The committee of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild wish to take this opportunity of thanking all who have so kindly helped in any way to bring the above scheme to such a successful conclusion.

R. RICHARDSON, Master.

ONE HUNDRED AND ONE NOT OUT.

At St. Bartholomew's Church, Areley Kings, Worcs, on Wednesday, Sept. 27th, 720 Oxford Rob Minor: Jas. Reynolds 1, Chas. Beaman 2, Thos. Eleox 3, Egbert Coley 4, George Butler 5, Henry Martin (Birkenhead) 6. Also 120 of Grandsire Doubles. The above touches were rung and the bells 'fired' on the occasion of the 101st birthday of Mrs. Mary Bullock, a much respected parishioner, and cousin of Mr. H. Martin. The venerable lady is fairly well in health and is able to walk about her garden.

CHANGE RINGING IN H.M. PRISONS.

To the Editor.

Sir,—In your last week's issue, in the report of a lecture given by Mr. Wilfrid Andrews, of Winchester, it was stated that the performance of change ringing was believed to be the first given in one of H.M.'s prisons.

An Armley band rang a course of Grandsire Caters in H.M. Prison, Leeds, many years ago.

JOHN W. MOORHOUSE.

PREJUDICE IN HIGH PLACES.

THE NEEDS OF COUNTRY PARISHES.

To the Editor.

Sir,—Whilst absolutely agreeing with your article and the letter of R. H., there is prejudice and prejudice. I fear that many people reading your article will read into it their own ideas that all old work should be scrapped and replaced with new. That this was not intended I know, but there are those who will undoubtedly use the article to express their own interpretation of it.

There are thousands of ringers who definitely dislike many modern bells, as compared with those cast before modern tuning methods were thought of. There is a mellowness about a ring of good old bells that one seldom hears in a new one. Doubtless an individual modern bell is in tune with itself which an old one may or may not be. But the effect of the whole ring may have a very definite jarring effect.

Further, in country places I very much doubt the wisdom of ball bearings on any except heavy bells, whilst the ultra modern stay appears to have been invented solely for the purpose of adding considerably to the cost of repairs. Incumbents have to think not only of the greatest efficiency, but also of primary and future cost.

Bellfounders are not philanthropists, but essentially business men. They are out to get work at the cheapest cost to themselves; primary efficiency is essential or they wouldn't get it; but obviously the more they can deal in 'stock' fittings the better for them. They are all ringers and have devised out of their experience the best fittings they can think of. They are perfectly honest in their advice, but do they all really think far enough into the requirements of the individual parish?

It appears to me that a crack ringing church in London requires something totally different to an isolated country parish, exposed to westerly gales of sea wind. In the former, have, by all means, every modern contrivance you can think of. In the latter many of them are an absolute curse. A stay, for instance, must be able to be knocked up by any village carpenter.

As an example of difference of opinion, I quote the difficulties of a Vicar who has a parish near me on the sea coast in a very wild part. He has three old bells, one a mediæval. He wants six and a new frame. The local antiquarian Rural Dean says that he must have an oak frame (in these days when it is impossible to get any but green oak) and must keep his present bells (one of them is slightly cracked).

He consulted a bellfounder, who said he must have a STEEL frame, ball bearings and scrap all the old bells. If he wanted to keep the mediæval bell, put it in a museum. He then consulted me. Now the two good bells have a beautiful tone, especially the mediæval. I, knowing nothing of what had previously been said, gave my vote solid for an iron frame and consult a different bellfounder whom I mentioned with a view to a splice. He then informed me of the above, and I left him scratching his head. Possibly he'll take the advice of the antiquarian, in which case no one will be able or want to ring his bells in the inside of five years.

Possibly he'll take the advice of the bellfounder, in which case he'll have a scaling and painting job to do at least every two years and have to send away every time a stay is broken.

I doubt if I am of sufficient importance for him to take mine, but I think in the end he'd be better satisfied if he did.

May I conclude by reminding you that I absolutely agree with your remarks; but not with the interpretation which may in some quarters be put on them, that everything should be left in the hands of the bellfounder. I do not suppose for a moment you can find space for this letter, and I write it more for a plea for more long-sighted consideration of the requirements of individual parishes than at present obtains in the ranks of 'crack' ringers of 'crack' churches than anything else.

ANCIENT BELL FRAMES.

THE VIEWS OF THE S.P.A.B.

Dear Sir,—I have read the leading article of Friday, September 15th, in 'The Ringing World.' Although I know more than one 'eminent ecclesiastical architect' who might be the one referred to by you, other of your readers not being so fortunate may associate the opinions you mention to the wrong person or even to this society. Since I know there used to be prejudice against the society I serve because of their care for, and interest in, bells and bell cages, I desire your permission again to make the society's relationship in this matter clear in your paper.

The sound of ringing bells is delightful, and those who enjoy this sound with me are grateful to the Exercise that gives us this pleasure. The delight in the sound of ringing bells is of a kind like to the delight to be had in unspoiled English country; and for that matter it is like the pleasure to be had from the knowledge and the view of the ancient buildings which add a human grace to this country. Both are æsthetic pleasures (forgive the word). That there should be in any minds an idea that the pleasures to be had from a good ring of bells and those provided by a nobly built and fortunately preserved tower conflict, shows stupidity; for the promotion of fine bellringing and the preservation of fine towers equally serve the living generations of mankind.

Nothing is more damaging to an ancient tower than to force the ringing of heavily going bells in a weak frame, neither is there any pleasure to the ringers, nor would those outside, knowing the condition, wish to hear this laboured music.

It is important, therefore, that bell cages should be properly designed, not only as to the arrangement of the bells, but as to the form and weight of the cage, and as to the means whereby the loads it has to take are transmitted to the walls of the tower. In advising on such matters three principles seem to stand out and guide my society.

1. The preservation of the tower, the preservation of ancient cages and of old bells, and, if possible, of all that pertains to an example of ancient bellhanging.

2. When it is necessary make a new cage for an old ring in an old tower. As far as the sound of the bells and the structure of the tower is concerned, provided the design of the cage is good, it does not really matter what material is used for that cage.

3. As the whole pleasure of bellringing and hearing the music is æsthetic, so in the hanging of bells also there should be no æsthetic offence.

If difference exists between the approach of this society to the subject of bellringing and the approach of those who are enthusiastic performers, it appears to me that it lies in the fact that some bellringers have not considered, or, if they have considered, have not accepted, the third of the above enumerated principles.

A man, who fully enjoys the sound of ringing bells, the tower from which the sound comes and contemplating the village and meadows over which the sound travels, is shocked if he learns that the ancient tower has suffered a brutal treatment at the hand of a bellhanger, and this though no structural injury is done to the walls. An apple may look rosy red and attractive, but the knowledge that it is tunnelled with the browning tracks of a maggot takes æsthetic pleasure from the contemplation of its coloured beauty; for as great a part of that pleasure is in knowing as it is in seeing or hearing. It is thus with a mediæval church tower when the unsympathetic merchant of steel has forced his unwanted and unneeded wares there; and this when, in fact, materials of the old kind will efficiently serve. There is no reason at all why modern knowledge of construction should not be decently applied to the benefit of an ancient building in the matter of bellhanging as in others, and it is for its thoughtful, rather than its excessive and boastful application, that the Society for the Protection of Ancient Buildings appeals.

It is unseemly to replace the decaying stonework of a traceried window with a metal casting of what has disappeared, it is usually unseemly and disagreeable even to use in such a position a casting made in modern synthetic stone; when such things are done, everyone agrees that the mellowing work of our forefathers is insulted; yet the exaggerated idolater of 'Progress and Modernity' would doubtless build a perfectly logical argument why these materials are better than any that have preceded them; as in some respects and on some occasions they are.

I cannot believe your readers who so much enjoy the beauty of bells and the sound they make will be unsympathetic to, or will be unable to understand, the kindred love of beauty felt by the members of this society. If they do understand these things, or even if they do no more than see that there may be something in them, the society would ask all bellringers to join with it in preserving ancient church towers, ancient bells, ancient bell cages, and when alterations have to be made, or repairs are to be done, that they should urge, as part of the object of these works, the preservation of the character and 'being' of the single unit that is the church, the tower, the bells and the cage.

LEEDS AND DISTRICT SOCIETY.

The September meeting of Leeds and District Society was held at St. Matthew's, Holbeck, on Saturday, September 30th. The bells were rung up at 3 p.m. and continued in use (except for a break for the tea and meeting) until 9 p.m.

The business meeting was held in the Church Schoolroom in the evening, with the president in the chair. One new member was elected, viz., Mr. C. F. Sutcliffe, of Brighouse.

It was decided to hold the next meeting at Birstall on October 28th. Mr. Senior proposed and Mr. Armitage seconded that the best thanks of the society be accorded the churchwardens and the local company for the day's meeting and arrangements.—Mr. Morris replied for the local company, who promised to inform the churchwardens of the vote.

There is at present no Vicar at Holbeck. Before the meeting was declared closed, a well-struck course of Bob Royal was rung on handbells.

GOLDEN WEDDING AND A JUBILEE.

To mark the occasion of the golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. R. Bevan and also Mr. Bevan's completion of 50 years as a ringer at St. Martin's Church, Gospel Oak, members of the Royal Cumberland Youths rang 720 Bob Minor on Thursday, September 28th, at St. Martin's Church, conducted by Mr. Bevan's son: W. Norton 1. R. Bevan 2. J. Payton (first 720 'inside') 3. F. Smith 4. E. Bondfield 5. T. Bevan (first 720 as conductor) 6.

DEVON GUILD AT WIDECOMBE.

SUCCESSFUL BRANCH MEETING.

The South-West Branch of the Devon Guild held a district meeting at Widecombe-in-the-Moor on Saturday, September 30th, with a record attendance of 66 members and friends, including visitors from Mid-Devon and Exeter Branches. Bands came from the three Plymouth churches and from Walkhampton and Petertavy. The Rev. E. C. Wood (Vicar) conducted a short service in the church, which was tastefully decorated for harvest festival. In his address of welcome the Vicar drew an apt analogy between the ancient custom of the priests sounding their trumpets and the bellringers of the present time.

WIDECOMBE'S STately TOWER.

At the Northfield Cafe, the Rev. F. W. Moore, chairman of the branch, conducted the meeting, which was preceded by a bountiful tea. The meeting stood in silence as a tribute to the memory of the late Mr. W. H. Marsh and the late Mrs. Dankes, wife of the Archdeacon of Plymouth.

Four new members were elected, and it was resolved to hold the next meeting at Meavy on January 20th, 1934. It was announced that the restored bells at Meavy were to be dedicated on the following Wednesday.

Mr. E. W. Marsh, branch secretary, gave a brief resumé of the proposed alterations to the Guild rules to enable members to understand the changes proposed by the committee.

In conclusion, a hearty vote of thanks to the Vicar for his kindly welcome, also to the organist and choir, was acknowledged by the Vicar. Two or three bands visited Buckland-in-the-Moor after the meeting, where the church possesses a bright toned ring of eight in first rate going order.

LANCASHIRE ASSOCIATION.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

For the first time in the 57 years' history of the Lancashire Association the annual meeting was held at Lancaster. A fair company started to arrive soon after 10 a.m., while others called at different towers as they passed on their way, all reaching the Priory Church at a few minutes to 4, when the service was conducted by the Vicar (Canon Pollard). Tea was taken at a cafe nearby, and the business meeting held at the Church House.

The president (Canon H. J. Elsce) opened the meeting with prayer and afterwards read the committee's report. Each member present had a copy of the balance sheet. The auditors, not being able to be present, sent a report, which was read from the chair.

The next business was the election of officers for two years. Three nominations were sent in for vice-president and three for treasurer. No less than 585 voting cards were returned out of 800 sent out, and the returning officer (Mr. J. H. Banks) declared the result to be in favour of Mr. T. B. Worsley as vice-president and Mr. C. I. Davies as treasurer.

Rochdale was chosen for the next annual meeting, and votes of thanks were passed to Canon Pollard and others for the service, the ringers for having all ready and the officers who retired by rotation. The president was thanked for taking the chair and also congratulated on passing another birthday earlier in the month.

The committee, in the course of their report, said: The number of members was returned at 1,573, of which number 1,163 reside in the county. The financial side shows a gain of £13 3s. 0½d. on the year's working, while the peals, which range from Minor in one method to Bob Maximus, numbered 154. This does not tally with the Central Council analysis, as we finish our year on August 31st. We have lost seven members through death, also five among honorary and non-resident members. Mention is made of the successful experiment of a supper at Liverpool, and the second one, which is to be held at Bolton on October 21st.

Mr. P. Crook afterwards was busy selling tickets for the latter event, which promises to be highly successful.

HALIFAX ASSOCIATION'S CONTEST.

MELTHAM REGAIN CUP AFTER 12 YEARS.

The Halifax and District Association held a six-bell contest and quarterly meeting at New Mill, Huddersfield, on Saturday week. It had been previously arranged to ring 600 changes any method, with three leads practice.

The draw was made as follows: 1 Liversedge, Oxford Treble Bob Minor; 2 Shelley (No. 2), Oxford Treble Bob Minor; 3 Meltham, Oxford Treble Bob Minor; 4 Holmfirth, Oxford Treble Bob Minor; 5 Stainland, Kent Treble Bob Minor; 6 Shelley (No. 1), Oxford Treble Bob Minor; 7 Friezland, Oxford Treble Bob Minor.

Some excellent ringing was heard during the afternoon. The judges, Mr. W. Idle (Batley) and Mr. H. Biltcliffe (New Mill), gave their decision as follows:—

	Faults	Penalty	Total
Liversedge	136	10	146
Shelley, No. 2	246	20	266
Meltham	99	0	99
Holmfirth	94	10	104
Stainland	176	0	176
Shelley, No. 1	117	10	127
Friezland	185	0	185

No. 3, Meltham, were declared winners of the cup.

The Vicar, the Rev. W. P. Edwards, presented the cup to Mr. E. Whiteley, the Meltham conductor. He congratulated them, but he, as a novice, thought they all had rung well. He was reminded that it was 12 years since Meltham had won the cup before. It was a coincidence that it was at New Mill, and that his brother was Vicar at the time. He thought they would have to have a Vicar with another name to prevent Meltham winning the cup there. He said he felt sorry for Holmfirth losing the cup owing to the penalty of an overpull.

A large number sat down to an enjoyable tea. The meeting followed, when ringing had ceased. Mr. E. Earnshaw (Meltham) was chairman.

Mr. E. Whiteley (Meltham) proposed thanks to the Vicar and to the churchwardens for the use of bells.

The Vicar, in reply, made reference to a gentleman who had lived in the vicinity, who said that when the bells were rung it always rained. It would appertain that day, but he thought that the rain was very welcome on this occasion.

AUTHORSHIP OF A PEAL.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir.—Mr. J. A. Burford has pointed out to me that the peal of Cambridge Surprise Royal rung at Tewkesbury Abbey on November 12th, 1932, is given as composed by T. B. Worsley, but that the same composition was rung at St. Stephen's, Bristol, October 4th, 1913, composed by F. Dench.

In the Peal Book of the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association both peals will be recorded as being composed by F. Dench.

EDGAR GUISE, General Hon. Secretary.

YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION.VISIT TO HOWDEN.

A very pleasant and successful general meeting of the association was held at Howden on Sept. 16th, when some 70 members were present from a wide area. What a transformation, Howden, 1929-1933! The fire of 1929, disastrous and regrettable as it was, proved the means of providing Howden with a truly magnificent peal—surely one of Taylor's best peals of eight—and conditions that are ideal in the ringing chamber. The bells were available during the afternoon and evening, and many were the remarks of admiration expressed at the fine quality and go of the bells.

At the meeting of the General Committee held in the afternoon, Mr. J. W. Addison, who has been secretary of the Northern Division for a number of years, was elected Ringing Master of that division, and Mr. E. Hudson, of 4, Keldale Terrace, Sharow, near Ripon, was elected secretary. Ripon was chosen as the place for the next meeting, which is the annual one, and it was decided to hold the annual meeting of the General Committee at Leeds on December 2nd.

A splendid tea was served in the old Bishop's Palace, formerly the residence of the Bishops of Durham, and the business meeting was held on the lawn with the president (Canon C. C. Marshall) in the chair, supported by the Rev. A. Waring, Vicar of Howden. Apologies for absence were received from Messrs. J. W. Addison, G. Lewis, W. Barton, J. Cotterell, P. J. Johnson and H. N. Ineson.

In proposing a very hearty vote of thanks to the Vicar and churchwardens for the use of the bells, Canon Marshall alluded to the beautiful peal of bells they now had in Howden, and said how grateful they were to the Vicar for providing such a glorious day and for extending so hearty a welcome. He added that possibly something would be done in time to soften the sound of the bells outside.

In a racy reply, the Rev. A. Waring said he had no idea he was clerk of the weather, and thus responsible for the glorious day, but he was very pleased indeed to welcome the association to Howden, and hoped they had all enjoyed their visit. He advised the members not to pay too much heed to those people who complained of the noise of the bells, as neurotic people were to be found in any parish. They had a few even in Howden. When the bells were silent following the fire, people exclaimed, 'If only we could hear the sound of the bells again,' and now, when they had the bells, there were still a few who complained about the noise of them. However, he would bear in mind Canon Marshall's suggestion, and see what could be done. He offered his personal congratulations to Canon Marshall on his appointment as a Canon of Ripon, and said how pleased he would be to welcome the association to Howden again.

Mr. S. F. Palmer proposed a very hearty vote of thanks to the local company for the arrangements they had made, and to the ladies for providing such an excellent tea, and this was acknowledged by Mr. J. W. Thompson, of the local company.

The President drew the attention of members to the date of the Snowdon Commemoration Dinner, which is to be held at York on October 14th, and hoped they would support the dinner again this year as they had done in the past.

This concluded the business.

Further ringing brought to a close a most enjoyable and pleasant meeting.

EAST BERKS AND SOUTH BUCKS MEETING.'SPLICED' AND 'MIXED' RINGING.

Punctually at the advertised time a strong band assembled at Amersham for the East Berks and South Bucks meeting of the Oxford Diocesan Guild, but owing to an interment (even the skies shed a tear), the visitors could not start off with their usual speed. The tenor was carefully 'tolled' up, the other five being raised in peal in the following 'modes,' Stoke, Chalfont, Past Grand, Egger and Spot. Something a little more musical being fancied, a course of Cambridge was rung. Rounds were also accomplished, including 2.1.3.4.5.6 and 1.3.2.4.5.6, non-conducted, in both fast and slow time.

The feast (not of Stephen) was even better than usual. Perhaps this was due to the presence of the P.G. Some ten different methods were rung during the afternoon and evening, ranging from Original to London Surprise, and including five Surprise methods. Kent and Oxford were spliced, Cambridge and London were mixed (a bit more than was intended), but the real brain testers were the 'Hot Bob' touches. One member of the 'flying squad' did not put in an appearance. Was it the 'stormy weather' that called the 'Bob at home'? There were some 'postcards' left in the 'middle,' too.

WEDDING BELLS.

On Thursday, September 21st, at the Parish Church, Cirencester, Glos. a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples: F. W. Bond 1, F. J. Lewis, sen. (conductor) 2, J. O. Eden 3, H. L. Cooke 4, F. J. Lewis, jun., 5, H. S. Parsons 6, W. H. Hayward 7, W. G. Cook 8. Rung to celebrate the wedding of Miss Grace Dorothy Bond, daughter of Mr. F. W. Bond, and Mr. William A. Richmond, of Bristol, which took place at the Parish Church the previous day. Also to commemorate the opening of the Bingham Public Library.

OXFORD SOCIETY.BICENTENARY CELEBRATION.

This month the Oxford Society is to hold a bicentenary celebration. The event is one of considerable interest and recalls the fact that the City of Oxford, with its many peals of bells, has, for at least two hundred years, been a centre of change-ringing.

Late in the 17th century there must have been an active band of change ringers in Oxford, although, unfortunately, no written records exist. But the method known as Oxford Treble Bob has been practised since about 1677, and this takes its name as some think either because it was first rung in Oxford or because it was invented by a native of that city.

However, from the year 1733 onwards there is a continuous record of change ringing performances, as the following historical notes, quoted from Hearue, a contemporary Oxford historian, will prove:—

MAY 24th, 1733.

On Whit-Sunday last (May 13th) came to Oxford on foot 15 ringers from London and the day before came on horseback one Mr. Skelton about 14 or 15 years ago a Commoner of Queens College, Oxford, and an excellent ringer. The next day being Monday, May 14th, the Oxford Ringers gave them a short peal at Magdalen College as they did in the Evening at Christ Church, the Londoners laying still that day, that they might refresh themselves after the fatigue of their journey. The day after (being Tuesday, May 15th) the Londoners rang a peal admirably well at New College of about 1500 changes from a little before 11 o'clock in the morning till 12, and in the evening they did the same at Christ Church. On Wednesday, May 16th, they (the Londoners) began to ring at Christ Church in the morning a quarter or more before 12 and they rang till 2 most incomparably well: when the gudgeons being bad, the biggest bell (that is, the tenth) fell down, but not through the loft, otherwise they proposed to have rang 5040 changes. In the evening they rang the 8 bells at Magdalen College, but 2 or 3 ropes breaking, they could not proceed above $\frac{1}{2}$ an hour. On Thursday, May 17th, they began to ring at New College, proposing to ring the said number of changes viz. 5040 changes there. They began a little before 12 and rang about $\frac{1}{2}$ of an hour when one of the ropes broke and so they were stopped. Afterwards they dined at the Weavers beyond Friar Bacon's Study, and some (if not all) of them stopping over to Ifley, they rang the six bells there (the 700 changes upon them). The next day Friday the 18th they were resolved to ring the above mentioned number of 5040 changes upon New College ten bells as they had begun to do before. Accordingly they began a little before 12 in the morning and rang full 2 hours wanting 2 minutes when one of the ropes broke and put a stop to the peal for which all were very sorry as they were at the fall of the great bell at Christ Church, for their ringing at both places as well as elsewhere was most surprisingly fine without the least fault from beginning to end; such as never was before in Oxford and 'tis a scandal that the bells should be not in good order. Saturday, May 19th, they went out of town. On Tuesday, May 22nd, the great bell at Christ Church was got up again and in the evening the Oxford men rang all 10 and endeavoured to imitate the Londoners, but they were soon out and made poor work of it in comparison of the others.

JANUARY 1st, 1734.

Christ Church ten bells being now in good order, yesterday some select Oxford Ringers rang them all for a wager. They were to have 6 trials and if upon the 6th trial, they did not do it, they were to loose. Yesterday they began, being the first trial, just as 12 o'clock and finished the whole, 27 minutes after 3 o'clock. This is the first time that this number of changes was ever rung in Oxford. The Oxford Ringers yesterday made many mistakes so that 'twas expected they must have given over several times. I did not hear them till they had been at it 3 quarters of an hour, but afterwards I heard them quite out till they had done, and I observed 52 faults in their ringing, 9 of which were very considerable ones. However, take it altogether 'twas excellent ringing and they may glory of it. The most considerable fault was occasioned by Dr. Gregory, Regius Professor of Modern History and Student of Christ Church, who broke in upon the ringers to their great disappointment.

APRIL 17th, 1734.

On January 1st last as I have noted a company of select Oxford ringers rang 5040 cator changes upon Christ Church ten bells. The very same company undertook to ring 6876 changes upon the same bells on Easter Monday last being April 15th. They agreed to begin at 10 o'clock exactly in the morning and some of them sent notice of it a few days before to me. Accordingly they raised the bells and put them in order at 10 o'clock that morning and at a quarter or a little more after ten, they began the changes and continued them until above a quarter after one in the afternoon, when the rope of the 9th Bell somehow or other happening to twist, the ringer of that Bell, Arthur Lloyd, was out and thereupon they all stooped of a sudden (and so they sank the Bells) which accident I was very sorry for. For indeed they rang so excellently well, that I was even

BIG BEN AND THE B.B.C.To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—Regarding the remarks of your correspondent under the above heading in your issue of the 15th inst., or course it sounds 'very ridiculous to those who know that Big Ben only strikes the hours.'

But the point is that nine out of ten people do not, and it is an understood fact that the ordinary man in the street thinks of Big Ben as the clock. So long as this is so, I think the B.B.C. is quite right in causing the announcement to be made in the form it is.

It is quite likely that the authorities at Broadcasting House are also cognisant of the superior knowledge displayed by your correspondent, but prefer, in consideration of their audience, to refer to the clock as 'Big Ben.'

Curiously enough, a correspondent in this week's 'Radio Times' complains of the B.B.C. announcements as being too precise, giving as his reason the fact that the ordinary listener desires to be spoken to as an ordinary being and not as though he were an encyclopedia.—Yours truly,

C. BRETT-SMITH.

SIXTY YEARS A RINGER.

On Wednesday, September 27th, to celebrate the 76th birthday of Mr. Thomas Lingard, of Christ Church, Pendlebury, eight members of the Lancashire Association rang a touch of 1,008 Grandsire Triples: P. Green 1, W. Wallwork 2, N. Tompkins (conductor) 3, T. Lingard 4, O. Seddon 5, A. Wallwork 6, J. Kershaw 7, N. Bryan 8.

Mr. Lingard, who has been a ringer for 60 years, was the recipient of congratulations and good wishes from the local ringers and many other friends.

ravished with it, and though they did not quite come up to the Londoners, who rang without fault, yet 'twas really so admirable, that I could observe but six faults, besides the grand one (which was the seventh and put them out) in all their ringing, which six faults however, had they performed the whole, I should have looked upon as so inconsiderate that I should have thought the Peal might have been said to be rung without faults. They rang 4800 changes which was 240 less than they rang before and wanted 2076 of the whole 6876, which notwithstanding had not that misfortune happened, they would certainly have performed without difficulty. As I went on purpose to be as nice as possible in my observations and was present from beginning to end, choosing to be as private as I could, standing for the most part in Cowley Street, which goes from Ch.Ch. to Tilham Bridge. I was as critical as possibly I could be and as I went without any manner of partiality to judge fairly of the matter and to pass over no faults, I must say that I could discover but six faults and that what they did was admirable, much to their honour and credit.

MAY 2nd, 1734.

Yesterday an attempt was made upon New College Bells of 6876 changes. They began a quarter before ten in the morning and rang very well till four minutes past 12, when Mr. Brickland a school master of St. Michael's Parish missing a stroke, it put a stop to the whole, so that they presently set them and sunk the bells, which is a pity, for 'twas really very true ringing excepting five faults which I observed (for I heard all the time tho 'twas very wet all the while, in that part of the Parks on the East side of Wadham College where I was very private) one of which five faults was the treble that was rung by Mr. Richard Hearne, and the other four were faults committed by the above said Mr. Brickland, who 'twas feared by several beforehand would not fully perform his part, but they took him now because Mr. Broughton (who otherwise should have rung) was attending as Barber. Excepting this Broughton and Mr. George, the ringers were all the same as those mentioned under January 24th last, Mr. George's hands being not quite recovered of some blisters he received the last ringing on April 15th last, Mr. Nash, a Cabinet Maker, who is an excellent ringer, supplied his place and rang the 3rd bell so they were as follows:—

Mr. Hearne the 1st or Treble, Mr. Vickers the 2nd, Mr. Nash the 3rd, Mr. Terry the 4th, Mr. Brickland the 5th, Mr. Yate the 6th, Mr. Smith the 7th, Mr. Barnes the 8th, Mr. Lloyd the 9th, Mr. Benwell the 10th or Tenor. When I mentioned afterwards my observation to the said Mr. Smith, he told me that though he rung himself yet he minded the faults also himself upon which I asked him how many there were. He said three before that which stopped them. I told him there were just five before that, at which he admired my niceness. They rang in the said two hours and nineteen minutes 3475 changes which wanted 3401 of the number proposed.

'OLD GREEN EYE.'

Addressing a gathering of ringers at a meeting of the Sussex County Association on Saturday, the Vicar of Ringmer took the opportunity of uttering a word of warning against the intrusion into the belfry of the ogre which he described as 'Old Green Eye.' Such a warning is not out of place. Jealousy stalks everywhere, among every sect, in all walks of life, and through every pursuit. It is to be found in the ranks of ringers, no less than among other sections of the community, for ringers are only human; and although the warning was given to an assembly of Sussex ringers, the advice has a much wider application. The Vicar of Ringmer spoke as a former ringer, and, therefore, not without experience of the ways of ringers. And who is there, with any experience at all, who has not seen at some time or another the disastrous effects which 'Old Green Eye' can work in a company or in an association?

Jealousy is usually the product of a small mind and congested vision, and coupled, as it often is, with selfishness, can do a vast amount of harm in a ringing circle—as it can, of course, in any other sphere. It is jealousy that frequently impels the local conductor to keep all the calling in his own hands—particularly if he is not of a very brilliant type—because he is fearful that if he gave any other members of the company a chance his own position might eventually be undermined. His jealousy prevents him studying the best interests of the company; for no band ought to be without a reserve of conductors any more than they ought to be without a reserve of ringers. Then there are those jealous rivalries which prevent some ringers—and good ringers, too—from inviting other equally good ringers to join them in their ringing and particularly in their peal ringing; and those petty jealousies which arise when someone, who thinks he ought to be included, is left out of a touch or peal. Team work, as the Vicar of Ringmer also pointed out, is the essence of progress in change ringing, and jealousy and selfishness are its greatest enemies.

But jealousies do not stop at the instances we have mentioned. They can be found in other directions—sometimes between associations, who look upon themselves as rivals instead of as coadjutors in the promotion of the art of ringing, and, sometimes, even in the correspondence which appears in these columns. 'Old Green Eye' frequently gets a footing unobserved, but his presence is quickly and often disastrously revealed, and while we do not for a moment believe that ringers are, as a body, any more prone to fall victims of his snares than any other section of the community, ringing is so essential ally a pursuit that demands the team spirit, that there can be no room for jealousy in the belfry if the best results are to be achieved. It is for this reason that we would emphasise the warning given at Ringmer, which incidentally is a place that should have some interest for ringers from the fact that it was while he was curate here the late Rev. C. D. P. Davies pursued some of his early and valuable explorations into the problems of the art.

SUSSEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

VICAR'S WARNING AGAINST 'OLD GREEN EYE.'

A well-attended meeting of the Southern Division was held at Ringmer on Saturday, when 44 members were present, representing the following towers: St. Peter's, St. Nicholas' and the Good Shepherd, Brighton, Buxted, Crawley, Heane, Lindfield, Rotherfield, Seaford, Shoreham, Southover, Lewes and members of the local band. In the afternoon some good ringing was done on the fine eight untouched bells by Mears and Stainbank, in spite of the short draught necessitated by the organ being under the ringing room.

A short service was held and in the course of an interesting address the Vicar (the Rev. J. W. Capron) referred to 'Old Green Eye,' the jealous monster which he, as a one-time ringer, thought all should take special care to avoid if the best results were to be obtained. He also stressed the importance of the team spirit among ringers.

After a splendid tea, the business meeting was held, and, on the motion of Mr. William Hart, of Brighton, a very hearty vote of thanks was passed to the Vicar for his address and generosity in providing the tea, also to Mr. Painter and other local ringers for having everything in readiness, and to their wives for kindly serving the tea.

The tower was again visited, and the bells kept going in various methods from Grandsire to London Surprise until 8 o'clock.

DEATH OF A WELL-KNOWN UTTOXETER RINGER.

FIFTY YEARS AT ONE CHURCH.

There passed to his death on Wednesday, October 4th, suddenly, a man of sterling character in the person of Mr. Charles Smith, of Uttoxeter, Staffs. He had just completed 50 years as a ringer at the Parish Church, where he had been leader for a number of years. He was one of the first to take up change ringing at Uttoxeter, and had rung just over 30 peals. Ringing was his one hobby, and if there was a meeting anywhere in the North Staffs or Midland Counties districts, Charlie, as he was familiarly known, was there. His cheery countenance and unassuming manner will be greatly missed by all who knew him.

His last ring was done at St. Paul's, Burton-on-Trent, on the previous day, when he went to help Mr. J. H. Swinfield get some of the young ones of that band through their first peal. After ringing an hour, however, he felt unwell and had to give up. He reached home where he collapsed and died before medical aid could be got to him. His passing has left a void in the local band which will be hard to fill.

The funeral took place at Uttoxeter on Saturday, the church being filled by sympathisers. His fellow-ringers acted as bearers, and four of them rang the 'swing peal' on handbells over his grave.

After the committal service, with the bells fully muffled the 'whole pull and stand' was rung 69 times, the number of his years. Amongst the many floral tributes was one in the shape of a bell from all associated with ringing at Uttoxeter.

Ringers were present from Rokester, Marchington and Doveridge, and Mr. J. Swinfield represented the St. Paul's band and Midland Counties Association.

On Sunday morning, as a mark of esteem to their old leader, with the bells half-muffled, a quarter-peal of Kent Treble Bob Major (1,280 changes) was rung by the following: John Buxton 1, Ernest Roberts 2, William Lunn 3, Frank Richardson 4, George Tomlinson 5, J. George Burrows 6, George Elliott 7, R. George Lewis (conductor) 8.

NORTH WALES ASSOCIATION.PEALS AND PRACTICE MEETINGS TO BE ARRANGED.

The half-yearly meeting of the North Wales Association was held at Rhyl on Saturday, September 30th. It was not a very big gathering, but members were present from Bangor, Llanduduo, Abergelle, Wrexham, Gresford, Flint, with the local band. The Rev. E. V. Cox (president of the Devon Guild) was also present. A service was held in St. Thomas' Church, conducted by the Vicar (Canon Edwards-Davies), who cordially welcomed the members to Rhyl.

A short business meeting followed, the chairman being the Rev. R. C. Jones (president of the association), who made a suggestion that more peals should be rung to create more interest and inspiration to young ringers, and that a qualified band should visit towers for that purpose.

It was also decided to arrange combined practice meetings in each district and that the district secretaries lose no time in making the necessary arrangements.

A vote of thanks to the Vicar for his kind welcome and his interesting address at the service concluded the meeting. The members were then entertained to tea, kindly provided by the Rhyl ringers. Some very good practice was put in on the bells during the afternoon under the guidance of Ringing Master A. E. Pegler.

A HEREFORDSHIRE RINGING CONTEST.SIX BANDS COMPETE AT ALMELEY.

The first annual competition for the shield presented to the Clifford and Presteigne Districts of the Hereford Diocesan Guild by Mr. H. T. Chandler, of Lyonshall, was held at Almeley on Saturday, September 30th. Six towers entered for the contest, three from each district, viz., Almeley, Bredwardine, Whitney, Kington, Pembridge and Eardisland. To give all towers an equal chance, the test consisted of raising the bells, ringing rounds or changes for five minutes and falling the bells.

Mr. C. Edwards, Master of the Hereford Guild, acted as adjudicator. Tea was provided at The Bells, 44 sitting down. After tea Mr. Edwards announced the result of each band's efforts, giving valuable advice in passing, which should be of great benefit to his listeners in their efforts at the next competition.

The band with the least faults proved to be Kington, and the shield was handed to the captain (Mr. L. Jones) by the Vicar (the Rev. J. W. Kearns).

A hearty vote of thanks was accorded the Vicar for the use of the bells, to Mr. Edwards for his services and the shield secretary (Mr. J. P. Hyett) for making all arrangements. The donor of the shield was prevented from being present by being on board H.M.S. 'Glorious.'

BELFRY GOSSIP.

Another peal has been rung in which three generations of one family took part. At Preston, Suffolk, Arthur Symonds, Stedman H. Symonds and Dennis Symonds rang the three front bells to a peal of Minor. It is good to see such a portent of the continuation of the Lavenham family's connection with ringing.

Our readers will observe with interest the record of a peal 'rung for pleasure.' So many reasons are advanced from week to week for peal ringing that this candour is refreshing.

A local fund has been started for the restoration of the six bells at Pirbright, Surrey.

The composition of the peal of Bob Major rung at Timbercombe was by J. R. Pritchard.

The peal of Grandsire Triples at Alsager, reported last week, was rung for the Chester Diocesan Guild. The composition of the peal of Lincolnshire Surprise rung at Staines was by the Rev. H. Law James and not by Gabriel Ludoff. Incidentally this was sent in as 'Lincoln' Surprise.

The errors and omissions were due to defective reports, but 'The Ringing World' pleads guilty to having printed Walkden for Walsden as the place where a peal of Cambridge Surprise Major was rung on September 30th.

NEW BELLS IN MEMORY OF OLD RINGERS.

TREBLES TO BE ADDED AT SOMERSET CHURCH.

It is rare that we hear of bells being added to towers to honour the memory of old ringers, but a movement is now on foot to add two new trebles to the heavy ring of six at St. Michael and All Angels, Somerton, Somerset. This ring was rehung in a cage for eight by Warners in 1915 during the time when the old ringers, in whose memory the proposed additions are to be made, were active service ringers. Part of the cost of the two trebles is being defrayed by the relatives of these ringers, the family of the late Mr. Tom Gibbs, a ringer, sexton and acting vergier at this church for 49 years, being the chief subscribers.

BLACK SATURDAY.

BUT DISAPPOINTMENT WAS TURNED TO GLADNESS.

Ten expert ringers, asked to keep a date,
Two rang Plain Bob elsewhere, and then there were eight.
Eight Surprise ringers, conductor's thoughts in heaven,
One stayed to shift his 'digs,' and then there were seven.
Only seven ringers, conductor in a fix,
One had to work O.T., and then there were six.
Of these six ringers, one waited for a ride.
The West tractor went on strike, and then there were five.
And three of the five weary waiting ones wended their way to the water, wondering whether to weep or wassail.
But they retraced their steps to the stonemason's yard, earnestly earmarking an epitaph for the erring egoists.
And the fair mistress of the house charmingly chose cake and cups of 'cha,' bringing brightness unto those benighted bellringers.
And so they decided to seek solace at some secluded spot, the fair mistress of the house taking the wheel, and leaving her lord to look after the lair.

Pausing in their haste to listen to the peal on the bells of Buckland, the course end 12356478 with a bob at H. was heard. Then on to Bampton, again finding disappointment through illness, and a fruitless search for a 'Falcon,' which was not, still added to the general grief.

But at last they found a friend, who cheerfully changed their course to Clanfield, where they found bells, ringers and ringing.

And it came to pass that they returned to their homes light of heart and with a great gladness.

YOUNG BANDS' PROGRESS.

At Bishopstoke, Hants, on Sunday, October 8th, for harvest festival evensong, a 1,260 Grandsire Triples: R. Clark 1, G. Hutchinson 2, G. Pullinger 3, S. Winkworth 4, G. Grant 5, E. Wheeler 6, J. Hill (first as conductor) 7, C. Ayliffe 8. This is the first quarter-peal ever rung by an entirely local band at Bishopstoke. All are Sunday service ringers. This is the result of three years' hard work by their instructor. Four of the band, including the conductor, are still in their 'teens.'

A course of Double Norwich was rung for evensong at St. James' Church, Poole, on Sunday last, by the local band. Each ringer learned to handle his rope in the tower (with the exception of the captain, Mr. F. W. Townsend). It is the first time such a feat has been accomplished in that district, and probably in the whole of the Salisbury Diocese.

WEDDING BELLS.

On Wednesday evening, September 27th, at the Parish Church, Battle, Sussex, in honour of the wedding of Mr. Dennis Hale, who is a member of the band, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples (1,260 changes) was rung by the following: H. Franks 1, W. Franks 2, G. D. White (All Saints', Hastings) 3, John P. Pelloe (Chiddingfold) 4, John Sinden 5, A. Levett (All Saints', Hastings) 6, William J. Jeffries (Deptford, conductor) 7, G. Prodder 8.

LUNDY ISLAND'S DERELICT BELLS.

DILAPIDATION IN THE BELFRY.

To the Editor.

Sir,—I was interested to see a note from 'Enquirer' concerning the above church, as I was informed on my last visit that very few ringers ever visited that part of 'our unknown Empire.'

Lundy is an island about three miles long and half a mile broad, situated in the Bristol Channel. It is reached by the motor boat 'Lerina,' which runs as required from Instow, North Devon, with mails and supplies. During the summer, Campbell's luxurious steamers run frequently from Minehead and Ilfracombe.

Both these journeys can be, and often are, most unpleasant, especially the former, which is 24 miles and takes 2½ hours. The island is often called 'a little corner of heaven, reached through the gates of hell.' Some of the younger generation call it 'the island of quick romance.'

Almost on the highest part of the island, where it can be seen for many miles on a clear day, stands the small but beautiful Church of St. Helen.

ST. HELEN'S CHURCH ON LUNDY ISLAND.

It has a seating capacity of about 80, and was built by a former owner of the island towards the latter end of the 19th century.

Services are held there about once in six or eight weeks, but as the population of the island, including the staff of two Trinity House lighthouses, is never much more than 20, the congregation is very small.

Baptisms, weddings and funerals take place there at times; in fact, a famous Somerset cricketer chose the Church of St. Helen for his wedding.

The church, except for the bells, is kept in good condition, and the thanks of the visitors are due to this.

At the west end is the tower, and one has to walk through this to enter the church.

On the right as one enters is a memorial tablet to the former owner and donor of the church. It reads as follows:—

'In loving memory of Hudson Grossett Heaven, Priest, Lord of the Manor of Lundy, who died in 1916 having accomplished the dream of his life by erecting this Church to the Glory of God.'

On the left of the tower is the door to the ringing room and bells, and over this door hangs a peal board, with the following inscription on it:—

'1905. Church of St. Helen, Lundy. Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association of Change Ringers. On Wednesday, August 23rd, eight members of the above association, at the kind invitation of the Rev. H. G. Heaven, rang a true and complete peal of Stedman Triples, 5,040 changes. Tenor 15 cwt. A variation of 'Thurstans' four-part: Rev. H. A. Cockey 1, C. H. Tomkins 2, (Continued in next column.)

SURREY ASSOCIATION.

COMBINED PRACTICES DISCUSSED BY NORTH-WESTERN DISTRICT.

A meeting of the North-Western District of the Surrey Association was held at All Saints', Carshalton, on Saturday, September 30th, over 30 members and friends attending from Croydon (St. John's and St. Peter's), Ewell, Chelsea, Heddington, Brockley, Epsom (Christ Church), Carshalton, Merton, Benhiton, Warrington, Buckland and Banstead, and, according to the attendance book, one 'bird of passage.' Ringers were rather slow in coming in the afternoon, but a start was made about 4 o'clock with Grandsire Triples and call changes for the benefit of some promising members of the Carshalton company. The next effort, a touch of Stedman Triples, came to grief owing to a broken rope, but this was soon remedied, an expert splicer being in the belfry, and ringing continued until 5.30, when all present attended evensong.

Tea was served in the Parish Hall and a company of 25 thoroughly enjoyed the good meal provided. Father Simmons, the curate, called in during tea and said a few words of welcome to the company and apologised for the absence of the Rector.

The business meeting followed, and the secretary said he was sorry to say that Mr. A. W. Clark, District Master, was unable to be present on account of illness.

Mr. C. H. Kippin therefore occupied the chair for the business meeting, at which two new members were elected and the election of one member ratified.

The secretary then put forward a suggestion by the committee with regard to combined practices to be considered by the meeting. The suggestion was that as the practices were not sufficiently supported during the earlier part of the year, it was impossible to carry them on in their present form, but to let any tower that required help apply to the district secretary. The committee would then do all they could to help those towers.

There was considerable discussion on this subject and various views put forward, but most members were of the opinion that combined practices were necessary.

In the end the committee's suggestion was accepted by the meeting, and the secretary was asked to inform the various towers.

The meeting closed with a vote of thanks to the Rector for the use of the bells, and to Mr. L. Reece and the local company for making such excellent arrangements. The tower was again visited and ringing continued until 9 o'clock, with the exception of a slight delay, when the services of the expert splicer were again required, but even this little interval was utilised for a heated discussion on combined practices and the encouragement of beginners. It is hoped that good results will come of it for both experts and beginners.

The methods practised during the afternoon and evening ranged from call changes to Bristol Surprise Major.

C. H. Gordan 3, R. J. Wilkins 4, W. A. Cave 5, P. Came 6, Rev. F. E. Robinson 7, Canon G. F. Coleridge 8. Conducted by the Rev. F. E. Robinson. This is the first peal rung upon the bells.

The ringing room contains two ropes and the broken clock mechanism, and one is tempted to pass by quickly and ascend the ladder to the bells, where a sad sight awaits one.

Eight bells, covered in rust, wheels broken, stays broken, in fact everything in a general state of neglect. I could not find any inscription on the bells, but there was a small plate on the stay holders of most of the bells, bearing the name of a Smethwick firm.

I swung each bell, some with difficulty, and the tone was perfect, and it made me think how many churches would like to have that one time beautiful peal.

It is a pity that they have to be left where they are to rust away, but it is a consolation to some of us to think that they lie near the grave of the person who gave them, and loved every inch of that beautiful island.

H. J. CANN.

'A SORRY SPECTACLE.'

Mr. Arthur Wilkins, of Bristol, writes of a visit he paid to Lundy Island as follows:—

I went over to Lundy about three years ago, and the condition of the church and bells can only be described as heartbreaking, especially to a ringer.

Even when the one and only peal was rung the 'go' of the bells was so bad that had it not been that Jack Thomas was with the band, and spent some hours up aloft removing the effects of sea spray, etc., it would not have been possible.

The church itself is, I believe, not now used at all, or at all events only occasionally, and the peal board is getting difficult to read. The belfry presents a very sorry spectacle. Only two of the eight ropes were still to be seen, and only one intact, the other finishing just below the 'sally.' There was no sign of the other six! Every tripper who landed, it seemed, had a pull at the one good rope, and I should be very surprised to see it intact to-day.

I can give your enquirer details of the somewhat exciting trip the band had getting across and back, and of their enforced stay on the island, if he cares to write me. My father, the late 'Jack' Wilkins, was in the band, and, although I was only a 'kid' at the time, I well recall his story.

DURHAM AND NEWCASTLE DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

CHANGED PROGRAMME A GREAT SUCCESS.

The annual festival of this association, which is held alternately in the two dioceses, was held at Durham on September 30th. Originally this was a whole-day event, held on Mondays, and ringing commenced at about 10 in the morning, with a festival service at 1 o'clock and dinner at 2. In later years the day was changed to Saturday, with the times as before, but as very few members can now get off for a whole day, it was decided to make a change this year and have the festival service at 5 o'clock and the dinner and annual meeting at 6, concluding with a social evening.

The festival service was held in the choir of the Cathedral, over 60 members being present. The special form of service was used, and the singing of the hymns, 'O praise ye the Lord,' 'To Thee, O Heavenly Father' and 'Hark on high the joyful music,' was most inspiring.

The new Dean of Durham, Dr. Alington, welcomed the members, and in the course of a very thoughtful address said it was the people of the Middle Ages who invented church bellringing, and bells were the least altered thing in these days of change, although the art of bellringing might have changed a good deal through the ages past.

After an excellent dinner at the Three Tuns Hotel, the 56th annual meeting was held, the president (Mr. J. Anderson, of Newcastle) being in the chair.

The treasurer (Mr. J. W. Parker, of Sunderland) submitted a very satisfactory financial statement, the balance in hand, including £8 13s. 6d. in the Peal Booking Fund, being £52 7s. 6d.

The secretary, in his annual report, referred to the death of the late president, Mr. E. B. Perry, and also to the loss the association had sustained by the death of Mr. J. A. Goffon, of Monkseaton, Mr. George Siddle, of Chester-le-Street, Master Raymond Thompson, of Wickham, and Mr. George A. Ward, of Chester-le-Street, also of Canon W. Bothamley, Vicar of St. Nicholas', Durham, a life member for 26 years. Bishop Woods' departure from the district would also be a severe blow, as he had especially endeared himself to ringers. They were also sorry to lose Mr. Parkinson, of Houghton-le-Spring, who had removed to Blackpool.

THE YEAR'S PEALS.

The peal report showed 28 peals, as against 37 last year, nearly half of the peals being in Minor methods. Mr. W. J. Davidson, Newcastle, had rung 14 peals during the year, and six members rang their first peal. The list of peal conductors was headed by Messrs. W. G. Davidson and Roland Park with six each. Miss E. Stephenson, of West Hartlepool, was the first lady to ring in a ten-bell peal by the association, and Mr. W. H. Barber, Newcastle, was the first to call a peal of Stedman Triples (composed by Mr. J. W. Parker) in exactly equal halves.

The certificates for Sunday service ringing were then presented by Major F. A. Yorke, of West Hartlepool. The first for eight, ten and twelve bell towers had been won by Christ Church, North Shields, with 1,523 points, and the second by St. Ignatius', Sunderland, with 1,282 points. The first certificate for five and six bell towers was won for the fifth time by Holy Trinity, Darlington, and the second by St. Mary's, Whickham, with 1,877 and 513 points respectively.

Very satisfactory reports had been sent in by the four district secretaries, more than 20 meetings having been held in the two dioceses during the year. The meeting was delighted to hear that steps were being taken for the restoration of the eight bells of St. Hilda's, South Shields, and it was decided to give a donation of 5 guineas to the fund which is being raised.

A hearty vote of thanks was passed to the retiring officers on the motion of Mr. Arthur Payne, J.P., and the following were elected for the coming year: President, Mr. J. Anderson, Newcastle; vice-presidents, Northern District, Mr. R. S. Anderson, Newcastle; Western District, Mr. F. Sheraton, Chester-le-Street; Eastern District, Mr. R. L. Patterson, Sunderland; Southern District, Mr. W. N. Park, Darlington; treasurer, Mr. J. W. Parker, Sunderland; secretary, Mr. C. S. Taylor, 149, St. Leonard Street, Sunderland; editorial secretary, Mr. C. L. Routledge, Newcastle; Wednesday Guild secretary, Mr. W. Sheraton, Houghton-le-Spring; West Tyne District secretary, Mr. R. W. Leighton, Blaydon; Northern District secretary, Mr. K. A. Nicholson, Gosforth; Western District secretary, Mr. H. Tyson, Tanfield Lea; Eastern District secretary, Mr. F. Robson, West Hartlepool; Southern District secretary, Mr. J. T. Titt, Darlington; auditor, Mr. J. F. Bird, Gosforth.

On the motion of Mr. W. Story, J.P., a vote of thanks was passed to the Dean and the Cathedral authorities for their kindness, and a programme of handbell ringing, songs, recitations, etc., arranged by Mr. W. J. Davidson, Newcastle, and Mr. E. A. Gallimore, Durham, was carried out. The gathering was one of the most successful festivals which the association has held, and it was generally agreed that the change in the arrangements was a great improvement.

SWANSEA.—On Saturday, September 16th, at St. Mary's Church, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples: G. Howells 1, F. Curtis 2, W. Dobbins 3, J. Brettell 4, J. Williams 5, Will Dobbins 6, J. A. Hoare (conductor) 7, J. Williams 8. Also 504 Stedman Triples by the same band. Rung as a farewell to Mr. J. Brettell (ringer of the 4th), who is leaving Swansea. He has been there for a long period.

CHALLENGE CUP FOR HANDBELL RINGING.

RULES FOR THE LONDON COUNTY ASSOCIATION'S CONTEST.

The 'Dawe' Silver Challenge Cup, presented to the London County Association and North Southwark Diocesan Guild by Mr. F. E. Dawe for the encouragement of handbell ringing among the members, is to be competed for each year at the close of business at the annual general meeting. The following rules will govern the contest:—

1.—The cup shall be called the 'Dawe Cup,' and shall be competed for at the completion of each annual meeting of the association.

2.—The object of the contest is to stimulate change ringing on handbells by local companies.

3.—Only members of the association shall be allowed to compete. They shall be ringing-members of the same company, which must be attached to a tower in the area of the association, and no member shall take part in more than one band in any year.

4.—The contest shall consist of at least a full course of any method on eight bells. Each member of the band must ring two bells 'retained in hand.' Previous to a band going into 'changes' they shall ring six whole pulls of 'rounds,' and the same shall be repeated upon the completion of the changes. During the ringing no word shall be spoken by any member of the band. The ringing shall be upon a set of handbells provided independently for the occasion.

5.—The representative of each company intending to compete shall give notice in writing to the general secretary of the association not later than the quarterly meeting in January, and shall state the names of the proposed competitors.

6.—The main consideration in the contest shall be correct and good striking, and it shall be umpired by three competent persons, whose decision shall be final. The umpires shall be selected at the quarterly meeting held in January, and, during the contest, shall not see the competing bands or know their order.

7.—Immediately preceding the contest (the umpires having withdrawn), the bands shall decide by lot the order of their competition.

8.—The successful company shall hold the cup for the ensuing year, and shall keep it in the tower from which the band has been entered. The person entering the band for the contest shall be held responsible for the safe custody of the cup and its return to the association, and the cup shall not be held by a company for more than two consecutive years.

LINCOLN DIOCESAN GUILD.

NORTHERN BRANCH MEETING.

In accordance with previous arrangements, the half-yearly meeting of the Northern Branch of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild on Saturday should have been held at Louth, but, owing to illness, the bells were not available, therefore Washingborough was chosen as an alternative. Eleven towers were represented, namely, Barrow-on-Humber, Bigby, Blankney, Branstons, Gainsborough, Lea, Lincoln, Ruskington, Upton, Washingborough and Willingham. There were also present Mr. George Gabriel Lindoff, Housham, and Mr. R. W. Stockdale (hon. secretary of the North Notts Association).

Washingborough tower contains a nice ring of eight bells, which are in good going order and were well utilised during the afternoon and evening in various methods ranging from Grandsire Triples to London Surprise Major, although the latter method did not altogether materialise. Service, consisting of the Guild office, was held, at which Canon H. T. Parry (Grimsby District president) officiated in the absence from home of the Vicar. An interesting address was given by the Rev. R. Olsen, St. Giles' Lincoln.

Subsequently members and friends to the number of 35 were present at tea, which was followed by the business meeting. Through the very regrettable absence, owing to illness, of the much respected president of the branch (Mr. F. F. Linley), Canon Parry was voted to the chair. An apology for absence was read from Mr. R. Richardson (Guild Ringing Master). The balance sheet of the Rev. H. Law James Memorial Fund was presented. Mr. George Gabriel Lindoff and Mr. A. E. Lamming, Goxhill, were elected performing members.

Brigg and Scunthorpe were both proposed as the place for the 1934 half-yearly meeting, and the majority of the members voted in favour of Brigg, September 15th being fixed as the date.

On behalf of the members, the secretary was requested to write a letter of sympathy to Mr. Linley expressing their regret at his illness and wishing him a safe recovery.

A hearty welcome was extended to the visitors, to which Mr. Stockdale responded in a very capable and humorous manner.—The Rev. Olsen also replied, and said he considered it would be very appropriate if there were any laymen amongst the ringers who might be able to give an address at some of the meetings.

He very kindly brought with him plans of the proposed new church for St. Giles', Lincoln, in which the material, including the bells, of St. Peter-at-Arches, is to be incorporated. The plans were inspected with interest by the members present.

Votes of thanks were passed to Canon Parry for officiating at the service and presiding at the meeting, to the Rector for the use of the bells, to the organist and organ blower, the caterers, and last, but not least, to the local ringers and others who had helped to make the meeting such a success.

This concluded the business, after which further ringing took place during the evening.

OXFORD SOCIETY.

Here are some further extracts from Hearne's diary, of special interest in view of the forthcoming Bicentenary Celebration.

SEPTEMBER 28th, 1734.

Yesterday being the obit of William of Wickham (founder of New College) some of the Oxford Ringers agreed to ring at New College, proposing to ring 6876 cator changes upon the ten bells there. They designed to have begun at 11 in the morning, but 'twas near 12 before they began, for they had rung only two hundred changes when the clock struck 12. They had so many gross faults that 'tis not worth while to particularize them all, only thus much may be noted, that a Bob was missed being called before they had got to two hundred and that they strangely blundered a little after they had rung 600, and so again a little after they had rung 1100 and so after 1400 and 1900 and at length when they had rung 2714 (which wants 4162 for the whole) they were quite out it being then 3 quarters after one. Then they set the bells and soon after began again and rang 650 and made an end at very near half hour after 2. I was very apprehensive yesterday when they first began, that they would not perform their task, the compass being too wide, and the person that rang the ninth bell making a bad step even at the first. Though 'twas so wet I heard them all the time walking for that purpose up and down in the Parks on the east side of Wadham College. Had they finished the peal and done it well, I should have taken care to transmit to print the names of the several ringers to posterity, 6876 changes having never as yet been rung in Oxford. But as the performance was so bad (considering the character each ringer bore for his skill in the art of ringing) as it will not be for their credit to have their names mentioned so neither will it be for the honour of William of Wickham to discover who the persons were, that performed so lamely on the day he died.

DECEMBER 2nd, 1734.

On the 5th November last some Oxford ringers were resolved to show their zeal for the Government by ringing Cator changes upon Christ Church 10 bells. They were some of the best ringers and because they think they merited much by their performance, I shall here specify the names of every one of them, at the same time noting that those 3 excellent ringers, Mr. John George, Mr. Thomas Yate, and Mr. John Broughton, acted much more for their honour and credit, who declined ringing among them that day, by which these three avoided the censure of being poor mercenary ringers (for the others rang for money) and of giving credit to a downright false notion that the Prince of Orange, landed on the 5th whereas it was the 4th, to say nothing of the Powder Plot which very many wise men give out was a mere sham. I happened that day between 3 and 4 in the afternoon to go through the White Walk while the bells were ringing, and I heard several say 'twas good ringing. Coming to the Cloysters I stood still to listen and in 15 minutes discovered 18 considerable faults, the last 6 so considerable that they were confounded and so gave over and yet they boast 'twas extraordinary good ringing and that they rang 2000. I cannot say anything to the number of changes nor to the goodness of the ringing, yet 'twas good enough for the day. I should likewise here remark that the reward of mercenary ringers was only 1/6 a man. The names of all those 10 ringers just as they rang were as follows: Mr. Richard Hearne a taylor, 2 Mr. John Vickers second butler of New College, 3 Mr. Wm. Crozier a cork-cutter, 4 Mr. Guy Terry a potash maker, 5 Mr. Brickland a school-master, 6 Mr. Thomas Nash a Cabinet Maker, 7 Mr. Arthur Loyd carpenter, 8 Mr. Wm. Barnes second cook of Christ Church, 9 Mr. Richard Smith a glover, 10 Mr. Benwell, Sexton of Christ Church.

And now I have mentioned this 5th November ringing, I will beg leave to take notice of the names of those who rang at New College on Friday September 27th last, being the Founders Day, a thing I should not have done, had not the ringers been so proud of this 5th November ringing at Christ Church and been so much ashamed of that at New College and yet I think there is much more reason to be ashamed of that at Christ Church than of this at New College. That they are ashamed of what was done at New College appears from all accounts inasmuch that they have endeavoured as much as ever they could to conceal the names of those that chiefly erred or blundered in the ringing which notwithstanding have been able to find out. The names of the ringers are in order thus: 1 Mr. John Vickers, 2 Mr. Tom Nash, 3 Mr. John George, 4 Mr. Guy Terry, 5 Mr. Thomas Yate, 6 Mr. John Broughton, 7 Mr. Richard Smith, 8 Mr. Will Barnes, 9 Mr. Arthur Loyd, 10 Mr. Nicholas Benwell.

As to Mr. Vickers he is very ingenious in the Art of ringing and is excellent in calling the Bobs and managing the musick of ringing. I think he is one of the very best in England and he is withal a very good ringer himself; and yet at this time he missed calling two of the Bobs, one of which was before they had gone 200 changes, as at the same time did likewise Mr. Arthur Loyd and Mr. William Barnes (otherwise two famous ringers) committ most notorious blunders, and these were the three chief blunderers in this undertaking and 'twas from their mistakes that the peal was spoiled, and yet it must be owned, that it happened purely from their being much

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

CANTERBURY DISTRICT'S HELP FOR BENEVOLENT FUND.

The annual meeting of the Canterbury District was held at Canterbury on Saturday. Upwards of 60 members attended, the following being among the towers represented: Ashford, Deal, Dover, Egerton, Faversham, Hadlow, Headcorn, Herne, Littlebourne, Sturmy, St. Peter's, Thanet, Ramsgate, Teynham, Wickhambreaux and Wingham, as well as Canterbury Cathedral and St. Alphege, Canterbury.

The association's service was held in St. Alphege Church, at which the Rector (the Rev. Gordon Wilson) officiated, assisted by the Rev. Canon Whorlow. The Rector gave a very interesting address, mainly concerning the historical facts of the life of St. Alphege, to whom the church is dedicated. Mr. W. E. Pittman, Mus.Bac., presided at the organ.

After the service the members adjourned to Gaywood's Rooms for tea, which was provided by the association. The Rev. Canon F. J. O. Helmore, who presided at the tea table, was supported by the Rev. Canon Whorlow, the Rev. C. A. Manley (Vicar of Littlebourne), the two district representatives and the hon. district secretary.

Subsequently the business meeting was held, when Canon F. J. O. Helmore was unanimously elected to the chair. The hon. secretary (Mr. P. W. Smith) read his report for 1933, and produced the balance sheet, which showed a very substantial balance.

The appointment of district officers for 1934 resulted in Mr. F. Brett and Mr. Harrison Smith being re-elected as district representatives, Mr. Percy W. Smith as hon. district secretary, and Mr. F. Brett as Ringing Master.

Quarterly meetings for next year were arranged as follows: Spring meeting to be held at Wingham; summer meeting at Lynginge; annual meeting at Canterbury. The next by-meeting was arranged for Faversham.

Before the meeting closed a collection was made for the County Benevolent Fund, and a proposition was eventually made and carried that these collections be a regular feature at the annual and summer meetings of the district.

The meeting closed after an exceptionally merry speech by the Rev. Canon Whorlow, who proposed a hearty vote of thanks to the chairman 'for keeping the meeting in such splendid order.'

Canterbury Cathedral, St. Alphege and St. Stephen's bells were available during the afternoon and evening.

in liquor, whereas they ought to have been sober, as indeed there can never be any true ringing but by person that come to it perfectly sober.

MARCH 12th, 1735.

Yesterday a new attempt was made at New College by Oxford Ringers to ring 6876 cator changes, but they did not succeed as it was hoped they would. They began about 1/2 an hour after 12 and rang till a little after 3 in the afternoon. Being indisposed with a Diarrhoea, I could not go out to hear them.

MARCH 13th, 1735.

The ringers at New College on Tuesday last were the very same that rang at Christ Church the 5040 cator changes on January 1st, 1734: (1) Hearne a taylor, (2) Vickers butler of New College, (3) George a taylor, (4) Guy Terry a Potash Maker of St. Clements, (5) Yates cook of Magdalen College, (6) John Broughton Barber, (7) Rich. Smith Glover, (8) Barnes 2nd cook of Christ Church, (9) Arthur Loyd of Holywell, (10) Nicholas Benwell who shows Great Tom.

I am told by good judges that the ringing was extraordinary good. 'Twas pity and all were sorry that they were balked which was occasioned by the ropes slipping somehow or other out of Nicholas Benwell's hands, who rang the Tenor and for aught I know is as good a tenor man as any in England.

MARCH 22nd, 1735.

On Thursday last the Oxford Ringers began to ring at New College at three quarters after 12 o'clock and rang completely what they had attempted several times before, 6876 cator changes, finishing the peal about 3 quarters of an hour after 4 o'clock. 'Tis the first time that such a number of Cator changes was ever rung in Oxford upon Ten bells. I did not hear the ringing myself for the same reason I have specified before, but I have heard from good Judges that 'twas a glorious performance. For though there were two very great blunders and some other bad ringing yet considering the length of the peal, it was admirable ringing such as can hardly be mended unless it be by the Londoners it being a thing as it were next to impossible to go through such a long tedious work without faults. The names of the Ringers were as before. They were very much caressed when they had done and were handsomely entertained at New College.

MAY 25th, 1735.

The Oxford Ringers are gone over this Whitsuntide to Warwick to ring the fine 10 bells there, having been invited over to that purpose.

MAY 31st, 1735.

I hear the Oxford Ringers rang this Whitsuntide above 30,000 changes excellently well at Warwick.

NORTH NOTTS RINGING CONTEST.CRAWFORD CUP COMPETITION AT SHIREOAKS.

The Shireoaks band won the sixth annual competition for the Crawford Challenge Cup, which took place for the first time at St. Luke's Church, Shireoaks, on Saturday week. This was the first time the Shireoaks company had won the cup. The cup had previously been won by Ordsall 'A' team three times and by Anston company twice.

The cup was presented to the North Notts Association in 1928, to be competed for each year by the affiliated towers of the association. The donor of the trophy, Mr. Arthur Crawford, Rampton, gave the cup in memory of his father, Mr. Charles Crawford, of East Markham. The late Mr. Crawford was an enthusiastic ringer in North Notts, and was one of the best known in the area.

Each competing team had to ring 360 changes in any method they chose. The judges were Mr. J. Flint (Bolsover) and Mr. J. Brothwell (Treeton).

After the contest the competitors and friends adjourned for tea at the Public Hall. There were about 70 present.

The Vicar (the Rev. Ronald V. Dodds) presided, and was supported by the Rev. R. P. Wilkinson (Rector of Ordsall), the Rev. R. Hodgson (Vicar of Anston), Mrs. Palmer and Mr. J. R. Knowles (churchwardens), and Mr. R. W. Stockdale, East Markham (hon. secretary).

The Vicar extended a hearty welcome to the association to Shireoaks.

The decision of the judges was as under:—

Shireoaks company 57 faults, including a penalty of 30 faults for ringing on their own bells; Anston company, 61, including 10 faults for failing to set the bells; Ordsall company 135 faults; East Markham company, 191 faults, before breaking down; and Worksop company, 225 faults.

The Vicar then declared, amidst applause, Shireoaks company the winners of the cup. This was, he added, the first time the competition had taken place in the parish, and the success achieved should be a source of great encouragement to the Shireoaks ringers.

Mrs. Palmer, the people's warden, presented the cup to Mr. Fred Hargreaves, and congratulated the company upon their success.

Mr. Fred Hargreaves, captain of the Shireoaks team, in reply, said he was pleased that the company had won the cup after their previous efforts. The old adage was true that 'If at first you don't succeed, try, try again,' and he advised other companies to continue to try until they won the cup.

Mr. Hargreaves then went on to urge young men to take up the art of bellringing. It was one of the finest recreations, both physically and mentally, and he felt sure that if they only made a start to learn they would continue it. He expressed the hope that every band would try and obtain a few young persons to take up the art of change ringing. Mr. Hargreaves urged upon members of all the towers to do all they could to further interest in the competition and not to be afraid to enter it.

Mr. Flint, one of the judges, in speaking of the contest, remarked that the ringing of the Anston company was excellent, and they would have won the cup if two of the ringers had not failed to set the bells.

The Rev. R. F. Wilkinson congratulated Shireoaks company upon winning the cup, and wished them every success. He observed that Ordsall 'A' team had carried off the cup for three years in succession. They had not brought a second team this year.

Mr. Sydney Palmer, a ringer at Sheffield Cathedral, and a member of the Yorkshire Association, made a few remarks respecting the management of associations.

Mr. Stockdale (hon. secretary) proposed a hearty vote of thanks to the ladies who had served the tea, the judges, and the Vicar for presiding and allowing the association the use of the bells.

The Rev. R. F. Wilkinson added that they had complete confidence in the judges. They set a high standard in ringing, and he hoped members would continue their very good work.

The secretary intimated that a meeting should have been held at North Collingham in August, but for some reason or other it was not convenient. He was going to interview the Vicar.

Mr. Stanley Lamb, of Worksop, was made a member of the association.

The next meeting was fixed to be held on Saturday, November 18th, at Sutton-on-Trent.

The following bellfries were represented: East Retford, Worksop, Ordsall, East Markham, Anston, Barlborough, Edwinstowe, Gamston, Langwith, Sutton-on-Trent and Cuckney.

During the evening various touches were rung on the bells.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.V.W.H. BRANCH FOUNDER'S FAREWELL.

The autumn meeting of the Vale of the White Horse Branch was held at Uffington on Saturday. Ringing began about 3 o'clock, and a short service was held in the church, conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. G. A. Bridle).

The Vicar of Buckland (the Rev. R. L. C. Newhouse) gave a farewell address, as he is leaving Buckland in mid-October for Chale, Isle of Wight. He said he considered it a great honour to be asked by the Vicar of Uffington to preach. The privilege of starting the branch had been given to him in 1913, and he was secretary of it for the first eight years of its life. This task had given him much pleasure, and he was glad to see the branch still growing. He appealed for loyalty to the officers of the Guild from every parish, and asked members to remember that in their work they must be churchmen first and ringers after. A man might be a first-class ringer but a poor churchman. This did not help forward the aims of the Guild. In conclusion, he felt he could not use more fitting words for the occasion than those used during the service, 'The Lord be with you,' as they really mean 'Good-bye.'

Tea was served in the Village Hall to 28 ringers, and the business meeting followed, the Rev. A. J. de D. Deane (chairman of the branch) presiding, supported by the Rev. R. L. C. Newhouse, Mr. R. T. Hibbert (general secretary), Mr. R. Gilling (branch secretary) and members from Uffington, Faringdon, Buckland, Hinton, Waldrist and Shellingford, with a visitor from Swindon.

The Chairman said he was pleased to see so many present, and thanked the Vicar for conducting the service. He gave a hearty welcome to Mr. Hibbert, who had paid an unexpected visit. He paid tribute to the work done for the branch by the Rev. R. L. C. Newhouse, and said he was sure it was the unanimous wish of the meeting that he would have happiness in his new parish.

One new member was elected, and it was decided to hold the spring meeting at Hinton Waldrist in February, and a meeting at Shrivenham on October 21st, when Mr. Hibbert would be present to inspect repairs done to the bell frame before giving the grant of £2 2s. from the Guild Restoration Fund.

Mr. Hibbert congratulated the branch on the attendance at the meeting and the number of young ringers present, and asked them to stick to it, as it was young members that the Guild wanted.

The ringers then adjourned to the tower, where ringing continued during the evening, Mr. R. T. Hibbert, Miss S. Davis and Mr. W. Hibbert, jun., being among those who took part.

BRANCH INSTRUCTORS TO ATTEND WEEKLY PRACTICES

The half-yearly meeting of the Bicester Deanery Branch was held at Piddington on Saturday, October 7th.

There was a good attendance of members from Bicester, Brill, Bucknell, Caversfield, Islip, Launton, Middleton Stoney and Waddesden, and the bells, a light ring of five, were rung to Grandsire and Stedman Doubles for the service, which was conducted by the branch president (the Rev. W. O. Reilly). The lesson was read by the Rural Dean (the Rev. C. D. Read), and an excellent sermon preached by the Rev. G. Dixon, president of the Central Bucks Branch. The Rev. H. J. Edwards presided at the organ.

Tea was afterwards served at the Seven Stars Inn.

At the business meeting it was arranged that branch ringing instructors should attend the weekly practices of those towers needing instruction.

The sum of three guineas was voted to Bicester to help defray the cost of improvements in acoustics and sound control, both inside and outside the tower, if the Church Council would carry out the work.

Further ringing, in which many beginners rang their first touches, brought to a close a very enjoyable meeting.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD.DEVIZES BRANCH.

The quarterly meeting of the Devizes Branch was held at Holy Trinity, Bradford-on-Avon, on Saturday. Ringing commenced at 5 p.m. and good use being made of this grand old peal.

The service was conducted by Mr. C. D. Heginbotham and was much enjoyed, Mr. Attaway ably presiding at the organ.

Tea was partaken of in the Church House and was arranged by Mr. J. Stafford. The usual short business meeting followed, Mr. Heginbotham (branch chairman) presiding.

A letter was read from the Rev. C. A. Plaxton inviting the branch to hold their annual meeting at Southbroom in January.—A short discussion took place, and it was decided to hold the matter over until the next monthly meeting.

The next two monthly meetings were arranged as follows: Seend in November, and Westbury in December.

The usual votes of thanks having been passed, the tower was again visited. Christ Church bells were also available during the evening. Various methods up to Double Norwich were rung during the meeting, representatives attending from the following towers: Devizes (St. John's, St. Mary's and St. James'), Southbroom, North Bradley, Holt, Rowde, Westbury, Trowbridge, Bratton, Melksham, Kingston Magna, Buckland Newton, Wootton Bassett and Ealing.

A PIECE OF 'VIRGIN SOIL.'

Had the average ringer been asked off-hand whether the associations and guilds of this country had any territory left to penetrate, he would, up to quite recently a any rate, have answered 'No.' The net of organisation had been spread so completely in the last fifty years that not one little corner of England had escaped—at least that was what most people had imagined. And yet almost in the centre of the country there was a tract of 'virgin soil.' This was the little county of Rutland. It appears to have been neglected up to the present time, yet it offered splendid opportunity for spade work. In the past it seems to have been a bit of 'No man's land,' and, presumably, having no ringers of its own with sufficient interest in the art to take the initiative, it has led a lone existence, outside the ranks of any organisation. Now, at last, something is to be done about it.

Rutland lies in the diocese of Peterborough and the Peterborough Diocesan Guild is to take steps to organise a branch in the county. The wonder is that such action was not taken long ago, for the reorganisation which led to the formation of the Diocesan Guild, out of the old Central Northants Association, the Peterborough and District and the Oundle and District Associations, took place in 1924. It may have been the comparative isolation of the towers of Rutland, which are cut off from easy communication with the rest of the diocesan area. But the Peterborough Guild, in what is really its jubilee year — its grandparent, the old Raunds, Wellingborough and District Society having been formed in 1883—is now determined to repair the omission. A Rutland branch is to be formed, and there will be plenty of scope for work. The essential need will be the finding of enthusiastic officers in the district, for the difficulties of intercommunication with other parts of the diocese will compel the branch to provide most of its own driving power. Although there are only two rings of eight, there are five of six and six of five bells which are in good ringing order; there are others whose condition is indifferent, and obviously there is scope for some useful work here in those directions where an association can be of real use. We hope the Peterborough Diocesan Guild's effort will meet with a full measure of success.

But if this little bit of England is the last patch left to be brought within the direct influence of a ringing organisation, there are a good many areas up and down the land where there is room for reorganisation; where interest has slackened off, and the influence and activity of the associations count for very little. This is not always due to lack of keenness and enthusiasm on the part of officials; it is more often the apathy of members, who, having everything done for them, fail to appreciate and support the work of the district officers. Such discouragement is bound in time to react on those responsible for the organisation and gradually the work of the association concerned suffers. It is not easy to overcome this apathy; but the real remedy lies with the ringers themselves. When will some of them realise that if they expect to get anything out of their ringing, they must be prepared to put something into it?

A LOUGHBOROUGH CHIME.BELLS DEDICATED AT NELSON.

A very fine chime of eleven bells has been erected by Messrs. J. Taylor and Co., of Loughborough, in the grand steeple of St. Mary's Church, Nelson, Lancs. Remarkable scenes were witnessed on the evening of October 3rd, when the bells were dedicated by the Bishop of Burnley. Hundreds of people had to be turned away from the ceremony by the police, who had to be summoned to deal with the crowds.

During the progress of the ceremony dense throngs waited in Manchester Road and the side-streets nearby, looking at the flood-lit steeple until the climax arrived, and the bells rang out in a burst of melody.

The hushed attention of a congregation numbering over 700 was a fitting background for the impressive ceremonial of dedication. The opening hymns and prayers concluded, the Vicar's warden (Mr. Thos. Bardsley) handed the tolling-rope of the tenor bell to the Bishop, who prayed that the offering might be accepted by God, and in turn handed the rope to the Vicar (the Rev. A. H. Candler). Prayers appropriate to the purpose of the bells were said, and as the last response died away, a single note from the tenor bell sounded as a prelude to the playing on the bells of the hymn-tune, 'Praise, O Praise Our God and King.'

Following an eloquent sermon by the Bishop, a delightful rendering of the air, 'The Bells of St. Mary's,' was given by Master Eric Warren, one of the choirboys, and at the termination of the service a recital on the bells was given by Mr. Harry Withers, of Selly Oak.

The chime of eleven bells is based upon a tenor of 24 cwt., giving the note D in the scale C. The total weight of the bells is 5½ tons, and, with the frame, the installation weighs about 9 tons.

The bells are inscribed as follows:—Tenor.—Ormerod: To the glory of God this bell, the foundation of the peal, was given by the late Ann Ormerod, in loving memory of her husband John. 2nd.—Walton: Given by Henry Mancknols Walton, trustee. 3rd.—Given by the congregation. 4th.—Townsmen's: Given by the townspeople of Nelson. 5th.—Prosperity: Given by the tradespeople of the parish and town. 6th.—Given by Albert Henry Candler, fifth Vicar, and Thomas Bardsley, Vicar's warden. 7th.—Given in pious memory of all founders of St. Mary's Church and congregation. 8th.—Given by friends of St. Mary's. 9th.—Given by Mayors of Nelson (with coat of arms and names and years of office). 10th.—Given by textile workers. 11th.—Given by the children.

A bronze tablet in the north porch records the names of 'founders' commemorated by the 7th bell, of Mayors subscribing to the 9th bell and of tradespeople contributing to the Prosperity bell.

Prior to their erection at Nelson, the carillon was erected at Skegness, Lincs, where for a week in September recitals were given by Mr. Withers. The grand tonal qualities were greatly admired by thousands of townspeople and visitors. Mr. Withers gave a programme of tunes and changes five times a day.

OVER RINGER MARRIED.

An interesting ceremony took place at St. Mary's Church, Over, Cambs, on Saturday, October 7th, when the wedding of Mr. Arthur W. T. Ginn and Miss E. Ravin was solemnised. A numerous congregation attended the service, including the local company of ringers, of which the bridegroom is a member. The bells were rung immediately after the service and a peal attempted later, but unfortunately had to stop, owing to the indisposition of one of the band, after two and a half hours' ringing. The ringers were: A. King 1, M. Ginn 2, R. Smith 3, G. L. Perkins 4, E. Wakeling 5, W. Seeking 6, J. Perkins 7, F. Warrington 8. Mr. King had not rung for five years and is under the doctor's care, yet made a brave attempt.

At Goldhanger, Essex, on Wednesday, October 11th, three fathers and three sons rang 720 Bob Minor: H. R. Appleton 1, A. Appleton 2, B. C. Mann (conductor) 3, S. J. White 4, W. J. White 5, C. J. Mann 6. The fathers rang the 2nd, 4th and 6th.

A FAMOUS PEAL.DEDICATION OF COMMEMORATIVE TABLET AT EXETER CATHEDRAL.

An interesting ceremony took place in Exeter Cathedral belfry on Saturday last, when a tablet recording the peal of Cambridge Surprise Maximus rung on the Cathedral bells by non-resident members of the Devonshire Guild on October 15th last year was unveiled and dedicated. The tablet is of light oak, with lettering in black, surmounted by a shield bearing the Guild device in gilt on a vermillion ground.

Canon McLaren attended on behalf of the Chapter, Mr. C. T. Coles (London) represented the peal band and there were also present members of the Cathedral band and representative members of the Guild from six branches.

After introductory versicles and prayers, Mr. Coles offered the tablet, and Canon McLaren accepted it to remain in perpetuity as an incentive to others to emulate the achievement.

Mr. C. G. Glass, chairman of the Exeter Branch, then unveiled the tablet, remarking on the excellence of the performance, which he had heard from start to finish.

A special prayer by the Canon and the Blessing concluded the ceremony.

Courses of Grandsire Cinques and touches of Stedman and Grandsire Triples were rung, giving all in turn the opportunity to have a pull. The company subsequently reassembled at Dellers Cafe for tea, with Canon McLaren presiding.

Before dispersing, Mr. Coles thanked the Canon for the kind permission the Chapter had given to the band who rang the peal, and said he thought the Chapter were justified in their decision not to allow the tenor to be 'turned in' single-handed.—Canon McLaren replied, expressing his pleasure in being with them, and said that he would certainly convey to the Chapter Mr. Coles' message.

ARCHDEACONRY OF STAFFORD SOCIETY.

Though the attendance was comparatively small, yet a happy meeting was held at Bloxwich on Saturday, October 7th. The service was conducted by the Rev. J. C. Hamilton (Vicar), who, prior to his address, gave the members a hearty welcome. A very nice tea was afterwards partaken of in the Schoolroom, prepared by local ladies, under the supervision of Miss Hamilton.

The customary vote of thanks to the Vicar for his address, use of the bells, etc., to Miss Hamilton and her assistants for arranging and serving tea, also to the Rev. C. H. Barker for presiding at the organ, was received with applause.—Both the Vicar and Miss Hamilton suitably replied.

It was resolved to send a message of congratulation to Mr. George Hughes, of Wednesbury, who that day was celebrating his 71st birthday quietly at home, being unable to be present at the meeting.

The ringing during the afternoon and evening consisted of touches in a variety of methods, from Grandsire Triples to Cambridge Surprise. The bells have recently been rehung by Messrs. Taylor and Co., and the result is a marked improvement.

The next meeting is provisionally arranged to take place at Coseley on January 6th. In the meantime, the jubilee dinner is to be held at Wolverhampton on November 4th.

A 'MISSIONARY' MEETING.HEREFORDSHIRE RINGERS' GATHERING.

An interesting meeting took place at Chelmarsh on Saturday last, when members of the Hereford Diocesan Guild from Bridgnorth and ringers from Highley were the guests of the local tower.

The object of the meeting was to encourage the two towers of Highley and Chelmarsh to give up the old idea of 'call-change' ringing and to take up 'method' ringing. Three veterans of the craft were present, all of whom have seen over 50 years' service, namely, Mr. John Overton, sen., Ringing Master of the Hereford Diocesan Guild (Bridgnorth District), Mr. T. Elocck, Chelmarsh, and Mr. E. Brown, Highley. The bells were raised at 3.25 p.m., after which the Bridgnorth band, consisting of Messrs. J. Overton, sen., H. Overton (St. Leonard's), George Case, W. Hayward and H. Moore-Williams (St. Mary's), assisted by Mr. E. Brown (Highley), rang touches of Grandsire Doubles, Stedman Doubles and Bob Minor. Interspersed with these methods, 'call-changes' were indulged in by the Highley and Chelmarsh ringers, one particular 'touch' including all three of the veterans already referred to.

The company, 24 in number, were the guests of the Vicar of Chelmarsh (the Rev. H. S. Newill) for tea at the school, after which a unanimous vote of thanks was accorded to the donor of the feast.

The Vicar, in reply, expressed his pleasure in seeing the ringers there and also stated that he was very pleased to hear the bells being rung, as that was what they were put in the church tower for. He hoped this meeting would be the precursor of many others, to the advantage of the art, and the local tower in particular.

An adjournment was then made to the church for further ringing, and during an interval Mr. John Overton, sen., gave a short address to the assembled company, explaining the virtues of 'method' ringing and how learners should set about their work.

At 8 p.m. a very enjoyable and sociable meeting came to a close, all the visiting ringers expressing their appreciation of the 'go' of the bells and the fine hospitality with which they had been received.

STRAIGHT TALK TO RINGERS. OXFORDSHIRE VICAR'S ADDRESS.

The autumn meeting of the Witney and Woodstock Branch of the Oxford Diocesan Guild was held at Bampton on Saturday week and attended by about 40 members.

The service, which preceded the business meeting, was conducted by Prebendary Gegg, assisted by the Rev. Stuart Gmelin, chairman of the branch. The lesson was read by Mr. W. Evetts, jun., the branch hon. secretary.

The preacher was the Rev. G. F. Pierce, Vicar of Standlake, who delivered a forceful address.

'Has it ever occurred to you,' said Mr. Pierce, 'that as bellringers you are fellow-workers with God, or do you regard your self-imposed duty as a form of recreation, giving something definite to do on Sunday?'

'I exhort you to look upon bellringing as a high form of service to God. Co-operation is one of the watchwords of the workers of to-day, and I suggest that that spirit might be taken more into the life of the church.'

'In putting to you that in the office of bellringing you are taking an active part in building up the Church of Christ, I want to consider a point which may or may not be a welcome point.'

'Your task is to notify others to assemble to worship God. Is it not strange, therefore, that after performing that high office some ringers neglect to attend the service of worship in which they have invited others to join?'

'Is the worship wrong, is the God we profess to worship wrong, or is our office as church bellringers all sham? It does seem to me to be a curious way of working for God if, after the task of ringing is done, ringers do not stay for the services to which their bells have summoned others.'

At the business meeting, which was presided over by the Rev. Stuart Gmelin, Mr. Evetts reported that the members of the Coombe tower had decided to rejoin the Guild.

It was decided to hold the next meeting at Wootton (Oxon).

On behalf of the meeting, Mr. John Monk congratulated Mr. Evetts upon his election as one of the four diocesan representatives on the Central Council of Church Bellringers in succession to the late Master of the Guild, the Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn.

The meeting closed with a vote of thanks to Prebendary Gegg, the Rev. C. F. Pierce and Miss Taunt, the organist.

Owing to the critical illness of Mr. Roland Lee, of the Vicarage, the Bampton bells were not available to the ringers, and after the meeting visits were paid to the Aston and Clanfield towers.

SURREY ASSOCIATION.

SOUTHERN DISTRICT AT BUCKLAND.

By kind invitation of the Rector (the Rev. H. W. Dunk), a special meeting of the Southern District of the Surrey Association was held at the pretty little village of Buckland. Owing to a heavy downpour of rain, members were rather late in arriving, but the light bells were rung up in peal about 3.30 p.m. and a variety of methods indulged in until 5 p.m., when a short service was conducted in the church by the Rector.

In his little 'talk' the Rev. H. W. Dunk spoke of the pleasure it gave him once again to welcome the association to his parish, adding that it was three years since they had last met there. He impressed on them that the position they held as ringers was a great service to the Church in many ways, and hoped that in their various towers they would ring well and true to the glory of God.

At the conclusion of the service an adjournment was made to the Parish Hall, where a splendid tea was served by ladies of the parish, which was greatly appreciated.

The district secretary, Mr. G. F. Hoad, thanked, on behalf of the members, the Rector for his kind invitation and welcome to Buckland, the ladies for their kindness at tea, and the local band for the welcome always given to visitors.

Then followed change ringing on the handbells and some well-rendered tunes by the Buckland and Horley members. The tower was again visited and the bells rung in various methods up to London Surprise until nearly 9 p.m., when the ringers dispersed, all having had an enjoyable time.

GLOUCESTER AND BRISTOL DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

Over 50 members of the Cheltenham and Tewkesbury branches of the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association were present at a joint meeting of the two branches, held at Bishop's Cleeve, by invitation of the Rev. T. Jesson.

Promptly at 3 o'clock the rebung peal of six were set in motion, and some fine ringing was indulged in, an interesting feature being a six-score by members of the Deveroux family.

After service, conducted by the Rector, the party were entertained to tea, and Mr. Wakeford heartily thanked Mr. Jesson and the ringers of Cleeve for their kindness. The tower was again visited and many were the tributes paid to Messrs. Taylor and Co.'s excellent work and to the Rector and inhabitants of Cleeve for their enterprise in raising the necessary funds to carry out the restoration. Among the many visitors was the Rev. E. V. Cox, who is on holiday in Cheltenham.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

Lancashire's gathering round the festive board at Bolton to-morrow ought to be a big attraction for ringers in the County Palatine. All the rings of bells in Bolton will be available in the afternoon, and an enjoyable evening programme has been arranged. It is not yet too late to secure a ticket.

A peal in twelve Minor methods was rung at Deeping St. Nicholas, Lincs, on Saturday. Mr. J. E. Allan stood in at short notice, through the indisposition of one of the original band, and great credit is due to him for the able manner in which he rang, as it was his first peal in twelve methods 'inside,' and he is unable to get regular practice. Three other members of the band rang their first peal in 12 methods.

The first peal on the fine new ring of ten at Ripon Cathedral was rung on Saturday. It is interesting to note that four of the band were in the last peal on the old ring, exactly three years before. These ringers were Messrs. P. J. Johnson, J. Cotterill, R. Richardson and J. S. Goldsmith.

The York dinner attracted numerous visitors, and when the formal proceedings ended they were adjourned informally to another place.

The animated discussion on Rotherham bells and the speed of ringing very much entertained the silent members of the party.

On Sunday morning the sight of Mr. George Haigh, who is 80 next birthday, assisting to raise the 3 ton tenor, was a striking tribute to his well-preserved 'youth.' He has been a member of the Minster Society since 1876.

Another three-generations peal! Phyllis Tillett, of Ipswich, rang her first peal of Major at the first attempt on Saturday, and among those who took part were her father, her grandfather and an uncle. Phyllis is only 14 years of age.

The peal at Castle Bromwich, Warwickshire, on Saturday, was the first peal by a local band, and it included three 'first pealers' at that!

The meeting of the Axbridge Deanery Branch of the Bath and Wells Association will be held at Loxton to-morrow, instead of at Axbridge as advertised last week.

The peal at Selston, Notts, on October 7th, recorded in last week's issue, was not the first on the bells as printed. This footnote related to the peal at Lychett Minster. The ringer of the 4th at Selston was F. Gerard Rawson.

JUBILEE OF A BIRMINGHAM PEAL.

SOME RECOLLECTIONS.

Sitting quietly by the fireside, one's thoughts go back 50 years. On October 18th, 1883, four members of the Birmingham Amalgamated Society (now defunct) met at the meeting house, Moland Street, Birmingham, and succeeded at the first attempt in ringing upon the handbells a peal of Grandsire Major (10,176 changes) in 4 hours 55 minutes.

Considered in those days something of a smart performance, one remembers the large number of ringers present and the great excitement when the bells ran round. Among others present were several prominent members of the St. Martin's Society and the congratulations were many. The band was T. Russam, J. Carter, T. Miller, R. Hackley; referee, A. J. Jones.

But time passes, and out of all the many ringers present that night I think I am right in saying that only two remain, T. Russam and T. Miller. All the others have passed on. But still in the eventide of a long life it is sometimes pleasant to sit and reflect. T. R.

BELL LECTURE IN PRISON.

To the Editor.

Sir,—On reading of Mr. Wilfred Andrews' visit to Winchester Prison we cannot but admire his splendid work. It is also very encouraging to know he was able to keep his audience interested for so long. I am sure our friends who rang the handbells felt more than satisfied at being able to bring just a ray of sunshine into so many rather dull lives. Let us hope this is only one of many such little entertainments. 'ALWAYS INTERESTED.'

'SLIPPING WHEEL.'

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—Having seen in 'The Ringing World' reports of peal attempts and touches being lost through bells slipping wheel, I write to tell you of an experience many years ago at our home tower. One bell, the 5th in ten, if not rung with a tight rope, had a habit of what we thought was slipping wheel. As the bell was rising to balance at hand stroke, the sally would suddenly stop dead, and, whilst one was wondering what had happened, would go up again very suddenly. On investigation amongst the bells I found there was about 1/2 in. play between pulley and pulley box, which seemed a very old one, possibly having been put in at the same time as the old oak frame in 1739. A piece of plywood between pulley and box soon made matters right, and the bell has not been known to 'slip wheel' since. I write this hoping it may be of service in some of the cases above mentioned.

SNOWDON COMMEMORATION DINNER

INTERESTING GATHERING AT YORK.

Following the customary arrangement, York was this year the venue of the annual gathering organised by the Yorkshire Association in memory of Jasper Whitfield Snowdon and past officers of the association. Jasper Snowdon occupies a greater place in the annals of the Exercise than that of merely founder and first president of the Yorkshire Association. For that alone he would have deserved well of ringers in Yorkshire, but his place among the great figures that have adorned the art is secured for all time by the work he did in the writing and publication of text books on ringing. His work is his greatest memorial, but it is none the less fitting that opportunity should be taken to remind those who now occupy the stage something of what they owe to his labours.

A company of nearly 120 assembled at York on Saturday for the commemoration, and they included visitors from many distant places. In the morning a party went to Ripon Cathedral, where they rang the first peal on the restored bells. In the afternoon a large number took advantage of ringing on the noble peal of twelve bells at the Minster, the whole company uniting round the festive board in the evening at the Windmill Hotel under the genial chairmanship of the president of the association, Canon C. C. Marshall. The local arrangements had been very admirably carried out by a committee of York members, of which Mr. T. F. Earnshaw was president and Mr. G. Horner hon. secretary. During the evening the Dean of York contrived to spend some time at the gathering, which clashed with another engagement which he had to fulfil. Among the company were Canon Solloway, of Selby, the Rev. Kelly, of Huntington (a son of the late Rev. Maitland Kelly, of Devon), Mr. G. W. Fletcher (hon. secretary of the Central Council), Mrs. E. K. Fletcher (hon. secretary of the Ladies' Guild), Mr. A. Walker (Ringing Master of St. Martin's Guild, Birmingham), Mr. R. Richardson (Master of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild), Mrs. Richardson (hon. secretary of the Lincoln Branch of the Ladies' Guild), Mr. F. E. Dawe (London), Mr. C. F. Johnston (Croydon), Mr. C. Harrison (Loughborough), Mr. F. Skidmore (Bristol United Guilds), Mr. T. Metcalfe (hon. secretary, Cleveland and North Yorkshire Association), Mr. H. Lofthouse (hon. secretary, Leeds and District Society), Mr. J. Cotterill (hon. treasurer of the Yorkshire Association), Mrs. Cotterill, Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Palmer, Mr. and Mrs. Dixon, Messrs. J. Thorpe, H. Thorpe, J. Holman, E. Wilson, E. Mays, W. Wolley, J. Marshall, W. Taylor, R. Harrison, R. Harrison, jun., and H. Hurst (Sheffield), Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. H. Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Sherwood, Messrs. H. Smith, Leslie Morris, G. Robinson (Leeds), Mr. T. Maude and Mr. W. Barton (Pudsey), Mr. W. Barber (Newcastle), Messrs. E. Jenkins, J. Hardcastle, T. Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Buckley (Bradford), Misses N. L. Cawthorne, M. Higgins, L. Kelly and D. Turner, Messrs. F. Watkinson, F. Baker, F. Cordwell, J. Haywood and J. L. Gilbert (Handsworth, Sheffield), J. Coad and A. Coad (Earlswood), Mr. G. Park and party (Darlington), Mr. and Mrs. G. Lewis (Ecclesfield), Mr. and Mrs. C. McGuinness (Lincoln), Messrs. Pearson, A. Walker, H. C. Walters and others (Pontefract), the Rev. Moore, Mr. G. Slack and party (Burley), Mr. F. Clark (Bentley), Mr. H. Barron (Drighlington), Messrs. W. Cryer and J. W. Hall (Selby), Hudson (Ripon), S. Briggs (Rotherham), R. Bottomley (Keighley) and a full number of York Minster ringers.

SNOWDON LETTERS FOR YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION.
After the loyal toast had been honoured, the President read a message from Mr. J. W. Rowbotham, of London, sending fraternal greetings and good wishes and regretting his inability to be present. An apology was also received from Canon England.

A letter was read by the President from Miss Margaret Snowdon (daughter of the late Mr. William Snowdon), conveying the warm-hearted greetings of her mother and herself to the ringers assembled at the dinner and assuring them that their thoughts were with them. 'At such a meeting,' added Miss Snowdon, 'pledged to patriotism and remembrance, one is confident that an enthusiasm results capable of ensuring the further progress and usefulness of the work of the Exercise.'

Canon Marshall said he was very glad to receive that greeting from Miss Snowdon and her mother, and he was sure it would be in accordance with the wishes of the gathering if he sent a message reciprocating their greetings and good wishes.

Mr. F. E. Dawe was entrusted with the toast of 'The Memory of Jasper Whitfield Snowdon and Past Officers of the Yorkshire Association,' and it proved that he was the only person present who had rung a peal with the first president. At the outset he mentioned that during the afternoon he met the Archdeacon of York in the Minster, who asked him to convey his regret that he was unable to be present at that gathering, but he was booking up the event for three years hence. Continuing, Mr. Dawe said although Jasper Snowdon was his senior in years, they were very great pals. He had with him a bundle of letters from Jasper Snowdon, many of them written over 50 years ago, and others from his brother William, giving details of Jasper's illness and death, which was a very tragic affair. Jasper Snowdon was not only the founder of the Yorkshire Association, but was its first president. He was a New College, Oxford, man, with a mathematical mind, and he was able to apply his mathematical knowledge to change ringing. He was a very good ringer on eight bells, and he also rang one peal of Treble Twelve. He only rang a limited number of methods, but what he rang he rang well. In physique Jasper Snowdon was of average height, thick set and powerfully built, with his dark hair closely cropped, a little moustache and dark, piercing eyes that took in everything at once. He was full of energy and like an electric eel in quickness of movement. He knew everything and everybody. He was not only a bob caller, but he was also a good conductor. The many letters which he (Mr. Dawe) had received from him he was going to collect together and, with other letters which he had received from other prominent members of the Yorkshire Association at that time, let their president decide into whose hands they should be placed for safe keeping after he was gone. Snowdon's letters were so good and rich and clever that they ought not to be lost sight of. Mr. Dawe went on to refer to other past stalwarts of the Yorkshire Association, including William Howard, of York, a wonderful old man with an amazing knowledge of his own city. He was also very musical and was the conductor at the Minster belfry. Another celebrated York man was George Breed, who, said Mr. Dawe, used to be the finest big bell ringer in England. Mr. Dawe also mentioned among those who had done great work for the association Mr. William Snowdon, who succeeded his brother as president, the Hattersleys, of Sheffield, William Whittaker, Bob Tuke and others.

JASPER W. SNOWDON.

In reviving the memories of these past worthies, said Mr. Dawe, he would like to link with them the coming generation. So long, he said, as they had in the Yorkshire Association such promising youngsters as John Gilbert, who at 15 years of age was the youngest ringer to ring a peal of Stedman Cinques, the association would not lose the lustre and the laurels they had won in the past. He mentioned an attempt that was made, and to which he gave all the support he could, to arrange a peal for boys under 15 years of age. There were some wonderful youngsters about, several of them of 12 or 13, who had rung peals, but as such a peal would have had to be arranged somewhere in the Midlands, at a meeting place convenient to all, it was found that bringing them together presented insuperable difficulties, because some parents, not unreasonably, were not willing to let lads travel these distances alone, and it was impossible to send anyone to travel with them. In conclusion, Mr. Dawe said he wished the members of the Yorkshire Association every blessing and hoped they would meet for many years to honour this toast under their able president, Canon Marshall (applause).

The toast was honoured in silence.

Mr. P. J. Johnson proposed 'Church and State,' and referred to the serious problems which at this time faced both. In some countries of the world there had been changes to a form of government such as he hoped none of them would ever see in this country (hear, hear). Even in this country there was a school of thought that would, if it could, bring them within the ambit of some of those political movements that were shaking almost the foundations of the civilised world, and it behoved all, leaders and rank and file alike, to keep calm and clear heads in the problems that beset us. The problems that beset the Church would, he thought, either bring about a great religious revival in this country or produce a great wave of apathy. The mechanisation of industry and the growth of mechanical transport had led to a great shifting of populations, and the difficulties which had arisen in church life in great cities like London—where the congregations had migrated to suburban districts—had set the Church a great problem to provide new facilities for church life in these new districts. If they could meet it they would stir up a great wave of enthusiasm; if they failed to keep up with the times the inevitable result would be a greater apathy than we had to-day.

RINGERS WHO RUN BEFORE THEY CAN WALK.

Mr. Dawe, continued Mr. Johnson, had touched on the fact that Jasper Snowdon, who was a leader among ringers, was a person who rang only a limited number of methods, but what he rang he rang well. We now lived in the days of diagrams and were beginning to assess a man's ability by the number of methods he rang, irrespective of whether he rang them well or badly. His personal opinion was that they found to-day that many people were allowed to ring rounds before they could ring their bell properly; that they rang changes before they could ring rounds properly, and rang peals before they could ring changes properly (hear, hear). It was important they should not forget that the outside public, who had to listen, should be considered. Those people who went in for ringing advanced methods should be able to strike their bells as well as the best of the less advanced ringers could strike the bells in less advanced methods. 15 men were wading through methods merely to put their names in print, they had no right to do it, unless the ringing was good, for they were taking honours that did not belong to them (hear, hear). He hoped ringers would realise that change ringing was their particular side of church work and should be of the best possible kind, but he was very much concerned because he felt that the young ringer of to-day had not got the standard of ringing of bygone days. In conclusion, Mr. Johnson expressed the hope that the Church would exercise a wise and beneficent influence on the character of the people, which would in turn be reflected in the leaders, to whom, in these perplexing days, we had to look to get us out of our present difficulties. He coupled with the toast the name of the Dean of York.

The Dean of York said it had been a pleasure to hear from the Minister: lower some audible evidence of the presence of many visiting ringers. It had been extremely welcome. That was no empty compliment, because he fully recognised the importance of the work upon which the ringers were engaged and the value of such a fellowship as that. As a priest who had served in several parishes during the course of his ministry, he knew enough of parish life to be certain that in keeping a parish together one of the plainest symptoms of how things were going was whether the bellringers held together well or not. When Sunday by Sunday they heard the bells going well they had splendid evidence that there, at any rate, there was a band of strong goodwill which was resolved to proclaim to the parish the message which the bells had to bring. That was a thing of real value wherever it could be secured, and where such loyalty could be maintained they might rest assured that indirectly they were doing a real good bit of spiritual work. For that reason if for no other he wished their grand old craft and mystery every success. His own experience of ringing was not extensive, but it was certainly peculiar (laughter). He was not entirely devoid of experience, but such experience as he had had of bellringing had been, on the whole, humbling to his pride (laughter). He realised that theirs was a real art, which was essentially English to the core. Did it not link Church and State in one unity in itself? When done by those who had the highest and sincerest motives it proclaimed God's message and helped the lives and soul of the community by the sense of accord with God. The loyalty of their association was a splendid means by which not only higher technical efficiency was secured, but the internal side of church loyalty, mutual friendship and cordial alliance with the parish parson in his work was fostered by the highest ideals. The times were grave both for the State and for the Church, and in such times there was nothing that they could do better to further the communal life than doing with all their heart the thing that lay nearest to hand. In the whole scope of national and church life bellringing might be a small thing, but if carried on in the right spirit it was a real contribution to the wellbeing of the Church (applause).

'MAD' RINGERS.

Canon Solloway, in a characteristically breezy speech, proposed 'The Yorkshire Association.' On one previous occasion he had spoken of all ringers as being 'mad,' and, one or two speakers having referred humorously to this, Canon Solloway first said he felt he must defend himself against the 'dreadful charge.' He thought when he gave utterance to that statement, if indeed it was made, he said he considered all people were mad in some particular, not least parsons, and, just a little bit more, bellringers (laughter). He had in front of him that evening his own captain, Mr. Cryer. He was quite certain Mr. Cryer was mad (laughter). He had many evidences of it (laughter). He had known him get up at five o'clock in the morning to see if the bells were all right. He had seen him pat and stroke the bells; do everything, in fact, except kiss the bells—he meant bells without a final 'o' (laughter). He was quite sure that at Selby they had got the very best team of ringers in Yorkshire, thanks to that madman, Mr. Cryer (laughter and applause). Having jokingly referred to the derivation of his own name, which he said he had been told was a corruption of Solomon and that he was in the direct line of descent from Solomon and the Queen of Sheba, Canon Solloway spoke of letters he had received from all parts of the world, from men and women who used to reside in Selby, in which they referred to their happy recollections of Selby Abbey and its bells. They always referred to the bells, he said, and he was very glad of that. The men engaged in this ringing business ought to be very proud to know they made such an impression on people by their ringing. He wanted the ringers to feel that their work was a happy and noble one. Bells were one of the things that always tended to keep up their spirits. An association of that kind which kept up the spirit of friendship and fellowship among ringers deserved success, and he hoped success would attend all their efforts. They were doing a great service, not only in Yorkshire, but throughout the country, in a time of stress, by keeping the people cheerful (applause).

Mr. S. F. Palmer submitted the toast of 'The Visitors and Kindred Associations.' He welcomed most cordially the members of the various associations represented that night, and spoke of the good work done by the 'N.O.S.R.' and the 'N.O.P.R.' The former, the 'Noble Order of Service Ringers,' were, he said, staunch and true to the Church and the Exercise. They rang for the services of the Church every Sunday as a duty, and the Church and the associations owed them a debt of gratitude. Then there was the 'Noble Order of Peal Ringers'—they were called by another name by a writer in 'The Ringing World': the 'N.O.P.G.'—who were doing a great service for the Exercise and associations by raising the standard of ringing, and were recognised by every ringer who was a ringer as the backbone of the associations. Proceeding, Mr. Palmer referred to the social value of such gatherings as that dinner. They enabled them to form a kind of unofficial freemasonry among ringers throughout the country; they created a better atmosphere and helped to keep the interests of the art together. They helped also to cement the bonds of friendship between ringers in different parts of the country, and but for them he thought ringing would not hold so high a place. Proceeding, Mr. Palmer referred to other visitors who were with them, including the Dean of York, Canon Solloway and the Rev. Kelly, and spoke of the indebtedness of ringers to the clergy for the use of their bells, without which they would not be able to follow their science and art as they did. Some clergy, he added, were very interested in ringing, and where a band had among them a ringing parson they were very lucky indeed. The great majority of clergy recognised the ringers as churchworkers and part and parcel of the Church organisation, but where the parson had no interest in the bells or the ringers, the belfry conditions were often very deplorable. The belfry ought to be at least as comfortable a place as the vestry. Mr. Palmer went on to say that they were pleased to see so many ladies present, and they gave them a hearty welcome. That was one of the special occasions when they could come out ringing with their husbands and masters (laughter). Ladies could not always accompany their husbands on ringing expeditions—it would, for instance, be unfair to ask them to stand outside a tower, perhaps in the rain, while the men folk rang a peal (laughter)—but they were delighted to have their pleasant faces among them that night (applause). Recently in 'The Ringing World,' said Mr. Palmer, a controversy was raised by a woman who had the effrontery to enter into print to say that her husband ought to stay at home and not go ringing. If she were there that night he would be inclined to tell her that she was not fit to be a ringer's wife or anybody else's wife (laughter). He concluded by offering a cordial welcome to all the visitors that night, and hoped they would carry away with them many happy recollections of their visit.

WONDERFUL WELCOME AND HOSPITALITY.

Mr. Albert Walker, who first responded, expressed the thanks of the visitors for the wonderful welcome and hospitality extended to them, and apologised for the fact that there were not more present from Birmingham. The Master of St. Martin's Guild, Alderman Pritchett, had just sustained a bereavement by the death of his brother, Mr. Alfred Pritchett, who in his younger days was a most accomplished ringer. Several other members of the Guild would have been present but for the inconvenient Sunday train service. Mr. Walker thanked Mr. Percy Johnson for the arrangements made for the peal at Ripon Cathedral—a very creditable peal and one of which the Yorkshire Association need not be ashamed. In conclusion, he invited members of the Yorkshire Association to the Henry Johnson dinner at Birmingham on March 3rd.

Mr. Colin Harrison, who also replied, said members of the kindred societies were glad to have the opportunity of attending that gathering year by year to honour and perpetuate the memory of that great exponent of ringing, Jasper Snowdon, and his fellow-officers; to make new friendships and cement old ones. If the Yorkshire Association needed any assurance of their feelings with regard to these gatherings, the attendance of so many visitors was sufficient guarantee that they were pleased to have the opportunity to come.

Mr. T. F. Earnshaw proposed 'The Chairman,' and congratulated him on having been appointed a Canon of Ripon. The Yorkshire Association and kindred associations were essentially church organisations, and the ringers were churchworkers, and it was the right thing for them to have a clergyman at the head of these organisations, with the proviso that he was also a ringer and sympathised with ringing (applause). The Yorkshire Association was fortunate in its President, Canon Marshall was enthusiastic in ringing and a good ringer, and one who thoroughly enjoyed the company of ringers (applause). He had well merited the honour he had received (applause). Mr. Earnshaw made the suggestion that a list of the past officers should be inserted in the annual report of the association each year so that the many eminent names could be kept before the members even though they did not attend the annual dinner. It would be surprising, he thought, what memories would be brought up by those names, and in years to come—he hoped it would be a long time hence—they might be able to add the Rt. Rev. Bishop Marshall and the Rt. Hon. Percy Johnson, M.P. (laughter).

The toast was drunk with musical honours, and, in responding, Canon Marshall said that while he could not claim to be a good ringer, he was behind none of them in his pride of being a ringer and in striving to do his best to serve the interests of bellringing in that great county. As head of that great association he felt he was following in the steps of two very distinguished predecessors, and he therefore had great traditions to uphold. It was only because he had the help of very efficient and loyal fellow-officers that he had been able to fulfil the duties. It was a great pleasure to preside over those gatherings, and he hoped they would go on and the numbers increase and that they would be able to welcome more and more friends from other parts of the country (applause).

On Canon Marshall's departure, Mr. F. E. Dawe took the chair to conclude the evening, and, in brief but complimentary terms, proposed the toast of 'The Ringing World.'

SCOTTISH ASSOCIATION

ALL TOWERS REPRESENTED AT ALLOA MEETING.

A very successful meeting of the Scottish Association was held at St. John's, Alloa, on Saturday, Oct. 7th, forty-eight members, representing all the Scottish towers, being present. The methods rung were Stedman, Grandsire and Plain Bob, as well as call changes. A break was made during the afternoon for the association service in the very pretty little church. It was conducted by the Rector (the Rev. W. S. Wilson), and the full choir and organist assisted in the service.

An excellent tea was afterwards served at Townhead Tearooms, and, as there was no business meeting to follow, handbell ringing was indulged in. The cost of the tea was generously defrayed by the St. Cuthbert's Society, Edinburgh.

Someone at the tea table facetiously asked if all this ringing was being done on the occasion of the opening of a popular store in the town that day by a certain Mr. F. W. W.—.

As the ringing room of St. John's is very small, the 'left-over' members took occasion to have a walk through the lovely estate of the Earl of Mar and Kelly, on which the church is built, and quite a lot of 'chestnuts' were gathered by the junior and not-so-junior members.

An excellent meeting was brought to a close about 8 o'clock as the various parties left for their buses and trains.

NEW ALBION TREBLE BOB.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—When Mr. Snowden included Albion Treble Bob in 'Standard Methods,' he was quite enthusiastic about its wonderful qualities, and the method deserved all that he said about it. If it has never become a favourite it is because of the monotony of the work.

In the early days two methods claimed pride of place in practice: Grandsire and Treble Bob, and it is easy to see that it was the variety that every call introduced that appealed to the Exercise.

'New Albion,' by a slight alteration in places when the treble dodges in 7-8, picks up the same lead ends and bobs as Oxford and Kent, and all peals in these methods run true, the only false course end being 24365.

May I take this opportunity of thanking those gentlemen who have shown an interest in Silchester. I have already written to them personally, but cannot publish any peals as yet, as I wish to give every opportunity to those gentlemen who hold that there is no room now for originality to show how peals can be produced in this method by rule of thumb.

An excellent musical programme was carried out. Courses of Stedman Cinques and Grandsire Caters were rung on handbells, quartettes were admirably rendered and songs were sung by Mr. F. Horner. Mr. Shipman sang humorous songs, which greatly amused the company, and Major Pollard gave a clever monologue.

A very happy evening concluded at 11 o'clock with 'Auld Lang Syne.' Many of the visitors stayed until Sunday, when they participated in the service ringing at the Minster in the morning. Nearly forty ringers were present in the belfry.

ROTHERHAM BELLS.

'A MAGNIFICENT BUT NOT PERFECT TEN.'

Dear Sir,—In answer to dear old 'Highrease,' I must ask Mr. Baker not to talk or write of noble peals or even magnificent peals until he has heard York Minster peal of twelve.

To start with, I give praise or credit where it is due and whatever the firm, whether in practice or defunct, I have no pet firm, and I would adjure Mr. Baker not to be so one-sided as to think there is only one pebble on the beach.

To deal shortly with Thrybergh, I think Mr. Baker waxes very beautiful on the subject, but rather 'dings' too much of the competent founder about. Now here is a brief resume of what I think the same competent founder might do (experience does teach one). They simply want taking to the foundry where five out of the five might be found to be cracked and so be recast, or they might be found to be all right, with just a little polishing up, and then add (to make a nice light peal of six) a nice little tenor (of the 'magnificent' variety), weighing approximately 34½ cwt. (talk about homogeneity and amalgams!). What I have suggested should be done at Thrybergh as it was at another place not far away.

If Mr. Baker would have my last article read out to him properly he would make sure of facts. I did not ask him or anyone else to visualise the Rotherham old ten cleaned up into a magnificent peal, but made a slight hint that we should have been better off with the old 31½ cwt tenor and rest in good proportion, and hung in the same manner as at present, than we are now, by lifting the tenor to 34½ cwt. and taking metal out of the small ones. Also if he will peruse my last letter again he will find I never mentioned the old Rotherham peal as having 'barked.' The barking was related to the chapter on a well-known North Country Minster peal, and that was on account of being short of deadening of sound materials, not the bells. What would the present peal at the same North Country Minster sound like to ring if the ringing chamber was in the same place as before and nothing more done to the ceiling? No, Mr. Baker, the old Rotherham peal did not 'bark,' neither did we have the 'three blind mice.' On a recent Sunday morning, after a very tiring week, I decided to stay in bed and listen to the 'magnificent' peal, the wind blowing the sweet cadences o'er to my bedroom. Having opened the window wide, I settled down as I thought to hear some good ringing as only we in Rotherham (having got to know a little of the bells) can ring. But, sir, the only thing I heard was the old, old refrain, 'Three Blind Mice,' with variations. I would like to bring to Mr. Baker's notice a letter by C. F. J. published in October 6th's issue of 'The Ringing World.' The second paragraph I would like him to peruse slowly and carefully.

In his mentioning Chesterfield bells, I am afraid if Mr. Baker had had as much time knocked out of himself he would be feeling far worse off than they are at present. At least one can tell what they are ringing when they are rung, whether it be Stedman Caters or Cambridge Royal, a thing one cannot say of the modern 'magnificent' peals, and these bells were cast before the days of 'magnificent' tuning.

Although the present writer might have a dwarfed physique (he has a large heart and can praise good workmanship by boy or man, but is the first to condemn either bad splicing or bellfounding), he has not a dwarfed and one-sided mind. He has no pet firm and is no turn-coat from one firm to another for convenience. As for my early peals rung with Mr. Baker, there was no opportunity of getting on the back end, as these bells were spotted and all the good ringers had to be on the working bells.

But, as Mr. Baker says, away with all flippancy. Let him keep the peal as his memorial. I myself, being a little bit artistic, would sooner have a well-proportioned ringing peal and not have the base of the cross too outrageously big in proportion to the rest of the marble.

SID BRIGGS.

'CUCKOO IN THE MEARS' NEST.'

ROTHERHAM'S OLD EIGHTH BELL.

My Lords, Ladies and 'qualified Ringers,' it gives me great pleasure to comply with the request made by 'Irenæus' respecting an inscription which appeared on the old 8th bell at Rotherham All Saints' Church. It was undoubtedly, as stated on page 588 of 'The Ringing World,' 'Thomas Hilton of Wuth made me.' This had obviously been chiselled at, but enough remained to make out that with the aid of a flash lamp. The date had been thoroughly erased, though. ('Irenæus' makes no reference to the date, and he says 'the only inscription, etc.')

When this matter was mentioned to the late Mr. Sam Thomas he was very sceptical about it. He was so sure that Rotherham's old ten were 'maidens all' that, somewhat like that other Thomas of old, he wanted to see some evidence.

The writer well remembers the occasion when Mr. Thomas' doubt on this point was removed by 'Irenæus,' the writer being a lively and interested onlooker at the time. Mr. Thomas' words after the examination were: 'It's Hilton's right enough, that's a cuckoo indeed in the Mears' nest.' (I gave Sam Thomas full marks for the joke.)

I know the bell in question was slightly different in contour in proportion to the remainder; this was most marked at the top, it being not so flat there as the others.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.BRADFIELD BRANCH IMPROVEMENT.

The Bradfield Deanery Branch held its annual meeting at Bradfield on Saturday, September 30th. Not since 1917 had a meeting been held there, and to most of the local ringers it was something new and very interesting. Ringing commenced at 3 o'clock and some very fine touches were brought round. Service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. S. Nowell-Rostron), assisted by the Rev. H. C. Wilder, R.D. The address was given by the Rev. C. Elliot Wigg (Deputy Master of the Guild). Amongst those present were the Rev. J. Sharpe (Theale) and the Rev. J. F. Forge (Padworth). Tea was served in the village clubroom, and 40 members and visitors sat down to a most enjoyable spread. The following towers were represented: St. Peter Mancroft, Norwich, Lulham, High Wycombe, Englefield, Padworth, East Ilsley, All Saints', Wokingham, Peasemore, Compton, Abingdon, St. Lawrence, Reading, Bradfield, Beenham, Theale, Aldermaston, Cholsey, Stratley, Tilehurst, Whitechurch, Caversham, Newbury and Beedon. Handbells were rung after tea, a course of Grandsire and tunes being much enjoyed by all.

The business meeting followed, the chairman of the branch (the Rev. H. C. Wilder, R.D.) being in the chair, supported by the Rev. A. L. Whitfield (vice-chairman and treasurer), the Rev. C. Elliot Wigg and Mr. R. T. Hibbert (general secretary).

The chairman, vice-chairman and treasurer of the branch were re-elected, and Mr. T. W. Palmer was re-elected as secretary, and the following were appointed as a committee: Mr. H. Perry, of Stratley; Mr. J. Butler, of Bradfield; Mr. A. Arlott, of Beenham, and Mr. E. Tigwell.

It was decided to hold the annual meeting during April and a ringing meeting every three months, the date and place of meeting to be decided by the committee.

Mr. R. T. Hibbert spoke of the improvement in the branch, and gave advice and encouragement to members present. He also reminded the branch of the good work that Mr. J. Abery and Mr. J. Bower had done.—Realising this, members passed a vote of thanks to these two gentlemen.

The Chairman thanked the Vicar for entertaining the branch at Bradfield.—The Vicar, responding, said he hoped the branch would meet at Bradfield again in the near future.

With everyone anxious to get among the ropes again, the meeting dispersed.

The bells at Bradfield, Englefield and Theale were kept going well in the evening, and everyone agreed that a most enjoyable afternoon and evening had been spent.

CONDUCTORS SHOULD BE CRITICS

There are few ringing societies which can go back for two hundred years in their history, and the Oxford Society's Bicentenary on Saturday was an event of rare interest to the Exercise. As we mentioned a week or two ago in this column, change ringing was practised in Oxford before the first recorded performances and we are indebted to one who was not himself a ringer, but a caustic critic, for the first authentic information of the Oxford men's doings. The pity is that the diarist died so soon after his first records of ringing. But for him, however, details of some of those early performances would have been unknown to us and 1933 would probably not have been regarded as the Society's bicentenary year.

The proceedings on Saturday were a fitting mark of the event, the principal item on the programme being the dinner in the evening, at which a number of leading members of the Exercise were present. It is a pleasure to observe that the subsequent speeches were of much greater interest than those usually heard at ringers' gatherings. This perhaps, was due to the occasion itself—it was something out of the ordinary and so the speakers found something out of the ordinary to say—and we commend them even to those of our readers who have a habit of skipping the reports of post prandial oratory.

To one speech in particular we would direct the attention of all ringers. The President of the Central Council had something to say which for long has badly wanted saying, and he said it with that directness which is characteristic of his utterances when speaking as the head of the Exercise. Mr. Lewis said, in effect, that it was high time in the belfry that the conductor for the time being should be free to criticise the ringing and tell the ringers how it should be improved, without incurring the displeasure of the individuals concerned. A good deal of bad ringing is tolerated in these days for fear of causing offence to the culprit or culprits. Because a man may resent being told of his fault, the conductor remains silent and the ringing and the public suffer. Mr. Lewis' contention is that any criticism of a ringer by the conductor during ringing should be accepted in good spirit and should not be allowed to cause ill-will on the part of the person spoken to. In this, we believe, all reasonably minded ringers will agree with him. It should be every conductor's duty to criticise. There are a few really critical conductors to be found, men who do not hesitate to speak their mind if occasion arises, whether they offend or please. What is wanted is not only more men of this type, but more ringers who will accept the criticism in the proper spirit and, realising that it is in the interest of better striking, will feel no resentment over it. It would be an important step to raising the level of ringing generally. Even the mildest criticism is taken objection to by some ringers. It is always difficult for a young conductor to criticise the defects of an older ringer; even young ringers sometimes resent being told by their seniors. When considered in the light of a desire for better ringing, such ill-feeling, which only arises through a mistaken sense of offended dignity, is really silly, and Mr. Lewis' advice is very sound. Ringers old and young should learn not to take offence at criticism by their conductors—yet how often does a conductor have to act warily for fear of offending and losing one of his band?

PEAL REPORTS.

A HINT TO CORRESPONDENTS.

We would again call the attention of correspondents to the desirability, when sending in peal reports, of adhering to the style in which they are printed in 'The Ringing World.' Many reports reach us in which the information is 'pitchforked' together or defective in some material particular. We would ask those who send peal reports for publication, if they are not fully familiar with the style adopted in our columns, to check the details with those which are given week by week in 'The Ringing World.' It will prevent many errors and the necessity for making corrections which might often be avoided and in addition save a good deal of trouble to the Peals Analysis Committee of the Central Council.

ILLNESS PREVENTS RINGING AT LEWISHAM DISTRICT MEETING.

The annual meeting of Lewisham District was held at St. Luke's, Bromley Common, on Saturday, October 14th. A case of serious illness immediately adjoining the church prevented the use of the bells. The proceedings consisted, therefore, of the service, tea, business meeting and some handbell ringing.

The service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. F. W. Hassard-Short), who gave a very interesting address on the origin and evolution of musical instruments in general and of bells in particular.

Tea was served in St. Luke's Hall, 30 members participating, after which the business meeting was held under the chairmanship of the Vicar. One member of West Wickham band was elected into the association.

The secretary read a report of the year's working, which was adopted. The meeting expressed a wish that these reports should be entered (as separate entries) in the minute book.

The next business was the election of officers for the ensuing year. This led to the unopposed re-election of the retiring holders, viz., Messrs. A. G. Hill, E. Barnett, W. Smith and T. Groombridge, sen., hon. district secretary, representatives on General Committee (two) and Ringing Master respectively. The reappointment was made with thanks for previous service.

The next meeting is to be held, by invitation, at St. Mary's, Lewisham, in January.

The Vicar took the item, 'Any other business,' as the appropriate time to express his regret that the bells had been idle, owing to unavoidable circumstances, and thanked the ringers for their touch on handbells immediately after tea.

Mr. T. Groombridge proposed a vote of thanks to the Vicar for his permission to hold the meeting at St. Luke's, for conducting the service and giving his address, and for presiding at the business meeting; to the curate and churchwardens for their support, and to the organist for his services.—This was carried with applause.

At this time a message was delivered from the invalid mentioned above that, in consideration of the special occasion, she had no wish to prevent ringing, but asked that the bells be rung only to short touches. On the suggestion of Mr. W. J. Jeffries, it was decided to forego ringing under the circumstances, and to thank the lady for her kindly intentions.

This concluded the proceedings.

LANCASHIRE ASSOCIATION'S DINNER

SUCCESSFUL GATHERING AT BOLTON.

Judging by the gathering which attended the second annual dinner of the Lancashire Association at Bolton on Saturday, the event is one which has evidently come to stay among the social gatherings of the Exercise. Last year Canon Romney, of Liverpool, suggested that a meeting of ringers with a pilgrimage to the Cathedral in that city would be interesting. So it proved, and the warm support which the project received led to the organisation of last Saturday's gathering at Bolton.

Bolton cannot offer a pilgrimage to a cathedral, but it can offer bells. In the town itself there are seven rings of eight and one of six, all in first-class going order. All these were placed at the disposal of visitors, and good use was made of them. Following this there was a short service in St. George's Church before the company proceeded to the Co-operative Hall, where over 160 sat down to a right good dinner. The president of the association (Canon Elsee) occupied the chair, and among the company were the Lord Bishop of Manchester, His Worship the Mayor of Bolton (Alderman Lomax) and the Mayoress, the Deputy Mayor (Alderman G. Sykes) and Mrs. Sykes, Canon Child (St. Helen's), the Rev. Marie (Tadmorden), the Rev. H. A. Norton (Holy Trinity, Bolton), the Rev. R. C. Worsley (St. Mary's, Deane), the Rev. P. Marr Davies (St. Peter's, Halliwell), Mr. Ernest B. Worsley (deputy treasurer of the borough) and Mr. Percy J. Johnson, of Yorkshire fame. Letters apologising for their absence were received from the Archdeacon of Liverpool, Archdeacon Sale and the Archdeacon of Warrington, also from the Editor of 'The Ringing World,' who was attending the Oxford Society's bicentenary celebration.

The President welcomed the distinguished guests, and said it was a special pleasure to see the Bishop of Manchester amongst them, especially when he had already attended two meetings that day in London. To him all must feel very grateful. They were also delighted to have with them the Mayor and Mayoress and the late secretary of the Yorkshire Association (Mr. Johnson, of Leeds).

THE BISHOP AND THE BELLS.

'Prosperity to the Lancashire Association' was proposed by the Bishop. He said he had been a Rector in two parishes where there was a peal of bells. At the first there was a very keen set of ringers, and in the winter time they practised every Tuesday and Thursday. He lived right under the church tower and was always out on Tuesdays and Thursdays (laughter). At the end of a summer he was offered the living of another parish—he took it (laughter). The Rectory there was also near a tower, and they only practised once a week, but he was always out on that particular night. At the end of another summer he was offered his present post—he took it (laughter), and now resided over two miles away from the tower and still retained his post. The ringers, he went on to say, were an acting incumbent, because if there were no ringers, the incumbent would have to ring the bells himself. It was a part of his duty to ring them or find a substitute, and he (the Bishop) found that the ringing associations had provided some really good substitutes. He was also pleased to know that the present-day ringer was a devoted worshipper. He did not want to introduce a sermon into his toast, but he felt this was an opportunity to bring before the company the need for co-operation in their church work and devotion to Christ. He said he knew their leader, Canon Elsee, well. In him they had a true friend, and one who had their interest at heart. If he visited a church where the Canon was also visiting, and there were bells in the tower, he usually sought him there. It was the same in his church work. Canon Elsee as Rural Dean was a real help to him in his work. The secretary was also a real part of the backbone of the association's prosperity, and he coupled his name with that of the president in his toast.

In reply, Canon Elsee said the association had now been formed over 50 years, and there had been many improvements in the towers during that time. Several towers which contained only six bells now had rings of eight, others had been recast and were now beautiful bells, while most of them were put in first-class ringing order. With regard to ringing, in the earlier days Lancashire had for its popular methods Graundsire and Bob Major, whilst Yorkshire enjoyed its Treble Bob. Now, however, most methods were rung, but he thought sometimes that the same attention was not paid to the striking as it was to the learning of the methods. Good striking, he said, ought to be the special aim of all ringers.

The vice-president (Mr. Thomas B. Worsley) also replied, and gave a brief statistical report of the work done by the association.

DISTINGUISHED GUESTS.

The toast of 'Our Guests' was in the hands of Mr. George R. Newton, who said he found it a rather difficult job to toast such a party of distinguished guests. He knew the Bishop was always interested in the affairs of the association. Then the company was graced by his Worship the Mayor and the Mayoress. It was a pleasure to find the civic heads taking an interest in the association's affairs. They also had with them the Deputy Mayor (Alderman Sykes) and his wife. Alderman Sykes was at one time a ringer, and last year during his term of office a peal was rung in his honour with some striking features. Alderman Sykes' Christian name was George. The peal was rung on St. George's Day at St. George's Church, and he, another George, had the honour of conducting the peal. There was yet another visitor he would like to mention, Mr. Ernest B. Worsley, the deputy treasurer of the borough, another one-time member of the association. Mr. Newton added that he was sure all would join him in the toast to the welcome of the visitors.

The Mayor, in reply, said that was the first occasion he had been in the company of ringers, and he was having a really pleasant time in their midst. Although he did not attend a place of worship where there were any bells, he always liked to sit at home and listen to the bells on the wireless on Sunday evenings. He thanked them for their toast and welcomed them to the borough of Bolton.

Alderman Sykes said that he was very pleased to be amongst ringers again, although he had only been learning for five years. On behalf of his wife and himself, he thanked them for the invitation.

'The Press' was proposed by Mr. Percy J. Johnson, who gave a very interesting history of the publications issued at different times for the benefit of the ringing fraternity, and said the reason they had lapsed into obscurity was the lack of support. He pleaded for better support for 'The Ringing World.' Without it, he said, interest in the art would wane considerably. The Editor was a personal friend of his and was doing all he could to benefit the ringing community. He suggested that if members who could not afford to buy a copy for themselves subscribed, say, a penny each per week in their towers, several copies of the paper would be at their disposal. This would help to create more interest and also improve the circulation.

Mr. J. Frank Smallwood responded to the toast, and supported the appeal. He said that, as a man who was connected with the Press, he knew its value. Without the Press interest in ringing matters would simply fade away. In conclusion he said, 'Do help to help yourselves.'

The Rev. R. C. Worsley moved that the best thanks of all be offered to the president for his work. A bright and breezy speech was followed by three cheers for Canon Elsee.

Musical items were provided between the toasts. On handbells Mr. Charles Sharples, of Blackpool, 'tapped' a course of Bob Major; Manchester City Police Ringers rang a touch of Grandsire Triples; a mixed band a course of Grandsire Caters, and Holy Trinity Church handbell ringers gave selections on their four octave set. The Rev. R. C. Worsley and Mr. Hubert Clay sang songs.

At the conclusion a vote of thanks was passed to Mr. Peter Crook and his helpers for having made the event such a success, and the artistes were thanked for their musical items.

CORNWALL'S THIRTY-FIRST OCTAVE.

TWO NEW BELLS AT ST. ANTHONY-IN-MENEAGE.

The little Church of St. Anthony at St. Anthony-in-Meneage, Cornwall, protected from the southern gales of the English Channel by Dennis Head, and standing at the very water's edge of the Gillan Creek, which forms the mouth of the Durra, now possesses a beautiful ring of eight bells, tenor 12 cwt—bringing the number of octaves in Cornwall to 31. In 1924 a ring of six was cast and hung, and a frame for eight provided by Messrs. Gillett and Johnston, and now a perfect splice has been made by the addition of two trebles by Messrs. J. Taylor and Co. One of the bells is to commemorate the long and faithful ministry of the Rev. E. Ormerod, who has lately retired from the livings of Monaccan and St. Anthony (held in plurality), and given by the parishioners, and the other has been provided by a gentleman who has a summer residence at St. Anthony.

The dedication took place on Saturday, October 14th, and, although of a private nature, a good number of ringers were present, and included the local band, the Gulval band, Messrs. E. W. Marsh, W. Hiscott and W. Lavers, of Plymouth, and a certain 'Shepherd,' who, fresh from his roving around the hills of the Lake District, arrived by train, bicycle and ferry in search of new fields (bells) and pastures (Cornish cream!) in the Cornish Riviera as winter approaches.

On Saturday, October 21st, a party from Truro visited St. Anthony to try the new bells, and were joined by Lt.-Col. C. F. Jerram (Master of Truro Guild) and Mr. E. W. Marsh (Plymouth). The party were most kindly entertained to tea at Pengwedhen by Lt.-Col. and Mrs. Jerram, about 1½ miles from St. Anthony's Church, and in the evening a visit was paid to Manaccan Church for evensong and further ringing on the handy ring of six. The methods rung were Grandsire and Stedman Triples and Doubles and Bob Minor.

LINCOLN GUILD'S PRESIDENT.

DEATH OF CANON JEUDWINE.

The Lincoln Diocesan Guild has lost its president by the death of Canon George Wynne Jeudwine, Sub-Dean of Lincoln Cathedral, who died on Wednesday week, aged 84 years. He was a patriarchal figure.

Canon Jeudwine took an interest in the affairs of the Guild, nearly always being present at the annual meetings. Last February he dedicated at Surfleet the memorial to the late Rev. H. Law James. Canon Jeudwine was ordained in 1872 and became Sub-Dean in 1925, after holding Archdeaconsries at Stow and Lincoln. With Dean Fry he led the movement for the restoration of Lincoln Cathedral, and when the Dean died he continued with the task.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

In connection with the effort to raise funds to clear off the deficit on the Bell Restoration Fund at Selly Oak (Birmingham) Parish Church, a short history of Selly Oak has been published by the Church Council, price 2s. Copies can be had from Mr. F. W. Leonard, the treasurer of the fund, 1, Lodge Hill Road, Selly Oak, Birmingham, or from Mr. W. B. Cartwright, 81, Quinton Road, Harborne, Birmingham.

There are a number of ringers about the country who have had some connection with Selly Oak in the past, and who will, we feel sure, be interested and glad of the opportunity of thus helping the fund.

An interesting peal board recording three peals of Minor was unveiled at Folkingham, Lincs, on Saturday. Of the peals one was the first in which a mother and daughter took part, another was rung half-muffled for the master of the Lincoln Guild, and the third the first Surprise peal on the bells.

Letters on the subject of 'Ringing in Rutland' are unavoidably held over until next week.

DEATH OF A BOLTON RINGER.

A GRAVESIDE INCIDENT.

On Wednesday, October 11th, there passed away suddenly at the age of 65 years one of Bolton's prominent ringers, Mr. William Pennington. For the past few months he had not done any regular ringing owing to ill-health, but attended a local branch meeting on the Saturday previous to his death.

In his younger days Mr. Pennington was a big, powerful man and turned many an awkward bell through a peal. He rang at St. Peter's, Halliwell, until the bells were unringable; then he went to Bolton Parish Church (which necessitated a walk of three miles each way) until Halliwell bells were restored in 1928, when he returned and took command, getting a band together. The bells had been silent for over 20 years. He most reluctantly gave up service ringing.

He was interred at St. Peter's on October 16th, the service being conducted by the Vicar, and assisted by the Rev. Canon Elsee, M.A., president of the Lancashire Association. A large number of ringers attended. The bells were rung muffled to the 'whole pull and stand,' and handbells were rung over the grave. When the handbells were being rung the clapper of the treble dropped out and fell into the grave, an incident which gave rise to many comments among the superstitious.

Mr. Pennington had rung over 100 peals for the Lancashire Association and had been a member since 1897.

MORE RINGING IN PRISON.

LECTURE AT MANCHESTER.

On Tuesday, October 17th, Manchester Prison was visited by ringers. Mr. F. Frankland Rigby, of Westhoughton, gave a very interesting lecture on change ringing to His Majesty's guests. He began with two bells and went through to twelve, and, with the assistance of Messrs. Robert Walmsley, Peter Crook, his son Peter and daughter Annie, demonstrated with handbells.

Two bells and three bells were given without method, then Bob Doubles, Grandsire Doubles and Grandsire Triples to show how a method could be adapted to get the full extent of changes.

There was a large and interested 'audience' of men of almost all ages.

The Chaplain, on behalf of the authorities, thanked the party for their visit. He said his father, now 86 years of age, was an old ringer, and had been a Rector at a church in the South, and this visit brought back many happy memories.

The Governor, who had interested himself in the subject, said in a private conversation afterwards that whilst at another prison he had introduced a small peal of bells, and had them rung for each divine service. It had, he said, a very quieting effect on the prisoners.

DOUBLE NORWICH IN DORSET.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—With reference to the note in your issue of the 13th inst. about Double Norwich ringing at Poole, while I fully acknowledge the amount of good and hard work which Mr. Townsend has done as ringing instructor in our branch of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild, I am asked by our ringers to point out that a touch of 400 Double Norwich was rung in Swanage tower for morning service on December 2nd, 1923, by the local band. While they could not be called a young band, every member learnt to handle a rope in our tower.

OXFORD SOCIETY'S BICENTENARY.

CELEBRATION IN THE UNIVERSITY CITY. INTERESTING SPEECHES AT SATURDAY'S COMMEMORATION.

The bicentenary of the Oxford Society was fittingly celebrated on Saturday, when during the day a considerable number of ringers joined in the varied proceedings.

In 1733 Thomas Hearne, a local diarist, first recorded the doings of Oxford ringers, and, although he died two years later and thus robbed posterity of further interesting comments on the ringing of that period, there are records extant which show that the society has had a continuous active existence, and during the last 60 years has proved a valuable training ground, in conjunction with the University Society, for educating undergraduates in the art of ringing. Many men who have since occupied eminent positions in the Exercise graduated in the Oxford Society. Some of them were present on Saturday, when nearly all the many peals of bells in the city were rung in turn.

At St. Giles' Church, the Rev. F. Ll. Edwards unveiled and dedicated a peal board erected to commemorate the first peal of Cambridge Surprise rung in Oxford by a local company for 40 years.

The ringers attended the customary evensong at Christ Church Cathedral, special prayers being introduced, and the hymn, 'The sacred bells of England,' sung at the close.

MAYORAL RECEPTION AND DINNER.

Afterwards the Mayor of Oxford (Alderman Charles Brown), who is an old ringer and president of the society, held a reception at the Town Hall, before the party went on to Stewart's Restaurant to dine. At this gathering the Mayor occupied the chair, and among those present were the Mayoress, the Rt. Rev. Bishop Shaw, Mr. E. H. Lewis (president of the Central Council) and Mrs. Lewis, Canon G. F. Coleridge (Master of the Oxford Diocesan Guild), Alderman J. S. Pritchett (Master of St. Martin's Guild, Birmingham), Mr. E. A. Young (Senior Steward of the Ancient Society of College Youths), the Rev. F. Ll. Edwards (hon. secretary of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild), Mr. Clayton Pilmore, the Sheriff of Oxford (Councillor W. Clark), the Rev. C. Elliott Wigg (Deputy Master of the Oxford Diocesan Guild), the Rev. P. G. Latham (Sandford-on-Thames), the Rev. C. Ellis Roberts (Procurator of Christ Church), Mr. and Mrs. F. Perrens (Coventry), Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Goldsmith (Woking), Mr. T. R. Dennis (representing the Cambridge Youths), Miss Blencowe (Reading), Mr. R. White (Appleton), Mr. J. P. Pelloe (Master of Oxford University Society), Mr. H. Miles, Mr. W. G. E. Collett (Ringing Master, Oxford Society), Mr. V. J. F. Bennett (hon. secretary), Mr. W. Simmonds (steward), etc., the company numbering altogether nearly 70.

Decorating the walls of the room were portraits of some of the former members of the society, and framed records of many of the performances, going back to 1773, and executed with wonderful penmanship. One embraced the record of ten peals rung between 1815 and 1834, which had been in possession of Mr. Pilmore, and which he recently presented to the society. It was the work of Arthur Tyrer, head porter of Pembroke College, whose portrait, in oils, was among the exhibits. The peal books of the society were also a source of much interest.

After dinner the loyal toast was honoured at the call of the Mayor.

'FAULTS ON BOTH SIDES.'

Mr. W. Simmonds, in proposing 'The Church,' said in the days when the Oxford Society was founded the atmosphere of the society was mainly secular; its object was to provide a competent band of ringers to ring for the University and the City as and when required. To-day the Oxford Society was grateful for the interest of the Dean and Chapter of Christ Church which made it possible for them to give service to the Church by ringing Christ Church bells for Sunday service in term time. It was said that there were three classes of ringers. There were some who rang for the money they received, some who rang for occasional pleasure and others who rang to do service to the Church in the way they were most fitted to render it. If they put the latter as their first objective, he thought they could safely combine all three and feel that they were doing the right thing; that was assuming they answered the call which they gave (hear, hear). That was a sore point between many of the clergy and their ringers. There were faults on both sides. If they as ringers laid themselves open to the charges, they must expect the sermons they so often got. On the other hand, the interest of some of the clergy in the bells and tower and ringers stopped at the bottom step of the belfry stairs—the ringers and the bells were out of sight and out of mind. They should all try and find a remedy for these things (hear, hear). One way, he thought, would be to recruit the ringers from inside the church—from Sunday School boys and boys leaving the choir; from the young men and young women in the congregation, instead of, as at present, searching the highways and drawing on the man in the street and their personal acquaintances. In the sincere hope that the Church and ringers might come in closer contact with each other, he asked them to honour the toast of 'The Church' (applause).

This having been done, Bishop Shaw replied. He said he could call to mind the time when bellringers were in a very different position with regard to the Church and clergy to what they were now. The old-fashioned type of ringer used to like to have his beer in the belfry while he was carrying on with his ringing (laughter). That had now entirely disappeared—a change almost entirely due to the formation of ringers' guilds and associations, which had set before ringers a high ideal and had made them recognise that they were not just indulging in a hobby or a little exercise, but giving a very definite and useful service to the Church. The dear old Church of England was composed of such a great variety of membership—they had the tenor bell and the treble bell and in between a whole lot of other bells—that they did not always harmonise in ringing a peal, but when they did he ventured to say there were few things which were a greater power for good in this land (applause). The Oxford Society was celebrating that day its bicentenary; the Mayor of Oxford—they were most grateful to him for the way he had received and entertained them—was the 811th Mayor of the City; but the Church in England went back a good deal further even than that, to St. Augustine, the first Archbishop of Canterbury. That was a fairly respectable history (hear, hear). The Church to-day most heartily appreciated the work done by the bellringers. He had always been interested in ringing and ringers himself, and very heartily appreciated the help which was given by ringers to the Church (applause).

CANON COLERIDGE'S RECOLLECTIONS.

'The Oxford Society' was proposed by Canon Coleridge, who said he thought he was the oldest member of the society in the room. He joined it in his undergraduate days, and he believed everyone else who was a member at that time had since passed away with one exception, and that was a very old friend of his of years ago, Mr. W. J. Smith, who was prevented from being present that night by his infirmities. In his undergraduate days, said Canon Coleridge, he rang his first peal at Kirtlington; there were six undergraduates, Mr. Robinson, who was a graduate, and W. J. Smith, who rang the tenor. He was very proud of that peal, and he was very proud, a few months afterwards, to receive a letter, which he still prized, which read: 'Dear Sir,—I have to inform you that at our last meeting you were unanimously elected a member of the Oxford Society. Yours truly, J. Field. Subscription 2s. 6d.' (laughter). He was very pleased to pay up his 2s. 6d. He rang four or five peals in his undergraduate days as a member of the Oxford Society. Joseph Field was an old friend of his, who did a lot to teach him. He was an absolutely unselfish man, a man who, if he composed anything, did not keep it to himself. Next to him was Charles Hounslow, whom everyone revered. The fund of stories he had to tell was innumerable. Canon Coleridge went on to refer to other Oxford worthies of his young days—Robert Annis, Ted Harrison and others. He once asked Charles Hounslow how he called Holt's Original, and he told him he whistled the bobs. He was a most musical man and could whistle anything, even oratorios and operas. He got the bobs in Holt's Original in proper order, put them to a tune and whistled them to himself. He (Canon Coleridge) couldn't do that, for he did not know one note from another (laughter).

Continuing, the speaker said he was elected a member of the Oxford Society on December 4th, 1879—that was 54 years ago. He knew what the work of the Oxford Society had been in the past; it had had a long, long history. Those who read 'The Ringing World' would have read recently the story of the early ringing in Oxford and of the occasion when a party of London ringers walked down to Oxford and rang for a week, more or less—not all the time, for they had refreshment in between (laughter). In those days London, Oxford, Bristol and Norwich, and, he believed, Cambridge were considered to be the centres of ringing. There was no Press in those days—nothing to convey news of what was done, but certainly change ringing flourished in those five towns. They were very grateful indeed to those who had investigated the history of these old societies and were able to tell them a great deal about them. When the Oxford Society's history came to be written there would be a great deal of interest in it. There was a man named Scarsbrook, and Mr. Young had told him that through him it might be possible to form a link which would lead them to discover more about Fabian Stedman. If that were possible, it would be a great feather in the cap of Oxford. There was a time, perhaps, when the ringing done by the members of the society was more concerned with money making, but to-day they did not look upon it in that light. They counted it a privilege and rang for the honour and glory of God. It was God's work—whether it was municipal, university or service ringing it was done for the same ideals, and they ought to try to put their best into it. That, he was certain, the Oxford Society would continue to do. He congratulated them on reaching their bicentenary and upon seeing so many young members coming on to take the place of the older ones. He trusted they would continue to try to do their duty as long as they lived (applause).

A LONG HISTORY.

The toast was enthusiastically honoured and was acknowledged by Mr. V. J. F. Bennett. Although they might not be so well known as others of their contemporaries in the Exercise, he said, they had a long history behind them. There was undoubtedly a good company of ringers in Oxford in the 18th century, and they were visited by the College Youths, who seemed to have given a stimulus to Oxford ringing and thereby commenced that long historical record of peals and performances which they were celebrating that day. No doubt all present had read the early history of those pioneers in 'The Ringing World,' to which publication they owed their best thanks. Thomas Hearne, the diarist, to whom they owed their knowledge of the early history of the society, was very interested in them, and had he lived longer they would have undoubtedly had an even greater historical record, but he died in 1735, only a few days after his last entry, recording a visit of Oxford ringers to Warwick. After that time they had to content themselves with the information contained in the peal books. The peal of 6,786 Grandsire Caters at New College was followed by a seven thousand at Magdalen. Oxford ringing was carried on under the conductorship of J. Baker, and the ringers included the name of J. Scarsbrook, who rang several peals between 1820 and 1847. There was also a family named Paviour, who for over 70 years did their part in Oxford ringing.

Mr. Bennett, continuing, said he saw Mr. W. J. Smith on the previous night, and he expressed deep regret that he was not able to be present that evening. He sent his kind regards to the Mayor and a special message to Canon Coleridge. Mr. Bennett called attention to the painting of Arthur Tyrer, a former porter of Pembroke College, which had been lent to them for the evening by Mr. Clayton Pilmore. He was a great ringer. Mr. Bennett also recalled the names of J. E. Troyt, H. D. Troyt, G. H. Phillot, C. D. P. Davies and others which appeared in the society's peal book in the '70's. One of the peals in which they took part was at Magdalen in 1875, and there was not another peal rung there until 1919. In the 1890's they had J. W. Washbrook and the Rev. F. E. Robinson among their members, and Oxford was a centre of great activity. There were peals of Double Norwich and Surprise, and many peals were rung at St. Peter's Church in the East, as a result of which, he was sorry to say, the tower was closed. After the war, which treated their society as it did most other societies, they got down to a very small company, but they had been steadily working up since 1919, until to-day they had a company capable of ringing Stedman Cinques for Sunday morning service (hear, hear). They were fortunate in possessing an able conductor in the person of Mr. W. F. Judd, to whom most of the progress they had made lately was due (applause). They were also very fortunate in their relationship with the Dean and Chapter of Christ Church, who had so often shown their appreciation of the Sunday morning ringing. They took a real interest in the society's work. Canon Coleridge had referred to paid ringing. They were always willing to accept payment when money was due, but their motive to-day was not what they could get out of it, but what they could give (applause). He believed the future held great things for them. They had good material under good conductorship and they ought to go forward. They had permission to attempt a peal of Stedman Cinques on January 1st next, the 200th anniversary of the first peal ever rung in the city (hear, hear). He hoped the members would stick together and do all they could to keep up the traditions of their ancient society (applause).

SOCIETY'S PRESIDENT AS MAYOR.

Mr. W. G. E. Collett, in a facetious speech, proposed the toast of 'The Mayor and Corporation.' He said the Mayor had been a member of their society for many years, and attended their meetings whenever he could. It was he who suggested, on one occasion, that they should invite the Mayor and members of the City Council to one of their meetings in the belfry. He (Mr. Collett) remembered the consternation with which the suggestion was received. It was said, 'They won't come.' 'We should not dare to ask them.' 'Well,' said Councillor Brown, as he then was, 'do you want them? If you want them, I'll make them come' (laughter). And so it was that shortly afterwards the society had the honour of entertaining in the belfry of Christ Church the Mayor of Oxford and several members of the City Council, and soon afterwards the Mayor of Oxford attended one of their annual dinners. After that time the society never looked back, and eventually the City Council, realising that Alderman Brown was a bellringer, and realising also that this was the bicentenary of the society, very properly and wisely elected him Mayor of Oxford (laughter and applause), and the society, very properly and wisely, also, saw to it that he was their president (applause). So, by sheer merit, Alderman Brown had risen to the position of highest honour, not only in the City of Oxford, but in the Oxford Society of Change Ringers (applause). There were very few ringing associations which had the advantage, as they had in Oxford, of the close co-operation of the civic authorities, although there was a notable exception in the case of Birmingham, and they were delighted to have Alderman Pritchett with them that night (applause). He earnestly commended the idea to other societies, because a close contact with the Mayor and Corporation would tend to raise the status of the whole Exercise (applause). The society was there that night at the invitation of the Mayor and Mayoress. They who lived in Oxford knew well what a source of inspiration Mrs. Brown was to her worshipful husband, and in asking them to drink to the toast of the Mayor and Corporation of Oxford he coupled with it the names of Alderman and Mrs. Brown (applause).

The toast was drunk with musical honours.

CIVIC HAND OF FELLOWSHIP.

The Mayor, in reply, expressed his pride at being Mayor of the City of Oxford, a city of no mean reputation and known the world over. Speaking for the citizens of Oxford, he said how much they appreciated the cheerful ringing of the bells and in the city that afternoon. He was very pleased to be present and was grateful if in any way through his influence that day's proceedings had been brought about. He emphasised the point made by Mr. Collett with regard to contact with the city fathers, and said if they got the right side of them he was sure they would not be slow to hold out the right hand of fellowship. Oxford, continued the Mayor, could compare with any other city in the kingdom in its amenities and public services. In health it stood high among other towns of like size, and its rates were the second lowest in the kingdom. They were a peaceable, law-abiding people, which meant that they promoted harmony, goodwill and good fellowship. He did not know whether there was any other city which, for its size, had more peals of bells than Oxford. If there was he would like to know it. There was nothing more cheerful than well-rung bells; they gave them music in a way that nothing else could. That was the first occasion, concluded the Mayor, that they had had an assembly in Oxford under those pleasant conditions, and he hoped it would not be the last (applause).

Mr. R. A. Post proposed 'The Visitors,' mentioning that among them were Mr. E. A. Young, Senior Steward of the College Youths, some of whose members 200 years ago walked from London to ring in Oxford. As representing that society he thought they could look on Mr. Young as their 'godfather.' They had also with them the Rev. F. L. Edwards, hon. secretary of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild, a gentleman who had probably done more than any other living person to bring the history and art of ringing to the notice of the general public, through his fine work in connection with broadcasting. They might describe Mr. Edwards as the 'publicity agent' of the Exercise (laughter). Another distinguished guest was Mr. Lewis, the president of the Central Council, whom they might call the Prime Minister of ringing (laughter). The visitors, said Mr. Post, had that day naturally seen the Oxford ringers on their best behaviour. They had tried to behave, but when visitors were not there, certain things did sometimes happen (laughter).

MORE CANDID CRITICS NEEDED.

Mr. Lewis, who first responded, said that in his position as president of the Central Council he desired to bring the congratulations of the whole Exercise to the Oxford Society (hear, hear). He felt he could also bring the congratulations of two societies of which he was a member, which were older than the Oxford Society, one was the College Youths and the other the Cambridge Youths (applause), the latter being senior to the Oxford Society by nine years. He had not rung very much with the Cambridge Youths. He was elected a member 31 or 32 years ago, but he did not get off with half-a-crown (laughter).

We have been very much interested, continued Mr. Lewis, in the articles on the history of your society which have appeared in 'The Ringing World.' I think the Oxford Society in its early years had one tremendous advantage, in that it had a really candid critic. I cannot believe that Mr. Hearne, when he wrote those things in his diary, confined his thoughts to writing only. I think he must have told the ringers what he thought about their ringing. You will notice that one day, I think it was March 12th, 1735, he was unable to listen all the time to a peal because he was not very well. Some of us in some parts of the country have sometimes to listen to ringing which makes us feel very unwell (laughter). We only wish we could go home and stay at home out of the sound of the bells, just as Mr. Hearne wished he could go out that day. Unfortunately, in some parts of the country—I am not referring to this part of the country, because I do not know very much about ringing in this neighbourhood—ringing is not as good as it should be. I think it is a very great pity we have not more candid critics to tell us when we ring very badly.

There are so many bands where the conductor seems frightened to tell ringers if they are not striking their bells properly. In my early days in the North of England I once said something rather caustic to a ringer about his striking and he was mortally offended. I do not think he intended to speak to me again, but I told him exactly what I thought about it and that I did not bear him any ill-will; afterwards we became very good friends.

Once before when speaking to ringers I drew some analogies between rowing and ringing, and pointed out that if you look at some of the crews—as you have the opportunity of doing here—and see the wonderful rhythm with which the better rowing men propel their boat, you realise that it is only acquired after years of most careful attention to every little detail concerning rowing. Ringing requires just as much attention to detail, yet ringers are just taught anyhow. They get hold of a rope and pull it, and very little attention is paid to the exact way to hold the rope. Many ringers never will strike their bells because they have not been taught how to hold the rope properly.

On the question of criticism I would again draw an analogy between rowing and ringing. Go on to a towpath and you will hear the coaches on the bank saying all sorts of rude things to the crews (laughter)—possibly some of you may have listened to it. I think it should be possible for the conductor in the tower—he could not use the language of the towpath because that would not be suitable in church (laughter)—to 'tick-off' those who strike badly, without any resentment on their part. It happens on the river. A crew may have as coach a man who is much their inferior as an oarsman, but while he is coach he is allowed to say exactly what he likes about the men in the boat, and they never answer back or hear the slightest ill-will because he has referred to parts of their figure or the way they move their body in a most uncomplimentary way.

I do not think we need go to that length, but I think it would be a great advantage to us as ringers if we could get that custom established, that once you have selected your conductor, he be your permanent conductor or he be somebody just asked to conduct a particular touch—while it is being rung he should be allowed to say exactly what he thinks about the way every bell is being struck, without any ill-will being felt. It is only in such a way that we shall get back to the old standard of good striking, which, unfortunately, has been largely lost by the craze which some people have got of trying to ring too advanced methods before they are really able to handle their bells (hear, hear).

LINK BETWEEN OXFORD AND LONDON.

Mr. E. A. Young also replied to the toast, and remarked that the College Youths and the Oxford Society seem to have been closely in sympathy one with the other. It was remarkable how those dear old boys 200 years ago trudged from London to Oxford and had their week's ringing. It must have been a great stimulant to the Oxford ringers, and no doubt had left a tradition. It was a source of great pleasure to him to represent the College Youths, to bring their greetings, and, on their behalf, congratulate the Oxford Society on its 200th birthday. Another reason why he was personally interested in the Oxford Society was this: While he was not much of a ringer, he loved ringing and bell music, and the historical, archaeological and musical sides of it. When they rewrote the rules of the Ancient Society of College Youths a few years ago his brother members relied on him to recast the historical section. In the course of his search among the documents he came across one which, strangely enough, came from Oxford. It gave a history of ringing, not only as affecting the College Youths, but mentioned Fabian Stedman, and concluded: 'The foregoing was contributed by Mr. George Scarsbrook and taken from the Oxford Ringers' Register.' He had hoped that there might, by good fortune, be such a register extant to-day, but they could not find it, despite inquiries which had been made in Oxford by Mr. Collett and others. They could only presume the document which they had voiced the knowledge of the time and that what it said of the early days of ringing was probably near enough to be correct; that the extract was properly taken without desire to colour it in any way. They had it to-day, and he thought it bore evidence of being written about 1735 or 1736. He was exceedingly interested to see the name of Scarsbrook ringing in the third quarter of the 18th century. The Scarsbrook who was ringing with the College Youths in the 1790's may have been a son or other relation of the Oxford man, and he could understand one man writing to the other and getting access to the Ringers' Register. They had here, he thought, a link with the misty past which many of them were trying to fathom. One of the first of them was Oshorn, who left such a valuable lot of manuscripts to the British Museum, and the work had been continued in later years by men like Mr. Nichols and Mr. Morris in their books, and by Mr. J. A. Trollope, whose fine articles continued to appear from time to time in 'The Ringing World.' All that was very much to the good, because the more they felt they were the heirs of the past, the better legacy they would leave to the future (applause). The Oxford Society must feel very proud that day, on joining the ranks of those very few ringing societies which had had an existence of two centuries (applause).

THANKS OF OXFORD UNIVERSITY SOCIETY.

Mr. J. P. Pellae, in proposing 'The Press,' took the opportunity, as Master this year of the Oxford University Society, of thanking the Oxford Society for all the help they had given to the members of the University Society for the last 60 years. They were in Oxford, most of them, for only three years; most of them knew nothing about ringing when they arrived, and the Oxford Society took them under their wing, taught them the rudiments of ringing, and, having turned them into something like ringers, they went away and, perhaps, never came to Oxford again. The Oxford Society then had to start afresh, with entirely new people, and they had been doing that for 60 years (applause). He hoped they felt repaid by some of the ringers they had produced; some like Alderman Pritchett, Canon Coleridge and Mr. Edwards, who had come back to join them that evening, and others like Mr. Barratt, Mr. Mills and Mr. Wigg, who were also with them. He hoped the Oxford Society, although it did not reap direct benefit in many cases from the people it had trained to ring, did feel that the indirect benefit which accrued to the whole Exercise was worth the trouble they had taken (applause).

Proceeding, Mr. Pellae proposed 'The Press,' and made some kindly references to 'The Ringing World.' Mr. Goldsmith, he said, rendered a service to the Exercise which many of them at times were liable to forget. The work which he did year after year was something for which the Exercise ought to be very grateful (applause).

The toast was acknowledged by Mr. J. S. Goldsmith, and the very enjoyable proceedings terminated with 'Auld Lang Syne.'

A feature of the programme was the recitations of Mr. Clayton Filmore, whose elocutionary efforts were a great feat of memory. Mr. Jack George entertained the company with humorous items, the Rev. C. E. Wigg sang, and Mr. L. Betteridge, who was the accompanist, contributed a pianoforte solo. Members of the Oxford Society also rang Stedman Triples on handbells.

MIDDLESEX AND OXFORD GUILDS FRATERNISE.

SOCIAL EVENING FOLLOWS RINGING AT HILLINGDON.

A slight idea of the vast area represented at the joint meeting of the Middlesex and Oxford Guilds at Hillingdon on Saturday week may be obtained by drawing a line connecting up the following places: Brixton, Twickenham, Staines, Cookham, High Wycombe, Beaconsfield, Ruislip and Ealing, the major portion of this slice of England being represented. Of course, there were a few people unable to be present; for instance, Dick Turpin had gone to York; the learned judge to Hants, and there was no Lock up. Touches in various methods were rung, including some weird and wonderful rounds, so that everyone should have a pull before tea.

A shortened form of evensong was held, with three clerics sharing the conducting. The sermon was a well-worn subject, from an entirely new viewpoint and made particularly interesting—even if the ringers did get a wiggin'.

Tea was a pleasant affair altogether, some sixty odd persons keeping the 'nippies' busy. The two secretaries were both roaming about looking for something (subs?), one of them being quite concerned about the disappearance of a plate of bread and butter.

After tea Mr. J. A. Trollope announced that there was neither business nor speeches, thus leaving the other speakers very little to say. Then back to the tower, where more Grandire, Stedman, Plain Bob and Kent were rung, also a course of Cambridge Surprise Royal with eight Berks and Bucks members taking part (the 'first' for three of them).

The concert was the affair of the day though—the quality of the entertainment throughout making one wonder why those artistes are not heard more frequently. Commencing with a course of Grandire Caters on handbells by the St. John's Guild, the company was then led in the community singing by Mr. J. Herbert, who later in the evening was persuaded to let them hear his voice in a couple of good old stagers, so that they could imagine themselves in Glorious Devon, and being chased by the Admiral's Broom. Mr. T. J. Fowler rendered 'Friend o' mine' and 'Stonecracker John' in excellent style, and Mr. W. H. Fletcher gave 'My Old Dutch,' everyone (including Mrs. W. H. F.) joining in the chorus. Perhaps the ladies ought to have been mentioned first, but the excellence of their respective performances needed only to be heard to make one wish for more. Miss Feltham, who was at the organ for the service (what would a meeting at Hillingdon be like without her!), gave a couple of meticulously played items on the piano. The Misses Bradford (there are two) got all sorts and kinds out of the piano, duets, accompaniments to songs and a 'spliced' cello and pianoforte item, the Rev. C. E. Wigg charming the 'cello. Messrs. Coles and Goodfellow sang a duet, 'So, when are you going to 'alt' er at the altar, Walter?' and Mr. T. Collins sang of his wife's troubles in 'I'll never make a gentleman of you, Tom.' A course of Stedman Caters on handbells was rung by a mixed band, and a few tunes were also tried, but one member of this band was missing. The 'homing course' was 'Love's old sweet song,' sung by Miss K. M. Bradford, with Miss Joan at the piano, which brought up rounds (of applause).

The outstanding success of the very enjoyable gathering was entirely due to the efforts of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Goodfellow, assisted by a few kindred spirits, who must be congratulated by all those present.

HERTFORD COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

WESTERN DISTRICT ASKS FOR PEAL SECRETARY.

A very successful and enjoyable meeting of the Western District was held at King's Langley on Saturday, October 14th, over 40 members attending from the towers of the district and from outside. The bells, available from 3 p.m., were made full use of from rounds to London and Bristol Surprise, everyone being catered for.

The service was conducted by the Vicar, who gave an excellent address on 'Whatsoever ye do, do all in the Name of the Lord Jesus.' In the course of his address he referred to the "great congregation" of those who have heard the sound of our work, even in these days of speed, when worship is apparently neglected.

Each one of his listeners went away with a personal message of encouragement.

Following the service came the usual fine tea, provided by the Vicar, and admirably served by the wives of the local ringers.

After a 'slight alteration' in the appearance of the tables, the business meeting was held, presided over by the Vicar.

Mr. W. Matchett, Berkhamsted, was elected an honorary member, and Apsley was chosen for the place of next meeting.

After much discussion and explanation, the necessity for a peal secretary was agreed to, and resolutions were passed for the appearance of this matter on the agenda of the annual meeting.

A comprehensive vote of thanks was passed to the Vicar for all his kindness, the organist for his services, the ladies for their attendance and care, and the local company for preparations.—This completed the business meeting.

A little handbell ringing was done, then more tower bell ringing until 8.30 p.m., when the bells were lowered. Thus ended another good meeting, and the secretary thanks all who helped to make it so.

VETERANS' RECORD.WONDERFUL PERFORMANCE BY 'OLD MEN.'

A party of eight veterans put up a remarkable record in London on Saturday. Totalling between them almost 612 years, they rang a peal of Stedman Triples at St. Olave's Church, Hart Street, and, make no mistake, it was a good peal, too. The 'baby' of the party was Mr. Ernest Bishop, of Swindon, who, although not quite 71 years old, arranged the peal to celebrate the first which he rang, just 50 years before. That was at Great Marlow, and it was there that he would have liked to ring the jubilee peal, but the bells were not available, so Mr. Challis Winney fixed up the business at Hart Street, where last December the previous record for an 'old men's' peal was made, when the total ages amounted to 594 years. Four of the same band rang on Saturday, but the introduction of young blood in the persons of William T. Pates, of Cheltenham, nearly 81, and Bob Brundle, of Ipswich, now turned 82, helped to raise the average age of the band by a couple of years. Two others are not far off the four-score mark—Jim George, who will be 80 next month, and Walter Prime, who has probably done more ringing on St. Paul's Cathedral tenor than any other man, who will become an octogenarian next year. The other members of the party were Harry Smith, of Reading, now 72, and Francis Dawe, of Woking, nearer 72 than 71; while the incomparable Challis, who called the peal in his wonderfully precise way, won't see 75 again.

Despite their remarkable ages, don't run away with the idea that there is anything of the 'old man' about any of these Ancient Youtils—they are all members of London's premier society, under whose auspices the peal was rung. There is nothing doddering or feeble about their old age. Why, they were even gamier than many youngsters.

They started for the peal about 3 p.m., and after ringing an hour and 21 minutes the fourth rope broke! Consternation and disappointment spread over their faces. The steeplekeeper appeared on the scene. The rope was mended; there was no objection to their starting again, and the peal was rung. Eight men, all over 70, six of them over 75, and two over 80, rang approximately 7,500 changes in 4 hours and 20 minutes! Hats off to the veterans; may they live to meet again and so excel their own record!

As the ringing room is part of the church, a short prayer was recited by the conductor before the bells went off into changes. An onlooker would certainly have been impressed by the simple solemnity of the scene—the bowed heads of the earnest and aged ringers leaning on their ropes, mindful of the fact that bells are rung for a purpose other than mere worldly pleasure. The scene was repeated at the finish of the peal—and it was not out of place that they should be thankful for the health and strength given to them to achieve such a performance.

The band desire to thank the Rector for permission to attempt the peal, and also Mr. H. Willson, whose birthday it was.

We hope to publish a photograph of this remarkable band in our next issue.

BELLS DEDICATED BY PRIMATE.MEMORIAL TO THE LATE LORD HARRIS.

At the village church of Throley, in Kent, the six bells have been restored and two new treble added as a memorial to the late George Robert Canning, fourth Baron Harris, a great gentleman, a celebrated cricketer and one of the foundation members of the Kent County Association of Change Ringers, on the committee of which he served for some years. The ceremony was performed on Sunday week by His Grace the Archbishop of Canterbury, other clergy taking part in the service being the Vicar (the Rev. C. D. B. Somerville), the Rev. Hugh McCalman (chaplain to the Duke of Portland) and the Rev. W. A. R. Ball (Vicar of Ramsgate).

The Primate was accompanied by his chaplain, the Rev. A. C. Don. The lessons were read by the Archdeacon of Canterbury and Lord Harris.

The family of the late Lord Harris were represented by Lord and Lady Harris (son and daughter-in-law), the Earl and Countess of Guilford, Sir Joseph and Lady Nall, Lady De la Rue, Mrs. Keen, Mr. and Mrs. Marriott, Mrs. Kenyon and Mr. Temple Harris.

Among the congregation were Mr. Adam Maitland, M.P., Earl Sondes and the Hon. Mrs. Milles-Lade, Mr. E. H. Lewis (president of the Central Council and vice-president of the Kent County Association) and Mrs. Lewis, Mr. A. A. Hughes (representing the bellfounders) and Mrs. Hughes, Mr. F. M. Mitchell (hon. secretary of the Kent Association) and the principal officers. Altogether some 40 ringers were present.

A FITTING MEMORIAL.

The Archbishop, in his address, said he had come most gladly in order to give testimony to the affectionate esteem which all they in that great company of friends and neighbours had for the late Lord Harris, in whose thoughts and memories he was that morning. They would remember that he had dedicated a window in that church as a memorial to his life-long companion, whose spontaneous kindness of heart was given to men, women and children, and not the least those fellow-creatures they were apt sometimes to forget—the animals. It seemed but a short time ago, and now her husband had passed, like her, beyond their sight. Lovely and pleasant in their lives, in death they had not long been divided, and that church had raised there memorials to those two dear servants of God and friends of His people. They had chosen to make their memorial of Lord Harris the gift of two new bells, and the recasting and rehanging of the others. As they all knew, he had another memorial of Lord Harris—a very striking one—in the precincts of the great Cathedral Church at Canterbury—but it was only right that there should be some special memorial there in the place he loved, and in the church in which he worshipped.

The Archbishop said he thought there was something fitting in the choice of the bells as a memorial to Lord Harris, so he would take as his text the words from the 10th verse of the 14th chapter of the 1st Epistle to the Corinthians, 'There are, it may be, so many kinds of voices in the world, and none of them is without signification.' His Grace went on to speak of the signification of the voice of the bells, and reminded his hearers how fitting it was that the memorial to Lord Harris should have taken the form of bells. He reminded them how characteristically English they were and how Lord Harris was above all things an English gentleman, gentle and kindly, yet always frank and straightforward in word and act. He loved these islands, the old England, in which Kent was his home, its trees, its orchards and its people. He identified himself with all its life, its sports, its agriculture and its religion, for they did not forget how he worshipped there regularly with characteristic English reverence. All the beauty of his nature found its silent expression here in the remembrance of his God, and so those bells would always speak of him.

A REPRESENTATIVE BAND.

The Archbishop, clergy and churchwardens then proceeded to the space under the tower, where Mr. A. A. Hughes, representing the bellfounders (Messrs. Mears and Stainbank), handed the rope to the churchwardens, who asked his Grace to dedicate the bells.

The Primate, having complied, handed the rope to the Vicar, asking him to receive the bells as a sacred trust.

After prayers by the Archbishop, the bells were rung by a representative band of the association.

The service concluded with the hymn, 'For all the saints,' and the Blessing pronounced by the Archbishop.

On a tablet in the space beneath the tower is the following inscription: 'To the glory of God and in memory of George Robert Canning, fourth Baron Harris, the bells of this church were rehung, the tenor and third recast, and two new bells added by the parishioners of Throley, his many friends and relatives, 1933.'

As the local band were not sufficiently advanced in ringing for the dedication service, it is interesting to record that every branch of the association's officers was represented at the opening ringing as follows: T. Groombridge (Central Council representative) 1, F. Brett (district representative) 2, G. H. Cross (hon. auditor) 3, F. M. Mitchell (hon. secretary) 4, E. H. Lewis (vice-president) 5, S. J. T. Shellock (district secretary) 6, S. H. Green (committee) 7, W. J. Jeffries (trustee) 8.

THE VETERANS' RECORD.

The performance of the veterans, who, at the average age of over 76, rang a peal of Stedman Triples—immediately after an unavailing attempt which reached nearly half way—is one which merits more than passing notice. In the first place it was a wonderful proof of the fitness of the men—physically and mentally. Next it was one more illustration of the healthfulness of bell ringing, and the fact that there is practically no limit to the age at which a man can pursue the craft. We think it likely that if either of these eight men—in view of their performance one hardly dares to call them 'old men'—were asked the reason of his fine physical condition he would immediately attribute it to his almost lifelong participation in ringing. It has often been said, and there seems good justification for the statement, that bell ringing is conducive to longevity. When one looks round and sees the number of ringers well past the prime of life, who still regularly enjoy their spell at the rope end, both for service ringing and for peals, one is compelled to recognise that, whatever the explanation, ringing numbers among its devotees a larger proportion of elderly men than is to be found in active participation in almost any other pastime. It would be interesting to know if there is any other pursuit, requiring an equal amount of physical exertion, in which eight men, of similar age to the heroes of Hart Street, have participated for as long a time unbroken by any kind of rest. We think such a company would be hard to find, and we believe it will only be excelled by a future band of bell ringers.

Apart from the physical aspect of the achievement, the mental capacity of the veterans is something which one must admire. A peal of Stedman Triples is no mean performance for the best of bands. For a company such as this, which included five men over 75 and four of them averaging nearly 81 years each, three hours' concentration on a method of this kind, and no trips worth speaking of, the performance is a wonderful tribute to their alertness of brain as well as to their physical well being. Some day, perhaps, this record will be excelled—it would be possible to make up a band straight away to knock a year, or even two years, off the average—but the performance at Hart Street will always remain a worthy one in the annals of the Exercise.

A hundred and forty years ago, when James Barham rang his one hundredth peal, the total age of the band was 582. It has taken nearly a century and a half to stretch the average age by four years, but with the growing expectancy of life, coupled with the increased efficiency of bell hanging, it may not be anything like as long before another four years are added to the record. A peal by a band of the average age of 80 would be a wonderful achievement—we think it would not be impossible even now. But sufficient unto the day is the record thereof, and the Exercise will congratulate the 'Youths' who last Saturday week wrote another page in the fascinating history of the art of ringing.

WINDSOR SURPRISE MAJOR.

FIRST PEAL IN ANOTHER METHOD BY ARTHUR CRAVEN.

A peal of Windsor Surprise Major was rung for the first time on Wednesday, October 18th. It is a method by the late Arthur Craven and has only one false course end with tenors together, viz., 24365. The Bob Major lead ends enabled the peal at Old Windsor to be rung to the first half of a peal of Plain Bob by J. Reeves:—

RUTLAND.

VIEWS ON FORMATION OF PETERBOROUGH DIOCESAN GUILD BRANCH.

The decision of the Peterborough Diocesan Guild to form a branch to embrace the county of Rutland is to be followed up by a meeting to-morrow week at Empingham, when the district officers will be elected.

The formation of the branch and our comments on it in 'The Ringing World' of October 20th have called forth the following letters to the Editor.

'A DOG IN A MANGER.'

Dear Sir,—Your leading article, headed 'A piece of virgin soil,' is of special interest to me from the fact that a few months ago two or three ringers, including myself, got together and discussed the possibilities of reviving the old association which operated in Rutland up to the outbreak of war.

Noticing how the county was neglected, we decided to communicate with every incumbent on this matter, which we did, and met with favourable results. Rutland has in the past, as your article states, led a lone existence, and I might say would have continued to do so as far as the Peterborough Diocesan Guild was concerned but for one or two of the latter's 'all or nothing' type of members who got to hear of the above proposal.

The P.D.G.'s move has not been done out of any sympathy for Rutland; it is simply another case of 'Old Green Eye.' We have heard the phrase, 'dog in a manger,' a lot of late; to my mind, this P.D.G. and Rutland is a case in point. The P.D.G. has now been formed 10 years, and during that time not one single member has ever bothered his head about Rutland; but the minute they hear of someone about to form an association there, they begin to move and come forward with a claim, saying it is theirs.

If the P.D.G. are so much concerned about Rutland, the wonder is, as you say, why have they not moved before? The very fact that they have waited until they heard of another scheme on foot (and by someone against whom there is a personal grievance) proves my words. IT IS A CASE OF 'A DOG IN A MANGER'!

Whether Rutland comes in the Peterborough Diocese (as I know it will be argued) or not, has little or nothing at all to do with my point. If, rather than see a local association, a link was thought necessary, surely the Midland Counties Association would have been the better one to have connected Rutland with? After all, more has been done for Rutland by that body than any other; and it is easier to get to the county from Leicestershire and the North. From Northants (with the exception of Peterborough), it is practically an impossibility to get there before 3 p.m., there being only a train about every 3½ hours and no buses, and one has to leave for the last train at 6 p.m. Under these conditions, who is there in the Peterborough Diocese who will be able to support its meetings?

One other point. Evidently you have been wrongly informed about the number of towers in Rutland. Altogether there are 49 parishes, and 22 of these have five or more bells, two with eight, six with six, and 14 with five. There is also one other tower (Ketton) with a stationary hung peal of six. All of these I have visited at some time or other either for peals, touches or to ascend the tower and take particulars of the bells. Out of the 22 peals, there are four of the five-bell towers where it is impossible to ring the bells at all. I am now compiling a book on Rutland towers which I hope to put into publication in due course.

In conclusion, I might say if any ringer wishes to abuse me with reference to my remarks, he can save space in 'The Ringing World' by writing to me at my address given below. P. AMOS.

Knox Road, Wellingborough.

A PROTEST.

Dear Sir,—Your article, 'A piece of virgin soil,' has caused something of a protest from at least one tower in Rutland. Upon reading it one is led to believe that little or no ringing is done in the county, also that there are no ringers interested in the art, and until a branch is formed all the towers will remain silent.

One can often hear two or three towers ringing on the same night. These towers have rung now for several years without the assistance of a guild. I think it is about 20 years since the local association fell through for lack of support, and only the most optimistic ringer can see success being attained from this present venture.

One is bound to admit there are a few silent towers where there is work for the spade, but in this county it is going to be a difficult proposition to find men with time to spare to work it.

From the towers that ring regularly many members have peals to their credit. They do not ring these for any Guild or association, and seldom is a report sent even to the local Press. May I quote one case in particular. On January 2nd, 1933, five ringers from three different towers in the county met at Glaston and rang a peal of Grandsire Doubles. This was the first peal on the bells. A fortnight later a peal was rung there by members of the Midland Counties (Continued in next column.)

WEDDING BELLS AT LYTCHETT MATRAVERS.

BUT NO PEAL.

On Saturday, October 21st, a happy band of pilgrims set out from Poole for Lytchett Matravers with the object of ringing a peal of Stedman Doubles as a compliment to Mr. E. Head, the captain of the local band of ringers, who on that day was married to Miss Wareham, who is also a ringer.

Too late to witness the actual ceremony, the visiting ringers alighted from the bus at Lytchett as the guests were returning from St. Mary's Church and about to enter the Schoolroom, where the reception took place. However, when they reached the church, which is about half a mile away, the last guest had departed, and so they commenced.

As they took hold of the ropes, it was decided to change the method to Bob Minor, but after about two leads it was apparent that the ringers were wrong in changing their mind, so they started for Stedman Doubles. After five six-scores, however, they were of the opinion that the bells would not ring Stedman, and so once more back to Bob Minor. Half-way through the first 720 came a 'single,' which to a few meant 'stand.' One more attempt at this method, but this time only for a 720, which, however, produced about 750 changes without coming round or without anybody changing course—really a remarkable achievement.

In view of this it was considered advisable to adjourn for a while in order to visit the scene of the wedding reception, officially just to view the wedding presents, but unofficially to see if there was anything left over from the wedding breakfast. The attendants, however, had anticipated this, and the ringers were given such a cordial welcome that within a very short time they were 'too full for words,' and any suggestion of again attempting a peal that evening was naturally ruled out.

Having made the journey, however, it was thought only fit and proper to do something to justify it, so one more 720 of Bob Minor was attempted and brought round in excellent style. By this time, of course, the happy couple (and their thoughts) were far away from the centre of activities. With plenty of time to spare, about half an hour was filled up with a little 'surprise,' not Cambridge, London or Bristol, but 'Lytchett Surprise,' in other words Grandsire Doubles.

Even now the fun was not all over. The immediate vicinity of the church not being flood-lit, the party groped their way back to the bus by the aid of a cycle lamp through half a mile of pitch darkness. Altogether a very pleasant day. The ringers reached home not exactly disappointed at not having scored a peal. They extend their best wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Head. A. G. R.

FORMER BRIDGEND RINGER MARRIED.

On Saturday, October 7th, the wedding took place at the Church of St. John the Divine, Balham, of Mr. David Winston James and Miss Gertrude Lillian Townsend. The bridegroom is the only son of Mr. D. R. James, a much respected member of St. Iltyd's band, Bridgend. He was also one the Bridgend ringers before going to London.

In honour of the event, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples was rung on Sunday evening at St. Iltyd's Church by the following: J. Phillips 1, N. H. Evans 2, E. T. Bailey 3, B. J. Toby 4, C. H. Perry (conductor) 5, A. W. Wright 6, D. R. James 7, E. M. Smith 8. The band wish the bride and bridegroom much happiness in their future life.

RINGER BECOMES MISSIONARY.

On Saturday afternoon, October 7th, the ringers of St. Giles' Parish Church, Newcastle, Staffs, rang a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples as a farewell to one of their colleagues, Mr. A. Griffiths, who was departing for Nigeria, where he is to take up duties as a missionary: A. Moore 1, H. Houson 2, A. Barker 3, A. Vaughan 4, A. Thompson 5, J. Steele 6, C. Page (conductor) 7, J. Weatherhill 8.

Association and published in 'The Ringing World' as the first peal on the bells.

At one of the towers of eight a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples is often rung, and the ringers hope to get their first quarter of Stedman Triples in the near future. Both methods they have learnt unaided. They have had to put something into it and hope to get something out of it, as your article concludes.

'DOUBTFUL.'

PETERBOROUGH GUILD NOT WANTED.

Sir,—The action of the Peterborough Diocesan Guild in entering Rutland and forming a branch is unwarranted, whether each branch is eligible to conduct its own business, as is laid down in their rules, or not. We prefer independence and claim full freedom rather than being apportioned part of another guild and having to agree to every rule and decision that they think fit to impose upon us. I am not airing these views simply for myself.

We have already both seen and heard something of the peal and meeting 'cliques' that go about Northamptonshire trying to rule everything and everybody. If these people succeed in having their own way there, they won't get it here. We in Rutland are quite capable of looking after ourselves, and, if we desire an association, to form one of our own. 'RUTLAND RINGER.'

NEW ALBION TREBLE BOB.To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I was not aware that Mr. Baker had published these figures already. In publishing them I made no claim to authorship, but only wanted to bring them to the notice of the Exercise, as I thought that this slight variation might bring a method into favour which is well worthy of notice.

E. BANKES JAMES.

UNVEILING OF PEAL TABLETS.CEREMONY AT FOLKINGHAM, Lincs.

A quarterly meeting of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild (Southern Branch) was held at Folkingham on Saturday, October 21st, ringers being present from London, Grantham, Bourne, Bolsover, Surfleet, Market Deeping, Morton, Hough-on-the-Hill and the local band. Through the kindness of the Rector (the Rev. F. V. Heath), the good going peal of six were available during the afternoon and evening, and a good variety of methods, including Plain, Treble Bob and Surprise, were successfully brought round.

Before the service a short ceremony took place in the belfry, to unveil and dedicate three peal tablets, to record three interesting peals rung in this tower. The unveiling was performed by Mr. Rupert Richardson (Master of the Guild) and the dedication by the Rev. G. H. Clark, Vicar of Surfleet, and president of the Elloe Deanery Branch. The service was continued in the church, the lesson being read by the Rev. F. V. Heath and a helpful address given by the Rev. G. H. Clark.

The first tablet records the first peal ever rung in which a mother and daughter had taken part. The second was rung half-muffled in memory of the late Rev. H. Law James, Master of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild from 1899-1932. The third records the first Surprise peal on the bells, which was in seven methods. The tablets are of slate with silver lettering designed and executed by Mr. C. M. Webb, of Croft, near Leicester, to whom great credit is due for the way in which he has carried out the work.

An excellent tea was served at the Greyhound Hotel, after which the business meeting followed, at which the Rev. G. H. Clark presided.

Mr. Rupert Richardson was unanimously elected a vice-president of the Southern Branch.

Grantham was selected as the place for the annual meeting, and a hearty vote of thanks was accorded to the Rector for the use of the bells and the service, and particularly to the Rev. G. H. Clark and Mr. R. Richardson for their services. The tower was again visited and further ringing continued until 9 p.m.

LLANDAFF AND MONMOUTH DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION IN THE WELSH HILLS.

A splendidly attended meeting of the Llandaff and Monmouth Diocesan Association took place at Bedwellty on Saturday week. The church, standing on top of one of the Welsh hills, one thousand feet above sea level, commands a magnificent view for miles. The bells, a beautiful ring of eight by Taylor, were made good use of during the afternoon and until later in the evening, a variety of methods being rung. The Rector (the Rev. James Davies) officiated at the service, and in his address gave a cordial welcome to the association to his parish, expressing the wish that it would not be long before another visit was paid.

Following the service, a sumptuous tea was served, which had been most generously provided.

At the business meeting the usual routine affairs were dealt with, including instructors' reports, together with proposed augmentations and restorations, election of new members and the usual votes of thanks to all concerned who had made all the arrangements.

The local ringers, although not very advanced in method ringing, did all that was possible for the visitors, and those who did not attend missed a real treat. The meeting was one of the best the association has ever held.

The next meeting, which is the annual, will be held at St. Woolos', Newport, on Boxing Day.

SUSSEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION.EASTERN DIVISION MEETING AT ST. LEONARDS.

A meeting of the Eastern Division of the Sussex Association was held at Christ Church, St. Leonards, on Saturday, October 14th, when about 20 members attended from Eastbourne (St. Mary's and St. Saviour's), Battle and Rye, with Mr. Piper (Eastbourne), Mr. Haigh, of Etchingham, and members of the local band.

At the business meeting, which followed tea, the Rector (the Rev. G. R. Vernon) occupied the chair, and the following new members were elected: Messrs. A. Deeprose and C. Holland, of Battle, and Mr. C. Pugh, Christ Church, St. Leonards.

Mr. W. D. Smith proposed a vote of thanks to the Rector for the use of the bells and for presiding at the tea.

The church being under repair, the service was held in the chapel, when the Rector gave a most interesting address.

The ringers then returned to the tower, and kept the bells going until 7.45. Owing to illness, the bells of All Saints', Hastings, were not available.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

The peal at Lutterworth last Saturday is worthy of note. Six of the ringers are members of the band at All Saints' Church, Wigston Magna, who during the last 13 months have jumped to the Surprise ringing class. At this church a visiting ringer can get, either for service or practice, a touch in at least five Surprise Major methods. The peal of Bristol last Saturday was the first in any method for two of the company, and the first in the method for all the band except the conductor. Bravo, Wigston!

Three veterans at St. James' Church, Whitfield, Glossop, are still 'doing their bit,' after 47 years' service. They are Mr. Eli Garside, Mr. Joseph Marsden and Mr. Tom Jackson. They joined the band in 1886, two years after the bells were first installed.

Whitfield Church was one of the towers which formed the Glossop Ringers' Association, which, we learn, is still in existence, and there is a desire to infuse new life into it.

October 23rd was the 49th anniversary of the ringing of Holt's Original non-conducted at St. Giles-in-the-Field, London, to commemorate the ringing of the same peal at the same church in 1791, when it was called by J. Bartlett—for the first time in London without the aid of manuscript.

Mr. W. J. Nevard, of Great Bentley, who met with an accident last August, is, we are glad to say, improving very well. On Wednesday evening last week he took part in ringing practice at Thorington. He wishes through 'The Ringing World' to thank all ringing friends for their good wishes for his speedy recovery. Many called personally on the Essex veteran and others wrote.

Mr. J. E. Wheeldon, of Stoke-on-Trent, rang his 100th peal on Saturday at Cheddleton, Staffs, and received the hearty congratulations of the rest of the band. His peals include Minor, Triples, Major and Royal.

Mr. R. T. Holding, of Crewe, is now one of the ringers who have rung peals from Doubles to Maximus. He rang in a peal in six methods of Doubles on Saturday at Wistaston. It was also J. Brassington's and A. Crawley's 50th peal together.

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Cavill have just celebrated their golden wedding, and a peal in their honour was rung at Harlow Common on Thursday of last week. Mr. Cavill is a very old member of the Essex Association, and has been ringing regularly for over 60 years.

The peal of Double Norwich rung at Chatham on September 30th should be credited to the Kent County Association.

Miss Phyllis Tillet, of Ipswich, who is not yet 15 years of age, rang the treble to a peal of Cambridge Surprise Royal at Stonham Aspal on Saturday, and thus completed three peals—on eight, twelve and ten bells—on successive Saturdays.

NEW BELLS FOR MOULTON CHURCH.

MEMORIAL TO PIONEER OF MISSIONS.

The centenary of the death (June 9th, 1834) of William Carey, the pioneer of modern missions, who thought out his great schemes of world evangelisation while living in the village of Moulton, Northants, is to be commemorated by the addition of two bells to make a ring of eight at the Parish Church.

One bell is being provided by Dr. Sydney Madge (London), an old Moulton boy, and the cost of the other is being raised locally. A further sum of £27 10s. is needed, and subscriptions will be thankfully received by the Vicar (the Rev. J. Maurice Turner).

The bells have been cast by Messrs. Taylor and Co.

The inscription on the treble bell was inspired by Dr. Madge reading the Rev. Pearce Carey's 'Life of William Carey.' It is composed by the Latin librarian of the British Museum. The translation is as follows:—

'To the greater glory of God and in memory of the illustrious William Carey, whose soul was often stirred by the sweet sound of the old bells of Moulton, this bell has been given by S. J. Madge, 1933.'

Carey's motto:—

'Expect great things from God,

is inscribed on the second bell.

MUFFLED BELLS.

At Sutton-on-Trent, Notts, on October 23rd, 1,260 Stedman Triples: Miss G. Burchall 1, J. F. Milner (conductor) 2, A. J. Chamberlain 3, N. Moxon (first) 4, Miss K. Burchall 5, G. E. Foster 6, L. Pierrepont (first 'inside') 7, E. Midwinter (first) 8.

Rung, after an attempt for a peal, with the bells half-muffled as a last token of respect to the memory of the Rev. G. P. Proctor, Vicar of Long Eaton, and formerly of Sutton-on-Trent (1912-18). Also to the memory of Mr. L. N. Hodgson Wilson, of The Limes, Farnfield. Deceased was thrown from his horse. He served as a lieutenant in the Royal Artillery during the war. He was a representative for Carlton-on-Trent on the Southwell Rural District Council, a member of the Parochial Church Council and a sidesman at the Parish Church.

THE VETERANS' PEAL.

W. T. PATES. W. PRIME. R. BRUNDLE.
C. F. WINNEY. E. BISHOP. F. E. DAWE. J. GEORGE. H. W. SMITH.

This photograph of the band of veterans who established a new record 'peal age' at St. Olave's Church, Hart Street, London, is reproduced by the courtesy of Mr. F. E. Dawe.

The total age of the band was 612 years, exceeding by 16 years the previous highest aggregate of 594 years of a band—including four of the above—who rang a peal at the same church last December. Those who were in the previous peal were Messrs. Winney, Dawe, George and Prime.

All the ringers have long been well known in the Exercise. Their connection with it forms a link with bygone generations of ringers in many parts of England, links with men who knew Thurstons and Shipway and other giants of the past. Now they have united among themselves to create a record which is a monument to their pluck, their stamina and their skill.

In 1793 at Leeds, Kent, a peal of Bob Major was rung in which the united age of the band was 582 years, and, more wonderful still, the ringer of the tenor, James Freeland, was 86 years old.

A band who were all over 70 years of age—and they included Mr. Robert Brundle—rang a peal of Oxford Treble Bob Major at Pulham Market in October, 1922. Their ages totalled approximately 580 years.

HALESOWEN RINGER'S DEATH.

LOSS TO WORCESTERSHIRE ASSOCIATION.

The Worcestershire Association has lost a valued member by the death, at the age of 49 years, of Mr. Alfred Hackett, of Halesowen, after an illness of several months duration. A son of the late Mr. Matthew Hackett, who was a ringer at the Parish Church, Halesowen, for over 50 years, Mr. Alfred Hackett had served in a similar capacity for 32 years, being well known and highly respected among Worcestershire ringers. Deceased leaves a widow, but no children.

There were many manifestations of sympathy at the funeral, which took place at the Parish Church. Before the service half-muffled touches of Stedman Triples and London Surprise were rung, and all the ringers present met the cortege at the entrance to the churchyard. The service was conducted by the Rector (Canon H. O. A. Colville), assisted by the curate (the Rev. P. J. Martin). Twelve members of the local band acted as bearers, six bearing the coffin into church and six to the graveside. These were Messrs. W. H. Webb (Ringing Master), W. Coloy, W. Brown, E. Forrest, A. Harris, T. Greenhall, J. Cox, W. Lloyd, R. Matthews, W. Cooper, J. Bass and H. Bird. At the close of the service at the graveside a course of Grandsire Triples was rung by four members of the Worcestershire Association—Messrs. R. Matthews, J. Bass, W. Short and H. Bird. All the ringers then went into the tower, and ringing was continued.

The mourners were Mrs. Hackett (widow), Mrs. Tildesley (sister), Mrs. James (sister), Messrs. W. Brettle, W. Smith and W. Tildesley (brothers-in-law), Mrs. Smith and Mary Roberts (sisters-in-law). Deceased's employers and Halesowen Conservative Club were represented.

SUNDAY SERVICE TOUCHES.

BARNES.—At St. Mary's Church on October 1st for evening service, a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples: W. H. Hollier 1, A. Cutmore 2, F. Skivington 3, H. Cook 4, W. E. Judd 5, A. Harding 6, E. R. Mackrill 8. Rung for the harvest thanksgiving.

PUTNEY.—For evening service on September 24th, a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples: E. Cassell, jun., 1, E. Cassell, sen., 2, C. Collis 3, F. A. Leeson 4, C. Moody 5, A. C. Williams 6, W. T. Elson (conductor) 7, C. Gorham 8. Arranged especially for the ringers of the 4th and tenor, who hail from Maidstone.

BARKING, ESSEX.—On Sunday, September 24th, for morning service, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples: A. Vesey 1, R. Fenn 2, W. Beard 3, Churchwarden H. E. Parker (conductor) 4, C. Fenn 5, S. J. Holgate 6, E. G. Moore 7, E. H. Lucas 8.

while Mr. F. L. Rose attended on behalf of the churchwardens, and Messrs. A. Homfray and W. D. Abbiss represented the Church Council. The ringers present were Messrs. R. Matthews (Stourbridge), J. Bass (Wollaston), W. Short (Clent), J. Smith and K. Salter (Kidderminster), W. G. Carter (Clent), H. Cooper (Stourbridge), J. Lloyd and C. Skidmore (Brierley Hill), S. Grove (Selly Oak), A. Chance (Wordsley), W. Cartwright (Birmingham), and Nicholls and Bushell (Stourbridge).

On Saturday week a half-muffled peal of London Surprise Major was rung at Halesowen, and on the following morning the Rector held a ringers' memorial service, before and after which special ringing was done.

STAFFORD ARCHDEACONRY SOCIETY'S JUBILEE. CELEBRATION TO-MORROW.

On June 2nd, 1883, the Society of Church Bellringers for the Archdeaconry of Stafford was launched, and to-morrow the society will celebrate its jubilee by a dinner to be held at Wolverhampton.

The inaugural meeting was held at Lichfield, in the belfry of the Cathedral, the Ven. Archdeacon Iles presiding. There were representatives present from the Cathedral, St. Mary's and St. Michael's, Lichfield; Brierley Hill, Wombourne, Wolverhampton, Darlaston, West Bromwich Parish Church and Christ Church, Walsall, Willenhall, Tamworth, Burton-on-Trent and Stafford.

The Rev. J. R. Keble, chaplain to the Lord Bishop of Lichfield, was appointed hon. secretary and Mr. A. Wood hon. treasurer.

In the first year 65 members joined and one life member.

Mr. Wood (now Mayor of Lichfield) afterwards became the first lay secretary—the society has both a clerical and a lay secretary—and held office until 1885, when he was succeeded by that well-known ringer Mr. Samuel Reeves, of West Bromwich, who put in 23 years' service. He was followed by Mr. Herbert Knight, of Wolverhampton, who has carried on the good work from 1908 to the present time—half the lifetime of the society! The present clerical secretary is the Rev. C. H. Barker.

There were 280 ringing members in the society last year, with 210 life members and seven hon. members.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION MEETINGS. ROCHESTER AND LEWISHAM DISTRICTS' MUTUAL ARRANGEMENTS.

The annual meeting of the Rochester District was held on Saturday, October 28th, at Rochester Cathedral, by kind permission of the Dean. Ringing commenced at 3 o'clock and continued until 4 p.m., when evensong was attended by all present, then numbering approximately sixty.

At the close of the service, a truly representative company, comprising district members from Tunstall, Queenborough, Upchurch, Rainham, Gillingham, Chatham, Rochester, Frindsbury, Milton-next-Gravesend, Northfleet, Gravesend and Halstow, together with visitors from Canterbury, Maidstone, Crayford and Erith, altogether about 70 in number, assembled at the City Cafe, and were entertained to tea by the association.

The business meeting, preceded by a splendidly struck course of Grandsire Cinques on handbells, was presided over by the Dean (Dr. Underhill), supported by the Vicar of Frindsbury, the general secretary (Mr. F. M. Mitchell), the district representatives and hon. secretary, the Lewisham district secretary (Mr. A. G. Hill) and the auditor (Mr. G. H. Cross). Dr. Underhill said how pleased he was to see such a large company and how he would like to tell them of a recent experience, when at Frindsbury he had such a lovely view of the city and heard the sound of the bells coming across the water. He extended to all a very earnest welcome to Rochester and thanked them for their work.

One new member, Mr. Leslie Finch, of Northfleet, was elected, and the retiring district representatives (Messrs. Spice and Belsey) and the district secretary (Mr. S. J. T. Shellock) were re-elected.

Rainham, Gravesend and Frindsbury were each proposed as the venue for the next meeting, the voting ultimately choosing Gravesend.

A motion was carried, on the proposition of the general secretary, that the district secretary should write to the late Dean, Dr. Talbot, expressing the ringers' sympathy with him in his continued ill-health and hopes for his recovery.

The secretary, in the opening remarks of his report (prepared several days before), dwelt on the same subject as the Editor's article in the current issue of 'The Ringing World.'

The balance sheet, which showed a sum of over £15 to be handed over to the General Fund, was adopted.

Mr. Hill, who was invited to say a few words with regard to the mutual arrangement of dates of his and the Rochester district meetings, said how pleased he was to bring this matter to a successful termination and so save the clashing of dates.

Mr. Hill also expressed his delight in seeing Rochester district in such a flourishing condition, and incidentally remarked that in Rochester they did not appear to be suffering from such a 'disease' as they in Lewisham district, where, if one particular group attended a meeting, another group absented themselves.

Votes of thanks were accorded to the Dean for permission to use the bells and for presiding, and the meeting terminated with more handbell ringing, which included a course of Double Norwich Major.

The Cathedral tower and St. Margaret's were available till 9 p.m., many of the ringers taking advantage of the opportunity to have their first ring on ten bells.

READING, BERKS.—At St. Mary's Church on Wednesday evening, October 4th, for the Four Choirs Festival service, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples, this being the conductor's first successful attempt at calling: M. Stephens 1, Mrs. Evans 2, W. Hayward 3, Dr. Joyce 4, J. Swain 5, J. Taylor (conductor) 6, E. Humphrey 7, H. Smith 8. First quarter-peal by treble and third ringers.

THE LATE MR. H. W. WILDE.

MEMORIAL DEDICATED AT ECCLESTON CHURCH.

The memory of Henry W. Wilde was perpetuated when a memorial tablet was dedicated in the presence of a large congregation of ringers and parishioners at Eccleston Church on Saturday. It is just a year since the unexpected news of his passing was received with such profound regret by his fellow-members of the Exercise and his many other friends in the Chester district.

The tablet is placed on the south wall of the baptistry, near the door to the belfry which 'Harry' served so faithfully for a quarter of a century.

Previous to the service at four o'clock the fine toned eight were rung with clappers half-muffled in touches of Stedman, Cambridge and Bob Major, and then lowered in peal.

The officiating clergy at the service, which was fully choral, were the Rev. F. J. Okell, Rector of Eccleston, and the Rev. W. R. Ingham, Rector of Middlewich, and hon. secretary of the Chester Diocesan Guild, while Mr. A. H. Robinson, Mus.Bac., F.R.C.O., organist to the Duke of Westminster, was at the organ. The prayers were said and the responses intoned by the Rev. W. R. Ingham. The psalm was 150th, and the Rev. F. J. Okell read the lesson from St. Matthew 25, v. 14-29—the parable of the talents.

THE LATE MR. H. W. WILDE.

During the singing of the first hymn, 'Swing them gently in our towers,' the clergy and choir, together with Mrs. Wilde, Mr. Walter Wilde, Mr. Francis Wilde, Mr. A. H. Heywood, the Memorial Committee and Mr. S. Jones (towerkeeper), proceeded to the baptistry for the dedication. The Rector read aloud the inscription and offered the dedicatory prayer. The remaining verses of the hymn were sung as the procession returned.

The sermon was preached by the Rev. F. J. Okell, who took as his text a verso of the lesson previously read, 'His lord said unto him, well done, thou good and faithful servant: thou hast been faithful over a few things. I will make thee ruler over many things: enter thou into the joy of thy lord.' He had, he said, without hesitation thought of the parable of the talents as the most suitable lesson for this service. There was one word among those of his text which stood out prominently—the word FAITHFUL, and this word came to one's mind instantly when thinking of Henry Walter Wilde. He had without doubt set a fine example of faithfulness. He had been faithful to his church, his employment and his ringing art. He had served his church not only as a ringer, for when he came from the belfry it was only to exchange one act of service for another, and to put to use yet another gift. He had served in the choir as well as the belfry. The Rector also spoke of his service to the Exercise, of his ability as a ringer and composer, and of his devotion to the Chester Guild. Truly it could be said, 'Well done, thou good and faithful servant.'

The service was concluded with Hymn 221, 'Let saints on earth,' followed by the Blessing.

The memorial tablet, which was designed by Mr. J. W. Clarke, the hon. secretary of the Chester Branch of the Chester Diocesan Guild, is of bell metal, and was cast at the Loughborough Foundry. It is simple in character, the only ornament with the raised lettering being a small bell and headstock in relief as a heading, and the whole surrounded by a plain moulding. The inscription reads:—

HENRY WALTER WILDE,

who conducted the ringing in this tower from the opening of the bells in 1907 until he was called to rest on October 25th, 1932. This tablet is erected by his fellow ringers and friends in remembrance of his work for his church and his ringing craft.

R.I.P.

After the service a laurel wreath was placed on the grave in the churchyard.

Some fifty ringers from Chester and North Wales sat down to tea in the Institute, and afterwards the tower was again visited and the bells were rung in various methods with open clappers during the evening.

COCKERMOUTH, CUMBERLAND.—At All Saints' Parish Church on Tuesday, September 19th, a quarter-peal of Kent Treble Bob Major (1,280 changes): W. Rowe 1, George B. Lucas 2, Alfred Pye 3, W. A. Pye, jun., 4, Tyson Hogarth 5, John Casson 6, Fred Tickle 7, Wm. T. Holmes (conductor) 8. Ringers of 2nd, 3rd and 4th hail from London, 5th from Keswick, the rest local.

SOMETHING NEW IN DOUBLES.

A FRESH METHOD FOR FIVE-BELL RINGERS.
BY QUICK SIX.

Here is something which may interest those who ring Doubles. It is not strictly orthodox, but (with the exception of the two necessary singles) the whole extent can be got by pure Doubles, and an added interest is given by the introduction of 'splicing.'

For the sake of a better name I call the foundation of the method 'Whole-turn Doubles,' from the similarity of the main work, both in front and behind, to the work of a Stedman whole-turn. It is produced in two ways:—

1 2 3 4 5	4 5 2 3 1
2 1 4 3 5	5 4 3 2 1
2 4 1 5 3	5 3 4 1 2
4 2 1 3 5	3 5 1 4 2
2 4 3 1 5	5 3 1 2 4
2 3 4 5 1	5 1 3 4 2

The work, it will be seen, covers five rows, one the reverse of the other. The extent of each course is 25 changes, which, if both forward and reverse courses are used, leaves ten changes still to be introduced to complete the whole of the 60 in-course rows. The missing rows, it is interesting to observe, are got by plain hunting, and the following is one way in which they can be employed to link up the two courses of the Whole-turn Doubles, the link being formed in each case by a bob, which is 3rd's place instead of 5th's in the first change:—

2 1 4 3 5
2 4 1 5 3	C	5 4 3 2 1 Bob
4 2 1 3 5		5 3 4 1 2
2 4 3 1 5		3 5 1 4 2
2 3 4 5 1		5 5 1 2 4
		5 1 3 4 2
A 3 4 5 1 2	B	1 2 4 5 3
A 4 5 1 2 3	B	2 3 5 1 4
H 5 4 1 3 2 Bob	B	3 4 1 2 5
5 1 4 2 3
1 5 2 4 3	B	4 5 2 3 1
1 2 5 3 4
2 1 3 5 4	D	5 4 2 1 3 Bob
		5 2 4 3 1
2 3 1 4 5		2 5 4 1 3
3 2 4 1 5		5 2 1 4 3
3 4 2 5 1		5 1 2 3 4
4 5 3 1 2	A	1 2 3 4 5

A is produced by the forward work as shown in the first five changes; B is produced by the reverse work; H is the hunting section; C is the beginning of the reverse 'Whole-turn Doubles,' with the bob link, and D is the return to the forward Doubles by means of the bob link.

It may seem at first to be rather complicated, but it is in reality quite simple and should prove an interesting change for Doubles ringers. Just try it!

The singles, to complete the extent, can be made anywhere, as long as they are made in the same way and are 60 changes apart.

The hunting section can be introduced after either of the first four sections of the forward course, as long as it is followed by the whole of the reverse course before completing the forward course.

There are other variations of the plan which ringers may like to work out for themselves.

If you choose, you can ring the whole of either A or B or C first, but in that case you must begin with a bob, thus:—

You can ring the complete courses in the order B, A, C, or A, C, B, or C, B, A, each course being linked to the preceding one by a bob.

It will be noticed that C always follows A in what we may term the circuit.

If the single is made half-way and end, the arrangement of the courses need not be the same in the second half as in the first. Similarly, if the singles are called elsewhere, the arrangement of the portion between the singles need not be the same as the arrangement outside the singles. Thus 42 different six-scores can be obtained.

ARLECDON.—At St. Michael's Church on Wednesday, September 13th, a quarter-peal of Bob Minor (1,260 changes) in 44 mins.: S. Huddart 1, J. S. Huddart 2, P. Bragg 3, C. Bragg 4, J. E. Brown 5, S. Richardson (first quarter-peal as conductor) 6. Longest length by ringers of 1, 2, 3 and 4. Rung as a farewell touch to the conductor.

LEEDS AND DISTRICT SOCIETY.

On Saturday last Leeds and District Society visited Birstall, which is very near the home of Charlotte Brontë, the great English novelist of bygone days. In making this visit to Birstall, members were reminded of the great snowstorm of last February, which lasted for four days, and made travelling well nigh impossible. On that occasion Birstall accommodated the society, which was unable to visit the listed tower of Liversedge, where the February meeting was to have been held.

The bells were rung up at 3.15 p.m., and members were present from Armley, Batley, Bramley, Burley, Drighlington, Headingley (St. Chad's), Holbeck, Liversedge, Earlsheaton, Ossett, Pudsey, Sowerby Bridge and the local company.

The business meeting was held in the tower, the president being in the chair.

One new member (Mr. W. Walker, of Ossett) was elected.

Mr. C. E. Lawson, with well-chosen words, proposed that the best thanks of the society be accorded to the Vicar and churchwardens and also to the local company.—This was seconded by Mr. R. C. Squires, and Mr. H. Peel replied in characteristic Yorkshire manner on behalf of the local company.

AMONG THE LAKES.

THREE WEEKS' HOLIDAY TOUR.

During September a party of four (Mr. G. H. Lucas, Mr. A. Pye, Mr. W. A. Pye and Miss S. Pye) left Essex by car for the Lake District. The first night they stopped at Doncaster, where Mr. E. Cooper had kindly arranged a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples, which was accomplished with the help of five of the local band. Next day a halt was made at Ambleside, where there is a grand peal of eight (tenor 35½ cwt.). They rang there for service on Sunday morning, and in the evening rang a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples for service at Sedburgh, Yorks, which Mr. E. Jennings had kindly arranged with the local band. On the evening of the 13th a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples was rung at Ambleside with the help of the local band, after which a pleasant evening was spent.

After visiting Lakes Windermere, Coniston, Ulswater, Thirlmere and Grasmere, also Dove Cottage, the home of Wordsworth, and the memorial of him in the church at Grasmere, the party moved on to Keswick on the 14th. Having seen an advertisement in 'The Ringing World,' they called upon Mr. Tyson Hogarth, and were very fortunate in finding there admirable apartments. After the tour in the day, Mr. Tyson Hogarth, who is teaching a young band of ringers, saw that the visitors had plenty of ringing in the evenings, and they spent a very happy time. Mr. Hogarth also accompanied Mr. W. A. Pye in mountain climbing for the day on three occasions, on one of which they tackled Great Gable. The other poor mortals had to be content with climbing the smaller ones. On September 17th the visitors rang for morning service at Cockermouth, and on the 19th, with the help of Mr. Tyson Hogarth and the local band, they rang a quarter-peal of Kent Treble Bob Major. They also rang at Crosthwaite on several occasions with the local band. The party were able to visit all the lakes and passes, including Lakes Derwentwater, Bassenthwaite, Buttermere, Loweswater, Wastwater, where some grand views are obtained, and Haweswater, which Manchester Corporation are going to turn into a reservoir to supply Manchester City with water. When this takes place, the entire village, including a small church, will be submerged.

After visiting Seascale, St. Bees, Whitehaven, Mary Port and Silloth, they made a raid into Scotland as far as Dumfries, where a statue of Robert Burns is erected. Passing en route through Gretna Green, they called at the Smithy, and were given a demonstration of how the marriage ceremony is performed, to the amusement of all the visitors.

On the 27th the homeward journey was begun. A stop was made at Sutton-on-Trent for the night, and here (through the courtesy of Mr. W. Stockdale) they spent a very pleasant evening with the All Saints' band. Touches of Stedman, Kent Treble Bob, Grandsire, etc., were rung. The tour was completed on the 28th after a very happy time. The party wish to thank their numerous ringing friends for the kind welcome given to them.

WARWICKSHIRE GUILD.

VISIT TO SOLIHULL.

Members of the Warwickshire Guild who journeyed to Solihull on Saturday, October 21st, had a very enjoyable time. The bells, since their return from the foundry of Messrs. Taylor and Co., have been hung on ball bearings, and the visitors were loud in their praises of the improvement both of the tone and 'go' of the bells. Grandsire and Stedman Caters, Plain Bob and Kent Treble Bob Royal were rung during the afternoon.

Then at 5 o'clock the ringers wended their way to a local cafe, where Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Martineau welcomed each ringer in turn as he or she entered the tea room. Mr. Martineau has for many years past been an enthusiastic member of the Solihull band, and he it was who was instrumental in getting the bells included in the £20,000 restoration scheme of the church. Illness prevents him from ascending the belfry, where improvements have already taken place, but he takes a lively interest in all that goes on there.

After tea, Mr. Martineau was voted to the chair for the business meeting. He expressed his delight at being able to be amongst the ringers.

Apologies were read from Mr. J. H. W. White (Master of the Guild), Mr. F. W. Perrens, Mr. L. J. Hinde and Mr. A. J. Hinde.

Wolvey was decided upon for the November meeting, which is to be a joint one with the Hinckley District of the M.C.A. if they were agreeable. The December meeting was again dispensed with owing to its proximity to Christmas. The January quarterly meeting was fixed for Chilvers Coton.

One former member of the Guild was re-elected, Mr. G. H. Williams, a member of the Coleshill band, who has recently scored a peal after a lapse of 38 years.

The meeting closed with votes of thanks to the Vicar, which Mr. Martineau said he would convey, and to Mr. R. Bragg, of the local band, who had made all the arrangements for the tea and the meeting.

A return being made to the belfry, ringing was continued until about 8.30. The methods rung during the afternoon were repeated, together with Cambridge Major and Royal. Percy Stone, aged 12, of the Chilvers Coton band, rang his first course of Grandsire Caters very creditably.

The following towers were represented: Castle Bromwich, Chilvers Coton, Coleshill, Erdington, Lillington, Nuneaton, Rugby, Stoke, Warwick and Wolvey, together with the local band. D. E. B.

ST. MARTIN'S GUILD, BIRMINGHAM.

The autumn quarterly meeting of St. Martin's Guild, Birmingham, was held at the Parish Church, Edgbaston, Birmingham. The church is situated in the 'upper ten' residential quarter of the city, and contains many valuable and interesting memorials. A rather curious one relates to a former Mayor of Birmingham, Sir John Ratcliffe, Kt. After extolling his many virtues for which he received his knighthood, it ends with the text, 'And there shall be no night there.' The local wag inserts a K before the word night, and asserts that evidently Sir John must have gone below.

The Guild's special form of service was conducted by the Vicar, Canon Stuart Blofeld, who also gave an interesting and helpful address, pointing out how careful all churchworkers ought to be in their daily lives and so by their example help forward the work of Christ.

Tea was followed by the business meeting, at which the Master, Alderman J. S. Pritchett, M.A., presided. He expressed the sympathy of the Guild with Mr. J. Johnson, whose wife was seriously ill in hospital, and hoped she would have a speedy recovery and be restored to her husband again.

Mr. A. Walker proposed, Mr. A. Morris seconded and it was unanimously agreed to hold the Henry Johnson Commemoration Dinner as usual on March 3rd, 1934, and that the arrangements be left to the officers of the Guild.

The following new members were duly elected: Mr. J. C. Bailey (Birmingham), Mr. G. Talbot (Yardley), Mr. F. L. C. Gibbs (Selly Park, Birmingham), Mr. H. G. Atkins (Selly Oak, Birmingham).

The following tower elections were also ratified: Mr. A. H. Beamish and Mrs. D. E. Beamish, of Nuneaton, and Mr. H. Boswell, of Wolverhampton.

The next meeting being the annual meeting, it was decided to hold it at headquarters as usual.

A hearty vote of thanks to the Vicar for his address in church, to the churchwardens and Church Council for generously providing an excellent tea, and to those who served it, was proposed by Mr. Paddon Smith, seconded by Mr. Albert Walker and carried with acclamation.

Before returning to the tower, some excellent ringing on handbells was much appreciated.

THE PEAL AT DEEPING ST. NICHOLAS.

The ringers in the peal in twelve methods at Deeping St. Nicholas on October 14th stood in the following order, and not in the order printed in the last issue of 'The Ringing World': James H. Musson treble, John E. Allan 2, Wm. H. Waldron 3, Thomas A. Cooper 4, Outhbert T. H. Bradley 5, Horace M. Day tenor.

ROTHERHAM BELLS.

IRENAUS' REPLY TO MR. BRIGGS.

On page 667 of 'The Ringing World' will be found further vapourings of Mr. Sid Briggs. I commend them to the 'Exercise.' 'Point blank,' I have been 'asked' not to talk or write of noble peals until I've heard York Minster twelve. Well, reader, it's very obvious that at long last! Mr. Briggs has heard a peal of twelve! The only comment I make on them is to say I have heard the twelve, with a 'monarchical bass' accompaniment!

Mr. Briggs—I would have my reader note—has not 'wax-ed' very eulogistic! on the 'Minster bells.' Obviously there's 'none due' to them, from Mr. Briggs, who ridicules the idea of doing the very first thing a person with brains would do—namely, call in a competent founder, to do a bell restoration! We can picture what Rotherham bells would have been like had Mr. Briggs gone about the job.

I have had his letter re-read by those who have mentalities and educational attainments on a far higher plane than those of the second standard, and I am fully convinced that Mr. Briggs did ask me! and everybody else! to picture the old bells 'cleaned'! If he did not 'ask' us to visualise the old bells cleaned, what on earth was he writing about?

Mr. Briggs fails to grasp this significant fact: When he, I, or anyone else! puts a pen (or pencil) to paper, he, I, or anyone else draws a pen picture of thought! mentality! and personality! Shakespeare wrote four words: 'Bell, book and candle'—incidentally Mr. Briggs writes on the former, without either of the latter. Shakespeare did not 'ask' us to visualise a bell, a book and a candle, did he? No! he left it to us—who had the intelligence—to visualise the last dread anathema of Rome!

Longfellow didn't 'ask us' to visualise the village blacksmith going on Sunday to the church to blow his daughter's nose! with a hard rough hand. Not likely! Longfellow gave us a pen picture of the thoughts of the 'Village Blacksmith' by the wiping away of a tear.

Further, Mr. Briggs, who is suffering from 'Redistributionitis,' fails miserably in 'literary cricket!' He asks questions, and gets them answered, with brevity, in 'plain English'! Alas! of too high a standard for a 'nursery rhyme' to understand. He turned to an association report for church 'history!' He turned with presumption to a 'medicinal well,' and he pictured a municipal ward, bath or lavatory! and coupled with one or the other a possible source of origin of the dedication of his—very own—Parish Church.

Ho presumed that the old ten were maidens, but his presumption has bust! He championed (?) Mr. Dawe at the onset of this discussion, but he could not agree with Mr. Dawe's mode of expression. No, Mr. Dawe could have improved what he said—before the 'C.C.'—by using the idioms of a limited vocabulary!

Who could agree with Mr. Briggs? I don't know, nor do I think anyone else knows, or who could bring to a logical and successful end any discussion with such a debater as Mr. Briggs? who, in his former letter, said a thing was black, and when I agreed with him in my rejoinder he immediately turns round and says that which he had dubbed 'black' was white!

What he wrote about 'barking' is here verbatim: 'Certainly we get now a more musical "three blind mice," and not the bark that used to obtain in the ringing chamber.' Neither I or anyone else can couple that 'barking' with a 'chapter'—or even a 'dean!'—of a north country minster! Another thing I would remind Mr. Briggs of, and that is, much as he detests 'the noble ten,' I can visualise him—he didn't ask me, or any of our lady ringers to do so—jumping out of bed on a recent Sunday morning in what might be termed ecstatic rapture to catch more and more ethereal music by flinging wider and wider still the window! Who knows how the ladies of the 'Exercise' pictured the scene? One might picture the expression on the face of Mr. Briggs as he stands at the open window listening to the rhythmic beat of that majestic tenor booming out, adding to and 'mellowing' every sound of the remaining 'nine'! which got into a beat to suit the requirements of the speed of the remaining one! which governs and sets the speed!

Or, on the other hand, one of our 'fair' enthusiasts of the 'art and science' may have visualised the humorous side of the pen picture Mr. Briggs drew of himself jumping out of bed in a frenzy, attired in a little short shirt, throwing wide the window, and popping back into bed. 'Tamed!'

Or again another might have seen the indolent side of the picture, and, in her rage, fling for a bucketful of cold water to 'excito lentos' to a sense of duty!

Aye, and turning from that picture to another, my dear reader, I've had 'C. F. J.'s' second paragraph re-read, solemnly, mournfully, slowly and carefully, and I should assume Mr. Briggs wishes to draw my attention to the sentence, 'There is a mellowness about a ring of good old bells that one seldom hears in a new one.'

Yes, Mr. Briggs, I understand; there is. Chesterfield ten are a typical example. There's a mellowness about them! but the mellowness 'about' them is found in the edifice wherein the good old bells hang!

Rung for the first civic visit of the Mayor and Corporation of Heston-Isleworth to Heston Parish Church, the ancient tower being flood-lit for the occasion.

EXETER.—At St. Thomas' Church for morning service on October 8th, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples: C. Hosgood 1, R. Rundle (first quarter 'inside') 2, J. Hosgood 3, F. Wills 4, E. Hill 5, E. W. Biffin (conductor) 6, W. Wills 7, A. H. Goad 8.

TWYFORD, HANTS.—On Sunday, October 1st, at St. Mary's Church, for harvest festival, two quarter-peals of Grandsire Triples by the local band, an achievement not previously known at this church. The ringers before matins were L. Osborn 1, L. S. Lampard 2, S. J. Sanders 3, S. Mansell 4, H. Mansell 5, W. Young 6, H. J. Wilkinson (conductor) 7, G. Allen 8. Before evensong: L. Osborn 1, H. Mansell 2, S. J. Sanders 3, S. Mansell 4, L. S. Lampard (conductor) 5, W. Young 6, H. J. Wilkinson 7, G. Allen 8.

BRADDEN, NORTHANTS.—At St. Michael's Church on Sunday, October 1st, before evensong, a quarter-peal of Doubles in four methods, 360 Antelope, 360 Grandsire, 240 St. Simon's and 300 Bob Doubles: S. Bates 1, V. Matthews 2, Miss Grant-Ives 3, H. Richardson 4, A. Garlick (conductor) 5.

TILGHURST, BERKS.—On Sunday, October 1st, at St. Michael's Church for harvest festival evensong, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples: H. Hunt 1, H. Goodger 2, J. H. Barnes 3, E. Chapman 4, A. Haines 5, R. N. Runham (conductor) 6, R. Chapman 7, A. Barnes 8.

HASTINGS.—At All Saints' Church for evensong on Sunday, September 17th, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples in 46 mins.: G. Piper 1, W. Franks 2, J. D. White 3, J. Downing 4, A. Levett 5, F. E. Collins 6, W. J. Jeffries (conductor) 7, A. Clift 8. Ringers of 1, 3, 5 and tenor are local ringers, No. 2 from Battle, No. 4 Blacklands, No. 6 South Croydon and No. 7 Deptford.

NORTH SHIELDS.—On Sunday, September 17th, 1,040 Kent Treble Bob Royal for evening service at Christ Church: J. E. Scott 1, A. Tully 2, T. Burn 3, G. Dix 4, E. A. Hern (conductor) 5, J. Scott, jun., 6, R. M. Gray 7, W. Robson 8, M. Livesly 9, E. Gosden 10. All the above are local ringers except W. Robson, who comes from South Shields. This was the first touch in this method for the ringers of 3, 6, 7, 8 and 9.

The mellowing tone shade of the bad old ten—which formerly permeated All Saints' steeple, Rotherham—has been 'fused and frozen' into mellowness! While the good old ten at Chesterfield remain, as they ever were, in a beauty of mellowing putrid mellowness! (Awfully sorry, Arthur, one can't help telling the truth!)

Mr. Briggs tells us all about his large heart, without our 'asking.' But one begs of him to 'open his heart' and tell us in a manly fashion who could have done the job (at Rotherham) better? and who could have given greater satisfaction? And why? I would ask Mr. Briggs to play the game, answer those questions and remember that on the side of this 'noble ten' there is the full weight of public opinion!—a 'public opinion' with a sense of proportion!

In conclusion, Mr. Briggs tells us that 'experience does teach one.' I agree, but it is useless and futile for 'experience' to try to teach 'one' if 'one' is 'inexperienced' and won't learn!

There was no necessity for Mr. Briggs to confess that he was a 'little bit artistic'; we are aware of the fact. And we realise when we picture our friend's aesthetics that he would place the base of the Nelson Column on our 'Darling Herd's' head, for a 'cocked hat'!

'O wad some power the giftie gie us,
To see ourselves as ithers see us'!

RINGING ORGANISATIONS IN LICHFIELD DIOCESE

The rapidity with which the modern ringing societies spread over the country about fifty years ago is again brought to mind by the fact that yet another has just celebrated its jubilee, so that in the last seven years the best part of a score of these organisations have completed half a century of useful work. Last Saturday the Society for the Archdeaconry of Stafford officially commemorated the fiftieth anniversary of its foundation, an event which was naturally the occasion for many congratulations, and one upon which the Exercise at large will felicitate the members. The number of original members now surviving is, of course, a very small one, but it is rather remarkable that there have been only three lay secretaries in all the length of the Society's life, and forty-eight years is covered by the services of two men. This is rather a wonderful record upon which the Society may well pride itself. It has throughout this time been faithfully and loyally served, and Mr. Herbert Knight, the present occupant of the office, has earned the deepest gratitude of the members by giving them no less than twenty-five years' ungrudging service. Such men as Mr. Knight, who unostentatiously labour, year after year, for the benefit of their fellows, who in face of the disappointments and not infrequent discouragements which fall to the lot of a secretary, still stick to their task, are the salt of the Exercise. Twenty-five years is a long period for one man to give to an honorary office, and the Stafford Archdeaconry Society has had the unusual experience of two men who have thus served them for practically a quarter of a century each.

It is not generally realised that no fewer than four ringing organisations at present exist to cover the diocese of Lichfield, which embraces the counties of Staffordshire and Shropshire—they comprise the Society for the Archdeaconry of Stafford, the North Staffs Association, the Shropshire Association and the Midland Counties Association, which partly overlaps Staffordshire. In these days when the tendency is towards Diocesan Guilds, it may be wondered why some effort is not made to unite the area under one organisation. This would, on the surface, appear to be the ideal arrangement, but there are local difficulties, largely geographical, which make it far from easy of practical achievement. There have been instances in the past where the amalgamation of a number of small societies into a Diocesan Guild, as was the case, for example, in the dioceses of Lincoln and Peterborough, has been advantageous and has given the united association an added dignity, prestige and influence. In the diocese of Lichfield, however, there seems to be some doubt whether the interests of ringing would be as effectually served by a united organisation, on account of the widespread area which it would have to serve. Now that two of the Staffordshire societies have celebrated their jubilee, and the Shropshire Association is a well established entity, to say nothing of the fact that the Midland Counties Association claims the diocese of Lichfield as part of its area, it is perhaps too late in the day to expect any radical change in the manner in which these two counties are organised for ringing purposes, and it may be doubtful if any substantial advantage would accrue. Nevertheless, it might be well if those chiefly concerned were to review the situation and examine the possibilities of a more powerful and influential Guild if the three principal societies could combine their forces. In any case, no harm would be done by an investigation, if those responsible in the various parts of the diocese could be got into one mind on the subject. A Guild for the whole diocese of Lichfield would, it seems to us, be no mean force to stand by the interests of ringing in that important area.

RUTLAND.

THE EFFORTS OF THE PETERBOROUGH DIOCESAN GUILD.
To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I had no intention of entering into correspondence through 'The Ringing World,' but the statements in your last issue call for some comment. Mr. Amos says, 'Dog in the manger.' I agree, but the dog is in his kennel, not ours. He says 'a few months ago' he and others noticed how the county was neglected and decided to act. What has he done? He accuses the Peterborough Diocesan Guild of copying his ideas, the boot is on the other leg, and he, apparently, was copying us.

As long ago as 1925 or 1926 I had the pleasure of arranging a day's tour to several towers in Rutland, and took the opportunity then of talking over with some of the Rutland ringers we met the possibility of forming a branch of our Guild in the county. At the time there was not much enthusiasm for the idea. It has not been forgotten, however, and has more than once been discussed by our Central Committee.

Just over a year ago I wrote to several Rutland ringers on the same subject, and this year we have gone a step further and are hoping to get a start with the new branch in this, our jubilee year.

As the county of Rutland is in the Peterborough Diocese and we are a Diocesan Guild, one of whose objects is 'The cultivation of the art of scientific change ringing,' we are quite justified in trying to form a branch there without asking permission from Mr. Amos or anyone else.

His next point is that it is an impossibility to get from Northants to Rutland for meetings. If this is correct, how was he intending to make the journey to form and to run his new association?

My answer to this is in the report in 'The Ringing World' of the recent meeting at Oakham, when five branches of the Guild were represented and over 70 ringers were present. There are over a dozen rings of bells in the county in good ringing order, and that should be enough to get a start with, in spite of the cold water that is being poured on our efforts.

Mr. Amos says you have been wrongly informed that 13 rings in the county are in good ringing order. Perhaps he will give us a list of the others (above 13) that are in good ringing order, as I would like to get in touch with the ringers there.

'Doubtful' is certainly not an optimist, and states what has been done, but adds that there is still work for the spade. Here then is the proof that there is work for a branch of a Diocesan Guild, which will need the help of the local ringers to make it a success. I hope the ringers in Rutland will fall in and work together for the good of the cause.

I will reply to 'Rutland Ringer' if he comes out over his name and address. Anonymous sarcasm is cheap.

ROBERT G. BLACK,

General Hon. Secretary, Peterborough Diocesan Guild.

THE FIRST PEAL AT GLASTON.

Dear Sir,—With reference to the correspondence 'Rutland' in this week's issue, and in particular to 'Doubtful's' letter and his reference to a peal at Glaston (which, by the way, was for the Lincoln Diocesan Guild, not the M.C.A.), I was the person responsible for sending this particular 'peal report' to 'The Ringing World,' and can quite definitely state that it was reported by me as the 'first MULTI-METHOD' peal on the bells, as I was told of the earlier peal (of Grandsire Doubles) at that time. The omission of these two words leads 'Doubtful' quite naturally to believe that we were claiming the first peal on the bells, whereas such was not intended.

Incidentally, the peal of Grandsire was only heard of in a casual manner. As a native and resident of Stamford, which has 'one foot in Rutland,' so to speak, I am interested in the towers of the county, and have, in company with Mr. Amos and others, visited a number. We have always received a most cordial reception, and I look back to my various visits with very pleasant memories. If 'Doubtful' (with whom I am possibly already acquainted) cares to write to me at my address I shall be very pleased.

J. R. NICHOLS.

47, King's Road, Stamford.

MR. AMOS' GRIEVANCE.

Dear Sir,—I think the time has come when the grievance between certain members of the Peterborough Diocesan Guild and Mr. P. Amos should be made public. Being a member of the Peterborough Diocesan Guild, I, like many others, am getting 'fed up' with the letters of P. Amos, which always cast a slur on certain other members of this Guild. We would like to see what has caused this bitterness, and then, if Mr. P. Amos is at fault, his letters should be barred.

If Rutland has a branch of the Peterborough Diocesan Guild, they will manage it themselves, and, according to 'Doubtful,' have some capable ringer to do it. That the first meeting is to be held at Empingham on November 11th is unfortunate, as far as the number of visitors are concerned, it being Armistice Day anniversary, when most ringers will be ringing muffled or half-muffled at their own towers. Mr. P. Amos, 'Doubtful' and 'Rutland Ringer' are only individuals, and it is the results from the rank and file of Rutland ringers which matter.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION.TONBRIDGE DISTRICT MEMBERSHIP.

The annual meeting of the Tonbridge District was held at Tonbridge on Saturday, October 28th, and was attended by nearly 50 members from Brasted, Haver, Crawley Down, Penshurst, Shipbourne, Lamberhurst, Plaxtol, Seal Chart, Sevenoaks, East Peckham, Leigh, Tunbridge Wells, Mayfield and the local tower. Ringing commenced at 3 o'clock. The usual service was conducted by the Vicar (Canon S. H. Clark), an hon. member of the association, and the local organist presided at the organ. The Vicar gave an excellent address, and a collection, taken for the association benevolent fund, realised 15s. Ten was partaken of at the Carlton Cafe, followed by the business meeting, Mr. E. H. Lewis (vice-president) presiding.

The district secretary (Mr. W. Latter) read his annual report, in which he said that in some respects the district was in a flourishing condition. Six meetings had been held and most of them had been well attended. The number of practising members had slightly increased. This was accounted for by the Brasted hand joining and the transfer of the Sandhurst band from the Ashford District. He called attention to the fact that only 13 new members were elected during the year, a fact that did not augur well for the future.

Mr. W. Latter and Messrs. G. Edwards and H. Markwell were re-elected to the offices of district secretary and representatives respectively, with the thanks of the members for past services.

Reference was made to the bereavement sustained by Mr. W. H. Lambert, of Beenden, in the death of his wife. The deceased was interred the previous day, and the members stood in silence in sympathy, the district secretary being asked to write to Mr. Lambert and family expressing the members' sympathy.

It was decided that meetings for the ensuing year should be held at Marden, East Peckham, Sandhurst and Speldhurst on the first Saturdays in February, May, July and October respectively.

Votes of thanks were passed to the Vicar, organist and local secretary for the parts they had respectively taken in organising and carrying out the arrangements for the meeting, and to Mr. E. H. Lewis for presiding, and the members adjourned to the tower for further ringing.

To conclude, Mr. Amos says, 'It is practically impossible to get to Rutland from Northants before 3 p.m.'; but that is quite early enough for most meetings, also, according to his postal address, he is eight miles or more further off Rutland towers than the Kettering ringers of this diocese.

LONDON COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

Yet another successful meeting of the Northern District of the London County Association was held on October 28th at St. Mary's, Stratford, Bow. This ancient and historic church is the 'Stratford-atte-Bow' mentioned in Chaucer's 'Canterbury Tales,' and dates back to 1311.

In spite of a stormy afternoon, a large company assembled and a variety of method was rung until 5 p.m., when a bright service was conducted by the Rector (the Rev. G. F. J. Ansell).

After tea, which was served in the Church Hall, the usual business meeting was held, at which one new member was elected, and St. Mary Magdalene, Holloway Road, was chosen for the next meeting.

A hearty vote of thanks to Mr. Ansell for the splendid welcome he had given the members was proposed by the District Master and seconded by the secretary and carried with applause.—In responding, the Rector assured the members of a hearty welcome as long as he was at Bow.

In the gymnasium attached to the Church Hall, one of the older members, inspired, no doubt, by the achievement of the grand old (?) men at Hart Street, surprised the youngsters by agilely climbing to the top of a 20ft. rope.

Ringing continued until 8.30 p.m., and the methods rung ranged from call changes to London Surprise Major.

WINCHESTER AND PORTSMOUTH DIOCESAN GUILD.PORTSMOUTH DISTRICT AT ALVERSTOKE.

A quarterly meeting of the Portsmouth District was held at Alverstoke on Saturday, October 28th, when members attended from Alverstoke, Bishop's Waltham, Bramshott, Catherington, Fareham, Gosport, Portsmouth (Cathedral and St. Mary's), Petersfield, Swanmore and visitors from Epsom and Beaconsfield. Ringing commenced at 2.30 p.m., and at 4.30 p.m. the Guild's service was held, at which the Rector of Alverstoke (Canon G. Landon) officiated, and Mr. W. Linter (Fareham) addressed those present.

Tea was partaken of at the Bodrick Hall, after which the business meeting was held, the Rector being voted to the chair.

St. Mary's was selected for the annual district meeting, the date being January 20th, 1934.

The Rev. E. B. James proposed a vote of thanks to the Rector for the use of the bells, also to the organist and choirboys.—The Rector suitably replied, and said how pleased he was to welcome the Guild to Alverstoke. The members afterwards returned to the tower for further ringing, which consisted of Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Bob Major, Double Norwich Court Bob Major, Cambridge and London Surprise Major.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

The Exercise will extend congratulations and good wishes to Canon G. F. Coleridge, who is 76 to-day, and to Mr. Harry Chapman, of Koyston, and formerly of Manchester, who will be 70 on Sunday.

'Many happy returns' also to the hon. secretary of the Ladies' Guild (Mrs. E. K. Fletcher), who also celebrates her birthday on Sunday.

By the way, a birthday celebration due this month, which will doubtless be the occasion of many congratulations, is that of Mr. James George, Birmingham's youthful veteran, who attains the age of 80 years on the 27th.

The Kent County Association has lost one of its foundation members by the death of Mr. Henry Gosden Fairbrass, of Canterbury. He was a member of the Cathedral company. The Kent Association was started in 1880.

A privileged few who were present at the jubilee of the Stafford Archdeaconry Society on Saturday were let into the secret of old age combined with virility for peal ringing. We hope it is not high treason to reveal it; so here it is—a drop of whisky in the tea in the morning. It is the elixir which makes a celebrated Birmingham veteran—who shall be nameless—the wonderful man he is. We have his own word for it.

The peal rung at Milton-next-Gravesend on Saturday last to commemorate the 296th anniversary of the Ancient Society of College Youths also records the completion of 25 years' continuous service at that tower by two of the band, Messrs. G. R. Ambrose and F. M. Mitchell. The last named is the reigning Master of the Ancient Society.

THE VETERANS' PEAL.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—May I through your columns offer to the veterans who rang the peal of Stedman at Hart Street recently the hearty congratulations and sincere admiration of the younger generation.

It was a truly great performance, and may the ringers live to break their own record. Old 'youths,' we youngsters raise our hats to you.

'TWENTY-ONE.'

ALDENHAM SURPRISE MAJOR.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—The above method was composed or arranged many years ago by the late Arthur Craven, principally as an illustration of splicing more than one method into one lead. The first eight changes are Yorkshire, the next four are Ipswich and the next four are Pudsey, making the half-lead; the second half-lead being the reverse, viz., Pudsey, Ipswich and Yorkshire. It was also recently published in 'The Ringing World' as an improved variation of Cambridge extended to ten and twelve.

E. JENKINS.

THE COMPOSITION.

Dear Sir,—I have been informed that the composition rung to Aldenham Surprise, and published in your last issue, was produced by Mr. Arthur Craven in 1899 as a peal of Yorkshire Surprise. I was not aware of this or I should not, of course, have claimed it as my own composition.

H. G. CASHMORE.

INTERESTING CLOCK CONTRACTS.

ROMSEY ABBEY'S TRADITIONAL CHIMES.

A large new clock is in course of construction at Messrs. John Smith and Sons, Clock Works, Derby, for Romsey Abbey, Hants. It will chime the 'ding-dong' quarters on two bells of the ring of eight in the Abbey tower, and so maintain the traditional chimes which have been in vogue there for many years. The dial—10ft. in diameter—comprises a massive cast iron frame with a copper sheeting background, and has been designed specially to be in keeping with the unusual tower.

Amongst other contracts in hand at the Midland Clock Works are the addition of Westminster Chimes at Fenton Parish Church, Staffs, and Charing, Kent, the latter forming a memorial to the late Mrs. Elizabeth Campbell, donor of the first portion of the clock in 1910; a new chiming clock for St. John's (R.C.) Church, Banbury, etc., while extensive repairs are being carried out at Greenlaw, Berwick, St. Peter's, St. John's and St. Mark's, Tunbridge Wells; Hathern, Leicestershire, and many other places.

A NEW BISHOP.

The Ven Archdeacon Ridsdale, of Gloucester, for some time Vicar of High Wycombe, was consecrated Bishop of Colchester in St. Paul's Cathedral on All Saints' Day, November 1st. In honour of his elevation, members of All Saints' Society, High Wycombe, met on the evening of the same day and rang 1,299 Stedman Caters on the bells of the Parish Church: H. Hayes (conductor) 1, J. W. Wilkins 2, R. Coles 3, E. Markham 4, F. D. Boreham 5, G. F. Hinton 6, E. R. Coles 7, G. White 8, C. A. Smith 9, W. H. Plumridge 10.

ARCHDEACONRY OF STAFFORD SOCIETY'S JUBILEE.

CELEBRATION AT WOLVERHAMPTON.

A company of a hundred and fifty ringers and friends gathered in Wolverhampton on Saturday to celebrate the jubilee of the Society of Change Ringers for the Archdeaconry of Stafford. This Archdeaconry forms part of the Diocese of Lichfield, and it was in the Cathedral city—in fact, in the Cathedral belfry itself—that the first meeting was held on June 2nd, 1883, to form the society. It followed closely on the formation of the Society for the Archdeaconry of Stoke. The remainder of the diocese is a large portion of the county of Shropshire. The Society for the Archdeaconry of Stafford has had a very successful career, and throughout its existence valuable work for the promotion of change ringing has been done.

The Lord Bishop of Lichfield, who is patron of the society, evinced great interest in the jubilee, and presided over the chief event of Saturday's commemoration—the traditional dinner by which Englishmen celebrate any event of importance. Early in the afternoon ringing took place at the Collegiate Church of St. Peter, Wolverhampton, and other churches in the district, including St. Luke's, Blakenhall, Penn and Tottenhall.

The dinner was served at the Victoria Hotel, Wolverhampton, and the Bishop was supported by the Rector of Wolverhampton, the Vicar of Willenhall (the Rev. W. Harrison), the Vicar of Tottenhall (the Rev. W. Goode), the Rev. C. H. Barker (hon. clerical secretary and treasurer of the society), Mr. Herbert Knight (lay secretary), Mr. Harry Mason (Hagley), Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Johnston (Croydon), Mr. and Mrs. A. Walker (Birmingham), Mr. and Mrs. F. Perrens (Coventry), Mr. T. H. Reeves (hon. secretary, St. Martin's Guild, Birmingham), Mr. J. Jaggar (Oldbury), Mr. Bert Horton (Ringing Master of the society), Messrs. C. H. Clapham and W. Pinson (churchwardens of St. Peter's), and Mr. J. S. Goldsmith (Woking). Among the visitors also were Mr. G. Dent (Harlow), Mr. W. H. Shaker (hon. secretary of the Lancashire Association) and Mrs. Shaker, the Rev. J. Doggar and the Rev. J. B. Lance (curates at St. Peter's), Mr. and Mrs. F. Pervin (Coventry), Mr. H. F. Martin (Ringing Master, Northern Branch, Worcestershire Association), Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Ingram, Mr. and Mrs. J. Preston, Miss O. Sanders, Messrs. G. F. Swann, H. H. Fearn, G. Fearn, M. J. Morris, J. W. Pemberton, F. W. Rishworth (Birmingham), J. J. Taylor (Northampton) and representatives of most of the towers in the Archdeaconry. Mr. J. George also joined the party late in the evening.

GOOD WISHES FROM DEVON.

At the conclusion of the repast, the loyal toast was honoured, and Mr. Knight then read letters of apology from the Archdeacon of Stafford (Ven. Hugh Bright), the Mayor of Wolverhampton (Sir Charles A. Mander), Mr. Ben Gough, Mr. B. Fullwood and the Rev. E. V. Cox (president of the Devon Guild). The last named, who was clerical secretary of the Society for the Archdeaconry of Stafford from 1909 to 1915, wrote: 'I see in "The Ringing World" that the society is celebrating its jubilee to-morrow. Had the dinner not been on Saturday I should have tried to be present for old time's sake. Will you kindly apologise for my absence and convey my congratulations on this auspicious occasion. I have the happiest memories of my time with the society, and my revolving chair and barometer are in daily use and a real boon. By the way, the barometer has behaved itself splendidly this summer; I suppose it is not wholly ignorant of its society's jubilee year. We began change ringing here (Bramford, Devon) two years ago, and now can ring Grandsire and Bob Doubles, and, with a little help, Bob Minor. We have just got some additional recruits, aged 13, 13, 12 and 11, and our 5½ cwt. tenor lends itself to this capiti. With hearty personal congratulations to yourself on your splendid service to the society—long may it go on' (applause).

Mr. Harry Mason proposed the toast of 'Church and State' in felicitous terms. In both Church and State, he said, they were faced with momentous matters which sometimes gave them great anxiety. They often heard of the crisis in the Church. At all times the Church had been passing through crises, but he felt that as these were overcome it sharpened them up for the future. He believed things would right themselves, and he hoped in the future there would be peace and concord between Church and State and the nations universally. Mr. Mason added that he was very pleased, as one mixed up with that society for many years—he rang in a number of the society's first performances—to join them on such an important occasion. Ringers had done a tremendous lot in the last 50 years to improve their position in the Church, and the change was largely due to the societies, with the help of the clergy. In these times of change and chaos, ringers were trying to tread the path of duty towards Church and State. He commended to them the motto that they should live in love and charity with their neighbours, and that the Church and State should in future be more united than they were to-day should be their earnest prayer (applause).

BELLRINGERS NOW 'A BETTER LOT.'

The Bishop, in reply, said it was a great honour to be the guest of the society on that auspicious occasion. He had known a good bit about bellringers for more than 50 years, and the more he knew about them the more he honoured them, especially as he thought they were a better lot now than they used to be (laughter and applause). His Lordship spoke of some of his experiences of bells, remarking that his first recollection of them was about 64 years ago, when he was five years old and used to visit his grandfather's parish of Wedmore, which possessed one of those glorious Somerset towers with a peal of six bells. His grandmother used to tell him the bells said, 'Why don't you come to church?' 'I did go,' added the Bishop, 'and my grandfather used to preach very long sermons, I remember' (laughter). In the first parishes in which he served after he was ordained the churches had only one bell. In one of these, where he was Vicar, the clapper of the bell fell out, and it was kept upon his study mantelpiece as an ornament. One summer he set off with his wife for a walking holiday in the Lake District, and he carried their luggage in a knapsack. On the first day they climbed a pass, and he found the knapsack was extremely heavy, although his wife assured him she had only packed what was really essential. At the top of the pass the clapper of the church bell fell out of the knapsack (laughter)—one of the curates had surreptitiously put it there as they were leaving home (laughter). His first church at which there was a ring of bells was St. Mary's, Gateshead, and it was there that he learned to know what a good peal of bells was. From there he went to Liverpool, where there were two churches with fine peals of bells and at St. Nicholas' a good band of ringers. From there he went into Yorkshire, where again he found a good peal of bells and good ringers in the parish, and from there to Lichfield. They all knew what Lichfield bells were like, and it was a joy to him to know they had so many good peals in the diocese.

Continuing, the Bishop said he could look back over 50 years and could remember the condition of affairs in the State in 1883. It was perfectly true that Europe was now in a more troubled condition and that this country was weighed down with a burden of unemployment—which, thank God, was growing steadily less—but even allowing for that, the condition of the country, especially the condition of the poorer people, was incomparably better than 50 years ago. They had only to see the way the children were clad to know that. He did not say that things were as good as they should be, but in many respects they were better than they were 50 years ago.

NO CRISIS IN THE CHURCH.

Proceeding, the Bishop said he was rather tired of hearing about the crises in the Church. If any doctor's patient had been through such long and continued crises as the Church was said to have done, he would surely have come to an end, but the Church had not come to an end. He was not at all pessimistic about it. There was no room for self-complacency; they must not be content with themselves; they had got to do lots of things they were not doing now, but they were better than they were 50 years ago. They often heard of the falling off in church attendance, and of empty churches, and one heard a lot of nonsense about it (hear, hear). He had 470 churches in his diocese. In the course of his visits he did not see any empty churches. They might say, 'No, that is because the Bishop was there.' Possibly, but a great friend of his who had

REV. C. H. BARKER,
17 Years Clerical Secretary.

MR. HERBERT KNIGHT,

known Wolverhampton for the last 40 years told him not long ago that although nobody would say all the churches in Wolverhampton were as well attended as they should be, he was certain the Church attendance was better than it was 40 years ago. Again, with regard to disputes and controversies, the newspapers only printed what was 'good copy.' He did not blame them for that. The ordinary affairs and commonplaces of life would have no interest for the public, and it was very misleading to judge the state of affairs by what they saw in the daily Press. Let them not, therefore, be misled about crises in the Church. He did not think there was any crisis in the Church, but let them not be content with things as they were, because a lot of progress could be made.

With regard to the particular aspect of church life in which they were specially interested, 50 years ago there were some uncommonly good teams of bellringers, but not nearly so many as to-day, and he did not think they were as efficient as they now were. The art of bellringing had made great progress in the last 50 years, and the number of good bellringers had enormously increased, and, generally speaking, wherever they had got a good peal of bells they also had a good band of ringers. Change ringing, added the Bishop, was not only largely a matter of mathematics, which, not being a mathematician, he could not appreciate; but it was also good music, and that he could understand and enjoy; for example, the music of Lichfield Cathedral bells. They who were bellringers were not only mathematicians, but, he was sure, good musicians as well. He thanked them for the work they did and wished them prosperity in that service to the Church which they so loyally and efficiently performed (applause).

POINTS FROM THE SOCIETY'S HISTORY.

The Rev. C. H. Barker proposed 'Continued prosperity to the Society for the Archdeaconry of Stafford.' This toast, he said, ought to have been proposed by Mr. Knight, who had been a member for 39 years, and, as they all knew, for 25 years had been one of its mainstays as secretary; but with his usual modesty he refused to have his name on the programme. The society was very proud of the fact that they had only had two lay secretaries in 48 years. Mr. Knight had held the position for the last 25 years, and he was preceded by Mr. Samuel Reeves, who was secretary for 23 years. It was remarkable that their predecessor should still be alive. They had hoped to see him present, but, unfortunately, he was unable to be with them. The present Mayor of Lichfield was actually the first secretary of the society for two years.

Proceeding, the speaker said those who read 'The Ringing World' were reminded in that week's number of the tremendous health-giving properties of bellringing. A band of veterans had rung a peal, their average age being 76½ years, and some of them were actually over 80. As the Editor had pointed out, it said a tremendous lot for their stamina and their power of concentration to stand for three hours and ring that peal. He suggested to any non-ringers who might be present that if they wished to have a long life they should take up change ringing (hear, hear).

Continuing, Mr. Barker quoted interesting details from some of the earlier reports of the association. In the report of the annual meeting for 1887 at Lichfield the address was given by the Rev. A. P. W. Ingram, Bishop's chaplain. The Rev. A. F. W. Ingram was the present Bishop of London. In 1889-90 Mr. S. Reeves attended the newly-formed Central Council of Church Bellringers as the representative of the society. In 1894 the secretaries and committee in their report talked about the attendance at the quarterly meetings of the society, remarking that sometimes the attendance was very small and members were earnestly requested to make an effort to attend at least one quarterly meeting a year. He thought that was a splendid suggestion which he might repeat on that occasion. They did not complain of the attendance at the meetings, but there was a very large number of members of the society who scarcely ever attended a quarterly meeting. Some turned up once a year at the annual meeting. He thought it would be a very good thing if captains of the various hands would suggest that every tower should send one representative at least to the quarterly meetings, which were held to encourage each other and to meet socially. In 1896 for the first time they had a report of the peals rung for the society. This record covered the first 13 years. During that time the towers at which most peal ringing was done were St. Martin's, Tipton, and Christ Church, West Bromwich, each with 25 peals; All Saints', West Bromwich, 23, and Wolverhampton 19. Looking through the list of present members he found that there were 87 who had been members for 30 years or more, 54 for 35 years or more, 31 for 40 years or more, and 12 who joined before 1890. Tamworth had five who had been members for over 40 years, viz., 43, 44, 45, 46 and 47 years, the oldest of them being Mr. J. Timms, whose name, he thought, had been on the books longer than any other member (applause). Lastly, he had been looking through the number of peals scored for the society. Mr. H. Knight, their secretary, came first with 396, and then followed C. Wallater 267, W. Fisher 266, R. Pickering 212, T. J. Ellison 193 and J. Perry 191.

The toast was enthusiastically honoured.

'IN TERROR OF THE DEAN.'

As the Bishop had to leave early, the toast to the health of the chairman was advanced in the programme, and was proposed by Mr.

J. Jaggar, who welcomed the Bishop, who was their patron. Many great and learned men had held the See of Lichfield, but the present occupant was as great as any of his predecessors. They had a lovely peal of bells at Lichfield Cathedral, continued Mr. Jaggar, and they owed a debt of gratitude to Bishop Hackett, who put them there in the 17th century when he completed the restoration of the building after some silly people had knocked it about (laughter). He suggested it would be a good thing if the Bishop could get the use of the bells for a peal (hear, hear, and laughter). He, perhaps, could get round the Dean where others failed (laughter).

The Bishop, in a humorous reply, said modestly led him to doubt whether he was such a good man as Mr. Jaggar had made him out to be, whether, for instance, he could claim to be so good a man as St. Chad, who had occupied the See. He was proud to recall that Bishop Hackett was a member of the same college that he (the speaker) afterwards attended—Trinity College, Cambridge. With regard to the bells of Lichfield Cathedral, the Bishop had no authority whatever in his own Cathedral; he was entirely in the hands of the Dean and Chapter. He was as much in terror of the Dean and Chapter as Mr. Jaggar or anyone else (laughter). He had received many honours, concluded the Bishop, but he should always count it a great honour to have been allowed to be chairman on that jubilee occasion. He wished the society all possible prosperity in the great work to which they had set their hands (applause).

In proposing 'The Visitors,' Mr. P. W. Perrens said no organisation in the land welcomed its visitors more heartily than ringers, and the Society for the Archdeaconry of Stafford extended to their visitors that evening a wholehearted, one hundred per cent. welcome (applause). They were grateful to the visitors for coming to join in that jubilee celebration. Such gatherings as those gave them the opportunity of further cementing old friendships, and, what was, perhaps, still more important, making new ones. They were very pleased to see with them the various clergy and the representatives of a number of ringing societies, and he hoped they had thoroughly enjoyed their evening with the Society for the Archdeaconry of Stafford.

COMFORT FOR THE SUPERSTITIOUS.

Mr. Albert Walker, whose name was coupled with the toast, referred to the close association which had existed between his own society, St. Martin's Guild, and the Society for the Archdeaconry of Stafford. As long ago as 1881 a Staffordshire man, William Halls-worth, of Walsall, conducted the long peal of Stedman Cinques at St. Martin's, Birmingham, in which Henry Johnson himself took part. Samuel Reeves, for 23 years secretary of the Stafford Society, was a prominent member of St. Martin's Guild, and others who were active members of the two societies were William Rock Small and William Godden, while Mr. J. E. Groves, who was the first ringing master of the Stafford Archdeaconry, succeeded him (Mr. Walker) for a time as Ringing Master of St. Martin's Guild.

Proceeding, Mr. Walker referred to a recent incident, reported in 'The Ringing World,' in which the clapper of a handbell, when ringing was taking place at the graveside, fell into the grave. It seemed, he said, as if some people might look upon this as an ill-omen. When Mr. Samuel Reeves was buried a course of Grandfire Caters was being rung at the graveside when a similar thing happened. It would be a matter of comfort to the superstitious to know that the gentleman who was ringing the bell was still alive and in that room that night, looking jolly and healthy (hear, hear). He congratulated Mr. Knight upon the success of the jubilee dinner. He had added a great deal to the fortunes of the society for many years, and he would like to thank him for his courtesy and the Rector of Wolverhampton for the privilege which was given to St. Martin's Guild from time to time to visit St. Peter's for peals. He congratulated the society on its progress. It had certainly got some promising ringers, and he thought they could look forward to a future of continued prosperity (applause).

Mr. B. Horton proposed the toast of 'The Ringing World,' which, he said, had done much to develop that wonderful spirit of comradeship which prevailed throughout the length and breadth of the land. The Editor was constantly reminding them of the importance of good striking and consistently reminded them of their duty as churchmen. One would think there would not be a ringer who was not a reader of the paper, but unfortunately it was so, and if there were any friends there that night who were not readers, he urged them to become so and so join that very interesting circle (hear, hear). The Exercise was fortunate in having a gentleman of the calibre of Mr. Goldsmith to edit the paper. He had done eminent service to the Exercise, and he hoped he would long be spared to carry on the work (applause). One hardly dared to think, he said, what the position of ringing would be without the assistance of the Press. It aired their views and their grievances, often corrected their mistakes and he hoped 'The Ringing World' would go on from strength to strength, its circulation increase so that eventually it could reach that desired aim—a bigger and a better paper. Mr. Horton also spoke a word in appreciation of the local Press, the local evening paper, with a large circulation, being very kindly disposed towards ringers and ringing generally. He thanked the representative who was present for the facilities they gave them—a thing that was often lacking in many places.

A POLICEMEN'S PEAL.

DETECTIVE PICK-POCKET SAVES SITUATION.

Recorded in the proper place will be found a peal of Stedman Caters rung by members of the National Guild of Police Ringers at Loughborough. The band was representative of Manchester, Liverpool, Bolton, London, High Wycombe and Leicester. We think, Mr. Editor, when you reach the conclusion of this narrative, you will perhaps agree that it is a peal worthy of more than the usual passing recognition.

Striking into changes at 2.23 p.m., the band settled down at once to good ringing, which seemed a sure guarantee of success. Consternation reigned, however, when the light suddenly went out after half an hour's ringing. The 'boss of the show,' the worthy secretary, said, 'Carry on,' whilst we were wondering whether someone had played a trick upon us, or if it was a temporary failure which would be rectified. On we went with good ringing until the belfry darkened and we looked like phantom ringers, whose shirts showed an outline of human form.

Hope was rapidly fading with the light, when the 'Boss' appeared to be adopting the role of a contortionist, ringing with one hand and apparently bent on a little pocket picking in the dark with the other from the clothes hanging behind him. It was now difficult to see what he was up to, but just as we were expecting the command to 'Stand,' a faint glimmer of light, which was found to be produced by a pocket flash lamp, came into view. There is a sudden lurch forward and the lamp is deposited on the table in the centre, with its fitful rays directed to the ceiling. We could see what was happening in a dim sort of way.

Thus we carried on with over an hour to go. Surely the listeners outside would see that we were in the dark and would put us in order again! But no, on we go, eerie shadows flitting round the walls as the ropes rise and fall and ghostly figures, concentrated on overcoming the difficulty, ring almost perfectly until, at last, we hear the welcome call, 'This is all,' with the battery of our saviour fading into dimness that would have meant the end in a short time. The band take off their hats in recognition of the resource and ability shown by their conductor, who saved the situation and brought to a successful conclusion a peal which all thought irrevocably lost, and which will be, to those taking part, a lasting memory in their ringing careers.

Others of the party, helped by locals, made a start for a peal at the Bell Foundry, but, although not in the dark, were beaten by the tricky light ring.

After tea at Loughborough, a return was made to Leicester, where the visitors were shown over the new police headquarters, and then spent an enjoyable evening at 'a place within the meaning.'

Sincere regret was felt that Supt. F. R. Williams, the Guild president, of Manchester City Police, was prevented from making the journey at the last moment. His presence was much missed.

Worthy of special note is the ringing of a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples on the handbells between Sheffield and Nottingham, in the train, by the following: P.C. W. Pye 1-2, P.C. D. Brown 3-4, P.C. F. Page 5-6, P.C. T. R. Butler 7-8. H. G. J.

QUAINT BELL INSCRIPTIONS.

In responding to the toast, Mr. J. S. Goldsmith spoke of the advantage to be derived from obtaining the sympathy of the local Press, and said that a good deal more could be done in this direction by ringers. He congratulated the society upon attaining their jubilee and said that probably the next most interesting thing to be present at the birth of a new society was to be present at its jubilee, and he had had the privilege of attending no less than twelve such celebrations in different parts of the country.

After the Bishop left the gathering, the chair was taken by the Rector of Wolverhampton, who took the opportunity of proposing the health of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Johnston, whom he welcomed to Wolverhampton. He referred to the excellent work which Mr. Johnston did when he installed the bells at St. Peter's Church, Wolverhampton.

Mr. Johnston, in reply, amused the company by his comments on some of the inscriptions on St. Peter's bells. The seventh said, 'God prosper Woolverhampton. Long May Wee Ring, 1698.' The second was, 'E.S. I.P. Churchwardens Bachelors.' The eighth said:—

'The Clapper hung to long in mee,

My founders loss, pray think of hee.'

The fourth was, 'God save the Church of England and the founder. 98.' Speaking, he said, in the centre of the motor-car industry, he ought to say they supplied the bells with a new chassis; the bore and stroke were increased, and he had it on good authority that on the evening of the opening celebration the lubrication was not entirely applied to the bells (laughter).

There was an exceedingly enjoyable musical programme, sustained by Miss Doris Griffin (Walsall), Messrs. A. Dickinson, A. Williams and H. Carrington Bailey. Miss Bessie Field, L.R.A.M., was at the piano. A perfect course of Stedman Caters was rung on handbells by Messrs. G. F. Swann, F. Perrens, A. Walker, F. Pervin and M. J. Morris.

A delightful evening concluded with 'Auld Lang Syne.

IRISH ASSOCIATION'S PRESIDENT DEAD.

PASSING OF MR. RICHARD LYNCH.

It is with deep regret that we record the death of Mr. Richard Lynch, president of the Irish Association and Master of Christ Church Cathedral Society.

'Dick,' as he was familiarly known, had been in failing health for the past two or three years, but none expected him to be called away so early. He passed away on October 7th after only a few days in hospital.

The interment took place in Mount Jerome Cemetery, after service in St. Kevin's Church, conducted by the Dean of Christ Church Cathedral, assisted by the Rev. W. W. Dungan and the Rev. Jordan. Amongst those present were his widow, Mr. W. E. Lynch and Mr. F. Lynch (sons), Mrs. Smith and Miss A. Lynch (daughters), Mr. and Mrs. Kyle (son-in-law and daughter), Mr. D. Gibson and Mr. G. Lindoff (hon. treasurer and hon. secretary, Irish Association).

Mr. A. L. Murray, B.A., represented St. Patrick's Society. All the members of Christ Church Cathedral Society were present, together with Mr. J. Hutchinson, P.C. (St. George's Society), Mr. J. B. Tough (Christ Church, Bray) and numerous friends.

Wreaths were sent by the Irish Association, Christ Church Cathedral Society, St. Patrick's Cathedral Society and many friends, including the Dean, clerical Vicars and staff of Christ Church Cathedral.

Mr. Lynch had been one of the stalwarts of the Irish Association, joining it at the start and loyally supporting it ever since. He first learned to pull a bell in St. Eunice's Cathedral, Kilkenny. Migrating to Dublin 44 years ago, he joined Christ Church Cathedral Society, then the home of call changes. He was mainly responsible for his own tower, of which he had been Ringing Master for the past 17 years, embracing change ringing. Unfortunately, he did not live long enough to see them ring their first peal, although he had stood in an attempt that failed just over half-way. Shortly after that he did not feel well enough to make another start just then, so the attempt was put off till he would be able to join in.

Mr. Lynch was also a member of St. Patrick's Cathedral Society, and with them learned change ringing. In all he had rung 17 peals, comprising Plain Bob, Grandsire, Treble Bob and Stedman. He was elected president of the Irish Association at the last annual meeting at Kilkenny, where he had first learned to pull a bell. He will be well remembered by visiting bands, to whom he always gave a hearty welcome.

The St. Patrick's Society met on Friday, October 13th, and rang 1,260 Stedman Triples muffled on the minor eight in 48 minutes: R. George 1, T. McMorran 2, R. Tait 3, G. Lindoff 4, E. George 5, J. A. Atkinson 6, A. L. Murray, B.A. (conductor) 7, W. Farrell 8. The bells of Christ Church Cathedral were rung muffled on Sunday, October 8th, for both services. A peal was attempted by the Christ Church Society, but failed after a quarter had been rung.

DEATH OF THE REV. G. H. ENSER.

PRIEST WHO INSTALLED CLAPHAM PARK BELLS.

The death occurred on October 3rd of the Rev. George Herbert Enser, who from 1905 to 1924 was Vicar of St. Stephen's, Clapham Park, London, and afterwards Vicar of Leyland, Lancs. While he was at Clapham Park Mr. Enser raised the funds for the installation of a ring of eight bells, and by his enthusiasm and example also raised a local band of ringers, of which Mr. Herbert Langdon was instructor.

The service ringers, who began here, overflowed, afterwards, writes our correspondent, to other churches—St. Leonard's, Streatham; St. Margaret's, Westminster; St. Clement Danes and elsewhere. There was a homely circle at St. Stephen's, and the Vicar drilled up everyone to be a churchworker by a method of his own—personality. He was severe on the girls if they went elsewhere to ring or came a quarter of an hour late.

It was a red letter day for the Vicar when, at his beloved church, he covered a peal of Grandsire Triples with what our correspondent describes as a correct hand in front of him, and adds: 'Herbert Enser, thanks to his devoted Bert, gave delight to many for service ringing, as distinct from peal ringing. Though dead, his works still follow him.'

Before the College Youths' practice at St. Magnus' Church, London, on All Souls' Day, November 2nd, the 'whole pull and stand' was rung in memory of George Herbert Enser, priest (at rest October 3rd), Frederick George Newman (at rest September 25th) and Henry Gordon Fairbairn, of Canterbury (interred October 31st). Before the ringing, 'De profundis' was recited with appropriate antiphons at the beginning and end. Mr. Newman's two sisters, who had so devotedly attended their brother in his declining days, were present. The bells, we are told, were rung 'with the Langdon touch, or, as it was put by the Rev. Francis, of Waltham Abbey, 50 years ago, "the ringers handled their bells as if they loved them like the angler loved his rod."'

BISHOP'S STORTFORD, HERTS.—At the Parish Church of St. Michael for evening service on Sunday, November 5th, a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples: F. Springham 1, W. Prior 2, W. T. Prior 3, T. Jordan 4, R. Hayden 5, H. Bull 6, F. Bird (conductor) 7, W. W. Tucker 8.

THE DEATH OF MR. J. WAGHORN, SEN.

A RINGER FOR 74 YEARS.

We regret to record the death, which took place on Tuesday morning after only a few days' illness, of Mr. Joseph Waghorn, sen., the veteran London ringer.

Mr. Waghorn had reached the advanced age of more than 90 years, and since he was 16 years old had been actively interested in bell-ringing.

Among the interesting events for which he had rung in the course of his long life was the death of the Prince Consort in 1860, and he was also one of the ringers at Westminster Abbey on many occasions connected with royal celebrations and historic events.

His record as an Oddfellow was almost as long as that of his bell-ringing, for he was initiated into the 'Tower of London' Lodge in July, 1864.

The funeral will take place at the City of London Crematorium, Ilford, on Saturday at noon.

SOUTHAMPTON CLOCK AND BELLS.

CROYDON PRODUCT INSTALLED IN NEW CIVIC CENTRE.

Southampton is engaged in carrying out a great scheme for the building of a civic centre. The first block consisted of the Municipal Offices, which were opened some time ago by the Duke and Duchess of York. The second block is the Law Courts, which have just been completed, and were opened on Friday by the Lord Chancellor (Viscount Sankey). The Assembly Hall is the third section of the scheme, and the last the Town Hall, which will be an outstanding feature of the edifice.

With the opening of the Law Courts, the bells and clock installed in the tower by Messrs. Gillett and Johnston, of Croydon, came into commission. The bells chimed the hour of noon and played the tune 'St. Anne,' associated with the hymn, 'O God, our help in ages past.'

The bellfounders were represented at the ceremony by Mr. C. F. Johnston.

The clock has four dials, each 11ft. in diameter, illuminated at night from inside the tower.

The electric lamps placed behind the dials are switched on and off by the operation of a light cell in place of the more usual spring-wound time switch. The light cell placed on the north-east corner of the tower is so sensitive that, should a heavy fog occur, the current for lighting up the dials will be automatically switched on, while with this arrangement lighting up of the dials is ensured each night, not at a predetermined time, but in accordance with the actual time of darkness.

The driving mechanism is of the type standardised by the makers for all their largest tower clocks, consisting of an independent master clock to ensure the most perfect time-keeping, and an independent and powerful motor-wound driving gear released by the master clock every half-minute.

The bells, nine in number and harmonically tuned, are of the following notes and weights:—

- 1.—D sharp, 4 cwt. 2 qr.
- 2.—D, 5 cwt.
- 3.—C sharp, 5 cwt. 3 qr.
- 4.—C, 6 cwt. 2 qr.
- 5.—A sharp, 8 cwt. 1 qr.
- 6.—G sharp, 12 cwt.
- 7.—G, 14 cwt. 1 qr.
- 8.—F, 20 cwt.
- 9.—A sharp, 68 cwt.

The largest bell is used for the hours, and the true Westminster quarters are chimed on four of the smaller bells, and at predetermined times during the day the hymn tune, 'O God, our help in ages past,' is played.

The bells are hung in a steel frame, and provision has been made so that the number can, if required, be increased to cover a full carillon in the future.

The operating mechanism for the chiming and striking and tune-playing is of the direct motor-driven type, the motors being started by the timepiece portion of the clock at the correct moment, and stopped by automatic switch gear incorporated in the mechanism.

The whole of the clockwork and mechanism is self-contained in a single chamber at the dial level, no weights falling below this level; it is electrically operated throughout, and forms a very interesting example of a modern tower clock installation.

The complete installation of bells and clock mechanism was manufactured and supplied by Gillett and Johnston, of Croydon.

A circular stairway of 215 steps, with intercepting platforms, has been built to enable ascent of the tower.

BASINGSTOKE.—At All Saints' Church on September 27th for dedication festival, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples: P. Butler (first quarter-peal) 1, J. Munday 2, E. Austin 3, H. Balaam 4, G. Cooper (first quarter-peal) 5, H. Wooding 6, J. Chesterman (conductor) 7, P. Maslin (first quarter-peal) 8.—At St. Michael's Church, a quarter-peal: P. Maslin (first quarter-peal on a working bell) 1, P. Munday 2, H. Balaam 3, F. Wilson 4, J. Munday (first quarter-peal as conductor) 5, A. Burgess 6, J. Ballard 7, J. Woodley 8. Rung on the occasion of the Bishop of Winchester's visit. Mr. A. Burgess is 82 years of age.

RINGING TOURS.

THE WESTMORLAND AND CUMBERLAND TRIP.

To the Editor

Sir,—May I again crave the favour of your space and the indulgence of your readers to make reply to the letter which appeared under the name of Mr. Hogarth with regard to the above?

This appears to be such a fantasy of inconsistency and contradiction that I have had some difficulty in arriving at the conclusion that it is in actuality a personal attack upon myself, inasmuch as, apart from my letter in your issue of September 8th, Mr. Hogarth was fully aware that I had made the necessary arrangements for the tour. In his letter Mr. Hogarth most condescendingly exonerates my colleagues from blame, and leaves me the villain of the piece, a fact for which I am certain my colleagues will be for ever grateful. To have associated with a 'tower grabbing' leader and a peal ringer gone mad, and yet retain a measure of praise and escape the condemnation of Mr. Hogarth, is something which all my distinguished colleagues will ever remember.

Apropos the question of Sunday peals, I do not propose to add further to my letter of September 8th other than to emphasise that the Vicar of the parish and his wardens had a much better idea of the local position and attitude than Mr. Hogarth is ever likely to attain. In addition, I think the position fairly and admirably dealt with in your leading article this week, and also in the letter from Mr. R. A. Daniell, which appeared in the issue of September 15th, for which I, for one, am much obliged.

Arrangements for the ringing at Crosthwaite Church, Keswick, were made by me through the medium of Mr. Hogarth, the local Ringing Master, and he helped us to attain our object very willingly. From letters in my possession prior to the tour, and from our conversation in Keswick with Mr. Hogarth, he at no time showed himself antagonistic to the spirit of the tour, or to peal ringing generally, and surely that was the time to have done so. In fairness, however, to Mr. Hogarth, in a letter to me towards the end of August he definitely condemns peal ringing, and said our visit had caused a lot of local resentment in Cumberland. Without the permission of Mr. Hogarth, I cannot, of course, quote verbatim from his letters to me, but I can assure your readers that his attitude would require some defending. In fairness to the places we visited, I wish to state that we at no time met with resentment, we at all times had a typical Cumbrian welcome, and at every tower we visited we were met with every kindness and courtesy, and the week was made enjoyable in every respect. After the tour I had several letters of appreciation from ringing friends in Cumberland expressing thanks for the advice, etc., which individually and collectively the touring party had been able to give.

And now, reverting to Mr. Hogarth's letter, it would perhaps be better to take his points seriatim. Apropos paragraphs 1 and 2, this seems to me a puerile attempt at cheap wit, sarcasm, or what you will, in the form of a personal attack upon myself. Who, in the world of campanology, reading this effusion, would imagine the author claiming to be a member of the ringing fraternity, with its best interests at heart? I am content to leave your readers to judge.

Paragraph 3 on Sunday peals has already been dealt with. May I say, however, that though possibly all my actions may not meet with the approval of a rigid Sabbatarian, such as one must assume Mr. Hogarth to be, yet even I have certain clearly defined views on Sunday observance, such as, for instance, the question of trading for profit on Sundays.

Coming to paragraphs 4 and 5, I can only state that the remarks of Mr. Hogarth are wrong in fact and in foundation, and at best can only have been acquired at second hand, for he was not present at the church to meet us, that being delegated to a youth of whose help we should have been glad, owing to our colleague, Mr. James George, not being available that day for ringing. It may interest Mr. Hogarth to know that the programme of peals was decided, more or less, as regards the methods, before the tour started, and I can only state that his remarks are in the nature of a 'terminological inexactitude.'

With regard to his concluding paragraph, properly approached this has much to commend it, but I am left wondering, in view of my local knowledge, whether Mr. Hogarth is sincere or merely being subtle?

I should, however, be prepared to visit Keswick at any time to call a peal, or give any advice or instruction I could on various methods, if Mr. Hogarth will get together a band. I should also like to state that I have never at any time refused to ring with anyone, be he a beginner or an expert, but, after all, perfection in the Exercise is the ultimate aim. Without in any way desiring to blow my own trumpet, I should like to state that I was mainly responsible for the formation of the Lancaster Branch of the Lancashire Association, and that during the past five winters I have sacrificed two evenings a week visiting places within a 20 miles radius of Kendal to instruct and teach newly-formed bands of ringers to enable service ringing to be done, another instance, in Mr. Hogarth's view probably, of further 'tower grabbing and peal ringing gone mad.' In conclusion, I might add that I have called peals at Crosthwaite Church with local members taking part, and which are not recorded and are already forgotten.

I maintain that even on the basis which our tour embraced, local ringers could have learned a lot. No member of the party at any

A SUCCESSFUL COMBINATION.GUILDFORD GUILD AND LADIES' GUILD JOIN AT ALDERSHOT.

Success crowned the joint meeting of the Farnham District of the Guildford Diocesan Guild and the Southern District of the Ladies' Guild, which was held at Aldershot last Saturday. From 2.30 until 4.30 the merry little peal of eight was rung to standard methods, and good striking was the order of the day. The church service, which was of a very impressive character, was conducted by the Vicar of Aldershot, Canon Hugh Le Fleming, R.D., assisted by the Rev. G. Hamilton Douglas. A choir, consisting of 18 boys and six men, led the singing, and Mr. George Goodwin, F.R.C.O., was at the organ. Canon Le Fleming gave a short but instructive address, which was much appreciated by the congregation.

Tea in the Parish Hall was a jolly affair. Plenty and varied were the victuals provided, and a company of 66 sat down and enjoyed the spread. A programme of light music was played by a gramophone. Among those sitting down to tea were the Vicar, the Rev. Hamilton Douglas and Mr. W. A. Dollimore, a churchwarden. These three gentlemen having to leave immediately after tea, Mr. F. Nye, of Bagshot, in a few well-chosen words, welcomed them among the ringers and thanked them for their interest in that part of the church work. He also thanked all who had made arrangements and done the necessary work connected with the meeting.—Mr. Dollimore briefly replied.

Mr. C. Hazelden, of Guildford, was voted to the chair for the Farnham District business meeting, at which three members were elected, viz., Mr. W. A. Dollimore, hon. member, and the Misses Rose and May Dickinson, ringing members, all of Aldershot.

The nomination of district officers for 1934 resulted in the retiring officers being renominated. These were Mr. R. Hasted, Ringing Master; Mr. C. W. Denyer, hon. secretary; Mr. P. L. Eldridge, hon. auditor; Mr. L. A. N. Muddell, representative of the honorary members; and Messrs. F. Nye and T. Upshall, ringing representatives on the Executive Committee.—The Chairman moved that a special vote of thanks be passed to the Aldershot ringers for the splendid arrangements and beautiful service. It was, he said, one of the finest meetings he had ever attended.

Mr. S. Roper, of Croydon, seconded, and the vote was carried unanimously.

The Ladies' Guild then held their business meeting and the gentlemen returned to the tower.

Ringling was continued until 9 o'clock and good practice was put in, the methods rung ranging from Grandsire Doubles to Cambridge Surprise Major. The towers represented during the afternoon and evening were Aldershot, Ash, Alton, Overton, Farnborough, Seale, Croydon, Guildford (Cathedral and St. Nicolas), Farnham, Ottershaw, Worplesdon, Twyford and Bagshot.

The members of the Southern District of the Ladies' Guild thoroughly enjoyed the meeting. Nineteen ladies were present, and so were able to 'man' the ropes on more than one occasion. The vice-president (Mrs. Bruce) called in before the service, but was unable to stay. Mrs. Hazelden took the chair for the business meeting, at which three new members were elected, the Misses Rose and May Dickinson, of Aldershot, and Mrs. Sargeant, of Ewshot.

It was proposed to hold the next meeting at Basingstoke in February.

The secretary thanks the ladies for their splendid support, and the Farnham District of the Guildford Diocesan Guild for allowing them to combine.

SUNDAY SERVICE TOUCHES.

time reserved any advice or help he could give, whilst one and all were prepared to take part in touches of various methods with any local ringer who so desired. There were two instances where we should have liked to include a local ringer during the tour, but it was not possible.

It is a matter of keen regret to me that your paper has had to be made the medium of ventilating a personal matter, but the letter of Mr. Hogarth, savouring so much of 'dog in the manger,' left me no option but to reply. If he wishes further to defend his attitude, perhaps he will grant me permission to quote verbatim from his correspondence to me.

EDWIN JENNINGS.

COLLEGE YOUTHS & LONDON RINGING

The Ancient Society of College Youths is only four years off its tercentenary and the festival held last Saturday was evidence of the continued interest which has grown up in it with the modern development of ringing. Time was when the College Youths was one of the two or three ringing societies in the country that mattered. With the growth of the county and diocesan organisations the old London Society at first lost some of the distinctive precedence which it had long maintained, for the younger and more energetic associations claimed the limelight by their greater activities. For a time the College Youths, unruffled by the rising tide of the new enthusiasm created by the birth of new organisations, continued to tread its leisurely way and maintain the traditions of many generations, but the onward sweep of progress at length caught up the Society, and while at its core it remains the same, a new spirit revealed itself among the younger members that kept the Society in the forefront of the Exercise. The position of the College Youths is almost unique. Actually it centres round the activities of the ringers of just a few London churches, but the Society's territory is bounded by no county or diocesan limitations; it is worldwide. Its history is as long as the history of change ringing itself; its traditions are as greatly cherished to-day as ever they were; and if its ritual is of a type which modern ringing societies do not adopt, it is not without its use in reminding us of the importance which our forefathers attached to their procedure; it is a remnant of the past; a guarantee of the continuity of historical precedent.

It is upon the College Youths, more than any other society, that the service ringing in the heart of London devolves. There are few places in the city and the near vicinity where the bells are regularly rung on Sundays, but the changing aspect of London's Sunday is reflected in its church attendance as well as in the use of its bells. The closing of some of the City churches on Sundays is being seriously contemplated. There are, we believe, something like twenty-five churches in the City with seating accommodation greater than the Sunday population of the respective parishes. It is not surprising, therefore, that many of the peals of bells are silent. It may be regrettable, but not so regrettable as the fact that they are also more or less derelict. Nothing is more likely to lead to the neglect of the bells themselves as the neglect of the ringing of them; and, correspondingly, the regular use of bells is the best incentive to their proper maintenance. To the College Youths' activities in the centre of London is due in no small degree the keeping open of the peals that are still ringable, and in this they place the Exercise under a debt of gratitude to them. The many ringers throughout the country who claim allegiance to the old Society are proud of their membership, and one has only to look at the wide area from which on Saturday they flocked to the support of the Society on its 296th anniversary to realise what a warm spot it occupies in their hearts. So long as the spirit of 'perpetual youth,' of which something was heard in the speeches, can be maintained there will always be a place of honour in the Exercise for the College Youths.

Conducted by JOHN H. BLUFF.

Rung with half-muffled clappers to the memory of the fallen. First peal of Minor on the bells since 1813, in which year they were restored and augmented to six by Mears and Stainbank.

EXHALL, WARWICKSHIRE.
THE WARWICKSHIRE GUILD.

On Saturday, November 11, 1933, in Two Hours and Twenty-Eight Minutes,
AT THE CHURCH OF ST. GILES,

A PEAL OF BOB MINOR, 5040 CHANGES;

Seven 720's. Tenor 6½ cwt.

*PERCY STONE ... Treble	WILFRED H. J. HOOTON ... 4
JOHN E. MORETON ... 2	JOHN W. TAYLOR ... 5
ERNEST STONE ... 3	ARTHUR E. ROWLEY ... Tenor

Conducted by W. H. J. HOOTON.

* First peal and first attempt. Rung half-muffled for Armistice Day and after meeting short for Cambridge Surprise Minor. The ringer of the treble is only 12 years of age, and is the youngest member of the Warwickshire Guild to ring a peal. Great credit is due to him for the way he rang throughout the peal.

LINCOLN DIOCESAN GUILD.

MEETING AT RUSKINGTON.

A half-yearly meeting of the members of the Sleaford District of the Northern Branch of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild was held at Ruskington on Saturday, November 4th. The bells (6), which have been rehung recently by Mr. A. Howell, of Ipswich, were open from 2.30 to 8.30 p.m., and were considered to be in excellent condition and a credit to the village of Ruskington and to the bellhanger.

The Rector (the Rev. R. L. Sanders) conducted a short service in the afternoon, and afterwards entertained the ringers to tea, which was served in the Church Hall by Mrs. R. L. Sanders and relations and friends of the local ringers.

A business meeting followed, during the course of which the chairman (Mr. Rupert Richardson, of Surfleet, Ringing Master of the Guild) referred to the loss the ringers had sustained by the death of Canon G. W. Jendwine, president of the Guild, and those present stood for a few moments in silence.

About 30 ringers were present, including Mr. and Mrs. Rupert Richardson (Surfleet), Mr. G. Ladd (Pinchbeck), secretary of the Elloe Deaneries Branch, and others from Hough-on-the-Hill and Folkingham and the towers in the district.

Touches in the following methods were rung during the day: Kent Treble Bob, Oxford Treble Bob, Cambridge Surprise, Double Court, Plain Bob, Stedman Doubles and Grandsire Doubles.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

EAST BERKS AND SOUTH BUCKS BRANCH.

Most of the stalwarts of the branch put in an appearance at Haddenham, in spite of the weather, as well as one visitor, whose feet were wet, but not cold. The non-appearance of ringers from neighbouring towers is to be deplored. It is understood that they stayed away because 'they belonged to another branch.'

Rounds, call changes, Grandsire Doubles, Surprise Minor and Grandsire and Stedman Triples were rung with varying success. Some 'Spliced' instructions (Lewis-Oxford variation) had to be given, the culprit being made to realise 'where he got off.'

'The missus' had gone peal ringing (to celebrate the 'old man's' birthday), but the attempt came to grief, so there is still a chance for the 'Merry Monarch' to get eight ladies to ring a peal for him with *, †, ‡, §, ||, ¶, , x, footnotes. (There are 26 letters in the alphabet.)

—Ed.) After an excellent tea, at which the visitors were joined by a few more locals, some handbell ringing was indulged in, but not without 'instructions.' Removals are all very well in the right place. They are yet to be approved of whilst ringing is in progress.

The next practice is to be at Cookham.

A MID-WEEK MEETING.

A mid-week meeting, in which members of the Ladies' Guild and the Essex, Herts and Middlesex Associations united, was held at Harlow Common on November 1st, and was attended by about 30 ringers from Bishop's Stortford, Balham, Cambridge, Crayford, Enfield, Southgate, Romford, Walthamton, Fulborn, Sawbridgeworth, Loughton and many members of the local company. A service was held and the Vicar gave an address. The methods rung included Grandsire, Bob Major, Kent Treble Bob, Double Norwich, Stedman, Superlative, Cambridge, Bristol and London Surprise.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD.DEVIZES BRANCH AT HOLT.

The monthly meeting was held at Holt on Saturday, November 4th. Ringing during the afternoon was followed by service, conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. C. F. H. Brewis), Mr. H. J. Play presiding at the organ, and Mr. C. D. Heginbotham reading the lesson. Tea was served in the Schoolroom, this having been arranged by Mr. C. Drewitt, assisted by several ladies.

A short business meeting followed, with Mr. Heginbotham in the chair. Six new members were elected, and it was decided to accept the Vicar of Southbroom's invitation to hold the branch annual meeting in January at Southbroom.

The usual votes of thanks were passed, the Vicar and organist replying, and afterwards there were 'touches' on the handbells, while others returned to the tower.

During the meeting touches in the following methods were successfully brought round: Cambridge Surprise, Oxford and Kent Treble Bob and Bob Minor, Stedman and Grandsire Doubles. Rounds were also rung for those who wished.

Representatives attended from the following parishes: Devizes (St. John's, St. Mary's and St. James'), Bishop's Cannings, Rowde, Bromham, Keevil, Bratton, Westbury, Warminster, North Bradley, Trowbridge, Bradford (Holy Trinity), Melksham, Holt and Chippenham (St. Andrew's).

The members dispersed at about 8 p.m. after a most enjoyable time. Over 50 attended, and great credit is due to the Ringing Masters for the way they arranged the ringing, the space in the tower being very limited.

WEDDING BELLS.

On Thursday, November 9th, the marriage took place at All Saints', Feering, Essex, between Miss E. A. Rogers, only daughter of Mr. C. J. Rogers (churchwarden) and Mrs. Rogers, and Mr. S. W. Adams. A large congregation assembled to witness the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. A. E. Dalton, of Brentwood (a former Vicar), assisted by the present Vicar (the Rev. O. B. Howard Knight).

The bride has been for some years a Sunday School teacher, and the bridegroom is a sidesman. The ringers afterwards rang a 720 of Bob Major, and in the evening a quarter-peat of Kent Treble Bob (1,280 changes): S. Fisher 1, R. Grainger 2, E. Johnson 3, W. Keeble (conductor) 4, E. Mingay 5, W. Elliott 6, C. W. Burton 7, F. Pludder 8. The band consisted of four bachelors and four benedicts and belonged to four towers.

NEW CLOCK FOR ST. IVES, CORNWALL.

A new chiming clock with two 6ft. dials is now being erected in the tower of the fine old Parish Church of St. Ives, Cornwall, the gift of Alderman William Craze in memory of his wife.

The clock will replace an old one with one wood dial, which struck the hours only. The new clock will have all the best and most modern improvements, and will be fitted with an automatic apparatus for throwing the chimes out of action from 10 p.m. until 7 a.m.

The work is being carried out by Messrs. J. B. Joyce and Co., Ltd., Whitchurch, Salop, the makers of many fine clocks in Cornwall and Devon.

ALDENHAM SURPRISE.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I am greatly obliged to Mr. Jenkins for pointing out the previous publication of the figures of Aldenham Surprise, and I can only express my regret that I have appeared in the role of 'pirate.' I can assure you, however, that it was done quite unintentionally.

H. G. CASHMORE.

PEAL WITHDRAWN.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I regret to say that the composition of 5,120 of New Cambridge Surprise Major rung at Portsea on Nov. 4th is false in this method owing to reverses in 5.6. The composition is true, of course, if rung to Superlative as published by Mr. F. H. Dexter. With sincere apologies to the ringers concerned.

TRULL BELLS RESTORED.

Last Saturday week a most successful meeting was held at Trull by the Taunton Deanery of the Bath and Wells Diocesan Association. An instructive address was given at the service by the Vicar (the Rev. F. L. Winterton), who also extended a hearty welcome to those present.

At the meeting afterwards congratulations were extended to the Vicar and parishioners on the businesslike manner in which they had set about the task and obtained just on £170 for the bell frame, repairs, etc., and rehanging after retuning of the peal of six bells. This work has been carried out by the renowned Whitechapel firm of Mears and Stainbank. Needless to say, it has been done in a thoroughly workmanlike manner, and gives entire satisfaction to all. The tone of the bells was greatly admired by all who remembered them before being retuned.

Some excellent ringing was done and all had a pull in one or more methods.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

The senior ex-Master of the Ancient Society of College Youths present at the annual dinner on Saturday was Mr. John W. Rowbotham, who was elected to the chair in 1884. He was again elected in 1908.

Mr. W. D. Smith (first elected Master in 1891), Mr. Walter Prime (1897) and Mr. H. R. Newton (1898) were also present, together with twelve other past Masters of the society.

Mr. Tom Bennet, who is 82, was the oldest member of the College Youths present at the dinner. He hopes to be in the next veterans' peal attempt, which is to be Stedman Caters.

A carillon of bells has been dedicated by the Bishop of Liverpool at Holy Trinity Church, Bickerstaffe, near Ormskirk, Lancs. It was given by Sir Thomas Rosbotham, M.P. for Ormskirk Division, and Lady Rosbotham, in memory of their parents, Mr. Samuel and Mrs. Mary Rosbotham and Mr. John and Mrs. Esther Heyes.

Two peals were rung on Saturday by ex-Service men to the memory of their comrades who fell in the war. Of those who rang at Helmingham, four received wounds whilst on active service.

An excellent performance on Armistice Day was a peal of Grandsire Doubles at Madeley, Shropshire, in which five of the ringers rang their first peal. It was also the first peal as conductor by ex-Sergt. J. L. Stainer, who called it from the tenor.

The band at Redbourne, Herts, also deserve congratulation on their first local peal, rung on Saturday. It is the result of perseverance. In a peal of Grandsire Doubles were three 'first peals' and first as conductor.

Yet another local band has achieved a performance of merit. At Henlow, Beds, a peal of Doubles in four methods was rung, and it was the first peal by four of the ringers. Mr. Harry Bywaters scored his first peal at the age of 64 years.

A peal of Bob Minor rung at Harringworth, Northants, on Saturday, for Remembrance Day, had a narrow escape. During the lowering of the bells, after the peal was completed, a rope broke! One minute sooner and there would have been no peal. Afterwards the ringers were the guests of the Vicar (Canon B. E. Foyster) at tea.

ST. MARY REDCLIFFE, BRISTOL.

COMPLETION OF RESTORATION SCHEME.

Wonderful scenes marked the completion of the restoration of the famous Church of St. Mary Redcliffe, Bristol, the service being attended by the Archbishop of Canterbury, eight bishops and hundreds of clergy. Thousands of citizens who were unable to gain admission to the service assembled outside the church and saw the ancient architectural glories of the magnificent edifice thrown into clear relief by flood lights.

The Archbishop gave his blessing to the parish, port, city and diocese from the steps of the north porch, as the bells rang out.

The restoration was rendered possible by the munificence of Lord Dulverton, chairman of the Imperial Tobacco Company, who gave £85,000 for the repair of the exterior, and the Conynge Society, who provided £10,000 for the internal renovation.

The heavy peal of twelve bells have been placed on ball bearings.

MUSICAL EXPERIENCE WITH NO COUNTERPART.

An interesting article on Big Ben and the Westminster chimes appears in the current issue of 'The Radio Times' from the pen of the well-known contributor, Mr. Filson Young.

Many people, he says, imagine that these chimes are of great antiquity; others think that they were written for Westminster when the tower was first built and the clock installed. Neither of these assumptions is correct. They date from the early years of the nineteenth century, and were written for the clock of a Cambridge college, and were known as the Cambridge chimes, although now they are almost universally known as the Westminster chimes.

Coming from such an influential pen, the following extract, which concludes the article, is of considerable interest:—

'The whole subject of bells and chiming clocks in towers is to me a very interesting one, and the ringing of bells a beautiful, difficult and mysterious art. To stand among a team when they are ringing is to have a marvellous sense of rhythmic co-operation, like that of a dance; and the almost infinite permutations of the order in which the eight bells are rung as the tenor or treble (I am not sure which) goes 'hunting' through the different places in the octave, amid the clashing and humming of the bronze tongues, is to have a musical experience which has no counterpart. To have rung through a complete set of changes such as "Grandsire Triples" or "Treble Bob Majors" is to have gone through a test both of skill and athleticism of which no strong man need be ashamed. Bellringing is a human lore as well as an art, and I hope it will be long before it is displaced by robot ringers and mechanical carillons.'

ANCIENT SOCIETY OF COLLEGE YOUTHS. BIG GATHERING IN LONDON FOR ANNIVERSARY.

The celebration of the 296th anniversary of the Ancient Society of College Youths was held in London on Saturday, and once again a large gathering of ringers from many parts of England was drawn together for the event. Ringing at a number of City churches, including Bow, Cheapside, the belfry of which was crowded for the hour during which the bells were available, took place during the afternoon, and members attended service at St. Michael's Church, College Hill, before proceeding to the London Tavern for the annual dinner, at which a company of over 200 was present.

St. Michael's Church was well filled for the service, which was conducted by the Rector, the Rev. Canon Douglas, who preached from Daniel xi., 32.

THE COMPANY.

At the dinner the chair was taken by the Master (Mr. F. M. Mitchell), who was supported by the Rev. Canon G. F. Coleridge (Master of the Oxford Diocesan Guild), Councillor J. W. Clunn, J.P. (Deputy Mayor of Gravesend), the Rev. Canon Douglas, Major J. H. B. Hesso (Master of Guildford Diocesan Guild), the Rev. Dr. Perkins (Westminster Abbey), Mr. A. J. Wright (hon. treasurer, Oxford Diocesan Guild), Mr. H. Miles (Oxford), the Rev. F. L. Edwards (hon. secretary, Salisbury Diocesan Guild), the Rev. E. C. Bedford (Rector of St. Andrew's, Holborn), the Rev. H. Fynes-Clinton (Rector of St. Magnus'), Mr. W. Skinner (Dean's verger, St. Paul's Cathedral), Mr. W. S. London, O.B.E., J.P., Mr. J. C. Mitchell, Mr. G. J. Strickland, Mr. E. A. Young (senior steward), Mr. C. F. Winney and Mr. W. Prime (trustees), Mr. W. Roughton, Mrs. Wilkins and Mrs. Cann. Mr. J. S. Hawkins was vice-chairman, and others present included Messrs. W. T. Cockerill (hon. secretary), A. A. Hughes (hon. treasurer), P. E. Clark (steward), E. P. Duffield (Colchester) and C. W. Roberts (stewards-elect). T. Benney (the oldest member of the society present), J. Rowbotham and W. D. Smith (members for over 50 years), J. T. Dyke (hon. secretary, Bath and Wells Diocesan Association), J. W. Jones (hon. secretary, Llandaff and Monmouth Diocesan Association), C. H. Kippin (hon. secretary, Surrey Association), E. Guise (hon. secretary, Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association), S. Riches (Bristol United Guilds), R. T. Hibbert (secretary, Oxford Diocesan Guild), F. The toast of 'The King' was honoured on the call of the Master.

A MESSAGE TO RINGERS.

The Master, in proposing the toast of 'The Church,' made reference to the loss which that society and others had suffered since their last gathering by the lamented death of the Rev. C. W. O.

Jenkyn. They had in the past, he said, heard his voice from the pulpit and from the head of the table at their annual festival, and he (the speaker) hoped his life and example would be an incentive to them all to carry on the work of ringing even as he would wish them to do (hear, hear). The Master went on to say that they would have seen in 'The Ringing World' on the previous day that their dear old friend, Canon Coleridge, had attained the age of 76 (applause). They heartily congratulated him and would wish to add his name to those other youngsters who recently rang the peal at St. Olave's, Hart Street. They were College Youths, but he thought they should give them the new title of the 'Perpetual Youths' (laughter and applause). That evening they gave a hearty welcome to the Rev. Canon Douglas, the new Rector of St. Michael's, College Hill, and thanked him for his sermon. They were deeply sorry to hear that the late Rector (Canon Bullock Webster) was seriously ill, and they wished him a speedy recovery.

Continuing, the Master said he wondered whether, as ringers, they fully recognised the amount of good they were doing for the Church. They heard much about the dwindling congregations in the churches. That was to be deplored where it was so, but it was up to those who were ringers to keep on with their job, because the voice of bells must reach far and wide, and he was one of those who were of opinion that the sound of the bells must remind the hearers of their God, their Church and the Sabbath (hear, hear). It was up to them, especially on Sunday, to give of their best in ringing (hear, hear). The ringers to-day were recognised by the clergy, and at a dedication service which he attended a month ago the Archbishop of Canterbury said: 'We have every reason here in England to be proud of our church bells. There are no countries abroad where the bells have so great a place in the life of the people. Some of you may have heard the great booming bells in France and Flanders, swinging above the crowded market place. Russia used to be almost a land of the music of the bells, but, alas! in most places they have been silenced, and the metal, once the instrument of their music, has been turned to base uses. But here in England the number and beauty of our church bells are unrivalled, and we, almost alone, have cultivated for long generations the goodly art of change ringing. The Archbishop, said the Master, finished up with what he considered a message to ringers, when he said, 'At least let us here in England hear and heed the message of our church bells.' That was a message to ringers to recruit youngsters to carry on the work. It was no use having bells unless they had ringers, and they should get recruits and try and keep them. He sometimes wondered whether ringers, advanced in the art, gave enough attention to the youngsters. If they did not, then they ought to do so. The Master concluded by thanking the clergy for allowing them the use of the bells. They were grateful to the clergy, and he knew the clergy were grateful to the ringers (applause).

THE OLDEST CITY MINOR GUILD.

The Rev. H. J. Fynes-Clinton, who responded to the toast, reminded the company that the Church did not consist of the clergy alone, but of all who were members of it. The clergy formed the priesthood, but they were also servants of the whole Church. There were many services which they were called upon to undertake and to offer, and he thought the best service they could render to ringers was to open their belfries, or, in the first place, to own a peal of bells (hear, hear). Personally, he had a shrewd suspicion that the only reason he had been called upon to respond to that toast was because he happened to have eleven bells (laughter). He could only assure them that the oftener they rang the bells at his church the happier he was (hear, hear), but he could not say that all who worked in his parish expressed themselves as pleased; in fact, he had had to limit the number of peals, not according to his own wish, but in accord with the so-called hard work of those in the offices round about (laughter). He wished to take that opportunity of thanking the ringers for their good services, given in such an unstinted and generous manner. Especially he would like to thank Mr. Hughes, who looked after the bells and cared for them in a generous and voluntary way (applause). Sometimes, continued the speaker, the clergy in certain parts of the country were said not to take the amount of interest and give the amount of encouragement to ringers that they ought to do. On the other hand, he had heard that in some out of the way places the ringers seemed to forget that the belfry was not the whole church and that they were not always seen, after ringing, in the nave. In these matters there was always some room for, he would not say mutual recrimination (laughter), but of reproach, but on such an occasion as that perhaps it would be well if they (the clergy) took it as their fault if the ringers were not seen in the nave as well as in the belfry (laughter). The speaker thanked the society for the great work they did during the year for the Church and also for their delightful hospitality. They were, he said, one of the minor Guilds of the City which were not Livery companies, and one of the oldest, if not the oldest, among them. Certainly there was no other bell-ringing company so ancient as theirs. He had found that there was a very ancient guild of bellringers, called the Guild of the Brethren of Westminster, whose charter was confirmed by the great King Henry III., who confirmed them in the privileges and free customs which they had enjoyed since the time of Edward the Confessor. That Guild existed for ringing the great bells of Westminster Abbey, but the Company, so great and so ancient, at last came to an end. There was another Company, called the Brethren of the Scholars of Cheapside. Whether they rang at St. Mary-le-Bow he did not know, but they were a bellringing company in the early 17th century. They also appeared to have come to an end. He was sure he was right in saying there was no company of ringers existing in London as old as their own. Not only had they a pride in their history, but a greater pride in being a live company, doing their own work and spreading their influence all over England to a greater extent year by year. He thanked the College Youths for their charming entertainment on three counts: the remarkable sense of hospitality, the enthusiasm that was bred in the art, and the brotherliness and friendliness that existed. It was a great thing to have this sense of brotherhood in church work. There they forgot all their differences and were united just as the bells were—with different notes and tones, but united in a sweet harmony when they pulled the ropes. That was what there was in their gathering there that night (applause).

A GREAT LOSS

Canon G. F. Coleridge, who said he had attended that annual gathering for 40 years in succession, or very nearly, proposed the toast of 'The Ancient Society of College Youths.' The Master, he said, had referred in very feeling terms to one who was a great friend of many of them—the late Cyril Jenkyn. Many a one throughout England missed him sorely, but there were three in that room who missed him more than words could tell. Those three were the secretary and treasurer of the Oxford Diocesan Guild and himself. He had been prevailed upon to step into Mr. Jenkyn's shoes and carry on until a more experienced Master could be found. He was glad to do it for Mr. Jenkyn's sake, and for the sake of the Diocesan Guild, of which he had been a member for something like 52 years. He knew something of the ins and outs of it, and at times he might be able to give a little useful advice when called for, but, as for following Mr. Jenkyn in all he did, that was quite impossible. Continuing, Canon Coleridge referred to the veterans' peal at St. Olave's, Hart Street, which he described as a wonderful performance. He was only sorry he was not able to be one of that band. He was kindly asked months ago, when it was intended to ring it at Marlow on a Friday, but had to decline, and when it was altered to Saturday in London he was still prevented from going, because he had already promised to attend the bicentenary of the Oxford Society, of which he had been a member for 54 years, and felt it his duty to be there. There was no one more pleased than he was when he read that the peal had been successful, and he was not a bit surprised when he got a letter saying that the band hoped to do better and to start with two others for a peal of Stedman Caters before the end of the year. They did him the honour of asking him to be in that peal (hear, hear). He had written to say that he would not feel up to it so close after the heavy duties of Christmas, but the only answer he got was, 'You will find it a great tonic and it will do you a lot of good' (laughter and applause). He hoped that whoever rang in the Caters would be as successful as the band in the peal of Triples. It would take a lot of ringing, but they old people, who had been called 'Perpetual Youths,' must not consider themselves old until they were laid down in the earth.

Continuing, Canon Coleridge said the Master's name reminded him of another member of that society who was known pretty well many years ago—John Christopher Mitchell—and who was present that evening. Mr. Mitchell had had a frightfully busy life and had had to drop ringing for some years, but he showed that night that he had turned over a new leaf (applause). Now that the London General Omnibus Company, of which Mr. Mitchell had been secretary, was merged into another organisation, he believed Mr. Mitchell was going shortly to enjoy that rest which he so richly deserved, and how could he spend his leisure better than by meeting the ringers and ringing with them? (applause). He knew it was Mr. Mitchell's earnest desire to come back and be a very useful member of the College Youths (hear, hear). He hoped they would eventually see him in the chair (applause). Masters change, year by year, said Canon Coleridge, but there was one great official of the College Youths who never changed—he trusted it would be many years before there was a change—and that was their honorary secretary, Mr. Cockerill (applause). Mr. Cockerill looked as young as ever; he (the speaker) knew he was as energetic as ever, and he of all men would hold up that great ideal that they should be youthful as long as they lived (applause).

A REVIEW OF THE YEAR.

Mr. W. T. Cockerill, who was cordially received, responded to the toast. He mentioned that apologies for absence had been received from Canon Alexander (St. Paul's Cathedral), Canon Haldane (Southwark Cathedral), the Rev. S. Gordon Ponsonby (St. Mary-le-Bow), the Rev. W. P. Besley (St. Lawrence Jewry), Mr. E. H. Lewis (president of the Central Council), Mr. J. F. Smallwood (Bolton) and Mr. M. Northover (Reigate). Mr. Cockerill then asked the company to mark with reverence the memory of the following 17 deceased members of the society who had died since the last annual gathering, and the names were read while the company remained standing: Frank J. Javey, Exeter; William Cook, Ashted; William Horan, Todmorden; Thomas Blackburne, Luton; Thomas Joyce, Stepney; Thomas Watson, Braintree; Thomas Faulkner, Barking; William Walmsley, Macclesfield; Thomas Page, Broadway, Dorset; Rev. Cyril W. O. Jenkyn, Caversham; Rev. H. F. De Lisle, South Africa; Rev. George H. Ensor, late of St. Stephen's, Clapham Park; Edward P. O'Meara,

COLLEGE YOUTHS OFFICERS.

The election of officers in the Ancient Society of College Youths took place on Tuesday evening. There was only one nomination for each office as follows: Master, Mr. E. Alexander Young; senior steward, Mr. E. P. Duffield; junior steward, Mr. C. W. Roberts; hon. treasurer, Mr. A. A. Hughes; hon. secretary, Mr. W. T. Cockerill. The trustees are Mr. Chas. F. Winney and Mr. Walter Prime.

MR. E. A. YOUNG, THE NEW MASTER.

Streatham; Richard Kilby, Ruislip; Frederick G. Newman, Leyton; Henry G. Fairbrass, Canterbury; and Walter W. Stevens, Bethnal Green. Mr. Cockerill expressed the society's heartfelt sympathy with Canon Bullock Webster in his illness, and remarked with regret that news had been received that Mr. J. D. Matthews, Master of the Royal Cumberland Youths, was seriously ill and not expected to survive.

During the year, said Mr. Cockerill, 27 new members had been made. Seventy-one meetings for practice had been held and the best attendance had been made by Mr. E. G. Fenn, who had been present 60 times (applause). The peals rung numbered 17, viz., Stedman Triples 5, Caters 1, Cinques 2, Bob Major 1 (at St. Margaret's, Barking, muffled to the memory of the late Mr. T. Faulkner), and 2 on handbells: Kent Treble Bob Major 1, Double Norwich 2, Cambridge Surprise Minor 1, Major 1, Royal 1. Mr. Cockerill concluded by extending hearty congratulations to Mr. Winney and the band who rang the peal at St. Olave's, Hart Street, on October 21st, and to Canon Coleridge on his birthday. They wished him 'Many happy returns' (applause).

Mr. Winney was also asked to reply, which he did in a number of reminiscences.

Referring to Bow bells, Mr. Winney said we lived in an age of advertisement. Bow bells had been relying on ball bearings, and, he thought, Simpson tuned. He held in his hand a pamphlet which said, 'Restoration of Bow Bells.' That, he considered, was a misnomer. St. Mary Redcliffe Church had recently been restored. His late friend, Jim Hinton, just before he died, said the tenor was the only bell that needed recasting, but eventually nine bells were recast, altering the character of the ring, which were rather heavier and of the same family as Painswick and Fulham, with a rich quality which enabled ringers to ring with their soul. Mr. Winney added that in conversation recently a gentleman remarked that in these days a conductor rarely ventured on a risky 720 of Bob Minor, but their Master made one with 42 singles his last extent in a peal at Milton. 'You risked disaster,' was the comment. He (Mr. Winney) delighted in the bob caller's courage. He was a born six-bell ringer. In thanking the members for their congratulations on the veterans' peal at Hart Street, he said his newsagent read the letter in 'The Ringing World' to him, and when he said it was signed 'Twenty-one,' he (Mr. Winney) blurted out, 'An anonymous person is a liar' (laughter). The newsagent danced round and, said Mr. Winney, 'I then said quietly, "They usually infringe the ninth commandment"' (laughter).

THE CHARM OF RINGING.

Mr. W. Roughton submitted 'The Visitors,' who, he said, they were delighted to welcome, and especially to welcome the presence of those visitors who were 'outside the charmed circle' of ringing. A friend of his once said that to be a good ringer a person must of necessity be a little bit 'cracked'—or, more aptly, have 'bats in the belfry' (laughter). But these people with 'bats in the belfry' had done some very wonderful things and their records were contained in the books of that society. It was very difficult to define in a general way the great charm of bellringing, but one of their oldest members, who died last year and was formerly a Master of the society, very aptly described the art when he wrote, 'Bellringing is a pastime more captivating than cricket, more fascinating than football, more pleasant than picture palaces, and its reward is more kicks than ha'pence' (laughter). He believed that was true. It was an exercise which created good fellowship and a spirit of comradeship. It brought together and held together all classes and grades of men and bound them into a band of comrades, for in this art they all spoke the same language and thought the same thoughts. He thought it was true to say, as the late Rev. F. E. Robinson once said, 'When you meet a good ringer, be he tinker, tailor, soldier or sailor, you meet a downright good fellow' (applause).

Mr. Roughton went on to build a picture of what he described as a 'robot' figure, comprising some of the characteristics of that ancient society, in the construction of which he drew upon the merits and capabilities of such Youths as Canon Coleridge, Mr. E. A. Young, Major Hesse and Mr. A. R. Macdonald, Messrs. A. A. Hughes, Tom Hibbert, Bert Langdon, Bob Newton, and last, but not least, the honorary secretary, Mr. Cockerill, who was the soul of the society. As the voice of this 'robot,' he extended a real warmhearted welcome to the visitors, and coupled with the toast the names of two J.P.s. who had honoured them with their presence—Mr. W. S. London and Councillor J. W. Clunn, the latter having just relinquished the office of Mayor of Gravesend.

FROM CRADLE TO GRAVE.

Mr. W. S. London said the society was founded in 1637. He was associated with a business founded in 1690, and he would like to know why they had allowed 245 years to go by before inviting him to one of their dinners (laughter). Their title was the 'Ancient Society of College Youths.' He did not know whether the service they rendered to humanity was from the wisdom of age or the energy that came from youth, and he was too old to advise them. One had to be under 20 in these days in order to tell the rest of the world what it ought to do (laughter). But if he was dobarred from advising them, he most sincerely admired them. When they rang the bells they took part in some of the most important events in the life of the nation. There were certain things which appealed to them from the cradle to the grave, but probably nothing more so than the ball and bells. In the former they passed from wool to rubber, to leather, ivory and wood as they went from childhood to tennis, cricket, billiards and lastly to bowls. In the cradle they began with the rattle, which was usually adorned with bells; later they were taken out by relatives and led by reins with bells on the strap. The bell called them to school, where they learnt the meaning of education and spent the rest of their lives trying to find it (laughter). The bells rang out when they entered the marriage state, and again when they were released from it (laughter). There was something very beautiful and very human about the bell. Mr. London concluded by thanking the society for their hospitality and entertainment.

Councillor Clunn expressed his great pleasure in being present to support his old friend Mr. Mitchell. They had been associated in certain work in Gravesend for many years, and he always had the greatest admiration for their Master. He was proud of his county and his town, and it was from the belfries of Kent that many of their foreign friends from overseas had first heard the music of England. It was in his own town that the Duchess of Edinburgh and their dear Queen Alexandra first heard the music of the bells of this country. He belonged to a town that was closely associated with the Church and with the bells, and there had never been a rehanging or recasting of bells in their town to which the Corporation had not subscribed. On the last occasion, when the Master put out an appeal for the addition of two bells to Milton Church, the Corporation gave them 50 guineas, and when the bells of Gravesend were done they gave £100 (applause). He claimed that that was something of which they might be proud, because it showed that the town appreciated the voluntary work that was done by the ringers (hear, hear). Councillor Clunn mentioned that in 1522, when the Bishop made an official visitation to the town of Gravesend, the churchwardens omitted to have the bells rung in his honour, and for that ecclesiastical offence they were cited and fined (laughter). In conclusion, he expressed pleasure in being present to support the Master, and said that when Mr. Mitchell spoke of encouraging youth, he was practising what he was preaching, for as he looked across the table he saw Mr. Mitchell's two boys, who were following in his footsteps. He hoped the time would come when the sons would produce ringers either in the tower at Milton or Gravesend (applause).

PEALS NOT EASILY ARRANGED IN LONDON.

Mr. J. S. Hawkins proposed 'Kindred Societies,' the representatives of which they heartily welcomed. They were delighted to see so many societies present to honour that anniversary. The society was always glad to welcome visiting ringers at their weekly meetings. They were sometimes asked to arrange peals, but if they had to disappoint people in this respect it was not their fault. Peals were not so easily arranged in London as in many provincial districts, but when circumstances permitted they did all they could to oblige visitors (hear, hear).

Mr. Sydney Riches (Bristol United Guilds), who first responded, said he sometimes wondered whether eventually it would be possible to carry on with ringing. Many remarks had been passed in and around Bristol as to what was going to happen to ringing, and if they looked at it carefully they would see that it was the old ones with all their enthusiasm who were carrying on, and that the younger ones were not coming on. It was a problem which they, as societies, had got to face. He thought one primary cause was the lack of specialised training. There was not an abundance of good teachers and they could never have good ringers until they had good teachers. He thought, therefore, that one direction in which they could remedy the position would be by specialised study classes—something outside the ordinary handling of ropes in the tower—the study of the theoretical side, so that they could lead young men on to become good conductors, which would naturally create a greater interest in the art. He hoped the societies in the future would try and fight the growing apathy—it was their responsibility. Mr. Riches went on to speak of the tendency in certain quarters to associate ringers with the public-house. It created a wrong impression, and the societies should do their best to remove this public misconception where it existed. In conclusion, Mr. Riches extended an invitation to the company to the Bristol United Guilds' dinner on January 20th, when it was hoped to arrange for a tour of the restored Church of St. Mary, Redcliffe.

COLLEGE YOUTHS' INFLUENCE IN SOUTH WALES.

Mr. J. W. Jones (Llandaff and Monmouth Association) also replied. He said the kindred societies all looked up to the College Youths. Fifty-seven years ago a band of College Youths visited Llanstephan, Carmarthenshire, and rang the first peal on the bells. Later they went to Llandaff Cathedral and scored the first peal of Stedman Triples in Wales. One of those youngsters, the conductor, was still alive and well after 42 years. Those visits, said Mr. Jones, had a good deal to do with the foundation, some two years after, of the Llandaff Diocesan Association, which had never since looked back. If they could not do much in the way of ringing higher methods, they had succeeded in bringing into existence many restored rings of bells and new peals of eight (applause). These improvements had largely been carried out through the efforts and influence of the ringers of the Llandaff Association (hear, hear). And what the College Youths did for them in South Wales they did in many other parts of the country. Proceeding, Mr. Jones said he did not agree with the rather pessimistic view of the future taken by Mr. Riches. Thirty-two years ago the bells he was connected with were put in and they had never failed to ring for the Sunday services since (applause). If they visited the church they would see ten or twelve young men in the belfry and there was never a lack of recruits. Where did they get them from? They got the ringers from the church (applause). They got them from the choirboys, the sidesmen and the Church Council. If they looked for them here he believed they would have no difficulty in getting plenty of ringers. Mr. Jones, in conclusion, expressed the thanks of visiting ringers to London for the welcome they always received from the College Youths.

The remaining toast was that of 'The Press,' proposed with characteristic originality by Mr. Tom Hibbert, and responded to by Mr. J. S. Goldsmith.

Interspersed between the speeches were songs by Mr. H. Lansberry, handbell solos by Mrs. A. A. Hughes, which were again a source of great delight, and a touch of Stedman Cinques on handbells by Messrs. A. B. Peck, H. R. Pasmore, H. Langdon, C. W. Roberts, J. Thomas and W. T. Cockerill.

REMEMBRANCE DAY.

STOURBRIDGE.—At St. Thomas' Church on Sunday, November 5th, for Armistice service, a quarter-peal of Boh Major (1,264 changes) with the bells half-muffled before evening service: A. Reynolds 1, L. W. Turner 2, A. E. Whatmore (conductor) 3, H. T. Amphlett 4, A. L. Dunn 5, J. W. Smith 6, C. W. Cooper 7, F. W. Gibbs 8. After service with the bells open, 336 Grandsire Triples.

BURTON LATIMER, NORTHANTS.—On Saturday, November 11th, at St. Mary the Virgin's Church, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples with the bells half-muffled: P. Ashby (first quarter-peal) 1, H. Haynes (first in the method) 2, C. Hendry (first in the method) 3, M. Hobbs 4, H. Turner (first in the method) 5, J. Saddington 6, G. Lines (conductor) 7, R. Twelvtree 8.

RUTLAND BRANCH FORMED.

GENEROUS GIFT TO TOWERS.

The first meeting of the Rutland Branch of the Peterborough Diocesan Guild was held at Empingham on Saturday, November 11th, and proved a success. The Master of the Guild (Mr. F. Wilford) conducted the Guild form of service, and the Rector, Canon E. E. Law, H.C.F., gave a most appropriate address. Fifty sat down to tea, and, with the exception of about a dozen from Folkingham, Peterborough, Market Deeping, Kettering, Gillsborough, Welford and Northampton, the remainder were clergy and ringers of Rutland.

Canon Law presided at the meeting, supported by the Rev. W. St. G. Coldwell (Tickenote), the Rev. F. J. Tavernier (Wing), the Rev. C. C. Aldred (Uppingham), the Rev. W. A. Mandall (Whissendine), Messrs. J. J. Jutson and W. H. Waldron (Peterborough), H. Baxter (Kettering) and the general secretary, Mr. R. G. Black.

Apologies were received from the Ven. A. I. Greaves (Archdeacon of Oakham), Canon Smalley Law, the Rev. R. C. Thurstield, Miss Thurstield and Mr. F. Barber, who all sent best wishes for the success of the new branch.

The officers elected were as follows: President, Canon E. E. Law; secretary and treasurer, Mr. R. W. Daniels; auditor, the Rev. F. J. W. Tavernier; Central Committee, Messrs. G. Stevens and G. Wright; and Branch Committee, Messrs. Harper and C. Lambert and one to be nominated from Oakham belfry.

The next meeting is to be held at Uppingham in January.

A most apt and welcome gift was received from a life honorary member of the Guild, Mr. A. Nunneley Wood, Northampton, comprising a set of books for each tower which joined the branch. These were a copy each of 'The Ringing World,' 'Ropesight,' 'Village Bells,' 'Standard Methods' and 'The Ringers' Handbook.'

These were duly handed to representatives of the ten towers who had joined. The secretary was asked to write to Mr. Wood thanking him for his splendid gift.

The collection at the service was for the Belfry Repairs Fund of the Guild and realised 12s. 4d.

The Rev. C. C. Aldred moved a vote of thanks to the Rector of Empingham for the use of the bells and for his address, which was seconded by Mr. Jutson, who added that the Rector was no stranger to the formation of new branches, as when at Peterborough he was one of the movers in the formation of the Peterborough and District Association, which joined with the Central Northants Association in 1924 when the Diocesan Guild was formed, and in 1925, when at Daventry, he also assisted in the formation of the Daventry Branch, and was its hon. treasurer until he moved to Empingham.

It is hoped the enthusiasm shown at this meeting will be maintained and that the members will strongly support the officers, especially the branch secretary, on whom a large share of the work will fall, and that the new branch will prove a lusty infant and eventually grow up to be a big strong branch.

The bells, a splendid ring of six, in good order, were kept going in a variety of methods during the afternoon and evening.

MR. AMOS REPLIES.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—May I again ask the favour of your columns to reply to the letters of Messrs. Black and Bigley in your last issue? Regarding Mr. Black's remarks about the 'boot on the other foot' and the 'dog being in my kennel,' it is quite easy to reverse things to cover one's self. He asks what have I done in regard to my proposed new association? If he read my last letter through he should know. He says as long ago as 1925 he talked over with some Rutland men the connecting of Rutland with his Guild, and only dropped the idea through lack of enthusiasm. Why then with enthusiasm still the same should he want to revive it now? He proves my words beyond doubt. He and his advocates did not want Rutland THEN, and do not now, only that they fear someone else stepping in and setting up an association there. What is this but 'a dog in a manger'? He says that as Rutland comes in the Peterborough Diocese, he is justified in entering and forming a branch without anyone's permission. As there is no jurisdiction, so likewise are we justified in forming a Rutland Association (or even another in Northants if it came to that) without asking his permission. Mr. Black says his is a Diocesan Guild. I am not so sure about that! Let us see. The P.D.G. was formed in January, 1924, out of the Central Northants Association, the Raunds, Wellingborough and District, and the Peterborough and Oundle District Societies. None of the other bodies, comprising Rutland, Towcester and District, Daventry District and the Brackley Deanery (which, by the way, is another 'piece of virgin soil'), were consulted until afterwards. Daventry one year, Towcester seven years, Rutland ten years and Brackley still not at all. How then can it be a Diocesan Guild? Such it could only be by all the parties agreeing at the time of formation, by mutual consent. Surely to set up a Diocesan Guild out of only half, and expect the other half to agree to the proposal 10 years afterwards is asking for trouble? It certainly is not a very good piece of business!

The recent meeting at Oakham, of which Mr. Black makes mention, I consider is no criterion on the matter of a Rutland Branch of his Guild, seeing that a large proportion of the 10 ringers who turned up

RANG A PEAL AT PRINCE CONSORT'S DEATH.

The funeral of the late Mr. Joseph Waghorn, sen., took place on Saturday morning at the City of London Crematorium, Ilford.

Mr. Waghorn's interest in ringing, which began when he was only 16 years of age, was maintained until his death, and to the last he followed keenly through 'The Ringing World' all that happened in the Exercise. Only a few days before he died he discussed with his daughter the veterans' peal at St. Olave's Church, Hart Street.

Born on January 27th, 1843, Mr. Waghorn commenced ringing at Whitechapel in 1859, and rang his first peal at the death of the Prince Consort in December, 1861. He did not keep a detailed record of his peals, but he had rung about 150 altogether, his last being one of Kent Treble Bob at Liverpool in 1926.

He had rung on every royal occasion since 1860, and had been a member of the old Westminster Abbey ringers, as a result of which he had been present in the Abbey at the coronation of the present King and Queen. He rang there for Queen Victoria's diamond jubilee and for many other royal events. Among his peals was one at Christ Church, Blackfriars, in 1870, to celebrate the opening by Queen Victoria of

THE LATE MR. J. WAGHORN, SEN.

Blackfriars Bridge and Holborn Viaduct. Mr. Waghorn visited many parts of the country in pursuit of his favourite hobby, and he was frequently a visitor at meetings of the Central Council. The last ringing function which he attended was the dedication and reopening of Bow bells. He was present on both days and took part in a touch.

He was a member of 20 different associations, and it was his proud boast that he had visited every Cathedral in England.

His last years were spent with his daughter, Mrs. F. Maul, at 35, Winton Avenue, New Southgate, and, as already reported, passed peacefully away on Tuesday, November 7th, full of years and honour.

LIFTON, DEVON.—On Sunday, November 12th, a quarter-peal of Grand sire Doubles (1,260 changes), with 4, 6, 8 covering: T. Barriball 1, W. Brimacombe 2, E. Toulson 3, S. Marks 4, J. Benoy 5, S. Pring (first quarter-peal) 6, W. E. Ball (first quarter-peal as conductor) 7, J. Dergos 8. Rung to commemorate Armistice Sunday. All the above are members of the local band and regular Sunday service ringers.

were from other dioceses: Leicester, Southwell and Lincoln. Rutland itself, I find out, was hardly 'seen or heard,' only ringers from five towers being present. The only ones from Northants, from what I can gather, were those who went simply out of curiosity to try Oakham's fine peal of bells and to listen to the proceedings of a rather out of the ordinary meeting. Most of these, unless living in Peterborough or possessing their own conveyance, I can imagine having to rush off before the finish to catch the last train at 6.2 p.m. Would they want to do this as a general thing? As for myself, I possess my own means of transport. Neither time nor distance is any object to me. Very often I motor-cycle 50 miles each way to a meeting and above once have done 25 miles on push bike.

Now a word to Mr. Bigley. Whether he thinks my letters should be barred or not, I, or anyone else, have a perfect right to send any matter for publication in 'The Ringing World' if they think fit. Like the forming of a Rutland Association, there is no jurisdiction, and if it irritates Mr. Bigley to see my letters, all I can say is, 'Don't read them!' For Mr. Bigley to say they should be barred shows that he would prejudice another's rights if he could. I claim the full right of freedom of thought and action. Mr. Bigley says he thinks the time has arrived when my grievance should be made public. I fully agree, and had this been done in 1927 at the annual meeting instead of 'behind the curtains' at a branch meeting by a mere handful of men, it would not have brought trouble in its train. Such matters, I maintain, concern the Guild as a whole and not just one branch of it. For the benefit of your readers, I can assure them that the grievance is purely a personal one and one which should have nothing at all to do with ringing.

PERCY AMOS.

MEN WHO LEAVE THEIR MARK.

Death has, of late, been exceptionally busy in the ranks of ringers, and the Exercise has lost a number of loyal members in the last few weeks. In this issue we record the passing of several men who in their respective spheres have given devoted service to the art, and to the Church. The Reaper has been no respecter of age. Among those who have fallen by the way are a ringer of 31, a victim of the juvenile malady of measles, another of 41 carried off by that dread disease cancer; at the other end of the scale, a long life has closed at 92, when nature has run its course. And so the toll goes on, but we gain consolation from the fact that there are among the men who have been taken from us those who have left an influence for good behind them.

London has lost a valued member of the ringing fraternity by the passing of Mr. John D. Matthews, for more than twenty years Master of the Royal Cumberland Youths. Mr. Matthews' services to the art were given, in his younger days, in many parts of the country, but in London he did extremely useful work in reviving the fortunes of the Cumberlands at a time when they had reached a low ebb. In this century, at any rate, the Cumberlands may not have been so much to the fore as their old friends and rivals, the College Youths; but, thanks largely to Mr. Matthews' efforts, they were saved from a condition bordering on atrophy if not of actual extinction. In face of limited opportunities and growing restrictions Mr. Matthews put fresh vigour into the old Society, although, with a retiring disposition, he never sought the limelight. The fact that for so many years he retained the Mastership of the Society, together with the respect and esteem of the members, is proof of the appreciation which they held of his services. John D. Matthews was a Master without prejudices and with a deep sense of duty. He brought to bear on ringing affairs a broad commonsense, which those who knew him best appreciated most, for he was not given to airing his views in public. In an unassuming way he has done much for the art of ringing and the Society which he has so long piloted has lost an admirable officer.

And what of the example of William Taylor, of Wrotham, Kent, who has been gathered to his fathers at the age of nearly 93 years? He had been a ringer for 75 years; a chorister from boyhood until, at the age of 84, feeling that his voice was going, he resigned from the choir and became the organ blower. For more than eighty years, therefore, he was a devoted servant of his church, ready to perform the humblest of tasks and doing the work that lay nearest to his hand with all his heart, soul and strength. This is an example we would commend to the luke warm ringers; the men who, failing to recognise that, having become members of a band, they owe it to their colleagues and to the Church to be punctual and regular in their attendance. There is no worse drawback to the progress of a company than the man who cannot be depended upon either to be on time or, even, to be there at all. A man may not be a brilliant ringer, but if he is dependable his value to his company is above price. William Taylor, of Wrotham, was always dependable, and the death of such a man leaves a gap not always easily filled.

RUTLAND.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—Mr. Amos is wrong to say that I would prejudice another's rights. The point is, I don't think it is 'right' to write letters to 'The Ringing World' which contain personal thrusts. No one, except those concerned in the grievance, know at whom they are aimed, and, therefore, all members of an association are tarred with the same brush.

Mr. Amos assures us that the grievance is purely a personal one and one which should have nothing at all to do with ringing. He should, therefore, keep it out of his letters, which are to a 'Ringing World.' I take my paper, 'The Ringing World,' to read, not just to see my name in a peal report now and then, and the articles, letters and reports are of interest to me, but I do hate to see the brotherly spirit (which, after all, is one of the things ringing associations are formed to foster) 'blighted' by letters which are written in what seems a bickering tone.

ARTHUR BIGLEY.

Irthlingborough.

MR. AMOS' 'DISMISSAL.'

Dear Sir,—As the controversy between Mr. Amos and the Peterborough Diocesan Guild has assumed a personal aspect (on his side only), I feel it is time a few points should be made clear.

The Guild was formed on January 5th, 1924, by the union of as many of the existing societies as could possibly be obtained, with complete approval and consent of the Bishop of Peterborough. Since that time all other areas have been linked up with the exception of one. Considering the large area the Guild covers, this is a wonderful achievement on the part of all officers concerned.

It has for its objects: (1) The recognition of the true position of ringers as church officials; (2) the due care and use of church bells and belfries; (3) the cultivation of the art of scientific change ringing; and also a rule which reads:—

'The chief endeavour of the Guild being to instil greater reverence for God's House and worship among its members, any member misconducting himself may be dismissed at the discretion of the Central Committee, who shall report same to the annual general meeting, and such member shall forfeit any payment which he may have made to the Guild.'

After many committee meetings and personal talks to Mr. Amos by some of the chief officers of the Guild, whose advice was always ignored, Mr. Amos' case was brought before the Central Committee, and the result was his dismissal from the Guild on June 6th, 1927.

Since that date he has been continually trying to create dissent among Guild members, but not once has he attempted to apologise for past conduct.

FRED HOPPER.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

GOOD MEETING AT HACKNEY.

For the last meeting of the year, held on November 18th, the North and East District of the Middlesex County Association visited the Church of St. John of Jerusalem, South Hackney, and that this was a popular choice was shown by the attendance of some 40 or more ringers during the afternoon and evening, although the weather was not up to its previous 1933 standard. Punctually at 3 o'clock the bells were raised, and between that time and 5 p.m. were kept going to a great variety of methods. At the latter hour divine service was held, conducted by the Rev. — Morris, in the unavoidable absence of the Rector (the Rev. H. Cecil) through illness.

Afterwards an excellent tea was served in the Church Hall, which was followed by the business meeting. The death of Mr. Joseph Waghorn was referred to by the hon. secretary, who stated that the deceased gentleman had been a member of the association from its commencement. He was also a member of the old Middlesex Association, and took part in the first peal for that association, which was rung at Tottenham on November 1st, 1889. Mr. Coles also referred to the death of Mr. John D. Matthews, Master of the Royal Cumberland, and at one time a member of the Middlesex Association. He asked the members present to stand in silence for a few moments to show their respect for the deceased gentlemen, and as a mark of sympathy with the relatives, and to the members of the Royal Cumberland Youths on the loss of their Master.—This was accordingly done.

Other business included the election of three new members and the choosing of Edmonton as the venue for the next meeting on January 27th, the annual meeting of the district.

The Chairman (Mr. W. Pickworth) proposed a vote of thanks to the Rector for the use of the bells, coupled with an expression of sympathy with him in his illness; to the Rev. Morris for conducting the service; and to Mr. A. Riley for arranging the meeting.—This was carried, and Mr. Riley replied.

The proceedings terminated with a touch of Stedman Triples on handbells by Mrs. E. K. Fletcher, W. Pye, G. R. Pye and G. B. Collins.

Afterwards another visit was made to the tower, where, under the direction of the District Master (Mr. A. W. Coles), the tastes of all present were considered, and nobody need have gone away without having had ample opportunity of ringing any method desired, whether it was Grandsire Triples, Bob Major or Surprise, rung singly or in the now increasingly popular 'spliced' fashion.

DEATH OF HIGHAM FERRERS RINGER.

The death took place on November 4th under tragic circumstances of Mr. Horace Cecil Dunkley, one of the younger members of Higham Ferrers belfry. He was only 31 years of age. A few weeks ago his five-years-old son contracted measles, and shortly after both father and mother were affected. In the case of Mr. Dunkley, pneumonia supervened, from which he died.

Mr. Dunkley was not a great peal ringer, but was a most loyal and regular Sunday service ringer, and his loss will be greatly felt in the belfry.

In addition to his ringing, Mr. Dunkley was well known in the district as a cricketer. He had played regularly for Higham Ferrers for the past nine years, in no fewer than seven of which he topped the batting averages. Two years ago he captained the side, and during last season was vice-captain.

He began his ringing as Chelveston Parish Church, where he was also for a number of years a member of the choir. He joined the Higham Ferrers band on going to live in that town seven years ago.

On Tuesday, November 7th, touches of Stedman and Grandsire Triples were rung at Higham Ferrers with the bells half-muffled, and Mr. G. D. Deighton, a member of the belfry, was one of the bearers at the funeral, which had taken place earlier, the others being a member of the Cricket Club and two of the deceased's fellow-workmen. The ringers also sent a wreath.

Much sympathy has been expressed with the widow and little son who are left in bereavement.

LINCOLN DIOCESAN GUILD.MEETING AT SCUNTHORPE.

A meeting of the Grimsby District was held at Scunthorpe on Saturday, November 4th. Members attended from Barton-on-Humber, Bigby, Burton-on-Stather, Elsham, Ulceby, Barrow-on-Humber, Grimsby and the local members, Mrs. E. Brittain, Mr. Lunn, of Lea, and Mr. G. Lindoff. The bells were kept going during the afternoon and evening.

The service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. Charles Steele), who gave a most inspiring address.

Members then adjourned for tea, to which 26 sat down.

The president (the Rev. Canon H. T. Parry) presided at the business meeting, at which one new member was elected, Miss Vera Blood, of Barton-on-Humber.

A collection for the district bell fund was taken.

Mr. J. Bury, District Ringing Master, then extended a welcome to a visitor who now is living in the district in the person of G. Lindoff, (Continued in next column.)

DO RINGERS TAKE THEIR PLEASURES MADLY?'BRIGHT YOUNG PEOPLE' CELEBRATE.

A notorious section of the 'Bright Young People' met to celebrate the anniversary of the discovery of a certain Guido Fawkes, also that of another not unknown fiery individual, Farmer Giles, to wit.

The qualifying condition was to bring at least one firework, and oh boy! (and girl!) what an assortment arrived.

There was Swithin and his Dickie, with an aeroplane so tricky,

There was Winnie and her Don, there was Ida, escort Tom,

A little Boy in Blue, his wife was with him too,

There were rousers, squibs and rockets, they all had filled their pockets,

There was Kath, there were wheels, this was better game than 'peals,'

There was Rosalind and Bill, of fun they had their fill,

Miss Morgan came with Tommy, there was Frank and Uncle Johnny.

There was Mary quite contrary, she isn't quite a fairy,

There were quite a lot of others, niece, sister, fathers, mothers,

And there was Mrs. Gough, scared of sparklers going off,

There were serpents in a mine, and a snowstorm that was 'fine,'

Roman Candles, jumping jacks, stars that made some lovely 'cracks.'

Rain of silver and of gold, a Jack in box, we can't grow old,

Coloured fire and sunshine ball, the moon came up and said,

'That's all.'

After the 'ball' was over and one or two had been 'led up the garden,' a little handbell ringing was indulged in, Grandsire Triples and Caters and Stedman Triples being rung (not without some 'Lewis' instructions). A few tunes were also tried.

The health of the 'Auther' was drunk in various concoctions. (He is already getting better.) After another hour or so of 'high jinks,' in which most of the ladies 'took the air,' and some of the gentle(?)men did some 'health and beauty' exercises, the party dispersed with reluctance, a few of them putting their heads together for another one next week.

jun. Every ringer, he said, knew Mr. Lindoff's father if only by name.

Mr. Cecil Pye proposed a hearty vote of thanks to the Vicar for the use of the bells, for his excellent address and for conducting the service, and also to the organist and to those who had made the arrangements.—The Vicar suitably responded.

Afterwards handbell ringing was indulged in, and then the members returned to the tower again for further ringing before leaving for their various destinations, which some were fortunate to reach.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

The peal of Oxford Treble Bob Maximus rung at Ipswich makes the seventh different method rung to a peal on the twelve bells of St. Mary-le-Tower, Ipswich, this year, as follows: January 14th, Duffield Maximus; February 11th, Little Albion Treble Bob Maximus; July 29th, Cambridge Surprise Maximus; August 26th, Superlative Surprise Maximus; March 4th, Grand sire Cinques; October 21st, Stedman Cinques. This must surely be a record! To continue the sevens some of the band have rung a peal on seven consecutive Saturdays.

It is worthy of mention that before the peal at Hemingford Abbots, Hunts, rung last Friday as a birthday compliment to Mr. Harry Chapman, of Keyston, the Rector met the ringers in the belfry, offered prayer and wished them luck. Then, when the peal was completed, he came to congratulate them on their success and good striking. This is an example which other clergy might copy.

The Rev. W. Pennington Bickford, of St. Clement Dances, Strand, is confined to his bed as the result of a chill and overwork. On the 12th inst., the Rev. F. Llewellyn Edwards, who was in London for the College Youths' meeting, took part in conducting the evening service.

Mr. F. Sergison, the hon. secretary of the St. Clement's Youths, is, we are glad to state, making a good recovery from a serious operation which he underwent on the 10th inst. He has been lying in St. Charles' Hospital, N.W., for two months.

Mr. Ogden Moores has forwarded the report of a peal of Bob Major rung on Saturday without stating where it was rung.

Heartly congratulations and good wishes to Mr. James George, who will be 80 years old next Monday.

The bells of All Saints', Worcester, will be available from 3 o'clock on the occasion of the Worcestershire Association dinner on Saturday.

BROADCASTING CHURCH BELLS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I have on several occasions heard the president of the Central Council very vigorously pushing the pamphlet on 'How to hold a rope, etc.' Undoubtedly a worthy object, but I would like to know if it is possible to pile another job on to one of the Central Council committees, namely, 'special instructions for bands who engage in periodical Sunday evening broadcasting.'

One hears many opinions of bells and ringers from the great outside public, and, while some of the bands put over real striking, there are, unfortunately, some who do not seem to realise their responsibility to the Exercise, judging from the indifferent striking which penetrates thousands of homes on Sunday evenings.

We had a movement some time ago to confine broadcasting to eight bells, as being more easily understood generally, but should we not have a movement to discourage indifferent striking being put on the ether?

I will mention no names except the monks of Buckfast Abbey, who did show many of the change ringing bands how to strike, and suggest that where a band of strikers cannot be obtained, two ropes should be hung up in preference to broadcasting an exhibition of 'clips' and 'gaps,' which exposes the art to ribald criticism from outsiders the next morning.

THE COLLEGE YOUTHS.

INSTALLATION OF OFFICERS.

The Rev. F. Ll. Edwards took the chair when it was vacated by the retiring Master (Mr. F. M. Mitchell) at the meeting of the College Youths on Tuesday week. He declared Mr. E. A. Young duly elected Master and invested him with the insignia of office, pinning on the Master's silver badge and placing the Master's hammer in his hands, with the hope that the society would have a happy and successful year under its new officers, the rest of whom he also declared duly elected, there being no opposition in either case.

The list of officers was given in our last issue.

The newly-elected Master briefly replied, and said how pleased he was to receive unanimous election to the ancient office and upon the 297th occasion. He was sure that with such officers a Master could face the future with every confidence.

The remaining officers also acknowledged their election to their respective offices. Mr. C. W. Roberts (junior steward) took the opportunity of urging the members, especially the younger ones, to support the eight and ten bell practices better than had been done during the past two or three years.

The statement of accounts showed there was a slight deficit on the year's working.

A FIRST BY 'NATIVES.'

At Over, Camps, on Sunday, November 5th, for matins and Holy Communion service, 608 Cambridge Surprise Major: D. Adams 1, G. Whybrow 2, R. Smith 3, C. Robinson 4, M. Ginn 5, R. Thoday 6, A. J. Ginn 7, F. Warrington (conductor) 8. All are members of the local company and 'natives' of Over, it being the first 'touch' of Surprise Major for morning service ever rung in this church by all 'natives.'

SHERBORNE ABBEY BELLS.

OLD BOYS RECAST TENOR.

The bells of Sherborne Abbey, Dorset, are now being rehung in new bearings and fittings, and are now being recast and retuned by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank, and, as many ringers will say, not before they wanted it.

The bells themselves are exceedingly interesting, and weigh as follows before tuning:—

Tenor.—45 cwt. 1 qr. 1 lb. J. Warner, 1865.

7th.—29 cwt. 0 qr. 1 lb. J. Warner, 1903.

5th.—16 cwt. 3 qr. 21 lb. W. Bilbie, Chewstoke, 1787.

4th.—12 cwt. 2 qr. 5 lb. T. and J. Bilbie, Chewstoke, 1803.

3rd.—11 cwt. 3 qr. 14 lb. J. Warner, 1803.

2nd.—10 cwt. 2 qr. 18 lb. G. Mears, 1858.

Treble.—9 cwt. 1 qr. 16 lb. G. Mears, 1858.

The tenor originally was the gift of Cardinal Wolsey, and was brought from Tournai with other bells. It became cracked and was recast by Thomas Purdue, of Clossworth, on October 20th, 1870. It became cracked again and was recast in 1885 by Warners. The original 3rd and 7th were cast by Robert Austin, of Sherborne, in 1652.

The tenor is about to be recast again, and the old inscription will be reproduced with the addition of the present Vicar and churchwardens' names and the foundry stamps. The inscription runs:—

By Wolsey's gift I measure time for all.

To mirth; to Grief; to Church I serve to call!

Gustavus Horne, Walter Pride, Churchwardens. This bell was new cast by me Thomas Purdue, October 20th, 1870, again recast 1885. Edward Harston, Vicar. James Hoddinott, Francis Stokes, Churchwardens. This bell was cast by John Warner and Sons, Crescent Foundry, London.

The new bell will probably be slightly heavier than the old. The tenor was always reputed, in old days, to weigh 46 cwt. 1 qr.

Sherborne and the neighbourhood have raised a great deal of money in the last six months, including £1,000 for the Lady Chapel, £200 for Dr. Barnardo's Homes, and the amount required for the rehanging and the retuning. The recasting of the tenor appeared to be out of the question, but Major J. H. B. Hesse, an Old Sherbornian, took an intense interest in the scheme, and made an appeal to other old boys of the school.

He wrote: 'The tenor bell of the peal of eight at Sherborne Abbey was originally given to the Abbey Church by Cardinal Wolsey, and is called the Wolsey Bell. She became cracked and was recast by the famous old bell founder Purdue, of Clossworth, a few miles from Sherborne, and was again recast by a London founder in 1885, having become cracked for the second time. A considerable amount is wanted to recast this bell again, not because she is cracked, but because she is the worst bell in the Abbey peal. The bells are now undergoing rehanging and retuning, and no amount of retuning will cure the fault in the tenor, because she is the wrong shape. Recasting, a very expensive operation, which is not needed in the case of the other bells, is the only cure. I cannot expect all who read this appeal to look on it as I do, because I could ring a bell before I went to Sherborne School, and have been a keen change ringer ever since. I feel the Abbey and the dear old school are bound up together. Our commemoration services were held in the Abbey. The Abbey clock chimes the quarters on the Abbey bells, the hours are struck on the Abbey tenor bell. So the Abbey bells have marked time for us, and how many of us have seen the chapel doors closed on us at the last stroke of the hour? May I ask you to give a small donation towards the recasting of this bell. As the bell is now she is out of tune in herself and the rest of the peal. This old-world Abbey is worthy of a better tenor bell, and, if recast, the difference will be enormous to any musical ear. A large sum has already been collected for the restoration of the bells, £1,000 for the completion of the Lady Chapel and £200 for Dr. Barnardo's Homes, all within the last six months, and from the town and neighbourhood. This is my reason for appealing to you. No matter how small your gift is, may I ask you to give something?' This appeal had the result of bringing in the necessary funds for recasting the tenor so that the restoration can be made complete.

When the bells were being removed from the Abbey, the boys of the Preparatory School, whose ages range between 7 and 14, and numbering about 60, went down to the Abbey to see the tenor lowered from the tower. They arrived there just as the bell was being lowered on to the trolley, the rope of which was trailing up the aisle. These youngsters pulled the bell up as far as the west door. Then there was a steep incline to negotiate on planks and there were not enough hands to get the bell out. This happened at 5 minutes to 11; the school break takes place between 10.45 and 11, and Major Hesse managed to get hold of about a hundred of the boys from the school itself, and they made very short work hauling the bell up into the Abbey Close. It was quite a pretty and interesting sight, and it was unfortunate that no photographic record was obtained of the event, for such a thing is unlikely to happen again in connection with the school in the lives of any that were present.

Those who are familiar with Sherborne will know the glorious old Abbey, with the school and cloisters adjoining; it is a peaceful and beautiful spot, and in future the bells will be in keeping with the old and interesting surroundings.

A PLEA FOR MODERATION.

To the Editor.

Sir,—There has for some time been a growing tendency in the correspondence addressed to yourself in 'The Ringing World'—a tendency which no reader can fail to have noticed, and one which I feel sure must be deplored by a large majority of ordinary ringers who realise that their primary function is to ring to the glory of God, and not merely to talk about ringing and other ringers in an uncharitable spirit.

I submit, sir, that the ordinary ringer-in-the-belfry is tired of the bitter and acrimonious tone of the disputes that seem to be constantly raging in your paper. It is a fact well known even to those outside the Exercise that bellringers are a singularly good-natured and kindly race of men and women. A stranger might be forgiven for supposing exactly the opposite were he to open almost any number of 'The Ringing World' and read the correspondence. I can speak freely, as I am personally unacquainted with all the protagonists in the recent arguments to which I am referring. They can, therefore, be assured that this letter is in no way personal. I am certain that in their private and public lives they are all as charming and good-natured as those ringers whom I do know. It does seem a pity that when they put pen to paper they forget moderation and, in some cases, decency and common courtesy, and aim only at being clever, facetious or bitter at the expense of their opponent. I know that their letters do not represent their true characters.

The majority of us do not write to 'The Ringing World,' but I am sure that there would be general sympathy from the whole Exercise with an appeal for a more generous spirit. I do not say among ringers as a whole, nor even among certain of your correspondents in their private and public lives, but only on the occasions when they address themselves to you. Let us not try to be too clever; let us get on with the job as well as we can, and, if we have the opportunity, help the other fellow along the way too.

There must, of course, be occasions when we have a bone to pick with a fellow-ringer. Would it not be a good idea if on all such occasions we adopted the admirable suggestion of Mr. Amos contained in your issue of November 3rd? I refer to the last paragraph of his letter on page 694. Two purposes would thus be served: valuable space would be saved in your columns, which could then be devoted to items of interest to your readers, and also we should be spared the humiliating necessity each week of having our dirty linen washed in public.

This is the first time, sir, that I have addressed you. I hope that my views represent the opinions of the majority of those ringers who, though they may not be very ready with their pen or their tongue, yet constitute the main body of the Exercise. They may not be given to expressing their opinions, but this does not mean that their opinions do not count.

JOHN P. PELLOE.

Queen's College, Oxford.

KENT VETERAN'S DEATH.

LONG SERVICE TO WROTHAM CHURCH.

Many ringers in the Kent County Association will regret to hear of the death of Mr. William Taylor at the grand old age of 92½ years. For many years and until he was 26 he took his turn on the ropes of the bells of St. George's Church, Wrotham. He joined the Kent Association in 1882 and was a member until 1925.

Besides being a ringer, he was for 75 years a member in the church choir, and when, at the age of 84, he felt his voice going, he blew the bellows of the organ.

Outside his church work he was a dogged cricketer, and always went in first for the Wrotham side. A devoted follower of the county team, he was known to walk to Canterbury, nearly 40 miles, to see a day's cricket. When well over 80 he walked to Gravesend and back, a distance of 20 miles, to follow his county team.

Had 'Old Bill' lived one more month he would have completed 70 years of married life. He leaves a widow (90 years old), two sons and five daughters.

He has gone to rest with the affection of all who knew him. They feel that a link has been broken in the life of the English countryside.

After the funeral the members of the local band rang a half-muffled touch as a farewell tribute to their old friend, and it is hoped that the Kent Association will attempt a half-muffled peal shortly as a last token of respect.

SUSSEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

A meeting of the Western Division was held at Lymminster on Saturday, November 18th. Ringing commenced at 3 o'clock, and members afterwards attended a short service, conducted by the Vicar of Lymminster (the Rev. S. P. Duval).

Tea was kindly provided by the Vicar, who was present, and presided at the business meeting which followed, when the following members were elected: P. Lowe, of Heene, G. Lee and A. V. Aylmore, of Lymminster, and Mr. H. F. Wisdom, of Chichester, hon. member.

A hearty vote of thanks was accorded the Vicar for his kindness in providing the excellent tea and granting the use of the bells; also to the lady helpers.

Another move was then made to the belfry for further ringing.

THE LATE MR. J. D. MATTHEWS.

MASTER OF THE ROYAL CUMBERLAND YOUTHS.

As briefly announced in part of our last issue, the death took place at his home, 6, Gatwick Road, Southfields, on Wednesday week, of Mr. John Daniel Matthews, Master of the Royal Cumberland Youths. Mr. Matthews, who was 57 years of age, had been for many years a well-known and active figure in London ringing circles, having previously pursued the art in several other parts of the country. Early this year his health began to fail, and he had done no ringing since June. Of a cheery though somewhat retiring disposition, Mr. Matthews made a host of ringing friends, who greatly deplore his death and extend to his widow and family their deep sympathy.

Mr. Matthews was born at Penny Stratford, Bucks, and learnt to ring a bell at his Parish Church whilst a choirboy of about 12 years of age. His first peal, Grandsire Triples, was rung at Barnet Parish Church in May, 1894. At the end of that year he removed to Kettering, and in 1895 took part in the first peal by the Central Northamptonshire Association, as then constituted. In the following year he conducted the first peal by a local band at Kettering for over half a century. Migrating to Bristol in the early part of 1898, Mr. Matthews joined the St. Stephen's Youths, and took a rope in the first peal of Double Norwich rung by the society. Going to Bath in 1899, he became conductor of St. Mary's Guild, and called the first peal on St. Mary's bells. From Bath, Mr. Matthews went to Leamington, where he again was active in ringing, and eventually went to London in November, 1903.

THE LATE

In 1911 he was elected Master of the Cumberlands, a position he continued to occupy until his death, with the exception of the year 1913, when Mr. J. Parker occupied the office. He put new life into the society, and under his leadership many peals were rung, including Cambridge Surprise Royal and Maximus, for the first time by the Cumberlands. Among the notable peals in which Mr. Matthews has shared have been a family peal on handbells, with his daughter and two sons (1915); a handbell peal in a railway train between Paddington and Strand (1923); the first Surprise peals in the counties of Louth, Armagh, Down and Antrim, during a tour of Northern Ireland in 1904; the 'John' peal of Stedman Cinques at Cripplegate (1912); Stedman Caters by grandfathers, at Shoreditch (1927); and Stedman Cinques by six fathers and six sons at Shoreditch (1928). He was instrumental in ringing for the society Cambridge Maximus (conducted by himself), Cambridge Royal (conducted by Mr. G. H. Cross) and Cambridge Major (conducted by Mr. J. H. Cheesman), at St. Martin's and Shoreditch. Mr. Matthews had also rung in various Masonic peals, including Cambridge Major, Stedman Cinques, Treble Ten and Treble Twelve, all of which he conducted.

In February, 1916, in co-operation with the Rev. 'Dick' Sheppard, the formation of the St. Martin's-in-the-Fields band was undertaken, since when the ringing generally has made great strides, both at St. Martin's-in-the-Fields and St. Leonard's, Shoreditch. Under Mr. Matthews' able guidance many peals have been rung at both churches, and he was never more delighted than to see asterisks under a peal report, denoting first peals on twelve. Many ringers throughout the country have appreciated his efforts in this direction, which enabled them to make headway in twelve-bell ringing.

Some nine years ago Cambridge Maximus was practised, but in a few months at least ten of the band moved from London. A peal of Cambridge Royal was rung at Epsom on March 17th, 1928, the first of Surprise Royal for the society. In 1928 Mr. Matthews had again gathered together a band who under his excellent leadership were soon ringing Maximus. On November 17th, 1928 (just four years ago), he achieved his ambition of conducting a peal of Cambridge Surprise Maximus at St. Leonard's, Shoreditch, no fewer than eight of the band ringing a peal in that method on twelve for the first time. On Boxing Day in the same year Cambridge Maximus was again rung, at St. Martin's, this being the first Surprise peal on the bells.

From that time onwards Cambridge Maximus was rung practically every Sunday for service at both churches.

Mr. Matthews was a very popular Master of the Royal Cumberland Society, as witness his election for so many successive years, and in January, 1929, at the annual meeting, was the recipient of a presentation clock from the members as a mark of appreciation of his work and his long tenure of office. For many years he was one of the society's representatives on the Central Council.

At the beginning of this year Mr. Matthews' health began to fail, and he was compelled, under medical advice, to take things easily. It was hoped that rest would again restore him, but he gradually grew worse, and last Wednesday week he passed peacefully away.

THE FUNERAL.

The funeral took place at Streatham Cemetery on Monday afternoon and was largely attended. The mourners were the widow, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Matthews, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Matthews, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Matthews (sons and daughters-in-law), Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Hawkins (son-in-law and daughter), Miss V. Matthews (daughter), Mr. V. Matthews (son), Mrs. F. W. Grover (sister), Mr. E. A. Matthews and Mr. W. R. Matthews (brothers), Mrs. F. Lamb and Mrs. W. England (sisters-in-law), Mr. F. Lamb (nephew), Mrs. W. Plumptre (niece), Capt. and Mrs. Webb and Mr. and Mrs. F. Smith. Mr. Matthews' mother was not well enough to attend.

Among the many ringers who were present were Messrs. E. H. Lewis (president of the Central Council), W. T. Cockerill (hon. secretary of the Ancient Society of College Youths), T. Groombridge, sen., T. Berney, C. F. Winney, H. Pasmore and J. Hawkins (Ancient Society of College Youths), Messrs. G. W. Steere (hon. treasurer of the Cumberlands), L. Baybutt, A. Hardy, A. Neale, T. Newman, R. Bevan and G. H. Cross (members of the St. Martin's-in-the-Fields band), W. H. Fussell (Slough), J. E. Davis (London), J. Lee (Streatham), W. Norton (Highgate), Mr. and Mrs. W. Bottrill (London), Mrs. E. K. Fletcher (Edmonton), Mrs. R. F. Deal (East Ham), Mrs. G. H. Cross (Barnhurst), W. Bond (Crayford), A. Pye, J. Cernford, G. B. Lucas, W. Theobald and others. Messrs. J. Parker and J. Sparrow (former hon. secretary of the Cumberlands) were prevented by illness from attending. There were also many friends from the Southfields Club and Institute, of which the late Mr. Matthews was a member for many years.

At the close of the service a course of Bob Major, preceded by the 'whole pull and stand' three times, was rung over the grave by A. J. Neale 1-2, G. Cross 3-4, C. J. Matthews 5-6, T. Newman 7-8.

The wreaths numbered nearly 50, and included tributes from the Central Council, the Royal Cumberland Youths (bell-shaped and standing 3ft. high), Southfields Club and Institute, and the 'Rose of Denmark' Lodge of Freemasons.

It was not possible to ring on Mr. Matthews' favourite peal, St. Martin's, on the day of the funeral, but a quarter-peal will be attempted there with the bells half-muffled on Saturday. Shoreditch bells are at the moment awaiting some little repair, and, therefore, a peal cannot be attempted there.

MR. MATTHEWS' PEALS.

Mr. Matthews had rung 214 peals, of which he had conducted 95, his last having been a peal of Stedman Caters at West Ham, which he conducted on February 25th of this year. His last touch was for service at St. Martin's in June. Appended is his list of peals, 104 of which (conducted 68) he rang for the Royal Cumberland Youths:—

On Monday, November 20th, the bells of St. Botolph's, Bishopsgate, were rung half-muffled to the memory of Mr. J. D. Matthews, the following ringers taking part: A. Pye, O. T. Coles, H. Hoskins, J. Davis, J. Marks, J. G. Prior, E. Brett and C. W. Roberts.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT.

Mrs. J. D. Matthews and family wish to thank all ringers and friends for expressions of sympathy in their recent bereavement.

DEDICATION OF BIRSTWITH BELLS. NEW OCTAVE IN YORKSHIRE VILLAGE.

Birstwith, a pretty Yorkshire village situated in beautiful Nidderdale, was the scene of great activity on Saturday, November 4th. The Parish Church of St. James had previously possessed a very moderate peal of six bells, and on this day a new peal of eight were dedicated by the Suffragan Bishop of Knaresborough. Five of the old peal were given by the founder of the church, Mr. Frederick Greenwood, in 1860, a treble was added and the bells rehung in 1905, all this work being carried out by Messrs. Warner, of London.

As a result of a public meeting held in the village, it was decided to appeal for funds to recast and restore the peal. A most generous response followed, over 70 per cent. of the sum required being subscribed within four days. The remaining sum has now been raised, practically every parishioner subscribing, and the bells were dedicated free of debt, a remarkable achievement for a comparatively small parish.

Every seat was occupied when the dedication service began with the processional hymn, 'The God of Abraham praise.' There were 14 surplised clergy present, the accommodation in the choir stalls being insufficient to accommodate them all. Amongst the congregation were ringers from Bradford Cathedral, Headingley (St. Michael's and St. Chad's), Tadcaster, Guiseley, Thirsk and Ripon Cathedral. The bellfounders (Messrs. J. Taylor and Co.) were represented by Mr. J. P. Fidler.

Immediately after the singing of the processional hymn the Vicar (the Rev. R. Brittain) read a brief account of the history of the bells. This was followed by the singing of the Versicles and Psalms cxxi. and cl. The lesson was taken from I. Chronicles xxix. During the singing of the hymn, 'Ye watchers and ye holy ones,' the Bishop, Vicar and other clergy proceeded to the ringing chamber, which is situated on the ground floor at the west end of the church.

At the request of Capt. Greenwood (churchwarden), the Bishop dedicated the bells, after which a few rounds were rung by the local ringers: J. Ewbank 1, F. Whitworn 2, J. C. Lofthouse 3, A. C. Ewbank 4, G. Wainwright 5, R. Morley 6, G. Gill 7, H. Burrells 8. After further prayers the Bishop and clergy returned to the chancel, while the hymn, 'Fling ye bells your songs to Heaven,' was sung. The Bishop preached an eloquent sermon on the message of the bells from the text Psalm xix., 3 and 4.

The service concluded with Tennyson's 'Ring out, wild bells,' sung as an offertory hymn.

Immediately after the service, and in full view of the congregation, an excellent touch of 504 Grandsire Triples was rung by the following members of the Yorkshire Association: J. Hardcastle 1, R. Thomas 2, F. G. Sherwood 3, P. J. Johnson 4, J. Cotterell 5, F. W. Dixon 6, W. Talbot 7, E. Hudson 8. The tone of the bells delighted both parishioners and ringers, and the ringers were equally pleased with the 'go' of the bells.

A public tea was afterwards held in the Village School, at which over 200 sat down. Touches were rung on the handbells. The ringers then returned to the church, where touches of Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Kent Treble Bob Major, Bob Major and Double Norwich were rung, some of the local ringers managing their first course of Grandsire.

Messrs. John Taylor and Co. are to be congratulated on making another very fine addition to Yorkshire's bells. The bells are hung in two tiers of four each, and have a considerable draught of rope. The tenor is 11½ cwt. in G, and the volume of sound inside the church and in the neighbourhood has been pleasingly controlled. The ropes form a perfect circle in a small but comfortable ringing room.

This octave should prove a valuable addition to a district in which towers are rather scattered; it is easily accessible both from the sparsely populated North Riding and from the industrial district of the West Riding.

The local ringers, under the captaincy of Mr. Jackson Ewbank, are very keen, and hope soon to master the intricacies of change ringing.

MUFFLED BELLS.

At Sawston, Cambs, for evensong on Sunday, November 12th, 504 Grandsire Triples, rung with the bells half-muffled as a token of respect to the Rev. R. Natrass, late Vicar of Sawston: W. Hurry 1, S. Stabbings 2, L. Hurry 3, W. Stone 4, F. Matthews 5, H. Churchman 6, F. Hurry (conductor) 7, J. Smith 8. Longest touch in the method by 3rd and 6th.

At Amersham, on Sunday, November 19th, for evening service, 720 Cambridge Surprise Minor: L. H. Haddon 1, C. Chalwin 2, E. C. Ayres (conductor) 3, P. J. Lapham 4, W. E. Redrup 5, W. Edwards 6. Rung with the clappers half-muffled as a last tribute of respect to L. Edwards, a late ringer at Amersham, and father of the tenor ringer, who was interred on the 16th inst.

At St. Mary's, Higham Ferrers, on November 14th, after an attempt for a peal of Grandsire Triples, which was lost owing to a shift course, a quarter-peal by D. Newell 1, W. Wilby 2, W. Martin 3, C. Palmer 4, G. Smith 5, G. D. Deighton 6, W. Perkins (conductor) 7, A. Wilson 8. Rung with the bells half-muffled for H. Dunkley, who was a member of the local band.

DEATH OF GUILDFORD CATHEDRAL RINGER. THE PASSING OF MR. C. N. BURDOCK.

After two years of suffering, borne with the greatest fortitude, there passed away on Tuesday week at his home in Guildford, Surrey, Mr. Charles Nicholls Burdock, a member of the Guildford Cathedral Society and formerly its honorary secretary. Mr. Burdock, who was only 41 years of age, was a victim of cancer, and he leaves in bereavement a widow and a son, six years old, with whom great sympathy is felt.

Mr. Burdock was a native of Derby, and went to Guildford with his parents in 1901. He was one of three brothers who learned to ring at Holy Trinity Church, Guildford (which has since become the Cathedral). One brother was killed in the war, the other retired from ringing, but 'Charlie' Burdock retained the keenest interest in it to the end of his comparatively short life. He started ringing when he was about 17 years old, and was admitted a member of Holy Trinity Society in 1911, ringing his first peal—Stedman Triples—in April of that year at Haslemere. Owing to his health, he was not able to take part in peals as often as he would have wished, but he rang 76 in all, among them being a number of Surprise methods. His last was in August, 1931, a peal of Stedman, which was Mr. A. H. Pulling's one thousandth peal, and he always looked back on that peal as one of the finest of his career. Mr. Burdock was always at the light end in a peal, but he was a splendid striker.

From the time of its formation Mr. Burdock was honorary auditor of the Guildford Diocesan Guild, and was honorary secretary of the Holy Trinity Society during the last four years of his active ringing career.

His list of peals was as follows: Minor 2, Grandsire Triples 3, Bob Major 2, Bob Royal 1, Treble Bob Major 1, Oxford Bob Triples 1, Stedman Triples 22, Stedman Caters 4, Little St. Lawrence Major 1, Double Norwich Major 4, Superlative Surprise Major 3, Cambridge Surprise Major 3, Norfolk Surprise Major 1, St. Blaise Surprise Major 1, Dublin Surprise Major 1, Double Dublin Surprise Major 1, Guildford Surprise Major 2, Surrey Surprise Major 1, Bristol Surprise Major 4, London Surprise Major 17, total 76.

The funeral service on Saturday was attended by a large number of friends and sympathisers. The first portion was held in the Cathedral, and, prior to the arrival of the cortege, touches of Stedman Triples, with muffled bells and the tenor open at backstroke, were rung, followed by the 'whole pull and stand' forty-one times. The Provost (Very Rev. E. C. Kirwan) officiated, and the choirboys were present. The hymns, 'We love the place, O God' and 'Abide with me,' had been selected by Mr. Burdock, when he knew his life was nearing its end.

Among the members of the Guildford Diocesan Guild present were Mr. Walter Harrison (vice-president), Mr. J. S. Goldsmith (Hon. secretary), Mr. G. L. Grover (Guildford district secretary), Messrs. A. H. Pulling, H. Hutton, W. Robinson, W. R. Melville, H. Harris, W. M. Stone, B. H. G. Whitbourn, G. E. Clode, G. W. Steere (Sutton); M. Smither (Chiddingfold) and C. H. Dobbie (Kingston), present and past members of Holy Trinity Society; Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Hazelden, E. A. Etheridge and E. G. Heath (St. Nicolas', Guildford), Mrs. A. H. Pulling (Guildford), Mr. C. E. Smith (Godalming), Mrs. Whittington (Cranleigh), Mr. W. Denyer and Mr. C. W. Denyer (Farnham district secretary), Aldershot, L. Hunter (Shalford), etc. Others who attended included Mr. H. le Cocq, Mr. J. Weller (representing the Sales Branch, Post Office Telephones), Mr. H. T. Little (representing the Post Office Engineers), Mr. E. G. Knowles (representing the Post Office Section), Messrs. L. V. Garrod, I. M. Lock and P. E. Padgham (Guildford Post Office Telephones), Mrs. Jelley, Mr. L. Jelley, Miss P. Buckell, Mrs. E. G. Heath, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Tribe, Miss Campion (superintendent, Guildford Queen's Nursing), Messdames Hoskins, Bullard, Hutton and Chorley, the Misses Pulling, Ward, Heath and Hutchison, and Messrs. H. Gingell, A. Sherwin, W. Martin, W. R. Fry, C. W. T. Boyce, F. Ballam, W. H. Blake, J. Bald and C. Tucker.

The interment took place at Guildford Cemetery, the committal being said by the curate (the Rev. H. D. Pilcher). At the conclusion of the service, a band chosen by Mr. Burdock himself rang a perfect course of Grandsire Triples in slow time over the open grave. This fitting requiem to a brother ringer fell with impressive beauty on the silence of the November afternoon.

In the evening present and past members of Holy Trinity Society rang a half-muffled peal of Stedman Triples at the Cathedral, and at a meeting of the Guildford District of the Diocesan Guild, held at Woking, a resolution of sympathy and condolence with the widow of Mr. Burdock was passed by the members standing in silence.

There were a large number of floral tributes. On the coffin was one from the widow and the little son, in the form of a bell, suspended in a frame. Among those who sent wreaths were the Guildford Diocesan Guild, Holy Trinity Society, and St. Nicolas' Society, Guildford.

THE LATE MR. J. WAGHORN.

At All Hallows' Church, Tottenham, on Tuesday, November 14th, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples (half-muffled) was rung in memory of the late Joseph Waghorn, for many years a member of the society: H. W. H. Strickland 1, E. H. King 2, Mrs. E. H. King 3, S. G. Peck 4, W. Dickinson 5, W. J. Ellis (conductor) 6, H. Ellis 7, C. Davidson 8.

ECHOES OF THE LAKE DISTRICT TOUR.

MR. HOGARTH'S REJOINDER.

To the Editor.

Sir,—I did not intend to take up any more of your valuable space regarding the tour in the Lake District, but Mr. Jennings in his letter of November 10th asked me to reply. I feel bound to comply with his request, if only to correct a few of his many misstatements. Apparently he is one of those egoistic people who, when criticised, resort to personalities. I did not pen my letter of September 8th through any personal grievance, or any animosity towards Mr. Jennings, but with the hope that future tourists will not make such a whirlwind trip as the one in question, but will stay a few hours after their peal and do a little 'missionary' work. Surely the Exercise is in need of missionary work at these times. Unfortunately, I could not receive the tourists personally at Keswick owing to business ties, the day being Bank Holiday, nor could I have taken part in any peal if I had been asked to do so.

Our tower secretary was deputed to meet the visitors, and I can assure Mr. Jennings that he did not misinform me with regard to the procedure adopted at the church. I have visited several towers since the tour, and I ask Mr. Jennings if he accepted all the local arrangements in the same spirit in which they were welcomed? My information is to the contrary.

Mr. Jennings leads your readers to believe that I am antagonistic to peal ringing. That is far from the truth. I am against peal ringing which is performed by men of tried abilities who only ring peals where the band is composed of this standard.

Some letters which Mr. Jennings holds of mine appear to be his trump card. I am not afraid of the contents being made public, but can he say the same of his, which I have in my possession, and does he forget that in one of them he asks me to treat them confidentially?

With regard to Sunday trading for profit, a little advice to Mr. Jennings on this point would not be out of place. Be certain of your information before making public statements. Two businesses of the same name and trade can be misleading. My business premises are locked up on Sundays.

Mr. Jennings is quite welcome to visit our tower at any time, as he has done in the past. The most proficient ringer can acquire a little more knowledge from an unexpected quarter.

TYSON HOGARTH.

'GRAB AND RUN.'

Sir,—Mr. Jennings, in his letter published on November 10th, regarding the Lake District tour, refers to a youth who met them at the church. The said youth, being the undersigned, can confirm the statements made by Mr. Hogarth regarding the procedure adopted by Mr. Jennings and the information that I gave him of the peals previously rung on the bells. He was most anxious to go for a peal of Stedman, which had been previously attempted by a mixed band from Windermere, Ambleside and Keswick.

After the peal Mr. Jennings rushed the tourists off to a neighbouring town. No chance was given of seeking any help that could have been asked for from the tourists. The whole procedure was one of 'grab and run,' and not very encouraging for young ringers. Such methods as these do not promote change ringing, but rather leave one with a feeling of disgust. I hope that Mr. Jennings will use a little more discretion when he has the arrangements in hand for another tour.

J. W. BROWNRIGG.

Keswick, Cumberland.

AN OMISSION.

Dear Sir,—With reference to my letter which appeared in your issue of the 10th, I find, on a perusal of my copy, that inadvertently I have omitted a few words, which, in conjunction with the sentence from which they are omitted, are of some importance.

It occurred in paragraph 6, re Sunday peals, and following 'trading for profit on Sundays' should have read, 'and, as this is rife in Keswick, I would suggest that Mr. Hogarth would find an outlet for his zeal re Sunday observance if he raised his voice in protest against things of that description.'

EDWIN JENNINGS.

Kendal.

DEATH OF FORMER WELLINGBOROUGH RINGER.

At the age of 76 years, Mr. Ephraim West, of Wellingborough, has passed to his rest. He was a member of the belfry for about 30 years, although, owing to ill-health, he had not taken part in any ringing for several years.

The funeral took place on November 7th, when the local ringers were represented by Mr. H. Lilley. Muffled touches were rung in the evening by the local ringers.

MACCLESFIELD.—On Sunday, September 24th, at Christ Church for evening service on the occasion of the harvest festival, 1,008 Double Norwich Major: W. Gayes 1, A. Challinor 2, F. L. Ronan 3, A. V. Rees 4, J. Tipper 5, W. Stevenson 6, J. Worth (conductor) 7, J. Waumsley 8. Longest length in the method by ringers of 1st, 2nd, 3rd, 4th, 5th and 8th, all of whom only started to ring the method a fortnight since. It was their first touch. This is the first time Double Norwich has been rung in Macclesfield by a service band.

ESSEX ASSOCIATION.

SUCCESS OF MONTHLY PEALS IN NORTHERN DIVISION.

The annual meeting of the Northern Division was held at Dunmow on Saturday, November 11th, when 22 towers were represented. Ringing commenced about 3 o'clock with a well-struck course of Cambridge Major. Service was conducted by the Rev. E. N. Mellish, V.C., the lesson being read by the district secretary (Mr. F. Ridgwell).—A collection in aid of the Bell Restoration Fund amounted to 13s. 6d.

The Vicar presided at the tea in St. Mary's Room, and there were also present Col. and Mrs. Gibbons and other ladies, Mr. Barnard (organist), Mr. S. Roper (representative from Messrs. Gillett and Johnston) and 54 ringers. Tea had been beautifully arranged by members of the local company, their wives and other lady helpers.

At the business meeting, the Vicar took the chair in the unavoidable absence of the Master (Mr. C. H. Howard).

The district secretary read a short report of the work in the division during the past year. Five meetings had been held with an average attendance of 42. Sixty-three peals had been rung on tower and handbells, 14 members acting as conductors, Mr. Keeble heading the list with 39 peals, whilst six conducted their first peal. Two hon. members, two non-resident and five ringing members had been elected. The monthly peals on eight-bell towers, suggested by Mr. W. Keeble at the last annual district meeting, had proved successful, ten out of twelve had already been rung.

Mr. A. A. Saunders was re-elected District Master and acknowledged the honour conferred upon him.—The district secretary (Mr. F. Ridgwell) was also re-elected, and he thanked all present, and especially the correspondent of each company, who had done so much to assist him in his office.

One non-resident and two ringing members were elected.

On the proposition of Mr. W. Keeble, it was agreed to hold the next meeting at Witham on February 3rd, 1934.

Mr. L. W. Wiffen proposed a hearty vote of thanks to the Vicar for the use of the bells, his excellent address and for presiding at the tea and business meeting. He also thanked the local ringers and their wives for kindly providing tea.—The Vicar, in responding, said it gave him very great pleasure to be with them and to see such great friendship. He was sure the local ringers were only too happy to do what they had done. He was very sorry Mr. Howard was unable to be present, as he had been such an ardent worker for the association, and he hoped he would very soon be amongst them again (applause).

Mr. H. W. Smith also thanked the Vicar. He welcomed Col. and Mrs. Gibbons and thanked the organist for his services. He extended a hearty welcome to all the visiting ringers and hoped they would soon pay another visit.—Touches on handbells and in various methods on the tower bells, including London Surprise Major, brought a most successful meeting to a close.

RINGERS AND BROADCASTING.

Ringers owe it to the public to give of their best when ringing church bells and particularly when ringing for the Sunday services. When they are practising there is some excuse for indifferent ringing, for it is here that the ringer must seek to extend his knowledge and raise the standard of his skill. It cannot be expected, therefore, that only the best ringing should be heard on practice night; on the other hand, even practice night should not be utilised merely for the occupation of what has been not inaptly termed 'bell banging.' It should be used for its legitimate purpose, namely, improving the standard of ringing, and the opportunity of coaching those who need advice. Every ringing occasion should, of course, find the ringer anxious to improve his striking, but for service, particularly, nothing should be attempted which the band are not thoroughly capable of performing well. Better good rounds than bad change ringing on Sundays is wise advice, and, equally also, it is better to ring a simple method well than a complicated one badly. The public do not know much about the art of change ringing, but they can usually distinguish good ringing from bad.

Much more important, however, is it that ringing done in the hearing of the far greater audience of wireless listeners should be as near perfection as possible. The complaint of a correspondent in our last issue of indifferent striking heard on the ether on Sunday evenings is fully justified. We want to educate the public to a greater liking of church bells, but this purpose will not be served by bad ringing or even by bells which 'come over' in such a way that, to the uninitiated listener, they appear a complete jumble of sound. We can quite understand that when a broadcast service is arranged from some church, the local ringers feel they are entitled to what honour there may be attaching to the broadcasting of the bells, and desire to keep this part of the proceedings in their own hands. But in so doing they are not always serving the best interests of the art. One or two indifferent strikers, who have no 'ears,' or, having 'ears,' are incapable of consistently correcting the inaccuracy of a 'false-struck' bell, can mar the whole effect of a broadcast, by robbing it of the rhythm which is the foundation of good ringing, and thus creating in those who hear it a sense of irritation instead of pleasure.

We are afraid the importance of this is not fully appreciated by all ringers. Everyone responsible for a bell broadcast should see that the bells are manned by ringers who can be depended upon to put up a performance that can be counted as near perfection as possible. The man who is known to be a defective striker should be ruthlessly ruled out of any broadcast performance, and, if necessary, outside assistance should be invited to ensure a good result. The effect of ringing on the local public is important; the effect on the broadcast audience is of infinitely greater importance and we believe that any ringer, except the most utterly selfish, would be prepared to let a better man ring in his place if the matter were properly put to him. We cannot too strongly urge that nothing but the absolute best is good enough for a broadcast programme and no personal consideration ought to be allowed to stand in the way of producing it. If this advice were always acted upon many bell broadcasts would be a good deal better than they are, and the public would have a better appreciation of the ringers' art.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.GOOD PROGRESS IN NEWBURY BRANCH.

The annual meeting of the Newbury Branch of the Oxford Diocesan Guild was held at Newbury on Saturday, November 18th, when the following towers were represented: Bucklebury, Beedon, Brightwalton, Compton, East Garston, East Ilsley, Hungerford, Peasemore, Shaw, Thatcham and Newbury ringers. Visitors were present from Abingdon, Basingstoke, Reading, Mortimer, Englefield, Stratley, Aldermaston and Overton. Service was conducted by the Rector (Canon W. L. Cooper), assisted by the Rev. W. Kingsley Kefford, who read the lessons. The address was given by Canon G. F. Coleridge (Master of the Guild). An excellent tea was served in the Parish Room by Mrs. H. W. Curtis, assisted by other ringers' wives, and upwards of 50 sat down.

At the business meeting which followed, the Rev. W. Kingsley Kefford (chairman of the branch) presided, supported by Canon Coleridge, Canon Cooper, Mr. A. J. Wright (Guild treasurer) and Mr. R. T. Hibbert (Guild secretary).

Mr. H. W. Curtis, branch hon. secretary and treasurer, reported good progress during the year. Five peals had been rung and meetings had been well attended. Mr. Curtis spoke of the sad loss they had sustained in the death of their Master and friend, the Rev. O. W. O. Jenkyn, and all stood for a few moments as a token of respect. Mr. Curtis then welcomed Canon G. F. Coleridge, Mr. Jenkyn's successor.

The balance sheet, showing a balance in hand of £14 8s. 6d., was adopted.

The Rev. W. Kingsley Kefford was re-elected chairman, Mr. H. W. Curtis hon. secretary and treasurer.

Good reports were received from nearly every tower in the branch. Canon Coleridge thanked the members for their warm welcome, and said he hoped to be with them whenever he could.—Mr. R. T. Hibbert and Mr. A. J. Wright congratulated the branch on its success.

The next meeting was fixed for Chieveley in February, and the spring meeting for Midgham in April, the dates to be arranged by the secretary.

Eight new members were elected.

Votes of thanks were accorded to the Rector, Canon Cooper, Canon Coleridge, the Rev. W. Kingsley Kefford, the organist and Mrs. Curtis and her helpers for the tea.

After the meeting Canon W. L. Cooper dedicated an oak peal board in commemoration of the peal of Grandsire Caters rung on Newbury ten on November 4th. Some good touches of Grandsire and Stedman Caters and Bob Royal was rung during the afternoon and evening.

DEATH OF MR. URIAH BRAVEN.

120 PEALS AS TENORMAN.

Bristol has lost one of its best known figures in ringing circles by the death on November 22nd of Mr. Uriah Woodland Braven. Early this year Mr. Braven underwent a serious operation, and while he seemed at first to make a good recovery, he gradually became worse and passed peacefully away, at the age of 59 years, after being confined to bed for about three weeks.

Although Mr. Braven's capabilities as a ringer were limited to the tenor, he was a most enthusiastic member of the Exercise, and had done his share in teaching young ringers to handle a bell. He had rung about 120 peals, all of them on the tenor. He took part in one of the attempts for the Grandsire Cinques record at Painswick, being on the tenor when the bells had to be brought round at 9,000 odd, owing to the fatigue of one of the band. He rang his first peal on October 16th, 1903, and for 30 years had been a member of the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association.

Last year he was chairman of Bristol United Guilds, and it was one of the proudest events of his life when he took the chair at the annual dinner last January.

The funeral service took place on Monday at St. Mary Redcliffe Church, to which Mr. Braven was devotedly attached. He was on the staff of the church and greatly respected by the clergy and his colleagues, and his great regret was that he was unable to take part in the recent restoration celebrations, having been ordered to bed by his doctor on the day of the great festival.

The officiating clergy at the funeral service were the Vicar, Canon E. L. Hertslett, M.A., and assistant staff, also the Rev. H. L. Colin Walker, M.A. (Vicar of St. Luke's, Bodminster).

The service was choral, Mr. R. T. Morgan presiding at the organ. There were present at the church quite a number of fellow-ringers to pay their last tribute of respect, and as the cortege left the church the bells were rung half-muffled to 240 Stedman Triples by F. G. Leaker 1, E. Abraham 2, G. Pearce 3, W. Abraham 4, J. G. Jefferies 5, F. Skidmore 6, W. A. Cave 7, H. Pring 8.

The floral tributes included a wreath from the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association (Bristol Branch), and Bristol United Ringing Guilds.

WEDDING BELLS

On Thursday, November 16th, the Helmingham company attempted a peal as a wedding compliment to Mr. Cecil W. Pipe, of Staines, and a native of Grundisburgh, Suffolk, who was married on that date to Miss Dorothy Mitchell, of Virginia Water, Surrey. Unfortunately, the peal came to grief after an hour and a half's ringing, but the band extended their good wishes to the happy pair for their health and happiness.

The method attempted was Wavency Surprise, in which the Leiston band have just scored the first peal. By a coincidence and unknown to each other, the two bands were practising this method at the same time. A peal of it was lost at Helmingham after two hours and forty minutes on October 30th, and thereby gave the Leiston band a chance to get a peal of it first. However, the Helmingham men congratulate the Leiston company and wish them all success in carrying on their good work in the future.

WORCESTERSHIRE ASSOCIATION.A SUCCESSFUL EXPERIMENT.

The dinner held on the occasion of the jubilee of the Worcestershire Association last year was so successful and enjoyable that it was decided to arrange one each year, and on Saturday, November 25th, the first of these took place at Worcester, and was thoroughly enjoyed by all present. The Master (Mr. William Short) presided, and was supported by the Rev. T. C. de la Hey (Rector of Bromsgrove), Mr. Harry Mason, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Walker (Birmingham), Messrs. F. W. Perrens and F. Pervin (Coventry) and nearly all the officers, the company numbering about 75 in all. Messrs. W. B. Cartwright and J. D. Johnson acted as M.C.s, and had arranged an excellent musical programme by Messrs. W. C. Dowding, G. J. Hemming, G. C. King, E. C. Barber and Miss Johnson.

The toast of 'The Association' was proposed by Mr. Albert Walker, who congratulated the officers on their work and referred to the loss sustained by the death of two so much respected members as Messrs. T. J. Salter and A. E. Parsons.

Mr. James Hemming, who is to be congratulated on being made an alderman of Evesham, proposed the toast of 'Kindred Associations,' coupling with it a welcome to the visitors who were present.—Mr. F. W. Perrens, in his reply, referred to the undue importance given by some to small misunderstandings, and illustrated it by anecdotes which were much enjoyed.

When proposing the health of 'The Chairman,' which was drunk with musical honours, the secretary (Mr. J. R. Newman) called attention to this dinner being an experiment, but from the way in which everyone seemed to enjoy it there appeared no reason why it should not be repeated and prove more successful each year. That, however, would be for the next annual meeting to decide.

GUILDFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

A well-attended meeting of the Guildford District of the Guildford Diocesan Guild was held at Old Woking on Saturday week, when, at the business meeting, presided over by Mr. J. Corbett (hon. treasurer of the Guild), the retiring district officers were renominated, viz.: Master, Mr. W. R. Melville; hon. secretary, Mr. G. L. Grover; and auditor, Mr. C. Hazelden. Mr. S. Marshall (Puttenham) was again nominated as hon. members' representative on the Executive Committee, and four names were submitted for the two places as representatives of the ringing members.

The members present passed a vote of condolence with the widow of Mr. C. N. Burdock, the Guild's auditor (who had been buried that day), and stood in silence for a few moments as a mark of respect.

WOLVEY WANTS MORE BELLS.VICAR AND A 'PRESSING NEED.'

The inclement weather on Saturday, November 18th, did not prevent a good number from turning up at Wolvey for the joint meeting of the Warwickshire Guild and the Hinckley District of the Midland Counties Association. The six bells were kept going during the afternoon to various methods, and tea was served in the school by Mrs. J. H. Beale and helpers.

The Vicar (the Rev. S. Morris) welcomed the visitors, and sat down to tea with them, accompanied by Mr. P. Toone, one of the churchwardens.

After the tea, the expenses of which were kindly defrayed by one who remained anonymous, Mr. J. H. W. White (Master of the Warwickshire Guild) proposed a vote of thanks to the Vicar for the use of the bells, to the kindly donor of the tea and to the helpers.—This was seconded by Mr. C. H. Webb, of the M.C.A.

The Vicar responded by saying how pleased he was to welcome the members of the two neighbouring ringing associations, and expressed the hope that shortly the six bells would be augmented to form an octave. The reason he had invited the churchwarden to the tea was that he might see the keenness amongst visiting ringers. When he had added to that the keenness amongst the local ringers, he would understand the pressing need for two more bells (applause).—Mr. J. H. Beale (the local captain) supported the Vicar in his remarks.

A touch of Stedman Triples was then rung on handbells by Messrs. F. W. Perrens, F. E. Pervin, J. H. W. White, C. H. Webb. Mrs. D. E. Beamish and Mr. C. H. Webb also rang a few tunes on the handbells.

A return was made to the tower, where ringing was resumed and continued until about 8 o'clock, the methods being Grandsire and Stedman Doubles, Bob Minor, Double Court, Oxford and Kent Treble Bob, Cambridge, Beverley and London Surprise, with rounds and call changes for the beginners.

The towers represented at the meeting were as follows: Allesley, Arley, Broughton-Astley, Bulkington, Burbage, Chilvers Coton, Croft, Earl Shilton, Exhall, Higham, Nuneaton, Peckleton, Sapcote, Stoke, Stoney Stanton.

MUFFLED BELLS.

At Southgate, Middlesex, on November 23rd, 1,263 Stedman Caters: John Armstrong (conductor) 1, J. Nash 2, W. Bowden 3, S. Wade 4, G. Plater 5, W. Pickworth 6, N. A. Tomlinson 7, H. Miller 8, J. E. Miller 9, A. G. Crane 10. Rung with the bells half-muffled in memory of Mr. Thomas Tinner, a churchwarden of Christ Church, who was buried earlier in the day.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

Tewkesbury bells are now at Loughborough Foundry to be tuned. The two trebles are being recast and two additional bells added as the national memorial to the late Rev. C. D. P. Davies.

On Saturday last, the new Rector of Woolwich, the Rev. W. F. Leadbitter, B.A., scored a peal of Bob Major at his own church. It is over 20 years since he rang his last peal.

Mr. Wm. H. Lambert, of Benenden, Kent, who is 78 years of age, rang his 150th peal last week at his Parish Church. Another veteran who took part was Mr. Charles Tribe, of Tenterden, and they are both to be congratulated upon an excellent performance.

Congratulations, also, to the band at Christchurch, Hants, upon scoring the first peal on the twelve bells at the Priory Church. Mr. George Preston has for many years laboured arduously to maintain a company at Christchurch, and it is no mean performance to have raised them to twelve-bell peal standard in so comparatively short a time.

It is noteworthy, too, that this peal was the first by three of the band. It is seldom that a twelve-bell peal is the first that a ringer scores; to have three 'firsts' in one peal is all the more praiseworthy.

In a peal of Grandsire Doubles at Oldbury, Worcestershire, three ringers rang their first peal and two their first 'inside.' We always look upon a performance of this kind as a peal of merit, and hope it is a first step to higher things.

The bells at Prescot Church, Lancs, are to be restored. The frame, which had got into an unsafe condition, is to be strengthened. The work will cost between £200 and £250, and it is proposed to raise the necessary funds by a 'gift day.'

PRESENTATION TO REV. F. LI. EDWARDS.

To mark the completion of 25 years' ministry as Rector of Kington Magna, the Rev. F. Llewellyn Edwards entertained the ringers, choir and other churchworkers, numbering 40 in all, to supper on Tuesday, November 21st. During the course of the evening he was presented with a handsome silver inkstand as a gift from his guests. On the following Saturday a peal in seven methods was rung by members of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild on the bells of Kington Magna Church in honour of the event. To complete the festivities the hymns at evensong on Sunday were sung to the accompaniment of Gillingham Silver Band.

STAGSDEN'S BELL FUND COMPLETED.

A THANKSGIVING PEAL.

Although Stagsden, a Bedfordshire village, has had a ring of five bells since the year 1769—some of the bells are dated 1652—no peal had been rung on them until Saturday week, when, as recorded in our last issue, 5,040 of Minor in two methods was rung, and four of the local band took part—three ringing their first peal.

It was on January 9th, 1930, that an appeal was launched for funds to restore the bells. Since that time about £495 has been raised to carry out the scheme, the fund being completed on November 10th, 1933. The peal was arranged and rung as an act of thanksgiving for the successful conclusion of the scheme. The striking throughout the peal was good, and parishioners have expressed their appreciation of the performance.

Stagsden now has a band of ten ringers, all, with the exception of two, under 30 years of age, and all six bells have been rung for morning and evening service on each Sunday since they were dedicated on November 4th, 1932. The restoration work was carried out by Messrs. J. Taylor and Co., and the bells are a delightfully musical ring and a pleasure to handle.

SUSSEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

SUGGESTED RING OF EIGHT AT ALDRINGTON.

A very pleasant meeting of the Southern District was held at Aldrington on Saturday, November 25th, and attended by 25 members, who showed their interest in six-bell methods by ringing five different Surprise methods, two Treble Bob, two Plain, two Doubles and that 'nobody's child'—Woodbine. The Rector (the Rev. H. T. Mogridge), who is himself a ringer, and took part in the ringing during the afternoon, gave a very interesting address and presided at the short business meeting.

Mr. J. Thornton Rickman, Master of the association, was present and proposed the hearty vote of thanks which was accorded the Rector for presiding, granting the use of the bells and his address; also to the organist and to the local ringers for having everything in readiness.

The following towers were represented: St. Nicholas', St. Peter and the Good Shepherd, Brighton, Chichester, Crawley, Heane, Lewes, Lindfield, Ringmer, Shoreham and Steyning, together with several members of the local band.

After tea several touches were rung on the handbells, and, incidentally, during that usual period of informal talk, the 'odd-struck' six at the church came in for some comment. Aldrington having the only peal of bells in Hove, it is to be hoped that a fund for replacing them by a good eight will be started before long. It is also worthy of note in these times that the church has recently had an addition made to accommodate the larger congregations in this ever-growing residential area.

A VILLAGE BELL OPENING. THE SPIRIT OF THANKSGIVING.

To appreciate to the full the place which church bells occupy in the hearts of the English people one has to go to a village bell opening. In a little country parish there are few things which arouse a keener interest than the restoration of the bells, which, perhaps, for centuries have been one of the chief means of expressing the public joys and sorrows, and have summoned generation after generation of villagers to join in the Sunday services, or, at least, have served as a reminder of the Day of Rest and its privileges.

Last Saturday, in the bleakness of a November afternoon, and through the first snowstorm of the winter, we made our way to Upton Grey, a tiny Hampshire village of Saxon origin, almost unknown and untouched by the busy world beyond. It is reached only by by-roads, so narrow in places that there is hardly room for two vehicles to pass, and one comes upon it suddenly, nestling round the village pond, and trailing away up the hillside to the ancient church.

Upton Grey had for the day, at all events, assumed a new importance. Its bells had been restored and augmented, and the Lord Bishop of the Diocese was coming in person to dedicate them. Every man, woman and child from the village who could leave home or the fields or farmyards attended the service, and when we arrived, after being delayed by the storm, the church was full, and the choir, composed of men and boys in clean white surplices and girls in their Sunday best, were assembled at the lych gate for the coming of the procession of clergy from the Vicarage, lower down the hill.

And while we wait we take in the main features of this somewhat remarkable building. There are traces, surely, of Saxon work, portions of the fabric are certainly early Norman. That arch of the tower which divides the nave from the chancel is undoubtedly part of the original building; the chancel itself is nearly as old. There is a north aisle, which, built on the hillside, rises in tiers of pews, and at the west end there is an open gallery perched on pillars. Once upon a time there was (as we learned afterwards) a south aisle, but that had to be pulled down because it threatened to collapse. Some day, perhaps, the church may be lighted by electricity, for we had seen the now ubiquitous pylons of the national grid system rearing their heads among the trees near the village, but at present oil lamps and candles have to suffice.

THE SERVICE.

But now the procession is approaching the south door, headed by the crossbearer. As it reaches the porch the choir begin the hymn, 'We love the place, O God,' in which the congregation wholeheartedly join. The procession passes under the tower to the chancel, where, the choir having taken their places, the clergy advance beyond the eastern arch and open out to make way for the Bishop, who carries his pastoral staff himself, to enter the sacristy.

The preliminaries to the dedication ceremony are short: The Lord's Prayer and versicles, the 150th Psalm, the lesson from Numbers x. 1-10, and the Magnificat. Then the Bishop proceeds to the tower, where, standing beneath the western arch, he receives one of the bell-ropes, and Lord Basing, one of the churchwardens, requests him to dedicate the bells, the new bell frame and the chiming apparatus 'to the glory and praise of God.' Then the Bishop speaks. He recites versicles, while the congregation reverently respond and afterwards join in the Lord's Prayer. And, having asked God's blessing on the work, his Lordship solemnly dedicates the bells 'in the faith of Jesus Christ, to the glory of God, in the Name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost.'

A few blows, struck on one of the bells, signified to all within hearing that the central act of the service had been completed. Prayers followed and afterwards the Bishop addressed the congregation in homely but eloquent phrases, telling them of the original purpose of church towers and bells, of their influence on history, architecture and poetry, and of their lessons and their call. Quickly then the service ends with the hymn, 'Praise, my soul, the King of Heaven,' a prayer for blessing upon those whose work and gifts had made possible the setting up of the bells, and the Benediction.

The service was over; it was simple; it was impressive; its keynote was one of thanksgiving. As the procession of choir and clergy leave the church the merry little peal strike out overhead, manned by a team of ringers from Basingstoke, who, after some well-struck rounds, ring with equal precision a couple of six-scores of Grandsire Doubles. Slowly the congregation disperses, but many remain in the churchyard to listen for the first time to the sound of their village bells as a ring of six, and while they listen the setting sun goes down in a blaze of glory, bathing the old church in its golden light, and seeming to shed its benison upon the crowning act of the villagers' devotion and generosity.

HOW RESTORATION WAS DELAYED.

It is something like five years since the restoration of the bells at Upton Grey was contemplated. Some of them were ancient, and the tenor had come down from the pre-Reformation period. It was cast about 1540, and inscribed, 'O Sancte Blasi Ora Pro Nobis.' It is badly cracked in the crown, but on account of its antiquity the Diocesan Advisory Committee would not allow it to be recast. A generous donor was, however, found willing to replace the old with a new bell, but another obstacle to the restoration was raised. An 'authority' advised the Diocesan Committee that the decrepit bell frame was also pre-Reformation, and, despite its derelict condition, they refused to allow it to be replaced. Quite rightly the Church authorities declined to spend money on it, and so a deadlock ensued—until it was discovered that the 'authority' was wrong and the frame not so old by 200 years as it had been represented to be. Thus were the antiquarians confounded!

The whole peal now hang in a new frame of English oak. Two old bells, the present 4th, also cast about the year 1540, and the 5th, cast in 1631, have been retuned and retained, the third recast, and treble and second added, which, together with the new tenor, make up a well-balanced and merry peal, with a tenor of 9 cwt. 4 lb. in A.

The celebrations did not end with the service in church. A large number of parishioners, visiting clergy and ringers gathered in the Parish Hall and had tea together, and the Bishop came among the party and chatted to most of them in turn. After tea the Yateley ringers, with Mr. S. J. Riddell as leader, rang a course of Grandsire Triples on handbells and a selection of tunes, which were much appreciated. A party of village boys led the 'whoopce,' and filled the hall with long and shrill cheers.

The Vicar (the Rev. Henry Sewell) and parishioners were thanked for their hospitality to the ringers by Major Stilwell (hon. secretary of the Basingstoke District of the Winchester and Portsmouth Guild), who congratulated them on the consummation of the scheme which had given them such a delightful peal of bells.

The Vicar, in reply, welcomed the ringers and thanked them for coming to ring the bells on that occasion. He hoped they would come often and that soon they would have their own team of ringers in Upton Grey. Until then they would have to use the Ellacombe apparatus that had been installed. The Vicar also thanked all who had helped in the restoration scheme and the many clergy who had come to join in the service that day.

THE BELLS AND TOWER.

Throughout the evening touches in various methods were rung on the bells, which delighted all who heard them. Messrs. J. Taylor and Co., of Loughborough, who were represented at the service by Mr. R. H. Dove, have carried out the work in a most admirable manner.

The following are the particulars of the bells:—

Treble.—Note F sharp. Weight: 3 cwt. 0 qr. 27 lb. 'Gloria in Excelsis Deo.' G. W. H. 1933.

No. 2.—E. 3 cwt. 2 qr. 22 lb. 'In Terra Pax Homini-bus.' G. W. H. 1933.

No. 3.—D. 4 cwt. 1 qr. 9 lb. Cast 1832—Recast 1933. Basing—so named in recognition of the work of John Limbrey Robert 3rd Lord Basing and his wife Mary Alice Erle for the restoration of the bells.

No. 4.—C sharp. 5 cwt. 0 qr. 4 lb. 'O Sancta Anna Ora Pro Nobis.' (Date c. 1540.)

No. 5.—B. 6 cwt. 1 qr. 20 lb. 'Prayes the Lord, 1631.'

Tenor.—A. 9 cwt. 0 qr. 4 lb. 'Venite Exultemus Domino.' The gift of Harriette Fanshawe Martin, last surviving member of the family of Admiral Sir W. F. Martin, Bart., G.C.B., Upton Grey House, 1870-1897.

The central tower of Upton Grey Church was built in two periods. The bottom portion is obviously part of the original building, the upper part, built in brick, was added in the 17th century. The walls are immensely thick and the accommodation in the ringing room—approached by steep external wooden steps—is belied by the outward dimensions of the tower. The ancient tenor, now in honourable retirement, has found a resting place in the ringing chamber, where for many years twelve leather fire buckets lay neglected. They bore the inscription, 'Upton Grey. J.1762K.' Two of these have been repaired and cleaned, and will be preserved as interesting relics. The initials 'J. K.' are presumed to be those of James King, to whose memory there is a marble slab laid in the aisle of the church. G.

LEEDS AND DISTRICT SOCIETY HAVE AN UNWELCOME VISITOR.

The November meeting was held at St. Michael's, Headingley, on Saturday. The bells were rung up shortly after 3 p.m., and (except for breaks for tea and the business meeting) ringing continued until 9 p.m. Members and friends were present from Armley, Batley, Burley, Calverley, Drighlington, Felkirk, Headingley (St. Chad's), Holbeck, Idle, Pudsey, Rothwell, Tadenaster and the local company.

The business meeting was held in the tower, and the president occupied the chair.

After the minutes had been read and signed, the door of the ringing room was thrown open and a very irate man demanded that ringing should cease or his wife would leave home. When he stopped talking he was asked to leave the belfry and make any complaint he had with regard to the ringing meeting to the Vicar, who had given his permission for the meeting to be held.

The business meeting was then continued and brought to a successful conclusion by the usual vote of thanks to the Vicar and churchwardens and the local company.—Mr. R. Thomas replied (through the secretary) for the local company.

The next meeting will be held at Pudsey in January.

Methods rung were Cambridge Minor, Stedman Triples, Bob Major, Kent Treble Bob Major, Double Norwich Court Bob Major, Superlative and London.

EIGHTY—AND STILL GOING STRONG

MR. JAMES GEORGE'S DOUBLE EVENT.

'Men may come and men may go, but James George goes on for ever,' if some poet, whose name we can't be bothered to remember, will permit us to adapt one of his most impressive lines to meet the needs of the moment. For James George came long before most of us can remember and will go on—if actions and appearances can be relied upon—long after most of us have taken our departure.

On Monday, as all our readers are aware, he celebrated his 80th birthday; on Saturday, as most readers will learn for the first time, he rang his 1,200th peal! What a double event! In this respect he has all previous record holders beaten to a frazzle. At a time of life when most people—if they are not already dead—sit with their feet in the fender and dream, or in their waking moments deplore the misdeeds of their past, Mr. George is dashing about the country, taking all bells as they come and ringing them to peals till the very gudgeons cry out for rest. What with cooking his own breakfast, tidying up the drawing room of 44, Cuckoo Road, and making his own bed, then travelling all day and half the night with just sufficient interval to put another peal in his bag, Mr. George has no time for ruminating on the past, unless it is to pour into an interested ear some story of a new world conquered, and he has no misdeeds—to speak of—to deplore.

This young man of eighty leads a hectic life and cannot understand why those many years his junior cannot keep up the pace with him. He started his peal ringing in 1889, when he was 35 years of age, and since that time has averaged more than one peal a fortnight! Fancy that, over a period of 45 years! This is how his peal ringing has advanced:—

100th peal,	November 20th, 1894
200th peal,	December 31st, 1899
300th peal,	January 13th, 1906
400th peal,	September 22nd, 1908
500th peal,	October 19th, 1912
600th peal,	August 18th, 1917
700th peal,	October 8th, 1921
800th peal,	August 9th, 1924
900th peal,	July 3rd, 1926
1,000th peal,	October 6th, 1928
1,100th peal,	December, 1930
1,200th peal,	November 25th, 1933

It is impossible to recount here all the many great performances which Mr. George has put up. It will be remembered that not long ago—when much nearer 80 than 70—Mr. George rang Painswick tenor for 1½ hours in that lamentable effort, which was to have been a record, but proved to be false. All the heavy bells that have been open to him he has rung to peals, among them Bow tenor (53 cwt.), Southwark (50 cwt.), Norwich (43 cwt.), Cornhill (41 cwt.), Sheffield (40 cwt.), Shrewsbury (40 cwt.) and others little less in weight he has turned to peals, some in Maximus and some in Cinques, and those that are heavier he is still prepared to take on if opportunity offers. On the eve of completing four score years he rang the tenor at Nuneaton to Cambridge Major and the tenor at All Saints', Derby, to Treble Ten. Even on Tuesday 'he was on the box' at St. Martin's, Birmingham, and, at the age of 80 years 1 day, rang the 37 cwt. tenor to his birthday peal—at least, we shall be surprised if he didn't, although we had not heard the result of the attempt at the moment of going to press.

Amid all the many performances of which Mr. George may be proud, there is this to be said without any possibility of equivocation, no man at his age has done the prodigious jobs at the rope end that Mr. George has accomplished, and no man of his years is so active in peal ringing. His total in 1933 is already 50. He began ringing in 'old men's' peals when he was sixty—he is the only survivor of that band—and was one of the veterans' company at Hart Street a few weeks ago. That he will long live to enjoy good health, his youthful outlook on life and to ring many more peals will be the wish of Mr. George's hosts of friends in every corner of the British Isles.

Gentlemen, the toast is: 'Mr. James George, of England!'

ANOTHER LEICESTERSHIRE PEAL RESTORED.A GIFT BY THE BARRON TRUST.

Saturday, November 18th, was a 'red-letter' day for Hathern, near Loughborough, for it saw the completion of the restoration of the Parish Church bells, which for many years had not been rung. When the scheme was recently contemplated, the Bishop's Advisory Committee sent their hon. consultant (Mr. Ernest Morris, F.R.Hist.S.) to report on the condition of the existing five bells. His account as to the shocking conditions in the bell chamber had such an effect on the authorities that the Chancellor of the Diocese gave permit to take the bells down before the faculty was completed.

The oldest bell in the tower is bell No. 4, dated 1618, and the next oldest, bell No. 5, dated 1620, both of these bells having been cast by Henry Oldfield, whose bellfoundry was at Nottingham. The tenor was cast by Edward Arnold in 1792 when the foundry was in Hangman's Lane, Leicester. It is interesting to note that the first Taylor, bellfounder, viz., Robert Taylor, was apprenticed to this Edward Arnold, and undoubtedly must have had a hand in the moulding and casting of this bell. These three old bells bear the following inscriptions, viz.—

No. 4.—Thomas Thorne and Thomas Berrington, 1618.

No. 5.—Thomas Berrington and J. O. Thorne, 1620.

Tenor.—Edward Deane and Thomas Harriman, Churchwardens. Edward Arnold Fecit 1792.

Bells Nos. 2 and 3 were cast by G. Hedderley, of the Nottingham Foundry, in 1791, but these were so badly out of tune and of such poor tone that it was necessary to recast them under the present scheme of restoration. The weight of the tenor bell is 9 cwt. 2 qr. 12 lb. and the peal is in the key of G sharp.

The peal now consists of six bells, having been augmented to this number by the addition of a new treble bell generously given by the Barron Bell Trust, who have also defrayed the cost of restoring the five bells.

The bells are now hung with the most up-to-date fittings, including ball bearings, and the decrepit old framework has been replaced by an enormously strong and massive structure built up of cast-iron sections upon a foundation of heavy rolled steel girders, the whole structure being thoroughly braced and tied together.

The new bell and the two recast bells are perfectly tuned on the 'Taylor True-harmonic' system of tuning, and the three largest bells, which have been retained in the peal, without recasting, have been tuned so that the whole peal is now in perfect accord.

In addition to the actual work to the bells themselves, other costly improvements have been carried out in the belfry, including the fitting of copper wire guards to exclude the birds, a new belfry door has been constructed, the tower clock has been overhauled and the roof of the tower has been stripped, relaid and made stronger. All this work, together with the necessary stonemason's work, will cost approximately £120, and this has to be found by the parish.

The whole of the bell work has been carried out by Messrs. John Taylor and Co., Loughborough.

The procession assembled at the Village Cross and marched to the church headed by the church banner. It consisted of the choir and clergy, the Bishop of Leicester, the Deputy Mayor of Loughborough, the Parochial Church Council, representatives of the Baptist and Methodist Churches and the chairman and clerk of the Parish Council, Mr. E. Denison Taylor (representing the bellfounders), representatives of the Midland Counties Association and the ringers of Hathern Parish Church. When the head of the procession reached the church, the hymn, 'We love the place, O God,' was sung. The Rector (the Rev. Douglas Hoole) conducted the service, and the lesson was read by the Rural Dean. During the hymn, 'Praise, my soul, the King of Heaven,' the Bishop and clergy proceeded to the tower, where the formal dedication took place.

Immediately after the dedicatory prayers, the following raised the bells in peal and rang a few rounds as the procession returned to the east end of the church: Ernest Morris treble, Colin Harrison 2, David Collins 3, John Saddington 4, John W. Booth 5, Felix Sutton tenor. The Bishop gave an inspiring address, and the service, which included the hymns, 'Lifted safe within the temple' and 'When morning gilds the skies,' concluded with the Te Deum and the Blessing. Immediately after the service the ringers above mentioned rang the first 720 Bob Minor on the bells.

Tea was served to a large congregation in the schools, after which the bells were kept going to various methods by ringers from Nottingham, Cotgrave, Ilkeston, Loughborough, Shepshed, Sutton Bonnington and other places. Everyone was delighted with the 'go' of the bells, and the addition of the new treble now makes a very fine ring of six.

BELLRINGING LECTURE.

At the request of the local branches of Toe H., a lecture on 'Bells and Bellringing' was given at Wimborne on Wednesday, November 22nd, by the Rev. F. Llewellyn Edwards, secretary of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild. The chair was taken by Sir James Brooke, K.C.B., and there was a large and deeply interested audience. The lecturer's explanations of method ringing were illustrated by the Poole change ringers under the direction of Mr. F. W. Townsend, and a number of tunes were played by the Rev. C. A. Phillips' party of handbell ringers.

LANCASHIRE ASSOCIATION.PRESENTATION TO FORMER BRANCH SECRETARY.

Mr. F. Rigby, the late hon. secretary of the Preston Branch of the Lancashire Association, was the recipient on Saturday week of a ringer's gold-pendant in recognition of the services he had rendered to the branch for a number of years.

The presentation took place at a meeting of the branch held at Higher Walton, where there is a very fine octave of bells by Taylor and Co., with tenor of 16½ cwt. Among those who attended the meeting were Mr. T. Duxbury, of Padilham, whose membership of the association dates from 1880, while the Goosnargh veteran, Mr. Wm. Clarkson, a mere youth of 81, also took part in touches of Plain Bob and Kent Treble Bob. Other methods up to London Surprise were also rung, the bells being in full demand all the afternoon.

After tea the president (Canon H. J. Elco) read a letter of apology from the Vicar of Higher Walton (the Rev. W. H. Cooper) and proceeded to make the presentation to Mr. Rigby, referring to the good work he had done during his nine years' service. The President voiced the sentiments felt by all the members towards him, as his unassuming modesty and diligent labours were always apparent.

Mr. Rigby, who was taken entirely by surprise, briefly acknowledged the gift. He said that, although he had never sought reward, the pendant was just such a present as he would have desired.

The next meeting was fixed for December 16th at St. Mark's, Preston, at the request of the authorities of that church, as they desire the advice of Canon Elsee regarding their bells, which are hung at the top of a rather slender tower and go none too well owing to the movement of the structure.

Adjourning to the belfry, the president joined in well-struck touches of Stedman and Double Norwich, and the bells were kept busy till 8.30, when a good fall in peal terminated one of the best meetings held in the district for some time.

MANCHESTER BRANCH AT PENDLETON.

A very pleasant meeting of the Manchester Branch was held at St. Thomas', Pendleton, on Saturday, November 18th. Though not overwhelming in numbers, the gathering was, nevertheless, representative of quite a few towers and several districts.

The service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. E. Fletcher), who, in his address, which would, perhaps, be better described as a 'talk,' made his congregation feel that they were as much a part of the Church as were the organist and choir. That 'feeling' lasted, not just to the end of the service, but throughout the day.

After the service a very enjoyable tea was served in the Schoolroom, where later the business meeting was held. The Vicar took the chair, supported by the branch president (Mr. C. Ollier). The Chairman heartily welcomed the branch to Pendleton. It was the first visit during his incumbency.

Five new members were elected, which number included the chairman and Mr. S. Willsaw, a churchwarden, both of whom, it leaked out later, were celebrating their respective birthdays.

The places chosen for the forthcoming quarter's meetings were as follows: December, Manchester Town Hall; January, Manchester Cathedral; and February, Eccles.

It was asked that the good wishes of the meeting be sent to Mr. Sam Greenhalgh, a member of the local company and one of the well-known Pendleton band of earlier days, who has been confined to bed in Nell Lane Hospital, Withington, for several weeks.

At the close of the meeting a very hearty vote of thanks was accorded the chairman for conducting the service, his encouraging address and for the use of the bells and rooms, and also for his services in the chair; also to the ladies and local ringers for providing such an excellent tea and making all the other necessary arrangements.

The day was brought to a close in the usual way, among the bells, the standard methods, Double Norwich and Cambridge being rung.

TUNSTALL RINGER'S GOLDEN WEDDING.CELEBRATED BY A FAMILY QUARTER-PEAL.

To celebrate the golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. W. Spice, of Tunstall, Kent, on November 19th, a family quarter-peal of Stedman Triples was rung by Mrs. E. H. Spice 1, P. J. Spice 2, Mrs. G. H. Spice 3, G. H. Spice 4, J. W. Unwin (son-in-law) 5, E. H. Spice 6, W. Spice, sen., 7, W. H. Spice 8. It was conducted by father.

In addition, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples was rung, with W. Gorman and G. Kenward taking the places of W. H. Spice and Mrs. E. H. Spice; and 224 of Cambridge Surprise Major and 252 Stedman Triples.

On Monday, November 20th, a peal was rung in honour of the event.

At St. John's Church, Hillingdon, on Sunday, November 26th, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples: E. W. E. Davey 1, F. W. Goodfellow 2, J. J. Pratt 3, R. Warnett 4, R. J. Darvill 5, W. Honor 6, W. H. Coles (conductor) 7, C. Over 8. Rung for evening service and thanksgiving to commemorate the golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. J. Coles, Staplegrave, Somerset, the conductor's parents.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION.ACTON BELLS RUNG AFTER TWO YEARS' SILENCE.

On Saturday, November 18th, the South and West District of the Middlesex County Association paid a visit to St. Mary's, Acton. Only a few years ago one of the strongest bands in the district was attached to this tower under the leadership of Mr. Robert Holloway. Owing to his decease and other circumstances, the band dispersed, and during the last four or five years the visits of the association have provided the only occasions on which the bells have been rung. As a result of this last visit, an effort is to be made to recommence at least occasional Sunday ringing.

To ensure that the bells were in good order for the meeting, Messrs. J. Hunnisett and J. A. Trollope visited the tower beforehand, and their labours in this connection were much appreciated. It was a pity they forgot to take along a vacuum cleaner in their equipment!

The bells were rung from half-past three until a quarter to five, when shortened evensong was held, conducted by the Rector (the Rev. P. Gough). Tea followed in the Parish Hall, where the Rector was host. Before leaving, he said how pleased he was to have the association visit Acton, and trusted he would see them there again in the future. The feelings of the meeting were voiced by the vice-president (Mr. J. A. Trollope), who referred to old time associations with the tower, and expressed the hope that the bells would be rung more often in the future.

At the subsequent business meeting, the hon. secretary (Mr. F. W. Goodfellow) and Mr. Hollier both referred to the passing of Mr. F. W. Etherington, of Twickenham, in September. The deceased gentleman had been a very keen supporter and an honorary member of the association for some years. He had been churchwarden of Twickenham Parish Church for a quarter of a century and was much respected in the town. The company stood in silence as a tribute to his memory, and endorsed the hon. secretary's action in writing to the widow.

Miss E. Bedford and Miss G. Craven, of Uxbridge, and Messrs. Barlow and Hamer, of Harlington, were elected ringing members of the association. The belfry elections of Messrs. T. Price and R. Davis before ringing a peal were ratified.

It was decided to pay a visit to Twickenham in December, probably on the 16th.

The hon. secretary reminded members of the second annual supper which was to take place at Hounslow on January 13th, 1934. Tickets at 3s. each were now available from tower secretaries and members of the committee.

When the business was concluded the tower was again visited and further ringing took place until 8.30. Various methods were rung, including some Spliced Surprise that would not, unfortunately, splice! The attendance during the meeting exceeded forty.

SPICED TREBLE BOB.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—In reference to the peal on page 699 of Spiced Treble Bob, the footnote is rather misleading. It would be more correct to say that Oxford is rung when the tenor is coursing the treble down to lead, thus preventing the tenors going in slow. I am sending a 5,184 in the same method by my friend, Mr. Timbrell, and not yet rung.

THE LATE MR. J. D. MATTHEWS.

A memorial touch to the late Master of the Royal Cumberland Youths (Mr. J. D. Matthews) was rung at St. Martin's-in-the-Fields, London, on Saturday, by members of the society, with the bells half-muffled. It consisted of 1,321 Stedman Caters from a peal composed by Mr. Matthews: Arthur N. Hardy 1, Arthur J. Neale 2, Frederick H. Symons 3, George H. Cross 4, Leonard H. Baybutt 5, Thomas Newman (conductor) 6, George A. Card 7, George W. Steere 8, John W. Cornford 9, William Bottrill 10, Cecil J. Matthews 11, Thomas Bevan 12.

At Crayford, Kent, on Tuesday of last week, a half-muffled peal of Stedman Triples was rung to Mr. Matthews' memory.

At Edmonton on Sunday, November 27th, prior to evensong, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples: Mrs. E. K. Fletcher (conductor) 1, Miss L. Wheeler 2, Miss E. Greenall 3, Miss G. Church 4, W. Barlow (first quarter-peal) 5, G. B. Collins 6, J. Parker 7, P. Pearce 8. Rung with the bells half-muffled to the memory of the late Mr. H. Watson, esteemed verger of the church for 16 years, and the late Mr. J. D. Matthews, Master of the Royal Cumberland Youths.

DURHAM AND NEWCASTLE DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

A meeting of the Eastern Division was held at Jarrow on Saturday, November 4th, and, despite the inclement weather, there was a fair attendance of ringers from Braydon, Whickham, Chester-le-Street, Newcastle, Sunderland and West Hartlepool to support the local ringers.

The peal of eight are not at present everything that could be desired, but they were kept going merrily throughout the afternoon and evening. A good hour was spent over the tea, which was thoroughly enjoyed by all, and the happy talks and reminiscences about bells made the meal a jolly event.

Before returning to the belfry, Mr. J. W. Parker proposed a vote of thanks to the Vicar for the use of the bells, and this was carried with acclamation.

It was proposed that West Hartlepool be the next place of meeting on December 16th.

Ringings continued until 8 p.m., the methods being Double Norwich, Boh Major and Kent Treble Bob, Grandsire and Stedman Triples.

Mr. Hall, on behalf of the local ringers, said he was delighted that the association had paid a visit to Jarrow, and hoped the visitors had enjoyed the meeting.

LETTERS AND WRITERS.

Now that the heat of wordy battle in our columns has died down again, we can venture once more to offer an opinion upon the ethics of correspondence and perhaps a little advice to those who, from time to time, are tempted to express their views through letters to the Editor. One has only to browse through the volumes of the ringing press since first the Exercise had a journal of its own to realise what a common fault it is in ringers to become acrimonious in debate, and in this respect the older generation set no example to the present. Mr. Pelloe, although he does not speak from long experience, was perfectly right when he said, in his letter the other day, that while a ringer may be a perfectly delightful person to meet in or out of the tower, he has a tendency, when he enters the lists of controversy, to show a little suspected side to his character and to endeavour to wound an adversary by cheap sneers or an acid style. It is fairly obvious that while this type of debate—it is not argument—may give some satisfaction to the author, it almost certainly robs him of any general sympathy which there may originally have been for his case. In this respect the user of this method of disputation loses rather than gains and, if this were more fully realised, correspondents, in their own interests, would hesitate twice before resorting to it. There is an old saying that is supposed to be a maxim among lawyers: 'If you have a bad case blackguard the opposing attorney.' Such procedure may amuse the onlookers for a little while, but it cuts no ice. It is bad form anyhow, and people soon get tired of it.

Now, we would ask, and answer if we can, the question, 'What should be the editorial attitude towards correspondence which develops on lines such as we have referred to?' There are many people ready to advise on this matter, but we ask them to believe, at the outset, that the use of 'the blue pencil' and 'the wastepaper basket' is not unknown to us. 'The Ringing World,' moreover, has always opened its columns to a free expression of opinion—where else can ringers ventilate their views for the entertainment or instruction of the Exercise as a whole? To eliminate everything which savours of personal attack is by no means an easy task—even the challenge to a doubtful peal is in the nature of personal attack, by questioning either the ability or veracity of the conductor or ringers; and when personalities do intrude it is usually after a controversy has got well started and the disputants have already come to close grips. It is no easy matter at that stage for an outsider, without risk of an accusation of bias or unfairness, to sort the relevant from the irrelevant, or to chop out of a letter something which a writer may consider vital to his argument. That is not to say that the editorial discretion has not been or will not be used. Many a 'letter to the Editor' has found a resting place in the 'w.p.b.', the strength of others has been tactfully 'toned down'—sometimes to the subsequent relief of the writers—while, on occasion, a letter has been returned to the author with an intimation that if its appearance is desired it must be written in less vindictive phrases. All this an Editor can and does do, but while there are grievances to be aired, the real remedy for greater politeness in letters lies with the writers, who should remember always that the strength of their argument is in the presentation of facts and principles, and not in personalities or abuse.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD. WEST DORSET BRANCH.

The annual meeting of the West Dorset Branch was held at Bridport on Saturday last, and was a very representative gathering, members being present from Bridport, Beaminster, Bradpole, Burton Bradstock, Chideock, Hawkechurch, Lyme Regis, Loders, Litten Cheney, Symondsburry, Notherbury, Thorncombe and Whitechurch Canonieorum. The bells at Symondsburry and Bridport were used during the afternoon. Service was conducted by the Rector, the Rev. C. Bartlett, who also preached a very helpful sermon on the ringers' attitude to worship, the lesson being read by the Rev. C. C. Cox.

The usual sumptuous meat tea followed in the Greyhound Hotel and was fully enjoyed by all. The business meeting afterwards was presided over by the Rev. C. Carew Cox (chairman of the branch), who was supported by the Revs. R. H. Gundry (Master of the Guild), L. Bartlett, A. B. Hutton, C. W. d'Ombraim and I. Scott. A warm welcome was given to the Master, and apologies for absence were expressed from Canon Lee, of Whitechurch, and Mr. C. H. Jennings, of Wyke Regis. A suggestion, originating from the latter, that the four Dorset Branches should hold a combined meeting next June at Milton Abbey, as it would be the 1,000th anniversary year of the foundation of the Abbey, was favourably received, and it was agreed that West Dorset would co-operate if such a meeting could be organised.

The officers were all unanimously re-elected, viz.: Rev. C. C. Cox, president; Mr. F. Bugler, Ringing Master; Messrs. W. S. B. Northover and A. Wynter, Assistant Ringing Masters; Mr. C. H. Lathey, hon. secretary and treasurer.

The report showed that two peals had been rung for the branch during the year, and that all the meetings had been well attended. Grants had been made towards the rehanging of Corscombe bells and towards the erection of a double floor to the belfry at Whitechurch. The latter work had been carried out with satisfactory result by the voluntary labour of the local ringers, as also had been the redecoration of Lyme Regis ringing chamber. The accounts showed a balance in hand of £11 1s. 7d., and were duly passed.

Meetings for the ensuing year were arranged to be held at Bradpole, Burton Bradstock and Hawkechurch.

Thanks were expressed to the Rector of Bridport for his welcome and sermon, also to the organist (Mr. Elsworth), and the meeting concluded with a few words of congratulation and encouragement from the Master.

Many members had their first pull on eight bells during the afternoon and evening, and all stages of proficiency were catered for in call changes, Grandsire Doubles and Triples, Plain Bob Doubles and Stedman Doubles and Triples.

FAREWELL TO RINGING MASTER.

PRESENTATION TO MR. C. H. WEBB.

A meeting was held in the vestry of St. Michael and All Angels' Church, Croft, Leicestershire, to take farewell of Mr. C. H. Webb, Ringing Master of the tower, who was leaving to reside in Rugby. Among the ringers present were Rev. R. P. Farrow and A. Ballard, of Stoney Stanton, H. Bird and C. Carr, of Broughton Astley, together with the local company.

Canon Casson, Rector of Croft, who presided, thanked Mr. Webb for his services to the church, of which he has been Ringing Master for five years since the bells were augmented from three to six, in May, 1928. The Canon remarked that it was mostly through Mr. Webb that the augmentation was achieved. He then presented Mr. Webb with the book, 'Bells Through the Ages' (Nichols), given by the Rector, churchwardens and ringers of the parish, as a mark of appreciation for his past services.

Mr. Webb expressed thanks for the gift, remarking that he was very proud to be the owner of the companion book by E. Morris, 'History and Art of Change Ringing.' What he had done at Croft was for the love of the church.

The Rev. R. P. Farrow spoke of the good work which Mr. Webb had done in the district, and expressed the hope that they would see him at the Hinckley District meetings as often as possible.

On behalf of the local ringers Mr. Wood said how sorry they would be to lose such an efficient ringer and able captain.

Mr. F. Bailless was elected Ringing Master in succession to Mr. Webb.

A 720 of Bob Minor was rung on the previous Sunday by the local ringers: Sidney Bailless 1, J. H. Bailless 2, W. A. Wood 3, C. H. Webb 4, G. A. Charlton 5, F. Bailless (conductor) 6.

ARMISTICE-TIDE.

On Saturday, November 11th (Armistice Day), a band of ringers, composed entirely of ex-Service men, met at Shifnal to attempt Holt's Original peal of Grandsire Triples with the bells half-muffled in memory of fallen comrades. Unfortunately, the attempt came to grief. The band was: A. Baker, R.A.M.C., treble; W. Page, R.E., 2; R. Pickering, 6th South Staffs (conductor), 3; C. H. Watts, R.E., 4; A. Woodbine, Royal Welsh Fusiliers, 5; B. Dalton, 3rd Notts and Derby Regt., 6; E. V. Rodenhurst, R.G.A., 7; W. Lago, 7th K.S.L.I., tenor.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

A peal attempt in seven Surprise Minor methods, arranged for Mr. Charles Woods, at his native village of Ginton, Northants, on November 30th, was brought to an abrupt conclusion in the last 720 by the clapper of the 2nd falling out. Mr. Woods and the others of the band got some compensation on Saturday, when they rung the peal at Market Deeping, Lincs.

Three lectures on bells in successive days were given by Mr. Albert Walker, Ringing Master of St. Martin's Guild, Birmingham. He addressed a meeting of the Arnold Club (a headmasters' association) at the Imperial Hotel, Birmingham, one night, gave a lecture in St. Martin's Church the next day, and on the day following spoke on the subject to St. John's, Sparkhill, Debating Society.

These lectures were illustrated with lantern slides and change ringing on handbells, and the proceedings were further enlivened with tune ringing. In each case the lecture and the ringing were much appreciated. Good propaganda work, this!

The fiftieth anniversary of the installation of a peal of bells in the tower of Chester-le-Street Church was celebrated on Saturday with a peal of Kent Treble Bob Major. The peal also celebrated the establishment of a church in the village a thousand years earlier.

Of the ringers present when the bells were installed half a century ago only three survive—Mr. C. L. Routledge, who conducted the jubilee peal on Saturday, Mr. Wm. Story, J.P., of Newcastle, and Mr. W. Newton, of Stockton.

The Rev. F. J. O. Helmore, who has been associated with Canterbury Cathedral for something like 55 years, and who served the Kent County Association for more than 30 years as its hon. secretary, celebrated his 82nd birthday on Saturday, when he received many congratulations, and peals were rung in his honour.

Mr. James E. Davis, belfry steward of St. Botolph's, Bishopsgate, London, last week joined the select company who have rung one thousand peals. Others who have achieved this record are Mr. W. Pye, Mr. G. Williams, Mr. F. Bennett, Mr. G. R. Pye, Mr. J. George, Mr. A. H. Pulling, and the late Rev. F. E. Robinson, Mr. I. G. Shade and Mr. E. Pye.

Another good performance by a local band. At Sefton, Liverpool, there were four 'first peals' in a peal of Oxford and Kent Treble Bob Minor, and a 'first as conductor.' It was also the first peal by the local company.

This week we record, for the first time we believe, three 'spliced' peals of Major. One is in four Surprise methods, with which we are now becoming fairly familiar, one in five Surprise methods, and a peal on handbells in two methods.

LOUVRES—INFORMATION WANTED.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I should be grateful if any of your readers could give me full details, together with their experience, of any methods of preventing rain from being driven through belfry louvres (where towers are in very exposed positions), and at the same time not preventing the sound of the bells from being heard as far away as previously. I see a mention of Venetian louvres in the C.C. Report, but can these be worked from the ringing chamber if their framework is not flush with the tower walls?

(REV.) E. V. COX.

Brampford Speke Vicarage, Exeter.

A 'YOUNGSTERS' PEAL.

YOUNGEST BAND TO RING A PEAL OF MAJOR.

St. Olave's, Hart Street, City, will soon be known as the 'tower to suit all ages,' as following the recent veterans' peals a young band have rung a peal of Major on them, as reported in the peal columns. The band contained some very promising ringers, two of whom, Mr. E. A. Barnett and Mr. E. W. Pye, have fathers whose names are household words in the Exercise. The band greatly appreciated the visit of Mr. F. E. Dawe, who rang in the veterans' peal. He wished them 'Good luck' before starting.

Although they are not quite the youngest band to ring an eight-bell peal, they are the youngest band to ring a peal of Major. The previous 'youngest' was rung at Saxlingham Nethergate, Norfolk, in 1914, conducted by Mr. G. H. Cross. Their total ages were then 148. The Hart Street band totalled 147. It could have been arranged a bit younger, but two or three were otherwise engaged. The striking in the peal on the whole was good. A slow beat was kept up all through, and when 'That's all' was called, everyone felt very pleased and proud.

URCHFONT BELLS ON BALL BEARINGS.

The bells of St. Michael's Church, Urchfont, near Devizes, have just been rehung on ball bearings. On the completion of the work a party of ringers from Devizes and Melksham assembled there on Monday, November 27th, and rang a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples: Mrs. W. West 1, W. West 2, John Thomas (conductor) 3, G. Winter 4, V. E. Swift 5, S. Hillier 6, F. Green 7, C. D. Heginbotham 8.

The work of rehanging has been carried out by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank, of the Whitechapel Foundry. All the ringers were delighted with the 'go' of the peal, and the great improvement effected.

THE SOCIETY OF JUNIOR CUMBERLANDS

THE OUTCOME OF AN OLD LONDON RINGERS' QUARREL.

BY J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

Mr. J. Armiger Trollope has been continuing his researches into early ringing history, especially in London, and in a series of articles, of which this is the first, describes the rise and fall of the Junior Cumberlands, among whose most notable members were George Gross, William Shipway and John Noonan.

George Gross was for many years the leading man of the Cumberlands Society, and from 1763, when he rang his first five thousand, until 1784 he conducted nearly all their peals. That was the most brilliant period in the history of the society, and it culminated in the long peal duel and the victory over the College Youths with the 12,000 of Treble Bob Royal at Shoreditch. Then there happened a tremendous quarrel. What it was all about we do not now know, nor does it much matter, for such things were common enough in these old London societies; but the upshot was that Gross left the Company and he did not go alone.

With the help of his son and his other supporters he founded a new society, making up the number from certain low class ringers who lived in the East End and who did not belong to any of the leading companies.

The new society was intended as a vantage ground from which Gross could regain his position in the old body, and it was called the 'Junior Society of Cumberland Youths.' Actually it was an entirely independent body and no more a branch of the Cumberlands Society than the Hertford College Youths were a branch of the London College Youths. Its constitution was framed on the usual lines with Master and Stewards elected annually, but it was only in form a democracy; George Gross was the supreme power and it is noticeable that he took the office of Beadle, which was permanent, and not the more showy one of Master, which was held for a year only.

Socially, the new band were lower than the Cumberlands and much lower than the College Youths, but they were all good ringers and from their headquarters, first at the Seven Stars, in Fashion Street, and, later, at the Three Tuns, in Wood Street, both in Spitalfields, they went about ringing peals and touches at various towers where they could find entrance. Judged by our present day standards, their record is nothing to talk about, but it would be a great mistake to judge it so, and, among the eighteenth century band, as ringers, they take quite a prominent place.

Their first peal was Grandsire Caters at West Ham, and during that year they rang seven five-thousands of Grandsire Triples and Caters and Bob Major and Royal. George Gross, of course, called them, and so he did all their peals so long as he was with them, except three that his son called and one called by J. Devine.

In the next year they had a notable recruit. William Shipway, a young cabinet maker, of Bath, was bitten with the craze for ringing. There was a local band capable of ringing Treble Ten, but they were far too slow for the young enthusiast, and he set his face towards London to earn his living there if it might be so, but chiefly to get as much ringing and the best he could. It was natural enough that he should join the Junior Cumberlands, for they were good ringers and were quite ready to welcome him. The College Youths were far too important and exclusive to receive just anyone who might come knocking at their door, and even the Cumberlands could pick and choose among would-be recruits and were not disposed to accept anyone until he had proved his mettle.

William Shipway, of 1785, was very different from the important person he afterwards became, but he was a great help to the Junior Cumberlands. His first peal with them was 5,248 Oxford Treble Bob Major at St. Matthew's, Bethnal Green, and the second was Grandsire Cinques at Southwark. During the next three or four years the society rang several interesting peals. One of them was 8,448 Kent Treble Bob Major at St. Mary's, Whitechapel, at that time supposed to be the extent with the tenors together. Another was 5,440 Double Norwich Court Major at Bethnal Green. This was claimed to be the first peal in the method, but erroneously, for several had already been rung in the Eastern Counties. And, besides, it seems it was not a true peal, for when the Cumberlands rang one in 1788 they claimed it as 'the first true peal ever rang in London in that method.' By that time the London ringers knew that the Norwich men had rung peals of it. Shipway does not include the 5,440 among his performances, and the inference is that it was false and probably false in the ringing rather than the composition.

Among the other notable peals rung by the society during the time Gross was with them are the first five-thousands at St. Mary's, Walthamstow, St. Matthew's, Bethnal Green, and St. Botolph's, Bishopsgate, the first peal of Plain Tittum Royal ever scored, and a peal of Bob Major at Bethnal Green 'in as many courses as there's Weeks in the Year, as many leads as there's Days in the Year and as many changes as there's Hours in 8 months.' The number was 5,856, and was claimed to be the 'greatest number ever rang in that method with the tenors together.' This claim at first sight seems very doubtful, as many much longer peals had already been rung, but we must remember that the old ringers objected to Singles and would rather part the tenors in a ten thousand than resort to their use. The 'Clavis' has some very sensible remarks to make on this point.

It is rather curious that the preceding peal was one of 6,000 of Bob Major, composed and called by Mr. Jas. Devine. This was claimed to be 'the first of that number ever rang on 8 Bells with the Tenor together.' It looks as if this peal was false, but, if so, why was it booked, since less than a fortnight elapsed between the two performances? Only one man besides Gross and his son rang in both, and we may, perhaps, see here one of the reasons for the quarrel which immediately afterwards split the society in two.

Except for the fact that they could ring, the Junior Society of Cumberland Youths was a far inferior affair to either the College Youths or the old Cumberlands, and from the first the men who had seceded with George Gross began to trickle back. Gross himself was waiting for an excuse to return to his old friends, and presently there came the inevitable quarrel in the new company. It happened in 1788—a most eventful year in the history of the London Exercise. That was the time when the 'Clavis' first appeared; it was the time that Stedman became the most important method practised in London; it was the time when the original Society of College

Youths broke up and disappeared; it was the time the rivalries and contentions between a few leading men were reshuffling the different bands and altering the composition of the different societies. Taking a wide view of history we should probably come to the conclusion that in that year the Exercise reached its highest point in London. From then onwards there was decline, slow and imperceptible at first, but soon rapid and decisive.

The quarrels and jealousies of the time sowed seed, which was to bear fruit later, but the immediate results, so far as the Junior Cumberlands were concerned, was that they lost their founder and leader. Gross returned to the old Cumberlands, but if he expected that he was going back at once to his old position of power and influence he was disappointed. He had delayed a little too long. For John Reeves had come over from the College Youths, driven out as the result of his quarrel with Thomas Blakemore, and Reeves had the advantage that he was one of the only two men in London who knew anything about the composition of Stedman's Principle. Everybody was then wanting to ring that method, the Cumberlands as much as any one else, and so it was Reeves who became their conductor and who was given Gross's old post as Beadle.

There was no love lost between the two men. It seemed to be the regular rule that in these old London societies there was room for only one ambitious leading man at a time. In theory, of course, they were purely democratic, with all the offices open to each member in turn and a fresh Master each year. In practice one man controlled the company at least in the tower, and he had to fight hard to keep his position until a stronger than he came along and took his place.

Besides all this, Gross and Reeves were rival composers, and they claimed the same peals. Quite a number of outstanding peals of Treble Bob are to-day recognised as Reeves' composition. More than one of the best of them Gross claimed as his; the 12,000 of Royal for instance, and when he died his friends put in the peal book that as a Treble Bob composer he surpassed all his contemporaries. Now, John Reeves' best compositions are peals of Treble Bob. Between the two we cannot to-day form any real judgment, but there is the significant fact that not a single peal in Jasper Snowden's collection of Treble Bob has Gross's name attached to it, and Shipway, who knew both men, gave all the disputed compositions to Reeves.

Gross got back to the Cumberlands in time to take a rope in the 5,184 of Stedman Caters at Shoreditch in 1788, but that was the only peal he rang with them so long as Reeves was Beadle and conductor to the company. We know nothing at all of what sort a man Reeves was. From the number of times he changed his society and the frequent disputes he had with other men, it seems likely that while he was a brilliant ringer, composer and conductor, there was some defect in his make-up which prevented him from being popular for very long with any one band. After he left the Cumberlands George Gross came once more into his own, and for the last years of his life he was supreme in that society.

DEVONSHIRE GUILD.

AYLESBURY DEANERY'S GOOD REPORT.

The Aylesbury Deanery Branch of the Devonshire Guild held its annual meeting at Topsham on Saturday, December 2nd, with an attendance of 34 members, comprising bands from five towers in the branch and some visitors from Exeter. The usual Guild service was held in St. Margaret's Church, conducted by the Vicar (Rev. J. W. G. Halliday), with organ and choir.

The Vicar, in a forceful address, mentioned that he had asked a practical ringer what he ought to say at a ringers' service, and the advice given was, 'Don't give a history of bells and their ancient uses.' So he would only dwell on the nature of the service given by all churchworkers—the stoker, the chorister, the ringer or the parson—who might all have the same aim, and with equal honour each do their bit for the glory of God. He did not believe the pessimistic view that religion was on the downward grade.

The meeting, preceded by a bountiful tea, was held in the assembly room of the Parish Hall, presided over by the chairman of the branch (Rev. E. A. Jullian).

A good report of the year's work was presented, the funds in hand having increased by about 30s.

The chairman and secretary (Mr. R. Brook) were re-elected, and it was resolved to hold the next meeting at Lympstone on January 27th.

Three new members were elected, and the chairman extended a welcome to the visitors, also the Rev. T. Mitchell, of Clyst St. George, who was present. Touches of Grandsire and Stedman Doubles were rung on the bells during the afternoon and evening.

BELL BROADCASTS.

To the Editor.

Sir,—It is to be hoped that the day is far distant when broadcasting programmes shall be handed over to a central body to be dealt with (be it national or diocesan), and ringers who have any foresight at all should oppose this to the bitter end, for in handing these over to an outside body one can easily see what would happen. A band capable of ringing good Grandsire Triples or Plain Minor would be brushed aside. One can appreciate the wish for only the best to be given, but all depends on what is meant by 'the best.' If good ringing in any method, then all well and good; but with a large number of ringers 'the best' is usually meant Surprise stuff and nothing else. From the public's point of view very few methods sound better than Grandsire Triples or Grandsire Caters, and as these are methods which most bands are capable of striking no difficulty should arise in getting ringers to ring them, and if a band was short-handed it should be left to the tower foreman to be decent enough to ask the best outside help that it is possible to get. This would cut out any prejudices with local bands being ousted to make room for any outside 'cracked Surprise' team who liked to step in and take control. Wellingborough.

P. AMOS.

[If Mr. Amos wishes it to be inferred that we suggested that broadcast ringing should be handed over to any central body he must have misread our article, and we recommend him to peruse it again. —Ed., 'R.W.']

GLOUCESTER AND BRISTOL DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION. CHELTENHAM BRANCH'S SUCCESSFUL MEETING.

The annual meeting of the Cheltenham Branch was held on Saturday at Prestbury, and proved to be the most successful of the year, over 40 members being present, representing practically every tower in the district. Ringing commenced in the early afternoon, many methods being rung, as well as rounds for the beginners.

Service was conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. J. Bagot de la Bere, and the address given by the Rev. E. Neale, of Charlton Kings.

The party were then entertained to tea by the Vicar, the meal being served by many willing lady helpers.

At the business meeting a letter was read from the Rector of Bishop's Cleeve applying for admission to the Cheltenham Branch. This being agreed to, all the ringers from Cleeve, also some from Prestbury and Alderton were welcomed as members.

Reference was made to the possibility of holding a summer outing, and it was decided to go forward with this object, final arrangements being deferred until a meeting to be held at Badgeworth in March.

To wind up a very happy meeting, a special touch of Stedman Triples was rung to congratulate Mr. and Mrs. Cornwall, of Prestbury, who were celebrating their golden wedding.

MUFFLED BELLS.

At Salford, Lancs, on Sunday evening, November 26th, at the Church of the Sacred Trinity, 720 Bob Minor, rung with the bells half-muffled as a token of respect to the late Miss Maud Taylor, a member of the Parochial Church Council and hon. organist: J. Bolton 1, A. Lees 2, H. Hollingworth 3, F. Stoneley (conductor) 4, H. Lees 5, W. Fitton 6.

At Croft, Leicestershire, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Doubles (1,260 changes) was rung half-muffled on Sunday, November 26th, by local ringers as a token of respect to Mr. Arthur Cockerill, who was interred the day previous: S. Bailless 1, W. A. Wood 2, J. H. Bailless (conductor) 3, F. Bailless 4, G. A. Charlton 5, A. E. Warwick 6.

LAMBETH PARISH CHURCH BELLS.

EXTENSIVE RESTORATION SCHEME.

After remaining idle for nearly three years, the eight bells at the historical mother church of St. Mary-at-Lambeth were reopened on Sunday morning, November 26th, on the occasion of Civic Sunday.

Prior to the service, a procession of members of the Corporation and representatives of the restoration scheme marched from the Archbishop's Palace to the church. Those taking part in the procession included the Mayor, preceded by the mace-bearer, the town clerk, the Member of Parliament, aldermen, councillors and members of the Public Assistance Committee, the architect for the tower restoration (Mr. Godfrey Allen, surveyor to St. Paul's Cathedral), Mr. E. Denison Taylor (principal of the bellfounders), the Rector, assistant priest, wardens and ringers.

The service took the form of matins, the address being given by the Rector (the Rev. A. L. Jones, M.C.), who spoke of the close connection between the work of the Church and the work of the State as represented by the County Council, and mentioned that it was an advantage to have an annual reminder that the work now carried out from the Town Hall at Brixton was in bygone days done by the Church, when there was but the one parish and the one mother church in Lambeth. Continuing, the preacher stated that this was more than an ordinary Civic Sunday in that they had to offer special thanks for all that had been done in making the tower and bells secure. The ravages of that small but active pest, the death-watch beetle, had entailed the entire removal of the old wooden bellframe and carrying beams and their replacement by a metal frame. The bells were now safe once more and he hoped that in these troublous times their message of peace would not be ignored.

During the singing of the last hymn the local ringers ascended the tower, and a pause was made to allow the bells to be heard in rounds for the first time since relanging.

As the congregation left the church a few more rounds and call changes were rung by the local company, followed by touches of Stedman Triples and Kent Treble Bob.

A limited number of visitors were present, including Mr. E. Denison Taylor and Mr. R. H. Dove (representing Messrs. Taylor and Co., Loughborough), Messrs. T. H. Taffender, H. Mance, J. Herbert, J. G. Prior and W. Essery (the Master and officials of the London County Association).

The bells have been wonderfully improved by skilful retuning, while the substitution of cast-iron headstocks for the old-fashioned timber ones previously in use has enabled the bells to be properly 'tucked' and the work of ringing to be reduced accordingly. The tenor now weighs 16 cwt. 3 qr. 12 lb. and is in E flat. Whereas the bells previously ran 'anti-clockwise,' they are now hung the reverse way, while the lowering of the bells some 8ft. in the tower has effected a further improvement both in a reduced draught of rope and from the point of view of acoustics.

The frame consists of stout H-type castings and rolled steel girders, the latter taking their bearing upon a massive steel grillage, which in turn is carried by a set-off in the walls. Further steel work ties the walls together above the frame, the whole structure being cross-braced in every possible direction, and even a casual glance suffices to show that everything possible has been devised to ensure the permanent safety of both the tower and bells.

The cost of relanging of the bells, the new steelwork, floors etc.,

amounts to over £800, and the authorities are to be congratulated on the completion of a splendid piece of work.

In the sixteenth century Lambeth Parish Church had 'V great belles in the steeple,' and a 'sauns bell.' There is proof that they were rung even in those early days, for in the churchwarden's accounts for 1514-15 three shillings was paid for 'fastening of iij belles y^e wer lowse in the stoks and a stei to the gret bell,' the assumption being that, with stays in use, they were rung up to the 'set' position. The peal of eight was originally put in by R. Phelps in 1723, but for two hundred years before that the churchwarden's accounts contain many interesting items in connection with the bells. In 1517 2s. 4d. was paid to the 'yewa anyuer' in default of ringing the bells at the 'Kyng's comynge.' In 1554-5 William Smyth was paid 2s. 'for lokyng to the bells and gresying the bell stocks for on yere.' In those days they bought bell ropes by the pound, for they paid 3s. 4d. for '20 pownd of bell roopys.' In 1572 the ringers were paid 12 pence 'for ringing at the overthrowe of the tourcke.'

It was probable that it is Robert Mot, of the Whitechapel Bell Foundry who is referred to in 1579, when 12 pence was spent on the bell founder 'in wine and beeaue when he came to give his advice in mending the bell clappers,' for in subsequent years his name appears in the accounts, when he was described as 'Mr. Mote of Whitechappell.'

In 1584 it was agreed at a vestry that there be a collection had amongst the parishioners for the new hanging and casting of the bells, and that the money wanting thereof be paid out of the church, and in 1584-85 the following items appear:—

winshe up ye belles	12d.
Mendinge and trim-
minge all ye bell
clappers ...	16s. 16d.
A new steeple to
hoysse upp ye belles	22d.
For ye new castinge
of 4 bells ...	£18
For a linke in ye steeple at hanging ye
bell ...	4d.

And then comes an item: 'For our diner, churchwardens, bell founder and other honest men of ye parishe at ye payment of ye money receyvinge of his bonde for the strenght of ye sayd belles in warrantie for a yeaere and a daye, 6s. 8d.'

They usually 'did themselves well' on such occasions in the 'good old days.'

There are many such interesting items in the Lambeth churchwarden's accounts, which appear to be some of the most illuminating of their kind to be found anywhere.

MR. JAMES GEORGE'S 80th BIRTHDAY. CELEBRATED BY MANY PEALS.

Mr. James George celebrated his eightieth birthday last week with a series of performances which would have been considered almost staggering in anyone of his years, except James George himself, of whom the Exercise has come to expect these things.

He followed up his peals of Cambridge Surprise Major on the tenor at Nuneaton, and of Treble Ten on the tenor at All Saints', Derby (recorded last week), by ringing the 28! cwt. tenor at St. Paul's, Burton-on-Trent, to a peal of Stedman Triples on his actual birthday, and the 37 cwt. tenor at St. Martin's, Birmingham, to a peal of Stedman Cinques, on the following evening. We have it on the best authority that 'Jimmy rang (the tenor splendidly throughout and finished up as fresh as a daisy.' There could be no better testimony than this to his ability and his wonderful fitness at the age of 80 years. At the conclusion of the peal Mr. George received the congratulations of all the band upon the way in which he had rung the tenor, and their good wishes for 'many happy returns.'

One of his old friends, John Carter, now no longer with us, evidently had faith in Mr. George's ability to become an octogenarian, for as long ago as October, 1923, he composed a peal of 5,080 Stedman Cinques specially for Mr. George's 80th birthday, and this composition was called by Mr. Albert Walker last week at Birmingham, when it was rung for the first time. We have not been told whether special compositions are already in existence for the 90th and the 100th anniversary celebrations. If not, it is time someone saw about it.

The peal at Birmingham, however, was not the greatest of Mr. George's achievements last week for, having in passing, rung a peal of Stedman Triples on Wednesday, on Saturday he rang the 33 cwt. tenor at Wolverhampton to a peal of Kent Treble Bob Maximus! Those who have rung this bell to a peal will best appreciate the merit of this performance. Wolverhampton tenor is not anybody's bell: she is what may be not inaptly described as 'quite a handful,' and Mr. George has reason to feel proud of his achievement.

After the peal Mr. George entertained the band to high tea, and was cordially thanked for his hospitality.

At Liverpool, on Tuesday, November 28th, at St. Nicholas' Church, a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples: T. G. Horridge 1, J. Wilkinson 2, A. Gorringe 3, G. R. Newton (conductor) 4, E. O. Birkett 5, T. Hammond 6, E. Caunce 7, L. L. Gray 8. This quarter-peal was the composition of Mr. James George, whom the band heartily congratulate on attaining his 80th birthday.

MR. GEORGE'S THANKS.

Mr. George has received so many letters of congratulation upon his 80th birthday that he finds it impossible to reply to them individually. He, however, desires to thank sincerely all those who have sent him such kindly messages.

'JAMES GEORGE OF MERRIE ENGLAND.'

'St. George for Merrie England'—the old Crusaders cried,
As with armour all a-jingle, to the Holy Land they hied.

'Twas George who slew the dragon:

His lance there was a flag on,

And he thrust it well and truly through the fiery reptile's hide.

There's now another hero, a man of national fame;

Another George has risen who has made himself a name.

He, too, has slain a dragon—

His lance may have no flag on—

But he's killed the ancient bogey that old age must end the game.

'James George of Merrie England,' the old boys loudly cry,

And acclaim their youthful leader as he gaily passes by.

'Tis he who slew the dragon,

'Who still can empty' his flagon,

'Who will tackle any tenor, but has never yet said "die."'

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION. CANTERBURY DISTRICT.

By the kind permission of Rev. Canon Clarke, a Canterbury District by-meeting was held at Faversham on Saturday. Although the number of ringers present was comparatively small, the representation was good, the following towers being represented: Canterbury Cathedral and St. Alphage, Sittingbourne, Queenborough, Littlebourne, Wickham, Sturry, Tunstall, Egerton, Ashford, and the local tower. A shortened form of ringing service was held at St. Saviour's Church, which was conducted by Canon Clarke. Subsequently adjourning to the Parish Room, the ringers were entertained to a splendid tea by the Vicar.

In replying to a vote of thanks for his kind hospitality, Canon Clarke said he welcomed the association to Faversham and hoped that his own band of ringers would join the association by the beginning of the year.

Votes of thanks were also accorded to Mr. T. H. Harman, the local secretary, for his help in making the meeting a successful one, and also to the ladies who had prepared and helped with the tea. Afterwards handbells were produced, and various well-struck touches were enjoyed by the company.

During the afternoon a congratulatory telegram was dispatched from the meeting to Canon F. J. O. Helmore, who was celebrating his 82nd birthday.

Ringings were afterwards continued until half-past eight.

The next meeting of the district will be held at Wingham in February.

NORTH NOTTS ASSOCIATION.

On Saturday week the North Notts Association held a bi-monthly meeting at Sutton-on-Trent, when ringers and friends attended from Edwinstowe, Bolsover, Treeton, Sheffield, Stamford, Folkingham, Nottingham, Southwell, Gamston, Ordsall and a full company of local ringers. The bells were kept going through the afternoon and evening to a great variety of methods, both on six and eight bells. Catering for tea was undertaken by a party of ladies, who were thanked for doing their part so well.

The Rev. T. J. H. Eling, Vicar of Sutton-on-Trent, presided over the business meeting, and was supported by the Rev. R. F. Wilkinson, Rector of Ordsall.

After a short discussion, it was decided to hold the next meeting at West Retford on Saturday, December 16th.

The Rev. R. F. Wilkinson, in proposing a vote of thanks to all who had helped to make an enjoyable day, said: 'You need not say to the Vicar, "When can we come again?" because he is always asking, "When are you coming again?" and this spirit always attracted many visitors.'

RUISLIP, MIDDLESEX.—On Advent Sunday, for evening service, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples (composed by James George): S. Ewer 1, W. Bunce, jun., 2, P. Thrift 3, W. Bunce, sen., 4, J. Bunce 5, T. Collins (conductor) 6, H. Ivo 7, F. Collins 8.

THE CUMBERLAND TOUR.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—May I have the opportunity of replying, finally, I sincerely hope, to the letter from Mr. Tyson Hogarth which appeared in the issue of 'The Ringing World' of November 24th.

Without being in any sense egoistic, I think that I am entitled to resent and correct a personal attack, however cleverly veiled, and that is all Mr. Hogarth's letter of September 22nd amounted to. Any doubt as to that is removed by his last letter. In this he pleads that he is going to correct my many misstatements, but his corrections are conspicuous by their absence.

With regard to the confidential letter of mine which Mr. Hogarth refers to, this was about the formation of a local Diocesan Guild, a matter in which he and I were much in sympathy, and I dealt with ways and means to be adopted with the view of getting interest in his scheme. It had no bearing whatsoever on the subject under discussion. However, if he so desires, he can use the letter in any way he wishes.

So far as Mr. Hogarth's letters to myself are concerned, I note that he withholds the permission to quote which I requested, but of that there is now no necessity, for in his latest effort he performs a complete 'volte face' from his letter of September 22nd, and I assume his antagonism to peal ringing has now vanished.

With regard to tower arrangements, does Mr. Hogarth suggest that I am lying when I have twice categorically stated that the general peal arrangements were made before the tour commenced? His letters leave no other inference possible. May I once again emphasise that we had to alter our plan at Keswick owing to the inability of Mr. George to be with us. I might also make it clear that I was personally acquainted with what methods had been rung in the various towers in Cumberland, without having need to enquire, and was already aware that the only peal of Stedman, rung in the county, had been obtained at Carlisle Cathedral by a Newcastle band of ringers.

Touching on his accusation of 'whirlwind departures,' may I point out to him and also to Mr. Brownrigg that we could not obtain the accommodation we required in Keswick, consequently we had made sleeping arrangements in another town. We arrived at Keswick at approximately 3 p.m., and only left to get the last train to our destination after 9 p.m., so that I fail to see where the rush came in, particularly as we all looked up Mr. Hogarth, and both he and Mr. Brownrigg were cordially invited to join us for the period of our short stay.

I personally regret that Mr. Hogarth has made the correspondence so acrimonious, so I shall not take him up on what he avows he has heard at other towers, only to assure him that if he is correct they must speak with two sets of voices, as all my letters from the various places we visited express nothing but pleasure to us, and the only note of discord has come from Mr. Hogarth, now ably seconded by Mr. Brownrigg.

Apologies Sunday trading, my reference had no personal import, as evidenced by my correction of the omission in 'The Ringing World.'

With regard to the missionary work Mr. Hogarth speaks of, here I am wholeheartedly in sympathy with him, and shall follow with interest anything he does in that line, or perhaps he would like to collaborate with me in helping beginners with a first peal, in which case I shall be glad to hear from him.

And now just a word re the letter from Mr. Brownrigg. I am afraid that he has got his facts marshalled wrongly, or possibly his memory is at fault. Did he express any desire for help, and is it not a fact that he could have rung with the party had he been able or so desired? I should like to express my own sincere apologies to the readers of 'The Ringing World' for my share in this unfortunate controversy, which has been imposed upon me, for, as I stated in my letter of September 23rd, I hold the view that it need not have entered into the columns of our journal.

I am in agreement with the protest of Mr. J. F. Pellos and with this explanation have finished with the subject.

I would like to commend to the notice of Mr. Hogarth and Mr. Brownrigg the excellent leading articles in your issues of September 22nd and October 13th, and feel certain that an earnest digest of the contents therein will end this unedifying personal mud-slinging.

EDWIN JENNINGS.

BAD STRIKING—AND A REMEDY.

It is doubtful if ringers as a whole fully appreciate the amount of bad striking that prevails through the faulty handling of bell ropes. The man who does not manipulate his rope properly cannot hope to strike his bell correctly, simply because he has not got full control. Nine times out of ten the fault arises from improper instruction. The teacher, perhaps, has not taken sufficient trouble to insist on the pupil handling his rope in the right way, and the defects of manipulation have grown on the young ringer until they have become a habit. Or it may be that the teacher himself has never developed a correct style; therefore he is not in a position to put his pupil in the right way from the start. There may be other reasons why there are so many ringers up and down the country—it is really surprising how many there are—who do not handle a rope properly, but laxity or ignorance on the part of teachers has been the most prolific cause of the production of bad ringers—bad in the sense that, not having learned properly to control a bell, they are inefficient in their striking, although many of them, perhaps, would be the last to admit it.

From now onward, however, there will be no excuse for ignorance on the subject; although we are afraid that nothing will cure the laxity which characterises some people's methods of instruction. The Central Council have just printed a cheap booklet, compiled by two of the best authorities on this subject—Canon G. F. Coleridge and Mr. J. T. Dyke—and we have no hesitation in saying that, if a copy were placed in the hands of every ringer in this country and the advice acted upon, the average standard of striking would be improved by one hundred per cent. in twelve months. The value of the pamphlet lies in the simplicity of the instruction given, supplemented by half-a-dozen full page photographs of how to hold and how not to hold a bell rope. It is advice to the instructor as well as to the learner; it can be studied with profit by all ringers, for there are, we hope, very few who at some time or other do not take their share in teaching others, and there are many who, even though they have long since left what they would deem to be the beginner's stage, might 'learn something to their advantage.' Coupled with the hints on the fundamental instruction of the learner—and others whom it may concern—is a simple explanation of the first steps in change ringing, which the teacher will find a valuable aid to putting the novice on the road to acquiring an elementary knowledge of the art.

We would repeat that this book should be in the hands of every ringer and it has been one of the objects of the Central Council to publish it at a minimum cost, so that it can come within the reach of all. The issue price is twopence, including postage, but this is a pamphlet the distribution of which ought not to depend on individual sales. The associations themselves ought to take the copies up in bulk, and it would be to their advantage to distribute them free of cost to every member. They would get a quick return, we believe, in improved ringing among their members. In any case, we hope the booklet will be placed in the hands of every association instructor, every tower captain and every new ringer. It is something which has been wanting in the Exercise for years, and now that it is provided at such insignificant cost we hope the associations will make full use of it. Those who desire to obtain their copy quickly should send their twopence to the Central Council Librarian.

A NORTHANTS AUGMENTATION.

A GENEROUS GIFT TO WELFORD CHURCH.

In 1919 the peal of five bells at the Church of St. Mary the Virgin, Welford, were rehung by Messrs. Taylor and Co., of Loughborough, in a new frame with provision for three new bells. Thursday, November 30th, 1933, saw the completion of this work, when three new trebles, presented by Mr. T. H. Scrimshire, of Welford, in memory of his two sisters, were dedicated by the Lord Bishop of Peterborough.

Each bell bears the following inscription: In memory of my sisters Ann and Alice. Presented by T. H. Scrimshire, 1933. F. C. Woodhouse, Vicar. F. Lovell, W. G. Brown, Churchwardens.

Service, which was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. F. C. Woodhouse), commenced with the hymn, 'We love the place, O God.' Psalm 122 was sung, and the lesson was read by the Rural Dean (Canon Gornall). After the lesson the hymn, 'Praise, my soul, the King of Heaven,' was sung while the Bishop, clergy and churchwardens proceeded to the belfry. Immediately after the prayers of dedication, and as the procession returned, a few rounds were rung by the following: W. Perkins 1, F. Wilford 2, W. Wood 3, E. Bott 4, E. A. Marsh 5, Dr. F. S. Poole 6, G. A. Hollick 7, F. E. Hollick 8.

A striking address by the Bishop was appreciated by all, and with the hymn, 'Angel voices ever singing,' and the Blessing, the service concluded.

As the congregation left the church a touch of Stedman Triples was rung by W. Wood 1, F. Wilford 2, E. A. Marsh 3, Dr. F. S. Poole 4, A. Smart 5, F. Ball 6, W. Perkins (conductor) 7, G. A. Hollick 8. The bells were then at the disposal of visitors, and various methods were rung.

Messrs. Taylor and Co. were represented by Mr. J. Oldham, and all agreed that the work had been carried out in an efficient manner, the tone and 'go' of the three new bells being all that could be desired, and an excellent 'splice' effected.

On Saturday, December 2nd, a quarterly meeting of the Guildsborough Branch of the Peterborough Diocesan Guild was held for the purpose of a ringers' opening. Branch members attended from Husbands Bosworth, South Kilworth, Stamford-on-Avon and the local band, together with the branch president (the Rev. T. W. Long) and visiting ringers from Northampton, Wigston Magna, Higham Ferrers, Coventry, Leicester, Market Harborough, Burbage, Lutterworth and Folkingham (Lincs).

The bells were rung during the afternoon and evening in the various standard methods.

In the absence of the Vicar, service was conducted by the branch president.

Tea was partaken of at the Shoulder-of-Mutton Inn, and was followed by the business meeting, at which the January meeting was arranged for Guildsborough. The Chairman said he was sorry to see such a poor number of branch members present, but welcomed the visitors, some of whom had come long distances, and hoped they would spend a pleasant evening in ringing on the newly-augmented peal. After the usual votes of thanks had been accorded, a return was made to the belfry, where a pleasant meeting terminated about 8 p.m.

WEDDING.

The bells of St. Mary's Church, North Mimms, Herts, rang out merrily on Saturday, December 2nd, when Miss Catherine Ruth Nash, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Nash, was married to Mr. Donald Pinder, of Hatfield, Herts. The brother of the bridegroom acted as best man and the bride was given away by her father. The service was fully choral, the hymns sung being 'Lead us, Heavenly Father, lead us' and 'The Voice that breathed o'er Eden.' The Rev. Leonard Buxton (Vicar) performed the ceremony and afterwards gave an appropriate address, in which he bid the newly-wedded couple 'God-speed and good luck' for the future, sentiments which were heartily reciprocated by those present.

A very happy company afterwards assembled in the Scout Hut nearby, where the wedding breakfast was served, and the bride and bridegroom received further congratulations and good wishes from the many friends assembled. It was fitting that Mr. A. Shepherd, the president of the Hertford County Association, was able to be present, not only as a very sincere friend of the family, but as representing a great body of ringers in Herts and Middlesex, among whom Mr. and Mrs. Nash are worthily esteemed, and who rejoice with them in the consummation of a very happy event. Mr. Nash is the popular hon. secretary of the St. Albans District of the Hertford County Association.

'A SIMPLE QUARTER-PEAL.'

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—It may be of interest to ringers to know that the quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples appearing in this week's issue of 'The Ringing World,' and given as having been composed by E. H. Behan in 1899, was published in 'The Bell News' of June 17th, 1892 (No. 11). The composer was W. A. Tyler, of Willesden. If the single is called at the first lead in the 5th part, the part end will be 24356 and the 2nd still undisturbed throughout, without using a Holt's single.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.NORTH BUCKS BRANCH.

A very pleasant quarterly meeting of the North Bucks Branch was held at Bletchley on Saturday, December 2nd, when about 40 members were present, representing the following towers: Bletchley, Bradwell, Beachampton, Hanslope, Newport Pagnell, Newton Longville, Simpson, Stony Stratford, Weston Underwood and Woughton. Service was conducted by the Rector (the Rev. F. W. Bennitt), and a very inspiring address was given by the Rev. D. R. James, Vicar of Great Bucknill. Tea, provided in the Schoolroom, was followed by the usual business meeting, the president of the branch (the Rev. Adeane Byard, Vicar of Newport Pagnell) taking the chair.

The Chairman extended a very hearty welcome to the Rev. C. Elliot Wigg, Deputy Master of the Oxford Diocesan Guild, who unexpectedly paid his first visit to the North Bucks Branch.

The hon. secretary (Mr. W. Sear) read the minutes of the last meeting, which were accepted, and one or two points arising were fully discussed.

The secretary made an appeal on behalf of the Little Holwood Bell Fund. He explained the position and the sum of £3 3s. was voted.

One new tower, with eight members, was proposed and accepted.

A general discussion on monthly meetings took place and was referred to the next meeting for further consideration as to the best way such a plan could be worked.

The Deputy Master addressed the meeting, expressing his pleasure and appreciation at seeing such a good gathering on his first visit to North Bucks. He wished the branch every success and continued progress.

The usual votes of thanks were extended to the Rev. F. W. Bennitt for making arrangements for the service, to the Rev. D. R. James for his address, and to the ladies for providing tea.

The methods rung during the afternoon ranged from Grandsire and Stedman Triples to Cambridge Surprise Major.

BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION.

On Wednesday evening, December 6th, as a birthday compliment to Mr. E. Pearson, secretary of the Banbury Branch of the Oxfordshire Diocesan Guild, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Caters (1,259 changes) was rung at St. Mary's Church, Banbury. The ringers, who were all local men and regular Sunday service ringers, were: R. Higham 1, W. Watson 2, W. Tandy 3, F. Selwyn 4, E. Pearson 5, L. J. Malings 6, T. Impey 7, H. Impey (conductor) 8, J. Simons 9, W. Aston 10. First quarter-peal of Caters by the ringers of the 6th and tenor bells.

DEVONSHIRE GUILD.EXETER BRANCH PROGRESS.

The Exeter Branch of the Devonshire Guild held its annual meeting at St. Sidwell's, Exeter, on Saturday, December 9th, when there was an attendance of 61 members and visitors. Service was held at St. Sidwell's Church, conducted by the Rector (the Rev. H. Lanyon Owen), who gave an excellent address. Mr. D. J. Reed was at the organ.

Tea was held at St. Sidwell's Institute, and was followed by the business meeting, with Mr. C. G. Glass in the chair, supported by the president of the Guild (the Rev. E. V. Cox), the Rev. H. Lanyon Owen, the Rev. Rhys James and the general hon. secretary (Mr. T. Laver).

The secretary and treasurer's report showed an increase in membership and in the funds of the branch since last year's report.

The chairman, secretary and assistant secretary were all re-elected, and it was resolved to hold the next meeting at Crediton on February 10th, subject to the Vicar's approval.

The President congratulated the chairman on having such a lot of young members in the branch and the secretary upon the manner in which he had compiled his report on the year's work. He also wished the branch every success, and hoped they would continue to prosper, not only in the way of membership, but also in ringing higher methods.

The Chairman thanked the Rector of St. Sidwell's for the service and his excellent address, the organist and all those who had helped to make the meeting a success. Grandsire Doubles, Triples and Caters, also Stedman Doubles and Triples, were rung at the city towers during the evening.

LANCASHIRE ASSOCIATION.BLACKBURN BRANCH SOCIAL.

The Blackburn Branch of the Lancashire Association held its 18th annual social gathering on Saturday, December 2nd, at Holy Trinity Church, Burnley. During the afternoon mixed bands of ringers rang touches in various methods. All the ringers and their relatives and friends met in Mitre Street School for tea, which was served by ladies connected with the local tower. Preceding the social the Vicar (the Rev. B. E. Hughes, M.A.) extended a hearty welcome to all present, and hoped they had enjoyed the excellent tea provided.

A good concert was given by the Zipps Concert Party, and this was followed by dancing.

PLYMOUTH, DEVON.—On Sunday, October 8th, for harvest festival morning service, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples: R. W. Pugsley 1, E. W. Marsh 2, G. Godard 3, W. G. Lavers 4, W. G. Hiscott (conductor) 5, R. J. Baldry 6, J. Woodley 7, F. W. Baldry 8.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

A very mixed band, hailing from Congresbury, Bristol, London and Newport, had on Wednesday week a great disappointment, when a peal of Stedman Triples came to grief at Mangotsfield, Gloucestershire, only a few changes from home, owing to the rope of the second bell breaking. The conductor was Mr. John Thomas, of London.

Frank J. Green, at the age of only 12 years, has just rung his first peal, at Wicken, Northants.

An interesting performance of 80 years ago was 'the first peal of Stedman Triples ever rung on handbells retained in hand, which was performed in the presence of 19 members of the College Youths and Cumberland Societies,' on December 19th, 1853, by four members of the Cumberland Youths: John Cox 1-2, Thomas Powell 3-4, Henry W. Haley 5-6, Thomas Brittan 7-8. Several of the witnesses, the old record adds, had the figures of the peal before them, and ticked off the sixes as they were rung.

On December 18th, 1823, members of the Junior College Youths rang at Newington 'a true and excellent peal of Grandsire Triples on Stedman's principle . . . the greatest performance ever achieved upon any peal of bells in the Kingdom.' The peal contained 598 bobs and 122 singles, 'and is the most perfect of the kind ever produced, but has never been rung until the present occasion, when every bob and single was regularly called and made.'

Thus 'The Times' of that day. The report adds something which is a great testimony to the perseverance of the band. 'Two years have elapsed,' it is remarked, 'since the society first attempted to ring this peal, during which time they have assembled every Thursday evening to perform it, and in the various unsuccessful attempts which have been made they have rung upwards of 200,000 changes in this most difficult of all the systems in the art of ringing.'

THE YOUNGEST PEAL BAND.

In connection with the 'youngsters' peal recorded in our last issue, Mr. C. H. Kippin, hon. secretary of the Surrey Association, writes that the youngest eight-bell peal band all belonged to Beddington, and they rang a peal of Grandsire Triples in their own tower in 1926. They were all under 21 and the total years of their ages numbered 145.

The band which rang the peal of Major at St. Olave's, Hart Street, totalled 147 years.

BELL BROADCASTS.

To the Editor.

Sir,—Having read your footnote re the above, I hasten to say that in no part of my letter did I give any intimation that you did suggest that broadcast ringing should be dealt with by a central body. On the other hand, there is a number of ringers who think that broadcasting should be controlled by a central body, but, instead of saying so straight out, they hint at it in a kind of indirect way.

Mr. Groombridge's suggested instruction by a Central Council committee would, we should ultimately find, lead to the whole thing being taken over by the Central Council, and God help broadcast ringing if that ever came about. Some, I know, will say it would be all to the good; but, as I said last week, one can see a lot of friction being caused by this, and, therefore, I fail to see where the best interests of the art would be served by it being controlled by any other than the local bands.

I hold no biased opinion with regard to Surprise ringing, and would say at the outset, 'By all means give a selection of Surprise ringing if the broadcast is to be from a tower where a Surprise band exists.' On the other hand, a Grandsire band should have the same privilege of giving a selection when the broadcasting is from their tower; but such a privilege one can see being denied to them if these programmes were controlled by a central body.

Where the Central Council or such a body could do good would be to advise the B.B.C. to give MORE bell broadcasts, AND GIVE THEM FROM BETTER TOWERS! Gransley, for instance, has three bells that are cracked. Instead of these, why not Kettering (back eight) or Rothwell? Daventry has a very musical octave; why does not someone push for a broadcast of these? Other peals worthy of mention are St. John's, Leicester (10), St. Margaret's, Leicester (12), Claybrooke, near Rugby (8), Oakham (8), Bromham, Beds (6), and Monk's Kirby, near Rugby (8).

Wellingborough.

P. AMOS.

[Does Mr. Amos realise that bell broadcasts on Sunday evenings are only incidental to the broadcast service? There are hundreds of peals of bells, besides those which he mentions, which would be better for broadcasting than some of those we hear over the ether, but the B.B.C. would not entertain a Sunday evening bell broadcast from any church unless it be the prelude to a service. It is not the bells which would decide the place of service, but the place of service which decides the broadcast of bells.—EDITOR, 'Ringing World'.]

FAMOUS DEVON BELLS.

CROYDON FIRM CONGRATULATED.

The Plymptons—St. Mary and St. Maurice—have several claims to fame—the birthplace of England's greatest portrait painter, Sir Joshua Reynolds; a borough that returned two members to Parliament for several centuries until disfranchised in 1832, of which borough Reynolds became Mayor and which included the distinguished architect, Sir Christopher Wren, among its representatives in the Commons; a wonderful priory dating from the early part of the 12th century, which priory was preceded by a Saxon college, whose foundation is known to have been earlier than 904; and a castle of Celtic or British type. These are things of the past. But at Plympton St. Mary there stands to-day a noble Parish Church with a tower of massive proportions, 91ft. up from ground to battlements, and having corner pinnacles 20ft. high. The tower is worthily equipped with a ring of eight bells, whose tenor is 25 cwt. 1 qr. 11 lb. in D. It was long popularly supposed to be 31 cwt. Two of the bells, the fourth and tenor, date from 1614; the fifth and seventh from 1725; the third, 1766; the treble and second, 1868, when the sixth was recast. The three last mentioned were the work of Warner and Sons; the others were made by members of the famous Purdue family. Among the inscriptions are the names of Treby, Parker (now represented by the Earls of Morley) and Strode, indicating gifts by notable residents.

MARIE STRODE'S TENOR.

Several traditions are associated with the tenor, which has conspicuous quality. One is that Marie Strode, who is described in the inscription as 'the founder of this bell,' threw 'a lapful of silver' into the metal. That would have been a misfortune. It is more probable that she put in some blocks of tin, but the spectators of the casting, which seems to have been in the churchyard, thought, perhaps, that the lady would not be content with anything less than silver. George Purdue, the actual founder, evidently ensured the correct processes, for the bell was described by the late Rev. H. T. Ellacombe (who during 1864 and 1865 examined the bells in 457 towers in Devon) as 'very splendid.' Another tradition connected with the tenor is conveyed by the lines:—

'What makes me ring so loud?
'Twas Lady Marie Catherine Strode.'

This Lady Marie or Mary was the first wife of Sir William Strode, who was one of the Members of Parliament for the borough, and she is thus described on a monument in the church:—

'Mary, incarnate virtue, soule and skin
Both pure, whom death not life convinced of sin,
Had daughters like seven Pleiades, but shee
Was a prime star of greatest charitie.'

She had three sons as well as seven daughters. The second son, William, who successively represented Plympton and Bere Alston (another of the old 'pocket' boroughs) in the Commons, was one of the five members whom Charles I. attempted to arrest on a charge of high treason in 1642, and thereby precipitated the Civil War.

'GIRT DEBEN PASSEN.'

There was change ringing on the old six bells in 1864, when Mr. H. R. Trelawny's band from Calstock (Cornwall) rang 'six different peals of six-score Grandsire Doubles.' In 1895, when a party organised by the late Rev. Maitland Kelly (for many years president of the Guild of Devonshire Ringers) went to Plympton St. Mary for a peal on the augmented ring, the local men asserted that neither the 7th nor the tenor could be rung single-handed for one hour; they themselves had double ropes and two men for each of the big bells. But they 'hedged' a little when the Giant of Cadbury (now Canon Coleridge and highly esteemed by his fellow Dimplings), the 'star' campanologist of his time (James W. Washbrook), the champion Stedman Tripler (the Rev. F. E. Robinson) and the jovial Master of St. Martin's, Salisbury (William Gifford) came under their ken. With four such hefty back-enders, the Plympton prophets thought the visitors 'mit du eet.' And 'du eet' they did, for a well-struck peal of Stedman Triples was duly scored, Washbrook conducting from the seventh and the 'terrible girt passen' slogging through the tenor with rare rhythm. The visitors clinched their reputation by ringing a peal of Double Norwich on the bells of the neighbouring parish of Plympton St. Maurice, where the tenor, however, is just under 12 cwt. 'Us niver shud a' bleev'd sich things eef us had'n bin yur and 'urd eet,' was the comment made in the parishes on the performances, with the smug addition, 'An' thay cud'n a bin dude'd eef min ad'n ad thic thear girt Doben passen.'

'MAGNIFICENT.'

The whole of the bells have been recently rehung by Messrs. Gillett and Johnston, of Croydon. Their work has included the installation of a new iron A frame, which is carried on steel girders; equipping the bells with iron headstocks and all the latest improvements in fittings; and just sufficient tuning to add to the musical qualities of the peal. They have also restored the clock. At the opening, which took place on December 2nd, the Bishop of Exeter officiated, and a large congregation contained about 200 ringers. The service was followed by a presentation by the Bishop on behalf of parishioners to Engineer Captain P. Olford (who has been one of the churchwardens, but now resides at Harrogate), in recognition of his great help in parochial work during the last five years, and especially as regards the installation of heating plant for the church and furtherance of the scheme for restoration of the bells. The Vicar (the Rev. C. R. Bull) and Col. F. R. Phillips, D.S.O. (churchwardens), paid tributes to the services of Capt. Olford, who, in replying, said he had inspected the work done in the bell chamber, and, knowing something about engineering, felt he must congratulate Mr. Cyril Johnston (who was present) and the members of his staff on the magnificent piece of engineering they had carried out. The gift to the Captain consisted of a handsome silver salver and a beautifully bound and illuminated album containing the names of subscribers.

Among the places represented by ringers were the Plymptons, Plymouth (three or four towers), Exeter, Yealmpton, Dawlish, Newton Abbot, Totnes, Tavistock, Lamerton, Saltash, St. Budeaux, Ugborough, West Bickleigh, Modbury, Kingsteigton, Shaugh, Cornwood and Bramford Speke. Most of the bands were round ringers, but there was a good sprinkling of 'scientific' men, who included the Rev. E. V. Cox, president of the Devonshire Guild. All expressed themselves delighted with the 'go' of the bells, and eulogised the enhancement effected by the tuning of some of the units.

The bells and their weights are as follow:—

ORGANISED RINGING AT WESTERN DIVISION MEETINGS.

The quarterly meeting of the Western Division was held at the Cathedral Church of St. Peter, Bradford, on Saturday, December 9th. In spite of cold and unsettled weather, about 40 members were present from the following towers: Armley, Burley, Brighouse, Batley, Biratall, Calverley, Denholme, Drighlington, Headingley (St. Chad's and St. Michael's), Holbeck, Idle, Keighley, Leeds, Low Moor, Pudsey, Rothwell, Queensbury and Shipley, together with visitors from the Northern Division and the local company. The bells were kept going in various methods from Treble Bob Major to London Surprise, several members also getting their first touch of Treble Bob Royal and Stedman Caters.

The business meeting was held in the Captain Street Schools, Mr. P. J. Johnson (vice-president) being in the chair.

The question of organised ringing, raised at the Ilkley meeting, was discussed by the committee, and, after hearing the evidence, it was resolved that the case in point was one of exceptional circumstances, but for future occasions, in the absence of the Ringing Master, the duties must fall on the senior member of the committee.

Mr. G. W. Creasey, of Gainsborough, was elected a member of the association.

On the motion of Mr. H. Lofthouse, seconded by Mr. J. Cotterell, it was resolved to accept the invitation of the Army company to hold the annual meeting at that tower on Saturday, March 10th, 1934.

A vote of thanks to the Provost, churchwardens and the local company was proposed by Mr. H. Lofthouse, seconded by Mr. V. Bairdow and cordially adopted.—Mr. J. Broadley suitably replied on behalf of the local company.

WORCESTERSHIRE ASSOCIATION.

WESTERN BRANCH OFFICERS RE-ELECTED.

The quarterly meeting of the Western Branch of the Worcester and Districts Association was held at Claines on Saturday, December 9th. About 40 members were present, representing 14 towers of the branch, and including visitors from Bromsgrove, Badsey, Evesham and Willersley.

The bells were 'got going' at 3 o'clock, and at the service which followed an excellent address was given by the Vicar (the Rev. A. H. Clinch).

Tea was then partaken of, by the kind invitation of the Vicar, at the Claines Institute.

At the subsequent meeting all the branch officers were re-elected for the ensuing year, and Kempsey was chosen as the place for the spring meeting.

After the meeting closed the tower was again visited, where many touches were successfully brought round. Methods rung ranged from Grandsire to Stedman Triples and Cambridge and Double Norwich Court Bob Major.

THE GREAT BELL OF LAMBETH.

VICISSITUDES OF AN OLD TENOR.

The restoration of the bells of the ancient Parish Church of St. Mary, Lambeth, recalls the fact that even in the distant past those who were responsible for the care of the bells were not unmindful of their responsibilities. The church has some well-preserved documents which throw a light on the transactions of the 16th and 17th centuries, and during that period the tenor bell seems to have given a good deal of trouble.

But first of all what about this? Two penny nails—3d. This item figures in the churchwardens' accounts in the year 1602-3 and seems to strike a humorous note. Was the churchwarden who made the entry a wag or was his book-keeping at fault? This is the extract as it appears in Stahlschmidt's 'Church Bells of Surrey':—

1602-3.—Item payde for ij peny nayles that mended the wheeles that wer taken asunder. iiij d.

There were five bells in the tower at this time, and they were there before the inventory taken in the reign of Edward VI., which records 'five great belles in the stople.' In 1584-5 there is an item for 'ye new castings of iiij belles.' These were probably the front four, for about 14 years later the tenor was recast by Robert Mott, who established himself at the Whitechapel Foundry in 1570.

Two years after the recasting of the four bells, one of them apparently went back to the foundry for some purpose, for in 1586-7 Mr. Mote, of Whitechappell, was paid 16/8 'for ye bell bringinge home and for ye clapper and bawdricke,' and 21 pence was paid 'for makinge ye drinke when they brought home ye Bell and other honest men with them.'

The entries will regard to the recasting of the tenor are interesting. This is how they read:—

Item the old greates belle that was broken in the tyme of Roger Winslo Richard Thorpe and John Lucas beyng churchwardens in the yeare of oure Lorde 1598 did containe in waighte xiiij c one quarter xxij li.

Item also the newe greates belle that now ys in the stepell do the waye xv c a half and xxi li.

Item also for new castenge careinge hangeng and all other charges to be allowed and he to have a xj s the hundred viii li

Item also yt was agreed that he shold have for the over plusse of mettell that he put into the bell viij d the pound so theare was put in more then was in the old bell bi one hundred and xxvij li iiij li xii s viij d

Item for the new clapper for the new great bell wayeing lviij li at vj d the pound xxix s

Item for the newe workyngs of the clapper that was in the old great Belle x s

In the following year (1599-1600) are entries showing two of the contributions received towards the recasting, one from the parish and the other from the Archbishop of Canterbury, who gave 40 shillings.

Red. of the pish towards the charges of the greates bell vj li ijs id

Red. more of my Lordes grace towards the same bell xl s

Then come other records of payments in the same year:—

Item payd for a quittans the xxiiij day of Auguste when we payd master mote viij li the fyrst tyme vj d

Item paid for carydge of to brase pulles and a great capell rope from Motes howse at Whitechappell to Lambeth Church for to truse the great bell and when we had donne wyth yt for caredg home agane from Lambeth Church to Master Mot's howse xviij d

Item paid for the brussinge of the great belle and for nayles the xxv day of awguste iiij s

Item paide to Mr. Mote for the new bell xiiij li xi s viij d

Something about this 'great bell' or its hanging must have been unsatisfactory, for in the year 1602, a payment of 12 pence was made on September 8th, 'when the great bell was pulled downe to laborers that did help to make them drinke.' Sixteen pence was 'payde to a carpenter that looke off the wheeles and altered the frame'—it was then that threepence was paid for two penny nails—and later, on November 13th and 14th, a carpenter was paid 8s. 6d. 'when the great bell came home and mending the third bell wheele and for boords and nayles that was occupied those three dayes.' A bricklayer and his labourer were also paid 2/4 'for one dayes worke' on November 13th.

In March, 1604, the great bell was once more taken down, and 2s. was paid to 'them that did helpe.'

Presumably it must have been again recast, for in the following year's accounts, although probably still in the year 1604, Parkes, the smith, was paid 6s. 10d. for 'worke which he did about the bells and the clocke when the new bell was finished and the frame,' and the 'bell carpenter' received 12s. 6d. for mending three of the bells that were 'lose in the stockes and the goodgings when the greates bell was set into the frame.'

Mr. Moet received 40s. on September 7th 'in part paiement of his byll for the bell,' and on the same day, at a cost of 6d., a bill was executed 'betweene Mr. Moet and the parishes.' On October 18th Mr. Moete was paid £5 for the great bell in the presence of John Howard and James Johnson and others, and a further £5 on January 5th in the presence of Thomas Purcas and Edward Davis.

The vicissitudes of the 'great bell' of Lambeth were, however, not yet at an end. In 1609-10 it was again recast, for there is in the accounts an item of £3 7s. 'for the mettall that was put into the great bell,' and £11 'paid in part for the casting of the great bell,' 10d. 'for breade and beare' at the taking down of the bell and 18d. at its hanging up. Fifty shilling was paid 'for the taking downe and hanging up agayne of the great bell,' and later in the same year there appears to have been another mishap, for 21s. 6d. was paid 'for newe hanging agayne of the great bell and a new godgen the old bing broken.'

That, apparently, was not the end of the troublous times through which this old bell passed, for the accounts indicate that there was yet another recasting. Having in 1614-15 paid for recasting the 3rd bell, and 'for hanging up of the 3rd bell and to the ringers,' 13s. 4d., the parish in 1615-16 raised a subscription for the repair of the church and recasting the 3rd and great bells, and in the same year paid William Carter, Bellfounder, £11 'for the casting of the great Bell or Tenor.'

In 1617 the churchwardens discharged some old debts in regard to the bells:—

Payde to Philipp Walton an olde debte being for the hanging up of the third bell in 1613 £1 13s. 4d.

Payde to Walter Barton for an olde debte owenge to Carter the Bellfounder for casting of the third bell £4

And so the ancient history of the old bells comes to an end, and there is a gap until 1723, when Richard Phelps recast them into a new peal of eight.

There is another item of interest in these age old accounts. Mats for the bell ropes to drop on are no new thing. 'Mats to the bells' were provided at a cost of 2s. for the belfry at Lambeth in 1593, and again, in 1615, 'matts for safegarde of the bell roapes' cost eighteen-pence.

LONDON COUNTY ASSOCIATION MEET AT LAMBETH.

A meeting of the Southern District was held at the Church of St. Mary, Lambeth, on Saturday, by kind permission of the Rector (the Rev. A. Llewellyn Jones). Soon after 3 o'clock the newly-tuned and restored peal of eight were set going under the direction of the hon. secretary, rounds for beginners being the first item. After a touch of Stedman, the Master arrived and took charge of the proceedings, and several touches in various methods were rung with more or less success. The attendance had by this time become rather large, but all tastes were catered for. As tea time drew near it seemed as if the 'defaulters,' of whom there were quite a few, would have to go without, but they managed to get accommodated, largely at the expense of those who, fortunately, would 'spring a penny' for a postcard.

Tea was held at the new Archbishop Davidson Institute, near the church, built on the site of the Old Brew House. Quite a few remarks were passed as to the contrast in the two buildings, and the fact that a huge fireplace used to give warmth in the old building, very 'homey' and sociable. Are modern radiators things to sit round and chat? One does not see many doing it. After tea more ringing was indulged in, anything up to and including London being rung. Later the business, mostly routine, was transacted. Two new members were elected, and a hearty vote of thanks passed to the Rector for the use of the bells, and to Messrs. Hardy and Wyatt, of the local band, who have worked so hard to help forward the restoration scheme, in connection with which it may be said the account in the current number of 'The Ringing World' as to the go of the bells, the tuning and the engineering only do the contractors justice.

Ring was brought to a close at 8.30, when the gathering of 50 or 60 which had attended during the afternoon and evening dispersed—mostly with collars up. J. H.

STOKE-ON-TRENT RINGER'S JUBILEE.

Mr. S. Churton, the leader of St. Peter's, Stoke-on-Trent, ringers, has completed 50 years' service as a ringer. He has been leader for 33 years. In 1921 his brother ringers at Stoke presented him with a gold chain and bell pendant on his completing 21 years as leader. Mr. Churton was at one time Eight-Bell Ringing Master and for a great number of years instructor on eight bells to the North Staffordshire Association. He has rung 30 peals, of which he has conducted 15 in various methods.

Although he has not taken part in any peals for some time, he takes a great interest when a peal is arranged by the younger members.

Mr. Churton took part in the first peal of Stedman Triples in North Staffs, and also conducted the first peal of Stedman Triples on Stoke bells. In addition he has taken part in the first peals in other towers. He is still very regular in his attendance at the belfry, and it is hoped he will long be spared to continue his good work.

RESTORATION SCHEME COMPLETED. SOLIHULL CELEBRATION.

SOLIHULL PARISH CHURCH.

The completion of the renovation of the chancel of Solihull Church, Warwickshire, was consummated on Wednesday, when the work was rededicated by the Bishop of Birmingham. The restoration of the bells was part of the big scheme undertaken by the parish, and they were recast and rehung as a peal of ten. This portion of the work was carried out some time ago, but the first peal on the bells was rung on Saturday, as part of the celebration in connection with the completion of the chancel.

THE LOUGHBOROUGH COCKEREL.

On Saturday, November 24th, Leicester lads and Loughborough men met together for a 'cock supper,' and a most enjoyable evening was spent. It was a happy sight to see four and twenty ringers discussing six birds and two joints, with spiced 'veg,' and the keenest of critics did full justice.

After supper the more daring ones of the company burst into song, and voices seldom heard in the belfry were crooning bedtime stories. The company were entertained to violin solos by Mr. Collins, sen., with Miss Collins at the piano.

Ten o'clock came all too soon, and the Leicester party regretfully left the carcasses to the care of Loughborough. Leicester was reached by Iron Road or borrowed ride.

Thanks were proposed by Mr. James Harris to Mr. David Collins and Miss Collins and other Loughborough friends for making the gathering possible. Such an evening could not but end in harmony, and more of them would do much to cement the brotherhood of the ringing fraternity.

The Loughborough Cock has gone to Pot
And ducks are in the Queue;
Myself, I'm GAME for anything,
But draw the line at Stew.

A FLAT.

THIRTY YEARS WEDDED.

PEAL BAND'S UNIQUE DISTINCTION.

Five years ago at Ewell, Surrey, eight ringers rang a peal of Kent Treble Bob Major as a collective celebration of their silver weddings. It was a unique gathering.

On Saturday the same eight ringers met at Woking and rang the same peal to commemorate 30 years of wedded life completed in the year 1933. That performance is also unique. It was not possible to make the attempt at Ewell, owing to the bells being out of order.

Some of the band had not seen others in the interval, and it was a happy experience to find them all in good health and 'none the worse for wear.' The peal, delayed in the start for an hour, owing to one of the ringers missing a train connection, went off without a hitch, and, naturally, gave great satisfaction to the participants.

Mr. and Mrs. Hazelden have added to their records by sharing in this performance. They were the first married couple to ring together in both tower bell and handbell peals, they took part in the first peal rung by husbands and wives, and were the first married pair to ring 50 peals together.

After the peal on Saturday the ringers had tea (a very late tea) together, and the 'wedding cake'—decorated with the dates '1903-1933'—was cut with due ceremony. Mrs. J. S. Goldsmith was present, but it was a matter of regret that from various causes the remainder of the 'better halves' could not join the company. However, their share of the cake was dispatched to them in the care of their respective spouses, so that, as one gentleman put it, they could sleep with it under their pillow and dream of their next husband. Among those who were present at tea were Mr. J. Brackley (captain) and Mr. D. Munday (hon. secretary of the local ringers), who were cordially thanked for having made arrangements for the peal.

It is not uninteresting to note that four of the ringers could claim the title of 'grandfather,' three of them having gained that distinction since the silver wedding celebration.

BATH AND WELLS DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

ILCHESTER DEANERY'S ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual meeting of the Ilchester Deanery Branch of the Bath and Wells Diocesan Association was held at Yeovil on Saturday week and was well attended. Service was held in the fine old church, the Vicar (the Rev. J. E. S. Harrison) officiating. Subsequently tea, provided by Mrs. John Goodchild and a committee of ladies, was served in the Schoolroom.

Preb. G. W. Saunders, supported by the Rev. J. E. S. Harrison, presided at the meeting at the outset, but vacated the chair for the election of officers.

The secretary (Mr. F. Farrant) proposed the re-election of Preb. Saunders as president, and took the opportunity of congratulating him on recently being appointed to the Prebendal stall of Timberscombe.—Mr. J. E. Baker seconded the proposition, and endorsed the congratulations.

Preb. Saunders, in accepting the office for another year, expressed his thanks for their congratulations.

Mr. T. Setter, of Yeovil, was elected as Ringing Master. Mr. F. Farrant was re-elected secretary, and to represent the branch on the General Committee.

The President thanked the Vicar of Yeovil for his welcome and for the use of the bells, etc., and the Vicar, replying, said they would be welcome on any future occasion at Yeovil.

Montacute, North Perrott, Langport and Kingsbury were the places chosen for the quarterly meetings.

New members were elected as follows: C. Willmott, A. Samways, R. Trask, A. Peach, D. Willmott, S. Rodford and D. Rodford, of North Perrott; Mrs. Rendall, Miss Turner and S. Hawkins, of Hardington; and J. Lock, of Somerton.

The business concluded with a hearty vote of thanks to Mrs. Goodchild and the ladies who had provided such an excellent tea.

Ringers were present from Yeovil, Ilminster, Taunton, Castle Cary, Langport, Martock, Trowbridge, Stoke-under-Ham, Norton-sub-Hamdon, Montacute, Somerton, North Cadbury, Hardington, Mandeville, North Perrott, Templecombe and Buckland Newton.

Grandsire, Stedman, Plain Bob and Kent Treble Bob were some of the methods rung during the afternoon and evening. All taking part in the ringing were pleased with the excellent 'go' of the bells, and to have the opportunity of ringing on such a fine peal.

CHRISTCHURCH BAND'S SUCCESS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I would like to thank, through 'The Ringing World,' all those, and they are many, who have written to congratulate the Christchurch band on their success in ringing their first peal on the twelve bells. This peal was rung at the second attempt, the first attempt being on April 24th last, when we got to within 800 of the finish, after ringing just on 2½ hours. We often ring 1,320 for the Sunday evening service, and I shall be pleased to arrange such for any ringers who may be in the district if they will drop me a card.

TRAGIC DEATH OF SELLY OAK RINGER. ACCIDENT ON WAY TO RINGING PRACTICE.

On Wednesday, November 29th, Mr. Christopher Gibbs, one of Selly Oak's most promising ringers, met his death in very tragic circumstances. He was on his way to practice at St. Mary's Church on his motor-cycle when he was involved in an accident at the entrance to the Church Drive. Another motor-cyclist crashed into him broadside, throwing him some 15 to 20 yards and inflicting severe injuries from which he died about three hours after being admitted to Selly Oak Hospital.

Chris Gibbs will be missed very much at St. Mary's, where he was tower keeper. He joined the band when it was reorganised on the restoration of the bells about two years ago. Although he could only ring call-changes then, he rang his first peal (Grandsire Triples 'inside') on October 28th last, and was beginning to ring Stedman very well.

He was 34 years of age, and a native of Somerton in Somerset, from whence he came about 14 to 15 years ago.

He was an excellent tower keeper, as was evidenced by the improvements in the belfry which he brought about. He was a member of the Worcestershire Association and the St. Martin's Guild, Birmingham.

The funeral took place on December 4th at his home town in Somerset.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD.

PROPOSED JOINT MEETING FOR DORSET AT MILTON ABBEY.

The ringers of St. James' Church, Poole, fulfilled most cordially an act of fellowship on Saturday, December 2nd, when they welcomed the Wimborne Branch of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild to their tower for its annual meeting. The good work that the local band has achieved is something noteworthy among the whole community. Its progress is almost certainly due to the keen and untiring efforts of Mr. F. W. Townsend (Ringing Master), admirably supported by Mr. J. I. Davis. It is easy to understand that here is a band working earnestly for the art and sacrificing much to achieve its true objects, ready to greet any who care to venture among them, and in preference standing aside to enable the visitor to share in the ringing. The learner finds his steps made less steep through combined assistance. The Ringing Master has established among the juniors a company of qualified handbell ringers, who deserve meritorious mention, and, as a proof of what service can be rendered, one should view the ringing chamber, which has been perfected by these young people.

A very helpful address was given at the meeting by the Rev. C. A. Phillips (secretary and treasurer to the branch), who urged ringers to be ready to perform some kind deed among others and put self second. They should work first for God. He recalled the ideal inscription on a bell at Whitchurch Canoncorum: 'Come when I call, come to church all. Come to serve God, or come not at all.'

Tea was afterwards provided in the Church House by the kindness of Mr. J. I. Davis (the local correspondent), who was assisted by Mrs. Davis, Mrs. Rose, Miss Davis and Miss Marshall. The Rev. Canon E. C. Eddrup, of Corfe Mullen, presided at the meeting which followed.

Reviewing the work of the year, the Rev. C. A. Phillips said continued progress and good fellowship characterised it. Meetings had been held during the year at Wimborne St. Giles, Kingston, Swanage and Poole, and practices were held at Wareham, the Lytchetts, St. Giles', Wyke Regis and Cranborne, and evening practices took place at Wimborne and Poole. At Wimborne they bade farewell to the Rev. and Mrs. Elliot, and met the Rev. C. C. Cox, of West Dorset. A peal of Grandsire Doubles was rung at Lytchett by the local band.

The report was adopted with a satisfactory financial statement, and high tribute and thanks were accorded Mr. Davis and Mr. Townsend. The Rector of Poole was also heartily thanked for the hospitality offered. New members admitted were Mr. William Young and Mr. E. T. Griffin, of Yeovil.

Mr. C. H. Jennings proposed, and it was unanimously agreed, that the whole of the officers and members of the Wimborne, Dorchester, West and North Dorset branches should be invited to a united gathering at Milton Abbey, which was the best meeting place he (Mr. Jennings) could conceive, and it would be the 1,000th anniversary year of the Abbey foundation.

On the motion of Mr. Martin Stewart, it was decided to send hearty congratulations to the Christchurch ringers on their recent performance in scoring the first twelve-bell peal at the Priory Church, and he commented on the happy relations which had always existed between the two branches.

The officers of the branch were re-elected en bloc. It may be added that the Rev. F. Llewellyn Edwards (hon. secretary of the Guild) was to have given the address, but was unable to attend because of celebrations in his parish of Kingston Magna to mark his completion of 25 years as Rector.

MARKET HARBOROUGH, LEICESTERSHIRE.—On Sunday, October 22nd, for morning service, a quarter-peal of Bob Major (1,264 changes): W. Hector 1, A. Manning (conductor) 2, E. Measures 3, W. Wallington 4, R. March 5, J. Chester 6, N. Bolton 7, F. Wallington 8.

BELLS IN BRITISH COLUMBIA. THE STORY OF A VANISHED PEAL.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I wonder if a few lines from far away Vancouver would be amiss? At any rate, I am taking the liberty to correct a little error in that long and interesting article by 'W. H. F.' on the bells of Cumberland. The passage I allude to appears in the issue of September 22nd on page 602. Referring to bells given by the late Baroness Burdett Coutts, 'W. H. F.' said, 'Speaking from memory, I believe the Baroness also in 1861 presented the bells to Vancouver, B.C., thus indirectly helping the first peal in the Dominion, 1911, a jubilee peal.'

A letter written by myself and published in 'The Ringing World' of August 16th, and continued on August 25th, 1918, gives a full and correct history of these bells and the peal rung on them—a coronation, not a jubilee peal. But the reference to the bells at New Westminster, B.C., given by the late Baroness, prompts me to give you the history of those bells, gathered both from my personal knowledge and from what I have been told by those who, at one time, rang them.

Some 75 years ago, British Columbia was an almost unknown wilderness of mountains, its southern boundary being ill defined, as arrests were being made as far north as Langley on the Fraser river by the United States officials. Vancouver Island was a separate Crown Colony, with Sir James Douglas as Governor, and practically no authority on the mainland, but in the gold rush to Cariboo from California he took upon himself, with Colonel Begby as magistrate, to administer British justice and law. First Hope, then Port Langley and later New Westminster in turn became the capital. New Westminster was but a very small settlement in those days, and there was considerable controversy as to the name it should be known by. Finally it received its name from the late Queen Victoria, and, therefore, was called New Westminster, the Royal City. The late Baroness was a great friend of Queen Victoria and decided to give an iron church to the new city, which was duly sent to the capital of British Columbia. Meanwhile, Vancouver Island was incorporated in British Columbia and the capital moved to Victoria. The little iron church was held in that city, instead of being transhipped to New Westminster. When word of this reached the Baroness, she said she would send another to New Westminster, but, on being informed that that city had already built a substantial church and tower, decided to send out a beautiful peal of bells instead.

On arrival at Victoria (in those days everything was transhipped at Victoria), those bells were held, but, after a costly law suit, were finally sent on to New Westminster and erected and hung in a wooden frame in the churchyard, and rung in rounds by what ringers could be found. There was never any change ringing done on them, and after two years, the frame becoming unsafe, they were taken down and housed in a sort of wooden house in the yard—all except one, which was hung in the tower.

Mr. J. B. Cherry, brother to the late Lord Chief Justice of Ireland, was a resident in New Westminster, and offered to hang the bells in the tower for 500 dollars, but for some reason his offer was not accepted and the bells were left in their hut and finally destroyed in the great fire of Westminster, which also burned the church, the tower falling with the one bell, which, though somewhat pitted, survived the conflagration and is the only one left.

The Baroness, on being informed of their condition, was asked her pleasure with regard to them, it being probably expected that she would have them recast, but her answer was short and severe, viz.: 'You have had a splendid peal of bells and kept them in a box for 40 years, not even thinking enough of them to put them in the tower, therefore, I have no further pleasure in them whatsoever.'

The metal was finally sold to some San Francisco firm and the money used to restore the church.

On climbing up to the belfry, I found the one bell hung on a clumsy wooden frame, with a stout piece of pipe for gudgeons and a home-made wheel. The bell itself is inscribed with the donor's name and date, cast by Mears. There are also seven clappers with clapper staples attached, which I measured, and, from what I can guess, the remnant of the peal is the third of a ring of eight, tenor probably about 1½ tons. I wrote to the Baroness to see if I could get her interested in sending another peal for a splendid tower on the side of the hill overlooking the river, but her secretary replied that she was then very ill, and, as a matter of fact, in a few days had passed away.

A. O. LIMPUS.

208, Union Street, Vancouver, B.C.

FOR DEDICATION SERVICE.

At Christ Church, Alsager, on Wednesday, December 6th, for a special service when the memorial tablet to the memory of two earnest churchworkers (the late Mr. G. E. Barker and the late Mrs. S. E. Edwards) was dedicated and electric lighting which had been installed in the church was officially opened a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples was rung: F. Moseley 1, B. Fernyough 2, H. Dixon 3, A. Thompson 4, G. W. Whalley 5, E. Poole (first quarter-peal 'inside') 6, D. R. Whalley (conductor) 7, R. Moseley 8.

DUDLEY AND DISTRICT GUILD. ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING AT NETHERTON.

The quarterly meeting of the Dudley and District Guild was held on Saturday, December 2nd, at St. Andrew's Church, Netherton, Worcestershire, and was fairly well attended. The bells were placed at the disposal of the members from three o'clock, and were kept merrily going until service was held in church. The Guild's special form of service was used, and was conducted by the Vicar of Netherton (the Rev. E. L. Warren), who also gave a very interesting address.

At the close of the service an adjournment was made to the Church House, where an excellent tea was in readiness, generously provided by the churchwardens (Messrs. E. Baker and F. W. Jordan).

The business meeting followed, at which the Vicar occupied the chair, supported by his wardens, Mr. J. Goodman, jun. (Ringing Master), Mr. S. J. Hughes (treasurer) and the secretary (Mr. H. Shoppard).

The Chairman announced apologies from the Rev. K. F. Morris (Netherton), Mr. H. Mason, Mr. John Price and Mr. T. Hemmings. He said how pleased he was to meet the Guild, and, on behalf of himself, the wardens and Church Council, he gave them a hearty welcome to Netherton.

After business of a routine character had been disposed of, several new members were added to the roll, including the churchwardens, who readily consented to their names being added to the list of honorary members.

It was resolved to hold the next meeting, which is the annual one, at Dudley on Saturday, March 3rd, 1934. It was also decided to attempt the quarterly peal at Netherton, the necessary arrangements being left with the genial captain of St. Andrew's ringers.

It was agreed that the secretary (Mr. H. Shoppard) send a letter of condolence and sympathy to Mrs. Thomas, widow of the late Rev. P. C. Thomas, late Vicar of Clent, who died recently.

At the close of the meeting, on the proposition of Mr. S. J. Hughes and seconded by Mr. John Goodman, jun., best thanks were given to the Vicar of Netherton for readily granting permission to hold the meeting at his church, also conducting the service and for his admirable and interesting address, for the use of the tower and bells and for the use of the Church House in which to hold the meeting and tea. Grateful thanks were also given to the churchwardens for providing the bounteous tea and for their presence and support; to Mr. Malcolm Melville for the musical part of the service; to the ladies for preparing and serving the tea. Mr. Albert Prestidge was also thanked for his part in making the necessary arrangements, as were all those who had assisted in any way in making the meeting a happy and successful one. The Vicar responded on behalf of himself and all others concerned.

Several of the members afterwards returned to the belfry and kept the bells going in various methods, and so ended a happy and enjoyable afternoon.

THE PEAL AT HANLEY.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I should like to congratulate the band who rang the peal of Oxford Treble Bob Royal upon ringing the first in the method for the North Staffs Association, but the claim of being the first in the county must fail, as ten members of the Society for the Archdeaconry of Stafford rang a peal at Walsall on November 29th, 1913, conducted by

T. J. ELTON.

The conductor, Mr. J. Worth, has since written withdrawing the claim which was made, but saying that it was the first peal of Oxford Royal in the Potteries.

DEATH OF MR. JAMES ANDERSON.

CHESTER-LE-STREET'S THIRD LOSS THIS YEAR.

The Chester-le-Street band has suffered its third loss this year by the death of Mr. James Anderson, who had been a member of the Durham and Newcastle Association since 1883.

He rang in the first 720 of Minor by local ringers in 1887, and also in the first 5,040 of Minor in 1896, and in the first peal of Major on the bells of Chester-le-Street in 1910.

The funeral took place on Tuesday, December 5th, the service being conducted by the Rector (Canon F. W. Jackson), and Mr. J. A. Brown, one of the ringers, being at the organ. In addition to his brother ringers, many were present from Tanfield and Houghton-le-Spring, and during the evening several half-muffled touches were rung on the bells as a mark of respect for an old friend and esteemed colleague.

NORTH WALES ASSOCIATION.

On Saturday, December 2nd, a combined practice was held at St. David's Church, Bangor. Ringers from Rhyl, Llandudno, Portmadoc and the local band were present, and three hours' good practice was put in in Grandsire and Stedman Doubles, Bob Minor, Treble Bob Minor, Grandsire Triples and Bob Major. The next meeting will be held at St. Thomas' Church, Rhyl, on Saturday, January 13th.

DEATH OF MR. H. P. HARMAN. FORMER PROMINENT BROMLEY RINGER.

The death has occurred at Bromley, Kent, of Mr. Herbert Palfrey Harman, who was formerly well known as an active ringer in Kent and the London area. Mr. Harman had been in indifferent health for a considerable time, and had done no ringing for about 15 years. On Monday week he left business in the afternoon and collapsed. He passed away the same evening at the Bromley and District Hospital, whither he had been taken.

Mr. Harman, who was 65 years of age and leaves a widow and a family of nine children in bereavement, had carried on the business of photographer, established by his father. He had always taken an active interest in local affairs, having been an enthusiastic volunteer, deputy superintendent of the Voluntary Fire Brigade, a special constable and a leading member of Bromley Literary Institute. He also played cricket formerly with Bromley Cricket Club, and was a member of Bromley Bowling Club and other social organisations.

The funeral took place at Holy Trinity Church, Bromley, on Saturday, when Mr. F. Groombridge represented the Ancient Society of College Youths and the Kent County Association, and Mr. G. H. Kite, at one time a ringer at Bromley Parish Church, was also present.

RINGING IN NEW ZEALAND.

EFFORT TO STRENGTHEN CHRISTCHURCH CATHEDRAL COMPANY.

A special effort is being made at Christchurch, New Zealand, to create increased interest in bellringing at the Cathedral, where there is already a band under the mastership of Mr. G. H. Claydon. More recruits are being sought, and recently an article appeared in one of the local newspapers appealing for more ringers. It describes the bells (a peal of ten by Messrs. Taylor and Co.) and many of the attractions of ringing; but with the layman's customary misunderstanding of ringing terms, some of the statements make amusing reading. For instance, we learn that one set of English ringers holds the amazing record of 18,027 peals, by ringing continuously for 12 hours 18 minutes, and that the Rev. F. E. Robinson during his life rang 15,000 peals; 'he rang three times a week and described his hobby as "the finest of medicines,"' 'The more simple peals,' the readers are told, 'are those favoured by learners; collectively they are known as "Churchyard" peals.' But this by the way. It is entirely forgivable in the good cause which the writer had in view.

More to the point is the following: 'The present master ringer, Mr. Claydon, is an experienced English ringer, and his enthusiasm for the art knows no bounds. His anxiety to increase the membership and improve the financial position of the Society of Bellringers is based on a knowledge of the beauty of the Cathedral bells and the desire to let Christchurch people know their real worth. Members of the society are keen, too, to be able to provide adequate facilities for several peals, which it is hoped to arrange for the visit of Sister Jutson, of the Flying Column of the Church Army, who is a clever peal ringer, and who will be visiting Christchurch next month.

'Mr. Claydon has 11 men ringers under his control, and he is anxious for many more, and for women members, particularly in view of Sister Jutson's visit. Additional ringers would greatly improve the bellringing, he said, and would give the finances a very necessary fillip.'

Miss Kathleen Jutson was formerly of Peterborough.

COUNTING HEADS.

How many church bellringers are there in this country? That is a question often asked. In the Church of England's official year book, just published for 1932, the number is given as 46,121. This total, however, presumably includes those who chime the bells in churches where there is no 'peal,' or where there is no band of ringers, such as is generally recognised in the Exercise. How many people there are, therefore, who can properly be termed ringers, is problematical. How many of them are change ringers or attached to towers where change ringing is practised is more problematic still, but it would be extremely interesting to know. Some day, perhaps, the Central Council will be able to tackle the subject, in co-operation with the associations, so that something in the nature of reliable statistics can be compiled. The difficulties, however, are by no means small, on account of the very considerable number of ringers who are not members of any organised society, but as far as the members of the affiliated associations are concerned there would be little trouble to carry out a scheme which the Central Council's secretary has evolved, provided the assistance of three or four helpers in each association was forthcoming. Such a census would be illuminating, showing, as it would, not only how many ringers the Council represents, but how far the associations have been able to create a practical interest in their own organisations.

To ensure the success of any scheme for enumerating the ringers who remain outside the organised societies would not be so easy a task; and yet it would provide valuable information. It would reveal the ground which the associations still have left to cover, for it may be taken for granted, we think, that the majority of those who remain aloof are not change ringers, and that there is work to be done to educate them in this direction. The counting of heads among all bell ringers would also prove useful in other directions, for the question of numbers has cropped up more than once, for instance, in the endeavour to obtain cheap railway travelling facilities for ringing purposes, and no one has been able definitely to answer the query. The work which would be involved would not present an impossible task if only the ringers themselves could be relied upon to co-operate, but the difficulty in all these things is the apathy which is displayed among ringers of this type. It is apathy, in the first place, which keeps them out of the associations, and only those who have had the trouble of trying to get information out of ringers generally realise what a tiresome business it would probably be to get reliable statistics from a great many of the towers which do not belong to any of the recognised organisations. The aggregate figures might be obtained more easily, perhaps, and with approximate accuracy, if the assistance of Rural Deans or other diocesan authorities could be obtained to enable the total number of ringers at the various towers with rings of bells to be extracted by association or guild officials from the annual returns, and collated through the Central Council. Such statistics, compiled annually, would be of great assistance in many ways, and would prove a valuable record to show whether bell ringing was maintaining its position and gaining or losing devotees year by year.

A FIRST QUARTER-PEAL.

At Newcastle, Staffs, on Friday, December 8th, a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples: M. Buckley 1, D. Steel 2, F. Forster 3, A. Moore 4, C. H. Page 5, J. Williams 6, A. Thompson (conductor) 7, J. Weatherhill 8. This was the first attempt by the conductor to call a quarter-peal of Stedman, and it was the first quarter-peal of Stedman by all the hand except the 5th ringer. It was rung after an attempt to ring a peal of Grandsire Triples had come to grief after 40 minutes' ringing owing to a rope breaking.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD.

NORTH DORSET BRANCH.

The North Dorset Branch of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild has endorsed the proposal that the four Dorset branches of the Guild should hold a joint meeting at Milton Abbas in June next in connection with the millennium celebrations of the Abbey. This decision was taken at the annual meeting of the branch, held at Gillingham on Saturday, December 8th. There was an attendance of about 50, including members from Bishop's Caundle, Bourton, Fontmell Magna, Gillingham, Kingston Magna, Long Burton, Mere, Okeford Fitzpaine, Sherborne, Stourton, Siltan and Zeals, and visitors from Bruton, Buckland Newton, Cucklington, Evershot, Evercreach, Longbridge Deverill, Stoke Trister, Templecombe and Warminster.

A service was held at St. Mary's Church, conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. R. E. G. Newman, Rural Dean), who also gave a helpful address. Taking for his text the words, 'So run, that ye may obtain,' he exhorted the members to persevere in their work for God and in their daily lives, encouraged in the knowledge that the race is not only to the swift, but that the prize is shared only by those who, in the face of adversity, plod steadfastly on and finish the course that is set before them.

An excellent tea was afterwards served in the Vicarage Schoolroom. This was followed by the annual business meeting, at which the Rev. F. L. Edwards (general secretary of the Guild) presided.

The election of officers for 1934 resulted as follows: Chairman, the Rev. W. M. Askwith (Vicar of Sherborne); vice-chairman, the Rev. F. L. Edwards; Ringing Master, Mr. W. Shute; hon. secretary and treasurer, Mr. J. Ralph.

The Chairman expressed regret at the impending departure of the Rev. E. V. Roe, who had so ably served the branch as secretary and treasurer during the past two years, and, on behalf of the members, wished him God-speed in his future home.

The suggested joint meeting at Milton Abbas met with warm approval, and it was decided to co-operate with the other branches in giving effect to the proposal.

Eight new members were elected, and the meeting concluded with thanks to the Vicar for conducting the service and for his stimulating address; to Mrs. W. E. Samways for presiding at the organ; to Mr. Hunt, the organ blower; and to Mr. Brown and all who had assisted in making the necessary arrangements for the meeting.

The bells were kept busy during the afternoon and evening, the methods rung including Grandsire and Stedman Doubles and Triples, and Plain Bob Doubles, Minor and Major.

'A Merry Christmas'

The two new bells to be added to make a ring of twelve at Towkesbury Abbey in memory of the late Rev. C. D. P. Davies have just been cast at the Loughborough bell foundry. Mrs. Davies was present to witness the casting. The other ten bells are at the foundry. The old trebles are being recast and the rest tuned.

Incidentally, Mrs. Davies has an interesting connection with Plympton, where, as recorded in our last issue, the bells have recently been restored by Messrs. Gillett and Johnston. A branch of her family reside there and have in their possession many portraits of ancestors painted by the great Sir Joshua Reynolds, who, as our report stated, was born in the parish and became its Mayor. One other such portrait hangs in Mrs. Davies' home. It is that of her great-great-great-grandfather, who was, in his time, Rector of St. Andrew's, Plymouth.

And apropos St. Andrew's, Plymouth, a band of Sunday service ringers from that church rang a peal of Bob Major at St. George's, Stonehouse, on December 6th, as a farewell to the Vicar (the Rev. A. T. Allwork), who was leaving to take up the living of Broadclyst, near Exeter. It is an interesting coincidence that the conductor of the farewell peal (Mr. T. G. Myers) rang his first peal—the treble in Grandsire Triples—twelve years ago to welcome the Rev. A. T. Allwork as the new Vicar of St. George's.

It is cheering to read that at Fairfield, Buxton, three ringers, in their first peal, rang six different Treble Bob methods, including three spliced in one 720. It reminds one of the days when nearly all six-bell peals were in seven methods, and the 'first pealer' had to be prepared to ring seven if he wanted a peal at all. To-day many six-bell ringers content themselves with peals in one method.

Two peals rung by the same band in two different towns within the space of six and a half hours is not bad going. It may not be a record, but it cannot be far off. The peals were rung at Clent and Hagley, Worcestershire, and were Bristol and London Surprise.

Mr. Edward Hudson, of Sharow, writes to correct an error in the report of the dedication of Birstwith bells, in which he stated that the peal was hung in two tiers. This, he now points out, is incorrect, the bells being all on one level. The error arose through a slight misunderstanding.

When the Bradfield Deanery Branch of the Oxford Diocesan Guild held a meeting at Beenham, it was noticed that the hon. secretary (Mr. T. W. Palmer) did not long remain among the party, but when the whisper went round the belfry that he had that day become the proud father of a son, no further explanation of his brief visit was necessary, and hearty congratulations were offered.

CHRISTMAS HOLIDAYS.

POST REPORTS AT ONCE.

Owing to the Christmas holidays falling in next week, correspondents are requested to forward notices and reports AT ONCE.

Reports of peals rung to-morrow (Saturday) should be dispatched the same night, or, in any case, not later than Sunday, so that they may appear next Friday. They should not be withheld for publication in a subsequent week, as this procedure only causes congestion in our columns, and, in future, such reports will not be given precedence over those of subsequent performances which are forwarded promptly.

Master E. A. Barnett has added yet further to his capabilities as a ringer by joining the ranks of composers. A peal of Double Norwich which he composed was rung at Crayford on Friday, and as he is only just 15 we imagine he must be the youngest ringer to have composed a peal.

The name of the ringer of the 2nd was Edwin A. Barnett and the ringer of the 7th Thomas Groombridge, jun., in the peal of Bristol Surprise Major rung at St. John the Baptist, Erith, on December 7th, and not Barrett and Groombridge, sen., respectively, as published in our last issue.

A very interesting peal was rung at Manchester Cathedral on Saturday, when for the first time five fathers and five daughters rang a peal on ten bells. Already an eight-bell peal had been rung by four daughters and their fathers; it only remains now for six ladies with their fathers to ring a peal on twelve bells to equal any performance put up by fathers and sons.

THE SOCIETY OF JUNIOR CUMBERLANDS

JOHN NOONAN AND HIS PEAL OF STEDMAN TRIPLES.

By J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

When Gross left the Junior Cumberlands his son went with him, and so did Shipway and the more reputable members. What was left was, socially, the very dregs of the London Exercise—people that the leading societies would not have at any price. But they could ring, and they had among them a young man, William Williams by name, with a distinct talent for leadership. He had rung in Gross' last peal; perhaps he led the revolt. At any rate, he profited by it and stepped into the vacant office of Beadle and position of influence. What he was, what he was like, we do not know, for no memory or tradition of him survived among London ringers. If a man is to be judged by the company he keeps, perhaps not much can be said for him. And yet one who for over thirty years held together such a lot as the Junior Cumberlands must have had some more than ordinary qualities in him.

One incident helps to show the sort of people they were. The society owned a small amount of property—a set of handbells and some books—but their chief treasure was the peal book. This was a large and splendid volume, richly bound in crimson morocco, gold embossed, gilt edged, and silver-mounted. At this day it is probably the finest peal book in existence. With its hand-made paper and excellent ink, it will probably be read long after the printed pages on which this generation depends for immortality, have crumbled into dust.

One day the members took this precious book, sold it or pawned it and spent the proceeds on a drunken frolic. That was too much. There were still members who felt the shame of such a thing. They held a meeting, reconstructed the company, purged it of its baser elements and made a fresh start.

The peal book was recovered, but sadly torn and mutilated. Some of the records had disappeared, including that of the 8,448 Treble Bob Major rung in 1787. It was carefully restored and a silver plate was fixed to it with the following inscription:—

'To the memory of the present Junior Society of Cumberland Youths be it inscrib'd. The late Property of the Society, which was so shamefully embezzled by some of the Former Members, was retriev'd in a spirited and Manly manner by the Present Society on the ever Memorable 6th of November, 1797.'

It is to be feared that the reformed company was no great improvement on the old one.

The schism of 1788 had, of course, much weakened the society for peal ringing, but it was not long before they began again to score five thousands. How soon it happened we cannot tell, because not only were the records mutilated, but the entries in the peal book were made in a very casual and haphazard manner. Some of the performances were not written in till years afterwards and quite out of due order; and some, doubtless, not at all. But by 1793 they were ringing peals and from that time onwards they held their own as the equals of any peal ringing band in London, or, for that matter, in England. This was due to two men, William Williams and John Noonan, who seem to have been free from the jealousy which was so usual and did so much harm among these old ringers. Noonan was a Birmingham man and a shoemaker. In the course of his trade he made a pair of boots for Joshua Short, the man who rang Aston tenor and called the 15,360 of Bob Major in 1793. After he was paid for his work Noonan went off to London, like Shipway before him, to seek his fortune as a ringer, and he, too, joined the Junior Cumberlands.

There was something about the shoemaking trade that made its professors meditative and introspective men, and as he mended shoes Noonan thought much on ringing and its problems. John Holt before him had been a cobbler, and he, by common consent, was the greatest man in the history of ringing. Fame had come to him because he had solved a problem that others declared insoluble and had produced the first true peal of Grand-sire Triples. Why should not he—Noonan—too, do something to leave a name as great? Why not? There was to hand a problem just as important—nay, more important than the one that faced Holt, and if patience and industry would solve it he would not fail for lack of them.

Ever since William Jones and his band had visited Norwich, Stedman was the fashionable method in London. All the leading bands were ringing it and peals of Caters and Cinques had been achieved. But as yet there was no five thousand of Triples, and, indeed, the experts said that such a thing was unattainable. True, two men at Norwich seventy years before had claimed, each of them, that they had composed and rung a true peal and had put up boards to record their claims, as any visitor to Mancroft or Coslany could see. But the London men no more believed that Melchior and Crane had composed true peals of Stedman Triples than they did that John Garthorn had produced a true peal of Grandsire Triples before Holt had. So far as the Stedman was concerned they had doubtless some reason for their scepticism. Reeves and Blakemore had talked with men who had known and rung with Crane, who had died only ten years before. Perhaps they had seen his figures. Anyhow, men had learned that Stedman Triples has difficulties in composition such as at first were not dreamt of. They had learnt that you cannot get peals of it in full courses as you can in Bob Major and most other methods. Only one way seemed possible and that was by ringing Stedman Doubles on the first five bells and keeping the hind pair dodging, which meant calling bobs at every six except when every now and then you wanted to alter your two dodging bells. It was a plan which did not appeal to the older men. It produced, as the 'Clavis' said, music extremely disagreeable; besides, purists held that double bobs were not allowable in this system. Noonan, however, found that if he was to get his peal at all that was the plan he must use. It has the advantage that you can divide the 5,040 changes into eighty-four courses all independent of each other. With our present day knowledge of the laws of composition, and especially of the law of the Q Sets, we can see that there is no particular difficulty, when once you have got them, in joining these eighty-four courses into one block. Eighty-three can be joined together by omitting one hundred and twenty-three bobs; and the other can be added by means of two Singles, either ordinary or in-course. So your peal would contain 715 bobs, 2 singles and 123 omits.

But Noonan knew nothing about Q Sets. He had to set about his job by experimenting, by trial and error. It took him years of thought, and not till he had, as he

'SILENT' STEDMAN CINQUES AT BIRMINGHAM.

A brilliant performance was put up at Birmingham last Friday, when a silent peal of Stedman Cinques was rung on handbells. It was not only 'non-conducted,' but, until they met, none of the band, except the gentleman reserved for the tenors, knew which pair of bells he was to ring. The numbers went into a hat and the ringers rang as they were drawn; each man was thus strictly on his merits as a conductor as well as a ringer. It was, we are told, a perfect peal, which was, perhaps, to be expected with such a band, and one of which even they have every right to be proud.

The peal was arranged in order that Mr. Albert Walker and Mr. George Swain might ring together their one hundredth peal of Stedman Cinques on handbells. This in itself was a unique event, and those who know the hospitality dispensed at 81, Baker Street, Sparkhill, will need no reassurance of the statement that the achievement was duly celebrated after the peal.

The composition was a 5,019, with 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6 taking their turn as treble's-place bell, and the peal was refereed by Mr. James George, who gave the word 'Go,' ticked off each course end as it turned up, and called 'Stand' at the finish, so that not one syllable was spoken by any of the ringers from beginning to end of the ringing. There were other witnesses of the performance (including Mr. T. H. Reeves, hon. secretary of St. Martin's Guild, under whose auspices the peal was rung), and the peal was certainly the finest ever achieved on handbells by any of those taking part in it—which is saying a great deal.

The referee's comment on the peal was: An excellent peal and will never be beaten for striking for a silent peal of Stedman Cinques 'in hand.'

The following is the composition of the peal, a 5,019 by John Carter:—

SOUTHERN DIVISION TO HAVE ANOTHER PEAL OF TEN.

A quarterly meeting of the Southern Division was held at Rotherham on Saturday, when about 30 members were present to ring this fine peal of ten bells. The towers represented were Ecclesfield, Wath, Barnsley, Conisborough, Norton, Eastwood, Arksey, Sheffield (Cathedral and All Saints') and Rammoor. A variety of methods were rung previous to tea and gave several an opportunity of having a 'go' on ten bells, some for the first time.

At present Rotherham has the only peal of ten in the Southern Division, but members were pleased to hear during the day that the faculty for the recasting, rehanging and the adding of two trebles to the peal at St. John's, Rammoor, had been received, and work on them was to be started at once. It is hoped that the new peal of ten will be available about Easter.

Tea was provided by the local company in the Parish Room, and at the business meeting which followed the Rev. Canon Morgan presided.

Mr. N. Chaddock, of Eastwood, was elected a member of the association, and, subject to the necessary permission being obtained, it was decided to hold the annual meeting of the division at Sheffield Cathedral on the second Saturday in March, 1934, and to hold it jointly with the Sheffield and District Society.

Replying to votes of thanks to himself, the churchwardens and to the ladies for their help at tea, Canon Morgan hoped that now the louveres had been built up and the sound of the bells deadened a bit, it would be possible to have more meetings at his church. He assured them of a hearty welcome at any time. Apropos of the noise, he vouched for the following being true: On one occasion, when the local ringers were having a practice, a licensee and a friend of his sent a message across requesting him to have the bells stopped, as they were interfering with customers' conversation in the bar!

BELL BROADCASTS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—In reply to Mr. P. Amos, I have looked up the back numbers of 'The Ringing World' and studied both your leading article and my own letter, but fail to find any suggestion in them that any central body should control the broadcasts on Sunday evenings. One has only to make a pretence at thinking to realise how ridiculous the suggestion is. As Mr. Amos has already given us two discourses on the subject, without any prompting from your columns, it seems to me that the idea has emanated from him, and I ask, why does he keep hammering at it if he doesn't like it?

I should not have troubled to reply had he not attempted this week to saddle me with the responsibility, as I know many ringers are heartily 'fed up' with some of the correspondence which has been obscured by side issues in the past and dragged on until you have had to apply the closure yourself. For this reason I intend this to be my last letter on this subject.

To clear any doubts Mr. Amos or others may have on my attitude, may I refer them to your issue of November 24th to re-read my protest against INDIFFERENT STRIKING, and they will find no mention of Surprise, Grandsire or any method except the 'stone' from Buckfast Abbey, which I still contend was a lesson in striking. And I would like to add that one bad striker can just as effectually ruin a touch of Grandsire as a touch of Surprise.

I am pleased to notice that Mr. Amos holds no biased opinions on Surprise ringing, and suggest that he give the matter a rest. Those who have the ambition and the opportunity will still score Surprise peals occasionally, in spite of adverse criticism, and doubtless improve their striking by the experience so gained.

TO EDUCATE THE PUBLIC.

Sir,—Without trespassing too much on your columns, I feel it is necessary to give a reply to your query in your last issue re the above. I am fully aware that these broadcasts are (up to the present) only incidental to a broadcast service; but are we not talking of educating the public to a better liking of bells? That being so, is it absolutely necessary to wait until there is a service at a church before a broadcast is given to enlighten the public on this art of ours? The B.B.C. is generally willing to broadcast almost every other subject over the ether, and there is no reason to believe that they would not be willing to allow a lecture now and again on bells if it were put to them. It is a recognised fact that broadcasting can be done from any spot; therefore, why not a lecture at some of the places I mentioned in my last letter and conclude with a touch on the bells? We heard a similar thing to this not so very long ago from the Loughborough Bell Foundry, and that, I know, was a great success as far as the public was concerned. In almost every county there are towers with bells far better than those we usually hear over the ether at present, and bells which would educate the public to a better liking of them: For comparison, Birmingham Cathedral, with St. John's, Leicester, or Loughborough Parish Church; or, for six bells, Cransley, with Bromham, Beds? There must be scores of ways of educating the public on the subject of bells and bellringing besides giving them the usual 'milk and water' stuff from St. Martin's-in-the-Fields that we so often hear.

P. AMOS.

SALISBURY GUILD BRANCH SECRETARY'S BEREAVEMENT.

His many friends in the ringing Exercise and particularly in the Salisbury Diocesan Guild, for which he has laboured so zealously as hon. secretary of the Dorchester Branch, will deeply sympathise with Mr. C. H. Jennings in the death of his wife, Mrs. Ada Eunice Jennings, who passed away somewhat suddenly on Wednesday, December 13th, at her home, Allington, Sunnyside Road, Wyke Regis. Mrs. Jennings had a seizure and never again recovered consciousness.

All who had met Mrs. Jennings and knew her cheerful nature and friendly spirit will feel a real sense of loss. Any ringer who was lucky enough to stay at Allington, while ringing in the district, was assured of a homely welcome and interest from one who well understood ringers and followed their activities with keen insight. Mrs. Jennings was herself an associate member of the Dorchester Branch of the Salisbury Guild.

The funeral took place on Saturday at Wyke Regis, and among the large gathering who attended to pay their last tribute of respect were ringers from many parts of Dorset. The Wyke Regis band of ringers sent a floral cross, and wreaths were sent by the Dorchester and Wimborne branches of the Guild, St. Peter's Society, Dorchester, and Mr. Martin Stewart. After the funeral service muffled touches were rung on the bells of Wyke Regis Parish Church.

Not only has this heavy bereavement fallen unexpectedly upon Mr. Jennings and his family on the eve of the festive season, but just as arrangements were being completed for another happy occasion. Mr. Jennings' eldest daughter is to be married on December 27th, but the event will now be celebrated in a very quiet manner. Two peals of Stedman Triples which were to have been attempted, and which were arranged by ringing friends, have been abandoned.

ONE THOUSAND PEALS.

MR. JAMES E. DAVIS REACHES A FOUR FIGURE TOTAL.

Even in these days of prolific peal ringing, an individual score of a thousand peals is a great achievement and sufficiently rare to mark it as one of distinction. Until a week or two ago only half a dozen living ringers could claim a peal record running into four figures, and only nine altogether had achieved such a total. As recorded a fortnight since, however, Mr. James E. Davis, belfry steward of St. Botolph's, Bishopsgate, has now joined the select circle, and a perusal of his peal list will show in what a great variety of methods—and particularly of Surprise methods—he has made up his big total. Eliminating about eight years which, in the course of his ringing life, Mr. Davis has spent on war service, in the South African War 1900-01 and the Great War from 1914 onward for five and a half years, it has taken him approximately 35 years to reach his four-figure aggregate. An average of nearly 30 peals a year over such a long period is not bad going, but it has only taken him about 15 years to ring his last 500 peals.

MR. JAMES E. DAVIS.

Born in the parish of St. James', Bermondsey, on May 1st, 1867, Mr. Davis learnt to handle a bell at St. George's, Camberwell, but shortly afterwards went to live in Deptford, where he joined the St. John's Society, with whom he learnt the rudiments of change ringing, and rang his first peal: Grandsire Triples, on April 19th, 1891. His first peal as conductor was Holt's Original in February, 1893. Later he rang in a peal at St. John's, Waterloo Road, in which this composition was rung non-conducted, such an achievement being at that time, and still, one of the greatest of all ringing performances.

Mr. Davis was the last elected Master of the old Waterloo Society, but although the society itself expired, its headquarters having been removed from Waterloo Road to Vassal Road, Brixton, Mr. Davis did not let the practices at St. John's, Waterloo Road, lapse. He gathered together a band who met regularly and made rapid progress in the higher methods. A great many peals were rung at this church until the war put an end to ringing in London.

Besides ringing at Waterloo Road, Mr. Davis had a long connection with ringing at St. Margaret's, Westminster, where he was for a time steeplekeeper. At the Coronation of King George V. he was one of the band selected for ringing at Westminster Abbey, and holds the medal given to all, from the late Archbishop of Canterbury downwards, who took part in that historic ceremony.

Since the restoration of the bells at St. Botolph's, Bishopsgate, Mr. Davis has been belfry steward at that church, and the activity at this tower has been marked by the many peals rung. Incidentally it may be noted that, while the tower is in the heart of London, ringing takes place under ideal conditions, for in the street the bells, when ringing, are hardly audible.

In the South African War, Mr. Davis served with the East Surrey Regt., mostly under Gen. Sir Redvers Buller, while in the Great War he served with the Royal Engineers.

MUFFLED BELLS.

At St. Catherine's Church, Gorseinon, on Sunday, Dec. 10th, for evening service, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples was rung with the bells half-muffled as a token of respect to the late Mrs. M. E. Williams, wife of Mr. J. Williams, who passed away at the early age of 40 in Gorseinon Hospital. She will be sadly missed, as she was a very hard worker for the ringers and friends: J. Hanson 1, G. Howells 2, Reg Dobbins 3, H. Dobbins 4, T. Willis 5, W. Dobbins 6, Wallace Dobbins (conductor) 7, C. Pettitt 8.

At St. Mary's Church, Ealing, Middlesex, on Sunday evening, December 10th, 1,260 Grandsire Triples: H. A. Harding 1, B. C. S. Turner 2, A. M. Stacey 3, J. E. Churchill 4, E. W. Coulson 5, A. H. Fulwell 6, J. H. Hunnisett (conductor) 7, A. Harding 8. Rung with the clappers half-muffled as a token of respect to the late Vicar (the Rev. C. J. Sharp), who died the day before.

AN INTERESTING JUBILEE.

KENT TREBLE BOB IN BUCKINGHAMSHIRE.

Fifty years ago last Saturday the first 720 of Kent Treble Bob Minor was rung in the county of Bucks. It was conducted by Mr. Joseph J. Parker, who is still the leader of the ringers at Farnham Royal, despite his more than 80 years. A peal of Kent Treble Bob Major was rung on Saturday to commemorate the jubilee, on the bells which Mr. Parker loves so well, and, although he did not take part in the ringing, he was associated with the peal as composer.

Mr. Parker has contributed in the past immensely to the service of the Exercise, and his contributions to Stedman Triples and Grandsire Triples alone have given him a place among composers which few can equal, while he was also a pioneer of change ringing in Buckinghamshire.

YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION. EASTERN DISTRICT AT BEVERLEY.

A quarterly meeting of the Eastern District of the Yorkshire Association was held at Beverley on Saturday, December 9th, and was attended by about 35 ringers from Beverley (the Minster and St. Mary's), Hemingbrough, Howden, Hull, Market Weighton, Pontefract, Selby, Sutton-on-Hull, Withernsea, York and Barton (Lincolnshire).

Service was held in the Minster, at which the Vicar (the Rev. Canon Rigg, D.D.) gave the address. He gave an account of some of the inscriptions to be found on church bells in various parts of the country. Tea was served in the Parish Hall, followed by the business meeting, over which the Vicar presided.

Mr. Thomas W. Robbins, of Eserick, was elected a member, and it was decided to hold the annual district meeting at Selby, subject to the Vicar (the Rev. Canon Solloway) giving his permission.

Votes of thanks to the Vicar and local company were responded to by the Vicar, who expressed his pleasure in welcoming the association to Beverley. A complaint about St. Mary's bells at Beverley, it was reported, had been settled by the person who had complained apologising, and also deciding to learn to become a ringer himself. The Beverley ringers were congratulated on winning over their 'enemies' to their own side.

A letter of thanks was read by the secretary, from Campsall, near Doncaster, thanking the members for the contribution they made of £1 1s. 5d., collected at the last meeting at Middleton-on-the-Wolds.

Further ringing on tower and handbells terminated a very good meeting. The methods rung were Stedman Caters and Triples, Grandsire Caters and Triples, Kent Treble Bob Royal and Bob Major and Minor.

DEATH OF STOCKPORT STEEPLEKEEPER.

We regret to record the death, which took place on Sunday, December 3rd, of Mr. William Gordon, of 37, Norwood Road, Stockport, who passed away at the age of 64 years.

Mr. Gordon was steeplekeeper at St. Mary's Church, Market Place, Stockport, having held that office for about 20 years. His father held this position before him, and there are still five of the Gordon family left in the band.

The bells of St. Mary's Church were rung muffled on Monday and Tuesday, and the interment took place on Wednesday, December 6th, conducted by the Rector (the Rev. C. G. Calthrop). After the graveside service a course of Grandsire Triples was rung on handbells by A. S. Gordon 1-2, A. Barnes 3-4, B. Thorp 5-6, H. Meakin 7-8.

Mr. Gordon was a prominent member of the Chester Diocesan Guild and a publisher of handbell music.

MORE YOUNG RINGERS.

BOYS AND GIRLS AT NOTTS VILLAGE CHURCH.

On Saturday, December 9th, ringers from Grantham, Bottesford and Croxton Kessell assembled, at the kind invitation of the Rev. C. J. Sturton, to celebrate the tenth anniversary of the restoration of Orston bells and to become acquainted with his young ringers—four girls and five boys, whose ages average about 13 years. They have all been taught to handle a bell during the last two months. One of the girls rang several courses of Grandsire Doubles, and one boy rang the tenor to 120 Stedman Doubles. All the others rang rounds and call changes very well.

This out-of-the-way Notts village has now got a Sunday service band that should soon be in the news. Most of them also sing in the choir.

The visitors rang various methods of Minor and Doubles. The Rev. Sturton kindly entertained all to tea, 20 sitting down, after which there was handbell ringing, songs and games. A second visit was made to the church for further ringing until the visitors had to run for their train.

A hearty vote of thanks was passed to the Rev. C. J. Sturton for his hospitality, and wishes for the future success of the young ringers were expressed. Mr. Sturton is training them with the help of Mr. T. Caunt.

FIRST SURPRISE MINOR PEAL IN RUTLAND.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—On Saturday last, December 16th, the first Surprise Minor peal in the county of Rutland was rung at Empingham, perfectly struck, and conducted by Mr. R. W. Daniels. It was his first peal as conductor and first attempt. Has any other ringer called seven Surprise methods in his first as conductor?

H. M. DAY.

said, filled as many sheets of papers with figures as would have papered the inside of Saint Giles' Church, did he succeed.

The peal was rung on May 22nd, 1799, at St. Giles'-in-the-Fields. Noonan sat in the tower and called it from his manuscript, following the precedent of John Holt and the Original. When they had finished the ringers thought, and quite rightly, that they had done something out of the ordinary, and had helped to make ringing history, and we may be sure they went across to the White Lion or round to the Angel and made a night of it. Afterwards an excellent board was put up in the belfry which thus records the performance.

CUMBERLAND YOUTHS JUNIOR SOCIETY. 1799. MAY 22.

This Tablet is dedicated to the above Society in Commemoration of a performance not to be surpassed by any that profess the Magnetic Art. Namely the whole peal of tripples on Steadman's principle containing 5040 changes in 2 hours and 50 minutes.

This intricate but truly admirable Composition for a series of years being industriously pursued by all Composers of eminence in this noble Science and by all Pronounced impracticable, was at length with 732 Bobs and 22 Doubles acquired by the Celebrated Mr. John Noonan, who Conducted the above Unparalleled masterpiece of Campanistatian Fame.

Shipway gave the composition in his book, but in such a cryptic way that it cannot be read. He says it contained 710 bobs, 108 omits and 22 singles. This differs from the numbers given on the board and beyond the patent fact that it was on the multi-bob plan there is little hope that we shall ever know what actually was rung.

THE LATE REV. R. H. WHITFORD. MEMORIAL AT ST. COLUMB CHURCH.

A peal board is being erected at St. Columb Parish Church, Cornwall, in memory of the late Rev. R. H. Whitford, of Bristol, by his sister, Mrs. Rhys, of St. Columb. It records a peal of Grandsire Triples rung in May, 1931. The Rev. R. H. Whitford had come to Cornwall for many years for an annual holiday and had frequently expressed a wish to ring a peal at his birthplace. At last the difficulty of collecting a band at St. Columb was overcome and the peal was rung. Strangely, it proved to be his last peal, and even on that occasion he remarked that he was 'not too well.' A few weeks later he underwent the operation which was the beginning of his long and painful illness, and he passed away just twelve months afterwards, in May, 1932.

The peal board is of English oak and the lettering has been carved by hand. It was designed and executed by Mr. A. Jago, who is the crossbearer at Truro Cathedral.

SURREY ASSOCIATION. MANY UNPAID SUBSCRIPTIONS.

A very successful meeting of the North-Western District was held at All Saints', Benhlilton, on Saturday, when some 35 members attended during the afternoon and evening from Ashted, Banstead, Benhlilton, Beddington, Carshalton, Chelsea, Croydon (St. John's and St. Peter's), Ewell, Feltham, Guildford, Leatherhead, Merton, Mitcham and Streatham. Some very useful practice was obtained in a good variety of methods during the afternoon. Tea was served at the Rendezvous Cafe close to the church, 31 sitting down to an excellent repast.

The business meeting followed tea, and Mr. F. G. Woodiss was elected to the chair in the absence of the District Master, who was prevented from attending the meeting on account of pressure of work. Mr. Woodiss delivered a message from the Vicar of Benhlilton apologising for his absence and hoping the association would have a very enjoyable meeting.

The election of one new member was ratified.

The meeting congratulated the Benhlilton company on their success in ringing a local peal of Grandsire Triples, all agreeing it was a very praiseworthy achievement.

The district secretary reported that there were still a large number of 1933 subscriptions unpaid. He hopes any of the defaulters reading this account will send them on without delay.

The meeting closed with a hearty vote of thanks to the Vicar for the use of the bells and to Mr. Cyril Smith for making such excellent arrangements.

The bells were again rung during the evening, and everyone had the opportunity of practice in all the standard methods, including four Surprise methods separately and also spiced. The ringing throughout the afternoon and evening was quite up to the usual standard of the district, and thus the last meeting of the year proved a very enjoyable one.

The annual district meeting will be held on Saturday, January 27th, 1934, and members are asked to book the date.

A DATE TOUCH.

At Maidstone, on November 30th, a date touch of 1,933 Stedman Caters was rung at All Saints' Church: J. Spille 1, E. Spille 2, A. E. Gasson 3, W. T. Gracie 4, F. Leeson 5, L. Head (composer and conductor) 6, H. Travers 7, H. Coast 8, B. Baker 9, C. Dunn 10.

DURHAM AND NEWCASTLE DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION. DISTRICT MEETINGS 'WELL WORTH WHILE.'

A meeting of the Eastern District was held at West Hartlepool on Saturday, December 16th. There was a fair attendance of ringers, and St. Oswald's beautiful peal of ten was kept going during the afternoon.

A good tea awaited the ringers in St. Oswald's Mission Hall, and 'ample justice' was done to the meal. A short meeting followed, Mr. J. W. Parker, in the absence of the vice-president, being in the chair.

After the loyal toast, Mr. T. Metcalfe proposed a vote of thanks to the Vicars and churchwardens of St. Oswald's and St. Aidan's for the use of the bells, and said that St. Oswald's bells were greatly improved since they were rehung on ball bearings two years ago. He ventured to say they were even better now than they were nearly 27 years ago when they were first put in, and great credit was due to the Vicar and churchwardens for keeping the bells in such condition.

The Rev. T. H. Lilburn, in reply to the vote of thanks, said he was delighted to have the ringers at his church, and hoped they would be spared for many years to come in their splendid work.

Mr. J. Titt proposed a vote of thanks to the ladies for providing tea, and said they were doing a noble work for ringers which was certainly appreciated.—Miss Gladys Robson suitably replied. She remarked that the ladies always enjoyed the work and were always ready when meetings were held in West Hartlepool to do their little bit.

Mr. Parker welcomed the non-ringers to the meeting and was pleased that the curate, Mr. Price, and the Vicar's warden, Mr. W. Wallace, were present. It was the interest that these gentlemen showed which greatly helped ringers in their work.—Mr. Wallace said it was a great pleasure to him to be present at the meeting, and hoped to be present on future occasions. He gave an interesting talk on the various events for which bells were rung.

The next meeting of the district will be held jointly with the Western District at Gateshead on February 24th.

St. Aidan's Church was next visited, and the bells were kept going until 9 p.m. The methods rung during the day were Grandsire and Stedman Caters and Triples, Bob Major and Double Norwich. Although the attendance was not large, the ringing was quite a success, and proof that the district meetings are well worth while.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD. BRADFIELD DEANERY AT BEENHAM.

The Bradfield Deanery Branch held a quarterly meeting at Beenham on Saturday, December 2nd. Several good touches were brought round in the afternoon. The service was conducted by the Rev. Marshall (Vicar), and tea was served in the Victory Hall, where the atmosphere inside was much more pleasant than that out of doors. The Rev. H. C. Wilder (chairman of the branch) presided, and was supported by the Vicar. Twenty-three visitors and members were present, the towers represented being Beenham, Bradfield, Bramley (Hants), Burnham (Bucks), Newbury, Peasemore, Reading (St. Laurence's and St. Mary's), Streatley, Sulham, Swindon, Tilehurst and Theale. This was a very good attendance considering the position of the village and the state of the weather, and was a great encouragement to the branch officers.

After tea the tower was again visited and further good ringing took place. Cambridge Surprise, Oxford and Kent Treble Bob Spiced, Plain Bob and Grandsire were rung.

Many thanks are due to the Beenham friends for looking after the comfort of the visitors on such a cold day. The gentleman who signs himself as 'Henry VIII.' is assured of a welcome at the Deanery meetings.

The next meeting, the annual, will be held at Englefield on Saturday, April 14th. Due notice will appear in 'The Ringing World.'

GUILDFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

LEATHERHEAD DISTRICT'S BEST MEETING OF THE YEAR.

The best attended meeting of the year held by the Leatherhead District of the Guildford Diocesan Guild took place at St. Martin's, Dorking, on December 9th. Ringing commenced about 3.30, and at 4.30 the Vicar (Canon E. J. Newill) conducted the Guild's service in the Lady Chapel. At the tea, held in the Church Room, the Vicar presided, and he also took the chair at the ensuing business meeting. The retiring officers were all renominated, Mr. F. G. Woodiss also being nominated as a representative on the General Executive Committee.

Mr. Whiting raised the question of having the choirboys to help with the service at the annual meeting of the district, and it was left to the secretary to see what could be arranged.

No other business being forthcoming, the secretary reminded members that under the new rule all subscriptions should be paid by December 31st, and the meeting closed with a vote of thanks to the Vicar for the use of the bells, for conducting the service and presiding at the meeting, also to the organist, and to Miss Cottrell for making the arrangements for the meeting. The tower was again visited, where everybody was certain of getting a 'warm-up.' Methods ranged from 'rounds' to a course of London Surprise, nearly 30 ringers having a 'pull.' They came from Banstead, Cobham, Forest Hill, Leatherhead, Newdigate, Reigate, Warrnam, Weybridge and the local band during the afternoon and evening.

LESSONS OF 1933.

As the year closes—and this is the last issue of 'The Ringing World' for 1933—one's thoughts inevitably turn in retrospective endeavour to sum up the gains and losses of the past twelve months and to compare the balance sheet with those of previous years. The past, it is true, cannot be recalled or altered in one iota, but a survey of it can be useful if it leads to a greater and a brighter future. The year that is so soon to be relegated to history has been for the art of ringing, as far as we can compare it, no better and no worse than many another before it. There have been isolated instances of advance, but these have been offset with distinct losses and indications in some quarters of a stagnation which seems inherent in the Exercise and yet ought to be eradicated.

It is by no means certain that numerically the Exercise is making progress. As we pointed out last week, reliable statistics for comparison are impossible to come by at present, but a careful study of the happenings throughout the year fail to show that gains have been more than enough, if that, to offset the losses. Bands have a real difficulty in keeping up to strength, and from many quarters there comes a cry that new blood is not to be found in sufficient quantities to fill the gaps, let alone to increase the belfry personnel. It may be the fault of the methods employed—because here and there there comes the cheering announcement that no trouble is experienced in keeping up the supply of ringers—it may be the right sources are not tapped.* If from the lessons of the past year fresh channels can be opened up to bring in a growing volume of new life, the Exercise will have made one gain, at any rate, from a not over prosperous period.

We do not view the fact that there has been a falling off in peal ringing with any alarm. It is most unlikely that the peals for 1933 will come within at least 200 of the number rung in 1932; but that matters not at all as long as more new ringers and new conductors are to be found among those who take part and the standard of the ringing is raised both in striking and the level of the methods rung. Peal ringing is a pleasant pastime, but it entirely loses its value if these factors find no place in them. It would be for the good of ringing if those in a position to do so would seek out more ringers who have yet to ring their first peal and help them to that stage, which, with the majority of ringers at any rate, is the high water mark of interest and enthusiasm and which is more likely than anything else to carry them along on the tide of ambition.

And what of the stagnation! It is not too much to say that hundreds of bands to-day are where they were, in the ringing sense, at this time last year. There is a lack of enterprise which brings on a state of apathy, even almost of atrophy and keeps innumerable ringers in the same groove year after year. Often, we are afraid, this is due to a leader who is either incompetent or indifferent, and the rest of the band suffer accordingly. There are many men nominally at the head of the belfry who are palpably unfitted for the task and ringing will make no progress in those places until they are removed. But there is another form of stagnation and that is the misplaced satisfaction of men who are content to go on ringing peals in one and the same method year after year. There are many of these to be found—men without enterprise or ambition, and they are as much responsible for lack of progress as the apathetic leaders to which we have referred. There is room for many New Year resolutions among members of the Exercise. We hope that where they are needed they will be made and kept in 1934—although we are hardly optimistic enough to believe that they will be.

BELLS OF BETHLEHEM.
HEARD THROUGHOUT THE WORLD.

There have been few moments in the history of modern broadcasting so thrilling as that on Sunday evening when, for the first time, millions throughout the world heard the bells of Bethlehem. It was one of the features of the Christmas programme, not only in this country but in the five continents, and it is safe to say that never before has the sound of bells been awaited with such eager interest and widespread anticipation.

The story of the first Christmas was told in relays from London, New York, Winchester Cathedral and the Church of the Nativity, Bethlehem, which is believed to stand over the site of the inn stable, and is said to be the oldest church in Christendom.

The bells came through very distinctly. They were not, of course, rung as we in this country ring bells, but were swung indiscriminately as is done on the Continent, and were heard clanging and clashing in a medley of sound which to those, at any rate, who appreciated the significance of their voices, was very impressive. The sounds of the bells came over the ether at intervals, sometimes in full volume and some times as a background to the rest of the broadcast, but never, we imagine, without stirring an emotional chord in those who reflected on their message.

Bells played a small part also in the principal broadcast on Christmas Day, when in the world-encircling Empire greetings they were heard from London, while a very interesting and unexpected feature was the handbell ringing of a carol, which came, we believe, from Bredon Church as part of the same programme.

CRANLEIGH VETERAN'S DEATH.

SIXTY YEARS A RINGER AT ONE CHURCH.

We regret to record the death of a veteran ringer at Cranleigh, Surrey. On Saturday, Mr. William Charman passed away, after a short illness at the age of 71 years.

He began ringing when he was only 11 years of age, and thus had given 60 years' service to his Parish Church. Although he had rung only a few peals, Mr. Charman was very conscientious in the discharge of his Sunday duties in the belfry, where he will be much missed by his colleagues.

The funeral took place at Cranleigh yesterday (Thursday).

ENCOURAGING ATTENDANCE AT GLOUCESTER MEETINGS.

The annual meeting of the Gloucester Branch was held at Barnwood on Saturday, December 16th, when 30 members from the various towers in the diocese attended. Ringing in standard methods was done during the afternoon and evening, and the usual Guild service was conducted by the Rector (Canon Bryce), who delivered an eloquent address which was much appreciated by the ringers. Tea, kindly provided by the Rector, was served in the schoolroom and much enjoyed by all.

The business meeting followed, presided over by the Rector.

Special mention was made of the untiring efforts of Mr. Evans in the work of restoration and addition to Churchdown bells. The hon. secretary's report of the year's work was read and the balance sheet presented and adopted.

Mr. S. Romans (chairman), Mr. W. H. Harris (secretary), and Mr. T. Baldwin (representative on committee), were, on the proposition of Mr. J. Williams, seconded by Mr. J. Austin, re-elected.

The Chairman proposed that letters of condolence be sent to Mr. W. H. Harris (secretary) on the death of his mother on the 15th inst., and to Mr. T. Baldwin, who is in hospital with serious injuries, the result of a motor accident. The hope was expressed for his speedy recovery.

Mr. Sidney Romans, on behalf of the branch secretary, who was absent, thanked all members for supporting the meetings throughout the past year, and expressed pleasure that the attendance had been very encouraging. He still hoped for increased attendance during the coming year.

The dinner committee, Messrs. Austin, Baldwin, Harris and Romans, were re-elected.

Mr. Romans proposed a hearty vote of thanks to Canon Bryce for presiding, for allowing the use of the bells, for his excellent address, and for his kind hospitality in providing such an excellent tea. This was seconded by Mr. Austin and carried with applause.—The Rector responded, and thus brought a very pleasant meeting to a close.

The secretary (Mr. W. H. Harris) wishes to thank all ringing friends for the expressions of sympathy shown by them in his recent bereavement, and to Mr. Austin and Mr. Romans, who undertook the management of the meeting in his absence.

A 'WARNING.'

Damage is sometimes done in belfries by failure to disengage the clock hammers before ringing. This can easily happen when strangers enter the belfry. A suitable warning card for use in the ringing room is provided by Messrs. John Smith and Sons, of Midland Clock Works, Derby, who will be pleased to send one to any ringer who cares to apply for a copy.

AFTER-CHRISTMAS REFLECTIONS OF 'W.W.'

Grandsire Doubles Cheap for Cash—The Race for Peals—As Famous as a Derby Winner—The Parson's Grouch—Gaps in the Ranks.

'Fill 'em up, Landlord. Mine's a mild and bitter. Thanks.'

This after-Christmassy feeling makes me moody, and on a night like this, a good roaring fire in the 'snug' is a home from home.

As I was saying, here I have been lying low and saying nuffin'—like Brer Rabbit—for a year, so I just pokes my nose above ground and sniffs, to see if it is safe to snoop around. Yes, it seems 'all quiet on the Western Front,' but what a dickens of a shindy we kicked up last year. And all on account of the five and six bell question. How the feathers flew in the correspondence cockpit. The 'opposition' brought all their guns to bear, but all their artillery was of no avail. Then Gabriel tooted his horn, and offered hundreds of thousands of Grandsire Doubles cheap for cash, but there were no takers. Well, I ask you. Would anybody out of Bedlam want them?

Lastly, up bobbed my old friend Armiger with a sarcastic shot. Now, I am built on those lines myself, and when two dry sticks are rubbed together, there is usually fireworks. Selah. He and I have frequently had a disturbance during the last forty years, but Armiger is 'all wool and a yard wide.' His strong suit is going to make him famous some day when we have gone to dust. As an historian he is the goods. He is original and finds out for himself before he publishes his facts. In the past there have been those who have assumed the title of author without the slightest right to it, have merely collected blocks of printed matter from other sources, put their own name on the cover and enjoyed a spurious reputation. If you call on Armiger and he is not in, go to the British Museum. If you see a short person covered with dusty parchment and papyrus, that's J.A.E.

When you read the 'Letters to the Editor,' don't forget to add a bit of salt to the menu. It amuses me to see some writers advising the Editor how to run his business. In every newspaper office everybody from the boy upwards thinks he could run the paper better than the man in the chair. This is understood and allowances made. Thus one should go slow before asking for the suppression of another's letters. I will let you into a secret. In the old days when 'Bell News' was the only organ, I sometimes got a note as follows: 'Walthamstow.—Dear Friend,—The circulation is not so good. Can you kick up a row in the next issue? Any subject you like best, only make it hot and strong.—Yours, H.R.' I duly obliged. The circulation went up again, and I was looked on as a stormy petrel, but bless you, it didn't hurt me.

What did I think of the letter of 'Enlightened'? Well, I thought a lot of it, though I don't know who the writer is. There was a deal of truth in what he wrote, and I am going to be candid enough to admit it. In asking, 'Is peal ringing futile?' he touched a sore spot. Certainly, all the labour spent is vanished in thin air the moment we finish the peal. I am as guilty as the next man, but I contend that unless there is some special reason for ringing a peal it is only selfishness for a conductor and a band to annoy the public for hours on end, just to add another notch to your tally. If we were not ringers, would we stand it? You know quite well we would not. Another thing, we must admit that bells were not put into steeples for the amusement of peal ringers. When dedicated, something is said about them being set apart from all secular and unhallowed uses. Is peal ringing an unhallowed act?

This brings us up against another query: Do we ring peals for the glory of God? No. Let us get rid of the cant and pretence of laying the onus on religion, when we must all plead guilty to the fact that we ring for our own pleasure and our own glory. The footnotes to peals show for what purpose the peals are rung. I have rung in lengths of 17,000 and 18,000 changes, but we never thought about the glory of anybody but ourselves.

The same applies to bands on a week's peal-ringing tour. Let us be honest with ourselves and admit the truth that there is a sporting element in peal hunting. In most of us it becomes a fetish at some period of our life. Everything else has to take a back seat, and this is an instance where peal ringing is futile. I know numbers of ringing friends who would make good in business or finance. They have the brains and the ability, but peal ringing is their obsession. If only they would turn W. M. H. into £ s. d.! I am not against peals being rung. There are times when something out of the common is called for, and then there is nothing 'unholy' about it any more than there is in an organ recital. But the race for peals, in my opinion, is not a good thing. If the Exercise is to survive, it will not be helped by incessant ringing in populous places, but by the unselfish work of the Sunday service men.

Mr. Jimmy George has become as famous as a Derby winner. To reach 80 'not out' is no mean feat, and his health is considered so O.K. that life insurance companies (I hear) are falling over themselves for his business for a long-date policy.

He has given away his secret for longevity, viz., a little drop of inspiration (12s. 6d. per bottle, 25 u.p.) in an early morning cup of tea. Yes, but how early? Can it be taken several times daily, and do you shake the bottle? Jimmy has missed a great chance of immortality. Look at the business side of it. He could sell his recipe to the highest bidder, and distillers would jump to it. Just think what an advertisement it would make. "The Elixir of Life," by George. See his photo on every bottle, without which none is genuine. One can almost see the picture of him on the posters, and his bust as a mascot on the vans. There's money in it. You cannot help feeling sorry for Jimmy. His great feat of ringing the tenor at Painswick to a peal that proved futile indeed was a calamity. Of all the band he was the most unfortunate. Is he not entitled to rank his performance as a peal? He rang his bell correctly throughout. He rang no false changes—nor any true ones either—and he could not have been dispensed with. A sorry ending to a gallant undertaking.

With all the limelight on our friend Jimmy, one is apt to overlook the outstanding virility of Robert H. Brundle, who rang in the 16,608 Oxford Treble Bob in 1892. I received a postcard the next day, dated June 6th, 1892, saying, 'We have just rung the long peal in 10 hours and 32 minutes. Jimmy Motts called it.' The sender was the late Arthur R. Aldham, who rang the 4th, and who rang beside me twelve years later in 11,008 and 17,104 Double Norwich. Robert H. Brundle is a grand old man of 82, and still rings peals. Good luck to him!

I noticed a report of a ringers' meeting the other day, where the parson in the chair used the stale rignarole about the defections of ringers. We have our faults and we know it, but I think it unwise to keep rubbing it in that we are 'improving.' The reflection is obvious. I know a parson whose pet grievance is that his ringers take a glass of ale at times. Now, his own proboscis shines like a good deed in a naughty world; in other words, like a cyclist's rear lamp. He has looked on the wine when it was red, is an excellent judge of vintage and loves its nifty bouquet. I admire his judgment, but am inclined at times to reply:—

'O Reverend Sir, it is a fact, and true beyond all question, that every nose that's like a rose is not through indigestion.'

I would like to let off a little squib like that, but on reflection I know I shall not, because someone would squeal about personalities.

Time has taken toll of some of our best men in the world of ringing. Henry W. Wilde, Edwin Barnett, sen., Fred G. Newman, Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn are a few, but who create a gap. The first-named was a modest, unassuming, clever man, who had no axe to grind. After the Central Council meeting at Chelmsford was ended we were discussing the day's arguments on the Cambridge Minor controversy on a London platform. Someone had said that outside the Rev. E. B. James' clever combination the rest had the 6-5's at backstroke. Wilde broke in and said, 'Nonsense. I have eight 720's, all the right way, in my pocket now.'

'Then why the dickens didn't you say so at the meeting,' we replied.

That was Wilde all over. He stood aloof.

Edwin Barnett was a gentleman. I rang one peal with him in 1912, and he leaves behind him a son and a brilliant grandson to carry on the traditions of the family. From what they have done already, it is evident that the mantle will fall on worthy shoulders.

Fred G. Newman was unknown to the present generation, but in the nineties he was a sturdy conductor. His favourite feats were Holt's Original and Tebb's peal of Stedman Triples with 600 bobs and singles. Forty years ago he gave me his plan of calling the Original, which served me in good stead on more than a dozen occasions.

John D. Mathews most of us knew as the Master of the Cumberlands. I first met him with the Kettering men in his early days. At that time he was on the Press and a first-prize winner on the new linotype machine. He, too, leaves a son to carry on the work.

The death of Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn, M.C., left a great blank in the Oxford Guild, and in the ranks of ringers generally. What he considered the greatest epic of his career was the memorial service at Ypres. When I asked him to be our padre he readily consented, and those who saw him that day when he stood beneath the huge arch of the Menin Gate and spoke of the ringers who fell, will never forget. It brought back memories. One could visualise the sturdy troops of 1914 swinging along the Menin Road to the tune of 'Tipperary,' for there are the ghosts of the khaki hosts and their courage we keep in mind, as year by year we all revere the lads who were left behind. Now the padre is numbered with those who are fallen by the way. Sic transit gloria mundi!

'Time, gentlemen, please.' What? Here, where's my pal? You say I never had a pal? I have been muttering to myself by the fire all alone? Well, I'm jiggered.

STEDMAN AND ERIN CATERS. A NEW SPLICED PEAL.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—Seeing that my 5,133 of Spliced Stedman and Erin Caters has only been rung once, I have come to the conclusion that it is rather too long. I, therefore, send the figures of No. 2, a composition of 5,037, which I trust you will also kindly publish in 'The Ringing World.' There is no doubt that peals on this plan are both musical and interesting to ring. Thanking you in anticipation.

VISIT TO LOUGHBOROUGH FOUNDRY. 'SILVER IN BELLS IS WASTE OF MONEY.'

At the kind invitation of Messrs. John Taylor and Co., I was invited to pay a visit to the Loughborough Foundry, where the bells of our church (Pirbright, Surrey) are undergoing repair, to witness the casting of five bells for various parts of the country. On arrival at Loughborough I was met by Mr. J. P. Fidler, complete with famous Ford car, and escorted to the Foundry, where various officials were introduced to me. We were joined by Mr. Jan Luyt, the carillonneur of Capetown, and a Government surveyor, who were spending a holiday in this country.

The tour around the various departments was most interesting, and, indeed, a sight that every ringer ought to see, as one does not realise the amount of trouble and skilled labour involved in repairing and rehanging bells. Nothing is allowed to pass unless perfect in every way. The bell founders are in many cases handicapped by antiquarian societies, who will not allow old frames to be removed and old bells to be recast. This means that special fittings, such as headstocks, have to be made to suit the individual bell, whereas a 'clean sweep' would mean a much stronger and more reliable job. Old inscriptions can always be reproduced on a recast bell, and these are really all that matter.

The tour of the works having been completed, we were taken to the Foundry belfry, where there is a light musical peal of 10, in first-rate going order. We were invited to try these bells, and this caused some surprise to Mr. Luyt and his friend, as change ringing is almost unknown in Africa. It took most of Mr. Fidler's persuasive powers to make Mr. Luyt believe that a little bell of 3 cwt. could, if improperly handled, pull its ringer up to the ceiling.

After lunch a trip was made to the Loughborough war memorial, a beautiful tower in the centre of the park, with a fine carillon. Almost at the top of the tower, which is reached by climbing a spiral staircase of 90 steps, is situated the carillon of 47 bells. It is impossible to do justice here to this carillon; those who have heard it broadcast know how beautiful it is, but we were delighted to hear a short recital by Mr. Luyt and Mr. Jordan, the carillonneur, of Loughborough.

At 2.30 we were due back at the Foundry for the recasting. It is usual to throw a silver coin into the metal, but the foreman, who has been there 50 years, considers it to be a waste of money. (N.B. The nearest 'Inn' is but a short distance from the Foundry.)

The departure of the express from Loughborough brought a very interesting and instructive day to a close.

To all our readers:

A Happy and Prosperous New Year

Although the first peal of York Surprise Royal was rung as long ago as December 29th, 1928, at Leicester, by the Midland Counties Association, the first peal of Major in the method has only just been rung. It was scored at Nuneaton on December 16th last by the Warwickshire Guild. The Minor is printed in the Central Council's 'Collection of Minor Methods'; the figures of the Major will be found on another page of this issue of 'The Ringing World.'

A peal of Minor in seven methods was rung at Biddulph on Saturday week to mark the 72nd birthday of Mr. William Carter, of Stourbridge, a former leader of Biddulph tower, and to commemorate the 30th anniversary of the first peal rung on the bells. Mr. Carter took part in the peal.

The band at Helmingham, Suffolk, last week rang a peal of Waverley Surprise, the 22nd Surprise method rung in the tower by the Sunday service ringers since April, 1930. This is really an extraordinary achievement, even in these days, when more variety than ever is being introduced into ringing.

Congratulations to the band at Cogenhoe, Northants, who rang a peal of Grandsire Doubles on Saturday week. It was the first peal by all the band and, according to the report, all the 42 six-scores were called differently.

Another extremely good performance on the same day, and one worthy of wide emulation by five and six bell ringers, was a peal of Doubles in seven methods, rung at Buckland Newton, Dorset.

The annual general meeting of the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths will take place on Saturday, February 3rd, 1934, due notice of which will appear in 'The Ringing World.'

Those ringers who took part in the pilgrimage to the Menin Gate will appreciate the following message which we have received from the proprietress of the Hotel Myra, Ostend (Mme. M. Dejaeghere): 'I send you and all bellringers my best wishes for a merry Christmas and a very happy new year.'

The attention of members of St. Martin's Guild is called to the alteration of place of the annual meeting. The business is to be transacted at St. Martin's Hotel. But, of course, everyone will go to St. Martin's belfry first.

Next Tuesday is the 30th anniversary of the first 'John' peal ever rung. It was a peal of London Surprise Major at St. Stephen's, Westminster, on January 2nd, 1904. These eight Johns are all still in the land of the living, and if they are not all as active as they were in those rather far-off days their names are still fairly well known.

The Johns were Messrs. Rowbotham, Goldsmith, Cheesman, Evans, Truss, Sharman, Golding and Oxborrow.

On January 4th, 1784—just one hundred and fifty years ago to-day—a peal of 14,480 Bob Major was rung at Oldham, but even this length had been exceeded nearly fifty years before, namely, by a 15,120 rung at West Ham in 1737.

SURPRISE MINOR.

To the Editor.

Sir,—In answer to Mr. H. M. Day's inquiry, I would remind him that on September 10th, 1927, St. George's Guild (Wilton), Taunton, rang ten different extents of Surprise Minor (7,200 changes), conducted by S. G. Coles. It was his first peal as conductor.

DEATH OF A LANCASHIRE STALWART.

MR. TITUS BARLOW.

We deeply regret to record the death of Mr. Titus Barlow, of Deane, Bolton, which occurred on December 21st, after a short but severe illness, at the age of 65 years.

Mr. Barlow had been a regular service ringer at Deane Church for nearly 50 years, and for many years was towerkeeper and leader of the company. He was a most enthusiastic member of the Lancashire Association, which he joined in 1893, and had rung 361 peals under its auspices. In 1927 he took part in two record performances, viz., 11,232 Superlative Surprise Major at St. Peter's, Bolton, and 17,824 Oxford Treble Bob Major at Heptonstall. He was an excellent ringer and striker, equally at home in the simplest or most difficult methods.

The funeral took place at Dean Church on Saturday, December 23rd, the memorial service being conducted by the Vicar. Many of the deceased's fellow-workers and friends were present, and he was borne to his last resting place by six of his fellow-ringers. The last rites were performed by Canon H. J. Elsee, president of the Lancashire Association. Round the graveside were the sorrowing widow and family, to whom the heartfelt sympathy of all Lancashire ringers goes out.

Deane thus loses one of its staunchest sons, one who, by his modest and unassuming disposition, won the respect and affection of all who knew him. His death will leave a gap which will not easily be filled.

THE OUTSTANDING PERFORMANCE OF 1933

AND SOME OTHER INTERESTING EVENTS RECALLED.

What has been the most outstanding ringing performance of the year? There have been several achievements of distinguished merit, but we think there has been nothing to surpass the peal of Treble Bob Minor in 38 methods rung at Knutsford in August. It was the crowning sequel to peals in 25 methods at Disley in January, in 30 methods at Sutton in March, and in 35 methods at Chelford in April, and was a triumph in the practical adaptation of six-bell method splicing. There were some slight differences in the bands, but the backbone of the company was essentially the same, and consisted of Messrs. J. Fearnley, jun., J. A. Milner, W. Stevenson, J. Worth and E. Bennett. There were various treblemen, and in the 30 methods W. Fearnley was 'inside,' but the great achievement was at Knutsford, method peals at Felkirk and Penistone respectively, the 10 and 12 method peals at Deeping St. Nicholas, Lincs., and others of the 'spliced' variety rung in different parts of the country, which goes to show that this form of ringing is growing in popularity.

Apart from peal ringing, there have been some noteworthy events during 1933. The reopening of Bow bells, after long silence, with civic as well as ecclesiastical ceremony, was a memorable occasion in London ringing history, and another opening of more than passing interest was that of the recast Ripon Cathedral bells early in the year. The Oxford Society's bicentenary was celebrated in October, and this year has marked the jubilee of the Society for the Archdeaconry of Staffs.

Of individual achievements there have been many of outstanding interest, and not least has been, at one end of the scale, the progress of Master E. A. Barnett, of Crayford, who completed his first fifty peals while he was still 14, who has added peals in all kinds of difficult methods, including one of Spliced Surprise, and has now, where Mr. S. Hough rang the treble, and the others who took part were the five first named. The accompanying picture is from a photograph of the band.

THE BAND WHO RANG THE 38-METHOD PEAL AT KNUTSFORD.

S. Hough, J. Fearnley, jun., J. A. Milner, W. Stevenson, J. Worth and E. Bennett.

There have, of course, been other notable performances during the year, such, for instance, as the 'old men's' peal at Hart Street with a band whose average age was 76½—a record which may have been eclipsed before these lines appear in print, for a party of ten of even greater age were, if all is well, to attempt a peal of Stedman Caters at St. Clement Danes, London, on Wednesday evening.

The 18,144 of Bob Major at Bennington by the Herts County Association on Whit Monday established a new Major record, and there was also rung a 10,432 Kent Treble Bob Major at Warnham for the Sussex County Association. Apart from these there have been no conspicuous long lengths.

A peal of Cambridge Surprise Maximus at Birmingham, rung without any bobs being called, was an interesting and progressive event, and leads one to wonder why some of the bands who ring many peals, and often comprise a sufficient number of conductors to do without a bob caller, do not ring peals on these lines. It would add to the interest of those who were ringing and merit to the performance.

The 'silent' Stedman Cinques on handbells, at Birmingham, recorded last week, is too recent to need comment, but another fine achievement of this year is worth recalling, namely, two peals of Cambridge Surprise Major rung on handbells at Oxley by members of the Herts County Association. Although New Cambridge was rung on handbells years ago, these were the first peals 'in hand' in the original version.

Other interesting performances have been the 14 and 16 Minor while little more than 15, entered the ranks of the composers. Ringing with him must be 'bred in the bone.' He has easily excelled the performances of any other youth of his age. Miss Phyllis Tillet, of Ipswich, who rang a twelve-bell peal at the age of fourteen, and has achieved other distinctions during the year, has surely gained a noteworthy position for herself. She is the fifth generation of her family to take up ringing, and rings regularly with her father and grandfather.

At the other end of the scale we have had Mr. James George's recent wonderful performances in ringing heavy tenors to peals in celebration of his eightieth birthday, and, incidentally, ringing his 1,200th peal; while Mr. J. E. Davis, as recently recorded, has entered the very small circle of men who have rung a thousand peals.

These, in brief, are a few of the notable events which go to the credit of the year 1933. On the other side we have the grievous losses which death has brought. Here are the names of some of the men of note in this and a previous generation who have been called home during the year: The Rev. Cyril W. O. Jenkyn, Master of the Oxford Guild and Librarian of the Central Council; Thomas Faulkner, for 40 years a ringer at Barking, a member of the Central Council and a past Master of the College Youths; J. A. Gofton, of Whitley Bay; S. Stott, of Oldham (aged 76); C. W. Player, a Romney Marsh stalwart; E. P. O'Meara, formerly four times Master of the College Youths; the Rev. A. T. Beeston, formerly hon. secretary of the Chester Diocesan Guild; R. Lynch, president of the Irish Association; John D. Matthews, Master of the Royal Cumberland Youths; and such worthies as Joseph Waghorn, of London, who reached the advanced age of 90 years, Fred G. Newman, also of London, who died aged 73, Uriah Braven, of Bristol, W. H. Marsh, of Plymouth, and William Page of Worcester.

THE SOCIETY OF JUNIOR CUMBERLANDS

By J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

Before the peal of Stedman Triples which John Noonan composed the society had already rung several good peals under the leadership of William Williams. The first he called, or at any rate the first which is recorded, was 5,040 Bob Major at Hackney. The tenor to this performance was rung by James Marlton, who was afterwards to prove himself worthy of being ranked among the leading heavy bell ringers of all time. This was in 1793, and was in the old tower, which still stands apart from the present church. In the same year the society scored at St. Mary's, Lewisham, a complete peal, consisting of 5,264 changes of Grandshire Eight-in, being the first peal in that method ever brought round at Backstroke. Williams composed and called it, Marlton rang the tenor, and apparently it was Noonan's first five thousand in London. In the next year their performances included 5,453 Grandsire Caters at St. Mary-le-Bow, which they claimed as 'the greatest number of changes ever rang on those heavy Bells and the noblest Performance ever achieved at that Place by ten men only.' Marlton rang the tenor, Noonan the ninth and Williams called it from the treble.

Two years later Noonan's name first appears as composer and conductor, though it is probable that the records of other performances are lost. He called 5,007 Grandsire Major from the second at St. Mary's, Whitechapel, the peal being rung 'in the short time of Two hours and fifty-seven minutes.'

On June 20th, 1796, the society rang 7,001 Grandsire Caters at Christ Church, Spitalfields, in 4 hours and 55 minutes, 'being the greatest number of changes ever rang at that Place.' Williams called from the second. A note to the record says that 'the third and fifth were out of Course five Courses about the middle of the Peal, after which they took their right Course again to the End of the Peal.' It looks as if the ringers were content to claim the peal notwithstanding the shift on the grounds that no actual change was rung twice, which, of course, would be the case if there were no Singles in the composition. More probably only the conductor and the ringers concerned knew it at the time, and an attempt was made to hush it up and claim as a true and complete peal what was actually a failure. And then, as such things will, it leaked out. The entry was not made in the book until probably twenty years later.

Next year, at the same church, Noonan composed and called 6,003 'Grandsire Caters on Steadman's principle.' It was the longest at the time in the method, beating the Birmingham 5,292 rung in 1790. In its turn, it was beaten by the senior Society of Cumberlands with 6,129 changes in 1805. We are told that 'this performance will remain a lasting honour to the Society and an example worthy to be imitated by posterity.' Unfortunately, the composition was false. During the following years, among other peals of no particular interest, was a 5,040 Grandsire Triples at St. Giles', Camberwell, which was rung in 2 hours and 37 minutes and claimed to be 'in the shortest time of any Peal that ever was Rung.' It was rung in the old church and on the old bells, which were destroyed by fire in 1841. They were a light ring, the tenor being only 7 cwt. In 1801 the Junior Cumberlands rang at the same church 6,112 Oxford Treble Bob Major in 3 hours and 12 minutes, which is at the rate of only 2 hours 37 minutes for a five thousand. It is notable that the number of hours and minutes was left out of the original record apparently because the writer doubted them and they were added afterwards in another handwriting.

St. Martin-in-the-Fields was the regular practice tower of the College Youths at that time, but twice the Junior Cumberlands managed to get the bells for a peal. Both were Grandsire Cinques, one in 1799, the other in 1802. Both were conducted by Noonan.

In 1802 three peals were rung; then there is a blank till the end of 1806, when 5,086 changes of 'Grandsire Cinques on Steadman's principle' were rung at Christ Church, Spitalfields, in 3 hours 55 minutes. This was the first in the method on the bells and was composed and conducted by Noonan, who in the next year composed and conducted the first peal of Grandsire Caters at St. Dunstan's, Stepney.

There was in 1806 a good deal of rivalry between the two Cumberland societies, each was trying to ring the first peal of Stedman Cinques at Spitalfields, and it culminated in the December of that year. On the 13th the senior society attempted a six thousand and lost it after ringing 5,500; on the 15th the junior society rang the 5,086; and on the 20th the senior society rang 6,334.

Jasper Snowden, in his history of Stedman Cinques, gives a brief account of this ringing from the note book of a certain Henry John Blease. He gives the number of the junior society's peal as 5,886, and says it was probably an attempt for a longer length brought round for some reason or other. He then proceeds:—

'In the absence of further information I will only name a fact which presents a curious study to those who are critical concerning the time which any given performance takes. Both these peals—the 5,886 and the 6,334—were rung on the same bells and within a space of five days, yet although one peal was 448 changes longer than the other the time occupied in each case, viz., 4 hours and 55 minutes, was the same.'

The entry in the peal book says the junior society's peal was 5,086 rung in three hours and fifty-five minutes, not four hours and fifty-five minutes, and, if so, the rate of the two performances would be about the same, i.e., 21.47 changes per minute for the six thousand and 21.64 for the five thousand. Neither of the accounts can be said to be quite contemporary, for Blease joined the Cumberlands in 1821 and the peal book entry was made about the same time. On the whole the latter is more probably correct.

It is noticeable that the false 7,001 of Grandsire Caters in 1796 also took four hours and fifty-five minutes.

In 1807 Williams and John Haynes visited Oxford and with some of the local men rang 5,040 Grandsire Triples at Magdalen College. The Oxford men joined the Society of Junior Cumberlands and two peals they subsequently rang are entered in the book. These are 6,101 Grandsire Caters at Magdalen and 10,008 in the same method at New College. Both were called by Edward Nicholls. It will be remembered that in Annable's time the Oxford men, under John Vicars, had set themselves the task of ringing a ten thousand of Grandsire Caters, but had not succeeded.

In 1808 Noonan called two peals and then for five years his name is missing from the records. It was then that he had his trouble with the law. Personally, no doubt, he was harmless and inoffensive enough, and certainly was intellectually superior to the mass of his fellows. But he was a person of no education and he habitually associated with a very low lot of people. He must have come across some very curious characters in the low class public-houses of the East End, where he and his cronies habitually went, and got to know more about some things than a well disposed law abiding citizen should. One day he was in one of these dens with a gang of smugglers when the house was raided by the revenue officers and the whole party taken into custody. It is said he merely happened to be in their company and was drinking with them. At any rate, it would have gone hard with him if William Eversfield, of Gravesend, had not stood his friend and borne witness to his character. He received a sentence of twelve months' imprisonment, which looks as if the magistrate did not altogether believe him guiltless. Eversfield was a sail maker by trade and apparently was well known to the revenue authorities.

Noonan's imprisonment is said to have much broken him up and he was not fit for very much afterwards. After his return to the Junior Cumberlands, his name appears in the records of three peals, 5,104 Bob Major and 5,088 Oxford Treble Bob, both at St. Botolph's, Bishopsgate, and both in 1813, and 5,040 Grandsire Triples at All Saints', Barking, Tower Hill, on March 28th, 1814. Then his name finally disappears. He is said to have retired to Bromley and died in that same year.

After Noonan disappeared, the peal conducting was done partly by William Williams and partly by Joseph Ladley. Ladley had been ringing peals as far back as 1793, but he only now got his chance as a conductor. He had some pretensions, too, to being a conductor, especially of Grandsire Caters. One in that method is interesting. It was in the Tittums 'and the 5th and 6th are the only Bells behind the 9th Being to their Extent in both Courses, which proves the utility of Singles. This was the 1st Peal ever rang in that way of Calling.'

In 1820 Henry Symondson, who had rung in most of Noonan's early peals, formed with his son and ten others the Junior Society of College Youths. They were very much the same class of man as the Junior Cumberlands, and in almost every way inferior to the real College Youths. Ladley went over to them and became their leading conductor.

Writing about 1816, Shipway said that change ringing had lately very much declined, and so far as London was concerned that was undoubtedly true. The College Youths, who had made ringing history under Povey and Reeves and Blakemore, were getting old and had mostly given up peal ringing. It was only the men at Kensington, under Barber, and those further up the Thames Valley who were still active, and when they died off the general level of London ringers went down enormously.

One of the best of the younger ringers was Samuel Austin, who was first a member of the Junior Cumberlands and afterwards for many years the leading man among the College Youths. Austin's name first appears in the account of the first peal of Bob Major rung at All Hallows', Barking, and he took part in the last six peals rung by the society. These were all rung between December 1st, 1823, and April 20th, 1824, and it is probable that he did his best to galvanise the dying society into a further lease of life, and certainly not without a great measure of success. He collected, as best he could, the records of the peals rung since the time of George Gross and wrote them in the peal book. He was a most excellent penman, and these records are among the very best that exist in black and white. The last entry he made in the book is the record of the Grandsire Cinques rung in 1799. This is dated January, 1825, and in the same month he was ringing a peal of Grandsire Triples with the Junior College Youths at St. Peter's, Walworth. His name appears in the records of almost every peal rung by that society, once or twice as composer and conductor. When at length necessity had compelled the old College Youths to come to terms with the Junior Society and a union of the two was effected on July 5th, 1830, Austin was elected Master, Edward Lansdell, another prominent member of the Junior Society, being secretary. The united societies rang seven peals, four of which were composed and conducted by Samuel Austin. Then the style and behaviour of the members of the junior society became so intolerable to the older College Youths that they resolved at any cost to get rid of them and the union was dissolved. The old Junior College Youths now became the Sussex Society, Austin still being Master. They rang thirteen peals and then were readmitted to the Society of College Youths.

Meanwhile, the Junior Society of Cumberland Youths had come to an inglorious end. They shifted their headquarters from public-house to public-house in the East End, getting into debt for beer and stopping as long as the landlord would let them, and, finally, as the members formed other companies, the society faded away. It is usually said that it reunited with the old Cumberlands, but that was not so. The peal book, after so stormy a youth spent among taverns and pawnshops, has found a dignified home in its old age in the British Museum.

DEATH OF AN OTTERY ST. MARY RINGER.

We regret to record the death of Mr. John Hine, one of the band of ringers at Ottery St. Mary, Devon. 'John,' as he was familiarly known to his fellow-ringers, was one of the old school, having started under the tuition of the late Rev. Maitland Kelly, for many years president of the Devonshire Guild, who always showed a great interest in the Ottery band.

The deceased was invariably present for Sunday ringing. He had also been sidesman at the Parish Church for a number of years.

The funeral took place on Wednesday, December 20th, the coffin being carried to the grave by four of his fellow-ringers, Messrs. C. J. Turner, R. Wood, E. Markes and J. Arbury. Immediately after the service 252 Stedman and 500 Grandsire Triples were rung with half-muffled clappers as a last token of respect.

It had the impression of being our conductor. It is funny, but it is true, somehow, that the nail is hit on the head every time.

I am writing this letter to congratulate you on the success of your effort to keep us as a ringing fraternity in our places. You have a job, but keep it up. Each week I look forward, wondering 'What's in this week?' Sometimes I am disappointed, sometimes pleased, but always left with something with food for thought.

Now, so our Rectors and Vicars will tell us, is the time for new resolutions. Can I, may I, suggest each of us ringers makes a resolution to look at ringing from the point of what is the leading item of a very good and well-known society: Read the lot, cut the worst, think only of the right and just.

In closing, I would wish you all you could wish yourself, and extend it to all brother ringers, bearing in mind that bellringing is work for the Church, a work which slowly but surely is being recognised by churchpeople, and to which 'The Ringing World' has proved a great asset in the assistance which it gives to that end.

F. WARRINGTON.

We dare not plume ourselves too much because Mr. Amos is for ever hovering in the background, but we print this letter so that even he can see that everyone does not agree with his views concerning

THE SAM THOMAS MEMORIAL

LIST OF SUBSCRIBERS.

As previously announced in these columns, two treble bells are to be added at Ranmoor Church, Sheffield (where the other eight are to be recast), as a memorial to Mr. Sam Thomas, a former Sheffield ringer, who died in 1924, and who did a great deal to promote ringing in the district, having, among other things, been leader of the band at Ranmoor.

The memorial has been raised by the Sheffield District Society, who desire to thank all those who have supported it. The fund is now closed, and the following is the list of subscribers:—

A YORKSHIRE PIONEER OF SURPRISE RINGING.

Mr. Thomas, who died of pneumonia on June 24th, 1924, was 54 years of age. He was a typical Yorkshireman, and came of ringing stock, for his first method ringing was done in his native village of Wath-on-Dearne with his father, grandfather and uncle. He first learned to ring a bell when he was nine years of age. In those days Sam was in the choir, and, during a dispute between the ringers and the church authorities, the choir boys used to jangle the bells for service. The treble was Sam's bell, and on one occasion he pulled at it until, to his consternation, it set, and there it had to remain until his courage returned sufficiently to permit him to touch the thing again.

Mr. Thomas went to Sheffield in 1888 (to join the staff at the Botanical Gardens), and in the following year he became a member of the Parish Church company, with whom he rang his first peal. He became associated with the Ranmoor company in 1896, and, under his tuition, the band, beginning with Bob Major, eventually reached the Surprise stage.

On the formation of the Sheffield Junior Amalgamated Society in 1890, he was elected treasurer. In 1898 the society was extended to embrace a larger area and became the Sheffield District Society, with which was eventually amalgamated the Old East Derbyshire Society. Mr. Thomas had been president of the latter since 1901, and at the fusion in 1903 continued to hold the office in the enlarged organisation. Afterwards for several years he filled the post of hon. secretary.

Mr. Thomas always retained his attachment for Ranmoor, but he did a good deal of spade work in other places, and when the new peal of bells was put in at Dore in 1909 he was entrusted with the formation of a new band, to which he acted as instructor.

whose memorial at Ranmoor is to consist of two new treble bells.

In the first years of the present century Mr. Thomas did a great deal to promote Surprise ringing in Yorkshire. He called the first peal of Yorkshire Surprise, rung on February 5th, 1903, and before going on to practise London the band took up another method, which, being regarded as a 'half-way' house between the two, they named Peterborough, the first peal of which he conducted in April, 1904. Among his other noteworthy achievements was the first peal of Original Major, which he composed and conducted. After the war business responsibilities kept him from taking as large a part in the art as he had formerly done, but his heart remained in ringing until his comparatively early death robbed the Exercise of one of its most brilliant members.

YOUNGEST HEREFORDSHIRE CONDUCTOR.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—In reference to the footnote attached to a peal of Grandsire Doubles rung at Eardisland, Herefordshire, published in your issue of the 15th inst., stating that the conductor, at the age of 21, is believed to be the youngest member of the Hereford Diocesan Guild to conduct a peal, I beg to inform him that at the age of 19 I conducted a peal of Doubles in the same method at Weston-under-Penyard on August 27th, 1932. The report of the peal was published in 'The Ringing World' on September 2nd, 1932.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION.PRESIDENT'S TOWER VISITED.

The last meeting of the year to be held by members of the S. and W. District of the Middlesex County Association and London Diocesan Guild was held at St. Mary's Parish Church, Twickenham, on Saturday, December 16th. A hearty welcome was given by the genial president of the association, Rev. W. P. Cole Sheane, and it was a matter of regret that so few responded, the total attendance being 25.

The bells were rung to a variety of methods during the afternoon and evening, and good practice obtained. It was heartening to see some of the latest recruits to the local band 'manfully' ringing rounds, etc. Instructor Morris evidently believes in 'catching 'em young.' It is to be hoped that his very praiseworthy efforts in this connection will be repaid later when his band gets firmly established again.

Evensong at five o'clock was conducted by the president, assisted by the curate and organist. In his address the President dwelt on the various aspects of the wonderful brotherhood that existed in the ringing fraternity. Tea followed in the new Church Hall. Incidentally, the latter was previously inspected under the guidance of the president and greatly admired.

Sincere thanks were offered to the president for all he had done to make the meeting so enjoyable, to which he replied that he was always glad to do his share.

Messrs. Morris and Lovell and the ladies, all of whom had assisted in preparing and serving such an excellent tea, were also thanked for their labours.

During the business meeting the death of the Vicar of Ealing, Rev. C. J. Sharp, was referred to, and the members stood in silence as a tribute to his memory. The Hon. Secretary (Mr. F. W. Goodfellow) said he had written a letter of sympathy to Mrs. Sharp. Mr. Sharp came to Ealing 16 years ago. During this period, he was responsible for the formation of a new band at St. Mary's in 1920, under the leadership of Messrs. Hunnisett and Page, and for the complete restoration of the bells a few years ago. For his services to the association he was elected a life honorary member in 1925. Absolutely fearless in his opinions, he was extremely kind and generous at heart. He had accomplished many useful public works for the town, chief among them being his labours on behalf of education. On the day of the funeral, at which an address was given by the Bishop of Kensington, on behalf of the Bishop of London, a half-muffled peal of Grandsire Triples was rung by members of the association, as recorded elsewhere.

It was decided to hold the next district meeting at St. Andrew's, Hillingdon West, on Saturday, March 10th, 1934. In January, the annual supper would take place on the 13th, whilst the district annual general meeting would be held at Heston on February 10th.

Mention was made by the Hon. Treasurer (Mr. C. S. Bird) of an appeal for funds to restore the bells at Bedford. The question of making a grant from the funds was deferred until the annual meeting at Heston.

The hon. secretary sold a copy of new Central Council leaflet, on how to handle a bell, etc. (price 2d.), to practically everyone present. It was generally agreed that if the advice proffered in the leaflet was acted upon much good would result. The leaflet is a work that will leave no excuse for bad handling and striking, so clear and precise are its contents. The photographs will be of great assistance, and the authors are to be congratulated upon their work.

The officers and committee wish all members and friends a prosperous new year, and suggest a new year resolution for every member: 'Support the association at least once a month.'

PEAL BOARD DEDICATED AT TRING.

At Tring Parish Church, on Sunday evening, December 10th, before the service ringing commenced, the Vicar (the Rev. C. T. T. Wood, M.C., M.A.) visited the belfry to dedicate a peal board recording a peal of Grandsire Triples rung earlier in the year. The board was made by Mr. H. Bull, one of the band, and is painted black with gold lettering similar to the other two already in the tower.

The Vicar referred to the splendid work Mr. Bull had put in the board, and said he thought it was quite a good thing to have those records so that future generations could see what had been done in their lovely old parish churches.

After the little ceremony was over, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples was rung as a compliment to the Vicar on his recent appointment as Rural Dean of the Berkhamsted Deanery: C. Badrick 1, F. J. Reeve 2, H. Brackley 3, H. Bull 4, H. Bishop 5, F. C. Reeve 6, W. Ayre (conductor) 7, N. Brackley 8.

TWO POINTS OF VIEW.PUTTING THE EDITOR IN HIS PLACE.

Of course it had to come. No editor ever did know his own business—in some people's opinion—and probably never will, in the opinion of those same people. And now we have been properly put in our place, told off and utterly confounded. On December 8th we wrote a leading article on 'Letters and Writers,' in which we dealt in a general way with the ethics of public letter-writing, and it has provided 'a golden opportunity' for a correspondent to 'tick us off.' It accuses us of bias in condemning personalities in some people's letters and allowing them in others. It tickles us to death that this accusation should come from such a source, for if anyone has been given rope in this respect it is the writer of this letter—Mr. Percy Amos. This is what Mr. Amos says to us and about us:—

AN EDITOR'S POSITION?

Sir,—Your article of December 8th provides one with a golden opportunity to ask one or two questions. Firstly, is it fitting that a newspaper editor, despite his ability, should be a person to take any part in the 'government' of ringing? I have heard this question asked in many quarters.

Such a person, like the rest of us, should be at liberty to express his views, but to my mind it is not fitting that he should be a person to hold offices, such as that of a general secretary and a member of the Central Council, the last-named in particular.

No man under the circumstances has a better opportunity of swaying the fraternity to his principles and ideas, and to play the part of both 'judge and jury.'

It reminds me very much of putting a man in the dock accused of some crime, and having his father or some close friend in the jury to prove whether he is guilty or not.

Why is it that he condemns personalities in some people's letters and allows them in others? If they are not argument for one, surely they are not for another? Sneering and sarcasm the same. The Editor's own 'joke' about the blue pencil and the waste-paper basket, is that argument?

I have noticed all this particularly when a member of the Central Council has been having something to say to a non-member, or to a member whose views are different to those of the Editor's. Just a bit of inconsistency, is it not?

The recent correspondence on Rutland is a clear instance of this, for in that a statement was made that was not only personal but grossly untrue, and rather in the nature of slander. Under these circumstances ought it not to have been the duty of the Editor of 'The Ringing World' to test the accuracy of such a statement before giving it publication? Possibly he did not realise his full sense of duty at the time. Any other newspaper editor would have wanted to see it verified first to safeguard himself.

This surely is questioning time?

P. AMOS.

Wellingborough.

Throughout Christmas we ought to have sat in sackcloth and ashes and declined to eat our turkey—if we had had one to eat. We ought to have refused to face our Christmas pudding, and mirth should have been turned to melancholy. Our liquid refreshment ought to have consisted of water instead of—well, never mind. But it wasn't. We have enjoyed our Christmas immensely. Peace and goodwill—even towards Mr. Amos—has brooded over all. For that reason we refrain from replying to Mr. Amos' criticisms—believe us, we really could have said quite a lot, but in any case it isn't necessary—and hope that the spirit of Christmas has had the same effect upon him as it had upon a certain immortal gentleman—Mr. Scrooge—and turned his sour, bedraggled temperament into a healthier channel and directed his narrow vision to a broader and a brighter outlook.

But there, unless we are careful, we, too, shall be getting into personalities and tell Mr. Amos what other people, besides ourselves, think about him. And that would never do.

Rather would we turn to something which, to us at any rate, is on a decidedly more cheerful note and shows that, after all, we may not be quite so bad as Mr. Amos paints us. Here, by way of contrast, is a letter from Over, Cambs, which reached us just before Christmas:—

Dear Sir,—Another Christmas is upon us, which reminds me of the passing of another year. 'Letters and Writers' urges me to say how kind it is to have someone who looks at the position at all angles, an independent and silent witness, as it were, to our wrath. Looking back through 'The Ringing World' of some twenty years ago

'HOGMANAY'

A very tuneful new setting to the words of Tennyson's well-known poem, 'Ring out, wild bells,' has been written by Mr. Stephen H. Wood, of Bristol.

The music will greatly appeal to ringers, for it has a distinct bell-ringing flavour about it, and is very suitable for use either at a ringers' service or as a carol for Christmas Eve and the new year.

Several associations already have the hymn printed in their service forms, and we think they will use it much more often when they have heard Mr. Wood's music, which, from the ringers' point of view, is extremely apt.

Mr. Wood has called the tune 'Hogmanay,' which is the Scotch name for the last day of the year, for he wrote it originally in honour of the founding of the Scottish Association in 1932. Copies of the words and music can be obtained from Messrs. Novello and Co., Ltd., price 1½d. each. In addition to Mr. Wood's setting there is an alternative accompaniment for unison voices by Dr. Basil Harwood.
