluctant steps were then made for the station, and the party arrived home at 10.45, after an almost 'perfect day.'

assistant master at Winchester College, who conducted a practice in No. 4, The Close, on December 5th, 1878. In the following year, 1879, we find the same two enthusiasts organising a meeting at Basingstoke on June 26th, at which the Winchester Diocesan Guild of Ringers was actually established. In these early days of the Guild transport was very difficult, and we find that in order to attend a committee meeting at Basingstoke these two men had to walk from Winchester to Micheldever to catch a train to Basingstoke. We also find other members of the Guild walking or bicycling on the old-fashioned high bicycles, all over the diocese, to attend meetings, ring peals, and teach would-be ringers in a way which compels admiration. We even find one early member giving up a good appointment altogether in order to attend a tower to take part in ringing a peal, because his employer would not allow him to leave off for the day! It is a pride and joy to us who are celebrating the 50th anniversary of our Guild's foundation to know that the two clergy, who were virtually our founders, are alive to-day—indeed, one of them is actually here this afternoon. It would not be possible to mention by name all those to whom the Guild has reason to be grateful, but I feel that it is only just and proper that the names of Francis Thomas Madge and Arthur Dur Boulay Hill should be mentioned, as it is to them we owe the inspiration which brought our Guild into existence; and it was in great part their influence, encouragement and enthusiasm which inspired the early members, and caused the Guild—small at first—to become the flourishing institution it is to-day. In conclusion, I would say to the clergy, "Know your ringers, and appreciate the part they take in the worship of the sanctuary"; and to the ringers I cannot do better than quote the words of their present Master (himself one of the very earliest members of the Guild): "I always make a point of turning up to ring for each service on a Sunday, just in the same way as I go to my daily occupation; and I think it is no less than any incumbent can expect of his ringers, that they should endeavour to attend at least one of the services. If a ringer is a conscientious thinker, he will feel it his duty, on principle, to do this." God, Who has brought us through the first 50 years of our existence, bless and keep our Guild, now and in the future; and of His mercy pardon our shortcomings, and accept what we have done, what we do, and what we hope to do to His honour and glory.

In the evening the bells of the Cathedral and St. Maurice's Church were again rung, and parties were made up to visit Bishopstoke, Hursley, North Stoneham, and Twyford, there being a ring of eight at each of these churches.

ESSEX ASSOCIATION.

A very successful meeting of the South-Eastern Division of the Essex Association was held at Sandon on Saturday, July 13th. The bells were set going just after 2.30 p.m., and at the subsequent service the Rector (the Rev. J. W. Williams) officiated and gave an address. Mr. C. H. Howard (Master of the Association) read the lesson.

A splendid tea was served at the Crown Inn. Mr. Geo. Green (District Master) presided, supported by Mr. C. H. Howard, the Rector, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Williams, Dr. Spencer Phillips and Mr. H. W. Kirton (District Secretary). Three new members were elected from Danbury and two from Sandon were re-elected. It was arranged to visit Southminster and Tillingham in September, also to hold the annual meeting on November 16th at Galleywood.

Mr. C. H. Howard thanked the Rector for his address, and Mrs. Williams for playing the organ.—The Rector said that he felt very proud to have an association meeting at his church, as they had only five bells. It was the first time there had been a meeting at Sandon, and he hoped that it would not be long before there was another.

There were 31 present, including five lady ringers from Great Bad-dow and Galleywood. Grandsire and Stedman Doubles were rung on the bells, and the tower at Danbury was also open in the afternoon and evening.

SOUTH-WESTERN DIVISION.

Although rather difficult of access, over 40 members and friends put in an appearance at the meeting at Orsett on Saturday, the weather now being at its best. This was the association's first visit to Orsett since the rebuilding of the church, which was partially destroyed by fire in 1926. The bells were raised at 3 p.m., and were soon going to Kent, followed by touches in various methods till 4.30, when service was conducted by the Rector (the Rev. H. Dewhurst), who, in the course of his address, remarked how pleased he was to see such a fine gathering, and expressed the hope that the association would soon pay another visit to this beautiful church and village. A splendid tea was served on the lawn of Whitmore Arms, to the accompaniment of gramophone records. Tea over, business was soon disposed of, four new ringing and one honorary member being elected, and Barking was selected for the place of next meeting, to be held on September 21st. Other district secretaries are asked to kindly note this date.

The meeting concluded with a vote of thanks to the Rector for allowing the use of the tower and bells, and conducting the service, to the organist and organ blower, and to Mr. Keeling and members of the local band for having everything in readiness.—The Rector and Mr. Keeling suitably replied. Leytonstone, Tilbury, Romford, Barking, Maldon, Woodford, etc., were the towers represented, and touches of Stedman and Grandsire Doubles, Plain Bob, Double Court, Kent and Oxford Treble Bob, London, Carlisle, Cambridge and Spliced York and Durham, Cambridge, Ipswich, Ringers' and Primrose Surprise were rung. The afternoon went all too quickly, and all enjoyed themselves at this well-known but rather out-of-the-way village and church.

NORTH NOTTS ASSOCIATION.

A very successful meeting was held at Everton, near Bawtry, on Saturday, July 13th, when the weather favoured the attendance. The bells were ready early for the visitors. The Rev. F. S. Curtis presided over the tea, served on the Vicarage lawn, and the meeting. He was supported by Mr. H. Haigh (hon. treasurer), Mr. H. Revill (hon. assistant secretary), and 24 members from Anston, Barlborough, Gainsborough, Sutton-on-Trent, Gamston, Warsop, Treeton, Worksop, West Retford, Cuckney, Edwinstone, Scotter, Ordsall, and the local company. It was decided to hold the next meeting at East Markham, on an early Saturday in September. Mr. Haigh mentioned that the Crawford cup would be competed for at this meeting. He said that he would like to see a large entry for this trophy.—The following new members were elected: Arthur Ashby and Edger Eggelston (Barlborough), W. Brunt (Worksop), J. Tomlinson, sen., J. Tomlinson, jun., C. Randall and R. Bromer (West Retford). E. A. Wilson (Sutton-in-Ashfield) was elected a non-resident life member, and Rev. E. Roberson, Vicar of East Markham, a vice-president.

A vote of thanks was accorded to the Vicar for the use of the bells, making arrangements for and presiding over tea and meeting, on the motion of Mr. Haigh, seconded by Mr. Barker.

The bells were kept going until 9 a.m., the methods ranging from Bob Minor to London Surprise Minor.

FAMILY RINGERS.

At St. Michael's, Yorktown, Surrey, on June 30th, for evening service, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Doubles, with 4.6.8 covering, was rung in 44 mins.: E. Hunt 1, F. J. Ewens 2, F. Marchant 3, H. J. Hunt, sen., 4, B. Hawkins (conductor) 5, Edward Hunt 6, H. Hunt 7, A. Hunt 8. All are Sunday service ringers except 5th and 7th, who are attached members of the band. H. J. Hunt is father of Edward and A. Hunt (twins) and H. and E. Hunt (twins), while F. J. Ewens is a son-in-law.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD.DEVIZES BRANCH AT TROWBRIDGE.

The quarterly meeting of the Devizes Branch was held at the beautiful Church of St. James, Trowbridge, on Saturday, July 6th. Ringing commenced on the fine ring of ten bells about 2.45 p.m., and continued till 4.40 p.m., when the Guild service was held and was conducted by the chairman of the branch, Mr. D. G. Heginbotham, the Rectory being vacant, and the priest-in-charge having another engagement. Mr. Howell was the organist. Later, 23 sat down to tea.

A short business meeting followed, at which the chairman referred to the small number present, considering the position Trowbridge held in the Branch. He extended a hearty welcome to the visitors from Swindon.

Mr. Walter J. Tiley, of Burton, was elected a life ringing member.

A communication was read from the general secretary, the Rev. F. L. Edwards, respecting peals for the King's Thanksgiving Day. Mr. S. Hillier gave a report of the proceedings at the Central Council meeting.

On the motion of the Vice-Chairman, Mr. B. Cook, a vote of thanks was passed to Mr. Hillier for his report, to the chairman for conducting the service, and to the organist.

The visitors present included Messrs. C. Gardiner, H. Bishop, S. Palmer, W. B. Kynaston, N. Allnott and R. W. Hyner, Swindon, Mr. L. A. Wilson, Wootton Bassett, and Mr. E. Coward, Mere, and members were present from Trowbridge, Devizes, St. John's and St. Mary's, Bratton, Bradford-on-Avon (Holy Trinity and Christ Church), Holt, Rowde, Warminster and Melksham. Touches in various standard methods were rung during the afternoon and evening.

The poet Crabbe was Rector of Trowbridge from 1814 till his death in 1832, and a monument to his memory, inscribed as follows, is on the north wall of the chancel: 'Sacred to the memory of the Rev. G. Crabbe, LL.B., who died on the 3rd of February, 1832, in the 78th year of his age, and the 18th of his services as Rector of this Parish. Born in humble life, he made himself what he was, breaking through the obscurity of his birth by the force of his genius; yet he never ceased to feel for the less fortunate, entering, as his works can testify, into the sorrows and wants of the poorest of his parishioners, and so discharging the duties of a pastor and a magistrate as to endear himself to all around him. As a writer he cannot be better described than in the words of a great poet, his contemporary, 'Tho' Nature's sternest Painter, yet her best.' This monument was erected by some of his affectionate friends and parishioners.'

It was during Crabbe's Rectorate that the first recorded peal (Holt's) on Trowbridge bells (which had been made a peal of eight in 1800 by James Wells, of Aldbourne) was rung by Trowbridge men, viz., March, 1826. And if their spirits ever visit Trowbridge belfry and see the achievements of Sam and his companions, how pleased they must be to see the good work still going on.

WORSLEY, LANCs.—With the bells half-muffled, on Monday, July 8th, a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples was rung at St. Mark's Church, as a token of respect to the late Mr. P. Burgess, of Worsley: C. Gudgeon 1, W. Jones 2, M. Berry 3, D. Clarke (longest length of Stedman) 4, J. H. Ridyard 5, F. Grundy 6, J. Potter (conductor) 7, B. Knight (longest length of Stedman) 8.

THE 18½ TON RINGING BELL,
the Bourdon of the Carillon of 64 Bells, about to be installed at
RIVERSIDE CHURCH, New York, U.S.A.

A SOUND DEVELOPMENT.

There is probably no diocese in the country where the restoration of church bells has, in recent years, been carried on to a greater extent and with more persistent effort than in the diocese of Oxford. This has been largely due to the influence of the Oxford Diocesan Guild, whose members, from the Master downwards, have set themselves out to get the towers put in order. And they have been succeeding in a remarkable way. Local ringers, branch and guild officials have done wonders in persuading church authorities to undertake schemes to repair, and often to augment, their bells. The good work has spread, and last year the Master, who is the consultant on bell matters to the Diocesan Advisory Board, was called in to inspect and advise in quite a dozen cases. In practically all these towers work will doubtless be taken in hand, if it has not already been accomplished or begun, for it has been noticeable in the past that, when the Master has been asked for advice, a restoration scheme is almost always the outcome.

But it is not in advice and persuasion alone that the Guild has taken a part in getting bells put in order. It is taking its share in a practical way as well, and one of its most important developments is the financial assistance which it gives to these schemes. The Guild has established a restoration fund which seems almost to have the characteristics of the widow's cruse. A steady stream of grants goes out to churches where restorations are undertaken, yet the fund scarcely seems to diminish. This, of course, is due to the ingenuity of the treasurer, to whom the fund owes its inception, and although last Saturday five grants, amounting to nearly twenty-five pounds, were voted, Mr. Wright will probably come to the next annual meeting with a balance almost if not quite as large as he showed this year. The Guild's contributions to bell funds are not, however, limited to these votes from the general meeting. Each grant from the central fund follows a similar amount from the coffers of the branch in which the restoration is proceeding, so that this year the Guild will provide nearly £50 for this good work.

It is a wonderful example to other societies and it demonstrates to the authorities and to the public that ringers are not only ready to give their time to the service of the Church, but that they are also prepared, when need arises, to dip into their own funds to help to restore to proper order the bells which they ring. It is not every ringing organisation that has money to devote to this purpose on the same scale as in the Oxford Guild, which has over two hundred affiliated towers, but everywhere there is a growing tendency on the part of associations to make donations to bell funds. It is a sound and practical development, because it not only demonstrates the ringers' desire to help, but gives the associations a special interest in these restored peals which should make them all the more keen to see that the bells are kept in constant and efficient use.

YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION.

A highly successful meeting of the Eastern District of the Yorkshire Association was held in delightful weather at Hatfield, near Doncaster, on Saturday, July 13th, and was attended by upwards of thirty members, representative of towers at Yoele, Hawden, Hull, Hemmingbrough, Thorne, Pontefract, Selby, Eastington, and members of the local band. A short service was held in the Parish Church, an address being delivered by the Vicar (Rev. J. Haythornthwaite), who took as his text the last verse of the last Psalm. He commented that the average age of ringers was much higher than formerly, and deplored the fact that the younger men did not offer themselves for ringing as previously, owing to the greater number of attractions which now abounded.

Tea was afterwards served in the Victoria Hall, and was followed by the business meeting, the Vicar presiding. Apologies for absence were received from the vice-president, Mr. F. Crier (Selby), and Mr. F. W. Dale (Hull). An invitation received from the Vicar of St. Augustine's, Hedon, near Hull, to hold the next meeting at that place, was unanimously accepted. The peal of six, at present under restoration, will be augmented to eight, and it is hoped will be ready for the meeting.—The Vicar was elected an hon. member, and Messrs. H. Crowe and G. Wilburn ringing members of the association.

A hearty vote of thanks was accorded the Vicar for the use of the bells, for service and address, to the organist, to the ladies who served tea, and to Mr. H. Crowe and the local band for their excellent arrangements.

A few short touches in the tower brought to a close another delightful meeting.

THE CENTRAL COUNCIL.

MEMBERS, NOT DELEGATES.

To the Editor.

Sir,—Through the kindness of Rev. F. Ll. Edwards, hon. secretary of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild, who sent me a cutting from the 'Daily Mail' of 4th inst. (a paper which I do not usually see), containing an article by Viscount Brentford (Sir W. Joynton Hicks), entitled 'Advice to a Young M.P.', I am enabled to quote from it a passage which my friend, Mr. Guise, and any others whom it may concern, would do well to read, mark, learn and inwardly digest.

He says: 'There is one point in regard to which I am increasingly anxious as years go on. . . . When every constituent roads what you have said the next morning, and writes to warn you that you mustn't say it again, there is a tendency to become a delegate and not a representative. Burke was right when, in returning thanks for his election at Bristol in 1774, he said: "Your representative owes you not his industry only, but his judgment; and he betrays, instead of serving, you if he sacrifices it to your opinion. . . . When you have chosen a member, he is not a member of Bristol, but he is a member of Parliament." I am satisfied that we should all try more and more to realise this point. We are not members for Twickenham or for Manchester; we are members of the great Parliament of Great Britain, with the interests of the whole nation in our hands, and with a responsibility to the whole of it.'

I commend not only what Lord Brentford says, but the voice of Burke, coming, as it did, from Bristol, to Mr. Guise, himself a Bristol man, and to any of his friends who hitherto have thought as he does.

The Central Council consists, not of delegates, but of members, each supposed to do his best, not necessarily for the association that sends him, but for the Exercise as a whole.

CHARLES D. P. DAVIES.

DULY CONSTITUTED RULES WANTED.

Sir,—Where is the consistency of a body whose position should be above even criticism?

Rev. Canon Coleridge, president of the Central Council, to a member, May 29th, 1928: 'You are not here as a delegate but as a member of the Council.'

Rev. C. D. P. Davies: 'That these words of the president do not, and neither the president nor anyone can, prevent a member of the Council from considering himself, and acting in all respects as if he were, a delegate. By doing so, he merely lowers his own status gratuitously.'

I think Mr. Guise is right. We want duly constituted rules to understand our position, not haphazard methods which result as above.—Yours faithfully,

JOSEPH GOULD.

APSLEY AND HEMPSTEAD RINGERS' OUTING.

The Apsley and Hempstead ringers, with a few visitors, had an enjoyable day among the bells on June 15th. Leaving Apsley at 7.15, and picking up at the Ringers' Rest, and Boxmoor, the journey was made to Monks Risborough, where hangs a peal of six. These were rung to various methods for nearly an hour, in spite of the old jars and brooms that were continually getting mixed up with the ringers' feet! After a raid on the postcard shop, a move was made to Watlington, where the peal of eight were soon going. Lowering the bells about 12 o'clock, the next thought was dinner, arranged at Henley, so another move was made, some real 'giant mushrooms' being encountered on the way. If the dinner did not provide great thrills, it did one thing, and that was to supply 'ball bearings' for the bells. Henley Parish Church was then visited for an hour, and the journey resumed to Bray, with its 27½ cwt. tenor on the end of six. Here the greatest ambition, in at least one person's life, was accomplished in due course, when the tenor was turned in, in a masterly manner, without 'stopping.' However, after just over an hour's stay, this nice bell had to be left behind, and the journey resumed to Windsor, stopping by the roadside for the 'annual camera parade.' After tea, an hour's ringing was enjoyed at St. John's Church, finishing the day with a splendid touch of Stedman. The rest of the evening was spent in various ways, some with the local ringers, until 9.30, when a move was made for home, the journey being enlivened, as ringers know how, with songs old and new. The party take this opportunity of thanking the various incumbents for the use of the bells, and the vergers and ringers who met them during the day, thus making the outing a success. Touches in the following methods were rung: Grandsire Doubles and Triples, Bob Minor and Major, Kent Treble Bob Minor and Major, Oxford Bob Minor and Oxford Major, Cambridge Surprise Minor, Stedman Triples, a method known locally as 'Leverstock Green Surprise,' and Little Bob Major.

LEWISHAM.—At St. Mary's Church, on July 18th, 1,312 Double Norwich Court Bob Major: *H. Warnett, jun., 1, H. Warnett, sen., 2, J. Lamb 3, *J. Dafter 4, C. W. Roberts 5, E. Garrard 6, J. Bennett 7, J. E. Davis (conductor) 8. * Longest length in method.

After the peal at Harrietsham a homely tea was enjoyed at the Bell Inn, kept by Mr. Owen Hodges, who was formerly one of the Biddenden band. Mr. Hodges saved the ringing book, once the property of John Ferman, an old hand at Harrietsham, who died about eight years ago, aged 82 years. In this book in Ferman's handwriting were some doggerel lines, probably copied by him from the original in 1781, describing a peal of 5,040 of Bob Major and the ringers thereof. Here are some of the verses:—

In seventeen hundred and eighty and one,
To begin the new year, as the old one was gone,
Eight sprightly young striplings were met in Leeds steeple,
All ringers of fame, and I'll tell you the people.

CHORUS:

Hi, Derry down, ring away, Derry down day.
These active Leeds youths who accomplished this peal,
Went to it like lions, with hearts true as steel;
In measure and time made the clappers to beat,
Five thousand and forty—Bob Major complete.

To each ringer is devoted a verse, giving his name, age and occupation. One of these runs:—

The seventh, a Barham, of very great fame,
A noted bob-caller, and James is his name;
His age, fifty-five, and he bobs them about,
And keeps his bell right till the peal is rung out.

Such a noble performance has never been done,
Their ages four hundred and ninety and one;
You will ne'er find their equal I venture to tell,
If you search the world through they will still bear the bell.
So, now, brother ringers of every degree,
With your bells and your bottles be merry and free;
Then fill up your glasses, for here my song ends,
Drink a health to brave Fairfax and Martin and friends.

Hi, Derry down, ring away, Derry down day.

The Hon. Robert Fairfax was owner of Leeds Castle, and gave the treble bells to Leeds Parish Church in 1751.

A beautiful May morning gave good heart to the company on their way by road from Ashford to Appledore, where two attempts for Superlative and a change to Cambridge Surprise met with success for the 'third time of asking.' The Vicar kindly met the party at the church, and Mr. F. White, of Cranbrook, spliced a faulty rope. At the churchyard gate stands a heavy oak settle, newly made, which has just been installed for the use of the parishioners—it needs the words 'Rest and be thankful' carved upon it, and the date, similar to such a seat in Twyford parish. It may be noted here that the ringers were the first (probably) really to make use of it. A cold lunch at the adjoining inn, with reduced 'malt' allowance, was partaken of before departing for the 'big job' on hand for the afternoon.

Tenterden Parish Church, sometimes called the 'Cathedral of the Marshes,' stands upon a rising plateau and forms with its handsome tower a landmark for miles around. The oldest record of the building dates from the reign of Henry II. In 1180, the Archbishop of Canterbury instituted Hugh Norman, and as late as 1240 it was found that he was still Rector. Henry de Wyngham was nominated to the living in 1252, the parishioners objecting to his appointment. An affair took place in the church in which one Henry de la Smaleide (Henry of Smallhythe) was so wounded that he died. Wyngham was a native of the parish of that name near Canterbury, and was a man of some merit: the King not only pardoned him and others (about 20 names are given), but eventually he became Bishop of London, and died in 1282.

The earlier registers have been lost, and not until 1311 does the name of a Vicar of Tenterden appear in the existing records. The dedication of St. Mildred is very uncommon. There are only three other churches in the whole county which have the same name—Greston, Nurstead and Canterbury—and it first appears in the registers of 1479. In the Abbey registers of St. Augustine's it is recorded that Tenterden belongs to the manor of Minster, in Thanet, and as St. Mildred was very closely connected with that Abbey (being second abbess), her name follows ownership. The architecture of the oldest portion is Early English and Lancet, the ceiling of the nave is wagon shaped, panelled and handsomely carved, but the period is unknown. The roof is covered with shingle, an unusual method of roofing. These were renewed at the last restoration, but their first use goes back to 1584. The porch and doorway appear to be 14th century work, also the font, which is decorated style. In 1798 a dreadful hailstorm broke every pane of glass in the south and south-west sides of the church.

The tourists arrived at the church at three o'clock, and were met by the vergers and head ringer with 'Right away,' and the bells were raised. The ringers were instructed not to take notice of anyone going up and down the staircase, as the place was open for any visitors to ascend to the top of the tower to get a view of the distant scenery. However, someone during the peal got into the clock room and interfered with the ropes; several tried the belfry door and called to the ringers, but still the changes rolled up in regular sequence until the conductor called 'That's all.' Tenterden bells form the heaviest octave in the county, and few peals of Major have been rung upon them since Philip Hodgkin first turned in the tenor single-handed in 1912. On the present occasion the band realised that the honours of the afternoon were due to the excellent compass of the three 'backenders' throughout the peal.

How the party enjoyed a Tenterden tea, and rode lightheartedly 'on air'—mentally and physically—back to Ashford, and parted hastily at the station for their respective homes, is a Kent recollection that will stand for some time in their ringing memory. There is an excellent little booklet describing the church, by A. H. T., 1927, of which a copy was sent the writer by James Hayward, and here are some extracts of the chapters on 'The Tower' and 'The Bells,' but the author does not disclose the fact that a ring of eight bells was provided by voluntary subscriptions in 1769, and the whole were cast by Pack and Chapman at Whitechapel.

Another fact which appears to have no record left to tell the tale is the visit to Tenterden of the Leeds Youths in 1771—on May 20th, too, by a coincidence, when they rang 5,184 changes of Oxford Treble Bob Major in 3hrs. 27mins., conducted by James Barham, who rang the 7th. The tenor bell of that time weighed 33 cwt., and Thomas Lacy, who rang it, had to have a little help to complete the peal. How many ringers are there to-day who remember Tenterden tenor as a 'handful' that wants ringing?

LONDONERS IN BIRMINGHAM AND DISTRICT.

St. Andrew's, Holborn, Guild spent their annual outing in the neighbourhood of Birmingham on Saturday, July 7th, and some 24 enthusiastic members of the Exercise took part in the excursion, which was favoured with fine weather. Birmingham was reached at 11.15, and the party was welcomed at the platform by the 'Grand Old Man,' Mr. James George, who acted as guide to the Bull Ring. Here they found Mr. Albert Walker in his usual humorous form, and soon everyone was listening to the glorious peal of twelve that 'Brum' is now able to boast of. Touches of Stedman Cinques and Treble Twelve were brought round, and everyone was delighted with these beautiful bells, and was of opinion that great credit is due to the Whitechapel Foundry for this excellent piece of work, and many congratulations were showered on Mr. A. A. Hughes, who was a guest of the Guild. A splendid repast was served at the Nelson, and the party went on by train to King's Norton. The train was packed, and some very neat 'dodging' and 'place making' caused a few exclamations when members of the Metropolitan Police, who played their part by looking after the 'heavy end,' forced themselves and the rest of the party into the compartments. On the very musical ring of ten at King's Norton methods ranging from Grand-sire Caters to Cambridge Royal and London Major were rung in good style, during which time several games of bowls were enjoyed on the lawn 'across the road,' where, later, all sat down to a meat tea, which was greatly appreciated, especially as the company included several ringers from Birmingham and district. The social which followed was commenced by tunes on the handbells by J. Bulloch, E. Russell and J. Hawkins. Piano selections and songs were rendered by J. Bulloch, A. Walker and G. Dowding, a most entertaining item being handbell tunes by the afore-mentioned, accompanied by Mr. A. Walker at the piano.

Mr. Choet proposed a vote of thanks to all the Birmingham and King's Norton gentlemen who had assisted to make the outing a happy one. This was seconded by Mr. J. Bulloch.—In reply, Mr. A. Walker mentioned that the Birmingham men themselves had had a delightful day, and he would look forward to the time when they would come again. The ringing had been first class, which proved that London had several bands of experts. Mr. Walker went on to say that although Mr. Reeves, the secretary, was unable to be present owing to a ringing meeting of St. Martin's Guild, they had present Mr. Smallwood and his 'better half,' also Mr. A. Ward, of Derby, who joined with him in extending best wishes and prosperity to the Holborn Guild.

Returning to Birmingham, a further social hour wound up the happy proceedings, and a toast was drunk to the health of St. Martin's ringers and to Mr. J. S. Goldsmith, Editor of 'The Ringing World,' to whom a card, autographed by all present, was sent. Happy farewells were the parting gifts as the Londoners steamed out on the homeward journey. A final toast to Mr. J. Hawkins, the secretary, for his wonderful organisation of the outing, and the general management of the ringing, which was the last word in excellence, followed by cheers, and 'For he's a jolly good fellow.' Paddington was reached just after ten o'clock, after a most successful day.

SWANSEA AND BRECON DIOCESAN GUILD. ANNUAL MEETING.

A large company assembled at Tenby on Saturday, July 20th, to participate in the sixth annual festival of the Swansea and Brecon Diocesan Guild. The weather was delightful, and ringers attended from Brecon, Llanelly, Aberavon, Llanstephan, Llandilo, Gorseinon, Morriston, and Neath, and, with the local ringers, kept the bells of St. Mary's Church (eight) going from 10 a.m. onwards, the Rector of Tenby (Canon B. C. Edwards) having kindly given permission for the bells to be rung.

Service was held in St. Mary's Church at 3 p.m., the Rector officiating, whilst the Rev. F. A. Oswald presided at the organ. The festival sermon was preached by the Lord Bishop of Swansea and Brecon, from the text, 'God loveth a cheerful giver.' The members afterwards adjourned to the Church House, where a sumptuous tea was provided at the kind invitation of Mr. Oswald and a band of lady helpers. The ladies were warmly thanked on the motion of Minor Canon H. Gomer Davies (Brecon). The Rector of Tenby was present, and the Lord Bishop afterwards joined the party to preside over the annual meeting which followed tea.

The Lord Bishop spoke in appreciative terms of the interest taken in the Guild by the late Rev. David Williams, B.A., Vicar of Talgarth, and it was resolved that the sympathy of the Guild be conveyed to Mrs. Williams in her bereavement. The motion was carried by the members standing in silence.

The hon. treasurer (Mr. Charles Powell) presented the accounts for the past year, and, subject to their being audited, they were adopted. The Hon. Treasurer asked for the meeting's opinion as to the desirability of investing some of the balance at present in hand, and it was decided that he be empowered to invest a sum of £15 in Savings Certificates.

OFFICERS RE-ELECTED.

The election of officers for the ensuing year was then proceeded with, and on the proposition of Mr. E. Stitch, seconded by Mr. J. T. Williams, the following were re-elected en bloc: President, the Lord Bishop of the Diocese; vice-presidents, the Archdeacon of Brecon, the Archdeacon of Gower, Rev. Canon E. A. T. Roberts (Sub-Dean), Rev. Canon H. J. Stewart (Sketty), Rev. R. M. Côté-Hamilton (Llangatock), Rev. John Simon, R.D. (St. David's, Brecon), Rev. W. J. Thomas (Gorseinon), and Rev. W. D. G. Wilkinson (diocesan missionary).

The Master of the Guild (Mr. A. J. Pitman) asked to be relieved of his duties, as it was, in his opinion, an honour which should be passed to some other members, but he was prevailed upon to continue in office on the proposition of Mr. Charles Powell, seconded by Mr. D. J. Williams.

Mr. Charles Powell, 3, North Road, Brecon, was re-elected hon. treasurer, and Mr. W. R. Howells, N.P. Bank Chambers, Neath, was re-elected hon. secretary.

The following committee members were re-elected: Morriston, Mr. George Lewis; Builth Wells, Mr. R. E. Sparkes; Llangatock, Mr. Charles Powell; Talgarth, Mr. W. D. Griffiths; Sketty, Mr. Charles Morse; Gorseinon, Mr. D. J. Williams; Aberavon, Mr. E. Stitch; Glasbury, Mr. James P. Hyett; Llanstephan, Mr. George Morris; Cadoxton, Mr. D. J. Lewis; Llanelly, Breck, Mr. S. T. Rackham; St. Mary's, Brecon, Mr. F. E. Thomas; Tenby, Rev. F. A. Oswald; Baglan, Miss Lucy Thomas; St. David's, Brecon, Mr. Wm. Williams; Neath, Mr. Harry Boyce; Swansea, Mr. Fred Curtis; Llandilo, Mr. Marcus Davies; Llanelly, Carmarthenshire, Mr. Chris Hawkins; with Mr. A. Hunt, the new member for Cefn Coed, and the Rev. T. R. Jones, Cwmduddwr.

Mr. Jack Coombe and Mr. Leo Havard were elected hon. auditors.

The Lord Bishop extended the Guild a hearty invitation to hold the 1930 festival at Brecon, with an invitation to tea at Ely tower (the Lord Bishop's residence).

The Hon. Secretary reported that he had received communications from several towers as to the advisability of changing the date of the ringing competition in 1930 owing to the difficulty of several ringers being unable to obtain permission to leave their work, and it was afterwards resolved, on the proposition of Mr. E. Stitch, seconded by Mr. John T. Williams, that the competition be held on the first Saturday in May.

The hon. secretary was asked to enquire whether an invitation could be extended to the Guild to hold the competition at Llanelly, Carmarthenshire.

At a committee meeting held after the annual meeting it was decided that the rules of the competition be the same as in previous years, with the addition that the ringers taking part must be Sunday service ringers.

DISTRIBUTION OF DISTRICT FUNDS.

Arising out of the minutes, the Hon. Secretary also reported that at a committee meeting held at Brecon on May 25th, to consider the question of the distribution of the balance of district funds, it was resolved that the resolution as now appearing in the minute book should be amended to read as follows: 'That two-thirds of the balance in the hands of districts at the end of a year, after paying all expenses, etc., but excluding the balance in hand at the commencement of the year, be transferred to the general fund of the Guild.'

After reading a notice of motion by the Northern District, that 'half of all subscriptions for the year be paid to the general fund,' and a motion by the Southern District, that 'two-thirds of the balance in hand at the end of year be paid to the general fund,' it was resolved that the committee's proposal be confirmed.

Mr. E. Stitch raised the question of the Northern District having anticipated the meeting's confirmation of the committee's decision, by bringing into the balance sheet such money as would be due to the general fund under the new resolution, and the district was requested to adhere to the original resolution for the year ended June 30th last. The new resolution will take effect from July 1st, 1929.

The meeting's attention was drawn to the fact that Mr. Pitman's term of office as the Guild's representative on the Central Council had now expired. It was unanimously resolved that he be re-elected for a further period of three years.

Mr. Pitman gave the meeting a very full report on his visit to the meeting of the Central Council held recently, and he was heartily thanked by the chairman.

The Hon. Secretary reported as follows. Peals rung for the Guild up to the period ending December 31st, 1928, were: 1923, 2; 1924, 1; 1925, 3; 1926, 10; 1927, 14; 1928, 12; total, 42. Methods rung were: Doubles 21 (Grandsire 19, 2 methods 1, 7 methods 1), Minor 10 (Plain Bob 8, Kent Treble Bob 2), Triples 7 (Grandsire 5, Stedman 2), Major 4 (Plain Bob 1, Double Norwich 1, Cambridge Superlative 1, Superlative Surprise 1). The ringing competition was held at St. David's, Brecon, in May last, and resulted as follows (maximum points 240): Llanelly, Breck, 215; Cefn Coed, 208; Brecon, St. Mary's 'B', 192; Llangatock, 195; Cadoxton, 232; Baglan, 217; and Brecon, St. Mary's 'A', 208 positions, 3, 4, 7, 6, 1, 2, and 5 respectively. Cadoxton were entitled to an additional 5 points for ringing Stedman, bringing their total to 237.

A suggestion was made at the meeting that the hon. secretary should receive some honorarium for having acted in the capacity for five years (since the formation of the Guild), but the official concerned refused to entertain the suggestion.

The meeting concluded with votes of thanks to the Rector of Tenby for the use of the bells and Church House, and also the Lord Bishop for his address and for presiding over the annual meeting.

BEDFORDSHIRE & HERTFORD COUNTY ASSOCIATIONS

A very enjoyable meeting of the Luton and St. Albans Districts of the above associations was held at Dunstable on Saturday last, the fine ring of bells being enjoyed by several ringers for the first time. A short service was held, conducted by the Rector, assisted by the Rev. S. Dye (curate). The service was very bright and brief, and appreciated by all, the singing of several well-known hymns being the feature.

A short address was given by Canon W. W. C. Baker, president of the Beds Association.

In giving a hearty welcome to the ringers, he praised the idea of the two associations meeting together, saying that although they were separate bodies they were both members of one diocese.

Tea was provided by local churchworkers in the Parish Hall.

No business was transacted, but several excellent speeches were made. The Rector (the Rev. G. C. Rolfe) was in the chair, supported by Canon Baker and Mr. H. Golding (president of the Herts Association), and Mr. G. W. Cartmel, hon. secretary.

Canon Baker gave a warm welcome to the visitors, and Mr. Cartmel replied in a cordial speech of thanks.

The usual votes of thanks were passed, and the tower again visited.

This was the first joint meeting in Bedfordshire, but from expressions heard on all sides it was hoped it would not be the last.

SHROPSHIRE ASSOCIATION.

A very successful meeting of the Shropshire Association was held at Moreton Corbet on Saturday, July 20th, in ideal weather. About forty members were present from Market Drayton, Malinslee, Wem, Coalbrookdale, Ruyton-eleven-Towns, Clive, Prees, Sheriffhales, Stanton, Whitchurch, Alberbury, Shrewsbury, and the local company. The members were also very pleased to see Mr. Faulkner, who now lives at Dawlish, Devonshire. He formerly resided at Ightfield, near Whitchurch, and was a regular attendant at the meetings of the association.

Ringings on the fine peal of six bells commenced at three o'clock, and while some were ringing, others inspected the beautiful grounds of the Vicarage and played bowls on the lawn.

At the business meeting, with Mr. W. Saunders presiding, seven new members were elected, and it was decided to hold the next meeting at Whitchurch in October.

Tea, which had been generously provided by the Rector, was served on the lawn, in front of the church. At the conclusion, Mr. Hewitt proposed a vote of thanks to the Rector, who is away from home at present, for his hospitality. This was seconded by the Rev. F. Tennison, and carried with applause.

Some of the members then returned to the tower for further ringing, while others walked around the gardens and played games on the lawn. The methods rung during the day were Grandsire and Stedman Doubles, Plain Bob, Oxford and Kent Treble Bob Minor.

LADIES' FIRST PEAL OF MAJOR. COMMEMORATIVE TABLET DEDICATED.

An event of outstanding interest took place at Handsworth, Sheffield, on Saturday, when a handsome white marble tablet, recording the first peal of Major ever rung by ladies, was unveiled and dedicated at a meeting of the Northern District of the Ladies' Guild. The tablet, which is mounted on a black marble base, is beautifully inscribed in gold and black. Mrs. Baker, wife of the Vicar, performed the ceremony of unveiling, while the Rev. Baker solemnly dedicated it 'To the Glory of God and the inspiration of all whose eyes may rest upon it.' The service was continued in the church, to which the ringers descended, and the Vicar gave a most interesting address.

Shortly afterwards a very happy company sat down to tea in the schoolroom, the tables being tastefully decorated with flowers. The presence of the late secretary of the district, Mrs. Powell, and the Rev. E. S. Powell, added greatly to the pleasure of the occasion.

Two or three items of business made it necessary to hold a short meeting, over which the Vicar's wife presided, while the gentlemen returned to the tower, but not before the most sincere and hearty thanks had been expressed to the Vicar and Mrs. Baker for their valuable assistance.

The time and place of the September meeting was discussed, and it was finally decided to hold a combined meeting with the Peak District, details of which will be notified later.

The next item was the resignation of the secretary (Mrs. Jacques), and the election of Miss Cawthorne to fill the vacancy was unanimously carried.

The meeting wishes to take this opportunity of thanking the local company for their great interest and generous assistance, which played so great a part in making the meeting such a success. Special reference might here be made to Mr. Fred Watkinson, without whose untiring efforts that object could not have been attained.

Some very good ringing in methods ranging from Cambridge to Plain Bob, was thoroughly enjoyed during the evening, a touch of the latter being rung entirely by ladies.

The annual meeting of the Northern District was held at St. Mary's Church, Nottingham, and members attended from various parts. The ten bells were made good use of with the aid of the gentlemen on the heavy end. At the business meeting, which followed tea, two new members were elected. The date and place of the next meeting were left open. Votes of thanks to the local band for having everything in readiness, and rendering the necessary assistance, were unanimously passed. Further ringing during the evening brought a happy meeting to a close.

GRANDSIRE CATERS BY FATHER AND SONS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—In reply to your correspondent, re the peal of Grandsire Caters at Dudley, a peal of Grandsire Caters was rung at St. Mary's, Reigate, Surrey, by the Reigate Society on Saturday, September 23rd, 1899. The band included a father and two sons, viz., F. T. Hoad, sen. (conductor), F. T. Hoad, jun., and G. F. Hoad. It was the first peal on the bells after rehanging, with two new trebles added, it was rung at the first attempt, and was the first attempt on ten bells by all the band.—Yours faithfully,

GEORGE THOMPSON.

PORTSMOUTH RINGERS' OUTING.

The St. Mary's, Portsmouth, ringers and friends held their annual outing on June 15th. Leaving headquarters shortly after 1 p.m., they journeyed via Fareham (where they were joined by Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Bayley) to Twyford. Here they were in time to witness a freeman's wedding, complete with fire engine, firemen and other equipment. As soon as the ceremony was over, a visit was paid to the tower, where touches of Grandsire, Stedman, Bob Major and Cambridge Surprise were rung. During the ringing one of the company met with an accident in the churchyard, which necessitated removal to Winchester Hospital, and this unfortunate incident rather spoilt the enjoyment for the remainder of the trip. However, Mr. and Mrs. George Williams, who had met the party here, continued the journey with them to Whitchurch, where a very pleasant ring of eight was found, and some very nice touches were brought round. At Basingstoke, an excellent meat tea was partaken of at the Crown Restaurant. Mr. H. Horne kindly conducted the party to All Saints' Church, where there is an excellent, but rather noisy, peal of eight. Strictly speaking, there is a ring of nine here, the other bell enabling a ring of eight in the minor key to be constituted. Some good touches of Stedman, Bob Major, Double Norwich and Yorkshire Surprise were rung, after which Mr. and Mrs. Williams left the party, and the journey was continued to Alton. The Vicar kindly met the visitors. The bells here are indeed a magnificent peal, recently recast by the Croydon Bell Foundry, and after touches of Grandsire, Stedman, Double Norwich and Cambridge Surprise had been rung, they were lowered in peal. Home was eventually reached about 11 p.m., after a most successful trip, save for the unfortunate accident earlier in the afternoon. The company wish, through these columns, to thank the clergy and ringers who kindly met them en route, and helped to contribute so largely to the success of the outing.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

The report of a peal at Marcham has been sent without the name of the conductor.

Joseph Henry Daynes, youngest son of Mr. G. H. Daynes, Greenwich, has graduated as B.Sc. with honours, and has been recommended for the diploma of associate of the City and Guilds Institute, Imperial College, London University, in the Faculty of Engineering. He was the youngest student to sit for this examination, and came seventh for the whole college.

In reference to the footnote to peal of Stedman Triples rung at Thurcaston, Leicestershire, on Sunday, July 14th, which read that eight towers were represented, we are asked to point out that Edmonton was not represented by any member of that tower.

There is to be a ringers' opening of the bells at Tideswell Church, Derbyshire, known as the 'Cathedral of the Peak,' on August Bank Holiday. Messrs. Taylor and Co. have recast the tenor (12½ cwt.), put in a new 6th in place of the old 4th (a pre-Reformation bell now placed in the church), and added two bells to complete the octave.

Something like a 'week' of Taylor reopenings has just taken place. On Monday, the 15th, the recast peal of six (tenor 13 cwt.) in a new frame was opened at Navenby, Lincs. On Tuesday, the 16th, a recast ring of six (tenor 9 cwt.) in a new frame at Horbling, Lincs. On Saturday, the ringers' opening of a recast peal of eight (tenor 10½ cwt.) at Halewood, Lincs, and the opening of a recast peal of eight (tenor 20 cwt.) in a new frame at Eccles, Lincs. On Sunday there was the consecration by the Roman Catholic Archbishop of Liverpool of a carillon at St. Helens, Lincs.

A peal board has been unveiled in the tower of St. Peter's Church, St. Albans, commemorating a peal of Bob Major, rung on May 18th last, on the occasion of the dedication of a new lych gate, erected at the western entrance to St. Peter's churchyard, by Mr. and Mrs. W. C. B. Giddins, in memory of their son, William Craven Giddins, who died in 1911.

The ring of eight at Waterford Cathedral were opened on July 26th, 1872, and the first peal on them, which was the first peal in Ireland, was rung on the following day.

A peal of 7,552 Grandsire Major was rung at Aston on August 30th, 1793.

CRANLEIGH RINGER'S FUNERAL.

The tragic death of Mr. Alwyn Charman, which was reported in our last issue, has made a sad breach in the ranks of the ringers at Cranleigh, Surrey, where he was the conductor of the Parish Church company. He was the type of man who could always be relied upon to be in his place both for service and practice ringing, and although not keen on peal ringing was wholeheartedly attached to the tower and the duties devolving upon him. His father had been a ringer at Cranleigh before him; his brother, who preceded him as conductor, and two nephews are also members of the band.

The funeral took place on Thursday afternoon, and a considerable number of parishioners and workmates of deceased attended. The family mourners included the widow, the deceased's four daughters, his brother and other relatives. The Guildford Diocesan Guild was represented by Mr. and Mrs. R. Whittington, and Messrs. Tidy and L. Warner, of the Cranleigh band, Messrs. C. Hazleden, A. H. Pulling and W. Melville (Guildford) and J. S. Goldsmith, hon. secretary. The first part of the service was said by the Rector in the Church, and the interment took place at the cemetery, where, over the open grave, a course of Grandsire Triples was rung on handbells. Afterwards a touch of Grandsire Triples was rung on the tower bells with half-muffled clappers. Among the many wreaths was one sent by the Guildford Diocesan Guild.

Mr. Charman was 57 years of age.

AN ANNIVERSARY PEAL.

A peal of Kent Treble Bob Major was rung on Saturday at the Church of St. Mary-within-the-Walls, Chester, on the sixth anniversary of the record peal in the method (17,280 changes), rung at Over, Cheshire, in 1923. The band was the same as that which rang the long peal, and they stood in the same order. The composition was specially arranged by Mr. J. W. Parker, the last eleven courses being the fifth part of the 17,280. This was the first occasion on which the band had been able to meet for a peal since their record performance, and this commemoration was the 100th peal which Messrs. R. Sperring and John Hayes have rung together.

MR. E. V. RODENHURST'S 200 PEALS.

Doubles (1 to 4 methods) 7, on handbells 1, Minor (1 to 4 methods) 7, Grandsire Triples 38 (conducted 13), on handbells 1, Stedman Triples 30, Bob Major 18 (conducted 1), Oxford Treble Bob Major 6, *Kent Treble Bob Major 32 (conducted 1), Double Norwich Court Bob Major 36, Superlative Surprise Major 1, Cambridge Surprise Major 2, Grandsire Caters 3, Stedman Caters 7, Bob Royal 2, Kent Treble Bob Royal 5, Spliced Kent and Oxford Treble Bob Royal 1, Grandsire Cinques 1, Stedman Cinques 2. * Including 7,488, 9,344, 10,400 (longest peal in Wales), and 17,280 (Kent Treble Bob Record). Rung in 80 towers, in 13 counties and for 13 associations.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

THE ANNUAL FESTIVAL.

Oxford, even on a broiling hot day, has many attractions, and on Saturday the members of the Oxford Diocesan Guild showed in no uncertain fashion that the city still appeals to the majority of them as the best of all places for the annual festival. There have been persistent endeavours in recent years to move the festival to other places, but on every such occasion Oxford received an overwhelming preponderance of votes. The meeting on Saturday attracted nearly two hundred members, and despite the tropical conditions, most of them spent a thoroughly enjoyable day. The heat did not deter a great deal of ringing on the many peals of bells which the city possesses, both in the parish churches and colleges, and there were few who did not have as much exercise in this direction as they desired. Chief interest in ringing in the morning centred in the twelve at Christ Church and the ten at Magdalen College, while later in the day the ten at New College, the light rings of eight at St. Ebbe's, All Saints' and St. Giles', and the bells at St. Aldgate's, Holywell, St. Mary Magdalene's, St. Thomas' and Carfax, were all available, as were Merton College eight, but the reputation of the last-named deterred any attempt, under the atmospheric conditions, to ring them.

The festival service was held as usual in Christ Church Cathedral, where the Vicar of St. Laurence's, Reading (Rev. R. H. A. Bullock) preached an eloquent sermon.

The business meeting, attended by members from many towers of the widespread diocese, was held in the Chapter House, the Master (Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn) presiding, supported by Mr. A. J. Wright (hon. treasurer), Mr. R. T. Hibbert (hon. secretary), and Canon G. F. Coleridge, while among the numerous visitors were Mr. J. S. Pritchett, Presiding Master of St. Martin's Guild, Birmingham.

RESTORATION WORK GOES ON APACE.

The first business after the disposal of the minutes was the officers' reports. The Master's report referred to the loss the Guild had sustained by the death of the Rev. R. H. Hart Davis, who had served for many years in the capacities of secretary and treasurer, and who, though not a ringer himself, had at heart the welfare of the ringer and the success of the Guild. The peal total was a better one than last year, and it would be interesting to know how many peals had been attempted and well nigh rung. He had personal knowledge of a good many. It was, however, hardly possible to now attribute failure to the bad 'going' of the bells, and the work of restoration was still going on. The Master had visited to report and advise at Banbury, Steeple Claydon, Fawley, Goring, Nettlebed, Newbury, Oakley, Radley, Reading St. Mary, Somerton, Stoke Mandeville and Winslow. Work has been carried out successfully at Ambroseden, Aston Tirrold, Bray, Henley, Hinton Waldrist, Maids Moreton, Nettlebed, Stoke Mandeville, and Sunningwell. At Caversfield a new bell replaces the famous early 13th century bell, which is now hung down in the church. Two trebles have been added at Ambroseden, and the tenor has been recast, and a fine ring of eight replaces an indifferent ring of six. Stoke Mandeville also rejoice in two new trebles and a nice little ring of eight. The work of tuning and re-hanging the rings at St. Mary's, Reading, and St. Nicholas', Newbury, is now in hand, and before the year is out there is promise of a great work being done at Banbury. Not the least encouraging sign of the times is the way in which the more experienced ringers in many branches are co-operating with their secretaries in real educational work in different towers, and are not resting content with their regular meetings and peal attempts. In conclusion, the Master referred with gratification to the recovery of Canon Coleridge, and expressed the hope that he might long be spared to be what he is—not only to the Oxford Guild, but to the whole ringing fraternity.

The Master added to his report that they had lost an old friend and a great helper of the Guild, Mr. A. H. Cocks, of Marlow, who had passed away. Many of the older members of the Guild would remember the excellent work Mr. Cocks did in the towers at Marlow and Hughenden. He was treasurer of the Guild for a time, and was festival secretary for some years, and in those capacities he served the Guild well. But perhaps Mr. Cocks was best known to ringers as the author of 'Church Bells of Buckinghamshire.' Whenever he (the speaker) referred to that volume, as he often did, he paused in admiration of the man who in those days, when locomotion was not easy, travelled all over the country and made an analysis of the bells of Buckinghamshire, and gave such wonderful information of the bell founders all over the country. It was not until about six months after Mr. Cocks died that he (the Master) knew he had passed away, and he took that opportunity of making good what had been omitted from his report.

The Master said, further, that there had been handed to him through the Misses Hart Davis a peal of handbells, left to him, to do with them as he thought best for the good of the Guild. The committee agreed with him that he should get the bells put into decent order, and that they should be lent out to towers who wanted to borrow them for a time for the instruction of young members. Those who wanted the use of the bells should write to him.

FLOURISHING FUNDS.

The Master's report was adopted, as was also that of the treasurer, who said the statement of accounts showed a balance of £145

19s. 5d., as compared with £138 7s. 8d. the previous year. The income was £118 8s. 5d., a decrease of £8 10s. 3d. This was accounted for by a reduction in the donations to the Restoration Fund, a smaller number of reports sold, and a smaller collection at the festival. The net cost for the year was £90 14s. 8d. This was £14 less than last year. The amount received from the branches was £84 3s. 6d. This was the largest sum received in the history of the Guild, and it was a good testimonial to the excellent work done by the branch treasurers. There was also an increase in the number of hon. members. The balance in the hands of all the branches amounted to £193 7s. 4d. There were still some branches which had not opened a banking account. He hoped before next year they would have done so. The balance sheets showed that the money appeared to have been expended very wisely. He expressed a hope that more money would be spent on instruction. Some balance sheets had not been audited, and he asked all treasurers to see that all their accounts are certified as correct by an auditor. During the year two grants had been made from the Restoration Fund amounting to £6. At the last annual meeting it was decided to transfer 25 per cent. of the amount received from hon. members to this fund. He estimated that this would be £25, and the actual amount was £24 15s. The amount transferred was £6, which just paid the two grants. There was now a balance in hand of £36 19s. 3d. Grants had been promised to Deddington and Banbury.

Mr. Wright added that the report did not show the exact position, as in addition to the balance in hand they actually had £70 more than shown, this being the sum invested in Government stock, which appeared in a separate account. Since the end of the year they had purchased another £30 of stock, so that next year they would have a clear interest of £5 to place to the restoration fund.

The report was adopted.

'AN EXCELLENT SPIRIT OF BROTHERHOOD.'

In his report, the Secretary said a review of the year 1928 could not bring any thoughts but of thankfulness that progression was the trend of the Guild. The general tone was good and sound in all districts, and most of the branches were growing. Sunday service ringing was well maintained, peal ringing had been more successful. Although the total was but 57 peals, it would bear analysis; London, Bristol, Cambridge and Superlative Major were scored by the stalwarts of the East Berks and South Bucks Branch, and two peals of Cambridge Minor were rung, making 12 Surprise peals in all. Stedman, from Cinques to Doubles, numbered 16. The remaining 29 peals embraced Treble Bob, Plain Bob, Double Norwich Major and Grandfire Triples and Doubles. A great many peals were attempted and lost towards the end. The membership had increased slightly: Hon. members 209, ringing members 1,806—total 2,015. The towers affiliated were more than the Guild had ever had before, 201. This was due to the energy of branch secretaries. Restoration work had been carried out in several towers with great success and satisfaction. He had visited most of the branches during the year, and had found, as before, an excellent spirit of brotherhood, which was the great thing if the objects of the Guild were to be reached and maintained. He again tendered his thanks to all branch secretaries for the help they gave him during the year.

The report was adopted.

The Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn was re-elected Master by acclamation, his name being proposed by Canon Coleridge and seconded by Mr. W. P. Routh.

Mr. A. H. Wright was unanimously re-elected hon. secretary, and Mr. R. T. Hibbert hon. secretary, with thanks for their services.

Mr. E. Humphrey resigned from the committee, having gone to live outside the diocese. The other eleven elected members were re-appointed en bloc, viz., Miss V. Robinson, Messrs. J. F. Barlow, J. Evans, G. Caudwell, G. Holifield, W. Hibbert, sen., G. Martin, R. White, A. D. Cullum, H. Sear and J. W. Wilkins. Miss Stella Davis (Newbury Branch) was elected to fill the vacancy.

The four representatives of the Guild on the Central Council were re-elected, viz., the Master, Canon G. F. Coleridge, Mr. F. W. Hopgood and Mr. John Evans.

The meeting was asked to confirm the election of 166 new members, who had been admitted during the year. The Hon. Secretary, in making the proposal, said this did not mean that the Guild had grown to that extent, neither was the whole of the difference accounted for by members who had died.

The Master: We don't want members to die, but we wish more would stick.

The committee recommended that the festival in 1930 be held at Oxford. They suggested, if an alternative was desired, that Slough should be chosen.

Mr. Hopgood thought it would be a fine thing if they made a change and visited some other place than Oxford. That was an Oxford Diocesan Guild, and not an Oxford District Guild, and he claimed they should go all over the diocese with their festival. There was no better way than to follow their former custom of visiting the three counties in succession. He proposed that next year's festival be held at Slough.—Mr. A. D. Barker seconded.

On being put to the meeting, Slough received 15 votes and Oxford 61. Oxford will therefore be the venue in 1930.

On the motion of the Master, the Rev. Dr. Archer Houbian, formerly Archdeacon of Berkshire, was elected a vice-president of the Guild.

RESTORATION GRANTS VOTED.

The Hon. Treasurer brought forward the committee's recommendations as to restoration grants. He said he was proud of the Restoration Fund. It was a child of his. They had spent close on £50 in grants, and they now had £42 19s. 3d. in the fund. They were already committed to grants at Banbury and Geddington, and if they made the grants recommended that day the balance would be reduced to £13. He was, however, going to move later on that they continue for this year to take 25 per cent. of the hon. members' subscriptions, which would mean £6 for the fund, and this with £5 16s. from interest would increase the balance upon which they would be able to draw next year. He proposed the following grants be made: Ambrosden £5 5s., Newbury £5 5s., St. Laurence's, Reading, £5 5s., Thatcham £5 5s., Hampstead Norris £3 3s. Similar grants had been made in each case by the branches concerned.

The Master said this was a tremendous change compared with what it was when he joined the Guild, when they used to deal with two guineas here and thirty shillings there. He thought the work they were now doing was perfectly splendid.

Mr. Hopgood proposed that the grant to St. Laurence's, Reading, should be ten guineas.—This was seconded by Miss Robinson, who said help was badly needed.

Canon Coleridge suggested that St. Laurence's should have five guineas for the restoration, but if they embarked on a twelve-bell scheme then let them have their ten guineas.—This proposal, seconded by Mr. A. D. Cullum, was carried with only one dissident, and, with this amendment, the treasurer's list was adopted.

It was also resolved that 25 per cent. of the hon. members' subscriptions which came in to the treasurer should be devoted to the Restoration Fund.

A proposal that all applications for restoration grants should be in the hands of the general secretary by March 31st each year, in order that they might be considered first by the committee, was defeated by 24 votes to 14.

Canon Coleridge gave, as usual, an interesting account of the proceedings of the Central Council at Chelmsford. He remarked, however, that it ought not to be necessary, as everyone should have read the very full report of the meeting in the pages of 'The Ringing World.'

The Master said they were very much privileged in that Guild to have the report from the president himself. The Central Council was presided over in a most efficient manner, and difficult situations which at times arose were carried through by the well-known personality of Canon Coleridge. He proposed a vote of thanks to him for his report (applause).

The Master also proposed a vote of thanks to the Dean and Chapter for granting the use of the Cathedral, the Chapter House, and the dining hall for lunch; also to the preacher and to the organist.

Mr. Fowler, in seconding, suggested that the key of some of the exceptionally high-pitched hymns might be transposed for their services.

The motion was replied to by the Rev. R. H. A. Bullock.

Mr. Barker mentioned the loss to the Guild by death of Mr. G. Alder, and also that Mr. J. J. Parker, of Farnham Royal, who was one of their vice-presidents, had recently been bereaved by the death of his wife, and since then had met with an accident, having been knocked down by a motor-car.

The meeting concluded with a vote of thanks to the Master for presiding.

The company then adjourned to the handsome and historic dining hall of Christ Church for lunch, at the conclusion of which, on the call of the Master, the toast of 'Church and King' was honoured.

An informal vote on the question of the hymn tunes revealed that the majority were satisfied with the settings used.

Afterwards the members dispersed for ringing at the various towers.

WARWICKSHIRE GUILD.

A quarterly meeting of the Warwickshire Guild was held at Stoke, Coventry, on Saturday, July 20th, in delightful weather, members attending from Allesley, Bedworth, Bulkington, Chilvers Coton, Nuneaton and Shilton. During the afternoon ringing was interspersed with long and frequent periods of rest, and everyone was pleased when it was time to adjourn to St. Andrew's Hall for tea, kindly arranged by ladies of the parish.

The Rector (Rev. Frank Burnett) gave the members a cordial welcome, and sat down to tea with them. Afterwards, the Rector having another meeting to attend, Mr. T. W. Chapman (Ringing Master) presided at the business meeting.

It was decided to hold the next quarterly meeting at Coleshill, the August meeting to be held at Fillongley, and the September one at Brinklow. Seventeen new members were elected, including twelve ringing members (nine from Bedworth and three from Bulkington), one honorary member and four non-resident members.

After the meeting, the members returned to the tower, where the standard methods up to Double Norwich Major were rung.

ELY DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

A meeting of the Ely Archdeaconry was held at Bourn, on Saturday, in ideal weather. Members were present from Barley, Herts, Cambridge, Dry Drayton, Great Staughton, Hemingford Abbots, Long Stanton, Newton, Melbourn, Over, Royston, Stapleford, St. Neots, Trumpington, Willingham, and local tower. Messrs. H. Barrett and Shephard were also there from Gloucestershire. The service was taken by the Vicar (Rev. Jas. Duffill).

The Vicar kindly entertained the company to tea, 27 sitting down. He also presided at the business meeting.

Willingham was voted as the place of next meeting.

It was noticed that several prominent ringers were absent from the meeting, and the secretary wishes to state that he cannot arrange meetings on free Saturdays without knowing the fixtures of neighbouring associations.

The ringing was well up to standard, Superlative, Cambridge, Kent, Oxford Double Norwich and Bob Major, Grandsire and Stedman Triples being rung during the day.

Votes of thanks to the Vicar for the use of the bells, for taking the service and for his hospitality, and to Mr. H. J. Hazell, A.L.C.M., as organist, brought a happy meeting to a close.

WORCESTERSHIRE AND DISTRICTS ASSOCIATION. THE NEED FOR MORE YOUNG MEN.

A successful meeting of the Western Branch was held at Suckley on Saturday, July 13th. An hour's ringing in the afternoon was followed by service conducted by the Rector, Rev. C. H. Heather, who gave an interesting address, in the course of which he spoke of bells and their messages. The association's form of service was used.

An excellent tea was served in the school, about 60 sitting down. The business meeting followed, with the Rector in the chair, supported by Mr. R. G. Knowles (Association Master), Mr. S. T. Holt (Branch Master), and Mr. J. Rowlett (branch secretary). The towers represented were St. Peter's, Droitwich, Hanley Castle, Madresfield, Upton-on-Severn, Worcester Cathedral, St. John's, Worcester, Claines, Leigh, Upton Snodsbury, Crowle, Malvern Link, Hallow and Grimley. There were also several visitors present. The Rector welcomed the ringers.

Mr. W. Lewis reported that the quarterly peal had been rung at Kempsey. Mr. W. Ranford was appointed conductor of the next quarterly peal, to be rung at Suckley.—Hanley Castle was chosen for the next quarterly meeting, with Madresfield as alternative.

Several new members were elected, and a collection for Madresfield Bell Restoration Fund realised £1 1s.

Mr. Knowles urged the younger ringers to come forward and do their best to encourage other young men to ring, as the future of change ringing lay in their hands.

A vote of thanks was passed to the Rector for the use of the bells and conducting the service, to Mr. Ranford for providing an excellent tea, and to the Misses Ranford and Miss Mitton for preparing tea and attending to the needs of everyone.

The meeting concluded, the ringers returned to the tower for further ringing. London, Wells and Cambridge Surprise, Treble Bob, Oxford Bob and Plain Bob, Stedman and Grandsire Doubles, were among the methods rung during the day.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

A MESSAGE FROM THE KING.

A meeting of the South and West District was held at Ruislip on Saturday, July 13th. Although the temperature was rather high, over forty ringers and friends attended. Methods from Grandsire Triples up to and including Cambridge Surprise Major, were practised during the meeting.

A short service was held, conducted by the Rev. Canon E. Cornwell Jones (Vicar), who gave the association a most hearty welcome to Ruislip.

After the service the company adjourned to Fabb's Restaurant for a refreshing cup of tea. The vice-president (Mr. C. S. Bird) presided over a merry party, supported by the hon. secretary (Mr. W. H. Hollier) and other well-known ringers, Messrs. G. R. Fardon, C. Hunt, W. E. Taylor, E. H. Godfrey, H. Wingrove, J. W. Kelley and F. Kelley, and representatives from Acton, Ealing, Isleworth, Heston, and Ruislip, Beaconsfield, etc. The ladies present were the Misses Fletcher, Miss Lidbetter and Mrs. Taylor.

Two new members were elected for the local band. A vote of condolence was passed to the family of the late Rev. Maitland Kelly, the respected 'father' of the Devon Guild.

A vote of congratulation to the King on his recovery from his long illness was passed, and at the request of the meeting was forwarded to His Majesty. It was duly acknowledged in the following terms: 'Buckingham Palace. The Private Secretary is commanded to convey an expression of the King's thanks to the members of the South and West District of the Middlesex County Association and London Diocesan Guild of Change Ringers for the kind and loyal terms of their message. July 13th, 1929.'

Votes of thanks were accorded to the Vicar, the vice-president, Messrs. W. Bunce and A. Hunter, of the local band, and to all members and friends for their hearty support. Ringing took place again in the evening.

THE 'RALLY' AT NEWCASTLE.

GREAT GATHERING OF RINGERS ENTERTAINED.
THE WELLINGTON CARILLON ON VIEW.

The great 'rally' of ringers at Newcastle-on-Tyne on Saturday week brought together the largest gathering of ringers which has ever assembled in the North of England. The object of the visit was to hear and inspect the Wellington (New Zealand) carillon installed by the enterprise of the Newcastle 'Evening Chronicle' in a specially erected campanile in the North-East Coast Exhibition grounds, and ringers and their friends foregathered from places as far apart as Selby and Edinburgh and Paisley. The visit was on the invitation of the proprietors of the 'Evening Chronicle' and Messrs. Gillett and Johnston, the founders of the now famous bells, and the 500 ringers who accepted invitations spent a thoroughly interesting and enjoyable day.

The beauty and charm of the bells was impressively revealed to the critical visitors during a special demonstration given by Miss Nora Johnston, now one of the foremost of carillonneurs, and unquestionably the most skilful woman carillonneur in the world.

The recital was composed of the well-known numbers which have become so popular with the crowds which collect regularly in the Exhibition grounds and on the adjacent Town Moor, and the bell-ringers were thrilled with the musical splendour of the bells and the consummate skill of the expert lady who manipulated them.

It was with the simplest melodies that the carillonneur cast the assembled hundreds under the irresistible spell of the bells. The impression created by numbers like 'Londonderry Air,' 'Old Folks at Home,' 'Home, Sweet Home,' and 'Little Grey Home in the West' was portrayed in the crowd's attentiveness.

THE BELL TOWER AT THE EXHIBITION.

Miss Johnston proceeded to illustrate the scope of the bells by rendering items of such a diversity of character as 'Chanson Triste,' 'Here's a Health unto His Majesty,' 'Drink to Me Only,' and 'Little Bo Peep.' The heat made Miss Johnston's job much more fatiguing than usual.

The visitors were conducted into the bell tower in batches for an inspection.

One of the most interested of them was 17-year-old Ephraim Wennington, of Gateshead, who, paralysed and only able to get about with the aid of crutches, had to be carried up the steep steps on a man's back.

The recital concluded, the visitors adjourned to Carrick's pavilion in the Exhibition grounds, and, after partaking of tea on the invitation of the proprietors of the 'Evening Chronicle' and Messrs. Gillett and Johnston, they were accorded a welcome by the Lord Mayor of Newcastle (Colr. A. W. Lambert) and the Assistant Bishop of Newcastle (Dr. Cecil J. Wood).

A USEFUL COMMUNITY.

The Lord Mayor said he esteemed bell-ringers as members of a most useful community engaged in rendering an inspiring service to their fellows from the bellfries of the country's churches. 'We in Newcastle,' he proceeded, 'greatly appreciate the Wellington carillon as one of the greatest attractions we have here, and I am very proud of the fact that the Lady Mayoress herself was the first lady to play the bells. I would express the hope that it may be possible to obtain the services of some of those great carillonneurs from Belgium while the wonderful bells are still on Tyneside; and I feel that a hint to the "Newcastle Chronicle," who have rendered us such great services in securing the bells for the Exhibition, may result in the further treat I have mentioned being provided us.'

Mr. Cyril F. Johnston, of Messrs. Gillett and Johnston, said he believed that afternoon's gathering was the largest meeting of bell-ringers ever organised in the North.

An assurance that the 'Newcastle Chronicle' would do their utmost to carry out the suggestion of the Lord Mayor to secure the services of a series of eminent Belgian carillonneurs was given by Mr. C. L. White, publicity manager, representing the directors of the 'Newcastle Chronicle.'

At the request of the change ringers, Mrs. A. W. Lambert, the Lady Mayoress, gave a recital on the carillon on Saturday night.

For ten minutes she sat at the keyboard by which the bells are manipulated by the electro-pneumatic system, and, without music, gave a skilful rendering of several airs which the carillon has made popular on Tyneside.

When the pressman suggested to the Lord Mayor that the city should have a carillon of its own, after the Wellington bells are removed, he observed, 'I wish some generous citizen would provide the money to buy one.'

The day closed with a social and concert in the Chronicle Hall, Pudding Chare. An excellent musical programme, organised by Mr. C. L. Routledge, was provided by a number of popular local artistes.

In the absence of Mr. Edward Tebbutt, managing director of Newcastle Chronicle, Ltd., Mr. Routledge took the chair, and was supported by Mr. E. Ferry, president of the Durham and Newcastle Diocesan Association. On behalf of the proprietors of the 'Chronicle,' Mr. C. L. White welcomed the members and their ladies, and explained that refreshments were to be had at any time in the vaults below the hall.

Quartets and solos were given by the Cathedral Quartette, Messrs. J. J. Gibson, J. T. Gillespy, W. Haydn Hobkirk and Mr. Henry Frater, Mr. Edward Newton acting as accompanist. Miss Nora Johnston gave a surprise turn, 'Never Mind,' introducing a most amusing verse about the carillon and herself. One of the most entertaining numbers was that of Mr. Martin Henderson, the blind concertina player, whose efforts were greeted with a chorus of applause. Mr. Cyril Johnston had also brought his 'carillon' of 23 handbells, from which he tapped delightful melody—all popular airs, even including the Tyneside anthem, 'Blaydon Races.'

A course each of Stedman and Grandsire Caters was given by mixed bands, and tunes on the handbells by Messrs. Tom and James Gofton were also enthusiastically encored. At eleven o'clock the National Anthem was sung, after votes of thanks had been carried by storms of applause to the hosts of the evening, and to the artistes, which went to prove that all had a very happy and entertaining day, with the Exhibition thrown in as a distinct asset to a day of glorious weather.

A TOWER BUILDING RECORD.

The carillon which was on view was that which attracted considerable attention a few months ago at Croydon Bell Foundry, and is to form the memorial to the men and women of Wellington, New Zealand, who died in the service of the Empire. The complete carillon consists of 49 bells, the largest weighing 5 tons, the total weight of bells being 31½ tons, but owing to considerations of space it was not found practicable to instal the two largest bells at Newcastle. The Wellington War Memorial Carillon Committee, through the kind intervention of Sir James Parr, K.C.M.G., High Commissioner for New Zealand, arranged for the loan of 47 of the bells (to which two trebles were added in order to give four complete octaves) to the North-East Coast Exhibition during the summer of 1929. The largest of the 47 bells weighs 3½ tons, and its note is B flat.

When it was found that there was no suitable building for these bells in the Exhibition grounds, the Newcastle 'Evening Chronicle,' with the characteristic enterprise which marks the conduct of this great journal, at once instructed Messrs. Mauchlen and Weightman, architects, of Newcastle, to design a special campanile, the erection of which was entrusted to Messrs. Henry Kelly, Ltd., contractors.

Within three weeks the tower was designed, the foundations prepared, the steelwork fabricated in the yards of Messrs. Wright, Anderson and Co., Ltd., Gateshead, the bells and mechanism dismantled in the Croydon foundry of Messrs. Gillett and Johnston, despatched by sea, erected in place and inaugurated on the opening day of the Exhibition by H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, in the presence of the High Commissioner for New Zealand, the Lord Mayor of Newcastle, the Duke of Northumberland, and the Marquis and Marchioness of Londonderry.

The inaugural recitals, given by Mr. Clifford E. Ball, Mus.Bac., of Bournemouth, aroused the greatest enthusiasm, audiences of more than 100,000 people collecting on the Town Moor to hear the bells.

The bells are tuned on the five tone harmonic principle to equal temperament and to international pitch. The clavier for hand operation by a carillonneur has a range of 4½ chromatic octaves, the lowest 25 keys being attached to pedals as well as to the manuals.

Each bell has an inscription bearing the name of some battle or engagement, whose names have now become household words: 'The Somme,' 'Jutland,' 'Gallipoli,' 'Ypres,' etc. Five of the bells have badges or symbols—No. 34, the badge of the New Zealand Rifle Brigade; No. 35, the New Zealand Army Nursing Service Symbol; No. 36, Special Medical Service Symbol; No. 44, the Arms of the

TO WINDSOR AND STOKE POGES.

The annual outing of the bellringers of All Saints' Church, Maldon, Essex, took place on Saturday, June 22nd. Twenty-one people left Maldon at 7 a.m. upon what proved to be a most interesting excursion, though a little rain met with early in the day necessitated the hood of the charabanc being put up. As was the case last year, each member was provided with a programme and guide, which gave a short history of all the places to be visited, with a time-table. A few courses of Grandsire Triples and Caters were rung en route to Waltham Abbey. At Forest Lodge, in this parish, a call was made for breakfast, where, amid scenes of ideal natural beauty, on the edge of the forest, a hearty and substantial meal was enjoyed by the company. A short journey then brought the party to Waltham Abbey Church, where arrangements had been made to inspect the grand old building. With the help of an official guide, a comprehensive tour was made. Though probably still the grandest ecclesiastical building in Essex, the church is little in comparison with the magnificence of the Abbey in the days of the monks. A long ride through Enfield, Barnet, Elstree, Harrow and Slough brought the party to Windsor, the main objective of the day. So much of interest was to be seen here that little hope was entertained of including everything. The rich and majestic loveliness of St. George's Chapel was the first attraction, and the party was taken round the interior by a guide, whose explanations were of much interest to all. Another guide then took a section of the company up the curfew tower, where hang eight heavy bells, the tenor of which is the curfew bell that Gray used to hear from Stoke Poges, a few miles out. A chiming apparatus, which has been functioning for many years, then played some hymn tunes, rounds, and Queens on the bells, which are also occasionally rung. After a walk round the balcony of the castle, a move was made for the Parish Church (St. John-the-Baptist), where some good touches of Grandsire and Stedman Triples were rung, and also some Bob Minor. Mr. T. Smith, the steeple-keeper, who had fixed up tea for the company, then led the way to the tea rooms, where the party was joined by Mr. J. Amos, who, before moving to the London district, was an enthusiastic member of the Maldon band of ringers. After tea, a move was made for Stoke Poges. Here the Vicar, the Rev. Mervin-Clare, and the steeple-keeper, Mr. T. G. Hawkins, welcomed the ringers. An unusual straight staircase outside the tower is the way to the ringing chamber of this belfry, and when some good touches of Bob Minor and Stedman Doubles had been rung on this delightful and musical peal, the Vicar guided the party round the church, fully explaining the many interests of the beautiful building, where Gray used to worship, where he is buried, and in the churchyard of which he is supposed to have written his immortal elegy. A very fitting final ceremony was performed by Mr. W. Chalk, when, 'far from the madding crowd's ignoble strife' and 'neath . . . that yew tree's shade, where heaves the turf in many a mould'ring heap,' he ably recited Gray's Elegy, the members of the party grouped among the tombstones of which Gray wrote, the church forming a colourful background, and the quiet evening calm making the scene impressive. The homeward route was through the city, and during the journey some course of Bob Minor, Grandsire Triples and Caters were rung on handbells. Home was reached at about 11.30 p.m., after sixteen and a half hours of real pleasure. The incumbents at the places of ringing will be written to and privately thanked, for it greatly adds to the day's enjoyment to have welcomes such as were received on this trip.

APPEAL FOR ECKINGTON RINGER.

The following further subscriptions have been received in response to the appeal for help for Mr. Alfred West, of Eckington, who is totally incapacitated: Previously acknowledged, £2 6s. 6d.; J. S. Goldsmith (Woking), 10s.; W. Idle (Dewsbury), 2s.; R. K. Knight (Laytonstone), 2s. 6d.; Bakewell (All Saints') ringers, 13s.; total, £3 14s. Contributions to help this deserving case should be sent to Mr. T. A. Howes Smith, Eckington, near Sheffield.

Royal Navy; and No. 49, the Bourdon, is ornamented with the fern leaf from the badge of the New Zealand Contingents, and also the leaf of the New Zealand flax, a staple product of the province of Wellington.

The frame weighs 34 tons, and is constructed to carry 53 bells eventually, as the intention is to add four lower bells, the largest to weigh 10 tons.

The clappers of the big bells are counterbalanced to ease the work of the carillonneur on the 'heavy end,' and the tracker work of rollers and intermediate cranks is of the latest design, embodying improvements to ensure accurate striking of the bells and delicacy of touch on the little trebles.

In addition to the carillonneur's clavier, the firm's patent electro-pneumatic mechanism is attached, and has a dual function. One operates a paper band machine on the principle of the pianola, whereby tunes, specially arranged for carillon music, are played—the mechanism being released by a clock at any intervals desired in the day. The other connects an ivory keyboard similar to that of a piano. This can be fixed in any part of the tower for use by a musician who is not necessarily a carillonneur.

CHURCH OFFICIALS LIVE LONG IN NORTON.

On Saturday, July 6th, the parishioners of Norton, in Derbyshire (the birthplace and the last resting-place of Chantrey, the greatest of English sculptors), gave a parochial welcome to their newly-appointed Rector, Rev. J. Stanton Peffe, M.A. In celebration, the ringers, under the conductorship of Mr. A. P. Knights, rang on the bells of the ancient Church of St. James, a peal of Bob Major (5,024 changes) in 3 hrs. 10 mins.

After a public tea in the schoolroom, adjournment was made to the Oakes Park, where exhibitions of dancing were given by the scholars of Norton and Greenhill Schools, other games and sports were indulged in, and community singing, concluding with the National Anthem, brought to a close a red-letter day in the annals of Norton Church history.

How rarely such occasions can have offered is revealed by the fact that the span of years from 1763 to 1929 has been covered by four incumbents only. Speaking of long tenure of office, it is interesting to note that the people's warden, Mr. Ernest Hunstone, has served in this capacity for 32 continuous years, the recent death of the parish clerk, Mr. J. Shaw, terminated 40 years' service, while the leader of the ringers, Mr. Wm. Biggin, has completed 50 years of service as a ringer at this church.

Norton Church was built about 1180 by Robert FitzRanulph, the Reformation of Beauchief Abbey (nearby), and up to the time of the Reformation was served by the Canons of Beauchief.

Its parish registers commence with the year 1559, the first year of the reign of Queen Elizabeth. Originally the tower held six bells only, but in 1896 these were recast by Taylor's, of Loughborough, and opportunity was taken to bring the peal up to eight in number, the tenor being 15½ cwt. The ringers at this church are also skilled exponents in handbell ringing.

AMONG ESSEX TOWERS.

The Foxearth ringers, augmented by friends from Glensford and Long Melford, had a short ringing tour, arranged by Mr. Evans with his usual organising ability. Great Tey was the first halt, and this nice peal of eight were soon going to Treble Bob and appreciated by all at Kelvedon. Mr. Elliot met the ringers, and a treat on these heavy six was essayed. The heavy end man of the party, Mr. T. Slater, found no opposition for the tenor, and he just revelled in it. After a lough or two, the party made for the Rectory, where, as guests of the Rev. and Mrs. Croft, tea was partaken of. Feering was the next tower visited, and here the party had the pleasure of meeting and ringing with Mr. W. Keeble. A pull at Earls Colne terminated the ringing part of the programme. The thanks of the party are due to all those who helped to make the trip successful by having bells ready for ringing, and especially are they indebted to the Rev. and Mrs. Croft, of Kelvedon, for their kindness in providing tea.

HASTINGS RINGERS' TRIP TO ROCHESTER.

On Saturday, June 29th, the bellringers, members and friends of the Borough Church of Hastings assembled for their annual outing. The bells of St. Clement's were rung, and the company, numbering forty, left in the 'Village Belle' motor coaches shortly after 8.30 a.m. for Rochester. Passing through Cranbrook, the party arrived at Maidstone well on time. Here a very enjoyable time was spent for about an hour in boating on the Medway. The company then made their way to Rochester, which was reached after a glorious hour's run. Some of the party visited the Castle ruins, whilst the ringers made their way to the Cathedral, where they tramped up the old steps under the oak beams supporting the roof, and arrived in the ringing room. Here at one o'clock they rang the Cathedral bells, the Dean having kindly granted permission. Leaving Rochester at 3.30, they made their way to Tunbridge Wells, where tea was partaken of, and, later, they proceeded to Colemans Hatch, where they were welcomed by their late Rector (Rev. E. B. Foyster). The Rector conducted a party over the Vicarage and surroundings, and during this time the ringers enjoyed a fine ring on this very light peal. Hastings was reached at 11.15, after a brief stop at Uckfield. The ringers wish to thank the incumbents and secretaries of the above-mentioned towers and any others who helped them to enjoy a splendid day.

THE 18 1/2 TON RINGING BELL,
the Bourdon of the Carillon of 64 Bells, about to be installed at
RIVERSIDE CHURCH, NEW YORK, U.S.A.

ANCIENT BELLS.

Although ringers are rapidly being converted, in the mass, to an appreciation of bells made on modern principles, there remains among many of them a respect, amounting almost to reverence, for bells of real antiquity. Not willingly would they part with a rare specimen of the art of the ancient founder and it is gratifying to realise that where the fate of such individual bells is in the balance there is a growing tendency to preserve these old castings merely as relics, linking us with a by-gone age, by giving them a place of repose in the church. By this means such bells are saved from the melting pot and also from being retained as a blemish, from the musical point of view, in a peal. Bells with more than three hundred years of life are comparatively rare, at any rate in towers where there is a ring, but a complete peal of bells of this age is an even greater rarity. There are a few about, of course, but only a very few, and one of these is shortly to undergo rehangings. The ancient bells to which we refer are the peal of five at Sedlescombe, in Sussex, which are not only more than three centuries old, but have the even greater distinction of coming from the same foundry. They were all cast at Whitechapel, the tenor in 1595 and the others in 1606-7. The former was by Robert Mot, and perhaps we can appreciate something of its hoary age when we remember that when it came from its mould, Queen Elizabeth was on the throne; Shakespeare was but seven years old; the Spanish Armada had only just been defeated. When the rest were cast, Gunpowder Plot had been discovered but yesterday, and it was thirty years before the College Youths formed themselves into a society. Through all this long period these old bells have hung together in the village tower, calling the faithful to worship, Sunday by Sunday, marking the passing of the years, and signalling in turn the joys and sorrows of the people of something like a dozen generations. What more fitting then than that the foundry which gave them to the world, whose history has run side by side with the long life of the bells, should now be called upon to restore them; to give them a new life perhaps for further centuries of usefulness. It may be easy to 'pension off' just one old bell; but such action in the case of a whole ring would be a very expensive way of indulging one's sentiment. The next best thing — if not the better thing — is to restore and thus preserve these interesting relics, and, in the case of Sedlescombe, it is proposed to increase their dignity by adding a treble to make a ring of six. Such old bells may not come up to modern standards in either tune or tone, but as rare examples of the work of craftsmen of a by-gone age they are irreplaceable.

FIELD OPERATIONS IN E. BERKS AND S. BUCKS.

The H.Q. staffs of the 'Red' and 'Blue' forces met whilst detrain-ing, en route for their respective battle fronts on Saturday. The position to be stormed by the 'Reds' could be seen in the distance, strongly fortified with timber, and the Red O.C. was left with wishes for success and a hope to see him later. The 'Blue' O.C. (deputy) proceeded alone to his field of operations (Lane End), where he was joined by three others (one non-combatant). The remainder of the H.Q. staff arrived in the next 'tank', having made a detour to inspect the Q.M. stores. Fortunately, some reinforcements arrived from the north, in the shape of Messrs. C. D. Potter and R. J. Ricketts, the last-named generously 'providing the rations,' Messrs. J. Evans and F. West (with his 'infernal machine') also helped to swell the ranks. Ringing in various methods was enjoyed, including a little 'spliced,' and some of the local talent scored in a 360 of Plain Bob. The return journey was somewhat similar to the arrival, i.e., by devious ways to the railhead, where the Blue O.C. met the discomfited 'Reds,' who had been soundly trounced by St. Clement's. As usual, the poor privates were blamed by the O.C. (non-commissioned) for 'not holding their position.'

The next practice meeting for East Berks and South Bucks Branch should be on August 24th at Warfield. Peal arrangers please note.

GLODWICK RINGER'S JUBILEE.

Mr. Albert Clegg, who for fifty years has been a ringer at St. Mark's Church, Glodwick, Lancs, has been presented with a beautiful timepiece and an ebony walking stick, both suitably inscribed, by his many friends as a mark of appreciation for his long and devoted services. The Vicar of St. Mark's, the Rev. W. Sellers, made the presentation, and referred to Mr. Clegg's great regularity and punctuality during his 50 years' service, a record of which Mr. Clegg could feel proud.

Mr. Clegg suitably responded, and other members of the company spoke in appreciative terms of Mr. Clegg's esteemed services as a ringer.

The gathering closed with prayer, after which a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples was rung by a representative body of the Oldham Association, conducted by Mr. Clegg: F. Rawton, Moorside, 1. A. Taylor, Leesfield, 2. O. Moores, Leesfield, 3. S. Goulden, Leesfield, 4. W. Barlow, Glodwick, 5. J. Lees, Oldham, 6. A. Clegg (conductor), Glodwick, 7. J. Clegg, Glodwick, 8.

MAXIMUS AND MINOR RECORDS. TWO GREAT PEAL ATTEMPTS NEXT MONDAY.

There are to be two attempts for record peals on Monday—one, the 15,312 of Cambridge Surprise Maximus at Ashton-under-Lyne, of which notice has already been given. If successful, not only will it be the longest peal of Maximus ever rung, but also the longest peal on twelve bells.

The present Maximus record, 12,240 Kent Treble Bob, was made at Ashton-under-Lyne in 1911, the peal taking 8 hrs. 39 mins. There have, however, been two longer lengths on twelve bells, viz., 12,675 Stedman Cinques at Southwark Cathedral in 9 hrs. 47 mins. in 1923, and 13,001 Grandsire Cinques in 8 hrs. 45 mins. at Painswick in 1920. The previous longest lengths on twelve bells had been 11,111 Stedman Cinques at Birmingham in 1901, and 10,224 Kent Treble Bob Maximus at Painswick in 1833.

The peal next Monday is to be the Rev. H. Law James' 29 courses, and will start at about 8 a.m. The band is comprised of Messrs. W. Pye, G. R. Pye, C. T. Coles, J. Bennett and C. W. Roberts (all of London district), J. T. Dyke (Chilcompton), E. P. Duffield (Colchester), A. E. Reeves (Bristol), G. Lindoff (Dublin), E. Jenkins (Warrington), T. B. Worsley (Bolton), and J. H. Riding (Crewe). The party meet at Ashton on Sunday, and ring for service at 5 p.m. Ashton-under-Lyne tenor is 25 cwt.

The second attempt for a record is to be made at St. Mary's Church, Rickingham Superior, Suffolk, where, starting about 10 a.m., a band of Suffolk Guild members will attempt to ring 16,560 of Minors. The tenor at this church is 10 cwt.

The existing six-bell record was made at Wath-on-Deerne as long ago as February 27th, 1816, when 'was rung the following 21 peals, viz.: Evening Delight, Evening Star, Cheapside, Cambridge, Symphony, Bob Royal, Morning Exercise, Morning Star, Morning Pleasure, Primrose, Tulip, College Treble, College Pleasure, London Scholars, Oxford Treble, St. Ann's Delight, Navigation Bob, Violet, Duke of York, City Delight, Rodney's Victory, making in all 15,120 changes, which were brought round in a grand and masterly style in eight hours and 27 minutes without a man quitting his rope.'

Good wishes for success will attend the efforts of both companies next Monday.

SHEFFIELD CATHEDRAL RINGERS VISIT LOUGHBOROUGH

Recently the members of the Sheffield Cathedral company had their annual outing to Loughborough at the kind invitation of Mr. Colin Harrison, of the firm of Messrs. John Taylor and Co., and a late member of the Sheffield Cathedral company. As the main object was to see and gather as much knowledge as possible connected with the manufacture of bells, an early start was made with a view to reaching Messrs. Taylor and Co.'s renowned foundry whilst the work was in full swing. This being accomplished, the party were warmly welcomed on arrival by Messrs. Harrison and Fidler, who immediately took charge of and conducted the party round the extensive works, and minutely explained the many intricacies and processes entailed in the casting and hanging of a modern peal of bells.

Surprise was expressed at the large ensemble of the firm, full interest being maintained right up to 'knocking off' time. Among the numerous peals of bells to be seen in the course of completion, special interest was taken in a large carillon temporarily erected in the foundry, and ultimately destined for a home town, exhibitions being given by the firm's representative.

Afterwards a visit was made to the bell tower, where touches of Little Bob Royal, Grandsire and Stedman Caters were indulged in. Amusement was caused at the first attempts on this extremely light peal, one member at least being completely 'bell licked,' but after a feeler quite creditable ringing was done, and the visitors were able to enjoy the novelty.

An adjournment was then made to hear the carillon erected in the public war memorial tower, where the assistant carillonneur very kindly gave an exhibition for the party's special benefit.

Dinner having been served at the King's Head Hotel, the whole party had a delightful walk to the village of Stanford-on-Soar, where the peal of eight had been kindly placed at their disposal. Touches in various methods were 'trotted out,' the non-participants reclining on a grassy bank in the glorious sunshine, criticising the work of those within.

A return was made by motor bus to Loughborough, when a visit was paid to the famous peal of ten at the Parish Church, the grandeur of which was a delight to hear, whilst the handling was all that could be desired. Here a very enjoyable hour was spent.

At the special invitation of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison, tea was partaken of at the Foundry House, and at the conclusion Mr. Harrison, to whom the party was totally indebted for the inception of the visit and the privileges conferred, was warmly thanked for all that he had done to ensure a successful day, the whole party expressing pleasure at all they had seen and heard. The remainder of the time was devoted to handbell ringing on the lawn, and further touches on the Foundry ten, which brought to a close one of the most enjoyable and interesting outings instituted by the Sheffield Cathedral company.

THE Q-SET PROBLEM EXPLAINED. AN ENLIGHTENING BOOKLET.

A little book, entitled 'Odds and Ends of Grandsire Triples,' has been written by the Rev. C. D. P. Davies, who, as many of our readers well know, is probably the leading authority on the Grandsire method. To Mr. Davies' investigations more than forty years ago, the Exercise owes a great deal of its knowledge of Grandsire Triples composition. His appendix to Snowden's 'Grandsire' is not the least valuable part of that interesting and exhaustive work, and his peal compositions are among the 'classics' of this method. Anything, therefore, which comes from his pen on the subject of Grandsire Triples is to be welcomed, and in his newest contribution he again places the Exercise under an obligation.

Most ringers who 'dabble' in composition have heard of Thompson's theory of Q sets. If they have not heard of it, they nevertheless find themselves up against it when they begin to compose peals, and unless they understand the principle of these Q sets their way to success is, indeed, an arduous, and often a disappointing, one. Mr. Thompson was not a ringer, and he approached the subject merely from a mathematician's standpoint, but he proved certain facts very conclusively. His work solved once for all one of the problems which had beset composers, namely, whether a peal of Grandsire Triples could be obtained by plain leads and common bobs only. In a pamphlet which he published in the year 1886, Mr. Thompson proved the impossibility of the task.

There are probably few ringers of to-day who have had the opportunity of studying Mr. Thompson's pamphlet; their closest acquaintance with it is through the review in the pages of 'Grandsire.' The Rev. C. D. P. Davies now brings this vital theory, worked out by Mr. Thompson, into a practical relationship with composition as applied to the Grandsire method. This he does with a clarity which will enable anyone, with a desire to study the subject, to grasp with comparative ease the important principles which underlie what to many ringers is a term full of mystery—Q sets.

In addition to the explanation which is given on the question of Q sets, the author also contributes an interesting analysis of some famous peals of Grandsire Triples, and has a final word to say on the subject of the different views taken by the editor of 'Grandsire' and himself in the matter of the starting of the calling in the two halves of Holt's ten-part peal—a subject which created a lively discussion many years ago.

To all those who do not make the belfry door a beginning and an ending of their interest in ringing, 'Odds and Ends of Grandsire Triples' will provide an interesting and an enlightening study. It is obtainable, post free 1s. 3d., from Rev. C. D. P. Davies, Kemereton, Tewkesbury.

MEMBERS OR DELEGATES? To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—In view of the opinions being expressed on the above subject, would it not be advisable to pause and consider the unique position of the Central Council—a body which derives its power solely from the respect which it commands among the Exercise—before accepting the principle that a member has the right to vote against the considered opinions of his (or her) association?

I would reply to the Rev. C. D. P. Davies' statement this week that 'the Council consists, not of delegates, but of members, etc.,' by asking how those individuals become members except by being delegated to represent their fellow-members of their respective associations?

I agree that we elect these representatives, having faith in their judgment on any question that may arise, but, as I believe happened originally in this controversy, when a question has already been discussed by an association and a definite opinion formed, surely that association has a right to express that opinion through its elected representative, irrespective of his own personal opinion, and to expect his support in the Council Chamber, the only alternative being, should he be unable to accept their views, his resignation and the election of another who can conscientiously represent that opinion.

This I have found to be the invariable rule in organisations where the Council has the authority of rules binding on all federated bodies, and should be a point of honour in our case, where, as I stated before, the Council carries the day simply by the respect which it commands among the Exercise.

This respect, I fear, will not be increased if we accept the principles of any leading politician for our guidance. Ringers exist of all shades of political opinion, and I doubt if any prominent politician can be found whose Parliamentary principles would be accepted without serious question by a great many, and, still further, our Council is in no way a counterpart of the national Parliament, for, whatever Viscount Brentford, Burke, or any party leader may have said, the judgment of M.P.s is determined, not so much by the views of their constituents or by the national needs, as by the party whip, and I fear that when that atmosphere pervades our Council chamber it will stifle the prestige of that assembly among ringers throughout the country—surely a condition which none of us cares to contemplate.

ECCLES NEW BELLSFINE NEW RING IN LANCASHIRE CHURCH.

At a largely attended service, at which all classes of the community were represented, the new ring of eight bells at Eccles Parish Church, Lancashire, was dedicated on July 20th. A procession was formed at the Town Hall, where the Mayor and Mayoress met the schoolchildren and proceeded to the church after laying a wreath on the cenotaph. A large number of ringers was present, and the bells were dedicated by Rev. Canon H. J. Elsee, president of the Lancashire Association. Towards the end of the service the congregation assembled in the churchyard to hear the bells, a short touch under the conductorship of Mr. J. Myles being rung. The proceedings outside concluded with the hymn, 'Hark, hark, my soul!' and a verse of the National Anthem. A wreath was placed on the grave of Mr. Edward Oldfield, a ringer who had worked hard on behalf of the fund for providing the new bells.

Messrs. Taylor and Co. were the founders, and the new ring, with a tenor of 19 cwt. 3 qr. 13 lb. in E flat, evoked the greatest admiration. A great improvement in the acoustics outside the tower has been effected by the provision of a lantern roof.

The inscriptions on the old bells have been reproduced on the new as follows:—

- 1.—Edward Byrom, 1768. Glory be to God on High. (Recast by J. Taylor and Co., 1929.)
 - 2.—Ann Byrom, 1768. Serve The Lord in Fear. (Recast by J. Taylor and Co., 1929.)
 - 3.—Eleanor Byrom, 1768. Music is Medicine to the mind. (Recast by J. Taylor and Co., 1929.)
 - 4.—Our voices shall with joyful sound make hills and valleys echo round, 1768. (Recast by J. Taylor and Co., 1929.)
 - 5.—Prosperity to this Church and Town of Eccles, 1768. (Recast by J. Taylor and Co., 1929.) H. N. Ross, B.D., Vicar of Eccles. Churchwardens, F. W. Watson, S. Hesketh, F. H. Wellwood.
 - 6.—To honour both our God and King our voices shall in consort ring. (All these Bells, cast originally by Lester and Pack of London, in 1768, for St. John's Church, Manchester, were given to Eccles Church and recast by J. Taylor and Co., of Loughborough in 1929.)
 - 7.—Ye ringers all that prize your health and happiness be sober, merry, wise and you'll the same possess, 1768. (Recast by J. Taylor and Co., 1929.)
 - 8.—St. John's Church, Manchester. Lester and Pack of London. FECIT 1768. In wedlock bands all ye who join with hands

A VILLAGE'S EXAMPLE.ANOTHER NEW PEAL OF SIX FOR SOUTH LINGS.

The opening of the church and bells of the small village of Horbling on July 16th was one of marked interest. Less than four years ago the condition of the edifice was such that it seemed almost impossible to save it from ruin, but, owing to the splendid co-operation of the Rector, the Parochial Church Council, and parishioners of Horbling, the sum of £3,800 has been raised, and this fine old edifice has been made safe for generations to come. The Lord Bishop of Lincoln was present for the dedication service, and in his address congratulated the people of Horbling on completing such a big task—a wonderful achievement; and in rejoicing with them in their thanksgiving, he commended their untiring efforts to larger and more pretentious places.

At the conclusion of the service, a well-struck 720 of Cambridge Surprise was brought round by: Rev. H. Law James 1, J. P. Fidler 2, A. Holmes 3, Mrs. R. Richardson 4, J. W. Ward 5, R. Richardson 6.

The work of recasting the peal of five bells and making them into six, together with the provision of a new iron frame with all the latest fittings, was entrusted with Messrs. Taylor and Co., of Loughborough, and they are again to be congratulated on the splendid work they have completed. Horbling now possesses a musical ring with a tenor of 9 cwt. in B flat.

On Saturday last, July 20th, the Southern Branch of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild held their quarterly meeting at this church, ringers being present from Peterborough, Market Deeping, Deeping St. Nicholas, Bourne, Morton, Rippingale, Folkingham, Doncaster, Spalding, Pinchbeck, Surfleet, Branston, Orston, Billingborough and Horbling. Service was held in the church, conducted by the Rector of Horbling, and the address given by the Bishop of Grantham, who gave a very interesting outline on the various uses of bells throughout the ages.

The tea and business meeting followed at Tateson's Cafe, at Billingborough, where 29 sat down.

During the evening the peal of six at Billingborough, and also the bells at Horbling, were again made good use of, in methods ranging from Plain Bob to London Surprise.

your hearts unite so shall our tuneful tongues combine to laud the nuptial rite. Our founder's shield. Recast 1902.

The founders were represented at the dedication by Mr. J. P. Fidler. Ringing was indulged in on the new peal throughout the evening.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

The heavy peal of six at Heytesbury, Wilts, are to be completely rehung by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank, who are also going to rehang the eight bells at Brancepeth, Co. Durham.

The first peal of Grandsire Royal was rung at Painswick on August 6th, 1815.

The ringers who attended the rally at Newcastle-on-Tyne on the 13th were delighted with the courses of Bob Major and Grandsire Caters and the three leads of Treble Twelve, so ably tapped on the back twelve of the carillon by Mr. T. Groombridge, jun.

The James's, who have for a long time been keen on a name peal, scored a success, appropriately, on the fortieth anniversary of the first James peal. Among the Jims was 'He of England,' and it was his 1,030th peal. We understand that he has already tentatively booked St. James' Day, 1969, for the next 'family' affair.

Quex Park bells were opened on August 4th, 1819. This is the lightest ring of twelve in the country, and they hang in a tower in a private park.

ONE OF THE OLDEST WHITECHAPEL RINGS.

SEDLSCOMBE BELLS TO BE RESTORED.

One of the oldest complete peals from the Whitechapel Foundry remaining in the country is a ring of five at Sedlescombe, Sussex. The tenor was cast by Robert Mott, in 1595, and bears his famous circular stamp of three bells with his initials R.M. The other four bells were cast by Joseph Carter, who succeeded Robert Mott as head of the foundry. The fourth was cast in 1606, and bears the shield of Richard Brasyer, who was a founder at Norwich a hundred years earlier. This shield has an interesting history. It is found on many bells in Norfolk, cast by Richard Brasyer and his successors during the 15th and part of the 16th centuries. It then disappears from Norfolk, and in 1588 it is used by Robert Mott. From Mott it passed to his successor, by whom it was used from 1597 to 1609, and by William Yare, his son-in-law, and successor in a foundry at Reading, in 1610 and 1611. In 1613 it is found at Norwich again, being used by William Brend, a bell founder there at that time. It is worth noting, in connection with the return of this shield to its original home, that in 1614 no charter of the founders' company was granted. One of the regulations was that every founder should put his own mark on his articles of manufacture.

The three smallest bells at Sedlescombe were cast by Joseph Carter in 1607, it being recorded on the treble that 'John Darbie and William Dawe gave this bell.'

Sedlescombe bells are now to be rehung and augmented to six by the Whitechapel Foundry, from which the original five bells came more than three hundred years ago.

INVERNESS CATHEDRAL BELLS

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—My attention has been drawn to a paragraph in 'The Ringing World' of July 12th in which it is stated that a visitor to Inverness 'found the bells of the Cathedral in a very dilapidated condition.' This is altogether an incorrect and misleading statement to make. The bells were rehung and steel girders partially substituted for the old wooden frame as recently as 1914, and therefore there has not been time for them to get into a very dilapidated condition, however badly they might have been treated. But they have not been badly treated, and if they are not at present in first-class ringing order it is due to the fact that since the war they have not been rung.

Ours is the only peal of bells in this part of Scotland, and where there is no ringing tradition the difficulty of enlisting and training ringers in one small place is very difficult, as you can well imagine. That condition of affairs we are now doing our best to remedy, and I have a band of young men, all of whom until recently had not seen a bell or a bell rope, out of whom I am trying to make ringers.—Yours faithfully,

A. A. D. MACKENZIE,
Provost of Inverness Cathedral.

THE PEAL AT THURCASTON.

To the Editor.

Sir,—To use the expression of a gentleman from Leicester, someone from Edmonton has 'broken out' over a footnote to the peal of Stedman Triples at Thurcaston, Leicestershire, on July 14th. Had I known that a footnote of this kind was to appear after the peal, I would have have seen that Bishopsgate was mentioned instead of Edmonton.—Yours truly,

W. R. MADGWICK.

178, Croyland Road, Lower Edmonton.

P.S.—I had previously lived in Edmonton, Alberta, Canada. This may possibly account for the footnote which appeared in the above-mentioned peal.

TENTERDEN TOWER.

This handsome and beautiful tower is one of a famous trio within a circuit of about 20 miles, the others being at Ashford and Lydd, which, from certain similarities both in design and size, are each thought to be work of the same architect. Ashford tower is 120 feet high, Lydd 132 feet, while Tenterden comes in second with 125 feet of massive dignity.

It is built in the Perpendicular style, and was in course of erection during the middle of the 15th century, according to evidence from wills. In that of Robert Cok, dated 1449 (one of the earliest Tenterden wills) there is a bequest of 5 marcs (£3 6s. 8d.) to the making of the new bell tower. Henry Easteach, by will made in 1461, gave 12 pieces of his best timber to the work of the new tower, whilst Thomas Petlesden gave 100 marcs (£66 13s. 4d.). Numerous other parishioners gave of their goods, time and money to the building of their church and tower, and it remains a noble monument to their memory. Unlike the rest of the church, the tower is built principally of Bethersden marble, the buttresses are of very fine proportions, and the double west doorway is also a remarkable feature, the only other instance of a double doorway in Kent being at Lydd, thus affording a prominent instance of the similarity of the two structures.

A recent work on church architecture names only four other parishes in England having this unique feature, one each in Wilts and Northants, and two in Norfolk. The large west window, it is interesting to learn, was built at the cost of Thomas Cok, who, by his will, dated 1473, desired his executors to provide from his goods 'the whole of the new Window fully glazed in the West part of the new tower of Tenterden.'

According to the Kentish historian, Edward Hasted, there was formerly a noted 'dropping stone' in the arch of the doorway going into the bell loft, but upon the water drying in July 1720, where it fell underneath, the stone became hard and slippery. From time to time this tower has been associated with sundry legends concerning the Goodwin sands and Sandwich Haven. As, however, the sands were formed and the Haven greatly decayed before the building of this tower, it is obvious that it had nothing to do with either. At an examination of the fabric made in 1891, it was found that the mortar was beyond question made with sea sand, and the joints partly filled up with sea shells. The churchwardens' accounts of 1709 show that sand and shells were imported from the neighbouring port of Rye, Sussex.

As all our readers are aware, lotteries of every kind are illegal at the present day, but formerly they were not only common but recognised by the State. One such drawing took place as far back as the year 1567, in which the first prize was £5,000. Each scrip sent in had to be marked with a 'posie' or 'mottoe,' and it is recorded Edward Hales tried his fortune with the following lines, his ticket No. 40834, and his prize 1s. 2d.:—

'Of many people it hath been sayed

That Tenterden steeple, Sandwich Haven, hath decayed.'

The view from the top is a very grand one, extending to the sea and French coast, when the Gris Nez light may be seen. It formerly had a beacon, a sort of iron kettle holding about a gallon, and at the time of the Armada this beacon communicated with others at Fairlight, Sawcut, near Rye, Romney Church tower and other places. From a platform at the top of the pinnacles, erected in 1864, the ordnance surveyors could see nearly 100 churches. The tower underwent a thorough course of restoration and repair, and to mark the completion of such a grand work the Archbishop of Canterbury (Dr. Davidson) preached at the special service held on January 12th, 1912.

THE BELLS.

All the bells have been recast from time to time, and the churchwardens' accounts contain numerous entries respecting their repair and new casting, also of repairs to the clock and chimes. Before the time of these accounts we learn from the will of John Godday, dated 1471, that he bequeathed for the purchase of a new bell for the bell tower of Tenterden £10.

The tenor bell weighs 30 cwt. This is the same as the tenor of Canterbury Cathedral, and only a little less than that of Maidstone Parish Church, which is stated to be the heaviest bell in Kent—31 cwt. A few items of interest concerning the bells may be quoted from the early churchwardens' accounts:—

1616.—Item, pd. to Goodman Warde and his man for one day and a halfe in new hanginge of the great bell, iiii. iiiid.

1619.—Item, paide for our dynners and of Joseph Hatche, the bell-founder, when he came to seal the writings, iis. xd.

1619.—Item, pd. unto Joseph Hatche, the Bellfounder, the 15th day of July, for Exchanginge the second bell then broken, vii. 0.0.

1619.—Item, pd. for bread and beare for those that did help with the bell, xxd.

1621.—Pd. unto a messenger to goe into the bellfounder at Broomfield, xviid.

Item, pd. for my charges at Canterbury being cited thither about the broken bell. vs. 0d.

Item, pd. for the Bellfounder his expence beinge sent for by Mr. Maior, iiii. xd.

Other entries show that in 1628 the third bell was cast at Broomfield foundry, near Maidstone; and in 1636 it was cast again, this time at Borden foundry near Sittingbourne; while in 1671 one of the bells was sent to St. Mary Cray foundry to be done at a cost of about £30. In addition, there is a page full of minor expenses, all of which are set forth in detail.

One more bell item from the accounts may be briefly mentioned. In the year 1709 five young men of Tenterden were concerned in breaking the 'great bell' of Tenterden by striking it, probably with the idea of getting more sound out of it. John Brissenden, being the one who actually struck the blow that broke it, was ordered by the vestry to pay three pounds, the others being called upon to pay 10s. each, but one of them evaded payment, as only £4 10s. appears as having been received. A rate of 8d. in the £ was levied in the parish to raise a fund to replace the bell, 'to be made in all respects as good as formerly.' This produced £142 5s. 4d., and the bell was forthwith cast in Tenterden.

The accounts for the year 1710 contain full particulars of the materials used and the prices, the work of casting being done by Richard Phelps, bellfounder, of London. To build the furnace, 10,000 bricks cost £12 5s., and after the cast was finished were sold to one of the churchwardens, James Chapman, for £8. The bell founders' two principal items were £51 as per agreement, and £25 19s. for additional metal.

A fresh peal of six was placed in the tower in 1717, and it is very unfortunate that the churchwardens' accounts of this period are missing. The earliest entries relating to the bells dates from 1614, and for the clock and chimes in 1616. In that year the clock needed a new repeat at a cost of 7s., while Jeremy Austen, 'the Saxton and Clarke,' was paid 2s. for 'setting the Chymes goinge.'

HANBURY, WORCESTERSHIRE.—On Sunday, July 21st, for evensong, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Doubles (1,260 changes) in 50 mins., with 4-6-8 covering: J. Taylor 1, J. Hemming (conductor) 2, H. Smith 3, M. Baylis 4, R. Nash 5, E. Cairns 6, J. Watton 7, S. Cocum 8.

LONDON'S OLDEST RINGING PEAL.

BELLS OF ST. OLAVE'S, HART STREET, RESTORED.

The City of London has now gained another peal of eight. The old ring of six at St. Olave's, Hart Street, has been retuned and rehung, and two new trebles, which make an admirable splice, have been added. The work has been carried out by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank, and it was from the Whitechapel Foundry that the old bells originally came; the back five cast by Anthony Bartlett in 1662, and the old treble (now the 3rd) by James Bartlett in 1694. The back six are now the oldest peal, available for ringing, in the City of London. The bells at St. Bartholomew-the-Great are an older peal, but ringing on them has been forbidden.

St. Olave's ringing chamber formerly had the unpleasant distinction of being the dirtiest in the city. Thanks to the efforts which have been made in connection with the restoration, a complete transformation has been effected, and when some further improvements, now in hand, are finished it will be quite a comfortable little ringing chamber.

The dedication of the bells took place on Monday (St. Olave's Day), the ceremony being performed by the Lord Bishop of London. A special service was arranged, the dedicatory prayers being said in the baptistery. After the Bishop's address, the ringers attached to the tower rang the bells. The retuning has resulted in a great improvement in the old six, and the new trebles have added to the effect, and Messrs. Mears and Stainbank are to be congratulated upon providing the city with an admirable right ring of eight. The tenor is 10 cwt. 3 qr. 25 lb. in F sharp, and bears the names of the churchwardens of 1662. 'Anthony Bartlett made mee, 1662,' is inscribed on each of the back five, and 'Jacobus Bartlett me fecit 1694' on the third. The new trebles bear the inscription: 'Mears and Stainbank made me 1929. The gift of Alderman Sir Charles Wakefield, Bart.' On the second is added, 'Tom Welland, Rector, D. O. Kerr, F. H. D. Man, Churchwardens.'

WINCHESTER AND PORTSMOUTH GUILD.

PORTSMOUTH DISTRICT AT BRAMSHOTT.

A very successful meeting was held at Bramshott on Saturday last in fine weather, about 30 ringers and friends being present from Bishop's Waltham, Blackmoor, Bramshott, Gosport, Portsmouth (St. Thomas' and St. Mary's), Shedfield, Steep, Titchfield and Rogate, also Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Pulling (Guildford).

The bells were set going shortly after 3 p.m. in various methods. A short service was held, at which the Rector (Rev. E. H. Polehampton) officiated, and an excellent address was given by the Vicar of Steep (Rev. E. R. Day), which the members greatly appreciated.

By the kindness of Bramshott friends (to whom the district is always greatly indebted), an excellent tea was provided in an adjoining garden, and as the weather was ideal, it was a most enjoyable meal. At the business meeting which followed, the Vicar of Steep was voted to the chair.

It was unanimously decided to hold the next meeting at Gosport on Saturday, October 26th, and the meeting also sanctioned a by-meeting to be held at Hambledon on September 14th.

Capt. A. R. W. Woods, D.S.O., R.N. (Alverstoke), who was present at the meeting, was elected an honorary member, and W. B. Batts (Hambledon) a ringing member.

Before the close of the meeting the Rector of Bramshott in a few remarks welcomed the Guild on their visit, and also thanked those who kindly provided the tea and made the necessary preparations.—Mr. F. W. Rogers (district secretary), on behalf of the members, thanked the Rector for his kind welcome, and also those kind friends whom he had mentioned.—Messrs. E. Woods and W. H. Wright (Bramshott), in the course of a few remarks, said how delighted they were to see their old friend, Mr. A. H. Pulling, present with them, mentioning that he had done yeoman service for the Bramshott ringers in the past.

Touches on handbells were indulged in on the lawn, whilst others returned to the tower for further ringing, which during the day included Grandsire and Stedman Doubles, Plain Bob, Kent Treble Bob and Cambridge Surprise Minor.

SOUTHAMPTON DISTRICT.

A quarterly meeting of the Southampton District of the Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild was held at Dibden on Saturday, July 27th. During the afternoon the bells were kept going to Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Bob and Kent Treble Bob Major. Tea and business meeting were held in the Old School, presided over by the Rector of Dibden, the district chairman, supported by Mr. Geo. Williams (vice-president), Mr. G. Pullinger (general secretary), and Messrs. J. W. Faithfull and W. Andrews.

Four new members were elected from Dibden, and one from Romsey. The election of Capt. W. Linter, of the Church Army, St. Davids, Exeter, was ratified as a compounding member.

Mr. Pullinger proposed a vote of thanks to the Rector, Rev. G. T. Twitton, for the use of the bells and also for presiding.

The towers represented were Brockenhurst, Lyndhurst, Eling, Romsey, North Stoneham, St. Mary's, Southampton, Ringwood, Exeter, King's Somborne, Winchester and Dibden. The next meeting will be held at Upham on October 12th.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

A by-meeting was held at Appledore on July 20th, when about 20 members and friends attended from Ashford, Hythe, Rolvenden, Rye, Stone and Tenterden, and the locals. Ringing began at three o'clock, and owing to the excessive heat the bells were not fully utilised, as the shady spots were preferable. Service was conducted by Rev. M. M. Vicker, who also gave an address. Tea was provided at the Vicarage through the kindness of the Vicar and Messrs. G. and A. Johnson, whose hospitality was much appreciated in the cool shade. There being no business, Mr. C. W. Player voiced the thanks of those present to the Vicar and Messrs. Johnson's for the excellent tea. Some strolled round the garden, while others enjoyed a game of bowls, which was abruptly ended by the great gale which broke upon them. Ringing was then kept up till 8.15, the methods rung being Double Norwich, Stedman, Kent Treble Bob and Grandsire Triples.

TONBRIDGE DISTRICT.

The summer meeting of the Tonbridge District, held at Westerham on Saturday, July 20th, was favoured by brilliant weather. A delightful old-world town, Westerham is famous as the birthplace of General Wolfe. It has also a beautiful old church, in which the font at which Wolfe was baptised still remains, and the register is still preserved recording the christening of the general). There is, in addition, a good peal of bells, and it was not surprising that nearly fifty ringers attended. Ringing commenced about three o'clock, and with the interval for the service and tea was kept going in various methods from Grandsire to Superlative. It was the members' own fault if they did not get a pull in any method they wished.

The service was conducted by the Vicar, Rev. J. A. Castle (who also gave an excellent address), while Mr. W. E. Pitman, of Canterbury, presided at the organ. An excellent tea was partaken of in the Parish Hall, and the business meeting followed, the Vicar presiding. One new hon. member (Rev. E. L. Langston, Rector of Sevenoaks) was elected.—Votes of thanks to the Vicar for the use of the bells, for conducting the service and for presiding at the meeting were passed, and, in reply, the Vicar expressed his great pleasure in meeting the members. It was the first time since he came to Westerham that a meeting had been held there, and he hoped that another one would be held in the near future.

Votes of thanks were also passed to Mr. Pitman for his services at the organ, and to the local members for making the arrangements. These having been responded to, the members adjourned to the tower.

ROCHESTER DISTRICT.

A quarterly meeting of the Rochester District was held at Newington on July 27th, and ringers attended from Rochester, Chatham, Gillingham, Frindsbury, Rainham, Borden, Queenborough, Gravesend, Upchurch, Sittingbourne, Tunstall, Milton-next-Gravesend, York, and also the local band. Various methods were rung on the bells during the afternoon, and the association form of service was taken by the Rector of Halstow, who very kindly deputised for the Vicar of Newington, who was away on holiday.

After the service a move was made towards the schoolroom, where a splendid tea had been provided by the generosity of the Vicar of Newington and the local band. The company were waited upon by the wives and friends of the local band, and full justice was done to the good things which were provided.

The business meeting followed, and at the end hearty votes of thanks were accorded to the Rector of Halstow, the Vicar of Newington, the local band, and the ladies who had all made the visit, which all agreed was long overdue, such a success and a very great pleasure. The tower was again visited, and ringing was indulged in until nine o'clock, touches, including Cambridge Surprise, being successfully brought round.

BIRTHDAY BELLS AT OLD HILL, STAFFS.

On Saturday, July 20th, eight members of the Dudley and District Guild met in the belfry of Holy Trinity Church, Old Hill, to celebrate the birthdays of two of their highly-esteemed members, Mr. John Price and Mr. Bert Price. They rang a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples (1,260 changes) in 47 mins.: John Price 1, S. J. Hughes 2, B. Gough 3, G. Swallow 4, W. Green 5, H. Sheppard 6, J. Goodman, jun. (conductor) 7, G. Guest 8. The band and several other friends were generously entertained to tea and supper by Mr. and Mrs. John Price on their beautiful lawn, and between these two meals tunes and changes were indulged in on the handbells, also bowling on the lawn and strolling round the well-kept garden. At the supper table, Mr. S. J. Hughes, on behalf of those present, thanked Mr. and Mrs. Price for their generous hospitality, at the same time extending to them best wishes for a long life full of happiness. Mr. Price returned thanks on behalf of himself and Mrs. Price, and said what a pleasure it had been to them to have their friends with them that day.

BATH AND WELLS DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION. CARHAMPTON'S NEW BELLS.

A quarterly meeting of the Dunster Deanery Branch of the Bath and Wells Diocesan Association was held at Carhampton on Saturday, July 20th. There was a representative gathering of ringers, including members from Milverton, Ilminster, Monksilver, Old Cleve, St. Audries, Chipstable, Skilgate, Minehead, Dulverton, Exton, Withypool, Wootton Courtenay, Huish Champflower, Timberscombe and Carhampton. Clergy present were Revs. T. S. Dawson, Vicar, H. P. Boulton (president), A. P. Lance (Wootton Courtenay), M. D. Walker (Minehead), and R. A. W. Newman (Withypool).

The bells, which have recently been recast and rehung, were set going at three o'clock, and ringing continued till 4.15. Mr. Vowles, of Minehead, then photographed the company in front of the church. The association form of service was conducted by Rev. H. P. Boulton. The Vicar read the lesson, and Mr. Deed, of Minehead, presided at the organ. The Vicar gave an appropriate address from 11 Cor. v. 17: 'Old things are passed away, behold all things are become new.' He referred to the recasting of the bells. The old bells were out of tune, and might have been retuned, but they at Carhampton wanted no short cuts, as they did not last. They therefore decided to make a thoroughly good job by having the bells recast, tuned, and rehung in modern and up-to-date fittings. This had been a big task for a small parish, but they had worked together, and a job had been done of which they were proud. Let the recasting of bells be a lesson to them, he said, as he went on to compare the re-creation of souls to the recasting of the bells.

A splendid tea was provided by the Vicar and Church Council in the Village Hall. Forty members sat down, and the Vicar presided, the helpers including Mr. Cook (churchwarden), Mrs. George Cridland, Mrs. Buck, Mrs. Bryant and Miss Tooze.

The president was in the chair for the business meeting, which followed. Mr. S. Bowden (Withypool) and Mr. G. Adams and Mr. S. Stoneham (Skilgate) were elected members. On the invitation of Mr. Newman it was decided to hold the next meeting at Withypool early in September.

Mr. D. G. Taylor, of Ilminster, being the advisory expert, was asked to give his views on the bells at Carhampton. He remarked that the bells were sweet toned and in tune, and the 'go' all that could be desired. Carhampton was to be congratulated on having such a nice little ring of bells.

The Chairman proposed a vote of thanks to the Vicar for the use of the bells, the service and address. This was carried with applause, and the Vicar responded. He was glad to welcome the association to Carhampton. He wished to thank Mr. Cook and the Church Council for the help they had given.—Mr. Cook also replied.

Mr. Lance proposed a vote of thanks to the ladies, the organist, steeplekeeper, and helpers, and this having been carried by acclamation, Mr. Walker proposed a vote of thanks to the chairman, who suitably replied, and enlarged on the tone of the bells, which he thought was soft and mellow at a short distance.

The meeting being over, ringing continued till nine o'clock.

SUSSEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

A meeting of the Central Division of the Sussex County Association was held at the six-bell tower of Hartfield, on Saturday, July 20th, twenty-two being present. The tower was open for ringing at 2.30, and at 4.30 a short service was held in church, conducted by the Rector, the Rev. W. A. Beckles, who also gave a most interesting address. Tea, kindly provided by the Rector, was afterwards served in the Anchor Hotel, and was much appreciated.

The usual business meeting followed, the Rector presiding. The following new members were elected: J. D. Manley and T. Dudman, Turner's Hill, and G. Strudwick, Hartfield. The elections of W. J. G. Brown, Ipswich, and Sidney W. Corden, Leigh, Essex, were confirmed.

A hearty vote of thanks was passed to the Rector for the use of the bells, the service and address, also for his kind hospitality; coupled with this were thanks to the organist and choir, who contributed so much to the success of the service.

Ringing was again resumed and continued until about 8 p.m., when the bells were lowered in peal.

It is believed the local band has benefited by the visit, although six-bell towers are not supported as one would wish, and all present expressed their satisfaction at having at had an enjoyable time. The following towers were represented: Aldrington, St. Peter's and St. Nicholas' (Brighton), Crawley, East Grinstead, Hartfield, Lindfield, and Turners Hill, also independent members.

WHAT IS A BELLRINGER?

To the Editor.

Sir,—The 'Daily Mirror,' in which a photo of Mrs. Grimwood, of Horsley Cross, Essex, recently appeared, stated in a paragraph that the old lady, 92 years of age, had been a bellringer 62 years. Horsley Cross Church was formerly a schoolroom. When licensed for divine service, now held once a fortnight, the old school bell of about 10 or 12 lbs., with chiming cord attached to the clapper by which it is made to sound, remained. Can the person who does this be called a bellringer?

THE GLOUCESTER AND BRISTOL SECESSION.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I am surprised to see that my friend, J. Gould, has lent his signature to a letter obviously written by someone else in order to flog a dead horse. If he has a genuine desire to contribute to your columns, let it be something original, not a reiteration of what has already appeared. For instance, he might be able to give your readers the real reason why the Gloucester and Bristol Association seceded from the Central Council, and, on the other hand, he might not.

In the latter case, may I, through you, extend to him a cordial invitation to meet me at my address any time after seven o'clock in the evening of either August 7th, 8th, 9th or 10th, when I will show him ample evidence of it (by innuendoes if not by actual allegations), and all typewritten.

Mr. Gould, like myself, was one of those present at the founding of the St. Stephen's Guild 35 years ago. He remembers the time when Grandsire was the standard dish, and when it was a rarity for a touch of Stedman Caters to come round. When transport was difficult and the push bike was the only reliable means of conveyance between Shirehampton and Bristol, Joe did not miss many practices; but when improvements took place, both in transport and in ringing, our friend did not quite keep up to the level, and gradually dropped out of the ringing at St. Stephen's altogether, although still retaining membership. But, notwithstanding this, I had the pleasure of calling his first (and only?) peal of Double Norwich. If anyone has to publish an account of all the harm I have done, and, I suppose, am still doing, to Bristol ringing and ringers, I would rather it be an old friend like Joseph Gould than anyone else.

HERTFORD AND MIDDLESEX COUNTY ASSOCIATIONS.

JOINT MEETING AT MONKEN HADLEY.

The third 'annual' between these neighbouring associations of Hertfordshire and Middlesex was held at St. Mary's Church, Monken Hadley, on Saturday last, when upwards of 50 members of one or other (or both) of the two societies met to spend a pleasant afternoon in ringing together. The ancient church (rebuilt 1494) looked pretty well filled at the service, when the Rector (Rev. G. Richardson) gave both associations a very hearty welcome and the congregation some sound advice. Tea was afterwards served, presided over by Mr. F. A. Milne, J.P. (president, Middlesex Association), who was supported by the Rector and churchwarden (Mr. Brittain) and several officers of the two associations. Mr. W. Nash (St. Albans district secretary) and Mr. B. Jarman (District Master) represented the Herts Association, whilst Messrs. W. Pye (Master), W. Pickworth (vice-president), and C. T. Coles (district secretary) represented the Middlesex Association.

After tea, Mr. C. T. Coles gave the Hertfordshire visitors a very hearty welcome to Middlesex, and expressed satisfaction at the success of the meeting, as shown by the attendance.

Mr. Nash thanked the Middlesex Association, and spoke of the fraternal feeling encouraged by these meetings.

Mr. Milne gave a little of the history of the Hadley bells, which, prior to 1876, were a peal of four, two of them being cracked. In that year two were added, and the peal remained six until 1921, when he added two trebles, one in memory of his father and mother, and the other in memory of his only son, Captain Alexander Milne, Herts Yeomanry, who was killed in the Great War.

It may be added that Mr. Milne was born at Hadley some 75 years ago.

Mr. Milne proposed a hearty vote of thanks to the Rector for the use of the bells, which was carried with applause. The Rev. G. Richardson again expressed his pleasure at meeting the two associations, and hoped they would visit Hadley again.

Mention was made of the regrettable absence of Mr. W. Dell, for 50 years a ringer at Hadley, who is in hospital after a stroke, and the Rector promised to convey to him the good wishes of all present.

Ringing took place during the afternoon and evening at Monken Hadley, and in the evening at Barnet. All the standard methods were rung, as well as a touch of Spliced London, Bristol, Cambridge and Superlative Surprise. It is hoped to hold next year's joint meeting at North Mimms, Hertfordshire. In the meantime, members of the two associations should note August 24th as the date of the combined meeting of the Essex, Herts and Middlesex Associations, which has been arranged at Hertford, instead of at Broxbourne as previously announced.

A BIRTHDAY QUARTER-PEAL.

At St. Mary's Church, Slough, Bucks, on July 18th, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples in 48 mins.: W. H. Gutteridge 1, F. G. Baldwin 2, E. Hudson 3, G. H. Gutteridge (conductor) 4, G. T. Leader 5, G. Barkus 6, A. Bateman 7, J. H. Cropley 8. Rung for the sixteenth birthday of the treble man. The conductor wishes to thank St. Mary's ringers for kindly arranging for this quarter-peal to be rung.

ST. PAUL'S CATHEDRAL RINGERS' VISIT TO NORTH SOMERSET.

On Saturday, July 13th, the St. Paul's Cathedral company, with a number of friends, spent their annual outing in North Somerset. The party was met at Bristol by Mr. W. A. Cave and Mr. J. T. Dyke, and the first call was Wrington. The noble ring of ten (tenor 37 cwt.) at this church were much enjoyed by everyone. The tower is one of the finest in the county, and was considered by Barry to be the finest example of Perforated Perpendicular style in the country. Its proportions were copied by him in designing the great Victoria tower at Westminster. The bells were originally a ring of six by Thomas Bilbie, of Chewstoke. In 1845, the tenor and treble were recast by Charles and George Mears, of Whitechapel, and in 1911 they were augmented to ten and completely rehung by the Whitechapel Foundry.

An interesting anecdote was related to Major Hesse years ago by James Chidzey, one of the old six-bell band, to the effect that when the recast tenor and treble were dedicated, the last of the Bilbie family came over to hear the new tenor. It is very satisfactory to know that an enthusiastic local band rings every Sunday for services, and a remarkable feature is the strict punctuality of every member.

Lunch was served at the Golden Lion under the direction of Hostess Mrs. Axford, and it is worth recording that the Golden Lion is one of the most comfortable inns in the country, while Mrs. Axford's kindness is proverbial.

After lunch, the party journeyed via Burrington Coombe and Cheddar Gorge to Wells. Burrington Coombe was made famous by Toplady, whose hymn, 'Rock of Ages,' was inspired whilst he was taking shelter under a large overhanging rock during a storm. Cheddar Gorge is too well known to need comment, and everyone was tremendously impressed by the wonderful scenery and the caves.

At Wells Cathedral, ringing on the noble peal of ten could only be of short duration owing to a service being held. The next stop was Chewton Mendip, where hangs a very fine ring of eight, cast by Taylor in 1913. The tower previously contained a ring of six, tenor about 27 cwt., by various founders. The six were recast into eight as the gift of Lord Waldegrave.

The bells were rung before and after tea, and as time would not permit of ringing at St. Mary Redcliffe, Bristol, a short stop was made at Pensford for a social half hour, after which the party proceeded to Temple Meads Station, where they embarked for London in a special saloon coach.

One frequently hears of generations of ringing families, and it is interesting to relate that at Wrington the Vowles have been ringers for more than four generations. Major Hesse has actually rung with four generations of the family.

The best thanks of the party are due to Messrs. Cave and Dyke for the arrangements so kindly and efficiently made on behalf of the visitors, also to the Dean of Wells and the Rectors of Wrington and Chewton Mendip for the use of the bells.

IN DORSET.

The ringers of All Saints' Church, Castle Cary, with their wives, had their annual outing on July 4th. They left Castle Cary at 8.15 a.m., by charabanc, with rain falling steadily, their first stop being at Norton-sub-Hamdon. After ringing for half an hour on these splendid bells and inspecting the church, also enjoying the view from the tower, the trip was continued, and the rain was left behind. Netherbury provided the next bells to be rung, and thence the party proceeded to West Bay for a short walk along the sea front, the weather by this time being beautifully fine. The next call was at Burton Bradstock, with a light peal of six. Journeying on for about two miles, and selecting a suitable site, the party drew up on the roadside for dinner. The lovely scenery of this part of the Dorset coast is almost impossible to describe. After the meal the journey was continued along the hills, with the sea on one side and the sun shining overhead, to the last stop at Abbotsbury, where is another light ring and a most interesting old church. Here, after a few touches, the company proceeded to their destination, Weymouth, which was reached about 4 p.m. Here the party broke up and went in various directions, reassembling at 7.30 for the return trip, which was made through Dorchester and Sherborne, home being reached at 10 p.m., after most enjoyable excursion through lovely country with delightful scenery. Thanks are accorded to the Vicars and ringers, who gave the company a hearty welcome at all the towers.

GILLINGHAM FETE DISASTER.

At the Parish Church, Gillingham, on Sunday, July 14th, the bells were rung half-muffled to touches of Grandsire and Treble Bob, and on Wednesday evening, July 17th, after the funeral of the victims of the fire disaster, a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples (1,260 changes), as a mark of respect: W. Haigh 1, C. Norris 2, H. Poulter 3, S. Figgess 4, E. A. Allen 5, W. Beaumont 6, F. Belsey (conductor) 7, E. Friend 8. Also 288 Kent Treble Bob Major, with W. Easter in place of E. Friend. The above ringers are all members of the Rochester Cathedral and Gillingham bands.

AN EXCURSION IN SHROPSHIRE.

On Saturday, July 6th, the ringers from Lawton, together with several from Kids Grove, held their annual outing. The party numbered about 35, including friends. About 1 p.m. a start was made per bus for Whitechurch, which was reached in good time. Here the ringers made for the tower, where there is a ring of eight by Rudhall, tenor 20 cwt. Touches of Grandsire and Stedman Triples and Bob Major were brought round. From Whitechurch the road led to Wem, where a substantial tea was enjoyed. Afterwards a move was made to the belfry, where touches of Grandsire and Stedman were rung on the peal of eight, with a tenor of 14 cwt. Clive was the next tower to be visited. This was reached after a delightful trip into the country. The church at Clive is quite a new building, being not yet 50 years old, but it is certainly worth seeing, and it is situated in a position which gives a splendid view of the country for miles round. Here there is a ring of six by Taylor, tenor 25 cwt. These were soon raised and set going to the tune of Bob Minor. Touches of Kent and Oxford Treble Bob were brought round, and then the bells were lowered and the ringing for the day completed. The homeward journey was made through that well-known beauty spot, Hawkestone Park, where the scenery was fully appreciated by everyone. And then on through Hodnet and Market Drayton. Home was reached about 11 p.m., after a very enjoyable day. The ringers extend their thanks to the incumbents for the use of the bells, and to the local ringers who turned out to welcome the party.

SAFFRON WALDEN SOCIETY.

The society's annual outing was held on Monday, July 1st, all the members being present, with Messrs. W. and W. T. Prior, of Stansted, and P. Webb, of Ickleton. Leaving at 8.30 a.m. by motor bus, the first stop was made at Dunmow, where all enjoyed ringing on the fine peal of eight, the methods being Stedman Triples, Cambridge and London Surprise. The next call was made at Felsted, where the party were greatly interested in the old Grammar School. On visiting the church tower, Stedman Triples, Double Norwich and Cambridge Surprise were rung. Going on to Earls Colne, the visitors were met by Mr. F. Ridgwell, who was a member of the society until his retirement from the Police Force last February. An excellent hot lunch was ready at the George Hotel, and the members were very grateful to Mr. F. Ridgwell for making the arrangements. Stedman Triples, Cambridge and Superlative Surprise were rung at the Parish Church, and then the party went on to Clacton, and spent a quiet afternoon by the sea and listening to the band. The return journey began at 6.30 p.m., and a call was made at St. Peter's, Colchester, where on the fine peal of eight Stedman Triples, Cambridge and London Surprise were rung. Home was reached at 10.30 p.m., after a very enjoyable day. The society wishes to thank the incumbents for the use of the bells at towers, and the local secretaries for making all arrangements. L. E. P.

ESSEX RINGERS IN SURREY.

On Saturday, June 29th, the ringers of St. Mary's, Shenfield, and St. Peter's, South Weald, Essex, accompanied by a few friends, spent a most enjoyable day in Surrey. Leaving South Weald about 7.20, and passing through the heart of London, the first stop was made at Christ Church, Ottershaw, a pretty church with six bells facing a lovely common. After a good ring, the party were soon on the way to Horsell, another ring of six, which were kept merrily going until 1.30, when the party sat down to an excellent lunch in the Church Institute. The next call was at St. Michael's, Pirbright. Here the bells were raised in peal, and some good touches were brought round.

In the churchyard, the party were interested in the grave of Stanley, the African explorer, which is marked by a huge block of stone brought over from Africa.

The party then moved on to Bagshot for tea, which was served in St. Anne's Hall. After tea, Mr. H. Turner thanked Mr. G. Miles on behalf of all present for what he had done to make the outing such a success.—Mr. Miles, to whom the ground covered recalled old memories, suitably replied.

The ringers all agreed that it had been a splendid day, and thanked the clergy for the use of their bells, and the friends who met them at each tower. The methods rung during the day were Stedman, St. Simon's, Grandsire and Bob Doubles, Plain Bob and Kent Treble Bob Minor, Stedman and Grandsire Triples, Plain Bob and Kent Treble Bob Major.

ST. LUKE'S SOCIETY, CHELSEA.

The annual outing of the St. Luke's Society, Chelsea, took place on July 6th and 7th, Mr. G. Green, District Master, Essex Association, Mr. Lincoln, and other members welcoming the visitors to Great Baddow and Chelmsford. Mr. Green also arranged visits to Galleywood and Widdford. The thanks of the company for a most enjoyable week-end are heartily tendered to all who assisted by putting their towers at the disposal of the visitors, and the friendly and brotherly spirit in which their visit was received.

A TOUR TO FAMOUS TOWERS.

The summer outing of Swindon Parish Church Guild was revived this year with great success, after having lapsed since 1925. The party, numbering 24, including visitors and some of the members' wives, started by charabane from Swindon at 8 o'clock, and a fine run of 45 miles to Evesham was much enjoyed, as the weather was favourable and the country looking at its best after the welcome rain of the previous day. At the famous bell tower touches of Stedman Caters and a course of Bob Royal were rung on the fine peal of ten. The next halt was Pershore, reached at 11.30, and after a brief inspection of the beautiful Abbey Church, an adjournment was made to the Royal Three Tuns Hotel, where a substantial hot dinner was appreciated. A ring on the beautiful peal of eight hanging in the magnificent old Norman tower followed from the unique ringing cage suspended 80ft. above the floor. Here touches of Stedman Triples and a course of Cambridge Surprise Major were accomplished.

Ringling at Worcester Cathedral was the next item, and was looked forward to very eagerly, as reports are abroad that these recast bells are considered by experts to be the finest twelve in the land, and with this opinion some of the visitors, who have heard all the famous peals of twelve, are in agreement. They are certainly a magnificent peal, and the whole restoration has been carried out in a manner that reflects the highest credit on the firm responsible. It was with a certain amount of trepidation these mighty bells were tackled, seeing that most of the ringers are accustomed to perform on a peal of ten with a tenor 22 cwt., compared with 50 cwt. However, the first eight having been raised in peal and the big ones singly, the whole twelve were set going to rounds to give the younger members an opportunity of ringling on such a famous peal, after which a creditable course of Grandsire Cinques, followed by a course of Bob Royal, with Mr. W. A. Cave on the tenor, was rung.

With a certain amount of regret this interesting old city, with its famous Cathedral and magnificent bells, was left behind, and tracks made for the ancient town of Tewkesbury. Here, on the ten bells in the world-famed Abbey Church, touches of Stedman Caters and a course of Cambridge Surprise Royal were tapped off, and Cheltenham, the last place of call, was reached only 15 minutes behind scheduled time. Mr. W. T. Pates was in waiting and extended a hearty welcome, and soon the beautiful light ring of twelve were going to Grandsire Cinques, followed by three courses of Stedman Cinques, unanimously voted the best ringling of the day, and a fitting conclusion to a most enjoyable outing.

After the heavy rains of the previous day the weather was really most kind, and, beyond a few spots at intervals, the day was bright and sunny, but on leaving Cheltenham the rain returned with a generosity that must have delighted the long-suffering agriculturists. However, a capable driver, looking ahead, had thoughtfully put the hood up. The thanks of the Guild are gratefully extended to the Dean of Worcester, Minor Canon Jacob, who met the party, kindly conducted them to the ringing room, and gave interesting particulars of the bells, and to the incumbents and steeple-keepers of all the other churches visited.

TO SURREY AND SUSSEX.

The first Saturday in July was the date fixed by agreement for the second annual outing of the St. Mary's company, Slough, when the use of a fourteen-seater charabanc was generously offered them for the day by the Parochial Church Council. The party consisted of twelve 'laymen,' the two vacant seats being well stored with sundry good things that were eventually laid in the inner man during the perfect journey of just sixteen hours' duration.

Worthing was the objective, with one or two hoary old bell towers 'thrown in' along the way, as a relief to the monotony of bouncing seats and useless limbs. The route taken was via Windsor Great Park in the morning's bracing air, Bagshot, Aldershot, Farnham (tenor 23 cwt.), Haslemere, with its fine views, and Pulborough (tenor 13½ cwt.), where lunch was taken at the Five Bells. One hour was enjoyed by the seaside exploring the parade, the pier, and the rapid growth of this popular resort, but the citizens of Worthing have not yet considered the borough as being 'worthy' of a peal of bells. The homeward journey was made by way of West Grinstead, with its Sussex views; Cowfold (Mr. Cropley's birthplace); Horsham (tenor 24 cwt.), tea at the Queen's Head Hotel; Dorking, with its noted Box Hill scenery; Weybridge, where a 'car-buretta' supper was enjoyed just one minute before 'Time, gentlemen'; and so onward via Staines to Slough, the company dispersing as the mid-night chimes were sounding from the home tower, all delighted with the kindness shown them at each of the three belfries visited. Five methods were rung during the tour—Stedman and Oxford Bob Triples, Plain and Treble Bob Major—but good old Grandsire was reserved for the final touch, the conducting being shared by Messrs. Hooper, Henley, Baleman and Albrow. The young hands were responsible for beautifully subdued melody rendered on the return journey from the back seat of the car with a set of jazz instruments bought at Worthing; and Messrs. Barton and Howat for a vote of thanks, not only to those supplied the wheels of the chariot, but also to those who helped to turn round the wheels of 'The Ringing World.'

'HOW TO BE HAPPY THOUGH OLD.'

'I don't know anything better than bellringing for maintaining one's health, and this, with moderate living, a little gardening, music and reading, should keep one contented and happy in old age,' said Mr. Philip Aldridge Coard, a woollen expert, who has spent over sixty-five years in the city, to a representative of the 'Daily Telegraph.'

Mr. Coard has just celebrated his 80th birthday. He took up bellringing as a youth, and at one time or another has rung the bells of most of the city churches.

Mr. Coard recently celebrated his golden wedding.

THE 18½ TON RINGING BELL,
the Bourdon of the Carillon of 64 Bells, about to be installed at
RIVERSIDE CHURCH, NEW YORK, U.S.A.

A NEW TWELVE-BELL RECORD.

The successful attempt made on the twelve bell record at Ashton-under-Lyne on Monday will rank in ringing history as one of the greatest achievements in the annals of the Exercise. In point of view of time occupied and number of changes rung the peal was well ahead of any previous twelve-bell performance, but apart from the physical demands made upon the ringers, the outstanding merit of the accomplishment is the method which they rang. Cambridge Surprise Maximus is the zenith of twelve-bell ringing as practised at the present day—we do not think that even Superlative on twelve can be put into a higher category—and a peal of such length, in such a method, whatever the future may have in store, will ever remain a landmark.

As a feat of physical endurance the peal is one of the finest that has even been rung. The bare fact of standing for eleven and a half hours, and ringing without pause or refreshment is in itself a great feat, which makes enormous demands upon the stamina of every one of the band. To the back-enders one naturally turns first with admiration, but particularly in a peal in which the tenor is a working bell, the men at the light end must not be forgotten, for in ringing to twelve-bell time they are bound to have their bells upon their hands to some extent. But, as we have already said, it is not alone from the physical side that this peal becomes a memorable one. As a feat of collective concentration it stands as high, if not higher, than any other ever accomplished on tower bells. Cambridge Surprise Maximus is not a method in which a ringer can relax his attention, much less 'go to sleep,' if success is to come to the peal. From start to finish every man of the twelve has to be 'on his toes,' to use a sporting phrase, or the consequences are fatal, unless someone else comes speedily to the rescue. In some methods one can carry on for a time in a somewhat automatic way, but in methods like Cambridge Maximus there is no such relief. It is a case of sticking closely to the method all the way.

There is another feature which in our opinion makes this peal a remarkable one. Usually records are associated with youth, but the band at Ashton-under-Lyne was, as a company, anything but youthful. Some are approaching, and others well past fifty; one or two are nearer sixty years of age. They have, of course, the advantage of experience, but one hardly looks for record making among men who have passed the meridian of life. In other pursuits it would be well nigh impossible, but it illustrates very vividly the fact that bell ringing stands almost alone in the unlimited age at which a man

LAVENHAM RINGERS IN ESSEX AND HERTS.

On Saturday, July 27th, the members of the SS. Peter and Paul's Society, Lavenham, held their annual outing. Travelling by charabanc, a start was made at 7.30 a.m. from the church, and Felsted was the first church visited, where Mr. Farrow and the local Ringer Master received the visitors. After ringing courses of Grandsire and Stedman, Kent and Superlative, a move was made for Great Dunmow, where the fine peal of eight, already raised, were set going to Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Plain Bob, Double Norwich and Oxford Treble Bob, Mr. W. H. Smith and another local ringer taking part. The next call was at Bishop's Stortford. Here the party were greeted by the genial Vicar and Messrs. Beeston and Springham, the last-named proving a very interesting companion. A very nice ringing room and peal of ten were found at this place. Bob Major, Grandsire Triples, Grandsire and Stedman Caters, and Kent Royal were rung here. At the Black Lion, the party did justice to an enjoyable and much-needed lunch, which was followed by handbell ringing, and the arrival of 'F.G.' from De Beauvoir Town, N.I. It is hoped that the ringing at Bishop's Stortford proved an additional item of interest to the party of Rhodesians visiting there that day. At the next place, Sawbridgeworth, the party were 'all ears open,' for had not 'Dame Rumour' many times said, 'Here is a peal as good, if not better than the eight at Lavenham!' A course of Bob Major was sufficient for 'Tympanium' to pronounce the verdict, 'They're a long way behind Lavenham lot.' Other methods rung were Grandsire Triples and Stedman.

Good-bye was said to Mr. Tarling, and a short run made to Harlow Parish Church, where the local men were ringing the back six for the benefit of a learner. The party were met by Messrs. Small, Cordell, Wheeler and Rochester, also Mr. C. Button, a native 'Sudfolk.' These friends joined with the visitors in courses of Grandsire Triples, Plain Bob, Double Norwich and Cambridge Major. Before departing, the party encountered one of the representatives of J. Wall of 'Stop me' fame, who, not being in the slow, soon changed several 'singles' into 'bobs'! At Harlow Common, the party had tea, and were welcomed by Messrs. Geo. Dent and I. Cavill. Courses of Grandsire, Stedman, Plain Bob and Kent were rung on this merry little eight. Two attempts at Superlative came to grief owing to one of the band trying to make a 5.6 dodge in 3.4! After more good-byes and a run through part of Epping Forest, the homeward trail was struck, passing through Ongar, the last resting-place of Jane Taylor, Lavenham's poetess (1783-1824), Chelmsford and Braintree, home being reached after a pleasant tour of fifteen and a half hours' duration. Votes of thanks were accorded the clergy of the churches visited, the ringers who met the party, and the hon. secretary of SS. Peter and Paul's band.

INVERNESS CATHEDRAL BELLS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I was much interested in the recent remarks on the above, the most northerly peal in existence, and until recently, I believe, the only ringing peal in the Highlands. Having been married at Inverness Cathedral in 1919 by Rev. A. J. Maclean, Bishop of Moray, one may, perhaps, claim a not unnatural sentimental interest in the matter.

A few years since I spent a very interesting hour with Provost Mackenzie in the tower of the Cathedral, and I remember well his interest in the bells, and his strong desire that they should be rung. I had a good look round the fittings, and raised several of the bells, and, except for a lack of oil on the bearings, I noted particularly that everything seemed to be in very fair condition; and I am pretty sure that Provost Mackenzie, something of a ringer himself, would be the last person to allow neglect.

One is particularly interested to note that there is at last some prospect of the bells being rung, and in wishing Provost Mackenzie every success in what must be a very uphill task, one ventures to express the hope that if there are any ringers visiting this beautiful burgh they will not fail to make themselves known, and to offer a little help and advice.

It may not be generally known that the peal is a fine ring of ten, tenor about 26 cwt., but that the two trebles are hung 'dead.' The bells are made frequent use of, being chimed, I believe, for all services, several times each day, and very effective they sound across the water.

A more ideal setting for a fine ring of bells it would be hard to imagine than this beautiful Cathedral, with its twin towers rising close to the banks of the broad and swift-flowing Ness, with the castle and the royal burgh of Inverness rising in terraces from the opposite bank, where the music of the bells is mellowed and reflected, and the whole scene, redolent of Scottish history, from Macbeth, through Cromwell and Culloden, to the less romantic times of Lloyd George and his Cabinet meeting in 1921, is one of beauty unsurpassed in this country.—Yours faithfully,

Leamwood, Dore.

J. E. LEWIS COCKEY.

THE 'JAMBOREE.'

The gathering of Boy Scouts from all parts of the world at Arrowe Park, Birkenhead, gave some Wirral ringers an opportunity on Saturday, August 3rd, of ringing a peal on the splendid bells at St. Saviour's Church, Oxtou, which is about a couple of miles from the venue of the jamboree. This was a peal of Cambridge Surprise Major, and was the first peal of Surprise on the bells, and also the first peal rung here since 1919. The changes followed one another with almost clockwork precision, and any ringing experts who may have been in the vicinity would have had great difficulty in finding the slightest fault with the striking. Many expressions of regret that these bells were not more often available for peal ringing were made.

After the peal, the ringers were entertained to an excellent tea at Oxtou Hall, kindly provided by Mr. A. H. Heal, a sidesman of the church, who takes a keen interest in the church and ringers. Owing to the inclemency of the weather, it was unfortunately impossible for the ringers to avail themselves of the facilities for bowling on the lawn, but an inspection of the gardens and greenhouses was much appreciated, especially by the horticulturist of the party!

The ringers would like to take this opportunity of expressing their most sincere thanks to the Vicar (the Rev. Canon Sayer, M.A.) for so kindly allowing the use of the bells, to Mr. A. H. Heal for his kindly and thoughtful action in providing a much appreciated tea, and lastly, but by no means least, to Mr. H. S. Brocklebank, the genial towerkeeper and branch secretary of the Guild, for having everything in readiness for the visitors.

At St. Saviour's Church, Oxtou, on August 1st, in 50 mins., a quarter-peal of Bob Major (1,280 changes): H. Brocklebank 1, J. Cook 2, W. Hughes 3, T. Rogers 4, R. G. Edwards 5, J. C. E. Simpson 6, S. Mostin 7, J. Breese (longest length as conductor) 8. This quarter-peal was rung on the occasion of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales' visit to the world jamboree. The Prince passed close to the church en route from Birkenhead to Arrowe Park, while the ringing was proceeding.

THE RINGERS' DIRECTORY.

To the Editor.

Sir,—I should like, through your columns, to thank the many ringers who have so readily responded to our call for the second edition of 'The Ringers' Directory.'

Many have sent messages of good wishes, and I am sure the committee will very much appreciate the thought.

I would like to add that it would greatly facilitate the work of the Directory Committee if subscribers would send their forms in at the earliest.—Yours faithfully,

W. H. THOMAS,

Chairman,
Bristol United Ringing Guild.

ST. MARGARET'S RINGERS VISIT KENT.

The annual outing of the ringers of St. Margaret's, Westminster, took place on July 13th, and a most enjoyable time was spent. Leaving Kennington, just opposite the Oval station, soon after nine o'clock, a most delightful ride via Farnham, Wrotham and Maidstone brought the party to Headcorn, the first ringing call of the tour. Here the party were met with a request, owing to illness in close proximity, not to ring long. They complied with a course of Cambridge Surprise and a short touch of Stedman Triples, which enabled all to have a pull. The ringing room is on the ground floor, and the 'go' and the bells are certainly good. The chief item of interest on the day's programme was call No. 2, St. Mildred's, Ten-Terden. The visitors had all previously heard of the fame of these bells, and as they stood admiring the beauty and nobility of this lovely tower, the news was gently broken to them that they could not ring owing to the clerk to the justices being buried that morning. The party were, of course, very disappointed, so much so that the verger, noting the looks of 'deep depression,' suggested asking the relatives if they would care to have the clappers muffled for a short ring in the afternoon. This was readily agreed to, and while the verger was gone to make the suggestion and get permission the company partook of an excellent dinner at the Woolpack Hotel. As they were nearing the last Bob in this course, the verger returned, saying they could ring the bells muffled. The local captain then arrived with the news that he could not find the muffers, but after a diligent search Miss Harcastle found the missing articles, and Bob Grimwood, Charlie Roberts, and 'the Governor' were quickly aloft fixing things up. Double Norwich and Stedman Triples were very soon pouring forth from this grand left-handed peal, and the high opinion all had heard of these bells was certainly upheld. Amidst more beautiful scenery, and past many more churches, at which some of the company had rung many years ago, by some local cricket matches, at which they sometimes stopped to look, the party reached Cranbrook, the third tower on the list. Here the local captain informed the visitors that 'they were not like Ten-Terden.' 'They want some pulling,' he said; in fact, he didn't believe they could ring them. However, a start was made, the next method on the list being London: Miss Harcastle 1, Mrs. R. Sanders 2, Miss F. Orr 3, A. W. Coles 4, W. H. Hewitt 5, G. M. Kirby 6, C. W. Roberts 7, R. Sanders 8. The outstanding feature of this visit was the look of utter bewilderment on the face of the local captain when Reuben said, 'That's all' and 'Stand' two rounds after. It was not the ringing of the course of London Surprise on this lumpy, heavy-going peal that won his admiration, but all stopping when the conductor said 'Stand.' 'I have to give five minutes' notice to my chaps,' he said, 'to get them all to stop by the time the service starts.' A short touch of Grandire Triples was next rung, and then the party said farewell to Cranbrook. Continuing the journey, the company arrived at Brenchley, where tea had been arranged. This was not quite ready, so a visit was made to the tower. Here courses of Bristol, Cambridge and Superlative were rung, with Mr. Jack Wheeldon standing in, all of which were much enjoyed. After tea an exciting billiards match took place between Camberwell and Brixton, the latter eventually winning easily. The last place of call for ringing was Hadlow, reached about half an hour before the arrival of a party from Crawley. Upon this quaint octave, which is exactly like the front eight of a peal of twelve, the Londoners commenced with a perfect course of Kent Treble Bob Major, then a touch of Stedman Triples (A.W.C.'s variation), a course of Cambridge Surprise, and so finished the day's ringing.

Dry lips were again moistened, and a start was then made for home, via Tonbridge and Sevenoaks, and upon arriving at the Oval station another most delightful and happy outing passed into the realm of memories, with the others that have gone before. Best thanks are extended to all those who granted permission to ring, and to the towerkeepers for all they did to make the day the great success it undoubtedly was.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

CANTERBURY DISTRICT WELCOMES 92-YEAR-OLD RINGER.

By the kind permission of the Vicar, the Rev. Peter Lambert, a by-meeting was held at St. Nicholas' Church, Sturry, on July 27th. The meeting proved to be a very successful one, and was comparatively well attended, there being twenty members present. The re-hanging of the six bells has just been completed by Mr. Alfred Bowell, of Ipswich, and are now in good ringing order.

Some very good ringing was accomplished, the methods being Kent and Oxford Treble Bob, Plain Bob and Grandire.

The Vicar kindly officiated at a service, at which he gave a very appropriate and much-appreciated address.

Afterwards, the ringers adjourned to the Leopard's Head, where a very delightful tea had been provided on the lawn. The Vicar presided over the meal, and took the chair at the subsequent meeting, at which a very hearty vote of thanks was passed by acclamation to the Vicar for his kind welcome and for the service, and to the organist, Mr. Cross, for the musical arrangements.

During the afternoon the ringers welcomed to the tower Mr. Slingsby, who, although 92 years of age, very ably rang the treble in a touch of Plain Bob.

LONDONDERRY CATHEDRAL BELLS.

IRISH CITY'S REJOICINGS AT DEDICATION.

With a solemn and impressive service and great rejoicing the new peal of bells, thirteen in all, erected at Londonderry Cathedral, were dedicated by the Lord Primate of Ireland on July 25th. The bells have been cast and installed by Messrs. Gillett and Johnston, of Croydon, ten of them being hung for ringing, and the other three, which are semi-tones, for tune playing. The weight of the tenor is 31 cwt., and the total weight of the ring is over seven tons.

St. Columb's Cathedral, Derry, was completed in 1633, and it was recorded on the tenor bell of the old peal of eight, which were recast of 1812, that 'the five larger bells were presented to the City of Londonderry by King Charles I. in 1638.' Another was given by the citizens of the town in 1671, and two by the Honourable the Irish Society in 1630. When the bells were recast in the early 19th century the old inscriptions were not preserved on them, but these are being restored on the new ring of ten. The recast tenor bears the inscription: 'Glory to God in the Highest. The Honourable the Irish Society of London, Founders of this Cathedral and Donors of its two most ancient bells, gave me A.D. 1928. Colonel Sir Louis A. Newton, Bart., Alderman, Governor, Frederick Whittingham, C.C., Deputy Governor, Leslie C. Landragin, Secretary.'

The dedication service was unique in the history of the Cathedral in many ways, and it was the first to be broadcast from Derry. The congregation was the largest which had ever followed a service in Londonderry, for by means of amplifiers the service was transmitted to a congregation outside several times larger than that inside, which numbered about 1,200. The service itself, says 'The Londonderry Sentinel,' was simple, solemn, and impressive, but the note was one of gladsome triumph on the part of the donors, who had assembled to witness the consummation of a scheme as dear to their hearts as to those of the Dean, Chapter, and Vestry of the Cathedral. All the music spoke of that triumph, first sounded in the processional hymn, 'Lifted safe within the tower,' and continued in the hymn 'Thou art coming, O my Saviour,' the Te Deum, and the Recessional, 'Ring forth, holy bells.' The object of the bells was dwelt upon by the Lord Bishop in the course of the dedication, and by the Lord Primate in his address, while the solemn nature of the message which they at times will tell was conveyed by the impressive words of the beautiful hymn, 'O Strength and Stay,' sung to the majestic music of the Londonderry Air. The congregation, which was perhaps the most representative that ever sat in the Cathedral, included amongst many other notable people, Major Ronald Ross, M.P., Mr. M. S. Moore, H.M.L. for the City of Derry; Mr. M. M. McCausland, H.M.L. for the county; and Mrs. James Corscadden, a direct descendant of one of the 'Immortal Thirteen.'

The 'Immortal Thirteen,' who are commemorated on the thirteenth bell, presented in memory of Capt. Browning by the Browning Club of Apprentice Boys, were, it is interesting to recall, 'the Brave Thirteen Apprentice Boys who shut the gates in 1688 and saved Derry.'

FIRST BELL IN CHRISTIAN WORSHIP.

The bells were dedicated by the Lord Bishop of Londonderry, and the address was given by the Primate of All Ireland. In the course of his address, the Primate, who spoke from the words, 'Glory to God in the Highest' (St. Luke ii. 14), said: 'Here in Derry the bells have a significance which is inseparable from the heroic history of the place. This Cathedral, together with the old walls of the city, form an enduring monument of one of the most wonderful stories in the records of mankind. Within the walls of this Cathedral the heroic people of the city met for prayer, to the God in whom they trusted, day after day, during the awful period of the siege. For this high and holy purpose the members of our Church and those of the Presbyterian Church resorted here continually, observing their own ways of worship, but all united in the same great resolve and the same faith in God. The tower of the Cathedral was the station from which the besieged made their observations and from which they signalled. And on every occasion of victory or success the bells pealed forth their message of gladness. And when the final relief came, and the long and terrible struggle was over, they called the victors to the great service of thanksgiving to God for the deliverance He had granted. The City of Derry has a long and notable history. The ancient Irish Church was very remarkable for the number of great Christian missionaries whom it sent forth to evangelise regions where the old pagan faiths still survived. The missionary spirit of St. Patrick blazed up with wonderful power in the souls of many of those who were nourished in the centres of Christian faith which were formed as the result of his labours. These centres became famous also as centres of learning at a time when Europe was sinking into barbarism. This ancient Irish Church was notable also for its independence, and it is of interest that the first mention of a bell in connection with a Christian service is to be found in an ancient life of St. Columba, where the sounding of a bell appears as the means of calling to prayer in the church. Thus your newly-restored and augmented ring of bells may be truly said to carry on a long tradition, beginning in the sixth century and most gloriously and wonderfully emphasised in the great deliverance of 1689. Connected with this latter event, our service to-day has been associated in a special way with the memory of two of the heroes of the siege. The collection which will be made is to be for a tablet to commemorate the courage and devotion of two brave men—Colonel Henry Baker, one of the governors of the city, who nobly discharging his difficult and dangerous duties, and worn out with labour and disease, died when the siege had lasted 73 days, and was buried in the north aisle of this Cathedral; and the gallant Captain Browning, of the Mountjoy, leader of the relieving ships, who was killed in the moment of victory at the Breaking of the Boom.'

The Primate then spoke of the message of the bells, and concluded: 'Listen to their voice; come when they call; receive their messages into your heart; and you will be able to join in the eternal Song of Praise, "Glory to God in the Highest,"'

The Primate's appeal for a generous offering towards the provision of a memorial to Colonel Baker and Captain Browning met with a ready response, the collection realising £86.

Eleven members of St. Patrick's Cathedral Society, Dublin, had been invited to Derry to assist in the opening, and the local men having rung the rounds at the moment of dedication in a very creditable manner, the Dublin contingent at the conclusion of the service rang 1,259 Grandsire Caters: G. Lindoff (conductor) 1, R. S. F. Murphy, P.C., 2, W. H. Wilson 3, T. McMorran 4, R. Lynch 5, J. Atkinson 6, A. Murray 7, W. E. Lynch 8, G. F. Wilmot 9, J. W. Townley 10. A touch of Stedman Triples on the light eight (now spoken of as the old eight), in which Miss Mills, of London, took part, and a touch of Grandsire Triples on the back eight, in which Canon Ridout, of South Africa, took part, concluded the ringing for the day. About twenty-five minutes of the quarter-peal was broadcast.

The ringers were all greatly pleased with the bells, both in 'go' and tone, and Messrs. Gillett and Johnston may feel justly proud of Londonderry bells. They are indeed a fine peal. On the Thursday, the ringers present were entertained in the Northern Counties Hotel by Mr. Johnston, a very pleasant evening being spent. Some of the ringers returned to Dublin the next day, but others remained until Saturday to enjoy the hospitality extended to them. Mr. J. C. Orr acted as 'guide, philosopher and friend' during the stay.

IN THE RINGING ROOM.

The 'Sentinel' published an interesting description of the scene in the belfry:—

'In the ringing room of the tower, up the narrow stairway, its steps worn by the feet of centuries of visitors, a little group stands waiting for the signal to send out the glad message of Derry's historic bells, strengthened and revived. The furniture of the room has still to come. The walls are scarred, where woodwork has been removed in connection with the changes. A good deal of dust is about. Temporary ladders lead up to the bells, two storeys higher up in the tower. The chiming apparatus, enabling tunes to be played, has still to be installed. There is plenty of evidence of the hurrying forward of the arrangements so that not only the most modern but the best-equipped peal in Ireland may be ready for the dedication.'

'The service is closely followed by the little group. The Bishop's voice comes faintly through a louvre, opened for the occasion. The choir's 'Amen' at the close of each prayer are punctuation points. The minutes pass. The little circle of ringers, two young ladies and eight men, members of the Cathedral honorary Guild, stand, ropes in hand, ready for the call. The silence is tense.

'Suddenly, the tinkle of a bell, communicating with the chancel, gives the signal. A second later and the peal is sending out a wave of melody, heard subduedly within the Cathedral, heard with crashing distinctness by the thousands in the churchyard, on the city wall, and for miles around.

'It is something of an ordeal for those privileged thus to broadcast the first message of the bells after almost a year's silence. Until that moment the ringers had never heard the sound of their own bells. Only on the night before had the last of the ropes come down from the eerie chamber overhead. It had then been possible to have a pull with the clappers tied. But the ringer is more comfortable when he hears his bell and knows exactly where it is dropping in. The ordeal is well got over. After the opening round the ringers settle steadily down, and all over Ulster the listening thousands pick up the message.

'The minute allotted to the ringers is over before its passing has been noticed by the busy circle. At a call the bells lapse into silence, and the service proceeds.

'Meantime the team of experienced change ringers from St. Patrick's Cathedral, Dublin, occupy the front pews in the gallery, waiting their call to come later. They include a clergyman and his son, a great grandfather and his son, and another father and son—almost a family party of men have come to honour Derry. The service progresses. The music of the choir and the sound of the Primate's voice float into the ringing room.

'Then, while the Recessional hymn is being sung, as the clergy and choir file into the Chapter House, the visiting ringers silently leave the gallery, mount the narrow winding stairway, and instantly on the close of the hymn the Dublin team break out in a 1,200 change peal on ten bells—the first peal of the kind ever rung in Derry. Later, the visitors give a ring on the recast eight bells, and

RINGING MEETING AT SUDBURY.

A joint meeting of the Suffolk Guild and the Essex Association was held at Sudbury on July 20th. After tea, at which 53 were present, Mr. C. H. Howard, Master of the Essex Association, was elected chairman.

New members were elected, and meetings arranged.

Mr. Leslie A. Allington was elected secretary for the Sudbury Branch. Members were present from Ipswich, Lavenham, Mistley, Ufford, Wormingford, Little Waldingfield, Stebbing, Maldon, Sudbury, London, Hasketon, Foxearth, Clacton-on-Sea, Long Melford, Glemsford, Thorington, Great Cornard, Groton, Siblie Redingham, Colchester, Earls Colne, Grensted Green, Great Bentley, Sproughton, Halstead, Cambridge, Braintree, and other towers. The following methods were rung: Bristol, London, Superlative, Cambridge, Double Norwich, Treble and Plain Bob, Stedman, and Grandsire. The company of St. Peter Mancroft, Norwich, were also in the town, and joined forces with the other Guilds.

ICKLETON RINGERS AT YARMOUTH.

On Saturday, July 20th, the church choir and ringers of Ickleton, Cambs, spent a very enjoyable day at Yarmouth. At first the excursion was arranged as a choir outing, and as several of the ringers are also members of the choir, it was decided to include the ringers and friends as well, so a party of over sixty left Great Chesterford Station at 5.50 a.m., arriving at Yarmouth about 9 a.m. Permission had been kindly given for the ringers to have a ring on St. Nicholas Church bells in the afternoon. Some of the local men very kindly met the visitors and made them welcome. Touches of Grandsire Triples were rung; then, with the help of some of the Yarmouth ringers, a course of Grandsire Caters was brought round. Afterwards, a party of sixty-four sat down to a substantial tea. Home was reached soon after midnight.

this is succeeded by an eight-bell peal, one of the ringers in which is Canon Ridout, of Johannesburg, and another a young London lady, who, when formerly visiting the city, invariably took a bell, whilst a third was Mr. Johnston, a member of the firm of Gillett and Johnston, of Croydon, the bell founders responsible for the work of recasting the old bells, adding the new ones, and replacing, with metal, the former wooden framework.

The visitors are loud in their praise of the peal, and Mr. Johnston duly receives congratulations on the latest triumph of his world-renowned firm. The ease with which even the heaviest bell—the tenor, presented by the honourable the Irish Society—can be rung, is attributed to the successful introduction of ball bearings. The tone is pronounced excellent and the tune perfect.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD.SIX-BELL RINGERS' EIGHT-BELL PRACTICE.

In delightful weather a very successful meeting of the Dorchester Branch of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild was held on Saturday week at Wyke Regis, Weymouth. Representatives attended from Abbotsbury, Bere Regis, Bournemouth, Charminster, Corfe Mullen, Dorchester, Fordington, Lytchett Minster, Poole, Wareham, Winchester, Wimborne and Wyke Regis, making a total of 56. The bells were available from 2.30 p.m., and sharp to the moment the Lytchett Minster band (which includes five promising young ladies) were in the ringing chamber, and had the bells in motion. Other ringers followed, and the practice was specially devoted to enable six-bell ringers to extend their knowledge of eight-bell methods. Service was conducted by the Rector (Rev. E. de B. Thurston), who gave a homely and thoughtful address. He welcomed the members in the name of the church and parish, and concluded by giving a history of the bells.

Tea was partaken of in the Memorial Hall and was followed by a short business meeting. In the absence of the chairman (Mr. R. N. Daves), the Rector was voted to the chair. Apologies for non-attendance were received from the chairman, the Master of the Guild (Rev. R. H. Gundry), the general secretary (Rev. F. Ll. Edwards), hon. secretary, Wimborne Branch (Rev. C. A. Phillips), Ven. Archdeacon W. S. Moule, Messrs. W. J. Simons (Dorchester), E. Hutchings (Abbotsbury), A. Gray (Frampton), W. Hewlett (Puddletown), and R. Bowditch (Sydling).

Messrs. F. White (Cranbrook, Kent) and H. T. Chandler (Lyons-hall, Hereford) were elected life members.

It was decided to accept with thanks the kind invitation of the Vicar of Frampton, near Dorchester (Rev. G. Wynn), to hold the next meeting at his parish.

Votes of thanks to the Rector, to the ladies for their services, the organist and blower, and the local band, were carried with acclamation, and replied to by the Rector.

The tower was then again visited. Most of the members ascended to the top to see the fine view, including the beautiful panorama of Weymouth Bay, and the American fleet in Portland Harbour. Practice was continued until 8.45 p.m.

Wyke Regis Church is a fine structure, exceedingly well placed, and its tower is a prominent object for some distance, especially seawards. It is Perpendicular in style, and was consecrated in 1455. The tower contained four old bells. These were recast by Taylor and augmented into a fine peal of eight, with a tenor of 17 cwt., in 1891.

BELL ROPES MUFFLES, &c.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

The Master of the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association (Rev. E. S. Saleby) has had an unfortunate experience in his first year of office, for the bells of his incumbency, Leonard Stanley, Stonehouse, Gloucestershire (six bells, tenor 14 cwt.), were taken down last week owing to serious decay of the tower. Various attempts have been made to strengthen the tower without success; the foundations have even moved from new supports.

A peal rung at Trowbridge last week marks another step in the history of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild. It was the first peal of Cambridge Surprise Royal in Wiltshire, and the first by the Guild. It also coincided with the passing of the famous 'four sevens,' Mr. J. T. Dyke having parted with the 'Chilcompton bus.' He has taken on another vehicle, but it is doubtful if it can prove a better servant than the famous Austin, which has covered so many thousands of miles—many of them for ringing.

The tower at Debenham, Suffolk, where many years ago an Oxford Treble Bob Major record was set up, has recently developed some rather serious cracks, in consequence of which the authorities consider it would be wise if no peals were rung until the trouble has been remedied. The bells, however, will still be available for service ringing and short touches.

Last Monday's great performance at Ashton-under-Lyne recalls the fact the first peal of Cambridge Surprise Maximus was rung at Ipswich on August 15th, 1908, so that the 'coming of age' of this method in the realms of practical peal ringing has been marked in a significant manner.

One hundred and eighty years ago next Monday, John Holt called a peal of Bob Triples at St. Martin's-in-the-Fields for the Society of Union Scholars. Holt was also the composer, and the figures are still preserved in Snowden's 'Ropesight.'

The first peal of Double Norwich Major in North Wales was rung at Rhyl on August 13th, 1908.

Non-commissioned, unappointed O.C. 'discomfited D.' is truly sorry to hear that deputy O.C., self-styled, Blues was 'suffering from 'Ricketts' (sorry Bob, remember Haddenham) when, at the Lane End 'Ambushed.' Should N.C.U., O.C.D., Reds, wish to fortify Winkfield on August 24th, would this become a Warfield? It would be nice if the past O.C.s of Red and Blue Forces could settle this point, as the present N.C.U., O.C.D., 'Reds,' has only an outside knowledge of the discomfiture in the branch prior to his arrival. There would then be nothing left to Bray about (see peal columns).

THE SUFFOLK GUILD AND THE CENTRAL COUNCIL.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—There has been much written as to whether members of the Central Council are 'Representatives' or 'Delegates.' That does not really seem to be the question at issue. It is true, the matter was brought to a head by a remark from the chair on this point. But, after all, what we are to call them is a question of nomenclature. So long as the persons in question are clearly identified, Mr. Davies is quite right in saying it does not really matter which term is used.

What we do want is some way by which the Central Council and the associations can co-operate in the work each has to do. A suggestion was made that diplomas should be issued. The question was referred to the associations. But there is no machinery by which this can be done. Each of us had a different idea of what was meant. The result was that the Gloucester and Bristol Association resented the way in which their proposals were treated, so much so that by a majority at a meeting they have withdrawn from the Central Council.

The Suffolk Guild were, however, treated much worse than the Gloucester and Bristol Association, as your report of our last annual meeting on Easter Monday showed. Yet we have not withdrawn. The matter was discussed, but it was agreed that we could do no good by withdrawing. The result has shown that we were right. Had both societies been represented, we could have joined forces at Chelmsford, and put the matter in train to be remedied. But the G. and B. people were out of it, and could neither help us nor themselves.

I am quite certain that no one wanted to treat us or the other association badly, and that a well thought-out scheme has only to be put before the Central Council to be adopted. But as long as they are content to dispute about empty words, when what we and they really want is to get something done, they are simply standing in their own light.

Has no one any practical suggestions? At Ipswich we put forward the idea of Standing Orders. Let us get on with it.

HERBERT DRAKE.

THE NATIONAL THANKSGIVING.

To commemorate the King's recovery, there was rung at the Parish Church of St. Mary, Ufford, on Tuesday, July 30th, 720 Plain Bob Minor: Rev. H. Drake 1, H. W. Smith 2, E. C. Fisher (conductor) 3, F. L. Fisher 4, E. C. Pizzey 5, F. W. Nichols 6. All these are Sunday service ringers at this church, and this is the first 720 which has been so rung since the war.

NEW TWELVE-BELL RECORD.

15,312 CAMBRIDGE SURPRISE MAXIMUS RUNG
AT ASHTON-UNDER-LYNE.

Success attended the band which at Ashton-under-Lyne on Monday attempted a new twelve-bell record. Under the auspices of the Lancashire Association and the Ashton-under-Lyne Society a mixed company started for 15,312 Cambridge Surprise Maximus, and this was brought to a triumphant conclusion after eleven and a half hours' ringing, characterised throughout by good striking. The composition was the Rev. H. Law James' 29 courses. The customary details will be found in our peal columns.

A MAGNIFICENT PERFORMANCE AND AN AMAZING WELCOME.

In December, 1925, the first long peal of Cambridge Surprise Maximus was rung at Bow, Cheapside, this being a 7,392. Since that date the thought of ringing the extent has been in the minds of some of the band, but the main difficulty lay in getting the use of a peal of bells on which to make the attempt. Two or three likely places were thought of, but it was not until Mr. Gabriel Lindoff aroused the sympathies of the Ashton-under-Lyne ringers that prospects became at all bright. Mr. Sam Wood very kindly obtained the consent of the Rector (Canon Thompson) and the churchwardens, and preparations for the peal went on. A new set of ropes, well stretched, were put on, and everything done that Mr. Ben Thorpe, the towerkeeper, could think of.

In the meantime Mr. William Pye made up his band, and eventually got together twelve good men, determined to see it through. The weakness of the band seemed to lay in its mixture, several being almost unknown, as ringers, to the others. However, it was decided to meet at Ashton on the day previous to the peal attempt, to have a trial trip. This proved very useful in getting the band 'fitted in,' and it was arranged to stand in exactly the same order in the peal.

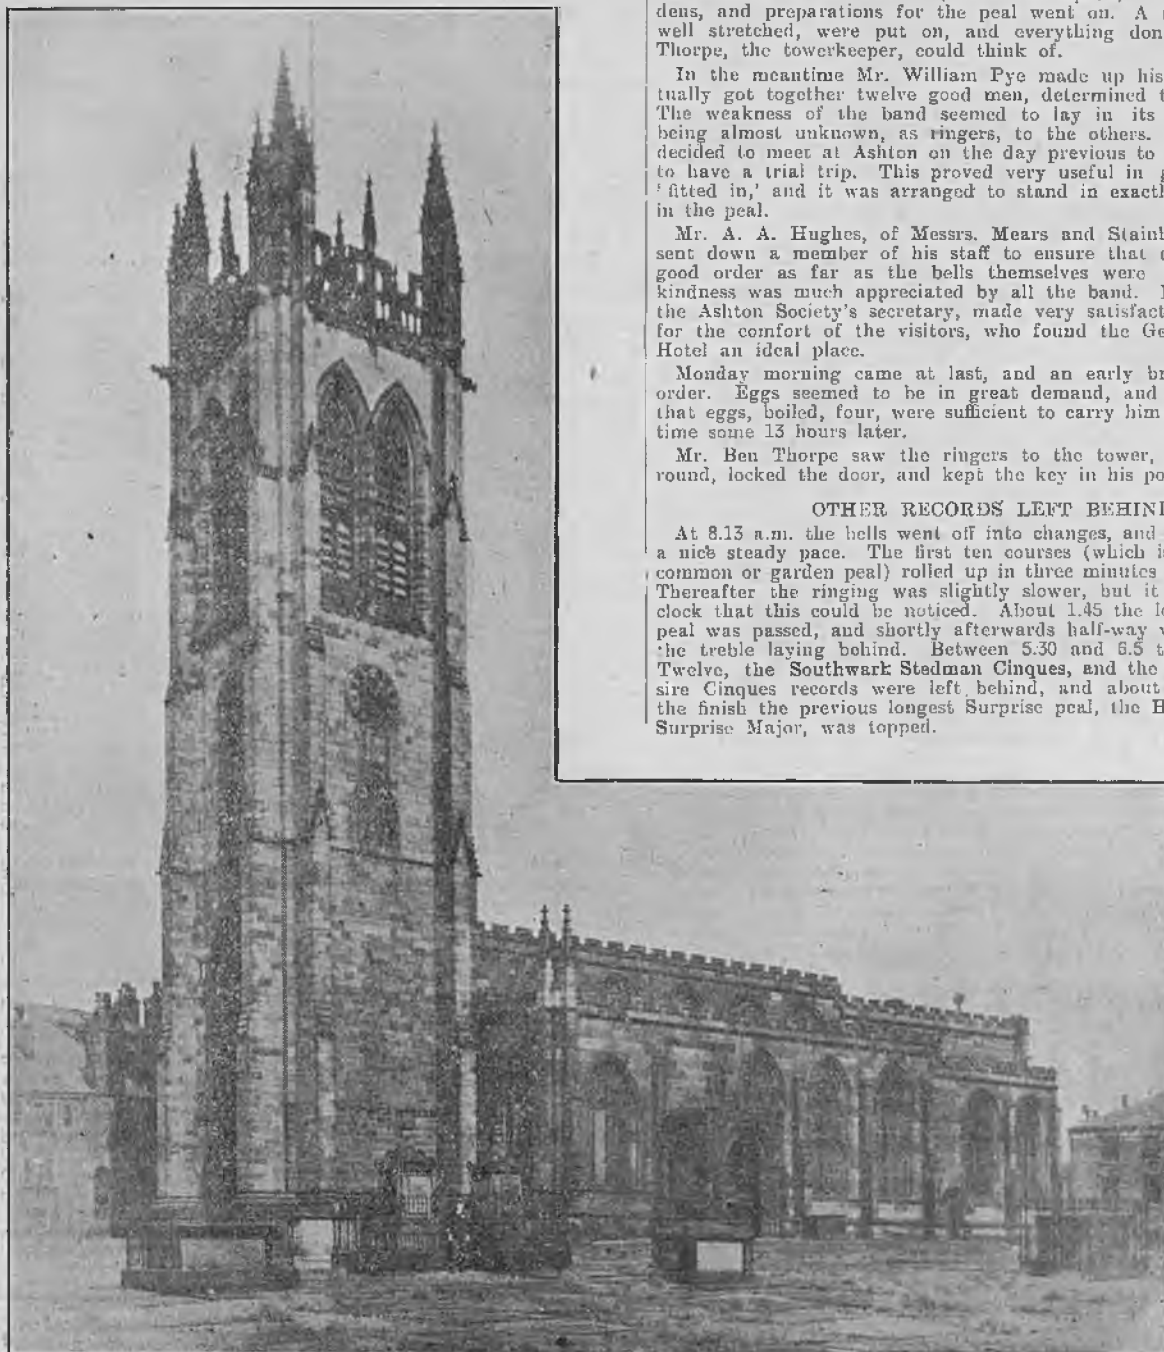

Mr. A. A. Hughes, of Messrs. Mears and Stainbank, very kindly sent down a member of his staff to ensure that everything was in good order as far as the bells themselves were concerned, which kindness was much appreciated by all the band. Mr. S. Thompson, the Ashton Society's secretary, made very satisfactory arrangements for the comfort of the visitors, who found the George and Dragon Hotel an ideal place.

Monday morning came at last, and an early breakfast was the order. Eggs seemed to be in great demand, and the writer found that eggs, boiled, four, were sufficient to carry him over until supper time some 13 hours later.

Mr. Ben Thorpe saw the ringers to the tower, had a last look round, locked the door, and kept the key in his pocket.

OTHER RECORDS LEFT BEHIND.

At 8.13 a.m. the bells went off into changes, and settled down into a nice steady pace. The first ten courses (which is the length of a common or garden peal) rolled up in three minutes under four hours. Thereafter the ringing was slightly slower, but it was only by the clock that this could be noticed. About 1.45 the length of the Bow peal was passed, and shortly afterwards half-way was reached, with the treble laying behind. Between 5.30 and 6.5 the Ashton Treble Twelve, the Southwark Stedman Cinques, and the Painswick Grand-sire Cinques records were left behind, and about a minute before the finish the previous longest Surprise peal, the Hornchurch Bristol Surprise Major, was topped.

The Church of St. Michael and All Angels, Ashton-under-Lyne, where the new record was made.

At 7.46 the welcome 'That's all' was heard, and a mighty cheer went up from the immense crowd gathered in the vicinity of the church.

The honours of the peal were with the conductor, William Pye, who knew his job all through. He was ably helped by the other backenders, and the middle men stood firm. Does the 5th man know how to make a mistake? The treble man is well known in the North. He is now well known to some ringers from the South. He was always where he should be. The 'unknown quantity' on the second showed that his previous experience of long lengths enabled him to finish as fresh as when he started. A very useful man to have in a band! But something nice could be said about all the band.

The striking throughout was good, and very few trips occurred. Mr. Ben Thorpe was in the belfry before stand was called, and was the first to congratulate the conductor on his fine performance.

On arriving in the porch, the ringers found the Rector awaiting them. Canon Thompson, after congratulating each ringer individually, spoke of the great honour they had done to Ashton by ringing such a fine peal on the bells. The ringing history of the tower had been gloriously added to.

It fell to the writer to thank Canon Thompson for his very generous words, and for his great kindness in giving his permission for the peal to be rung. The Rector also saw to it that the where-withal was provided to obtain very necessary refreshment, for which he was cordially thanked.

ASHTON RINGERS' SPORTING SPIRIT.

On opening the church door, the storm burst. William Pye was in great demand, and hands were nearly shaken off. It seemed as if half the population of Ashton were present. An attempt to get a photo taken for the press was only partially successful, as two of the band were carried off by the crowd. At last a passage was made, and William was followed to the hotel by an admiring crowd.

Later in the evening a gathering of ringers took place, and congratulations came afresh. The veteran Sam Wood, Ben Thorpe and others who were in the Treble Twelve record were sincerest in their praises, and one member of the southern contingent took occasion to voice the deep appreciation of the band for all that had been done. A more 'sporty' spirit could not be found anywhere, than to invite somebody to come along, and beat your own record, and make it easy for them to do it! Mention was also made of the whole-hearted welcome of the hundreds of people who gathered to hear the peal finished. At some places it is more likely that it would have been a welcome with brickbats.

All good things come to an end, and the evening passed much too quickly. Half the band made their way home, and half stayed at Ashton to go on to Liverpool the next day for an ordinary length peal at St. Nicholas' Church. This was in response to an invitation given by Mr. G. R. Newton and the Liverpool ringers to 'bring as many as you like and ring just what you like.' And what could be more welcome?

It would be out of place to finish this short account of the ringing of this peal without once again thanking all those who contributed to the success, notably those great men at Ashton-under-Lyne, Messrs. Sam Wood, Ben Thorpe, S. Thompson and company.

A word for the bells. They are a delight to listen to, and a treat to ring. There were no complaints anywhere, not even at the end. They were completely restored and rehung two years ago by Messrs. Mears and Staibank. The bells were removed to the Whitechapel Foundry, where they were sand-blasted and retuned, and then returned to the tower to be rehung on ball bearings in an entirely new frame and fittings, and with iron headstocks. In addition, a flat treble was added to make a light peal of eight. Both in tone and 'go' the bells are a real credit to the firm.

OTHER GREAT PERFORMANCES.

The Church of St. Michael and All Angels, Ashton-under-Lyne, has been the scene of other great performances in the past, and the previous Maximus record was made there when, on April 17th, 1911, Mr. Sam Woods called the 12,240 of Kent Treble Twelve in 8 hrs. 39 mins. At this tower, also, the Treble Bob Royal record (14,000 in 9 hrs. 24 mins.) was rung on April 13th, 1914.

Prior to Monday, the greatest number of changes on twelve bells in one peal was the 13,001 Grandsire Cinques, rung in 8 hrs. 45 mins. at Painswick, by the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association, on February 14th, 1920, but on Whit Monday, May 21st, 1923, 12,675 Stedman Cinques was rung by the College Youths at Southwark Cathedral, where the tenor is 50 cwt., in 9 hrs. 47 mins. On December 26th, 1901, 11,111 Stedman Cinques was rung at St. Martin's, Birmingham, in 8 hrs. 2 mins. The Treble Bob Maximus record made at Ashton-under-Lyne in 1911, superseded a length of 10,224 set up at Painswick on December 9th, 1833, which peal was composed and conducted by William Estcourt and rung in 6 hrs. 50 mins.

The following is the list of peals of more than 15,000 changes which have been rung on church bells, from which it will be seen that a score of this phenomenal length have been put on record:—

PORTUGAL'S HISTORIC CARILLONS.

EXTRAVAGANT MONARCH'S DOUBLE SET OF BELLS.

A famous Portuguese carillon has been placed in order, and has now been heard again after a silence of more than forty years. This is one of the two instruments at the great Mafra Monastery, said to be the most gigantic building in Portugal, and one of the ten biggest in Europe. It was built in the eighteenth century by King John V. of Portugal, but has not been inhabited for over a century. The edifice itself covers an area of 40,000 square metres, contains 880 enormous rooms, and has 4,500 doors and windows. Its belfries are 68 metres high, and are supplied with 114 bells of various sizes. The library is one of the attractions there, and is known to all bibliophiles. It contains 30,000 volumes.

At one time the double carillons of Mafra were said to be the finest in the world, each set possessing 47 bells, varying in weight from 30 to 10,000 kilograms. According to the 'Christian Science Monitor,' the existence of duplicate sets is due to the vanity of King John, whose greatest ambition was to vie in acts of extravagant splendour with his cousin Louis XV. of France. Having made up his mind to have the best obtainable chimes to adorn his monstrous fantasy, when their great cost was hesitatingly revealed to him, the sovereign answered with ostentatious carelessness, 'So cheap! I will have two sets made.'

The carillons were inaugurated in 1730, those of the northern tower being constructed by Nicolas Leveche, and the southern by Guillaume Willcock. They became one of the attractions of Portugal for travellers, and for nearly a century and a half were one of the favourite pastimes of kings. The people of the neighbouring countryside also rejoiced in the merry or plaintive strains that could be heard ten miles off. About 40 years ago something went wrong with the intricate centuries-old machinery and clocks. No one could be found in the country who knew how to mend the ancient chimes, and so the rust-covered bells kept silence until their existence was almost forgotten. Great political changes absorbed general attention, and music was a negligible quantity.

Now, however, that a certain stability has been restored and time is found for the great work of restoration, it was resolved that the marvellous carillons of Mafra could not be left in permanent neglect.

Two famous experts, Jef Denyn and Desiré Somers, were called by the Portuguese Government from Belgium, and these men have for the last year worked in the Mafra belfries among the rusty clocks and mighty wireworks. In their opinion these chimes are unique in value and workmanship; but they considered the duplication of the handworked keys and quadruplication of cylinders necessary for the two sets a useless expenditure, so that only the southern tower was restored.

The inauguration concert was attended by the President of the Republic, members of the Government, and diplomatic corps, and a concourse of thousands of people of all classes, who, it is said, were thrilled on hearing the first sonorous vibrations trembling through the air, and sent up a mighty shout after the Portuguese National Anthem had been played.

MARGATE.—On July 31st, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples in 46 mins.: W. Trusler 1, D. Wright (conductor) 2, W. Joiner 3, H. King 4, W. H. Seabrook 5, A. Saxby 6, F. Reeves 7, F. Gadsden 8. Arranged for ringers of 2nd, 3rd, 4th and 5th, who were on holiday in the town.

CHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD.MR. E. W. ELWELL'S RESIGNATION AS HON. SECRETARY.

The 42nd annual meeting of the Chester Diocesan Guild was held at Bebington on Saturday, July 27th. There was a moderate attendance, about 85 members and friends being present, and each of the seven branches of the Guild was represented. The proceedings opened officially with a service at 4 p.m., at St. Andrew's, Bebington, the sermon being preached by Rev. Fr. H. E. Boulthbee, Vicar of Bebington.

The meeting itself was held at 4.45 p.m. in the Ormerod Memorial Hall. The business dealt with was of the kind generally found on the agenda of most annual meetings.

The Master (Rev. C. A. Clements) was in the chair. A good deal of discussion was raised by the annual report, and a certain amount of energetic opposition to its publication in its present form was offered. Eventually, however, its adoption was moved, and the motion was carried with one dissident.

The election of officers passed off without incident. The Rev. C. A. Clements was re-elected to the office of Master amidst acclamation, and the Rev. A. T. Beeston to the office of hon. treasurer. The only change was the resignation of the hon. secretary, Mr. E. W. Elwell, owing to his many other business engagements.

Mr. W. W. Wolstencroft said that he was sure that all the members would be sorry to lose such a valuable and genial secretary as Mr. Elwell had shown himself to be during the last seven years, and that he personally found it a pleasure to attend any meeting at which Mr. Elwell was present.

Mr. J. C. E. Simpson (St. Mary's Vicarage, Manor Road, Wallasey) was elected as the new hon. secretary, and Mr. Elwell was elected as the ringing member representative from the Wirral Branch on the committee in place of Mr. Simpson.

It was decided that in future each branch should advertise its meetings in 'The Ringing World,' such advertisements to be paid for by the Guild. The purchase by the Guild of copies of the Lancashire Association Instruction Book for distribution to members was approved.

An application for a grant from the Guild funds towards rehanging Dodleston bells was confirmed.

It was decided to hold the next annual meeting at Northwich on Easter Monday, 1930. Votes of thanks were passed to the hon. auditors, Messrs. H. and W. Jackson.

At the conclusion of the meeting, the members partook of tea in the Lady Lever Art Gallery, Port Sunlight, during which a vote of thanks was passed to the peal recorder, Mr. J. Cooke, for his valued work which he had put in during the past year.

Tea being finished, a general move was made to the towers, those open for ringing being Rock Ferry (six bells), and Bebington and Port Sunlight (eight bells). Ringing was carried on till about 8.30, and some was also done in the afternoon before service. The ringing was of a varied character, but a good variety of methods was rung, including Grandsire and Stedman Triples, and Plain Bob, Kent and Oxford, and Cambridge, Superlative and Bristol Surprise Major.

A FIVE COUNTIES EXPEDITION.

The annual outing of the Bolsover ringers took place on July 20th, and an ambitious tour extended to 188 miles, in five counties, including ringing for an hour at each of five churches. It seemed rather a tall order in the midst of a heat wave. Irthlingborough was the farthest point, and the whole of the day was planned to a schedule. Leaving Bolsover at 7 a.m., the party travelled via Mansfield to nick up an old and faithful friend, and reached Oakham at 9.15. The fifty miles' journey had been delightful. They were welcomed by Mr. Higgs, and soon had the bells going to various Major methods. Ringing on this grand peal was greatly enjoyed. After a look round this historic town, and lunch at the Crown Hotel, they set off to Tichmarsh, 35 miles away. There they were welcomed by the local company and Mr. W. Perkins, who took them in hand for the day. Tichmarsh bells are a nice peal by Gillett and Johnston. The next call was at Thrapston, where the local band turned up in full force to welcome the party, and Mr. F. Wilford was also there. Thrapston bells are a very nice ring by Taylor and Co., and, incidentally, the back six were cast at the same time as Bolsover back six in 1898. After touches in the usual methods, the party went on to Irthlingborough, and were met by Mr. A. Y. Tyler and others, who gave them a real welcome and joined in tapping off touches in a few Surprise methods. Tea was provided at the Bull Hotel, and afterwards Mr. F. Wilford welcomed the party into the district. Mr. Wilford having been thanked, the party set out for Burton Latimer, where there is a nice light peal by Taylor and Co. Here again the local men met them with P.C. Robinson, late of Bolsover, and Mr. F. Tite. Some of the party, feeling tired, preferred to listen while the enthusiasts did some real good striking. The methods rung during the day included Bob Major, Little Bob, Treble Bob, Double Norwich, Superlative, Cambridge, London and Bristol Surprise, and the company desire to thank the incumbents at each tower, and the local men, especially Messrs. Higgs, Perkins, Tyler and F. Wilford, who spared nothing to make the outing the success it was. Home was reached at 11 p.m.; after 16 hours of enjoyment.

LANCASHIRE ASSOCIATION.PRESTON BRANCH DOINGS.

The annual branch meeting of the Preston Branch was held at Chorley on Saturday. The attendance was rather smaller than usual. The bells at both the Parish Church and St. Mary's R.C. were utilised during the day, ringing commencing about 3.30, and continuing until nearly nine o'clock, with a break for tea and the business meeting, methods from Double Court, to Cambridge Surprise being rung.

The Ringing Master (Mr. Wm. Sharples) presided at the business meeting. The Secretary gave the following report of the doings of the branch: During the year meetings have been held at Penwortham, Eccleston, Whittle-le-Woods, Preston St. Mark's, Croston, Brindle and Tarleton, as well as the annual social at Higher Walton. The meetings have been attended up to the average for the last few years, but the members attending are mostly the same, and I would like to appeal to the chief ringers of the different towers to try to get those members who are not as keen as they might be to try and attend the meetings. The meeting at Eccleston was rather out of the ordinary, coming as it did on the eve of the diamond wedding of the oldest active member, Mr. R. Rigbye, to whom the branch took the opportunity to make a presentation in commemoration of the rare event. The attendance at the annual social was slightly under the average, but as usual all present had an enjoyable time. With regard to ringing in the branch, I cannot say there has been much advancement generally, although one is pleased to note that a new and enthusiastic band has been got together at Tarleton, where the efforts of the Rector, and the Croston ringers seem to be bearing fruit. Our peal list is rather smaller than usual, but some of the peals are perhaps more meritorious, notably the peal of Cambridge Surprise at Hoghton, which was the first of Major in the method by the branch, also the peal of Kent Treble Bob Royal at Blackburn Cathedral, which was also the first by the branch, and rung at the first attempt. The conductor was the only ringer in the peal who had rung a peal of Royal in the method before. I would like at this point to thank the Blackburn Branch for their kindness in arranging, and allowing us to make the attempt, which proved so successful. The full list of the peals rung is as follows: One Kent Treble Bob Minor at Eccleston, one Cambridge Major at Hoghton, one Grandsire Triples at Whittle-le-Woods, the first in the methods on the bells, the peal at Whittle being a local peal half-muffled in honour of the fallen members from that tower; two peals of Double Norwich, one at Brownedge, the first peal on the newly-augmented peal, and one at Preston Parish Church, rung in honour of the wedding of Mr. Alex. Martin, one of the local ringers; one of Kent Treble Bob Royal at Blackburn, one of Kent Treble Bob Major at Penwortham. The augmentation and rehanging of the bells at Higher Walton has been carried out since the last annual meeting, this being another welcome addition to the eight-bell towers. Subscriptions have come in fairly well, and we have made or re-elected 18 new members during the year, so that our list will be as large or larger than it has been previously.

The secretary and Ringing Master were both re-elected, as also were the branch committee men. The best thanks of the branch were given to both officers for their services during the year, to which the secretary and Master suitably replied.

The Secretary then read a letter from the Fylde Branch secretary, suggesting a joint meeting between the two branches. This was agreed to, the matter being left to the secretaries to arrange.

A vote of thanks to the authorities for the use of the bells, and to the local ringers for having all in readiness, concluded the business.

GUILDFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.FARNHAM DISTRICT MEETING.

A most successful meeting of the Farnham District was held at Aldershot on Saturday, July 27th. This meeting had been originally arranged for Farnborough, but owing to sickness in the parish it was transferred to Aldershot, and 38 members and friends were present from Aldershot, Ash, Bagshot, Blackwater, Farnham, Hawley, Seale and Woking. Ringing commenced at three o'clock, and later the Guild service was conducted by the Rev. A. E. Dudley. An excellent tea was provided in the Parish Hall by Miss A. Fisher and other lady ringers.

At the business meeting the Rev. A. E. Dudley, who was elected a ringing member of the Guild, took the chair, and one hon. member (Mrs. Walker, wife of Admiral T. P. Walker, the Guild's esteemed treasurer), and one compounding member (Mr. J. Sparrow, hon. secretary of the Royal Cumberland Youths), were also elected.

Mr. J. S. Goldsmith, hon. general secretary of the Guild, gave an interesting account of the proceedings of the Central Council, and was heartily thanked.

A message of condolence was sent to Mr. B. H. Clark, late hon. secretary of the district, who is in hospital as the result of injuries received in a motor accident.

Votes of thanks were accorded to the Vicar for the use of the bells, the Rev. A. E. Dudley for conducting the service and presiding at the meeting, to the ladies for preparing tea, and to the organist and blower. Touches were afterwards rung on handbells, and the tower bells were kept going in various methods until nine o'clock, one touch being rung in which six ladies took part.

DURHAM & NEWCASTLE DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

It was thought that a large number would be attracted to the delightful town of Darlington for the Durham and Newcastle Association's summer meeting on Saturday week, and the officials were rather disappointed when only 15 sat down to the excellent tea at Hunter's Cafe. Those present included the president (Mr. E. E. Ferry) and the Rev. A. S. Thompson, Vicar of St. John's. St. Cuthbert's bells were kept going during the afternoon, and St. John's and Holy Trinity after tea, with a final rally at St. Cuthbert's from 8 to 9. A very pleasant time was spent, all agreeing that the meeting had been well worth while. Six new members of St. Peter's, Jarrow, were elected.

A FIVE-BELL TRIP.

On Saturday, July 27th, five members of the Loughborough Parish Church Society visited the Saxon Church of Willoughby-on-the-Wolds. By kind permission of Mr. J. G. Baldoock, churchwarden, the Vicar being away, the bells, a light peal of five, were raised and set going to 120's of Bob Doubles and Grandsire Doubles. It was soon found that they sadly needed the bellhanger. The bells were lowered in peal, and after tea a visit was paid to Walton, by kind permission of the Rev. B. M. Bird, where a quarter-peal was tapped off in fine style, consisting of four 120's of Bob Doubles and six of Grandsire, the ringers being: J. Onslow 1, C. Bollard 2, C. Allsop (conductor) 3, J. Saddington 4, J. Towell 5.

YORKSHIRE FRIENDS, HOSPITALITY AND DALES.

The ringers of the Parish Church of St. Mary, Penwortham, Lancashire, paid a visit to old and new friends in Yorkshire for their annual excursion. The occasion was not merely a day's outing for ringing, but a commemoration of a somewhat unique event, for it was on June 8th, 1912, that the bi-centenary of the bells was celebrated, and, since then, an endeavour has been made to hold an outing each year on the Saturday nearest to June 8th. This year an invitation had been received from the band at St. Michael's, Headingley, Leeds—once described to the writer by Mr. Arthur Craven as the 'University'—to make Headingley the venue, and, once transport difficulties had been solved, the invitation was accepted with alacrity. So, at nine o'clock on a fine summer morning, the party, which included Mr. B. A. Knights, of Preston Parish Church, and also five ladies who had eyes on the shops at Leeds, and a glorious disconcert for the tenth commandment, set out along the beautiful valley of the Ribbles. Past Whalley Abbey, one of Lancashire's historical gems, and Whalley Church, where time did not permit a stop to try the new ring of eight, the journey proceeded by way of Pendle Forest, the home of the Lancashire Witches, to the main Pennine Range, a region of vast expanses and wild moors. Soon, however, these moors were crossed, and the party passed along wooded roads, down to the sheltering warmth of Keighley. Here they were met by Mr. R. W. Jennison, who led the way into the belfry, and soon the bells—a particularly fine ring of eight—were set going. Touches of Bob Major, Grandsire Triples and Kent Treble Bob were successfully rung, and an adjournment was made to the King's Arms Hotel for dinner. Having satisfied the inner man, the party set out once again, this time down the lovely valley of the Aire, through Bingley and Shipley, where again good rings of eight had to be passed by, to Calverley, where the local ringers were waiting to give a welcome. Again the bells were set going, and, after a touch of Rob Major, ambition persuaded a joint band to try a touch of Superlative Surprise; it was, however, not successful.

The journey on to Headingley was quite a short one, and soon the party reached its destination, where many old friends were met. After 'callin' for a little while, the bells were raised, and over an hour's ringing indulged in, Bob Major, Double Norwich, Stedman Triples and Superlative Surprise all being rung. The two bands had arranged for a joint tea, and this took place at a neighbouring cafe, a very happy gathering. After tea, Mr. P. J. Johnson, addressing a few words of welcome to the visitors, referred to the pleasure of meeting old friends and making the acquaintance of new ones. He spoke, too, of the traditions of Headingley, and the time when so many as five Surprise methods were rung for Sunday services; also of the necessity for training recruits and setting a high standard before them.—Mr. J. R. Taylor, responding, said he knew that once Headingley had been decided upon as the venue of the trip, everything would be done by the hosts to make the day a memorable one. He extended a cordial invitation to the Headingley band to visit Penwortham. Handbells were then obtained, and a touch and a course of Bob Major successfully rung before the tower was again visited. The ringing being ended, and the ladies having found the male portion of the party, farewells were said and the journey home commenced along the lovely vale of the Wharfe. Yorkshire friends, Yorkshire hospitality and Yorkshire dales!—could anyone desire more for their day's outing? Such was the good fortune of the Penwortham band, and they wish to take this opportunity of thanking the Vicars of Keighley, Calverley and Headingley for the use of the bells, and their friends the ringers at those places for meeting them and doing everything possible to make the day one of such happy memories.

A DAY IN WARWICKSHIRE.

For the annual outing of the band at St. Peter's, Dunstable, Beds, on Thursday, July 25th, a visit to Warwickshire had been planned, and involved a motor trip of 120 miles, with plenty of ringing thrown in. Fourteen ringers, with the Rev. S. Dye (curate), set off in high spirits for their day's adventure at 7.30 a.m. Southam, 50 miles distant, was the first tower. At 9.45 the party were welcomed by a local ringer, with the invitation to ring as long as they liked. The Church of St. James is a fine old building, with a very handy ring of eight, rung from the ground floor. 336 Stedman, 168 Grandsire Cambridge, and a touch of Double Norwich were well rung, and after a hasty look round the village the journey was continued to Lillington. On arrival, the party were welcomed by members of the local band, and the bells, a lovely little ring of eight (tenor 9 cwt.) were pulled up. An excellent touch of 432 Stedman Triples was rung, followed by a touch of Bob Major and a course of Superlative. Mr. F. W. Perrins unexpectedly joined the party at this tower, and, needless to say, his help and guidance for the rest of the day gave the greatest pleasure to all. Tracks were made for Leamington Spa, where dinner was awaiting the party, who afterwards enjoyed a stroll in the lovely Jepson Gardens. Ringing took place later at the Parish Church, where there is a ring of eight (tenor 12 cwt. 3 qr.), with a long draught, which, with springy ropes, rather bothered the band for a start. However, some good ringing was done, including five courses of Little Bob. Touches of Stedman and Grandsire, and a course of Cambridge Surprise Major followed, and the bells rung down. The journey was then continued to Warwick, where tea was followed by the 'tit-bit' of the day, namely, ringing at St. Mary's. The party were joined here by Miss D. E. Lewis, hon. secretary of the Warwickshire Guild, and Mr. A. H. Beamish, of Chilvers Coton, and one or two other visitors, whose names are unknown to the writer. The party were met at St. Mary's by Mr. T. Male, who conducted them to the tower. St. Mary's, as is well known, has a fine ring of ten (tenor 25 cwt.), and, considering that the majority of the visitors had had little 10-bell experience, some very good ringing was done. Rounds, so that everybody could have a pull, was followed by 413 Stedman Caters, being the first touch of Caters by several of the band, 384 Cambridge Major, 168 Grandsire, and a touch of Little Bob Royal, the Royal being rung as though the band had been ringing Royal all their lives. The ten bells were then lowered in peal, which concluded the ringing for the day. A social half-hour, and the long journey home was then begun via Banbury and Buckingham. Banbury was the first stop, and it is a good thing no more stops like it were possible. Banbury Cross had, of course, to be inspected, and the cakes, among other things, had to be tested, so that it was long after dark before all the erring members got aboard and the last 40 miles of the journey begun, some reaching their homes on the 25th, others on the 26th. However, one of the most enjoyable days had been spent, and the band, through 'The Ringing World,' wish to thank all who helped to make it so successful, the Warwickshire friends for meeting them, especially Miss Lewis, the Warwickshire Guild secretary, whose help in providing information as to towers was much appreciated.

SHELLEY RINGERS' EXCURSION.

The ringers of Shelley Church, accompanied by the Vicar (Rev. Walkden), the sexton and other interested friends, making a total number of fifteen, enjoyed a motor trip on Saturday, June 22nd. Travelling by way of Brighouse, over Keighley Moors, the happy party arrived at their rendezvous, Skipton, about 3 p.m. The ringers visited the fine Parish Church, to enjoy the sweets of change and music on one of Taylor's latest peals. The rest of the party toured this fine old market town, with history marked on its streets and buildings. At 4.15, a reunion took place for a short tour to the castle, etc., and afterwards the company sat down to a repast at Whitaker's Cafe, High Street. The Vicar proposed that a telegram be sent to Dr. Horne, of Old Hall, Shelley, thanking him as the donor of the trip, also that a vote of thanks be given to C. D. Potter, secretary of the Bainsley Association, who was the medium of communication in the first place between the worthy doctor and the ringers.—This was carried with acclamation. Further ringing and sight-seeing followed. At 7.30 the return journey commenced. At Bradford a short halt took place to refuel, and home was reached at 10.45, all feeling thankful for the pleasures of glorious weather and sights that please.

MUFFLED BELLS AT ABERAVON.

On Sunday, July 21st, the Rev. D. W. Davies, Vicar of Aberavon, passed away after about ten days' illness. The deceased was 59 years of age, and had been an hon. member of the Swansea and Brecon Guild for many years. The bells were rung by the following service ringers: C. Hughes, W. Williams, F. E. Stone, W. J. Norton, E. Stitch, C. Jones, A. J. Pitman (conductor), J. Weathersby and G. Chappell, on Wednesday evening, as the body was being brought to the church, where it rested through the night, after the interment on Thursday, and for both morning and evening service on the following Sunday. For the evening service, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples (1,260 changes) was rung in 52 mins. with the ringers standing in above order, G. Chappell kindly standing out.

LADY RINGER MARRIED AT CHILVERS COTON.

The Church of All Saints, Chilvers Coton, Nuneaton, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Wednesday, July 31st, when Mr. G. W. T. Mosedale, a Sunday School teacher and member of the choir, second son of the Vicar's warden, was married to Miss G. M. Dodds, a keen and much esteemed member of the All Saints' band of ringers', eldest daughter of the late Vicar of Chilvers Coton, Canon M. A. Dodds, M.A.

The service, which was attended by a large congregation, was fully choral, and was conducted by the Vicar (Rev. J. A. B. Davies), assisted by the curate. The bride, who looked very charming in white georgette, with a bouquet of white roses, was followed by four child attendants, the Misses Veronica and Ruth Mosedale (nieces of the bridegroom), and Masters John Tulloch and Michael Dodds (nephews of the bride). Miss Dodds was given away by her eldest brother, Mr. Walter Dodds, while Mr. Frank Mosedale acted as best man to his brother.

As the bridal couple left the church, the bells pealed forth in 'rounds' and 'queens' interspersed with 'firing,' after which a well-struck 504 Grandsire Triples was rung by: Mrs. P. Billington 1, C. E. Rayson 2, A. H. Beamish (conductor) 3, Miss D. E. Lewis 4, H. Harris 5, A. Haswell 6, J. E. Moreton 7, W. Carter 8. The honeymoon is being spent in Scotland.

The happy couple were the recipients of many beautiful presents, including an eight-day Jacobean oak clock from the local ringers, together with an inkstand in the shape of a bell made from the old oak of the frame which held the three old bells prior to recasting and augmenting in 1908.

The next evening Parker's 12-part peal of Grandsire Triples was attempted, but had to be called round at 896 changes owing to a choir practice in church, a fact which had been overlooked when arranging the peal. The following took part: A. Haswell 1, C. E. Rayson 2, J. Draycott 3, Miss D. E. Lewis 4, H. Harris 5, A. H. Beamish (conductor) 6, J. E. Moreton 7, W. Carter 8.

RINGER'S WEDDING AT BELBROUGHTON.

The wedding of Mr. E. Calcutt and Miss E. Abel took place at Holy Trinity Church, Belbroughton, Worcs, on July 20th. Mr. E. Calcutt is the conductor of the local band, having held the position for the past four years, in succession to Mr. H. Martin. He took in hand a band of learners, and they scored their first peal of Grandsire Doubles on December 26th last.

As the bridal party left the church, the bells rang out. After being fired, and the Queen's change rung several times, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Doubles was brought round in 46 mins. by the following, who, except Mr. Short, the conductor, are local ringers: H. Phillips 1, G. Parton 2, W. Short 3, W. Saunders 4, R. Parton 5, L. Darby 6. The ringers were afterwards entertained at the home of the bride's parents. The happy couple received many useful presents including a tea service from the Belbroughton ringers.

BEESTON RINGER'S WEDDING.

On the occasion of the wedding of Mr. Noel B. Kirk, a ringer, of Beeston, Notts, to Miss Irene M. Watson, on Saturday, August 3rd, at Bassingbourne, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples (1,260 changes) was rung at Beeston Parish Church in 50 mins.: F. Whitman 1, F. S. Price 2, H. Price 3, C. Rogers 4, A. B. Moss 5, H. Rogers 6, P. Price (conductor) 7, J. A. Kirk 8. The ringers wish the bride and bridegroom every success in their new lifelong venture.

RIVERSIDE CHURCH, NEW YORK, U.S.A.

THE REORGANISATION IN NORFOLK

The Norfolk Guild for the Diocese of Norwich—which was a cumbersome and almost unnecessary duplication of title—has ratified the proposal to revert to its original name and henceforth is to be known, as of old, as the Norwich Diocesan Association. By the older members especially this alteration will doubtless be received with pleasure, for, while the question has often been asked, 'What's in a name?' there is a flavour about old titles which many people are loath to lose, and changes sometimes have a tendency to break tradition. The reasons for the departure from the original title of the Norwich Diocesan Association need not be entered into here, but since the division of the diocese which eventually led to the setting up of the Suffolk Guild as a separate entity, the Norwich Association has more than once altered its name. In reverting to the name given to it at its birth, more than fifty years ago, the association will bind itself with new links to a past record as brilliant as that possessed by any territorial ringing organisation, a record from which its newer names must to some extent have divorced it in the minds of many ringers.

Like some other associations whose areas are largely rural in character, the Norfolk Guild has been finding it difficult to maintain the active interest of its members, and now, in addition to changing its name, it is re-organising its administration. At the meeting last week a scheme for three districts, each with more or less autonomous powers, was submitted, but has been referred back for a further division of the central area into two districts, making four in all. Hitherto the diocese, as at present formed, has been split up into eleven districts, some of them with very few towers, and a mere handful of members. Obviously such small numbers could not be expected to make a great success, for they are handicapped both financially and in the bells available for meetings. Improved organisation, therefore, pointed the way to larger amalgamations, and with fewer districts it is hoped that more energy will be shown. In days gone by, of course, areas had to be mapped on the basis of railway communication, for it was on this means of conveyance, and this alone, that the majority of ringers had to rely. The network of motor omnibus routes which has spread with such rapidity over the country in the last few years has altered all this, and actually the railway to-day has often to take a secondary place when studying the convenience of members. The old lines of division in the Norwich Diocese may have been more or less compelled by the sparse railway facilities, but road transit has put an entirely different complexion on the subject. In these days the successful district must be large enough to offer ample choice of towers for meetings and to be self-supporting financially; and must be small enough to put the members within reasonable touch of all, or, at any rate, the large majority, of the towers. The Norwich Association is endeavouring to solve the problem, and it is to be hoped that its efforts will result in securing for the officials of the association a greater measure of active support in the work which they are doing than has sometimes been apparent among the mass of the members in the past.

PEELERS ENTERTAIN PEALERS.RINGERS IN THE HANDS OF THE POLICE.

On Saturday last over 80 ringers, their wives and friends from many parts of Lancashire met on the Athletic Ground of the Bolton Borough Police, at the invitation of that body, who had kindly placed it at their disposal. A bowling match between the police and the ringers opened the events, and although the police won, it was only after some very keenly contested games. Then, as in previous years, the interest began. Old scores were wiped off, or new challenges contested between rival towers. A policeman has a son a ringer, a ringer also has a son a policeman, and the latter pair's match was the 'tit-bit.' Ladies also tried their skill with the 'woods.'

Hot and cold refreshments were provided, and a few of the women folk attended to these wants. When all were tired of the greensward, a 'free and easy' entertainment was provided in the pavilion. Here Miss Annie Potter and Mr. Robert Marsden provided vocal solos, and P.C. Hayhurst the mirth.

Those who had seen too many summers for dancing enjoyed themselves in quiet corners either with a game of whist or a game of dominoes.

Mr. Ernest Cutsforth moved a vote of thanks to the police for again inviting them there that afternoon. He said he felt he was voicing the opinion of all, when he said they had begun to look to this as an annual affair, and he hoped it would be carried on for many more years.—Mr. John Potter, in seconding, said he hoped that next time the police would play howls left handed. Then the ringers might have a chance to win.

In reply, P.C. Hayhurst said the ringers were very welcome visitors. It was very nice to see old faces again, and if the ringers looked forward to this event, so did the police, because they were sure of getting a good entertainment, apart from the sports side, and hoped that some time during the winter they would come again. He said he also wished to congratulate them on having such an energetic organising secretary in Sergt. Crook. The Police Athletic Club knew the value of his services in that line, and as a head in the sports section.

The president of the Lancashire Association (Rev. Canon Elsee) looked in during the proceedings, but regretted he could not stay, as he had many pressing engagements.

Community singing, dancing, gramophone records and touches on the handbells brought to a close, all too soon, another happy and enjoyable day between the peelers and peelers.

MIDLAND COUNTIES ASSOCIATION.PEAK DISTRICT.

A pleasant, but not too well attended, meeting of the Peak District was held at Eyam on Saturday last. Probably, the largely-attended opening of the bells at the nearby village of Tideswell on Bank Holiday, and the ever-popular Bakewell show in progress on Saturday, had much to do with a small attendance. However, the fifteen or so ringers who were present from Bakewell, Castleton, Dore, Duffield, Eyam, Hope and Tideswell were rewarded with a very pleasant afternoon in this beautiful and historic village, some enjoyable, if somewhat jazz-like, ringing on the light ring of six, in which learners had every chance, and a substantial tea provided by the kindness of the Rev. W. P. Wright.

At a short business meeting following tea, it was decided to hold the next meeting on September 14th at Tideswell, where a warm welcome and much hospitality are promised, and where it is hoped there will be a large gathering.

The usual votes of thanks to the local church authorities, and particularly to the Rev. W. P. Wright for his kindness and hospitality, were cordially endorsed.

PROGRESS AT BISHOP'S STORTFORD.

Since the bells of St. Michael's Church, Bishop's Stortford, were retuned and rehung, and the company re-formed in July, 1928, a most successful and progressive year has passed. The bells have been rung for morning and evening service on each of the 52 Sundays, and the performances include seven quarter-peals of Grandsire Triples, one quarter-peal of Stedman Triples rung by the local band, and one quarter-peal of Cambridge Surprise Major, in which the company was helped by visitors from neighbouring towers. Two learners have rung their first quarter-peals. A very enjoyable outing was held on Whit Monday, when the company visited Ely, calling at Royston and Godmanchester for ringing on the outward journey, and at Sawston and Ickleton on the homeward journey. At the annual meeting the following officers were appointed to serve during the coming year: Mr. F. Bird, Master; Mr. H. White, secretary; Mr. W. Wilkinson, treasurer; and Mr. W. T. Prior to serve with the officers. The balance sheet for the year was presented and adopted. This showed a balance in hand of £6 8s. 4d. Three learners, all ladies, were accepted as members, viz., Miss Wacey, Miss Rickwood, and Miss Torn.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

Not content with a fifteen thousand of Cambridge Maximus on Bank Holiday, five of the long peal band took part in a peal of Stedman Cinques at Liverpool the following day, and one, by way of a change, went on a ringing tour for the rest of the week. Ye gods!

A Leicester Vicar, so the 'Burton Daily Mail' announces, has advertised for voluntary ringers. This is how he worded the appeal: 'Qualifications necessary: Earnestness, enthusiasm and energy, Preference will be given to those who are prepared to take up ringing seriously, and to give the greater part of their (spare) time to a study which is more brainy than billiards, more captivating than cricket, more fascinating than football, and more pleasurable than the pictures. Remuneration: More kicks than ha'pence.'

The secretary of the Salisbury Guild, in addition to clerical and campanological activities, is a country correspondent for the Children's Country Holiday Fund. A group of little girls from North London, recently spending a fortnight at Kington Magna under his care, were shown a photograph of the ringers at St. Paul's Cathedral. One of the girls quickly pointed out Mr. Cockerill and exclaimed, 'That looks like the King!'

A new peal of ten bells was opened at York Minster on August 19th, 1765. They were cast by Lester and Pack, of London, and the order that they should be as nearly as possible like Bow bells seems to have been faithfully carried out, for the tenor was just three pounds heavier than the tenor at the famous Cheapside church.

On Saturday, August 22nd, 1752, was rung at St. Michael's Goslany (Norwich) a complete 5,040 of Mr. Holt's Tripples in 3 hours, without changes alike or a bell out of course. It being the first time ever performed by eight men only, so intricate it was thought no man could ring a bell and call the Bobs. It has been rang in London and Stonham Aspal with prompts, but was rang by these men without a prompt. Thus the 'Norwich Mercury' recorded the performance of Holt's Original when it was called for the first time by a conductor ringing in the peal.

The report of a peal rung at St. Werburgh's, Blackwell, Derbyshire, has been sent without the date. We constantly receive defective peal reports. May we once more ask correspondents, especially those who do not often send this kind of communication, carefully to check their report, before sending it, with any of the reports of peals, of which a number appear in every issue of 'The Ringing World.' They would thus be sure of including all the essential details, and it would frequently save delay and disappointment.

A little chime of eight bells, with tenor 2½ cwt., was dedicated last week at South Malling, near Lewes, Sussex, as part of a scheme in connection with the commemoration of the tercentenary of the church. The bells were supplied by the Whitechapel Foundry.

South Malling Church is notable for the fact that John Harvard (the founder of Harvard University in America) was married there on April 19th, 1636.

By a slip, the date of the first peal of Double Norwich in Wales was given in our last issue as 1908. It was rung on August 13th, 1883.

ROBERT MOT'S BELLS.

To the Editor.

Sir,—Before leaving London last Friday I had only time to glance at my 'Ringing World,' but I read with pleasure your 'leader' about Mot's and Carter's five bells of Sedlescombe. An Elizabethan 'ring' of five must be extremely rare—the more so if untouched by the restorer. I know of only one—untouched or otherwise—pre-Reformation ring, i.e., that at St. Bartholomew's in the City of London, which is a ring of five bells.

With the above in mind, I venture to send you a plea from the Tyrolean Valley, which knows neither carillons nor peals.

In your reference to the proposed saving of the five bells of Sedlescombe, we are left with the impression that the augmentation involves retuning, and that, as usual, little regard will be paid to Robert Mot's own views as to how these bells should sound, and have so done since the great days of Elizabeth. If, indeed, as may be the case, they are to be 'Simpsonised,' then, even if they boast more than the famous 'five harmonic tones,' they will sound neither as they did to Mot's approving ear nor to those of the 'rude forefathers of the hamlet,' whose ears, like our own, were less critical. These villagers certainly approved and cared for their bells, since they have come down to us 350 years later, untouched and entire.

'Blest be he who spares my tones,' Mot may have said, which motto I commend to our friends at Whitechapel, asking them not to be rude to their famous forefather.

Twenty years since, these bells would have been recast without a murmur. Twenty years hence those concerned in saving them will be generally praised. And twenty years again, and—well! perhaps even tuning machines may shake in their shoes.—Yours faithfully,

E. ALEX. YOUNG.

ANCIENT STAFFORDSHIRE BELLS RESTORED

LAPLEY'S LITTLE RING.

Standing like a bulwark on a prominence some three miles north of Brewwood, the ancient Norman tower of Lapley, Stafford, until recently contained four old bells which for many years were unringable. Two of the bells were badly cracked, as also was a very old Sanctus bell, which also hung in the tower.

This 11th century church, with barely twenty houses round it, has much to interest the visitor who cares to turn off the Old Watling Street and wander into this out-of-the-way place. The parish registers date back to 1538, and are therefore as old as any. The font is supposed to be the work of some Dutch sculptor, as an inscription carved on one panel in plain Roman characters is said by one learned linguist to mean 'The Birth of Christ' in modern Dutch. The bowl of the font is octagonal, and measures 36in. in diameter and 18in. in height. The shaft and base are modern, and only the remains of the original. Seven of the panels are carved, and represent various episodes in our Lord's life, while the eighth panel is left plain. The date of the font is doubtful. One writer wonders if it dates back to the first half of the twelfth century.

In the ringing room are some curiously-carved bosses on the walls which are said to be decidedly French in character.

Close to the church there stood at one time a priory, which in the time of Edward the Confessor was bestowed on the monks of the Abbey of St. Regimus, of Rheims. The church itself is said to have been founded in the eleventh century by the Benedictine monks from this Abbey.

But it is in the bells that readers of 'The Ringing World' will be most interested. Of the four old bells, the treble was badly cracked, and bore the date of 1855, which shows it was put in the tower in Cromwell's time—not a time when one would expect this sort of thing to take place. The second bell is dated 1565, and is therefore one of the oldest bells in the county. The third bell is dated 1629, and bears the inscription, 'Saintta Petra, ora. pro. nobis.' The fourth was dated 1617, and was badly damaged at the celebrations of the Diamond Jubilee of Queen Victoria. As regards the Sanctus Bell, an exhaustive treatise on the bells of the county mentions only two other ancient Sanctus bells, one in Lichfield Cathedral and the other at St. Mary's, Stafford.

The present Vicar of Lapley, the Rev. O. St. J. Smith, about two years ago set about the task of trying to have the bells restored, and issued an appeal for funds for this purpose. The first work to be undertaken was the Sanctus bell, and thanks are due to Messrs. J. Taylor and Co., Loughborough, for saving this old bell from the melting pot, the result being that a new Sanctus bell has been provided, while the old one is hung in the chancel of the church as a relic of the past.

The fund for restoring the other bells gradually grew until at length the order was placed with the same firm to recast the treble and fourth and retune the second and third, while an additional treble bell has been given in memory of the late Prebendary Talbot, who was at one time Vicar of Lapley. The whole ring has been hung in a steel frame with all the latest fittings, and provision has been made in the frame for a sixth bell to be added when funds are available. The tower has been strengthened by three tie rods, and is of such a size that it would hold another 8 or 10 bells.

The dedication of the bells took place on Tuesday evening, July 30th, by the Lord Bishop of Lichfield, before a crowded congregation, extra seats having to be placed in the chancel and aisle, while many people had to stand.

After the service the ringers from Brewwood rang various 120's of Doubles on the bells under the conductorship of Mr. J. Perry, who has worked hard for the restoration. The work done reflects great credit on the Loughborough firm, the tone of the bells being greatly admired by all who heard them.

The task of providing the sixth bell, it is understood, is to be undertaken by the school children of the parish, which includes the parish of Wheaton Aston, and is to be called 'The children's bell,' a very appropriate way of completing the number. If this article is read by anyone who has been connected with the parish, or anyone else who feels that they would like to help forward the work, Mr. J. Perry, Brewwood, Stafford, would be pleased to receive any donations, and would hand them over to the proper quarters.

As will be seen in the peal column, a peal of Doubles has been rung on the bells, and it is interesting to note that the band consisted of the present and some of the past Ringing Masters of the Society for the Archdeaconry of Stafford, with the hon. secretary added for safety, while the peal was rung slowly to give the parishioners the benefit of hearing the full tones of the bells.

EDENBRIDGE RINGER'S DEATH.

At Edenbridge, Kent, on August 1st, a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples in 47 mins.: W. Leigh, sen., 1, E. Leigh 2, E. Collison 3, R. Jenner 4, G. Malyan 5, J. Heasman 6, J. W. Steddy (conductor) 7, W. Leigh, jun., 8. Rung with bells half-muffled as a last token of respect to Mr. J. Malyan, an old member of the local band, who was buried that day. Mr. J. Malyan took part, with the ringers of 4th, 6th and 7th, in the first peal rung on the bells in 1896.

CENTRAL COUNCIL'S ADDRESS TO THE KING.

The loyal address of the Central Council to His Majesty the King, decided on at the meeting at Chelmsford, has been sent to the King in the following terms:—

THE CENTRAL COUNCIL OF CHURCH BELLRINGERS.

May It Please Your Majesty.

It was unanimously resolved by this Council at their annual meeting on Whitsun Tuesday, held this year at Chelmsford, to venture to approach Your Majesty with a humble expression of their heartfelt thankfulness for Your Majesty's recovery from grave and protracted illness, coupled with their earnest prayer that Your Majesty may be restored to complete health and strength and may, by the blessing of Almighty God, be spared to reign in peace and happiness for many years to come.

It may interest Your Majesty to know that a large number of Peals of 5,000 Changes and upwards were successfully achieved throughout the Country to proclaim the Nation's joy.

On 12 bells	two peals.
On 10 bells	five peals.
On 8 and under fifty-eight peals.

In addition to the above a large number of Quarter Peals of 1,260 Changes and 'Touches' of 720 were rung, many on Thanksgiving Day itself.

We have the honour to remain Your Majesty's most humble and devoted servants and subjects.

Signed on behalf of the above Council,

G. F. COLERIDGE, President.

TWO ASSOCIATIONS MEET.

MIDDLESEX AND GUILDFORD RINGERS FRATERNISE.

Sonbury, on the banks of the Thames, is a pleasant spot on a summer's day, and a joint meeting of the South and West District of the Middlesex Association and the Chertsey District of the Guildford Diocesan Guild, held there on Saturday, attracted an attendance of over 50. Many visitors were present from distant places, including Messrs. R. F. Elkington (Anstey, Leicestershire), A. Ballard (Stoney Stanton), P. D. Jennison (Keighley, Yorkshire), O. Sippetts (Crawley, Sussex), the veteran Mr. Joseph Waghorn, of East Ham, etc., while the two associations were represented by ringers from Hillingdon, Heston, Ealing, Chelsea, Chiswick, Sunbury, Guildford, Godalming, Woking, Haslemere, Oatlands, Ottershaw. Ringers were also present from Croydon, Beddington, St. Margaret's, Westminster, and Bishopsgate. There was ringing throughout the afternoon and evening sufficient to satisfy all tastes. It was, as usual on such occasions, of mixed quality, but Mr. F. W. Goodfellow, the Ringing Master, was assiduous in his efforts to 'fit up' everyone. A short, bright service was held, at which the curate (Rev. W. H. Jones) officiated in the absence of the Rector, and the singing was led by the organ, at which Mr. Poole presided.

Among those present at tea, in addition to those already mentioned, were Mr. C. S. Bird (vice-president), Mr. W. H. Hollier (hon. sec.), and Mr. J. A. Trollope (hon. treasurer of the South and West District of the Middlesex Association), Major J. H. B. Hesse (Master), Admiral T. P. Walker (hon. treasurer), Mr. J. S. Goldsmith (hon. secretary, Guildford Diocesan Guild), Mr. H. J. Chaffey (Chertsey District Ringing Master), Mr. C. H. Kippen (hon. secretary, Surrey Association), etc.

There was no business to be transacted, but both Mr. Bird and Mr. Trollope welcomed the Guildford Guild, and this was acknowledged by Major Hesse and Mr. J. S. Goldsmith. The latter also suggested that a letter of congratulation should be sent to Mr. William Pye (who is Master of the Middlesex Association) and the band who rang the record twelve-bell peal earlier in the week.—This was at once agreed to.

Thanks were accorded to the Rector, the curate and the organist, and the district sec. was asked to convey the condolences of the meeting to Mr. Tom Beadle, who in the past has done so much for the Middlesex Association, and who has had a long period of illness. Mr. Beadle had sent his greetings to the meeting.

'THE NORWICH DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.'NORFOLK GUILD REVERTS TO OLD TITLE.

By the ratification of the resolution passed on Easter Monday, the Norfolk Guild now reverts to its original title of the Norwich Diocesan Association. The ratification took place at a meeting at North Elmham on Bank Holiday. By the kind permission of the Rev. E. H. Townsend, M.A. (Vicar), the ring of eight bells of the Parish Church was placed at the disposal of the members during the day. Luncheon was served at the George and Dragon, the Rev. E. H. Townsend presiding, in the absence of the president, (the Archdeacon of Norwich). He was supported by Mr. Charles E. Borrett (vice-president), Mr. A. L. Coleman (secretary), Messrs. W. L. Duffield, W. C. Duffield, W. B. Duncan, members of the committee, and several representatives from Norfolk and Suffolk.

The Secretary moved the ratification of the belfry election of Messrs. William C. Bunn and William Buckenham.

The secretary brought before the meeting a motion passed at the last general meeting recommending that the word 'Guild' should be substituted for the word 'association' in the original title of the Guild. The motion was not supported by the meeting.

Mr. W. C. Duffield then moved, and Mr. B. Whiteside seconded, 'That the original motion, as put at the annual general meeting held at Norwich on Easter Monday, April 1st, 1929, be ratified in accordance with the referendum to the members on changing the title to "The Norwich Diocesan Association of Ringers."' The motion, on being put, was carried by a substantial majority.

The secretary presented the sub-committee's report on the grouping of the eleven existing districts into three branches of the association, viz., 'The West Norfolk Branch,' 'The Mid-Norfolk Branch,' and 'The East Norfolk Branch,' and 'that each branch shall be governed by a committee consisting of a chairman, hon. secretary, and five members elected to form the committee, and each branch shall be at liberty to manage its own business and elect its officers and arrange general and periodic meetings for the practice of change ringing.'

A discussion followed on the areas of the branches. The 'West' and 'East' branches were favourably commented upon, the whole criticism being on the area of the Mid-Norfolk Branch, which was considered far too large an area to work satisfactorily. The view was expressed that it should be divided into two branches, called 'The North Norfolk' and 'The South Norfolk,' thus making four branches of the association instead of three as recommended in the sub-committee's report.

Mr. W. E. Duffield moved, and Mr. W. B. Duncan seconded, 'That the report be referred back to the sub-committee for further consideration for the division of the Mid-Norfolk Branch into two branches,' and the motion, on being put to the meeting, was carried by a large majority.

Mr. A. L. Coleman (secretary) moved a vote of thanks to the Rev. E. H. Townsend for so kindly presiding, and also for the use of the Parish Church bells.—The Rev. E. H. Townsend suitably responded, and the meeting then closed.

The members adjourned to the belfry for further ringing.

OXFORD AND WINCHESTER DIOCESAN GUILDS.JOINT GATHERING AT NEWBURY.

A very successful joint meeting of the above Guilds was held at Newbury on Saturday last, when 50 members attended from Swindon, North Stonham, Englefield, Bramley, Rainham (Kent), Reading, Maidenhead, Ringwood, Croydon, Faringdon, Aldermaston, Beenham, North Bassett, Winchester, Binfield, Bucklebury, Beedon, Brightwalton, Highclere, Woolton Hill, Shaw, and the Newbury ringers. Service was conducted by the Rector (the Rev. L. R. Majendie), who gave a very interesting address. Tea was served in the Parish Room by Mrs. H. W. Curtis, assisted by the ringers' wives. The Rector presided, and was supported by Mr. G. Williams (Master of the Winchester Guild), Mr. R. T. Hibbert (general secretary of the Oxford Guild), Mr. W. Andrews (Winchester Cathedral), and Mr. H. W. Curtis (hon. secretary and treasurer of the Newbury Branch).

The Rector welcomed the ringers, and said how pleased he was to see so many present.—Mr. G. Williams spoke on behalf of the Winchester Guild, saying it was 40 years since he rang on Newbury bells.

Mr. H. W. Curtis also welcomed the Winchester Guild, and hoped this would be one of many meetings to be held jointly by the two Guilds.

The Rector proposed a hearty vote of thanks to Mrs. Curtis and the ladies for providing the tea.—Mr. H. W. Curtis proposed a vote of thanks to the Rector for his address and for the use of the bells.—This was seconded by Mr. Crocker and carried with applause.

The tower was again visited, and some good touches in the following methods were rung: Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Plain Bob, Kent Treble Bob, Cambridge and Double Norwich Major.

Apologies were received from the Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn (Master of the Oxford Guild) and Mr. G. Pullinger (general secretary of the Winchester Guild).

NEW BELLS AT DERBYSHIRE CHURCH.HAPPY GATHERING AT THE 'CATHEDRAL OF THE PEAK.'

The town of Tideswell, buried in a hollow of the bold swelling hills in the Peak district of Derbyshire, was en fete on Bank Holiday, when the music of the augmented peal reverberated over the neighbouring hills and dales. The church, commonly known as the 'Cathedral of the Peak,' dates back to the 14th century, and is a popular shrine for visitors to this part of the country. Its architecture is in a class by itself, and the building contains many fine examples of statuary, brasses and tombs, one of the latter being dated 1358. The carving in the church is extremely fine, and is all of local execution. The tower is a massive and rugged one, surmounted by four tall pinnacles which give an added grace to the structure, which, towering above the surrounding old-world cottages, presents a truly beautiful picture.

It was, however, to hear the augmented ring of eight bells that the majority of visitors paid a visit to this fine old town. Over 60 ringers turned up from Stafford, Derby, Chesterfield, Bolsover, Burton, Stockport, Cheadle, Norton-le-Moors, Norton, near Sheffield, Sheffield, Rotherham, South Anston, Duffield, Bakewell, Dore, Treeton, Bolsterstone, Eyam, Handsforth, etc., and were well repaid for their journey in spite of uncertain weather.

Ringings commenced before noon and continued until late in the evening, a special feature being the very fine ringing which took place by mixed bands—a tribute to the way in which the rehanging of the peal has been carried out by Messrs. J. Taylor and Co., of Loughborough.

A short service of welcome was held in the afternoon, the Vicar expressing his great pleasure at the interest shown by the number of visitors present.

In spite of the fact that only three names were sent in for tea, there was ample food for all, and the generosity of the Tideswell folk in this direction will not be easily forgotten. It demonstrates in no uncertain way the hospitality of these homely people. After tea the Rev. W. Peter Wright moved a vote of thanks for all the good things provided and to all concerned for the kindness shown.

A pleasant social half-hour followed, some very good handbell ringing taking place, but the tit-bit was provided by Mr. Maurice Swinfield, who tapped two courses of Duffield Major on the piano and a touch of Stedman Triples conducted by Mr. Frank Smallwood; then followed a course of Duffield simultaneously with the piano and handbells. 'True' stories were then related by the Vicar, the Rev. W. Peter Wright and the 'Fidler.'

Mr. J. E. L. Cockey referred to the new district formed by the M.C.A. in the Peak District, and hoped that the Tideswell company would see their way to join them, and thus swell the ranks of this section of the association which had made such a successful beginning.

There was formerly a peal of six bells at Tideswell of very different tonal quality, but now there is a fine ring of eight with a tenor about 13 cwt.

The old 4th, a fourteenth-century bell, has been placed on view in the church, and has been replaced by a new bell. The tenor has been recast and two new trebles added, the whole having been hung in a new cast-iron framework with entirely new and modern fittings.

Messrs. Taylor and Co. have given Derbyshire another fine example of their work, and the Tideswell company feel proud in their acquisition and appreciate all that the firm has done to ensure such a satisfactory and lasting job.

The firm were represented at the opening gathering by Messrs. J. P. Fidler and C. Harrison, who arrived neatly packed, with their spouses, in a well-known Morris 'chara.'

There is to be a gathering of the Peak District of the M.C.A. in September (14th), particulars of which will be duly advertised in this journal. That this meeting will be a huge success is a foregone conclusion. Undoubtedly, a hearty welcome awaits the association.

MINOR RECORD ATTEMPT 'OFF.'

Owing to unforeseen circumstances, two of the band who were to have attempted the record peal of Minor at Rickingham, Suffolk, on August Bank Holiday, were unable to stand in, and the peal was therefore abandoned for the time being. A 5,040 was, however, rung. Miss Kitty Willers had cycled from Trumpington, Cambs, a distance of 42 miles, to listen to the long peal, and was invited to take part in the seven 720's, Mr. B. Chilvers, of Cotton, giving up his rope to the lady, who enjoyed the good striking throughout the peal.

THE TWELVE BELL RECORD.

To the Editor.

Sir,—One must write to congratulate the whole band who rang the record peal at Ashton-under-Lyne on Bank Holiday—a marvellous performance. I was talking to Mr. Sperring somewhere in Chester last Tuesday about this, and he said, 'That's nothing for this band; if they made up their minds they would ring twice as long, by gomm!'—Yours, etc.,

JOHN JAGGAR.

RUARDEAN BELLS REOPENED.

The peal of eight at St. John's Church, Ruardean, Gloucestershire, has been rehung in new gudgeons and ball bearings, the 6th bell recast, and the 7th bell replaced, the work having been carried out by Messrs. Gillett and Johnston, of Croydon Bell Foundry. The dedication took place on August 1st, the service being performed by the Rev. J. F. Clayton, M.A., warden elect of St. Nicholas', Bristol University, assisted by the Vicar, the Rev. E. Parnell. A good congregation assembled, including ringers from the South and North Forest and Gloucester Branches of the Association.

At the dedication the bells were rung in rounds by the local band, after which the Rev. J. F. Clayton addressed the congregation on the use of church bells.

At the conclusion of the service, a short touch of Grandsire Triples was rung by the local band, and the bells were then thrown open to the visitors, when every ringer present had the opportunity of having a pull. The methods rung ranged from Grandsire to Double Norwich.

The visitors were afterwards entertained in true Forest style, Mr. Harper (secretary) presiding, supported by Mr. Wilkes (conductor of the local band), Mr. F. C. Collins (bell hanger), Mr. W. E. Harris (secretary of Gloucester Branch), Mr. J. Austin, Mr. Baldwin, ex-Sergt. Williams, of Newent, and Mr. J. Clarke (Ross).

Mr. Collins said he would like the opinion of the ringers present as to the 'go' of the bells to enable him to report to his firm. He was sorry that the representative of Messrs. Gillett and Johnston (Mr. Roper) was absent, but he expected that something had detained him.

Mr. Austin thanked Mr. Collins for the excellent way in which the work had been carried out. The 'go' of the bells, he said, was everything that could be desired.—Mr. G. L. Brunson and ex-Sergt. Williams expressed agreement with Mr. Austin as to the 'go' of the bells.

Mr. Collins, in thanking the speakers for their kind remarks, said he was glad to hear they had found everything to their liking, and he would convey their opinion to the head of the firm, as he knew how much it would be appreciated.

Ex-Sergt. Williams thanked the donors on behalf of himself and fellow-ringers for their kindness in entertaining them.—This was supported by Mr. Brunson.—Mr. Harper replied on behalf of the donors and the local band, and said it gave them all the greatest pleasure to hear the remarks from the previous speakers regarding the 'go' of the bells. He was pleased to see so many old friends amongst them that evening, and if at any time they required the bells for a peal he should only be too pleased to assist them. He thanked them all for coming to the assistance of the local band that evening.

Touches on the handbells by ringers and tunes by Messrs. Austin and Williams brought a pleasant gathering to an end.

PETERBOROUGH DIOCESAN GUILD.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Branch of the Peterborough Diocesan Guild took place at Peterborough on Bank Holiday, and was well attended, ringers being present from Northampton, London, Leicester, Shouldham, Chatteris, Somersham, Raunds, Wymondham, Guildford, Irthlingborough, Titchmarsh, Market Deeping, Littleworth, Spalding, Lufon, Stamford, Husbands Bosworth, and the local band. The bells of St. John's, St. Mary's, and Woodston were rung during the day. Service took place in St. John's Church, and was conducted by the Rev. Carlton, who gave a very interesting address. Afterwards, 45 sat down to tea.

The business meeting was held in St. John's vestry, the president of the Guild (Mr. F. Wilford) being in the chair. The officers were re-elected for the year.

Some discussion took place with regard to St. John's bells, and the hope was expressed that they would soon be made into a peal of eight again.

The methods rung during the day ranged from London Surprise to Plain Bob.

THE CHESTER GUILD'S REPORT.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—The account of the Chester Guild annual meeting, which appeared in 'The Ringing World' on Friday, August 9th, contained a remark that the motion to accept the annual report was passed with one dissenter.

A peal of Minor, consisting of seven Surprise 720's, rung at Wallasey by six members of the Sunday band, was published in the annual report as an outstanding performance for the Guild. I asked the chairman at the meeting if this was the only outstanding performance put up by the Guild during 1928. The late General Secretary (Mr. E. W. Elwell) replied that it was so.

To a further enquiry, he remarked that the peal of London Surprise Major rung at Frodsham by a local band, although it might be the first of its kind rung for the Guild, was not, in his opinion, an outstanding performance for the Guild, comparable with the peal at Wallasey. I differed from him, and voted accordingly. Hence the one dissenter.—Yours truly, Frodsham.

HEREFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.BRIDGNORTH'S VETERAN RINGER HONOURED.

On Bank Holiday a notable visit was paid to Bridgnorth by the Hereford Diocesan Guild of Bellringers, who assembled to honour Mr. John Overton, Ringing Master of the Bridgnorth District, and one of the oldest members of the Guild and committee. Some four years ago Mr. Overton was presented with an illuminated address on his completion of 50 years' service as head ringer of St. Leonard's Church.

The bells were set going shortly after two o'clock in the afternoon at both churches, and at 4.15 a special service was conducted by the Rev. Trevor Morgan.

A party of sixty members and friends sat down to a splendid tea at King's Head Hotel, whereat Mr. C. Edwards, Guild Ringing Master, presided, supported by the Rev. L. E. Lewis, of Madley, Hereford. Apologies were received from the general secretary, Rev. H. S. T. Richardson, Rev. Trevor Morgan and the district secretary. The visitors, who assembled from far and wide, included Messrs. John Clarke (Ross), Albert Walker (Birmingham), John Booth (Wigan), T. J. Salter (Kidderminster), A. Hackett (Halesowen), William Short (Glent), A. Rowley (Tipton), Frank Perrins (Coventry), Frank Stoneley (Manchester), with other representatives of the district from Broseley, Bromsgrove, Coalbrookdale and the Hereford District.

The Chairman explained that there was no 'business' before the meeting, which had been specially convened as a compliment to Mr. John Overton, one of the oldest ringers of the Guild. He spoke with feeling of Mr. Overton's successful work, particularly with regard to change ringing, and the instructions he had given to beginners, and enjoined the younger ringing members to benefit by his training and example.

Mr. Overton, who, on rising, was tunelessly greeted as a 'jolly good fellow,' suitably replied, thanking his hearers for their appreciation, and expressing a hope that he had been of some service to the Guild.

Mr. Short, Mr. Saunders (Coalbrookdale) and Mr. John Clarke also spoke briefly of Mr. Overton's good work.

Mr. Albert Walker, Ringing Master of St. Martin's, Birmingham, also expressed his appreciation of Mr. Overton in warm terms. He proffered to him the very cordial wishes of St. Martin's Guild.

After tea a nicely-struck course of Grandsire Caters was rung on handbells by five of the visiting members. The visitors then returned to the towers for further ringing, which during the day included Cambridge Surprise Major, Double Norwich, Kent Treble Bob, Stedman and Grandsire Triples, Cambridge Surprise Minor, Kent and Plain Bob Minor, and Grandsire Doubles.

Mr. Overton is 78 years, and is still an active member in the belfry.

A TAUNTON RINGER RETIRES.

Writing in the August 'Parish Magazine,' the Vicar of St. James' Church, Taunton, says: 'I have to announce that after having occupied the position of leader and conductor of the bellringers in St. James' tower for 37 years or so, Mr. J. Maddock has resigned owing to inability to fulfil the duties of the post. For some few years past Mr. Maddock has desired to take this step, but owing to the esteem in which he is held by the ringers he has been dissuaded from doing so. There is not room here to state all that Mr. Maddock has done in connection with the ringing in St. James' while he has been in charge. I think an interesting booklet could be written upon that subject. I would tender our hearty thanks to Mr. Maddock with the observation that during the time of his leadership the reputation of St. James' for good ringing has been deservedly very high.'

It is a pleasure to be able to add to the above that Mr. Maddock conducted the first peals of Minor, Bob Major, Kent Treble Bob Major, and Stedman Triples for the Bath and Wells Association, and these were all rung by the regular Sunday band of St. James' Church. Mr. J. Maddock, much to the regret of all local ringers, ceased to take an active part in ringing some four or five years ago. A man of a very genial nature, his successor will have a hard task to follow in his steps. Mr. Maddock is 'mine host' of the Wood Street Inn, where he will be very pleased to see any ringers who care to call.

SCOUTS IN SERVICE RINGING.

On Sunday, at the Parish Church of the Holy Cross, Woodchurch, Cheshire, 720 Bob Minor was rung for morning service: R. Bennett 1, J. Johnson 2, W. Bennett 3, G. Phillips 4, H. Martin 5, H. Phillips (conductor) 6. For evening service, 360 Bob Minor: R. Bennett 1, Scout A. Ricketts (Chewton Mendip) 2, J. Johnson (conductor) 3, G. Phillips 4, H. Martin 5, W. Bennett 6. Also 240 of Plain Bob Minor: R. Bennett 1, Scout A. Ricketts (Chewton Mendip) 2, J. Johnson (conductor) 3, Scout F. Ronan (Macclesfield) 4, H. Martin 5, W. Bennett 6. The ringers of the second and fourth were present at the world's jamboree at Arrowe Park, and Woodchurch is the nearest tower to the camp. The 720 in the morning was rung by the local band during the period of the jamboree.

A 200 MILE TRIP!

The ringers of St. John-the-Baptist, Hillingdon, together with a few friends, had a 200 miles' trip for their annual outing. The charabanc containing the party departed from the church punctually at 7.30 a.m., under grey skies and with a chilly wind—not what one would expect to get at the time of year. Through High Wycombe they went, almost before the inhabitants were awake! The famous old coaching village of West Wycombe came next, then the climb up and over the leafy Chilterns. They kept to the outskirts of Oxford and made the first stop at the fine old town of Woodstock. A brief visit was paid to the spacious Blenheim Park, with its fine lake and magnificent palace. When the journey was resumed, the party were behind their schedule, and on arrival at the first tower at which they were to ring, were nearly an hour late. This was Chipping Campden, in Gloucestershire. However, Mr. Withers was still patiently waiting. The bells, a fine ring of eight (tenor about 24 cwt.) were raised, and touches of Grandsire and Stedman Triples rung. When the coach was again sought, those who went sight-seeing, among whom was the Vicar of Hillingdon (the Rev. H. J. Kitcat), were full of praises of the fine old town, the finest in the district. At least four points of interest are worth mentioning—the splendid fifteenth-century church, in design almost exactly resembling that of Fairford in the same county; the almshouses; the remains of Campden House, which was destroyed during the Civil War; and the splendid village street. It is wide and long, and the majority of the houses are 17th century, with many much earlier.

On resuming the journey, the sun began to shine, and everyone's spirits rose accordingly. A stiff climb brought them to the top of Broadway Hill. Unfortunately, a dense haze hid the greater part of the wonderful panorama that can be seen from the summit on a clear day. The road zig-zagged down the hill into the lovely old village of Broadway, one of the prettiest of the Cotswolds, nay, in the country some say. A very tasty lunch was awaiting the visitors at the quaint old thatched cottage of Mrs. Aston, and full justice was done to the excellent fare provided. After this was finished, the party faced the camera, and, when a brief inspection of part of the village had been completed, took to the road again.

Eventually they crossed the Avon, made famous by Shakespeare's birthplace, up the hill into Evesham, and its market place. Passing through Abbot Reginald's gateway (1122-1149), the party reached the fine old sixteenth-century bell tower. Of its bells, Evesham has always been proud, and rightly too. They are a magnificent ring of ten (tenor 3½), and a better ring at the weight cannot exist. With the genial Mr. James Hemming there to receive the party, the bells were quickly raised, and everyone accommodated with touches of Grandsire and Stedman Caters and Kent Major. It was with difficulty that the ringers left these wonderful bells, and they were behind time on departure.

Pershore was the next stop, and the visitors made their way to the remains of the beautiful Abbey. The main part of the present structure was consecrated in 1239. Part was destroyed by fire before the end of the century. The main monastic buildings seemed to have endured until the Dissolution, when they were demolished, with the nave of the great church, the choir transepts and the tower being suffered to remain. In the latter is hung a ring of eight bells, tenor about 26 cwt., and they are one of the finest octaves in the kingdom. The ringing chamber is unique. Some seventy feet from the ground two huge beams bridge the tower from the centre of each wall. The floor of the ringing chamber is set on these, a square about 15 feet with the corners resting on each beam, with the entrance along one of the latter. Ironwork railings constitute the sides, through which can be seen the floor of the nave, hundreds of feet below. At least, that is a first impression! No sooner had some of the party got into this 'bird's cage' than their nerve failed them, and they fled down to earth again! However, those brave souls that remained managed to ring some Grandsire and Stedman Triples and Bob Major. Bidding farewell to Mr. Need, they regained the coach and set off once more.

A pleasant drive through the orchards brought them to old-world Tewkesbury. Tewkesbury contains some fine old houses and a glorious Abbey. To those who have read Mrs. Craig's celebrated book, 'John Halifax, Gentleman,' Tewkesbury has a special interest, it being the 'Nortonbury' of the story. Mr. John Austin, of Gloucester, was waiting for the visitors at the Abbey, and led the way up many steps and passages to the spacious ringing chamber. The bells, a ring of ten, tenor about 22 cwt., were raised, and time only allowed of a touch each of Grandsire and Stedman Caters. It was, however, a case of 'short and sweet,' as the bells go well, and are of a good tone. After an all too brief inspection of the Abbey, they all met again at Ye Old Willow Cafe for tea. Fruit salad and cream, buttered scones and cups of tea too numerous to count were among the many good things disposed of. Father Time, again interfering, they bade Messrs. Austin and Hemming good-bye, boarded the coach and set off again.

At Cheltenham, the guide and his wife alighted for a fortnight's holiday at pretty old Broadway. They took with them the best wishes and thanks of all for arranging such an enjoyable day's outing. The homeward route was by way of Northleach, Witney,

ON THE ESSEX AND SUFFOLK BORDERLAND.

For their annual outing, the ringers at St. Clement's Church, Ipswich, paid a visit to the Essex borderland towers. Starting by bus at eight o'clock, the party, which numbered 12, made their first call at Acton, where the bells were soon going to Grandsire Doubles. Leaving here the next stop was at Foxearth (Essex), where hangs a light ring of eight with a tenor 7 cwt. These call for some ringing, as the pendulum of the clock swings in a glass cupboard in the centre of the belfry and causes extra dodges to be made on the part of the ringers. The bells also hang left-handed, but some Treble Bob Major and Grandsire Triples were rung. The next move was to a good ring of six at Belchamp St. Paul (Essex), where conditions were good, and Ipswich Surprise was scored. The next stop was made at Stoke-by-Clare, where the six bells require ringing. Three leads of Treble Bob each satisfied the company, and a quick run brought them to Clare, where an excellent dinner had been provided at the Bell Hotel by Hostess Bareham. This over, a visit was paid to the tower, where Treble Bob and Bob Major were rung on the fine peal of eight, with a tenor of 23 cwt. These caused a longer stay than was allowed for, and consequently a late start was made for Pentlow (Essex), where is a round tower with an excellent going ring of five, but which wants a conductor with a good voice to make himself heard. After some Grandsire and St. Simon's Doubles, a move was made to Glemsford. Here a very short ring was enough to satisfy everyone. One course of Plain Bob Minor is hard work on them. The party then proceeded to Hartest, another bad-going ring of five, on which Grandsire was rung. The work here was well repaid by the excellent tea which had been prepared on the Rectory lawn by the generosity of the Rector. After tea, the company had their photograph taken by the aid of a 'Self-timer' on the lawn. The secretary of the company provided this, and so was able to include himself in the group, which, by the way, turned out excellently. Tea over, a move was made to Lavenham, with its ring of eight, with tenor 23 cwt., and the pride of Suffolk. Here the help of the local band was obtained, and Bob Major and Treble Bob brought round. All the band climbed to the top of the tower, which is the finest in the Eastern Counties, and can be seen for over seven miles owing to its great size. The church itself is 130ft. in length, and 68ft. in breadth. The tower has no spire, but rises to a height of 141ft. Its other dimensions are in proportion, so its size can be well gauged. Leaving here after most had got over the task of climbing the 196 steps to the top, the last stop was at Monks Eleigh, where hangs a good ring of six, with tenor of 18 cwt. Here the belfry floor is open in the middle, save for the rails put there to prevent a fall. The 5th man has to climb over the rail into another railed-in portion. Here some Double Oxford Minor was rung, and sounded well with the three dodges behind. A return was then made via Hadleigh, and home was reached at 10 o'clock. Everyone agreed that the secretary (Mr. F. Bowell) had arranged a good round, even if he had not selected the best roads. The distance covered was 75 miles, with ringing at 10 churches—7 in Suffolk and 3 in Essex. Nearly all the bells in this district call for some hard work.

LINCOLN AND LADIES' GUILDS.

A very successful combined meeting of the Grimsby District of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild and the Lincoln District of the Ladies' Guild was held at Bigby on Saturday, July 20th. Members attended from Barton-on-Humber, Elsham, Grimsby, Ulceby, Burton-on-Stather, Scunthorpe, and the local tower. Dr. F. P. H. Birtwhistle, of Barton-on-Humber, and ringing friends from Hull and Lincoln, Mrs. Richardson, of Surfleet, secretary of the Lincoln District of the Ladies' Guild, and Mr. R. Richardson, were also present. The bells were kept going during the afternoon, and the president of the Grimsby District (the Rev. H. T. Parry, Rector of Bigby) conducted the service, Miss Peart presiding at the organ.

A splendid tea was kindly provided by the president, and afterwards the business meetings of both organisations took place, the president being in the chair.

The collection for the district bell fund amounted to 13s.

The usual votes of thanks were passed to those who had arranged the meeting, to the Rector for providing the tea, and to the organist for presiding at the organ.

The secretary was instructed to write to Mr. G. Blanchard, conductor of the Bigby band of ringers and Deputy Ringing Master, conveying the sympathy of the members in his trying and serious illness.

The date for the Waltham meeting was altered to August 31st. The men then adjourned to the tower and Rectory gardens, and the ladies held their meeting.

Oxford and Wycombe, the home tower being reached at 10.15 p.m. Much of the success of the outing was due to the excellent help rendered by Rev. E. G. Benson, of Tewkesbury, and Mr. J. Hemming, of Evesham, while the cordial welcome extended to the visitors by Messrs. Withers, Need and Austin, at Campden, Pershore and Tewkesbury respectively, added considerably to an enjoyable time. Nearly two hundred miles were covered, six counties visited, and four really fine sets of bells rung on. Above all, the weather proved kind after all!

GLOUCESTER & BRISTOL SECESSION

Elsewhere in this issue appears a letter, signed by prominent members of the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association, recording their regret that a small number of members could not see their way to settle a slight difference of opinion without resorting to the precipitate and drastic action of withdrawing the association's affiliation to the Central Council, and asserting that they (the signatories) will do all in their power to pass, at the earliest opportunity, a resolution more in keeping with the real feeling of the association. Thus it would appear that the secession of the Gloucester and Bristol Association from the Council, although properly carried by a majority at the annual meeting, does not reflect the true opinion of the members. The decision to withdraw was carried by 35 votes to 25, which was a comparatively small majority in a division in which only 60 members took part out of a total of something like 900 resident performing members. Whether the result would have been the same had the whole nine hundred voted it is idle to speculate, but there can be no excuse that the members, as a whole, did not have due notice of the proposal. Whether they realised the importance of it is another question.

The decision, on the face of it, was arrived at mainly on the ground that the Council did not recognise the right of an association to instruct its representatives how to vote on specific questions and also on account of the grievance which certain members felt they had over the treatment of the association at the hands of the Council. These matters obviously influenced those who voted at the Chippenham meeting, and the Exercise, whether agreeing or disagreeing with the action taken, respects the views of those who voted. But the communication which we publish to-day, coming on the top of Mr. Cave's recent letter, is rather suggestive. In any case it reopens the whole question and the members of the association throughout the diocese would do well to give careful thought to the position which has been created. They are evidently to be asked to reconsider the matter at their next annual meeting and, in view of this, they will do well to ponder on the question whether their own desire to see a change in the policy of the Council would not be better served by re-affiliation and effecting the alteration by constructive means from inside than by stopping outside and taking only destructive action. A central body in an organisation such as the Ringing Exercise has grown to be, is essential to establish standards, to co-ordinate effort and to do those many small things which, if they became anybody's business, would be no-body's business, but without which the art would lose considerably. The Central Council, however, can only exist with the good will of the Exercise and it can only be what the ringers make it. Before the next meeting the triennial elections will take place, and if the associations require any change of policy they have now the best opportunity to make their voices heard and to send representatives to the next meeting pledged to give effect, if possible, to their views. The reforming zeal of the Gloucester and Bristol Association could be better used inside than outside the newly-elected body.

CURIOSITIES IN HEMSLEY TOWER.

MIDDLESBROUGH RINGERS' DISCOVERIES.

The Middlesbrough band of ringers held their annual outing on July 27th. A motor tour of the Cleveland district was arranged, and Hemsley, Pickering and Whitby were visited in turn. The party, numbering some 17 ringers and friends, left Middlesbrough at 8.15, and were soon enjoying the beautiful scenery of Bilsdale, with its lovely valley and wonderful views. The first stop was made at Hemsley, and the eight bells were soon merrily ringing. The ringers were much tickled by the quaint notice which hangs on the belfry wall, and is:—

'To visiting ringers. When ringing into "set," please ring rounds as far as possible. If three or four bells are rung in, it will be taken by the Fire Brigade as an alarm to turn out.'

The desire to see the Fire Brigade do their turn was great, but the temptation was resisted, and a perfect raise accomplished. Touches of Stedman, Grandsire, Plain Bob and Kent were rung with perfect striking.

The tune of the 6th, 7th and 8th excited some curiosity, and the ringers were amazed to learn from their guide that the 7th was cracked, and had been rung in that condition for over 30 years. A visit to the ringing chamber to view this phenomenon revealed the fact that the bell had a distinct crack some 2ft. long in it, which about 30 years ago had been 'repaired' by a German 'engineer,' who had let straps in and had bolted them to the bell in order to keep the two sides of the crack apart. A most remarkable bell! The visitors were also astonished to learn that between £200 and £300 had been spent on renovations of the bells about five years ago.

A wonderful specimen of old time literature was also observed in 'the Rules of the Company,' the most striking being the last, which reads as follows:—

'The ringers are to remember that the belfry is part of the Church, the House of God. The bells are instruments of sacred music. The ringer's office is a sacred one, and should be performed with reverence, and especially it is their duty not only to call others to worship God, but themselves to set a good example of attendance at public worship, and especially at morning service on Sunday. As it is a public scandal for those who have called together the congregation to leave the Church in the face of them, it is necessary that those who do so leave should be marked as absent.'

The members who subscribed their names to this unique rule are long since dead and buried, but the visitors felt that there was a good deal to be learned from the old words.

After posing for the official photographers, the party journeyed on to Pickering, where a substantial meal was disposed of, and a few touches rung on the eight bells there. The Castle was visited by the fair sex, and more explorations would have been undertaken, but time was pressing, and the journey to Whitby had to be commenced. This beauty spot was reached about 4.30, and visits to old haunts and familiar places were made before tea. After the bountiful repast had been disposed of, a call at the old church, in the company of friends of the local band, was made, and the bells kept merrily pealing until 8 o'clock, when the necessity to begin the return journey outweighed the desires for more touches on the beautiful peal of ten. An amusing occurrence happened in the tower whilst a touch of Stedman was being rung. A little white terrier suddenly made its appearance in the belfry, and it was 'touch and go' for a moment whether the tenor rope didn't turn that quadruped into sausage meat! A hasty grab by one of the bystanders saved the little interloper from an untimely end.

The party arrived home in Middlesbrough about 10.30 safe and sound, and tired, but happy with the remembrance of a glorious day, in which everything went well. The ringers desire, through the medium of this paper, to thank the clergy of the three churches for their kind permission to use the bells, and also to express their appreciation of the ringers at each church who attended to their needs. It was a glorious day, the weather was kind, the ringing was good, the meals excellent, and the travelling arrangements perfect. The whole trip was well organised and reflected great credit on Miss Lancaster, the hard-working secretary.

PUTNEY MEN IN SUFFOLK.

AN ENJOYABLE WEEK-END.

The ringers of St. Mary's Church, Putney, spent a week-end in a tour of part of West Suffolk, and the weather being fine, a very happy time was the result. A disastrous start, in which figured the luggage expert and others, caused a train to be lost, and, as troubles never come singly, the next train was held up for one and a half hours in a delightful piece of country called Manor Park. During this time good practice was obtained on a famous peal of handbells, of which more anon. After the wreckage of a previous train had been removed, the journey was resumed, and the party eventually reached Sudbury, the first port of call, at about 12 o'clock, being nearly 2½ hours behind schedule. No time was lost here, however, as the charabanc which a kind secretary and Mr. Scott (Sudbury) had chartered was boarded, and off in one minute (an addition to the party here being Mr. Elliott) to SS. Gregory and Peter's Church, where a very nice eight were soon 'put through it,' but not the band. After finding a lost chauffeur, Foxearth (just in Essex) was next visited, and this very light peal was tried out, some finding the trebles rather tricky. Good touches were, however, accomplished, and the party 'hit the road' for Long Melford, which was reached in time for lunch. An al fresco meal was provided at the Scuthers Arms (a scutcher, it was elicited, was a wool comb of former days, when the cloth industry was the principle one of the district) by Mr. H. Bixby, one of the local ringers, and full justice was done to the homely and humble B., C., P. and B. After a 'flutter' on the handbells, a delight to the townsfolk, the tower was ascended, and ringing in three standard methods was done. The party then pushed on to Bury St. Edmunds. The fine peals at St. Mary's and the Norman Tower were both at their disposal, and, among other ringing, two splendid touches of Grandsire Caters in the hand stroke position were rung, with the assistance of one or two Suffolk friends, two people ringing their first touches on ten bells. Time was ever fleeting and the order 'all aboard' was not immediately complied with, the luggage merchant being engulfed in the struggle for a picture postcard. Having come out of the fray minus collar and tie, and grasping the said postcard firmly in his right hand, he was hoisted into the charabanc, which set off to Lavenham, where a meat tea was 'waded into,' and, beds having been allotted, the visitors set forth to ring on the famous bells in the equally famous tower. Messrs. Symonds and other local men extended a hearty welcome. No need to say that ringing was enjoyed, two courses of Double Norwich with the help of Messrs. Symonds being the 'show piece' of several touches. No doubt exists that Miles Graye was a clever or lucky man, for his tenor speaks with no uncertain voice. Another Mr. Symonds turned up from De Beauvoir Town, very hot and bothered, with bicycle complete, and he was vociferously welcomed by one or two old 'shipmates.' A social hour followed, the handbells being much in evidence, tunes and change ringing being done. A novel feature was a prize distribution for good work. A gentleman, who shall be nameless, but who rejoices in a multitude of Christian names, Frederick, George, etc., etc., who possesses that sweetest little peal of cup handbells ever, much in evidence all the week-end, and who is not unknown in and around Isleworth, gained the first prize, a very useful article (verb. sap.). The secretary was second and Mr. A. Symonds third. This brought bedtime and repose, although it was said by one member that a peal of handbells in a feather bed is not too comfortable to sleep on. Up in good time on Sunday, the party viewed the very ancient and historic buildings which Lavenham contains, the old oak carving and half-timbered structures being a joy to see and the admiration of all. Breakfast was at 8, and, mark you, none was late. A course of Grandsire Triples, like a famous huntsman's horn, brought Mr. Symonds from his bed, and a bus was boarded for Sudbury, where the visitors were due to ring for service. The fine peal of eight at All Saints' was at their disposal, and, having been joined by Mr. Lee (not of London), some good touches were rung, one of Stedman being outstanding. Mr. Scott, guide, counsellor and friend, showed the visitors round, and a pleasant hour was spent by the River Stour. Dinner and a quiet afternoon (for some) in a cool, shady spot brought tea time, and another engagement at the Parish Church to ring for service brought up the course end 6.32, and saying 'good-bye' to Sudbury and Lavenham friends, the Putneyites entrained for London. It is to be hoped that Fred. G. managed to get home per push hike in time for breakfast on Monday morning. The others wished him well, but preferred the Iron Horse. Thanks are due to the clergy who granted permission to ring, to the local ringers for their courtesy, and to Mr. Scott and Mr. Stedman Symonds for the arrangements made for the visitors' comfort. Eight towers were visited, and the conducting was shared by Messrs. Elson, Cassel and Herbert. A very fine outing was brought to a close on reaching Liverpool Street at 9 o'clock.

J. H.

PASTON, NORFOLK.—On Sunday afternoon, August 11th, at St. Margaret's Church, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Doubles (1,280 changes) in 43½ mins.: J. Huggins 1, Miss Sylvia Thursfield (Cranford, Northants) 2, C. Pooley 3, N. Golden (conductor) 4, T. Jones 5. First quarter by ringer of 'inside' and first 'inside' by tenor ringer, who, with those of 3rd and 4th, are from Northrepps.

A SHROPSHIRE RING AUGMENTED.CHESWARDINE'S TWO NEW BELLS.

The dedication of the augmented peal at Cheswardine, Shropshire, took place on Thursday evening, August 1st, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. A. V. C. Borden, Rural Dean. The service was largely attended, the church being full, and ringers were present from Market Drayton, Hodnet, Stanton, Norton-in-Hales, Burton-on-Trent, etc., also Messrs. C. Harrison and J. Oldham, who represented the founders (Messrs. Taylor and Co.).

The octave has been completed by the addition of two trebles, and Messrs. Taylor and Co. are to be congratulated on making an excellent 'splice.'

The treble is the gift of the family in memory of the late Mr. William A. Hinstall, for many years parish clerk of Cheswardine, and the 2nd was given, as a thankoffering for having come safely through the Great War, by Dr. Basil Hughes, son of a past Vicar of Cheswardine.

Immediately after the dedicatory prayers, the bells were rung in rounds for a few minutes by the local ringers, assisted by several of the visitors, and after the service touches of Grandsire and Stedman Triples and Bob Major were rung, everyone being highly pleased with the tone and 'go' of the bells.

The bells have been rehung in a new steel frame, with ball bearings and fittings of the latest pattern. The old 5th (now 7th) has been recast and the others tuned. A set of guides has also been put in, as the bells are rung from the ground floor.

The tenor is an interesting bell, it was cast by Clibury, of Wellington (who cast numerous bells in Shropshire and district), and bears the following inscription: 'SOLI DEO IMMORTALIA SIT GLORIA. 1634.'

The ringers were afterwards entertained to supper by the Vicar, the Rev. R. S. Renfree.

On Saturday last a peal of Grandsire Triples was attempted by members of the Shropshire Association, but came to grief after over two hours' good ringing.

MUFFLED BELLS.

Davies 6, B. G. Leedham (conductor) 7, F. Trinder 8. Rung with the clappers half-muffled as a token of respect to the late Mr. Edward Ansell, of Moore Hall, Four Oaks, who was interred earlier in the day.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

A veterans' peal of Kent Treble Bob Major was 'rung in masterly style' at Guiseley, Yorks, on August 24th, 1868. The combined ages of the band totalled 553 years. The conductor was Henry Hubbard, who was then 64 years old.

The College Youths rang a peal of 10,640 Bob Major at Mortlake on August 26th, 1776, in 6 hours 31 minutes.

At this same church, exactly 100 years ago last Friday, the Junior College Society (an off-shoot of the College Youths) rang a 'true and excellent' peal of Grandsire Triples. It was conducted by Thomas Tolladay, who did a great deal for the old St. James' Society in its early days, and among those who took part were some well-known London ringers in those days, including James Mash and Edward Lansdell.

A record peal of Treble Bob was rung at Otley, Yorks, on August 27th, 1814, the length being 12.320. It occupied 7 hours 15 minutes.

Benjamin Annable called a peal of 5,040 Bob Major St. George at St. George's Church, Southwark, on August 27th, 1750. It would be interesting to know what method this was.

Matthew Wood, of Bethnal Green, one of London's most famous old ringers, died at the age of 87 years on August 27th, 1912.

The ringers of St. Martin's, Birmingham, will spend the day at Liverpool to-morrow. They will visit the docks and Cathedral, and hope to meet some of their Lancashire friends at St. Nicholas' Church, where they will ring at 3 p.m.

Mr. R. H. Bartram writes with reference to the footnote to the peal at Oakham, published in our last issue, that the first peal of Superlative in the county of Rutland was rung on the bells of Oakham Church on May 26th, 1923, by members of the Midland Counties Association.

'Belles on parade' is the heading of a paragraph announcing that a bathing belle parade will be held at a Woking carnival at the end of August, and a correspondent asks, 'Is it true that our Editor has been appointed to act as the judge at this beauty belle competition? If so,' remarks the inquirer, 'he is reminded that some of our bachelor ringers would much like to be present.' Why?

Three new hemispherical bells have been presented to St. George's Church, R.N. Barracks, Chatham. It is unfortunate that 'J. B.,' late of the R.M., is no longer in the 'Service' at Chatham. Had he still been there a peal of six real bells hung for proper ringing might, perhaps, have been installed at St. George's instead.

The marriage of Mr. C. C. Mayne, of Beaconsfield, and Miss Phyllis Moss, of Uxbridge, took place privately, with only a few friends present, at 9 a.m. on St. Swithin's Day at Fulmer Parish Church. The happy bellringing couple spent their honeymoon with fine weather at Rottingdean, and rang at St. Peter's, Brighton, and at Shoreham during the week with a good Hart.

Berks and Bucks ringers wish them every happiness and success in their new home at Harrow, and, writes a correspondent, the fatherly prophecy of the 'Lancashire Terror' some years ago has practically come true—a rolling Main gathers no Moss.

NO LODGE OF FREEMASONS FOR RINGERS.

PETITION REJECTED.

The proposal which has been made to establish a Lodge of Freemasons with membership restricted to church bellringers has been rejected by the responsible officers of the craft. It had been suggested that the lodge should be formed at Birmingham, as a convenient centre, and should be known as the 'Campana' Lodge. A considerable measure of support had been promised and the sanction of Grand Lodge was applied for. The petition has, however, been rejected.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I enclose copy of letter received from the Grand Secretary with reference to the proposed 'Campana' Lodge of Freemasons, which I should be glad if you would kindly publish for the information of those ringers who have taken an interest in the movement. I need only add that I am much disappointed that so promising a project should have met with this sad fate.—I am, yours faithfully,

J. S. PRITCHETT, P.G.D.,

Assistant Prov. G.M. (Warwickshire).

8th August, 1929.

Dear Sir and W.Bro.—With further reference to your letter of 9th February, I regret to inform you that the Grand Master's Advisers are unable to recommend the petition for the proposed new lodge to meet at Birmingham to be called the Campana Lodge, there being, in their opinion, no sufficient reason to justify the formation of a new lodge.—Yours faithfully and fraternally,

SPLICED SURPRISE MAJOR.

A PEAL RUNG IN TEN METHODS.

Another great advance in the splicing of Major methods was made when Mr. A. J. Pitman, of Pont Talbot, South Wales, published on March 22nd last a peal of Surprise Major in ten methods. This composition was rung on Tuesday, August 13th, at Willesden, by the same band that had previously rung the five and six method peals in that tower. It is, perhaps, unnecessary to say that a peal of such intricacy was not rung at the first attempt; indeed, two previous attempts had each lasted nearly two hours, whilst one of about 30 minutes' duration had given an opportunity of some good practice afterwards. The achievement of this peal is unquestionably the most brilliant performance ever accomplished on tower bells.

Some idea of the mental activity involved will be gathered when it is pointed out that there are 128 changes from one method to another, and that no method is rung for more than two leads (64 changes) at any one time. Indeed, in by far the most cases, only one lead of a method is rung before a change to another method is called. Then again, the variety of methods, and the similarity of the work in some of them, makes it necessary for the ringer to be always on the alert. It is not only essential to look out for the change of method at the lead-end, and to take care that the work of the next method is properly picked up, but it is necessary to keep wide awake so as not to forget, during the lead, which method is being actually rung. One ringer trying to ring Rutland whilst the others are ringing London is sure to bring disaster.

The odd leads of comparatively unknown and little rung methods are in themselves causes of much necessary thinking. For instance, only five leads of Yorkshire occur throughout the peal. Thus, any one working bell can only ring each of five leads once. Lincolnshire, Pudsey and Bristol have ten leads each, and Norfolk and New Gloucester nine, so that leads in these methods are never rung by the working bells more than twice. As the work of these leads has to be remembered, possibly until nearly the end of the peal, it says much for the mental alertness of the ringers. For the conductor it is a gigantic task, and Mr. William Pye is again to be congratulated. Recent performances have once again proved him to be the greatest all-round ringer that has ever lived.

THE COMPOSITION, 5,120 CHANGES.

The methods are indicated as follows: London, L.; Rutland, R.; Cambridge, C.; Superlative, S.; Lincolnshire, Lin.; Pudsey, P.; Yorkshire, Y.; Bristol, B.; Norfolk, N.; and New Gloucester, N.G.

First part.

23456	M.	W.	H.	Methods
64352	—	—	—	R. C. L.
(34256)	—	—	—	L. P.
62453	—	—	—	N. S. R.
64523	—	2	—	R. C. R. B.
56423	—	—	—	R. Lin. L.
(46325)	—	—	—	L. P.

The above four times repeated, substituting N. for R. in first course of each repetition, and calling Rutland at W. in last course, adding a bob H., bringing 42356.

Second part.

42356	M.	W.	H.	Methods
43526	—	2	—	R. Y. R. B.
65324	—	—	—	L. C. L.
36524	—	—	—	L. S. L.
25463	—	—	3	L. Lin. R. N.G.

The above four times repeated, omitting one bob H. and one lead of New Gloucester in last course.

Cambridge and Superlative are interchangeable, and as rung at Willesden were called alternately throughout the peal. The course-ends bracketed are not actually rung, the change from Pudsey to Norfolk cutting out the H. lead. Norfolk is rung with a 4th's place Bob.

The following is a second peal in ten Surprise methods by the same author:—

THE SECESSION OF GLOUCESTER AND BRISTOL ASSOCIATION.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—We, the undersigned members of the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association, wish to express our regret at the recent action of our association in ceasing to be affiliated to the Central Council.

We do not propose to enter into details here, but at the same time we are keen that the Exercise should be under no misapprehension as to the real state of feeling on the subject in our association.

It is to be regretted that a small number of our members could not see their way to settle a slight difference of opinion without resorting to this precipitate and, to our mind, unnecessarily drastic action; and while we freely admit that the resolution was carried by a perfectly fair vote at an annual meeting, we wish to make it quite clear that in our opinion the idea of ceasing to be affiliated to the Central Council is only favoured by a very small number of our members.

We feel sure that we have the majority of our association with us in regretting the unfortunate resolution which 35 of our members were able to pass at Chippenham, and it is our sincere hope that a resolution more in keeping with the real feeling of the whole association, proposing re-affiliation, will be passed at the earliest opportunity.

We can assure the Exercise that we will do all that is in our power to achieve this object.

Signed (Rev.) C. D. P. DAVIES (ex-Master).

LONDON COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

'SHORT NOTICE' MEETING AT BARNES.

A 'short notice' meeting was held by the Southern District of the London County Association on Saturday at Barnes, Surrey, by kind permission of the Rector (the Rev. W. Patrick Dotts). The bells are a light eight, augmented from three old bells (1600-1700) in 1897 by Warner, in commemoration of the Diamond Jubilee of Queen Victoria, the tenor being about 11 or 12 cwt. Ringing commenced in the afternoon with a touch of Stedman Triples under Mr. Mance (Master), and various touches were rung till 5 o'clock, when an adjournment was made to the Church Hall, where a tea had been arranged, kindly provided by the Rector, who was unable to be present, being on holiday. His place was, however, ably taken by his warden, Mr. Bowes Loddiges, who welcomed the association in a few well-chosen words. After tea a short business meeting, of the usual routine character, was quickly disposed of.

A hearty vote of thanks was accorded the Rector and church-warden for the hospitality and welcome extended to the association, also to Mr. Charles Hunt and the local men for the help and speed with which the meeting was organised. Some 25 members from a not very wide area attended, and rang methods up to Cambridge and Superlative Surprise Major. Perhaps worthy of note is the fact that four men who rang in the first peal on the bells accidentally sat in a row at tea.

THE TWELVE BELL RECORD.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—May we, through the medium of 'The Ringing World,' acknowledge with sincere thanks all the messages of congratulation that have been received by us on the successful outcome of the long peal attempt at Ashton-under-Lyne on August Bank Holiday?

These congratulations come from ringers in all parts of the country, including the Ancient Society of College Youths and the St. Martin's Guild, Birmingham, ringers, and are too numerous for them all to be acknowledged separately.

We trust, therefore, that this brief, but none the less grateful, acknowledgment will suffice.—Yours faithfully,

W. PYE.
C. T. COLES.

MR. GABRIEL LINDOFF'S REMARKABLE ACHIEVEMENT.

The long peal of Cambridge Surprise Maximus rung at Ashton-under-Lyne on August 5th was the first in the method by Mr. G. Lindoff, of Dublin. It is an extraordinary coincidence that his first peal of Stedman Cinques was also a record, this being the 11,111 rung at Birmingham in 1901.

AN ASHTON PRESSMAN'S VIEW.

Usually peals, and especially long peals, if they excite comment at all in the public Press, bring forth protests, but in the case of the record twelve bell peal at Ashton-under-Lyne the Lancashire people seem to have entered into the spirit of the performance, and Ashton-under-Lyne is proud that the record should have been made at their own Parish Church. 'Ashtonian,' writing in the 'Ashton-under-Lyne Reporter,' said: 'I know far more to-day about campanology than I did a week ago. I have hitherto regarded bellringers as men who had a penchant for letting everybody know they were enjoying a little manual exercise, men who pursued their hobby on Sunday mornings and told all and sundry that the hour of morning service approached.'

'Now I know that bellringers are gentlemen who combine with their bellringing a scientific study of numbers. They truly know what "ringing the changes" means. After meeting twelve good men and true, who cheerfully consented to be shut in a belfry for eleven hours and 33 minutes, to be without food or drink, to toil ceaselessly at their ropes and concentrate their mental faculties on their work to such a degree that they managed to ring 15,312 changes without error, then I think I am justified in attempting to dispel any impression that they were merely disturbers of the ether on a Bank Holiday.'

'Mind you, you have to be a campanologist to detect the changes. I frankly confess that not until the close of the record peal in the Ashton Parish Church on Bank Holiday did I detect any difference, and then the bells seemed to ring right down the scale, but my education has apparently been neglected. We all know now that it is possible to ring a complete peal of Cambridge Surprise Maximus, and Ashton has the honour of having a peal of bells in its historic Parish Church on which the feat was accomplished. A cynic asked "What for?" but I sternly reminded him that the passion for records is not confined to bellringers, but dirt track enthusiasts, cricketers and footballers also attach great importance to records.'

VISIT TO YORK MINSTER.

WORSLEY RINGERS RENEW ACQUAINTANCE WITH GREAT PETER.

The annual outing of the ringers of St. Mark's Church, Worsley, took place on Saturday, August 10th. Leaving Worsley at 7 a.m., they journeyed through Bolton and Blackburn to Whalley, where they had a substantial breakfast. Then going on through beautiful country via Clitheroe, Gisburn and Skipton, they arrived at Harrogate, where they partook of lunch, which everyone enjoyed. After a brief look at the northern spa, they proceeded through Knaresborough, and reached York Minster at 2.15 p.m. Here they were met at the west end by some of the York ringers, who at once took them up into the tower. The middle eight were raised, and, after touches of Grandsire and Stedman Triples, the tenors were pulled up and a touch of Grandsire Caters rung. Owing to the service, the bells were lowered at 3.45, but the visitors were taken round to see the bells they had been ringing and also the 104 ton bell. This was a case of reviving old acquaintanceship, for most of the ringers had seen 'Great Peter' in the bell foundry at Loughborough two years ago prior to its departure to York. After a peep into the Minster and tea at Ouse Bridge, the party set out to make a call at Knaresborough, but, owing to a misunderstanding, they were delayed and had to cut it out with regret. They extend their apologies to the Knaresborough company, who were expecting to see them. Leaving York at 6.45 p.m., the party started the return journey, and after a most enjoyable day arrived at Worsley at 11.30 p.m. Their best thanks are offered to the Dean and Chapter of York for the use of the bells, and to Mr. G. Horner's colleagues for the kind way they were treated and shown all that could be seen in the time available.

'ROPE-SIGHT.'

A NEW EDITION.

One of the greatest services which Jasper Snowdon rendered to the Exercise was that of placing in the hands of beginners a book, written in simple language, which explained the rudiments of change ringing and their practical application in the belfry. He called this book 'Rope-sight,' and its usefulness and popularity as a means of instruction was at once appreciated. For exactly 50 years it has remained the first text book of the beginner, and, incidentally, it may be noted it was the forerunner of the Snowdon series, which has done so much to raise the standard of method ringing.

'Rope-sight' has now reached its eighth edition and is as much in demand as ever. It should be placed in the hands of every beginner and part of his education in ringing should be a study of the chapters of this book. It can be obtained (price 1s. 10d. post free) from Mrs. Laura Snowdon, Cartmel, N. Lanes.

GUILDFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

INTERESTING MEETING AT DORKING.

The Leatherhead District of the Guildford Diocesan Guild held their summer meeting at Dorking on Saturday last. This is the first visit of the Guild to this fine church, and proved to be quite successful. The Church of St. Martin, rebuilt in 1873 in the decorated style, is the third edifice to be erected on this spot, and with its handsome spire is the most conspicuous building in the town. Rumour has it that had Dorking not been right on the edge of the diocese, the Church of St. Martin would have been the Cathedral. The bells are quite the oldest part of the church, and, judging from the remarks of some of the visitors, it is time some of their antiquity was shorn from them in the shape of completely rehanging the whole peal. Unfortunately, 'the powers that be' rule otherwise, so for the present the ringers' task here must remain an unenviable one.

About 30 members and friends took the opportunity to meet here, many of them for the first time. The following towers were represented: Dorking, Leatherhead, Hersham, Guildford (St. Nicolas'), Billingshurst, Pulborough, Warnham, Epsom (Christ Church and St. Martin's), Newdigate, Southgate, Merstham, Crawley, Horley, Godalming, Deptford and Southwark. Amongst the visitors were Mr. A. A. Hughes, Mr. E. H. Lewis and Mr. A. J. Bull (hon. secretary, Surrey Association, Southern Branch).

Ringing commenced at 3.30 p.m., and under the able management of Mr. Alfred H. Winch, who carried out very successfully the duties of ringing master, everyone had a pull, and some of them had too many. The remarks and facial expressions of some of the visitors who tackled bad going bells round the 'heavy end' were one of the amusing features of the meeting. The methods rung were Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Bob and Kent Treble Bob Major. Double Norwich and Cambridge Surprise defeated the efforts of the company.

Service was held in the church and was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. E. J. Newill). Mr. J. Gore provided the musical accompaniment.

The members then adjourned for tea to the Church Room, and, following the tea, came a short business meeting, at which the Rev. E. J. Newill took the chair. Mr. Arthur H. Smith, of Leatherhead, was elected a ringing member, and Mr. Edwin H. Lewis, of Brasted, Kent, a compounding member. Following the usual votes of thanks, the members returned to the tower for further ringing, which was continued till 8.30 p.m. Thus ended another successful meeting of the Leatherhead District. Good food, good music, a trial of strength and a trial of skill—the Leatherhead District provides them all, and after the meeting there are always members willing to show visitors the 'sights of the town.' This is the Leatherhead district's motto, and the committee beg leave to suggest that they have lived up to it at the latest of their meetings. The next meeting is at Epsom (St. Martin's) on October 12th. A. R. P.

ELY DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

A successful meeting of the Ely Archdeaconry was held at Willingham on Saturday last, when about 30 members attended, including the general secretary, the Rev. R. Copeman. The towers represented were Great St. Mary's, Cambridge, Dry Drayton, Chatteris, Fulbourn, Great Staughton, Hemmingford Abbots, Long Stanton, Melbourn, Over, Peterborough (Mr. Jutson), Somersham, Sawston and the local band. The association service was conducted by the Rev. J. G. Garland (Vicar of St. Mary's, Cardiff). Tea and meeting were held at the Three Tuns, and Ickleton was voted as the place of the next meeting at the latter end of September. Notice will be given in due course.

Votes of thanks were accorded the Vicar for conducting the service, to the Rev. A. C. Hair (Rector) for use of the bells, to Mr. H. J. Hazel, A.L.C.M., for presiding at the organ, and to Mr. A. Huckle for having the bells in readiness. Touches in the standard methods were rung until 8 p.m., when the bells were lowered in peal, everyone being satisfied with an enjoyable meeting.

BARKING'S 'COPYRIGHT.'To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—Some 16 or 17 years ago we were short of ringers, and the then Vicar of Barking, the Rev. J. W. Eisdell, asked me to write something for the Parish 'Mag,' drawing attention to the shortage. I did so, in the form of an advertisement, and the Vicar, being a 'sport,' published it as sent. I remember, when stating the terms of remuneration, being afraid of that part being censored.

Some Knight of the Scissors and Paste got hold of it, and part of it appeared in almost every newspaper at the time—even in places as wide apart as British Columbia and at least two Australian newspapers. Journals as divergent as 'The Star' and 'The Church Times' honoured Barking by telling the world the Parish Church wanted ringers, and their rate of pay. Tom Hibbert, of Reading, wrote me for it for use there a few years back.

In your this week's issue it appears that it has been resurrected as the product of a Leicester Vicar. Well, he is welcome to the use of it, and may it produce the desired result, but the copyright (if any) belongs to the 'Barking Parish Magazine' and yours sincerely,

THOMAS FAULKNER.

GRIMSBY RINGERS' OUTING TO LEICESTER.

On Saturday, July 27th, the ringers of St. Andrew's, Grimsby, with their wives and lady friends, had their annual outing and visited Leicester. Leaving Grimsby in the early morning, they picked up the G.O.M. from the country, who, as usual, came provided with a buttonhole for all. A halt was made at Newark for light refreshment and for a visit to the castle ruins. Then they went on to Loughborough for lunch. Here the party were shown over the celebrated foundry of Messrs. Taylor, with Mr. Stubbs as guide. A most interesting time was spent here, and at first trial the foundry bells played tricks with the ringers. Touches were also rung at the Parish Church. At Loughborough, too, the visitors were joined by their old friend and host from Leicester, Mr. F. H. Dexter, who piloted them to his city. Ringing was indulged in on the beautiful ring of twelve at St. Margaret's and on the rings of ten at the Cathedral and St. John the Divine Church. The ladies, meanwhile, 'faded away' into the large open market place, and found useful presents to take home. The return journey was made through Melton Mowbray and Grantham, Grimsby being reached at midnight in a blaze of light from a huge timber yard fire in the docks.

The ringers wish to thank all the incumbents for the use of the bells, the steeple keepers and their old friends, Messrs. Dexter, Poole and W. Willson, of Leicester, Mr. Stubbs, and their own local secretary, 'Freddy.' Their best wishes also go out to all the newly-wedded couples they saw leaving the various churches on the way to Leicester.

THE 'MAASTER' RETIRES.'FAREWELL' TO EAST ILSLEY VETERAN.

'Twelve of the 'bwoys' and the 'passon' from East Ilsley village recently had their annual outing. At Caversham, where ringing is ringing, the 'bwoys' did their best to emulate the deeds of the local band, and met with fair success. Someone suggested that a visit to Caversham without calling at the 'Griffin' would be out of course; therefore, a sample was tried. Lunch took place at the Ringwell Cafe, Reading. Leaving Reading (having picked up 'Old Tom' and 'Young Bill'), Basingstoke was safely reached, the party being met by Mr. and Mrs. Curtis. Here a pleasant half-hour was spent putting Mr. and Mrs. Curtis 'through their paces.' Whitechurch (Hants) was next on the programme, but a halt was made at Laverstoke, just outside Whitechurch, and at the tower Grandsire Doubles were tapped off. Arrival at Whitechurch was the cause of considerable amusement. The 'all ready' was shouted and 'Owd Bob' tugged and pulled at the 3rd without result. When the other seven bells had been set up the third was pulled up, much to Bob's surprise. Grandsire Triples was then rung. After tea Highclere, a fine little eight by Taylor, was visited, and the party arrived at Newbury at 8.45 p.m., whence 'Old Tom' departed for Reading. Later Ilsley was safely reached. To the various incumbents and tower keepers of the churches visited the Ilsley 'bwoys' extend their best thanks. The conducting of the day was shared by 'Old Tom,' 'Young Bill' and 'Buffer.'

On Sunday evening a 500 of Grandsire Triples was rung as a compliment to the 'Maaster,' who was retiring after 50 years' faithful service to his church and fellow-ringers. It would benefit a great many if a pattern was taken from 'Maaster's' book, as for 50 years he had been punctual and regular in attendance, always ready to do that which he considered right. It is hard to replace such men as these. The proudest day of his ringing career was blowing the 'big inn' behind to the first peal on the bells, Grandsire Triples. This was the extent of his peal ringing, but his loyalty to his church and the Guild will long be remembered after the peal has been forgotten. The ringers of the 500 were: G. J. Hibbert 1, E. Warwick 2, R. Warwick 3, W. Hibbert, jun. (conductor) 4, E. Sneller 5, W. Hibbert, sen., 6, H. Brown 7, K. Burt 8.

W. H.

CHESHIRE RINGERS AT NOTTINGHAM.

A party of Cheshire ringers, Messrs. H. W. Wilde, J. Morgan, R. Sperring, W. Thomas, A. E. Richards, G. Jones and J. W. Clarke, set forth on Friday, July 5th, to sample the bells in the Nottingham district. Shortly after three o'clock the party and luggage were comfortably packed in two cars, and the ancient city of Chester was left to enjoy its own rain! Macclesfield was reached in good time, and the noted climb over the Pennines to Buxton loomed ahead. The famous Cat and Fiddle Inn, perched on the crest of the hill, is passed (if shut) on the left, and Buxton soon appears at the end of a long descent. It was unfortunate that the rain made it impossible to enjoy the fine scenery in this district.

Duffield, the first place of call, was reached about 7.30 p.m., where several members of the local company met the visitors, and conducted them to the belfry of this beautiful church, famous among ringers for its associations with the late Sir Arthur Heywood. Among the many peal boards in the tower, the one recently erected by the Central Council as a memorial to Sir Arthur is of special interest. Ringing was enjoyed for about an hour, after which the remainder of the journey to Nottingham was completed. Here the travellers were met by Mr. A. Coppock, who had been good enough to make arrangements for them, to 'park' at the George, and as it was 9.30 p.m. the visitors' book was signed with all speed, and a few good 'rounds' were enjoyed before supper.

There was considerable improvement in the weather next morning, and Ilkeston was reached shortly after nine. This tower contains a pleasing ring of eight, and with the help of Mr. Wragg, who kindly took the tenor rope, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples was completed in 43 mins. Stanton-by-Dale, the next tower visited, was of considerable interest, especially to Mr. Wilde, for it was in this church that he was married. The bells were soon raised, and an extent of Oxford Treble Bob Minor was rung, followed by 360 Kent and a course of London. The Rector's kindness in showing the party round his delightful garden, and presenting a basket of refreshing strawberries, was greatly appreciated.

After a short run, Sandiacre was reached in time for ringing before lunch. It was on this fine old-fashioned ring of six that Mr. Wilde rang his first peal in 1889. That peal is made more interesting by the fact that it was the first for the M.C.A. To commemorate the event, Mr. Wilde called a 720 of Oxford and Kent spliced, and before the visitors left Mr. J. Hall, the towerkeeper, joined in a course of London.

Permission to use the bells at Long Eaton had been obtained for the early afternoon, and Mr. Coppock, having joined the party, coats were again discarded. The tower, although rather small, contains a light, smooth-running eight, and a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples was brought round in 42 mins., followed by touches of Double Norwich, in which some of the local company joined.

The large, roomy tower of Beeston made quite a contrast with the previous one. Here, again, some of the local ringers were good enough to meet the visitors, and touches of Treble Bob Major and Cambridge were completed before turning towards Nottingham again. Halts were made on the way to view the new university opened last year by H.M. the King, and the magnificent war memorial arch surrounded by its delightful grounds.

After a leisurely tea to the strains of music, a little sightseeing was indulged in before repairing to the belfry of St. Peter's shortly before eight o'clock, where the visitors were very pleased to meet Mr. W. E. White (former secretary of the M.C.A.), Mr. F. Blood and Miss Thompson. Touches of Treble Bob Royal, Stedman and Grandsire were rung. It was regretted that Mr. Cobbin, who had been good enough to make arrangements for the bells to be available, was not able to join in the ringing. Nottingham boasts many quaint old taverns, with names equally quaint, so, having come to the end of a good day's ringing, it was not very difficult to find a congenial retreat.

On Sunday morning the meeting place was St. Mary's, where the fine ring of ten were rung for the special thanksgiving service, which was attended by His Grace the Duke of Portland and the Mayor and Corporation. In the early afternoon, Nottingham was left behind with many regrets. The return journey was made via Leek, where a halt was made to visit the tower of the Parish Church. Although the visit was unexpected, Mr. Ridgeway, the leader, was good enough to hand over the ropes to the visitors, and, after a touch of Stedman Triples, the ten were heard in Caters. They are undoubtedly a beautiful ring in every respect.

This concluded the ringing part of the programme, and there was nothing left to do but to go home. Good things, they say, soon come to an end, but, fortunately, they leave pleasant memories behind. The Cheshire ringers will retain many pleasant memories of their tour in the Nottingham district, and would like to take this opportunity of expressing their sincere thanks for the warm welcome extended to them at all towers. Special thanks are due to Mr. Coppock for his many kindnesses and unsparing efforts, which undoubtedly made the week-end the success it was.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD.

DEVIZES BRANCH.

The monthly meeting of the Devizes Branch of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild was held at the Parish Church of St. Leonard, Keevil, on Saturday, August 3rd, but on account of the wet afternoon and the holidays the attendance was small. The Guild service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. F. M. Weller), the lesson being read by the chairman of the branch, Mr. C. D. Hegginsbotham. The choir boys were in attendance, and the singing was unaccompanied.

Tea followed, after which a short business meeting was held. The Chairman referred to the inductions of the Rector of Trowbridge and the Vicar of Edington, also to the death of Canon Mogg, formerly Vicar of Bishop's Cannings, an hon. member of the Guild, who took a great interest in the branch. Those present stood in silence as a mark of respect to the memory of the last named.

The Chairman also congratulated Mr. S. J. Hector, of Trowbridge, on ringing his 100th peal for the Guild, and also the ringers who had rung peals for the branch for the King's thanksgiving.

The Secretary (Mr. F. Green) reported that he had written a letter on behalf of the branch to Mr. H. Brownlee West, of Devizes, on the occasion of his birthday, and at his request the chairman read Mr. West's reply.

It was decided to hold an evening meeting at Urchfont on August 24th, if the bells are available.

On the motion of the chairman, a vote of thanks was passed to the Vicar for the use of the bells, and for conducting the service, also to the choir boys and those who prepared the tea.—The Vicar replied.

Ringers were present from Keevil, Bratton, Devizes (St. John's and St. Mary's), Trowbridge and Warminster. Touches of Grandsire and Stedman Doubles, Bob Doubles and Plain Bob Minor were rung during the afternoon and evening.

Keevil possesses a nice ring of six (tenor 19 cwt., diameter 48in.). The treble is by Thomas Meats (1842). The second is inscribed, 'Hope Well, I.W., 1609,' and the 3rd 'Fear the Lorde, I.W., 1609.' James Wells, of Aldbourne, cast the 4th in 1810. The fifth and sixth were cast by Thomas Bilbie in 1761. They bear the names of Samuel Atwood and Thomas Bell, John Marieram and John Taylor, churchwardens, and are ornamented with roses, crosses and fleur-de-lis. There is also a Sanctus bell, which is ancient, and hangs in the original cot at the east end of nave.

The church, an early English building, was unfortunately remodelled in the 17th century. The window of the north transept is a memorial to the Right Hon. W. Hicks-Beach, Father of the House of Commons, who died in 1903. There are the names of four churchwardens on the 5th and 6th bells. This may be accounted for by the fact that the living is held with Bulkington, the church of which was destroyed about the time of the Reformation. The people of Bulkington then attended Keevil Church until between 60 and 70 years ago, when a new church was built at Bulkington. The living is now known as Keevil-cum-Bulkington.

WESTON-SUPER-MARE RINGERS' EXCURSION.

A party of 30 ringers and friends of St. John's Church, Weston-super-Mare, had a long motor tour for their annual excursion. At Bristol they were joined by Mr. W. Thomas (president of the Bristol United Guilds), and the journey then took the company through pretty and interesting country. Ringing was enjoyed at Stoke-on-the-Wold, and the journey's limit, Moreton-in-the-Marsh, was reached at 1.30 p.m. Here dinner was served, and at the conclusion of the repast Mr. Thomas, after thanking the company for the cordial welcome extended to him, referred to the splendid efforts made by Mr. Ernest Parker in the interests of the Weston ringers, and also to his sterling work as conductor. He had worked hard in various ways, he said, and was an all-round sportsman, and his colleagues in the belfry desired to mark their appreciation of his valuable services by presenting him with smoker's requisites, which included a 'first-rate' pipe. Musical honours followed for the recipient, who suitably replied, thanking the company for their kindness and adding that anything he had done for them was in the best interests of ringing and had been a real pleasure to him.

The Westonians were then conducted by Mr. Bryan (captain of the Moreton band) to St. David's Church, where several touches of Grandsire and Stedman Triples were rung, and the party then set off for Cheltenham for tea. On the way home ringing took place at Thornbury, and a supper and social were enjoyed at Bristol. Here the Westonians were joined by Mr. E. Guise (hon. secretary of Gloucester and Bristol Association) and Mr. W. S. Emery (associate of the Bristol Branch), and some excellent songs were rendered, among the contributors being Messrs. Milton Jones, E. Parker, G. Ralls, George Taylor and others, with Mr. Harold Minifie presiding at the piano. Weston was safely reached soon after midnight. The pleasure of this annual outing was considerably enhanced by the extreme generosity of a well-known local lady, who has always been keenly interested in the welfare of the Weston ringers, but who modestly desires to remain anonymous.

INTER-ASSOCIATION MEETINGS.

Joint meetings between neighbouring districts of adjoining associations are becoming a very popular feature among ringers. We are not quite sure to whom this innovation was due, but whoever it was who started this form of ringers' gathering deserves the thanks of the Exercise. It was little short of an inspiration. District meetings in the ordinary way serve, or should serve, many purposes. In the first place they draw together the members of an association in friendly intercourse, they promote among those who attend them a desire to progress to higher things in ringing, and, by the services which are usually held, they bring home to others outside and remind the ringers themselves, of the part they play in the work of the church. Joint meetings between associations do all this, and more. They bring together ringers who possibly would never otherwise meet, and thus extend one's circle of ringing acquaintances, broaden one's views on ringing affairs, and often stimulate new ideas, while in areas where associations overlap they serve the even more valuable purpose of helping to subdue jealousies and smooth over points of friction if there are any.

In every sense the intermingling of neighbouring organisations is a thing to be encouraged. After all, our associations all have the same objects in view, and what rivalries there are ought only to be of a friendly kind; rivalry, for instance, in the determination to see which can do most to spread the art of change ringing; which can achieve the best all round service in the belfry. The success of an association is not necessarily measured by counting heads or the number of peals rung. The best test of success is in the actual interest which the members take, first, in their duties in their own belfries, and the punctuality and regularity with which they discharge them; and next in furthering the work of their associations. He is a poor member who sits at home and waits for someone else to do everything for him—and yet there are many such to be found. On the other hand, those responsible for running the various ringing societies must be prepared to do their share. They must organise on lines which will give their members something in which they can take an interest, for it is of no use to grumble at the lethargy of the rank and file if nothing is done to encourage activity in the individual. In this direction the district meetings are one step; the extended interest which is provided by joint meetings is another. Even looking at it from the social standpoint alone, these inter-association meetings are all worth while, and that they are appreciated by many is shown by the success with which they are usually attended.

MIDLAND COUNTIES ASSOCIATION.

The monthly meeting of the Chesterfield District of the Midland Counties Association was held at the Parish Church of St. Laurence, North Wingfield, on Saturday, August 24th, but owing to wet weather the attendance was rather small, about 20 sitting down to tea, which was kindly provided by the Rector. Members were present from Alfreton, Bolsover, Cresswell, Chesterfield, Derby, Duffield, Morton, Rotherham, Sutton and South Normanton. Touches and courses were brought round of Double Norwich, Kent Treble Bob, Bob Major, Stedman, Cambridge Surprise, Superlative and Norfolk Surprise.

A short meeting followed tea, when it was decided to hold the next meeting at Bolsover on September 21st. Ringing continued until 9 p.m., when the lowering of the bells brought to a close a most successful meeting.

AMONG NORTHANTS TOWERS.

On August 17th, the Wicken and Stony Stratford ringers had their annual tour, which again proved most enjoyable. The places visited were Higham Ferrers, Irthlingborough, Finedon, Burton Latimer, Kettering, Rothwell and St. Giles' (Northampton). During the day touches were rung in the following methods: Stedman and Grandsire Triples, Stedman Caters, Bob Royal, Kent Royal, Cambridge, Double Norwich and Bob Major. The party wish to thank, through 'The Ringing World,' all those who so kindly helped to make the trip so pleasant.

SPLICING OF PLAIN MAJOR METHODS. THE RESULT OF SOME INVESTIGATIONS.

By Stephen H. Wood.

In the leading article of 'The Ringing World' of April 5th on 'Splicing' it was suggested that someone should follow the example of Mr. Law James' and Mr. Pitman's spliced peals of Surprise Major, and of Plain Triples, and see what could be done with regard to Plain Major Methods. The following is the result of some of my investigations in this direction.

Starting (as is proper) from the beginning, the first thing we consider is the 'Lead-for-Lead' Splice, which in this case does not lead us far, as the only methods having the same change in a lead are those having different places (i.e., 2nds or 8ths) at the Treble's lead. The splicing of these will be dealt with later.

The next thing to consider is the 'Course-for-Course' Splice. Now, given any 'Court' Method, we can in general derive 3 'bob' methods from it by adding (i.) 2nd's place (by itself)
(ii.) 7th's place (by itself)
(iii.) 2nds and 7ths;

this will give us a group of 4 methods, in each of which the Plain Course (henceforward 'P.C.') contains the same changes.

Let us now consider the first 15 methods in the 'Collection of Plain Major and Cater Methods,' and divide them up into groups such as I have just described, thus:—

8th's Place Methods.		2nd's Place Methods.
No. 2. Reverse Bob.		No. 1. Plain Bob.
No. 4. Shipway's Court.		No. 3. Double Bob.
No. 6. Highbury Bob.		No. 5. Winchester Bob.
No. 8. Lavenham Court.		No. 7. Marlborough Bob.
No. 10. Maidstone Bob.		No. 9. Edmonton Bob.
No. 12. Double Norwich Court.		No. 11. Chesterfield Bob.
No. 14. Pershore Bob.		No. 13. Hereward Bob.
		No. 15. Double Oxford Bob.

The missing 'Court' method in the first group is represented by the plain hunting course, which, though, of course, it does not produce a method itself, gives its 3 derivative 'bob' methods by adding 2nd's and 7th's. If we add to the plain hunting course '4th's and 3rd's round the Treble' we get No. 4 Shipway's Court, and by adding 2nd's and 7th's we get the other 3 methods in this group, Nos. 5, 6, 7. No. 8, Lavenham Court, is plain hunting with '6th's and 5th's round the Treble,' and Nos. 9, 10, 11 are its 3 companions. When we add both '4th's and 3rd's round the Treble' and '6th's and 5th's round the Treble' to the plain hunting course we get No. 12, Double Norwich Court, and the addition of 2nd's and 7th's gives us Nos. 13, 14, 15.

In the above table I have also kept the '2nd's place' methods and the '8th's place' methods in separate columns, because it will be advisable (at this stage at any rate) only to attempt to splice up methods of like kind in this respect.

The significance of this table is therefore that in any composition where a whole course of any method appears we may substitute a whole course of the other method in the same group and column.

IN 17— WAS RUNG A PEAL.

Behind the west door curtain stand eight good men and true.
The 'Jasies' hang upon the pegs with coats of red and blue.
The door itself stands open wide, that summer draughts may blow:
And then they ring up, set 'em, tuck 'em, strike their rounds and 'go.'

There's Matty Finch, the Sexton, and 'Pompey Bill,' the 'Pug,' Barling the admiral's coxswain, handy with bell or jug,
Tom Hoskins drives the 'Quiver' upon the road past Chcam,
And handles both his bell and 'callings' as he would his team.

A red-coat back from Plassey, and Lawyer Dean, a man
Who argues much on rights and wrongs, as only lawyers can,
And white-wigged parson, with his clerk, make up that set of eight,
Whilst round about the Lych-gate critics quarrel, bet and—wait.

No more those simple fellows will crack their jokes and drink:
Peace to their honest ashes is all that we can think.
They kept our dear land free from foes, for in those days of Mars,
Good Farmer George had got his Ringers, Soldier Lads and Tars.
'CASCABLE.'

A BIRTHDAY COMPLIMENT.

As a 75th birthday compliment to Mr. M. A. C. E. Smith, who has been for 38 years a Sunday service ringer at Fulham, a touch of 504 Stedman Triples was attempted at All Saints', Fulham, on Sunday, but proved too long for the veteran, who was ringing the tenor. Afterwards 504 Grandsire Triples was rung: H. C. Page 1, A. Cutmore 2, H. Belcher 3, J. W. Driver (conductor) 4, H. A. Folkard 5, W. H. Hollier 6, A. Harding 7, W. E. Neale 8.

Now, let us consider the possibilities of splicing these groups together. The question before us now is: 'Given the P.C. of one of these groups, what courses of another of them will contain changes which repeat with it?' Let us take, for instance, the first 2 groups—i.e., the Plain Bob Group and the Shipway Group, and compare the P.C.s. We find that most of the changes are the same; but the 2nd and 3rd rows and the 12th and 13th rows (counting from the Treble's back stroke blow at lead) in each lead are different. Since there are 7 leads in a P.C. there are, therefore, 14 pairs of rows in each method which are liable to repeat with each other. Now in 5 of these the tenors are in different positions in the 2 methods, so that assuming that we are dealing only with composition with 7, 8 fixed they cannot repeat and we can therefore wash these 6 out. This leaves us with 8 possible places of repetition. Let us take one of these as an example and consider it in detail.

So that the corresponding row in the course of Shipway which starts from 13425678 would be 32145678, and would therefore repeat with the P.C. of Plain Bob. This is the same as saying that if we ring the course in the Plain Bob Group which has 23456 as its 'Natural Course End' (henceforward 'N.C.E.') then we cannot ring the course in the Shipway Group which has for N.C.E. 34256 without repetition. Or again, we may put it in this way, '34256 is a False Course End between the 2 groups.' The other 7 pairs will give us 7 other false-course-ends, making 8 in all.

We have worked them out for the 2 groups, Plain Bob and Shipway, but whichever 2 of the 4 groups we select we arrive in each case at the same set of 8 False Course Ends; they are these:—

This is a very interesting, and most unfortunate, result; and it proves the impossibility of splicing together courses of different groups from the above table. It is possible to have isolated courses of different groups which are not connected by any of the 8 conditions represented by the 8 false-course-ends, and therefore not repeating with each other, but this unfortunately does not help us much because it is not possible to join them up (using Bobs). This is because the 8 False-course-ends happen to be just the 8 possible means of transposition from one N.C.E. to another (i.e., Wrong, Middle, Right, Before, In, Fifths, Out and Home) and it is not possible to get from one N.C.E. to another (in any method) without using one of them.

Having proved that we are up against a brick wall in this direction, we must go back and see what side-turnings (if any) may be explored with advantage. But first let me just make one point clear. So far I have assumed that we are dealing with in-course N.C.E.s only, i.e., we have limited ourselves to the use of bobs, keeping Singles for the purpose of doubling the number of methods in our peal by ringing one half in-course in certain methods and the other half out-of-course in other methods. Later on we will return and consider whether we can use Singles as a means of forcing a way through our brick wall.

Let us now take stock of the state of affairs and see what we can hope to do.

By ringing the first half in-course, and the 2nd out-of-course, with Singles half-way and end, we can use 1 group in the first half and another in the 2nd. This will give us 2 methods. We can then substitute courses of one other method for whole courses of each of these 2 (as explained above). This gives us 4 methods. Now, by exercising ordinary care and a little ingenuity, we can compose an in-course round-block which contains chunks of 2 methods which have the same changes in a lead, but different places (i.e., 2nd's or 8th's) at the Treble's lead (e.g., Double Norwich and Double Oxford). In this way we can again double the number of methods in our peal, bringing it up to 8. The accompanying example contains 7 methods, the reason being that I have chosen the Plain Bob Group as one of the two, it being so much the best known and most practised, and this group has one member missing (as explained above).

So far we have kept strictly to full Major methods; if we now admit 'Little' Methods we can immediately add 6 more, because there are 6 Little Methods (2 with the Treble hunting up to 4th's place and 4 with it hunting up to 6th's) in the P.C. of which all the changes occur in either a P.C. of Plain Bob or of Shipway's Court. Choosing these 2 groups therefore as our foundation we can get a peal containing 13 methods.

We must now temporarily suspend our investigations while we do a little actual composing. The result is the 2 accompanying peals. In each of them the actual composing is done in 4 methods, 2 in the first half and 2 in the last, each pair being a 2nd's place method and an 8th's place method having the same changes in a course. Whole courses of the other methods are then spliced in at appropriate places; the joining together of the 2nd's place methods is at the course-ends, but the 8th's place methods must be joined at the 'Out' lead-end.

In writing out these peals it becomes necessary to dispense with the rather slipshod '1-4-6 business' which is generally used in the case of Double Norwich, and resort to the correct terms, namely,

Wrong, Middle, Right, and Before for 2nd's place methods, and In, Fifth's, Out, and Home, for 8th's place methods.

I am glad to be able to say, in conclusion, that in these two cases the splicing of several methods into a peal has not been achieved at the expense of 'music.' Neither the 2nd nor 3rd is ever in 6th's place in either of them, and I hope that their musical qualities will satisfy the sternest critic of splicing.

2 and 3 never in 6th's place.

The 2nd's place methods are changed at the Course-ends. In the case of the 8th's place methods, however, the changing must be done at the 'Out' lead-end, i.e., where Pershore Bob is marked opposite a course this method must be rung from the Out-lead-end of the previous course to the Out-lead-end of this course.

These 7 methods are all among the first 15 in the Central Council Collection of Plain Major and Cater Methods. 'Reverse' must be rung with a 6th's place bob, the 2nd of the 2 alternative forms shown in the 'Collection.'

2 and 3 never in 6th's place.

Where 2 methods are marked opposite a course the first must be rung as far as the 'Out' Lead-end and the second from the 'Out' Lead-end to the Course-end. The 2 courses marked * are only rung as far as the 'Out' Lead-end, at which point Winchester Bob is started, the 'Middle' position occurring at the next lead-end. This cuts out 3 leads, including the Course-end, which is therefore put in brackets.

The 13 methods are Nos. 1-7 and 73-79 (omitting 75) in the C.C. Collection.

A VISIT TO 'THE GARDEN OF EDEN.'

The members of the St. Saviour's Society, Eastbourne, accompanied by the president (Rev. Claude Williams, Vicar), the vice-president (Col. A. A. Oakham), and Mr. C. M. Taylor, churchwardens, also the Rev. L. Hands, former curate of St. Saviour's, now on holiday in England from South Africa, had their annual outing recently, when they enjoyed an excursion to Maidstone. The route was taken by way of Pevensey, Nisfield, Casfield, Battle, Northiam, a pull at Rolvenden and thence to Tenterden, where luncheon was served after a few touches on the melodious peal at St. Mildred's. Seats again being taken in the well-appointed 'South-down' charabanc, Headcorn, via Biddenden, was reached, where the eight bells were set going to some very good ringing, the journey being afterwards continued through Sutton Valence to Maidstone. After partaking of tea at a local restaurant, a visit to All Saints' belfry was made, where the bells responded to the tune of Grand-sire and Stedman Caters, and Bob Royal. This concluded the ringing for the day. At 7.30 p.m., a start was made on the homeward journey through Tonbridge and Tunbridge Wells. There is no gain-saying the fact that the ten miles between Maidstone and Tonbridge, which is termed 'the Garden of Eden' by Kentish folk, well merits that description, with its river, with fine meadows on each side of it, and vale covered not only with hop gardens and beautiful woods, but immense orchards. A stop was made at the Abergavenny Arms Hotel, Frant (to water the 'bosses' and other light refreshments). Here the opportunity was taken to thank the donors of the outing and feast, viz., the Vicar and churchwardens, together with the worthy secretary, Mr. W. Ware, for their kindness and appreciation of the efforts of the members of the society in all matters connected with the belfry. The churchwardens and Mr. Ware responded in felicitous terms. The Rev. L. Hands, whose name was coupled with the toast, said how pleased he was to have been able, after such a long absence abroad, to be present and to have spent such an enjoyable time as that day had afforded. He hoped that on his next visit, three years hence, he might be given a similar opportunity.

Eastbourne was reached by 11 p.m. after a most glorious ride through some of the prettiest villages in Kent and Sussex. In connection with this outing there is only one regret, and that is, owing to a previous arrangement at Eastbourne, the Vicar had to leave the party at Tenterden. The members of St. Saviour's Society desire, through the medium of 'The Ringing World,' to thank the incumbents and those in charge of the churches mentioned, for their kindness in allowing their bells to be rung.

LANCASTRIANS IN SOMERSET.

Hearing about 'Bumshire,' near Bath, four kindred spirits decided to find it, and, after nearly 200 miles of a journey by various routes, we met together at tea, and started what proved to be a successful week. Sunday morning found us at St. Saviour's Church, Bath, where we successfully brought round a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples. Going round in the evening, we found two 'strangers at the gate,' who proved after challenge that they came from Plymouth for half a day. They made us up for Kent and Plain Bob Major for the service. On Monday evening we were at Tiverton, where touches of Kent Major, Stedman Triples, Cambridge Major and Superlative were rung. A motor called at the door on Tuesday and took us to Wells, where we spent an interesting hour round the Cathedral, going on to Cheddar, viewing the Gorge and one of the caves, and, driving on to within seven miles of Bristol, we found a house on the roadside, where we were supplied with tea. Then on to St. Stephen's practice, where touches and courses of Stedman Caters, Kent Royal and Cambridge Major were the order, during which time the ladies drove to Clifton Downs and Bridge. Eventually we arrived at Bath before 10 p.m. On Wednesday, someone conveniently getting married gave us a chance for a course of Grandsire Caters on the Abbey bells. Thursday being second day of the races, we went to try for our winter's keep, but after the fifth race we got a 'ducking' before we found shelter. We finished the day at St. Saviour's practice. Earlier in the week we arranged to meet Miss Williams in her own tower at Weston on Friday, and here we rang 720 Kent Treble Bob Minor with her, afterwards taking tea with her and her father and enjoying a walk in the garden under the mulberry, walnut and tulip trees, which we do not see in our part of the country. One of the party discovered a piano, and that meant a trial of vocal powers against it, and a flute, played by Mr. Williams, who found us some old songs which were popular about the time we took up ringing. We went on to meet Mr. Canning at Bathford, where Kent and Bob Minor were the order. Hearing that Taunton ringers were passing through on Saturday morning, we met them and had a word as they stretched their legs after their two hours' run. Sunday concluded with service ringing at St. Michael's. Our guide, having spent his vacation there for 20 years, tried to show us in a week what he had found by tramping and tramping us up and down the hills. At the end of a long peal the footnote says the welcome 'That's all' was a relief, or words of that sort, but in our long peal it was most unpopular, as it meant going back to earn another 'eightpence' to replace that we had spent, and, at the same time, part with such friends whose names are too numerous to mention, but whom we hope to meet again in our homes or at Bumshire. BELFRY GOSSIP.

The longest peal on handbells was rung in the belfry of Holy Trinity Church, Guildford, on August 31st, 1912, by the Winchester Diocesan Guild. Mr. Alfred Pulling called 19,738 Stedman Caters, which was rung in 9 hours 32 minutes. The original intention was to ring 22,222, but a late start made it necessary to bring the bells round earlier. As it was, the ringing did not conclude until 11.27 p.m. The ringers were Arthur Shepherd (now deceased), Alfred Pulling, William Shepherd, James Hunt and Frank Blondell.

Bertram Prewett, one of the finest ringers that ever entered a belfry, was killed in action on August 31st, 1918. He had rung 953 peals.

The first ten bell peal in Scotland was Grandsire Caters rung at St. Mary's Cathedral, Edinburgh, on August 31st, 1886.

The first peal on the bells at Bishop's Stortford was Grandsire Caters, rung by the Junior Society of College Youths on September 2nd, 1820.

SPICED SURPRISE MAJOR.

MR. PITMAN PRODUCES A PEAL IN ELEVEN METHODS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—With your kind permission, I have great pleasure through 'The Ringing World' in congratulating Mr. W. Pye and his band on ringing my peal in ten Surprise Major methods. It is certainly a wonderful performance, and, when I produced it, I was very doubtful if a band would ever be able to ring it. There is no doubt it is the most difficult peal ever rung on tower bells.

The following peal can be rung in eleven methods.—Yours faithfully,

A. J. PITMAN.

This also reduces the length by 32 changes in each part, but it must be clearly understood that if Peterborough is rung in one part, it must be rung in the five parts to ensure the truth of the peal.

LINCOLN DIOCESAN GUILD.

A successful meeting of the Gainsborough District of the Northern Branch was held at Stow on Saturday, August 17th. About 36 members and friends were present from Gainsborough, Upton, Willingham, Misterton, Lincoln, Scunthorpe, Branstons and Burton Stather, together with the local ringers. Evensong was sung at 4 p.m., at which the collection was devoted to the Church Restoration Fund. Tea, followed by the short business meeting, was held in the schoolroom. Cambridge, Kent and Oxford, St. Clement's Bob Minor, Bob Doubles and Stedman Doubles comprised the ringing.

THE CENTRAL COUNCIL. SOME SUGGESTED CHANGES.

[CONTRIBUTED]

The relation between the Central Council and the constituent organisations has been brought prominently before the Exercise on several occasions in the past, but it has come in an acute form this year on account of the action of the Gloucester and Bristol Association in cutting itself off from the Council. However much this may be regretted, the Council and the Exercise have got to face the position that a large and important association has withdrawn itself from membership because it is dissatisfied. Disintegration of this kind has a habit of spreading unless it can be promptly stopped and, while it is now stated that members of the association intend to do their best to bring their organisation back again to the fold, it is not certain their efforts will succeed.

It therefore behoves the Council itself to look into the ground of disagreement and not to bury its head in the sand and ignore the circumstances of the moment. If the house needs putting in order the Council should see to it. It may be that its present constitution and policy suits the majority of the affiliated bodies, but let it be remembered that the Council was formed close on forty years ago and that now the constitution and policy remain unchanged. That may be considered by some to be a virtue; but there are others who look upon it as stagnation. The Exercise has moved considerably in the last forty years and it is doubtful if the Council has progressed in equal degree—indeed, there are many who will declare that it has moved much more slowly.

When the Council was established its mission in the Exercise was a more or less self-appointed one. Many of the territorial associations at that time had hardly got upon their own feet and the Council, naturally, had carefully to feel its way. It was by no means certain that its presence would be welcome, but a judicious handling of affairs established it safely as the organised head of the Exercise. From the start its policy has always been to influence and not to direct matters affecting ringing—to follow rather than to lead. After forty years 'in the saddle' is it not time that the Council adopted a bolder policy, and made itself a real centre of thought and progress, calling for loyal recognition on the part of all the many associations and guilds throughout the country?

This question of whether members of the Council are representatives or delegates is hardly one upon which the Exercise need stop to split straws. They are members, and that should be sufficient. They are elected by their associations and if those by whom they are appointed wish to have certain views expressed on any special subject they should, in loyalty to those who elect them, give expression to those opinions—or let someone else do so. And in this connection it might be well if the Council considered an alteration in the constitution to make elections annual instead of triennial, as it now is.

Nothing would be lost by this change; but it might do some good. In those organisations where the members of the Council have satisfactorily represented their association, there could be re-election, but in cases where an organisation wished to ensure support of a particular policy, they would be able to ensure the election of men (or women) who were in favour of such policy and there would be less likelihood of the spectacle of a member having to confess that his association wanted him to vote one way, while his own convictions urged him to vote the other. An annual election would strengthen the position of the associations, by giving them a more direct control; it would strengthen the position of the Council by keeping it thoroughly representative of the current views of its affiliated bodies.

Another step in making the Council the real head of the Exercise, in practice as well as in name, would be to make it a sin qua non of membership that the Council's rulings should be recognised. To get all the associations to accept this may at first sight seem a difficult task, but it is really the only logical action that can be taken. After all, if the associations are content to send members to the Council, why should they not be content to accept the decisions arrived at? A free and easy attitude, by which an association will accept the decisions which please it and reject those that do not, is one that leads no whither. If the question were properly put before the association—if they were educated so to speak—they would, it is easy to believe, come to the view, that to be consistent, they must, if they are affiliated, accept the rulings of the Council and that there is no reason, therefore, why, in retaining affiliation, they should not pledge themselves, as some of them have already done, to do so.

The rules of the Council lay down the number of 'representative members' which an affiliated society may elect, the number, with a maximum of four, being governed by the membership of the society concerned! Instances could be quoted where societies, entitled to, say, three or four members, elect only one or two—presumably in order to save the small affiliation fee. That is a parsimony that ought to be discouraged and even if an association does not send the whole of its representatives to the meetings (or delegates, if you prefer it) it ought at least to pay its full fees.

The Council's rules provide for the representation to be in a certain proportion, so the society of over 450 members, which is entitled to four representatives, and which elects only one representative, is depriving the Council of a part of its legitimate income. The Council has just altered one of its rules, by which the fees have been raised from 2/6 to 5/- per member; it might well give consideration to a further change, by laying down, instead, that a society exceeding 75 but not exceeding 150 members should pay an affiliation fee of 5/- and be entitled to one representative; exceeding 150 but not exceeding 300 should pay a fee of 10/- and be entitled to two representatives; exceeding 300 but not exceeding 450 should pay a fee of 15/- and be entitled to three representatives; and exceeding 450 should pay a fee of 20/- and be entitled to four representatives. This in turn ought also to involve a definition of those who should be included in the total, and obviously the proper basis of counting heads in county and diocesan organisations would be to include only resident members. A large proportion of the strength of many associations is made up of 'compounding' or non-resident members and these should be excluded when arriving at the membership upon which representation should be based.

In another direction the link between the Council and the associations might be strengthened and a possible

ST. MARY ABBOTS GUILD'S LOSS.

The St. Mary Abbots Guild of Ringers, Kensington, deeply regret the loss of their friend and treasurer, Mr. Reginald Carter, who on August 14th collapsed and died in the street. The funeral service took place on August 20th at St. Mary Abbots Church.

Mr. Carter will be sadly missed in all branches at St. Mary Abbots, where he was a generous church worker, especially in the belfry. He was also a borough councillor.

SUSSEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

A quarterly meeting of the Western Division was held at Rogate on Saturday, there being a good gathering of ringers, their wives and friends. Between 30 and 40 were present, including Mr. C. Tribe, of Tenterden, members from Angmering, Chichester, Ham, Pulborough, Knuford, Rogate and visitors from Manchester and Bristol.

A short service was held and an address given by the Rev. M. Champneys. Tea was partaken of at the White Horse Inn, with the Rev. M. Champneys at the head of the table. A short business meeting followed. No new members were forthcoming, and, after the usual vote of thanks to the chairman for presiding, etc., the members again visited the belfry for further ringing.

The next quarterly meeting is fixed for Chichester in November.

BATH AND WELLS ASSOCIATION'S FIRST PEAL OF STEDMAN.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—In the report of the retirement from ringing of Mr. Maddock, of Taunton, it was stated that he conducted the first peals of Minor, Bob Major, Kent Treble Bob and Stedman Triples for the Bath and Wells Association. The first peal of Stedman Triples for the association was rung at Dunster on February 4th, 1895, conducted by O. F. Winney. Mr. Maddock rang the tenor to the first peal of Stedman at St. James', Taunton, July 3rd, 1897, conducted by Ferris Shephard, and he rang his first peal of Stedman Triples inside on December 27th, 1898, conducted by C. F. Winney, at St. James'. It is, therefore, an error to say that he conducted the first peal of Stedman Triples. I rang in all three of the peals mentioned.—Yours truly,

W. W. THORNE.

MISCELLANEOUS PERFORMANCES.

CAYTHORPE, Lincs.—At St. Vincent's Church on Wednesday, August 14th, 1,260 Grandsire Triples: Leslie Squires (first quarter-peal and aged 13 years) 1, H. Haynes 2, T. Cragg 3, H. Thorpe 4, S. Proctor 5, H. Squires 6, W. Thorpe (conductor) 7, R. Pick 8.

ROTHWELL, Yorks.—On Tuesday, August 13th, at Holy Trinity Church, 720 Bob Minor: J. Ellis (first 720) 1, A. G. Wood 2, G. Copley 3, A. Wornald 4, H. L. Jones 5, T. W. Strangeway (conductor) 6.

BRIGHTON, SUSSEX.—On Monday, July 22nd, at St. Nicholas' Church, by the St. Nicholas' Society, a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples (1,260 changes) in 46 mins.: E. Higgin 1, H. Rann 2, G. Smart 3, Mrs. F. I. Hairs 4, F. I. Hairs 5, F. N. Smeaton 6, P. Bennett (conductor) 7, G. H. Shaker 8. This was specially arranged to celebrate the golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Coard, a highly-respected member of the society. It was intended to ring a peal, but owing to unforeseen circumstances the above had to be substituted.

means of irritation removed. Both the Gloucester and Bristol Association and the Suffolk Guild have complained of the way in which motions which they have got on to the agenda have been treated. At present the only recognised form of motion is that given in a personal way by a member. If associations are to take a full interest in the Council and get their suggestions considered by the central body, they ought to be able to send them officially as recommendations. It would often give a proposal more weight and even gain for it a wider consideration by other affiliated bodies. What apparently is wanted is a set of Standing Orders as suggested by Rev. H. Drake, which would put this procedure and other matters on a proper footing.

Once again, let the Council examine its own position and adapt itself to modern developments. There are many ways in which it might make itself the leader as well as the adviser of the Exercise.

THREE ASSOCIATIONS' JOINT MEETING.

BIG GATHERING AT HERTFORD.

The popularity of associations' joint meetings was further exemplified on Saturday last, when between 70 and 80 ringers attended a joint gathering of the Essex, Herts and Middlesex Associations at Hertford. A pleasing feature was the number of veterans present, and it was evident that they each came to see if they would meet other veterans, to chat together over old days. They were not disappointed, and we especially hope that our old friend Mr. Joe Waghorn will be spared to attend many more such meetings. Divine service was held in St. Andrew's Church at 5 p.m., when the Rev. R. J. Paulsen gave the members of the three associations a sincere welcome to the county town. The Herts Association form of service was used.

At tea Mr. C. H. Howard (Master, Essex Association) took the chair. He was supported by Mr. W. H. Laurence (Herts), Messrs. E. J. Butler, G. R. Pye and W. J. Nevard (Essex), Messrs. C. T. Coles and W. Pickworth (Middlesex), and a large number of members and friends of the three societies.

Mr. Howard expressed the pleasure of the Essex ringers in being associated with these joint meetings. They were not now satisfied with two societies fraternising, and he was pleased that the three associations could meet together.

Mr. Lawrence gave a hearty welcome to the visitors from Essex and Middlesex. He was delighted at the presence of the Master of the Essex Association, and also expressed his pleasure at seeing members of the Ashton long peal band present. He heartily congratulated them on their achievement.

Mr. Coles thanked the last speaker for the very kind welcome given to Middlesex ringers, and said he hoped to give Herts and Essex ringers an equally hearty welcome in Middlesex next year. He also thanked Mr. Laurence for his kind reference to the Ashton peal, and paid a tribute to the excellent 'go' of the bells, stating that if the bellringers had not done their work well it would have been an impossible task.

Mr. E. J. Butler, on behalf of Essex ringers, also expressed pleasure at being present, and was glad to notice that all had had a much better tea this year.

Mr. Howard moved a vote of thanks to the various incumbents for the use of the bells, and to the Rev. R. J. Paulsen for taking the service. He also referred to the Ashton peal, and to the spliced peal in ten methods rung at Willesden. He ceased to be surprised at anything that was accomplished by ringers nowadays. Mr. Howard also proposed a hearty vote of thanks to Mr. Lawrence for the excellent arrangements made, which was carried with acclamation.

A great deal of ringing took place during the afternoon and evening at All Saints' (10), St. Andrew's (8) and Bengoe (8), in most of the standard methods, the day coming to an end all too soon.

CRAWLEY DISTRICT RINGERS IN KENT.

On Saturday, July 13th, the Crawley ringers, with ringing friends from Horley, Charlwood, Buckland, Reigate and Merstham, embarked early in the morning on a trusty Southdown charabanc for their annual 'outburst' of ringing. They had a pleasant ride via Redhill and Sevenoaks to Speldhurst, the first port of call. The good running bells at this church were soon tripping along merrily into changes, while some of the horticulturally-minded members took a stroll round the Rector's garden, which he very kindly opened to them, and which was greatly admired. The next tower to be visited was Marden, on which octave Superlative and Cambridge, etc., were rung. Proceeding to Staplehurst, whose massive bell, the tenor, was rung by a massive man, the Reigate men had the pleasure of renewing the acquaintance of Mr. Wenban, an old friend, who met the party at the tower. After ringing, a 'scrumptious' dinner was enjoyed at the Railway Tavern, and then a Charlwood gentleman entertained the company to some amusing songs, and others contributed on the hand-bells. The journey was then resumed to Headcorn, where some further Surprise ringing was indulged in and a fine view of the surrounding countryside obtained from the summit of the tower. A move was then made to Leeds, famous in ringing history, with its huge squat tower, 44ft. x 47ft. inside. Stedman and Grandsire Caters, Bob Royal, Treble Ten and London Surprise Major were rung, and some of the party had their first touch on ten bells here. Cambridge Royal was to have been attempted, but one of the ringers was missing at the critical time. (He was fascinated in watching the ten bells turning over in the bell chamber.) Tea was partaken of on the lawn of the George Hotel before proceeding to Linton, where the party were met by Mr. Sono. Last of all came Hadlow, where they 'ran into' the St. Margaret's, Westminster, party. These (the bells at Hadlow—not the ringers from Westminster) are a quaint toned lot, but were soon put into changes. Seven towers were visited during the day, and the ringing throughout was of a high order. The company take this opportunity of thanking the various incumbents for the use of the bells. That everything went off with such admirable smoothness was due to that energetic and capable organiser, Mr. Oliver Sippetts, who must have put in a lot of unseen work, and last, but not least, the weather clerk, who provided an ideal summer day.

SURREY ASSOCIATION.SOUTHERN DISTRICT MEETING ENDS IN DARKNESS.

A very successful meeting of the Southern District of the Surrey Association was held at Betchworth on Saturday, June 24th, ringers being present from Redhill, Reigate, Godstone, Burstow, Buckland, Merstham, Kingswood, Charlwood, Horley, Chelsea, Crawley, Godalming, Aldershot, Dorking, Leatherhead, Croydon, Betchworth and Limpsfield Chart. An excellent tea was provided at the Red Lion Hotel, followed by the business meeting, at which Mr. A. Gear was elected to the chair.

The usual business was transacted, Kingswood being proposed as the place for the next meeting, to be held in October.

Votes of thanks were accorded the chairman for presiding at the meeting, to Mr. J. Judd for having everything in readiness, also to Mr. F. Sanders for obtaining permission for Buckland bells for the rest of the evening.

At the conclusion of the business meeting some ringers went to Buckland, and spent an enjoyable hour on this light peal, in ringing Grandsire Doubles, Oxford, Kent and Plain Bob; whilst the remainder returned to Betchworth tower, where successful touches of London, Cambridge, Superlative and Norfolk Surprise, Double Norwich, Kent and Bob Major, Stedman and Grandsire Triples were brought round, several ringers taking part for their first touch in these methods. The learners also were not forgotten, all those who cared to being given the opportunity to take part in some good rounds. Ringing was kept up till 8.30, when the electric light gave out, and brought an enjoyable meeting to a sudden end.

BROMLEY YOUTHS.

The ringers' art our grateful notes prolong,
Apollo listens and approves the song.
(Bromley 7th bell.)

The first peal on the bells of Bromley was rung on Monday, June 14th, 1773, in 3 hrs. 7 mins., conducted by James Barham, of Leeds, who was very jealous of any strange company coming into the county of Kent for bell openings. He never joined either of the two old London societies, as he considered the Lenham and Leeds company second to none in England at that time. His band had rung four peals in that year before visiting Bromley, including a 13,000 of Bob Major, at Leeds.

The College Youths opened Bromley bells, and the Royal Cumberlands followed in unsuccessful efforts to score the 'first.' However, both bands consoled themselves the following year by ringing a peal of Treble Bob Major, May 8th, 1774, conducted by Edward Rumball for the College Youths; and a peal of Union Bob Major, composed and conducted by George Gross, on September 25th, 1774, for the Cumberlands. It is interesting to note the length of these performances—5,088, 5,056 and 5,184 changes—all Major.

The eight bells were cast by Thos. Jannaway, of Chelsea. He was an offshoot of the Whitechapel Foundry before William Mears retired in 1789.

RIVERSIDE CHURCH, NEW YORK, U.S.A.

A CLOSER TOUCH.

There can be little question, we think, that the Exercise, taken as a whole, is desirous of seeing the Central Council made an effective as well as a nominal head of the Ringing Exercise. Without some such organisation every association would set up its own standards and the art, which is now a national one, might easily lose cohesion both in the expansion of its principles and in its practice. But at present, despite nearly forty years' existence, the Council is not taken seriously by many of the rank and file and its decisions are merely treated as the opinions of a body of people, who may or may not be competent to express them. That, of course, is not the view of those who study what the Council has done and is trying to do. The sum of the Council's labours has been a very large contribution to the progress of the art in the last three or four decades; yet there are still those who imagine that the Exercise could get on very well without it. While the Council's prestige is to-day higher than ever it was, it needs an even wider recognition than it at present receives. How is that recognition to be obtained? We would commend to our readers the article which was contributed to our last issue by a member of the Council. This article put forward a number of steps which it was suggested might be taken to bring the Council into closer relationship with the affiliated bodies, and every one of the points raised is worth the serious consideration of the associations. Not the least important of the changes suggested is, in our opinion, the annual election of the representative members, not merely on the ground that it would enable the associations to ensure that on any issue previously raised its views would be adequately represented, but because we think it would give a closer touch than is now possible, under the triennial elections, between the associations and the Council. At present the election of members of the Council comes before the associations only once in three years, and, except in the few cases where the representatives are asked for a report, nothing tangible to awaken interest in the Council or in any action of the members of the Council, happens again for another three years. An annual election would, at any rate, keep the Council under the attention of the members of the associations, whose interest might be further stimulated if all matters outside the absolutely domestic affairs of the Council were officially communicated by the Council to the affiliated bodies. They could then be commented upon or elaborated by the association's own representatives, and in this way a more direct interest might be established. But with an interval of three years between the happenings within an association's own proceedings of anything relating to the Council, can it be wondered at that members of the associations not only lose touch but also interest in the Central body? An annual election, therefore, is, in our opinion, a most necessary change in the constitution of the Council.

THE VICISSITUDES OF AN ANCIENT BELL.

BROKEN AND UNWANTED—NOW TO AUGMENT ABBEY RING.

Few ancient bells can have experienced the vicissitudes of that which is shortly to find a new home in Minster Abbey Church at Sheppey. Recently the five bells here were restored by the generosity of Mr. S. T. Hipwell, the old bell above referred to (broken and useless) is now to be recast at the Whitechapel Foundry, and is to be added to Minster Abbey ring to make a peal of six.

The story of this ancient bell is told by the 'Sheerness Guardian,' and will be of interest to ringers:—

'It was cast round about the year 1602 by Messrs. Hatch, the same family which, some 60 years later, cast the bells of Minster Abbey Church. The long, slender shape of the bell indicates its antiquity. That bell was hung in the tower of Warden Church, a mud and plaster building, with a stone tower, which alone withstood the onslaught of time. In due course, however, the church had to be demolished. (Contrary to the usual story, it did not fall down the cliffs, although its remains are at present under the sea.) The bell, apparently unwanted, lay for a considerable time among the ruins, forgotten by most people, and neglected by the rest.

'So time passed, until, during the time when the late Mr. W. Bramston was Vicar of Minster, it was decided to build a mission church at Halfway. The church was built, and there was but one thing that was missing—a bell. Then Mr. Crawley, who had long been interested in the project, remembered the bell at Warden. He approached the Vicar on the matter, permission was sought and obtained, and the bell was carted from its bed among the ruins and installed into the tower of St. Peter's Church, where again it entered upon its ecclesiastical duties. Its career, however, was not to remain undisturbed, for before very long a fire broke out at the church, which was destroyed. Again the bell was found among the ruins, but the intense heat and the fall had done their work—it was in pieces.

'That seemed likely to be the end of its career, but Mr. Crawley again intervened, and the pieces were collected. Being useless for their original purpose, however, they were deposited in a forge kept by Mr. Foreman, then at Halfway, now at Minster. There they remained, lying in an obscure corner, until the removal of Mr. Foreman to Minster. There being then no place to store the remains of the bell, they were taken to Minster Abbey Church, where they remained beneath the clock in the bell tower until the death of the Vicar of Minster, and the coming of the Rev. E. A. Miller, some four years ago. At that time the parish of Warden was taken away from Minster, to which it had formerly belonged, and was transferred to Eastchurch. The goods of the parish had accordingly to be transferred also, and among them the broken bell, still unwanted, travelled.

'During the last few years the pieces have lain at Eastchurch. Nobody seemed to want them, and nobody seemed to know what to do with them. Then Mr. Hipwell, having restored the bells at Minster, wished for another bell, in order that the church might be brought into line with Eastchurch and Queenborough, which possess six bells each, there being only five at Minster. Hearing by chance of the broken Warden bell, Mr. Hipwell approached the Vicar of Minster with a view to getting the pieces transferred. This was done, and the pieces were sent to London, where they are now in process of being recast.'

THREE GUILDS MEET.

Three neighbouring Guilds, Guildford, Oxford and Winchester and Portsmouth, held a joint meeting at Hawley, Hants, on Saturday. Hawley is one of the few Hampshire towers which came into the Guildford Diocese when the old Winchester Diocese was divided, and it stands very close to the boundaries of all three of the dioceses mentioned. Yateley, an eight-bell tower, only a mile or so away, is in the Winchester Diocese, and Sandhurst, with six bells, a little further off, is in the diocese of Oxford. All these towers were open for ringing in the afternoon, but the visitors, who numbered nearly 60, seemed to concentrate on Hawley.

The Guildford Guild's form of service was used, and was conducted (in the absence of the Rector of Hawley) by the Rev. D. L. Board, of Wolverton, hon. secretary of the Basingstoke District of the Winchester and Portsmouth Guild. The lesson was read and the address given by the Rev. B. Long, Rector of Wokingham, who succeeded Canon G. F. Coleridge as Rural Dean of Sonning. He preached from Romans xi. 13, 'I magnify mine office,' and spoke of the necessity of recognising, first of all, the importance of any work which was undertaken, and of recognising, next, their weakness in being able to carry it through. A grasp of these two principles, he said, would do much towards making their work better and more effective. They as bellringers were officers with a great work to do for God and His Church, and they could magnify their office if they had in mind the two principles to which he had referred. The rank and file in the Church looked to them to see that their work was well done, and that their lives were lived as became their high calling.

Tea was served in the Memorial Hall, after which there were votes of thanks to the incumbents of the churches, the preacher, the organist, and those, including Mr. Boyles, who had made the local arrangements, proposed by Admiral T. P. Walker, D.S.O., hon. treasurer of the Guildford Diocesan Guild, who welcomed the visiting Guilds, and said how greatly the Guildford Guild valued the opportunity of meeting their neighbours in this friendly way.

Mr. G. Pullinger (general secretary of the Winchester and Portsmouth Guild) replied, remarking that he hoped the joint gathering of the three Guilds would become an annual event.

Mr. R. T. Hibbert (general secretary of Oxford Diocesan Guild) also referred to the good results that must accrue from such meetings, and he apologised for the absence of the Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn (Master of the Oxford Diocesan Guild), who was away on holiday.

Mr. W. J. Paice (hon. secretary of Sonning Deanery Branch of the Oxford Guild) said that Canon Coleridge had sent his regrets that he was unable to be present, as he also was away on holiday. Mr. Paice went on to say that the proposal to have a peal of twelve bells at St. Lawrence's Church, Reading, had now been definitely decided upon. It would be the first peal of 12 in Berkshire, and the scheme had gone through largely as the result of the efforts of Mr. Hibbert. About £170 had got to be raised for these two bells, and the help of any ringers would be greatly appreciated.

Mr. J. S. Goldsmith, hon. secretary of the Guildford Guild, also spoke, and Mr. Hibbert explained the position of the scheme for augmenting St. Lawrence's bells.

A number of contributions were afterwards handed to Mr. G. Gilbert, who had brought with him an official receipt book.

Among those who attended the gathering, in addition to those whose names have already been mentioned, were Mr. G. Williams (Master of the Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild), who had to leave early, Mr. C. Denyer (hon. secretary of the Farnham District of the Guildford Guild), Mr. Wilfred Andrews (Winchester Cathedral), and ringers from Aldershot, Bagshot, Bramley (Hants), Binsfield, Finchampstead, Harrow Weald, Hawley, Maidenhead, Seale, Sandhurst, Slough, Woking, Wokingham, etc. In the evening there was further ringing, and Yorktown bells, another ring of eight, were also open.

YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION.

A meeting of the Western Division of the Yorkshire Association was held at Kildwick on Saturday, August 24th. The attendance was small, the following towers being represented: Bradford, Halifax, Keighley, Sheffield, Guiseley, Far Headingley, Queensbury, Skipton and the local company. In the afternoon, touches of Grandsire and Treble Bob were rung, and at 5 o'clock an adjournment was made for tea. Afterwards, the business meeting was held in the Parish Room, Mr. J. Cotterell (vice-president) being in the chair.

There were no invitations for the December meeting forthcoming, and it was decided to endeavour to arrange one at St. Michael's, Reading.

Votes of thanks were proposed to the Vicar and churchwardens for the use of the bells, to Mr. J. J. Brigg for kindly placing his grounds at the disposal of the visitors, and to the local company for the arrangements made. These were carried unanimously. The tower was again visited, and touches of Double Norwich, Stedman Triples, Treble Bob, and Grandsire were rung.

SOME INTERESTING CHURCHES.

ESSEX RINGERS' HAPPY EXCURSION.

The Loughton and Woodford ringers had their annual outing on Saturday, August 24th. Invitations to join the party were extended to the Wanstead ringers and friends of the local bands, and forty-one lined up for the two charabancs engaged for the trip. By eight o'clock the 'Right away' was sounded, and signs of a sunny day quickly put all in a happy vein.

Witham was chosen as the first halting place, via Epping, High Ongar, and Chelmsford. The landscape varied, beginning with hawthorns gaily bedecked with crimson berries, followed by stretches of fascinating forest scenery. Dainty birches, leafy beeches, and pollarded hornbeams with their fantastic arms and grotesque trunks, here and there interspersed with open stretches of bracken and tall grasses crossed by verdurers' footpaths, gave a beautiful setting to a road that has become a highway for motorists and cyclists. Signs of the changing times were seen at North Weald, where aviation and wireless have been developed. Further on, harvest operations were in full swing, and in some places the golden ears had been called upon to give up their yield. Chelmsford was soon reached, but no time could be spared to look round the Cathedral. The main road traffic was then experienced. What a contrast to the old coaching days!

Witham was reached in good time. Timbered houses and gabled inns were noticed whilst passing through the thousand-years-old town, famous in history for its resistance, to the Danish invaders in the year 913. The Church of St. Nicolas, situated in that part of Witham known as Chipping Hill, rises prominently above the quaint and attractive cottages that surround a triangular Green, and is regarded as one of the best edifices in Essex, with good examples of early 14th century workmanship. The outstanding features are the battlemented tower built chiefly of large pebbles and flints with a fair number of Roman tiles, the pseudo-Norman south porch, the well-proportioned chancel containing handsomely carved choir stalls and bordered with fine oaken screens, the lady chapel, a recent memorial to the late Canon Ingles, and beautiful stained glass windows, also memorials to old worshippers. Near the organ are two recumbent full-length figures, carved in alabaster and coloured, placed over the tomb of Sir John Southcote, a judge, and his wife, who lived in the 16th century.

The party was met by Mr. Wm. Butler, one of the progressive local band. Touches of Kent, Cambridge Surprise, Plain Bob and Grand-sire Doubles were rung, and the tone of the bells, particularly that of the tenor, 18 cwt., was greatly admired. With the addition of two trebles, St. Nicolas would possess a very musical octave, and would become a 'Mecca' of ringers, near and far.

Colchester was reached by mid-day, after having passed through a famous seed-growing district with Dobbies' name well to the fore. Dinner was promptly served at the Red Lion Hotel.

A hasty visit was paid to the ancient castle close by, where the museum contains some wonderful specimens of Roman pottery, coins, etc.

East Bergholt was visited next in order to see the 400-years-old hall cage that stands in the churchyard. Mr. Scarfe kindly arranged for his band to be present to ring the five bells, tenor reputed to be 28 cwt. The unique setting of the bells in the frame with only the headstock to control the swing requires very careful manipulation and correct timing. Congratulations to the local band for carrying on under difficulties!

The next halt was made at St. Mary the Virgin, Ardleigh, where touches were rung of Grand-sire Triples, Stedman and Kent Treble Bob Major on a light musical eight. The well-proportioned church is in a very good state of preservation. The chancel roof and walls are beautifully decorated. The tower, with a decorated top, is built of brick and flint, the ringing being done from the ground floor. A very old oak door is within the stately south porch.

A quick run was then made to Braintree, via Marks Tey and Coggeshall, places that played an interesting part in the early days of the woollen trade. A hearty welcome was given by Mr. Wiffen. Time would only allow for one good touch of Grand-sire Triples. The tower, of Early English style, has a conspicuous spire, 120 feet high. The south chapel is noteworthy for its fine wood carving in the roof, consisting of deeply moulded ribs and very interesting bosses. A framed document gives the names of all who perished in the Plague of 1665—about one-third of the residents.

Tea was taken at the White Hart, Harlow Common, after an interesting run through Dunmow and Hatfield Broad Oak.

At the conclusion of the meal a hearty vote of thanks was proposed by Mr. J. Chalk (Wanstead), and carried with acclamation, to Mr. J. Rann (Loughton) and Mr. C. Morris (Woodford), the organisers of a very successful outing. Both expressed their delight in the work that they had undertaken, and their willingness to arrange for future outings.

The Church of St. Mary Magdalene was only a short distance away, and in the absence of Mr. G. Dent, Mr. H. Smale and members of the local band extended a hearty welcome to all comers. The church is of modern construction, with the main entrance through the tower door. The gargoyles attached to the tower depict local celebrities.

NO 'TRICKS' AT 'THE FOUNDRY.'

Accompanied by a few ringers from Croft, Earl Shilton ringers visited Loughborough for their annual outing on Saturday, August 24th. The principal attraction was the Bell Foundry, where they were met by Mr. H. Stubbs, who kindly conducted the party round the works, where new peals and chimes of bells were objects of great interest. Mr. J. P. Fidler kindly entertained the party with tunes on a carillon which had been erected before being despatched to America. The ringers then adjourned to the foundry campanile, where some well-struck touches of Grand-sire and Stedman Triples and Bob Major were brought round on the little peal. After a good repast at a local cafe, the party visited Woodhouse Eaves and tried the very nice ring of six there, the 'bag' being six-score of Grand-sire and Stedman, touches of Bob Minor and courses of Kent Treble Bob. Tunes and courses of Grand-sire Triples on the handbells brought a very pleasant outing to a close. Thanks are due to Messrs. J. Taylor and Co. for kind permission to visit the foundry, and Messrs. Stubbs and Fidler for their kindness. The Foundry bells on this occasion did not 'play tricks,' as is sometimes recorded in 'The Ringing World' as being the case when strangers handle them. One resident remarked that he thought the local men were ringing them. If ringers cannot ring at the Foundry it is entirely their own fault. The party take this opportunity of thanking the Vicar and Ringing Master at Woodhouse Eaves for putting the bells at that church at their disposal.

HARWICH RINGERS' TOUR.

The annual outing of the St. Nicholas' Guild, Harwich, took place on Saturday, August 24th, in glorious weather. Leaving Harwich at 8.45 a.m. by charabanc, a party of twelve, with their friends, set forth for a visit to Braintree and Maldon. After journeying through Colchester and Marks Tey, a call was made at Great Tey, and a visit was paid to the tower of this old church, where the bells were set going to Kent Treble Bob Major and Grand-sire Triples. At Braintree, the party were met by Mr. C. H. Howard (Master of the Essex Association) and Mr. Wiffen, who had everything in readiness for ringing at the Parish Church. Touches of Grand-sire Triples and Kent Treble Bob Major were brought round on this nice peal of eight, the 'go' of them being splendid. Lunch was served at the Nag's Head, under the supervision of Host E. Scarle, and was much appreciated. Lunch over, the journey was resumed to Maldon. Here they were met at All Saints' by Mr. F. Chalk, and touches of Grand-sire and Kent Treble Bob Major were duly brought round. The last time the company rang here the bells were a peal of six. After tea, tracks were made for St. Mary's, where there is a peal of six. This is a very old tower, with enough room for 12 bells. Kent and Oxford Treble Bob Minor were brought round, also two courses of Grand-sire Triples on handbells. The party left for home via Tip Tree and Colchester, Harwich being reached at 11 p.m. The company wish, through 'The Ringing World,' to thank the various incumbents for the use of the bells, also Mr. J. Dyer (Great Tey), Mr. C. H. Howard (Master), and Mr. Wiffen (Braintree), and Mr. F. Chalk (Maldon) for their kindness which made the day so enjoyable and the outing a success.

LEEDS SOCIETY BREAKS NEW GROUND.

The Leeds and District Society held another successful and well-attended gathering on Saturday. New ground was broken in the society's history by holding the meeting at Batley. The Vicar welcomed the ringers at 3 p.m., and apologised for the weather, although, he said, he knew rain did not interfere with ringing, as it had done with a garden party which was to have been held in the Vicarage grounds that afternoon.

Ringers were present from Calverley, Rothwell, Headingley (St. Chad's), Leeds Parish Church, Lindley, Mirfield, Liversedge, Armley, and the local company. After various methods had been rung, some of the ringers adjourned to the church schools and joined in the tea which had been arranged for the garden party.

The next meeting will be held at Hunslet Parish Church on September 28th.

A hearty vote of thanks to the Vicar and churchwardens for the use of the bells and to the local company for the necessary arrangements, brought the business meeting to a close, when ringing was resumed.

The tone and easy running of the bells, cast by J. Taylor and Co. in 1905, won the admiration of all. Touches of Stedman, Kent Treble Bob, and Double Norwich and Bob Minor were rung, but time stopped the cry for more.

Daylight and ringing were both finished, and the run home was brightened by the 'gentle whispers' of the young bloods and the tuneful Norfolk melodies of Mr. Plummer. A happy day had been spent, the spirit of comradeship had been strengthened, and confidence gained by those who had recently become association members. All offer their sincere thanks to the incumbents of the various parishes for the use of the bells, and to the ringers who greeted the party.

PORTSMOUTH RINGERS' OUTING.

On Saturday last the ringers of the Cathedral Church of St. Thomas of Canterbury, Portsmouth, with their friends, held their first annual outing, which included visits to six towers in three counties. The tour commenced punctually at the scheduled time, 7.30 a.m., which fact elicited remarks from the facetious ones, comparing this with the times of attendance on Sundays and practice nights. After a pleasant run of 30 miles, through the beautiful Meon Valley (during which certain members completed their rudely disturbed beauty sleep), Alton was reached at 9.15 a.m., where the splendid octave at St. Lawrence's Church (tenor 18 cwt.) were soon in motion, touches being rung in the standard methods. Leaving at 10 a.m., a quick run took the party into Farnham by 10.30 a.m. Here an old friend in the person of Mr. R. Hasted was present, and by the time half the party had tracked the elder ringers, who had found a very congenial retreat in which to renew old acquaintanceship, and a couple of touches had been rung, it was found that the driver was playing a solo on his horn, being already 20 minutes late for leaving. The next stop was Dorking, where a splendid lunch was done ample justice to at the White Horse Hotel, an ancient and historic coaching house, in which half the ladies of the party lost their way in the labyrinth of passages. Unfortunately time did not permit of any ringing here in this town owing to the time lost by the conviviality at the last stop. A pleasant run of 14 miles brought the party to Horsham, where a certain member was taught a lesson regarding ringing with a slack rope, when the rope slipped wheel. Touches of Stedman and Kent were brought round. Another six miles landed the party in Billingshurst, where a good ring (tenor 13 cwt.) were soon going to Grandsire and Kent Treble Bob Major, which were successfully brought round, before settling off for Petworth and tea at the Angel Hotel. After three of the party had been dragged from the intricacies of clock golf, a move was made to the tower, where hangs a beautiful octave, and great surprise was expressed that such a specimen of the bell founders' art should exist without a resident change-ringing band to ring them. Pulborough was reached at 7.15 p.m., where 45 minutes' ringing in the company of Mr. Doick was thoroughly enjoyed, the return journey being made via Slindon Woods and Chichester. The methods rung included Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Plain Bob and Kent Treble Bob Major, the conducting being shared among Messrs. F. A. and F. W. Burnett and H. L. W. Aitken. All who participated wish to express, through the medium of this paper, their gratitude to all incumbents and steeple-keepers, who contributed so much by their courtesy and assistance to the success of the outing.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION.SOUTH AND WEST DISTRICT ENTERTAINED AT STAINES.

A meeting of the South and West District of the Middlesex County Association and London Diocesan Guild was held in tropical heat at St. Peter's, Staines, on Saturday, but the riverside tower drew a large company, nearly 60 being present from Acton, Chiswick, Ealing, Heston, Hillingdon, Harrow, Beaconsfield, Bown Hill, Maidenhead, Feltham, Farnham Royal, Putney, Croydon, Staines, etc. Ringing started at 3.20, and methods from Grandsire Triples up to and including Cambridge, London and Bristol Surprise were practised during the meeting. A service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. Dr. W. H. Flecker), and the singing was led by the organ.

After service, the company was entertained to tea by the Vicar and Mrs. Flecker in the Parish Hall. The Vicar presided, supported by the vice-president (Mr. C. S. Bird), Mrs. Flecker and Mrs. Bird. The usual business was transacted. Dr. W. H. Flecker was elected an honorary member, and Master George Hawksworth a ringing member for Acton.

At the request of the Vicar, several touches of Caters, Major and Triples were rung on handbells by Messrs. F. Goodfellow (Ringing Master), W. Wilson, R. A. Fardon, E. S. Turner, G. Martin, J. Herbert, J. R. Mackman, Mr. and Mrs. C. Mayne.

A hearty vote of thanks was accorded to Dr. and Mrs. Flecker for their kind hospitality, which was greatly appreciated by the whole company, to the Vicar for conducting the service and the welcome he gave to the Guild, to the organist, to Miss Helen E. Riggs, who so ably served the tea with the assistance of Mr. and Mrs. G. Walmsley, and the attention they paid to the needs of the company will not be forgotten.

An appeal was made by the hon. secretary on behalf of Mr. Tom Beadle, who is in his 79th year, and has been in and out of hospital for the past three years. He has been a member of the Isleworth band for forty-four years, and was a pioneer of change ringing in West Middlesex.

The sum of two guineas was collected at the meeting. Further contributions will be gratefully received by the hon. secretary of the district (Mr. W. H. Helliier, 29, Duke Road, W.4), and will be acknowledged in 'The Ringing World.'

Best thanks to Mr. W. E. Parker and Mr. Walmsley of the local band brought a most pleasant afternoon to a close. Afterwards the bells of St. Peter's and St. Mary's Churches were rung.

The next meeting will be held at Twickenham, and the usual notice will appear in 'The Ringing World.'

BELL ROPES MUFFLES, &c.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

The first lady to conduct a peal for the Devon Guild is Mrs. E. S. Powell, wife of the president of the Guild. This she did on Saturday, when she called a peal of Bob Major at Moretonhampstead.

An appeal is being made on behalf of Mr. Tom Beadle, an old Isleworth ringer, who, nearly 80 years of age, is in failing health. He was a pioneer of the old West Middlesex Association. Some further particulars about the appeal will be found in the report of the Middlesex County Association meeting.

The West Middlesex Association, the nucleus from which the present flourishing Middlesex County Association and London Diocesan Guild grew, was established 45 years ago.

Robert S. Stratford, of Whitley Bay, is one of the youngest ringers in the North of England, and at the age of thirteen he has now rung a peal of Double Norwich Major.

What was the 'Catch-joint company of change ringers' which met at St. Peter's Church, Hindley, Lancs, on August 29th, 1874, and rang in excellent style Mr. John Holt's ten-course peal of Grandsire Triples?

Did James Barham, the famous old Leeds (Kent) ringer ring a church bell for a longer period without a stop than any other man before or since? A correspondent raises this question, and remarks that he has seen it recorded that in the 40,320 Barham rang for 14 hrs. 50 mins. on end.

A peal of 6,140 of 'Bob Major Royal' was rung at Coventry on September 6th, 1807. Coventry, to the regret of all ringers, has long been without a ringing peal in its famous spire. The authorities are still waiting for a generous donor to build a campanile.

Charles Henry Hattersley, of Sheffield, one of the finest composers of the last generation, was born on September 12th, 1844. He died at the age of 71 years.

Mr. Thomas Benney, one of the oldest members of the College Youths, has just celebrated his 78th birthday by ringing in a peal of Stedman Triples, at Edmonton, where he rang a peal of Grandsire Triples over 54 years ago with the Ancient Society. This is a rare link for a man to forge.

THE QUICKEST PEAL ON EIGHT BELLS?

What is the quickest peal of Triples rung on tower bells?

Last Friday a peal of Stedman Triples was rung at Crayford in 2 hrs. 14 mins. It was rung in a deliberate attempt to see how quickly a peal could be completed on these fast-going bells, the tenor of which is 12½ cwt., and the band really surprised themselves.

Naturally, as the outcome, there is an inquiry as to the fastest tower bell peal of Triples. The band that rang the peal at Crayford make no claim to a record, but they would like to know if any peal of Triples has been rung on church bells in quicker time.

The rate of striking was over 37 changes per minute, which is, when one comes to think about it, a remarkable speed.

'The Ringing World' will be glad to receive brief particulars of any eight-bell peals on tower bells rung in 2 hrs. 20 mins. or less.

THE SHERWOOD YOUTHS.

SUCCESSFUL MEETING AT GREASLEY.

A meeting of the Society of Sherwood Youths had been arranged at Nuthall for Saturday last, but owing to the sudden death of the church organist, the Vicar (Canon Boden) asked that the meeting should be postponed. The request was, naturally, immediately acceded to. Communication with the Rev. J. S. Galloway, of Greasley, asking for the use of his bells resulted in permission being at once readily given, by telephone message as follows: 'Come; shall be delighted to have you.' A notice was, therefore, left on the church door at Nuthall informing those who cared to travel on to Greasley.

The party's arrival was welcomed by some of the local men and also the Vicar, and a very delightful two hours' ringing was enjoyed by all, only one touch failing to come round. Members and friends were present from the following towers: Bottesford, Cotgrave, St. Mary's, Nottingham, Arksey, Loughborough, and the locals. Touches in the following methods were brought round: 360 Bob Minor, Grandsire Triples, Stedman Triples, Kent Treble Bob Major, and a plain course of Cambridge Surprise Minor. As the party were just thinking of getting ready for home, a well-known representative of the local bell foundry walked in. He was either 'prospecting' or 'joy-riding'; it is not known which, so there was another 'set to,' and the evening finished with a nice touch of Stedman Triples with the above-mentioned gentleman ringing the 6th. The bells at Greasley are a very nice, handy ring of eight by Taylor.

A very enjoyable meeting ended with a hearty vote of thanks to the Vicar and the local men for meeting the members, and further meetings of the same kind are hoped for.

It is proposed to have the next meeting at Southwell Minster, on September 28th.

THE CENTRAL COUNCIL.To the Editor.

Sir, — No one, I feel sure, could do otherwise than applaud the spirit and general tenour of the article on the Central Council contributed to your last issue. With the bulk of its suggestions I cordially agree, and if I seem to criticise some of them, it is solely with a view, in complete harmony with your contributor, to forward the Council's utility and influence.

As far as regards the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association in its relation with the Council the 'ground of disagreement' is what I have never been able to discover, the ground hitherto alleged in your columns being wholly, and I may say ridiculously inadequate, and suggesting some hidden discontent which has not yet come out.

The Council can, of course, alter its constitution, and I am among the number of those who say: By all means let it do so, or at least let it try. I much doubt if an annual election of its members would effect any considerable difference, but there could be no harm in giving it a trial. As concerns the Council's policy, it can work only on the materials supplied to it. In other words, it can never make its own policy. Its policy is that which the associations and the Exercise make for it. It can, of course, decline to deal with any subject that it thinks questionable or dangerous, but of these the only ones treated thus, so far as I remember, have been proposals that the Council should deal with or have control of funds other than its own, those, that is to say, which defray its own expenses of meeting, committees, printing, etc. It has purposely held aloof from anything in the shape of benefits in illness or in want of work, or anything of that sort, and my own strong opinion, I may say, certainly, is that the moment it transgresses this rule it is digging its own grave.

Of your contributor's meaning in saying that it would be well 'to make it a sine qua non of membership that the Council's rulings should be recognised' I am not sure. 'Membership'—of what? Of the Council or of the association? If of the Council, surely it is the case already. If of the association I do not see how it can be ensured. The rest of the paragraph is quite plain, and I heartily agree with it.

I heartily agree, also, with the contributor's two concluding suggestions, viz., that it might be well for each association to pay an annual lump subscription to the Council according to the number of its resident members, and to elect the maximum (or a smaller) number of representatives to which that subscription entitles them; and, secondly, that notices of motion should be forwarded a certain number of weeks beforehand by the honorary secretary of the association to the honorary secretary of the Council, and be published by the latter in 'The Ringing World' not less than six weeks before the annual meeting. This would allow time, in the event of any of them being out of proper form, to correct what is amiss. Want of proper form has, I believe, once or twice created difficulty with the association.

CHARLES D. P. DAVIES.

A PEAL OF TWELVE FOR BERKSHIRE. ST. LAWRENCE'S, READING, TO HAVE TWO MORE BELLS.

A decision has been taken to add two trebles to the ring of ten at St. Lawrence's Church, Reading, to provide the first peal of twelve in Berkshire, but it means that the ringers have got to do their part in helping to raise the funds.

A scheme of restoration had previously been undertaken, by which a new frame and fittings for the old ten was to be provided, the treble recast and the other bells tuned. The contract was secured by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank, and it was felt that the opportunity should be taken to complete the twelve at the same time. Mr. 'Tom' Hibbert, who is the Foreman of this tower, as well as being Secretary of the Oxford Diocesan Guild, worked assiduously to this end, and eventually persuaded the church authorities that such an extension was a desirable one. The authorities, already committed to an expenditure of £600 or £700, would not, however, shoulder any further financial responsibility, but in order that the opportunity should not be lost the necessary guarantee was given by the Master of the Guild (Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn), who is confident that the necessary additional money, something near £200, can be raised.

The order was, therefore, placed for the new trebles and St. Lawrence's will now add one more to the rings of twelve in this country. The tenor is about 24 cwt., and when the bells have been tuned an excellent ring for their weight is promised. This addition will give the Diocese of Oxford a peal of twelve in each of the three Archdeaconries, viz., at Christ Church Cathedral, Oxford; High Wycombe, Bucks; and Reading, Berks.

BOCKING BELLS FUND

On Saturday a very successful garden fete and sale of work and rummage sale was held in the Deanery Grounds, Bocking, in aid of the fund for the rehanging of the bells of St. Mary's Church. There were numerous competitions and sideshows, and between 2,000 and 3,000 people attended. Mrs. S. A. Courtauld opened the grounds at 2 p.m. The Braintree town band attended, and there was dancing in the evening. The takings amounted to about £150, and it is expected that, after expenses have been paid, £120 will go to the fund.

DEATH OF CROYDON RINGER.

We regret to record the death of a well-known and respected Croydon ringer, Mr. William Groves, who passed away after about two months' illness, at the age of 62 years. Mr. Groves was formerly connected with Croydon Parish Church, where he rung peals as far back as the 'nineties, but about four years ago, on leaving that parish, he joined the St. Peter's Society.

Some splendid examples of the deceased's handiwork can be seen in some of the wood carvings in the Parish Church, of which he was carolaker for a number of years.

The funeral service at St. Peter's and the interment at Mitcham Road Cemetery were conducted by the Rev. P. Thornton (senior curate), while as a last token of respect to their colleague and friend, the following rang at St. Peter's Church a well-struck quarter-peal of Grandsire Caters (1,259 changes) in 55 mins., with the bells half-muffled: D. Wright 1, R. H. Dove 2, C. H. Kippen 3, J. W. Trappitt 4, F. W. Larbey 5, B. N. Newson 6, E. Denham 7, A. W. Clarke 8, F. E. Collins 9, W. J. Adcock 10.

A RINGER FROM BOYHOOD.

At Broughton Astley, Leicestershire, on Monday, August 26th, in 50 mins., a quarter-peal (1,260 changes) of Grandsire Doubles in ten different callings: J. Brunt 1, F. S. Bodycote 2, C. E. Carr (conductor) 3, A. Bodycote 4, H. Bird 5. Rung with the bells half-muffled as a last token of respect to George Fretter, who died at the age of 66 years, and who had been a chorister and a ringer at the church from boyhood. He was interred in the churchyard earlier in the day. First quarter-peal as conductor.

GLIMPSSES OF THE PAST.

CLIPPINGS FROM A SCRAP BOOK.

Ancient practices with regard to bells are always interesting, although they are not always concerned with change ringing. Time was, apparently, when in a town no bells could be rung before the bells of the Cathedral, or mother church, were rung, and, according to an old 'History of Bath,' a case in which this right was disputed arose in that city in 1421: 'The Prior of Bath had claimed the right of ringing the bells belonging to the abbey the first and last in the city; none of the parish churches tolling their bells (except in particular days) before the bells of the convent had struck out in the morning, nor after the Prior's curfew had tolled in the evening. This privilege the Mayor and citizens considered as an interference with their municipal rights, for even in the fifteenth century bells began to serve certain civil as well as ecclesiastical purposes. They, therefore, determined to interrupt the claims of the monastery by ringing the bells of the parish churches at hours hitherto unprecedented, both before and after the prior's bell had been sounded; and accordingly gained over to their cause John Barret, the Vicar of Stalles; John Lane, the Rector of Southgate; William Savage, Rector of St. Michael-without-the-Gate; John Hobbes and William Aishley, chaplains of St. John's and Magdalen Hospitals. This breach of privilege was highly resented by the monastery, and a contest arose in consequence of it that subsisted many years, occasionally turning out into bitter invective and personal insult between the contending parties. At length, an inquisition, held at Frome in the ninth year of the reign of Henry V., put a period to the dispute by acknowledging and establishing the right of the prior that no one should ring within the precincts of Bath at day time before the prior had rung his bells, nor in the night time after his curfew had been tolled.'

WHAT THE CHURCHWARDENS PAID.

In the old days when bell founders set out to do a 'job' the churchwardens often had to pay out something more than the mere cost of the contract. There was often sundry refreshment to be provided, not infrequently plainly described as 'beere' or 'drink.' When the tenor at Lambeth Parish Church was taken down in 1602, one shilling was 'payde to laborers that did help to make them drinke.' Probably they did not want anything to help make the men themselves drink, but this is an ambiguous way of saying that money was paid to help make the drink for the men. The Woking churchwardens paid five shillings 'for beere for the ringers,' when the bells were rung after being recast in 1684. In addition to refreshment, churchwardens had also to find board and lodging for the bell-hangers. One, Udall, rehung these bells at Woking, and they paid 'Goody Davy 11s. 6d. for Udall's diet.' In 1619 the churchwardens at Pulham Market paid 'to mary haylles for Dymont's Dyet when the bells were taken down 11s.,' and 'to mary haylles for John Brend's Dyet when the bells were hanged, and for here and cakes 11js. vijd.' John Brend, presumably, travelled to Pulham on horseback—as most of the travelling in those days was done, if one did not walk—and the wardens 'payd unto Egremvnt for John Brend's horsemet when ye bells were hanged 1js.'

ST. SAVIOUR'S, SOUTHWARK.

Nearly sixty years ago a writer in 'Church Bells' thus described a visit to St. Saviour's, Southwark, then the headquarters of the Ancient Society of College Youths: 'A walk of a few hundred yards from the London Bridge Station takes us to the iron gate of the churchyard, where, at 8 p.m. on alternate Mondays, will be found collected ten or twelve men who, as a body, are the finest ringers in the world. From them we meet with a cordial reception, and presently, after passing through a transept of the church, we follow our guide up one of those small winding stairs which all know so well. We grope our way across the first floor of the tower, hoping sincerely that no careless workman has left a trap-door open; another winding stair brings us to a vast chamber, now dim, but soon brilliantly lighted by a corona of gas. We are at once struck with the spaciousness of the place, and the absence of all crowding among the twelve ropes: the position of the tenor is indicated by an enormous box worthy of the deepest-toned bell of any ring in London. One or two of the larger bells are set at backstroke, and we are invited to "try the 11th." The small bells are rapidly raised one by one, and then three men begin to swing the tenor; she does not speak for a while, but presently her deep note B is heard vibrating through the tower, and gradually increases in power until she comes to a balance. After that she and others are rung in peal by one man. A tenor is often capricious in the matter of "going," and when she weighs upwards of 52 cwt. and "goes hard" it is as well to stick to odd-bell methods. We are therefore first treated to a touch of Stedman Caters and then with about 500 of Stedman's Cinques. Notwithstanding the intricacy of the method and the vast difference between the size of the larger and smaller bells, the striking is quite perfect. We are most astonished at the consummate ease and precision with which the heavy back bells are handled. A short touch of Grand sire Cinques, in which some of the younger members of the society show their skill, brings the practice to a close.'

In the sixty years which have elapsed since the above was written, St. Saviour's Church, Southwark, has become a cathedral, it is no longer the headquarters of the College Youths, and the tenor has had to cede pride of place as the deepest-toned bell of any rung in London. But the Ancient Society still meets at Southwark; its regular practising members are still among the finest ringers in the world, and Stedman Cinques is still a feature of these gatherings. There are old ringers on the active list who will probably remember some of the men who collected on those Monday evenings at the iron gate of the churchyard near London Bridge.

A MANLY EMPLOYMENT.

Two hundred years ago there lived at Totnes, Devon, a youth who, son of the parish clerk, later became Dr. Kennicott, a Canon of Christ Church and Regius Professor of Hebrew at Oxford. He placed on record the following 'articles' to which the Totnes ringers subscribed, and they set a standard both of fidelity to the art and of social promise which, if quaintly expressed, might nevertheless be an object lesson to many companies to-day:—

'Among the many recreations approved of by the sons of pleasure, ringing is a diversion that may be emphatically said to bear away the bell; and so much does it engage the natives of Great Britain, beyond all other nations, that it has borne the distinguishing appellation of "the ringing isle." The art, then, for which this kingdom is renowned shows a judicious taste in those of its inhabitants who have by their performances contributed thereto, since this art wants no foreign encomiast, but the harmonious bells are the heralds of their own praise. The ingenuity required for the diversion administered in, and the health subsequent upon this exercise, give it a particular sanction among mankind and recommend it as an employment at vacant hours worthy the regard of all denominations.

'We, therefore, whose names are subscribed, taking into consideration the great pleasure that results from this manly employment, the innocence with which it is performed, and the advantage enjoyed from so healthy an exercise of our bodies, and also having the peculiar satisfaction of ringing with ease a set of eight bells of established fame and applauded excellence, do hereby agree to meet together in the usual place of ringing every Monday evening at six o'clock for our improving this science; and for the greater certainty of attendance, we do hereby severally promise to forfeit the sum of threepence if not attending at the hour aforesaid, and sixpence if not present at seven o'clock, to be deposited in the hands of the treasurer for the time being, and spent as the major part of the society shall seem fit. And for the better regulation of this our fraternity, we do also hereby agree that we remain in the belfry during pleasure, and then for the further pleasure and benefit of conversation adjourn to any house the company shall choose, and then tarry till the hour of ten, and no longer.

'And whereas the stays supporting the bells are liable to damage from unskilful hands, we agree that whoever hurts shall repair the same at his own proper charge. We make no rules for conversation, nor penalties for any misbehaviour in it, resolving to render it innocently agreeable to each other, and whenever a breach of this rule is committed, that a reprimand be admitted from the society. In all cases and disputes not hereinbefore decided the majority of the company shall determine, that so this society amicably begun may be amicably carried on, and not meet the fate of others that have gone before it.'

RINGING FOR A DERBY WINNER.

Bells have been rung in the past for some strange reasons—it has been said, not without truth sometimes, that any excuse is good enough for the ringers to resort to their art. In the early '70s what was looked upon by some people as a judgment of the gods befel the ringers of All Saints' Church, Newmarket. 'Accidental as it may have been,' said one writer, 'let it be looked upon as a rebuke to the Parson and Churchwardens for allowing such a shameful desecration of the goods of the Church.' A newspaper reported the occurrences thus: 'Very singular accidents occurred in the steeple of All Saints' Church in this town (Newmarket) while the ringers were engaged in ringing peals on Thursday last. It appears that the set had just entered a peal in celebration of the Cottage Flower and Horticultural Exhibition, when the second bell jumped from its hangings and fell heavily upon the beams and floor supporting the frame. Having recovered from their fright, the ringers obtained assistance and replaced the bell and proceeded with their task, which they succeeded in accomplishing, and retired for refreshment. They reassembled in the evening on the occasion of the Cremorne Derby Entertainment ("Cremorne" had just won the Derby), and, while ringing merrily, a second mishap occurred, by the treble suddenly bouncing from its place, and, like its neighbour, the second, fell with a crash upon the already damaged floor; but, fortunately, the massive beams prevented her going down, consequently the ringers below escaped injury, and the bell was uninjured. The damage to the bell fittings and the frame could not be repaired in time to allow of further ringing on that day, and the merry peals which enlivened the town thus abruptly terminated.'

PRIZE RINGING ARRANGED BY PUBLICAN.

A prize-ringing contest at Floore, Northamptonshire, on September 13th, 1874, drew the following scathing comment from the editor of 'Church Bells' a week or two after the event: 'What could have induced the Vicar and Churchwardens of Floore to allow the bells of their Parish Church to disturb their quiet little village by ad— (Continued in next column.)

BIRMINGHAM RINGERS' DAY IN LIVERPOOL.

On Saturday, August 24th, a party of ringers from St. Martin's Parish Church, Birmingham, accompanied by their ladies, paid a visit to Liverpool. Starting from Birmingham in fair weather, it commenced to rain during the journey, and on arrival at the destination they were greeted with a grey sky and a steady downpour, but to compensate for this they received a very cheerful welcome from Messrs. G. R. Newton and C. I. Davies, of the St. Nicholas' company. The Ringing Master, Mr. Albert Walker, had arranged a full programme for the day, and the party immediately proceeded with the first item—to inspect the 20,000 ton Cunard liner, 'Carinthia.' Under the guidance of a steward all the public parts of the vessel were thoroughly inspected. To see the first-class state rooms, containing full-sized beds and with bathrooms attached, also the dining, drawing and smoke rooms, set one wondering if the last stage in comfort and ocean travel accommodation had been reached. The visitors also inspected the swimming bath and gymnasium, the latter being fitted with all the latest equipment for physical exercises. Here the Ringing Master and secretary were permitted to have a cycle race, which, after a keen struggle, was won by the secretary by a 'short wheel.'

The next item on the programme was a visit to the new Cathedral. On approaching this, one is struck by the severely plain exterior, which is accentuated by the local red sandstone used. But when the building is completed and it has its huge central tower, no doubt its grandeur will be better appreciated. On entering the building, one faces the choir, which is dominated by the great east window, below which is a richly gilded stone reredos containing sculptured panels of scenes from our Lord's life. Another noticeable feature is the way the organ case, choir stalls and Bishop's throne all blend with the colour of the stone. Nor can one realise that the Lady Chapel has been used for services for almost 20 years.

An excellent lunch was next partaken of at the Oriol Restaurant, and this was followed by a trip across the river to Wallasey. On returning to the landing stage, the party were in time to see the White Star liner 'Adriatic' leave for New York. Meanwhile the weather had improved, and the sun was shining gloriously. It was now time to visit St. Nicholas' tower, and here the Birmingham ringers were met by a goodly company of local men. With their assistance, touches of Stedman Cinques and Cambridge Royal were successfully accomplished. Tea was served at the White Cafe, and the visitors greatly appreciated the company of the Liverpool ringers, who, Mr. Newton later announced, would have pleasure in defraying the cost of the meal. Mr. Walker, on behalf of the visitors, thanked them for their hospitality and cordial welcome to Liverpool and for their assistance in the tower, and Messrs. Newton and Davies especially for having given up the whole day in order to make their visit a success. This was not the first time a company of ringers from Birmingham had visited Liverpool, for many years ago, when St. Nicholas' bells were put in, Birmingham ringers were awarded a silver cup for being the best company at the opening. But where that cup was now, no one knew. Mr. Walker gave them a cordial invitation to visit Birmingham and ring on St. Martin's new peal.—This was seconded by Mr. T. H. Reeves (hon. secretary), and Mr. Newton, on behalf of the local company, said the pleasure had been theirs, and that anything they had been able to do to make the visit enjoyable had been done willingly. They would like them to come again soon and ring a peal of Stedman Cinques.—Mr. Walker thanked Mr. Newton for the invitation, which he hoped to accept at no very distant date.

mitting to the belfry six sets of strange ringers to pull about the church bells under an arrangement made by the landlord of the village public-house, who appears to have managed this ungodly competition? As usual, the publican seems to have come in for the lion's share arising out of the day's proceedings. We hope there will be no repetition of such useless fooleries. One of the first steps in belfry reform is to sever the link between the belfry and the village taproom. Surely it is the duty of all parsons and churchwardens, by their influence and authority, to effect this, and then they will easily succeed in raising the tone and respectability of their ringers.

AN 'ACCIDENT' THAT NEVER HAPPENED.

'Lead-swingers' have been always with us. The 'Annual Register of October 13th, 1804,' recorded the following: 'A singular accident happened at the new church, Dagenham, Essex. The Society of Cumberland Youths were invited to open the new peal of bells, on which they performed in the morning by ringing 7,008 changes of Oxford Treble Bob in 4 hrs 49 mins., but in the evening Mr. Channon, Master of the Society, wished to oblige the inhabitants of the village with another peal, when unfortunately his leg got entangled in the rope, which drew him up to the next loft, and, falling thence on his head, was killed on the spot, the part of his skull being beat in so that the brains oozed out through the cavities.' A vivid description of the gruesome end of a celebrated ringer of those days—or it would have been had it been accurate. Happily for Mr. Channon, there was not a word of truth in it; and, in fact, the whole paragraph was a fabrication. At that time Dagenham had only six bells, and Mr. Channon read the description of the 'fatal accident' to himself many years after.

AFTERNOON TRIP IN SOMERSET.

On Saturday, August 24th, six ringers from East Brent, South Brent, Axbridge, and one from Port Talbot, Glam., had a tour of about 60 miles, in the course of which they rang at four towers. Crocombe was the first on the list, when five 120's of Grandsire Doubles were rung. Pilton was visited next, where a similar touch was scored. At West Pennard the Vicar and one of the local band gave the visitors a helping hand to 'rise' the bells, and then two 240's were rung. Time would not allow further ringing here, although ringing on this lovely peal was much enjoyed. Shapwick was the last call, and 240 was all that could be rung here. A 15-mile ride brought the party safely home about 10.30 p.m., after a pleasant afternoon in the country. The best thanks of the band are given for the use of the bells and to the ringers who kindly met the visitors.

A TWELVE-BELL OUTING.

The ringers of St. Mary's, Taunton, held their annual outing on Saturday, August 24th, journeying by charabanc via Bath (where Mr. W. A. Cave, Bristol, Miss Williams, Bath, and Mr. W. Crocker, a former member of the band, met the party) to Stroud, where Mr. A. Wright welcomed them. Here the fine peal of ten was set going in Stedman Caters. The next move was to Painswick, where the famous ring of 12 was rung in Stedman Cinques. Lunch followed at the Golden Heart Hotel, after which the party proceeded to Cheltenham, where Mr. W. T. Pates gave a welcome to the party, and the ring of 12 was set going in Stedman Cinques. After tea, the party went on to St. Mary Redcliffe, Bristol, where Mr. H. Pring awaited the visitors, and further Stedman Cinques were rung. The party wish to thank the incumbent of each parish for the use of the bells, also Messrs. A. Wright, W. T. Pates and H. Pring for making arrangements.

FAIRFORD RINGERS' EXCURSION.

The Fairford (Glos) ringers and friends had their annual outing on Saturday, August 24th. Setting off at 7.45 a.m., East Isley, Berks, was reached at 9.15. On this nice light peal of eight, ringing was enjoyed for about an hour. Peasmore was the next stop, where the party were met by Mr. Rosier (head ringer), also by one of the churchwardens, who gave the visitors a warm welcome on behalf of the Vicar, who was away. The bells at Peasmore are a lovely peal of six, and ringing on them was very much enjoyed.

Chieveley was the next call, and before the visitors had been ringing long they were joined by several of the local ringers, who requested them to come again.

Newbury was reached at 1.10, and here they were met by Mr. Curtis, who had kindly arranged a hot luncheon. Afterwards, the fine peal of eight was set going. Some were in the belfry watching the bells swing, while others went to the top of the tower sight-seeing. Hungerford was next on the programme. Here was found a nice peal of eight, but rather noisy. Tea had been kindly arranged here by Mr. Wiggins. Last, but not least, the party visited St. Mark's, Swindon, and, after ringing here on the nice ring of eight, supper, kindly arranged by Mr. W. Smith, was enjoyed by all. Fairford was reached at 11.15, after a very enjoyable day.

CROYDON RINGERS' TRIP.

St. John-the-Baptist company, Croydon, held their annual outing on Saturday, recently, when they journeyed by motor-coach to Seaford. A company of 20 ringers and friends started at 7.30, and a pleasant ride via Turners Hill brought them to Lindfield, the first stop. Here touches of Grandsire and Stedman Triples and Kent Treble Bob and Double Norwich Major were rung at the Parish Church. The journey was then continued to Brighton, where they found St. Peter's bells ready for them. After photographs of the group had been taken, this lovely peal of bells were soon ringing out to the tune of Grandsire Triples and Caters, Stedman Triples and Cambridge Surprise Major. Then a much-needed course of refreshments of various kinds, and a lovely ride along the cliffs, brought the party to Seaford and dinner time. An excellent meal was enjoyed at the Dorothy Cafe, and then a move was made to Seaford tower. On the handy ring of eight bells Grandsire Stedman and Cambridge were rung. After this, the afternoon was free for the ringers to spend as they liked. Some found the pebbles on the beach quite comfortable for an afternoon nap, others preferred deck chairs, and the rest viewed the sights of the town till tea time, when they reassembled and were welcomed to Seaford by Mr. Fisher, the churchwarden, who was a member of the fire brigade at Croydon, when the Parish Church was burnt down some 62 years ago, and who had some interesting tales to tell. The return journey was made via Lewes to Mayfield, where a short ring was indulged in. The visitors met the Horley band, also on their annual outing. The Croydon band went on to Tunbridge Wells, where they rang Grandsire and Stedman Triples and Cambridge Major, then home to Croydon with community singing, and a little refreshment to help them on their way. Croydon was reached at 11.30, and so ended a very enjoyable day. The band take this opportunity of thanking the incumbents for the use of the bells, and the steepkeeper for having everything in readiness.

BARNSELY AND DISTRICT ASSOCIATION.THREE TOWERS TIE IN SHIELD CONTEST.

The annual shield contest of the Barnsley and District Association took place on Saturday at Crofton, by kind permission of Rev. H. Brownrigg (Rector) and the churchwardens. Wath, Sandal, and Shelley rang as drawn, and, strange to relate, each made the same number of faults, viz., 121. The last tower to compete made many more faults, but the three named have to go through the contest again at an early date. Tea was served during an interval in the ringing. In the Parochial Room an entertainment was given by one of the local company, Mr. Cooke, who as a 'strong man' gave many displays of strength, including weight-lifting, bending and breaking bars of iron by hand, balancing a piano on his chest, while two men with a strong rope could not throttle him, etc.

A vote of thanks was heartily accorded to Mrs. Brownrigg, who should have presented the prizes and had attended the proceedings. Rev. H. Brownrigg, Rector, was unremitting in his kindness. He, with the churchwardens and local men, were warmly thanked.

THE 18½ TON RINGING BELL,
the Bourdon of the Carillon of 64 Bells, about to be installed at
RIVERSIDE CHURCH, NEW YORK, U.S.A.

C.U.G.'s PRESIDENT.

The ringing Exercise, like other departments of life, has its great men. Some stand out conspicuously for the wonderful feats which they have performed; others deserve fame for the service they have rendered to the art by promoting its interests in other ways. One who comes within the latter category is the Rev. A. H. F. Boughey, of Trinity College, Cambridge, who has just completed his jubilee as President of the Cambridge University Guild. Mr. Boughey has never sought the limelight, yet no man, probably, has done more than he has in furthering the art among those who, in turn, are afterwards able to exercise a marked influence upon it. For fifty years—he was the first and has remained the only president of the Guild—Mr. Boughey has devoted himself to encouraging a love of ringing among men at the University, and it is entirely due to his energy and perseverance that the Guild has been able to maintain a continuous existence for half a century. His task has often been such as would have dismayed any but the greatest and most patient enthusiast, yet despite all sorts of handicaps Mr. Boughey's zeal has never flagged and he has taught and sent out a large number of ringers, many of whom occupy a prominent place in the Exercise to-day. No one, probably, has done as much as he has towards the solution of the problem of promoting an intelligent interest in bells and bell ringing among the clergy and the educated classes. There have been times when, for years together, there has been no one in the University, except Mr. Boughey himself, capable of more than ringing a single handbell to Plain Bob, yet, for all this long period, he has kept the flame of enthusiasm burning, and it must be a great joy to him to see his pupils from time to time taking the conspicuous and honoured places in the Exercise which they occupy. He has laboured that others may reap; he has toiled selflessly, and to-day the members of the Cambridge University Guild, scattered over the country, are no small force in raising the standard of the art of ringing and in guiding the destinies of the Exercise. Last week many of them gathered to celebrate the jubilee of the Guild and to honour their President, to whom they presented a token of their esteem and gratitude for his lifelong work. One might write many things of Mr. Boughey; of his scholarly attainments, of his kindly and genial nature, of his courageous triumph in the belfry over physical infirmity, of his great ability as a handbell ringer—the third peal that he rang was one of Double Norwich 'in hand,' the first ever accomplished on handbells—but

DUDLEY AND DISTRICT GUILD.

MEETING AT SEDGLEY.

The quarterly meeting of the above Guild was held on Saturday, August 31st, at All Saints' Church, Sedgley, Staffs, but was sparsely attended owing to the inclemency of the weather, which greatly marred the proceedings. The beautiful peal of eight bells were kept merrily going from 3 p.m. until the service, at which the Guild form was used. The Vicar of Sedgley (Rev. Dr. Swindell) conducted the service, and gave an eloquent address. The assistant priest, the Rev. Alcock, also took part in the service. The Vicar extended a cordial welcome to the members of the Guild.

A bountiful tea was served in the schoolroom, and 'full justice' was done to the good things provided, but it is regretted that so few turned up to enjoy them. After tea, the business meeting took place, the chair being occupied by the Vicar, who was supported by his warden, Mr. E. A. Dews. Apologies were received from Mr. E. A. Babb, people's warden, and from Mr. A. Greenfield. Business of a routine character having been disposed of, Mr. S. J. Hughes gave his report upon the business transacted at the Central Council meeting at Chelmsford. He lucidly explained matters dealt with, and asked Mr. E. W. Perrins, who also attended the meeting at Chelmsford, to say a few words. Mr. Perrins very ably dealt with the question of six-bell peals, and at the close of their remarks a hearty vote of thanks was accorded to both these gentlemen.

It was arranged to hold the next quarterly meeting at Netherton, subject to the usual permission being obtained. It was also proposed to attempt the quarterly peal at Sedgley, the arrangements being left in the hands of the Ringing Master (Mr. John Goodman, jun.).

On the proposition of Mr. John Price, it was decided to send a letter of sympathy to the family of the late Mr. G. N. Cockin, of Halesowen.

At the close of the meeting, on the proposition of Mr. S. J. Hughes, seconded by Mr. John Price, and supported by the Vicar's warden, a hearty vote of thanks was accorded to the Vicar of Sedgley for his kindness in granting permission to the Guild to hold the meeting at Sedgley, for conducting the service, and for his eloquent address, also for the use of the tower and bells. Thanks were also given to Mr. Benjamin Fullwood for his untiring efforts in helping to make the meeting a success; to the Rev. Alcock for his share in the service; and to the organist for the musical part of the service.

A special vote of thanks was given to Mrs. Fullwood, who kindly undertook to provide the tea, and to those young ladies who assisted her in preparing and serving the meal. Thanks were also tendered to Mr. Dews, the Vicar's warden, for his presence and support, and to all who assisted in any way to make the meeting a happy and successful one.

The members afterwards returned to the belfry and kept the bells merrily going until nearly nine o'clock.

GORING RINGER'S RECORD.

Goring-on-Thames is to have a peal of eight bells, and the last touch on the old 'six prior to dismantling was rung on Sunday week, when a six-score of Grandsire Doubles was brought round by J. Bower 1, L. Haines 2, W. Aldridge 3, H. Perry 4, G. Wilson 5, E. Barkins 6. An interesting feature about this six-score was that it was called by J. Bower, who conducted the first 120 rung on these bells, over 40 years ago.

It was early in the year 1888, when there were only five bells in the tower, that the Rev. C. Littlewood promised a sixth bell to the ringers as soon as they could accomplish the feat of ringing 120 changes: this they did in March of that year. The ringers on that occasion were J. Holder 1, J. Tarrant 2, W. Aldridge 3, W. Moss 4, J. Bower (conductor) 5. By conducting the last 120 on the ring of six, Mr. Bower can claim a wonderful local record.

The new bells are the gift of the late Mr. H. A. Lacey Smith, and are expected to be ready early in December.

FIRST PEAL ON ECCLES' NEW BELLS.

The bells, which were formerly at St. John's Church, Deansgate, Manchester, have been recast (with the exception of the tenor) and re-erected at St. Mary's Church, Eccles, Lancs. The work was carried out by Messrs. Taylor and Co., Loughborough. The first peal on the bells was rung on Saturday by members of the Lancashire Association representing eight towers, viz., Redditch, West Didsbury, Eccles, Stretford, Ashton-under-Lyne, Worsley, Walkden and Smithills, Bolton. The peal was rung on the eve of the 20th anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. J. Myles, to whom the ringers wish to convey their thanks for the hospitality shown to them after the peal.

PEAL CORRECTION.

The time for the 7,200 changes of Bob Minor rung at Lavenham, Suffolk, on handbells, Saturday, August 31st, was two hours and thirty-seven minutes, not three hours and thirty-seven minutes.

GLIMPSES OF THE PAST.

MORE CLIPPINGS FROM A SCRAP BOOK.

'This is to acquaint the public that on Easter Tuesday next, at New Shoreham, two half-guinea hats will be rung for, a round peal on six bells, to raise and fall. To meet at John Jarman's, at the sign of the Red Lion, at New Shoreham aforesaid.' This quaint announcement of a ringing contest at New Shoreham, Sussex, appeared in the 'Sussex Weekly Advertiser' of March 4th, 1771. It was probably promoted by John Jarman, but what will no doubt strike readers as curious are the prizes—two half-guinea hats. What would have been the use of two hats among six ringers? Perhaps they would pass them round and use them in turn.

Fifty or sixty years ago ringing contests were of frequent occurrence in some parts of the country, and one such took place at Holy Trinity Church, Low Moor, Yorks, and extended over two days. Eight bands of ringers took part, and each had to ring 'half the peal of Holt's Grandsire Triples, or 2,520 changes, and a peal of Kent Treble Bob.' The prizes amounted to £28. One wonders what the umpires got! The Editor of 'Church Bells' entered a strong protest against the competition, in his efforts to further 'belfry reform,' and at the same time he took an almost equally strong line against Sunday peal ringing. He said 'the practice of ringing bells before service is peculiar to the North of England; but it is not the legitimate way for calling people to church; the bells should be chimed, pouring forth their sweetest and most subdued music.'

A ST. MARTIN'S, BIRMINGHAM, RESTORATION.

The recent recasting of the bells of St. Martin's Church, Birmingham, recalls the fact that about sixty years ago there was no ringing upon them for two years. On Christmas Day, 1863, a gudgeon of the eleventh broke, and a week after this accident it was found that the fifth was cracked. The fourth of that time was always considered a poor bell, so that while repairs were being undertaken it was decided to recast the fourth and fifth, and to hang the whole peal in a new frame. Blows and Co. recast the bells, and upwards of 700 cubic feet of oak was put into the two frames, which carried the bells in two tiers. Incidentally, this frame now holds the new peal of twelve. It was two years before the work was completed, and the cost was about £500, raised by public subscription. The Church Council of St. Martin's have been saved the task of raising the cost of the last big undertaking—the new peal of twelve—for, as may be known to many, a 'rope craft' fund has supplied the necessary money. Two or three centuries ago a generous supporter of the bells left a piece of land, the income from which was to go to the provision of bell ropes. With the progress of time, the ancient leases lapsed, and the land, now well within the boundaries of the city and covered with buildings, is bringing in a substantial annual rental which is devoted to church maintenance and restoration purposes—as well as the provision of bell ropes. New bells were required, and the 'rope craft' provided them.

THE COST OF FUNERAL BELLS.

The custom of ringing 'the passing bell' is considered as old as the use of bells themselves in Christian churches. Old records prove that from four hundred to five hundred years ago the relatives, if they could afford it, could choose the number of bells that were to be rung for the occasion. That a death knell was not limited to the tolling of one bell seems to be proved by an order of 'leet' at Coventry in 1498, by which it was ordained that 'all man p'sones thatt hereafter will have the bells to ryng after ye decease of any their friends, they shall pay for a bell rynging w't all ye belles ijs (2s.); xxd. (1s. 8d.) yt of to ye churchward, and iiij (4d.) to ye clerks. And yf he well have but iiij belles xvjd (1s. 6d.); xiid. (1s.) to ye Church and iiij to ye clerks. And as for iij belles, eny p'son y't well have theym to paye but iiij to the clerks.'

In the parish of Wolchurch in 1526, the churchwardens set out the scale of fees thus:—

Fyrste, for the leste belle to ryng the space of one ower, for man or woman, or chyld, 4d.

Item, the seconde bell to ryng one ower, 6d.

Item, thyrd bell to ryng on ower, 8d.

Item, whate persone wyl have the thyrd to ring 6 owres before none, or after none, with the three smallyste belles to ryng at dyryge and masse, to pay 3s. 4d.

Item, whate persone wyl have the fourthe bell to ryng 6 owres before none, or after none, with the four smallest belles at dyryge and masse, to pay 5s. 0d.

Item, whate persone wyl have the 5th belle, whyche is the greatest belle, to ryng 6 owres before none, or after none, with alle the belles to ryng at dyryge and masse, shall pay 6s. 8d., and the sextone to have for the same greate belle, fyndyng all the ringers, 6s. 8d.

Item, the sextone to fynde the roope for the same, and also the bawdrycks for the same belle at hys owne coste and charge.

Also hys is agreed the same tyme the clerke have all the vantage of the 4 bells and he to fynde both bawdrycks and ropes for the 4 seyde belles.

Item, the clerke to have all the vantage to hymselfe of ryngyng of the belles for yerely obytes, and yerely myndes.

Item, the clerke to have for tollynge of the passyng belle for manne, womanne, or childe, if it be in the day, 4d.
Item, if it be in the night, for the same, 8d.

'GENTLEMEN OF EDUCATION.'

'On Tuesday, March 14th, 1871, six members of the University of Oxford paid a visit to the neighbouring village of Islip, and succeeded in ringing on the pretty peal of six several peals of Six-score Grandsire Doubles: Rev. E. P. Barrow (Oriell), treble; J. S. Leadam, Esq. (Univ.), 2nd; R. Troyte, Esq. (Trinity), 3rd; H. C. Sturges, Esq. (Univ.), 4th; J. E. Troyte, Esq. (Christ Church), 5th; W. B. Ingham, Esq. (Univ.), tenor. Conducted by John E. Troyte, Esq., College Youth.'

In these days such a performance would hardly be noticed. But in 1871 it was a significant sign of the times, and 'Church Bells,' in giving prominence to it, added the comment, 'Probably these are the first peals on record rung entirely by gentlemen of education. The bells were fairly struck, without any break down; three of the ringers had only been learning since last November. What an encouragement to others to follow their example! Besides being able to sing, we think every young clergyman should be able to ring, and then he will be able to take his proper place in the belfry.'

'ALL "SNAPPERS."'

In the year 1793 there was a very capable six-bell company at Bingley, Yorks, and on the occasion of a local bigwig, William Busfield, Esq., attaining his majority, they 'rang seven whole peals of 720 changes each, in all 5,040 changes, on the most difficult of known methods, all "Snappers," namely, Chester, London, Carlisle, Chelsea, Lincoln, Lichfield, Wells. This will be acknowledged to be a most remarkable and uncommon feat, all the performers being members of the Bingley Company.' This company continued to maintain a high standard, and two of them, Isaac Rhodes and Ezekiah Briggs, took part 33 years later in thirty-six twelve scores, in all 8,640 changes, in 36 methods. Rhodes and Briggs shared the conducting in this peal. The methods were all Treble Bob or Surprise methods. 'The above is the greatest number of peals on record rung by one company, all living in the same town, and was acknowledged to be a masterpiece by the best authorities of the time. The performance, as far as is known, is without a parallel in the history of change ringing.'

FIRST COMBINED UNIVERSITY PEAL.

'On Saturday, March 10th, 1877, seven members of the Oxford University Society of Change Ringers, assisted by Mr. C. A. W. Troyte, of Trinity Hall, Cambridge, and Huntsham Court, Devon, rang at the Parish Church at Appleton, Berks, Holt's six-part peal of Grandsire Triples, comprising 5,040 changes. It was brought round in 2 hrs. 58 mins. by the following: J. R. Keble (Keble) treble, F. A. Milne (Keble) 2, C. D. P. Davies (Pembroke) 3, H. W. Ellicott (Brasenose) 4, G. H. Phillott (Christ Church) 5, Rev. F. E. Robinson (Exeter) 6, C. A. W. Troyte (Trin. Hall, Camb.) 7, W. C. H. Burne (Keble) tenor. Conducted by the Rev. F. E. Robinson. This is the first peal ever rung by members of the two Universities without the assistance of any other persons.'

PROGRESS OF IPSWICH COMPANY.

'On January 17th, 1878, ten members of the Ipswich Society, also of the Norwich Association, rang 1,061 changes of Grandsire Caters in 50 mins., by the following persons: D. Prentice 1, T. Saddler 2, T. Alexander 3, W. Meadows 4, R. Hawes 5, H. Bowel 6, H. Taylor 7, W. Kemp 8, E. Reve 9, J. Miller 10. Conducted by D. Prentice. It will be seen by ringers that the above is no great skilful performance,' said a report, 'but it is recorded merely to show the progress made since the formation of the company about twelve months ago, at which time they were scarcely able to ring a course of Grandsire Triples, but through the kindness and perseverance of the old members several young hands have been raised that are now able to quit themselves creditably in various methods, so that, at last, it seems probable that this fine ring of twelve bells will have attached to them a good band of ringers, which they so richly deserve. The 2nd, 3rd, 7th and 8th were young hands, who had never rung a thousand in the above method before, and besides these the company has several more young hands who are rapidly advancing.'

LONGEVITY AMONG RINGERS.

Writing fifty years ago in support of the contention that bell-ringing was a healthy exercise and conducive to longevity, Dr. George Gregory, of Great Lever, Bolton, recalled the Painswick peal of 12,312 Grandsire Caters, rung in 1817. 'Records of long peals rung at Painswick' (he wrote, quoting from 'Leisure Hour') 'date back to 1755, when change ringing was in its infancy. The Painswick men who rang these later peals may therefore be said to have been born ringers. Their fathers before them were mostly ringers, and they themselves devoted much of their leisure to practising this art. It has been shown that Barham's comrades could muster in such an advanced stage of life that eight of them who were able to ring averaged 72 years, and, in the same manner, the ages of the Painswick men who rang in the peal just described may be cited in favour of the beneficial effects of ringing. The only survivor of this band (1878) is Giles Mansfield, who now, at the age

SWANSEA AND BRECON GUILD.

A meeting was held at Aberavon, Glam., on Saturday, when members attended from Cadoston, Baglan, Morriston, Gorseinon, and the local band, and, in addition, welcome visitors were present from Pentre and Llanbradach. The eight bells were raised in peal about 3.30 p.m., and kept going until 4.30, when a short service was held, conducted by the curate-in-charge (Rev. A. T. Lewis), who gave the members of the Guild a welcome to the church. Tea followed in the schoolroom, kindly provided by the church members, and, needless to say, was enjoyed by all.

At the business meeting, with the Rev. A. T. Lewis in the chair, mention was made of the death of the Vicar of Aberavon, who was an hon. member of the Guild, and the members stood a few moments in silence as a mark of respect.

Gorseinon was chosen for the place of next meeting, and the Chairman said he was sure all present would join him in wishing the local captain and his wife, who were married on the previous Sunday, health and happiness in the future.—The local captain thanked them all for their kind wishes.

Votes of thanks were accorded to the chairman for all he had done to make the meeting a success, to the donors of the meat tea, and to the ladies for looking after the wants of the company.—The Chairman replied, and said it was a pleasure to have the Guild there. He hoped they would come again.

The methods rung during the day were Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Bob Major and Kent Treble Bob Major.

of 85, is alive and hearty; the other nine men died at the respective ages of 89, 87, 78, 80, 84, 50, 71, 70 and 85 years. These numbers, with the age of Mansfield, make an average of nearly 78 years for each man; and if the age of the ringer who died at 50 be excepted, the average age of the remaining nine will be 82 years. As a warning to bachelors, it may be mentioned that the ringer who died at 50 was the only unmarried man amongst the band! These examples will show that ringing may be classed as one of the most beneficial of exercises, and may fitly be concluded by adding that the oldest ringer in England is Jonathan Pavier, who was born at South Hincsey, near Oxford, on May 30th, 1778. He rang his first 5,000 in 1807, and in 1815 rang in a peal of 10,080 of Grandsire Caters at New College, Oxford. Although he has now been blind for many years, he is otherwise in full possession of his faculties. The Cumberland Youths, of which Pavier was a member for nearly 70 years, rang a peal to celebrate his one hundredth birthday in the year 1878.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

All the arrangements are now satisfactorily completed for the Yorkshire Association's commemoration dinner at Sheffield on September 21st, and it is hoped that a large number of ringers will give this gathering their loyal support. Those who have not already applied for tickets should do so at once.

A ringing tour in Dorset has been in progress this week. A quarterly meeting of the Leicester District, M.C.A., was held at Billesdon on Saturday. After tea, several members went to ring on the eight bells at King's Norton (Leicestershire, not Worcestershire). A novel way of travelling was devised, viz., placing three forms in a lorry, and one of the party took his bicycle for a ride.

The first 720 of London Surprise Minor on the bells of Horsmonden Church was rung on the first of this month. Mr. F. J. Lambert, sen., who rang the 2nd, conducted the first 720 of Minor on these bells 41 years ago.

The peal of Stedman Triples rung at Stansted, Essex, on August 7th, should be credited to the Essex Association.

The claim to the first peal of Bob Major on the bells at Moreton-hampstead, Devon, made in a footnote to a peal rung there on August 31st, is withdrawn, as a peal in this method was rung on the bells on August 6th, 1924, under the auspices of the Society for the Archdeaconry of Stafford.

William Shipway composed and conducted the first peal of Imperial Place Major ever rung. This was at St. Mary's, Islington, on September 13th, 1902. On the peal board recording this peal—we do not know if it is still in existence—Shipway was described as 'Author of the System of Ringing.'

The first peal of Superlative Surprise in Wales was rung at Llan-gollen on September 13th, 1907, conducted by Bertram Prewett, whose great ringing career was cut short by his death in action in France only ten weeks before the Armistice.

Charles Middleton, of Norwich, the composer of the one and only peal of Cambridge Surprise Major with tenors together, died on September 14th, 1886.

The first peal by the Society of St. Martin's Youths, of which St. Martin's Guild for the Diocese of Birmingham is the lineal descendant, was rung at St. Philip's (now the Cathedral), Birmingham, on September 18th, 1755. It was a peal of Bob Major.

A London Surprise Major record was set up at Drayton, Berks, on September 17th, 1896, when members of the Oxford Diocesan Guild rang a peal of 11,328 in 6 hrs. 6 mins. The Rev. F. E. Robinson was at that time Vicar of Drayton and Master of the Guild, and was one of the ringers. 'Jim' Washbrook was the conductor.

With two men on the 9th and three on the tenor, the first peal on the then new ring of bells at Grantham was rung on September 19th, 1775, conducted by W. D. Crofts. They had not heard about ball bearings for bells in those days.

FAST PEALS.

Our inquiry as to eight-bell peals rung in 2 hrs. 20 mins. or less—raised as the result of the Crayford peal of Stedman Triples rung in 2 hrs. 14 mins.—has brought us a list of four, all rung at the Loughborough Bell Foundry, where the tenor is 6½ cwt. The quickest eight-bell peal rung there was on February 16th this year, and occupied 2 hrs. 16 mins., which, like the Crayford peal, was over 37 changes per minute.

5,040 Stedman Triples, February 16th, 1929, conducted by R. F. Elkington, 2 hrs. 16 mins.

5,040 Stedman Triples, February 14th, 1927, conducted by W. P. Whitehead, 2 hrs. 19 mins.

5,040 Grandsire Triples, April 19th, 1924, conducted by Ernest Morris, 2 hrs. 19 mins.

5,152 Superlative Surprise Major, December 2nd, 1922, conducted by H. J. Poole, 2 hrs. 20 mins.

In addition to the above, a peal of Minor on the front six was rung in 1 hr. 54 mins. To this peal, Mr. James George rang the tenor (2 cwt. 33 lb.). This, we believe, is the quickest peal ever rung on tower bells.

Another fast performance was the 13,440 Bob Major on the same bells on April 8th, 1922, called by Ernest Morris. This was rung in 6 hrs. 48 mins. The same length, rung on handbells at Pudsey, took 7 hrs. 7 mins.

RINGERS CELEBRATE GOLDEN WEDDINGS.

On September 2nd, at St. Mary's Church, Broughton, Astley, Leicestershire, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Doubles (1,260 changes) in 49 mins. by: John Brunt 1, Cecil E. Carr 2, Frank S. Bodycote 3, Charles H. Webb (Croft) 4, Henry Bird (conductor) 5. Rung as a compliment to the ringer of the treble and to Mr. Tom Brunt, his brother, on their golden wedding day; also to Mr. C. H. Webb on his silver wedding. Mr. John Brunt has been parish clerk at the church for 30 years. He is captain of the local band, and has actually been a ringer at the church for 57 years. Mr. Tom Brunt was for many years a member of the local band, and regardless of his 78 years came into the belfry after the quarter-peal and rang a few rounds.

[CONTRIBUTED.]

The support which the Rev. C. D. P. Davies gave in his letter in the last issue of 'The Ringing World' to the suggestions put forward by the writer for bringing the Exercise and the Central Council into closer touch, is very gratifying. As Honorary Secretary of the Council for something like 20 years, the Rev. C. D. P. Davies has, perhaps, a more intimate knowledge than anyone else of its working and, if one may say so, of its shortcomings. His comments—they can hardly be called criticisms—are welcomed, as would be any other reasoned opinions upon the suggestions put forward, advanced as they were solely in the hope of promoting the welfare of the art of ringing by strengthening the ties between the Council and the affiliated associations.

* * * *

Mr. Davies says that he has never yet been able to discover the 'ground of disagreement' between the Gloucester and Bristol Association and the Council, the ground alleged hitherto being, in his opinion, 'ridiculously inadequate.' That is probably the view of many other people, but the fact remains that upon some ground or other the Gloucester and Bristol Association has withdrawn its membership, and the Council ought not merely to leave the matter as it stands. The opinion of the writer, for what it is worth, is that the Council is entitled, under the circumstances, to ask for and receive the definite reasons for the association's withdrawal—at present, it would appear, the Council has no official cognizance of the secession except the non-payment of the affiliation fees. A good deal has been said about it, it is true, in the columns of 'The Ringing World,' but the real issue between the association and the Council is by no means clear to anyone outside the association. For that reason the Council ought to go further into the question, so that it may learn exactly the grounds of complaint and, if they are reasonable, do its best to remove them.

* * * *

One remark made in the first article was apparently a little ambiguous. It was suggested that 'another step in making the Council the real head of the Exercise, in practice as well as in name, would be to make it a sine qua non of membership that the Council's rulings should be recognised.' Mr. Davies asks: 'Membership, of what? Of the Council or of the association?' Membership of the Council by an association was intended. Membership of an association by an individual already implies acceptance of the rules of the association. Membership of the Council by an association ought similarly to imply acceptance of the Council's rules. But it does not always do so. No good purpose would be served by drawing attention to specific instances which have occurred in the past of the ignoring of the rulings and decisions of the Council—but they have not always been accepted, everywhere. It is true that it is only logical that membership of the Council should be accepted as commanding loyalty to its decisions, but ringers are not always noted for their logic. The position of the Council would ultimately, therefore, be strengthened if every affiliated Association and Guild were called upon to incorporate in its rules one which provided that the decisions of the Council should be accepted and recognised. Some associations have already got such a rule,

CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY GUILD.

JUBILEE CELEBRATIONS.

PRESENTATION TO REV. A. H. F. BOUGHEY.

This year Cambridge University Guild has reached its jubilee and last week, on the occasion of their annual reunion, the event was celebrated by many of the members.

Known originally as 'The Clare Society of Ringers,' the Guild was founded on February 4th, 1879, by the Rev. W. C. Pearson and others of Clare College. Men from other Colleges joined, and in May of the same year the Rev. A. H. F. Boughey became President. This office he has held ever since, and for many years past his rooms in Great Court, Trinity, have been the headquarters of the Guild.

REV. A. H. F. BOUGHEY, President for fifty years.

Mr. Boughey's enthusiasm has resulted in a large number of Cambridge men leaving the University with a knowledge of the art of ringing which has been turned to good purpose, and many well-known members of the Exercise owe their interest in ringing to the inspiration of the President of the University Guild.

The 19th annual reunion of members, held this year in Cambridge, brought together an especially good attendance to celebrate the jubilee of the foundation of the Guild on February 4th, 1879. The following were present for the whole or some part of the week: The Rev. A. H. F. Boughey, president, Canon W. W. C. Baker, the Revs. R. Copeman, M. C. Potter, H. L. James, E. B. James, Canon G. H. Ridout, Canon H. J. Elsee, the Revs. G. W. O. Jenkyn, H. S. T. Richardson, R. H. Whitford, B. H. Tyrwhitt Drake, C. A. Clements, B. F. Sheppard, H. G. Benson, E. G. Benson, Messrs. J. T. Rickman, E. M. Atkins, R. O. Street, J. H. R. Freeborn, J. Butler, W. H. J. Hooton, M. C. G. Hooton, J. R. Duffield, F. E. Haynes.

During the week about twenty towers were visited within a radius of thirty miles from Cambridge. Four peals were attempted, of which three were successfully brought round. Members were pleased to have the opportunity of ringing on the reconstituted twelve at Saffron Walden, the fine ring of eight at St. Neots, and the well-known ten at St. James', Bury St. Edmunds. The 'go' of the Soham ten was much appreciated; they have recently been restored by a Soham firm.

To commemorate the 50th anniversary of the foundation, the president entertained the Guild at dinner on Wednesday, September 4th, in Trinity. The dinner had been planned for February 4th, the actual day of the foundation, but all celebrations were postponed owing to the sudden and greatly lamented death of the Rev. H. B. Woolley, of Long Stanton. The postponement, however, gave the Guild an opportunity of congratulating Mr. Boughey on the completion of fifty years as president.

After the dinner, at which 26 members were present, Mr. Boughey in a few words proposed the health of 'The King.'

Canon Baker proposed 'The Guild,' coupled with the name of Mr. Boughey, who had done such wonderful work for the Guild during his long presidency.

Later, Canon Elsee also spoke of the work of the Guild and the value of the annual 'Ringing Week.' He went on to speak of the president and Mrs. Boughey, expressing a desire that the best wishes of the Guild should be conveyed to her.

Mr. Haynes, the Master, spoke in appreciation of the social side of the Guild's life in Cambridge. He read a letter from the Rt. Rev. B. C. Roberts, Bishop of Singapore, who lamented his inability to be present, and sent his best wishes for the continued success of the Guild.

On behalf of the Guild, the Master then presented Mr. Boughey with a large silver rose bowl, inscribed, 'A. H. F. Boughey, President, C.U.G.C.R., 1879-1929.'

In reply, the President thanked the Guild for its unexpected gift, and expressed his pleasure at entertaining so many of the Guild's members.

St. Andrew's Church, Soham, Cambs, where the Cambridge University Guild rang one of their peals during their 'Jubilee' week.

Prior to 1788 this tower had six bells, but in the year mentioned these were replaced by a ring of eight, cast by Thomas Osborn, of Downham. In 1808, John Briant, of Hertford, recast the two smallest bells and added two trebles.

The Soham Youths thrived as a ringing society for many years. Among them were several members of the Tebbitt family, who took part in a number of peals, and in 1809 rang a 'family' peal in which three fathers and five sons took part, viz., Thomas Tebbitt and his sons John, Thomas and William, Robert Tebbitt and his son Robert, Edward Tebbitt, and Benjamin Tebbitt, who at that time was only 15 years of age. Whose son he was, the record does not say. At the time the new trebles were put in, Robert Tebbitt was one of the churchwardens, and his name appears on the bells. William Tebbitt, John Tebbitt, Robert Tebbitt and Thomas Tebbitt, jun., were still peal ringing in the year 1830, when with other Soham Youths they took part in a peal of Grand-sire Tittum Caters.

A SUNDAY RINGING TOUR.

The bellringers from St. Mary's Parish Church, Market Drayton, accompanied by friends from Wellington, Stanton, and Kenstone, had a very enjoyable outing, organised by Mr. W. Weatherby, on Sunday, August 25th. Leaving Drayton about 8 a.m., they travelled by charabanc, via Stafford, Lichfield, and Rugeley to Burton, where the beautiful church of St. Paul was inspected, the interior being greatly admired. They rang for morning service on the very fine peal of 10 bells with tenor of 28½ cwt. The bells were greatly admired by the whole party. Leaving Burton at 11.15, the party proceeded, via Ashby-de-la-Zouch to Loughborough, where an excellent lunch was partaken of. Afterwards the famous bell foundry of Messrs. John Taylor and Co. was visited. The party were welcomed by Messrs. C. Harrison and J. P. Fidler, who took charge of and conducted them round the extensive works and explained the many intricacies and processes entailed in the casting and hanging of a modern peal of bells. Among the numerous peals of bells to be seen in the course of completion, special interest was taken in a carillon of 21 bells, which are destined for America, and which were fitted with an automatic keyboard, which the pianist of the visiting party was very loth to leave. A ring, tried on the light peal of ten erected in the foundry, caused a few anxious moments to some of the members owing to the lightness of the bells. The party proceeded to the little church at Stanford-on-Soar, where they rang on a nice peal of eight, after which Shepshed was visited and further ringing done. From here they went back to Loughborough and rang for evening service on the magnificent peal of ten at the Parish Church. After tea, all proceeded to Queen's Park to hear a carillon recital given by Mr. W. E. Jordan (borough carillonneur) on the magnificent carillon erected in the War Memorial tower. At 9.30 p.m. the party left for home, via Derby and Uttoxeter, and reached Drayton about 12.30 a.m., after having spent a highly-enjoyable and instructive time. The thanks of the party are due to members of the firm of Messrs. Taylor and Co. for kindly giving their services in conducting the visitors.

A STAFFORDSHIRE OUTING.

On Saturday, August 31st, the Kingsley and Cheadle (Staffs) ringers visited Rugeley and Mavesyn Ridware. At each of these two places there is a very good going ring of six bells. Arriving at Rugeley, the party met with a very hearty welcome from the local men, who were delighted to see the visitors. During the latter part of the ringing here the pilot (Mr. H. Carnwell) was busy 'fishing out' a suitable place wherein they might refresh the inner man. His quest resulted in a capital tea being partaken of at the Co-operative Cafe, after which the ringers went on to Mavesyn Ridware. The tower at this church holds a beautiful ring of six, recently rehung by Messrs. J. Taylor and Co., and 720 each of London and Cambridge Surprise was rung. A tour of this 11th century church was then made under the conductorship of one of the local ringers, and was very much enjoyed. About 7.30 p.m. a start was made for home by way of Abbots Bromley, where a halt was made to 'cool the engine,' but when loading-up time came several of the 'young bloods' were missing (and, it is said, they were also missing). The delay created some anxiety, as one of the party had to make a connection at the other end of the ride. However, the delinquents turned up eventually, so 'all's well that ends well.' The thanks of the party are due to Mr. H. Carnwell and Mr. A. W. Hall for so ably attending to all the necessary arrangements.

FRESH SPLICING ?

On Sunday, July 14th, St. John-the-Baptist, Leytonstone, company rang 720 Cuneacastle and Carlisle Surprise Minor spliced: G. L. Joyce (conductor) 1, P. H. Avey 2, W. Theobald 3, A. Prior 4, W. Miller 5, E. D. Smith 6. The same was again rung on July 29th, with E. J. Butler and G. Dawson standing in. On Sunday, August 25th, 720 Bourne and Netherseale spliced: G. L. Joyce, W. Theobald, A. Prior, G. Dawson, W. Miller, E. D. Smith (conductor). This is believed to be the first time these methods have been rung spliced.

NEW BELLS AT PENN, STAFFS.

The dedication of new bells at St. Bartholomew's Church, Penn, near Wolverhampton, took place on Sunday, August 25th, by the Lord Bishop of Stafford.

In the early part of this year it was found necessary to call in the bell hanger, and upon the report of his inspection being received the church authorities decided to make a clean sweep of the existing bells and frame, and were confronted with a task of raising a sum of about £500. This was tackled in grim earnest, with the object of getting the scheme completed by St. Bartholomew's Day, August 24th, and the bells dedicated free from debt. This happy result was achieved, to the great credit of all concerned. Everybody worked hard, and if special mention may be made it is of Mr. Churchwarden Alan H. Twentyman and Mrs. Twentyman, with Miss Twentyman as a strong supporter; also of the Rev. W. I. Crump, assistant curate, who produced each week some novel posters which were exhibited in the village. The bellringers also did their part. Besides distributing upwards of 300 collecting boxes (which, by the way, realised over £80), themselves promised the sum of £20. The total sum obtained exceeds £600, the surplus cash going towards 'extras,' i.e., encasing the steel girders in concrete, copper-plating small parts of the fittings, etc.

The dedication ceremony took place at the morning service before a full congregation. A special form of service was used, during which the bells were chimed for a short period. After the service they were raised in peal, and several touches of Grandsire Triples were rung by the local band, and the bells were also 'fired' several times.

Messrs. Gillett and Johnston, who were responsible for the work, are to be congratulated, both on the tone of the bells they have produced and the speedy way in which the scheme was completed, especially as difficult obstacles were encountered.

The basis of the old peal was four bells cast by William Bagley in 1696. In 1858, a treble and tenor were put in by Warner and Sons, and as a diamond jubilee memorial, Barwell's added two trebles in 1897. The new tenor is 10 cwt. 12 lb. in A, with a diameter of 37½ inches, and the total weight of the bells is 45 cwt. 3 qr. 21 lb. The old inscriptions have been reproduced, with certain additions, as follow:—

Treble.—Victoria Regina Vocor. Jacobus Barwell de Birmingham Exceudit Me. Dedicatus Sum in Honorem Dei in Sexagesimo Anno Regni Victoriae Reginae et Imperatrix, A.D. MDCCCXCVII. Recast 1929.

but the majority have not, although, of course, the fact that they have not does not necessarily make them, as an organisation, any the less loyal in intention to the Council. But the fact that the rule appears in the constitution of an association would bring it home to the members of that association that they are expected to honour the rulings of the Council as loyally as they respect the rules of their own society. The least significant village cricket club would not for a moment think of setting up its own standard of recognition of the laws of the game. Why then should individual ringers or companies not be animated with the same spirit, and wholeheartedly accept the 'laws' which the Council lays down? The ringers have the right to send whom they choose to represent them, and, being thus represented, the policy of the Council on any question—the laws of the game' or anything else—is what the ringers like to make it. It is possible that this spirit is not yet fully developed in the Exercise, and that among certain classes of ringers it needs encouraging. If so, this is one of the first matters to which the Council should turn its attention.

DEDICATION OF PEAL BOARDS AT TROWBRIDGE.

An interesting ceremony took place in the belfry of St. James' Church, Trowbridge, on Monday, August 26th, when the new Rector (the Rev. S. J. Nisbett-Wallace) attended to dedicate three peal boards. One of these boards contained the records of two peals—one of Grandsire Caters, rung on July 7th, National Thanksgiving Day, to celebrate the safe recovery of H.M. the King, and the other, rung on March 9th, in honour of the 81st birthday of Mrs. James Lansdown, of Trowbridge.

There was quite a gathering in the tower for the unveiling, several members of the Lansdown family being present (as a mark of appreciation of the kindness of the ringers to Mrs. Lansdown), together with the church officials, the local ringers and ringers from Devizes and Melksham, who took part in the national thanksgiving peal.

Mr. Sam Hector was at the belfry door with the Rector, and introduced the visitors as they arrived. Mr. Hector apologised for the absence of the tower captain, Mr. C. F. Andrews.

After opening prayers had been said by the Rector, Mr. Hector explained the objects of their presence that evening. Mrs. Lansdown's family had always done much for the bells and the ringers in Trowbridge, he said, and he asked Mr. P. M. Snailum to unveil the board recording the peal rung in honour of Mrs. Lansdown's birthday.

Mr. Philip M. Snailum said it was a great honour to him, as the eldest of Mrs. Lansdown's grandchildren, to have been invited to unveil the peal board. He spoke of the great pleasure it gave Mrs. Lansdown to hear the sweet music of St. James' bells on her birthday, and he wished to convey to them all her gratitude for the exceptional and high honour that had been done her.

Mr. Hector then asked the Rector to unveil the portion of the board recording the thanksgiving peal for the King's recovery. The Rector said he would like to congratulate the ringers upon the peal which they had rung, and he was very glad to see that the Lord Lieutenant of the county had sent them a letter of thanks and congratulations. They all rejoiced at the recovery of His Majesty the King.

At the Rector's request, the General Thanksgiving was said, and he then dedicated the tablets.

Two more tablets were afterwards dedicated, one recording the first peal of Kent Treble Bob Royal rung for the Salisbury Guild in the county in 1925, and a peal rung by the Ancient Society of College Youths in 1923.

At the conclusion of the ceremony a course of Grandsire Caters was rung, much to the interest of those who had never before visited the tower.

A HALF-PEAL AND A BROKEN ROPE.

At All Saints' Church, Gresford, Denbighshire, on Wednesday, August 14th, a half-peal of Stedman Triples (Heywood's) (2,604 changes) in 1 hr. 32 mins.: T. Butler, sen., 1, R. Sperring 2, G. R. Jones 3, P. Swindley 4, E. V. Rodenhurst 5, J. C. E. Simpson 6, T. R. Butler (conductor) 7, A. Tilston 8. A peal was being attempted, but the bells were allowed to 'run home' after the half-way single owing to the fraying of the 5th rope, which broke immediately after rounds was reached.

On the previous Saturday, the same band was stopped at Chester after ringing a quarter of the peal on account of illness near the church.

THE CENTRAL COUNCIL'S CONSTITUTION

The next meeting of the Central Council is some distance off, but it would be well if associations would, before electing or re-electing their representatives, as they have now to do—the last Council having completed its triennial period—give careful consideration to the proposals which have been made by a contributor to our columns on the subject of the reorganisation of the Council. There is no better time than the present for an overhaul of the position, and with the election of members of the Council is presented the best possible opportunity of putting forward any views for improving the relationship between the Council and the affiliated bodies. At present the ties between the two are of a loose description and, as far as the associations are officially concerned, all that they are entitled to do is to elect their quota of members and pay the corresponding fees. That condition of affairs, established when the Council was first formed and in no position to take upon itself any authority, may still satisfy some, but there are others, the Gloucester and Bristol Association among them, who consider that the associations should be given a definite status in the constitution of the Council. At present the rules lay down that the Council shall consist (1) of representative members from all recognised Societies, Associations, and Guilds of Church Bell Ringers numbering not less than seventy-five members, etc. In these things a good deal depends upon the words that are used, and it might be possible and desirable so to revise this rule of the constitution that the definite status that is asked for could be provided for.

This discussion is outside the Council, therefore it provides an opportunity for the representatives of the Gloucester and Bristol Association to draft when they think are proper amendments to the rules and put them forward—so that other organisations may consider them. The important necessity seems to us to be to make the affiliation of the societies the basis of the constitution, with, as a natural corollary, a provision that each affiliated association or guild shall, as far as lies in its power, recognise and observe the rulings and decisions of the Council; also that the societies shall have direct access to the Council and the right to submit motions for consideration, instead of as at present, having to get them placed on the agenda in the names of individual members. Naturally any association which put forward a proposal for the consideration of the Council would be responsible for providing a proposer and seconder, and, it seems to us, a motion thus submitted must carry more weight than one which merely stands in the name of a member. But whatever steps are necessary to test the feeling of the new Council as to a revision of the constitution, they should be taken early so that associations may have as long a time as possible in which to consider them. The Gloucester and Bristol Association would do a service to the Exercise if it would formulate its alternative proposals in definite terms and not leave to others the difficult task of finding a formula to which they would be prepared to agree as a preliminary to rejoining the Council.

A RING OF TWELVE BELLS FOR BERKSHIRE.

£170 WANTED.

Two well-known Berkshire ringers are intent on raising the £170 necessary for providing two new bells for St. Laurence's Church, Reading, to increase them to a peal of twelve, and so great is their faith that, as already mentioned in these columns, the order has been placed, so that the work may be done while the restoration of the other ten is in hand. The following appeal for funds has been sent out:—

About two years ago the authorities of St. Laurence's Church in Reading were made aware that their historic ring of ten bells was in need of rehanging.

As soon as they could see their way to take the matter in hand a fund was opened and estimates were obtained for carrying out the necessary work.

Messrs. Mears and Stainbank obtained the contract to take down and tune the ten bells—recasting the treble—and to rehang them with new fittings in a new cast-iron and steel frame.

Parishioners and others specially interested in the church responded promptly to the appeal for funds, so that in three months £325 out of the £600 required has been contributed.

When the scheme was well launched it was represented to the authorities by Mr. R. T. Hibbert, who besides being secretary for the Diocesan Guild of Church Bellringers is also foreman of St. Laurence's tower, that it was a unique opportunity for securing a ring of twelve bells for Reading and the archdeaconry and county of Berkshire—such being already possessed by Oxfordshire and Buckinghamshire—and that it was possible to hang the ten with two additional trebles on one level, that he had it on the best authority that the result would rank among the best of the light rings of twelve in the country, and that if the authorities would entertain the idea he, in conjunction with the Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn, the Master of the Guild, would undertake the raise the additional amount required.

This representation was received with much favour.

Will you, then, help us two Berkshire men to raise £170 in order that this archdeaconry and county may possess a ring of twelve bells?

Subscriptions may be sent to Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn, Broadlands, Grosvenor Road, Caversham, Reading; or to Mr. R. T. Hibbert, 69, York Road, Reading.

HOW IT CAME ABOUT.

To the Editor.

Sir.—The rehanging, tuning and augmentation of the good old peal at St. Laurence's Church, Reading, has been mentioned in the columns of 'The Ringing World' several times recently, and my name has been mentioned as having something to do with the job, hence these few words of explanation and appeal. When it was decided to tune and rehang the old ten and add metal to the treble, all ringers who knew the bells realised that they would be, when finished, a very fine ring. A few of us older ringers also realised that here and now was the only chance to get a peal of twelve in Berkshire, and by so doing a peal of twelve in each of the archdeaconries of the diocese. Well, I will admit 'faults and follies' by owning up that I did agitate certain people in authority and drove home these facts on all possible occasions; that we should have a good peal of twelve; that there was room for twelve on one level, with a good circle, and that in time we would ring them. When the church authorities said they would be pleased to accept two new bells, but would not shoulder the further responsibility of £170, I went straight to the Master of the Oxford Diocesan Guild, Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn (who is, like myself, a Berkshire man), and, after a short talk, he said: 'We will have a peal of twelve in our native county. I will guarantee the amount, and we must get what help we can through our own Guild, branches and towers, and also from personal friends.' So now, if any tower, band, or individual ringer would like to help. I will be pleased to send a receipt for amount received, and also, if the editor of 'The Ringing World' will oblige, print a list of subscribers and balance sheet. I may say that no cheque will be too large. This appeal has nothing whatever to do with raising the £600 required for the rehanging of the peal of ten.

RICHARD T. HIBBERT.

69, York Road, Reading, Berks.

A COMBINED PRACTICE AT LAVERSTOKE.

A very successful combined practice of the Andover Branch of the Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild was held at Laverstoke on Saturday, members attending from Highclere, Overton, King's Somborne, Woolton Hill and Woolton St. Laurence, including two ladies from Highclere. Ringing commenced shortly after three o'clock and continued until five o'clock. Then, by kind invitation of the Rev. and Mrs. W. Wragge, the members were entertained to tea on the lawn, followed by a stroll round the beautiful garden, which extends to the banks of the River Test. This the members greatly appreciated, and cordially thanked the Rev. and Mrs. W. Wragge for their kind hospitality. A move was then made to the tower for further practice. A very useful afternoon and evening was spent in practising Grandsire and Stedman Doubles and Bob Minor.

LINCOLN DIOCESAN GUILD. NAVENBY'S QUAIN TOWER.

The newly-installed peal of six at the village of Navenby was an attraction to the large company of ringers who assembled there on Saturday, September 7th, upon the occasion of a quarterly meeting of the Lincoln District of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild.

In the annals of the district one has to go back a good number of years to find any mention of this tower figuring in any events of campanology. It must, however, have been desired by the prime movers of the bell restoration scheme that Navenby should no longer be in the dark as far as ringing is concerned, and that it should be brought into line with its neighbouring parish. There was a little difficulty of a technical nature at the outset of the restoration scheme, but fortunately it was quickly overcome, and now Navenby possesses a fine peal of bells, with a tenor of 13 cwt.

Viewing this church from the roadside, the smallness of the tower in comparison to the nave of the church presents a notable feature, from which one might well assume that the builders were suddenly faced with shortage of material. The entrance to the belfry, like many others in the country, ends in a peculiar manner. Having proceeded up a sufficient number of steps, one is suddenly confronted with an aperture in the wall leading to the ringing chamber, the floor of which is some 8-10 feet below. From this opening in the wall one can obtain an unobstructed bird's-eye view of the room. With the new installation of bells, consideration has been extended to those residing very close to the church, for the louvres have been boarded over. With this improvement, however, there is coupled the disadvantage that the striking of the church clock cannot be heard to its required measure, with the result that it is highly probable that some of the boarding of the louvres will yet have to be removed.

Those present at the meeting came from Lincoln, Blankney, Rasingham, Branstons, Bardney, Gainsborough, Folkingham, Worksop, Ordsall, Collingham and Navenby, many of whom arrived early in the afternoon. The Rector of Navenby kindly conducted a service in the church, and also gave an address. Tea was then served at the Lion and Royal Hotel, at which upwards of 40 were present.

Following this a meeting took place, at which Mr. Geo. Chester took, for the first time, the official position of president—the outcome of a very unanimous election at the Bardney meeting.

Mr. Chester first of all thanked the company for the honour bestowed upon him, and went on to say that he was following a very good man in the Rev. R. Bond, the late president. He would do his utmost for the benefit of the Guild. He emphasised the importance of keeping up the strength of the Guild by obtaining young ringers, and he hoped that the more skilled ringers would not grudge the time given by them in teaching the new recruits. The main thing for ringers to observe was 'to keep going forward.'

Four new members were added to the roll, viz., Miss Rollitt (Navenby) and Mr. B. Boyes (Bardney) as ordinary members, Mr. Gibson Jackson (Doncaster) and Mr. R. E. Stockdale (Ordsall) both as non-resident life members.

The next meeting is to be held at Caythorpe on November 16th, for which meeting the method of Oxford Bob Triples was selected for preferential study.

Thanks were accorded to the Rector of Navenby, to the organist, and to the tea makers.

The ringers returned to the tower for further ringing until nine o'clock, when the bells were lowered, bringing to a close a most successful meeting.

BLIND RINGER'S ACHIEVEMENT.

RINGS STEDMAN DOUBLES AT FIRST ATTEMPT.

A very pleasant meeting of the Marlborough Branch of the Salisbury Guild was held at Chisledon on Saturday. A lovely old-world village on the Wiltshire Downs, with its fine old church dedicated to the Holy Cross, and a good-going ring of five bells (tenor 14½ cwt.), provided much enjoyment for those present. Ringers were present from Aldbourne, Chisledon, Ogbourne, Sheffield, Swindon (Christ Church and St. Mark's), and Wootton Bassett.

An excellent tea was provided on his lawn by Mr. S. C. Archer, the luxury of deck chairs and the like being much appreciated.

Some very good ringing was accomplished both before and after tea, in Plain Bob, Original, Grandsire and Stedman Doubles. The most interesting event of the day was the truly remarkable performance of Mr. J. E. Whittaker, the well-known organist at Chisledon Church, who is totally blind. Taking the 3rd rope, he conducted 120 Bob Doubles without the slightest hitch, and later, remarking that he knew the method but had not tried it before, he rang the 2nd bell through two 120's of Stedman Doubles, striking his bell perfectly. One thinks that the two touches mentioned are worth recording, as they must be almost, if not quite, unique, and one would like to add a word of admiration and congratulation to Mr. Whittaker on his achievement. The 120 Plain Bob Doubles was rung by: L. Wilson (Wootton Bassett) 1, D. Heginbotham (Aldbourne) 2, H. Whittaker (Chisledon) (conductor) 3, J. E. Lewis Cockey (Dore, Sheffield) 4, S. C. Archer (Chisledon) 5. 120 Stedman Doubles: C. Hussey (Aldbourne) 1, H. Whittaker (Chisledon) 2, L. Wilson (Wootton Bassett) 3, D. Heginbotham (Aldbourne) 4, J. E. Lewis Cockey (Dore, Sheffield) (conductor) 5.

WORCESTERSHIRE AND DISTRICTS ASSOCIATION.

THE SAFETY OF BROADWAY TOWER.

A meeting of the Southern Branch of the Worcestershire and Districts Association took place at St. Eadburgha's Church, Broadway, on Saturday week, and proved very enjoyable to all concerned. The bells have recently been rebung in a new iron frame with ball bearings, by Messrs. Gillett and Johnston, of the Croydon Bell Foundry, who have carried out the work in a very satisfactory manner.

Mr. R. H. Dove, a member of the staff, represented the firm at the meeting, and among those present were the Rev. D. Fitzmaurice (Hampton), Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Parsons (Old Hill), Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Bird and Mrs. Bird (Old Hill), T. J. Salter (Kidderminster), W. Short (Glent), G. Fern (Smethwick), H. and A. Martin (Bromsgrove), C. H. Jones (Worcester), S. T. Holt (Crowle), W. Ranford (Suckley), J. Kyle (Charlbury), and members of the branch were also present from Evesham, Hampton, Crophorne, Hinton, Childs-wickham, Dumbleton, Offenham, Bretforton, Badsey, Staintbury, Overbury, Bredon's Norton, etc.

Soon after 3 p.m. the bells were set going to various standard methods, and the order of the afternoon and evening was for short touches so that all present could have a pull. Service was held at 4.30 p.m., the association's form of service being used, many parishioners being present.

The Vicar, the Rev. V. H. Patrick, took the service, and the choir and organist were in attendance. The Vicar, in welcoming the association to Broadway, said he appreciated the good fellowship and brotherhood they were creating among their numbers. The old church, he said, had nestled between those hills since the Norman period, its bells had pealed forth joyful news, and its muffled peals had sent forth sorrowful news, and now again they would still brighten and cheer the countryside.

Tea was provided by the Vicar and churchworkers, and was taken at St. Patrick's Cafe, upwards of 60 sitting down.

At the business meeting which followed, the Vicar presided, and was also elected an hon. member to the association. Several performing members were also elected.

It was decided to attempt the quarterly peal on Broadway bells with Mr. J. Hemming as conductor, but this caused some discussion, as the Vicar pointed out that the architect was of the opinion that the tower was not safe for long peal ringing, but this was ridiculed by Mr. R. H. Dove and Mr. C. A. Binyon.

It was further resolved to hold the next meeting at Great Hampton.

The usual vote of thanks was moved by Mr. G. A. King and was carried with loud applause, and the Vicar briefly replied.

A collection was taken at the service for a belfry repairs fund which amounted to 18s., since which a further contribution of 5s. has been sent by the Misses Hingley, of Middle Hill Park, who also have kindly consented to become hon. members of the association.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

NEWBURY BRANCH.

A very successful meeting of the Newbury Branch of the Oxford Diocesan Guild was held at Peasmore on Saturday, September 7th, when the following towers were represented: Bucklebury, Bright-walton, Beedon, Chieveley, East Ilsley, Newbury, Shaw, Highclere and the Peasmore ringers. Visitors were also present from Maidenhead. A service was conducted by the Rector of Newbury (the Rev. L. R. Majendie), who gave a very helpful address from Psalm cxlii: 'I was glad when they said unto me: We will go into the house of the Lord.' Miss Jacobs presided at the organ. Tea was served by the Misses Brown in their orchard, which was much appreciated by the ringers on such a hot day.

The business meeting followed, over which the chairman of the branch (the Rev. L. R. Majendie) presided, supported by the hon. branch secretary and treasurer (Mr. H. W. Curtis).

The Secretary reported the death of Mr. J. Pummell, of Hampstead Norris (an old member of the Guild), all standing for a few moments as a token of respect.

The annual meeting was fixed for Newbury about the middle of November, the date being left to the secretary to arrange with the Master of the Guild.

Mr. N. J. Blunden, of Bucklebury, was elected an hon. member, and three new ringing members were also elected.

The Rev. L. R. Majendie proposed a hearty vote of thanks to the Misses Brown and their helpers for providing such an excellent tea. This was seconded by the secretary, who also thanked the Rector for his address, and Miss Jacobs for presiding at the organ. The tower was again visited, and this noted peal of bells set going again in the following methods: Grandsire and Stedman Doubles, Plain Bob, Kent Treble Bob and Cambridge Minor.

MR. TOM BEADLE'S FUND.

Previously acknowledged £22 2s., Major H. B. Hesse £1 1s., Mr. A. T. Vervells (Brighton) 5s., Mr. E. R. Gladman 2s. 6d., Mr. A. T. Coles 2s. 6d. Donations will be gratefully received on behalf of Mr. T. Beadle by Wm. H. Hollier, 29, Duke Road, Chiswick, W.4.

AN ESSEX EXPEDITION.

ASSOCIATION VISITS NEGLECTED TOWERS.

Forty members, representing twelve parishes of the South-Eastern Division of the Essex Association, assembled at High Easter on Saturday last for the purpose of creating interest in the bells, which have not been rung for many years. Among those present were Mr. C. H. Howard (Master of the Association), Mr. G. Green (District Master) and Mr. H. W. Kirton (district secretary), Dr. Spencer Phillips, Messrs. W. Keeble, H. E. Hammond, W. Lincoln and other prominent neighbouring ringers.

The bells, a ring of six, with a tenor 18 cwt., half a tone flat, restored, and a treble added to commemorate the diamond jubilee of Queen Victoria, need the attention of a competent bell hanger. The 4th, especially, goes very badly. Fortunately, there were among those present men who could handle and strike the worst going bells, and some very creditable ringing was done in the following methods: Cambridge Surprise, Oxford and Kent Treble Bob, Plain Bob and Grandsire Doubles. Tea and meeting were held at the Cock and Bell, Mr. G. Green, District Master, presiding.

Rev. Canon Paynter was elected a life hon. member.

A short service was held in the church. The Rev. B. H. Vincent, Vicar, officiated, gave a warm welcome and a short well-chosen address. The lesson was read by the Master.

After the Vicar had been thanked for the use of the bells and for officiating at the service, his attention was called to the need of some belfry repairs. A wish was also expressed that an effort should be made to form a band of service ringers.

The Vicar promised that the request would receive his attention, at the same time pointing out the difficulties of securing church-workers in so scattered and rural a parish.

A call was made by some on their way home at Good Easter. Here is a very musical ring of five, hanging in a turret, tenor about 10 cwt. No ringing has been done on these bells for several years. The long draught of rope and the need of some oil on the bearings may have accounted for the indifferent 'go.' Several six-scores of Doubles were brought round, possibly the first change ringing on the bells. No band of service ringers is now in existence. The Vicar, Rev. W. F. Vaughan Jones, expressed his pleasure at the visit of the members.

Although no opportunity occurred of meeting any local ringers at either of the parishes, it is hoped that the expedition will result in an effort being made to induce some of the younger generation to take up this branch of church work.

HERTS AND BEDS JOINT MEETING.

On Saturday last a joint meeting of the Hertford County Association and Bedfordshire Association was held at Biggleswade. The meeting was well attended, and the different counties were well represented by members from Bedford, Biggleswade, Clifton, Everton, Roston, Southill, Sandy, Baldock, Barley, Hitchin, Letchworth, Offley, Stevenage, Melbourn (Cambs) and Cambridge.

The bells were raised about 2.30 p.m., and were kept going in the following methods: Plain Bob, Grandsire Triples, Kent Treble Bob Major, Double Norwich, Stedman Triples, Cambridge and Superlative Surprise, and a course of London Minor for the benefit of the 'Minor' ringers.

An excellent tea had been arranged by Mr. C. J. Ball, the Beds secretary, at the Cafe.

After tea, the bells were again soon on the swing, and not before 8.30 p.m. was the meeting brought to a close as the bells were rung down in peal in masterly fashion, a fitting close to an enjoyable day.

The secretaries wish to thank all who lent their support, thereby making the meeting the success that it undoubtedly was, and hope that another may be arranged at a future date.

PHOTOGRAPHS WANTED.

PICTURES OF CHURCH TOWERS FOR PUBLICATION IN 'THE RINGING WORLD.'

The Editor of 'The Ringing World' will be glad to receive photographs of churches, with a view to their future publication when suitable occasion arises.

The photographs should be accompanied by brief particulars of the bells, with their inscriptions and dates if possible, and any other interesting information about them.

Pictures should, for preference, be photographic post-cards and, where there is any choice, the tower should be a feature.

Obviously, of course, all the pictures cannot be published at once, the object of getting a collection being that the photographs may be ready at hand for use when fitting opportunity occurs.

Will each tower secretary be good enough to send a photograph of his own tower this week-end—before he forgets it? It should be forwarded in an envelope for protection and addressed to The Editor, 'The Ringing World,' Woking, Surrey, and the sender should enclose his name and address.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

The peals at Grantham, Ewerby, and Heckington were rung during a week-end visit to Surfleet by several well-known ringers, who were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. Richardson. The peals at Ewerby and Heckington were rung as a compliment to the host and hostess on the anniversary of their engagement.

The peal of Stedman Caters, rung at St. Peter's, Brighton, on August 31st, in which Mr. H. J. Tucker, formerly of Bishop's Stortford, and now of Chichester, took part, was rung on the 50th anniversary of his first peal, which was Holt's Ten-part peal of Grandsire Triples, rung at St. Mary's Church, Ealing, Middlesex, on August 31st, 1879, for the old St. James' Society.

On September 25th, 1845, a peal of Stedman Caters, composed and conducted by John Cox, was rung at St. James', Bermondsey. It was a 6,701, and was recorded as the 'greatest number attainable with treble in 2nd's place and bobs only.'

The first peal of Double Norwich Caters was rung at St. Stephen's, Bristol, on September 22nd, 1894.

Matt. Wood, of Bethnal Green, one of the most famous of the old London school of ringers, and one of the band that opened St. Paul's Cathedral bells, was born in 1826. He rang over 300 peals, which was a great performance for a man in his days, and took part in several celebrated long lengths. He was a martinet in the belfry—but he was a good ringer.

WILL OF THE REV. MAITLAND KELLY.

Estate valued at £18,538 was left by the Rev. Maitland Kelly, of Kelly, Devon, who died on June 15th, aged eighty-six. He was the head of one of the oldest families in the West Country, his ancestors having been settled continuously in Kelly since the middle of the twelfth century. He was formerly Vicar of Salcombe and of Ottery St. Mary.

For over sixty years he was identified with ringing in the West, and was secretary (1890-1896) and president (1896-1924) of the Devon Guild.

WINCHESTER CANON'S BIRTHDAY.

On Monday, Canon Braithwaite, of Winchester Cathedral, celebrated his 80th birthday, and the Cathedral ringers heralded the day by meeting at seven and 'firing' the bells for 80 times, and afterwards ringing a touch of 395 Grandsire Caters: R. Paine 1, W. C. Lampard 2, A. Goulding 3, H. Cook 4, C. Russell 5, E. G. Lampard 6, G. Noice 7, W. H. Loveland 8, W. Andrews (conductor) 9, P. Tibbie 10.

Canon Braithwaite has done a certain amount of ringing, and has for many years been chairman of the Winchester District of the Winchester Guild. He presented a set of handbells to the King Alfred (Training) College, Winchester, for the use of students, and always makes a point of including the Cathedral ringers among those invited to the party given by him and Miss Braithwaite early in the year. He has, indeed, proved a real friend to ringers. In spite of his 80 years he is still 'going strong,' and the good wishes of members of the Guild will go out to him.

CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY GUILD'S JUBILEE.

The Cambridge University Guild Jubilee celebration brought together a representative gathering of members, who, as already reported, presented to their president, the Rev. A. H. F. Boughiey, a silver rose bowl, as a token of their esteem and gratitude for his lifelong work on behalf of the Guild. The Guild was founded on February 4th, 1879, by the Rev. W. C. Pearson and others of Clare College, and was originally known as 'The Clare Society of Ringers.' Its scope, however, was quickly enlarged when men from other colleges joined, and in May of the same year it became the Cambridge University Guild, with the Rev. A. H. F. Boughiey as its first president, which office he has held for an unbroken period of fifty years. During that time about 300 members have been enrolled, and many of them have, after their Cambridge days, occupied prominent positions in the Exercise.

The above interesting photograph was taken during the visit which the members paid to Cambridge.

GODALMING AND ITS BELLS.

The quaint old town of Godalming, Surrey, has many charms, although the speeding motorist, hampered by its narrow and congested streets as he rushes from London to the southern sea coast, may not think so. The town groups itself picturesquely between the hills and woods, on the banks of the River Wey, and one of its glories is its fine old church, with its noble leaded spire, and its churchyard, which runs down to the very verge of the sluggish river. Parts of the Early Norman church are still to be seen, including an arch between the choir and the chancel. Godalming has had a long succession of Rectors and Vicars. The former, whose interest presumably centred chiefly in receiving the rectorial tithes, for the holders of the office were obviously 'absentees,' being, many of them, Deans of Sarum, can be traced back to the days of Edward the Confessor, and a board in the church records their names down to 1846, when their income from this source was diverted to the Ecclesiastical Commissioners. The names of the Vicars, who, of course, were responsible for the spiritual charge of the parish, are also recorded, the first being William, 1185, and the next Richard of Chiddingfold. The list appears to be almost complete down to the present date.

A RING OF NO ARCHÆOLOGICAL INTEREST.

The central tower has a lofty spire, probably the tallest to be found in the diocese. The church has long had a ring of bells, for in the time of Edward VI. it is recorded that there were, in addition to a 'Saunete' bell, 'v bells in the steeple, the best by estimation XXc. and so under after the rate.' Thus in those distant days the tenor was about a ton. The present ring are a mixed lot and poor in quality. The oldest is the third, cast in 1740 by Thomas Lester, of London, who in 1746 recast other bells, probably the old five which figured in the Edwardian returns. The fifth of this ring was recast by Thomas Swaine in 1772, two more bells were added in 1792, the treble of which was recast in 1839. Ten years later the tenor was recast, and in 1874 the fifth passed through the melting pot. The bells have thus no archæological interest, and, though the tenor is about 25 cwt., are an indifferent ring. For some years they have seriously needed rehanging, while ringing at Godalming is carried on under another serious handicap, for there is scarcely any ventilation in the belfry. There are no windows in the ringing room (for fear, it is said, of rendering the tower unsafe on account of the weight of the spire), and only two small holes have been pierced through the 3ft. thick walls to let in the fresh air. Ringing has always to be carried on by artificial light, and on a hot day such as last Saturday it was hardly the best conceivable place for a ringing meeting. Nevertheless, members of the Guildford District of the Guildford Diocesan Guild were present for a district meeting, and enjoyed themselves as ringers are wont to do, even under the most adverse conditions. Heroes were never lacking for the back-end jobs, but the shortest touches were enough at a time. Methods up to Cambridge Surprise Major were rung during the day.

The Guild's service was conducted by the Vicar (Rev. G. S. Richards), the singing being led by the choir boys. The Vicar's address was based on 2 Chron. v. 13: 'To make one sound to be heard in praising and thanking the Lord.' The bells of the parish churches of this country, he said, entered very closely into the life of the local community. In these days when mankind seemed to be mostly makers of noise, it was a great thing that the bells, with their message, given out Sunday by Sunday, should call attention to the higher things of life. The preacher referred to the duties and responsibilities of the ringers, and pointed out that their ministry was all the more effective when, in addition to calling others to worship, they set the example themselves and attended the services.

An excellent tea was afterwards served in the Church Institute, and the Vicar presided over the short business meeting which followed. Those present included the hon. treasurer of the Guild (Admiral T. P. Walker), the hon. secretary (Mr. J. S. Goldsmith), the District Ringing Master (Mr. C. Hazelden), the district hon. secretary (Mr. G. L. Grover), the Farnham district secretary (Mr. C. Denyer), the Chertsey district secretary (Mr. H. Hancock), and ringers from Guildford (Cathedral and St. Nicolas'), Godalming, Dunsfold, Aldershot, West Clandon, Woking, Thursley, and Otter-shaw, the attendance numbering just over 30.

Those present stood for a moment in silence in memory of the late Mr. Alwyn Charman, of Cranleigh, a member of the Guild. Mr. Goldsmith tendered the apologies for absence of Major Hesse, of Haslemere, the Ringing Master, owing to the annual outing of the Haslemere ringers being fixed for Saturday.

It was announced that the next quarterly meeting of the Guildford District would be held at Shalford on November 16th, and a joint meeting with the Surrey Association at Guildford on October 5th.

Admiral T. P. Walker, D.S.O., of Woking, hon. treasurer of the Guild, proposed a vote of thanks to the Vicar for his kindness in allowing them to use the bells and for his helpful address. He also thanked the organist, choir, those who had 'provided' tea, and Mr. C. Childs (captain of the Godalming ringers) for making arrangements for the meeting.

HINT TO CHURCH AUTHORITIES.

In seconding, Mr. Goldsmith said they realised that Godalming was a fine old town, and had a fine old church, but he could not say it had a fine peal of bells. He had not come to grumble, but he would like seriously to suggest to the church authorities at Godalming that they consider doing something to their bells. At the moment, the bells really went very badly indeed, and he thought Mr. Childs and the other Godalming ringers would agree with him.

The bells themselves needed the attention of a bell hanger, continued Mr. Goldsmith, and he thought the church authorities would find it would be cheaper to have them attended to now than let them go a few more years, when the state of the bells would be far worse. He believed it was true that Godalming was quite a wealthy borough (laughter). So they would not have much difficulty in raising any money necessary to put the church bells into order. If that was the case, he suggested they should make a clean sweep. The Vicar had told them in his sermon something about makers of noise. All the while the Godalming bells went as they did now, the ringers in the tower would be makers of noise—noise, perhaps, that the inhabitants would not appreciate! If those responsible would put the bells in good order, and, if possible, have them tuned harmonically—which these were not—and have one or two of the cracked ones put right, they would have a peal worthy of the town and of the fine old church (hear, hear).

Mr. Goldsmith said he was sure members of the Guild would not think he was drawing 'the long bow,' because he believed that certainly not for 30 years had the Godalming bells had a serious amount of money spent on them. There was also not enough ventilation in the tower, and if anything could be done to improve it while rehanging the bells it would be appreciated not only by Godalming ringers but by all who visited the tower.

THE VICAR'S REPLY.

The Vicar, acknowledging the vote of thanks, said not only bells wore out but even Godalming pockets were liable to wear out (laughter). The Church Room in which they were gathered was rather inclined to wear out, and at the present moment there was a considerable debt in regard to the repairs. But he was glad to hear from someone outside the parish of a definite need like the bells, which would have to be fixed, because very often a prophet in his own country, such as the secretary or chairman of one's own ringers, was less likely to be listened to than someone from outside, of whom there could be no suspicion that he had any axe to grind. He knew that Godalming had a reputation of being able to raise money for anything and everything, and it might be to the credit of the parish that should be so, but he hoped no one would imagine it was necessarily too easy to do that in the present day. As a matter of fact, in recent years Godalming had been suffering the loss of some of its best church supporters, and those who came and replaced them were not quite so strong in their support. That applied, he supposed, practically to all parishes throughout the country. He would certainly bear in mind what Mr. Goldsmith said about the bells, and he was sorry to hear that some were cracked.

Mr. Childs, proposing the election of the Vicar of Godalming as an hon. member of the Guild, remarked that what Mr. Goldsmith had said about the bells was perfectly true. They did need attention, and had done so for a long time.

Admiral Walker seconded the proposition, which was carried with acclamation.

Responding, the Vicar said he knew of the good work the Guild did in the diocese. Bells were a real national characteristic in the countryside, and he believed the work of the ringers was an asset to the spiritual life of the country.

WINCHESTER AND PORTSMOUTH DIOCESAN GUILD.

PORTSMOUTH DISTRICT AT CATHERINGTON.

A very enjoyable by-meeting of the Portsmouth District was held at Catherington on Saturday last, when, by kind permission of the Vicar (Rev. H. M. Lake), the peal of six was available to the members during the afternoon and evening. The weather was ideal, and members were present from Catherington, East Moon, Portsmouth (St. Mary's), Ryde and Titchfield, also visitors from Rogate and Mr. J. H. Shepherd (Swindon).

A short service was held in the church, at which the Vicar officiated and gave an excellent address, after which the members adjourned to tea. At the close of this, the Vicar welcomed the Guild to Catherington, and hoped that before long they would pay them another visit. On behalf of the Guild, the Secretary (Mr. F. W. Rogers) thanked the Vicar for his kind words, and also for allowing them the use of the bells that day.

At the conclusion the members paid a further visit to the tower until 7 p.m., when the bells were lowered in peal. The ringing during the day comprised Grandsire, Stedman and Bob Doubles, Plain Bob, Oxford and Kent Treble Bob and Cambridge Surprise Minor.

FRESH SPLICING.

A paragraph last week mentioned the ringing on spliced principles of methods which had not hitherto been joined up in this way. As a matter of fact, something new in splicing is being done at Leytonstone, of which the ringing referred to is only a part. We hope to be able to give something further about this new departure shortly.

DORSET DAYS.

BY W. H. F.

A brief holiday amidst Thomas Hardy's fascinating Wessex scenery in South Dorset was organised by Mr. T. Hervey Beams, assistant hon. secretary of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild, on behalf of a party of change ringers not unknown to readers of 'The Ringing World.' Drawn by 'the ropes' from six counties, they formed a 'non-resident' team of eight men, with an Exeter 'pigeon pair' in valuable reserve. Members arrived at Bridport as you please, some of them at headquarters, the Greyhound, a noted house, especially to a noted London band, but owing to the summer crowds others had to be 'bounded' elsewhere.

After Sunday morning service on September 8th at Holy Trinity Church, Bradpole, everyone assembled under the hospitable roof of Mr. and Mrs. Beams for lunch, at which the Vicar, the Rev. C. W. d'Ombrain, M.A., welcomed the visitors to Dorset, and offered grace before meat. When the afternoon peal came home, some half-dozen hefty local young men came to see the band, and were surprised to find no blisters. Over the tea cups time travelled 'Schneider speed,' and recollections of Leytonstone and Sussex, of the days before Mr. Beams came to Bradpole in 1906, were recalled.

A quarter of a century ago change ringing in the Bradpole district was unknown; there was none to be had nearer than Dorchester. The Diocesan Guild existed in name rather than as a body, with its four unwieldy divisions to the cardinal points of the compass. Areas unworkable were subdivided into the present districts, which are still too large. Perseverance has produced in West Dorset a good crop of 150 members in 17 affiliated towers, and the work of restoration has not been neglected. Seventeen peals of bells have been restored in some way or other according to the means and the interest of Dorsetshire men. Good as the results have been in the past, much still needs to be done, especially in teaching the art of change ringing, but it is growing gradually, thanks to the practical and personal interest shown by the president.

Referring to the last annual report of the Guild (1928), the list of peals was a record for the Guild, and no less than four prominent ringers paid a visit to the diocese, whose peal records total upwards of a thousand each—Messrs. W. and G. Pye, F. Bennett and George Williams. Financially, too, the Guild is in a flourishing state, and, maybe, the £90 balance in hand last year is £100 by now.

With a bright moon to prolong a joyous Sunday, the company proceeded by car and motor-cycle through Bridport to take a breath of the 'Atlantic air' at West Bay. They left behind the 'Norman' church, not yet a century old, erected on the north side of the older ruinous building, which tells one that the font bowl may have been 700 years in use; that a solid slab of stone, carved for the head of a three-light window in one piece, was found in a rubbish heap. In this parish was born a humble ringer, who rose to be the general manager of the G.W.R., well known to the writer as a resident of Slough for many years, and here he rests. Near the church door, too, where he wished to lie, rests also the late Vicar, the Rev. C. F. Langford, a lover of bells, whose last words were, 'Keep the bells going.' His encouragement of Mr. Beams in the efforts to restore and augment the old ruinous peal of six bells (cast by Warner of London, 1865), led to the 'order' for the work being given before a pound was in the hands of the treasurer. But the debt was cleared in one year, and the opening peal (5,000) roused the inhabitants to come to breakfast.

The county of Dorset from the days of Elizabeth has not been neglected by our Kings and Queens. Lyme, Melcombe, Wyke and Beer Regis all have associations with King Charles II. and George III., but we have yet to hear that there is a Regis St. Giles. Thanks to the Rev. C. Carew Cox, Vicar of Michael's Church, Lyme Regis, the party were allowed to ring in the morning, on Monday, September 9th, and an announcement in the parish magazine mentioned their coming to ring a peal (which they did), inviting young men of the parish to take up the art. In this belfry is an ornamental panel of wood, with a bold drawing in gold of a skull and crossbones, inscribed 'Memento Mori,' on a dark background—just the sort of encouragement to a young man who is tired of the dangers of motor-cycling to hang himself. Before 1911, Lyme possessed a ring of six cast by Thomas Bilbie in 1770, from funds raised by voluntary subscriptions and a church rate.

There is much to be said in favour of Mr. Cox's announcement. Beautiful bell music is poured from the church towers throughout the country without any preliminary notice to the townspeople. When the bells ring, many people would like to take their favourite walk abroad and listen to the 'loud cymbals,' whilst others who are distressed by bell music would prefer a visit to distant friends and neighbours, and notice of a peal gives them the opportunity of making their arrangements.

The visitors returned to Bridport via Whitechurch Canonorum. Here is a fine old ring of eight, tenor 21 cwt. in E flat, and Stedman Triples was lost approaching half-way, while the tenor clapper broke during the touch of Major, which was being rung so that all could have a 'pull.'

This church, which has an unusual dedication, viz., S.S. Wite Candida and Holy Cross, possesses a fine western tower, a well-kept

MEETING AT NORTHAW.

A visit to Northaw was paid by a few enthusiastic members of the Middlesex County Association and London Diocesan Guild on Saturday, September 14th, on the occasion of a North and East District meeting in this charming but out-of-the-way village. The small company included Miss K. Willars, who cycled from Trumpington, Cambs, to attend the meeting. Divine service was held at 5 p.m., at which the Vicar (Rev. E. S. Allen) officiated. An excellent tea was provided, after which the usual short business meeting was held.

Two new members were elected, and a vote of congratulation passed to the Rev. A. H. F. Boughy (a vice-president of the association) on attaining his jubilee as president of the Cambridge University Guild.

The note in the current issue of 'The Ringing World,' referring to a peal rung at Appleton in 1877, was commented on. Mr. F. A. Milne, the president, was one of the ringers on that occasion, and fully recollected the peal.

Mr. Milne proposed a vote of thanks to the Vicar for the use of the bells, and for his address at the service, also to Mr. B. McKie and the local ringers for arranging the meeting.

The Hon. Secretary expressed his great pleasure at the recent successes of the Northaw band, who, being quite up to date, were practising Spliced Treble Bob methods with good results. He urged them to keep the progressive policy going.

The charming peal of six bells (tenor 13 cwt.) were rung to several methods during the afternoon and evening, including Stedman Doubles, Plain Bob Minor, Kent, Oxford and Kingston Treble Bob Minor, and the latter two methods spliced. Rounds were also rung for the beginners.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD.

DEVIZES BRANCH AT BISHOP'S CANNINGS.

The monthly meeting of the Devizes Branch was held at Bishop's Cannings on Saturday, September 7th, a large number of ringers being present. Ringing commenced about 3 p.m., and later the Guild service was held, the surpliced choir being in attendance. The service was intoned by the chairman of the branch (Mr. C. D. Heginbotham), the lesson being read by the Vicar, the Rev. L. R. Sharpe, M.A.

Tea followed, after which a short business meeting was held, Mr. C. D. Heginbotham presiding, and extending a hearty welcome to the visitors. He drew attention to recent articles in 'The Ringing World' urging ringers to take an interest in the work of their associations. He also congratulated Mr. J. T. Dyke on his taking part in the record peal of Cambridge Surprise Maximus at Ashton-under-Lyne on August Bank Holiday.

The death of Mr. A. N. Smith, of Bratton, a member of the Guild, was reported, those present standing in silence as a token of respect.

Mr. Cyril Gilbert, of Roundaway, Devizes, was elected a member, and on the motion of the chairman a vote of thanks was passed to the Vicar for the use of the bells, the organist, the choir and those who prepared the tea.—The Vicar replied.

Visitors included Mr. L. A. Wilson, Wootton Bassett (secretary of the Calne Branch), Messrs. E. Bishop, S. Palmer, R. W. Hyner, C. J. Gardiner, J. S. Roberts and J. Berry (Swindon), Messrs. S. Wilshire, C. R. Davison and H. P. Marsh (Chippenham), and Mr. H. Burry (Calne). Members of the branch were present from Bishop's Cannings, Warminster, Devizes (St. John's and St. Mary's), Southbroom, Rowde, Bratton, Trowbridge, Holt and Melksham. Touches of Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Cambridge Surprise, Superlative, Kent and Oxford Treble Bob, Double Norwich and Plain Bob Major were rung during the afternoon and evening, a very pleasant time being spent.

It was decided to hold an evening meeting at Bratton and Edington on September 21st, if the bells were available, and the next monthly meeting at Warminster.

Bishop's Cannings Church is a very beautiful building, and the bells (tenor 16 cwt.) make one of the finest peals of eight in the county. Great credit is due to Mr. T. Merritt, the captain and steeplekeeper, for the way in which the ringing chamber and bells are kept.

belfry, and a most courteous foreman. Canon Raven, in his notes on 'Church Bells of Dorset,' gives the tenor of the old ring of five as 49 inches diameter and 37 inches height, inscribed:—

'Hark, when I call, come to church all;

Come to serve God, or come not at all.

W. L., H. G., G. W., J. P. Anno Domini 1669.'

In all probability the village inn, where tea was partaken of, was named after the church bells, the Five Bells, when this grand, deep-toned tenor was added to the four old ones.

Since the advent of railways, authors and writers have continually extolled the wonderful, simple beauty of the coast of Bridport Bay. Taking Charmouth as a centre, one word comes to mind—charming; and the Great Western Railway publications reveal much of its history to those interested in 'Dorsetshire.'

MIDLAND COUNTIES ASSOCIATION.

NOTTINGHAM DISTRICT MEETING AT COTGRAVE.

A very pleasant and enjoyable meeting was held at Cotgrave on Saturday, the enthusiasm of ringers from afar, coupled with the glorious weather, no doubt contributing much to the success of the gathering. The six bells were available from 3 p.m., but even before that time a lady ringer had arrived from Surfleet, and a start was made with a 360 of Bob Minor. Soon there was a goodly company of ringers of both sexes from the following amongst other places: Beeston, Bulwell, Folkingham (Lincs), Hough-on-the-Hill, Mansfield, Nottingham, Sandiacre, Sutton-on-Trent, Treston (Yorks), Worksop and Wymondham (Oakham), several of the local ringers also being present.

The bells were kept going in various methods until an adjournment was made for tea, amply provided on Mr. Walter White's lawn, twenty sitting down, only three of whom had sent notice of their intention to be present. Luckily the caterer was able to overcome the difficulty, and gave a hearty welcome to all. Will the time ever come when ringers will give a thought for those who are arranging the meeting, and who are anxious to make it as comfortable as possible for the visitors? Some may make excuse, and say, 'A bit of bread and cheese will do for me,' but that is not quite the proper thing. A comfortable meal in company with the others who may be present does much to make an afternoon outing a success.

Tea being over, a return was made to the belfry, the company being augmented by several ringers unable to put in an earlier appearance, and ringing continued until after eight o'clock. During the day many methods were well rung, ranging from Plain Bob to Cambridge and from the complimentary remarks heard on all sides as to the tone and 'go' of the bells, there is no doubt those present carried away very pleasant recollections of the meeting.

Owing to the absence of the district secretary, no arrangements were made for future meetings.

OVERSEAL RINGERS VISIT HIGHAM-ON-THE-HILL.

On Saturday, September 7th, six ringers from St. Matthew's, Overseal, had a very enjoyable outing to Higham-on-the-Hill.

On arriving at the Church of St. Peter, Higham, the bells were raised in peal, and 720 of Bob Minor rung by: A. E. Clayfield 1, L. Freeman 2, W. Brooker 3, W. Clayfield 4, J. W. Cotton (conductor) 5, W. Curzon 6.

The treble ringer then provided an excellent tea, after which further touches were brought round. The return journey was made via Fenny Drayton, Twycross and Appleby.

DEVON GUILD.

The autumn meeting of the Exeter Branch of the Devon Guild of Ringers was held at the picturesque village of Kenn on Saturday, September 7th, about 50 members and visitors from other branches being present. A service was held in the church, which is one of the most beautiful country churches in the district, the Rev. F. W. Vining officiating. A tea and business meeting was afterwards held in a room kindly lent by the Rector in the charming grounds of the Rectory.

The Rev. E. V. Cox presided, and thanked the Rector, the local ringers, the organist and choir, and all others who had helped to make the afternoon so enjoyable. The meeting stood in silence as a tribute to the memory of the late president of the Guild, the Rev. Maitland Kelly.

Three new members were elected, and it was resolved that the annual meeting of the branch should be held in St. Sidwell's parish, Exeter, on December 7th.

Several neighbouring towers were visited during the afternoon, the use of the bells having been granted by the Vicars.

DEATH OF A BRATTON RINGER.

After a brief illness, Mr. Oliver N. Smith, of Bratton, Wilts, passed away recently at Westbury Cottage Hospital. He was at work on Friday, but was taken ill in the evening. An immediate operation was necessary, but this was without avail, and he passed away two days later. The respect in which Mr. Smith was held was shown by the large attendance at the funeral service, when the church was crowded. The Bratton Silver Band, of which he had been bandmaster for ten years, attended in uniform and acted as bearers. Mr. Smith's activities in the village brought him into touch with many friends, and great sympathy is felt for the widow and family in their sudden bereavement.

Mr. Smith, who was only 50 years of age, was steward of the Wilts Friendly Society; member of the church choir; chief fireman of the Bratton Fire Brigade; ex-churchwarden; and member of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild of Ringers; and out of respect a muffled peal was rung on the church bells after the service.

Beautiful wreaths and floral emblems to the number of about 40 were sent by sympathetic friends.

THE 18 1/2 TON RINGING BELL,
the Bourdon of the Carillon of 64 Bells, about to be installed at
RIVERSIDE CHURCH, New York, U.S.A.

A NATIONAL SOCIETY OF RINGERS?

As time goes on the various associations throughout the country get more and more inter-related through the now extensive practice of electing non-resident life members at an inclusive and reduced fee. In some cases the membership roll consists of as many as twenty per cent. non-residents, so that the overlapping is really of considerable proportions. This is all to the good in the interests of ringing, inasmuch as it is evidence of the growing intercourse which is taking place between one society and another. But this development of relationship opens up the question of a broader basis of organisation in the Exercise, and from time to time the suggestion of a national society for ringers is mooted. It was spoken of at a meeting reported elsewhere in this issue, and while the founding of one great central body is probably a very distant project, there is no reason why associations should not consider any ideas which may be put forward for drawing them closer together, in furtherance of their common objects.

To make one great and general amalgamation of all the ringing societies is open to many serious objections, not least of which would be the loss of individuality and local identity of the territorial Associations and Guilds. A national organisation is hardly likely to command the support of the individual ringer to the same extent as a diocesan or county association; its management and direction would be too remote to interest him—even now, in many cases, he shows only the faintest interest in the affairs of his local association, and if this frail link were broken his interest would doubtless evaporate entirely. And apart from the ringers, there would most probably be a loss of interest among those outside, that is among honorary members, who at present give their support to ringing societies. A national organisation would not be likely to appeal to their sympathy or their pockets in the same way that something intimately linked up with their diocese or county does to-day. Financially, therefore, there would most likely be considerable loss, and as few of our societies could carry on on present lines without the assistance of honorary members, it means that the ringer's contribution to a national society would of necessity have to be greater than he at present pays.

There is, however, a means already at hand, by which something could be done in the hope of drawing the associations closer together than they are to-day, and that is through the Central Council. There are various small ways in which closer relationship could be promoted between the societies, and if a reorganisation of the constitution of the Council is to be considered, associations might well explore any avenues by which their joint advancement might be furthered. One of the reasons which lead to the suggestion of a national organisation is the cost to a ringer who desires to visit some place outside his own area to ring a peal. He becomes mulcted in a 'compounding' member's subscription, which may be anything from half-a-crown to seven shillings and sixpence, and he may, perhaps, never visit that district again. There are some ringers who think that a scheme should be evolved to lighten this 'burden,' and this is one matter to which the associations and Council might give consideration.

First peal in the method on the bells. The above is the 100th occasion on which the conductor has rung two peals in a day.

The band wish, through the medium of this paper, to thank the various clergy for giving permission, and the steeplekeepers at all the towers who did so much to make the tour a success.

A KENTISH TOUR.

Ringers of Lyvinge Parish Church, Kent, and friends had their annual outing on Saturday, September 14th. Leaving at 8.30 a.m., they journeyed via Ashford to Harrietsham, where the first stop was made.

The Vicar (the Rev. H. de V. Watson) was soon on the spot, and the bells were set going for about an hour. It was at Harrietsham that James Barham rang his first peal. The company made their way to West Malling, where they were met by the Vicar and enjoyed further ringing. After lunching at Tunbridge Wells, they went on to Cranbrook. Here the only mishap of the day occurred, the hon. secretary of the party kindly breaking the rope of the tenor bell. This cut short the stop at Cranbrook, and the part set out for Headcorn, where they were met by the Vicar (the Rev. Gertie), and Mr. Philip Hodgkin, the latter having things ready. Grandsire Triples was rung on these beautiful toned bells, and the company were loth to leave. The party then went on to Appledore, stopping en route at Tenterden to partake of a well-earned tea. Reaching Appledore, the ringers made their way to the tower, under the leadership of Mr. Johnson, and to complete the ringing for the day, an excellent touch of Grandsire Triples was brought round. It was the unanimous opinion of friends and ringers that the best ringing of the tour was at Appledore. After an excellent ride, an ideal day, and some beautiful bells to ring on, home was reached about 10.15 p.m. The ringers take this opportunity of thanking the Vicars of Harrietsham, West Malling, Cranbrook, Headcorn, and Appledore for granting permission for the use of the bells, their kindness being much appreciated by all.

DORSET DAYS.

BELLS CAST IN A FIELD

On Tuesday, Beaminster was the destination. While waiting for the conclusion of morning prayers, the ringers visited Broadwinor for a brief touch of Minor on the ring of six bells, rehung in an iron frame in 1837, and with tenor of 14 cwt. 3 qr. 27 lb. St. Mary's, Beaminster, possesses a beautiful western tower, similar to Titchmarsh, Northants, and here the Vicar and Mr. Bugler, local hon. secretary, met the visitors and gave assistance in the belfry. A valiant attempt for Cambridge Major was made, but, there being no 'Varsity man' in the band, it failed to 'matriculate,' although owing to the heat of the day perspiration trickled freely for more than an hour. The bells are a complete ring of eight, tenor 45½ in. diameter, 20 cwt. in D, cast in 1765 by the Bilbies, of Culmpton, in the field adjoining the churchyard. The boundary wall shows to this day where it was cut through to allow the bells to be moved up to their long life in the steeple.

A hot lunch was welcomed at an inn named the New Hotel, which was probably standing when Tom Bilbie and his son came to cast their bells for both Broad and Beami parishes. This house possesses a skittle alley, tempting enough for an afternoon off by the 'Throw-bridge' man, but George Williams simply carried Sam away after three balls had been bowled.

After the successful peal at Bridport on Tuesday evening, some of the local band, with Mr. W. S. B. Northover, hon. secretary, came to offer congratulations, and explained that only two peals had been rung in the town previously—Stedman and Grandsire Triples. He saw that the names of the party were duly entered in the belfry book, and it is advisable not to state where they went afterwards, or how they fared at the Sun Inn when the sun went down. Seated beside the churchyard gate in his chair was one of the old Bridport ringers, who had placed himself in a favourable position to see the men and hear their performance. He is a young Lawrence, of Shifnal, in stature, weighing approximately 20 stone perhaps, and he stated that he had not been able to go up to the belfry for years, but had been to the bell loft, seen the new bells and frame, and had felt happier ever since. Wonder ceased when he explained that he had bribed the bellhanger to hoist him up to the bell loft before taking down the tackle.

How Mrs. Williams rolled her sleeves up to act as scullery maid and how Mr. Hector parked his five-seater in a rabbit hutch are side issues to be passed over, with the remark that bellringers do 'see life'—occasionally.

MILTON ABBEY.

'Make yourself at home and your friends will love you'—and this is exactly what the party of ten aimed at on Wednesday, when after a lost peal of Cambridge Major at Bradpole in the morning they again invaded the homestead of Mr. and Mrs. Hervey Beams. Devon cider and home-made Dorset sausage afforded ideal luncheon for a heat wave, but the company were denied the usual 'sit awhile' after it, and only time enough was allowed for Mrs. Williams to hand to Mrs. Beams a small parcel containing a 'keepsake' from the guests. On removing the paper coverings the recipient, already agreeably surprised, returned her thanks with a beaming smile, and thus farewells were spoken and taken and the journey of 22 miles resumed.

It was not a case of 'Hail! smiling morn,' to one of the band. Mr. Cave, half-mad with neuralgia, was driven to Bridport and had a painful tooth extracted as soon as the party left the belfry.

Milton Abbey, the next tower to be visited, adjoins one of the most ancient and stately homes of the county, and permission for a peal is seldom obtained. All the vehicles arrived safe and punctually, including the little West End 'Morgan.' Mr. Perkins' head gardener showed the grounds, gardens and greenhouses, where grapes and bananas were hanging temptingly. Of the ancient Abbey, only the chancel, transepts and the central towers are standing to-day, restored from the ancient ruins; there is yet the nave to reconstruct. Dedicated to St. Sampson, it is a beautiful building, separated from the mansion—formerly a Benedictine monastery—by a few yards. In 1861 there were five bells hung here by Warners. They have since been made into eight, tenor 38 in. diameter, 11 cwt. in G. These are quite separate from the three clock bells cast by Wells, of Aldbourn, in 1804. A whole book of history is attached to this famous place, stones and fronts of the building going back to 12th century. The main road of the village is an object lesson to all interested in garden cities, and it was laid out more than a century back.

The performance here was slow, for one reason being that little 73 years old 'Sampson' on the tenor never hurries his ringing or eating; another that lights were not turned up, it grew dark and everyone slowed down to make sure if the ropes were at hand or backstroke. On the way back to Dorchester the motorists slowed down, too, the brothers Andrews, with their motor-cycle, 'helping' two of the cars in a predicament before ten tried churchmen slept in the county town.

Thursday, the final day, began at 8.15, and by a pretty ride to Wyke Regis, through Weymouth, only to find the church in disorder and electricians laying in their tubes. Lighting, however, does not trouble a morning attempt. Wyke bells are a peal of eight, cast by Taylor, 1891. Previously there were only three bells here, with the tenor badly cracked. A record exists here that three bells were blessed by Bishop Beauchamp in 1455.

After the peal a call was made on Mr. Jennings, local captain, who was laid up with a sprained back. His absence and that of the Vicar, who was on holiday, left the duty of host in the vergers' well-tried hands, and a roadman's lunch was consumed before returning for the final attempt at Dorchester Parish Church in the evening.

To Mr. F. C. Benger (captain) and Mr. J. W. Smith (secretary) the visitors desire to tender their thanks for attentions which helped to complete the Stedman peal achieved. The bells, a ring of six, of 1734—cast from five old bells of 1550—were made eight by Bilbie in 1750 (tenor 49in. diameter), Warners recasting two and restoring the peal in 1889. A notice appears on the belfry door giving the foreman's address and the hours of Sunday ringing and practices at St. Peter's. Rather a useful idea and a help to strange ringers to find their way up for a touch. Three cars and a cycle went their way of parting, and only old Bill was left for the railway to carry home with his little handbag, with the Irish customs' mark upon it still visible.

A VISIT TO WISBOROUGH.

On Saturday afternoon, August 31st, ringers from various towers paid a visit to the very pretty village of Wisborough Green, Sussex, and enjoyed a ring on the recently augmented peal. Among the visitors was Mr. Charles Tribe, of Tenterden, Kent, who in his early youth lived there. The ringing included 720's in the following methods: Kent Treble Bob, Oxford Treble Bob, and Bob Minor, also 120 each of Stedman and Grandsire Doubles. The following took part in the ringing: T. Adams, J. Burdfield, F. Brooks, P. H. Doick, A. Fiest, C. Tribe, R. Wood, the conducting being shared by Messrs. A. Fiest and C. Tribe. At tea the company were the guests of Mr. Tribe. Votes of thanks were accorded the Vicar (the Rev. G. H. Newton, M.A.) for granting the use of the bells, also to Mr. W. G. Ford, the local secretary for his help.

WARWICKSHIRE GUILD.

A successful monthly meeting of the Warwickshire Guild was held at Brinklow, near Rugby, on Saturday. Members attended from Allesley, Bulkington, Chilvers Coton, Husbands Bosworth, Monk's Kirby, Nuneaton, Shilton, Stoke in Coventry, Stoke Golding, Rugby and Willoughby. The bells, a light peal of six (the back five of which were cast by Smith, of Edgbaston, in 1705, and retuned and augmented by Taylor and Co. in 1927), were raised about 3 p.m., and kept going in various methods until five o'clock. The ringers then repaired to the schoolroom, where they partook of a splendid tea. Returning to the belfry, which has a stone floor sloping towards the main door, ringing was again indulged in until eight o'clock, when the bells were lowered. The methods rung during the afternoon and evening were Plain Bob Doubles and Minor Grandsire and Stedman Doubles, Double Stedman, Double Oxford, Double Court, Kent Treble Bob, Cambridge and London Surprise.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

NORTH. BUCKS. BRANCH.

A very pleasant quarterly meeting of the North Bucks Branch was held at Great Brickhill on Saturday, September 7th. The fine weather, the beautiful surroundings, and a good attendance made the gathering all that could be desired. The following towers were represented: Bletchley, Beachampton, Fenny Stratford, Stoney Stratford and Shenley, with visitors from Bedford, Woburn and Linslade. The bells were kept going in various methods until the service, which was conducted by the Vicar of Great Brickhill, Rev. D. R. James, the Guild form being used. A short and interesting address was given by the Rev. Harper, Vicar of Little Brickhill. Tea was served at the village hotel, when about 30 sat down.

The Secretary, Mr. W. Sear, announced that there was no special business to be transacted, but proposed a very hearty vote of thanks to the Vicar of Great Brickhill for arranging for the meeting, to the Rev. Harper for his address, and to the organist. This was suitably responded to.

Great Brickhill is a beautiful spot, with a nice church. The only place that is not pleasant is the ringing chamber, because of the absence of light and ventilation. No ringing can take place without artificial light, and a window is badly needed. This was brought before those concerned with a view to discussing the matter with the Parochial Church Council to see if something can be done.

Ringling during the afternoon varied from Grandsire and Stedman Doubles to London Surprise Minor.

PHOTOGRAPHS WANTED.

PICTURES OF CHURCH TOWERS FOR PUBLICATION IN 'THE RINGING WORLD.'

The Editor of 'The Ringing World' will be glad to receive photographs of churches, with a view to their future publication when suitable occasion arises.

The photographs should be accompanied by brief particulars of the bells, with their inscriptions and dates if possible, and any other interesting information about them.

Pictures should, for preference, be photographic post-cards, and, where there is any choice, the tower should be a feature.

Obviously, of course, all the pictures cannot be published at once, the object of getting a collection being that the photographs may be ready at hand for use when fitting opportunity occurs.

Will each tower secretary be good enough to send a photograph of his own tower? It should be forwarded in an envelope for protection, and addressed to The Editor, 'The Ringing World,' Woking, Surrey, and the sender should enclose his name and address.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

The secretary of the Salisbury Guild, Rev. F. Llewellyn Edwards, who, in common with other members of the Central Council, has recently visited Belgium, has been elected a member of the Carillon League of Bruges, or, in the sonorous Flemish version of its title, Brugsche Klokkenpelvereniging.

Mr. Robert H. Brundle, the Ipswich veteran, celebrated his 78th birthday last week by ringing a peal of Stedman Cinques.

The ringers who spent the week-end at Surfleet, September 7th to 9th, will learn with surprise and regret that Mr. Walter Perkins, of Irthlingborough, and who rang in the peals at Ewerby and Heckington, is in bed suffering from typhoid fever.

A ringing week in Suffolk, which resulted in twelve Surprise Major peals, concluded on Saturday. This is the way in which they rang them:—

Sunday: London Surprise.

Monday: Bristol and Cambridge.

Tuesday: Superlative and London.

Wednesday: Bristol.

Thursday: Cambridge and London.

Friday: Bristol and London.

Saturday: Cambridge and London.

Four of the band, Messrs. W. Pye, G. R. Pye, E. P. Duffield and C. W. Roberts, took part in all the peals, and during the week Mr. W. Pye rang his 200th peal of London Surprise and two peals in a day for the one hundredth time!

Another ringing tour is in progress this week in Cheshire and North Wales.

A gift of £50 has been received from Mr. J. H. Putnam, of Hartford, U.S.A., towards a new bell at Ashton Abbots, Bucks, Parish Church, which his ancestors attended in 1640.

Mr. C. H. Jennings, hon. secretary of the Dorchester Branch of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild, has met with an accident, which has temporarily laid him aside.

'Old Bill' has been having a good time in his favourite 'rest billet' in Lincolnshire. Taken on a tour over lines of communication, he has been able to pass an opinion on the rings of twelve at Lincoln, Sheffield and York. He is back again now in his 'dug-out' in London.

Thirty years ago to-day the first peal of Stedman Caters in Hants was rung at Winchester Cathedral. Only half of that band remain.

William Shipway was born at Bath on September 29th, 1760. His investigations in the art and the publication of his 'Campanologia' make him one of the outstanding figures in the history of the Exercise.

A peal of 5,040 'Bob Majors,' the first peal 'on ye eight new bells at Saint Mary, Rotherhithe,' was rung by the Eastern Scholars on October 1st, 1749.

A peal of 15,360 Bob Major was rung at Aston on October 1st, 1793, conducted by Joshua Short.

MR. TOM BEADLE APPEAL FUND.

Previously acknowledged £3 13s., donation from a ringer who rang his first peal at Isleworth £1, A. H. Winch 5s., R. K. Knight, Leytonstone 2s. 6d. Donations will be gratefully received on behalf of Mr. Beadle by Wm. H. Hollier, 29, Duke Road, Chiswick, W.4.

THE CATHEDRAL OF THE PEAK.

TIDESWELL'S FAMOUS CHURCH.

Tideswell Church, dedicated to St. John the Baptist, is of the 14th century, and the tower in particular presents a very fine spectacle with its four surrounding pinnacles. The interior contains brasses and tombs, one of which is dated 1358, and a chancel screen. The wood carving in the chancel and elsewhere in the church is particularly fine, most of the work having been done locally. It has a peal of eight bells recently installed by Messrs. Taylor & Co. This famous church is known throughout Derbyshire as the 'Cathedral of the Peak' and one has only to visit the church to realise the worthiness and aptness of its title.

TIDESWELL CHURCH—'THE CATHEDRAL OF THE PEAK.'

A very successful joint meeting of the Northern District of the Ladies' Guild and the Peak District of the Midland Counties Association was held at this church on Saturday week, when more than 70 ringers took the opportunity of trying the fine peal of eight bells recently hung by Messrs. Taylor and Co., of Loughborough.

The towers of the Peak District represented were Bakewell, Castleton, Eyam, Longstone, Matlock, and Tideswell, whilst members from Ashton-under-Lyne, Duffield and Handsworth were present on behalf of the Ladies' Guild. Other ringing visitors turned up from Ecclesfield, Sheffield (Cathedral and St. Marie's), Derby, Staveley, Chesterfield, Loughborough and Norton, a party from the latter place taking the opportunity of making Tideswell their rendezvous for their annual outing. Some very good ringing took place during the day, and many were the expressions of appreciation of the fine 'go' of the bells; they are so easy to handle.

With their customary hospitality, the Tideswell folk provided a sumptuous tea, for which the Rev. W. P. Wright, of Eyam, expressed thanks on behalf of all present.

In welcoming the visitors, the Rev. W. P. Edwards, Vicar of Tideswell, also took the opportunity of saying how much they owed Messrs. Taylor and Co. for the fine work they had carried out; he felt sure it would last for generations to come.—In thanking the Vicar for his kind words, Mr. Colin Harrison explained what the restoration and augmentation had involved, and said the firm had felt honoured to be associated with such a magnificent church and tower.

At the meetings which followed, the Rev. W. P. Wright took the chair for the Peak District, and explained that the secretary, Mr. J. E. Lewis Cockey, much regretted being unable to be present owing to being on holiday.—It was decided to hold the next meeting at Darley Dale on October 12th.

At the ladies' meeting, Miss N. Cawthorne, secretary, was in command, and it is hoped that it will be possible to hold their next meeting at Dore, near Sheffield, on the usual date.

Ringers were loth to leave the bells, but train and bus are no respecters of persons, with the result that at 8 o'clock the gathering broke up, but the memories of that happy meeting will linger for many days to come in the minds of those who were fortunate enough to be present.

THE CENTRAL COUNCIL.

THE OBJECTION TO ANNUAL ELECTIONS.

To the Editor.

Sir,—The proposal to substitute annual for triennial elections to the Central Council is open to two objections. First, it would prove impracticable; secondly, it would have exactly the opposite effect to that desired. As is well known, the actual work of the Council is done chiefly by committees. If members held office only for one year, there would be no certainty that any of those appointed to serve on a committee one year would be present the next year to report! The only exception would be in the case of honorary members. The inevitable result of such a state of things would be that the work of the Council would tend to become more and more concentrated in the hands of honorary members, to the exclusion of the elected representatives, and the acts of the Council would consequently become less, instead of more, representative of the affiliated societies.—Yours faithfully,

F. L. L. EDWARDS.

ONE CENTRAL ORGANISATION.

CHESTER GUILD AND NORTH STAFFS ASSOCIATION MEET.

A joint meeting of the Crewe Branch of the Chester Diocesan Guild and North Staffs Association was held on Saturday, September 14th, at Astbury, which is a delightful village in Cheshire just over the Staffordshire border. The church is one of the most ancient and beautiful to be found in the country, and well worth a visit by anyone interested in architectural beauty. This church formerly possessed a peal of four bells, which have recently been augmented by Messrs. Taylor and Co., and are now a lovely ring of six.

There was a good attendance, and almost all the towers in the surrounding district were represented. A service was conducted by the Rector.

Afterwards the company was entertained to tea by the Astbury ringers, after which there were votes of thanks to the Rector for the use of the bells, and to the Astbury ringers for providing the tea and entertaining the visitors so well.

Everyone agreed that this, the first joint meeting of the two Guilds, must be repeated, and it was decided forthwith to hold another meeting at the same place next year.

Mr. J. E. Wheeldon, of Norton, spoke of the good work that might be done by these joint meetings, and expressed the hope that they would be held more frequently all over the country. He also quoted extracts from 'The Ringing World's' leading article on the subject, which was much appreciated.

Mr. Langford, secretary of the Crewe Branch of the Chester Guild, spoke in similar terms. Mr. R. T. Holding referred to the good feeling which prevailed among ringers, and said that it was well that they should fraternise frequently at such meetings. He also prophesied that all ringing societies would in time be worked from one centre, and that all members would, therefore, be members of one great body, and so do away with the question of whether they were members of this or that particular association.

This idea seemed to meet with the approval of all present.

After tea, the tower was again visited, and various methods were rung, including London, Cambridge, Biddulph, Plain Bob, etc. This brought to a close one of the best meetings ever held in the district.

JAMES BARHAM'S GREAT FEAT.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—Replying to your correspondent's query re James Barham, of Leeds, Kent, it was not in the 40,320 that he rang 14 hours, but in the following:—

1755, March 31, Monday, we attempted a 40,320 Quadruple and Tripple changes of Bob Major and ended thus, viz., . . . at 2 o'clock in the afternoon Began and on Tuesday morning at 6 o'clock the 6th Bell Clapper Broke after Ringing 24,800 changes this never been attempted before and the Greatest Performance of Ringing ever known in this Peal James Barham stood 14 hours and 44 minutes under the 7th bell. Drank two glasses of wine and called all the Bobs.

YORKSHIRE COMMEMORATION DINNER.

REPRESENTATIVE GATHERING AT SHEFFIELD.

MEMORIES OF GREAT RINGERS.

Sheffield was this year the venue of the eighth annual dinner, organised by the Yorkshire Association in memory of Jasper Whitfield Snowdon, the first president, and past officers. The event drew together a company of a hundred, including representative ringers from various centres of the county and visitors from numerous other associations. Excellent arrangements for the enjoyment of the large party had been made by a local committee, consisting of Messrs. G. Lewis (president), M. E. Wilson, R. Harrison, jun., and Mr. S. F. Palmer, the last named discharging assiduously the duties of hon. secretary. In the afternoon ringing took place on the twelve bells at the Cathedral and the eight at St. Marie's Church. The Cathedral belfry is specially attractive to visiting ringers, not only because it is one of the twelve-bell towers of Yorkshire, but because of its association with Charles Henry Hattersley, whose library of ringing books has found a home in the ringing chamber.

The dinner was served at the King's Head Hotel, Change Alley, under the genial chairmanship of the Ven. Archdeacon of Sheffield (the Rev. J. Russell Darbyshire), who was supported by the Rev. Canon Dolan (St. Marie's, R.C.) and Rev. C. C. Marshall (president of the Yorkshire Association). Among those also present were Mr. P. J. Johnson (hon. secretary of the Yorkshire Association) and Mrs. Johnson, Mr. James Cotterell (hon. treasurer) and Mrs. Cotterell, Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Palmer, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Goldsmith (Woking), Mr. Colin Harrison and Mr. J. P. Fidler (representing Messrs. Taylor and Co.), Mr. A. A. Hughes (Whitechapel Bell Foundry), Mr. S. E. Roper (Creighton Bell Foundry), Mr. J. W. Rowbotham (representing the Ancient Society of College Youths), Mr. Albert Walker (St. Martin's Guild, Birmingham), Mr. W. H. Shaker (secretary, Lancashire Association) and Mrs. Shaker, Mr. and Mrs. W. Thomas and Mr. W. Knight (Bristol), Mr. T. King (Bath), Mr. and Mrs. R. Richardson (Surfleet), Mr. W. Hewett (London), Mr. Arthur Knights (Chesterfield), Mr. B. Knights (Preston), Mr. A. H. Ward (Derby), Mr. T. Wilde (Chester Guild), Mr. J. E. Lewis Cockey (secretary of the Peak District of the Midland Counties Association) and Mrs. Cockey, Mr. J. T. Rew (Redbourne), Mr. and Mrs. F. Salmon (Halifax), Mr. A. G. Rivers (Cambridge), Mr. and Mrs. G. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Jowett, Mr. C. E. Rawson, Mr. J. Grimshaw (Leeds), Mr. J. Hardcastle (Bradford), Messrs. J. Thorpe, H. Thorpe, J. Holman, J. Dixon, W. Bargar and P. Knights, Mr. and Mrs. R. Harrison, sen., Mr. and Mrs. R. Harrison, jun., and Misses Harrison (Sheffield), Messrs. W. Biggin (Norton), G. Lewis (Ecclesford), F. Clarke (Doncaster), etc.

RINGERS' INDEBTEDNESS TO THE CHURCH.

The loyal toast having been honoured, Mr. Colin Harrison then proposed 'The Church and State.' He said they regarded the presence of the Archdeacon as a great compliment, because it was to the Church that they were indebted for the privilege and undoubted honour of the inception and carrying on of the ringers' art. Despite a great deal of indifference by clergy in the past, they had only to think for a moment of what would more than forty thousand ringers be doing to-day if the Church had not founded the belfries of centuries ago, to realise what they owed to religion and the English Church in particular.

The glorious piles of York Minster, Lincoln Cathedral, Selby Abbey, Beverley Minster, St. Paul's Cathedral, Lichfield and Southwark Cathedrals, and other instances of ecclesiastical architecture, with their magnificent towers, each with a beauty of their own, were a legacy which the Church had handed down from generation to generation, and yet, even in their present impoverished state, all the dollars of America would not tempt them to part with one of them. Not only had the ringers to thank the Church for all she had given them in the past; they had also to appreciate the intelligent interest and help which the majority of her clergy were taking and had taken for some years now on matters connected with both bells and ringers. Their influence had done much to speed up belfry reform and bell restorations, and they hoped the present happy relations between clergy and ringers would continue (applause). As far as the State was concerned, it had much to thank the Church for. Not only did the State benefit financially by the visits of thousands of American cousins and foreigners, who came to view the stately structures, they had also to remember that the law-abiding nature of our citizens was due to a great extent to the teaching they had received from the Sunday School teacher, the Bible Class leader, the curate and the Vicar, for it was undoubtedly from them that we had inherited the knowledge of what was right and what was wrong. All this tended to show the very important part which the Church played in our national life, and, despite the upheavals in politics which we had from time to time, we found the Church still maintaining its dignity, and its clergy continuing the duties they had undertaken. Whatever Government might be in power, whatever attacks modernists and scientists might make upon the Church, so long as she continued to teach the children to fear God, to love their parents and to honour the King, she could depend upon it that, not only ringers, but the majority of the citizens of this vast Empire would support the Church and its undertakings (applause).

The Chairman, in replying to the toast, referred to the great pleasure it had been to him to have the Rev. Canon Dolan next to him that evening. He was not at all sure that Canon Dolan should not have responded to the toast, as many millions of his fellow-churchmen in England had been rejoicing this year upon one hundred years of happy relations between his Church and the State, whereas some people seemed to think that the Church of England was having somewhat strained relations with the State at the present moment (laughter). The Archdeacon went on to say that he was very happy to think that in that fine gathering the co-operation and association between the Church and the ringers was so clearly demonstrated. He hoped that priests and parsons on their part would long continue to show sympathy and co-operation with the ringers, and that the ringers, on their part, would realise that theirs was more than an art, that it was a piece of service which they rendered, not only to the community, for which the community was not always as grateful as it might be (laughter), but to the Church and to God (hear, hear). The bells were not merely put into the churches in order that eight, ten or twelve men might enjoy themselves from time to time, but they were placed there for the glory of God. He hoped that all those whose vocation it was to recommend the Gospel to mankind would always recognise the ringers as brothers in that service, and that the ringers would recognise their art as a sacred art. If that were remembered he thought they could look forward to a great succession of those happy gatherings when, with acclamation, if not always with eloquence, the toast of 'Church and State' would be honoured by the whole company (applause).

JASPER WHITFIELD SNOWDON.

The Rev. C. C. Marshall proposed the toast of the evening, 'The Memory of the late Jasper Whitfield Snowdon and Past Officers of the Association,' and first read a letter which he had received from Mr. W. T. Pates, of Cheltenham, who, in expressing regret that he was unable to be present owing to pressure of business, wrote that he rang a peal of Grandire Triples with the late Jasper Snowdon in 1878. 'Jasper Snowdon,' wrote Mr. Pates, 'was a great man.' Referring to his respected and revered friend, the late Mr. C. H. Hattersley, Mr. Pates added, 'What a striker; what company! His motto was "Short visits; long peals."' They were all glad, said Mr. Marshall, to receive that greeting from one of the few surviving people who rang peals with their first president and founder. He thought he would be in order in suggesting that Mr. Palmer should send greetings from that gathering to Mr. Pates and thank him for his expression of kindness. Continuing, the speaker said he had received a letter from Miss Snowdon, daughter of the late Mr. W. Snowdon, in which she said that she and her mother would be thinking of them that night, and wishing the association every prosperity and its members every happiness in the work. They were proud to bear the name of Snowdon and would continue to take an interest in the activities of the association to the end of their lives. He (Mr. Marshall) took it it would be their pleasure that he should write and reciprocate the kind wishes expressed in the letter (hear, hear). Continuing, Mr. Marshall said it was with mixed feelings that he rose to propose the toast which was to revive their memory of the founder of that association, their first president, and other past officers, and to renew their gratitude to them for all that they did for the association, and in that gratitude to renew their own purpose to do their best to carry on the work which had been handed down to them. He felt it a great honour to have been asked to propose that toast, coming, as he did, as their third president, following their illustrious founder, Jasper Whitfield Snowdon, and his brother, William Snowdon. He had held office since 1911, and, while he felt it an honour to be entrusted with the toast, he wished someone else might have been found, outside themselves, to propose it, someone who was, perhaps, more fitted to speak, either from personal knowledge of the founder or from a more personal knowledge of their second president, and one who could speak on the deeper side of change ringing better than he could. He had said that their purpose was more especially to revive the memory of Jasper Whitfield Snowdon. There were some there who had personal knowledge of that great man, for undoubtedly he was a great man, a man who brought to the work of change ringing and to the formation of their association great ability, a very strong, sterling, manly character, surpassing energy and a very keen desire to lift the work of the bell ringers to the very highest plane, realising that that work was an integral part of the work of the Church, of which he was so devoted a son. On these points he would like to say a word or two.

AN HONOURED PIONEER.

Jasper Snowdon was a man of great and outstanding ability. He brought to the work of change ringing a very keen and active brain, and he did a work for change ringing such as no man before him had ever done (hear, hear). As a ringer himself they were told that in 16 short years he did more than most, and he actually rang 129 peals, besides attempting 127 which were not successful. That was some consolation to those who often failed in their attempts for peals. But it was probably in the sphere of the literature of ringing that he out-distanced all others, and ringers knew how much he did for the Exercise by the assiduous, careful and able work which had been handed down in the various books on bellringing. And not only did he do this great work for bellringing by the books which he wrote, but it was well also to remember that he wrote at the same time a great many articles on bellringing in the popular papers of the day, and by that means did more than, perhaps, any other man to raise bellringing in the estimation of the people of the land and to raise the whole tone of the Exercise to a higher level altogether. Secondly, they had to try and recollect him as a man of great and sterling character, and all who knew him very soon learned to love him. The accounts which they had of the affection in which he was held by the ringers of that time showed them something, at any rate, of the extraordinarily kind and strong character he must have borne. That again was a thing most worthy to remember. The next thing which they recalled was his assiduousness and hard work and the unselfishness in all that he did for ringing, in fact, in everything he undertook. As one read of his life it was hard to understand how he did all that he did do in those few short years for bellringing and for that association, in addition to carrying on his own business. He never spared himself in his desire to help other people, and he could only have accomplished all that he achieved by never wasting a moment of his life and by giving to everything that he did the very best that he could give. Those were things which they wanted to remember. Mr. Marshall recalled the instance of Jasper Snowden's unbounded energy, when he walked from Leeds to London in five days for a holiday, and, on his arrival in the Metropolis, took the next train home. The next point was a great point for them to remember, and that was his desire to raise the status of bellringers and the art. He enabled ringers to see and to realise that their work was a very real and integral and important part of the work of the Church. He was a pioneer in that way, and his purpose in founding the association, with the others who assisted him, was to bind ringers together as a real part of the working personnel of the Church. Before him very little had been done in that way. The Yorkshire Association was the second county or diocesan association to have been formed. The Devon Guild was the first and Yorkshire came next, and those who did the work in those days deserved all the honour that they could give them as pioneers. It was one thing to be a pioneer, it was another thing to follow, and it was as a great and honoured pioneer in that matter that they thought of Jasper Snowden. In reviving that memory they desired to renew their own purpose in trying to bring something of that same spirit into the work which they had been called upon to undertake, especially in connection with the great art and science of bellringing.

OTHER ILLUSTRIOUS MEN.

Passing on to refer to other past officers of the association, Mr. Marshall spoke of Jasper Snowden's brother, William Snowden, who, he said, was, perhaps, sometimes rather eclipsed by the glory which surrounded the memory of J. W. Snowden, but they had to remind themselves of what they owed to William Snowden for the fostering care which he bestowed upon that association through 25 years of presidency. It was interesting to remind them that the first minute book covered ten years of the life of the association, and with the exception of one meeting it was written in the handwriting of Jasper Snowden. The second set of minute books covered 25 years, and without exception, he believed, was written in the handwriting of William Snowden. He believed he was right in saying that during the whole of that time he did not miss a single general meeting of the association. He undertook the work in loyalty to his brother and with the real desire to fulfil and carry out to the best of his ability the work which was so suddenly thrust upon him, and they must that night do honour to his memory and remember with gratitude what he did for their association. There were other names which, of course, came to the minds of many of them, but he could not mention them all. One or two, however, stood out conspicuously, and the first was William Horner Howard, the old veteran of York, a devout son of the Church, who was one of the first and most interesting supporters of the association. He took the chair at the preliminary meetings and in other ways showed his keen and active interest in the life of the association. They in Sheffield would not need to be reminded of the name of Charles Henry Hattersley, whose keenness that the very best should be given to ringing would be remembered by those who knew him. Mr. Marshall went on to mention the names of Charles Jackson, George Bolland, William Pearson, Harry Williams, all of whom laboured devotedly in the interests of the association. It was, he said, to ask them to revive their memories of these men that he stood before them that night, and to ask them to remember that they were called as their successors to a great and honourable work and a great and honourable heritage. Sometimes one felt that these days in which we now lived were difficult days for bellringing. He did not think there was the same enthusiasm amongst young people that they used to find. It was not so easy to get young people to stick to this work, and if those who were carrying on the traditions of these men of the past would put into the work the same real unselfishness, it would be the best way in which they could honour their names. Also he would like to emphasise the desire of those who had gone before them

SUSSEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

EASTERN DIVISION WELCOMED BY DEAN OF BATTLE.

A quarterly meeting of the Eastern Division was held at Battle on Saturday, when 27 members, representing the following towers, attended: Battle; Christ Church, Blacklands; St. Saviour's, Eastbourne; Heathfield; Heene, Ringmer; Salchurst; Christ Church, St. Leonards. Ringing commenced at about 2.30 p.m. and various methods were indulged in during the afternoon. The service was conducted by the Dean (the Rev. W. W. Youard), who gave a most interesting address.

A splendid tea was provided in the Parish Room through the kindness of the Dean, who presided. He also occupied the chair at the short business meeting which followed.

The hon. secretary (Mr. W. Stokes) proposed a hearty vote of thanks to the Dean for the use of the bells, for the address at the service, and also for his kindness in entertaining the members to tea. He also thanked the organist for his services and the ladies and gentlemen who so kindly attended to the visitors' wants at the tea table. This was supported by Mr. Amies, of Christ Church, St. Leonards.

The Rev. W. W. Youard responded, and stated that it was just over four years since the association had held a meeting at Battle. He thought perhaps their visits could be made more frequent. He was very pleased to welcome the ringers and to know that he had helped to make their visit an enjoyable one.

This terminated the meeting, and the ringers then returned to the tower and kept the bells going until about 8 o'clock.

SURREY ASSOCIATION.

NORTH-WESTERN DISTRICT.

A very successful meeting of the North-Western District was held at Beddington on Saturday, members and friends attending from Banstead, Beddington, Croydon (St. John's and St. Peter's), Chislehurst, Crawley, London, Merstham, Mitcham, Queenborough, Redhill and Reigate. The bells were kept going for an hour before service, which was conducted by the Rev. F. G. Witcomb (curate at Beddington), who gave an excellent address. Tea followed at the Harvest Home, 34 sitting down to a very enjoyable meal. After some handbell ringing, the business was transacted, with the District Master (Mr. A. W. Clark) presiding.

The secretary reported the death of Mr. W. Groves, of St. Peter's, South Croydon, since the last meeting, and the members stood for a few moments in silence as a token of respect.

Six new members were elected and it was decided to hold another meeting in November, the tower being left to the secretary to arrange.

Members were also reminded of the joint meeting with the Guildford Diocesan Guild at Guildford on October 5th.

A very hearty vote of thanks was passed to the Rector for the use of the bells, the Rev. F. G. Witcomb for kindly conducting the service, and to Mr. C. H. Kippin for making the necessary arrangements.

The tower was again visited and some good practice was obtained in various methods, including Cambridge Surprise Royal and London Surprise Major. The majority of the company then returned to the Harvest Home for a social evening, kindly arranged by Mr. Kippin, who gave selections on his fine set of handbells, while songs were also rendered by Mrs. Darby and Messrs. D. Wright, C. H. Kippin, F. Jennings and H. B. Wells, which brought a very enjoyable meeting to a close.

The district secretary would have liked to see a few more North-Western District members present at the meeting.

'UNSPICED!'

At All Saints' Church, Maidstone, on Saturday last, after 2 hours and 55 minutes' good ringing, an attempt for a peal of Kent Treble Bob Royal came to grief through a spliced rope becoming unspliced in the 9th course. Those taking part were: C. H. Sone 1, Mrs. H. Baker 2, T. Saunders 3, J. Bassett (first touch on ten) 4, H. Baker 5, T. E. Sone (conductor) 6, F. G. Brett 7, C. W. Franklin 8, C. W. Player 9, F. White 10.

to cement the connection between bellringers and their Church. That was a thing which all ringers ought to be doing to-day, and the more they could welcome amongst them the clergy who had charge of the bells and interest them in the work which the ringers were doing, the more they would be fulfilling the trust which had been handed down to them (applause).

The toast was drunk in silence and a 'loving cup' was then passed round. This cup is a cherished possession of the Sheffield Cathedral company and is inscribed: 'Presented to the Sheffield St. Peter's Amalgamated Society of Ringers by the ringers of Ashton-under-Lyne as a token of esteem and friendship, 1836.'

A course of Stedman Cinques was afterwards rung on handbells by Messrs. C. Harrison, J. Thorp, A. Walker, G. Lewis, S. Briggs and S. Palmer.

LLANDAFF AND MONMOUTH DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION CENTRAL COUNCIL DISCUSSED.

A meeting of the above association was held at Caldicot on Saturday last, when there was an excellent muster of ringers from both Monmouthshire and Glamorganshire. The bells, a good going eight, were raised about three o'clock and rung in various methods. Advantage was taken by a number of the opportunity to go through Caldicot Castle and grounds, the various objects of interest being explained by the Vicar's brother, who acted as guide. Tea, which had been very generously provided by the Vicar and his co-workers, was served in the Parish Hall, between 60 and 70 sitting down.

The business meeting followed, presided over by the Vicar, who commenced by heartily welcoming to Caldicot the ringers, for whom, he said, he would always be only too pleased to do his level best.

Instructors' reports and reports on restorations and augmentations were dealt with.

The hon. secretary brought to notice the recent letters, articles, etc., which have appeared in 'The Ringing World' with regard to the Central Council. Mr. Pike then gave notice that he would, at the annual meeting to be held on December 26th, put forward something in regard to it; in the meantime he would consider what form his resolution should take.

Owing to illness near the church, the meeting fixed for Llantrisant cannot be held, and it was decided to hold it at Caerphilly if it could be arranged. After the usual vote of thanks the meeting closed and a move made for the Parish Church, where service was held at 6 o'clock, the Vicar officiating and having the assistance of the organist and surpliced choir. The address was one of encouragement to ringers as churchworkers, and most interesting.

The bells were afterwards rung until late in the evening, and the meeting may be described as a huge success.

HERTFORD COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

'SPICED' RINGING AT DISTRICT MEETING.

A quarterly meeting of the Northern District of the Hertford County Association was held at Barley on Saturday last, when the following towers were represented: Anstey, Barkway, Elmdon, Melbourn, Nazeing, Royston, Offley, Great Shelford, Trumpington and the local band. The bells were opened at 3 p.m., when 240 changes of Stedman Doubles were rung. A short service was held, at which the association's form was used, and the Rector gave a brief but instructive address. He said how pleased he was to welcome the association to Barley, for the Church owed a debt of gratitude to the ringers for their voluntary work, which was carried on Sunday by Sunday throughout the year.

Mr. A. E. Austin, of Great Shelford, presided at the organ. Tea was provided by Host Bettridge at the Waggon and Horses Inn, when 16 ringers were present.

The usual business meeting followed tea, the Rector being voted to the chair. The Rector (the Rev. J. R. Gardiner) was elected as an honorary member of the association, and it was decided to hold the next meeting at King's Walden, where the bells have recently been rehung, the date being left to the secretary to arrange, if possible, during October.

Votes of thanks were passed to the Rector for the use of the bells and for conducting the service, also to Mr. A. E. Austin for presiding at the organ.

The tower was afterwards again visited. The methods rung during the afternoon and evening were Stedman Doubles, Bob Minor, Double Court, Oxford and Kent Treble Bob, Cambridge, London, Wells, Annabell's London Surprise, also spliced touches of Cambridge, Ipswich, Beverley and Surfleet, Spliced York and Durham, and Spliced London and Wells. Some of the local band had the opportunity of ringing their first courses of London and Wells Surprise. Courses of Grandsire Doubles and Plain Bob Minor were rung for the beginners.

COALBROOKDALE RINGER MARRIED.

On Saturday, September 21st, Mr. W. D. ('Billy') Wase and Miss D. Roberts were married at St. Luke's Church, Iron Bridge (the Parish Church of the bride). As Mr. and Mrs. Wase are making their home at Warrington, his friends of the tower, assisted by Messrs. A. Greenfield (Dudley), H. Boswell (Blakehall), C. Watts (Dawley), and A. Pritchard (Wellington), attempted a peal of Grandsire Caters at his old tower at Coalbrookdale, but this unfortunately came to grief after 1½ hours' good ringing. Other ringing took place during the evening, and, to finish, the bells were 'fired.'

Afterwards the band adjourned to the Coalbrookdale Inn, to partake of refreshments, which were generously provided by the bridegroom.

A very pleasing little ceremony took place on Sunday morning in the belfry. Twelve of the local ringers, together with the Vicar and churchwardens, met to present Mr. Wase with a silver bell inscribed suitably inscribed. The Vicar, in making the presentation, wished Mr. Wase every success in his new home.

Mr. W. Saunders (head ringer) also wished Mr. Wase, on behalf of the local band, every happiness and success. Mr. Wase suitably responded.

ESSEX ASSOCIATION.

SOUTH-WESTERN DIVISION.

The meeting at Barking on Saturday last was attended by between 70 and 80 members and friends, and there is no doubt this large number was attracted owing to the meeting taking place on the concluding day of the week's Hallowing Services, which have been held in connection with the restoration of St. Margaret's Church which has now been restored with the exception of some of the outer walls, windows and tower. The bells were raised by 2.30 p.m. and soon going to various methods till 4.45, when a short service, conducted by the Vicar, was held, during which those present once again had the pleasure of hearing Miss Dawson splendidly render one of her solos. A move was afterwards made to the Municipal Restaurant, where tea was served to a company of 64.

The business meeting followed, presided over by the Vicar (the Rev. L. S. Hunter), supported by Mr. C. H. Howard (Master), Mr. A. Prior (District Master), Messrs. Nevard and Saunders (District Masters respectively of the North-Eastern and Northern Divisions), Messrs. G. and T. Faulkner, etc.

Two new members were elected and Leytonstone agreed upon as place of the district annual meeting on November 23rd next.

The proceedings were brought to a close by the passing of a hearty vote of thanks to the Vicar for allowing the use of tower and bells and conducting the service, to the organist for kindly accompanying the hymns, etc., at the service, to Miss Dawson for her solo, to Messrs. T. and G. Faulkner for making the necessary arrangements, and to all those who had in any way helped to make the afternoon a success.

During the day members were present from Leytonstone, London, Romford, Malden, Greenstead Green, Great Bentley, West Ham, Bentley, Prittlewell, Leigh, Edmonton, Braintree, Hornchurch, Stanford-le-Hope, Orsett, Tilbury, Dagenham, Brentwood, Barking, Leyton, Thorington, and touches of Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Double Norwich, Bob Major, Kent and Oxford Treble Bob, London, Bristol, Cambridge and Superlative were rung.

THE 18½ TON RINGING BELL,
the Bourdon of the Carillon of 64 Bells, about to be installed at
RIVERSIDE CHURCH, NEW YORK, U.S.A.

A HEALTHY SIGN.

It is a healthy sign that the recent criticisms of the constitution of the Central Council and the suggestions for strengthening the ties between the affiliated bodies and the Council are being brought to the notice of some of the associations. Already the Llandaff and Monmouth Association, the Worcestershire Association and the Lancashire Association have moved in the matter and others will doubtless follow suit. Great good could result from a general discussion in all the associations, if the matter be approached with the desire to effect improvement. Constructive and not destructive criticism is what is desired, and if this is offered and reduced to concrete form in the shape of resolutions which can be brought before the Council, that organisation can be placed upon a footing which will establish it much more firmly as the central and guiding authority of the Exercise. But in order that this may be done effectually it is necessary that there should be some general basis of preliminary discussion, and we may be able shortly to publish draft proposals which ringers may be able to discuss in their meetings, either approving or suggesting amendments as they think fit. On the strength of the views thus expressed, motions likely to commend themselves to the representatives of the associations on the Council might be placed on the agenda for the next meeting in the names of one or more members.

In putting forward this suggestion we have no desire whatever to force the hands of the Council, but past experience has shown that, unless there is some attempt at correlation, chaos is the usual result, and nothing is done because there is no general understanding as to what course should be pursued. It is only in the hope that we may be of some assistance in co-ordinating any proposals which are made that we suggest the course indicated above. We are hoping to see the fullest discussion of the subject and the achievement of the best results. Reasoned criticism through our columns is also invited, because the more the subject is ventilated the more likelihood is there of obtaining views which will gain the approval of the majority of ringers. Those of our leaders who have ideas for improving the usefulness of the Council and for bringing it into closer touch with the associations and guilds which elect the members should not hesitate, therefore, to put them forward.

Last week the Rev. F. Ll. Edwards offered two objections to the proposal for annual elections. He dismissed the suggestion first as impracticable, but he did not tell us why. Secondly, there was the risk that those appointed to serve on a committee would not be present the next year to report. The risk, we think, is not great that all the members of any committee would be 'thrown out' in any one year and the risk is certainly no greater than is now run every third year, when members are elected under the present constitution. There need be no alarm on this score from annual elections.
