The first two quarter-peals are united by calling an additional pair of bobs at 7-8 in the third course of the fourth part, which brings up a new part end 43521. Then follow five parts of the 'standard' calling, until, at the third course in the ninth part, another additional pair of bobs is inserted at 7-8, which brings the bells back to the place in the original quarter-peal at which they left it, and the part end is the fourth part end of the quarter-peal given last week.

The part ends which have been inserted, beginning at the fourth part, are:—

The next part end, the 9th, is what comes up as the 4th in the original quarter-peal, viz., 12534, which, you may notice, has been displaced from its proper position by its exact reverse, 43521.

In the second half of the peal the two quarters are united by the omission of a pair of bobs, the 7-8 in the first course of thirteenth and eighteenth parts, which, in effect, splices one quarter-peal into the other, the second omission taking up the changes where the first omission broke away.

The two half-peals are joined together by a single, called in the last course of the tenth part, when the 7th is in 4-5 up, after having been in quick, and just before the bells, if the single were not called, would come round. The single does not affect the 6th, but while the 7th makes fifth's and dodges down, the 4th makes 6th's and dodges in 6-7 up. The result of this is that the actual course end is cut out, and you have the 6th going in quick after the 7th. Bobs are called at 5-6 (when the 7th is doing the half-burns, just as in the last course of each part), and a new part end (the tenth) is produced at the end of the course—25431.

The final single comes at the beginning of the third course in the 20th part. It is called when the 7th is dodging down with the 6th. The 7th makes the single and dodges up and the bells then come round. These odd changes are really the missing ones between the 7th in 4-5 up and 5-4 down at half-way.

Here are the part ends affected by the extras, omits and singles:—

10th part end, after single and 5-6	25431
13th part end, after omits	41235
20th part end, after single	23145

The course ends given last week and earlier in this article will give you the transposition for ascertaining the part ends, when the standard calling has been used. Get pencil and paper and work out all the 20 part ends. You should memorise as many of them as you can before starting to call the peal, not only to check up on the ringing to see if the bells are right, but to facilitate putting into operation some of those other guides which we set out in the last article.

A guide to the extras and omits, in case you lose count of the parts you have rung, is to be found in the fact that the 5th, as well as the 6th and 7th, is unaffected by them. When you want to call the extras (in the 4th and 9th parts), watch, after the second course end, to see if the 5th is following the 7th and 6th from behind. The 5th is the observation bell's 'opposite number, after,' and is actually working with the 7th in the slow at the extra bobs—in the relative position of 5-6, to the 7-8 of the 7th, in fact.

To know when to omit the bobs in the second half (in the first course of the 13th and 18th parts) remember that the 5th is behind, dodging in 6-7 up, at the preceding pair of bobs (3-4).

After a little study and practice the beginner should be able to see, as he goes along, many of the things we have mentioned. At first, perhaps, he will only be able to realise that such and such a thing is happening, but very soon he should see the positions developing before he reaches them, and then he will find himself gradually able, if trouble occurs, to guide the bells into the right channels. Of course, a knowledge of how all the bobs are to be made does not necessarily mean that all the trips can be corrected, but as a starting point it is invaluable, and after practice the beginner's powers of observation will grow.

When calling a peal make as many 'landmarks' as you can, but it is a mistake to try to overload your memory. It is better to build up your knowledge gradually but permanently than to try and 'crum' your head with a lot of things so imperfectly that at the crucial moment, when the knowledge is required, you cannot recall it.

WINCHESTER AND PORTSMOUTH DIOCESAN GUILD.

A quarterly meeting of the Alton and Petersfield District was held at East Meon, Hants. Members were present from Blackmoor, Bishopstoke, East Meon, Fareham, Hawkey, North Stoneham, Privett, Petersfield, Portsea, Soberton, Steep, Wickham and, in addition, one unattached and one compounding member from Milland. The bells were rung throughout the afternoon and evening to Grandsire Doubles and Triples, Stedman Triples, Bob Major and Cambridge Surprise Minor.

The Guild's service was held, at which the Vicar of East Meon (the Rev. C. H. Mylne) officiated and gave a short but inspiring address.

Tea was provided at the George Inn, to which 31 sat down. The business meeting followed, the district chairman (the Rev. F. G. Eyres) presiding.

The company stood in silence as a mark of respect to the late captain of the Alton band, Mr. W. Perry, who died very suddenly several weeks ago.

Three ringing members from Blackmoor (Messrs. E. Amey, G. Hall and W. Amey) were elected.

The next quarterly meeting was fixed for July 25th, to be held at Binsted. An evening meeting was fixed for June 3rd at Blackmoor.

Votes of thanks were accorded the Vicar of East Meon for the use of the bells and his address, also to Mr. Harris, who officiated at the organ, and to the caterers.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

EAST BERKS AND SOUTH BUCKS ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual meeting of the East Berks and South Bucks Branch of the Oxford Diocesan Guild always attracts ringers from all over the country, and, despite the fact that there were 43 other meetings advertised for the same day, to say nothing of the cup final, it is pleasing to note that 68 persons sat down to tea and nearly 80 ringers were present at Woodburn during the afternoon and evening from Berks, Bucks, Herts and Middlesex. Ringing included the four Surprise methods, Superlative, Cambridge, Bristol and London.

The Guild service was conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. R. A. Hendy, M.A., assisted by the Rev. C. Elliot Wigg, Deputy Master of the Guild, the choir being augmented by ringers from Cookham, South Harrow and Old Windsor. It is worth recording that everything went to schedule so well that tea was finished by 5.45 p.m. Various items on the handbells helped to fill in the gap, whilst the secretary tried to write his report.

The chair was taken by Sir Charles A. Bennett, supported by Mr. W. H. Fussell (vice-chairman), the Rev. C. Elliot Wigg (Deputy Master) and Mr. R. T. Hibbert (general secretary). The Chairman expressed his great regret at being absent from the two previous annual meetings, but said how pleased he was to be present on this occasion and to see so many of the usual smiling faces. Mr. Fussell evidently having found the secret of perpetual youth. It was also very gratifying to see so many young faces to keep the art in a flourishing condition.

Several new members were elected, accounts passed and reports accepted. The sum of £2 2s. was voted to the W. Eye Memorial Fund.

The officers elected for 1936 were: Chairman, Sir Charles A. Bennett; vice-chairman, Mr. W. H. Fussell; branch secretary and treasurer, Mr. A. D. Barker; Branch Ringing Master, Mr. T. J. Fowler; branch representatives to serve on the General Committee, Mrs. A. D. Barker, Messrs. T. J. Fowler, J. L. Kirk, M.S.A., J. C. Truss, F. D. Boreham, W. E. Redrup and W. Birmingham.

It was decided to hold the next monthly practice at Amersham.

Votes of thanks were accorded to all those who assisted in making the meeting a success, especially Mrs. Martin and her helpers at the tea table.

It was unanimously decided to take part in the joint meetings to which the branch had been invited by the South and West District of the Middlesex County Association. The secretary was also instructed to write various letters!

Mr. R. T. Hibbert again made a cheerful speech, saying that as long as he could get there, he would come to see his old friends. The tower was again visited until 9 p.m., which came all too soon for most people.

NEWBURY BRANCH MEETING.

The spring meeting of the Newbury Branch was held at Peasemore on Saturday, April 25th, when 32 members were present from Bucklebury, Beedon, Brightwalton, Chieveley, Compton, East Isley, Newbury, Peasemore, Thatcham, Woolton Hill and Yattendon. One visitor attended from Abingdon. A short service was conducted by the Rector (the Rev. J. Ward Brennan), who gave a very inspiring address. Mrs. Holmes was at the organ. Tea was served in the Village Hall by Mrs. W. Blea, 28 sitting down.

The chairman of the branch (the Rev. W. Kingsley Kefford) presided at the business meeting.

The summer meeting was fixed for Thatcham on Saturday, June 20th.

Votes of thanks were accorded with applause to the Rev. J. Ward Brennan for his address and welcome, to Mrs. Holmes for playing the organ, and to Mrs. W. Blea and her helpers for providing the tea.

The tower was again visited and Grandsire and Stedman Doubles. Plain Bob, Kent and Oxford Treble Bob Minor rung.

BELFRY MEMORIAL TO KING GEORGE V.

An interesting event took place at the Liverpool Branch meeting of the Lancashire Association, held at St. Luke's, Great Crosby, on Saturday, May 9th. A tablet was unveiled to the memory of the late King George V. As a memorial, the belfry has been renovated and two beautiful new windows put in.

At the bottom of the belfry steps is a tablet with the inscription, 'To the memory of King George V.'

The Vicar, the Rev. A. P. Miller, in his address, pointed out a pleasing coincidence. The day of the ceremony, i.e., May 9th, was the anniversary of King George's proclamation, May 9th, 1910.

MUFFLED BELLS.

At Coalbrookdale, Shropshire, on Wednesday evening, May 6th, with bells half-muffled as a token of respect to the late Mr. Frederick Rich, for many years a sidesman and auditor at Holy Trinity Church, who was interred at Coalbrookdale in the afternoon, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples: F. Jones 1, E. D. Poole (first quarter-peal 'inside') 2, R. Evans 3, J. F. D. Pratt 4, W. Saunders 5, A. S. Bayley (conductor) 6, B. L. Jones 7, J. F. Hanley 8.

'THE INCOMPLEAT CAMPANOLOGIST.'

STOURBRIDGE STUDENT WRITES OF HIS FIRST PEAL.

The 'Spring Term' issue of 'The Stourbridge Edwardian,' the magazine of King Edward's School, Stourbridge, contains an interesting article entitled 'The Incompleat Campanologist,' written by H. Walton, Form VI.1.2, who a few months ago rang his first peal. This article is just the kind of thing to interest the type of young men that is wanted in the Exercise, and we hope it may induce other Stourbridge students to take up the art.

Having reproduced from 'The Ringing World' the official record of the peal referred to, rung at Clent, the writer says: 'It calls up memories of a raw and gusty Saturday afternoon, when I set out with my brother, who was also ringing his first peal, to walk a cold wet mile to the Parish Church, where we met six other ringers. It was a quarter to four when the small oaken door, which is plentifully studded with big iron nails, was unlocked, and we climbed the spiral staircase in the tower to the ringing chamber, a small room some twelve paces square, hung with boards recording former peals on the bells, and with eight bell ropes neatly looped to hooks in the walls.'

'As this was the third attempt at this particular peal, the first attempt failing when a broken clapper spoiled two and a half hours of ringing, and the second proving a miserable fiasco, we all knew our positions, and after each ringer had made himself comfortable by divesting himself of coat, collar and tie, and any other articles of apparel he thought fit, the bells were "pulled up."'

After explaining what change ringing is, and what a peal consists of, the writer described the peal in which he took part. 'The time seemed to go slowly, as it was only marked by the directions of the more experienced ringers to others who had gone astray, and by the instructions of the conductor, whose duty it is to see that the bells keep in their proper order throughout.'

'After a time, I began to calculate how far we had gone, and, glancing at the clock, saw that we were progressing steadily. After about an hour and a half I felt that the twelve hundredweights of bell metal on the other end of the rope had grown to twelve tons, and as the minutes dragged past, I was rather concerned, feeling sure that if the weight of the bell continued to increase at the rate of a ton per minute (as it appeared to be doing) it would soon carry my insignificant eight stones up to the roof and back. Fortunately for me, this horrible disaster was averted by the end of the peal. The voices of choirs of angels never gave half as much joy to the rapt listener as the sound of those last few changes did to me. What a wonderful feeling of relief to set the bell and sit down!

'The more experienced ringers showed no signs of fatigue, but the muscular labour of three hours of exercise, which combines the arduous toil of coal-heaving with the subtle tortures of Swedish drill in the gymnasium, needs to be felt to be appreciated. My back appeared to be broken, my legs were certainly paralysed!

'This then was my first peal, and to most people it probably seems a waste of a perfectly good Saturday afternoon. Despite this, ringing exerts a kind of fascination because of its wide appeal. It provides exercise for mind and body, and can be specially recommended as a means of keeping at bay the dreaded "middle-aged spread"; the intricacy and neatness of the calculations involved delight the heart of the mathematician; no one with a sense for the dramatic can fail to be interested by the part ringing plays in the life of the nation—the bells which pealed out joyfully on the occasion of the late King's Silver Jubilee spoke a little later, with muffled voices and slow strokes, of a land in mourning for the Sovereign's death.'

'It takes about a life-time to become a really good ringer, and this is why I am as yet "incompleat," and this article must necessarily be brief. I could fill in space by writing at length about the feats of some of the giants of ringing, but I hesitate to daunt any reader who, moved by my eloquent pen, has decided to take up the art. When next then, dear reader, you hear the sound of the bells, remember that you are enjoying the work of men who are keeping alive English traditions and an essentially English art, to which they have devoted most of their spare time, an art which I hope will never die out. With this I lay down my pen, for if my piscatorially-inclined namesake had the presumption to think he knew all there is to be known about fishing, I know that I can never describe fully all there is to be known about ringing, and, therefore, refer any inquiring mind to the nearest tower where change ringing is practised, there to make his own inquiries.'

WHO IS THE OLDEST CUMBERLAND?

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—In the last issue of 'The Ringing World' I was pleased to read a letter from my old friend, 'Bill' Fussell, with regard to the oldest College and Cumberland Youths. Three of the four mentioned I have had the pleasure of ringing with many times, viz., Tom Benney, J. M. Bouth and R. K. Knight.

As an old Cumberland, having been a member since January 14th, 1871, my certificate bearing that date, it would be interesting to know if there are any old Cumberlands living made members between September 24th, 1866, and January 14th, 1871.

METHOD NAMES.To the Editor.

Sir,—Your articles for Beginners in the issues for March 27th and April 17th touch on a point of interest of which there is varied opinion. I have heard this question asked: When a method is reversed or rung with the use of a different single, can it be considered the same method, or has it the right to be given a different name; should it be described as "such and such a method reversed," or with the use of extremes or different singles?

Some years ago a ringer reversed Stedman Slow Course and gave it the name of 'Chase.' It has since then been recognised as 'Chase' and many peals have been rung in which it has been included under that name. What, then, is there to prevent anyone naming reversed Grandsire—shall we say 'Whiston Doubles,' or reversed New Bob 'Houghton Doubles,' and similarly with any other method reversed, whether on five bells or more?

If the associations and the Central Council say this is not permissible, what is going to happen to all the peals that have been rung which have included 'Chase'? Some people say you cannot give one method two different names. What about St. Clement's Minor; is this not an extension of St. Simon's Doubles? Antelope, April Day and St. Dunstan's are all more or less a variation of Grandsire. London Singles, which, by the way, sounds like London Surprise, is another variation. Primrose is a variation of Cambridge, and so one could go on!

Where, then, does one stand in regard to reversed methods?

[As a matter of historical interest, 'Chace' was a method of Doubles known as far back, at any rate, as 1766 and probably earlier. It appears in the fifth edition of Monk's 'Campanalogia Improved,' in which there is no method printed corresponding with Stedman Slow Course.—EDITOR, 'Ringing World'.]

MIDDLESEX COUNTY ASSOCIATIONMEETING AT PINNER.

The North and East District of the Middlesex County Association held a very pleasant meeting at the old-world village of Pinner on Saturday, May 2nd.

The meeting was well attended and the eight bells were kept going during the afternoon and evening without any interruption through local residents complaining of the noise of the bells and a request for the cessation of ringing. This speaks well for the conciliatory attitude taken by the local ringers and church authorities in appreciating the cause of the frequent complaints and doing their best, with evident success, to moderate the sound of the bells near the church.

Ringing commenced soon after 3 p.m. and continued until 5 o'clock, when a short service was conducted by the Rev. J. O'Connor, who, in the absence of an incumbent, is temporarily officiating at the church. Mr. O'Connor, although a very sick man, gave the meeting a hearty welcome and also a very instructive address.

At the business meeting, presided over by Mr. G. W. Fletcher (vice-president), letters of apology were read from the association Ringing Master, Mr. A. W. Coles, also from the hon. secretary, who were unable to be present.

The agenda, which was quickly disposed of, included the election of three of the local ringers as members of the association and the fixing of the place for the next meeting, which will be at Stanmore on June 20th.

The Chairman announced that the Pye Memorial would be opened on May 30th. He remarked that as the tea would be provided by the Vicar and churchwardens, and, owing to the Central Council meeting being held in London at the same time, a large gathering was expected. It would be essential that due notice should be given to the secretary by those who anticipated being present.

The Chairman moved a very hearty vote of thanks to the Rev. J. O'Connor for the service, to Mr. J. S. Hogg for giving permission for the meeting to be held, to Mrs. Potts for her assistance, to Mr. Evans, the local organist, for presiding at the organ, and to Mr. K. J. Guyler for having made all the necessary arrangements, thereby ensuring the success of the meeting.—This was carried with acclamation.

A new peal of handbells was then brought into use, kindly placed at the disposal of the meeting by Mr. Taylor, of Watford, after which the tower bells were kept going until 9 p.m. The ringing was under the able direction of Mr. T. J. Lock, everyone present being well catered for.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

Messrs. Gillett and Johnston are about to dismantle the heavy ring of five at Thorncombe Church, Somerset, preparatory to rehangings them and recasting the tenor.

Mr. George Williams, the Master of the Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild, who reached his 79th birthday anniversary on May 7th, celebrated the event on Saturday by completing his thousand peals as conductor. Few ringers have rendered as much service to the Exercise as George Williams, and this makes his wonderful achievement all the more worthy. The peal, which was rung at North Stoneham, where are trebles given by Mr. Williams and the late Mrs. Williams, in celebration of their golden wedding, brought Mr. Williams' total peals to 1,399.

On Thursday, April 30th, members of the Ancient Society of College Youths rang, with bells half-muffled, the traditional 'whole pull and stand' as a mark of respect and esteem to these very old members, at the Church of St. Magnus the Martyr, London Bridge.

To ring seven methods in his first peal is the excellent performance of Mr. G. E. Fowler at Padworth, Berks.

Messrs. John Taylor and Co. have received the order to rehang the heavy ring of eight of Great Waltham Church, Essex, with new fittings in new frame.

Selby Abbey bells will be broadcast in the 'Ringing Isle' series on the North Regional programme next Sunday evening, May 17th, at 5.15 p.m., preceded by remarks by Canon Solloway (Vicar) at 5.10. An electrical recording is to be made and broadcast on the following evening.

What is the quickest six-score on record on church bells? Recently 120 changes were rung at St. Nicholas' Church, Newton Blossomville, near Turvey, Beds, in 3 mins. 5 secs.

The Summer Festival of the Guildford Diocesan Guild will be held at Chertsey on July 11th.

THE ROLL OF HONOUR.

We continue to receive the names of ringers who have supported 'The Ringing World' since its first number. There are probably still others from whom we have not heard. If there are we hope they will send their names and addresses at once, as our list must now be closed. Here are other names:—

Mr. E. S. Bailey, Leiston, Suffolk.
Mr. J. M. Bailey, Leiston, Suffolk.
Rev. F. J. O. Helmore, Canterbury, Kent.
Mr. J. J. Mawby, Irthlingborough, Northants.
Mr. F. E. Parsons, Staveley, Chesterfield.
Mr. C. H. Perry, Bridgend, Glamorganshire.
Mr. J. G. Rumsey, Leiston, Suffolk.
Mr. J. H. Swinfield, Burton-on-Trent.
Mr. J. Taylor, Batheaston, Bath.
Mr. A. Y. Tyler, Irthlingborough, Northants.
Mr. J. T. Ward, Irthlingborough, Northants.
Mr. J. Woodhead, Rawdon, Yorks.
Mr. R. T. Woodley, Lowestoft, Suffolk.

Mr. Woodhead is one of the few remaining ringers who rang peals with Jasper Snowdon.

Mr. Woodley, a College Youth for over 50 years, has subscribed to the ringing papers from the days of 'Church Bells.'

HISTORIC SLAVE BELL.

To the Editor.

Sir,—In a recent issue of 'The Ringing World' you mention the 'historic slave bell' of St. Michael's, Fort Wellington, B.G.

I wonder if any of your readers could tell me the history of this bell or where to find it? I am a keen collector of the history and stories of old bells and rings, and am always grateful for any information on this fascinating subject.

As I am writing to you, Sir, may I add my sincere thanks with the many who have recently congratulated you on the Silver Jubilee of your journal? Though I have only taken in 'The Ringing World' since starting to ring some four years ago, I look forward to its publication every week with real pleasure. The fact that I can no longer ring does not in any way detract from my interest.

I am also following the notes on 'Broadcasting of bells before Sunday services' with great interest, and always listen-in to the broadcasts when possible.

I do hope the B.B.C. will soon realise how intimately our beautiful bells are connected with the church service in the hearts of most of us.

BELLS CELEBRATE HULL'S POLICE CENTENARY.

On Sunday, May 3rd, at Holy Trinity, Hull, prior to a service to commemorate the centenary of the foundation of the City Police, Thurstan's quarter-peal of Stedman Triples: W. Hobson 1, D. Sharp 2, G. F. Williams 3, C. Corrick 4, H. C. Bond 5, R. F. Deal (conductor) 6, J. H. Howell 7, E. Wood 8.

FABIAN STEDMAN.ONCE TREASURER OF THE SCHOLLARS OF CHEAPSIDE.

Another interesting fact in the life of Fabian Stedman has been brought to light by Mr. J. Armiger Trollope, in a search among manuscripts in the British Museum.

The library of All Souls' College at Oxford contains a manuscript giving the rules of the Schollars of Chepe-syde, which was founded on February 2nd, 1603. It has always been assumed that this is the original book belonging to the society, and that the company came to an end some time shortly after the date of the last entry in 1634, but I have found evidence that it is a copy, though a nearly contemporary one.

The original is in the British Museum, among the Sloane MSS., and the society was still in existence as late as 1662.

The book is a small one of about one hundred pages, finely bound and written on vellum. Like most old documents written in cursive script it is very difficult to read, many letters being made in an entirely different way to those at present.

The wording of the rules, so far as I could judge from memory, is exactly the same as in the Oxford MSS., except that there are 37 in this and only 30 in the other. For several years the book is carefully kept, the names of the Generall and the four Wardens being entered annually; afterwards the writing is by another hand and is much more haphazard. There are numerous signatures by new members, and one or two make their mark, which does not mean that they were socially of a low class.

On five occasions a man was elected as Generall and 'fyned' for refusing to serve. On the 28th November, 1631, a touch was rung on the six bells at St. Sepulchre's Church, by a band consisting entirely of men who had held the office of Generall. The treble was rung single-handed, two men were put to each of the second and third, four to each of the fourth and fifth, and five to the tenor. Two more men 'stood by.' What they rang is not stated, but we may conclude from the advance that the art had then made that it was raising and falling with perhaps some plain changes between. This is, I believe, the only record extant of any ringing in the 17th century in which the names of the ringers are given.

The suggestion that the Society of College Youths was a revival of this company is clearly inaccurate. One belonged to Westminster, the other to the City of London, and until the Cheapside Scholars finally broke up in 1662 none of them seems to have joined the other company.

A man named Thomas Bostock, who held office in 1656, went to the College Youths in 1668, and was successively steward (1681) and Master (1686). He is described as an esquire in the younger company's list, a very unusual title there.

In 1662 appear two very interesting names. One is John Jenkins, the composer of the Five Bell Consorte, who joined the College Youths in the same year. The other is Fabian Stedman, who held the office of treasurer. This is the earliest contemporary notice we have of Stedman, and the question arises, how could he have discharged the duties of treasurer to a London society if he were living at Cambridge? I begin to think that he

OPENING OF THE WILLIAM PYE MEMORIAL.HOW TO GET TO LEYTONSTONE.

As has already been announced, the William Pye Memorial at St. John's Church, Leytonstone, will be dedicated on Saturday, May 30th. For the convenience of visitors to London who desire to attend the service at St. John's Church, it is pointed out that Leytonstone Station (L. and N.E.R.) is only a few minutes' walk from the church, and there are trains from Liverpool Street at 3.8 and 3.35 p.m. Bus services, Nos. 10 from Victoria, London Bridge, etc., and 96 from Charing Cross, Bank, etc., pass the church. There is also a frequent service of trams from Aldgate.

A REPRESENTATIVE BAND TO RING FIRST TOUCH.To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—It is desired to arrange a representative band to ring the first touch on the bells at St. John's, Leytonstone, after the dedication of the memorial bells on May 30th. I shall, therefore, be glad if association officials, Ringing Masters for preference, who intend being present, will advise me as early as possible. Apart from this selected band, arrangements will be made so that all present will be able to ring on the bells. There will be service ringing on Whit Sunday, 10 to 11 a.m. and 5.30 to 6.30 p.m.

DEVONSHIRE GUILD.BRANCH MEETING AT DARTMOUTH.

A quarterly meeting of the Mid-Devon Branch of the Devon Guild was held at Dartmouth on Saturday, when ringers were present from Exeter, Newton Abbot, Buckfastleigh, Collaton and Paignton. Ringing commenced at Townstal Church at about half-past three, and this was followed by a service at the same church, conducted by the Rev. H. K. Flamank (assistant priest), who, in the course of an excellent address, extended a hearty welcome.

The visitors afterwards adjourned to Dawe's Cafe, The Quay, for tea, and this was followed by the usual business meeting, the Rev. W. R. D. Mills (chairman) presiding.

It was reported that the thanks of the branch had been conveyed to the late chairman for his past services.

An apology for absence was received from the president of the Guild (the Rev. E. V. Cox) through indisposition, and the branch resolved to write to him and express their regret.

Certificates were presented by the general secretary to Messrs. W. Parnell and C. Yates, who had qualified to become performing members of Collaton band.

Messrs. J. Kenning and A. Pontin, of Collaton band, were elected associate members of the branch.

It was resolved to hold the next meeting on Saturday, October 17th. Coffinswell with Kingskerswell and Ipplepen were the places proposed. On a vote being taken, Ipplepen was chosen, subject to the usual permission being obtained. It was also resolved to organise a joint meeting at Buckfast Abbey on Saturday, September 19th, if possible.

The Chairman proposed a hearty vote of thanks to the Revs. A. Shell and W. A. Robertson for the use of their bells, to the Rev. H. K. Flamank for taking the service and for his address, also to the organist for his assistance.

The visitors afterwards wended their way to St. Petrock's Church for further ringing. The methods rung during the afternoon and evening were Grandsire and Stedman Doubles.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD.

FESTIVAL AT MARLBOROUGH.

Message to H.M. the King.

For the first time for 14 years the Salisbury Diocesan Guild visited Marlborough for its annual festival, which was held on May 2nd. Although the town is situated right on the northern boundary of the great diocese, which includes most of the counties of Wilts and Dorset, over one hundred ringers were present at luncheon in the Town Hall. Earlier the festival service had been held in St. Mary's Church, when the Rector of Marlborough (the Rev. J. Jones) officiated, assisted by the curate (the Rev. J. Gason), while the Master of the Guild (the Rev. R. H. Gundry) read the lesson.

The Rector preached from the words, 'Workers together with God,' and spoke of the touching effect upon him, when, returning to England after an absence of 16 years, he arrived on an Easter Sunday and heard the church bells ringing. Bells in themselves, continued the preacher, were impassive and unfeeling, but they vibrated to personal joys and sorrows and to national joys and sorrows. Some people, when they heard the bells ringing, had not got the imagination to visualise the men standing beneath the bells, but bellringing was a great piece of church work and it was a work which they in that Guild had contributed towards. The work of the ringers was without question to draw the attention of the people to the worship of God, and ringing, if it was to be successfully carried out, had to be the result of great co-operation.

The Rector went on to refer to the great response which had been made to an appeal for £600 to renovate the bells in a certain parish, showing, he said, how close the bells were to the hearts of the people. He had seen in a copy of 'The Ringing World' that a peal of bells was to be rung in the Cathedral at Hobart, Tasmania. As he had often spoken in that Cathedral he could imagine how beautiful those bells would sound.

CALL FOR BELLS OF PEACE.

What a great call there was to-day for the bells of peace, said the preacher. Bells had been used on the Continent when any great trouble had arisen, but now truly the message of bells must be a message of peace.

Ring out old shapes of foul disease,
Ring out the narrowing lust of gold,
Ring out the thousand wars of old,
Ring in the thousand years of peace,
Ring in the valiant man and free,
The larger heart, the kindlier hand,
Ring out the darkness of the land,
Ring in the Christ that is to be.

That was the task of the ringers to-day, to 'ring in the Christ that is to be.'

The service concluded with the singing of the National Anthem. The collection was divided between the memorial funds of the late Bishop of Salisbury and of the late William Pye.

The luncheon and annual business meeting followed at the Court Room of the Town Hall, the Master of the Guild presiding, supported by the Rev. F. L. Edwards (hon. secretary) and the Rev. J. Jones. Among the apologies for absence was one from Lord Shaftesbury, the president of the Guild.

Following the loyal toast, the Master referred to the losses which the country and the diocese had sustained since the last annual meeting of the Guild. First of all he would like to mention the passing of their beloved King George. They could not help but feel that they had lost a great man who had found his way into the hearts of every one of his people. King George was a man who seemed to understand the feelings of his people. At all times he entered into and took what part he could in helping and showing sympathy for whatever happened among the people of his Empire. And then there came another blow in the death of their Guild patron, the beloved Bishop of Salisbury. He thought that all members of the Guild could remember how the Bishop greeted them when the big ringers' gathering was held at Salisbury. The Bishop's death meant a great loss to the Guild and to the diocese as a whole.

The meeting stood in silence for a brief period.

The statement of accounts, presented by the Rev. F. L. Edwards, showed a balance in hand of £60 2s. 6d., with £25 8s. 1d. on the deposit account. The statement was adopted.

FIRST MASTER OF THE GUILD HONOURED.

The Rev. R. H. Gundry, of Ringwood, was unanimously re-elected Master of the Guild, with the Rev. F. L. Edwards, of Kingston Magna, as hon. secretary, and Mr. F. Green, of Devizes, as assistant hon. secretary. The hon. auditors, the Rev. R. E. G. Newman, of Gillingham, and Mr. H. R. Hopkins, of Kingston Magna, were re-appointed, as were the members of the committee and the Central Council representatives. It was agreed that the Rev. A. D. Hill, who was Master of the Guild for 14 years, 1884 to 1898, should be elected a vice-president. Mr. Hill was elected first Master of the Guild 52 years ago.

On the proposition of the Master, it was unanimously agreed that the following message should be sent to the King: 'The members of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild of Ringers in annual meeting assembled humbly desire to assure your Majesty of their loyal devotion to your throne and person and pray that for many years to come it may be the privilege of the ringers of this ancient diocese to celebrate your Majesty's birthday with the music of the church bells.'

Congratulatory messages were also sent to the Archdeacon of Dorset on the celebration of his golden wedding, and to Mr. J. S. Goldsmith, of Woking, on the completion of 25 years as Editor of 'The Ringing World.'

A vote of thanks to the Rector, organist and choir at St. Mary's for their services was proposed by Mr. S. Hillier (Devizes), and, in reply, the Rector said, 'It has been one of the happiest, homeliest and merriest, in the right and best sense, of all church gatherings I have ever attended, and I attribute that to your chairman and secretary and to yourselves.'

Following the luncheon, ringing was carried on in the various towers until late in the evening.

In addition to the two Marlborough towers, the following belfries (by kind permission of the various incumbents) were available for visiting ringers during the day: Aldbourne, Ramsbury, Ogbourne St. George and Ogbourne St. Andrew, Chiseldon, Mildenhall, Presbury, Pewsey, Milton, Chilton Foliat, Collingbourne Kingston, Collingbourne Ducis, Everleigh, Great Bedwyn, Savernake St. Katherine's and Burghage. Organised bus tours were made to all the towers during the day by different parties.

DORCHESTER BRANCH LOSSES.

The quarterly meeting of the Dorchester Branch was held at Puddletown on Saturday, April 25th, when, considering the inclement weather, the meeting was well attended. It was preceded by practice on the fine peal of six by the various bands. The service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. Canon Helps). Instead of the usual address, the Canon recited from Longfellow's 'Golden Legend,' the passage relating to the bells, and completed it by a quotation from Emerson. Tea followed in the Parish Hall, at which 50 were present. This was in the capable hands of Mrs. Helps and Miss Wood-Homer.

The meeting was presided over by the chairman of the branch, the Rev. A. W. Markby. Among the apologies for absence was one from the guild president, the Earl of Shaftesbury.

The secretary (Mr. C. H. Jennings) reported that the next quarterly meeting would be held at Abbotbury, and he hoped to arrange some practice meetings during the summer.

The Chairman moved a comprehensive vote of thanks to Canon Helps for all his kindness that day, and especially for the bright service; to the organist; to the ladies for arranging the tea; to Mr. W. J. Brymer for his generosity, and also for giving permission to visit his lovely gardens.—Canon Helps and Miss Wood-Homer replied.

The Chairman welcomed the visitors, and the vice-chairman (the Rev. R. P. Farrow) and the Rev. C. A. Phillips also spoke.

The sad losses the branch has sustained during the past few months were referred to by the chairman. In February, the death occurred of the Rev. E. S. Field, Vicar of Buckland Newton, and father of their Ringing Master. He was an honorary member for many years and also gave the branch a very warm welcome to Buckland Newton. With Mrs. Field he always entertained them on every visit. At the end of March they lost Mr. H. Runyard, captain of the Wool ringers since the formation of the band about 28 years ago, a founder of the present branch of the Guild 25 years ago and the Deputy Ringing Master for many years. He was always willing to give assistance to members, also to give the members a warm welcome to Wool. On the previous day (April 24th) they laid to rest Mr. William Bedford, honorary life member of the Guild, a great benefactor to the church at Bere Regis. He gave the extra bell, had the peal renovated and had always kept the bells in good condition. Almost every year the branch received an invitation to Bere Regis and enjoyed his hospitality. He always personally conducted the members over his wonderful and extensive gardens. He was a great friend to the ringers, and the previous quarterly meeting was held at his invitation at Bere Regis. The work of all three, said the Chairman, would live after them.

The meeting stood in silence as a mark of respect.

Several visitors took advantage of the opportunity to visit Ilshington Park and gardens and also the Vicarage gardens. The members made good practice during the afternoon and evening, under the capable leadership of the Ringing Master. Some were piloted through their first touch in the method. The methods rung were Plain Bob, Kent Treble Bob Minor, Stedman, Grandsire, Plain Bob, Reverse Canterbury Pleasure Doubles. The following towers were represented: Bradford Peverell, Buckland Newton, Dorchester, East Lulworth, Puddletown, Stratton, Sydling, Upwey, Wool and Wyke Regis, and ringers were present from the Wimborne Branch, Bournemouth, Poole and Shroton.

HOLBORN GUILD'S 100th QUARTER-PEAL.

On Sunday evening, May 3rd, at St. Andrew's Church, Holborn, a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples; J. S. Hawkins (conductor) 1, H. C. Alford 2, E. Brett 3, R. W. Green 4, E. A. Reeve 5, T. Langdon 6, F. G. Cole 7, W. J. Norton 8. Rung as a birthday compliment to Mr. H. C. Alford.

This was the 100th quarter-peal rung by the St. Andrew's, Holborn, Guild.

CLERGY AND RINGING.

DIFFICULTIES OF BECOMING EFFICIENT RINGERS.

To the Editor

Sir,—Your leading article in the issue of April 24th about the inducement of clerical ringers is naturally of great interest to those of us here, who are training for the ministry of the Church, and at the same time trying to gain a knowledge of the rudiments of bell-ringing. We are as anxious as anybody that the great tradition of clerical bellringers, typified by the names you mention, Law James, Davies, Jenkyn and Elsee, should be maintained.

But I should like to suggest that the real function of the clergy with regard to the Exercise is not to produce first-class ringers in small quantities, but rather a large number of men who are interested in ringers and ringing, and who will take the trouble to become friends with their ringers, and to offer them encouragement at all times, and help in maintaining the strength of their bands.

I have no wish to be controversial, but it is, I think, an indisputable fact that the number of first-class clerical ringers alive to-day can be numbered on the fingers of one hand: I also think it is true to say that this has always been the case. The possession of a university education does seem somehow to be a definite hindrance to progress in the art of handling a bell. Why this should be so I am not prepared to say; but from personal experience I can vouch for the fact that it is so.

But the ability to add B.A. or M.A. to their names is not the only, nor even the most serious, disadvantage from which our clergy and prospective clergy suffer in their pursuit of proficiency in the art. Many of them are unable to obtain that most important of all requirements, continuity in their practice of ringing. First of all they go away to school; then for three or four years they spend three terms of eight weeks each year at the university, and their life at a theological college is similarly broken up into periods. A large proportion of their work, too, both as students and as parsons, is done in the evenings, when most ringing practices are held. Saturday afternoon is a favourite time for weddings, jumble sales, Sunday School treats and other festivities of a like nature: these prevent the parson from attending local ringing meetings and from ringing peals.

For these reasons I think it is true to say that the clergy do not have the same opportunity as other ringers for regular practice, without which the attainment of proficiency is extremely difficult, if not impossible.

At this college, for instance, our practices must be snatched in odd half-hours here and there during the week, and frequently they have to be given up altogether when there is some special lecture or meeting to be attended. The bells of the village church are in an unringable condition, so we get no Sunday ringing.

But we have about twenty men out of a total of forty who are interested in the Exercise, and have begun to learn to handle a bell and to find out how methods are composed, and have made a beginning with putting this knowledge into practice on handbells. Of these twenty, some will inevitably find themselves at churches without any bells when they go to a parish. Others will find their time too occupied with other activities to be able to keep up their ringing. Of the remainder, some are naturally only lukewarm adherents, and will tend to fall away altogether. Just a few will persevere, and will become useful ringers.

But even those who have neither the time nor the inclination to become good ringers may gain an insight into the Exercise from the instruction they receive, and a consequent interest in the art, which can be turned to good use by the local ringing associations. Such men will be the more willing to lend their churches for ringing meetings and peal ringing, or to act as district chairmen, than they would have been had they never come in contact with ringing at all. If the rudimentary instruction they receive bears no other fruit, it will have been well worth the labour expended on it. Especially under present-day conditions, the whole Exercise is dependent on the goodwill of the clergy for its very existence, and it is that goodwill which it is our business to foster.

More than that it does not seem possible to ask of the majority of our clergy. A very small number will continue as in the past to become first-class ringers, but with very few exceptions the greatest exponents of the art, whether from the side of peal ringing or of composing, have been laymen, and there is no reason to expect that it will be otherwise in the future.

There is one last thing I should like to say to ringers: how many of you realise what a frightening experience it is for a novice to enter a strange tower for the first time? It is not fair in all cases to blame the parson for his apparent lack of interest in his ringers. If the ringers wish for his interest and friendship, they must take the first step, and must refrain from bewildering the poor man with a lot of technical jargon before he has ever set his foot in the belfry. Ringers have in the past been apt to forget that the average non-ringer does not know the difference between ringing and chiming, or between a peal, a touch and a plain course.

LINCOLN DIOCESAN GUILD.

IMPORTANCE OF GOOD RINGING IN BROADCASTS.

Master's Appeal.

The annual meeting of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild was held at Lincoln on April 25th. Ringing started at the Cathedral (12) and at St. Peter-at-Gowts (6) and St. Botolph's (6) at two o'clock. At 3.15 a special ringers' service was held in the Morning Chapel of the Cathedral, when the address was given by the president of the Guild (the Very Rev. R. A. Mitchell, Dean of Lincoln). Tea was served at the Co-operative Hall, about 85 members and friends being present. The business meeting followed, presided over by the Dean of Lincoln.

The Dean was unanimously re-elected president, and Mr. Rupert Richardson Master. The meeting heard with regret that Mr. E. Dawber had been compelled, through serious eye trouble, to relinquish the office of hon. treasurer, and Mr. F. W. Stokes was elected to act as hon. secretary and treasurer.

Three of the representatives on the Central Council were re-elected, namely, the Ven. Archdeacon H. T. Parry, Mr. Rupert Richardson and Mr. G. Chester. Mr. Jack Bray was elected in place of Mr. John Phillips, who, being now non-resident and having been in very indifferent health for some time past, did not seek re-election.

In his report, the Master pointed out that the Guild had created another record as far as peals were concerned, 108 having been rung, as compared with the previous record of 96 in 1934. The Minor section had been particularly gratifying, the peals ranging from Plain Bob to 28 Surprise methods. Seven peals were rung containing 20 or more Minor methods. 'First pealers' numbered 15, against 22 in 1934, but 149 members rang a peal in a fresh method or a greater number of methods. For the 108 peals there were 32 conductors.

The report closed with a reference to broadcast ringing. It said: 'On one or two occasions lately broadcasts of bells have been completely spoilt by ringers attempting to ring something that was beyond them. Please do not let this happen in this diocese. If you are called upon to broadcast, be sure you are fully master of anything you attempt. If you cannot ring changes perfectly, ring rounds. Then you will not disgrace yourselves. Remember when you are broadcasting you have an audience of millions and you should keep whatever you do up to the highest possible standard.'

The meeting considered a proposition put forward by the Grimsby District of the Northern Branch, viz., 'That the compositions of Spliced Minor peals shall be printed in the annual report.' After some discussion an amendment was adopted, providing that such compositions shall be submitted to the hon. secretary in order that they may be considered by the Guild Committee, and such compositions included in the report as may be thought of general or outstanding interest.

Ringling was continued at the various towers after the meeting until nine o'clock.

'SPlicing' OF TREBLE BOB.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I did not intend replying to Mr. C. T. Coles, but as it is uncertain whether I shall be at the Central Council meeting, please grant me small space to put the matter as I see it.

Mr. Coles says all spliced peals of Oxford and Kent Treble Bob are not spliced but combined. He has also made the statement that they are irregular. Eleven years ago, sir, you published a book on method splicing, and it is still on sale. That book contains 720's of Spliced Kent and Oxford Minor. These 720's have been rung scores of times, although they are not spliced actually at the lead end. In my opinion it is impossible to get a 720 spliced that way. This book and standard of splicing was accepted by the Exercise, and heaps of peals of Major have been rung on the same lines, so also has Spliced Royal. There are three variations of Major, Worcester, Ilkeston and Liversedge. All have the same end in view, viz., to keep the tenors out of the slow, and there are some really beautiful compositions, producing glorious music, which it is impossible to obtain with the tenors in the slow.

Mr. Coles condemns all these. He says that the resolution was carefully thought out by smart men. I don't care who thought them out. Whoever did had not the courage to stand by them.

You, sir, knocked their resolution to smithereens when you published that composition which contained a full course of London. With all their care it didn't take them long to alter their minds.

At Shrewsbury last year I mentioned the word 'laminated,' knowing full well Mr. Coles would take the bait. He did, and supplied the answer. He wrote in 'The Ringing World' that laminated meant thin layers. Mr. Coles and his international band rang a spliced peal in several methods. Of one method they rang 1,440 changes, of another 1,184, then amongst the other methods was one of 160 (five leads and all at the Wrong). The tenors in this rang one lead four times repeated. I contend that that method was not rung.

I withdrew my amendment a few weeks ago. If I am at the meeting in London I am prepared to move two more.

In conclusion, may I say, if you break a bell rope, you splice it. I have seen a rope with six splices. Whether it is one or six they are both spliced. I suggest to Mr. Coles he should call his peals 'super spliced,' because he thinks his spliced peals so superior.

JAMES HUNT.

Taunton.

DEATH OF MR. E. E. DAVIES.ONE OF 'ST. MICHAEL'S JUNIORS.'

The death took place at Gloucester on May 4th of Mr. Ernest Edward Davies, an old member of the St. Michael's Juniors' Society, which flourished in the days when the Revs. H. L. and E. B. James were active ringers in the city. Some time ago Mr. Davies met with a mishap and suffered head injuries, from which it is thought he never fully recovered. He visited St. Michael's belfry on Sunday, April 26th, but soon afterwards took to his bed and passed away on Monday of last week.

The funeral service was held at St. Michael's Church, the Rector (the Rev. E. C. Pritchard) officiating. The 23rd Psalm was chanted, and the hymns, 'When I survey the wondrous Cross' and 'Abide with me,' were sung. The interment took place at the cemetery, and after the committal the handbells were rung over the open grave by T. Baldwin, S. E. Romans, J. Williams and W. Harris. Among others who attended the funeral were Messrs. Meadows, L. J. Whiting, T. Condict and ex-Sergt. J. Williams (Newent). The mourners included, in addition to the widow and daughters and other members of the family, Mr. and Mrs. A. Peglar, of Bangor.

ELY DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.SUCCESSFUL BRANCH MEETING AT LONGSTANTON.

In beautiful weather, between 40 and 50 ringers and friends attended the meeting of the Central Branch of the Ely Diocesan Association, held at Longstanton on April 25th. Among those present were Mr. Harry Chapman, Mr. and Mrs. Fields, Mr. and Mrs. F. Hurry, the Rev. R. Copeman, Mr. Hinking (Somersham), many 'brass hats,' local branch and district ringers and two friends from Swaffham, Norfolk. The service was conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. J. Goodchild, M.A., who had neither sermon nor address, but a good friendly talk on ringers' work. Miss Goodchild was at the organ. Tea, at the Black Bull, was followed by the business meeting, with the Rev. J. Goodchild in the chair.

The belfry election of one new member was confirmed. Fordham was selected as the place of next meeting.

Mr. L. G. Skeggs called attention to the secretary's advertisement in 'The Ringing World,' in which 'Taylors' were named.

The secretary, in reply, said in his opinion 'Taylors' were the 'Rolls Royce' where bells were concerned, but he added that when the meeting was held at Sutton the bells were advertised as rebung by Bowell.

A very friendly discussion proceeded on the real necessity of supporting 'The Ringing World,' which all realised was a paper that the ringing Exercise could not do without.

Mr. T. R. Dennis gave some interesting items concerning 'The Ringing World,' and the general trend of opinion was that more support should be given the paper so as to get a larger journal and perhaps a cheaper one.

A vote of thanks to the Vicar and Miss Goodchild brought the meeting to a close.

Ringings during the afternoon and evening was enjoyed by all, methods from Grandsire Triples to London Major being rung.

NORWICH DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.POSTCARD SCARCITY IN NORTH NORFOLK BRANCH.

A well-attended meeting of the North Norfolk Branch was held at Scotow on Saturday, May 2nd, when the six bells were heard in a variety of methods from Grandsire Doubles to London Surprise during the afternoon and evening.

Members attended from Aylsham, Buxton, Happisburgh, Northrepps, North Walsham, Norwich, Paston, Wroxham, Wymondham and the local band, while representatives from the East and West Branches were present from Dersingham, Fakenham, Halvergate and Reedham.

The service was conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. Newton Kent, who gave a most impressive address from 'The Golden Legend' to a congregation of over fifty.

Tea was partaken of in the Hall, by kind invitation of Miss Emily Durrant. At the business meeting which followed, the branch chairman (the Rev. H. W. Benson) thanked Miss Durrant for her generosity. Mr. W. C. Duffield proposed and Mr. A. L. Coleman (general hon. secretary) seconded, a vote of thanks to the Rev. Newton Kent for his address. Mr. Coleman added that he hoped the other branches would be able to include a service in their meetings.—In reply, the Vicar expressed his pleasure at seeing so many ringers present. He hoped it would be possible for the association to visit them again before long, and regretted he had not twelve bells with which to exercise the members.

The next meeting was fixed on September 19th at Salle, provided this date does not clash with the arrangements of the other branches.

The branch secretary (Mr. N. Golden) referred to the apparent scarcity of postcards in the diocese. Eleven members had signified their intention of being present; he had provided for twenty, but over thirty sat down to tea.

N. G.

PITMAN, KENT.—On Saturday, May 9th, after an unsuccessful attempt for a peal, a quarter-peal of Minor (720 Kent Treble Bob and 540 Plain Bob): E. Rankes 1, W. E. Pitman 2, R. H. Mails 3, J. Walter 4, F. G. Brett 5, A. P. Cannon (conductor) 6 (tenor 6½ cwt.).

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION.NEW SILENCING DEVICE FOR BELLS.

A new device for regulating the noise of bells came under trial and discussion at a quarterly meeting of the Lewisham District, held at St. Luke's, Bromley Common, on Saturday, May 2nd. Some forty members participated in touches in various methods from Grandsire Triples to Spliced London, Cambridge, Superlative and Bristol Surprise.

Service was conducted by the curate (the Rev. F. Kenyon), who gave a very interesting address based on the familiar phrase from the commandments, 'Six days shalt thou labour.' A collection was made for the association's Benevolent Fund.

Later, tea was served in St. Luke's Hall. Mr. E. H. Lewis, president of the Central Council and vice-president of the association, was at the head of the table, supported by Messrs. W. J. Jeffries (trustee), T. Groombridge, sen. (Ringing Master), and the district secretary.

Tea over, three leads of Treble Twelve were rung on handbells by Messrs. E. H. Lewis, E. A. Barnett, H. Audsley, E. Beer, T. Groombridge, jun., and G. H. Cross.

At the business meeting, the chairman apologised for the absence of the clergy through pressure of other engagements, and announced that the handbells just heard were the gift to St. Luke's bellringers of Mrs. F. Keep, widow of a late member of that band.

Ten ringers were elected members of the association.

After the chairman had read an apology for absence from Mr. E. Barnett, Mr. W. Smith, his co-representative, read a report of proceedings at the committee meeting held at Westerham on Easter Monday. This was adopted, with a vote of thanks to the authors for its preparation.

Eynsford was chosen as the place for the next meeting, to be held, if possible, on Saturday, July 25th.

Mr. W. J. Jeffries moved a vote of thanks to the Vicar for the use of the bells, to the curate for the service and address, to the lady organist for her services, to the Vicar and churchwardens for the use of the room for tea and meeting and to the local secretary (Mr. A. Purdom) for the arranging of the tea, and to Mr. E. H. Lewis for presiding.—This was carried enthusiastically.

Mr. Lewis responded. He stated that one of his reasons for attending the meeting was to hear and gather opinions concerning the silencing device fitted to St. Luke's bells by Mr. C. Davis.

Various opinions were proffered and questions asked and answered. It seemed to be agreed that the contrivance was effective, cheap and long lasting and capable of regulation in respect of degree of suppression of noise required.

Further ringing in the tower terminated the meeting, which had drawn members from Beckenham, Bromley, Crayford, Chislehurst, Dartford, Eltham, Erith, Deptford (St. John's), Lee, Gravesend and London.

PEALS IN 1935.

Peal ringing in 1935 recovered the ground, in numbers at any rate, that it lost in 1934, but it is still more than three hundred peals short of the 1932 total. The figures for the past four years have been: 1932, 2,002; 1933, 1,833; 1934, 1,784; 1935, 1,863. But mere numbers are by no means all that matter. Probably the most gratifying thing that will be found in the report of the Analysis Committee, which is published elsewhere in this issue, is the fact that there has been a substantial increase in the number of ringers who scored their first peal. The year 1935 saw the resumption in a rising total, after a slight setback in the preceding year, and the present number is one of the highest, if not the highest, ever recorded. No fewer than 643 'first peals' were rung, against 503 in 1934, 523 in 1933, and 480 in 1932. It was probably helped by the Silver Jubilee celebrations when, in the desire suitably to honour the event, many ringers took part for the first time in a peal.

One of the most interesting points in the report is that emphasised by the committee, that, although there continues to be rung a number of new methods, mostly Surprise—true, they were fewer in 1935 than in 1934—very few, comparatively, are in common use. The old methods still hold the field, and, among the Surprise variety Cambridge is claiming an increased popular ascendancy over Superlative. Apart from Kent Treble Bob and Plain Bob Major, Stedman and Grandsire Triples—the four 'standard' methods—Cambridge is the only method in which more than a hundred peals were rung. It goes to show that ringers still cling to tradition. The standard methods have come down to us through the centuries—they still provide the major portion of the ringing done in our belfries.

The reasons, of course, are not obscure, but with all the variety which is now at the disposal of the Exercise, it shows the strong conservatism of ringers. There are many more interesting things to ring, for instance, than Plain Bob, and they are available, through the publications of the Central Council, to all who seek them, but year in, year out, Plain Bob more than holds its own. In higher spheres, Cambridge, Superlative and London continue to show the way. Bands in various parts of the country ring new methods, but they seldom ring more than one peal before going on to a fresh method; and yet among these newer things are methods well worth ringing. For instance, we believe that one of the reasons for the loss of popularity of Superlative is the monotony of its work. It is just a quarter of a course turned in four different ways. Now, Painswick Surprise is a method which produces all the music that Superlative is capable of, but by having a different arrangement of the work in front, the monotony is swept away. Painswick is a method which deserves the growing practice now being accorded to, say, Yorkshire, and ought to have an established place in the general repertoire of all Surprise ringers. And there are other methods which should have equal attention. The trouble apparently is that there are too many to choose from, and, perhaps, a not unnatural desire of capable bands to ring 'the first ever.'

FOR BEGINNERS.

A CHANGE OF DIET.

The report of the Analysis Committee of the Central Council, which tabulates all the peals rung during the year, has a pertinent note on the fact that comparatively few methods are in common use, and an examination of the tables will show that what used to be known as the 'standard' methods—Treble Bob, Plain Bob, Stedman and Grandsire—still hold all the attraction that they have done for generations. It is not because there is not plenty of material available. It is due, for one thing, to the fact that ringers, beginning to learn methods, seem to turn naturally to the old-established things, by which their fathers and grandfathers were taught.

Another reason, probably, is that many ringers are averse to breaking away from the traditional groove, because they imagine there are in their way difficult barriers to overcome. In fact, they do not relish that change of diet, which, in the long run, would be good for them. We hope, in the next few articles, to try and show that these barriers are largely imaginary and that the beginner who has got his foundations well and truly laid can pass on to other things by easy stages, which will greatly increase his interest in the art.

The Central Council last year published a little volume, priced at a shilling, which gives all the worthwhile methods on seven bells, at least, in our opinion, all save one. If a man can ring Grandsire and understand what he is ringing, he can with a little study and practice soon go on to other methods.

Among those with two hunts, that is to say with a bell in the hunt in addition to the treble, like Grandsire, there is Oxford Bob. It has not got a very long history as far as peal ringing is concerned, for the first recorded peal was rung at Horsham, Sussex, only in 1882.

Like Grandsire, it starts with 3rd's place being made as the treble strikes in 2nd's place going up, but the bells behind, instead of parting after a dodge, continue to dodge until the treble separates them; that is, until the bell dodging down strikes over the treble, when that bell has reached 5th's. The reason is that the same two bells dodge together behind (actually a three pull dodge) from the time the bell in the hunt leaves them, until and the treble gets back again. This dodging is created by two bells in 4-5 each making 5th's place, with a dodge between, this dodge, in turn, being caused by the 3rd's place.

A quite easy table can be made up for the five working bells, thus:

- Pass treble in 5-6, 3-pull dodge in 7-6 (down).
- Pass treble in 4-5, 3-pull dodge in 6-7 (up).
- Pass treble in 3-4, make 5th's, dodge 5-4 (down).
- Pass treble in 2-3, dodge 4-5 (up), make 5th's.
- Pass treble in 1-2, make 3rd's, and lead.

Each bell that makes 5th's, of course, returns to lead. The work does not occur in the order given above, but the table shows how the pairs of bells work together.

Between the 6-7 (up) dodging and the 7-6 (down), in ringing the method, the 3rd's place is made and after the 7-6 dodging the two 5th's places come in, first the one with the dodge in front of it and then the one with the dodge after, so that the two actual 5th's places are joined by unbroken plain hunting down and back again.

A bob is made exactly as in Grandsire. The bells dodging behind are not affected, neither is the 3rd's place bell.

Only three bells, therefore, are interfered with, the bell that passes the treble in 2-3 makes 3rd's and goes into the hunt. The bell coming out of the hunt has a double dodge in 5-4 (down), and, after leading, goes up behind to dodge in 6-7 (up). The remaining bell, which, but for the bob, would have made 5th's and dodged 5-4 (down), has a double dodge in 4-5 (up) and then makes 5th's, before hunting down.

We wonder whether any of our readers can write out the figures of a lead of the method? All the information required for its construction is included in this article. Just try it!

HEREFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

LEDDBURY DISTRICT ENTHUSIASM REVIVING.

The quarterly meeting of the Ledbury District was held at Cradley on Saturday, May 9th, and proved to be a great success. For some time past enthusiasm in this district has been lacking, owing, no doubt, to one or two peals of bells being out of order and the difficulty in getting together in a country district. The six bells at Cradley have been recently rehung by Messrs. Taylor and Co., of Loughborough. Some 25 ringers, including visitors from Worcester, Upton-on-Severn and Bredonbury, took part in a varied selection of methods, including Cambridge Surprise, Woodbine, Kent and Oxford Treble Bob, Double Oxford, Oxford Bob, Plain Bob and Stedman Doubles. Some excellent striking was noted by many enthusiastic listeners. A service was conducted by the Rev. Preb. Warner, who gave a very encouraging address. Tea was partaken of in the Old School, by the kind hospitality of the Rector, who gave a hearty welcome to members and visitors alike.

Mr. H. Allen, of Colwall, thanked the Rector for his kindness and support given to the Hereford Guild.—Mr. A. Jones, hon. secretary of the district, gave particulars of the annual meeting, to be held at Hereford on Whit Monday, the jubilee festival of the Guild, and impressed upon those present that a special effort should be made to attend the festival and rally round the general secretary, who has done great work for the Guild.

THE CENTRAL COUNCIL.

LINCOLN DIOCESAN GUILD.

NORTHERN BRANCH ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual meeting of the Northern Branch was held at Lincoln on Saturday, May 16th, when a large gathering of members and friends were present from various towers in the branch. The Elloe Deaneries Branch was represented by Mr. R. Richardson (Master of the Guild), Mrs. Richardson and Mr. George Ladd.

The bells of the Cathedral, St. Botolph's and St. Peter-at-Gowt's were available during the afternoon and evening. The ringers joined in the 4 o'clock evensong at the Cathedral, after which between ninety and one hundred members and friends sat down to an excellent tea at the Co-operative Cafe.

The business meeting followed, at which the Ven. Archdeacon H. T. Parry (Northern Branch president) presided.

The balance sheet and secretary's report for 1935 were accepted. The former showed that the amount received from subscriptions, etc., was £30 4s. 6d., and the expenditure £39 13s. 10d., leaving a deficit of £9 9s. 4d., which arises from a grant of £10 10s. having been paid towards the bell fund of St. Giles' Church, Lincoln.

Thirty-seven new members (two honorary and 35 performing), said the report, were elected during the year, while 32 (five honorary and 27 performing) have lapsed, the number of members on the register at the end of the year being 328 (16 honorary and 312 performing).

Owing to Mr. Edmund Dawber having very reluctantly tendered his resignation as treasurer, Mr. George Chester was elected as his successor.—The remainder of the officers were re-elected.

It was agreed to hold the next annual meeting at Gainsborough on Saturday, May 22nd.

The following resolution, passed at a Gainsborough District meeting held the week previous, was brought before the members: 'That it is the opinion of the Gainsborough District that the annual meeting of the branch should be held on the third Saturday in May; if the third Saturday is Whit Saturday, then the fourth Saturday to be substituted.' As an amendment it was proposed and seconded that 'the meeting be held on the fourth Saturday, and should that be Whit Saturday, then the third Saturday to be substituted.' After discussion the amendment was carried.

Votes of thanks to the Cathedral authorities and the incumbents of St. Botolph's and St. Peter-at-Gowt's for the use of the bells, the Ven. Archdeacon H. T. Parry for presiding, and the caterers (Mr. George Chester and Mr. J. A. Freeman) for making the necessary arrangements, brought a successful meeting to a close.

MR J. GEORGE IMPROVING.

To the Editor

Dear Sir,—I desire most sincerely to thank all my ringing friends for their kind letters of sympathy regarding my recent accident. I am thankful to say I am gradually improving, although not yet free from pain.

MASONIC HONOUR FOR RINGER.

Hearty congratulations will be extended by the many members of the Masonic craft in the Exercise to W.Bro. Francis S. Wilson, of Wineanton, Somerset, upon the high honour conferred upon him by the Provincial Grand Master of Somerset on Thursday, May 14th, when he was invested with the Collar of the 'Past Rank' of Senior Grand Warden of Somerset.

It is interesting to note that his Masonic career has been in three provinces. He was initiated on October 15th, 1917, in Lodge St. George No. 900, Tewkesbury, in the Province of Gloucestershire. In January, 1920, he joined Montgomerie Lodge No. 1,741, Diss, of which he was installed Master in January, 1926, and was appointed to the rank of Past Grand Deacon in the Province of Norfolk in June, 1929. He thus has the unusual record of receiving Provincial Grand Lodge honours in two provinces.

W.Bro. J. H. Shepherd, of Swindon, and Bro. W. A. Cave, of Bristol, were present at the Provincial Grand Lodge meeting.

DOUBTFUL PLEASURES AT HAWLEY.

While a cricket match was in progress on the village green, the bells of Hawley Church, Hants, on the other side of the road, were ringing on Saturday. Whether they pleased the cricketers is doubtful; the pleasure of the ringers was equally doubtful, for some of the bells badly need attention; the 'circle' of ropes is by no means round, the tenor ringer has to stand in a window recess a couple of feet above the floor level, and the acoustics are bad. Nevertheless, the meeting of the Farnham District of the Guildford Guild was a happy gathering. Seven of the district towers were represented—Aldershot, Ash, Bagshot, Farnborough, Hawley, Seale and Yorktown, and there were welcome visitors from Godalming (represented by the Guildford District Ringing Master), and Hillingdon and Uxbridge, Middlesex. Aldershot contributed a round dozen of the party, and they came by push bikes, tandem, motor bike and Rolls Royce.

The singing, accompanied by the organist, was a feature of the service, at which the Rev. Thomas, Rector of the neighbouring parish of Minley, officiated. The driver of the Rolls supplied the power for the organ.

There was a merry party of about thirty at tea at the George Inn, and the brief business meeting afterwards was quickly disposed of. The 'plate' was passed round the tea table, and 8s. for the Guild's Benevolent Fund resulted.

The enthusiasts then kept the church bells going until after eight o'clock, when the party dispersed in the quiet of a glorious May evening.

TASMANIAN GOVERNOR'S GIFT TO BELFRY.IN MEMORY OF EVENINGS SPENT WITH RINGERS.

Sir Ernest Clark, Governor of Tasmania, who received the English tourists at his official residence in November, 1934, and who has since been interested in the Ringers' Society at Holy Trinity Church, has presented them with a copy of Mr. Ernest Morris' newest book, 'Legends o' the Bells.'

In forwarding his gift to Mr. A. R. Wilson, the hon. secretary, Sir Ernest Clark wrote: 'I thought that the bellringers of Trinity might like this book. Will you hand it over to them at Easter in memory of the two evenings I spent in your belfry. I have inscribed it on the front page.'

In acknowledging the gift, Mr. Wilson sent Sir Ernest a copy of 'A Great Adventure,' which, we learn, found a place on the drawing room table at Government House. As readers of that book will remember, Sir Ernest was photographed with the visiting ringers and the picture finds a place in the volume.

Incidentally it may be mentioned that it is 90 years ago this year that Holy Trinity received its bells, which were cast at the White-chapel Foundry.

WEDDING BELLS.

A quarter-peal of Grandsire Doubles with 4.6.8 covering, the last before the dismantling of the bells for restoration, was rung at Yorktown, Surrey, on April 28th, for the wedding of the Rev. G. A. Ford and Miss M. E. Richards, the youngest daughter of Mr. T. W. Richards, churchwarden of St. George's Church, Camberley, and of Mrs. Richards, of Norton, Gordon Road, Camberley. The Rev. G. A. Ford was formerly assistant priest at St. Michael's, Yorktown, and St. George's Churches, and an hon. member of the Guildford Guild. He is now curate-in-charge of St. Peter's Church, Portland.

The quarter was rung by J. Martin 1, S. Beck 2, F. Marchant (conductor) 3, H. J. Hunt 4, H. Noakes 5, P. Farr 6, F. J. Ewens 7, Edwin Hunt 8.

A quarter-peal of Grandsire Doubles has also been rung to commemorate the 71st birthday of Mr. H. J. Hunt and the birthday of his grandson, V. Wilkinson: H. J. Hunt 1, S. Beck 2, F. Marchant (conductor) 3, F. Farr 4, H. Noakes 5, V. Wilkinson 6, F. J. Ewens 7, Edwin Hunt 8.

On Saturday, May 2nd, at St. Andrew's Church, Farnham, in honour of the wedding of Mr. Charles Wells, of Dippenhall (a member of the local band of ringers), and Miss Audrey Lawrence, of Farnham, a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples was rung by eight of his brother ringers immediately after the ceremony: J. Beagley 1, J. Read 2, G. Carter 3, G. Upshall 4, H. Kemp 5, J. W. Wells 6, R. Hasted (conductor) 7, A. E. King 8.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

Excellent progress is being made with the building of the tower at St. David's Cathedral, Hobart, Tasmania, which is to contain thirteen bells (eight of them hung for ringing), already cast by Messrs. J. Taylor and Co., of Loughborough. A newspaper illustration which has just reached us shows the building operations in progress 63ft. above the street level. The official opening, we learn, is to take place in December.

We understand that a well-known London ringer recently had to appear at the Old Bailey. No charge was brought against him, however, but the City and Lands Commission granted his request that the Central Council should be allowed to use the Council Chamber at the Guildhall for the Whitsun meeting.

A celebrated ringer, with 600 or so peals to his credit, whose proud boast it was that he had never broken a stay, 'blotted his copy-book' last week when he 'busted' one in his own tower on practice night. Wild horses will not drag his name from us.

The Redwinter meeting of the North-Western Division of the Essex Association is postponed owing to a very serious case of illness near the church.

Messrs. Gillett and Johnston are rehangings the six bells in a new frame at Harpford Church, Newton Poppleford, Devon.

Mr. J. E. Ashcroft writes that in our issue of the 15th inst, a peal of Grandsire Triples, rung at Warburton, Cheshire, is claimed as the first peal on the bells. The Grappenhall band, he informs us, rang a peal of Grandsire Triples on these bells on September 12th, 1896.

Two more Worcester rings of six are to be rehung by John Taylor and Co., Loughborough, viz., Ombersley and Norton, near Evesham.

Mr. Arthur Saxby extends a hearty welcome to ringing visitors to Margate for outings or otherwise. A quarter-peal can always be arranged.

The London County Association's practice will be held at St. Mary's, Lambeth, on June 2nd, and not on May 26th as previously announced.

In the report of the peal at Padworth, recorded on page 321, the name of the treble ringer should have been given as Edward W. Richardson.

THE ROLL OF HONOUR.

The following further names of ringers who have subscribed to 'The Ringing World' from its first number up to to-day have reached us:—

Mr. A. Bowell, Ipswich.
Mr. T. R. Flint, Clepstone, Notts.
Mr. R. Grater, Tiverton, Devon.
Mr. H. A. Hopkins, Whitstable, Kent.
Mr. A. H. Martin, Higham Ferrers, Northants.
Mr. A. A. Saxby, Margate, Kent.
Mr. W. Spice, Tunstall, Kent.
Mr. C. Turner, Dover, Kent.
Mr. C. Tyler, Henfield, Sussex.
Mr. W. W. Wolstencroft, Ashton-under-Lyne, Lancs.

Mr. Bowell began his interest in ringing papers by reading his father's copy of 'Church Bells,' when a boy. He took all the copies of 'Bell News' and 'Campanology,' and has all the issues of 'The Ringing World' except about 20, which 'were lent out and never returned.'

Mr. A. H. Martin is another 'fifty year reader' of ringing papers. He began to take 'Bell News' in 1885 and has never missed a ringing paper weekly since.

CLERGY AND RINGING.

To the Editor.

Sir,—As an old clerical ringer, I realise the hopefulness of a letter such as that of Mr. J. P. Pelloc. If only the men in the theological colleges would master, at any rate the rudiments of ringing, it would be a good thing for the Church. The old saying is still true, 'We know not with what we must serve the Lord until we be come thither.'

My own experience is that if a vicar is a ringer and rings regularly and teaches his learners himself, not only will there be no trouble in his tower, but he will gather around him a band of men who will be invaluable to the Church in many ways. Handbell practices for boys leaving the choir and others will bring him into touch with those he wants to know and help, and the influence spreads, because it leads to real love and friendship. Men are sometimes shy of the clerical collar, but seldom of the Vicar in his shirt sleeves.

With one thing in the letter I do not agree—we cannot all be great composers or outstanding conductors, but most of us can learn to ring a few methods, to call simple touches and to strike accurately. I do not think we ought to aim at less, or that visits from clergy who cannot do that are of much use in the tower. You can always make time if you want to. All good wishes for those who are learning to ring at Cuddesdon.

I enclose my card, but prefer to sign myself,

'ONE WHO HAS FOUND MUCH HAPPINESS IN THE TOWER.'

The following report of the Analysis and Records Committee upon the peals rung in 1935 will be submitted to the Central Council at their meeting on Whitsun Tuesday.

There has been a slight increase in the number of peals rung in 1935, as compared with 1934.

TOWER BELLS.

Peals of Maximus have decreased by 3; Cinques have increased by 12; there are 17 more peals of Stedman, and 5 less of Grandsire Cinques. Royal have decreased by 15—Surprise by 5 and other methods by 10. Caters have increased by 14—Stedman by 9, Grandsire by 4, and there is one peal of Erin. In Major there has been a decrease of 55. Surprise methods have decreased by 54—London 6, Bristol 7, Superlative 9, and others 32. Only 10 new Surprise methods were rung, compared with 22 in 1934. Treble Bob have increased by 9 and Plain Bob by 10, whilst Double Norwich have decreased by 17. Stedman Triples have increased by 4, Grandsire Triples by 44, and other Triples methods by 4. Minor have increased by 26. There is a decrease of 1 in one method and 6 in seven methods, and an increase of 10 in two methods, 8 in three methods, 5 in four methods, 3 in five methods, and 7 in methods over seven. There is an increase in peals of Doubles, viz., 53—21 in one method, 8 in two methods, 18 in three methods, 3 in four methods, 1 in five methods, and 2 in over five.

HANDBELLS.

The number of handbell peals has again decreased, but this year by five only.

ASSOCIATIONS.

The Kent County Association again head the list with 159 peals, a decrease of 4 on last year's total. The Oxford Guild follow with 111, an increase of 14 over last year, and the Lincoln Guild with 107, an increase of 11. These are the only associations with over 100 peals. Twenty-six associations show an increase, the most noticeable being the Salisbury Guild, with an increase of 40, and the Sussex with an increase of 33. Eighteen societies show a decrease, the principal being the Middlesex Association with 49 less, and the Durham and Newcastle and Midland Counties with 21 less each.

GENERAL.

The only long length rung during the year was 10,368 Kent Treble Bob Major, at Horringer, for the Suffolk Guild.

Noteworthy performances include peals of Minor in 40 and 42 methods by the Chester Guild, and a peal of Spliced London and (Continued on next page.)

ANOTHER NEW SPLICED MINOR RECORDYOUNG BAND'S SUCCESS AT ALGARKIRK.

The splicing of Minor methods goes ahead by leaps and bounds. There are several enthusiastic bands of 'spicers' in the country, and their efforts are aided and abetted by the genius of Mr. A. G. Driver. Last Saturday, at Algarkirk, Lincolnshire, a new record in the

Another thing which adds to the merit of the performance is that four of the band are Sunday service ringers at the church where the peal was rung, and another comes from the neighbouring village of Frampton.

Unity of purpose and a determination to make progress underlies success of this kind, and another factor has been suggested to us by number of methods included in seven true 720's was raised to 48. It is another great performance by the youthful company, of which Mr. Vernon Taylor has proved himself so capable a leader.

One of the 720's included no fewer than 13 methods, and another had 12 spliced into it. Altogether there were 168 changes of method.

It was the fiftieth peal by two of the band, the rest cannot claim even this number. Indeed, the conductor has rung only 26, while the ringer of the 2nd rang his first peal in seven methods 'inside' only twelve months ago.

a correspondent. It ought hardly to be whispered—for fear of what might happen, but—they are all bachelors!

The bells at Algarkirk were a ring of five until they were augmented to commemorate the late King's Silver Jubilee, and this great performance was the first peal upon them. Our picture shows the church to be a handsome building with a central tower. The bells are rung from the floor of the church, at the entrance to the chancel, and on Sundays, therefore, the ringers perform their duties in full view of the assembling congregation.

ANALYSIS COMMITTEE'S REPORT

Cambridge Surprise Major on handbells by the Hertford County Association.

The following are the number of peals rung during each month in 1935 and 1934:—

March	... 152	120	September	... 158	161
April	... 99	171	October	... 149	150
May	... 257	142	November	... 192	199
June	... 174	122	December	... 187	215

There is a very substantial increase in the number of ringers who have scored their first peals. The total is 643, an increase of 140. Of this total 200 accomplished their first peal on the treble, 107 on the tenor, and 336 on an 'inside' bell. The number who have rung their first peals in a new method, or method on a different number of bells is 877, a decrease of 199. Of these 101 are claimed as first peal in a method for the treble ringer in either plain or treble bob hunts, and 776 on an 'inside' bell. Ringers of their first peal 'inside' number 70, away from the tenor 18, Maximus 14, Cinques 7, Royal 25, Caters 25, Major 64, Triples 34, Minor 86, Doubles 41. On twelve bells 18, ten 62, eight 59, six 8, five 13. Surprise (excluding those who rang the treble and claimed first of Surprise) 32, in hand 21, in method in hand 42. New conductors number 82, and conductors in new methods 108.

Other footnotes show that 47 were the first on the bells, 107 the first in the method on the bells, 43 the first since restoration or augmentation.

For the Royal Jubilee 202 peals were rung, Royal birthdays 25, birthdays 240, weddings (including silver, etc.) 126, muffled and half-muffled peals number 67, church festivals and dedications 20, welcome and farewell 50, Empire Day 3.

It would seem from the tables that very few methods are in common use, and with the large amount of material now available in the books published by the Council, we look forward to a greater variety of methods in the future. This would at least be some compensation to those members who have given so much time in preparing these books.

Included in the analysis is a peal of Minor rung at Wistaston for the Chester Guild on July 13th, published in 'The Ringing World,' page 471, and stated to contain three 480's of Little Bob. We are unable to find any intimation from the Guild that this peal is not recognised by them, and we should be glad of the Council's instructions.

We give below the number of peals rung in each of the representative years since 1881, the total for the whole period being 66,984:—

DEDICATION CEREMONY AT WALMER.

On Wednesday evening, May 13th, an interesting ceremony took place in the belfry of the Parish Church, Walmer, Kent. A peal board recording a half-muffled peal and portrait of the late Mr. A. J. Matthews, J.P., was dedicated by the Vicar (Canon Tonks).

The peal board was the work of Mr. James Arthur, of Deal, who took part in the peal.

Mr. Matthews was a great admirer of church bells and met all expenses of the recent restoration. Thanks to the generosity of the relatives, his name will always be linked with the Walmer belfry.

THE SPICED PEALS RESOLUTIONS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—It seems quite futile to hope that Mr. James Hunt will ever understand that the object of the resolutions introduced by me at the last Council meeting was to define a spliced peal for the future, and not to condemn any that had already been rung. He again states that I condemn the various peals of Spliced Kent and Oxford, and I, therefore, can only conclude that he does not know the meaning of the word he so frequently uses. There is nothing in the resolutions to prevent these peals being rung; the question is whether they shall be called 'spliced' or be given some other definition. I would again remind Mr. Hunt that if his so-called amendment had been carried, all the variations of Major which he eulogised last week, the Ilkeston, Liversedge and Worcester variations, would have been ruled out, for none of these contain full courses of either Kent or Oxford. It is he who would condemn these peals, and not the supporters of my resolutions.

Another matter on which Mr. Hunt is entirely misinformed he again refers to this week. He quotes the case of a peal, in which I took part, in ten Surprise Major methods, and states that there were only 160 changes of one method. This is quite correct, the method in question was Yorkshire, and the M to W lead was rung five times. If one lead only was rung, then all the method would be rung, but I will let that pass. Mr. Hunt's point is that as only five leads were rung, then none of the bells could do all the work of the method. Again this is quite correct. But let us go further. The Law James peal in four methods, which was the first peal of Spliced Surprise Major ever rung, and which was the forerunner of all such peals, contains, in its original form as rung at Warnham, 50 courses. In each of these courses there is a lead of Cambridge (or Superlative), M to W, and as the 7th and 8th are fixed bells, it follows that none of the five working bells can ever occupy the places of 7 and 8. Therefore, none of the bells do all the work of the method, and exactly as much of the work of the method (Yorkshire) is rung in the peal referred to by Mr. Hunt as is rung of Cambridge or Superlative in the Rev. H. Law James' peal. Is Mr. Hunt going to rule out this peal? And, if not, why not? Is he prepared to rule out all the best performances of Minor, including the 42-method peal rung at Disley last year? In this peal each of the 720's contained at least one method of which only three leads were rung.

It is, as a matter of fact, impossible to obtain true multi-method peals on any other plan—the more methods in a peal, the more limited is the work of a method—and it is utter foolishness for Mr. Hunt to waste his time framing 'amendments' which, if adopted, would only exclude such peals from the spliced class. His sneers at superior peals, too, are decidedly in bad taste, for whatever he thinks about them, there have been peals of Spliced Minor, Major and, lately, of Royal rung, which will test the abilities of the best, and all these peals contain the same 'defect' that has caused Mr. Hunt so much worry.

As far as the resolutions over my name are concerned, they seek to define a spliced peal, with the object of keeping peals, with a change of method every few leads, in a different class to those with only one or two changes throughout. Mr. Stephen Wood's ingenious idea may meet the case—I do not know until it has been further considered—but it is obvious that any more 'amendments' of the nature proposed by Mr. Hunt at Shrewsbury will only confuse the issue. In any event, amendments should be amendments, and not fresh resolutions, and anything that introduces another matter entirely should be ruled out of order, unless proper notice has been given. C. T. COLES.

SPICED RINGING.

Dear Sir,—It is pretty clear what is in Mr. Hunt's mind and I believe that other people share more or less his opinions, but I think that, if he will look a little more closely into the matter, he will find that it is based on a fallacy.

When we rang our peal in twelve Spliced Surprise methods we rang some of the methods only between the Middle and the Wrong, therefore it is obvious, as Mr. Hunt says, that everyone in the band could not have rung the whole of those methods. But we never claimed that everyone did; in fact, no one did. What we did claim was that the band as a whole had rung the whole of the methods, and if we had only rung one lead the claim would have been a good one. With the possible exceptions of Duffield and Forward, there never was a peal of Major rung where every man in the band rang the whole of the method. The work of the treble in London Surprise is just as much a part of the method and just as important as the work of the tenor, but the treble man does not do the tenor man's work nor the tenor man the treble man's work.

The other day I went to Staines prepared to do anything I was asked to do in the work of seven methods. At the finish I found that I had not done the work of three leads in at least one of the methods. It just happened so according to the composition. Similarly I might ring the seventh to a peal of Bob Major and never be called upon to make second's or to dodge in 3-4; or the tenor to a peal of Double Norwich and never make near places from the front. But no one would say that a peal of Bob Major or Double Norwich had not been rung. It is the band as a whole that rings the peal, not eight separate individual ringers. J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

CALLED BY TELEPHONE.

NOVEL EXPERIMENT.

Calls by the telephone are put through by the million every day—we are not sure if this statistic is quite right, but it is near enough. A different 'call' went over the 'phone to Twyford the other evening, following the preliminary notification after 'Number, please?'

A peal of Double Norwich had been rung at the Parish Church—the first in the method on the bells, by the way—and the ringers afterwards engaged in handbell ringing at the home of Mr. Cross. A friend rang up to enquire how the peal had progressed. He was informed, of course, that it had been 'landed' successfully, and he was then asked to call a six-score of Grandsire Doubles, which he did.

The ringers stood close round the instrument, while someone listened at the receiving end to pass on the calls, as they were made by the distant conductor. The bells, it was said, were heard at the other end of the wire perfectly clearly.

It was an interesting experiment, but it might prove expensive if extensively practised; if, for instance, William Barber in Newcastle called a peal of Stedman Triples rung in London!

SOCIETY FOR THE ARCHDEACONRY OF STAFFORD.

The last quarterly meeting of the society's year was held at St. Matthew's Church, Walsall, on Saturday, April 25th. Despite the wet afternoon, about sixty assembled. The bells were made good use of up to the time of the service, which was conducted by the Rev. H. J. Carpenter, M.A., Vicar, who also gave an admirable address. A move was then made to the Institute, where an excellent tea was served and enjoyed to the full.

A vote of thanks to the Vicar for his address and his kindly welcome, to the organist for his assistance, to the lady helpers in preparing tea, was moved by the Rev. C. H. Barker.

Handbells were brought into use to the tune of Stedman and Grandsire Caters, after which a return was made to the tower, when a variety of methods were indulged in, including a well-struck course of Cambridge Surprise Major.

The next meeting (the annual) is provisionally arranged to take place at Lichfield on Saturday, June 20th.

BELLS BROADCAST.

THE RECEPTION FROM ST. AMBROSE'S, BRISTOL.

The ringers of St. Ambrose's Church, Bristol, wish to acknowledge the correspondence sent to Mr. F. Skidmore re their broadcast of Stedman Triples on Sunday, May 3rd. The messages came from a very wide field, Doncaster and Sheffield, Yorks; Harwich, Essex; Reading, Berks; Yeovil, Somerset; Buckfastleigh, Devon; Cardiff, Glamorgan; and Stinchcombe, Glos.

The remarks were generally of a congratulatory nature, some thought the 'time too fast,' others what a 'good tenor,' 'wonderful tapping,' 'no knots in it,' and a 'real treat,' so altogether the results were very satisfactory. The reception was all that could be desired, and the announcer did not take up too much time.

One p.c. received looked as if the sender had something out of the ordinary in the way of radio sets. We have come to the conclusion, say the ringers, that it was a 'Wolsley Hornet Two-Ear Set,' fitted with a tele-type apparatus, for we received all the 'sixes' pricked out and the bobs marked. We think the set was somewhere in the region of St. George's Park, Bristol, or 'some draught Worthington.'

DEATH OF MR. P. PRESTON.

RINGER FOR 35 YEARS AT STONE, STAFFS.

The death took place very suddenly on Tuesday, May 5th, at the age of 62 years, of Mr. P. Preston, of Stone, Staffs. He was a change ringer at St. Michael's Church for 35 years and leader of the tower for 20 years. He retired from leadership some time back, but was made a life member of the association.

He was ringing in the tower on April 5th for the dedication of the bells after their rehangings, and on Sunday, May 3rd, for Mayor's Sunday. His loss to the belfry will be deeply felt by the local band, all of whom he taught to ring.

The interment took place on Saturday, May 9th, and touches of Grandsire and Stedman were rung with the bells half-muffled throughout the afternoon.

On Sunday morning the Rector visited the tower and offered prayers. A quarter-peal of Stedman Triples was then rung: J. Moulson 1, H. Hodson 2, C. Templeton 3, R. Baker 4, W. Buckley 5, J. Head 6, A. Rowley (conductor) 7, H. Ogbourne 8.

THE COUNCIL.

The meeting of the Central Council next Tuesday, at London's historic Guildhall, promises to be of great interest, not only on account of the exceptional setting in which it will be held, but because it is a new Council, which will have new blood in it, and it is meeting at a time when the Exercise is more than ever realising the need and value of such a body. The Council has grown from a gathering of ringers, which, in its early days, was looked upon somewhat as the plaything of one man, but which, despite much disparagement in past years, has developed into an organisation of great importance and increasing usefulness.

We have said before, and we think it worth repeating on the eve of the meeting of a new Council, that the whole of the business to which it gives its attention cannot be expected to interest all the members all the time. Some discussions interest one section, and other discussions appeal to another section of different tastes. Indeed, the wider the diversity of topics which come under consideration the more useful the Council can be. If, for instance, scientific questions were eliminated there may be some members who would be delighted—because they are not personally interested in them—but the scientific discussions in the Council in the past have had no small influence in keeping development of the art on proper lines and of very definitely helping it forward. On the other hand a Council which was purely a scientific debating society would soon lose its appeal to the general body of ringers. The scope of the Council's work is such that everyone can find an interest in it in one direction or another, and if there still be any members who find themselves bored by this or that discussion they should bear in mind that the subject, whatever it is, is of interest and probably of value to a considerable section of the Council and the Exercise outside it.

There is one other phase of the organisation of the Council to which we are tempted to refer. In certain quarters there is an undercurrent of opinion that the business of the Council is managed by a small section of its members. It is a view which we have quite frequently heard expressed, yet nothing could be wider of the mark. If ever there was a democratic institution it is the Central Council. The members are elected by their own associations, they come with a free hand, one man's voice is as good as another's—as long as he can express himself intelligently—and the unfettered vote of the majority carries the day. Officialdom, in the sense of 'bossing' the Council, does not exist, and one has only to come into touch with the actual working of the organisation to realise how much those occupying official positions are the servants and not the masters of the Council. This, of course, is as it should be, but there are among ringers some who like to think that the Council is managed by a few 'dictators.' In any such body there are bound to be men who will stand out as leaders of thought and of action, but that does not rob any member of the opportunity of leading the Council in another direction—if he has cause good enough and capacity sufficient to do it. The Council has not outlived its usefulness by any means. It has a very important purpose still to serve, and it should be the object of every member to maintain the Council as a worthy head of the ringing Exercise.

FOR BEGINNERS.

ST. CLEMENT'S TRIPLES.

Another interesting Triples method is St. Clement's Bob. Like Oxford, which we described last week, it comes from the Minor, with an additional bell in the hunt.

It is always as well to understand something about the construction of a method you want to ring; it gives you a better insight into the ringing of it. In St. Clement's a pair of bells dodge on the front from the time the treble and other hunt bell leave until they return; just as in Oxford you have one pair dodging at the back all the time the hunt bells are away.

To correspond with this dodging—we hesitate to say whether it is cause or effect, and someone would be bound to disagree with us whichever way we put it—three bells (all in natural coursing order, and that is a tip worth knowing by the conductor) make 3rd's and hunt straight back. The whole of the work of the five bells not concerned in the dodging on the front is plain hunting.

The bells start exactly as in Grandsire, with 3rd's place and the bells above dodging. Then the bell that made 3rd's place and the bell that dodged in 4-5 down come together on the front for the three pull dodge, and if the other bells remember that as long as the treble is above them they have to make 3rd's and go back, there is nothing else much to bother about.

The bell that does the three-pull dodge down, on the front, makes 3rd's place when next the treble leads and returns to the front to have the three-pull dodge up. The work of the method can be summed up thus:—

Treble turns you from behind, make 3rd's.

Pass treble 3-4, dodge 6-7 (up), make 3rd's.

Pass treble 4-5, dodge 7-6 (down), make 3rd's.

Pass treble 5-6, dodge 5-4 (down), three-pull dodge down on the front.

Pass treble in 1-2, make 3rd's, and lead, three-pull dodge up on the front.

Pass treble 2-3, dodge 4-5 up, treble then turns you from behind. This is the actual order in which the work occurs in the plain course, in which, of course, the 2nd is in the hunt with the treble.

The bobs are made as in Grandsire, by an extra 3rd's place to change the bell in the hunt. The bell coming out of the hunt double dodges in 5-4 (down), and the other bells also have a double dodge instead of a single one, one dodging place sooner, and taking up the rest of the work in a slightly different order, which it will be worth your while to figure out.

One thing should be noticed and that is that the bells instead of being thrown forward a lead, as in Grandsire and having part of the work cut out, the bells above 4th's in St. Clement's are thrown back and do one lead over again. A bob at the first lead end actually produces 1542567.

If you are looking for a touch for practice you can get a 294, by calling R. (first lead, which brings you immediately to the course end 342567), W., which comes at the second lead in the next course, and Before, which follows two leads later when the 7th is going to make 3rd's from the front. This calling has to be twice repeated. You can get a touch twice the length by calling R. twice, W.B. twice and repeating the whole twice.

As a matter of history we may conclude by recalling that the first peal was rung at Chester in 1911, but very few have been rung since.

SPliced SURPRISE MAJOR.

NEW PEAL BY MR. E. C. S. TURNER.

A simplified composition of Spliced London, Cambridge, Superlative and Bristol Surprise Major has been composed by that talented young man, Mr. Ernest C. S. Turner. It is a ten-part peal of 5,056 changes.

Nine times repeated, omitting the last two courses and the bob at W in the third course of the fifth and tenth parts.

Each course consists of London, Cambridge or Superlative, London, with leads of Bristol inserted where more than one bob is called at M or W in any course.

SPliced MINOR.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—Having read your leading article of May 15th, I would point out that the merits of a peal of Spliced Minor cannot be judged by the number of times the methods are changed. There are pairs of Plain methods spliced on the same plan as pairs of Surprise methods; so, of course, in the Plain methods we get twice the number of changes of methods; also, there are four methods (Surprise) spliced in a 720 with 24 changes of method. Two more methods can be added to these in the 720, with half the number of changes of method. There are a few pairs that can be changed at every lead, but no one will say that this is more difficult than to ring six methods in a 720.

SPliced PEALS RESOLUTIONS.

Dear Sir,—While in sympathy with Mr. Coles' desire to separate types of so-called 'spliced peals,' my opinion—which really is neither here nor there—inclines to a very broad division. I know that facing two pieces of wood, with glue, is not the same thing as splicing a rope; and that four quarter-peals joined end to end is not the same thing as intertwining the methods. Beyond this I consider it dangerous to go, but am prepared to state that the inclusion of one lone lead would satisfy me that the method had been 'spliced,' provided that the lead was plained.

My small son knows that milk is not beer; he may have heard of ale and stout. By experience he will gain knowledge of the various grades in these divisions. With such knowledge he will not need guidance, and until then he does not particularly care! Peals of such outstanding merit as the 'Pye' 12-method, the 'Cashmore' handbell, the 'Relfe' 32-method, and others, require no labels for those who can, and do, appreciate what has been done.

I follow the argument, for and against, with interest; but I do object to what may be described as 'fiddling.' Mr. Trollope says that they claimed that the band as a whole had rung the whole of the methods in the twelve Spliced Surprise peal. This is untrue and cannot be claimed with justice, as I suspect Mr. Trollope knows full well.

I have a method (I won't trouble you with figures!) called 'Muddlessex' Surprise Major, of which I am the proud author. It causes a bell to lie four blows behind, and Mr. Trollope knows that he is entirely unable to prove that this method, with fourth-place bobs, was not included in that splendid performance!

GEORGE L. JOYCE.

MR. HUNT REPLIES.

Dear Sir,—In the last issue of 'The Ringing World' Mr. Coles says he has done nothing except what concerns his resolution. Readers who have followed all his statements on this subject will be able to judge who is right, he or yours truly? I note all that he and Mr. Trollope say, and neither of them can tell me anything fresh about the compositions that they have rung. I say once more the most perfect spliced peal of Major ever rung is Mr. J. W. Parker's Superlative and Cambridge, 2,528 changes of each method. The Rev. Law James' peal I do not object to, but it could be and will be improved on. Its imperfection is the Bristol. It is well known in London that a ringer rang the tenor to the peal and could not ring Bristol, so he looked up the two leads he had to ring. And to this day I do not think he has rung a peal of it.

The Minor men about the country have set an excellent example for any who wish to follow as to how peals should be spliced. They do not ring 1,000 changes of one method and 120 changes of another in their peals. The Staines peal is on the lines that should be followed, an equal number of changes in each method, or near about. And the method can be changed as often as you like. Both Mr. Trollope and Mr. Coles have sneered at me for suggesting that all the method should be rung in a peal. It has come to my knowledge that a four-method Surprise Major composition has been composed in which all the bells do all the work in each method. It only shows what can be done. And whether two methods or 40, it is both spliced; nothing combined, please, but Super Spliced if you like. If Mr. Coles and his friends had drawn up a resolution abolishing the rule that all methods should have Plain Bob lead ends and that leads of methods need not reverse true, it would have been something for the advancement of ringing and have been a credit to them.

PEAL BOARD DEDICATED.

On Saturday, May 16th, a peal board was dedicated at Hathern, Leicestershire, recording the first peal of Bob Minor by two Hathern ringers and the first complete peal to be rung by two local ringers at this church. The service was conducted by the Rector (the Rev. E. Hoole), and ringers came from various towers, including Loughborough, Derby, Anstey, Kingston and Shepshed.

Two years ago the two trebles of the old five were recast and a new treble added at the expense of the Barron Bell Trust.

NORWICH DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.RECORD MEETING AT DISS.

The largest gathering at a Norwich Association branch meeting for many years was seen at Diss on May 16th on the occasion of a general meeting of the South Norfolk Branch. Ringers attended from Alburgh, Dickleburgh, Dersingham, Garboldisham, Hethersett, Newmarket, Norwich, North Walsham, Palgrave, Pulham, Redenhall, Shelfanger, Swaffham, Terrington St. John, Winfarthing, Wroxham, Wymondham and the local band. The ringing during the afternoon and evening ranged from rounds to London Surprise Major.

A shortened form of evening service was conducted by the Rector (the Rev. Leonard Holt-Wilson), who based his address on Numbers x. 1-10.

Tea was partaken of in the Church Hall and the business meeting followed. The chairman (Mr. W. L. Duffield) was supported by Mr. N. Golden (branch secretary), Mr. A. L. Coleman (general secretary and treasurer), Messrs. E. G. Bennett, A. G. Harrison, R. Riches, C. J. More and E. Whiting (members of the committee), the Rev. L. Holt-Wilson (Rector of Diss), the Rev. C. H. Barber (Rector of Winfarthing), Capt. H. W. Ager (Church Army), Mr. C. C. Day, Mus. Bac. (organist), Messrs. G. J. Moss and A. T. Johnson (churchwardens), Mr. H. W. Harrison (clerk) and representatives from Alburgh, Dickleburgh, Palgrave, Pulham, Redenhall, Garboldisham, Shelfanger, Winfarthing and the local band.

It was hoped that a joint meeting with the Suffolk Guild could be arranged some time in July.

A number of new members were elected, including a company of seven from Brockdish.

It was solved to draw up a form of service to be used at the association's meetings. The Rev. L. Holt-Wilson was thanked for conducting the service and allowing the bells to be used, while Mr. C. C. Day was also accorded a vote of thanks for his services at the organ.

RINGER'S GOLDEN WEDDING.

On Tuesday, May 12th, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Doubles was rung at Berwick St. John, Wilts, in honour of the golden wedding of Mr. W. Foot: W. Foot 1, F. Burt 2, E. Coward (conductor) 3, R. Foot 4, W. Roberts 5, J. Kiddle 6.

The Rector (the Rev. A. B. Poole), Sir Henry and Lady Crofton and their daughter came to the tower and offered their congratulations to Mr. Foot, afterwards remaining in the belfry during the quarter-peal.

Mr. Foot has been a ringer and a member of the choir at the same church for 65 years. He was present at the first meeting of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

Some misunderstanding seems to have occurred with regard to the use of the bells of St. Magnus', London Bridge, to-morrow, by visitors to the Metropolis for the Central Council meeting. A peal attempt at 4.30 p.m. had previously been sanctioned, so that, if it is successful, it is unlikely to finish much before 8 o'clock. If it is unsuccessful, of course, the bells will be available to other visitors, but we make this announcement to save disappointment to any who may be thinking of going to this church on Saturday evening.

The heavy ring of five at Leamington Hastings Church, Warwickshire, is being rehung with new fittings in new framework by John Taylor and Co., Loughborough.

Messrs. Gillett and Johnston are strengthening the frame and repairing the fittings at St. Michael's Church, Gloucester. This church was the home of the St. Michael's Juniors, made famous by the brothers James, and the band, including Mr. John Austin, which they got around them in the now rather distant years towards the end of last century.

THE CHANDLER FOUNDRY.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—The interesting account of the Chandler Foundry in a recent issue of 'The Ringing World' reminds me that four of the five bells in the tower of St. Paul's, Walden, Church, near Hitchin, bear the inscription, 'Chandler made me, 1655.'

The fourth bell was recast by Briant in 1812, and is a full semi-tone too sharp, the local explanation being that a bell from the neighbouring tower of Knebworth was recast at the same time, and they were exchanged on replacement.

THE CENTRAL COUNCIL.

Committee Reports.

The following are among the reports to be presented at the meeting of the Central Council next Tuesday—:

PEAL COLLECTION COMMITTEE.

Peals in the methods authorised, viz., Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Bob Major, Double Norwich, Treble Bob, Superlative, Cambridge, London, Yorkshire, Pudsey, Rutland and Spliced Surprise, have been collected, typed and copies without the composers' names attached have been sent to each member of the committee for selection.

These selections are gradually coming in, and the book is beginning to take shape.

Mr. J. A. Trollope's article on Variations has been rewritten by that gentleman, and is now on sale.

METHODS COMMITTEE.

During the past year a new edition of the Collection of Minor and Doubles Methods has been prepared and handed to the hon. secretary for publication in accordance with the resolution of the Council.

By rearranging the methods and compositions and by omitting matter which has ceased to be of any great importance since the last edition was issued, it has been possible to reduce the size of the book and consequently the cost, and at the same time to find room for a larger number of 720's of Plain Bob, Kent Treble Bob and Cambridge Surprise, and a selection of 720's in spliced methods.

A book on the Surprise Major methods has also been prepared and handed to the hon. secretary. It gives 237 methods, 98 peal compositions, an explanation of proof, etc., and a short historical sketch of Surprise ringing. We believe that there is a demand in the Exercise for such a book and that it will find a ready sale.

MR. G. F. WOODHOUSE'S RINGING MACHINES.

WILL NOW RING SPLICED METHODS.

Mr. G. F. Woodhouse has effected modifications in some of his ringing machines. In Nos. 2 and 4 the screw-in-pegs have been replaced by 'throw over' pegs and the bob keys altered in accordance with suggestions from Mr. A. G. Driver. In No. 5 (now with Mr. Driver at Belvedere), a sliding panel with 'drop in' pegs takes the place of the barrel. In all machines it is possible to splice methods, either by using the bob keys or changing the pegs while the machine is running. I have rung all the spliced 720's published by Mr. A. G. Driver in 'The Ringing World' some time ago. The machines will, therefore, ring, draw diagrams, splice and type out the changes. Nos. 1 and 3 have been scrapped.

BERKSHIRE RINGERS VISIT LAVENHAM.

On Sunday, May 24th, a long talked of visit was made to old-world Lavenham by a few Berkshire ringers. Through the kindness of Mr. S. H. Symonds and his band, several local men were in the tower when the visitors arrived, and 'Go, Stedman Triples,' was called at 10 a.m., the bells coming home at 10.50 after a fine quarter-peal by A. D. Cullum 1, Miss S. Davis 2, W. Andrews 3, W. Jarvis 4, E. J. Taylor 5, R. T. Hibbert (conductor) 6, L. Pryke 7, W. Hibbert 8.

The visitors will ever remember their visit to this fine old town, neither will they forget their welcome and the kindness shown them. The church and the bells, the morning service and the Swan, brave old bird, upwards of 400 years old, will remain a happy memory.

ANOTHER RECORD IN MINOR SPLICING.

PEAL IN 52 METHODS.

Yet another wonderful Minor performance has to be recorded this week. In our last issue we reported the setting up of a new record at Algarkirk, Lincs, by the ringing of 48 methods in seven true 720's. Last Saturday, at Marple, members of the Chester Diocesan Guild rang a peal in which no fewer than 52 methods were incorporated. It is, of course, the greatest achievement in splicing that has yet been accomplished, and the ringers will be warmly congratulated upon the performance.

The methods used in the various extents will be found in the record of the peal. Five of the 720's were the same as those used in the 46-method peal rung at Buxton on January 18th, but we give below the two fresh extents (Nos. 2 and 3) which were introduced to add to the number of methods.

Extents Nos. 1, 2 and 3 in the peal were arranged by Mr. K. Lewis, from Mr. A. G. Driver's tables, and the remainder were from Mr. Driver's 42-method peal, except that in No. 4 the three-lead splice was omitted.

Altogether, there were in the peal 112 changes of method. The bells at Marple are hung in the tower of the old church, which is not now used for services. The services are held in the new church, which stands next to it.

The bells themselves were cast in 1731 by A. Rudhall and originally hung in the old Parish Church, Stockport. When this church was rebuilt the bells were sold to Marple. Messrs. Taylor and Co. recently rehung the bells, which were reopened early this year.

Incidentally, it may be mentioned that we also record this week a peal of Spliced Surprise Minor in no fewer than 32 methods (arranged by Mr. A. G. Driver) at Folkingham, Lincs.

LANCASHIRE ASSOCIATION.

The half-yearly meeting was held at Rawtenstall on Saturday, when between 30 and 40 met from various towers. The bells were rung up at 3 p.m. and kept going in various methods until 4.30, when a short service with an address was held in the schools (the church is being cleaned and is closed for several weeks), conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. A. G. Lee. After tea at the Co-op. Assembly Rooms the vice-president proposed a vote of thanks to the Vicar, wardens, ringers and organist for the arrangements.

A letter of sympathy was read from the president of the Yorkshire Association on the loss of the association's president, and the company stood in silence in remembrance of one who has been their leader for so many years.

After a smoke and a chat, the tower was again visited and the bells kept going until cars, buses and trains separated the company with hopes of meeting again at Kendal in September.

THE WILLIAM PYE MEMORIAL.

DEDICATION CEREMONY TO-MORROW.

To-morrow's ceremony at Leytonstone sees the completion of the scheme for providing a memorial to William Pye, one of the greatest ringers of all time.

The Late Mr. William Pye.

The efforts of the Middlesex County Association, of which Mr. Pye was Master, and the Essex Association, in whose area he lived and for which he did so much in helping to raise the standard of ringing, have carried through their efforts in a highly successful manner.

The principal part of the memorial, as our readers are aware, consists of the addition of two trebles to the present six at St. John's Church, Leytonstone, and a suitable tablet in the tower.

The new bells are to be dedicated at a service to-morrow afternoon at 4 o'clock by the Bishop of Barking, who will receive them from the president of the Central Council (Mr. E. H. Lewis), and Mr. C. T. Coles (hon. secretary of the Middlesex Association) will unveil the tablet. A large and representative gathering of ringers is expected.

LONDON COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

A meeting of the Northern District of the London County Association and North Southwark Diocesan Guild was held on Saturday, May 16th, at the Church of St. John-at-Hackney.

Ringing commenced at 3 p.m. and various methods rung. A short service was conducted by the curate. At the outset of his address he said that he had been told not to speak longer than two minutes. He would do his best to comply with that request, difficult though it was to convey any message in so short a time.

However, it was agreed by the members that both objects were achieved, with happy results.

After tea, a short business meeting was held, at which it was decided to visit St. Mary's, Woodford, for the July meeting.

A vote of thanks to the Rector for the use of the bells, to the curate for the service, and to Mr. Frank Start, of the local band, for making the arrangements, was carried with acclamation.

Further ringing then took place until 9 p.m., the usual variety of methods, from Grandsire Triples to London Major, being rung.

ANOTHER COUNCIL PUBLICATION.

NEW BOOK ON 'VARIATION AND TRANSPOSITION.'

Another addition to the Central Council publications is now on sale. It is a book on 'Variations and Transposition'—a revised collection of a series of articles, which were specially written for 'The Ringing World' by Mr. J. A. Trollope a few years ago.

Many readers will remember that there have, from time to time, been suggestions made for the setting up of a register of compositions, so that an author could, by including his work in such a register, definitely establish his claim to it.

The successful building up of this proposed register was eventually shown to be such a formidable task as to be almost, if not quite, impossible, and by no means the least of the difficulties was that of deciding what was and what was not an original composition.

As a matter of fact, two sets of totally dissimilar figures may be two versions of the same composition; and two sets of figures, exactly alike, apparently, can be different compositions. That is the point to which Mr. Trollope's articles lead us; with this further difficulty in deciding authorship, that, given certain mathematical conditions, there are types of composition which, as it were, produce themselves.

Who, then, is to decide what is original and what is not, and who could be found to search a register so complicated to ascertain an author's right to his productions? That was the great snag to attempting the task suggested.

The whole business of composition has got far beyond the generally accepted conditions of fifty years ago, and there are much subtler points to be taken into account than whether, say, A's peal of Bob Major is the same as B's, with calls at Wrong substituted for calls at Home.

All these matters and a great many more of deep interest, not only to composers and would-be composers, but to anyone who takes an intelligent interest in the art, are discussed in 'Variations and Transposition,' in which the subject is dealt with lucidly and without any more technicalities than are absolutely necessary. It is written, indeed, in a way that makes the subject understood, with a minimum of mental exertion.

The book can be obtained, post free, for 1s. from the Central Council Librarian.

GUILDFORD GUILD AT WITLEY.

Surrey in May has a peculiar fascination, and members and visitors of the Guildford District who assembled at Witley on Saturday enjoyed themselves thoroughly. They came from a wide area. A doctor who learnt to ring at Cranleigh added a Dorset tower to the list in the visitors' book. Portsmouth was well represented, and friends from the Croydon area swelled the party. Local ringers, however, were put to shame by a lady member of the Middlesex Association, who hiked from Guildford without even a companion to tell her fairy stories on the way.

The afternoon and evening was spent according to 'Cocker.' Many found the circle at Witley difficult to manage with the swinging pendulum of the clock occupying the centre of the ringing chamber, but there were enough experts present to ring a good service touch of Stedman and in the evening to indulge their fancy in Superlative.

There were other things, however, to make the visit memorable. The sumptuous tea in the new Village Hall, the cricket match on the Green, the handbell ringing in the bar parlour of the White Hart and the cordiality of the welcome extended by the Vicar (the Rev. P. G. Holden) cannot be lightly passed over.

The Guild service in the beautiful church and the helpful words of the Vicar were greatly appreciated. He left one conundrum with his hearers. Who would you prefer in the belfry? A good ringer who was a bad man or a medium ringer who was a good man?

By the way, Witley have something to remember the district's visit. At the tea table a presentation was made by Mr. George Grover to Gordon Wootton—a collecting box of the Guild Benevolent Fund. Already the box has sufficient inside to jingle.

LEEDS AND DISTRICT SOCIETY.

The May meeting was brought forward one week in order to keep clear of Whitsuntide, and was held at Guiseley on Saturday. Members rang touches ranging from Grandsire Triples and Plain Bob to Surprise methods. Ringers were present from Armley, Batley, Brighouse, Burley, Calverley, Drighlington, Holbeck, Ilkley, Headingley (St. Chad's and St. Michael's), Idle, Leeds Parish Church, Selby, Shipley, Sherburn and Rothwell.

The business meeting was held in the tower, the president being in the chair.

Four new members were elected, viz., Messrs. M. Robson, J. Cloughton, J. Arncliffe and D. Lobley, of the Guiseley company.

A vote of thanks to the Rector, churchwardens and the local company was proposed by Mr. W. H. Senior and seconded by Mr. L. W. G. Morris.

The tower for the next meeting is Burley, and, subject to approval, the meeting will be held on Saturday, June 20th, in order to keep clear of the Western Division, Yorkshire Association, meeting, fixed for June 27th.

YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION.

RULES TO BE RECONSIDERED.

A very pleasant general meeting of the Yorkshire Association was held at Thirsk on Saturday, May 16th, by the kind invitation of the Vicar and the local company, when about 40 members attended and thoroughly enjoyed their visit to this old market town and its interesting church. The bells, which are a very pleasant and handy ring of eight (tenor 15 cwt.), were kept going in a variety of methods during the afternoon and evening, but perhaps the most satisfactory point about the meeting was the large number of towers which were represented, as will be shown by the following list, and the long distances which many of those present had travelled. The towers represented were as follows: York Minster, Bradford Cathedral, Sheffield Cathedral, Selby Abbey, Ripon Cathedral, Holy Trinity, Hull; St. Chad's and St. Michael's, Headingley; Aysgarth; St. Marie's, Sheffield; Sherburn-in-Elmet; Thirsk; All Saints' and St. Giles', Pontefract; Christ Church, Armley; Birstwith; Thornaby; Stillington and Pudsey. An excellent tea was provided at the White Lion Hotel, where also were held the committee and general meetings.

The president (Canon C. C. Marshall) was in the chair, and he was supported by the treasurer, the peal secretary, Mr. G. Lewis, Mr. P. J. Johnson, Mr. F. Cryer and other members of the committee.

After the Vicar and the local company had been very sincerely thanked for their invitation and kind welcome, Mr. Stott replied for the local company and apologised for the absence of the Vicar owing to illness in his family.

The President then reported that he had heard from the general secretary (Mr. J. E. Cawser) that he was sorry that he could not be present, and saying that he thought that he ought to resign his office, as owing to pressure of work he was unable to attend to his duties as he felt that he ought. The committee had instructed him to write to Mr. Cawser and ask him to continue in office until the term for which he was elected was completed, when the matter could be again considered.

It was decided to hold the next meeting, on the third Saturday in September, at Escrick, if permission could be obtained, and, failing that, at Heptonstall.

The President also reported that a sub-committee, consisting of the president, the general secretary and treasurer, the peal secretary and Mr. P. J. Johnson, had been appointed to go into the matter of the revision of the rules, and that members were invited to send in any suggestions which they might have.

At the meeting of the General Committee, a resolution of very sincere sympathy was passed in connection with the death of Canon Elsee, president of the Lancashire Association, and the president was asked to convey to the Lancashire Association and to the relatives of Canon Elsee their sense of loss which the whole Exercise had sustained by his death and their sincere sympathy.

A most enjoyable day was concluded by more ringing at the Parish Church, and by a run to the last train (by some!) in the evening.

WARWICKSHIRE GUILD.

The beautiful weather brought an excellent number of ringers and friends to Brinklow for a meeting of the Warwickshire Guild, held there on Saturday, May 16th.

Brinklow is an interesting village, for it is situated on the Roman Fosseway, which passes close to the church. Behind the church is a hill which several of the more energetic members climbed, and from the top of which a good view may be obtained of the country around. An old British camp was situated at this spot and this hill, or tumulus, was used by the Romans for defensive purposes.

During the afternoon a variety of methods were rung on the musical ring of six bells. Tea was taken in the Church Rooms, to which about thirty ringers sat down, representing Stoke, Nuneaton, Allesley, Chilvers Coton, Bulkington, Lillington, Monk's Kirby, Bedworth and the local band.

After tea a return was made to the belfry and the bells were kept going until about 8 p.m. The methods rung during the day included Leudon and Cambridge Surprise, Kent Treble Bob, Plain Bob Minor, St. Simon's, Stedman, April Day and Grandsire Doubles.

AN OXFORD RINGER.

OF THE EARLY EIGHTEENTH CENTURY.

By J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

'On Sunday morning last was found dead in his bed, Mr. Thomas Flaxon, of St. Peter's-in-the-East, Oxford. He was abroad on Saturday last, and I think I met & spoke to him that day or the day before & he had that very day been ringing at Magd. College. He was a single man and turned of seventy years of age. He was a Taylour by Trade but very indifferent at that business, minding chiefly ringing at wch. he was most excellent being deservedly looked upon as one of the best Ringers in the World. He was a very honest, innocent, harmless man, and one that might be trusted on any account. He was very well beloved but very poor. Some years since he was bit in one of his Legs by a large Dog wch. could never be cured. He was otherwise a very strong lusty man. He was buried last night in St. Peter's-in-the-East Church Yard, almost under Edmund Hall buttery, where his Brother (who died a few years since and had been also an excellent Ringer and was also a Taylor, tho' a Bungler & poor) had been buried before, at wch. time were rung two handsome Peals, one round ringing (as he was carrying to Church) the other Changes (after he was put in the Ground)."

What a perfect little picture this is! We can almost see the old man as he limped along the streets of Oxford two hundred years ago, tall and gaunt of body, shabby in dress, and not overclean in person. We can see his preoccupied air as he moves along till someone stops and speaks to him, and the grimy old face lightens up with the smile which shows that, be the outside what it may, the heart within was pure gold. He belonged to a class of man long since crushed out by modern social and economic conditions, who dared to live their lives according to an ideal and in defiance of economic laws, and were prepared to pay the price.

To a man who judges success in life by financial or social standards, he was an utter failure. To a man who holds with Dr. Samuel Smiles that a person's first duty is to be thrifty, industrious and capable, he was a moral wreck. The world has very little use for dreamers and bunglers, and if, in addition, they happen to be very poor they soon get broken. But there must have been many like Flaxon at Oxford in the 18th century, only in more fortunate circumstances.

If he had been born in a higher social class, or if he had had a patron in early life, so that he could have graduated at the University, and if he had had just sufficient learning to get a college fellowship, then he could have pursued his pet study or hobby for the rest of his life, not without the society of others likeminded with himself, or he could have retired to a college living to spend his days in a quiet and stagnant backwater. Fate ordained otherwise, and he had to live out his philosophy of life under conditions that most showed its weaknesses; but if someone had called him a failure, he would have been justified in pointing out that, while good tailors were many, there were very few men who could be classed among the best ringers in the world.

He was very poor, but he was innocent; and that, we are assured, will bring a man peace at the last. He was

'CHASE' DOUBLES AND SOME OTHERS.

To the Editor.

Sir,—'Chase,' or 'Chace' as it appears in the fifth edition of Monk's 'Campanalogia Improved,' is evidently a different method to the one rung under that name at the present time. 'Chase,' as we know it round here, is definitely Stedman Slow Course reversed.

Will the Editor publish the figures as they appear in 'Campanalogia Improved'?

P. AMOS.

'Chace' given in Monk's fifth edition of 'Campanalogia Improved,' is the following method of Doubles:—

CLEAR DEFINITION NEEDED.

Sir,—The letter by Mr. P. Amos was very interesting and raises a point of some importance to Doubles towers. He mentions 'Chace.' Is it not possible to call a plain lead of Chace a single, and with Grandsire Bob and Plain Leads obtain 16 six-scores? What is the correct name of the method? Surely Grandsire?

An alternative single is given in the C.C. Collection for Grandsire—but as part of the Grandsire method. If any of the other singles are used surely it is still Grandsire?

In the Minor Collection of Methods a very slight variation in work only seems to warrant a change of name, e.g., Double Oxford and Thelwall; London and Lytham; St. Clement's and Childwall; Frodsham and Windermere. In these pairs of methods the only change of work appears to be, e.g., in Double Oxford:—

42 at the lead becomes, in Thelwall,	24

The same variation can be made in Doubles in (9) New Bob, (12) Reading, (16) St. Simon's, and (24) St. Bartholomew. Does the variation become another method? If so, what is the correct name? They probably cease to be true Doubles, but appear to produce true six-scores, which seem capable of giving more interesting ringing than, say, 'Dream,' or any other of the varied Grandsire methods. Is not 'April Day' 'spliced' Plain Bob and Grandsire?

A clear definition of what really constitutes a new method—as regards name, that is—from some reliable authority would be interesting.

ELY DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

CENTRAL BRANCH.

About 25 members met at Haddenham, Cambs, on Wednesday, May 20th, for the mid-week practice. Standard methods from Plain Bob to London Surprise were rung. A welcome visitor was Mr. A. E. Austin, who did so much for Surprise Minor ringing in the Ely Association in the years 1923 to 1929.

At Fordham a good muster gathered, nearly 40 attending during the day. Mr. J. W. Pickett had everything ready. The Guild service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. C. B. Prior), and a welcome visitor was Mr. J. H. Shepherd, with his rule, as usual.

SUSSEX ASSOCIATION.

A meeting of the Eastern Division of the Sussex County Association was held at Mayfield on Saturday, when members attended from Eastbourne, Heathfield, Brighton (the Good Shepherd), Hailsham, Uckfield, Tunbridge Wells, Rotherfield, and Mr. W. Pickworth, of Hastings, together with members of the local band. The Vicar, the Rev. T. B. Oliver, conducted the service and presided at the tea which followed. At the business meeting, the Master of the association, Mr. H. R. Butcher, occupied the chair.

Mr. A. C. Pankhurst proposed a hearty vote of thanks to the Vicar for conducting the service and for the use of the bells.

The members then returned to the tower and the bells were kept going until 8.30.

an indifferent tailor, but he was well beloved; and even at this distance of time we feel glad that his fellow-ringers gave him two handsome peals before and after he was put in the ground. They could have done no more if he had been the Vice-Chancellor, or, for that matter, King George himself.

CLERICAL RINGING WEEK. HAPPY DAYS IN HEREFORDSHIRE.

This year's clerical ringing week was held, with headquarters at Hereford, from April 20th to 25th, and, as last year, was under the able management of the Rev. E. V. Cox, who, instead of having an accident before coming, as he did last year, succeeded, much to the regret of everyone, in getting tonsillitis, which prevented his arriving before Tuesday, and attacked him again on Friday. However, he is consoled by knowing that he gave us, as last year, a really delightful time, while his training in punctuality is beginning to bear fruit.

The party included the Rev. E. S. and Mrs. Powell (Staverton), the Revs. E. G. Benson (Burghill), C. Carew Cox (Lyme Regis), E. V. Cox (Brampford Speke), F. L. Edwards (Kington Magna), R. P. Farrow (East Lulworth), E. Bankes James (Fareham), H. S. T. Richardson (Hereford), B. F. Sheppard (Cambridge), A. G. G. Thurlow (Wokingham), W. M. K. Warren (Binegar), C. Elliot Wigg (High Wycombe), R. F. Wilkinson (Ordsall), W. P. Wright (Eyam). The Rev. C. G. Littlehales (Allensmore) joined the party at times. Most of the visitors stayed at the Mitre Hotel, Hereford, but Mrs. Benson kindly offered some of us hospitality at her pretty new home at Burghill.

Eight of us started the work by meeting at Holme Lacy on Monday afternoon, where we soon got going on the fine old Rudhall eight (all dating from 1709, tenor 18 cwt.). Here we rang Stedman Triples and Bob Major and lowered in peal (we always attempted this as well as rising in peal when practicable). The others arrived at various times later. We had tea at the New Inn, where Mr. C. Edwards, Master of the Hereford Diocesan Guild, met us. He showed us a copy of 'Clavis Campanologia' by William James, 1788, with a fine title page, and signed by the donor, 'The Gift of Jno. Rudhall (Bell-founder) to the Gentlemen Ringers of Fownhope in Herefordshire, 1794'—a most interesting book. After tea we proceeded to St. Mary's, Fownhope, where we rang Cambridge, Kent and lowered in peal. The bells are a fine six (tenor 12 cwt.), rehung by Gillett and Johnston, 1933, on ball bearings, in a metal frame. The old oak frame still exists, several feet above its successor, and the interesting Norman central tower is crowned by a fine wooden spire. At 6.45 p.m. (prompt) we arrived at St. George's, Woolhope, where 'a parson raised Cain on the organ, while six parsons raised the bells in confusion.' Double Court and Bob Minor went better, encouraged by the presence of the Vicar, the Rev. O. Stallard. The tenor here, about 18 cwt., is reputed locally to be 'the finest bell in the West Countree' (!). After such an energetic start, on top of (for most) a long journey, dinner at the Mitre was naturally taken equally promptly. We had a nice little lounge all to ourselves, where we could ring handbells and talk; and even telephone. (What a telephone! You had to turn the handle first one way, then the other; then give the thing a good bang, wait five minutes, let someone else have a try; then the hotel porter would come and say, 'Have you managed to get through, sir?' We wish our local operator would sometimes appear in our own study like this, as we cannot throw eggs at him while he remains in the safety of his own exchange.)

CONSTITUTIONAL PROCEDURE?

On Tuesday we went for a peal of Stedman Triples at St. Mary's, Burghill (tenor 10 cwt.). Previously there had been discussion as to under whose auspices peals should be rung. There didn't seem to be one association to which we all belonged. It seemed obvious that we ought to join the Hereford Guild, but only three were already members, so how could three elect the other five? The matter was solved by the three electing one more, then the four members elected the other four. Is this constitutional, or is it the way they do elections in Germany? Anyhow, it didn't matter for that day, as we didn't get the peal. It went well for 20 minutes, when the 3rd rope broke. As this is E. G. B.'s own tower, we nearly decided to tie him to one of the fine yew trees in his churchyard with his broken rope and leave him there. However, kinder counsels prevailed, and after some Kent and Double Norwich and lunch at the Mitre, we went on to Wellington, and rang London and Bob Minor on a very fine six (tenor about 19 cwt.), in a big tower, where there is an old Sanctus bell in the bell chamber.

Then we went on to Marden (St. Mary, originally St. Ethelbert, six bells), where we nearly froze in a draughty ringing chamber. Here we rang London and Cambridge Minor, and inspected the well in the church, where St. Ethelbert was buried, before his translation to Hereford Cathedral. We also listened to a long and ancient legend about how the Devil hid one of the bells in a field near the churchyard; a small handbell found near this place years ago proves the truth of the story. This was told us by the Vicar (the Rev. D. E. Rowlands). If you don't believe it, go and see the bell in Hereford Museum. There is also a small bell on the church floor and a sanctus bell above the chancel arch. After tea at the Volunteer Inn, we went to Sutton St. Nicholas (six bells), where we rang Kent and Cambridge. After dinner, we rang at St. Nicholas', Hereford (Cambridge, London, Bob Minor, Grandsire Doubles). This is H. S. T.'s church, so naturally the Vicar of Burghill was somewhat consoled at seeing a rope break here, too. We noticed 'HarkaThrilling' and 'SunSinking-Fast' chalked up beside the chiming apparatus. We hope they keep the leads open better than this when they chime the tunes.

On Wednesday, six members went for a peal of Minor at Bredwardine (St. Andrew, tenor 7½ cwt.). They had no more success than the others, who went for Cambridge Major at St. Mary's, Clifford (tenor 12 cwt.). This was lost after 50 minutes' good ringing owing to a bob being missed. After some Double Norwich and Superlative, we all rejoined, and had lunch at the Wye Hotel, Hay. Snow was all around us in this district and on the mountains nearby. After lunch we went to the famous church of Abbey Dore. The nave of this building has gone, the choir and transept remain, owing to the generosity of John Scudamore, who restored them in 1633. He may have built the present tower, which contains six bells, by Rudhall, tenor 9 cwt. Here we rang Cambridge, St. Clement's, Oxford, Kent, Bob Minor, Grandsire and Stedman Doubles. The next tower was Allensmore, where we found that E. G. B. had got left behind. However, we rang Bob Minor (tenor 11 cwt.), and went to dinner at the Mitre, where he turned up safely. Afterwards we rang Grandsire and Stedman Caters, and Bob Major and Royal, on the grand ten at Hereford Cathedral (tenor 40 cwt.), and had a game of hide and seek round the beams in the ringing chamber.

On Thursday, we had another attempt for Cambridge Major at St. Peter's, Lugwardine. This went west after 50 minutes, and after some Little Bob and Stedman, the eight disappointed ones went on to Holmer (six, tenor 15 cwt.) to hear the last 720's of a peal of Bob Minor (the only peal rung on the tour). After lunch we went to Peterchurch, a fine church, mostly Norman, where we rang London and Plain Bob (six bells, tenor 10 cwt., all by Rudhall). At Madley (six bells) we rang St. Clement's, Oxford and Kent; then had tea with the Vicar (the Rev. G. V. Sumner). This is a grand church, like a small cathedral, with some lovely old glass and a fine crypt.

INTERESTING VISITS.

At Eaton Bishop we were met by the Rector (the Right Rev. Bishop Iliff), who showed us round, and afterwards we rang London, etc., on another Rudhall six (tenor 12 cwt.). Following dinner at the Mitre, we rang Bob Major, Kent, Cambridge and Stedman on the fine eight (tenor 18 cwt.) at All Saints', Hereford, and finished a pleasant evening with Grandsire Caters on the handbells.

We went for Bob Major again at Burghill on Friday. This went west after an hour, while at the same time an attempt for Minor at Allensmore produced nothing but two 720's of Cambridge and some Oxford. One or two spent the rest of the morning inspecting the very fine chain library at Hereford Cathedral. After lunch at the Swan Hotel, Ross, we much enjoyed Grandsire, Kent, Double Norwich and Cambridge on the very fine Rudhall eight (tenor 25 cwt.) at St. Mary's, Ross. This is a grand tower, with a spire 209ft. high, rebuilt in 1721 by John Kyrle, the 'Man of Ross,' who also gave the tenor. In the church are tombs to various members of the Rudhall family, connections of the bellfounders; also the famous 'living tree.'

Much Marcle (St. Mary) was the next tower visited; this is an interesting church with several fine tombs. The graceful central tower contains six bells (tenor 14 cwt.), on which we rang Cambridge, St. Clement's and Stedman. The next place visited, Ledbury, has a very fine church; its almost cathedral-like west front is Norman, with large additions of the decorated period; the nave has traces of its original Norman pillars, but was heightened at the same time as the west front was altered; the fine chancel still retains its Norman arches and clerestory windows. The finest feature of all is the lovely decorated chapel on the north side of the chancel. This is richly decorated with the 'Ball Flower' so much in use at the time it was built. The very grand tower and beautifully proportioned spire are quite detached from the church; the ringing chamber is very large, the ropes rather far apart, and there is a long draught of rope. We rang Kent and Stedman here (eight bells, tenor 24 cwt.).

After tea at Vincer's Cafe, we went to the last tower of the week, St. James', Colwall. On the eight here (tenor 11 cwt.) we rang Kent, Double Norwich and Stedman. There is an old Rudhall sanctus bell in the ringing chamber, inscribed 'God send peace, Amen, 1709.'

Although we have not succeeded in deluging the columns of 'The Ringing World' with peal records, yet we did have a most enjoyable week. This was, of course, to be expected, as last year proved to us what a delightful week the Rev. E. V. Cox could arrange. We do wish to thank him very much, also all the incumbents who allowed us the use of their bells; those, and their wives, who invited us to tea; all the steeplekeepers, foremen and ringers who helped us in various places; and the management of the Mitre Hotel, Hereford, who contributed to the success of the week by putting us up in comfort.

OVER THE COTSWOLDS.NORTHAMPTONSHIRE RINGERS VISIT GLOUCESTERSHIRE.

Despite the cold weather, a most enjoyable excursion was held by the Irthlingborough ringers on Easter Monday. Starting just before 7 a.m. with wives and friends, Northamptonshire was soon left behind for Warwick. A most lovely view of Warwick Castle was obtained on crossing the River Avon. Evesham, the first stop for ringing, was reached after passing through Stratford-on-Avon. After an inspection of the two parish churches of Evesham, the Bell Tower was ascended, where Mr. Hemming, jun., had all in readiness for ringing. This fine peal of ten bells, with tenor 31 cwt., was very much enjoyed, and included in the ringing done was a plain course of Yorkshire Surprise Major. The bells in this tower serve both churches, which are only separated by the small churchyards and a footpath. Services are held in both at the same time, and it was pleasing to learn that each has very good congregations. Many pleasant hours could be spent in this lovely spot, but after an hour's ringing the visitors went on to Tewkesbury. The lovely Vale of Evesham was just showing the first signs of forthcoming blossoms, and a visit later, when all the acres of fruit trees are in bloom, must be glorious.

Tewkesbury Abbey proved another place where hours are needed for the full appreciation of its beauty. Here the party were met by Mr. Devereux, who led them to the massive tower, and after a good climb they found themselves in the belfry. While some were ringing others climbed to the top and enjoyed the view. Others, again, stayed below and enjoyed the wonders inside the Abbey. Rounds were rung on the peal of twelve, and the best change ringing that could be done was a good course of Bristol Surprise Major. The sound of the bells attracted a visitor from Chester, who left his friends and found others, ringing with them a course of Cambridge Surprise Major. After lunch the journey was continued to Cheltenham. At the Parish Church they found the veteran, Mr. W. T. Pates, waiting for them. Rounds were rung on the very handy ring of twelve with tenor of 22½ cwt., but after one course of Stedman Caters the visitors contented themselves with the back eight, finishing a good day with a course of London Surprise Major. The homeward journey was by way of Stow-on-Wold and Banbury, a most lovely ride with glimpses of tiny hamlets and winding streams.

Thanks are especially due to Mr. Hemming, of Evesham, Mr. Devereux, Tewkesbury, and Mr. W. T. Pates, of Cheltenham, for their kindness, while the various church authorities' permission to ring was much appreciated. A. B.

MEMORIAL TO A GREAT RINGER.

At one of the most representative gatherings of ringers seen at a bell opening since the Stedman tercentenary celebrations at Cambridge in 1931, the memorial to the late Mr. William Pye was dedicated at St. John-the-Baptist's Church, Leytonstone, on Saturday. Ringers gathered from many parts of the country to do honour to one who is acknowledged to have been the greatest exponent of the art in his own or any preceding generation. No other ringer achieved the great feats which he accomplished, and very few, even with his opportunities, could ever have done so. William Pye had ambition as well as skill, and he combined them in a way that leaves him, as far as it is possible to judge, in a position unchallenged as the most outstanding figure of all time in the Exercise.

The provision of a suitable memorial to him was not altogether an easy task, and the joint committee of the Middlesex and Essex Associations are to be congratulated upon the successful outcome of their efforts. The response to the appeal was, however, generous and widespread and a remarkable tribute to the universal honour in which William Pye was held. He was one of the most retiring of men; he never boasted of his achievements; and yet he impressed himself upon all those with whom he came into contact and upon the imagination of hundreds who never rang with him. Associations, towers and individuals throughout the British Isles subscribed, and when the memorial was dedicated the cost had been practically secured. The memorial is in the parish in which Mr. Pye lived for 30 years, and at the church where he constantly rendered assistance. It was a happy solution of the problem of site, inseparable from the fact that in his ringing career Mr. Pye's chief interest had been in the neighbouring county of Middlesex, where he had for more than a quarter of a century been Master of the Association, and taken a great part in building up the fortunes and prestige of the organisation, but where he had been associated with no individual tower.

There is something very fitting in perpetuating the memory of outstanding ringers, in the way that William Pye has now been honoured. Famous men in the past history of the Exercise have come upon the scene, taken their part in building up the art, and made their exits, and of many of them we do not even know their resting place. For their share in the development of ringing they, too, deserved a memorial, that succeeding generations might have been reminded of what they contributed to the art, but they often left behind them only a name. Fortunately in these days there is a greater desire to honour the memory of those who have given their time and talents to raising the status of the art and the Exercise, and the appreciation shown of the life work of William Pye is a well deserved tribute to a man of outstanding skill, genius and achievement.

COURT BOB TRIPLES.

Another Triples method with two hunt bells, which ringers who are following this series should have little difficulty in ringing, is Court Bob Triples. It is somewhat similar in construction to Oxford Bob, but, except when a bob is made, it contains no 3rd's place or dodging in 4-5.

One bell makes 5th's place, leads and makes 5th's place again, as in Oxford, but with the dodging cut out. This breaks up the long dodge behind, and the ordinary work in 6-7 is just single dodging. The bell that comes up behind after the bell in the hunt, dodges down. The bells that dodges with it, dodges both up and down, and the third bell dodges up with this latter. It cannot dodge down because the treble comes up to prevent it. All the rest is plain hunting. We ought, perhaps, to point out that at the start all the bells begin to hunt, the 'odd' bells up and the 'even' bells down.

This is the order in which the cycle of work occurs:—

- Pass the treble in 1-2, make 5th's and lead.
- Pass the treble in 3-4, make 5th's and lead.
- Pass the treble in 5-6, dodge 7-6 (down).
- Pass the treble in 4-5, dodge 6-7 (up) 7-6 (down).
- Pass the treble in 2-3, dodge 6-7 (up).

The bob is a 'Grandsire' bob; that is to say, the bell in the hunt with the treble is changed, by the making of a 3rd's place by the bell passing the treble in 2-3, causing the hunt bell to dodge (but only a single dodge) in 5-4 (down). The dodge is made with the bell that would have done its second 5th's, but the dodge cuts out the place, and this bell, having dodged with the one coming out of the hunt, goes on to dodge in 6-7 (up).

For short touches you can call any bell In and Out at 2, three times, or before Before and Wrong three times; and you can make up different lengths by putting them together in much the same way as we showed, in a former article, that touches of Grandsire Triples can be made up by the use of courses with the observation bell called 'In and Out' and 'Before and Wrong.' But your courses will be of a different length. Grandsire courses thus called are of four leads each. Court Bob are of five leads each.

Here is a quarter-peal (taken from the Central Council's 'Collection of Triples Methods,' in which you will find not only a variety of methods, but also touches and peals of each): Call the 7th Before and Home; Before and twice Home; Wrong and three times Home (twice repeated).

The first recorded peal of Court Bob Triples was rung at Warnham, Sussex, in 1886.

BARWELL RINGER'S GOLDEN WEDDING.

On May 27th, 1886, at Peckleton, Leicestershire, the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Belton took place. This year, therefore, sees their golden wedding anniversary. Migrating to the nearby village of Barwell in 1890, Mr. Belton entered the service of the Rector, a position he has faithfully held ever since. He joined the Midland Counties Association over 44 years ago, and it was fitting that for this golden wedding anniversary the hon. secretary should conduct a special peal composed by a former president. After the peal the ringers were entertained by the 'bridegroom,' and both he and Mrs. Belton received the hearty congratulations and good wishes of each and every one.

MERSTHAM, SURREY.—At St. Katherine's Church, on Sunday evening, May 24th, an 'Empirical' quarter-peal of Plain Bob Minor by the following: *R. Andrews 1, C. Killick 2, *G. Welch 3, H. B. Wells 4, A. Cheaseley 5, J. Batters (conductor) 6. * First quarter-peal in the method.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION.LARGE GATHERING AT SHIPBOURNE.

The spring meeting of the Tonbridge District was held at Shipbourne on Saturday, May 9th, when 50 members came to this lovely spot in answer to the secretary's appeal, not to disappoint the Vicar (the Rev. F. L. Schreiber). They represented the following towers: Shipbourne, East Peckham, Sevenoaks, Tunbridge Wells, Brasted, Hawk-hurst, Leigh, Tonbridge, Chiddingstone, Bromley Common, Rotherfield, Gravesend, Egerton, Godstone and Sturry. The gentleman who makes a hobby of measuring tenor bells was also present. The methods rung during the afternoon and evening were almost as representative as the ringers, many ringing their first touch in the following methods: Grandsire, Stedman and Bob Doubles, Plain Bob, St. Clement's Bob, Oxford Bob, Little Bob, Canterbury Pleasure, Kent Treble Bob, Oxford Treble Bob and Cambridge Surprise Minor.

The association service was conducted by the Vicar, the lesson being read by the district secretary, Mr. A. E. Richardson. The Vicar took for his text Micah, vii. 3, 'That they may do evil with both hands earnestly.' He said that the opposite applied to ringers, who did good with both hands earnestly.

With the Rev. F. L. Schreiber as host, the tea was greatly appreciated and enjoyed.

The usual business meeting followed, the Vicar presiding, supported by Mr. W. Latter and the hon. secretary.

The Chairman expressed congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. P. V. F. Cazelet, of Shipbourne Grange, in their good fortune in being recently blessed with a son and heir. Mr. Cazelet, who is an honorary member of the association, came up to the tower to meet the ringers during the afternoon.

Mr. A. Battin said he could not let the meeting break up without some reference to the latest news in the district, that the Rev. F. L. Schreiber was thinking of getting married. On behalf of the members, he extended the best wishes of all for the future happiness of the Vicar and his bride-to-be. The attendance and enthusiasm of the members that day, added Mr. Battin, showed how much in esteem Mr. Schreiber was held by everyone who knew him.—Mr. W. Latter also spoke of the welcome the Vicar had always given the members and of the happy times they had spent at Shipbourne.

'For he's a jolly good fellow' was then sung with the utmost enthusiasm.

The Vicar, in replying, said how much he appreciated their thanks and good wishes. With regard to the forthcoming wedding, which was to take place at Sevenoaks in July, he said he had felt that for some time he had not sympathised with the married men enough, and thought it was time he had some experience, so that he might be able to do so (laughter and applause).

The members afterwards returned to the tower for more ringing.

DEVONSHIRE GUILD.BELL RESTORATION FUND CREATED.

The 62nd annual general meeting of the Devonshire Guild, held at Sidmouth on Whit Monday, was a highly successful event, no less than 215 members, representing 31 bands in union with the Guild, being present. The usual Guild service was held in the Parish Church, conducted by the president (the Rev. E. V. Cox), with an address by the Rev. Canon W. J. Elsey, locum tenens for the Vicar, who is away recuperating his health.

After dinner at Forte's Cafe, the president took the chair for the meeting, and the agenda was followed with keen interest. The annual report and financial statement were adopted, and all the officers re-elected with a tribute to their services.

For the meeting in 1937 two places were proposed, viz., Newton Abbot and Plymouth. Newton Abbot was chosen on a show of hands by a majority of 10.

A donation of one guinea to the William Pye Memorial Fund was approved.

On a proposal of the committee that a Bell Restoration Fund be opened, the suggestion met with approval, whereupon the Chairman announced that, in conjunction with the general secretary, a sum of £10 would be provided to start the fund, an announcement which was greeted with acclamation.

A further proposal that a retiring collection be made for this fund resulted in over £3 being taken at the door.

A proposition by Mr. J. W. Richards that some acknowledgment be made of the general secretary's services was heartily approved, and a gratuity of £5 voted, for which the secretary returned thanks.

Ringings at Sidmouth and Sidbury was carried on all the day.

THE OLDEST RINGER.

To celebrate the 99th birthday of Mr. Charles Slingsby, the veteran Aldington, Kent, ringer, who is the oldest bellringer in the world, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Doubles was rung on May 25th at St. Nicholas' Church, Newington-next-Hythe: C. Swan 1, A. P. Cannon (conductor) 2, F. A. Slingsby 3, *F. R. Harden 4, J. Bartter 5, *J. Pearson 6. * First quarter-peal and local ringers. The ringer of the 3rd is Mr. C. Slingsby's son.

LINCOLN DIOCESAN GUILD.NORTHERN BRANCH.

A meeting of the Grimsby District was held at Mablethorpe on Saturday, May 23rd. The handy little peal of bells was made good use of during afternoon and evening. Despite the distance and the weather, members attended from the farthest corner of the district, over sixty miles away. Members were present from Bigby, Burton-on-Stather, Ulceby, Waltham, Grimsby and from the local tower, and also Mr. and Mrs. C. MacGuiness, of Lincoln. The service was conducted by the Rector (the Rev. J. W. Sutton, R.D.). The Rector gave a very interesting address. A very good tea was served to the 19 members at the Regent Cafe. The president, the Ven. Archdeacon Parry, presided over the business meeting.

Mr. C. Dunn, of Scunthorpe, was re-elected a member.

The President proposed that the secretary should send a letter of sympathy to Mr. W. H. Heyhoe, who has recently suffered a bereavement in the death of his wife. Mr. Heyhoe has also left the district and is now residing with his son at Wickham, Hants. The president spoke of the work Mr. Heyhoe had done for the district. He was district secretary for several years and also secretary of the District Bell Fund. Mrs. Heyhoe had taken an active part in the work of St. James' parish for many years.

The president proposed a hearty vote of thanks to the Rector for his great welcome, for the use of the bells, for conducting the service and for his excellent address, to those who had made the arrangements, and to the caterers.—The Rector suitably responded. Mr. F. Barber, of Mablethorpe, also replied. A vote of thanks to the president for presiding brought a very pleasant meeting to a close.

SWANSEA AND BRECON DIOCESAN GUILD TALGARTH WIN COMPETITION.

The Swansea and Brecon Diocesan Guild held their twelfth annual competition at Cadoxton, Neath, on Saturday, May 23rd. The entries were not up to the usual number, but the ringing, on the whole, was quite up to the standard of past years.

The Vicar of Cadoxton (the Rev. T. M. Hughes), Mrs. Hughes and her lady helpers kindly gave the luncheon and tea to the ringers, and after tea the presentations were made by Mrs. Hughes.

Mr. W. H. Fussell, Slough, who has adjudicated at these competitions since their inauguration, awarded points as follows, the maximum being 240:—

Talgarth	...	230
*Cadoxton 'A'	...	229
Gorseinon	...	228
*Cadoxton 'B'	...	225
Cefn Coed	...	219
Brecon	...	186
* Handicapped 5 points.

Mr. Fussell congratulated the Talgarth band upon their success. It had been a very close competition, and he thought Cadoxton would have won but for an unfortunate trip during the last few changes of the test.

The Rev. T. M. Hughes paid a glowing tribute to Mr. Fussell for the efficient manner in which he had carried out his duties that day, and also reminded the company of his wonderful record of service to bellringing. The Vicar remarked that if the ringers of the Guild had shown a fraction of Mr. Fussell's enthusiasm there would have been many more entries for the present competition.

The shield was presented to Mr. D. Bennett and certificates to Mr. J. E. Bloxham (Cadoxton) and Mr. Wallace Dobbins (Gorseinon).

The Rev. J. C. Hill proposed and Mr. L. T. Havard seconded a hearty vote of thanks to the Rev. Hughes, Mrs. Hughes and lady helpers for their generous hospitality throughout the day.

It was resolved to hold the next meeting of the Council at Canterbury.

The president was authorised to send a letter of greeting and congratulation to the authorities and ringers at Hobart, Tasmania, on the occasion of the completion and dedication of the tower and ring of bells at St. David's Cathedral, Hobart.

A message of congratulation was passed to the Hertfordshire hand-bell band, who, on the previous Friday, had, for the first time, rung a 'double-handed' peal in four Spliced Surprise methods.

Thanks were accorded to the Lord Mayor and Corporation of the City of London for permitting the Council to meet in the Guildhall, to the Dean of St. Paul's for his welcome, and to the various other people who had contributed to the pleasures and comfort of the members.

The president was thanked for presiding, and he, in turn, paid a tribute to the great work done by the hon. secretary.

In the evening there was ringing at St. Paul's Cathedral and various churches, and later a social gathering was held at headquarters, Anderton's Hotel. This was attended by a gathering of over 200, and the chief features of the entertainment were Mr. Rupert Richardson's films of 'Famous Ringers,' and a demonstration of Mr. J. S. Goldsmith's 'Ringing Machine,' which caused much amusement.

THE PEAK DISTRICT.RINGING 'NO MAN'S LAND.'

On Saturday, May 23rd, a very enjoyable meeting of ringers gathered from the Peak District was held at the ancient Church of St. Helen, situated in the beautiful valley of Darley Dale, which in its spring garb is looking just now at its very best. In the churchyard stands the famous Darley yew tree, which is said to be 1,000 years old and is 11ft. in diameter. Darley Dale is noted for its lead mine and Stanciliffe stone, also its Druid remains, some dating from 1,000 B.C.

The local band are one of the few in the district who regularly practise change ringing. The Peak District is a very difficult one to organise owing to its scattered nature and the remoteness of some of its villages. It is a 'no man's land' to the ringing associations surrounding it. A few ringing meetings are, therefore, arranged during this year by ringers residing in the district to keep change ringing from dying out in this part of the country.

St. Helen's bells (8) were rung during the afternoon and evening to various standard methods, including Grandsire, Stedman, Double Norwich and Cambridge. London was also attempted. Some 20 ringers sat down to tea in the British Legion Club, which is close by the church. A short meeting was held after tea, to arrange place and date of next meeting. The Rector of Darley welcomed the ringers during tea time, and altogether the meeting was a very successful one.

GOLDEN WEDDING BELLS.

At St. John's Parish Church, Berwick, on Tuesday, May 12th, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Doubles (ten different callings): W. Foot 1, F. Burt 2, E. Coward (conductor) 3, R. Foot 4, W. Roberts 5, J. Keddie 6. Rung in honour of the golden wedding of the treble ringer, Mr. W. Foot.

On Sunday, May 17th, at Throwley Church, Kent, prior to a service to commemorate the golden wedding of the parents of the ringer of the treble, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples: *Mrs. F. Tanner 1, Mrs. E. Spice 2, G. H. Spice 3, *Miss K. M. Hooker 4, *H. Manuel 5, J. W. Unwin 6, W. Spice (conductor) 7, *F. Tanner 8. * First quarter-peal and first attempt.

On Monday, April 13th, to celebrate the golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Robert White, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Caters (1,295 changes) was rung at Christchurch, Hants: W. Stone 1, Miss Sparshott 2, E. Griffen 3, E. Hinton 4, Mrs. Williams 5, S. White 6, G. Scragg 7, F. Sparshott 8, G. Preston (conductor) 9, H. Gillard 10.

Mr. White is father of the ringer of the 6th, and an old member of the Winchester Guild. For many years he rang at Romsey Abbey.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

Messrs. John Taylor and Co. have the order to rehang the ring of six bells at Goathurst, Somerset.

Spalding, Lincs, has the unique distinction of a centenarian churchwarden. Mr. George Jarvis, who is still in office, reached his one hundredth birthday on Friday, and a peal in his honour was rung at Spalding Parish Church. By a coincidence it was the one hundredth peal by Mr. A. J. Farr.

Towards the cost of the new peal of bells at Drayton Parslow, Bucks, a garden party and sale of work is to be held in the Rectory Gardens on Saturday, June 13th. Ringers are invited to come and ring on the new peal of bells, which will be at their disposal in the afternoon and evening.

Few ringers have the pleasure of ringing a peal for their father's 99th birthday. This has happened to Mr. Frank Slingsby, who took part in the Cheriton peal on May 26th. Everyone is hoping for another Kent century.

Sandringham Surprise Major, the first peal of which was rung at Warfield last week by the Oxford Diocesan Guild, is the late Arthur Craven's Rugby Surprise, with 2nd's and 7th's added. The composition was one of a peal of Ipswich Surprise.

In connection with the recent Spliced Surprise peal, in which Painswick, Yorkshire, Superlative and Cambridge were rung, it should be pointed out that this plan can only be used when the tenors are kept together, and the bells in 5-6 must not be reversed. 'Befores' can be used and the short courses are then rung Painswick, Yorkshire, Yorkshire, Painswick.

The peal of six at Bonvilston, Glam., are being restored by Messrs. Gillett and Johnston.

A peal of Stedman Cinques was rung by members of the London County Association at St. Mary-le-Bow, Cheapside, on Saturday. The tenor of 54 cwt. was rung by Jack A. Waugh and the 11th by James G. A. Prior.

Mr. Waugh at the age of 24 is believed to be the youngest ringer to ring a bell of this weight to a peal. Mr. Prior is only 23 and great credit is due to these young ringers for the fine way they rang these heavy bells.

While the 'golden wedding peal' rung at Barwell on Saturday last was being rung, Mr. and Mrs. Belton read the announcement in the local Press that the peal had been rung in their honour! Aren't some reporters optimistic!

Owing to building alterations, all ringing at Portsmouth Cathedral is cancelled for approximately two months.

At the annual meeting of the Essex Association on Monday, Mr. E. P. Duffield retired from the Mastership, and Dr. Spencer Phillips was elected to the office.

SUGGESTED MEMORIAL TO CANON ELSEE.

A LANCASHIRE ASSOCIATION PROPOSAL.

On Saturday last, the Bolton Branch of the Lancashire Association held a very successful meeting at St. Paul's Church, Walkden. At 3 p.m. the bells were going, and, with the exception of a short break for tea and business, were kept going in various methods up to Cambridge Surprise until a late hour. The bells, a new peal, with a tenor just under a ton, are considered to be exceptionally good, and the ringing at the meeting was of a first-class order, especially in the higher methods. There was a crowded tower and some good work was done, some members getting their first touch and others their first in a higher method.

At the business meeting six new members were elected, including the Rev. Arthur Scott, the lecturer at the Parish Church, Bolton. He was also nominated for the presidency of the association in place of the late Canon Elsee.

Mr. Thomas B. Worsley was elected bell adviser for the branch.

The question of a memorial to the late president was discussed, and it was suggested that if a peal of ten or twelve were put in Bolton Parish Church it would be a suitable one. Canon Elsee was Rural Dean of Bolton, and he had often said that the fine lofty tower ought to possess a larger peal. There is no doubt the public of Bolton would support such a project.

A vote of thanks was passed to the Vicar for the use of the bells and the tea, and the local ringers for preparing and supporting such a successful meeting.

JUBILEE PEAL BOARD AT WALTHAM ABBEY.

To commemorate the silver jubilee peal of Grand sire Caters rung by members of the Herts County Association at Waltham Abbey, a suitable board has been unveiled in the belfry. The Vicar, the Rev. A. V. G. Cleall, M.A., performed the ceremony, and all the ringers who took part in the peal were present.

After the unveiling the Vicar thanked the ringers for their services and Mrs. Berry for the especial care of the belfry.

Mr. George Debenham (conductor of the peal), on behalf of the ringers, thanked the Vicar and churchwardens for allowing the peal to be rung, adding that they little thought a year ago that their beloved King would be taken so soon.

It is interesting to note that the Abbey celebrated the 876th anniversary of its consecration on May 3rd.

The Dean of St. Paul's offered a hearty welcome to the City of London, not only on his own behalf, but also on behalf of the Lord Mayor, the Corporation and citizens of London.

The Dean was thanked by the president, and the Council, after prayers, then proceeded to the business of the day.

MEMBERSHIP.

The hon. secretary's report as to membership showed that the number of societies affiliated to the Council was 49. The territorial and diocesan associations number 43 and non-territorial associations six. In the 43 associations are 41 with an aggregate membership of 21,860. The other two have no annual subscribing members. The 49 affiliated associations are entitled to elect 134 members, and have up to the present elected 127.

MESSAGE TO THE KING.

On the motion of the President, the Council unanimously resolved to send a message of loyal congratulation to H.M. the King. It was in the following terms:—

The Central Council of Church Bellringers, assembled in the Council Chamber, Guildhall, London, for their 44th annual meeting, take this, the first opportunity in your Majesty's reign, humbly to express to your Majesty the loyalty of the 20,000 change ringers they represent, and pray that your Majesty's reign may be long and prosperous. (Signed) E. H. Lewis, President.

The reply received by the president from His Majesty was as follows: Please convey to the Central Council of Church Bellringers assembled in the Council Chamber, Guildhall, the King's sincere thanks for their kind and loyal message of good wishes.—Private Secretary.

ELECTIONS.

Mr. E. H. Lewis was re-elected president, and Mr. G. W. Fletcher hon. secretary and treasurer.

To the vacant office of hon. librarian, Mr. W. H. J. Hooton was elected.

Mr. C. T. Coles and Mr. A. A. Hughes were re-elected hon. auditors. The following hon. members were re-elected: Alderman J. S. Pritchett, Major J. H. B. Hesse, Messrs. C. Dean, J. S. Goldsmith, C. F. Johnston, C. W. Roberts, J. A. Trollope and E. Alex. Young. The Earl of Shaftesbury was elected an hon. member in the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mr. J. Griffin.

A large number of new members were presented to the president, who afterwards referred to the losses of members and past members by death.

THE COUNCIL'S LIBRARY.

The report on library and publications was submitted by the hon. secretary, who said: The report this year must of necessity be somewhat incomplete, for with the tragic death of the honorary librarian, and the removal of the books from Walsoken, the work, in so far as the library was concerned, came to a standstill.

The sales department, however, was able to carry on, and the thanks of the Council are due to Mrs. Tyrwhitt-Drake and Mr. Peter Tyrwhitt-Drake, who, in the midst of their great sorrow, despatched a consignment of publications to the hon. secretary within a very few days of Mr. Tyrwhitt-Drake's death.

The thanks of the Council are also due to Mr. R. Richardson, Master of the Lincoln Guild, for his great assistance in removing and storing the library and publications.

From the papers which have been examined, the purchases of books for the library amounted to £4 4s., and include 'History and Art of Change Ringing,' 'Legends of the Bells,' both by E. Morris, 'Tintinnalogia, 1698,' by J. White, and 'Campanologia, 1854.'

Gifts of books were received from Mrs. Tyrwhitt-Drake, Mr. J. H. Benstead, Mr. G. P. Elphick, Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher, Mr. R. Richardson, Mr. E. Denison Taylor and Mr. J. A. Trollope. Grateful thanks are due to these and to any others whose names are not recorded.

From the correspondence it would seem that applications to borrow books continue to increase, and it is possible that this will be more apparent when the library lists have been distributed.

Members are again invited to assist in the disposal of the fairly extensive stock of publications. A further supply of 'Hints to Instructors,' has been purchased during the year, and 'Variation and Transposition,' by J. A. Trollope, reprinted by courtesy of 'The Ringing World,' is now on sale. 'Laws' are out of print, and a revision of this book is being made by Alderman J. S. Pritchett. Several orders for this valuable book are awaiting execution.

Inquiries have been received from Australia and America, and, whilst these were addressed correctly, some orders from persons in this country are still sent to the Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn, at Caversham.

I wish to thank Mr. Peter Tyrwhitt-Drake for his assistance in preparing the library accounts, and those who have, in response to my advertisement, sent particulars of sale or return stocks. The failure of others to send these particulars is to be regretted, as it has caused a considerable amount of work. I trust the information will soon be forthcoming.

I tender my apologies for any delays which have occurred in the past few months in executing orders.

The number of sales effected was: Glossary 21, Rules and Decisions 8, Collections of Peals 27, Plain Major and Caters Methods 24, Triples Methods 80, Doubles and Minor Methods 54, Corrigenda leaflets 5, Model Rules for a Local Company 29, Report of Conference with S.P.A.B. 10, Card of Instructions 26, Preservation of Bells 28, Law Affecting Church Bells 25, Method Sheets 90, Hints for Instructors 383; total 790, of the total value of £21 6s. 5d.

The statement of accounts on sale of publications show receipts by the librarian £21 6s. 5d.; from agents holding stocks on sale or return, £1 14s. 1d.; total £23 0s. 6d. Advertising, postages, stationery and discounts amounted to £10 18s., leaving a balance on the year of £12 2s. 6d.

FINANCIAL STATEMENT.

The balance in the general account at Whitsun, 1935, was £58 15s. 2d. During the year, affiliation fees for 1935-36 amounted to £33, and arrears for 1934-35 to 15s.; interest on investments was £5, and the balance on sale of publications was £12 2s. 6d., making a total of £111 10s. 2d.

The cost of publications was £14 17s. 1d. and of volumes for the library £4 4s. The other expenditure included a fee of 10s. 6d. in connection with the Carter Ringing Machine; £5 1s. the expenses of the Shrewsbury meeting; £1 13s. 9d., less donation of 5s. from Alderman J. S. Pritchett, the cost of entertaining the Australian tourists at Shrewsbury; advertisements, £2 10s.; stationery and printing, £6 14s. 11d.; wreaths, £3 10s. 6d.; gratuities, 17s. 6d.; postage, etc., £2 19s. 8d.—a total expenditure of £42 13s. 11d., leaving a balance of £68 16s. 3d. to carry forward.

The Council's investments stand at the book value of £100, the market value being £149 1s. 10d.

The accounts were adopted.

A report was received from the Trustees of the Carter Ringing Machine (Messrs. E. A. Young and A. A. Hughes), who also recommended the appointment of Mr. A. G. Driver as a demonstrator of the machine.

COMMITTEES.

The report of the Peal Collection Committee, whose work in preparing a collection of compositions is still in progress, was presented by Mr. G. Lindoff, and the committee, with the exception of Mrs. E. K. Fletcher, who resigned, was re-elected with the addition of Mr. T. B. Worsley.

The report of the Methods Committee stated that the new edition of the Collection of Minor and Doubles Methods had been prepared, and the Collection of Surprise Methods was in the hands of the hon. secretary.

The report was adopted and the committee re-elected, but the Council decided to defer for the present the publication of the Collection of Surprise Methods, in view of other commitments to reprint certain volumes now almost out of print.

On the Analysis Committee's report, which has already been printed in our columns, it was decided to delete the peal rung at Wistaston, Cheshire, on July 13th, 1935, and which contained three 480's of Little Bob, on the ground that it did not conform to the Council's requirements for a peal. It was also resolved to instruct the committee not in future to include doubtful peals in the statistical tables, but to report them to the Council for decision.

The Committee was re-elected.

TOWERS AND BELFRIES COMMITTEE.

The report presented by the Towers and Belfries Committee was as follows:—

During the past year the members of the committee have not held any meetings. The members, however, have carried out a number of inspections in response to individual requests to do so. Any recommendations made have been in accordance with general principles already agreed.

In one case a request was made in general terms that the committee should take action to get a tower reopened after the architect responsible had stopped all ringing. The matter is being followed up, but there is nothing definite to report as yet.

At the last Council meeting a request was made for information about silencing bells for practice purposes. Some such information is now available, and it is hoped that the committee will be able to meet at Whitsuntide and agree upon a recommendation.

The committee have lost a very good friend through the recent death of Mr. A. R. Powys, secretary of the Society for the Protection of Ancient Buildings. Mr. Powys was most helpful at the time of the meeting with his society, and since that meeting he had always been ready to discuss in a frank and fair-minded way any difficulties between architects and ringing interests.

The committee recommended that where there were bells which were said to be a nuisance to the public, the Davis Silencer should be used as a means of modifying the sound.

The report was adopted and the committee re-elected.

A lengthy report of the Literature, Press and Broadcasting Committee was presented, and an interesting discussion ensued as to the best manner of securing that when bell broadcasts were given the ringing should be of the best possible character.

The committee was re-elected.

The Peal Boards and Biographies Committees also reported and were re-elected.

BIOGRAPHIES COMMITTEE.

In their report the Biographies Committee stated:—

The work of gathering biographical information concerning past members of the Council has been proceeding during the year, but will apparently take a considerable time to complete.

The number of past members up to last year was 325, and forms asking for information and photographs have been sent out in respect of each.

Up to the time of this report, 115 forms and 42 photographs have been returned. The committee hope that other forms and photographs will be sent in with as little further delay as possible.

With the formation of a new Council there are now further 'past members,' whose biographies have to be collected, and the committee propose to include this with the work that has been begun.

Thanks were accorded to all the committees for their work.

THE STANDING COMMITTEE.

It was decided that in future the auditors and past presidents and secretaries of the Council (being members) should be ex-officio members of the Standing Committee. This left a number of vacancies. Six retiring members were re-elected en bloc, viz., Ald. Pritchett, Messrs. W. T. Cockerill, W. A. Cave, C. F. Johnston, A. Paddon Smith and E. D. Taylor. For the remaining six places, twelve names were proposed, and the ballot resulted in the election of the Ven. Archdeacon Parry, Major J. H. B. Hease, Messrs. R. Richardson, J. T. Dyke, S. H. Wood and A. Walker.

'SPLICED' PEALS.

On the agenda was a series of motions relating to the definition of a 'Spliced' peal. One was in the name of Mr. C. T. Coles, with an amendment by Mr. J. Hunt, the other was in the name of Mr. S. H. Wood. When this matter was reached, Mr. Hunt withdrew his amendment, and, with the consent of the Council, Mr. Coles and Mr. Wood also withdrew theirs and substituted the following, which Mr. Wood proposed and Mr. Coles seconded:—

'That compositions which contain more than one method shall be called "Spliced," provided that the methods are so joined that the fundamental units of which they are constructed (i.e., the "Leads" in the case of Treble-dominated methods, the "Sixes" in the case of Stedman, Duffield and similar methods, etc.) remain intact.

'That reports of all Spliced peals shall include a reference to the number of methods rung and the number of changes from one method to another during the peal.'

An amendment by Mr. G. Grover, seconded by Mr. E. M. Atkins, to omit all the words in the first paragraph beginning with 'provided that,' was defeated by a large majority and the proposition was carried.

OTHER MOTIONS.

A debate took place on a motion submitted by Mr. F. E. Dawe 'To call attention to the present very inadequate support given to "The Ringing World" and to consider what steps (if any) can be taken to increase the circulation.

Mr. E. A. Young seconded the motion and several members offered suggestions.

Eventually, on the suggestion of the hon. secretary, Mr. Dawe accepted and the Council approved of the following motion: 'The Council requests all members and secretaries of affiliated societies to send in suggestions with a view to increasing the circulation of "The Ringing World," these suggestions to be considered by the officers of the Council and Mr. Goldsmith, and a report circulated to all members.'

Mr. J. S. Goldsmith proposed 'That with a view to providing future guidance, the officers of this Council be requested to consider the question of the correct method of muffling and ringing church bells on occasions of national and local mourning, and, after consulting at discretion those who may be able to give information, draw up a recommendation, which, if possible, shall be submitted to the Church authorities for approval and laid before the Council at the next meeting.'

Mr. G. W. Fletcher seconded.

An amendment was carried on the motion of Mr. E. P. Duffield, seconded by the Rev. H. Drake, that the recommendation should be first submitted to the Council, and with that alteration the motion was carried.

Mr. G. Pullinger proposed and Mr. F. W. Rogers seconded that 'In the opinion of this Council, the morning session of the Council meetings should, where possible, commence at 10 a.m.

There was a strong feeling against changing the present hour of 11, and, after an amendment to make the hour 10.30 a.m. had failed to elicit any support, the motion was defeated by a large majority.

The following motion was carried on the motion of the President, seconded by the Hon. Secretary: 'That all persons having collections of books on ringing matters be invited to supply particulars to the hon. librarian and to indicate whether they are willing to give access to their collections.'

THE WILLIAM PYE MEMORIAL.

BELLS DEDICATED AT LEYTONSTONE.

National Tribute to a Great Ringer.

A fitting and permanent memorial to one who has been described as 'the greatest ringer of all time'—the late Mr. William Pye—was dedicated at St. John the Baptist's Church, Leytonstone, on Saturday. Mr. Pye died on March 8th, 1935, after a ringing career that made him famous throughout his generation, his great abilities and his prodigious performances placing him among the men whose names will live in the Exercise for all time. The memorial which has now been set up to him has been subscribed to by ringers in every part of the British Isles, and it is gratifying that the culmination of the scheme should have been reached at a time when those who came to honour his memory could include representatives of ringing organisations in many parts of the country.

ST. JOHN-THE-BAPTIST'S CHURCH, LEYTONSTONE,
Where the Memorial has been Installed.

As is already well known, the memorial consists mainly of two treble bells to augment to eight the existing six at St. John's Church. In addition a memorial tablet has been placed in the church entrance porch. The scheme thus to honour Mr. Pye's memory was inaugurated by the Middlesex County Association, of which he was so long Master, and the Essex Association, in whose area he lived and for which he did so much. The appeal for funds was widely responded to by ringers and associations throughout the country, and in the space of less than twelve months the scheme was conceived and carried to a successful conclusion.

The original bells at Leytonstone were cast by Thomas Mears and put into the tower in 1833. The new trebles have been made a perfect splice, and the whole peal immensely improved by the tuning of two of the old bells, so that Leytonstone not only has a handy ring with a tenor of 13 cwt., but one which affords the ringers great pleasure to ring. The work has been admirably carried out by Messrs. Gillett and Johnston, of Croydon, who, in co-operation with Mr. E. H. Lewis (president of the Central Council), who advised the committee, overcame a somewhat difficult problem in putting all the bells on one level. To do this a clock case had to be moved to a corner of the tower, one side of the old wood frame had to be replaced by metal and part of the new frame built into the former angle doorway. It has been a tight fit, but very successfully carried out. An excellent circle of ropes has been provided in the ringing chamber, where the bells are perfectly heard.

The memorial tablet, of white marble, with lead letters, was executed by Mr. C. Mee, of Sproughton, Ipswich. The inscription is:

WILLIAM PYE,
Church Bellringer.

Born August 14th, 1870. Died March 8th, 1935.

The two smallest bells in the tower of this church were given by the Ringing Exercise in memory of one of the greatest men in the history of change ringing.

W. T. Brown, R.D., Vicar.

H. S. Watts,

H. E. Newton, Churchwardens.

May, 1936.

THE DEDICATION.

A large congregation of parishioners, in addition to about two hundred ringers, were present at the dedication service. Among those who attended were Mrs. Pye (widow of the late Mr. W. Pye), Mr. E. W. Pye (son), Miss S. Pye (sister), Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Pye (brother and sister-in-law), Mr. G. R. Pye (brother), Mr. and Mrs. Albert Pye (brother and sister-in-law), Mr. and Mrs. William Pye (nephew and niece), Miss Newman (sister-in-law). The Middlesex and Essex Associations were represented by their officials and members from a large number of towers, the president and hon. secretary represented the Central Council, and Mr. C. F. Johnston represented the founders.

The service, which began with the hymn, 'Ring forth, holy bells,' was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. W. T. Brown), and the music was finely led by the choir. The lesson, from Ecclesiastes xiv. 1-16, was read by Mr. J. A. Trollope (vice-president of the South and West District of the Middlesex Association), and during the singing of the hymn, 'Ring out, wild bells' (from Tennyson's 'In Memoriam'), the Bishop of Barking, accompanied by the clergy, the churchwardens (Messrs. H. S. Watts and H. E. Newton) and the choir, with Mr. E. H. Lewis (president of the Council), Mr. C. T. Coles and Mr. E. J. Butler (who had acted as hon. secretaries of the scheme), proceeded to the tower.

Here Mr. Lewis requested the Bishop to 'bless these bells now presented to the glory of God, for use in the service of this church, in memory of our departed brother, William Pye.' The formal dedication and prayers followed, and the bells were then heard as a ring of eight for the first time, as they were rung in rounds by the local ringers.

Descending to the porch, the procession halted at the tablet, and Mr. C. T. Coles performed the unveiling ceremony with the words, 'To the glory of God and in loving memory of William Pye, I unveil this tablet, in the Name of the Father, the Son and the Holy Ghost.' The Bishop then dedicated the tablet and the procession returned to the church to the singing of the hymn, 'The sacred bells of England.'

The Bishop based his address on Philippians iv. 4, 'Rejoice in the Lord always, and again I say rejoice.' He pointed out that bells were only mentioned twice in the Bible, and, therefore, it was rather difficult to find a text exactly suitable to that occasion. The Bishop traced the early history of bells in the Christian Church, and said that the church in which they were gathered that afternoon had been erected for over one hundred years, and there had been six bells in the tower during the whole of that time. The parish had waited long and patiently for the peal to be made up to the full number, and now it had been achieved by the generosity of ringers in all parts of the country. It meant more than many realised, said the Bishop, to secure an adequate number and quality of bells in our churches in the present day, because it became more and more difficult to find money in their growing parishes to provide churches. A church tower, even, was a luxury and a full peal of bells a greater luxury still. Some few centuries ago a peal of bells was considered part of the equipment of almost every church, and they were the delight of the parishioners and the care of the members of the team of ringers.

'AN EMINENT AND DISTINGUISHED RINGER.'

Continuing, the Bishop paid testimony to the value of the work rendered week by week by the ringers in the church belfries—services which he was afraid were not always appreciated, but which were missed when the bells were silent. The Bishop spoke of the messages of the bells, both of joy and sorrow. He could not close, he said, without referring to the eminent and distinguished ringer in whose honour and in whose memory they had met that day. Those belonging to that church were proud to think he was connected with it and proud that his friends should have given those two new bells and erected that simple and beautifully inscribed tablet to the memory of William Pye. It was not for him (the Bishop) to recount the distinguished feats in ringing which he accomplished. He had rung peals in 500 or 600 towers and was the only man who, single-handed, had rung the heavy tenor bell at Exeter Cathedral to a peal. One wondered whether his great exertions might possibly have shortened his life, but whether they did or not, they did bear testimony to the love of a devoted ringer for his art. He set a wonderful example to the younger generation. He (the Bishop) sometimes thought their young men to-day did not take so kindly to the art of ringing as they might do, but they could find no better outlet for their energies. Bellringing called alike for skill and perseverance, for strength and patience. A ringer had to be ready to respond to the call of duty, and ringing was an art which called for considerable self-sacrifice on the part of those who practised it. It seemed to him that it offered a wonderful sense of satisfaction and happiness to those who were its votaries. There was a wonderful spirit of freemasonry among ringers, and an occasion like that was just an expression of that spirit which drew ringers together. He trusted that the example of this great and wonderful man, of whom it was said he would go down in history as the greatest ringer of his own or any previous generation, might be turned to account and bear much fruit. They met in a spirit of thanksgiving and admiration, and they would re-echo that spirit in the sound of the bells—'Rejoice in the Lord alway, and again I say rejoice.'

The service concluded with the hymn, 'Hark on high the joyful music.'

As the congregation left the church, an opening touch of Stedman Triples was rung by a representative band: E. P. Duffield (Master of the Essex Association and Ancient Society of College Youths) 1, A. W. Coles (Master of the Middlesex Association), conductor 2, Gabriel Lindoff (Irish Association) 3, J. Austin (Gloucester and Bristol Association) 4, A. D. Barker (Oxford Diocesan Guild) 5, E. H. Lewis (president, Central Council) 6, Rupert Richardson (Master, Lincoln Diocesan Guild) 7, W. H. Shaker (Lancashire Association) 8.

THE MEMORIAL SCHEME.

Visiting ringers were entertained to tea by the Vicar and churchwardens, and afterwards Mr. C. T. Coles reviewed the memorial scheme.

To-day, he said, sees the completion of the scheme, first brought to the notice of the Exercise just a year ago, to erect a permanent and suitable memorial to that great ringer, William Pye. It is not necessary, at this gathering, to go into details of Mr. Pye's ringing career; the many great things he did in ringing are well known to us all. But an outstanding man such as he was deserved a real memorial, something that would always be with us to remind us of him, although it is certain that those of us who had the privilege of associating with him will need no reminder of his sterling qualities as a ringer and as a man. The first mention of a memorial was made public at the Central Council meeting at Shrewsbury, and at the beginning of October last an appeal was made by a joint committee of the Middlesex and Essex Associations. In the short space of eight months the whole scheme has been brought to a successful issue. Over £200 has been raised, subscribed by the ringers of England, Wales, Scotland and Ireland, and from one or two places overseas. Some 36 of the societies affiliated to the Council have sent donations, including all the societies operating in and around London. About 50 ringing bands have sent collective donations, and some 200 individual subscriptions have also been received. It is, therefore, not too much to say that this is a truly national memorial (applause).

We are greatly indebted, continued Mr. Coles, to Canon Brown and the churchwardens of St. John's, Leytonstone, for the assistance they have so willingly given (applause). Nothing has been too much trouble for them, and I have no hesitation in saying that but for their co-operation the opening would not have taken place on this most convenient day, if at all. The idea of erecting bells as a memorial to a ringer is, of course, not a new one, but it is no doubt the most suitable memorial, and the one that, had Mr. Pye at any time been asked, he would have chosen. He was a resident in this parish for over 30 years, and a very frequent ringer at this church. We feel, therefore, that we have made the wisest choice. Our thanks are due to Messrs. Gillett and Johnston for the work they have put in, in a very short space of time, to get the work done by to-day, and for the satisfactory splices they have made (applause). You all have, on the service paper, particulars of the memorial bells and of the tablet which has been placed in the porch—which, by the way, was made by a ringer, Mr. Charles Mee, of Ipswich. I would like to add that, when we have received one or two more definitely promised donations, we should be in a position to meet the whole cost of the bells, the tablet and all incidental charges. There has been work done in the tower, necessary in this case, over and above providing the two new bells. A clock weight case had to be moved, extra strengthening provided to the existing frame, and two of the old bells retained, which add to the usual cost of such a scheme as this, but all of this will be met. This, I feel sure you will all agree, is a great credit to the ringing Exercise (applause). In due course a balance sheet will be published in 'The Ringing World.' In the meantime I would like to thank most sincerely all the associations, guilds, ringing bands and individual ringers for their generous donations, which have made this scheme possible. We are very grateful.

Mr. Coles concluded by expressing thanks for the assistance the committee had at the beginning of their work from Mr. Lewis, the president of the Council, who made an exhaustive examination of the tower and frame, and gave them most valuable information and advice. His assurance at the beginning that it was possible to add the two bells enabled them to go forward with confidence that the scheme was possible, and they were grateful to him for his advice (applause).

Ringers, Mr. Coles added, had come that day from all parts of the country, north, south, east and west, even from as far away as Dublin, Newcastle and Manchester. He apologised for the absence of the president of the Middlesex Association (the Rev. W. P. Cole Shene), who was detained by pressure of duties, Mr. James George, who was still incapacitated as the result of an accident, and Mr. F. W. Perrens (Coventry).

VOTES OF THANKS.

The president of the Central Council proposed a vote of thanks to the Bishop of Barking for coming to dedicate the bells on a day, probably inconvenient to himself, but very convenient for ringers, enabling them to have a representative gathering in view of their 'Parliament,' which met on Tuesday.

Proceeding, Mr. Lewis said he felt very happy that Messrs. Gillett and Johnston had been able to carry out the scheme in the way he suggested at the start. He knew it would be a very tight fit to keep all the bells on one level, but he thought the result was very satisfactory and a very nice splice had been made.

He agreed with all that had been said about Mr. William Pye being the greatest ringer and having accomplished the greatest achievements ever known. If there was one man who came near him he thought it would be a man of his (Mr. Lewis') adopted county of Kent, James Barham, who, considering the circumstances of his time—the end of the 18th century—did some very fine achievements. Barham was the only man he could think of who approached William Pye in this respect.

The Bishop of Barking, in replying to the vote of thanks, said it had been a great pleasure to take part in the ceremony. He felt he must say how gratified they were locally at the wonderful way in which ringers had come from all parts of the country to share in the service. He found that there were two young ringers who had 'push-biked' all the way from North Stoncham, in Hampshire. If he had known that before, he did not think he would have said what he did in his address about the slackness of the younger generation in responding to the call of the belfry. It gave one great encouragement to find some of their younger brothers so tremendously keen (applause).

LEYTONSTONE HONOURED.

Mr. E. P. Duffield voiced the gratitude of those present to Canon Brown, the churchwardens, Miss Miller and those who had been assisting her, for having made that gathering possible and giving them such a pleasant afternoon. He also had to welcome, in the name of the ringers of Essex, the large company who had come there to honour William Pye. Although they recognised that this great man was primarily known as Master of the Middlesex Association and that his first interest in the realms of ringing was to that association, they in Essex were mindful of the tremendous amount they, as a county, owed to him. They were proud of the fact that he was born in the county and lived the whole of his life in it. He did a tremendous lot for ringing in Essex, and he, possibly more than any other man, raised the standard of ringing in Essex. Mr. Duffield concluded by giving a warm welcome to the visitors and thanking Canon Brown for his splendid help from the beginning of the memorial scheme and the churchwardens for their ready assistance in enabling them to honour and perpetuate the memory of a great man.

Canon Brown acknowledged the vote and said it had been a work of great pleasure to them in Leytonstone to co-operate with the ringers in this scheme. From start to finish everything had gone smoothly. They at St. John's felt honoured that of all the towers at their command, St. John's should have been chosen for the memorial to Mr. Pye (applause).

For the rest of the evening, under the direction of Mr. A. W. Coles, the bells were kept going by a succession of bands, who enjoyed the pleasure of ringing on this very handy ring.

The new bells, which bear the name of the founders and the date 1936, also are inscribed:—

Treble:

William Pye, 1870-1935.

The two trebles of this peal were given by the Ringing Exercise in memory of a great ringer.

Second:

All these were honoured in their generations,
And were the glory of their times.

The treble, in nota G, weighs 5 cwt. 18 lb., and the second, F sharp, 5 cwt. 2 qr. 11 lb.

The other bells are inscribed, each with the name of the founder and the date 1833, as follows: 3rd 'Agnes'; 4th 'Phoebe'; 5th 'Sarah'; 6th 'Eliza'; 7th 'Dorothy Anne.'

Tenor (12 cwt. 3 qr. 23 lb.): 'This bell with five more to form a peal was presented to the new chapel of Leytonstone by William Davis, Esquire, A.D. 1833.'

Mrs. William Pye desires to convey her most sincere thanks to all who recently did such great honour to her late husband. She is deeply conscious of the feelings of the Exercise towards his memory.

THE NEW COUNCIL BEGINS WORK.

There is always a special interest in the first meeting of a new Central Council, partly because of the fresh faces that appear. Last week there was a rather unusual number of new members, and they were drawn from the younger men. This is an excellent sign. An organisation like the Council needs a constant influx of new blood and, as long as this can be secured, there need be little fear of the central body sinking into a state of semi-atrophy. Another thing which gave a point of special interest to the gathering was the fact that it was the first Council to meet under the full operation of the revised rules drawn up three years ago, and it is an indication of the ready acceptance by the Exercise of the new constitution that forty-nine associations have become affiliated and have subscribed to the undertaking loyally to abide by the rules and decisions of the Council. There is only one association of any size that has not yet agreed to the conditions of membership and that is the Sussex Association, which will consider the matter at its annual meeting next week. There is one imposing fact about the Council, which could only be guessed at before, but which has now been, under the new rules, accurately ascertained, and that is that it represents a body of approximately twenty thousand ringers, who are active and subscribing members of the various territorial societies. This gives an authority to the Council which must carry weight, not only among ringers themselves, but in other quarters where the views of ringers have a right to be heard. Moreover, it emphasises, if further emphasis be necessary, what a valuable body of workers the Church has in the belfries.

FOR BEGINNERS.

CALLING BOB MINOR.

In recent weeks we have endeavoured to show that there are in existence a number of Triples methods which bands would do well to practise, both for the sake of variety and for the wider experience which they will obtain. We will, perhaps, return later to other of these methods, but in the meantime, if readers are wanting more, they should obtain a copy of the Central Council's 'Collection of Triples Methods,' which can be had post free for a shilling from the Council's librarian, Mr. Wilfred Hooton, Lindley Lodge, near Nuneaton, Warwickshire.

A reader has asked us how he can call Bob Minor without actually ringing the observation bell. With a little study and practice he should not find it difficult. First of all, of course, he must learn to 'read' the bells while they are ringing, that is to say he must be able to follow their coursing order and to know when and where they are to dodge.

The coursing order in Bob Minor remains the same until a bob or single is called, except that in each lead the treble moves on one place, that is, goes away from lead in front of the bell it followed down.

When a bob is called, the bells in front of and behind the treble continue unchanged for another lead, but the bell that makes the bob is diverted from being next but one in front of the treble to next but one after it.

In the case of a single the bell that makes 4th's is affected as at a bob; the bell that makes 2nd's is affected as at a plain lead, that is, it hunts down before the treble and hunts up after it. The other bell, which hunts down after the treble, makes 3rd's and hunts up in front of it.

The calling places in Bob Minor can be Right (6-5 down), Wrong (5-6 up), 4th's, In or Out.

If you want to call the observation bell In or Out, watch for it hunting immediately behind or in front of the treble. If it is to make the bob it will be the bell next but one in front of the treble.

If you want to call the observation bell Right you do it when it is hunting next but one after the treble, the bell between it and the treble being the bell that will run 'In.' You yourself may, perhaps, be the bell hunting in front of the observation bell, or behind it. In that case your task of finding the right place to call the bob is simplified, as you call yourself In or Wrong as the case may be.

There are only two other positions in which you can be in relation to your observation bell. In one you will dodge in 3-4 up with it, when it is in 4-3 (down). The Right comes at the next lead, and that is when you yourself run out.

In the other position there is one bell hunting between the observation bell and you. That other bell will dodge with the observation bell in 5-6; therefore, you will make the bob.

If you have to call the observation bell Wrong, and you have already had a Right, it is, of course, easy to remember that the Wrong comes at the next lead. If there has been no bob Right, then the guides which you can use for calling Right can be adapted for the Wrong. If you are coursing immediately in front of or behind the observation bell, your task is easy. If you have one bell between the observation bell and you, you are in front of the treble and you call yourself Out; if you are in front of the observation bell, with one bell between, you are coursing the treble and you call yourself In.

Another help is that if you have two consecutive Rights or Wrongs, and you are one of the three bells sharing the work of the bobs, you are called in part of a regular cycle: In, Out, 4th's. If you are In at the first bob, you are Out at the second; if you are Out at the first, you are 4th's at the second; and if you are 4th's at the first you are In at the second.

That cycle of In, Out, 4th's is valuable in all even-bell methods where the bob is made in 4th's. It crops up whenever there is a whole course between the bobs, and applies as much to the Surprise methods as to Plain Bob.

SHROPSHIRE ASSOCIATION.

The Shropshire Association visited Malinslee on Saturday week, when, despite the weather, there was a good attendance, the following towers being represented: Madeley, Coalbrookdale, Wellington, St. Chad's (Shrewsbury), Clive and the local company.

The bells were in use at the conclusion of a wedding ceremony, and until 5 p.m. were kept going to Bob Minor, Kent and Oxford Treble Bob Minor and Grandsire and Stedman Doubles.

Twenty-five enjoyed the tea prepared in the Church Room by Mrs. A. Woodvine and friends, after which a business meeting was held, Mr. F. Mole being in the chair. The Rev. Parry, at one time the incumbent, and now a veteran of 90 years of age, gave the gathering his recipe for longevity, and advice on ringing, church work and life in general.

Appreciation of the welcome prepared by Mr. and Mrs. Woodvine was expressed, and the association secretary was congratulated on his forthcoming marriage.

A return was made to the tower after courses of Grandsire Caters and Bob Major had been rung on handbells.

FOUR-METHOD SURPRISE PEAL ON HANDBELLS.OXHEY RINGERS' GREAT ACHIEVEMENT.

It was fairly certain, after the three method Spliced Surprise peal on handbells at Oxhey a few weeks ago, that it would not be long before this talented band would ring one which would include London, Cambridge, Superlative and Bristol. This they accomplished on Friday week, and everyone will heartily congratulate the ringers. It is a wonderful exhibition of skill and concentration, and the conductor's effort in ringing an inside pair as well as calling the peal is, in our view, the greatest thing in handbell ringing that has ever been done. We give the figures of the composition below:—

CONGRATULATIONS.

Dear Sir,—I would like to be one of the many who will congratulate the Oxhey handbell band on their magnificent performance. When the first peal of Spliced Surprise Major in the four Surprise methods was rung at Warnham some years ago, you used the term 'mental acrobatics.' This was to describe the ringing of one bell, but what about ringing two? Good luck to 'Cashy and Co.'

C. T. COLES.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.BEST MEETING OF V.W.H. BRANCH FOR EIGHT YEARS.

The annual meeting of the Vale of White Horse Branch of the Oxford Diocesan Guild was held at Faringdon on Saturday, May 16th.

Ringing commenced about 2.30, and the usual Guild service was held in the Parish Church, conducted by the Rev. P. C. C. Lamb (Vicar of Faringdon), the Rev. C. E. Wigg (Deputy Master) read the lesson, and the Rev. J. W. Cole (Rector of Hinton Waldrist) gave a very interesting address. Mr. J. Chambers was at the organ.

Tea was served to 48 ringers in the Wheatheaf Clubroom. This is the largest attendance at a branch meeting in the last eight years.

Owing to the unavoidable absence of the branch chairman (the Rev. A. J. de D. Denne), the Rev. C. G. Seymour Metford (Vicar of Shrivenham) presided at the annual business meeting, and was supported by the Rev. C. E. Wigg, Mr. R. T. Hibbert (general secretary), Mr. R. Gilling (branch secretary), and members from Faringdon, Shellingford and Buckland, with visitors from Abingdon, Fairford, Oxford, Reading, West Ilsley, Beedon, High Wycombe, Banbury, Bucklebury and Standlake.

The accounts for the past year were presented by the secretary and showed a balance in hand of £3 11s. 9d. in the general funds and £4 10s. 6d. in the Restoration Fund. These were considered to be very satisfactory and were passed.

The officers of the branch were all re-elected, viz.: Chairman, the Rev. A. J. de D. Denne; secretary and treasurer, Mr. R. Gilling; branch representative, the Rev. C. G. Seymour Metford.

Mr. G. Rogers, of Faringdon, was elected a member of the branch.

It was proposed that a by-meeting should be held at Ashbury in June and another at Hinton Waldrist in August and the autumn meeting at Buckland in October.

The Deputy Master said it gave him much pleasure to see the large number present, but it would have pleased him better if there had been more local ringers at the meeting.

The General Secretary made a few outspoken remarks and asked members to give more support to the branch officers, as it was the enthusiasm of the members that made a branch prosper.

The Chairman proposed a vote of thanks to the Vicar of Faringdon for conducting the service and for allowing the use of the bells, to the Rev. J. W. Cole for his excellent address, to the organist for giving his services, and to those who did the catering.

The ringers then returned to the tower and touches in various methods were rung.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

The 6th, 7th and tenor bells of St. Mary's, Autey, Leicestershire, have been taken to Messrs. John Taylor and Co.'s foundry at Loughborough to be recast. The rededication is expected to take place in September.

There have been three honorary librarians of the Central Council: The late Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn, the late Rev. B. H. Tyrwhitt-Drake, and, now, Mr. Wilfred Hooton. All have been members of Cambridge University Guild.

Messrs. John Taylor and Co. are rehanging the rings of five bells at Little Houghton Church, Northants, and Blakesley Church, Northants.

In the 'silent' peal in seven Treble Bob methods rung at Felkirk—the report of which appears in another column—the 2nd was used as the observation bell throughout, with the calling Out, In, Out (twice repeated) for each extent.

Pudsey Parish Church bells are to be broadcast in the Northern programme on Sunday from 5 to 5.15 p.m.

SILENCERS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I see that the Towers and Belfries Committee of the Central Council recommend the use of the Davis silencer in noisy towers. Would it not be a good thing if you could print a description of this remedy in your valuable paper and a rough estimate of the cost for fixing it?

E. BANKES JAMES.

Seaford Park, Fareham, Hants.

Mr. Davis' invention consists of a form of muffie, made of thin steel plates over leather. These are tied on to the ball of the clapper. The president of the Central Council gave the cost as about £2 for a set for eight bells. Further information about these silencers can be obtained from Mr. J. E. Davis, 70, Wooler Street, Walworth, London, S.E.

DEATH OF MR. JOHN HOWES.

LEADER OF KINGSTON RINGERS.

The death took place at Kingston on Friday week of Mr. John Howes, of 9, Hawk's Road. Mr. Howes, who was 63 years of age, had been unable, through ill-health, to follow his occupation since Christmas. About a month ago he sustained a bereavement by the death of one of his daughters, and since that time he had been confined to bed.

Mr. Howes had been a ringer for over 40 years at Kingston, and captain of the band for 30 years. He was a very capable ringer and he has several compositions to his credit.

The funeral took place on the following Tuesday. The first part of the service was held in All Saints' Church, and the interment afterwards in the cemetery.

FIFTY YEARS A CUMBERLAND.

DEATH OF MR. F. G. GODDARD.

It is with much regret we have to report the passing of a well-known Isleworth ringer, Mr. F. G. Goddard, who died in the West Middlesex Hospital on Monday, June 1st, and was buried in Isleworth Cemetery on Friday last. The bells of Isleworth Parish Church were rung half-muffled as the funeral procession proceeded from the house to the cemetery, stopping for a few moments as it passed the church. This was a touch of 504 Grandsire Triples, rung by Miss O. L. Ashbrook 1, W. Massey 2, G. H. Cross 3, C. J. Tricker 4, T. H. Taffender (conductor) 5, F. E. Hawthorne 6, H. Belcher 7, W. Lidbetter 8. At the cemetery handbells were rung over the grave by J. Milner 1-2, T. H. Taffender 3-4, H. Belcher 5-6, G. H. Cross 7-8.

Among ringers present were Mr. T. H. Taffender (Master, London County Association), Mr. G. H. Cross (Master, Royal Cumberland Youths), Miss O. L. Ashbrook, Messrs. J. Milner, C. J. Tricker, H. Belcher, Biggs, W. Elson, W. Barrett, W. Massey, W. Lidbetter, J. Beadle, Stevens, F. E. Hawthorne, etc.

Mr. Goddard was a keen tower and handbell ringer and a perfect striker. His personality will long be remembered by all who had the pleasure of meeting him. He was one of the members of the old West Middlesex Association before its amalgamation, as the South and West District, with the Middlesex County Association. He was also a member of the old St. James' Society, afterwards the London County Association, and for over 50 years a Royal Cumberland.

In the evening, after the funeral, a half-muffled quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples at Isleworth unfortunately came to grief after about 40 minutes' good ringing, the following members taking part: W. Ellingham 1, W. Massey 2, Miss O. L. Ashbrook 3, H. O. Chandler 4, F. E. Hawthorne (conductor) 5, W. Barrett 6, A. Jones 7, R. K. Mowforth 8. Afterwards some touches were rung with the inclusion of W. Lidbetter, N. H. Manning and F. Bishop. On Sunday morning, by special request of the Vicar, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples was rung: E. Webb 1, Miss O. L. Ashbrook 2, J. Beadle 3, N. H. Manning (first quarter and first attempt) 4, F. E. Hawthorne 5, W. Lidbetter (conductor) 6, R. K. Mowforth 7, H. Brooks 8.

THE CENTRAL COUNCIL. FIRST MEETING UNDER NEW RULES.

Statistics Prove it a Representative Body.

There was, as we reported last week, a record attendance at the meeting of the Central Council in London on Whitsun Tuesday. Of the 127 elected members, representing the 49 affiliated associations, 102 were present, together with 12 out of 15 honorary members, making a total attendance of 114. By permission of the Lord Mayor and the City Corporation, the meeting was held in the Council Chamber of the Guildhall. Mr. E. H. Lewis, president of the Central Council, occupied the chair and had with him on the dais at the outset the Dean of St. Paul's (Dr. Matthews). The detailed list of the members present was given in our last issue.

DEAN MATTHEWS' WELCOME.

The President accorded a very warm welcome to the Dean of St. Paul's.

Dr. Matthews, in reply, said he was afraid he was taking the place of a far more distinguished person than himself—the Lord Mayor—but, nevertheless, he was very glad to have the opportunity of giving a welcome to the Council to London and that great and ancient building—the Guildhall. He had at least one qualification to speak to bell-ringers in that he had been connected with two very famous places which were noted for their bells—Exeter Cathedral and St. Paul's Cathedral. He had often been amazed when he had seen people make the great bells in Exeter speak, but he confessed that he had not seen the bell-ringers in St. Paul's in action. The stairs one had to go up were somewhat difficult to a person of his habit and body.

Bellringing, continued the Dean, was in many ways a definite English occupation. He thought he was right in saying that change ringing was not known in any but Anglo-Saxon countries. Those who had heard bells in foreign parts had been astonished at the jingling and inconsequent row in contrast to the orderly and intricate manner in which the bells of this country were rung. It was a very ancient occupation, and one the Church ought to do all they could to encourage. How many people in foreign parts, in exile from the homeland, when they thought of their home town thought first of the sound of the bells which they used to hear. He always remembered someone in the wilds of Australia and a native of Exeter who told him that he often recalled the sound of the Cathedral bells when they were ringing and that was his chief memory of home.

Ringing was a very interesting and very great occupation which they had come there to discuss and represent.

'May I,' concluded the Dean, 'not only on my own behalf, but on behalf of the Lord Mayor and all the citizens of London, give you a very hearty welcome to this city and hope that your conference and your ringing will be very pleasant to you and you will go away from this city with very happy memories of the time you spent in it' (applause).

The President, in thanking Dr. Matthews for his welcome, said they could hardly hope the Lord Mayor could have been there, but he was not sure that it was not more appropriate that they should have the Dean of St. Paul's with them that day, for the ringing of bells had grown up in the use of services of the Church. There were some 4,000 or 5,000 peals of bells in the country, and he could only recall four in secular places—one of them being the Imperial Institute, where he had the pleasure of ringing the previous day. The others were at Manchester Town Hall, Morpeth Watch Tower and Quex Park. It was an art which had formed a definite part of the Church, and for that reason it was appropriate that they should be welcomed by one of the leading ecclesiastical authorities in the city.

OVER 20,000 RINGERS REPRESENTED ON COUNCIL.

After the Dean had left, the first business was to receive from the hon. secretary (Mr. G. W. Fletcher) a report as to the representation of societies. After calling attention to the conditions of membership laid down under the new rules, the hon. secretary's report said:—

The operation of the rule governing affiliation divides the associations into two groups—(1) territorial associations, and (2) non-territorial associations. In Group 1 there are three sections: (a) Associations with annual subscribing members; (b) associations whose members pay one life subscription only; (c) associations made up of affiliated towers with no individual subscriptions.

In this Council we have 43 associations in Group 1, of which 41 are in section (a). The aggregate membership of this section is returned as 21,860, made up of 19,445 annual subscribing ringing members, 1,674 annual subscribing honorary members, 438 resident life ringing members and 303 resident life honorary members.

Two associations previously associated with the Council are no longer included, the Sherwood Youths, who could no longer show a minimum membership of 75, and the Sussex County Association, who are considering the matter at their meeting on June 20th. The North Wales Association has rejoined. The representation of this section is 116, but only 111 members have been elected—vacancies being left in Bath and Wells, Lancashire, North Notts, North Wales, Swansea and Brecon, and Worcester and Districts Associations.

The London County Association falls into section (b). No particulars as to numbers of its members are available, but efforts are being made to obtain them. The secretary has estimated that the numbers justify three representatives. The Truro Diocesan Guild have 66 towers affiliated with a fee of 5s. per tower. They have elected one representative only.

In Group 2 are the following associations: Ancient Society of College Youths, Society of Royal Cumberland Youths, Cambridge University Guild, Oxford University Society, Oxford Society and the Ladies' Guild. The Oxford Society and the Ladies' Guild are the only two associations in this group to furnish actual figures of membership. Approximate figures have been supplied by the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths. The group is represented by 14 representatives. An affiliation fee of 5s. has been received from the St. Clement Youths, but no particulars of membership are available and no member has been elected. Excluding the St. Clement Youths the total membership of the Council is as follows: Associations affiliated 49, total members to which entitled 134, total members elected 127.

All these associations have given an undertaking to loyally abide by the rules and decisions of the Council.

The total number of hon. members is 15.

With the exception of two associations, the North Notts and the Swansea and Brecon, who, whilst entitled to elect two representatives each, have only paid the fee for one member, all affiliation fees due to the Council have been paid.

Last year there were 51 affiliated associations; this year the number is 49.

WHY THE PRESIDENT 'SPEAKS OUT.'

The Hon. Secretary stated that only one nomination for the office of president for the ensuing three years had been received, namely, Mr. E. H. Lewis, nominated by Mr. F. M. Mitchell and Mr. T. Groombridge, sen.

On being put to the meeting by Canon Coleridge, the election was agreed to with loud applause.

Mr. Lewis thanked the members for the honour they had done to him by re-electing him. He felt sometimes that he could not do all that he should do for the Council. He had a good many calls upon his time, apart from ringing, but the fact that they had nominated him for a further period of three years seemed to show that he had not lost their confidence. If they would bear with him he would do his best to carry on as he had done for the last six years (applause). He was afraid he sometimes got into trouble with some people for talking rather bluntly, but he had a feeling that it was his duty to say things straight out, if he saw that certain things were not what they should be. He did so, not because he wished to put his personal opinions over those of other people, but he felt, by putting him in that position, the Council had given him authority to speak out when things required saying (hear, hear). He got into serious trouble at Bristol not long ago because one of the ecclesiastical authorities there seemed to think he (Mr. Lewis) inferred that he was a fool. He had no intention of saying that. (A Voice: 'But he was'—laughter.) What he did intend to hint, continued Mr. Lewis, was that some architects were fools and that some were, perhaps, clever enough to befool ecclesiastical authorities. What he said was not meant for the particular authority in question, but he (the ecclesiastic) had taken it so. He hoped some day to meet him and explain. On the previous day, continued Mr. Lewis, during the ringing at Westminster Abbey, he felt obliged to say that it was quite hopeless to ring changes if the band who got hold of the ropes could not ring rounds, and he felt compelled to request one of the ringers to hand over his rope to somebody else. If the Council would endorse what he had said in the past it would give him courage to speak out again in the future when he thought it necessary to do so (hear, hear, and applause).

The President then said that only one nomination had been received for the office of hon. secretary and treasurer. Only Mr. Fletcher had been nominated. Those who had had experience of Mr. Fletcher's period of office would agree with him that they could not possibly have anyone else. Mr. Fletcher was absolutely priceless as a secretary, and he had made his work as president very much less. It was a real pleasure to have such a secretary to work with (applause).

Mr. Fletcher's re-election was agreed to with applause, and, in acknowledging his election, the Hon. Secretary appealed for more assistance from some of the members and some secretaries of associations. It was very difficult, he said, when information was wanted, to be told that it could not be given, when all the while it could be obtained locally far easier than he could get it. During the next three years there would be a lot of work to do, and they wanted to keep the Council posted up to date. When information was required he hoped members would kindly give it to him as speedily as possible.

NEW LIBRARIAN.

The President reminded the Council of the loss by death of the late librarian, and said that they had now to fill the post. It was a post that was not very easy to fill, because it required not only a person with qualities that made a suitable librarian, but also someone who had at disposal a certain amount of room to contain the library and literature, which altogether ran to something like 15 cwt. of material. No nomination had been received, but the Standing Committee had considered the matter and recommended the election of Mr. W. H. J. Hooton.

Mr. A. A. Hughes proposed the election of Mr. Hooton, who would, he believed, make an excellent librarian for the Council.—Mrs. E. K. Fletcher seconded, and, the motion having been carried unanimously, Mr. Hooton, as a new member (one of the representatives of the Midland Counties Association), was introduced to the president and took his seat on the dais.

The formal presentation to the president caused some amusement, as Mr. Hooton is Mr. Lewis' son-in-law.

Mr. Hooton, who was warmly received, said he was very proud that he was a friend of the last two librarians. He admired them both very much. He could not hope to be as efficient as Mr. Tyrwhitt-Drake. He saw some of Mr. Drake's work, and it was very good. He would, however, do his best in any way he could (applause).

The auditors (Messrs. C. T. Coles and A. A. Hughes) were re-elected. There were nine retiring hon. members, including Mr. Joseph Griffin, who, the President said, had tendered his resignation from the Council. The Standing Committee recommended the Council to accept the resignation, as, with advancing years, Mr. Griffin had not been able to attend the meetings for a considerable time.

Mr. A. Paddon Smith proposed the re-election of the following: Alderman J. S. Pritchett, Major J. H. B. Hesse, Messrs. C. Dean, J. S. Goldsmith, C. F. Johnston, C. W. Roberts, J. A. Trollope and E. Alex. Young.—Mr. W. T. Cockerill seconded and the motion was carried.

In the place of Mr. J. Griffin, the Rev. F. L. Edwards proposed the election, subject to his consent, of the Earl of Shaftesbury, who, he said, took a keen, practical interest in ringing, and who, although he had reached an advanced stage of life, had learned elementary change ringing.—Mr. C. H. Jennings, who seconded, said the Earl of Shaftesbury was the first peer of the realm to do any change ringing.—The Rev. H. Drake supported the motion, which was carried.

LOSSES BY DEATH.

The President next referred to the losses sustained by death, which this year, he said, had been very heavy. On Good Friday, as they knew, they lost Canon Elsee, who represented the Lancashire Association from the beginning of the Council up till 1935. During these 44 years he had attended 40 meetings. He was a member of the Standing Committee and had been president of the Lancashire Association for something over 40 years. He was a most valuable member of the Council, and although he did not often speak, when he did speak he always had something very good in the way of advice to give them. He did not think there was any member on whom they could rely for more sound advice than the late Canon Elsee. They missed him very much. Shortly before Canon Elsee died they heard of the tragic death of their late librarian, the Rev. B. H. Tyrwhitt-Drake, who represented the Hertford County Association from 1919 to 1923 and the Ely Diocesan Association from 1929 to 1935. He attended 13 Council meetings and had been honorary librarian since 1933, having succeeded Mr. Jenkyn. His work as librarian was excellent, and as an official they would miss him very much. They would also miss him, many of them, as a very good friend. He (the president) felt their loss very much indeed, because both were members of the Cambridge University Guild, and he had known them from his earliest ringing days, and they were both godfathers to one of his children.

Continuing, the President said the Council had also lost the Rev. O. A. Clements, who represented the Lancashire Association in quite its early days, 1895 to 1902. From 1927 to 1935 he represented Chester Diocesan Guild. He had attended seven of their meetings, and some of those present knew him in the early days as a very good companion as well as a keen ringer. The death had also occurred of the Rev. E. S. C. Lock, a representative of the Bath and Wells Diocesan Association from 1927 to 1935. Unfortunately, he was not in good health and had not been able to attend any meetings. Mr. R. A. Daniell represented the Royal Cumberland Youths from 1900 to 1911 and had been an honorary member from 1912 to 1923. He had attended 13 meetings of the Council and had done a great deal of work for the Exercise in the way of historical research. As the Council knew, he had something to do with the finding of the will of Fabian Stedman. He was a man who was very keen on ringing, although perhaps one could not class him as a very great ringer from the point of view of striking. He used to ring at St. Mary Abbot's, Kensington, where he was also in the choir for many years. They had also lost Mr. E. E. Richards, who represented the Kent County Association from 1891 to 1893, and then the St. James' Society from 1894 to 1896. He attended four of the meetings in those early days. Death had also removed an old member in Mr. J. W. Rowbotham, who represented the College Youths from 1903 to 1905 and 1909 to 1911. He attended two meetings, presumably the two held in London.

In addition to these members of the Council, continued the President, he would like to refer to one other very good friend whom they had lost. Although he was not an active ringer, he was a very good friend to ringers and that Council; he referred to Mr. A. R. Powys, secretary of the Society for the Protection of Ancient Buildings. Some of the members of the Council would remember that, before the war, they used to quarrel with Mr. Powys and his society, and the Towers and Belfries Committee really originated from the fact that a letter of Mr. Powys, or of his society, was brought to the notice of the Council, and they decided to join issue with the society. They got to grips in 1912, but did not get very far until, through the intervention of Major Hesse, they met Mr. Powys. They then realised he was a man they could get on with. He was a most charming man; absolutely honest, particularly with himself and his own opinions, and immediately he saw that any of his opinions were wrong he was ready to withdraw them and readjust his views. Through that quality of his, the Towers and Belfries Committee were able to do a lot of good work with Mr. Powys, and he used to be able to influence his 'die-hards.' At Mr. Powys' invitation, 'die-hards' on both sides used to meet at the luncheon table sometimes. It worked very well, much good resulted and they became very good friends. He (the president) felt they could not on that occasion omit to make mention of Mr. Powys and to say what a good friend they had lost in him. He and Mr. Fletcher represented the Council at the memorial service, which was held at the Church of St. Magnus-the-Martyr.

The Council expressed their regret at the losses sustained and their sympathy with the bereaved by standing in silence.

A number of new members were formally presented to the president.

BELLS IN NEW HOUSING AREAS.

When the minutes of the last meeting came up for confirmation, the Rev. Llewellyn Edwards reported on the action taken in connection with the motion passed last year urging the provision of peals of bells in new housing estates. In collaboration with the late Canon Elsee, he drew up a letter to bring the matter to the notice of Bishops and Archbishops. Twenty-four replies had been received and they had been classified as good, bad and indifferent. Indifferent replies numbered five, and there were two unfavourable replies, and in view of the qualities of the ringing in their respective dioceses they came from Bishops who ought to know better. One was the Bishop of Birmingham, who, in reply, said he could only say that in his opinion necessities must come before luxuries. The other was from the Bishop of Oxford, who stated, 'I am afraid it is very difficult to press for peals of bells in such towers. When I lived in Oxford I used to think we could do with far fewer bells.'

All the four Archbishops' replies were classified as good. The Archbishop of York expressed his gratitude to the Council. The Archbishop of Armagh said he had sent it to the Bishop of Down, who was the only Bishop in his province who had to deal with new housing estates. The letter from the Bishop of Manchester was of melancholy interest, as it stated that it would be handed over to the Diocesan Advisory Committee, of which the late Canon Elsee was a member. The Bishop of Gloucester indulged in quiet humour by suggesting that bellringers should form funds for that purpose. The two best replies were from the Bishop of Chester and the Bishop of Norwich. The Bishop of Chester wrote 'that any information you care to send me I will gladly bring before the Committee of Church Buildings,' and the Bishop of Norwich said he would bring it before the Committee of the New Churches.

ADDITIONS TO THE COUNCIL'S LIBRARY.

The report on the library and publications, printed in 'The Ringing World' of June 5th, was presented by the hon. secretary.

The President said the booklet on 'The Law Affecting Church Bells' had been referred to Alderman Pritchett for revision, and would be put into the printer's hands almost immediately. A paragraph would be added on the question of insurance, as well as the Rev. H. Drake's notes on faculties.

Mr. J. A. Trollope, in moving the adoption of the report, said when Mr. R. A. Daniell died he went through his MSS. and books, with a view to securing any of value for the Council's library. He secured a copy of the 1733 J. D. and C. M. 'Campanologia' and a photograph of Stedman's will, which he had handed over. The 'Campanologia' was an edition which he thought they had not got in the library. It was in perfect condition, except that the leather binding had gone. During the past year, Mr. Trollope said, he had been able to secure, through a nephew of the late Mr. Jerram, two other books, which Mr. Tyrwhitt-Drake bought for the library. One of these books contained a copy of a book published in 1698 by J. White. It was a very rare book. There was one copy in the British Museum, the Rev. W. Pearson had a mutilated copy, but these were all he knew of. It was bound up with another edition of the J. D. and C. M. The other book was a second edition of Hubbard's work, which was also rare. It was particularly interesting because it contained an autographed letter from Hubbard. The books were a considerable acquisition to the library, as they very seldom came on the market.

Mr. E. J. Butler seconded the adoption of the report, which was agreed to.

SURREY ASSOCIATION.PENDING RESIGNATION OF MASTER AND GENERAL TREASURER.*A New District Secretary.

A meeting of the North-Western District of the Surrey Association was held at Banstead on Saturday, June 6th, when 29 members and friends attended from Benlilton, Croydon (St. John's and St. Peter's), Ewell, Leatherhead, London, Merton and Uckfield. Ringing commenced at 3.45 p.m. and continued until 5 o'clock, when short evensong was conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. Canon F. N. Skene. Tea was served at the Victoria Hotel, followed by a business meeting, over which the Ringing Master, Mr. D. Cooper, presided.

In opening the meeting, Mr. Cooper reported that their secretary, Mr. F. W. Housden, had been obliged to tender his resignation owing to removal from the district, and that it had become necessary to find a new secretary. At a committee meeting held on April 20th, Mr. F. G. Woodiss offered to carry out duties of secretary until the end of the year. This offer was accepted and Mr. Woodiss was declared elected as hon. secretary pro tem.

The Chairman also said that it was with extreme regret that he had to report the death of two former members of the association, who had just passed away—Mr. John Howes, of Kingston-on-Thames, and Mr. F. E. Goddard, of Isleworth. Although they were not at the time of their death members of the association, they had been very active in past years and had rung many peals for the association. He asked the meeting to stand in silence for a few moments as a mark of respect to their memory.

Two new members were elected—the Rev. G. Hart, of St. John's, Croydon, and Mr. Alfred Long, of Benlilton.

The Secretary said that it was his duty to report the receipt of the resignation of their Master, Mr. D. Kenneth C. Birt, who had so well and ably presided over the fortunes of the association for the past six years. It was most unfortunate that this resignation had been brought about by ill-health, and, whilst there was some consolation in the fact that Mr. Birt had agreed to carry on until the end of the year, the members had to realise that they would be losing the services of their Master, and expressed a wish for his speedy recovery to perfect health and strength.

Mr. D. Wright informed the meeting that their general treasurer, Mr. Charles Dean, had expressed a wish to resign at the end of the year, owing to pressure of business, and that it would also be necessary to find a new treasurer as well as a new Master.

Mr. Woodiss said that he had received a letter from the secretary of the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths making application for Beddington tower for a meeting on Saturday, July 25th. This happened to be the date fixed for their joint meeting with the Leatherhead District of the Guildford Diocesan Guild at Ramore, and it was felt that it would not be possible to make a success of both meetings. The subject was left in the hands of the secretary to do all he could to avoid a clash of dates for these two meetings.

The Secretary announced that the annual dinner would take place at the Greyhound Hotel, Croydon, on Saturday, October 3rd, and requested the members to keep that date free. A big improvement in the arrangements over those of last year had been made.

Some excellent handbell ringing was heard, after which most of the members returned to the tower, where ringing from rounds to Spliced Surprise continued until 9 o'clock.

RINGER'S DIAMOND WEDDING.

On Wednesday, May 27th, at St. Mary's Church, Frensham, Surrey, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Doubles was rung in honour of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Mills, of St. Austin's, Frensham, who on that day celebrated their diamond wedding.

Mr. Mills was for 33 years a ringer at St. Mary's and was for many years captain of the company. He rang his first peal at the age of 60.

Mr. and Mrs. Mills were the recipients of many presents, including a silver modelled bell inkstand from the local band.

The ringers taking part in the quarter-peal were: N. Overington (first quarter-peal) 1, G. Ackerman 2, Miss Doris Aslett (first quarter-peal 'inside') 3, E. J. Pepler 4, A. J. Chuter (conductor) 5, E. A. Case 6.

ESSEX ASSOCIATION.CHANGE IN MASTERSHIP.

The fifty-seventh annual meeting of the Essex Association was held in Chelmsford on Whit Monday, when a large number of ringers from all over the county gathered. The Provost could not attend owing to a slight chill, and in his absence the service in the Cathedral was conducted by the Rev. W. H. Davies. The lesson was read by the Master, Mr. E. P. Duffield, and an address was given by the Rev. Canon J. H. Barrow, of Stansted.

Canon Barrow based his address on the word 'bells,' taking the five letters of the word to represent various aspects and points of the duties of the bellringers, and summing up his address with the words, 'Beautiful, enthusiastic, loyal, loving, service.'

The retiring Master, Mr. Duffield, presided at the business meeting which followed in the Chapter House.

INCREASED MEMBERSHIP AND FUNDS.

The annual report stated that it was a record of satisfactory achievement and steady progress. The number of towers in affiliation was 114, an increase of seven on the year. The membership comprised hon. members 86, ringing members 778, and non-resident members 244, an increase of 24. There was an average attendance of about 40 members at the divisional meetings. It was somewhat disturbing to again report a sharp decline in the number of peals rung under the auspices of the association. The total last year was 81, a reduction of 14 compared with 1934. It was mainly in handbell peals that the decline occurred. The enforced retirement from peal ringing of Mr. William Keeble, one of their most active peal conductors, following as it did the lamented death of Mr. William Pye, had undoubtedly been the main reason for the reduced number of peals. Lest any should suppose that the standard of ringing had deteriorated, it could be said that never were the more advanced methods practised in so many of their towers as now. Thirty-six ringers shared in conducting peals. Twenty-five members rang their first peal, and sixty their first in a new method. Two trebles had been added at Fobbing, thus completing the octave, while at Thorpe-le-Soken, where the bells had for many years been unringable, a new metal frame had been installed, and a treble added to the old peal of five, which had been retuned. The bells at Havering-atte-Bower and Wivenhoe had been rehung.

The statement of accounts was particularly satisfactory, and for the first time the reserve fund exceeded £250. Total income for the year was slightly less at £68 1s. 7d., but expenditure had been only £50 4s. 11d., a reduction of £20. One grant, of £2 2s., to Little Waltham, had been made from the Bell Restoration Fund, the balance on which was now just over £60. In every division the officers had been re-elected to serve in 1936. They had merited and received sincere thanks for their unstinted services.

At the election of officers, the vote for the Master to succeed Mr. Duffield was between Dr. P. T. Spencer-Phillips (Great Baddow) and Mr. George Black (Woodford), and the former was elected by 38 votes to 32.

Other officers were re-elected, including Mr. L. J. Clark (hon. secretary and treasurer), and Mr. L. W. Wiffen (peal secretary).

Dr. Spencer-Phillips took over the chair from Mr. Duffield at this point, and thanked the members for electing him, observing that he would do his best (applause).

A grant of £15 to the William Pye Memorial was confirmed. The Chairman announced that grants from the Restoration Fund of £2 2s. to Fobbing, and of £5 5s. each to North Weald and Great Waltham had been made.

Luncheon followed at the Golden Fleece Hotel.

During the day the bells of the Cathedral and churches in surrounding parishes were rung, the methods ranging from Doubles to Cambridge Surprise Maximus.

CLEVELAND AND NORTH YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION.BACK AGAIN INTO ITS STRIDE.

The annual meeting of the Cleveland and North Yorkshire Association was held at Thirsk on Whit Monday. Ringers attended from Thirsk, Ripon, Middlesbrough, Guisborough, Tadcaster, Leeds, Bradford, Darlington, Kirby Wiske and Brighouse. After an excellent dinner, provided at the Golden Lion Hotel, considerable business was dealt with at the meeting.

The election of officers resulted in Mr. J. C. Pollard being elected president, Mr. T. Metcalfe Ringing Master, Messrs. T. Tingle, T. Lancaster, G. F. Alexander and J. Stott vice-presidents, and Mr. J. Reed secretary and treasurer.

After some discussion it was decided to hold meetings on the last Saturday but one in January and September, and the last Saturday in April and June instead of on Bank Holidays as at present.

The next annual meeting will be held at Ripon, and the other meetings will be at Richmond in September, Skelton in January and Whitby in April.

Service in the Parish Church was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. Austin), who gave a very instructive address and welcomed the association to Thirsk.

The bells were kept going to touches of Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Plain Bob, Kent and Oxford Treble Bob, Double Norwich and Superlative Surprise Major.

The meeting proved that the association is again back into its stride as a lively and active body.

LANCASHIRE ASSOCIATION. NEW SECRETARY OF MANCHESTER BRANCH.

The quarterly meeting of the Manchester Branch was held at Worsley. The Rev. I. Renshaw officiated at the service, and gave a brief outline of the work done for the Exercise by the late president of the association (Canon H. J. Elsee). The speaker said that his, Canon Elsee's, had been a life devoted to the good of his fellow-ringers, and urged the ringers themselves to carry on and follow the example that had been shown them. He stressed the fact that it was their duty to bring forward recruits to train them in a manner that would make the art interesting and fascinating to them. 'I leave it to you ringers,' he said. 'It is up to you, each and everyone, to uphold the ringers' art and use it to its utmost advantage. It is your duty. If during the coming year each ringer could account for only one new member, then that ringer would be doing a very great service to his church.'

Tea was served in the Mill Brow Cafe, after which the business of the meeting was conducted, with the Rev. Scott in the chair.

Places chosen for the next quarter's meetings were: June, Barlow Moor; July, Whitefield; and August, Eccles.

Mr. J. H. Ridyard, Worsley, was elected to succeed Mr. D. Brown as secretary of the branch, the thanks of the members being accorded to the retiring secretary for his services.

The election of the following was confirmed: The Rev. J. R. Southern and Mr. W. Hutton, Birch; Messrs. J. Carter, Manchester Town Hall; L. Reynolds, Prestwich; H. A. McKinnell, Bowden; H. Gaskill, Gorton; and E. Latchford, Salford.

The meeting closed with votes of thanks to the Vicar and organist, and to the local ringers for the preparations made and for the welcome that is always received at Worsley.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD.

DEVIZES BRANCH.

A very enjoyable time was spent on the occasion of the branch meeting at Seend on June 6th. The bells, a ring of six, tenor 14½ cwt., 'go' excellently, and, in spite of new ropes, some splendid touches in various methods were successfully brought round. The Vicar, the Rev. W. A. Butler, conducted the Guild office, Mr. S. E. White accompanying the singing on the organ. The Vicar afterwards entertained the members to tea, to which 33 sat down at the Bell Inn.

Mr. E. F. White presided at the short meeting. The Vicar, who was unable to attend the meeting and sent his apologies, was thanked most heartily for his hospitality. Three new life ringing members were elected, and Trowbridge was mentioned as the venue for the half-yearly meeting on July 4th.

Visitors made the journey from Kington Magna, Stoke Wake and Rodbourne Cheney, and representatives were present from Devizes (St. John's), Clifton, Bromham, Rowde, Market Lavington, Holt, Southbroom, Trowbridge, Potterne, Westbury, Warminster, Melksham and Seend. Methods were rung up to Cambridge Surprise.

NORTH STAFFS ASSOCIATION.

FORTY YEARS' SERVICE COMMEMORATED.

A meeting of the North Staffs and District Association was held at Biddulph on Saturday, June 6th. Thirty-three members were present from Burslem, Bucknall, Brown Edge, Biddulph, Cheadle, Kids Grove, Kingsley, Longton, Norton, Newcastle, Stoke-on-Trent and Uttoxeter.

A peal tablet was unveiled by the Vicar of Biddulph (the Rev. S. Myers Bridge) to commemorate the 40 years of faithful service of the conductor (Mr. J. Cottrell) as a ringer of Biddulph on December 16th, 1935. The tablet also put on record a peal rung on December 15th, 1932, to celebrate the jubilee of the North Staffs and District Association.

A service was held, and the Vicar gave a very interesting address.

Tea followed in the Schoolroom, which was kindly given by the Biddulph ringers.

Afterwards the usual vote of thanks were accorded to the Vicar and to the ringers for the use of the bells. The company stood in silence for a minute as a last mark of respect to Mr. P. Preston, of Stone.

KENT'S VETERAN HONOURED.

ROMNEY MARSH GUILD CELEBRATE MR. C. SLINGSBY'S BIRTHDAY.

Once again the Romney Marsh and District Guild met at Aldington on May 30th to celebrate the birthday of Mr. Charles Slingsby, who reached the great age of 99 years on May 26th. A company of about 80 assembled from all parts of Kent to honour this fine old ringer, who is remarkably well and active in spite of his years. The county of Kent is enormously proud of him. The company was especially honoured this year by the presence of the Bishop of Dover (the Very Rev. O. W. Rose), who came especially to preach at the service, which was conducted by the Rector, the Rev. G. S. Long. The Bishop, in a most interesting, homely way, spoke of the splendid example of Mr. Slingsby over a great many years, and also pointed out the importance of the ringer's office.

After the service, the company were entertained to tea by the Rector and Mrs. Long, and waited on by lady helpers. The Bishop presided for a short time, but had to leave early to take a Confirmation in the Isle of Sheppey. However, before he left he was thanked for his visit, and, in reply, said he was more than pleased to have had an opportunity of, as it were, officially recognising the ringers.

The small amount of monthly business was quickly disposed of, and afterwards votes of thanks were accorded to all who had helped with the meeting, especially the Rector and Mrs. Long.

The Rector expressed the hope that the Guild would meet there next year in honour of 'the centenary.'

The company had the pleasure of hearing Mr. Slingsby speak for a few moments, during which he referred to his keen interest in 'The Ringing World,' the means by which he was able to see 'What you do and what you don't do!' This remark caused a good deal of laughter.

It is hoped that he will reach his 'century,' and, if so, the invitation to the celebration of the occasion will extend far beyond the Romney Marsh Guild.

THE LADIES' GUILD.

NORTHERN DISTRICT CONTRETEMPS.

A meeting of the Northern District of the Ladies' Guild was held at Handsworth, Sheffield, on Saturday, May 31st. Owing to confusion in the notices of the meeting, the date of which had been altered, it had been finally advertised in 'The Ringing World' as for June 27th; consequently there was but a poor attendance. This was unfortunate both for those who attended and those who had wished to attend.

Miss L. Kathleen Bowling, vice-president of the district, was among those who had no knowledge of the change of date, and regrets she was, therefore, not able to attend the meeting herself or advise the many friends who had promised to be present.

TWO DISTRICTS MEET AT READING.

The Southern District of the Ladies' Guild, in conjunction with the Central District, held a meeting at St. Mary's, Reading, on Saturday, June 6th. The bells were raised at 3 o'clock and ringing commenced with a course of Stedman Triples by seven ladies, with 'Henry VIII.' on the tenor. Later the ladies manned all the bells for Grandsire Triples and also for London Surprise. The sterner sex were given the chance of one or two touches 'on their own.'

The Guild service was conducted by the Vicar (Canon A. G. Parham), who extended a warm welcome to the Guild and gave a delightful address. Thirty-five ringers, 22 being ladies, sat down to tea in the Church House.

The Vicar looked in at tea, but regretted he was unable to accept an invitation to join the party.

Before the ringers dispersed to visit St. Laurence's belfry, Miss V. Robinson proposed a hearty vote of thanks to the Vicar, to Dr. Joyce for making arrangements, and to the organist and Mr. Dyke. The organist, Dr. Doughtrey, and Mr. Dyke deserved a special vote of thanks for composing between them the tune to the ringers' hymn just before the service.

The Southern District held a short business meeting, with Miss V. Robinson in the chair. Three new members were elected, viz., Miss D. Aslett (Frensham), Mrs. Rose Evans (Reading), and Mrs. Reeves, of Bradfield, rejoined.

It was proposed to hold the annual meeting at Seale on July 4th in conjunction with the Farnham District of the Guildford Guild.

Letters of apology for absence were received from Mrs. Bruce (vice-president), Mrs. Melville, Mrs. Steedman, Mrs. Whittington and Miss Reynolds.

The secretary was instructed to write to Mrs. Melville wishing her husband a speedy recovery from his accident.

The ladies then rejoined the rest at St. Laurence's and took part in rounds, Stedman Cinques and Treble Twelve.

The following towers were represented: Aldershot, Beaconsfield, Bradfield, Brockley, Bramley, Bucklebury, Burnham, Crookham, Dartford, Epsom, East Ham, Enfield, High Wycombe, Kensington, Norwich, Reading, St. Martin-in-the-Fields, Willesden, Wokingham and Chislehurst.

BELL BROADCASTS.

The subject of bell-broadcasts was discussed by the Central Council on the report of the Press and Broadcasting Committee. There were two points on which there was no disagreement expressed—that when bells are broadcast, only the best ringing should be sent over the air, and that, in many cases, the ringing that is heard is definitely bad and, from the viewpoint of the Exercise, likely to do more harm than good. As to the best method of assuring the one and remedying the other there was a diversity of opinion—as was to be expected—and, while suggestions were made, it is left to the Committee to endeavour to devise a way out if they can.

It will be generally agreed, as the President remarked, that no such indifferent exhibitions as are sometimes put up by ringers would be tolerated in any other kind of B.B.C. performance, and yet the public get rank bad ringing thrust upon them. The causes are various. When a broadcast is to take place from a church, those concerned, looking at it from a parochial point of view, want their own people to share the 'glory'—which perhaps is natural. But the trouble is, in the case of ringers, there are many local bands who are not capable of giving, in their ringing, anything like a proper performance and, what is more unfortunate, they do not themselves realise their own limitations and that they are incapable; neither does the incumbent. These broadcast services and the accompanying ringing are among the things of which there is no trial audition, so that the B.B.C., even supposing they knew what the ringing should be like, have no means of knowing what kind of performance to expect.

As to the remedy, the Committee are left with a difficult task if they are to find one which will provide fewer deplorable exhibitions and yet preserve unity in the belfries concerned. More than one speaker urged that interference, not merely from outside, but even from incumbent or captain, might break up a band. That is unquestionably so, and will be as long as ringers remain selfish and fail to accept the view that in the case of a broadcast the perfection of the ringing stands before their personal pride. Even interference through the county or diocesan associations would in such cases be resented, but, while everyone desires to see bell broadcasts retained, and even increased in number, as providing a characteristic English atmosphere as a preliminary to these services, it is not too much to say that, where the bands are incapable of good ringing, it would be better to have no broadcast of the bells at all. But who is to decide? It is a delicate problem. One poor ringer may spoil the efforts of the whole band. It looks as if improvement can only be effected in two ways, first by persuading the indifferent ringers that they should be prepared to stand down on such occasions in the interests of good ringing; and secondly by adopting the very sensible action of the ringers of Sheffield, and specially practising the touch to be rung. But what can be done with the band who do not know that their ringing is bad?

FOR BEGINNERS.

A STEP FORWARD FROM BOB MAJOR.

Many ringers who have reached the Bob Major stage turn to Double Norwich as the next step in their advancement. It is an excellent step to take, too; one of the reasons being that the place making of the method forms a good introduction to the place making in a very large group of more advanced methods, such as Cambridge and Superlative Surprise.

The places are made in front of and behind the treble as it passes through 3-4 and 5-6 up and 6-5 and 4-3 down.

When going up, the 4th's is made before the 3rd's (that is you go up to 4th's and stay a whole pull, and then step back for a whole pull in 3rd's) and the 6th's before the 5th's; coming down the 5th's is before the 6th's and the 3rd's before the 4th's—in each case you go to the farthest place first.

One effect of making the places when the treble is in each of these positions is that the place making bells all have a single dodge either before or after the place, and another effect is that, except when the treble intervenes, all the bells, both in front and behind, double dodge.

This double dodging is by some ringers known as 'first,' 'full' and 'last' work (either in front or behind). 'First' work is after your whole pull, when you take the treble off lead or turn it from behind; 'full' is when you have a double dodge both before and after leading or lying behind, and 'last' is when you dodge only before leading or before the treble turns you from behind.

The place making is known as 'near' and 'far,' according to whether you are nearer to or farther from the front or back, as the case may be. Places in 3-4 going up and in 5-6 coming down are, therefore, 'near' places, and in 5-6 going up and in 3-4 coming down are 'far' places. The single dodge attached to the place is always made after the 'near' place and before the 'far' place. This dodge is with a bell that makes no places at all and is called the 'Treble Bob bell,' because, as it passes up, it simply dodges in 3-4 and 5-6, or, as it comes down, in 6-5 and 4-3. This is the bell that takes the treble off at lead (or turns it from behind, for, remember, all the work is doubled and is the same from the back as from the front). At the end of its Treble Bob path, which, of course, begins and finishes with a double dodge, it is turned from behind (or taken off at lead) by the treble. It is also well to note that this bell also passes across the treble in 4-5 or 5-4, according to the direction in which it is travelling.

Another point about striking over the treble is worth remembering. The places are made across the treble, so that when you are making places going up your second blow in 4th's or 6th's is over the treble; when you are making places coming down your first blow in 4th's (having already made 3rd's) or 6th's (having already made 5th's) is over the treble.

In fact, the treble is of the greatest aid in ringing Double Norwich, and for that reason we agree with those who say that the treble should be rung by the safest ringer in the band. You can, of course, memorise the order of the work, without the aid of the treble, thus:—

After 'first work,' Treble Bob.

After 'last work,' make near places.

After 'full work,' make 'far' places.

You get these pieces of work alternately in front and behind. First work in front is followed by last behind; last behind by full in front; full in front by first behind; and so on. But with the treble for a guide, put it like this:—

Pass treble 1-2 (or 8-7, down), make near places.

Pass treble 2-3 (or 7-6), make far places.

If you do not pass the treble in either of these positions you are the Treble Bob bell. This way of putting it supplements the first and is especially useful, when you are beginning, if, when you leave front or back, you are not sure, for some reason or other, whether you have done 'first,' 'full' or 'last' work. Another helpful point is that both front and back the bells dodge in their proper coursing order.

Double Norwich differs from Bob Major in its bob making. Whereas in the latter the bob is made on the three front bells, the bob in Double Norwich is made by the three back bells.

The Treble Bob bell going up makes 6th's after dodging in 5-6 (up), then dodges in 6-5 (down) and becomes the Treble Bob bell down. The two bells behind continue to dodge until the treble comes up and separates them: the bell dodging down (passes treble 7-6) goes to far places (dodge 4-3, make 3rd's and 4th's) and the bell dodging up, being turned by the treble, that is, actually passing it in 8-7, goes to near places (5th's and 6th's, and dodging afterwards).

LINCOLN DIOCESAN GUILD.

MR. GEORGE LADD'S JUBILEE.

One of the stalwarts of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild, Mr. George Ladd, of Pinchbeck, hon. secretary of the Elloe Deaneries Branch, has reached his jubilee of membership, and the event was suitably celebrated when the branch met for a quarterly meeting at Pinchbeck on Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Ladd received gifts as a fitting memento of the auspicious occasion.

Despite the inclement weather, the meeting was well attended, ringers being present from Long Sutton, Holbeach, Whaplode, Fulney, Spalding, Deeping St. Nicholas, Surfleet, Gosberton, Donington, Bicker, Branston, Lincoln, Blankney, Rotherham, Oakham, Market Deeping and the local band.

Ringling commenced about 2.30 and service was attended by upwards of 60 ringers. An excellent address was given by the Vicar (who is also the president of the branch) on the subject of 'Worship.' An excellent tea was provided at the Bull Inn by Miss Orbell, 70 sitting down.

Afterwards the president of the branch (the Rev. E. C. Gee) made the presentations. That to the hon. secretary took the form of a grandmother clock, while Mrs. Ladd received a beautiful thumb handbag.

The inscription on the clock read as follows: 'Presented to Mr. George Ladd by the members of the Elloe Deaneries Branch of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild of Church Bellringers on the 50th anniversary of his election to the Guild, and in appreciation of his work as secretary during the last 26 years. June 13th, 1936.'

The president expressed great pleasure at making the presentation, as Mr. Ladd and himself were boys together, and because of the work Mr. Ladd had done for the church as a ringer and during the last 16 years as churchwarden.

The secretary, in thanking the members for their beautiful present, said that during the time he had been a member he had only missed two meetings and wondered if that was a record.

The meeting concluded with the usual votes of thanks to the Vicar and organist, and to Miss Orbell for providing such an excellent tea. Afterwards the bells were kept going in various methods up to 9 o'clock.

The following telegram was received during the evening: 'Grimsby District ringers assembled at Bigby send heartiest congratulations to Mr. Ladd and wish him many more active years with us.'

NEW BELLS AT TETSWORTH.

GENEROUS GIFT TO OXFORDSHIRE PARISH.

By the generosity of Mrs. A. E. Hutt, the ancient peal of six bells at Tetworth, Oxon, have been recast and rehung. The present church, described by an architect as 'a sound Victorian job,' was built in 1855. It replaces one, which, in part, was Norman and had a wooden belfry at the west end. This undoubtedly contained three bells in the reign of Edward VI., 1553, and there is a record of a bell which had the inscription, 'In Honor Sancti Egidii' (In Honour of St. Giles), upon it. Such inscriptions are very early and may go back to the 13th century. Three of the old bells, now replaced, were dated 1695, one 1702, one 1787 and the treble 1853. The earliest were cast by R. Keene, of Woodstock; the next by Richard Chandler, of Drayton Parslow, Bucks; the fifth by J. Rudhall, of Gloucester; and the treble by Charles Warner, of the Crescent Foundry, London.

The new bells and the old are about the same weight, 20 cwt. 22 lb., the lightest ringing peal, so far as could be traced, ever to have been cast in the Whitechapel Foundry and amazingly sweet in tone. All the old inscriptions have been reproduced, and a new one added, 'These bells were recast and rehung by Mrs. A. E. Hutt in memory of her husband, late churchwarden of Tetworth.' This by request of the Parochial Church Council. The date medallions from the old bells have been mounted on oak as a memento, and are now hanging in the church where people can see them.

Messrs. White, of Appleton, undertook the contract and carried it out exceedingly well. Messrs. Mears and Stainbank were the founders of the new bells.

Tetworth is indeed blessed in having such a wonderful and timely gift, for the old bells were greatly worn, one was cracked, and the timber of the frame crumbling, in places, to dust.

The dedication service took place on Saturday, May 30th, and was conducted by the Rev. W. H. Henderson, Rural Dean, in place of Bishop Shaw, who was detained by illness. The Rev. S. J. Nightingale (Vicar) took the prayers, the lessons were read by the Vicar of Thame and the Rector of Chinnor, and a very helpful address was given by the Rev. C. E. Wigg, Deputy Master of the Oxford Diocesan Guild. Many other local clergy were present and also the donor of the bells, Mrs. A. E. Hutt, and her son, Mr. J. Hutt. The large village church was crowded with ringers from all parts and local friends.

After the service Mrs. Hutt entertained nearly two hundred guests to tea, prepared by Churchwarden Eccles, in the Old School, and skilled change ringers from many towers delighted listeners with touches which had not been heard for close on a century in this steeple. However, the parish now has a band of keen young ringers who promise well for the future.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD.DORCHESTER BRANCH MID-WEEK MEETING.

A mid-week meeting of the Dorchester Branch, which proved most enjoyable, was held at Abbotsbury on Thursday of last week. The weather was all that could be desired, and 'fleming June' lived up to its reputation.

The bells were raised about 3 o'clock and practice with a few learners in method ringing was encouraged. The Guild office was conducted by the Ven. Archdeacon W. S. Moule, and an excellent address was given by the Rev. G. H. Moule, who had just returned, after many years, from Japan. He said it was appropriate that the gathering should be held on St. Barnabas' Day. The saint was a man of brightness and cheerfulness, and their bellringing, he said, brought brightness and cheerfulness.

Following the service the members adjourned to the Reading Room, where a bountiful tea, arranged and provided by lady members of the Church Council, was enjoyed. Forty-eight members and friends sat down including Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Bird, welcome visitors from Heston, Middlesex.

A short business meeting was presided over by the chairman (the Rev. A. W. Markby), and the secretary reported that the next meeting would be held in August at West Lulworth.

Four new members were elected, and Mr. C. S. Bird was elected a life member.

The Chairman gave the visitors present a hearty welcome, and proposed the usual vote of thanks, which was carried with acclamation.—The Ven. Archdeacon Moule replied.

The secretary gave a short resume of the meeting of the Central Council, which he attended, on Whit Tuesday.

The belfry was again visited, the bells being available until 9 p.m. The Tropical Gardens—the great attraction which this noted village affords—were open to the visitors. The following towers were represented at the meeting: Abbotsbury, Dorchester, Fordington, Sydling, Upwey, Wool and Wyke Regis.

MUFFLED BELLS.

At Tempsford, Beds, on Saturday, May 30th, a quarter-peal of Doubles (480 St. Simon's, 300 Grandsire, 480 Bob Doubles): H. E. Harding 1, T. Bartram 2, R. Houghton 3, E. Wagstaffe 4, C. H. Harding (conductor) 5, B. F. Sims 6. Rung half-muffled as a token of respect to the late Canon Williamson, for over 30 years Rector of this parish, whose funeral took place earlier in the afternoon.

HENRY JOHNSON'S SON.DEATH OF MR. JOSEPH JOHNSON.

Mr. Joseph Johnson (youngest and last surviving son of the late Henry Johnson) died from bronchial pneumonia at Selly Oak Hospital, Birmingham, on Monday, June 8th, in his 80th year.

Mr. Joseph Johnson, who was a member of St. Martin's Guild for many years, was not so well known as a ringer as was his famous father, or his brother Henry ('young Harry'), who was an exceptionally fine heavy bell ringer attached to St. Martin's. He, however, was a service ringer for many years at Edgbaston Parish Church when the tower only contained six bells. He also rang the tenor behind to two eight-bell peals, and was a regular attendant at the various meetings of the Guild. Until this year he regularly attended the annual Henry Johnson Commemoration Dinner, where he was a familiar figure. Mr. Johnson married twice. His first wife died in March, 1920, and his second wife about two years ago.

The funeral service, conducted by the Rev. Canon Dunne, Vicar of King's Norton, took place on Friday at Brandwood End Cemetery, the chief mourners being his daughter and three sons. St. Martin's Guild sent a wreath and was represented at the cemetery by Messrs. W. Dowding, H. Withers and A. Walker.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

A successful meeting of the Sonning Deanery Branch of the Oxford Diocesan Guild was held at Wargrave on Saturday, June 6th. Service was conducted by the Vicar (Canon S. M. Winter), who gave a most interesting address based on the opening words of Psalm 122. He spoke of the number of people who visited our Parish Churches and found much to interest them, and dwelt especially on many points of interest in his own church, mentioning amongst other things the chalk font made from chalk taken from a pit in the parish. The Vicar concluded by saying that ringers visited churches for another purpose, which was to ring the bells to remind people of their duty to God.

About 30 ringers partook of tea kindly provided by Canon Winter, who was heartily thanked by Canon Coleridge, who also gave a brief and interesting account of the Central Council meeting in London.

It was encouraging to see many young ringers present, most of whom rang for the first time on eight bells. The methods on this fine ring during the afternoon and evening included Kent and Oxford Treble Bob, Plain Bob, Stedman and Grandsire, Cambridge Minor and rounds. The towers represented were Wokingham, Sandhurst, Hurst, Sonning, Twyford, Wargrave, Waltham St. Lawrence, Finchampstead, Sunbury, Middlesex; Wooburn, Bucks; Caversham; St. Laurence, Reading; and Nettlebed. The visitors included Mr. A. Patrick Cannon, from Kent.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

Another peal in four Spliced Surprise methods on handbells by the Oxhey band! On Wednesday of last week Messrs. Hodgkiss, Woolley, Cashmore and Brinklow 'did it again.' Two such performances in so short a time shows that they have mastered the job. What next, we wonder?

In connection with the Ladies' Guild meeting at Handsworth, Sheffield, to which we referred last week, we are asked by the hon. secretary, Mrs. E. Dorice Kelly, to say that every member of the district, including the vice-president, was informed of the changed date a fortnight before the meeting took place.

The peal at St. Peter Mancroft last week was arranged for the conductor (Mr. Pat. Cannon) by Messrs. B. Thompson and N. Golden, and those on the two succeeding days at Redenhall and Pulham by Mr. E. Whiting. Mr. Cannon wishes to acknowledge the kindness of these gentlemen and the bands who rang with him.

Messrs. John Taylor and Co., Loughborough, are to make a new ring of six bells for Lansallos Church, near Looe, Cornwall. Lansallos tower is a particularly fine one, and it is gratifying to know that a good peal is now to supersede the one cracked bell which the tower hitherto has contained.

Sunday next is the 26th anniversary of the dedication of Truro Cathedral bells. At the dedication Grandsire and Stedman Caters, Bob Royal and Kent Treble Bob Royal were the methods rung. To date peals in these methods have been rung on the bells with the exception of Bob Royal. It is to be hoped the anniversary will be suitably remembered.

At this time one calls to mind the peal of Cambridge Royal of September, 1934, when the late Mr. William Pye rang the tenor. Although a sick man, it was done faultlessly. It proved to be his last ten-bell peal.

A determined effort is being made to complete the octave by adding two bells to the present ring of six at Stoke Poges. Extra practices are being arranged, the first is on June 20th at 6 p.m., in the hope of interesting the large number of visitors to this church during the summer months.

The ringer of the 7th in the peal of Bob Royal at Cudham, Kent, on May 30th, was Frank Corby.

ASSOCIATION EXCLUDES PEAL.

Mr. R. G. Black, hon. secretary of the Peterborough Diocesan Guild, asks us to call the attention of the Peal Analysis Committee of the Central Council to the fact that the peal of Doubles rung at Whiston, Northants, on April 11th, 1936, for the Peterborough Diocesan Guild, is not included in their records, one of the ringers not being a member.

ACCIDENT TO GUILDFORD RINGER.

Mr. William R. Melville, a member of the band at the Cathedral, Guildford, met with a somewhat serious accident at Winchester on Whitsun Tuesday. He was on the point of catching a bus to return home to Guildford when he stepped off the pavement and was knocked down by a motor-car. His head was injured, his right arm so badly lacerated that numerous stitches had to be inserted, and one leg was damaged. He was conveyed to Winchester Hospital, where, we are pleased to say, he is making good progress towards recovery.

Mr. Melville has taken an active part in the affairs of the Guildford Diocesan Guild, and served for some years as Ringing Master of the Guildford District. Mrs. Melville is also a member of the Cathedral band, and their daughter (Mrs. C. H. Kippin) is among the most expert of lady ringers.

CHARLES CHURCH BELLS, PLYMOUTH.

The ring of ten bells, with a 24 cwt. tenor, at Charles Church, Plymouth, has not been in use for three years. Ringers of the district will, therefore, be interested to know that the bells are to be rehung and No. 8 bell recast by Gillett and Johnston.

PRESENTATION TO LAMBERHURST LEADER.

On Thursday evening of last week, after practice, the ringers of St. Mary's Church, Lamberhurst, made a presentation to Mr. A. Relfe in recognition of his services as leader of the band during the last ten years. In making the presentation, the ringers expressed the hope that he would lead them for many years to come. Mr. Relfe thanked the ringers for their gift and said that they had already repaid him for what little he had done by their regular attendance for Sunday service ringing. The bells are rung for matins and evening-song every Sunday. The gift was a copy of 'Legends of the Bells,' by Mr. E. Morris, and is inscribed, 'Presented to A. Relfe by the ringers of St. Mary's, Lamberhurst, in recognition of your services as leader and conductor during the last ten years. June, 1936.'

THE SPLICED SURPRISE HANDBELL PEAL.

To the Editor.

Sir,—The members of the Preston Branch of the Lancashire Association desire through your columns heartily to congratulate the Oxhey handbell ringers on their magnificent performance.

THE BROADCASTING OF BELLS.

CRITICISMS AT THE CENTRAL COUNCIL MEETING.

Better Ringing Wanted.

Some outspoken criticisms of recent broadcasts of bells were made in the course of an interesting discussion at the Central Council meeting. It arose on the report of the Literature, Press and Broadcasting Committee.

On the subject of broadcasting the report said: Broadcasts of bells have been commendably frequent, chiefly before evening services, with the welcome addition of well-struck Stedman Triples from Croydon Parish Church on a few Sunday mornings. On some of these occasions the transmission of the bells has been deplorably curtailed or interrupted—two particularly regrettable instances were the fading out of a fine touch of Stedman Caters at Bristol, in which several members of the Council were taking part, and Croydon bells being heard one Sunday for only 35 seconds—but a number of protests were seriously considered by the B.B.C., and a great improvement has been effected.

A highly gratifying feature has appeared in a series of broadcasts entitled 'The Ringing Isle.' Bells of various churches in the North have been broadcast on Sundays at 5.15 p.m., and a record taken of the ringing and reproduced on Monday evening. These broadcasts would serve their purpose better if they were arranged in consultation with responsible officers of the county or diocesan association concerned, so that towers might be selected not only for local or historical interest, but also with a view to a high standard of change ringing. The performances on these occasions have been, to say the least, uneven, but it is satisfactory to record that the latest example, Grandsire Caters well rung on the magnificent bells of Selby Abbey, was entirely admirable.

An intensely interesting broadcast was given from the Municipal Belfry at Berwick-on-Tweed on New Year's Eve, and the midnight ringing from London towers was most effective. In the broadcast of his late Majesty's funeral, the solemn tolling of Big Ben and the muffled peals from Westminster Abbey 'with measured beat and slow' were profoundly impressive.

The bells of St. Peter Mancroft were included in a talk to schools on East Anglia, but the record was not satisfactory, and protests from the Norwich Association and the Church authorities evoked an apology from the B.B.C.

Amongst notable performances for the purpose of broadcasting may be mentioned a touch of Major at Portsea, and touches of Caters at St. Mary Redcliffe, Bristol, and Cinques at St. Laurence's, Reading.

The Bells of Bethlehem were again heard in the memorable Empire broadcast on Christmas Day. Another familiar feature has appeared in a new guise. A new record of Bow Bells was transmitted one evening in the 'Saturday Magazine.' It remains to be seen whether it will prove such a favourite as that of the old ten bells.

The Rev. F. L. Edwards, in moving the adoption of the report and referring to the broadcasting section, said apart from the beautiful broadcasts of muffled bells at the late King's funeral, there were two matters of exceptional interest, one being the broadcast from the Municipal Belfry at Berwick-on-Tweed on New Year's Eve, and the other the series of broadcasts on Sunday evenings under the heading of 'The Ringing Isle.' The quality of the ringing in the latter was referred to in the report, although not so bluntly as the president would probably have put it (laughter). But the intention of the B.B.C. was admirable.

'SIMPLY AWFUL.'

Mr. A. P. Smith, in seconding, said he thought it was time somebody like the president did speak bluntly with regard to the quality of the ringing in some of the broadcasts. Much of the ringing put over was simply awful. They had heard ringing where the ringers could not even ring rounds. Instead of doing any good to the ringing Exercise, it definitely did harm. Whether that Council could do anything he did not know, but he suggested that if it could be done, associations, or church authorities, or captains of bands, should be prevailed upon to pick the best ringers available for the job, and not, if they were not competent, men who ordinarily rang at the tower.

Mr. G. R. Newton, referring to a broadcast from a Lancashire tower, said he offered to get a band so that they could have good change ringing, but the local ringers decided that their own company should ring rounds and call changes rather than let an outside band come in to broadcast. That was all right, if they got good rounds and call changes, but it was not what members of the Exercise set out in the early days to do. Their idea was to put across good change ringing and let the public know what good change ringing really was. He was not decrying good rounds and call changes—one of the best broadcasts he ever heard was from Buckfast Abbey about 1925, when rounds and call changes were rung with mechanical precision. The point he wanted to make, however, was that on every possible occasion they should have a good touch of change ringing, and not encourage the ringing of rounds or even call changes (hear, hear).

The Rev. H. Drake suggested that representations should be made to the B.B.C. that they should have some person on their staff or have an honorary adviser competent to tell them something of what was necessary for ringing, so that the B.B.C. should not make mistakes in the future.

Canon Marshall said the secretary of the Yorkshire Association had received a letter from the B.B.C. asking him to suggest towers where good ringing took place. He did not know whether other secretaries had received any such letter.

POOR BROADCASTS FROM LANCASHIRE.

The President said it was a good thing to have the subject ventilated, particularly as to the quality of the ringing that was broadcast. He thought they could leave it to the committee to go on trying to get into touch with the B.B.C. He doubted whether such a course as suggested by Mr. Drake would be acceptable to the B.B.C. He thought it would be far better if the B.B.C. wrote to the associations in the way Canon Marshall had mentioned. He did not know whether that letter had anything to do with the fact that the four Yorkshire broadcasts had seemed to be so much better than the Lancashire broadcasts. He heard two of the latter, and he said to his family that he would be ashamed to make such a noise on practice night with his beginners. The playing of any other instrument in such a manner would not be tolerated for a single instant. When it was put out as change ringing it did a tremendous lot of harm.

Mr. A. P. Smith: It is a disgrace to the Exercise.

The President said the trouble was how to bring it home to ringers. Evidently there were parts of the country where ringers did not know what good striking was. They did not seem to have heard bells rung with rhythm, or to make any attempt to attain it. How to remedy this state of thing he did not know, except that they must go on trying to be missionaries to get better striking. It applied not only to Lancashire, but to many other parts of the country. It was one of the most serious things they, as a Council, had to tackle.

Mr. E. P. Duffield asked if the committee had considered the advisability of sending a letter to all the associations suggesting they should try to impress on their members the necessity of providing competent bands when bell broadcasts were to be given.

The Rev. F. L. Edwards said one of the chief difficulties in that matter was the feeling of the local clergy and ringers. Many of the parochial clergy took the view that, when a broadcast was given, their own men should give it, and in the great majority of cases the local clergy did not understand what good ringing was. There was also the feeling among the local ringers.

Mr. A. P. Smith: That is exactly the case, and I am glad to hear Mr. Edwards, as a parson, admit it. All this trouble is due to the cussedness of the parson. It only requires the Vicar to say, 'My own ringers are not good enough. I hear them every Sunday, and I am not going to allow such rubbish to be broadcast.' The incumbent should say to the captain, 'Choose a good band; we will have the best ringing it is possible to get from this tower next Sunday night.' That is what you want to tell your brother parsons.

SOME OF THE DIFFICULTIES.

Mr. J. Parker said that in many towers the ringers did not know that they did not ring as well as other people, and if the Vicar told them a special band was to be brought in for a broadcast, they would turn round and say, 'Get them to come every other Sunday,' and finish.

Mr. A. E. Sharman said he belonged to a band who rang for Sunday services a hundred times a year. He personally would not object to asking a band to come and broadcast, but it seemed to him if they were to turn round and say to their regular ringers, 'We do not want you on Sunday when we broadcast,' they would not get a band on the following Sunday. They had to be very tactful when they had a voluntary band.

Mr. S. H. Wood said he had heard no suggestion that any competent band should seek outside assistance. The point was that ringers who were not competent to ring properly should get outside help. There were a lot of local ringers, not very good ringers, who would rather make a bit of a noise, even though it was being broadcast, than call in outside assistance. It would be much better if they would take the wider view. It was very important to the whole Exercise that only the best ringing should go over the air.

Mr. P. J. Johnson said there seemed to be a great deal of haphazard method in the way the B.B.C. had been choosing the places from which to broadcast. He thought a way out of the difficulty would be to suggest to the B.B.C. that they approach the county or diocesan associations and ask their advice as to the bands in their districts which would be best for their purpose. Unfortunately, there were some individuals in bands who would insist on ringing, although it was known they were the very last persons who should be included if they wanted decent ringing. These broadcasts were arranged long before they took place, and it would be better if the responsible associations were consulted as to the qualifications of the ringers to broadcast. The only other alternative seemed to him to be for the B.B.C. to hold auditions at Broadcasting House. They would be 'fed up' more than the public (laughter).

Mr. G. Pullinger pointed out that a church was not chosen for the bell broadcast, but because it was a popular church and had a popular parson. It did not follow that the latter had a good team of bell-ringers.

Major Hesse said on the occasion of a broadcast to America from his own church (Haslemere) he chose two outsiders because he felt he could not include two of his own band. The two who were omitted had had 'the hump' ever since. That sort of thing broke up a band.

Mr. S. F. Palmer said at his own tower (Sheffield Cathedral), when they were asked to provide a broadcast, they immediately set themselves to practise specially for it on every available occasion. The broadcast was to consist of a course of Stedman Cinques, and he was proud to say they put a perfect course over the air. In the same way another church in Sheffield with eight bells a few weeks after followed this course and put some excellent change ringing over the air. In his opinion, if ringers at other churches would get in some special practice for the broadcast, the results would be better.

SUGGESTED APPROACH TO THE B.B.C.

Mr. F. W. Rogers suggested that the secretary of the Council might get into touch with the B.B.C. and get the programme of the proposed bell broadcasts for the next twelve months. He believed this would be available, because in the case of his church (Portsea) they had already been asked to broadcast next Palm Sunday. If the secretary got a list of these broadcasts and communicated with each guild or association, the secretaries of the latter, where they knew there was no competent change ringing band, could arrange for such a band to be formed.

Mr. A. Walker thought it would strengthen the hands of the committee if the approach to the B.B.C. were made by the committee. He could not say that it was always best to put over change ringing. If a band could not ring changes properly they could not put it over. It should be left to the ringers to decide; if they could ring rounds best, let them ring rounds. The ringing was put over not for the benefit of ringers, but for the general public, who were the people to be considered.

Mr. Duffield supported the suggestion of Mr. Rogers. He thought it would be possible to get advance information from the B.B.C., if they represented to the Corporation that their only desire was to take steps to secure better broadcasts, and then to approach the incumbents and say they hoped, if there was not a competent local band, that they would invite assistance from some ringing authority in their vicinity. It would, at any rate, diminish the number of very indifferent broadcasts.

The President said the whole thing required doing with a great deal of tact; there were all sorts of snags. He thought they could leave it to the committee, who had heard the various suggestions, including the suggestion about getting the list of broadcasts beforehand and then trying to influence the local incumbents or the local bands to put something good across.

This course was accepted and the report adopted.

THE LANCASHIRE VACANCY.

To the Editor.

Sir,—With reference to the report of the Central Council meeting in the last issue of 'The Ringing World,' the Lancashire Association is tabled as having left a vacancy on the Council.

This vacancy was caused by the lamented death of our president, and the officers and committee felt that, for this year, this vacancy should remain as a token of respect to Canon Elsee's memory.

I can assure the Council, through you, that the Lancashire Association will endeavour loyally to fulfil its obligations to the Council.

CONGRATULATIONS TO PUDSEY.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—We must congratulate and thank both the B.B.C. and the Pudsey ringers for the fine performance given to us from the North Regional on Sunday. Apart from the slight hitch, the tapping was excellent, and it was a treat to follow a course of Surprise Major from start to finish.

AS IT SHOULD BE.

Dear Sir,—I have just been able to enjoy some excellent ringing from Pudsey. Apart from three or four false blows about half-way through and two more near the end, it was as broadcast ringing should be.

In these Northern programmes I have heard Wigan and Worsley as well, and, judging from results, it has been proved that a ring of eight suits ringer and listener far better than ten. Non-ringers with me appreciated this ringing of Major from Pudsey, which was definitely good. It made me want to be there.

THE CENTRAL COUNCIL.

THE TREASURER'S OBSTINACY.

As hon. treasurer, Mr. Fletcher formally presented to the Central Council the audited accounts, details of which were given in our issue of June 5th.

Mr. A. A. Hughes (auditor) proposed the adoption of the accounts. He had only one criticism, and that was that the hon. treasurer had not charged the Council as much as he should have done on certain items of stationery and printing; he was far too generous to the Council. He (Mr. Hughes) thought the Council should have paid, but Mr. Fletcher was very obstinate (laughter). He could do nothing with him; he did not know if the Council could.

The President: Do you propose a resolution that the hon. treasurer be less obstinate? (laughter).

Mr. Hughes said the things which Mr. Fletcher had bought were of immense advantage to the Council. They remained the property of Mr. Fletcher for the use of the Council. They ought to be very much indebted to him for the way in which he treated the Council (applause).

Mr. Coles (auditor) seconded the accounts, which were adopted.

NEW DEMONSTRATOR FOR RINGING MACHINE.

In a report on the Carter Ringing Machine in the South Kensington Science Museum, Mr. E. A. Young, one of the trustees, said on May 22nd an official inspection was carried out. A defect or catch-up in the mechanism was discovered, but before it could be located, closing time arrived and they had to leave. Mr. Sharman (the demonstrator) would attend at an early date and rectify the defect, and the payment to him of the fee of one guinea was recommended. Mr. A. G. Driver had attended three times to have the machine explained to him. The trustees thought Mr. Driver would make a good assistant demonstrator and recommended him for appointment.

Mr. Young said they had to fill the post vacant by the death of Mr. Fardon, and, after seeing Mr. Driver, they thought he would be a suitable person to appoint. His knowledge of the science of ringing was far beyond that of the average ringer, and he had in addition a flair for machines. He had a number of inventions of his own, and he developed ideas some years ago for producing changes by machinery. In connection with these ideas he got into touch with Mr. Woodhouse. They thought Mr. Driver could safely be appointed to fill Mr. Fardon's place. Mr. Young expressed regret that through the defect which was discovered, the machine could not be demonstrated on the previous day.

Mr. Hughes (the other trustee) seconded, and the report and recommendations were adopted.

The President said they regretted that Mr. Woodhouse had not been able to bring his machine to show the Council on that occasion as he had hoped. He did not feel equal to driving to London with his machine, and did not like to send it by train, as already one sent by train had unfortunately been smashed up.

Mr. Hughes said Mr. Driver had had a lot to do with Mr. Woodhouse's machine, and understood it almost as much as Mr. Woodhouse himself.

THE STANDING COMMITTEE.

The report of the Standing Committee was a purely formal one, stating that the agenda had been considered and recommendations had been or would be made to the Council in the course of the meeting.

The President, in formally proposing the adoption of the report, said he wanted to take the opportunity of saying something about the Standing Committee. He believed there was a feeling among one or two of the members that the business of the Council was largely 'cut and dried' by the Standing Committee the day before and that the average member came there and voted 'yes' or 'no.' That was not at all the intention or the fact. If they did not have a Standing Committee they would have to have at least two days for their meeting. The object of the Standing Committee was to go through the business first, and when they made recommendations they made them because they thought they would shorten the business. It was just to give the Council a lead for discussion, but he hoped no member would think that because the Standing Committee made a recommendation they were not to get up and make a suggestion if they had something else which was better. He wanted to get rid of the impression that the Standing Committee tried to rule the Council. It did not try to do that at all; it tried to shorten the business by going through it and getting it into order beforehand.

EX-OFFICIO MEMBERS OF THE COMMITTEE.

On the question of the election of the Standing Committee, the President pointed out that in 1933 the number of elected members was fixed by resolution at 12, with the officers and conveners of committees ex-officio. This time under the new rules they had two more officers, the auditors. Formerly the auditors were appointed by the Standing Committee from the Standing Committee at their meeting, and they audited the accounts then and there. They had changed that arrangement under the new rules, and the auditors were appointed officially by the Council for three years. The question arose whether the auditors were to be treated in the same class as the other officials and become ex-officio members of the Standing Committee. It was thought it would be a good thing if they were so treated.

Mr. A. P. Smith proposed that the auditors be regarded as ex-officio members. They were very important officials and should be present at the meetings of the Standing Committee when matters of finance were discussed. Mr. Smith added that he would like to make another suggestion and that was that such old servants of the Council as Canon Coleridge, ex-president, and Mr. E. A. Young, ex-secretary, should also be regarded as ex-officio members of the Standing Committee. It did not seem right to him, he said, that after so many years of excellent service they should have to run the risk of re-election. He moved that, in addition to the auditors, the ex-secretaries and ex-presidents of the Council be regarded as ex-officio members of the Standing Committee.

Mr. E. Denison Taylor seconded. He thought they would agree that it was absolutely necessary for the good conduct of the business of the Council that the auditors should be on this committee.

Replying to questions, the President said the actual rules of the Council merely provided for the appointment of a Standing Committee. The idea behind this resolution was that only ex-presidents and ex-secretaries who were still members of the Council should be ex-officio members of the committee. They were now merely appointing the Standing Committee for the next three years, but it would form a good precedent for the future.

The proposal was agreed to, and, on the suggestion of the president, the election of the Standing Committee was left over until the rest of the committees had been appointed in order that the Council might know who the conveners (also ex-officio members of the committee) were to be.

PEAL COLLECTION COMMITTEE.

The adoption of the report of the Peal Collection Committee, which appeared in our issue of May 29th, was moved by Mr. G. Lindoff, seconded by Mr. C. R. Newton, and agreed to.

Mrs. Fletcher resigned her seat on the committee, and Mr. T. B. Worsley was elected to fill the vacancy. The remainder of the committee, viz., the Revs. E. S. Powell and H. S. T. Richardson, Messrs. G. Lindoff, G. R. Newton, G. R. Pye, C. W. Roberts and J. A. Trollope, were re-elected, with Mr. Lindoff as convener.

PRINTING OF SURPRISE METHODS DEFERRED

The adoption of the report of the Methods Committee, also published in 'The Ringing World' of May 29th, was moved by Mr. J. A. Trollope and seconded by Mr. S. H. Wood.

The President said the MS. of the book on Surprise Major methods had been handed to the hon. secretary. The Standing Committee had taken into consideration the question of publication, with a view to formulating a policy. The cost of printing the book, to keep its price down to about 3s., would involve an expenditure of between £80 and £100, which the Council could not stand at the moment without selling some of their securities, an action which the Standing Committee did not think wise. The committee came to the conclusion that it would be better to hold the book over for the present, so that it would be available for members to look through it, and then try to form some opinion as to the demand there was likely to be for the book. If it were thought there would be such a reasonable demand as would justify printing, they could then get into touch with the Standing Committee and possibly get the book out before the next Council meeting, after getting final estimates. The committee recommended that the book be not immediately published, but that it be left to the officials to go further into the question, and, if necessary, get authority from the Standing Committee to print or otherwise bring it up again next year.

This course was agreed to and the report adopted.

On the motion of Mr. E. J. Butler, seconded by Mr. W. Ayre, the committee, consisting of Messrs. J. A. Trollope, S. H. Wood and E. C. S. Turner, were reappointed, with Mr. J. A. Trollope as convener.

A 'PEAL' DELETED FROM ANALYSIS.

Mrs. Fletcher moved the adoption of the report of the Peals Analysis and Records Committee, which was printed in 'The Ringing World,' with the tables of analysis, on May 22nd. Since the report was prepared, Mrs. Fletcher said, the figures of the record peal of Stedman Cinques at Southwark had been found to be false, and the peal had been withdrawn. A note would be made of this in the Council's records.

Mr. G. R. Pye seconded the adoption of the report.

Mr. J. S. Goldsmith moved that the peal of Minor rung at Wistaston for the Chester Guild on July 13th, 1935, be deleted from the Council's records. The peal, he said, contained three 480's of Little Bob and did not conform to any decision of the Council regarding a peal of Minor. It did not contain seven true 720's.

Mr. C. T. Coles, in seconding, said the onus of looking after the accuracy of peals was on the associations themselves. They should watch and see that all peals conformed to the decisions of the Council. It was the only way the Peals Analysis Committee and the Editor of 'The Ringing World' could be protected.

The Analysis Committee accepted the amendment to the report, which was then adopted.

Mr. Goldsmith then moved that it be an instruction to the committee not to include in the statistical tables any peal which was contrary to the decisions of the Council, but to draw attention to it in their report for decision by the Council.

Mr. G. L. Grover, who seconded, said the peal at Wistaston was not included in the report without due consideration. The committee put it in and called attention to it so that the matter might be raised before the Council.

Mr. E. P. Duffield asked whether, the Guild having already agreed to accept the decisions of the Council, such a motion was necessary? It seemed to him associations had already agreed not to accept such peals.

Mrs. Fletcher said the Chester Guild had not had an opportunity of considering the matter, as their annual meeting was to be held on the following Saturday. The Guild had not had a chance to discuss it before the committee published their report.

Mr. Pulling inquired whether this motion covered such things as Bob Triples and other methods which the Council had said should not be rung.

The President said the Council recognised such a thing as Bob Triples, but did not recommend it. It was only reasonable that all those societies who had agreed to abide by the Council's decisions should see that their peals were in conformity with them. The Council was not legislating for the past but for the future.

Mr. Rogers: Does it mean that the Chester Guild must withdraw that peal?

The President: Yes, that is the normal course.

The motion was carried and the committee re-elected as follows: Mrs. E. K. Fletcher (convener), Messrs. C. Dean, G. L. Grover and G. R. Pye.

THE PRESS AND RINGING.

The report of the Literature, Press and Broadcasting Committee reviewed at some length the notice given to ringing in the Press of the country, remarking that a review of the past twelve months revealed a marked advance in the attention paid to the subject of bells and bellringing. Quotations from various articles were given, including pertinent extracts from the views of Mr. Filson Young in 'The Radio Times.' To these articles by Filson Young, continued the report, enthusiastic tribute was paid in a subsequent issue of 'Radio Times' by no less an authority in the musical world than Sir Richard Terry. Asking 'What has happened to Christmas?' Sir Richard deplored the passing of many old customs, and proceeded to say, 'Another old custom that seems to have gone to the wall is the Christmas peal,' and there followed from his pen a powerful plea for the maintenance of 'the art and craft of change ringing.' 'In these days of stressed nationalism,' he wrote, 'it ought surely to be no difficult matter to keep alive a craft that is not only exclusively English, but in itself a most fascinating study and a most healthy recreation.'

Amongst numerous references in the daily Press generally to bells and the art of ringing, it is of interest to note a spell of correspondence in the 'Times,' initiated by Sir Evelyn Wrench, on 'The Melody of Bells.' Well-informed articles and letters have appeared in the 'Norwich Diocesan Gazette' on 'Bells and Bellringing.' Concluding a discussion on the 'nuisance' of bells, the 'Birmingham Gazette' summed up the situation in the terse sentence, 'One a trial, but many music.'

The report further added that during the period under review Mr. E. Morris' fascinating work, 'Legends of the Bells,' with a wealth of delightful illustrations, has been published by Sampson Low, Marston and Co. The story of the famous ringing tour in Australia and New Zealand, with a history of ringing in Australia, was published in book form under the title of 'A Great Adventure.' The ringers' own journal, 'The Ringing World,' has celebrated its silver jubilee, and the Editor has received innumerable messages of congratulation, in which his colleagues on this committee heartily join.

After the discussion on Broadcasting, separately reported, the report was adopted.

The committee were then re-elected, viz.: The Rev. F. Ll. Edwards (convener), Messrs. J. S. Goldsmith, A. Padden Smith and A. Walker.

SUSSEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

A meeting of the Northern Division of the Sussex County Association was held at Turners Hill on Saturday. About 30 members were present from Balcombe, Brighton (St. Nicholas'), Crawley, East Grinstead, Lindfield, Turners Hill and Shoreham, with non-resident members from London, Reigate, Horley, Merstham, Beckenham and Carshalton. A short service was conducted by the new Vicar, the Rev. Canon Martley.

Tea at the Crown Inn was followed by the business meeting, with Mr. Walter Charman in the chair. The chairman apologised for the absence of the Vicar at tea, owing to his having only that afternoon moved into the Vicarage.

Six new members were elected. Mr. J. Manley raised the question of the provision by the association of a form of service to be used at the meetings.

The secretary announced the date July 18th for the dedication of the new tower and bells at Fairwarp.

The business concluded with votes of thanks to the Vicar for the bells and service, to the organist, to Mr. W. Charman for presiding, and to Mr. J. Manley for providing the tea.

Further ringing took place until 8 p.m., when the bells were lowered in peal, the methods rung being Grandsire, Stedman, Bob Major, Double Norwich, Superlative, Cambridge, London and Bristol.

GUILDFORD DIOCESAN GUILD LEATHERHEAD DISTRICT AND CAPEL BELLS.

An enjoyable meeting of the Leatherhead District was held at Ockley on Saturday, about 20 ringers attending from Buckland, Capel, Charlwood, Cobham, Dorking, Epsom, Leatherhead, Newdigate and the local band. The Rector (the Rev. H. C. Martin) conducted the Guild's service and gave a short, helpful address.

A bountiful tea was served at the King's Arms, presided over by the Rector, who also took the chair for the short business meeting which followed. Two of the local band were made ringing members and one of the visitors a compounding member.

The next meeting, due to be held at Rammore on July 25th, was next discussed on a letter from the secretary of the North-West District of the Surrey Association, who stated that the Cumberland Youths were to hold a meeting at Beddington on that date, which would probably affect the attendance. He suggested that, subject to it being agreeable to the Cumberlands, Beddington be made the joint meeting place for the Surrey Association and the Guildford Guild.—This was agreed to.

The apathy with which the Capel authorities seemed to be regarding their bell restoration was discussed, and the Rev. H. C. Martin expressed his willingness to approach the Vicar of Capel on the subject to see if a move could not be made in the matter.

A very hearty vote of thanks to the Rector concluded the business, and the tower was again visited for ringing, the six bells being made full use of, in rounds and methods ranging to a course of London Surprise, until they were lowered in peal (local surprise) at 9 o'clock.

DUDLEY AND DISTRICT GUILD.

SUCCESSFUL MEETING AT NETHERTON.

On Saturday, June 6th, at the cordial invitation of the Rev. E. L. Warren, the quarterly meeting of the Dudley and District Guild was held at Netherton, the weather being all that could be desired. The bells were placed at the disposal of the visitors from 3 o'clock, and the Guild service was held in St. Andrew's Church, conducted by the Rev. Frank Carr. The lesson was read by the Vicar of Netherton, and the Rev. B. H. Green (Vicar of St. John's, Dudley) gave a very interesting address. After service an excellent tea was in readiness at the Church House, to which upwards of 70 members sat down.

At the business meeting the Vicar presided, supported by Mr. F. W. Jordan (churchwarden), Mr. J. Goodman, jun., and the hon. secretary (Mr. H. Sheppard).

The Chairman, on behalf of himself, the churchwardens and the Parochial Church Council, gave the members a hearty welcome to Netherton.

The following new members were duly elected, having been previously proposed in the belfry before commencing a peal, viz., Mr. C. Wallater and Mr. W. H. Webb, Halesowen, performing members. Messrs. B. D. Poole, W. A. Farmer and A. Pritchard were elected life members.

It was arranged that the quarterly peal should be attempted at Netherton, the details being left with Mr. C. Skidmore (Ringing Master).

It was proposed to hold the next quarterly meeting at Kinver, subject to the usual consent of the Vicar and local ringers being obtained.

On the proposition of the Vicar of Netherton, the secretary was asked to write a letter to the Rector of Halesowen (the Rev. Canon H. C. A. Colvill, R.D.) for his kind support of and sympathy with the Guild.

Hearty thanks were accorded the Vicar and all who had assisted in the arrangements, including the ladies who prepared and served the tea. The belfry was again visited, and the bells, which have recently been recast by Messrs. John Taylor and Co., of Loughborough, were kept merrily going in various methods during the evening.

LADIES AT RADCLIFFE.

On Saturday last, a joint meeting of the Ladies' Guild (Northern District) and the Society of Sherwood Youths was held at Radcliffe-on-Trent. In spite of much rain, the attendance of ladies was very gratifying, members being present from Duffield, Long Eaton, Nottingham and Sutton-on-Trent.

Three new members, Miss Collings, Miss Kirton and Miss Moore, of St. Mary's, Nottingham, were elected to the Ladies' Guild. Touches were rung in the following methods: London, Cambridge, Stedman, Kent Treble Bob, Plain Bob, also rounds and Queen's, thus giving all present an opportunity of joining in the ringing.

A very enjoyable time was spent and thanks are extended to the Vicar for the use of the bells and to the local ringers, who had everything in readiness for the visitors.

CHURCH'S DIAMOND JUBILEE

On the occasion of the celebration of the diamond jubilee of St. Stephen's Church, West Ealing, Middlesex, on Sunday, June 7th, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples was rung before morning service: F. S. Palmer, jun. 1, E. J. Walsom 2, E. C. S. Turner 3, J. E. L. Cocker 4, P. E. Clark 5, H. Folkard 6, J. A. Trollope (conductor) 7, H. Belcher 8.

SPliced MINOR.

NEW RECORD NUMBER OF METHODS IN PEAL.

The rapid and interesting development of Spliced Minor ringing continues. Recently a Lincolnshire band rang 48 methods in a peal; at Disley, Cheshire, just afterwards a Cheshire band raised the number to 52. The Lincolnshire men on Whit Monday rang a 51 method peal, in which the first 720 was made up of four new Alliance methods, with Bastow Little Bob to complete the extent.

Last Saturday they capped all previous records by ringing, at Algar-kirk, a peal with no fewer than 57 methods woven into seven true 720's by that wizard of figures, Mr. A. G. Driver. This peal contained no fewer than 196 changes of method!

The 51 method peal, arranged by Mr. A. G. Driver, contained 172 changes of method. The four Alliance methods have not previously been published. It will be observed that they differ from those printed in the Central Council's Minor Collection in that the treble dodges in 3-4, as well as in 5-6, instead of in 5-6 only. These are all methods with 2nd's place at the treble's lead. The 57 method peal included the 6th's place companion methods, named respectively Langton, Tattershall, Alford and Candlesby.

DEATH OF AN OLD BIRMINGHAM RINGER.

SIXTY YEARS AT PERRY BAR.

We regret to announce the passing of Mr. William Cooper, of Birmingham, on Wednesday, May 27th, in his 88th year. Although not a ringer of many peals or methods, he faithfully fulfilled his duties as a service ringer at St. John's, Perry Barr, for a period of more than 60 years. He was held in great esteem by the local band and regarded as the 'father' of their company.

He was laid to rest in St. John's Churchyard on Tuesday, June 2nd, and the funeral was attended by many ringers representing Aston, Erdington and Handsworth. The respect which the deceased commanded was evident by the large number of persons present, in addition to relatives and friends, and the floral tributes were many.

The service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. C. H. Tye), and suitable selections were rendered on the organ by Mr. Statham, the organist. A course of Grandsire Triples on handbells was rung at the graveside. In the evening the tower bells were rung half-muffled by the local ringers, assisted by members of the St. Martin's Guild, Birmingham.

A 'SPLICED' DECISION.

The Central Council settled the question of the definition of a 'spliced peal' with an unexpected amount of unanimity. It was one of those subjects which might easily have dragged on for years, like the Minor discussion, but, with the leading protagonists coming to agreement beforehand—'splicing' their ideas, so to speak—a good deal of controversial ground was cut away and a fairly plain issue left to the meeting. Any combination of methods will now be recognised as 'spliced,' as long as the splicing takes place at the lead ends, but peals of Treble Bob in which, say, Oxford and Kent places are both made within the same 'lead,' will not be recognised as 'spliced.'

As far as we can see there is only one flaw in the decision arrived at. A good deal of insistence was laid upon the joining together of the methods in complete, 'fundamental units,' which in treble dominated methods is the 'lead.' Unless this is done, a touch or peal, the Council has said, cannot be called 'spliced.' But if the methods are joined up when the treble is behind instead of in front—and someday, perhaps, some composer may come along with such a peal; indeed we believe a peal of Surprise Royal with the change of method sometimes made when the treble is behind is already in existence—we cannot see how it can be denied the title of 'spliced.' The joining together of methods in this way may be abhorrent to some purists, but in our view it is none the less 'splicing,' and 'splicing' in a more difficult form. Moreover if the treble goes from back to front and back again it produces all the work of the method equally as well as the ordinary lead does, so that there could be no ambiguity about what is rung, which is one of the things the proposers were anxious to ensure. Or again, if, as we were told, the changing of the method at the back produces a new, albeit 'irregular' method, within the treble lead, what matters it? It will only add to the number of methods in the peal! And this opens up the question which we think the sponsors of the resolution carried by the Council were anxious to avoid. If it were admitted that methods, joined when the treble is at the back, are 'spliced,' how can, say, the Ilkeston arrangement of Treble Bob be ruled out, supposing, as could easily be the case, the change from Kent to Oxford or vice versa, is called when the treble is behind?

As a matter of fact, now that practically all peals in more than one method are to be recognised as 'spliced'; whether the change of method occurs once or a hundred times in the peal, the word 'spliced' has lost all or nearly all its value in this connection; indeed, it had almost lost it before it was discussed by the Council. It was introduced at a time when there was an idea afoot in one or two places that, in the interests of variety, more than one method might be rung in a 720 of Minor or a peal of Major irrespective of the truth of the whole, and when it was shown that peals could be got on the multi-method plan and still remain true the word 'spliced' was introduced to distinguish this class of composition. In these days, when no one in their senses would think of ringing a number of methods in a 720 or a five thousand unless they believed the peal to be true, the word 'spliced' could easily be dropped, for the names of the methods and the number of changes from one to the other would be quite sufficient to indicate the type and quality of the performance.

DURHAM AND NEWCASTLE DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

EASTERN AND WESTERN DISTRICTS JOIN FORCES.

A very successful and enjoyable meeting was held at Chester-le-Street on Saturday week, ringers being present from Sunderland, Gateshead, Darlington, Newcastle, Tanfield, Fenham, Blackhill, Benfieldside, Houghton-le-Spring and the local tower. The bells were kept going during the afternoon and evening to Cambridge Surprise and Double Norwich Major, Stedman and Grandsire Triples, Kent, Oxford and Plain Bob.

After tea Mr. Titt, of Darlington, proposed a vote of thanks to the Rector and churchwardens for the use of the bells, and stated that they were all very pleased to have the clergy amongst them at their meeting. He expressed regret that the Eastern District secretary was not present owing to having another engagement.

Mr. Taylor, association secretary, proposed a vote of thanks to the ladies for providing the splendid tea, and Mrs. F. Sheraton suitably replied.

The meeting was presided over by Mr. R. L. Patterson, of Sunderland, the vice-president of the Eastern District.

LEEDS AND DISTRICT SOCIETY.

BURLEY BELLS.

The June meeting was held at Burley on Saturday. The bells were available from 3 p.m., and good use was made of them until 8 o'clock, at which time ringing had to stop. The church at Burley has been encircled by houses which are built right up to the churchyard. The efforts of the local company are to be commended, for they have successfully reduced the noise emanating from the bell chamber. The bells are very pleasing to the ear, when one is approaching the church.

The business meeting was held in the tower, Mr. J. Hey (vice-president) being in the chair. Members were present from Armley, Bramley, Brighouse, Calverley, Drighlington, Guiseley, Holbeck, Headingley (St. Michael's and St. Chad's), Idle, Leeds Parish Church, Rothwell, Shipley, Sutton-on-Hull and the local company.

The usual vote of thanks to the Vicar, churchwardens and the local ringers was proposed by the chairman and seconded by Mr. F. Dixon.—Mr. George W. Slack replied for the Vicar and ringers and drew the members' attention to some old documents which were framed and had been presented to the tower by Mr. W. Whittaker. The Vicar of Burley had had these reprinted in the Parish Magazine and had sent a number of copies to the tower for the visiting ringers.

The date of the meeting had been brought forward, and the Western Division secretary of the Yorkshire Association wished to thank the members and the secretary for holding the gathering a week earlier in order to avoid clashing with the Bingley meeting.

The date of the next meeting of the Leeds and District Society is July 25th, and the place is Drighlington.

SUSSEX RINGER'S GOLDEN WEDDING.

AN ORIGINAL MEMBER OF THE COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

On May 29th, Mr. T. Stringer, of Burgess Hill, Sussex, celebrated his golden wedding. Although for the last year or two Mr. Stringer has been unable to ring at the local tower owing to ill-health, his keen interest in the bells has never slackened, and it was with the greatest pleasure that some of his old ringing friends met him again on this pleasant occasion. As one of the original members of the Sussex County Association he will always be remembered for the great tradition which he instituted in the earliest days of organised ringing in the county and the huge amount of thankless spade work put in at the surrounding towers.

In the evening the bells were rung to a quarter-peal of Stedman, Mr. Stringer's favourite method: Arthur Gravett 1, Frank I. Hairs 2, George Williams 3, William J. Webb 4, Stanley E. Armstrong 5, Keith Hart 6, John Dearlove (conductor) 7, John T. Toms 8.

After the ringing a very pleasant entertainment took place, the golden wedding cake sampled, and tales of the old days told over again.

RINGERS' OUTINGS.

NINETEEN TOWERS IN ONE DAY.

A most enjoyable and interesting day's outing was spent by a party of 'tower snatchers' in the Oxford Diocese on Whit Monday. Five of the band, comprising W. Henley, Miss K. E. Fletcher, J. Harrison and T. Price, in a car, and R. G. Cross, on a motor-bike, left Beaconsfield at 7.15 a.m. on the run to Stewkley, near Bletchley, which was reached at 8.15. Here J. E. F. Tredennick was added to the band, the Norman church visited, and a course of Cambridge rung on the rather deafening six (tenor 13 cwt.), which went fairly well considering the ancient frame.

The next tower was Great Brickhill, where a very fine peal of six (tenor 14½ cwt.) was found, and Cambridge and Double Court rung. After visiting Milton Keynes, where 360 Double Court was rung on the recently augmented ring of six (tenor 9 cwt.), the little company went on to Simpson, where Mr. C. W. Smith met the party. Touches were rung on the six bells (tenor 8 cwt.), and Mr. Smith decided to join the tour. A move was made to Woughton-on-the-Green, with 'Smithy' in the car and Tredennick on the back of Gordon's bike, which had developed clutch trouble, necessitating various forms of run and jump starts, ending with fearsome getaways, which became more startling as the day went on. At Woughton, where is a very light six (tenor 6 cwt.), several touches were rung, then to Great Linford, where hangs another fine six (tenor 15½ cwt.). At North Crawley lunches were consumed before ringing on the six bells (tenor 12 cwt.) that hang in this rather lofty tower and are rung from the ground floor. Chicheley (six, tenor 16 cwt.), Sherington (five bells, tenor 11 cwt.), and Emberton, famous for Surprise Minor (six bells, tenor 10 cwt.), were in turn visited and touches rung at each tower.

The next call was Clifton Reynes, with a nice six also about 10 cwt., and touches here were much enjoyed. The Rector of Clifton Reynes is also in charge of Newton Blossomville, where, according to 'Belfry Gossip' (May 15th, 1936), 120 changes were rung on tower bells in 3 mins. 5 secs. In case the party wished, the Rector had kindly arranged for the visitors to have a ring on the peal of three bells at this last-mentioned church. Always ready for a fresh tower, the band stopped and hurriedly 'snatched' this one, which was an 'extra' in the programme. The verger came along and was unable to credit that the band had rung six different changes, explaining that the second could only come either after the treble or before the treble, making two changes, and the tenor had to be last. He had been ringing there for 20 years. However, further information regarding the high speed 120 would be interesting.

The party then went on through Turvey, Beds, to Lavendon, and the five bells (tenor 11 cwt.) were rung to Grandsire and Stedman. The fourth was hung in such a way that it appeared to be either cracked or strangled, and was nearly a semi-tone sharp, anyway. Going on next to Weston Underwood, the band found a really lovely six (tenor about 11 cwt.), and, after Double Court and Stedman Doubles, sat down to an excellent tea which the Rev. J. F. Amies had kindly arranged. The band were pleased to see him for a few minutes' chat before leaving. Stoke Goldington (five bells, tenor 14 cwt.) was visited on the way to Hanslope. The stately tower and spire at this latter place is the tallest in Bucks, the tower rising some 110ft. and the spire a further 90ft. The bells are a fine six, tenor somewhat over the ton. Three of the visitors had had the pleasure of a peal here a year ago. The tour was finished by taking in the towers at Calverton (six, tenor 10 cwt.), Old Wolverton (six, tenor 12 cwt.) and Bradwell (six, tenor 6 cwt.). By the time the party reached home there was not much change out of Whit Monday.

The main features of the outing were the general welcome met everywhere from both clergy and ringers, and the yards and yards of rope below the sally at some towers. In one instance the odd man out held it for the touch.

All the towers had been written for, all were speedily granted and there were many invitations for the future. Altogether a most successful venture, which covered 19 towers in the day! T. P.

YORKSHIREMEN'S EXTRA DAY.

On Whit Monday the B.B.C. announcer said 'The last day of the holiday is over,' but he evidently did not know that the North has another day's holiday. The Armley ringers and friends from Bramley and Burley will all remember Whit Tuesday, 1936, when they had their annual outing and visited Helmsley, Pickering and Scarborough. Leaving Armley at 7 a.m., they travelled by Wetherby and through Tadcaster and York, and arrived at Helmsley to find the local secretary ill in bed, but ready with a welcome. It is hoped by this time he is well on the way to complete recovery. After ringing a service touch for 10 a.m. Holy Communion, the party set off to Pickering and found the local secretary and two ringers awaiting them. Ringing is done here on the ground floor of the church, and must be very useful for the ringers who carry a little weight, or those who are nearly always late. The visitors were joined by Mr. T. Kendall, of Shipley, and Mr. Malcolm Moorhouse, who was there with a choir trip on the way to Whitby. After an hour's ringing and a break for lunch, the journey to Scarborough was continued. Reaching this popular resort, the party divided up, the ringers going to the tower and enjoying some ringing, while the ladies and children went to the beach. Although the sands of time were travelling fast, the Scarborough sands were still there when the fathers found their children by the water's edge.

After giving the kiddies some professional help, it was time for a donkey ride and the usual 'snap.' A splendid tea was enjoyed, and a very fine journey home brought 'That's all' at 11 p.m.

A TRIP INTO THREE COUNTIES.

The Heston, Middlesex, ringers, together with their wives and ringing friends, had their 'hardy annual' on Whit Monday. In a comfortable motor-coach they started at 8.30 a.m. and travelled to Warnham, Sussex, which was reached two hours later. 'Grandpa's' touch of 'cock-eyed' Stedman opened the proceedings, other methods including Oxford Bob Triples, but were the singles orthodox for the member of the C.C. present? In a subsequent touch of Stedman a member of the Police Guild roamed off his beat, thought himself a speed cop and arrived in 4.5 too soon.

Warnham was left regretfully at 12 o'clock, the next place of call being Turners Hill. After a hasty lunch in the well-appointed village inn, a nice handy eight fit to ring for half a day was found in the tower. E. O. S., however, did not take his party over the hill into the wilderness of spliced or laminated as was expected. Just 'plain stuff' was rung, Bob Major going very well. During the fall in peal a listener outside heard what he thought to be claps of thunder—or was it the echo of the fall?

Moving further eastwards, Coleman's Hatch was reached slightly behind schedule time. Among other touches, a course of Kent Treble Bob was the treat. Going still east, a good run brought the party to Speldhurst, Kent. Shortly after arrival, the Vicar of Heston put in an appearance in his car, complete with chauffeur tenor-man. After an hour's ringing, a happy party of 38 (including the Rector of Speldhurst) sat down to tea in the Old Oak Room of the George and Dragon. Afterwards, in the forecourt, a course of Grandsire Triples was rung on the 'Flower Pots,' which brought forth, and merited, applause.

It was somewhat difficult to round up the company from the very extensive Rectory garden, and the tourists arrived at Bletchingley, Surrey, nearly an hour late. Here they found heavier bells than at the other towers, a tenor about 19 cwt., a fairly long draught of rope and no guides. Among other touches, the best 'brass hats' that could be mustered rang a course of Double Norwich, with someone counting the faults. No prize was offered or won. One of the said 'brass hats' could not manage a subsequent touch of Oxford Bob Triples, and a study of the Beginners' column in 'The Ringing World' could be made with advantage. The (ringing) day finished with a short touch of Grandsire, conducted by the sole representative of the Ladies' Guild present. No singles were called, as the majority of the band are married, and her name is not Kate. Heston was reached safely about 11 p.m., and the best thanks are due to Mr. H. C. Chandler, who did all the work in organising this outing.

FOR BEGINNERS.

CALLING BOB MAJOR FROM A WORKING BELL.

To apply the knowledge, gained in calling Bob Minor from a 'non-observation' bell, to Bob Major is not a very difficult task. In Major it is only in 'freak' touches that the tenor is not used as the observation bell, so that the actual calls are made according to the position of the tenor, which, for the most part, are four only. There can, of course, be calls in the other three positions in the course, but either of them will 'part the tenors'—that is, the seventh will cease to course after the tenor, and some other bell or bells will be inserted between them. There are musical arrangements of coursing order without the seventh behind the tenor, but generally ringers prefer to hear the 7 and 8 come up in their sequence together behind and to keep them as far as possible at their natural interval as they pass among the other bells.

The conductor who first wants to try his hand at calling from a non-observation bell is, therefore, well advised if he sticks at first to calling bobs when the tenor is in one or other of the four positions which leave the 7th undisturbed in its relation to the tenor. These positions are Middle (6-5, down), Home (8-7, down) and Wrong (7-8, up), to put them in the order in which they occur, and Before (when the tenor is called to run out, after coming to lead in front of the treble).

One of the things which the budding conductor should master, whatever bell he rings, is the ability, first of all, to remember the coursing order of the bells and see to it that they keep to it; and then to be able to anticipate the change of coursing order which will occur when he calls the next bob, so that, if any trip occurs in the making of it or immediately after, he can pick up the bells without hesitation and with certainty.

He need not wait to reach this final stage before he thinks of calling from a non-observation bell, but can attempt it as soon as he can see the coursing order of the bells as they are ringing.

To call the tenor into any of the positions named should be quite an easy thing if the conductor is himself coursing immediately in front of the tenor (when he is 6th's place bell) or behind the seventh (when he is 5th's place bell). If he is 6th's place bell he is one dodging place in front of the tenor; if he is 5th's place bell he is one dodging place behind the 7th, which, in turn, is one place behind the tenor, so that a call at Middle brings the 5th's place bell into 7-8 up, a call at Home brings it into 5-6 up, a call at Wrong causes it to make the bob (the 4th's place, of course, being substituted for the dodge 3-4 (up)).

If he is the 6th's place bell, then the bob Middle causes him to run in, but a bob Home places him at M. (or 6-5 down) and a bob Wrong at H. (or 8-7 down). It will be noticed that unless the bob moves the bell away from its previous coursing place, the sequence of M. H. W. is maintained by the 5th and 6th place bells as well as the tenors.

There remains the bob Before as it affects these two bells. The 6th's place bell makes the bob and becomes 5th's place bell—coursing after the 7th, with the previous 5th's place bell immediately behind it. The 5th's place bell is called into 6-5 (down). A further call or calls in successive leads pushes these two bells back a place each time in the sequence M. H. W.

Now what of the others, the 3rd's, 2nd's and 4th's place bells in coursing order? It will not be long before you realise, if you have not already worked it out for yourself, that if a M. is to be called, the 3rd's place bell will dodge in 5-6 with the tenor at the bob; that the 2nd's place bell will have dodged with the 7th in 5-6 at the previous lead and that the 4th's place bell will have dodged with the tenor in 3-4 at the previous lead.

This warns you as to when the bob M. is coming, and when it arrives, the 2nd's place bell will make the bob (and become the new 6th's place bell); the 4th's place bell will run Out and the 6th's place bell will run In.

If bobs occur at succeeding leads, the bells, running In and Out, repeat the operation. If bobs occur exactly a course apart, that is if a call M. succeeds a M., or a H. succeeds a H., or a W. succeeds a W., then, if you are one of the bells on the front, you call to your aid the cycle we wrote of a fortnight ago in connection with Bob Minor—In, Out, 4th's.

We have given you hints as to how to pick up your own position when calling the tenor into some of the recognised bob places. We will not elaborate it, but we suggest that you work out for yourselves the many guides which you will find that careful investigation gives you. There is often more advantage in working out these things than in trying to remember a lot of details other people may tell you. Here is the kind of thing to look for: Suppose you have bobs at W. and M. We have shown that the 5th's place bell makes the bob at W. The same bell will make the bob M., and become the 6th's place bell. The bell that runs Out at the W. (having become 5th's place bell) dodges in 7-8 with the 7th at the M., and the bell that runs In dodges in 5-6 with the tenor. We mention this particularly because the gap between W. and M. is often found the most difficult to bridge.

BELL BROADCASTS.

MUSICAL QUALITIES OF BELLS.

To the Editor.

Sir,—It is quite natural that, as ringers and change ringers, we should be primarily concerned about the striking of the performances put on the air. But we should not overlook a matter of equal importance even to us, and certainly to the listeners-in, namely, the musical qualities of the rings of bells to be selected.

However good or bad the striking, it is for the occasion only, whereas the tunefulness or the reverse of the bells concerned remains to enhance or impair the efforts of generations of ringers. To stress this is to emphasise the obvious, yet it does not seem to have occurred to anybody, during the Council's discussion, to point out its bearing upon the question.

May I, with due deference to the Council, suggest that a way out of the present impasse may be found by giving due weight to this and related factors, e.g., the 'going' of the bells concerned? So long as the question is sought to be decided only by the merits of the ringers in the local bands, any judgment must be invidious in the highest degree, and as such will be keenly resented, however justified it may be. But if we broaden the basis of rejection, and more especially if we bring in such impersonal factors as I have indicated, we should short-circuit all opposition at the start.

Nobody can reasonably object to a determination upon the part of the whole Exercise to give the B.B.C. the best of which we, as ringers, and our good friends the bellfounders are capable, and to give only of our and their best. By bracketing both the bells and their ringers together in this way, as we ought, we likewise escape the odium of seeking to set up a pillory in which the inefficient may be pelted.

The ultimate solution must be some sort of advisory committee to the B.B.C., which would either select towers that might be called upon as required, or else pass an opinion upon proposed broadcasts week by week. This solution will be agreed to more readily when we allow purely personal considerations to sink back into the obscurity from which they should never have been permitted to emerge in open discussion, and when we have our committee set up it will, of course, be armed with full powers to fade out on the spot any performance not up to standard.

B.B.C.'s APPROACH TO YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION.

Dear Sir,—I have read with interest the various criticisms expressed in connection with the above subject. Perhaps my experience of the B.B.C. will be of interest to readers.

Some time during the latter part of March or the beginning of April I had a letter from the B.B.C. in connection with the series of broadcasts entitled 'The Ringing Isle,' stating that they had already broadcast from a number of Lancashire churches and wished to include a few Yorkshire churches in their future broadcasts of the same series. Selby Abbey had been suggested to them as a suitable tower, did I think the local ringers would do justice to the Yorkshire Association? If not, would I suggest one or two alternative towers? I replied that I thought Selby would do justice to the association, and named two towers as worthy of the opportunity of broadcasting if and when the opportunity occurred. Pudsey was one of the towers named (Pudsey ringing is a byword in Yorkshire and their Sunday service ringing in the standard Surprise methods is unexcelled anywhere), and I think their effort was an example of all that is best in change ringing, apart from the slight trip half-way.

In this series of bell broadcasts the B.B.C. has, as its chief consideration, the ability of the ringers taking part, and the thanks of the Yorkshire Association is due, and has been conveyed, to the B.B.C. for their courtesy in approaching them on this subject.

In this week's issue of 'The Ringing World,' Mr. Lewis is reported as having heard four broadcasts from Yorkshire in 'The Ringing Isle' series at the time of the Central Council meeting, but I was not aware there had been any such broadcast from the county apart from Selby.

J. E. CAWSE, Hon. Gen. Sec.,
Yorkshire Association.

WIDE APPRECIATION OF PUDSEY BROADCAST.

Dear Sir,—On behalf of the Pudsey St. Lawrence company, I thank all those who have sent congratulatory messages to the Vicar, 'The Ringing World' and to me, on our recent broadcast. It is indeed a pleasure to us to know that our efforts have been so widely appreciated.

We offer an unconditional apology to the Exercise for the slip at the 4th lead end; we make no excuses, but if we are invited again to be 'on the air' we shall do our utmost to wipe out the blemish.

In view of the fact that so much is heard nowadays of the objection to bells by certain members of the public, it may interest our ringing brethren to know that several expressions of appreciation have been made by non-ringers of different denominations who heard our bells on the wireless. One churchman, who lives in a parish where there are no bells, made the comment that we did not ring long enough!

EXPLANATIONS WOULD HELP.

Sir,—Reading in your issue of the 12th inst. that a quarter-hour broadcast of the bells of Pudsey Parish Church was to be given on the North Regional, I tuned in to that station.

But it seemed to me a great opportunity lost. We were given a quarter of an hour to devote to bells, and what happened?

The bells started in rounds for about two minutes; then they were faded while the Vicar talked about the church, the only interesting thing he said being that Jasper Snowden rang or called his last peal on these bells. Then the bells came on again, and they had gone off into some Major method, which came out into rounds just before the end of the time.

But we were not told what the method was. It was a pretty one, but a non-ringer would have thought little of it, and would have attributed the pauses at the hand-stroke leads to faults.

If only there had been some explanation beforehand it might have helped to popularise the Exercise, and perhaps induced some young men to learn to ring.

THE BROADCASTS FROM LANCASHIRE.

Sir,—With reference to the criticism of the president of the Central Council regarding the two broadcasts from Lancashire, surely he does not expect us at Worsley to take his opinion too seriously? As to the comments of Mr. A. P. Smith, who considers the performance 'a disgrace to the Exercise,' I am afraid his memory must have somewhat failed him, but we consider it rather fortunate that the Exercise possesses ringers whose opinion is a little more reliable than his.

It is not very difficult to understand that the local band at Worsley do not possess the abilities of the band who rang the fine touch of Stedman Caters at Bristol, but surely neither of the two performances that we have broadcast from Worsley merits such an unwarrantable judgment as the president and Mr. A. P. Smith would have the readers of 'The Ringing World' believe.

POOR BROADCAST FROM CANTERBURY.

A correspondent from Bristol calls attention to the ringing at Canterbury Cathedral before the 'Aviation Service' on Saturday afternoon. For the most part, he says, it was terrible and a strong justification for the opinions expressed in 'The Ringing World.' It is a great pity, he adds, to have such a fine peal 'murdered' and put over the ether. It is a bad advertisement for change ringing.

YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION.EASTERN DISTRICT MEMBERS ENTERTAINED AT NUNBURNHOLME.

The quarterly meeting of the Eastern District of the Yorkshire Association was held at Nunburnholme on Saturday, June 13th, and was attended by 38 ringers from Beverley Minster, Far Headingley, Hull, Hemingbrough, Market Weighton, Selby, Sherburn-in-Elmet, Sutton-on-Hull, Pocklington and the local company, and an excellent attendance considering the cold wet weather.

Choral evensong was held in church, and the Rector (the Rev. C. H. Sellwood Godwin), in an interesting address, said he was taking the place of Canon Elsee, the late president of the Lancashire Association, who died suddenly on Good Friday, and who, as an old friend of the Rector, had promised before his death that he would attend the meeting and preach at the service.

Tea in the Guildhall was followed by the business meeting, over which the Rector presided.

A telegram sending 'best wishes and thanks' was sent to Mr. A. N. Wood, of Northampton, an old and most generous friend of the ringers, for his extreme kindness in sending money to defray the cost of the tea and the bus from Market Weighton to Nunburnholme. The vote of thanks to him was proposed by Mr. F. Cryer, seconded by Mr. R. H. Vigor and carried with loud applause, the only regret being that Mr. Wood was unable to be present.

Miss M. D. Hawley, of Sherburn-in-Elmet, was elected a member of the association on the motion of Mr. J. H. Howell, seconded by Mr. E. Wood.

An invitation to hold the September meeting at Hemingbrough was accepted.

The proposal to hold special practice meetings amongst four groups of towers in the York, Hull, Beverley and Pontefract areas was carried unanimously, it being hoped thereby to improve the ringing and encourage learners.

A vote of thanks to the Rector, proposed by the secretary and seconded by Mr. Vigor, was carried and responded to by the Rector, and a vote of thanks to the local company, proposed by Mr. West and seconded by Mr. Rodwell, was acknowledged by Mr. F. Wilkinson.

Market Weighton bells were rung in the evening.

The methods practised during the day were Cambridge Surprise, Kent, Oxford, Plain Bob, Double Oxford, St. Clement's and College Exercise Minor, and Grandsire and Plain Bob Doubles.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

The Earl of Shaftesbury, who is an active member of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild, has accepted the invitation to become an honorary member of the Central Council.

The ring of six bells of Bridestowe, Devon, is being rehung with new fittings in new framework by John Taylor and Co.

In connection with the annual meeting of the Ladies' Guild at Bath on July 11th, the Great Western Railway will issue tickets for a party of eight or over at 13s. 5d. return, and for 30 or over at 9s. return. If any members or friends are desirous of taking advantage of these reduced fares from London, will they please communicate with Mrs. G. W. Fletcher, 45, Walsingham Road, Enfield, before Saturday, July 4th?

The interesting old bells at Cauntton, Nottinghamshire, are to be rehung by Messrs. Gillett and Johnston, provision being made for additions in the future.

Yes, they've done it again. Yet another Spliced Surprise Major peal in four methods on handbells by the Oxhey band, and the College Youths can add this one to their records. What would old Ben Annable, or even Henry Haley, have said to such a performance as this?

The Ancient Society also rang another in four methods on the following day. This was at St. Andrew's, Holborn, and was the first in four Spliced Surprise methods by the society in the City of London.

Mr. Albert D. Stone, who, for reasons of health, retired from the office of hon. secretary on Saturday, has served the Sussex County Association in office for half its existence. He was elected on the committee of the association in 1911, served as hon. secretary of the Central Division from 1912 to 1932, and as general secretary from 1924 to 1936. This is an excellent record of service, wholeheartedly given over a space of 25 years.

He learned to ring at St. Mary's, Portsea, and eventually reached St. Peter's, Brighton, in 1899, to which tower he has been attached ever since. His many friends will wish him improved health in the future. He has retired—but now he is not quite sure exactly what he will do without that which had become part of his daily life.

Lincolnshire churchwardens have achieved distinction by ringing a peal—probably the first in history by churchwardens. It was for a memorable occasion; it celebrated the one hundredth birthday of another Lincolnshire churchwarden—the oldest in the country.

KENT RING REHUNG.

A large congregation attended the Parish Church of SS. Peter and Paul, Boughton-under-Blean, near Faversham, Kent, for the rededication service of the rehanging peal of eight bells.

The service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. W. A. Leach), assisted by Mr. E. H. Steele, B.A. (lay reader), and an appropriate address was given by the Bishop of Dover. During the singing of the hymn following this, the clergy proceeded to the foot of the tower, where the dedicatory prayers were read by the Bishop and a few rounds were rung on the bells.

After the service the visiting ringers had an opportunity of trying out the bells, and the 'go' was much appreciated by all those present.

Messrs. Mears and Stainbank, who have been responsible for the rehanging, were represented by Mr. A. A. Hughes, and ringers were present from Canterbury, Sturry, Ospringe, Wickhambreau, Throley and Faversham, together with the local band. The Kent County Association was represented by the Canterbury District representatives (Mr. F. G. Brett and Mr. Harrison Smith), with the district secretary (Mr. B. J. Luck).

THE CHANDLER BELLS.

To the Editor.

Sir,—The name of this old bellfounder, mentioned by your correspondent, reminded me of the two bells at Okeley, near Buckingham, the inscriptions of which I copied some years ago. They are as follows:—

1. 'Richard Chandler made me in 1674.'
2. 'Edward Hall made me in 1726.'

MEMORIAL TO HETHERSETT RINGER.

THREE GENERATIONS OF TOWER MASTERS.

On Sunday afternoon, June 14th, a peal board was unveiled in St. Remigius' tower, Hethersett, Norfolk, recording a muffled peal rung to the memory of George Henry Moore, who was a member of the local company of ringers for 45 years and Master for 15 years.

Over sixty people attended the service. The ringers present included Messrs. A. L. Coleman (general secretary and treasurer of the Norwich Diocesan Guild), W. C. Duffield (chairman of the South Norfolk Branch), N. Golden (hon. secretary of the North and South Norfolk Branches and conductor of the memorial peal), and members from Bodham, Dersingham, Newmarket, Norwich, Rackheath, Saxlingham, Snettisham, Wroxham, Wymondham and the local company.

In his address, the Rector (the Rev. J. M. La F. McAnally) mentioned that three generations of Moores had held the office of Master of the local company of ringers. George Moore's heart always seemed to be in whatever work he was doing—in the garden, in the church as vergier or in the tower as ringer.

DECISION TO AFFILIATE TO CENTRAL COUNCIL.

Presentation for Former District Secretary.

The Sussex County Association decided on Saturday to become affiliated to the Central Council. They were the only association of importance that had not come in under the new rules, the committee having decided to leave action to the members at their annual meeting.

There was a representative attendance at the meeting, which was held at Brighton, and the weather was so hot that many members sat through the meeting in their shirt sleeves.

In the afternoon there had been ringing on the two excellent peals of ten at St. Peter's and St. Nicholas' Churches, and the special service was held at the latter church. It was conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. L. N. Phillips, M.C., who gave a practical address on 'Service.'

Tea followed in St. Nicholas' Hall, where, afterwards, the meeting was held, presided over by the Master, Mr. H. R. Butcher.

GULF BETWEEN OLD AND YOUNG.

In the annual report the association's jubilee was referred to as the outstanding feature of the past year. The retirement of Mr. J. Thornton Rickman from the office of Master was received with great regret, and the association's appreciation of his valuable services during a number of years was recorded. 'Year by year,' continued the report, 'death removes from our midst some of our members, and we now have to mention, in particular, the passing of three with a very long record of membership, viz., Mr. E. C. Merritt, of St. Peter's, Brighton; Mr. G. B. Bleach, of St. Nicholas', Brighton; and Mr. H. Tomsett, of Lindfield. From various causes there appears to be a wide gulf between those who are passing and those who are coming on, and we strongly appeal to all to give these younger members the fullest support and encouragement. It is to them that we must look to carry on the work of the association and sustain the Sunday service ringing, and we would specially invite these younger members to make every possible effort to attend the meetings, in any division, and carry on the work of the association, bearing in mind that the association is one centralised whole, the divisions existing solely for more efficient organisation.'

The report concluded by extending the best thanks of the association to Mr. A. W. Groves, for 21 years' service as secretary of the Western Division, and expressed the hope that every support would be given to his successor, Mr. F. H. Meetens.

SUBSTANTIAL FUNDS.

Although £29 12s. was spent on the jubilee meeting, the accounts showed on the year's working a deficit of only £6 12s. The year began with a balance of £140 8s. 9d.; £66 14s. was contributed by the four divisions in respect of affiliated towers and members; £2 10s. in respect of non-resident members; £3 5s. hon. annual members and 18s. unaffiliated members. The receipts also included 6s. 6d. by sale of reports, £1 15s. 10d. interest, and £1 16s. transferred from reserve fund. The expenditure amounted to £83 17s. 4d., which included the divisional expenses. The balance at the end of the year was £133 16s. 9d. The reserve fund stood at £50. Two grants had been made from the Benevolent Fund, the balance in which stood at £80 12s. 11d., compared with £79 12s. in the previous year. There was also a balance of £3 1s. on the certificate account. The association thus had balances in hand amounting to £267 10s. 8d. at the end of the year.

The report and balance sheet were adopted without discussion.

The Master referred to the absence through illness of Mr. G. W. Stokes, the hon. treasurer, and the secretary was asked to convey to him the sympathy of the meeting and good wishes for a speedy recovery.

The Master also referred to the deaths of old members mentioned in the report, and as an expression of sympathy with the relatives the members stood in silence.

The peals secretary, Mr. F. I. Hairs, reported that 77 peals were rung during 1935, an increase of 33 over the preceding year and the highest total for six years. The peals were rung in 35 different towers, Southover and Crawley topping the list with nine each. There were 26 conductors, Mr. Frank Bennett having the highest number to his credit, viz., 18, and Mr. Oliver Sippetts 16. Twenty-two members rang their first peal and two called their first peal. The total number of peals rung by the association was now over 3,000, the three thousandth having been a peal of Superlative rung at Rotherfield and conducted by Mr. A. Wingfield Durham.

The Bishop of Chichester, president, was re-elected, as were also the vice-presidents: The Bishop of Lewes, the Archdeacons of Chichester, Hastings and Lewes, Canon J. C. H. How (Vicar of Brighton), the Rev. W. A. Armstrong, and Mr. F. B. Tompkins (Chichester) and Mr. J. Thornton Rickman (Brighton), former Masters.

Mr. H. R. Butcher was re-elected Master and Mr. G. W. Stokes hon. treasurer.

HON. SECRETARY'S RESIGNATION.

Mr. A. D. Stone, who has held the office of hon. general secretary for a number of years and first took up office as a divisional secretary 24 years ago, since when he has been continuously discharging secretarial duties, resigned office on the grounds of ill-health. His resignation was received with regret, and he proposed as his successor the assistant hon. secretary (Mr. S. E. Armstrong). This was seconded by Mr. K. Hart and carried unanimously.

Mr. F. I. Hairs was re-elected peals secretary, and the auditors (Messrs. W. Hart and N. Elliott) and the trustees (Messrs. F. B.

Tompkins, H. R. Butcher and F. W. Stokes) were all re-elected. A vote of thanks was accorded to the officers for their services.

CENTRAL COUNCIL AFFILIATION.

The new hon. secretary read a letter from the hon. secretary of the Central Council, in the form sent out to all societies, inviting the association to become affiliated to the Council and setting out the new rules under which the Council is now constituted. Mr. Armstrong said the matter had been before the committee, who did not feel competent to deal with it, and decided to refer it to the general meeting. He went on to refer in critical vein to the contents of the letter, and this brought up Mr. J. Parker, who said that the information asked for was to enable the Council, under the new rules, to know exactly how many members each association had and how many representatives each was entitled to elect.

Mr. F. W. Rogers (who is hon. secretary of the Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild) explained that as the Council had been reconstituted under new rules, all were asked to apply for affiliation, and a letter exactly similar to that read by the hon. secretary was sent to every society. The information asked for was to bring the records of the Council up to date.

Mr. Parker explained that the Sussex Association had always been entitled to four members.

The Hon. Secretary: But there is no need to elect four.

Mr. Parker: No, but under the new rules you have got to pay for four (laughter).

The hon. secretary then pointed out that if they agreed to the Central Council's rules to elect members triennially at least one month before the Council meeting, they would have to alter their own rules, which said that all officers must be elected annually, and the date of their annual meeting.

Mr. F. Bennett said they always had elected their Central Council representatives for three years.

Mr. Rogers said when they had elected representatives they served for three years, no matter what the association's rules said.

Mr. J. S. Goldsmith said he thought the criticisms of the hon. secretary were largely quibbles. What the association had to decide was whether they would affiliate to the Central Council, under the Council's rules, or remain outside. There was nothing they were asked to do which could not be done within the framework of their own rules. The Council stood in its relationship to the associations exactly as the Sussex Association stood to its own affiliated towers. The association expected its members to abide by the rules, and that was all the Central Council asked its affiliated members to do, and it was a fair and proper request. The Council co-ordinated the work of ringers throughout the country and tried to direct progress into the right channels. It did not interfere with the domestic affairs of the associations, but it carried weight in official quarters such as no individual association could exercise. The Sussex Association was the only association of importance that had not yet affiliated and accepted the new rules, and he urged them, for the sake of their own position, dignity and prestige, to come into line with the rest of the associations of the country.

Mr. F. I. Hairs proposed that the association should become affiliated with the Central Council, accept the conditions loyally to abide by its rules and decisions, and elect four members.

Mr. A. W. Groves seconded.

Mr. A. D. Stone raised questions on several points which were answered by Mr. Goldsmith, and the motion, on being put, was carried without dissent.

It was suggested that the members elected should be chosen one from each division. This was accepted and the following were elected: Messrs. A. W. Groves (Western), H. R. Butcher (Northern), S. E. Armstrong (Southern) and F. W. Stokes (Eastern).

NEXT YEAR'S MEETING.

Four places were proposed for the next annual meeting, viz., Chichester, Hastings, Brighton and Horsham, and, on a vote, Chichester was chosen.

Mr. A. Levett suggested that the meeting should be held on either Easter or Whitsun Bank Holiday, as it was too much to expect members to travel from one end of the county to the other on a half-day.

The Master said the suggestion would be considered, but he pointed out difficulties in the way of either an Easter or Whitsun meeting, and Mr. H. J. Tucker said that, on account of a musical festival at the Cathedral, a meeting at Chichester on Whit Monday would be practically impossible.

On the motion of the Master, a vote of thanks was accorded to the Vicar of St. Nicholas' for the service, to the organist, and to the incumbents of all the churches where the bells had been placed at the disposal of the members.

Mr. Sippetts proposed that the thanks of the association to the retiring hon. secretary be recorded in the minutes for his services to the association.—Mr. Walter Charman seconded, and the motion was carried unanimously, together with a proposal by Mr. A. C. Pankhurst that in recognition of their services Mr. A. D. Stone and Mr. A. W. Groves be elected life members of the association.

FORMER DISTRICT SECRETARY'S LONG SERVICE.

At this point the Master made a presentation to Mr. Groves. He said they had had an address that day on 'Service.' That association had been fortunate in having in its ranks those who had and who were serving it well. There was one who had loyally worked for 21

DEFINITION OF A SPLICED PEAL.

SINKING OF INDIVIDUAL VIEWS FOR A COMMON FORMULA.

A long-standing controversial point—the definition of a spliced method—was settled at the Central Council meeting by two of the keenest students of the problem joining forces and at the eleventh hour submitting a joint resolution in place of two individual motions.

Announcing the changes in the agenda, the President said he understood Mr. Hunt desired to withdraw his amendment, which was discussed and adjourned the previous year, and the proposers and seconders of Motions 14 and 15 (Mr. S. H. Wood and Mr. J. T. Dyke, and Mr. C. T. Coles and Mr. E. C. S. Turner) would like to withdraw their motions and substitute the following:—

'That compositions which contain more than one method shall be called "Spliced," provided that the methods are so joined that the fundamental units of which they are constructed (i.e., the "Leads" in the case of Treble-dominated methods, the "Sixes" in the case of Stedman, Duffield and similar methods, etc.) remain intact.

'That reports of all Spliced Peals shall include a reference to the number of methods rung and the number of changes from one method to another during the peal.'

A QUESTION OF NOMENCLATURE.

The President emphasised that it was purely a question of nomenclature. There was nothing which blessed or blamed one method against another. He would like an expression of opinion as to whether the Council would allow them to substitute this motion. The Standing Committee would like the Council to agree to the changes.

This course was agreed to.

Proposing the resolution, Mr. S. H. Wood said, as they knew, on the original agenda there was a rather long and technical resolution. There was one resolution passed as an amendment last year; there was one other amendment and a hint of one or two more coming up. Those responsible, therefore, got together and remarked, 'If we are not very careful this is going to become an awful muddle, and we shall talk about it for hours and hours, and it will get beyond the point of being discussion and become a controversy' (laughter). If they could get something simple which combined the main points and put them before Council in a simplified form, they would be saving the Council's time and he thought it would be appreciated.

As to the resolution, part was the amendment he proposed last year and a part by the mover of the original resolution. There was a letter in 'The Ringing World' in the previous week in which it was stated that although the number of changes of method might be given, that did not indicate how difficult the peal was. Personally he thought the number of changes of method gave sufficient information.

As to the fundamental units, they would all see what they were getting at. How much of a method had they to put on paper to specify that method? Some people said one must ring the whole course, and unless they rung the whole course they had not rung the method. He did not agree with that. He submitted that what specified the method was one complete lead. If they looked at any Central Council publication they would find one complete lead and that satisfied them as to method. Some people might say, 'Why not half a lead?' The answer was 'No,' and he hoped that they would agree that to satisfy the method they must give one complete lead. They had covered that in the resolution by saying the fundamental units should be the 'leads' in the case of Treble-dominated methods; and in the case of Stedman, etc., it should be the sixes.

If they passed the resolution it would clear the matter up. As the President said, it was only a matter of nomenclature, and although under the resolution certain portions of Kent and Oxford could not be joined together and called 'spliced,' he would be the last person to say, 'You should not ring these peals.' In fact, he preferred to ring Kent and Oxford that way, but he thought when they were so rung it should be called a variation of Treble Bob.

Mr. C. T. Coles seconded the motion.

'MENTAL STABILITY.'

Mr. J. Hunt congratulated the people who moved that resolution for gaining 'their mental stability of mind.' He characterised the resolution as 'most ridiculous.' He wanted to ask this question. He distinctly said at Shrewsbury that he mentioned a peal rung by the Midland Counties Association in six methods, and that was called a combined peal. He took it that under the present resolution it would not be called spliced because there was Kent and Oxford in it.

Mr. P. J. Johnson thought that the resolution would clearly define, much more than in the past, the status of those peals. They in Yorkshire were landed in a great difficulty by the fact of a misunderstanding. They had people who combined leads of Oxford and Treble Bob and called it another method. The whole Exercise would feel that the people responsible for the resolution had displayed great sense and dignity in agreeing to this combined resolution.

Mr. Coles said the resolution that was put up last year by Mr. Turner and himself was drawn up with the help of many distinguished people in the Exercise. It seemed to them that it was necessary to define what a spliced peal was. When they tried to define a spliced peal there was a great deal of difference in the sort of things rung. This year they had approached the matter from a different point of view, realising that the resolutions were likely to be misconstrued.

Mr. Wood's amendment at Shrewsbury seemed to meet one point—to find out how intricate the peal was, and he would like to say that the number of changes of method generally denoted the intricacies of the peal. There might be slight exceptions, but it was correct to say the more changes of method the more intricate the peal became.

As to the basis of the resolution, they must confine themselves to the definition of a method in the Council's Rules and Decisions that 'each lead shall reverse true to itself.' There was no intention in the resolution to bar anything that had been rung or could be rung. As far as he was concerned he had every sympathy with people who ring Treble Bob and cut out the portions where the tenors were in the slow.

Mr. Coles referred to the peal in six methods by the Midland Counties Association, and said if Kent and Oxford were introduced into that peal, and if the units were broken, it would not come within this definition of a spliced peal.

Mr. A. H. Pulling asked, if it was possible to ring a peal of Spliced Major in which the changes of method were made when the treble laid its whole pull behind, whether that would be considered a spliced peal.

DESIRE FOR WHOLE METHOD.

Mr. J. A. Trollope replied that it was possible to change when the treble was behind, but pointed out that if such a course was adopted one did not get the whole of the work of the method. If only half the method was rung the band could not say they had rung that method. In theory they could change where they liked, but in that case, if the method was not completed, they only got a new method.

Mr. J. S. Goldsmith asked, if a peal was rung with the whole of the changes of method made when the treble was behind, how would it be affected by the resolution? Would it be a 'spliced' peal?

Mr. G. Grover pointed out that the merit was in the performance and not in the name. He moved, as an amendment, that the words 'provided' to 'intact' be deleted from the resolution.

Mr. E. M. Atkins, who seconded, thought there was a great danger in passing the resolution because they were going to make it very difficult for what ingenious people might bring forward in the future. For a long time he had in mind the splicing of methods with the treble at the back. He could not see why they should not carry on as at present, but by making it clear in the reports as to what had taken place.

Mr. Warrington: If you are going to allow this with the treble behind, you cannot condemn methods of 1,700 with a single behind.

Mr. Trollope: If you begin splicing in the middle of the lead, all you do is to create another method. If you splice them in any other way than when the treble leads, you break them up entirely ('No, no'). If you keep on splicing you get a circular action. In a 720, if you keep on splicing, all you get in the end is a 720 of Original.

Mr. Hunt: You take Treble Bob Minor. You can ring a peal without any bobs. What happens if you ring a peal without any bobs and it is spliced? The Worcester variation of Treble Bob is rung without any bobs.

Mr. Holt: Can you supply us with a 720 Worcester Treble Bob Minor?

Mr. Hunt: The method is published.

Mr. Holt: When Worcester was invented the idea was to keep the tenors out of the hunt.

The President: I do not think any good will be done by going into the finer points.

Mr. Holt: If Worcester keeps the tenors out of the Slow, how can you get a 720 of Minor?

Replying to the amendment, Mr. Coles said there was nothing new in the ringing of Kent and Oxford Treble Bob combined. Records showed that in 1840 they called it Hudson's New Light on Treble Bob, and it was first rung at Sheffield St. Peter's. Whatever members of the Council thought, these peals, as rung in those days, were variations of Treble Bob and not spliced. As to splicing with the treble behind, the point those responsible for the resolution desired to make was that the splicing should take place at the lead-end. In doing it with the treble behind they were making an unsymmetrical method.

Mr. Wood, in amplification of the point, said in a lead of Cambridge Major if they left out the second's place they called in Primrose. If they rang the first half lead of Cambridge and spliced it with Primrose the work of some of the bells would not change. If the amendment was passed the resolution was cut down to the resolution which originally stood in his name. In view of the fact that two members of the Council had each given way and sunk their own views in order to please as many people as possible, it would be a mistake to turn down half of it and go back to one of the original resolutions, although it happened to be his.

The amendment only found 13 supporters and was defeated by a big majority.

SWINDON, WILTS.—As a welcome to the new Vicar, the Rev. S. Faulkner Allison, the local ringers of St. Mary's Church rang a quarter-peal of Doubles, seven different 120's of Grandsire and four different 120's of Plain Bob, on Friday evening, May 29th: A. C. Hollick (first quarter-peal) 1, J. S. Roberts (conductor) 2, P. V. Spackman (first quarter-peal 'inside') 3, C. Watt 4, H. E. Brown 5, W. B. Greenaway 6.

THE CENTRAL COUNCIL.

EFFORT TO REOPEN CHESTERFIELD TOWER.

The President presented the report of the Towers and Belfries Committee (which was printed in 'The Ringing World' of June 5th). Mr. Lewis said that members of the committee had carried out inspections in response to individual requests. The number of towers which had been dealt with, in some cases by inspection, in some cases by correspondence, was 18, excluding certain minor cases. Mr. Young had had one tower, Mr. Hunt three, Major Hesse had inspected five, and he (Mr. Lewis) had had nine cases to deal with. In the case of Chesterfield he was asked by the Midland Counties Association whether the committee could do anything to get the tower reopened for ringing. It had been condemned by the architect in spite of the fact that £5,000 had recently been spent upon it in restoration. He apologised to the members of the M.C.A. for having been somewhat slow in taking the matter up, but the letter was sent to him at a time when he was making weekly journeys to Scotland, and he could not deal with ringing matters at all. But eventually he wrote to the Vicar of Chesterfield and put the matter in general terms, because they had no details of the reasons why the architect had condemned the tower, nor did they know at that time the name of the architect. It was, therefore, rather difficult for them to 'butt in.' In writing to the Vicar, he finished up his letter by saying that the committee recognised they had no standing between the Church authorities and the architect, but willingly offered their services if, thereby, the bells could once more be rung as they were in the past. He got a reply from the Vicar saying he was grateful for the letter and adding that the trouble was rather accentuated by the fact that they had changed their architect. He (the Vicar) would try and find out what opinion the architect was acting upon, as his impression was that most architects were not experts in the matter of bells. The Vicar promised to bring the letter before the Church Council. That, said Mr. Lewis, was on April 8th, but he had heard nothing since. As soon as they heard something more from the Vicar of Chesterfield they would try and get a little further. He wanted to assure the Midland Counties Association that they were trying to do their best and do it tactfully without causing trouble.

SILENCERS FOR NOISY BELLS.

Referring next to the request that the committee should give some information about the Davis Silencers, which had been in use at Bishopsgate and Bromley Common, and which, he believed, were also in use at Kingsbury, Mr. Lewis said he went specially to Bromley Common to hear the effect of these silencers in operation. The church at Bromley Common was in a residential area and the bells were very loud outside. They were a fairly powerful Simpson-tuned ring and were distinctly loud inside the tower also. It had become almost impossible for the ringers to practise because of complaints. They had tried these silencers and were now able to practise weekly without any complaint worth speaking about. The silencers were in the nature of an ordinary muffle, except that the leather was not so thick and outside it was a plate of steel. The effect at Bromley Common was almost the same as if the bells were muffled, but there was a certain amount of metallic tap against the bell. Criticism of the silencers had been raised that they would be expensive, as they did not last long. His inquiries showed that they cost about £2 for a set of 16 (for silencing eight bells), that at Bromley Common they had been in use for 12 months and were practically as good as new. Those at Bishopsgate had been used for 44 peals and were still serviceable. He thought, therefore, the criticism was not well founded. The Towers and Belfries Committee agreed to recommend the use of such silencers as well worth trial in cases where the bells were a serious source of nuisance on practice nights. They did not take the place of properly blocking up the windows, where the windows should be blocked up to render the bells quieter at all times, but in cases where funds were not available for blocking the louvers, the silencers were very well worth trying, with this warning: The committee thought it desirable, before purchasing a complete set, that trials should be made with various samples of different thicknesses of leather and steel, because they felt that each tower required to be treated on its own merits. They could not prescribe a general medicine for them all.

Mr. S. F. Palmer, referring to the case of Chesterfield, said he had ascertained that a reawakened interest was being taken in the bells by prominent Chesterfield churchpeople and townfolk, and if the Council could follow the matter up now and continue to do so, there was great hope that the bells of Chesterfield would be heard again in the near future (hear, hear).

The report and recommendation were adopted and the committee reappointed as follows: Mr. E. H. Lewis (convener), Major J. H. B. Hesse, Mr. E. A. Young and Mr. J. Hunt.

OLD PEAL BOARDS.

On behalf of the committee which is collecting details of peal boards and other records relating to peals rung up to the year 1825, Mr. W. H. Hollier reported that the committee's appeal for information had brought to light interesting records. Among those from the Lancashire Association was an old book, kindly lent by Mr. G. R. Newton, containing 25 records of ringing by the Liverpool College Youths and other societies. Mr. William Willson sent two old books, dated 1776 and 1779, recording peals rung by the Leicester Scholars. One of the records was as follows:—

'At Wakefield on Monday May the 12th 1788 were rung a Peal of Tripple bob Tripples 5040 changes called Wakefield delight in 8 courses complete. The same set of Ringers without changing a man or setting a bell began another peal of Oxford Single Tripples in twelve courses consisting of 5040 changes and called Wakefields Surprise, both these peals consisting of 10080 changes were performed including the raising and setting the bells in 7 hours and 1 minute and were rung with exactness and nice distinction an instance never before done in the Kingdom. What adds to the singularity of the performance there were Two Fathers, Five Sons, Five Brothers, Four Cousins, One Uncle, One Nephew, yet only eight persons and only two names.'

The Sheffield and District Society sent records of peals rung at Sheffield Parish Church, which include the first peal of Cambridge Surprise, 6,040 changes, rung in 4 hours 18 minutes, the first in this method ever rung in the country.

The Kent County Association records included peals rung at Christ Church Cathedral (Canterbury), at the Wye and Ashford towers, and a book kindly lent by Mr. Harry Hoskins, in which were records of 17 peals rung at Greenwich by the Kentish Youths and one by the Eastern Scholars. The first was rung on December 1st, 1732.

Other records came from the Woolwich tower, Waltham Abbey, Romsey Abbey, St. Mary's, Warwick, St. Mary's, Ealing, St. Mary's, Twickenham, St. Margaret's, Westminster, All Saints', Fulham, the Watford Youths, Lavenham, Suffolk, Carisbrooke and Newport (Isle of Wight), Newark, Oldham, Croston, Preston, Thaxted, Eye and Shrewsbury. Records by the Society of Bristol Youths had also been received, and the Leeds and District Society sent the record of 'two whole peals of Holt's Triples, rung at Otley, in 6 hours 22 minutes, the first in 3 hours 10 minutes, and the second in 3 hours 12 minutes, on Tuesday, 20th February, 1787, being the first set of ringers that ever completed the above in time and course in England.'

The committee tendered their sincere thanks to all those who had so kindly assisted them, and thanked in anticipation those who have promised to assist.

The report was adopted and the committee re-elected as follows: Mr. W. H. Hollier (convener), the Rev. C. E. Wigg and Mr. W. Ayre.

The adoption of the report of the Biographies Committee (printed in 'The Ringing World' on June 5th) was proposed by Mr. J. S. Goldsmith, who emphasised the request contained in the report that those who had received forms and had not returned them would do so without delay, and also send with them photographs wherever possible.

Mr. W. A. Cave seconded and the report was adopted.

The committee was re-elected as follows: Mr. J. S. Goldsmith (convener), Mrs. E. K. Fletcher and Mr. W. A. Cave.

BALLOT FOR STANDING COMMITTEE.

The Council then came to the election of the Standing Committee, and for this purpose ballot papers were issued, and nominations invited by the president.

Mr. E. J. Butler proposed and Mr. C. Mee seconded that the six eligible retiring members should be re-elected, and this was agreed to. They were Alderman Pritchett, Messrs. W. T. Cockerill, W. A. Cave, C. F. Johnston, A. Paddon Smith and E. Denison Taylor.

Twelve names were proposed for the remaining six places, and when the result of the ballot was later announced, the following were declared elected: Archdeacon Parry, Mr. Rupert Richardson, Major J. H. B. Hesse, Messrs. J. T. Dyke, S. H. Wood and A. Walker. The unsuccessful were Messrs. P. J. Johnson, S. F. Palmer, F. M. Mitchell, E. Guise, H. Knight and G. Chester.

The President expressed the thanks of the Council to the committees who had served them for the last three years for the work they had done, which, he said, was pretty considerable. A great deal of the work of the Council was done by committees in between the meetings. The Council did not hear much about it, but it represented many hours of labour in most cases.

MUFFLED BELLS—INVESTIGATION TO BE MADE.

Mr. J. S. Goldsmith proposed the following motion: 'That, with a view to providing future guidance, the officers of this Council be requested to consider the question of the correct method of muffling and ringing church bells on occasions of national and local mourning, and, after consulting at discretion those who may be able to give information, draw up a recommendation on the subject, which, if possible, shall be submitted to the Church authorities for approval and laid before the Council at the next meeting.' He said he brought this motion forward because of the uncertainty that seemed to prevail, on the death of King George, as to the proper way in which bells should be muffled for the death of a sovereign and how and when they should be rung. As Editor of 'The Ringing World,' he received inquiries by post, telegraph and telephone asking for authentic information on the subject, but he was unable to give it. Correspondence in 'The Ringing World' afterwards showed that there was a desire for guidance, and he thought the officials of the Council were the best people to collect the information. If, then, they could issue it with authority of the Church behind it, those in doubt in future would have something definite to act upon. He emphasised there was no desire to do anything to interfere with ancient local customs, which in many cases were interesting survivals and would probably be a help to the Council officials in drawing up their recommendations.

The hon. secretary seconded the motion.

HISTORICAL REVIEW.

Mr. J. A. Trollope said with one exception, what was correct in the services of the Church for the King was correct for anybody else. The King was entitled to be married or buried in exactly the same way as a commoner. The only exception was his coronation service. Clearly, therefore, what was correct for an ordinary person was correct for the King; the only difference was in the elaboration; the essentials were exactly the same. The muffling of bells was invented by ringers for ringers. The earliest reference to muffling did not go back further than the eighteenth century, and that was to full muffling. The first reference to half-muffling was in 1785, and the first muffled peal was rung about 1816. In ecclesiastical matters it took him did not know how many centuries to make a 'custom.' The correct way to muffle bells was to do it in the way in which it sounded best to people outside.

Continuing, Mr. Trollope said if the question of the whole of the observance of the 'passing bell' could be investigated it would be of interest. There was a great deal of misunderstanding as to the use of bells at deaths and funerals, and most of the old customs were rapidly dying out. People talked of 'the passing bell,' but 'the passing bell' had not been rung in England for a matter of over two hundred years. 'The passing bell' was rung, of course, before the person died. The ordinary 'death bell,' which was now practically extinct, was rung immediately the person died; a bell rung at a funeral was a different thing altogether. How far that went back he was not quite certain. When the King died, the very first thing that was done was to send a message to the Lord Mayor of London requesting him to order the big bell of St. Paul's to be tolled. They would observe, said Mr. Trollope, that it was sent not to the ecclesiastical authorities, but to the Lord Mayor, and he was requested to order it. That was not done for religious purposes at all, and it was not done out of respect for the dead King. It was simply done so that the citizens of London should have the earliest opportunity of knowing that the King was dead, because, in the case of disputed succession, it was to their interests to know immediately. In the same way the 'death bell' that used to be tolled was an announcement. If they went through some 17th and 18th century diaries they would find that people in Oxford used to go about listening to the bells that were tolled, just as the ordinary man of to-day turned to the first page of 'The Times' in the morning to see who was dead.

Mr. W. H. Hollier spoke of the impressiveness of the bells of Westminster Abbey rung half-muffled on the occasion of the late King's funeral.

The Rev. F. Li. Edwards said he was glad to hear it stated that there was no intention of suggesting interference with local customs. There were local customs in considerable variety, and it was most to be desired that where these local customs held sway there should be no attempt to introduce rigid uniformity. He thought, however, the resolution would be of great use in enabling guidance to be provided in towers where there was no regular practice, and where advice was required. In investigating this question he thought the officials might collect valuable information as to the most impressive way of using bells.

The Rev. H. Drake expressed the view that the report of the officials should not be submitted to the Church authorities until it had been considered by the Council. If the Church authorities approved of it first, the Council could hardly discuss it afterwards. They could agree to it or not agree to it, but they could not very well, out of respect to the Church authorities, throw it out afterwards. He thought the proper thing would be first of all to discuss it at the next meeting, and then, if the Council agreed with it, to submit it to the Church authorities afterwards.

An amendment on these lines was proposed by Mr. E. P. Duffield, seconded by the Rev. H. Drake and carried, and the motion as amended was then adopted.

The President thanked Mr. Trollope for his historical survey, and said he had looked up the question of muffled ringing in the Oxford Dictionary to see if he could get any light upon it. The only reference he could find was in connection with the death of Beau Nash at Bath, of which Goldsmith—Oliver not Jack (laughter)—wrote of the death of Nash in 1762 that he was 'buried like a King' and that the bells 'rang a muffled peal of Bob Majors.'

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD.

ENJOYABLE MEETING AT STOURTON.

North Dorset Branch gatherings at Stourton are always a big attraction, and on June 13th, in spite of continuous rain, about 60 turned up for the branch quarterly meeting. Twenty-seven parishes, in five counties, were represented. Some enthusiasts from Bristol and Poole must have cycled about 80 miles ere they reached home again. The Guild office was conducted in St. Peter's Church by the Rector (the Rev. E. C. Wigg), who gave an inspiring address, exhorting the members, in the words of St. Paul to Timothy, to 'stir up the gift that is in thee.'

The ladies of the Church Council prepared and served a sumptuous tea in the Memorial Hall, tastefully decorated for the occasion. The Rev. F. Li. Edwards presided at the ensuing short business meeting. Apologies were received from the Rev. R. H. Gundry (Master), the Rev. I. G. Cameron and Mr. W. C. West, and Mr. E. J. Rowe (captain of the local ringers) sent greetings from Shaftesbury Hospital, where he is recovering from a fractured leg. The members were very pleased to hear that he is making good progress and hoping shortly to be home again.

One new member was elected, Mr. F. Feltham, of Bourton.

Thanks to the Rector for his cordial welcome to Stourton and for the service, and to the ladies for the good things provided for the tea tables (proposed from the chair and seconded by Dr. W. G. Addison, Rector of Zeals), were carried with acclamation, especially by a visitor from Stoke Wake, who enjoyed a free tea!

The Rector, in reply, said it was always a great pleasure to receive a visit from the Guild, and he kindly undertook to conduct a party round the beautiful Stourhead gardens.—Mrs. King also replied on behalf of the ladies.

The bells of Mere, Zeals and Silton were also available, and good practice was obtained in various methods.

AN EXCLUDED PEAL.

In reference to a paragraph which appeared in our last issue, Mr. Percy Amos, of Northampton, writes in the course of a lengthy letter: 'I notice in your issue for June 19th that the hon. secretary of the Peterborough Diocesan Guild calls the attention of the Peal Analysis Committee to the fact that the peal of Doubles, rung at Whiston, Northants, on April 11th, 1936, for the Peterborough Diocesan Guild, is not included in their records, one of the ringers not being a member. As I happen to be the ringer concerned, I shall be obliged if you will permit me space to say that the peal is quite in order in being thus published. I was proposed and seconded a member previous to starting by member friends whose wishes have the right to be respected.'

'In the Peterborough Diocesan Guild, as in all other associations, a rule exists that such membership shall be legitimate, subject to ratification at some subsequent meeting of the Guild; and no rule exists to say that a ringer who has been a member and ceased for any one reason shall not be re-elected. The committee, taking it upon themselves to ignore the wishes of these members, not only show meanness, but prove that they were afraid of a show of hands in refusing the right of ratification to be put.'

years in advancing the interests of the association, and they had decided to make some recognition of those services. He asked Mr. Groves, who was secretary of the Western Division for 21 years, to accept their gift, which he hoped he would be able to look upon and hear, and keep his time by for many years (applause).

He handed to Mr. Groves a handsome mantel chiming clock, striking the Westminster quarters, and inscribed:—

Sussex County Association of Change Ringers.

Presented to

in appreciation of his services as Honorary Secretary of the Western Division for 21 years.

Mr. Groves, who received the gift amid applause, thanked the members for their kindness and appreciation. He was pleased to be able to say that in the whole time he held office he had been able to attend every meeting (applause). He thanked the members for their support and hoped they would extend it to his successor equally as well.

Mr. Manley suggested that the association should adopt a form of service for use at meetings. He pointed out the advantages of this practice in other associations and guilds, and said he was sure the clergy would appreciate it. He caused some amusement by referring to a recent occasion when the ringers, on going into service, were given hymn books, and the clergyman immediately gave out a psalm. He added that it was more difficult to remember the words of a psalm than for a conductor to remember the calling of a peal.

Mr. Charman seconded, and, after some discussion, the proposal was agreed to.

The Master was thanked for presiding and also for the fact that he had been present at a number of divisional meetings during the year.

It was announced that a collection for the Benevolent Fund, taken at the tea tables, amounted to 16s. 6d.

In the evening there was further ringing at St. Peter's and St. Nicholas' Churches, and also at the Church of the Good Shepherd.

MAINTAINING A RINGERS' JOURNAL.

At long last there appears to be a growing recognition of the fact that if ringers require a cheaper paper, it is they who must provide the means, through a larger circulation. There are over twenty thousand ringers, nearly all of them change-ringers, in the fifty societies affiliated to the Central Council. Not one in five is a subscriber to the one paper that is run solely in the interests of their art. A considerably larger proportion read the paper, but they do not all buy it. The Central Council discussed the subject at their meeting in London and members and affiliated societies are to be asked for suggestions.

As far as 'The Ringing World' itself is concerned, the only complaint voiced against it was on the question of price. Everyone knows that quantity regulates price and the larger the quantity produced the cheaper the article can be sold. If the ringers of this country will increase their support of 'The Ringing World' sufficiently they can have a cheaper paper. To increase the circulation to a sufficient extent to bring the price down to twopence ought not to be beyond the powers of the Exercise. The Central Council, through the hon. secretary, will be glad to receive suggestions, and those who now 'pay and grumble' together with those who grumble but don't pay, have the opportunity of putting forward any practicable proposals that they may have.

The thing that we want to emphasise most in this campaign now launched is its bearing on the future of ringing. It is only natural that ringers should look upon the subject from their personal viewpoint, but we would like them to see it from a wider angle. The importance of subscribing to 'The Ringing World' is not only concerned with reducing the price which they have to pay, but with the maintenance of the art itself. We do not suggest that ringing would come to an end without a ringing paper—of course it would not do so. But there would be a gradually increasing lack of interest which would react upon the general organisation and progress of the art, and in the long run seriously affect the fortunes of the associations. For the co-ordination of the Exercise, therefore, and for the maintenance of that interest by which alone the art can be promoted in the best way, a ringing journal is a vital necessity. It will be interesting to watch the results which this new effort produces. There were suggestions made at the Central Council meeting, as reported on another page; other people may, perhaps, be able to supplement them. They will all be carefully considered and anything practicable that will lead, first of all to securing a journal for the Exercise for the future and secondly make it an economical proposition to reduce the price, will, we can assure our readers, be acted upon.

FOR BEGINNERS.

TO GET AWAY FROM CHANGES 'BY HEART.'

A new reader, who has not long since taken up ringing, but who rather unfortunately finds himself among a band who, from his account, have made no progress for years, but who think they are 'change ringers' because they are proficient in ringing the 'old ten,' asks us how he can get these ringers to move out of their rut. He has been to one or two ringing meetings, has seen how different is the real thing to that practised in his own tower, but hesitates to say much to his colleagues in case he upsets them. That, in effect at any rate, is what he writes to us.

We are afraid he has got a difficult and not very thankful task before him, and, as he is the junior, he will have to be very tactful about it if he wants to succeed. Apparently our correspondent does not know much about change ringing himself, so he can scarcely do any teaching.

We think he should begin by quietly trying to get the others interested in the association in his district, at any rate to a sufficient degree to get them to give an invitation to enough members to come to the tower, so that a simple change ringing demonstration could be given, and the local ringers shown something of what can be done on scientific principles. The important thing is to try and stir their interest and to show them that there really is something in our art worth practising. Without interest, of course, the whole thing is hopeless, but tactful conversation, the introduction into the belfry, almost casually at first, perhaps, of one of the simpler text books on ringing, the bringing along of a change ringing friend one practice night, references to some of the interesting things happening elsewhere in the country, as revealed week by week in 'The Ringing World'—all these little things should have a cumulative weight and eventually lead to a breakdown of the barriers.

Then, if they can ring the 'old ten' fairly successfully—and by the 'old ten' we presume they mean what is in reality Original Doubles, that is all the five bells pursuing a plain hunting course—why not endeavour to get them to introduce a little variation.

Probably at present they ring the same bell every time and know the thing by heart. Persuade them first of all, say two at a time, to change to a different bell. Explain to them that this is quite simple. They ring the thing they had memorised, except that they begin in a different place. The 5th man, for instance, took the bells in this order: 3, 1, 2, 4 (lead, lead), 3, 1, 2, 4. If he rings the 4th instead, he will have 1, 2 (lead, lead), 5, 3, 1, 2, 5, 3. He would soon get used to seeing the circle of ropes from a different spot and to looking out for the bell he had previously been ringing instead of the one he is now handling.

Let the ringers thoroughly master this plain hunting from every bell. It may need a little patience, but it is the first step. One thing more they should attempt to do at this stage, and that is to count the places as they pass through them. Thus: After leaving the lead, count the consecutive blows: 2nd's, 3rd's, 4th's, 5th's, 5th's, 4th's, 3rd's, 2nd's, lead, lead.

When this has been accomplished, try to get them a step further. It is unorthodox, but it might help to break the ice. When the man who is ringing the treble comes to lead the first blow, let him say 'Lead.' At this signal the man who is striking over him will strike over him again and lead: he will then hunt through the other bells, as he would have done if this 2nd's place, as it is called, had not been made, except that he begins at a different place in the cycle.

When the treble-man calls out, the man who has passed three bells going up, when, in fact, he is in 4th's, steps back a place before going forward again (this is called a 'dodge'), while, to fit in with this, the one who had just previously struck over the treble behind steps back into 4th's after striking in 3rd's, before going on again. The bell that is actually striking behind when the treble leads has two whole pulls there instead of one. When the treble leads for the fourth time the bells will come round.

Soon the ringers will notice that the 'work' follows in a cycle and that after making 2nd's, the interruptions in the plain hunting occur in regular succession: The dodge on the way down; the two whole pulls behind; the dodge on the way up. When this becomes clear, the trebleman should no longer call out when he is leading, and the other ringers should make their dodges or their extra whole pull behind from their knowledge of the cycle of work and the counting of their places.

GARDEN FETE FOR BELLS FUND.

In aid of the fund for the restoration of the tower and bells of St. Andrew's Church, North Weald, Essex, a garden fete is to be held, by kind permission of the Rev. and Mrs. Gosney, at the Vicarage next Wednesday. The fete will be opened by Lady Llewellyn Smith at 3.30 and ringers are invited to 'come along and help.' A set of twelve handbells will be available, and handbell ringers for the evening would be specially welcomed and admitted free. Admission to the fete is 4d.

The church bells are at present at the Whitechapel Bell Foundry. They are to be tuned, have all new fittings and be hung in a reconstructed frame, which, at the suggestion of Mr. E. H. Lewis, will be erected on a reinforced concrete foundation. The cost will be £450; already £210 has been raised since the appeal last December.

DEATH OF MR. EDWIN HIMES.

A GREAT RINGER.

We regret very much to record the death of Mr. Edwin Himes, of Bicester, Oxon, a ringer of great talent, who has shared in more than one notable performance.

He died as the result of an accident while at work, but the information that has reached us is rather scanty. He was crushed, we believe, by a falling crane, although he shouted a warning to his fellows to jump clear.

Formerly Mr. Himes lived in Oxford and was an excellent heavy bell ringer and was usually to be found at the 'back end' in peals. He rang the 7th to the 17,024 Double Norwich Major at Kidlington in 1899, when J. W. Washbrook, who composed the peal, called it from the tenor. It occupied 11 hours 12 minutes, and although afterwards the truth of the peal was disputed, it still stands as one of the greatest ringing performances on record, at any rate as a physical effort.

Mr. Himes was also one of the band who rang in the then record length of London Surprise Major, 11,328, at Drayton, Berks, in 1896, a record which stood until 1903.

Mr. Himes was one of the few men who could ring two church bells to changes, and at Launton, Oxon, in 1926, he rang the 2nd and 3rd to a peal of Bob Minor, which he called. Another accomplishment was that he was able to ring four handbells in changes, and was the only man who had rung a peal thus. In 1926 he rang 1-2-3-4 to 5,040 Stedman Doubles, with Mr. F. Neale ringing 5-6. On one occasion he attempted a peal of Stedman Triples on handbells, 'four-in-hand,' with the late Mr. J. W. Washbrook, and it was only the slipping of one of his bells that caused a breakdown.

In the realm of composition Mr. Himes had considerable knowledge, which he displayed with distinction by being the first to obtain the longest length of Cambridge Surprise Major, a 12,896 rung at Stoney Stanton, Leicestershire, in 1923. We remember on one occasion in the early days of 'The Ringing World' a well-known composer published a composition of Cambridge Major with the tenors parted. Within a day or so Mr. Himes wrote pointing out the repetition of just two changes in the peal.

Edwin Himes was of a quiet, retiring disposition, but he was an accomplished ringer, and his death will be mourned by many old friends.

THE 'MOVING' PEAL.

BOB MINOR IN A MOTOR-COACH.

To the peals that have been rung on board ship, in the train, in bed and other unusual places has now been added a peal on the road in a motor-coach! This was a 'moving' peal in more senses than one. The idea originated as a joke, and later taken seriously. The Apsley and Hempstead ringers were having their day out and picked up Mr. G. E. Debenham at St. Albans at 6.32 a.m. To avoid being disturbed if the coach had to stop at all, the 'pealers' moved to the worst possible place—1-2 and 5-6 on the back seat (one each side of the gangway), while the conductor sat on the edge of the next seat—in reverse order, with his left leg propped against the opposite seat. 'Go' was called about 6.40 (Fleetville, St. Albans), and things went along merrily until such places as Knebworth Corner, Tempsford Bridge, Sandy, etc. On these occasions such remarks as these, 'Hold tight! Double Corner! Bob!' would be heard—the conductor fortunately knowing the road (although facing rearwards).

So we proceeded, the edge of the seat getting a firmer hold as time went on. On one occasion Les rose to ease his position, but he chose the wrong moment—as he was materially assisted by the bus travelling over a 'culvert' bump. However, with the exception of two or three small trips, quickly put right, the end was reached (8.16 a.m.) just before coming to Stilton. Loud applause rewarded the 'heroes' or '!!!!!!' and welcome refreshment was speedily forthcoming. That was the beginning of a glorious day's outing. One person was afterwards heard to say that he did not know which was the worse—'a peal in bed' or 'one on the back seat of a travelling coach.'

LONDON COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

SOUTHERN DISTRICT.

The Southern District of the London County Association met, on June 20th, at Woolwich, in glorious weather, but with only a moderate attendance. After some ringing, the members attended evensong, conducted by the Rector (the Rev. W. F. Leadbitter), who gave a very interesting address, in the course of which he mentioned that he was a change ringer, and spoke of the untold effects of the sound of the bells on people outside the church. Just over 20 persons sat down to tea, kindly provided in the Rectory grounds. Then came some handbell ringing, to be followed by the routine business, when it was decided that Isleworth should be applied for on August 15th for the next meeting.

Those present stood for a moment as a token of respect to the late Mr. F. Goddard, of Isleworth, an old member of the association, who died recently.

Methods rung during the day included most of the standard methods and the four popular Surprise methods. The thanks of the district are due to the Rector and the local band for the arrangements made.

YORKSHIREMEN'S JOINT MEETING.

The annual joint meeting of the societies in the Southern area of the Yorkshire Association was held at Penistone on Saturday, June 20th, and about 30 members were present from Arksey, Barnsley, Conisborough, Doncaster, Eastwood, Elland, Handsworth, Rannmoor, Sheffield Cathedral and St. Marie's, Wath, Wortley, Selby Abbey, Sherburn and the local company.

Owing to the absence of the secretary, who was away on holiday, Mr. E. Cooper, of Arksey, officiated in his place and was thanked for his services.

Tea, provided by the local company in the Schoolroom, was very much appreciated, and the business meeting was held immediately after, the Rector (the Rev. A. B. Carleton) presiding.

Mr. C. A. Hewitt, of Sheffield Cathedral, was elected a member of the association.

It was proposed that the next meeting be held jointly with the Barnsley and District Society at Barnsley on September 12th, if Barnsley bells are back from the foundry and are available. Failing this, it was left to the secretary to make other arrangements.

Mr. S. F. Palmer (a representative on the Central Council) spoke of the need for more subscribers to 'The Ringing World,' mentioning what had transpired on this matter at the Central Council meeting in London. He stressed the fact that the Exercise might find itself in danger of losing the paper through the apathy of ringers generally owing to lack of support. He hoped that all present would do their utmost towards getting members in their own towers to take it, and the secretaries of the various associations do all they could to get additional subscribers.

Mr. Potter, of Barnsley, in supporting this, suggested that the Central Council should take it over and levy financial support from the associations and societies which are affiliated to the Council.

A discussion took place on this proposal, and Mr. Palmer pointed out that any suggestion that any member had to make would be forwarded to the secretary of the Central Council and receive every consideration.

Votes of thanks to the Rector and wardens, and to the ladies for providing tea, were heartily carried and replied to by the Rector and brought a very enjoyable meeting to a close.

LINCOLN DIOCESAN GUILD.

NORTHERN BRANCH AT BIGBY.

A meeting of the Grimsby District of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild was held at Bigby on Saturday, June 13th. The weather was at its best and brought together a nice 'gathering of the clans.' Towers represented were Ulceby, Barrow-on-Humber, Barton-on-Humber, Scunthorpe, Waltham, Burton-on-Stather, Killingholme, Grimsby and the local members. The Rev. R. Marsden, Vicar of Ulceby, Mr. and Mrs. W. Bramwell, of Goxhill, and three members of the Gainsborough District were also present. Owing to an illness near the church the bells were muffled.

The president (the Ven. Archdeacon Parry) conducted the service and gave an interesting address. Mr. H. Rushby presided at the organ. Mr. Bramwell very kindly rendered a solo, 'Bless this house,' which was very much appreciated. Through the kindness and generosity of the president and Mrs. Parry, the company of 36 afterwards sat down to a substantial repast in the school.

At the business meeting which followed, the Rev. R. Marsden, Mr. W. Harvey and Miss M. Rowntree, of Ulceby, were elected members, and Mr. H. Morwood (Bigby) re-elected. A telegram of congratulation was sent from the meeting to Mr. G. Ladd, of Pinchbeck, on his having completed 50 years as a member of the Guild.

Mr. J. Bray gave a very interesting account of his first attendance as a representative of the Guild at a meeting of the Central Council. He said he was greatly impressed by what he saw and heard, and he, as well as Archdeacon Parry, made it quite clear why more ringers should take 'The Ringing World' every week. They pointed out that if 'The Ringing World' ceased to be published, it would be a great blow to the Exercise.

Heartily votes of thanks were given to the president for his hospitality, for conducting the service, for the use of the bells and for his address, and also to the ladies for arranging the tea; to Mr. Rushby for presiding at the organ, and to Mr. Bramwell for his excellent rendering of the solo.

Members then brought the handbells out and others returned to the tower, where further ringing brought another very happy meeting to a close.

LAVENHAM'S 125th RINGING ANNIVERSARY.

A very happy gathering took place on Saturday, June 20th, at the undisturbed old English village of Lavenham, when many ringers availed themselves the opportunity of a pull on the grand old peal. Everyone was catered for, and the methods rung were Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Plain Bob, Double Norwich, Kent and Oxford Treble Bob, Cambridge and Superlative Surprise Major. Among those present were Messrs. H. Chapman (Keyston, formerly of Manchester), J. Waugh (Woodford), J. Ward (Saffron Walden), T. A. King (Shipley, Yorks), Miss H. Snowdon (Halstead), and Miss E. Le Beau (Bocking). Other parishes represented were Acton, Cornard, Coggeshall, Cavendish, Groton, Kelvedon, Little Waldingfield, Long Melford, Monks Eleigh, Newton, Sudbury, Thorington and Woodbridge.

A SPLICING CRITIC CRITICISED.

COMMENTS AT A MIDDLESEX MEETING.

An interesting meeting of the North and East District of the Middlesex County Association and London Diocesan Guild was held at Stanmore on Saturday week, and, despite attractions elsewhere, some 35 members attended. After the usual ringing a short service was held at 5 p.m. This was followed by tea, at which the Rector (the Rev. W. A. Hewett) presided. Subsequently the usual business meeting took place, with the district vice-president (Mr. G. W. Fletcher) in the chair.

Six new members were elected; Barnet was chosen for the next meeting, if possible, on July 18th or 25th; and an announcement made that a joint meeting with the Hertford Association would be held at St. Albans on August 29th.

A vote of congratulation to the Oxhey and Watford handbell band, who had recently rung peals of Spliced Surprise Major in four methods, double-handed, was moved by Mr. C. T. Coles, who described these peals as the greatest handbell performances ever accomplished.

Mr. G. R. Pye, one of the two surviving members of the band that rang the first peals of London and the only peals of Bristol on handbells some 30 years ago, seconded, and the motion was carried with applause.

The hon. secretary reported on the recent meeting of the Central Council, which he described as a most successful and interesting one. After going through the Council agenda and reporting on the most important items discussed, Mr. Coles said it was noticeable that many more members of the Council than usual spoke at the meeting, and there appeared to be a greater desire to sift matters, with a great deal less prejudice than usual. This was all for the good of the Council. On the question of the resolution relating to 'The Ringing World,' Mr. Coles said he thought the only safeguard for the future was an increased circulation, and he urged members to do their best to further this.

Comment was made by Mr. Coles on recent correspondence in 'The Ringing World' in connection with splicing, and he amused the company by stating that the last letter published, which he had not taken the trouble to reply to, contained some extraordinary fallacies. After stating that a certain peal of Spliced Surprise Major contained 1,000 changes in one method, and only 120 in another, the writer added that Minor ringers did not do this. 'Well,' said the speaker, 'in two of the recent peals of Minor rung in a very large number of methods there was a 720 consisting of 13 methods, containing 12 leads, or 288 changes, in one method, and one lead only, or 24 changes, of each of seven other methods. So the Minor ringers do do that! Not that it mattered,' continued Mr. Coles, 'but it was nonsense to criticise such classes of peals when it was obvious that the greater the number of methods rung, the fewer the changes available for each method, whilst the truth of the peal always had to be considered.'

Another fallacy of the writer of the letter was the idea he had that only ringers of Major need only learn part of a method, and he had quoted the case of a ringer who had learned two leads of Bristol Surprise only before ringing a peal in four methods. 'Some few years ago,' said Mr. Coles, 'I went to a meeting at a six-bell tower, and there met my good friend Mr. George L. Joyce. George asked me to join in a touch of Spliced London and Wells Minor, but when I pointed out that I did not know the work of Wells, he said, "That will be all right, catch hold of the second and ring London." And I rang London, whilst the others rang London and Wells! So it is not only Major ringers who do these things, and the fact still remains that this class of ringing is the highest yet achieved, and recent peals of Major and Minor have reached the highest class.'

Mr. Coles ended his report by saying that the arrangements for the Council meeting were excellent; a great deal of business had been got through in record time, thanks to the way everything had been prepared by the hon. secretary, and to the tactful way in which the president controlled the meeting.—The report was adopted amid applause.

Mr. G. W. Fletcher urged members to support 'The Ringing World' and to send in their suggestions for its improvement. If ringers would only state what they wanted it would be considered and, if practicable, adopted. Mr. Fletcher also gave particulars of insurance of ringers, which may now be had at a very low premium.

The usual votes of thanks to the Rector, the towerkeeper (Mr. G. Hughes), etc., concluded the meeting. Whilst ringing was enjoyed (!) in the heat by some, others enjoyed a walk round the beautiful Rectory grounds, and it would appear that the victim of this arrangement was the District Master, Mr. Tom Lock, who had to stay in the belfry all the time.

GOLDEN WEDDING.

On Saturday, June 20th, at St. Michael's Parish Church, Aldershot, a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples: E. Gower 1, Miss Doris Viggers 2, T. Denyer 3, Miss Marjorie Smith 4, W. Denyer 5, W. Viggers 6, C. Denyer (conductor) 7, P. Eldridge 8. Rung as a golden wedding compliment to Mr. and Mrs. W. Fisher, parents of Miss A. Fisher, tower secretary. Mr. Fisher was for many years a member of St. Michael's company. After the ringing the ringers were entertained by Mr., Mrs. and Miss Fisher.

ARCHDEACONRY OF STAFFORD SOCIETY.ANNUAL MEETING AT LICHFIELD.

The annual meeting of the Stafford Archdeaconry Society was held at Lichfield on Saturday, June 20th. Upwards of 80 members and friends attended. Through the kind intervention of the Archdeacon the Cathedral bells were available from 3 p.m. to 3.45, and again from 6.30 to 7.30; St. Mary's (8) and St. Michael's (6) were in use from 3 o'clock. A large percentage of the members took advantage of attending evensong at the Cathedral.

A meat tea, served in St. Mary's Parish Hall, was followed by the general meeting. The Ven. Archdeacon R. L. Hodson (the society's new president) took the chair, and was given a warm welcome. Apologies for absence were received from Mr. Ben Gough, who, through illness, was unable to attend; Mr. F. Brotherton, retiring Ringing Master, who that day had taken unto himself a wife; and Mr. H. Boswell.

The report and balance sheet were adopted. The latter showed an increased balance on the right side.

The officers were re-elected, with the exception that Mr. H. Boswell was elected to the office of Ringing Master.

The following places were chosen for forthcoming meetings: September, Codsall; January, Tipton; April, Aldridge; and the annual, in June, at Lichfield. It was resolved to continue bi-quarterly meetings for practice. The first is to be held at St. Luke's, Wolverhampton, on Saturday, July 25th.

Votes of thanks to the president for taking the chair and to Mrs. Cresswell, in catering for tea, were moved by the Rev. C. H. Barker (clerical secretary), and received with acclamation.

In their annual report the committee said meetings during the year had been held at Lichfield, Kinver, Kingswinford and Walsall—all with a moderate attendance. There had also been two bi-quarterly meetings held, viz., at Pattingham and Wombourne. These were a 'try-out,' with the object of giving aspirants a chance to practise something fresh from what they had been accustomed to, which met with some success; also to do a little missionary work where change ringing was at a low ebb. It was hoped that such meetings would be arranged for the coming year, also that they would be better supported than those under review.

Bell restoration was still on the move. The six bells at Codsall had been recast and two trebles added to complete the octave. The trebles were the gift of the Misses Moreton, in memory of their father, Mr. Edwin Moreton, who for 50 years was a ringer at Codsall. The five bells at Aldridge had been recast and a treble added. The five at Seighford had also been rehung. Preparation was in progress for the restoration of both Coseley and Willenhall rings of eight.

RINGERS WEDDED AT ALDERSHOT.MR. R. J. WHITFORD AND MISS NANCIE DENYER.

In the presence of many friends and relations, the wedding took place at St. Michael's Parish Church, Aldershot, on Monday, of Mr. Reginald John Whitford, youngest son of the late Mr. F. Whitford and of Mrs. Whitford, of Southampton, and Miss Nancie Mary Youles Denyer, younger daughter of Mr. William Denyer and the late Mrs. Denyer, of Aldershot.

Both bride and bridegroom are ringers at Aldershot, the bride having been the youngest lady ever to ring a peal on tower bells. The bridegroom was formerly a ringer at South Perrott (Dorset), and is now in business as a shoemaker in Aldershot.

The marriage ceremony was performed by the Vicar (Canon H. Le Fleming) and was fully choral. The bride, who was attired in a pink silk dress, with hat, shoes and gloves to match, was given away by her father and attended by Miss Edna Southby as bridesmaid. Miss Southby is also a ringer at St. Michael's. The duties of best man were carried out by Mr. Charles Denyer.

The bridal pair left the church through the belfry under the crossed ropes, held by their fellow-ringers, who immediately after set the bells going to Stedman and Grandsire.

A reception was held at Messrs. Darracotts, and a number of ringers were present. Their gift to the happy pair was a rimless mirror. There was a large number of other presents.

When Mr. and Mrs. Whitford left for their honeymoon at Littlehampton, they departed to the sound of handbells violently jangled on the railway platform.

DEATH OF MRS. H. DAINS.

Mrs. Dains, widow of the late Mr. Henry Dains, the celebrated composer and Royal Cumberland Youth, died last Saturday at the age of 80 years after a long period of illness. The funeral took place yesterday (Thursday) at Finchley. Mr. Dains died in 1916.

The number of peals rung during the year was 37 (as against 15 for the previous year). Five were rung half-muffled as a tribute to His late Majesty King George V. A quarter-peal of Grandsire Caters at St. Peter's, Wolverhampton, on October 7th last, was rung half-muffled to the memory of the Ven. Hugh Bright (Archdeacon of Stafford), president of the society from 1924 to 1935. The committee regretted to record the loss, through death, of the following members, in addition to the late president: The Rev. Charles A. Clements, of Grappenhall; Mr. A. Kermeth, of Penn; and Mr. Peter Preston, of Stone.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

The ring of five bells at Rushden, Herts, is to be rehung in a new frame by Messrs. Gillett and Johnston.

Seven Lincolnshire ringers have been practising Spliced Surprise Minor together. Six of them rang a peal in 32 methods. The performance has now been repeated so that the 'odd' man and the trebleman in the first peal could ring the 32 methods on an 'inside' bell. That is a very brotherly action.

Mr. George Williams reached his 1,400th peal last week when he conducted a peal of Bob Major at East Tytherleigh, Hants. The Master of the Winchester and Portsmouth Guild is 78, but that he carries his years well is not only obvious from his appearance, but from his powers of performance. Part of it, we think, must be due to his consistently cheery outlook on life.

To take part in a peal at Marham, Norfolk, the conductor, Mr. Nolan Golden, cycled 38 miles each way!

Mr. A. D. Stone, who has just relinquished the office of hon. secretary of the Sussex Association, has been advised to refrain from ringing at the moment, but he hopes to resume Sunday service ringing activities after a little while.

The death took place at Dunstable on June 18th at the early age of 36 years of Mr. George W. Harris, a member of the Priory Church band and formerly of Deptford.

INTERESTING PEAL TABLET.

The first peal on the bells at Costessey, Norfolk, was rung on Thursday, June 18th, by a band from Norwich, but a peal tablet in the belfry records the feats of the local company in 1766, and is inscribed as follows:—

CHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD.

VISIT TO ANCIENT ROSTHERNE.

On Saturday last, a meeting of Stockport and Bowdon Branch of the Chester Diocesan Guild was held at the ancient church of Rostherne amid the glories of the Cheshire countryside. The bells were made full use of till service in church at 4.30 p.m., conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. J. Hughes, who in the course of a short talk drew attention to the antiquity of the bells of Rostherne. He also remarked upon the difference there would be if there were no churches in this country. He said it was the church buildings which were witnesses to the sight, and the bells were the witnesses to the hearing of the people, and he felt sure that no one could feel indifferent to God when confronted by an ancient church or hearing a peal of bells.

After the service some time was spent in inspecting the church and an old Bible dating back to the 16th century and printed in the old English style of lettering.

Tea was served in the Egerton Hall, and 30 members and friends enjoyed an excellent repast.

The business meeting followed under the chairmanship of the Vicar, who welcomed the Guild to Rostherne.

It was decided to send a letter to the general secretary of the Guild regretting his resignation and expressing appreciation of his services to the Guild. The members also passed a vote of condolence with the relatives of the late Mr. J. M. Simon, an honorary member of the Guild for many years.

A short account of the committee meeting was given, and it was decided to join with Macclesfield branch at a meeting in September.

Votes of thanks were accorded the Vicar for his services and ready assistance, to the organist, to the ladies who had maintained Rostherne's high reputation in the provision of tea, and to the local ringers for having everything ready.

The bells were then made full use of till late in the evening, the methods rung including Cambridge Surprise Minor, Clailwood, Neasden, St. Albans, Wragby and Braintree Delight, Capel, Sandal, London Scholars' Pleasure, Kingston and Oxford Treble Bob, Kent Treble Bob, Bob Minor and Doubles.

BELL BROADCASTS.

CENTRAL COUNCIL PRESIDENT'S COMMENTS.

To the Editor.

Sir,—Will you permit me to make one or two comments on the correspondence on broadcasts?

The Central Council at their meeting were discussing two quite separate forms of broadcasting, which were not always kept distinct by the speakers.

When the B.B.C. broadcast a service from a church, which they have selected, they naturally broadcast the singing, the ringing, the praying and the preaching to which the congregation is accustomed and with which, presumably, it is satisfied. I see no reason, however, why wireless listeners should not express their opinions of any part of the service. If the ringing is not up to accepted standards, there is a good chance for the local association to do some missionary work.

On the other hand, when the B.B.C. broadcast bells as a special item, as in the 'Ringing Isle' series, it is only fair to the Exercise as a whole that the ringing should be as perfect as possible. To ensure that result the best possible band should be picked, from local ringers if possible, and, even more important, the band should not attempt to do more than they can do well.

In my remarks on Yorkshire and Lancashire ringing I referred to only one of the latter cases in each of the two counties. From the other towers I was referring to service ringing.

I hope that Worsley will take my opinion seriously. It has been confirmed by every ringer to whom I have spoken about it, and no objection to my remarks was raised at the Council meeting. May I commend to Mr. Ridyard the excellent restraint of the recent service broadcast from St. Mary's, Nottingham? The rounds on six, eight and ten bells were a joy to listen to. Has Mr. Ridyard considered why, from St. Mary Redcliffe, a twelve-bell tower, Cateters were broadcast last August? The very mixed band approached their task with much trepidation, and took the trouble to ring a quarter-peal for practice earlier in the evening. It would have been quite easy to have got two more ringers and to have murdered Cinques.

I should like to add my appreciation of the ringing from Pudsey. Except for a slight nervousness at the start and the two trips already mentioned, the ringing was first class.

Finally, may I plead that this correspondence should not lead to personalities. At the Council meeting I tried to express, without fear or favour, what I believe to be the general opinion of the Exercise on some recent broadcasts.

BROADCASTS FROM LANCASHIRE.

Sir,—I was very interested to see Mr. Ridyard's letter in your last issue, and if I may be permitted to paraphrase Holy Writ, I would say with the Psalmist (Psalm 37, verse 25, with variations), 'I have been young, and am now of a certain age, and yet saw I never anyone quite so anxious to demonstrate that the cap fits.'

I think I am right in saying that Worsley was not specifically mentioned at the Central Council meeting, but now he has raised the question, may I ask Mr. Ridyard whether he seriously maintains that the ringing broadcast from there was a credit to the tower, or the county, or the Exercise?

We all know that there are many good ringers in Lancashire, men capable of accurate striking, and it seems a pity that, when a broadcast has been arranged, apparently no one is sufficiently interested to organise a really first-class band for the occasion.

The Pudsey men deserve the congratulations of the whole Exercise on the truly excellent ringing they put over recently. It was a pleasure to listen to and I hope we may have some more.

'LEAVE WELL ALONE'

Dear Sir,—May I express the opinion (held, I feel sure, by many others) that the Central Council would further the interests of the Exercise best as regards broadcasting by leaving well alone. All of us like to hear good ringing, but it would be better not to over-stress its importance rather than risk the breaking up of bands and doing an injustice to ringers who may be good churchmen and keen in the belfry, although perhaps not quite so proficient as their brethren; and ringers are not always plentiful.

I think the B.B.C. prefer a local atmosphere in their broadcasts, and the proposals of members of the Council tend towards unlocality. Does not all broadcasting contain items of music good, bad and indifferent? And do those who make these proposals really think that intelligent listeners will be 'gulled' into the belief that the ringing in our towers is always of such a high standard?

Certain remarks at the Council meeting will not promote co-operation between the clergy and ringers (a cause we are supposed to have had at heart for many years). A clergyman may be, and probably is, quite aware without being told of the imperfections of his ringers and other churchworkers, but he is bound to act charitably towards them all, and not supplant them by outsiders.

FIRST MASONIC PEAL IN THE CITY.

PEAL BOARD UNVEILED AT ST. OLAVE'S.

On Sunday, June 21st, a pleasant little ceremony was performed in the belfry of St. Olave's, Hart Street, City, the occasion being the unveiling and dedication of a board erected in the tower recording the first peal ever rung in the City of London by a band of Freemasons, viz., a peal of Stedman Triples on October 28th, 1935.

At 9.30 a.m. the complete band assembled in the tower and rang upwards of a thousand changes in the same method, after which Bro. the Rev. St. Barbe Sladen, Rector of St. Margaret Pattens' Church, City (who was deputising for the Rector of St. Olave's whilst on holiday), in spite of his 80 years, ascended the belfry stairs, and, after a few well-chosen words and prayers, unveiled and dedicated the board the glory of God.

The Rev. St. Barbe Sladen was thanked for his services by the conductor of the peal, who mentioned that a more appropriate tower could hardly have been chosen for this peal, standing as it did almost in the heart of the City of London and the hub of the universe. Before his departure from the tower for 11 a.m. matins, a bob course of Stedman Triples was rung with the band standing in the same order as in the peal, viz.: Bros. Arthur D. Barker 1, Ernest Brett 2, Arthur G. Mason 3, Stafford H. Green 4, George W. Steere 5, William Bottrill 6, James Bennett (conductor) 7, Henry T. Willson 8.

The work of painting and writing the board, which has a black background, gold lettering and a Masonic badge, has been most satisfactorily carried out by Mr. A. W. Coles, Master of the Middlesex County Association.

A press photographer from 'The Masonic Record' was present, and took a flashlight photograph of the board and band.

MASONIC PEAL TABLET AT EDGBASTON.

On Friday, June 26th, an interesting ceremony took place in the belfry of Edgbaston Parish Church, Birmingham, the occasion being the unveiling of a tablet recording a peal of Stedman Triples rung by members of the Masonic craft in honour of the 80th birthday of Worshipful Brother J. S. Pritchett. In requesting the Vicar, Canon Stuart Blofeld, to accept and dedicate the gift, Brother T. H. Reeves stated that it was erected in recognition of Worshipful Brother Pritchett's great services to Masonry and bellringing, he being Deputy Provincial Grand Master of Warwickshire and Master of St. Martin's Guild of Church Bellringers for the Diocese of Birmingham.

Mr. Councillor A. Paddon Smith, a vice-president of St. Martin's Guild, unveiled the tablet in the unavoidable absence of Worshipful Brother Pritchett.

In accepting the gift, the Vicar said he appreciated the honour of having Mr. Pritchett's name perpetuated in his belfry, for he was a man he greatly admired for his public services. In addition to his activities in his profession as a barrister, he was also an alderman of the city and bailiff of King Edward's High School, Birmingham.

The tablet was specially designed by Worshipful Brother J. W. Pemberton and is carried out on strict Masonic principles.

HANDBELLS AT WEDDING.

At St. John's Church, Kingston Vale, the marriage recently took place of Miss Audrey Holbrook, niece of the Rev. F. Ll. Edwards, to Mr. M. Burges-Short. As the church has only one bell, members of the London County Association kindly came to the rescue with handbells. To the surprise and delight of the bride and bridegroom and the large assembly of guests, they were greeted at the church door with rounds and Queens, followed by a course of Grandsire Triples: F. Ll. Edwards 1-2, F. Hawthorne 3-4, T. W. Taffender 5-6, W. Barratt 7-8.

THE BROADCAST FROM ST. HELENS.

Sir,—With reference to Mr. G. R. Newton's remarks at the Central Council meeting regarding broadcasts, a report of which appeared in 'The Ringing World' on June 19th, there is no doubt the tower Mr. Newton refers to is St. Helens Parish Church. Mr. Newton stated he offered to bring a band of ringers to carry out the broadcast at St. Helens. This was not exactly the case. Mr. Newton was asked, in case the local band did not wish to broadcast themselves, would he bring a band. Mr. Newton raised certain queries about the difficulty in collecting ringers on Sunday, as the majority preferred to ring in their own towers, which is quite natural. This was taken into consideration and we decided to rely on our own ringers. Mr. Newton advised us to ring rounds and call changes and not try any fancy touches. We took the advice of this experienced ringer and rang rounds and call changes, and from the number of letters of congratulation we received, not only from experienced ringers, but from the public, our broadcast was a success and thoroughly enjoyed. It is rather strange that Mr. G. R. Newton in his speech should state, 'Rounds and call changes should not be encouraged.' We, in St. Helens, would welcome ringers of Mr. Newton's calibre on practice nights, when perhaps the next time we are on the air our broadcast would be appreciated by the president and other members of the Central Council.

H. GRUNDY.

CENTRAL COUNCIL AND 'THE RINGING WORLD.'

NEED FOR GREATER SUPPORT.

The question of promoting the circulation of 'The Ringing World' among ringers was discussed at the meeting of the Central Council. It was brought up on a motion placed on the agenda in the name of Mr. F. E. Dawe in the following terms: 'To call attention to the present very inadequate support given to "The Ringing World," and to consider what steps (if any) can be taken to increase the circulation.'

Mr. Dawe said this was a most important subject for the ringing Exercise. In 1878 he began taking a paper called 'Church Bells,' and he had taken the ringing papers right up to the previous week, but no ringing paper had ever been supported as it should have been. In the early days of 'Bell News' when he used to travel the country a great deal, he did his best to get support for that paper, and he found then, as he found now with regard to 'The Ringing World,' that in many towers 'Bill Smith buys a paper and passes it round.' He had recently heard of a case where a good change ringing company existed. One man bought 'The Ringing World' on Friday for 3d. He kept it two days, then sold it to another member of the company for 2d., and this member in turn sold it to another for a penny two days later. 'Nobody knows what becomes of it after that,' added Mr. Dawe, amid laughter. Since he sent in his resolution he noticed the words '(if any)' had been inserted. They were not his words, because he had the greatest hopes that something might be done, but in those two words there was just an element of a bucket of cold water thrown on the motion. Something must be done. They must have a ringing paper of some description and they should give 'The Ringing World' more support, not only to enable it to be made a better paper, but to make it worth a competent man's while to give his time and skill to the publishing of it. The enthusiasm and energy of Mr. Goldsmith for over 25 years had been wonderful, and it was marvellous that with the meagre support he had kept the paper going. He (Mr. Dawe) had done his best to drive it into people's heads that if they would support the paper properly it would be improved. At Warwick he made an offer, if a few others would do the same, to give £5 a year towards a fund for improving the paper, so as to endeavour to induce others to take it, but he had since discovered there would be a certain amount of difficulty over that. For one thing, as subscribers died out it might be difficult to replace them. But they wanted something done. He was going to suggest that all the associations should be requested to approach each individual member and use every persuasive power. In that assembly there were many skilled business men from some of the most go-ahead towns in the world. Some were hopeless when it came to discussing the question of retaining old and valuable and historic bells (laughter)—they would destroy anything for the good of trade—but he felt sure on this question of increasing the circulation of 'The Ringing World,' they would get the best advice from the best business men in the room. He knew it could be done and it would have to be done (hear, hear).

HOW HELP MIGHT BE GIVEN.

Mr. E. A. Young, who seconded, said all associations relied on propaganda, and one of the greatest pieces of machinery for this purpose was undoubtedly the Press. The ringing Exercise was exceedingly fortunate in having a paper devoted to its interests. Mr. Pilson Young made a special point of it in his article in 'The Radio Times.' What they had to do was to look ahead. If they lost their paper, they would lose their best means of propaganda and the preservation of their interests. When the time came that they lost Mr. Goldsmith they would have a difficulty in inducing anyone to succeed him and who would look after their many-sided interests unless he received a fair return for his labours. How were they to do something? It was difficult to know. The Council had not the money. It supported the paper by advertising, and he wondered whether Mr. Goldsmith could be allowed to put under the heading of the paper the words, 'The official organ of the Central Council of Church Bellringers,' and whether members of the Exercise, who had anything to advertise, would use its columns. As an instance of unexpected results from advertising in 'The Ringing World,' Mr. Young said he once wanted to sell a harp. He tried an advertisement in 'The Ringing World.' It seemed rather a forlorn hope, but within a fortnight he had sold it.

Mr. P. J. Johnson said it was regrettable to come across towers, as one frequently did, where only one copy was taken among perhaps eight or ten ringers. He supported the suggestion that ringers should use the advertising columns more, and he thought that associations in their annual reports might tell their members of the importance to the Exercise of a ringing paper and the serious difficulty of maintaining the circulation. They could urge members to support the paper as a duty, and to take it not only in their own interests, but in the interests of the whole Exercise. With the circulation that it had got he had often wondered how it had been possible to carry it on at all. If for any reason the paper ceased publication it would be a great blow to the Exercise. They all knew that. He felt it was their duty to act as propagandists (hear, hear). If they would do that and try to push the paper, he thought it would give new heart to their friend and probably lengthen his life by another 50 years (laughter and applause).

Mr. G. Pullinger advocated a scheme which he had put into practice for a number of years. He said he had taken two copies of 'The Ringing World' every week. That cost him sixpence and he believed it was worth it. His surplus copy he left at different towers all over the district. He did not leave them with the same man every week. In a number of cases, he believed, this had resulted in ringers becoming subscribers. He believed if every member of the Council from that time would take two copies a week and do as he had done, they would see good results. It was, perhaps, only a ' flea-bite,' but it was something to go on with (applause).

Mr. T. Warrington suggested that each association should make a grant of two guineas a year to the Editor of 'The Ringing World' to distribute copies to that value to those towers, known to the secretary, who did not take the paper. It would not, of course, be sent to the same towers every week, but it would probably lead to new subscribers.

THE QUESTION OF PRICE.

Mr. S. F. Palmer said he believed the great bugbear was the question of price. They in that Council, of course, all knew it was worth threepence, but they could not make ringers who did not take an interest believe it, although he believed they would take it if it were a penny. He thought the Council might approach the various associations with the idea of getting them to communicate with their towers and asking how much greater support they would give to the paper if it were published for a penny. They would thus find out what sort of a guarantee they would get. He believed, if the price were reduced to a penny, nearly every ringer would take it.

Mr. A. H. Pulling said the paper was worth its price to the enthusiasts, but to the ordinary man threepence was too much. At present they paid 13s. a year to a newsagent—if they paid 8s. or 9s. direct to Mr. Goldsmith and had the paper sent by post, they would get a better and a cheaper paper. He suggested that if three or four members of the Council discussed the subject they would find a way to do it.

Mr. J. A. Trollope said while there was something in the point Mr. Pulling had raised, and some people certainly did grumble about the price, he did not think that was the real trouble. People might pay threepence and grumble, but if the price were reduced to a penny they would have to increase the circulation so much that there were not sufficient ringers in England to make up the amount. They might do it with twopence, but a penny was out of the question. What they must do was to go on with their propaganda and persuade people that the paper was a necessity for the Exercise and try and get them to support it for their own sake.

Mr. G. R. Newton said after the matter was discussed at Plymouth four years ago the Lancashire Association decided to pay double the amount they had been paying for the notices of the meetings. If all the associations would do that, it would go a long way towards solving the financial difficulty. Continuing, Mr. Newton said he did not see why ringers should grumble at 3d. They lived in a world of their own, and 'The Ringing World' was the only thing that kept the Exercise together. He hoped other associations would follow Lancashire's example.

SUGGESTIONS INVITED.

The Hon. Secretary (Mr. G. W. Fletcher) said they were all agreed that they wanted to do the best they could to keep the paper going. In his experience in the last four or five years he had found that some members of the Council did not take the paper, and he was not certain that all secretaries of affiliated societies took it; at any rate, he had come to the conclusion that some of his advertisements had not been read by them. The Council would remember, continued Mr. Fletcher, that four years ago the officers of the Council were requested to consider the matter and put forward suggestions. It was raised again last year, and he thought the time had come when they should ask members and associations to send their suggestions. There were plenty of grumblers, but they did not get suggestions. He, therefore, moved that 'this Council requests all members and secretaries of affiliated societies to send in suggestions with a view to increasing the circulation of "The Ringing World," that the suggestions be considered by the officers of the Council and Mr. Goldsmith, and that a report be circulated to all members.'

Mr. Dawe accepted this motion and seconded it.

Mr. J. W. Jones said with regard to propaganda he pushed the paper at practically all the meetings held by his association. He advocated obtaining the paper direct by post from the editorial office, instead of through a newsagent. It would make a tremendous difference, and he hoped all ringers would do this, as well as push the paper at their meetings.

Mr. J. Hunt supported the suggestion that the paper should be obtained through the post. If everyone did that, he believed it could be sold a penny cheaper.

The motion proposed by the hon. secretary was then put and carried.

Mr. J. S. Goldsmith said he had deliberately kept out of the discussion so that the members should not be in any way influenced by what he might say. He hoped the discussion would lead to something practical being done, because his chief concern was for the future of the Exercise, which depended so largely upon having a ringing paper. He thanked the members of the Council for the very sympathetic way in which they had discussed the matter.

STAFFORD ARCHDEACONRY'S RECOMMENDATION.

At the annual meeting of the Society for the Archdeaconry of Stafford at Lichfield, Mr. B. Horton, one of the representatives of the society at the Central Council meeting, quoting from what was

PROPOSAL FOR EARLIER MEETINGS DEFEATED.

For many years past the meetings of the Central Council on Whitsun Tuesday have begun at 11 a.m., and there have been occasions when the business has been so lengthy that members have had to leave before it finished. At the last meeting an effort was made to get the hour of meeting altered.

Mr. G. Pullinger (Winchester and Portsmouth Guild) moved that 'In the opinion of this Council, the morning session of Council meetings should, when possible, commence at 10 a.m.' He said it appeared to him, at several of the meetings he had attended, that the time had been insufficient to deal with the Council business, although that day it seemed to be otherwise. In recent years there had been a great deal of work, and the result had been that towards the end of the session the business had been rushed. Under such circumstances it could not be dealt with properly. What drew his attention to it was that at some of the meetings in the provinces members who had to travel long distances had to leave before the meeting ended. He knew of one case where a representative had been instructed by his association to vote on a certain question in a certain way, but was unable to do so because he had to leave before the question was reached on the agenda. The ideal way would be to spread their meetings over two days, but there was a considerable amount of difficulty in that. It was impossible to start their meeting on Whitsun Monday, because many guilds and associations held their annual meeting on that day, and the representatives would be unable to attend, or, if they did, and the Central Council meeting was held at a distance, they would be unable to attend their own association's meeting. There were many representatives who had to be back at their work by Wednesday morning, and if the meeting were extended to Wednesday they would be unable to be present. The alternative was to meet earlier on Whitsun Tuesday. The only objection he could see to this course was that the Standing Committee met before the Council meeting. That was not so serious as it used to be, because, owing to better travelling facilities, it had been found possible to hold a meeting of the Standing Committee on the previous evening. The committee had met at eight o'clock the night before; if they had met at seven o'clock they could have got through most if not all the business that had been left until that morning. The last thing he wanted to do was to add to the difficulties of the Standing Committee, but unless the Council could properly debate the matters that came before them in the time available they should meet earlier. If they could not meet at ten o'clock they should meet as soon after as possible.

Mr. F. W. Rogers, who seconded, said that day, thanks to the work of the Standing Committee, the business of the Council had been got through in a workmanlike manner earlier than it had been in the last two or three years, when members had had to leave the Council meeting long before the business had been finished. There ought to be no difficulty about starting their meeting earlier, as seventy or eighty per cent. of the members were in London on Monday evening. Mr. Rogers also threw out the suggestion that in future years the social at headquarters should be held on the evening before the Council meeting, instead of after the meeting.

The Rev. P. Ll. Edwards said that wherever the meeting was held there were a certain number of members who could not arrive until the same morning. In view of the fact that their proceedings generally began with a civic or episcopal ceremony, and sometimes both, they wanted a full attendance at the time they did open. He would propose as an amendment that the time be 10.30, although he was in favour of eleven o'clock himself.

The Rev. H. Drake said for those unable to get to the place of meeting until the morning, ten o'clock was too early.

Mr. J. Parker said they must bear in mind those who had to do the Council's work. After the previous night's meeting of the Standing Committee, Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher worked until two o'clock in the morning to get papers ready for that day's meeting. If they had to get up in time to be at that meeting at ten o'clock, he did not know what they would say. Eleven o'clock was quite soon enough.

Mr. E. A. Young said while he was secretary, taking one year with the other, they got through their business by half-past four or five o'clock. For about three years now there had been a wave of motions discussed which had taken up a lot of time, but it did not always occur. They might now be in for a cycle of quieter years.

Mr. S. H. Wood said he thought, if they met an hour earlier, there were people in the Council who would still manage to make the meeting last so that they would finish at just the same time (laughter). That day's had been a better meeting than the last two or three had. If they could avoid the 'red herrings' and stick to the points put down on the agenda paper, there was no reason why they should not get the business done between 11 o'clock and 5 p.m.

The Hon. Secretary pointed out the difficulty of calling the Standing Committee together earlier, and the amendment for 10.30 was then put, but no one voted for it.

The original motion by Mr. Pullinger was voted on and was defeated by a large majority.

ACCESS TO RINGING BOOKS.

The President moved 'That all persons having collections of books on ringing matters be invited to supply particulars to the hon. librarian, and to indicate whether they are willing to give access to their collections.' He said the reasons for the motion were twofold; that all ringers who were interested in research in historical matters should know where they might be able to find the editions or copies of rare editions of some of the earlier books, and it was very desirable that the Council should know where these books were, so that, in case of death, they knew where they were going to be in the future and could safeguard them from being thrown away or getting into hands where they would not be appreciated. What they particularly wanted was to enable those interested in research to know where to find them. This motion, added the President, arose out of some discussion on some books he was able to pick up lately and which he did not like to ask the Council to buy, because it would have absorbed their funds for a year or two.

The hon. secretary seconded the motion, which was agreed to without discussion.

NEXT MEETING AT CANTERBURY.

The President said that from the discussion in the Standing Committee as to the next place of meeting, one or two things emerged, which it was just as well the Council should know. One was that the Council had changed a good deal in the last 40 years and there were very few of the original members left. Hitherto they had not repeated a visit to any place except London, but the committee saw no reason why they should not start to revisit places they had been to before. In view of that and in view of the fact that that was the beginning of a new Council, under new rules, indeed, that it was almost a new start, the Standing Committee threw out the suggestion, bearing in mind that the next meeting will be very close to the Coronation, and that in the circumstances they would not want to travel far, that the Council should go to Canterbury next year, with the idea perhaps of going to York the following year. There had been invitations to Leeds, to Ripon and to Dublin, but he thought, in any case, Dublin would be out of the question next time because of the Coronation.

Mr. F. M. Mitchell proposed that the next meeting be held at Canterbury. He was sure the Kent County Association would do its best to offer the Council a welcome.—Mr. E. A. Young seconded and the proposition was carried.

A MESSAGE OF GREETING.

Mr. J. S. Goldsmith called attention to the fact that in December the new tower and bells of St. David's Cathedral, Hobart, Tasmania, would be dedicated. In view of the happy relations set up with Hobart ringers on the occasion of the visit of the English tourists in 1934, he thought it would be a nice gesture if, on the occasion of the dedication, the Council, through the president, sent a message of congratulation and greeting to the church and ringers of Hobart.—Major J. H. B. Hesse seconded the proposal, which was carried.

THE PYE MEMORIAL SCHEME.

Mr. C. T. Coles referred to the William Pye Memorial, which was first mentioned last year at Shrewsbury. The scheme was brought to a successful conclusion on the previous Saturday. He would like to thank those associations who supported the appeal. No fewer than 37 associations supported the scheme, which he thought was very satisfactory and showed the great esteem in which Mr. Pye was held by the Exercise. He asked the representatives of the associations and guilds to take back with them the thanks of the committee for the support they gave to the scheme.

Mr. E. P. Duffield, as one of the Memorial Scheme Committee, paid a tribute to the extraordinary amount of work done by Mr. Coles and Mr. Butler, the secretaries, in connection with the scheme. He felt it was only right that some public mention should be made of the indebtedness of the committee and the subscribers to the scheme to these two gentlemen (applause).

CONGRATULATIONS.

The President said it might interest the Council to know that the handbell band at Oxhey had rung a peal in four Spliced Surprise methods in hand. He thought they should send their congratulations to the ringers (applause).

ATTENDANCE.

The Hon. Secretary reported that of the 49 associations affiliated to the Council, 26 were fully represented at that meeting with 67 members, and 16 partially represented with 35 members. Only seven societies were unrepresented. Altogether 102 representative members were present and 12 honorary members, a record total of 114.

THANKS.

The President proposed a vote of thanks to the Lord Mayor and City Corporation for the use of the Guildhall. Without hesitation he could say it was quite as fine a room, if not the finest room, they had been in for a meeting. They were very much honoured by being allowed to meet there (applause). Continuing, he said they ought also to send a letter to the Dean of St. Paul's for his kindness in coming there to welcome them. He also proposed that the thanks of the Council be sent to His Majesty's Office of Works for the use of the bells at the Imperial Institute, and to the Church authorities and steeplekeepers at all the towers where ringing had been permitted; to the associations in the London area for their co-operation in making said there, urged the members who were not already doing so to support 'The Ringing World.'

Mr. F. E. Dawe, who made a trenchant appeal for a greater circulation for the paper, gave an account of his experiences in different parts of the country, remarking that in many places only one copy of the paper was taken for the whole company.

Mr. H. Knight pointed out the serious position in which ringers might be placed some day if the journal was not better supported, and advised each contributor to try and get at least one more subscriber, which would tend to put 'The Ringing World' on a sound footing.

The Chairman said he took a very serious view of the matter, and proposed that a recommendation should go from the society to the Central Council suggesting that, considering the importance of a weekly paper to the Exercise, the Central Council should take the matter up so as to assure the future of 'The Ringing World,' and further suggesting that the Central Council should ask for annual subscriptions from the ringing societies, so as to enable the price to be reduced to one penny per week, which should greatly increase the circulation. In conclusion, he urged ringers to do their best to keep 'The Ringing World' going.

His recommendation was carried.

the arrangements, and particularly to the committee, Messrs. A. A. Hughes (College Youths), G. H. Cross (Royal Cumberlands), E. J. Butler (Essex), C. T. Coles (Middlesex), T. W. Taffender (London County), F. M. Mitchell (Kent) and C. H. Kippin (Surrey). To all these he proposed that a very hearty vote of thanks be accorded and that the hon. secretary be requested to write to them accordingly.

Canon Coleridge proposed a vote of thanks to the president for the way in which he had conducted the meeting. It had been his privilege, he said, to attend 44 annual meetings of the Council, and he, therefore, knew something of what the president had to do. He could go back to the time when the Standing Committee met some time in the morning, towards 12 o'clock, and the Council began its meeting at 2 o'clock and ended at five o'clock. Then it was found that the Council had to meet in the morning and the Standing Committee had to meet much earlier. It would have been quite hopeless to think of the committee meeting the night before, because people could not get there. He thought the Council had done wisely to keep to the same hour. To succeed in the chair at that meeting they must have a man who was respected by his brethren, who knew the duties of the chairman and who knew the work for which the Council was summoned together. All these were combined in Mr. Lewis, and he wanted to say how pleased they were to have him in the chair. He hoped he would continue for the next 20 years.

The motion having been carried by acclamation, Mr. Lewis replied. He said he had tried to do his best, but what he had done had been made extraordinarily easy for him by Mr. Fletcher. They must not forget to give him a hearty vote of thanks, for he had done the brunt of the work (applause).

Mr. F. E. Dawe paid a tribute to the kindness of Mr. A. A. Hughes, to whom was due, he believed, the fact that they had obtained the use of the Guildhall.

The Hon. Secretary said it was entirely due to the efforts of Mr. Hughes that they met in that hall. If it would interest the members, he could tell them that Mr. Hughes was summoned to the bar—not in a place associated with bellringing—but he was acquitted and was with them that day (applause).

This concluded the business and the Council then rose.

During the afternoon His Majesty the King's reply to the Council's loyal message of greeting was received and read. The text of the message and the reply were printed in our issue of June 5th.

SPLICED TREBLE BOB MINOR.

Mr. J. Hunt writes pointing out, in connection with the discussion at the Central Council meeting on the resolution defining a spliced peal, that he did not reply to Mr. Holt's inquiry as to whether a 720 of Treble Bob Minor in the Worcester variation could be obtained. He said he was of opinion that, as a 720 of Treble Bob Minor could not be obtained when the methods are spliced at the lead-end, the other method of ringing them should be recognised as spliced.

'GRAMOPHONE' BELLS.

A new church at Iford, a growing parish on the borders of Bournemouth and Christchurch, is nearing completion and it would appear that its equipment is the first step towards a mechanised religion. From a description published in 'The Sunday Times,' we learn that there is a tower, with amplifiers instead of bells; the sound of the bells to summon the faithful to prayer and to remind other listeners of the service about to begin will be the noisy reproduction of gramophone records. Loud speakers in the church will give the illusion of a full pipe organ, although the notes come from a small reed instrument, which by the same apparatus can magnify the volume to 'a strength more than adequate for the needs of services.' The apparatus will also make it possible to receive a sermon from any distant preacher by means of a telephone line.

All this is very modern, and perhaps, very enterprising. It will be called by some the bringing of science to the aid of religion; it may also be looked upon as an ingenious means of saving money. But to us this type of substitute for the real thing leaves a feeling that for the sake of effects of a sort, but certainly not spiritual effect, those who are responsible have made a sad and serious departure from the principles that have guided the pious builders of our churches in the past, when the very thought of subterfuge or sham was abhorrent and nothing but the best was considered good enough. It is a proud boast in many an old church, where the work of the skilled artisan is visible, that if you could inspect the hidden part of the work you would find it as carefully and as lovingly wrought as that portion which can be seen. There are no shams. It is a pity, we think, that in this new church there should be sham bells and a more or less sham organ. And what guarantee is there that there may not, later on, be 'tinned' sermons, reproduced from gramophone records, a mechanical choir provided by the same means, the whole thing eventually becoming as we have suggested, a mechanised and soulless religion!

There is already a section of the public which dislikes the ringing of church bells; we can imagine nothing that will add to their number more effectively than the churning out of gramophone records. There are very few good records of bells in existence—if there are, we have not heard them—and there is not one, as far as we know, that is really complete. These records are, too often, a travesty of ringing and a church tower is the last place from which they should be broadcast. It would be better to be 'wired up' with some other church—say the grand old Priory Church only a few miles away—and radiate the bells from that tower when the services coincide. The public would at any rate get the sound of the real thing, instead of a mockery.

DEATH OF BOOTLE RINGER.

Christ Church, Bootle, ringers mourn the sudden death of Mr. Dan Lea, one of the local company, at the early age of 31 years. Mr. Lea was a regular Sunday service ringer at the church as well as being a sidesman and Sunday School teacher.

He was laid to rest on Wednesday, July 1st. The bells at Christ Church were rung fully muffled for the funeral, and four of his friends rang the handbells over the grave.

Although deceased only rang two peals, the Lancashire Association has lost an enthusiastic ringer, and his colleagues have lost a real friend.

FOR BEGINNERS.

FROM DOUBLES TO MINOR AND MAJOR.

Our article last week suggests that there may be some young ringers who, having mastered Doubles, find just a little difficulty in going on to Minor and Major. Apart from the little extra ropesight that is required to 'see' the additional bells, one of the problems is that of 'leading.' Doubles, except in a five-bell tower, are usually rung with a covering bell, and the beginner in change ringing, having, of course, already learned how to lead in rounds, has no trouble when he comes to lead in Doubles. We hope he always bears in mind that for good striking there should be the space of one bell between the backstroke of the tenor and his own handstroke.

When he comes to ringing Minor or Major, of course, he has no fixed bell, like the tenor in Doubles, to lead from. The bells behind are continually changing, and if he wants to make a good lead he must look for the last bell and lead from that. We have seen some otherwise good ringers who, when they come to lead, just drop their eyes to the floor and trust to luck. The result is that they may put in a good lead, or they may not—more likely not.

You must pick out the bell you are going to lead off, just as you pick out the bell you are going to strike over in hunting up or down. You can look for it immediately you have pulled off in second's place before leading, and with a little practice you will quickly find it. Lead from it, allowing for the same interval as you would in leading from the tenor, and as you pull off watch for the bell which in that change will strike over him. Then put your backstroke in, snappy and clean, from that second bell. If you lead at backstroke when you have found it and not before you have found it, you ought to have your blow in the right place. There should be no interval.

In a simple method like Plain Bob, these bells that you want to be able to 'spot' are not really difficult to find. Remember you lead at hand off one, at back off another. These bells are coursing one behind the other, and on your way down you will have 'crossed' them consecutively next above and in the middle, that is to say in Minor, in 5-4 and 4-3; and in Major in 6-5 and 5-4. There is a slight difference after you have made 2nd's place, but you get your cue by having to lead your first blow from the bell you led off last, before making 2nd's. You must look for the bell that is coming behind next, if you do not happen to know the coursing order.

In going from Bob Doubles to Bob Minor, the effect of the additional bell is to turn the four blows behind, when the treble leads, into a dodge in 5-6. What you do in 3-4 is not affected, except that both the 5-6 dodges come between the 3-4 dodges.

After dodging in 4-3 down, you dodge the next lead in 6-5 down; the following lead in 5-6 up, before coming back to 3-4 up; followed by the 2nd's place. When you go on to Major the additional dodges are in 7-8, and are inserted between the dodges in 5-6, first 8-7 (down), then 7-8 (up).

In trying your hand at Major, after having been used to Minor, don't forget to hunt right up behind, instead of turning round, when you reach 6th's. Remember your course bell—the one you took off at lead, and when hunting up, don't attempt to turn round and come back until you have turned your course bell from behind.

You can try to build up your own table for ringing the method. Recollect that after every dodge, you pass the treble one place earlier, until, at length, you pass it in 1-2 and have to make 2nd's. This working of things out for yourself is a great help; so try it. If you do it correctly you will find the jig-saw exactly fits.

ELY DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION NEW BADGES.

A very enjoyable meeting of the Wisbech Branch was held at Watlington on Saturday, June 6th, the number attending being most satisfactory. The bells, a handy ring of six, were kept going throughout the afternoon and evening in a dozen different methods, ranging from Plain Bob to London Surprise, and also with rounds for the beginners.

The association's form of service was conducted by the Rector.

The general secretary, Miss K. Willers, presided at the business meeting, having cycled about 40 miles in order to be present. This, it is suggested, should be noted by the slack ones in the district.

One new member was elected, and Leverington chosen for the next meeting. The new badges were available, every member present purchasing one.

The meeting closed with the usual vote of thanks to the Rector, who briefly replied.

MARCH MEETING IN JUNE.

A meeting of the Central Branch of the Ely Diocesan Association was held at March on June 20th. Only about 12 ringers attended before tea; they included Mr. and Mrs. F. Hurry and Mr. J. H. Shepherd. (It's not a foot rule he carries, but a five foot one.)

The Vicar welcomed the ringers to March, and three of the local company made things more easy and gave that touch of welcome. After tea more ringers came along, and the bells were well made use of.

The next meeting will be held at Whittlesey, and due notice will be given in our notice columns.

SURREY ASSOCIATION.

MEETING AT BUCKLAND.

A quarterly meeting of the Surrey Association (Southern District) was held at Buckland on Saturday, June 27th, when 32 members and visitors from Reigate, Redhill, Merstham, Betchingley, Limpsfield, Chart, Lingfield, Horley, Kingswood, Capel, Dorking, Leatherhead, Beddington, St. Peter's and St. John's, Croydon, with the local band, attended. Ringing commenced at 3.15 p.m. Service was held in the church, conducted by the Rector (the Rev. H. W. Dunk, M.A.), who gave an address on bells and their usages. The lesson was read by Alderman Temple Newell. Tea, served in the Village Hall, was kindly provided for by the Rector, who also took the chair at the business meeting.

Before the business commenced the secretary reported the loss of an old friend in the late Rector of Horley (the Rev. Lewis), who had been an honorary member for about 25 years. He passed away on May 12th. The Master (Mr. A. Bull) and the local band had attended the funeral, and a wreath was sent from the association.

It was proposed that a letter of condolence be sent to the widow, and the members then stood in silence for a few moments.

It was reported that two peals had been rung during the last quarter, London Surprise Major at Betchworth and Cambridge Surprise Major at St. John's, Redhill.

Four new members were elected, Messrs. R. Tidy, J. Tidy, R. Jefferys and A. Taylor, all of Limpsfield Chart.

The next quarterly meeting was fixed for Burstow in September, and the secretary gave notice that a joint meeting would be held with the East Grinstead Guild at Lingfield on July 11th. He hoped members would give it all the support they could, it being the first joint meeting with the Southern District.

The next quarterly peal was proposed to be attempted at Horley, the method to be Cambridge Surprise Major, conductor Mr. R. Fuller.

The Secretary said he had been asked to report that the Master, Mr. D. K. C. Birt, had tendered his resignation after six years owing to ill-health, but was carrying on until the end of the year; also that the general treasurer was resigning at the end of the year. They would thus have to look for a new Master and general treasurer.

The Rector thanked the ringers for paying a visit to Buckland, this being the third time since he had been Rector that they had visited the village. Thanks were accorded to Mr. F. Sanders for having the bells ready, and to the ladies for assisting at the tea.—Alderman Newell replied and thanked the Vicar for the service and his address.

A touch of Stedman Triples was rung on handbells, also a course of Grandsire Caters, assisted by the motoring section from the North-West Division. A return was then made to the tower, where the light peal of six bells (which, it is hoped, may become eight one day) were kept going until 9 p.m. in various methods.

GUILDFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

FARNHAM DISTRICT MEETS AT BENTLEY.

A pleasant time was spent by members of the Farnham District of Guildford Diocesan Guild at Bentley on Saturday, June 13th. Ringing started soon after 3 o'clock, and Doubles and Minor were rung and some good striking was heard. The weather was not very kind, and probably accounted for the small number of ringers present. Nevertheless, some excellent practice was put in. At half-past four the Rt. Rev. Bishop Chandler (Rector) conducted the Guild service and gave an interesting address, taking for his subject the Trinity season. The hymns sung were 'We love the place, O God' and 'The church bells ringing from the height.' A splendid tea was served at Linden Cottage by Mrs. Trotman, a company numbering just over 20 sitting down. Votes of thanks were accorded the Rector, organist, blower, vergers, Mr. A. Raggett and the local ringers, and Mrs. Trotman and her helpers, for the various parts taken in the arrangements and success of the meeting. Apologies for absence were received from Mr. R. Hasted (District Ringing Master) and Mr. A. J. Stedman (hon. member).

The tower was revisited after tea and more ringing enjoyed. Five towers were represented, viz., Scale, Aldershot (in force), Frensham, Ewhurst and Bentley. The bells were lowered in peal at 8.30 p.m.

YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION.

BINGLEY PROVIDES WESTERN DIVISION WITH FULL DAY'S ENJOYMENT.

The Clerk of the Weather excelled himself when the Western Division of the Yorkshire Association held their summer meeting at Bingley on June 27th. The weather was almost perfect, and upwards of 60 members availed themselves of the opportunity of visiting this delightful Yorkshire town in its picturesque setting.

Boating was in full swing on the river, whilst on the hillside scarcely a stone's throw from the church groups of ringers reclined in the sun discussing the efforts of their more energetic brethren in the tower. A little further away the Sheep Dog Trials proved an added attraction, whilst in the evening other ringers were heard of who were still making the acquaintance of belles by the riverside, so Bingley provided a really full day's enjoyment.

The bells were raised in peal at half-past two, and no doubt gave fresh courage to a newly-married couple who were just leaving the church. A great variety of methods were rung during the day, ranging from Treble Bob Minor to Cambridge and Superlative Surprise Major, and, in spite of the heat, the bells were kept moving until 9 o'clock, excepting for the tea interval.

The usual fault of some ringers in failing to send in for tea made two sittings necessary, but this difficulty was made light of and a really good meal was enjoyed by all in the Church House.

The business meeting was presided over by the vice-president, Mr. P. J. Johnson, and the gathering was a very representative one, over 26 towers being represented. The usual vote of thanks to the Vicar and churchwardens for kindly granting the use of the bells was ably moved by the chairman, who darkly hinted of his former exploits at the Church House (then known as the Ring of Bells).

The vote was supported by the Ringing Master, Mr. J. Broadley, who also enlarged upon the happenings of those 'bad old days.'

A vote of thanks to the local company for their splendid arrangements was proposed by Mr. A. E. West and seconded by Mr. L. Drake. This was endorsed by the chairman, who pointed out how fortunate they were in being fully supplied with refreshments when so many had failed to send in for tea.

Mr. Allen Hopewell, in replying for the Vicar (who had been called away) and for the local company, said how pleased they were to have the summer meeting at Bingley, and they all hoped that it would not be so long before the visit would be repeated.

The following new members were admitted to the association: Messrs. A. Hopewell and J. Walker, of Bingley; Mr. A. Slater, of Elland; and Mr. A. Ashton, of Bradford.

An invitation to hold the next meeting at Balley early in September had been received, and this was accepted.

At the conclusion of the meeting the company were entertained by some wonderful handbell ringing ('four in hand') by Messrs. A. E. West and D. Sharp, of Sutton-on-Hull, which was greatly appreciated by all present.

The following towers were represented: Armley, Batley, Birstall, Bingley, Bolton (Bradford), Bradford Cathedral, Burley, Denholme, Drighlington, Elland, Earlsheaton, Guiseley, Haworth, Headingley (St. Chad's and St. Michael's), Holbeck, Idle, Keighley, Leeds, Oxenhope, Silsden, Sutton-on-Hull, Skipton and Shipley.

FRYERNING, ESSEX.—On Sunday, June 28th, for evening service, 720 Norwich Surprise (L. Camp, conductor), 360 Cambridge Surprise (E. Sitch, conductor). The following local ringers took part: A. Bradley, C. Harrington, H. Wright, E. Sitch, J. Sitch, G. Camp, L. Camp.

ANNUAL FESTIVAL.

The Swansea and Brecon Diocesan Guild held its thirteenth festival at Brecon on Saturday, June 27th. The service at the Cathedral was well attended by ringers from all parts of the diocese, the following clergy taking part: The Lord Bishop of the Diocese, Canon E. A. T. Roberts, Canon John Simon, the Rev. T. M. Hughes (Vicar of Cadoc-ton), the Rev. D. Parry Jones (Vicar of Llanelly, Brecon) and the Rev. Ifor Jones (Brecon). Mr. J. Humphrey Carden presided at the organ. Canon Roberts intoned, Canon Simon read the lesson, the Rev. T. M. Hughes gave an excellent address and the Bishop pronounced the Benediction.

After the service tea was provided on the lawns at Ely Tower, by kind invitation of the Lord Bishop, who presided over the annual meeting which followed.

The hon. treasurer (Mr. Charles Powell) presented the statement of accounts, which was adopted. A credit balance of £48 18s. 2d. was considered very satisfactory.

The following officers were re-elected: President, the Lord Bishop of the Diocese; Master of the Guild, Mr. S. T. Rackham; hon. treasurer, Mr. Charles Powell; hon. secretary, Mr. L. T. Havard; hon. auditor, Mr. E. I. Rowlands. Canon Bickerton Edwards (Tenby) and the Rev. W. Gurnos Davies (Talgarth) were elected as vice-presidents, there being two vacancies.

An appeal was read from the Rev. E. W. Edwards, Dolau, Rad.s., who requested financial assistance towards the cost of restoring and supplementing the present ring of five bells with a new treble.—It was unanimously decided to forward a donation of £5 from the Guild Fund.

The 1937 festival will be held at Gorseinon, and, on behalf of the Llanelly (Brecon) ringers, Mr. S. T. Rackham invited the Guild to hold the next competition at Llanelly. The invitation was gratefully accepted and Mr. Rackham was thanked therefore.

Mr. Gwyn I. Lewis (Central Council representative) gave the meeting his account of the last Central Council meeting held in London. The report concluded with an appeal to all ringers present to do what they possibly could to increase the sale of 'The Ringing World'; at least, see that a copy was taken at each belfry every week.

A sub-committee, consisting of Messrs. E. Sitch, D. J. Lewis, S. T. Rackham, C. Powell, and to be presided over by Mr. Charles Gilbertson, was appointed to go into the question of contributions by the two districts to the parent Guild. A report will be presented to the next annual meeting.

The meeting concluded with votes of thanks to the Bishop for kindly entertaining the company to tea, and to the Rev. T. M. Hughes for his address at the service.

MEETING ON CHURCH ROOF.LADIES FIND WEATHER TOO HOT FOR RINGING.

The annual meeting of the Central District of the Ladies' Guild was held at St. Olave's, Hart Street, London, on Saturday, June 20th, when about 25 members and friends attended. Owing to the intense heat, little ringing was attempted until the evening.

After tea the business meeting was held on the roof of the church. The vice-president (Mrs. E. F. Deal) presided.

The election of officers followed. Mrs. R. F. Deal was re-elected vice-president, Mrs. G. H. Cross hon. secretary, and Miss K. Bradford assistant hon. secretary. The committee was re-elected en bloc.

Two new members were elected, viz., Miss E. Worsley and Miss E. Bedford.

It was decided to reduce the number of meetings held during the year from eight to six, these to be held when possible on the first Saturday in the following months: September, November, January, March, May and June. The meeting for next September, however, will be held on the second Saturday instead of the first, at Stoke Poges.

Mrs. Fletcher reminded the members of the annual general meeting, to be held at Bath on July 11th.

The question of badges then arose, and Mrs. Fletcher requested all those who wished to have a badge to let her know, so that the order could be put through.

The business concluded, after the usual thanks had been accorded to the Rector for the use of the bells, and to Mr. H. Wilson, who had made the necessary arrangements.

SOUTHERN DISTRICT.

Mrs. Bruce (vice-president) presided at the 17th annual meeting of the Southern District of the Ladies' Guild held at Ash on Saturday, when three new members were elected: Mrs. G. Hall, of Liss, Miss M. Manfield, of Ash, and Miss W. Manfield, rejoined.

All the officers were re-elected, viz.: Vice-president, Mrs. Bruce; secretary, Miss H. F. Mills; committee, Mrs. Hazelden, Mrs. Melville, Mrs. Whittington and Miss Fisher; Central Committee, Mrs. Bruce and Miss Mills.

It was proposed to hold the next annual meeting in conjunction with the most convenient district meeting of the Guildford Diocesan Guild. It was also decided to hold a meeting, if possible, in the Alton District in October.

Letters of apology for absence were received from Mrs. Melville, Mrs. Hazelden, Mrs. Steedman and Misses J. and M. P. Kingdon, and also 'Henry VIII.' Miss B. Mills, of the Central District, was a welcome visitor.

DEATH OF MR. GEORGE W. HARRIS.FORMER DEPTFORD AND DUNSTABLE RINGER.

It is with deep regret we have to record the passing of Mr. George W. Harris, whose death took place at Dunstable on June 18th at the early age of 36. He learned his ringing at Deptford with Mr. G. H. Daynes, and rang several peals with the London County Association under Mr. T. H. Taffender. He went to live at Dunstable about 10 years ago, and became a valued member of the Priory Church band. He rang his last peal, one of Treble Bob, in 1930. About four years ago his health broke down, and he had to give up active association with the tower, although never losing interest in the affairs of the band. His last visit was on the day of the funeral of His late Majesty King George, when he tried to ring, but found it too much for him.

The funeral took place on June 20th at Dunstable, when the Priory band was represented by Mr. C. E. King and Mr. G. W. Heley. Always of a quiet and unassuming nature, George Harris will be greatly missed by all who knew him. He leaves a widow and daughter to mourn their loss.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

The summer meeting of the Newbury Branch was held at Thatcham on Saturday, June 20th, when over 40 ringers attended during the afternoon and evening. Members were present from Bucklebury, Beedon, Compton, Chieveley, East Ilsley, Midgham, Newbury, Pease-more, Shaw and Thatcham. Mr. R. T. Hibbert, general secretary, was also present, with visitors from Abingdon, Bradfield, Hillingdon, Wooburn and Stoke Wake, Dorset. The service was conducted by the chairman of the branch (the Rev. W. Kingsley Kefford), who gave a very helpful address. Miss E. Mathews (a Bucklebury ringer) was at the organ. Tea was served by Mrs. Adams, 36 sitting down.

The Rev. W. Kingsley Kefford presided over the business meeting. The next meeting was fixed for Kintbury on Saturday, September 19th.

Hearty votes of thanks were accorded to the Rev. W. Kingsley Kefford, to Miss E. Mathews and to Mrs. Adams. The tower was again visited, when several more ringers had arrived; various methods up to Cambridge Major were rung during the afternoon and evening.

'OLD PEAK' DISTRICT MEETING.

The members of the Old Peak District Society had an enjoyable afternoon at Norton, Derbyshire, on Saturday, June 20th. Towers represented were Ashover, Bakewell, Chesterfield, Dore, Darley Dale, Norton and Sheffield Cathedral. The bells were kept going in touches of Stedman, Little Bob, Forward, etc. Tea, provided by the Vicar, was thoroughly enjoyed by all.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

The Rev. F. H. More, until recently Vicar of Burley, Leeds, and an honorary member of the Yorkshire Association, has been instituted to the living of Sible Hedingham, Essex. A farewell peal was rung at Burley on June 30th. During his stay in the Yorkshire town, in addition to other things, the six bells at St. Matthias' Church were recast into eight, and the ringing room was made as nearly ideal as possible.

Messrs. Gillett and Johnston have received the order to rehang with new fittings in a new frame the ring of six at St. Breward, near Bodmin, Cornwall.

Twin performances by the twin sisters, the Misses G. and K. Burchnall, have reached an interesting stage. They have never been separated in their peal ringing and they have now scored their 100th peal together. Cannot they now call a few peals by sharing the conducting?

Mr. A. Patrick Cannon has now scored 50 peals, and they have been rung in 50 different towers. This is a new record. Few people even get the opportunity to visit 50 different towers while in search of their first fifty peals. The peals, of which Mr. Cannon has conducted 31, consist of two of Doubles, 16 of Minor, six of Triples, 24 of Major and two of Royal.

It will be interesting to know, when the time arrives, how many ringers have been successful in ringing in peals on the definite days of the Coronations of Kings Edward VII., George V. and Edward VIII. 'Curious' says that, with several others, he is living in hopes.

An added attraction to the meeting of the Middlesex Association at Feltham on July 18th will be a visit to the works of the British Aircraft Manufacturing Co., Ltd., at Hanworth Park, under the guidance of the District Master, Mr. W. H. Coles. The tea will probably be arranged there as well!

Friday must be their lucky day, and Spliced Surprise peals 'in hand' are becoming a habit with them. The Oxhey company have rung yet another peal of London, Cambridge, Superlative and Bristol on handbells.

Ringings at the Croydon Parish Church is to be discontinued until further notice.

TWIN SISTERS' RECORD.

MISSSES BURCHNALL'S ONE HUNDRED PEALS TOGETHER.

An interesting record has been made by the Misses Grace and Katharine Burchnall, of Sutton-on-Trent, Notts, who are twin sisters. They recently both rang their one hundredth peal, and it is remarkable that they have never rung a peal apart.

The following is their list of peals: Doubles 3, Minor 47 (one in nine methods, 13 in seven methods, two Surprise), Stedman Triples 5, Grandsire Triples 1, Bob Major 10, Kent Treble Bob Major 10, Oxford Treble Bob Major 7, Spliced Kent and Oxford Major 1, Double Norwich Major 5, St. Clement's Major 1, Forward Major 1, Little Bob Major 3, Cambridge Surprise Major 4, Superlative Surprise Major 1, Yorkshire Surprise Major 1.

CHESTER CATHEDRAL BELLS.

THE AUGMENTATION SCHEME.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—Some time ago, 'The Ringing World' made it known that, as part of its jubilee celebrations, the Chester Diocesan Guild proposes to sponsor a scheme for the addition of two trebles to the present ring of eight at the Cathedral.

May I appeal, through your columns, to all who have in the past been associated with this ancient city, and who still have some regard for its Cathedral and bells, for their support in the task of raising the necessary amount to make the augmentation possible?

Subscriptions addressed to me at Wayside, Circular Drive, will be most gratefully acknowledged.

RINGERS' WEDDING AT COVENTRY.

HANDBELLS RUNG IN CHURCH.

Two members of the Stoke (Coventry) band were married at St. Paul's Church, Foleshill, on Saturday, June 6th. The bridegroom was Mr. Ernest Sibley (late of Northampton) and the bride Miss Vera M. Freeman, elder daughter of Mr. C. Freeman, also a service ringer at Stoke Church.

The service, which was choral, was conducted by the Vicar of St. Paul's, and as there is only one bell at this church, a course of Grandsire Triples was rung on handbells in the gallery at the conclusion of the service.

On leaving the church the couple passed under an archway of handbells held by their fellow-ringers.

Afterwards a reception was held in the adjoining Schoolroom, at which further handbell ringing took place. Later the happy pair left for Shanklin, where the honeymoon was spent, and the following ringers proceeded to Stoke Church and rang a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples, the 'go' of the bells not permitting a peal attempt: Mrs. F. Rouse 1, W. Smith 2, W. T. Cox 3, R. Haine (first quarter with 'inside' bell) 4, F. Pervin (conductor) 5, D. Ellender 6, J. H. White 7, F. Rouse 8.

WINCHESTER CATHEDRAL BELLS TO BE RECAST. NEW AND HEAVIER PEAL OF TWELVE.

The ring of twelve bells at Winchester Cathedral are to be recast and increased in weight. This announcement was made to a meeting of Friends of the Cathedral last week by the Dean.

The present peal is a 'patchwork' affair, and ringers who know them will be delighted to hear that at last there is the promise of a worthy peal to crown this grand old pile.

The project is the outcome of steps originally contemplated by the Friends of the Cathedral, who had decided to provide funds for the recasting and rehanging of two of the bells. When this came to the knowledge of Mr. F. Hopkins, managing trustee of the Barron Bell Trust, he offered, from the funds for the Trust, to provide the additional money to make a clean sweep of things, so that the Cathedral could have a new ring of twelve. The work will be carried out by Messrs. Taylor and Co., of Loughborough, and the weight of the tenor will be raised from 30½ cwt. to 35 cwt.

OFFER ACCEPTED BY DEAN AND CHAPTER.

In making the announcement, the Dean said the help the Friends offered in connection with the bells had worked like a snowball. No sooner had they given the order to the well-known bell founders, Taylors, of Loughborough, to recast and rehang the two bells which had become unsafe, than they received an offer from Mr. Hopkins and the Barron Bell Trust to pay the cost of making a really good job of the bells by recasting and rehanging the entire peal and adding a new tenor bell in time for the Coronation next year. That was a magnificent offer and had been gratefully accepted by the Dean and Chapter, and they realised that the action of the Friends had put them in the position to do so. The bells would be removed early in August—he believed the work would begin the day after Bank Holiday—and although Taylors would not absolutely guarantee that they would be completed in time for the Coronation in May next year, they had every hope that it would be possible.

HOW THE PEAL GREW.

The present bells appear to have originated with a heavy peal of six, cast by Richard Phelps of the Whitechapel Foundry in 1734. To these Thomas Lester, his successor, added two trebles in 1742, thus making a peal of eight.

The agreement for the ring of bells cast by Phelps is still in existence. It shows that the Dean and Chapter were to send to the foundry old metal of the weight of approximately five tons, which was about the same weight as the new peal. It is assumed that the old bell metal was that of an earlier ring of six bells, put in late in the 17th century, as it was in the year 1634 that the tower was closed in. The agreement provided that Phelps was to allow only 24s. less per cwt. for the old metal than the cost of the new. The tenor bell, it was stipulated, was to be agreeable to the note of the organ of St. Michael's, Cornhill, which was taken as the standard at that period.

Of the bells cast by Phelps in 1734, only one, the present 9th, remains. The present 11th was recast by him in 1737. At different times the old treble, 4th and 6th of the eight were recast by Robert and James Wells, of Aldbourne, the treble in 1772, and the others in 1804 and 1814 respectively. In 1891 the tenor became cracked and was recast at Whitechapel, and in the following year Mears and Stainbank added two trebles to make a ring of ten, the treble being given by the inhabitants of Winchester and the second by the Winchester Diocesan Guild. The 5th of the ten, cast by Phelps in 1734, cracked in 1903 and was recast at Whitechapel.

The two present trebles, making a peal of twelve, were added by the Winchester Diocesan Guild as a memorial to the members who fell in the Great War.

There is something of a mystery about the present 6th. Its inscription is 'Theodore Ecclestone, Esq., 1742. T.L.' Theodore Ecclestone was a wealthy patron of bells and bellringing, and a ringer himself. His home was at Crowfield Hall, in the parish of Coddanham, Suffolk. He gave several of the bells to this church, as well as being the donor of the peal of ten at Stonham Aspal, Suffolk. That he ever had any connection with or interest in Winchester there is nothing to show. But in 1742 it would appear that the two trebles to make the ring of eight at Winchester Cathedral, the peal of eight for Coddanham and the ten for Stonham Aspal were all in Thomas Lester's foundry at Whitechapel at the same time. Did Winchester get the wrong bell, or was the inscription a mistake on the part of the craftsman?

AMERICAN VISITOR'S QUARTER-PEAL.

On Monday, June 29th, in St. Mary's belfry, Newmarket, a quarter-peal of Bob Major (1,344 changes): Reginald Heath 1-2, Albert E. Austin (conductor) 3-4, Reginald Sharpe 5-6, Lloyd William Taylor 7-8. First quarter-peal on handbells by the ringers of 1-2, 5-6 and 7-8. Mr. Taylor is staying in Cambridge on a visit from America, and commenced to learn the art of change ringing towards the end of last year. He is shortly returning to U.S.A.

BELL BROADCASTING.

PERSONAL 'SACRIFICE' FOR ULTIMATE GOOD.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—May I express an opinion regarding some points Mr. S. J. Peck raises? Referring to the 'local atmosphere,' let us remember that if the ringing was of the highest standard only, the people living in the near vicinity of some 'local atmosphere' would have a standard upon which to judge their local band. This would certainly give the intelligent listener interest—a little disturbing for some local bands, perhaps.

With regard to the supplanting of a ringer by a better man, it is a poor thing if a ringer cannot stand down when he knows his 'sacrifice' is for the ultimate good. If he is a churchman, he should be willing to. If a ringer would break up a band for the sake of his own personal pride, he could not be a worthy churchman.

This trouble and, indeed, many other troubles could be very easily overcome if ringers would work and live to Christian principles. The sad point is that they, like many others, obviously find this a little too difficult, or inconvenient, perhaps.

REMARK RESENTED.

Dear Sir,—Replying to Mr. A. P. Smith, the fact we are concerned about is the base remark used against the Lancashire towers in question, and that we strongly resent his attitude and expression at the Council meeting.

As it is the annual meeting of the Lancashire Association in September, we trust this matter will be brought forward and receive its full attention.

Finally, may I suggest to Mr. Smith that we might leave the 'Order of the Holy Writ' apart from this controversy?

MIDLAND COUNTIES ASSOCIATION.

QUARTERLY MEETING AT ECKINGTON.

As Norton, near Chesterfield, was unavailable, the first quarterly meeting of the Midland Counties Association was held at Eckington on Saturday, June 27th. The bells (8) were open during the afternoon and evening, when visitors took part in all standard methods. The committee met in the afternoon and carried out various routine duties. Tea was served in the White Hart Inn, and between 20 and 30 members from each district of the association sat down. The general meeting followed, at which the president, Mr. E. Demison Taylor, took the chair, supported by Mr. W. E. White, hon. treasurer, Mr. Ernest Morris, general hon. secretary, and Mr. Robinson, churchwarden of Eckington. The president gave a review of the quarter's work, commenting on peals rung, those of special note being the first of Leicestershire Surprise Major, rung at Wigston Magna, and the clerical peal at Holmer, Hereford. He briefly touched on matters arising from the Central Council meeting, commenting on the fact of the association's new representative, Mr. W. H. J. Hooton, becoming librarian. Messrs. A. J. Harris and J. H. Swinfield each gave reports on their impressions of the Council meeting, giving explanations on several items on the agenda.

Mr. Taitton proposed a vote of thanks to the representatives on their excellent report.

Various suggestions were put forward as to the better support of 'The Ringing World,' and it is hoped that local representatives of towers would take notice of these and act upon them.

New members proposed during the quarter were three honorary, nine ringing, two rejoins, three life, who were duly elected.

Mr. W. E. White proposed a hearty vote of thanks to the local company for making the meeting such a pleasant one, and Mr. Robinson (churchwarden) suitably replied.

This concluded the business, but before the assembly broke up a course of Grandsire Caters on handbells was rung by J. H. Swinfield 1-2, E. Morris 3-4, J. Pagett 5-6, J. P. Fidler 7-8, G. Freebrey 9-10, and a tune by Messrs. E. Morris and J. Pagett. Further ringing on the church bells and 'informal meetings' elsewhere terminated a very enjoyable afternoon.

THE 'G.O.M.' OF IBSTOCK.

To mark the 83rd birthday of Mr. John William Hopkins, the veteran churchwarden and ringer of Ibstock, near Loughborough, a special touch of 1,400 Grandsire Doubles was rung on June 27th on the bells of the Parish Church, composed for the occasion and containing exactly 83 calls (one for each of his years). It was rung by W. Goadby 1, O. Verrey 2, W. H. Ball 3, W. Atkins 4, W. Woodward 5, A. Overton 6. The conducting was shared by W. Woodward and C. Verrey.

Mr. Hopkins is still a regular ringer, and for over half a century has interested himself in the church work and public life of Ibstock. For the past 30 years he has been churchwarden, and at the restoration of the bells in 1905 he was greatly responsible for their augmentation to six. He is a member of the Midland Counties Association, for whom he has rung two peals, and all members, in wishing him good health, will hope he will continue many more years in the good work.

RINGERS' OUTINGS.

SPILSBY'S DIFFICULT BELLS.

A party of ringers from Lea, Upton, Willingham and Lincoln spent an interesting, though wet, afternoon on Saturday, May 30th, in ringing around Spilsby. The first call was at Raithby, a charming little village just off the busy Skegness road. A pleasant six, tenor 11 cwt., by Carr, of Birmingham, was found here, but they have rather a long draught of rope. An excellent 720 of Bob Minor was, however, rung on them. The next stop was for tea at Spilsby, and then on to Alford nine miles away. The bells here must be the finest six of their weight in Lincs. They had a special interest to some of the party, as they were seen assembled in their frame at the Loughborough Bell Foundry 18 months ago when the old five were recast and a treble added. The tenor weighs 12½ cwt., and the bells were heard to good effect in another 720 of Plain Bob.

It had been hoped that Willoughby (six, tenor 8 cwt.) would be available, but Spilsby had to be substituted at the last minute. The 'rough' state of these bells was known and the visitors did not expect an easy time. When, however, an attempt was made to pull them up in peal it was soon evident that this was out of the question, as there is an enormous draught of unguided rope which seemed more like elastic than hemp, and chose to come down everywhere but where it was wanted. The visitors, however, managed to ring a six-score of Grandsire Doubles and two courses of Bob Minor, and then decided to lower the bells before disaster befell anyone. As far as the ringers are concerned here the clappers might be 'tied,' as it is impossible to hear anything except a faint rumbling overhead. The ringers had a very enjoyable outing in real old-fashioned Lincolnshire country.

MORE LINCOLNSHIRE DIFFICULTIES.

Twenty ringers and friends from Howden, Hemmingbrough, Selby, Sherburn-in-Elmet, Sutton-on-Hull and a visitor from Woodford in Essex set forth on June 1st by coach on a tour through North Lincolnshire and Nottinghamshire. At the outset they were obliged to satisfy the insistent cravings of a gentleman who had travelled from Sutton at an early hour without any breakfast, but they were soon whirling south, and, having missed several turnings, arrived at the first destination over the devious twists of a winding by-road.

At Epworth they put in a good half an hour's hard labour on the bad-going peal of six (tenor 30 cwt.), ringing Doubles and Cambridge Minor with such effect that the tenor rope protested by parting at a splice. At Haxey the ringers had another spell of horse work on a similar peal (tenor 25 cwt.). It seems a pity that two fine peals like these should waste through lack of rehanging. Next the party proceeded to Gainsborough, where the grand peal of eight were a delight to ring and handle. There they lunched and recuperated from their morning's activities.

Going on to Sutton-on-Trent, they were met by the Misses Burchnall, and although some found the trebles rather tricky to handle after the previous peals, yet good use was made of the bells, and admiring comments were passed on the carpet and belfry. After a short ring at East Markham, the tourists paid their last call at East Retford, where on the peal of ten (tenor 24 cwt.) Grandsire Triples and Caters and Kent Treble Bob Royal were rung, a course of Bob Royal coming to grief in the last half-lead through the tenor rope breaking.

This concluded a very satisfactory day's ringing, for which they have to thank Mr. Fred Terry, to whom were due the origin and the management of the outing, and the arrangements made by the ringers of the several towers that were visited.

MALDON RINGERS' TOUR.

The ringers of All Saints', Maldon, Essex, together with wives and friends, had their annual outing on Saturday, June 13th. Starting from Maldon at 7.45 a.m., they journeyed via Colchester and Ipswich to Woodbridge, their first stop. They soon had the fine bells going in a touch of Stedman, which was much enjoyed. Other touches were rung to give all a chance, and then a move was made to Lowestoft, where a splendid lunch was in readiness at the Crown Hotel. Afterwards the ringers paid a visit to St. Margaret's Church, where, a wedding having just taken place, they were able to ring the wedding bells for the bridal couple. After tea a move was made for Stowmarket, where some of the local ringers were met and some good ringing was very much enjoyed. Home was reached at 11.30 p.m. after a tour of 170 miles. Although the weather was not very kind, it did not damp the spirits of the party and the day's outing was a great success. The ringers wish to thank the various incumbents for the use of the bells and the local ringers for having the bells ready and for meeting them.

HELMINGHAM RINGERS VISIT LINCOLNSHIRE.

On Saturday, June 27th, the Helmingham, Suffolk, band, with a few friends, making a party of twenty, held their annual outing. Leaving Helmingham Church a few minutes past six in the morning by motor-coach, a course was steered for Long Sutton, Lincs, which was reached just before ten o'clock. Mr. and Mrs. Rupert Richardson were there to give them a warm welcome. Ringing started with a good touch of Stedman Triples, with eight of the party who were over 50 years of age. The conductor was W. G. Crickmer, who is one of the three survivors of the famous 16,608 Oxford Treble Bob at Debenham in 1892. The youngsters then took over for Superlative, but were surprised to find themselves all mixed up after a lead or two. However, a good wiggling from their fathers and a change over to Cambridge resulted in a good course being brought round. After other courses of Bristol and London had been rung, the party left for Boston, where an excellent lunch was awaiting them at the Scala Cafe. They felt the full effects of doing 'ample justice' when afterwards they climbed the famous Stump. Most of the party reached the ringing floor after much puffing and blowing and inquiries as to 'How much further?' The ringing here was not all that could be desired, but Treble Ten and Stedman Caters and a course of London on the back eight were brought round. The next call was Pinchbeck, where some good courses of Surprise and Double Norwich were rung. Then came a visit to Surfleet with its light twelve. It was some time before three leads of Treble Twelve could be brought round, followed by a course of Stedman Caters and a course of Stedman Doubles on the front five to oblige L. C. W. Glyn Garth for tea was the next item, and it will be a long day before that tea, which Mrs. Richardson had prepared on the lawn, will be forgotten. Afterwards Rupert entertained the party for an hour or more with his 'movies,' and it was great fun to watch some of the doings of celebrated ringers who had previously visited Surfleet. A few minutes before eight the party said 'Good-bye' to their kind host and hostess, to whom they tendered their best thanks for guiding the Suffolkites and helping them on the higher numbers of bells, also for entertaining them and making this the most enjoyable outing they had ever had. Home was reached about 12.30 a.m. But just after ten o'clock the same morning Bristol was rolling off, followed by Stedman, for morning service at Helmingham. The party would like to thank, through 'The Ringing World,' all incumbents for use of bells and the steeple-keepers for having everything ready.

A WEEK-END.

The 37th annual outing of the St. John the Baptist's Society, Leytonstone, took place on June 20th and 21st—indeed, it can be said to have begun on the 19th, for, late on that evening, most of the party travelled to Basingstoke, Hants, which was the centre from which excursions were to be made on the following days. A strong muster of local ringers was on the railway platform to welcome the visitors on their arrival, headquarters being at the Railway Hotel. Here a chat with newly-made friends brought supper time and bed, in preparation for the following two days' excursions. The Master joined the party next morning, and after breakfast they set out by charabanc for a round of visits to towers, going first to Alton, where there is a fine ring of eight, and then to the little village of Upton Grey, with a handy ring of six, and on to Odiham, which also has a peal of six. After lunch at headquarters three of the local band joined the party, and a trip of eleven miles brought them to Highclere, with its handy ring of eight. Going farther on, they next called at Andover, where the eight bells run the wrong way round, and where, it was learned, the local men would welcome the services of a good bellhanger. Alas, there is a lack of money to enable a restoration to be put in hand. Tea, kindly arranged by Mr. New, was followed by a visit to Whitechurch (eight), Deane (six), where the late Rev. C. D. P. Davies was for some years Vicar, and Wootton St. Lawrence (six).

On Sunday arrangements had been made to ring from 7.15 to 8 a.m. at St. Michael's, Basingstoke. After breakfast the party set off for Newbury. A pleasant run through the country brought them to the old Berkshire town, where they enjoyed ringing on the fine peal of ten. On the return journey they experienced a heavy storm—the only rain during the excursion. After lunch at headquarters visits were paid to Sherfield and Bramley, and the evening service ringing was at All Saints', Basingstoke (eight). This brought a very successful outing to a close, in the course of which 720's of Cambridge, Ipswich and Norwich Surprise and many shorter touches of Minor, including 'Spliced,' were rung at the six-bell towers, and Grandsire, Stedman, Plain Bob, Double Norwich, Superlative and Cambridge at other places. At every tower visited the Leytonstone ringers were met by the local men, who did everything they could to help make the outing an enjoyable and memorable one. These local ringers are thanked for their kindness, as are all the clergy who so readily granted the use of their bells.

INCIDENTS ON IPSWICH OUTING.

On Saturday, June 27th, the St. Mary-le-Tower Society, Ipswich, held their annual outing. Starting from Ipswich at 6 a.m., they had a good run to the Half-way House, East Horndon, on the London-Southend by-pass, to breakfast at 8.15. They then crossed the Tilbury-Gravesend Ferry, ringing at Gravesend, Chatham, Gillingham, Rochester Cathedral.

A course of Rochester Surprise Royal was rung at the Cathedral, and a good look round the Cathedral and the Crypt was very interesting. An excellent dinner was served at the George, Leeds, where the late James Barham was famous. Barham was an ancestor of the Tilletts, of Ipswich. Then lastly to Maidstone, where three of the company were locked in the tower for half an hour. The ringing of the treble brought Mr. Spiller to the rescue.

The methods rung were Grandsire on seven and nine bells, Superlative, Treble Bob (eight), Double Norwich (eight and ten), Cambridge (eight and ten), and the novelty, of course, the Rochester Surprise Royal at Rochester Cathedral, perhaps the first rung outside Ipswich.

A somewhat alarming incident occurred on the homeward journey. A hitch in the ferry ticket caused the secretary to be delayed in the office while the ferry began to move off. Sprinting well for his age, he found the ferry now 8ft. away from the quay head, but her stern swung round within about 2ft., and he clambered aboard, to the delight of all.

The society wish, through the medium of 'The Ringing World,' to thank all incumbents and steeplekeepers for having things in readiness, and also Mr. Robert Brundle's son and Mr. E. J. Beer, both of whom made admirable pilots, in making the outing a grand success. Ipswich was safely reached by midnight.

NORTH SHIELDS RINGERS VISIT EDINBURGH.

On Thursday, June 25th, the ringers and choirmen of Christ Church, North Shields, joined forces for their annual outing, and visited Edinburgh by a railway excursion. The weather was ideal, and, having an hour to spare on arrival before luncheon, they split into small parties and visited the Shrine, the Castle and other places of interest. After luncheon the ringers, organist and some of the choir went to St. Cuthbert's Church. Permission had been granted for the use of the bells, and a few short touches of Stedman Triples, Kent Major and Grandsire Triples were rung. The visitors were met by two of St. Cuthbert's ringers, who gave them a kind welcome. After looking round the church, which is very beautiful, especially the small Chapel Shrine, dedicated to the men of the parish who gave their lives in the Great War, the party visited the Zoo, where forces were united again. Here, we are told, the party 'had a glorious time, some seeking relations of other members and feeding them and other animals; the fun was great.' After tea they started out again in small parties to see the city, and meeting again at the station in good time for the return train. The journey back was a pleasant finish off, being kept lively with songs and speeches, the party according thanks to all, including the Vicar, churchwardens, secretary and others who had helped in giving them such a good time. The Vicar replied for himself and joined in the thanks to the absent churchwardens. Thanks are also extended to the Vicar and ringers of St. Cuthbert's Church for their share in the arrangements.

FIVE TWELVE-BELL TOWERS IN A DAY.

On Whit Monday the ringers of St. Laurence-in-Reading carried out a most ambitious programme by ringing at three Staffordshire and two Warwickshire 12-bell towers. Through the kindness and fine organisation of their old friend, Mr. Albert Walker, everything was ready for the visitors at each place. Leaving Reading at 6.18 a.m. by G.W.R., Birmingham was reached at 11 a.m., two trains having been struck off time tables owing to Bank Holiday arrangements. However, St. Martin's bells were going to Cinques at scheduled time and a pleasant hour spent there. Then dinner at the Crown Restaurant, Corporation Street, which was greatly enjoyed. Afterwards at Aston everyone rang Stedman Cinques and paid their respectful homage at the last resting place of the immortal Henry Johnson. Walsall was the next objective. Here again everything was ready and the usual Stedman Cinques went rolling along. Three leads of Treble Twelve were also rung. The beautiful Church of St. Peter, Wolverhampton, was greatly admired, both inside and out, before climbing the belfry stairs. These bells were liked by all, and a good course of Double Norwich was rung on the back eight to finish the ringing, the only time all day in which less than 12 bells were pulled off. After tea a move was made to West Bromwich, where the party arrived ten minutes before time, but got on with the work, and left for Snow Hill Station, where a suitable farewell was taken of Mr. F. Haynes (St. Martin's Guild Ringing Master), who had given the whole day to the visitors. Will all the ringers who met the party and had things ready at each tower accept the heartfelt thanks of the St. Laurence's ringers, including, of course, the man whom they did not meet, Mr. A. Walker?

'REIGATIANS' TOUR FIVE COUNTIES.

On Saturday, June 6th, a party of 22 left Reigate by motor-coach in lovely weather for their annual ringers' outing. The first stop was at Barnet. At St. John the Baptist's Church, touches of Grandsire Triples and Bob Major were brought round. A well-struck course of Cambridge came to grief near the end owing to the tenor rope breaking. In the journey from Barnet to Waltham Holy Cross, four College Youths rang courses of Stedman and Grandsire Triples on handbells. At Waltham Abbey, rounds were rung on the twelve, with a touch of Grandsire Caters and three leads of Treble Ten. After dinner at a hotel close to the Abbey, a delay of half an hour was caused before resuming the journey owing to a puncture in a rear wheel. The local inhabitants were entertained to a course of Grandsire Triples 'in hand' at the Market Place while the coach driver made a quick 'change-over.'

The best scenery of the day was passed on the road through Epping Forest to Brentwood. Here, at St. Thomas' Church, short touches of Grandsire and Stedman Triples were rung. Romford being the next objective, most of the ringers were keen on trying the famous peal at the Church of St. Edward. The bells were rung to Grandsire Triples, Bob Major and Double Norwich. An excellent tea was provided at the Golden Lion Hotel. Onwards, through the maze of London traffic, West Ham was reached in just a slight fall of rain. The 'Reigatians' were welcomed at All Saints' Church by four or five local ringers. Good striking was a feature at this tower. Touches of Grandsire and Stedman Caters and three leads of Treble Ten were rung, and, to finish the day's ringing, a well-struck course of London Surprise Major was scored with one 'local' to assist. This is the first course rung on a Reigate Society outing.

Homeward bound, the Blackwall Tunnel provided a new experience to some. Passing by Greenwich Observatory and through Beckenham, the borough was again reached by 10 p.m. Special thanks are accorded to all those responsible at the various churches for such an enjoyable day.

SUNDERLAND RINGERS TOUR LAKE DISTRICT.

The ringers of St. Ignatius' Church, Sunderland, had their annual outing on Wednesday, June 24th. The party consisted of the Rev. P. N. W. Strong (Vicar), the Rev. F. E. Marples (curate), Mr. J. F. Eccles (churchwarden), several other friends and eleven ringers. Leaving Sunderland in a 32-seater coach shortly after 8.30, the first stop was at Barnard Castle; then on through Bowes and across the moors to Appleby and Penrith. Keswick was reached at about 12.30.

An excellent lunch awaited the visitors at the Waverley Hotel, after which some of the party went to Friars Crag to get a view of Derwentwater, and the remainder visited St. Kendrick's, Crosthwaite, a fine old church on the outskirts of Keswick. The bells are a very good peal of eight, with 16 cwt. tenor, and touches of Stedman Triples and Double Norwich were much enjoyed. The ringers stand on the ground floor at the west end of the church, and the following very interesting 'Orders' are inscribed on a tablet nearby:—

You Ringers all, observe these Orders well,
He eight-pence pays who overturns a bell;
He who presumes to ring without consent,
Shall pay one shilling, and it shall be spent.
And he who rings with either Spur or Hat
Shall pay his eight-pence certainly for that.
He who in ringing interrupts a peal,
For such offence shall pay a Quart of Ale;
In falling bells one penny must be paid
By him who stops before the signal's made.
And he who takes God's Holy Name in vain,
Shall pay one shilling and this place refrain.
You ringers all take care, you must not fail
To have your forfeiture spent in Ale.
With heart upright let each true subject ring,
For Health and Peace, for Country, Church and King.

At 3 o'clock a move had to be made homewards, by the side of Bassenthwaite via Bothel and Carlisle, Brampton being reached at 5 o'clock. Here tea at the Howard Arms was followed by hearty thanks to all who had contributed to the day's enjoyment, and the Vicar recited two touching poems, entitled 'The Verger' and 'The Charabanc Sleepers,' which he had composed during the journey, inspired no doubt by the 'shades' of the Lake District poets?

The next stop was at Lanercost Priory, where the party was photographed under the entrance archway, and after a glimpse of Naworth Castle, Hexham was reached at about 9 p.m., where the party had the pleasure of meeting the Rev. G. H. J. Bailey, their late Vicar, now Rector of Patterdale. Sunderland was reached shortly before 11, the general opinion being that the happy combination of weather, district and good company had resulted in one of the best outings the company have ever had.

DEATH OF AN OLD NOTTINGHAM RINGER.

The death occurred on Thursday, June 25th, of Mr. Albert Lambert, a ringer at St. Mary's, Nottingham, for over 55 years. He had reached the ripe age of 75 years. Not a brilliant ringer, having only three peals to his name, he was one of those steady, useful men to have in a tower, who thought more of Sunday service ringing than peals. He was a prominent Oddfellow, and in his earlier years was connected for a long period with the local Volunteer Regiment.

The interment was conducted by the Vicar, the Right Rev. Bishop Talbot, and a course of Grandsire Triples was rung on handbells over the open grave by Miss Thompson 1-2, G. Peck 3-4, A. Coppock 5-6, R. Narborough 7-8, all of the St. Mary's band. In the evening a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples was rung on the new peal at St. Mary's by F. Collings 1, Miss I. B. Thompson 2, F. Blood 3, G. Peck 4, F. Bradley 5, A. Coppock (conductor) 6, R. Narborough 7, W. Nichols 8.

The deceased just lived long enough to see what he desired most, the renovation of the bells at his beloved church. A permanent memorial is to be placed in the tower.

RETIREMENT OF MR. F. S. WILSON.

Mr. F. S. Wilson, manager of Lloyds Bank, Ltd., Wincanton, has retired after 43 years' service. He is now residing in Mayfield, West Lavington, Midhurst, Sussex.

Before leaving Wincanton he was the recipient of a handsome case of Locwe pipes from the members of his staff, while the Freemasons gave him a large silver cigarette box, inscribed as follows: 'Presented to Wor. Bro. F. S. Wilson, P.P.S.G.W., by the brethren of Science Lodge, No. 437, as a token of esteem and regard and in recognition of his services as secretary, 1930-1936.'

NORTH STAFFS ASSOCIATION.

A meeting was held at Rochester on Saturday, July 4th, when 37 members and friends were present from Burslem, Burton-on-Trent, Crewe, Cheshire, Draycott, Derby Cathedral, Kingsley, Leek, Longton, Norton, Newhall, Newcastle, Rochester, Repton, Sutton, Stoke-on-Trent and Uttoxeter. A peal board was unveiled by Mrs. J. B. Colley, which recorded the first peal of Major on the bells. The board has been given by the ringers who took part.

A service was also held, which was conducted by the Rev. Goering (Vicar of Alton), whilst the Rev. J. B. Colley (Vicar of Rochester) was at the organ. Tea was held at the 'Welcome' house, where a very warm welcome was extended to all present by the Vicar, and Mr. J. W. Bullock, the secretary for Rochester ringers.

The members were very pleased to have with them Messrs. R. T. Holding, J. H. Swinfield, J. Pagett and others.

SUDDEN DEATH OF MR. B. G. LEEDHAM.

It is with deep regret we record the death of Mr. Bertram G. Leedham, of 19, Coleshill Street, Sutton Coldfield, which took place on Sunday morning at the age of 51 years.

The deceased had been connected with the ringing at Holy Trinity Parish Church, Sutton Coldfield, as towerkeeper and Ringing Master, and had taken part in about sixty peals, although he did not keep any exact record. The news of his sudden death came as a great shock to the ringers of the church. He was of a genial disposition and always ready to oblige anyone in matters connected with ringing. The deepest sympathy is extended to his widow and family.

GLOUCESTER AND BRISTOL DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

The half-yearly meeting was held at Bishopstone on Saturday, June 27th, and, favoured with good weather, was attended by a good muster of members and visitors from Aldbourne, Bristol, Faringdon, Nailsea, Southwark and Wootton Bassett.

The Vicar welcomed the ringers to his parish and impressed on them the importance of personal worship.

No meeting was fixed for July, but the August and September meetings will be held at Highworth and Stratton St. Margaret respectively.

The ringing ranged from Grandsire Triples to Cambridge Surprise Major, and about 7 p.m. the company adjourned to the neighbouring village of Ashbury, where a meeting of the Oxford Guild was being held.

EDINBURGH RINGER'S WEDDING.

On Friday, June 19th, at the Cathedral Church of St. Mary, Edinburgh, a touch of Grandsire was rung by a joint band of St. Outhbert's and St. Mary's on the occasion of the wedding of the conductor, Mr. Charles R. Raine, and Miss N. Macfarlane. A clock with Westminster chimes had previously been presented by the combined ringers.

MUFFLED BELLS.

On Friday, June 19th, at All Saints' Church, Ashover, Derbyshire, a quarter-peal of Bob Major (G. A. Newton's 1,280 changes) was rung with the bells half-muffled to mark the passing of Mr. Joseph Revell, for many years an official of this church, who was interred earlier the same day: I. Revell 1, B. Alsopp 2, V. Taylor 3, G. H. Paulson 4, H. Hopkinson 5, T. Dent 6, E. Hopkinson 7, A. W. H. Bowler (conductor) 8. The conductor's first attempt to call a quarter-peal. All the ringers are members of the Midland Counties Association.

PEALS IN OTHER ASSOCIATIONS' TOWERS

The annual report of the Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild calls attention to peals rung in the Guild's area for other territorial associations, and deprecates the action of those bands (their own members included) who, when visiting the 'preserves' of some other association, do not ring their peals for the society in whose territory the tower stands. The principle of this attitude is unquestionably right, although, it must also be admitted, there are occasionally extenuating circumstances.

If a band visits a tower in the area of a neighbouring association it ought, as a matter of courtesy, to credit its peal to the society whose hospitality it enjoys, and a ringer who takes part in such a performance ought to be prepared to pay the nominal subscription which would make him a 'non-resident' member for life. These subscriptions are only a moderate sum and are not a recurring liability; indeed they have been fixed for the very purpose of enabling outside ringers to become members on specially favourable terms. There is very little excuse, therefore, for peals being rung for other than the local territorial association on the ground of the cost, and unless there is a special reason for doing otherwise, there is practically no excuse for a band grabbing a peal for some society other than that which officially covers the area in which the peal is rung. Instances of this kind are not of frequent occurrence—but they do happen. Where however, for any reason, the members of an association desire to ring a peal in another area for their own society, it would smooth away all cause of friction if, as a matter of courtesy, a formal intimation of the intention, if not an actual request for permission, were made to the territorial association concerned.

The difficulties arise in areas where ringing organisations overlap. Where two or more societies operate there can, of course, be no possible question of the peal being rung under the auspices of either; but it might not be easy to say which should be approached if an outside band wished to come in. This is a little difficulty, however, which need not interfere with a general practice that might lead to a happier understanding. In areas where towers available for peal ringing are not numerous and where the limitations are rigid, it is rather galling to an association to find that a band of outsiders have walked in and annexed a peal which may result in keeping the local association out for months to come. That is one phase; but the greater offence is the lack of courtesy by which, prompted perhaps by someone's reluctance to pay the small life subscription necessary, some other society should have the credit of a peal which normally should go to the territorial organisation. It is bad form and the Winchester and Portsmouth Guild's protest is not out of place.

FOR BEGINNERS.

STEDMAN.

Those who would like to ring Stedman should not find the task of learning the method a difficult one, although there are some ringers who seem frightened of the very name. They imagine it to be a method full of pitfalls, whereas a little concentrated study should smooth the troubles away.

Unlike most methods, Stedman has no bell 'in the hunt,' which can act as a guide to the others. All the bells concerned do precisely the same work, which consists of three kinds: The slow work, the quick work and the dodging. The 'principle,' as it is termed, is based upon the 'sixes' (to use Fabian Stedman's term). That is to say, the three bells in front ring all the six possible changes which they can produce. Then one goes away and another comes in, and this and the two remaining, again ring all the six possible changes.

While these six changes are in progress all the other bells double dodge in pairs. If it be Doubles that are being rung, then there is one pair double dodging; if it be Triples there are two pairs, and so on. The dodging, of course, should be fairly easily mastered. You stop in your forward progress, either up or down, and step back one place; go forward again one place and step back a second time, before going forward to the next dodging place. After stepping back for the second time, you go forward three places before the next backward step. The actual dodges in Doubles are 4-5 (up) and 5-4 (down); that is, divided only by the whole pull behind.

The 'sixes' are so arranged that in one the three bells hunt in a forward cycle; in the next a backward cycle, and so on alternately. Between them they cause the bells alternately to come in 'slow' and 'quick.' The work of a 'quick' bell is simplicity itself. It leaves the dodging in 5-4 (down), hunts straight in, leads a whole pull, hunts straight out and dodges in 4-5 (up). Then, having dodged in 5-4 (down), the bell has to come in 'slow.' The slow work is the part of the method which perhaps needs the greatest amount of application. It is divided into 'whole turns' and 'half turns.' For practical purposes the term refers to what the bells do at lead. A 'whole turn' consists of a whole pull at lead, one blow in second's and another whole pull at lead. A 'half turn' is just a half pull at lead, i.e., one blow.

When you begin the 'slow work' you leave the 5-4 dodging, and make 3rd's place (a whole pull). Then you go to lead and do the 'first whole turn.' This begins with leading a whole pull wrong (backstroke first and then handstroke). Then you strike one blow in 2nd's, and lead another whole pull—this time the right way (handstroke first and then backstroke). After this you make another whole pull in 3rd's place.

The 'first half turn' follows, and in this you simply go in and lead one blow at handstroke, and then make 3rd's place again.

Next comes the 'last half turn,' which is the reverse of the first; in other words, you go in and lead one blow at backstroke, before once more making 3rd's place.

The slow work concludes with the last whole turn—similar to the first whole turn, but reversed—a whole pull right first, and a whole pull wrong after the one blow in 2nd's place. Then you make 3rd's place and go out into the dodging.

The work occurs thus:—

- 3rd's (right way), First whole turn.
- 3rd's (wrong way), First half turn.
- 3rd's (right way), Last half turn.
- 3rd's (wrong way), Last whole turn.
- 3rd's (right way), Out to the dodging.

Just note this: Between each piece of the slow work 3rd's place is made. The first and last 3rd's are made the right way (handstroke and backstroke), and so is the one between the half turns: but between the whole turns and half turns the 3rd's places are the wrong way (back and hand).

Your first and last whole pulls at lead are the wrong way.

The half turn is sometimes called a 'snap,' and the bell that snaps at your first whole turn, you snap with in your own first half turn.

Your last half turn is with the bell that will snap at lead in your last whole turn.

The slow work and quick work occur alternately, with dodging between.

Stedman does not begin at the beginning of a six. It starts like Grandsire, and in order that you may prick it out for yourself and examine the method thoroughly, here are the first two sixes and the odd piece:—

RINGERS' OUTINGS.

IN TUNE WITH THE PAST.

A 150 Miles Search for Old Berkshire Bells.

Wherever ringers are gathered together, one invariably finds the conversation turning to 'what we have done,' so it was not inappropriate that the Crawley ringers, with some of their friends, this year chose on July 4th a tour of the old bells in Berkshire for their annual outing. What an ideal day! The temperature was perfect and we started from Crawley on the Alpha coach (a good beginning) at 7.15 a.m. It is said, however, thanks to some overnight training, a few were about well before time.

Very soon a big policeman was doting on the glories of Surrey, which we were seeing at its best and, unknown to our driver, the built-up areas were gallantly displaying the masses of roses which are so much in evidence this year. We sailed gaily along through Reigate, Guildford, Bagshot, Wokingham and arrived at Caversham as per schedule by 9.15 a.m. Just to knock the rust off, a Cambridge start and three leads of Bristol were included in the first touch of 'Spliced,' which was safely brought home before some of the party had finished their patter with Mr. Newman, the local captain, and Mr. Simmonds, who were receiving all the twenty, one by one, and ruminating on times gone by when the Caversham band were on the top rungs of the ladder—there are many towers which have not since been visited by better bands than the Caversham tourists of those days. The old bells, recently put on ball bearings locally, gave one the impression that something more, though not drastic, would be desirable.

EAST ILSLEY CHURCH.

Just a short run to Goring, where we were met by Mr. Bower, with the bells up ready, and quickly this little 8 cwt. musical box was going 'around and around'—so much so indeed that one 'old gentleman' became confused between the 4th and 6th although it was only just 10.30 a.m. This peal was recast by Mears in 1929, and one of the old bells, cast about 1285 by Richard de Wymbis, hangs on a bracket in the church. We next had the pleasure of a ring with the local man at Cholsey, Mr. Fletcher, who was the first to tell us of the lack of Sunday service ringers. It was nice to ring on six for a change and several showed special interest in the part Norman, Maltese Cross Church and an enormous yew, which they measured as 16ft. in circumference. However, when Mr. Fletcher said he wished he had our 'side,' a tonic appeared to be called for, although some were already busy on the one 'R,' one 'B' principle. On to Wallingford for lunch (skip it), and St. Matthew's with its peal of eight by Lester and Pack, 1738, where we exercised ourselves with Stedman, Bristol, etc., on 'bells for men,' tenor 21 cwt. After a 'very tidy' fall in peal, we bid adieu to Mr. Norris, who had 'kindly met us and had everything in readiness' as the best reporters say.

Another little jaunt and we reached Harwell. Some of these bells date back to Carter 1590, six were restored and the peal augmented to eight by Taylor, 1932—a very fine job. We thoroughly enjoyed the ringing. Rutland was included and in this quiet out-of-the-way spot the bells could be heard to advantage outside as well as in. Cherries, straight from the orchard, were being eagerly bought from a charming 'young miss.'—Yes! We had a complete bachelors' band, married men's band and all sorts of other things. Mr. Hitchman was anxious to get back to his work, but maybe he's responsible for the local young ladies, for he stayed on, and, let's hope, has no bad report to make. Our next tower was East Ilsley, tenor 8½ cwt., by Robert Atton, 1625; bells rebung and three trebles added by Mears, 1921. A splendid little peal these, and the motto is 'Catch the sally high.' This was our last eight, so we finished with a nice touch of 'Spliced.'

Our tea never looked like being in doubt, with Mr. Hibbert to provide it. There it was, all laid out under the drooping ash, and, oh! boy, those lardy cakes! It was, as we say in Sussex, some sense. There was so much of interest, the delightful garden, the relics of wild animals shot by Mr. Hibbert in India, which his son, who is one of the local ringers, showed us, racing stables and so on—perhaps Mr. Curtis will forgive us for the late arrival at Newbury—our last call.

What a fine peal of ten awaited us at Newbury—tenor 21½ cwt. in D and they go like tops. The back eight are by Wells, of Albourne, 1803, and were done up by Mears, 1929, who added two trebles subsequently. As it was, we rang two courses of Cambridge Royal, Stedman Caters and Treble Ten, but would have liked a lot more. It was a real pleasure.

After just a quick 'Here's health' with Mr. Curtis and his colleagues, we had to make tracks for home via King's Cleary, Basingstoke and Hook, where we pulled up at the Dorchester Arms to knock off a few bar-billiards finals which had been outstanding since lunch time, and, having stayed there till 'time,' there were no further stops of interest, so we journeyed on via Farnham and Hog's Back to Guildford, Reigate, and so home. We must have done about 150 miles all day. Everyone voted it an exceedingly enjoyable outing, and, looking back over the bells, one feels a special regard to those old ones that keep their place in a peal because of their worth, regardless of time moving on.

All the arrangements for the trip were under the personal direction of Mr. Oliver Sippetts, lyrics by Kenneth Snelling, T. Pavey as the 'Compleat Angler,' 'Dusty' by himself, supported by various gentlemen-at-arms over a certain amusement park they failed to locate.

A 200 MILES' TRIP.

The St. John the Baptist (Hillingdon) Guild held their tenth annual outing on the first Saturday in July. Together with several friends, a motor-coach tour was made through the counties of Bucks, Berks, Oxon and Gloucestershire. Departing from headquarters at 7.30 a.m., various wives, sweethearts and friends were picked up in Uxbridge and the party proceeded to Wantage via Maidenhead and Henley. Here Steeplekeeper Fred was called upon to deal with the tenor rope before ringing commenced. The eight bells, tenor 22 cwt., were rung to various methods in good style considering the early hour! Hot coffee and cakes went down well here, too!

Fairford, on the edge of the Cotswold country, is a quiet old town, with houses mostly built of stone and possessing a fine church with a central tower. The church was the attraction, of course, and the visitors divided their time between ringing and inspecting the world-famed stained glass in the windows. The wonderful west window was described in detail by the local guide, who appeared to take a peculiar relish in pointing out the delights(?) of Hades as portrayed in the glass! The aforesaid guide, incidentally, was found to be related to some of the visitors, one of whom at the age of 85 was revisiting the scenes of her childhood days. The bells, a very fine ring of eight, tenor 17½ cwt., were rung to short touches. There is 70ft. of rope and the ringers stand at the foot of the chancel steps. The ringers received a well deserved rebuke here for not rising the bells in peal, which they must take to heart and ring up as well as down!

Cirencester was reached at midday and the first task was a hearty lunch at Messrs. Vipers. Later, Holy Trinity, Watermoor, was visited and the excellent ring of eight, tenor 20 cwt., rung. Had not some of the visitors been so loth to leave the festive board, a wedding party would have had the unexpected pleasure of having bells as well as choir. As it was, they (the ringers) arrived in time to see the choirboys scamper away!

After Cirencester came the best part of the tour. Minchinhampton Common (you could almost smell the sea up there!); Stroud, in the valley; Painswick, complete with a Paradise and Adam and Eve (closed); Birdlip and Northleach are places long to be remembered. The party had a glimpse of the Severn, saw the Vale of Evesham rolling away to the North Cotswolds, while Malvern Hills loomed up on the misty horizon to the west. The coach ascended to nearly a thousand feet at one point, and practically baked the driver in so doing!

The twelve bells of Painswick, one of the best rings in the country, with a tenor of 26½ cwt., were rung and enjoyed by both ringers and listeners alike. Another good ring was found at Northleach, the tenor of the octave being 18½ cwt. Ringing here was curtailed to keep up to the secretary-bloke's schedule, but the ringers were again admonished before departure about not rising in peal!

The Swan at Burford is famous for catering for hungry cyclists. Miss Lomas must now know that hungry ringers are even a more difficult proposition. The way that meat tea disappeared kept the attendants in a state of silent awe! The Church of St. John the Baptist was eventually visited, and here was found another good ring of eight, tenor 18 cwt. The glimpse of the beautiful Cotswolds through the belfry window whilst ringing will long be remembered by the scribe.

By-passing Oxford, a final halt was made at Tetworth, to try the new ring of six there. Of very sweet tone, the whole peal hardly weigh a ton, tenor 4½ cwt. The Rev. S. J. Nightingale, Vicar, arrived in time for a chat and a further invitation to the village. After suitable refreshment, the last stage of a strenuous day was completed and St. John's reached about 10.30 p.m. It was a happy day, favoured by fair weather. The ringing, never excellent, was good for the occasion, methods ranging from Grandsire Triples to Cambridge and Superlative Surprise Major, with a touch of Stedman Cinques thrown in. Seven towers were 'snatched' and new friends made, and that is what makes ringers' outings so enjoyable.

SHEFFIELD CATHEDRAL RINGERS VISIT MIRFIELD AND OSSETT.

This year the Sheffield Cathedral company, accompanied by a few friends, visited Mirfield and Ossett for their annual outing. Owing to a number of the company not being able to leave work in the morning, the journey was made by coach at 1.30 p.m. from the Cathedral via the lovely Oughtibridge valley, through Stocksbridge and over the Langsett moors, and through some delightful scenery before entering Huddersfield. After passing through the town and making their way up the hill, the party soon saw the noble tower of Mirfield standing out in bold relief. On arrival they were met by Mr. Allen Robinson and some of his colleagues, who kindly had the bells up ready and gave the visitors a hearty welcome. Stedman Caters, Grandsire Caters, Bob Royal and Forward Royal were rung for over an hour on this splendid peal of bells, by John Taylor and Co. (tenor 30 cwt.). The 'go' was excellent, but, like most heavy peals, the bells have a stately swing of their own and refused to be hurried or even drawn out of their noble grandeur. After tendering thanks and being 'spick and span' and carried out with all consideration for the Ossett through what appeared to be one endless town until at length the fine spire, which was the ringers' destination, came into view.

The coach had not actually stopped before Mr. George Bennett came alongside bidding them welcome. Then to the Flying Horse Inn, where an excellent tea was in readiness, provided by Host D. Hunt.

Afterwards, escorted by Mr. Bennett, the ringers made their way to the tower, where they first inspected the fine peal of ten bells (tenor 27 cwt.), recently installed by Messrs. Taylor and Co. on ball bearings in an iron frame in their well-known workmanlike manner, everything being 'spick and span' and carried out with all consideration for the ringers. Incidentally it was noticed that room was still left for another pair of trebles on the same level, and it is hoped that these will be added at some future date. And then, what a peal!

Likewise there is a large and excellent ringing chamber, beautifully fitted up with everything for comfort. With just a bit of carpet to relieve the bare floor and produce that homely effect so essential nowadays, it would be a veritable palace compared with a great many others.

As everyone had been looking forward to ring on this delightful peal, the bells were soon raised, and touches of Stedman Caters, Grandsire Caters, Forward Royal and a course of Cambridge Surprise Royal brought round in excellent style, each ringer doing his best, to the satisfaction of the local men. The unanimous impression gained was that if one cannot strike his bell at Ossett, he cannot ring at all.

Both as all were to leave the bells, the party perforce wended their way back to the Flying Horse for an hour's conviviality, some to recall past memories and others to make their acquaintance with the bowling green attached to the inn, where they had left the chief verger, not knowing until then that he was a very 'ace' at this game. What a surprise!

The return journey was commenced at 9.30 p.m., and, travelling by way of Wakefield and Barnsley, the old home pile was reached at 11 p.m. Thus ended another of the traditional outings much enjoyed by everyone.

The best thanks of the party are herewith confirmed to all who so kindly assisted toward the arrangements, especially Mr. Bennett, who did everything that could be desired, and to the Vicars of Mirfield and Ossett for their spontaneous permission given for the use of the bells.

WESTMINSTER RINGERS' EXCURSION.

The ringers of St. Margaret's, Westminster, held their annual outing on Saturday, July 4th, the towers selected being in the counties of Herts, Beds and Bucks. A start was made soon after eight o'clock from this famous West End church, and, after picking up two of the company at Park Royal, Rickmansworth was reached about 9.20. Time allowed only two touches on this recently augmented ten, one of Stedman Caters and a very good half-course of Cambridge Royal. A quick run through Chorley Wood, Chenies and Chesham, and Northchurch was reached. Stedman Triples, Double Norwich and Cambridge were rung to the satisfaction of ringers and listeners alike on another lately augmented peal. The journey was then continued through some most beautiful country to the grand Priory Church at Dunstable. The introductory effort here was a course of London, followed by a touch of Spliced Surprise in the four usual methods, finishing with a 167 Grandsire Triples, which, on this lovely peal, was unanimously agreed to be a welcome and pleasing variation.

After dinner at Dunstable, the tour was continued to Leighton Buzzard. Here, it was found, a wedding was about to be solemnised which slightly delayed the programme, but the happy couple were fortunate in having a course of Surprise Royal, half Yorkshire and half Cambridge, rung for them as they left the church. A short touch of Stedman Caters terminated the proceedings.

At Stoke Mandeville upon a small peal of eight, in a small tower, in a small village, Bristol, Superlative and Stedman Triples were the methods rung. The Vicar welcomed the party and said how pleased he was to have the bells rung. He had taught some boys himself several Minor methods, but the usual village tale had to be told; the inevitable had followed, a depleted band and progress stopped.

Haddenham was the last call of the day. Tea was partaken of at an old farm house, and ringing commenced with another touch of Spliced Surprise Major, followed by courses of Bristol and Yorkshire. A pleasant social half-hour was spent in the village, and the homeward journey provided a lovely run through High Wycombe, Beaconsfield and Uxbridge, Westminster being reached at 10.30. Thanks are tendered to all the incumbents and towerkeepers for permission to ring and the arrangements made. One more happy day was thus added to the list of 'annuals,' which started in 1925.

LLANDAFF AND MONMOUTH DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION SOUTH WALES RESTORATIONS AND AUGMENTATIONS.

A quarterly meeting of the Llandaff and Monmouth Diocesan Association took place at Usk on Saturday last, when a good number attended. The bells, described by those who heard them for the first time as the best they ever heard, are the product of the Loughborough Foundry, were raised at 3 o'clock and rung in various methods.

A service was conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. W. Davies, and tea was served in the Schoolroom, over 70 sitting down to enjoy the hospitality of the Vicar and churchwardens, the helpers including the ringers' wives.

The business meeting followed, presided over by the Vicar, by whom a cordial welcome was given to all present.

In connection with restorations and augmentations, it was reported that the rehanging of Bonvilston bells was in the hands of the bell-hangers, the order for two bells to complete the octave at Llanfrecfa tower had been given to the bellfounders, and it had been definitely decided to place in Ebbw Vale tower a new ring of eight bells, which meant another octave for Monmouthshire.

Applications for assistance for the schemes at Bonvilston and Llanfrecfa were recommended, and it was decided that these should be dealt with at the next annual meeting.

Mr. David, of Llangynydd, near Bridgend, then announced that a scheme is in hand to recast the six bells there and to complete the octave, and asked if the same assistance could be given. This, too, was recommended for decision at the next annual meeting.

The report of the Central Council meeting in London was given by the hon. secretary, who pleaded that all possible should be done to increase the sale of 'The Ringing World' by every ringer present in the room and in their respective towers.

The next Glamorgan meeting will be held at Newton Nottage, Portcawl, early in September. It was decided to hold the next Monmouthshire meeting at Caerleon.

Several new members were elected from Llanfrecfa, Llandaff, Llanishen and Cardiff, which concluded the business.

Councillor Horsington, of Abergavenny, very ably proposed the heartiest thanks to the Vicar for the use of the bells, the service, for presiding at the meeting, and to the churchwardens for providing a meat tea, and to the ladies for their kindness in attending on all.—The Vicar suitably replied.

The bells were afterwards kept going until late, bringing to a close a splendid, enthusiastic and pleasant meeting.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

CANTERBURY DISTRICT RECEIVES CIVIC WELCOME AT RAMSGATE.

The Canterbury District of the Kent County Association held the summer meeting at St. Lawrence, Thanet, on Saturday.

The peal of ten bells were available from 3 p.m., and good use was made of them until 4.30, when a short service was held in the church, conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. C. Cowland Cooper, who also gave a short address.

After tea the company were honoured by the presence of the Mayor and Mayoress of Ramsgate, Alderman and Mrs. Steed, who afforded them a civic welcome. They were introduced by the Vicar, who said 'that under all the dignity of his office, the Mayor was really a good man at heart,' and later in his speech caused much amusement by telling his hearers that the Mayor had been entertaining the 'Daily Mirror Eight,' and that during the following week was due to take the Carnival Queen over to Calais.

The Mayor, in reply, said that he was very pleased to be able to attend their tea, and to give them a civic welcome. He went on to describe the amenities of Ramsgate, and told them that they all ought to live in Ramsgate, as they would then be sure to reach an old age, through the benefits of their sea air.

The district secretary, on behalf of the members, briefly replied. At the business meeting which followed, with the Vicar in the chair, two new members were elected, the amended rules were agreed to, with one dissentient, and Wingham was chosen as the venue of the next by-meeting.

The Vicar was heartily thanked for the use of the bells and for the service.

The members then adjourned to the tower for further ringing.

'THE BELL NEWS AND RINGERS' RECORD.'

Mr. W. H. Fussell, 19, Farnburn Avenue, Slough, would be much obliged if some old member of the Exercise could kindly supply him with the following weekly issues of 'The Bells News,' years 1903 and 1904, all the numbers from January to December for each year, and the following odd copies, Nos. 1,213, 1,278 and 1,611. Also volumes No. 9 and 10, for the two years from March, 1890, to March, 1892.

WELL-KNOWN YORKS RINGING FAMILY BEREAVED.

Mr. J. W. Moorhouse and family, who are well known in the ringing world, suffered a sad bereavement by the sudden death of Mrs. Moorhouse on June 25th. She was a lady of very happy disposition and was known to a large number of ringers.

The sympathy of all the members of the Yorkshire Association, as well as those ringers in other parts of the country who knew Mrs. Moorhouse, will go out to those who are left to mourn.

NORWICH DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

The Eastern Branch of the Norwich Diocesan Association held a meeting at Acle, which was attended by 35 members. Tea, to which 27 members sat down, was presided over by the branch chairman, Mr. W. J. Lee, who was supported by Mr. A. L. Coleman (general secretary), Mr. J. Harwood (Eastern Branch secretary) and Mr. F. Nolan Golden (secretary of the Northern and Southern Branches).

At the meeting which followed, Mr. Golden brought to the notice of those present the need for wider circulation for 'The Ringing World,' and asked all ringers to give it their wholehearted support. He pointed out the benefits which ringers could derive from 'The Ringing World,' and said that with a greater circulation a cheaper paper could be provided.

A vote of thanks was accorded to Mr. Geoffrey Priest, of the Acle company, for providing the tea and for the excellent arrangements he had made.

Ringing took place in the afternoon and was resumed in the evening up to 10 p.m. The methods rung were Grandsire and Stedman Doubles, Bob Minor and Kent and Oxford Treble Bob Minor, rung singly and spliced, Cambridge, York and London Surprise Minor and Double Oxford.

Members were present from Norwich, Yarmouth, Wymondham, Wroxham, Halvergate, Reedham, Gorleston and Norton.

The thanks of the branch are accorded to the Rector (the Rev. J. H. Williams) for the use of the bells, which are a good six, and also of the Church Rooms.

BARNSELY ASSOCIATION'S SHIELD CONTEST.LIVERSEDGE WIN AGAIN.

A meeting and shield contest of the Barnsley and District Association was held at Felkirk on Saturday, July 11th. Five bands entered for the competition, and were drawn as follows: 1 New Mill, 2 Holmfirth, 3 Wath, 4 Liversedge, 5 Sandal. The test piece was 720 of any method. Liversedge rang Cambridge Surprise; the others rang Oxford Treble Bob. It was about 7.30 when the last band came down from the tower.

The business meeting was held in the Church Hall, the Vicar (the Rev. H. R. H. Coney) presiding.

Wortley was selected for the next meeting. The judge (Mr. W. Idle) presented his report as follows: Liversedge, 57 faults; Holmfirth, 71; New Mill, 154; Sandal, 175; Wath, 220. Liversedge were thus the winners, and each member of the band received a case of cutlery. Liversedge have won the shield for two successive years.

The usual votes of thanks were passed, and the Vicar extended a hearty welcome to the ringers and hoped to see more of them in future. Afterwards some of the visitors went to the tower for further ringing until 9 p.m., when another pleasant gathering was brought to a close.

SHROPSHIRE ASSOCIATION.

The meeting at Moreton Corbet is looked forward to with pleasure, and that of July 4th was favoured with an ideal day and all that is conducive to the enjoyment of both ringers and the ladies who accompanied them.

The Rector, the Rev. E. C. Pigot, who is treasurer of the association, had prepared the warmest of welcomes. The Rectory adjoins the church, and in the intervals between visits to the tower the ringers wandered in the garden or played bowls or putted on the lawn.

About 40 ringers, including visitors from Chester, the Potteries, etc., enjoyed the tea which they found prepared for them in various buildings, the ladies being cared for in the Rectory. A service was held in the beautiful little church, a short address being given by the Rev. E. C. Pigot.

A hearty vote of thanks to the Rector was carried with acclamation, and the staff and the organist were also included.

A good standard of ringing was maintained, the methods ranging from Grandsire Doubles to Spliced Treble Bob Minor and Cambridge Surprise. A party who made the short journey to Stanton were rewarded with several touches on a pleasing ring, which, however, needed a little more handling than the almost model peal at Moreton Corbet.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

Messrs. Gillett and Johnston have been awarded the contract to instal a heavy chime of bells, with a 24 ton hour bell, together with a large chiming clock, with 4ft. 10in. diameter Neon illuminated dials, in the tower of the new Town Hall, now nearing completion, at Luton. The old Town Hall was destroyed by fire, and the new building is being erected in a position commanding the main thoroughfare in the town.

Now that structural alterations are completed, ringing will be carried on as usual at Portsmouth Cathedral.

The outing of the Chertsey District of the Guildford Diocesan Guild to-morrow promises a pleasant afternoon. A visit will be paid to Thames-side towers in Berks, and the coach will pick up at Hershham (2 p.m.), Walton, Weybridge and Egham (2.30 p.m.). There are two or three vacant seats to be had, and the fare, including tea, is only 4s. 6d.

Press references to bellringing are to be found in strange places in these days. 'The Civil and Military Gazette,' published in India, in its issue of May 8th, reproduced the article from 'The Morning Post' of some months ago containing an interview with the Editor of 'The Ringing World.'

Although we concluded the publication of our 'Roll of Honour' some weeks ago, this week's mail from New Zealand has brought another name, which must be added: Mr. Cornelius Charge, of Auckland.

The bells of St. John-at-Hackney were rung on Saturday, July 4th, in honour of the wedding of Mr. F. Start, the Ringing Master. Mr. Start is training a band at this church.

PEAL WITHDRAWN.

To the Editor.

Sir,—I am sorry to inform my friends who took part that I have to withdraw the peal of Kent Treble Bob Major rung at Warnham, Sussex, on June 27th, as, through my own fault, it was false.

A. H. PULLING.

THE LATE MR. B. G. LEEDHAM.

FUNERAL AT SUTTON COLDFIELD.

The funeral of the late Mr. Bertram G. Leedham, of Sutton Coldfield, took place on Thursday, July 8th. The deceased was taken into the Parish Church overnight, where the first portion of the service was held. The officiating clergy were the Rev. G. L. H. Harvey (Rector of Holy Trinity, Sutton Coldfield) and the Rev. W. W. Holdcroft (Rector of Armitage), who, prior to entering the ministry, owned the business in which deceased was employed. The Rev. G. L. H. Harvey, in a brief address, spoke of the loyal services Mr. Leedham had given to the church during his ringing career and the very kindly way in which he treated everyone with whom he came in contact. He expressed sympathy with the widow and family.

The cortege then proceeded to the cemetery, where the interment took place, the committal prayers being said by the Rector. There was a large number of floral tributes, including one from the ringers of the Parish Church, Sutton Coldfield, and one from the St. Martin's Guild, of which the deceased was a member. The bearers were ringers, Messrs. W. G. Anker, H. Hall, N. Burgess, E. Roper, J. W. Reynolds and W. H. Funge, all from the Parish Church. The British Legion was represented by Mr. McEath, and Messrs. G. F. Swann and J. Preston represented St. Martin's Guild.

In the evening the ringers of the Parish Church, assisted by several members of the Guild, rang touches of Stedman Triples with the bells half-muffled to the memory of their late comrade, the ringing concluding with the 'whole pull and stand,' the bells fading out, one by one.

WORCESTERSHIRE AND DISTRICTS ASSOCIATION.

NORTHERN BRANCH MEETING.

The summer meeting of the Northern Branch of the Worcestershire and Districts Association was held at Chaddesley Corbett, a very pleasant spot in the country near Kidderminster, where there is quite a nice peal of eight. Unfortunately the weather was anything but settled; in fact, there was a thunderstorm in the afternoon which necessitated tea being taken indoors instead of out in the open.

The weather obviously had its effect on the attendance, as there were only about 35 members present. However, those who attended had a pleasant time.

Owing to the absence of the Vicar, it was not possible to have a service in church, so the afternoon was taken up with ringing.

At the business meeting, which was held in the belfry, the Association Ringing Master, Mr. William Short, took the chair, supported by Mr. Thomas Hemming, Branch Master.

Several new members were elected, and it was decided to hold the next meeting in September at Brierley Hill.

The secretary reminded the members that it was at the next meeting that the annual election of officers of the branch took place.

Sympathetic reference was made to the fact that Mr. Robert Matthews had had to go to hospital on account of trouble with his foot, and wishes were expressed for his speedy recovery.

NO WONDER THEY SMILE!

THE OXHEY HANDBELL BAND,

Who have rung four peals in four Spliced Surprise Methods, as well as peals in two and three Spliced Surprise Methods.

SUCCESSFUL GATHERING IN ANCIENT SURREY TOWN.

Chertsey, where in 686 Erkenwald founded a monastery, from which centre he evangelised the north-west part of Surrey, was the venue of the Guildford Diocesan Guild's summer festival on Saturday. The Parish Church was probably built in the 13th century, and the western tower is possibly the oldest surviving portion. The chancel may be of a little later date, with a fine 14th century roof, but the nave, rebuilt about a hundred years ago, is rather garishly decorated in a style that, to some tastes at any rate, strike a somewhat jarring note.

There is a ring of eight bells in the tower, a mixed lot, but of considerable interest. The fifth, cast about the year 1310, is called the 'Abbey' bell. It is said to have been brought from the Abbey soon after the church was built, and, according to legend, was the original bell concerned in the incident, about which was written the poem, 'Curfew shall not ring to-night.' In Chertsey the 7th is known as the 'Armada Bell,' because it is dated 1588. It was cast by Robert Mot, of Whitechapel. It bears his circular stamp with his initials as well as the words, 'Robertus mot me fecit, 1588.'

William Eldridge, a Chertsey bellfounder, cast the 6th in 1712, and that fact makes Chertsey interesting from the bell antiquarian's standpoint. Bryan Eldridge was probably the first of the Chertsey founders. He was a descendant of the Wokingham founders of the same name, who subsequently set up in business at Horsham. There are a number of bells in Surrey bearing his name, and dates from 1619 to 1638, and it is surmised that he established his foundry in Chertsey in the former year. At his death the business passed to his son Bryan, the younger, who spelt his name 'Eldridge.' William, who cast the bell in Chertsey tower, was a brother of the younger Bryan. He died at the age of 82 in the year 1716, and with him the Chertsey foundry came to an end.

The Guildford Guild's gathering brought together a large party despite a showery day. The ringing was carried out under the direction of the Master (Major J. H. B. Hesse), and varied from rounds to Surprise methods.

The customary service was held, and, in the absence of the Vicar (the Rev. C. L. Wanstall) through indisposition, was conducted by the Rural Dean (Canon Tringham), who gave an address on 'Worship.'

Afterwards a company of over 60 sat down to tea, the Master presiding. He thanked Canon Tringham for his address, and the Vicar for having permitted the festival to be held in Chertsey, expressing the hope that Mr. Wanstall would quickly recover his health.

Mr. J. S. Goldsmith (hon. general secretary) welcomed the visitors, among them Mr. C. T. Coles (hon. secretary of the Middlesex County

SOUTHERN DIVISION MEETING AT TWINEHAM.

On Saturday, July 11th, a very successful meeting of the Southern Division was held at the five-bell tower of Twineham, an isolated Sussex village of 280 inhabitants. Of the pleasant peal of five, two bells date back to Reformation times, while the tenor was recast and two trebles added by Mears in 1912.

No meeting of the association had previously been held there, and, despite somewhat unpromising weather and the difficulties of transport, 24 ringers were present. The bells were kept going to a variety of methods, including St. Simon's, New Doubles and Stedman's Slow Course, besides the more usual ones of Grandsire, Plain Bob and Grandsire with the fifth and third doing treble work.

A break for service was made at 4.30, when the Rector, the Rev. E. Pierce-Seriven, gave an interesting address, in which he took the opportunity of welcoming the visitors and thanking the local ringers for their services to the church, both in the belfry and the choir.

The tea was by kind invitation of Col. McKergow, who has the distinction of having been churchwarden at Twineham for 43 years.

At the business meeting which followed, two new members were elected from Burgess Hill, viz., H. Erricker and A. Powell, and the meeting closed with a hearty vote of thanks to all those who had helped to make the meeting so successful.

More ringing took place in the evening until 8.30, when the bells were rung down in peal in faultless style by the local band.

QUEEN MARY'S BIRTHDAY.

At Farnham, Surrey, on Tuesday, May 26th, to celebrate the 69th birthday of H.M. Queen Mary, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples: H. Hughes (first quarter-peal) 1, R. V. Fuller 2, J. Read 3, A. Hardiman 4, H. King 5, S. Meadows 6, R. Hasted (conductor) 7, G. Upshall 8.

Association), Mr. W. H. Fussell, of Slough, Mr. W. Williams, of London, and Mr. F. Corke and others from Uxbridge, and said he was glad to see amongst them once more, after a long absence, Mr. William Shepherd.

A retiring collection for the Guild Benevolent Fund amounted to 12s. The Leatherhead District contingent, who arrived together by motor-coach, paid a visit earlier in the afternoon to Albury and Aldershot. Altogether the festival proved a very successful gathering.

BATH & WELLS DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION

IMPORTANCE OF SERVICE RINGING.

Some 70 members, representing 21 towers, as well as visitors from Bristol and Newport, attended the annual meeting of the Bath and Wells Diocesan Association at Minehead on July 4th. Touches were rung on the bells of St. Michael's (Minehead), Dunster and Carhampton Churches, and after the association form of service, conducted in St. Michael's Church by the Rev. W. Armitage (deputising for the Vicar, the Rev. G. E. Knapp-Fisher), tea was followed by the annual meeting, at which the chair was occupied for the first items on the agenda by Mr. Th. Grant, of Bath. The report and balance sheets were adopted.

After referring to the deeply-regretted death of the Master (the Rev. E. C. S. Lock, of West Pennard), Mr. J. T. Dyke, the hon. secretary, in his report, recorded that the association continued to grow. The outstanding performances of the past year on tower bells were peals of London, Bristol, Superlative and Surprise Minor, on which bands of ringers at Taunton, Wilton and Chilcompton were to be congratulated. He made particular reference also to a peal of Grandsire Triples on handbells at Taunton, and pointed out that though handbell ringing required a different technique from ringing on tower bells, there was no doubt handbell ringing led to improved striking on tower bells. The report mentioned that a Jubilee peal at Timsbury was due to the determination of the conductor, who, with a broken leg, sat in the tower and called the peal.

Following a reference to progress made as a result of regular weekly practices organised by Mr. H. J. Sanger, of Evercreech, the report recorded progress in service ringing—the primary object of the association. Mr. Dyke observed that it was an axiom that keen ringers were the most regular of service ringers. Nothing in the way of practice ringing should be done for service. It should be what a band could do best, even if it were only call changes. Occasionally there were reasons why bells could not be rung twice on Sundays, but he felt there was room for an increase in service ringing. In many towers the bells were rung longer and oftener for practice than for service, and clergy sometimes had a legitimate grievance in this respect. Churchmanship should come first, and then there would be no room for criticism.

INFREQUENT BROADCASTING.

Mr. Dyke commented on the very infrequent broadcasting of Somerset bells, and expressed the hope that should any Somerset ringers be asked to broadcast, they would make careful preparation in selection of the band and the method to be rung, and arrange that the bells came into rounds before the announcer gave details of the service. Somerset ringers did not want aspersions cast on their striking through lack of organisation.

The balance sheet showed a credit balance of £70 11s., but the report pointed out that owing to a fall in branch returns and increased expenses, the association was unable to transfer any money to the Bell Fund, on which, however, there was a satisfactory balance.

Mr. J. Hunt, Taunton (representative to the Central Council) mentioned that a well-known London ringer, Mr. J. E. Davis, had patented a method to avoid complaints of noisy bells. The system, said Mr. Hunt, consisted of attaching to either side of the ball of the clapper of each bell a piece of leather (thick or thin, as the case might be according to the size of the bells) covered with a thin steel plate. The president of the Central Council had described the method as very effective. Mr. Hunt mentioned that the cost of applying the system to a peal of eight bells would be £2.

Referring to the importance of maintaining 'The Ringing World,' Mr. Hunt said the association would have to consider a suggestion of associations throughout the country subscribing 30s. or £2 to subsidise the journal.

NEW MASTER.

At the instance of Mr. Hunt, the Rev. W. M. K. Warren, of Binegar, Bath, who presided, was elected Master in succession to the late Rev. E. C. S. Lock; and also on the proposal of Mr. Hunt, seconded by Mr. George Stacey (Minehead), it was decided that Mr. Dyke should arrange for the erection of an inscribed tablet of bell metal in West Pennard Church in grateful memory of Mr. Lock.

Mr. Dyke was re-elected secretary and treasurer, and thanked for his work.

Curry Rivel, Street, Glastonbury, and Wedmore were selected as the venues for quarterly meetings during the ensuing year, on the proposal of Mr. C. Evans, Bridgewater.

The association was welcomed to Minehead by Mr. Armitage, and grateful thanks were passed to him and also to Mrs. Quinn, who arranged the tea, and to others who helped to make the meeting successful.

SWINDON'S VETERAN.

At Christ Church, Swindon, Wilts, on Tuesday, July 7th, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples (1,260 changes): J. H. Shepherd 1, A. Lawrence 2, C. J. Gardiner 3, W. B. Kynaston (conductor) 4, A. G. Wells (first quarter-peal) 5, W. W. T. Daniell 6, E. J. Berry 7, W. A. Bullock 8. Rung as a birthday compliment to Messrs. Lawrence and Daniell. Mr. Lawrence is 81 years of age and has been a ringer at this church for upwards of 65 years. He is a pattern to many a younger man. Despite his age, he is noted for his punctuality and regularity.

BELL BROADCASTS.

To the Editor.

PUBLIC AND RINGERS WOULD APPRECIATE IMPROVEMENT.
Sir,—Mr. Ridyard does not reply to the question asked in the second paragraph of my previous letter, but I am very pleased to note that the matter which was ventilated at the Central Council meeting, viz., the quality of the ringing in some recent broadcasts, may be discussed at the forthcoming annual meeting of the Lancashire Association.

I can well imagine that the officials and members of that association will welcome the opportunity of offering helpful suggestions and guidance to ringers at towers from which bell broadcasts may be arranged in the future, and any improvement that could be effected would most surely be appreciated by the public generally and ringers in particular.
A. PADDON SMITH.

Handsworth Wood, Birmingham.

'THE MORE EXCELLENT WAY.'

Dear Sir,—In reply to the letter re the St. Helens broadcast, I wish to say that if any of my statements at the Central Council meeting were inaccurate, I apologise to the St. Helens ringers.

With regard to my statement regarding the discouraging of the ringing of rounds and call changes for broadcasts, I have no desire to withdraw that. The St. Helens men most certainly did the right thing when they rang rounds and call changes for their broadcast, and that they received congratulations seems to me the only bright spot in connection with recent Lancashire broadcasts.

For my own part, I think that ten to fifteen minutes is far too long to be ringing rounds and call changes for a broadcast. Those who have the late Rev. F. E. Robinson's book can read for themselves what used to happen when bands of expert ringers went on tour in Devonshire and Cornwall. When some of the band were engaged in peal ringing, those who stood out were endeavouring to persuade the local ringers to learn 'the much more excellent way' of change ringing as compared to stoney, etc.

In my opinion, the B.B.C. ought now to discontinue the interval broadcast of Bow Bells, and instead of the call changes which we at present get, substitute and have recorded for reproduction through the microphone a touch of change ringing. I feel sure the band who rang the call changes could ring an equally well-struck touch of changes.
GEORGE R. NEWTON.

A SUCCESSFUL BROADCAST.

Dear Sir,—I listened to the broadcast of the bells from Wilmalaw Parish Church on Sunday afternoon and thought that the Doubles they rang were excellent. Non-ringing friends in the room also remarked how nice they sounded, and, of course, were not a bit concerned about the method. Surely no other method could have sounded better on these bells, because the bells were well struck.

I venture to suggest that the non-ringer listener prefers to hear the tenor behind, however humble the method may be.

Although change ringers probably like to hear the most advanced methods rung, we must not be too selfish and overlook the fact that ringers form a very small percentage of the listeners (probably not more than one per cent.), and it is our object to please and win over the 99 per cent.

ARCHBISHOP DEDICATES JUBILEE BELL

NEW TREBLE ADDED AT WAREHORNE CHURCH, KENT.

A new treble bell, dedicated by the Archbishop of Canterbury before it was hung, has been added to the ring of five at Warehorne Church, Kent, which stands at the edge of Romney Marsh and the Weald of Kent. The church is in the patronage of H.M. the King, acting through the Lord Chancellor. The old tower contained five bells in 1625, and in 1770 the tower was struck by lightning and the structure fell. The tower was rebuilt, and in 1776 another stage added and the present bell frame put in, with the extra framing for a sixth bell.

In 1913 the 3rd and 4th bells were recast and the old frame strengthened by Mr. A. Bowell, of Ipswich, Suffolk. At that time a new bell was wanted, but funds have not allowed it to be added until this year. It was intended, if funds were available, that the new treble bell to make six should be put in as a lasting memorial of the late King George's Silver Jubilee. However, this was not possible last year, but through the efforts of the new Rector (the Rev. W. G. Ivens), the new bell rang out for first time on Monday, July 6th, after dedication by the Archbishop of Canterbury on the preceding day, and before the bell was hoisted into the tower.

After the service the Archbishop visited the belfry, and the founder and ringers present were introduced to his lordship.

MUFFLED BELLS.

As their mark of sympathy with Mr. and Mrs. George Halksworth in the death of their daughter Dora, the Doncaster Parish Church ringers rang a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples half-muffled on June 30th: B. Stacey 1, E. Baldwin 2, J. Holmes 3, C. Clark 4, H. Champlin 5, A. Staveley 6, F. Newsome (conductor) 7, P. Daw 8. Mr. G. Halksworth is the conductor and secretary of the band.

WINCHESTER AND PORTSMOUTH DIOCESAN GUILD.

A FLOURISHING POSITION.

Criticism of Extra-Territorial Peals.

The annual report of the Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild refers to peals rung for one association in the area of another, and suggests that where ringers ring peals they should do so for the association in whose area the tower is situated.

The report was presented to the annual general meeting, held at Southampton on Saturday, July 4th. The following towers were represented: Alresford, Bishopstoke, Christchurch, Curridge, Eling, Fareham, North Stoneham, Overton, Portsea, Ringwood, Soberton, Southampton (St. Mary's and Holy Rood), Twyford, Upham, Wickham and Winchester. A welcome was extended to Mr. S. E. Armstrong (hon. secretary, Sussex County Association) and Messrs. Frank Bennett (Brighton) and visitors from Christow, Poole and Walsall. During the afternoon the towers of St. Mary's and St. Michael's Churches were open for ringing, after which the business meeting was held in the Chantry Hall.

The Master (Mr. G. Williams) presided, supported by the general secretary (Mr. F. W. Rogers) and hon. treasurer (the Rev. Evan Jones). The last named presented the accounts, which showed that the balance on the treasurer's account had increased to £91 17s. 7d. from £79 8s. 2d. in the previous year, the receipts from the districts having amounted to £51 6s. 8d. Grants from the General Purposes Fund amounting to £7 7s. had been made, and the balance in this fund was £48 12s. 6d. In addition the districts had in hand an aggregate of £73 16s. 7d.

The Master said he thought this showed the Guild was in a strong financial position.

The accounts were adopted and the treasurer and district secretaries thanked for their contribution to this satisfactory state of affairs.

The report, which was also adopted, said subscriptions from members showed a further increase, and there were now 756 ringing members and 179 honorary members, almost half of the latter being in the Winchester District. There was not much to report in the way of restoration work, although it was hoped during the coming year to have the peals at Alresford and Soberton put in hand. Forty-five peals were recorded in 1935, against 37 in 1934, in 29 different towers, with 14 conductors. It was regretted that only six peals were rung in the Andover, Basingstoke, Christchurch and Winchester districts. Of these, three were rung by hands chiefly resident outside these districts. It was hoped that a little more keenness would be displayed during the present year. Regret was expressed that three peals had been rung for the Guild outside the two dioceses and also that adjoining guilds had rung and claimed peals within its territory. The report continued: 'Some ringers are notoriously mean, but it is, to put it mildly, discourteous to ring a peal for one society in another's area unless it be rung for a non-territorial society. If ringers must go into adjoining lands for peals, they might at least pay the small fee necessary to join the appropriate society.'

The officers were re-elected en bloc. It was decided to send a letter of congratulation to one of the past presidents (formerly Bishop of Portsmouth) on his preferment to the See of Salisbury.

THE CENTRAL COUNCIL'S WORK.

The representatives on the Central Council gave a varied report of the proceedings at the recent session in London. It was generally agreed by them that the most important committee at the present seemed to be the Literature, Press and Broadcasting Committee, seeing that it affected the relationship between the Exercise and the public. It was unanimously agreed that the joint efforts of that committee and the B.B.C. should be directed towards ensuring that only the very best of ringing should be broadcast. It was also very pleasing to note that in the report of this committee the recent broadcast from St. Mary's, Portsea, had come in for special mention and commendation.

It was unanimously decided to hold the next annual meeting at Petersfield, on the first Saturday in July, 1937.

Mr. G. Pullinger threw out the suggestion that the Guild should approach the Salisbury Diocesan Guild with a view to issuing a joint invitation to the Central Council to hold its next meeting in the south, at Bournemouth.—This was agreed to.

'THE RINGING WORLD.'

The question of promoting the circulation of 'The Ringing World' among ringers was introduced for discussion, and it was agreed that the Exercise without a ringing journal would, in time, be almost at stalemate. Several suggestions were put forward, among which it was suggested that associations might copy their example and insert a free advertisement in their annual reports, urging members to purchase the paper. It was agreed to ask districts to bring to the notice of the members at each quarterly meeting the necessity of maintaining a ringing paper.

After a varied discussion it was proposed by Mr. W. Andrews and seconded by Mr. G. Pullinger that the following suggestion be adopted with a view to increasing support for a larger and cheaper journal:—

'To reprint, with the Editor's permission, the leading article, "Maintaining a Ringers' Journal," in "The Ringing World" of July 3rd, and to circulate to all towers in the Guild, together with a circular inviting them to state how many of their ringers would undertake to become regular purchasers of that journal if reduced to 2d. per copy.'

This was unanimously agreed to, and the secretary hoped to be able to report the result of this effort at the Central Committee's next meeting.

Before the meeting closed, the members stood in silence as an expression of sympathy with the relatives of old members who had died during the year.

At the conclusion of the business votes of thanks were accorded the Rector of St. Mary's and the Vicar of St. Michael's and Holy Rood for granting the use of the bells, and to Mr. J. W. Faithfull in making the necessary arrangements.

BELLS AMONG OTHER PUBLIC NOISES.

Afterwards the members attended service in St. Mary's Church, the Guild office being conducted by the Rev. Evan Jones (Vicar of Hedge End and hon. treasurer). The preacher was the Rector (the Rev. Canon R. B. Jolly), whose text was 'In that day shall there be upon the bells of the horses, holiness unto the Lord' (Zachariah xiv., 20). Referring to present-day noises, he spoke of the public worship of the noises of aeroplanes, wireless and, to them in Southampton, had come the latest, the deep boom of the 'Queen Mary.' He asked the question, on what ground had we, as ringers, to add to all this, by the ringing of our church bells? The people in close proximity to the church wanted to know, more so than those who lived next door to the blatant sounds emerging from a wireless shop. He resented the suggestion of classing our dear old bells with all these modern upstarts. From the earliest days they had been associated with the message of our Lord. First with the early Christians and then, when the ringing of church bells was prohibited, the Cursor went from house to house announcing when and where the services would be held. By the seventh century bells were in common use. The great bell at Whitby Abbey was tolled, bidding the faithful to pray for the passing soul of the Abbess, Hilda. To-day our bells played their part in times of national rejoicing or sorrow, apart from their religious purpose. What could have been more impressive than listening to the boom of Big Ben in the broadcast of the passing of our beloved George V. The message of the bells speaks from youth to age. It had become part of the life of English folk, so dreadfully missed when one was called to distant lands. 'Why do we refer to some of our bells as Big Ben, Great Paul, Big Tom of Lincoln, Great Peter of Exeter, etc.?' asked the speaker. 'Why do we give them these nicknames? We only give people nicknames because they have a personality and are affectionately regarded by us. It is for this reason and this reason only that we give our bells these names. They are part and parcel of our very life. They are entirely different to all the other voices of the world. We, as ringers, should consider it a religious duty and a privilege to ring our bells.' It is a religious act, he continued, associated with the work of God in this land, and he urged them to do as the parson was often told, 'practice what you preach.' Referring again to his opening remarks, he said that the modern world worshipped sounds like the deep boom of the 'Queen Mary'; it stood for something which represented size and speed. He would be the last to belittle the marvels of our national craft and workmanship, but one could not help noticing the unnecessary publicity and hero worship of our modern day. What a difference there was in the tremendous send-off given this huge ship to that given to one that left the shores of Southampton in 1620 with 102 souls on board, with poor machinery and a helmsman to steer them to a land they had never seen before, which took four and a half months and not 44 days to cross the Atlantic. He referred to the 'Mayflower,' with the Pilgrim Fathers on board, who carried a cargo of ideals with them. In conclusion, he bade his hearers rejoice in the fact that they were called to high service in the Church, to make their voice sound above all noises, and employ their fullest powers in the service of God for the good of His Church here, and for the glory of His Name.

After service the members sat down to tea in the Chantry Hall, after which the Rector expressed his delight at meeting the members and hoped they had had a pleasant time.

Mr. W. Andrews, in reply, thanked Canon Jolly for his wishes and also announced to the gathering the fact that Messrs. Taylor and Co., of Loughborough, had been entrusted with the work of recasting the very indifferent ring of twelve at Winchester Cathedral, so that they soon hoped to have one of the finest rings of twelve in the country (tenor 35 cwt.). This had been made possible by the generosity of the Friends of the Cathedral and a munificent grant from the Barron Bell Trust, to whom they tendered their warmest appreciation and thanks.

During the evening the towers of St. Mary's, St. Michael's and Holy Rood were opened for ringing, and touches in methods up to Cambridge Royal were brought round.

NEWNHAM, GLOUCESTERSHIRE.—On Empire Day for evening service at St. Peter's Church, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Doubles, with 4-6-8 covering: G. Burcher 1, F. Strawford 2, W. Burcher 3, C. W. Newman 4, George Burcher 5, A. J. Hooper 6, W. J. Cole (conductor) 7, W. A. King 8. All are regular Sunday service ringers at this church.

ST. MARTIN'S GUILD, BIRMINGHAM.A VISIT TO KNOWLE.

The quarterly meeting of St. Martin's Guild for the Diocese of Birmingham was held at the Parish Church, Knowle, on Saturday, July 4th. The village of Knowle is situated about 12 miles from Birmingham, on the main Birmingham and Warwick road, within the Forest of Arden. It contains many fine half-timbered houses, a particularly good example being the White Swan, which has recently been scheduled as an ancient monument.

The church dates back to the 15th century, having been built on the remains of an old chapel, which is mentioned in 1217. The nave has an exceptionally fine timber roof, and there is also a very good chancel screen with wonderful carving. The tower contains eight bells, which were rehung by Taylor's about four years ago. These were kept going in various methods until 4.30, when the Guild's form of service was conducted by the Vicar, who also gave a very interesting address. He mentioned that, in looking through some old church accounts, he came across an item for a set of ropes, 9s., and 12 months later another item for a set of ropes, costing 8s. 4d. There were three bells in those days, but evidently the value of money was much greater then than now.

Tea was served in the Guild House, adjoining the church, and this was followed by the business meeting, at which the Vicar presided. Apologies for non-attendance were read from the Master, Alderman J. S. Pritchett, Vice-President Mr. James George and Vice-President Mr. Councillor A. Paddon Smith.

The secretary referred to the death of Mr. Joseph Johnson, who was the youngest son of Henry Johnson, also to the death of Mr. W. Cooper, of Perry Barr, another old member of the Guild, the company standing for a few moments as a mark of respect. The secretary also welcomed Mr. John Neal, who had not been well for some 15 months. They were pleased to see him at the meeting, he said, although not very well, and wished him a speedy and complete restoration to good health.

The following new members were elected: Messrs. Edward Holt, of Selly Oak, John Stanley Mason, of Oldbury, and W. S. Bannocks, of King's Norton, as full ringing members. Messrs. G. R. Goodship, of Wealdstone, and J. F. Milner were elected life members.

It was decided to hold the next quarterly meeting at King's Norton on Saturday, October 3rd, and the bi-quarterly meeting at Sutton Coldfield on Saturday, August 8th. A hearty vote of thanks to the Vicar for his address and for the use of the bells concluded the business.

After further ringing a very pleasant hour was spent in the White Swan Hotel, the manager being Mr. Sydney Jessop, who for many years was a ringer at St. Martin's Church. The company were joined here by Mr. Councillor Smith, and many old associations were revived.

THE NOISE OF CHURCH BELLS.

More and more attention is being focussed in these days upon church bells, partly by the wider notice which is being accorded to them in the Press and partly by the fact that, among some sections of the public, bells are classed indiscriminately with all the rest of the noisy things which are tending to make modern life intolerable. We welcome the action of the general Press, which puts the art of change ringing and the services rendered by ringers in proper perspective before the public. When this is done we have nothing to fear from the influences which are spread, but we need to beware of the activities of those who would condemn church bells, not only particularly, but generally with all other noises which are classed among the 'nuisances' which reformers declare are driving the population to distraction, are breaking down their mental stability, and should be suppressed.

It is refreshing to find, in this connection, a protest against classing the sounds of church bells with the din of 'modern upstarts,' made by a preacher of the standing and influence of Canon R. B. Jolly, Vicar of the important parish of St. Mary's, Southampton. Clergy, generally, would be rendering a great service to the Church if they more often took this line. If they would emphasise to their parishioners and to the public generally the proper place which the sound of the bells occupies in church and national life, they would serve an end not less important than they have in view by constantly reminding ringers of their duty to attend the services for which they ring. The clergy often tell us how much they value the work of ringers. Their remarks are always appreciated, but we should value them still more if they were sometimes made in the presence of the parishioners and if occasionally the clergy would point out to the people the purpose of the bells and the aims of the ringers. It might help to allay the feeling, which certain sections of the public seek to spread, that church bells are among the public nuisances.

This, however, does not mean that ringers themselves should not do what common sense shows might be done to allay public opposition to their activities. There are admittedly many instances up and down the country where the church bells, especially if rung for any lengthy period, can become a source of annoyance to most who live close to the tower. Where the sound is overpowering, it is to the interests of everyone, ringers included, that steps should be taken to allay the trouble. The Towers and Belfries Committee of the Central Council have devoted considerable attention to this matter of late, and we would once more urge that ringers, not only where there are actual complaints but at all towers where the bells are on the noisy side, should carefully consider the opinions which this Committee have expressed. Where there is need for a permanent reduction of the volume of sound in the immediate vicinity of the church, there are effective remedies, such as bricking up the louvres, or covering them internally with boards lined with one or other of the sound resisting materials which are now on the market. Where the modification of the sound is required only on occasions of practice or peal ringing, there is a different and much cheaper means of doing what is necessary. The Davis silencers have proved effective. They can be purchased for about five shillings a bell and can be put on like muffles and taken off as and when desired. These silencers will put an end to many annoyances, real and imaginary, will enable ringers to carry on their practices, and even to ring peals without seriously disturbing the public, and in addition to saving many towers from being closed in populous areas, would, if adopted, result, we believe, in the re-opening of most of those towers which have already been shut up on account of the objections of the public and, in some cases, of the parson himself when he dislikes the sound of his own bells.

THE LADIES' GUILD.

AREA OF DIVISIONS REFERRED TO SPECIAL COMMITTEE.

About 25 members attended the annual meeting of the Ladies' Guild, held at Bath on Saturday, July 11th. Ringing took place at the Abbey and St. Mark's Church in the afternoon. The service was held at St. Mark's, conducted by the Vicar, who gave a short address.

After tea the meeting was held, with Miss Evelyn Steel, the president, in the chair. The hon. treasurer reported that the excess of income over expenditure for the year was 13s. 3d. She pointed out that the excess would have been much more had the subscriptions been paid more promptly. The number of members who had not paid for 1935-36 amounted to 80. The cash balance stood at £21 14s. 7d.

The hon. secretary reported that in all districts meetings had been held regularly, and for the most part had been well supported. Three new ringing members and one life non-ringing member were elected.

Miss Evelyn Steel was unanimously re-elected president, and Mrs. Fletcher hon. secretary and treasurer. Mrs. Richardson reported on the Central Council meeting, and urged all members to support 'The Ringing World.'

It was decided to publish duplicated reports, which the hon. secretary undertook to prepare.

The date fixed for the 25th anniversary dinner in 1937 was October 23rd. This would be held in London, and details were being arranged by the committee.

The quotation for the badges were submitted to the members, and it was decided to add a small amount to the cost to cover postage and packing. The prices were fixed at 5s. for silver and 1s. 6d. for silver-plated. The secretary asked members to make application as soon as possible in order to give some idea of the number required.

A discussion took place on the present division of districts, and it was decided to form a committee, consisting of the president, hon. secretary and district secretaries, to go into this matter, with a view to covering the country more effectively, and to report at the next meeting.

The next annual general meeting was fixed to take place at Hands-worth, Sheffield. The date for the Corporate Communion was also fixed for Sunday, October 25th.

Votes of thanks were passed to all who had contributed to the success of the meeting. After the meeting ringing took place at Twerton.

The annual festival of the Truro Diocesan Guild was held at St. Stephen-in-Brannel on Saturday, July 18th. St. Stephen's fine peal of eight (tenor 13 cwt.) was available, and also the neighbouring towers of St. Denys (6), St. Enoder (8), Ladock (8), St. Mewan (6) and Roche (8). Over 100 ringers were present from Truro Cathedral, Callington, Gulval, Illogan, St. Enoder, St. Michael Carhayes, Towednack, Manaccan, St. Anthony, Redruth, with the local band, also visitors from London and Plymouth.

A service was held in St. Stephen's Church, at which a procession, consisting of a crossbearer, servers, the Rev. W. H. R. Trehwella (hon. secretary of the Guild), the Rev. E. F. Gilbert (Rector of St. Stephen and hon. secretary of the Mid-Cornwall Association), went down to the belfry during the singing of the hymn, 'They whose course on earth is o'er.' In the belfry the Rector dedicated a tablet commemorating the last peal conducted by the late Mr. William Pye. This tablet is an exceedingly fine one of bronze, and was made by Mr. W. G. Hiscott, a member of the Guild, and who was present at the festival. As the procession returned to the chancel, about two dozen well-struck rounds were rung on the bells by the St. Stephen's ringers. The sermon was preached by the Rev. W. H. R. Trehwella, who took for his text Joshua iv., 21, 'What mean these stones?' and said perhaps some would be asking what means this tablet? He pointed out that Mr. Pye was the greatest ringer that had ever lived, and not only did he set out to achieve great things himself, but also to lead others on to achieve great things.

Tea was served in the Church Hall, at which Lt.-Col. C. F. Jerram (Ringing Master) thanked the people of St. Stephen for their work in connection with the festival, and welcomed the visitors. Mr. C. H. Coles (hon. secretary of the Middlesex Association) and Mr. G. R. Pye (brother of the late Mr. William Pye) spoke of how they appreciated the tribute the Truro Diocesan Guild had paid to this great ringer.

Mr. E. P. Duffield, Master of the College Youths, was unfortunately prevented at the last moment from being present.

FOR BEGINNERS.

STEPS IN TREBLE BOB.

To get on to what are sometimes called the 'higher methods,' from the Plain Bob stage, the young ringer has got to master the principles of Treble Bob ringing. The Surprise methods are really Treble Bob with an elaborated work for the working bells; and the basis of Treble Bob is a 'dodging' hunt by the treble.

In plain hunting, a bell moves to and fro, from front and back and back to front, one place at a time, without interruption. The treble does this in Plain Bob and so do the other bells, except (that when the treble leads, one of them makes second's and the rest, stopped in their courses, step back one place before going on again. This step back constitutes a dodge.

In a Treble Bob hunt, however, this dodge has to occur in all the dodging places, that is, in 1-2, 3-4, 5-6, etc., both up and down. If you ring the treble, you strike your first blow in changes in 2nd's place, dodge, or step back one place to strike a blow at lead (which will be at backstroke), and then hunt up until you come to 3-4. Actually, having led, you go forward three steps before stepping back again; but it is best, to start with, if you count your way up to 4th's and then dodge back to 3rd's. Then count your way up to 6th's, before starting back to 5th's.

If you are ringing Major, you go on to 8th's before stepping back to 7th's, but if it is Minor, having reached 6th's, you complete a whole pull behind and begin to dodge down. You make a blow in 5th's, step back to 6th's, count your way down to 3rd's, step back to 4th's, count your way to lead, where you have one blow at handstroke, step back to 2nd's and then lead your whole pull.

That is the Treble Bob hunt for the treble in every lead. In the same way every other bell, beginning, of course, in its respective place, can ring a lead by dodging in this way, and if you are a young band, a few such leads, until you grasp this idea of 'dodging in every place,' as it is sometimes called, is not bad practice, but you must remember that if you do this, you will have a repetition of changes—which does not really matter for this purpose.

If you find a difficulty in your 'ropesight,' it will help you to hunt from place to place if you remember that the bell you strike over both before and after your step back is one and the same. This enables you to look round a little more confidently for your next bell.

In Kent and Oxford Treble Bob, on any number of bells, this dodging hunt is pursued by every bell after it has got above 4th's place, but all the bells do not dodge in 3-4 every time, and none at all in 1-2 unless it is with the treble. It is these variations in the work that make the method.

In Kent Treble Bob, which is considered the easiest method of this kind to begin on, chiefly because it does not break the Plain Bob coursing order of the bells, the bells in 3-4 make places instead of dodging when the treble itself is below them in 1-2. A bell coming down from behind makes a whole pull in 4th's, followed immediately by a whole pull in 3rd's, and correspondingly the bell coming from the front makes 3rd's, followed by 4th's. Two pairs of bells do this in each lead—all the rest dodge when they come to 3-4 (or 4-3, on the way down).

There is one other piece of work which needs explaining. It is known as the 'slow' work, because it keeps one bell in 1-2 from the time the treble leaves the lead until it gets back again.

This bell is the one which dodges with the treble, after the latter has led, and when the treble goes away it alternately leads a whole pull and lies a whole pull in 2nd's place (each time over a different bell) until the treble gets back again to dodge with it. It is the making of this 2nd's place which causes all the dodging above it. This bell is one of those which, going in, makes 4th's and 3rd's, and, going out, makes 3rd's and 4th's. It is well to know that all these places in 3-4 are made the 'wrong' way: that is at backstroke and handstroke. The series of whole pulls made in 2nd's place in the 'slow' are, however, all made the right way.

To ring Treble Bob, it is not really necessary to construct a table showing the work of every lead, because except in 1-2, and in 3-4 when the treble is in 1-2, every bell dodges in every dodging place. From 4-3 every bell runs straight in to lead and straight out again to 3-4, unless it is going into or coming out of the 'slow.'

The important thing is to know when these places in 3-4 are to be made and when the slow work is coming.

You make places in 4-3 (down) in two leads in succession. Before you come to the first one, you will have passed the treble (in Minor) in 4-5; before you come to the second you will dodge with the treble in 5-6 (up), the treble being the bell that dodges down with you. You hunt down behind the treble and dodge with it in 2-1. You then complete the Slow work, and make places in 3-4 on the way out (having dodged with the treble in 1-2). You dodge your way round to 4-3 (down), hunt in and lead a whole pull, pass the treble in 2-3 and repeat the places.

You are then free of place-making until you again pass the treble in 4-5; if it is in Major, until you pass the treble in 6-7.

A Bob is simply made. All the bells above 4th's, having met and begun to dodge in pairs, have an additional double dodge when a bob is called; that is, instead of stepping back once they step back three times. The bell that passed the treble in 2-3 and is making

BURITON RINGERS JOIN WINCHESTER GUILD.

PORTSMOUTH DISTRICT'S ENJOYABLE MEETING.

A quarterly meeting of the Portsmouth District of the Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild was held at Buriton on Saturday, July 18th, when members attended from Blackmoor, Catherington, Havant, Petersfield, Portsmouth (St. Mary's), Steep, Soberton, Titchfield and Wickham. The local band welcomed the visitors, it being the first time the Guild had held a meeting at Buriton. The ring of six were kept going during the afternoon in a variety of methods. The Guild service was conducted by the Rector (Canon G. S. Morley).

An excellent tea was served at the local inn, after which the business meeting was held, the Rector being voted to the chair. On the proposition of Mr. H. Dudman, seconded by Mr. F. W. Rogers, Capt. E. P. Bickford was elected an honorary member of the Guild. This was carried with acclamation, the secretary reminding the members that Capt. Bickford was taking a great interest in getting Soberton bells restored.

The following ringing members were then elected on the proposition of Mr. A. T. Greenwood, seconded by Mr. F. S. Bayley: R. V. Cockle (Bishop's Waltham), R. Robinson (Portsea), J. Pope (Soberton), G. New, W. Burgess, H. G. Harper, W. Patrick, W. Pretty and H. J. Stubbs (Buriton). The election of B. P. Morris prior to a peal attempt was confirmed. The general secretary said how pleased he was to welcome the Buriton ringers into the Guild, and trusted they would progress and interest themselves in its work.

It was proposed by Mr. F. W. Rogers, seconded by Mr. H. J. Smith, that the next quarterly meeting be held at St. Mary's, Portsmouth, on either Saturday, October 10th, or Saturday, October 17th.

Votes of thanks were accorded the Rector for the use of the bells and officiating at service and business meeting, also to the organist and the caterers for their excellent tea. The Rector suitably responded and expressed a wish that the Guild would visit Buriton in the near future.

The members then returned to the tower for further ringing, which ranged from rounds to Cambridge Surprise Minor.

SURREY AND SUSSEX RINGERS FRATERNISE.

A JOINT MEETING AT LINGFIELD.

A joint meeting of the Southern District of the Surrey Association with the East Grinstead and District Guild was held on Saturday, July 11th, at Lingfield, Surrey. About 40 were present from both associations, an excellent attendance considering the inclemency of the weather. This was the first joint meeting ever to be held by the Southern District, but it is hoped that many more will take place, as expressions of goodwill were heard on all sides. The Rev. Owen gave an inspiring address on the subject of 'Unity,' and said how pleased he was to welcome such a fine body of men as the ringers of the two associations were. He congratulated them on the good striking he had heard during the afternoon.

During tea, a contingent arrived from Hartfield, Sussex. They had to face the ordeal of 'fire and water.' After two motor-cycle punctures, a breakdown and a four or five mile walk in the pouring rain, they duly arrived, and set a fine example of what ringers can and often do.

After tea more ringing was indulged in until 9 o'clock, when the bells were lowered in peal. All the standard methods were rung, and the secretaries of both associations were highly delighted at the success of this first joint venture. Among those present were a lady and gentleman from Bromley, who had bravely cycled all the way through the dreadful weather.

3rd's and 4th's makes a further 4th's and 3rd's and returns to lead. The next lead it goes back into the Slow work.

The bell that actually goes in to dodge with the treble and the one that comes out of the Slow work are not affected by a bob. The work for a bob is the same on all numbers of bells, and here are figures showing the place-making at a plain lead and at a bob in Minor:—

NEW PEAL OF EIGHT FOR SUSSEX.

OPENING OF FAIRWARP BELLS.

With a great wind blowing across the country, the new peal of eight bells at Christ Church, Fairwarp, was dedicated and opened on Saturday. From a small village church there has developed, by the magnificent gift of Sir Bernard Eckstein in memory of his father and mother, one of the finest modern churches in the county. The original part of the church now forms the west end of the nave, and there has been added to this the new sanctuary, a children's chapel and a commanding central tower.

It was at first suggested that a chime of bells should be placed in the tower, but, after careful consideration and with the assurance of help from the Sussex County Association, it was finally decided to instal a ringing peal, and the work was put into the hands of Messrs. Gillett and Johnston. The result is a peal of eight with a tenor of 15½ cwt. in F sharp, of which any church might be proud. The bells are hung in a low side A frame on heavy steel girders, with the latest type of ball bearings and headstocks. On the tenor is fitted a clapper control, and the whole peal is tuned on the true five tone harmonic principle. Every provision has been made for the comfort of the ringers by the fitting of sound proof floors to moderate the noise of the bells in the ringing chamber and the panelling of the chamber itself.

At the dedicatory service, the Right Rev. the Bishop of Chichester officiated, assisted by the Vicar of Fairwarp (the Rev. D. Pilkington). After an introductory psalm and prayers, the Bishop proceeded to the pulpit and thence to the children's chapel, dedicating each in turn. Meanwhile the trap had been removed from the floor of the ringing chamber, giving a clear opening to the nave and chancel below, and during the singing of the hymn, 'We love the place, O God,' the Bishop mounted the tower steps. On his arrival the tenor was struck once and the dedicatory prayers for the tower and bells said. At once the bells struck into rounds, and the hymn was concluded as the Bishop returned to the altar. Then followed the anthem, 'Blessed be the God and Father,' which preceded the sermon.

In his address the Bishop expressed his appreciation of the magnificent gift which had enabled this fine church to be built to the glory of God, and drew attention to the need for new churches in the diocese in those areas where new settlements and new estates had made their provision essential if the faith of the Church was to be carried on. In this cause there had been instigated the Society of Sussex Church Builders, which had already done good work in providing new places of worship. The need, however, was still a pressing one, and could not be satisfied without even greater efforts, and with this end in view he appealed to all present for their help in this important work.

Among the congregation present were the donor of the church, Sir Bernard Eckstein, with Capt. Roberts, Col. Barchard and the Misses Barchard, P. C. Mitchell Innes, Miss Dunbar and the family of the Shakley Akers.

BISHOP AND DONOR MEET RINGERS.

The opening touch on the bells was rung by members of the Sussex County Association from Warnham, Crawley and Brighton, and consisted of Superlative Surprise Major, conducted by Mr. Oliver Sippetts, secretary of the Northern Division, in whose hands the organisation of the ringing had been placed. Visiting ringers were present from practically all the towers in centre of the county to the number of 79, and all partook of Sir Bernard's hospitality at tea in the Foresters' Arms. At the conclusion of the meal the Bishop, president of the association, and the Vicar of Fairwarp joined the company. The Bishop recalled with pleasure his previous meeting with the members of the association on the occasion of their jubilee dinner in Brighton last year and the Master, Mr. H. R. Butcher, expressed the members' gratitude for his presence and welcomed him among them again.

In the evening the tower was thrown open for ringing, during which Sir Bernard was conducted to the belfry by Mr. Cyril Johnston to see the ringers at work and the bells in action. The donor of the bells was introduced to the Master of the association, the hon. general secretary (Mr. S. E. Armstrong), Mr. Oliver Sippetts and the hon. secretary of the Surrey Association (Mr. C. Kippin). In a few words Sir Bernard expressed his pleasure in meeting for the first time the large company of ringers who had come to hear and try the bells. The Master replied, assuring Sir Bernard that everything that could be done by the association to ensure the formation of a band at Fairwarp to ring the splendid peal provided by his generosity would be undertaken.

The foundry staff of Messrs. Gillett and Johnston was represented by the works manager (Mr. H. E. Anderson) and Messrs. G. Brown, Newsom and S. Rorer, together with the proprietor (Mr. Cyril Johnston). The excellence of the work at Fairwarp reflects great credit on the firm, and it is greatly to be hoped that all will combine in making a band worthy of the peal installed. Now that the dedication ceremony has been completed and the bells opened there begins the difficult task of training a completely new band from the very start. Any help in this direction will be greatly appreciated by the church authorities and the secretary of the Northern Division.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD.

DEVIZES BRANCH ACTIVITY.

The half-yearly meeting of the Devizes Branch was held at Trowbridge on July 4th. The Rector, the Rev. S. N. Wallace, met the members and opened the proceedings in the tower with prayers taken from the Guild service. Ringing commenced shortly afterwards and continued until 7 p.m., with a break for tea and meeting, which were held in the Co-op Institute, with Mr. E. F. White, branch chairman, presiding.

The Chairman spoke feelingly of the great loss the Guild hon. secretary and treasurer had sustained in the death of his mother, and it was unanimously decided to send a letter of sympathy to him direct from that meeting.

Mr. S. Hillier was thanked for his brief report of the Central Council meeting, and it was decided to hold the next meeting at Urchfont, taking in the three five-bell towers in that district during the evening.

After votes of thanks to those concerned for allowing the meeting that day, the members again visited the tower.

Later in the evening a party went on to Hilpertou, where they were met by the Rector (the Rev. Canon Dunlop) and Mr. W. J. Mees, and ringing continued until 9 p.m. on this light ring of six.

During the day methods ranging from Stedman Triples to Cinques, Bob Major, Double Norwich and Cambridge Surprise at Trowbridge, and Grandsire Doubles to Surprise Minor at Hilpertou. During the afternoon and evening about 50 members joined in ringing, including welcome visitors from Swindon.

YORKSHIRE RINGERS AT WITHERNSEA.

By the kind invitation of the Vicar and local ringers, an extra practice meeting of the Eastern District of the Yorkshire Association was held at WitherNSEA on Saturday, July 19th. Owing to the meeting clashing with several other events in the district and the inclement weather, the attendance was somewhat below the average, but some good practice was enjoyed in the following methods: Cambridge Surprise, Double Oxford, St. Clement's, Plain and Treble Bob Minor and Stedman and Grandsire Doubles.

After tea at the Select Cafe, an hour was spent on the promenade and then a further two hours' ringing. The company included two lady ringers from Sherburn-in-Elmet, which tower has now three lady members all making excellent progress, largely due to the leadership of Mr. R. H. Vigor. The towers represented were Hemingbrough, Hull, Selby, Sherburn-in-Elmet and WitherNSEA.

STOURBRIDGE RINGER'S FATAL ACCIDENT.

St. Thomas' Church, Stourbridge, have lost a much respected member of their band of ringers by the tragic death of Mr. Louis W. Turner, who passed away on July 12th. Aged 22, Mr. Turner had recently commenced business on his own account as a boot repairer and was on his way to his shop at Fairfield, near Bromsgrove, on his motor-cycle, on July 9th, when for some unknown reason he fell from his machine and fractured his skull. He was conveyed to the Corbett Hospital and recovered consciousness to a certain extent, but was not well enough to make any statement about the accident. No light on the tragedy was revealed at the inquest, and a verdict of 'Accidental death' was returned.

The funeral took place on July 15th, and was preceded by a service in St. Thomas' Church, where deceased had served as a chorister and bellringer. The Vicar (Canon M. S. Newland) officiated, and among the many present were the Rev. F. S. Wadsworth (curate in charge of Fairfield), the Rev. G. H. Mallen (Derby), Mr. W. A. Horne (churchwarden) and Mrs. Horne, Miss Newland and Miss Cave-Browne-Cave. The interment was at the Borough Cemetery, the committal prayers being read by the Vicar. Six of his brother ringers, Messrs. J. W. Smith, F. W. Gibbs, F. Vaughan Nicholls, Kenneth I. Pardoe, Arthur D. Fellows and C. W. Cooper, acted as bearers, and other ringers present were Messrs. E. S. Bushell, R. J. Chance and Norman G. Leech.

In the evening the bells at St. Thomas' were rung half-muffled as a last token of respect, several touches being accomplished by the following: Messrs. J. W. Smith, W. Farley, F. W. Gibbs, F. V. Nicholls, A. D. Fellows, A. L. Dunn, A. Reynolds, N. G. Leech and C. W. Cooper. Messrs. J. W. Smith and W. Farley were the conductors. There were many beautiful wreaths, including one from St. Thomas' ringers. Much sympathy has been offered to the bereaved parents and family.

FROM FATHER TO SON.

At St. Michael's Parish Church, Macclesfield, on Sunday, July 12th, before evening service, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Cinques (1,452 changes): H. Davenport (first quarter-peal) 1, W. Matthews 2, G. Bottomley 3, A. Burgess 4, T. Potts 5, J. Tipper 6, W. Stevenson 7, H. Dean 8, J. Bradbury 9, H. Lomas 10, J. Worth (conductor) 11, V. Norbury 12. Longest length of Grandsire Cinques by all the band and on the bells.

Rung to commemorate the retirement of the verger, Mr. J. Norbury, and the induction into the office of verger of his son, Mr. V. Norbury, which took place during the service. Mr. J. Norbury is also leader of the band.

RINGER FOR 40 YEARS.PRESENTATION TO MR. G. T. WHITE AT DORCHESTER.

Members of the St. Peter's Society, Dorchester, recently gathered at St. Peter's Institute for a very pleasing little ceremony, when their president (the Rev. A. Wilkinson Markby, M.A.) presented to Mr. G. T. White, on their behalf, a Lenwell armchair, in recognition of his 40 years' service as a ringer at St. Peter's.

In asking Mr. White to accept the gift, the Rector expressed to him the appreciation of the society for the great help he had rendered them during this long period, and also for his regularity of attendance and the willingness he had always shown to assist in any way he could, especially in helping on beginners.

Mr. White, who was obviously taken by surprise, thanked the members for their very kind gift, and said it had been a great pleasure to him to do what he could for them.

Several others also spoke of the assistance they had received from Mr. White.

Joining the society in March, 1896, Mr. White was elected captain in 1897, a post which he held, with the exception of one year, until 1921. In 1902 he conducted the first peal (Grandsire Triples) that was rung upon the bells, and is the only present member of the tower who took part in that performance. He has since rung a number of peals in different methods, both in his own and other towers, and has conducted five of the seven peals which he subsequently rang at St. Peter's with the local band.

THE BELLS OF 'BRUM.'NURSERY RHYMES FOR BELLRINGERS.

Old cross bones and skull, toll the bells of Solihull.

Ah! Life is no joke, cry the bells of Selly Oak.

Let's be happy and glad, chime the bells of Saint Chad.

My tankard and fill it, shout the bells of Saint Philip.

A long drink and short one, say the bells of King's Norton.

To the Bishop and Darwin, sing the bells of Saint Martin.

With a good peal and long one, ring the bells of old Aston.

Then listen, quite still, to the bells of Bournville.

There's no sound on earth like the bells of Handsworth.

Ring Stedman or Norwich, ask the bells of West Bromwich.

Then the world without end plead the bells of Deritend.

Now God save the King, roar the bells of Bull Ring.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

Last Saturday, at Algarkirk, Lincs, the talented band who have been helping to make history in Minor method splicing made a valiant attempt for a new record.

They started for a peal of seven 720's in no fewer than 60 methods, and when all was going well the treble rope broke in the last lead of the fifth 720!

Messrs. Gillett and Johnston have received the order to rehang with modern fittings in an iron frame the peal of six bells at Donington, near Spalding, Lincolnshire.

In connection with the congratulatory peal at Leyton on July 11th, published in our last issue, Mr. George Hayden should have been described as steeplekeeper and sexton.

To the long list of young peal ringers must be added Percy Stone (15), who rang his first peal of Stedman on July 16th at Nuneaton. Mr. Frank Measures, who also scored his 'first' of Stedman, was elected a member of the Warwickshire Guild before starting.

A long cherished ambition has been achieved by Mr. James Bennett by ringing a peal on every day of the year, viz., the 366 dates in the calendar. The long series was completed at Milton-next-Gravesend on July 15th. The whole of Mr. Bennett's peals have been rung on tower bells eight and upwards.

There was another interesting performance associated with the peal at Milton-next-Gravesend, apart from Mr. Bennett's completion of his calendar of peals. Mr. Fred M. Mitchell had the satisfaction of recording his 250th peal. Many of Mr. Mitchell's earlier peals were rung in association with Mr. Bennett.

Handbell peals have been rung in strange places, but the performance recorded this week at Kirkella, Yorkshire, in a henhouse among the hens, really takes the biscuit. We could well understand our Yorkshire friends selecting extensive kennels for such a performance, but the henhouse is, indeed, a novelty.

His many friends will regret to hear that Mr. James George, the veteran Birmingham ringer, is far from well. Since his accident on July 6th he has had a severe attack of bronchitis and whooping cough. He wishes, through our columns, to thank his many friends for their kind inquiries.

At a county scout and girl guide rally at Lincoln last Saturday, a feature was a human map of Lincolnshire, showing its industries and other features. The city of Lincoln was represented by a large model of its Cathedral, and the spectators heard the ringing of the bells. A party of guides, who had been instructed by Mr. Harold Marcon, rang Triples on handbells, on the 'lapping' principle, and afterwards rounds on twelve.

The many friends of Miss Olive Renton, of Whingate, Armley, will be pleased to learn that she is progressing as favourably as can be expected after her recent accident. On Tuesday week Miss Renton was knocked down by a tramcar whilst crossing the road. She was taken to the Infirmary, where she was found to be suffering from concussion and scalp wounds. Latest information is that she is showing considerable improvement, but it will be many weeks before she is able to take any active part in ringing. Miss Renton is attached to the Christ Church tower, Upper Armley, and is well known in ringing circles.

ARMLEY RINGER HONOURED.

Mr. Bente is a ringing member of the Christ Church tower, and is a regular attendant at the meetings of the Yorkshire Association and the Leeds and District Society.

THE OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD. SEVEN NEW TOWERS AFFILIATE.

Importance of Parliamentary Representation.

The annual meeting of the Oxford Diocesan Guild took place at Oxford last Saturday, and was attended by a large number of members from all parts of the diocese. At the service in the cathedral the prayers were said by Canon Coleridge, the lesson was read by the Rev. C. C. Inge, Rural Dean of Oxford, and the sermon was preached by the Deputy Master of the Guild (Rev. C. Elliot Wigg).

Mr. Wigg gave a thoughtful discourse, which he prefaced with a reference to a scene from Shakespeare's 'As You Like It' in place of the usual text. He said that the most important things in England to-day were not the most obvious, like material prosperity and scientific progress, but things less obvious and more fundamental, the settled order of society, the healthy pleasures of social life, happy united homes, and the deep things connected with religion. Religion gives a point of contact between ourselves and what is greater than ourselves and is permanent. If a man says that religion is nothing to him, what he means is that he does not know what religion is.

CANON G. F. COLERIDGE.

Who has again been elected Master of the Oxford Diocesan Guild.

In the dark ages the Church stood for social order and security, and to-day she still stands for order and all that is best in life. The bells speak to us of the true value of human life and of the deeper truths. Let us listen to them.

The business meeting followed immediately in the Chapter House. Canon Coleridge, the Master, presided, supported by the Deputy Master, the hon. secretary (Mr. R. T. Hibbert) and the hon. treasurer (Mr. A. J. Wright). The annual reports of the officers were taken as printed. They were short and show steady progress in the life and work of the Guild. A slight decrease had taken place in the numbers, both of the honorary and ringing members, but at the end of 1935 there were 219 of the former and 2,391 of the latter, with 251 towers in union, which easily places the Guild among the two or three largest in the country. During the year seven towers had joined and 116 peals had been rung, which included several in new Surprise methods, and many young ringers took part in their first peal.

Mr. Barker was elected treasurer in the place of Mr. Wright, who, after long service, wished to retire.

A long discussion ensued as to the place of next year's meeting. Oxford was proposed and seconded, and Reading as an amendment. Then another proposal was put forward to hold an autumn meeting at Reading in addition to the summer one at Oxford. In the end both meetings at Reading were negative and Oxford agreed to by a large majority.

REVISION OF GUILD SERVICE.

A proposal had been made to revise the Guild's service book, and a sub-committee had been appointed, but had not met. They were now instructed to do so and to report to the next annual general meeting. Grants towards restoration funds were made to several towers, and a further grant was promised to Streatley if the six bells there were increased to eight. A grant of five guineas promised by the General Committee to the William Pye Memorial Fund was confirmed.

In giving an account of the meeting of the Central Council in London, Canon Coleridge urged the necessity for greater support being given to 'The Ringing World.' Ringers could not do without the paper and yet only a handful of them bought it. If everyone in the Oxford Diocesan Guild bought a copy, they could have a bigger and better paper at less cost than at present. He also mentioned that Lord Shaftesbury had been elected a member of the Council, and said that ringers had now a representative in Parliament who would look after their interests in case they were threatened by anything like a noise abatement bill.

CONSIDER THE HERRING.

As the British Medical Association was holding a series of meetings in Oxford, the great hall of Christ Church College was not available, but an excellent luncheon was served at the Carfax Assembly Rooms. At the close the Master gave the loyal toast and the National Anthem was sung. The Rural Dean proposed the health of the Guild, and Mr. R. T. Hibbert that of the Master. In thanking the company, the Canon said he now felt as well as ever he did, and he hoped to serve the Guild as long as possible, but last autumn he had a very bad time. It started with his left shoulder, went down his leg and so all over his body until every bone in his body save only one knee-cap ached. When he told a friend about it, the other replied that he had much to be thankful for. The Almighty might have created him a herring! Dr. Joyce gave the toast of 'The Visitors,' and Mr. J. A. Trollope replied.

During the day there was ringing at many of the towers of the colleges and parish churches. Oxford is one of the very best places in England in which to hold a ringers' meeting. It is full of lovely and interesting buildings and has plenty of bells. It would be an ideal place for a band to spend a week's holiday in if you could only get rid of the townsmen, visitors and university people. The bells at the Cathedral, the 'bonny Christ Church bells,' are one of the most famous rings in England. They are a mixed lot, but quite pleasing to listen to. The ten at New College are a lot of old pots, and Magdalen bells, for all the kind things that have been said about them, are not much better. We did not hear the eight at Merton.

COMBINED PRACTICES.

GEOGRAPHICAL DIFFICULTIES AT BRADFIELD.

The annual festival of the Bradfield Branch of the Oxford Diocesan Guild was held at Beenham on July 11th, when about 20 members assembled at the Parish Church of St. Mary. Short touches were rung before the service, which was conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. R. Howes.

The business meeting followed. The Vicar, who is hon. secretary of the Bradfield Branch, gave his report of the year's work. He maintained that the combined practices had been a failure, which he ascribed to apathy and geographical difficulties. He doubted if it was worth while continuing the practices, and suggested the rearrangement of the towers in the branch to overcome the geographical difficulty. After some discussion the following resolution was carried unanimously: 'That the Bradfield Branch be dissolved and the towers be allowed to join either Reading or Newbury branches, with their consent; also that the money in hand in the Bradfield Branch be divided in some proportion between Reading and Newbury branches.'

This resolution was forwarded to the annual meeting of the Guild, held at Oxford on July 18th.

GREAT RINGING DAY.

The 313th anniversary of Great Ringing Day was observed on Saturday, June 27th, when the usual festival was held at Saffron Walden. Ringing commenced at 2 p.m. and continued until 4.45 p.m., when the company sat down to a meal (tea at the King's Arms Hotel). The Master of the local society (Mr. A. E. Pitstow) presided, and was supported by the Vicar (Dr. L. Hughes), members of the local band and many visiting ringers.

A service was held in the Parish Church at 6 p.m. The Vicar preached a most interesting sermon, giving quotations on bells from the English poets, saying all were bell-lovers except Shakespeare, who lived before the art of change ringing was established.

The bells were kept going until 8.45 p.m. in all the Surprise methods on eight bells, with touches of Caters and Royal on ten bells.

BY COACH AND TRAIN TO DISTANT TOWERS.

CRAYFORD RINGERS IN NORTHANTS.

On Saturday, July 4th, the band of St. Paulinus', Crayford, minus those who could not tear themselves away from duty, plus a few friends, had their 'annual.' Setting out by coach from Crayford at 7.15 p.m., they had a few stops to pick up stragglers, and then non-stop—except for traffic lights—to Stony Stratford, where the local pilot, Mr. Percy Amos, was observed scrutinising all coach index plates for signs of a course end. Taking his post 'on the bridge,' or rather beside the driver, he proceeded to pilot the company down lanes and byways and over bridges, recalling Blackpool scenic railway, round a hairpin bend where two lorries had just had a forcible argument, to the old-world village of Wicken, where Mr. A. J. Green and his son were in attendance. This handy, well-toned peal were put into action to Grandsire, Stedman, Plain Bob and Bristol. As there were four more towers on the list and a long ride home, the bells were lowered in peal and a quick adjournment made to Wicken's rest house (to find the driver) before dodging back into Bedfordshire again to Bromham. Unfortunately, the bells there were not heard at their best, as there was a constant rush to 'hear them outside,' and it was only with the help of Mr. Tysoe that the eight were kept going. The writer was one of the unlucky ones who was not artful enough to get out, but it must be recorded that the bells were a treat to listen to inside, even if a bit on the noisy side. Here the visitors were spared the job of lowering, as there was a meeting later, and it is firmly believed that had it not been for the distance to walk home, some of the party would have deserted and spent the afternoon there. After another brief spell to enjoy the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Tysoe, the party turned back again over the county border to Olney, where Mr. Boswell was patiently waiting. It was evident that the visitors had had good advice in the choice of peals, for here again a 25 cwt. ring were well worth the journey. The standard methods were once more attacked, a touch to suit everybody, a fall in peal and on to Northampton, where everyone felt they had earned a good lunch (it was now 3 p.m.). Thanks to the pilot's arrangements, all were satisfied. A visit to St. Giles', Northampton, where Mr. W. Rogers was waiting, brought forth Stedman and Grandsire Caters, a few 'firsts' among them. A quick look round the famous Round Church followed before setting out for the finale—Finedon. This was reached at 6.15, and two of the company decided to find Tom Hensher before going up into the tower. This was a bad move, for he had gone to find the party, and by the time they had got to the church Tom had returned to attend to business. However, they did eventually meet with several more of the Finedon band, and all sorts of antics were indulged in up to and including Cambridge Major.

None of the party had evidently realised how happily Host Hensher was situated to make a party feel at home, or they would have doubtless 'cut the cake' and made a move earlier in the day, and so had longer to spend at Finedon, but, alas, 'twas too late. The driver of the coach seemed to be terribly concerned about 'his job to-morrow,' and one by one he collected his fares and eventually set out on the return journey just after 8 p.m., reaching Crayford at 11.30. The thanks of the company are here tendered to Messrs. Green, of Wicken, F. Tysoe, of Bromham, F. Boswell, of Olney, W. Rogers, of St. Giles', Northampton, and T. R. Hensher and those of the local company at Finedon who all assisted to make the day an enjoyable one, and last, but not least, to Mr. Percy Amos for acting as pilot for the day, and who assisted greatly in the arrangements which went off so smoothly.

BURTON DISTRICT OF M.C.A. VISITS HINCKLEY.

Eighteen ringers and friends from Burton, Derby, Newhall, Overseal, Ashby, Appleby, Measham, Loughborough and Norton-in-the-Moors spent an interesting though showery afternoon on Saturday, July 11th, in the Hinckley District of the M.C.A. Journeying via Overseal, Measham and Market Bosworth, the first call was Earl Shilton, where all the members tried the grand peal of eight, which were a delight to handle. Next the party proceeded to Barwell and the bells were soon ringing out to a touch of Bob Major. Here again Grandsire Doubles was rung for the younger members, while the ladies enjoyed the privilege of looking round the Rectory grounds. At Hinckley three-quarters of an hour's good ringing was enjoyed, especially the last two touches of Kent Treble Bob Major and Stedman Triples.

An excellent tea was partaken at the Carlton Cafe, and before leaving for Tamworth a very hearty vote of thanks was accorded the late Rector of Seale (the Rev. H. E. Worthington, B.A.) for his generous donation towards the cost of tea. Upon reaching Tamworth the party rung touches of Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Kent and Plain Bob Major. The return journey was made via No Man's Heath, Measham and Overseal, and brought a very enjoyable outing to a close. The party would like to thank all incumbents for use of the bells, and Messrs. G. A. Newton, C. H. Belton, B. Ridgeway and S. G. Chaplin for making the arrangements at their respective towers and having everything in readiness.

SAFFRON WALDEN RINGERS AT LOUGHBOROUGH.

The Saffron Walden Society held its annual outing on Monday, July 6th, the chief object being to visit Messrs. Taylor's Bell Foundry at Loughborough. The party of 14 left at 9 a.m. by motor-coach, and the first call was made at Kettering, where touches of Stedman Caters, London and Cambridge Surprise were rung. Upon arrival at Loughborough, an excellent lunch was served at the King's Head.

A visit was then paid to the bell foundry, where the party were met by Mr. Colin Harrison, who, after a brief introduction to all, kindly showed them round the foundry, giving a most interesting description of how a bell is cast, tuned and hung. The party were very interested in the carillon built for U.S.A., and Mr. A. Pitstow played a few leads of Grandsire Triples and 'Drink to me only' on the bells. After the works had been thoroughly inspected, the party adjourned to the Campanile, where a touch of Stedman Caters and a course of London Surprise were rung. The visitors were especially pleased to meet Mr. Dennison Taylor, to whom thanks were expressed for allowing the party to visit the foundry and ring on the peal.

The next call was at the Parish Church to ring on the fine peal of ten. This tower is of special interest to the Society, as three of its members took part in the 8,800 of Superlative Surprise in 1894, e.g., the late Mr. N. J. Pitstow, the late Mr. A. James and Mr. Ernest Pitstow, who was present with the party. The visitors rang Stedman Caters, London Surprise and Grandsire Triples in this tower.

From Loughborough the journey was resumed to Leicester, where Mr. Ernest Morris, Mr. F. Dexter and others accorded the party a cordial welcome. A touch of Stedman Cinques was successfully brought round, after which a course of Cambridge Royal was lost when nearly home. The day's ringing closed with a course of London on the back eight of this fine peal. After a chat and refreshments, the homeward journey was commenced at 8.15, home being reached at midnight, all agreeing that a most enjoyable day had been spent. The ringers would like to express their thanks to Messrs. Taylor and the incumbents for allowing them to ring, and to the local ringers for having everything ready.

WORCESTERSHIRE RINGERS VISIT SOMERSET.

Hinton-on-the-Green ringers were accompanied on their annual outing by friends from Hampton, Badsey and Bretforton. The party left Hinton at 7.30 a.m. and made their first stop at Wrington, Somerset. Short touches of Grandsire and Stedman Caters and Kent Treble Bob Royal were rung on the peal of ten bells at All Saints' Church (tenor 37 cwt.), and Grandsire Triples on the handbells. From Wrington the party went on to Cheddar, where they had lunch, and then spent an enjoyable three-quarters of an hour in Gough's caves. The next stop was made at Clevedon, where touches of Grandsire and Stedman Triples and Bob Major were rung at the Church of St. Peter (tenor 12 cwt.), after which an excellent tea was partaken of. A visit to Portishead followed, where the bells of the Parish Church (tenor 16 cwt.) were rung to Grandsire, Stedman and Oxford Bob Triples, after which the party returned home.

LOWESTOFT RINGERS MAKE MERRY.

As it is the usual practice among the bellringing fraternity to take a 'busman's holiday' at least once a year, the band from St. Margaret's, Lowestoft, sallied forth in search of adventure on an afternoon in July with the blessings of the Clerk of the Weather. Peter Simple's version of a bellringers' outing is worth quoting from 'The Morning Post.' He says the ringers' idea of fun is to pile into a motor-coach with his peers, make for some adjoining county, and there, by kind permission of the local parsons and a sort of freemasonry that prevails among bellringers, hie from village to village alternately ringing their bells and sampling their nut brown ale.

The first call of the Lowestoft ringers was Woodbridge, with its beautiful church. Some of the boys seemed somewhat nervous when they saw the dominating tower with a ring of eight. The tenor, weighing 26½ cwt., was in the safe keeping of Francis Naunton, of Wrentham, and a most enjoyable time was spent there. Retiring to the Bull Hotel, a delightful tea was awaiting them, the special feature being the strawberries and cream. Onwards to Helmingham, with a slight reduction in the weight of bell metal, the tenor weighing 19½ cwt. A very pretty spot this, and what a mecca for beginners! No neighbours to annoy. The last port of call was Framlingham, another ring of eight. Here the boys had the unique experience of watching from above the actual working of the bells in peal. After one or two touches, it was suggested that it was time for refreshment, and ringing activities for the day were, therefore, terminated. Brothers Jerry and Baldry (the latter better known as 'Ginger') caused endless fun among some of the local inhabitants of Framlingham by descending upon the Farriers Arms in jovial spirits, borrowing the landlady's bonnet, coat and apron complete, and with pint mugs having their photographs taken as Farmer and Mrs. Giles. The landlady is to have a copy of the photograph as a memento of the occasion. How these young fellows captivated the hearts of the old folks! The return route was made via Saxmundham, and the journey's end was reached about midnight. The ringers, as a whole, would like to thank Albert E. Coleman and committee for their efforts in making the day the success it was.

THROUGH YORKSHIRE DALES.

On Saturday, July 4th, the ringers of Rotherham Parish Church, with a few friends, including the Vicar, Canon H. D. Morgan, made a tour by motor-coach of the Yorkshire dales (and hills). Starting from Rotherham at 6.30 a.m., the party made for Masham, where a splendid breakfast was enjoyed. Unfortunately, no ringing could be done at Masham owing to the unsafe condition of the spire. Continuing the journey up Wensleydale, a stop was made at Aysgarth, where the party was met by Mr. Latimer, and conducted to the tower of St. Andrew's Church, where the peal of six bells (tenor 11½ cwt.) were soon going to Cambridge Surprise, Kent Treble Bob and Bob Minor. After viewing the beautiful Swallow Falls, the journey was continued up Wensleydale and over the hill to Sedburgh. Here Mr. G. F. Woodhouse welcomed the visitors. The peal of eight bells (tenor 15 cwt.) were rung to London Surprise Major, followed by Double Norwich and Yorkshire Surprise Major. Before leaving Sedburgh there was an inspection of the change ringing machine, which was demonstrated by the inventor, Mr. Woodhouse, a course of Silchester Surprise Major and Stedman Triples being tapped and typed by the machine (by request). Thanking Mr. Woodhouse for his hearty welcome and his interesting demonstration, the party continued through some beautiful country to Ingleton, where, after tea at the Ingleborough Hotel, appreciation was expressed by Canon Morgan on behalf of the party to the organisers of the trip and the host (Mr. Froggatt, late of Rotherham) for tea, Mr. Ryder and Mr. Froggatt responding. The journey was then continued through the wonderful scenery which Yorkshire gives at each turn in the road, over Buckspaw Brow and into Giggleswick-in-Craven and to the Church of St. Alkelda, where the visitors were met by Mr. Hodgson and several of the local ringers. Here a light peal of eight bells (tenor 10 cwt., and a rather talkative treble) were set going to Double Norwich, Superlative Surprise and Kent Treble Bob Major. Then, wending their way through the Craven district, a halt was made at Skipton. They were welcomed by Mr. W. Billows, and London Surprise, Yorkshire Surprise and Little Bob Major were rung on the beautiful peal of eight bells (tenor 22 cwt.). A good standard of striking was maintained throughout the day. Rotherham was reached at 11.30 p.m. after a splendid outing. Thanks are extended to clergy, ringers and all else who helped to make the excursion a complete success. A. F.

PORTSEA RINGERS' ENJOYABLE TOUR.

The ringers of St. Mary's, Portsea, held their annual outing on Saturday, July 11th, visiting towers in Dorset and East Hampshire. A start was made from headquarters about 1 o'clock, and, after picking up the Rev. E. Banks James and Mr. W. Linter at Fareham and Mr. and Mrs. Bayley and friend at Titchfield, the first part of the journey was made to Bournemouth.

A delightful run through the New Forest (including a blinding rainstorm of about a quarter of an hour) brought us in sight of the beautiful Priory at Christchurch with its glorious ring of twelve bells. Before reaching Bournemouth the coach passed through Iford (made famous by the proposed installation of 'gramophone' bells). St. John's was reached shortly before 3 p.m., and after the bells were raised, touches of Stedman Triples, Double Norwich and Cambridge were rung, much to the enjoyment of everybody. The bells are indeed a melodious product of the Loughborough Foundry, and, after lowering the bells in peal, a reluctant departure was made. Once aboard the lugger again and a pleasant run via Poole was made to Wimborne. Here the visitors were met at the Minster by Messrs. P. C. Hart and A. F. Martin Stewart, and the fine ring of ten by the Croydon Foundry (tenor 29 cwt. in C sharp) were soon going to Stedman Caters, Plain Bob and Cambridge Royal. Time here was all too short, but the 'inner man' had to be attended to, and for this purpose the company adjourned to Gush's Restaurant. A splendid repast was partaken of, leaving a unanimous impression of the way in which Dorset can cater.

After tea, at the kind invitation of Mr. Stewart, a halt was made at Ferndown to visit the world-famous nurseries and receive the usual hospitality always extended to ringers and their wives, etc. Although this was not allowed for in the programme, after a bit of persuasion the party were eventually rounded up from this vast estate and a run was made to Ringwood, the last tower on the list. Here they were warmly welcomed by Mr. W. E. Cheater, who had earlier met the company and made the subsequent journey with him. A fine ring of eight, recently restored by Taylor's (tenor 19 cwt.), were soon going to Stedman Triples, Double Norwich, London and Bristol Surprise and a touch of Spliced Surprise in the four usual methods.

After bidding farewell to Messrs. Stewart and Cheater, the homeward journey was commenced via Minstead and Cadnam to Totton, where a halt was called for a breather and refresher. A course of Stedman Triples 'in hand' was rung by the enthusiasts before the services of the chauffeur were required. Passing through Southampton with the once famous 'Majestic' on the right in the famous docks at Millbrook, the last stage was commenced, and, after disembarking passengers at Titchfield and Fareham, headquarters was reached about 11.30 p.m., after a highly enjoyable trip. Thanks are due to all the incumbents for their ready permission and the local ringers who met the ringers and contributed to the enjoyment of the day, not forgetting the Good Samaritan.

AMONG THE BELLS OF KENT.

If you were an early bird you might have observed in the old-world village of Charlwood one June morn a small knot of men embarking on a coach with a sparkle in their eyes and many other signs of suppressed excitement. But why all this commotion, you may ask? Well, it was the Charlwood, Buckland and Merstham ringers' combined annual outing. On the stroke of nine o'clock the coach pulled up at Hever Church. The pretty little bells reminded us of our neighbouring Nutfield, and they were rung to Bob Minor and Kent Treble Bob. Amongst the party was an historian who took us around the church and lectured us upon its history and Ann Boleyn, who lived in the adjoining castle. Everybody knows that Ann was decapitated, so if Kate reads this let her beware! Leaving Hever we were whizzed Horsmonden-wards. Horsmonden Church is not on the map (ours, at any rate) and 2½ miles from the village itself, so, of course, we thoroughly lost our way in spite of directions kindly given the writer by the steeple-keeper of the tower and also by a noted Charlwood ringer, who had been there before several times and sat beside the driver to 'direct' him. Anyway when we did arrive these magnificently toned bells were soon pealing forth majestically to Cambridge Surprise, Kent and Plain Bob. Loth were we to cut down our stay, but we had a long programme before us. In the course of another long ride we got lost again, but eventually reaching Egerton, we were welcomed by Mr. A. Waddington, who assisted us to ring some excellent London Surprise, Plain Bob and Kent. These bells pleased our party very much, as did the nice, roomy belfry. Afterwards we hurried along to the Swan Hotel at Charing for dinner. We intended to ring at Charing as well, but, owing to the delays that occurred, we very reluctantly had to cancel this item. It was a pity, as good Mr. Good had got everything ready for us. We hope he doesn't think we were a party of 'bears.' Next on the list was East Sutton, well off the beaten track; a dear little church with a light peal of six, but, unfortunately, seldom rung. However, we rang them right well to Woodbine, Kent, Oxford and College Exercise. This church has connection with the Filmer-Wilson family (said our historian), and he took us to a chapel and showed us a really fine brass of an ancient member of the Filmer family, together with his wife and 19 children. Obviously he didn't live in a council cottage!

Next we flitted to Yalding, where we were again met by Mr. Waddington, who had brought two other ringers with him. We had a real good 'go' here with many methods, including Carlisle and London Surprise, and then adjourned to the Walnut Tree, where a real ringers' tea awaited us. Mr. Waddington produced a set of handbells, which were set going to Grand sire Triples, and then tunes, directed by our musical friend, Mr. Horace Edwards. The performance took place in front of a crowd of admirers, who came from somewhere and completely blocked the road and the garden opposite. Moreover, when we left they gave us a mighty cheer. We are glad to know somebody likes bells. All the people I know (except ringers) never cease dinging into my ears the enormity of my offence in being a bellringer. That cheer resounded in our ears all the way to Igtham, where the tenor was described by one of our party as 'sounding like a frying pan,' while another asked its ringer to pull harder as he couldn't hear it properly. This bell was cracked and has been welded, but the tone really is dreadful. It is a great pity, as the other five bells are quite nice and the tenor completely spoils them. We rang several touches and then sped on the last tower, which was Brasted. Here we met Mr. E. H. Lewis, and Mr. Jack Weller, of Westerham. Between us we rang quite a lot, including London again. At the close, Mr. Lewis and his men treated us to a touch of Bob Minor double-handed, and to the handbell men of our party this was a delight and an eye-opener as to how handbells should be rung. After farewells we left for home. During the day we had some different ringing and some very good ringing: 11 methods were rung, including three Surprises, and the conducting was shared by Messrs. L. A. Tidy, H. R. Thorpe, A. Cheaseley and A. Ellis. The organiser wishes to thank all the incumbents for the use of their bells and the gentlemen who met the party at various places and got things ready.

SWINDON RINGERS VISIT NORTHANTS AND BEDFORD.

The annual outing of the Swindon Parish Church ringers took place on June 20th, and, in accordance with usual custom, was favoured with beautiful weather. The journey was begun at 6.55 a.m. by rail to Oxford. There a motor-coach was provided, and, on arrival at Tingewick, the Rector was found in attendance at the church, and the recently relunged peal of five bells was soon going. Buckingham bells were not available, but a short stay was made in the town for refreshments. St. Giles', Northampton, was the next objective, and the visitors were welcomed by Messrs. Dean, Rogers and Flavell, a few good touches being enjoyed on the ten bells. An excellent lunch was served at the Angel Hotel, and then a nice run to Bedford found Messrs. Tingey and Co. waiting at St. Paul's. This fine peal pleased everybody. On arrival at Leighton Buzzard the course at the Tea Caddy was very welcome, and here Mr. J. Nicholls met the party. Time restricted the ringing on this excellent peal, but everyone had a pull and enjoyed it. A halt was made at Wheatley to admire the view, and the train was duly boarded at Oxford, Swindon being reached at 9.50 p.m. Thanks are extended to all who contributed towards the success of the outing. The ringing during the day ranged from Grand sire Doubles to Stedman Caters and Bob Royal.

MIDDLESEX RINGERS IN SUSSEX.

Despite dull weather, the annual outing of the Uxbridge ringers was a thoroughly enjoyable one. Leaving Uxbridge shortly after two o'clock, with wives and ringing friends from neighbouring towers, the trip began with a lovely ride via Kingston and Reigate to Horley, where Mr. A. J. Bull had all in readiness for ringing. Touches of Grandsire, Stedman and Double Norwich were rung on the very musical peal of eight bells. On leaving here necks were craned to watch the performances of the 'air aces' in connection with the opening of London's new airport at Gatwick. Passing through Crawley, to a shrimp tea was greatly appreciated, at the Queen's Head, Horsham. Afterwards the beautiful Parish Church was eventually reached, Belisha safety first contrivances causing the party to walk to the church. The ringing on this grand peal of eight included Grandsire and Stedman Triples. At Ruspur the party found the church under repair, but touches of Grandsire and Stedman were rung under conditions of difficulty owing to noise, caused by the great holes in the ceiling. At Newdigate a very musical, light ring of six was rung to Doubles and Minor. The homeward journey was by way of the Surrey beauty spot, Box Hill, Leatherhead, Walton and Staines, Uxbridge being reached shortly after 10.30 after a most enjoyable afternoon and evening. Thanks were due to Mr. Corke for his kindness in the arranging of the outing, and to all the incumbents who allowed the use of their bells.

TONG AND BUSHBURY VISITED.

Twelve members of the North Staffs Association visited Tong and Bushbury in beautiful weather on June 20th. The party, consisting of ringers and friends from Bucknall, Brown Edge and Norton, numbered 37 in all. Tong is situated on the Shropshire border, and has a beautiful 11th century church. The visitors were met by the Rev. F. W. Edmunds and Mr. Bowden, the latter having been a ringer here for 70 years. The ropes drop into the choir stalls, which have to be moved forward before ringing can begin. There is also a very long draught, but a steady band can manage the bells successfully, as they 'go' very well. Among other touches, 240 Cambridge Surprise Minor was beautifully struck, this being the first of Surprise on the bells. After tea at the Bell Inn, Bushbury was visited, and Mr. James Shaw and his band of ringers were waiting to give hearty welcome. They were also greeted by Mrs. James Shaw, who always takes a keen interest in her husband's ringing activities. Oxford Treble Bob, Plain Bob and London Surprise were rung, the last named being also the first touch of Surprise on the bells. Thanks are tendered to Mr. James Walley for organising the outing, which proved a huge success. J. E. W.

ESSEX RINGERS IN KENT.

The ringers of St. Barnabas', Great Tey, Essex, visited towers in Kent for their annual outing. The twelve ringers of the local band were accompanied by the Vicar and wardens, and, with friends, made up a party of 32. Leaving the village at 7.30, their first call was at St. Thomas', Brentwood, where they had a very nice pull on some very fine bells. They then made for Kent, stopping at Crayford, and then going on to Rochester, where they had lunch. The next tower was St. Nicholas', Sevenoaks, where some more very fine bells were handled. The last place for ringing was Beckenham (St. George's), where they were met by two of the local band. At 7.30 they thought it was time for tea, and when they had nicely settled down to their meal they found that a generous member of the party had 'stood treat' and paid for the teas. This act was very much appreciated. Home was reached at 11.20 p.m. after 'a perfect day.' The ringers would like to thank, through 'The Ringing World,' all incumbents and steeplekeepers for their kindness. Bob Major, Oxford and Kent Major and Grandsire were rung during the day.

MORE YORKSHIRE BEAUTY SPOTS.

St. Michael's band, Headingley, held their annual outing on July 4th, and were accompanied by the St. Chad's band, together with a few friends from Bradford, Halifax and a member from the Parish Church band. Fountain's Abbey was the first place visited, and the interest of everyone was held by the description given by Mr. P. J. Johnson and others familiar with this beautiful old place. Mr. Tingle met them at Ripon Cathedral, when the splendid ring of ten bells was set going to a touch of Stedman Caters. Other touches were rung on the back eight for those who did not ring ten. After luncheon at the Black Bull Hotel, Ripon, the party left for Snape Castle. Through the kindness of Mr. E. Beresford Peirse, of Bedale, Thorpe Perrow (the beautiful home of Mr. William Ropner) was visited. A course of Grandsire Caters was rung on the lawn, after which Mr. Ropner himself conducted the party over the magnificent gardens and grounds. All were indeed loth to leave these peaceful surroundings.

On arrival at the old market town of Bedale, the inhabitants thereof were soon awakened by the sound of the eight bells pealing forth Double Norwich and other methods. These bells have recently been rehung by Mears and Stainbank. The tenor is a pre-Reformation bell (28 cwt.) and bears the inscription:—

I.O.V. (Immaculate Optime Virgini) Ego Cum Fiam Cruce Custos
Lauda Maria Digna Dei Maude Mater Dignissima Gaude.

The translation is:—

(Initials) 'To the Immaculate Most Excellent Virgin.' And the other, 'Since I am made Watcher of the Cross, I praise Mary with a praise worthy of God—Most Worthy Mother rejoice.'

Another 'plain course'—plain, but excellent—was served at the King's Head Hotel, and after this had come round the party left for Sharow, where a well-struck touch of Double Norwich was brought round, followed by a touch of Stedman, and the party then left for home.

The ringers wish to thank all the incumbents for the use of the bells, the local members at various towers, and all those who made the outing such a pleasant one.

SUDDEN DEATH OF MR. JAMES T. WARD.

With deep regret we record the death of Mr. James Thomas Ward, of Finedor, Road, Irthlingborough, which took place on Sunday, July 12th, at the age of 47 years. He had been a ringer at Irthlingborough for 30 years and had rung over 100 peals in the following methods: London, Bristol, Cambridge, Superlative, Yorkshire, Irchester and Irthlingborough Surprise, Double Norwich, Kent Treble Bob, Stedman Triples and Surprise Minor.

Mr. Ward lived by himself, and on Sunday morning rang the tenor for service to a course of Yorkshire Surprise Major. He usually went to bed after dinner, and as he was not at work on Monday morning inquiries were made. He was found dead in bed.

The funeral took place on July 16th, the service at the church and also the committal rites being conducted by the Rev. M. E. R. Mannox (assistant curate). A course of Grandsire Triples was rung over the grave by A. Bigley 1-2, W. Perkins 3-4, A. Y. Tyler 5-6, J. Mawby 7-8. Six of his fellow-ringers were the bearers.

After the service the ringers returned to the tower and rang 504 of Stedman Triples with the bells half-muffled: W. Perkins (conductor) 1, F. Palmer 2, T. R. Hensher 3, A. H. Martin 4, F. Ball 5, A. Y. Tyler 6, H. Chapman 7, A. Bigley 8. Touches of Bob Major, Superlative and Stedman were also rung. The bells were muffled all day on Sunday. Visiting ringers included Messrs. T. R. Hensher, H. Chapman, A. H. Martin and F. Ball.

THE QUICKEST SIX-SCORE.

To the Editor

Dear Sir,—I read with interest in 'The Ringing World' of the quickest 120 rung, which was in 3min. 5sec. On Monday, May 25th, the St. Mellons (Mon.) band rang a 120 in 2min. 58sec. A ringer from Cardiff took the time with a stop-watch. R. H. ADDIS.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD.QUARTERLY MEETING AT WYLYE.

A meeting of the Salisbury Branch was held at Wylye, Wilts, on Saturday, July 18th, and, in spite of the inclement weather, there was a very fair attendance, ringers being present from Salisbury St. Martin, Wylye, Wilton, Winterbourne, Britford, Breamore, Damerham, Kingston Magna, Berwick St. John, etc.

The Guild office was conducted by the Rector, the Rev. W. J. F. Groves, who also gave the address, the lesson being read by the Master, the Rev. R. G. Gundry.

Tea followed in the village inn and there was a brief business meeting, the branch chairman inviting the Master (who was at one time incumbent at Wylye) to preside, and this he consented to do, supported by the branch secretary (Mr. F. W. Romaine), the general secretary (the Rev. F. L. Edwards) and the Rev. H. W. Moule. Arising out of the minutes, the secretary reported that the order of the meetings had been altered and Wylye visited this quarter in order to afford the Master an opportunity of attending, he having expressed a wish to be present at a meeting at Wylye. At the close of the meeting Mr. Caple proposed a vote of thanks to the Rector for the use of the bells and conducting the Guild service, also to the organist for her services; he likewise welcomed the Master and the general secretary to the branch meeting.

The Rector, in replying, expressed the appreciation of the Wylye ringers at being able to entertain the branch so early in their term of membership; he added that Dr. Tupholme had placed the bells at Steeple Langford at the disposal of the ringers. The Rev. Gundry also replied, remarking how pleased he was at being able to attend the gathering at Wylye. Ringing was then resumed.

THE WILMSLOW BELL BROADCAST.To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—It is strange how people's ideas differ. Mr. W. Cyril Smith thinks that the ringing was excellent. To my mind, its characterless, deadly monotony was the very antithesis of good change ringing. The absence of the open handstroke lead, with the treble an honourable exception, spoilt completely a clean and otherwise good performance. For some reason or other, I gained the impression that the bells were not being rung at all, but chimed by one man on an Ellacombe chiming apparatus.

Eulogy in the Press of bell performances should be used with restraint. Not so long ago a letter appeared in praise of certain broadcast ringing. I wrote your correspondent privately, pointing out that one of the bells had not made a clean blow at backstroke during the time the bells were 'on the air.' Mistaken praise is worse than unconstructive criticism.

THE LADIES' GUILD.

Next year the Ladies' Guild will celebrate its silver jubilee, in the meantime a committee has been appointed to consider the present division of districts with a view to covering the country more effectively. At present there are areas in which the Guild does not actively function, and this is one great drawback to its operations. While the number of lady ringers is considerable, they are a scattered body, and the principal difficulty has been in organising self-supporting districts. That the Guild has succeeded in functioning as well as it has done through nearly a quarter of a century is a testimony to the energy and loyalty of those who have held office, and particularly to Mrs. E. K. Fletcher, the general secretary, whose enthusiasm has never flagged.

The Guild was really the outcome of the first peal rung by a company of ladies in 1912, at Cubitt Town. The beginnings were small, but when in the days of the Great War women came into the belfries to replace the men, the number of lady ringers rapidly expanded, and the Guild's purpose and place in the Exercise was more than justified. But even so, there has seldom been a tower with a complete band of ladies, and in many cases where they are to be found in belfries they are only in ones and twos. This has made organisation difficult, and although the half dozen or so districts have held regular meetings, the scattered nature of the membership is bound to make itself felt on these occasions.

The Committee who have the reorganisation of the Guild to consider will not have an easy task. Smaller districts might give members more facilities for attending meetings, but the obstacle to smaller districts is finance. With a nominal subscription of only one shilling a year, a county area with a dozen or fifteen members could do very little. The difficulties of a large district are that the members are out of touch with the organisation and each other, and only very occasionally can a meeting be held within reach of more than a very few. Moreover, the membership of the Guild seems more 'fluid' than with the ordinary ringers' association. This lack of close touch, coupled with the fact that members not infrequently give up ringing altogether on marriage, leads to lapses of membership which it is very hard to avert or replace. The ladies who carry the brunt of the work are, therefore, to be cordially congratulated upon the success which they have hitherto made of the Guild. There is a place in the Exercise for this organisation, and it is to be hoped that not only will the Guild find a way more effectively to knit together its forces, but that in its jubilee year it will gather energy and

FOR BEGINNERS.

SOME TREBLE BOB METHODS.

In explaining steps in Treble Bob last week we took the example of Kent, because it is probably the easiest of this class of method. There are others, however, very little more difficult, and it may be well if, while on this subject of Treble Bob, we refer to one or two of them, because there is no reason why you should not study something beyond Kent, even while you are perfecting yourself with that method.

The original method of Treble Bob was Oxford; Kent did not come on the scene until much later, and is a simple variant of the former. We explained in the last article that when the treble is in 1-2 in Kent, 3rd's and 4th's places are made by the bells going up and 4th's and 3rd's by the bells coming down, in substitution for the dodges that would otherwise be made.

The constructional difference between the two methods is that, instead of the bells going out making 3rd's and 4th's and continuing their way up, they make 4th's only and go back to lead; while the bells coming down, instead of making 4th's and 3rd's, when the treble is below them, make 3rd's only, and go out behind again. If you will compare these figures you will see the difference in the place-making.

Kent	Oxford
213456	214356
142635	142635
146235	146235

This variation in the place-making, while producing different changes within the treble lead, produces the same lead-ends, and a true peal in one method is a true peal in the other.

HOW OXFORD DIFFERS FROM KENT.

The bells doing 'slow work,' that is, lead and 2nd's place alternately from the time the treble leaves the front until it returns, do it in the same order in Oxford as in Kent, but the coursing order 'inside' the lead is not quite the same, because the place-making bells change direction. Immediately before and after the treble's dodging behind, the Plain Bob coursing order is broken, but while that is happening the bells in the next dodging place below (3-4 in Minor, 5-6 in Major) are dodging in coursing pairs; when dodging up you dodge with your course bell, and when dodging down, with your 'after' bell. As soon, however, as the treble gets away from 3-4 in Minor, or 5-6 in Major, the coursing order above it is resumed.

The actual rules for ringing the method work out like this: If, in Minor, you pass the treble in 4-5 or dodge 5-6 up with the treble, you make 3rd's place, and go back up. (You do the same in Major if you pass the treble in 6-7 or dodge in 7-8.)

If you come out of the slow work (i.e., dodge on the front with the treble), you make 4th's and go down to lead; if you pass the treble in 2-3 you make 4th's, go back and dodge with the treble and then begin the 'slow' work.

In all other instances your work is exactly the same as in Kent. You dodge in all the dodging positions, 3-4, 5-6, etc., up and down, and after the 4-3 (down) go straight to lead and up again to 3-4.

When a bob is made, all the bells above 4th's place have an extra double dodge, that is they 'step back' three times instead of once. The actual bob is made by the bell which dodged behind with the treble and came down to 3rd's place. Instead of going straight up again, he makes 4th's (which is the bob), and then another 3rd's place, before going back up.

The bells coming out of and going into the slow work are not affected. Each makes 4th's place and returns to the front.

For the young conductor who wants a 720 of Minor in either method, a 'standard' calling, which keeps the 5th and 6th from coming behind the 'wrong' way, is to call the 6th In (into the Slow) and Out with another bob the next lead, and, in the next course, call the 6th In only. Do this three times and you have the extent. Remember the point mentioned above, that if you are going into the Slow in Kent you dodge up in 5-6 with the treble, and follow it down; in Oxford you dodge down in 6-5 with the treble, and go down in front of it.

VARIATION OF ALLIED METHODS.

There are other methods closely allied to Oxford—Sandal and Duke of Norfolk, for instance. In the former, Oxford is varied by a bell making 5th's place, when the treble lies its whole pull behind; in the latter 2nd's place is made at the treble's whole pull in front, as well as 5th's at the whole pull behind. The result is that in the three methods you get exactly the same changes in a plain course, but they come up in a different order and consequently the actual work is different.

These three methods of Treble Bob stand in exactly the same relationship as the plain methods, Bob, Reverse Bob and Double Bob.

The place-making in 3rd's and 4th's remains the same in Sandal as in Oxford, but the 5th's place half-way through the lead causes a dodge on the front which changes the bell in the slow work, and a three-pull dodge—that is an additional double dodge, or three steps back instead of one—in 3-4. The bell that dodges in 6-5 down with the treble (after dodging 5-6 up with another bell) makes 5th's, dodges 5-6 up with the treble, and 6-5 down with another bell, before going on down to make 3rd's place and return.

The work when the treble is in front is exactly the same as in Oxford, and a bob is also made in the same way.

In Duke of Norfolk you do all that has been explained for Sandal when the treble is behind, but when the treble is in front, the bell which began Slow work when the treble was behind makes 2nd's when the treble leads its whole pull and, dodging again with the treble, remains in the Slow work until the treble gets behind. The time to dodge and come out of the Slow work is after making 2nd's place the second time, and in both Sandal and Duke of Norfolk the dodge is actually in 2-1 (down) after the 2nd's place; therefore, it is necessary to lead another whole pull before going up to 3-4.

This retention of the same bell in the Slow work after the treble's lead in Duke of Norfolk causes the bells in 5-6 to have a three-pull dodge, and the bells in 3-4 to do a double set of places, with a dodge between. Thus the bell that comes down makes 3rd's, dodges in 3-4 up, makes 4th's and goes down to lead. The bell that comes up does the reverse thing, viz., makes 4th's, dodges in 4-3 down, makes 3rd's and goes up.

Here is the difference between Oxford and Sandal behind, and Oxford and Duke of Norfolk in front:—

Oxford	Sandal	Oxford	D. of N.
236154	236154	643125	236154
263514	263514	634215	263514
625341	625341	362451	625341
623514	623514	362415	623514
265341	265341	632451	265341
256431	623541	623541	623541
524613	265314	265314	265314

The work of Oxford and Sandal is the same when the treble is in front; the work of Sandal and Duke of York is the same when the treble is behind.

From the figures which we have here given, it should be possible for you to construct a lead of each of these three methods, and from the figures draw a diagram of a whole course. Just try it! It may lead your interest to that higher plane of splicing together a number of such methods into one true 720.

By the way, the calling of a 720 of Sandal is the same as for an extent of Oxford, except, of course, that the Out is not at the lead following the In.

In Duke of Norfolk, however, the calling of the tenor must be Wrong, Right and Wrong, the Wrong being the second lead of the course, and the Right at the course end.

RINGERS' OUTINGS.

GUILDFORD GUILD MEMBERS VISIT SUSSEX.

For the third successive year members of the Guildford Diocesan Guild from Worplesdon and Aldershot, with one unattached member, combined with the Hastings and District Guild for a joint meeting. This year the venue was the quaint old town of Rye. Leaving Fox Corner in Surrey at 12.45 p.m., the party made the long journey by coach via Dorking, Reigate, Sevenoaks and Tonbridge, reaching Rye Church at 4.40. They were cordially welcomed by the Misses M. P. and J. E. Kingdon (one time members of the Worplesdon company) and Mr. C. A. Levett, hon. secretary of the Hastings Guild.

At 5.15 tea was served in a neighbouring cafe, a company of nearly 30 sitting down. Besides the Worplesdon and Aldershot towers, members from Croydon, All Saints', Hastings, St. Leonards, Feltham, Uckfield, Hawkhurst and Salehurst were also present.

Following tea, several of the visitors explored the town, whilst others, more enthusiastic, returned to the belfry to take part in touches of Stedman, Grandsire, Kent, Plain Bob and Superlative. Cambridge Major was not successful! At 8 p.m. the ringing ceased, and was inspected and its many historical points explained by the Rector of St. Andrew's, Holborn, and touches of Grandsire, Bob Major and Double Norwich were rung on the very musical peal of bells in the tower. Another short run in the coach through winding lanes brought the party to Weston Patrick, where their Rector and Mrs. Bedford have their country cottage. They found a meat tea awaiting them, and after enjoying all the good things provided, many availed themselves of the opportunity of looking round the gardens, while a few cast longing eyes on the swimming pool. Handbell ringing was indulged in on the lawn, and, before leaving, a hearty vote of thanks was accorded the Rector and Mrs. Bedford for their kind hospitality, also to Miss Wyatt and the helpers at the tea tables. After the roll call had been found to be correct, a move was made to Yateley, the route lying through Odiham and Hartley Row. On arrival, the visitors were welcomed by the Vicar and Mr. S. J. Riddell, and the bells were rung in various methods. This concluded the ringing activities, and, on arriving back at Reading, the day's pleasures were discussed over a little refreshment at The Grapes, all expressing themselves well pleased with the arrangements made by the secretary. Paddington was reached again at 11.15 p.m. after a very happy day.

THE ANCIENT CHURCH OF RYE, SUSSEX.

Pack and Chapman cast a ring of eight bells for this tower in 1775, but there were bells there at least 300 years earlier. The French attacked Rye in 1377 and carried off the church bells as part of the loot. In the following year, however, the men of Rye and Winchelsea retrieved them, bringing them back after an attack upon Peter's Haven, in Normandy.

the coach load of visitors were taken to Chitcombe, Brede, the residence of Mrs. Kingdon, and hospitably entertained to coffee and cakes.

A hearty vote of thanks was accorded Mrs. Kingdon and her daughters for all they had done for the comfort of the party.

One stop was made on the homeward journey, and Aldershot reached at 1.15 a.m., after a happy and completely successful outing. All the trippers wish to thank Capt. H. J. Cann for arranging the excursion.

LONDON RINGERS TOUR BERKS AND HANTS.

The ringers of St. Andrew's, Holborn, with a few friends, held their annual outing on Saturday, July 4th. Leaving Paddington by train at 8.40 a.m., they transferred to a motor-coach at Reading and drove to Newbury. On arrival they found that Mr. H. W. Curtis had the bells ready for their use, and touches of Grandsire and Stedman Caters, Bob Royal and Treble Bob were rung. These bells are a fine peal, both in tone and go, and Mr. Curtis may well be pleased with his peal of ten. The next move was to Andover, the scenery on the way being much admired. Lunch was partaken of at the White Hart Hotel, and afterwards at St. Mary's Church, Grandsire, Stedman, Double Norwich and Cambridge were successfully brought round. These bells were found to be very false and required ringing, while the staircase to the ringing room kept a few of the ringers downstairs.

After another run through delightful country, the party reached Alton, a well-known town for keeping your 'Courage.' The church

A GUILDFORD GUILD EXCURSION.

The Chertsey District of the Guildford Diocesan Guild this year organised an outing, and the experiment proved a complete success. The 'stepping off' place was Hersham Church. The coach took on the first part of its load and moved off exactly at 2 p.m. by the clock, and proceeded to Weybridge to embark some more, then on through Chertsey, Laleham and Staines. Here another joined the happy throng, and, having crossed the Thames again to Egham, the remainder of the load was taken on board. Passing Runnymede, Windsor and Maidenhead, the party made a call at Sonning. Here the company was met by the Vicar, and the ladies had an enjoyable time inspecting the church under his guidance. An hour's good ringing was indulged in on the bells, and some paid a visit to the river lock, which is one of the beauty spots of the Thames. Next a move was made to Shiplake. Here tea was partaken of at the Plough Inn, the proprietor of which is also steeplekeeper of the church and also has a case of handbells, which were duly inspected and some used. After tea the church was visited for another hour's ringing before going on to Henley, which was reached about 7.15 p.m. As everything was ready, the bells were soon going merrily. The bells were lowered at 8 p.m. and the homeward journey commenced, Hersham being reached at about 10.30 p.m., everyone voting the venture a success. Thanks are accorded the visitors from Heston and Staines, also to the various incumbents and steeplekeepers for the use of the bells and having everything ready.

DEATH OF MR. CHARLES J. CHOOET.FORMER MASTER OF THE COLLEGE YOUTHS.

With deep regret we record the death of Mr. Charles John Chooet, of 35a, Sutton Buildings, Chelsea, which took place at Guy's Hospital on Wednesday, July 15th.

Mr. Chooet was a very prominent member of the St. Andrew's, Holborn, Guild. He had been a member of the Ancient Society of College Youths for 50 years, and was Master of the society in 1929.

The funeral took place on Saturday, July 18th, at Brompton Cemetery. In addition to the family mourners, there were present Mr. Stanton, of the University of London, Mr. C. F. Winney, of the College Youths, and Mr. J. S. Hawkins, representing St. Andrew's Guild, Holborn.

Mr. Chooet, whose age was 69, leaves one married daughter to mourn his loss. There were many beautiful wreaths, including one from the St. Andrew's, Holborn, Guild.

On Tuesday evening, July 21st, the bells of St. Andrew's, Holborn, were rung half-muffled to a well-struck quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples (1,260 changes) by the following members: William R. Dennis 1, Henry G. Alford 2, Robert W. Green 3, J. E. Lewis Cockey 4, Ernest F. Pryor 5, Albert C. Darnell (conductor) 6, Joseph Marks 7, Joseph S. Hawkins 8.

THREE ASSOCIATIONS FRATERNISE.CUMBERLAND YOUTHS, SURREY AND GUILDFORD DIOCESAN RINGERS.

On Saturday, members of the Royal Society of Cumberland Youths, the Surrey Association and Guildford Diocesan Guild met at Beddington, Surrey, for a combined social gathering. In spite of unsettled weather, about 40 ringers attended from Banstead, Benhilton, Beddington, Croydon, Carshalton, Leatherhead and London (St. Martin's-in-the-Fields, St. Margaret's, Westminster, St. Luke's, Chelsea, and Willesden), whilst visitors were present from Tunbridge Wells and Newcastle-on-Tyne.

Ringings commenced at 3 o'clock and proceeded until 4.50 p.m., when the Rector, the Rev. E. V. Bond, mounted the steps to the belfry for the purpose of unveiling a memorial peal board erected in honour of the late Mr. A. J. Trappitt. In the course of his remarks the Rector pointed out that Mr. Trappitt had been a member of the Beddington band for 40 years, and was secretary of the North-Western District of the Surrey Association for nine years. During that time he carried out all his duties conscientiously and well, and attended regularly the meetings of the Beddington band for practices and Sunday service ringings. By his death Beddington had lost a most faithful bellringer.

At the service which followed, the Rector welcomed the three associations to Beddington and invited them to come again. His address took the form of an exposition of the history of Beddington, and particularly of the church, in the course of which he referred to the recent excavations which had been made in the vicinity, revealing good specimens of Roman and Saxon work. Amongst these relics is the shell of a coffin at least 1,500 years old, in a good state of preservation.

The chest in which it has been placed was unlocked for the occasion, and many of those present took the opportunity of inspecting it.

Tea followed at the Harvest Home, Beddington Lane, and after tea Mr. George H. Cross, Master of the Cumberland Youths, proposed a hearty vote of thanks to the Rector for the use of the bells and for conducting the service, and to Mr. Charles H. Kippin for making all the necessary arrangements for the comfort of the visitors. The motion was seconded by Mr. Albert Harman, on behalf of the Guildford Diocesan Guild, and carried with acclamation.

After some good handbell ringing (Grandsire Caters, Stedman Caters and Double Norwich Major), members returned to the tower, where the bells were kept going till 9 o'clock. The methods rung ranged from Grandsire Triples to Surprise Royal. A very pleasant afternoon and evening were spent.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

The new Vicar of All Saints', Hertford, the Rev. V. Townshend-Ducker, is a change ringer. A peal of Grandsire Caters, in honour of his induction, was rung on Saturday.

One often reads in peal reports 'rung after meeting short for so-and-so,' but the peal of Caters at Loughborough Foundry on Saturday (reported elsewhere) was rung after meeting over for Major.

A new tower has been erected at Surfleet, Lincs, in the demesne of Glyn Garth, but by what seems to be an extraordinary oversight, no provision has been made for a peal of bells. All that can now be done is for four ringers to sit round the top and ring handbells. They will be kept warm by the boiler furnace below.

Among the reports of the peals published to-day is one of 5,160 of Minor in seven methods. Included in it was 840 of Woodbine Treble Bob. There is no information as to where in the peal this additional 160 changes was rung or any explanation as to why it was included, but the Central Council requirements for a lengthened peal of Minor are, we believe, that seven true 720's shall be rung first.

The annual 'bellringers' sermons' will be preached at Coalbrookdale, Salop, on Sunday. One day in the year at this church is devoted to the interests of the ringers, and the sermons on this occasion will be preached in the morning by the Rev. W. G. Beale (Rector of Willey), and in the evening by the Rev. J. H. Hall (Vicar of Shifnal). The offertories at the services go to the ringers' fund.

'ROPE-SIGHT.'

NEW EDITION OF A SNOWDON WORK.

Many books of instruction have been published for the benefit of ringers, young and old, from Stedman's 'Tintinnalogia' in 1668 to the Central Council Collections of Methods and 'Hints for Beginners,' but no book in this category has been in such demand as Snowdon's 'Rope-Sight,' the ninth edition of which has now come from the Press.

Jasper Snowdon had a lucid pen, and untold thousands of ringers have gained by his painstaking work, which he first put into print over half a century ago. There was never a more able exposition of the groundwork of change ringing than his 'Rope-Sight,' and that it still holds the field as a beginner's text book is proved by the continued demand which has led to the issue of so many editions.

In the preface to the second edition Jasper Snowdon himself wrote: 'Undoubtedly the most pleasing acknowledgment of the efforts of the writer is the demand for another edition.' Jasper Snowdon has been gone from us for more than 50 years, but his work lives on and he is still one of the best 'instructors.' The Exercise is indebted to the Snowdon family for continuing to make these works available to ringers.

'Rope-Sight' deals in simple language with the art of ringing from the management of a bell to the proof of Bob Major, taking in its course Plain Bob from four to eight bells, conducting and calling round, and even a chapter on bell rope splicing. It is published at 1s. 10d. post free, and is obtainable from Miss Margaret E. Snowdon, Cartmel, Lancs.

AN INTERESTING RECORD.

The following framed notice which hangs in the tower of St. Mary's, Preswick, has been forwarded to us by Mr. Frank Reynolds. He points out that the church referred to as St. Bartholomew's is now St. Mary's.

- 4th Peal, Three Hundred and Sixty of 'Evening Star.'
- 5th Peal, Three Hundred and Sixty of 'London Delight.'
- 6th Peal, Three Hundred and Sixty of 'Morning Pleasure.'
- 7th Peal, Three Hundred and Sixty of 'College Exercise.'
- 8th Peal, Three Hundred and Sixty of 'London Scholars' Pleasure.'
- 9th Peal, Three Hundred and Sixty of 'Violet.'
- 10th Peal, Three Hundred and Sixty of 'City Delight.'

RINGING FROM CHURCH FLOOR.

INTERESTING NOTES BY MR. J. H. SHEPHERD

From time to time ringers visiting fresh churches find that ringing has to be carried out under strange conditions, and comment is often made upon it by correspondents of 'The Ringing World.'

Few, if any, ringers have visited as many towers as Mr. J. H. Shepherd, of Swindon, who makes a hobby of ringing at 'new towers' and measuring the tenors.

Appended are some notes which he has kindly forwarded to us, as the result of an enquiry some time ago, relating to places where the bells are rung from the church floor.

There are, he writes, several churches in the country where the ringers stand in front of the chancel as at the two churches mentioned in the county of Somerset (Kingstone and Winsham). Although the following do not make a complete list the information may be useful.

Eight-bell towers.—Aylesbury, Bucks.
Melbourne, Derbyshire.
Leckhampton, Glos.
Fairford, Glos.
Ickleton, Cambs.
Winsham, Somerset.
Ottery St. Mary, Devon.

Six-bell towers.—Bramshott, Hants.
Tong, Salop.
Alfriston, Sussex.
Staunton, Glos.
Kingstone, Somerset.
Thurleigh, Beds.
Wollaston, Northants.
Britford, Wilts.
Chilmark, Wilts.
Barford St. Martin, Wilts.

Five-bell towers.—Algarkirk, Lincs.
Rowington, Warwicks.
Meppershall, Beds.

Bramshott is interesting in that the ringers have to ring in white coats provided by the church.

With regard to Ottery St. Mary, Devon, the tower, being at the end of the transept and low, makes ringing in the church necessary. The same appertains at St. German's Priory in Cornwall, where the tower is at the west end of the church and at the north corner.

Similar interesting instances occur as at St. Ives, Hunts, and Fen Stanton, Cambs, where the towers at the west end of the church have two supporting columns in the naves and the ringers are completely exposed to view.

There are instances where the porch of the church is under the tower as at Llanbadrn Fawr, Radnorshire, and Steventon, Berks, and there being nowhere for the ringers they stand and ring in the porch.

At Penhow, Monmouthshire, after a parishioner has gone through the porch, he immediately finds himself under the tower, which spans the south aisle, having two of its pillars as central pillars between that and the nave. Here the ringers stand to ring, occupying a space in the middle of the aisle itself.

Of other oddities we have those most interesting little churches, particularly in Surrey, Sussex, Kent, Hants, Berks and Wilts, where there virtually is no tower, the bell frame being carried on vertical timbers erected at the west end of the nave and protruding through the roof, timber protection being arranged around the frame and a shingle broach capping the whole.

At Chicheley, Bucks, instead of ringing on the floor in front of the chancel, a platform is suspended from the tower roof upon which the ringers stand.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

APPEAL FOR UNITY AMONG BANDS.

The annual meeting of the Banbury Branch was held at Banbury on Saturday, July 25th, in rather stormy weather. Ringing commenced shortly before three o'clock, and continued until the service at 4 p.m., which was conducted by the Rev. A. L. E. Williams, Vicar of Banbury and president of the branch, the preacher being the curate, the Rev. N. E. Wilkinson.

About 45 ringers, including a number of visitors, sat down to tea, after which followed the business meeting.

The secretary's report and balance sheet were adopted, the latter showing a balance in hand of £24, and the former appealing for more unity among bands.

In line with the sentiments of the general secretary of the Oxford Diocesan Guild, that while the branch has good officers they should never be allowed to go, all were re-elected for the coming year.

Lower Heyford was chosen as the place for the next meeting, the date being fixed as October 24th.

The Rev. C. E. Wigg and Mr. R. T. Hibbert both spoke words of encouragement, and the meeting closed with a comprehensive vote of thanks.

Banbury tower was again visited, while some ringers went on to Wardington and Cropredy. Methods rung during the day included Grandsire, Stedman, Oxford and Kent Treble Bob, Cambridge and London Surprise, Plain Bob, and a very 'surprise' touch of Thelwall, as well as rounds for beginners.

UNPAID SUBSCRIPTIONS IN WITNEY AND WOODSTOCK BRANCH.

The annual meeting of the Witney and Woodstock Branch of the Oxford Diocesan Guild was held at Coombe on Saturday, July 11th, the meeting having been unavoidably postponed owing to the death of the branch secretary's father in April.

Service, held in the Parish Church, was conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. F. E. Gmelin, and the lesson was read by the branch secretary (Mr. W. Evetts). A most instructive and interesting address from the Vicar brought the service to a close.

Owing to two broken stays, not much ringing could be done until after tea. When these were repaired all was well, but as they were of plain deal wood, as were the previous ones, great care had to be taken to avoid further disaster.

After tea, the business meeting was held, at which the president (the Rev. C. H. Stuart Gmelin, R.D.) was supported by the Deputy Master (the Rev. C. E. Wigg). The secretary's report showed that three towers were defaulters in paying their subscriptions, which accounted for a fall of 24 ringing members. He also drew the attention of tower foremen to the necessity for getting churchwardens, as well as the incumbents, to join the Guild as honorary members.

This was heartily supported by the Deputy Master. The balance sheet showed a good balance, but owing to the large number of unpaid subscriptions and the loss of several hon. members, it was not as good as it might have been.

The chairman, hon. secretary and treasurer were re-elected for the ensuing year, as also were the members on the Central Committee of the Guild.

After votes of thanks to the Vicar, organist and local ringers, the meeting closed with a record of sympathy with the secretary in his loss and late long illness.

Thirty-two sat down to tea, and the branch was very pleased to have amongst them Mr. A. P. Cannon, of Brockley, and members of the Banbury Branch.

CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY GUILD OFFICERS.

MR. M. B. SHAW ELECTED SECRETARY.

At the annual business meeting of the Cambridge University Guild, held at the end of the Easter Term, the following officers were re-elected for next year: President, the Rev. A. H. F. Boughey (Trinity); vice-president, the Rev. A. C. Blyth (Selwyn); Master, Mr. R. D. St. J. Smith (Selwyn).

The secretary, Mr. A. N. P. Woodard (Jesus), handed in his resignation, as he was ceasing to reside in the university, and Mr. M. B. Shaw (Peterhouse) was elected to succeed him.

Mr. E. M. Atkins (St. Cath.) and Mr. E. H. Lewis (Trinity) were again elected to represent the Guild on the Central Council.

The new secretary had not done any ringing before he joined the Guild on becoming a member of the university in October, 1935, and he rang his first peal, Bob Major 'in hand' on 1-2, in May, 1936.

At Foots Cray, Kent, and Corley, Warwicks, there is no pretension of a tower at all and at these churches each of which has a ring of five bells, arrangements are made to carry the bell frame on the roof principals of the nave, the bells swinging above the ridge and being protected by boarding and a single cap. The ringers in these instances stand in the aisle of the nave and in the pews.

SQUIRE FORTREY OF KING'S NORTON, LEICESTERSHIRE.RESTORATION OF HIS TOMB.

Most ringers when they hear of King's Norton think of the famous tower of that name near Birmingham. There is another King's Norton, however, in Leicestershire, also called Norton-by-Galby. In the churchyard of the latter place is the tomb of Squire Fortrey, which until recently was in a shocking state of neglect. It is pleasing news to know this has been remedied and the tomb and surroundings repaired and put in good order at a cost of over £40.

It should be of the deepest interest to ringers of Leicestershire to know this, for Squire Fortrey was an enthusiastic admirer of church bells, and did much towards encouraging improvements in the rings of different parishes. He rebuilt the church of Galby and placed in it, in the year 1741, a ring of six bells. He did the same at King's Norton, hanging a ring of ten bells, later reduced to eight owing to the strain on the tower. In 1738 he gave two new treble bells to St. Margaret's, Leicester, making them ten. Later he promised a set of handbells to the society to ring 10,000 changes on ten bells, and the Leicester Change Ringers, having rung 6,012 Grandsire Caters in 1776, set about this record. We are told that 'after a trial of several' they 'completed their desires' and rang 10,080 Caters 'in yo tittums' on February 25th, 1777, in 7 hours 12 minutes.

Squire Fortrey duly presented them with a set of cup handbells, which, after passing through many vicissitudes, now reposes in the Leicester Museum. In 1771 he gave a treble bell to Houghton-on-the-Hill, and his name is mentioned in connection with other bells in the county.

His memory was cherished for many years by old Leicester ringers, and Nichols, the historian, says of him: 'William Fortrey, Esq., of Norton-by-Galby, made it his business all his life to enquire into these matters (i.e., bells and ringing). He was possessed of all the anecdotes that remain relating to the old bells in that steeple—St. Margaret's, Leicester—and was himself the patron and director of Thomas Eayre, of Kettering.'

In 1753, when John Holt published his 'broadsheet' of peals, which contained the treble leads of his six and ten-part peals of Grandsire Triples, his six-part peal of Union Triples, and his three-part Plain Bob Triples without a single, Mr. W. Fortrey, of Galby, is there shown as a subscriber of four copies.

Squire Fortrey died at his seat at Norton on December 11th, 1783. About three weeks before his death, as he was going into his garden before going to bed, he fell down a flight of stone steps in front of his house, and, not being able to recover himself, and his only servant that slept in the house having gone to bed, he lay out all night. He was found next morning by the servant, but not quite dead. He, however, only languished for the short time mentioned.

The only peals rung on King's Norton bells are: 5,040 Grandsire Triples, May 28th, 1776, by Sherwood Youths, called by W. D. Crofts; 5,040 Grandsire Triples, June, 1816, called by William Reeve; 5,040 Stedman Triples, December 4th, 1926, called by A. Coppock; two peals Grandsire Triples, 1929 and 1931, both called by E. Morris; and a peal of Grandsire Doubles by local ringers.

GUILDFORD'S NEW CATHEDRAL.

The Archbishop of Canterbury on Wednesday week laid the foundation stone of a new Cathedral for the diocese of Guildford. It is only the third since the Reformation, the others being Truro and Liverpool.

The part of the building now undertaken will include choir, transept and central crossing, sacristy, vestries, etc., and will provide accommodation for about 1,000 people. It will take about three years to build and is to cost about £34,000, towards which £55,000 has been subscribed.

When completed, the Cathedral, which it is estimated will cost £250,000, will have a massive central tower, in which it is proposed to put a peal of bells, towards the cost of which the Guildford Diocesan Guild started a Guild fund about three years ago.

The bells of Holy Trinity Cathedral and St. Nicolas' Churches were rung in honour of last week's historic event. Previous to the service a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples was rung at the Cathedral Church of Holy Trinity by W. Robinson (conductor) 1, W. E. Jelley 2, H. J. Golyer 3, H. Hutton 4, H. Harris 5, E. J. Ayliffe 6, A. H. Pulling 7, John H. B. Hesse 8.

ESSEX ASSOCIATION.

A meeting of the South-Eastern Division was held at High Easter and was attended by 28 members and friends. The bells badly need the attention of a bellhanger.

The Guild service was conducted by Mr. Hussey, of Chelmsford, in the absence of the Vicar, the Rev. Vincent, who was on holiday. Mr. Hussey gave a very interesting address, and the Master of the association, Dr. P. T. Spencer-Phillips, read the lesson. Tea was partaken of at the Cock and Bell Inn, and the business meeting followed, presided over by the Master.

It was proposed, subject to permission being granted, to hold the next meeting at Maldon on Saturday, September 12th.

A vote of thanks was passed to the Vicar for the use of the bells, and to Mr. Hussey for so kindly taking the service and for his interesting address.

BALLARAT RINGERS' CLUB LOSSES.TRAGEDY ROBS THEM OF TWO MEMBERS.

The ringers at Ballarat, Australia, whose ringing is done on the bells at the Town Hall, sustained a double loss during the first week in June by the death of the oldest and youngest members of what is known as the Bellringers' Club.

Mr. George Hutson, the senior member of the company, who was 74 years of age, was run down by a motor-car, and died a few days later in hospital.

The death of Jack Douglas, the youngest member, was another tragedy. He was employed in the municipal offices at the Town Hall. Lately he became depressed and shot himself with a revolver kept in the office. He died on the following day, despite the doctors' valiant efforts to save him. Three blood transfusions were administered without avail, one of them being given by his office colleague and ringing companion, Mr. Harold Maddern, the hon. secretary of the Ringers' Club.

THE BELL TOWER AT BALLARAT TOWN HALL.

The English ringers who visited Australia will deeply regret to read this news, for both Mr. Hutson and Mr. Douglas were among those who met the tourists in Ballarat and helped to entertain them.

The death of these two ringers has proved a severe blow to the Ringers' Club and will cause a setback to their progress. Since the visit of the English ringers, the Ballarat men have been striving to master change ringing. They are a hundred miles from Melbourne, the nearest centre of change ringing, so that they are entirely dependent upon their own resources, and it must obviously take some time to repair this sudden double breach in their ranks.

The bells at Ballarat Town Hall, which have a tenor of 22 cwt. 3 qr. 21 lb., were cast at Whitechapel and were rung for the first time on Christmas Day, 1871. They are known as the 'Alfred' bells, after the former Duke of Edinburgh. The English ringers during their visit rang a peal of Stedman Triples on the bells, the first of Stedman Triples ever rung outside the British Isles.

The Ballarat Ringers' Club ring regularly on Sunday mornings, their bells serving as a call to worship for all the churches of the city.

The only church in Ballarat with a ring of bells is St. Peter's. There are eight bells, but only six are hung for ringing, and on these, in 1897, the first and only peal in seven Minor methods in Australia was rung.

THE HENHOUSE PEAL.To the Editor.

Sir,—With reference to the handbell peal rung at Kirkella, Yorks, on July 12th, surely there is something extraordinary about the performance being headed by the Yorkshire Association. I have, like many others, looked upon that association as pioneers of change ringing, but for members to go on the Sabbath Day into a henhouse among the hens and ring for two hours and seven minutes and look upon it as honour for their association needs no comment.

Ringers generally hold the view that associations of change ringers are an organisation of the Christian Church, and the action of the ringers concerned certainly points to the lowering of those ideals for which associations were formed.

GRAMOPHONE BELL RECORDS.To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—In your leading article of Friday, July 10th, on 'Gramophone Bells,' you say, 'there is not one, as far as we know, that is complete' (gramophone records). It may interest you to know that I have in my possession a set of three gramophone records of bell-ringing, the property of the Lavenham Society of Ringers, which were presented to them by the British Broadcasting Corporation some few months since.

The recordings are: (1) A course of Grandsire Triples; (2) a course of Stedman Triples; and (3) the three bobbed leads of Kent Treble Bob Major. These records begin and finish with rounds, and were made by the Lavenham ringers for the B.B.C., who also have a duplicate set.

May I suggest that ringers write to the B.B.C. asking them to 'put on' one or more of these records as an alternative to the record we now so often hear?

A NEW USE FOR BELL ROPES.To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—Searching for information about old ringers, I came across the following story which you may think worth printing:—

'A certain lewd fellow of the baser sort came from a long way off out of the shires and married a hopp-harlott, who had been whipped round our town more than once. The parish officers were her bridesmaids and her husband was not afraid of receiving certain lectures, for their sole bed was of dirty straw on the dirty ground; nevertheless, she was so cursed of condition that he wearied soon of his life and went to the parish clerk, seeking to be rid of his crooked rib. Solomon was sly, and, replying to his enquiry if the parson could unmarry them, said, "Why need ye trouble his reverence? Have not I, man and boy, been clerk fifty years come All Hallows-tide? I can do it as well as e'er a parson of them all, and as sure as there is now a good tap of ale at the Bell. Let us go there—you stand two pots and I will do all right for you. So after drinking out his fee, Solomon took the fellow into the church by the priest's door. "Now," said he, "you were married here, so put off your jacket and kneel at confession, for 'tis a solemn business." They then went into the belfry and, bidding him stand on a stool, he gave him the longest bell rope. "Tie that tightly, my lad, round your throat," said Solomon, "and as soon as I am gone, kick away the stool. I will return in about an hour, when you will be unmarried and out of your trouble."

THE NOISE OF CHURCH BELLS.To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—Whilst reading your leader of July 24th, it occurred to me how much help one does actually get when a Vicar emphasises the use of church bells. We are very fortunate in having a Vicar who (although never prompted) is constantly reminding not only his parishioners (by means of the 'Parish Magazine'), but also the general public with an occasional paragraph in the local news.

I enclose his description of one item in the current 'Parish Magazine,' which, I may add, also appeared in the local newspaper. These little items cause many local people to ask questions of the ringers themselves, and create quite an interest and sympathy between the layman and ringer.

G. G.

The paragraph in the 'Parish Magazine' was a description of the ringing of the 'whole pull and stand' by the Burnham ringers on the occasion of the death of Mrs. Margaret Gordon Nott, wife of the Vicar.

'Once having heard the bells rung thus,' the Vicar added, 'one is never likely to forget it. Besides being extremely beautiful, it is a feat requiring considerable skill, as during the pause each bell has to be held on the balance and under absolute control if it is to be struck in perfect time in the next pull. The ringing in Burnham tower on that Sunday morning by our young band of ringers was such as can be heard in few towers in England, and is worthy of the highest credit.'

HALIFAX AND DISTRICT ASSOCIATION.ANNUAL MEETING AND SIX-BELL CONTEST.

The annual meeting and six-bell contest was held at Saddleworth on Saturday, July 18th. Five sets entered the contest to ring 600 changes, any method, with a preliminary plain course for practice. All the teams rang Oxford, except Liversedge, who rang Cambridge Surprise. The draw for the order of ringing resulted as follows: 1 New Mill, 2 Freizeland, 3 Meltham, 4 Liversedge, 5 Holmfirth.

Tea was served in the Church Inn and about 50 sat down. After the teams had finished ringing the ringers once more adjourned to the Church Inn for the meeting.

The president, Mr. E. Earnshaw, was in the chair. The balance sheet, which showed a slight gain, was read and adopted, and a discussion on the revised rules took place. These latter, with slight alterations, were adopted.

All the officers were re-elected for the ensuing year.

After the usual vote of thanks to the Vicar, churchwardens, etc., had been moved and replied to by Miss Wood (Vicar's warden), the judge, Mr. W. Idle, gave his decision as follows: New Mill, 153 faults; Freizeland, 122 faults; Meltham, 72 faults; Liversedge, 128 faults; Holmfirth, 116 faults. Meltham were, therefore, declared winners.

Miss Wood, in presenting the cup to Mr. Whiteley, the Meltham conductor, congratulated the band on their success, Mr. Whiteley suitably replying.

Further visits to the belfry to try this delightful peal of bells, and other visits to another place to 'try one' with old friends, brought an enjoyable day to an end.

The next contest will be the prize contest.

A DEVON PEAL.CHRISTOW BELLS RESTORED.

The Parish Church bells at Christow were rededicated on Saturday, July 18th, by the Dean of Exeter (Dr. S. C. Carpenter) in the presence of a large number of parishioners and visitors.

The bells, which are a ring of six, were recast from four larger ones in 1785. They had been rung for over 150 years and had become badly worn. Cleaned, tuned, quarter-turned and entirely refitted at a cost of £300, the whole of which had been subscribed, they have been made into a melodious ring, and parishioners intend to add two to complete the octave.

The Dean gave an address, and other clergy taking part in the service were the Vicar (the Rev. G. Horne), the Rev. J. Snow (Bridford) and the Rev. E. V. Cox (Brampford Speke), president of the Devonshire Guild. Among the congregation were the Rev. A. N. C. Storrs (Whitestone), Rural Dean, Mr. T. Laver, hon. secretary of the Devonshire Guild, and Alderman C. J. Ross (Exeter). Miss Evelyn Ryall was at the organ and the rededication touch was by Christow ringers.

Following the service a band of ringers representing the Devonshire Guild, and conducted by the Rev. E. V. Cox, rang touches of Grandsire and Minor. Bands from Exeter and Bridford also kept the bells going merrily, and other ringers were present from Thorverton, Ide, Sidmouth, Kenn and Trusham.

Later proceedings in the shape of stalls, amusements, tea (provided by Miss D. Holman) and a dance in the Y.M.C.A. hut were held with a view to raising funds for augmenting the appeal.

The success of the undertaking, after many years of hard work, was referred to by Mr. E. Searle (people's warden), who attributed it mainly to the enthusiasm of Mr. E. J. Ryall, hon. secretary of the Parochial Church Council.

The parishioners were thanked for their support by Mr. Ryall, who said the effort had meant a great deal to church life in the parish.

PETERBOROUGH DIOCESAN GUILD.

By kind permission of the Rector, the Rev. F. A. Sadler, a quarterly meeting of the Wellingborough Branch of the Peterborough Diocesan Guild was held at Ecton on Saturday, July 18th.

The Guild service was held in the church during the afternoon, conducted by the Rector, who also gave an interesting address, the chief theme of which was partnership. Mr. J. Line, one of the local ringers, officiated at the organ.

Forty-one sat down to tea at the World's End Inn, amongst whom were the Rev. J. H. Smale, of Whiston, the Rev. F. A. Sadler and Mr. R. G. Black, hon. general secretary. The Rector, not being able to stay after tea, was thanked by the Rev. Smale (subsequent chairman of the meeting) for his interesting address and for the use of the bells.

Stanwick was chosen for the next meeting, it being four years since a meeting was held there.

The Rector was elected an honorary member, and three young ringers, also of Ecton, were elected ringing members.

Mention was made of the very sudden death of Mr. James Ward, a well-known Irthlingborough ringer, and of the loss of Dr. Crew, a honorary member, also through death.—The members stood a few moments in silent tribute.

Some of the company after the meeting enjoyed a walk round the grounds of Ecton Hall, through the courtesy of Lt.-Col. Sotheby.

The peal of six rather heavy bells were kept going during the afternoon and evening to various methods of Doubles and Minor.

AMONG THE AEROPLANES AT HANWORTH.

MIDDLESEX RINGERS' INTERESTING AFTERNOON.

The Middlesex County Association (South and West District) held a meeting at Feltham on July 18th. Ringing at St. Catherine's Church was restricted to the afternoon. This was due to an important Masonic function being held near the tower that day. In order to avoid postponing either event(!), negotiations between the Masonic officials and the district secretary resulted in the amicable arrangement as stated.

To avoid disappointing members, another attraction filled in the gap, and a very interesting hour was spent inspecting the works of the British Aircraft Manufacturing Co. at Hanworth Park. Tea, arranged at short notice, was held in the firm's canteen, after which the Ringing Master, Mr. W. H. Coles, led the way to the building in which he spends so much of his time!

Machines were seen in every stage of construction, from the first ribs to the twin engine machine that gained third place in the King's Cup Air Race held recently. It was a most interesting visit, and the chief surprise to everyone was the extreme lightness of construction. The only metal tubing used appeared to be in the engine seatings and the undercarriages, but the woodwork was a joy to inspect. The finished article certainly looked a deal safer than the early skeleton! Several of the visitors sat in a plane for the first time, and one young couple flew away (on the wings of imagination), piloted by the 'secretary-bloke!'

Mr. Coles and the firm were warmly thanked, the former for his painstaking explanations, etc., and the latter for permission to visit the works.

Later in the evening a visit to Bedfont was made in what are familiarly known as thundery showers. It is understood some of the visitors from London who walked to Bedfont expressed themselves in other terms when referring to the wetness!

The Vicar of Bedfont, the Rev. G. H. Bradley, was present to welcome the Guild, and stayed throughout the ringing to chat to members. Various Minor and Doubles methods were rung, the conductor pulling a face or shouting himself hoarse when a call came, according to his personality or lung power. The bells when rung create a terrible din in the ringing chamber.

The ringing at Feltham was very good indeed for a meeting, the methods rung ranging from Grandsire Triples to Spliced Surprise Major. Welcome visitors were Mr. Malcolm Melville, of the Warwickshire Guild, and the President and Chief Grabber of the Tower Grabbers' Union, who had forsaken his Kentish haunts to visit his former colleagues and demonstrate his prowess! A car load of little Coles and Goodfellows with their respective mammas also enlivened the gathering.

EVERY DAY OF THE YEAR.

MR. JAMES BENNETT'S ACHIEVEMENT.

As we recorded last week, Mr. James Bennett, of Lewisham, has now rung a peal on every one of the 366 dates in the year. Only two or three other ringers have done this, but Mr. Bennett has achieved this distinction in a less number of peals than any previous ringer. His total is still less than 900.

Mr. Bennett, who was formerly in the Royal Marines, has another distinction. He rang more peals while with the Forces than any other serving soldier, sailor or marine.

MR. JAMES BENNETT.

POPULAR KENT RINGER'S DEATH.

MR. J. P. COBBOLD, OF LITTLEBOURNE.

The Littlebourne band of the Canterbury District (Kent County Association) has suffered a severe loss by the death of Mr. James Peter Cobbold, which occurred on Tuesday, July 21st, at the age of 60 years.

Although Mr. Cobbold had not been in his usual good health of late, his death came as a great shock to all who knew him, as only on the previous Saturday he had attended the annual outing of the choir and ringers to Eastbourne.

As headmaster of Littlebourne Schools, he was very popular with both scholars and parishioners. He had been a ringer at the Parish Church for a period of nearly 30 years, was secretary of the local band for a number of years, and he was also secretary of the Parochial Church Council.

Mr. Cobbold had only rung two peals, his main interest being in regular attendance for Sunday service ringing and practice. He had also officiated at the organ for the district meetings.

A large congregation met at the Parish Church to pay a last tribute of respect on the occasion of the funeral on July 25th. Fifty of his scholars lined the pathway from the lych gate to the church.

The service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. C. A. Manley) and was fully choral. Among the many floral tributes was one from the ringers and choir. The bells were rung half-muffled both before and after the service.

The presence of Mr. Cobbold will be greatly missed by his brother ringers, his quiet, yet pleasing, personality making him many fast friends.

Much sympathy has been expressed with the widow and two daughters left in bereavement.

CAVERSHAM BELLS.

To the Editor.

Sir,—On reading last week's issue of 'The Ringing World,' I noticed an outing by the Crawley ringers, who visited Caversham, where the old bells, recently put on ball bearings locally, gave the impression that something more would be desirable. I should have thanked any of them if they had told me the least thing they thought was wrong, instead of putting in print a statement which seems to imply that the work was not properly done, which I maintain is not true. I have been connected with the Caversham tower and church since 1874, and, being the oldest ringer in Caversham, I was asked by the church authorities and ringers to supervise the work, test the bells and report to them, which I did, and it was that all the work according to contract was properly done, and that the guarantee that the bells would be left in perfect ringing order had been fulfilled. All connected with the bells are perfectly satisfied with that report. It seems to me that the writer must have a preference for some particular firm, or else it is the case of a bad workman finding fault with his tools.

T. NEWMAN.

COMMENTS 'NOT IN GOOD TASTE.'

Sir,—The report contained in your issue of 17th inst. of the outing by the Crawley men strikes me as not being quite in accordance with good taste. I read the band visited Caversham, where the bells had lately been rehung locally.

For the information of your readers, I may say that they have been rehung in ball bearings by Richard White, of Appleton, who is carrying on a tradition of four generations. The present 'go' of the bells is such that any band who 'ring' can ring them. The band eventually arrived at Harwell, where the old six were 'restored and augmented to eight by Messrs. . . . A very fine job.' I will not comment on this, having rung at Harwell on several occasions since the rehanging.

On goes the band to Newbury, a grand old eight which were 'done up' by a certain firm. What an expression to apply to good craftsmanship and solid work! Those of us who knew what it was to slog from treble to tenor in the old days when ringing a peal there can thoroughly appreciate what was done, and now trebles are added, perfect to the eight, one can ring and listen with real pleasure, as stated, to one of the nicest tens for their weight in the country.

The foregoing remarks are made in fairness to all concerned, but I think when bells are applied for, and permission granted to ring, comments, adverse or otherwise, should not be made in the Press; neither should any band constitute themselves advertising agents for any particular firm of bellhangers.

A. D. CULLUM.

DEATH OF MR. WILLIAM FLORY.

SUFFOLK LINK WITH DISTANT PAST.

The death occurred on Tuesday week at Ipswich Hospital of Mr. William Flory, of Framlingham, Suffolk, whose long life had made him a link with ringers of a distant past.

Mr. Flory was 81 years of age and was taken ill on July 4th. He was hurriedly removed to hospital, where an operation was performed. This, however, afforded only temporary relief, and he passed peacefully away on July 21st.

Mr. Flory was born at Tannington in 1855. As a boy of ten years of age, he began to ring Grandsire on the old peal of five (all cast by J. Darbie in 1661). After mastering Doubles, he used to walk across the fields to Worlingworth, where he rang Minor with the old Worlingworth ringers, J. Clayton (grandfather to the late Fred Clayton), G. Warne, L. Creasy, F. Newson, J. Newson (who lived to be 100 years old), R. Collins, sen., and David and Edgar Collins. His first peal was one of Bob Major at Framlingham in 1880, and his last in the same tower in 1925. Altogether he rang 82 peals, six of which were on handbells.

The funeral took place on Saturday last, the following ringers attending: Messrs. W. E. Malden, H. and J. Hall, A. Taylor, W. Norman and W. G. Crickmer.

A PEAL WITHDRAWN.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—With reference to the report of a peal of Bob Major, published as having been rung at Ospringe, Kent, on June 1st, I wish to withdraw it. Owing to a mistake, entirely my own fault, the peal was false. With apologies to the band for my forgetfulness.

WARWICKSHIRE GUILD.

A MEETING AT SOUTHAM.

The summer quarterly meeting of the Warwickshire Guild was held at the old market town of Southam on Saturday, July 18th. The bells, a good peal, with tenor 15½ cwt. in E, were augmented from six to eight by Taylor and Co. in 1913, and 'go' excellently. Ringing began about 3.30, and touches of Grandsire Doubles and Triples and Cambridge Surprise Minor were rung. A short service was held, at which the Rector (the Rev. O. M. Jones) gave an inspiring address.

Tea was partaken of at the Craven Arms, members with friends and wives from Bulkington, Coventry, Brinklow, Leamington, Nuneaton and Rugby being present.

The business meeting followed, the Rector taking the chair. The secretary (Mr. M. Melville) being away on holidays, Mr. J. W. H. White (Ringing Master) undertook the duties.

It was decided to hold the meeting for August at Monks Kirby, for September at Old Bilton, and for October at Bedworth.

One new member was elected and three elections were ratified.

Mr. C. H. Webb mentioned that 'The Ringing World' should have better support. The Rector said he would bring this matter before the clergy of the Guild and ask for their support. He also said he would take a copy himself each week.

A vote of thanks to the Rector for his address and the use of the bells, and to the organist for his services, brought the meeting to a close.

The tower was again visited and the bells kept going until 8 o'clock.

TAMPERING WITH COMPOSITIONS.

Another unpleasant revelation regarding the previously accepted truth of a composition has just been made. This time it is a peal of Treble Bob, which has been rung on a great many occasions and now turns out to be false in an abridged version. Some years ago Mr. F. Robinson, a Yorkshire ringer, composed a peal of Treble Bob in three parts which runs to 5,184 changes and, in that form, is perfectly true. But someone, wishing to shorten it, put an alternative calling in one course of one part. It is fatal to the truth of the peal. In another column we publish a list of no fewer than eighteen 'peals' which have been rung with this curtailed variation and which are now withdrawn. This list, which comes from Mr. C. H. Kippin, the hon. secretary of the Surrey Association, which seems to be the chief sufferer in its records, does not exhaust the occasions on which the false composition has been rung.

Probably this is the most extensive instance of false peals rung from one composition and we hope the moral of it will not be lost. It should prove conclusively to everyone the danger of tampering with compositions, unless one has complete knowledge of the subject. Only a couple of years or so ago, a peal of Cambridge Surprise Royal, composed by the late Mr. William Pye, was rung in which, in order to produce 'better music,' three 'home' bobs were omitted from one place and put in at the end to bring 5-6 at home at three course ends. That alteration made the peal false. The man who thought he was clever enough to reduce the length of Mr. Robinson's peal of Treble Bob apparently did not know that a peal in this method, as in many others, can be false without a repetition of the lead ends.

When a ringer without sufficient knowledge of the subject looks at the figures of a peal by a reputable composer and thinks he can 'improve' them, he should remember that there is probably a reason—the vital reason of truth—why they are in the particular form in which they appear and that it is dangerous to interfere with them. How many false peals have been rung in the past through inexperienced people 'improving' compositions no one can tell, but in the case of this peal of Treble Bob we see what unfortunate results can come of it. The man who suffers is not the one who alters the original composition, the sufferers are the men who ring it. There is wasted effort and time and money, to say nothing of disappointment, while records, both private and association, are affected. This instance should also be a warning to conductors. There are many who call peals who do not know anything about compositions, and take the figures of a peal on trust. When they are presented with a new peal by a new composer, or with an improved edition of a composition they should take steps to satisfy themselves of its truth before they attempt to call it. Above all, however, the inexperienced composer should be wary of tampering with other people's work.

FOR BEGINNERS.

RAISING AND FALLING IN PEAL.

In the earliest days of bellringing there were no stays or sliders used for holding the bells when they were up and not being rung. The consequence was that each time before ringing could take place the bells had to be raised, and had to be lowered again before the ringers could leave the ropes. Stedman in his treatise on change ringing laid great emphasis on the proper raising and falling of the bells in peal, and in those days the ability to do so was very important.

With the introduction of stays and sliders, the need for raising the bells in peal became less necessary, and in this twentieth century there are many towers in the country where the bells are raised and lowered indiscriminately. Sometimes, after some excellent ringing, bells are let down, in a jangle, thus spoiling the effect of the previous efforts. Often Sunday service ringing is spoilt by the same method of lowering the bells. Raising and falling in peal is by no means generally practised, and yet if well done it can be really effective; indeed, the accurate lowering of bells in peal makes a beautiful finish to any ringing, and young ringers should not neglect to acquire proficiency in it.

But raising and falling in peal needs practice; just as any other form of ringing requires practice. The secret of lowering bells accurately in peal is keeping control over the bells all the way down. This does not mean, of course, that a bell half-way down can be 'held' as can a bell which is being rung full up; but it is possible so to handle the bell that it can be 'felt' all the way down, so that a very slight check on the rope will serve to put it a little closer, or a slight pull will keep it a shade wider. There is no place for 'sloppy' ringing, when the bells are running down, any more than when change ringing is being practised.

The bells, of course, begin at the usual 'rounds' pace, and then gradually close in to a quicker compass as they fall. The treble-man must keep his bell at the 'opposite stroke' to the tenor as long as his bell is 'sallying'—that is, as long as a handstroke can be distinguished from a backstroke.

The heavier the bells the slower the fall must inevitably be, but one of the most important things to remember is that the bells should keep 'coming down,' not get partly down and stay there, or start getting up again. The fall of the treble should be steady and continuous, and accommodated to the speed at which the tenor comes down. A good deal, therefore, depends upon the speed set by the tenor ringer, and every man must use his ears so that the striking is smooth and the ever-lessening intervals between the bells are as regular as, although faster than, good round ringing with the bells going full circle.

THE NEED FOR USING ONE'S EARS.

The need for using one's ears is all important. A bell too fast or too slow for the others will soon turn a fall into a jangle. If a ringer finds he is breaking the compass by being too wide he must check his bell, but at the next stroke he will probably find he must give it a little 'pull,' otherwise in the following stroke he will be too low, and possibly hitting the bell in front. If he is too close he must, of course, pull his bell a trifle until he gets back to the right interval; but pulling or checking should not be done to excess. The ideal is, naturally, to keep the bell in its right place all the time.

In raising in peal, the process required is a steady pull at every stroke. In the old days a rise was not considered perfect, unless all the bells spoke at the second stroke. One seldom hears that now. The treble and then the other bells are swung so as to strike at a short interval after each other, the heavier bells gradually joining in. The treble is then swung higher and higher, while the others strike at such intervals that the whole of them sound before the next blow of the treble. The intervals are gradually widened out, until eventually the bells are up and under full command.

It is equally as important to keep the bells going higher and higher with each pull, in raising, as it is to keep them running down when falling; indeed, the ringers will find their task involves additional hard work if they do not keep the bells going up. If two bells are clashing, more weight must be put on the heavier one to 'lift' it away from the other, but it may then be necessary to check a little, otherwise at the next blow the gap may be too wide.

The trebleman must pay careful attention to his work. A great deal depends upon him, and he must endeavour to keep the 'rise' going at a regular rate of progression, otherwise he may throw the whole of the bells into a heap. Raising the treble needs practice, and the best way to get it is to lash the clappers of the treble and tenor bells; then let the tenorman gradually pull his bell up, while the treble-man keeps his bell exactly at the opposite stroke.

It would be far better for the public if more ringers would raise and lower their bells in peal. It would also give a far more effective beginning and end to the change ringing. If details could be gathered, we believe it would be found that raising and falling in peal is done by a greater percentage of call change ringers than by those who practise scientific change ringing. Yet it ought not to be so. Raising and falling in peal takes very little, if any, longer than pulling the bells up or letting them down singly, while the effect is infinitely better. But it requires practice and we are not sure that such practice would not also improve the standard of striking in change ringing of the band which took this course.

FALSE COURSE ENDS.

WHAT THEY ARE AND HOW THEY AFFECT COMPOSITION.

By J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

Treble Bob Methods on six bells, provided they are symmetrical, and do not contain four places made in the same change, will always give the extent of the rows, but of the enormous number of Treble Bob methods on eight bells, only a very small proportion will give a true peal of even five thousand changes.

In Minor, if the lead-heads and lead-ends are different, all the interior rows will be different also; but in Major it is possible to have all the lead-heads and ends true, and yet to have internal repetition. In Superlative, for instance, there are two courses—those beginning with 13246578 and 14326578—which contain rows which are also included in the plain course, and it is obvious that if you ring the whole of the plain course and the whole of either of these two courses, your peal will be false; and not only so, but for every full course you ring there are two others that you must not ring.

The first thing, therefore, before you can compose a true peal in any Treble Bob or Surprise Major method, is to find out if it has any courses which contain rows which are also included in the plain course. Those courses are said to be false against the plain course, and their course ends are the False Course Ends of the Method. When no other course (with the tenors together) includes any row also included in the plain course, the method is said to have a "clear proof scale," and peals can be composed with the same freedom as in plain methods. But such methods are rare, and even in them, when the tenors are parted, search must be made for internal falseness.

Now suppose in a method the course beginning with 12436578 contains some row which is also in the plain course, it will follow that the course 43265 will contain rows included in the course 42356, and so, for every full course you use there is one which you must not use. The presence, then, of only one false course end automatically reduces the number of full courses you can use to one half. You might suppose that the presence of a second false course end would reduce the number still further to one quarter; and that does happen, but, fortunately, not always.

There are sixty possible full courses with the tenors together, and on the face of it there seems no reason why any one of the other fifty-nine should not be false against the plain course; but when I was preparing the new book on Surprise I wrote out many thousands of methods. I worked out the false course ends of some eight hundred, and I found that of the methods most suitable for practical ringing, while very few of them had a clear proof scale, the great majority had one or more of seven false course ends. These false course ends are:—

D 46253	F 32465
E 65432	G 43265
C 53624

Of these, B was the most common and the only one which appears alone. The others (for reasons which I will not now go into) always come in pairs. If you get A you get D; if you get C you get E; and if you get F you get G.

These seven false course ends belong to two groups, one of five, the other of three (B being common to both groups), and, fortunately, they have a certain quality which makes it possible to get a true peal in the methods which contain them.

The members of the group A B C D E are related to each other in the same way as the course ends of the five courses, produced by calling bobs Before:—

56342

Suppose A B C D and E were all false against the plain course, then, if you work out the courses false against the other four, you will find that they are all the same. The same courses that are false against 23456 are false against 35264, 56342, and the other two. So that, instead of having five courses false against each true course, you have a group of five false against another group of five. Thus you can set the sixty possible course-ends down in twelve groups each of five; and half the groups will be false against the other half. This will give you thirty true courses to work with, or a possible number of 6,720 changes.

The second group contains three members, and if you set down 23456, 42356 and 34256 you will find that they share each other's false course ends. You can write down the sixty course ends in twenty groups, ten of which are false against the other ten, and again you have thirty true courses, or 6,720 changes to work with.

When you have got your thirty true courses you can compose your peal by joining a sufficient number of them together, in the same way that you compose peals in plain methods, except that you have less material to work with, and, as it happens, enough of the thirty true courses (in both cases) can be joined together in a number of ways. It might not have been so. There is another group of false course ends which will give thirty true courses, but so far no way has been discovered of joining a sufficient number of them together to make a peal.

I 32654
K 63542

It will be noticed that they are related to each other in the same way as the five courses of the block of Double Bob or Cambridge produced by calling M.W. in every course, and so it is possible to get peals true for methods in which the incidence of the falseness does not fall between the Middle and the Wrong, but such methods are rare.

When the false course ends of a method are confined to either of the first two groups, composition is comparatively easy, but when a method has false course ends from both groups or any of the many others outside them, peals are almost an impossibility.

Cambridge has five false course ends, A B D F G, and, as is well known, it has only one true peal with tenors together. Its falseness, however, is not due to the number of the false course ends, but to the fact that two belong to one group and two to the other, the fifth being common to both groups. If the two missing members of the first group C and E had been present there would have been no greater liability to falseness.

We have been told many times that the falseness of the method is due to its faulty construction, four places being made in the second section. But these four places are not necessarily the cause of the methods' falseness. They give the false course ends A and D, which you get in Kent Treble Bob. It is the presence also of F and G which come from the fourth section which causes the trouble. There are methods in which these four places occur and give no false course ends at all.

In the early days, men did not realise that Treble Bob Major methods could be false internally although the lead ends were true. They had composed and rung many Minor methods, and as these always gave a true extent, if the lead ends were true, men took the same thing for granted in Major. Baldwin, who composed the first peal of Oxford ever rung, used, by good luck, four of the five true groups, and his composition was all right; but later men were less fortunate.

There was a method called Morning Exercise, which is Oxford Treble Bob above the treble and Cambridge Surprise below, and had at the time a reputation as great as London Surprise has now. It has eight false course ends with the tenors together, and though Shipway afterwards claimed that he had composed a true peal of it, for ordinary purposes it is hopeless.

Dear Sir,—It may interest the Exercise to know that the late William Pye was the first person to ring a peal on every one of the 366 dates in the year upon eight, ten or twelve bells, one being upon handbells. The first person to do this upon eight, ten or twelve tower bells was myself. This I completed on January 3rd, 1931, and it was my 1,104th peal. I have great pleasure in congratulating my friend Mr. James Bennett upon his great success. We are now the only two ringers that have ever attained the unique distinction of ringing a peal upon every one of the 366 dates in the year upon eight, ten or twelve tower bells.

Although one course may contain rows which are also included in another, it does not follow that the whole of one is false against the other, and parts of false courses can often be used in a composition. Sometimes, too, by calling a bob Before in every course the leads liable to internal repetition are cut out and the available extent of the method much increased. When, too, there are few false course ends it is often possible to use a course from a group and another course from the group false against it. But these are details with which it is impossible to deal in a short article.

Both 'Rope-Sight' and 'Standard Methods' are now in their ninth edition. The price of these two books and others of the Snowdon series will be found in an advertisement.

The annual commemoration dinner to the memory of the late Jasper Whitfield Snowdon and past officers of the Yorkshire Association will be held at York on Saturday, October 10th. Full particulars will be given in our notices columns in due course.

Congratulations to Mr. Nolan Golden, of Northrepps, Norwich, on his marriage, which took place on Wednesday. Mr. Golden is hon. secretary of the North and South Branches of the Norwich Diocesan Association, and last Wednesday week he rang his 300th peal for the association.

The wedding took place at Checkendon, Oxon, the bride being Miss Iris Marjorie Daly, of Checkendon. The address of Mr. and Mrs. Golden will be 26, Brabazon Road, Norwich.

Mr. S. Lawrenson, of Poulton-le-Fylde, Lancs, who rang a peal at Kirkham on Saturday, is the first Poulton ringer to score a peal, although there has been a ring of six bells in his parish church tower for 225 years.

This week a fairly large company is touring in Somerset, although their intention, we believe, is not centred on more than one peal attempt a day, unless they can make up two bands. But on Saturday week a party bent on 'two a day' is going north and will assemble at Newcastle.

The 'bachelors' will, we understand, have their week at the beginning of September, and on September 12th a tour in Ireland is to begin.

The housing shortage in Middlesex appears to be growing more acute, for the Master of the Middlesex Association lives in Hertfordshire, one of the joint hon. secretaries resides in Essex, and the other joint secretary has now gone to live in Bucks.

Messrs. Gillett and Johnston have received the order to rehang the ring of six bells in a new frame, and add two trebles to complete a ring of eight, at Okehampton, Devonshire.

BURTON HASTINGS IS OFF THE MAP.

BUT IT WANTS CORONATION BELLS.

A little village in Warwickshire, four or five miles from Nuneaton, one mile from the Watling Street which divides the counties of Leicester and Warwick, and about three miles from Hinckley and two from Wolvey, Burton Hastings has a population of about 200 souls, mostly engaged in agricultural work, small farmers and labourers. It is separated from the main roads and has no omnibus service or means of transport. Therefore, it is little known. In fact, it is 'off the map.' It has no amenities for recreation, no public-house, no cinema or public hall. Its only public buildings are a minute school and a beautiful little fifteenth century church.

In the tower of this church is the death-watch beetle. The pest has eaten into the woodwork of the belfry so that it has become a source of danger, and for some years now the peal of bells has not been rung. Thus the village has been deprived of an interest, art and recreation which countrymen enjoy in many villages—bellringing!

It is our desire and aim that these bells should be put into repair before the Coronation of King Edward next year and that they should resound once more through the countryside on that great day. The cost will approximately be £300.

The resources of this village are very slender indeed, and we are obliged to appeal for help beyond the boundaries of the parish if we are going to do this. We should like to do it in memory of King George and to crown King Edward, not in silence, but with the pealing of bells in every place—even in Burton Hastings.

Time passes quickly and this work will take some time to do. It must be put in hand soon if it is to be completed by next May. In fact it is a case of he (or she) who gives quickly gives twice.

Burton Hastings at present possesses three bells (one cracked), and the object in view is to rehang the three with frames for five or six in the hope that some day the peal may be completed.

Subscriptions towards this appeal should be sent to any of the following:—

The Rev. Mostyn Robinson (Vicar of Burton Hastings), Wolvey Vicarage, Hinckley.
Mr. A. Atkins, The Old Vicarage, Burton Hastings, Hinckley.
Mr. A. Geary, Burton Hastings, Nuneaton.
Mr. J. H. Beale, Shelford, Wolvey, Hinckley.

DEATH OF MR. JAMES JACKSON.

AN OLD PONTEFRAC TINGER.

On Monday, July 27th, on the bells of Pontefract Parish Church, muffled touches of Grandsire and Stedman Triples were rung preceding the funeral of Mr. James Jackson, an old Parish Church ringer.

Mr. Jackson joined the Yorkshire Association in 1894 and had rung 26 peals. Until a few years ago, when he retired owing to ill-health, he was most regular in attendance Sunday by Sunday in the belfry.

His funeral was attended by members of the Parish Church and All Saints' companies. During Mr. Jackson's long and painful illness it was always a pleasure to him when his colleagues called to talk of the old times in the belfry.

VICTORIA CATHEDRAL BELLS DEDICATED.

THOUSANDS THRILLED BY NEW PEAL.

Great Rally of Former English Ringers.

The new peal of eight bells, a replica of those at Westminster Abbey, which were cast at Whitechapel and blessed by the Bishop of London at the unique ceremony held at the Bell Foundry three months ago, have been installed in Christ Church Cathedral, Victoria, British Columbia, and dedicated with due ceremonial at an impressive service.

It will be recalled that the six larger bells, offered in the year of the silver jubilee of their Majesties, King George V. and Queen Mary, are the gift of Mrs. Mary city and the length and breadth of the Island thousands of others listened to the radio broadcast of an incident which will pass down in ecclesiastical history as epochal.

Fine weather favoured the occasion, and after the dedicatory service, when the congregation from inside the Cathedral joined those outside to listen to the half-hour peal, the streets were filled with a multitude of unprecedented dimensions. Many, deeply moved by the associations, listened with tears coursing down their cheeks.

The form of service used was that with which ringers in this country are familiar, and in which prayers, hymns and address were all specially appropriate to the occasion. The actual ceremony was performed by the Rt. Rev. H. E. Sexton, Bishop of Columbia, the service being conducted by the Dean, the Very Rev. C. S. Quinton. It opened with an exhortation to the congregation to 'humbly pray that our heavenly Father will favourably approve our present purpose of dedicating these bells to His service,' and to implore divine assistance in the undertaking.

The two treble bells, recording the life and work of two honoured residents of Victoria, John Samuel Henry Matson and John Robert Meredith Matson, are the gift of Ada Teresa Matson, in loving memory of her husband and son.

THE SERVICE.

The dedication took place on Sunday, July 12th. No event in church history in Victoria, said the Victoria 'Daily Colonist,' has attracted such a throng as listened on Sunday afternoon to the first peal rung.

Every seat in the great edifice was filled; hundreds of others packed the adjacent streets and the old Quadra Park, and throughout the

Then followed the hymn, 'Come, thou Holy Spirit, come.' Bishop Sexton recited intercessional prayers, for worshippers; for the ringers; for those who shall be married; for the sick; for the dying, and for the donors who had 'offered and provided these bells for Thy service in this Cathedral Church.'

During the singing of Psalm 150, 'O praise God in His holiness,' the Bishop, the Dean, the Canons and churchwardens formed a procession and moved to the foot of the tower, where the Bishop offered the solemn dedicatory prayer:—

'O Almighty God, Who by the mouth of Thy servant Moses didst command to make silver trumpets for the calling of solemn assemblies; be pleased to accept the offering of these bells; bless, sanctify and hallow them to Thy glory and service, and grant that through this generation and those that are yet to come, they may continually call together Thy faithful people to praise and worship Thy holy name.'

The bells then rang out for the first time, and thousands inside and outside the Cathedral were thrilled at the grandeur of the tones which swelled from the tower. For five minutes the bells rang out, those taking part in the ringing being Messrs. E. W. Izard (Glasgow), R. Carrier (Bedford), A. C. Melhuish (Bath), T. Guest (Leigh, Lancs).

H. Lingham (Northfleet, Kent), J. E. Hutchings (Dittisham, Devon), A. Trotman (Long Bredey, Dorset) and E. Weatherby (Guildford). When the bells had ceased the hymn, 'All people that on earth do dwell,' was sung and an address was given by the Dean.

THE VOICE OF RECOLLECTION, INVITATION AND ACTION.

He chose his text from Corinthians xiv. 10: 'There are so many voices in the world, and none of them is without signification.'

St. Paul had had in mind particular voices; but he went on from that to speak of the universal. Dean Quainton brought the subject up to the immediate and present by speaking of the 'voices' which different craftsmen could produce with different media. One craftsman with ivory keys and pipes could produce an organ; another, with metal, could produce bells. Such 'voices' were very much more than mere vibration of the atmosphere. They were sacramental things, vehicles of emotion and of ideas.

'What, we are asking, what shall our bells, now being dedicated, say to us?' the Dean asked. 'Their message will be as varied as the people who are listening to them. To one man they will say one thing; to another, another thing. But in a general way they will be to each one of us at least three things: The voice of recollection; the voice of invitation; the voice of action.'

The Dean traced the long association of bells with church history in England, where ultimately they influenced ecclesiastical architecture, and from the ancient church towers bells clanged out summoning soldiers to arms, citizens to their counsels, and rejoicings and alarms of various kinds.

Bells, in fact, linked us with our past. In Canada they gave a steady sense of continuity with a historic past. Made in London, these particular bells hung in Christ Church Cathedral were 'a veritable echo of great old Westminster Abbey,' of whose bells they were a replica. They also inevitably reminded all Old Country people of 'green old England and the peaceful English countryside.'

'There may be some who think that the bells will be an asset to Victoria; that they will add to its atmosphere; attract the California tourist. But let us not forget that the chief duty of the bells is to call us to church, and through the church to Christ,' the Dean reminded his listeners. It was to be hoped that they would not only summon the Anglican worshippers to their places of worship, but the Roman Catholic to his Mass, the United Churchman, the Baptist, the Salvation Army followers to their respective services. For these were city bells, in an Anglican home, under Anglican care, intended to call all people to worship.

As in the past, bells had so often called people in the old lands to action, sometimes against an enemy, so could these bells call to action, to dispel the evils of hate and social injustice, to defend the people's liberties at all cost, to worship, and to prayer—a challenge to action, a symbol of the Church of Christ on the march, a great instrument for social salvation and international peace.

In this service of dedication there should specially be remembered the donors of the bells; also the Bishop of London, who had shown such an interest in Christ Church Cathedral, and who had gone down to the ancient foundry of Messrs. Mears and Stainbank, in London, to take part in the dedication of the casting of the bells; Ven. Archdeacon E. P. Laycock, who was also present at that service; and the bellringers.

Very especially on this occasion would everyone think of the late King George V., after whom the great tenor bell was named; the four Bishops of Columbia; George Hills, William Willcox Perrin, Augustine Scriven and Charles de Veber Schofield; and those who were commemorated in this gift of bells: Charles Raymond Nutt, John Samuel Henry Matson and John Robert Meredith Matson.

A prayer in commemoration of the departed was offered, especially for the late Sovereign King George V., the four Bishops of Columbia, 'by whose devoted labours the foundations of the Church's work in this western land have been well and truly laid and extended.'

After a brief service, the bells were rung muffled, and their majestic tones heard thus for the first time were deeply impressive. The service concluded with the hymn, 'When morning gilds the skies,' the National Anthem and 'The Blessing.'

RALLY OF RINGERS.

Proceedings in the Belfry.

Mr. Anthony E. Trotman has sent us the following interesting description of the erection of the bells and the ringers' great efforts to do justice to the great occasion.

The bells, says Mr. Trotman, arrived on Saturday, June 27th, by the S.S. 'Nareuta,' having come via the Panama Canal. They were immediately unloaded and placed on the ground outside the north-west tower of the Cathedral, where they remained on view to the public until Sunday, July 5th. Between Thursday, the 2nd, and Saturday, the 4th, the girders were raised and cemented in position. On Monday, July 6th, the bells were hauled up—all in one day. The slides, stays, pulleys and ropes were fitted and tested on the Tuesday and Wednesday, and the bells were tried for the first time (silent) on Thursday, July 8th—no mean feat for amateurs! Mr. E. W. Izard was in charge of the installation and supervised everything down to the tightening of the last bolt.

A great effort had been made to get together all the 'old country' ringers who could be 'ferreted out' in Victoria and other Vancouver Island settlements. As most of them had not even seen a bell-rope for 25 or 30 years, three practices were held on the bells with their clappers tied. The necessity of these practices was soon proved, even though it was mostly 'rounds' that were rung. In addition, Mr. A. C. Limpus brought his team of stalwarts from Vancouver, which saved the day as far as change ringing went. Also, Mr. Ernest Weatherby came all the way from Los Angeles, California, U.S.A., specially for the occasion—2,000 miles. Can you beat that?

However, eight men were found among the 'islanders' competent enough to manage their bells, so it was decided to let this 'local' band ring rounds during the dedication service, and to let the Vancouver band have their fill afterwards, aided by such islanders as could ring changes.

HOISTING THE TENOR BELL UP THE CATHEDRAL TOWER.

Perhaps it would be as well at this point to describe the geography of this locality. Victoria is the capital city of the province of British Columbia. It is situated at the south end of Vancouver's Island—so called because Capt. Vancouver was the first to circumnavigate it and prove that it was an island. The island (believe it or not) is equal to the length of England without Scotland. The city of Vancouver is not on the island, but is the westernmost terminal city of the Canadian mainland. To get from Victoria to Vancouver or vice versa one has to travel nearly 100 miles over water. The disposition of this locality is not unlike the Continent of Australia and the island of Tasmania.

The morning of July 12th turned out to be very wet. It poured and poured with rain, but Providence was very kind (as indeed she always is). Just about midday the rain ceased, the sun broke through and by 3.30 p.m., when the dedication service began, it was a beautiful July afternoon.

IN THE BELFRY.

At 2.30 p.m., after an excellent lunch at the Windermere Hotel, at which the Vancouver ringers were entertained, a move was made to the tower. The bells were rung up (still tied) and then unlashed. As can be imagined, there was much speculation as to how they would sound, since no one had yet heard them. At last, after some(!) of waiting, the order came to 'stand to,' the signal to ring the peal was given, and then—the most majestic sound you ever heard! After about 2½ minutes, 'stand' was ordered, and every bell was 'set'—a miracle, since it was the first successful 'stand' we had yet had. The tenseness of the past hour was relieved by a burst of clapping all round, and 'wonderful,' 'beautiful,' 'grand' and 'super' were the epithets used to describe the bells.

Messrs. Mears and Stainbank cannot be congratulated sufficiently on the musical and mechanical qualities of the bells. The speed with which we were able to set them in the tower is ample proof of the latter. The peal is in the key of D flat, the tenor weighing 30 cwt. The next thing we shall hear is that Westminster Abbey wants to exchange them for her own.

A few minutes later and another lot of rounds was rung, this time half-muffled, to commemorate H.M. King George V., Bishop Schofield, Capt. Nutt, John Samuel Henry Matson and John Meredith Matson.

Bishop Schofield died only a fortnight ago, a few hours after he first saw the bells. He took a very keen interest in the peal, and all are sorry that he was not spared to hear them.

After the service several touches of Grandsire Triples and sets of rounds were rung. The bells were also in use for about three-quarters of an hour before and after evening service. Though a Stedman band could have been formed, it was decided to ring Grandsire well rather than Stedman indifferently.

At 9.30 p.m. the bells were rung down and a great day in the life of Victoria and its ringers came to an end. Only those who have been separated from bells for years at a stretch can realise what these bells—the westernmost peal in the world—mean to the ringers (and, indeed, the public) of this neighbourhood. The writer heard of one old couple, almost in their nineties, who hadn't heard bells for half a century. They 'listened in,' but after about half a minute they were compelled to turn it off. The emotion was too great.

Our most hearty thanks are extended to Mrs. Mozley and Mrs. Matson for their truly wonderful gift.

The ringers in the tower included: Vancouver Island ringers: E. W. Izard (Glasgow), R. Carrier (Bedford), Mrs. Carrier (formerly Miss Evelyn May, of Cranleigh, Surrey), Lieut.-Commander C. H. Brown (St. Budeaux, Devon), A. C. Melhuish (Bath), T. Guest (Leigh, Lancs), H. Lingham (Northfleet, Kent), J. E. Hutchings (Dittisham, Devon), S. G. Knight (London and Northampton), C. A. Gil (Probus, Cornwall), L. Keridge (Ipswich), W. P. Jenne (Swansea), H. E. Hawking (St. Ives, Cornwall), R. Ponsford (Totnes, Devon), G. W. Cornwell (Beverley, Yorks), A. Trotman (Long Bredy, Dorset). Vancouver City ringers: A. C. Limpus (Twickenham), G. W. Foster (Borden, Kent), F. Hird (Guiseley, Yorks), A. Lomas (Macclesfield, Cheshire), A. King (London), T. Greenaway (Reading), W. Sampson (Exeter). Apart from these there were Mr. E. Weatherby, of Los Angeles, U.S.A. (Guildford) and a Mr. Bates, from Saskatchewan.

Finally, it may be as well to add that a band of a dozen scouts is being trained in change ringing in an attempt to get the 'native sons of Canada' to take up the art. They can already ring a plain course of Grandsire Triples on handbells, one or two double-handed. They are now learning rope-sight.

BISHOP SCHOFIELD'S DEATH.

The late Bishop Schofield, through whose instrumentality the bells at Victoria were installed, died with tragic suddenness. During one of the days the bells were on exhibition at the foot of the tower he was showing them to some friends. Afterwards he walked across the street, then collapsed and died. He had seen the promise of his great scheme fulfilled, but he did not live to hear the bells sound from the tower.

The bells were installed in the tower by Yarrows, Ltd., of Esquimalt, under the superintendence of Mr. E. W. Izard, full working drawings and instructions having, of course, been sent out by the founders, Messrs. Mears and Stainbank. Except for a few minor adjustments, the ringers found them in splendid shape for ringing.

Mr. A. C. Limpus, who has charge of the bells at the Cathedral of the Holy Rosary, Vancouver, was the first ringer to arrive from that city. He reached Victoria on Thursday, July 9th, and was joined by the other Vancouver ringers on Sunday morning. Mr. Pitman was to have joined the party, but two days before met with a serious accident, when a car in which he was riding was demolished by a railway train at a level crossing.

In the tower the bells are very noisy, but this is to be remedied by the provision of an additional floor between the ringers and the bells and a layer of sound resisting material. The noise, which drowned the voice of the conductor, caused the first touch attempted to be lost, but the first 364 was rung on the bells by A. C. Limpus 1, G. W. Foster (conductor) 2, E. Weatherby 3, F. Hird 4, A. King 5, W. Sampson 6, A. B. Lomas 7, T. Greenaway 8.

On the following Sunday evening at the Cathedral of the Holy Rosary, Vancouver, a well-struck touch of 504 Grandsire Triples was rung by A. C. Limpus 1, A. King 2, F. M. Bressey 3, E. Weatherby 4, F. Hird 5, G. W. Foster 6, W. Sampson 7, T. Greenaway 8.

The Lord Mayor of London is to visit Vancouver this autumn. When he arrives the ceremony is to be broadcast to England. Mr. Limpus informs us that the bells of the Cathedral of the Holy Rosary will be rung, and he hopes they will be heard by ringers on this side of the Atlantic.

RINGERS' OUTINGS.

IN THE WORCESTER DISTRICT.

On Saturday, July 25th, the Wicken and district ringers had their annual outing, when they visited the Worcester district. The first call was at Tysoe, not far from Banbury, where Bob Minor and Cambridge Surprise were rung. Travelling via Stratford-on-Avon, Worcester was reached about 11.45.

Permission had been given to ring on the peal of twelve at the Cathedral, a pleasure which had been eagerly anticipated by all. Rounds on the twelve were first rung. Then came a course of Stedman Caters on the back ten, followed by Cambridge Major on the middle eight, the ringing concluding with more rounds on the twelve. After lunch at the Co-operative Cafe, Malvern Link was visited and some good work put in with the bells before going on to Upton-on-Severn, where touches of Grandsire and Cambridge were rung before a good 'run down.' Tea at Bredon was followed by a visit to Hinton-on-the-Green, where Superlative, Grandsire and Double Norwich were brought round. Going on to Evesham, a course of Stedman Caters, a course of Bob Royal and a touch of Stedman Caters were rung on the ten at the bell tower, and to make a perfect ending to a good day's ringing, an excellent course of Cambridge Major was brought round. Wicken was reached at about 11.30, after a most enjoyable outing. Thanks are due to the clergy who gave permission to ring, to all the ringers who met the party and all those who helped with the arrangements.

BEVERLEY RINGERS' VISIT TO OSSETT.

The ringers of Beverley Minster, accompanied by friends from St. Mary's, Beverley, Sutton-on-Hull, Cottingham and a visitor from Cirencester, held an outing to Ossett in response to an invitation from the ringers of Ossett Parish Church when they visited Beverley two years ago. Leaving the Minster at 10 o'clock by taxis, the party's first stop was Howden, with its beautiful ring of eight, on which an hour's ringing was enjoyed. Travelling thence to Pontefract, they were met by Mr. H. Walters, who had kindly arranged for them to ring at St. Giles' Church, with its light peal of ten. After lunch the bells were rung to various methods, the ringers considering themselves fortunate, as ringing at this church is very seldom allowed on Saturdays on account of the market.

The party then went on to Ossett, taking Mr. Walters with them. They were warmly welcomed by Mr. G. Bennett, who escorted them to the tower, where the bells were at once raised. This is an excellent peal of bells, and touches of Stedman Triples and Grandsire Caters were very much enjoyed. After tea at the Flying Horse, the ringers were soon back at the church for more ringing, the methods including Stedman Caters and three leads of Kent Treble Bob Royal. With regret the party left Ossett about 8 o'clock and set out for home. Travelling by the way of Pontefract, where Mr. H. Walters said 'Goodbye' to the party, Beverley was eventually reached at 11 o'clock. The ringers take this opportunity to tender their sincere thanks to the clergy and steeplekeepers at the various towers for their kind permission to ring and the arrangements made.

A THREE-COUNTIES TRIP.

The ringers of St. Mary's, Rodbourne Cheney, held their annual outing on Saturday, July 25th, when, with a few Swindon ringing friends, including the old stalwart, Mr. C. Gardner, and Mr. W. Kynaston (Branch Ringing Master), they had the experience of ringing in three different counties (Berks, Oxon and Glos.). Starting at 1 o'clock, they made Buckland their first rendezvous, where the fine peal of eight (after a bad start, a rope having slipped the wheel) were soon going merrily to rounds, Stedman and Grandsire Triples. A move was then made to the Thames-side village of Standlake, where a light peal of six is hung in a somewhat unique position. They are in three tiers of two, owing to the smallness of the tower, but were in good going order and the ringers felt quite 'at home.'

After some little difficulty in locating the route, Southleigh was eventually reached, and the visitors were met by the Vicar. This ring of eight was found to be in good going order, but, being of long draught and minus guides, they were at first a little difficult to some. When this had been overcome several methods were rung. The Vicar afterwards acted as guide and explained the singular paintings that adorn the interior of the church, after which he entertained the party to tea, an action which was highly appreciated. A course of Triples and a few tunes on the handbells were rendered, and after a vote of thanks had been accorded the Vicar for his hospitality and the use of the bells, the ringers continued their journey. At this point, however, the elements were somewhat ominous, and an intended short stay at Witney was, after a brief consultation, dispensed with and it was decided to go direct to Clanfield, which was reached 15 minutes before schedule. They were well repaid by having this extra time on this lovely light ring of eight bells. The placing of the ropes in a complete circle gave another opportunity to indulge in some well-struck Triples and Major. Here again the visitors were met by the Vicar, who extended a welcome and an invitation for a future visit. Lechlade was the last ring of the day. Here a medium six were raised and for about an hour were kept going in several Doubles and Minor methods. The organisers wish to thank the various incumbents and tower-keepers for the use of the bells and arrangements made for the success of the outing, which, in spite of the varied weather, was a very enjoyable one.

DISS RINGERS' LONG TRIP.

The St. Mary's Society, Diss, with Mr. E. Whiting, of Pulham Market, held their annual outing on Saturday, July 18th. The party left Diss at 6.30 a.m. by motor-coach and made their first call at Baldock, which was reached at 9.30 a.m. Ringing commenced with a course of Superlative Surprise at the Parish Church and Stedman Triples. Going on to Dunstable, where they were met by Mr. A. E. Sharman, touches were rung on the fine peal at the Priory Church. Luncheon was served at the Commercial Hotel, and the party proceeded to Watford. During the journey handbells were brought into use. On arrival at Watford several of the local ringers were waiting for the visitors. The ringing here included a course of Cambridge Surprise. A short run brought the party to Bushey, where Mr. Maurice Hibbert gave them a hearty welcome. After ringing Double Norwich, 'Maurice' obliged by calling one of his 'fancy' touches of Stedman, after which he joined the party at tea. Afterwards the excursionists made for Hertford, which was reached at 7.20 p.m. Here again some of the local ringers were waiting, and with their help touches of Stedman Caters and Kent Treble Bob Royal were brought round on the fine peal of ten, and Double Norwich on the back eight. Leaving Hertford shortly after 8.30 p.m., 'Sam,' who had been mounting the tenor boxes all day, was craving for half a 'whale.' Not before reaching Bury St. Edmunds was his hunger relieved. A fried fish shop was spotted as the chimes struck out for 11.45 p.m. 'Sam' and several of the party cleared up the Saturday night surplus fish, etc. Diss was finally reached at 1 a.m. on Sunday morning after travelling 225 miles in 18½ hours. The ringers wish to thank all who helped to make the day such a success, especially Mr. Hibbert for his assistance in the arrangements.

A FALSE COMPOSITION OF TREBLE BOB. EIGHTEEN PEALS WITHDRAWN.

The discovery has just been made by Mr. C. W. Roberts that an abridged version of a peal of Treble Bob, composed by Mr. F. Robinson, is false. This variation has been rung a considerable number of times, and Mr. C. H. Kippin, hon. secretary of the Surrey Association, now writes to withdraw no fewer than 18 peals, 12 of them rung by his own association between 1923 and 1933, and six of them, of which he was the conductor, rung for other associations and guilds.

In its original form the peal is perfectly true. Here are the figures:

23456	M	B	W	H

By substituting B, 1H in the course marked * in one part, the number of changes is reduced to 5,056 (on some occasions it has been erroneously described as 5,088). It is this version that is false.

The following is the list of false peals rung by the Surrey Association or conducted by Mr. Kippin for other guilds, and in withdrawing them he wishes to convey the conductors' regrets to those who took part in the peals:—

NORWICH DIOCESAN GUILD.

June 5th, 1932, Salle, Oxford T.B.; conductor, C. H. Kippin.
April 17th, 1933, King's Lynn, Kent T.B.; conductor, C. H. Kippin.
April 17th, 1933, Swaffham, Oxford T.B.; conductor, C. H. Kippin.
Among the peals in this list is one on the back eight at Bow, Cheapside, which Mr. Kippin called from the tenor (53 cwt.) at the age of 20.

We understand that the false composition has been called on other occasions, and it is left to those concerned to withdraw the peals.

The danger of inexperienced people tampering with compositions is dealt with in our leading article.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY ASSOCIATIONMR. J. BENNETT'S DISTINCTION.

A very pleasant meeting was held by the North and East District of the Middlesex County Association and London Diocesan Guild at Barnet on Saturday, July 25th. The fine peal of eight was kept going during the afternoon, and a short service was held in the Lady Chapel, conducted by the Rev. Ivan Young in the absence of the Rector.

Tea was very tastefully and efficiently served in the Church House by Mrs. Eldred, assisted by Miss Chambers and lady helpers, and a short business meeting followed, presided over by the association Ringing Master, Mr. A. W. Coles. The chairman apologised for the unavoidable absence of the vice-president, Mr. G. W. Fletcher, also for the hon. secretary, Mr. C. T. Coles, who was on holiday in Cornwall.

The Chairman, on behalf of the members, congratulated Mr. James Bennett on attaining his ambition of ringing a peal on every day in the year. He was sure that Mr. Bennett deserved their congratulations as, besides being a very fine ringer, he could always be depended on to assist in teaching a young band at any time, a fact to which the speaker could well testify. 'Jim,' he said, was never happier than when doing work of this nature.

Mr. Bennett suitably replied, and mentioned that amongst the small band he had now joined was the late William Pye (who had called a peal on every day in the year), and he (the speaker) was proud to have been privileged to umpire the last two rung 'in hand' by that gentleman.

Mr. F. A. Barker drew attention to the fact that Mr. J. Sumpter, of Barnet, a foundation member, had just passed his 84th birthday, and it was decided that a letter, conveying the meeting's congratulations and best wishes, be sent to him.

The meeting concluded with a hearty vote of thanks to the Rector, the Rev. P. O. Dean, for the use of the bells; to the Rev. I. Young for the service; to Miss K. M. Bradford for accompanying the singing; to the ladies for the tea; and to Mr. W. J. Eldred for making all the arrangements.

The bells were kept going until 9 p.m. under the able direction of Mr. T. Lock, everyone having spent a most enjoyable afternoon.

PEAK DISTRICT SOCIETY.

A very successful meeting of the Peak District Society was held at Youghgrave on Saturday, July 18th, when more than 20 members and friends were present from Ashover, Darley Dale, Matlock, Great Longstone, Sheffield, Chesterfield, Bakewell, Eyam and Dore.

The grand old peal of eight bells was kept going in a variety of methods, and the meeting voted a huge success, particularly as the weather was very inclement.

CAVERSHAM BELLS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—Replying to Mr. Newman's letter in your last issue, my report of the Crawley outing does not imply we thought the rehanging of Caversham bells was not properly done according to contract or that I have a preference for some particular firm.

The visiting ringers remain completely in agreement with what I actually wrote, and if the same views had been held by the local band, mention in the Press would have been beneficial. J. M. CRIPPS.

West (first quarter) 3, H. Tonile 4, C. W. R. Grimwood 5, L. Greenhow (first quarter as conductor) 6, C. Potheary 7, W. Sparkes 8.

ASSOCIATION GUIDE.

SECRETARIES' NAMES AND ADDRESSES.

The following are the names and addresses of the secretaries of the principal associations of ringers. The list will be useful in many ways, but its publication is chiefly in order to facilitate the scheme for keeping ringers, who remove from one area to another, in touch with ringing and bringing them into contact with the tower nearest to their new place of residence. When a ringer goes to live in the area of another association, the local secretary should forward his new address to his general secretary, who will pass it on to the secretary of the association to which the member has gone, and, through him, the ringers in the town to which the member has removed will be able to hunt up the newcomer—if he needs it.

Any corrections to the subjoined list should be forwarded for publication:—

BISHAMPTON TOWER AND BELLS.

WORCESTERSHIRE VILLAGE'S APPEAL.

An appeal is being made by the authorities of Bishampton Church, in the Diocese of Worcester, for funds for the restoration of the church tower and bells. It is another instance of a poor agricultural parish with a small population being faced with a large expenditure, and any help that can be given will be greatly appreciated. Up to the present £430 has been raised, but £800 is needed.

The tower was built somewhere about the year 1400. The bells were an original six by William Bagley, of Ecton, Northants, cast in 1690, of which the fifth was recast shortly after by Sanders, of Bromsgrove, in 1705. There is also a small bell hung in the south belfry window, cast in 1721, by Sanders. The condition of the tower is such that the peal cannot be rung. The architect, Mr. Maurice W. Jones, of Worcester, has reported on the condition of the belfry as follows: 'The tower has been neglected. A large number of joints of stone-work on all faces are open and some pointing on the interior of the tower is also necessary. The buttresses to the tower are weak, as there are not sufficient "bond" stones to tie them into the tower walls. Cracks have appeared and in several cases the bonding stones are broken through. The stones near the base of the north-west buttress have decayed and are broken away. The parapet stones are loose and three stones of one pinnacle are missing. The lead roof of the tower has been roughly patched in the past and there are several cracks in the lead. The apron to the gutter is coming away from the parapet wall. The gutters do not fall properly to the outlets. Two new bearers are required to the roof and also new boarding under the lead.'—This work will cost over £500.

Messrs. Taylor, of Loughborough, have reported as follows with regard to the bells: 'None of the bells have been turned since they were first hung, consequently they are badly worn at those places on the sound bow where the clappers have been striking for over 200 years. The timbers of the bell frame have been so badly cut away in places, and decay is so extensive, that any attempt to restore the existing frame would be equally as expensive, if not more so, than the providing of an entirely new framework, and a new frame would, of course, make a far more substantial and permanently satisfactory job.'

The Diocesan Advisory Committee have endorsed their recommendations, which include the rehanging of the bells, and the erection of a new frame and new fittings, and a new floor for the ringers. The total cost of the bell work is estimated at about £500.

With a population of 261 people, mainly engaged in agriculture, it must be evident that the efforts of Bishampton people will not be sufficient of themselves to raise the necessary funds, and an appeal is, therefore, made to all bell-lovers within the diocese and beyond its borders.

Contributions should be sent to 'Bishampton Church Tower and Bells Restoration Fund,' Bishampton Vicarage, Pershore, near Worcester.

THE ADVANCE OF METHOD SPLICING

The advance in the ringing of spliced methods has been almost equal to the progress of the composers in their genius in producing true peals. Method splicing, as we know it to-day, while it was first advocated 25 years ago by the Rev. H. Law James, is largely the product of the post-war period. Recently attention has been particularly focused on Spliced Minor ringing, and once more we record new advances in the number of methods rung in seven true 720's. The young Lincolnshire band, who have shown such enthusiasm in this type of peal in the last year or so, have not only accomplished the peal in sixty methods, which they lost a week or two ago through the breaking of a rope, but within a week have gone further and scored a peal with an additional method included, so that the total now stands at sixty-one.

We desire to pay a tribute to this wonderful performance, which those who know most about ringing spliced methods will appreciate highest. It is no small feat of memory to be able to ring this number of methods when called upon with time to think about what is to be rung. In one of these two last peals the ringers had to change to one or other of these 60 methods at an instant's notice no fewer than 199 times, from whatever position they might be in at the moment. It is mental acrobatics with a vengeance! It has been said that, next to a complete knowledge of the methods, the most essential qualification for ringing spliced methods is quick thinking. Both these things must be possessed in superlative degree by the men who can ring such a large number of methods in one peal. Those who are inclined to disparage spliced ringing—and there are still some few about, but only because they do not fully appreciate its merits—are wont to point to the very slight differences between some of the methods. In our view it is these small variations of the work that add to the difficulties. There can be no question when the methods are in sharp contrast what course has got to be followed, but when the methods vary only slightly that is the time when trips can occur and upset the ringing. However small the difference, the ringer has got to know the method and to remember the method he is ringing—which is not so simple as it sounds.

These ringers who, in various parts of the country, are leading the Exercise in these wonderful developments which make peals in one method seem almost as simple as call changes, are doing a great service in raising the standard of peal ringing and the heights to which ambition, among young ringers especially, should soar. To the men by whose genius in composition these peals have been made possible, and the ringers of them in Cheshire, Yorkshire, Lincolnshire and elsewhere, we raise our hat.

MINOR METHODS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—The following figures will prove that statements made in your last issue concerning Minor methods are misleading and incorrect.

No. 1 of the following, according to arbitrary definition, is a Treble Bob method, No. 2 is a Delight method, Nos. 3 and 4 are Surprise methods.

Nos. 1 and 2 are both symmetrical methods and never have more than two places in any pair of rows, but they will not produce extents.

On the other hand, Nos. 3 and 4 both have four places in a pair of rows four times in each lead, and yet both will produce the extent of the changes.

Further comment is needless.

'KENTISH BELLS FOR KENTISH RINGERS.'A DELIGHTFUL TOUR IN FRESH FIELDS.

Once again August Bank Holiday proved a red letter day for the ringers of St. Peter's, Tunbridge Wells, when they sallied forth on the occasion of their annual outing to conquer fresh fields. This year 'Kentish bells for Kentish ringers' was voted the order of the day and a delightful tour was mapped out by the captain, Mr. A. E. Richardson.

After a short run through pleasant country, the first stop was made at Birling, an interesting old church set in the midst of a quiet Kentish village, and soon this light peal of eight were set going to Stedman, Grandsire and Plain Bob. After inspecting the various points of interest in the church and tearing the mushroom enthusiasts away from their discoveries in the churchyard, a move was made to Harrietsham. Here an 11th century church offered a variety of interest, the bells naturally having first claim on everybody's attention. The usual standard methods were rung on this peal, the curious fading effect when the bells were at backstroke causing some amusement. The Vicar gave a hearty, if somewhat brief, welcome, and left the ringers with instructions to 'go on making a joyful noise.' Naturally they needed no second bidding and the time was soon up.

Progress was somewhat delayed on the next stage of the journey owing to the demands of the 'inner man,' but eventually the beautiful tower of Ashford was reached, where they were warmly welcomed by the local secretary, Mrs. C. W. Everitt, and Mr. Everitt, with members of the local band, whose kindness in having everything in readiness was much appreciated. No time was wasted in ringing this lovely peal, as opportunity was restricted because of local weddings. Touches of Grandsire, Stedman and Kent Treble Bob Major were rung to everybody's satisfaction, and a move was made to a nearby restaurant for lunch. The journey was then continued to Betersden, another old Kentish village, and here they found a beautiful peal of six bells sadly in need of ringers. With skilful handling the resonant tones of the bells were heard in Cambridge Minor, Plain Bob and Grandsire, and they were eventually lowered in peal in true style.

En route for Tenterden the party paused to look round the quaint old church of High Halden, whose bells they were unable to ring owing to the instability of the tower. Tenterden was reached at last where a 'real ringers' tea' awaited the visitors. Needless to say, full justice was done to this, and, after handbell ringing and conjuring tricks to wind up the proceedings, a move was made to the church. The fine old peal of bells was set going to Grandsire and Stedman, and, in spite of a broken rope, quickly replaced, the time passed all too quickly, and the excursionists reluctantly took their leave of this splendid church and its beautiful bells.

OLD HILL RINGER'S GOLDEN WEDDING.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Green, of 47, Beauty Bank, Old Hill, Staffs, celebrate their golden wedding anniversary to-day. Their wedding took place at Holy Trinity Church, Old Hill, on August 14th, 1886.

Mr. Green has been a ringer at the church for 55 years. Notable peals in which he has taken part include those for the Diamond Jubilee of Queen Victoria, the Coronations of King Edward VII. and King George V., and he is looking forward to standing in one for the Coronation next May of our present King Edward VIII. All ringers will join in extending to Mr. and Mrs. Green their heartiest congratulations on their golden wedding and the hope of many more happy years together.

A course of Grandsire Triples on handbells in the famous cellars of Tenterden brought to a close a most enjoyable day, and expressions of appreciation were heard on all sides. Thanks are due to the incumbents for allowing their bells to be rung, to the local ringers who met and welcomed the visitors on each occasion, and lastly to Mr. Richardson, the captain, for his selection of towers, a pleasant route and his able management of the ringing throughout the day.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

At long last there is a proposal afoot to recast and rehang in new iron and steel framework the ring of ten at the Cathedral of St. Philip, Birmingham. The present very poor bells have been in bad ringing condition for many years.

The joint meeting of the Herts and Middlesex Associations at St. Albans on August 29th should prove a great attraction, as the peal of twelve at the Abbey will be open for ringing.

'From Ye A.O.P.G.' was the endorsement of an envelope which reached us on Tuesday containing a batch of peal reports. The Ancient Order of Peal Grabbers were undoubtedly out in force at Bristol on August Bank Holiday, when no fewer than twenty of them rang in the peals 'grabbed' that day!

Other members of the A.O.P.G. were in Kent. One of them, who took part in three peals of Royal, cycled, for the purpose, 75 miles each way by night.

With a peal of Bob Royal at Beddington, Surrey, on Saturday, Mr. W. H. Hewett completed peals of Plain Bob and Treble Bob Major, Royal and Maximus on tower bells and handbells. Mr. G. W. Steere has now rung Plain Bob Major, Royal and Maximus on tower bells and handbells.

Mr. A. G. Richards, who stepped into the breach at the last moment at Codsall, Staffs, and rang the tenor to a peal of Grandire Triples when the rest of the band had met short for Major, is the first Codsall ringer to ring a peal for approximately 20 years.

Mr. Edwin Jennings, who now lives at Preston, Lancs, and formerly resided at Kendal, planned for several years to ring a peal of Caters on the bells at this latter town, the last peal of Caters rung there being Grandire, in 1898.

On five occasions a peal had been arranged and every time the band met short. On August Bank Holiday, to make sure, he took the precaution of arranging for eleven ringers. Only nine turned up!

However, making the best of a bad job, the first peal of Oxford Treble Bob in Westmorland was rung. It was Mr. Jennings' 25th peal in the county; no one else has rung this number in Westmorland.

The composition was Arthur Knights' No. 1, composed in 1883, and is said to be now rung to Oxford for the first time.

The members of the London County Association who rang a peal of Bob Royal at Isleworth, Middlesex, on July 25th last, are wrong in stating that that was the first peal in the method on the bells. Mr. E. C. S. Turner informs us that a peal in that method was rung there on March 3rd, 1934.

The ringer of the eleventh in the peal at Surfleet on August 1st was Frederick W. Stokes, not George as printed.

SECRETARIES' NAMES AND ADDRESSES.

The following corrections are made to the list of secretaries' names and addresses, published in our last issue:—

NORWICH RINGER MARRIED.

WEDDING OF MR. NOLAN GOLDEN.

On Wednesday, August 5th, the marriage between Mr. Nolan Golden, of Norwich, and Miss Iris Daly, of Checkendon, took place at SS. Peter and Paul's Church, Checkendon, Oxon.

The bridegroom is a member of the Norwich Diocesan Association, being the secretary of both the North and South Norfolk Branches and having just completed his third century of peals for the association.

The ceremony was conducted by the Rev. R. D. St. George Edwards, himself a ringing member of the Oxford Diocesan Guild, and a company of ringers, including Mr. Langley, of Peppard (formerly of Wokingham), and Mr. Sid Smith, of Nettlebed, rang touches upon the bells. Later in the afternoon the bridegroom took part in the ringing, and in the evening a company, under the leadership of Mr. Pat Cannon, attempted a peal on the six bells. After returning to the church to listen to the ringing, Mr. and Mrs. Golden left on a motoring tour of Devon and Cornwall.

The recipients of many presents and expressions of goodwill, Mr. and Mrs. Golden appreciate none more highly than the greetings of the members of the Norwich Diocesan Association and the two easy chairs for which the members have subscribed, together with an album containing the names of the subscribers.

In the evening a band rang a very well-struck quarter-peal of Minor (1,260 changes), being 720 of Kent Treble Bob and 540 Plain Bob: Richard T. Hibbert 1, Miss Stella Davis 2, Miss Marie R. Cross 3, James F. Smith 4, Edgar Humphrey 5, A. Patrick Cannon (conductor) 6. This was believed to be the first quarter-peal of Minor on the bells, which were cast by Lester and Pack.

The band take this opportunity of wishing Mr. and Mrs. Golden long life, health and happiness, and the writer would like to thank the Rev. C. Elliot Wigg for kindly getting the band together for the quarter-peal, and the Rector for kindly giving permission to ring.

CHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD.

NEW SECRETARY ELECTED.

The 49th annual festival of the Chester Diocesan Guild was held at St. Mary's, Liscard, on Monday, August 3rd. The proceedings began with a service, at which the Rev. W. S. Coad, Rural Dean of Wallasey, gave an inspiring and delightful address.

At the business meeting, presided over by Mr. J. W. Milner, the Master, who was re-elected, the Rev. M. H. Ridgway, Vicar of Tarvin, was elected hon. secretary and treasurer in place of the Rev. W. R. Ingham, who has left the diocese for a parish in Gloucestershire.

The report and statement of accounts was accepted on the recommendation of the committee.

Mr. H. Parker gave an account of the Central Council meeting held in London at Whitsuntide, and this was confirmed by Mr. A. Crawley.

As the jubilee of the Guild falls next year, it was decided to make a substantial donation towards the cost of the augmentation of the bells at Chester Cathedral, and also to hold a dinner and concert as near as possible to the foundation date, which falls in November.

It was decided to hold the next annual festival at Chester on July 24th, 1937.

The annual report first recorded with real grief and regret the death of the late Master, the Rev. C. A. Clements, and offered deep sympathy to Mrs. Clements and family.

'He came among us,' says the report, 'in 1924, with a great ringing record and reputation, on his appointment to the Rectory of Grappenhall, and at once made his presence and influence as a ringer felt. On his election as Master, he did all he could to support and further the aims and activities of the Guild. It was due to failing health that he felt compelled to resign the Mastership in the summer.'

'Turning to the activities of the Guild, we are greatly pleased to be able to report considerable improvement in the general situation—the standard of Sunday ringing has been well maintained, but a good deal more active interest has been developed among the younger ringers. We hope that this means that the depression of the past few years has only been temporary and is fast passing away.'

ARREARS OF SUBSCRIPTIONS.

'We wish, however, to point out the considerable number of members, in some cases all the members of a tower, who are in arrears with their subscriptions. We mention that here because it seems to occur most frequently where there is little interest taken in method ringing. The obvious remedy is for the branches to stimulate interest in change ringing in the towers, but we know the difficulties. Various efforts have been made to reconcile defaulting towers, and some have proved successful. No fewer than 42 incumbents and hands of ringers were approached by the Guild during the autumn with this same end in view. We should never rest content till all towers in the diocese are in full union.'

'There is a further decline of honorary membership from 55 in 1933 to 40 in 1935, but the ringing membership shows a substantial increase from 608 in 1934 to 635 in 1935. We ask all our members, new and old, to do all in their power to further the interests and aims of the Guild.'

'The finances of the Guild are in a sound and healthy condition, as can be seen from the balance sheet for the year. After some correspondence, the trustees decided not to invest the £100 as authorised, but this should be done now as soon as possible. The committee desire to recommend strongly that the Diocesan Board of Finance be asked to undertake the duties of trustees of the Guild. This would obviate the trouble and expense caused by changes of trustees, and the Guild would still have full control of its funds.'

'As hinted above, we have to record a large increase in 1935 in the number of peals rung, 65 as against 47 in 1934, an increase of 18; 160 ringers taking part as against 98, while the increase from five to 22 in the number of first pealers shows the interest taken by the younger ringers. We wish to congratulate these 22 ringers and also the five ringers who conducted their first peal. Three of the peals were rung in honour of King George's Jubilee. The multi-method band have been to the fore in ringing two peals in 40 and 42 methods respectively; the greatest number of methods rung up to then, in seven true extents. We congratulate them heartily and are proud to know that since then they have done still greater things and wiped the eyes of their East Country rivals! The following peals are also worthy of special mention: One of Minor at Birkenhead in 14 Spliced Surprise methods; one of Major in three Surprise methods at Norbury; one peal each of Carishbrooke Delight, Hereward Bob Major and Hereward Triples, and three peals of Surprise Minor in seven methods.'

'November 12th, 1937,' concludes the report, 'will be the fiftieth anniversary of the formation of the Guild. To mark the occasion, the Guild propose, with the consent and support of the Dean and Chapter, to augment the Cathedral ring of eight bells to ten. A committee has been formed to promote the scheme and collect funds, and it is hoped that with the keen support of all interested there will soon be in the diocese another fine ring of ten bells. We desire again to draw the attention of all peal correspondents to the importance of reporting accurately the names and initials of those taking part in peals. Carelessness in this may mean a lot of unnecessary confusion, trouble and correspondence. Lastly, we wish to thank all who have assisted in the well-being and smooth running of the Guild.'

ANOTHER RING OF TWELVE.

NEW PEAL FOR MANCHESTER TOWN HALL

Old Bells to be Recast.

Manchester Town Hall is to have a ring of twelve bells, with a tenor of about 40 cwt., in place of the present peal of ten with a tenor of 52 cwt., which have been in very indifferent condition for some years.

Last Friday's issue of 'The Manchester City News' contained the following paragraph:—

A £1,260 tender of John Taylor and Co., of Loughborough, has been accepted for removing the existing Town Hall bells and providing and fixing a carillon of 23 bells and electro-pneumatic apparatus on new steel framework.

This appears to be the only information that has been made public, and a certain amount of secrecy seems to have been maintained about the ringing peal.

We understand, however, that 13 of the 23 bells are to be hung for ringing, the additional semi-tone providing for a light eight in addition to the ring of twelve. It is hoped to have the bells ready in time for the King's Coronation.

Manchester is the only Town Hall in England that has a ringing peal of bells, and the official ringers are members of the City Police Force.

ONE THOUSAND PEALS AS CONDUCTOR.

MR. GEORGE WILLIAMS' TOWER-BELL ACHIEVEMENT.

At Dibden, Hants, on Bank Holiday, Mr. George Williams, the popular Master of the Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild, completed one thousand peals as conductor on tower bells. He will be congratulated on this distinction, not only for a great achievement crowning a life spent largely in the promotion of the art, but on being the only living conductor who has called a thousand peals on tower bells. In addition he has called four peals on handbells.

The only other ringer who had called a thousand peals on tower bells was the late Mr. William Pyc, while Mr. A. H. Pulling has scored over a thousand as conductor on tower and handbells.

The following is the list of Mr. Williams' peals up to the one at Dibden, but he is already on the way to call his second thousand, for he added another on Saturday. His peals have been rung in England, Wales, Scotland and Ireland.

In addition there is £102 12s. 7d. in the investment account.

SPLICED MINOR RECORD TWICE RAISED.

LINCOLNSHIRE BAND RINGS 61 METHODS.

Fifteen Treble Bob Methods in a 720.

Twice within a week the record number of methods in a peal of Minor has been raised by the band, five of whom on Sundays ring at the little Lincolnshire village of Algarkirk, and the other at the neighbouring Church at Frampton. At Whaplode, on August Bank Holiday, they rang seven 720's in which no fewer than sixty methods were spliced, and in the course of the peal the method was changed no fewer than 199 times!

despite his modesty—knows every method in the Central Council's Collection of Minor methods!

Although so much depends upon the conductor in these complicated peals, and Mr. Taylor has, up to now, called all their progressive combinations, the strength and probably the future of this band lies in the fact that there are others in it who have called spliced peals. Indeed, on the same day that they rang the 60 methods they rang another peal in 28 methods, conducted by Cyril Burrell, while Harold Barsley has also conducted peals on this plan.

On Saturday they increased the number of methods by one, when they rang a peal in which they included in the first 720 a method rung for the first time—Wrangle Alliance. These are performances on which the band will be heartily congratulated.

Never before have sixty methods been rung in one peal, and while it is not the absolute maximum that could be put into seven true 720's, it is going a long way towards it.

The peals are specially interesting, not only on account of the record number of methods included, but because, also, one of the 720's was made up of 15 methods with a Treble Bob hunt—the most that it is believed possible to include in a six-bell extent. In previous peals this 720 had included, at most, 12 methods.

The arrangement of the peals is again due to the genius of Mr. A. G. Driver, and this particular 720 includes no method in which any bell does all the work of the method. Indeed, there is only one method of which five leads are rung. There are four methods of which there are three leads, three with two leads and seven with only one lead apiece.

Mr. Vernon Taylor was again the conductor, and his task was a prodigious one. The band are all young and enthusiastic ringers and there is no 'secret' about the way in which they achieve these performances. There is no question of learning any special pieces for the purpose of the peal. Every method they ring they know from end to end, and they can and do ring them in separate 720's (always, of course, allowing for the necessary combination of Alliance and Little methods). Vernon Taylor—perhaps he will not mind us saying so,

The short time in which they have jumped away with spliced peal ringing, until they have made themselves unexcelled in this category, can be seen in the following record of their progress:—

Method splicing as we know it to-day is quite a modern innovation, although Fabian Stedman himself was the first to 'splice' methods when he gave the Exercise of his day what he called 'The Great Experiment.' Modern splicing, however, was introduced by the late Rev. H. Law James. On February 15th, 1911, a peal, consisting of 14 Surprise Minor methods in seven true and complete 720's was rung at Eddingham by members of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild. The fact that methods could be thus spliced was Mr. James' discovery, and since the idea was made known in 1911 it has been shown that there is a very wide field for mixing the methods. It is now known that, with very few exceptions, all the methods will splice with one or more others in groups. It has been left to the ingenuity of Mr. A. G. Driver to show that over eighty can be included in seven true 720's.

The thing that gave the greatest fillip to ringing peals in this form was the performance at Norbury, Cheshire, when a band rang a peal in 35 Treble Bob methods, and as the outcome the book, 'Method Splicing,' was published by 'The Ringing World.' In this book Mr. J. W. Parker lucidly explains how the 'splicing' of methods can be effected, and chapters by Mr. J. P. Fidler give the ringer practical hints on the ringing of 720's in more than one method. It is published at 1s. 3d., post free.

The 35-method peal at Norbury was the outcome of a series of previous efforts leading up to what was undoubtedly a great performance, but that band, as a band, went no further. Some of the members of it, with others who have caught their enthusiasm, have, however, carried on the good work, and the progress made fittingly forms a part of this article.

TAMPERING WITH COMPOSITIONS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I think it would be wise if it were pointed out where the abridged peal of Treble Bob, mentioned in your last issue, is false, as a good many ringers would not take it as false and they may ask where the repetition actually occurs.

If we use alternative calling for the third course of the first part, it is false with the second course of the second part, and also with the fourth course in the third part.

First, rows which occur when the treble is in 5-6 up in the third lead of the third course, repeat when the treble is in 5-6 down in fifth lead of the second course of the second part.

MORE PEALS WITHDRAWN.

In addition to the peals withdrawn last week on account of the discovery of the falseness of the abridged version of F. Robinson's peal of 5,184 Treble Bob, the following are also withdrawn:—

June 22nd, 1932, at Egham, Surrey.

August 1, 1932, at St. Mary's, Ealing, Middlesex, both conducted by F. Corke and rung for the Middlesex Association.

Mr. Kippin's experience in calling a false peal twice in one day must be unique. From the list published last week it will be seen that he called this composition to Kent at King's Lynn and to Oxford at Swaffham on April 17th, 1933.

DEVONSHIRE GUILD.

NORTH-WEST BRANCH AT NORTH LEW.

There are many beautiful mediæval villages in our land, but none more quaintly picturesque than North Lew, away by the Dartmoor Hills and over which Yes Tor seems to frown. Perhaps never before have the musical bells in the little Norman tower responded to touches of Kent, Bob Minor, Grandsire Doubles and Stedman Doubles, as they did on Saturday last, when the North-West Branch of the Devonshire Guild held its summer meeting. The Rev. E. V. Cox, president of the Guild, was supported by the Rev. W. H. Smale and Messrs. Sangwin (hon. secretary) and W. Shears (treasurer of the branch), as well as members from Bridgenote, Holsworthy, Plymouth, Brampford Speke and Petersmarland and the local band.

Canon R. Hervey (Rector) conducted the service, after which the 40 ringers and friends present assembled in the Parish Room for tea.

In the business meeting following, the Rev. E. V. Cox acted as chairman in the absence of the Rev. W. Ravenhill, and votes of thanks were accorded the Rector for the use of the bells and for the impressive service; the ladies who provided the 'solid comfort' of excellent refreshment; the organist, choir and the local band, who had helped in the arrangements.

Mr. F. Sangwin was elected as Ringing Master of the branch.

PEAL COMPOSITION CORRECTION.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—The composition No. 1,794 Stedman Cinques by John Carter, page 57 in the Gloucester and Bristol annual report for the year ending December, 1935, requires correction. The 13th course end should read 314256, and the 25th (turning course) should read Single at 9. ALBERT WALKER.

FOR BEGINNERS.

UNION TRIPLES

It has been one of the objects of these articles to make readers not only think for themselves, but also work for themselves. We have sometimes described methods and left the beginner to work them out for himself. When he has done it he has a far surer knowledge than he would acquire merely by reading what could be said about it. Pencil and paper are the best aids to acquiring a knowledge of change ringing.

How far our advice is carried out we do not know, but it is always encouraging to find that someone, at least, has found the value of it and become interested. Mr. Ernest F. Behan, of Carlton, Melbourne, in a letter dated July 1st, says:—

'Your articles for beginners in "The Ringing World" week by week concerning various methods are interesting and appreciated by at least one ringer in this far-off country—the land of the Southern Cross. Especially did I appreciate those on Stedman, concluding with directions on calling Thurstans' great four-part.

'My last issue to hand is dated May 22nd, and in that you advise a "change of diet" and give a brief outline of "Oxford Bob." The concluding words seemed a sort of challenge to me, so I set to work and made out the first lead. This I followed up by getting the remaining four, and was interested to note the lead ends are identical with those of Grandsire, though not in the same order. I think my work is correct, as it appears to carry out the rules laid down.

'I then set to work and evolved the "mysteries" of the "bob" you describe, and followed this by doing likewise with the "single" (which you do not describe). Of course, I had to "think it over" for 10 or 20 minutes, and concluded that, as in Grandsire, one pair of bells would be reversed, and, as this could not occur in 2-3, it must be in 4-5. By making a 3rd's, 4th's and 5th's place at the call, the "trick was done." Rather curious, the work of the second, viz.: (1) a 4th's place at the call 'single'; (2) a single dodge in 4-5; followed by (3) a 5th's place and down to lead. This is the only solution I can see if the method is to be adhered to. I fear this work of the bell coming "out of the hunt" would "mystify" some of us here. Anyhow, it is really simple.

'For my own satisfaction I then worked out a few touches in the method, and, summing the whole thing up, I thought a couple of hours had been jolly well spent, and so got "under the blankets" and slept well.'

Now this indicates real interest and it will gratify our distant correspondent to know that his elucidation of the Single was in strict accordance with the Central Council's 'recommendations as to calls.' The Plain lead, Bob lead and Single lead for Oxford Bob Triples are given as under:—

Plain	Bob	Single
7162534	7162534	7162534

There are some excellent peals in the method in Section 1 of the Central Council's 'Collection of Peals.'

Further, in his letter, Mr. Behan says: 'Perhaps you may have an article on "Union Triples" later on? Arthur Barnes (one of the finest ringers that ever resided in Australia) used to talk of this method many years ago, but, though interested, I never remember it being rung here.'

Union Triples is very little rung now anywhere. It never had a very extensive vogue, and the discouragement by the Council of methods that are not 'symmetrical' and which do not produce the orthodox lead ends led to its being almost entirely dropped. Despite these failings, however, Union Triples is interesting to ring, and its touches, with double dodging behind at every lead end, can be more musical, in our view, than Grandsire.

At the risk of being 'brought to book' for advocating the ringing of Union Triples, we give some details of it here, for the benefit of any who may care to try it, and especially in response to our Australian correspondent's request.

Union Triples is something between Grandsire and Oxford Bob. It contains the 3rd's place of the former and one of the 5th's places (the

FIFTY YEARS AT LINSLADE TOWER.

MR. F. VICKERS' JUBILEE.

Mr. F. Vickers, of St. Barnabas' Church, Linslade, Bucks, who joined the band in 1886, has just completed 50 years as a member and has been foreman of the band since August 12th, 1895.

At the time he joined there were six bells in the tower and only call change ringing was done. After Mr. Vickers had been made foreman, the late Mr. George Valentine, of Stony Stratford, paid a week-end visit to Linslade and interested Mr. Vickers in half-pull ringing, writing out a course of Grandsire Doubles for him. The Linslade men worked hard to learn the method and soon had the satisfaction of ringing most of the plain methods on six bells.

In 1904 two more bells were added to make a peal of eight, and within a few weeks they rang the first quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples on the bells with an entirely local band. Then they commenced to practise the higher methods and soon were able to ring Superlative and Cambridge for practice.

VICE-CAPTAIN OF PYTCHLEY TOWER WEDS.

On Saturday, July 25th, Mr. Ronald Coleman, the popular vice-captain of the Pytchley tower, was married to Miss Dora Beasley, sister of 'Son' Beasley, another Pytchley ringer. The ceremony, which was fully choral (the bridegroom being a chorister as well as a ringer), took place at the Church of All Saints, Pytchley. The Vicar (the Rev. J. N. Hill) officiated. Prior to the ceremony the bells were rung to various methods of Doubles by J. Barnwell, S. Sargent, O. Brown, R. Williamson, G. S. F. Brown and S. Manton (conductor). Further ringing, in which H. Manton also took part, with the customary 'firing,' took place as the bride and bridegroom left the church and until the happy couple departed for a honeymoon at Teignmouth, Devon.

It is interesting to note that Pytchley tower's 'G.O.M.' aged 81 (Mr. R. Williamson), and their youngest ringer, aged 12 (Cecil Brown), took part in the ringing. Mr. and Mrs. Coleman will reside at Clifton Close, Kettering.

SIX FIVES.

HALF A DOZEN NORTANTS TOWERS VISITED.

Five-bell towers do not seem to offer much attraction to the majority of ringers, but half a dozen enthusiasts from Banbury and Coventry, housed in a couple of cars, paid a visit to six such towers, situated north-east of Banbury, in the county of Northants, on August 8th.

Meeting at Chipping Warden, they first inspected the church and the bells. Owing, however, to repairs to the roof, they did not ring here, but went on to Eydon, where the local captain gave them some advice before pulling the bells up. 'That treble you must watch,' he said, 'for the rope's a middlin' on the wheel.'

After a short stay at Moreton Pinkney, the ringers went on to Culworth, where tea was taken at the local inn. Here one of the company, who shall remain unnamed, demonstrated his extraordinary skill on a dart board, which, by chance, happened to be hanging on the wall of the tea room. The bells at Culworth have been recently rehung, and it was quite a pleasure to ring on them. Marston St. Lawrence was the next tower. Owing to the noise of the bells in the ringing chamber, the 'Canonian' method of calling had to be employed, namely, 'wap' for a Bob, and 'wap-wap' for a Single. However, in spite of these difficulties, a few 120's were managed before lowering the bells and going on to Farthinghoe. Here was found an anti-clockwise ring, and, after altering the 'furniture' in the belfry round a bit, the visitors managed to find enough floor space on which to ring. Finally they visited Thenford. Here, they were told, the bells had not been rung for ten years. The long rest did not seem to have done them any good. One bell had practically come adrift from its stock, as was soon discovered when an effort was made to ring her up; but a spanner, brute-force and the amateur bellhangers soon made the bell ringable. However, two short touches were quite enough, and the ringers managed to get away without doing any apparent damage to the fittings.

The thanks of the 'tourists' are due to Mr. W. A. Stote for arranging the tour, and also to Mr. Pearson for acting as guide in a district he knows so well.

M. C. C. M.

second) of the latter, but, unlike these two methods, it does not produce the same series of lead ends.

There is, of course, a bell in the hunt. The start is exactly the same as Grandsire, which method it follows until the treble comes to its handstroke lead, when 5th's place is made. The bell that makes 5th's then dodges in 5-4 (down), while the two bells behind have a double dodge. The bells making 3rd's and dodging in 4-5 up work as in Grandsire.

The bob is a Grandsire bob, and the single is made by the three middle bells lying still, as in Oxford Bob. Here is the essential difference in the first lead of Grandsire and Union:

Grandsire	Union
5716243	5716243
5172634	5172634
1527364	1527643
1253746	1256734
5172634	5172634
Bob 1576243	Bob 1576243
1752634	1752634
5172634	5172634
Single 1576243	Single 1572643

Now try to write out the method and learn its work. In any case it is an interesting change from Grandsire and not very far removed from it. The dodging behind will be found exactly like a Grandsire bob, and it is done by the same pair of bells.

The Council's 'Collection of Peals,' Section 1, contains a big selection of peals, and they are by such celebrated men as the Revs. C. D. P. Davies and E. Bankes James, Dr. A. B. Carpenter, John Carter and Joseph J. Parker. These men must have had a high opinion of the method or they would not have devoted so much of their time and talents to composing peals.

NORTH WALES ASSOCIATION.ANNUAL MEETING AT WREXHAM.

The annual meeting of the North Wales Association was held at Wrexham, the first occasion for nine years, on Monday, August 3rd. Representatives from Llandudno, Rhyl, Gresford, Llangollen and Wrexham, in addition, visitors from Rotherham, Coventry, Market Drayton, Stoke-on-Trent, etc., were present. The ringing commenced at two o'clock, and one of the several short touches was rung specially for a wedding couple as they were leaving the church.

A service was then held, conducted by the Rev. Canon Benjamin Davies, Vicar of Wrexham, who also gave an interesting address on the origin of bells.

The general meeting was afterwards held in the tower, when, in the absence of the president (the Rev. R. C. Jones, Bangor), the Vicar of Wrexham (vice-president) presided.

The following appointments were made: President, The Rev. R. C. Jones, Bangor; vice-presidents, the Rev. Canon T. J. Rowlands and the Rev. Canon B. Davies; Ringing Master, Mr. A. Lea, jun., Wrexham; treasurer, Mr. T. Cathrall, Wrexham; secretary, Mr. W. Cathrall, Wrexham; district instructors: Bangor, A. E. Pegler; Rhyl, J. Fuller; Wrexham, F. R. Evans.

It was decided to hold the next annual meeting at Llangollen on Whit Monday, 1937.

A vote of thanks to the officials for their work during the year was accorded on the proposition of Mr. J. Capper, while the Vicar was thanked for his instructive address on the motion of Mr. T. Cathrall.

The members and friends then adjourned to a cafe for tea, later returning to the tower for further ringing until 8.30 p.m.

LIVERPOOL RINGERS' EXCURSION.

A most enjoyable day was spent by the St. Nicholas's, Liverpool, ringers on Saturday last. They left Liverpool at 9 a.m., and, arriving at Todmorden at 10.45, were met by Mr. Herbert Devonport, the genial vice-president of the Lancashire Association. The first tower visited was Mytholmroyd, where a nice handy peal of eight (tenor 14 cwt.) was found. Several good touches were rung in various methods, including one of Oxford Treble Bob Major, in which Mr. Carter, a member of the local company, took part. The party were joined by Mr. George Haigh, who escorted them to Hebden Bridge, where an excellent lunch awaited them at the White Lion Hotel. After justice had been done, the ringers struggled up the hill to Heptonstall, where they found an admirable peal of eight (tenor 18 cwt.), and were agreeably surprised to meet Mr. Leslie Morris, of Leeds. Several excellent touches were rung on these bells, made famous by the ringing on them of the 17,824 Treble Bob Major record. The party then went on to Todmorden, where, after tea, they were met at the Parish Church by Mr. and Mrs. Crabtree and Miss Rose Bell, who gave them a most cordial reception and assisted in ringing touches in various methods. The bells, by the way, are a very fine peal with a tenor 24 cwt. This concluded the ringing, which throughout the day had been enjoyed. Nine methods were rung from Grand-sire up to and including London Surprise. A pleasant half-hour was afterwards enjoyably spent in Todmorden prior to departure for home. The thanks of the band are extended to the church authorities and others, in particular to Mr. H. Devonport and Mr. George Haigh, who helped to make the day so successful.

LAVENHAM RINGERS' 120 MILES TRIP.

The members of the Lavenham Society held their 15th annual outing on Saturday, July 25th. Starting soon after 8 a.m. and traveling by motor-coach, a run of 23 miles brought them to Mildenhall. The Rev. J. B. Sawbridge (Rector), the Rev. C. Walsh (curate) and Mr. P. Fordham welcomed the party. The proceedings commenced with a short service, conducted by the Rev. C. Walsh. Afterwards courses of Stedman Triples, Kent and Double Norwich were rung. The next call was at St. Mary's Church, Ely, where the Rector met the ringers. After a few courses of Grandsire, Stedman and Oxford Treble Bob and a hurried inspection of the Cathedral, a move was made for Littleport, where the town was en fête for its annual agricultural show, which precedes a gala week. Bob Major, Kent Treble Bob and Superlative were the methods rung. Lunch was served at the Crown Inn, Welney. A few courses and times on the handbells, also the usual vote of thanks to the organiser, followed. The journey was then continued to Wisbech, which was reached in a downpour of rain. Here the party were met by Mr. W. Jarvis, formerly a member of the Lavenham band. He, with other members of the Wisbech and Elm bands, joined in touches of Stedman Triples, Bob Major, Double Norwich Major, Kent Treble Bob Major and Grandsire Caters. Arriving late at Downham Market, the party had to wait until after evensong, when a course each of Grandsire Triples and Kent were rung. After an interesting 'chat' with the Rector (the Rev. W. Dorman), a move was made for home, which was reached safely at 10 p.m. The party were greatly pleased to have with them their old and respected tutor and leader Mr. Arthur Symonds, who, although unable to ring with them, was more than happy to be with his 'boys' again, on this 120 miles' successful journey. The Lavenham ringers here wish to thank all the incumbents and ringing friends for their kind help.

UMPIRES FOR RECORD PEALS?

In 1902 the Central Council laid down as 'desirable' certain conditions which should be complied with 'in the case of a peal rung to surpass a previous peal.' One condition suggested is that not less than seven days' notice of the attempt shall be given in the Ringing Press, and that similar notice be sent to the conductor or, if he cannot be traced, to some other member of the band who rang in the peal which it is proposed to surpass, and also to the secretary of the Guild or Association under whose title the earlier peal was rung. Another condition relates to the lodging of a sealed copy of the composition with a responsible officer of the Guild or Association under whose title the band is to ring.

When these conditions were laid down the records in mind were those of increasing lengths in various methods, and they are quite wise provisions. There is, and can be, nothing compulsory about them, but a band that claimed to have rung a record length without, at least, having given notice of its intention would run the risk of having doubts thrown upon its record. But ringers have accepted the conditions of the Council as fair and reasonable when one band seeks to wrest laurels from another, and they have been generally acted upon. Their desirability and purpose is obvious.

Since these conditions were framed, however, a new form of 'record breaking' has developed. 'Spliced' ringing has its own records, not of length, but of intricacy and, in Minor, as we have seen in the last year or so, there has been a rapid advance in the number of methods included in the normal peal lengths of 5,040 changes. Records in this direction are being rapidly broken, and it has led Mr. C. T. H. Bradley, who has himself taken part in peals in many methods, to suggest the application of the Council's conditions for record peals, at any rate so far as it relates to prior notification, to these performances on six bells. The Council's conditions say nothing about 'length,' but refer, as we have pointed out, to 'a peal rung to surpass a previous peal.' So that without any amendment the provisions can be easily made to apply to any form of peal record.

The utility of their application to a multi-method peal, however, is dubious. We doubt if there is any ringer with a sufficiently acute ear to say, merely by listening, whether six or ten or twelve or fifteen methods have been rung in a 720, and unless the listener is able to do this his presence as a guarantee of the peal's accuracy is wasted. From this point of view, indeed, there is less need for a 'listener' than for the ordinary peal. You cannot juggle easily with the composition of those extents which include a large number of methods and expect to get the bells round at the end of the 720. You might ring it, say, in two methods, instead of in eight, but it is hardly likely, even if the conductor were dishonest enough to 'try it on,' that all the rest of the band would acquiesce in what, after all, would be cheating, and from which they would get no possible satisfaction.

That opens up the question whether, if there is to be any check at all, it would not be better in peals of such complicated construction to have an 'umpire' in the tower, with the figures before him, as used always to be the case and is still sometimes done for handbell peals. This, we think, is the only practicable method of imposing a check on what is rung, but just as the Exercise has come to recognise that even in handbell ringing the honour of the band can be trusted, so in Spliced Minor peals the integrity of the ringers can be accepted. Unless the whole band deliberately sets itself out to hoodwink and cheat the Exercise there is not the slightest risk, we think, of peals in a large number of methods being 'cooked,' while, we imagine, it would be almost impossible to ring a peal so complex as one in sixty methods which was full of trips or so badly struck as not to be worthy of record.

FOR BEGINNERS.

MORE VARIATIONS OF OXFORD TREBLE BOB.

Some wonderful performances in the way of method splicing have been occupying attention lately. Method splicing is beyond the scope of these articles, but there must be ringers who are able to ring Kent or Oxford Treble Bob who would like to get on to this more advanced stage of ringing, and, therefore, some explanation of other methods, which they must, of course, learn before they can splice them, may be helpful.

Methods which will splice into true 720's are mainly those which contain the same changes in a lead or in a plain course, but contain them, of course, in a different order—otherwise they would not be different methods. Sometimes the difference in them is only between the leads, when, in one, second's place is made, and in the other sixth's place. Sometimes the difference is only when the treble lies its whole pull behind. In one method this may be accompanied by one bell leading a whole pull; in another method by a bell making fifth's place. All that happens in such cases is that the rows forming the method are shunted into a different lead.

This was well illustrated in our article of three weeks ago, when we endeavoured to describe the differences between Oxford Treble Bob, Sandal Treble Bob and Duke of Norfolk Treble Bob.

But in addition to this 'shunt,' produced by the introduction of 5th's place, or 2nd's place, or both, there are other methods which produce the same rows in a different order by, for instance, place-making in 3-4 instead of dodging and an accompanying change-over of the bells working together in 1-2.

Just examine this, for instance. Here are three methods allied to Oxford Treble Bob and producing the same rows, but when the treble is in 5-6 the following variations are made:—

Oxford	Capel	Kingston	London Scholars' Pleasure
263514	263514	263514	263514
625341	625341	625341	625341
263514	265314	265314	265314

In continuing the method, remember that below the line there will be places made corresponding to those above the line. We have not inserted them, because we want our readers to prick them out for themselves. When they have done so, they will find that the eight rows are alike in each of the last three methods, and, if they will go a step further, they will find the four missing rows in Oxford in the lead beginning 164523.

But we want those who are interested in this subject to go still further. Oxford Treble Bob has been explained (see 'Ringing World' for July 31st), and if its construction is understood, there should be no difficulty in writing out a lead of each of the other three methods given here and learning them all. Except in the work when the treble is behind, and which is shown above, there is no difference between them and Oxford.

Here, then, is the opportunity for adding to the repertoire, and these with Sandal and Duke of Norfolk, also dealt with in the same article as Oxford, you have a group of methods which, when you get a little more advanced, you can couple up in twos or threes or in what number you like to make a 720; that is, as far as the ringing of them is concerned. Your conductor, however, will have to be careful what composition he uses, if he wants a true extent.

TRUE 720'S OF BOB MINOR.

And now to answer an inquiry sent us by 'Learning Conductor.' This is what he says: 'I called a 720 of Plain Bob Minor with the 3rd bell to run in twice and Make the Bob, five times repeated. I put the single half-way, when the 2nd was making 2nd's place, the 4th was 3rd's place, and out, and the 3rd made 4th's and in. Is this false? I have been told I should have put the single when 2 and 3 were dodging at the back in 5-6.'

With the calling adhered to in the way 'Learning Conductor' explains, the bells would not come round at the end, because the singles reverse different pairs of bells.

Has he got his facts quite right? He does not say where he called the second single, and we can only presume he put it at the end. If the first single comes half-way, there is no place for the second single, except at the end, without getting a repetition.

Calling the 3rd twice in and to make the Bob in that order in the second half prevents the single being put at a plain lead as it was in the first half, and the bells could not come round, but if the calling had been reversed (Make the Bob and twice in), then 4 and 3, which were reversed at a plain lead by the first single, could be turned back again at the end with another single to bring the bells round.

Our correspondent could put the singles in as was suggested to him. In that form it produces a true 720 without disturbing the 3rd. Any true 360 of Bob Minor, produced entirely by bobs, can be converted into a 720 by calling two singles, as long as the singles are at plain leads and are 360 changes apart.

ELY DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.MEETING AT SWAVESEY.

A meeting of the Central Branch of the Ely Diocesan Association was held at Swavesey, Cambs, on August 1st. Ringing commenced early in the afternoon and continued until about 8 p.m., good practice taking place. The methods rung included London, Cambridge, Norwich and York Surprise, Woodbine and Oxford Treble Bob and Plain Bob.

An informal meeting was held, Miss K. Willers being elected to the chair.

The belfry election of the Rev. C. Elliot Wigg was confirmed. The meeting agreed that the next place to be visited should be Haddenham.

Visitors were present from Chelmsford and Dersingham.

LINCOLN DIOCESAN GUILD.NORTHERN BRANCH.

A meeting of the Grimsby District was held at Burton-on-Stather, and, although the weather was not too good, brought a very nice gathering together. The handy peal of six was made good use of by the members from Bigby, Grimsby, Scunthorpe, Waltham, Ulceby and the local band, Mr. and Mrs. Bramwell, of Goxhill, and ringing friends from Lincoln and Treeton. It was also something of a red letter day for the ringers, for it was the first ringing meeting held in the new Parish Hall.

The service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. E. M. Hadley), who gave a very hearty welcome to the members and an interesting address. Mr. H. Rushby presided at the organ.

In the Parish Hall a splendid tea was served, ringers' wives and friends doing the catering in fine style and 38 sitting down.

The business meeting followed, presided over by the president (the Ven. Archdeacon Parry).

The collection for the district bell fund amounted to 10s. 9d.

New members elected were: H. S. Sutton, of Alford, P. Barnes and F. Jeffery, of Burton-on-Stather, and W. Emmans, of Scunthorpe.

Mr. C. McGuinness proposed a hearty vote of thanks to the Vicar for the hearty welcome, for conducting the service and for his address, to Mr. Rushby for presiding at the organ, and to the ladies for providing such a splendid tea.—This was seconded by Mr. M. Walker and supported by the president.—The Vicar suitably responded.

Members then turned to the bells again and enjoyed further ringing.

PEAL BOARD UNVEILED.

A peal board, recording a peal of 5,040 changes of Grandsire Doubles rung on June 29th, 1936, was unveiled at St. Nicholas' Church belfry, Newington, Hythe, Kent, on Thursday, August 6th, by Miss Daisy Harden. The peal was rung as a welcome to Lt.-Col. and Lady Miles, and the names of the following members of the Kent Association appear on the record: W. C. Chandler treble, F. A. Slingsby 2, C. Turner (conductor) 3, F. T. Harden 4, J. Bartter 5, A. R. Loughurst tenor.

BURFORD, OXFORDSHIRE.—At the Parish Church for evensong on Sunday, August 16th, a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples: A. Bishop 1, W. Nipper 2, T. Timms 3, W. Dixon 4, R. Hudson 5, R. Jarvis 6, F. Soden (conductor) 7, G. Faulkner 8.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

Mr. Fred Wilford, late Master of the Peterborough Diocesan Guild, who has been seriously ill, is, we are glad to say, making slow but steady progress towards recovery.

St. John the Baptist, Margate, bells will be broadcast at 7.55 p.m. on Sunday.

The first peal on the bells at Chartham, Kent, was rung on Saturday. Chartham bells are the oldest ring in the county. The back five were cast by Joseph Hatch in 1605 and the treble by Samuel Knight in 1728. They were retuned and rehung in 1925, the 'go' being excellent. Owing to the excessive noise in the ringing room, a peal on these bells had been previously deemed almost impossible.

Mr. John William T. Holgate, who rang in the peal of Oxford Major at Bramley, Yorks, on Saturday, is in his 76th year, and has not done any regular ringing for about nine years.

Mr. G. W. Steere informs us that he has not yet completed Plain Bob from Maximus on tower and handbells as mentioned in this column last week. He still has to ring a peal of Bob Maximus on tower bells.

In the report of the peal of Grandsire Doubles at Hartfield on August 5th, published in our last issue, the name of the ringer of the 3rd should read David Cornford instead of Winford as printed.

A SURREY PEAL BEING RECAST.

CHIDDINGFOLD BELLS TO BE INCREASED IN WEIGHT.

The ring of eight bells at Chiddingfold Parish Church, Surrey, is being recast by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank, of Whitechapel. The weight of the peal is to be increased from 11 cwt. tenor to 12½ cwt. tenor in F sharp.

The ancient pre-Reformation fifth bell is being retained and hung 'dead' as the minute bell, and her place in the peal will be taken by an entirely new bell, dedicated 'To the glorious memory of the reign of His Majesty King George V.'

The peal will be rehung on modern engineering lines, and it is hoped that it will be ready for dedication in October.

THE ABRIDGED PEAL OF TREBLE BOB.

FALSE IN ANOTHER FORM.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I regret I have to withdraw a peal of Kent Treble Bob Major rung at Claines on May 9th, 1936, for the Worcestershire and Districts Association.

The composition, by F. Robinson, was shortened to 5,056, not by inserting a call in the middle course, but by omitting Middle, Before and 1 Wrong in the last course of each of two parts.

Nevertheless, as either way is false, I tender my apologies to the band for accepting the figures, given to me in all good faith as correct.

DURHAM AND NEWCASTLE DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

CHRIST CHURCH, JARROW, BELLS UNSAFE.

A meeting of the Eastern District was held at Jarrow on Saturday, August 8th, ringers being present from West Hartlepool, Sunderland, Gateshead, Newcastle, Fennam and the local tower. It was regretted that Christ Church tower is unsafe for ringing, but the peal of six at St. Peter's were kept going during the afternoon and evening.

A very happy party sat down to tea, after which a short meeting was held, presided over by Mr. R. L. Patterson, vice-president.

After the loyal toast, the Chairman welcomed Mr. C. L. Routledge to the district, and said it was a pleasure to see the old stalwarts at district meetings. It was a great help to the officials.

Mr. Routledge said it was indeed a great pleasure to him to be present and to see that all seemed to be having a very good time. He thanked the local clergy for the use of the bells and sympathised with the Rector of Christ Church in not being able to have his bells rung.

Mr. G. S. Taylor said that as this was the last district meeting before the annual meeting, he proposed that Mr. R. L. Patterson be again nominated as vice-president, or, in case the new rules were passed, that he be chairman of the Eastern District and that Mr. F. Robson be again nominated secretary.

Mr. Turnbull (Jarrow) seconded, and the proposition was carried with acclamation.

The tower was again visited after the meeting, the methods rung being Stedman Doubles, Bob and Kent Minor, Oxford, Double Court and Cambridge Minor. Great enthusiasm was shown at the meeting and there is no doubt that the Eastern District will have to try to hold more meetings in the coming ringing year—all had spent such a happy time.

BLESSING OF UFFORD CHURCH BELLS

ANCIENT CEREMONY AT SUFFOLK CHURCH.

So often nowadays the blessing of new bells for churches cannot be conveniently arranged. A modern foundry, with perhaps 50 rings of bells on hand at once, has to work strictly to a time table, and if the workmen on one job are held up for a few days while a ceremony is being arranged, it may mean that a number of other places have the work for them delayed also. However, at Ufford all difficulties were overcome, and on Saturday, the Feast of Title of the church, a congregation had gathered from all parts of the county. High Mass was first sung at 11 o'clock, the Rector (the Rev. Herbert Drake) being the celebrant, Canon Powell deacon, and Father E. W. Porter, of Rushmere, sub-deacon. Fr. Robertson, of Capel, and Mr. Bernard Barrell, of Ipswich, as cantors, sang the service, and Fr. Hargrave-Thomas, of Needham, did full justice to the beautiful organ of this fine Suffolk church.

Immediately the service was ended, procession was made to the outside of the west door, where the bells, which had been well decorated by different members of the congregation, were arranged in a semi-circle. Three of the bells are of pre-Reformation date, and had been already blessed and named. One of these cannot be made to fit in with the others, and, like an 'emeritus' official, who has finished his work, will find a resting place inside the church. This bell ('Margaret') was placed behind the others at the entrance to the tower. It was the old fourth. The other old bells are the sixth ('Katherine') and the tenor ('John'). The three smallest bells were modern and have been recast, and, with a new fourth, there are four new bells. The fifth, cast by John Darbie in 1686, and the seventh, by Thomas Osborne in 1799, had not been named, and were included in the ceremony.

The proper minister for the blessing of a church bell is a Bishop. But the Bishop of St. Edmundsbury and Ipswich was on the point of starting for his holiday, and his Suffragan, the Bishop of Dunwich, was still away. The Rev. Canon Claude Powell, Vicar of St. Bartholomew's, Ipswich, therefore acted as deputy, and performed the ceremony. During the procession to and from the altar, Psalms 145 and 150 were sung, including the invocation to the 'loud cymbals,' which ringers like to interpret as church bells.

The bells were first plentifully sprinkled (almost washed) with holy water, and then followed the first of three beautiful prayers taken from ancient sources. The bells were then anointed in turn with the right thumb and named. At the first bell (the treble) these words were said: 'May this bell, O Lord, be sanctified and consecrated, in the name etc., in honour of Saint Charles. Peace be to thee.' The second bell was then named Edward with the same words, the third George, the fourth Francis, the fifth Mary, the seventh Thomas. The second prayer was then said, each bell was separately censed, and the third prayer concluded the ceremony.

Nowadays so many services consist of hymns and the sermon, and little else. In this there was no hymn from beginning to end, and there was no sermon, yet the service was fully choral.

Ufford people are rejoicing to have their bells back in church again. It is nearly three years since they heard them, as it was Christmas, 1933, when the ringers felt that they could not ring them any longer. When the beams were taken down it was found, as can still be seen in photographs hanging in the porch, that the ravages of the death-watch beetle were so deep and so widespread that it was remarkable that they had hung there so long. The bells went away to Loughborough on Ash Wednesday, and returned on the Eve of the Assumption, in each case more than a month earlier than the work had been promised.

A WORCESTERSHIRE WEDDING.

UNION OF TWO WELL-KNOWN RINGING FAMILIES.

The marriage took place on Saturday, August 15th, at St. Peter's Church, Hinton-on-the-Green, of Miss Maggie J. Johnson, sixth daughter of Mrs. and the late Mr. F. J. Johnson, of Hinton, and Mr. Arthur J. Martin, second son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Martin, of Bromsgrove, thus uniting two well-known ringing families belonging to the Worcestershire and Districts Association.

The Rector, the Rev. V. C. Blyth, who is a vice-president of the association, officiated. The bride, who was given away by her mother, was escorted to church by her brother, Mr. J. D. Johnson, lay general secretary of the association. She wore an ivory dress and white veil, and carried a shower bouquet of red roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Kathleen M. Johnson, and the bridegroom's sister, Miss Gwendolyn H. Martin, attired in pale blue dresses and picture hats to match, and carrying shower bouquets of pink carnations; and her two nieces, Miss Daphne J. Johnson and Miss Jean A. Corbett, in lemon dresses with sprays of flowers as headdresses, and carrying baskets of sweet peas. Mr. Harold P. Martin was best man.

As the bridal party left the church the bells rang out, and a peal of Bob Major was rung during the afternoon. After the reception, which was held at Hinton School, the happy couple left for Newquay, where the honeymoon is being spent. Their future home will be at Ventnor Cottages, Church Fields, Bromsgrove.

'GRAMOPHONE' BELLS.

POPULAR WRITER'S CONDEMNATION OF IFORD PROPOSAL.

In 'The Ringing World' of July 10th last we called attention to the proposal to use gramophone records and amplifiers, instead of bells, in the tower of a new church at Iford, near Bournemouth. We condemned this mockery of the time-honoured and hallowed call to worship associated with bells, and suggested it was the first step towards a mechanised form of religion.

The installation of this travesty of bells is being taken up in other quarters. The advice of the Central Council for the Care of Churches has now been asked with regard to the advisability, and if so under what conditions, of the installation of what are described as 'Radio Bells,' and this body has sought the views of the Central Council of Church Bellringers.

We hope the result will be that the full influence of the Central Council for the Care of Churches will be used against the introduction of gramophone records as a substitute for bells at Iford or anywhere else.

A SCATHING CONDEMNATION.

We are not alone in our protest. A striking article by that popular writer 'Philemon' under the title of 'Still the Steeples Hum,' appeared in the London evening newspaper, 'The Star,' on Monday. We hope it has been read by everyone who lives in Iford and that its full meaning has sunk deep into their hearts and consciences. This is 'Philemon's' scathing comment:—

'The new Church of St. Saviour, at Iford, Bournemouth, is to have gramophone records and amplifiers in the belfry instead of bells. O tempora! O mores!

'The bells will ring to call her,
In valleys far away.'

Great poet as Housman was, I doubt if he would have been inspired to this superb little poem by the thought of gramophone records in the steeples of the 'coloured counties.' 'And still the steeples hum,'—with gramophone records!

And this in England which, because of its bells, used to be known as 'the ringing island.'

Repeat the word 'bells' to yourself aloud; think of bells, the bells of Worcester, of Leicester, of Bow; recall one of the thousand lovely lines like 'sweet bells, jangled, out of tune and harsh' (alas, Ophelia!); and then say 'gramophone records,' and realise from what heights, to what depths of bathos, we are falling.

'Gramophones in the belfry' is a fit companion phrase for 'bats in the belfry.' They mean much the same. It's true that bells are expensive, and gramophones very cheap; but in earlier days 'pious queens and gentlewomen threw into the mass of metal that was to be cast into a bell their gold and silver ornaments; and a feeling of reverence for the interceding voices was common to gentle and simple.' It's easy to think of bells as interceding voices; it's difficult with a gramophone record of bells not to think of a B.B.C. interval.

One of the stained glass windows in York Minster has panels showing the various processes in casting and tuning a bell.

Suggestion to the people of Iford, Bournemouth, that they should have a window in their church celebrating the manufacture of gramophones and records and loud-speakers.

When Henry VIII. began a raid on bells, melting them down to be sold as metal, all sorts of queer things happened. Ships, carrying the bells to foreign ports, foundered; at Yarmouth, for instance.

You may still hear, if the wind is blowing hard, the 14 bells from Jersey which were wrecked at St. Malo. The Bishop of Bangor sold the Cathedral bells, and was struck blind as he watched them being shipped to sea.

And Sir Miles Partridge, who won the Jesus bells of St. Paul's from King Henry at dice, was shortly hanged on Tower Hill.

Contrariwise, if anyone has the courage to pinch the gramophone records from St. Saviour's, let him be canonised and given a safe seat in paradise.

The Koran tells us that bells hang on the trees of Heaven, and, whenever the Blessed Ones wish for music, God sets them ringing by the breath of His mouth, a 'wind from the throne.' When the Koran is brought thoroughly up-to-date, God, I suppose, will touch a switch and the gramophones will play in the trees.

There was an idea in a bell. It was an interceding voice. The intercession was graven on it, 'Hail, Mary, full of grace, pray for us.' It called upon people to pray for a passing soul.

It defended believers from devils. Schiller's bell at Munster rang out, 'I call the living; I mourn the dead; I shatter the lightning.'

Superstitious ideas, if you like; but upon my word I like them better than the mechanical nothingness of gramophone records. Will the Bishop of Winchester, I wonder, consecrate the records?

You think I'm making a mountain out of a molehill? I don't know Iford. I don't care tuppence about Iford or St. Saviour's. It's the tendency which is symbolised here.

Bells meant faith in God, joy in God, and were rung to the glory of God; and now that the greater god, Mechanism, approaches, let the gramophone praise him!

The Bishop of Winchester can now sit in his palace and preach a sermon in St. Saviour's by telephone line. Lord help and save us!

MULTI-METHOD MINOR.

NOTIFICATION SUGGESTED BEFORE RECORD ATTEMPTS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—Having read with interest your leading article in 'The Ringing World' of last week, entitled 'The advance of method splicing,' I think we, as an Exercise, agree that tremendous strides have been made during the last few years in Spliced Minor ringings, of which we are justly proud.

Having taken part myself in some of the peals of Spliced Surprise Minor rung in this county, I feel the time has come when it would be far more satisfactory to the Exercise, and to those who take part in these record performances, if the suggestion I am to make were adopted. For instance, when a band contemplates attempting to set up a new record length in Major ringing, notification is duly sent beforehand to 'The Ringing World' and figures published.

Now that Minor ringing has reached such a climax, I think it would be to good advantage that notification should be sent to 'The Ringing World' when a band has decided to make an attempt to set up a new record in Minor or in Spliced Minor ringing. If this course were followed it would then give those who are interested in this phase of ringing the chance to listen to these peals in progress. Furthermore, the figures of the attempted peal should be in evidence, so that those who are expert enough could check the validity of the peal. I know there are quite a number of ringers who are rather dubious as to whether seven true and complete extents are really rung in these performances. Therefore, I think the suggestion made would be for the good of all.

'SPLENDID STRIKING.'

Dear Sir,—As an old ringer at Freiston for nearly 50 years, I should like to add testimony to the splendid striking throughout the whole of the peal rung here in 61 methods. I was within 150 yards of the church and took notice the whole of the time; scarcely a bell was struck wrong. Great credit is due to these boys, as, I believe, only three years ago hardly one of them could handle a bell.

CONGRATULATIONS TO LINCOLNSHIRE BAND.

Sir,—I would also like, through the medium of your paper, to offer my heartiest congratulations to Mr. Vernon Taylor and his band on the magnificent performances recently achieved on six bells. May they go on and succeed in ringing the maximum extents in Spliced Minor.

HOW SOME OF THE 720'S ARE FORMED.

The success of the young Lincolnshire band in ringing 60 and more methods in seven true 720's of Minor brings with it an interest in the way in which these 720's have been put together. From time to time we have published some of the figures. Last week, for instance, we gave the details of the first 720, which includes the Alliance methods, and also the 720 into which 15 methods are spliced.

The 720 in 13 methods was published on January 24th last, and the 720 in six Surprise methods on August 2nd, 1935. These were Nos. 3 and 4 in the two peals.

Here are three which have not yet been published; they formed the last three 720's in the 60 and 61 method peals.

FATAL ACCIDENT TO LINCOLN RINGER.

MR. JOE MAYER KILLED IN MOTOR-CYCLE COLLISION.

As the result of a terrible accident, the ringing company at Lincoln Cathedral have lost one of their youngest and most promising ringers. While on his way to work at Gainsborough on his motor-cycle in the misty morning hours of Monday, August 10th, Cecil Joseph Mayer, the second of three ringing sons of Mr. J. Mayer, of 50, Goldsmith Walk, St. Giles, Lincoln, came into collision with a motor-lorry, receiving such terrible injuries that he died within three hours at the Lincoln County Hospital.

Joe Mayer was the type of ringer that we can ill afford to lose from the belfries of our churches, and the news of his death came as a great shock, not only to his intimate friends, but also to the ringers in the city and district where he was well known.

He would have been 22 years of age this month, and he had rung 16 peals, including seven in Minor methods, one of Grandsire Triples, two of Stedman Triples, one of Bob Major, one of Grandsire Cinques and four of Stedman Cinques.

The funeral took place on Thursday, August 13th, the service, held at the new Church of St. Giles, being conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. R. N. Daniels. The Dean of Lincoln, the Very Rev. R. A. Mitchell, read the lesson.

In addition to the family mourners the congregation included Mr. R. S. Godfrey, surveyor and clerk of works at the Cathedral, several ringers and the wives of ringers representing their husbands who, owing to work, were unable to attend.

In the evening upwards of 20 ringers met at the Cathedral to take part in a muffled quarter-peal as a last token of affection and respect, each ringer having a pull at different times during the ringing.

The quarter-peal was conducted by the writer, who has never before taken part in any ringing under such tragic and saddened circumstances.

The sympathy of the Exercise will go out to Mr. Mayer and his family in what seems to be their unfortunate year, as another son, Kenneth W. Mayer, also a Cathedral ringer, has been laid aside for five months with a broken and badly lacerated leg, sustained as the result of an accident while following his employment at one of the Lincoln engineering works.

MIDLAND COUNTIES ASSOCIATION.

DERBY AND BURTON-ON-TRENT DISTRICTS AT REPTON.

In beautiful weather, between 40 and 50 ringers and friends attended the joint meeting of the Derby and Burton-on-Trent districts of the Midland Counties Association, held at Repton on Saturday.

Repton lies in South Derbyshire, its history dates back to far antiquity, and to-day is the home of one of the great public schools of England and the pride of the county.

Members were present from Derby, Burton, Ashby, Spondon, Overseale, Netherseale, Appleby, Newhall, with visitors from Norton-in-the-Moors, Chilcompton (Mr. J. T. Dyke), Loughborough, Sheffield, Rotherham and Higham-on-the-Hill.

Mr. W. W. Worthington, J.P., chairman of the Burton District and donor of the second bell at Repton, was also present during the afternoon. The bells, which have recently been augmented to eight by Taylor and Co., were kept going during the afternoon and evening to various touches ranging from Grandsire Doubles to Kent Treble Bob Major.

Thanks to the wives and friends of the local company, an excellent tea was served in the Court Room, and immediately afterwards the Burton secretary, Mr. J. W. Cotton, proposed a hearty vote of thanks to the Vicar (the Rev. A. W. Fletcher, M.A.) and Mr. D. F. Ferguson, captain of the local ringers, for their generosity.—This was seconded by Mr. J. H. Swinfield, supported by Mr. G. Freebrey, secretary of the Derby District, and carried with applause. The Vicar, later, conducted a short service and gave an inspiring address.

During the evening small parties were conducted round the old part of the schools, and interest was particularly shown in the library, where hang portraits of past headmasters of Repton. These include the present Archbishop of York and the Bishop of Chester.

Other visitors enjoyed the privilege of looking round the Vicarage and its ground, and altogether an enjoyable time was spent in a most historic place.

BIRMINGHAM CATHEDRAL BELLS. PROPOSED RECASTING AND REHANGING.

It is good news that there is, at last, hope of something being done to the bells at St. Philip's Cathedral, Birmingham. For years the bells have been in a deplorable condition, and their state is such that ringers have had little desire to ring the bells. Some of them have the unenviable worthy peal which will not lack capable hands to make the best of a new peal.

The Church of St. Philip, which is close to the centre of the city, was erected early in the 18th century, but some time appears to have elapsed before anything was done in the way of providing bells for the steeple. The Vestry minutes of April 3rd, 1727, record: 'By an order of a general meeting this day it was agreed that Joseph Smith shall receive the mettle from Mr. Bradburn in order to cast a Bell for the parish church of St. Philip in Birmingham to be done with all expedition.'

Later there is an entry: 'At a meeting 13th day of June, 1727, ordered that a frame of good Timber be erected & fixed in the Steeple reputation of being 'chest crackers.' The bells, too, are, with the possible exception of the tenor, of very poor quality, so that it is much to be hoped that the proposal that they shall be recast as well as rehung may see fruition.

For many years the Birmingham ringers urged the restoration of the bells, and it was made a theme of speeches at numerous Johnson dinners, but without any result, until eventually it was given up as an apparently bad job. But the seed has now presumably taken root, and if the full scheme materialises the Cathedral will have a of the New Church for Hanging of Eight Bells & that the Two Bells already made be hung there with all convenient speed.'

Joseph Smith had a foundry at Edgbaston, and he afterwards supplied the peal of eight, which were replaced by Thomas Lester, of the Whitechapel Foundry, in 1750-51. Six of these bells still remain, the treble, 2nd, 3rd, 4th, 7th and 8th. Pack and Chapman recast the fifth and tenor in 1772, and Thomas Mears the sixth and eighth, which are dated 1796 and 1823 respectively.

In days gone by many peals were rung on the bells of St. Philip's, which is now, of course, the Cathedral for the Diocese of Birmingham. The last peal on the bells was a 5,017 Stedman Caters rung by St. Martin's Guild on August 22nd, 1903.

ROTHERHAM RINGERS VISIT LIVERPOOL.

For their annual trip the ringers of St. Stephen's Church, Eastwood, Rotherham, visited Liverpool, where they arrived at 10.20 a.m. The first 1½ hours was spent looking round the new Cathedral, then, after a tour of the main streets, the party had lunch at the 'Orient.'

After lunch the first ringing of the day was done at Oxtown, where Stedman and Grandsire Triples, Kent Treble Bob, Plain Bob and Cambridge Major were rung. Bebington was the next visited, and here the light peal of eight were soon set going to Grandsire, Cambridge, Plain Bob and Stedman.

After an excellent tea the party hurried back across the ferry to St. Nicolas' Church, where Grandsire Caters and Stedman Triples were rung on the heavy ring of bells (tenor 40 cwt.), followed by a course of Bob Major and half a course of Cambridge on the back eight. This left the visitors less than 20 minutes to reach the station to catch the return train.

The Eastwood ringers would like to take this opportunity of thanking those friends at Liverpool who made this outing such a happy one.

LANCASHIRE ASSOCIATION. MANCHESTER BRANCH.

The quarterly meeting of the Manchester Branch was held at Gorton Unitarian Church on Saturday. The Rev. McMullen officiated and delivered a most inspiring address from the pulpit. Tea and business meeting took place in the Schoolroom, the chair being occupied by the Rev. McMullen.

Eccles was proposed for the next quarterly meeting, and Swinton and Reddish for the practice meetings.

Mr. C. Gudgeon was most warmly thanked for the work he had accomplished during his term of office as branch president, and Mr. N. Heaps was elected to the office.

Votes of thanks were accorded to all who had been responsible for the splendid tea, and for the arrangements that were necessary for making the meeting so successful.

Ringers from Ashton, Birch, West Didsbury, Oldham, Dean, Miles Platting and Worsley were present.

Pound 4, S. J. Pound 5, *E. J. Maidment 6. * First quarter-peal. A 21st birthday compliment to the ringer of the 4th. All but the conductor are members of the local band.

MARGATE, KENT.—On Sunday morning, August 9th, a quarter-peal of Bob Major (1,264 changes): W. Sharp (Harrold, Beds) 1, *F. Gudslen 2, *R. Dadds 3, *E. Spickett 4, J. Waghorn 5, T. E. Sone (Padlock Wood) 6, A. P. Cannon (conductor) (London) 7, A. A. Saxby 8 (tenor 22½ cwt). * First quarter-peal of Major. First quarter of Plain Bob on the bells.

HOLLOWAY.—On Sunday, August 9th, at St. Mary Magdalene's Church, for morning service, a quarter-peal of Bob Major (1,264 changes): H. Franks 1, R. Charge 2, R. Newman 3, F. A. Barker 4, G. Charge 5, M. Fensom 6, H. E. Weeks (first quarter-peal in method) 7, J. G. Nash (conductor) 8.

PRESTON, SUFFOLK.—On Wednesday, July 29th, at St. Mary's Church, a quarter-peal of Minor (1,260 changes of Kent and Oxford Treble Bob, Double Court and Plain Bob): T. Hollocks 1, K. Simpson 2, Miss M. White 3, F. Day 4, E. H. Simpson (conductor) 5, H. Hollocks 6. First quarter of Minor by Miss M. White and K. Simpson. This quarter and the one at Lavenham were specially arranged for the three Shipley (Yorks) ringers.

White (Shipley, Yorks) (first quarter-peal in the method) 3, K. Simpson (Shipley, Yorks) 4, W. Jarvis 5, D. A. S. Symonds 6, E. H. Simpson (Shipley, Yorks) (conductor) 7, W. R. J. Poulson 8.

WEDDING BELLS.

A quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples was rung at St. Elvan's Church, Aberdare, on Sunday, August 16th, to celebrate the wedding of Nurse Vera Rosser, daughter of the captain of the local branch, to Mr. Ian McIntyre, which took place at Greenford, Middlesex, on Monday, August 3rd: J. Emm 1, A. Scribbings 2, F. Chave 3, E. Emm 4, G. Mead 5, G. Kerley (conductor) 6, E. Russell 7, B. Sheldon 8.

At St. Mary's Church, Langdon Hills, Essex, on August 15th, in honour of the wedding of Miss Mary Thompson and Mr. George Richardson, 720 of Bob Minor was rung by *P. Monk 1, A. Reeve 2, Miss C. Chinnery 3, H. Chinnery 4, *G. W. Fogden 5, *P. A. Corby (conductor) 6. * First 720 of Plain Bob. On the same occasion, 600 changes of Grandsire Doubles were rung by P. Monk (longest length in the method) 1, G. W. Fogden 2, Miss C. Chinnery 3, H. Chinnery 4, P. A. Corby (conductor) 5, A. Reeve 6. Mr. Richardson has been captain of the local ringers for some six or seven years.

This is the first 720 rung on these bells for many years, probably since before the war. In all its 60 years' existence this church has been a notorious 'stone' stronghold. The bells, with a 12 cwt. tenor, are recognised as being one of the most musical sixes in the county.

A quarter-peal of Stedman Triples was rung on Thursday, August 6th, at Dover, to celebrate the wedding of Mr. B. M. Taylor and Miss O. M. Clark, of the St. Mary's Girl Guides. The ringers were: C. R. Millway 1, B. Jarman (Harpenden, Herts) 2, H. J. Saunders 3, H. Whitehead 4, E. Murrell (London) 5, L. Leach 6, C. Turner (conductor) 7, G. Godfrey 8.

A BROKEN 'ROPE.'

LAY READER STRUCK ON THE HEAD.

The bell rope of the village church of Sheldon, near Bakewell, Derbyshire, broke when it was being tolled for the funeral of Miss Ruth Brocklehurst, who had been bellringer for some years.

Mr. James Stephenson, the lay reader, was tolling the bell prior to the funeral service when one of the links in the iron chain at the top of the bell rope snapped.

Rope and chain fell, and part of it struck Mr. Stephenson on the head.

This incident recalls the somewhat similar accident when a bell clapper injured a lad, and damages were awarded. The turrets in which these bells are hung are usually inaccessible, except by the use of a long ladder. Consequently they are seldom inspected and it is a wonder there are not more accidents.

BELL RESTORATIONS IN NEEDY PARISHES

There has been ample evidence recently of increasing efforts on the part of churchpeople to get their bells put in order. All the founders are busy and everywhere, of course, where restorations have been put in hand there is a natural desire to have the bells ready in time for the Coronation of King Edward, next May. It is, indeed, often astonishing how readily money is found for church bell restoration; it is one of the things which the public rarely fail to respond to when an appeal is made. In the economic slump at the beginning of this decade, there was some falling off in the amount of work undertaken, which was only to be expected, but, just as it was—strange though it may seem—one of the last things to feel the monetary stringency, so bell restoration has been one of the first to recover. King George's jubilee was, of course, an important incentive in this connection, just as the forthcoming Coronation is leading to feverish activity in the principal bell foundries.

There are, however, many places where lack of funds still prevents needful work being carried out. In our columns there are frequently appeals for help. Unfortunately ringers as a body are unable to do much in this direction. The vast majority are men and women of very limited means, and assistance can generally only be given through the Association which covers the area in which the necessitous tower is situated. In many of these organisations ringers make frequent contributions to the Association's restoration fund, and even where such funds do not exist, no appeal made for help for a local restoration falls on deaf ears. There are, however, numerous deserving cases which are beyond the means of the parishes concerned even with the help which the local association can organise. In quite a number of cases in the last ten years or so the Emma Barron Bell Trust has been able to do valuable work, and quite a few churches, particularly in Essex and Hampshire, have benefited from the late Miss Barron's generous bequest.

The Trustees administer the fund at their discretion, and they have now committed themselves, as already announced in the 'Ringing World' to a big expenditure on the recasting and rehanging of the bells of Winchester Cathedral. This is a truly munificent undertaking and one which will give this famous shrine a peal worthy of its greatness. About that no one will cavil, but for our part we would rather see the accruing income from the Trust divided among a number of deserving cases—in struggling parishes where the churchfolk have strained every effort to raise the required money, but have fallen short of the amount needed—rather than to the carrying out of big, spectacular schemes. We do not criticise for one moment what has been done in the past—it has been splendid work in the interests of bells—but we feel that to complete half a dozen village projects, by providing the balance that has failed to be raised locally, would not only be better than bearing the whole cost of a restoration for a community that had made no real effort to carry out their own scheme, but would prove a real incentive to a large number of parishes to repair or renew their bells where at present they hang neglected because it is realised the cost of restoration is beyond the means of the parishioners, especially when faced with urgent demands of the Church in other directions. Appeals in our columns in the past few months alone have shown how tiny parishes are anxious to put their bells in order and having made a heroic struggle find themselves substantially short of the amount required and no prospect of raising the balance. What a happy position it would be if the Barron Bell Trust would come to the rescue in such cases.

VICTORIA CATHEDRAL BELLS.

MR. E. WEATHERBY'S RECORD.

Mr. Ernest Weatherby, of Los Angeles (late of Market Drayton and Guildford, England), who travelled a thousand miles to be present at the opening of the Victoria Cathedral bells, recorded in our issue of August 7th, in an interesting letter tells us that he left Los Angeles on Wednesday, July 8th, and arrived in Victoria on the following Saturday. At the Cathedral he found the bells (which had been erected by Mr. Izard, of Victoria) ready for the opening next day. Most of the ringers not having rung for many years, short practices were necessary.

'The opening peal,' says Mr. Weatherby, 'was rung by seven Victoria ringers and myself. Everyone was delighted with the "go" and tone of the bells.'

After giving some particulars of the dedication and ringing, Mr. Weatherby adds that on Wednesday the bells were rung for the enthronement of the Bishop, the Right Rev. H. E. Sexton, D.D., which brought to a close a very enjoyable time for all.

'On Sunday, the 19th,' he adds, 'I rang at the Church of the Holy Rosary, Vancouver, on a musical peal of eight, which were augmented from a peal of five French bells, through the efforts of Mr. Limpus. The first peal was rung on them in 1911, conducted by George Foster.'

'This brought to a close a pleasure I had long anticipated—to ring at the dedication of the new peal in Victoria, and a record of ringing on nine peals of bells on this continent—two in Quebec, one in Montreal, four around Boston, Victoria and Vancouver.'

DARLSTON BOB TRIPLES IN HERTS.

To the Editor

Sir,—I see recorded in last week's issue of 'The Ringing World' the account of a peal of Darlston Bob Triples, rung at St. Mary's Church, Ware, said to be the first peal in the method rung in the county of Hertfordshire. The first peal of Darlston Bob Triples was rung at St. Michael's Church, Bishop's Stortford, Herts, on February 6th, 1894, and the second peal in the method at the same church on August 6th, 1894. The first peal in the method in Essex was rung at St. Mary's, Harlow, on February 9th, 1895. All three peals were conducted by me.

YET ANOTHER MINOR RECORD.

CHESHIRE MEN'S 66 METHODS IN A PEAL.

The Cheshire band have quickly replied to the Spliced Minor records made by the Lincolnshire company at Whaplode and Freiston on August 3rd and 8th, when peals of Spliced Minor in 60 and 61 methods respectively were rung.

At Marple, Cheshire, on Saturday, a peal in 66 Treble Bob methods was rung, a wonderful performance which puts up by five the total number of methods comprised in a peal of seven true extents. This is rather devastating for the young men of Algarkirk, Lincs, who will have to get busy if they are to regain the laurels.

The previous highest number of methods rung in Cheshire was 52, in a peal, also at Marple, on May 23rd last. The peal on Saturday included a new extent in ten methods, arranged by Mr. A. G. Driver, and in the whole peal there were 138 changes of method.

The new extent, rung first in the peal, is as follows:—

23456	Nelson T.B., No. 9.
35264	Rostherne D., No. 29.
42635	Ely D., No. 35.
— 42356	Ely D., No. 35.
25463	Chepstow D., No. 28.
63542	Nelson T.B., No. 9.
34625	Wilmslow D., No. 37.
56234	Ely D., No. 35.
— 56342	Ely D., No. 35.
— 56423	Balmoral D., No. 36.

Twice repeated,

substituting Knutsford (No. 31) and Bogedone (No. 40) for Rostherne and Wilmslow and Skipton (No. 30) and Fotheringay (No. 41) for Chepstow and Balmoral in 2nd and 3rd parts.

All the remaining extents were as in the 52-method peal, except the 2nd extent, which is as published in 'The Ringing World' of August 14th, 1936, but transposed to start from the 21st lead end.

THE LINCOLNSHIRE RINGERS' ACHIEVEMENT.

'ORDINARY' RINGERS' APPRECIATION.

To the Editor.

Sir,—Although there are many ringers of the ordinary 'man in the street' type, who, like myself, are, and always would be, quite incapable of even attempting anything in the nature of the exceedingly clever performance of the six young members of the Lincoln Guild, which is the subject of your deservedly appreciative leader in the issue for August 14th, I imagine that many of those same ordinary ringers are equally appreciative as yourself as to the 'mental acrobatics with a vengeance,' and also as to the skill and capabilities of the composer who made such mental acrobatics a practical possibility. I think, also, that such ringers would like to be able to say 'Hear, hear,' to all your appreciative remarks in regard to that performance, and to thank you for giving them such a jolly good 'clap on the back.'

You state, 'We' desire to pay a tribute, and, again, 'We' raise our hat. That 'We,' I presume, you use in an editorial capacity only, but I feel quite sure that there are many ringers, of all types, up and down the country who would be glad if you would allow them to be included in that 'We.'

NORTH STAFFS ASSOCIATION.

A meeting of the North Staffs and District Association was held at Draycott on Saturday. Thirty members were present from Burslem, Cheadle, Draycott, Kingsley, Lawton, Longton, Norton, Newcastle, Uttoxeter and Stoke-on-Trent. Tea was partaken of in the school-room, and a very hearty welcome was extended to the association by Mr. W. Shelley, in the absence of the Rector.

The meeting was the first that the association had held at Draycott.

After the usual votes of thanks had been given to the ringers, four peal certificates were presented, two being to Draycott ringers, who are the first from this tower to ring a peal.

Five new members were elected, viz., W. Shelley, A. Hough, K. Shelley, W. J. Emery and W. Horrobin.

During the afternoon and evening touches of Grandsire and Stedman Doubles, and Plain Bob, Kent and Oxford Treble Bob, Woodbine, Cambridge, Wells, Violet, York, London and Norwich Surprise Minor were rung.

SOMETHING NEW IN SPLICED MAJOR.A COMBINATION OF PLAIN AND TREBLE BOB.

Mr. A. J. Pitman, of Port Talbot, who has been responsible for many clever compositions, particularly of Spliced Surprise, now sends us the figures of a peal which should interest bands who can ring Plain and Kent Treble Bob.

Mr. Pitman says: 'I send figures of 5,248 Spliced Bob Major and Kent Treble Bob Major, which will be found to be something new in splicing.

'There are numerous ringers able to ring the two methods well, but I feel sure that this peal will be quite sufficient to keep any band awake while ringing same, and that the conductor will have plenty to think about.'

Here are the figures:—

	23456	W.	M.	H.
	64523	2	1	1

Ring Bob Major, but, when more than one bob Wrong or Middle is called in a course, ring leads of Kent Treble Bob. Thus the first course would be rung as follows: B.K.B.B.B.B.B.B., and the third would be B.K.K.B.B.B.B.K.K.B., B representing a lead of Plain Bob and K a lead of Kent. The peal can be reduced by omitting three consecutive bobs Wrong or Middle.

PENTRE RINGER'S DEATH.

With regret we record the death of Mr. Harry Page, after a long and painful illness. Mr. Page was one of the pioneers of change ringing at Pentre, South Wales, and as a conductor he was second to none in the diocese. He rang, in all, about 80 peals and conducted a good number of them.

He was laid to rest on Saturday, August 15th, when four of his brother ringers, with Mr. J. W. Jones, of Newport, and Mr. A. W. Heath, of Cardiff, acted as bearers.

After the funeral, a half-muffled peal was attempted, but, unfortunately, came to grief after an hour's ringing. Half-muffled touches were also rung on Wednesday, August 19th, by the local band in memory of the deceased.

LOUGHTON RINGERS' EXCURSION.

On Saturday the Loughton, Essex, ringers had their annual outing, when they made the journey to Northampton. Starting at 7.30 a.m. from Loughton, they picked up the remaining four of the party at Woodford and had a very nice run to Stony Stratford, where a halt was called. A very handy ring of eight at the Parish Church were soon set going to Triples and Major, each ringer having a pull, except the determined grand old warrior, Mr. J. Rann, whom the steps beat. However, he stopped outside and listened. Leaving Stony Stratford at 11.30, a further run brought the party to St. Sepulchre's, Northampton, where an old Woodford ringer, Mr. John Mardell, met the company. Ringing took place on the handy ring of eight, and after all had had a pull an adjournment was made to the Black Boy for dinner. Although the guide said it was only 'a little way down the road,' the distance was a little too much for the G.O.W., crippled as he is with rheumatism, so a taxi was brought to the rescue. At dinner the two 'youngsters' of between 70 and 80 years were unable to indulge in their usual occupation of 'chipping' one another, as they were seated in different rooms—much to the regret of the company. After dinner farewell was said to Mr. John Mardell, and the journey was continued to Harpenden, where tea was partaken of. Afterwards Mr. J. Rule, jun., spoke a few words of thanks on behalf of non-ringers of the party, and thanked the organisers for again inviting them.

Mr. C. R. Morss spoke for the ringers, and congratulated the 'Grand old warrior' upon his determination to be with the company, especially after his recent terrifying experience of being thrown out of his only mode of getting about by a lorry.

All voted the outing quite as good as any previous excursion, and wish to thank the tower masters and incumbents for permission so readily given for ringing and for arranging for both dinner and tea.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

The peal of Stedman Triples at St. Margaret's, Ipswich, on August 22nd, is believed to be the first to be rung by eight grandfathers all resident in the same borough. In addition, two of the band are great-grandfathers, Messrs. R. H. Brundle and F. J. Tillett, the former being in his 85th year, the latter in his 70th year, without a grey hair in his head.

The total ages of the band amount to 512, an average of 64 years. One grandfather, at the age of 76, rang his first peal of Stedman. The conductor is quite a youth, in his 50th year.

It must be very unusual for two great-grandfathers to be in the same peal, if it has ever been done before. Has anyone compiled a list of great-grandfathers who have rung peals?

The Central Council publication, 'Collection of Doubles and Minor,' is now out of print, and the supply of booklets, 'On the Preservation of Bells,' in stiff covers, is exhausted.

Fifty years ago next Monday the first ten-bell peal in Scotland was rung. It was a peal of Grandsire Caters at St. Mary's Cathedral, Edinburgh, conducted by Mr. F. E. Dawe, then of London. The remainder of the band consisted of Mr. Joe Field, of Oxford, Mr. Alf Thomas, of Birmingham, and seven Wrexham ringers.

In view of the 'naming' of the bells at Ufford, it is interesting to recall that the bells at St. Mary's, Edinburgh, are named as follows: 1, Humility; 2, Faith; 3, Constancy; 4, Patience; 5, Reverence; 6, Piety; 7, Hope; 8, Peace; 9, Joy; 10, Charity. The tenor is 42½ cwt.

Monday is also the anniversary of the record handbell peal, 19,738 Stedman Caters, at Guildford, on August 31st, 1912.

Peals have been rung in many strange places. The first (and only one) rung in a railway train was rung by Cumberland Youths between Paddington and Bristol on August 31st, 1923.

Bertram Prewett, of Bushey, one of the finest ringers that ever stepped into a belfry, was killed in action in France on August 31st, 1918. He had rung 953 peals, and was still a young man when he laid down his life in the Great War.

Two young ringers, one aged 13 and the other aged 15, took part in a peal of Grandsire Triples at North Stoneham, Hants, on Monday. George Williams, aged 79, was also in the peal.

THE TOUR IN THE NORTH.

A SUCCESSFUL WEEK.

Fourteen peals were the successful outcome of the eight days' visit to the North of England by a band collected mostly from the South. With Newcastle as headquarters, peals were rung in Durham and Northumberland, including Durham and Newcastle Cathedrals and Hexham Abbey.

One feature of the tour was a non-conducted peal of Cambridge Surprise Major at Houghton-le-Spring. The conducting in the other thirteen peals was shared by no fewer than eight conductors. This, in its way, must, we think, be a record for any tour.

The methods rung were just as varied, and included Stedman Cinques 1, Cambridge Surprise Royal 2, Cambridge Surprise Major 3, Superlative Surprise Major 2, Yorkshire Surprise Major 1, London Surprise Major 2, Norfolk Surprise Major 1, New Cambridge Surprise Major 1, and, by way of change, Double Norwich Major 1.

With the second peal of Cambridge Surprise Royal, at Gosforth on Saturday, Mr. G. R. Pye completed one hundred peals of Surprise Royal.

Five of the party rang in eleven peals and three of them in ten. The veterans, Messrs. George Williams and W. H. Fussell, rang in eight.

MARRIAGE OF MR. E. W. ELWELL.

CEREMONY IN NEW YORK.

Congratulations will be extended to Mr. Edward West Elwell, son of the Rev. H. E. and Mrs. Elwell, of Capenhurst, Cheshire, and formerly hon. secretary of the Chester Diocesan Guild, upon his marriage, which took place on Thursday of last week at St. Ignatius' Church (Episcopal), New York. The bride was Miss Winifred Ina Mackenzie, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Francis Mackenzie, of Peterborough, Ontario, Canada, and granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pearce, of Sefton Park, Liverpool.

The marriage was solemnised, with Nuptial Mass, by the Rev. Jerome Harris, and Mr. and Mrs. Elwell sailed on the following day for England.

Mr. Elwell, who before his departure for America was a popular member of the Central Council and one of its ablest debaters, now occupies the important position of assistant manager in the United States of the Royal Exchange Assurance Co.

FORTY-FIVE YEARS CHURCHWARDEN.

At Harwell, Berks, on Monday, August 17th, as a birthday compliment to Dr. R. Rice, who has been churchwarden for 45 years at the Parish Church of St. Matthew, Thurstans' quarter-peal of Stedman Triples: H. J. Balcombe 1, W. V. Webb 2, Mrs. A. E. Lock 3, J. Nobes 4, G. Caudwell 5, A. E. Lock (conductor) 6, R. G. Rice 7, E. Mulford 8.

JAMES BARHAM.PERFORMANCES OF A WONDERFUL KENT RINGER.

By J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

James Barham was born in 1725, the year in which the College Youths first began peal ringing. Apparently he lived for some time at Harrietsham, a village seven and a half miles from Maidstone on the road to Ashford. A new ring of eight bells, with a tenor of 13½ cwt., was supplied to the Parish Church by Thomas Lester in 1744, and in that year a peal of Bob Triples was rung, followed by another in 1745. In 1746 the band scored a 10,080 of Double Bob Major, the first of many long lengths in the district. So far as our records go, it was the tenth length of over ten thousand that had as yet been rung and the seventh of Major. It was the first ten thousand in the method and remains the record. Four years later the band rang another ten thousand of Double Bob, and on March 23rd, 1751, 5,040 of Reverse Bob, two months after Annable had called the first peal in the method at Westminster.

LEEDS, KENT, CHURCH.

Samuel Knight had cast several peals for Kent, and in 1751 his successor, Robert Catlin, added two trebles to the heavy six at the adjoining village of Lenham. The bells were opened on May 17th by a 5,040 of Bob Major, the peal being the first changes rung on them. At the same time Catlin supplied six new bells to Leeds to make a ring of ten. They were the gift of the Hon. Robert Fairfax, of Leeds Castle, who employed Barham as a gardener, no doubt with the idea of forming a band of ringers at the Parish Church. Barham's first peal at Leeds was one of 6,480 of Bob Caters, the first in the method of which any record remains, and still the longest length. From the number of changes it is pretty certain that what was rung was Annable's or a similar peal of Bob Major, with an extra bob in three courses to get the big bells in and out of the tittums.

Three weeks later the band rang 8,100 changes of Bob Royal, evidently the same composition applied to ten bells, and a fortnight later still they repeated the peal of Caters. In 1752 they rang forty courses of Plain Bob Royal, 7,200 changes, and on the last day but one of the year 14,500 of Bob Major. This apparently was an incomplete length, and a fortnight later they rang half the extent of the method, 20,160 changes, in 13 hours and 34 minutes.

They had thus in a little more than a twelve-month rung six peals, the shortest of which was 6,480 changes, a record which has not been surpassed by any subsequent band. Barham had great ambitions in the matter of long-peal ringing. He was himself capable of extraordinary feats of peal ringing, and, as his zeal outran the capacity of his companions, he adopted the plan of ringing peals by relays of ringers. Of course, if that is done, there is no particular reason why the bells should not be kept going for a week or more, or as long as the ropes remain unbroken, and the idea has rightly been discountenanced by the Exercise at large. The old ringers saw no reason why two or three men should not be put to a heavy or bad-going tenor, if it were beyond the capacity of one man to ring it single-handed; but that was quite a different thing. Barham's idea, no doubt, was to see how long he or any other individual member of his band could stand, and in that respect he did set up a record.

On March 31st, 1735, the band started for the full extent of Bob Major. They began at two o'clock in the afternoon, and at six o'clock the next morning, after 24,800 changes had been rung in 16 hours, the sixth clapper broke, and so the peal was lost. Barham rang the seventh for 14 hours and 44 minutes, which is a wonderful feat of endurance, and has not since been approached; but, of course, the circumstances were unique, and no other individual ringer is likely again to have a similar opportunity of seeing how long he can stand and ring.

The band made no further attempt for the peal for some years, but in 1760 Barham induced them to start again. On Monday, March 23rd, they rang 17,000 changes and then one of the bells was overturned. That is a most unusual thing to happen in peal ringing, and there is no reason to suppose that Leeds bells were not fitted with stays and slides. Possibly it happened when one ringer was relieving another.

A little later they made another attempt, and this time they succeeded. Fourteen men in all took part, and the time was 27 hours. Barham had called all the bobs in the failure of 1755, but whether he did so in the complete peal, or whether he deputed part of the task to another, does not appear. It seems the ringing was by no means faultless. When the College Youths visited the village in the next year they talked with many of the ringers and heard a lot about the performance. The authors of the 'Clavis,' after saying that they do not intend to give peals with the full extent of the changes on eight bells other than two of Bob Major as examples, proceed:—

'We think it extremely useless as it is impracticable for any one set of men to perform. To be sure it is recorded on a frame at Leeds in Kent as being performed by 13 men in 27 hours and some minutes, one man having rung eleven hours, another nine, etc., but those of the performers who have been spoken to on the subject give such unsatisfactory accounts that it is very little thought of, and it is generally believed that if they did keep the bells going the length of time, the truth or regularity of the changes were very little attended to.'

The account differs slightly from that in Barham's book (e.g. in the number of men that took part), and is probably derived from rather indirect information, but if it is correct that the man who stood the longest time (probably Barham) rang only 11 hours, as a feat of endurance the performance falls a long way short of the failure of 1755, and has been beaten more than once since. But we must remember that it was always difficult for the members of the great leading societies like the College Youths or the Norwich Scholars to believe that the men of obscure country villages could ring as well or better than they.

LEEDS RINGERS' BOAST

The occasion of the peal was the election to Parliament of the Hon. Robert Fairfax and Sir W. Knatchbull. The ringers were very proud of themselves, and boasted that 'the peal was never rung or ever attempted to be rung by any set of ringers in the kingdom,' and they advertised that 'Whenever it is performed by any other set' they 'are determined to command their superiority to all others by ringing all the changes on 10 bells.' Perhaps it is as well they were not called upon to make good their boast.

Two other peals of over ten thousand changes were rung at Leeds—13,440 of Bob Major in 1773 and 10,080 of Treble Bob Major in 1796—and in addition many five thousands at Leeds, Harrietsham, Lenham, Maidstone and other towers in Kent. The majority of these were Plain Bob and Oxford Treble Bob, but there were some others of very considerable interest. On February 7th, 1756, a day or two after Annable was buried, the band rang at Leeds 5,040 changes of 'that hard method called Court Bob, which was never rung in Kent before.' On Christmas Day they rang 6,720 changes, 'the most extraordinary thing of its kind ever done,' and next year the same length at Harrietsham, 'notwithstanding its difficult and abstruse method.'

On January 20th, 1765, they rang 6,720 changes of Court Bob ten-in at Leeds. Annable had extended Court Bob Major to Royal, and it had been rung by the College Youths at St. Sepulchre's, Snow Hill, in 1741, but the London men apparently found that it was not worth ringing and dropped it, for it is a poor method which widely parts the big bells, and is inferior in music and interest to Double Bob and Treble Bob. It has been suggested that there is a doubt as to what variation of Court Bob Barham's men rang, and that they might have forestalled the Norwich peal of 1767. But the matter is as clear as any of these things can ever be. The Leeds men rang London Court Bob Major in 1756 and 1762, and London Court Royal is the obvious extension of that method. Moreover, the authors of the 'Clavis,' who were familiar with what had been done at Leeds, say distinctly that the first peal of Norwich Court Bob Royal was rung at St. Peter Mancroft.

tenor is a memorial to the late Vicar of Mullion, the Rev. R. H. Moyes, who died three years ago. The inscription reads:—

'In memory of Richard Henry Moyes, Priest. Died December 16th, 1933. From those who love him and feel his influence.'

The new bells have been cast and hung by Messrs. Gillett and Johnston, of Croydon, to whom great credit is due. The whole job leaves nothing to be desired, and Mullion can be justly proud of its new bells.

A NEW CORNISH RING.MULLION BELLS DEDICATED.

In the presence of a large congregation of parishioners, ringers and visitors, the new ring of six bells at Mullion Church, Cornwall, was dedicated on Saturday, August 8th, by the Archdeacon of Cornwall (the Ven. G. W. Hockley). The church, one of the most beautiful in Cornwall, is thus further enriched by a beautiful peal of bells, the installation of which forms part of an ambitious restoration scheme embracing much of the general fabric of the building.

The dedication service opened with the singing of the hymn, 'We love the place, O God,' during which the Archdeacon, the Rural Dean (Canon G. H. Doble), and the Vicar (Rev. F. C. Wintle), together with the choir and churchwardens, proceeded to the west end of the church. The hymn being concluded, the Archdeacon, at the request of one of the wardens, Mr. O. Bosustow, dedicated the bells to the service of God, and handed the ropes to the Vicar, committing the bells to his care as a sacred trust. As the procession returned to the chancel, rounds were rung by members of the Truro Diocesan Guild.

The Archdeacon preached a homely and inspiring sermon on the use of bells in the service of the Church, and commended the efforts of the guilds and societies, which had, besides advancing the science of change ringing, brought ringers in closer touch with the life and work of the Church. The service concluded with the singing of the dedicatory hymn, 'Lifted high within the steeple,' and the Blessing pronounced from the altar steps.

After the service, the visiting ringers were kindly entertained to tea by the Vicar and wardens. Among those present were the president of the Truro Diocesan Guild, Dr. J. Symons, M.R.C.S., the Guild secretary, the Rev. W. H. R. Trehwella, ringers from the towers of Truro Cathedral, Gulval, Manaccan, Redruth, Towednack, St. Michael Penkivel, Helston, Cury and Mullion, as well as Mr. S. R. Roper, representing the bell founders, Miss H. Mills, of Farnham, and Mr. J. W. Clarke, of Chester.

The bells were made full use of during the evening. The Rev. W. H. R. Trehwella acted as master of ceremonies, and rounds, call changes, raising and falling in peal, Grandsire Doubles and Bob Minor were successfully accomplished.

The present bells replace a ring of four, cast at the Copper House Foundry at Hayle, Cornwall, in 1828, which had not been rung for many years. These four had superseded former bells, and an interesting item in the Parish Book records an expenditure of £15 17s. 10d. in 1829, this being the amount outstanding after allowance had been made for the old bells! Now, a clean sweep has been made from roof to floor. The new bells, with a tenor of 10½ cwt., are all hung on one level in a special steel frame resting on girders. Although the tower is small, painting room has been left all round the frame. The

BLESSING OF THE BELLS AT UFFORD.

FRAME FOR TEN OR TWELVE BELLS.

Suffolk Guild's Testimonial to Hon. Secretary and Hon. Treasurer.

Last week we described the ancient and impressive ceremony of the blessing of the bells which took place at Ufford on Saturday, Aug. 14th. The decorated bells were placed in a semi-circle outside the west door, where they were sprinkled with holy water and blessed by Canon Claude Powell, Vicar of St. Bartholomew's, Ipswich, acting as deputy for the Bishop of the diocese. The bells were named as follows: Treble, 'Charles'; 2nd, 'Edward'; 3rd, 'George'; 4th, 'Francis'; 5th, 'Mary'; 7th, 'Thomas.' The 6th, 'Katherine,' and the tenor,

'John,' are pre-Reformation bells and had already been blessed and named. Another pre-Reformation bell, the old 4th, 'Margaret,' could not be included in the reorganised peal, and now finds a resting place inside the church.

The Suffolk Guild is raising, as a testimonial to the services of their secretary (Rev. H. Drake, the Vicar) and treasurer (Mr. C. E. Fisher), who have been Ufford ringers during the 15 years of its existence, a fund to defray the cost of making the frame such that the peal may at some future time be increased to ten or twelve bells. All but about £3 has been already given.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

A PERFECT MEETING ON A PERFECT DAY.

The South and West District of the Middlesex County Association held a meeting at Ruisslip on August 15th. It was a perfect day for a meeting, and very nearly a perfect meeting for the day! The ringing was of a high standard, every touch successfully concluded and nearly with as much variety of methods as to suppose the tower was in Lincolnshire (very subtle!). It was a joy to the novices to see the 'big noises' struggling in the throes of Oxford Bob Triples as well as, later, to listen to some perfect striking when these same 'heads' recovered their equilibrium and rang some Spliced Surprise Major.

Rev. K. H. Jocelyn, curate, conducted a very enjoyable service at five o'clock. Mr. A. W. Owen, the local organist, presided at the organ.

After many years, the tea rendezvous was changed, and the George provided a very welcome meal. Later the handbell ringers found a quiet and shady retreat in the garden, and altogether it would appear the suitable successor to Fabb's, who have closed down, has been found.

The quarterly business meeting was held after tea, with the curate in the chair, supported by the organist and many ringing notabilities. The total number present was 53. A greetings telegram was received from the Vicar, Rev. Canon E. Cornwall-Jones, who was on holiday in Norfolk.

The Hon. Secretary, Mr. F. W. Goodfellow, referred to the death of one of the founder members of the association, Mr. F. G. Goddard, who passed away on June 1st. Freddie Goddard did a great deal of spade work in the early days of the South and West District, and the older members would readily recognise this.

The members stood in silence for a few moments in respect to his memory.

A formal vote of thanks was accorded to the Ringing Master, Mr. W. H. Coles, for his labours in taking members over the works of the British Aircraft Manufacturing Co., Ltd., on July 18th. Mrs. T. Collins, wife of the hon. treasurer, was also thanked for presenting the district with a new minute book.

Messrs. G. W. Blake (Denham), J. Pennells (Sunbury), and F. Braybrook and R. Kilby (both of Ruisslip) were elected ringing members.

DISCUSSION ON 'THE RINGING WORLD.'

Notice was given of joint meetings with other Guilds on September 5th at Egham and Staines and October 10th at Hillingdon. It was decided to hold the November meeting at Heston, probably on the 14th.

After formal votes of thanks to all who had contributed to the success of the meeting, a discussion took place on the best means to increase the circulation of 'The Ringing World.' The Ringing Master, who introduced the subject, said that with the co-operation of the hon. secretary, a census of all the towers in the district was to be taken, by which it was hoped to discover the number who took the paper regularly, why others did not, and obtain any grumbles, suggestions, etc., which would be put before the Editor for consideration.

Several speakers followed, amongst whom Messrs. Mayne and Roberts were of the view that more direct subscribers would be an advantage.

Mr. Fowler dissented, and suggested an order form be printed in the paper each week, and with the aid of this the present subscribers do some active canvassing.

Throughout the discussion, it was recognised that 'The Ringing World' cannot be regarded as a one-man concern. It belonged to the Exercise, and its circulation, contents, price, etc., was the concern of every ringer.

FOR BEGINNERS.

AN EASY PEAL OF GRANDSIRE TRIPLES.

Experienced conductors make many observations of their own for calling touches or peals. Some can 'keep a tab' on a number of points, and by putting them together, as it were, know where the bobs have to be put in. They have several checks, any one of which is a guide to the calling of the bob, while the use of several together makes assurance doubly sure. It is, however, only experience that gives the conductor knowledge, and until he has gained this experience the young conductor must be content with just one or two simple observations.

Knowing by heart the calling of a touch or peal, and ringing the observation bell is, of course, the lowest stage of bob calling—and it is at this stage that many have to begin. But no one ought to be long content to stay there. Study and practice should soon take them to a wider knowledge of and greater competence in the task and enable them to become conductors—as distinct from purely bob callers—who are able to call their peals from any bell.

In some recent articles we have given hints on the calling of Bob Major from a working bell. Let us now look at Grandsire Triples, which, by reason of a bob disturbing more bells than in the Plain Major method, is in our opinion just a little more difficult to conduct.

If you are calling a peal of Grandsire Triples from any but the observation bell, a good deal of reliance has to be placed on your knowledge of the bells 'Before,' that is, the bells making 3rd's place at the bobs, and those going into the Hunt.

The bell that is going to make 3rd's place is the one, of course, that, having dodged in 4-5 up in the previous lead, will then hunt up behind and down to lead immediately in front of the treble. Therefore when you want to call this bell Before you must look for it coursing before the treble and call the bob when it leads. There should be no difficulty in picking it out, for you will pass both these bells, whatever your own position, once, and unless you are in the hunt, twice between the time they come into that coursing order and the time the bob is called.

If, having called one bob, the next call does not come at the next lead, you can watch the bell you want gradually closing up to the treble. After a bob you may find, for instance, that the next bell you want to come 'Before' has three bells between it and the treble. With each lead one of these will disappear and fall in behind the bell in the hunt; so there will next be two bells between your 'wanted' bell and the treble; then one bell between, and then, of course, comes the lead, when it is coursing immediately in front of the treble, and the bob must be called.

Another thing to remember is that the bell in front of the bell coming 'Before' will be the bell that will go into the Hunt at the bob. That is very useful knowledge, and if, by chance, you are using as part of your calling observations the fact that such and such a bell is to be called In and Out, then your attention must be directed to watching for the lead when this bell hunts down with one bell (the bell coming Before) between it and the treble, and call the bob as the Before bell leads.

If you have to call a bell out of the hunt at the end of a number of leads, and you do not know the next bell to come Before or into the Hunt, it is not always easy, particularly if a trip may have intervened and had to be put right, to remember exactly how many leads have run. Endeavour, therefore, immediately you have called the bob, to 'fix' the next bell coming 'Before.' If your bell in the Hunt has to be called Out at 2, note the bell that has only one other between it and the treble, the bell, in fact, that is 'Two bells before the treble.' That is the bell that will come Before when the Hunt bell is called 'Out at 2.' If it is 'Out at 3,' it will be the bell 'three bells before the treble,' or Out at 4, 'four bells before the treble.' If it is 'Out at 5,' it is the same bell that came Before at the last bob. When the call is 'Out at 3' it is useful to remember that the same bell will go back into the Hunt at the 'Out' that came out at the call 'In.'

HOLT'S TEN-PART.

Good practice can be got in calling by the bells Before by ringing that famous old peal, in whole or in parts—Holt's Ten Part. At one time this peal held pride of place with conductors, but it is not so extensively called now as it used to be. Peals like Parker's 12-Part and other modern compositions have displaced it, but it is an historic peal and not to be despised, although some people imagine its Single to be a blemish because it is not made as the ordinary single is made. But don't forget it is a 'Single' pure and simple, and that the usual single is not a 'Single' but a 'Double.'

THE ABRIDGED PEAL OF TREBLE BOB.

PEAL RUNG IN 1907 WITHDRAWN.

to the Editor

Dear Sir,—I am informed that the 5,184 Treble Bob Major by H. Robinson cannot be reduced, and as I conducted this peal as a 5,120 by calling the last course of the peal 1W and 2H, at Netherton on December 9th, 1907, I now wish to withdraw the peal, with apologies to all the band.

R. MATTHEWS.

The symmetry of Holt's peal renders memorising a fairly easy task. Perhaps it will enable beginners to understand it better if we set out the parts of the peal, for the calling of each of the five parts of the second half are the reverse of the calling of the five parts of the first half.

First Half.		Second Half.
752634	1	642735	1
		746523	5
347285	2	547362	5
243576	5	345276	5
542637	5
		763524	2
765342	1	567432	5
367254	5
		245367	1
543726	2	342756	5
745632	5	743625	5
647253	5
246375	5	257364	2

Each four times repeated.

In the first half it will be seen that, after starting with a bob at the first lead (which brings an odd bell Before), one bell is called three times Before (in the first part it is the 4th), another bell is next called twice Before (in the first part it is the 6th), and then the previous bell is called four times Before, which brings up the part end. These part ends in the first half are the lead ends of the plain course in reverse order, so that any number of parts can be called at will and the bells allowed to run round to a true touch in multiples of 518.

The second half of the peal, starting from the Single, which reverses 4-5 and 6-7, is actually the reverse of the first half, beginning with one bell called four times Before, its companion bell twice Before, and then the original bell three times Before, leaving the part end to be brought up with a bob at 2, which brings the second into the hunt, and an odd bell Before. Again this calling will produce touches in multiples of 518.

But now examine the bells Before and observe how symmetrical is their order. In the first half they work in the same order that they course in the Plain Course, and in the second half they are in the reverse order:—

First Half.
Once.	Three Times.	Twice.	Four Times.
5	4	6	4
7	3	4	3
Second Half.
Four Times.	Twice.	Three Times.	Once.
3	4	3	7

It is as well, when you have a series of bobs in similar place, to have, if you can find it, some easy 'landmark,' so that you will know when the last has been called. It does not always do to trust to memory. You may like to find your own checks, but here are some that are fairly easy to remember:—

In the first half, at the last of the block of three bobs, the 2nd, which is the 'fixed' bell in the peal, comes out of the hunt; at the last of the block of four, the 2nd goes into the Hunt (at the part end).

In the second half the 2nd is not so conveniently placed to be picked up quickly without some experience, and it is perhaps better to use another means. Thus, the bell that is Before at the part end goes into the Hunt at the last of the block of four bobs, and comes out of the Hunt at the last of the block of three. Incidentally, this is the bell that will be four times and three times Before in the next part.

If you want a check on the middle pair of Befores—and it may be useful in any case in the event of a trip—the bell that goes into and comes out of the Hunt at these two bobs, in both halves of the peal, is the bell which, in the plain course, is the bell naturally coursing after the one that is called Before. Thus it is the 7th when the 8th is twice Before; the 6th when the 4th is twice Before, and so on.

You may not want to call the whole of Holt's Ten-Part, but if you want practice at calling Grandsire Triples, it is a first-rate composition to begin on, because it is easy, and you can get various lengths in true touches.

MUFFLED BELLS.

At Llangollen Parish Church, on August 11th, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples was rung with bells half-muffled as a token of respect in memory of the late Rev. Merlin Davies, Vicar of the parish 1913 to 1928 and Rural Dean for 11 years: L. Charlton (longest touch) 1, J. Davies 2, N. Horspool 3, C. Ellis (longest touch 'inside') 4, J. Jones 5, J. W. Bailey 6, J. Bailey (conductor) 7, O. Downham 8.

CREDIT FOR FALSE PEALS?

The revelation of false peals which has just been made, with all the accompanying disappointment and the adjustment of records, both personal and general, has prompted a letter from the Rev. J. Maurice Turner which will be read with interest. Briefly, his contention is contained in the last sentence of his communication, 'If a band have faithfully followed the calling of the conductor and have brought the bells into rounds according to the composition, they should have the credit of the peal, true or false.' It is a suggestion which at first sight may seem to have some justification, but which, we think, on closer examination will be at once discarded by all those who regard 'truth' as the essential standard of a peal. While everyone will appreciate the fact that the ringing of a composition, whose falseness is discovered after its performance, is no reflection upon the actual ringers, throughout its long history the Exercise has never recognised anything but that which is strictly true, both in construction and execution, if we make an exception of trips in ringing which are speedily righted. To depart from this standard would, we are sure, be a mistake.

However well finished the performance might have been on the part of the ringers, a stigma at once attaches to anything that is afterwards proved false, whether it has been the fault of the composer or of the conductor. If an individual cares to delude himself by including false peals in his personal records, that is his affair, although, we imagine, he would fall considerably in the estimation of his fellows if they discovered it. But when it comes to the recognition of these things by associations, whose credit must always be above suspicion, it is another matter. It may not be possible to expunge the printed record of bygone days, but it is possible, and should be the invariable practice, to call attention to and withdraw as far as practicable, a performance which, in its truth, falls short of the recognised standards of centuries, whenever the discovery may be made. An individual can get no personal satisfaction from the knowledge of having rung a peal which was not true, whatever the cause; an association would not add to the honours gained for it in continuing to claim something which was known to be false.

There is also another and very strong reason, in our opinion, why all credit for the ringing of such peals should be given up. Their admission would be more than likely to lead to slovenliness in composition. The standards of to-day require the utmost punctiliousness on the part of the composer, a slackening of the demands would lead careless, not to say unscrupulous individuals to put out work which, as long as it could be rung before the discovery of its falseness was made, would receive credit which it did not merit. Moreover, one of the difficulties about false compositions is that of marking them down, to safeguard future ringers. Contemporaries may learn of the failings of a composition, but once it has been printed it seems impossible to take any step which will ensure that the peal will not be called again at some later date by another conductor. And if our correspondent's suggestion were to be adopted, why should not a repetition of the performance under such circumstances be admitted as a peal, just as it was originally, because the fault would be no more that of the ringers than it was in the first case? It may be unfortunate that, after men have expended their labours for three hours or more in ringing, perhaps a perfectly struck peal, they should have to sacrifice the record, but we feel sure that it is the only safe way of preserving to the Exercise the honourable status which is attached to a peal performance. And, as far as we are aware, while those who suffer may feel chagrined, they are ready to accept the position with the best grace they can command.

JOINT MEETING AT ST. ALBANS.

As was anticipated, the joint meeting of the Herts and Middlesex Associations at St. Albans on Saturday was well attended by members of both the organisations. It was estimated that over 60 ringers paid a visit to the Abbey or St. Peter's (or both) during the afternoon. A short but very bright service was held at St. Peter's Church at 5 o'clock, when the address was given by the Rev. W. Smith.

Tea was served in the garden at the Grange Hotel, about thrice as many turning up as had advised the secretaries! In the end, however, all were served. We can only hope the delinquents will think of the secretaries next time. Mr. G. W. Cartmel, who presided, was supported by Mr. J. A. Trollope (vice-president), Mr. A. W. Coles (Master) and Mr. C. T. Coles (hon. secretary), of the Middlesex Association, and Mr. W. Nash (district secretary), Mr. W. Ayre (district secretary), Mr. B. Jarman, Mr. H. Goodenough, of the Herts Association, etc. The absence of the Editor of 'The Ringing World,' who sent a telegram conveying good wishes, was regretted.

Mr. Cartmel, after apologising for the absence of Mr. Gilbert Debenham, their treasurer, who was on holiday, welcomed the Middlesex Association. He said that the members of the two societies were not only neighbours, but they were friends, and were helpful to each other.

Mr. C. T. Coles replied, and took occasion to welcome several visitors from the provinces, including Mr. W. H. Southard (Truro), Mr. E. Jennings (Preston), Mr. G. Mayers (Norwich) and Messrs. G. L. Joyce and J. Cornford (Hornchurch). Mr. Coles reciprocated the good wishes of the chairman, and congratulated the Herts Association on the recent handbell successes by the Bushey ringers.

Mr. G. L. Joyce, on behalf of the visitors, expressed much pleasure in being present.

Votes of thanks to the Dean of St. Albans and the Vicar of St. Peter's, and to all others concerned, concluded the proceedings. Ringing took place at the Abbey during the afternoon and evening. Endeavours were made to give everybody an opportunity to ring, and rounds, Triples, Caters and Cinques were the order, under the guidance of Mr. H. Goodenough, assisted by Mr. C. T. Coles. At St. Peter's, in the afternoon, Mr. W. Nash and Mr. A. W. Coles looked after everybody, and made the most use possible of the time available for ringing.

LEEDS AND DISTRICT SOCIETY.

ENJOYABLE MEETING AT CALVERLEY.

The monthly meeting of the Leeds and District Society was held at St. Wilfred's Church, Calverley, on Saturday, when between 30 and 40 members availed themselves of the opportunity of visiting this delightful little township. The weather was glorious, and those who found it too hot for ringing were able to enjoy themselves in the beautiful little park, where an exciting cricket match contributed to their entertainment.

The bells were raised in peal at 3 p.m., and ringing continued until 9 o'clock except for a brief interval for tea. Members were present from Armley, Burley, Headingley (St. Chad's), Idle, Leeds Parish Church, Rothwell, Sherburn, Shipley, Chesterfield and the local company.

The business meeting was held in the tower at 7.30, and in the absence of the president the chair was taken by Mr. H. Davison, vice-president.

Two new members were elected, viz.: Miss D. M. Roby, of Bramley, and Mr. A. Ashton, of Bradford Cathedral.

A vote of thanks to the Vicar and local company was proposed by Mr. W. Jackson, seconded by Mr. F. Rayment.—Mr. C. Pratt, in replying for the local ringers, said how pleased they were to welcome the society to Calverley, and although some of them were now advancing in years, they were still able to enjoy the meetings, which, he said, contributed so much to the advancement of the Exercise.

Enquiring members were informed that Miss Olive Renton was making very favourable progress after her accident, and hoped soon to be amongst them again.

FOR BEGINNERS.

PARKER'S TWELVE-PART.

The most popular peal of Grandsire Triples with conductors to-day is undoubtedly Mr. Joseph J. Parker's famous twelve-part. It is a classic, and it has been counted as a virtue that it can be so easily transposed that any bell may be used as the 'observation bell' to suit the physical ringing ability of the conductor. If he wants something bigger than the 6th, which is the fixed bell, in Mr. Parker's published figures, the conductor may call it off the 7th by beginning the peal at a different place; if he wants something lighter than the 6th, he can adapt the composition so that he can make one of the smaller bells the 'observation.'

If a 'conductor' must ring the observation bell, this facility for transposition may be convenient, but in no case is the transposition any improvement. Even the transposition, which was at first known as 'Groves' Variation,' which substituted the 7th for the 6th, and which, incidentally, was the form in which Mr. Parker himself first produced the peal, and which he discarded for what he considered a better form, has nothing to commend it over the original.

The point we are coming to, however, is, why bother about these transpositions when a study of the calling of peals and touches by the bells going into the Hunt or called Before will enable you to call the original Twelve-Part from any bell with very little, if any, extra trouble, and will certainly give you a much more interesting job.

The 6th, the fixed or observation bell, which comes back to its starting point at every part end, is called into only four positions, Before, In, Out, Home; but in eleven out of the fifteen calls in every part it is either Before, In or Out.

Last week we explained how to observe the bell coming Before or going into the Hunt. We need not, therefore, go into elaborate details again, but will remind you, briefly, that when you call a bell Before you watch for it to hunt down immediately in front of the treble and call the bob when it leads. The bell going into the Hunt is the bell with another (the one coming Before) between it and the treble, and the bob is, of course, called when the Before bell leads. The other calling places in Parker's peal are easily marked while ringing, and we will deal with them as we come to them.

Perhaps it will facilitate explanation if we set out the calling of the peal. Except where S indicates calling a single instead of a bob, all the lead ends given are leads where bobs have to be called, and the figure at the right-hand side shows the number of leads since the previous call.

One of the 'beauties' of Parker's twelve-part from the conductor's point of view is the symmetry of the part-ends, which enables them to be easily memorised. The fixed bell, the 6th, of course, retains its place, at each part-end, 7 and 5 turn over, the three front bells transposition themselves, so that we get the following if the substituted Singles necessary to complete the peal are inserted in the 6th and 12th parts:

1. 423 765	4. 423 567	7. 432 765	10. 432 567
3. 234 765	6. 324 567	9. 324 765	12. 324 567

In addition there is another easy check upon the position of the bells in each part. At the bob Home, marked with an asterisk, it will be seen that the next part-end is produced, except that the 6th and the bell behind with it (either the 5th or 7th) are reversed in their dodging.

And now to the calling. First the 6th is called by bobs In and Out at 2. For the In you watch for it to hunt down with one bell between it and the treble. Just note that that bell is the 7th in the 'odd' parts, i.e., 1st, 3rd, 5th, etc., and the 5th in the 'even' parts. You can be sure of calling the 6th Out at 2, because this bob will bring the 5th In in the odd parts and the 7th In in the even parts.

The next four calls are at the next four consecutive leads, so that you actually have five calls in succession. The four calls bring the 6th Home with a Single, In, Out, Home with a Single. In the odd parts the 7th, in the even parts the 5th is concerned in these two singles, at the first making 3rd's place, at the second going into the Hunt.

The next call for the 6th is Before, and after that Home. You can mark this Home because it brings into the hunt the bell that will be there at the next part end—this bob, in fact, producing what we may term in 'internal' part-end to which we have referred.

In and Out at 3 comes next. The In you will easily find (it is the next lead after the Home); you will know when the Out at 3 has to be called because it brings back into the Hunt the bell that was called Out when the 6th went in (it is again the bell that will be in the hunt at the part-end).

A single at Home comes at the next lead, and this is always made by 5 and 7, 7 going into the hunt in the odd parts and the 5th in the even parts.

Before, In and Out, Before, the last portion of the calling, should present no difficulty to alert conductors, but here are some points which may help to keep the bells right in this part of the peal. The bell in the hunt at the previous part-end goes into the Hunt at the first Before; the bell in the Hunt at the next part-end goes into the hunt at the second Before.

The first Before brings the 7th in the odd parts and the 5th in the even parts to course the 6th, and this coursing order is broken at the last Before by interposing the other of the pair, putting the 5th after the 6th in the odd parts and the 7th after the 6th in the even parts.

The part-end comes up two plain leads after the last bob, and the Single, which has to be inserted in the 6th and 12th parts, is called instead of a bob at the place marked with the asterisk.

As long as you have the capacity to memorise the part-ends, or to transposition them as you go, there should be no difficulty in the young conductor calling Parker's masterpiece in its original form, without having to bother about transpositions.

If you must call a transposition and select, say Groves', what we have said about the original can equally well be adapted to your transposition by substituting the 7th for the 6th and beginning from the 'internal' part-end.

GAVE HIS LIFE FOR FRIEND.

TEYNHAM RINGER DROWNED IN ATTEMPTING RESCUE.

The Teynham band of the Canterbury District of the Kent County Association has lost one of its most promising young members as the result of a tragic accident.

On August 16th, Douglas Boorman, with his brother and a friend, was swimming when the friend, a fellow-chorister, got into difficulties and called for help. Douglas Boorman went to his aid, but, unfortunately, lost his life in company with his friend.

Boorman's younger brother tried to help both, but had to give up as he was also in danger of being drowned.

At the inquest the Coroner praised Douglas Boorman's pluck in going to the assistance of his friend, and in giving his life in an attempt to save him. He said no blame could be attached to the brother in having to give up.

Douglas Boorman had only been a ringer for 18 months, but was showing great promise.

The funeral took place at the Parish Church on Thursday, August 20th, and was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. C. W. B. Purser), and attended by the choir and ringers.

The bells were rung half-muffled on the following Sunday evening, when, in the course of his address, the Vicar spoke of the work in the church of both the youths, who had been members of the choir, while one had also been a ringer.

Much sympathy has been expressed to the parents of both boys, and in this, we are sure, our readers will join.

PASSING OF MR. A. J. ROSE.SUDDEN DEATH OF WYKE REGIS RINGER.

It is with deep regret we have to record the passing of Mr. Alfred John Rose, captain of the Wyke Regis, Weymouth, band, whose end, at the age of 65 years, was tragically sudden. 'Alf,' as he was known to all his friends, rang both for matins and evensong on Sunday, August 23rd, when he was in his usual happy spirits. He did his usual day's work at his trade as a carpenter on the following day, Monday, at the end of which he walked home steadily, with his workmates. Arriving indoors, he was greeted by his wife, sat down and passed away immediately.

Mr. Rose had been a ringer at Wyke Regis Church for 45 years. When the present peal of eight was dedicated in May, 1891, he was one of the ringers who formed the new band, and had carried on faithfully ever since, only missing ringing twice every Sunday when illness prevented it. He was captain of the band for about 25 years and a member of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild for about 33 years. He rang in the first peal—Grandsire Triples—on the bells at Wyke in September, 1905. Every Friday he looked forward to his copy of 'The Ringing World.'

The large number who gathered at Wyke Regis Church on Thursday week at the funeral was evidence of the esteem in which Mr. Rose was held. The Rector (the Rev. E. de Bassett Thurston) conducted the service. Representatives of the Foresters, deceased's fellow-workmen, members of the choir and servers and his brother ringers were present. The Wyke Regis ringers were represented by practically the whole band, the Salisbury Diocesan Guild by the Master (the Rev. H. R. Gundry), Messrs. G. T. White, J. T. Godwin, J. W. Smith and L. J. Noakes (St. Peter's, Dorchester) and the Dorchester Branch secretary. There were no flowers by request. Following the funeral service and again in the evening, half-muffled touches were rung on the bells he loved so well.

COLCHESTER RINGER'S DEATH.

The death occurred at Colchester on August 19th of Mr. William J. Schofield, who was 63 years of age and had been for many years a member of St. Peter's company of ringers.

On Tuesday, August 25th, at the funeral service, his brother ringers rang with the bells fully muffled the 'whole pull and stand.' Those taking part were Messrs. H. T. Pye, R. Cadamy, G. M. Rashbrook, F. L. Bumpstead, W. Dent, R. W. Stannard, W. Chalk and E. P. Duffield. At the graveside a short touch on handbells was rung by Messrs. Rashbrook, Dent, Chalk and Duffield. Mr. W. J. Nevard, of Great Bentley, was also present.

GOLDEN WEDDING CELEBRATED.RINGERS' SOCIAL EVENING AT NETHERTON.

On Saturday last, upwards of 20 members of the Dudley and District Guild met at the Bird in Hand for supper to celebrate the golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. William Green, of Old Hill, also the birthday of Mr. John Goodman and the wedding of Miss Mildred Sheppard and Mr. Don Secker. A bountiful repast was provided by Mr. and Mrs. Albert Prestidge (the host and hostess) in their usual satisfactory manner. After the tables had been cleared, the rest of the evening was spent in conviviality, Mr. John Goodman, jun., being unanimously chosen to act as chairman.

The only toast given was that of 'The health of Mr. and Mrs. Green,' with good wishes for many more years of health and happiness. Mr. Green suitably replied.

Mr. Prestidge announced apologies from Mr. Churchwarden Cole, who regretted being unable to be present; also from Mr. Samuel Shaw, an ex-warden of Netherton Parish Church, who was unable to be present owing to continued illness.

Hope was expressed that he would soon be restored to his usual health and be amongst them again. Mr. Prestidge was asked to convey this message to Mr. Shaw, with the sympathy and respect of the company.

It is interesting to learn that Mr. Prestidge has just completed 36 years as a member of Netherton band of ringers, for several of which he has been captain and towerkeeper.

Several members of the party made good use of the handbells during the evening by ringing changes and playing tunes upon them. Thanks were accorded to Mr. Goodman for ably carrying out the duties of chairman, to Mr. and Mrs. Prestidge for the excellent way they had catered and to the ladies who assisted in making the evening a happy and enjoyable one.

DARLSTON BOB TRIPLES IN HERTS.To the Editor

Dear Sir,—With reference to the letter from Mr. H. J. Tucker, published in last week's issue of 'The Ringing World,' regarding a peal of Darlston Bob Triples rung at Ware on August 8th last, I regret that a false claim was made for it, but as this method, seldom rung, was then first rung for the Hertford County Association, I naturally assumed it was the first in the county. The peals mentioned by Mr. Tucker, although rung in Herts, were under the auspices of the Essex Association.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

I think you will find, writes Mr. W. A. Cave, that the handbell peal in the train, to which you referred last week, was rung between Paddington and Stroud (not Bristol) on the occasion of a visit of the Royal Cumberland Youths to Painswick. I should like to add to yours my congratulations to the six-bell bands that are making history in the ringing of spliced peals.

The first peals in the county of Argyll were rung on handbells at Mr. E. H. Lewis' Scottish residence last week, when Mr. and Mrs. R. Richardson paid a short visit to the Western Highlands. Other ringing visitors were the Central Council Librarian and one of the handbell wizards from Oxhey.

Between the arrival of the Master of the Lincoln Guild and his wife on Monday afternoon and their departure early on Wednesday, peals of Bob Major and Bob Royal were rung, and when they left 34 fish went with the peals into the Surfleet bag.

Mr. Richard T. Woodley, of Lowestoft ('Young Woodley' we believe his friends still call him), celebrated his 77th birthday last Saturday. He has created a record by ringing in a peal on his birthday for the last six successive years, and, incidentally, on the same bell. Yes, he is still 'Young' Woodley.

Mr. Nolan Golden, who conducted the birthday peal, has rung his 300th peal for the Norwich Association for the second time! Since he recorded it on the first occasion a peal at Salle has been withdrawn by the conductor, Mr. C. H. Kippin.

In the report of the peal of Cambridge Surprise Royal rung at King's Norton on August 22nd, the name of the ringer of the 6th should have been William A. Stote, not Stone as printed; and Mr. Stote's name should also have appeared, instead of Stone, in the report of the peal of Superlative Surprise Major rung at Chilvers Coton on July 27th.

The 'bachelors' party,' with two or three married men to keep them in order, are spending an enjoyable week in Somerset in quest, principally, of peals.

FALSE COMPOSITIONS.

To the Editor.

Sir,—It seems to me most unjust that a band of ringers, after working hard for three hours at a peal, tapping splendidly and delighting the ears of the listeners with good music, should suddenly be robbed of the honour, perhaps years after, because some 'nosey parker' has discovered the peal is false.

It makes one doubt whether any record of a peal can be accepted as true, and one feels like endorsing that modern beatitude, 'Blessed are they who are never found out.'

It is true the accepted definition of a peal is 'the true performance on bells of a true composition in any method of change ringing of not less than 5,040 changes,' but if a band have faithfully followed the calling of the conductor and have brought the bells into rounds according to the composition, they should have the credit of the peal, true or false, and claim the tablet.

VILLAGE BELL RESTORATIONS.

HOW BARRON BELL TRUST COULD HELP.

A Suffolk correspondent, who is also a churchwarden, writes expressing agreement with the leading article which appeared in the last issue of 'The Ringing World' with regard to bell restorations in needy parishes. He mentions instances in his own area, a poor agricultural district, of bells badly requiring restoration, where help would have encouraged local effort and make the carrying out of proposed schemes possible. As it is, the full burden of the cost is too great to be undertaken by the parishes concerned.

Our correspondent also complains of the conditions which are sometimes imposed upon Church authorities in having to preserve an ancient bell in the church; failing which the restoration cannot be carried out. Often, he says, these bells are cracked and have nothing to recommend them as ornaments, but because a parish cannot raise sufficient additional money to purchase a new bell, instead of recasting the old, the peal of bells in the tower has to remain in a neglected state, or retain a bell which absolutely spoils the effect of the rest, and often makes the restoration almost valueless.

He quotes the case of his own church, where there are four bells, but the second (undated) is so badly cracked as to be unusable. The fourth, a pre-Reformation bell, is nearly as bad. At present the parishioners hear, 1 — 3, cracked 4. 'Can you imagine the effect?' he says.

Quite recently a former Rector died and left £100 to be spent on the bells. But the authorities decline to allow the fourth, about 8 cwt., to be recast. If it is not left in situ, it must be preserved in the church, so a scheme to make the third the tenor, recast the second, recast the fourth into two trebles and make a ring of five is frustrated, as the provision of the additional sum required to provide the two new bells is too big a job for this small parish to embark upon.

In cases like these the Barron Bell Trust could be of immense help.

THE NORTH OF ENGLAND TOUR.

BUSINESS BEGINS IN CO. DURHAM.

BY W. H. FUSSELL.

The peal columns of 'The Ringing World' last week reveal 14 successful attempts made in a programme of 15 towers that were visited in Durham and Northumberland during the octave August 15th to 22nd. It was practically 'Bennett's annual' ringing tour, with several old ringing friends making up the holiday party of 'twelve apostles' of the Exercise. Early in the year inquiry was set afoot in the area covered by the Durham and Newcastle Diocesan Association, when kind offers of welcome to the North were fully confirmed by the happy experience of the whole party on the tour.

Thanks to the assistance of Major F. A. Yorke and Mr. C. L. Routledge, respectively, the Cathedral authorities of Durham and Newcastle placed their towers at our disposal. Thanks also to Messrs.

DURHAM CATHEDRAL TOWER.

Peals in this noble tower are rare. The tourists rang the first peal of Cambridge Surprise Major on the bells, after a narrow escape through the rope being jerked out of the tenorman's hands.

W. H. Barber and W. J. Davidson, a fine list of belfries to be visited was planned, and the latter gentleman further contributed to the success of the tour by kindly supplying each member of the party with a detailed programme that saved many anxieties and doubts as to 'where and when' and how to get there?

Day by day the routine went through without any serious incident—no broken rope, no absent towerkeeper and no interruption for wedding or funeral.

On several occasions during the week a telephone call from Jesmond Road inquired, 'How did you fare to-day?' and the usual reply was '100 per cent. up.' I began to think the whole team would return to their homes like the famous Cock o' the North.

Private cars from Wycombe and Shadwell Heath carried seven men and the railway the remainder, the whole assembling at headquarters, the Queen's Hotel, Newcastle, between 6 and 7 p.m. on Friday, August 14th. After the long ride through half a dozen counties (276 miles from London), we sat down to supper at 8 o'clock. The local Press had reported our coming in the 'Evening News,' and referred to men of '1,000 peals' and the Australian tourists that were with the team.

Mr. C. L. Routledge hoped we would enjoy our visit and provided refreshment, and was supported by Messrs. Keen, Barber, Davidson, Adam Deas and R. and J. Anderson. They kindly formed a 'quorum' so that eight of our visitors could be proposed for life membership of the Durham and Newcastle Association. The fees paid and copies of the annual reports were exchanged and the election 'clinched' with a pair of Newcastle longs, as the hotel poker was too short to handle. After this business was completed there was mutual conversation ending only by threatening to send some of the new members 'home' for breach of training regulations. However, beds were taken by eleven o'clock.

On Saturday, breakfast at 8, away at 9, to Sunderland, which was reached at 10 a.m. We were met by the clergy and Mr. J. W. Parker, Messrs. Patterson, Taylor and the verger. The first peal attempt was successful, not without some risk of a failure, caused by two interruptions; first a note for the ringers was brought to the belfry. Was it illness? Were we to stop? Next two pressmen came anxious to interview the ringers in the midst of ringing Surprise Major! Those not ringing went to Whitburn Bay for a couple of hours and saw a huge cargo vessel, the 'Birkley,' stranded high and dry on the rocks, after a recent gale, and likely to become a total wreck.

A NARROW ESCAPE AT DURHAM.

Luncheon at Newcastle, and then to Durham Cathedral, reached about 4 o'clock (ten men in two cars). Mr. James Shepherd had cycled from Newcastle and had already 'kissed' the tenor before we arrived, but Mr. Simpson came late (delayed train service), and showed his affection for her in a more vigorous manner. I wonder how many 'fairy tales' these two men could tell us about some of the big bells they have tackled? We received a welcome from the Bell Major, Mr. H. Oliver, the steeplekeeper, and Major F. A. Yorke. And what a climb to the belfry of this noble Norman tower! And what a man's job to ring the back bells—on ball bearings—tenor 30 cwt., hung in a swaying mass of stone! Messrs. Patterson and Simpson, who have each turned her in to Major, do not seek to repeat the task. This was a good performance for striking, marred by a few blows, some half-hour before the end, caused by the tenor rope folding over the sally guide and wrenching the rope out of the ringer's hands. This he recovered in a marvellous manner and soon had the bell righted. On leaving the tower we were invited to the County Hotel for refreshment by Major Yorke, and were joined by Messrs. Barber, Keen and Pickering and our 'unemployed' four men. They were all highly amused to hear of Mr. Bennett's emulation of the Coldstream Guards after two hours' ringing. When the braces gave way he looked every bit a 'braw laddie' without the sporran. We sympathised with him in his efforts to hitch up the trews and carry out the 'full work in front' in Cambridge—very much Surprise—Major. The County was left at 9, the Queen's reached at 10, beds by 11 p.m. and our first day's work was done.

'Thy pews have seen an everchanging life,
Yet on them, still, the chequered sunlight falls,
May vandals touch thee not, but keep thee whole,
That men unborn here, too, may find their soul.'

(Chester-le-Street Parish Magazine.)

Service ringing 10 to 11 and Cathedral service 11 to 12 occupied our Sunday morning. In the ringing room was a strong muster of ringers, the local men courteously standing down for the twelve visitors to ring Stedman Cinques. Other touches followed in which all took some part, conducted by W. H. Barber.

There is a bourdon bell of 5 tons 18 cwt. for the clock hours, erected in 1891, when the bells were restored and the old eight bells replaced by a heavier peal of ten. The trebles added in 1912 make an excellent job of the whole. An early peal record, printed on silk, is framed and dated December 8th, 1848: 'Rung on the eight splendid bells of this magnificent tower in 2 hours 55 minutes, being the quickest peal ever recorded, tenor 36 cwt.' This was composed by Thurstan, of Birmingham, and conducted by Stephenson, a pioneer of change ringing in Newcastle. It was the first peal on the bells since the Jubilee of George III. A similar peal was conducted by John Cox, of London, in 1842. I wonder what took him to Newcastle?

In the afternoon a pleasant drive to St. Margaret's, Tanfield, where the first peal of Yorkshire Surprise Major in County Durham was rung. During the journey the country scenery was 'relieved' by mountainous piles of coal slag, the accumulation of years, resembling in the distance Mount Vesuvius. We came to the conclusion that it would not be wise to send coals to Newcastle. Three hundred years ago these fields supplied the City of London, carried by sea, and one of its citizens, when leaving a charity to the poor of St. Olave's parish, specified the best 'Newcastle' coal. Who knows? Perhaps the Great Fire of London was started by a little piece of Newcastle?

ON THE TYNE.

Don't be late in the morning was an unnecessary overnight request, and with a big day in front of them everyone turned out early on Monday morning. Breakfast at 8, garage, near Central Station, 9, and away by train and car to North Shields. Opposite our garage is an hotel named the 'Durham Ox' in large gold lettering. As Simpson happened to be beside me, I inquired if he felt envious? 'Not now. . . .' Arriving at Christ Church, we were met by local friends, who had nuzzled the bells in readiness for our peal of Cambridge Royal, and here I had the unique privilege of 'trebling' to the famous quartette of 'Georges,' elbow to elbow, in the peal. The Giffon band came here one practice night, scored the plain course

LIVERPOOL CATHEDRAL TOWER.

PROBABLY FIVE YEARS BEFORE IT IS COMPLETED.

The skyline of Liverpool Cathedral, writes a correspondent in the last issue of the 'Sunday Times,' has undergone a great change. A 250ft. temporary steel tower containing a passenger lift for the use of workmen has been completed alongside the unfinished vestry tower. The large single crane, which for years lifted the huge red stones of the tower into position, has disappeared, and in its place are two smaller cranes perched on top of the belfry.

The Vestey tower, named after the family who gave £250,000 towards its cost, has reached a height of 190ft., and the steel 'bridge,' which has to take the Cathedral's peal of bells, has now disappeared behind its rising masonry.

While the upper part of this tower piles skyward, workmen are engaged on the central space beneath. There is much work to be done on the western part of the interior, and 18 months or two years may elapse before it is possible to pull down the temporary wall that divides the part of the Cathedral now in use, the choir, the northern and southern aisles, and the north-east and south-east transepts.

When the present portion of the Cathedral is completed, it will be possible for 2,000 to be seated facing east, and hundreds more worshippers will be able to find seats in the four transepts. It is 32 years since the foundation stone was laid by King Edward VII. It will probably be five years before the tower is completed.

In anticipation of the installation of a ring of twelve bells, of which it is expected the tenor will weigh 4 tons, a reinforced concrete frame has been built into the structure.

CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY GUILD'S 'WEEK.'

The Cambridge University Guild's annual gathering is in progress this week. Those taking part met at Wokingham on Monday. On Tuesday they visited Reading, inspected the Jenkyn Memorial at St. Anne's College, Caversham, and also visited Sonning.

Wednesday's programme included ringing at Warfield, Windsor, Bray, Henley and Twyford; yesterday was spent at Oxford, and to-day the party are in Surrey, visiting Shere, Albury and Guildford.

ACCIDENT TO RYDE RINGER.

A most unfortunate accident befell Mr. Harry H. Flower, a member of the band of ringers at All Saints' Church, Ryde, who resides at Capra, Melville Street, Sandown, I.W.

About midday on Saturday he was returning home, and had almost reached his house when, in trying to avoid another cyclist and motorist, he applied his brakes sharply, and as a result was thrown off his bicycle and, in striking the stone kerbing, received a compound fracture of the left leg and ankle.

He was conveyed by ambulance to the Royal I.W. County Hospital at Ryde, where he is receiving treatment, and this will probably be his temporary address for several weeks.

When visited on Sunday, Mr. Flower was found to be fairly cheerful, and said, 'Things might have been worse.'

His many friends will wish him a speedy recovery.

and rang a similar peal on the next Saturday, in the days of Whitley's glory.

North Shields and Tynemouth on the River Tyne are adjoining centres of industry, and it was good to hear of busy works and increased employment throughout the diocese. Our muffled ringing echoed the sympathy of the whole of Tyneside in the bereavement of His Worship the Mayor by the death of Mrs. Armstrong. At the same time, we felt sorrow for our conductor, Mr. F. Bennett, who had so recently suffered a similar loss.

Press and picture men invaded the belfry for 'copy' and we hurried across the road. Friends of the 1925 tour up North will be pleased to know the Old Hundredth Inn still carries on—ancient and modern—but we need not have hurried to get in by two o'clock (as they did), as the hour of closing is now 3 p.m. I could not help noticing during the week that Gabriel's 'lemonade' was always black and had a nice creamy head.

The old Parish Church of Tynemouth was the nave of Tynemouth Priory, from which the worshippers were shut out during the Commonwealth. During that time they met in a brewery at Chirton, belonging to Ralph Gardiner. On July 5th, 1688, the new church was consecrated by 'Ye Rt. Rev. Father in God, John, Lord Bishop of Durham.' The tower was built in 1786, and the first set of bells, six in number, was lost at sea. A second set was given by Mr. Joseph Storey in 1787. The church is at least the eleventh structure in direct succession from the little wooden church built by King Edwin on Tynemouth promontory in 627.

Monkseaton and Whitley Bay are all one; the place has grown remarkably in 12 years. The bay, with broad sands and safe bathing, is easily reached by electric train from Newcastle. We arrived late at St. Paul's Church owing to Carrick's refreshment cafe being crowded out with seaside holiday people taking lunch. We were met by members of the Goffin family and Mr. Stratford, and, when the bells had been raised, a good peal of London was rung, almost without Williams, he having gone a mile the wrong way for the church. Two in one day, George, at 79 years of age. Steady, boy, or you'll make James George and Robert Brundle awfully jealous of you.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD.

BELL RESTORATION IN DORCHESTER BRANCH.

In glorious weather a very successful meeting of the Dorchester Branch of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild was held at West Lulworth on Saturday, August 22nd, and attracted a good number of ringers and friends. This place, with its noted cove on the Dorset coast, is looked upon as one of the beauty spots of England.

The bells (8), also those of Wool, were available from 3 p.m., and good practice was carried out, although some of the ringers found the light peal of six at Wool, hung on ball bearings, rather difficult to handle. The service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. C. C. Sharpe). The chairman of the district (the Rev. A. W. Markby) read the lesson, and the address was given by that ardent change ringer, the Rev. R. P. Farrow, Vicar of East Lulworth, who took for his text, 'Whatsoever ye do, do it in the Name of Christ Jesus.' The preacher spoke of change ringing as a hobby and as part of the service of the Church. Some ringers, he said, thought of it only as a hobby which could only be pursued in the church because the bells were there. Others thought of it as only a part of the service and that it did not much matter what methods you rang or whether you rang anything but call-changes. Both these, he said, were wrong. The ideal ringer was the one who tried to be as proficient as possible in the art of change ringing and never lost sight of the fact that he was helping in the service of God's Church. He noted with pleasure that in the new district into which he had recently come there was a real spirit of devotion among the ringers and that the services at meetings were reverently and well attended.

Tea was served in the Reading Room, where 54 ringers and friends sat down. A short business meeting followed, presided over by the Rev. A. W. Markby.

The secretary (Mr. C. H. Jennings) reported that he hoped to arrange a ringing practice at Abbotsbury and probably at Wyke Regis. There would be a meeting at Wool for the unveiling of the memorial tablet to the late captain, Mr. H. A. Runyard.

The Chairman gave the visitors a very warm welcome and expressed thanks to the Vicar, to the Rev. R. P. Farrow for his excellent address, to the lady helpers, to the local band and to their secretary for making such excellent arrangements.—This was carried with acclamation, and the Vicar and the Rev. R. P. Farrow replied.

The Ringing Master (Mr. P. Field) said he had been to Mappowder and had found the bells there were in a very dilapidated condition. They bore the date 1735, and he appealed to the Guild for support in putting them in good ringing condition.—The Secretary said he saw no reason why this could not be done, and quoted what had been done in Dorset during the past 25 years.

Mr. Field went on to say he had suggested to the Vicar that he should apply to the Barron Bell Trust.

After an interesting discussion, in which the Rev. R. P. Farrow stated amidst loud laughter that his bells also wanted to be augmented, it was resolved that the secretary write to the Vicar of Mappowder on the subject.

The following towers were represented at the meeting: Bradford Peverell, Buckland Newton, Dorchester, Puddletown, Sydling, Stratton, Upwey, East Lulworth, West Lulworth, Wool and Wyke Regis. There were welcome visitors from Hazelbury-Bryan, Poole R.T.C., North Cadbury and Greenwich.

Both towers were visited after tea, and further good practice was obtained, the methods rung being Plain Bob Minor, Stedman and Grandsire.

A MID-WEEK JOINT PRACTICE.

On Thursday, August 20th, a joint practice of the Dorchester and West Dorset Branches was held at Whitechurch Canonorum, near Bridport. This mid-week practice provided an opportunity for those members who cannot get off on Saturdays to attend the ordinary meetings. An excellent practice was obtained, about 20 members being present. The Dorchester and Lyme Regis bands were well represented. Mr. G. R. Cross rode from Twyford, Reading, to attend this practice, a distance of over 200 miles for the return journey. Other visitors present were Messrs. F. W. Stokes, hon. secretary of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild; H. G. Herrington, London; W. Marsh Pyle, Shepton Mallet; S. Long, Hollingbourne, Kent; and G. O. Woodley, Sidmouth.

The eight bells were raised at 3 p.m. and ringing continued until 5.30, when an adjournment was made to the Five Bells. Practice was afterwards resumed until 7 p.m., when Bridport was visited. There the practice concluded at 9 o'clock. Some members were overjoyed at ringing their first real touch (504) of Stedman Triples.

This was voted an enjoyable afternoon and evening practice on two very fine peals of eight. Whitechurch Canonorum is situated in the heart of Marshwood Vale, and the bells are heard to great advantage.

VETERANS' BIRTHDAY

As a 75th birthday compliment to Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Elliott, of Kelvedon, Essex, there was some special ringing at St. Mary's Church on Sunday. For evensong a quarter-peal of Bob Minor was rung by N. Steed (age 14) (first quarter-peal) 1, J. Papworth (first quarter-peal 'inside') 2, C. W. Burton 3, J. Elliott 4, A. Mason (conductor) 5, C. Button 6. After evensong, 720 London Surprise Minor: J. Papworth 1, C. W. Burton 2, W. T. Elliott 3, J. Elliott 4, A. Mason (conductor) 5, C. Button 6.

JAMES BARHAM.

By J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

Most of what we know about Barham is derived from a book which he wrote and in which he records the peals he and his band had rung, and other of their doings, with some comments on rival companies. In his old age he gave it to William Holland, of Leeds, and shortly afterwards it was in the possession of W. Laver, of Fulham, but in the course of time it disappeared. A copy was made by John Naunton, of Ipswich, in 1866, and that, too, is lost, but a transcript of Naunton's copy by Samuel Slater in 1867 still remains. It seems that Naunton did a certain amount of editing with the idea of making Barham's meaning clearer. During Barham's lifetime a broadsheet was published by Hall and Son, of Maidstone, giving a list of performances, and an imprint of it is in the British Museum. This professes to be 'a nearly correct copy,' but some emendations are said to have been necessary.

Once or twice the College Youths came in contact with the Leeds Youths. In 1775 the former lost a peal of Bob Major at Rye, after about an hour's ringing, and Barham's band followed them and broke down after ringing 4,768 changes of Kent Treble Bob. In 1770 the College Youths rang 5,056 Oxford Treble Bob at Sevenoaks, and the Leeds men followed it up with 5,184 in the same method. Barham says that the College Youths 'turned 5 bells out of course, which is not allowed.' Exactly what he meant is not clear. To say that the bells were 'out of course' was the same thing, in old phraseology, as saying that there had been a shift, and so it looks like an assertion that the London men got in a muddle and either called or forced the bells home. But that is hardly likely, for the College Youths' standard of peal ringing was a high one, higher than that of the Kent men.

Between Barham's band and the Wye ringers there was a great deal of rivalry, each claiming to be the leading company in Kent. On May 22nd, 1749, the Leeds men rang 5,040 Bob Major at Faversham, and 'the Wye ringers were here at the same time, but rang nothing to talk of at all.' In 1763 the others rang '5,184 Oxford Treble Bob on that celebrated peal of eight bells at Ashford. The truest and best ringing I ever heard for so long a time. Wye ringers at the same time was there and rang a short bit or two, but very badly indeed.' A match was arranged between the two bands to ring for half a guinea a man. In February, 1755, the Wye men visited Leeds. The local band rang 5,040 Bob Major in 3 hours and 10 minutes 'at the first trial,' and the others 'about 2,160 of the same peal though very badly.' Three months later the return match was held at Wye, when Barham's band rang a peal of Plain Bob, 'so we beat them both at home and at Wye, to the great dishonour of that company.'

In 1757 6,720 of Morning Pleasure was rung at Leeds, and in 1763 5,184 of the same method. In 1765 5,400 of Morning Pleasure Royal was rung. The method is a poor one, being Oxford Treble Bob spoilt by making thirds when the treble is lying full behind, and these seem to be the only recorded peals by any band save one at Ashford by the local band in 1768. In 1766 5,056 of Morning Exercise Major was rung at Leeds, and in 1775 5,184 of New Morning Exercise. Morning Exercise is Oxford Treble Bob above the treble and Cambridge Surprise below. New Morning Exercise is probably Kent instead of Oxford. The method is very false, and it is certain that none of these peals was true, nor for that matter were any of the Treble Bob peals rung by Barham's band. Fulham Triples was another method rung, though it does not appear on the broadsheet.

A performance of more than usual interest was one of 5,088 changes of New Oxford Treble Bob at Leeds on June 5th, 1775. A note in the peal book says, 'and never rung before'; and this seems to have been the first peal of Kent Treble Bob ever rung. In 1784 peals of Kent Royal were rung at Leeds and Maidstone under the name of New Oxford. The Kent variation of Treble Bob was the one important contribution of Barham and his band to the development of ringing. It was taken to London, and, although the metropolitan ringers did not adopt it for many years, it was given in the 'Clavis.' Provincial bands in the Midlands and the North began to practise it, and in the early days of the 19th century it almost entirely superseded Oxford, except in the Eastern Counties, where the older variation continued to be almost exclusively rung on eight bells down to the close of the century. In the 'Clavis' it is called New Treble Bob, and Shipway was the first who printed it with the name Kent, but probably it was a title that the London ringers naturally and unthinkingly adopted from the place of its origin.

James Barham lived to a great age and died on January 14th, 1818, in his ninety-third year. He was buried in Leeds Churchyard, and his tombstone records that from the year 1744 to the year 1804 he rang in Kent and elsewhere 112 peals, not less than 5,040 changes each peal, and called the bobs for most of the peals. He actually rang two peals after the record was made, and his last was in 1813, when he was 88 years old, which is probably a record age for any peal ringer. In his ninety-second year he rang the treble to a touch of five hundred of Treble Bob Major.

DEATH OF MR. ROBERT ASHMORE.APPRECIATION OF A BUXTON RINGER.

It is with a deep sense of loss that I pen these few words of appreciation of the worth of Mr. Robert Ashmore, of Fairfield, Buxton, Derbyshire, who entered into higher service on August 20th. Of a cheerful and sympathetic disposition, he was held in high regard by all who came into contact with him.

Originally a ringer at Christ Church, Burbage, Buxton, he had for a long period been connected with St. Peter's, Fairfield, where, in spite of indifferent health, he was instrumental in bringing a young band to the stage of Spliced Minor ringing, and his helpful and kindly manner will be greatly missed in the Fairfield belfry.

He was a member of the Chester Diocesan Guild and had rung several peals under its auspices, his last peal having been rung on June 6th, 1936.

He was laid to rest at Fairfield on Monday week, and in the evening six fellow-members of the Chester Guild rang a half-muffled peal as a token of the respect and esteem in which he was held. C. K. L.

FIRST QUARTER-PEALS.

MELKSHAM.—On August 23rd, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples: Harold Smith (first attempt for quarter-peal) 1, S. R. Cockell 2, J. Jefferson 3, R. H. Legg 4, A. J. West 5, W. C. West (conductor) 6, W. S. Burbridge 7, F. G. Doddimead 8.

MILFORD-ON-SEA, HAMPSHIRE.—On Saturday, August 22nd, at All Saints', 1,280 Cambridge Surprise Major: R. C. H. Connolly 1, R. Philpott 2, A. T. Greenwood 3, R. Overy 4, A. W. Myers 5, T. G. Myers 6, F. S. Bayley 7, F. W. Rogers (conductor) 8. Specially arranged for the ringers of 5 and 6, who hail from Plymouth, this being their first touch in the method. It was intended to attempt a peal, but time did not permit.

GOUDHURST, KENT.—On Saturday, August 22nd, at St. Mary's Church, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples: Ralph E. W. Wenban (first quarter-peal and aged 15) 1, T. E. Sone 2, E. Bishop 3, W. Wenban (conductor) 4, L. Jarvis 5, W. Gorrings 6, J. Powell 7, S. Etheridge (first quarter-peal) 8.

AUGHTON RINGERS IN CHESTER.

On Saturday, August 15th, the ringers of Christ Church, Aughton, together with Messrs. Martin and Bennett, of Bootle, and Mr. Gil-mour, of Liverpool, journeyed to Chester in response to the kind invitation of Mr. Percy Swindley, jun. The party were met at the station, and proceeded to the Cathedral, where Mr. Swindley's father, as well as Mr. G. Sperring, Mr. Sam Jones, jun., and others, were waiting to assist with the ringing. Various methods were brought home in good style, and, after about an hour's ringing, 'Good-bye' was said to this peal of eight with the hope that at some future date there will be two more bells. The whole company then went on to Eccleston, where Mr. Jones was waiting with everything in readiness, and some good ringing was enjoyed on this tip-top ring.

After tea, steps were pointed to St. Mary's-within-the-Walls, and this was where the fun started. It is necessary to negotiate an upright step ladder about 40ft. high to get to the belfry here, and at least one of the party would not try his hand as a human spider, so only about three short touches were rung at this tower before going to the other St. Mary's. This one is at Handbridge. It was here that the best ringing of the day was enjoyed, a touch of spliced Plain Bob, Double Norwich and Little Bob being rung in excellent style, and at 9 p.m. the bells were dropped in peal to bring to a conclusion a grand day spent round Chester with some fine bells and no less fine company. Messrs. Brown and company wish to thank all the towerkeepers and the friends who accompanied them to the various towers for all the enjoyment they had, and Mr. Percy Swindley will ever be thought of in connection with the day.

YOUTHS' HALF-DAY OUT.

Willesborough and District Youths' annual outing, a half-day run, provided them with an enjoyable excursion round about Maidstone. They first called at Boxley, where they were received by Mr. Gosling, and rang Treble Bob, etc., on the handy little six. At Snodland, the next call, the bells had been got up ready for the visitors by Mr. Wanstall, and an hour's good ringing was put in. Going on to Mere-worth, where Messrs. Saunders and Newman were waiting on the sidewalk, the bells were raised in peal, and further touches rung. After the bells had been lowered, there was a hunt for a missing hal, which was eventually found in the hand of another Youth, who is a 'part-time No-Hatter.' Tea at the Torrington and then away through by-ways and hedges to East Peckham, where the Rector and some of the locals welcomed the visitors. Soon the fine old six were going in Oxford, etc., but whether it was the tea, the tomatoes or the tarts, no one can tell, but the ringing was not quite up to standard, and one Youth seemed more interested in Kate (or was it Margaret?) cleaning the brass, than in ringing. At Staplehurst the bells were rather a 'lumpy' lot for boys. Grandsire and Stedman were not so bad; but of the Major, 'nuff sed.' Home was eventually reached after an enjoyable round run of 70 miles, which included five towers visited and eight methods rung. 'Not so dusty,' says our correspondent, 'for Youths ranging from 13 to 70 odd.' He adds that the Youths wish, through 'The Ringing World,' to thank the incumbents, towerkeepers and all who helped to give them such an enjoyable time.

THE OUTCOME OF GENIUS.

The record in the number of methods included in a peal of Minor of only seven extents is steadily mounting. It has been raised now to no fewer than sixty-eight, and the ringing of this total goes to the credit of the Cheshire band. We continue to marvel at the skill which ringers of these multi-method peals display, especially when they have to change from one method to another nearly every lead. The end has not yet been reached of the performances of this kind, and we look forward to even greater achievements in the near future. In expressing richly deserved admiration of the prowess of men who can successfully ring a peal of such intricacy as that last Saturday and those recently accomplished in Lincolnshire, and particularly of the conductors, whose task requires an immense mental concentration, we must remember the man who has made these peals possible.

In increasing the record from sixty-six to sixty-eight methods, the Cheshire band used an extent increased from ten to twelve methods. The bare announcement of it is 'Arranged by A. G. Driver,' and to Mr. Driver are due several other of these extents which contain a large number of methods. Many people may reasonably ask, 'Who is Mr. A. G. Driver?' His name never appears in peal reports; in the past when he has entered into print on any question relating to methods he has done so under a nom de plume. Thus he has never sought the limelight, but the work which he has done has put six-bell ringing on an entirely different footing. Other composers have knitted together numbers of methods into extents, but most of them left the investigation when the maximum number that could be spliced into seven extents was thought to be about forty-five.

Mr. Driver's genius has, however, carried Minor splicing far beyond the bounds of anything that was conceived possible a few years ago, and it is by no means certain that he has reached the limit of the possibilities. The compositions which he has obtained, however, are still far ahead of what has yet been rung, so that ringers can go on in the knowledge that there are further fields to conquer. In Mr. Driver we have a rare phenomenon: Almost a non-ringer who has carried a branch of composition far beyond anything that expert ringers have done. It is, we imagine, the fascination of figures and a mathematical mind which are responsible for all the work he has done in the interests of ringers. We only know of one other case in which a man who did not participate in the practical side of change ringing entered so fully into the scientific investigation of it, and that was the late Mr. W. H. Thompson, who half a century or so ago carried out explorations into the construction

FROM BOB MINOR TO GRANDSIRE TRIPLES.

There are some towers we know, which have had their bells augmented from six to eight, where the ringers, having previously rung little else than Bob Minor, have found a difficulty in turning to Grandsire Triples. Some, indeed, have failed to make anything of the task in their early trials, and have, therefore, contented themselves with ringing Plain Bob Triples. This method on odd numbers is, in these days, taboo in all the best ringing circles, although now and again a band who know better will ring a peal of it just to say they have 'rung one.'

There are, of course, quite good objections to ringing an 'even-bell' method on odd numbers; it makes it a lopsided affair, apart from breaking the now well-established canons of change ringing. But we can understand the difficulties which beset beginners and some of the less experienced ringers when they want to pass from Bob Minor to Grandsire Triples, not only because of the extra bell to be reckoned with, but because the dodging that has to be done comes on a different pair of bells—4-5 instead of 3-4, and 6-7 instead of 5-6, and appears to be done in the reverse way.

Let us try to smooth out some of these stumbling-blocks. First of all, look at the difference in Plain Bob and Grandsire in their simplest form:—

2143 hand	23145 back
4231 hand	34251 back
4321 back	43521 hand
3412 hand	45312 back
3142 back	54132 hand
1324 hand	51423 back
1342 back	15243 hand

In each case the figures between the lines consists simply of plain hunting, but across the line, when there are four bells, second's place is made, leaving two to dodge behind, and when there are five bells the place is pushed out to 3rd's, so that there are still two bells left to dodge behind. If you examine the relative places of the treble, however, you will notice that the changes both on four and on five bells fall at the same stroke, either 'back' or 'hand.' When the treble is in 2nd's and 4th's going up it is a handstroke change, in the other places, going up, it is a backstroke change. Coming down the position is reversed. In 4th's and 2nd's it is backstroke, in the rest it is handstroke.

As you go from Minor to Triples the same rule applies. If you are in the habit of remembering, for instance, that in dodging in 4-3 (down) and 6-5 (down) in Minor the blows in 4th's and 6th's are at backstroke, then recollect also that in dodging in 5-4 and 7-6 in Grandsire the blows in 4th's and 6th's are still at backstroke. Correspondingly in dodging up in Minor your blows in 4th's and 6th's are at handstroke, so in dodging up in Grandsire your blows in 4th's and 6th's will be at handstroke.

It is often because in dodging down in Minor the step backward is at backstroke that a ringer, going from Minor to Triples for the first time, finds it difficult to 'dodge the other way.' The reason for this 'dodging the other way' is the fact that he is dodging one place further back, and once this is realised, the technical difficulty of putting in the dodge should disappear.

As a matter of fact, it is a great advantage to know, in ringing any method, at which stroke the dodge is made; it saves many a bad blow and often a trip. Whether you are ringing on five or twelve bells in plain methods, at all events, the 'odd' places, 3rd's, 5th's, 7th's, etc., are backstrokes, the even places handstrokes, when you are hunting or dodging up; and the reverse when you are on your way down. If you know this when you are ringing Grandsire Triples, for example, it should prevent your trying to dodge with a bell in 5-6, instead of 6-7, because you will realise that your blows are on the 'wrong stroke' for a dodge. The greater the number of bells the more helpful this knowledge is, particularly if the ringing is none too steady and dodging bells are hard to find.

Another thing to remember in going from Bob Minor to Grandsire Triples is that there are two bells in the hunt; that in going up and down when you pass the treble there is another bell to pass, at the next stroke, which is not a dodging bell. And it is the same bell every time until a bob or single is called.

Third's place is made in Grandsire, instead of the 2nd's of Bob Minor, and while in the latter you only concern yourself with the treble, when going to, making and returning from this place, in Grandsire Triples you have the treble and the other bell in the hunt to take into account, and you strike over them alternately in going to, making and returning from the place.

If, in ringing Bob Minor, you are in the habit of remembering the coursing order of the bells, and desire to do the same in Grandsire Triples, recollect that, while in the former the last bell before the treble becomes the first after the treble when the treble has led, in Grandsire treble and bell in the hunt work as one for this purpose, and the last before the treble becomes first after the bell in the hunt, when the treble has led.

What really happens as the result of this additional hunt bell is that the dodging is pushed out one place, and 3-4 becomes 4-5, and 5-6 becomes 6-7. Take the ordinary tables by which some ringers learn their methods and you will see how similar they are:—

	Minor	Triples
Pass treble in 5-6	dodge 4-3 (down)	dodge 5-4 (down)
Pass treble in 4-5	dodge 6-5 (down)	dodge 7-6 (down)
Pass treble in 3-4	dodge 5-6 (up)	dodge 6-7 (up)
Pass treble in 2-3	dodge 3-4 (up)	dodge 4-5 (up)
Pass treble in 1-2	make 2nd's	make 3rd's

The bob making is, of course, entirely different in the two methods, but if the bob caller does his job accurately there should be little difficulty in making the bobs in Grandsire. The bob should be called when the bell which has hunted down in front of the treble leads. The four bells in 4-5 and 6-7 are then in the places where they have to dodge for the bob, and they each have a double dodge. (A 'double dodge' is stepping back twice, instead of once, before hunting on.)

The bob puts the bells one place back in the dodging sequence, but that should not matter to the ringer, because he should be in his dodging place when the bob is called. What should be borne in mind, however, is that the bell that passes treble in 2-3 and was going to dodge in 4-5 up, if there had been no bob, makes 3rd's place, and, taking the treble off at lead, becomes the bell in the hunt.

The bell that was in the hunt is passing through 5-4 when the bob is called; it, therefore, stops in 5-4 for a double dodge and takes its place in the cycle of 'working' bells.

While on the subject of Grandsire we must correct an error which, by a rather inexcusable oversight, was made in our article a fortnight ago, on calling Holt's Ten-Part. We said, erroneously, that by the calling of any number of the parts, true touches in multiples of 518 could be obtained. This, of course, is not so. The first part-end is 246375; the second 267453, and so on, so that in any part after the first (except the 5th where a half-peal would be completed) there would be a repetition of leads of the plain course.

It is a testimony to the number of competent ringers who read these articles that so many of them have written to call our attention to this slip. Some of them also remind us that Reeves' variation of the peal, which, by the insertion of an additional call, brings the part-ends up in plain course order, will give a true touch, however many parts are called.

ELY DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

CENTRAL BRANCH PRESIDENT'S DEPARTURE.

In stormy weather, a meeting attended by about 30 members and friends was held at Haddenham on Saturday. Ringing commenced about 3.30 p.m., and, except for the tea and meeting interval, were kept going until about 9.15 p.m.

A short meeting was held, as it was desired to extend the members' best wishes to the Vicar (the Rev. A. E. Kirkland), who is president of the branch, before his departure to a new church at Hastings.

The District Secretary, Mr. F. Warrington, in voicing the feelings of the members, said the Vicar had helped in many ways to form the Central Branch. The branch would greatly feel his absence, but hoped their loss would be others' gain.

At present there is only one bell in the new church to which Mr. Kirkland is going, but the secretary informed the meeting that it might not remain so—information which Sussex ringers should note.

Mr. H. Collins (local secretary) supported Mr. Warrington in his remarks, and added that the ringers might get as good a friend, but not better.

The Rev. A. E. Kirkland, who was much moved by the remarks made, thanked all for their services. Nearly every Sunday, he said, Haddenham bells were rung for morning and evening services. Bells and bellringers did their duty in more than one respect. People who never attend church were moved by the sound of bells, and the ringers by their labours were helping. The Vicar added he would not forget them. There was much applause at the close of the Vicar's speech.

WHERE THREE COUNTIES MEET.

SUCCESSFUL JOINT MEETING AT EGHAM, SURREY.

Tucked into an extreme corner of the county of Surrey, where the Thames divides it from Middlesex and Runnymede (where King John swore at his barons and then signed Magna Charta) separates it from Berkshire, lies the little town of Egham. Here on Saturday three associations held a joint ringing meeting—the Guildford Diocesan Guild, the Middlesex County Association and the Oxford Diocesan Guild. Over sixty ringers put in an appearance and spent a thoroughly enjoyable afternoon. With the two rings of bells at Staines and the peal at Wraysbury available, in addition to Egham, there was plenty of opportunity for ringing, of which full advantage was taken.

The gathering brought together ringers from a large number of towers, and they attended service in Egham Church. In the absence of the Vicar (the Rev. A. C. Tranter), the Vicar of Stanwell took the service and gave an excellent address. He also presided over the tea, at which, among others, there were present Mr. J. A. Trollope (vice-president) and Mr. F. W. Goodfellow (joint hon. secretary) of the Middlesex Association, Mr. R. T. Hibbert (general secretary), Mr. A. D. Barker (hon. treasurer) and Mr. T. Fowler (District Master, East Berks and South Bucks Branch) of the Oxford Diocesan Guild, Mr. J. S. Goldsmith (hon. secretary), Mr. H. J. Chaffey (Chertsey District Ringing Master), Mr. F. Hawthorne (Chertsey district secretary) and Mr. G. L. Grover (Guildford district secretary) of Guildford Diocesan Guild. Among the visitors were Miss V. Robinson (Wokingham), Mr. T. B. Worsley (Bolton, Lancs), Mr. R. G. King (Royston, Herts) and Mr. J. S. Mason (Oldbury, near Birmingham). Ringers were present from the following towers: Hillingdon, West Ealing, Willesden, St. Giles' and St. Lawrence Jewry, London, Cookham, Staines, Hersham, Leatherhead, Aldershot, Stoke Poges, Reading, Farnham Royal, Kingsbury, Uxbridge, Egham, Isleworth, Kingston, Chertsey, Chiswick, Twickenham, Streatley, Ruislip, Chalfont, Fulmer, Heston, Sunbury, Iver, etc.

There was no formal business to be done, but the Vicar of Stanwell was thanked by Mr. J. S. Goldsmith, and Mr. F. E. Hawthorne welcomed the visiting ringers. He emphasised the value of such meetings, which, he said, enabled ringers to realise that, although they were in different associations, they were all taking part in the same work. He hoped to see these joint meetings made an annual event, and he looked forward, with the co-operation of the other secretaries, to holding a similar meeting next year in Staines.

Mr. J. A. Trollope replied for the Middlesex Association. The spirit of brotherhood among ringers, he said, was the most important thing we possessed. If a man was a ringer he was a member of one great fraternity and was welcome wherever he went. He knew of nothing else like it throughout the land. If a man went into a tower in the uttermost part of England, the first thing the local ringers said to him was, 'Are you a ringer?' If he said he was, they asked, 'What can you ring?' and they would adapt themselves, if they could, to their visitor's standard and make him feel an honoured guest and friend. That spirit was a thing they should prize more than they did. Some of the younger people were inclined to take it as a matter of course, but that should not be so. They should appreciate the welcome they received when they went to a church as visitors. He expressed pleasure at the welcome received that day at Egham, and said meetings of that kind enabled them to meet people they did not come across in the ordinary way. Mr. Trollope added that they were specially pleased to see among them that day Miss Robinson, who bore an honoured name. To many of the younger people, the Rev. F. E. Robinson was only a name, but to the older generation it meant an extraordinary personality. Miss Robinson's father was the first man to ring a thousand peals, and that at a time when they were worth two thousand as they were counted to-day. He used to go all round England and there was something extraordinarily great about what he did. Mr. Trollope also specially welcomed Mr. Tom Hibbert and Mr. T. B. Worsley, and made mention of the presence of Mr. J. S. Goldsmith.

Mr. T. Fowler acknowledged the welcome on behalf of the members of the Oxford Diocesan Guild, and put in an earnest plea for more support for 'The Ringing World.' He urged that regular subscribers should become agents to push the sale. In this connection he suggested that a subscription form should be printed in the paper every week, which those who were seeking new subscribers could use.

Ringing was resumed after the meeting with considerable zest, the towers at Egham and St. Mary's, Staines, being filled with eager ringers. The joint gathering was a great success.

A RINGERS' SERVICE IN LONDON.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I would esteem it a favour if you would allow me the use of your columns to make reference to the service, as advertised in your journal, arranged to take place at St. Michael's Church, Cornhill, on Sunday, September 20th, at 7 p.m.

This service is being held at the kind invitation of the Rector of Cornhill, and, whilst it was originally intended for the members of the Ancient Society of College Youths, a cordial invitation is extended to all ringers and to their wives or friends to be present, in the hope that the attendance may be such as to justify making the service an annual event. I am desirous to make this fact clear to members of all ringing societies, and particularly those of London and the Home Counties. Having seen the printed order of service, which has been specially drawn up and which includes hymns and prayers specially applicable to ringers, in addition to 15 minutes of special music by the St. Michael's choir, I can say that all who attend will find an excellent service awaiting them.

Needless to say, I count upon receiving from the members of the Ancient Society their fullest support on this occasion.

EDWARD P. DUFFIELD.

P.S.—It will be noted that the service does not commence until 7 p.m.

PARKER'S TWELVE-PART.

MOST INTERESTING FEATURES LOST BY TRANSPOSITION.

To the Editor.

Sir,—May I beg for a little space to thank my unknown friend for his kindly interest taken in my twelve-part peal of Grandsire Triples, also the many hands who have rung my poor old twelve-part. The peal is now 43 years old and has had a good run.

I must say that I feel that all this transposing simply robs the peal of its most interesting features, seeing that the original contains the 2.6, 3.6 and 4.8 twenty-four times one way. It also has the twenty-four 5.6.7's one way; that is, at backstroke. I consider those conductors who prefer the 7th for observation show a very poor taste indeed.

DEATH OF TWO PETERBOROUGH RINGERS.

LOSS TO ST. JOHN'S COMPANY.

Death has removed, within ten days of each other, two well-known Peterborough ringers, Mr. Francis Davis and Mr. Frederick Cooke. Both had been in failing health for some time, and death in each case followed an operation in the Memorial Hospital.

Mr. Davis was a native of the city, and for the last few years had been steepkeeper at St. John's Church. He was a member of the old Peterborough and District Association and had taken part in a few peals.

Several local ringers and friends were present at the funeral, and the service was conducted by the Rev. C. M. Coupland in St. John's Church. In the evening the 'whole pull and stand' and various touches were rung with the bells half-muffled.

Mr. Cooke was a native of Fakenham, Norfolk, and was a member of the well-known ringing family of that town. He moved to Peterborough 30 years ago and had been a member of St. John's company since that time. During recent years he had acted as conductor. He was often present at St. Mary's on practice night and proved himself quite a good Surprise Minor ringer. He was a member of the Norwich Diocesan Association and the Peterborough Diocesan Guild, and had rung several peals. He had a quiet, unassuming manner and was greatly respected by all who knew him. His death is a great loss to local ringing generally and his place will be difficult to fill.

His funeral was attended by all the local ringers, and in the evening the 'whole pull and stand' and touches of Grandsire and Stedman were rung with the bells half-muffled.

On Sunday, September 6th, at St. John's Church, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples was rung for evensong with the bells half-muffled as a last token of respect for the two deceased members of the band: V. Butler 1, W. Rose 2, S. Wright 3, T. Vaughan 4, T. Little 5, H. Goakes 6, H. Beechey (conductor) 7, A. Joyce 8.

WARWICKSHIRE GUILD'S PRESIDENT.

DEPARTURE OF THE REV. J. A. B. DAVIES.

The Vicar of All Saints', Chilvers Coton, Warwickshire (the Rev. J. A. B. Davies, M.A.), who is president of the Warwickshire Guild, preached his farewell sermon on Sunday evening last. He is leaving the parish to take up the living of St. James' Church, Hatcham, London. The service was preceded by a quarter-peal of Bob Major (1,264 changes), rung by: C. E. Rayson 1, J. Draycott 2, A. H. Beamish (conductor) 3, P. Stone 4, A. Haswell 5, J. Gibbons 6, H. Harris 7, J. E. Moreton 8.

At the conclusion of the service the Vicar entered the belfry, and Mr. J. E. Moreton, the head ringer, presented him with a silver bell inkstand inscribed: 'Presented to the Rev. J. A. B. Davies, M.A., by the bellringers of All Saints' Church, Chilvers Coton, September, 1936.'

The Vicar, who was taken completely by surprise, thanked the ringers for the gift and also voiced his appreciation of their efforts in the belfry and of the friendship they had always extended to him.

TOURISTS' TRY OUT.A SUCCESSFUL VISIT TO LINCOLNSHIRE.

As a kind of preliminary to the more strenuous activities in Ireland next week, some of the tourists, who leave England for the 'distressful Isle' to-morrow, spent last week-end in Lincolnshire hardening their hands. These 'try outs' have been known in Lincolnshire in other years; this one was a complete success—for all but one man. But then he is not going to Ireland.

As usual, the arrangements, from peals and bands to board and lodgings, were in the hands, and much of it in the home, of the Master of the Lincoln Guild and Mrs. Richardson. There were three peals, Stedman Cinques at Lincoln Cathedral on Saturday, Cambridge at Swineshead and Superlative at Spalding on Monday, and our peal columns testify to their satisfactory conclusion.

The one 'fly in the ointment' fell to Mr. Ernest Morris, of Leicester. He was to have taken part in the peal at Lincoln, but the Fates and the railways ordained otherwise. Grantham seems to play a sinister part in Lincolnshire peal arrangements sometimes. Many readers of 'The Ringing World' will recollect the commotion caused a year or so ago when two 'brass hats' went to Grantham instead of Spalding. In any case the two people concerned have not forgotten it. Last Saturday Mr. Morris wanted to get to Grantham and couldn't, so it seems that ringers, who do not want to get there, arrive, and those who want to arrive don't. Mr. Morris was to have been 'collected' at Grantham by the Surfleet bus, but he missed the connection at Nottingham. An extra man was 'dug up' at Lincoln, and at the finish of the peal the disappointed hon. secretary of the M.C.A. was found outside the tower. What he had said to himself in the meantime doesn't matter to anyone else, except, perhaps, the railway companies.

The president of the Central Council had the pleasure of ringing his first peal at Lincoln Cathedral—where the arrangement of the bells in the tower has a special interest for him as an expert on these matters—and the doubtful pleasure of arriving back in London at 3.15 a.m. on Sunday.

Monday's programme went off according to plan. In the interval threats to start for a handbell peal or peals did not materialise, but the guests at Surfleet were interested in the new provision which has been made to accommodate visitors—360 feet of glass houses heated with a mechanically stoked boiler. It is hoped by this means to 'force' short ringers into tall ones, and save the use of boxes in belfries and the trouble of lengthening ropes. This is a new experiment on the part of Mr. Richardson and will be watched with interest.

Once again the thanks of the visiting ringers are due to the host and hostess for their hospitality.

YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION.SMALL ATTENDANCE AT WESTERN DIVISION MEETING.

When the Western Division of the Yorkshire Association held their quarterly meeting at Batley on Saturday, the attendance was most disappointing. From such a hive of change ringing as Batley is the centre of, one would have expected the attendance to have overtaken the accommodation, instead of which a mere 20 members sat down for tea.

The bells were raised in peal shortly after 3 o'clock, and ringing continued throughout the day in a variety of methods from Plain Bob to Superlative Surprise.

A delightful tea was served in the Schools, followed by the business meeting, over which Mr. P. J. Johnson presided, supported by the Rev. W. A. Taylor, M.A.

On the motion of Mr. T. W. Strangeway, seconded by Mr. W. H. Senior, Mr. H. Armitage, of Huddersfield, was appointed to fill the vacancy on the committee caused by the removal of Mr. C. E. Lawson to Newcastle.

The Chairman, in moving that the best thanks of the association be accorded to the Vicar and wardens for kindly granting the use of the bells, pointed out how appropriate this was, seeing that Mr. Taylor was a very interested party, being a part donor of the bells. The Batley company were very fortunate in having a minister who took such an interest in their work.—This was seconded by Mr. F. W. Dixon.

The Rev. W. A. Taylor, M.A., in replying, spoke of his early days when he learned to ring bells at college, and how his interest had always been in change ringing. He welcomed the association to Batley, and hoped the spirit of bellringing would continue to flourish.

A vote of thanks to the local company for their kind arrangements, and to the ladies for so efficiently preparing and serving the tea, was proposed by Mr. H. Lofthouse, seconded by Mr. John Edmondson.

Mr. W. H. Senior, in replying, said how disappointed he was at the very poor attendance, but that he was always pleased to welcome the association to Batley.

The Chairman once again reproved the members for failing to send in their notices for tea, and pointed out how discourteous this was.

The towers represented were Armley, Bradford Cathedral, Birstall, Brighouse, Drighlington, Earlsheaton, Guiseley, Headingley, Huddersfield, Idle, Keighley, Leeds, Rothwell, Shipley, Sheffield Cathedral, Tadcaster and the local company.

The next meeting was proposed to be held at Rothwell in December, and it is hoped that members will rally round to make this meeting a success.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

Messrs. Gillett and Johnston have received the order to restore the bells at Llanfihangel Rhydeithon Church, Radnorshire.

Mr. R. G. Cousins, of Woodford, Essex, who took part in the London County Association's peal of Stedman Cinques at Bow Church, Cheap-side, earlier this year, has had a rather nasty motoring accident. His many friends will be glad to learn that he is progressing favourably.

The 'rope croft' in Broad Street, Birmingham, which now provides not only bell ropes, as was originally intended by the testator, but many hundreds of pounds per annum for the purposes of St. Martin's Church, has a rival at Great Bissington, Gloucestershire. The Parish Church there has held a piece of ground from time immemorial, the rent of which is devoted to providing bell ropes for the six bells hanging in the Norman tower. The piece of ground is called the 'Bell rope' field.

Mr. James George, we are sorry to say, is still far from well. He still has a distressing cough, the result of his attack of bronchitis and whooping cough. As a result he is not yet able to resume his wonted activities.

The Parish Magazine of Bishop Ryder's Church, Birmingham, has a sympathetic reference to his illness in the September issue. Mr. George is churchwarden and superintendent of the belfry at this church.

A party of well known ringers leave England to-morrow for a peal-ringing tour in Ireland.

The Chester Diocesan Guild meeting which was to have been held to-morrow has been postponed to September 19th.

CREDIT FOR FALSE PEALS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I was very much surprised to read the Rev. J. Maurice Turner's letter in the last issue of 'The Ringing World.' Surely this gentleman cannot seriously know much about the matter. I heartily congratulate you upon every point from commencement to finish of your leading article, and am certain that any other right-minded person will do the same.

With regard to the long peal of Grandsire Cinques at Painswick and the long peal of Stedman Cinques at Southwark, which have now been proved false, I am sure the College Youths feel as I do that we should be sorry to recognise them amongst our records.

JAMES GEORGE.

A PROTEST.

Sir,—I am entirely in agreement with your leader on 'False Peals,' and also I strongly protest against the term 'nosey parker' being applied to those who, by their interest and research, discover the falseness in compositions and variations. They deserve thanks and not abuse.

TREBLE BOB MINOR METHODS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—On August 7th, the following appeared in 'The Ringing World' from one of our experts in figures:—

'Treble Bob methods on six bells, provided they are symmetrical and do not contain four places made in the same change, will always give the extent of the rows.'

On the following Friday, August 14th, another of our experts with figures gives a lead each of four different six-bell methods with the following remarks after explaining their class, etc.:—

'Nos. 1 and 2 are both symmetrical methods and never have more than two places in any pair of rows, but they will not produce extents.'

'On the other hand, Nos. 3 and 4 both have four places in a pair of rows four times in each lead, and yet both will produce the extent of the changes.'

A reply to the above from another of our wizards in the figuring world would be very interesting to the ordinary practical ringer, as well as being an education.

A LOST PEAL.

BROKEN ROPE FOILS FIVE 'FIRSTS.'

On Saturday last, at Burnham, Bucks, a peal of Bob Major was started, but after 3,200 changes the 7th rope, apparently sound, broke below the sally: J. E. Taylor 1, T. Burton (first attempt for Major) 2, C. A. Burgess (first attempt for Major) 3, E. Barrett (first attempt for Major) 4, G. W. Limmer 5, W. H. J. Parker (first attempt for a peal) 6, G. H. Limmer (first attempt as conductor) 7, G. Gilbert 8. The ringing had been good, which made it all the more disappointing. The band afterwards consoled themselves with a good spread at the Five Bells, and threaten to make another attempt at an early date.

THE NORTH OF ENGLAND TOUR.

A NEWCASTLE RECEPTION.

BY W. H. FUSSELL.

We reached the County Hotel, Newcastle, from Whitley Bay, on Monday evening, in good time to respond to the official but kind welcome to the North offered our party by the Durham and Newcastle Diocesan Association. A private room in this high building had been booked, and during the course of three hours' happy and brotherly association refreshments were handed round by the stewards.

The president of the Guild, Councillor Arthur Payne, O.B.E., J.P., wearing his Guild badge of office, took the chair and was supported by Mr. C. L. Routledge, who introduced the visitors to the president.

In offering them a welcome, the president hoped they would enjoy their visit to the capital of the North, and ring all the peals successfully. 'We have looked forward, for several months, to this visit, and it is a great pleasure to have you come to see us and to meet you all personally,' he said.

The Press has reminded me of some of the distinguished ringers from the South of England—Messrs. Williams, Simpson, Pye, Bennett, Shepherd and 'Twissell.' The President referred to the scattered towers in the diocese—some of which the visitors were to call at in the wilds of Northumberland—in a total Guild affiliation of 41 parishes, and to the difficulty in getting a large gathering in depressed areas.

when a heap of builder's rubbish was about to be burned. Seeing a dirty panel with lettering on it, he had it cleaned and restored and found a record of a performance by the ringers of 150 years ago: 'Gateshead, May 10th, 1790. A peal of Grandsire Triples by the Union Society of Gateshead and Newcastle.'

There were three Stephenson's in the band, it was conducted by John, and the members of the same family took part in another, rung in 1829.

The Vicar, Canon Stephenson, kindly came up to the belfry to welcome the tourists (he has done duty in the district 25 years), and he mentioned that the old bells, except one that went to another church, were sold in 1788 to pay for church repairs. The Union Society lost no time by ringing a full peal within two years of the new bells arriving from Whitechapel in 1788.

Around this church a considerable area has been cleared of old Gateshead property to make room for the new high level Tyne Bridge and its approaches, that served as a practical model and afforded data for the design and erection of the famous Sydney Harbour Bridge, N.S.W., on a much larger scale.

Gateshead possesses a strong company of Sunday service ringers, who have recently scored their first peal with Mr. Barber's help, and here, also, was accomplished the first peal conducted by a ringer blindfolded.

A restful afternoon preceded the Stedman Cinques at the Cathedral Church of St. Nicholas (Patron of Mariners), but it was nearly

In supporting the president, Mr. Routledge announced that Mr. Blacklock (Tyne Commissioner) had kindly offered the visitors a launch trip down the river for Tuesday afternoon to view the miles of engineering, shipping and coal works along the banks, but reluctantly the invitation had to be declined. It was cheering news to us Southerners to hear of the growing prosperity of the district.

The evening was enlivened by handbells by the Newcastle men, and a course of Stedman Caters by Messrs. Williams, Pye, Davidson, Barber and Anderson. Several songs were given: 'John Peel' by Mr. Routledge, and 'Blaydon Races, 1864,' by Mr. Owbridge, Mr. Keen putting a 'jerk' into the harmony by ably helping with the pianoforte.

Mr. Fussell, on behalf of the tourists, thanked the Guild for their warm reception. They one and all, he said, appreciated the efforts of the president (a busy citizen, who had taken part in 36 peals for the Guild) to spend an evening with fellow-ringers.

Amongst the company present were Messrs. Pickering, Patterson, Barber, Ditchbourne, Oxley, Gofton, P. Payne, Holmes, Lawson, of Leeds, Keen, Adam Deas, Davidson, Scott, Murray, Owbridge and the three Andersons.

'Auld Lang Syne' was sung by the whole company standing in a circle round the room with 'ringing hands' together, and the gathering closed, after singing 'God Save the King,' at 10.30 p.m.

The 'good nights' did not take so long as usual, for the members realised that two peals a day for a week requires conservation of energy whenever possible. The echo of 'The King' died away in slumber at the Queen's well before midnight, and, on going to bed, Mr. Martin and I well recalled our Melbourne and Sydney friends, who, like the lads of the North of England, wanted us to go everywhere and see everything.

ACROSS THE TYNE.

The morning peal on Tuesday at St. Mary's Church, Gateshead, went well, and we were met by Mr. E. Wilson and Mr. J. Stuart (now in his 72nd year), who for 55 years has been a ringer at this church and has scored 30 peals for the Guild. He vividly remembers the old tower, almost split into two, and the restoration of the church six o'clock before Billy Barber called 'Go,' and it took the ringers half an hour to settle down to an odd-bell method after so much Major. The last hour's striking put a 'Birmingham finish' to the peal, and Mr. Bennett and I were much amused at the eager inquiries from the men, dressing as they came out, about the 'hour' and the nearest 'place'!

In the Squire adjoining some 20 ringers, from Chester and local towers, assembled to hear the peal finish, and it is possible the point policeman thought they were a political crowd, for they talked of nothing but working overtime, being locked in, or 'striking.'

Like St. Dunstan's, London, or St. Giles', Edinburgh, the tower has a graceful lantern terminal and is quite worthy of the praises of generations of City ringers for its internal and external design. It is 193ft. high by about 36ft. square at the base. The earliest campanile was built 1091, destroyed by fire 1216, restored 1359 and extended at later dates. In 1239 Henry III. first granted a Charter to the freemen of Newcastle to dig for coal.

The town is said to have been the site of a Roman station, but it was really founded by Richard, son of William the Conqueror, who, after a futile inroad into Scotland, built the New-Castle in 1080. King Charles in his flight from Oxford reached here in May, 1645.

A quaint old-fashioned village built of local stone that has felt the loss of summer weather, a small church dedicated to St. Outhbert, a small square tower with a light ring of bells recently restored. Just the cosy little place in which to ring a new method for the county of Northumberland. It came into rounds at

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

ASHFORD DISTRICT AND ROMNEY MARSH DISTRICT MEET AT NEW ROMNEY.

A meeting of the Ashford District of the Kent County Association was held at New Romney on Aug. 29th in conjunction with the monthly meeting of the Romney Marsh Guild. Although the weather was not conducive to much ringing, good use of the bells was made until 5 p.m., when tea, kindly provided by the Vicar, was served at the Church Hall. No service was held owing to the Vicar having an engagement elsewhere.

Mr. G. B. Anderson presided at both tea and the business meeting and welcomed the company in the name of the Vicar.

One new member was elected to each society, but other than this there was no business for the Kent County Association.

The Guild accepted an invitation to Stone-in-Oxney for a meeting on Saturday, September 12th.

Votes of thanks were passed to the Vicar for allowing the bells to be used and for his hospitality, also to the ladies for so kindly waiting on the company.

During the evening, in much cooler circumstances, the bells were kept busy, and although the ringing was confined to the standard methods, it was of a high order. This most enjoyable meeting closed by lowering the bells in peal at 7.30. It has been suggested that the last train for a place best kept secret should leave ten minutes later than its scheduled time!

The district secretary wishes to apologise to any who were inconvenienced by the postponement of this meeting from August 8th, and to any who, through no fault of his, went to New Romney on that date for the meeting.

BEDFORDSHIRE ASSOCIATION.

ACTIVITY IN AMPHILL DISTRICT.

A party of ringers, all members of the Bedfordshire Association, made an afternoon tour by car and cycle round the Ampthill district on Saturday. This is an outlying part of the county very seldom visited, and four towers were selected, Maulden, Flitton, Westoning and Eversholt. Each contains a good peal of six bells, and some excellent touches were brought round in a great variety of methods. At Flitton the tenor is about 8 cwt., and 120 Bob Minor was rung in 2½ minutes! How's that for a record 120? The last tower was reached in the dark, but it is so simple, even in outlying districts to-day, with electric light, that it is small inconvenience, and Eversholt bells were kept going until 9 o'clock.

In every tower the company was met by the local ringers, and some good spade work put in. Another run is being planned and anybody may join in who can handle a bell, as all are catered for. Good ringing, an excellent tea at Ampthill, during which the services of a street musician were engaged to play to the company, pleasant riding through delightful country—what more can a ringer want? Best thanks are given to the incumbents and certain others for all they did.

1 p.m. We were courteously received by local hands, let the bells down with thanks, and left for the 'next, please.' Our reserve man took off the part-ends in the daily paper and paid a visit to the inn, where the landlady complained 'she couldn't hear his order for those noisy bells!' Another customer then exclaimed, 'No more noisy than your loud wireless, and that you can shut off when you like!' She afterwards 'tuned in' to the Southern Regional when eight men walked in and demanded attention at the same moment.

HEXHAM.

The Abbey Restaurant gave us lunch at two o'clock, but the start for a peal of Superlative was delayed by a fashionable wedding until nearly 4 p.m. We found our missing links admiring the bridegroom and the bride. We had a good look round the ancient features of the Abbey dedicated to St. Wilfrid, and mounted the wide stone monks' staircase (room enough for a coach to pass) leading up to the ringing room. The whole building was teeming with visitors, none of whom guessed that 'Bob Singles' were being rung as a joy peal for a newly-married couple. This was Shepherd's 'masterpiece' with the locals.

Hexham bells were one of the first octaves to be installed in the North. They were cast at the Whitechapel Bell Foundry in 1741, and were followed by Berwick-on-Tweed in 1754.

The first appellation of the Tyne appears in early accounts of a religious house at Tynemouth. Under its present name it occurs in Bede's Church History in 685. The ancient episcopal dignity of Hexham was derived from Wilfrid, a monk of Lindisfarne, who founded the Cathedral in 673-4. The great St. Cuthbert, of whom so many legends are related, was the third Bishop. I remember the parish of Wistanstow, Salop, claims one legend about him.

Gabriel Lindoff, George Martin and I trained back to Newcastle, leaving George Williams to bring home the peal and his band in the two cars. All reached 'The Queen's' by 9 o'clock for supper, and were congratulated by Mr. Routledge, anxious to hear about the 100 per cent. belfry dividend, and no discount for 'smash.'

BONVILSTON CHURCH BELLS RESTORED. REDEDICATION SERVICE.

In the presence of a large congregation of parishioners, ringers and visitors, the ring of six bells at St. Mary's Church, Bonvilston, Glamorgan, was rededicated on Thursday, September 3rd, by the Lord Bishop of Llandaff. The service opened with the hymn, 'Christ is our corner stone,' and during the ringing of the hymn, 'When morning gilds the skies,' the Bishop and the Vicar (the Rev. Gilbert Thomas), together with the churchwardens, proceeded to the west end of the church. The hymn being concluded, the Bishop, at the request of the wardens (Messrs. R. H. Williams and E. Thomas), rededicated the bells to the service and glory of God. Rounds were then rung by some of the local band with the aid of two visitors.

The Bishop preached a homely sermon on the use of bells in the service of the church. The service concluded with the hymn, 'Hark, hark, my soul,' and the Blessing from the altar steps.

The bells were made full use of during the evening, being rung to various methods by the local band and other ringers.

The bells have been fitted throughout with new headstocks, clappers, ropes, etc., and rehung on ball bearings in the existing frame by Messrs. Gillett and Johnston, of Croydon, to whom great credit is due. The whole job and the 'go' of the bells leaves nothing to be desired.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD.

DEVIZES BRANCH.

A meeting of the Devizes Branch of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild was held at Steeple Ashton on Saturday last. The bells, a ring of six, tenor 19 cwt. in E flat, 'go' fairly well, and good practice was put in by some of the younger members.

The Vicar (the Rev. O. R. Yerbrough) conducted the Guild office in the grand old church, with Miss Bartlett acting as organist, after which adjournment was made to the village institute for tea.

The usual short meeting followed, under the chairmanship of Mr. E. F. White. Mention was made of the passing of Mr. W. E. Greenland, of Devizes, it being stated that the members had been represented at the funeral by the Ringing Master, secretary and Guild assistant secretary. The meeting stood in silence, at the request of the chairman, as a tribute to the memory of the deceased.

Three ringing members and one life member were elected on the proposition of Mr. Green, seconded by Mr. Weeks.

It was decided to hold the next meeting at Bradford-on-Avon in October.

Votes of thanks were passed to the Vicar and organist for the service and use of the bells, and to Mr. W. Bartlett for having everything in readiness.

In his reply, the Vicar said it was always a pleasure to have the Guild visit his parish, and hoped his ringers, who were practically all present at the meeting, would help forward the work of the Guild.

During the evening Keevil tower was visited, the members being met by the Vicar, the Rev. F. M. Weller. These bells (six, tenor 21 cwt.) also go remarkably well, and ringing continued until 8.30 p.m.

During the meeting methods from Grandsire to Cambridge Surprise were rung at both churches. Amongst those who attended were Mr. and Mrs. Connolly (Southampton), Mr. H. J. Ralph (Kington Magna), Mr. E. B. Hampton (Poole) and Mr. Darvil (Uxbridge), and representatives from Devizes (St. John's and St. Mary's), Bishop's Cannings, Rowde, Hilberton, Scend, Holt, Southbroom, Keevil, Warminster, Melksham and Steeple Ashton.

A BERKSHIRE EXCURSION.

'DISTANT' BELLS AT HAMPSTEAD NORRIS.

Some members of the Soaring Deanery Branch of the Oxford Diocesan Guild, with wives and friends, enjoyed an afternoon outing on Saturday, August 22nd. Leaving Wokingham at 1.45 p.m., they first visited Midgham, Berks. The party was met by the Vicar and one of the ringers, and good use was made of this light ring of six until a broken rope put an end to the ringing. This modern church is situated in a most delightful spot, and the visitors would fain have spent more time there. Thatcham was the next call, and an hour's ringing enjoyed on this mellow octave. After an excellent tea, a beautiful run brought the party to the old-world village of Hampstead Norris. Here was found a nice six in good going order, and, ringing on the ground floor in this ancient church, the bells sounded beautifully quiet but distinct, as though the sound came from miles away. The writer has never heard anything quite like it in all his ringing experience. Bucklebury was the last call, and good use was made of this handy ring of eight, although the lighter bells proved difficult to handle for some of the visitors. Glorious weather prevailed, and everywhere the ringers were received with the greatest kindness and cordiality. Thanks are extended to all, both clergy and ringers, among others, Mr. W. Matthews and the veteran Mr. Wigmore, who greeted the party and had the bells ready.

BOLNEY, SUSSEX.—On Sunday, August 30th, for evening service, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples: T. Jeffery 1, A. Gillings 2, C. Starley 3, G. Apps 4, J. Jeffery 5, T. Gasson (conductor) 6, T. Mitchell 7, G. Gasson (first quarter-peal) 8. Ringers of 1, 4, 5 and 7 hail from Cuckfield.

MINOR RECORD RAISED AGAIN.

NOW 68 METHODS IN SEVEN 720's.

Only a fortnight elapsed after the Cheshire company put up a new Spliced Minor record of 66 methods in seven 720's at Marple before they raised the number once again. By the introduction of two additional methods into one of the 720's, making the number in this extent twelve, the methods included in the peal at Disley on Saturday was 68. They were all 'Treble Bob' methods and there were 138 changes of method.

The new 720 is again the work of Mr. A. G. Driver, to whom the Exercise owes so much for the time and patience he has bestowed on this branch of composition. To the band who rang the peal, ringers will again offer their congratulations.

It is not uninteresting to note the number of methods in each 720: 1, twelve; 2, fifteen; 3, thirteen; 4, eight; 5, eight; 6, six; 7, six. Appended is the new extent arranged by Mr. Driver:—

N.U.T.S. VISIT STRANGE TOWERS.

BELLS IN A STRAIGHT LINE.

The Warwickshire Branch of the N.U.T.S. visited a few towers in the South of Warwickshire on August 29th, and were very happy to have with them Mr. A. P. Cannon, the president and 'Chief Nut' of the Tower Snatchers' Association.

By means of car and motor-cycle, the party of six made their way to Studley, where they found quite a novel ring. Both the bells and the ropes by which they are rung are hung in a dead straight line, with the tenor at one end and the treble at the other. The 'ringing chamber' is merely a kind of footbridge, about 4ft. in width, which spans the tower. How does one ring 'rounds' with such a 'rope circle'? However, after initial difficulties had been overcome, several good touches were brought 'straight.'

At Salford Priors, the next tower visited, the trebles were practically unringable, but a course of Grandsire Triples was successfully accomplished with the help of two ringers from Mickleton. After that, the ringers contented themselves with Minor for the rest of their short stay. Close to Salford Priors is Bidford-on-Avon, and here they found a very pleasing ring of six bells. Among other things, a course of Cambridge was rung.

From Bidford a twelve-mile ride brought them to Ullenhall, their last tower of the tour. There are eight bells in this tiny tower, closely packed together in three tiers. The estimated weight of the tenor is 4½ cwt. and none of the bells has a stay or slider. At first, when some of the lighter bells were rung up, difficulty was experienced in checking them, and they went right over, only to be pulled back by two ringers hauling on to the end of the rope. One ringer, with a few hundred towers to his credit, confessed he was really frightened of them. Very soon, however, the band got the 'feel' of the bells, and touches of Minor were successfully brought round, before a broken tenor rope put an abrupt end to any further ringing.

RESTORATION OF A DEVON PEAL.

BELL FRAME STRENGTHENS TOWER AT HARPFORD.

With the sun shining gloriously, the ancient little church of Harpford, Devon, presented an animated scene on Saturday, August 29th, when the restored peal of bells was rededicated by the Right Rev. the Lord Bishop of Crediton.

There was an exceptionally large attendance of parishioners and visitors, and many were unable to find room in the church during the service.

The bells, a ring of six with tenor 7 cwt., have been entirely relung with modern fittings, carefully tuned and fixed in a scientifically designed steel and iron frame. The work involved special consideration of the tower, and has been admirably carried out by Messrs. Gillett and Johnston. The girders are so arranged with concealed fish plates that the tower walls are now bonded together in all directions. It was remarked that, whereas formerly the tower rocked considerably when the bells were rung, there is now no appreciable movement. The 'go' is perfect, and the tone, although the frame is in two tiers, is quite even.

The service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. G. H. Greenslade), assisted by the Rev. C. E. J. Goyer, of Tipton St. John, and the Rev. F. Perry, of West Hill, an admirable sermon being preached by the Bishop. A large number of clergy were in attendance.

The bells were chimed during the dedication, and immediately following the service a well-struck 120 of Grandsire Doubles was rung. They were kept going during the whole afternoon and evening. Forty ringers were present from Feniton, Collaton Raleigh, Ottery St. Mary, East Budleigh, Sidmouth, Exeter and Croydon, including Mr. J. Godfrey, district secretary of the Devonshire Guild. It is interesting to note that Mr. Godfrey was present when the bells were first installed in 1855.

The visitors and ringers were afterwards entertained to tea by Mr. Willoughby Smith, one of the most generous subscribers to the bell fund.

The success of the scheme is principally due to the energy of the Vicar.

The bellfounders were represented by Mr. F. C. W. Stevenson.

A SOMERSET TOUR.

NOT ALL PEAL RINGING.

Departing from the custom of making two peal attempts a day the feature of their tour, the company which visited Somerset last week spent a very enjoyable time. Our peal column record half a dozen peals of Surprise Major and Royal—London, Yorkshire, Bristol and Superlative Major and Cambridge and Yorkshire Royal.

In addition the party visited and rang at Chewton Mendip, Chew Magna, Clevedon, Dunster, Old Cleeve, Queen Camel, Martock, Street and Congresbury.

ALDERSHOT RINGERS MARRIED.

BRIDE AND BRIDEGROOM TAKE PART IN HANDBELL RINGING.

For the third time within 15 months two ringers associated with the band at Aldershot Parish Church have been united in matrimony. On Saturday the wedding took place of Mr. Percival L. Eldridge and Miss Marjorie Winifred Smith, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Smith, of Aldershot. The bridegroom graduated to the belfry from the choir as a boy, and has been a ringer for some ten years or more. He is still a member of the choir. Miss Smith has been a ringer for about five years, and rang her first peal for the late King George's Silver Jubilee. Both bride and bridegroom are popular members of the Guildford Diocesan Guild, whose meetings they regularly attend. They have also formed part of the 'mechanism' of a certain 'ringing machine' which was demonstrated in London after the last Central Council meeting.

The wedding ceremony, at which the Vicar, Canon H. le Fleming officiated, was fully choral and was attended by many friends, including the ringers. The bride was given in marriage by her father and was attended by three bridesmaids, the Misses Joan Stillman and Molly Goode (old school friends of the bride), and little Miss Pauline Smith (cousin). The bride was attired in white satin, with wreath and veil, and carried a shower bouquet of pink roses. The bridesmaids were dressed in green silk crepe and carried floral muffs of yellow roses. The elder bridesmaids wore jewelled clips, and the younger attendant a bracelet, the gifts of the bridegroom. Mr. C. W. Denyer (district secretary of the Guildford Diocesan Guild and a member of the Aldershot company) was best man.

After the wedding ceremony the bridal pair left the church through the belfry and passed under the crossed ropes held by the ringers. Then the bells rang out to speed the happy couple.

The reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, and the guests saw the unique spectacle of bride and bridegroom taking part in handbell ringing as part of the celebration of their marriage. Afterwards the happy pair left, amid the good wishes of their friends and the clanging of handbells on the railway platform, for a honeymoon at Eastbourne.

The bride's gift to the bridegroom was a gold signet ring, and the groom's gift to the bride a handbag. The ringers of Aldershot tower presented them with a dinner service, and the choir gave a frameless mirror. From his colleagues in the office of the Farnborough Urban District Council Mr. Eldridge received a canteen of cutlery.

'GET A MOVE ON.'

Now is the time to 'get a move on.' With the return of longer evenings there are many towers where practices, suspended during the summer months, will be resumed. Much as keen ringers may regret the dropping of the weekly practice in the belfry, there are in many places circumstances which make this course almost inevitable. Outdoor recreations claim a lot of ringers; more important work of the garden and field make irrevocable demands upon others, so that those who would be prepared to keep up the practice in the tower find their ranks so depleted that it is just a waste of time to meet. We may lament it, but there it is, and the next best thing is to make an early start in the late summer, and endeavour to arouse a fresh enthusiasm. Indeed, we have heard it argued in favour of a summer break in the practices that the ringers do actually return with a new zest. Where that is the case there may not be, in the end, much lost ground to make up, but there is always the danger that some who are not so keen as the rest will continue to stay away from the practices, especially if attendance does not fall in with their own personal convenience.

But now that attention is being turned once more to serious and regular practice in a large number of towers, we would emphasise the desirability of every band setting before it a goal which will take them to something higher than they are at present doing, or will lead them to branch out into some fresh path. The men who rang Plain Bob or Grandsire last winter should not be content with only Plain Bob or Grandsire next winter. If the truth be known, the suspension of practice in the summer is chiefly in those towers where little progress in method ringing is made. If there is a continual striving for something more advanced, there would never be lack of interest. The field of change ringing is so wide that there is something new for everyone, and one of the worst things that a ringer or a band can do is to stagnate.

If a band has devoted its attention to Grandsire alone, there is Stedman as well as a number of other plain methods to be practised and rung, assuming they have yet no inclination to investigate the far larger scope of even-bell ringing. Compared with Doubles, Minor offers a far wider field; compared with Triples, Major provides infinite possibilities. The Snowdon and other publications, with instructions how to ring the more popular methods, open the way to the first stages of advancement; the Central Council volumes provide a vast field for the purpose in view. It is not to be expected, of course, that a band whose present limit is, say, Bob

Major, will reach all at once the higher flights of Surprise ringing, or of those whose attention has been confined to Doubles to step in one season to those flights of spliced ringing such as have excited admiration in recent months. But none of these things are beyond the reach of a band, however humble their status, who will seriously set about the task. In doing so they will help to raise the general level of the art and add greatly to their own interest in it.

WINCHESTER AND PORTSMOUTH DIOCESAN GUILD.

A quarterly meeting of the Alton and Petersfield District was held at Froyle. Among those present were Mr. G. Williams (Ringing Master), Sir C. J. Hubert Miller, Bart., the Rev. C. H. Sangster (Vicar of Froyle) and members from Alton, Blackmoor, Froyle, Petersfield, Steep, Soberton and North Stoneham. There were also visitors from Ash, Bramley, Pirbright and Sandhurst, 28 altogether. The bells were rung in the afternoon to the standard methods, and the Guild's office was conducted by the Vicar, who gave an interesting address. Tea was provided at the Shrubbery House by kind invitation of Sir Hubert Miller, and the usual business meeting followed.

In the absence of the district chairman (the Rev. F. G. Eyres), Sir Hubert was voted to the chair. Several apologies for non-attendance were received.

The next meeting was fixed for November 7th at Binsted.

Mr. A. Brownjohn applied, on behalf of the Froyle ringers, for an instructor to assist them in the winter months, and Mr. A. Hardiman kindly consented to undertake to visit the tower when possible.

Votes of thanks were accorded to the Rev. C. H. Sangster and the organist, also to Sir Hubert Miller for his kind hospitality.

Sir Hubert afterwards personally conducted the party round his gardens and grounds, and the members later returned to the tower for further ringing.

FOR BEGINNERS.

ATTEMPT SOMETHING FRESH.

In the leading article on the front page of this issue it is urged that every band during the coming winter's practices should endeavour to advance in method ringing, by attempting something fresh. There is always a liability to get into a rut, sometimes through indifference, sometimes owing to the irregularity of some members which retards progress. There is nothing like practising something new to stir up and retain interest. The members of an orchestra or chorus would soon lose their interest if they never practised anything but the same piece. Ringers, too, can grow tired and stale in a similar way, but a change of method will keep them interested, and the more variety they introduce into their activities the more they will want to advance. We hope in the next week or two to make some suggestions in this column which may help young bands, and some older ones, perhaps, to break away from their rut.

First of all a word or two for those five-bell ringers whose scope is the most limited of all, and those who, while they have the bells with which to expand their practice, are content to 'stick.'

Most of the few methods on five bells are made up of plain hunting, broken by the insertion of a 'place' or places in third's. For the benefit of those who are only just starting into change ringing we may, perhaps, explain that plain hunting is moving the position of your bell a step at a time right through the other bells; that is, after you have led, you move up and strike once in second's, once in third's, once in fourth's, twice in fifth's (or a whole pull behind); then move down, and strike once in fourth's, once in third's, once in second's and then lead a whole pull. If this operation is carried out by all the five bells, they will come round in ten changes. A 'place' is made when a bell in its hunting course stays in one position for two blows, or a whole pull, but the whole pull at lead and the whole pull behind are not called 'places.'

If any other 'place' than 3rd's is made on five bells, you at once depart from true 'Doubles,' for 2nd's place or 4th's, inevitably means that only one pair of bells instead of two pairs can change. All the while 3rd's place only is made it is possible to produce a series of rows of true double changes.

The pure Doubles methods that are rung, therefore, are produced merely by the variation or multiplication of the 3rd's places used. Further variety in methods can be obtained by the introduction of 2nd's place or 4th's when the treble is leading or lying its whole pull behind, but, as we have indicated, this at once takes them out of the category of pure Doubles.

Now the simplest of all methods is 'Original,' so called because it is the foundation of all change ringing. It consists of plain hunting only. A course consists of ten changes only, but the whole of the 120 can be produced by the use of bobs and singles, and we suggest to ringers who now confine their attention to Grandsire Doubles that they should turn their attention to 'Original,' for this reason: You can learn quite easily to ring all the Doubles methods by ringing Original. Grandsire Doubles is only Original with a bob inserted every time the treble has led, and another one on alternate occasions when it begins its lead.

Practise Original and call the bobs in other places and you will have a useful introduction to rest of the methods. When a bob is called the bell hunting up through 2-3 makes 3rd's and returns to the front, the two bells behind in 4-5 make a dodge; that is, each steps back a place before hunting on.

The bob-making can be reversed, and when the call is made, the bell hunting through 4-3 down makes 3rd's and hunts back up, while the two bells in front in 1-2 make the dodge.

LLANDAFF AND MONMOUTH DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION

SUCCESSFUL MEETING AT NEWTON, PORTHCRAW.

After a lapse of ten years, a meeting of the Llandaff and Monmouth Diocesan Association was held at Newton, Porthcawl, Glamorganshire, on Saturday last. The morning was one of the wettest of the year, with almost a continuous downpour, but later the sun shone out and the afternoon proved a real late summer one. The earlier weather no doubt kept many away from the meeting; nevertheless, there was very good muster, including the young band from Penarth. The Rector unexpectedly had to leave early, and the service had to be held half an hour earlier than arranged for. He gave a cordial welcome to all to the old parish and hoped it would not be long before another visit was paid. A bountiful tea was kindly provided by the Vicar and the friends of the church. Several lady ringers were present, chiefly from Llangynwd.

The business meeting which followed was presided over by the Rev. S. Glyn Morgan (curate).

Many items were dealt with, including restorations and augmentations. It was reported that the Bonvilston bells were again in ringing order, new headstocks, gudgeons, etc., having been fitted to the old bells and replaced in the old frame by Messrs. Gillett and Johnston. It was also reported that the order has been placed with Messrs. Taylor and Co. to erect a new peal of eight, with a tenor 183 cwt., in Ebbw Vale Parish Church. The same firm are also adding two more bells to the existing six at Llanfrechfa.

Several new members were elected, including practically the whole of the Cowbridge band, whose bells were restored last year.

After the usual votes of thanks the tower was again visited, the standard methods and Cambridge being rung. The meeting was a very pleasant and successful one. The next meeting will be held at Caerleon.

SUFFOLK TOURS.

STRANGE TOWERS VISITED.

On Saturday, August 22nd, the members of Rushmere St. Andrew, Suffolk, accompanied by ringing friends from St. Matthew's, St. Clement's, St. Mary-le-Tower, Ipswich, and Tuddenham St. Martin, held their outing to East Suffolk churches. Leaving by coach at 1.30 and going via Ipswich, the first call was at Monewdon, a light ring of six. Next they went on to Dennington, a ring of six with tenor 19 cwt. This was a great contrast from the previous stop. After ringing and visiting the old church a move was made to Worlingworth (a medium ring of eight). Here some creditable Bob Major was rung, considering that some had never rung on eight before. Tea being the next item of interest, a short run was made to the Royal Oak Inn, Laxfield. A visit was then paid to the adjoining tower for a ring on this good six (tenor 15 cwt.). These hang in reverse positions and caused some confusion at first to those not having much experience. On the way home a call was made at Benhall for ringing on the light peal of six. On the way through these narrow and winding lanes the 'guides' got mixed and took the wrong turning so that the party arrived rather behind time. Here a group photograph for record was taken. Although it was very dull and the hour 8 o'clock, it proved successful. The last call was at Marlesford to ring on the light ring of five. Here 'a limb of the law' (himself a ringer) met the visitors and saw them safely on the road for home, which was reached at 10.30 after an enjoyable trip.

On Saturday afternoon, August 29th, seven members of St. Clement's, Ipswich, had a trip into West Suffolk. They travelled by train to Stowmarket, where they were met by car by Mr. A. R. Woodward (a friend of the band), who took them on the tour. Calling first at Bardwell, the six bells were found to hang 234156, although in a good circle. This caused some confusion, but was soon got over and ringing was done by all. The next stop was at Great Livermere, a small church with thatched roof and wooden tower containing a light ring of five. After ringing, followed by tea at Fornham Martin and a ring on the six bells, they went on to Fornham All Saints, where there is a light ring of five in a small tower. A call was then made at Great Barton (6) and Great Finborough (6). At the last place is a good ring of bells, but the howling effect and noisy belfry do not add to the enjoyment. Stowmarket was reached in time to catch the nine o'clock train for home after a pleasant outing.

Grandsire, 2 is New Grandsire, 3 is Reverse New Grandsire, and 4 is Reverse Grandsire. If it were rung as Original you would have to call a bob at every place marked; if you ring it as a method you call bobs only at the alternate 'leads' of the treble.

But with Original you need not keep the treble plain hunting all through. In these examples, treated as Original, the treble is the 'observation' bell, but any bell can be the observation bell, and, therefore, you can get quite a variety of extents. Keep your observation bell plain hunting, put in a bob regularly at every ten changes so that it is not affected by the call, and then, in alternate 'tens,' put in another bob (either immediately before or immediately after the regular bob, according to where the latter is called), and you can make up your own extents. The singles are made by the two bells which dodge at a bob, lying a whole pull instead. Insert the single in one of the 'tens' (or courses) instead of a plain change, and call the next one exactly 60 changes later.

Now figure out some extents for yourselves and go and ring them; never mind if what you produce is already known as a method.

NORTH WEALD RESTORATION.

TOWER STRENGTHENED AND BELLS REHUNG.

The bells of St. Andrew's Church, North Weald, Essex, were rededicated on Saturday, September 5th, by the Archdeacon of Southend after being retuned and rehung.

When the tower and bells were examined last year serious defects were found in the building, and an undue amount of movement in the frame. The tower had split, vertically, in two—a large crack running the whole height of the west wall and another on the east wall from the tower arch upwards. Indeed, when the bells were rung considerable movement was noticed at the cracks, and the bells joyously rocked on a concertina-like frame.

The tower is a fine piece of brickwork, built possibly towards the end of the 15th or beginning of the 16th century. The bricks have weathered a lovely dark red colour, and on the day of the rededication the weathercock—regilded for the occasion—proudly raised its head aloft.

The fine brick tower of North Weald Church.

The tower has been strengthened by the insertion of two reinforced concrete girdles inside the structure, one of which forms a foundation for the bell frame, and the cracks bonded and stitched. At the same time, the interesting fireplace in the priests' room was opened out.

Two new wooden frame sides were found to be necessary and these were made in English oak. All four frame sides have been bolted down to the reinforced concrete girdle, and the bells arranged in a way which made it possible to rebuild the damaged arch of the newel staircase where it enters the bell chamber.

The bells have been rehung on ball bearings and go like 'tops.'

Both the building and bell work have been well done, and interest was shown by all those who took part. Great credit is due to the builder, Mr. Henry Potter, of Chelmsford, and to Messrs. Mears and Staibank, who both acted under instructions from the architect, Mr. Walter E. Troke.

At the service, which was attended by many parishioners and members of the Essex Association, the prayers were said by the Vicar, the Rev. Oswald Gosney, and the Venerable Archdeacon Blayne gave a homely address based on the text, 'Do all to the glory of God.'

THE LANCASHIRE ASSOCIATION DINNER.

VISITORS TO BE RECEIVED BY THE LORD MAYOR.

Arrangements for the annual dinner of the Lancashire Association, to be held at the Bear's Paw Restaurant, Liverpool, on October 31st, are now well in hand. The dinner is timed to commence at 6 p.m. prompt and distinguished visitors have promised to be present.

The Rt. Hon. the Lord Mayor of Liverpool will hold a civic reception at the Town Hall for all visitors at 3.30 p.m. The Lord Mayor has graciously intimated that he will provide afternoon tea for the visitors to the Town Hall.

If any visitors feel interested and also energetic enough, arrangements have been made for a party to visit the Cathedral tower. By climbing several steps the visitors may proceed to the top of the present building, which is about the position of the bell frame. Meet at Cathedral at 2 p.m. prompt.

Tickets for the dinner, 4s. each, are now ready, and may be obtained from Mr. Claude I. Davies, 58, Dumbabin Road, Liverpool 16, but please enclose stamped addressed envelope with remittance.

SUSSEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

A meeting of the Eastern Division was held at Salehurst on Saturday, September 5th, when members attended from Battle, Hastings (All Saints'), St. Leonards, Hailsham, Heathfield, Brede, Brighton (St. Nicholas'), Eastbourne (St. Saviour's), together with Mr. W. Pickworth (Hastings), Mr. F. Oakshett (Kent), Mr. Barker (Middlesex) and Mr. Haig (Wokingham). The Vicar (the Rev. C. E. Ward) conducted the service and gave a very appreciative address on service.

In the unavoidable absence of the Vicar, Mr. W. Franks, of Battle, presided at the tea and short business meeting which followed. The Vicar was made an hon. member of the association.

Mr. Pickworth proposed a hearty vote of thanks to the Vicar for the use of the bells and to the local secretary for making arrangements for the meeting. The members then returned to the tower and the bells were kept going until 8.30.

DUDLEY AND DISTRICT GUILD.

The quarterly meeting of the Dudley and District Guild was held at St. Peter's Church, Kinver, on September 5th, but, owing to the inclemency of the weather, a very poor muster turned up. The bells were placed at the disposal of the visitors from 3 o'clock, and the Guild service was held in the church at 4.30, conducted by the Rev. F. Brighton, Vicar of Instone, Staffs (who is doing duty for the Vicar of Kinver during his absence on holiday). He also gave a short but very able address.

After tea, which was partaken of at the Woden Cafe, the business meeting was held under the chairmanship of the Rev. F. Brighton, who gave the members a hearty welcome to Kinver on behalf of the Vicar (the Rev. J. Mercer). The next meeting is to be held at Wednesbury, and the quarterly peal attempted at Kinver, the arrangements being left with the Ringing Master.

Several new members were added to the roll.

At the close of the meeting the best thanks of those present were accorded to the Vicar of Kinver and to the Rev. F. Brighton. Thanks were also given to Mr. Percy Handley for making arrangements for tea and the meeting, and to the organist for his services. The chairman thanked the members on behalf of all concerned.

Some rounds were rung for the dedication, and afterwards 720 of Kent Treble Bob Minor formed the opening touch. The changes were well struck and the excellence of the tone of the retuned bells heard to advantage. The bells ring out across the fields, and even underneath the tower can be listened to with ease and pleasure.

The weather made it impossible to have tea on the Vicarage lawn as was intended, and it was laid in the Schoolroom. The ladies of the congregation not only served but provided all the eatables—a splendid effort.

The Vicar spoke about the work which had been carried out, and gave details of the amount so far collected. This small, scattered parish has done magnificently; but there is yet over £100 to collect to wipe off the debt.

Mr. E. J. Butler, secretary of the South-Western Division of the Essex Association, spoke appreciatively of the work, and congratulated the ringers and parish and all who had been connected with it.

After tea the bells were rung to various methods until nine o'clock, Plain Bob, Kent, Cambridge, Oxford and Grandsire being the methods indulged in.

Thirty-three ringers were present from 15 towers, and the opening touch was rung by Messrs. W. Watson (Romford), G. Black (Woodford), E. Runter (Springfield), A. Pye (Romford), E. J. Butler (Romford) and Pavey (Leytonstone). Many were the favourable remarks made by the visitors.

The concluding touch of the day was 720 Bob Minor, rung by F. Whitty 1, B. Burton 2, G. Samms 3, H. King 4, L. A. Cordell 5, W. Wedlock (conductor) 6. This was a perfect piece of striking and the bells were lowered at the finish in fine style.

It now remains for Mr. Harry King, in his enthusiasm, to continue the excellent work he is doing in training a local band—or should we say bands? for he has about 20 keen recruits eager to learn the intricacies of the art.

DEATH OF LIVERPOOL RINGER.

By the death of Mr. Ernest Jones on Saturday, August 29th, the ringers of St. Nicholas' Church, Liverpool, lose a valued colleague.

Mr. Jones was formerly of Shrewsbury, where he learnt to ring at St. Chad's Church in the days of Mr. George Byolin. He rang for a time at St. Peter's, Woolton, but for the last 15 years he had allied himself to the tower of St. Nicholas'. Up to the last few months deceased rang regularly for Sunday service. He took part in upwards of 50 peals in the standard methods and Cambridge Surprise Major, Royal and Maximus, Superlative and the only peal of London Surprise Major in the city.

Mr. Jones, who was 55 years of age, was buried at Allerton Cemetery on Wednesday, September 2nd, the towers of Childwall, Garston and St. Nicholas being represented at the graveside. The deep sympathy of all is extended to his widow and family in their sad bereavement.

TOUR INTO LEICESTERSHIRE.

On Saturday, September 5th, a party of bellringers from Darley Dale, Ashover and Matlock, accompanied by lady and non-ringing friends, went by motor-coach on a tour into Leicestershire. The first call for ringing was at Ashby de la Zouch, then on to Nuneaton for lunch and an hour's ringing on the bells at Chilvers Coton Church. Earl Shilton was visited during the afternoon and an hour's ringing was enjoyed on the bells.

Leicester was reached in time for tea and to spend the evening looking round the city. Several of the ringers came in touch with a party of ringers from Luton and spent the evening ringing at St. John's Church. Leaving Leicester about 9 p.m., Darley Dale was reached about 11.30 p.m., all agreeing that they had had a splendid day's outing. Methods rung during the day were Grandsire, Stedman and Oxford Bob Triples, Bob, Little Bob, Kent Treble Bob and Double Norwich Major.

MEETING IN PEAK DISTRICT.

The Peak District meeting at Ashover was well attended by over 20 members and friends from Ashover, Whittington, Chesterfield, Bolsover, Darley Dale, Edinburgh, Eyam, Sheffield, Matlock, Dore, Norton, Preston, etc. The bells were kept going and good touches brought round of Forward, Little Bob, Grandsire, Stedman, Double Norwich and Cambridge Surprise.

Tea, provided by the Ashover ladies, was enjoyed by all, and the company were honoured by the presence of the Vicar of Ashover, who mentioned in a short speech that he and his father together had had charge of the parish for over 100 years.

ANSTEY BELLS.RINGERS' EFFORT SECURES RECASTING OF THREE LARGEST.

For many years the 6th, 7th and tenor bells at St. Mary's Church, Anstey, Leicestershire, urgently needed recasting, but it was left undone owing to the difficulty of raising the necessary funds. Just over two and a half years ago the Anstey ringers undertook to raise the money required to recast these three bells. A few minor repairs, including new ball bearings, pulleys to all eight bells, etc., have also been undertaken.

The happy consummation of the ringers' efforts was seen on Saturday, when the three bells, which have been recast by Messrs. John Taylor and Co., were rededicated by the Right Rev. J. J. Willis, Assistant Bishop of Leicester, in the presence of a large congregation. The service, which lasted just over an hour, was very bright and inspiring throughout. Eight members of the local band rang a few opening rounds after the dedicatory prayers. The Bishop preached a short but very interesting sermon, in which he referred to his many years' work in South Africa. The service came to a fitting conclusion with the singing of the 'Hallelujah Chorus.'

Immediately after the service an opening touch of 168 Stedman Triples was rung by five members of the local band, with Messrs. C. Harrison, E. Morris and A. Ballard, and conducted by the local Ringing Master, Mr. Redvers F. Elkington.

Tea was served in the Church Rooms and tunes played on the hand-bells by Messrs. E. Morris, J. Morris and S. H. Harrison were much appreciated.

The tower was kept open till 9 p.m. and the 50 or more ringers present made good use of the bells. Many of the ringers had come from places many miles distant. The ringing ranged from rounds and Grandsire Doubles to London and Bristol Surprise Major.

Everyone was loud in their praise of the musical qualities of the recast bells, and Anstey now possesses a perfectly balanced peal of eight which, for their weight, would be hard to beat. Messrs. John Taylor and Co. are to be congratulated upon carrying out a very satisfactory job.

In addition to the reproduced old inscription, the recast tenor bears the inscription:—

'Recast in the year of the accession of King Edward VIII. J. Stewart, Rector. J. T. Bliffe, J. A. Bramley, Churchwardens.'

The recast tenor weighs 10 cwt. 2 qr. 4 lb. and is nearly 2½ cwt. heavier than the old tenor. The 6th and 7th have been increased in weight in proportion. Thus a long needed improvement has been brought to a happy and successful conclusion.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

The special service for ringers, to be held at St. Michael's Church, Cornhill, London, at 7 p.m. on Sunday, will, it is hoped, attract a large attendance. It is a new departure in London, and the College Youths, for whom it was originally arranged, will, we are sure, be well supported by members of other societies. There will be ringing from six o'clock.

Mr. W. J. Nevard, the Essex veteran, rang his 440th peal at Kirby-le-Soken last Saturday. He is in his 81st year.

Ladies' peals are few and far between, but one was rung on Wednesday of last week at St. George's, Southwark—a very good peal of Stedman Triples.

It will be noted in the report in our peal columns that the usual prefix applied to a lady of Mrs. or Miss is missing. No, that is not intended as a pun, but we wondered if some of the husbands did not know that their wives were away on a peal ringing expedition and this little ruse is hoped to hoodwink them!

By the way, the first Ladies' Guild meeting in the Eastern Counties (if Lincolnshire is not an eastern county) is to be held at Norwich on November 21st. East Anglian lady ringers will specially welcome this visit.

Members of the Leeds and District Society are asked to note the change of time for the business meeting at the gathering at Rothwell on September 25th. See notice.

Although the Central Council 'Collection of Minor Methods' is officially out of print, some of the association secretaries have copies available. Mr. A. D. Barker, hon. secretary of the East Berks and South Bucks Branch of the Oxford Guild, has two for sale. A new edition is shortly to be printed.

The dedication of the bells at Skillington is to take place on Saturday.

Prebendary Morgan's record at Stoke Lacy must be almost unique. He has been 60 years at the church, 10 years as curate and 50 years as Rector. A peal in his honour was rung on Sunday.

DEATH OF MR. JOHN PHILLIPS.

FORMER LINCOLN GUILD DISTRICT SECRETARY.

We regret to record the death at his home, Sunnyside, Sawtry, Huntingdonshire, of Mr. John Phillips, who passed away on September 5th, after a long period of indifferent health, at the age of 60 years.

Mr. Phillips was formerly a district secretary of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild, which he represented on the Central Council for several years.

THE IRISH TOUR.

The tour in Ireland, in progress this week, includes visits to the following churches for peal attempts:—

Saturday, 12th.—Christ Church Cathedral, Dublin; ten bells, tenor 39 cwt.

Sunday, 13th.—Service ringing at St. Patrick's Cathedral, Dublin, and Christ Church, Bray.

Monday, 14th.—St. Macartin's Cathedral, Enniskillen; ten bells, tenor 22 cwt.

Tuesday, 15th.—St. Columb's Cathedral, Londonderry; ten bells, tenor 32 cwt. St. Patrick's, Coleraine; eight bells, tenor 20 cwt.

Wednesday, 16th.—St. Patrick's, Ballymena; eight bells, tenor 18 cwt. St. Nicholas', Carrickfergus; eight bells, tenor 14 cwt.

Thursday, 17th.—SS. Philip and James', Holywood; eight bells, tenor 13 cwt. St. Comgall's, Bangor; eight bells, tenor 21 cwt.

Friday, 18th.—St. Malachi's, Hillsborough; eight bells, tenor 20 cwt. St. Peter's, Drogheda; eight bells, tenor 21 cwt.

Saturday, 19th.—St. Patrick's Cathedral, Dublin; twelve bells, tenor 45 cwt. St. George's, Dublin; eight bells, tenor 20 cwt.

RINGER BUILDS CHURCH CLOCK.

CURIOUS TIMEKEEPER FOR ELDERSFIELD PARISH CHURCH.

The Bishop of Worcester dedicated on Saturday a curious clock which has been installed in the tower of Eldersfield Parish Church, near Tewkesbury. The clock is the work of Mr. John Carter, a blacksmith, of Tirley, who is also a well-known ringer in the Severn Valley between Tewkesbury and Gloucester.

The clock has taken Mr. Carter some 15 years to build. The frame is made of pieces of English oak that were once a gate post; wheels have been constructed out of winnowing machines, bicycles and a lawn mower; and other parts of the clock from little pieces of harness, ironwork from the tail board of a cart, part of an old steel poker, spring from a gramophone, an old door-knocker from an ancient inn at the Haw, Tirley, The Fox and Goose, which ceased to exist as a public-house 113 years ago; skittle balls that came from a Worcester alley, scrap iron and an old and well-worn penny. The clock has a pendulum.

For some years there has been a strong desire and some hope that Eldersfield Church should possess a clock; and the clock Mr. Carter has made has been acquired by the Parochial Church Council to mark the accession to the throne of King Edward VIII.

Last March a meeting of parishioners unanimously endorsed a decision to this effect and pledged itself to support the raising of funds necessary for the clock's installation in the tower.

Mr. Carter, who made a similarly ingenious clock for his Parish Church at Tirley a few years ago, is now 71 years of age.

THE LADIES' GUILD.

SUCCESSFUL MEETING AT STOKE POGES AND SLOUGH.

Stoke Poges, in Buckinghamshire, not far from Windsor, famous for its association with the poet Thomas Gray and its link with the Penn family, one of whose sons was the founder of Pennsylvania, U.S.A., is the mecca of thousands of visitors every year. On Saturday it was the scene of a gathering of members of the Ladies' Guild, supplemented, of course, by a number of gentlemen, the occasion being a meeting of the Central District.

The ringing visitors were naturally interested in the historic associations of the place, and particularly the beautiful little church dating from 1330, when it was rebuilt; the Hastings Chapel erected in 1558; the giant yew tree near the south door, beneath which Gray is said to have written his 'Elegy in a country churchyard,' 'perhaps the best known poem in the English language'; the poet's burial place; and the ancient tower, which contains a ring of six bells, an early 18th century peal recast and rehung in 1912, and awaiting augmentation to eight as soon as funds are available.

STOKE POGES CHURCH.

Originally the bells were rung from the floor of the tower, which stands on the north side of the church. In 1800 the Lord of the Manor, John Penn, made this space into a Manor House pew and constructed a gallery immediately above it. Since 1924 the ringing chamber has been in a storey higher up, where apparently the bells formerly hung, for there are still decayed timbers round the walls. Access to the ringing chamber is gained by an outside iron stairway carried up in three tiers on the west side of the tower to a landing leading to the door on the south side. It is an unusual as well as a fairly steep ascent to a belfry.

There was once a spire surmounting the tower. It was erected in 1702, rebuilt in 1831, and taken down in 1924 to prevent collapse.

The bells are a tuneful ring of handy weight, and the large company fully enjoyed ringing on them. The methods were many and varied, and included a course of 'Ba Ba' (or was it 'Ba La'?), which appears to be Stedman slow work cut up into small joints and made to go round the six bells by dishing it up back and front. It went very well, seeing that some of the ringers knew it and others didn't. One lady rang it from 'music,' and it took two to get the tenor through the method—a gentleman to ring the bell and a lady to tell him what to do with it. No one ventured to call a bob.

Soon after five o'clock the whole party made their way by bus and car to Slough, where, at Williamson's Cafe, 44 sat down to tea. Afterwards the ladies stole away to a place of secret meeting. The following official bulletin was issued later in the evening:—

'Mrs. R. F. Deal (vice-president) presided, and, in the absence of the district secretary (Mrs. M. R. Cross), Miss K. M. Bradford, assistant secretary, undertook the secretarial duties. Twenty members of the Guild were present.

'One of the principal things discussed was the place of the next meeting. It was decided to hold it at Canterbury to revive the interest of the members in Kent. The meeting will be held on the first Saturday in November.

'Seven new ringing members were elected, viz.: Miss S. Bowyer, Ipswich; Miss Maddison, Johannesburg (now visiting England); Miss Puttock, Edmonton; Mrs. Shelton, Reigate; Miss M. Gutteridge and Miss G. Thetford, Iyer; and Mrs. Donald Boreham, High Wycombe.

'Mrs. E. K. Fletcher (general secretary) announced that Corporate Communion for members of the Guild would be celebrated at St. Lawrence Jewry, London, on Sunday, October 25th, at 9.15 a.m.

Arrangements would be made for breakfast after the service and ringing for Matins. It is hoped there will be a large attendance of ladies, and the presence of gentlemen will be welcomed.

'A hearty vote of thanks was accorded to Mrs. A. D. Barker for having made the arrangements for the meeting, and to the incumbents of Stoke Poges and St. Mary's, Slough, for the use of the bells at these churches.

'There was a great demand for Guild badges, the new supply of which was on sale for the first time.'

From seven o'clock onward for a couple of hours ringing of all sorts was enjoyed at St. Mary's Church. Eight ladies set out to ring a couple of courses of Bob Major, and they rang very nicely, but unfortunately for the success of the touch—(whisper it softly)—the conductor, lost in oblivion, forgot to call the last bob! 'Dreaming' is the title of the song she proposes to sing when the ladies hold their silver jubilee dinner and concert. The gentlemen were afterwards graciously invited to ring a course of London unaltered, and just managed to uphold their reputation. For the rest, the ringing was by mixed bands, and, as usual at meetings, with mixed success. Mrs. Deal acted as Ringing Master (or should it be mistress?) and most efficiently discharged the duties, everybody, whatever their ability, having ample opportunity to ring. Despite a wet afternoon, the meeting was most enjoyable and the attendance encouraging.

HAPPY GATHERING OF NORTHERN BRANCH.

On Saturday, September 5th, a meeting of the Northern Branch of the Ladies' Guild was held at North Muskham, Notts.

The ancient church, dedicated to St. Wilfrid, has been perfectly restored and is most beautiful. It has a fine peal of six bells, five of which have recently been recast and tenor added by Messrs. Taylor and Co., largely through the work and enthusiasm of the ringers themselves.

The Vicar, Canon Williams, conducted the Guild office and spoke a few words of welcome and encouragement. This was followed by a splendid tea at the Bungalow Cafe, to which four kind friends conveyed some of the ladies in their cars.

After tea a very hearty vote of thanks was passed to Canon Williams, Miss Ballachey and the local ringers for all they had done in arranging for the comfort of the visitors. The members were sorry to hear that their vice-president, Miss Bowling, of Leeds, who intended to be present, was prevented from attending through illness at home, and sincerely hope this has now passed.

Reference was made to Mr. Joe Mayer, who was killed recently in a motor accident. He had attended meetings of the Guild on several occasions, and as a token of remembrance and sympathy with his family and the Lincoln ringers in their sad loss the company stood for a few moments in silence.

The motor procession was then re-formed, and the party returned to the tower, where more ringers awaited them. Ringing from Plain Bob to London Surprise continued for some time—the 'home' position being reached all too soon.

It is pleasing to be able to report a very successful meeting. There were twelve lady ringers present and many more gentlemen, and all concerned are thanked for a very happy time.

BELLS RESTORED AT EASTHAMPSTEAD.

WORK DEDICATED AT OXFORD GUILD MEETING

After a silence of several months, the six bells of Easthampstead Church, Berks, were heard again on Saturday, following rehanging by Mr. R. White, of Appleton. The timber frame has been strengthened, new stocks and fittings supplied, complete with ball bearings. The 'go' of the bells now leaves nothing to be desired. The bells are a ring of six, tenor about 8 cwt. Members of the Sonning Deanery Branch of the Oxford Diocesan Guild held a meeting to mark the occasion of the restoration and to try the bells. Service at 5 p.m. was conducted by the Rector, the Rev. W. T. Stubbs. Two ringers' hymns and Psalm 150 were sung, and the Rector recited appropriate dedicatory prayers.

Refreshments were partaken of at the Institute, kindly prepared by ladies of the parish, and the hon. secretary (Mr. W. J. Paice) thanked them for their labours. He also thanked the Rector for the service, the organist and others who had helped to make the meeting a success.

The secretary went on to congratulate the parishioners of Easthampstead on having their bells restored, and apologised for the absence of Canon Coleridge and Mr. R. T. Hibbert, whom he had hoped would have been present to say a few words, but both had another important engagement of Guild work. Mr. Paice concluded by urging the ringers of Easthampstead to value the work which had been carried out in the tower and do all in their power to maintain a band, so that the bells could be rung regularly for the Sunday services, which was their primary object.

The Deputy Master of the Guild (the Rev. C. E. Wigg) and the Rev. A. G. Thurlow arrived later at the tower, and helped to ring a variety of methods, which during the afternoon and evening were Cambridge and Norwich Surprise, Grandsire and Stedman Doubles, Plain Bob, Oxford and Kent Treble Bob, Double Court, Oxford, Hereward, etc. Thus ended an enjoyable and successful meeting, made all the more pleasant by good going bells, and the verdict by all on the work done was 'A very fine job.'

BY W. H. FUSSELL.

HISTORIC CHESTER-LE-STREET CHURCH.

'Tis wondrous strange that to this time,
No tinkling poet tells,
How much men's lives (Heaven help the Chimes)
Associate with bells.

W. Jerdan.

The two towers for Thursday were near at hand, per car mileage. With good going bells and a short journey, an easy round was enjoyed. Chester-le-Street, a town of 16,000 inhabitants, has now become Chester-le-By-Pass, and the old straggling High Street to the North is relieved thereby. 'Go, London,' sounded from the belfry at 10 o'clock, the towerkeeper making himself scarce, after locking the padlock of the staircase door and leaving the team for 'better or for worse.' At three leads from home we listeners thought the bells were 'quarrelling,' but it turned out to be a little 'argument' between three Georges, and, safely settled, the bells came home in 3 hours 16½ minutes.

We were received at the church by Mr. Patterson, Mr. Sheraton, of Houghton, Mr. Brown and the Rev. S. J. Glenn, and shown over the historic building. Dedicated to SS. Mary and Cuthbert, it consists of chancel, nave and western tower in line, north and south aisles, and possesses a remarkable collection of Saxon and Norman stonework discovered and built into the walls and covered with plaster, when the building was restored in 1862. The steeple is very artistic, square to the nave roof (about 1250), octagonal for the next two floors and surmounted by a lofty spire, the whole 169ft. high, built in 1409. In the recess north of the tower and west of the aisle is an uncommon feature, a stone cell of two floors with a curious 'squint' to the chancel used by the first anchorite, Robert Blenkinsop, who petitioned the Bishop of Durham (A.D. 1400) to be allowed to take up residence here. There were four successors in occupation of the cell in due course. It is supposed to be one of the best preserved in England. It had been the source of much trouble in 1626 when the churchwardens wished to end the occupation by poor widows. I spent a couple of restful hours in it in front of the old stone fireplace (empty) seated in an armchair, with a table, reading the book of records relating to these bells, the ringers and their ringing. Many of the entries would greatly interest readers of 'The Ringing World.'

A 500-YEAR-OLD BELL

Local history tells us that Symeon, of Durham, wrote in the 11th century how the wooden Saxon church of 883 was decayed when Bishop Egelric ordered a new church of stone to be built in 1043, occupying the site of a Roman camp. The church is hallowed by its association with St. Cuthbert. The body of the saint, with the head of the brave young martyr King Oswald, rested here enshrined for 113 years, during which period the church was the seat of the Bishops of the North. Here was written the earliest known Anglo-Saxon version of the Gospels by Aldred—now preserved in the British Museum. The bells were restored by Taylor, of Loughborough, and dedicated in 1883 by the Bishop of Durham, but one of the old bells, dated 1409, was preserved, and is now carefully used every Sunday for services for a few blows.

It is appropriate that attention to the bells should be given just 1,000 years from the foundation of the first Saxon church, erected in 883 by Earwulf, who founded the See of Chester and became its first Bishop. It is on record that Guthred was a Danish King of this part of England and a liberal benefactor to the church.

The passing of the centuries may be traced in the stone masonry of the exterior, deeply honeycombed and pitted in varying patterns by wind and weather that have left the hard veins standing out to resist erosion.

After the peal we dined at the Lambton Arms Hotel and left an hour later for the next tower on our list. This inn takes its title from the family of that name, the Lords of Durham of Lambton Castle, a handsome seat a mile from the church, which we passed on our way to Houghton-le-Spring.

This church is dedicated to SS. Mary and All Saints, and here a ring of six bells (tenor 12 cwt.) was installed by Mears and Stainbank in 1830. They were increased to eight by Gillett and Johnston in 1928. Several willing friends were waiting to usher the team into a spacious ringing room well fitted and kept, with an 'abundance' of sound from the bells when ringing. Starting for Bristol at 3.30 p.m., it lasted 25 minutes only, due to one of the back bells refusing to be struck by 'lightning.' A brief rest led to our mental transposition from Bristol to Cambridge in the next attempt, and this came 'home' in 3 hours and 5 minutes. During the time we rang there was no call or sign of a 'hob' made; in the ordinary sense it was non-conducted, but decidedly not a 'silent' performance.

The usual adjournment followed with Mr. J. W. Parker, from Sunderland, Mr. Sheraton and other local ringers, for a half-hour's conversation and rest at the Red Lion. Our drive back to Newcastle ended joyously after a day of fine weather, with a double success, easy going bells and comfortable cars—no wonder octogenarians can go out peal 'grabbing' like two-year-olds! In each parish the foreman of the tower was personally requested to convey the thanks of the team to the Vicar and churchwardens for kindly allowing them the use of the tower. In this connection I regret to add that I have never heard of a collecting box being filled to overflowing after such visits. Supper and bed at the Queen's was an hour later, and the friendly 'inquiry' answered in the affirmative, with a little doubt if it related to the peals or the supper? And so to contented sleep still 100 per cent. up.

The most picturesque journey of the week was taken on Friday, the two towers having been selected, like the Allendale ride, on purpose. It meant a distance all round of over 100 miles. Early we rose and crossed the Tyne Bridge at Newcastle before nine o'clock, six men in two cars and the rest by rail. George Martin and I, having travelled A1 at sea, now proceeded by car A1 on the North Road, via Morpeth, as far as Heddon Bridge.

The party then followed the River Coquet; at times our conveyances were hemmed in by woodland along its bank, and at other times we were looking down hundreds of feet upon its turbulent passage over rocky boulders sparkling in the sunshine. Rothbury is a quiet homely market town in the wilds of Northumberland, has an air of peace and quietness beloved by artists, poets and fishermen. The ring of eight bells (tenor 13 cwt. 3 qr. 15 lb. in F) was installed in the tower by Mears and Stainbank in 1893, and a tablet records, 'In loving memory of William Dawson, this peal of bells was given by his sister, Mary Dawson, to All Saints' Church.'

A peal of Bob Triples was rung here at Whitsun, 1903, by the local society that had already mastered peals of Bob Minor, conducted by T. Murray. The captain met us 'on duty' in the absence of the Vicar, and the Newcastle Inn supplied our lunch at 1.30, which—like that of the Lambton—no gourmet could quibble about.

Rothbury belfry is a large apartment with two small windows difficult to open, usually lit by a gas bracket behind the tenor man, but not used by us.

Our journey onward was started at 3 p.m. with a splendid drive to Alnwick, over nearly ten miles of undulating moorland, coloured by masses of purple heather. Fifteen miles to the left the Cheviot Hills rose clear on the sky line. One very straight and long stretch concealed many deep depressions resembling the switchback. You could see nothing ahead at one time, then rising to the next hill a car would suddenly appear as if raised from the grave by a mighty magician.

BAMBURGH.

Here in the stillness of thy memories,
O grey, sequestered House of God, I find
A peace of heart and shelter from mankind.
Thy very stones on which I bend my knees
Link me with souls of vanished centuries.

Bamburgh was reached via Seahouses (we turned too soon off the Berwick Road) soon after 4 o'clock, when the faithful steeplekeeper with the keys, and Mr. Routledge, on holiday here, received us.

Dedicated to St. Aidan, this church has a venerable weather-beaten appearance. Its stout square tower, with battlements, seems to defy the stormy elements of the north-east coast of England. From the summit a grand view of that famous stronghold, Bamburgh Castle, standing on a rugged rocky eminence, can be seen. Beyond are the Farne Islands and below the tower the graceful tomb erected to the memory of Grace Darling, the local sea heroine.

The bells, by Mears and Stainbank, were installed in 1909, but no peal was rung upon them until 1920—put it down to the war—when the Newcastle men achieved a peal of Steadman Triples.

With plain bearings, short draught and good going, the Double Norwich went with a swing, and there was never much doubt of double peals being scored for five days in succession. Our conductor was again in trouble—troubles never come alone. This time it was the rope end that came untucked. Mr. Routledge, our friend in need, started us home with a farewell glass and a 50-mile drive to Newcastle, and somewhere about 10.30 we reported 'All's well' at headquarters.

We were 'at home' on Saturday, visiting the towers by tram-car, and giving our own cars and the engines a rest and a 'look over' for the long journey on Sunday. Gosforth, within the city, is in the county of Northumberland, and All Saints', of very handsome modern design in stone, now mellowed, is surrounded by tall trees and evergreen. The land and the buildings were given to the parish by William Cochrane of Middlesbrough, and the original ring of eight bells by his son. The trebles were added by Gillett and Johnston in 1923. 'Go' was called by the Doctor at 10 a.m., and our peal here made up a Royal century for Mr. G. R. Pye. We received the usual courtesy from local men and the Ringing Master, Mr. Adam Deas, and, on leaving the tower, an introduction to Churchwarden Lamour, a real churchworker.

The motor-car not only saves time by door to door progress, but also prevents straggling by the team. After leaving Gosforth, 'go as you please' men turned up to lunch in twos and threes, much to the cook's annoyance. This I attribute to the 'half-way' door. An apology is due to the fine team of young ringers at St. Stephen's Church, Elswick, for our late arrival. Here is a heavy peal of eight (tenor 30 cwt.), relung by Gillett and Johnston in 1930. The bells are in three tiers on ball bearings in a rocking steeple. The lower part of the steeple forms a baptistry, and here is recorded on stone: 'To the Glory of God and in memory of their parents, George and Margaret Cruddas, the peal of bells was placed in this tower by their sons, George and Charles, 1880.' And another tablet records: 'To the memory of Margaret Cruddas, who died aged 1878, aged 88 years. This tower and spire was erected by her husband, George Cruddas.'

YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION.WELCOME AT HEMINGBROUGH.

The quarterly meeting of the Eastern District of the Yorkshire Association was held at Hemingbrough on Saturday, and was attended by 43 ringers from Beverley Minster, Eastington, Gooles, Howden, Hull, Kirk Ella, Hessle, Market Weighton, Selby Abbey, Sherburn-in-Elmet, Shepton, Silsden and Barton-on-Humber, Lincolnshire. A welcome visitor was Mr. H. C. Bond, of Cirencester, Gloucestershire.

The district secretary and two ringing friends were held up one and a half hours at Selby through a keel on the River Ouse colliding with the old Toll Bridge at Selby, but 'all's well that ends well,' and they arrived after some inconvenience just in time for the service. The organist of Hemingbrough Church was held up through the same cause, but he, thinking it impossible to get across the river, went home and rang up the Vicar, telling him of the incident, and asking him to find a deputy. A very capable one was found in Mr. A. H. Fox, organist and captain of the ringers at Kirk Ella Church. Mr. Dan Meadley, a popular ringer from the same church, acted as organ-blower, and both were heartily thanked for stepping into the breach.

The Vicar (the Rev. J. Craig) conducted the service and gave an interesting but informal address, in the course of which he paid a glowing tribute to the enthusiasm of Mr. Fred Terry, the local tower captain, and also to Mr. Jack Tune and all his ringers. He said it was the old families of the village life which he liked best, as they were heart and soul in their work for the church and had the love of the dear old church in their bones. They were, he added, the salt of the earth.

Two new members were elected at the meeting, viz.: Messrs. Leonard Rigg and Frank Kneeshaw, both of Market Weighton.

An invitation to hold the next quarterly meeting at Gooles in December was accepted.

Mr. Cryer proposed and Mr. Vigor seconded a vote of thanks to the Vicar for his address and the use of the bells. In reply, the Vicar welcomed everyone present, and said he hoped they would not wait 13 years to be invited again. He asked them to come as often as they wished and stay as late as possible, as the good people of Hemingbrough loved to hear their bells rung. They were all pleased when they heard the meeting was to be held there.

Mr. H. S. Morley proposed and Mr. Dan Meadley seconded a vote of thanks to Mr. Fred Terry for all the arrangements, and to the ladies who very kindly provided such an excellent tea.—Mr. Terry responded, thanking the association for their visit, and inviting them again in the near future.

Further ringing on the tower bells till nine o'clock and on the handbells till 9.45 p.m. concluded a very happy and successful meeting.

The methods rung included Plain Bob, Kent and Oxford Treble Bob, Double Oxford and St. Clement's Spliced Minor, and Grandsire and Stedman Doubles on the tower bells, and Grandsire Caters and Triples and Bob Major on handbells.

SHROPSHIRE ASSOCIATION.SERVICE TO BE HELD AT NEXT MEETING.

Market Drayton again proved a popular choice when the Shropshire Association met there on September 5th. Early arrivals were greeted by a party from the Potteries, who were on an afternoon tour. After a course of London Minor they departed to find the 'Shropshire' six-bell tower of Hammer, actually in Flintshire.

Up to tea time some good striking in standard eight-bell methods was heard, and, upon adjournment, the 30 members present were entertained to tea by the Market Drayton band, a gesture for which appreciation was expressed.

Mr. Clark responded, and said that a hearty welcome was extended. He had hoped for a short service to be held.

Canon Bell, who was in the chair for the business meeting, accepted this as a proposition. Having received support from Mr. W. Saunders and others, the secretary undertook to arrange a short service at Condover for the November meeting. The Rev. Haseler, who was present from Condover, said that he would be pleased to hold the service if required.

During the evening a few courses of Cambridge Major completed a very successful meeting.

Our effort for Stedman Triples lasted 40 minutes when someone called 'Stand,' and the ringing week was finished. No one was particularly disappointed, because there were times when a bell dodging 4-5 down was found in the slow, and it depended on the building if your bell would respond to your pull.

The final evening at the Queen's was decidedly mixed until the final handshake with Newcastle men. Squaring hotel accounts, handbell touches, talks of past tours and 'Come again' were seen and heard till 11 p.m.

All the men were safely home again by Sunday night, and their little travelling cases filled with new toys, valued by bellringing collectors, such as new towers, new methods, new counties, to which I would add—and new friends. The motor-cars were reported nearing home about 5 p.m., that I travelled with registering 824 miles since the start of what proved to be a very remarkable tour.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.FIRST VISIT TO TINGEWICK.

A very well-attended quarterly meeting was held at Tingewick on Saturday, September 5th, this being the first of its kind in the village. The bells, a peal of five, have been recently done up by Mr. R. White, of Appleton, and a good job has been made of them. There were in all about 25 members present, which was a good attendance considering that Tingewick lays somewhat wide of the activities of the branch.

A very hearty welcome was extended to Mr. G. B. Lucas, of Walthamstow, who specially visited his native village to attend the first ringing meeting held, and the opportunity was taken to enrol him a life member of the Guild. Mr. J. H. Shepherd was there for a general inspection of the tenor, and another unexpected visitor was Supt. Williams, of the Manchester Police Force and president of the National Police Guild.

The service was conducted by the Rev. R. D. Rice (Vicar of Tingewick), and tea was held in the Village Hall.

The secretary, Mr. W. Sear, stated that there was no important business to transact, but proposed a very hearty vote of thanks to the Vicar of Tingewick for extending such a kindly welcome to the branch and for making all the arrangements for the meeting. This was suitably responded to and further ringing took place, both at Tingewick and Buckingham, which concluded a very pleasant meeting.

CLEVELAND AND NORTH YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION.

A meeting of the Cleveland and North Yorkshire Association was held at Richmond on Saturday. In spite of the unfavourable weather, ringers attended from Middlesbrough, Darlington (Holy Trinity), Ormesby, Guisborough, Chester and the local band, and a very pleasant meeting was the result. Ringing commenced at 3.30 p.m. and continued until 8 o'clock except for a short interval for tea, which was held at the Bishop Blaize Hotel, and presided over by the president, Mr. J. C. Pollard.

The ringing was very good, and touches of Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Plain Bob and Kent Treble Bob Major and Double Norwich were successfully brought round.

A SIGNIFICANT EVENT.

A corporate act of worship on the part of ringers, such as that which took place in London on Sunday evening, is a significant event. Divine service is a regular feature of ringing meetings, but a special service with no other attraction than the service ringing is a rare, if not a unique occurrence. Originating in a desire on the part of the Ancient Society of College Youths to attend a service at St. Michael's, Cornhill, where they periodically ring, the invitation was extended to all ringers, and as a result there was quite a large gathering. The experiment was more than justified in every way. Not only was the attendance worthy of the occasion, but the service itself, the singing and not least the eloquent sermon, were all an inspiration. It was in every sense a ringers' service, and yet it broke away from what has become an almost stereotyped form.

The subject of the sermon was, in a sense, a reminder of the place of church bells in modern life. Despite the changes and the speeding up of the conditions under which we live, the distractions, the anxieties and the indifference of to-day, it is good to know that there are still some things that endure, and that among them church bells are still a reminder of the 'eternal values of God and of the human soul.' To listen to a discourse such as that preached by the Rev. James Wall, who drew an enchanting picture of his memories of Durham Cathedral, where he served in the ministry for eight years, is a stirring encouragement to ringers. It puts their work in its proper perspective, and those, if any there were, who look upon ringing only as a fascinating art and a pleasant pastime, must have realised the wider and more serious part of the duty they undertake.

The bells of our churches still have an appeal to the public. They strike a chord in the conscience which cannot readily be ignored, and whether the call to worship is answered or not by those who hear their sounds, the Church and all it stands for cannot be forgotten. The bells are the constant reminder of those higher things which the Church would have all men remember, and although the voice of the clergy cannot reach out beyond the walls of the building, the bells carry the message far and wide in a manner that cannot easily be silenced. They speak no words, but their sounds are well understood, even in these 'pagan' days. 'The bells themselves are the best of preachers; their brazen lips are learned teachers.' Longfellow's words are still true, and we who ring the bells will get all the more enjoyment from our art if we realise the importance of our work, not merely as the practical expression of an interesting science, but in its relation to the public, as the means of

A MEETING IN CAMBRIDGE.

The annual district meeting of the Ely Archdeaconry Branch of the Ely Diocesan Association was held in Cambridge on Saturday, September 19th.

Ringling commenced at St. Bene't's Church at about 3 p.m., followed by service at 4.30, conducted by the Rev. B. F. Sheppard, who gave an address appreciated by all.

At the meeting which followed apologies for absence were read from Miss K. Willers (general secretary of the association), who is away on holiday, and from the Vicar of St. Bene't's (the Rev. N. Davey), who said he was particularly sorry to be absent, as he wished to show his interest in ringing and his pride in being Vicar of a church with such a unique connection with change ringing.

All the officers of the district were re-elected, with the addition of Mr. T. Hurst, of Little Shelford, on the committee.

Votes of thanks were passed to the Vicars of St. Bene't's and Great St. Mary's for the use of the bells, to the Rev. B. F. Sheppard, and to Mr. H. J. Hazell for presiding at the organ.

Further ringing at Great St. Mary's and St. Bene't's was carried on until about 8.30 p.m.

ST. BENE'T'S, CAMBRIDGE.

RINGERS WANTED FOR STEDMAN'S BELLS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir.—May I appeal once again for help in keeping some sort of ringing going at St. Bene't's, Cambridge? For the past year or two a few of us have met to ring for morning service on alternate Sundays, but we find it increasingly difficult to get a band. I can assure all who do come that the Vicar is very anxious for us to keep the ringing going, and has promised to look out for any likely recruits for us who are directly connected with the parish.

On Sunday, October 4th, the harvest thanksgiving services are being held, and ringers are invited to turn up at 10.25 a.m. to ring the bells that Stedman rang.

C. W. COOK, District Secretary,
Ely Diocesan Association.

NORTH STAFFS ASSOCIATION.

A meeting of the North Staffs and District Association was held at Uttoxeter on Saturday, September 19th. Forty-one members and friends were present from Burslem, Burton-on-Trent, Breaston, Cheshire, Derby, Draycott, Kingsley, Leek, Longton, Norton, Newcastle, Overseale, Stoke-on-Trent and Uttoxeter.

A service was held, and the Vicar (the Rev. W. E. Charlton), in his sermon, gave a brief description of the story of 'The Nine Tailors,' which was interesting, even to those who had read the novel.

After tea the usual votes of thanks were accorded to the Vicar and ringers for the use of the bells. Mr. A. G. K. Davies, churchwarden, was elected an honorary member.

During the afternoon and evening touches of Grandsire Doubles for the beginners, and Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Kent and Oxford Treble Bob, Cambridge, Double Norwich and Leek Major were rung.

THE IRISH TOUR.ELEVEN PEALS IN TWELVE ATTEMPTS.

The ringing tour which took place in Ireland from September 12th-19th was very successful. Twelve peals were arranged, and ten of these were rung. A peal of Cambridge Major was lost at Hillsborough after nearly two hours' ringing, whilst the other attempt could not take place owing to the death of the Archbishop of Drogheda. Instead a handbell peal was rung, making a total of eleven. Ten members of the party shared in the conducting, nine of them being successful. Some notes of the tour will be given in our next issue.

BARNSELY RING OF EIGHT RESTORED.STRESSES ON THE TOWER REMOVED.

The eight bells at Barnsley Parish Church have been restored, and a joint meeting of the Southern Division of the Yorkshire Association with the Barnsley and Sheffield Societies was held on September 12th to synchronise with the rededication of the peal.

The bells had been silent for a year on the advice of the architect and the bellfounders, for not only were the frame and fittings in a bad way, but there was excessive movement of the tower. The fabric has been attended to and the bells have been tuned skilfully and rehung entirely with modern fittings in a massive cast iron frame on a reinforced concrete foundation.

Messrs. Gillett and Johnston are to be congratulated on the result, for the bells go like tops and the movement of the tower has been reduced to a remarkable degree.

The back six bells, the tenor of which weighs 14 cwt., were erected in 1769, and two trebles were added in 1772. There was evidently a peal in existence previously, for the tower, the most ancient part of the church, dates from about 1410.

Upwards of 50 members were present at the meeting, and the towers represented were Rotherham, Doncaster, Bolsover, Adwick-le-Street, Arksey, Wath, Bolsterstone, Darfield, Felkirk, Holmfirth, Friesland, Sheffield Cathedral and St. Marie's, Ranmoor, Hoylandswaine, Eastwood, Anston and the local company.

The service of rededication, which was of simple character, was performed by the Bishop of Wakefield, assisted by the Rector of Barnsley (Canon Hone) and other clergy from neighbouring parishes.

CONGRATULATIONS TO MR. C. D. POTTER.

Tea in the Parish Room was very much appreciated, and the ladies who undertook the catering had a very busy time. The business meeting followed tea, and was presided over by the Rector, who thanked the ringers for attending in such large numbers, and said that he hoped they would all be satisfied with the work which had been done to the bells.

A vote of condolence and sympathy with the relatives and dependants of those who had passed away in the recent mining disaster at Wharncliffe Moor Colliery was moved, and also to the relatives of Mr. William Turton, of Ecclesfield, a member of the Yorkshire Association since 1884, who had been buried that day. His passing will be very much felt by his old Sheffield associates.

Two new members, Messrs. L. W. Garbutt, of Barnsley, and T. A. Lamb, of Sandal, were elected, and, no invitation being forthcoming for the next meeting in December, it was left to the secretary to arrange.

The Secretary made an appeal to all tower secretaries in the Southern area to let him have any change of address which members may have made, so that they could be included in the next report and so keep it up to date.

The hearty congratulations of all present were extended to Mr. C. D. Potter, of Barnsley, who had just celebrated his 78th birthday, and who has done so much for the ringing art in the Barnsley area. He founded the Barnsley and District Society many years ago and for several years was its secretary. The number of ringers who have enjoyed his hospitality at various times must run into hundreds. Saturday's ceremony saw the fulfilment of one of his dearest wishes, and he said he was the happiest man in Barnsley that day. It is to be hoped he will have the privilege of enjoying the bells, for which he has done so much, for many years to come.

A vote of thanks to the Rector and churchwardens, and to the ladies for their services at tea, was moved by Mr. John R. Brearley, of Deepcar, who referred also to the excellence of Messrs. Gillett and Johnston's work in the tower, and the satisfaction with the ringers experienced that day with Barnsley's rehung bells.

Mr. G. Lewis, of Ecclesfield, seconded the motion, which included acknowledgment of the local company's welcome. The Rector and Mrs. Hone, in reply, both gave the association a cordial invitation to visit Barnsley again in the near future.

RINGERS' JUG REAPPEARS.

After ringing had ceased all visitors were invited to be the guests of Mr. Potter, his son, Councillor H. Potter, and Councillor J. Rideal, at the Royal Hotel, when they were supported by the Rector and Mr. C. F. Johnston, of Croydon. To make them 'feel at home,' both councillors were elected honorary members of the association. A very pleasant evening was spent. Handbell ringing, piano solos by Mr. H. Chant and some very interesting stories of ringers and would-be ringers were very much appreciated, as were also Mr. Johnston's account of adventures in foreign lands, and some mathematical problems relating to bells and bellringing which he asked the company to consider.

A very interesting piece of pottery (to ringers) was on view (and used). This was an old ringers' jug, capacity about one gallon, which has been missing for many years. Now it has reappeared there are good grounds for hoping that it will find its way back to its proper home, the Parish Church, and the Rector promised to take every care of it if its transfer could be arranged, and he thought it could.

The inscription on the jug reads as follows:—

Dec. 26th 1879. 8 Members of the Barnsley and Sheffield Societies rang at St. Mary's Barnsley a Peal of 6,080 Kent Treble Bob Major in 3 hours 50 minutes. The ringers were:—

FOUR CUDDINGTON RINGERS.OVER 50 YEARS TOGETHER IN ONE TOWER.

The Central Bucks Branch of the Oxford Diocesan Guild held a quarterly meeting at Dinton on Saturday, September 12th, which was well attended. The service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. C. W. Drury), and an interesting address was given by the branch chairman (the Rev. G. Dixon). Tea was served in the Cricket Pavilion, and during the business meeting which followed Messrs. A. Webb, A. Frost, R. Ward and G. Orchard, all of Cuddington, and four ringers from Dinton tower, were elected members of the Guild.

The Vicar, in replying to a vote of thanks, said it was interesting to note that the four ringers of Cuddington tower who had just been elected are all over 70 years of age and have been regular Sunday service ringers since the bells were restored 52 years ago. Mr. A. Webb and Mr. A. Frost have also served in the choir for over 50 years. It must surely be almost if not quite unique for four ringers to serve at the same tower together for over 50 years.

GUILDFORD DIOCESAN GUILDSUCCESSFUL GATHERING AT FARNBOROUGH.

An enjoyable meeting of the Farnham District of the Guildford Diocesan Guild was held at Farnborough on Saturday, when between 30 and 40 members and friends attended. Punctually at 3 o'clock the light peal of six (tenor 7 cwt.) was set going to Doubles and Minor methods, and, although at times the striking left much to be desired, partly due to the very fine 'set' of one or two of the front bells (which even caused several experts great anxiety) and the excessive noise from the bells immediately overhead, good practice was had by all before the service. The Rector of Farnborough (Canon W. A. Challacombe) conducted the service and gave an exceedingly interesting address on the comradeship of ringers and 'the pull of the unseen.' The bells, although not seen, were, he said, heard by many, reminding them of something which perhaps they had forgotten or even wilfully neglected. He wished the Guild greater success in its objects and prayed God to bless the ringers in their work.

Mr. T. A. Stroud (Frensham) at the organ accompanied the singing. Tea was served in the Jubilee Hall, following which a short business meeting was held. The Rector presided, supported by the Master (Major J. H. B. Hesse), the District Ringing Master (Mr. R. Hasted) and the Guild Treasurer (Mr. J. Corbett). One new ringing member was elected, Mr. W. Roys (Farnborough).

Attention was called to the leading article in 'The Ringing World,' asking for renewed efforts at towers where practice had ceased during summer months. Several towers in the district were affected by this, and members present were asked to bring the article to the notice of fellow-members.

The Master proposed a comprehensive vote of thanks to the Rector, organist, local tower captain (Mr. Gasson) and the caterers. A hearty welcome was extended to several ringers who had cycled from Uxbridge to attend the meeting, and also congratulations and good wishes offered to Mr. and Mrs. P. Eldridge on their recent marriage.

The treasurer acknowledged a donation of 10s. from the Rector towards the Benevolent Fund, and a retiring collection for the fund realised 7s. 6d.

Further ringing took place in the evening, the usual methods being rung. The bells were lowered in peal at 8 p.m.

Towers represented were Aldershot, Ash, Bagshot, Farnborough, Farnham, Frensham, Godalming, Hillingdon, Sandhurst, Seale, Sunbury-on-Thames, Uxbridge and Wokingham.

Mr. G. This was replied to by the gentlemen concerned in a very happy manner. 'Time, please,' came all too soon, and thus ended a very enjoyable and happy gathering.

ANOTHER FALSE PEAL OF TREBLE BOB MAJOR.To the Editor.

Sir,—I have just been informed by Mr. Arthur Knights that peal No. 415 of his Collection of Treble Bob Major is false, rows repeating in the 7th and last courses. This peal was rung for the Yorkshire Association (to Oxford) on Saturday, September 3rd, 1933, at Drighlington, and conducted by me. It appears under peal No. 3,718 of the association's performances.

I wish to convey to the band who took part in the peal the sincere apologies of the composer and myself. Included in the peal were four first peals in the method, and as Mr. Knights has forwarded me another composition to take its place, I shall be only too pleased to try and arrange another attempt at some future date.

RINGING RECTOR'S RINGING DAUGHTERS.

The three young daughters of the Rev. H. S. T. Richardson, Rector of St. Nicholas', Hereford, who is hon. secretary of the Hereford Diocesan Guild, and well known for his work on the Central Council, have achieved considerable proficiency in handbell ringing.

At St. Nicholas' Rectory, 720 Kent Treble Bob Minor was rung on September 8th by Monica Richardson (aged 12) 1-2, Rev. H. S. T. Richardson 3-4, Brenda Richardson (aged 14) 5-6. The above band has rung eight differently called 720's of Bob Minor, each of the children having rung several 720's on every pair of bells. Dorothy Richardson (aged 10) has rung two 720's of Bob Minor on 1-2 and on 5-6, and the combined band has rung 672 Bob Major.

DEATH OF A FORMER RECTOR OF BEACONSFIELD.MEMORIAL RINGING.

Much regret was felt in Beaconsfield at the news of the death of the Rev. A. S. Commeline, M.A., who was Rector of Beaconsfield from 1900 until his retirement in 1926.

The funeral took place at St. Andrew's Church, Oxford, at 12 noon on Monday, September 7th, and simultaneously a memorial service was held in Beaconsfield Parish Church. Here, during the evening, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples was rung half-muffled in memory of the late Rector by the following, all of whom are Sunday service ringers: W. H. Fletcher 1, F. J. Smith (first quarter-peal of Grandsire) 2, D. R. Fletcher 3, K. E. Fletcher 4, R. Smith (first quarter-peal of Grandsire) 5, H. Wingrove 6, J. Harrison (first quarter-peal as conductor) 7, R. Emmanus 8.

VISIT TO BUCKFAST ABBEY.EXETER RINGERS' EXCURSION.

On Saturday, September 12th, the St. Thomas', Exeter, band of ringers and other ringing friends had their annual outing. The weather, after the heavy rain in the morning, turned out very pleasant. Leaving St. Thomas' Church at 1.35 p.m., the first stop was Highwick (Newton Abbot), where the party were met by the Vicar of Highwick and some of the local ringers, also Messrs. Lilley, sen. and jun., and Mr. Walker. Touches of Grandsire Triples, also rounds for the beginners, were rung. A move was then made for Buckfastleigh, where Mr. Bennett, of the local ringers, and a visitor from London met the company. Touches of Grandsire, Stedman and Bob Major as well as rounds were rung. Buckfast Abbey, which was of special interest, was next visited. Here the party were awaited by some of the Abbey ringers and were escorted to the tower. On the way to the ringing chamber they paused at the balcony where the ringing hitherto had been done, and where some of the party had rung, possibly with some misgiving. Better a floor to look at than an open space of about 70ft. drop. Anyway, the spacious ringing chamber (where the bells hitherto had hung) was reached in safety, and the middle eight of the twelve bells was got up and touches of Grandsire and Stedman rung. The remaining four were then raised and rounds rung on this glorious twelve, it being, for some, their first pull on twelve bells. A well-struck touch of Stedman was then rung on the back eight, which all enjoyed. Next a great effort was made, in turn, by nearly all present to turn over the great 'Hoshanna' bell weighing $7\frac{1}{2}$ tons, but without success. Actually this bell is hung and can be rung up to about half-way. The clapper weighs one ton, the headstock two tons. The whole is a wonderful piece of work. A great deal of 'see-sawing' was done to and fro from the ringing chamber, for all wanted to see (and hear) the bells in motion. Eventually all the bells were lowered (the middle eight in peal), and with great reluctance the visitors departed and retraced their steps to the White Hart Hotel, where an excellent tea was provided. A vote of thanks was passed to those responsible for the outing, etc.

The party then went on to Brixham, where Mr. Taylor was waiting for them. A stiff climb to the well-kept ringing chamber and more ringing was indulged in before leaving for Paignton, where a short stay was made and refreshments partaken of. Home was safely reached at 11.30 p.m. Special thanks are accorded to all those responsible at the various churches for such an enjoyable day, also to Mr. Bennett for his kindness in 'fixing up' at Buckfastleigh and the Abbey.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

We regret that we have to hold over several reports of outings and a letter on False Rows in Minor Methods from Mr. George Baker. What was probably the last peal on the bells at Llanfrechfa, Monmouthshire, before they are augmented to eight, was rung on September 15th. Two trebles are to be added to the existing ring of six. Mr. Wm. Powell, one of the local ringers, has been chiefly instrumental in securing the augmentation, which is to be completed in time for the Coronation. The peal of Bob Minor last week, in which he took part, was a birthday compliment to him.

Mr. W. J. Whiting, one of the Leatherhead, Surrey, band, about two and a half years ago acted as best man to a belfry colleague, Mr. A. H. Smith, hon. secretary of the Guildford District of the Guildford Diocesan Guild. The chief bridesmaid at that ceremony was Miss M. I. Quinney, and best man and bridesmaid met for the first time. On Saturday they were married at Isleworth, Middlesex.

A Guildford Guild ringer, invited to ring for the wedding, journeyed to Isleworth for the purpose. There he asked the way and was directed to the church, where he duly arrived, a few minutes after the appointed time, and found the wedding ceremony in progress, but no signs of the other ringers. He tried the door leading to the belfry, but found it locked. Then he discovered he had come to the wrong church and the wrong wedding!

Messrs. Taylor and Co. have completed the work of recasting the ring of six bells at Shalford, near Guildford, into a ring of eight, with a tenor of about 14 cwt. The bells will be dedicated by the Bishop of Guildford on Wednesday evening, November 4th.

The work on the bells at Manchester Town Hall, which are to be recast into a peal of twelve, is now well in hand. The bells have been removed to Loughborough Foundry.

Messrs. Taylor and Co. are also taking out the bells at Birch-in-Rusholme, which are to be rehung and put on ball bearings. It is hoped to have both peals ready in good time for the Coronation.

An attempt for a peal of Stedman Cinques unfortunately failed at St. Mary-le-Tower, Ipswich, on Saturday, after 3 hours and 30 minutes, by the sixes becoming reversed. The occasion was the 85th birthday of Mr. Robert H. Brundle, who was ringing the 5th. Mr. John Holman, of Sheffield, was also among the band.

Ufford bells are to be dedicated on October 7th at 3 p.m. Since the notice was printed last week, Mrs. Drake has arranged to give tea to all ringers and their friends who ask for a free invitation before September 30th. She hopes, in this way, to hear from all interested.

The bells of St. Michael's, Gloucester, restored by Messrs. Gillett and Johnston, were reopened on Sunday afternoon.

The 299th anniversary dinner of the Ancient Society of College Youths has been fixed for November 14th.

In the footnote to the report of the peal rung at Bobbing, Kent, on September 5th, it was stated that the rehanging of the bells was done by A. Bowell, of Ipswich. The work was carried out by Mears and Stainbank, the founders of the bells.

DEATH OF THE REV. A. H. F. BOUGHEY.

We very deeply regret to announce the death on Tuesday of the Rev. A. H. F. Boughey, of Cambridge, at the age of 87 years. He was president of the Cambridge University Guild from its foundation over 50 years ago, and was a past president of the Central Council.

STUDENTS FORM A RINGING SOCIETY. OUTCOME OF LECTURE AT SALISBURY THEOLOGICAL COLLEGE.

This term at Salisbury Theological College has seen the foundation of a ringing society. Interest in the subject of ringing was started as the result of an enlightening lecture by the Rev. F. Ll. Edwards, Rector of Kington Magna, Dorset, and hon. secretary of Salisbury Diocesan Guild. He pointed out to his listeners how advisable it was for those who are going to take Holy Orders to know something of the nature of church bells, which play so important a part in Church worship. He made his lecture the more interesting by bringing with him a model bell hung in a frame, and also a set of eight handbells.

The new society has been started by Mr. R. S. Jones, a student of the college, who was Master of the Oxford University Society of Change Ringers during the year 1935-36. The Vice-Principal of the college has been elected president.

Thanks are due to Mr. Romain, captain of the ringers at St. Martin's Church, Salisbury, for the loan of handbells to the college and for giving ample opportunity for learning to ring in the tower. Practices have now begun both on handbells and in the tower, and already the membership totals from twelve to fifteen.

KING EDWARD VIII'S NAME ON BELLS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—As stated in last Friday's 'Ringing World,' the recast tenor at Anstey, Leicestershire (where the bells were rededicated on September 12th), bears the inscription:—

'Recast in the year of the accession of King Edward VIII. . . .'
It would be interesting to know if this is the first bell to be rung bearing King Edward VIII's name. Perhaps someone will enlighten us.

RINGERS' SERVICE IN LONDON.

COLLEGE YOUTHS' INNOVATION AT CORNHILL.

A STRIKING SERMON.

An innovation by the Ancient Society of College Youths brought together a large gathering of ringers in London on Sunday evening. The society officially attended service at St. Michael's Church, Cornhill, and College Youths and members of other ringing societies were present from over a wide area, despite an unfortunately wet evening.

Ringers began to assemble at six o'clock, and for an hour the twelve bells were kept going in touches of Stedman Cinques. When the service began at seven o'clock the church was well filled, many members of St. Michael's regular congregation being mingled with the visitors. The specially arranged service was an inspiring one, the stirring hymns and anthem and the beautiful singing of the choir adding greatly to the impressiveness of the occasion.

THE STEEPLE OF ST. MICHAEL'S, CORNHILL.

Designed by Wren and completed in 1721, it was one of the earliest towers to contain a ring of twelve bells. Richard Phelps installed a peal of ten in 1728, and two trebles, by Lester, were added in 1746.

At the outset the Master (Mr. E. P. Duffield), who wore the new badge of office, and the stewards (Mr. E. H. Lewis and Mr. L. Porter) walked in procession with the choir and clergy to their seats, the mace, carried by the senior steward, being afterwards placed on a small table in front of the Master's pew.

The Rector, the Rev. Prebendary J. H. Ellison, M.V.O. (who is a Chaplain in Ordinary to H.M. the King), conducted the service, which he opened by announcing the purpose of the assembly in the following terms: 'Brethren, we are come together to thank God for the sound of church bells, to dedicate anew to Him the joyous work of the ringers, particularly of the Ancient Society of College Youths, and to pray that we and all others who hear their music may live not unworthily of the summons.'

Then was sung the hymn, 'Immortal, Invisible God.' The Master read the lesson from Romans xii., which was followed by Psalm xv. and special prayers for those called by the sound of the bells to enter the House of Prayer, for those who are hindered from assembling together for worship, for those who, in their daily calling, hear the sound of the bells, and for those who ring.

After the Lord's Prayer the choir rendered parts of Handel's Chandos Anthem, Mr. Harold E. Darke, director of music, being at the organ.

CLOSELY ALLIED TASKS.

The address was given by the Rev. James Wall, assistant priest, whose first words were a warm welcome to those bellringers and their friends who were present. 'We owe you,' he said, 'a great debt, yet, in a way, it would be presumptuous for us to acknowledge that debt, because in our several duties, yours and mine, we are fellow-workers in the same cause. It is not only that you ring people into church for us of the clergy to preach to. Our tasks are more closely and more intimately allied than that. Rather is it that in our different ways we proclaim to the world the same message, the message of the eternal values of God and of the human soul.'

'Of all beautiful sounds,' he continued, 'the sound of church bells is the most swift in its effect. The symphony may, as it progresses, carry us in spirit to some concert hall in Germany or Austria, perhaps, where we once heard it ideally performed; the quartet may take us in memory to the country house where we sat in the dull gleam of a peat fire and listened to a recording of it many years ago. But church bells are at once more swift in their action, more inordinately sure and much more potent. As soon as they strike the ear, we are uplifted; time and space melt into nothingness; we find ourselves in the presence of the eternal. As we hear their sound floating above the feverish crowds and traffic of our city streets, we are borne over hills and vales to those fields of youth where their soft, buoyant music used to speak to us or to our parents; for even in this city we are all countrymen by ancestry and at heart. Their music used to speak to us of the place of God in an ordered life and of the peace that that brings. Life then had a rhythm; it had a true perspective; it had a proper stillness. The week, ever lived under God's guidance and in His service, was punctuated by worship. Even if we stayed away from church on Sunday, hearing the bells, we were prevented from forgetting the privileges of our kinship with the eternal. The same bells pealed or tolled at irregular times reminded us how, in our steady progress through time, we find our greatest happiness in a life of sharing, which at the close is rounded with sleep. For the townsman life ever tends to become a disorderly hustle interspersed with sudden, inexplicable catastrophes. If life then had the stateliness of a lovely minuet, it seems now to be set to the drunken stagger of jazz. There is the temptation to under-estimate the existence and, therefore, the value of the historic past. To-day in our sudden vast accession of knowledge, amid the hectic production of our machines, we may be inclined to underrate the values of such things as leisure, of honest intelligent handwork, or chivalry and honour, of the dignity of all human life and lowly service. Yet these things were ever present to the mediæval world, certainly in aspiration and in great measure in fulfilment.'

The preacher recalled the words of Froude, who, writing of the gulf which lay between his times and those of old England, said only among the aisles of the cathedral, only as we gazed upon the silent figures sleeping on their tombs, did some faint conception come before them of what those men were alive, and perhaps in the sound of the church bells, 'that peculiar creation of the mediæval age, which falls upon the ear like the echo of a vanished world.'

GREATEST OF ALL MEMORIES.

The preacher went on to refer to his own experience during the eight years he lived in a Cathedral Close, beneath the shadow of the great square tower which contained, he was told, the highest peal of bells in England. Many and valued, he said, were the thoughts of those days that crowded through the gates of memory: Heavenly music, long processions splendid with colour, aisles packed with Bank Holiday crowds, moonlight playing through the painted glass on the Norman columns, amidst the darkness of the nave, but perhaps the most memorable of all were those of the scene when at the last midnight of the year, after, as it seemed, ages of waiting, the rushing waterfall of joyous clanging sound was loosed from the belfry over the city, sleeping beneath the crisp northern air. Here and there in the College and Close a beam of light would shine out as a door was opened to welcome some dark stranger, the first friendly hand in the new year, while the world went spinning on through space and time. Year after year the bells never failed to bring their message, a message of regret for the past, of hope and high resolve for the future; saying goodbye to the prejudices and disappointments, the pettiness and the wasted opportunities of yesterday, to make way for friendliness, for more persistence in well-doing, for wiser stewardship in the steadily decreasing number of years that remain.

The preacher concluded his eloquent address by reciting the lines from Tennyson's poem 'In Memoriam':—

Ring out, wild bells, to the wild sky,
The flying cloud, the frosty light;
The year is dying in the night;
Ring out, wild bells, and let him die.

REDEDICATION OF BELLS AT CANTERBURY. IMPROVEMENTS AT ST. DUNSTON'S CHURCH.

The rededication of the bells of St. Dunstan's Church, Canterbury, took place on Saturday, September 19th. A large congregation, which included many ringers, was present at the service, which was conducted by Bishop Bidwell, the other clergy present being the Rector, the Rev. A. E. Miller, the Rev. C. A. Manley (Vicar of Littlebourne), with the Rural Dean, the Rev. S. E. Griggs. The sermon was preached by the Bishop, and during the singing of the next hymn the clergy proceeded to the baptistry, which is immediately under the tower, for the dedicatory prayers. At the conclusion of the ceremony the bells were set going for a few minutes in rounds.

After the service the many ringers present had the opportunity to try the bells, and ringing was carried on until eight o'clock in the evening.

The work has been carried out by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank, who were represented at the service by Mr. A. A. Hughes. A clean sweep has been made of the old frame, and a new oak frame installed. The bells have been quarter-turned and tuned, and now hang in two tiers. They have also been placed lower in the tower, thus making the bells sound more pleasantly to the people in the houses in the vicinity. All the ringers were pleased with the tone and go of the bells, the only complaint being that at present the bells are a bit on the loud side in the ringing chamber, a fault which is to be rectified shortly. Messrs. Mears and Stainbank are to be congratulated on the completion of a successful rehanging.

A new band has been formed and it is hoped that soon the bells will be heard ringing for Sunday service regularly, after a lapse of 20 years.

Ring out the old, ring in the new,
Ring, happy bells, across the snow;
The year is going, let him go;
Ring out the false, ring in the true.
Ring out the grief that saps the mind,
For those that here we see no more;
Ring out the feud of rich and poor;
Ring in redress to all mankind.
Ring out old shapes of foul disease;
Ring out the narrowing lust of gold;
Ring out the thousand wars of old,
Ring in the thousand years of peace.
Ring in the valiant man, and free,
The larger heart, the kindlier hand;
Ring out the darkness of the land,
Ring in the Christ that is to be.

A hymn specially written for the service by the Rev. James Wall, who was Precentor of Durham Cathedral, was then sung. It comprised four verses, set to an old and familiar melody, and forms a striking addition to the collection of ringers' hymns. The first two verses are as follow:—

Ye who delight to ring the bells,
Praise Him Whose love their sound forth tells,
Alleluya, Alleluya.
Grateful for health of arm and brain,
For keenness, lift the glad refrain,
Alleluya.
Ye who in hours of toil or rest,
Hear their melodious behest,
Sing His praises, Alleluya.
Ye who on sick beds hear their call,
Praise Him for hope, whate'er befall,
Alleluya.

During the singing of the hymn a collection was taken for the King George Memorial Fund, four members of the College Youths acting as sidesmen, Messrs. E. A. Young, C. Burden, J. E. L. Cockey and F. C. Shorter.

The delightful service concluded with the Blessing, pronounced by the Rector.

A SUGGESTION.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—This is not a complaint, but a suggestion.

On Sunday I had the pleasure of being present at the bellringers' service, held at St. Michael's, Cornhill. I saw a goodly gathering of the members of the Ancient Society of College Youths, and many others—a really fine attendance, in spite of the rain. The service was admirable, and the last hymn, composed specially for the occasion by the Rev. James Wall, M.A., was in itself a tribute to the Exercise. But I think that if the service had been held on any other day than Sunday, or at a different time from that chosen, more ringers would have had the opportunity of being present. Perhaps the service would have been better in the Sunday afternoon, as that would not have interfered with our ordinary duties at our respective churches.

Again, I remind you that this is a suggestion and not a grouse.

WORCESTERSHIRE ASSOCIATION.

APPEAL FOR BEST RINGING IN BROADCASTS.

A glorious September afternoon favoured the Western Branch of the Worcestershire and Districts Association for their meeting at Hanbury last Saturday. The meeting should have taken place earlier, but was unavoidably delayed.

Hanbury Church, situated in delightful country, is somewhat difficult of access, but there were quite a good number present, about 45 members with visitors, including the Misses Amy and Kathleen Johnson, who had cycled 18 miles from Hinton-on-the-Green, Mr. Roger Daniels, of Leckhampton, and Mr. Edward Large, of Birmingham.

The peal of eight bells, tenor 16 cwt. and of moderate tone, were made good use of in a variety of methods.

A short, appropriate service was conducted by the Rector (the Rev. G. V. Blois), who later very kindly provided tea at the Rectory and presided over the business meeting which followed, supported by the secretary (Mr. G. E. Large), Ringing Master (Mr. C. Camm), Central Council representative (Mr. S. T. Holt) and Central Committee representative (Mr. W. Ranford).

Mr. S. T. Holt gave a brief resumé of the Central Council meeting held in London, in particular mentioning the Council's desire to see better support of 'The Ringing World,' and improved ringing for broadcasting. Regarding the latter, Mr. Holt said that if any band in the branch was asked to broadcast, he hoped they would only attempt to do that which they were capable of doing best, and that good rounds and call changes would be preferred to bad or indifferent change ringing.

Mr. C. E. Lindo, 80 years of age and an expert signwriter and pavement artist, who was present from Worcester in the role of spectator, offered to write peal boards for any important peal rung by the branch free of charge if they provided him with the boards, an announcement which was warmly appreciated by all present.

After the vote of thanks to the Rector, members again visited the tower until about 8.30. It was dark when the last came out of the belfry, and the red lights on the masts of the Droitwich transmitter some two miles or so to the north-west indicated that another company was actively engaged.

CHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD.

CREWE BRANCH MEETING AT BUNBURY.

A very successful meeting of ringers was held at Bunbury on September 12th, but owing presumably to the early downpour of rain, the number attending was small.

Ringing commenced at 4 o'clock and tea was served at the Dysart Arms. A short business meeting followed, presided over by Mr. G. Biddulph, Ringing Master (in the absence of branch officials).

Mr. George Crawley, of Crewe, congratulated the Ringing Master on his good example to other ringers by attending all the meetings and helping the less fortunate in the art of ringing.

Votes of thanks to the Vicar and to those responsible for the tea were accorded.

A tour of this beautiful church and a study of its ancient relics is quite an education, even to the man who tried to lift a 7ft. x 3ft. 4in. thick stone coffin and won a 'Woodbine.'

Further ringing in various methods, Grandsire, Plain Bob, Kent Treble Bob, were enjoyed by all, and those who stayed away are informed that the weather was lovely, and there was not a drop of rain.

WHERE BELLS ARE APPRECIATED.

AN AUGMENTATION IN KENT.

The dedication of the new treble bell at St. Margaret's Church, Chelsfield, Kent (augmenting the peal to six), took place on Sunday, September 13th, the ceremony being performed by the Vicar (the Rev. D. Parsons). Rounds were rung during the service by members of the Kent County Association from SS. Peter and Paul's and St. Luke's Churches, Bromley.

After the service the first touch of Bob Major was conducted by Mr. I. Emery from the treble, followed by a course of Cambridge Surprise Minor, the first Surprise on the bells: F. E. Pitman 1, M. Oakshett 2, Miss Oakshett 3, J. Lyddiard 4, P. Spice 5, A. Blackett 6.

The first 720 on the bells was an extent of Kent Treble Bob: P. Spice 1, Miss Oakshett 2, M. Oakshett 3, F. E. Pitman 4, J. Lyddiard 5, A. Blackett (conductor) 6.

Good striking was maintained throughout, which the Vicar and members of the congregation who remained thoroughly appreciated. It is to be hoped the local band will make good use of the extension, as bells are appreciated in this locality.

The new treble has been added by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank.

PRESENTATION AT FENHAM.

On Sunday, September 13th, a presentation of a silver inscribed cigarette case was made to Mr. A. Dodds, who is leaving SS. James and Basil's belfry, Fenham, for Glasgow. Regrets at his departure were expressed by all, and the sincere best wishes of the Guild were given to him in his new sphere. Mr. Dodds suitably responded.

Following the ceremony a farewell quarter-peal of Stedman Triples (Brooks') was rung by D. Reay 1, A. Dodds 2, T. W. Crowe 3, A. S. Walker 4, N. Fairman 5, K. Arthur (conductor) 6, P. Wishart 7, R. Crosby 8.

FOR BEGINNERS.

FROM PLAIN TO REVERSE AND DOUBLE BOB.

There must be numerous towers about the country where Plain Bob, even after many years, is still the order of the day. We constantly see peals of Minor rung in which the method has been Plain Bob in all the seven 720's. There is legitimate excuse for the young band whose first peal attempts consist of nothing but Plain Bob, but there are many ringers who ought to get out of this rut, and learn to ring something else. The returning winter evenings are the time to make the effort.

The first steps can be easy ones, and in order to get some idea of the work which you may find in other methods, we suggest that you should try the Bob method in other ways than the one you have been in the habit of ringing. Yes, there are other ways. There is Reverse Bob and there is Double Bob.

When you ring Plain Bob you make 2nd's place or dodge when the treble is leading, and very possibly you have learnt where to dodge by the position in which you pass the treble as you hunt up and the treble hunts down.

Reverse Bob, as its name implies, is the opposite of Plain Bob. Instead of 2nd's place or dodging when the treble leads, 5th's place is made and the dodging takes place when the treble is behind, and you learn where to dodge by the position in which you pass the treble as you hunt down and the treble hunts up.

Double Bob incorporates both Plain and Reverse Bob; that is you make both 2nd's when the treble leads and 5th's when it lies its whole pull behind. Consequently there is dodging on both occasions.

You can learn where to dodge by the position in which you pass the treble both as you hunt up and as you hunt down. Some people do not take the trouble to do this, but we think that for those beginning to launch out into the boundless sea of methods it is just as well to start this way.

Let us first compare Reverse Bob with Plain Bob and see how little difference there really is in the actual work. You want to try to count your way from the back, as you do from the front. For instance, in Plain Bob, if you meet the treble first from the front you make 2nd's and lead again. In Reverse Bob if you meet the treble first from the back (that is after you have had your whole pull behind), you make 5th's and lie a whole pull behind again.

In Plain Bob, if you meet the treble second from the front you dodge in 3-4 (up); in Reverse Bob, if you meet the treble second from the back, you dodge in 4-3 (down), and so on. Put in another way you can compare them thus:—

PLAIN.		REVERSE.
Pass Treble		Pass Treble
5-6	dodge 4-3 down	2-1	dodge 3-4 up
4-5	dodge 6-5 down	3-2	dodge 1-2 up
3-4	dodge 5-6 up	4-3	dodge 2-1 down
2-3	dodge 3-4 up	5-4	dodge 4-3 down
1-2	make 2nd's	6-5	make 5th's

Dodging in 1-2 in Reverse takes the place of dodging in 5-6 in Plain—everything, in fact, is reversed. If you want to see what it looks like on paper, write out a plain course of Bob Minor, draw a continuous line through the figures representing one bell—then turn it upside down, and you have Reverse Bob.

If you want to ring Double Bob you just put the two things together. There is nothing else to learn as far as ringing the method is concerned. If you know exactly what to do when you have passed the treble, either in hunting up or down, in the Plain and Reverse; you will know what to do in the Double method. Of course the dodging and place-making do not come in the same sequence, but, when you have passed the treble, your next dodge will be in accordance with the tables given above, whichever way you are going.

There is another way of ringing it which may help you. May we put it in rather unorthodox style and say 'You do something and miss something alternately'? The 'something' may be a place or a dodge, and we put it in this form to save a confusion of terms.

Think of the method in terms of 1-2, 3-4, 5-6, 6-5, 4-3, 2-1. If you dodge in 3-4, you do nothing in 5-6; then dodge in 6-5, do nothing in 4-3; dodge in 2-1, do nothing in 1-2; dodge in 3-4, do nothing in 5-6. Then you find you pass the treble; therefore, make 5th's and lie a whole pull, which is equivalent to doing nothing in 6-5, dodge in 4-3, do nothing in 2-1, dodge in 1-2, do nothing in 3-4, dodge in 5-6, do nothing in 6-5, dodge in 3-4, do nothing in 2-1. Then you will pass the treble in 1-2 and have to make 2nd's and lead. Whether, after doing nothing in 2-1 or in 5-6, you have to dodge or make a place (2nd's or 5th's) will be decided by whether or not you immediately pass the treble.

We have not given the figures of the methods. You can work them out for yourselves.

The conductor can call his bobs in the Reverse method, when the treble is behind. That causes the bell passing the treble in 5-4 to make 3rd's and hunt up, the bell that would have made 5th's to hunt straight down, and the bell that would have dodged in 3-4 up to run straight up and turn the treble from behind. If this is done the ordinary calling for 720's can be applied.

In Double Bob the bobs are called when the treble is in front, exactly as in Bob Minor. There are certain differences in some of the BURNHAM SOCIETY'S ANNUAL OUTING.

YOUNGSTERS INTRODUCED TO HEAVIER METAL.

As the 12, 13 and 14 year olds of two years ago are maturing, it was decided this year that the weight of metal should grow with them when the Burnham ringers had their annual outing. Therefore, on Saturday, September 12th, the society (less one lady member who was touring Wales) departed from their headquarters (Five Bells) at 1.30 p.m. by motor-coach over the Chilterns to Great Missenden (tenor 26 cwt.), where they soon had this delightful six going to Treble Bob and Plain Minor. Mr. E. G. Higgin, who met the band at the tower, extended a warm welcome. Back across these hillocks via Great Hampden and Princes Risborough, Watlington was reached at 4.15. Mr. W. Alexander was on the spot to greet the party. This eight (tenor 24 cwt.) were raised and touches of Triples and Major were rung and enjoyed. On again to Abingdon, where Mr. A. E. Lock kindly met the visitors. Following tea at Messrs. Palmer's Restaurant, the society had their second annual practice on ten bells at St. Helen's Church (tenor 20 cwt.), where a couple of courses of Grandsire Caters and one of (look out for brickbats!) Plain Bob Caters were rung. Nettlebed was reached at 8.15 p.m., and at this tower Mr. J. (Gunboat) Smith was ready and waiting, so touches in various Minor methods were rung, including 'laminated,' on this handy little six. This completed the ringing portion of the programme, and the younger members are to be congratulated on the way in which they handled the heavy end. The only fly in the ointment was the weather, for the route taken passes through some fine scenery, which was absolutely blotted out by incessant downpours, but even that could not discourage these young bloods, as, with an expert accordion player (one of the society) aboard, a continuous concert was carried on from time of departure till the hour of return. The coach, as on previous occasions, was lined with fruit, crisps, biscuits, 'pop' and 'grown-up pop,' and a word of thanks should be given to the captain (Mr. G. W. Limner) for the way he sees the wants (which are many) of everyone supplied. Headquarters was reached about 10.15 p.m., everyone having been safely deposited at their own door. Thanks are extended to all steeplekeepers for meeting the society and to all incumbents for so readily granting the necessary permission to use the bells. G. G.

SUFFOLK GUILD.

A meeting of the Suffolk Guild was held on Saturday in the north-western part of the county, the bells at the following towers being available for ringing: Hinderclay, Redgrave, Hopton, Rickingham, Thelmetham and Hepworth. Tea was provided in the school at Hinderclay, by the generosity of the Rector (the Rev. Shaw), and about 20 members attended.

A short business meeting followed. The Rector, who presided, was given a hearty vote of thanks for the bounteous repast.

On the motion of the secretary, a collection was taken in aid of Hinderclay Bells Fund, and the sum of 14s. was handed to the Rector.

The Secretary announced that the dedication of the restored ring at Ufford would take place on Wednesday, October 7th, at 3 p.m., and a meeting of the Guild would be held there on October 17th.

A fair amount of ringing was indulged in during the afternoon and evening, mainly at Hinderclay, Thelmetham and Hopton, although at Thelmetham an ominous lumbering overhead caused some alarm to those below. These bells evidently require the attention of a bell-hanger.

THE SOMERSET TOUR.

LOST PEALS.

Mr. Wilfred Williams writes to correct a wrong impression given about the Somerset tour. There was no peal fixed up for the first Saturday, the Sunday attempt was at Clevedon and 'stand' had to be called there after ringing an hour and a half owing to one of the band being unable to continue. There were two attempts on each of the following days, except the last Saturday, when there was only one. Three of these efforts were abandoned, after about an hour in each case, owing to some of the bells requiring a lot of hard work. Glastonbury was another tower at which ringing took place, and there was plenty of spare time to visit, in addition to the places already mentioned. Downside Abbey, Wells Cathedral, Cheddar Gorge and caves and Wookey Hole.

SILVER WEDDING COMPLIMENT.

At St. Andrew's Church, Heckington, Lincolnshire, for evening service, on August 23rd, a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples. Also rung as a compliment to Mr. and Mrs. Connell on the occasion of their silver wedding: H. Connell 1, N. Brown 2, N. Asher 3, F. Brown 4, W. Asher 5, A. Dixon 6, W. Woods (conductor) 7, F. Warrington 8.

compositions that are needed, but as long as the conductor sticks to the 'old' 720's he will be all right. By the 'old' 720's we mean those with the tenor called Wrong, Right and Wrong; or In, In and 4th's; and the 5th called 4th's, Out, Out; or Right, Wrong and Right, each, of course, being five times repeated with a single half-way and end.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD.SILENCERS TO BE USED IN NOISY TOWERS.

There was a gathering of about 50 at the quarterly meeting of the North Dorset Branch at Motcombe on Saturday, September 12th. Besides representatives from ten local parishes there were visitors from Bath, Bristol, Chilcompton, Chewton Mendip, Cucklington, Doultling, Frome, London, Melksham, Poole, Publow, Reading, Stoke Trister, Stoke Wake and Westbury, also from Horsington and Templecombe during the evening.

The Guild office was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. D. J. Watkins-Jones), the address being given by the Rev. W. Uphill, of Stour Provost, and the singing led by the Rev. F. L. Edwards at the organ.

An excellent tea was served by Mrs. S. F. Burden in the Memorial Hall, followed by a short business meeting, at which the Rev. F. L. Edwards presided and extended a hearty welcome to the many visitors.

Mr. W. C. Shute mentioned that there had been some complaint at the noise of the bells at a combined meeting held in May. After discussion it was decided to purchase a set of Davis silencers for use at meetings or other occasions where lengthy periods of ringing might be a source of annoyance or inconvenience to nearby residents.

The meeting concluded with a vote of thanks to the Vicar for conducting the service and for the use of the bells, to the Rev. W. Uphill for his very helpful and uplifting address, and to the ladies for the delightful tea provided.

The Vicar, in reply, thanked the members for coming to his parish. It was, he said, his first experience of a Guild meeting, and he hoped they would soon honour him by another visit.

The bells of St. Peter's and Holy Trinity, Shaftesbury, and St. Leonard's, Semley, were available during the evening, and excellent practice was obtained, ranging from rounds to various Surprise Minor methods.

LEATHERHEAD RINGER'S WEDDING.GUILDFORD GUILD FRIENDS RING PEAL IN MIDDLESEX.

A member of the Leatherhead, Surrey, band, Mr. William John Whiting, second son of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Whiting, of Devises, was married on Saturday at All Saints' Parish Church, Isleworth, Middlesex, the bride being Miss Marjorie Irene Quilley, only child of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Quilley, of Isleworth. The ceremony was performed by the Vicar, the Rev. P. W. Shepherd-Smith, and the service was choral. The bride was given in marriage by her father and was attired in a dress of white satin. She also wore a pearl necklace, the gift of the bridegroom, and carried a bouquet of dark red carnations. The bridesmaids were Miss Molly Whiting and Miss Amy Whiting (sisters of the bridegroom) and Miss Peggy Atkinson and Miss Daphne Passey (cousins of the bride). Miss Molly Whiting wore a dress of pink crepe suede, and the other bridesmaids wore dresses of similar material in blue. They all wore diamante pendants, the gifts of the bridegroom, whose best man was his brother, Mr. H. Whiting.

By the kindness of the local ringers and a band of the Middlesex Association, who had obtained the bells at All Saints' Church for a peal on the afternoon of the wedding, the bells were placed at the disposal of Mr. Whiting's Guildford Guild colleagues, who rang the bridal pair from church with a touch of Grandsire Caters, and afterwards scored a well-struck peal of Kent Treble Bob Royal. Afterwards the ringers joined the wedding party at the Church Hall, and joined in the good wishes extended to the happy pair.

Mr. Whiting is an assistant sanitary inspector at Leatherhead, where he and his wife will reside.

LONDON COUNTY ASSOCIATION.NORTHERN DISTRICT'S ENJOYABLE MEETING AT WOODFORD.

A very enjoyable and successful meeting of the Northern District of the London County Association was held at St. Mary's, Woodford, on Saturday. This meeting at Woodford always seems to be popular and Saturday was no exception, there being some thirty or so members present. Ringing began at 3.30 p.m. and the bells were almost continuously in use until 5.30 p.m.

Regular visitors missed the usual tea in the Church Hall. This year tea was served at a nearby cafe and was much enjoyed, with touches of Henry Hall breaking through at odd moments.

The usual lightning business meeting took place in the belfry. The hon. secretary being absent (how those plus fours were missed!), Mr. F. C. Shorter was asked to fill the role.

Further ringing took place after the business meeting until 9 p.m. Methods rung during the afternoon ranged from Grandsire Triples to London Surprise Major. A little better striking would have finished a good meeting.

During the afternoon, the name Woodford Bridge was frequently heard, and one wonders whether there are any bells there or—what? The remaining noticeable feature was the absence of the Chief Knut of the N.U.T.S.

FRYERNING, ESSEX.—On Sunday, September 6th, for evening service at St. Mary's Church, 720 Ipswich Surprise (E. Stich, conductor), 360 Oxford Treble Bob (A. Bradley, conductor). The following local ringers took part: A. Bradley, E. Stich, C. Harrington, H. Wright, G. Camp, L. Camp.
