'SUGGESTIONS' FOR THE NEW YEAR

New Year resolutions are usually only ephemeral; they are so thin that many of them have vanished in a few days into thin air, even if, at the outset, they have been launched with good intentions. We refrain, therefore, from asking ringers to make 'good resolutions' for 1934, because they are all the more likely to be broken just because they are 'good resolutions,' but that does not prevent us taking the opportunity, at the opening of another year, of putting forward one or two suggestions as to ways by which ringers could definitely help forward the art and the cause of church bellringing. For instance, foremost among the necessities for maintaining and expanding the art is the important one of securing a steady flow of recruits. We know the difficulty of obtaining them, but there is no reason why constant efforts should not be made to add to the strength of belfry companies everywhere. There ought to be a reserve of ringers in every tower, for it is only by this means that the regular ringing of the bells for the Sunday services can be secured. There are far too many belfries where the ringers are below strength; that is to say, where there are fewer regular members of a band than there are bells in the tower, but even where there are sufficient to ring all the bells, the ringers ought not to rest satisfied until they have a reserve of at least fifty per cent.

And in conjunction with the raising of the strength and efficiency of the tower companies, there is another duty in which the ringers ought not to fail, and that is in the support they give to the county or diocesan ringing organisation for their area. There ought to be a full one hundred per cent. membership; the fact that in many places it falls far below this ideal is due to a lack of the guild spirit in many ringers. They do not realise the importance of co-operation—not only to themselves but to others—and the fact that unity with others in a matter of this kind gives an added dignity to their work and a fuller appreciation of its value to the Church. Further, full association with these organisations is not achieved merely by the payment of an annual subscription. Those who get most out of their membership are those who put most into it, not in money, but in effort, by joining in the activities of their association, supporting the meetings by their presence and assisting others not so well advanced as themselves, while profiting from their own association with those who, in turn, are able to give them a helping hand.

There are other directions in which, in this new year, ringers can help the art. One is by not being content to 'rest on their oars,' but to be continually striving to improve their striking and advance in their method ringing. Stagnation should be avoided at all costs. Another is by helping to improve the sale of 'The Ringing World.' Without the kindly aid of those who are already supporters of the paper it is almost impossible for us to reach new readers, and yet it is essential to maintain the circulation if the Exercise is to have its own journal. What ringing and ringing organisation would eventually become if deprived of a ringing paper we leave our readers to conjecture, and yet not one-tenth of the 'official' ringers in this country buy 'The Ringing World.' May we, therefore, conclude our new year suggestions with this, that, as a beginning, in every tower where the number of copies purchased among the band is less than half the number of ringers, the present number of copies should at least be doubled? It is not, really, a lot to ask, but it would be sufficient to make the future of 'The Ringing World' secure and bring that much desired end—a cheaper paper—a good deal nearer fulfilment.

'THE CHURCHMAN'S HANDBOOK.'

A readable and comprehensive survey of current Church affairs, covering every branch of church work and organisation and a wide range of other interesting Church topics, is contained in 'The Churchman's Handbook,' just published at 1s. net by the Press and Publications Board of the Church Assembly. It is, as its second title denotes, 'Everyman's Guide to the Church,' for more than 220 pages are crowded with a wealth of information, which is surprising in its scope and appeal as well as in its value as a work of reference. There are special articles by well-known authorities, dealing with such varied subjects as with the romance of Church history, women's work in the church, church architecture and church music. Parson, churchwarden, church councillor and church elector will find authoritative legal and general guidance on their powers, duties, privileges and responsibilities, and there is also a mass of other information, including a 'Who's Who' in the Church.

'Bells and Their Care' has received separate attention. Written by the Rev. B. H. Tyrwhitt-Drake, hon. librarian of the Central Council and hon. secretary of the Ely Diocesan Association, much information and good advice to Church authorities has been packed into this short article, which should prove of considerable value.

'The Churchman's Handbook' should be in the hands of every churchman, not only as a book of reference but as a mine of information.

THE CONSTRUCTION OF SURPRISE MAJOR.

To the Editor.

Sir,—I have recently been studying the construction of Surprise Major, and am somewhat puzzled by 'Busbey,' published in your issue of December 8th. This method seems to me to violate the Central Council rule that the changes on eight bells should run in alternate triples and quadruples, rows two odd and two even.

The third and fourth sections of Busbey run thus:—

Perhaps someone would be kind enough to enlighten me on this point?

Stoke Poges.

DEATH OF MRS. M. C. ROBINSON.*WIDOW OF OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD'S FIRST MASTER.

At the advanced age of 86 years Mrs. Mary Caroline Robinson, widow of the late Rev. F. E. Robinson, passed away on December 21st, at her residence, Fair Home, Wokingham, Berks.

The deceased lady was the daughter of a former Vicar of Appleton, where the Rev. F. E. Robinson was at one time curate. Throughout their many years of married life Mrs. Robinson took an active part in the varied parochial work which usually falls to the wife of a parish priest, and during her long residence at Drayton, where her husband was Vicar, she endeared herself to all by her practical kindness and high Christian character, which she continued to exercise, also, when she removed to Wokingham some 25 years ago.

Many ringers of the old school have pleasant recollections of ringing visits to Drayton, when the Rev. and Mrs. Robinson kept 'open house,' of the great rounds of beef and the enormous hams, which always seemed to be in readiness for satisfying the appetites of ringers, however numerous or unexpected. Mrs. Robinson took a loyal and sympathetic interest in her husband's great hobby and in the discharge of his duties as Master of the Oxford Diocesan Guild, an office which he filled for over a quarter of a century. Mr. and Mrs. Robinson brought up a large family, but none of the children took any interest in ringing, except the youngest daughter, Miss Vera Robinson, who is an active member of the Oxford Diocesan Guild, and serves on the committee.

During her residence in Wokingham the late Mrs. Robinson identified herself very closely with the work of the church in the town, and particularly in the parish of All Saints.

The funeral took place at All Saints', Wokingham, on Saturday week, the service being fully choral. A large number of friends were present. The former and present Rectors of All Saints', the Rev. Canon B. Long and the Rev. Gordon Kenworthy, officiated. The hymns sung in church were 'Alleluia, Alleluia,' and 'Holy Father, cheer our way,' while Psalm xxiii. and the Nunc Dimittis were chanted, the processional cross being carried at the entrance to the church and to the graveside.

The mourners were Dr. W. E. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Robinson, Miss C. Robinson, Miss M. V. Robinson, the Rev. L. E. Lydtker, Mrs. Lydtker, and Mrs. B. W. Stanley Palmer. The Rev. R. H. Robinson, D.D. (son), of Wilby Rectory, Wellingborough, was absent owing to illness. The Oxford Diocesan Guild was represented by Canon G. F. Coleridge (Master) and Mr. W. J. Paice (hon. secretary of the Sonning Deanery Branch).

BROADCASTING.*LOCAL DIFFICULTIES.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—Although, I am afraid, Mr. Amos has got rather badly 'off the track' on this question of the broadcasting of ringing, I am inclined to think, sir, that you laid yourself somewhat open to attack by the 'ruthless' character of your article in the issue for December 1st. While it may be quite easy for you to be absolutely 'ruthless,' and to advise that procedure from the Editor's chair, and in the interest of a good performance, I am wondering what sort of an attitude you would adopt if you found yourself in charge of an eight-bell tower which had been asked to broadcast, and your band consisted, say, of only seven strikers and one indifferent. You say, 'The man who is known to be a defective striker should be ruthlessly ruled out.' Yes, and if that man really appreciated the fact that he was a bad striker, he would, in all probability, rule himself out. Some of us who are bad strikers do know it, but, unfortunately, there are many of that category who do not know it, and although they may not be good strikers, in many cases they are good, regular and consistent members of the band, both for practice and service ringing, and are probably of the opinion that their ringing is as good as the rest. In a case of this sort (and all of us must know of cases where it will apply) are you still prepared to advise such ruthless ruling out? In the case of the ringer who knows his striking is faulty no trouble will follow, but with many I am afraid the foreman would be taking the risk of being told to get outside assistance on the next Sunday, and I, personally, would prefer (just for the sake of those few minutes) to put over something which 'might be better' than to upset the feelings of a good member of the band, whom you could ill afford to lose, and in all probability upset the good feeling in the tower generally for perhaps a long time. I quite agree that, as you say, nothing but the best (striking) should be good enough for a broadcast programme; at the same time many bands would, I think, find the adoption of your 'ruthlessness' a very risky proceeding.

Mr. Amos' comparison of the 'stuff' from St. Martin's to 'milk and water' is as odious as are most comparisons, and in addition is an insult to milk and to water, and it is a thousand pities that such 'stuff' should be broadcast to the world as appertaining in any way to English bells. Cannot the 'Cumberlands' see about it?

BELFRY GOSSIP.

Will all the readers who have sent us their good wishes for the new year please accept our heartiest thanks.

An unusual double event took place on Sunday week at Framsdon, Suffolk, when Mr. G. Bennett rang his 200th peal and Mr. James Bennett, jun., his son, rang his 100th peal. Mr. J. Arbon rang his first peal of London Surprise Major and is the first native of Monewdon to ring a peal in this method.

The conductor of the peal rung at Bishopsgate on December 11th was J. E. Davis and not C. W. Roberts as published.

A peal was rung at Hughenden, Bucks, on Friday, December 29th, 1933, to commemorate the 50th anniversary of the first peal on the bells, which was Grandsire Triples, Holt's Ten-part, rung on December 29th, 1883, by W. Finch, T. Payne, G. Lapworth, S. Hounslow (conductor), C. Hounslow, J. W. Washbrook and T. Warner. It would be interesting to know if any of these are still with us.

In connection with the peal of 'Grandsire' rung at Syston on December 23rd, an interesting event happened in that while the peal was in progress a grandchild was born to the tenor ringer, Mr. W. Wright, who thus became appropriately a 'grandsire.'

Meetings to-morrow of which only short notice has been given included the Derby District of the Midland Counties Association at Derby, Winchester District of the Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild at Winchester, and the Chertsey District of the Guildford Diocesan Guild at Thames Ditton.

A correspondent informs us that the variation of the quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples, mentioned by Mr. A. P. Cannon, on page 790 of 'The Ringing World' of December 15th, is false, as several leads rung when the bells are in course are rung reversed when the bells are out of course.

During the year 1933 eight twelve-bell peals were rung at St. Mary-le-Tower Church, Ipswich, and these have been of considerable variety, viz., two peals of Cambridge Surprise Maximus, and one each of Superlative Surprise, Duffield, Little Albion Treble Bob and Oxford Treble Bob Maximus, Stedman and Grandsire Cinques.

Miss Hilda Snowdon, of Halslead, Essex, rang her first two peals of Surprise Major—Superlative and Cambridge—on Boxing Day. This was a great achievement, and it is believed that it is the first time a lady has rung her first two Surprise peals on the same day.

Mr. G. R. Pye easily heads the list of peal ringers for 1933. He scored exactly a hundred. Few men have rung as many peals at this in a single year. We recollect only three.

The first to do so was the late Mr. J. W. Washbrook, who in his heyday once rang 127 in the year. In 1912 the late Mr. Bertram Prewett rang 100, and the late Mr. Alfred W. Grimes rang 114. The latter established a new record in the following year when he rang 136, making a total of exactly 250 in two years. We do not remember anyone ringing a hundred peals in a year since, but if it has been done perhaps someone will tell us.

Incidentally, to-day is the 17th anniversary of Alfred Grimes' death.

There have been some other good 'scores' during 1933, among them Mr. William Keeble, of Kelvedon, who rang 66; and that remarkable youth, Edwin A. Barnett, of Crayford, who, although only 15 years of age, rang over 50.

The first peal of Stedman Cinques 'in hand' was rung by the St. James' Society eighty years ago next Wednesday.

The many ringing friends of Mrs. F. Whittington, of Cranleigh, Surrey, will wish her a speedy recovery from a rather serious illness which suddenly overtook her last week, while shopping.

With her husband, Mr. Robert Whittington, Mrs. Whittington has rung in something like 400 towers throughout the country, which they visited on cycling tours, usually on a tandem machine. In this way they have ridden together over 100,000 miles. Mrs. Whittington was one of the earliest members of the Ladies' Guild.

Canon Coleridge will dedicate the restored ring of six bells at Pirbright, Surrey, on Wednesday, January 24th, at 7 p.m. The work has been carried out by Messrs. Taylor and Co.

YOUNG COMPOSERS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—With reference to your comments re young composers, my brother, G. Stedman Morris, composed peals of Bob Major, Double Norwich, etc., at the age of 15, one of Double Norwich which I called for him—see M.C.A. report, 1923, where this fact is stated. If young Mr. Barnett will write me, I will send a copy of this composition, and perhaps he will add to his already splendid record by conducting at 15 the composition of another ringer of 15.

May I add my congratulations to young Mr. Barnett in so ably following the footsteps of his father and grandfather. I myself have tried to do this, and like the late Mr. Barnett, sen., my own grandfather, although only a three-bell ringer at Cattistock, Dorset, was an ideal example of a fine old English gentleman, and it is by following such worthy examples as these that we can make our own lives and records worth while. I trust young Mr. Barnett will go on from a glorious beginning to a long and honourable career.

LLANDAFF AND MONMOUTH DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual meeting of the Llandaff and Monmouth Diocesan Association was held at the pro-Cathedral Church of St. Woolos, Newport, Mon, on Boxing Day. There was a fair attendance of members from both dioceses, but not such a large number as usual. The bells, a ring of 10 (one of Taylor's best) were rung during the afternoon. The Dean officiated at the service, and the lessons were read by the Rev. Ivor Phillips, who is a ringer and curate at Machen Church. The Dean gave a most interesting address, specially emphasising what a pleasure it was to him to welcome the association to St. Woolos.

Following the service a move was made to the Westgate Hotel, where tea was in readiness which had been very kindly arranged by the Dean.

The business meeting was presided over by the Dean. Instructors' reports showed that progress was being made at Redwick, Caerleon and Nash.

Restorations and augmentations were reported on, with the result that three guineas were voted towards the cost of a proposed new treble bell for Nash, where last year the bells were restored by Messrs. Taylor and Co.

Mr. T. Wood, of Llandaff, was appointed Master, and the hon. secretary (Mr. J. W. Jones) and auditors were re-elected.

It was arranged to hold the next annual meeting at Llandaff, the next two quarterly meetings at Bonvilstone and Llanfrecchfa, the Bonvilstone meeting to be held on Easter Monday.

The Dean, having to leave to keep another engagement, was heartily thanked for his kindness and hospitality. The chair was then occupied by the Rev. Ivor Phillips.

Quite a number of new members were elected.

The proposal to hold a dinner last year not having matured, it was decided that it be held next October.

The hon. secretary was asked to send a letter of sympathy to Mr. Harry Page, of Pentre, who has been ill for some time, wishing him a speedy recovery.

After the usual votes of thanks, the meeting closed, and the bells of both St. Woolos' and All Saints' Churches were rung until late in the evening.

ESSEX ASSOCIATION. NORTH-WESTERN DISTRICT.

The annual general meeting of the North-Western District of the Essex Association took place at Bishop's Stortford on Saturday week, and was well attended. After ringing touches at St. Michael's Church, the ringers attended a special service which was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. W. McCarthy), who gave a short address. This was followed by tea in the Parish Hall, at which a company of 30 was present, including a number of lady ringers.

Before the Vicar left he was accorded a hearty vote of thanks for his welcome to the ringers to St. Michael's and for his address. In reply, the Vicar said it always gave him great pleasure to see them there, as he considered the ringers were an integral part in the service of the church.

For the business meeting, Mr. F. Dench, of Safron Walden, was voted to the chair.

The election of the Ringing Master resulted in Mr. G. Dent, of Harlow Common, being re-elected unopposed, and Mr. H. Wacey was also re-elected hon. secretary.

Mr. Dent then took the chair, and referred to the illness of the Master of the Association (Mr. C. H. Howard, of Braintree), who usually attended this meeting, and moved that the secretary send a letter of condolence to him and his family.

A letter of sympathy was also sent to Mr. Walter Prior, of Stansted, and a wish for his speedy recovery.

It was decided that the next meeting of the district should be held at Raydon in February.

Mr. Dent gave a welcome to ringing members from a wide district, including Safron Walden, Sawbridgeworth, Braughing, Harlow, Harlow Common, Chelmsford, Exning, Great Chrishall, Sawston, Barley, Melbourn, Fulbourne, Stansted and Bishop's Stortford.

Thanks having been accorded to the organist, the ringers again repaired to the tower and rang touches for the rest of the evening.

THE EIGHT 720's OF CAMBRIDGE MINOR.

To the Editor.

Sir,—I was interested to read in 'Reflections of W.W.' of Henry Wilde and the eight 720's of Cambridge. Curiously enough I met Mr. Wilde for the first (and last) time on the day before the Council meeting W. W. writes about; it was the occasion of the Essex Association jubilee. We spoke of the Bankes James Cambridge, and I told him that the 'eight' tenors-right extents were 'in my pocket', and dozens of others of 'all sorts'—the product of another man, with whom Mr. Wilde ultimately got in touch. He told me he had the eight, too, but the point is this: he stood aloof because of the hopelessness of convincing the Council that the 'eight' were all 'different'!

THE PASSING OF THE OLD YEAR.

BELLS IN THE BROADCAST PROGRAMME.

Bells put a crowning touch to the midnight broadcast in this country at the passing of the old year. Those who listened to the wireless programme heard the bells of Westminster Abbey ringing half-muffled just before twelve o'clock, and, following the striking of the hour, by Big Ben, the bells of Canterbury Cathedral ringing in the new year, came over the ether. The amount of ringing heard by the public was very limited, but it gave to the broadcast a characteristically English note which has been missing in the hectic celebrations in some previous years.

At many churches up and down the land, where circumstances permitted, the bells were rung at midnight.

At St. James' Church, Clerkenwell, four ladies took part in the ringing, and the next day their efforts were graphically described in a London newspaper. At Aldershot, however, no fewer than nine local lady ringers shared in ringing out the old year.

At St. Peter's Church, Portishead, Somerset, on New Year's Eve, with the bell half-muffled, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples was rung: R. Porter (first quarter-peal away from tenor) 1, Miss H. Orchard 2, E. Goldstone 3, Mrs. W. Edwards (conductor) 4, Miss G. Stadden 5, E. Smith 6, A. E. Colburn 7, J. Thomas 8.

RECORD BEATING.

THE SILENT PEAL OF STEDMAN CINQUES.

To the Editor.

Sir,—After heartily wishing all friends of change ringing every blessing and the compliments of the present season, I feel bound to voice my humble congratulations and say, 'Well done, Birmingham!' on the marvellous success of a truly wonderful band in achieving a truly wonderful peal, and evidently presided over by a truly wonderful Young Person.

I allude, of course, to the 'Silent' Peal of Stedman Cinques rung on the 15th ult.

It would have staggered the men of a bygone age!

For combined concentration it is amazing, and only those who have rung handbell peals can fully realise what the conditions, as imposed, required of the gentlemen taking part.

Half a century ago I assisted in two or three of the then records on tower bells, and now the question arises, 'Where is this record-breaking going to stop?'

Will any other band ever be able to invent anything that can possibly beat it for intellectual skill, truly described by you in 'The Ringing World' as a 'brilliant performance'!

F. E. DAWE.

SURPRISE MINOR CONDUCTORS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—In reply to the query of Mr. H. M. Day in your issue of December 22nd, the following peals, rung by the St. John's (Leytonstone) Society, were in each case the first attempt at conducting by the respective conductors:—

April 2nd, 1933, at Leytonstone, seven Surprise methods, A. Prior (3); November 29th, 1924, at North Weald, seven Surprise methods, E. D. Smith (tenor); March 24th, 1928, at Chigwell Row, 22 Surprise methods, G. L. Joyce (treble); January 28th, 1929, at Leytonstone, seven Surprise methods, G. Dawson (5); December 31st, 1932, at Leytonstone, seven Surprise methods, P. H. Avey (5).

A. PRIOR.

TWENTY-TWO METHODS.

Sir,—With reference to Mr. Hunt's letter of December 29th, it may be of some slight interest to recall that the Essex Association rang, some years ago, seven extents comprising twenty-two Surprise Minor methods with a footnote, 'first as conductor,' although this 'feat' reflected very little credit to the individual concerned, he having called the extents many times previously. I think, however, that these do not directly concern Mr. Day's original question, but I should imagine that somebody at Leytonstone could claim a seven-method Surprise peal as his 'first as conductor.'

EXTENTS OR METHODS?

Dear Sir,—In Mr. Hunt's reply to my enquiry he uses the word 'extents.' Does he mean methods, or extents of one method? In my humble opinion there are no different extents. There is only one 720, however many methods are rung or callings varied, although we often see in print 'seven different extents,' instead of 'seven different callings.'

H. M. DAY.

A DATE TOUCH.

At St. Edmund's Church, Warkton, Northants, on Sunday, December 31st, for evensong, a date touch of Grandsire Doubles (1933 changes) in 1 hour 12 mins.: Miss D. J. Moir 1, H. T. Eastbrook 2, A. S. Foselard 3, B. P. Morris (conductor) 4, H. Patrick 5.

THE VILLAGE OF GRESFORD—ITS CHURCH & ITS RINGERS.

'Romantic scenes here open to the view,
Scenes that surprise, and prospects that are new.'

One of the prettiest and most picturesque villages in the border counties is that of Gresford, and many travellers who pass through the quaint railway station (on the Great Western Railway) in fast express or local train feast their eyes for a brief period on diversified beauties of hill and dale, meadow and stream, and ejaculate, 'Ah, now we're in North Wales!'

Geographically, Gresford is situated about three miles from Wrexham and eight from Chester. It comprises the lordship of Marford and Heseley. The parish is supposed to have derived its name, anciently 'Croesfordd,' or, 'the road to the cross,' from its situation near an ancient cross, within half a mile to the south of the present church, of which the shaft is still remaining. It is very extensive, comprising upwards of twelve thousand acres.

The village is delightfully situated on the western side of the road from Wrexham to Chester, near the head of a beautiful valley, which opens into the Vale Royal of Cheshire, a tract of country remarkable for the richness of its soil, the beauty of its scenery, and the pleasingly diversified views which its presents.

The little vale of Gresford is one of the most lovely in the Principality, abounding with pleasing and interesting objects, enlivened by the wanderings of the river Alyn through its meadows, and finely varied with richly wooded eminences, on one of which stands conspicuously its beautiful church, remarkable for the elegance of its architecture and its picturesque appearance; the plantations and pleasure grounds attached to the elegant villas and rural mansions, which are scattered throughout this small but romantic dell, combine with the natural beauties of its scenery to render it in every respect one of the most interesting and attractive spots in this part of the country. It is bounded on the east by the Dec, and is intersected by the Alyn, a tributary of that river.

The Welsh name, which became 'Gresford,' was, in full, not 'Croes-fordd,' but 'Y Groes-ford,' the cross-road, in which the Welsh article causes the mutation of the initial consonant, when the noun happens to be feminine. So in many other cases the Welsh name appears with the softer initial, though the article has been omitted.

Willis, in his 'Survey of St. Asaph,' contends that the origin of the word 'Gresford' was 'Croes-fordd,' from the fact that it was built where four cross-roads meet, but in the Domesday Book the name is spelt Greford, and as the cross was probably not in existence at that time we must seek further for the origin of the name.

In Domesday Book the village is recorded as situated in the Hundred of Exestan, which formed part of Cheshire at the time of the Survey, and the following is a translation of the entry:—

'Hugo and Osbernus and Rainaldus hold Greford. Thoret held it as a freeman. There are xiii. hides of taxable land. The land is xii. ploughs. Hugo holds v. hides, Osbernus vi. hides and a half, and Rainaldus one and a half hide. One and a half plough is held by the lord. There is a Church and a Priest, and seven villeins, and twelve husbandmen and one freeman. These have two and a half ploughs of land amongst them all. In the whole manor there is a forest 5m. 4f. long and 2m. 6f. wide, and two eyries of falcons. Osbernus has a mill which grinds the corn of his own establishment. In the time of Edward the Confessor the whole was waste, and the present holders received it as waste. It is now valued at 65s. amongst all the holders.'

AN IMPOSING CROSS.

Coming back to the cross, this structure must at one time have been an imposing one—even in the days when village and churchyard crosses were common—judging from the size of the pedestal, which is all that now remains of it. It stands under a grand old sycamore tree, at the junction of the roads from Wrexham to Chester, and from Gresford to Rhosnessney. It rests on large stones or steps. The pedestal is square in shape, and there is ample evidence that sculptured figures of bold design occupied the four corners. No inscription is now visible, except what may perhaps be the handiwork of forgotten individuals who desired to transmit their initials and certain dates to a careless, unheeding posterity. There is an apocryphal story of Queen Margaret having rested at this spot 'after one of the defeats of King Henry VI.'

It is worth noting that Gresford was the birthplace, in 1807, of Samuel Warren, the author of 'Ten Thousand a Year,' 'The Diary of a Physician,' and other works. He was born at a farmhouse called 'The Rackery,' where his mother happened to be visiting Mr. Williams, a relative. The village has other literary associations, as the former residence of Eliot Warburton, author of 'The Crescent and the Cross' (who perished when the 'Amazon' foundered in 1852); and as the scene of 'The Angler' in Washington Irving's 'Sketch Book.' This author considered the scenery by the River Alyn to be quite after Izaak Walton's own heart. It may also be noted that Sheridan once proposed to make Gresford his abode, and the lovely Mrs. Sheridan inspected a house there. The idea, however, was not carried into effect.

Of a former Gresford resident, Colonel Robinson, the famous Royalist, it is related that he had to fly the country on the death of Charles I., but returned at the Restoration. He found his house deserted by a Puritan, who had rebuilt it in his absence, and he thereupon took undisturbed possession of it. He was buried in Gresford Church.

Opposite the church is a building of somewhat long dimensions, a small portion of which was at the time of its foundation used as a school. It still bears the following inscription: 'Scholae Eleemosynæ, Dnæ Margaretæ Strode. Fundata 1725. Ad pauperes ejus sumptibus erudiendos.' Another portion of the same building is inscribed: 'Hospitium Invali Dorum Parochianorum impensis Structum, A.D. 1725. Thoma Pate, Rogero Jones, Petro Potter, Johani Edwards, Guardians.' This almshouse was probably erected with charity money in the hands of the parish officers, who exercised the right of admission. In the churchwardens' accounts are some memoranda of agreement made by them with several contractors, which show the cost of building work in those days. Bricks cost 5s. per thousand; lime, 10d. per barrel; bricklayer's work, brick and half, 4d. per yard; slating, including materials, 2s. 1d. per yard. In 1786 the trustees of the Strode Charity added to the original buildings for the purpose of furnishing the schoolmaster with a dwelling-house. In the year 1836 it was decided to build new schoolrooms by subscription, and a wing was thereupon added, opened at Christmas, 1838. The walls of the schoolrooms are nicely panelled with oak, which came from the old seats of the church when they were replaced by the present modern benches. These schools have now been replaced by modern buildings on the south side of the church. Above the front porch is the date 1874, and the following inscription: 'These school buildings were erected by relatives in affectionate memory of Thomas Vowler Short, late Bishop of St. Asaph, an earnest promoter of education; who died at the Vicarage, in this parish, April 13th, 1872.'

THE CHURCH.

Gresford Church, which is dedicated to All Saints, is always an object of great interest to visitors, and deservedly so, as it is extremely handsome and of noble proportions. The living is a Vicarage, in the gift of the Bishop of St. Asaph. It formerly belonged to St. Stephen's College, Westminster, and then passed to the Dean and Chapter of Winchester, who, according to a document among the Bridgewater MSS. in the British Museum, granted the 'Rectory of Gresford in Denbighshire' to Queen Elizabeth, February 1st, 1581.

Of the church itself, it may be said that it is a spacious and elegant structure, consisting of a nave and north and south aisles, the roofs of which are of oak, panelled, and profusely ornamented with fruit and flowers exquisitely carved. The ground plan is a parallelogram, 110ft. long and 59ft. wide, the nave extending 73ft. With the exception of the pillars of the nave, arching the lower portion of the church, and the graceful Decorated window of the south aisle, the general character of the architecture is late Perpendicular.

The main body of the church belongs to the middle of the thirteenth century. The church tower, to the height of the first band, is believed to have been built towards the end of the fourteenth century, when the chancel was also lengthened. Towards the end of the next century the church was in a great measure rebuilt, the principal part of the beautiful tower added, the elaborate roodloft and handsome screen erected, and the windows filled with rich stained glass.

The lofty square embattled tower is of fine proportion, richly ornamented on the summit with the figures of the Twelve Apostles, alternated with crocketed pinnacles. The tower is also decorated with traceried bands, quaint gargoyles, and hollow cornices, which adorn its four sides, and these last are carried round the entire church, and represent a race of cats, mice, dogs and grotesque creatures. In 1543, Vicar White wrote to Bishop Wharton, 'that many offerings had been brought to this church from divers parts of the country, by reason of which it was strongly and beautifully made erect and builded.'

There are some very handsome stained-glass memorial windows in the church. In the south aisle is a window of bold design and vivid colouring, depicting four of the disciples, erected to the memory of a former Vicar, as will be seen from the inscription: 'To the glory

THE BELLS AND SOME EPITAPHS.

The bells of Gresford have long been noted for their sweet and harmonious tones, and are numbered among the so-called 'Seven wonders of Wales.' (These seven wonders are as follows: St. Winifred's Well, Wrexham Church, Overton Churchyard, Gresford bells, Llangollen Bridge, the falls of Pistyll Rhaiadr, and Snowdon.) They bear inscriptions:—

Seventh: Thomas Mears, of London, founder, 1836.

Fifth: Thomas Rudhall, Gloucester, founder, 1775.

Fourth: 1623. Recast by John Warner and Sons, London, 1875.

Third: Peace and Good Neighbourhood, T.R., 1775.

Second and Treble: Cast by John Warner and Sons, London, 1875.

Prayer Bell: 'God save this Church.'

A new and elegant Caen stone pulpit was given by the late Miss Egerton, of Gresford Lodge, in 1867. The churchyard contains a number of imposing monuments, among which are the following legacies:—

of God, and in loving remembrance of the Ven. Robert Wickham, M.A., Archdeacon of St. Asaph, for thirty-four years Vicar of this parish, who died December 21st, 1860, aged 78 years.' There is also a stained-glass window in the east in the Madoxes Chapel of some antiquity. It represents the legend of the Virgin Mary's birth, and shows the date of erection to be 1498, but the names of the donors cannot be traced. This window was restored in 1872.

Among past Vicars of Gresford there have been four who ultimately reached the episcopal bench: (1) Hughes, a native of Carnarvon, who became Bishop of St. Asaph in 1573. (2) Hugh Bollot, born at Moreton, in Cheshire, and buried in Wrexham Church, who was successively Bishop of Bangor in 1583 and Chester in 1595. He was employed by Queen Elizabeth as one of the Biblical translators. His remains now lie in the chancel of Wrexham Parish Church. (3) Richard Parry, a native of Ruthin, Bishop of St. Asaph in 1604. (4) Humphrey Lloyd, a son of Richard Lloyd, Vicar of Ruabon. A still higher honour was accorded Nareissus Marsh, Vicar in 1689, who became Bishop of Ferns, Archbishop of Cashel, then of Dublin, and then of Armagh, and Lord Chancellor of Ireland.

The earliest registers commence in 1660 in Latin. In addition to the ordinary brief announcements of baptisms, marriages and burials, there is occasionally an item of interest, including: 'Mem. The fairs began at Gresford, 4th December, 1752.' 'A drought in the year 1762, from the 2nd of May, new style, to the 7th day of July, following.'

'Affliction sore with patience bore,
Physicians were in vain,
Till death did ease and God did please
To ease me of my pain.'

'This lovely bud, so young, so faire,
Cut off by early doom,
Just come to show how sweet a flower
In Paradise would bloom.'

'No verse of praise write on my tomb,
Since there is judgment yet to come;
Leave all to God, who justly knows,
And more than we deserve bestowes.'

Outside the south porch is an old sundial, on a stone pedestal, dated Anno 1732.

There are several yew trees in the churchyard, one of which is a veritable giant, and supposed to be the oldest in the kingdom. At one of the meetings of the British Associations, a speaker contended that, judging from its size, etc., it was more than 1,400 years old. It is over 30ft. in girth, and reaches a height of about 60ft. 'Haydn's Dictionary of Dates' says that in 1851 its 'circumference was nine yards nine inches, being the largest and oldest yew-tree in the British Dominions.' During the last century it was known to have grown nine inches larger in fifty years.

In a violent storm in 1850 one of the pinnacles of the tower fell on the roof of the nave, carrying away one of the main beams and causing damage to the amount of about £200. From the oak of the beam which fell two chairs were made for the communion table and presented to the church by the Vicar (Rev. Robert Wickham).

Extensive repairs, through the ravages of the beetle, have now been completed to the roof of the nave and north and south aisles, the greater portion of the oak beams and panels being renewed. These timbers had supported the roof since 1729, and beneath the leads on the north side was found a hand-forged chisel and gouge, and on the south side a hand-made pincers, one foot six inches long, with jaws three inches across.

In the group photograph, reproduced with this article, is the recently resigned Vicar (centre), Archdeacon J. E. Williams, and (right) the new Vicar, Rev. William Edwyn Jones, and the band of Gresford boys, who rang their first peal together on January 27th, 1931, each born within a mile of the church, baptised and confirmed in the church, and all except two married in the church. With one exception all are Sunday service ringers. The ringers were George Williams, Arthur Prince (Bath), William J. Roberts, James Alderman, Samuel Roberts, John A. Randles, Thomas R. Griffiths and Arthur Tilston.

The Domesday Book was originally 'The Book of Winchester,' but acquired the name 'Domesday'—the day of judgment—by metaphor, and was the outcome of a general survey of England by William the Conqueror in 1086. He wanted to know how much each place could and should pay either by way of gold, land tax, rents, or other dues. This book was kept in the 'Domesday Chest' with other State papers. It had three different locks, the keys of which were kept by three State officials, and could only be opened in their presence. The book and chest are now at the Public Record Office, Chancery Lane, where they can be seen without payment.

AN EDITOR'S POSITION?

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—Just as I expected! The whole question re the above has very humorously and cleverly been turned to a huge joke, and that by the Editor of 'The Ringing World,' who talks of such as being no argument, and when one has no case, I won't say abuse on this occasion; perhaps a more fitting word would be amuse the other side. He richly deserves the compliments of the writer of this letter for it. You surely never thought of all that yourself, did you, Mr. Editor? We are not face to face, or you might be given a pat on the back for it! Very amusing, isn't it, that the answer as to what should be an Editor's position should be 'a turkey and a Christmas pudding'? It really does tickle one to death.

Amusing, too, isn't it, that a person should (in addition to being ringer and editor of a paper), hold such offices as that of a secretary, member of 'a thousand and one' committees, Central Council representative, etc., and yet be termed by Mr. Frank Warrington as an independent and silent witness? This does really 'win the bun.' Independent and silent! Those two words ring in my ears like the sound of an explosion from a machine gun. I could say quite a lot regarding this, but prefer not to give too long an epistle beyond referring to that lengthy controversy on five and six bell ringers. Who in the name of goodness has done more to criticise these and put them in their place than the Editor of 'The Ringing World'? They ought not to ring Morris and Pitman's 240's of Doubles. They ought not to ring peals of Minor in less than seven methods after so long. They ought not to do this and that; in fact, I wonder they ought to do anything at all without first asking the Editor and some of these Central Council men if they can! Hitler himself couldn't be a bigger dictator than some of them are! In fact, it is a real marvel that most of us were ever intended to have a will of our own at all. Independent and silent. Oh, dear! Fetch me the smelling salts, somebody do! All day long I have been trying to concentrate on Sahara Sandals, but each time I put my thoughts on them a voice whispers in my ears, 'Independent and silent!' 'Nuff said.' The season's greetings, Mr. Editor.

P. AMOS.

Wellingborough.

[And the same to you, Mr. Amos.—Ed., 'R.W.']

'NONE OF HIS BUSINESS.'

Dear Sir,—In to-day's issue of 'The Ringing World' you publish a letter from Mr. Percy Amos, the tone of which all decent ringers will deplore. He attacks you for being on the Central Council and for being a general secretary of a Guild. Why suggest that editors should be debarred? You have earned the respect of every good ringer by sheer good work, and you hold the positions in the Guild and on the Council as a church bellringer, not as editor of a paper. I suggest that Mr. Amos takes these matters to the Central Council and the Diocesan Guild for their decision; he would probably get the answer he deserves, viz., 'It is none of his business.'

He also accuses you of unfairness. What piffle! For myself I can say that I have known you over 30 years, and during that time I have never found anything of the kind. It is true that we do not see eye to eye in some things, and that we have differed in our opinions, but I am sure both of us never allowed such variations of opinion to open the door of personalities. After all is it not clearly the duty of a ringer to look for the best in a brother ringer, and not seek to pick holes in any good work he is trying to do? Mr. Amos' letter is devoid of reasonable logic and argument, and if he cannot do any good he should certainly try and refrain from doing harm.

I hope we shall not get anything like this from any others of the younger school of ringers, to which I presume Mr. Amos belongs. Editors (even of ringing papers) are only human after all, and if one of the Exercise does not appreciate a good hard worker, believe me, all the others, including myself, do.

It is not an editor's duty to test the accuracy of statements made by correspondents, but it is clearly the duty of a correspondent to be of a fair mind to all.

I wish you a very happy 1934. Let not those who want to stir up trouble and strife keep us from giving to the best of our ability.

WM. SHEPHERD.

BELLS IN BROADCAST PROGRAMMES

Broadcasting in relation to bells is a matter of comment in two connections this week. In one case it is a matter for praise; in the other a subject of criticism. The Rev. F. Ll. Edwards, who is convener of the Central Council's Committee, which includes bell broadcasting in its purview, writes with regard to the New Year's Eve programme. It has been one of the aims of the committee to induce the British Broadcasting Corporation to make more use of bells upon appropriate occasions. English bells were absent from the New Year's Eve programme a year ago, but last week, when, presumably because the last day of the year was Sunday, there was a more subdued programme than on some former occasions, English bell ringing, typical of the passing of the old year in this country, came into its own, even if only to a limited extent. From Westminster Abbey and Canterbury Cathedral, two of the most sacred shrines in this land of ours, the bells were heard. From Westminster half-muffled and solemnly the old year was rung out, and, after the hour of midnight had resounded from Big Ben, Canterbury Cathedral ushered in 1934 with a merry 'peal.' To listeners everywhere these moments must have been soul-stirring. The B.B.C. are always keen to know what their vast public think; and we would emphasise the appeal made by Mr. Edwards to all ringers to write to the B.B.C.—a postcard is enough—expressing their appreciation of this feature of the programme, and the hope that it may be included and extended in future years.

The criticism that is offered relates to the use of gramophone records of bells in recent broadcast sketches. Reference was made to it by the Hon. Secretary of the Middlesex Association, when speaking at a dinner at Stanmore. On the occasion of the performance of Dickens' 'Christmas Carol,' bells were used to create an 'atmosphere,' but the record introduced was of St. Paul's Cathedral bells half-muffled! The other instance mentioned was in another sketch, when one man was supposed to have secreted himself in a tower, and, at a given moment, rung all eight bells—and the record introduced revealed that he was ringing Grandsire Triples. Ringers who heard these two broadcasts must have smiled at the incongruity of the one and the impossibility of the other. The public, in their ignorance, may not have noticed the technical faults in the productions, although there must have been some who, did they give it a thought, must have wondered at muffled bells at Christmas. The B.B.C. are ever anxious to get the details of the broadcasts correct, and we suggest that the

LINK WITH PEAL 100 YEARS AGO.

WORCESTERSHIRE CENTENARY CELEBRATION.

The centenary of a peal of 8,448 Kent Treble Bob, rung at St. Helen's, Worcester, on December 26th, 1833, was celebrated by a peal in the same method on Boxing Day. There was a direct link between the two peals for the great-grandson of one of the ringers in 1833 took part in the peal in 1933.

A peal board in St. Helen's tower records the following: 'On the 26th of December, 1833, a complete peal of Kent Treble Bob Major, comprising of 8,448 changes, being the full extent with the tenors together, in 5 hours and 10 minutes: John Brush treble, John Hunt 2, Thos. Price 3, John Hinton 4, Willm. Taylor 5, Alexr. Stephens 6, Fred. Bradley 7, John Dovey tenor. Conducted by John Dovey.'

John Hinton was the great grandfather of George Hinton, who rang in the commemorative peal at Malvern.

RINGERS' SUPPER AT STANMORE. WHERE THE B.B.C. TRIPPED UP.

The ringers of St. John-the-Baptist, Stanmore, held their annual supper on Saturday, January 6th, at the Crown Hotel, Stanmore. The Rector (Rev. W. A. Hewett) presided, and amongst the guests were Messrs. C. T. Coles (hon. secretary, Middlesex Association), Mr. F. Edwards (Bushey), and several members of the Harrow Weald band, the whole company numbering 24.

An excellent meal over, the Chairman proposed the loyal toast, which was drunk with musical honours.

The Rector then said it was his prerogative to appoint the Ringing Master for the ensuing year, and he gladly asked Mr. G. A. Hughes to occupy that post again. He took the opportunity of thanking Mr. Hughes and his fellow-ringers for their excellent work; Sunday after Sunday, as well as on special occasions, the bells were rung. Ringing such as they knew it, he said, was essentially English, and he did not think the bells were rung in any other country like they were in England.

Mr. Hughes, in thanking the Rector for once again appointing him to be Master of the band, referred to the fact that Mr. G. Cheshire, who was present, was just entering upon his 51st year as a ringer at Stanmore, whilst Mr. Moxom and himself had been ringers there for 41 years.

Mr. E. Leversuch next proposed the health of 'The Visitors.' He said that they were pleased to see many visitors present on that occasion and on their occasions of ringing, and he also referred to the fact that the Stanmore ringers would sometimes have found it difficult to raise a full band but for the help of their ringing friends from elsewhere. He said how difficult they found it was to interest young men in ringing, and hoped they would soon find a remedy for the lack of interest. He coupled Mr. Coles' name with the toast.

Mr. C. T. Coles, in replying, first thanked the Stanmore ringers for their invitation, which he had been very pleased to receive and accept. He stated that the difficulty experienced at Stanmore in obtaining recruits for the belfry was not confined to that tower alone, it was a difficulty being experienced almost everywhere. It required great efforts to keep a band going. It was the duty of all bands to see that there were young ringers to carry on after them, and he urged co-operation with the church authorities in their endeavours to find the youngsters they required. Mr. Coles also referred to the Rector's remarks about the art of ringing being essentially English, but, he added, it was strange how little was known of ringing outside the ranks of ringers themselves. For instance, twice recently the B.B.C. had broadcast ringing from gramophone records which

A LONDON RINGER'S DEATH.

At St. Andrew's, Holborn, on Sunday, January 7th, for evening service, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples was rung with the bells half-muffled as a token of respect to the late Mr. Edward J. Sampson, a much-esteemed member of the St. Andrew's Guild: William R. Dennis 1, Henry C. Alford 2, Joseph S. Hawkins 3, Charles J. Choct 4, Robert W. Green 5, Thomas Langdon (conductor) 6, Ernest Brett 7, William J. Norton 8.

Mr. Sampson was also a member of the St. Dunstan's, Stepney, band, and was junior steward of the Ancient Society of College Youths in 1928.

He passed away in the London Hospital on January 1st, after an illness patiently borne, and was interred in Bow Cemetery on Saturday last in the presence of a large circle of friends.

The deceased, who was 49 years of age, was unmarried and lived with his parents.

ST. MARY-LE-TOWER, IPSWICH.

PRESENTATION TO RETIRING MASTER.

On Tuesday, January 2nd, the annual meeting of St. Mary-le-Tower Society was held, and the following officers were elected for 1934: Master, Mr. Frederick J. Tillett; Deputy Master, Mr. Herbert Shemming; treasurer, Mr. Charles J. Sedgley; auditors, Robert H. Brundle and William P. Garrett; secretary, Mr. George E. Symonds.

Advantage was taken at this gathering to present a barometer to the retiring Master, Mr. Harold E. Symonds, on the occasion of his wedding. The presentation was made by the father of the society, Mr. Robert H. Brundle, who with a few well-chosen words said in his long life he never remembered a Master of St. Mary-le-Tower Society being married during his term of office.—Mr. Symonds suitably thanked the company.

was totally unsuitable for the occasions; once in a Christmas play they had heard a record of St. Paul's Cathedral bells rung 'half-muffled,' and again when a trick was being illustrated and the bells were said to be rung by one man, a record of Grandsire Triples being rung was put on. It certainly was a clever man who could cause eight bells to be rung by one ringer.

A good programme was enjoyed during the evening, songs by Mr. G. A. Hughes, violin solos by Mr. Wood, pianoforte solos by Mr. Springett, and an excellent arrangement of conjuring tricks by Mr. Schofield, passing the time away very pleasantly. It was suggested to the latter gentleman that he should learn how to ring eight bells at once, like the trickster previously referred to, and their troubles as to a shortage of ringers would be over.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

The attention of members of the Lanes Association is called to the fact that the service at the meeting of the Liverpool Branch on Saturday is at 5 p.m. instead of 5.30, and tea will be at 6 p.m.

It is something to be proud of for a struggling young band to be able to say that all its members have rung a quarter-peal. The Evershot (Dorset) ringers rang two quarter-peals of Doubles on New Year's Eve, and in these performances the last three of their band of eleven scored their first quarter-peal.

The peal of Major rung at Slough on Boxing Day was the 21st conducted by Mr. Harry Wingrove, of Beaconsfield, during the year 1933. He also attained his majority as a member of the Oxford Guild, having been elected 21 years ago.

Residents of Sparkhill, Birmingham, say there was a distinct odour of Stedman all the Christmas week. It appeared to emanate from the side of a certain street with the houses numbered odd.

Some of them may have known the late Mr. John Carter—who had a difficulty in pronouncing his s's—and should be informed that 'tedman 'tinquies' are not grown in the Yardley lavender fields.

Next Wednesday is the jubilee of the first peal rung in Hampshire by the old Winchester Diocesan Guild. This was Grandsire Triples at Soberton, Hants, and incidentally was Mr. George Williams' first peal.

Canon Parry, of Bigby, who is one of the representatives of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild on the Central Council, has been appointed Archdeacon of Linsay.

NEW YEAR'S BROADCAST.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—Only a very small proportion of ringers can have heard the midnight broadcast of Westminster and Canterbury bells, as most of us were otherwise occupied. It is nevertheless a cause of satisfaction to the whole Exercise that such a broadcast was given.

I venture to appeal to all your readers to send a postcard or brief note to the B.B.C. at Broadcasting House, London, W.1, expressing their appreciation (a) of the broadcast and (b) of the prominence given to this feature in their published programmes, with the hope that in future years it will be of longer duration.

Just before the end of 1933 the B.B.C. exhorted listeners to give their views on the various features of their programmes. It really is of the first importance to leave them in no doubt about our emphatic appreciation of these broadcasts of ringing.

SEVEN 720's.

A CONFUSION OF TERMS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—In your last issue, Mr. H. M. Day, whose great experience as a six-bell ringer and conductor entitles him to speak with authority, tells us that, in his opinion, there is only one 720 (of Minor); that there are no different extents, however many methods are rung or callings varied—meaning, of course, that there can only be the same 720 changes on six bells, however rung.

If I remember aright, the Rev. E. S. Powell told us in your columns some time ago that the variation of a calling made a 'different' 720.

What, then, is the correct description to apply to a peal of Cambridge Minor if we ring seven of the 720's referred to last week by Mr. Joyce? There are six of these in which, certain authorities have said, the calling is the same, or reversed, or begun at a different point.

What does this peal really consist of? According to Mr. Day it is not seven different 720's; according to others it is not seven different callings; and yet in each the leads come up in a different order to the rest and according to Mr. Powell are, therefore, different extents.

This is all very confusing to the ordinary ringer and seems to call for elucidation by the Central Council laying down some definition of terms.

CURIOUS.

'NO ROOM IN THE INN.'

THE RINGERS' RECEPTION.

The following incident, vouched for by one of the ringers, will, we feel sure, amuse our readers. It occurred at a Surrey church, and we give the story as it has been sent to us:—

'On New Year's Eve we, the bellringers at the Parish Church, attended divine service in the evening (the first time for a number of years).

'On getting into the pulpit to deliver his sermon, the Rector gave a good look round the church, then gave out his text, which was as follows:—

"'There was no room for them in the inn.'"

'Was this a coincidence, or was he deliberately trying to take a rise out of us? Not one of us has had the "neck" to ask him, but at any rate he made us think, although none of us are in the habit of spending much time in the place referred to.'

WOODBIDGE BELLS.

FAMOUS SUFFOLK PEAL RESTORED.

On Sunday the restored bells of Woodbridge, Suffolk, are to be dedicated at 3 p.m. by Bishop Maxwell-Gumbleton, the service having been postponed from to-morrow owing to the indisposition of the Bishop of Ipswich.

Woodbridge bells are one of the oldest complete rings of eight in the country. They were all cast by Thomas Osborn, of Downham, Norfolk, in 1799, and, according to one authority, for whose accuracy, however, we cannot vouch, were 'the last bells cast before the ancient and beautiful system of casting and tuning was finally lost, a hundred years before Canon Simpson re-invented the system.' They are, however, a very fine old peal.

Messrs. Gillett and Johnston have rehung the bells in a new frame, some 17 feet lower in the tower than formerly, thus improving the effect of the bells outside and strengthening the stately tower itself.

The following are the inscriptions on the bells:—

- Treble.—The Lord to praise my voice I raise.
 2.—Hear me when I call.
 3.—Strike me and I sound sweetly.
 4.—Peace and good Neighbourhood.
 5.—Our voices shall with joyful sound,
 Make hills and valleys echo round.
 6.—In wedlock bonds all ye who join,
 With hands your hearts unite,
 So shall our tuneful tongues combine
 To laud the nuptial rite.
 7.—We to the church the living call,
 And to the grave do summon all.
 Tenor.—John Hammond, Robert Allen, Churchwardens.
 Also on all, in addition to the above, is, 'Thos. Osborn, Founder, 1799.'

MURSLEY, BUCKS. BELLS RESTORED.

HEARD AGAIN AFTER 36 YEARS.

In 1925 the then Vicar and churchwardens of the pretty Church of Mursley, Bucks, decided it would be a good thing to have the bells ringing again after a silence of 28 years. However, the bad trade depression stopped funds for a time. On a change of Vicars another move, some three years ago, resulted in the fund being revived, and by steady progress the job was completed last year.

The bells, a ring of six, have now been rehung in latest type ball bearings, new steel headstocks and latest type fittings. The framework has been strengthened, and the bells now are in first-class order. The old 2nd and 5th bells, which had been cracked for many years, have been recast and all have been retuned on the latest principles.

On Wednesday, December 20th, a visiting band from Simpson and district, with the addition of the bellhangers, rang the first 720 on the bells for over 36 years. The bells also rang out the old year and welcomed the new year, the Vicar and his son taking part. The ringers had nothing but praise for the 'go' of the bells. The entire work was carried out under the personal supervision of Mr. Alfred Howell, of Ipswich, who is well known in the county of Bucks.

THE CONSTRUCTION OF SURPRISE MAJOR.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—If the construction of Surprise Major were confined to alternate quadruple and triple changes, as Mr. Hawkins suggests, quite 50 per cent. of the Surprise methods yet rung would be illegitimate, including Cambridge, London and Bristol, as the latter two, although composed solely of quadruple and triple changes, are not alternate.

The change at the cross-section of 'Bushy,' which Mr. Hawkins includes in his letter, is a double change, and although there is, I believe, a school of thought, which, for some reason or other, deplores the introduction of double changes into Major methods, it would be difficult to apply any rule on the subject, as such rule would automatically wipe out both Cambridge and New Cambridge, and I do not think anyone would say that this would be for the good of the Exercise.

A 'HEARTBREAK' AREA.

A SURREY DISTRICT THAT DEFIES ORGANISERS' EFFORTS.

A village with narrow, winding streets, standing by the riverside on the fringe of suburban London, and only a short distance from one of the great roaring highways leading from the Metropolis to the South Coast, Thames Ditton has a really wonderful old church. Parts of it date from the eleventh century, and its squat flint and stone tower, large enough to hold a peal of twelve bells, but containing only a very light six, is crowned by a diminutive spire. One curiosity of the church is that it has three aisles, and the nave, thus expanded from time to time, is wider than it is long.

The Chertsey district of the Guildford Diocesan Guild held a meeting there on Saturday. This part of the county of Surrey has always defied the efforts of ringing organisation to create interest in their work. It is a 'heartbreak' area, but the Guildford Guild continues in its attempt to do what the old Winchester Guild and the Surrey Association failed to accomplish. The impression made, so far, has been apparently infinitesimal, but even now hope has not been abandoned. Only two of the district towers were represented at the meeting: Thames Ditton and Esher, but visitors from places further afield enabled some useful work to be put in in the tower, where much time was spent in encouraging less advanced ringers in Grand-sire and Plain Bob. The only thing rung outside these methods was a couple of courses of Cambridge, and this is mentioned merely to indicate that, although there were Surprise ringers present, they did not monopolise the bells.

At the service the Vicar (Rev. J. Blackborne), who officiated and also ably accompanied the singing on the harmonium, gave the Guild a welcome, and, in an informal address, spoke of his love of the sound of bells and of the importance of the mission of ringing organisations in maintaining the old English art. It would have been well if more of the ringers in the Chertsey district could have heard his address.

Another engagement prevented the Vicar from joining the ringers at tea, but at the subsequent business meeting he was heartily thanked for his kindness in allowing the meeting to be held, and for his address. The local ringers were also thanked and, although none of them are at present members of the Guild, it is hoped that some at any rate will join in the near future.

The officers for the district for the ensuing year were nominated as follows: Ringing Master, Mr. H. J. Chaffey (Ottershaw); hon. secretary, Mr. F. E. Hawthorne (in the place of Miss K. Eastes, who is retiring); hon. member of executive committee, Mr. R. T. Sayle (Ottershaw); ringing members on Executive Committee, Messrs. W. Massey (Esher) and J. B. Hessey (Chertsey).

It was announced that the annual meeting of the district would be held at Chertsey on February 3rd.

There is an interesting 'peal' board in the tower of Thames Ditton Church, which records a peal of 5,040 changes rung in the year 1827 'without the aid of the Plain Bob method.' It has been the cause of much speculation among subsequent generations of ringers, for no one seems to know exactly what was rung.

DEATH OF MR. W. H. INGLESANT.

We regret to record the death of Mr. William Hyde Inglesant, of Quorndon, who passed away after a long illness on December 30th, at the age of 61 years. Mr. Inglesant took a prominent part in ringing in the Midlands a generation ago, and shared in some of the long lengths of the early years of this century, culminating in the 18,027 Stedman Caters at Loughborough in 1909. Mr. Inglesant was also a composer of ability, and was the author of a number of good peals in several methods.

AN APPRECIATION.

The weary eyes of the watcher looked out o'er an unknown sea, waiting. For him, Life's day was drawing to a close and the shadows were gathering around. The setting sun was sinking like a ball of molten fire into the abyss of the Great Beyond, reluctantly retreating before the dark clouds of advancing Night.

Lower and lower, now it was just above the horizon, but defiant to the end, like a forlorn hope, sent up lurid shafts of flame into the billowy banks of clour, transforming them into fantastic mountain ranges tipped with gold. In a few minutes it would be gone, dissolved in a halo of iridescent light, and then—oblivion.

Down where the dark waters faintly lapped the shore, a boat was waiting to put out to sea. Its riding-light beckoned like a twinkling star to the watcher, who knew he must soon cross the bar and make the passage—alone. The tired eyes closed and all was dark. The quivering form ceased to struggle, and 'sank, like a little child to sleep.' The touch on the shoulder had come, and the soul of the watcher went out with the tide. Requiescat in Pace.

William H. Inglesant was born at Liverpool on August 19th, 1872. When a youth, his people migrated to Loughborough, Leicestershire, and finally settled down at Quorndon, an adjacent village, where the deceased got interested in the church and bells. Here he learned to ring, and at every opportunity he would be found in the belfries in and around the Loughborough and Leicester districts. His first peal was Stedman Triples, in October, 1891, and there he was usually included in the many peals rung by the Loughborough band when the late Mr. John W. Taylor, jun., was in his prime, and Friday night was 'peal night' at All Saints'.

A surveyor's clerk by profession, there were not many outside opportunities for scoring peals, but what there were William Inglesant was at all times ready and willing to share. With the writer he had rung many, amongst which were four, all over 10,000 changes. They were 10,176 Treble Bob Major, 11,008 and 17,104 Double Norwich, and the then record length of 18,027 Stedman Caters. He also rang in the first seven-method six-bell peal by the Midland Counties Association at St. George's, Leicester, in 1894.

He would prick out whole peals in full, and tap them out on the piano, writing in his MSS. book the time and place, like ordinary peals. He also entered the field of composition, and had produced peals of Treble Bob Major and Superlative, Stedman Caters, and Treble Bob Royal, some of which are occasionally rung. Altogether, he had rung in 141 peals up to 1916, when the calamity that ultimately brought about the end occurred. His lower limbs became affected with numbness, and, after a while, it was apparent that a creeping paralysis had its deadly hold upon him. Year after year it made headway, until half the body was dead below the waist. Still he never murmured.

His chief joy was to receive the weekly issue of this journal, which kept him in touch with the outside world; and the visit of a ringer to see him and to talk over old times, was a treat indeed.

An earnest churchman, he never railed at his fate. He just accepted it as part of the divine plan. Never a Sunday, when he was able to be wheeled in his chair, did he fail to be present at Holy Communion, never a night without a passage of Scripture being read. For a long time before the end came he was like a helpless babe, but grateful for all that was being done, ever praising his wife, who was mother and nurse to him. He was just waiting to cross the dark river, and the end came for him with the dying year.

The funeral took place on January 3rd, and he was laid to rest in the churchyard he loved. Among the many wreaths were three from ringers' societies, one being from the Midland Counties Association, which was represented by Mr. J. A. Oldham (Loughborough Bell Foundry), Mr. W. E. White (hon. treasurer), Mr. W. Willson (vice-president), Mr. J. Morris, and Mr. J. Harris.

The deceased leaves a widow to mourn her loss, but there are no children. Those who knew William Hyde Inglesant will regret the broken link in the chain of friends.

EPILOGUE.

The barque is Outward Bound, over the ocean's breast,
Through seas uncharted, not a sound,
And the waters are at rest.

The boat will make the Port; no doubt or fear we feel.
The powers of ill are brought to nought
With our Pilot at the wheel.

Safe 'into Thy hands,' O Lord. The passing bell may toll.
But over the silent sea and broad,
Is the harbour of the soul.

SOUTH SHIELDS BELLS RING AGAIN. RESTORATION AT ST. HILDA'S.

The eight bells (tenor 9½ cwt.) of the ancient Church of St. Hilda, South Shields, were unringable for two or three years, but, thanks to the persistent efforts of Mr. W. Robson, captain of the Ringers' Guild, the money necessary to repair them has been raised, and Messrs. Mears and Stainbank have now made a first-class job of them.

The re-opening service was held on Saturday week, and in spite of very stormy weather a large congregation assembled. The Vicar (the Rev. J. Hudson Barker) conducted a shortened evensong, and the Lord Bishop of Newcastle, who is a former Vicar of St. Hilda's, preached the sermon, his subject being 'Christian Joy.'

Owing to rather short notice being given, there were only about 20 ringers present, but touches of Stedman and Grandsire Triples were rung, and all agreed that the quarter-turning and repairs had made a wonderful improvement in the tone and the 'go' of the bells.

At the invitation of the Vicar and the four churchwardens, an excellent tea had been provided in a neighbouring cafe, and after full justice had been done to it Mr. Wm. Story, J.P., of Newcastle, expressed the thanks of the members of the Durham and Newcastle Association for the hospitality extended to them, and congratulated St. Hilda's people on the success of their efforts.—The Vicar and Messrs. Hall and Park, churchwardens, responded, Mr. Park giving some very interesting reminiscences of his ringing experiences over fifty years ago.

The association secretary read letters of apology received from the president (Mr. J. Anderson, Newcastle) and from Mr. W. Newton, of Stockton, a foundation member of the association, whose name appears on a peal board in the belfry recording a peal of Kent Major rung on August 12th, 1886.

Mr. Robson was promised every assistance in his efforts to re-organise a change ringing band, and he thanked the Vicar and wardens for this happy culmination of his efforts and his fellow-ringers for their kind help.

The bells were kept going until nearly eight o'clock, several touches being rung for the benefit of the new band.

ROCK FERRY'S SURPRISE YEAR. RECORD PROGRESS.

On Sunday, December 31st, at St. Peter's Church, Rock Ferry, Cheshire, 720 of Canterbury Surprise was rung by: J. Cooke (conductor) 1, Miss E. M. Cooke (first 720 in the method) 2, Miss D. I. Leatham 3, J. Leslie 4, F. T. Parry 5, W. Dean 6.

This, the last 720 in the old year, brought to a close a year of record progress by the local band.

During the year one hundred and five 720's were rung in 20 Surprise methods, i.e., London 16, York 10, Chester 11, Carlisle 9, Canterbury 6, Cambridge 12, Beverley 12, Wells 3, Durham 3, Munden 4, Newcastle 2, Surfleet 3, Ipswich 2, Stamford 2, Northumberland 2, Immanuel 1, Berwick 2, Lightfoot 2, Hexham 1, Primrose 2. The last eight methods were rung for the first time by a local band in the Wirral Branch.

The following ringers took part: F. T. Parry 91 720's, J. Leslie 83 (conducted 7), J. Cooke 77 (conducted 35), Miss M. Cooke 71, W. Dean 63 (conducted 47), J. Hughes 58, W. H. Parry 52, A. K. Leatham 42 (conducted 15), Miss D. Leatham 42, Miss E. M. Cooke 11, T. Rogers (Wallasey) 1 (conducted 1), G. R. Edwards (Bidston) 2, G. L. Grover (West Clandon, Surrey) 1, E. Breeze (late of Bebington) 1. Mr. Breeze is aged 68, and this was his first 720 of Surprise.

It is interesting to note that the last touch in the old year and the first in the new year was rung by a band whose average age was 19, and was composed of two sisters, two brothers and brother and sister.

The record peal at Loughborough, in which the late Mr. Inglesant took part, was the first rung single-handed which lasted 'round the clock,' the time occupied being 12 hours 18 minutes. The band was: George R. Pye 1, Isaac G. Shade 2, William H. Inglesant 3, John H. Cheesman 4, Bertram Prewett 5, Benjamin A. Knights 6, William Willson 7, William J. Nudds 8, Gabriel Lindoff (composer) 9, William Pye (conductor) 10.

Mr. Inglesant could trace his family back for nearly four centuries in the district of Quorn. A member of the Hyde family held a cottage at the will of the Lord of Beaumanor as long ago as A.D. 1544, and John Hyde did fealty to the Lord of the Manor of Barrow for the house, which stood near the site of the present stables of Quorn House, in 1753, and where the family lived until 1830. This John Hyde was one of the commissioners for the dividing and enclosing of the open and common fields of Quorn in 1763, and, later on, was one of the Freeholders who voted for the election of a knight of the shire to represent the county in Parliament.

PARISHIONERS INVITED TO BELFRY.

NEW YEAR'S WEDDING BELLS AT YATELEY, HANTS.

The old wooden belfry at Yateley, Hants, was again, on New Year's Eve, packed to its utmost capacity. At the services on Sunday the Vicar intimated that he was holding a short service with the ringers in the belfry a few minutes before midnight, and any who wished to join in and see the new year rung in would be welcome.

The ringers met at the belfry at 11.30, and cars began to come from all directions, the village soon becoming ablaze with light. The belfry was quickly filled in every nook and corner, and also up the stairs.

Handbells were produced and exhibitions of change ringing were given which greatly interested the large company, many of whom saw for the first time the method of ringing and of the work carried on in our belfries.

YATELEY'S WOODEN TOWER.

A few minutes before midnight the passing bell was rung, and as the clock struck the hour the Rev. F. R. Pechey offered suitable prayers for the occasion, including one from the Guild's service, and then gave the Blessing.

The bells then rang out to the tune of Grandsire and Stedman, all ringers present taking a part. After many wishes for 1934, the company dispersed, but it is understood that some of the ringers visited the home of the president, where more good wishes were exchanged until all appeared tired out.

However, they were not to be allowed to rest for long, for amongst the company in the belfry was Miss Dorothy Macrae, who, quite unknown to them, was in a few hours to become a New Year's Day bride. Nothing was known until about 1.30, when the ringers were called out to celebrate the happy event of her marriage to Capt. Harper, which had taken place by special license at Mortimer, Berks.

Miss Macrae had always taken a great interest in the Yateley band, and everyone turned out and rang. The first touch was 350 Grandsire Triples to allow Sailor Boy Cooper to ring, and conducted by the head gardener of the bride's home, Mr. A. Goodall. This was followed by a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples, conducted by Mr. G. Butler, after which the whole company were lavishly entertained by Mr. Kenneth Macrae.

New Year's Day, 1934, will be long remembered by the Yateley band, and also by many more who, for the first time in their life, began to think that there is more in change ringing than appears on the surface. It is a good thing to invite as many as possible to our belfries on the occasions of ringing whenever convenient.

THE TOWER AND BELLS.

The wooden tower at St. Peter's Church, Yateley, was probably first erected by local talent. Later on it was shored up, underpinned and brickwork inserted owing to its sinking on the south side. Nearly 30 years ago the bells were going so badly, owing to the sway of the structure, that one of the ringers undertook to steel 'fitch' the interior above first-floor level with 9in. by 3in. fitches, and from that time the bells have gone very well indeed. The tower is covered with oak shingles.

The tower contains an old clock, which told time to the village in the days of Queen Elizabeth. It has the best eight-bell ringing chamber in North Hants, and is on the ground floor with the font in the centre. Eight ringers, who were born in the parish and baptised at the font, have rung a peal of Grandsire Triples at this church—a truly 'local peal.' The band are strong and form themselves into a miniature Guild, having a president, vice-president, Ringing Master, secretary and treasurer, and for more than 40 years some of the present ringers have been members of the Guild.

The following are the details of the bells:—

Treble.—'Ex dono Johannis Pakenham Stilwell, MDCCCLXXXVIII.

Sanctus, Sanctus, Sanctus, Dominus Deus Sabaoth.' (The gift of J. P. Stilwell, 1888. Holy, Holy, Holy, Lord God of Sabaoth.) Cast by Taylor, of Loughborough. Weight, 3 cwt. 3 qr. 26 lb.

Second.—'Ex dono Johannis Pakenham Stilwell, MDCCCLXXXVIII.

Pleni sunt coeli et terra Gloria Tua. Hosanna in excelsis.' (The Heavens and Earth are full of Thy Glory. Hosanna in the Highest.) Cast by Taylor. Weight, 4 cwt. 1 qr. 14 lb.

Third.—'Sancti Petri sum, ex dono Johannis Pakenham Stilwell, 1878. Sit splendor Domini Dei nostri super nos.' (I belong to St. Peter. . . . May the splendour of the Lord our God be on us.) Cast by Taylor.

Fourth.—'William Yare made mee, 1613.' Cast at Reading foundry.

Fifth.—'Sancta Katarina, ora pro nobis.' (St. Catharine, pray for us.) Symbols, cat's head, cross in a circle, and a bunch of lilies. 'R.E.' (Richard Eldridge, of Wokingham.) Cast about 1555.

Sixth.—'Love the Lord the God, and of E.H.S., 1577, T.E.F.R.' Symbols, cross in double circle, a man with a beard, monogram FCJ in a rope circle, the figure 6, and a geometrical figure somewhat like a 5-pointed star between the letters TE and FR. Also a figure of a bearded man (? the Deity) holding the sun and moon. Recast 1921, the old wording and symbols being retained and the following added: 'In memory of John Pakenham and Georgina Elizabeth Stilwell, by their children and grandchildren.'

Seventh.—'Our hope is in the Lord. R.E. 1617.' Each word is followed by a heart.

A heart between each word. Weight, 15 cwt. Note G. Sanctus.—'R.E. 1623.'

THE MINOR QUESTION.

Everyone, we think, agrees that the 'Minor Controversy,' as it was termed, was left in a most unsatisfactory position after last year's meeting of the Central Council, when a resolution passed by a majority could not be accepted because under the old rules that majority was not two-thirds of the meeting. In face of that, the Council's ruling on the subject of peals of Minor is the decision reached at the Hereford meeting six years ago. It is quite certain, however, that the matter will not be allowed to rest where it is, although for our part, and, we believe, in the opinion of many others, except 'extremists,' the Hereford resolution, with slight amendment, meets the requirements of the situation.

We are led to return to this subject for two reasons. Between now and Easter someone will have to formulate a motion for the next Council agenda, if the question is to be adequately settled, or it may be that several people will endeavour to put forward a suitable solution. Secondly, we refer to the matter now to call attention to a letter in another column from the Rev. E. Bankes James, who, after a long silence, expresses his views upon what is, after all, an important question. It was owing to Mr. Bankes James' Cambridge Minor compositions that all the controversy arose. He was the first to put forward compositions of Minor in which the 720's did not each 'begin from and end with rounds,' and there has probably been no subject in ringing in which there has been such a sharp cleavage of opinion as there has in this. Yet it is likely that, had compositions, with the purpose which Mr. Bankes James had in view, been confined to the same type as those originally produced, they would have been accepted by the Exercise as a perfectly legitimate form for peal ringing. Since they first appeared, however, others have put forward compositions which do not comply with the same conditions, but which, it is claimed, must, on principle, be admitted if the Bankes James compositions are accepted.

Mr. Bankes James, in his letter, concisely puts forward his reasons for the type of composition which he introduced and which, as distinct from others to which it is said to open the door, includes 720 different rows, in each extent. Unfortunately in the heat of debate the issue is frequently confused, and too many complications are introduced. We believe it would simplify matters very considerably if ringers would consider the different points raised as separate subjects and not endeavour to find a solution by mixing them all in one common discussion. Could not the Council, for instance, first say whether or not 720 true 'rows' are as true as 720 true 'changes'?

Afterwards they could decide whether, in their opinion, 5,040 of Minor is seven 'peals' or one 'peal' and, if the latter, whether the 'rows' or 'changes' shall be admitted in any order as long as each appears seven times. And so on with all the other points that arise.

The more the subject can be divided into its distinctive parts the easier we believe will be its solution, for, if one thing has been more apparent than another in many of the discussions that have taken place, it is that members of the Council have been asked to vote for principles with which some of them could only agree in part and, in the end, some have voted 'for' to save the thing they wanted, although they disliked the rest, and others have voted 'against' to save from adoption the thing with which they have disagreed, although they may have favoured some other part. What is wanted is something clear cut, and if this could be found in a short series of independent motions we believe the Council could come to some definite settlement instead of prolonging the unsatisfactory situation from year to year.

SUCCESSFUL YEAR FOR DEVIZES BRANCH.

The Devizes Branch annual meeting was held at St. James', Southbroom, by special invitation of the Vicar, the Rev. C. A. Plaxton, on Saturday, January 6th. The bells of St. John's and St. Mary's, Devizes, were also available during the afternoon. The service was conducted by the Vicar, assisted by the Rev. A. E. Loxton, the choir being also in attendance.

The Vicar delivered a most inspiring address from the text, 'We have fellowship one with another' (1 John i. 7), and speaking as a brother ringer he mentioned the objects and benefits of the Guild, urging the ringers to work together in the service of Almighty God. Tea was served in the schoolroom, to which 88 sat down.

Mr. C. D. Heginbotham presided at the business meeting which followed. He offered all present the season's greetings, and went on to review the work of the past year, which was very satisfactory and most successful. He thanked his fellow officers and tower correspondents for their assistance in bringing about such a happy state of affairs.

The secretary then submitted his report and balance sheet, showing an increase in the membership, and in the credit balance.—This was considered very favourable and was adopted.

The election of officers then took place for the ensuing year, the following being unanimously re-elected: Mr. C. D. Heginbotham (Devizes), chairman; Mr. E. F. White (Warminster), vice-chairman; Mr. W. C. West (Melksham), hon. secretary and treasurer; Mr. S. Hillier (Devizes) and Mr. J. Francis (Trowbridge), Ringing Master.

Three new members were elected, and Market Lavington was decided upon for the next monthly meeting in February.

The meeting closed with speeches from Rev. F. Ll. Edwards, hon. general secretary of the Guild, and the Rev. C. A. Plaxton. Devizes (St. John's) bells were not allowed to be rung during the evening, so arrangements were made for Bishop's Cannings to be available. The following towers were represented: Devizes (St. John's, St. Mary's, and St. James'), Bishop's Cannings and All Cannings, Bromham, Bratton, Clinton, Rowde, Melksham, Bradford, Holt, Trowbridge, Westbury, Warminster, Corsley, Market Lavington, Swindon, Chippenham, Wootton Bassett, Ealing, Kington Magna, Frome, Stourton and Farnborough, Hants.

OXFORD'S OLDEST ACTIVE RINGER.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—The paragraph in 'Belfry Gossip' on January 5th re the first peal at Hughenden, Bucks, makes interesting reading, and it may interest readers of 'The Ringing World' to know that one of the band is still 'doing his bit' in the person of Mr. Samuel Hounslow, the conductor, who is the oldest active ringer in Oxford City.

Mr. Hounslow is probably the only survivor of this band, although I am not sure on this point. Two other members of the band, Messrs. T. Payne and W. Finch, have passed on within the last five years.

In spite of his seventy-odd years, 'Old Sam,' as he is familiarly called, is still very much on the active list. Only as recently as January 1st he started for a peal of Stedman Cinques at Christ Church, Oxford, but this came to grief after two hours.

He is a familiar figure in Magdalen tower, where he carries out duties as tower foreman, and he regularly chimes the bells for service each day, and every Sunday he and another ringer ring the 9th and tenor up and down.

He is a nephew of the famous Oxford veteran, Charles Hounslow, who also rang in the Hughenden peal, and it is sometimes a treat for some of 'us young 'uns' to hear Old Sam talk about his early ringing days. It is a curious fact that ringing in Sam's family has passed from uncle to nephew, Charles Hounslow's uncle, Philip, being a ringer about 1840-50.

Just one more story of this Oxford Youth. Sam sometimes takes a party into the churchyard of St. Peter-in-the-East, Oxford, where he points out a tombstone bearing the name of one of his ancestors. This stone informs one that this man died on 'February 31st, 1873.' 'Well,' says Old Sam, 'if that stone tells the truth, he ain't dead yet.'

LONDON COUNTY ASSOCIATION. NORTHERN DISTRICT'S RECORD YEAR.

The annual general meeting of the Northern District of the London County Association and North Southwark Diocesan Guild was held on Saturday, January 13th. The splendid heavy ring of eight bells of St. Lawrence Jewry were rung during the afternoon to the tune of Stedman Triples and methods up to Cambridge Surprise. After tea the business meeting was held in the tower of St. Dunstan-in-the-East.

The secretary (Mr. J. G. A. Prior) presented his report, in which he said that the year could be safely put down as the most successful in the district's history. The attendance at the annual general meeting at Whitechapel was the highest ever reached at a Northern District meeting, and the average attendance of 27 at the bi-monthly meetings was a record. The cash balance was also a record, and, last but decidedly not least, the standard of ringing, both in methods and striking, had been very high. The Secretary said how very encouraging these results were to him, but emphasised that they had only been obtained by the strong support that he had received from the other officers and those members who regularly came to the meetings. The report was unanimously adopted.

Mr. E. H. King, in proposing the re-election of the retiring officers en bloc, said he did not think that they could be bettered.—Mr. R. Motton seconded the proposal, which was carried unanimously.

The district officers are: Mr. J. A. Waugh, Master; Mr. J. G. Prior, secretary; Mr. R. G. Cousins, treasurer; Mr. E. E. Holman, steward; and Messrs. E. D. Smith and C. A. Hughes, committee members.

St. Mary Magdalene, Holloway Road, was chosen for the March meeting.

The senior steward of the association drew the attention of the members to the handbell competition for the 'Dawe' cup to be held on February 10th at the annual meeting. This is open to all local bands affiliated to the London County Association, and entries will be accepted up till the time of the competition.

Votes of thanks to those responsible for the ringing were passed, and the Master said how pleased the members were to have Mr. W. H. Lawrence, of Little Munden, with them.

Ringing on the tower bells then took place until eight o'clock.

The sudden appearance in the ringing chamber of two 'boys in blue' caused some qualms of conscience in the Master and secretary and a certain 'plus four' individual, who 'hails from Forest Hill,' but these qualms were unfounded, as the visit was quite unofficial.

After the tower bells were stopped, some of the younger members stayed for handbell ringing.

Ringing during the day ranged from Grandsire Triples to London Surprise, and this meeting provided a splendid start for the year.

DEATH OF MR. A. J. LEWIS.

WELL-KNOWN WEST KENT RINGER.

Many of his friends will learn with deep regret of the passing of Mr. Arthur James Lewis, of Westerham, Kent, who died on Monday, January 8th, in a London hospital following an operation. The deceased gentleman, who was 66 years of age, was born at Cranbrook, but spent the earlier years of his life at Hastings, whence he came to Westerham upwards of 37 years ago.

For many years a member of the band of ringers at St. Mary's, Westerham, and vice-captain for a considerable period, Arthur Lewis was a regular service ringer with his band, and, in his earlier ringing days, made a host of friends amongst ringers throughout West Kent. Of a genial and happy disposition, he was ever ready to 'make one' whenever a peal or touch was mooted.

Not only in ringing circles was his unbounded energy and popularity displayed, for, in addition, he took a deep interest in most of the social activities of the town in which he made his home, being a valued member of the Tradesmen's Association, the Men's Club, the British Legion and the Bowling Club, among other local associations, and in all the spheres of his activity he endeared himself to his associates and to the fellow-townsmen at large. His passing undoubtedly leaves a definite gap in the social life of the town.

The choir, of which he had also been a member for many years, took part in the touching service at St. Mary's, when his remains were laid to rest in the beautiful churchyard on Friday, January 12th.

In the evening the following past and present members of St. Mary's band met, and, as a last tribute to their departed colleague, rang a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples with the bells half-muffled: C. Taylor 1, A. Nicholas 2, W. Cosgrove, jun., 3, G. A. S. Selby 4, F. Nicholas 5, J. T. Weller 6, H. J. Selby (conductor) 7, G. Steer 8.

DEATH OF ANOTHER OLD KENT RINGER.

We regret to record the passing of another old member of the Kent County Association, in the person of Mr. William Tassell, of Borden.

Mr. Tassell was a very enthusiastic member for many years, until he had to give up through ill-health. He had rung many peals at Borden and elsewhere in Kent, and was 76 years of age.

The funeral took place on Saturday, January 6th, at Borden, when several of his old ringing friends attended. After the interment a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples, with the bells half-muffled, was rung by: W. Spice, sen., 1, J. Excell 2, G. Kenward 3, E. J. Dobbie 4, W. Wood 5, W. Walker 6, S. B. Dobbie (conductor) 7, W. Gorman 8.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

A photograph of the late Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn is being reproduced in postcard size, and will be on sale in a few days. We have seen a proof, and can say that it is a 'speaking' likeness. Everyone who knew the late Master of the Oxford Guild will, we are sure, desire to possess a copy. We understand they are to be sold at 2d. each, and will be available through the general and district secretaries of the Guild.

Any young ringer, not more than 16 years of age, who would like to stand in a young people's peal of Bob Major at Crayford, Kent, on Saturday, February 10th, should write at once to the Editor of 'The Ringing World,' who will forward the applications to the right quarter. There are only one or two vacancies, and selection will be made on ability and youth.

The Rev. E. S. Powell, who is now Vicar of Staverton, near Daventry, has been presented with a typewriter, suitably inscribed, by the members of the Devonshire Guild as an appreciation of the services he rendered to the Guild during his presidency.

The picture of Lambeth Church, which appeared in our issue of December 8th, was the copyright of Mr. T. F. Garnish, by whose courtesy the photograph was reproduced.

A sum of at least £200 is still required towards the £800 cost of the bell restoration at Lambeth, and contributions will be gladly received by the Rector.

Mr. Thomas M. Roberts, who rang the tenor to a peal at Bispham, Lancs, on Saturday, is the first Kirkham ringer for 37 years to ring a peal! It is time Kirkham looked into this, and provided some more peal ringers.

At the annual meeting of the Devizes Branch, held at Southbroom, Devizes, the chairman, Mr. C. D. Heginbotham, offered the Rev. F. L. Edwards, on behalf of the Branch, their heartiest congratulations on entering his 21st year as hon. general secretary of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild.

The peal of Grandsire Doubles rung at Kempsey, Worcestershire, on December 23rd, should be credited to the Worcestershire and Districts Association.

The first Surprise peal on the bells at Leiston, Suffolk, was rung on January 25th, 1908. On January 6th last the 100th peal by the Suffolk Guild was rung there, and they have all been conducted by Mr. C. F. Bailey!

Mr. Bailey has 'circled' the tower four times, and has conducted a peal in each of the four methods: London, Bristol, Cambridge and Superlative, from every bell. This, it is said, is believed to be the first time it has been done on one peal of bells. About that we should say there is little doubt.

The report of the dedication of the restored bells at Woodbridge, together with a picture of the tower, will appear in our next issue.

An excellent performance at Shapwick, Somerset, is recorded this week. A peal of Grandsire Doubles, the first peal on the bells and the first peal of all the band!

ACCIDENT TO CANON COLERIDGE.

A FALL WITH HIS BICYCLE.

Canon G. F. Coleridge has met with a painful accident, and is confined to his bed.

When leaving his house at Crowthorne, early on the morning of Wednesday in last week, when it was hardly light, he missed the pedal of his bicycle which he was about to mount and fell heavily with the machine on top of him. He twisted his left knee so badly that the doctor ordered him to bed, where he has remained ever since, and is unlikely to be up for some days yet.

We are glad to be able to state that he is going on satisfactorily and is as comfortable as can be expected.

DEATH OF MR. EDWIN GIBBS.

AN OLD COLLEGE YOUTH.

We regret to announce the death of Mr. Edwin Gibbs, formerly a well-known London ringer, who passed away at Crayford, Kent, on Saturday at the advanced age of 77 years.

Forty or fifty years ago Mr. Gibbs did a great deal of ringing in the Metropolis and took part in several notable peals, including the 11,111 Stedman Caters at Fulham in December, 1885.

At first, Mr. Gibbs was a member of the Royal Cumberland Youths, and his joining the Ancient Society of College Youths about the year 1880 created quite a stir in London ringing circles.

He was a very able ringer, and eventually became a member of the St. Paul's Cathedral company. During the last few years, however, Mr. Gibbs had been incapacitated, but his interest in ringing never failed.

MUFFLED BELLS.

The death has taken place at Little Waldingfield, of Mr. John Kingsbury, who had been a ringer at the Parish Church for many years. On Friday week a quarter-peal of Doubles (730 of Grandsire and 480 of Plain Bob) was rung with the bells deeply muffled as a token of respect to the deceased, the funeral having taken place in the afternoon. The ringers were: B. Cornell 1, L. Poulsen 2, H. Day 3, W. Head (conductor) 4, J. Andrews 5.

HAMPSHIRE'S NEW RING OF TEN.

BARRON BELL TRUST GIFT TO SOUTHAMPTON.

The Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild received a valuable addition to the bells in its area on Saturday, when the dedication of two trebles at St. Mary's Church, Southampton, gave Hampshire another ring of ten. Since Christchurch Priory Church was raised to the dignity of a twelve-bell tower, the county has had only one peal of ten, created when two trebles were installed at North Stoneham, and constituting the lightest ring of this number in any church in the country.

The augmentation at St. Mary's, Southampton, has resulted in a magnificent peal. The octave was installed a few years ago by Messrs. Taylor and Co., who have now carried out the addition, and the bells form a very fine ring, with a tenor of 22 cwt. 1 qr. in E flat.

ST. MARY'S CHURCH, SOUTHAMPTON.

The dedication was combined with the annual meeting of the Southampton District of the Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild, and over 100 ringers were present from towers in the area and places as far apart as London, Oxford and Swanage.

The service opened with the hymn, 'O Praise ye the Lord,' followed by Psalms 122 and 150, the Magnificat, lessons, etc., and during the singing of the ringers' hymn, 'Lifted high within the steeple,' the procession, which included the local ringers, Mr. G. Williams (Master of the Guild) and several well-known Winchester Guild officials, proceeded to the tower, where they were met by Mr. F. Hopkins, who, on behalf of Emma Barron Bell Trust, presented to Canon R. B. Jolly the two new bells, and requested him to dedicate them to the glory of Almighty God.

The Rector having offered the customary prayers, a few well-struck rounds were rung by the local band, while the procession returned to the chancel.

PEALS OF MINOR.

To the Editor.

Sir,—In the first place I would take the opportunity of sending hearty greetings to yourself and all ringers for the new year.

Then I wish to make a few remarks on the Cambridge Minor controversy, as it will come up again at the next Central Council meeting, and I wish all members of the Council to come prepared, knowing exactly what they are going to vote for, or vote against.

In the first place, then, I would ask, 'Why should a peal begin and end with rounds?' Surely it is to mark the beginning and ending of the performance, that listeners, either outside or inside the belfry, may know for certain that all has ended well. If there is any other reason I have yet to learn it.

But in ringing a 5,040 of Minor is there any reason why there should be 719 rows between each repetition of rounds, and if of rounds why not of every other row? To get that you must ring the same 720, row for row, seven times over, which is an absurd demand.

At the same time, we do not want the same rows to be coming up more than once in every block of 720 changes.

I would then suggest for the consideration of members of the Council the following definition:—

'A peal of Minor shall consist of seven, or more, blocks of 720 rows each, in each of which no row is repeated, and the whole performance shall begin and end with rounds.'

I would note that my arrangement of Cambridge is not confined to one, but suitable for all methods.

E. BANKES JAMES.

'DIFFERENT' 720's.

Sir,—In answer to the request of 'Curious' there is one sense and only one in which it can be said that there is but one extent of Minor, viz., that in all 720's the same rows have to be rung. In exactly the same way you would have to hold that there is only one extent (5,040) of Triples; but I am quite sure that few ringers would consider that Parker's 12-part (say) of Grandsire Triples is the same extent as Thurstans' 4-part of Stedman.

As regards Cambridge Minor there are two independent compositions, and no more, which bring up no 6-5's at backstroke. One of these is the ordinary or standard 3-part calling; the other, being a one-part, can be started at either of the 3 lead-heads with 5.6 behind. The calling of each of these four 720's can naturally be reversed, and thus we obtain the eight extents often referred to.

According to generally recognised practice you would describe a peal containing seven of these as consisting of seven 720's, each called differently. At the same time it must be confessed that the three one-part 720's are so similar to one another that few ringers would be aware, without taking special notice, which of the three the conductor was calling. And this is, of course, equally true of the three reversed. So you can rightly say that there are no more than four 720's of Cambridge Minor with the tenors the right way which are appreciably different from one another.

Theoretically, by starting at a different lead-head you are doing exactly the same thing as if in one 720 you call the sixth behind without the 5th, and in another call the 4th behind without the 2nd. But in practice it is altogether 'another pair of shoes.'

Without entering into the rights or wrongs of the recent controversy, the reason can doubtless be found here why a very large number of ringers prefer plans similar to that of Mr. Bankes James to the use of seven out of the eight round blocks discussed above.

Staverton, Daventry.

An inspiring sermon was preached by Rev. F. Llewellyn Edwards, hon. secretary of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild, whose text was Numbers x., 1, 2 and 10. His discourse was very much enjoyed and appreciated by all present. The service closed with the singing of the hymn, 'Unchanging God, Who livest.'

Immediately after the service was over a well-struck touch of Grandsire Caters was rung by nine officers of the Winchester and Portsmouth Guild and the Rev. F. Ll. Edwards.

A large number sat down to tea in the Chantry Hall, presided over by Canon R. B. Jolly, and supported by a number of local clergy.

At the close of the tea Canon Jolly expressed the grateful thanks of himself and parish to the trustees of the Barron Bell Trust for their gift to Southampton, and Mr. F. W. Rogers (hon. secretary) expressed the thanks of the Guild.—Mr. F. Hopkins replied for the Barron Bell Trust, and Mr. J. P. Fidler, who represented the bell founders, amused the company with one of his usual stories.

At the business meeting of the Southampton District the usual routine subjects were dealt with. The Secretary reported steady progress during the year, and said that the bands at Fawley and Lockerley had joined.

Canon C. P. Clarke was elected an hon. member, and sixteen new ringing members were elected.

It was decided to hold the next annual meeting at Southampton on January 12th, 1935, and quarterly meetings at Lockerley, Dibden and Fawley.

The district officers were all re-elected. Afterwards, throughout the evening, touches in various methods up to Cambridge Surprise Royal were rung on the bells at St. Mary's and St. Michael's Churches.

GUILDFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

CLERGY'S LACK OF INTEREST IN RINGERS.

Criticism of the attitude of the clergy towards those who ring the bells in their churches was made at the fourth annual dinner of the Guildford Diocesan Guild at the Lion Hotel, Guildford, on Saturday. A company of about a hundred was presided over by the Bishop of Guildford (president of the Guild), supported by the Very Rev. the Provost and Mr. Walter Harrison (vice-presidents), Canon Martin Jones (Rector of Haslemere), Major J. H. B. Hesse (Master), Mr. E. H. Lewis (president of the Central Council of Church Bellringers), Mrs. Lewis, Mr. G. W. Fletcher (hon. secretary of the Central Council), Mrs. E. K. Fletcher (hon. secretary of the Ladies' Guild), Mr. E. A. Young (Master of the Ancient Society of College Youths), Mr. and Mrs. J. Parker (Edmonton), Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Hughes (London), Mr. S. Roper (Croydon), Mr. J. Corbett (hon. treasurer of the Guildford Guild), Mrs. Corbett, Capt. H. J. Cann (Pirbright), Mr. J. S. Goldsmith (hon. secretary) and Mrs. Goldsmith. Ringers were present from Aldershot, Leatherhead, Guildford (Cathedral and St. Nicolas'), Witley, Chiddingfold, Haslemere, Wonsers, Shalford, Farnham, Ottershaw, Pirbright, Worplesdon, Scale, Puttenham, West Clandon, Bagshot, Frensham, Oxford and Reading.

Apologies for absence were received from Canon G. F. Coleridge, who was in bed as the result of a cycle accident, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Johnston (Croydon), Dr. E. L. Taylor (Sevenoaks), Mr. F. W. Rogers and Mr. A. T. Greenwood (Portsmouth), Mr. J. B. Hessey (Chertsey) and Mrs. W. Viggers (Aldershot).

After the loyal toast had been honoured, Mr. Walter Harrison submitted the health of 'Our President.' He recalled that when the Bishop first came to the diocese he (the speaker) was one of a deputation of three who walked very warily to the vestry of the pro-Cathedral for an appointment with the Bishop, when they were going to ask him if they might make sundry additions and alterations to their Guild service. They were most courteously received by him and warmly welcomed by his charming personality. He was mindful that that was the second time in succession that His Lordship had favoured them by occupying the chair at the annual dinner, and he assured him they felt it no small favour.

THE BISHOP AND RINGERS' OPPORTUNITY.

The Bishop thanked the company for drinking to his health. Their solicitude for his health had some justification, especially as the years went by, and in another four weeks he would enter upon his seventieth year. Naturally one had not that vim and force one would like to have. If there was anything that cheered one and tended to give one back real vigour and zest in doing certain tasks which took away health, he was sure it was to be a Bishop in the Church of England. He did not want to say that was the greatest and best diocese in the world ('The Provost: 'It is'), but there were certain characteristics which it had which were of very great value. He had had a good deal of experience of diocesan life, but he never knew a diocese where both clergy and laity, as far as he could say, were so undivided. They were not cut up into little cliques or partisan bodies who would not meet one another and who only referred to one another's utterances to condemn them.

Speaking as their president, he thought they had a very enthusiastic body of ringers, and, what was a delightful and to him a new experience, they had a considerable number of lady bellringers. 'I hope that you will realise,' he said, 'what an extraordinary useful, uplifting and helpful piece of work it is which you do, and how people's hearts and minds and souls are attuned to heavenly things when, as it were, from the Heavens itself there comes down the call to worship, not with words but with the beauty and sonority of the bells of our parish churches. It is really a very great adjunct in church life, and would be even more so if, as you ring your bells, you pray that they who heard might come and, coming, might find their God. We clergy who have to get up into the pulpit and with ordinary words try and express the glory of being part of the creation of God, find ourselves without music, without poetry—with just prose—whereas when you take the bellropes in your hands to do your part you have the great power of music, of rhythm and the beauty of something which is almost, if not quite, supernatural, and I congratulate you on your task and on the privilege of your being bellringers Sunday by Sunday to bring people to their God. It is a great ministry, and your coming here together to-night has been a very great and joyous experience to me, and I wish you every blessing in the great work to which God has called you.'

'OUT OF SIGHT; OUT OF MIND.'

'The visitors and kindred societies' was submitted by the Provost, who referred to the death of Mr. N. Vincent, one of their hon. members, and the Rev. F. Quirk, Rector of Merrow. He welcomed the president of the Central Council and also the Master of the Ancient Society of College Youths, which dated from 1837. He was told nowadays that it was not very easy to get ringers. Bells, spires and towers did remind them, as nothing else could, of religion, and it would be a thousand pities if the bells ever became silent, so they must do all they could to get hold of young members and induce them to take up ringing. 'I don't think sometimes the clergy give all the encouragement they might do to this very important work of the church,' he said. 'The reason is that ringers are out of sight, and there is just a chance of them being out of mind. Speaking for myself and for my fellow-clergy, we really are deeply grateful, and some of my greatest friends in Guildford are those who ring in the Cathedral tower.'

Mr. Young, expressing the appreciation of the visitors, said it was a very great thing in their ringing fraternities and work that they found that spirit of hospitality and welcome to visitors. On behalf of the Society of College Youths he congratulated them on their year, and wished them success in their work. His society would shortly be celebrating its 300th anniversary, and he hoped some of the Guildford Guild would be with them at the festival they were arranging to celebrate that event. He referred to a medallion which he was wearing as Master of the College Youths, and said it was given to celebrate the 200th birthday. That night was the first occasion it had left London. His society was an ancient one, and they endeavoured to keep in touch with the old times. It was all for the good to keep in touch with the past, and he suggested that they should endeavour to do so in their own society.

MORE CO-OPERATION NEEDED.

The toast of 'The Guildford Diocesan Guild' was submitted by Mr. Lewis, who said while the Guild had every reason to be satisfied with its progress, he was sure there were still points upon which it might be improved. They were an association for the encouragement of ringing primarily as a branch of church service, and he wanted to emphasise that. He was told they had 57 towers in the diocese with peals of bells, and 41 of them were represented in the Guild. That was not a bad proportion, but only 19 of those towers were represented by their clergy as honorary members, and there was not a single clergyman who was a ringing member. That ought to be put right. It would be difficult to do, because it was difficult to teach a clergyman to be a good ringer after he had become a clergyman. Why that was so he did not know, unless it was that ringers were frightened to say to a man who wore a 'dog collar' things as plainly as they would otherwise, and one could not make a good ringer unless he had been talked to pretty plainly. 'Ringing parsons who were good ringers had nearly all been ringers before they were clergymen. Another thing was there were 16 towers represented at that dinner, yet they only had one incumbent present. That was not right, and he hoped they would put it right another year.'

'The diocesan character of the Guild implies co-operation between towers in the diocese and between clergy and laity, and I think there are certain ways in which the clergy might help rather more than they do,' he continued. 'I don't know what your experience is, but mine is that clergy in a great many towers very seldom go up the belfry steps if ever. I certainly think it would be a good thing for clergy sometimes to go up to say the belfry prayers instead of the foreman saying them, as I hope he does in your towers. Generally speaking, ringers do get practice at least once a week, though it is often rather short, and it has been said that a performer on no other musical instrument could possibly perform satisfactorily if he limited his practice to one hour a week. I don't suggest that you should ask for two or three practices a week, unless something is done to modify the sound of the bells outside the tower, but I think the clergy are sometimes a little bit offhand in this way.' Mr. Lewis said they should have their practice fixed for a certain night so that other ringers would know when to come, but it was not unknown for a clergyman to say on Sunday that there was a concert in the Village Hall on the usual night, so would they mind putting off the practice. Then with regard to peal ringing, clergy in some towers were rather shy about giving permission for peals—some were not at all shy about refusing permission or even closing up their towers altogether. If peals could not occasionally be rung in a tower there was something wrong, and it was up to the Parochial Church Council, in consultation with the parson, to see that it was put right. Some towers were closed because of the bells being too noisy outside, but that could be altered quite easily, and in most cases fairly cheaply, and it only required a little intelligent co-operation. He believed a reasonable number of peals was essential to make a ringer a really good striker.

He coupled the toast with the name of Major Hesse, a good striker, a good handler of a bell, an expert on their hanging, and one who put service ringing before all else.

SERVICE RINGING.

Major Hesse, in reply, agreed with Mr. Lewis that it was a pity they had not some of the 'fraternity of the dog collar' in the room. He felt they were not backed up in that diocese in the way they should be by the clergy. During the last year there had been 23 peals rung on tower bells and seven on handbells. There were places they should have been allowed to go to for peals, but they had not. There were Epsom, Grayshott, Chertsey and others. But it was not only the number of peals—that was a small thing—but had they progressed as service ringers? He rather doubted it. The attendances had not been so good as they might be, but they must do their utmost to improve their service ringing. There was a great deal about the Guild that was encouraging.

A vote of thanks to the artistes was proposed by Mr. Goldsmith, who mentioned that that was the first time they had had the assistance of their own members in the musical programme.

At the conclusion Major Hesse, amid laughter, let out the secret that that day was their secretary's birthday, and the company drank to his health with musical honours.

ST. MARTIN'S GUILD, BIRMINGHAM.*ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual meeting of St. Martin's Guild for the Diocese of Birmingham was held on Saturday, January 6th, at headquarters, St. Martin's Hotel, St. Martin's Lane, the Master, Mr. Alderman J. S. Pritchett, M.A., being in the chair. Apologies for non-attendance were received from Mr. A. Paddon Smith (vice-president), Mr. E. T. Allaway (auditor), and Mr. Harry Mason, the last-named wishing the Guild and all the members a very happy and prosperous new year.

Before commencing the ordinary business the Master referred to the continued serious illness of Mrs. Joseph Johnson, who had been in hospital for over three months, and expressed the sympathy of the Guild with Mr. Johnson in his trouble.

Mr. Albert Walker also referred to the premature death of Mr. F. L. C. Gibbs, of Selby Park, who was elected a member at the previous quarterly meeting, and who met with a fatal motor accident whilst on his way to the weekly ringing practice. The secretary was requested to send a letter of condolence to his relatives.

ALL OFFICERS RE-ELECTED.

Mr. F. Perrins proposed, and Mr. F. Haynes seconded, that the president and vice-presidents be re-elected en bloc, and this was carried unanimously.

The Secretary, Mr. T. H. Reeves, in proposing the re-election of Alderman J. S. Pritchett, M.A., as Master, referred to a letter he had received from him in which he stated that if the members thought that a man almost 79 could be of any use to them he was quite willing to be re-elected. He, the secretary, felt quite sure every member desired the alderman to continue as Master, and that in spite of his years he was a very real asset to the Guild and was esteemed by all. He had much pleasure in proposing his re-election, and also took the opportunity of wishing him many happy returns of his birthday, that took place on the 8th.—This was seconded by Mr. J. Johnson, supported by Mr. J. George and Mr. A. Walker, and carried unanimously.

In acknowledging his re-election, the Master thanked the members for their good wishes. Although he was almost 79 he was still younger than Mr. George, and he hoped to continue so for some years. He was pleased to know that he had been useful to the Guild, and desired to continue so. He liked to come amongst his ringing friends, and if he could assist any member at any time he hoped they would come to him.

The Master proposed the re-election of Mr. Albert Walker as Ringing Master, and referred to his many activities not only in the tower but also at various meetings and dinners, which took up a lot of his time and money.—Mr. J. George seconded the resolution, which was supported by the secretary.—Mr. Edgar Shepherd also referred to Mr. Walker's activities, particularly referring to the publicity he was giving ringing in his various lectures, and also to his kindness to every ringer who came up to St. Martin's belfry on practice nights, no matter what his degree of proficiency.

Mr. Walker thanked the members for their continued confidence, and said he had expressed a desire to be relieved of his office. His business was making increasing demands on his time, but besides that he knew there was talent in the Guild capable of taking the office. The peals rung during the year had been of quality, and included Cambridge Maximus with no bobs called, and a silent peal of Stedman Cinques on handbells. Whether as Ringing Master or not, the Guild could always rely on his services. He also referred to the Bristol Guild's dinner to be held on January 20th, and he hoped all who could would attend.

The trustees (Messrs. Tom Russam and A. Paddon Smith), the auditors (Messrs. J. Preston and E. T. Allaway), and the librarian Mr. G. F. Swann) were unanimously re-elected on the proposition of Mr. J. George, seconded by Mr. A. Walker.

THE HON. SECRETARY'S VALUABLE SERVICES.

Mr. F. Haynes, in proposing the re-election of Mr. T. H. Reeves, as hon. secretary and treasurer, said that although they did not see as much of him during the week as they would like, his business taking him away from home, the interests of the Guild in no way suffered. He attended every meeting and carried out his duties efficiently, and he hoped would continue in office for a long time.—Mr. A. Walker seconded the resolution, and said he considered it the most important office in the Guild. Those who knew the work it entailed appreciated what Mr. Reeves was doing for them. The Master also supported the resolution, and in referring to the accounts said these were kept with care and accuracy.—The resolution was carried unanimously, and Mr. Reeves, in acknowledging his re-election, said that so long as he held their confidence he would be happy to serve them.

During the evening an enjoyable musical programme was contributed by Mrs. A. A. Hughes (handbell solos), Miss M. P. Kingdon (violin solos), the Misses H. Davenport Jones, J., M. and P. Kingdon (instrumental quartet), the Misses G. and S. Harman (pianoforte and violin duet), and Mr. W. Martin (songs). Mr. T. A. Stroud was the accompanist. Members of the Guild rang a course of Stedman Caters on handbells, and a feature of the proceedings was the community singing, which went with gusto.

In presenting the accounts and balance sheet the Treasurer said he was pleased to be able to show an increased balance in hand. He also suggested that the cash in the bank be transferred to the Birmingham Municipal Bank, where it would earn more interest, and that part of the cash in hand should also be banked.—Mr. J. Preston gave the auditors' report and stated the accounts were quite satisfactory.

Mr. Walker proposed, and Mr. H. Withers seconded, that the cash in the Post Office Savings Bank be transferred to the Birmingham Municipal Bank, and that it be left to the discretion of the treasurer to bank part of the cash in hand.—This was carried unanimously.

On the proposition of the Master, seconded by Mr. J. George, it was unanimously resolved to hold the Henry Johnson Commemoration Dinner on Saturday, March 3rd, and that the Rector of St. Martin's be invited to preside. Also that invitations be sent to the Bishop of Birmingham and the Lord Mayor and Lady Mayoress.

The following new members were duly elected: Mr. Norman S. Bagworth, London; Messrs. E. Roper and John H. Wilde, of Sutton Coldfield; Messrs. John Jukes and Harold Hofton, of Solihull.

It was decided to hold the next quarterly meeting at Shirley on Saturday, April 7th.

Under the item 'any other business,' Mr. Dowling called attention to the annual meeting of the National Police Guild of Change Ringers which was to be held in Birmingham on Saturday, January 27th. Ringing would take place at several towers in the district, and a social in the new police institute had been arranged to commence at 7.30 in the evening. All ringers were invited to attend, but names should be sent to him in good time.

A hearty vote of thanks to the Master, who had travelled from Lincoln in order to preside at that meeting, proposed by Mr. Walker, concluded the business.

The remainder of the evening was given up to change ringing and tune ringing on the handbells, accompanied by Mr. Walker at the piano. Mr. Harry Withers also entertained the company with several old songs, including the famous 'Bob Major.'

MIDLAND COUNTIES ASSOCIATION.*CLERGY'S OMISSION.

The annual meeting of the Hinckley District of the Midland Counties Association was held at Croft on Saturday, January 13th, members attending from Barwell, Broughton Astley, Burbage, Earl Shilton, Higham-on-the-Hill, Hinckley, Kirby Maltory, Peckleton, Sapcote, Stoke Golding and Stoney Stanton, together with the local company and visitors from Loughborough and Rugby.

Tea was served in the school, the members being welcomed by the Rector (Canon J. Casson), who also presided at the meeting which followed.

Mr. W. A. Wood was re-elected vice-president, Mr. A. E. Rowley local hon. secretary, and Mr. A. Ballard on the committee, together with Mr. G. A. Newton, who was elected to fill the vacancy caused by the retirement of Mr. C. H. Webb after many years' faithful service.

A brief report of the year's working was given by the hon. secretary, who also expressed appreciation of the splendid support given by the clergy. He stated that fourteen meetings had been held during the year, all but one being well attended.

Rev. R. P. Farrow (Stoney Stanton) said he would like to hear more of the ringers at meetings of clergy, saying that they were seldom included amongst other churchworkers as were the choirs, Sunday School teachers, etc., when special services were arranged.—Canon Casson promised to do all in his power to remedy this important omission. Speaking as Rural Dean, he said how grateful he was to the officers of the association for the splendid work done in the district.

Ringing during the afternoon and evening reached a high standard, the meeting being a great success.

ACCIDENT AT A BASINGSTOKE CHURCH.*GALE RESPONSIBLE FOR BREAKING BELL WHEEL.

The gale on Saturday night blew a board from the window at St. Michael's Church, Basingstoke, across the frame of the 2nd bell. When the bell was pulled off on Sunday the wheel was smashed and the bell lifted from its bearings. The tenor wheel was also slightly damaged.

As a result of this accident it is doubtful if the bells will be available for the annual meeting of the Basingstoke District of the Winchester and Portsmouth Guild on January 27th, but there will be ringing at All Saints' Church.

CLERGY AND RINGERS.

A good deal has been said recently with regard to the lack of interest shown by many clergy in their ringers. At Guildford a fortnight ago and at Bristol last Saturday it was the theme of several speeches, and there is justification for what was said. The clergy as a whole do not evince that interest in the ringers which the latter have a right to expect. Of course there are notable exceptions, but we believe this branch of church activity could be materially strengthened if the clergy showed a more practical sympathy with the efforts of the ringers, and put themselves into closer touch with the work that is carried on in the belfries. Frequently, it is true, when meetings are held, the ringers hear from the pulpit some kindly words of appreciation nearly always accompanied by a homily upon answering the summons which they extend to others. We do not pretend to suggest that ringers' habits of church-going are always perfect—from the parson's point of view—although the ground for reproach is in these days far less substantial than in times gone by, but how often do the clergy, except they be themselves ringers, visit the belfry? How much effort do they make to help the ringers keep their band up to strength, and what encouragement do they give to the punctual and efficient maintenance of service ringing?

We do not ask these questions in any querulous spirit, but because we believe the clergy could, if they would, do a great deal more than is at present done to raise the efficiency of service ringing, the spirit of the ringers and even the tone of the belfry. Where service ringing is at its best is usually in those places where the ringers get the interest and consideration of the clergy. Unfortunately in many parishes the efficiency of the Sunday ringing is about the last thing that seems to matter. If the choir falls below strength it becomes the immediate concern of the incumbent and, unless he is dead to all his responsibilities, he takes steps at once to secure new voices. If the bellringers are below strength and the fact is brought to his notice, he may be sorry to hear it—but that is usually where his interest ends. If only the clergy would use their influence more in building up their bands of ringers they would, we feel sure, in many cases get much better service. If they would show members of the congregation that this is one way in which they could render practical service to the Church, they would be introducing church-going people to the belfry, instead of leaving it to the ringers to search the highways and byways for recruits in the hope of turning them into church-going folk afterwards.

This is one direction in which the clergy could help immensely; and there are other ways in which their encouragement would be appreciated. Some of these were mentioned in the speeches to which we have referred, and it is a pity that the criticisms offered cannot be brought home to those clergy who persistently neglect their ringers. The reproach which used to attach to ringers, that they did not attend church, is beginning to swing the other way, and is, at any rate equally, upon the clergy who do not visit the belfry. In many cases this neglect of the ringers is, perhaps, due to lack of thought. If the leaders of the ringers in these neglected towers would have the courage to interview the parsons and put the matter tactfully and politely to them, it is not unlikely there would be a new and better understanding between ringers and clergy which would result in more help and consideration for those who Sunday by Sunday seek to serve the Church by ringing the bells.

NEW RING OF SIX FOR STAFFORDSHIRE

TREBLE BELL ADDED AT TUTBURY.

The augmented ring of six bells at St. Mary's Priory Church, Tutbury, was dedicated by the Rt. Rev. the Lord Bishop of Lichfield, on Saturday, January 13th, when a large congregation was present in the magnificent Norman Church—one of the finest examples of its kind in the country.

Among those present were the Rural Dean (Preb. Edwards, Vicar of Stretton), the Revs. W. S. Penley (Boylestone) and A. Cole (Hannbury) and about 40 ringers from Burton, Derby, Uttoxeter, Overseal, Loughborough, Rokester, Norton-in-the-Moors, Breaston, Melbourne, Marlow (Essex), etc.

During the singing of the hymn, 'The sacred bells of England,' the Bishop, clergy and churchwardens proceeded to the base of the tower, where the Bishop solemnly dedicated the bells and unveiled a brass tablet recording the generosity of the two donors. He afterwards delivered an inspiring address. At the dedication the bells were chimed by the local ringers, and as the congregation left the church the bells were raised in peal, and a well-struck 240 of Grandsire Doubles was rung by J. H. Swinfield 1, J. W. Cotton 2, W. W. Worthington 3, R. H. Dove 4, O. Harrison 5, R. G. Lewis 6.

Upwards of 80 sat down to tea in the Church Schools, and during the evening the bells were at the disposal of the visitors, who made good use of them.

The five bells have been retuned and quarter turned and rehung with complete new fittings at the expense of Mr. H. Newton, of The Cliff, Tutbury, while the cost of a sixth bell has been borne by Mr. W. W. Worthington, of Maple Hayes, Lichfield.

Originally the tenor rope fell close to the wall, but the rope circle is now all that can be desired. The comfort of the ringers has been greatly improved by the insertion of a new floor, which forms a separate room for the clock, and has reduced the draft of rope to pleasant proportions. A further transformation has been effected by blocking up the louvres, so that the sound of the bells is modified in the neighbourhood of the church. The whole work has been carried through by Messrs. J. Taylor and Co., of Loughborough, who were represented by Mr. J. Oldham, and all present were loud in their praise as to the excellence of the work.

The bells are inscribed as follows:—
Treble.—'1833.' This bell was given to the Church of St. Mary, Tutbury, by W. W. Worthington to the Glory of God. G. Hudson, Vicar. O. V. Gunning, W. Bentley, Churchwardens.

2nd.—Tempore Joseph Willington at Ben Applebie, Wardens. 1699.

3rd.—His. Nazarens. Rex. Iydeorvm. Fili Dei. Miserer. 1699.

4th.—God Save His Church. 1699.

5th.—All Glory Bee To God. 1699.

Tenor.—Taylor's Loughboro. 1861. (10 cwt. 2 gr. 5 lb. in F sharp.)

DEATH OF MR. PHILIP SADLER.

A NORWICH HISTORIAN.

Many of the older ringers in Norfolk and Suffolk will hear with regret of the death on Christmas Eve of Mr. Philip Sadler, of Norwich. 'Philip' was the last link between things old and things new in Norwich ringing life, and was looked upon by his former comrades as a 'character,' and an amazing one too. All his life he had devoted an immense amount of time to delving for ringing history from the files of old Norwich newspapers and other likely sources, and, in close co-operation with the late Samuel Slater, of Glemsford, Suffolk, he had brought to light a tremendous amount of information of historical value of the days when the old Norwich Scholars were a power in the ringing world.

He was a mine of information about the old Norwich men—where they were born—married—buried—their occupations—the houses in which they lived—their performances and their hates. Much of all this alas! was recorded only in his memory and is now gone for all time.

It was 'Philip'—or was it Samuel Slater?—who found the record of Holt's Original, called for the first time by one of the actual ringers and not from MSS. At any time, if it was a question of food and work versus ringing history, the latter always won. He was 72 years of age, and it is good to know that he went his last long journey via St. Peter Mancroft Church, and that a muffled touch was rung on the bells there on the day of the funeral.

MEMORIAL TABLET UNVEILED AT APPLEDORE.

At the annual meeting of the Romney Marsh and District Guild held at Appledore on Saturday, the Vicar (the Rev. G. Wright) unveiled a tablet recording the half-muffled peal of Stedman Triples that was rung to the memory of the late Mr. Charles W. Player, of Stone.

After the service tea was partaken of at the Swan Hotel, the Vicar presiding, when about 50 members were present from Ashford, Benenden, Kingsnorth, Lydd, Sturry, Stone, Tenterden and Tunbridge Wells. The Master (Mr. C. W. Everett) and Mr. P. Page (hon. secretary) were again elected for the ensuing year.

BARNSELEY AND DISTRICT ASSOCIATION.*NEW RULE FOR SHIELD CONTEST.

The annual meeting of the Barnsley and District Association was held at Barnsley on Saturday week, when members attended from Ackworth, Darfield, Darton, Dawsbury, Ecclesfield, Felkirk, Hoylandswaine, Penistone, Royston, Sandal, Shelley, Wath, Wortley and the local company. The bells were rung during the afternoon in various methods, and service was held in St. Mary's Church. Canon Hone, M.A., officiated, and Mr. W. Palmer presided at the organ. Tea was partaken of at the Station Restaurant, and at the business meeting which followed Canon Hone presided. The auditor's report was accepted as satisfactory, and as there were no nominations sent in for the offices of president, treasurer and secretary, Mr. W. Robinson moved and Mr. E. Cutts seconded that the present officers be re-elected, viz.: President, Mr. C. D. Potter; treasurer, Mr. H. Chant; and secretary, Mr. A. Panther. This was carried unanimously.

Monk Bretton was accepted for the next meeting, which is to be held on Saturday, February 10th.

A motion from the previous meeting was put to the members and carried, namely: 'That any local company entering the shield contest and only having four members of their own company available shall be permitted to call on any willing financial member, whether living in the radius or not, providing they are not ringing with any other company.'

Mr. Potter moved the customary vote of thanks, which was seconded by Mr. Moxon and carried with applause.—The Rector suitably replied.

The majority then adjourned to the tower for further ringing both in Major and Minor methods, and this concluded a most pleasant meeting.

KELVEDON RINGERS' 125 EXTENTS.

During the year 1933 125 complete 720's were rung at St. Mary's Church, Kelvedon, where there are six bells, tenor 21 cwt. The methods were: Surprise: London 28, Cambridge 27, Wells 5, York 4, Norfolk 4, Durham 3, Hull 3, Bourne 2, Norwich 2, Primrose 2, Ipswich 1, Lincoln 1; Treble Bob: Oxford 14, Kent 10, College Exercise 1. Plain: Plain Bob 15, Double Court 2, Double Oxford 1.

The ringers who took part were Messrs. C. W. Burton, C. Button, J. Elliott, W. T. Elliott, W. Keeble, A. J. Mason and R. W. Pyc, who shared the conducting, F. Bennett, W. Butler, A. P. Cannon, R. Grainger, G. Green, J. Maylon, C. Mills, E. Mingay, J. Papworth, A. Saunders, J. Shepherd, F. Shynn and J. Shynn.

CHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD.*CREWE BRANCH.

The annual meeting of the Crewe Branch was held at Christ Church, Crewe, on Saturday, January 20th, and members were present from Acton, Alsager, Audlem, Barthomley, Crewe, Davenham, Lawton, Market Drayton, Wistaston, Wrenbury, Warrington, Nantwich, Northwich, Hazel Grove and Stoke-on-Trent, making the splendid attendance of 60 in all.

Ringing commenced at 3 o'clock, and a service was held at 4.30, when the preacher was the Vicar (the Rev. S. T. Stevens), who gave a most appropriate address. Tea, by kind invitation of the Vicar and wardens, was afterwards served in the Parish Hall. The Vicar extended a very hearty welcome to everybody present. Later he presided at the meeting which followed, and was elected chairman of the Crewe Branch for the ensuing year.

The following officers were re-elected for 1934: Mr. R. D. Langford, secretary; Mr. W. T. Holding, treasurer; Mr. A. Crawley, instructor; and Mr. J. H. Riding, Ringing Master. The Rev. S. T. Stevens was made an honorary member.

Votes of thanks were accorded to the Vicar for officiating at the service and for the use of the bells; to Mr. W. Dunning for playing the organ; to the wardens for the splendid tea; and to the ringers' wives for catering. The Vicar proposed a hearty vote of thanks to Mr. R. D. Langford, the secretary, for so ably organising such a successful gathering. Ringing afterwards took place on the peal of ten bells under the supervision of the Ringing Master, Mr. J. H. Riding, and touches of Plain Bob Royal, Treble Ten, Stedman Caters, Grandsire Caters, Double Norwich and Cambridge Surprise Major were much enjoyed, this happy gathering being brought to a close about 9 o'clock.

Thanks were accorded Mr. W. Edge, the towerkeeper, for having everything in readiness and for the splendid 'go' of the bells.

MINISTERS IN BELFRIES.To the Editor.*

Sir,—During the past forty years I have rung out the old year in towers up and down the country, and across the water, and never on any such occasion have I seen a minister in the tower to greet the ringers. Are they, I wonder, too busy letting the new year in at their own homes, or what?

I wonder what the ministers would say if the ringers waited outside the tower until the arrival of the minister to wish them a happy new year?

Hale.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

A number of letters on the Minor Question are unavoidably held over until next week.

Rannmoor bells, which have been restored, and to which two trebles have been added as a memorial to the late Mr. Sam Thomas, are to be dedicated by the Lord Bishop of Sheffield on Saturday, March 31st.

The announcement in this column last week that the reproductions of the photograph of the late Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn would be on sale at 2d. was an error. The price is 3d., and the profits will be devoted to the memorial which it is proposed to raise to the memory of the late Master of the Oxford Diocesan Guild.

There was a happy—and noisy—party at the Grosvenor Hotel, Bristol, last Saturday night, and not all the noise was created by the young men of the company, although they did their share.

One of the visitors found it necessary to do a good deal of furniture moving when he got to his bedroom at 2 a.m. Incidentally in the process he disturbed the rest of the occupant of the room beneath, who had retired at a respectable hour.

Certain other gentlemen would like to know who was responsible for their 'apple pie' beds. Surely not the ladies in the party?

WHAT THE EDITOR MISSES.

A remark passed at breakfast time last Friday morning in the home of two well-known ringers:—

'I think the Editor misses a lot of enjoyment in ringing.'

'Why?'

'Well, he doesn't have "The Ringing World" to look forward to on Fridays.'

SOLD OUT!

The first edition of the Central Council's illustrated booklet on 'Hints to Instructors and Beginners,' which is published at 2d., is practically sold out.

Another edition is in the press, and those who have not already obtained copies should order at once from the hon. librarian (the Rev. B. H. Tyrwhitt Drake, Walsoken Rectory, Wisbech, Cambs).

The booklet is one of the most valuable and practical ever issued by the Council, and its price has been fixed so that it may be placed in the hands of every ringer.

CLAPPER 'FLIGHTS' AND THEIR EFFECT.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—When first I took an interest in bells there were many old peals about in which there were long flights below the ball of the clapper. I have seen some as long as fourteen inches. Why did the old bell hangers put them there, and why have they now disappeared?

The old bell founders, such as Rudhall and Bilbie, turned out excellent bells that sang out loud and long, and the long flights were necessary to do the same work as dampers in a piano, and prevent the bells from howling.

In the mid-Victorian era bell founding became almost a lost art; that is to say, good bell founding. The bells lost their proper proportions, and were made shorter, and there was very little breath in them. The long flights were no longer necessary, and were very inconvenient to the bell hangers, as they required larger pits for all the bells, so the present short flights were introduced.

In the 'Nineties' I used to ring on a peal which had very long flights, and, in the belfry, we could hear the bells as clearly and distinctly as if one were tapping the changes on a piano. The peal was rehung in a new frame with modern clappers, and now it is difficult to pick out one bell from another—they howl.

I should dearly love to hear one of our new beautiful rings treated in the old-fashioned manner. I believe the result would be glorious.

OUNDLIE PARISH CHURCH BELLS. RESTORATION COMPLETED.

The ring of eight bells at Oundlie Parish Church is to be reopened on Wednesday, January 31st, at 7 p.m., with a service of thanksgiving, to which ringers are invited. There will be ringing after the service.

The bells were dismantled by Messrs. Taylor and Co., of Loughborough, and taken to their foundry at the beginning of November last. The bell chamber was then thoroughly cleaned, and the timber framework and other beams in the tower thoroughly scraped and treated with creosote. The window openings in the spire were fitted with copper wire guards by Messrs. Furso, of Nottingham, to protect the bell chamber from access by birds, and the leadwork in the tower windows reinstated where necessary.

The bells have been tuned and fitted with new clappers proportioned to each bell. New wheels, cast-iron headstocks, ball bearers, stays and headstocks have been provided, and the timber framework strengthened at the joints with heavy steel angle plates. The total cost of the work will be approximately £380, of which about £345 has been raised up to date. The work of restoration and rehanging was completed last week.

BRISTOL UNITED GUILDS' DINNER.

MORE CRITICISM OF THE CLERGY.

The Davies' Memorial Scheme.

With each passing year, the annual dinner organised by the Bristol United Ringing Guilds grows in interest and importance, and on Saturday it achieved a new distinction in having as the principal guest the Lord Bishop of Bristol, who has been newly appointed to the diocese, and who had this first opportunity of coming among the ringers. The event drew a considerable number of visitors to Bristol, more than a dozen making the journey from Birmingham, and there were parties also from London, Sheffield and elsewhere. The chief attraction of the afternoon was a visit to the restored church of St. Mary Redcliffe, where the fine ring of twelve bells were available, and there was a conducted tour of the magnificent building, which ranks as one of the finest examples of perpendicular architecture in the country. 'Tea and bun' at St. Thomas' Parish Room provided opportunity for social intercourse, after which ringing on the ten bells at St. Nicholas' Church occupied the time until the party assembled at the Grand Hotel, where a large company sat down to dinner under the presidency of Mr. Frank Skidmore, this year's chairman of the United Guilds. He was supported by the Lord Bishop of Bristol (Dr. Woodward), Mrs. Skidmore, Mr. E. H. Lewis (president of the Central Council), Mr. G. W. Fletcher (hon. secretary of the Central Council), Mrs. Fletcher (hon. secretary of the Ladies' Guild), Mr. E. Alex Young (Master of the Ancient Society of College Youths), Canon G. R. Wood (Cold Ashton), Mr. S. H. Wood, the Rev. G. W. L. Wynne (Holy Nativity, Bristol), the Rev. J. E. Staley (Stapleton), the Rev. Wells (Mangotsfield), the Rev. M. Paterson (St. Thomas'), Canon E. J. and Mrs. Phillips (Coalpit Heath), the Rev. W. G. Heber-Thomas (St. Stephen's), Dr. Alexander, the Rev. and Mrs. Beddoe (St. Werburgh's), the Rev. F. S. Lee (St. Ambrose), the Rev. J. Lloyd (Henbury), Mr. S. G. Riches (vice-chairman) and Mr. A. J. Blackwell (pro-vice-chairman). Among those present were Mr. A. Walker (Ringing Master of St. Martin's Guild, Birmingham) and Mrs. Walker, Mr. J. T. Dyke (hon. secretary, Bath and Wells Diocesan Association), Mr. J. W. Jones (hon. secretary, Llandaff and Monmouth Diocesan Association), Mr. J. S. Goldsmith (hon. secretary, Guildford Diocesan Guild), Mr. W. H. Prescott (Bath), and ringers from the Bristol towers and other churches in Gloucestershire and Somerset. The excellent arrangements for the gathering had been carried out by a committee, consisting of the officers of the Guild with the stewards, Messrs. W. Knight, F. G. Leaker, J. G. Jeffries, W. H. Thomas, H. Way, Mrs. F. G. Leaker and Mrs. F. Skidmore, Mr. P. C. Williams (hon. treasurer) and Mr. Edgar Guise (hon. secretary), and Messrs. J. A. Burford, J. Gould, H. Pring, F. T. Jewell, D. J. Marsh, B. Jones and W. S. Emery.

During dinner instrumental music was contributed by Miss B. Plummer, Miss J. Brown and Miss E. Haskins.

MORE CLERICAL INTEREST WANTED.

The Chairman prefaced his speech in proposing the toast of 'Church and State' by remarking that it was a very great honour to preside over such a gathering as that. They all met with one intent, with that most important idea of 'brotherhood,' and he trusted that those gatherings from time to time might be the means of making new and lasting friendships and renewing old acquaintances. The activities of the B.U.R.G. had culminated annually in that splendid gathering, and the entire success was due to the organising powers of their secretary, Mr. E. Guise, backed, of course, by the enthusiasm of numerous supporters from all over the country. It was very pleasing, he added, to see so many of their clerical friends there that night. Continuing, he said that all sections of the Church and State were to-day looking for some solution of the many problems they have continuously to tackle. The chief amongst these was, of course, 'world peace,' without which we could not follow the teaching of Christ. It was in this direction that the Church could do so much to help the State; but to enable her to be some force she had to get the full support of the people nationally and parochially. It is not an atom of good to talk to an empty church. They must encourage the people to come by offering something which appealed. The thing which to his mind would do so much toward filling the churches was to give the people something modern. The old ways were undoubtedly having to 'take a back seat.' For confirmation of this they only had to look at churches which broadcast services, and they found them full.

With reference to bellringers and the Church, he did not think there was sufficient interest taken by the clergy in the activities of their ringers generally. He could tell them of more than one exception to this, and in these cases the band of ringers was more keen and in consequence more efficient than where that indifference was shown. The parson really owed a debt of gratitude to his ringers, and if he realised it there would be better bands and more likelihood of obtaining fresh material to help fill the empty belfries.

In conclusion, the Chairman said he felt that they in Bristol were very fortunate in having such a man as their recently appointed Bishop as leader in Church matters, and he sincerely hoped that the Bishop would support in his official capacity the ringers' service to the Church whenever the occasion arose. One thing he (the speaker) would like to see was that an efficient practical person should be elected to the Diocesan Advisory Committee, to give his advice on matters of bellhanging and bell restoration, which, he was sure, would oftentimes be the means of saving time and money to parochial church councils. The present system often spelt disaster through lack of practical knowledge (applause).

RINGERS' GRUDGE AGAINST THE CLERGY.

The Bishop of Bristol, in replying to the toast, took the opportunity of saying on behalf of the Church how really grateful they were to the ringers—although he confessed they did not often show it—for the very real service which they rendered to church work. As one who had been an incumbent, he felt that what their chairman had said was not entirely undeserved. He was afraid they were rather apt to forget that little body of faithful servants who climbed the stairs into the tower and rang the bells which summoned people to church. In a parish in which the clergy took a real and live interest in their ringers they got far more faithful service than they would otherwise do. He hoped he might be able to do something to encourage those clergy who have peals of bells in their church towers to think a little bit more than they sometimes did of the work which the ringers were performing. He could imagine that the ringers sometimes felt a little grudge against the clergy who, when the ringers had spent their time in summoning the people to church, spent half an hour or more in driving them out (laughter). That was not entirely the fault of the clergy. It was not given to everyone to have the eloquence of Demosthenes or the attractiveness of, say, Mr. Lloyd George, but they did their best and did it wholeheartedly. The Bishop continued that they must adapt their message to the new age. They could not expect young people to be satisfied with the message of fifty or a hundred years ago and which had so little relation to the vastly altered conditions of our own time. He hoped the clergy would do their best, by reading and thinking, to keep abreast of the times and do what they could to help people to see how, out of the welter and confusion of these days, something better might come. That was their task. The Bishop went on to acknowledge that he had no practical knowledge of bellringing, his only experience, he remarked amid laughter, being when as a small boy he unobtrusively rang a door bell and ran round the corner to escape the irate householder. He added that he shared with the Bishop of Gloucester the honour of being joint president of the Diocesan Guild. He did not know whether they could have a duet on the bells, but he thought it would be an interesting occasion to see the Bishop of Gloucester and the Bishop of Bristol ringing together a peal on the bells or as many of a peal of bells as two people could ring (laughter). It might perhaps attract a crowd (laughter). In conclusion, his Lordship congratulated the ringers on the obvious signs of life which that gathering displayed. He was glad to feel that in this department of church work as in other departments of church work in Bristol there was far more life than he used to find in London (applause).

GLoucester AND BRISTOL'S LEAD.

Mr. J. S. Goldsmith, in submitting 'The Gloucester and Bristol Association,' reminded the company that the association was the first to adopt a diocesan title and thus become closely identified in their work with the Church. Since that time, just over 50 years ago, many others had followed the example in the choice of name, and all the associations and guilds had emulated the example of Gloucester and Bristol in drawing closer to the Church in their work. He thought the time would eventually come when this alliance would be general and that throughout the country all their important ringing organisations would be on a diocesan basis. That might mean the eventual breaking up of some of the larger county associations, but he felt that anything which brought about the greater realisation of the diocesan spirit in their ringing affairs was much to be desired. The Dioceses of Gloucester and Bristol were fortunate in the possession of a wealth of peals of bells, for there were no fewer than 207 rings in the area, including, with the completion of Tewkesbury, five rings of twelve, a number possessed only by London and Yorkshire. This large number of towers gave them great opportunities, but it also involved responsibilities. He believed they had about 140 towers in which there were ringers who were members of their association; that was a result with which they might well be gratified, but he hoped they were not satisfied, for there were some areas which were not yet fully tapped. Nevertheless, they had achieved a great result in the work begun by the late Rev. C. D. P. Davies. He congratulated the association on having carried to a triumphant issue the scheme for raising a national memorial to Mr. Davies. Such schemes were always a venture of faith, but the association had successfully achieved its aim. Mr. Goldsmith referred to the Bristol United Ringing Guilds as the centre and core of the Gloucester and Bristol Association, and spoke of the work which had been done by the officials of the two organisations. He paid a tribute to the great energy which Mr. Guise had for many years displayed as hon. secretary of both, and to the deserved honour which had been paid to Mr. Gould in his election as Master after long and loyal service to the association.

CO-OPERATION OF CLERGY NEEDED.

Mr. J. Gould replied to the toast and stated that the new bells for the Davies Memorial had arrived at Tewkesbury. The association had raised the sum of £271 18s. 6d. towards the memorial, of which £75 had already been paid to the Abbey authorities towards the chapel. There were, said Mr. Gould, a number of towers in the diocese which had no ringers who were members of the association, and there were some towers without ringers at all, while there were other towers where the bells were in bad going order or not safe to ring at all. As to the remedy, they must have the co-operation of the clergy and the church councils. They must stir up the interest of parishioners to have their bells put in order and then to get young men interested enough to learn ringing, while, where they had ringers, they should use their influence to persuade them to join the association. It should be the aim of every band to keep its numbers up to strength, although he knew it was difficult for a tower captain in a country village to keep up a band of ringers. If he wanted regular Sunday service ringing, he had to be constantly teaching young pupils to handle a bell and to hold the rope in the right way—and then, perhaps, after weeks or months of endeavour, one, two or perhaps all the learners would take up something else for a pastime and a fresh start had to be made. Mr. Gould went on to ask the members to support the branch officers by giving them every encouragement and assistance by attending the branch meetings and by sending in their contributions regularly. In conclusion, Mr. Gould expressed the association's gratitude to Mr. Guise for his untiring work and interest in the association.

Mr. S. Riches proposed the toast of 'The Central Council, its Affiliated Societies and the Visitors.' He spoke of the advantages which ringers got through the work of the Council, particularly from its publications. It was also doing good work in connection with the B.B.C., one result of which had been that they had got English bells introduced into the New Year's Eve programme. The Central Council deserved the unanimous support of every ringing organisation in the country (applause). Mr. Riches went on to refer to the work of the associations and guilds throughout the country and the importance of developing the social aspect of their activities. They had a big task before them in encouraging the provision of ringers in all the towers, and especially was the task difficult in the big cities. It was, however, a work which they ought to tackle, and as associations they should do all they could to stimulate the interest of young men in the art of ringing. Mr. Riches welcomed the visitors, who had come among them from many parts of the country, and welcomed the clergy who had joined them on that occasion.

DEATH OF MR. R. E. GROVE.

We much regret to record the death of Mr. Richard E. Grove, of Kidderminster, a pioneer of change ringing in Worcestershire, who died on January 18th, at the age of 74 years. It was under his leadership that the celebrated Kidderminster company entered the realm of Surprise ringing in 1892, and became one of the finest bands of ringers in the country.

A MIDDLESEX ASSOCIATION 'FAMILY PARTY.'

RINGERS FEATERNISE AT HOUNSLOW.

It was with some trepidation that the responsible officers of the South and West District of the Middlesex County Association embarked upon the plans for a supper and social last year. Their anxiety was unnecessary, however, for a successful function was the result. At their second venture the chief problem appeared to be whether similar support could be given again. The answer was that the accommodation secured was insufficient! Next time it would appear that this will be the vexed question. The attendance of over a hundred was an increase of one-third on the previous venture.

The bells of Heston and Hounslow ringing merrily on the 13th of this month gave the public notice of something unusual. The reason, of course, was the bellringers' beanfeast. 'Instead of a monthly meeting, let's all go drinking and eating!' So after the bells were finally set up, the ringers turned their steps to the Red Lion at Hounslow. After the company had been sorted out by the hon. secretary (no easy task in the crowded circumstances), supper was served (and we did not have to wait for our liquid refreshment while the errand boy found his lamp wick, as on a previous occasion!).

The Vicar of Heston (the Rev. G. Craggs), who took the chair at short notice, gave the loyal toast. He then proposed 'Continued Prosperity to the Middlesex County Association' in a brief and witty speech. In appreciative remarks about his own ringers, he humorously referred to those nice little places where he was taken when he accompanied them on their outings. He thanked members of the association for their labours and wished them every success in their work.

The toast was drunk with much enthusiasm.

Mr. O. T. Coles, joint hon. secretary, replied, prefacing his remarks with a brief but interesting history of the association and of those societies from which it grew. He apologised for the absence of the president (the Rev. W. P. Cole Sheane), who was ill and unable to leave his bed, but who sent his good wishes for a happy evening. Their chairman, who had filled that position at the last minute, was to be thanked most heartily for his remarks about the work of the association. Mr. Coles said that when they reviewed their past history and present position, they could fairly say that they had done as much for ringing in and around London as anyone. He congratulated the South and West District on their enterprise in holding this function. That it was appreciated was shown by the attendance that evening. He thanked the Supper Committee, viz., Messrs. Chandler, Gladman and Goodfellow, for their work in organising the supper, and Mr. Lewis, of Heston, who had presented a cake. This and a basket of fruit were to be drawn for to help defray expenses.

Incidentally, when the draw was made later in the evening, Mr. Coles had both winning tickets! He refused to be greedy, however, and a member of the fair sex was eventually possessor of the cake.

Mr. F. W. Goodfellow, joint hon. secretary of the South and West District, apologised for the somewhat cramped conditions, but hoped that all enjoyed the supper and would enjoy the programme to follow. He read letters of apology from the president and Mr. Goodship, of the North and East District.

The tables were then cleared and proceedings commenced with a well-struck touch of Grandsire Triples on handbells. Mr. Joe Herbert then led some very enthusiastic community singing. Miss Bradford and Mr. Bray, the latter accompanied by Miss G. Craven, gave instrumental items on the pianoforte and violin respectively. Mr. Tom Collins sang one of his famous songs about 'the small trunk, the large trunk, etc.', while Mrs. Humphries, Miss Bradford and Mr. Herbert all contributed vocal items. Messrs. W. H. Coles and Goodfellow sang a duet, and not one catcall was heard! An excellent touch of Stedman Triples was rung on handbells as well as some popular tunes. The change ringers were Messrs. Barker, Belcher, Herbert, Roberts, Turner and Wilson, and the 'musicians' Messrs. Barker, Goddard and Herbert. The various items were all well received, and Miss Bradford helped in no small measure in her duties as accompanist. Dancing was indulged in at intervals, and several games, under the leadership of Mr. Gladman, were very popular. Altogether the evening passed too quickly, and what could be described as a jolly family party concluded with 'Auld Lang Syne' soon after 11 p.m.

SHROPSHIRE RINGERS' DEATH.

On Thursday, January 11th, the death took place of Mr. Edward Woodvine, a regular ringer of Malins Lee, who was also churchwarden for the past three years. Deceased was a member of the Shropshire Association and passed away at the early age of 40 years, leaving in bereavement a widow and four children.

The funeral took place on Monday, January 14th, a fully choral service being conducted by the Rev. E. Parry, assisted by Mr. F. Harris, lay reader. The 'Dead March' was rendered on the organ by Mr. I. Morris, organist, and the handbells were rung over the coffin. Two 720's of Grandsire Doubles were rung on the church bells as the mourners were leaving the graveside.

In the evening a quarter-peal of Grandsire Doubles 10½ six-scores, each called differently (arranged by Jasper Snowden), was rung with the bells muffled in memory of the deceased by the following ringers: A. H. Whalley 1, W. Saunders (conductor) 2, A. E. Buttery 3, A. Woodvine 4, C. H. Watts, sen., 5, G. L. Talbot 6.

WOODBIDGE BELLS RESTORED.

TRANSFORMATION IN A SUFFOLK TOWER.

On the road to Yarmouth, some eighty miles from London, lies the ancient market town of Woodbridge, which is built on the side of a hill. Towards the summit stands the historic Parish Church of St. Mary, with its magnificent tower rising to a height of 103ft. and dominating the town.

The church itself is reputed to have been built by Lord John Sea-grave in the reign of Edward III., and the tower was erected probably in the middle of the fifteenth century.

For many years the eight bells had been on the 'sick list,' or, at any rate, the frame and ringing gear were all confirmed invalids, and the day arrived when Messrs. Gillett and Johnston were instructed to attend the patients and restore them to ringing order.

A new massive frame of low side A castings on a heavy grillage of steel girders now replaces the unstable wood frame, and a drastic alteration in the level of the bells has been brought about by fixing them 17ft. lower in the tower.

THE TOWER OF WOODBRIDGE CHURCH.

The fittings are the last word in modern improvements, such as cast-iron headstocks, ball bearings, and all those accessories which transform ringing from hard work to a labour of love and light duty.

The bells themselves have been skilfully tuned, thereby producing a remarkable improvement in the peal, which is in the key of D. The tenor weighs 25½ cwt., and the total weight is 97½ cwt.

The inscription on No. 3 runs, 'Strike me and I'll sound sweetly,' whilst all the bells were cast in 1799 by Thomas Osborn, of Downham Market. It is interesting to note that this ring of eight, together with the ring of 10 at St. Mary's, Bury St. Edmunds, where the tenor is of a similar weight, are the only two complete peals in the county of Suffolk by this founder.

Four of the Woodbridge bells were cracked in the crown, and for the sake of their unique history it was decided to repair them by the Barimar welding process.

Under the old conditions a too lofty ringing room was disfigured by sundry weight shafts from the clock and old chiming machine. It was desirable to remove these intruders—but where! for the clock and chime machine room was about to disappear owing to the lowering of the bells, and a mere space of 4ft. to be created in its stead between the belfry and the ringers. On the other hand the ringing room would seem to be in danger of invasion by the clock and the chimes!

Ingenuity, however, solved this problem of 'multum in parvo.' The clock has been fixed on joists in the ringing room well clear of the heads and arms of the ringers, and the chime machine has been hoisted on high to take a bearing on the old bell frame which has not been disturbed. A new floor has been inserted to form a ceiling to the ringing room at a convenient height, and all the weight shafts but one have disappeared.

The cost of rehanging the bells has been defrayed by an anonymous donor, whilst the Rector has borne the expense of restoring the old machine to render tunes familiar to the older inhabitants of Woodbridge as a thankoffering for the twenty-fifth anniversary of his ordination.

The bells were rededicated on Sunday, Jan. 14th. The Rector (Rev. R. B. Dand) preached an interesting sermon at morning service dealing mainly with the story of the restoration of the bells. The text was 1 Corinthians xiv., 10, 'There are, it may be, so many kinds of voices in the world, and none of them is without signification.' There were certain experiences, the Rector said, that predominated in the memory of a man's life. It might be the sound of a brook or some scene associated with his childhood. The sound of a peal of bells might well leave an indelible impression, and so it was with their own bells at Woodbridge, whose absence had meant such a void in the daily life of the parish. They were going to celebrate that day their rededication, and he could not express fervently enough his deep appreciation of the bounty of that anonymous donor who had so readily responded to his appeal to have their fine old peal rehanged and restored to the parish once more.

In the afternoon, even the porch of the church was crowded, for so many people attended the service of dedication. The fine tower had been mute for over a year, until that day, when the sound of celebration swept out from its belfry on a boisterous wind.

The Right Rev. M. H. Maxwell-Gumbleton, Assistant Bishop of the diocese, the Rector (the Rev. R. B. Dand), Canon H. R. Wilkinson, and the Rev. H. Drake (Rector of Ufford, and hon. secretary of the Suffolk Guild of Ringers), took part in the service, and the congregation included a number of old ringers, among them Mr. W. King, from Tattingstone, who used to ring the tenor bell at Woodbridge 40 years ago, Mr. C. King (late of Hasketon and now of Great Bealings), and Mr. Newson, of Woodbridge.

Bishop Maxwell-Gumbleton spoke of the influence of bells—how they inculcate habits of punctuality; how in mediæval times church bells were supposed to have the power to dispel evil spirits, as represented by the grotesque figures and gargoyles on a church. Years ago, said the Bishop, a wayfarer was lost in the Fen country near Cambridge. His position was dangerous, but he was saved by the church bells, the sound of which enabled him to reach Cambridge. He was so grateful that he gave a sum of money on condition that every night at nine o'clock the bell of Great St. Mary's Church, Cambridge, should be rung to guide persons who might be in a similar predicament.

The dedicatory rounds were rung on the bells by Messrs. G. N. Blake, G. A. Freeman, A. S. Woodard, T. S. Edwards, G. Warner, W. J. Woodruffe, and F. G. Woodruffe, conducted by Mr. C. J. Trotman.

The lament in some places that youth is not stepping into the breach to carry on the art of change ringing does not apply to Woodbridge, for most of the ringers at St. Mary's are very young men, and the way in which they acquitted themselves at the inaugural ceremony after a year and a half's lapse of ringing in the tower is a fine testimony to the leadership of their captain.

In olden times ringing was apparently not the only pursuit of the belfry, for a tablet announces that 'W. Fosdike went up and down this steeple seven times in 27 minutes in the 67th year of his age, March the 15th, 1753.'

The oldest peal tablet is for 'A peal of Bob Major on November 23rd, 1789,' and the last peal recorded is one of 'Double Norwich on April 11th, 1896.'

Immediately after the service there was rung a well-struck 672 of Grandsire Triples, conducted by Mr. C. J. Sedgley, of Ipswich, the Ringing Master of the Suffolk Guild, by the following: W. Ward (Ufford) 1, G. Blake (Woodbridge) 2, F. Fisher (Ufford) 3, R. Brundle (Ipswich) 4, F. Woodruffe (Woodbridge) 5, C. J. Sedgley (Ipswich) 6, C. Bailey (Leiston) 7, C. Fisher (Ufford) 8.

Visiting ringers were present from Forest Hill, Sproughton, Ipswich, Leiston, Stowmarket and Grundisburgh, also Mr. Cyril Johnston (Messrs. Gillett and Johnston) and Messrs. Adcock and Newson, of the bellfoundry staff.

The visitors, who subsequently took part in ringing before the evening service, were entertained to tea by Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Trotman, and the company were welcomed by the Rector and addressed briefly by Mr. Sedgley, Mr. Trotman and Mr. Cyril Johnston in response to the complimentary remarks of the Master of the Guild concerning the bellfounders' work.

Everyone expressed themselves as delighted with the splendid results of the Croydon firm's achievement and their admiration of a first-class engineering piece of work.

The absence of vibration in the tower was very noticeable, and the sound both inside and outside the belfry has been reduced to just those proportions that should suit the convenience of the ringers and the neighbourhood alike.

Dear Sir,—I was glad to see, in the article in your issue of Jan. 12th on Woodbridge bells, that you carefully refused responsibility for the accuracy, or otherwise, of it. On three occasions recently I have been told by non-ringing friends of the marvels in Woodbridge tower, and, after questionings, I found that a letter in the 'East Anglian Daily Times,' written by the hon. secretary of the Suffolk Guild, was the source of this wonderful news.

Mr. Drake tells his readers that Woodbridge eight, Coventry ten and Bury St. Edmunds ten were 'three rings of super-eminent excellency left us'; that Woodbridge is 'still the proud possessor of the finest old ring of eight bells in existence,' and that after they were cast (1799) apparently a period of desolation set in, and nothing to boast of came out of a bellfoundry for a hundred years.

I think all this requires a good deal of salt. How many rings—old or otherwise—are the 'best in England'? I have heard of many, and so has everyone else. And age—Colchester and Thetford, comparatively nearby, beat Woodbridge easily, and should have been mentioned if such a point as age was being stressed. Mr. Drake's letter gives the layman the impression that Woodbridge possesses an exceedingly venerable ring of bells, when really it has nothing of the sort.

But the 'lost art' is the last straw! How does Mr. Drake explain away, for instance, the ring at Diss—cast in the same foundry as Woodbridge, but 33 years after the 'desolation period' had set in? If Mr. Drake thinks Woodbridge the better ring of the two, he is welcome to his opinion!

'OLD RINGER.'

CLOSER TIES WITH THE CHURCH.

Interest in the subject to which we referred in this column last week—the relations between clergy and ringers—has not only been reawakened among the latter in many parts of the country, but in the area in which it originated on this occasion a section of the clergy, at any rate, has been stirred up from the publicity given to it by the local Press. Since the speech made by the president of the Central Council at Guildford, at least two prominent clergymen have made public references to it. They showed sympathy with the object which was urged in the speech, but, not unnaturally perhaps, retaliated with the argument that ringers were partly to blame. It is at least something gained if the clergy are prepared to discuss the ringers' claim to more consideration, for the whole point of the contention from the belfry is that it has been too often ignored.

Last week we summed up, not unfairly we hope, the ringers' case against the parsons, and we believe that the conditions of which complaint is made are not restricted to any particular areas, but are common to most counties and dioceses. At the moment we do not think that Diocesan Guilds can claim to be in any better relation to the clergy than the county associations, but it seems to us that the diocesan link gives ringers' organisations a greater claim upon the consideration of the clergy, despite the fact that county associations have the same objects in view. We believe that a great deal more ought to be made of the diocesan nature of the work than is at present done, even by Diocesan Guilds. We believe also that the future of church bellringing, and with it the art itself, is dependent upon its becoming more and more an integral part of church work and organisation. As a secular occupation it would stand little chance if, as is not impossible, a concerted attack were made upon church bellringing by those societies—of which there are many—who are anti-everything. But as a recognised part of the Church's organisation, with all the weight of the Church to defend the usage of church bells, the future practice of the art would have bulwarks strong enough to resist any attack, short of such as would sweep away the Church itself.

The importance of this phase of the question cannot be overrated. There seems at present little desire on the part of some of the county associations even to change their names, but we are of the opinion that they might well consider this action as a first step to a still closer unity with the Church. The Middlesex County Association (which already has 'London Diocesan Guild' as its sub-title) is, however, contemplating making an alteration; and last year the Essex Association decided to take a referendum on a proposal to become the Chelmsford Diocesan Guild. The vote has not yet been taken, but when it is there seems good reason why the members should decide for diocesan status. There would be no complications in this case and, except that there may be among some members a reluctance to part with the old title, there seems nothing to lose and everything to gain. Anything that will tighten the bonds between ringers and clergy, between ringing organisations and the church, makes for the future security of change ringing as a living art.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

SONNING DEANERY BRANCH ANNUAL MEETING.

Members of the Sonning Deanery Branch of the Oxford Diocesan Guild foregathered in force at Wokingham on Saturday, January 20th, for their annual meeting.

Ringing was carried on prior to the service in All Saints' Church, which was conducted by the Rev. Gordon Kenworthy, Rector. In his address (from Ezekiel 47, the vision of the temple stream), the Rector first voiced his great pleasure at welcoming the ringers to All Saints', especially in view of all they did for the clergy and for churchpeople and of the devotion and regularity of their service, for which he thanked them. He knew something of the skill required, of the art of bellringing, of the steady perseverance, the giving up of leisure time; also of the joy that came as Sunday by Sunday they rang out their call from God.

Tea followed in the Church House, All Saints' parishioners providing a warm and generous welcome to the visitors. Miss A. H. Walker was in charge, and her assistants were Mrs. Ward, Mrs. Wigmore, Misses Baker (2), Finch (3), Hatwell, Granside and Wescott. Col. H. I. E. Palmer, Mr. W. Houlton and others carried out the duties of carvers. Among those present were the Revs. Canon Anderson (Rural Dean), A. P. Carr (St. Sebastian), F. D. Browne (White Waltham), R. D. Weller (Finchampstead), Mr. A. J. Wright (hon. treasurer of the Guild), Mr. R. T. Hibbert (secretary), Churchwardens Goddard and J. C. Hammond, etc.

The handsome festival cake, kindly given by Mrs. P. O. Watson, of Cantley, with its sugar icing and tiny bells, was much admired.

Mr. W. J. Paice (branch secretary) spoke with feeling of the absence of their chairman (Canon G. F. Coleridge) as the result of his accident. He would specially voice their feelings when he wrote to the Canon an account of the present meeting, and would tell him how sorely they missed him and were longing to know that he would soon be restored to health again (applause).

Mr. Fred Dentry was voted to the chair and expressed grateful thanks to Miss Walker and her friends for the excellent tea. Canon Anderson then proposed a comprehensive vote of thanks to the two Wokingham Rectors for the use of their bellfries; the Rector of All Saints' for taking the service and for his appropriate sermon; the hon. auditor, Mr. O. Goddard, and all who had helped to the success of the gathering were also mentioned. The Rural Dean also emphasised how much they missed Canon Coleridge, and recalled his splendid spirit and the way in which he always spoke to them.—The vote was carried by acclamation.

The Rev. G. Kenworthy thanked them for their appreciation and said he had much enjoyed their visit.

The Chairman, with feeling, recalled the decease during the year of the beloved Master of the Guild, the Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn, of whom he was sure Canon Coleridge would have spoken. The work and interest he had in the Guild were wonderful, as were the love and esteem every member had for him. He was always ready to attend any meetings, and especially the branch annual meetings, where he would, had he been there, have given them words of encouragement for the great work he had so much at heart. The Chairman also referred to the death of Mrs. Robinson, whose late husband (the Rev. F. E. Robinson) was for so many years Master of the Guild.

At the call of the chairman, the meeting stood in silence for a time in memory and respect.

The secretary then read a warmhearted letter from Canon Coleridge, expressing his regret and good wishes to everyone (applause).

The balance sheet, with £9 2s. 5d. surplus, and a branch restoration fund of (now) £5 19s. 6d., as well as the secretary's report of the year, were passed. The latter showed a membership of 25 honorary and 144 ringing members, and the report referred to the loss of the Master of the Guild and to the removal of Canon Long, who had always been their very kind friend. Col. H. I. E. Palmer, Mr. O. Goddard and Mr. H. E. A. Wiggott had become hon. members, and these they welcomed (applause). The secretary thanked the foremen of towers and the members for their continued support.

The following officers were elected for the year: Chairman, Canon G. F. Coleridge; hon. secretary and treasurer, Mr. W. J. Paice; Branch Committee, the foremen of the towers; representatives to the Guild Committee, Messrs. F. Dentry, J. Mofh, J. Rance and J. White.

Recommendations from the Branch Committee were passed as follows: (1) That one half-yearly meeting be held instead of quarterly meetings; and (2) that combined practices be held on Wednesdays and Saturdays as before.

Mr. A. J. Wright reported that the Guild was maintaining its position financially. He also congratulated the branch upon its excellent officers and work.

Mr. R. T. Hibbert, who had recently seen their chairman, brought an encouraging message from him. Mr. Hibbert appealed for the Jenkyn Memorial Fund, and gave some good advice to young ringers. An honorarium of three guineas was voted to Mr. Paice with a warm expression of appreciation of his services as hon. secretary.—Mr. Paice expressed his thanks.

The secretary took orders for photos of the late Master at 3d. each. The Rural Dean thanked Mr. Dentry for presiding, and thus concluded the business.

FIFTY YEARS OF PEAL RINGING.

MR. GEORGE WILLIAMS CELEBRATES A JUBILEE.

An interesting anniversary was celebrated on January 17th at Soberton. Exactly 50 years earlier, on January 17th, 1883, Mr. George Williams rang his first peal at this little Hampshire village. The event, at that time, was probably of minor importance, for the real object of the occasion was the first peal on the bells, which had recently been augmented, and the first peal in the county by the then young Winchester Diocesan Guild. To raise a change ringing band two counties had had to be combed, and the peal was rung by G. H. Barnett (Farnham, Surrey) 1, G. Williams 2, J. Hewitt (Gosport, Hants) 3, F. Hill (Fareham, Hants) 4, W. Marks (Leatherhead, Surrey) 5, T. Newham (Winchester, Hants) 6, S. Brooker (Leatherhead, conductor) 7, J. Weaver (Winchester) 8. The method was Grandsire Triples and the time occupied 3 hours 5 minutes. The peal is commemorated in the tower by a stone tablet, which also bears the names of the Rector, the curate and the churchwardens of that time and the name of the captain of the local ringers, Mr. G. H. Child. With the exception of Mr. Williams, all those whose names appear on the tablet have passed away.

Since that peal was rung much ringing history has been made, and in the making of it George Williams has played his part. Throughout his long ringing career Mr. Williams has accumulated a big list of peals, his total is now just over 1,350, but his services to the art of ringing are not to be measured by the number of peals he has rung. Without the slightest reflection upon any of the great ringers, past or present, we have no hesitation in saying that no one has done more to help and encourage young ringers than has Mr. Williams. In his earlier days, when the famous band which rang at St. Peter's, Brighton, between 30 and 40 years ago, was in the heyday of its success, Mr. Williams was one of the most brilliant conductors the Exercise has known, but then, as now, he was just as ready in and never happier than when helping a beginner through his first peal of Grandsire or a struggling company through a touch or their first peal in some simple method. Grandsire or London Surprise—it is all the same to George Williams. He expects a high standard of ringing, but he is always ready to make allowance for the failings of the beginner and to help him to overcome them.

At the age of 76 Mr. Williams leaves the 'heavy end' to others, but his almost uncanny ability to strike any bell perfectly, his keenness and mental alertness is in no way impaired, while his physical fitness is something which many men 20 years his junior may well envy.

It was not unnatural that Mr. Williams should be anxious to celebrate the jubilee of his first peal, and what more fitting than to do so with a peal at Soberton? So a 'Wednesday afternoon' band was got together and the peal was rung: Holt's Ten Part in 3 hours 5 minutes—the same bells, the same method, the same composition, the same time, and Mr. Williams ringing the same bell!

Afterwards, over the teacups, a pleasant hour was spent together by the ringers, full of reminiscences which were a reminder that the conditions of ringing have vastly changed in these last 50 years.

Those who, to-day, are 'spoon fed' with their instruction, or who find their Surprise ringing available for the asking, have no conception of the difficulties which confronted the aspiring recruit in the 'Eighties,' when few country bands could ring even Grandsire Triples, and peals were few and far between. To men like George Williams, who spend their lives striving to spread the art and lift it to higher standards, the ringers of to-day owe far more than they will, probably, ever realise.

RECEIVE A PUDSEY WELCOME.

As time rolls on the generosity of the Pudsey company to the Leeds and District Society remains as great as ever, and once more on the occasion of the monthly meeting on Saturday, January 20th, the welcome to Pudsey was as cordial as ever. The bells were rung up about 3 p.m., and ringing continued until 9 p.m. Tea was taken in relays at the Park Hotel, where, later in the evening, the business meeting was held.

The president was in the chair, and members were present from Armley, Batley, Bramley, Birstall, Burley, Calverley, Drighlington, Earlsheaton, Felkirk, Headingley (St. Chad's and St. Michael's), Idle, Leeds Parish Church, Northowram, Rothwell, Shipley, Tadcaster and the local company.

Six new members were elected—Messrs. F. Armitage, of Burley; J. Hogg, of Leeds Parish Church; D. Smith, of Felkirk; R. Lancaster, F. Addison and H. Clayton, of Tadcaster.

The President proposed that the best thanks of the society be accorded to the Vicar and churchwardens of Pudsey for the use of the bells, and also to the local company for their splendid generosity in providing tea and refreshments.—This was seconded by Mr. H. Grimwood and carried, Mr. J. Proctor replying on behalf of the Pudsey company.

The secretary desires that all members travelling to Ripon on Saturday for the Yorkshire Association meeting shall ask for a special ringer's ticket, at the reduced fare of 3s. return (from Leeds).

THE LATE MR. EDWIN GIBBS.
MEMORABLE PEALS RECALLED.

Mr. Edwin Gibbs, whose death at Crayford we recorded in our issue of Jan. 19th, was a native of Eye, where he learned to ring. He migrated to London as a young man at the time that John Cox, Geo. Newsom, Henry Dains, Henry Haley, Jas. Pettit, Matthew Wood, Challis Winney, Ezra Carter, Edwin Horrex and others were making ringing history. With these men Mr. Gibbs did his part, and among many peals he rang with them was 8,099 Grandsire Caters at Westminster in 1876, conducted by J. W. Cattle; 8,896 Treble Bob at Highgate in 1877, conducted by George Newson; and 11,111 Stedman Caters at Fulham in 1883, conducted by James Pettit. He was a member of the St. Paul's Cathedral band for many years.

For the past ten or twelve years he had been crippled with rheumatism, and had been bedridden since he came to Crayford four years ago, but his interest in ringing had never waned. On many occasions he forgot his breakfast when his 'Ringing World' and the meal arrived together, and on more than one occasion has the writer had to go and read the 'riot act' to the newsagent if he had forgotten to deliver it to time.

Edwin Gibbs was a most lovable man, and to spend an hour with him was something to look forward to. Those Sunday afternoons that the writer has spent with him since he has been at Crayford have been most enjoyable. His mind and his wonderful memory were as clear as ever they were right up to the end.

The last visit was on Christmas Day, when Mr. Gibbs talked of the times when he and George Newson used to have to walk home from Highgate to Walworth where they lived, after peals and practice, and many other experiences of those days, just as if they were yesterday. He was then his old self, and had every appearance of going on for a long while, but a fortnight later his heart began to give out, and he quietly passed away on January 13th.

On that day a peal had been arranged at Crayford for his old friend, Mr. F. E. Dawe, to call. Just before the start the sad news was received, so the bells were muffled, and the peal rung to his memory. It was very fitting that Mr. Dawe should conduct the peal, as they rang together in the 11,111 at Fulham 50 years ago as well as in many others.

The funeral took place at Crayford on Tuesday, January 16th. In addition to the family mourners, the following ringers were present: Messrs. C. F. Winney, J. E. Davis, T. H. Taffender, H. Hoskins, E. Butler, of London, and T. Groombridge, jun., H. E. Audsley, W. E. Bond, E. Barnett and Miss Redpath, of Crayford. After the committal a plain course of Stedman Triples was rung on handbells over the grave by E. Barnett 1-2, T. H. Taffender 3-4, C. F. Winney 5-6, T. Groombridge, jun., 7-8. As the mourners were leaving, the whole pull and stand was rung on the tower bells by C. F. Winney 1, T. Groombridge, jun., 2, T. H. Taffender 3, H. Hoskins 4, J. E. Davis 5, H. E. Audsley 6, E. Barnett 7, Miss M. Redpath 8.

LONDON COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

SOUTHERN DISTRICT AT 'ROCHESTER ROW.'

The annual meeting of the Southern District was held on Saturday, Jan. 20th, at St. Stephen's, Westminster. This is a very fine church, known to a previous generation as 'Rochester Row,' and doubtless deeds were here done on the splendid peal of eight (tenor 24 cwt.), by Mears and Stainbank, some 30 or 40 years ago. Records in the shape of peal boards tell what stores of energy these 'Rochester Row chaps' must have had. Some of that band are, happily, still with us, and some of their favourite methods were rung at this meeting, viz., the standard methods and Surprise up to and including London.

Tea was taken in the Napier Hall, Vincent Square, the number sitting down being 26—oh! and a half (Frank), of whom more, perhaps, in ten years' time.

At the business meeting the secretary was able to produce a very satisfactory balance sheet, also a pleasing resumé of the year's work. It was, he said, generally admitted to be the best in recent times, and the average attendance had gone up to 28 as compared with 19½ last year (laughter).

The officers were re-elected and a vote of thanks passed to the Vicar (the Rev. S. Shepley Smith) for the use of the bells, and to Messrs. Carter, Carter and Kemp for the splendid welcome and arrangements for the visitors' welfare, comfort and enjoyment, Mr. J. Carter briefly responding.

Some tunes were rung on handbells by Messrs. Ellingham, Goddard and Herbert, and Grandsire Triples by the same, plus Mr. F. Hawthorne. This having driven the remainder back to the steeple, the bells were going again till 8.30. Some 45 members and friends attended during the afternoon and evening from a wide area, and the gathering was graced by a number of the fair sex.

RINGING IN NEW ZEALAND.

In distant Dunedin, in the south island of New Zealand, Mr. J. S. Wilde is 'keeping the flag flying' with a small handbell band. They meet regularly for weekly practice and occasionally knock off 720's of Plain Bob, Kent, and Oxford Treble Bob Minor. On December 7th, at Mr. Wilde's residence, 9, Balmoral Street, Onoho, they rang 720 of Court Bob Minor: J. S. Wilde 1-2, Charles Wilde 3-4, Joseph Whippy (conductor) 5-6.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION. NORTH AND EAST DISTRICT ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual meeting of the North and East District was held at Edmonton on Saturday last, a bright afternoon bringing a good attendance of members, some 60 of whom put in an appearance. Ringing commenced punctually at 3 o'clock, under the guidance of the District Master (Mr. A. W. Coles), who gave everybody present ample opportunity of ringing the method they desired.

A short service was held, conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. R. C. Evill), who, in his address, gave the members a cordial welcome and some good advice.

Tea was served in the Institute, presided over by the Vicar, who was supported by Mr. W. Pickworth (vice-president), Mr. W. H. Oram (hon. treasurer), Mr. G. W. Fletcher (hon. secretary, Central Council), Mr. J. Parker, Mr. W. H. Hollier, Mr. G. R. Goodship, Mr. W. Pye, etc. After a meal which was much enjoyed, the business meeting was held, at which the chair was taken by the vice-president. Various routine matters were disposed of, the balance sheet, showing a credit of £6 10s. 6d. on the year's working, with cash in hand of £41 7s. 2d. and stock of £73 13s. 8d., was adopted.

Four new members were elected, and the whole of the retiring officers, Central Committee, auditors and trustees re-elected.

The proposal to alter the title of the association, which had been referred to the districts at the last annual general meeting, and which may come up for final decision at the next annual general meeting, was mentioned by the hon. secretary, but no decision was arrived at.

Mr. W. H. Hollier proposed that a letter be sent to the Bishop of London congratulating him on having attained his 76th birthday and wishing him many more years of health and happiness.—This was seconded and carried.

The very serious accident which recently happened to the young son of Mr. George Kilby, one of the association's most useful and respected members, was referred to, and it was resolved that a letter of sympathy be sent to Mr. and Mrs. Kilby, with an expression of hope that their son will recover. Raymond Kilby, who is 14 years of age, and who is well known to members of the association, was knocked down on the pavement by a skidding motor lorry whilst on his way to school, and received injuries which almost terminated his short existence. Whilst he is not yet out of danger, it is comforting to hear of an improvement in his condition.

It coming to the knowledge of the members during the meeting that one of the foundation members of the association, Mr. F. Pratt, of Hendon, had recently passed away, a vote of condolence to his

DURHAM AND NEWCASTLE DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

There was an excellent attendance of ringers at the meeting of the West Tyne Division, held at Newburn on Saturday, January 13th, when members of the following towers enjoyed the ringing: Newcastle Cathedral, Chester-le-Street, Newton Hall, Benfieldside, Whickham, Newburn and Blaydon.

The Vicar (the Rev. G. E. O. Jackson) visited the belfry with his wife and extended a hearty welcome to the ringers. He hoped, he said, it would not be long before they returned again, as this was the first visit made during his 14 years as Vicar.

Tea was served at the residence of Mr. J. Swan, a local ringer.

After returning to the tower, Mr. Storey moved a vote of thanks to the Vicar and churchwardens for the use of the bells, and Mr. Sheraton voiced the thanks of the members to Mrs. Swan and her helper for the excellent tea they provided.

GRANDSIRE TRIPLES IN AMERICA.

KENT SCHOOL BOYS RING LONGEST TOUCH.

The Kent School Guild, Connecticut, U.S.A., rang their longest touch recently. This was on Sunday, December 17th, for morning service, when they brought round 644 Grandsire Triples: T. Terry 1, A. D. Bosson 2, W. Abbe 3, I. J. Attwater (conductor) 4, R. L. Westlake 5, R. B. Abbe 6, S. M. Wheelock 7, R. Davies 8. For practice on handbells, 336 Grandsire Triples was rung by H. Van Rensdaler 1-2, I. J. Attwater (conductor) 3-4, A. D. Bosson 5-8, S. M. Wheelock 7-8. This is also the longest length on handbells by this year's band. Mr. I. J. Attwater is the instructor of the band and is officially attached to the staff of the school.

relatives was passed, and, to show their respect, all present stood in silence for a few moments.

St. Giles-in-the-Fields was chosen for the next annual meeting of the district.

The Chairman proposed a vote of thanks to the Vicar for his address at the service and for the use of the bells, and to Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Fletcher for making arrangements for the meeting. He also expressed regret at Mrs. Fletcher's absence through a severe cold.—The Rev. R. C. Evill acknowledged the thanks of the members, saying that it gave him much pleasure to see so many ringers present, and especially to see such a large proportion of young ringers. He wished the association every success.

Afterwards the bells were kept going until after 9 o'clock in a great variety of methods, to suit all tastes and abilities, the peak being reached with a well-struck touch of Spliced Surprise Major in four methods.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

His many friends on the Central Council and in ringing circles in the Midlands and London will learn with deep regret of the bereavement of Mr. A. Paddon Smith, for 20 years hon. secretary of St. Martin's Guild, Birmingham. Mrs. Smith died on Saturday and was buried at West Bromwich on Tuesday.

Mr. C. L. Routledge took part in a peal of Cambridge Surprise Major at Newcastle Cathedral last week. It is just over 50 years since he rang his first peal—one of Kent Treble Bob Major at North Shields on January 1st, 1884.

January is only just out, but already this year peals have been rung in three new Surprise methods: Leatherhead at Leatherhead, Surrey; St. Albans at Bushey, Herts, and Chiltern at Egham, Surrey. What would ringers 30 years ago have said to such 'goings on'?

The restored and augmented peal at Rammoor, Sheffield, in memory of the late Mr. Sam Thomas, is to be dedicated by the Lord Bishop of Sheffield on Saturday, March 31st, at 3 p.m.

We regret that owing to pressure on our space several reports of meetings and other contributions are unavoidably held over.

The rededication of the bells at Brixham, Devon, took place on January 24th. Messrs. Gillett and Johnston have added two trebles, recast one of the other bells and tuned the rest. A report of the opening will appear in our next issue.

WOODBIDGE BELLS—AND OTHERS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—A letter which appeared in your issue of January 26th from 'Old Ringer' leaves one with the impression that the previous remarks of the Rev. Herbert Drake are not to be taken seriously. On the contrary, Woodbridge bells have always been considered a very fine eight, and although the statements of Mr. Drake and 'Old Ringer' bear a certain amount of truth, they are neither accurate. The eight at Woodbridge were cast by Thomas Osborne in 1799, and those of the Norman tower at St. James Cathedral, Bury (not St. Mary's, Bury), were cast by the same founder 14 years previously. Woodbridge were in the key of D, 26 cwt., while the Norman tower are D flat, 30 cwt. The Rev. H. Drake means that Woodbridge bells are one of the finest of THEIR KIND in existence in Suffolk.

Ringers with a knowledge of bells will certainly wink at the remarks by Mr. Drake when he says that a period of desolation set in just afterwards and the quality of bells deteriorated. There are a few peals that were cast after Woodbridge, and I leave it to those who know them for judgment.

The very fine peal at Diss were cast at the same foundry as Woodbridge in 1832 by William Dobson, who succeeded Osborne. They are similar in tone to Woodbridge and in the same key, but only 23½ cwt. The Downham Market foundry cast bells on the same principle as Miles Gray. They were large bells, but thin, consequently giving a soft but mellow tone.

Returning to 'Old Ringer's' remarks on Colchester and Thetford. Neither of these towers are in Suffolk, and I imagine the Rev. Drake knew what he was saying, because he was speaking of Suffolk alone. And I presume 'Old Ringer' is referring to age when he says Colchester and Thetford beat Woodbridge easily. For grandness there can be no comparison, as Colchester St. Peter are only 20 cwt. in E by Lester and Pack, 1763, while Thetford are only 18½ cwt. in E by Osborne. There are numerous peals in the Eastern Counties by Osborne, with the exception of one or two bells in each peal, after Woodbridge were turned out, and it is my opinion there are more good peals in existence, that were cast in the 19th century, than there are bad ones. Almost every ringer who has heard Woodbridge and Helmingham states they are almost identical with each other, the latter being cast by Mears in 1815 in E flat, 19½ cwt. There really is a close resemblance with the exception of that half-tone. (Perhaps the Rev. H. Drake has never heard Helmingham.) St. Gregory's, Sudbury, are by Mears, 1821, 16 cwt. in F, with the exception of the tenor, cast by Pack and Chapman, 1774. The back ten at Yarmouth are by Mears, 1807, 30 cwt. in C sharp. St. Nicholas', Lynn, are by Taylor, 1869, an excellent little peal, 19 cwt. in F. Wells, Norfolk, also by Taylor, 1890, 16½ cwt. F. sharp. Wisbech St. Peter were put up by Dobson, 1823, a nice peal of ten, 21½ cwt. in E flat.

While looking through old notes about peals of bells in the Eastern Counties I find there are numerous rings of 19th century bells far superior in quality to the 17th and 18th century stuff, and I shall be pleased to supply details to any who care to ask for same.

Seriously, I wonder whether the Rev. H. Drake and 'Old Ringer' are really good judges of a peal of bells. I once heard Mr. Drake state that Grundisburgh (my old home, by the way) were a pretty peal of bells. Messrs. Roberts, Pye and a few more who ought to know a bell when they hear one, asked me whether they were made with rubber or wood!

All the same, Woodbridge were a 'grand peal,' and I daresay they are even better now. I must hear what my friend Challis Winney has to say about them.

THE CLERGY AND RINGERS.

COMMENTS ON CENTRAL COUNCIL PRESIDENT'S SPEECH.

General interest has been aroused among ringers throughout the country by the speech made by the president of the Central Council at the Guildford Diocesan Guild's dinner with regard to the attitude of many clergy towards those who ring in the church towers. A good deal of prominence was given to the matter by the local Press, and clergy in the Diocese of Guildford have certainly taken notice of it.

Preaching to the Guildford District of the Guildford Diocesan Guild on the occasion of the annual meeting on Saturday, the Rev. D. Railton, Vicar of Shalford (a parish in which the happiest relations exist between the incumbent and his ringers), referred to the subject. His text was from Psalm xix., verse 4: 'Their sound has gone out into all lands and their words unto the ends of the world.'

The preacher said that from the little experience he had gained from coming among ringers, he realised that if he had been among bands of men like them before he was ordained he would have felt the spiritual significance of what they associated with bells more than one did at that time. The president of the Central Council had told them that it was difficult to teach a clergyman to become a ringer after he had become a clergyman. The reason why that was so he did not know unless it was that ringers were frightened to say things to a man who wore a 'dog collar' as plainly as they would otherwise, and one could not make a good ringer unless he had been talked to 'pretty plainly.' That statement by the president, said the preacher, could be put in quite another way, although, of course, it could not be applied to any of those present. They might often with justice say: 'It is difficult to teach a bellringer to become a good churchman after he has become a bellringer. One does not know the reason, unless the clergy are frightened to say things plainly to the ringers, and a good churchman cannot be made without plain talking.'

The preacher added that the clergy ought to be willing to take more interest in the ringers than some of their brethren took, and he believed many of them would, in the sense of becoming members, except for this one reason: The ringers themselves rightly set a very high standard in regard to regular attendance. There were many things in a parish at which a clergyman had to turn up, and if he was a ringer and could only turn up once in five or six times on practice nights, he would be of no use to the keen ringers. That, he believed, was one of the fundamental reasons why the clergy participated so little in ringing, but the more he saw of the ringers' art and heard of it, the more he realised that if everybody in church work set as high a standard as the ringers did on their art, it might mean that they would have fewer workers, but their work would be more real. He hoped that what had been said on the subject would do something to help the clergy face up to this matter, and he hoped, if he might say so with great respect, that there would be with them no occasion when it could be said, as a working man once said to him in another parish, that religion was really humbug, because he knew some of the people supposed to be religious who did not even worship. When he was asked what he meant, the man said that the ringers went and rang the bells and then disappeared and did not go in to worship. He (the preacher), therefore, asked the ringers to make their work more and more real. He believed they might be challenged very severely in the near future upon the very existence of things they held most dear, and one of their greatest safeguards was in gathering men together in worship and prayer and mutual discussion on religious matters. He believed that through the belfries of this country alone, if they had no one else to help them, they would still maintain the great cause of Christ.

RINGERS' OPPORTUNITY.

Preaching at Farnham on the previous Saturday to the Farnham District, Canon E. M. Girling, the Rector (who was formerly Vicar of Leiston), made a suggestion that ringers should wear some distinctive badge, with, if possible, a cross of some kind.

Continuing, Canon Girling said he would be glad to see the bell-ringers affiliated to the C.E.M.S., and he did not see that it was insuperable to form some kind of affiliation between those two bodies. Referring to the recent bellringers' dinner at Guildford, the Rector said that, according to the Press reports, there had been a good deal of criticism of the clergy. It was said that the clergy did not attend the dinners or climb the tower. Fortunately there was no criticism in Farnham on either side. 'I do climb to the belfry on certain occasions,' he said, 'and we have a very happy, united body here.'

Many of them, he went on, were keen churchmen and communicants. But he heard that it was not the same everywhere. It was said that they went in by the tower door and that that was all they saw of the church. After they had rung the bells they went off with the hope that there was somebody in church as a result of their ringing. 'I have been fortunate,' he said, 'but I do hear that there are such cases. You cannot expect the clergy to take very much interest in ringers who do that kind of thing or anything like it. I think you will recognise that when you have rung others to church there is plenty of opportunity for you to come to church also. Oh, I know there are difficulties—you get hot, I know—but there are opportunities, and I am perfectly certain if you do that the clergy will be staunch in your support.'

THE CLERGY'S SIDE.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—Though this is in no way an answer to your leader of to-day's date, there is one point on the side of the clergy which should not be overlooked.

There must be many churches where, in ringing for the half-hour before service, the ringers go for a touch of 504 changes, or something of that nature. Now on a Sunday the average parson needs all the rest he can get; if he wishes to greet the ringers he has the choice of going to the church half an hour before he is due, or visiting the belfry while ringing is in progress. In the latter case the touch naturally 'goes west,' and many of the ringers will wish him elsewhere, especially if, instead of a 504, they are going for a quarter-peal. The parson will naturally notice that his presence is not welcome, and is not likely to repeat his visit.

Swanage.

J. B. M. RIDOUT.

MINISTERS IN BELFRIES.

Sir,—I should very much like to say a word concerning a letter in 'The Ringing World' of last issue, in which Mr. Cross referred to ministers in the belfry. We have at our village a Vicar very keen on his ringers. He is not a ringer, but during the 16 months he has been here he has entered the belfry every Sunday morning and shaken hands right round the belfry. Our belfry is not on the ground level, it is approached by rather a bad staircase, but the Vicar knows where the bells and the ringers are, as some of the clergy do not.

The first New Year's Eve (1932), when the ringers were ringing out the old, he was seen approaching the belfry, and after the bells were set up he wished all a happy new year and also waited while we rang in the new. This year he was unable to do so, as we could not ring owing to illness near the tower. This, I must say, is very encouraging to the ringers, and I wish a few more clergy would do the same, for this shows we are recognised as churchworkers and not just as bell-ringers.

A VICAR WHO RINGS.

Dear Sir,—May I beg a little of your space in reply to the letter in your last issue of P. Cross? I have been luckier than he, as the Vicar of Husborne Crawley (Bedfordshire) is not only waiting to greet the ringers at new year, but to 'do his bit' in helping to ring out the old and ring in the new. He also shares regularly in the Sunday service ringing.

'A HUSBORNE CRAWLEY RINGER.'

DEATH OF AN OLD CUMBERLAND YOUTH.

We regret to record the death, which took place on Friday, January 19th, of Mr. William Western Thorne, of Ockham, Surrey, who passed away at the age of 70 years.

Mr. Thorne, who was a native of Dunster, Somerset, where he learned to ring, was at one time an active member of the Royal Cumberland Youths, with whom he rang many peals in the company of George Newson, Henry Dains and other notable men of the end of last century. Nearly 40 years ago Mr. Thorne went to live at Guildford, and later became estate carpenter on the estate of the Earl of Lovelace at Ockham. From that time most of his ringing was done with the company at S. Nicolas' Church, Guildford, but his peals were few and far between.

The funeral took place at Ockham on the following Tuesday, when ringers were present from S. Nicolas' and the Cathedral, Guildford, and Cobham, with the hon. general secretary of the Guildford Guild. At the conclusion of the service a course of Grandsire Triples was rung over the grave by Messrs. A. C. Hazelden, J. S. Goldsmith, A. H. Pulling and S. Radford. Many fellow workmen from the estate were present and representatives of the Fire Brigade, of the committee of which Mr. Thorne was a member. Among the many wreaths were those from the Countess of Lovelace, the Fire Brigade and the ringers of S. Nicolas' and Cobham Churches.

OLD BEEDON RINGER'S DEATH.

Chorister and bellringer at Beedon for over 50 years, Mr. Thomas Curtis passed away in his sleep on the morning of January 8th at the age of nearly 86 years. He had lived in Beedon all his life, and had served under six different vicars.

Mr. Curtis' four sons were all ringers, and Mr. H. W. Curtis is hon. secretary of the Newbury Branch of the Oxford Diocesan Guild.

The funeral service was preceded by a requiem, celebrated at Beedon Church and attended by members of the family.

On the following Sunday a quarter-peal of Grandsire Doubles was rung with the bells half-muffled by O. E. Curtis 1, T. H. G. Curtis 2, Tom Curtis 3, H. T. E. Curtis 4, H. W. Curtis (conductor) 5, J. Wakefield 6. The ringers included three sons and two grandsons of Mr. Curtis.

NORTH WALES ASSOCIATION.

A combined practice was held at St. Thomas' Church, Rhyl, on Saturday, January 13th. Ringers from Bangor and Llandudno were present, also Mr. R. Sperring and Mr. P. Swindley from Chester and the local band. Good practice was put in in Grandsire Triples, Stedman Triples and Bob Major.

BRISTOL UNITED GUILDS.

PRESIDENT OF CENTRAL COUNCIL AND CLERICAL RINGERS.

Mr. E. H. Lewis, responding at the dinner of Bristol United Guilds to the toast of 'The Central Council, its Affiliated Societies and the Visitors,' said he was glad that the Central Council and its affiliated societies had been included in one toast, because he hoped they all realised that the Central Council was the affiliated societies and the affiliated societies were the Central Council. They were one and the same thing. If that was more generally recognised, he thought the Central Council would gain in the value of the work which it was able to do. He thanked the Bristol United Guilds for their hospitality, both in inviting them to that dinner and for the ringing they had allowed them to have. Last year he said something about the West Country striking and of the open leads which he would have enjoyed much more if they had been at hand stroke instead of at back stroke. That afternoon they had had some ringing of the kind they usually got when mixed bands joined together, and while they were ringing he looked round carefully at the ropes and found that, as far as he could judge, those who were responsible for the rough striking were those who were not handling their ropes properly. If they would spend twopence in buying the Central Council's latest publication they would see there some photographs showing how to do it and how not to do it.

On the previous Saturday he said something at Guildford about the clergy being present on such occasions as that. That morning he had received a letter from a clergyman in the Midlands who was not very pleased with what he had said, and thought he had been rather hard on what had been termed the 'dog collar fraternity.' Unfortunately last week all the clergy went away before his speech came on, and he did not have the opportunity of speaking to them, but that night he was glad to see that the clergy in that part of the world were, should he say, better mannered towards their ringers. He could say something very nice about the clergy so far as they were concerned with ringers if only there were more of them of the right sort (laughter). There had been some wonderful clerical ringers who had taken the lead in the ringing fraternity in years past, but his point was they wanted more clerical ringers, and if they wanted good clerical ringers who were good strikers, it was up to them to get them, if possible, before they put on the 'dog collar.' He suggested they should try to find out the young men who were going to the theological colleges. If they could teach them to ring before they were ordained it was likely they would be good strikers as well as good on the theoretical side.

REPRESENTATIVES ON DIOCESAN BOARDS

Proceeding, Mr. Lewis said one of the most important sides of the work of the Council was done in connection with towers, and he wished that the Central Council was more closely in touch with the various Diocesan Advisory Committees than it is. It was unfortunately very difficult to get into touch with these bodies. They looked at the Council as self-appointed experts, 'and we,' said Mr. Lewis, 'know they are self-appointed, and we know we know much more about bells than they do, while they seem to think they know more than we do, and we don't get much further except in isolated cases.' He hoped sincerely there would soon be a competent person, either a ringer or an engineer who has some knowledge of ringing, on every diocesan advisory board; or, if not actually on the board, at least attached to it, so that he could be called in whenever a bell case had to be considered (applause).

Mr. E. A. Young responded for the affiliated societies, and thanked the B.U.R.G. for the kindly reception extended to them. He was very happy to meet again so many of the old friends he knew during the years that he was hon. secretary of the Central Council. He had the honour this year to be the reigning Master of the Ancient Society of College Youths. It was one of the oldest ringing societies, and he believed they had in Bristol another old ringing society, the St. Stephen's Society, which, with the exception of the Westminster Abbey Society, was the oldest of the unofficial ringing societies in the kingdom. All these old ringing societies were in the habit of holding an annual feast, and the reason for them was that this social side knitted them together in a most wonderful way and enabled the members to know one another better. These reunions were all to the good, and whilst the Bristol United Guilds had that end in view and reinforced their ringing ideal with the social side, they would not want success (applause).

The Rev. M. Paterson acknowledged the toast on behalf of the visitors. He said he hoped when the Bishop came to St. Thomas' Church he would allow him (the speaker) to conduct him to the belfry to meet the ringers. To his fellow-clergy he would say this: If they did not come into very close contact with their ringers, if they would go into the ringing chamber and get to know their men, they would not get all they wanted, they might sometimes be disappointed, but they would get something that was worth having, they would get the respect and perhaps they would get the affection of their ringers who were men (applause).

'THE RINGING WORLD.'

Mr. S. H. Wood proposed the toast of 'The Ringing World,' and referred to recent letters which had appeared in the paper in criticism of the Editor. These letters had been, he said, most uncalled for. It was true that the Editor was responsible for the conduct of the paper, but the control of it, he submitted, both as regards price and, to a certain extent, the contents was in the hands of the ringers as much as those of the Editor. He knew that some of them found threepence a week a lot to pay, but he believed he was right in saying that if two or three thousand more ringers would become regular subscribers the price could be reduced to twopence. They might think that two or three thousand more was a lot, but it was not really so when they considered that there were 46,000 ringers in the country, and only a very small proportion of them at present bought the only ringing paper regularly. With regard to the subject matter of the journal, Mr. Lewis, speaking at that dinner last year, made a forcible appeal to ringers to refrain from resorting to personalities. He wanted to make a similar appeal that night. If ringers wanted to write to the paper, let them stick to the point of the argument. There had often been a tendency among the writers of letters to drift away from the subject they started to write about and personalities then began to show themselves. He was afraid the last case was the worst. On that occasion someone started a discussion upon the important subject of bellringing broadcasts. They had not gone very far before they had one of Mr. Goldsmith's excellent leading articles on the subject, and thereupon came a letter criticising the Editor first of all for being on the Central Council and then for being a diocesan secretary and one or two other things. That might be the opinion of the gentleman who wrote from Wellingborough, but it was not the opinion of anyone else as far as he knew. He thought he was speaking for everyone there when he said they were very fortunate in having as Editor of their ringing paper a man who by his ringing ability and by his knowledge and experience of ringing matters had earned for himself a well-deserved place on the Central Council, had made him one of the most successful diocesan secretaries and enabled him to turn out week by week those leading articles for his paper which were a delight and an inspiration to read (applause). He wondered if they all realised what kind of a mess they would be in if they had no ringing paper? Suppose Mr. Goldsmith told them that night that for some reason or other next week's issue would be the last? Where would they be, with no peal reports, no means of knowing what was happening in any other part of the country. He wondered whether they would be having that dinner if there had been no ringing paper. They might have done, but he was very certain they would not have had so many visitors from other parts of the country as they had there that night and who they were all so pleased to welcome.

CO-OPERATION BETWEEN RINGERS AND CLERGY.

Proceeding, Mr. Wood said the co-operation and understanding between ringers and clergy had improved out of all knowledge during the last 20 or 30 years, but he thought they would agree with him that there was room for still further considerable improvement. He thought the way seemed obvious, that the ringers must go more frequently into the churches, and the clergy, to get closer to the ringers, must come more frequently into the belfries. He would like to indicate one or two ways in which the clergy might do their part to further the cause of church bellringing. In the first place, they could do away completely with all paid ringing for Sunday services (hear, hear). He did not say that no ringing should be paid for. When private individuals wanted the bells rung for a wedding or a funeral they should pay for it; and on state and national occasions it was right that the ringers should be paid, but ringing for Sunday services should be purely voluntary. In the majority of cases up and down the country where the ringers were paid the ringing was generally not of a very high standard. On the other hand, ringers ought to get much more consideration than they often receive. Mr. Wood gave some instances in which ringers, having given their service for special ringing, had been neglected in the facilities which were given them for attending these functions, one instance being at the Redcliffe thanksgiving service, when the twelve ringers, who had been asked to ring, had to stand for 2½ hours through the service before ringing because there were no reserved seats for them. He contrasted this with the treatment of ringers in Glasgow while he was there, when, at the enthronement of the Bishop, seats for the ringers were reserved immediately behind those of the Lord Mayor and Corporation. Mr. Wood went on to appeal to the clergy to assist the ringers in their practices in noisy towers by taking steps to have annoyance to neighbours prevented by the proper blocking up of the louvres. He was sure a high percentage of city churches ought to be treated in this way, and the parochial church councils as well as the clergy ought to interest themselves in this. They ought also, he added, to impress on all parsons and church councils who contemplated any improvements with regard to bells that they had their diocesan advisers and that it would pay them to get their helpful advice.

The toast to 'The Ringing World' was cordially drunk, and Mr. Goldsmith briefly replied, thanking Mr. Wood for his kindly remarks and saying that, despite all the criticism, he knew that he had many friends throughout the country who appreciated his efforts to promote the best interests of ringing.

Mr. A. J. Blackwell proposed 'The Artistes,' whom he cordially thanked and Mr. C. Read, I.S.M., the accompanist, responded. The proceedings then ended with 'Auld Lang Syne.'

THE MINOR QUESTION.

Dear Sir,—There is one thing which should not be forgotten, and it is this—you cannot have the full number of true changes on any number of bells unless you finish with the same row that you started from. That is mathematical law, and no power on earth can alter it. You may juggle with words as much of you like, but if you start from rounds you cannot ring a true 720 unless you finish with rounds. That is the truth which the Exercise has always recognised from the earliest times.

I am against Mr. Banks James' draft resolution in every way. I am for seven or more true extents as the normal thing in six-bell peals, and I will support any resolution to that effect, provided that nothing is done to say that people may not ring things which are exceptions to the rule, if they think they have sufficient reason for doing so.

I will ask those people who keep talking about 720 true rows being a true 720 to tear up their paper and go into the tower and ring. Would they say they had rung a true 720 of Bob Minor if the final single was not correctly made? And, if so, what is the use of that single at all?

In the Banks James' Cambridge Minor, six of the seven 720's (considered as 720's) are false. You cannot get away from it. It does not alter the fact because they are nearly true; 719 true changes are not 720 true changes, and no casuistry can make them so. I have rung a peal of Doubles without a true six-score in it and a peal of Minor without a true 720 in it. I am prepared to justify those performances, but on the right grounds.

One more point. Because some people do not like these irregular compositions is no valid reason why they should try and prevent those who do from ringing them. I protest against any attempt to stop our younger and more intellectual members from making experiments. All the progress that has been made in ringing from the very first time has been due to experiments and the breaking of rules. And these men who have produced these irregular compositions—Mr. Banks James and his brother, Mr. Pitman, my own friend Ernest Turner and the others—are intellectually the very salt of the Exercise. We may not like all their compositions, but it is to such as they that we owe all our progress.

With reference to the point raised by Mr. Banks James, the reason why we always start with rounds—I mean the actual historical reason—is because it is the natural musical sequence in which the bells are tuned and hung. The reason why we always end with rounds (if we can) is because ringing is cyclical movement of the bells, and nothing is finished until that cyclical movement is completed. These things belong to the very fundamentals of the art. The reason Mr. James gives is only a fancy one.

J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

A CONVERSATION AND A CHALLENGE.

Sir,—I do not wish to weary you, your readers, or myself (!) with old 'hash' which has proved to be so very useless, but in view of the fact that the letter from the Rev. E. Banks James may revive the question of 'rows and changes,' the following may be of some slight interest, coming, as it did, from one who has been so insistent on the difference between them.

At tea prior to the Middlesex (Bloomsbury) meeting last year, Mr. J. A. Trollope and I drifted into argument (much to the evident amusement of our table, let it be admitted), and apropos of seven extents containing each change seven times (mark the 'seven,' please, while remembering that each extent should be 'different'), the following conversation took place:—

G. L. J.: 'Do you assert that each change occurs seven times in a peal?'—J. A. T.: 'Certainly! It should be obvious.'

'Then a given row bobbed is the same change as that row plained?'—Yes.

'Let me be certain that I get you right. When I produce 123456 from 132465 by a bob, I ring the same change as I do when I plain 123456 from 124365?'—'Decidedly! The change occurs within the row.'

'In other words, the row is the thing that counts in "truth"?'—'It must do.'

'Why, then, may I not count the first row (of rounds)?'—'You may, if you put something different in front.'

'But I cannot; rounds must be first, by "definition."—'Exactly; and, therefore, it is not a change.'

'I see. A row in one place can be a change, and in another, not!'—'If you put it in that way, yes.'

I offer no comment here—it is another's point of view, that is all; but when next the 'Middlesex group (of Majors)' are trying to straighten matters for the Minors, there is one tiny domestic point which they might bear in mind.

The Minors are required to produce the 'backstroke' of the lead end in order to establish truth in their peals. This means that (say) Norfolk Surprise Major requires eighth's-place to be made at the lead end before it may truly be called 'Norfolk,' and some years ago the Middlesex Association rang 12 Surprise Major methods in a peal, in which was included 'Norfolk with fourth's-place bobs.' I challenge any who took part in the peal, or any of the executive of this association, logically to prove on paper or in practice their right, definitely and irrevocably, to name 'Norfolk' the method as rung in that peal.

Mr. James' definition in your issue of January 19th covers what is many Minor ringers' idea of a peal, but why separate the Minor? Let the existing definition read, for ALL PEALS, 'to begin and end with rounds,' and Mr. James' end is attained. The controversy would die; his Cambridge remain, together with its like; and forgotten the Law James London and others, including such as THE TURNER KENT.

GEORGE L. JOYCE.

A QUESTION.

Sir,—The Rev. E. B. James again raises the question of peals of Minor. Before the correspondence develops I would like, with your permission, to ask him one simple question.

He states in his letter no one wants the same row coming up more than once in each block of 720. Then he goes on to suggest that each performance should begin and end with rounds. I should like to ask, does he mean that rounds at the end of the performance shall be counted as one of the 5,040 rows to complete the performance? A simple answer, 'Yes' or 'No,' will be much appreciated by Killamarsch.

C. SEVERN.

THE BANKES JAMES' ARRANGEMENT.

Sir,—With regard to the Banks James' arrangement of Cambridge Minor, quite a number of ringers fail to understand that although the 720th change or row does not come up 123456, a true 720 is rung. By a variation of the calling of the two blocks, 30 varied 720's can be had at least. Everyone must own that the Banks James' arrangement is almost on a par with Middleton's Major.

I hope when the Central Council meet again they will acknowledge such a good arrangement as that by Mr. Banks James. Generally speaking, such things come to the Exercise only at very wide periods and should be recognised on the footing that they really are only first class. These gentlemen, who put in so much time for the benefit of ringers, would not do so if they knew it was not required. I quite agree that Mr. Banks James has put the definition very plainly and one which might be adopted.

FRANK WARRINGTON.

Over, Cambs.

SUGGESTED DEFINITIONS.

Sir,—As we have not usually seen alike on this question, I wish to say at once that I agree entirely with your article on 'The Minor Question.' To it I should like to add a further suggestion, that we let the Doubles question wait till the other is settled.

I should also like to say how grateful I am to the Rev. E. Banks James for the definition he has proposed. Its great advantage over all previous proposals is that it really means what it says. I do not take any definite sides on the merits of this controversy, but I am very interested in the wording of the definitions set before us. It is no use wasting our time on proposals which cannot be of use, because they are wrongly worded. For instance, I was prepared, if any of the three proposals put before the last Council meeting had been carried, to have arranged for a peal to be rung, which would have kept the letter of the definition, but have been entirely contrary to its intention.

The difficulty of a short series of independent motions such as you ask for is that no one wants to be the first to set up an Aunt Sally for everyone to knock down. However, to get going, I will make the following proposals as a start:—

1. An 'extent' is the full number of changes which can be rung on a fixed number of bells. These changes can be expressed by rows, which are written down in a certain order.

2. On seven bells a 'peal' consists of the extent of 5,040 changes, which can be expressed by 5,041 rows, of which only the first and last, being rounds, are alike.

3. On eight or more bells a block of not less than 5,000 changes makes a peal.

4. On six bells seven extents must be rung without any break or cessation of the ringing. These extents must be true, and may be complete.

5. Every peal must begin with at least two rows of rounds, and end with at least one. Therefore, the changes and rounds in a peal of seven or less bells cannot be expressed in less than 5,043 rows, or on eight or more bells by less than 5,003 rows.

6. A peal cannot claim to consist of 'complete extents' unless each begins with not less than two, and ends with not less than one row of rounds. Therefore, a peal of seven complete extents cannot be expressed by less than 5,061 rows, of which 21 are rounds.

7. In a peal which consists of several methods, systems, or principles, these may be spliced together between blocks, but not within any block. Peals which consist of extents that do not claim to be complete may have splices between blocks, but no splice may be within a block.

I do not put forward these proposals because I agree with them all, for I do not. But they say what they mean, and do so in such a way that anyone who wants to amend them, by omitting or inserting anything, can readily do so.

HERBERT DRAKE.

THE DEATH OF MR. RICHARD E. GROVE.

LEADER OF FORMER KIDDERMINSTER BAND.

Many of the older generation of ringers will have learned with regret of the death, which we briefly recorded last week, of this fine old pioneer of Worcestershire change ringing, who died in a Birmingham nursing home on January 18th, following a serious operation, in his 75th year. He leaves a widow and two sons to mourn their loss.

Mr. Grove joined the Kidderminster band about 1885, and rang his first peal (Grandsire Triples) in January, 1887. He rang, in all, 127 peals, of which number he conducted 90. With the exception of five, all these peals were rung between 1887 and 1901, when, owing to his many activities, he found himself unable to spare the art the time he had hitherto given to it. During the period mentioned, the Kidderminster band, under his leadership, went from strength to strength, and entered the realms of Surprise ringing in 1892 with a peal of Superlative, the first in the county and by the association. This honour they also claimed in the following methods: Stedman Triples, Shipway Major, Double Norwich Court Bob Major, Cambridge Surprise Major and London Surprise Major. All these peals were rung on the bells of St. Mary's, Kidderminster, and were conducted by Mr. Grove. In fact, 76 of his peals were rung in that tower. His longest length was 7,392 Double Norwich Major at Hanbury in 1895. This was really an attempt for a long peal, but the treble man had great difficulty in keeping awake, and the bells had to be brought round. It transpired that the ringer in question had not been to bed for two days and nights.

The Burton band were one of the finest in the country at this time, but the men of Kidderminster scored over them on one occasion. A board in the tower at Coalbrookdale, Salop, records a peal of Superlative, the first in the method in the county, rung by the Kidderminster band in 1894. Mr. Grove conducted this peal from the tenor. A week or two previously the Burton men had failed in an attempt for a peal of Surprise on these bells and pronounced the tenor unpealable.

On another occasion in a peal of Double Norwich Major at Old Hill, the late Mr. A. E. Parsons and Mr. Grove were ringing the 7th and tenor respectively, but the bad 'go' of the 7th bid fair to wreck the peal. At the 5th part-end they changed places, and it was brought to a successful conclusion. Mr. Grove also composed a few peals of Double Norwich Major, and had himself called two of these.

Mr. Grove was for 30 years organist at St. Barnabas' Church, Franke, a daughter church of St. Mary's. A keen historian, his knowledge of his native town and district was considerable, and he had, in conjunction with his brother, re-written and revised the 'History of St. Mary's Church,' a brochure which his father published some years ago. Mr. Grove was a member of the Hope and Charity Lodge, 377, of Freemasons and had passed the chair.

The funeral took place at Kidderminster on Monday, January 22nd, and the bells of the Parish Church were rung fully muffled before the service and half-muffled afterwards as a tribute of respect to one who had spent so many happy hours in the tower, and who will be sadly missed in his native town.

RECORDS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—With reference to Mr. H. M. Day's enquiry whether anyone has called seven different extents (or methods) of Surprise Minor as their first peal as conductor, Mr. S. G. Coles has beaten that by calling ten different methods for his first peal as conductor. One up for the West Country. The first peal of Stedman Doubles, 42 different six-scores, starting in four different ways, was rung by Taunton ringers, making two up for the West. J. HUNT.
Taunton.

As usual, a most enjoyable entertainment, arranged by Mr. W. S. Emery and Mr. E. Guise, was given. A surprise item of handbell tune ringing was given by six boys of Christ Church Boys' Club (Clifton), and St. Thomas' handbell ringers also contributed to the programme. Songs, duets and monologues were rendered by Miss Marjorie Gordon, Mr. H. V. Spiller, Mr. Lawrence Tanner, Mr. H. F. Elworthy and Mr. Lloyd Williams. Clever carloons were drawn with lightning rapidity by Mr. Harold Poole, and a sketch was performed by Mr. C. Craddy and Mr. M. S. C. Emery.

RINGERS AND RAILWAY TRAVEL.

At intervals during the past thirty or forty years efforts have been made to induce the railway companies to offer cheap facilities to ringers travelling for bell ringing purposes, but without result until now. At long last, however, some concession has been obtained and we are happy to be able to say that the result, limited though it is, has been achieved largely through the efforts of the Editor of 'The Ringing World' and the Traffic Manager's Office of the Southern Railway. The subject had become dormant when an opportunity for reopening it occurred, and negotiations were at once entered into. The outcome is a concession to parties of not less than four travelling for the purpose of bell ringing, be it meetings, peals, or any other bell ringing occasion.

Many years ago members of the Sussex County Association were able to travel at a cheap rate when going by rail to a meeting or for a peal, but when the Central Council, in its early days, endeavoured to get these facilities extended to ringers in all parts of the country, the Railway Clearing House refused the application, and, as a result, the existing concessions were abolished. Time and again the Council and others endeavoured to reopen the question, always with the same result. In view of the facilities which were granted to certain other organised bodies, it has been a little inexplicable why ringers could not enjoy what one might term 'most favoured treatment.' There was probably more than one cause. First, perhaps, there was failure on the part of the railway companies to appreciate the amount of travelling done by ringers and, formerly, the indifference created by monopoly. Modern competition in transport, however, has caused the companies to make a much wider bid for traffic and, having been satisfied that ringers really do quite a considerable amount of travelling in the aggregate, they have now thought it worth while to try to induce more of this traffic to take the railway route.

In the case which was put before the companies, cheap facilities for individual ringers was sought. That end has not yet been fully attained, but it is something gained that at last ringers' claims to special treatment have been recognised. We doubt very much, however, whether the concessions now granted will bring any considerable new access of ringers to the railway. Ringers seldom travel as many as four together from one place, although they may meet in one centre anything from half a dozen to a hundred or more strong. The real way to draw ringers back to railway travel would be to extend the facilities to individuals, with the necessary safeguard to the companies as to the bona-fides of the traveller and his purpose. We believe that if these facilities were granted, not only would many ringers who now go by road avail themselves of the concession, but many others, who now hesitate to attend meetings because of the expense in travelling, would be induced to make journeys which they do not at present undertake—and would make them by rail because of the cheap rates.

ENCOURAGEMENT OF BEGINNERS.

A DISTRICT SECRETARY'S POINTED CRITICISM.

Some plain language was contained in the annual report presented by the hon. secretary (Mr. G. L. Grover) to the meeting of the Guildford District of the Guildford Diocesan Guild on Saturday week. After referring to the numerical strength of the district, which had 162 ringing members and 15 honorary members (a decrease on the year of four and five respectively), Mr. Grover said: The wave of enthusiasm on which the Guild was launched is, I am afraid, now no more than a ripple, and the time has come when we are faced with the problem of how to retain the interest of existing members as well as that of obtaining new ones. We have over 160 ringing members, and I often wonder what percentage of them have not rung a peal of any kind and for what reason. I intend to send a circular letter to all towers in the district asking for information as to how many members have not rung a peal, if any of them would like to ring one and what method is required, and then to bring the matter up for discussion at the next district meeting. I hope that every efficient ringer in the Guild will support this scheme if my circular meets with sufficient response. Perhaps if we can encourage some of our less keen members to take some interest in peal ringing it will be easier to obtain a welcome at towers where peal ringing is either barred or looked upon with disfavour.

SOME OF THE CAUSES.

There are many causes which contribute to the lack of interest in the Guild's activities. In many parishes there are one or two keen ringers who have reached the stage when they are able to ring practically any method after a glance at the diagram, and who are yet forced by the lack of effort on the part of other members to continue ringing Sunday after Sunday the same method. These same ringers often attend practice and service ringing at some inconvenience to themselves, only to find that some other member of the band on whose attendance they were relying has without notice decided that he has another engagement. Can these ringers be blamed for losing heart and interest and either staying away altogether or going outside their own parish for ringing? Often, going further afield regularly is impossible, and gradually keen men are lost to the Exercise.

I do not wish to suggest, however, that lack of desire to make progress is always a home-grown product in every lukewarm ringer. Sometimes perhaps a thoughtless snub by some experienced ringer checks a beginner's keenness at the start. Sometimes I think that perhaps beginners do not always get that tactful encouragement which is necessary to bring out the best in them, especially if they happen to be a little sensitive. I must say that somehow or other the impression has grown on me that very often expert ringers adopt a somewhat intolerant and scornful attitude towards their less able brethren, and although they may have good cause for feeling goaded into this attitude, it is certainly more of a hindrance than a help so far as the work of the Guild is concerned.

ONLY ONE 'FIRST PEAL.'

In endeavouring to build up efficient bands for Sunday service ringing throughout the district we must always bear in mind that but a very small percentage of the ringers can reasonably be expected to become conductors of spliced Surprise Major, and that the best that can be hoped for with most of them is that they will become fairly proficient in one or two of the simpler methods, and, what is more important, keen to perform to the best of their ability and regular in their attendance at practice and service ringing.

You will have heard from the District Ringing Master that 20 peals were rung in this district during last year, and out of all the ringers taking part there was only one who actually rang his first peal. In face of this it would be idle to say in this report that everything in the garden is lovely. I do not for one moment suggest that all our able ringers should spend the whole of their peal ringing time in struggling to get first pealers through elementary methods, but figures are figures, towers are hard to obtain for peals and there must be a remedy.

I appreciate that star performances by experts are as necessary in the Exercise as they are in all other services, hobbies, sport, art and pastimes. They set the standard which all others should strive to attain, and their brilliant performances are the driving force and centre of life of the whole Exercise. Without them change ringing would soon cease to exist, for no moderate or indifferent supporters ever kept a cause on its feet for long, as they are the type who need continually to be stirred, encouraged, led and even pushed by leaders. On the other hand, real experts form only a small part of the membership of the Exercise, and the subscriptions, interest and support of the great army of average ringers and worse-than-that-ringers are essential if the Exercise and change ringing are to survive, and your average man and those who are not up to average do not thrive long on kicks and neglect.

In concluding, may I ask all members in future to construe that object of the Guild which refers to the promotion of ringing for divine service as referring not merely to their own particular tower, but to every tower in the diocese, may I ask those who do not try or trouble to do so in future and those who do not to expect too much.

Mr. Grover also reported that since the last annual meeting the district has lost by death three founder members, namely, Messrs. C.

Burdock, W. Charman and W. Thorne, and one life hon. member (Mr. N. Vincent), and the meeting stood in silence for a few moments as a mark of respect.

The report led to some discussion. Mr. A. H. Pulling agreed with the secretary's suggestion, but said it was out of the question to make up a band of beginners and expect to ring a decent peal. It would only be an annoyance to the public.

Major Hesse, the Master, endorsed this view, and said that a lot of harm was done by bad ringing, which ought to be avoided at all costs.

Mr. R. Whittington said it did not follow that because a man had not rung a peal he was a bad striker, and Mr. Grover pointed out that he had not suggested that a band should be made up of a number of beginners.

RECRUITS MUST COME FROM THE CHURCH.

Referring to the problem of maintaining interest in ringing, Mr. Hazelden said it was due partly to the attraction of other things which had made it impossible for ringers to be recruited from the sources from which they had for generations been recruited. The cinemas, football and cricket had absorbed that. If village ringing, in the sense of a sacred art, was going to continue, it had got to be continued by churchpeople. If the congregations wanted ringing they had got to go up among the ringers and help do it. In their own congregation he saw lusty young people who let other people sing the Mass for them and ring the bells for them, and they never thought of taking a turn.

Capt. H. J. Cann believed if towers were opened to let people go up and see what happened they might be interested to help. The clergy could also help. He appealed to some of the Guildford experts to go out into the villages and give them a hand.

The election of district officers resulted as follows: Ringing Master, Mr. W. R. Melville; hon. secretary, Mr. G. L. Grover; hon. auditor, Mr. C. Hazelden; hon. members' representative on Guild Executive Committee, Mr. S. Marshall; ringing members on Executive Committee, Capt. H. J. Cann and Mr. S. Petter. It was agreed to hold district meetings during the year at Womersley and Bramley (joint), Dunsfold and Hascombe (joint), Godalming, Shere and Pirbright.

The balance sheet showed total receipts of £41 3s., including £15 16s. in members' subscriptions, and a balance in hand of £21 3s. 6d., as compared with a balance brought forward of £22 12s. 6d.—Mr. C. Hazelden, proposing the adoption of the accounts, suggested that with such a credit balance they could give assistance that would enable the district meetings to be more representative.—The matter was referred to the Executive Committee.

The Ringing Master (Mr. W. Melville) reported that 20 peals had been rung in the district in 1933, of which Mr. A. H. Pulling conducted 16.

FARNHAM DISTRICT.

At the annual meeting of the Farnham District, the retiring officers were re-elected, and the hon. secretary reported that there was a total membership of 144, compared with 155 in the previous year, the falling off in paid-up ringing members being eight and hon. members three. Each of the eleven towers in the district had a satisfactory Guild membership, Aldershot leading the way with 21 and Farnham coming next with 18 members.

In the course of his report, the Ringing Master (Mr. R. Hasled) stated that 'Ringing for Sunday services throughout the district has been fairly well maintained during the year, and I would ask members of the towers in this district to endeavour to do their best to keep this up during this year, and try to get enough ringers in attendance to man all the bells every Sunday, when possible to do so; also to pay particular attention to the striking, so as to get the best for service ringing on all occasions. I would also urge upon the captains of towers to try to get learners to take up the art, so as to keep the bands up to full strength. I know from experience that it is difficult to get recruits, but perseverance in this respect generally meets with success.'

A discussion took place regarding a proposed bell restoration fund for the district, to be formed by collections at the district meetings. The suggestion, however, found little favour, and it was agreed not to proceed with the fund.

Meetings in 1934 will be held at Frensham, Bagshot, Farnborough, Yorktown, Bentley and Aldershot, with the annual meeting in 1935 at Farnham.

Mr. G. Bryant (Farnham) and Mrs. Sargeant (Aldershot) were elected ringing members, and Capt. A. H. D. Stedman (Farnham) hon. member.

The meeting, which was attended by over 50 members and friends from 13 towers, concluded with the usual votes of thanks.

1,300 720's.

Mr. F. Warrington, of Over, Cambs, rang more than 130 720's during the year 1933, making a total of 1,300 720's since January 1st, 1925. About 400 have been Cambridge, others include London, Ipswich, York, Wells, Netherseale, Primrose, Annab's, Norwich, Beverley, Woodbine, Oxford and Kent Treble Bob, Double and Single Court, Double and Single Oxford, St. Clement's, College Exercise, Plain Bob, College Single and Little Bob spliced with various other methods.

PIRBRIGHT BELLS RESTORED.*A SURREY PEAL REHUNG.

In spite of a series of setbacks, a fitting conclusion to the restoration of the bells at Purbright, Surrey, was marked at the rededication of the peal on Wednesday evening, January 24th.

Owing to an unfortunate accident, already reported in these columns, the respected Master of the Oxford Diocesan Guild (Canon G. F. Coleridge) was prevented from performing the dedication ceremony, and the Archdeacon of Surrey (the Ven. L. E. Blackburne) kindly consented to act as a substitute. Dense fog rendered it impossible for the Archdeacon to get nearer than three miles from the village at the appointed hour, and as the Vicar (the Rev. H. S. Kelsey) was confined to bed, a 'third reserve' was found in the Rev. C. E. Sylvester, priest-in-charge at Knaphill.

The congregation was not so large as anticipated, owing to the bad weather, but, nevertheless, over a hundred parishioners and visitors, including ringers from Worplesdon and Aldershot, attended the service.

During the singing of the Magnificat, the crossbearer, officiant, churchwardens, Capt. Cann (secretary for the restoration scheme) and Mr. R. H. Dove (representative of Messrs. Taylor and Co., the bellfounders) proceeded to the tower, where the people's warden (Mr. J. R. Lempiere) handed the ropes to the officiant requesting him to dedicate the restored bells, bell frame and chiming apparatus. After the dedication the ropes were delivered to the Vicar's warden (Mr. W. Thompson) with the customary injunctions as to the use of the bells.

A board recording a peal of Minor on these bells in 1930 under the auspices of the Guildford Diocesan Guild was then dedicated, after which a few rounds were rung by the following ringers: D. Cheeseman 1, J. Avenall 2, F. W. Martin 3, J. Thompson 4, S. Petter 5, F. Cherryman 6. The ringer of the fifth was from Worplesdon and the remainder members of the local band.

The Rev. C. E. Sylvester spoke a few well-chosen words in his address, which might be regarded as a model of brevity, forcefulness and suitability to the occasion.

As the congregation dispersed a short touch of Grandsire Doubles was rung by the opening band, after which the bells were at the disposal of the visitors, and made good use of in various methods of Doubles and Minor, while many people availed themselves of the opportunity to see the bells in motion.

Through the efforts of Capt. Cann, one of the local ringers, the six bells, which were presented to the church in 1822 by Mr. H. W. H. R. Halsey, have been retuned and equipped with entirely new fittings

SIXTY-ONE YEARS A COLLEGE YOUTH.

At St. Andrew's Church, Holborn, for evensong on Sunday, Jan. 28th, a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples was rung as a compliment to Mr. Tom Benney on completing 61 years as a member of the Ancient Society of College Youths: J. S. Hawkins (conductor) 1, H. C. Alford 2, C. J. Choost 3, E. W. Green 4, E. Brett 5, T. Langdon 6, A. C. Darnell 7, W. R. Dennis 8.

TRIBUTE TO ORGANIST.

At the Parish Church, Burbage, Leicestershire, on January 22nd, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples was rung with the bells half-muffled as a token of deep respect to the late Miss A. Lord, 48 years organist at the church. The ringers were: W. J. Clough 1, J. E. Clough 2, G. Dudley 3, P. A. Aldham 4, P. C. J. Rawson 5, E. Rivitt 6, F. Measures (conductor) 7, E. Campton 8. First quarter-peal as conductor and first attempt.

VETERAN NORTHAMPTON RINGER'S DEATH.

We regret to record the death of a veteran Northampton ringer, Mr. John Mackay, who passed away on January 3rd at the age of 77 years. A member of the St. Edmund's band, he had been a regular Sunday service ringer since the bells were hung in 1884 up to the time of his illness. He rang in the first peal on the bells in 1886, conducted by the late Mr. J. W. Washbrook. He was a life member of the Peterborough Diocesan Guild and regularly attended the ringing meetings in town and country.

He was buried on Saturday, January 6th, at Kingsthorpe. The funeral service was held at St. Edmund's Church, conducted by the Rev. N. Husbands, and his ringing friends who attended were Messrs. F. Wilford, F. Harris, F. Hopper, W. Fairey, sen., A. Deacon, G. Parker, W. Parker, J. Dean, W. Ashby, J. J. Taylor, T. Law, T. Tebbutt, A. Robinson, V. York, W. Lane and Mr. A. Maule, an old friend. The bearers were Messrs. J. Metherall, H. England, T. Haynes and W. Gammage, of the St. Edmund's band, and as the cortege left the church the bells were rung half-muffled as a token of deep respect.

throughout. The old oak frame, which was damaging the walls, has been reinforced by heavy angle plates, and a stout girder and a series of steel corbels have been inserted under the main beams. The chiming apparatus has also been overhauled. The bells are now a sweet-toned peal, and the improvement in tune as well as the smooth running of the bells is an indication that the Loughborough firm has acquitted itself in its usual manner. The weight of the tenor is 11 cwt. 2 qr. 19 lb. in F sharp.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

We regret that the great demands upon our space compel us to hold over many reports of meetings, peals, etc., as well as letters to the Editor, the latter including correspondence on the Minor question and Woodbridge bells. We assure our contributors that, as far as possible, their reports and letters will appear in due course.

After a peal of Grandsire Doubles at Shirenewton, Monmouthshire, on Saturday week, the conductor, Mr. J. H. Gwilliam, was presented with a chiming clock in oak case as an appreciation of his kind efforts in teaching change ringing to the band, who are all local men. This was the second 'local' peal. To the regret of all, Mr. Gwilliam is leaving the district.

The first peal of Surprise Major in the famous tower of St. Michael and All Angels, Ashton-under-Lyne, was rung last Saturday. It was conducted by Mr. E. Jenkins, who has now rung peals of Cambridge Surprise Major, Royal and Maximus in the tower.

Mr. J. W. Pemberton, a well-known Birmingham ringer, has attained a high position in Freemasonry, having been installed as Worshipful Master of the 'Birchfield' Lodge. Alderman J. S. Pritchett attended in his official capacity of Assistant Provincial Grand Master, and had the pleasure of giving the 'Address to the chair.'

Mr. Pemberton is a master in a Sutton Coldfield Council School, and among those present at the installation banquet was the Mayor of that town, as evidence of the esteem in which he is held in his profession.

The attention of members of the Elloe Deaneries Branch of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild is called to the notice of the annual meeting to be held at Spalding to-morrow. The notice was inadvertently omitted from our last issue.

ROCHESTER SURPRISE MAXIMUS.

THE SIXTH TWELVE-BELL SURPRISE METHOD RUNG AT IPSWICH.

The first peal of Rochester Surprise Maximus, rung at St. Mary-le-Tower Church, Ipswich, on Saturday, February 3rd, makes the sixth Surprise method now rung on twelve bells, the first peal of all of them having been rung at St. Mary-le-Tower, Mr. W. P. Garrett taking part in all these 'firsts.' The veteran, Mr. R. Brundie, rang in the five first peals of Surprise Maximus. The methods are Cambridge and New Cambridge, Superlative, Yorkshire, Pudsey and now Rochester.

It is the writer's opinion that Rochester is the most musical Surprise method yet extended to Maximus, the big bells double dodging home just before bobs at M and just after the W's, the composition being arranged with numerous calls in these positions. The method was sent to the conductor by Mr. Gabriel Lindoff. G. E. S.

CLAPPER FLIGHTS.

To the Editor.

Sir,—It was interesting to read what Mr. Bankes James writes in favour of longer clapper flights. I hope some the founders will experiment with these, if they have not already done so, and will let us know the results. But let me suggest to your readers that it will be necessary to be careful in experimenting with old bells, for only this week I have been told of a bell that has been cracked through fitting too long a clapper to it. HERBERT DRAKE.

LONG FLIGHT DOES NOT GIVE BEST RESULT.

Sir,—The chief reason for the use of a long clapper flight was to make the bell clapper up the right side. Secondly, in early days there was a mania for making bells talk as loudly as possible, which is not the best means of getting the best result out of a bell outside the tower. A lighter blow makes the bell sound infinitely better.

JOHN H. B. HESSE.

SHERBORNE'S NEW TENOR.

SCHOOLBOYS HAUL IT TO THE ABBEY.

The new tenor for Sherborne Abbey arrived recently at the old Dorset town, and its conveyance from the railway station to the church was an event of stirring interest. Through streets thronged with townsfolk the bell was hauled on a trolley by ten senior boys from each of the seven houses of Sherborne School, and, on arrival at the Abbey, Major J. H. B. Hesse, who has been instrumental in raising funds from Old Sherbornians for recasting the bell, gave a brief history of the bell, for a news film.

The original bell came from Tournai, in France, and was the gift of Cardinal Wolsey. This bell was broken and in 1637 was recast by Purdue, of Clossworth. This bell was also cracked and in 1865 was again recast by Warners, of London, but in view of the tuning of the other seven of the ring, it could not be made into a satisfactory cover, and a new bell was decided on. The old bell was 45 cwt. 1 qr.; the new bell is 46 cwt. 0 qr. 5 lb.

CHEAP RAILWAY TICKETS FOR RINGERS CONCESSIONS BY THE COMPANIES.

As a result of negotiations begun between the Editor of 'The Ringing World' and the Commercial Department of the Traffic Manager's Office of the Southern Railway Co., concessions to ringers travelling for bell ringing purposes have been secured. What has been gained is not all that had been hoped for, but there is some satisfaction in knowing, after many previous attempts by the Central Council and others have failed, that at last the railway companies have recognised the claims of ringers to special treatment.

It will be seen, from the particulars set out in the letter below, that the facilities offered are only applicable to ringers travelling in parties of four or more, but they relate to all ringing occasions, and fares are quoted for day trips, trips extending from not more than three days before to not more than three days after the event (Sunday not counted), and to single journeys from point to point while on a tour.

The following letter, received by the Editor of 'The Ringing World' from the Traffic Manager's Office of the Southern Railway, sets out the concessions and conditions as far as the Southern Railway is concerned, but exactly similar arrangements apply to all railways coming under the Railway Clearing House:—

Dear Sir,—I have the pleasure to inform you the railway companies are prepared to accord reduced fare facilities, as under, in favour of church bellringers when journeying by rail in parties of not fewer than four persons for the purpose of bellringing, or to attend meetings:—

Availability of tickets.	Basis of fare.
One day.	Ordinary single fare for the double journey, plus fractions of 1d.
3 days before to 3 days after event (Sunday not counted).	Ordinary single fare and one-third for the double journey, plus fractions of 3d.
Period of tour.	Two-thirds the ordinary single fare from point to point.

These facilities will be obtainable upon application being made by the organiser of each party either to the stationmaster at the point from which the journey will be commenced, or to the nearest divisional superintendent, whose offices are in London, Southampton and Exeter.

So far as the journeys of individual ringers are concerned, advantage will, it is hoped, be taken of the extensive programme of advertised cheap day ticket facilities at about the ordinary single fare for the double journey, or of our summer ticket bookings (minimum fare 5s. third class).

As you probably know, the return availability of the summer tickets is one calendar month, which will admit of the use of such tickets for day or week-end journeys, if so desired.

Yours faithfully,

G. H. WHEELER, Commercial Assistant.

All we would add is that we hope as many ringers as possible will take advantage of the facilities offered so that the railway companies may know that their concessions are appreciated.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD. DEVIZES BRANCH MEETING.

A most enjoyable afternoon and evening was spent at Market Lavington on Saturday, February 3rd, when the Devizes Branch of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild held their first monthly meeting of the year. This excellent peal of six (tenor 14 cwt. in G) was available from 3 p.m., good use being made of them. Service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. J. A. Sturton), Miss Eldridge being the organist and Mr. O. D. Heginbotham reading the lesson. Tea followed in the Institute, to which 31 sat down.

The usual short business meeting followed, Mr. C. D. Heginbotham presiding. The Chairman struck a sad note in referring to the passing of Mr. Harry Harding, of North Bradley, stating he had been a member of the Guild since 1904, and was a staunch supporter. The members stood in silence for a few moments as a tribute to his memory.

The usual routine business having been transacted, the meeting closed with a kindly speech from the Vicar, and with touches of Triples and Caters on handbells. The members then returned to the tower. During the evening Potterne bells were available, a few members calling there on their return journey. Methods were rung up to Cambridge Surprise, and representatives attended from the following towers: Devizes (St. John's, St. Mary's and St. James', Southbroom), Rowde, Melksham, Bradford, Holt, Westbury, Warminster, Bratton, Longbridge, Deverill, Market Lavington. Mr. J. Ralph made the journey from Kington Magna, and, considering the inclement weather, this was no mean effort on his part.

POLICE MEET IN BIRMINGHAM.

NATIONAL GUILD HAS AN ENJOYABLE DAY.

The annual meeting of the National Guild of Police Ringers was held at Birmingham on Saturday, January 27th, when members present included Supt. F. R. Williams (Manchester City, Guild President), Supt. C. P. Hilton (Surrey Constabulary) and Chief Inspector Bottrill (Metropolitan Police). The following forces were also represented: Metropolitan, Manchester City, Bolton Borough, Leicester City, Leicester County, Surrey County, Reigate Borough, Northampton County, Cardiff City, Hertford County and members of the local force.

The visitors arrived in the city about 11 a.m. Several were escorted to the St. Chad's Roman Catholic Cathedral, where the eight bells were soon set in motion to the tune of Grandsire and Stedman, while others were taken to the Cathedral and rang Stedman and Grandsire on the ten bells there.

At 1 o'clock all gathered together in the Social Club Room at the new police headquarters for luncheon. Here the company was honoured by the presence of Sir Charles H. Rafter, K.B.E., Chief Constable of Birmingham, and Alderman J. S. Pritchett, Master of St. Martin's Guild. An excellent luncheon was served by the club staff and everyone appeared to be feeling pleased with himself in the midst of such palatial surroundings.

After the luncheon, the Guild President (Supt. Williams) thanked Sir Charles H. Rafter for his attendance, which, he said, was very much appreciated by the Guild members; also for granting his permission for the visitors to be accommodated at the new headquarters and for placing the social club room at the disposal of the Guild for the day. The President also thanked Alderman J. S. Pritchett for being present on this occasion, and said that the future prospects of the Guild would continue to be bright whilst such distinguished visitors showed sufficient interest to attend the gatherings.

Sir Charles H. Rafter gave the Guild a hearty welcome and was interested to know that members of so many forces met together in connection with a hobby such as bellringing. He made reference to two peals of bells which he said he could hear whilst sitting at home, and it was apparent that, although not a ringer, he understood the qualities of bells. He offered the visitors the opportunity and privilege of inspecting the new headquarters during the day.

Alderman J. S. Pritchett also welcomed the Guild to the city of Birmingham, and said it was some time since he rang a peal, but he hoped to make an attempt for a peal in the very near future.

The business meeting then followed. Supt. F. R. Williams was re-elected president and Chief Inspector W. Bottrill vice-president. Det.-Sgt. H. J. Poole, Leicester City, was re-elected hon. secretary and treasurer, and Sgt. H. G. Jenney guild auditor. The members of the committee were re-elected en bloc.

The party were then conveyed by buses to Selly Oak Church, where a ring on the light peal of eight bells was very much enjoyed. The ringing here included Stedman Triples, Grandsire Triples and Cambridge Surprise Major. The belfry is of limited capacity, and no little amusement was caused by the dividing of the party into first and second teams. The latter, comprised of youth, included Birmingham's youngster (Mr. James George).

King's Norton was the next church to be visited, and the ringing on these beautiful peal of ten bells included Grandsire Caters, Stedman Caters and Cambridge Surprise Royal.

A return was then made to Birmingham and a visit made to St. Martin's Church. The famous Bull Ring peal of twelve bells was soon set going to some Stedman Cinques. Here the party was joined by some of the St. Martin's notable ringers, including the Ringing Master, Mr. Albert Walker. At the conclusion of the ringing a return was made to the Police Social Club Room for the social evening.

A very fine programme had been arranged, and the items included songs by Miss Hilda Conner, accompanied at the piano by her brother, Mr. P. Conner; songs by Mr. Wilfred Birchall, who also sang a duet with ex-Sgt. W. Dowding; songs by P.C. Ireland, Birmingham, with P.C. Baldwin at the piano; a cornet solo by P.C. Cook, the soloist of the Birmingham City Police Band (often heard on the wireless); and tunes on the handbells by the Leicester City Police ringers. P.C. Robinson, of Manchester City, entertained with his variety items, and Mr. Harry Withers played a 'touch' of Double Norwich on the piano. A course of Stedman Cinques was also rung on the handbells.

Sgt. Jenney, of Leicester City, thanked Chief Supt. Bennett, Birmingham City, for the able assistance he had given to ex-Sgt. Dowding in carrying out the arrangements for such a splendid day, and the latter is to be congratulated upon the excellent arrangements.

This opportunity is taken to thank all those who helped in any way to make the meeting such a success.

Will members kindly note that the subscriptions for 1934 are now due.

A DATE TOUCH.

On Sunday, January 28th, at St. Wilfred's Church, Calverley, Yorks, for evening service, a date touch of Kent Treble Bob Major (1,934 changes) was rung: S. Wheatley 1, W. Popplewell (conductor) 2, W. Stanhope 3, F. Scrimshaw 4, S. Keighley 5, G. Thompson 6, G. Scott 7, W. Lee 8. Rung in honour of the 21st birthday of F. Scrimshaw. This was the longest length by the ringers of the 4th and 7th.

MIDLAND COUNTIES ASSOCIATION.

PROPOSALS TO CUT DOWN EXPENDITURE.

A quarterly meeting of the Midland Counties Association was held on Saturday, January 27th, at Earl Shilton. A large company of members and friends assembled, and the fine ring of eight was in constant demand throughout the afternoon and evening. Recently a great improvement has been made in the ringing chamber, which is a floor half-way up the tower arch. Hitherto a simple rail and curtain sufficed to enclose the room, but now a finely carved oak screen has been erected over the lower portion of the arch to the memory of the late Miss Lane, sister of Mr. 'Dick' Lane, the well-known bellhanger of Messrs. J. Taylor and Co. (who was present during the afternoon), while above the ringers worked, and gathered funds to erect, a fine oak partition with carved bosses. This gives extra room in the belfry, while the fine ceiling above has been repainted and varnished, and several other improvements completed.

The committee met at 3.15 p.m. in the schools and deliberated at length on questions of finance and new rules. To lessen the cost of printing the annual report, it was decided to omit the figures of new compositions, which have hitherto been printed at the end of each year's performances. These will be kept by the secretary in a special book. Conductors must send in these figures as before, when rung.

The new president (Mr. Wm. Willson) took the chair at both committee and general meetings in the absence of Mr. E. Denison Taylor, who is 'wintering' in a more tropical climate! Both Mr. Willson and the hon. treasurer (Mr. W. E. White) spoke at length on the financial position of the association, and put forward schemes for cutting heavy expenditure, such as rail fares to committeemen, honorariums to local secretaries, peal booking fees, etc.

All were discussed freely, and certain amendments in proposed new rules will cover some of these items.

Mr. Colin Harrison read over the proposed new rules one by one, and various amendments suggested were noted. Full copies are being prepared and will be distributed to each district for discussion and final passing at the annual meeting in Leicester on Easter Monday.

Tea was served in the schools at 5 p.m., and 67 members and friends sat down, which is a very good sign of the Hinckley District's 'liveliness.'

In opening the meeting, Mr. Willson greeted with pleasure such a good assembly, and especially noted the presence of the Rector of Earl Shilton (the Rev. E. Pillifant), the Rev. R. P. Farrow (Stoney Stanton) and the Rev. Groome-Merrilees (Theddingworth). Also Mr. 'Sammy' Coe, the famous Leicestershire cricketer, and a member of the local ringers; Mr. 'Dick' Lane, of Loughborough Foundry, also a native of Shilton. The Chairman spoke of the financial position of the association, and remarked that the past year was not a success in that direction. Many members were in arrears, and he called on them to redeem their honour and pay up to date.

The general hon. secretary (Mr. Ernest Morris) read a list of new members proposed since the last meeting, viz., 25 ringing, four re-joined, one life, nine honorary. These were duly elected.

At this juncture the Rector of Earl Shilton spoke of his pleasure in welcoming the association, and trusted all would enjoy the bells and the social intercourse of the gathering. His own ringers, under the leadership of Mr. George Newton, were most keen, and had done much hard work for the church restoration funds. They also possessed a fine handbell band, who were in many ways famous in the district, and had 'broadcasted.'

Mr. C. Harrison and Mr. J. H. Dean were chosen to audit the accounts.

The vice-president proposed a hearty vote of thanks to the local committee and the ladies for looking after them so well. This was supported by the Rev. R. P. Farrow.

While the members retired for tower and handbell ringing, the committee again assembled to finish off the question of new rules, and did not 'break-up' until after 7 p.m.

NOTTINGHAM DISTRICT TO CONTINUE MONTHLY MEETINGS.

A very successful meeting of the Nottingham District of the Midland Counties Association was held at Beeston on Saturday, January 20th, when about 25 members and friends turned up. In the absence of Mr. W. E. White (vice-president), Mr. F. S. Price was voted to the chair, and carried out his duties very successfully. The hon. secretary read a letter of thanks from Mrs. H. R. M. Hutt to the Midland Counties Association for their letter of sympathy in the loss of her husband (the Rev. H. R. M. Hutt, of Bingham). A letter was also read from the vice-president saying he was very sorry he was not able to attend, as he had other arrangements made, and also saying there was not sufficient notice given. The members, however, considered that the secretary had given quite sufficient notice, but added that he be advised to notify vice-president and committees by card also.

The retiring officers were duly re-elected, viz.: Mr. W. E. White, vice-president; Mr. F. C. Gobey, hon. secretary; Miss S. B. Thompson and Mr. J. W. Kirton, committee.

ANOTHER BELL FOR NASH.

NEW TREBLE FOR MONMOUTHSHIRE TOWER.

The Vicar of Nash, near Newport, Mon. (the Rev. R. F. R. Thomas), was able last week to tell those present at a supper, held in the Schoolroom, to which the bellringers were invited, that he hoped by Easter that at last Nash would have its ring of six bells.

One hundred and fifteen years ago five bells were installed in the tower, and until just over a year ago these had developed into a deplorable condition. Messrs. Taylor and Co. were entrusted with the restoration, which included a new frame, with provision for another bell, the recasting of the tenor and retuning of the other bells. The order has now been placed with Messrs. John Taylor and Co. to install the additional bell.

The hon. secretary of the Diocesan Guild (Mr. J. W. Jones) was entrusted with the toast of 'The Nash Bellringers,' and mentioned that for the past 40 years he had tried to get the local authorities to make it a ring of six. No practical effort was ever made until the arrival of the present Vicar. The tower had a call change band and would make no progress. Mr. Ken Knowles is now teaching a young band, who are making good progress in change ringing, and with the additional bell well soon, it is believed, make further advance. The Schoolroom was well filled and the proceeds go to the bell fund.

GLOUCESTER AND BRISTOL DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

SWINDON BRANCH ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual meeting of the Swindon Branch took place at Christ Church, Swindon, on January 27th, with a fairly good attendance. The ten bells were available during the afternoon, and a short service was held, conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. J. Gilbert).

Tea was kindly provided gratis by the ladies of the parish. Mr. E. Bishop presided at the business meeting, and the officers elected for the ensuing year were: Chairman, Mr. W. Trueman; branch secretary, Mr. W. B. Kynaston.

Good use was made of the bells during the evening, everyone being obliged with methods from Grandsire Triples to Cambridge Surprise Royal. Members and visitors were present from Rodbourne Cheney, Stratton, Blunsdon, Purton, Abingdon, Faringdon, Shrivenham, Wootton Bassett and the two Swindon towers.

MEMORIAL TOUCHES.

Halifax Parish Church ringers rang a half-muffled 720 of Kent Treble Bob Minor for the evening service on January 28th in memory of Jean B. Hargreaves, daughter of the 3rd ringer, who died on January 17th, aged 16 years: F. Bullough 1, W. Rushworth 2, L. Hargreaves 3, W. Edwards 4, R. Squires (conductor) 5, C. Sill 6.

At St. Nicholas' Church, Great Yarmouth, on Monday evening, January 22nd, a touch of 504 Grandsire Triples was rung with the bells half-muffled as a token of respect to the late Mr. Frederick Pestell, who was interred in Great Yarmouth Cemetery that day. Mr. Pestell, who passed away on January 18th, was a member of the St. Nicholas' company for about 23 years, but gave up ringing some six or seven years ago. He was 57 years of age. The touch was rung by J. Kenyon 1, A. Moy 2, J. Harwood 3, Wm. Lee 4, A. King 5, R. Topley 6, E. Kett (conductor) 7, H. Jerry 8.

At the Church of St. George, Dunster, Somerset, on Tuesday evening, January 23rd, a half-muffled quarter-peal of Stedman Triples was rung by the local band as a last token of respect for Mr. W. Thorne, of Ockham, Surrey, who commenced his ringing at Dunster Church, and who was the last surviving member of the band who rang the first peal on the bells 50 years ago. Mr. Thorne was a life member of the Bath and Wells Diocesan Guild: A. R. Tudball 1, W. Hoyle 2, W. G. Dibble 3, H. W. Lloyd 4, T. A. Elliott 5, J. Farmer (conductor) 6, J. J. Hole 7, W. Owen 8.

On Tuesday, January 30th, at St. Martin's Church, Birmingham, 1,083 Stedman Caters was rung with the bells half-muffled as a token of respect to the late Mrs. A. Paddon Smith, who was interred earlier in the day at the Parish Church, West Bromwich, the funeral service having taken place at St. James', Handsworth. St. Martin's Guild was represented by the Master (Alderman J. S. Pritchett), the Ringing Master (Mr. A. Walker) and Mr. J. George. The ringers were J. Neal 1, M. Melville 2, S. C. Holloway 3, F. E. Haynes 4, P. C. Tuffery 5, A. Short 6, E. Mansell 7, G. H. Yendall 8, W. Davies 9, A. Walker (conductor) 10.

A discussion took place as to whether the meetings were to be carried on monthly or quarterly only, and it was decided to continue with the monthly meetings, the February meeting to be held at Bulwell on the 10th if arrangements could be made.

Mr. Moss and Mr. J. Hobbs thanked the officers for their past services, and also urged that more ringers should take 'The Ringing World.' If so they would get more ringers turn up at the meetings than they had that day.

Miss Thompson moved a vote of thanks to Mr. F. S. Price for taking the chair, and this closed the meeting.

The bells were then kept going in various methods until 8.30 p.m.

A FORTHCOMING DORSET CELEBRATION. RINGERS TO MEET AT MILTON ABBEY.

The ringers of Dorset are to celebrate the 1,000th anniversary of the foundation of Milton Abbey by a meeting at this beauty spot on June 9th. The Bishop of Salisbury has promised to attend and one of the largest gatherings of its kind is expected. The proposal is the outcome of a suggestion by Mr. G. H. Jennings, hon. secretary of the Dorchester Branch, and the other Dorset branches have given the scheme their enthusiastic support.

At the annual meeting of the Dorchester Branch on January 20th, Mr. Jennings' scheme was endorsed. The meeting followed service in St. Peter's Church, at which the Rector (the Rev. A. W. Markby) officiated, and tea in St. Peter's Institute.

There were present the branch chairman (the Rev. E. S. Tarrant, Wool), Mr. G. T. White, Dorchester (Ringing Master), Mr. H. A. Runyard (Deputy Ringing Master), Mr. C. H. Jennings (hon. secretary and treasurer), the Mayor of Dorchester (Mr. R. N. Dawes), the Rev. A. W. and Mrs. Markby, Miss L. R. Clapcott (Bradford Peverell), the Rev. D. F. Slemeck (Vicar of Charmminster and Rural Dean), the Revs. A. F. Godley (Bradford Peverell), A. S. Bryant (Rector of Upwey) and C. A. Phillips (Bournemouth), and representatives from the North Dorset and West Dorset branches.

The Chairman expressed sympathy with Mr. Jennings in the recent loss of his wife, and the meeting stood in silence as a tribute.

After welcoming the Preston band, who attended the meeting as members of the branch for the first time, the Chairman gave a short address, in which he referred to bellringing as fruits of the Holy Spirit.

The balance sheet showed a balance of £14 2s. 8d., an increase of £2 over 1932. With invested money the branch has in hand £22. Including £12 16s. brought in from the previous year and more than £10 in ordinary members' fees, receipts totalled £33 15s. Expenditure amounted to £19 12s.

In his annual report the hon. secretary said that during 1933 the members took advantage of the glorious summer, and attendances at the meetings were well maintained. It was a pleasure to report that a new treble had been added to the existing peal of five at Charmminster. There was, however, much restoration work to be done in some of the towers. The membership, which showed an increase of 15, had reached the record total of 160. Change ringing was progressing and special mention was made of the enthusiastic band at Buckland Newton. Mr. Jennings spoke of an unfortunate accident which befell one of the oldest members, Mr. W. Williams, captain of West Lulworth band, who fell down the belfry steps and received injuries from which he would never recover.

Mention was also made of the passing of Mr. T. Page, who greatly assisted the advancement of change ringing in the district. Mr. W. Shute was thanked for his able instruction in change ringing.

It was decided that quarterly meetings should be held at Charmminster, Fordington St. George and Bradford Peverell. The branch will also hold a meeting during the year at Wool in honour of the chairman. Other by-meeting places were left to the secretary.

Mr. Jennings, referring to the proposed Milton Abbey meeting, stated that he had written to the Bishop, who had replied that he would be delighted to attend the gathering. Mr. Jennings hoped that 400 bellringers would be present at the meeting, and, as Milton Abbey House was at present unfurnished, they would be able to obtain the use of the large hall for tea.

The Master said he was very pleased to see how the other branches had received the proposal, and with a little careful management the meeting would be a success. He was sure it would help the Guild and augur well for the prosperity of bellringing.

The Mayor of Dorchester, who is a vice-president of the branch, congratulated the members on the excellent report. In the past he had had his heart in bellringing and had heard every report for 22 or 23 years. The branch was going on splendidly, and, welcoming Preston, he said they wanted all the towers in the district to join the branch. It would be of great advantage to them to do so.

The Master thanked the Rector of St. Peter's for the welcome he had given them, the women of the Church Council who had provided tea, and Mr. J. W. Smith and Mr. J. T. Godwin for local arrangements. Thanks were also extended to the Rev. D. F. Slemeck for the use of the bells at Charmminster and the Rev. R. G. Bartelot for the use of the Fordington bells.

The Rev. C. A. Phillips, a former chairman, replied to a welcome on behalf of himself, and Messrs. Townsend and Davis from East Dorset.

The officials of the branch were re-elected.

PHILIP SADLER AND SAMUEL SLATER. NORFOLK AND SUFFOLK HISTORIANS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I was grieved to read in your issue of January 26th that Mr. Philip Sadler had passed away. I thought he was older than you say. He learned to ring at an early age, and rang his first peal at Kenninghall, December 7th, 1880. He also took part in the first peals of Kent Treble Bob Royal and Maximus rung at St. Peter Mancroft. Also in the first two peals ever rung on the largest eight bells in that tower. In 1888 he visited Ipswich and rang on June 8th a peal of Stedman Cinques, and the next day rang in a peal of Double Norwich at Coddennham. On March 12th, 1891, he appears as a conductor, calling Hubbard's 5,039 Grandsire Caters at Mancroft. He does not appear, however, to have been a great peal ringer. He joined the Norwich Association at its commencement.

His chief delight was in collecting information concerning bygone Norwich ringers, and whatever he found concerning them he sent to the late Samuel Slater, of Glemsford, to copy. This he did, and so wrote up a 'History of Change Ringing in Norfolk,' giving all the peals that had been rung, together with the callings, up to the time of the formation of the Norwich Association. Whatever these two used to find in the old newspapers and books they used to send to one another (and I have seen some large MSS. go to and fro). Samuel Slater used to copy all the information he could get on to foolscap paper, and so wrote up a 'History of Change Ringing in Suffolk.' If Mr. Sadler did so, it is interesting; if not, it is a pity. These two used to reckon that the time they had taken up equalled three days a week for a whole year! After Samuel Slater's death, Mr. Sadler used to write to me, and I have sent him pieces of history.

Samuel Slater used to say he had a record of all peals rung in Norfolk and Suffolk before the Norwich Association was formed, and I have given copies of entries in these MSS. from time to time. I am glad a muffled touch was rung at Mancroft for him. May he rest in peace. I personally know him and have probably read more of his papers than anyone else.

WINCHESTER AND PORTSMOUTH DIOCESAN GUILD. PORTSMOUTH DISTRICT'S GOOD BALANCE.

The annual meeting of the Portsmouth District was held at St. Mary's, Portsea, on Saturday, January 20th, when members were present from Alverstoke, Bishopstoke, Bishop's Waltham, Fareham, Gosport, Hambledon, North Stoneham, Petersfield, Portsmouth (Cathedral and St. Mary's) Ryde, Soberton, Swanmore, Wickham and visitors from Brighton and Shoreham. The Guild's service was held in the South Chapel, conducted by the Vicar (Canon G. C. L. Lunt), who gave a very inspiring address. Tea was partaken of in the Parish Institute, and the subsequent business meeting was presided over by the district chairman (the Rev. E. Banks James).

The secretary's report and balance sheet were adopted, the accounts showing a balance of £12 18s. 11d. on the year's working.

All the officers were re-elected, viz.: Chairman, the Rev. E. Banks James; hon. secretary, Mr. A. T. Greenwood; auditor, Mr. H. G. Reynolds; representatives on committee, Messrs. F. S. Bayley and R. J. Stone.

Seventeen new ringing members were elected, including the Soberton band.

It was decided to hold the next annual district meeting at Fareham in January, and the first quarterly meeting at Havant on April 21st.

The usual votes of thanks were accorded, after which the members again visited the belfry.

The fine peal of eight were much in demand, and methods rung ranged from rounds to Superlative, London and Bristol Surprise Major. Several members remained in the belfry for further handbell ringing, and touches of Bob Major, Grandsire Caters, Stedman Triples and Caters were rung.

SOCIETY OF CAMBRIDGE YOUTHS. DIFFICULTIES OF SERVICE RINGING.

The annual meeting of the Society of Cambridge Youths was held in Great St. Mary's vestry on January 16th, the Rev. E. C. Essex (president) taking the chair. One of the chief discussions was the ringing of the bells for Sunday services. The President expressed a very earnest wish that this should be carried out, but, owing to several members having other duties to perform on Sundays, it is very difficult to get a company for Sunday service ringing.

The society meet for practice each Monday at 7.30, and ring for Sunday evening service on the first and third Sundays in the month when possible.

The society pledges itself to give a hearty welcome to all ringers, and special arrangements will be made when possible for ringing parties visiting the district.

The Master (Mr. C. W. Smith) was again re-elected, and Mr. A. T. Chenery was elected secretary. Their addresses are: Mr. C. W. Smith, 36, Rathmore Road, and Mr. A. T. Chenery, 162, Victoria Road. Correspondence can be addressed to either.

It would be a great day for this very old society if resident ringers of Cambridgeshire could once again ring a twelve-bell peal on this grand ring, as it has been done by local men for over one hundred and forty years.

BRIXHAM BELLS.

AUGMENTATION OF RING TO AN OCTAVE. A NOTABLE INSCRIPTION.

Brixham is known historically as the place where William, Prince of Orange, who became King of England, landed on November 5th, 1688; archaeologically for its caves; popularly for its trawlers; and in hymnody as having had as first Vicar of its lower ecclesiastical parish the Rev. H. F. Lyte, author of 'Abide with me.' It now deserves to be held in remembrance campanologically, as the place where the unusual, if not entirely unique, idea has been carried out of putting on a bell the names of the captain and vice-captain of the local band of ringers in recognition, not of bell donation, but of services rendered as churchworkers. Of course, names of ringers, accompanied sometimes by those of their wives, who have given bells and, perhaps, of bands who have been responsible for the cost of new bells or recasting old ones, are inscribed here and there, but the Brixham procedure, so far as I know, is something original. If there is any previous instance, I hope the information will be forthcoming. Incidentally, it may be noted that the earliest bell in Devon bearing a churchwarden's name is at Kingston—1601, Thomas Shipherd.

WILLIAM OF ORANGE AND BELLS.

The old Parish Church of St. Mary, Higher Brixham, has had a peal of six for more than a century. It is on record, indeed, the bells were ringing at Brixham as Prince William approached the harbour and as he landed, and that the omen was regarded as particularly good. But the bells then heard were ringing to mark the discovery of the Gunpowder Plot, on the same date in 1605, and the anniversary is so observed at present. The bells heard in 1688 could not have been any of those in existence now at St. Mary's, for none is earlier than 1767. Some of the metal of bells that were in use in 1688 may, however, have been incorporated in present units, and to that extent there is, perhaps, a link between the different periods. Lower Brixham Church did not come into being until about 1820.

For some time a scheme has been afoot for increasing the six at St. Mary's to eight, and its completion was signalled on January 24th last, when the Bishop of Exeter (the Rt. Rev. W. F. Surtees, D.D.), Suffragan to the Bishop of Exeter (Lord William Cecil), dedicated two new bells and rededicated the old six, five of which had been tuned and one (the former 5th and present 7th) recast.

The new bells are inscribed with the founders' names as well as the following:—

- Treble.—In memoriam. Joseph R. and Elizabeth Elliott. F. J. S. Morris, Vicar; W. J. Lemin, J. Jackson, Churchwardens. 1935.
- 2.—God be merciful unto us and bless us. Christopher Elliott, Churchwarden, 1896 to 1926. F. J. S. Morris, Vicar, 1933.
- 7.—Laus Deo. F. J. S. Morris, Vicar. W. J. Lemin, J. Jackson, Churchwardens. A. C. Taylor, Captain. W. G. Hayden, vice-captain. Recast 1933.

The new treble was provided under the will of Mrs. Elizabeth Elliott, in memory of her husband, Mr. Joseph R. Elliott; the second was given by Mr. Christopher Elliott. The initials, I. P. and C. P., on the present 3rd are those of members of the Pennington family and Devon bellfounders. Many names appear on the sixth. They are those of church officers and donors who contributed to the recasting of the bell in 1897. 'Churston and Barbara Churston' mean Lord and Lady Churston. The previous bell (old fourth) bore the names of 'Mr. Joseph Nowell and John Edwards' as churchwardens, and of Thomas Bilbie as founder in 1774. The name P. Varwell, which is among those on this bell, is interesting. There is a tradition that William of Orange was carried ashore at Brixham by a native named Varwell, who showed such subsequent enthusiasm by heading the Prince's cavalcade to Exeter that he was given a pass to the new monarch's court and liberally rewarded. The old fifth, now recast as the seventh, had the following inscription: 'Mr. Clarke Thomas Edwards, churchwardens. "Ye people all that hear me ring, be faithful to your God and King." W. P. 1824.'

W. P. were the initials of William Pannell, who succeeded Thomas Bilbie at the Cullompton foundry.

WHAT RINGERS HAVE DONE.

The ringers of Brixham, enthusiastic and mostly young, have shown great interest in the care of the old bells and of the belfry, and have done what they could to forward the restoration scheme. The belfry is one of the largest in Devon, and the tower, a massive structure over 100ft. high, could easily accommodate twelve bells. But eight bells are quite enough for present purposes, and one hopes that Brixham will escape the difficulty experienced by so many companies in Devon and elsewhere of not having sufficient ringers at all times for Sunday services and practice purposes. They have been steadily acquiring the art of change ringing during the past few years, and it would be a gratifying thing if they could have reserved to them the honour of ringing the first peal on the octave. Some time may elapse before they could score one, but opportunity and success would be a great encouragement. The belfry itself is a tribute to the self-denying efforts of Messrs. Taylor and Hayden (captain and vice-captain) and the other ringers, for they have boarded and decorated it and secured the appointments that should be always available for the comfort and convenience of every hand. Mr. Taylor is in the building trade, and

THE DEVON GUILD.

BRANCH MEETING AT TORQUAY.

The annual meeting of the Mid-Devon Branch of the Devon Guild was held at St. Marychurch, Torquay, on Saturday, and was moderately attended, ringers being present from Exeter, Buckfastleigh, Torquay, Paignton and Brixham.

The bells were raised soon after 3 o'clock and were kept going to the Grandsire method during the afternoon as well as in rounds for the less experienced ones.

A service in church was conducted by the Rev. Hobbs, one of the assistant priests, who, in the course of an able address, heartily welcomed the visitors.

Tea followed at Tudor's Cafe, the subsequent business meeting being presided over by Mr. F. J. Laxton (chairman). The secretary's report, which was adopted, showed that three meetings had been held during the past year, and that Sunday service ringing had been maintained. Two members had been lost through death, and two peals had been rung, at Wolborough and Kingsteignton respectively, with the help of members from other branches.

Messrs. F. J. Laxton and E. J. Hole were re-elected chairman and secretary respectively, and both suitably returned thanks.

Hearty votes of thanks were accorded to the Vicars of St. Marychurch and All Saints', Babbacombe, for the use of their bells, to the Rev. Hobbs for taking the service, and to the accompanist for her help.

For the next meeting, which will take place on Saturday, May 5th, Collaton was chosen, and it was also decided to visit Paignton.

The visitors afterwards adjourned to All Saints', Babbacombe, where touches of Grandsire Doubles and Triples and Stedman Doubles were rung.

SUNDAY SERVICE TOUCHES.

that fact explains a good deal, but the excellent results obtained reflect credit on all.

Messrs. Gillett and Johnston, of Croydon, who supplied the new bells and framing and did the recasting and tuning, were represented at the service by Mr. S. R. Roper. A crowded congregation included about 40 ringers; had the service been in the afternoon instead of the evening it is probable that many more might have been present. After the dedication the local band, under Mr. Taylor, rang some rounds on the eight, and when the service was over a touch of 504 Grandsire Triples was accomplished by a mixed band from Plymouth, Plympton St. Maurice, Upton, Torquay, Paignton and Croydon, with Mr. E. W. Marsh (Plymouth) as conductor. All who handled the bells were delighted with their 'go' and tone, and particularly appreciated the excellence of the splice; in fact, the whole job commanded hearty approval. The Bishop of Crediton, besides dedicating the bells, carried out the blessing of a children's corner in the church. This circumstance is a reminder that on Easter Day all available parts of the church are decorated by Sunday School children with bunches of primroses. In 1926 there were 18,626 bunches!

The church itself dates from about the end of the 14th century. There was a previous Norman building, and, possibly, a Saxon church was constructed before that on the same site. Among the treasures are two pre-Reformation copes made into an altar cloth. His Majesty the King is patron of the living.

THE FUTURE MATTERS MOST.

One of the district secretaries of the Guildford Diocesan Guild has recently done some plain talking in his annual report—which was quoted in our last issue—to the members of his own district, to the expert, the average and the worse-than-average ringers alike. With a nice appreciation of the difficulties at both ends of the scale, the district secretary uttered some timely advice. He concluded by reminding the members, as a whole, that the object of the Guild, which aims at the promotion of ringing for divine service, refers not merely to their own particular tower, but to every tower in the diocese, and asking those who do not try or trouble to do so in future, and those who do, not to expect too much. Mr. Grover's report was, of course, directed to the members of his own particular district, but it must have been read with interest by ringers everywhere and, we hope, will have given many food for reflection. The conditions which the district secretary feels are prevailing in the Guildford District are by no means confined to that area. There are many parts of the country where, even though the feeling may not be so plainly expressed, there is something lacking in the co-ordination of effort between the 'expert' and the 'worse-than-average' ringer, not merely in regard to peal ringing, but in the essential object of the promotion of the art in its relation to service ringing. It is, perhaps, difficult for either to appreciate the standpoint of the other, but it is necessary that they should do so if the best interests of ringing are to be served. Mr. Grover puts the two sides very aptly. The experts set the standard, he says, and without them change ringing would soon cease to exist, for no moderate or indifferent supporters ever kept a cause on its feet for long; they need continually to be stirred, encouraged, led and even pushed by the leaders. But the experts form only a small part of the Exercise, and the interest and support of the great army of average and less-than-average ringers are essential if the Exercise and change ringing are to survive, and your average man and those who are not up to average do not thrive long on kicks and neglect.

All this is very true, and it is, in the long run, the future of the art and the Exercise that matters most. The individual successes of to-day are of only passing moment; one hundred peals in spliced methods by the same band would be valueless to-morrow, even interest would vanish. The first peal in some simple method by a local band is of much greater enduring worth, for it is likely to establish more firmly the art of ringing in that centre. It is, we believe, a true, although perhaps an unpalatable, fact that we are, most of us, at bottom a little selfish over our ringing—the less-than-average man as well as the expert, for there can be selfishness in indifference as well as in enthusiasm. Would there not be a more general lifting of the standard of ringing if there were a little more mixing of the 'classes'? The experts would not lose their skill, but the rest would eventually profit by it. And when we speak of 'mixing' we do not refer only to the help which experts are prepared to give when they attend a ringing meeting. We feel quite sure that a vast amount of good would be done if those who are really expert and are constantly ringing peals would sacrifice, say, one peal a month and spend the time—divided, perhaps, into two parties—in giving a definite course of training to a couple of struggling bands where the ringers are most of them less-than-average. By this we do not mean dragging an indifferent lot of ringers through a peal, but giving them practical help and demonstration in striking their bells and the mastery of method ringing. Such services would, we believe, well repay the effort in increasing the standard of ringing, generally furthering the interests of the Exercise, and helping to ensure the future of the art.

'Aye, he ses, 'but if tha'hl coom tha'hl see summat better'n craws,' so that settled it.

We found t'church alreet c'os it were reet agen trams, an t'bells were going nicely like. They are a reet fine ring, praps a bit heavy going like, but t'Pudsa lads could afir mek 'em talk. There was plenty of variety, owt fra Plain Bob to London, but speciality like wert new method—'Pudsa Surprise,' a reet grand li'e method, composed, so G. ses, by an owd Armla bloke.

We'd been thear abaht an hahr an a hauf when I ses to G., 'What abaht laeting some teea,' o'os I were mortal dry like. Well he look't et me as if I were daft, an ses, 'What!!! THE DEVON GUILD.

PRESIDENT URGES PRACTICE OF HIGHER METHODS.

The Aylesbeare Deanery Branch of the Devon Guild held a successful quarterly meeting at Lymestone on Saturday, January 27th, with an attendance of 45 members, including visitors from Exeter, Kenn, Christow and Sidmouth. A service in the church was conducted by the Rector (the Rev. J. McIntyre), who gave an address of welcome and encouragement. Tea, provided in the Parish Hall by Mrs. Hill and a band of helpers, was followed by the business meeting with the Rev. E. A. Jullian, chairman of the branch, presiding.

The Rev. E. V. Cox, president of the Guild, addressing the meeting, urged the members to make a move towards the practice of higher methods, and not to remain content with the first stages.

Three new members were elected, and it was resolved to hold the next meeting at Broadclyst on April 14th.

A vote of thanks to the Rector, organist and ladies who had provided the tea concluded a pleasant meeting.

SOCIETY FOR THE ARCHDEACONRY OF STAFFORD.

A quarterly meeting was held at Coscley on Saturday, January 20th, in beautiful weather. Affiliated towers in the Archdeaconry were fairly well represented, and visitors from Coventry, Stourbridge, etc., helped to swell the throng. The bells were raised soon after 3 p.m. and kept going in a variety of methods till service time. The Rev. N. B. Watson (Vicar) gave a very interesting address, the basis of which was 'Cast thy bread upon the waters: for thou shalt find it after many days' (Eccles. xi., 1).

An excellent tea was prepared in the Schoolroom, at which 40 sat down. A vote of thanks to the Vicar for his address, etc.; to the organist for her kind assistance; also to Mrs. Watson and her willing helpers for preparing and serving tea, was carried with applause.

AN OXFORDSHIRE RESTORATION.

On Monday, January 29th, the ring of six bells at the Chadlington Parish Church were reopened and a rededication service was conducted by Bishop Shaw, who was attended by the Vicar (the Rev. Canon Payne). Owing to rather short notice, only a small attendance was present. After the dedication had been carried out, the Bishop preached a very interesting address upon bells and ringers and churchworkers.

At the conclusion of the service the local ringers rang a few rounds. Then the Oxford Guild ringers took over and rang some good touches of Plain Bob Minor, Grandsire Minor, Stedman and Grandsire Doubles.

The restoration work has been the gift of a generous donor, Col. F. W. Schofield, C.M.G., who has defrayed all expenses. The bells have been rehung upon a new 'A' pattern iron frame, which is a great improvement upon the old one, as the bells were previously hung on a wooden frame in two tiers.

LADIES' GUILD.*CENTRAL DISTRICT AT KILBURN.

The quarterly meeting of the Central District was held at St. Augustine's, Kilburn, on February 3rd, and, in spite of the fog, was very well attended, about 21 members being present.

Ringing during the afternoon was followed by a short but cheerful service, conducted by the Vicar. The company then adjourned to the school nearby, where they found an excellent tea had been provided, at which they were joined by the Vicar.

After tea a short business meeting was held. Mrs. Deal, who presided, said how very pleased the district were to have with them at this meeting the president of the Guild, Miss Steel, who had travelled from Bedford to be with them.

Five new members were elected, i.e., Misses B. Hart, R. Sholey, V. Jaquest, E. Barnes and D. Vale, all proposed by Mrs. Atkins. Two members were also proposed by Miss D. Fletcher, and have since been transferred to the Southern District.

Miss K. Bradford then proposed Twickenham as the place for the next meeting, the date to be, if possible, April 14th. — This was seconded by Mrs. Deal and agreed to.

A hearty vote of thanks was accorded to the Vicar for conducting the service and being present at tea, to the organist for his services, and also to Mr. and Mrs. M. Atkins, who had made all the necessary arrangements for the enjoyable meeting and the tea.

This concluded the meeting and further ringing took place.

HIGH WYCOMBE RINGER'S BEREAVEMENT.

The members of the High Wycombe bellry deplore the loss of a lady member, Mrs. Willis Twitchen (the wife of Mr. George Twitchen, the local secretary), who was laid to rest on Thursday, February 1st, mourned by all who knew her.

At the Parish Church of All Saints, the Rev. W. L. P. Float (Vicar), assisted by the Rev. Wigg (Deputy Master, Oxford Guild), conducted the service, which was attended by the full choir. The borough organist (Mr. H. Helman), played Chopin's Funeral March, and also accompanied the singing of the hymn, 'Peace, perfect peace.'

In the evening touches of Stedman and Grandsire were rung with the bells fully muffled, conducted by E. R. Coles, F. Hayes and J. W. Wilkins.

On Sunday, February 4th, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Cinques (1,231 changes) was rung with the bells half-muffled by the local Sunday service band: J. W. Wilkins (composer and conductor) 1, F. Hayes 2, R. Coles 3, Frank West 4, Frank Boreham 5, F. D. Boreham 6, E. Markham 7, George Hinton 8, E. R. Coles 9, P.S. C. Smith 10, S. Goodchild 11, W. Plumridge 12.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION.*FORESTERS' CONTRIBUTION TO NEW BELLS AT BECKENHAM.

Members of the Ancient Order of Foresters are contributing the bulk of the money to increase the octave at St. George's Church, Beckenham, to a ring of ten. This information was announced at the quarterly meeting of the Lewisham District of the Kent Association, held at St. Mary's, Lewisham, on Saturday, January 27th, when ringers attended from Beckenham, Bromley, Chislehurst, Crayford, Dartford, Erith, Eltham, Deptford, Lee, West Wickham and the local company.

The bells were raised at 3 p.m., and were kept in constant use during the afternoon and evening in methods from Grandsire to London and Bristol Surprise, with rounds occasionally for the beginners.

The association's form of service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. O. R. Cotter, M.A.), and afterwards the members visited the Church Institute, there to partake of a substantial meal, some 56 persons being present as the guests of the Vicar. Then followed a touch on handbells, after which the business meeting was held, the Vicar occupying the chair.

Five ringers were elected members of the association, and the election of one member previous to a peal was ratified.

Mr. E. Barnett then read a report of proceedings of the committee meeting held at Maidstone in November last. A vote of thanks was accorded to the author for its preparation.

Arising out of this report, Mr. W. Smith (Beckenham) stated that the tentative proposal to add two trebles to the peal at St. George's, Beckenham, was now a definite project, the bulk of the money having been subscribed by the Ancient Order of Foresters to mark the long, successful history of St. George's Court. It was hoped that the scheme would result in a fine ring of ten in this corner of the association's area.

The members decided that the next meeting should be held at St. John's, Sidcup, on Saturday, April 14th.

A vote of thanks to the Vicar for the use of the bells, for conducting the service and for his generous hospitality was carried with applause.

The Vicar responded and assured the members of a welcome to Lewisham whenever they chose that place as their venue for a meeting.

Mr. H. Warnett, the popular steeplekeeper at St. Mary's, was congratulated on his recovery from serious injuries received in a motoring accident some weeks ago.

This concluded the business, and, after a collection (realising 18s.) in aid of the Benevolent Fund had been made, the members returned to the tower, where further ringing until 8.30 p.m. concluded a very successful meeting.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

There is a good deal more enterprise among certain sections of ringers to-day than there used to be. In the first six weeks of this year we have recorded peals in three new Surprise Major methods, a peal in a new Surprise Maximus method, and now a peal in another Surprise Royal method.

This last was rung on Saturday at Boddington and is an extension of Bristol. In the opinion of the ringers it is more difficult than the London Surprise Royal rung by the band last year.

Just as we go to press we learn that yet another new Surprise Major method has been rung at Helmingham.

The Essex veteran, Mr. William J. Nevard, of Great Bentley, celebrated his 78th birthday on Saturday by taking part in a peal of Superlative Surprise at Great Baddow. Incidentally it was also the 49th anniversary of Mr. Nevard's first peal, the 42nd of Mr. George Green's and the 38th of the conductor's (Mr. W. Keeble). Mr. Nevard entertained the band after the peal and received the good wishes and thanks of the ringers.

RINGERS' NAMES ON BELLS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—In your issue of the 9th inst., re the augmentation of Brixham bells, 'Devonian' asks if there are any previous instances of ringers' names on bells. When the ten bells of Beccles, Suffolk, were rehung in 1909 and the ninth recast, the name of Henry Hopson, captain, was included in the inscription. Mr. Hopson was a Sunday School teacher for about 60 years and a ringer about the same period, also captain of the Beccles ringers. His father before him rang in a peal of Bob Royal for the accession of Queen Victoria in 1837.

FOURTEEN NAMES ON ONE BELL.

Dear Sir,—In reply to 'Devonian's' request for information, I may say that the Warnham peal were recast in 1897, and on the 5th bell is inscribed the names of the whole of the ringers, 14 in number, who were doing service at that time.

THE CLERGY AND RINGERS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—For nearly nine years it has been customary in our belfry for the Rector or one of the assistant clergy to come to the belfry a quarter of an hour before the service begins, between the first and second peals, both morning and evening every Sunday. The first peal ended, the Lesser Litany and the Lord's Prayer are said, followed nowadays usually by three short prayers: (1) For the ringers; (2) for those who are called by the sound of the bells to come to worship; and (3) for all who for any reason are hindered from coming. A cheerful greeting is exchanged between the clergyman and the ringers. The bells ring out again, and the clergyman leaves the belfry to go about his next work in the vestry or the church. (We have never once wished our clergy elsewhere, and we know they are glad to come to the belfry. And we are quite sure that the happiness of our company of ringers and the good fellowship that exists among us have been, and still are, furthered by the mutual interest of the members and the clergy in one another. At any rate, our prayers together are a unifying force.

MEMORABLE MASONIC PEAL.

The Masonic peal at Erdington on February 3rd was memorable for more than one reason. It commemorated the installation of two ringers W.M.s, J. W. Pemberton to the chair of the Birchfield Lodge and F. V. Jephcott, of the Yenton Lodge. Both are ringers at Erdington Church.

Alderman J. S. Pritchett (Recorder of Lincoln), who is Assistant Provincial Grand Master of Warwickshire, and took part in Mr. Pemberton's installation, was one of the peal band. He was 79 on January 8th, and his previous peal was Stedman Cinques on his 76th birthday.

At the invitation of V.W.Bro. M. H. Clarke, P.G.Treas., the ringers joined 'Integrity' Lodge at dinner after the peal.

A MISUNDERSTANDING.

To the Editor.

Sir,—On reading of Mr. Stephen Wood's remarks at the Bristol United Guild's annual dinner, it seems necessary for me to point out a misunderstanding of his which is likely to have prejudiced his listeners. Why confuse my letters on 'Bell Broadcasts' with those criticising the Editor of 'The Ringing World' when both subjects were written entirely separately, the former replying to an article on 'Bell Broadcasting,' and the latter on 'Letters and Writers'? Had the two subjects been mixed by me, Mr. Wood's statements would have been justified; but such was not the case. In no letter on 'Bell Broadcasts' were criticisms of the Editor offered, or vice versa.

THE BANKES JAMES ARRANGEMENT.

By THE EDITOR.

As one of those responsible for the 'Hereford Resolution,' which endeavoured to define a peal of Minor in terms that the Central Council would accept in order to include all compositions on what may be termed the 'Bankes James arrangement'—which those who drafted the motion believed then, and still believe, to be true 720's—I feel it is just as well that readers of 'The Ringing World' should realise that the arguments of those who take this view are not to be so airily swept aside as Mr. J. A. Trollope would have them believe by his letter in the issue of February 3rd.

First of all to answer a question.

'Would the people who keep talking about 720 true rows being a true 720 say that they had rung a true 720 of Bob Minor if the final single was not correctly made,' he asks, 'and, if so, what is the use of that single at all?'

Those who 'keep talking about 720 true rows being a true 720' say that one of the uses of the final single is to produce rounds and that the 720 is just as true whether the first or the last 'rounds' is counted.

'The people who keep talking about 720 true rows being a true 720' are asked by Mr. Trollope to tear up their paper and go into the tower and ring it. But you cannot prove a peal by going into the tower and ringing it, neither does the diagram of a method prove that a peal is true. Truth can only be assured by recourse to figures, and figures, therefore, cannot be thus lightly thrust aside. The truth of a peal is tested by the rows on paper and not by the changes made in the tower in getting from one row to another.

In an extent of Minor it requires 721 rows to produce 720 changes, and it follows that, as there are only 720 different rows, one row is repeated. Usually that row is rounds, and it indicates that the touch or peal is ended; but the final rounds is a repetition of the first row, otherwise the use of the term, 'round block' when applied to touch or peal is meaningless. For the purpose of the truth of a 720 of Minor it does not, therefore, matter which row of rounds you count as one of the 720. If you count the first, you cannot count the last; if you count the last you cannot count the first, but why count the first, instead of the last, which up to recent times has been the practice?

The chief reasons are, first: You cannot produce the first 'change' without it. Secondly: The first row of rounds is an essential part of the first lead: you cannot construct the first lead of any method (with a single hunt) without it. The last row of rounds is not an essential part of any of the preceding leads—it belongs to the first lead of the next 720, whether the rest of the 720 is rung or not. The Methods Committee bear out this contention in the last edition of the 'Minor Collection,' by the fact that in every case 123456 is shown as part of the lead, and the back stroke, after the succeeding lead end, is definitely cut off from the preceding rows.

The difficulty of convincing ringers that rounds is an essential part of the first lead is that ringing has got into conventional form, much of it, of course, for the sake of convenience, but in arriving at the scientific truth of a touch or peal, things like hand stroke and back stroke, and whether rounds or any other row is the first row do not matter one iota.

If you are going to ring more than one 720 without a break, it does not signify a jot what the first row of the second and subsequent 720's is. In any case, it has got to be a repetition of something which occurred in the first 720. Why should it necessarily be a repetition of the first row? There is no more breach of truth by using, say, the 481st than by using the first. All that is essential is that the bells shall return to the first row, by the natural process of the method, when the peal is ended, in order to round off the performance.

Despite all the efforts by the various writers and speakers, made for very differing reasons, to prove that the Bankes James arrangement of Cambridge Minor is false, I believe that ringers who will strip themselves of preconceived notions and approach the subject with an unbiased mind will agree, after considering the above arguments, that each of the 720's, judged by the only correct way of testing it—by the rows, on paper—is true.

That I am not alone in my contention, I offer in support of it the views—however arrived at—of others whose opinions carry more weight than my own:—

Mr. J. A. Trollope: The 720's in the Rev. E. B. James' arrangement of Cambridge are all true, but they are not (save one) complete. ('Ringing World,' December 14th, 1928.)

Mr. J. W. Parker: It is a peal of seven true and complete 720's, and it begins and ends with rounds. No argument whatever can disprove facts, and it is an absolute fact that in ringing Mr. James' peal 720 different orders of striking are first rung out true and complete, and are thereafter followed by six other 720's, at the end of which the bells come round. ('Ringing World,' December 21st, 1928.)

The late Rev. H. Law James: Each of the seven (the seven 720's of his brother's arrangement) is true and complete. ('Ringing World,' January 18th, 1929.)

THE STRUCTURE OF A LEAD.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—Mr. G. L. Joyce seems to have lost sight of the fact that a treble lead in any method commences with the back stroke and ends with the hand stroke of the treble's whole pull at lead, so that Norfolk does not require eighth's-place to be made at the lead-end to qualify for the title. If that were so, all the bob leads (6th's place) in a peal of Norfolk would have to be reckoned as another method.

As it is, the back stroke of the 4th's place bob at the end of the lead of Norfolk in the twelve-method peal is not part of the lead of Norfolk at all, but is the first row of the next lead of another method.

The structure of a treble lead in any method is not altered in any way, no matter which place—2nd's, 4th's, 6th's or 8th's—is used to couple it to the next lead.

Re Mr. Drake's letter, while appreciating the motives which have induced him to set the ball rolling, I think he has spoiled an excellent set of definitions by inserting his rather absurd No. 6.

The reason why a peal is commenced with two rows (or other even number) of rounds is simply a matter of convenience to the practical ringer to ensure that changes shall begin at a hand stroke.

But the truth of a composition is a theoretical matter, and the theory of campanology knows nothing of hand strokes or back strokes, or of bells either, for that matter. It is concerned solely with figures, and, indeed, a peal would be just as true and complete if changes started with a back stroke as with a hand stroke.

So that, while definition No. 5 may be a good practical rule, the contention contained in No. 6, that each extent in a peal must begin with not less than two rows of rounds, is neither true in theory or sound in practice.

H. G. CASHMORE.

Watford.

MR. JOYCE'S CHALLENGE.

Dear Sir,—Mr. Trollope and myself had better be very very careful. We are to be tied down to a peal in which we both took part, and in which occurred some odd leads of so-called Norfolk with a fourth's place bob. We are asked to prove the right to the name of Norfolk for these leads. Well I, for one, am not going to try; it satisfies me to be able to say that a full description of the METHOD AND BOB was published. The composer, Mr. A. J. Pitman, when he first published a peal on the same plan (in ten methods), described the method as a second's place variation of Norfolk.

Of course, I might argue that a lead of Norfolk ended at hand stroke and that the fourth's place bob produced the first row of the next lead (in another method), but, having stated so many times my very definite opinion that all peals start FROM and end WITH rounds, I am not going to fall into Mr. Joyce's little trap. As a matter of fact, Mr. Trollope, myself and others discussed the point at the time, and considered that the name should stand rather than give it a new one for the ONE row only. We might have called the method 'Timbuctoo Surprise' or 'North Pole Surprise,' but that would have been a pity. Mr. Joyce would then have no reason to issue his challenge.

Mr. Warrington appears to forget that only last Whitsun an attempt was made to get the Bankes James Cambridge recognised by the Council (I refer to Mr. Stephen Wood's resolution), but it was completely turned down. Does he think that there is much chance of the Council, as at present constituted, acknowledging the peal? So many of us are definitely of the opinion that this peal cannot be admitted without all the others mentioned in this controversy; and whilst some are prepared to do this, a larger number are not. I should like a good argument from Mr. Warrington which will help us over this difficulty, but before he writes again he might read, very carefully, the letter from Mr. Trollope published this week.

C. T. COLES.

SUGGESTION TO MEMBERS OF CENTRAL COUNCIL.

Sir,—As one of the band who took part in the first peal of Cambridge Minor under the Bankes James arrangement, I would like to suggest that ALL members of the Central Council who object to it and who have not previously done so, endeavour to ring the peal some time before the meeting at Whitsun. The reason is this: A few years ago I attended the annual meeting of the Ely Diocesan Association at Cambridge—I believe it was the meeting at which the Rev. B. H. Tyrwhitt-Drake was first appointed hon. secretary. In the course of business the 'Bankes James arrangement' came up for discussion, and one of your correspondents in your last issue (Mr. Frank Warrington), like many more who have never rung it, criticised it considerably. Since then, apparently having rung the composition, he has seen the error of his ways; hence his letter in last week's issue. I should like to add that, although I had previously rung many Minor peals (the majority in seven methods), I considered the Bankes James arrangement the most interesting Minor peal I had rung.

YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION.

HONORARY TREASURER'S LONG SERVICE.

The annual meeting of the Yorkshire Association, due to be held in the Northern Division this year, was held at Ripon Cathedral on Saturday, January 27th, when, despite the fact that Ripon is geographically unfavourably situated for ringing meetings, some 50 members and friends were present. The bells have recently been recast and rehung by Taylors, and are now a peal worthy of the place they occupy and a credit to their founders.

The day's proceedings commenced with the audit, which was carried out by Messrs. R. W. Jennison and E. Hudson.

Choral evensong was held in the Cathedral at 4 p.m., when a short address was given by Canon Tuckey.

Tea was served in the Black Bull Hotel, and at the end Canon Tuckey came in and gave a hearty welcome to the association.

The general meeting was held in the Cathedral Hall, with the president, Canon C. C. Marshall, in the chair. Apologies for absence were received from Messrs. G. Lewis, F. Clark, G. Clark, G. Halksworth, F. W. Dale, J. Lawson, W. Idle, H. N. Imeson and J. W. Addison. The Chairman extended a hearty welcome to Mr. T. Metcalf, the secretary of the Cleveland and North Yorkshire Association, and said how pleased the association was to have him with them at that meeting. Canon Marshall also proposed a very hearty vote of thanks to the local company for the excellent arrangements they had made, and this was acknowledged by Mr. F. Tingle.

In presenting the annual report, the President alluded to the fact that Mr. J. Cotterell had now completed 26 years as hon. treasurer. The report was accepted, as was also the report of the auditors, and the auditors were thanked for their services.

Another point referred to by Canon Marshall was the alleged lack of interest taken by the clergy in ringers. He said he felt this matter was being worn rather threadbare, because as the association held its meetings throughout the county it always received a very hearty welcome from the clergy wherever they went, and this did not point to a lack of interest.

Mr. J. Cotterell was re-elected unopposed as hon. treasurer for a further term of three years.

At this juncture the Dean of Ripon came in to welcome the association to Ripon, and for this and the use of the bells he was accorded a hearty vote of thanks.

Two invitations were received for the next meeting, one from Lightcliffe and one from Eastwood, Rotherham, and Eastwood was chosen.

The Rev. P. Thorman (Headingley) and Messrs. C. Howroyd (Ripon), N. Simms and H. Ashton (Burley) were elected members of the association.

Mr. P. J. Johnson gave notice of motion for alterations to Rules 2 and 3 for the next meeting, and he also very kindly relieved the secretary of his duties during the course of the meeting to enable the latter to catch the only available train for home, where he eventually arrived about 11 p.m., after having spent eight hours in travelling to and from the meeting.

After the meeting the bells were again available until 9 p.m.

MEMORIAL TOUCH.

At Balderstone, Rochdale, on Sunday evening, January 28th, a quarter-peal of Grandairs Triples with the bells half-muffled: S. K. Taylor 1, W. O. Rowland 2, J. Griffiths 3, J. Jones 4, F. Ormerod 5, S. Clegg 6, F. Appleton (conductor) 7, E. Chadwick 8. Rung as a token of respect for the late Mr. J. H. Kershaw, a former ringer and leader of this band.

FROM REV. E. BANKES JAMES.

Sir,—I have an old print by John Leach, in which the man at the peep-show is exhibiting 'The Battle of Waterloo.'

'Which is the Duke and which is Boney?' asks a small boy.

'Which ever you like, my little dear, you pays your money and you takes your choice,' says the man.

I can assure Mr. Severn that I am not at all interested in the question that he asks me, nor in any other scientific questions that have been debated in your columns.

I know perfectly well that a true peal of Minor is impossible, and the only question that I put to myself is, 'Is my arrangement as good as any other compromise that has been tried?' In my opinion it is. Others may think differently.

E. BANKES JAMES.

Seafeld Park, Fareham, Hants.

'HOW IS IT DONE?'

Sir,—I hope the members of the Central Council will note those words in the suggested definition of a peal of Minor put forward by the Rev. E. Bankes James, viz., 'shall begin and end with rounds.' That is the stumbling-block for a great number. In any other 5,040 we start from back stroke to finish at back stroke, but in the Cambridge Minor you commence at back stroke and finish at back stroke. Now, sir, can you or anyone explain how it is done, keeping entirely to the practical side—not pencil and paper?

A. H. PULLING.

YOUTH ATTEMPTS A RECORD.

YOUNG BAND MEETS AT CRAYFORD.

Some months ago an effort was made to organise a 'knickerbocker' peal among boys whose ages ranged from 11 to 14 years. Owing, however, to the insuperable difficulty of getting a strong enough company together, the project fell through, but some of the young folk determined to move in the matter for themselves. Happily for them, Mr. F. E. Dawe, who was one of the band who made the 'old men's' record a few months ago, was extremely interested in the original scheme, and readily lent his aid in making the plans which were to raise a band sufficiently juvenile to create a new record of youth. Certain young people by their ability 'picked' themselves for the band, but it was not quite easy to fill all the places. Eventually a band between the ages of 13 and 17 and of both sexes was raised to attempt a peal of Bob Major at Crayford last Saturday.

Much trouble was taken over the travelling arrangements, the meeting of the young people at London termini and the accommodation of long distance visitors for the week-end. And only one went astray. Making the journey from Loughborough on Friday night, the ringer in question was misdirected in changing trains at Kettering, and consequently reached London much later than schedule. But all's well that ends well, and eventually the whole party assembled at Crayford Church on Saturday afternoon. The band were met by a number of ringers, the contingent who travelled through London being escorted by Mr. Dawe and Mr. A. P. Cannon, who had rendered valuable assistance. There was a little delay in starting, for it was found necessary to lower the ropes on some of the bells to enable the more diminutive members of the party to reach the sallies.

At length a start was made with the band in the following order: Percy Stone (Nuneaton) 1, Arthur Jones (Croydon) 2, Phyllis E. Tillett (Ipswich) 3, Walter H. Dobbie (Sittingbourne) 4, Margaret Pack (Egerton) 5, John J. L. Gilbert (Handsworth, Sheffield) 6, Joseph T. Pack (Loughborough) 7, Edwin A. Barnett (Crayford), conductor, 8. Their average age is just over 15 years.

After a false start, a second attempt was made, and the ringing went on for about 40 minutes when it came to an end. The breakdown was really the result of over-anxiety, but the band showed how excellently they can ring by a splendidly struck quarter-peal, which John Gilbert conducted. So well did this touch go that the youngsters gained confidence in themselves and had no hesitation in arranging to meet again on April 21st, when there is every hope they will be successful.

After the ringing the company were entertained to a sumptuous tea by Mr. Dawe, among those present being Mr. and Mrs. E. Barnett, Mr. T. Groombridge, sen., Mr. T. Groombridge, jun., and Mr. A. P. Cannon. Afterwards Miss Margaret Pack, who had been invaluable in helping to make the arrangements, proposed a vote of thanks to Mr. Dawe, who suitably acknowledged it, and expressed the wish for success on the next occasion. He presented a useful and acceptable gift to each member of the band.

The visitors spent an enjoyable week-end, despite the disappointment of the lost peal.

A WESTMORLAND LOSS.

DEATH OF MR. WILLIAM ATKINSON.

Members of the Exercise in the Lake District have sustained a severe loss by the death of Mr. William Atkinson, of Kendal, who expired on Monday, February 5th, after an illness lasting nearly ten months.

Mr. Atkinson was 75 years of age, and is survived by one son and four daughters, two of the latter having been on their way from New Zealand at the time of his death.

Mr. Atkinson had been a ringer at Kendal for 52 years, and had taken part in 12 peals, his last peal being Bob Minor in January, 1926.

The funeral took place on Thursday, February 8th, there being a large number of friends and ringers present. The funeral service took place at Holy Trinity Church, the bells being rung muffled before and after the service and also in the evening.

WEDDING BELLS.

To celebrate the wedding of Mr. D. Cecil Williams, Mus.Bac., F.R.C.O., to Miss Tulk, which took place on January 3rd, 1934 (when St. Mary's bells were being augmented to ten), the local band at St. Mary's, Southampton, rang on Sunday, February 11th, previous to the evening service, a quarter-peal of Grandairs Caters (1,296 changes). The ringers were: N. Curtis 1, H. Payne 2, H. Smith 3, A. Butler 4, T. Thirkell 5, F. Mursell 6, R. Brown 7, H. Reeves 8, J. W. Faithfull (conductor) 9, J. Elliott 10. This was the first quarter-peal of Grandairs Caters for all the band and was rung at the first attempt.

The marriage took place at St. George's Church, Brentford, Middlesex, on Saturday, of Mr. Arthur H. Smith, of Leatherhead, Surrey, and Miss Hilda Passey. Mr. Smith is the hon. secretary of the Leatherhead District of the Guildford Diocesan Guild, and one of his colleagues at Leatherhead belfry, Mr. W. J. Whiting, was his best man at the wedding ceremony. In honour of the event a peal of Kent Treble Bob Major was attempted at Ashhead, Surrey, by Guild members from various towers, but a 'shift course' brought it to an end after 1 hour 50 minutes' ringing.

ROYAL CUMBERLAND YOUTHS.*NEW MASTER: MR. C. J. MATTHEWS SUCCEEDS HIS FATHER.

The annual meeting of the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths was held at St. Martin's-in-the-Fields on Saturday, February 3rd. The tower was opened at 4 p.m., when about 60 members were present, and touches of Stedman Cinques were rung, also rounds for younger members. A memorial service for the late Master (Mr. J. D. Matthews) was held in the church by request of the Vicar (the Rev. Pat McCormick), which everyone attended. After service a move was made to the canteen adjoining the crypt for tea, but owing to unforeseen circumstances this had to be postponed till later, and in the meantime the interval was filled in by Stedman Cinques, etc., on the handbells, and was much enjoyed by the whole company. Tea then being ready, the company sat down to a substantial repast, kindly provided by the Vicar and churchwardens. The party were welcomed by the Vicar, to whom and the ladies who assisted hearty votes of thanks were accorded.

The business meeting was held in the famous Vestry Hall. The Vicar was voted to the chair, but said he could only stay till the election of the new Master, his time being so fully occupied. The treasurer presented the balance sheet, which was considered very satisfactory, showing as it did a balance on the right side. The secretary (Mr. G. R. Card) gave his report, in which he stated that steady progress had been made during the year. Twelve peals had been rung, viz., Cambridge Maximus, Stedman Cinques, Pudsey Surprise (the first by the society), Oxford Treble Bob Major, Bob Major, Stedman Caters, Cambridge Royal, Cambridge Major, Stedman Triples and London Surprise Minor. It was a record year for new members. The secretary expressed the thanks of the officers to all those who had done so much to make it a very successful year.

The election of officers for the year followed. Mr. C. J. Matthews was elected Master to succeed his late father, who occupied the office for many years. The other officers were appointed as follows: Treasurer, Mr. G. W. Steere; secretary, Mr. G. A. Card; trustees, Mr. F. Smith and Mr. A. Hardy; senior steward, Mr. T. Bevan; junior steward, Mr. L. H. Baybutt; auditors, Mr. R. Bevan and Mr. T. Newman.

The new Master took the chair amid applause, and the Vicar, who wished the society every success and cordially welcomed the new Master, was accorded a hearty vote of thanks for his services.

It was decided to renew the quarterly meetings, the first one to be held at West Ham on Saturday, April 21st, the second at Erith on Saturday, July 7th, and the last, if possible, at Staines in October, this being left for the secretary to arrange. Due notice of these meetings will appear in 'The Ringing World.' Eight new members were elected.

Votes of thanks to the officers for their services during the year brought a very successful meeting to a close. Owing to the lateness of the evening, it was not possible to arrange for further ringing. Those who were not fortunate enough to get a pull are asked to accept sincere apologies.

RINGERS AND CHURCH ORGANISATIONS.To the Editor.*

Dear Sir.—The leading articles in your issues of January 26th and February 2nd must have given most ringers food for serious thought, as it is fairly obvious that as time goes the welfare of ringers will be more and more bound up with that of the Church, and that we must take all possible steps to arouse and retain the interest of the clergy.

May I suggest that much could be done if more interest was taken by ringers in the administrative work of the Church, as, generally speaking, ringers take very little interest in this very important subject.

Ringers should take steps to ensure that their names (if eligible) are upon the church electoral roll, and that one or more 'live' ringers are nominated and, if possible, elected on the Parochial Church Council, who would watch the interests of the ringers, because, although by law the incumbent is in sole charge of the bells, often he is largely guided by the wishes of his Church Council, who have the final word on all financial questions.

From the Parochial Church Councils, efforts should be made to obtain the election of ringers upon the Ruri-decanal and Diocesan Conferences, and even upon the National Assembly, as this appears to be the only way that we are likely to make our voices heard in the high places.

Again, how often do we see ringers at any of the functions of the Church? I do not say that it would be possible to attend all, but if the most important were attended, I feel that ringers would get to know their parson, and the parson his ringers.

I may say that the suggestions I have made have been carried out here at Bishopstoke for several years with excellent results. We run our local band as a society. At least one meeting is held each year at which the Rector presides, officers are elected and we nominate as many ringers as possible as candidates for the Parochial Church Council, and all turn up at the annual church meeting in order to vote for them.

WORCESTERSHIRE ASSOCIATION.*SUCCESSFUL MEETING OF NORTHERN BRANCH.

Nineteen towers were represented at the quarterly meeting of the Northern District of the Worcestershire Association at Stourbridge. The Vicar (Canon M. S. Newland) conducted the service, and afterwards presided over the business meeting, following tea, which was served in the Church Hall by the wives of members of St. Thomas' Church ringers.

The hon. secretary (Mr. A. J. Skelding) referred to the loss sustained by the association by the death of valued members, including Mr. Hackett and Mr. Gibbs.

It was decided to leave the arrangements for the next quarterly peal in the hands of Mr. Whatmore (Stourbridge) and St. Thomas' band; and it was resolved to hold the next quarterly meeting at Belbroughton.

The following new members were admitted to the association: Mr. J. Bate (Belbroughton), Mr. W. Hodnett, Mr. K. Lowe (Wordsley), Mr. F. Brotherton (Wolverhampton, life member), and the Rev. J. R. Bamber (Wollaston, hon. member).

Mr. W. Short (Ringing Master of the association) offered the congratulations of the association to the Rowley Regis band on being successful in their quarterly peal.

Mr. H. F. Martin (Bromsgrove) proposed a hearty vote of thanks to Canon Newland for offering such a cordial welcome to the visitors, and said that their best thanks were due to all who had made their visit so enjoyable.—Mr. H. G. Bird (Halesowen) seconded.

Mr. A. J. Skelding, who supported, spoke in appreciation of the work done by Mr. Cooper, Mr. Whatmore and other members of St. Thomas' band in the arrangements for that gathering. He referred to the progress made by the association, and said a welcome feature was that more interest was being taken in bellringing by the clergy. When he was a young man, ringers knew one another in the belfry, but some of them did not attend church services, and he was pleased to say that present-day bellringers were keenly interested in church affairs as well as in ringing. He concluded by asking the committee to recommend that Canon Newland be elected one of the clerical vice-presidents of the association.

The Vicar, replying, said he did not deserve that honour, as all the work had been done by the ringers connected with his church.

During the afternoon and evening ringing on the bells of St. Thomas' Church was enjoyed.

THE MAJOR RECORD.*UNVEILING OF PEAL BOARD AT BENINGTON.

A meeting of the Eastern District of the Herts County Association was held at Benington on Saturday, February 3rd. It had been arranged for the purpose of unveiling the peal board recording the Major record, 18,144 changes. In spite of a dreary and wet afternoon, ringers were present from Ardeley, Aston, Braughing, Barley, Cheshunt, Heriford, Watton, Ware, Much Hadham, Redenhall (Norfolk), and Great and Little Munden.

The tablet is of stained oak, written in gold, with the names of the band and the places they come from, namely, H. Wallace, treble, Great Munden; W. Tack, 2, Barley; R. Howard, 3, Barley; S. Carter, 4, Little Munden; A. J. House, 5, Cheshunt; W. K. North, 6, Braughing; B. Patmore, 7, Great Munden; J. Welch, tenor, Benington.

The Rector (the Rev. W. E. Mills), with a dedicatory prayer, unveiled the board, the band having rung a course of Bob Major standing in the order in which they rang the peal.

The Rector then said how pleased he was to have had the record length on eight bells rung at Benington and to have the tablet in the tower in company with many other very interesting peals rung and recorded there. He hoped that it would be an inspiration and encouragement to ringers who looked upon them and an example for good ringing for future generations.

The district secretary (Mr. W. H. Lawrence) thanked the Rector first of all for allowing the peal to be rung at Benington, next for accepting the tablet placed there, and, thirdly, for showing the interest he did and for unveiling the tablet.

The band then rang three leads of Kent Treble Bob Major standing as before, after which the members assembled rang touches in various methods. Thus ended another interesting event in the world-famed tower of Benington.

FORMER CHESTER RINGER'S DEATH.

Mr. Charles Price, of Ecclesham, died at Slough on Friday, January 26th, in the 79th year of his age, at the residence of his son. Ancient members of Wrexham and Chester Cathedral belfries will recall his valuable activities of half a century ago. The cause of death was heart failure, following an attack of asthma during the long spell of east wind in November.

The day before his death he asked his son to let Mr. W. H. Fussell know he was ill. By a strange coincidence Mr. Fussell called promiscuously to have a chat with the old veteran on Saturday just 24 hours too late. The deceased was laid to rest in St. Mary's Churchyard—where his wife was interred on the following Tuesday.

WOODBRIDGE BELLS.

To the Editor.

Sir,—In a letter I wrote to the 'East Anglican Daily Times,' a sentence was worded too concisely, and, further, was not printed as I wrote it. It was from this sentence that you quoted, and it is to this sentence that your anonymous correspondent refers.

In spite of that sentence, it was, I think, clear that I was only speaking of rings of eight bells that have come down to us untouched and which were cast at one and the same time. At any rate, I made this quite clear in a second letter I wrote to that paper. Thus your correspondent and I are not concerned with the same bells at all.

What I should really be glad to hear is this. Is there now left us any ring of eight bells, cast at one and the same time, older than those at Woodbridge, i.e., 1799? I have said that I do not believe such a ring is in existence. If anyone can prove me wrong, now is the time.

HERBERT DRAKE.

P.S.—Since writing this, I have had given me particulars of the ring of eight at Thetford. Not the ancient ring of six (referred to above) at Thetford St. Mary, Suffolk, but that at SS. Peter and Andrew, Norfolk. They were also cast by Thomas Osborne, but in 1790, so they beat the Woodbridge bells in age. But as the tenor is only 18 cwt. 3 lb., they cannot compare with the Woodbridge ring (tenor 25 cwt. 3 lb.) on that score. Now can anyone beat 1790?

It is not very convenient when people write to you about a letter they have only heard at second hand, and which your readers have never seen. If 'Old Ringer' or Mr. Cecil Pipe had read my letter themselves, they would have seen that I never spoke of a 'period of desolation,' nor did I use the word 'deteriorated.'

I was writing from an antiquarian point of view for antiquarians, and explaining which bells ought not to be recast; and I pointed out that the nineteenth century was not one which gave bells a reason for not being recast, i.e., from their age alone.

When Mr. Pipe heard me state that Grundisburgh had a pretty ring of bells, there must have been some mistake. I certainly did not mean that, for not only have I never formed any opinion of these bells, but I have not formed or expressed any opinion on a single bell in the whole of my life. My hearing would not allow me to do so, as those who know me are aware.

H. D.

Dear Sir,—Mr. Cecil Pipe says my letter about the above 'contains a certain amount of truth, but is not accurate,' whatever that may mean. Will he (perhaps after reading my letter again) give details of the inaccuracies? Mr. Pipe is good enough to tell us what Mr. Drake meant. My sole concern was with what Mr. Drake said. The whole country was under review and not Suffolk only, and Mr. Pipe has wasted a lot of your valuable space in writing in bad taste on things beside the point. I rang at both Thetford and Colchester before Mr. Pipe was born, and know their geographical situation quite well.

AN EARLY RECOLLECTION.

Dear Sir,—I have read with great interest the account in your columns of the restoration of Woodbridge bells, and am sincerely thankful that the work has been done without recasting. It was listening to their glorious music in my early childhood that first instilled in me the love of bells. To this day—and I left Woodbridge in 1881—I can distinctly recall the impression that they made on me, and how my eager ear detected the difference in sound between the chiming on Sundays and the ringing on Queen Victoria's birthday. Long may that noble octave continue to ring out from St. Mary's fine old tower.

F. LL. EDWARDS.

Kington Magna Rectory.

FIRST LOCAL QUARTER-PEAL.

For evensong, on Sunday, February 11th, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples (1,260 changes) was rung by A. Grayston 1, S. Woodward 2, A. Rudd 3, G. Blake 4, F. Woodruffe 5, J. Woodruffe 6, J. Trotman (conductor) 7, G. Warner 8. It was the first quarter-peal by ringers of 1, 3 and 8, and the first quarter-peal on the bells since the rededication. So far as can be ascertained, this appears to be the first quarter-peal ever rung at Woodbridge by a band composed entirely of local ringers, and the first for about 30 years by any band. Information on this subject will be welcome.

NOTICE.

HEREFORD DIOCESAN GUILD. — Leominster District.—The annual meeting will be held at Leominster to-morrow, Saturday, Feb. 17th. Bells (10) available 3 p.m. Service 5 p.m. Tea at Church Institute 5.45 p.m. All ringers are welcome.—Jones, Dis. Sec., Old Priory, Leominster.

PEAL BOARD BLESSED AT PENZANCE.

A LINK WITH FIFTY YEARS AGO.

An interesting ceremony took place at St. Mary's Church, Penzance, on Saturday, January 13th, when a peal board recording a peal of Grandsire Triples rung at St. Mary's on Easter Monday last was accepted and blessed at evensong by the Vicar, Canon F. R. Carr. Prior to the service the peal band, standing in the same order, rang a touch of Grandsire Triples: H. Williams 1, Miss E. Symons 2, W. Wood 3, P. J. Hitchens 4, Miss E. J. C. Angwin 5, J. Wood 6, A. S. Roberts (conductor) 7, W. H. Sleeman 8.

Immediately after the second lesson, Dr. J. Symons (president of the Truro Diocesan Guild) asked Canon Carr to accept the board as a true record of the peal, rung to commemorate the jubilee of a peal he himself had conducted, and also to mark the centenary year of the Oxford Movement. He hoped that such a performance would be an incentive to the young band of ringers at St. Mary's, and that they would strive to emulate the recorded peal.

Accepting the board, Canon Carr, on behalf of the churchwardens and himself, thanked those who had generously provided the record, and they thanked God that Dr. Symons had been granted a long life to be able to take an active part in the proceedings that day. They were proud that the peal had been rung at St. Mary's, and he hoped his own ringers would endeavour to become as efficient.

Canon Carr then placed the board on the altar, blessed it and offered suitable prayers. He afterwards handed it to his churchwarden, instructing him to see that it was properly hung in the tower.

It was a unique ceremony.

Evensong then proceeded and afterwards the beautiful ring (tenor 23 cwt. 3 qr. 23 lb.) were kept going for an hour to Grandsire and Stedman Triples.

Others than the peal band present were Dr. J. Symons, the Rev. W. H. R. Trehwella (general secretary of the Truro Diocesan Guild), the Rev. E. Ormerod (late Vicar of Manaccan and St. Anthony), Mr. W. H. Southard (vice-president) and members of the Gulval company. Earlier in the afternoon all met at Gulval, about a mile distant, where a group photograph of the peal band with Dr. Symons and Mr. George Sellers, the two survivors of the band of 1883, was taken. Ringing was enjoyed on the eight bells, cast by Warner, and the whole party was entertained to tea at the Old Inn by Dr. Symons.

Mr. A. S. Roberts said, at such an informal and happy gathering, he did not want to propose a vote of thanks, but just to say 'Thank you' on behalf of them all to Dr. Symons for his great kindness. He remarked that various people had talked about peal ringers being glorified in 'The Ringing World,' and he supposed that such hospitality was their glorification.

Mr. W. Wood remarked how they appreciated being entertained in such a manner.

Dr. Symons, in acknowledging the thanks, remarked that when he called the peal in 1883 he was only a 'bob caller,' having not acquired the art of conducting, but the whole band rang well. He referred to a visit they had many years ago from the late John Carter and that he called a quarter-peal for them. He hoped that he would be able to continue his active ringing for at least a few more years, although he could not look forward to another 50 years.

BELLRINGERS' DINNER AT LEWES.

The annual dinner of the Southover Bellringers Guild, Lewes, was held in the King's Head Hotel. The Rev. D. G. Matthews (Rector and president) presided. There were also present Mr. J. T. Rickman (Master of the Sussex County Association), Mr. J. S. Goldsmith, Mr. E. H. Fuller, Mrs. G. Lloyd and Councillor R. Gorrings (vice-presidents).

Mr. J. S. Goldsmith proposed 'The Southover Bellringers' Guild,' and expressed pleasure at meeting old friends. He and Mr. Rickman were old members of the Guild, and Mr. Rickman was the donor of the two bells which made the peal into ten. He impressed on the young ringers that regular attendance at service ringing and practice, and study at home as well as in the tower were the main steps to success.

Mr. G. P. Elphick (hon. secretary) responded and welcomed the young ringers. They had had eight recruits during the year, bringing the number of ringers up to 18, the largest number for many years.

Mr. W. Ward proposed 'The Sussex County Association,' mentioning that this year was the 49th anniversary of its establishment, and it had done very valuable work in bringing the ringers and the clergy closer together.

Mr. J. T. Rickman, who responded, said that although the association had not set up any outstanding performances during the past year, it had maintained its steady position.

Mr. C. J. Rugg proposed 'The President and Vice-Presidents,' and referred to their valuable assistance to the Guild.—The Rector (the Rev. D. G. Matthews, president) and Mr. E. H. Fuller (vice-president) responded.—'The Host and Hostess' was proposed by Mr. C. T. Lloyd and was responded to by Mr. and Mrs. Muzzell.

Selections on handbells were given by Messrs. G. P. Elphick, J. Grees, C. Brown and W. Coppard, and songs given by Mr. C. Halliwell, Mr. L. S. Davey, Mr. A. J. Turner and Mr. R. J. Dawe. Mr. Perthen was the accompanist.

ESSEX ASSOCIATION*PROGRESS IN NORTHERN DIVISION.

A meeting of the Northern Division of the Essex Association was held at Witham on Saturday, February 3rd, when 50 ringers were present from 21 parishes. After a period of preliminary ringing, service was conducted in the church by the Vicar (the Rev. C. W. Barlow). The lesson was read by the district secretary. In a very interesting address the Vicar reviewed the history of church bells. People sometimes disliked bells and the ringers themselves were discouraged, he said. That should not be. Nowadays wireless was generally associated with broadcasting, but it should be remembered that church bells always broadcast their message to the people.

After the service, which was fully choral, the company were entertained to tea in the Church House. The guests numbered 60 and included members of the choir.

The Vicar presided over the business meeting, at which it was agreed to hold the next meeting at Bocking in April. This will be arranged for the 21st.

Mr. A. A. Saunders (District Master) proposed a vote of thanks to the Vicar for the use of the bells and his interesting address, also to the organist and choir for their services.—Mr. L. W. Wiffen seconded and especially thanked the sopranos. One did not often get soprano voices and the help of ladies at ringing meetings.

The Vicar, in reply, said he wished to thank the local ringers for their loyal support. He extended a hearty welcome to all the visitors and made special mention of his old friend, Mr. W. J. Nevard, of Great Bentley. Although they were mostly strangers that day, they would be friends in future. He again thanked the local band and their wives who had made such excellent arrangements for tea; also Miss Eyre, who had sent a donation towards defraying expenses for tea. Her late brother was well remembered for his services as general secretary of the association.

Mr. J. Chalk (Wanstead) said he was pleased to renew acquaintance with some of his boyhood friends. He thought choirs and ringers should be on a par. They provided the voices inside and outside the church.

Mr. W. Keeble said definite progress had been made in the division during the year. He urged as strongly as possible that young ringers should learn (or be taught) the correct way of holding a rope. Correct holding and striking was absolutely essential. It was bad striking that set the public against ringing.

A pleasant meeting was concluded by entertaining the company with selections on handbells.

SURREY ASSOCIATION.*NORTH-WESTERN DISTRICT ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual meeting of the North-Western District was held at St. Stephen's, Clapham Park, on Saturday, January 27th, and proved another very enjoyable meeting. Ringers attended from Ashted, Banstead, Beddington, Benlilton, Camberwell, Carshalton, Chelsea, Croydon (St. John's and St. Peter's), Ewell, Leatherhead, Merton, Mitcham (SS. Peter and Paul and Christ Church), Reigate, Streatham and the local company. Good use was made of the handy ring of eight bells during the afternoon in methods both for beginners and experts, and the members were very pleased to welcome among them for a short time the Rev. Carew-Cox, of Lyme Regis, who was staying in London for a few days. A short service was conducted by the Rev. C. M. Johnston, who gave a very inspiring address.

Tea was afterwards served in the Church Hall, 39 sitting down. The Rev. C. M. Johnston presided at the business meeting which followed. Nine new ringing members were elected, including the band at St. Mary's, Wimbledon, the meeting being very pleased to welcome them into the association.

The committee's annual report and treasurer's cash statement were passed by the meeting without comment.

It was decided to hold meetings if possible during the year as follows: Easter Monday, Christ Church, Epsom; May 26th, Wimbledon and Merton; July 28th, Rannmore Common (jointly with Leatherhead District of the Guildford Guild); September 29th, Lambeth; November 24th, Banstead; and the annual district meeting, January 26th, 1935, at St. John's, Croydon.

The committee was asked to draw up a provisional list of meetings in future, as it was thought that would simplify the business at the annual district meeting.

The officers elected for the ensuing year were as follows: Ringing Master, Mr. E. Talbot, Beddington; treasurer, Mr. F. Woodiss, Banstead; hon. secretary, Mr. D. Cooper, Croydon; auditor, Mr. F. Housden, Beddington. The three representatives on the committees were Mr. J. Beams, Ewell; Mr. A. W. Clark, Croydon; and Mr. W. C. Smith, Benlilton.

A very hearty vote of thanks was passed to the retiring officers for their work during the past year.

It was decided, on the suggestion of the secretary, to notify the members individually in future of the annual district meeting.

The meeting closed with a very hearty vote of thanks to the Vicar for the use of the bells, the Rev. C. M. Johnston for conducting the service, the organist and to Mr. Smalley and the local company for their very cordial welcome.

The tower was again visited during the evening, and practice was obtained in a variety of methods, including Spliced Surprise Major.

VARIETY IN METHOD RINGING.

Many times in the past in this column we urged ringers to 'get out of the rut' in regard to their peal ringing, and it is gratifying, in looking back over the last few years, to find that there has been a great deal more enterprise exhibited than was formerly the case. The Spliced Surprise peals in anything up to a dozen methods and the considerable number of new Surprise methods rung are examples of the determination of the advanced ringers to break away from the limitations with which, in days gone by, many very capable bands were content. And this indication of progress is being maintained. With less than two months of this year gone, six different bands have rung the first peal in six different Surprise methods, which have included Major, Royal and Maximus.

This is a very encouraging sign, but we would like to see greater expansion in method ringing by some of those who do not look upon themselves as being quite so far advanced as those who, to a large extent, concentrate on the Surprise methods. There is a book published by the Central Council, 'The Collection of Plain Major Methods,' which most ringers have heard about, and which all ought to possess, although we are afraid that a large proportion of ringers do not do so, and even some of those who do have put it away in their bookcase and no longer study its possibilities in practical use. In this volume are many methods which Bob Major ringers could easily master, and they ought to be as keen to score the first peals as those among the Surprise ringers who seek out new methods and ring them. The methods in this Central Council volume are not freak productions; many of them are such that any good Bob Major band ought to be able to ring them proficiently after a practice or two, and, incidentally, there are companies who have passed the Bob Major stage who would find quite a lot of the methods interesting and worth while ringing.

It is rather strange that nearly all the new Major methods that are rung are in the Surprise category, which indicates that at present it is really only the advanced ringers who have got 'out of the rut.' It is a mistake for the 'moderate' ringer to suppose that he must wait until he reaches a more exalted sphere before he can hope to launch out into fresh seas. A departure from the 'standard' methods would enable him all the quicker to reach what are sometimes called the higher methods. We hope that during the present year many of those who have put their 'Collection' in the bookcase will fetch it out again and make real use of it, while those who have not yet taken the trouble to study the contents of the volume and the scope it offers will invest in a copy, not merely for the sake of possessing it, but in order to get that new interest and incentive in their method ringing which it is the object of the volume to provide. And, too, we would like to see some of the advanced ringers turning their attention to some of these plain methods. The 'halo' which once surrounded the word 'Surprise' has, in these days, lost some of its lustre, and there are plain methods waiting for performance which would require nearly as much concentration to ring as some of those in the so-called more advanced class. The scope of Surprise ringing has vastly expanded in the last ten years; why should not the plain methods be practised in equal variety?

LINCOLN DIOCESAN GUILD.
GRIMSBY DISTRICT.

The annual meeting of the Grimsby District was held at St. James', Grimsby, on Saturday, February 3rd. Amongst the towers represented were Barrow-on-Humber, Bigby, Barton-on-Humber, Burdon-on-Stather, Ulceby, Killingholme, Thornton Curtis, Scunthorpe, Mablethorpe, Marshchapel, Elsham, Waltham and Gainsborough, together with the local members. The Rev. J. W. Sutton (Rector of Mablethorpe), the Rev. J. D. H. Patch (Vicar of Ulceby), the Guild Ringing Master, Mr. R. Richardson, and Mrs. Richardson (Surfleet) and Mr. W. Bramwell (Cleethorpes) were also present. The fine peal of eight were made good use of during the afternoon and evening. The service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. Canon Burrows), who gave the members an excellent address and a welcome. Mr. H. Rushby presided at the organ.

Tea followed at the Church House, 46 sitting down. At the business meeting which followed, the president (the Ven. Archdeacon Parry), who has just been appointed by the Bishop of Lincoln to be the first Archdeacon of the new Archdeaconry of Lindsey, presided. The secretary's report on the year was read and accepted. Owing to the illness of the secretary, Mr. H. Rushby kindly deputised for him. Archdeacon Parry was re-elected president.

It was a unique and memorable occasion in the annals of the Grimsby District to be able to re-elect an Archdeacon as president. Two years ago it was a Canon that was re-elected. Archdeacon Parry, as the whole Diocesan Guild, and especially the Grimsby District, knows, champions the cause of bellringing and ringers. His interest in the art has been shown for a great number of years, and only on unavoidable occasions is he absent from the district meetings. The wish of the Grimsby District is that he may long be spared to be amongst the members.

Mr. H. J. Mingay was re-elected secretary, Mr. J. Bray Ringing Master, Mr. G. Blanchard Deputy Ringing Master, and Mr. C. W. Taylor representative on the General Committee.

The Rev. J. W. Sutton, Rector of Mablethorpe, was elected an honorary member.

The district bell fund accounts were presented and accepted by the meeting, and district meetings were arranged as follows: April 7th, Elsham; May 12th, Ulceby; June 9th, Bigby; June 30th, Burton-on-Stather; July 21st, Barrow-on-Humber; August 25th, Laceby; October 27th, Scunthorpe.

The President moved a hearty vote of thanks to Canon Burrows for his kindness, for the use of the bells, for conducting the service and for his address; he also congratulated him on the honour which had been bestowed upon him in being made a Canon of Lincoln.—The Vicar suitably responded.

The President moved a vote of sympathy with the secretary in his illness and expressed best wishes for a speedy recovery.

Canon A. A. Markham (late of Grantham and also of Grimsby) sent his best wishes to the meeting through the president.

A hearty vote of thanks was accorded with applause to Archdeacon Parry for presiding over the meeting, and the President, in reply, thanked the members for their kindness and good wishes. This brought a very pleasant meeting to a close, after which some members indulged in handbell ringings, others returned to the tower, while some had to make for home.

SOUTHERN BRANCH AT GRANTHAM.

The annual meeting of the Southern Branch of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild was held at Grantham on Saturday, January 20th, and ringers were present from Melton Mowbray, Bottesford, Hough-on-the-Hill, Orston, Barkston, Surfleet, Bourne, Wymondham, Market Deeping, Folkingham and the local band. Through the kindness of the newly-appointed Vicar (the Rev. G. H. Warde), the peal of ten were available during the afternoon and evening, and touches were rung of Stedman and Grandsire Caters and Bob Royal, also various touches on the back eight. Service was held in the ancient and beautiful Church of St. Wolfram, at which the Vicar officiated and gave a very helpful and appropriate address, at the same time extending a hearty welcome to members of the Southern Branch.

Tea was served in the Church Hall, 22 sitting down. The business meeting followed, at which the Rev. C. J. Sturton (Vicar of Orston) presided. The first business was the election of a new president of the branch, owing to the Rev. R. D. Rowlands having left the district. The Rev. E. J. Hopkins, the newly-appointed Vicar of Edenham, who is a ringer, was unanimously elected president.

Mr. W. G. Thorpe proposed the re-election of the retiring officers en bloc.—Mr. H. Haynes seconded the proposal, which was carried unanimously. In addition to these, the Rev. G. H. Warde was unanimously elected a vice-president of the branch. The other officers are: Ringing Master, Mr. H. M. Day; treasurer, Mr. A. Holmes; secretary, Mr. C. T. H. Bradley; and auditor, Mr. W. G. Thorpe. Mr. G. A. Day, of Market Deeping, and Mr. E. Roys, of Grantham, were elected performing members of the Southern Branch, and Barkston was chosen for the spring meeting.

The accounts were presented, and showed a small balance after expenses had been paid for the past year.

A hearty vote of thanks was extended by Mr. Rupert Richardson (Master of the Guild), seconded by Mr. C. T. H. Bradley and carried.

PEAL TABLET DEDICATED AT SHEPSHED.

On Saturday, February 10th, a slate peal tablet was dedicated in the tower of St. Botolph's Church, Shepshead, near Loughborough, to commemorate the first peal of Major on these bells and rung as long ago as 1897. The Vicar (the Rev. — Mack), in the presence of the two churchwardens (Messrs. S. B. Feckleton and W. Pallett) and a company of ringers, first spoke as to the record the tablet commemorated, then after the hymn, 'We love the place, O God,' had been sung, he dedicated the tablet with appropriate prayers. The tablet, erected by Mr. W. Johnson, records a peal of Bob Major (5,152 changes) rung on Saturday, August 2nd, 1897, in 3 hours 17 minutes, by William Platts treble, Thomas Start 2, William Johnson 3, John H. Grundy 4, Edward Reader 5, Arthur W. Matthews 6, Israel Lovett 7, William H. Inglesant tenor. Composed and conducted by Wm. H. Inglesant.

Immediately after the dedication a band arranged by Mr. W. Johnson rang a similar peal of 5,152 Bob Major, composed and conducted by the general hon. secretary of the association, Mr. Ernest Morris, F.R.Hist.S. (who is also a member of the Johnson Society of London). It was unfortunate that owing to an accident Mr. W. Johnson could not take part in this peal, but Mr. J. H. Grundy, who rang in the original peal, did so. Afterwards the band were sumptuously entertained by Mr. Johnson to tea, at which the Vicar and churchwardens were present.

RESTORATION OF DORCHESTER CHURCH.

At St. Peter's Church, Dorchester, Dorset, on Sunday, February 4th, for morning service, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples: J. W. Smith 1, R. Hayward 2, G. T. White (conductor) 3, L. J. Noakes 4, W. J. Simons 5, J. Squire 6, W. A. Groves 7, J. G. Lock (first quarter) 8.—For evening service, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples: W. J. Simons 1, J. W. Smith 2, G. T. White 3, L. J. Noakes 4, R. Hayward 5, J. Squire 6, W. A. Groves (conductor) 7, J. G. Lock 8. The conductor's first attempt to call a quarter-peal. These quarter-peals were rung to mark the completion of seven months' restoration work to the above church and to commemorate the visit of the Bishop of Sherborne on the occasion of the thanksgiving services held the previous Sunday.

to the Vicar for the use of the bells and the service, coupled with thanks to the chairman, the Rev. C. J. Sturton, and to all who had contributed to making the meeting a success.

The tower was again visited and ringing continued until 8.30. It was good to see one very youthful performer at the end of the rope, in the person of Miss Enid Richardson, who, assisted by her father, displayed great promise and enthusiasm.

NORWICH DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.*SOUTH NORFOLK BRANCH.

The annual meeting of the South Norfolk Branch was held on Saturday last, when 36 members turned up at Pulham Market from Diss, Dickleburgh, Hethersett, Garboldisham, Redenhall, Palgrave, Starston, Shelfanger, Saxlingham, Winfarthing, Wymondham, Norwich and the local band.

At the business meeting, which followed the tea, kindly provided by the Rector, Mr. Wm. L. Duffield, of Saxlingham, was unanimously elected chairman of the branch, Mr. N. Golden, of Norwich, secretary, and Messrs. Bennett (Garboldisham), Harrison (Diss), More (Palgrave), Riches (Redenhall) and Whiting (Pulham), the five elected members of the committee.

J. Woolnough, of Starston, was elected a performing member, and the Rev. W. H. Benson, M.A., of Buxton, an honorary member.

Diss is to be the venue of the next meeting, on April 21st.

The Rector of Pulham was heartily thanked for his generosity in entertaining the ringers.—In reply, the Rector said he was pleased indeed, and considered it a privilege to have the ringers of the district at Pulham. He felt certain the association was doing a great work for the Church and the cause of ringing.

Touces of Bob Royal and Grandsire Caters were rung on handbells, and Stedman, Double Norwich, Oxford Treble Bob, Cambridge, Superlative and London Surprise during the afternoon and evening on the bells of the Parish Church. The Norwich contingent passed away the time in returning by train with Forward, Cambridge, Kent and Plain Bob Major on handbells. N. G.

BEDFORDSHIRE ASSOCIATION.

A meeting of the Bedford District of the Bedfordshire Association was held at Bromham on Saturday, February 17th, and was very well attended. The fine peal of six bells were made good use of throughout the afternoon and evening in methods varying from London Surprise to Doubles, with a sprinkling of rounds. After an excellent tea, the business meeting was held, presided over by Miss E. Steel, but this, of a routine nature, was soon disposed of, and the members were quickly back in the tower to ring on this famous peal (tenor 25½ cwt.).

There is every reason to believe that in the near future two more trebles will be added and the peal overhauled.

Among those present were Mr. C. T. Bradley (secretary of the Southern Branch of the Lincoln Guild), Mrs. P. Humphreys, of Folkingham, Lincs, and Mr. P. Amos, of Wellingborough.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

The number of peals rung in the year 1933 and published in 'The Ringing World' was 1,834, a falling off of 368 compared with 1932, when 2,202 were rung.

The Henry Johnson dinner on March 3rd will be attended by the Lord Mayor and Lady Mayoress of Birmingham. Henry Johnson was born on February 28th, 1809, and died on January 7th, 1890.

Those who would like to ring at Bishop Ryder's Church before the dinner will be able to do so between 3.30 and 4.30 p.m., and Mr. James George will be there to welcome them.

A distinctly good performance is that by John A. Green, of Wicken, who has just called a peal of Stedman Triples from a non-observation bell. He is only 16 years of age. Who has been the youngest ringer to do this?

At the annual meeting of the Leatherhead District of the Guildford Diocesan Guild on Saturday, the hon. secretary (Mr. A. H. Smith) was presented with a bookcase from the members of the district and a wall mirror from the members of the Leatherhead band, on the occasion of his marriage, which took place a week earlier.

It is interesting to note that Mr. H. Smith, who rang the 42½ cwt. tenor at Leeds to the peal of Stedman Cinques recorded in our last issue, is 72 years of age. Are there any other ringers, apart from the Birmingham 'wonder,' who, at this age, have accomplished such a feat?

Incidentally, the name of the ringer of the 6th in this peal was Thomas W. Strangeway, not Strange as published, and the note of the tenor should, of course, have been given as C and not G.

March 1st is the 200th anniversary of the first of a series of long peals of Grandsire Caters rung at Painswick, Glos, viz.: On March 1st, 1734, 8,064, in 4 hours 45 minutes; on March 1st, 1735, 10,080, in 6 hours 27 minutes; on April 18th, 1737, 12,006, in 7 hours 55 minutes.

Forty-five years ago on Thursday, also, the Warnham, Sussex, band rang 13,440 Canterbury Pleasure Major in 7 hours 45 minutes. Walter Charman, one of that company, is still actively engaged in ringing at the same church.

The Minor record was made at Wath-on-Dearne, Yorks, on Feb. 27th, 1816, when 21 extents in different methods were rung. It was described as 'twenty-one peals.' On the same date, 41 years earlier, '10,080 changes (or 84 peals)' was rung at Whaplode, Lincs.

This latter is probably the longest peal ever rung on five bells. No method is stated, but the record reads:—

'Feb 27th 1775 was Rung 10,080 changes or 84 peals by Wm Jackson, Richd Harwood, Wm Money, Stepn Davis and Richd Pottenger. Raised and Settled the Bells in 7 Hours and 25 Minutes.'

The death is announced at his home in Parkstone, Dorset, of Canon George Russell Bullock-Webster, for 22 years, until 1932, Rector of St. Michael's, College Hill, London. He was well known to ringers visiting London for the College Youths' dinners, for it was at his church that the annual service of the society was revived, and during the time he was Rector he always officiated. Canon Bullock-Webster was 75 years of age.

DULL SERVICES AT RINGERS' MEETINGS.

Dear Sir,—Complaints have frequently been made about the threadbare subject of ringers' attendance at church, which so often forms the subject of the address at a ringers' service, but no one seems to raise any objection to an even more monotonous subject, namely, the passage which is invariably chosen for the lesson (Numbers 10, 1-10).

Doubtless there are many ringers who, like myself, are heartily sick of hearing about the two silver trumpets.

If we are quite frank with ourselves, we must admit that even to-day a great many ringers rarely attend church services except on such occasions as at meetings and bell dedications, so that the only portion of Scriptures they ever hear is an isolated extract from the Old Testament, and in any case the resemblance of the two silver trumpets of Moses to the church bells of to-day is scarcely calculated to inspire ringers.

There is room for drastic alteration in many of our association services, and, in my humble opinion, one improvement could take the form of the substitution of either one of the New Testament lessons or the Gospel appointed for the day for the lesson at present in use.

Perhaps some of our clerical ringers would care to express an opinion on the subject.

VANCOUVER RINGER'S DEATH.

One of the band who took part in the first and only peal ever rung in the Dominion of Canada has recently died in Vancouver. He is Mr. William R. Warner, formerly of South Weald. He went to Vancouver some 24 years ago and had been a valued member of the band at the R.C. Cathedral Church of the Holy Rosary. He rang the fifth to the peal of Grandsire Triples rung there on July 1st, 1911.

The bells of the Cathedral were rung muffled to his memory after his passing.

THE BANKES JAMES ARRANGEMENT.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—You want the Central Council to recognise the Bankes James Cambridge Minor. So do we, and though we are not likely to agree with your arguments, would it not be well to act on the hint given in 'The Ringing World' a week or two ago? Shall we try and get the Council and the Exercise to say definitely that it is quite allowable to use that and similar compositions in a peal; and leave the formal definition of a peal of Minor and the question of the Morris Doubles and others till another occasion?

J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.
ERNEST C. S. TURNER.

POSITION NEEDS REGULARISING.

Dear Sir,—While appreciating what Mr. H. G. Cashmore says of my suggested definitions, may I point out that they are not intended to be final, but are worded so that anyone may suggest an amendment, if he can think of an improvement. Perhaps Mr. Cashmore can suggest a better wording of this definition.

He implies that there is some law that one must begin ringing with an even number of rounds. I know of no such law, and do not see why it should be made.

While, in the old days, there was no stated number of rounds, a peal was not considered 'complete' without some rounds to begin and end with it. If we are to return to this position, my definition is one way of doing so. If we are not to do this, then let my definition be amended accordingly. At present we have adopted the plan of having rounds only once between extents, without really thinking out what it involves. Hence our present difficulties.

We need not suppose that anyone will want to ring not less than three rows of rounds between each extent, but the point of the definition is that if they do not do this, or some other agreed number, they will not have rung complete extents. In the same way one may suppose that people will go on ringing only one row of rounds between the extents. But if so, they will have to recognise that they are ringing incomplete extents. There is nothing wrong in doing this, but it needs regularising by being mentioned in a rule.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

SOUTH AND WEST DISTRICT'S GOOD YEAR.

After visiting Isleworth for many years, the South and West District altered the venue for this year's annual meeting, and met at Heston. Strangely enough, it was the smallest attendance at such a meeting for many years. Custom dies hard, and maybe this was one of the reasons for the absence of some ringers. However, the step has been taken, and it is to be hoped that by next year the old tradition will be put out of mind and the same loyal support given as in the past.

The bells were rung to a variety of methods before and after tea, with the unique feature of a different ringing master for each session. (No prizes for answering this puzzle!)

Evensong was conducted by the Vicar of Heston (the Rev. G. Griggs), who gave an admirable address. Tea followed in the Church Room, where an excellent meal had been prepared by the Heston ringers and wives. They were heartily thanked for their efforts in this direction. Thanks were also given to the Vicar, who is fast gaining a reputation of being a 'ringer's parson.' He certainly appreciates what they do!

The general meeting, which was presided over by the vice-president (Mr. J. A. Trollope), was attended by 30 members and friends.—The balance sheet showed a balance in the General Fund of over £8, while that in the Bell Restoration Fund exceeded £10.

Messrs. E. J. Wright, of Ealing, and K. Bishop, of Ruislip, were elected ringing members.

The following were elected officers for the ensuing year: Ringing Master, Mr. T. Collins (Ruislip); Deputy Ringing Master, Mr. G. M. Kilby (Ruislip); hon. secretary, Mr. F. W. Goodfellow (Hillingdon); assistant hon. secretary, Mr. W. G. Wilson (Ealing); hon. treasurer, Mr. C. S. Bird (Heston). Messrs. Chandler (Heston), F. Corke (Hillingdon) and E. C. S. Turner (Ealing) were elected as representatives to the Central Committee, and Messrs. Lidbetter (Isleworth) and Turner (Ealing) as auditors.

A new rule to the effect that, if possible, the annual district meeting should be held at a different tower each year, was passed.

It was also decided to grant £2 2s. to the Bedford Bell Restoration Fund if and when an estimate for the work was accepted by the local authority.

The proposal to amend the title of the association was discussed, but no action was taken.

The Oxford Diocesan Guild are to be invited to hold a joint meeting at Hillingdon in October, while the next annual district meeting will be held there next February.

Notice was given of the next district meeting at St. Andrew's, Hillingdon West, on March 10th, and the association annual meeting at Ealing on April 21st.

LANCASHIRE ASSOCIATION.

TOWER AFFILIATION FEES.

A quarterly meeting of the Manchester Branch of the Lancashire Association was held at St. Mary's, Eccles, on Saturday, Feb. 17th. Some good practice was put in on the bells prior to the service, which was conducted by the curate (the Rev. Parkes), who gave a very inspiring address.

Tea was afterwards served in the Schoolroom, at which 28 members and friends sat down.

After tea votes of thanks were accorded to Canon Ross for permission to hold the meeting and for the use of the bells, and to the curate for conducting the service and for the address.—The curate responded on behalf of the Canon and himself.

The branch president (Mr. C. Ollier) presided over the business meeting.

The majority of the towers in the branch were represented in the number present, which included also Mr. W. H. Shaker (general secretary of the association) and Mr. Claude I. Davies (treasurer), and members from other branches.

One new member was elected, viz., Mr. George Newton, West Didsbury.

The treasurer asked for assistance from the leaders of towers in bringing to the notice of their Parochial Councils the scheme for affiliation to the association with a view to obtaining regular payment of the affiliation fees.

It was decided that the meetings for the coming quarter be held as follows: March 17th, at Ashton-under-Lyne; April 21st, at Birch-in-Rusholme; and the quarterly meeting on May 12th at Brookfield, Gorton.

At the conclusion of the meeting a vote of thanks was given to the ladies and local ringers for providing and serving tea, and carrying out the arrangements of the day.

Afterwards a very pleasant and useful evening was spent among the bells, where late though welcome arrivals kept up the continuity of ringing.

WIGAN AND BOLTON BRANCHES MEET.

The annual joint meeting of the Wigan and Bolton Branches was held at St. Peter's, Hindley, on Saturday week, and was a very representative gathering, members being present from Wigan Parish Church, Poolstock, Coppull, Standish, Rainford, Aughton, West-houghton, Leigh, Walkden, Holy Trinity, St. Saviour's, Newchurch, St. George's, Bolton Parish, along with the local ringers. The bells were soon ringing out merrily, and the following methods were indulged in: Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Plain Bob, Kent Treble Bob, Double Norwich and Cambridge Surprise. Service was conducted by the Rev. Canon Elsee, M.A., president of the Lancashire Association, who preached a very fine sermon on the ringers' attitude to worship. The lesson was read by the Rev. W. A. Sargent. A very enjoyable tea followed in the local cafe, full justice being done to the good things provided.

It was decided to hold the next joint meeting in June, at West-houghton.

A feature of the meeting was the presence of three stalwarts of the association, in the persons of Messrs. William Blackledge, Thomas Eccleston and Peter Nuttall, who have respectively 48, 55 and 50 years' service to their credit.

The Vicar of St. Peter's (the Rev. W. A. Sargent) offered a great welcome to the ringers, and hoped they would pay another visit in the near future.

The Rev. Canon Elsee thanked the Vicar for his kindness, and paid tribute to the organist and choir, and also to the ladies, who so generously gave the tea.—Mr. Peter Crook suitably replied on behalf of the ringers.

Credit is also due to Mr. W. O. Farrimond, secretary of the Wigan Branch, in organising such a wonderful meeting. 'Stand' was called at 9 p.m., and ended another great day for the two branches concerned.

ARTHUR CRAVEN AND BURLEY.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—May I state for the benefit of 'Bob Minor,' his friend G., and others, that the late Mr. Arthur Craven commenced his ringing career on the old ring of six at Burley, Leeds (for confirmation see Yorkshire Association report, 1929-30). I once heard a ringer from the Sheffield district, on being asked where he hailed from, say, 'I come from Arthur Craven's country.' Now, while we cannot object at Burley here, to make kings for other places, we do object to the place of their birth being claimed for those other places. Burley is an ideal place, according to some people's idea; the ringing being on the voluntary system, and the result has been that no peal has been rung on the bells by a local band, though they were a ring of six in the year 1855. It has been a continual struggle to get them rung for Sunday services, while ringers who were brought up here have scored peals from Minor (seven Minor extents) to Maximus, from Plain Bob to London Surprise.

GEORGE WM. SLACK.

PASTON CHURCH BELLS REHUNG.*RURAL DEAN AND BELL RESTORATIONS.

The ring of five bells in the tower of the beautiful old Church of St. Margaret, Paston, Norfolk, has been tuned and rehung in a new frame and the tenor recast. They were dedicated by the Rev. C. W. Kershaw, Rural Dean of Tunstead, at a service held on Thursday evening, February 8th, when there was a good attendance.

The Rev. R. E. V. Prichard, Vicar of Paston with Knapton, has probably established a record by having the two rings of bells in his parish churches restored within the short period of 13 months. Unfortunately, a severe illness prevented him from attending the service.

The five bells are dated 1623, but the third was recast by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank in 1905, and at this time it appears that the old oak frame was preserved by strapping the timber together with iron. For some years recently the condition of the frame caused anxiety, and, after expert advice had been obtained, it was decided to cease ringing. The last occasion on which the bells had been rung was on the Sunday after the funeral of Hugh Paston Mack in May of last year, when a half-muffled peal was rung in his memory. His daughter, Mrs. Roland Bell, of Paston, started a subscription list for the restoration of the bells, the amounts being augmented by the proceeds of various social events.

The ring has been rehung in a steel and iron frame with the most modern fittings by Messrs. Gillett and Johnston, of Croydon, who had also carried out the restoration of the bells at Knapton Church last year. The weights of the Paston bells are: 1 (D), 3 cwt. 3 qr. 15 lb.; 2 (C), 4 cwt. 2 qr. 19 lb.; 3 (B), 5 cwt. 2 qr. 15 lb.; 4 (A), 7 cwt. 0 qr. 18 lb.; 5 (G), 11 cwt. 2 qr. 3 lb.

The service was conducted by the Rev. H. Muir (Rector of Swafeld and Bradfield), and the lessons were read by the Rev. F. A. Chase (Vicar of North Walsham) and the Rev. Francis E. R. Thompson, of Runham, who was Vicar of Paston from 1910 to 1914. The Rural Dean preached the sermon. The Rev. W. F. Sommerfeld (Vicar of Bacton and Edington) was also present.

The Norwich Diocesan Association of Ringers was represented by Mr. A. L. Coleman (general secretary) and Mr. W. C. Duffield. Cromer and Northrepps ringers also attended the service. Mr. Cyril Johnston represented the bellfounders.

After the dedicatory prayers, a plain course of Bob Doubles was rung, the ringers being R. Francis 1, D. Burton 2, D. Yaxley 3, G. Burton (conductor) 4, T. Francis 5. A sermon was preached by the Rural Dean. A collection, made in aid of the fund, realised £10 5s. 5d.

MONEY SPENT ON BRITISH LABOUR.

After expressing regret at the enforced absence of the Vicar, the Rev. C. W. Kershaw, in the course of his sermon, continued: 'It might be said, as it is being said in the Press and elsewhere about the purchase of the Codex Sinaiticus, that the money you have spent on the restoration of your bells might have been better expended on hospitals, the unemployed, or other charitable purposes. It might have been better spent that way, so might all the money spent on anything that is not a necessity of life—the millions spent on amusements, tobacco, cigarettes, sweets, drinks, superfluous smart clothes and even the three-ha'pence spent on some daily paper. And if a distinction is drawn between the spending of public and private cash I would retort that in a professedly Christian country the same principles of spending should be applied all round. You have spent your money on British labour and materials; you have provided yourselves with the means of affording an interesting occupation to those who care to learn the art of bellringing—an art interesting in itself and calling for intelligence, patience, perseverance, team work and good fellowship.

'I am no Pharasaic Sabbatarian,' said the Rural Dean. 'I believe that Sunday is a day to be enjoyed; that it can be and should be a day of rest and gladness. A day, indeed, for such pleasure as does not rob others of their leisure—a day of rest, not restlessness—a day of gladness, not licence. On our roads the tearing, shrieking, reeking, hire-purchase parade which has in eight years destroyed 50,000 of our fellow countrymen and injured one and a half million more has succeeded also in destroying much of the restful joy and gladness of our English Sunday. The motor vehicle, and a class of people who demand a seven-days week for pleasure, have done much—I think most—to destroy the English Sunday. Let the sound of the bells at least make you stop and think.'

After the service visiting ringers rang some well-struck touches in various methods, and the tone and go of the restored peal afforded the greatest satisfaction to all those who were privileged to ring on this latest faultless product of the Croydon Foundry.

A BIRTHDAY TOUCH.

At Stevenage, Herts, on January 16th, as a birthday compliment to Mrs. J. W. Smith, mother of Mr. R. W. Smith (churchwarden), a quarter-peal of Minor (720 Oxford Treble Bob, 360 Kent Treble Bob and 180 Plain Bob): H. Cresswell (first quarter-peal) 1, H. W. Wittering 2, W. Brown 3, G. Cherry 4, T. H. Townsend 5, W. Lawrence (conductor) 6.

LONDON COUNTY ASSOCIATION.*A DAY OF HAPPY EVENTS.

The annual meeting of the London County Association was held on Saturday, February 10th, at St. Clement Danes, Strand, Crossing London Bridge at 2.30 p.m., it was evident that 'something was on,' for the bells of St. Magnus-the-Martyr were ringing merrily, with those of St. Dunstan's-in-the-East as an echo just as pleasant to hear. The advertised 'bright and cheery' L.C.A. meeting had commenced with the officers of the North District in charge of St. Dunstan's tower, where Grandsire, Stedman, Treble Bob, Cambridge and London were all a-go, whilst the officers of the Southern District were quite at home at St. Magnus'. Leaving this neighbourhood at 3.45 p.m., it was not long before the bells of St. Clement's were heard to be 'going strong.' Here the Master (Mr. T. H. Tafender) was in charge of quite a packed tower, where methods numerous and well rung followed one another without break until 4.15 p.m. Everybody seemed in their best mood, which undoubtedly helped considerably towards the fine success of the short service, which was held at St. Clement Danes. The lessons were read by Messrs. E. A. Young and C. O. Moore, and a very helpful address commending ringers regularly to attend their own churches for worship after ringing was given by the Rector of St. Mary's, Woolwich. To give some idea of the number of those who had enjoyed the ringing and service, no less than 52 sat down to tea at the Willow Restaurant in Essex Street. Here again all went well, with an excellent tea in a bright and well-arranged room.

After tea, whilst cigars and cigarettes were handed round, one heard some very good tune playing by Messrs. Young, Herbert, Cross, Meyer, Mrs. Matthews and Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Barker. At the same time numbers had again found their way over to St. Clement's, and further good ringing took place until 7 p.m.

The business meeting was then held in the Parish Hall. The Master took the chair, there being some 60 members present. A very satisfactory statement of accounts was read by the auditors, and the general secretary (Mr. C. O. Moore) reported fine progress in all departments, especially thanking Mr. Barker and the officers of the Southern District for their pioneer work rendered during the year at the tower of St. Stephen's, Rochester Row, where they helped to form a new band of 14 ringers, all of whom became members of the L.C.A. Mr. Wyatt, on behalf of St. Mary, Lambeth, ringers, informed the association that St. Mary's bells having been completely restored, the L.C.A. was offered the use of the bells once each month, as would be announced regularly in 'The Ringing World.'

Upon the suggestion of the Master, tribute was paid to the memory of the seven members lost by death during the year by the whole gathering standing in a two minutes' silence.

All the officers were re-elected en bloc for the ensuing year, and a vote of thanks was offered to those who had granted the use of the various towers and for all that the hon. chaplain had arranged.

The Camberwell band of handbell ringers, being unchallenged, were awarded the 'Dawe Cup' after a fine exhibition of Grandsire Triples, and, as further evidence of their splendid spirit, they offered to ring—and did well ring—silently, three courses of Stedman Triples, the composition of which was to be that suggested by any conductor there present. The 'Camberwell Band,' having now won the cup successively for two years, are unable to compete next year, so that in February, 1935, there should be plenty of young and new bands to enter the contest for this splendid silver trophy.

A day of happy events ended with only one regret, the absence through illness of the hon. chaplain (the Rev. W. Pennington-Bickford), who, with Mrs. Bickford, has so long given the association his full support.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.*NEWBURY BRANCH AT CHIEVELEY.

A successful meeting of the Newbury Branch was held at Chieveley on Saturday, February 10th, when upwards of 30 attended from Bucklebury, Brightwalton, Compton, Chieveley, East Ilsley, Newbury, Peasemore and Thatcham. Visitors were also present from Abingdon, Bramley, Mortimer and Overton. A short service was conducted by the Rev. F. J. Salt, who also gave an address, the Vicar of Chieveley (the Rev. H. Bonsey) being away from home.—Miss S. Davis (Bucklebury) presided at the organ.

Tea was served in the Vicarage Barn, when 33 sat down to an excellent meal.

The business meeting followed, over which the Rev. W. Kingsley Kefford (chairman of the branch) presided. He was supported by the hon. secretary and treasurer (Mr. H. W. Curtis).

The spring meeting was fixed for Midgham on Saturday, April 21st. The summer meeting is to be held at Bucklebury on Saturday, June 16th.

Five new members were elected from Kinthury tower.

The Chairman proposed a hearty vote of thanks to the Rev. H. Bonsey for the use of the bells, to the Rev. F. J. Salt for taking the service, to Miss S. Davis for playing the organ, and to Messrs. Prismatic for providing the tea.—This was carried with applause.

The tower was again visited and the bells kept going till 8 o'clock in the following methods: Grandsire and Stedman Doubles, Plain Bob, Kent Treble Bob and Cambridge Minor.

GLOUCESTER AND BRISTOL DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.*APPEAL FOR MORE SUPPORT AT BRANCH MEETINGS.

The annual meeting of the Bristol Branch was held at St. Ambrose, Bristol East, on Saturday, January 27th, about 40 members being present. The bells, a nice peal of eight, were set going at 3 p.m. and some useful practice obtained. The usual ringers' service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. F. S. Lee, M.A.), and was fully choral, Mr. A. E. Clarke presiding at the organ. The Vicar gave an interesting address.

After the service a move was made to the Parish Hall, where the ladies had prepared a very nice tea. The business meeting was presided over by Mr. J. G. Jefferies (branch chairman), supported by Mr. J. Gould (Master), the Rev. M. E. Thorold (vice-president) and the Vicar.

The secretary, in his report, emphasised the need of more support at the branch meetings. An analysis had been drawn up showing the percentage of attendance from each tower during the past year, and out of the 31 towers with bells and ringers in the branch there were 12 towers who had not been represented at any of the meetings during the last year. He hoped they would give better support in future to ensure the success of the branch.

The Chairman supported the secretary and added how very discouraging it was to go to some meetings where the attendance had been poor.

It was decided, after discussion, to continue the meetings as before. Mr. J. G. Jefferies was re-elected chairman and Mr. F. Skidmore branch secretary, Mr. S. G. Riches being elected to serve on the Management Committee. Twelve new members were elected.

The place of the next annual meeting will be St. Philip's, and the quarterly meetings are to be held as follows: March, St. Matthew's; June, Pucklechurch; September, Olveston.

The Master thanked the officers for their work during the past year, and his motion was seconded by the Rev. M. E. Thorold and supported by Mr. S. G. Riches.

The Chairman proposed a hearty vote of thanks to the Vicar for the use of the bells and for his hearty welcome to the branch, also to the organist and choir, and to the ladies who had waited on them at tea.—This concluded the meeting, and further ringing was indulged in until about 9 p.m.

WINCHESTER AND PORTSMOUTH DIOCESAN GUILD.*NEW ALTON AND PETERSFIELD DISTRICT.

The first annual meeting of the new Alton and Petersfield District was held at St. Lawrence's, Alton, on Saturday, February 10th, when members were present from Alton, Alresford, Blackmoor, Bramshot, Bishopstoke, Fareham, Froyle, North Stoneham, Portsea, Petersfield, Steep, Titchfield, Winchester, Wickham, West Meon and visitors from Farnham and Farnborough. After ringing during the afternoon the Guild service was held, and a most helpful address given by the Vicar (the Rev. T. N. R. Griffen). An excellent tea was served in the Church Room, to which a company of 65 in all sat down.

The business meeting followed, the Rev. F. G. Eyres (district chairman) presiding. He paid tribute to the work of the Rev. B. C. Taylor (the late district secretary), and a hearty vote of thanks was unanimously accorded him.

The balance sheet of the old Alton District was read and adopted. The election of officers for the year 1934 resulted in the same committee returning to office, with the exception of the hon. secretary, whose place was filled by Mr. C. E. Bassett; the other officers were re-elected as follows: Chairman, the Rev. F. G. Eyres; auditor, the Rev. T. N. R. Griffen; district representative, Mr. W. Read.

Three new ringing members were elected, and it was decided to hold the next annual district meeting at Petersfield on January 26th, 1935, and the first quarterly meeting at Blackmoor on April 28th.

Votes of thanks were accorded the chairman, caterers and organist, and also the Rev. Griffen for so ably arranging the tea and for his address. Ringing was then resumed, the methods ranging from Grandsire Doubles to London Surprise Major.

WARWICKSHIRE GUILD.

A quarterly meeting of the Warwickshire Guild was held at Chilvers Coton on January 27th. There was a splendid attendance of members from Allesley, Bulkington, Exhall, Higham, Lillington, Nuneaton, Rugby, Stoke, Warwick, Water Orton and Wolvey, together with the local band. The bells were set ringing soon after 3 o'clock, and continued in a variety of methods until 5 p.m., when tea was served in the Parish Hall. The Rev. E. E. C. Jones (senior curate), in the absence of the Vicar, presided over the business meeting, which followed the tea.

The meeting places for February and March were decided, viz., Allesley for February and Bulkington for March.

Seven new members were admitted—four from Exhall, two from Chilvers Coton and one from Warwick.

The meeting closed with votes of thanks to the chairman, the Vicar and the ladies who prepared the tea. Handbell ringing occupied the next half-hour, both method and tune ringing being indulged in. Then a return was made to the tower for further ringing. The bells of Nuneaton Church being available, a number made their way there. So, with ringing at both towers in the evening, a pleasant meeting came to an end.

WOODBIDGE BELLS.To the Editor.*

Dear Sir,—Mr. Drake assumes too much. My criticism was not based on secondhand information, but after I had read his first letter in the 'East Anglian Daily Times.' In it Mr. Drake said that Woodbridge were 'the last bells cast before the ancient and beautiful system of casting and tuning was finally lost,' so that my description of a 'desolation period' was not far out.

Mr. Drake now says he was 'writing from an antiquarian point of view for antiquarians.' Then why write such inaccurate stuff? In my first letter I pointed out that Thetford and Colchester were older than Woodbridge, and yet Mr. Drake asks, 'Can anyone beat 1790?' which is the date of Thetford.

Colchester are 1763, so that's that, and I would hazard a guess that other parts of the country can produce still older rings. It isn't likely we have ALL the old ones in this part of the world, and Mr. Drake must really redraft his message to the antiquarians. 'This is all.'

'OLD RINGER.'

Dear Sir,—Just as I expected. 'Old Ringer' has attacked me like all anonymous writers usually do; with bitterness and sarcasm, using as a weapon his age and service. I refuse to go any further into the matter until our above mentioned friend has the courage to sign his correct name.

CECIL W. PIPE.*THE OLDEST BELLS.

Dear Sir,—In answer to the Rev. H. Drake, who claims Woodbridge bells, cast 1799, to be the oldest complete ring of eight, Merton College, Oxford, is the oldest peal intact that I know of, date 1680, tenor 27 cwt., cast by C. Hodson. Painswick back ten were cast in 1731; founder, A. Rudhall.

I can give 20 more peals cast before 1799. And probably there are a good many more.

'MIXING OF THE CLASSES.'To the Editor.*

Dear Sir,—I have never previously trespassed upon the space of 'The Ringing World,' but I would like to offer a few comments on your leading article of last week, and upon Mr. G. L. Grover's report. The latter was a most excellent document, containing much food for thought, but I think that the reason why so many ringers have not rung peals is possibly due to three reasons:—

- (1) That they do not care for peal ringing.
- (2) That they are too apathetic to push their individual needs to the right quarter; or
- (3) That there is some defect in their ringing which no conductor will tolerate.

I should think that most of the members in Mr. Grover's district come under these headings. I need not enlarge upon the first. Under the second, I think that if a ringer is keen to ring peals he should have sufficient initiative to make his case known to peal ringing bands or conductors. Thirdly, there are many ringers up and down the country who, although keen to ring peals, are bad strikers. I agree with Mr. Pulling that peals with bad striking are likely to do more harm than good. Striking can and should be perfected on practice nights.

Now, Sir, turning to your leading article, you suggest a better mixing of the classes and a giving up of more time to the 'less-than-average' by the experts. Surely the appeal for aid should come from the 'less-than-averages.' It is not my experience that these sort of appeals fall on deaf ears. I have always found the experts willing to utilise their knowledge to help the less favoured. I have, however, come across cases where expert help, voluntarily offered, has been scorned or not utilised as it might be, usually through the petty jealousy of the man with most influence in the tower. It is sometimes hard to avoid the accusation of 'poking one's nose in,' and, therefore, I repeat that appeals for aid should come from those who need it. If some ringers would be more broadminded and think a little more of the good of the Exercise rather than of their own position, I think we should find the elements would mix better.

DURHAM AND NEWCASTLE DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.*MEMBERS OF CONGREGATION ATTEND RINGING MEETING.

The beautiful modern Church of All Saints, Gosforth, on the outskirts of Newcastle-on-Tyne, was chosen for the pre-Lent meeting of the Durham and Newcastle Diocesan Association, and, on the suggestion of Mr. M. D. Oubridge, the local secretary, an innovation was made by inviting members of the congregation to join in and get to know some of the mysteries of change ringing.

The church contains a very fine peal of ten bells, with 22 cwt. tenor, and good use was made of them during the afternoon. Evensong, fully choral, followed, and the Vicar (the Rev. W. A. S. Kennedy), welcomed the ringers and friends.

An excellent tea followed in the Parish Hall, the company, including choir, ringers and members of the congregation, numbering nearly 100, and, on the motion of Mr. William Story, J.P., a hearty vote of thanks was accorded to the Vicar for his address, to the choir and organist for their services, and to the ladies for attending on the tables.

In order to stimulate interest in change ringing among the congregation, it had been arranged with Mr. C. L. Routledge, of the Newcastle Cathedral band, to give a lecture, illustrated by diagrams and handbell demonstrations, on campanology. Mr. Routledge dealt with his difficult subject in a masterly manner, and was heartily thanked, the handbell ringing being loudly applauded.

A set of handbells belonging to the late Capt. Murray was used, and the lovely mellow tone was much commented on.

Many of the visitors then witnessed practical ringing in the belfry, and a very successful meeting concluded at about 9 p.m.

CLEVELAND AND NORTH YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION.*THORNABY'S RESTORED BELLS.

The pre-Lent meeting was held at Thornaby-on-Tees, and there was a very good attendance from the following towers: Ripon, Thirsk, Kirby Wiske, Darlington (Holy Trinity), West Hartlepool (St. Aidan's), Middlesbrough, Ormesby, Skelton, Saltburn, Stockton and Thornaby. Tea, provided in the Parish Hall by permission of the Vicar (the Rev. W. Palin) and the Church Council, was presided over by the president (Mr. J. Stott, of Thirsk), who was supported by the Vicar of Thornaby, the vice-president (Mr. Newton, of Stockton), Mr. J. C. Pollard and the hon. secretary (Mr. T. Metcalfe).

The President proposed a hearty vote of thanks to the Vicar and churchwardens for granting the association permission to have the bells for the meeting.—The Vicar, in reply, gave the association a hearty welcome to Thornaby, and said he appreciated the remarks of the ringers about the bells. When he came to Thornaby five years ago the first thing he was met with was the bad condition of the bells, but he was happy to say that, with the assistance of the Church Council and the parishioners, they had been able to put the repair of the bells into the hands of the well-known firm of bell-founders, Messrs. Gillett and Johnston, of Croydon, who, he was told, had made a first-class job of them. The Vicar also expressed his thanks to Mr. T. Metcalfe for the advice and assistance given by him in carrying out the work.

Mr. J. C. Pollard proposed a hearty vote of thanks to the ladies for providing tea.

The methods rung during the day included Superlative Surprise Major, Double Norwich Major, Stedman Triples, Grandsire Triples, Kent Treble Bob Major, Bob Major and Bob Minor, and the meeting was most successful.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.*EAST BERKS AND SOUTH BUCKS BRANCH.

The annual committee meeting of the East Berks and South Bucks Branch was again held at the secretary's residence. The accounts were audited and the balance in hand shows the strong financial position to which the branch has attained. The election of 27 new members in 1933 was confirmed (all REALLY new ones).

A determined effort is to be made this year to increase the number of honorary members.

Various other matters were discussed and recommendations are to be made at the annual meeting of the branch, which it is hoped to hold on Saturday, April 28th. Members are asked to keep the date vacant.

General approval was expressed of the new 'Committee Room' (it is useful for parties, too), and a vote of thanks was accorded to Mrs. A. D. Barker for the tasty tea, and to the 'Nippy' (bride-elect of one of the B.Y.P.).

Adjourning to Stoke Poges tower, a variety of methods were rung, Cambridge and London being the favourites, each being rung twice.

DEATH OF MR. FREDERICK JOHNSON.

SURPRISE MINOR BAND'S DIFFICULTIES.

Although it is nearly two years since the peal of six at West Clendon, Surrey, was augmented to eight, the longest length yet rung on them is a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples. This was accomplished on Monday, January 29th, by the local band as a farewell to the Rector, the Rev. Sir John Herschel, who is exchanging livings with the Rev. O. Boyd, of Perranzabuloe, Cornwall. The band was G. Jarrad 1, N. Harding 2, G. Grover 3, A. Walker 4, F. Day 5, J. Goshier 6, F. Bennett (conductor) 7, W. Matthews 8. It was the longest length on eight bells for the ringers of 1, 4, 5 and 8.

Before the completion of the octave, Surprise Minor was practised regularly by the local band, and they hoped to accomplish a peal on the eight without delay. Their hopes, however, have not been realised, mainly owing to the difficulty of getting the right band together at the right time and in persuading certain would-be treble experts to change to a working bell.

Hopes of a local peal in the near future are, however, now soaring, as, although perhaps that perfect beat which characterises the performances of experienced peal ringers was not always maintained, the ringing, on the whole, was good and free from clipping, and what few trips were made were negligible.

Sir John and Lady Herschel, who listened throughout, visited the tower to thank and congratulate the band.

SUFFOLK RINGER'S DEATH.*MR. L. LEEKS, OF LAVENHAM.

We regret to announce the death of Mr. Louis Leeks, of Lavenham, who died on Saturday, January 20th. Deceased, who was 60 years of age, was born at Brent Elcigh, where he started his ringing career on the three old bells at the Parish Church. Afterwards he went to live at Lavenham, where he took up the art seriously under the tutorship of Mr. Arthur Symonds, and was for many years a regular member of the SS. Peter and Paul's Society until a few years ago, when ill-health compelled him to give up ringing.

He had rung nine peals, all of them being at Lavenham, six of Bob Major and one each of Kent and Oxford Treble Bob Major and Grandsire Triples. He rang his first peal (Bob Major) on Saturday, Nov. 9th, 1901, and his last (Oxford Treble Bob) on Saturday, April 22nd, 1922. He was always found at the 'big end.' In addition to his love for ringing, Mr. Leeks was, during his younger days, a leading light in local cricket.

His remains were laid to rest in Lavenham Cemetery on Wednesday, January 24th, two of the bearers being his fellow-ringers, Messrs. S. H. Symonds and W. R. J. Poulson. Messrs. F. Parker and A. Symonds, two other old ringing friends, were at the graveside. Deceased leaves a widow, four daughters and a son to mourn their loss, the son (Mr. F. L. Leeks) being a member of the St. Peter's, Croydon, company of ringers.

PEAL RINGING'S PLACE.

There is a suggestion, in the letter from Mr. E. M. Atkins, which appears in another column, that undue prominence is given in this journal to the peal ringing side of the art, and just a hint that on this page the subject gets more than its fair share of attention. It is true that several pages are usually taken up in the publication of peal records, but all the while peal performances are regarded — as they undoubtedly are regarded by the majority of ringers—as the high-watermark of achievement, so long, we think, they merit a conspicuous style of presentation; while, on the question of space, other considerations, which we need not enter into now, have to be taken into account when it comes to the size of type used.

Whether peal ringing is made more of than it deserves in this column is probably a matter of opinion, but when it comes to considerations of progress and such questions it is only by peal ringing results that any accurate comparisons can be made, for in no other branch of the art are accurate statistics available. Moreover, not only are the greatest energies of practical ringers bent to peal ringing, but in the realm of composition the best efforts of composers are devoted to the production of peals. In every respect from the progressive ringers' point of view, the 'peal' is the ultimate goal. If with some people the peal is overrated—and there may be some who set more store on peal ringing than they do upon their services to the Church—there is no reason why peal ringing should not be given its proper place as the keystone of the arch as it stands in relation to the art itself.

No right thinking person will deny that church bell ringing should be first and foremost a service to the Church, but the purpose of service ringing, as such, could just as well be served by call change ringing. The art of change ringing is really only subsidiary to the service which we ought all to desire to render to the Church, but we who seek to further its interests consider that good change ringing is a better offering of mental gifts than can be made by ringing of the other kind. It is only in this respect that the art comes into association with our services to the Church. There ought to be nothing in the encouragement of peal ringing which should detrimentally affect the ringing of bells for the services of the Church. On the contrary, it has often been pointed out that peal ringing makes for good ringing, and there can be no disagreement that good ringing should be the aim of all service ringers. Thus, from the two points of view, of furthering the art of change ringing and promoting efficiency in Sunday service ringing, peal ringing deserves to be encouraged, and if it may seem to some that we dwell too often on the many sides of the subject we feel that, on the whole, we are justified. At the same time we do not admit that the other phases of ringing have been neglected, and each, as occasion has demanded, has received its share of comment and criticism. Let it be understood, however, that we in no way resent Mr. Atkins' suggestion, but rather welcome it when offered in the spirit in which we know it is put forward.

ELY DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

The annual meeting of the Central Branch was held at Haddenham on Wednesday, February 21st, about 22 members being present. In the absence of the Vicar, Mr. J. Lawrence was elected to the chair. The officers elected for the ensuing year were: Secretary, Mr. F. Warrington; committee, Mr. H. Collins, Mr. G. Few, Mr. A. J. Ginn, Mr. S. Slupp, Mr. W. Seekings and Mr. F. Thulbon.

After discussion it was decided, under Rule 10, to elect a ringing master, and Mr. A. J. Ginn, of Over, was unanimously elected.

The next meeting is at Whittlesea, provided consent is given. Will all ringers watch the notice columns of 'The Ringing World.' It is hoped to hold the meeting on Saturday, March 17th.

DULL SERVICES AT RINGERS' MEETINGS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I do not think it is the lesson so much that ringers get sick of hearing at their services as the address that preachers almost invariably inflict on their congregations at those gatherings. Nine clergymen out of ten either take their text from the passage Mr. Dove quotes, or 'A golden bell and a pomegranate,' and they all proceed to tell the same story about the time that bells first formed part of Christian worship, etc. It appears to me pretty obvious that they all derive their knowledge from the same source.

I attended a meeting at Chiltonham many years ago, and we had the same old story given us by the preacher from the stock text I have quoted above. I remarked on this afterwards to the late Mr. J. W. Taylor, who told me of an incident related to him by the late Sir Arthur Heywood.

Sir Arthur's brother, or brother-in-law, I forget which, was the then Bishop of Guildford, and when they met the following conversation took place:—

The Bishop: Oh, Arthur, I had to address a company of ringers the other day at so and so.

Sir Arthur: Did you, what did you tell them?

The Bishop: I looked up so and so, and so and so, and told them all about bells.

Sir Arthur: Well, if ever it falls to your lot to again address ringers, give them a good straightforward address. The humblest ringer in your congregation could have told you more about bells than you will ever know.

I recounted this afterwards to my father, and, after that, whenever a Rector of Crayford was going to address ringers, he was always advised as to his subject beforehand, and they were always grateful for the advice.

One instance of how ringers benefited by 'that little word in season' was that wonderful address given by the late Canon Gedgo at the annual meeting of the Kent County Association in 1928. Canon Helmore, in his report to 'The Ringing World' the following week, said of it, 'Such an effect this had on the members that it was requested that it should be printed and circulated.'

Ringers themselves can do a lot towards brightening their services by just letting their clergy know beforehand what to talk about. We cannot blame the clergy altogether for our uninteresting services.

E. BARNETT.

A RINGERS' FRIEND.

AN APPRECIATION.

Ringers in various parts of Southern England, including the Metropolitan, will be sorry to hear of the passing of Mrs. W. Hibbert, of East Isley, Berks, who succumbed to a long and painful illness on Sunday, February 11th.

Since the bells of the village were augmented to eight in 1921 many bands of ringers and many individuals have made a call there, either on an outing or for a peal attempt, and very few have left the village without being catered for by Mr. and Mrs. W. Hibbert. The local people have lost a good neighbour, the husband a good wife and the sons a good mother, and the writer of these few words has lost a real good sister and 'pal.'—R.I.P.

SUSSEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION.*WESTERN DIVISION AT CHICHESTER.

The annual meeting of the Western Division was held at Chichester on Saturday, February 24th, when 24 members and friends attended from Bosham, Chichester, Heene, Lindfield, Lyminster, Pulborough and Westbourne, with several visitors, including a lady ringer, from Portsmouth, Portsea, Fareham and Wickham. The bells of the Cathedral were made good use of during the afternoon. After tea at the Tower Cafe, Mr. J. H. Blake was elected chairman of the meeting, and gave the members a hearty invitation on behalf of the Vicar of Bosham (the Rev. G. Street) to make use of the Bosham bells if they cared to go there.

The following new members were elected, viz.: J. Gregory (Westbourne), S. White (Heene), H. Weaver and C. H. Cobbitt (Goring), C. Alsford, G. Bacon, T. B. Daughtry, T. W. Daughtry, W. Richards, W. Stevens, E. Tregus and T. Venn (Arundel).

Mr. A. W. Groves was again elected divisional secretary, and one new committeeman was elected, viz., Mr. J. Farmer.

Mr. Tucker kindly undertook to convey a vote of thanks to the Dean for the use of the bells.

Mr. A. W. Groves expressed pleasure at seeing so many members of the Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild present, and, on behalf of the Sussex Association, gave them a hearty welcome.—Mr. Linten, of Fareham, said it gave them much pleasure to be amongst them. The company then returned to the campanile for further ringing, and finished up with some handbell ringing.

DEDICATION OF PEAL TABLET.

A peal tablet recording a peal of Grandsire Triples rung at Oswestry, Shropshire, on December 27th, 1932, was dedicated by the Vicar (the Rev. A. R. Langford Brown) on Sunday last. The peal is worthy of note from the fact of a lady being a member of the band. It was her first peal, and she was the first local lady to ring a peal. The performers were Miss Amy Kynaston 1, R. Edwards 2, H. T. Hughes 3, E. H. Kynaston 4, H. Jarman 5, G. Williams 6, W. B. Kynaston (conductor) 7, T. Marshall and R. Kynaston 8. All are members of the local band except the conductor, who is a former member and now of Swindon, Wilts. Owing to the bad 'go' of the tenor, two men were necessary, but the bells have now been rehung. After the dedication ceremony a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples was rung by Miss A. Kynaston 1, R. Edwards 2, H. T. Hughes 3, E. H. Kynaston 4, H. Jarman 5, G. Williams 6, R. T. Evans (conductor) 7, T. Marshall 8.

LEEDS AND DISTRICT SOCIETY.

The February meeting of the Leeds and District Society was held at Horbury Church, where the nice light peal of eight (tenor 12 cwt.) were raised about 3.15 p.m., and various methods were rung until 5.15, when a splendid tea was served in the Parochial Rooms. After tea further ringing took place, and later the business meeting was held in the tower. The president (Mr. W. H. Senior) was chairman, and members were present from Armley, Batley, Birstall, Barnsley, Drighlington, Elland, Liversedge, Ossett, Rothwell, Wakefield and the local company. One new member (Mr. Harold Pickles, of Horbury) was elected.

The next meeting will be the annual nomination meeting, and, after discussion, it was decided to try and obtain the bells at Burley Church, the suggested date being March 24th.

A vote of thanks to the Vicar and churchwardens of Horbury for allowing the use of the bells and to the local company for the arrangements was proposed by Mr. W. H. Senior and seconded by Mr. H. Horner.

A further vote of thanks to the ladies, who had baked and served the tea, and to Mr. H. Pickles, who had supervised the arrangements, was proposed by Mr. H. Lofthouse and seconded by Mr. T. W. Strangeway.—Mr. H. Pickles replied on behalf of the local company.

HONOURING CHURCH OFFICIALS.

At St. Thomas' Church, Stourbridge, on February 18th, for morning service, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples: A. D. Fellows (first away from tenor) 1, D. W. Turner 2, A. E. Turner 3, F. V. Nicholls (first with a bob bell) 4, L. W. Turner 5, A. Reynolds 6, A. E. Whatmore (conductor) 7, E. S. Bushell 8. Rung as a compliment to Mr. A. W. Farr and Mr. W. A. Horne upon their re-election as churchwardens and to Mr. C. W. Cooper, secretary of the local band, upon his election as a member of the Ruri-decanal Conference and Church Council.

ASTRAY!

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—Your correspondent who signs himself 'Bob Minor' (in your issue of February 16th), referring to his attendance at the Pudsey meeting, has got somewhat astray in his Yorkshire dialect phraseology, and intermixes words not usually thus spoken in the West Riding.

I am glad to hear, however, that he enjoyed his visit and 'gat awa in good time,' else he might 'hav had more Surprise' and missed 't' last tram.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

The bells of Prescott Parish Church, Lancashire, have been restored by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank, and are to be dedicated to-morrow. In connection with the completion of the scheme, gifts of money to God for the bells will be received in the church from 7 a.m. to 10 p.m.

The peal of Bob Major at Warfield on Thursday week was arranged as a birthday compliment to Mr. E. P. Cross and for the coming of age of his son, Mr. G. T. L. Cross. Owing to the tragic death of the King of the Belgians, however, the peal was rung with the bells half-muffled.

The Cross family have been connected with Warfield for over 300 years, and the treble to the peal was rung by Mr. W. P. Cross, brother of Mr. E. P. Cross.

The band in the Peterborough Diocesan Guild which is doing so well in ringing peals in spliced Surprise methods (they rang a peal in 13 methods last Saturday), under the conductorship of that stalwart, Mr. H. M. Day, has lost one of its most capable members by the removal to the Birmingham district of Mr. R. W. Daniels.

Next Wednesday that grand old man, Joseph J. Parker, of Farnham Royal, will celebrate his 81st birthday, and ringers are invited to meet at Farnham Royal Church that evening at 7.30 to ring 'many happy returns.'

Will the lady who went home from the meeting at All Hallows, Lombard Street, on Saturday, with one of her own gloves and with or without a grey suede one, please communicate with Mrs. R. F. Deal, 10, Kimberley Avenue, East Ham, E.6, who pleads guilty to having taken away one of the wrong pair by mistake.

His many friends, including those new ones he made at Bristol on the occasion of the B.U.R.G. dinner, will regret to hear of the illness of Mr. W. E. Dennis, of London, a member of St. Andrew's, Holborn, Guild, who has undergone a serious operation in St. Mary's Hospital, Paddington. We are pleased to say he is going on fairly well.

The leading article on 'Clergy and Ringers' from 'The Ringing World' of January 26th has been reproduced in extenso in 'The Liverpool Diocesan Leaflet,' which is inserted in practically every parish magazine in the diocese. This has been brought about by the efforts of Mr. O. I. Davies, hon. secretary of the Liverpool Branch of the Lancashire Association.

The death occurred on February 21st, after a long illness, of Mr. A. G. Rivers, of Dry Drayton, Cambridge. Deceased was 63 years of age. The funeral took place at Dry Drayton on Saturday and was largely attended, among the congregation being many ringers.

The time of the peal of Cambridge Surprise Royal rung at St. George's, Stockport, on February 17th, was three hours and fifty minutes, not three hours and thirty-four.

BELLS AND THE WIRELESS.

A B.B.C. INNOVATION.

Bells have come into singularly unexpected prominence on the wireless during the last week or so. As an experiment the B.B.C. are using a record of Bow Bells, rung in some well-struck call changes, to indicate intervals in the programme, where formerly the 'tick-tock' was employed.

It is certainly of more pleasing effect than the 'clock,' and we hope it may help to make the public a little more 'bell minded.'

BELLS BEFORE BROADCAST SERVICES.

To the Editor.

Sir,—I have never trespassed before in your valuable columns, but I hope this letter may help towards the object which most ringers would like to see accomplished, that is when services are broadcast the bells are included wherever possible. Unfortunately, at many of our churches whose services are broadcast the bells are not included. Take Stoke-on-Trent for example. A service was broadcast from there a few weeks ago, but no bells were broadcast, although there is, I believe, a peal of eight, and, I understand, a competent band of ringers. According to the programme to-night (Sunday, February 25th), the bells are not being broadcast from St. Mary's, Nottingham. Bells before a broadcast service are just as important as any other part of the service. I do not consider the B.B.C. are to blame altogether, the cause is partly what we have been reading about in recent issues, 'the relationship between clergy and ringers.' I would like to appeal to the Central Council that at the meeting at Warwick a resolution may be passed that the B.B.C. be communicated with urging the importance of bells in broadcast programmes before services. If a church service is being broadcast (whether Church of England or Roman Catholic), the association and the local ringers could greatly assist by approaching the incumbent on the subject. I am not going to encourage such rubbish we here so frequently from St. Martin's-in-the-Fields, but I would like to see more churches following the example of St. Martin's, Birmingham. It matters not whether Surprise or call changes are rung, provided that the striking is good. That is what the public wants.

PEALS OF MINOR.

THE BANKES JAMES ARRANGEMENT.

By THE EDITOR.

In their letter in the last issue of 'The Ringing World,' Messrs. Trollope and Turner say: 'You want the Central Council to recognise the Bankes James Cambridge Minor. So do we. . . Shall we try and get the Council and the Exercise to say definitely that it is quite allowable to use that and similar compositions in a peal. . . ?'

My reply is: By all means, as long as the words 'similar compositions' are clearly understood to cover only those compositions which, like the Bankes James Cambridge, consist of 720 rows, produced without repetition before the next extent is begun—and are not intended to commit anyone to the compositions, like the Law James London and others, which should be dealt with when the Bankes James Cambridge is out of the way. I say this for the reason that, in my opinion, the two things are in different categories and must be separately judged.

Moreover, as was explained in the article in 'The Ringing World' on February 16th, my belief is that in the Bankes James Arrangement each 720 is in itself true, and should, therefore, be accepted as such.

In support of that contention I put forward certain definite arguments. But Mr. Trollope and Mr. Turner (I am not quite sure why Mr. Turner has been brought in) ignore that side of the issue and dismiss it as lightly as Mr. Trollope had previously endeavoured to thrust aside the views of 'those people who keep talking about 720 true rows being a true 720.' Mr. Trollope and Mr. Turner say: 'We are not likely to agree with your arguments.'

That they are 'not likely to agree,' however, will not alter facts, and it would be interesting to know their specific reasons for disagreeing with the following assertions contained in the article referred to? They are the basis of the contention of 'those who keep talking about 720 true rows being a true 720.'

1. 'You cannot prove a peal by going into the tower and ringing it.'
2. 'Truth can only be assured by recourse to figures.'
3. 'The truth of a peal is tested by the rows on paper and not by the changes made in the tower.'
4. 'In an extent of Minor it requires 721 rows to produce 720 changes.'
5. 'The final rounds is a repetition of the first row, otherwise the term "round block" is meaningless.'
6. 'For the purpose of the truth of a 720 of Minor it does not, therefore, matter which row of rounds you count as one of the 720. They are one and the same.'

THE FUTURE MATTERS MOST.

To the Editor.

Sir,—Your recent leading article, and especially the second paragraph thereof, so agrees with the view I expressed at a ringers' meeting a few weeks ago that I feel I should like to make a few comments thereon. First, as regards the 'mixing' you refer to, I should like to go a great deal further. I feel that all is not well even as regards 'mixing' at meetings. In many cases there is great difficulty in getting the average or 'worse than average' ringers to attend the meetings, and, as far as I can tell, the reason appears to be that they feel that they are only admitted on sufferance, and touches for their benefit are only put on as a concession. This, of course, is all wrong, and the concession should be for surprise touches for the experts. At any rate, the aim of those arranging meetings should be to make the ordinary, i.e., the non-peat ringing ringer feel quite at home.

The other point about which we appear to agree is that some of the peal ringers might sacrifice some of their time to assist in teaching the non-peat ringers. I had this also in mind when commenting on the accumulation of association funds. The idea I tried to express was that some of the funds might be used to meet travelling expenses of any experts volunteering for this work who required assistance. It appears to me that the present season of Lent, which is hardly a time to ring peals to the glory of God, gives a good opportunity for us all to consider whether we can do more to get ringing regularly Sunday by Sunday all the rings of bells we know—and especially those we ring peals on.

Finally, may I, in all humility, make a few comments on 'The Ringing World'? 'The Ringing World,' as I see it, is primarily a peal ringers' paper, and more often than not your leading articles, which, of course, are really very fine in their way, deal with peals, peal ringing or peal ringers. The first 25 per cent. of the letterpress comprises reports of peals. Now, Sir, I should say that on a very conservative estimate less than half the ringers in the country are peal ringers, and less than 20 per cent. ring more than two or three peals a year. Is there any wonder, therefore, if the reply to any effort to improve your circulation is met with the comment that 'The Ringing World' is not for us? I suggest you print the peals in small type, so that they occupy about half the space at present taken and that you do the same to the notices of meetings. The space thus saved should be used for articles of interest to all church bellringers whose motive is primarily to do something, whether elementary or advanced, to the glory of God. I have not given up my interest in the Minor controversy, but I feel that this is dwarfed into insignificance, and, as you rightly say, 'the future matters most.'

E. M. ATKINS.

7. 'You cannot produce the first change without it' (the first row of rounds).

8. 'The first row of rounds is an essential part of the first lead; you cannot construct the first lead of any method (with a single hunt) without it.'

9. 'The last row of rounds is not an essential part of any of the preceding leads—it belongs to the first lead of the next 720.'

10. The Methods Committee in the 'Minor Collection' show 123456 as part of the lead in every case, and the back stroke, after the succeeding lead end is definitely cut off from the preceding rows.

11. 'In arriving at the scientific truth of a touch or peal, things like hand stroke and back stroke, and whether rounds or any other row is the first row do not matter.'

12. In ringing 'more than one 720 without a break it does not signify (as far as truth is concerned) what the first row of the second and subsequent 720's is.'

13. 'In any case it has got to be a repetition of something in the first 720.'

14. It is, therefore, no more a breach of truth to use the 481st row than the first.

MR. JOYCE REPLIES TO CRITICS.

Dear Sir,—Good ring-general that he is, Mr. Coles knows the value of stepping 'in' to meet the blow, when side-stepping will not avail; but the 'timing' should be good when taking this risk! You notice that the spotlight is focussed upon my challenge as to this one method's name, and thus the major point remains deeply shadowed—the PRINCIPLE UNDERLYING.

You should realise, Sir, that Mr. Coles is my very good friend; that I hold nothing but admiration for those who composed and rang this 12-method peal—the finest 'job' of its kind ever accomplished; and that I am using it merely as a lever in forcing home my contention that what is 'sauce for the goose also is sauce for the gander.' I want none of your readers to get a false impression. I ask that general definitions shall, so far as is possible, govern all peals from Singles to Maximus, Plain Bob to Bristol; that the Minor shall not, quite unnecessarily, be separated from the others. To this end I attack this particular peal in detail, and only for that reason.

Come back with me to Mr. Coles' letter of December 18th, 1932: '... I CANNOT admit ... (the inclusion) ... of the first row of rounds ...'; so that, by 'force of logic,' he would compel me to write AND RING the methods under immediate discussion thus (the dots representing 30 identical rows in each):—

12345678 12345678

.....

18674523 16482735

18642735

12345678 12345678

.....

18674523 16482735

This is the Major parallel to the manner in which the Cambridge Minor is 'made' to be false; the back stroke definitely is clamped to the lead proper, and the method is not completed unless the back stroke row is INCLUDED THEREIN. Logically, then, NEITHER METHOD WAS RUNG!

Now, alternately and without the slightest difference in practical ringing, I can make my Cambridge Minor 'true' by writing AND RINGING these Major methods thus:

Here, strictly logically, Mr. Coles is fully entitled to claim that either method was rung, and he may name it what he pleases without the slightest grouse from myself; but if he does do so, surely any fair-minded 'Major' will agree that I am entitled to claim my Cambridge Minor to be 'true'!

You read that Mr. Coles is '... tied down ... by some odd leads of so-called Norfolk ...' (Sheer side-stepping here.) Actual facts are these: Twelve methods were named. Seven only were duly completed (Pudsey, Rutland, Yorkshire, Superlative, London, Cambridge and Lincolnshire). Two others (Bristol and New Gloucester), while not 'completed,' could not very well be anything else at the lead end. Three more (Eastcote, Wembley and Norfolk) each have a 'mate,' which, for convenience and facetiously to follow Mr. Coles' little joke, I shall dub 'Middlesex, Meddlesex and Muddlesex' respectively. If my Cambridge is true, either (of the pairs) was rung; if not, THEN NEITHER.

And Mr. Coles recommends Mr. Warrington to read, very carefully, the letter from Mr. Trollope; he might have added that Mr. Warrington should read, also very carefully and with some profit, my record of Mr. Trollope's views on rows and changes which was published immediately under that letter.

'Reading carefully' leads me to Mr. Cashmore's opening reference to myself. I cannot decide if his remarks result from carelessness, lack of knowledge of the subject matter, inability to read with understanding, or just a mistaken sense of humour; but, in any case, I consider that you are 14 lines of good and valuable space to the bad. (Continued at foot of next page.)

EDINBURGH RINGERS' DINNER.

'ENDOWED' FUNCTION OF ST. CUTHBERT'S SOCIETY.

On Tuesday, February 13th, a company of nearly a hundred ladies and gentlemen attended the annual dinner of St. Cuthbert's Parish Church Society, Edinburgh, held at the Caledonian Hotel. As an endowed dinner, held annually under the terms of a will, the function is among the most distinctive which are held in Edinburgh, and, in conformity with custom, a group of change ringers, in the course of the evening, demonstrated their art with handbells, five members of the society, conducted by Mr. W. C. S. Heathcote, giving a short touch of Grandsire Caters.

The dinner, which was held in the main dining room of the hotel, was presided over by the Rev. W. White Anderson. On the wall opposite the chairman's table there was placed the photograph of Mrs. Anderson, the widow of Major-General Anderson. Throughout the year the photograph of Mrs. Anderson, who gave the bells to St. Cuthbert's and left a sum of money to provide a dinner every year for the change ringers and their friends, hangs in the church belfry, and is brought down for one night in each year to be hung on the wall at the dinner.

Proposing a toast to 'The Memory of the Donor of the Bells,' Mr. Anderson said that as the years went on they all increasingly felt their debt to Mrs. Anderson's foresight and her love for St. Cuthbert's. She had loved her church and she had desired that people should go to church, and she had given these lovely bells that the West End of Edinburgh might be called to worship by the sound of them. The toast he proposed was a toast to the donor of the bells, but because she had wanted the bellringers and their friends to have at least one very happy night in the year she had also endowed that dinner, and for that, as well as for the bells, they were all extremely grateful.

The toast was pledged in silence.

Mr. Matthew Brown, a member of the Kirk Session, proposing the toast of 'St. Cuthbert's Society of Change Ringers,' said that on behalf of every member of St. Cuthbert's, and on behalf of all the citizens of Edinburgh, and on behalf of the hosts of visitors to Edinburgh, they wanted to acknowledge a warm debt of gratitude to those men and ladies who gave them the peal from St. Cuthbert's (applause). He thought Mrs. Anderson must have been a very joyful and happy personality, showing her appreciation in a very happy manner.

The change ringers, continued Mr. Brown, were certainly not an ostentatious body. One never saw them, although they made a noise—a musical noise. Nothing gave him greater pleasure and enjoyment on a Sabbath morning than the joyful peals coming from St. Cuthbert's, dispelling all the worries of the week's work. When he had first learned permutations and combinations he had wondered what was the use of them, but now he saw some value in them related to this question of change ringing. He had worked it out that there were 5,040 possible changes in a peal of eight bells (laughter and applause).

Following the toast there was ringing on the handbells, and the Rev. T. Ritchie, St. Matthew's Church, Edinburgh, formerly one of St. Cuthbert's Sunday School boys, and still an active member of the Society of Change Ringers, replied. Mr. Ritchie said that the society was like the Loch Ness monster in that it had succeeded in making itself known, and had also achieved the glory of being broadcast. In only one respect did they differ from the Loch Ness monster, and that was that they had not succeeded in receiving the same amount of interest. That was a thing which could be overcome, and he extended a cordial invitation to the elders of St. Cuthbert's to visit the belfry. Belfries and change ringers were few and far between in Scotland compared with England, and there was, therefore, all the more reason for co-operation between the change ringers and the ministry and office-bearers of the Church if change ringing was to be kept on a secure foundation.

Mr. W. B. Sampson, president of the Scottish Association of Change Ringers, replied to the toast of 'Kindred Societies,' proposed by Mr. A. Gordon Cairns, W.S., and the toast of 'Our Guests,' proposed by the Rev. G. F. McLeod, who is an honorary member of the society, was replied to by the Rev. Dr. C. W. G. Taylor.—The toast of 'The Chairman' was proposed by Mr. John Watt.

During the evening songs were sung by members of the church choir, including Miss E. Gibson, Miss A. Boyle, Mr. J. Matthew and Mr. R. C. Sutherland, accompanied by Miss Marion H. Smith.

All the arrangements were in the hands of the honorary secretary, Mr. William C. G. Jinkins.

Finally, Mr. Pulling's 'budgeon' is reminiscent of Mr. Willson's '... if the first row, etc. ...' I am perfectly prepared to guarantee satisfaction to Mr. Pulling in the shape of an answer to his question, if he first will tell us, keeping entirely to the practical side, how it is done when we commence at hand stroke and finish at hand stroke. Moreover, he can call a 720 of Cambridge W.R.W., starting from back stroke and finishing at back stroke, while I, in the same 720, shall start with back stroke and finish in the orthodox manner—in the tower, let it fully be understood, and not pencil and paper!

A SCOTTISH CHURCH.

JUBILEE OF ST. JAMES', PAISLEY.

This week the Church of St. James, Paisley, one of the few in Scotland in possession of a ring of eight bells, is celebrating the jubilee of the present building, a very handsome structure. The foundation stone of the church was laid on November 20th, 1880, by Sir Peter Coats, of Auchindrane. On December 28th of the same year it was agreed to erect a spire, and at the beginning of the following year Sir Peter Coats offered the gift of a peal of bells.

Soon after the spire was completed in 1882, however, anxiety was felt regarding its safety, for, owing to the nature of its site and foundations, it showed alarming signs of moving from the perpendicular. Expert advice was called in, and it was deemed advisable to take down the tower and spire. The foundations were carried down a further 18 feet and steel girders were put in. The whole cost, amounting to nearly £3,000, was generously born by Mr. Archibald Coats and Mr. Peter Coats. The bells were cast in 1882 by Messrs. Taylor and Co., of Loughborough, and in 1909 the four trebles were recast and the remaining four bells returned. The particulars of the bells are as follows:—

ST. JAMES' CHURCH, PAISLEY.

- Treble.—E flat, 5 cwt. 1 qr. 27 lb.
- 2.—D, 5 cwt. 3 qr. 4 lb.
- 3.—C, 6 cwt. 3 qr. 3 lb.
- 4.—B flat, 7 cwt. 3 qr. 10 lb.
- 5.—A flat, 10 cwt. 0 qr. 27 lb.
- 6.—G, 12 cwt. 0 qr. 8 lb.
- 7.—F, 15 cwt. 3 qr. 18 lb.
- Tenor.—E flat, 22 cwt. 1 qr. 17 lb.

The church, which originally cost £22,150, and was opened on March 1st, 1884, owes much to the munificence of the Coats family.

BATH AND WELLS DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

DUNSTER DEANERY BRANCH.

There was an attendance of just over 50 at the annual meeting of the Dunster Deanery Branch of the Bath and Wells Diocesan Association, held at Dunster on February 10th. Ringing took place during the afternoon at St. George's Church, where service was held, conducted by the president of the branch (the Rev. T. M. Etherington, of Withypool). In the course of his address, on the words, 'Charity never faileth,' the preacher referred to the pioneer work of members of the association, and paid special tribute to the great service rendered by the late Rev. James Utten Todd at Dunster. Among others he also referred to Harry Moore, William Reed, George Atkins and William Arthur Hawkins.

Tea was served at the New Inn, and at the annual meeting which followed, the Rev. F. M. Etherington presided, supported by Mr. George Stacey (hon. secretary), the Rev. T. S. Dawson (Carhampton), the Rev. C. W. Howard (Luccombe), the Rev. A. P. Lance (Wootton Courtenay) and Capt. W. A. Hook.

At the outset the hon. secretary referred to the severe loss the association had suffered by death of valuable members since the last annual meeting. First, he spoke of Mr. W. W. Thorne (of Ockham, Surrey), who helped to found the association in 1890, was its oldest member, was a good ringer and had a wide circle of ringing friends. Mr. W. H. Poole, of Chipstable, another whom they had lost, was a self-taught man in the methods of scientific ringing who taught his band at Chipstable and kept it together. Mr. J. W. Veysey, of Winsford, was the foreman of the belfry there and did a lot in the way of keeping his band together. The greatest loss to the association, however, had been created through the death of Mr. W. A. Hawkins, who was a member of the association for about 35 years. He (the hon. secretary) had had the pleasure of teaching ringing to Mr. Hawkins, and when he left Dulverton Mr. Hawkins took his place in the tower. He was a staunch churchman who mixed the church and the bells together. At the same time, Mr. Hawkins had always been to the forefront in having what he used to term 'a friendly dig at the parson.' The association had suffered a very great loss indeed.

The members then stood in silent memory of those who had passed away during the past twelve months.

The balance sheet and report for the year were then submitted by the hon. secretary, who said that the balance sheet was about the same as usual. Receipts totalled eight guineas, and, after sundry expenses had been met, there remained a credit balance of just over six guineas. In the course of his report, Mr. Stacey referred again to the association's losses by death, and to the successful gatherings which had been held at Minehead, Selworthy, Sampford Brett and Skilgate. Five honorary and seven performing members had been added during the year, but 'against this there are two or three towers which are likely to drop out of the association, through not paying their subscriptions, which is most regrettable.' Mr. Stacey concluded by congratulating Withypool and Hawkridge members, who had each added a treble bell to their tower, making two nice little peals of six.

The balance sheet and report were accepted on the motion of Mr. J. Pugsley (Minehead), seconded by Mr. T. Elliott (Dunster).

The Rev. F. M. Etherington was re-elected president and Mr. G. Stacey hon. secretary. The latter was thanked for his excellent work over many years, and, in reply, acknowledged the support which he had received from the members, and referred to the good feeling that was always displayed within the ranks of the association.

Mr. Dawson was elected hon. auditor in place of the late Mr. W. A. Hawkins, and Mr. J. Pugsley (Minehead) was re-elected Ringing Master. Mr. Stacey was appointed to the General Committee of the association in place of the late Mr. Hawkins.

Nine new members from the Chew Stoke tower were elected to the association, and local names submitted and approved were those of Messrs. G. Ball, John Reed, jun., and T. Upham, Wootton Courtenay; Sidney Curtis, Withypool; and G. Hannaford, Exton.

Winsford was chosen as the next place of meeting, in April.

The remainder of the business was mainly composed of expressions of thanks. Mr. J. Pugsley's appreciation of the president's references to Mr. Todd was heartily supported by the company. Mr. Pugsley mentioned that Mr. Todd had taught several ringers in the district, and he believed he was the last at Minehead and Mr. Elliott the last at Dunster. Mr. Dawson voiced the association's gratitude to the retiring officers, and from the chair there was a further expression of gratitude to Preb. Reeder for the use of the bells; to Capt. Hook for his services at the organ; and to the towerkeeper, Mr. A. R. Tudball, for his courtesy; Mr. Etherington adding that the association were glad to come to what was perhaps the most beautiful church in Somerset. The president was thanked for his services to the association at all times, on the motion of Capt. Hook, who was elected as an hon. member of the association.

Mr. Dawson extended an invitation to the association to hold a meeting at Carhampton whenever it liked to come there.

Afterwards the bells were kept going for the rest of the evening. The towers represented throughout the day, in addition to the home tower, were those at Dulverton, Exton, Timberscombe, Selworthy, Wootton Courtenay, Minehead, Hawkridge, Withypool and Carhampton.

GUILDFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

ENCOURAGING SIGNS IN LEATHERHEAD DISTRICT.

Several innovations, in an endeavour to create an interest among the public, were tried for the annual meeting of the Leatherhead District of the Guildford Diocesan Guild, held at Leatherhead on February 17th. The Vicar was approached and the services of the choirboys were obtained, and the service was announced with the services for the week the previous Sunday, and a few of the congregation attended. The Guild's form of service was used and the Vicar gave a short address on the parable of the talents.

The fog prevented some from coming, and drove the general secretary (Mr. J. S. Goldsmith) home early, but 30 sat down to tea in the Institute. The tea was a shilling one, a breakaway from the customary 1s. 6d. meat tea, and was received with a mixture of feelings by those present, but the plates were not quite cleared, and the committee hoped that a cheaper tea would enable more to afford the expense.

The Vicar (the Rev. G. H. B. Coleridge) took the chair for the ensuing business meeting. The balance sheet (presented by the secretary, Mr. A. H. Smith) showed a decrease of £2 5s. on the balance in hand, but he explained that most of the heavy expenditure would not be again incurred, he hoped, for a long time.

The year's report showed a slight increase in paid subscriptions from the previous year, and, despite the number of peals rung having fallen to six for the year, there were encouraging signs in the ordinary ringing. Several choirboys at Ashted, with Mr. W. J. Whiting as instructor-in-chief, were shaping well, and Ashted could now muster a local service ringing band, which it had been unable to do for some years.

This statement was received with applause.

The Vicar mentioned the peal of Leatherhead Surprise Major which had recently been rung, and which he thought a noteworthy performance. He also referred to the fact that some of his choirboys had just received their first lesson in handling a bell.—Both the balance sheet and report were adopted.

Two new members, Miss H. Darvill, of Capel, and Mr. H. V. Young, of Leatherhead, were elected, and the election of John Hobden and Frank Mitchell previous to a peal at Banstead was ratified.

All the retiring district officers were re-elected, and the retiring general officers were renominated, Mr. Hasted being nominated as auditor in place of the late Mr. C. N. Burdock.

Ockley, Ranmore (joint meeting with the Surrey Association), Epsom (Christ Church) and Ashted, with Leatherhead for the next annual meeting, were places selected by the committee for meetings in 1934, and were duly approved by the members.

When 'any other business' was reached, the Vicar rose and said he had been asked to perform the pleasant duty of wishing the newly-married secretary and his wife every happiness and to present them with a fluted oval mirror, from the Leatherhead band, and a picture of a bookcase now being made for him, as a gift from the Leatherhead District.

The secretary suitably thanked everyone concerned for two very useful presents.

The meeting closed with a vote of thanks to all who had helped make a successful meeting, especially the Vicar for his many services.

Six towers in the district were represented at the meeting, and visitors came from Beddington, Benhilton, Croydon, Guildford (Cathedral and St. Nicolas'), Clandon and Hillingdon, while the ringing included a variety of methods on eight and ten bells, up to Bristol Surprise Major and Cambridge Royal.

EXPERTS AND THE 'LESS-THAN-AVERAGE' RINGERS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I am obliged to Mr. Pink for his comments on my report. If, however, he intends to suggest that it is for the good of the Exercise that experts should be merely ornaments and attempt to do nothing on their own initiative to foster the interest of less keen and able ringers, then, Mr. Editor, neither you nor I can agree with him, can we?

G. L. GROVER.

FORMER RINGER'S GOLDEN WEDDING.

At St. Margaret's Church, Horsmonden, Kent, for morning service, on Sunday, February 25th, 720 Ipswich Surprise Minor: E. Bromley 1, T. Hoadley 2, A. Bromley 3, R. T. Lambert 4, F. J. Lambert 5, A. Wingfield Durham (conductor) 6. Rung in honour of the golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Butchers, of Horsmonden, where the former was a ringer for many years. The anniversary occurred on Thursday, February 22nd, but the bells were rung half-muffled for the late King Albert of Belgium on that day.

MUFFLED BELLS.

At St. Andrew's, Holborn, on Wednesday evening, February 21st, a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples was rung with the bells half-muffled as a token of respect to the late Mrs. Mary J. Norton, the beloved wife of Mr. William J. Norton, hon. treasurer of the St. Andrew's, Holborn, Guild. The interment took place at Hampstead Cemetery the same afternoon: J. S. Hawkins (conductor) 1, H. C. Alford 2, R. F. Deal 3, G. J. Choquet 4, E. C. Russell 5, A. C. Darnell 6, E. Brett 7, C. H. Vidler 8.

PETERBOROUGH DIOCESAN GUILD.

The quarterly meeting of the Towcester Branch was held at Stoke Bruerne on Saturday, February 10th. There are five bells at this church. There was a good attendance at the service, and the Rector (the Rev. R. P. Newton) gave a short address, in which he welcomed the ringers to his parish.

Tea was partaken of in the Village Hall, the Guild Master (Mr. F. Wilford) and Mrs. Wilford being present.

The hon. secretary (the Rev. R. Howes) read the balance sheet, which was very satisfactory, there being a much larger balance in hand than last year. He also welcomed Mrs. Wilford.

During the afternoon and evening the following methods were brought round: Plain Bob, Stedman, Grandsire (New, Old and Reverse), New Doubles, Union, Carter's, St. Simon's and Original.

SWANSEA AND BRECON GUILD'S LOSS.

DEATH OF THE LORD BISHOP OF THE DIOCESE.

The Lord Bishop of Swansea and Brecon, who died suddenly at Weymouth on Feb. 2nd, was the founder of the Swansea and Brecon Guild in 1923, and had been president since its inception. He had always taken a live interest in its activities and never failed to preside at the annual meetings. His cheery smile and witty sallies made him an ideal chairman. Through the generosity of the Bishop the annual meetings of the Guild were held every other year at his residence, where all ringers, whether members of Swansea and Brecon Guild or of outside Guilds, were warmly received and royally treated.

The remains of the late Bishop were brought from Weymouth to Brecon for burial. As the cortege passed through the town, touches of Grandsire Doubles were rung at St. David's and St. Mary's Churches, Brecon, the bells being half-muffled. Members of Llanelly (Breconshire), Talgarth, Hay and Cefn Coed bands brought round touches of Grandsire Triples on the bells of St. Mary's during and after the burial service at the Cathedral. Among the large number of floral tributes laid on the grave was a beautiful wreath in the form of a bell from the Swansea and Brecon Guild. Mr. L. Havard (hon. secretary) and Mr. S. T. Rackham (Master of the Guild) were the Guild's representatives at the funeral. Mr. Charles Powell (hon. treasurer) acted as a bearer.

On Sunday, February 11th, at St. Peter's Church, Pentre Ystradfydwg, a half-muffled quarter-peal of Stedman Triples was rung by the local C.E.M.S. band as a last token of respect to the Right Rev. the Bishop of Swansea and Brecon, who was interred at Brecon Cathedral on Tuesday, February 6th: G. Wines 1, W. Palmer 2, G. Palmer 3, J. Lovett 4, F. Lasbury 5, H. Davies 6, W. Cross (first quarter-peal as conductor) 7, H. Crabb 8.

On Sunday, February 4th, for evening service, at St. John's Church, Morriston, Swansea, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Doubles with the bells half-muffled in memory of the late Bishop of Swansea and Brecon: H. Charles 1, G. V. Williams 2, J. T. Williams (conductor) 3, C. Davies 4, G. Lewis 5, D. G. Williams 6.

A LONDON UNIVERSITY SOCIETY?

It is not possible to measure what the art of change ringing owes to the Universities. For well over fifty years the Cambridge University Guild and the Oxford University Society have been training grounds from which have come many of our most influential ringers—to carry the art into their parishes and dioceses, as parsons; to devote their energies and intellects to the many problems, the solution of which has added so largely to our store of knowledge and our interest in the art. Indeed, many of the most important of our ringing organisations owe their formation to men who graduated into ringing through these two seats of learning, and the prosperity of the Exercise as well as much of the advance of the art itself has been built up by those whose first real interest in ringing was awakened while at University.

Hitherto, however, it is only Oxford and Cambridge that have had their University ringing societies, but why should not the younger University of London have a similar organisation? We are prompted to ask this question from the report that a meeting of the London County Association, held at All Hallows', Lombard Street, a city church, where the bells are seldom rung, appears to have been made the success it was through the instrumentality of certain University students. Here, in these young men, seems to be the nucleus of what might well develop into an important and useful organisation, which in time might play as valuable a part in maintaining the influence of the Exercise and advancing knowledge of the art as either of the other two Universities. It may be true that at present, at any rate, conditions are not quite the same in London as in Oxford or Cambridge, but with the experience of the older societies to go upon a scheme to establish a London University Society, with similar objects as those in the sister Universities, does not seem beyond the realms of realisation.

These societies, as we have said, are essentially training grounds, to interest and instruct students of the right type in the art of ringing, to encourage them to go out not merely as ringers but as 'missionaries,' to spread the practice of change ringing, and as 'explorers' to open up, if possible, new avenues of advance. A London University Society would start with certain material advantages. There are within reach plenty of bells which ought to be available for practice, and ample help would, we feel sure, be forthcoming. It is possible that London University might eventually offer a larger field for recruiting even than Oxford or Cambridge, and such a society would be, in any event, an extremely valuable adjunct to the cause of change ringing. Cannot something be done to set a scheme on foot?

STAINES AND TOLLADAY.

A JUBILEE PEAL RECALLS INTERESTING EVENTS.

On the afternoon of February 24th, members of the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths of London visited St. Mary's bellry, Staines, Middlesex, and rang a good peal of simple Bob Major, as reported in the usual columns. It was planned to celebrate the jubilee of the first peal of Major rung upon these bells by members of the same society on February 23rd, 1884, conducted by the late George Newson, a 5,088 Kent Treble Bob. The performance now recorded was composed and conducted by Mr. F. Bennett, of Brighton, and the ringer of the 5th bell is the only survivor of the 1884 team. All the band greatly appreciate the kindness of the Vicar (the Rev. J. R. James) and the churchwardens in allowing them the privilege of attempting a jubilee peal.

St. Mary's bells (1734) form one of the oldest octaves in the county (Enfield are dated 1724), cast at Whitechapel with the metal of an old ring of five bells that gave the title to the adjoining hostelry. In 1829 the tenor and treble bells were recast by Mears and Stambank, the former being 3ft. 10in. in diameter, weighing 17 cwt. in F. It is inscribed with the names of the Vicar—Robert Govett—and the churchwardens, Messrs. Swift and Murrell, with the text, 'Holiness unto the Lord.' When the 6th bell was cast, coins of the period were inserted in the mould, and they may be seen to-day in a good state of preservation. For over 204 years the numerous travellers on old Father Thames have heard their mellow notes with joy and pleasure; both bells and river serve to remind one that there is still something to live for in these days of sadness and distress.

On the south side of the tower is a date stone erected in 1791, which says that Inigo Jones, the famous London architect of the day, built it in 1631, when Walter Molt and Daniel Enderby were wardens; so it may be concluded that the old bells were sent away during its restoration to be made into eight, 100 years after the tower was built.

It is of interest to ringers generally to note that the first full peal upon these bells was rung by members of the old St. James' Society on January 5th, 1830, just over a century ago. It was a peal of Grandsire Triples, conducted by the famous Thomas Tolladay, and no similar record was made until 1884.

During the 50 odd years between these two peals the bell frame had got loose in the joints; it was placed too high in the tower of substantial brickwork, which had plenty of sway on it, hence the absence of early records of change ringing. Fortunately, the parishioners wisely rebuilt the frame at a lower level in their recent restoration.

Thomas Tolladay was a barge owner and boat builder of Eton, and carried out haulage for the royal residence at Windsor before the coming of the railways. He rang many peals at the riverside towns between Reading and London, and delivered many of the bells to neighbouring church towers. Amongst Victorian ringers, and I have rung with several who personally knew him, it was common gossip that Tolladay did too much peal ringing. His last was rung at St. John's, Waterloo Road, London, in 1843. The most noted performance was his 12,096 Grandsire Caters at Fulham, May, 1837, for the Queen's birthday, and of the first 68 peals by the St. James' Society he conducted 40, when many of the bells were not in the good order we experience to-day.

Tolladay was a staunch College Youth, but, as a resident of Windsor and a Royalist, his sympathy and friendship was always extended to the Cumberlands. Years of rivalry between the two old societies had only led to ill-feeling, and it was Tolladay's ambition to bring about a better understanding by mutual change ringing practice through the formation of the St. James' Society in 1827.

With reference to the Cumberlands' visit of 1884, George Newson brought down some of his Highgate 'harriers' for a 'tough job' at Staines, and I well remember at intervals during the peal, with Hannington and Newson on the tenors, seeing both men off their feet owing to the swinging of the tower. Dr. Wingfield Meadows was one of the team—he was studying at St. Thomas' Hospital, London, at that time—and he preferred to walk home after our tea. On his way up the police stopped him near Hounslow and took him to the station until inquiry by telegraph proved he was not the missing sailor for whom they were then searching. At the Bells Inn we found a newly-married couple in charge quite unprepared for such a hungry crowd until I inquired if 'the hens laid.' They had forgotten the birds, and, upon examining the nesting boxes, some 40 eggs were discovered, which the 'harriers' made short work of. The widow was at the house until a year or two ago, when I again asked her the momentous question about the hens. If any reader has a copy of the song about Tom Tolladay's 12,000, please send it to the Editor. W. H. F.

DEATH OF MR. A. G. RIVERS.

AN ACTIVE RINGING CAREER.

We regret to record the death of Mr. A. G. Rivers, of Dry Drayton, who, as briefly announced last week, passed peacefully away on Wednesday, February 21st, tho and coming after an illness extending over six months, his last touch on tower bells having been at Great St. Andrew's, Cambridge, last June.

Born at Sproughton, near Ipswich, in 1870, Mr. Rivers' early ringing career started with Messrs. O. Mee, F. Mee, F. Rolfe and notable ringers of the days when many peals were rung at Henley and other towers in the district, amongst which were the first peals of London Surprise rung in Suffolk. In 1906 Mr. Rivers moved to Colchester, where he pursued his favourite hobby of ringing, and, after much opposition, succeeded in getting a good change ringing band together at St. Peter's Church. He finally moved to Cambridgeshire in 1911, taking up his residence at Lolworth. Although settled in a somewhat 'bleak' spot from a ringing point of view, he did not allow this to curtail his activities, and was soon to be found ringing at the various towers in and around Cambridge, and by June, 1912, had recorded his first peal for the Ely Association at Over. When the new peal was installed at Longstanton, he directed his energies to assisting the late Rev. H. B. Woolley, and rang there regularly every Sunday. After the war Mr. Rivers removed to Dry Drayton, where he soon became prominent in parochial affairs, serving as clerk to the Parish Council and assistant overseer, and later, in 1923, was elected to the District Council, on the Housing and Poor Law Administration, and served on these till the time of his death.

His peals, which number well over 200, in various methods, were rung mostly for the Norwich and Ely Associations. He was also a member of Essex, Midland Counties, London County Association, Ipswich (St. Mary le Tower Society) and the Cambridge Youths, and included amongst his peals was the first Surprise peal rung by a resident band in the Ely Diocese.

Of a kindly and genial disposition, he was always ready to help when required, and his presence will be greatly missed, especially as regards the Sunday ringing in Cambridge.

The funeral took place on Saturday, February 24th, at Dry Drayton, where a large congregation attended to pay their last respects to one whose life had been so full of activity. The service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. — Lucas), assisted by the Rev. E. C. Essex (president of the Cambridge Youths). Amongst those gathered at the graveside representing the Exercise were Messrs. C. Mee (Sproughton), C. W. Smith (Master), A. T. Cheney (secretary), T. R. Dennis (Cambridge Youths), H. Fields (St. Neots), R. Lathbury, Miss V. Shorter (Cambridge), F. Warrington, M. Ginn, R. Smith and A. J. Ginn (Over). At the conclusion of the interment a course of Grandsire Triples was rung over the grave by R. Lathbury 1-2, C. Mee 3-4, E. Rivers 5-6 and T. R. Dennis 7-8.

During the evening the bells of Great St. Mary's, Cambridge, were rung fully muffled and half-muffled, whilst at Ipswich a half-muffled peal of Cambridge Maximus already recorded was rung at St. Mary le Tower as a token of respect.

FUNERAL OF MR. F. J. JOHNSON.

A WORCESTERSHIRE PIONEER.

The funeral of Mr. F. J. Johnson, whose death we briefly reported in a recent issue, took place at Hinton Church on Saturday, February 24th, amid every token of sympathy and respect. In addition to the family mourners there were present Mr. J. R. Newman (hon. secretary of the Worcestershire Association), Mr. W. Short (Master) and representatives from the following towers: Worcester, Bromsgrove, Halesowen, Upton-on-Severn, Crowle, Suckley, Madresfield, Evesham, Hampton, Badsey, Bretforton, Broadway, Mickleton, Toddington, Bredon's Norton, Willersey and the local band.

A course of Grandsire Triples was rung over the grave by S. T. Holt 1-2, G. J. Hemming 3-4, J. Austin 5-6, W. Short 7-8. There were no less than 40 beautiful floral tributes.

Mr. Johnson had to his credit about 150 peals and had conducted 20. When the branches of the association was formed in 1911, Fred Johnson was one of the pioneers of the Southern Branch, and had he kept a record of the miles he had ridden his 'push bike' for the benefit of young ringers it would have made interesting reading.

At the Sunday evening service the Rector (the Rev. V. C. Blyth) made sympathetic reference to the passing of Mr. Johnson, and said he was a man with a hobby and a real interest in life outside his work. Bells he loved, and bells he lived for, and the peal at Hinton would always be a monument to his memory, for he was the prime instigator in their restoration some three years ago.

Mrs. Johnson and family sincerely thank all friends for messages and expressions of sympathy in their bereavement.

A UNIQUE PERFORMANCE

At Whitbourne, Herefordshire, on Friday, February 23rd, as a birthday compliment to Mr. S. Lewis, who attained the age of 70, a quarter-peal of Doubles, viz., four six-scores of Plain Bob, four of Canterbury and two and a half of Grandsire: J. H. Griffiths 1, S. Lewis 2, Geo. Soley (conductor) 3, Geo. Jones 4, R. J. Caswell 5, W. Morris 6. All the members of this band have rung together at the above church for over 25 years. Is this a record?

DEATH OF MR. JAMES N. FROSSELL. ONE OF A FAMOUS BRIGHTON BAND.

Many ringers in Sussex and Bedfordshire, as well as in the neighbourhood of Kingston-on-Thames, will regret to hear of the death of Mr. James Newland Frossell, who passed away on Sunday.

Mr. Frossell was a native of Bedford, but, migrating to Brighton in the days when St. Peter's Society were beginning to make ringing history, he spent some years with them and rang a considerable number of peals, including Surprise methods.

He was one of several ringers who were employed on one firm, the head of which, himself a ringer, had almost a Surprise band at command. Unfortunately, however, the firm 'crashed' and resulted in the eventual dispersal of the company. Mr. Frossell afterwards settled at Kingston-on-Thames, where he remained to the end of his days, having reached a fairly advanced age.

Jim Frossell was a good ringer in the real sense of the term. He had a wonderfully keen ear and could be relied upon to strike his bell perfectly. He was a genial soul, but of retiring disposition, and all who knew him will retain the happiest memories of him.

Although in later years he did practically no peal ringing, he was always regular in his attendance at service ringing. He had, however, been getting frail for some time past, and during the last few months seldom reached the top of the belfry stairs. He would, nevertheless, wait below and was critical of the performances. On Wednesday in last week he went to the church to give a hand in ringing for the Judge's service, but, as he was obviously unwell, he was not allowed to attempt the climb to the ringing chamber, and was assisted home again. On Friday he was taken into the Kingston and District Hospital, where he passed away on Sunday morning.

A DATE TOUCH.

At St. Mary's Church, Maldon, Essex, on February 17th, a date touch of 1,934 changes was rung, consisting of 30 Grandsire Doubles, 20 Plain Bob Doubles, 864 Oxford Treble Bob Minor, 720 Kent Treble Bob Minor and 300 Plain Bob Minor. J. H. Waldoek 1, R. Bird 2, Miss A. E. Waldoek 3, S. C. Card 4, H. J. Mansfield 5, D. Hann (conductor) 6. Longest touch by the ringers of 2nd, 4th and tenor, also the conductor's first attempt at calling.—On Monday, February 19th, 840 changes were rung (120 Cambridge Surprise Minor and 720 Oxford Treble Bob Minor) as a birthday compliment to Mr. R. Hutson on his 70th birthday, being one change for each month he has lived. Those taking part were: W. H. Chalk 1, R. Hutson 2, A. South 3, J. H. Waldoek 4, Miss A. E. Waldoek 5, H. J. Mansfield (conductor) 6.

SUSSEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION. SOUTHERN DIVISION'S NEW SECRETARY.

The annual meeting of the Southern Division of the Sussex County Association was held at Buxted on February 24th. Twenty-two members were present and ringing began at 2.30 p.m.

A short service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. K. H. Macdermott), who gave an address of welcome originality, which took the form of a lecture on the significance of bells as applied to daily life. His remarks were illustrated by means of specimens from his collection, including a gong from a Burmese temple, a wooden bell and a double bell from Switzerland.

At the business meeting Mr. S. E. Armstrong was elected hon. divisional secretary, Messrs. G. Elphick, K. Hart and F. W. Cripps to the committee, and Messrs. R. Dawe, K. Hart and F. W. Cripps to the Committee of Advice.

Two new members from Southover, Lewes (C. W. Brown and W. Coppard), were elected as performing members.

The meeting closed with a vote of thanks to the Vicar for the use of the bells, for presiding at the meeting and for his address.—In his reply the Vicar thanked the retiring secretary (Mr. J. M. Cripps) for his services to the association.

Good use was made of the bells, and methods rung included London Surprise Major. Much of the ringing was, however, in the simpler methods.

SUFFOLK GUILD.

On Saturday, February 10th, a meeting of the Suffolk Guild was held at Long Melford, when 48 members attended, representing the following towers: Sudbury, Ufford, Woodbridge, Groton, Coggeshall, Halstead, Clacton-on-Sea, Assington, Clare, Great Cornard, Newton, Ipswich (St. Mary-le-Tower and St. Margaret's), Sproughton, Lavenham, Glemsford, Cavendish, Little Waldingfield and the local tower. The tea and meeting was held at the Lion Hotel. The Rev. Gordon J. B. Ince (Rector of Long Melford) presided, and, in welcoming the members, said he wished his bells might be rung every Sunday instead of being only chimed.

The Rector was elected an honorary member of the Guild.

Mr. E. J. Ambrose thanked those members who had come from a long distance to attend the meeting.

The methods rung during the afternoon and evening were Cambridge and Superlative Surprise Major, Double Norwich, Kent and Oxford Treble Bob, Bob Major, Stedman and Grandsire Triples and rounds for the learners.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

Yet another peal of twelve! An order has been placed with Messrs. Taylor and Co. for a new ring of twelve for Trowbridge, Wilts, with tenor of 28 cwt., to replace the present peal of ten. This will be the first peal of twelve in the county.

If there are any ringers who are members of the Ancient Order of Druids, they are asked to communicate with Mr. W. C. Dowding, Goldsmith Road, King's Heath, Birmingham.

There were some absent-minded people at the meeting at All Hallows, Lombard Street, London, on Saturday week. We have already reported the 'collection' of odd gloves; now we are asked to say that a lady's scarf was left in the belfry. The claimant should communicate with Mr. Dodd, 2, Winchendon Road, S.W.6.

The peal of Minor at Lamberhurst on February 17th, and recorded last week, was not rung for the Kent County Association as described.

RINGERS' SERVICES.

To the Editor.

Sir,—I was surprised to read Mr. Dove's complaint about the dullness of ringers' services, because, as a representative of a firm of bellfounders, he has probably more opportunities to attend these services and get bored than the average ringer.

If, as I presume, Mr. Dove attends ordinary services on Sundays, it is surprising that he does not complain about hearing certain prayers which are said twice at each service.

Some services are really dull, and it is probably the fault of the form of service and the ringers themselves. The service used in the Bath and Wells Diocese is a sample of bright and cheerful tunes where everyone can join in the singing. When on leave in Somerset last summer I had the privilege (through the kindness of Mr. Hunt, of Taunton) to attend a meeting at Bradford-on-Tone, and it was a real pleasure to see a good crowd of ringers present and to hear them all singing the hymns in the true Somerset dialect.

The average clergyman knows little about bells. He prepares what he thinks a suitable sermon, comes to the church expecting to find a good congregation, but his hopes are soon shattered when he finds not more than 20 ringers present. He then goes back to the Vicarage to prepare his Sunday's work, and is probably hindered in doing so by the sound of the bells up to a late hour. No one can expect clergy, choir or organist to give their best when the congregation is small, as there is nothing worse than reading to empty benches.

May I suggest that Guild secretaries send several copies of their service sheets to the Vicar of a parish about to be visited, so that the organist and choir may practice the words and music, which are probably new to every choir boy.

These services should be sent at least ten days in advance, with a request that the Vicar will announce the service during the notices read out on Sunday, and at the same time invite the parishioners to attend.

We should not rest until we have got the clergy and general public interested in us and our bells, with the result that there should always be a band of ringers to ring for Sunday services, which, of course, is far more important than continuous peal ringing.

H. J. CANN.

Pirbright, Surrey.

A LANCASHIRE RESTORATION.

MONEY RAISED ON GIFT DAY.

Prescot Parish Church bells were dedicated by the Bishop of Portsmouth (Dr. Ernest N. Lovett) on Saturday evening. The eight bells are more than 100 years old, and were overhauled recently by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank. In order to raise the £200 which their renovation cost, a 'Day of Gifts' was arranged for Saturday, and the total sum given was £248.

The first portion of the dedication service was held at the west door of the church, to which the clergy and choir walked in procession. Councillor Thomas Byron, the captain of the bellringers, and one of the four churchwardens, presented one of the ropes to the Bishop and asked him to dedicate the bells. After the dedication the Bishop placed the bells in the care of the Vicar (the Rev. Canon J. P. W. Lovett). The service in the church was conducted by the Vicar, and an address was given by the Bishop, who spoke of the lessons taught by the bells.

The tower of the church was floodlighted, and after the service the bells were rung for some time.

DEATH OF AN ASHTON-UNDER-LYNE RINGER.

The death occurred on Monday, February 19th, of Mr. Harry Heap, 231, Stockport Road, Ashton, in his 68th year. Mr. Heap was a ringer at St. Michael and All Angels' Church, Ashton-under-Lyne, where he held the office of president. He was a member of the Lancashire Association and the Ashton-under-Lyne Society.

Mr. Heap had been a ringer for over 50 years, and had taken part in over 100 peals, the longest one being a peal of Grandsire Cinques (10,075 changes) in 1896.

As a token of respect, a half-muffled peal of Grandsire Caters was rung on Saturday, February 24th, at the Parish Church.

THE HENRY JOHNSON DINNER.

LORD MAYOR ATTENDS BIRMINGHAM FESTIVAL.

The memory of Henry Johnson, one of the greatest figures in the Exercise during last century, is kept green by the annual gathering held in Birmingham. Henry Johnson, who was born in 1809, died in 1890, and there is but a handful of ringers left who knew him personally. At the 46th commemoration dinner on Saturday, out of the 150 who were present, only ten had the acquaintance of the old worthy, but, while these gatherings last, there is no likelihood of the great attributes of Henry Johnson's character being lost sight of. As is usual, the commemoration brought together ringers from many parts of the country, who enjoyed ringing in the afternoon on the ring of 12 at St. Martin's Church, and also tried out the not-so-enjoyable peal of ten at the Cathedral. Unfortunately, there could be no ringing at Bishop Ryder's Church, through illness, but there was no lack of eight-bell opportunities at St. Chad's (R.C.) Cathedral.

Dinner was served at the Imperial Hotel, the Rector of Birmingham (Canon T. Guy Rogers) presiding. He was supported by the Lord Mayor of Birmingham (Alderman H. E. Goodby), Mrs. Guy Rogers, and Alderman J. S. Pritchett (Master of St. Martin's Guild). The company also included Mr. A. Walker (Ringing Master) and Mrs. Walker, Messrs. A. Paddon Smith, J. H. Shepherd and J. George (vice-presidents), Mr. T. H. Reeves (hon. secretary), Canon Stuart Blofeld (Vicar of Edgbaston), the Rev. C. H. Williams (Vicar of Bishop Ryder's) and Mrs. Williams, Mr. W. G. Robinson (churchwarden of St. Martin's), Mrs. A. A. Hughes (London), Mr. E. Alex Young (Master of the Ancient Society of College Youths), Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Johnson (Croydon), Mr. R. Richardson (Master of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild) and Mrs. Richardson, Mr. W. Short (Master of the Worcestershire Association), Mr. H. Knight (hon. secretary of the Society for the Archdeaconry of Staffs), Mr. E. Guise (hon. secretary of the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association), Mrs. Wilkins and Messrs. W. A. Cave, W. Knight, W. H. Thomas, H. Burt, F. Skidmore and P. O. Williams (Bristol), Mr. and Mrs. J. Austin (Gloucester), Messrs. J. P. Fidler (Loughborough), W. H. Judge (Oxford), J. Jagger (Old Hill), J. Johnson (only surviving son of Henry Johnson), Percy Johnson (Leeds), S. F. Palmer and J. Flint (Sheffield), H. Mason (Hagley), Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Smallwood (Bolton), Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Perrens and Mr. and Mrs. F. Pervin (Coventry), and other members of St. Martin's Guild from a wide radius. Among the faces sadly missed from the gathering was that of Mrs. Paddon Smith, whose recent death was much deplored. Mrs. Smith had regularly attended the dinners for many years. The absence of the Lady Mayoress, through indisposition, was also regretted, and among those who also sent apologies were the Bishop of Birmingham, Mr. Tom Russam (a vice-president), Mr. E. H. Lewis (president of the Central Council), Mrs. Goldsmith (Woking), Mr. G. R. Newton (Liverpool), Mr. G. A. Martineau (Solihull) and Mr. J. A. Dart (London). Mr. A. A. Hughes sent a telegram of good wishes from Sherborne, where he was attending the reopening of the bells.

As usual, the musical programme was a feature of the proceedings, quartettes being sung by St. Martin's Quartette (Messrs. Hall, Chapman, Bayliss and Gorman), songs by Mrs. D. Smith and Mr. A. S. Downes, with the ever delightful contribution of handbell solos by Mrs. A. A. Hughes. A magnificently struck course of Stedman Cinques was also rung on handbells by F. E. Pervin, F. W. Perrens, G. P. Swann, A. Walker, F. E. Haynes and M. J. Morris.

The toast of 'The King' was honoured on the call of the Chairman, and Mr. Fred Price proposed 'Church and State.' They often, he said, heard criticisms of the Church, and when people talked of the slums and social conditions some said the Church had failed. But did they realise who and what comprised the Church? The Church was only as strong as her members allowed her to be. In a sermon at St. Martin's recently, the Rector drew a picture of the state of affairs in this country nearly a century ago when the Church Pastoral Aid Society was formed, and had told them how many of the terrible conditions which then existed had been improved largely by the influence of the Church. The Lord Mayor in his capacity as chief magistrate of that city might be said to represent the State that night. In Birmingham, happily, all parties were working together, and the betterment of the slum districts was being carried out very rapidly (applause). At St. Martin's they were fortunate in having as their Rector Canon Guy Rogers (applause). At a ringers' gathering such as that a few weeks ago, a speaker lamented the fact that clergymen were seldom seen in the belfries, but that could not be said of St. Martin's belfry, because Canon Rogers was often seen in the belfry and also brought his friends along. The ringers were always pleased to see him and them (applause).

ST. MARTIN'S VICAR AND HIS RINGERS.

The Chairman, who responded to the toast, said he was proud of his official relationship with St. Martin's Guild. It was always a great pleasure to go up into the belfry, and he was proud to bring his small children and his visitors to meet the bellringers, although sometimes he thought he impeded the progress of the bells, which when he arrived stopped a little sooner than they would otherwise do (laughter). He was very pleased to learn from Mr. Price that the ringers, in their turn, sometimes came and listened to his sermons (laughter and applause). If it was not every clergyman who visited his bellringers, it was, also, not every bellringer who listened to his parson (laughter). In his case he was fortunate that a good many ringers enjoyed St. Martin's services without his worrying them to come. Nobody assumed, when he went into the belfry, that he had come to say, 'Are you coming down to church?' but they took it for granted that it was the right and proper thing to do. Continuing, the Chairman said a hundred years ago the relations between Church and State were far less satisfactory than they are to-day. The State silenced the clergy and would not allow them to meet in Convocation for a great many years, and much Church legislation that should have been passed never was passed. When at last they got their own Church Assembly there were tremendous arrears to be overtaken, and they were gradually getting that right. In many countries abroad there had been a mess made of the relations between Church and State, but in this country they were obtaining more and more freedom and gaining mutual confidence and understanding. They did not enjoy a complete state of autonomy in England, but the voice of the Church was adequately expressed, and Parliament was usually willing to accept it. When, however, there was a divided Church, it was just possible the influence of Parliament might be exercised quite wisely for the purpose of delay, but, on the whole, he did not think they could be dissatisfied with the position. He looked forward to the time when they would have a Church of England thoroughly representative of British Christianity. He would like to see the Church of England, the Methodists and the Congregationalists linked together in a series of self-governing guilds that were all included in the National Church. He would be much happier about disestablishment if that great reunion, so close to his heart, were more nearly in view. Personally, he did not feel fettered by his relationship to the State, and he had not the least hesitation to criticise when he thought it necessary. Some people perhaps thought the Rector of Birmingham was almost too independent, but the State could not dismiss a clergyman of the Church of England—he held a position of wonderful freedom, but of wonderful responsibility. No man could dismiss him from his job, and the State had no power to do so. It was up to him to bear faithful witness to his Master and try to assert the principles of Christianity in relation to politics and government (applause).

PEALS WITH HENRY JOHNSON.

Mr. Tom Miller, one of Birmingham's oldest ringers, proposed the toast of 'The Memory of Henry Johnson,' who, he reminded his hearers, was born at Lichfield, and came to Birmingham in his 'teens,' spending the last six or seven years before his death in retirement at Aston. Forty-five years ago Henry Johnson was present for the last time at those dinners. He (Mr. Miller) had twelve years' association with Johnson, and during that time rang 19 peals with him. Johnson rang his first peal in 1850, and in 1880 he wanted to celebrate it with a peal at St. Philip's that he had specially composed. They had ten men chosen from the Tuesday night band; their striking was excellent, and everything went smoothly for 22 hours. Then Johnson called a 'single,' but the two men behind did not make it, and as Johnson was going up he met the wrong bell first. He called out, 'You haven't made the single. Stand.' That put an end to one of Johnson's ambitions. His favourite peal of ten bells was St. Michael's, Coventry. They had a great charm for him, and he would sacrifice anything for a peal on them, and the old man in 1883 rang in the last peal on them.

Speaking of Johnson's kindness, even to his rivals, led Mr. Miller to refer to another well-known Birmingham ringer of that time—William Chappell—who was a man who, said Mr. Miller, amid laughter, always 'wanted to be atop of his own muck-dump.' Chappell used to ring at St. Philip's, and he used to describe the bells there in the following way: 'The tenor is a good bell; the 9th is cracked; the 8th doesn't belong to the peal; the 7th is a tub; the 6th is a fluke; the 5th is a bladder; the 4th is false-gaited; the 3rd is a middling good bell; the 2nd has no cannons; and the treble is a makeshift' (laughter).

The toast was drunk in silence. Afterwards those who knew Henry Johnson in the flesh were asked to stand up, and ten members of the company responded.

There were, however, only two present, Mr. Harry Mason and Mr. Tom Miller, who attended the first Johnson dinner in 1883.

TWO REMARKABLE PEALS.

Alderman Pritchett, in proposing 'Continued Prosperity to St. Martin's Guild,' said he had recently been again elected Master, an honour and dignity which he greatly appreciated. The active duties were carried out by the Ringing Master, but his position carried with it one great duty, that of proposing this toast. Referring first to the losses which the Guild had sustained, Alderman Pritchett mentioned the tragic death of Mr. L. O. Gibbs, who was killed in a motor-cycle accident, and the death of the Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn, Master of the Oxford Diocesan Guild, who was well known to them in that city and was a frequent visitor to St. Martin's tower. He was a great loss to the Exercise and one which they all deeply deplored. Alderman Pritchett also referred to the accident to Canon Coleridge, and said they were glad to know he was progressing favourably and hoped shortly to resume his ringing activities. Continuing, the Master said the Guild had been very active during the past year and had scored some remarkable performances. The peals rung numbered 27—not a very large number, but the quality of the peals was excellent, and included one or two remarkable items. There had been rung on the bells of St. Martin's Church a peal of Cambridge Surprise Maximus without a conductor. Each ringer who took part in it was his own conductor, and the result was a faultless peal, the record of which would be handed down to posterity as a most remarkable achievement. Another remarkable event was the silent peal of Stedman Cinques 'in hand.' From beginning to end not a word was spoken—every member of the band knew precisely what he had to do and did it. It was a marvellous performance (applause). Sixty-eight members of the Guild took part in the peals rung during the year and there were eight conductors. He was proud to see that so many young men were joining St. Martin's Guild. They had several young men who had become extremely proficient, and as long as there was no lack of such ringers the continued prosperity of the Guild was assured. Another of the events of the year was the attaining of his 80th birthday by Mr. James George (applause). He celebrated his birthday by ringing several peals, always at the heavy end. Although he was now four score years, by choice he took the heaviest bell in the peal and rang it with the utmost precision. Long might his ringing career continue (applause).

There were, continued Alderman Pritchett, two persons to whom he thought the prosperity of the Guild was specially due, and they were the Ringing Master (Mr. Albert Walker) and the hon. secretary (Mr. Thomas Reeves) (applause). Mr. Walker was not only a great ringer and a great conductor, a man whose heart and soul was in the Exercise, but one who did a great deal to extend the knowledge of ringing throughout the country. He was known as a lecturer upon campanology, and his addresses had been much appreciated in many quarters. That was one of the great services he rendered to the Exercise. Mr. Walker also relieved him of the active duties as Master of the Guild. There was no dinner of any importance in the country that Mr. Walker did not attend as the representative of St. Martin's Guild. Mr. Walker was a man greatly esteemed in his business in which he occupied an important position, and it was remarkable that he was able to devote so much energy to ringing, when he was called upon to fulfil so many duties outside. Mr. Reeves, their secretary, was the son of an old and greatly respected ringer, Mr. Samuel Reeves, for many years sexton at West Bromwich, who in his time was Master of the College Youths. The son had inherited the virtues of the father and conducted the business affairs of the Guild with the utmost ability (applause). Judging from its present constitution, concluded Alderman Pritchett, the Guild would flourish in the future, and he was sure it had the good wishes of all the members and all who were present that evening (applause).

YOUNG CONDUCTORS ENCOURAGED.

Mr. T. H. Reeves, who responded, first thanked the artistes for their services. One of the successes of the evening, he said, was on account of the wonderful harmony they got. Proceeding, Mr. Reeves thanked Alderman Pritchett for his references to himself and his father. He enjoyed the work, he said. It was sometimes onerous, but when he saw the Guild progressing and how happy everyone seemed to be at that gathering, he always thought that any effort he put out was amply repaid. He could assure them it was a pleasure to serve the Guild, and he would continue to do whatever he could for its continued prosperity (applause). Mr. Reeves went on to refer to the peals rung during the past year, and said that at St. Martin's Mr. Walker was doing everything possible to encourage young conductors. They were particularly fortunate in the Guild that they had young conductors coming forward and peals were arranged for them to conduct. He wanted to make one observation, and it was this: Careful attention should be given to see that all the peals rung were true peals. The Central Council had laid down certain rules and decisions which St. Martin's Guild and most other associations in the country had agreed to abide by. It was, therefore, incumbent on every conductor to make himself conversant with the rules and decisions of the Council, and if mistakes did arise in a peal and could not be put right immediately the peal should stop (applause). In these days, when it was so much easier to ring peals than it was 20, 30 or 40 years ago, they ought to be particularly careful to ring only good peals and true peals (hear, hear). The Master had referred to the work done by Mr. Walker and the secretary. Alderman Pritchett had rather put himself in the background. That was what a gentleman of the type of their Master would do, but his duties were more onerous than he made them out to be. They appreciated him in the office that he held and hoped he would for many years yet be spared to be their Master (hear, hear). At their annual meeting Alderman Pritchett said he was younger than Mr. James George (one was 80 and the other 79). and, added the Alderman, 'I hope to remain younger than Mr. George for a long time' (laughter). They echoed those sentiments and wished their Master still many years of good health to continue his activity in the many different ways in which he was now engaged (applause).

Mr. Albert Walker, in submitting 'The Visitors,' expressed the pleasure of the Guild at having the presence of so many distinguished visitors. The presence of Mrs. Giv Rogers was particularly welcome, and they were once more honoured by having the Lord Mayor of Birmingham with them, although they regretted the absence of the Lady Mayoress. That was the second occasion on which they had had the Lord Mayor of Birmingham with them at their dinners, but the Lord Mayor of the city had a close association with St. Martin's. Only on the previous Sunday he went there to attend the British Industries Fair service. The Guild frequently rang the bells for civic occasions, and they rang the bells on the first Sunday Alderman Goodby was Lord Mayor. On that occasion the Lord Mayor went to the Cathedral, and, said Mr. Walker, 'our only regret was you did not climb the belfry stairs and become a high churchman' (laughter). They were looking forward to the time, he continued, when they would have as Lord Mayor of Birmingham a member of their Guild. They specially welcomed the Lord Mayor and thanked him for sparing them an evening after the onerous duties he had had during the preceding fortnight in connection with the British Industries Fair, where among other events he had had to receive the Prince of Wales. Continuing, Mr. Walker welcomed the many other visitors who came from many parts of England, and incidentally congratulated the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association, which was strongly represented that night, upon carrying to a successful conclusion the restoration and augmentation of Tewkesbury bells as a memorial to the late Rev. C. D. P. Davies.

THE PRINCE AND THE LORD MAYOR.

The Lord Mayor, who first replied, made a racy speech, in which at the outset he expressed the thanks and appreciation of the visitors for the warm welcome extended to them. The Lady Mayoress greatly regretted that a cold prevented her from being present, but she sent her kindest regards to them all. The Lord Mayor said he was once a choir boy at St. Philip's Church and was one of the best little 'angels' ever a choirmaster had, although he was once fined half-a-crown for getting over the churchyard railings (laughter). Referring to the B.I.F. service, which Mr. Walker said he had attended, the Lord Mayor remarked that he never enjoyed a sermon like it. He wasn't in church (laughter). The fact was he had a cold which kept him away from that service and also prevented him from receiving the Prince of Wales. When his deputy apologised for his absence and explained the reason, the Prince replied, 'Poor bloke, he has got my sympathy. I have got a cold, too' (laughter). The Lord Mayor added that he received from the Prince a nice, affectionate message, and was deeply touched by it.

Continuing, the Lord Mayor said he had no idea there was so much art in bellringing. Bells had always affected him in a peculiar way. Their message was sometimes one of sadness and sometimes one of joy, but to him they seemed to send a message to his conscience, 'Am I doing all I can so that when it pleases the Almighty to call me I can reflect with joy that I have done my best? The bells tell me there is something more in life than the struggle for wealth and amusement,' he continued, 'and I ask, "Am I doing the right thing by my Maker and my fellow-creatures?"' It was true, as Mr. Price had said, that in Birmingham all parties were working together for the benefit of the city. Their great aim in life should be to do their best according to their conscience, and if they did not agree they should be men and women enough to hold out their hands to one another and be good friends and good Christians (applause).

Mr. E. A. Young, who next responded, said when he first came to those dinners at Birmingham some 15 years ago he at once found himself among friends, and he had made many friends there. The social side of ringing was an important part of their ringing life. It was interesting to note, he said, that the Ancient Society, which he represented that night, was established nearly 300 years ago. Speaking from memory, he believed three Lord Mayors of London in their time were members of that Ancient Society, and one of them was actually Master of the College Youths and Lord Mayor also. He hoped some day some other ringer might be Lord Mayor of London. His brother officers and the members who met fortnightly in London, and who were carrying on the traditions of the Ancient Society, desired him to extend to that Guild their heartiest congratulations and felicitations upon their anniversary.

A GREAT PERFORMANCE.

Mr. P. J. Johnson also replied to the toast. He said that Birmingham had seen many great ringing achievements, and he well remembered reading of the pride of Mr. Henry Johnson in bringing back, in his old age, the Stedman Cinques record, which was rung on his 72nd birthday. There had been another record set up this year by St. Martin's Guild, and one that would probably last as long as any change ringing record that had been set up; in fact, it would probably never be excelled. He congratulated the band who rang that silent handbell peal of Stedman Cinques, and it was a personal pleasure to pay tribute to his old friends, Mr. Albert Walker and Mr. George Swann, upon establishing yet another record in having, by that peal, rung together their one hundredth handbell peal of Stedman Cinques (applause). He spoke with particular satisfaction of this fact, because of the courtesy extended to himself by both these gentlemen on many occasions, and by various other members of St. Martin's Guild. Mr. Johnson invited as many members of St. Martin's Guild as possible to visit Leeds later in the year for the commemoration dinner when they honoured the memory of another great ringer—Jasper Whitfield Snowden. He assured them of a hearty welcome. He brought good wishes from Yorkshire for the future of St. Martin's (Continued in next column.)

SHERBORNE ABBEY'S NEW TENOR.

HEAVIEST RING OF EIGHT RESTORED.

SHERBORNE ABBEY.

One of the most important bell restorations in Dorsetshire for many years has just been completed at Sherborne Abbey, which has the heaviest ring of eight in the country. Messrs. Mears and Stainbank have recast the tenor, which is now a magnificent bell, weighing 46 cwt. 0 qr. 5 lb. The rest of the peal have been retuned, and the whole of them have been re-clappered and rehung in ball bearings. So admirably has the work been carried out that each of the bells can easily be clappered up right side single-handed.

The tenor has an interesting history. The original bell was the gift of Cardinal Wolsey. It has been thrice recast and now bears the following inscription:—

By Wolsey's gift I measure time for all.

To Mirth, to Grief, to Church I serve to call.

Recast 1670 by Thomas Purdue, of Glosworth, Somerset. Joseph Barker, Vicar. Gustavus Horne, Walter Pride, Churchwardens. Again recast 1885 by John Warner and Sons, of London. Edward Harston, Vicar. James Hoddinott, Francis Stokes, Churchwardens.

Again recast 1933 by Mears and Stainbank, of London. Wilfred Marcus Askwith, Vicar. Clement Horace Adams, James Florance, Churchwardens.

The cost of recasting the tenor was defrayed by contributions from Old Boys of Sherborne School, through an appeal made by Major J. H. B. Hesse.

Some 200 ringers attended the dedication last Saturday, the number being so large that it was with difficulty that all could get a ring after the service.

Guild. He hoped the Guild would long flourish and would never lack willing men and women to carry on the great traditions set by by-gone generations (applause).

Mr. F. W. Perrens proposed the toast of 'The Ringing World.' He jestingly remarked that he hardly thought the Editor would dare to venture so close to Wellingborough. Many of them had known Mr. Goldsmith for many years, and they thought they knew him really well, but from the columns of his own paper recently they had been learning things about him (laughter). He could say, however, that the Editor had the wholehearted confidence, not only of every Midland ringer, but of almost every ringer in the British Isles (applause). They could not blame the Editor for all that appeared. It was the ringers themselves who were responsible for most of what was published, and if they wanted to blame anybody it was themselves whom they must blame and criticise for what was there. In conclusion, Mr. Perrens expressed regret at the absence, through ill-health, of Mrs. Goldsmith, who had attended that dinner for many years.

Mr. J. S. Goldsmith, in replying to the toast, said that one of the peculiarities of ringers seemed to be a desire among some of them to 'grouse.' Ever since there had been a ringing paper space had been taken up by grouse, and it was as well, perhaps, that they had a channel through which to ventilate their grievances. As far as he was concerned, he endeavoured to hold the scales evenly, and attacks upon himself ran off like water off a duck's back. Indeed, he rather enjoyed it.

Canon Blofeld gave the concluding toast, 'The Chairman,' to which Canon Guy Rogers responded, and the formal proceedings concluded with the National Anthem.

The next day many of the visitors were at St. Martin's for the service ringing. Afterwards, through the kindness of Mr. W. S. Dowding, they had the opportunity of inspecting the wonders of the Birmingham Central Fire Station, and spent a pleasant hour at St. Martin's Hotel, where the customary lunch was provided.

WOODBIDGE BELLS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—As your anonymous correspondent writes of my 'first' letter, he must have known of the second letter which the 'East Anglian Daily Times' published for me, correcting the sentence he quotes. Yet he implies that I have left it uncorrected.

Will someone more reliable tell us, over his own name, whether there is really an old ring of eight bells, all cast by one man at the same time, in Colchester, and still untouched?

I am very grateful to Mr. Hunt for his letter. I was told that there is something wrong with the Merton College ring. If not, and they are still untouched and in order, they must be easily the oldest good ring of eight.

Would Mr. Hunt please send me his list of 20 rings of eight (no more and no less) and all untouched?

PEALS OF MINOR.

THE BANKES JAMES ARRANGEMENT EXPLAINED.

To the Editor.

Sir,—I assume that the recent correspondence and articles in 'The Ringing World' indicate that that hardy annual, 'Peals of Minor,' will be found blooming in all its glory at Warwick at Whitsun, and our Central Council representatives will be asked once again to vote on a resolution framed indirectly, if not openly, to lead to the DEFINITE recognition as a peal of Minor of the arrangement commonly known as 'The Rev. Bankes James Peal of Cambridge Surprise Minor.'

Now, Sir, just between ourselves, I wonder how many of our worthy Councillors know exactly what this arrangement really is?

Do I know myself? Perhaps not.

I know, however, what I think it is and I state my views as a nonentity, in order that the sages may tell me if I am right or wrong, and, if wrong, why?

Now, whenever I have rung in a 720 of Minor we have always commenced by changing from the back stroke rounds to the first hand stroke row and finished by changing from the last hand stroke row to the back stroke rounds.

We might, and possibly did, ring a few rounds before the 'go' and after 'that's all,' but they were not all essential.

The back stroke rounds at the start and then 720 different rows, of which the last was rounds again, were all that was really required, and if any of these rows (including the two rounds) were not completed or if the bells had not come into rounds at the end we should not have claimed a 720.

I am well aware, of course, that 720 rows could be produced without the first back stroke or without the last, that the bells could be set up at the last back stroke and that all sorts of fancy things could be done, but established custom demands that a 720 of Minor, standing by itself at any rate, should be rung in the manner in which I have always rung it, and there is no need (unless one wants to be freakish) to break away from established custom in this respect. Therefore, an extent of Minor is, by custom, produced by 721 rows, two of which, the first rounds and the last, are alike.

Now what are the so-called (if you like) extents comprised in Bankes James' arrangement, and why did he compose them?

To answer the last question first, simply, I understand, to produce a peal of Cambridge Surprise Minor having all its 6-5's at hand.

As to the extents—one, the last, is our old friend W. H. W., and we can dismiss him without question or comment. The other six appear to me (I do not profess to have proved them) each to consist, like any ordinary 720, or 720 different changes produced by 721 rows, two of which are similar, but are not always rounds.

(In this arrangement as in every peal of Minor the last back stroke of every 30th treble lead must, of course, for the purpose of counting the rows necessary to produce each extent, when taken separately, be deemed the row from which the first change of the next extent is made. It should not be necessary to say this, but someone may waste ink in pointing out that there are not actually 721 rows in each extent.)

None of the six extents, however, finishes with the same row as it starts, but, notwithstanding this, 720 different changes are completed in every 30 treble leads.

The two rows which are the same in each extent come, as to one of them, somewhere in the course of the extent, and as to the other, invariably at the end.

Now, on the face of it, you say those two rows are alike and that settles it—the arrangement is 'hopelessly false.'

But is it? The change effected by each repeated row is from its preceding row, and in each extent one of the similar rows is produced by a plain lead and the other by a bob lead.

In the first extent, for instance, the similar row is 34256. Where it first appears in the extent it is at a plain lead and follows 32465, and at the end it is hobbled and follows 43265. To any plain man the changes thus produced must be different.

The whole question, therefore, seems to me not whether we are to count rows or changes, first rounds or last, but whether we insist that every extent in a peal of Minor must begin from and end with the same row (which in the mind of every sane man must be rounds) or if we can accept as an extent (but only when used as part of a peal) an arrangement which produces 720 different changes in a way not commonly accepted as being an extent when standing by itself, provided that (as is the case with the Bankes James arrangement) that no row other than the first and final rounds appears more than seven times in the peal.

This latter is the only possible way of judging Bankes James' arrangement if its acceptance as a peal is to be justified.

In concluding, I ought perhaps to say that I use the word 'row' as meaning the order in which the six bells are struck consecutively one after the other until they have each struck once, in the same manner, but not necessarily in the same order, as rounds.

I use the word 'change' as meaning the result which is effected by the bells in one row being struck in a different order to their sequence in the preceding row.

I do not suppose I should be permitted sufficient space to urge the acceptance of one or other standard, but I personally feel that the Rev. Bankes James has given the Exercise something out of the ordinary run of compositions, and it should not be lightly turned down, especially by votes of people who do not really understand the arrangement.

'EQUUS.'

OLD BELLS IN WILTSHIRE.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—Re Mr. Drake's letters on old bells of one family, there is a peal of eight bells at St. Andrew's, Cluppennham, Wilts, cast by A.R. in 1734.

I was informed by the late Mr. W. W. Gifford, of Salisbury, that the first peal to be erected as an octave was the peal at Bishop's Cannings, Wilts, or a peal at Oxford, which was installed about the same time. Mr. Gifford said it was a question which was first. It appears it was the same benefactor for both peals. The Bishop's Cannings bells date from 1602 and were by I.W. The 4th and 7th and tenor have been recast at different times. There are quite a number of bells dating from 1582 to 1619 by the above founders in Wiltshire.

EASTERN AND WESTERN DISTRICTS MEET.

A joint meeting of the Eastern and Western Districts was held at Gateshead on Saturday, February 24th. Ringers were present from Darlington, West Hartlepool, Sunderland, Chester-le-Street, Newcastle, South Shields, Tanfield, Houghton-le-Spring, Whickham, also the local tower. The beautiful peal of St. Mary's were kept going during the afternoon and evening, and a splendid tea awaited the ringers in The Anchorage.

A short meeting was held afterwards, Mr. R. L. Patterson being in the chair, supported by Canon Stephenson and Mr. Anderson, president of the association.

After the loyal toast, the Chairman welcomed Canon Stephenson and his curate.—The Canon, who was in a jocular mood, said it always gave him great pleasure to welcome the ringers at his church. He always looked forward to their meetings, and, anyhow, he was always at the tea, for 'When the roll and butter's yonder, I'll be there.' However, he said it would sometimes do the congregations good if they could only know the services ringers put into their church, as they (the congregations) seemed to take the bells for granted, and he hoped that very soon it would be made more known by members of churches.

Mr. J. W. Parker proposed a vote of thanks to the Canon and churchwardens for the use of the bells. He also congratulated the Canon on his recovery from his recent illness.

Mr. J. Anderson proposed a vote of thanks to the ladies for the bountiful tea, which, he said, was heartily appreciated by the ringers.—Mr. Pattison replied for the ladies.

It was resolved that South Shields be the next place of meeting on April 14th, provided the bells are available. If not, the meeting will be at Houghton-le-Spring.

Ringings continued after the meeting until 8.30 p.m., when a most enjoyable and successful district meeting came to a close.

SUCCESSFUL QUARTERLY MEETING AT SAWSTON.

A successful meeting was held at Sawston on Feb. 24th. Members came from Cambridge, Eving, Fen Ditton, Fulbourn, Ickleton, Newmarket, Newton, Royston, Trumpington and a splendid muster of the local band. The bells were half-muffled in the afternoon in memory of Mr. A. G. Rivers, of Dry Drayton.

Service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. F. J. Bywaters), who gave an interesting address on Sawston Church.

A bountiful tea with home-made cakes was served by Mrs. F. Hurry and friends.

At the business meeting it was a very great pleasure to elect Miss Barbara Hurry and Mr. Bob Johnson as members of the association. The keenness and enthusiasm of the young folk is a very healthy sign.

It was decided to hold by-meetings at Caxton on March 24th and at Great Chishill on May 5th, and the next quarterly meeting at Ickleton on June 2nd.

The company stood in silence as a mark of respect to Mr. Rivers, and the secretary was asked to write to Mrs. Rivers expressing sympathy.

Grateful thanks are due to the Vicar, the organist, the ladies and the local band who made the visitors so welcome. At 8.35 p.m. a very successful meeting ended and became a pleasant memory.

A CITY MEETING.

LONDON UNIVERSITY STUDENTS' INVITATION.

On Saturday, February 24th, the two districts of the London County Association met at All Hallows', Lombard Street, at the invitation of the London University Students. Soon after 3 o'clock the ten bells (tenor 19½ cwt.), said to have been removed from the ancient Church of St. Dionis, Gracechurch Street, were set going to the tune of Grandsire Caters, under the direction of the Southern District secretary, who afterwards handed over the reins of office to Mr. J. Waugh, Northern District Master. Touches in various methods were rung during the afternoon, including Cambridge Royal and London Surprise Major, also rounds for some of the students. By now a large company had assembled, the overflow of a somewhat small belfry distributing itself upon the roof and viewing the backs of adjacent buildings.

Within the church the writer found some fine carving, said to be by Grinling Gibbons, and in a case an ancient Bible and two other volumes, described and dated as follows: 'A.D. 1613. These 2 Volumes Erasmus' Paraphrase of the New Testament and this Bible were rescued from the old Church of St. Benet, Gracechurch, where they were chained to desks for public perusal. That Church was destroyed in the great fire A.D. 1666.'

The party, numbering about 35, at 5 o'clock betook themselves to St. Dionis' Hall, Lime Street, owned by All Hallows' (they seem to have a lot of other people's things, by the way), where tea had been prepared, and a happy party was ministered to by some of the students in a very cosy and beautiful room. The inner man having been satisfied, the Southern District secretary announced that there was no business to transact, but he would take that opportunity of moving a hearty vote of thanks to the Rector (the Rev. Canon Tatlow, D.D.) for the use of the bells and the room, and to Messrs. Cuthbertson and Dodd, of the London University, for their help in arranging tea and having the bells ready.

Mr. Cuthbertson briefly responded, and, handbells being produced, some more or less startling ringing was performed at first, but as time went on a band was found who could and did 'keep their seats.' A return was afterwards made to the tower for about an hour, and all was silent again about 8 o'clock, there only remaining a certain amount of what another secretary describes as 'chin chin' to do to complete a most successful and enjoyable meeting.

LADIES' GUILD.

NORTHAMPTONSHIRE DISTRICT'S FIFTIETH MEETING.

A meeting of the Northamptonshire District of the Ladies' Guild took place at Isham on Saturday, March 3rd, by kind permission of the Rector (the Rev. E. J. Atkins). The occasion was the 50th meeting of the Northants District, the district having been inaugurated at a meeting held at Isham on November 20th, 1920. The president of the Ladies' Guild (Miss E. Steel) and the general secretary (Mrs. Fletcher) and Mr. G. W. Fletcher were present, a company of nearly fifty ringers and friends assembling, of whom 20 were Ladies' Guild members.

The Rector conducted the Guild service. Afterwards all proceeded to the School, where tea had been prepared. Mrs. F. Boulton (vice-president, Northants District) expressed a welcome to Mrs. Fletcher on behalf of the members, and Mrs. T. Billson (one of the earliest members of the district) proposed a comprehensive vote of thanks to the Rector and all at Isham who had contributed to the success of the meeting.—The Rector replied.

The business meeting followed. Two new ringing members were elected, viz., Miss Swan, of Brigstock, and Miss Barrow, of Weston-by-Welland.

It was decided to hold the next meeting at East Haddon in May.

Touches were rung on the peal of six bells throughout the afternoon and evening, members of the Ladies' Guild taking a prominent part and forming teams from rounds to Treble Bob and Surprise methods.

SOUTHERN DISTRICT AT BASINGSTOKE.

The Southern District of the Ladies' Guild received a hearty welcome at Basingstoke, Hants, on Saturday, February 24th, on its first visit since the Guild was formed in 1912. Ringing commenced at All Saints' Church at 3 o'clock, and at St. Michael's at 4.15. The Guild service was conducted by the Rector (the Rev. Dr. H. W. Bonstead), who gave a very helpful address. The local ladies had prepared a splendid tea in the Church Cottage, and 33 ringers did justice to it.

At the business meeting Miss E. Foulk, a visitor from the Northern District, took the chair. Three new members were elected, Misses Irene and May Knapp, of Highclere, and Mrs. Wooding, of Basingstoke. Mrs. Oaler, of Bramley, was welcomed back into the Guild.

It was proposed to hold the next quarterly meeting at Pirbright, Surrey, in October.

A vote of thanks was accorded to the Rector, the organist and to the ladies who had arranged the tea.

After the meeting the ladies left to rejoin the gentlemen in the tower, but the lure of the shops proved too much for some, and so a second 'Henry VIII.' came to the rescue of the remaining seven. Later the Guild members managed several touches 'on their own.' Ringing was arranged as far as possible to meet all needs from rounds to Double Norwich.

The following towers were represented: Aldershot, Basingstoke, Bramley, Duffield, Farnborough, Guildford, Laverstoke, Overton, Pirbright, Seale, Twyford and Worplesdon.

BELLRINGING IN A NOVEL.

A novel, in which change ringing figures prominently, is just now claiming a good deal of interest among the public. 'The Nine Tailors,' by Dorothy L. Sayers, is not quite the first mystery story which has featured bell-ringing, but we have no hesitation in saying that it is the best attempt yet to deal in this form with the art. The authoress was at special pains to acquire some knowledge of methods and ringing, and, allowing for the limitations of the self-instructed student and the exigencies of the plot, the ringing side of the story is much better done than anything of the kind which has been published before. There is, however, one blemish which ringers will dislike and that is an incident in which the ringers refresh themselves with beer in the belfry—an incident emphasised in the daily paper, in which the story is now running as a serial, by a picture. This will certainly tend to create a wrong impression among the public of the behaviour of ringers in the belfry and is unfortunate, for such abuses have long since disappeared.

But all those who read the novel will, we feel sure, enjoy it, whatever its shortcomings from the ringers' point of view may be. Equally, too, will be admired the good intentions of the talented authoress, revealed in a letter sent to one of her ringer critics, in which, while admitting that it was a rash thing to attempt the sympathetic use of the art in a novel, she realised that whatever she did she 'could not possibly write worse nonsense than had been written by others.' Which is unquestionably true. The utter drivel which customarily appears when bellringing is dealt with by writers ignorant of the subject has led to a great deal of misapprehension among the public. If Miss Sayers' efforts achieve her hope that the novel will at least make the 'man in the street' feel that there must be 'something more in change ringing than the deliberate production of a prolonged and offensive noise,' she will indeed have accomplished something worth while, and ringers will not only forgive her for the faults which she so handsomely acknowledges in her letter, but be ever grateful to her for a service rendered.

The trouble taken by Miss Sayers to make herself acquainted, not only with the jargon of the art, but with some of its technical details, even to the extent of working out touches of Grandsire Triples and Kent Treble Bob Major, has enabled her to present the subject with much greater accuracy than anything of the same character which has appeared before. In the serial version, however, the story is very much 'cut' on the ringing side, but in its original form ringers will find their particular interests most sympathetically treated, and such

THE FUTURE MATTERS MOST.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—The letter from Mr. E. M. Atkins which you published in your issue of March 2nd criticises two things, viz.: (1) The management of district meetings, and (2) the contents of 'The Ringing World.' I take it that all ringers are in favour of two objects—(1) the spread of change ringing, and (2) the improvement of 'The Ringing World.' May I point out that these objects depend upon each other, and may I take an illustration from my experience as a beginner 45 years ago?

I started ringing in a six-bell tower, as one of an entirely new band, including one change ringer and one other man, who could handle a bell, but had never rung changes. After a few years we lost our change ringer, who had taught us the 'rudiments of the faith,' and the beginners were left entirely to their own resources. We had our difficulties; for years there was one ringer who could only ring the tenor in Doubles, and another who could only ring a plain hunt bell. Still, before six years were out we managed Grandsire and Bob Doubles and half a dozen plain Minor methods. In those days there were no district meetings and no motor buses or cars to bring visitors to help us. But the one thing that made our men keen was the possibility of seeing in the 'Bell News' from time to time a notice of a 720 rung for evening service, with a footnote, 'First 720 in the method by all the band.' I had almost forgotten that just before the end of the six years the band were attempting Stedman Doubles—not bad for beginners with no one to teach them.

I believe five or six members of the band took the 'Bell News' regularly, which was then sold at 1d. The cheaper the price, the greater the help and incitement to the beginner; if more beginners will buy, the cheaper will be the cost of production. If 'The Ringing World' (which has taken the place of the 'Bell News') can find room for notices of 'service ringing' whenever a first 720 of Minor is rung by all or some of the band, I think the Editor will find that his circulation increases, and he will then be able to reduce the price; and the increase in the circulation will help more beginners, just when they want help. The ringer who has scored 100 peals, or 'has circled the tower,' needs no encouragement, and he can help himself. He is like a boy learning to skate: at first he wants all the help he can get: when he can do outside edge forwards and backwards well and with confidence, he does not need more help than he can get from books, or an occasional hint from a friend.

Now I turn to district meetings:—In a tower where the home team are all, or nearly all, beginners, while the visitors are most of them first-rate ringers, a touch of 500 or so of Stedman is not really wanted by the visitors, and is absolutely useless to the home team, who can make nothing of a method where a bell can come to lead at back stroke, and may stay there for only a half-pull. The result is that beginners are apt to fight shy of district meetings, and so they remain 'beginners' for much longer. Their achievements will never appear in 'The Ringing World,' and it has no interest for them, and the circulation of the paper languishes. I wish I could persuade the skilled ringers that district meetings should be regarded as opportunities mainly for helping beginners, and not for ringing Stedman or Surprise methods. If instead of ringing Stedman Triples one or two of them would stand behind beginners—giving as many as possible a short touch in Grandsire Triples, and reserving the Stedman for the last ten minutes before the service, there would be a much greater probability of a notice in 'The Ringing World' of a 'quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples—first quarter-peal by all the band,' and (I hope) eight new subscribers for 'The Ringing World.'

Turning back to the six-bell towers, may I say that I would far sooner hear that seven separate bands rang 720 in a Minor method on the same Sunday, each in its own tower, than that a carefully selected team from seven towers rang 5,040 of the same Minor method on one day; also that I would like all bands in six-bell towers to set before themselves, as a minimum, one 720 for at least one service on each Sunday.

DEATH OF MR. H. T. HOWELL.

A WELL-KNOWN WEST COUNTRY RINGER.

We regret to announce the passing of Mr. Henry T. Howell, of Bristol, Past Master of the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association, which office he held from 1921 to 1923, also first Master of the Bristol United Ringing Guilds, 1921.

Mr. Howell died on Wednesday, March 7th, at the age of 73 years. The end was rather unexpected, although he has been ailing for some time. Mr. Howell was well liked by all who knew him, and his example could be well followed by others. His ringing career in Bristol started about 50 years ago at St. George's, Bristol, East, at which church he was at one time churchwarden.

He was very prominent in the ringing fraternity with Mr. F. G. May (now in South Africa) at St. Nicholas', Bristol. After the regrettable incident of the closing of St. George's tower, he joined St. Philip's band, and when the new peal was installed at St. Ambrose's Church he gave assistance there.

The funeral took place on Saturday, March 10th, at St. Ambrose's Church, the service being conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. F. S. Lee). The interment was in the family grave at Avon View Cemetery, Bristol.

By special request of the family, the hearer party were ringers, the following making the party: Mr. J. Gould (Master, Gloucester and Bristol Association), Mr. F. Skidmore (Bristol branch secretary), Mr. F. G. Leaker (association adviser), and Mr. B. C. Worsdell (St. Ambrose's).

The late Mr. H. T. Howell.

The bells of St. Ambrose's Church were rung half-muffled for the service, the following taking part: J. T. Dyke (hon. secretary, Bath and Wells Association), John W. Jones (hon. secretary, Llandaff Association), Sidney G. Riches (Bristol United Ringing Guilds), W. Lansdown (vice-president, Gloucester and Bristol Association), W. A. Cave (Past Master, Gloucester and Bristol Association), Mrs. R. J. Wilkins (St. Stephen's), G. S. Wiltshire (St. Philip's), A. Wiltshire (St. Ambrose's) and A. Knight (St. Ambrose's).

The 'whole pull and stand' was successfully rung as well as touches of Grandsire and Stedman Triples and Bob Major, conducted by J. T. Dyke.

The floral tributes included a wreath from the Gloucester and Bristol Association (Bristol Branch), the Bristol United Ringing Guilds, St. Philip's Ringing Guild, and St. Ambrose's Ringing Guild. A memorial service was held at St. Ambrose's Church at evensong on Sunday, the 11th inst.

A quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples was rung at St. Ambrose's Church on Wednesday, March 7th, with the bells half-muffled as a last token of respect: Mrs. F. Skidmore (3 years) 1, W. Lansdown (46 years) 2, A. Knight (46 years) 3, G. S. Wiltshire (44 years) 4, F. Skidmore (26 years) 5, A. Liversedge (48 years) 6, S. Phillips (46 years) (conductor) 7, W. Stafford (26 years) 8.

This quarter-peal was the same composition that was rung as the first quarter-peal on the bells of St. Ambrose's, conducted by the late Mr. H. T. Howell. The figures in brackets denote the number of years each ringer knew Mr. Howell in the ringing world. With the exception of Mr. and Mrs. Skidmore, the others were ringers of the old St. George's band.

The bells of St. Nicholas' Church, Bristol, were rung half-muffled to a quarter-peal of Grandsire Caters (1,259 changes) following the interment at Avon View Cemetery: E. J. Brown (conductor) 1, A. Maggs 2, G. Pearce 3, Miss A. Brown 4, S. Riches 5, P. C. Williams 6, J. Richmond 7, B. C. Worsdell 8, G. S. Wiltshire 9, G. Burcher 10.

The late Mr. Howell was a ringer at St. Nicholas' Church for 18 years and had rung many peals there. This quarter-peal was rung as a last mark of respect.

ANOTHER RING OF SIX IN HANTS. A BARRON BELL TRUST GIFT.

A new treble bell to increase the ring to six was dedicated at Barton Stacey, Hants, on Saturday week, by the Bishop of Southampton. The old oak bell cage was badly damaged by the death-watch beetle, and a new frame has been provided and the old bells retuned. The work, the gift of the Emma Barron Bell Trust, has been carried out by Messrs. Taylor and Co., of Loughborough, in their customary efficient manner.

Some of the old bells are of historic interest, as they were cast by a little known founder, Cor, of Aldbourne, Wilts. The earliest known bell in Hampshire from this foundry is dated 1693. The inscriptions on the old bells are: 2, Cor of Aldbourne 1725; 3, T. Mears of London, fecit 1828; N. C. Winkworth gave five guineas, Cor of Aldbourne 1725; 5, Martin Wright Esquire gave ten guineas, Cor of Aldbourne 1725; 6, Nicholas Elliott and John Edwards C.W. O. Cor 1725.

The church was crowded for the dedication service, prior to which the old five bells were rung. About 30 members of the Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild were present, and Mr. R. H. Dove represented the founders. The service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. G. C. R. d'Arcy), and the lessons were read by Canon R. S. Medlicott (Rural Dean of Whitechurch) and Canon Cunningham (Rural Dean of Winchester).

During the procession of the Bishop, Vicar and choir to the tower, music to Hawker's poem, 'The Bells of Bottreaux,' was played on the organ by the Rev. N. C. Woods, Sacrist of Winchester Cathedral, and formerly hon. treasurer of the Winchester Guild:—

Come to thy God in time,
Thus saith the pealing chime
Youth, manhood, old age past,
Come to thy God at last.

Then followed the Dedication, and while the choir and clergy were returning to the choir stalls the bells were rung by W. Andrews (Winchester) 1, R. Smith (Winston) 2, J. A. Hill (Bishopstoke) 3, N. R. Perkins (Stockbridge) 4, O. Smart (Andover) 5, J. Chesterman (Basingstoke) 6.

The Bishop of Southampton based his address on the science of bellringing, which, he said, was peculiarly an English custom. He hoped the bells would send out a two-fold message—a challenge to the worship of God in God's house; a consolation to those who were unable to do so.

During the singing of the hymn, 'Saviour, again to Thy dear Name we raise,' a collection was made, and a beautiful and memorable service was brought to a close.

Ringing was kept up during the evening, and everyone was delighted with the improvement effected in the bells.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION. CANTERBURY DISTRICT.

The spring meeting of the Canterbury District was held at Wingham on Saturday, February 24th. The methods rung ranged from Grand-sire to Double Norwich, interspersed with rounds for the new members. The association form of service was held in the church, the Vicar (the Rev. F. B. Beavan) giving an interesting and helpful address. Mr. W. E. Pittman, Mus.Bac., presided at the organ.

Tea followed at the Dog Inn, at which 32 members were present. The Rev. F. B. Beavan occupied the chair, and in the regrettable absence of the district secretary (Mr. Percy Smith), Mr. E. H. Spice acted in that capacity.

New practising members were elected as follows: St. Peter's, Thanet, E. Perryman, F. Dack and F. Brencley; Wingham, W. Martin; Whitstable, A. Hoare, F. Bottle and C. Dilmot; St. Lawrence, Ramsgate, J. W. Cobb; and the whole of the Throwley company. The Vicar was elected an honorary member.

Votes of thanks were accorded to the Rev. F. B. Beavan and to Mr. Pittman.—The Vicar suitably replied, and said that while he was at Wingham the association would always be welcome there.

It was decided to hold the next by-meeting at Northbourne.

Among the towers represented were Littlebourne, Sturry, Dover, Deal, Walmer, Whitstable, Wickhambreaux, St. Peter's, St. Lawrence, Canterbury Cathedral, St. Alphege and St. Stephen's, Elham, Herne, Lyminge, Brabourne and Wingham.

WORCESTERSHIRE ASSOCIATION.

On Saturday, February 24th, the Western Branch held a very successful meeting at Kempsey. About 45 members, the greater majority of which were members of the 'younger school,' were present from 17 towers of the branch.

A very inspiring address was given by the Vicar (the Rev. E. B. R. de Jersey), after which tea, kindly given by the Vicar, was partaken of at the Village Hall.

At the business meeting which followed, five new members were elected.

Croome d'Abitot was proposed for the summer meeting.

The methods rung during the day included Grand-sire, Bob and Stedman Doubles, and Minor from Plain Bob to London Surprise.

WEDDING BELLS.

At Launton, Oxfordshire, on Saturday, March 10th, for the wedding of Mr. J. Hales and Miss E. L. Foster, 720 of Union Doubles: F. Sharpe 1, J. Marriott, sen. (conductor) 2, T. Marriott 3, H. Gregory 4, R. Castle 5, J. Marriott, jun., 6. Also another 720 with H. Massey ringing the tenor. The first in the method by all the band.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

Mr. Albert Walker (Ringing Master of St. Martin's Guild) has been elected a member of the Parochial Church Council for St. Martin's, Birmingham.

John Arbon, whose first peal on tower bells was Cambridge Surprise Major 'inside,' rung in February, 1933, has now rung a peal of Cambridge, London and Superlative.

The bells of St. Dany's, Sleaford, have been restored by Messrs. Taylor and Co., and were reopened on Saturday at a gathering attended by about 75 ringers.

Hearty congratulations to Mr. Challis F. Winney, who will be 76 to-morrow. As long as most living ringers can remember Mr. Winney has been an outstanding figure in London ringing.

On March 22nd, 1734, a peal of 6,876 Grandsire Caters was rung at New College, Oxford. Doubtless the now very active Oxford Society will see to it that the bicentenary is fittingly celebrated.

One hundred and fifty years ago on March 24th, a peal of 5,160 'Double Twelve In' was rung at St. Bride's, Fleet Street, London. What a pity that this fine, historic ring are now silent, except on rare civic occasions.

The peal of Doubles rung at Blackmoor, Hants, and recorded last week, consisted of 5,280 changes, not 5,040 as printed.

THE CENTRAL COUNCIL.

All resolutions to be proposed at the next annual meeting must be sent to me immediately.

Secretaries of affiliated societies are reminded that all subscriptions became due on January 1st.

BOW BELLS ON THE 'WIRELESS.'

The Ancient Society of College Youths have sent, through their hon. secretary (Mr. W. T. Cockerill), the following letter to the B.B.C.:-

College Youths highly appreciate your innovation of broadcasting the record of Bow bells during the intervals. We hope this will be continued, and that, if possible, we may have the pleasure of listening to more ringing before the Sunday services.

WOODBIDGE BELLS.

Dear Sir,—Mr. Drake again assumes too much—I have not seen his second letter to the 'East Anglian Daily Times.' The first one was more than enough for me, and in view of what it contained it is comical to read this week that Mr. Drake wishes correspondents to be RELIABLE.

COLCHESTER BELLS.

Dear Sir,—Re the letter of the Rev. H. Drake in your issue of March 9th, as regards bells in Colchester, St. Peter's possessed a peal of eight bells, all cast by Lester and Pack, dated 1763, with tenor reputed to be 20½ cwt. and 49 inches diameter, but which was found lighter when all the bells were taken away for recasting by Messrs. Taylor and Co., of Loughborough. They were opened and rededicated by the Bishop of Colchester on March 13th, 1913. The inscription on the tenor bell (weight 21 cwt. 0 qr. 17 lb.) is as follows: 'This peal of eight bells, cast in 1763 by Lester and Pack, of London. Rev. Wm. Symthies, Vicar, Robt. Duke, Jas. Rohgent, Churchwardens, was recast 1913. C. Trippitt Ward, Vicar, A. Polley, T. M. Lloyd, Churchwardens. This bell was recast at the expense of the parishioners, congregation and friends.'

H. T. PYE,

Hon. Secretary, St. Peter's Company, Colchester.

MR. J. J. PARKER 81.

As is usual on March 7th, a large number of ringers, representing many towers, gathered at Farnham Royal to do honour to the 'Grand Old Man' of the East Berks and South Bucks Branch of the Oxford Diocesan Guild, Mr. Joseph J. Parker, who was celebrating his 81st birthday anniversary. Rounds, Grandsire, Stedman, Double Norwich, Kent Treble Bob, Superlative and Cambridge Surprise were all rung before the bells were finally lowered in peal.

A few words of congratulation from the secretary and a hope that many more celebrations would take place, with a gracious reply from Mr. Parker, thanking all for their presence, brought the evening to a close.

To the Editor.

Sir,—Will you kindly allow me a little of your valuable space to thank my many ringing friends for their very kind birthday greetings I received on the 7th. Among them were letters from several old friends who used to love to join in my Whit Monday gatherings of 50 years ago, when the Editor of the 'Bell News' used to give it out that there would be ringing all day. With 27 visitors, a very enjoyable evening was spent in the tower. My thanks are due to our secretary, Mr. A. D. Barker, for making the arrangements.

J. J. PARKER.

THE SURREY ASSOCIATION.

BOUNDARY DIFFICULTIES.

Two points of special interest were discussed by members of the Surrey Association at their annual meeting, held at Beddington on Saturday. An informal talk between the secretary and the secretaries of adjoining Associations and Guilds on the subject of boundaries where the various organisations overlap was agreed to; and the committee are to take into consideration the question of holding a ringing competition.

There were nearly a hundred members present, who, after ringing on the pleasant peal of ten bells, attended a bright service conducted by the curate (the Rev. F. Witcomb), who in his address welcomed the association to Beddington, and said he had been warned not to preach on the subject of the history of bells, as they would probably know more about it than he did. Instead, Mr. Witcomb dealt with the application of Christian principles to the problems of modern life.

Tea was served at the Harvest Home Inn, where the meeting was subsequently held, the Master (Mr. D. K. C. Birt) presiding, supported by the officers of the association.

The hon. treasurer's statement was a very satisfactory one, a debit balance at the commencement of the year of £2 5s. 2d. having been converted into a balance in hand of £6 13s. The two districts had contributed the cost of printing the reports for the years 1931 and 1932, amounting to £28 9s., and also £6 15s., the cost of a new peal book. The proportion of members' subscriptions received was £2 4s. 6d. in respect of 89 members from the Southern District and £3 17s. 3d. in respect of 155 members from the North-Western District, while £1 15s. had been received from new compounding members.

PEAL RINGING.

The balance sheet was adopted, as was also the committee's annual report, which stated that the district meetings had been very successful. In the North-Western District ringing had been of an excellent character, both as regards striking and quality of methods rung. It was regretted that the combined practices which commenced at the beginning of the year did not receive enough support to be continued, although they were of considerable assistance to some of the bands at the towers where the practices were held. Seventeen new ringing members had been elected during the year, including the band at All Saints', Carshalton. The membership of the district was: Hon. members 5, attached ringing members 134, unattached 33, total 177. In the Southern District progress had been maintained and a determined effort had been made to encourage new conductors. There had been a decided falling off in the number of peals rung by the association during the year 1933 compared with 1932, and it was regretted that there was no improvement in the position regarding the recent closing of several towers to peal ringing. Efforts had been made by local societies to ring peals by their Sunday service company, and other bands had been practising new methods, resulting in many failures before success was achieved and a corresponding drop in the number of peals for the association. Special mention was made in the report of the following performances: Grandsire Triples at Benlilston, the conductor also calling a peal for the first time; Grandsire Triples at Betchworth by the Buckland Society; London Surprise Royal at Beddington, being the first peal of London Royal for the association; Yorkshire Surprise Major, being the first peal of Major in the method by the association. The number of peals rung was 28, the number of members taking part 96 and the number of conductors 14. The peals were rung in 18 towers. Some interesting statistics were given showing comparison of peals rung in various years. Here are some of them:—

Number of peals	39	51	28
Number of conductors	13	16	14
Number of ringers taking part	102	100	96
Average number of different ringers taking part per peal	2.6	1.9	3.4
Average number of peals to each conductor	3	3.2	2

Commenting on the report, the Master said the figures showed that while the number of peals had gone down, peal ringing and conducting had been spread among a larger number of ringers, which meant that instead of a number of peals being rung by expert bands, struggling bands had been encouraged to get to the point of ringing a peal. Mr. Birt pointed out that their association existed primarily to ring church bells for church services, and the final test of their work must be the extent to which they had been able to do that. He thought they had been able to do it fairly satisfactorily (applause). Their work was essentially team work, and they must above all things be ready to sacrifice their own interests to the common good. Where this existed they got a happy state of things in the belfry and progress was likely to follow.

Mr. C. H. Reading asked whether, having regard to the chairman's remarks, they could have some particulars in the report showing whether service ringing had been maintained or increased during the year?

The Chairman said the committee would certainly consider that point.

Four places were suggested for the next annual meeting of the association, and Reigate was selected, the voting being as follows: Reigate 31, Southwark 20, Kingston 8, Guildford 2.

The following officers were re-elected for the year, no other nominations having been received: President, the Bishop of Croydon; Master,

Mr. D. K. C. Birt; hon. treasurer, Mr. C. Dean; hon. secretary, Mr. C. H. Kippin; assistant hon. secretary, Mr. F. E. Darby; hon. auditor, Mr. G. W. Steere.

The Master acknowledged the re-election of the officers, to whom a vote of thanks was proposed by Mr. Reading, who mentioned especially the work done by the Master, the hon. secretary and assistant secretary.—Mr. Darby responded.

BOUNDARIES TO BE DISCUSSED.

The following motion, passed by the committee, had been placed on the agenda for consideration: 'That the secretaries of the Guildford Diocesan Guild and Kent County Association be invited to confer with the secretary of this association with a view to an adjustment of boundaries upon diocesan lines.'

The hon. secretary said the committee had brought this forward because one of these days they might have to decide what they were really going to do about diocesan status. At the present time the boundary of their association was somewhat vague. They called themselves the Surrey Association, but they had never been down further than Leatherhead to his knowledge, and they had the London County Association overstepping them in the other direction. The idea of having this conference of secretaries was to have an informal talk to see if any scheme could be worked out on the basis of diocesan boundaries, which for their own association meant the Diocese of Southwark. But part of the Diocese of Southwark was in Kent and included towers like Lewisham, Deptford and Woolwich. There was difficulty in that direction, but if they had a meeting of secretaries they might explore the ground informally without committing their respective associations to anything. One of their difficulties was that Croydon was in the Diocese of Canterbury; an island portion surrounded by Rochester on one side and Southwark on the other.

The Chairman said there was no doubt a tendency in these days for ringing associations to be diocesan in character rather than county. Their own association was established on a county basis. Their neighbours on one side were diocesan, but on the east the adjoining organisation was county. Then they had the extraordinary anomaly that Croydon was part of the Diocese of Canterbury, though it was completely isolated. The Surrey Association had been doing useful work for a great number of years on the county basis, and if the time came when the status of ringing associations was to become entirely diocesan, it was only right that the association should find its place in the scheme of things.

Mr. J. S. Goldsmith suggested that, if there was to be any informal conference, the secretary of the London County Association, which had also taken the title of 'North Southwark Diocesan Guild,' ought to be invited, and moved an amendment to include this in the motion.—Mr. A. Clark seconded.

Mr. W. Hewitt said he was in favour of County Associations. In the case of the London County Association, they had, in his opinion, simply taken on the subsidiary title of 'North Southwark Diocesan Guild' on purpose to forestall the Surrey Association in taking the title of Southwark Diocesan Guild. There was no such thing as a North Southwark Diocese, and the title was ridiculous on the face of it. He did not agree with the London County secretary being invited. Honestly, he considered it would be far better to stick to the title of the Surrey Association and get permission of the Bishop to add the sub-title of 'Southwark Diocesan Guild.'

Mr. W. R. Melville said he did not think it would be many years before the ringers, as churchworkers, would be called upon to form themselves into Diocesan Guilds. Even in the case of the joint Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild, the Bishop of Winchester had expressed a desire that Portsmouth diocese should have its own Guild, and he believed other Bishops would form the same opinion. The time would come when churchworkers would be diocesan workers.

Mrs. Kippin: That doesn't tell us where we come in.

Mr. Melville: You will have to be the Southwark Diocesan Guild.

Mr. Tony Price thought the time would come when they would have a national association, and the Diocesan Guilds would be merely branches.

The Chairman said they did not want to be brought into antagonism with other associations or to squabble over this tower or that. If they did their job to the best of their ability they would find out soon enough where they stood. Croydon, he added, presented a special problem, and in any change they made they would have to make special provision for it. There was no particular reason for saying 'good-bye' to some of their very best friends.

The amendment was agreed to with three dissentients, and the motion, as amended, carried nem con.

A member asked that in the annual report the footnotes to peals should be printed. The hon. secretary replied that in regard to the 1933 peals it was too late to do this, as the footnotes had already been cut off. It would be borne in mind in future, but it might add to the cost.—Mr. J. Beams: Some of the footnotes are perfect rubbish (laughter).

A vote of thanks was passed to the Rector of Beddington and the Rev. F. Witcomb for conducting the service.

SUGGESTED COMPETITION.

Mr. F. G. Talbot asked if it would not be possible to have a ringing competition on the lines of some of those held in the North of England. He believed it would add interest to ringing in the association. (Continued at foot of next page.)

DEATH OF MR. GEORGE T. POTTER. FORMER PRESIDENT OF DURHAM AND NEWCASTLE ASSOCIATION.

There passed away on March 2nd one of the most lovable and popular men in the Durham and Newcastle Diocesan Association, but who was practically unknown to the present generation of ringers, Mr. George Potter, a past president of the association. He followed the late Mr. Robert Spencer Story to the chair in 1905, and reigned with distinction till 1908. Not content with that, when the need came during the war he stepped into the secretary's work and kept the association from falling into oblivion, and his energy was followed by the success it deserved.

Mr. Potter started his ringing in the old days of 'Stoney' ringing in Newcastle, but dropped it for many years until the bells were installed in All Saints' Church, Gosforth, in which parish he was then living. With the enthusiasm which was his bent, he progressed in the art and excelled in most of the standard methods, including London Surprise, of which he rang two or three peals. He was an honorary member of the Newcastle Cathedral Guild, and did much to help in the progress there 20 years ago.

He retired from business and from ringing some ten years ago, and little was seen of him, but his memory will live long with those who loved his kindly, genial presence and his 'camaraderie' at every meeting of the association.

He was quietly laid to rest at Gosforth Parish Cemetery on Monday, March 6th, and there was not one there who did not feel a sense of deep loss—that of a loving father and a staunch friend.—R.I.P.

SHERBORNE BELLS.

DETAILS OF RESTORATION WORK.

The following information amplifies the brief report of the restoration and reopening of the bells of Sherborne Abbey given in our last issue :—

The frame has been tightened up carefully all round, and all faulty places made good. The frame was in excellent condition before the bells were taken out, and is sound throughout, including the foundation.

The bells themselves have all been tuned and brought into line as regards their hum notes. The tenor was recast, and now weighs more than the old bell; the old bell weighed 45 cwt. 1 qr., the new bell 46 cwt. 5 lb.

The bells have been fitted throughout with new clappers; the 5th, 6th, 7th and tenor have got balanced clappers, and can all easily be clappered up the right side. Every clapper is also rubber buffered.

The crown staples of the treble, 2nd, 4th, 5th and 6th have been drilled out and fitted with independent staples; the other bells had already independent staples fitted to them. All the bells have been fitted with new ball bearings, mounted on stout steel foundation plates firmly secured to the top timbers, and through bolted where possible. New garter hole fillets have been fitted to the wheels to give the rope a larger radius.

The work was carried out by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank.

The recast tenor is a remarkably fine bell in B flat, which has little enough metal for a bell of this note, but the result from a musical point of view is all that can be desired, and the peal throughout are unquestionably now very fine. The 'go' of the bells is remarkable, and quite a few ringers, who had never tackled bells of this weight, on the opening day managed to turn this bell in with ease to Major and Minor.

The bells were dedicated by the Bishop of Sherborne, and a very appropriate address was given on the history of the bells from the pulpit of the Abbey by the Vicar of Sherborne.

The 200 ringers present were hospitably entertained to a meat tea in the Digby Hall after the service. O. S.

Mr. C. W. Roberts said he thought, as churchworkers, it would lower their status considerably to go in for anything in the nature of prize-giving and its attendant abuses.

The hon. secretary seconded Mr. Talbot's suggestion, because he thought it would stimulate better ringing.

Mr. T. Price supported the suggestion. He could not see why ringers should not have a competition to encourage an improvement in ringing.

Mr. C. F. Johnston said a competition would be quite an innovation, and there were so many points involved that he thought it would be wise to refer it to a committee to thrash the matter out very carefully before making a recommendation.

Mr. Young hoped the committee would also take into consideration the fact that a competition might lead to the creation of a certain amount of bitterness.

Mr. Reece (Carshalton) thought the committee should also consider the question of a competition for Sunday service ringing, based on the number of attendances and the number of bells rung.

Mr. C. W. Roberts said the Durham and Newcastle Association had an excellent scheme of this kind, in which the six-bell band, ringing Doubles or Minor, had an equal chance with the twelve-bell band ringing Cambridge Maximus.

The suggestion to refer the matter to the committee for report was adopted, and the meeting then terminated.

A 'REAL' STORY ABOUT RINGERS.

Dorothy L. Sayers' book, 'The Nine Tailors,' is remarkable in the manner in which the practical and technical side of change ringing is woven into an entertaining detective story. The book itself must be read in order to appreciate the care that has been given to this side, as the serial version, now appearing in a daily paper, has been much curtailed in this respect.

Subsequent to criticism published in the daily Press, the following letter, sent by Miss Sayers to a ringer, will be of interest to those who are following the story day by day. It speaks eloquently of the trouble taken in presenting a true perspective of the practice and theory of ringing in the form of a popular novel, which, being widely read, must do much to promote a better understanding of our art. Miss Sayers says :—

' . . . Thank you very much for your letter. It is good of you to be so indulgent to the floundering efforts of a complete ignoramus to deal with the intricacies of change ringing. It was a very rash thing for me to attempt, but I was fascinated by the idea of the book and invented two excuses for myself—(1) that, so far as I knew, nobody had ever tried (except, perhaps, one) to make sympathetic use of this art in a novel and that it would be a novelty to the general reader; and (2) that whatever I did I couldn't possibly write worse nonsense than has been written by others.

' I am sending you a copy of the complete "Nine Tailors" for the amusement (perhaps the derision!) of your local bellringers. You will see that the technical terms are exploited throughout in the chapter-headings, etc., and that there are a lot more bellringing details and no doubt thousands more errors than in the serial version. I will beg you not to be too hard on me, for I acknowledge my faults and my sin is ever before me! I must explain that I started work in almost complete ignorance, except that I did know the difference between ringing and chiming, which is more than most people do. But I bought a copy of old Troyte's little manual, and I toiled over it till I could write out on paper a complete touch of Graudsire Triples or Kent Treble Bob Major from the course-ends and observation calls—I did, indeed!

' I find that the effect of the book on the "man in the street" has been, as a rule, to make him feel that there must, after all, be "something more in" change ringing than the deliberate production of a prolonged and offensive noise—and if I've succeeded in getting that idea over it is perhaps a little bit to the good, especially as one is always seeing ill-tempered grumbles from people who complain that bells are a nuisance. . . . A certain number of "licences" are, as you realise, due to the fact that I was writing a detective story. Lord Peter had to be relieved of his bell for a bit, so that he could walk out and observe the untimely light in a cottage window, and so forth. . . .

NORTH AND EAST DISTRICT.

The meeting at St. Mary's Church, Finchley, on Saturday, March 3rd, attracted quite a number of ringers, including several experts who desired to get some six-bell practice. Ringing commenced at 3 o'clock, and until five hardly a minute was wasted. The Rector (the Rev. S. F. L. Bernays) conducted the service and preached a very fine sermon (not about bells). A very nice tea was arranged, about 40 sitting down, with the Rector presiding.

Before the business meeting the Rector had to leave. Prior to doing so he found an opportunity of welcoming to association to Finchley and expressing his pleasure at seeing such a large company of ringers. He added that when at Stanmore he had been able to augment the six bells to eight; he hoped some day that they would have two more bells at Finchley.

The hon. secretary (Mr. C. T. Coles) asked members to pass a hearty vote of thanks to the Rector. He said that clergymen who put in new bells at one church had their names written very small on the scroll of fame, but clergymen who added new bells at two churches had their names written very large on the scroll.

There was general laughter at this, in which the Rector joined, and the vote of thanks was carried with acclamation.

Subsequently, at the business meeting, four members were elected, including E. A. Barnett, of Crayford, and A. S. Richards, of West Wickham, whose provisional elections prior to ringing the 'boys' peal at St. Olave's Church, Hart Street, City, in December last, was confirmed. The hon. secretary took occasion to congratulate this young band on a fine performance.

It was announced that the annual general meeting would be held at Ealing on April 21st, and that the Bishop of Willesden had promised to attend.

Northaw was chosen for the next district meeting, on May 5th or 12th, it being coincident with the jubilee of the bells.

The business meeting concluded with a vote of thanks to all who had helped in making the meeting a pleasant one. Whilst some of the party rang several touches on the handbells, others visited the tower, where ringing in a great variety of methods continued until nearly 9 o'clock.

WEM BELLS RESTORED.

The 15th century tower at Wem, Salop.

The bells in the 15th century tower at Wem, Shropshire, have just been restored by Messrs. Gillett and Johnston. The old oak frame has been strengthened with steel girders, which now anchor it to the tower walls. The bells have been rehung on ball bearings, one-eighth turned and provided with new fittings.

The reopening service was conducted by the Rector (the Rev. P. R. Turner) and the sermon preached by the Rev. F. Brighton. Among those who rang on this occasion were Messrs. G. Cowley (captain), F. A. Barnett (treasurer), J. Ravenscroft, W. J. Simpson, J. Grocott, R. Jones, E. Ralphs, V. Challinor and H. Stephens (Wem), H. Vickers (Moreton Corbet), W. Lycett, T. Price, F. Price, T. Williamson and G. Berry (Hodnett).

The six original bells were cast by Thomas Rudhall, of Gloucester, in 1768. They were restored and augmented to eight by the addition of two trebles to commemorate the diamond jubilee of Queen Victoria in 1897. The first peal on them was rung on May 7th, 1898.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

READING BRANCH.

The annual meeting of the Reading Branch of the Oxford Diocesan Guild was held at Reading on February 24th. During the afternoon the bells of St. Giles', St. Mary's and St. Laurence's were kept going, touches in the usual standard methods being rung.

A well-attended service was held at St. Laurence's, conducted by the Rev. C. E. Wigg, of High Wycombe, the Deputy Master of the Guild, who gave an appropriate address. The lesson was read by the Rev. St. G. Edwards, of Checkendon, while the organ was played by Mr. S. Lodge, one of the ringers of St. Laurence's tower. Tea and business meeting followed at St. Mary's Church House, at which 65 members attended, including visitors from Abingdon, Bucklebury, Newbury, Oxford, Slough, Swindon and Yateley.

The chair was taken by Dr. Leonard Joyce (chairman of the branch), supported by the Rev. C. E. Wigg, Mr. A. J. Wright (hon. treasurer), Mr. R. T. Hibbert (hon. general secretary), and the hon. secretary and treasurer of the branch (Mr. E. G. Foster).

Before the business of the meeting commenced the Chairman referred to the great loss the Guild and the branch had sustained since the last annual meeting by the death of the Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn. He also referred to the death of two ringing members, Mr. G. White, of Henley, and Mr. Barnes, of Tilehurst, and the members present stood in silence in respect of their memories.

The balance sheet was read and adopted, and the secretary reported another successful year. The number of towers and members was practically the same, while the balance in hand, although less than last year, was considered satisfactory, the secretary explaining the reason for the reduction. The secretary also reported on the very successful quarterly meetings which had been held at Shiplake, Nettlebed and Tilehurst.

All the officers were unanimously re-elected, viz.: Dr. L. Joyce, chairman; Mr. E. G. Foster, hon. secretary and treasurer; Mr. A. W. Wiggins and Mr. A. Cullum, auditors; Messrs. Humfrey, Runham and Swain, representatives to the Oxford Guild General Committee.

It was decided to hold quarterly meetings at Checkendon, Mortimer and Henley.

Satisfactory reports were received from most of the towers in the branch, regular attendance and good Sunday ringing having been maintained.

The meeting was then addressed by the chairman, who drew the attention of all present to a new book just published, 'The Nine Tailors,' which he thought was certainly written by someone with a knowledge of bellringing and worth reading.

The meeting was also addressed by the Rev. Wigg, Mr. A. J. Wright and Mr. R. T. Hibbert. Regret was expressed at the absence of Canon Coleridge, and the secretary was instructed to send a letter of sympathy with a hope for a speedy recovery.

The secretary was also instructed to write to the B.B.C. expressing appreciation of their action in substituting bellringing records in place of the usual 'tick-tock' signals.

Votes of thanks were passed to all those who had helped in various ways in making the meeting the success it was.

NORTH BUCKS BRANCH.

A very pleasant quarterly meeting of North Bucks Branch was held at Great Brickhill on Saturday, March 3rd, when quite a good number attended, even more than was expected, as this place lies rather wide of the beaten track. A good ringing practice helped to make the meeting a success. A short service had been arranged by the Rev. D. R. James, Rector of Great Brickhill, and the address given by the Rev. J. F. Amies, Vicar of Weston Underwood. The latter is a ringer, and, keeping away from the subject of bells, substituted 'Loyalty'—loyalty to the Church, to the Guild and to the tower.

Tea had been provided at the Village Hotel, where about 40 sat down to tea.

The chairman of the branch (the Rev. H. Adeane Byard, Vicar of Newport Pagnall) presided at the business meeting, at which several discussions took place on matters that were of interest to the branch. The usual votes of thanks concluded a very enjoyable meeting. Ringing ranged from Grandsire and Stedman Doubles to Cambridge Minor.

PEALS OF MINOR.

THE BANKES JAMES ARRANGEMENT.

By J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

Two and a half centuries ago Fabian Stedman, in one of his books, wrote a very profound truth. 'Though,' he said, 'change ringing is a real thing, the notions by which it is reduced to practice are not so.' What he meant was that the real things in change ringing take place in the mind of the ringer, or, in other words, the thing is abstract.

It is, I say, a profound truth; so profound that to most people it is quite unintelligible; for few persons are capable by nature or training of appreciating anything abstract. And small blame to them. For you can go through life and know all you need to know about business and art and science without consciously troubling yourself about anything abstract.

But now and then, at long intervals, you do come across questions which, if you really want to know the truth about, you must be prepared to try and understand abstract things. Such questions will meet you when you are dealing with the fundamentals of change ringing, for unless you understand the real nature of our science and art you are little likely to be able to solve correctly the problems that arise out of it.

We are divided as to whether the individual 720's in the Bankes James Cambridge Minor are true extents or not. There are some people, for whose abilities I have the greatest respect, who argue like this: 'If I start with 123456 and from it write out rows according to the Bankes James composition, when I reach the 720th row I shall have written out the total number of possible rows without any repetition whatever. Does not that prove that the 720 is a true extent? What other proof can you have than that you should have all the possible rows and none twice?'

The argument seems unanswerable, and so it is, so long as you look at the matter in the way these people do. Nothing that can be advanced will shake it. It is only when we view their position with the wide vision of Fabian Stedman that we can see that it is radically unsound. For they are not dealing with the 'real' thing which is change ringing, but with one of 'the notions by which it is reduced to practice,' which is not real. They are assuming that writing out rows of figures on paper is the same thing as change ringing. But it is not. Figures on paper have neither part nor lot in change ringing. They are only symbols which, in a very imperfect way, serve to express some parts of change ringing.

The actual use of rows of figures by the Exercise is very much less than one might at first suppose. The great majority of ringers never use them at all, and of those that do practically all use them, not as rows, but as a means by which they can construct a skeleton course, either actual or mental. It is not the rows that you take with you into the tower when you go to ring, but the skeleton course. Even the proof of peals is done by formulae, by course-ends and Q sets, and scarcely ever by actual rows.

And behind all is the 'real' thing which is change ringing. Change ringing is movement of the bells according to a pre-arranged plan and with the proviso that during the movement the bells shall not fall twice into the same order. That is the idea which actually and historically created our art, which developed it, and which still controls it. From the nature of the case this movement is governed by a rigid mathematical science analogous to geometry. It is movement which necessarily is cyclical; that is, it is always working from a point, round towards that point again and nothing is finished until the bells return to where they started from. It consists of a definite number of steps and these steps are the things that matter. We call them hunting and place making and dodging and snapping and leading and lying and the rest. It is the steps that you must count, not the number of times the bells strike. You could ring a six-score of Grandsire Doubles in whole pulls (as used to be customary)—you have only rung a six-score (and a true one), though the bells may have struck 250 times or more.

Now, with these ideas in our mind, let us look at the first 720 in the Bankes James Cambridge. The bells start from 123456, and the first step brings them to 214365. That is No. 1, for until you reach it you have only done one thing, and till then you have not begun to ring Cambridge. The 719th step brings us to 143265. We have now been in every possible position and only want to take one step more to bring us home and finish our job. But that step we cannot take. We are in sight of home, but between us and it is a deep ditch which we may not jump. If we turn to the right hand or the left we shall tread on ground over which we have already been. And since the last, essential, step cannot be taken we cannot say that we have completed the extent. We cannot say that we have completed anything. We are brought sharply to a full stop with no way to turn unless we have repetition.

The problem is not a new one. It arose and was answered definitely years ago, so far as Grandsire Triples and Bob Major are concerned. The principle on which these 720's are composed is as old as the 18th century. By using bobs only you can write out 5,040 rows of Grandsire Triples, just as these 720 rows of Cambridge are written out. And by using bobs only you can write out 6,720 rows of Bob Major with 7-8 together. You will find the compositions in the standard ringing books. But the Exercise has definitely and finally decided that a true and complete peal of Grandsire Triples with common bobs only is not possible; and that a true and complete 6,720 of Bob Major with 7-8 together with bobs only is not possible.

What is new is the question whether in a peal of Minor we are necessarily tied down to using full extents only. Is it possible to use other units and yet be thoroughly loyal to those principles of truth and completeness which lie at the base of all our peal ringing? I think it is possible and I think the Bankes James Cambridge shows that it is so. But let us be honest in the matter. It is futile to pretend that it consists of seven extents. It does not. It is made up of other units, which together equal seven extents. Here you have a development of Minor ringing which may be of great use. Why not try and investigate its possibilities? In any case the Cambridge cannot stand alone. Its claims are the same, no greater and no less, than the Morris Doubles and the Turner Treble Bob.

J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

MR. JOYCE'S CHALLENGE.

Dear Sir,—I can assure my friend Mr. Joyce that it was no wish of mine that caused the principle underlying to be deeply shadowed. It was so much in the 'deep shadow' in his first letter that it was missed altogether by another correspondent, who thus made the mistake of 'putting Mr. Joyce right,' for which he has suffered a quite unmerited rebuke.

However, to get down to the 'principle underlying,' I am not disposed to contradict Mr. Joyce as to what constitutes a lead of a method; as a matter of fact, I have never stated anything different. But surely he must admit that something more is necessary. Mr. Joyce is an expert on Minor methods, but even he would not know Surfleet Surprise from Hexham Surprise, or Primrose from Cambridge, without the back stroke row at the lead-end. There are many other instances where a method cannot be distinguished from its mate without that row. If Mr. Joyce would like a different name put in instead of Norfolk for the method in the twelve-method peal, perhaps he will say so—I do not mind. Whatever the names, there were twelve entirely different methods rung; I wonder if the many multi-method peals of Surprise Minor can show such distinctive differences in the methods said to have been rung. Personally, I very much doubt it.

However, there is a much more important point in Mr. Joyce's argument. I cannot admit that anything said above has any bearing on the 'Minor controversy.' In my opinion, a method consists of so many 'rows,' starting with rounds, but ringing consists of the changes produced by these rows, always one row more than the number of changes. In ringing, we ring two rows to make one change, three rows to make two changes, and so on, thus making it necessary to exclude the first row of the 721 (as a change), and to include the final row (the 720th change). Our first change is, therefore, at hand stroke (when rounds is departed from), and our last change is rounds at the end. As the 720th change of the Bankes James peal is not rounds, the 720 (as such) is not complete, and it contains a repetition. By this I do not imply that the whole peal of 5,040 changes is false, except in so far as all peals of Minor are false. In my opinion, it is as true as any peal of Minor that has ever been rung, but not because of Mr. Joyce's UNDERLYING PRINCIPLE, or because my friends and I did not elect to call some particular lead in our twelve-method peal by the name of 'Timbuctoo' instead of 'Norfolk.'

Before closing, I should like to thank Mr. Joyce for his handsome acknowledgment of the merit attached to ringing the peal he has brought under notice.

C. T. COLES.

Highams Park, E.4.

'EXTENTS.'

Dear Sir,—I did not imply, as Mr. Drake contends, that there was any law which necessitated ringing beginning with an even number of rounds. I expressly stated, to the contrary, that a peal would be just as correct if changes commenced at a back stroke.

What I implied was that peals do begin with an even number of rounds, for I, personally, have never heard of one which began with an odd number.

What I wish to emphasise is that two rows of rounds are not necessary at the start and finish of a peal in order to make it complete.

The meaning of the word 'complete' as applied to a composition simply means that it finished at the same point as it began, and it needs only one row of rounds at each end to do so.

Mr. Drake, in his definition No. 1, states that 'an extent is the full number of changes which can be rung on a fixed number of bells.'

No one can possibly quarrel with that, but Mr. Drake now states that if people ring peals of Minor with only one row of rounds between the extents, 'they will have to recognise that they are ringing incomplete extents.' Mr. Drake does not, however, explain how seven 'incomplete' 720's have all these years managed to aggregate 5,040 changes. One would suppose that they would total something less than that number.

I fully appreciate that this is not necessarily Mr. Drake's personal opinion, but a definition which lays down such an erroneous rule cannot possibly be tolerated.

I am afraid that I cannot accept Mr. Drake's invitation to re-frame the definition, as I submit that the completeness of an extent is a mathematical fact which needs no man-made rule to support it.

H. G. CASHMORE.

DUDLEY AND DISTRICT GUILD.*ANNUAL MEETING AT DUDLEY.

The annual meeting of the Dudley and District Guild was held at Dudley on Saturday, March 3rd, in ideal spring weather, the attendance being between 80 and 90. The ten bells were at the disposal of the members, and were kept going in various methods until the service in the Parish Church, which was conducted by the Vicar (Rev. Dr. A. P. Shepherd), who is also president, and gave an interesting address. After the service an adjournment was made to the Parish Hall, where a bounteous tea was in readiness, provided from funds collected by the secretary (Mr. H. Sheppard) from prominent ladies and gentlemen from St. Thomas' congregation and other friends. The following ladies presided at the tables: Mrs. Watson, Mrs. Barry (wives of the churchwardens), Miss A. S. Payne, Miss C. J. Payne and Miss Bessie Sheppard. The ringers' wives and other friends kindly undertook to prepare and serve the tea, to which, it is needless to say, that full justice was done. The business meeting was presided over by the Vicar, supported by Messrs. T. W. Watson (Vicar's warden), W. Barry (people's warden), H. Sheppard (secretary), S. J. Hughes (treasurer), and J. Goodman, jun. (Ringing Master). The Chairman welcomed all those present, and said that the large attendance showed a real interest in bellringing all round the district. Mr. T. Watson (churchwarden) also welcomed the company to Dudley on behalf of himself and his co-warden, Mr. Barry. The elections of officers for the ensuing year then took place. Mr. B. Gough (Coseley) proposed the election of the Vicar of Dudley as president, and Mr. S. J. Hughes, in seconding, thanked the Vicar for his kindness and support during the last year.—The motion having been carried by acclamation, the President thanked the members for the honour they had again conferred on him, and said he would do all he possibly could for the benefit of the Guild.

The following vice-presidents were elected en bloc: Rev. E. L. Warren (Vicar of Netherton), Dr. P. S. Blaker, Messrs. W. Shuttleworth, Harry Mason, J. W. Nayler, O. E. Lloyd, A. E. Meredith, Arthur Spittle, A. Winbow, H. W. Watson, with the addition of Mr. W. Barrey. It was also decided to ask the Rev. A. L. Chapman, the new Vicar of Tipton, to become a vice-president. Mr. B. Gough then proposed Mr. John Goodman, jun., as Ringing Master, but the latter rather hesitated to accept the office again, saying that he felt he had not the time to attend to the duties satisfactorily.—Mr. Hughes, who seconded, said he hoped that Mr. Goodman would continue, as he thought that the Ringing Master should come from the Dudley belfry.—Mr. Goodman eventually decided to serve again, and said that this would be his 16th year in that office.

Mr. H. Sheppard was again chosen as secretary. Mr. S. J. Hughes was re-elected hon. treasurer, and the hon. auditors, Messrs. T. Justice (Bilston) and T. A. Townsend (Netherton) were also re-elected and thanked for their services.

Several new members were added to the roll, and it was decided to hold the next quarterly meeting at Wimbourne or Penn if the usual permission can be obtained. The annual peal arrangements were left with the Ringing Master.

Mr. Hughes said that he thought a small presentation should be given to Mr. Goodman for the work he did for the Guild during the time he has been Ringing Master. The secretary spoke in support of the suggestion, adding that Mr. Goodman had not received anything that he was entitled to towards the expenses of carrying out his duties, and he thought he should receive some remuneration.—It was eventually agreed that an honorarium of two guineas be granted.

The balance sheet, showing a good balance, was duly passed.

The Guild still holds its own, the membership, both honorary and performing members, keeping up to the average.

Mr. Gough proposed that the best thanks of the meeting be accorded to the Vicar of Dudley for his kindness and interest in giving permission to hold the meeting at Dudley, also for conducting the service, for his address, for the use of the tower and bells and for presiding at this meeting; to the wardens for their presence and support; to the ladies for presiding at the tables, and to those who prepared and served the tea; also to the organist for the musical part of the service. Special thanks were given also to the donors to the tea fund.

The Vicar responded on behalf of all concerned.

Several members again returned to the belfry and kept the bells merrily going until 9 o'clock.

THE LATE MR. J. N. FROSSELL.

The funeral of the late Mr. James N. Frossell, of Kingston-on-Thames, took place on Friday morning at the Kingston Cemetery, Norbiton. Mr. and Mrs. Crofts (cousins) were the only family mourners. Others present were Mr. J. Howes, Mr. H. Duffield and Mr. J. H. Howes (members of the Kingston band) and Mr. J. S. Goldsmith (Woking). The only wreath placed on the coffin was one from his ringing friends.

Mr. Frossell, whose wife predeceased him some years ago, would have been 78 years of age had he lived to the end of this month.

On Friday evening the bells of All Saints' Church, Kingston, were rung half-muffled to the memory of the late Mr. Frossell by the remaining members of the local band, assisted by Mr. F. G. Goddard, of Isleworth. They were also rung half-muffled on Sunday morning for service ringing.

A TANGLED SITUATION.

There can be few ringing organisations in the country which, being county in character and desiring to become diocesan in status, would be confronted with the difficulties which would beset the Surrey Association if ever that organisation should depart from its present title. The county itself includes parts of three dioceses, two of which are almost wholly within its boundaries. The association has never effectively covered the whole county, and although its title is comprehensive, the prior establishment of the old Winchester Guild kept it from operating over a large slice of territory in the south and west. Since the Guildford Diocesan Guild took over this part of the county on the division of the diocese there has been the most amicable relations between the two organisations in that part of the area where there is overlapping. In that portion of the county which comes within the boundaries of Greater London the difficulties of a partition of areas would probably be more marked. The most active part of the Surrey Association is in the Diocese of Southwark and the island portion of the Diocese of Canterbury, which is Croydon. In South London, however, the London County Association, which was formerly the St. James' Society established for the purpose of enabling College Youths and Cumberlands to ring peals together and meet round a friendly table, adopted the somewhat anomalous sub-title of 'North Southwark Diocesan Guild,' the boundaries of which must be as vague as in actual practice are those of the Surrey Association. Again a portion of the Diocese of Southwark is in a corner of Kent, where the County Association has long been well established. It is proposed that representatives of the four organisations concerned shall informally discuss the situation. It is certainly a tangled one and a solution will not be easy.

When the modern ringing organisations were first established, the promoters did not all realise the importance of identifying themselves with the dioceses. Their aims were one with those who adopted a diocesan status, but those who adopted a territorial title missed just that link with the Church which, could it have been generally secured, would have strengthened the position of ringers throughout the country. The art of change ringing is so entirely dependent upon the co-operation of church authorities—the bells and the belfries belong to them—that the closer the association between ringers and the Church the more secure will be the future of the art of ringing. Indeed, in a world where there are people ready to suppress anything and everything which they do not themselves appreciate, it may even be that the influence of the Church will be necessary to save the art from practical extinction. As a merely personal pursuit bell ringing in populous areas would sometimes be difficult to justify; it is in its service to the Church that it is possible to claim its real usefulness and maintenance, and while ringers themselves may know that between diocesan and county associations there is no difference of aims, less well informed people, and among them many clergy, imagine there is a distinct difference between the two. In all respects the advantage is with the diocesan organisations. Sooner or later, we believe, territorial associations will find themselves more or less compelled to change their status, and this may probably be at no far distant date when the younger generation of ringers, many of them recruited from the Church, take control, and the older men, who hold a sentimental attachment to the old titles, fade into the background.

'KATE' CAUSES A DIVERSION.

An enjoyable and highly successful meeting of the Northern District of the London County Association and North Southwark Diocesan Guild was held on Saturday, March 12th, at St. Mary Magdalene's, Holloway, where the eight bells were kept going during the afternoon in several methods from call changes upwards.

Tea was served in the church vestry, an innovation greatly appreciated by the less energetic members, as on previous visits to Holloway the tea interval entailed a rather lengthy walk to the nearest place of refreshment.

An unlooked-for diversion occurred during tea, when a 'big gun' from a certain London suburb suddenly distributed the contents of his teacup between the carpet and his world-famous nether garments.

When an explanation was demanded, the person concerned said that somebody had whispered in his ear that that person of mystery, 'Kate,' was present, and the shock had rather upset him. His equilibrium was speedily restored when informed that, even if the lady was in the room, she would not have bothered with him while certain other young men were present.

The business meeting took place immediately after tea, and among other matters the rules of the association's handbell contest for the 'Dawe' cup were discussed, and it was eventually left for the district secretary to bring the matter before the general body.

St. Mathew's, Bethnal Green, was chosen for the next meeting, with St. Dunstan's, Stepney, as an alternative.

Votes of thanks to those responsible for the arrangements concluded the business, and further ringing took place. The methods rung were Grandsire, Stedman Triples, Plain Bob, Double Norwich, Kent, Cambridge, Superlative, London and Bristol Major.

DEATH OF A WELL-KNOWN AUSTRALIAN RINGER.

HEAVY LOSSES IN MELBOURNE.

Ringers in England and elsewhere who have visited Australia, and particularly Victoria, will regret to hear of the death of Mr. S. J. Hallissy, for 40 years a ringer at St. Patrick's (R.C.) Cathedral, and during most of those years hon. secretary of that society, on December 20th last. Mr. Hallissy was one of the pioneer band who first rang Stedman in Australasia during the early 90's of the last century. The erratic 'go' of the eight bells of that Cathedral have always precluded any attempt at peal ringing, but Thursians' four-part was successfully rung in two sections during the year 1893 or 1894. Mr. Hallissy rang his first and only peal at St. Paul's Cathedral, ringing the treble by special request of his life-long friend, the late Mr. A. E. Bames, the composer and conductor of the first peal on the back eight of that peal of twelve. He was a remarkable striker, whether on a light or heavy bell, and his perfect ringing of the treble on that occasion, with the exact 'open hand stroke' leads, was often referred to by Arthur Bames in after years as one of the chief factors of success of that splendid peal.

Mr. Hallissy was a regular Sunday ringer at St. Patrick's Cathedral and was an occasional visitor at St. Paul's. Of modest and retiring disposition, he was an ideal companion, and when the occasion demanded was the life and soul of a 'convivial' meeting or social gathering of ringers.

The anniversary of Mr. Bames' peal was celebrated for a number of years, and at these gatherings Mr. Hallissy used to cause much mirth when replying to the toast of the ringers by stating in his droll and quaint way: 'I am glad to have rung in that peal for several reasons—one of which is that I won—I got my bell in front by a short head just at the finish and kept it there—as the winning post was passed.'

He was a man with no enemies—and it was often remarked—'to know Hallissy was to love him.' As a youth he joined the Metropolitan Gas Company, and by ability and disposition rose rapidly in the service of that great Corporation. For many years he was inspector of works, and had many responsibilities to shoulder—a faithful servant of the company and as popular with his men as with brother ringers.

The interment took place at Melbourne General Cemetery on December 23rd, the remains being followed by many of his fellow-workers and brother ringers. Mr. Hallissy is the ninth ringer removed by death since the war, and the loss to change ringing in Melbourne is a staggering one.

A YOUTHFUL RECORD.

A BOY'S ONE HUNDRED PEALS.

A LONDON UNIVERSITY SOCIETY?

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I am very interested in the suggestion made in a recent issue of 'The Ringing World,' concerning the formation of a London University Society. Should the proposition actually materialise, I, for one, would offer my humble services.

PROPOSED MEMORIAL TO THE LATE MR. C. W. PLAYER.*BELL RESTORATION SCHEME AT STONE-IN-OXNEY.

The bells of the late Mr. C. W. Player's own church at Stone-in-Oxney having become unsafe to ring, a fund has been opened to put them in order as a memorial to him, and erect a tablet in the church giving the particulars and date of this restoration. Estimates have been obtained for doing what is considered to be a minimum, in order to make a good job. There had been a suggestion that two trebles might be added as a memorial, but as this is a very small and also a very poor parish, and the cost would be in the region of £300, it was considered an impossible task to raise the necessary amount. It has, therefore, been decided to restore the bells.

The work would include quarter turning all the bells, rehanging the 5th and 6th in ball bearings, making the required alterations to the old clappers to bring them all proportionate to their respective bells, now headstock to the fourth, all new rollers, and new wheel rims. For this a sum of £80 is required, and if a greater amount should be collected it would be used to carry out any other repairs necessary and possible.

If any ringers would like to help with this memorial work, would they please send their donations, however big and however small, to the treasurer of the fund, the Rev. R. C. J. White, The Vicarage, Stone-in-Oxney, Tenterden, Kent.

CARLOS COLEMAN,

Hon. (Tower) Secretary.

SUSSEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION.*EASTERN DIVISION OFFICERS RE-ELECTED.

The annual meeting of the Eastern Division of the Sussex County Association was held at St. Saviour's, Eastbourne, on March 10th, when between 20 and 30 members attended from Hastings (All Saints'), St. Leonards, Brighton (St. Peter's, St. Nicholas' and Good Shepherd), Battle, Heathfield, Lindfield, Ringmer, Lewes, Mayfield, Eastbourne (St. Saviour's and St. Mary's), and Mr. Piper, of Eastbourne.

The bells of St. Saviour's were kept going from 2.30 until 4.30, when service was conducted by the Vicar (Rev. Claude Williams), who also presided at the tea and business meeting which followed.

The whole of the executive officers were re-elected.

A cordial vote of thanks was accorded to the Vicar for his interesting address and for presiding.

The members then went to All Saints' tower from six till seven o'clock and on to St. Mary's until 8.45.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

This is the 1,200th issue of 'The Ringing World.'

Mr. F. Sharpe, secretary of the Bicester Deanery Branch of the Oxford Diocesan Guild, and captain of the towers of Caversfield and Launton, has just been appointed churchwarden of Launton, where, together with two other ringers, he has for many years been a member of the Parochial Church Council. All the ringers at Launton are closely connected with the church. Seven out of ten are choristers, two are altar servers, and, in addition, one of these is also parish clerk and vergers.

Mr. R. Gardner is to be congratulated on ringing at Malvern Link his first peal of Triples at his first attempt. He is 76 years of age, and has been a ringer for 60 years. He has rung a few peals of Doubles, the first being at Churcham, Gloucestershire, in the year 1879.

Mr. J. Corbett, hon. treasurer of the Guildford Diocesan Guild, was last week installed as Worshipful Master of the Bagsshot Lodge of Freemasons. Appropriately, a feature of the musical evening that followed the installation banquet was handbell solos, contributed by Mrs. A. A. Hughes.

Mrs. J. Davies (widow of the late Rev. C. D. P. Davies) has recently undergone an operation. We are happy to say she is reported to be progressing satisfactorily, and is looking forward to being well enough to attend the dedication of the memorial at Tewkesbury Abbey on the Saturday before Whitsun.

The first peal of Reverse Bob Major was rung at Harrietsham on March 23rd, 1751, conducted by the famous James Barham.

To-day is also the anniversary of another first peal. At Fulham, on March 23rd, 1783, the College Youths rang 5,020 Old Double Casters, 'being the first peal ever rung in that method.'

A hundred and fifty years ago next Monday (March 26th, 1784), the College Youths rang a peal of 5,048 'Real Double Twelve In' at St. Saviour's, Southwark.

On the following day the Royal Cumberland Youths achieved their great performance of 12,000 Treble Royal at Shoreditch, which was the culmination of the competing lengths between the two old London societies, and stood as a record in the method for exactly 130 years.

NEXT WEEK'S ISSUE.

CORRESPONDENTS, PLEASE NOTE!

As Good Friday falls in next week, 'The Ringing World' will be published a day earlier than usual. All communications for inclusion in that issue should reach us by Monday morning, and it is particularly requested that all peal reports should be sent in by that time.

COUNTY OR DIOCESAN?

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—It was a great pleasure to read in your issue of the 16th instant of the meeting of the Surrey Association, more particularly with regard to its boundary and possible change of title. It is to the last aspect that I wish briefly to refer, and quite agree as a ringer and churchman that we should now give full and calm consideration to this matter of diocesan status. In the case of counties or districts where no alteration of boundaries will or may be affected, I as a churchman consider the time is now opportune for adopting a diocesan title. As churchworkers we must progress; there is no standing still. You either go forward or you go back; which is it to be? Wherefore may I cordially appeal to all ringers as churchworkers first and ringers afterwards to give this matter their very fullest and mature consideration, and not let any side issue obscure their view.

Some may say it is of more importance from an historical point to retain the county titles where they exist. With this outlook I cannot agree. Does not history tell us that the Church founded the State, and is it not, therefore, a fact that the Church is by its very nature more historical than the State, which is, in effect, the counties as a whole? I earnestly appeal to all ringers to give a calm and considered judgment to the subject, more particularly those members of the Essex Association who are shortly to vote on this matter by referendum.

TOWER OF LIVERPOOL CATHEDRAL MUNIFICENT GIFT FOR COMPLETION.

Bells Already Provided For.

Another munificent gift towards the completion of Liverpool Cathedral has just been made.

Lord Vestey and his brother, Sir Edmund Vestey, have promised £220,000 for the erection of the great Central Tower.

The tower, which will be 327 feet above ground level, cannot be built until the walls of the Central Space, on which it will stand, have been finished. To complete the sum asked for to build the Central Space and the Western Transepts, and to permit the consecration of this portion of the building in 1938, the Cathedral Committee will need an additional £97,000 within the next four years. So far the building at this point has reached a height of 148 feet out of a total of about 175 feet to which it was intended to carry it at this stage.

The tower will form the crowning feature of Sir Giles Scott's design, and in Emeritus Professor Reilly's opinion will be a 'thrilling addition to Liverpool's skyline.'

It is thought the tower may be completed by 1940.

The bells are already provided for. A large sum of money was left by the late Mr. Thomas Bartlett, of Liverpool, for this purpose. The bequest is so large that, in addition to providing for a peal of twelve bells, there will be ample funds for a carillon and a large 'Bourdon' bell, although, of course, nothing with regard to the bell scheme is yet definitely settled.

Lord Vestey and his brother are Liverpool men, and have been associated throughout their business lives. They are directors of the Union Cold Storage Company, Limited, and heads of the Blue Star Line. The gift is made in memory of their parents.

SUFFOLK GUILD.

DISAPPOINTMENT OVER ANNUAL MEETING.

A meeting was held at Woodbridge on Saturday, March 17th. It was of especial interest to most of the visitors, as it was the first meeting held at Woodbridge since the bells were opened. About 80 ringers were present, and much favourable comment was heard on the 'go' and tone of the retuned peal. The clapper control, which has been fitted to the tenor bell, was the subject of much discussion and admiration.

The Rector, the Rev. R. B. Dand, had a surprise for the visitors. It was a short service at four o'clock, which was very much appreciated. It was far from being dull. Master F. Trotman, one of the local hand, was at the organ.

Tea was partaken of in St. Mary's House, some local ladies acting as 'Nippys.'

The Rector was voted to the chair for the business meeting, which followed tea.

Ten new members were enrolled, six being from the local band.

The annual general meeting came in for much discussion, it being a great disappointment when it was learnt that the towers at Bury St. Edmunds were not available. Ipswich was ultimately decided upon.

'NOT FOUND WANTING.'

In view of past correspondence on the question of apathy shown by the clergy towards that part of God's house known as the belfry, it is very appropriate that, on referring to the peal columns of 'The Ringing World,' one observes that at the Parish Church of High Wycombe a peal was rung on Sunday, March 18th.

This, says our correspondent, is a very fitting example of the interest taken by the Vicar of High Wycombe in granting permission for the bells to ring out their message of duty to God on the Sabbath Day.

The band consisted entirely of High Wycombe residents, and eleven of the twelve are Sunday service ringers at the Parish Church.

COMPETITIONS.

BY A. S. ROBERTS.

The suggestion put forward at the annual meeting of the Surrey Association with regard to competitions startled, and even shocked me. In fact, if ever such a retrograde step is seriously considered, I am convinced that ringers in general will at once begin to lose that prestige which has taken them so many years to acquire. Competitions on church bells—just think of it! By all means compete on handbells in the parish room, or else go to Manchester Town Hall, if you are filled with a desire to receive a premier award at the expense of others—fellow-members—who are less favoured with opportunities, too numerous to mention, and who would receive the humiliation of being at the bottom of the list. All ringers offer the same service—at least, they should do so. Why should some be adjudged better than others?

Perhaps I have been a little severe in my criticism, but one can only condemn or uphold such a suggestion, and I unhesitatingly do the former, as my namesake, 'C. W.', did at the meeting. It is the more distressing that such a suggestion should come from Surrey, and it is to be hoped that this county association will soon be swallowed up by, or reconstituted into, a diocesan or various diocesan guilds, when all thoughts of competitions should receive no episcopal blessing and would thereby die a natural and unlamented death.

Anyone living, as I do, in what can be rightly termed 'the West of England,' can properly claim a fair knowledge of competition ringing—commonly known as 'prize ringing.' There is an organisation called the South-East Cornwall Ringing Association which holds competitions for money prizes, but there are very few priests who appreciate the idea, and as an illustration the following is an extract from a letter from the Rector of Duloe (the Rev. A. E. S. Ward, D.D.) to the secretary of the association when application was made for use of his bells for a competition on Easter Monday next:—

'I write to tell you that there can be no question of Duloe being considered as a centre for any bellringing money competition. If any men enter who reside in the parish, of course they can please themselves, but their entry must not be considered as Duloe Church. I think the association ought to cease giving money prizes and put their ringing festival on the same lines as a Sunday School or choir festival, where no money inducements are offered to people who attend.'

I am not suggesting that Surrey would give money prizes, but am only assuming there would be some trophy.

Again, we have another association in Cornwall—the St. Austell Deanery—which came into being seven or eight years ago when a few towers in that district desired competitive ringing. They have, however, now ruled out all competitive ringing and only award 'class' certificates, and there is a scheme of reunion on foot that they should become affiliated to my own Guild—the Truro Diocesan—and abide by its rules. Even those who wanted competitions have, within a short period, grown tired of the idea.

Can anyone imagine a choir festival with individual choirs proceeding to the chancel, singing an anthem or a little plainsong and marching out again for points? It would mean nothing but ridicule, and I cannot place the reintroduction of competitive ringing other than on the same level.

Our art has been claimed as a definite part of the ritual or ceremony of worship and our service ringing as a part of the service itself. We can compare our offering to music. Our cathedrals and large parish churches set an example of the best that can be offered in church music, and even the humblest village choir, if it has an enthusiastic leader, is ever trying to improve and do something better. Likewise, there are many churches which show the way in method ringing for service, and it is to these that many others look for inspiration; and again, under the enthusiastic leader in their branch of work, they are ever trying to improve and advance in new methods.

Amongst musicians there are those who cannot be content with accompanying psalms, hymns and anthems, but who long to practise and perform Bach, Beethoven or Handel. It cannot be done at service, so special times have to be selected, and with the permission of a Dean or incumbent they are permitted to do so. Such performances have no connection with any service whatsoever. Compare peal ringing to this: a 5,000 has become the traditional length of a performance, and the more enthusiastic, interested and progressive ringers follow the art by performing the works of Holt, Annable, Middleton and a host of others, just as the musician performs the works of his composers. As long as deans and incumbents permit us we can go on making history and ringing what our composers give us. A peal on paper is not worth much, even if it does contain numerous 4-5-6's in 5-6: it is when it has been rung that the composer's intention is fulfilled. Sunday services and the ringing which precedes them, are the natural, and need no permanent records, but great musical performances and peals are the exceptional, in comparison, and therefore need more preparation and at-

MEMORIAL TO REV. C. W. O. JENKYN. OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD SCHEME.

The committee appointed at the annual meeting of the Oxford Diocesan Guild to carry out the memorial then decided upon are now able to report that the Dean and Chapter of Christ Church have kindly given their consent to the placing of a memorial tablet, similar to that of the first Master (Rev. F. E. Robinson), in the Cathedral Cloisters.

Work on this has already begun, and it only remains to ask members of the Guild to make their contributions as soon as possible, not only to ensure that the memorial may be dedicated free from debt, but also to enable the Guild to hand over a substantial sum to the governors of Queen Anne's School towards the new aisle of the chapel built by them in memory of their chaplain—a project which the Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn had deeply at heart, and which he longed to see accomplished.

Mr. A. J. Wright will act as treasurer, and will acknowledge all contributions through the columns of 'The Ringing World.'

It is expected that most of the subscriptions from towers will be paid to him through the branch secretaries, but any of the committee are ready to receive individual subscriptions if sent to them direct.

G. F. COLERIDGE,

Master.

Committee: Canon Coleridge, Crowthorne Vicarage, Berks; R. T. Hibbert, 69, York Road, Reading; A. J. Wright, 31, Priest Hill, Caversham, Reading; L. Joyce, 10, Bath Road, Reading, Berks; Rev. C. E. Wigg, Wayside, Hampden Road, High Wycombe, Bucks.

It is hoped that the committee will decide at Easter what form the memorial will take.

SOUTH AND WEST DISTRICT AT HILLINGDON.

The first monthly meeting of the year of the South and West District was held at St. Andrew's, Hillingdon West, on Saturday, March 10th. It was a good start, for 33 sat down to tea, and the quality of the ringing was encouraging. Methods rung included Bristol and Cambridge Major and some Spliced Surprise Major in three methods. The novices were well looked after with rounds and the simpler methods, and Mr. T. Collins, Ringing Master, was assiduous in his efforts to suit all tastes. Evensong was held at five o'clock, conducted by the Vicar, Rev. R. Horne. In his address he dealt with the subject of church attendance of ringers in a manner which some other clergy could well copy. The Vicar is keenly interested in the work of his own ringers, and is thus able to appreciate their difficulties and aspirations from experience. He remarked how good it was that they could meet for ringing and a cup of tea together and knit the whole into something worth while with this short service. He asked them to remember always the high purpose of their ringing.

Tea, generously provided by the Vicar, took place in the Church Hall. Mrs. Reason and Mrs. Kemp, wives of the two churchwardens, presided at the tea pots, whilst Charlie made an excellent 'Nippy'. Prior to the business meeting the vice-president (Mr. J. A. Trollope) thanked the Vicar for the service and his very helpful address, for the use of the bells and for the splendid tea he had provided.—Mr. Horne replied that the visit of the association gave him great pleasure.

The Vicar was elected an hon. member, as was 'Mrs. Tom,' the popular wife of the Ringing Master. Mr. W. S. Beaumont, of Ruislip, was elected a ringing member.

The hon. secretary (Mr. F. W. Goodfellow) gave notice of the annual general meeting of the association which was to be held on Saturday, April 21st, at Ealing. The Bishop of Willesden had consented to preach, and it was hoped that South and West District members would give their hearty support.

It was agreed to accept the invitation of the Vicar of Isleworth to hold a meeting at his tower on Saturday, May 12th. Mr. Corke and the local ringers were thanked for their efforts in the tower. Good use was made of Mr. G. M. Kilby's very fine handbells, and the tower was revisited.

tention, otherwise lack of appeal or disaster is the result. The one is entirely dependent upon the other.

To reach perfection we must make a plan and carry it out; practices, service ringing, meetings and peals—there is continuity throughout. We have to omit competitions, as such things would spoil the look of the whole thing because they do not edify. Interest and ambition are the foundation of all progress—not competition—at least, in the art of ringing. Our subject may be suitable for greyhounds, rabbits or cage birds, but not for ringers!

SOUTHERN DIVISION RINGING MASTER RETIRES.

The annual meeting of the Southern Division of the Yorkshire Association was held at the Cathedral, Sheffield, on Saturday, March 10th, when, despite the wintry conditions, a representative gathering was secured, upwards of 40 members being present. Owing to special services ringing was rather curtailed, but the time available was made full use of, and a variety of methods was rung, viz.: Stedman Triples, Caters and Cinques, Bob Major, London and Bristol Surprise, Cambridge Royal, Grandsire Cinques and Forward Maximus being included.

The business meeting was held in the ringing chamber, the vice-president, Mr. G. Lewis, being in the chair, supported by Mr. G. Halksworth (Ringing Master) and members of the committee.

Messrs. E. H. Preston, of Rawmarsh and A. Stamp, of Eastwood, were elected members of the association.

The annual joint meeting with other South Yorkshire associations was fixed for June 16th, and an invitation was accepted from Rawmarsh to hold it at that place, the secretary being requested to notify the respective societies and ask for their support.

The meeting learned with great regret that the retiring Ringing Master, Mr. G. Halksworth, did not seek re-election. In his letter of resignation he stated that, having served the division as Ringing Master since the formation of districts in 1911 (a period of 20 years), he felt he was entitled to a little rest from the cares of that office. He was getting on in years, and while he was giving up his post it did not mean that he was leaving them, for he would endeavour to attend all the meetings he possibly could. He thanked most sincerely his fellow-officers and the members for their loyalty and support during his term of office, and hoped they would give the same to his successor.

In accepting the resignation, the chairman and secretary both voiced their very sincere regret, and spoke of the good feeling which had at all times existed between them, and of the sterling example Mr. Halksworth had set. By his attendance at meetings, his courtesy and ability, he had done great work in making the Yorkshire Association what it was to-day.—The members fully endorsed this, and the secretary was instructed to insert in the minutes their very deep appreciation of his services, not only to the Southern Division and the association, but to the ringing community as a whole.

For the vacant post, Mr. S. F. Palmer, of Sheffield Cathedral, was unanimously elected, and the members considered themselves very fortunate in persuading Mr. Palmer to accept the position, for which office he possesses every qualification.—In returning thanks for the honour accorded to him by his election, Mr. Palmer hoped that with the support of the members he would be able to uphold the high standard which had been set by his predecessor in office.

Messrs. Ryder and Panther were re-elected to the committee for three years, and to fill the vacancy caused by Mr. Palmer's promotion, Mr. Halksworth was unanimously elected. He was also elected to the general committee, as it was felt that his years of experience in the work of the association were much too valuable to lose.—Mr. Halksworth thanked the members for the honour and confidence, and promised the same hearty co-operation in the association's work as he had always tried to give in the past.

It was announced that the reopening of the new peal of 10 at Rammoor would take place on March 31st, and a cordial invitation was extended to all members to be present at that function. Further particulars will be found elsewhere in 'The Ringing World.'

A hearty vote of thanks was accorded to the Provost, the churchwardens and the local company at the Cathedral for the necessary permission to hold the meeting and for the arrangements made. This was replied to, and brought a most enjoyable and successful meeting to a close.

'THE 4th OF MARCH' AT APPLETON.

It was decided some few years ago to hold the anniversary dinner at Appleton on the first Saturday after March 4th if the fourth did not come on the Saturday. So on Saturday, March 10th, ringers from various parts made their pilgrimage to this 'Mecca' of change ringing. The ten bells were kept going to Stedman and Grandsire Caters from morning until four o'clock, when upwards of 40 ringers gathered round the festive board and did justice to a typical old Berkshire dinner, well cooked and well served.

After the tables had been cleared, the chairman, in a few heartfelt words, referred to the 'vacant chair' caused by the passing of Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn, who had attended that festival for many years, broken only from 1914-18, and who had a great love for Appleton. The company stood in silence for a short time.

Then the time-honoured toast, 'The Appleton Society,' was proposed and duly honoured, and Mr. George Holfield responded with an interesting resume of the doings in Appleton tower since 1918, from the first 120 of Doubles and first 720 of Minor to the 21,000 of Stedman Caters and the 16,000 of Grandsire.

The evening passed pleasantly and quickly with anecdote, song and handbells, and the wish that all may meet again on the 117th 'Fourth of March' next year.

SLEAFORD BELLS RESTORED.*THANKSGIVING SERVICE AT LINCOLNSHIRE CHURCH.

The bells of the Parish Church of St. Denys, Sleaford, were heard again, after a silence of three months, on Saturday, March 10th, when a service of thanksgiving for their restoration was held. The chiming apparatus was connected at 12 noon, and the Westminster chimes signalled that all was well once again. The bells were 'opened' at 2 p.m., and the following ringers rang the first touch: R. Waddingham 1, Norman Ed. Snow 2, A. Blackburn 3, W. Townsend 4, F. Dewey 5, H. S. Hinkins 6, R. R. Dixon 7, J. Charity 8.

The bells were kept going throughout the afternoon until 4 p.m., when a service of thanksgiving was conducted by the Vicar (Rev. W. Norton Howo). There was a large congregation, and the following clergy were also present: Canon A. Hunt (Kirkby-la-Thorpe), Rev. G. A. Beckett (Helpingham), Rev. J. A. Elwell (Osbourneby), Rev. G. F. Frost (Rauceby), Rev. C. G. Hodge (Aunsby), Rev. R. Olsen (St. Giles, Lincoln), and Rev. C. F. Paget (Aswarby).

Henry Purcell's anthem, 'Rejoice in the Lord alway,' usually called 'The Bell Anthem,' was beautifully rendered by the choir, and the Vicar, in the course of his address, referred to the excellent response of the inhabitants of Sleaford, and old friends of the town, to the appeal which was made in the new year, and to the fact that the amount required for the restoration of the bells had been readily forthcoming. He said the bells are the voice of the church and truly conveyed the message inscribed on the third bell in the tower, 'Peace and good neighbourhood.'

After the service the Vicar, churchwardens, the secretary of the Church Council and about 75 ringers sat down to a most enjoyable tea kindly given by Mr. F. H. Williams, an old friend of St. Denys, and a willing band of helpers.

Mr. N. Ed. Snow afterwards presided at a meeting of the Lincoln and Sleaford Districts of the Northern Branch of the Lincolnshire Diocesan Guild, and welcomed all those who had attended that day. He stated it was the largest and most representative gathering of ringers in Sleaford for 40 or 50 years, and showed that the action taken for the restoration of the bells by those responsible was the right one, and was very much appreciated. He referred to the practical assistance given to the art of change ringing in the past by Mr. T. H. Holdich, now residing at Beckenham, Kent, and to his interest in the work which had been so successfully completed that afternoon. He passed on a message from Mr. Holdich that his thoughts were with the ringers at Sleaford that day.—On hearing of the illness of Mr. Holdich, it was unanimously resolved by the meeting that a letter of sympathy be sent to him, expressing the hope that he will soon be restored to good health.

The Vicar and Mr. W. Spyvee, churchwarden, thanked all those present for their interest in the bells of St. Denys, and hearty votes of thanks were extended to the Vicar for the use of the bells, to the choir for their part in the service, and to Mrs. Williams and her helpers for the excellent fare provided for the ringers.

Reference was made to the easiness of ringing the bells and to the thorough manner in which they had been restored, and a representative of Messrs. John Taylor and Co., of Loughborough, who were responsible for the work of restoration, expressed thanks, on behalf of the firm, for the pleasing remarks as to the manner in which the work had been carried out.

At the conclusion of the meeting the ringers returned to the tower and the bells were kept going during the evening. During the day touches in the following methods were rung, and good striking was evident throughout: Grandsire, Bob Major, Stedman, Kent Treble Bob, Double Norwich, London Surprise and Cambridge. In addition to the local band, ringers were present from Benington, Blankney, Boston, Folkington, Gainsborough, Grantham, Great Hale, Reckington, Hough-on-the-Hill, Lincoln, London, Metheringham, Pinchbeck, Rauceby, Ruskington, Spalding, Surfleet and Swineshead.

The bells were lowered at 9 p.m., and thus ended a memorable chapter in the history of the bells of St. Denys, Sleaford.

DURHAM AND NEWCASTLE DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

The West Tyne Division of the Durham and Newcastle Diocesan Association held a meeting at Hexham on Saturday, March 10th, when the following towers were represented: Newcastle Cathedral, Fenham, Whickham, Chester-le-Street, Benfieldside, Newton Hall and Blaydon.

The wretched weather no doubt prevented many more from visiting this very fine tower with its beautiful peal of eight bells. As there were several new ringers present, advantage was taken of the occasion to give them their first touch, so the afternoon and evening were not wasted.

Fortunately, Mr. Anderson, the energetic president of the association, came along and took the chair at the meeting.—Mr. Storey moved the vote of thanks to the Rector and wardens for the use of the bells.

It was decided to hold the next district meeting at Newton Hall on Saturday, June 9th.

LEICESTER AND DISTRICTS ANNUAL DINNER.*NO STEREOTYPED SPEECHES.

The annual dinner of the Leicester and Districts ringers, held on March 10th, was a huge success. The bells of St. Margaret's (12), St. Martin's Cathedral (10) and St. John's (10) were available throughout the afternoon, and the many visitors made good use of their opportunity by ringing all methods from rounds to Surprise, thereby enabling everyone to get a pull.

Dinner was served at the George Hotel, and a very fine spread was put on at a most reasonable price. Ringing friends were present from all the local towers—Aylestone, Anstey, Billesdon, Burbage, Lutterworth, Loughborough, Syston, Oakham, Welford, Wigston (Old and South), Thrusington, and elsewhere, to the number of 80.

The Chairman (Mr. A. J. Harris) at the outset stated that these Leicester dinners were essentially for social intercourse and entertainment, and no stereotyped speeches would be made, the only toasts being 'The King' and one to 'The Visitors.'

The latter was proposed by Mr. H. G. Jenny, who in a few well-chosen words welcomed the old visitors who had come to the gathering on each occasion in the past, and trusted they would continue to come for many years. He also welcomed many new and younger members, extended to them hearty greetings, and invited them to come again and enjoy the social intercourse afforded by these gatherings.

The Rev. R. P. Farrow (Stoney Stanton) and the Rev. Groome-Merriells (Theddington) both replied.

A capital programme of musical items was contributed by Mr. Grimes, who got 'sweet music' out of many and varied weird instruments. Songs were rendered by Mr. Colin Harrison, Mr. J. Morris and Mr. H. J. Poole, interspersed by courses of Stedman Caters and Cinques, the latter being rung by: F. E. Wilson 1-2, G. S. Morris 3-4, P. Harrison 5-6, E. Morris 7-8, H. J. Poole 9-10, J. Morris 11-12. It was regrettable that owing to illness the hon. secretary, Mr. E. H. Bagworth, was unfortunately unable to be present.

The concluding items by the Leicester City Police (Detective) Quartette were the original compositions of Det.-Sergt. H. J. Poole, including 'Good Old Leicester City,' 'The Policeman's Night Shift,' and others, and were most amusing. Thus ended another very enjoyable gathering, after which the 'Sergeant-Major' remarked, 'These annual gatherings ought to be held monthly!'

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD.*PROGRESS IN NORTH DORSET BRANCH.

A most successful quarterly meeting of the North Dorset Branch was held on Saturday, March 10th, at Zeals, Wilts. Rev. W. G. C. Addison (Rector) conducted the Guild service, and Rev. F. L. Edwards (hon. secretary of the Guild) was at the organ. The lesson was taken from Longfellow's Golden Legend, 'The bells themselves.' The Rector gave a very practical address from the words, 'Whatever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might.' He said that this was a very popular text, and the words were the greatest expression of success, of satisfaction, of honour, and everything else worth having in life. In the ringing of bells, especially in the higher branch of the art, these words applied.

An excellent tea was served in the Church Hall, Mrs. Addison and a willing band of lady helpers kindly undertaking the catering.

The business meeting was afterwards held in the Parish Room, when fifty-five members were present from the following towers: Weston (Bath), Stourton, Okeford Fitzpaine, Kingston Magna, Mere, Sherborne, Siltan, Bourton, Tisbury, North Cadbury, Gillingham, Cucklington, Stoke Trister, Bradford Abbas, Warminster, Wincanton, Buckland Newton, Bishopstoke, North Stoneham, Longbridge Deverill, Evercreech and the home tower.

Rev. F. L. Edwards presided, supported by Rev. W. G. C. Addison, Rev. E. C. King (Rector of Stourton), and Mr. H. J. Ralph (hon. secretary of the branch).

The following were elected ringing members: Mr. John Hallett (Bradford Abbas), and Mr. F. Deverill (Siltan). Mr. Leslie Ridout (Okeford Fitzpaine) and Rev. E. V. Verdon Roe (Kettering) were elected life members.

The Chairman announced that the Guild Festival would be held on May 12th, at Bradford-on-Avon, at which Canon Clark would be pleased to welcome all ringers and friends.

The thanksgiving service at Milton Abbey would be held on June 9th, when the Bishop will preach.

Mr. Ralph proposed a vote of thanks to all the workers and helpers, and this was carried with acclamation.—The Rector replied.

The bells of Zeals, Mere, Stourton, Bourton and Siltan were available during the afternoon and evening. The methods rung showed an all-round keenness for progress, and included London, Wells and Cambridge Minor. A unique feature was a touch of Kent Treble Bob by Messrs. Frank, Cecil, Bert, Leonard, Tom and Ben Ridout (father, three sons and two nephews), from Okeford Fitzpaine.

A touch of 'Hat Surprise' by an unknown friend and the secretary did not come round, the unknown friend taking the lead, and his departure, before the secretary was aware of the first change.

PEALS OF MINOR.

THE BANKES JAMES ARRANGEMENT.

By THE EDITOR.

When next the Central Council is called upon to discuss the question of a peal of Minor I hope the members will well weigh the following statement made by Mr. Trollope in his article last week when, having been requested to say specifically in what respect he disagreed with the arguments I set out in my contention that each of the seven 720's in the Bankes James Arrangement are true, he wrote:—

'There are some people for whose abilities I have the greatest respect, who argue like this: "If I start with 123456 and from it write out rows according to the Bankes James composition, when I reach the 720th row I shall have written out the total number of possible rows without any repetition whatever. Does not that prove that the 720 is a true extent? What other proof can you have than that you should have all the possible rows and none twice?"

'The argument seems unanswerable, and so it is, so long as you look at the matter in the way these people do. Nothing that can be advanced will shake it.'

But having said that 'so long as you look at the matter in the way these people do' the argument is unanswerable, Mr. Trollope seeks to divert the reader from this unshakable contention by starting off on another scent and discussing change ringing as an abstract thing. Change ringing in the abstract may be all that he says it is, but it is not with that that we are concerned in proving the truth of the Bankes James Arrangement. The truth in this case is a concrete thing, and no amount of abstract argument can alter it.

It is hardly necessary, therefore, to follow Mr. Trollope through his abstract arguments, in view of his first admission, but it may be well to refer to one or two of his points.

Hampered by the awkward fact that truth can only be assured by recourse to figures, Mr. Trollope says 'figures on paper have neither part nor lot in change ringing.' In the actual processes which the ringer applies to change ringing in the tower it is true figures play little part, but you do not prove peals by ringing them in the tower, and it is proof that we are concerned with. Given a method which he had not seen before and the position of the calls of what purports to be a peal, there is no man living, who could go into the tower and ring it and say with certainty that the peal was true or false, unless the composition contained some glaring fault. All the 'hunting and place making and dodging and snapping and leading and lying and the rest' in the tower, to which Mr. Trollope refers, never proved a peal yet, and it is quite beside the point to pretend that they have any bearing on the truth of a composition.

Then Mr. Trollope tells us that the proof of peals is '... scarcely ever done by actual rows.' Nobody, of course, would write out the 5,000 odd rows of a peal in order to prove their truth, but he is asking ringers to stretch their credulity to breaking point if he wishes them to believe that peals are not proved by committing representative rows to paper.

Mr. Trollope lays great emphasis on the fact that what he calls the 720th step in the first 720 (which is the 721st row) in the Bankes James Arrangement 'does not bring us home and finish our job.' There is no need to finish our job at that point—we don't want to finish it there—but it does not alter the fact that we have had all the possible rows without repetition. The composition is one of seven 720's, and it is not until we get to the end of the seventh 720 that we want 'to finish our job.'

As an analogy Mr. Trollope refers to 'unfinished' peals of Grandsire Triples, containing 5,040 rows, produced by bobs only. Supposing a band set out to ring such a composition and repeated it until at the end of the third 5,040 (if it is the third) the bells came back into rounds. Would that band have rung one peal, or three peals of Grandsire Triples, and would not each 5,040 be true, even if it lacked that 'completeness' on which Mr. Trollope insists?

By the recognised principles of method construction and by the only possible means of proof, which is by figures on paper—the Bankes James Arrangement consists of seven separate and true 720's. Mr. Trollope admits in his last article that the argument which I presented in support of this contention is unanswerable.

If the 720's are true on paper they cannot be false in the tower.

In December, 1928, Mr. Trollope himself said they were true.

If they were true in 1928, they cannot be false in 1934.

AN OPEN LETTER

TO INDIVIDUAL REPRESENTATIVES OF THE CENTRAL COUNCIL.

Gentlemen,—Those of you who hold that it is unconstitutional for an individual directly to approach members of the Council are under no obligation to read that which follows. The others are those to whom it may be of interest.

When a prominent official of your body told me that it ought to be a straightforward and easy matter for anyone to obtain the 'car' of the Council, via an association representative, I was inclined to believe him; but my experience in this direction may be summed up in the following reply from a representative, which was typical of many: 'Mr. Joyce, we are—nearly all of us—heartily sick of the whole question. It has been bandied about for so long, by the few, while the majority are not up to arguing the various points. If opportunity arises I certainly will state your case, but I feel that I shall do very little good.'

My case now is placed publicly before each one of you who cares to read, viz: That the proposed definitions, to be found at the end of this letter, were signed by sixty-five ringers at a few meetings where they were put forward; and, further, that I have had offers from Minor ringers, in various parts of the country, to obtain signatures supporting any reasonable definitions that I could frame. Provided—and these provisions are fairly general—that (a) none is committed to the opinion that rounds is the first 'change,' (b) none to the opinion that extents which do not run round are 'desirable,' and (c) that such definitions shall place, so far as is possible, all peals on the same footing without alteration to prevailing practical conditions.

By far the most emphasised was the last—all peals alike; and, before appending the proposed definitions (which, I submit, comply with the above requirements), I place before you, for your consideration, a plain statement of what is perhaps the most irritating feature of this controversy. People absolutely will not boldly face up to fundamental and indisputable facts; and those facts are these:—

(i.) That there can be no possible question as to the truth of the Bankes James Cambridge, from any point of view whatsoever, without the debatable point of 'rounds first or last' arises. It is no use people putting up other considerations or arguments, for or against. Its truth depends solely upon the question as to which row is to be 'counted,' and it must stand or fall solely on this count.

Anybody who can prove a peal will vouch for the truth of this statement to any who doubts it; or he may write the peal out—and see!

(ii.) That when you go into a tower and ring, no matter to which faction—'first or last'—you belong, that question no longer arises.

Any man would be an utter fool to attempt to disprove that both—first and last—of these rows, changes, permutations, or whatever else you may care to call them, are produced, rung, sounded, or 'something,' in ringing any peal from Singles to Maximus.

(iii.) That no man has a right unnecessarily to separate Minor from Major so far as concerns those laws which can be made equally to apply to both.

Who are we—you and I—that we may say: 'While a Major ringer may do "this," a Minor ringer must do "that"?' When both, Major and Minor, in the tower do, perforce, exactly a same thing.

(iv.) That this Cambridge and its like are judged (by some) to be 'false' only because an existing (and obsolete) definition positively excludes the first rounds. These are the only grounds upon which it can so be judged. And, further, that no 'tenors together' peal of Major can be proved to be true—and this statement I am prepared to substantiate—while that definition remains unaltered.

In substantiating, I ask anybody to publish two rows only (nothing else) with the treble in the same position in each, both + (plus), both - (minus), or one of each (I care not!). And, because the false courses will lie at equal distances from rounds and any handstroke you may care to select, I shall supply, from the given two rows, all of the false course 'ends' which pertain to any four rows of which the given two can be made to be part. Provided that the method is 'regular' and symmetrical in the halves; and, if the rows are of opposite natures, that they shall be of different distances from rounds and the handstroke in the first lead—in short, a fair and proper test.

(v.) That the extent of a Minor method can be produced only by means of the 'reversal' of certain leads; and that it is impossible to 'reverse' those leads while that wretched definition remains in its present form.

If you cannot agree, prick out two extents of Bob Minor; call the tenor W.R.W. in one, and I.L.4th's in the other. Observe a particular lead which in one 720 runs from a backstroke to its handstroke; while, in the other, those same rows faithfully are reproduced in a reverse manner, running (now) from that former 'handstroke' (now the backstroke) down to that former 'backstroke' (now the handstroke).

Moreover, do you think that anybody would have the audacity to assert that, to reverse the first lead of Bob Minor, you must make second's place at the go off?

(vi.) That the 'law of Q sets' argument belongs to the days of Thompson (and of good Queen Anne!), because, to-day, extents can be produced which are 'true and complete,' start from rounds and end with rounds, are satisfactory in every possible way, but in which the Q sets are no more 'complete' than in those of the Cambridge.

I am writing in nineteen (not eighteen) thirty-four, and present-day problems demand present-day vision. Amongst other 'mathematical' (grandmother-in-) laws, this 'Q set law' is Mr. Trollope's 'rock of ages.' Is he, or any of those who think with him, going to refute what I have said, and call my bluff?

The definitions, approved by sixty-five ringers whose signatures were handed to the Master of the Essex Association after collection, were these:—

'... The following are not intended fully to cover the ground. It is understood that a "row" shall mean the order in which bells may sound. That a "change" defines, for the present purpose, the actual means by which "rows" are produced. That a "touch" would mean something less than a peal—otherwise to conform thereto.

'A true and complete peal shall—

'(1) Commence with rounds and return to rounds.

'(2) Consist of differing rows, produced by means of those changes which lie within limits prescribed by the Central Council, and numbering:—

'(a) In Major and upwards, at least 4,999 differing rows, and two rows of rounds.

'(b) In Triples, 5,039 differing rows, and two rows of rounds.

'(c) In Minor, 720 rows all to differ; repeated six times, without interval and in varying forms of successions; and one row of rounds.

'(d) In Doubles, 120 rows all to differ; repeated forty-one times, without interval and in at least ten varying forms of successions; and one row of rounds.

'(3) Be described as "... of (so many) changes ...," the number of which shall be one less than the full number of rows as defined above.

'(4) Embody all existing definitions, which are not in direct opposition to the foregoing.

'We, the undersigned, hereby express approval of any amendment which may be attempted, so long as it lies within the spirit of that which is expressed herein. ...'

I am, gentlemen, yours most respectfully,

GEO. L. JOYCE.

Hornchurch and Leytonstone.

A REPLY TO MR. JOYCE.

Dear Sir,—Mr. Joyce's concern over your loss of 14 lines of valuable space is rather amusing, as his latest effusion consists, for the most part, of statements and arguments which any intelligent schoolboy would hesitate to put on paper.

His analysis of the twelve-method peal would create the impression that his study of the subject has been done from the point of view of rope manipulation, rather than as a branch of mathematics, and his answer to Mr. Pulling would appear to strengthen this impression.

Every lead in the peal is complete in itself and conforms in structure with any lead taken from the plain courses of the twelve methods named, and no argument that Mr. Joyce can put forward will alter the fact.

If he is really of the opinion that the back stroke of the treble's whole-pull is the last row of a lead on any number of bells, let him produce an intelligible argument to support his contention, but such argument will have to be something different from criticisms of other people's statements and performances.

H. G. CASHMORE.

FEWER PEALS.

The most noticeable feature of the Peals Analyses for the year 1933, which we publish to-day, is the falling off in the number of peals compared with the previous year and indeed with several preceding years. The total of 1,833 is the lowest since 1927. Except in Maximus, which showed a slight increase, there was a decline last year in the peals on every number of bells, the only other slightly compensating feature being eight more hand-bell peals than in 1932. It is only possible to speculate as to the causes of the falling off. There may be several reasons; the most likely, perhaps, being fewer peal attempts. In some districts there has been an enforced curtailment of peal ringing through the reluctance of some of the clergy to grant permission for peal ringing. While it is a fact that in a few instances ringers may have themselves to blame for this by overdoing it when there have been no restrictions, it is certainly a great discouragement to ringing when peals are absolutely debarred. As the public are concerned when the bells are rung, because all within earshot are compelled to be listeners, there is some justification for a reasonable restriction, particularly in populous areas, but we believe a great deal too much attention is paid by some clergy to the complaints of a few individuals—usually persistent grumblers—who may dislike bells and lose no opportunity of making the parson's life uncomfortable when the bells are rung for any length of time. As a result the clergyman takes what seems to him the easiest way out and stops peal ringing altogether. We do not think that any ringers would desire to be a nuisance to the neighbours, but they have a legitimate claim to exercise their art in return for the voluntary service which they give to the Church and in order to keep up the standard of that service.

There may be, and probably are, other causes for the drop in the peals last year; one being that in the past an interest in this phase of ringers' activities has not been sufficiently maintained by bringing new blood into peal ringing, as shown in the previous year by the big drop in 'first pealers,' coupled with which it may be that some who previously were among regular peal ringers slackened in their keenness. Were it not such a gigantic task to get out the statistics, it would be interesting to know each year exactly how many ringers there were who took part in peals. This would be the real indication as to whether peals were growing or waning in popularity. The fact that more or less peals are rung in any one year does not in itself indicate that more or fewer ringers are taking part or are interested in this particular side of ringing, but some proof that peal ringing was shared by a larger number of ringers would be a very encouraging sign.

Out of the comparisons which are possible from the Analysis tables there is one thing which should be a matter of gratification, and it is that the percentage of peals in one method of Doubles, while still far too high, has dropped from about 65 per cent. in 1932 to 63 per cent. in 1933, and the number of peals of Minor in less than seven methods has fallen from about 73 to 62 per cent. Both in this and other respects the standard of peal ringing is, we believe, on the up-grade, and, if there were not so many different Surprise methods rung last year as the previous year, there were sufficient to indicate that there is still a spirit of enterprise being manifested among the advanced ringers. But, as we have so often urged before, there is plenty of scope for peal ringers of all grades to extend their repertoire. The analysis will be studied with interest by most ringers, and they will find it doubly interesting if they will put that for the previous year alongside of it. The work which is involved in producing the information in the table is prodigious, and the committee, whose labours are constant and exacting throughout the year, deserve the thanks as well as earning the gratitude, of the Exercise.

BRISTOL SURPRISE ROYAL.

BY GEORGE BAKER.

A peal of Bristol Surprise Royal being now an accomplished fact—it was rung at Beddington on February 19th—it will no doubt interest many of the present-day ringers to learn that the late Mr. Arthur Craven was the first to publish the method in 'The Ringing World' on March 3rd, 1922.

The method was challenged the same year by Mr. York Bramble and by the Rev. E. B. James, the author of Bristol Surprise Major, because the lead-head was different from the Major, but it is safe to say that neither of these gentlemen at that time realised that a method when extended to the higher numbers does not necessarily have the same lead-head.

Mr. Arthur Craven was one of the first to realise this, and his method 'Ipswich Surprise,' with the fifth the pivot throughout, is a good illustration of this fact.

I, myself, during 1922 canvassed all the well-known composers of that time as to whether a certain plain single method of Royal and Maximus were one and the same method, pointing out, if they agreed, that there was no doubt about the Major because 9-0 were the only bells left out of the placemaking, and I wound up by asking, 'Is there a Minor to this method?'

Of the 23 composers written to 15 agreed with me that there was a Minor method, and that the Minor, Major, Royal and Maximus were all one method.

Two agreed as to Major, Royal and Maximus being the same method, but were doubtful about the Minor.

One called them Oxford extensions.

One said they were all different methods!

One preferred not to give an opinion.

Three did not reply to my letters.

The plain single method which was the object of the canvass had the following lead-heads:—

Major	17856342
Maximus	108t6e492735

The plain single method can be doubled, and the lead-heads then are:—

Maximus	1795e3t20486

To this double method, if the Treble Bob hunt is applied and the same essential moves used as in the plain method, together with the subsidiary moves necessary because of the Treble Bob hunt, we obtain a Surprise method that will extend to Infinity with a different lead-head for every pair of bells added, and, seeing that the Major of this method is 'Bristol Surprise,' there can be no possible doubt that the method is one and the same from Minor to Infinity.

Following is a lead of the method together with the peal composition rung at Beddington:—

PEALS OF TREBLE BOB ROYAL.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—The interesting peal of Treble Bob Royal, by Mr. Nolan Golden, published in your issue of March 16th, may be the first exact 5,000 rung with these qualities. I composed the two following peals containing the same qualities in 1918. The 5,080 was rung at Sheffield Cathedral on December 26th, 1927, conducted by the author:—

A DERBYSHIRE PEAL REHUNG.*PARISHIONERS' READY RESPONSE AT SUTTON-ON-THE-HILL.

The six bells at St. Michael's Church, Sutton-on-the-Hill, Derbyshire, have recently been rehung on ball bearings by Messrs. Taylor and Co., of Loughborough, who cast the bells over forty years ago.

A thanksgiving service was held on Wednesday evening, March 21st, when the preacher was the Rev. W. S. Penley, R.D., Rector of Boyestown.

After the service the local ringers, assisted by visiting ringers from Tutbury and Mr. R. H. Dove, representative of the bell founders, tried the bells, which are now a very smooth-running peal.

The bell frame has been secured and the Eliacombe chiming apparatus overhauled, and the parishioners of this small village deserve congratulations on having subscribed by 'straight giving' the whole amount required within two months.

PEALS OF MINOR AND DOUBLES.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—One sentence in your article on page 188 this week stresses a point I have on more than one occasion endeavoured to make, especially so at the last Council meeting. I refer to the sentence, 'If they were true in 1928, they cannot be false in 1934.' Exactly so, and if they are false in 1934 they cannot have been true in 1928, or at any other time. Therefore, whatever we say or do in this matter of falseness must have a retrospective effect. The president stated at the last Council meeting that members were legislating for the future. I respectfully submit that in this matter of falseness of certain compositions there can be no such course—if they are now false they were never otherwise. I am very glad to know you support me in this contention.

What do we do when we find a peal composition to be false? We at once withdraw it from records when it has already been rung, and we also do our best to ensure that it is not rung again. This is done without hesitation with false compositions of Triples, Major, etc., and why a different course should be adopted with Doubles and Minor I am at a loss to understand.

Now it is obvious that truth, in the sense that each of the 5,040 rows in a peal of Minor must be different, is an impossibility. (The same applies to Doubles.) The truth of this class of peal has, at any rate up to recent years, been decided by the truth of each of the several units of 720 that go to make up the whole. Thus a '5,040' of Minor, where each '720' has been 'true and complete' in itself, has been recognised as a true peal.

For the purposes of the case I now put forward I do not propose to go into any of the reasons why this practice has in some instances been departed from. The fact remains that peals of Minor have been rung, and are still being rung, which do not contain seven true and complete extents, but contain the 720 rows each the same number of times, in the whole peal. In other words, truth in the sense of there being no repetition of rows in the whole peal being an impossibility, it is claimed that any way of producing the exact equivalent in rows to the rows contained in seven true and complete extents is admissible as a peal. (This also applies to Doubles.) There are, unfortunately for the prospects of a settlement of this controversy, many different schools of thought on the question. I will divide them into groups, as follows:—

1. Those who insist that peals of Minor should contain at least seven true and complete 720's, any departure from this being considered as falseness.
2. Those who say that the initial row of rounds is admissible as a change, and that therefore the Bankes James Cambridge and similar compositions contain seven true blocks of 720 rows each, any departure from this (or No. 1) being considered as falseness.
3. Those who say that any combination of 5,040 rows would constitute a true peal, provided that each of the 720 rows appeared seven times.
4. Those who object to any departure from the 'seven true and complete' principle (No. 1), but who admit that compositions as in Nos. 2 and 3 are not necessarily false. (This group might be subdivided, some ringers only objecting to No. 3.)
5. Those who object to 5,040 rows of Minor or Doubles being claimed as a peal under any circumstances, on the ground that repetition must occur.

To show the difficulties in the way of a settlement I will instance my own troubles in putting forward the claims of Group 3. I not only find Groups 1 and 2 against me, but Group 4 as well. Generally, too, a ringer in Group 5 ranges himself on the side of Group 1, and thus I find myself in a minority, although the opposition is by no means unanimous on anything except that it does not want what I am prepared to accept as a peal.

I therefore suggest that, as the first step towards a settlement, the Council should decide definitely whether, in its opinion, any departure from the 'seven true and complete' rule in peals of Minor or '42 true and complete' in peals of Doubles, necessarily violates truth.

If the Council decides that any departure must under any circumstances mean falseness, the Exercise should face up to the consequences of having some hundreds of peals already rung being condemned as false. There is no virtue in denouncing certain compositions as false, as so many members of the Council have done, when at the same time they vote for the adoption of the peals analysis containing numbers of those peals. Nor is there any virtue in members asking the Council to declare peals to be false when numbers of these peals remain in records of the societies those members represent.

Let the Council therefore clear up this matter of truth and falseness in peals of Minor and Doubles, and I, as a Council representative, am quite prepared to agree to any definition which will exclude such compositions as six and five-bell ringers show they do not want. But I strongly object to a peal being condemned as false when it contains exactly the same rows, exactly the same number of times, as a peal rung under the existing definitions. It has never been explained why rounds should be singled out as the only row in a 5,040 of Minor which must be 720 rows apart. To be logical, those who make that claim should insist on all the rows being an equal number of rows apart, and thus make it impossible to ring a true peal of Minor unless each 'extent' is called alike.

A BELLRINGING NOVEL.

TREBLE BOB AS CLUE TO MYSTERY.

'The Nine Tailors,' a novel by Miss Dorothy L. Sayers, to which we have previously referred in these columns, continues to be one of this season's 'best sellers.' It is a detective story which grips the reader from beginning to end, and is especially interesting to ringers from the fact that bellringing plays no small part in the mystery.

As those who read Miss Sayers' letter in a recent issue of 'The Ringing World' will know, she made a patient study of 'Troyte' in order to get a first hand knowledge of the art, and she has adopted the novel plan of using ringing expressions for her chapter headings. Moreover, each part of the story has a ringing title. For instance, Part I. is called 'A short touch of Kent Treble Bob Major (two courses),' and this is followed by a 704 in the method copied from 'Troyte,' thus:—

By the Course Ends
64352

8th the Observation.

Call her in the middle with a double,
before, wrong and home.

Repeat once.

Then comes 'The First Course,' 'The Bells are Rung Up,' 'The Second Course,' and 'The Bells in their Courses.' And thus the story is carried on. The second part is 'A full peal of Grandsire Triples (Holt's Ten-part Peal),' dealt with in similar fashion with such unusual chapters as 'Mr. Gotobed is called Wrong with a Double,' 'Lord Peter is called into the Hunt,' 'Lord Peter is taken from lead and makes third's place,' and so on.

The third part of the story is 'A short touch of Stedman Triples (five parts),' including 'The Quick Work,' 'The Slow Work,' 'The Dodging,' etc. 'A full peal of Kent Treble Bob Major,' in the introduction to which J. Wilde's 5,376 is given, brings the story to a close, and 'The Bells are Rung Down' on the elucidation of the mystery by Lord Peter Wimsey.

Miss Sayers had a dual aim in writing this book—to produce a good detective story, which she has done with the touch of a master, and to make more widely known to the general public some of the fascinations of change ringing. 'From time to time,' she says in her 'Foreword,' 'complaints are made about the ringing of church bells. It seems strange that a generation which tolerates the uproar of the internal combustion engine and the wailing of the jazz band should be so sensitive to the one loud noise that is made to the glory of God. England, alone in the world, has perfected the art of change ringing and the true ringing of bells by rope and wheel, and will not lightly surrender her unique heritage.'

Of the ringer she says, in describing his earnestness and enthusiasm in one part of the story, 'His passion—and it is a passion—finds its satisfaction in mathematical completeness and mechanical perfection, and as his bell weaves her way rhythmically up from lead to hinder place and down again, he is filled with the solemn intoxication that comes of intricate ritual faultlessly performed.'

The character sketches of the old country ringers will recall to readers many such specimens of their type in the course of their experiences, and except for the incident of the beer-drinking in the belfry—which has long been a thing of the past—ringers owe a debt of gratitude to Miss Sayers for introducing their art to the public in a new way.

The mystery of the story surrounds the theft of an emerald necklace and the discovery of an unidentifiable body in a newly opened grave. How one of the ringers was suspected of murder, how a cryptic message constructed in a diagram of Treble Bob led to the discovery of the jewels, and how the cause of the unknown's death was elucidated and his identification established, we leave our readers to find for themselves from the story.

'The Nine Tailors' is published at 7s. 6d. by Messrs. Victor Gollancz, Ltd.

GUILDFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.*STEP TO ENCOURAGE 'FIRST PEALERS.'

'None of our band have rung a peal, and none of them want to.' This was the reply from one tower to a letter from the hon. secretary of Guildford District of the Guildford Diocesan Guild, inquiring whether there were any members of the band who had not rung a peal but who wished to do so.

A report was made to the district meeting at Sherborne on Saturday week of the results of the district secretary's canvass of the towers to ascertain if there were any ringers in the district who, not having yet rung a peal, had ambitions in that direction. It was found that where there was sufficient interest to desire to ring a peal it was chiefly in those bands who were anxious to achieve the laudable ambition of scoring a 'local peal.' Others who expressed a desire for a peal found a ready response among the members to accommodate them, and in due time it is hoped to add a number of 'first pealers' to the Guild's records.

The meeting was a very successful one, and was attended by about 40 members of the district and neighbouring towers. The Rector (Rev. Sir Paget Bowman) conducted the Guild's service and gave an address, but having only recently recovered from an illness was unable to be present at the tea. He was cordially thanked by the Master (Major J. H. B. Hesse), who presided, for his kindness.

Sherborne has a numerous band of ringers. Two of them were elected members of the Guild, and others, who had lapsed, rejoined. The ringing ranged from rounds to Cambridge Surprise, and was chiefly, as it should be, in the interests of those who wished to practise a higher method.

A LADY'S 200 PEALS.

Mrs. Harry Baker, of Frittenden, Kent, recently rang her 200th peal, and shortly afterwards she and her husband rang their 200th peal together. She is the first Kent lady to reach this total, and is heartily to be congratulated upon her achievement. Always a safe ringer and good striker, she is a real enthusiast. Most of her journeys have been made by bicycle, and, wet or fine, she can always be relied upon. The following is the list of her first 200 peals:—

Grandsire Doubles 2, Bob Minor 1, four Minor methods 1, seven Minor methods 1, Cambridge Surprise Minor 2, Grandsire Triples 47, Stedman Triples 29, Bob Major 20, Kent Treble Bob Major 39, Oxford Treble Bob Major 6, Double Norwich Court Bob Major 31, Canterbury Pleasure Major 1, Cambridge Surprise Major 2, Spliced Canterbury Pleasure and Bob Major 1, Spliced Kent and Oxford Treble Bob Major 3, Spliced Bob Major and Grandsire Triples 1, Grandsire Caters 3, Erin Caters 1, Kent Treble Bob Royal 7, Canterbury Pleasure Royal 1, Bob Royal 1; total, 200.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

There seems to be little liking for 'odd-bell' methods in Norfolk. Last year there was not, out of the 73 peals recorded, a single peal of Doubles, Triples, Caters or Cinques rung by the Norwich Diocesan Association, and we believe it is some years since a peal of Triples, Caters or Cinques was rung in the county.

Peal-ringing history in Norfolk since the association was formed fifty-seven years ago seems to have been mainly in 'even bell' methods. Out of a total of 4,566 peals rung by the association, all but 702, or about 85 per cent., have consisted of Minor, Major, Royal or Maximus. And many of the 'odd-bell' peals were not rung in Norfolk but in Suffolk when that county was in the Norwich diocese.

The comparison between the 'even' and 'odd-bell' peals is not uninteresting. On 12 bells, Maximus 90, Cinques 47; on 10 bells, Royal 140, Caters 88; on eight bells, Major 2,608, Triples 399; on six bells, Minor 1,026, Doubles 163.

At a meeting held near Leeds, on Saturday last, various questions were asked with regard to 'Tom.' Now Tom is a mighty Smith from the Bradford area, and he has been missing from these meetings for some time without leave. He is now asked to attend the next meeting and explain his conduct.

Fifty years ago, on March 21st, 1884, Mr. C. F. Winney called Holt's Original 'double-handed.' He celebrated the jubilee last Friday by repeating the performance. For any other 'youth' of 76 this would be no mean achievement, but Mr. Winney just takes these things in his stride. There are many of us who hope we shall have memories as good and brains as alert when we have passed the three-quarter century mark.

The oldest active member of the Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild, if not the oldest active ringer in the country, Mr. Henry Coombes, of 25, Swanmore Road, Ryde, Isle of Wight, celebrated his 91st birthday on Wednesday. He will have the good wishes of every member of the Exercise.

Mr. Coombes has been a ringer at All Saints' Church, Ryde, since 1886, when the bells were dedicated, and still rings for service.

The peal list of Edwin A. Barnett, published last week, should have shown ten peals of Double Norwich, instead of one as printed.

The composition of the peal of Bob Major rung at St. Peter's, Nottingham, on March 15th, has been found to be by the late Rev. J. Holme-Pilkington and not by the conductor.

WOODBIDGE BELLS.

Dear Sir,—While these bells were being rehung, I was asked by some of the church authorities to write a letter to the 'Woodbridge Reporter' about them. I did so, and the letter was approved by everyone. The 'East Anglian Daily Times,' however, copied it, but one sentence was not printed as it appeared in the 'Woodbridge Reporter.' This sentence, in its wrong form, misled you, as well as your anonymous correspondent. I wrote a second letter to the 'East Anglian Daily Times' giving the correct explanation of what I had actually written. Your correspondent says that he knew of this, but was quite satisfied with what was wrong. He seems to think also that he is reliable. Fortunately a letter appears just under his, explaining that a ring which he had twice assured us has never been recast, was recast in 1913.

If 'Old Ringer' had been at the enthusiastic meeting at Woodbridge on March 17th, perhaps his unreasoning jealousy of Woodbridge's good fortune would have been wiped out.

So far the only eight-bell rings, all the bells cast at one time and none recast since, earlier than 1799, appear to be at Thetford, Norfolk, and the unringable peal at Merton College.

L.C.A. AND SURREY.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—As secretary of the London County Association, statements that have appeared in 'The Ringing World' with regard to the difficulties of the Surrey Association are naturally causing a certain amount of interest to me. It is a pity that a member of the Surrey Association should make such a rash statement of his opinions without first securing any sound evidence.

Of course it is a common experience in these days of soaking fresh fields even if such advances may crush one's neighbours, but such actions seem to me hardly in keeping with principles that should be maintained in church work. Here again comes the question, Are we working in brotherly harmony for the causes of the Church, or are we simply out for our own personal pleasures?

Our name in connection with the Southwark Diocese was conferred upon us by the late Bishop of Southwark, whilst the present Bishop of Southwark has also stated that it is his pleasure to be our patron.

Finally, I would add that the 'L.C.A.' is an extremely happy one, and does not seek fresh fields at the expense of others, but whilst quite willing to work in conjunction with other societies will undoubtedly strenuously defend its own interests.

MR. GEORGE HUGHES.*A ONE ARMED RINGER.

One of the most notable figures in Midland ringing circles for many years has been Mr. George Hughes, of Wednesbury, who has triumphed over the handicap of having only one arm—the left.

For nearly 30 years he has been ringing master at Wednesbury, and while advancing years—he is now 72—and failing health have lately restricted his activities, he is not only an excellent ringer, but a capable conductor and a composer of no mean ability. He has rung peals in a great variety of methods from Minor to Maximum and from Plain Bob to London Surprise, his disability being no bar to his accurate striking. He used regularly to ring the eighth at Wednesbury, a bell which, as many who have visited the tower know, is no easy job even for those with both arms.

Among his peals have been the first peal of Double Oxford Royal and the first peal of Erin Cinques ever rung. His peals are as follow:—

LEEDS AND DISTRICT SOCIETY.*NOMINATION MEETING.

On Saturday last the tower at Bramley was soon filled to capacity by the members at the monthly meeting, which was brought forward from the usual (last) Saturday in order to be clear of Holy Week. The bells were rung to various methods until teatime, when the assembled company crossed the road to the church schools, where the local company and ladies had prepared a splendid tea.

The business meeting was held in the same room, the president being chairman. Mr. W. H. Senior proposed, and Mr. T. W. Strangeway seconded, that the best thanks of the society be accorded the Vicar and churchwardens of Bramley for the use of the bells and to the local company for the arrangements.—Mr. S. Helliwell replied for the local company.

A vote of thanks to the ladies for their services at the tea tables was proposed by Mr. Lofthouse and seconded by Mr. H. Marsden.

Nominations for the officers to serve the next 12 months were received, and these will be confirmed at the general meeting which it is hoped to hold on April 28th at Leeds Parish Church.

Suggestions as to the list of towers to be visited were asked for, and it was finally decided to request the secretary to arrange and bring forward a list at the general meeting.

A notice of motion, under Rule 9, was given by the treasurer, and as this affects all members a full attendance at the next meeting is requested.

RINGING IN NEW ZEALAND.*CHRISTCHURCH SOCIETY LOSES TWO MEMBERS.

December 23rd saw the commencement of a very successful 10 days' ringing at Christchurch, New Zealand. In the evening 14 ringers met in the belfry and indulged in extensive ringing on the 10 bells until nine o'clock, when all repaired to the 'Dixieland' tea-rooms, where a much appreciated supper was made to 'look small.' The Master (Mr. G. H. Claydon) welcomed Dean Julius and outside ringers present. He referred to the loss to the society of the hon. secretary (Mr. J. R. de Lambert) and a keen member (Mr. G. A. Lightband), who had both been transferred, temporarily at least, to other parts of the country. In spite of this loss the prospects for 1934 were bright, and all looked forward to a successful year's ringing.

The Dean endorsed Mr. Claydon's remarks, and was sure the ringing would be carried on as well as ever. It would mean more work for those left, but as Christchurch was the only ringing centre in the Dominion they must uphold their status.

Messrs. Lightband and de Lambert each replied, recalling many happy and profitable hours spent in the ringing room, and thanking members for good wishes. Both expressed the intention of returning to Christchurch when the opportunity offered.

The Dean then took the chair at an informal general meeting. Mr. T. R. E. Witte was elected assistant hon. secretary, and a new member, Mr. J. Grimes, was elected and welcomed to the society. With the disposal of general business and the exchange of season's greetings, the meeting closed.

After ringing for evening service on Christmas Eve, nine ringers accompanied the ringers' cake to St. Saviour's Orphanage, and in the various dormitories rendered plain courses of Grandsire Triples on handbells.

Christmas was ushered in with ringing on eight bells at 6 a.m., and there was ringing again at 10 a.m. for the morning service.

The next 'special' ringing was on New Year's Eve to ring the old year out and usher in 1934. After an hour's various ringing at midnight the tenor was struck 12 times, and after the twelfth blow the ten bells joined in a joyful welcome to the new year. The ringing was broadcast, and those who took part thought of fellow-ringers at home similarly engaged, and wished them a happy and prosperous year.

GLOUCESTER AND BRISTOL DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.*CHELTEMHAM BRANCH'S PROPOSED OUTING.

A meeting of the Cheltenham Branch was held at Badgeworth on Saturday week, about 30 members from the various towers in the district attending. Many methods were practised before the service, which was held in the pretty little church.

Taking for his text, 'I am the Vine, ye are the branches,' the Vicar (the Rev. W. Downes) gave a very interesting and inspiring address, which struck the members as being something quite different from the usual sermon at these services. His words were very much appreciated.

The chief item of the business meeting was the discussion on the forthcoming outing, it being eventually decided to tour the Thames Valley on June 9th, tower masters being asked to notify the secretary not later than April 1st as to numbers from their respective towers.

In voicing the thanks of the company to all who had helped towards such a successful meeting, Mr. W. Deveroux especially thanked Mr. W. Oakey for providing the tea, and the choir, whose presence gave so much pleasure at these services.

The tower was again visited, and ringing indulged in until nine o'clock.

MR. R. SPERRING'S 500 PEALS.

Mr. Robert Sperring rang his 500th peal on March 17th at Bunbury, Cheshire. All of the peals have been rung on church bells, and, as will be seen in the list below, he has conducted a large proportion of them:—

'DEFAULTERS'

There are probably quite a number of ringers to whom the remarks made in the annual report of the Norwich Diocesan Association, and quoted in our last issue, apply. And they do not all reside in Norfolk. 'Those tiresome people who do not pay their subscriptions until the very last moment' are to be found, we are afraid, in every association and guild. Some, indeed, do not even pay at the very last moment and consequently let their membership lapse. It cannot always be put down to forgetfulness, because these people usually receive reminders of their indebtedness. The reason of it is, in the main, thoughtlessness and lack of consideration for others, and no end of trouble would be saved to officials if all members of ringing organisations would pay their contributions promptly. It is not that the amount demanded is onerous. Two shillings a year, which is the outside subscription, is not a burdensome fee, but unless the amount is forthcoming within a reasonable period after it becomes due, it may easily run away with much more than the equivalent of that sum in time and incidental expenses in the collection of it. But apart from the trouble and cost, there is the anxiety of those responsible to maintain the financial position of the association, and defaulters should ask themselves—if they ever ask themselves anything—where would the association be if all the members acted as they do? It should be a matter of honour among ringers that their subscriptions should be paid promptly. The people who collect their contributions are people who do the work for nothing, and it is not fair to put them to unnecessary trouble.

Besides this question of 'defaulters,' there were other points in the report of the South Norfolk Branch Secretary, which not only his own members, but many others might well take to heart. They are matters, indeed, which deserve the earnest attention of every ringer, particularly those which urge regular and punctual attendance for service ringing, better attendance at meetings and greater effort in securing new members. These things are the very essence of loyalty to a ringing association and if acted upon fully would vastly increase the usefulness and influence of our ringing organisations. In what percentage of towers, we wonder, does the service ringing always start with strict punctuality; what percentage of members attend their association meetings, and what percentage of individual ringers stir a finger to bring new blood into a tower? We believe the figures, if they could be ascertained, would be low. In any case, we are certain they could be greatly improved upon if ringers would take their task more seriously and realise their responsibilities to their towers and their associations more fully. Is it not just as correct to say that those who fail in these matters are as much 'defaulters' as those who fail to pay their subscriptions when they become due? There is probably no other service or pursuit requiring team work which suffers so badly from unpunctuality as ringing, and in no other sphere, we think, would it be tolerated to such an extent. It is within the ringer's own power to alter it, and the 'defaulter' on punctuality should be the first to mend his ways. He forgets that his being late is not only wasting the time of the other members of the band, but holding them up to equal blame in the eyes of the public when, through his default, the bells fail to play fully their expected part.

THOMAS THURSTANS.

CHEQUERED CAREER OF A GREAT COMPOSER.

Buried as an 'Unknown.'

Among those whose names will ever live in the art of ringing is Thomas Thurstans, of Birmingham, whose fame is made secure by his celebrated peal of Stedman Triples, the first ever composed on the twin bob system with two singles only. There are many worthies of a past age about whom ringers of to-day would like to learn something, but we have a picture of Thurstans from the pen of John Day; another Birmingham ringer, who was a contemporary. John Day has been dead for many years, but we are able to give his recollections of Thurstans by the kindness of Mr. Theodore Slater, of Glemsford, Suffolk, who sends us a copy of an article which was published about 40 years ago. It will, we are sure, be read with interest by all our readers and particularly by those who get so much enjoyment from ringing Thurstans' famous composition.

COMPOSER WHO LACKED PATIENCE.

Next to my uncle, Thomas, the first man I ever knew as a ringer, wrote John Day, was the celebrated Thomas Thurstans. About the year 1830 my father kept a public house, the Bell, in Smallbrook Street, Birmingham, and a frequent visitor to the house was a man whom I used to hear spoken of as 'Tommy Thurstans.'

He was looked upon by my parents as somewhat of a nuisance, being generally noisy and intoxicated. Possibly that was the reason I noticed him at so early an age.

At the commencement of my ringing career in the year 1842, one of the first names I heard mentioned in the Belfry was Thurstans, and I soon learned that it was the man I had known in childhood, and it was not long before I saw him. He was a bachelor, and lived with his sister in a small house in Church Street very near St. Philip's Church.

After Sunday morning practice, Chattel and I generally passed the house on our way home, and often Thurstans would be standing at his door in shirt sleeves, pipe in mouth, waiting to have a chat with Chattel. He would ask about the young band, give his opinion as to their progress, and generally work his way round to 'Lates and Stedman Triples,' since Lates and he were both hard at work at that time trying to improve the peal.

I only remember ringing with him once, when I was a very young hand, and he made a not very complimentary remark about my striking, but it did me no harm.

Thurstans' name will last probably as long as the 'art of ringing' is practised as the composer of the peal of Stedman Triples bearing his name. He must have begun to study composing when very young in the art, as he would be about twenty-four years of age when he called his peal of 6,600 Stedman Cinques, while there were also peals of Stedman Caters and Treble Bob Royal of his composition rung even prior to that.

No doubt there would be a little rivalry between Thurstans and Cooper, as the latter had made a name before the former came on the scene. Being so good a man at the heavy end would enable Thurstans to assert himself and claim priority as conductor.

I have heard both my uncle and the late Henry Johnson say that Thurstans' great fault as a composer was his lack of patience to prove his work, and I have had many opportunities of knowing such to be the case. His later peals of Stedman were submitted to Mr. Johnson, and his peals of Treble Bob Major to Mr. T. Day to look over as to their truth.

FALSE PEALS—AND A RECORD.

When he was working at Treble Bob Major with the tenors parted, which resulted in his peal of 15,840, he sent a great number of peals to Mr. Day, the late Amos Cresser being the messenger, as he lived in Church Street very near Thurstans. Mr. Day used to look them over and then put them into an old hat, which he kept for the purpose in a recess over the stairs door, and the hat was nearly full before Thurstans produced a true peal. On one Sunday afternoon, on my way to see my uncle, as I usually did once a fortnight, I met Cresser coming away from his house. He told me he had taken another peal to be looked over, and when I arrived I found my uncle very interested in the figures. Knowing that it was of no use to speak to him while he was so occupied, I sat down and waited quietly for him to break the silence, and he did so presently with his usual, 'Yes! Yes! This will do, if he alters these three courses. I believe it will run true,' at the same time showing the papers with the 7th in 5th's. The alteration was made, and as is now well known the peal is true.

Thurstans was very pleased with his success, and went to see Mr. Day, thinking he had superseded the others' peals, but this was not so, as Mr. Day had a peal of the same number of which he had said nothing, not even mentioning it to me. Thurstans was rather annoyed when he learned this, and could not help showing his pique, so that when he was leaving Mr. Day told him that if he sent any more peals to be looked at he hoped he would send him something of his own, 'for,' he said, 'what you have sent is nearly all my work.'

On one occasion a band met at Aston for a peal of Treble Bob Major, Mr. Day intending to ring the tenor and call one of his own peals. Thurstans was in the band, and almost at the last moment asked Mr. Day to call a peal of his (Thurstans'). Being willing to oblige, he did so, and an apparently excellent peal was rung. Among those who heard it was Lates, who had just begun to show his skill as a composer and as a listener. In due course he asked to see the figures, and pronounced it to be false. False it was, and Mr. Day was so much annoyed at the occurrence I believe he never rang another peal of Major.

When Mr. Henry Johnson began to compose Stedman, thinking he had a good peal of Caters, he asked Thurstans to look over it for him. This he did, pronouncing it true. It was rung at Aston, Thurstans being in the band, and on its publication a Mr. Cross, of Liverpool, sent for the figures and discovered them to be false. Of course, Johnson never trusted Thurstans again in this way.

About the year 1846 (the year that Thurstans composed his peal of Stedman) there was a great stir about Treble Bob Triples. Day had produced a peal, and Lates had by some means got one, while Day and Cooper had produced touches also. At that time the large bells at St. Martin's were seldom rung owing to the eleventh going so badly. Stedman and Treble Bob Triples were practised on the first eight, and some beautiful ringing used to be heard. The Treble Bob Triples was quite a feature, and Thurstans, on hearing a touch rung, tried his hand in that direction and submitted a number of touches to Johnson, not one of which was true. He made a final effort, and said if that was not true it was 'impossible' to get a true touch, and Day's and Cooper's must be false. But, like all the rest, his final effort was false.

Apart from all this, I have heard Mr. Johnson, my uncle, and others say that no man of his time understood the theory of composition more than he did, but that he jumped at conclusions that were often erroneous.

A WRECKED LIFE

In appearance Thurstans was a very broad-set man, about 5ft. 8in. in height, although not looking so tall, and in later years he had a stooping and waddling gait. It was very plain to see he had been a very strong man, as he was very wide from shoulder to hip. By trade he was a brass finisher, and up to 1825 or thereabouts was a quiet and respectable man. About that time there was a trade dispute, resulting in a strike, and through leaving his work in an unfinished state he was summoned before the magistrates, who, in the then existing state of the law, had power to send him to prison. This they did for a month's hard labour at Warwick gaol.

The first time I heard of this I was in conversation with Lates, about the time Thurstans had been having one of his 'break outs.' 'Ah!' said Lates, 'Tom has never done any good since they made him grind his own corn.'

There can be no doubt that this disgrace totally upset him and, although steady and right enough at times, on others he would break out and act more like a madman than anything else. We also used to think he had been jilted in a love affair, for when he had a fit on, if anyone said anything to him relating to women it would make him ten times worse (and this was sometimes done on purpose, I am sorry to say). In fact, I and one or two others always avoided him at these times as they generally lasted for weeks until he became dirty and ragged, and a fit of illness put an end to it.

The last time I remember seeing him he was respectably dressed in black—I think in mourning for his sister, with whom he had lived for many years. He was carrying a basket of soil, which he had been getting for his window plants. He told me he was unwell and could not work. That was in the spring of 1858, and in the autumn of that year Mr. T. Cole, a former member of St. Martin's Youths, went to Johnson and told him 'poor Tom' was dead. From what Mr. Cole said we were led to suppose that he had had a break out and was taken ill in the street, it was said with English cholera. He was taken to the 'General Hospital' and there died.

No one knew who he was, and no one enquired about him, so it came to pass that the parish authorities buried him, no friends or relatives being near. We used to think it was mainly through the influence of his brother Charles that he was employed for some years as a filer at Messrs. Ellingtons, the manager overlooking his transgressions as to loss of time, etc.

DONCASTER VICAR'S APPOINTMENTS.

The Doncaster Parish Church bellringers rang two quarter-peals of Stedman Triples for the Sunday morning and evening services in 47½ minutes to mark the election of their Vicar (Canon Brooks) as president of the Doncaster and District Association and his installation as Rural Dean of Doncaster by the Bishop of Sheffield at the evening service. The following took part in the ringing: M. G. Halksworth (conductor), E. Stacey, J. Holmes, H. Wagstaff, A. Stavelly, W. E. Lloyd, R. Thompson and H. Baldwin.

PEALS OF MINOR.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—For very shame I hesitate to bother you in the matter of Mr. Cashmore's letter of March 23rd. You have been so patient with us all—especially myself. But when there is persistent barking at the monkey which ain't up your tree, you would do something about it, wouldn't you?

In 1928 I tried to show that, not only did I view a theoretical lead in the light described so clearly and concisely (and not for the first time lately) by Mr. Cashmore, but—and far more importantly to the 'man in the belfry'—that, at Leytonstone, we rang our methods in precisely the same way. I have been trying to get Mr. Coles, and others, to admit this very fact for the past two years; and when a fresh correspondent entered, with the 'structure-of-leads' bee apparently so very fresh in his bonnet, to inform the world that . . . Mr. Joyce has . . . lost sight of the fact . . . my outburst was not (as Mr. Coles, of all people, had the nerve to state!) 'quite unmerited.'

If ever it dawns upon Mr. Cashmore—as eventually, perhaps, it might do—that he has been barking up the 'Joyce,' instead of the 'Coles,' tree, he might perhaps be inclined to proffer to you an apology for those '14 lines to the bad.' I have written 'might perhaps' in both instances quite advisedly.

One tires of 'turning the other cheek' to the statements of a personal nature which are slightly wide of fact. (There are debit accounts in the names of Messrs. Coles and Severn!) But Mr. Cashmore makes one which affects argument. He states that I '... create the impression that I have studied the 12-method peal . . . not as a branch of mathematics.' Now my particular bêtes noires are the terms 'mathematics' and 'mathematical laws,' when introduced in the hope of blinding the ordinary ringer to fundamental and easily explainable fact; but I am quite prepared, when occasion arises, to justify my statements from that point of view. And here goes!

Here is my 'hand,' face up on the table! Three names of gentlemen who have inspected (not 'examined' let it freely be admitted) my figures dealing with the proof of that 12-method peal—Messrs. Prior (Leytonstone, and District Master of Essex Association), Cross (some time of Watford district), and Macdougall (of Hornchurch). One who may be inclined, if necessary, to testify to the probable authenticity of those figures—Mr. Driver (of Belvedere). A letter from the Rev. C. D. P. Davies, who examined the system which Mr. Driver will presume was used on the job—'. . . I have pondered . . . your system . . . and should not hesitate to use it myself. . . '

Now, to justify his references to 'intelligent schoolboys' and 'rope manipulation,' it is Mr. Cashmore's turn to 'face his hand' in this 12-method deal, and show, with names whose testimony is unimpeachable, that he has travelled so far in this particular 'branch of mathematics.'

Finally, Mr. Cashmore asserts that every lead in that peal of Major is 'complete in itself and conforms with any plain course lead.' He calls for intelligent argument to prove the contrary. I offer none, nor have I ever tried so to do. But here are two jobs well worthy of Mr. Cashmore's 'mathematical' hire:—

(i.) To try to convince Messrs. Coles, Trollope and Company that every one of the 30 leads which comprise each extent of the peal of Cambridge is 'complete in itself and conforms, etc., . . . '

(ii.) And then 'intelligently to argue'—without bolsters of 'mathematical' generalities—that the extents of that peal are not 'complete,' while each and every lead which goes to make those extents is 'complete and conforms, etc., etc., . . . ' and not by standards of 'rope manipulation,' but by the standards of 'a branch of mathematics' so strenuously advocated by Mr. Cashmore himself.

'Mathematics'—in this particular direction—bah!

WILL ASSOCIATIONS ADJUST THEIR RULES?

Dear Sir,—As the Bankes James Cambridge is again likely to be the subject of much discussion at the Central Council meeting, it would be interesting to know what would be the attitude of those associations who have already reached a decision on the matter. Will they adjust their rules to conform with the C.C. decision, or shall we still have (as at present) some associations who allow this composition and some who do not?

I feel that, whatever the outcome of this controversy, all affiliated bodies should agree to the ruling of the C.C., or otherwise it will be best to leave it out of the C.C. agenda altogether.

A. E. ROWLEY.

Higham-on-the-Hill.

FAIRFORD, GLOS.—On Feb. 7th, at St. Mary's Church, a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples: Miss F. M. Hope 1, L. Smith 2, S. J. Worsfold 3, W. A. Law 4, H. R. Acoc 5, E. Cooper 6, J. Hope (conductor) 7, S. R. Stevens 8. First quarter-peal in the method by ringers of 1, 3, 4 and 6. First quarter-peal in the method ever rung in Fairfield by a resident band, also first as conductor by J. Hope.

DEATH OF MR. H. LINDSAY.

A LOSS TO YORKSHIRE RINGING.

It is with deep regret that we have to record the death, after a long and painful illness, of Mr. Henry Lindsay, of Holbeck, Leeds, which took place on March 19th in the Leeds General Infirmary. Of Scottish descent, Mr. Lindsay first became acquainted with change ringing at the six-bell tower of Ackworth, near Pontefract, but his work as a gardener brought him to Headingley, some forty years ago. At that time there was a band at Headingley who could ring meticulously five Surprise methods for Sunday service, and whose aims differed widely from the modern idea of huge peal totals. They concentrated on a standard of striking for Sunday service ringing which the writer has never heard excelled, and woe betide the unwary peal snatcher who visited the tower, if his striking did not compare in proportion to his peal performances.

Mr. Lindsay was somewhat unusual, for he did not take up change ringing seriously until he was nearly forty years of age. Once he had turned his attention to the art he made rapid strides and soon assimilated any complicated method with the best of ringers, and he was a splendid striker.

The deceased had rung twenty-seven peals for the Yorkshire Association, among them being the first peal of London Surprise for the association in 1904. Possessed of a rare fund of anecdote, and of a delightful and genial disposition, he was a welcome visitor to all ringing meetings until advancing years made his visits less frequent. Some three years ago internal trouble asserted itself, and was borne with great patience until, after a series of operations, he passed away somewhat unexpectedly on March 19th.

A peal which had been intended to be rung at Headingley in honour of the attaining his majority by the junior member of the band, was rung half-muffled at Headingley on March 21st, the method being Double Norwich, the favourite method of the deceased, composed by his old friend the late Mr. Arthur Craven.

The interment took place in the neighbouring churchyard of Kirkstall on March 22nd, several ringers being present from local towers, besides Mr. T. Maude, of Pudsey. A plain course of Grandsire Triples was rung on handbells at the graveside by his old friends: Mrs. J. Cotterell 1-2, W. O. Talbot 3-4, P. J. Johnson 5-6, J. Cotterell 7-8.

A devoted husband, a beloved father, the deceased will be greatly missed by his wife, son and daughter, and though at the age of 75 his end could not be unexpected, his passing will form a gap hard to fill.

A FAMILY OF RINGERS.

THE EIGHTH TO RING A PEAL.

The peal of Stedman Triples rung at Hinton on March 21st (and recorded last week) was originally arranged for February 21st, exactly a month earlier, and the actual date of Miss M. J. Johnson's 21st birthday. It was postponed on account of the death of Mr. F. J. Johnson, her father, and father of the ringers of the 3rd and 7th, which occurred the day previous. Despite the serious state of his health at the time, Mr. Johnson would not hear of it being put off, but was looking forward with pleasurable anticipation to listening to the ringing. His last conscious thoughts were of the peal, and his last words were to his daughter 'not to get excited to-morrow.'

Permission was readily given, under the peculiar circumstances, for the attempt a month later and so near Holy Week, and was duly rung with the feeling of certainty that the departed parent was listening just the same.

Miss M. J. Johnson is the eighth member of the family of nine brothers and sisters to take part in a peal.

'CAMBRIDGE' CHIMES.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—Not so very long ago Mr. Filson Young, writing in 'The Radio Times,' tried to tell its readers something about the chimes heard daily over the ether from Westminster, commonly called Big Ben. He did not say definitely what the words are, and wrote only on hearsay.

The late Henry W. Haley, great ringer and composer, spent a great number of years with the now defunct firm of Warner and Sons as their bell tuner. His son, W. Haley, followed in his father's footsteps as a bell tuner, and a clever tuner he was. Haley, sen., passed on to his son a lot of manuscript connected with ringing, and when I was engaged at Messrs. Warners and met Haley, jun., he handed on to me some of his father's MS. Haley, sen., handed on to his son MS. dealing with what is known as the 'Westminster chimes.' These chimes are struck on the bells 2, 3, 4 and 7 of an octave, and for the hour they strike 16 notes. Here are the words:—

'Lord, thro' this hour
Be Thou my Guide,
And by Thy power
No foot shall slide.'

Anyone listening to wireless can hear for themselves the bells used. The chimes at St. Mary-the-Great, Cambridge, are the same, but played on bells an octave higher, viz., 1, 2, 3, 6 of the back 10.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

It is interesting to note that Mr. E. P. Debenham has been elected president of the Herts County Association for the jubilee year of the organisation. Mr. Debenham was present at the first meeting of the association in 1884.

With the peal at Countesthorpe (reported elsewhere) Mr. Ernest Morris has now rung peals of 5,000 and over at 120 towers in the Leicester diocese, 119 of which are actually in the county. This is a record far ahead of any other individual ringer in one county.

The peal of Stedman Cinques rung at Christ Church Cathedral, Oxford, on March 19th, was rung by the Oxford Society to celebrate its bicentenary. The peal was recorded in error last week as by the Oxford Diocesan Guild.

The next meeting of the Basingstoke District of the Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild was to have been held at Odiham, but as the bell frame there is in need of overhaul the meeting is to be held at Yateley, as announced in our notice columns.

The peal at Christchurch Priory Church, on Monday, was in some respects a commemoration, for it was on Easter Monday, 1888, that the first peal (Grandsire Triples) was rung on the bells.

The meeting of the Sherwood Youths, which was to have been held to-morrow at St. Mary's, Nottingham, has been postponed to April 14th.

The pre-arranged toast was well and truly drunk in Hampshire on the 31st at 9 p.m. Th' clack stoock oop. How did Sheffield, Croydon and Edinburgh fare?

THE LADIES' GUILD.

ANNUAL REPORT REVEALS SATISFACTORY POSITION.

A report covering four years' work of the Ladies' Guild has just been issued. During that time—from July 1st, 1929, to June 30th, 1933—59 ringing members were elected, the total being now 273 ringing members and 57 honorary members. There are, however, ringers in various parts of the country who have not yet joined the Guild. 'The reports from the district secretaries,' it is stated, 'show that most meetings are well attended, but still there is room for improvement, and we would urge members to do their utmost to support the district secretaries. They work very hard for the Guild, and we cannot show our thankfulness and appreciation for their work better than by being regular in our attendances at meetings. Four peals have been rung. The peal of Kent Treble Bob Major at Hands-worth was the first in the method for the Guild. An attempt for London Surprise Major was made at Crayford, but failed after two hours. The district secretaries still find difficulty in collecting the annual subscriptions, and in some cases have to make several written applications for them. It would be a great help if members would send their subscriptions when they become due on July 1st, or as soon after as possible.'

The income showed an excess over expenditure of £7 7s. 6d. during the period.

A HINT TO THE LADIES?

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—When a guild or association has been formed for a number of years, how important it is not to keep up old and worn-out ideas for the sake of tradition.

One might mention the exclusion of the 'gentlemen' from the 'ladies' business meetings. How enjoyable it is to have to 'get out,' after an appetising tea, from a nice warm room into the cold and wet, and find something to amuse yourselves. Especially when there are no handbells, not enough to ring the tower bells, and, when you discover a billiard table, to find cues but no 'ivories.' Of course, they (the gents) are useful at times, when a bell is treated unkindly (by a strong man) and the stay has to be disentangled, and even the sermon has to be preached by a mere man. It is the practice in quite a number of ringing societies nowadays to allow non-members to remain for the business meeting, with the permission of the chairman.

A. C. OLDBACK.

MERTON COLLEGE BELLS.

To the Editor.

Sir,—Mr. Drake is mistaken in supposing that the bells of Merton College are unringable. They are rung regularly on certain specified occasions each year, although the number of such occasions is strictly limited by the college authorities. If only permission could be obtained, a peal would certainly be rung on them. There is nothing in the 'go' of the bells to prevent this being accomplished.

JOHN P. PELLOE.

TENORS RECENTLY REHUNG.

Dear Sir,—With reference to Mr. Drake's letter in the current issue of 'The Ringing World,' may I, through your columns, ask in what sense he applies the term 'unringable' to Merton College bells? I have personally rung many times in that tower during the last four years, and hope to do so many times in the future. The seventh and tenor have recently been rehung in ball bearings, and the 'go' of all the bells is quite satisfactory.—Yours faithfully,

C. E. WIGG.

THE PEALS ANALYSIS.

PROPOSED AUSTRALIAN TOUR.

ENGLISH RINGERS TO VISIT THE COMMONWEALTH.

Mr. W. H. Fussell is organising a ringing tour to Australia, which is to take place in the coming autumn in connection with the Melbourne Centenary celebrations.

A cordial invitation to visit the Commonwealth has been received from the ringers of Melbourne, who are backed by the local Centenary Committee, in offering hospitality.

Already a number of ringers have promised to join the party, and it is hoped to make up a full band.

The excursion will be unique in the annals of ringing, and offers a great opportunity of encouraging the art in Australia.

The itinerary has not yet been mapped out in detail, but it is expected that in addition to Melbourne (where the central event of the centenary celebrations is to be the opening of a Hall of Remembrance on Armistice Day by Prince George), Ballarat, Hobart, and other places will be visited.

COMPETITIONS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I read with interest the article on ringing 'competitions.' There is no doubt that festivals or competitions amongst bands of ringers create great interest, but where there is competition between team and team the true spirit of emulation is often marred by a team including a good ringer who takes the place of one who attends the regular Sunday service ringing. Rightly, the omitted member objects, and there arises dissatisfaction and disagreement within the tower concerned.

'Though I like festivals and good striking,' said a ringer of 40 years' service, 'I don't care for competitions of any sort.'

Yet there is good in it all, and the festival should be encouraged, and, if possible, the striking judged by competent ringers. Would it be ultra vires to suggest that a certificate be issued to a band who successfully ring, say, 360 Grandsire Doubles or Triples, Stedman, Kent, or what not, so that each band be judged on its own achievement?

FREDERICK C. SMALE.

Lindfield, Sussex.

last year. The number who have rung their first peals in a new method or method on a different number of bells is 1,162, a decrease of 384. It must be remembered, however, that it is impossible to judge progress or otherwise by these figures, as this total includes every footnote recording a first peal in the method, and in some cases peals in the simplest methods have been rung by ringers of wide experience and ability and are recorded as 'first peal in the method.' Again, ringers of Cambridge Surprise Maximus and Royal ring a peal of Cambridge Minor, which is duly recorded as 'First peal of Minor in the method,' and is included in the above total.

Ringers of their first peal 'inside' number 72, away from the tenor eight, in the method 'inside' 71, Maximus 13, Cinques 14, Royal 14, Caters 15, Major 65, Triples 21, Minor 52, Doubles 28, on twelve bells 34, on ten 51, on eight 42, on six 3, Surprise 53, 'in hand' 27, in method 'in hand' 37. New conductors number 62, a decrease of 28, and conductors in new methods 98, a decrease of 19.

Other footnotes show that 55 peals were the first on the bells, 21 since restoration or augmentation, and 179 the first in the method on the bells. Muffled and half-muffled peals number 74, birthday peals 283, Royal birthdays 23, weddings (including golden and silver) 97, church festivals and dedications 43, anniversaries 64, Armistice Day 34, welcome and farewell 33, Empire Day 6.

In conclusion we give below the number of peals rung in each of representative years since 1881, the total for the whole period being 63,337:—

1905 ...	1,519	1930 ...	2,014

ANCIENT BELL WELDED.

An ancient church bell belonging to Blythburgh Church, Suffolk, has just been successfully repaired by modern welding methods. This bell was cast in 1608 by James Edbere, whose name appears in the inscription, and is an excellent example of the bell founder's art. It stands 3ft. 6in. high, and weighs about 8 cwt. Although in a perfect state of preservation, it was badly cracked in the crown and on the canons, the cracks being due to the development of rust around the iron clapper staple.

The repairs were carried out by Barimar, Ltd., who also cut out the iron staple and welded up the cavity, and thus removed the cause of future trouble. The condition that the repairs were to be carried out without removing the canons was faithfully observed.

YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION.

EASTERN DISTRICT AT SELBY.

The annual meeting of the Eastern District of the Yorkshire Association was held at Selby on Saturday, March 24th, and was attended by about 45 ringers from Beverley (Minster and St. Mary's), Easingwold, Hemingbrough, Hull, Howden, Kirk Ella, Market Weighton, Pontefract (All Saints' and St. Giles'), Leeds, Sutton-on-Hull, Withernsea, York, and the local company. Choral evensong was attended in the Abbey, the address being given by the Vicar, Rev. Canon Solloway.

Tea in the Hawdon Institute was followed by the business meeting, which was presided over by the Vicar, supported by Rev. N. Breene (curate) and the district officers.

Mr. H. C. Walters, Ringing Master, and Messrs. H. N. Imeson, W. Pearson and D. England, committeemen, were all re-elected for a further period of three years, Mr. Imeson having a seat on the general committee.

Eserick was chosen as the next place of meeting in June.

Two new members were elected, viz., Messrs. D. M. Sharp, of Sutton-on-Hull, and W. Woosam, of Hull.

On the motion of Mr. F. W. Dale, the secretary was requested to write to the B.B.C. expressing appreciation of the broadcasting of church bells rung for services, and also of the record of Bow bells broadcast at various intervals, and hoping these will be continued as a permanent feature in the programmes.

A hearty vote of thanks, proposed to the Vicar for the use of the bells, and for his presence, was proposed by Mr. W. Middleton, seconded by Mr. A. E. West, and replied to by the Vicar, who heartily welcomed the association in his usual humorous manner. He said he was always pleased to grant the use of the bells for meetings or peal attempts, but owing to business premises being near the Abbey peals could not be rung on Saturdays or Mondays (market days).

A vote of thanks to the local company, the organist and choir, and to the ladies for serving the tea was responded to by Mr. F. Cryer.

Further ringing concluded a very happy meeting, the methods rung being Grandsire and Stedman Triples and Caters, and Kent Treble Bob and Plain Bob Royal and Major.

PUDSEY RINGERS' ACHIEVEMENT.

FIVE SURPRISE PEALS RECORDED.

An interesting ceremony took place in the belfry of St. Laurence's Church, Pudsey, on Sunday, March 25th, prior to evensong, when the Vicar (the Rev. C. Tremayne) dedicated a peal board erected in the ringing chamber to commemorate the first peals rung on the bells in five different Surprise Major methods, viz., Cambridge, Superlative, London, Bristol and Pudsey.

The board was unveiled by Mr. Pratt Cordingley, president of the local company, to whose unflinching interest and enthusiasm much of the success of the Pudsey company is due. Significant of his zeal and that of his brother ringers is the fact that, apart from the late Mr. George Bolland, who rang in the first peal (Cambridge), all whose names appear on the board have been taught to ring in the tower, and each peal, except the last, shows one or two names of ringers who had to be taught after the previous peal had been rung.

After the dedication service the bells were rung for evensong to a touch in each of the five methods mentioned on the board.

HERTFORD COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

PREPARING FOR THE JUBILEE.

Mr. E. P. Debenham Elected President.

The 48th annual meeting of the Hertford County Association was held on Easter Monday at the Abbey Institute, St. Albans, under the chairmanship of the Dean of St. Albans (the Very Rev. E. L. Henderson).

In the course of a brief welcome to the members, the Dean said he did not know of a better band of people who gave their services to the church than ringers. Ringing, he thought, was really of the greatest value, and he wished they were able to get the principles of ringing into the scheme of national education. What was needed was accuracy, and if they could get accuracy into the boys and girls when they were young it would be the best thing possible. Bell-ringers must be absolutely accurate; they must have intelligence; and the amount of intelligence that people brought to that work made him marvel. It also required a quick intelligence, and he could not think of a finer training than ringing. It was not merely the ringing of the bells, but the spirit of the belfry that made all the difference in the music they sent out to the people all round.

The following ringing members were elected on the motion of Mr. G. W. Cartmel, seconded by Mr. W. Ayre: F. Giddings and O. Hickling (St. Michael's, St. Albans), W. J. Arnold, E. J. Payne, J. F. Whyte, J. R. L. Challey and P. W. Lewis (St. Albans Cathedral), Miss Arnold and Miss Young (Tring), R. Williams and J. Culver (Little Munden), R. Thomas, R. Kerr and T. Kerr (St. Peter's, St. Albans).

DISLOCATION OF CHANGED FINANCIAL YEAR.

The financial statement, presented by the hon. treasurer (Mr. E. P. Debenham), who moved its adoption, showed a balance in hand at the end of December, 1933, of £8 7s. 10d., and the cash statement to March 28th, 1934, showed a balance of £14 6s. 1d. On the benevolent fund account there was a balance of £12 15s. 8d., an increase during the year of £4 7s. 10d., the largest increase since the fund was started.

The secretary's (Mr. G. C. Cartmel) report included the following: The passing of the resolution at our last Easter meeting that the financial year should end at December 31st, instead of at Easter, has limited our activities to nine months, and has caused dislocation in most districts in the collection of subscriptions. When a rule which has been in operation for nearly fifty years is suddenly changed, it is natural to expect that some difficulties would arise. However, this is only a temporary disorganisation, and the present year, I trust, will bring us into our stride once again, provided subscriptions are paid up early. I know of no reason why they should not, and if this suggestion is acted upon I am sure our treasurer will thank you.

During the nine months under review, twenty-eight peals have been rung upon tower bells and six on handbells. The outstanding feature of the year has been the ringing of the record length of Bob Major, consisting of 13,144 changes, rung at Bennington on Whit Monday, June 5th, in ten hours and fifty-two minutes. You will acknowledge, I am sure, that it is evidence of great skill, and we heartily congratulate the conductor, Mr. Sidney Carter, and the band on ringing a peal which is not only a record in the annals of change ringing, but also has only been surpassed in length by the Stedman Caters peal at Appleton. I am glad to hear that a board has been erected in the belfry to commemorate the achievement. It is interesting to notice that all the ringers are resident in the Eastern District. Other records calling for notice are the first peals of Duffield Major rung at Bushey Heath, conducted by Mr. F. W. Brinklow, and Aldenham and Bushey Surprise Major, both conducted by Mr. H. G. Cashmore, and rung at the respective towers. This being the first time that the methods of Aldenham and Bushey Surprise have been rung to a peal gave the conductor the privilege of naming the methods, and he has very appropriately chosen two names (Aldenham and Bushey), places where so much has been done to further the cause of change ringing. Another creditable performance has been the ringing of a peal of Minor, in ten methods, at Apsley End, conducted by Mr. W. Ayre. Advance also has been made at Redbourn, where the first local peal has been rung of Grandsire Doubles, conducted by Mr. G. Dauells. The Hitchin band have also succeeded in ringing a peal of Double Norwich, the first peal by an entirely local band since 1782. Mr. H. V. Frost, whose enthusiasm for ringing is commendable, has succeeded in calling his first two peals, Bob Major and Bob Royal.

The peal list shows a good variety of methods, rung in every district of the county, with seventeen conductors, the highest number of peals called by any one person being eight. Only one peal of Grand-sire Triples was rung during the year, which shows advance in the ringing of higher methods.

CLERGY AND RINGERS.

It has been stated in 'The Ringing World' that 'the clergy, as a whole, do not evince that interest in the ringers they have the right to expect.' This is, to my mind, a somewhat ambiguous statement, capable of wide interpretation, and one that will do no good to our cause. A careful perusal of accounts of meetings and the peals which are recorded weekly in 'The Ringing World' do not agree with what has been stated. Nor does it agree with my experience of the Hertfordshire clergy. The district secretaries report that the most cordial sympathy exists between them, and that there is always a readiness to help in the arrangements of meetings, even to hospitality. Let us remember that when ringers have rung a peal (and perhaps many of the band have come from another district or even county) and go away pleased with their success, very often the parson who has so graciously granted the use of the bells, without any charge for wear and tear, has to bear the aftermath of complaints. Frequent visits of the clergy to the belfry is not the only way of expressing interest in our services, you all know very well. I think ringers are too humane to expect it in some belfries. The statement having been given such wide publicity, I feel it is my duty to express the opinion that it does not apply to our Hertfordshire clergy.

I am glad to report that the benevolent fund is steadily improving, support being forthcoming from several new districts during the year. Although the rules of the fund have been sent to every tower, there has been a failure to grip essentials. This position is now changing, and as a further help it has been suggested that the rules should be printed in the annual report.

THE ASSOCIATION'S JUBILEE.

The jubilee is claiming, and rightly, the thought and attention of our members throughout the county. Our fiftieth birthday is on October 29th, and the Committee selected October 27th as the nearest and most acceptable date for celebrating the event. It has since been found that this date was unsuitable for our Bishop, and as it is most important that we should secure his presence on such an auspicious occasion, he has kindly set apart Saturday, November 3rd, to be with us. The Dean has been asked to arrange a choral service at the Cathedral in the afternoon, and there will be ringing at the various churches, by permission of the incumbents. A dinner, with music and with community singing, will be held in the evening, probably in the Town Hall, when it is hoped the Lord Bishop of the Diocese will preside, supported by a record attendance of members and other clerical and county officials. A small committee will soon be meeting, and progress will be reported through the various district secretaries and 'The Ringing World.' There are still living several original members of the association whom we would like to join us in our jubilee festivities, and I should be very grateful if any such are known to our members they would put me in communication with them. I also hope that we shall be able to report a record number of peals having been rung to commemorate our fiftieth birthday. Is it possible for a peal to be rung in every tower in the county during our jubilee year? I leave the suggestion with you.

The district secretaries have again carried out loyally their responsible and exacting work in arranging meetings in their respective areas, and it is always a pleasant duty to acknowledge the association's indebtedness to these officers for their useful work.

In conclusion, adds the Hon. Secretary, let us acknowledge the good hand of God in vouchsafing to us the strength of mind and body and the will to carry on our church work, with the hope that by the music of the bells on the Sabbath day many may respond to their call and 'come and worship.' We would also extend our gratitude to our honorary members for their financial support, and to those clergy who have so kindly given permission for peal ringing, for district meetings and assistance in arrangement of services. To the 'live wires' of our association, who by their enthusiasm and ringing abilities have assisted so greatly the progress of change ringing in the county, and to the rank and file of our membership for their continued loyal support. And we also thank those who, in every tower, by taking care of the bells, make our pleasures more pleasant. Let us all endeavour to be loyal to the conductors of the band, willing to bear and forbear, not unreasonable or snappy, when advice is given as to bad striking or mistakes, but always ready to further the aims of our association by fellowship and goodwill.

The report was adopted on the motion of the Dean, seconded by Mr. W. H. Lawrence.

THE NEW PRESIDENT.

On the motion of Mr. Cartmel, Mr. E. P. Debenham was unanimously elected president for the ensuing year. Mr. Cartmel mentioned that Mr. Debenham was present at the first meeting of the association in 1884.

Returning thanks, Mr. Debenham said he had followed the affairs of the association from the beginning with a good deal of interest. He became secretary and treasurer in 1883, and he had been in office ever since.

Mr. Debenham was re-elected hon. treasurer on the motion of Mr. F. J. Reeve, seconded by Mr. B. Jarman.

Mr. W. Gilks proposed, and Mr. H. Goodenough seconded, the re-election of Mr. Cartmel as hon. secretary; Mr. George Debenham was elected hon. librarian; and Mr. W. Mercer hon. auditor. The following district secretaries were re-elected: Messrs. D. C. Mears, W. H. Lawrence, W. Nash, C. H. Norton and W. Ayre.

Previous to the annual meeting a service for ringers was held in St. Albans Cathedral, and was conducted by Canon J. L. Barkway. The lessons were read by Canon H. A. Skelton and the Dean, and the preacher was the Rev. H. E. Earnshaw-Smith, Vicar of Watford. He said the great use and purpose of the bells was to summon people to church. They were used for invitation, to sound out the great word, 'Come.' That was their privilege in the service they rendered. They should always remember that they were calling men and women to the house of God.

THE NEXT COUNCIL MEETING.

The agenda for the Central Council meeting, which is to be held at Warwick at Whitsun, appeared too late this year to give the associations which meet at Easter the usual opportunity of discussing any of its details, but that was unavoidable. Ringers, however, are interested in what the Council propose to talk about, and it may be that on one subject, at any rate, some of them would have desired to express an opinion, as the Midland Counties Association did last year when their official amendment to a motion was put forward and carried in the Council, although, lacking the requisite majority on that occasion, it became inoperative.

There is always much routine work to be got through in the early part of the proceedings of the Council, and the committee's reports have a tendency to create unexpected discussion. At the same time, it is through the committees that the Council does most of its important work—work that goes on throughout the year and only comes under public notice when the Council meets. At the moment, however, it is the motions of which notice have been given on which interest will centre. All these relate to peal ringing. It is, we think, a wise proposal—which forms the first motion—that decisions relating to peal ringing shall not be binding unless carried by a two-thirds majority of the Council. It was a proviso of this description in the old rules which last year, in effect, defeated the amendment on the Minor question that had actually been carried. In the new rules, under which the next meeting will be conducted, this condition relating to matters outside the domestic affairs of the Council does not appear, but it is well that matters which affect the whole Exercise in the intimate way that peal ringing does should not be subject to just bare majorities. When any drastic change is made or an alteration in accepted principles is introduced, it should be the clear demand of the Exercise and not a doubtful opinion. The motion to provide for a two-thirds majority is a needful safeguard, which formerly existed and which, we believe, the Council will do well to reintroduce, especially in view of the fact that while, to some extent, the representation of associations rests on numerical strength, it would be possible, by a bare majority of the Council, to impose the views of a minority of the Exercise, because several of the associations which send the limit of four representatives have two or three or even four times the members of an association sending two or three representatives.

The motion that is likely to cause most discussion is that relating to peals of Minor. The controversy on the subject drags on from year to year, and up to the present it has not been possible to settle the question at one bite. Perhaps the attempt to settle the most discussed part of the problem will lead to a final decision of all the points at issue. If the Council accepts the motion on the Bankes James Arrangement, they can, at a later meeting, discuss the other phases of the Minor question, with the issues then less involved. If, in their wisdom, the Council decide against the Bankes James Arrangement, it will be a clear declaration that they will accept no departure from the old standard of peals of Minor. That is the real issue which is raised, and the defeat of the motion on the agenda will as a consequence impose on the Council the necessity of rescinding their Hereford resolution and substituting something else in its place.

SURREY ASSOCIATION.

NORTH-WESTERN DISTRICT.

A very happy meeting of the North-Western District of the Surrey Association was held at Christ Church, Epsom, on Easter Monday, when some 45 members and friends attended to enjoy a ring on this fine light ring of eight bells. Ringers were present from Banstead, Beddington, Benhilton, Brockley, Carshalton, Chelsea, Croydon, Epsom, Esher, Leatherhead, Merton, Merstham, Reigate, Staines, Streatham, Willesden and Woodford. Good use was made of the bells during the afternoon, and a short service was conducted by the Vicar, who gave a short and interesting address (not on the history of bells but on matters mainly parochial).

Tea was served in the Parish Hall, a company of over 40 sitting down to a very enjoyable repast.

The business meeting followed, presided over by the District Master, Mr. E. Talbot. Four new members were elected, and a very hearty vote of thanks passed to the Vicar for the use of the bells and to Mr. J. Crawford for making all arrangements.

The tower was again open for ringing after the meeting, and the bells were kept going in a variety of methods—including four Surprise methods, plain and spliced—until 9 p.m., when a very enjoyable meeting came to a close.

GAINSBOROUGH RINGERS' TRIBUTE TO COLLEAGUES.

On April 5th eight of the ringers at All Saints', Gainsborough, met to show their esteem and respect for two former members of the company, Messrs. John Thomas Ladd and William Whelpton, who have just recently passed away.

Mr. Ladd was a member from 1891 to 1926. For a number of years during that period he held the office of Deputy Master of the company, and was also on the committee of the Northern Branch of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild. He was greatly interested in the art of ringing, and had taken part in thirteen peals.

Mr. Whelpton was a member from 1906 to 1912, and had one peal to his credit.

A quarter-peal of Stedman Triples was rung by: Miss E. Marshall 1, F. S. W. Butler 2, E. Dalingwater 3, J. Dixon 4, H. Morgan 5, C. H. Baker 6, G. W. Creasey (conductor) 7, H. Harper 8.

PEALS OF MINOR.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—There is not much in Mr. Joyce's letter that I wish to comment upon; most of it is directed against Mr. Cashmore, who has committed the heinous crime of overlooking what Mr. Joyce wrote six years ago. I have already tried to satisfy Mr. Joyce that I agree with him about the constitution of a lead of a method, but I require something more than the lead. I cannot learn a method without knowing what to do at the back stroke lead of the treble, nor can the Leytonstone company or Mr. Joyce. With all his knowledge, he would not be able to distinguish between a lead of Cambridge Minor and a lead of Primrose if only the first 24 rows of each method were written down, from and including rounds. He would require the 25th row—the back stroke row of the treble lead. It is for this reason, and because this 25th row is the 24th change, that I fail to see how Mr. Joyce can prove anything by forcing this point into the 'Minor' controversy. The 'lead' is not enough, any more than the first 720 rows of an 'extent' of the Bankes James peal of Cambridge Surprise Minor is enough to prove its truth. Another row—a very vital row—is required to produce the 720th change, and this row makes the extent neither true nor complete. (If any of your readers are apt to interpret this as an argument that the Bankes James peal is false, I would refer them to my letter published March 16th.)

I am sorry that I cannot remember when I contracted a 'debit account' with Mr. Joyce, but I sympathise with him. I have been a fellow-sufferer—mostly from clever people who enjoy having their 'dig' over a non de plume.

C. T. COLES.

IN THE TOWER.

Dear Sir,—In Mr. Coles' letter replying to Mr. Joyce he says, 'Even Mr. Joyce cannot tell the difference between Hexham and Surfleet until the treble leads.' Neither can anyone else, but to the ordinary ringer there is a lot of difference, for nine out of every ten learn the whole of the diagram for each method. It is not sufficient to go into the tower and say, 'Now we'll ring Hexham; all you have to do is to ring Surfleet until treble leads, then step on two blows and again ring Surfleet,' for several do not even know when the treble is leading. The same applies to Primrose Major, but how many Cambridge Major ringers, who have not seen Primrose, could go straight into the tower and ring it with that simple explanation? Therefore, in multi-method peals the majority of ringers (in their own mind) ring entirely different methods and deserve more credit than the more gifted ringers.

H. M. DAY.

Other letters on this subject are unavoidably held over.

LLANDAFF AND MONMOUTH DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

PROPOSED ADDITIONAL BELLS FOR NEATH.

The quarterly meeting of the Llandaff and Monmouth Diocesan Association was held at Bonvilston, near Cardiff, on Easter Monday. There was a good attendance from the Llandaff Diocese, but few from the Monmouth. The bells, a ring of six by Rudhall, were rung during the afternoon, and service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. Gilbert Thomas), whose address was most interesting. He gave the history of how the bells were obtained. Tea was very kindly provided by the workers of the church in the Church Institute, a company of forty-two sitting down.

Following tea the business meeting proceeded, with the Vicar in the chair. Instructors' reports were received, and in regard to proposed restorations and augmentations it was announced that the bells of Neath Parish Church (a ring of six) had been removed to the Loughborough Foundry, and that a frame for eight was being provided, so that two bells could be added later. After several members had expressed the wish that the two bells could be added now, it was unanimously resolved that the Vicar of Neath be communicated with and that an offer of five pounds from the association funds be made towards the two bells if put in hand forthwith.

Several new members were elected, including the local band, which rejoined after a lapse of a few years. The result of the meeting is that without doubt these bells will again be rung for the Sunday services.

After the usual votes of thanks the meeting closed, and the bells were rung in various methods until late in the evening.

MERTON COLLEGE BELLS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—The bells of Merton College are not unringable. They are rung regularly, four times a year, by the Oxford Society. I believe that the four days are the King's birthday, the Queen's birthday, the Prince of Wales' birthday, and the anniversary of the King's accession, and that the Oxford Society originated through the need of the four colleges, Christ Church, New College, Magdalen and Merton, for ringers to do this 'paid ringing.'

The Merton bells were overhauled by Mr. Richard White, of Appleton, about four years ago, and the seventh and tenor rehung on ball bearings. Personally, I think the difficulty lies not so much in handling the bells themselves as in the nervous strain of standing in the ringing gallery, which is famous, or infamous, among those who have rung there.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

Congratulations and good wishes in which all ringers will join are extended to Mr. W. T. Cockerill, the general hon. secretary of the Ancient Society of College Youths, who is 75 to-day.

Mr. W. J. Nevard, the Essex veteran, rang two Surprise peals on Easter Monday. He has passed his 78th 'milestone.' He must be nearly, if not quite, the oldest ringer to ring two peals in one day.

Work has commenced on raising the tower of Buckfast Abbey another 40ft., four of the monks being engaged on the task. It is expected that the structure will take two years to complete. The bells, a ring of twelve, will then be raised, and ringing take place from the floor, where the bells now are, instead of from the narrow stone gallery at present used by the ringers.

Three of the band who rang in the then record length of 15,072 Double Norwich Major at Erith, on April 3rd, 1899, took part in a 35th anniversary peal last week, when Cambridge Surprise was rung on the same bells. The three ringers were Messrs. W. Pye (the conductor), G. R. Pye and J. H. Cheesman.

This record peal was exceeded in length at Kidlington on May 22nd in the same year, when a 17,024 of Double Norwich, which gave rise to a great deal of controversy at the time, was rung, conducted by the late Mr. J. W. Washbrook.

The peal which the Erith record superseded was the 13,440 rung at Romford 40 years ago next Wednesday, by a band of Cumberland Youths who, three weeks earlier, had lost the peal after ringing 13,072 changes in 8 hrs. 15 mins. at Brentwood through the breaking of a rope.

In connection with Double Norwich records, it is interesting to recall that on April 14th, 1928, an attempt for 22,096 was made at Heptonstall and lost after 10 hours 31 mins.' ringing!

The anniversaries of several peal records occur about this time. On April 12th, 1909, 18,027 Stedman Caters was rung at Loughborough in 12 hrs. 18 mins., a record beaten in length at Appleton on April 22nd, 1922, by the 21,363 rung in 12 hrs. 25 mins.

Twenty years ago to-day the 14,000 Kent Treble Bob Royal was rung at Ashton-under-Lyne, and in the same tower on April 17th, 1911, the 12,240 Kent Treble Bob Maximus. On April 18th, 1927, 17,824 Oxford Treble Bob Major was rung at Heptonstall.

The ringer of the 2nd in the peal at Brighton on March 24th was Alfred W. Bond, not Ward as printed. The ringer of the 4th in the peal at Hinton on March 21st was Arthur J. Martin, not Masters as published.

Mr. G. H. Roberts, after allowing forty years to elapse between his first and second peals, has since rung several peals, and has now scored his first on eight bells in his 70th year. This was Kent Treble Bob Major at Oundle on Saturday, and he stood in at short notice. The Rector visited the belfry and congratulated the band after the peal.

On Easter Monday, as a compliment to the Minister of Agriculture on the occasion of his wedding, the five bells of Kington Magna Church, Dorset, were rung by a dairy proprietor (in holy orders) and four farm workers.

The band that scored the first peal of Berkshire Surprise at Wokingham recently are all residents of the county of Horks. They must have been in the 'pink' of condition to have rung it straight off the reel.

In the last course of the peal of London Surprise at Uxbridge, on Easter Monday, the electric light was switched off for nearly half a treble lead. In the darkness someone said, 'Stick it!' and when the light was put on again there was no need for correction amongst the ringers.

The peal of Doubles (Grandsire and Plain Bob) rung at Paston, Norfolk, on Tuesday week, was the first peal by all except the conductor, and it was rung at the first attempt. The 'first pealers' belong to the local band, and were elected members of the Norwich Diocesan Association on the previous day. The conductor, Mr. Nolan Golden, called the only peal rung on the original five in this tower.

The Rev. R. E. V. Prichard restored the two rings of bells under his care (in adjoining parishes) within twelve months, the work at Paston having been completed in February. He entertained the ringers to supper after the peal, which, incidentally was Mr. Nolan Golden's 200th for the association.

One thousand peals have been rung by the Hereford Diocesan Guild, which was founded in March, 1886.

In the table of the peals analyses, published in our issue of March 30th, the footnote (e) under Surprise Major should have been '1 Bushey, 1 Aldenham.'

Can any of our readers supply a correspondent with the notes of 'St. Michael's' quarter chimes?

The dedication of the new ring of ten bells at Ranmoor, Sheffield, took place on Saturday week. The two trebles have been added as a memorial to the late Mr. Sam Thomas. A report of the opening will appear in our next issue.

The report of a peal at Rhyl has been sent without the date.

REVISED RULES ADOPTED.

The annual meeting of the Midland Counties Association was held on Easter Monday, and, following the usual rotation, this year it was at Leicester. From an early hour and throughout the day the bells of St. Margaret's (12), St. Martin's Cathedral (10), St. John's (10) and St. Saviour's (eight) were rung to various standard and Surprise methods (some very surprising!). The committee met in the afternoon and carried through the usual routine business. The annual report and balance sheet for 1933 had been printed and was in circulation.

Discussion on the proposed new rules was left to the general meeting, but it was pointed out that as one section regarding the standard and conditions for peals was subject to the Central Council's ruling, it was decided to leave over the final printing until after that body's meeting at Warwick.

Tea was served at the Victoria Hotel, when well over 100 ringers and friends sat down (more than a third of whom had, as usual, failed to send in notification of intention to be present). All the eight districts of the association were represented, viz.: Burton, Chesterfield, Derby, Hinckley, Loughborough, Leicester, Nottingham and the Peak. Many distinguished friends were welcomed from as far apart as London (Inspector W. Bottrill), Leeds (Mr. Leslie Morris, 'now famous for his Doubles'), Coventry (Mr. F. Pervin), Rugby (Mr. J. B. Fenton), Kettering (Mr. R. G. Black, Mr. C. Bird and others), Nuneaton (Mr. T. W. Chapman and Mr. J. F. Clarke), and many others too numerous to mention.

At the general meeting which followed tea, the chair was taken by the president (Mr. E. Denison Taylor), supported by the vice-president (Mr. W. Willson), hon. treasurer (Mr. W. E. White) and hon. secretary (Mr. Ernest Morris), also the Rev. W. Groome-Merrilees (Theddingworth) and Rev. R. P. Farrow (St.oney Stanton).

OFFICERS RE-ELECTED.

The general officers of the association were re-elected 'en bloc,' there being no other nominations put forward.

The president, treasurer and secretary each spoke a few words of thanks for the honour conferred upon and the trust displayed in them, and assured the members of their continued efforts to maintain the association's reputation and high standard.

The President, in his review of the past quarter's work and peals rung, said how pleased he was to be once again with them after his sojourn abroad. He spoke of the loss the association had sustained in the passing of Mr. W. Hyde Inglesant, who in his prime was a first-class ringer and composer. He mentioned also that their old friend, Mr. J. Griffin, had returned to Burton, and in view of the tragic circumstances of the death of his daughter, the hon. secretary was instructed to send him a letter of condolence from that meeting.

The balance sheet for 1933 was formally proposed by Mr. J. H. Dean (one of the auditors), seconded by Mr. J. H. Swinfield and passed. Places for the next three general meetings were finally selected as follows: Matlock (June), Duffield (September), and Hinckley (January, 1935).

New members proposed since the last meeting: Seventeen ringing, four rejoining, one life and one honorary were duly elected.

The proposed new rules were read by the president, and various amendments noted.

This was a long procedure and perhaps somewhat boring to the visitors, but was a necessary item of business. However, it was satisfactorily disposed of, and, as stated above, the rules as revised will eventually be printed and distributed after the Central Council's meeting at Whitstutide.

The evening was spent in harmony and conviviality at the Star Inn clubroom, which was somewhat overcrowded at first. The proceedings were nevertheless enjoyed by all present. Songs were rendered by Sergt. H. J. Poole and his 'confederates' of the detective department, and others, while handbell tunes were rung and touches of Stedman Triples, Caters, and a course of Cinques by: R. F. Elkington 1-2, H. J. Poole 3-4, F. E. Pervin 5-6, E. Morris 7-8, E. Whitehead 9-10, J. Morris 11-12. Thus can be recorded another successful meeting and a happy social evening.

THE COMMITTEE'S REPORT.

In their annual report the committee record 111 peals rung during the year 1933, the second lowest total for many years. Nevertheless it was interesting in that the peals covered all numbers from five to twelve bells. The Billesdon local band was congratulated on scoring a six-method peal, while the Leicester ringers held the field on twelve bells by ringing the only 12-bell peal during the year. This was on handbells, and in addition they had rung six peals of Caters 'in hand.' 'Much good might be done,' adds the report, 'if other bands would take up this side of our art, not only as a "side line" but also as a means of bringing on young recruits, especially in these days of noise-racked nerves, and where the tower bells are noisy in the more populated towns.' The 'top-scorers' in peals were, as usual, the Wednesdayites, with their continued peals of Stedman in new and intricate compositions, conducted by that genius, Maurice Swinfield. Among the ringers Mr. James George, of Birmingham, was top-scorer with 31.

EAST DERBYSHIRE & NOTTINGHAMSHIRE ASSOCIATION

A RINGERS' INSURANCE SCHEME.

The annual meeting of the East Derbyshire and Nottinghamshire Association was held at South Normanton on Easter Monday, and was attended by 60 members. The bells were raised in peal at 2.30 and kept merrily going until 4.15, when service was held, conducted by the Rector (Rev. T. H. Evans), who delivered a homely address, which was greatly appreciated by the congregation. The lesson was read by Mr. H. Doughty, and the organist was Mr. E. W. Riley, both members of the local band.

After a substantial tea in the Church Schools, Mr. Wilson Dobbs presided over a large gathering. The accounts were adopted as satisfactory, and showed a credit balance of £6 12s. 1d., the auditors' report being presented by Mr. J. Machin.

Mr. Wilson Dobbs (president), Mr. Wilson Allin (vice-president), Mr. T. Stimpson (treasurer), Mr. Tom Clarke (Ringing Master), and Mr. J. W. England (secretary) were all re-elected, and Messrs. J. Machin and T. Hand were appointed auditors. The executive committee were also re-elected, the members thus showing complete confidence in the management of the association's affairs.

The report of the Ringing Master and secretary were of a very encouraging nature.

Fourteen new members were elected, six of these being from one tower, Heath.

It was decided to hold the next annual meeting at Mansfield, with other meetings at Heanor, Teversal, Denby, Kirkby-in-Ashfield, Ash-over, Alfreton and Farnsfield. It was also decided to attempt a monthly peal, principally for the benefit of young ringers, as there are several promising youngsters who will, no doubt, be pleased to record their 'first.'

The Secretary explained particulars of a ringers' insurance scheme, a matter, we are afraid, sadly neglected, and urged the members present to press the subject forward with their various Church Councils. The annual premium is 1s. per ringer, with a minimum of 10s. per tower.

A hearty vote of thanks to the Rector, organist, and ladies terminated the proceedings, Mr. A. B. Judge, churchwarden, replying on behalf of the Rector, who was temporarily absent.

Further ringing took place until nearly nine o'clock, and everybody enjoyed another good meeting.

After referring to other features of the peals, the report goes on to say that according to the footnotes appearing in 'The Ringing World' no fewer than 110 ringers had rung peals in a new method, but only five new conductors appear. Twenty ringers had scored their first peal.

UNPAID SUBSCRIPTIONS.

The number of members was 1,036, viz., 843 ringing members and 193 hon. members and patrons. The total, says the report, includes a number who are unfortunately on the verge of cancellation through non-payment of subscriptions. Local secretaries are asked to endeavour to arouse the apathy of these dilatory ones to a real live interest in the art.

Dealing further with the subject of finance, the report continues: 'We are sorry to say that our optimistic views expressed in the last report have not been as fully realised as was then anticipated, our expenses having exceeded our income by about £9 10s.; this ought not to be. At the close of the year 1933 only two-thirds of the total number of our ringing members had paid their subscription. This is a very serious thing for the association and no credit to those in arrears.'

'We have made constant appeals both in our reports and through the districts secretaries, but without tangible results. What then is the cause of this neglect? We cannot think it is lack of interest in ringing, and surely it is not the amount of the annual subscription, which is equivalent to 1½d. per month.'

'In face of the above the committee are reluctantly compelled to cut down expenses; it is the only alternative. We should like all members to study and compare the accounts which will be found in this and previous reports, and if they can make any useful criticism or suggestion we shall be glad if they will pass it on to the secretary for consideration.'

'During the past year we have assisted financially in the restoration of the bells at Billesdon, and also with the assistance of friends from within and without our association, we have borne the expense of recasting the treble bell at Duffield, which, with its suitable inscription, now hangs in the tower there as a memorial (long overdue) to Sir Arthur P. Heywood, Bart., president of this association for many years, and well known throughout the land for the great interest he took in our church bells, bellringing and bellringers. The inscription on the bell runs: "This bell was recast in memory of Sir A. P. Heywood, Bart., by the Midland Counties Association (president 1886-1916) and other ringers."'

The balance sheet shows a reserve fund of £250 and a balance in the appropriation account of £42 17s. 4d., the latter, which stood at £48 15s. 10d. at the beginning of the year and had been added to by £9 10s. interest on investments, having met the loss on general account of £9 9s. 9d. and a grant to Bell Repair Fund of £5 18s. 9d.

NORWICH DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION. ANNUAL FESTIVAL AT NORWICH.

The annual festival of the Norwich Diocesan Association was held at Norwich on Easter Monday. Again by the kind permission of the respective incumbents the bells at St. Peter Mancroft, St. Giles', St. Michael-at-Coslany, and All Saints' were placed at the disposal of the members from 10 o'clock in the morning until the evening. Special service was held in the Church of St. Peter Mancroft at 12.30 p.m., and was conducted by the curate (Rev. Reginald Fielding, L.Th.), and the Rev. H. W. Benson, M.A., Vicar of Buxton, gave an impressive and inspiring address on the message of bells, which was listened to by a congregation of nearly 70 ringers and friends.

After the service the members assembled for luncheon at the Bell Hotel, Orford Hill, the president (the Archdeacon of Norwich) presiding, supported by the Rev. H. W. Benson, Mr. Charles E. Borrett (vice-president), Mr. Arthur L. Coleman (general secretary and treasurer), Mr. W. L. Duffield (chairman, South Norfolk Branch), Messrs. John G. W. Harwood, and F. Nolan Golden (branch secretaries), Mr. J. Madden Williams (organist of St. Peter Mancroft), Mr. Ben S. Thompson (Ringing Master, St. Peter Mancroft Guild), Messrs. G. Bailey, R. W. Cooke, W. J. Clover, W. C. Duffield, G. Mayers, W. J. Lee, C. J. More, J. Taylor, E. Whiting (members of the branch committees), and ringers from Norwich, Great Yarmouth, Fakenham, Wymondham, Paston, Pulham, Aylsham, Buxton, Lodden, Acie, Wroxham, Gressenhall, Saxmundham, Thornham Magna, Stoke Ash, Palgrave, etc.

The President proposed the toast of 'The King,' and afterwards read an apology for absence from the Bishop of Norwich (patron of association), who sent all good wishes to the association. They were sorry, added the president, at the absence of Mr. Philip E. Sewell, who took a great interest in bellringing. Mr. Sewell had had an accident and they all sympathised with him. Referring to the sermon that was preached that morning at St. Peter Mancroft by the Rev. H. W. Benson, Vicar of Buxton, the president humorously remarked that one of the things he enjoyed was when Mr. Benson said bellringers all pulled together (laughter). He advised him the next time he spoke to drop that expression (laughter). It was a very good sermon, and they all thoroughly enjoyed it.

At the business meeting the President said some people spoke of centralisation and others of decentralisation. He thought that in that association they had a happy balance. They had a certain amount of centralisation, and had also got decentralisation and local freedom. It was a very good thing, and the wisdom of it was justified. He had been reading the reports of their branches which, on the whole, were excellent. He thought the older men ought to do their best to get the younger folk to join. All ought to say they were doing something for the old church, because the old church was trying to do its best for them. They should put the status of the bellringer very high, because each could say he was a minister of Christ and would do his own particular job to the best of his ability. The total membership of the association, continued the President, was 844, an increase on the year of only three. They had a balance at the bank of £9 16s. 4d., which was 18s. more than last year. That was a very unusual thing as regards church organisation (laughter). Twenty-two members had lapsed through non-payment of subscriptions. He did not know what to do about those defaulters, and hoped a way would be found so that they would not lose them. The President concluded by moving a vote of thanks to the Rev. H. W. Benson for his address at the service, and also to the incumbents of St. Peter Mancroft, St. Giles', St. Michael-at-Coslany, and All Saints' for the use of their bells.

The general secretary and treasurer presented the annual report and balance sheet for the year ending December 31st, 1933, which was adopted.

Mr. Coleman, proposing the re-election of the Archdeacon of Norwich as president, said it was most important to have a real live person for that position and not a figure head. The Archdeacon took a keen interest in church bells and bellringers, and his influence contributed to the success of the association.—The motion was seconded and carried with enthusiasm.—The president briefly acknowledged the compliment.

Mr. Ben S. Thompson, proposing the re-election of the general secretary and treasurer, said Mr. Coleman took the keenest interest in his duties and in the association.—The motion was seconded by Mr. F. Nolan Golden and carried unanimously.—Mr. G. P. Burton was reappointed hon. auditor.

Amendment to association Rule III., allowing for two persons elected from the members of each branch and nominated by them for the elected members of the committee, was confirmed. The following two representatives from each branch were appointed to the Standing Committee: North Norfolk Branch, Mr. George Bailey and Mr. William C. Duffield; East Norfolk Branch, Mr. Richard T. Woodley and Mr. James Taylor; South Norfolk Branch, Mr. Albert G. Harrison and Mr. Ernest Whiting; West Norfolk Branch, Mr. Robert W. Cooke and Mr. George Love.

On a motion moved by the general secretary and treasurer, seconded by Mr. R. W. Cooke, 25 new members were elected.

A vote of thanks was passed to the Archdeacon of Norwich for presiding, and the members then adjourned to the various belfries for further ringing.

GLOUCESTER AND BRISTOL DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION. THE DAVIES MEMORIAL.

The annual meeting was held at Cirencester on Easter Monday, 59 members attending. A short service, conducted by Rev. Canon L. Westmacott, was held in Watermoor Church. The business meeting was held in the Church Room with the Master, Mr. J. Gould, presiding, supported by Vice-President Mr. S. Romans and Rev. Noel Hope. The Master, in his report, regretted the loss of so many hon. members and associate members. He reported that 32 peals had been rung during the year.

The Hon. Secretary in his report referred to the rehanging of St. Mary-le-Port bells, Bristol, and urged all members to appeal to their church authorities, where 'clocking' was still practised. He also drew the members' attention to the fact that the Rules and Decisions of the Central Council were now held as binding. Every effort must be made to conform with the Rules and Decisions.

The Hon. Treasurer, in his statement of accounts, revealed that branches were down on the year, but through less expenditure in the general accounts a saving of £22 had been effected.

The members stood in silence for five members who had passed away.

The representatives on the Central Council gave their reports in which the Minor controversy was spoken of, and it was regretted that the latter part of Mr. S. H. Wood's motion had ever been included. It was strongly supported that all abnormalities should be out or all in, and that there should be no exceptions.

The Davies Memorial Committee reported that £306 4s. 4d. had been subscribed up to that day, and that the expenditure would be £75 to the chapel; bells, fixing and inscriptions, £232 7s. 1d.; brass tablet, £5; and administration expenses, £10, making a total of £322 7s. 1d. It was agreed that the deficit of £16 be paid from the general funds on May 19th, so that the memorial should be complete. The special committee were thanked for their services and dismissed from May 19th, 1934.

REARRANGEMENT OF DISTRICTS.

A discussion upon branch border lines took place, and it was decided to place Thornbury, Tytherington, Yate and Chipping Sodbury in the Bristol Branch.

The vice-presidents were re-elected with the addition of Mr. A. Maggs, Bristol, and Mr. F. J. Lewis, of Cirencester, the latter having served 22 years as a branch secretary.

Mr. S. Romans (Gloucester) was unanimously elected Master. Mr. Romans accepted under the condition that his election took place from May 20th. He thought Mr. Gould, having served through the onerous portion of the Davies memorial scheme, should have the pleasure of seeing it through.

All the other officers were re-elected, as were also the hon. auditors. All branch and belfry elections were ratified.

It was agreed to hold the next general meeting at Swindon in May, 1935, and to give notice of alteration in rules re hon. members' fees. It was decided to adopt as an experimental by-law that hon. members 'should subscribe to the funds' (without fixing fee).

A vote of thanks to Canon Westmacott and the organist was warmly accorded. Ringing at Watermoor (eight bells) and St. John's (12) took place during the day.

SPLICED SURPRISE.

A NEW COMPOSITION FOR FOUR METHODS.

A peal in four spliced Surprise methods—London, Bristol, Cambridge and Superlative—was rung at Hillingdon on Saturday, and it was a meritorious performance in more ways than one. It was composed and conducted by Mr. E. C. S. Turner, of Ealing, who is not only the youngest ringer to conduct a spliced Surprise peal, but he also called it from a non-observation bell. In addition, four of the band rang a spliced Surprise peal for the first time. And beyond this, Mr. Turner has produced a new composition which will doubtless be very welcome to Spliced Surprise conductors. Here are the figures of the peal:—

THREE POOR BELLS AT ANSTEY.

RINGERS RAISING FUNDS FOR RECASTING.

There is at Anstey, near Leicester, a ring of eight bells (tenor 8 cwt. 1 qr. 15 lb. in G). Originally there were only five bells, cast by J. M. Halton, of the Bawtry, Yorkshire, Bell Foundry in 1723. In the year 1908, having become quite unringable, they were rehung in an iron frame by Messrs. John Taylor and Co., and the then two smallest bells (the present 4th and 5th) were recast and three smaller bells were added to complete the octave.

The 6th, 7th and tenor bells have now become very defective in tone and urgently need recasting. An estimate has been obtained from Messrs. John Taylor and Co. to do this work for £120. About 4½ cwt. of new metal in the aggregate will be added to those three bells to bring them up to the correct weights for their diameters and the notes they sound.

The Anstey Church Council has officially sanctioned the scheme, but has placed the matter of raising the money entirely in the hands of the ringers owing to a heavy outlay they have to meet owing to the recent rebuilding of the Church Rooms. The task of the ringers is also made more difficult by the fact that Anstey is a poor parish and also an exceptionally Nonconformist place.

The ringers have been doing their best for some time past to raise money, and have organised several efforts, besides having received quite a number of donations. Less than half the amount of money required has so far been raised, and any contributions, however small they may be, will be very gratefully received and acknowledged by the hon. secretary of the Bell Fund, Mr. Alban Disney, 8, Dalby Road, Anstey, Leicester.

ANSTEY CHURCH, WHERE BELLS NEED RECASTING.

WORCESTERSHIRE ASSOCIATION'S ANNUAL MEETING.

PRESENTATION TO THE DEAN OF WORCESTER.

The annual meeting of the Worcestershire and Districts Association was held at Worcester on Easter Monday. The weather was not as pleasant as it might have been, although one was thankful on this occasion that there was no rain to mar the proceedings. During the morning there were various towers at the disposal of those who had ventured out in the cold winds to pay their annual visit to the royal town. There was the peal of six at St. Nicholas', six at St. Swithin's, eight at St. John-in-Bedwardine, and, of course, the 10 at All Saints', of all of which great use was made. Unfortunately the fine peal of 12 at the Cathedral were not available owing to illness close by.

As usual, the business meeting was held in the Cathedral Chapter House under the presidency of the Dean of Worcester (the Very Rev. W. Moore Ede, D.D.), who was supported by Alderman J. S. Pritchett, M.A., vice-president, the Rev. J. F. Hastings, M.A., clerical secretary, Mr. J. R. Newman, general lay secretary, and Mr. William Short, Master.

The Dean, in opening the proceedings, again welcomed the association to Worcester, and said how glad he was to see them once more, although he regretted to hear of the losses they had sustained during the past year through death. The president referred to the fact that it had not been possible to use the Cathedral bells this year owing to the illness near by, and he knew the people concerned appreciated the thoughtfulness of the ringers in not wishing to ring at the Cathedral under the circumstances.

The Secretary said he thought the meeting ought not to proceed without some mention being made of the members who had died during the past year. They were Mr. R. E. Grove, of Kidderminster, Mr. Ernest Gibbs, of Hanley Castle, Mr. Frederick J. Johnson, of Hinton, and Mr. Wm. Page, of Worcester, all of whom had rendered valuable service to ringing in general and to the association in particular.

MEMBERSHIP LARGER THAN EVER.

The secretary then presented the report of the Central Committee, from which it appeared that the membership of the association was now larger than it had ever been, and the association was now entitled to four representatives on the Central Council. The committee had decided not to take advantage of this, however. They had also decided again to hold a dinner which was provisionally fixed to take place at Worcester on Saturday, September 29th, and it is earnestly requested that ringers will keep this date open and do their best to make it a success. It is hoped to secure better accommodation this year.

With regard to the hon. life members, it was decided to change this title to 'Freemen of the association,' and the Dean of Worcester was appointed the head of such freemen.

The election of officers was then proceeded with. Amid great enthusiasm the Dean of Worcester was re-elected president of the association, and the other officers were also re-elected, viz.: Mr. William Short to the Mastership, the Rev. J. F. Hastings and Mr. J. R. Newman to be clerical and lay secretaries respectively.

Next followed the presentation of the accounts, which showed a very satisfactory state of affairs. It was pointed out that since the Belfry Repairs Fund had been started the association had made grants towards bell restorations totalling over £90. Mention was made of the bells of St. Helen's, Worcester, which had been silent for the last two or three years owing to the tenor being cracked, and a hope was expressed that something might soon be done to put these bells in ringing order.

THE PRESENTATION TO THE DEAN.

Mr. Newman reminded the meeting that the Very Rev. Moore Ede had now completed 25 years as president of the association. During that time they had seen two very important furnishings to the Cathedral; one the erection of the memorial window to ringers (Continued at foot of next page.)

OPENING OF DAVIES MEMORIAL.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—For the benefit of your readers who so readily sent donations to the Davies Memorial Fund may I extend, from Mrs. Davies, Rev. E. Gough and the Davies special committee an invitation to the dedication service which is to be held on Saturday afternoon, May 19th.

Full details will be announced in the notice column of 'The Ringing World' shortly, but may I ask that all those intending to be present to advise me at the earliest, and in any case not later than May 12th? Twelve associations will be represented in the dedication ringing, if possible, and the ringing immediately after the service will be carried out by 12 officials of the Gloucester and Bristol Association.

After tea the 12 bells will be available for short touches and even 'rounds' and 'queens,' but it can only be arranged if ringers attending will lend their co-operation by applying for a pull. May I, in conclusion, on behalf of my committee, thank all those who have contributed to the success of the memorial? The total cost is £322, and of this £308 has been contributed.

EDGAR GUISE.

FROM BELFREY TO CHURCH.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—No doubt we shall read in 'The Ringing World' of great things done during Eastertide, but can this be beaten? At the Parish Church, Swainswick, Bath, after ringing from 6 a.m. till 7 a.m., the ringers from amongst their company provided for the seven o'clock service an organist, organ blower, two sidesmen and sexton, and were then asked by the Rector for two of the members to go to the vestry and count the collection. The sexton was the only one acting in his official capacity.

WALTER STARR,

Towermaster.

BARROW-IN-FURNESS.—At St. James', for Easter evening service, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples: Miss Mollie Redpath (of Crayford, Kent) (first quarter-peal) 1, F. Limb 2, J. E. Buries 3, J. Williams 4, S. Hyder 5, W. Pickthall (Bury) 6, C. J. A. Cushing (conductor) 7, A. Steadman 8.

WORCESTERSHIRE ASSOCIATION.

who had been killed in the Great War. This memorial was unique in that it also recorded the names of members who had served in the war and had safely returned. The other was the restoration of the Cathedral bells. He (the speaker) felt that he could not adequately express the feeling of esteem and respect which the members of the association had for their president. He always gave them a great welcome on Easter Monday, and did all he could to make the annual meeting a success (applause).

Mr. Newman then presented to the Dean a replica of a bell as it is hung for ringing, and which was suitably inscribed, as a small token of esteem in which he was held and for his many kindnesses in the past.

Mr. Newman was ably supported by Alderman J. S. Pritchett, who said he had known the Dean for many years, and he specially remembered the occasion when the Dean took his first degree in 1871. The Alderman said he thought the saying, 'La cara e buona imagine paterna' ('The dear and good paternal image') applied to their president very nicely. He always took a kind and fatherly interest in them. They were, therefore, thankful to have had him as their president, and he (the speaker) hoped they would have him for many more years to come (applause).

The Dean, in reply, thanked the members for their kind thought. He said he had always been glad to do what he could to help forward the work of the association. Twenty-five years to him meant 25 Easter Mondays and the joy he got in attending the ringers' meeting on that day. He always felt that the association was doing a great work for the church in raising the tone of service of the bell-ringer, and helping forward the reform in the belfry which, some years ago, was badly needed. The Dean paid a high tribute to the work of the secretary. He (the Dean) said that Mr. Newman had been a very great help to him since he had been president (applause).

The meeting over, the ringers attended evensong in the Cathedral, and the address was this year given by the Dean.

The tea, to which a goodly number sat down, was partaken of at the Co-operative Stores, after which more ringing at the City churches brought a successful meeting to a close.

THE ENCOURAGEMENT OF BEGINNERS

Among the resolutions which the Central Council is to discuss at the next meeting is one urging ringers to do all in their power to encourage their less proficient brethren. It is a subject upon which there can hardly be two opinions. Unless the less proficient ringers are encouraged, the art of ringing will ultimately become extinct, or, at any rate, the standard of its practice will sadly deteriorate. To maintain efficiency the constantly recurring gaps in the ranks must be filled and the beginners encouraged to improve by every possible means. The difficulties seem to arise in devising and applying the means, and we hope the discussion in the Council will reveal the best way, not only of giving effect to the motion itself, but of enabling ringers to give the encouragement so greatly needed.

Where there is a genuine intention of building up a band beginners get every encouragement, but it is also true that in cases where the ringers themselves are half-hearted—and there are plenty of these about—a good many recruits are lost to the Exercise. To maintain the interest of the beginner there must always be the incentive of progress, and, while it is a mistake to let the learner run before he can walk—to let him ring changes before he can ring rounds properly—he certainly needs the encouragement and opportunity to practise and advance. The discussion will do good if it will show not only the best methods of encouraging the beginner, but how ringers of the half-hearted type are to be induced to offer this encouragement.

When we referred last week to the three motions which have been placed on the Council's agenda we spoke of them as all relating to peal ringing, but we are informed by the proposer of this motion urging the encouragement of beginners that this is not correct. We are rather at a loss to understand why his proposal has nothing to do with peal ringing, when it begins by expressing concern at the comparatively small number of ringers ringing their first peal. On the face of it the motion appears to ask for the encouragement of beginners in peal ringing, but we are prepared to take the word of the proposer that this is not what is intended. Peal ringing, however, may be one form of encouragement, although not every beginner has ambitions in this direction, and even proffered help is rejected. That, at any rate, has been the recent experience of one district secretary. But whether the motion relates to peal ringing or not, the Central Council is likely, we imagine, to pass the motion without an opposition. It will be worthless, however, unless the discussion produces some practical suggestions. A mere pious expression of opinion will get us nowhere. What keen ringers will want to know is whether there are any ways still unexplored by which beginners may be encouraged; what keen beginners will be glad to learn is the means by which the half-hearted exponents of the art can be encouraged to help them on to higher things. If this is forthcoming, the debate will be of service, but its value will depend upon how far it can have a practical application.

STRETTFORD RINGER'S DIAMOND WEDDING.

CELEBRATED BY THREE PEALS IN A DAY.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Moss, of Stretford, Manchester, celebrated their diamond wedding on Palm Sunday, having been married at Manchester Cathedral in 1874. Mr. Moss, who is 83, is still remarkably active. He was a member of the Loyal Brookes Lodge of the Manchester Unity of Oddfellows, and has held every office in the branch, including that of secretary, an appointment which he held for 50 years. He was also a ringer at Stretford Parish Church for over half a century, and has now left the captaincy of the band to his son, Mr. Wilfred J. Moss.

To celebrate the diamond wedding a band met at Flixton on Easter Monday morning and, on the old Rudhall ring, completed a peal of Cambridge Major, commencing at 10.30. Then after lunch at the Church Inn, where Mr. D. Vincent was host, they went on to Stretford. Here Mr. W. J. Moss joined in (he was himself celebrating his 30th wedding anniversary), and David, who had slain the giant, was allowed to rest. Here again success was met with in a peal which commenced at 2.25. The spare man had tea ordered when ringing ceased, and, this disposed of, the ringers journeyed on to Eccles, but the 'Tyke' could not be persuaded to stand in as his last train left at 9 p.m., and offers of digs would not tempt him. (It was rumoured 'Kate' was at Low Moor.) However, Mr. W. J. Moss kindly took the vacant rope, and a splendid peal was rung, commencing at 6.45—the third in one day!

ANOTHER DIAMOND WEDDING.

On Monday, April 9th, at the Church of St. James-the-Great, Shirley, Warwickshire, a quarter-peal of Doubles (1,260 changes, being 120 Stedman and 1,140 Grandsire, with nine different callings) was rung to commemorate the diamond wedding of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Perry, who were headmaster and headmistress of the village school for 44 years. Mr. Perry was also choirmaster and organist for nearly 40 years. The ringers were: Edgar C. Shepherd (conductor) 1, Kathleen Morris 2, John Jukes 3, Paul Newell 4, Arthur Morris 5, Charles Harrison 6.

RINGERS' WEDDING AT HIGH WYCOMBE.

BOREHAM—KENDALL.

The ever-growing total of happy marriages at High Wycombe has now added another ringers' wedding to its long list. This time, however, it was a pair of ringers, when Frank Donald Boreham and Norah Mary Winifred Kendall were united for better and better. Dressed in white satin, and carrying a bouquet of white carnations, arum lilies, and heather, the bride was so punctual that she was nearly early, and some of those who expected the usual late arrival missed the opening words of the ceremony, which was conducted by the Vicar, Rev. W. L. P. Float, assisted by Rev. G. E. Wigg, Deputy Master of the Oxford Diocesan Guild, of which the bridegroom is an active member. His 'best man' was Mr. A. D. Barker, who is not exactly unknown in these parts. The bridesmaids were Miss Joan Boreham (sister) dressed in yellow crepe-de-chine, and the Misses Joan and Hazel Neale (cousins of the bride), dressed in green taffeta. All three carried bouquets of daffodils.

Ringers from various parts were present in church, amongst whom were noticed Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Deal, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Hawkins, Mr. T. J. Fowler (Branch Ringing Master), Mrs. A. D. Barker and Mr. W. E. Redrup.

A peal of Stedman Cinques was rung to commemorate the occasion, and has already been recorded in these columns.

After the ceremony the photographer had to have his time allowance, and then a large party of friends and relations adjourned to a nearby hall for refreshments. The bride and bridegroom's health was 'eaten with cake,' and no speeches (by the bride's orders).

When the tables were cleared an excellent course of Grandsire Triples was rung on handbells, followed by one of Stedman. Then a few tunes, followed by dancing. Piano, gramophone and wireless all served their turn, until the happy couple departed, everyone wishing them 'the best of luck.'

WEDDING AT CHRISTCHURCH.

At Christchurch Priory Church, on Saturday, the wedding took place of Mr. K. Derham (a member of the local company of ringers) and Miss E. M. Andrews (niece of the District Ringing Master).

The bride, who wore a blue costume, was given away by her uncle (Mr. George Preston) who, after the ceremony, conducted the quarter-peal. The best man was Mr. G. Spragg, a fellow-ringer. About 100 guests, including the ringers, were entertained by the bride and bridegroom at their new residence, the Avon Beach Cafe, at Mundford. The numerous presents were much admired, and the happy couple were 'toasted' in various beverages.

The honeymoon is being spent at Teignmouth, Devon. Before the wedding 395 Grandsire Caters was rung: F. Stonestreet 1, Miss C. Sparshott 2, Miss M. Hodges 3, E. V. Hinton 4, R. O. Street (conductor) 5, S. White 6, F. E. Pitman 7, F. Sparshott 8, W. Fowler 9, J. Wakom 10. After the ceremony 1,320 Grandsire Cinques was rung: *F. Stonestreet 1, R. O. Street 2, *Miss M. Hodges 3, E. V. Hinton 4, *A. V. Davis 5, S. White 6, F. E. Pitman 7, *A. F. M. Stewart 8, *E. T. Griffin 9, F. Sparshott 10, G. Preston (conductor) 11, W. Fowler 12. * First quarter-peal.

SHROPSHIRE ASSOCIATION.*PROPOSED GIFT TO THE LATE HON. SECRETARY.

The bi-monthly meeting of the Shropshire Association was held on April 14th at Wem. Before the meeting the bells of the Parish Church, which were recently renovated and rehung, were rung to various touches. The Rector, the Rev. P. R. Turner, conducted a short service, and 37 members of the association subsequently took tea in the Church Hall. Mr. Turner was thanked for his interest and help, and for the tea which he kindly provided. Thanks were also extended to the ladies who had served tea, to the organist, Mr. Norman Chamberlain, and to the choir.

At the business meeting which followed, Mr. E. Barnett presided, and said that he was pleased to be able to inform the company that the whole of the money for the restoration of the bells had been raised.

It was decided to send a cheque to the late hon. secretary, the Rev. F. Tennison, in recognition of his valuable services, the association to augment the amount subscribed to bring it up to £20.

Recent meetings of the associations have been well attended, and in order to further encourage beginners the society decided to pay half tea expenses when necessary.

Mr. S. Roper, of Messrs. Gillett and Johnston, was present, and took part in the ringing, which embraced standard eight-bell methods, with Minor and Doubles, and rounds for the learners.

The next meeting is to be held at Pontesbury.

WORCESTERSHIRE RINGER'S TRAGIC DEATH.

We regret to announce the death, under tragic circumstances, of Mr. Ernest Gibbs, of Hanley Castle, Worcestershire, on March 29th, at the age of 57 years, through injuries sustained from a fall from a tree the previous day.

Deceased was a well-known member of the Worcestershire Association, and it was mainly through his influence that the bells of St. Mary's, Hanley Castle, were restored and rehung in 1925. His peals, which numbered well over 100, were rung chiefly on six and eight bells.

The funeral took place on Tuesday, April 3rd, at St. Gabriel's, Hanley Castle, and was attended by a large number of mourners. The Worcestershire Association was represented by Messrs. J. R. Newman (general hon. secretary), C. Camm (Branch Master), T. Hawkes (branch secretary), R. G. Knowles, W. Ranford, E. E. Barber, S. T. Holt, J. Rowlett, F. Lawrence, H. Bishop and E. Maund. A course of Grandsire Triples was rung over the grave by F. Hawkes, S. T. Holt, R. G. Knowles and C. Camm, and later a half-muffled peal was rung on the tower bells.

MOULTON'S NEW BELLS.*TO BE DEDICATED TO MISSIONS PIONEER.

A year ago Dr. S. Madge, F.S.A., of London, promised Moulton Church a treble bell if the Vicar (Rev. J. M. Turner) would also give one. The Vicar promptly accepted the offer, ordered the bells to be made, drew the cost of one from Dr. Madge, started a subscription list, and after less than twelve months' effort has obtained all the money for the other bell. The bells are now to be seen near the belfry waiting to be hung. They are both dedicated to Dr. Wm. Carey, the pioneer of modern English missions, who thought out his schemes while working as a cobbler in Moulton.

As Wm. Carey died June 9th, 1834, they will be dedicated on that date at 3 p.m., which falls this year on Saturday. It is to be hoped that all the district ringers will rally at Moulton on that date and have a pull on the eight. The two new bells are by Taylor and Co., of Loughborough.

CLEVELAND AND NORTH YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION.*HOLIDAY MEETING AT MIDDLEHAM.

A very happy meeting was held at Middleham on Easter Monday. Middleham is noted for more things than bellringing. The Richard the Third memorial window, which is being inserted in the church, is to be unveiled to-day. The people of the district claim that Richard III. lived in Middleham, and was the founder of the present church. Another point of interest is that the Middleham people claim that their beautiful castle was demolished by Guy Fawkes.

Ringers attended the meeting from Middlesbrough, Darlington (St. John's), Holy Trinity, Ladcaster, Leeds, Thirsk, Ormsby, Croydon, and the local company.

Dinner was provided at the Commercial Hotel, and was presided over by the president, Mr. J. Stott (Thirsk), supported by Mr. J. C. Pollard and the secretary (Mr. T. Metcalfe).

This meeting is regarded as a holiday outing, and therefore no business is transacted. The president, however, offered a most hearty welcome to Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Johnston, of Croydon, and Mr. and Mrs. Percy Johnson, of Leeds, for their attendance.

Mr. Johnston and Mr. P. J. Johnson acknowledged the welcome. Mr. J. C. Pollard proposed that the best thanks of the association be accorded to the Rector and churchwardens for the use of the bells, and hoped that Mr. H. Parrish (captain of the local ringers) would convey that appreciation to the headquarters.

The bells are a very nice peal of eight (tenor 17 cwt.) by Taylor and Co., installed about 1906. The meeting was most successful and enjoyable. The methods rung included Superlative Surprise, Double Norwich, Kent Treble Bob and Bob Major, Stedman and Grandsire Triples.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

The suggestion that Big Ben should be recast has again been revived in the Press. Even supposing there was a genuine public desire for a new bell to replace the one whose sound is now familiar to listeners throughout the world, there are expensive difficulties in the way. Big Ben could not be lowered, or a new bell hoisted into position, unless an aperture were cut in the side of the tower or part of the roof removed—an undertaking which would probably cost thousands of pounds.

Mr. Alfred H. Pulling has been presented with a clock by the old boys of Guildford Royal Grammar School, where he has been caretaker for more than 25 years. The clock bore the inscription, 'Presented to A. H. Pulling by the Old Guildfordians' Association as an expression of appreciation, 1908-1934. Time flies.'

Three generations of each of two families, together with two generations of another, rang a peal at Grundisburgh, Suffolk, last Sunday—three Tilletts, three Clarkes and two Symonds. The senior member of the band—Mr. Charles Clarke—is 81.

A peal of 'Real Double Norwich Court Bob Major,' at Moorside, Oldham, recorded this week, prompts one to ask if this is really the correct way to describe what was rung. The calling of bobs when the treble is behind does not alter the method.

The meeting of the Surrey Association, which was to have been held at Kingswood to-morrow, is transferred to Reigate, owing to illness at the former place.

The Rev. S. C. Stevens, who has proved himself to be a 'ringers' parson,' has recently been inducted to the living of the Parish Church of Leek, Staffs, and the ringers have welcomed him to his new benefice with a peal of Oxford Treble Bob Royal.

The peal rung at Rock Ferry on Thursday week was an achievement of which the band can be proud. The footnote reveals the reason.

The East Berks and South Bucks Branch of the Oxford Diocesan Guild, noted for the 'bright young things' who enliven the meetings, is in a very flourishing condition. The balance sheet just issued shows receipts from hon. and ringing members' subscriptions of £27 2s. 6d., including a gathering in of arrears, one member having paid from 1923 onward. There's an example to 'defaulters'! Two hundred and forty-two ringing members paid for 1933, and the balance in hand has increased by £4 11s. 11d.

Mr. Harry Chapman is churchwarden for the third year in succession at Keynton, Hunts. Mr. A. J. Ginn, Mr. F. Warrington and Mr. G. Whybrow are on the Church Council at Over. Mr. F. Warrington has just finished a term of office with the Over Parish Council.

Beverley Minster bells were broadcast on Sunday evening from the Northern Regional station. While they were ringing the Bourdon bell, 'Great John,' was rung, and its deep note, harmonising with the other bells, added to the impressiveness of the sound.

The ringer of the seventh in the peal at St. Botolph's, Bishopsgate, on March 26th, was Ernest Brett, and not Joseph Marks, as reported.

TWO PEALS IN A DAY.

MR. JAMES GEORGE HOLDS THE RECORD.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—Referring to your remarks in Belfry Gossip as to the oldest ringer to ring two peals in a day, I must heartily congratulate my young friend, Mr. Nevard, in ringing two peals in one day on April 2nd, 1934, on the 3rd and 4th bells. Mr. Nevard was 78 on February 8th, 1934.

I succeeded in ringing two peals in a day twice last year after I was 79. On August 10th, 1933, I rang the 21 cwt. tenor at Cleator Moor to Double Norwich Major in 3 hours 16½ mins., and the treble at Egremont to Cambridge Surprise Major in 3 hours 4 mins.

On September 9th I rang the 14½ cwt. tenor at Port Sunlight to Double Norwich Major in 3 hours, and the 12½ cwt. tenor at Frodsham to Cambridge Surprise Major in 3 hours and 2 mins. When these peals were rung I was close on 80. I did not think so much of these performances, as I still hope to ring four peals in one day.

JAMES GEORGE.

DEATH OF MRS. J. THOMAS.

The many ringers in all parts of the country who know Mr. John Thomas, one of Messrs. Mears and Stainbank's bell hangers, will deeply sympathise with him in the death of his wife. Mrs. Thomas, who had been ill for some time, passed away at her home at Suffolk Road, Ponders End, on Sunday.

Mrs. Thomas was herself a ringer, and a member of the Ladies' Guild and other ringing organisations. She had rung several peals, and although of recent years she had been unable to do a great amount of ringing, her interest in ringing matters never lessened, and she rang at Edmonton on Sundays when possible.

The funeral took place yesterday (Thursday) at Enfield Highway.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

900 MEMBERS AND £900.

The 54th annual general meeting of the Kent County Association was held at Maidstone on Easter Monday, when nearly 200 members attended.

The committee met prior to the service, and among other business £5 was voted from the Belfry Repair Fund to the Stone-in-Oxney restoration as a memorial to the late Mr. Chas. Player, £5 to Eger-ton, and £3 to Stouting, where it is proposed to add two trebles to make a peal of six.

The association service was held in the Church of All Saints at noon, conducted by Canon Sopwith, and an excellent address given by the Rev. C. W. Martyn (Vicar of St. Peter's, Maidstone). Canon G. C. E. Ryley officiated at the organ. A collection for the benevolent fund of the association realised £2 1s.

The annual dinner and meeting were held at the Corn Exchange. Mr. E. H. Lewis (president of the Central Council and vice-president of the K.C.A.) presided, and was supported by Canon Sopwith, Canon Ryley, Rev. C. W. Martyn, Mr. G. W. Fletcher (hon. secretary of the Central Council), Mrs. Fletcher, and the officers of the association.

After dinner had been disposed of, Mr. F. White, submitting the toast of 'The Archbishop of Canterbury and the Clergy of the County,' said the association always had the greatest assistance from the clergy. He coupled with the toast the names of Canon Sopwith, Canon Ryley and the Rev. C. W. Martyn.

LEEDS CHURCH, KENT,
where James Barham is buried.

Canon Sopwith, in reply, said he had met with nothing but kindness, consideration and good fellowship from the bellringers of the county.

The Rev. C. W. Martyn congratulated the association on the success of the meeting.

Canon Ryley said that as a member of the committee for many years, he had come into contact with many bellringers, and knew their worth. Kent had some wonderful bells.

NEARLY 900 RINGING MEMBERS.

Presenting the report, the Hon. Secretary, Mr. F. M. Mitchell, said that in 1933 there were 56 fewer practising members than during the previous year. They hoped all members would do their best to increase the membership. The reason for nearly a five per cent. drop was probably that they had not encouraged their young beginners. They asked the clergy of the county to induce new members to take up ringing, and as an encouragement to young members the subscription for members under 16 would be reduced to 1s. a year.

There were 110 towers in the association, and 899 practising members. They had lost ten members by death, and he specially mentioned the late H. G. Fairbrass, of Canterbury, one of the foundation members, and Chas. Player, of Stone-in-Oxney. £34 17s. had been subscribed to the memorial to the late Mr. Edwin Barnett, of Crayford, and it was shortly hoped to determine the form the memorial would take.

The association had come out on top in the peal analysis with 153 peals, an increase of seven on the previous year. Twenty-six ringers had rung their first peal, 140 their first in the method, three conducted their first peal, and 10 rung their first as conductor in the method.

FLOURISHING FINANCES.

The balance sheet showed the association to be in a flourishing condition. The balance on the general account showed an increase, and now stood at £41 2s. 1d. From the belfry Repair Fund £15 5s. had been paid to tower restoration work, and the balance in the fund was now £127 14s. 9d. £13 5s. had been paid from the Benevolent Fund to aged and deserving members. By collections at meetings this fund had been augmented, and showed an increased balance of £19 4s. to £214 19s. 11d.

With invested funds and the balances of the various accounts the total funds of the association now stood at £931 0s. 5d.

In moving the adoption of the report and balance sheets, Mr. Lewis said they showed tribute to the work of their hon. secretary. He also gave welcome to one of the foundation members present (Mr. Philip Hodgkin, of Headcorn).

Mr. Steddy (Edenbridge), seconding, said it gave him pleasure to see so many young ringers present on that occasion.

The report and balance sheets were unanimously adopted.

Mr. F. Brett (Canterbury) proposed that Rule 4 be altered to allow young ringers joining the association to do so at a reduced subscription, viz., 1s. per year, until attaining the age of 16.—This was seconded by Mr. E. Barnett (Crayford) and carried unanimously.

The whole of the officers were unanimously re-elected, with thanks for their work during the past year.

Mr. S. Shellock (Chatham) made an appeal on behalf of a scheme for the restoration of the bells and tower at Newington, at a cost of £1,000.

A similar appeal was made on behalf of the parish of Stone-in-Oxney, a Romney Marsh parish, where it is proposed to rehang the bells in memory of the late Mr. C. W. Player, for many years a well-known ringer in the county. A collection was made in the room and realised £3 18s. 3½d.

AT BARHAM'S GRAVE.

The towers thrown open to the members of the association by the kindness of the clergy concerned were All Saints', Maidstone; St. Nicholas', Leeds; St. Peter's, Aylesford; St. Nicholas', Linton; St. Mary's, West Malling; St. Margaret's, Barming; Holy Cross, Bearsted; and East Farleigh.

After the business meeting some of the company went to Leeds to ring on the peal of ten bells.

Mr. E. H. Lewis had brought a peal of handbells, and before the party ascended the tower a touch of Bob Major, 240 changes, was rung over the grave of Mr. James Barham, who from 1744 to 1804 took part in ringing some 112 peals in Kent.

He is reported to have rung 17 hours during the celebrated peal of Bob Major at Leeds in 1761.

The ringers were Mr. E. H. Lewis 1-2, Mr. G. W. Fletcher 3-4, Mrs. Fletcher (conductor) 5-6, Mr. T. Groombridge, sen., 7-8.

ELY DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

NEW BISHOP ASKED TO BE PRESIDENT.

The annual meeting of the Ely Diocesan Association was held at St. Neots on Easter Monday, when about 60 ringers (including several ladies) attended from towers in the diocese, and visitors from considerable distances. The clergy present were the general secretary, the Rev. B. H. T. Drake (Rector of Walsoken), Rev. E. B. James (Fareham) and the Rev. R. Copeman (Cambridge).

A ringers' service was taken by the Rev. H. T. H. Doggett (St. Neots), who gave an appropriate address, in the course of which he asked ringers to remember that their work was not a substitute for worship, but that each had something to contribute to the services in church. He commended ringers and their work to God, and hoped He would pour upon them the riches of His grace.

An Easter hymn was sung, the organ being played by a ringer—Mr. H. J. Hazell, A.L.C.M., of Cambridge.

Tea was provided at Mr. W. S. Shepherd's tea rooms, and after this the business meeting was presided over by Rev. R. Copeman.

The balance sheet, showing £23 in hand, and the report, were passed.

The new Bishop of Ely is to be asked to be president in the place of his predecessor.

The officers and committee were re-elected. Cambridge was agreed upon for next year's annual meeting.

It was agreed to grant from the funds two guineas each to the parishes of Somersham and Littleport towards bell restoration.

A vote of thanks was accorded to the incumbents of St. Neots, Eynesbury and Eaton Socon for permission to ring the bells.

During the afternoon and evening various methods were rung at St. Neots and Eaton Socon, and also 'rounds' for the beginners, the ringers expressing great satisfaction with the bells.

BRIDGWATER RINGER'S GOLDEN WEDDING.

Mr. and Mrs. Elsworthy, of Kendale Road, Bridgwater, have just celebrated their golden wedding. They were married on April 7th, 1884, at St. Peter's Church, Tiverton, Devon, where Mr. Elsworthy was a ringer over 38 years. He is now a ringer at St. Mary's, Bridgwater. The ringers offered congratulations by ringing a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples, the band being: C. Evans 1, W. Evans 2, S. Russ 3, E. Chapman 4, F. Greedy 5, C. May 6, J. Elsworthy (conductor) 7, W. Parker 8.

Afterwards, Mr. Elsworthy entertained the ringers at the Mansion House, the ringers wishing Mr. and Mrs. Elsworthy continued health and happiness.

NEW RING OF TEN AT RANMOOR.

MEMORIAL TO THE LATE SAM THOMAS.

Within the memory of many still living, "Randmoor," as it used to be called—"the edge of the moor," as its name signifies—was a picturesque piece of country on the outskirts of the growing town of Sheffield. A racecourse along what is now Fulwood Road attracted the grinders and cutlers of Sheffield; and the grandstand, of which 'Stand House' marks the site, was filled with the local patrons of sport, while through the woods and along the banks of Porter Brook and Oak Brook the children loved to wander in spring and summer.

With the growing prosperity of the cutlery town, many mansions sprang up in the district, and it was John Newton Mappin, of Birchlands, who conceived the idea of building in their midst the Church of St. John-the-Evangelist. The noble church, with its lofty tower and steeple, was completed in 1879 by his munificence, and a peal of eight bells was presented by William Smith, of Hallam Head.

RANMOOR CHURCH, WITH ITS GRACEFUL SPIRE.

Eight years afterwards, in 1887, the year of Queen Victoria's Jubilee, the church was burnt down, the walls and the tower alone remaining, and in 1888, twenty months following the disaster, a still more glorious building was reopened for public worship.

The spire rises to a height of 200ft., and is the highest in Sheffield, and in the tower was housed a ring of eight, with a 15cwt. tenor, that had been in urgent need for many years of rehanging and improvement in tone.

On Saturday, March 31st, the old bells, restored and augmented to ten, were rededicated by the Lord Bishop of Sheffield in the presence of a crowded congregation and 100 ringers of the district.

Ranmoor will always be associated with the late Mr. Sam Thomas, one of the early founders of the Sheffield District Association of Change Ringers and leader of the belfry for many years.

Sam Thomas was born in 1870 at Wath-on-Dearne and came of an old ringing family. He first learnt to ring at the age of nine, joined the Parish Church (now the Cathedral) company in 1889, rang his first peal with them, and was associated with the Ranmoor band from 1895 until his death on June 24th, 1924.

Among his many achievements was the first peal of Original Major, which he composed and conducted, and he was known not only in Sheffield but throughout the country for his ability in teaching young learners as much as for his own excellence as a ringer and conductor of outstanding ability.

A fitting tribute has now been paid to his memory in the presentation of the two trebles to create a ring of ten by the Sheffield and District Society.

At the dedication service the Bishop was assisted by the Very Rev. the Provost of Sheffield (Dr. A. C. E. Jones), the Rev. Canon Bracewell (Rural Dean), the Rev. Canon L. T. G. Smith, and the Rev. H. C. Foster (Vicar of Ranmoor).

An impressive part of the ceremony was when the Bishop, accompanied by the Vicar and churchwardens, Lieut.-Col. R. O. Wever and other members of the Bells Committee, went to the bell tower, where Mr. Cyril Johnston, representing the bell founders, handed over the bell ropes.

An innovation was introduced by the erection in the church of loud speakers which were connected to a microphone in the ringing chamber in order that the vast congregation could hear the ceremony of the actual dedication and the handing over of the bells.

The opening rounds were rung by the local company and special visitors, whilst Messrs. C. Haynes (president), S. F. Palmer (treasurer) and M. E. Wilson (secretary) of the Sheffield and District Society were present in the ringing chamber at the special request of the Vicar.

In the course of an inspiring address his Lordship asked the question, 'Is the ringing of church bells for victory right?'

'I still think,' he said, 'that the ringing of church bells for victory is right. If you have entered into such a terrible thing as war with a good conscience and with a desire to do the right, and if God gives you the victory, I think it is right to ring the bells.'

Dr. Burrows said that it was quite clear from history that the sound of the bells was their original value.

He thought that sometimes in England we had lost a good deal in dropping some of our age-old customs which reminded us of the past and served as a link with it.

There were still great occasions when the bells were sounded. He said marriage bells were one of the best and truest uses of the bells of the church, because they showed to the whole parishioner that marriage was a solemn and sacred thing when performed in the church.

The Bishop also spoke of the moving effect of the muffled peals of bells sometimes still used at funerals. The most common use of the bells was to call people to worship.

The Bishop described the development of bells as the Church had grown, and how science and music had come in through change ringing and the tuning of bells. He paid tribute to the late Mr. Sam Thomas, who devoted much of his time to the perfecting of change ringing, which he introduced in the district.

Immediately after the service, and as the vast congregation was leaving the church, the bells burst forth into their first changes, a well struck touch of Stedman Caters being rung by a specially picked band of ringers, all of whom had been closely associated with the late Mr. Thomas.

A large number of people remained outside to listen to the bells, and all were loud in their praises of the magnificent tone of the new peal.

Tea was served in the Parish Room, at which all the clergy present at the dedication, the churchwardens, Mr. and Mrs. C. Johnston, of Croydon, and some one hundred ringers and friends sat down.

The Bishop again addressed the gathering, and, in addition to what he had already said from the pulpit, added a few words specially to the ringers for the part they had taken in that day's proceedings, and thanked them for their help and kindly interest, for, he said, he never lost sight of the valuable work being done by the ringers in his diocese in the service of the Church.

Mr. S. F. Palmer, on behalf of the Sheffield and District Society, gave a short resumé of the work done in connection with the addition of the two new trebles by the society, the members of which had made themselves responsible for the cost, in their desire to erect some tangible memorial to the memory of their late president. He specially thanked the Rev. H. C. Foster, Vicar of Ranmoor, for his great interest and warm-hearted co-operation, without which their desire could never have been accomplished. In congratulating Mr. Johnston on the fine quality of the peal and the excellence of his firm's work, Mr. Palmer jocularly referred to a previous announcement in the local press of the 'World's best bells for Sheffield Church.' He had sent that bill head to Mr. Johnston, with an addendum of his own, 'Mind they are,' and he hoped that time would prove that they were 'some of the best.'

After tea short touches were rung on the bells in various methods until 9 p.m., in order that every ringer present should have an opportunity of testing the new peal.

The towers represented included Sheffield Cathedral, St. Marie's R.C., Handsworth, Norton, Chesterfield, Bolsover, Rawmarsh, Rotherham, Eastwood, Ecclesfield, Staveley, Bolsterstone, South Anston, Brighton, Workson and the local company. The visitors included Mr. F. J. Smallwood (Bolton), Mr. W. Dransfield (Almondbury), and Mr. Thomas, brother of the late Mr. Sam Thomas.

THE BELLS.

The inscription on each of the two new trebles runs: 'This bell was added to the original peal of eight bells by the Sheffield and District (Continued in next column.)'

CHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD.*PROPOSED MEMORIAL TO THE LATE REV. A. T. BEESTON.

A meeting of the Bowdon, Stockport and Mottram Branch was held at Mossley on Saturday, April 7th, by kind permission of the Rector. Owing to the inclemency of the weather, and the somewhat difficult geographical position of Mossley for many members, the attendance was rather smaller than usual, but those members who did attend had a thoroughly enjoyable meeting.

The service was conducted by the curate (the Rev. Harold Dawson), who, with the text 'The morning stars sang together,' spoke on co-operation with regard to work in the belfry and the church as a whole. After the service, tea was partaken of by twenty members and friends, and this was followed by the business meeting, under the chairmanship of the curate, at which three new members were elected.

The Chairman of the branch reported on the recommendations of the committee which had been formed to formulate a scheme for the erection of a memorial to the memory of the late Rev. A. T. Beeston, and the meeting gave the committee authority to proceed.

After a discussion on the broadcasting of ringing, the meeting expressed its appreciation of the B.B.C.'s efforts in this direction, and hoped that they could be extended. The secretary was instructed to write to the B.B.C. to this effect.

The meeting concluded with a return to the belfry, where the bells were kept going until 9 p.m. to the following methods: Kent Treble Bob, Oxford Treble Bob, Plain Bob, Double Norwich Court Bob, Kingston, Sandal and London Scholars' Pleasure.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD*EAST BERKS AND SOUTH BUCKS ACTIVITIES.

The East Berks and South Bucks meetings being one long line of successful gatherings it is really only necessary to point out the exceptional ones. The last one held at Chalfont St. Peter was a real 'eye-opener,' over 40 ringers from various parts being present.

The Vicar and two churchwardens were admitted as hon. members, also the entire band from Clewer as ringing members.

This pleased the secretary, who has now got his 30 towers for the report, although unofficially there are two more.

A pleasant service, an excellent tea, and some handbell ringing will long remain in the memory of all those present.

Other features of the occasion were a 120 of Grandsire Doubles by six ladies and a touch of mixed Cambridge and London by a mixed band. Numerous other methods were rung from rounds to Surprise.

Another noticeable point was that about 70 per cent. of the ringers were young people.

A record attendance at the annual meeting is anticipated, and we would emphasise the importance of notifying the secretary early in order that adequate supplies are available for tea. The meeting is to be held at Boyne Hill on April 28th.

WINCHESTER AND PORTSMOUTH DIOCESAN GUILD.

A quarterly meeting of the Southampton District was held at Lockerley on Saturday, when about 40 members attended from Bishopstoke, Dibden, Lockerley, King's Somborne, Mottisfont, North Stoneham, Farnborough, Southampton and Winchester. Service was held in the Parish Church at 4 p.m., a very pleasing feature being the number of parishioners who attended.

At the business meeting which followed the tea, the band at Mottisfont joined the Guild.

Mr. G. Williams (Ringing Master) congratulated the Lockerley band on the good progress that they had made in the art of change ringing.

It was reported that the Church Council at Broughton were appealing for funds to put their ring of five into order, and, if possible, to add a treble to make a ring of six.

During the afternoon and evening ringing took place in a variety of methods upon the bells at Lockerley, East Tytherley and Mottisfont. The next meeting is to be held at Dibden on July 14th.

Society of Change Ringers in memory of Sam Thomas in 1934.

The former inscriptions have been reproduced on the back eight bells, with the addition of 'Recast by Gillett and Johnston, Croydon.'

The ring of ten is in the key of F with a total weight of 73 cwt., the tenor weighing 16½ cwt.

The space in the belfry is limited, but the whole peal has been hung skilfully on one level in a massive cast-iron frame on steel girders.

The fittings are of the latest type, and the tenor and trebles have been fitted with the firm's patent clapper control.

A special sound-deadening floor has been inserted between the belfry and the ringing room, which is just below, and the fine spire has been opened up.

The result of these improvements is well justified by the improvement of the conditions in the ringing room and the general musical effect outside the tower.

Messrs. Gillett and Johnston were congratulated on all sides for the production of a fine peal with trebles of outstanding quality and a ring that can be handled with the greatest of ease.

RINGING CONTEST AT HALIFAX.*LIVERSEDGE BAND'S GOOD RINGING.

A six-bell contest was held at Halifax Parish Church by the Halifax and District Association on April 7th. There were six competing bands, each of which had to ring 600 changes in any method. The judges were Mr. J. Broadley (Bradford) and Mr. Squires (Halifax), with Mr. Salmons (Halifax) as marker. The awards were as follows, the teams being given in the order of ringing:—

Holmfirth.—Penalty 10, faults 124, total 134.

Liversedge No. 1.—Penalty 20, faults 74, total 94.

Shelley No. 2.—Penalty 30, faults 292, total 322.

Shelley No. 1.—Rung out.

Meltham.—Faults 149, total 149.

Liversedge No. 2.—Penalty 20, faults 196, total 216.

Liversedge No. 1 were, therefore, winners of the cup. Their ringing was extremely good.

The first five bands rang Oxford Treble Bob Minor, and the other Kent Treble Bob Minor.

Comments were made on the state of the Halifax bells and surprise expressed that the clock had been stopped for several months owing to lack of funds.

After the ringing, a meeting was held in the vestry, presided over by Mr. E. Ernschaw (Meltham).

The meeting stood in silence for a few moments as a mark of respect to the late Mr. John Tinker (New Mill), a member of the association.

The President moved a vote of thanks to Bishop Frodsham and the churchwardens for the use of the bells and for making the contest such a success.—Mr. F. Townend (Kirkburton) seconded.

Bishop Frodsham, in reply, said it was a great privilege to him to be with the ringers. He said he could not understand the apathy that some people showed towards bellringing. It was an art that required selective skill and team work. Once a ringer, always a ringer. He said he knew from experience that the young men in large towns would not or could not learn ringing. It seemed rather a pity that Halifax, with twelve bells, could only muster six ringers, when places like Liversedge and Shelley had twelve ringers for eight bells.

The Halifax bells dated to 1487, and at the present time practically the same metal was in the bells. What was known as the 'Parson' bell at the Halifax Parish Church was once given in repayment of a debt to the Lacy family, but had since been returned to the tower. The Bishop thanked the ringers for their kind vote of thanks, and hoped they would soon pay another visit to Halifax.

Bishop Frodsham presented the cup to Mr. E. Betts, conductor of the winning band, and congratulated his team.—Mr. E. Betts replied.

ESSEX ASSOCIATION*SOUTH-WESTERN DIVISION.

There was a good attendance at the meeting of the South-Western Division at Loughton on Saturday, April 7th, between 50 and 60 members putting in an appearance during the afternoon and evening from Leytonstone, Loughton, Woodford, Dagenham, Newmarket, Fulborne, Bentley, Harlow Common, Camberwell, Barking, Wanstead, West Ham, Hornchurch, Romford, Edmonton, South Weald, Walthamstow and Enning, and touches in various methods were rung till 5 p.m., when an adjournment was made to the Church Hall for tea.

At the business meeting it was reported by the secretary that since the last meeting they had lost by death Mr. Albert Rainbird, of Bentley, and the members present stood in silence as a mark of respect.

Five new members were elected and High Ongar chosen as the place for the next meeting to be held on June 2nd.

A hearty vote of thanks was accorded the Rector for allowing use of tower and bells, to Mr. J. Rann, of the Loughton band, for having everything in readiness, to the organist and to the ladies for arranging the tea.

Afterwards the tower was again visited and the bells kept going to various methods from rounds for the beginners to Bristol Surprise for the experts.

The next meeting at High Ongar has been arranged at the express wish of the Rector, and it is hoped members will make every effort to attend.

LEWES RINGER'S WEDDING.

On Saturday, at Southover Church, Lewes, Mr. R. W. E. Dawe (a member of the local band and son of Mr. R. J. Dawe, one of the best known of Sussex ringers), was married to Miss E. M. Morris. As the bridal party left the church, Southover ringers, with Mr. F. Bennett and Mr. H. Rann, of Brighton, rang 321 Grandsire Triples and 120 Stedman Doubles. Later, a peal of Bob Royal, in honour of the event, was rung, and afterwards the band were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Dawe to a sumptuous repast at the King's Head. 'Health and happiness to the bride and bridegroom' was a toast enthusiastically honoured, and Mr. F. White, who expressed the good wishes of the band, also thanked Mr. and Mrs. Dawe for their kind hospitality.

ST. MARTIN'S GUILD, BIRMINGHAM.

The first quarterly meeting of the year of St. Martin's Guild for the Diocese of Birmingham was held on Saturday, April 7th, at the Parish Church, Shirley. Although only one mile outside the city boundary and on the main road to Stratford-on-Avon, Shirley until a year or so ago retained all the characteristics of an old-world village. But now, owing to the activities of the speculative builder, it is fast becoming a thriving suburb of the city.

The weather was pleasant with nice warm sunshine, and about 40 members were present, amongst them being an old friend, Mr. Vice-President Thomas Russam.

The bells, a pleasant ring of six, were raised at 3.30, and were kept going in various methods until 4.30, when the Guild's special form of service was conducted by the Vicar, Rev. S. P. Riley, who also gave an interesting and instructive address.

An adjournment was made to the Church House, where an excellent tea had been prepared, which was thoroughly enjoyed by all.

A short business meeting followed, the Master, Alderman J. S. Pritchett, M.A., occupying the chair. He referred to the loss Mr. J. Johnson (son of Henry Johnson) had sustained by the death of his wife, and tendered to him the sincere sympathy of every member of the Guild.

Apologies for absence were received from Vice-Presidents James George and A. Paddon Smith, also from Mr. G. A. Martineau, of Solihull.

The following new members were elected: Messrs. W. J. Beniams, Ludlow; R. W. Daniels, Edgbaston; D. T. Matkin and S. O. C. Holloway, Smethwick; V. C. Hemus and J. E. Eaton, Selly Oak.

It was decided to hold the next quarterly meeting at Sutton Coldfield on Saturday, July 7th.

A hearty vote of thanks to the Vicar for the use of the bells and his address at the service, to Mr. A. Morris (who had recently been elected people's warden) for making the local arrangements, and to Mrs. Morris and her lady helpers in serving the tea, was proposed by the chairman, seconded by the hon. secretary (Mr. T. H. Reeves) and carried unanimously.

Further ringing then took place on the tower bells, whilst others indulged in change ringing on the handbells.

NEW TREBLE BELL FOR DANBURY CHURCH.

AN ESSEX AUGMENTATION.

At the morning service, on Palm Sunday, the Lord Bishop of Chelmsford dedicated the new treble bell at Danbury, Essex, which has been provided in memory of the late Henry, 13th Baron Fitzwalter, who was patron of the living. There was a large congregation.

The bell was cast and installed by Mears and Stainbank. It weighs 4 cwt. 3 qr. 9 lb., and bears the following inscription:—

'Ego, Campana, Dominus Fitzwalter, per multos annos resonabo. Mears et Stainbank me fecerunt, MCMXXXIV.' (I, the Bell, Lord Fitzwalter, will sound through many years. Mears and Stainbank made me, 1934.)

The service was conducted by the Rector, Rev. R. E. Fanshawe, the lessons being read by Dr. C. Armstrong Gibbs.

After the dedication ceremony the Bishop tolled the bell, and at the conclusion of the service touches of Bob Minor and Oxford Treble Bob Minor were rung, those taking part being Messrs. W. J. Nevard (Bentley), H. T. Pye (Colchester), F. Chalk and H. J. Mansfield (Maldon), E. E. S. Johnson (Goldbanger), H. Bowers (Broomfield), G. Coppen (Sandon), G. A TRIUMPH OF YOUTH.

This is an age of youth, and youth has created another record in bellringing. Last Saturday a peal was rung by a band whose average age was fifteen years. The previous record for an eight-bell peal was lowered by at least an average of three years, while a new record was set up for a peal of any kind. Never before had a peal on any number of bells been rung by a band so young. It is another striking example of the fact that bellringing is a pursuit for people of all ages, for this youthful performance comes only six months after a band of veterans, whose average age was 76½, rang a peal, which showed that there is practically no limit to the age up to which a man may hope to continue peal ringing. These young people will certainly receive the congratulations of the Exercise upon their historic achievement, for not only did they ring the peal, but they rang it supremely well. That the band included ringers who have already made a name for themselves—youthful though they are—is a gratifying feature of the event, because it indicates that in these days when new ringers are hard to find, there are nevertheless some young people who promise to assume the leadership as the older ones fall by the wayside.

Up to twenty years ago the youngest recorded peal band had an aggregate age, without reckoning odd months, of 148 years. In 1926 three years was knocked off this total by a band at Beddington, who had the added merit of being a local company. By how much these excellent records have been broken readers may appreciate when it is pointed out that the youngsters at Crayford aggregated between them, including the odd months, only 120 years. A peal of Minor in 1912 by a young band, whose average age was 15, is eclipsed by this record, which will probably stand for a long time. These young people hardly need an incentive to retain their interest in the art, but their achievement should be an encouragement to other young ringers to strive to make themselves efficient and not to be afraid to tackle some of the higher things in ringing.

But if this peal was a striking achievement—a test of skill and confidence out of which these young people came triumphantly—let it also be remembered that it was not easily accomplished, for the band had to be brought together from distant places, and much of the success was due to the efforts of Mr. F. E. Dawe—one of the veterans' record band—who not only interested himself but largely made the peal possible. History is constantly being made in ringing, although much of what is done is quickly forgotten, for performances which only a genera-

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD.

SALISBURY BRANCH MEETING AT EAST KNOYLE.

A quarterly meeting of the Salisbury Branch was held at East Knoyle on Saturday, April 21st, there being a very good attendance, including visitors from the Dorchester Branch, the North Dorset Branch and the Bath and Wells Diocesan Association. Ringers present represented towers at Mere, Buckland Newton, Sherborne, Kingston Magna, Zeals, Cucklington, Berwick St. John, Britford, Winterslow, Wilton, East Knoyle, Semley, Tisbury, Broadchalke, St. Martin's, St. Thomas' and St. Paul's, Salisbury, etc.

Ringling commenced shortly after 3 p.m., at East Knoyle. The bells there, having recently been rehung and renovated by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank, of the Whitechapel Foundry, were all that could be desired.

The Guild service which followed was conducted by the Rector, the Rev. E. Cross. After tea in the Parish Room a short business meeting was held, at which the branch chairman (Mr. E. G. Caple) presided, supported by the branch hon. secretary (Mr. F. W. Romaine) and the Rector. One new member, Mr. A. Trimby (Wilton) was elected. The meeting closed with a hearty vote of thanks to the Rector for the use of the bells and conducting the service, also to the organist for her good offices. Appreciation was also expressed at the number of visitors present from neighbouring branches.—The Rector, replying, assured the Guild of a warm welcome at any time, and voiced the honour the local band felt at being favoured with a visit from the Guild, to which they were newcomers.

Later a visit was paid to St. Leonard's Church, Semley, where great advantage was taken of the exceptionally fine ring of six in that tower. The bells were kept busy throughout the evening, the various touches including Grandsire, Stedman, Bob Minor, Kent Treble Bob, Oxford, Cambridge and London.

The next meeting of the Salisbury Branch will be at Wilton in June.

SOCIETY FOR STAFFORD ARCHDEACONRY.

MEETING AT HISTORIC BREWOOD.

A quarterly meeting of the Society for the Archdeaconry of Stafford was held at Brewood on Saturday, April 14th. A lovely spring afternoon resulted in a good meeting at this historical, old-world town. It is the nearest town or village of any size to the place where King Charles hid from his pursuers in the famous oak tree at Boscombe. Nearer than that is 'Giffard's Cross,' which, tradition has it, was erected to commemorate the shooting of a leopard, about to attack a child, by a then head of the Giffard family of Chillington, who used a bow and arrow. In olden times the sports of the then important town were held quite close to the church, and the archers have left their marks on the stonework of the building where they used to sharpen their arrows.

Although off the track of the railway, the nearest station being 2½ miles away, the meeting was very well attended. Ringing commenced at three o'clock, and continued till service time.

The Vicar (Rev. L. Knights Smith) gave the members a hearty welcome, and, taking for his text the words, 'We have piped unto you and ye have not danced; we have mourned unto you and ye have not lamented,' said how glad the clergy were of the services of the ringers.—Mr. York (organist) helped to make the service bright and enjoyable.

Tea was served in the old school, and a company of 46 sat down. The Rev. C. H. Barker (clerical secretary of the society) voiced the thanks of the meeting to the Vicar, organist and the ladies who provided the tea and waited on the visitors.

A vote of sympathy was passed to Mr. H. Knight (whose absence was greatly regretted) in his bereavement by the death of his mother.

After tea, ringing again took place, for the belfry is one of the best for comfort and hearing, and the visitors had a good time. Twelve methods from Grandsire Triples to London Surprise were practised. Parting time came all too soon, everyone voting it one of the best quarterly meetings they had attended.

DURHAM AND NEWCASTLE DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

The attendance at the Eastern District meeting, at South Shields on Saturday, April 14th, was not large, but those who came—from Chester-le-Street, Newcastle, Gateshead, Sunderland, Blaydon, Wickham, etc.—had a very happy time.

The president (Mr. J. Anderson) took the chair at a short meeting after tea, and a vote of thanks was passed to the Vicar and churchwardens for the use of the bells.

It was reported that the Rector of Bishopwearmouth, the Rev. Preb. A. B. Wynne-Willson, was retiring, owing to ill-health and the secretary was instructed to convey to him the best thanks of the members for his interest and support during the 10 years he had been amongst them, and express the hope that rest and change may restore him to health again.

The next meeting is to be held at Chester-le-Street on May 26th, in conjunction with the Western District.

The two additional bells at Allendale are to be dedicated on May 5th, and it is hoped there will be a good attendance.

LINCOLN AND LADIES' GUILDS.*A JOINT MEETING.

A combined meeting of the Grimsby District of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild and the Lincoln Ladies' Guild was held at Elsham on Saturday, April 7th. The towers represented were Bigby, Barton-on-Humber, Burton-on-Stather, Ulceby, Grimsby, Scunthorpe, Barrow-on-Humber, Killingholme and the local ringers, together with Mr. and Mrs. R. Richardson, Guild Ringing Master and Lincoln Ladies' Guild secretary respectively, and Mr. and Mrs. J. Walden, of Lincoln.

The bells, a handy ring of six, were made good use of. Service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. W. H. J. Allin), who gave an interesting address from the words, 'Holy unto the Lord.' The Ladies' Guild office was used, and Mr. H. Rushby presided at the organ.

Unfortunately the meeting clashed with a meeting of the Gainsborough District which kept a few ladies away and depleted their number. Thirty-one members sat down to tea, including the Vicar and Mrs. Allin.

The president (Archdeacon Parry) presided over the meeting, at which the election of two members prior to a peal attempt at Mablethorpe was confirmed.

A collection for the district bell fund amounted to 7s. 9d. The secretary was asked to convey the sympathy of the members to Mr. and Mrs. G. Atkinson, of Thornton Curtis, upon the serious illness of their son, who is also a member of the district.

The usual votes of thanks were given to the Vicar and organist.—The President, supporting the motion, thanked the Vicar for his welcome to Elsham, and said he hoped that they would see more of him at other district meetings.—In reply, the Vicar said he was glad to welcome the visitors to Elsham, and he was greatly impressed by the unity of the ringers.

Mr. Richardson proposed a hearty vote of thanks to the president for presiding over the meeting, and this having been carried some of the members indulged in handbell ringing and some in further ringing on the tower bells.

The ladies held their meeting prior to the tea.

DEAN, PRESIDENT AND FREEMAN.

On Tuesday, April 17th, at the Cathedral, Worcester, a quarter-peal of Stedman Cinques (1,237 changes): R. G. Knowles 1, F. W. Neate 2, G. E. Large 3, F. Lawrence 4, S. T. Holt (conductor) 5, G. ESSEX RINGER'S DEATH.*MR. LEWIS WISEMAN.

A well-known Essex ringer has passed away in the person of Mr. Lewis Wiseman, of Sible Hedingham, who died on April 7th at the age of 65 years. He had been a ringer for 41 years, and had rung 63 peals, his first being on March 4th, 1905, and his last on December 31st, 1932. Since then he had only once been able to get up to the ringing chamber. His peals consisted of: London Surprise Major 1, Superlative Major 2, Cambridge Major 2, Double Norwich Major 2, Oxford Treble Bob Major 3, Kent Treble Bob Major 11, Bob Major 6, Grandsire Triples 8, Minor (from two to seven methods) 10. On handbells 18, viz: Bob Major 4, Minor (from one to seven methods and one in 14 different methods) 14.

The deceased was laid to rest in Sible Hedingham Churchyard on Thursday, April 12th, three of the bearers being his fellow-ringers, Messrs. O. Broyd, A. Catterwell and B. W. Pettitt, and the other Bandsman E. Chatten, to represent the band of which Mr. Wiseman was the first bandmaster, for he was a keen musician as well as a keen change ringer. After the burial a course of Grandsire Triples, his favourite method, was rung over the grave by: B. Cock 1-2, A. Catterwell 3-4, O. Broyd 5-6, B. W. Pettitt 7-8. Deceased leaves eight daughters and one son to mourn their loss.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

The record of Bow bells, which is now so familiar to wireless listeners, was made as long ago as 1926. For that reason it has a special interest in that it preserves the tones of a ring of bells, the majority of which have since passed through the melting pot.

We regret that pressure on our space compels us again to hold over various letters to the Editor on the Minor controversy. An article on Bristol Surprise Royal by the Rev. E. B. James will also appear as soon as space permits.

In connection with the dedication of the National ringers' memorial to the late Rev. C. D. P. Davies at Tewkesbury Abbey on Saturday, May 19th, a special train will be run from Bristol and intermediate stations, leaving Bristol, it is expected, at 1 p.m., and reaching Tewkesbury at 3.7 p.m.

The Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association are leaving no stone unturned to secure the success of the occasion and to give all ringers facilities to attend the ceremony and ring on the twelve bells. It is important that those who intend to travel by the special train, who wish to be present at tea, or who desire to ring, should communicate with the hon. secretary, Mr. E. Guise, 46, St. Michael's Hill, Bristol, before May 12th.

An accident happened on Tuesday last week to Mr. Morris J. Morris, a well-known Birmingham ringer. He was visiting Plymouth on business and slipped on a footpath and severely injured his knee, fracturing the kneecap. He is now lying in No. 6, Bewes Ward, South Devon Hospital, Plymouth, where the injured member was operated on on Tuesday.

An 'Arthur' peal is in contemplation. Any Arthur who wishes to take part should communicate with Mr. Arthur Harding, 29, Ash Grove, South Ealing, W.5.

The need for correcting a footnote to a peal at Dartford, which appeared in our last issue, makes it necessary once more to ask correspondents to be explicit. It is not sufficient to say 'first peal' if it is the first peal 'in the method,' or 'first as conductor' if it is first peal as conductor 'in the method.' It may seem obvious to the sender but not to others, and leads to confusion.

In the Dartford peal it was J. E. Bailey's 'first attempt for a peal in the method,' and the conductor's 'first peal as conductor in the method, and first attempt.' The band wore all Sunday service ringers.

Mr. F. W. Perrens, who has in hand the arrangements for the peal ringing during the Central Council's visit to Warwick, will reply in due course to all who have written. Any others who would like a peal attempt should communicate with him immediately at 45, Engleton Road, Coventry.

The first peal by the Bedfordshire Association was seven 720's of Bob Minor rung at Biddenham on April 26th, 1884, conducted by Charles W. Clarke. It was commemorated on Saturday at the same tower, when Mr. Clarke called a peal in seven Treble Bob methods. Four of the band of 1884 have passed away, and one is no longer able to ring, so that Mr. Clarke is the only active ringer left of the 1884 company.

'ST. MICHAEL'S CHIMES.'

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—In answer to your correspondent's query as to St. Michael's Church, these chimes vary considerably as to the notes played, being merely ringers' changes on eight bells. Often they are exactly the same as those used for 'Whittington Chimes.' Both are in strains of 8, 16, 24 and 32 notes, at the 1st, 2nd, 3rd and 4th quarters respectively.

It would be interesting to know the origin of the name of these chimes.

THE LATE MASTER OF THE OXFORD GUILD.

MEMORIAL TOUCH AT EAST GARSTON.

On Saturday, April 21st, the anniversary of the funeral of the late Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn, six members of the Oxford Diocesan Guild, who had each had many happy hours with their late Master, journeyed to East Garston and rang a very fine 720 of Bob Minor: J. Hands 1, Miss P. Holloway 2, Miss S. Davis 3, A. D. Cullum 4, R. T. Hibbert (conductor) 5, G. Essex 6. The ringing was much appreciated by Mrs. Jenkyn and the Misses Jenkyn, who were present.

ANOTHER YOUTHFUL BAND'S PERFORMANCE.

A peal of Grandsire Doubles by a band of six lads, who average 16 years, and who all live within a radius of two miles, was rung at Exhall near Coventry on Monday week. Three of the ringers belong to Exhall and three to Nuneaton. The youngest were only 13, and the oldest, who called the peal, 20. Anyone who has rung on Exhall bells will appreciate the nature of the feat, as the bells, though light (the tenor is only 6½ cwt.), are difficult to ring on account of a long draught of rope without any guides.

The peal, we are told, was never in danger, and a nice steady heat was maintained throughout. The thirteen-year-old boy on the tenor rang remarkably well considering it was his first peal, and he had never previously rung for longer than twenty minutes.

Is this the youngest band to ring a peal on six tower bells?

YOUTHFUL PEAL RECORD BROKEN BOYS' AND GIRLS' GREAT ACHIEVEMENT.

A new record in youthful achievement was set up at Crayford on Saturday, when a mixed band of boys and girls, whose total ages aggregated only 120 years 2 months, rang a peal of Bob Major. The youngest of the party was 13 years 3 months, and the oldest 17 years 6 months, and the conductor was only 15½. The peal was splendidly rung, and is one which should be a pleasant memory to these young people for the rest of their lives.

It was the second time that the band had met. On the previous occasion, on February 10th, they were strangers to one another, and there was a considerable amount of natural nervousness and anxiety among them at the importance of the occasion. The result was that the peal failed to come to fruition, but it provided an opportunity for some valuable practice, and when they met again last Saturday they met with a full confidence which was completely justified by their performance. They rang an almost perfect peal, one which not only would have done credit to a company of more experienced ringers, but which could hardly have been beaten.

young people a few words of good advice. Then amid general wishes for success, the 'outsiders' withdrew and the youngsters launched out upon the task before them—but not before one of them, in simple words, had offered a short prayer, asking for Divine blessing upon the undertaking.

Then away went the bells into rounds and, a smart and accurate beat having been established, 'go' was called at 3.10 p.m. Any suggestion of nervousness in the ringing was entirely absent. The pace and the striking were those of a confident band, and were continued to the end, with hardly a 'clip' from start to finish. The bells ran round merrily at exactly six o'clock, and the band at once received the hearty congratulations of all those who had been waiting for the finish.

Afterwards, Mr. Dawe generously entertained the young ringers to tea, and among those present were Mr. Russell and Mr. and Mrs. E. Barnett. A bountiful meat meal was provided at the Bear and Staff Hotel, and afterwards Mr. Dawe, in congratulating the band upon their success, referred to some of the obstacles which had been met with in the first efforts to raise a children's band. There were many children from ten years of age upwards who could be relied upon to

Once again Mr. F. E. Dawe took a generous active interest in the arrangements, and Mr. E. Barnett did much to secure the success of the event. The band was gathered together from a wide area, Edwin A. Barnett, whose achievement in ringing a hundred peals up to Spliced Surprise while still only 15 years of age, being the only purely local ringer. John Gilbert, the brilliant Handsworth youngster, came all the way from Sheffield. Joseph Pack travelled from Loughborough, and Percy Stone, only 13 years old, came all the way from Nuneaton. Arthur Jones, of Croydon, also only 13, and scarcely as tall, with Walter Dobbie, only a month over 14, who journeyed from Sittingbourne, made up the lads' section. The band was completed by two young ladies, mentioned last, not because of any disrespect to their sex, but because they deserve a special word. One, Miss Phyllis Tillett, is the fifth generation of a family of Ipswich ringers. Although one of the youngest members of the band, she has rung peals of Cinques and Maximus, and has had the distinction of taking part in peals with her father and grandfather—a distinction shared, of course, by 'Teddy' Barnett. The other young lady was Miss Margaret Pack, whose talent for ringing, as shown recently by taking part in a peal of London Surprise, is only equalled by her ability as an organiser, for she rendered invaluable assistance in making the arrangements. One other lady must be mentioned, and that is Miss Frances Humphrey, who very kindly acted as 'reserve,' and was present to fill any gap should it occur.

There were a number of well-known ringers present when the band assembled in the ringing chamber, and after a few preliminary rounds, a welcome was given by Mr. P. C. Russell, churchwarden, in the unavoidable absence of the Rector, and Mr. Dawe offered the ring a peal with a good band, but when it came to getting a band of eight together to ring a peal by themselves it was a very different matter, not only in regard to the responsibility which it put upon their shoulders, but because parents naturally would not let children travel alone for long distances. Mr. Dawe referred to the act of courtesy on the part of Edwin Barnett in handing over the calling of the peal to a visitor, John Gilbert, and he congratulated the latter on the way he conducted the peal. Several of the young people, Mr. Dawe went on, were still at school, but would soon be going out into the world. He advised them when that time came to give their whole attention to the business they had in hand and, when set a task, to do it to the best of their ability, and as young churchmen also always to 'remember thy Creator in the days of thy youth.' He referred to the abilities of the many ladies he had rung with, and thanked Miss Pack for the great assistance she had given.

Thanks were returned to Mr. Dawe on behalf of the band by Edwin A. Barnett, who said that without Mr. Dawe the peal could never have taken place. He also thanked Miss Pack for her share in the arrangements.—John Gilbert seconded the vote of thanks, and the time remaining before the gathering broke up was spent in hand-bell ringing and recitations. Our photo is by Mr. Dawe.

That these youngsters should have rung a peal of Major on bells with a tenor of over 12 cwt. says something for the good going of the bells. Very few bells get more use than the ring at Crayford. Messrs. Mears and Stainbank rehung them in 1921, and there has not been the slightest thing done to them since. They have not even been greased. A peal such as this, after 13 years of heavy wear, testifies to the excellence of the founders' work.

THE ANNUAL MEETING.

Discussion on Council Topics.

About 80 members attended the annual meeting of the Middlesex County Association and London Diocesan Guild, held at St. Mary's, Ealing, on Saturday. Many towers were represented, and the ringing which took place during the afternoon and evening was much enjoyed. There was a very hearty service conducted by the new Vicar of St. Mary's, and the preacher was the Lord Bishop of Willesden, whose homely address from the chancel steps was greatly appreciated. Speaking from the text, 'Their sound has gone out into all lands and their words unto the ends of the earth' (Ps. xix. 4), he referred to the ringing of the bells of Jerusalem, broadcast at Christmas, which must, he said, have stirred the imagination as nothing else could. He went on to speak of the influence of the bells of our own churches. That influence on the hearts and minds of men was for the most part unseen, and the ringers in the belfry could not tell how far they might be influencing the lives of others. There was a tendency in these days, he continued, to have carillons rung by artificial means, but he hoped every tower would be strengthened by the living hands of living men, who would join the guilds of ringers. He spoke of the great fellowship in which ringers were joined, and said he had often regretted that in his student days, when he had the chance, he did not learn to ring. There were three things in ringing of which he reminded his hearers: Love, Labour and God, unseen, influencing both all the time. Bellringing was not only a hobby, it was also a ministry; it was not merely a recreation, it was a vocation. He asked God's blessing on the belfry and the friendships in it, on the spirit in which the work was done, and on the sound of the bells in the hearts of the people.

Tea in the Good Shepherd Hall was served by the wives of local ringers and was presided over by Mr. J. A. Trollope (district vice-president), who was supported by the Bishop of Willesden, the Vicar of St. Mary's, Ealing, Mr. W. Pickworth (vice-president of the North and East District), Mr. W. H. Hollier (hon. treasurer), Mr. W. Pye (Master), and Messrs. C. T. Coles and F. W. Goodfellow (joint hon. secretaries).

Mr. J. A. Trollope, who temporarily occupied the chair pending the arrival of the president, proposed a vote of thanks to the Bishop of Willesden and the Vicar of St. Mary's, Ealing. He thanked them for the kindness extended to the association and for coming among them. Forty years ago, said Mr. Trollope, a Bishop would as soon have thought of coming to a gathering of that kind as a duke would of visiting a meeting of coalheavers (laughter).

The Bishop: Would the ringers have asked him?

Mr. Trollope: They dare not, sir (laughter).

The vote of thanks was carried with applause, and later the Bishop, in reply, said how grateful he was for the kind welcome given him. Speaking for the other Bishops as well as himself, he was perfectly certain they appreciated tremendously the work done in the belfries. He was particularly glad to see a number of young men present, who were therefore beginning to take over some of the responsibilities which had to be passed on from one generation to another. They had always to be building up from below. At Hackney, where he was at one time Rector, it was the object of one of the clergy to try to build up a young band to take their turn in the belfry—independently of the older men, if necessary—and gradually to take over larger responsibilities in the management of the belfry and the work of the ringers. Bellringing was a healthy exercise—he was told that people went on ringing until they were ninety years old and over, and that showed that they did not want to give it up, because they found in it such fellowship and interest and true recreation. Having mentioned the good fortune of Ealing in having received a great 'gift' from East London in the person of the new Vicar, the Bishop went on to refer to the new London which was growing up in Middlesex, and to the problems which faced the Church in this vast new city. At Kingsbury they were rebuilding stone by stone the Church of St. Andrew, Wells Street. It would be completed in October, and its influence would be strengthened by the bells which were to be replaced in the tower, and which would sound out over an area where church bells were few, because there was no money for the erection of belfries. In conclusion, the Bishop wished the members of the association every happiness in their work.

WENT UP WITH THE ROPE.

The Vicar, who also replied, paid tribute to the ladies, and he did so, he said, with tremendous shame, because he saw in the ladies present a courage and endurance which he, as a mere man, failed to have. Not many years ago his ringers were in poor condition, and he tried to set an example to others. He did not know what mistake he made, but he went up with the rope and had never tried since (laughter). He commended the ladies on their courage and their diligent perseverance in carrying on. The Vicar recalled the fact that on one occasion long ago one of the bells of St. Mary's, Ealing, was used as a punch bowl. They could not, happily, use it for such a purpose that day, but he assured those present that out of the cups they had used there flowed a sincere welcome to Ealing and a desire that the association would come back again some day (applause).

Mr. C. T. Coles referred to the death of Mrs. J. Thomas, of the Edmonton band, who was buried on Thursday. She was a member of that association and for many years a member of the Ladies' Guild, as well as being the wife of a well-known ringer.

As a token of respect and of sympathy with the bereaved husband the meeting stood in silence.

The business meeting was then proceeded with, with the president in the chair, and arising out of the minutes it was reported that the association had shared in the entertainment of the Central Council when it met in London last year. The association had entertained the Council and friends to tea, and the cost of this and the share of other entertainment amounted to £4 14s. 4d.

Another matter which arose out of a resolution passed last year was with regard to the association's title. Mr. Trollope said it was discussed by the districts, and had come before the Central Committee. They recommended that, in view of the fact that there was no great enthusiasm for any change, no action be taken in the matter.

THE REPORT.

The annual report recorded the success of a long programme of district meetings in the two districts, with an average attendance of 42 in the North and East District and 35 in the South and West District, while a greatly improved standard of ringing had been noticed at the meetings. Joint meetings with other associations were now a popular feature of the programme, and two such gatherings had been held on Wednesdays for the benefit of those ringers whose work precluded them from attending Saturday meetings. The attendances at these meetings was ample proof of their popularity, although in the case of the mid-week meetings it was obvious that joint effort alone ensured success. The band at Harlington had joined the association, and it was hoped that what had long been a stronghold of call change ringing would be converted. An attempt was also being made to restart a band at Acton, with the full support of the Rector.

Two honorary and 62 ringing members were elected during the year, but there were again a considerable number of lapses through non-payment of subscriptions. The loss by death of nine members was recorded with regret. The membership now reached a total of 882, but the position at some towers was far from satisfactory, and local officials were urged to keep their bands up to full strength. Delay in recruiting young ringers was dangerous, and at least one new member should be added to each band annually. Only by continuous effort could an efficient and full complement of ringers be maintained.

Compared with 1932 there was a decrease of three in the number of peals rung, the total being 80. Seeing, however, that no less than 31 of these peals were rung at St. Botolph's Church, Bishopsgate, it was evident that a considerable falling-off in peal ringing took place elsewhere. It was noticeable that only one six-bell peal was in the list. While peal ringing was by no means the only object of the association's existence, this activity did a great deal to keep alive the interest of many ringers, and the more experienced members were urged to keep this part of the work going. An analysis of the peals showed that two were rung on handbells and 78 on tower bells at 28 different churches. Some 160 members took part in them, and there were 17 conductors. Three members rang their first peal and 49 their firsts in a new method.

The report reviewed the various activities of the association during the year, referred to the restoration of Bow bells and the removal of the bells at St. Andrew's, Wells Street, to be replaced in the same tower where it is re-erected at Kingsbury, and concluded with thanks to the clergy and an appeal to them to help further by becoming members. The list of hon. members was far too small, and it was hoped this appeal would enable the association to add considerably to it.

NEW RULES FOR SOUTH AND WEST DISTRICT.

In presenting the report, Mr. Coles drew attention to two new rules added to the rules for the district societies. These rules, he said, would operate only in the South and West District, which desired to have them. The other district was not inclined to work under them. These rules were that the meeting under Rule 1 (the annual district meeting) should, if possible, be held at different towers in succession; and that no member should hold the post of Ringing Master for two consecutive years unless all efforts to find a successor had failed.

The report was adopted.

The hon. treasurer (Mr. W. H. Hollier) presented the balance sheet, which showed receipts from the districts amounting to £21 2s. 8d., the percentage of contributions from ringing members, £1 4s., the percentage of contributions from hon. members, 6s. from sale of certificates and 6s. 10d. interest. The expenditure, including a donation of £2 2s. to the Rev. H. Law James' memorial and £4 14s. 4d. in connection with the entertainment of the Central Council, amounted to £29 0s. 10d., the balance of £33 5s. from 1932 being thus reduced to £27 3s. 8d. at the end of 1933.

The balance sheet was adopted.

Four belfry elections were confirmed, and two new members (Mr. A. Smithson, North Acton, and Mr. E. H. Preston, St. Andrew's, Hillingdon) were elected.

The president, Rev. W. P. Cole Sheane (Vicar of Twickenham) was unanimously re-elected and renominated as active vice-presidents: Mr. W. Pickworth (North and East District) and Mr. J. A. Trollope (South and West District). The other officers were re-elected as follows: Master, Mr. William Pye; hon. treasurer, Mr. W. H. Hollier; joint hon. secretaries, Mr. C. T. Coles and Mr. F. W. Goodfellow; auditors, Messrs. J. E. Miller and W. Pickworth.

It was decided that the association's peal books and the complete set of 'Bell News' should remain for another year at St. Giles'-in-the-Fields, Mr. Coles remarking that he hoped they would some day also be able to have a complete set of volumes of 'The Ringing World.'

CONGRATULATIONS.

Mr. Coles moved a hearty vote of congratulation to Mr. E. C. S. Turner, one of the younger members of the association, who two weeks earlier had conducted a peal of four spliced Surprise methods from a non-observation bell (applause). Moreover, the peal was his own composition. In this he had created a record. While it had been the ambition of a number of composers to find a true composition in four or more methods, only two composers had previously succeeded in doing so, viz., the late Rev. H. L. James and Mr. A. J. Pitman, of South Wales. Neither of these, however, had conducted one of their own 'spliced' Surprise compositions. Those who had conducted peals of this kind from a non-observation bell knew full well what the task meant, and would join heartily in congratulating Mr. Turner (applause). Mr. Coles also congratulated the three other members of the band who rang their first Spliced Surprise peal on the same occasion.—The motion was carried with acclamation.

Mr. Coles welcomed the presence at the meeting of the Editor of 'The Ringing World,' who, he mentioned, had recently obtained a concession from the railway companies for ringers who wished to travel. The concession was that ringers travelling in parties of four or more could get cheap fares for any distance where no cheap fares were already in operation, provided they were going ringing and applied beforehand for a voucher. The fare was single fare for the journey for one day, and single fare and a third for a long week-end. The latter, of course, was largely covered by the 'summer' tickets which were issued to the public, but the former was quite a valuable concession (applause).

CENTRAL COUNCIL BUSINESS.

The Central Council agenda was next brought to the notice of the meeting. Mr. Coles said most of the work of the Council was done by the committees, and two-thirds of the time of the meeting was taken up in discussing the committees' reports. With regard to the motions on the agenda, he said if it were not for the Minor question there would be nothing for the Council to discuss. With regard to the proposal that no decision of the Council relating to the ringing of peals shall be binding unless passed by a two-thirds majority of the meeting, Mr. Coles said he thought that was a matter for the Council alone.

Mr. Trollope said with regard to the motion on the Minor question, that peals on the Bankes James' plan should be permissible, it would probably be of interest to the members to know that it came about partly through the action which he took, and with which Mr. Goldsmith disagreed, about the Minor Collection that was being published. It had been raised again in its present acute form by a peal composed by Mr. Turner and rung there in Ealing. Mr. Turner took the plan which the Rev. E. Bankes James had used for his Cambridge Minor and carried the idea a little bit further, and in carrying it a little further had fallen foul of the pontifical authority of the Editor, who said that whereas they might go as far as Bankes James went, Mr. Turner, Mr. Wilson and he (Mr. Trollope), by ringing this peal on handbells, were doing something which inevitably lowered the standard of peal ringing and tampered with truth. However, they did it, and the worst thing about it was that they were entirely unrepentant. Ever since then some of the stick-in-the-muds and die-hards had been doing all they could to prevent such things being done in the future. Incidentally it had done no harm to the intellectual side of ringing, and had given a few people the opportunity of using their brains about one or two things. In this motion which was to come forward before the Council at Whitsun they would give the old-fashioned people the opportunity of saying the same things again, but they were concentrating on only one thing. They were leaving Turner's composition apart and trying to get the Council to agree, at least, that if they rang the Bankes James Arrangement they were not guilty of anything very terrible. Mr. Trollope said he and some of his friends had had two or three attempts for the Cambridge Minor. 'We can ring the spliced Surprise stuff,' he added amid laughter, 'but hanged if we can ring the Cambridge.'

REPRESENTATIVES NOT BOUND.

Mr. Coles said he admired the courage of the proposer and seconder to try again this year to get the Council to agree to the ringing of that peal. Although the Council had passed it in the Peals Analysis and had thus accepted it, they would never say it was anything but false—which, of course, was rather inconsistent. After the rebuff which Mr. Wood and Mr. Goldsmith, and, later, Mr. Atkins and himself—who wanted to go still further—got, he admired the courage of Mr. Goldsmith and Mr. Trollope in bringing the matter

CANTERBURY DISTRICT.

A by-meeting of the Canterbury District was held on Saturday at Northbourne by kind permission of Rev. Canon W. G. Thomas. The inclement weather was mainly responsible for a rather smaller attendance than usual, but a very enjoyable afternoon and evening were spent with the church bells.

After tea at the Hare and Hounds a vote of thanks was accorded to the Rector for the use of the bells, and also to Mr. Fenney, captain of the local company, for making all the necessary arrangements for a successful meeting.

A beautifully struck 720 of Kent Treble Bob was rung by the following members as a compliment to Mr. and Mrs. E. Slingsby, of Sturry, who were celebrating the 34th anniversary of their wedding day: E. Slingsby 1, J. Walter 2, S. Walter 3, P. W. Smith 4, R. French 5, E. Spice (conductor) 6. Among the other methods rung were Plain Bob, Oxford Bob, Stedman, Grandsire, Oxford Treble Bob and Cambridge Surprise.

NORWICH DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

VETERANS AT SOUTH NORFOLK BRANCH MEETING.

A successful meeting of the South Norfolk Branch was held at Diss on Saturday, when over 35 members turned up to try the famous Dobson peal. The association was pleased to welcome Messrs. Butress (Fulbourne, Cambs), Brown (Exning, Suffolk) and Beale (Newmarket). There were representatives from Dickleburgh, Garboldisham, Norwich, Palgrave, Pulham, Redenhall, Saxmundham (the 'Crimean veteran'), Shelfanger, Stove Ash, Saxlingham, Starston, St. Margaret's, Thornham Magna, North Walsham, Winfarthing, Worham and the local band. Among those who sat down to tea were Mr. William Ireland, one of the three surviving original members of the association, and Mr. Churchwarden Johnson, who spoke of his connection with bells 40 years ago, and his pleasure at hearing them.

At the business meeting which followed the tea five new members were elected, and the next meeting was fixed for July 7th at Alburgh and Redenhall.

up again, but he did not understand why they proposed to deal with the Bankes James Minor only and not with the Pitman Doubles, which was on the same plan.

Mr. Trollope: Do you want an answer? If you cannot get the whole loaf you have sometimes got to be satisfied with a half (laughter).

Mr. Mayne asked whether the representatives of that association would put their own or that meeting's views before the Council?

Mr. Coles said it was to get the views of the meeting that the matters were raised.

Mr. Mayne: Will you accept the views of the meeting as binding on the representatives?

Mr. Coles: Speaking personally, I do not think it is quite fair to bind your representatives down. If you do, you get down to the position of delegates, which Canon Coleridge objected to a few years ago. It is only after the pros and cons had been heard that representatives are able to use their judgment. To get the views of this meeting may be useful to the representatives so that they may know what you require, but to send your representatives to vote in a particular way is not what I, as a representative, can agree to.

Mr. Mayne said there were customs which the Exercise had observed for years. One was that a touch or a peal or a 720 being a true cycle had to come back to rounds. The Bankes James Arrangement departed from that, and the point to decide was whether a 720 should be a true cycle, and also whether a peal should be seven true cycles of changes and not rows. If they took the Bankes James and divided it between rounds and rounds it was not a true peal.

Mr. E. M. Atkins said it was correct to say the cycles between the rounds were not true blocks, but the peal as a whole was true. A peal of Minor and a 720 were two different things. As a 5,040 of Minor the Bankes James Arrangement was a complete round block.

With regard to the motion 'that this Council views with concern the comparatively small number of ringers ringing their first peal, and suggests that all ringers, mindful of their high calling, should do all in their power to encourage their less proficient brethren,' Mr. Coles said he thought it was one they would not quarrel about. The arguments in favour of it had been well set out in the leading article in 'The Ringing World' that week, and they could trust their representatives to vote for it. Possibly Mr. Atkins, who was to propose the motion, might like to say something about it.

Mr. Atkins: I should like to hear other people's views.

No comments were, however, offered.

It was resolved to hold the next annual general meeting at St. Botolph's, Bishopsgate, and the meeting then concluded with votes of thanks, proposed by the president, to the incumbents who had permitted ringing at their towers, the towerkeepers, the organist and the ladies who had arranged the tea.

Further ringing at the three Ealing churches took place afterwards, the methods soaring from Plain Bob to four Spliced Surprise.

NORTH NOTTS ASSOCIATION. ANNUAL MEETING.

Members of the North Notts Association met on Saturday, April 14th, at East Retford Church for the annual gathering. There was a large and representative attendance from the towers in the area of the association. The Rev. L. E. Harris, assistant curate, conducted the service. The address was given by the Rev. T. H. J. Eling, Vicar of Sutton-on-Trent, a vice-president of the association, on 'The bell you are accustomed to ring.'

Tea was served in the Ebsworth Hall. The Vicar and Rural Dean (Rev. Canon A. Parkinson) extended a cordial welcome to the members of the association. He said he had read with interest the report of the secretary, and was particularly struck with one sentence in it. 'One subject that rather stood out in "The Ringing World" during the past year was the clergy and ringers, but, after weighing up all that has been written on this matter, there is only one remedy, and that is, Let us all go on in the fellowship of God.' He (Canon Parkinson) supported the secretary in what he had written. If members carried out their ringing in that spirit they were fine men. North Notts had a reputation in the matter of bellringing, and members of that association were the ones to do it.

Canon Parkinson took the opportunity of expressing appreciation of the kindness of the 'Retford, Gainsborough and Worksop Times' in publishing each week an interesting article on change ringing over the signature of 'Campanologist.'

The Rev. R. F. Wilkinson, Rector of Ordsall, associated himself with the remarks of Canon Parkinson. He added that he had found the article was widely read every week, and they wished to thank the editor of the paper for the space he devoted to the art of bellringing. He (the speaker) had achieved undeserved glory as being the writer of the article, but he wished to disclaim it. The writer was an expert ringer of the association.

NEEDED BELL RESTORATIONS.

The Rev. R. F. Wilkinson presided over the business meeting. He remarked that they were glad to have the presence of visitors from Sheffield, and also the Rev. H. M. Corlett, Vicar of Misterton and Rural Dean of Bawtry. He hoped that the interest Mr. Corlett showed in the association was such that he would keep things alive in the matter of change ringing in the Bawtry Deanery.

Mr. Wilkinson referred to the matter of bell restoration, and said the committee recommended that a grant of £2 be voted to the fund for a new tenor bell to the existing five at North Muskham Church. The outlay, including a new steel frame, is estimated at £139. He went on to say that he would like to see the bells restored and ringing in the belfries of Blyth, Bawtry and North Wheatley. A sixth bell was needed at Dunham Church; the bells had not been rung for 30 years. A movement was on foot to restore the bells at Laneham Church. There were only five bells at Sturton tower, and a sixth bell in that tower would be an acquisition. There were several churches that would be welcomed in the circle of the association, including Laxton. Ossington has six bells, but they are not safe to ring.

The following are extracts from the report of the secretary (Mr. R. W. Stockdale):—

The past year has been a success in the matter of finance. The number of peals (seven) rung during the year were fewer than in 1932, but of a higher standard. The membership has not increased by many, and I am sorry to state that some towers seem to have completely fallen away.

During the past year, continued the secretary, a pile of letters must have reached the editor of 'The Ringing World,' and I am very pleased to say that none of the letters which have been published have been signed by any of our performing members, because I am afraid that some of these letters are only indifferent literature, having the same meaning time and time again. I think a lot of the subjects on which these letters are written could be left to the Central Council to decide. Their meeting every Whit Tuesday is the time to discuss these matters.

A HARD TASK.

The association has this year commenced bi-monthly ringing practices on eight bells. The two which have been held were well attended, and very good progress was made. These will be continued in the course of a month or so. I think that joint practice should be held at nights. I am sorry to say that North Notts is not yet overflowing with good change ringers. We are having a hard task to face in trying to improve this matter, but let one and all, clergy and ringers, put their backs into it and make 1934 a record year.

The membership roll up to the end of the year contains four hon. life members, 21 vice-presidents, 78 non-resident life-members, 100 performing members, three unattached members—206 in all.

The Rev. R. F. Wilkinson, in commenting on the report, remarked that there was a financial gain on the year's working of £1 17s. 10d. There was a balance in the Worksop Savings Bank of £44 5s. 5d., and £2 10s. 11d. in the hands of the treasurer. It was a good thing to have money in hand so that they were able to assist towers in the restoration of bells.

He congratulated the secretary upon the report. He always had something interesting to say every year, and he expressed matters in a nice way. He referred to Mr. Stockdale's zeal and keenness in the

DEVON GUILD. SIGNS OF PROGRESS.

The Aylesbeare Deanery Branch of the Devon Guild held a well-attended meeting at Broadclyst on Saturday, April 14th, over 50 members, including visitors from neighbouring branches, being present. The Rev. K. C. Nichole, curate-in-charge during the Vicar's absence, conducted a service in the church and gave a short address. He said the ringers should be considered the most important of all churchworkers, the bells in this country being pre-eminent in their influence. The ringers were a privileged people in being the exponents of God's messages.

The Rev. E. A. Jullian presided at the tea and meeting in the Victory Hall, and offered a welcome to visitors from Exeter, Tiverton, Thorverton, Sidmouth, Buckfastleigh, etc., also congratulations to the Vicar and curate, the one on his honeymoon and the other with the prospect of matrimony.

Eight certificates were presented by the Rev. F. V. Cox, president of the Guild, each recipient being applauded on his success.

Three new members were elected, and it was resolved to hold a meeting at East Budleigh on Saturday, September 1st.

Votes of thanks were passed to the Vicar for his permission, the Rev. R. C. Nichole for his stimulating address, Mr. Hamlyn, who had acted as organist, and Mr. Lawrence, captain of the local band. The President said he was glad to see such a good meeting and signs that progress was being made.

Returning to the tower, bands were made up indiscriminately for touches of Grandsire and Stedman Triples and Doubles.

GRANDSIRE CINQUES FOR GRANDCHILD.

At St. Martin's Church, Birmingham, for evensong, on Sunday, April 15th, 1,363 Grandsire Cinques: W. E. Dowding 1, A. Walker (conductor) 2, H. H. Fearn 3, R. Daniel 4, G. E. Learn 5, J. Neal 6, D. Matkin 7, M. J. Morris 8, E. Mansell 9, G. F. Yenwall 10, A. E. Norman 11, W. T. Froggatt 12. Just previous to the ringing the conductor's grandchild, Mary Reynolds, was baptised at St. Martin's by the Rector of Birmingham (Canon T. Guy Rogers).

PRESENTATION TO MARLBOROUGH RINGER.

To mark their appreciation of the valuable services he rendered the branch during the two years he was secretary, members of the Marlborough Branch of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild presented Mr. A. W. Deane with a pair of hairbrushes in a leather case and a shaving set. The presentation took place in the ringing chamber of St. Mary's Church, Marlborough, on Tuesday week. Touches of Grandsire Doubles were rung on the bells as a farewell to Mr. Deane, who is shortly leaving England to take up an appointment at the Trinity College, Kandy, Ceylon.

welfare of the association, and said they could not have a better secretary and treasurer. It was wonderful the work he got through. Mr. Stockdale travelled thousands of miles on his motor-bicycle visiting clergy and ringers in the villages of North Notts for the benefit of the association, and they owed him a deep debt of gratitude (applause).—The report was adopted.

Mr. Stockdale was re-elected hon. secretary and treasurer, and Mr. R. Smith, Ordsall, was appointed assistant, in place of Mr. H. Revill, who retired owing to other duties.

The Rev. R. F. Wilkinson was reappointed representative of the association on the Central Council, and he was heartily thanked for the way he carried out his duties.

The contest for the Crawford Challenge Cup was fixed to take place on Saturday, September 29th, at Gamston. The holders of the cup are Shireoaks.

Mr. J. S. Hakes, Cuckney, was elected a member of the association.

It was decided that the first subscription of a vice-president should be 2s. 6d. and then 1s. annually.

The next meeting was fixed to take place at Marlborough on Saturday, June 2nd.

The meeting closed with a general expression of thanks—to the incumbents of East and West Retford and Ordsall, to the Rev. T. H. J. Eling, and the caterer (Mr. G. Cooke, Carlgate).

The Secretary expressed thanks to the Rev. R. F. Wilkinson for presiding, and for 'all he does for the benefit of the association and for doing many things which were not published in the report.'

Change ringing took place in the afternoon and evening in the church towers of East and West Retford and Ordsall.

BRASS BUTTON BRIGADE.

A speaker at a meeting on Saturday, when the question of peals of Minor was being discussed, expressed the opinion that not more than five per cent. of ringers cared a brass button about the subject. That may or may not be true. If it be true, we think it is probably due to the fact that the other ninety-five per cent. cannot understand it or, perhaps, do not want to do so, or, if they do, have no real interest in six-bell ringing, and only suffer it when they can get nothing else. But because they are not interested, it does not follow that those who are should not endeavour to come to some conclusion as to what should be encouraged or discouraged in six-bell peal ringing. Those who ring on eight or more bells are in the position of having had the definition of their peals settled for them more or less automatically. It began when men first sought to obtain and ring all the possible changes on seven bells, after which this standard of 5,040 of Triples became also the approximate standard on higher numbers on which the extent was, from almost every point of view, an impossibility.

The whole position with regard to five and six-bell ringing was, however, different. We believe we are right in saying that, up to a point, the early ringers looked upon a 'peal' as the extent of the changes which could be produced on any particular number of bells. And thus we read of 'the whole peal of Doubles—120 changes' and 'the whole peal of Bob Minor,' and where five thousands or more were rung we read, as in the case of the record length at Wath in 1816, of 'twenty-one peals, making in all 15,120 changes,' or, in the case of Whaplode, Lincs, '10,080 changes or 84 peals' of Doubles. Later on these five thousands were termed 'performances.' It was not until the early days of the Central Council that they were officially designated 'peals,' and eventually it was laid down that such a peal should consist of seven true and complete 720's, each ending with rounds and rung without interval. When that definition was drawn up it adequately met the situation. It was a step in advance in securing that true 720's should be rung, and ruled out such things as fourteen 360's or twenty-one 240's, which were sometimes recorded as 'peals.'

But the enterprise of composers and the views of some ringers, which have changed with the advance of time, have led to other ideas being formed as to what ought to be admitted as a peal, and it is in an endeavour to guide the Exercise that the Central Council has made various efforts to arrive at some decision on what shall in future constitute a peal of Minor or Doubles. It is quite true that, whatever definition is arrived at, the majority of ringers who ring peals of Minor will still be content with the conventional seven 720's, but should the Council place its official ban on any departure from this standard? On the other hand, if it is to sanction the breaking down of these bounds, it is faced with two courses, and two courses only. Either it must define a new boundary—which can always be extended if thought wise—or scrap its rules and permit individual desires, reasonable or otherwise, to have free rein. To do the latter would, we believe, be the greatest disservice to six-bell ringing, and it is to guard against it that the five per cent. of ringers set something more than a brass button value on the outcome of the controversy.

WARWICKSHIRE GUILD.

ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual meeting of the Warwickshire Guild, held at Warwick on Saturday, April 21st, was most successful from every point of view. The beautiful peal of ten bells at St. Mary's was kept going to various methods and also in rounds from about 3 o'clock in the afternoon until 4.30, when a short service was held in the chancel of the church. The Guild's form of service was used, and the hymns, 'Soldiers of Christ, arise' and 'O beautiful, my country,' were sung. The lesson was read by the president of the Guild (the Rev. J. A. B. Davies, M.A.), and a short address given by the Vicar of St. Mary's (the Rev. A. D. Henwood, M.A.). Tea at Ye Woolpack Hotel followed and was much enjoyed by a party of over forty.

At the business meeting the president took the chair, and apologies were read from Messrs. G. and H. Fearn, R. Daniels and P. Stone (the latter having gone to Crayford for the youthful peal of Bob Major). The balance sheet was adopted, showing a balance in hand of £18 12s. 5d.

The hon. secretary's report was read. From this it appeared that the membership for the year totalled 260 (110 being ringing members), 11 members having joined during the year. The peals rung during the year numbered 15 in 12 different methods, 50 members having taken part. Two rang their first peal and 18 their first in the method. The peal of York Surprise Major at Nuneaton on December 16th was the first ever rung in the method. The treble ringer in a peal of Bob Minor at Exhall on November 11th was Percy Stone (of the Chilvers Coton band), who at the age of 12 years was the youngest member of the Guild to ring a peal.

The re-election of the president was proposed by Mr. F. W. Perrens and seconded by Mr. J. H. White.—Mr. J. George proposed that the remaining officers be re-elected en bloc, this arrangement having proved very satisfactory.—This proposition was seconded by Mr. D. H. Argyle and carried unanimously.

The following meeting places were decided upon: Southam for the July quarterly meeting, Polesworth on the second Saturday in May, and Monk's Kirby on the third Saturday in June.

Miss V. Freeman and Mr. R. Freeman (Coventry) and Mr. E. J. Wells (Rugby) were elected members of the Guild, and Messrs. R. F. Roe (Wigston) and S. O'C. Holloway (Smethwick) were duly ratified following their election prior to peals.

The meeting closed with a vote of thanks from the chair to the Rev. A. D. Henwood for his welcome and splendid address. The Vicar replied by wishing the Guild continued prosperity and offering a warm welcome to Warwick any time a meeting was arranged there.—A vote of thanks to the chairman, who closed the meeting with prayer, ended the business of the day.

A return was made to the belfry, where Grandsire and Stedman Caters and Cambridge Surprise and Bob Royal were rung, with rounds for the beginners.

Handbell ringing at Ye Woolpack Hotel ended the day, which all had much enjoyed. Members attended from Allesley, Birmingham, Bulkington, Castle Bromwich, Chilvers Coton, Exhall, Lillington, Nuneaton, Rugby and Stoke-in-Coventry, together with the local band. The hon. secretary of the Bicester Branch of the Oxford Guild was welcomed during the afternoon.

LONDON COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

SOUTHERN DISTRICT MEETING AT WOOLWICH.

On Saturday, April 21st, members and friends of the Southern District of the London County Association met at the Church of St. Mary Magdalene, Woolwich, where hanging a very handy ring of eight (12½ cwt.), recently overhauled by Messrs. Taylor and Co., and a very pleasant afternoon and evening were spent. Touches in various methods, rounds and opportunities for beginners were the order, the District Master (Mr. H. Mance) being in charge of the proceedings. A service, with organ and choirboys, was conducted by the curate (the Rev. — Bradshaw), who referred to the date being the anniversary of the death of the late Rector (Canon Pickering), the members standing in silence for a minute as a token of respect.

The address was based on, 'Let us glorify God'; in relation to the noises of the mechanical age, and was both original and instructive.

Tea was taken at the Rectory, the Rector (the Rev. Leadbitter) being present. At the business meeting two new members were admitted, and the usual routine items were disposed of. A vote of thanks was proposed by Mr. Herbert to the Rector for the use of the bells and the Rectory room, to the curate for conducting the service, to the choirboys, who perhaps gave up a game of football or what-not, the member of the local band who so nicely played the organ, also to the Rector and the local ringers for providing a bounteous tea, and the ladies who prepared and served it. Thanks were also accorded to Messrs. Aldridge and Palmer for their very successful efforts in having everything in order and making arrangements for everyone's enjoyment.

A return was afterwards made to the tower for more ringing. The Rector, himself a ringer and a member of the association, took part in a touch of Bob Major during the evening, and did not forget to 'see the steward,' as all good members should. The attendance was not large, but 'up to Cambridge' was accomplished during the time at the disposal of the company.

A ROUNDABOUT METHOD.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—In your leading article of April 7th, re peals of Minor and the discussion on same at the coming Central Council meeting, you very truly remark 'that the real issue which is raised' is: Will the Council, or will they not, accept any departure from the old standard for peals of Minor? I have not seen the agenda, but reading from what you say it looks as if the Council is first going to discuss the pros and cons of the Banks James Arrangement in order to be able to decide whether or not they will accept any such departure—surely a very roundabout method! At Chelmsford I asked the Council either to confirm the old ruling or cut it out. They did neither; instead they tacked on a 'tail' which has allowed the question to become more confused. I suggest, sir, that the Council first and foremost decide if they will, or will not, accept any departure from the old standard, as printed. If they decide they will not accept departure, then all further argument is unnecessary. If they decide they will accept some departure, then cut out the old ruling entirely, and compose a new ruling in conformity with present-day requirements. That, however, will require some care. You know when, in summer, we open our window widely, we are inviting a very desirable entrant, fresh air, but unless we are careful to use a rather fine screen over the open window we have also to put up with small, but very undesirable, entrants as well, and if our Council, in its wisdom, decides to depart from the old ruling, they will be well advised to look carefully to the 'screen' over the open window. May they have sufficient 'wisdom' to be able to please everybody is the wish of—

ROBERT WHITTINGTON.

Cranleigh.

A COMPROMISE.

Dear Sir,—The recent correspondence on the above subject does not seem to have got us any further towards a solution of the problem. We have had all the old arguments and counter-arguments about rows and changes, rounds at the beginning or rounds at the end, etc., but there still seems to be a sad reluctance to face the really fundamental issues.

The chief point which so many people will not fully realise is that the Banks James arrangement is something different from the old-established idea of a peal. The old convention is that of extents. An extent is not only the full number of rows possible on a certain number of bells, but the full number of changes, i.e., it must come back to the point from which it started. The old idea of a peal of Minor was seven (at least) extents. It cannot be too often repeated (because it is the one thing in this controversy about which there can be no shadow of doubt whatever) that the Banks James composition does not consist of seven extents. Therefore, as long as we stand by the present definition of a peal the Banks James Arrangement is barred. That is a fact, and nothing can alter it.

But we can alter the definition of a peal of Minor. We can alter it to read '5,040 changes, starting from and ending with rounds, and containing each change seven times.' That is a perfectly straightforward procedure, and it would quite definitely include the Banks James Arrangement; but it would also include other arrangements which do not meet with such general approval throughout the Exercise.

The people who are in such a difficult position are those (and there are a great many of them) who want to let in the Banks James Arrangement without, at the same time letting in all other compositions containing each change seven times. There is, however, one thing which they can, and must realise, and that is that what they are asking is a compromise, and therefore any rule or definition that will achieve this end must also be a compromise.

There are still a number of people who are trying to frame rules which will achieve this end without admitting the compromise. The sooner they realise the hopelessness of their position the better, because they are attempting an absolutely impossible thing, and cannot therefore possibly hope to be successful. Sooner or later the arguments with which they support their proposals are bound to become inconsistent and contradictory. We have had many examples of this. You, Sir, if you will permit me to point it out, are one of them. Last year you seconded my resolution that the Banks James Arrangement should be accepted as an exception to the existing convention of seven extents. Now you are trying to convince the Exercise that it does in fact conform to the existing definition. My answer to this, Sir (to borrow your own phraseology), is, 'If it conforms to the rule it cannot be an exception; and if it was an exception in 1933 it is an exception in 1934.'

I have read with close attention the open letter to Central Council representatives from Mr. Joyce; he is voicing, I gather, the views of a large number of Minor ringers throughout the country, but his arguments, no less than those of other people, are contradictory. His main point is that we should make no rules to apply to six bells, which do not equally apply to higher numbers. But this is just exactly what he proposes that we shall do; because, as I understand him, he wants to say that a 5,040 of Triples must come round at the end, but that a 720 of Minor need not.

No, Sir; I am just as keen as anyone not to depart from time-honoured conventions except for the soundest of reasons, and not to differentiate between peal ringing on different numbers of bells. But we cannot eat our cake and still have it; if the Bankes James Arrangement is to be accepted otherwise than as an exception to the general rule, we are forced either to make a special definition for Minor or else to allow the whole basis of the definition of a peal on all numbers.

It is an awkward position I know. But there is no other way out of it. And the sooner we all realise it the better.

STEPHEN H. WOOD.

Bristol.

THE EDITOR'S REPLY.

Mr. Wood's allegation of inconsistency requires an answer, as far as it relates to any action of mine. I have never denied that the Bankes James Arrangement is an 'exception to the existing convention of seven extents.' The existing convention is that each 720 shall end with rounds. The 720's in the Bankes James Arrangement do not all do that, therefore they form an exception—to the 'existing convention.' But in admitting that, there is no inconsistency, in my opinion, in holding that, as each consists of 720 different rows, each 720 is also true. The existing convention and the existing definition, however, are two different things. The existing definition of a peal of Minor (adopted at Hereford) says nothing about each 720 ending with rounds; all it demands is that each 720 shall consist of 720 true rows; that is a condition which the Bankes James Arrangement fulfils, and that is what I have been trying to show the Exercise.

Judge) extends a hearty invitation to any ringers, who would like to try the bells of Oxford, to turn up at any of the following towers on Sunday, May 6th: Carfax (6), 8 a.m.; Cathedral (12), 9 a.m.; New College (10), 1 p.m.; Magdalen College (10), 2 p.m.; Merton College (8), 3 p.m.; St. Mary the Virgin (6), 4 p.m.

ST. GEORGE'S DAY.

On Monday evening, April 23rd, in honour of St. George's Day, the ringers at St. James' Church, Shirley, rang 720 Kent Treble Bob: H. Hofton 1, Miss K. Morris 2, J. N. Jukes 3, P. Newell 4, A. Morris 5, E. C. Shepherd (conductor) 6. First 720 of Treble Bob by all except the conductor.

LEEDS AND DISTRICT SOCIETY.

ANNUAL MEETING AT LEEDS.

The 35th annual meeting was held at St. Peter's Church, Leeds, on Saturday last, when a very good gathering heard the wonderful tones of the Leeds Society's headquarters peal, which was recast last year. After hearing the hymn tune, 'O worship the King,' played at 3 p.m., the bells were raised and ringing commenced at 3.30 p.m. No great measure of success was obtained in any of the ringing before the service at 4.40 p.m. At this stage most of the company endeavoured to attend to the inner man at the various cafes in town.

Meeting again just before 6 p.m., ringing took place until 7.30 p.m., when the business meeting was held in the tower. The president was chairman, and members were present from Armley, Almondbury, Batley, Burley, Barnsley, Bradford, Calverley, Drighlington, Earlsheaton, Felkirk, Holbeck, Headingley (St. Michael's), Low Moor, Ossett, Pudsey, Rothwell, Ripon, Shipley, Wakefield and the local company.

The following were elected new members of the society: Messrs. K. Simpson (Shipley), G. Robinson (Leeds Parish Church), A. J. Hughes (Low Moor), G. W. Hewitt (Earlsheaton), J. Bennett, F. Bennett, M. Lockwood and W. Tattershall (Ossett), and N. Sims and H. Ashton (Burley).

The secretary presented his annual report, the main points being that 11 meetings had been successfully held during the past year. The first rota of visits to towers on a two years' basis had just been completed and found to be workable. The interest and attendance from some of the towers which it has not been possible to visit could have been better. The financial side of the society had again improved.

The balance sheet and auditors' report was then read and accepted.

No further nominations were received, and the following gentlemen nominated last month were declared elected. They are: President, Mr. W. H. Senior; vice-presidents, Messrs. J. Hey, S. Barron and H. Marsden; Ringing Master, Mr. T. W. Strangeway; secretary and treasurer, Mr. H. Lofthouse.

The list of visits to towers was then read. This will be printed and circulated to all towers during the next week or two.

The treasurer proposed that he should pay from the society's funds for the tea of all members who send in their names prior to the next annual nomination meeting.

Afterwards the bells were again heard until 8.30 p.m., when the full 12 were lowered well in peal.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

Warwick, where the Central Council is to meet at Whitsun, is the centre of one of the most historic districts in the country, and an interesting programme has been arranged, including visits to Kenilworth, Leamington, Warwick Castle and Stratford-on-Avon.

After the meeting on Tuesday members are invited to tea as guests of the Warwickshire Guild, and there will be a social in the evening at headquarters.

Members of the Lancashire Association are asked to note that the meeting of the Blackburn Branch to-morrow is to be held at Holy Trinity, Blackburn, owing to illness near the church at Rishton.

Mr. James Hunt, of Taunton, has recently had a new experience. Called upon late one night by an affrighted lady, who thought there was an intruder in her house, he searched the premises for her, and in one of the bedrooms found a stranger, who, on discovery, put up his arms and frankly admitted 'The game is up.' Mr. Hunt mounted guard while the lady fetched a policeman, and next day the stranger was charged with burglary.

At the close of the Guildford Guild's annual meeting on Saturday, the Provost missed his very nice pair of fur gloves. After a long and, for the time being, abortive search through the hall, they were discovered being worn by a lady member of the Guild, who was inspecting the shops in the High Street. She assures us she was quite unaware she was wearing 'stolen property.'

A large gathering of ringers is expected at Tewkesbury on May 19th, when the memorial to the late Rev. C. D. P. Davies will be dedicated. Mrs. Davies kindly invites all ringers who attend the ceremony to tea. Tickets may be obtained from Mr. E. Guise, hon. secretary of the Gloucester and Bristol Association.

The ringer of the 2nd in the peal at Bishop's Hull on April 12th was G. Leslie Pyke, not Pryke as published.

The third annual dinner of the Lancashire Association will be held at the Victoria Hotel, Manchester, on Saturday, October 27th next.

THE LATE REV. C. D. P. DAVIES.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—There may be many ringers who would have liked to go to Tewkesbury on May 19th to pay their tribute to the memory of the Rev. C. D. P. Davies, but who are prevented because of the distance. I am, therefore, extending a hearty invitation to all such ringers, and who live within reach, to come and pay their tribute at Deane on May 19th. It is meet and right that we should do this, for Deane was Mr. Davies' last incumbency. It was here he wrote his book on Surprise methods. He was responsible for the present condition of the beautiful ring of six in the tower in that he had rehung and returned the existing five, and added a treble in memory of his little grandson, who lies in the churchyard.

As it will be a special occasion, some sort of programme seems desirable, and I am arranging for (1) three 720's or quarter-peals if there is time, of Grandsire, Stedman and Cambridge Surprise, to be rung at 2.30, 6 and 8 o'clock: in between whiles ringing as at ordinary meetings. (2) A service of remembrance and thanksgiving at 6.30. Tea will be served at 5 o'clock in the Parish Institute at 1s. per head, though I fear I cannot guarantee tea to anyone who does not notify me of their intention of coming by May 15th.

I hope a good number will come and ring this very beautiful peal in memory of Mr. Davies; everyone will be most welcome.

Deane Rectory, Basingstoke.

MR. C. W. CLARKE'S ACHIEVEMENT.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I should very much like to know, on behalf of the Beds Association, if Mr. C. W. Clarke's record of conducting the first peal for the association and also conducting one on the nearest possible date in the same tower half a century later is also a record for an association? We are, naturally, proud of his achievement, which, record or not, is a great one.

JOHN DAY'S 'RECOLLECTIONS.'

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—Thank you for reprinting part of the late Mr. John Day's 'Recollections.' I would suggest, when space allows, that you reprint the remainder of these very interesting papers. There were, I think, 13 instalments, and they appeared in 'The Bell News' in 1895 and 1896. To my mind, there has never been anything, in their particular line, to match them from 'Church Bells' onwards. Mr. Day himself knew the men he wrote about, and so these pictures are intimate and 'live.' Unfortunately, we have no other first hand knowledge of the many noted men of days gone by.

Can Mr. Tom Russam and Mr. Tom Miller be persuaded to collaborate and continue these 'recollections' of noted Midland men—say to the Bastable, Carter, Sam Reeves and Hattersley times?

If this were done, and the St. Martin's Guild printed the lot in a booklet, what a valuable contribution it would be to ringing literature!

Most of our younger men have never heard of these papers, but I am sure they would find the rest as entertaining as the one of Thomas Thurstans' you reprinted. And so would the twelve 'Thumb-nail sketches' which appeared in 'The Bell News' in 1888.

ANNUAL MEETING.

A Guild Badge to be Adopted.

The annual meeting of the Guildford Diocesan Guild was held at Guildford on Saturday, and was attended by over one hundred members and friends. Twenty-three towers in the diocese were represented and there were visitors from Beddington, Bromley Common, Croydon and London. Ringing took place during the afternoon at the Cathedral and S. Nicolas' Churches, where the bells were utilised in a succession of short touches in a variety of methods.

Service in the Cathedral was conducted by the Provost (Very Rev. E. C. Kirwan), and the singing was led by the organ and choirboys. The preacher was Canon E. M. Girling (of Farnham), who took for his text the words, 'He calleth them all by their names' (Psalm 47, 4). He referred to the fact that many bells had names and spoke of the bells of 'Fenchurch St. Paul,' mentioned in Dorothy Sayers' novel, 'The Nine Tailors,' which all bore names. These names, said the preacher, gave a kind of personality to the bells, and they did not feel they were dealing merely with a piece of metal or a machine. The bells of 'Fenchurch St. Paul' exercised a curious influence, but the book dealt also with a vigorous church life in the parish, in which the parson and the ringers were in complete unity. He remembered, he proceeded, that at one of the Guildford Guild gatherings criticism was made of the clergy in some parishes, but it was quite possible that the difficulties were not all on one side. He was perfectly certain that the clergy of that diocese would be very glad indeed to co-operate with the ringers in every possible way if they found the ringers taking a real interest in the services. He had suggested at one of their meetings that it would be a good thing if ringers of the diocese would wear a badge so that they might be known as officers of the church. He thought it would be a useful thing to show that they were not ashamed of their calling, and that they were proud of having the great privilege of ringing the bells of their churches. The preacher urged the ringers to make their lives harmonious, like the bells, and by their lives testify to the fact that they were not merely amusing themselves when they rang the bells, but were doing a job of work for God. It is good, he concluded, that members of the Guild should make themselves perfect in the art of change ringing—personally, he was only too glad when his own team completed a peal. It was better that they should look upon Sunday ringing as the most important part of their work; that there should never be a time when a team lacked two or three members for their service ringing. It was best of all that ringers should remember they were church officers; that they were in the true sense God's ministers and, like the towers in which they rang, pointed others to God, and by the regularity of their own worship and example lived a consistent Christian life.

After tea the business meeting was held in Holy Trinity Parish Hall, Mr. Walter Harrison (vice-president) being in the chair, supported by the Provost (who is also a vice-president), the Master (Major J. H. B. Hesse) and the hon. secretary (Mr. J. S. Goldsmith). Owing to a chill, the hon. treasurer (Mr. J. Corbett) was unable to be present. Apologies were also received from Mr. W. C. Ryde, K.C., a ringing member at Grayshott, and Mr. A. J. Stedman, an hon. member, of Farnham.

The Chairman welcomed the visitors and remarked that the committee's decision to defray the cost of the tea from the Guild funds seemed to have borne good fruit in attracting a larger number of members to the annual meeting.

DILAPIDATED BELLS.

In their annual report for the year 1933 the committee stated that the work of the Guild had shown no falling off in its main essentials. There were still a number of bands which were below full strength, and bellries where there was still a great difficulty in getting and retaining recruits, but in most of the towers where there were companies, Sunday service ringing had been well maintained. The committee appealed to the incumbents in those churches, where the ringers were numerically weak, to assist in raising the strength of the band by inviting members of the congregation to interest themselves in this branch of church service, so that all the bells in the tower might be rung for all the Sunday services.

There had been a slight falling off in the number of members of the Guild, due in the main to lapsed subscriptions, but it was hoped that the position would be retrieved this year, as there were already signs of reviving interest in quarters where, for some time past, the Guild had been unable to make any advance.

The district meetings held throughout the year were most of them fairly well attended, but chiefly by a limited circle of members. There were still many members who do not attend a meeting in the course of the year—some, even, when the meeting was held at their own tower—and the committee once more urged all members to take advantage of the facilities which the district meetings offered to enable them to reach a higher standard of method ringing and for social intercourse.

Only one important bell restoration was undertaken in the diocese during the year, namely, at Pirbright, where the bells were tuned and relunged by Messrs. Taylor and Co. There were still a number of rings which required attention, and, while in these days there were great demands upon the pockets of churchpeople in this diocese, the committee pointed out to church authorities that it was false economy to allow the bells to get into a state of dilapidation. Neglect might, and nearly always did in the long run, prove a costly matter. Bells were not only an important adjunct to the services, but valuable instruments which were entitled to receive the same care and attention that was bestowed upon any other church property. There were churches in the diocese where the condition of the bells had led to the abandonment of ringing, and the committee desired to urge the clergy and parochial church councils in those parishes to take early action to have the necessary restoration work carried out.

The difficulty of obtaining the use of rings of bells for peals had been once more indicated by the number of peals rung. For the second year in succession, there was a considerable drop in the number. Only 25 peals were rung on tower bells during the year, which, with six peals rung on handbells, made a total of 31, compared with 43 in 1932 and 55 in 1931. The peals were rung in 14 towers in the diocese and one outside the diocese. There were ten conductors, compared with 11 in the preceding year. Only three ringers rang their first peal. The committee again desired to acknowledge the kindness of all those incumbents who had given the Guild permission to hold meetings at their churches. The facilities offered had been very much appreciated, and without them the Guild would lose much of its usefulness. The committee also thanked the honorary members for their valued support and acknowledged their indebtedness to the district officers for their ungrudging labours, carried out sometimes in the face of no little discouragement.

YOUNG MEMBERS VITAL TO SUCCESS.

Commenting on the report, the Chairman first referred to the members lost by death during the year, and the meeting stood in silence for a few moments as a mark of respect. Proceeding, Mr. Harrison said that there was a slight decrease in the membership compared with the previous year. He thought, perhaps, they were suffering a little from self-complacency. They ought to realise that they could still progress further. There was no reason why a special effort should not be made to rope in a few more members. With all respect to the clergy, he thought they ought to take their share of blame. He thought it would be a comparatively small and easy thing for a clergyman to encourage the younger members of their flock to take up the art of change ringing and so spread interest in that side of church work. It was vital to the future success of the Guild that they should endeavour to get in young members to carry on the good work, and under the ægis of the senior members, grow up to learn the art of change ringing and eventually take over the management of the Guild. If they all waited until they were 60 or 70 years old, the time would come when they would have a great shortage of ringers altogether.

The report was adopted, as was also the statement of accounts, presented by the hon. secretary on behalf of the hon. treasurer. The general fund began with a balance in hand of £31 14s. £31 12s. 4d. had been received from affiliation fees and district contributions, and 5s. 1d. from interest, together with a donation of £3 from the Master towards the purchase of copies of the Central Council handbook of instruction for distribution among the members. The Guild expenses had been £32 7s. 7d., including £5 5s. to the Walker Memorial, and £1 1s., the first allocation to the fund established by the Guild for the new Cathedral bells. The balance in hand was £32 19s. 7d. In addition, £60 16s. 6d. had been raised for the Admiral Walker Memorial.

The Hon. Secretary said compared with 1932, the affiliation fees and proportion of members' subscriptions had fallen by £1 14s., but the balance in hand was £1 4s. 9d. more. This, however, was principally due to the saving on the Central Council representatives' expenses, which last year were only 10s., compared with £7 15s. in the preceding year. In the district funds there were balances totalling £40 7s. 4d., compared with £48 18s. 1d. the previous year, but this was more than accounted for by the £15 15s. 6d. which the districts had voted to the Walker Memorial.

The following were elected members: G. Brett, Womersley; R. Wiggins, Pirbright; T. Weller, Shere; T. Aldridge and R. Jonas, Aldershot; N. Waldron, K. Waldron, F. Day, K. Day and A. Skilton, Ashted; and R. Bullen, W. Bullen, W. Pritchard, V. Walker and R. Fitchett, Leatherhead.

There being no other nominations, the following officers were re-appointed: Vice-presidents, Mr. W. Harrison and Very Rev. Provost E. C. Kirwan; Master, Major J. H. B. Hesse; hon. treasurer, Mr. J. Corbett; hon. secretary, Mr. J. S. Goldsmith; hon. auditor, Mr. R. Hasted.

The librarian (Mr. A. C. Hazelden) and the Library Committee (Messrs. W. Harrison, S. Radford and S. Pether) were re-elected.

The meeting confirmed the committee's recommendation that the Summer Festival be held at Farnham on Saturday, July 14th, and it was announced that the Bishop of Guildford had promised to preach and that the Castle grounds would be open to the members.

It was decided to hold the next annual general meeting at Guildford, the date being left to the committee.

On the motion of Mr. W. J. Whiting, seconded by Mr. A. Harman, the committee's recommendation: 'That the annual subscription of ringers under the age of 16 years be 1s.' was unanimously agreed to. Mr. Whiting, in moving the resolution, emphasised the fact that the future of the Guild depended upon their young members, and the admission of young members was of more importance than financial considerations (hear, hear).

COUNCIL QUESTIONS.

The Central Council's agenda was put before the meeting for consideration. The motion that decisions relative to peals should be carried by a two-thirds majority of the Council was supported by the hon. secretary on the ground that it would be a safeguard against decisions affecting important activities of the Exercise being carried by a majority of the Council which only represented a minority of the ringers of the country. It was, however, really a question for the Council. The meeting, therefore, passed no resolution on the matter.

There was a debate on the Minor peals question, after the hon. secretary had explained the intention of his motion.

Mr. A. H. Pulling opposed it on the ground that in the Bankes James arrangement the 720's were false. He expressed the opinion that it was not a question of the Council recognising the peals rung. The associations and guilds should be responsible for the peals rung by their members.

Mr. Fred Bennett proposed that the Guild's representatives should support the motion on the agenda.

The Chairman deprecated giving any direction to the representatives. 'Give them what strong moral support you can,' he said, 'but I do not think you can instruct them what to say.'

Mr. F. Nye proposed that the representatives be given a free hand. The Guild had every confidence in them.—Mr. C. E. Smith seconded, and this was agreed to nem con.

Mr. W. R. Melville said in his opinion not 5 per cent. of ringers cared a brass button about the whole thing.

Mr. C. Hazelden (a member of the Council) said that might be true, but the Central Council had got to care and had got to make some decision. The wishes of that meeting might help the Guild's representatives.

Mr. A. H. Smith said that since it was known that eight 720's of Cambridge with the tenors the right way were available—although whether they were different compositions was questionable—the Bankes James arrangement had not been rung so much. All that ringers were troubling about was to get true 720's, and rather than run the risk of false compositions they did not ring the Bankes James.

The meeting unanimously supported the motion, to be proposed by Mr. E. M. Atkins, that the Council, viewing with concern the comparatively small number of ringers ringing their first peal, suggests that all ringers, mindful of their high calling, should do all in their power to encourage their less proficient brethren.

BADGE TO BE ADOPTED.

The Hon. Secretary introduced a proposal to adopt an official badge for the Guild. He said he had found great enthusiasm for it among the young members. The Guild ought to do anything it could to encourage the young people, and if they were proud enough of their calling as ringers and proud enough of their membership of the Guild to want to wear a badge, they should be allowed to do so. If there were members of the Guild who did not want a badge, they need not buy or wear one—there could be no compulsion about it. He proposed that the Guild should adopt a badge and that the design be left to the Executive Committee.

The Rev. D. Raiton (Shalford) seconded. He had had such a proposal in his mind, but would like to see the suggestion taken to headquarters and made a national one. The badge, of course, should only be issued to properly qualified ringers. It should be not only a mark of membership of a belfry, but an indication that the wearer had attained a certain standard of proficiency.

The Hon. Secretary pointed out that the question of a national badge had been before the Central Council, but had been turned down. Some of the associations and guilds, however, had adopted badges.

The motion, on being put, was carried nem con, the Chairman remarking that he thought it would be a great encouragement to the younger members of the Guild.

A vote of thanks, carried by acclamation, was accorded to the Provost for the service and permitting the use of the Cathedral bells, to Canon Gilling for his address, to the organist and choir, and to the Rector of St. Nicolas for the use of the bells at that church.

The meeting then terminated with a vote of thanks to the chairman for presiding.

NORBURY RINGER'S WEDDING.

On Saturday, April 28th, at Norbury Church, Cheshire, Mr. J. Fernley, jun. (a member of the local company, one of the band in the peal of 38 spliced Minor methods and the youngest son of Mr. J. Fernley, sen.), was married to Miss Eva Hulme.

Before and after the ceremony the bells were rung by Messrs. W. Fernley, A. Fernley, J. W. Hartley, L. Clough, E. Jones, J. A. Milner, W. Stevenson and J. Worth. Later a peal of London Surprise Major (one of the finest rung on the bells) was rung in honour of the event. Afterwards the band were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. W. Fernley, and the 'health and happiness' of the bride and bridegroom was drunk.

EALING.—For morning service at St. Mary's, a quarter-peal of Grandire Triples: E. B. Hartley (first quarter-peal away from tenor) 1, J. E. Churchill 2, W. H. Hollier 3, J. H. Hunnisett 4, A. M. Stacey 5, W. Botterill (conductor) 6, A. Harding 7, E. W. Coulson 8.

WESTERN DIVISION ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual meeting of the Western Division was held at Christ Church, Upper Armley, on Saturday, April 14th. About 50 members were present, representing some 25 towers—truly a well-mixed gathering. The bells were kept going in various methods throughout the day. At the service a very helpful address was given by the Rev. Holmes, who officiated in the absence of the Vicar. It is generally said that ringers are often heard but seldom seen, but, judging by wholehearted singing of the hymns, they could both have been seen and heard.

A bountiful tea was served in the Schools. At the business meeting the vice-president, Mr. P. J. Johnson, occupied the chair. A letter of apology was read from the president (Canon C. C. Marshall), who was attending the Northern District meeting at Pickering.

The following new members were elected: Messrs. F. Armitage, of Burley, W. Amley, of Elland, K. Simpson (age 13), of Shipley, and G. Lambert, of Drighlington.

Replying to a vote of thanks to the Vicar and churchwardens for the use of the bells and to Mr. Holmes for his address, the last named expressed his pleasure at being able to assist in making the meeting a success. A hearty vote of thanks to the local company for making the arrangements was also passed.

Mr. Johnson, in supporting the resolution, recalled the time when Armley was once famous for its handbell team, and expressed great pleasure in having present Mr. J. Thackray, a surviving member of that band.—Mr. H. Lofthouse, the energetic secretary of the Leeds and District Society, responded on behalf of the local company.

It was resolved to hold the next meeting at Elland on Saturday, June 9th (will peal arrangers please note?).

Mr. J. Broadley was re-elected Ringing Master for a term of three years, but, on accepting, expressed the hope that the division should be looking for a younger man to fill the post, as he was now getting on in years, and, although feeling well and hearty, was likely to 'pop off at any time.' Messrs. F. W. Dixon and J. Hardcastle were re-elected to serve on the committee and to fill the vacancy caused by the retirement of Mr. R. Umpleby, Mr. J. Ambler, of Pudsey, was elected. Mr. F. W. Dixon was unanimously elected to serve on the General Committee.

Mr. P. J. Johnson then made mention of the Minor controversy to be brought before the Central Council. Several members expressed themselves on the matter, and, had it not been brought to a close on the motion of Mr. Barton, with the sincere hope that the Central Council will settle the question for all time, some would probably have been discussing the matter yet.

The tower was afterwards visited for further ringing.

DURHAM AND NEWCASTLE DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

An excellent meeting of the Southern District of the Durham and Newcastle Diocesan Association was held at Brancepeth on Saturday, April 21st, 24 ringers being present from Newcastle Cathedral, Wickham, Chester-le-Street, Darlington (Holy Trinity), Shildon, Bishop Auckland and Staindrop. The bells were kept going during the afternoon and evening, the methods rung being Bob Major, Kent Treble Bob Major, Grandire and Stedman Triples, Cambridge and Superlative Surprise Major and Double Norwich. At 4.30 p.m. the ringers went through the Castle Grounds to the Gardens, where a good tea had been prepared, and a short business meeting followed, Mr. W. N. Park (vice-president) being in the chair.

An apology for absence was read from Mr. T. Metcalfe, Middlesbrough, secretary of the Cleveland Association, owing to important business in London.

A vote of thanks to the Rector and churchwardens for the use of the bells was proposed by Mr. W. Storey, J.P., of Newcastle.

The tower was again visited, and ringing continued until 7.30 p.m. It was decided to hold the next meeting at Bishop Auckland on Saturday, June 30th.

ROYAL CUMBERLAND YOUTHS.

A most enthusiastic meeting of the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths was held at West Ham on Saturday, April 21st. The tower was opened at 3 o'clock, by which time a good number assembled, and Stedman Caters and Cambridge Royal were rung before service, which, in the unavoidable absence of the Vicar, was conducted by the curate, who in his interesting address spoke about bells in the 3rd and 4th centuries when only handbells were known. The hymns were heartily sung, led by the organist, who kindly put in an appearance.

Tea was partaken of in the Church Hall, to which about 40 sat down, the curate, despite his pressing engagements, being persuaded to join in.

After tea another move was made to the tower and ringing indulged in till about 9 p.m., everyone voting it a most enjoyable meeting. The methods rang included Stedman and Grandire Caters, Cambridge Royal, Kent and Oxford Treble Ten and rounds for the youngsters.

The next meeting will be held at Brith on July 7th, due notice of which will appear in 'The Ringing World.'

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.*NEWBURY BRANCH.

The spring meeting of the Newbury Branch was held at Midgham on Saturday, April 21st, when the following towers were represented: Bucklebury, Brightwalton, Beeton, Compton, East Ilsley, Hampstead Norris, Midgham, Newbury and Thatcham. Visitors were present from Overton, Farnborough, Wootton Hill and Beenham. Service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. W. Benson), who gave a very inspiring address. The lesson was read by the Rev. W. Kingsley Kefford (chairman of the branch), and Miss E. Mathews, of Bucklebury, presided at the organ.

Tea was served at the Coach and Horses Inn, where 36 sat down to an excellent meal. At the business meeting, over which the chairman (the Rev. W. Kingsley Kefford) presided, the secretary said he had been successful in securing Great Shofford tower to join the Guild, and had arranged to hold a meeting there on Saturday, May 12th. He asked the members to support this meeting.

The Rev. W. Benson, who was elected an honorary member of the Guild, was thanked by the chairman for his address. He also thanked Miss Mathews for playing the organ and Mrs. Barrett for providing the tea. The tower was again visited, and the following methods were rung: Grandire and Stedman Doubles, Kent and Oxford Treble Bob and Cambridge Minor.

SCOTTISH ASSOCIATION.*ANNUAL MEETING AT GLASGOW.

The second annual meeting of the Scottish Association was held at St. Mary's Cathedral, Glasgow, where the bells (a ten by Taylor, 32 cwt. tenor) were kept going to Grandire and Stedman Triples and Caters, and some of the ringers had a first try at Caters on tower bells. The service in the Cathedral was taken by the Provost (the Very Rev. K. C. H. Warner), the association form being used. A very interesting address on 'The influence for good of bells and memories they recalled' was given by the Provost.

Fifty ringers sat down to tea, kindly supplied by the St. Mary's Society, and afterwards the business meeting was held in the Synod Hall, Mr. W. B. Sampson (president) being in the chair. Unfortunately, Mr. W. C. S. Heathcote, the Master, was unable to be present owing to business, and for the same reason he regretfully resigned the Mastership.

Mr. W. H. Pickett and Mr. H. F. Sargent, both of St. Mary's Cathedral, Glasgow, are to hold the position jointly. The secretary's and treasurer's reports were both very satisfactory. Leith was chosen for the next meeting on October 6th, the annual general meeting to be at Edinburgh on April 27th, 1935.

As no word had been received from the patron (the Duke of Argyll) and he was not present at the meeting, the question of the opening of the new peal at Inverary had to be left in abeyance meantime.

Apologies were received from Mr. E. H. Lewis and Mr. Stephen H. Wood for being unable to attend the meeting.

GLOUCESTER RINGERS' DINNER.*BAN ON RINGING AT THE CATHEDRAL.

At the annual dinner of the Gloucester Branch of the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association a protest was made against the refusal of the Dean of Gloucester (Dr. Henry Gee) to permit ringing on the Cathedral bells on that occasion. The Mayor of Gloucester (Mr. T. Hannam Clark), who presided, said application had been made to the Dean to permit members to ring on the Cathedral bells, and in a letter replying the Dean stated that owing to the weakness of the tower he had to refuse the request.

One speaker contended that if the bells of the Cathedral could be rung 12 times a year, surely a thirteenth could be allowed on the occasion of their annual dinner. Failing this, perhaps one of the monthly occasions could be foregone to enable visitors to the dinner to find the opportunity of ringing. It would be a great incentive to ringing in Gloucester if the Cathedral bells could be used.

The Mayor of Gloucester was supported by Canon H. M. Braithwaite (Mayor's chaplain), the Rev. E. D. S. Camus (Rector of St. Mary de Crypt), the Rev. E. Banks James, Mr. S. D. Romans (chairman of the Gloucester Branch), Mr. W. H. Harris (secretary), Messrs. T. Baldwin and J. Austin. Among the visitors were Mr. S. R. Roper (Croydon), a party of ringers from Bristol and another from Mangotsfield.

After the loyal toast had been honoured, the Chairman proposed the toast 'The Church and State,' and remarked that he had an interest in bellringing, having been born near Painswick, which was regarded as one of the principal bellringing places in England. He extended a hearty welcome to the Rev. E. Banks James, whom he had always associated with church bellringing, and who had never lost his interest in this, his hobby.

Canon Braithwaite, replying, said that he was always sorry when attending that dinner that he could not hold forth hopes that ringing could be safely resumed in the tower of St. Michael's Church. The Advisory Committee thought that it was not safe to ring in that tower at present.

Giving the toast of 'The Gloucester and Bristol Association,' the Rev. E. D. S. Camus pointed out that the Dioceses of Gloucester and Bristol were once united. They had since been separated, but the bellringing associations had held together and combined strongly to their mutual help and benefit.

Mr. E. Guise explained that the Gloucester and Bristol Association hoped to add another branch to its list in the North of the Dean Forest. He also stated that he had received information from the branch secretary that the local band of ringers at St. Mary de Lode Church, the mother church of the city, were anxious to have their peal of six augmented to eight. The ringers had themselves promised £5. and £11 altogether had been promised. He hoped they would succeed in their efforts.

Mr. S. Roper, in proposing the toast of 'The Ringing World,' urged upon the members who did not do so the necessity of buying 'The Ringing World' every week, pointing out that they would gain useful knowledge by doing so and keep in touch with everything appertaining to ringing. He hoped the conductor of every tower would see that a copy of 'The Ringing World' was placed in the ringing chamber every week.

Mr. G. Jackson proposed the toast of 'Other Kindred Societies and Visitors,' and, in reply, Mr. J. Jones, secretary of the Llandaff Association, remarked that it was a great disappointment to the visitors to Gloucester to find that the Cathedral bells were unavailable.

Mr. S. Romans proposed a vote of thanks to the chairman, the Rev. H. M. Braithwaite, the Rev. E. D. S. Camus and the artistes, and to this the Rev. H. M. Braithwaite replied, in the absence of the Mayor, who had had to leave to keep another engagement.

A musical entertainment was provided by the Tuffley Revellers, supported by Messrs. H. Newman and J. Gillett. Handbell selections were given by Messrs. S. E. Romans, J. Williams, W. H. Harris and J. Austin.

THE LADIES' GUILD.

CENTRAL DISTRICT ADMIT MEN TO MEETING.

A quarterly meeting of the Central District was held at St. Mary's, Twickenham, on Saturday, April 14th. The bells, a nice ring of eight, were kept going from 3.30 p.m. till 5 p.m., when an excellent tea was partaken of at the new Parish Hall nearby.

After tea it was announced that any gentleman who cared to do so would be allowed to stay during the business meeting.

The business meeting then followed, Mrs. R. F. Deal (vice-president) occupying the chair.

Two new members were elected: Miss Phyllis Tillett, of Ipswich, and Miss Nixon, of St. Mary Magdalen, Holloway.

It was proposed, providing permission be obtained, that the next meeting, being the annual one, should be held at St. George-in-the-Borough, Southwark, on June 22nd.

Mention was made by Mrs. G. W. Fletcher of the annual general meeting to be held at Surfleet on July 14th. Any members of the district who desire to attend should communicate with her as soon as possible, in order that arrangements can be made with regard to travelling by coach or rail.

Mrs. Chas. Kippin asked whether it had previously been the rule to request gentlemen who attended the gathering to retire during the meeting. It was stated, in reply, that this had not been the case for some time past, as usually of their own accord the gentlemen returned to the belfry for further ringing while the meeting was taking place.

A hearty vote of thanks was proposed by Mrs. Fletcher to the Vicar (the Rev. W. P. Cole Shcaune) for granting permission for the use of the bells, also to Miss Kathleen Bradford for making the necessary arrangements for the meeting and tea. Service was afterwards held, at which an interesting address was given by the Vicar, whose text was, 'The joy of the Lord is in thy strength.'

RINGERS' DAY AT RANMOOR, SHEFFIELD.

LARGE GATHERING OF RINGERS TRY THE NEW BELLS.

On Saturday, April 21st, the new peal of ten bells at the Church of St. John, Ranmoor, Sheffield, were open for ringing, by kind permission of the Vicar (the Rev. H. C. Foster), who desired that the bellringers should have a day of rejoicing at Ranmoor after the bells had been silent for two years.

The bells were set going shortly after 2.30 p.m. At 4.30 p.m. a splendid tea awaited the assembly in the Church Hall.

About seventy sat down to tea, including the Lord Bishop of Sheffield (Dr. Burrows), the Vicar of Ranmoor and the Rev. J. H. Foster, Vicar of St. Michael and All Angels, Necpsend. After tea, the Vicar of Ranmoor extended to those present a hearty welcome, saying he was sure all were anxious to hear what the Bishop had to say about the bells.

The Bishop said he not only had to address the ringers of his own diocese, but the ringers from eight other dioceses who were with them that day. The ringers of to-day, he said, were an important body of churchworkers, and he himself recognised and appreciated very much their work and the great improvement effected in the belfries. The Bishop finished his short address by congratulating the Vicar of Ranmoor on having such a splendid peal of bells in his church.

Mr. C. F. Johnston, who represented the firm of Messrs. Gillett and Johnston, the bellfounders, said it had been a great pleasure to do the work, for whatever they had asked for or suggested to be done was granted and attended to.

The Rev. H. C. Foster (Vicar) then announced that by the generosity of Mr. Johnston and a few friends at Ranmoor, the tea would be gratis.

Mr. C. Haynes, president of the Sheffield and District Society and Master of the Ranmoor company, proposed a hearty vote of thanks to the Bishop for his presence and the interesting address he had given them, and said they were very grateful to Mr. Johnston and Ranmoor friends for their generosity, it being the second free tea within three weeks.

Mr. Potter, of Barnsley, supported the vote of thanks, and remarked that he envied the ringers in Sheffield having a Bishop who took such an interest in them.

The tower was again visited, and full use of the bells was made. The circle of the ropes, the tone and 'go' of the bells alike are splendid and a credit to those who had the work in hand.

DEANS AND THEIR WAYS.

The ways of Deans are sometimes wondrous strange. At Lichfield Cathedral, for instance, the bells are only available once in two years—and then only for about an hour—for the Society for the Archdeaconry of Stafford, who meet regularly in the city for their annual meeting. At a dinner at Gloucester recently it was announced that the use of the bells of the Cathedral for the occasion had been refused by the Dean—"owing to the weakness of the tower." In the case of Lichfield it is said that the restriction is due to the dislike of bells which has been expressed by people in the Close, where, too, the Dean lives. It would probably be equally true to say that the same reason is paramount at Gloucester, and that the condition of the tower is a convenient excuse. If the tower is sufficiently safe to allow the bells to be rung twelve times a year, there can be no additional risk to the fabric to ring the bells to a limited degree on one more occasion. This is not the first time that visitors to Gloucester have received a rebuff when applying for the use of the Cathedral bells. We recall an instance when a party of ringers who desired to call there and take part in the Sunday ringing were flatly refused. Instead of being welcomed, as visitors usually are to a belfry, definite orders were issued that they were on no account to be admitted to the tower.

Outsiders are not in a position to dictate to church authorities as to the times when their bells shall be rung or who shall ring them, but there are occasions when refusal of permission to ring, except for the very gravest reasons, is in bad taste and quite contrary to the spirit which ought to be fostered—and happily is in most places—between co-workers in the church. We can never believe that the people in the vicinity of Lichfield Cathedral would have, as a whole, any serious objection to the ringing of the Cathedral bells for an hour or two on one day a year, or that it would affect their nerves any more than does the ringing there in alternate years. Similarly at Gloucester there was good ground for the protest made against the ban. It is perfectly absurd to say that a short spell of ringing on one extra day would add one iota to the risk to the stability of the tower itself. If it would, it is the bounden duty of the Cathedral authorities to take immediate steps to safeguard the building, otherwise it may tumble about their ears on any of the other twelve occasions in the year when the Cathedral ringers ring the bells.

As a matter of fact the type of excuse to which we have referred does not 'go down' with ringers. The authorities might just as well say, 'We don't want you here,' but that, perhaps, would not appear quite so courteous.

It is, however, a selfish attitude, and it is fortunate for the art of ringing that such cases are few and far between. The general experience is a much happier one, and has done a good deal in the creation of the good relations which now exist between ringers and the Church. But where cathedrals are concerned it is especially unfortunate if the diocesan ringing association cannot have access on special occasions to the belfry of their mother church. It is the place above all where the diocesan tie should be strongest and where the diocesan organisation should be most readily welcomed. Even a Dean, we think, ought to be prepared to sink his personal objection to bells or ringers outside his own band for the sake of occasionally helping to promote the spirit of co-operation between the ringers and the Church.

PEALS OF MINOR.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—In his letter in your last issue, Mr. Stephen Wood says, 'An extent is not only the full number of rows possible on a certain number of bells, BUT THE FULL NUMBER OF CHANGES.'

I wonder how he proposes to get the full number of changes into any extent?

There are only 720 rows available on six bells, but there are far more changes than that. Let me give a simple example. If we call two seven hundreds of Cambridge calling the first W.R.W., and the second L.N. 4th's we shall get the same rows in each, but not the same changes.

Take the first bob in the second seven hundred. It is

Now that change does not come at all in the other seven hundred; nor is any bob-change in either seven hundred used in the other. No two seven hundreds in the same method can contain the same changes.

As a matter of fact there are 1,500 different changes on six bells in a Treble Bob method, though there are only 720 rows. For a plain method there are far more. It is impossible to introduce all these into an extent, with only 720 rows. Neither are we compelled to return to the row we started from, for we can have 720 true rows and 720 true changes without doing so.

I notice that Mr. Pulling, at the Guildford meeting, described my seven hundreds as false. I am wondering what his definition of false is? To my mind, if you never repeat a row and never repeat a change, the composition must be true. Now if Mr. Pulling will look at the first 720 rows in my peal he will find no repetition; neither will he find a change repeated in the first 720 changes. Where, then, does he find the falseness?

Mr. Wood suggests a definition for a peal of Minor in which, as he truly says, many arrangements would be included which the Exercise does not want. The following is the definition that I would suggest: 'A peal of Minor shall consist of seven or more blocks of 720 rows, in each of which no row or change is repeated.'

E. BANKES JAMES.

THE BANKES JAMES ARRANGEMENT.

Dear Sir,—There has been a considerable amount of correspondence in 'The Ringing World' about what should be recognised as a peal of Minor; but, in spite of all that has been written about it, I have yet to meet the ringer who can tell me exactly what the Bankes James arrangement of Cambridge Surprise Minor is.

There may be a number of representatives on the Central Council who have but a hazy idea of this arrangement; yet they will be asked to vote on a motion (or motions) concerning it.

May I beg of you, sir, if space can be spared, to publish the Bankes James arrangement of Cambridge Minor in 'The Ringing World' in order that all those Central Council representatives who need to do so may have an opportunity of studying this arrangement thoroughly for themselves.

Here are the figures of the Bankes James Arrangement of Cambridge by the bob leads. The figures to the left of each column denote the number of leads between the bobs. The 5,040 is completed by the 'standard' 720.

MINOR RINGERS INADEQUATELY REPRESENTED.

Dear Sir,—I have been much interested in reading your article in the current issue, 'Brass Button Brigade,' and in the sound 'logic' it contains on the indifference existing, and shown, with regard to this question. I could have agreed entirely with Mr. Melville had he said that not 5 per cent. of the ringers attending the Central Council meeting care a brass button about the whole thing, because that is, I believe, a fact—and the reason is not difficult to find. The great majority of Central Council members are interested only in such peal ringing as Double Norwich and other eight and ten bell methods. Minor ringing and all appertaining to it is not worth bothering about.

DEVON GUILD.

A quarterly meeting of the Mid-Devon Branch of the Devon Guild was held at Collaton St. Mary on Saturday, when there was a good attendance of ringers from Exeter, Buckfastleigh, Plymouth, Brixham, Paignton, etc., as well as the local tower. The bells, which are a ring of five installed in 1923, were made good use of during the afternoon, touches of Grandsire and Stedman Doubles being rung. A hearty service in church was conducted by the Rev. W. R. D. Mills (Vicar), who gave a very helpful address. This was followed by tea in the Parish Hall, and Mr. F. J. Laxton presided over the subsequent business meeting. Apologies for absence were received from the Rev. E. V. Cox (president), Mr. T. Laver (general secretary) and Mr. J. Olding, of Cockington.

For the next meeting, to take place on October 20th, Ashburton and Brixham were proposed, and, on a vote being taken, Brixham was chosen.

One honorary member and four performing members were elected.

The Chairman extended a hearty welcome to the visitors from other branches, and Mr. E. W. Marsh suitably replied.

An appeal was made by the Collaton band for help to practise other methods, and this was promised by the more experienced members.

Hearty votes of thanks were accorded to the Vicar for the arrangements made and to the organist, and the Vicar suitably replied. The members afterwards visited Stoke Gabriel and Paignton, where Grandsire and Stedman were rung.

Minor ringers are very inadequately represented on the Central Council. It matters but very little what excellent characteristics (other than ringing) a ringer may possess, if he hails from a six-bell tower in many cases he will not be considered anything near enough of a 'god' to even get nominated for Central Council honours, and it is largely owing to this indifference to Minor matters and Minor ringers generally on the Council that this question gets continually shelved. I have just picked up at random from my collection only three Guild reports (neither of them are up to date), and I find that in those three Guilds there are 236 towers affiliated, and out of that number 82 are six-bell towers—more than a third. I find it very difficult to agree with Mr. Melville when he states that not 5 per cent. of the ringers attached to those 82 towers care a brass button about what intimately concerns them. If Minor ringers had a third representation on the Central Council I believe this question would have been settled long ago.

THE YOUNGSTERS' PEAL AT CRAYFORD.*A RECORD LIKELY TO STAND FOR ALL TIME.

Mr. F. E. Dawe, who was largely responsible for the arrangements made for the youngsters' recent peal at Crayford, writes: I feel in duty bound to thank you for the excellent account you published on the 27th ult., together with the able leading article of encouragement extended to the young people concerned. Yes, it was a magnificent performance and reflects the highest credit on all the band, for many of us who heard the peal were agreeably surprised at the measured 'beat' and fine and accurate striking from first to last! The band was perfectly placed; never once was the issue in doubt, and we had it afterwards from all the band that, beyond the necessary 'calls,' the conductor only whispered once—and that was of a trivial nature!

I have, as you know, gone very carefully into the details of the birthday of each ringer, and the age works out at an exact average of 15 years and two weeks! This, of course, constitutes a distinct record, and one which I think will stand for all time—especially considering the many obstacles and difficulties to be surmounted in the multiplicity of arrangements that are necessary for success.

We cannot but admire the praiseworthy action of the conductor, who, without any suggestion beforehand, repeated the usual 'Ringers' Office' before calling 'Go'! Who amongst us will be bold enough to deny that this may not have had something to do with the marvellous success attained—for the clean run into 'rounds' was perfection itself!

True it was only 'Bob Major,' but this musical method was so well rendered that I am sure all who had the good fortune to hear it must have been quite as pleased as if it had been a band more advanced in years in the 'Surprise' category—say, for instance, 'Double Timbuctoo Astonishment,' 'Limerick Confusion,' or even 'Loch Ness Mystery'!

May I add that I am gratified with the splendid letters of thanks from the youngsters—together with certain local newspaper reports—entirely written by themselves!

The picturesque old stone tower at Crayford, partly covered with ivy, looked majestic when this peal was rung, for it was bathed in the glorious sunlight of a lovely afternoon and formed a beautiful picture. This, together with the mellow old, sweetly-toned bells, was unforgettable, and I trust the bells may never attract the attention of some 'anonymous and generous donor,' over-anxious that they 'be recast and IMMENSELY improved'!

BELFRY GOSSIP.

Just 25 years ago—on May 13th, 1909—Harry Withers, of Birmingham, did a thing which nobody had done before or has done since. At Selly Oak he 'called' a peal of Superlative Surprise by standing in the churchyard and pulling a cord which rang a small bell in the ringing chamber whenever a bob had to be made.

Thirty-one years ago to-day the record peal of 14,112 London Surprise Major was rung at King's Norton. Several attempts have since been made to ring a peal a lead longer, but up to now success has not been achieved.

Success can be a very elusive thing. Just 50 years ago Mr. F. E. Dave rang a peal at Chester Cathedral, and since then one of his ambitions, which he has been gradually fulfilling, has been to ring a peal at every Cathedral in England—every Cathedral that is that was not until recently a parish church. He has very nearly completed them, but Durham eludes him.

Four times within the last two years he has made the long journey from London for the purpose, and each time has come away empty-handed. Last Saturday week an attempt was lost after 2½ hours. But he has not yet lost hope. Like Bruce's celebrated spider, he will 'try again.'

The Bournville carillon is to be enlarged from 42 bells to 48, and 29 of the old bells are to be recast. Three heavy ones are to be among the additions.

MOULTON'S NEW BELLS.

DEDICATED TO THE GREAT MISSIONARY, DR. WM. CAREY.

The new bells at Moulton, Northants, will be dedicated at 3 p.m. on June 9th, when the Rev. J. White, M.A., Rector of Pitsford, Rural Dean and president of the Northampton Branch of the Diocesan Guild, himself a keen ringer, will perform the ceremony. A unique feature of the occasion will be the presence of Dr. William Carey's great-grandson, the Rev. S. Pearce Carey, who has accepted the invitation to preach on this historic occasion, which will be an open-air service outside the belfry door, where the ceremony of handing the ropes may be seen by all. The lessons will be read by two prominent Baptists, both Church and Chapel thus uniting in this act of worship.

The singing will be led by an ex-Service member of the church on his cornet, the bellringers' hymn being led by the ringers on their four octave set of handbells.

A procession round the village will precede the service.

'LOCAL' PEALS AT HILLINGDON.

To the Editor.

Sir,—The footnote of the peal of Grandsire Caters, rung at Hillingdon, Middlesex, in last week's issue of 'The Ringing World,' reads as the first peal ever rung at the church by an entirely local Sunday service band.

I should like to point out that a peal of Grandsire Triples was rung at St. John's by an entirely local Sunday service band. There were only eight bells there at that time—on January 3rd, 1901. It was conducted by J. J. Pratt.

THE CENTRAL COUNCIL MEETING.

WHAT VISITORS TO WARWICK SHOULD SEE.

The annual meeting of the Central Council is to be held at Warwick at Whitsun. In addition to the day's business on Tuesday, an interesting programme has been arranged for members and their friends. Details of the arrangements appeared in our last issue, but for the benefit of those intending to share in the excursion here are some of the places of interest in and around Warwick which are worth a visit.

WARWICK CASTLE, which rises like a sheer precipice above the waters of Shakespeare's Avon, is the chief attraction of Warwick to visitors, not merely on account of its interest as a building, but for the rich collection of works of art, armour, old furniture, historical relics and curiosities which it contains. The dominating situation of the Castle is best appreciated from the stone bridge which carries the Banbury Road over the Avon, while if one wanders down Mill Street—a wonderful panorama in itself of old English architecture—and stands at the foot of Caesar's Tower, it is possible to understand how virtually impregnable such a fortress as this must have been before modern high explosives were invented.

According to tradition, there was a fortress here in Roman times. St. Dubritius, about 477 A.D., established his episcopal seat at All Saints' Church, within the Castle walls. In 916 Ethelfreda, daughter of Alfred the Great, made a fortress here, and this was extended in the time of the Conqueror. In 1264 the walls and buildings were destroyed, but were rebuilt by Thomas de Beauchamp in Edward III.'s reign. In 1469 the Earl of Warwick (the Kingmaker) brought Edward IV. to the Castle as a prisoner. The Castle eventually became the property of the Crown and fell into decay, but in 1605 James I. granted it to Sir Fulke Greville, who set about rebuilding and repairing it. The Castle has been visited by many Sovereigns, including Henry III. (during the Siege of Kenilworth), Henry V., Richard III., Elizabeth I., James I., William III. and Queen Victoria.

ST. MARY'S CHURCH, WARWICK.—The chief features are: (1) The tower rising from four arches, three of which are open to the street, the other forming the principal entrance to the church; (2) the choir, a lofty and magnificent structure, and part of the church which escaped the fire of 1694; (3) a fine Norman crypt; and (4) the Beauchamp Chapel, the most magnificent part of the church. Mr. E. H. Adams, the sexton and head ringer at St. Mary's, will be pleased to show parties over the church at suitable times.

Other places in Warwick well worth a visit are:—

Leycester Hospital and West Gate, which dates back to the 14th century, and contains many relics of interest.

The Court House, built about 1725 on the site of an older one at the corner of Jury Street and Castle Street.

The County or Shire Hall in Northgate Street, built about 1757.

LEAMINGTON SPA is a very close neighbour to Warwick, the towns practically joining, although each is a separate borough. Leamington, in contrast to Warwick, is a thoroughly modern town in every respect, and the chief places of interest are the Jephson Gardens, bordered by the River Leam, the classic Pump Room building opposite, the Parish Church and the handsome Town Hall in the style of the Italian Renaissance.

KENILWORTH CASTLE.—It is probable that a fortress of some sort stood on this site in Saxon times. The earliest portions of the Castle now in existence were built by the Clintons in the 12th century, and King John extended the buildings. Henry III. used Kenilworth Castle as a royal palace, and the governorship of the Castle became an office of honour and dignity granted by the King to important personages in the State. It was in the Great Hall of the Castle that the weak and unfortunate Edward II. was forced to renounce the Crown. Queen Elizabeth granted the Castle to Robert Dudley, Earl of Leicester.

STRATFORD-ON-AVON.—Among the places of special interest in Stratford are Shakespeare's birthplace in Henley Street, the Grammar School, which celebrated its quinqucentenary in 1928, Holy Trinity Church, where the poet and his family lie at rest, and the Shakespeare Memorial Theatre, Library and Picture Gallery.

COVENTRY.—The Cathedral.—St. Michael's Church became the Cathedral Church of the revived See of Coventry in 1918. St. Michael's is believed to have been founded in the middle of the 12th century. The original church was of Norman architecture. Then came the Early English church, with the enormous proportions which have made it a rival with the great parish edifices of the land.

St. Mary's Hall belongs to the 15th century, and was erected at the expense of the Craft Guilds. It is immediately opposite the entrance to the Cathedral and is well worth a visit. It is from the steps of St. Mary's Hall that Lady Godiva is supposed to have started on her triumphant journey through the town.

WALTHAM ABBEY.—On Sunday morning, May 6th, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Caters (1,259 changes): Mrs. Berry 1, G. Peace 2, C. House 3, W. Newnham 4, Miss G. Church 5, F. Perrin 6, A. House 7, G. Thurgood 8, G. Radley (conductor) 9, W. Perry (first quarter of Caters) 10. Rung to celebrate the 874th anniversary of the consecration of the church.

REPORT OF THE STANDING COMMITTEE.

The committee reported that, as instructed by the Council at the 1932 meeting, it had considered its constitution and the constitution of the various committees. (a) It recommended that the Standing Committee consist of (1) the president, hon. secretary and treasurer, hon. librarian and conveners of committees ex officio, (2) twelve elected members (chosen by ballot if more than 12 names are proposed). The twelve retiring members to be the first names to be proposed. The committee to have power in the event of the services of any other members of the Council being considered by them desirable, to co-opt not more than two members. (b) It recommended that, as regards the other committees, the Council should appoint the convener in the first instance, but changes may be made at any time by the committees.

On the proposal of the Rev. Canon H. J. Elsee, seconded by Mrs. E. K. Fletcher, the report was adopted, and on the proposal of Mr. A. Walker, seconded by Mr. W. Ayre, the following members were re-elected: Canon G. F. Coleridge, Canon H. J. Elsee, Alderman J.

REPORT OF METHODS COMMITTEE.

Mr. J. A. Trollope reported progress and proposed that the following addition be made to the statement under the Council's definition of a method, which states, 'Methods are formed from principles in two ways,' the addition to be, 'An illustration of this statement is to be found in the Little and Alliance methods, which have come into prominence of late years. In appearance their form places them outside the definition of Plain and Bob Leads, but, properly speaking, they are in logical succession of such methods as Bob Major. Thus a Little method is one which follows the rule except in so far as this is qualified by the restriction of the hunt to fewer places than the number of bells employed; an Alliance method is one in which the hunt has a composite path comprising portions of more than one principle.'

The proposal was seconded by the Rev. E. S. Powell and carried.

The Rev. E. S. Powell reported as to progress on the Triples book (see report in 'The Ringing World,' June 23rd, 1933, pages 393-4), and recommended, on behalf of the committee, that the book be completed and forwarded to the Standing Committee for publication. The book to include Stedman and Erin and all Triples methods with two hunts symmetrical about the leads—of methods with one hunt eight of nineteen which run to the natural six leads—of compositions, about eight quarter-peals and six peals of Stedman and shorter touches—Erin, two quarter-peals and three peals—Grandsire and Reverse Grandsire about twelve quarter-peals and ten peals, to include Holt's ten-part peal—Double Grandsire, one quarter and two or three peals, and in methods with one hunt, one quarter and two or three peals of each. The names of composers to be attached to their peals, except in the case of peals composed by members of the committee. Mr. Trollope supported the recommendation. On the president's motion the recommendations were adopted.

The Standing Committee recommended the election of the committee, consisting of Mr. J. A. Trollope (convener), Rev. E. S. Powell and Mr. S. H. Wood, and on the motion of Mr. S. F. Palmer, seconded by the Rev. H. Drake, the recommendation was adopted.

REPORT OF THE VARIATIONS COMMITTEE.

REPORT OF PEALS ANALYSIS AND RECORDS COMMITTEE.

The report (published in 'The Ringing World' on May 26th and June 2nd, 1933) was formally presented. Mr. P. J. ## REPORT OF THE STEDMAN COMMEMORATION COMMITTEE.

The report of the committee consisted of final accounts, presented by the hon. secretary on behalf of the committee, since published in 'The Ringing World,' June 30th, 1933, page 409, which showed that the sum of £13 16s. 1d. had been advanced by the Council to pay accounts. The President proposed that the fund be now closed by the Council voting the sum of £13 16s. 1d. and any further subscriptions received be paid into the Council's fund. The proposal was seconded by Mr. A. Paddon Smith and carried.

After considerable discussion regarding the use of St. Benedict's bells by beginners, it was proposed by Mr. E. M. Atkins, seconded by the Rev. F. Ll. Edwards and carried, 'That this Council expresses the hope that the Stedman bells be rung regularly to the glory of God by a local band of ringers.'

REPORT OF THE LITERATURE AND PRESS COMMITTEE.

The report of the committee was presented by the Rev. F. Ll. Edwards and has since been published in 'The Ringing World,' June 30th, 1933, page 410. The committee recommended that a letter of thanks be sent to the B.B.C. for the broadcasts and references to bells during the year, and a suggestion be sent for still more use of ringing in the programmes.

The report and recommendation were adopted on the motion of the Rev. F. Ll. Edwards, seconded by Mr. J. S. Goldsmith.

The Standing Committee recommended the re-election of the committee, the Rev. F. Ll. Edwards (convenor), Messrs. J. S. Goldsmith, C. H. Howard and A. Paddon Smith, and on the motion of the President, the recommendation was adopted.

The Rev. F. Ll. Edwards suggested the formation of a separate Broadcasting Committee, and on the motion of the President it was decided to give the committee power to co-opt two or three members who were wireless experts to take over this side of the work.

REPORT OF THE RULES COMMITTEE.

The report of the committee embodying the proposed new rules was published in 'The Ringing World' on April 7th, 1933. The report had the support of the Standing Committee, and the adoption was moved by the President, seconded by Mr. C. T. Coles. The motion was carried nem con.

On the motion of Mr. E. J. Butler, seconded by Mr. W. Ayre, it was agreed that as far as the general business of the Council was concerned the rules come into force for next year's meeting. In reply to a question, the President stated that the new rules did not imply that affiliated societies must ring changes.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE APPOINTED TO PREPARE PAMPHLET ON GOOD STRIKING.

The Rev. Canon G. F. Coleridge reported that the committee had prepared the pamphlet, and this, together with photographs, had been sent to the hon. secretary. The printing had been delayed as the book did not actually carry out the terms of the resolution passed last year, inasmuch as that it did not contain information on how to ring and call Grandsire Doubles and Bob Minor for the benefit of young bands. He moved that the pamphlet as now presented be approved without any addition. This was seconded by Mr. J. T. Dyke. The Standing Committee recommended this course, and that the price be restricted to 2d. per copy post free. The resolution was agreed to and printing authorised.

GENERALLY AS TO COMMITTEES.

On the motion of the President a vote of thanks was passed to all members of committees for the work done by them during the past three years.

MOTIONS.

It was proposed by Mr. F. E. Dawe, and seconded by Mr. E. A. Young, 'That this Council deprecates the breaking-up of church bells renowned for their tonal qualities and historic interest, urges Church authorities not to assent to their destruction except for the gravest reasons, and, furthermore, recommends that independent expert advice be obtained in all such cases before action is taken.' By permission of the proposer and seconder, the following amendment, proposed by Mr. C. F. Johnston, seconded by Mr. A. L. Coleman, was substituted: 'That this Council deprecates the breaking-up of church bells of proved good tone and of real historic interest, urges the Church authorities not to assent to their recasting except for the gravest reasons structurally or musically, and, furthermore, recommends that independent advice, qualified to advise on historic, engineering and musical grounds, be obtained in all such cases before action is taken.' The resolution was carried.

In the absence of Mr. G. R. Newton it was proposed by the President: 'That this Council uses its influence to encourage five and six-bell companies to ring peals in more than one method. It also urges them to include whenever possible at least seven methods in their peals.' The motion was seconded by Mr. A. Tomlinson and carried.

It was agreed on the President's motion to debate items Nos. 13 and 14 together.

It was proposed by Mr. S. H. Wood, and seconded by Mr. J. S. Goldsmith: 'That peals of Minor shall in general consist of seven or more separate extents rung consecutively and without interval. That compositions arranged in what is known as the "Bankes James Principle," notwithstanding that they do not conform to the above definition, shall be recognised as peals.'

The following note should have been added to the above proposal: 'This arrangement consists of a number of successive blocks of 720 true rows, not necessarily round blocks themselves, but which when joined together consecutively, form a round block, starting from and ending with rounds. It is recommended that such compositions should only be used when there is considered to be some definite gain from the point of view of variety or music.'

It was proposed by Mr. C. T. Coles, seconded by Mr. E. M. Atkins: 'That a peal of Minor should normally consist of seven true and complete round blocks of 720 changes each, in a recognised method or methods, rung consecutively and without interval, rounds thus occurring at the beginning and end of and at regular intervals throughout the peal.'

That a peal of Doubles should consist of 42 true and complete round blocks of 120 changes each, in a recognised method or methods, rung consecutively and without interval, rounds thus occurring at the beginning and end of and at regular intervals throughout the peal.

That peals as above may be lengthened by the addition of one or more true and complete round blocks of 720 (or of 120) changes, each fulfilling the same conditions, with or without one true round block having less changes.

That any departure from the above standards is not encouraged; notwithstanding this, however a peal of Minor or of Doubles may consist of any arrangement of 5,040 changes in a recognised method or methods, provided that no change is rung more (or less) than seven times in a peal of Minor, or 42 times in a peal of Doubles, and that the whole starts from and ends with rounds. Such peal may be lengthened, provided that no change is rung more than once for each additional 720 (or 120) changes, and that the whole ends with rounds.'

As an amendment to the above two proposals, it was moved by Mr. W. E. White, and seconded by Mr. E. Denison Taylor:—

'That a peal of "Doubles" must consist of not less than forty-two true and complete round blocks of 120 changes each, rung consecutively and without interval, each 120 commencing from and finishing with rounds. It may be lengthened by the addition of any number of 120's and/or by the addition of one shorter touch fulfilling the above conditions. It may be rung with or without a cover bell.'

'That a peal of "Minor" must consist of not less than seven true and complete round blocks of 720 changes each, rung consecutively and without interval, each 720 commencing from and finishing with rounds. It may be lengthened by the addition of any number of 720's and/or one shorter touch fulfilling the above conditions. It may not be rung without a cover bell.'

It was stated by the President that the question had been raised as to what, if the amendment was carried, was going to happen with regard to the various peals that had been rung containing these special compositions which were not true round blocks of 720, and there was confusion as to what was meant by the Council recognising peals or otherwise.

The peals that were rung came before the Council in the Report of the Analysis Committee, but this committee did not attempt to discriminate between legitimate or regular peals or otherwise, and included all peals published. The Council was not legislating for the past, and in his view they had taken no steps either to recognise or not recognise the various peals that had been rung.

Under the new rules there was a possibility of the Council recognising a peal in the future, as all guilds, societies and associations would be definitely affiliated to the Council, and agree to abide by its decisions. Being loyal to the Council they would withdraw from their records any peals not so recognised. What was most important was that what was rung should be recorded so that future generations could decide on the merits of it.

The amendment was carried, and on being put as a substantive motion was carried, but failed to obtain the necessary two-thirds majority under Rule 11.

PLACE OF NEXT MEETING.

The following places were proposed: Wolverhampton, proposed by Mr. H. Knight, seconded by Alderman J. S. Pritchett; Warwick, proposed by Mr. J. A. Trollope, seconded by Mr. J. H. White. The voting was in favour of Warwick.

GRANTS TO MEMORIALS.

On the motion of the President, the Standing Committee's recommendation was adopted to make the following grants: £5 5s. to memorial to Rev. H. Law James, £10 10s. to memorial to Sir A. Heywood, £3 3s. to memorial to Mr. H. W. Wilde, and £3 3s. to memorial to Mr. E. Barnett.

NEW TOWER AND BELLS AT ST. HELENS.*LANCASHIRE GAINS ANOTHER PEAL.

The Lord Bishop of Liverpool on Saturday dedicated the new tower and peal of bells which have been added to complete the Church of St. Thomas, St. Helens, Lancs.

The first Church of St. Thomas was erected 95 years ago, but the new church has been without a tower for nearly 20 years. The new tower and bells have cost close on £4,000, most of which has been raised.

There was a crowded congregation. The Mayor and Mayoress (Councillor and Mrs. Thackray) attended with the Deputy Mayor (Councillor T. Wood). The Bishop was accompanied by Archdeacons Howson and Twitchett, the Vicar (the Rev. J. W. Glendening), the Vicar-designate (the Rev. S. Winsland) and many other clergy.

Dr. David, in his sermon, said their church tower was a witness, an outward sign of something which could not be seen, but could be shown lifted high above the town to catch the eye and lead it upwards, and with it the thoughts of the heart. In a few years the outline of their half-finished Cathedral in Liverpool would be broken by the tower rising up from it, a witness in stone, and he would always think of those two towers together. Both had come at a time when they would not naturally expect great things to be done.

Then the tower served the particular purpose of sheltering and making available for use their bells. There was something peculiarly English about bells. The beautiful and fascinating art of peal ringing was invented and brought to perfection in this country. It was a great thing for them in the diocese that there should be one more team of change ringers there. The best bells in the world were made in England, and in the church towers of England there were more bells than any other land could boast.

The collection realised £79 5s., and on Sunday special services were held, the preachers being Archdeacon Twitchett in the morning and the Rev. Canon Child in the evening. The total collections amounted to £113.

NORWICH DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.*EASTERN BRANCH SUCCESSFUL MEETING.

On Saturday, the annual meeting of the Eastern Branch of the Norwich Diocesan Association was held at Acle. There was ringing during the afternoon, followed by tea, served at the Rectory. The Rev. J. E. H. Williams presided over the business meeting and expressed his great pleasure in having the meeting at Acle, as the bells had been recently rehung. It would also put life into the local company to have other ringers come to visit them.—In the election of officers for the district Mr. Denison Hayward was chosen as chairman, Mr. J. G. W. Harwood as secretary and Messrs. E. R. Goate, W. J. Lee, Clayton Parnell, J. Taylor and R. T. Woodley as committee.

The Rev. J. E. H. Williams was elected an honorary member, and Thomas William De Ville and Stanley William Gall, both of Halvergate, were elected members of the association.

Great Yarmouth was chosen for the next meeting on August 18th.

A vote of thanks was passed to the Rector for presiding at the meeting. Mr. A. L. Coleman, the secretary of the association, expressed pleasure at the presence of Mr. Denison Hayward, who is one of the three surviving members of the association who joined at its formation in 1877.

The branch would like to thank the Rector and also Mrs. Williams for the cordial way in which they received the company and also the enjoyable tea provided, to which 25 sat down.

This was the most successful meeting which the branch has held, and altogether 37 ringers attended. Ringing was carried on after tea till 9.30, everyone having a good word for 'the go' of this fine peal of six. Ringers attended from Norwich, Yarmouth, Reedham, Marham, Halvergate, Norton, Wymondham and Wroxham. Some of the methods rung were London and Cambridge Surprise, Kent and Oxford Treble Bob, Double Oxford, Double Court, Kent and Oxford Treble Bob Spiced, Stedman Doubles and St. Simon's.

DEATH OF WHITTLE-LE-WOODS RINGER.

The death occurred on Saturday, April 21st, of Mr. Arthur Hartley, who had been a ringer at St. John's, Whittle-le-Woods, since the bells were installed in October, 1910, except for a short period when he answered the call to arms in the Great War.

The interment took place on Wednesday, April 25th, when he was borne to the grave by six of his fellow ringers, the service being conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. T. H. Priestnall, M.A.). After the funeral, short touches of Stedman and Grandsire Triples were rung on the fully muffled bells, and in the evening a quarter-peal of Kent Treble Bob Major was rung by the following: W. Beaver 1, Thos. Barker 2, Wm. Sharples 3, E. Lawson 4, Adam Blogg 5, P. G. Bradley 6, John Charnock 7, Alfred Blogg (conductor) 8.

The deceased, whose lifelong interest in sport (he was a footballer of no mean ability and a very useful member of the local cricket club until Anno Domini drove him to the less strenuous pastime of bowling, in which he also excelled) eminently fitted him for the team work in the belfry. His cheery disposition and readiness to help both in the service ringing and in peals, and also his kindness and patience with learners, will long be a pleasant recollection to those whom he has left for a time in the tower at Whittle-le-Woods.

GLOUCESTER AND BRISTOL DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.*BRISTOL BRANCH MEETING AT MARSHFIELD.

A very pleasant meeting of the Bristol Branch was held at Marshfield on Saturday, April 28th, about 46 members and friends being present. The bells, a nice ring of eight, were set going at 3 p.m. and some useful practice was put in in the usual standard methods.

The service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. S. C. H. Staley), and Mr. J. H. Beazer read the lesson. The organist also assisted in the service, which was exceptionally bright, while the Vicar's address was very interesting and helpful.

Tea was partaken of in the Parish Hall, having been very kindly provided by the local ringers and friends. A short meeting followed, at which, by the invitation of the branch chairman (Mr. J. G. Jefferies), the Vicar presided.

The Vicar was elected an honorary member, and a vote of thanks was proposed by Mr. John W. Jones (Newport), and suitably replied to by the Vicar and Mr. J. H. Beazer.

The secretary (Mr. F. Skidmore) reminded the meeting of the Davies Memorial dedication and opening at Tewkesbury on Saturday, May 19th, and gave particulars of the arrangements which had been made for travelling. He urged whoever wished to go to let Mr. E. Guise or himself know not later than Saturday, May 12th.

The members were very pleased to have with them Mr. J. T. Dyke, Mr. D. G. Taylor (Bath and Wells), Miss N. G. Williams and Miss I. Hastie (Ladies' Guild), Mr. John W. Jones (Llandaff and Monmouth Association), and others from Bath and surrounding district. Some of those present accepted the Vicar's invitation to walk round the Vicarage garden, whilst others continued ringing.

ESSEX ASSOCIATION*NORTHERN DIVISION MEETING.

A meeting of the Northern Division was held at Bocking on Saturday, April 21st, when 49 ringers were present from 17 parishes. Ringing commenced with a touch of Bob Major with one of the local hand, and afterwards various methods, including four Surprise, were successfully brought round.

A service was held in St. Mary's Church, conducted by the Very Rev. Dean Rogers, assisted by the curate. Master J. Barkaway presided at the organ, and Mr. B. Holdaway read the lesson. Everyone appreciated the excellent address given by the Dean.

Tea was provided at the Church Hut, Mrs. Holdaway being responsible for an excellent repast. The Dean very kindly took the chair, and, with the curate and organist, the company numbered 54.

Mr. B. Holdaway, on behalf of the local company, gave the visitors a hearty welcome and wished them an enjoyable time.

The District Master (Mr. A. Saunders) reported that since the last meeting they had lost through death one of their old ringing friends, Mr. Lewis Wiseman, of Sible Hedingham, and, as a mark of respect, he asked the company to stand in silence for a few moments.

At the business meeting the Rev. C. W. Barlow, Vicar of Witham, was elected an honorary member, and five ringing members were elected from Pebmarsh. This is believed to be the first time this tower (5 bells) has been in union with the association.

The next meeting was arranged to be held at Colne Engaine, the date to be fixed later by the district secretary.

Mr. A. Saunders proposed a vote of thanks to the Dean for the use of the bells, for his excellent address and for presiding at the tea and business meeting, also to the curate, organist and organ blower, and to the ladies for preparing the tea.—The Dean, in reply, said it was a very high compliment that such a large number should be there that day. Perhaps it was they had the best church, the best bells, the best ladies and the best Dean at Bocking (laughter). He was very pleased to hear that the health of the Master, Mr. C. H. Howard, was improving, but he was sorry he was not sufficiently recovered to attend that meeting. He hoped the secretary would write and convey those remarks to him.

MEETING AT BOREHAM.

A meeting of the South-Eastern Division was held at Boreham on Saturday, April 14th, by kind permission of the Vicar (the Rev. A. Stone). Eighteen members were present from Broomfield, Great Baddow, Boreham, Chelmsford, Danbury, Ford End, Maldon and Great Totham. The service was taken by the Vicar, who welcomed the ringers very heartily and gave an interesting address.

Tea at the Queen's Head was presided over by the Vicar, who also took the chair at the business meeting, at which it was decided to hold the next meeting at Danbury on June 16th.

A hearty vote of thanks was accorded to the Vicar for the use of the bells, taking the service and presiding at tea, also to Mrs. Stone for playing the organ at the service. Handbell ringing followed, after which a return was made to the tower.

ST. NEOTS, HUNTS.—At the Parish Church on Sunday, April 8th, for evening service, a quarter-peal of Bob Major: G. L. Coleman 1, Miss P. Hind 2, E. Clarke 3, B. Wayman 4, R. Barnes 5, L. J. Flint 6, F. Warrington (conductor) 7, H. Fields 8. All of local company except 4th and 7th ringers.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD.*DEVIZES BRANCH.

The branch monthly meeting was held at Longbridge Deverell on Saturday, May 5th, representatives attending from Devizes (St. John's and St. James'), Southbroom, Bratton, North Bradley, Westbury, Rowde, Warminster, Holt, Melksham, Longbridge Deverell, Buckland Newton, Stourton and Bourton. The service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. J. D. Vincent, M.C.). Tea (which was a bountiful one) was arranged by Mr. W. A. Avery and was laid in the Village Hall.

Mr. C. D. Heginbotham presided at the usual short business meeting. The Vicar voiced a welcome to the Guild at the conclusion, and the members returned to the tower. Methods up to Oxford and Kent Treble Bob were rung during the meeting.

Although the attendance was smaller than usual, a very enjoyable time was spent, and some good practice was put in.

DORCHESTER BRANCH.

About 40 ringers, representative of various towers of the Dorchester Branch of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild, were present at the branch meeting at Charminster. A service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. D. F. Clemeck, R.D.). The surpliced choir and lady chorists were in attendance, and the accompaniment was rendered by the church organist, Mr. F. W. Kibbey. The Vicar based an impressive sermon on the text, 'I am Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the end' (Rev. xxi., 6).

After the service the members sat down to tea in the Parish Hall, arrangements for which were admirably carried out by Mrs. J. Watts and a willing band of helpers. In the absence of the branch chairman (the Rev. T. S. Tarrant, Vicar of Wool), the Rev. D. F. Clemeck was voted to the chair for the business meeting.

Four new ringing members were elected from Buckland Newton. The Vicar of Bradford Peverell (the Rev. A. F. Godley) extended an invitation to the branch to hold its next meeting, to be held in July, at Bradford.

Mr. C. H. Jennings (branch secretary) reported on the progress that had been made in connection with the Dorset Ringers' Fellowship meeting at Milton Abbey on June 9th, when an address is to be given by the Bishop of Salisbury.

Mr. R. J. Tompkins, the secretary of the Charminster tower, voiced the hearty appreciation that was felt for the invaluable help of Dorchester members in going to Charminster and giving instruction.

A vote of thanks to the chairman for conducting the service and allowing the use of the bells and supplying tea, and to the organist, choir and organ blower, was proposed by the Rev. A. F. Godley and seconded by Miss L. R. Clapcott.

A practice was afterwards held, during which some higher methods were rung, and practice was continued at St. Peter's, Dorchester.

The towers represented at the meeting were Bradford Peverell, Buckland Newton, Charminster, Dorchester, Fordington St. George, Frampton, Sydling, Upwey, Wyke Regis, Evershot and Rampisham.

WINCHESTER AND PORTSMOUTH DIOCESAN GUILD.*ALTON AND PETERSFIELD DISTRICT'S FIRST MEETING.

The first quarterly meeting of the Alton and Petersfield District was held at Blackmoor on Saturday, April 28th. Members were present from Alton, Bramshott, Blackmoor, Fareham, Petersfield, Prevett, Steep and Wickham. The bells were kept going to the standard methods until 4.30 p.m., when the Guild's service was conducted by the Vicar of Blackmoor (the Rev. F. G. Eyres), who gave an interesting address based upon the tuning of church bells. Tea was served at 5 p.m. in the Parish Room and the usual business meeting followed. About 30 members attended.

The company were invited by Lord Selborne to look over the grounds of Blackmoor House, and, after enjoying the beauties of nature for an hour or so, ringing was resumed until late in the evening.

COMPOSITIONS AND AUTHORSHIP.

One of the committees of the Central Council which has, over a period of many years, produced really tangible results is the Methods Committee. It has been carrying on its labours nearly as long as the Council has been in existence, and from time to time the Exercise has reaped the benefit of its assiduous labours in the publication of a 'Collection' of methods. Few people realise the vast amount of work that goes to make up one of these 'Collections,' and the Exercise is extremely fortunate that it is able to find men of sufficient knowledge who will bestow their time and talents upon a task from which they themselves reap no reward except the realisation of a job well done in the interests of others and of the art. The occasional appearance of a 'Collection of Methods' is but a comparatively small indication of the labour that has been involved and of all that has been done in the quiet of the study, but as an example we may mention that in preparation for what in future may be a selected collection of Surprise Major methods, one member of the committee has already been working for years. The publication in immediate prospect is a Collection of Triples methods, which is practically ready for Press, but a Collection of Surprise methods, which may be the next step, is a far vaster business; indeed, if the whole field of Surprise Major is to be explored before the final selection is made, it will probably be some years more before the work can be completed.

Of more present interest, however, is the committee's report to be presented to the Council next Tuesday. It is largely devoted to the authorship of compositions, a subject brought into the committee's purview from the fact that peal compositions, applicable to the methods printed, now form part of the 'Collections.' The committee, it will be seen, look forward to the time when peal compositions will be accepted merely as mathematical formulæ, and as such, they say, should not be treated as the personal property of the 'composer.' For that reason, they tell us, all new peals which are printed in future 'Collections' will appear anonymously. We are not sure that this procedure will altogether commend itself to ringers, and especially to composers whose peals have been the result of much thought and study. It might be possible to get over the difficulties of identification, which is essential to all compositions that are rung, but there seem to us to be two strong reasons which should make the Council hesitate before they accept this dictum of the committee. First, ringers desire to have the guarantee of an author's competence behind the peals they ring, because it is not every conductor who can prove a composition before he calls it. In a book published by the Central Council the competence behind the anonymous figures would be taken for granted, but a general application of the principle, established under the Council's lead, might be of very doubtful value. Secondly, we believe such a practice would lead to a serious loss of initiative among composers, and might rob the committee of their help. It is not everybody who likes to work in anonymity—there is a certain kudos and satisfaction in having one's name attached to one's work, which not everybody cares to forego. We remember that even the Methods Committee, not very long since, put up a fight in the Council to have the right of printing their names exclusively on the cover of one of the 'Collections.' Whatever future generations may think of a man's personal claim to a composition, it is early days yet to talk of denying to a composer the rights of his authorship.

WOODFORD GUILD'S EXCURSION.

When, at the beginning of the year, the St. Mary's, Woodford, Guild decided to hold an outing on April 30th, there were some who thought that it was somewhat early for such an event, but, as subsequent events proved, the venture was eminently successful.

The party, consisting of the Woodford band and six guest ringers, left Woodford at 8.30 a.m. in a comfortable motor-coach, and the first stage of the journey was made through thick mist, but, despite this, Dunstable was reached 20 minutes before schedule, and the party were thus afforded the opportunity of looking round the fine old Priory Church, which is a splendid gem of Norman work with a particularly impressive west front.

Mr. A. E. Sharman arrived very shortly afterwards, and the fine toned ring of eight were set going to a well-struck touch of Stedman Triples, followed by other touches, from call changes to Kent Major, and a service touch of Double Norwich.

The journey was continued, passing Whipsnade Zoo and on to Ivinghoe Beacon, which is one of the highest spots in the Chilterns (762 feet). An ascent was made, but the normally fine views were partially obscured by the still lingering mist. At Tring the ringers were met by Mr. F. J. Reeve, one time president of the Herts County Association. A very pleasant hour was spent with the mellow ring of eight.

After dinner the route took the company through some beautiful country to High Wycombe, where they were met by Mr. R. Coles and others, including the Rev. C. Elliot Wigg, the Deputy Master of the Oxford Diocesan Guild. With the assistance of these gentlemen, proceedings commenced with a touch of Stedman Cinques, followed by call changes and Grandsire Triples on the back eight, three leads of Treble Ten and a concluding touch of Stedman Cinques. This was undoubtedly the 'high spot' of the day's ringing.

A short run of two miles brought the party to West Wycombe, which is a village of considerable charm. The church stands on a hill some three or four hundred feet above the village, and was built by an eccentric nobleman, Lord Francis Despencer, or Dashwood, whose large and imposing mausoleum adjoins the church. The tower is surmounted by a large ball, in which seven or eight people can sit, and rumour has it that this was the scene of many a drunken carousal. The view from the tower is an entrancing one, and the sight of the village nestling as it does at the foot of the hill and surrounded by trees is one well worth the strenuous climb. The stay in the tower was rather short, but touches of Grandsire and Stedman Triples were rung before the bells were lowered in peal.

Tea was served in the village, and at the conclusion of a very happy meal, Mr. W. H. Seabrook, on behalf of the guests, thanked the Woodford band for inviting them to such an enjoyable affair. He was sure that it was a day that would not speedily be forgotten by any of the party. Mr. Morris, on behalf of the Woodford company, said that it had given him and his ringers great pleasure to have the guests with them. He also thanked his assistant, Mr. J. A. Waugh, for the admirable organisation of the day's programme.

Amersham was the last stopping place, and an hour's ring on the six bells was much enjoyed, methods rung being Kent, Oxford and Plain Bob Minor, Grandsire Doubles, and, with the assistance of Mr. W. Redrup, of the local band, a course of Cambridge Minor.

The homeward journey was started at 9.30 p.m. and Woodford reached at 11 p.m., when a tired, albeit extremely happy, party dispersed to their various homes. Through the medium of 'The Ringing World,' the Guild would like to thank the towerkeepers and incumbents at the various churches for their ready permission and assistance, which made the outing the unqualified success it was. The assistance of Mr. A. D. Barker, secretary of the East Berks and South Bucks District of the Oxford Diocesan Guild, was also very valuable. The bob calling was shared by Messrs. W. H. Seabrook, J. A. Waugh and J. G. A. Prior.

LINCOLN DIOCESAN GUILD.*ELECTION OF NEW PRESIDENT.

Lincoln 'Fair Saturday' (April 28th) brought round another very enjoyable annual meeting of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild. Ringing commenced at two o'clock at the Cathedral, and also at the two six-bell towers of St. Peter-at-Gowt's and St. Botolph's. At 3.15 a special ringers' service was held in the Morning Chapel of the Cathedral. This was conducted by the Dean of Lincoln (Dr. R. A. Mitchell), who also gave the address, in which he mentioned the great loss the Guild had sustained by the death of its late president, Canon Jendwine. He paid a very warm tribute to Canon Jendwine's great interest in the work of the Guild.

An excellent tea was served in the Co-operative Hall, Silver Street, after which the business meeting was held. Mr. Rupert Richardson took the chair at the commencement, and the Dean of Lincoln was then unanimously elected president of the Guild, and took over the chairmanship of the meeting.

Mr. Rupert Richardson and Mr. F. W. Stokes were unanimously re-elected Master and hon. secretary respectively.

The meeting heard with very great regret that Mr. F. F. Linley, owing to continued ill-health, wished to relinquish the office of hon. treasurer. Mr. Linley has been treasurer of the Guild ever since its formation in 1899, and has always taken the greatest interest in Guild affairs. He has also been president of the Northern Branch since 1905.—On the proposition of Mr. G. Chester, seconded by Mr. F. S. W. Butler, Mr. E. Dawber, of Gainsborough, was elected to the vacant office.

The report and balance sheet were adopted. Referring to the former, the Master said that he had during the past year attended meetings in all the branches of the Guild, and he was particularly struck with the number of young and enthusiastic ringers who were coming along. He also said that although there had been a big drop in the number of peals rung (65, as against 94 in the previous year), he did not consider this as an unfavourable sign, as the quality of the peals rung had been well maintained. He mentioned one of the chief events of the past year, namely, the completion of the Rev. H. Law James memorial fund for adding two trebles to the peal of ten at Surfleet Church. There had been a wonderful response to the appeal, and the sum of £176 0s. 6d. had been raised in ten months, no less than £76 15s. 4d. having been subscribed by friends outside the Guild, showing in what great esteem the late Master was held.

The meeting closed with hearty votes of thanks to the Dean and Chapter of the Cathedral and the incumbents of the other two churches in the city for the use of the bells, and to the Dean for presiding and so kindly arranging the service.

Immediately the meeting closed, members made their way again to the several towers, where ringing took place until nine o'clock.

LANCASHIRE ASSOCIATION.*MANCHESTER BRANCH MEETING.

A quarterly meeting of the Manchester Branch of the Lancashire Association was held at Brookfield Unitarian Church, Gorton, on Saturday, May 12th. Quite a pleasing feature of the afternoon was the opening of the bells at the advertised time by the local band.

A service was conducted by the minister (the Rev. Fred Cottier), who, in his address, took notice of opinions of ringers as expressed in recent issues of 'The Ringing World' concerning the sermons of clergy at ringers' meetings, and kept off the subject of 'Bells,' with the result that the congregation had the pleasure of listening to a very enlightening talk on the uses and misuses of mental and physical powers in mankind extracted from Plato's re-related story of 'Atlantis.'

Tea was afterwards served in the Schoolroom, where later the business meeting was held.

The minister took the chair, supported by the branch president (Mr. C. Ollier), and, after offering the members a hearty welcome, referred to the bereavement of two of the local ringers, who were burying their mother that day.—The meeting stood in silence as a tribute of respect, and the bells during the day were rung half-muffled.

Places chosen for the forthcoming quarter's meetings were: June 16th, Christ Church, West Didsbury; July 21st, St. Peter's, Swinton; and August 18th, quarterly meeting, St. Mary's, Prestwich.

Two new members were elected, viz: Walter Dalley, Pendlebury, and Albert Smith, Reddish.

The meeting closed with votes of thanks to the chairman for conducting the service, the address, the use of the bells and for his services in the chair; to the organist, Mr. F. Ellis, and to the ladies and local ringers.

PEALS OF MINOR.

To the Editor.

Sir,—May I express a hope that members of the Central Council will not lose sight of the fact that the Exercise is a body of men bound together by common interest in a science; and that, therefore, when the Council meets, its members will treat this question in a scientific spirit, remembering that it is not in accordance with that spirit to seek to restrict ingenuity merely or mainly out of deference to conventions about form.

ACCEPTED CANONS VIOLATED.

Sir,—The challenge of the Rev. E. B. James to Mr. Pulling is unfair. Both Mr. Trollope and I have said that the 'Symphony in C (Cambridge) Minor' is false. If Mr. James will condescend to direct his guns on me, I will be pleased to entertain him. To say that 'there are 1,500 changes' on six figures is a travesty on the English language and unworthy of a man of his brilliant achievements. Fortunately, it requires neither a Sherlock Holmes nor a university education to understand this matter of commonsense. He says, 'neither will he find a change repeated in the first 720 changes.' Let us see. The 720th change is 34256. The same row 34256 comes up at a plain lead, ten leads previously. The second 720 (the rev. gentleman has erroneously quoted this) ends with 42356. That row repeats at the ninth lead (a plain lead). In the third 720 rounds comes twice. First at a plain lead (9th), again at the end. The majority of ringers know by now that there is a great difference between theory and practice. In theory, counting rounds before you go off as one of the rows, it is true that in the triplex blocks the first 720 rows of each are true, but NOT THE CHANGES. Here's the snag. If the last row in each 720 belongs to the NEXT, why bring up rounds at the end with a BOB, seeing that the hand-strokes, bobbed or plain, are alike? Further, if the round at the start is included, it must have been rung in a previous peal at the end.
