A ZOOLOGICAL-CAMPANOLOGICAL OUTING.

WILTSHIRE RINGERS' EXCURSION.

The ringers of Lydiard Millicent, Wiltshire, accompanied by a few friends, held their annual outing on Saturday, September 18th, and the clerk of the weather looked with favour upon them. A start was made at 7 a.m., the first call being Wheatley, where the Vicar met the party and some Grandsire Doubles was rung, despite the very bad arrangements in the ringing room, where the clock case, etc., is an impediment. Aston Clinton was then visited and some ringing enjoyed on this good going ring of six. Here again the Vicar was in attendance. A halt was made at Ivinghoe Beacon to enable the more energetic members of the party to do a little mountaineering, and the view obtained was ample compensation for the energy expended. The real objective, Whipsnade Zoo, was reached at 12.30, and the afternoon was spent in making acquaintanceship with animals and birds of all sorts and sizes. The journey home was begun soon after tea and a call was made at Dinton, where more Doubles were rung. A halt was made at Thame, where the autumn fair was in progress, and it is reported that three well-known Swindon ringers were seen riding on the hobby-horses. After the fearsome beasts of Whipsnade they wanted a change, something nice and tame! Home was reached safely at midnight after an enjoyable day, and thanks are extended to all who helped make it enjoyable. W. B. K.

WEDDING BELLS.

At St. Mary Magdalen's Church, Holloway, on Sunday, September 5th, for evening service, a quarter-peal of Bob Major: R. Charge 1, A. Turner 2, F. Barker 3, H. Franks 4, R. Newman 5, G. Charge 6, A. Darnell 7, J. G. Nash 8. This was in honour of the wedding of Miss E. Dixon and Mr. F. Akers, which took place at Unity Church on the previous day. As there are no bells at the church, handbells were rung at the reception, after the wedding.

DON'T SCRUB YOUR HANDS!

*Cleanse and preserve your
skin this simple way*

To many people, the problem of getting the hands really clean without harming the skin is a serious one. Grease and grime, which become deeply ingrained into the pores of the skin, are extremely difficult to remove, and ordinary washing with soap or even scrubbing will fail to remove them completely. Housewives, particularly, who complain that their hands get ruined by the nature of their work, will find the preparation called DERMAFOAM, a real "godsend." DERMAFOAM just smoothes away dirt and grease without effort. It gets right down into the pores and removes every particle of grime, leaving skin beautifully supple and healthy.

Men, too—when you've finished that dirty job on the car, DERMAFOAM will quickly banish all grease and oil from your hands. It acts almost magically—working under and around the nails and into every minute crease, removing all trace of dirt in a flash.

Engineers, Painters, Car Mechanics, Printers — everyone — will welcome DERMAFOAM, the modern method of cleansing and protecting the hands.

BELLS OUSTED BY GRAMOPHONE.

Recently we have been hearing of churches being equipped with amplifiers to 'broadcast' bells from a gramophone record when their towers have not been equipped with the genuine article. In place of the often discordant note of a single bell, with its irritating monotony, there is something to be said for such an installation, at any rate temporarily. There can, however, be little excuse for using mechanical substitutes in churches where a ring of bells is already in existence. Yet this is what appears to be happening at the celebrated Church of All Hallows, Tower Hill. The Vicar is the respected founder of Toc H, the Rev. 'Tubby' Clayton, and it is reported that a gramophone has been introduced to take the place of the bells, because the latter are unsafe. Such an action will be deeply deplored by all ringers. All Hallows' has a peal of eight, and if they have been allowed to get into a dilapidated condition, as so many other London bells have been, the fault lies first with the church authorities, whose responsibility it is to see that they are maintained in good order. The provision of a gramophone, which the authorities no doubt regard as a cheap way out, is, in our view, a deplorable means of escaping a liability to the church and a trust which has come down to them to be handed on to the future. We shall probably be told that there are no funds to carry out the necessary work to the bells. This is so often the excuse, yet time and again we hear of the bright example of poor parishes shouldering successfully the task of restoring or renewing their bells. Ebbw Vale, in the distressed area of South Wales, is an instance which we record this very week. We wonder if any real effort has been made to obtain the money for the work at All Hallows'. We can hardly imagine failure for such an appeal in connection with a church so justly famous as the home of Toc H.

But, having said this much, let us not be blind to the fact that one of the reasons why the bells have got into an unsafe condition is from lack of any interest in them by a regular band of ringers. Where there is a company of ringers the bells are naturally better cared for, and the defects brought to the notice of the authorities. It may be that long neglect has resulted in the present dilapidations. There are other London churches where the bells are similarly falling into decrepitude. Quite a number of peals of bells have dropped out of use from absence of interest on the part of ringers, even for occasional visits. London has far more bells than there are ringers to ring them, but it is a great pity that something cannot be done by the societies which cover the area to act jointly in getting a review of the whole position, with a view to a comprehensive reorganisation. It might save other bells

PEAL NOTES.

MANY CELEBRATIONS.

At Barton-on-Humber the local ringers gave up their practice on September 22nd to enable a band to ring a peal on the eve of the harvest festival. Their kindness was much appreciated.

In this peal, which was Bob Major, Mr. Harry Eastoe scored his first as conductor, and he and Mr. Jack Bray 'completed the circle' in the tower.

The first peal on the bells of Great Torrington, Devon, since their restoration by Messrs. Taylor and Co., in 1931, was rung on September 22nd.

Mr. Edgar Rivers conducted a peal in seven Minor methods at Hintlesham, Suffolk, on September 20th. It was here that he rang his first peal nearly 40 years ago, namely, in 1898.

A peal of Minor was rung at Biddenham, Beds, on September 18th, in honour of the anniversary of the Vicar's induction to the parish.

In honour of the wedding of Miss Norah Kathleen Dumper to Mr. Gordon Leslie Green at North Stoneham, Hants, on Saturday, a peal of Kent Treble Bob Royal was rung on the light ring at St. Nicholas' Church. The bride is the youngest daughter of Mr. E. Dumper, one of the local band at North Stoneham.

A peal in another method from the Central Council's Collection—Pulford Bob Major—has been rung for the first time, at Crayford on September 24th, and was conducted by Edwin A. Barnett, who, at 18 years of age, has scored his 250th peal.

Miss Hilda Snowden rang her fiftieth peal and her first of Bristol Surprise Major on Saturday, when at Halstead, Essex, the bells were rung half-muffled for the death of Mr. Wall, a prominent church-worker.

Miss Hilda Wintle, who rang the treble to a peal of Minor at Tilston, Cheshire, on September 20th, is deserving of congratulations upon a faultless performance, although she had not rung Minor until a few days before the peal.

Arranged for Mrs. T. Penner (nee Miss C. Hoverd), of Matfield, the peal of Grandsire Triples at Brenchley, Kent, on September 22nd, was rung in honour of the birth of a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Powell, of Hawkhurst, and as a 71st birthday compliment to Mrs. Dartnell, mother of the ringer of the tenor.

The peal of Ealing Surprise, the first in the method by all the band and the Herts Association, rung at Aldenham on Saturday, was the 25th peal together by Messrs. J. E. Rootes and M. F. R. Hibbert.

Two men were required to ring the tenor to the peal of Stedman Triples at Blawbury, Berks, on September 18th. It was the first in that method on the bells since 1906, when the late Rev. F. E. Robinson conducted one after the dedication of the two trebles. The band then comprised the Rev. G. F. Coleridge, W. H. Fussell, F. W. Hopgood, E. Humphrey, Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn, W. Newell, Rev. F. E. Robinson and R. White.

Three generations of the Paulson family were represented in the band that rang a peal of Grandsire Triples at Darley Dale, Derbyshire, on September 20th. It was arranged as a farewell to Ernest Paulson, who has entered Chester College as a student in the teaching profession, and for Mr. John Austin, of Gloucester, who was visiting the district. It also celebrated the birth of a son to Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Paulson.

The first peal of London Surprise Minor by the Chester Diocesan Guild was rung on September 18th at Capenhurst. It was also the first by all the band, and one of the ringers, Fred Hartman, had never rung a touch in the method before.

Mr. William Buckenham has now rung each bell at Hilgay, Norfolk, to a peal, completing the circle last Friday by ringing the 3rd to his first peal of Double Norwich.

The first peal on the bells at Harston, Cambs, rung on Sept. 18th, was a birthday compliment to Mr. Percy Webb, of Ickleton.

A peal of Double Norwich with 4, 5 and 6 only in 6th's was rung at Ealing on Sept. 18th, conducted by Alan R. Pink. The special interest in the composition is that it was produced by a young Cornishman, Cyril Lauxon, who is probably the first ringer of Cornwall to compose a peal.

Cyril Lauxon, who is a representative of the Truro Diocesan Guild on the Central Council, has produced several compositions and is a young ringer of great promise, who is handicapped by the isolation of Cornish change ringing.

Mr. William Welling, of Old Windsor, rang his four hundredth peal on Sept. 18th, when he called a peal of Superlative at Beaconsfield.

THE COTSWOLD TOUR.

The first tower on Wednesday was Northleach, Glos., only six miles from headquarters and situated on the main Oxford to Cheltenham road. The Church of SS. Peter and Paul is very large and has a square tower 100ft. high. As it was necessary to wait, owing to a short service, some of the party made the long climb to the top of the tower, where a wonderful view was obtained. It is recorded in the church that the squinces were left on as a spire was intended, but it was never built. Six of the bells bear the date 1700 and the name of the founder, Corr, of Aldbourne. The peal were rehung in new fittings and frame and two trebles added by Mears and Stainbank in 1897. The tenor is 18½ cwt. in E. Mr. R. W. Daniels, of Cheltenham, came over to have a short pull with the non-pealers before the peal commenced.

The bells are rather quiet in the ringing chamber, in fact it was quite difficult to hear one or two of them, and the draught of rope is long. A fine peal of Spliced London, Bristol, Cambridge and Superlative Surprise Major was rung in 3 hours and 13 minutes, the first of 'Spliced' on the bells and of Spliced Surprise Major by the association. The Vicar met the ringers after the peal and expressed great pleasure with the ringing.

After lunch, an eight-mile journey took the party to Burford in Oxfordshire. The assistant priest, the Rev. Lancelot Andrewes, welcomed us on behalf of Canon Emeries, who has held the living for 30 years and is shortly retiring. The Church of St. John the Baptist has associations with Cromwell, and it is recorded that quite a number of delinquents were locked in the church for refusing to fight. The church dates from about 1170 and shows traces of many alterations and different styles through the centuries. Three or four different roof levels can be seen and the tall spire is a landmark for miles.

The bells are rather a mixed lot. The tenor is 19 cwt. in E and pre-Reformation, but we thought them very musical and appropriately Superlative was the method chosen. The ropes hang anti-clockwise. Some excellent ringing was heard, but the peal 'went west' after 1½ hours. Outside the tower the band were met by Mr. Thomas Bond, a local bellfounder, who has recast and rehung quite a number of bells in the neighbourhood.

A TOWER OF RECORDS.

Appleton, in Berkshire, was visited on Thursday morning. Our arrival was a little after schedule, but Mr. Richard White was waiting and had everything in readiness. Most of the band had not previously visited this village, and there were many exclamations of surprise at the smallness of the tower. It did not seem possible that there could be room for a peal of ten bells. However, Appleton is very famous for peal ringing, and on the walls of the ringing chamber peal tablets record almost every conceivable length of Caters, from a mere 5,000 to the record length of 21,363 Stedman Caters rung on April 22nd, 1922, conducted by Herbert Langdon, and in which Mr. R. White rang the 9th.

However, we had not come to break any records as to length, and a start was made for Yorkshire Royal, which was successfully completed in 3 hours and 11 minutes, the first peal of Surprise Royal on the bells and of Yorkshire Royal by the Oxford Guild. The belfry is only about 8ft. square, but every bell is heard perfectly in the ringing chamber and the striking was excellent. There was one hitch about a course from home, when the 8th rope slipped, but fortunately regained the wheel at the next stroke. Mr. White was outside to offer congratulations, as also were the Holifields, senior and junior. A welcome visitor was Mr. George Williams, of Southampton, who called in on his way to friends in the district, and he heard the last hour of the peal.

All the week up to this point perfect weather, with glorious sunshine, had been experienced, but it rained hard on the short six-mile journey into Oxford. The Church of St. Martin and All Saints which we visited is situated in the High Street, but, being early closing day, no annoyance was caused by ringing. The church and tower were designed by Wren and are very like so many seen in London. This is Mr. W. F. Judge's 'home' tower and he rang in the almost perfect peal of London Surprise, completed in 2 hours 51 minutes, which brought our total of successes up to eight. It was the first peal of London on the bells and F. S. Bayley's 300th peal. The bells are a light, handy peal, easy to ring, with tenor 7 cwt. 3 qr. 10 lb. in A flat. The old six were rehung and augmented to eight by Mears and Stainbank in 1927. It was a long run home to Bourton, but good time was made.

HEAVY PEAL AND LONG DRAUGHT.

On Friday morning we had the shortest journey of the week, the 3½ miles run, practically all uphill, to Stow-on-the-Wold, Glos., situated over 800ft. above sea level and the highest point on the Cotswolds, with wonderful panoramic views. The tower captain, Mr. F. Davis, was waiting to welcome us. The bells are a heavy peal with long draught of rope. The third and sixth bear the date 1606, and the peal were augmented from six to eight and rehung by Taylor and Co. in 1897, the tenor being 30 cwt. in D. It was decided to attempt Bristol and this method certainly sounded wonderful on these grand bells. The peal was successful in 3 hours 34 minutes and excellent ringing was heard. This was the first peal of Surprise in the tower, the only previous peal of Major being one of Bob Major rung in 1930.

After lunch we had an eight-mile run on high ground to Chipping Norton, in Oxon, where the Church of St. Mary the Virgin is situated in the lower part of this ancient town and has a square tower with a very nice peal of eight bells, tenor 14 cwt. in F, all cast originally by Rudhall, of Gloucester, in 1826. In 1907 they were recast by Mears and Stainbank and rehung by Webb and Bennett, of Kidlington, Oxon. The ropes are a good circle and the bells of pleasant tone. Yorkshire Major went well and a fine peal was brought round in 3 hours 10 minutes, the first in the method on the bells.

Saturday morning's attempt was at Bourton-on-the-Water, less than a quarter of a mile from headquarters, so, for the first time in the week, it was not necessary to get the coach out, and Peter had a rest. Some difficulty was experienced with the go of the 6th, but a little extra grease somewhat remedied matters and a start was made for Cambridge Major. This was a false start, however, but on re-starting an excellent peal was rung in 3 hours 3 minutes. Those who were not in the peal spent part of the morning in the village smithy watching Mr. Bernard Phillips demonstrate his art. However, I am afraid that very little work was done, listening to ringing certainly does interfere with work, but Mr. Phillips was glad to hear his bells rung so well.

On Saturday afternoon we were due at Kingham, Oxon, about eight miles from Bourton, reached via Stow-on-the-Wold. Here we found a very pleasant and handy ring of eight, with tenor 12 cwt. 1 qr. 14 lb. in G. We were told that a local gentleman, Mr. C. B. Young (since deceased), bore the cost of rehanging the bells about 15 years ago. A feature of the church is the stone pews. Spliced Surprise Major in four methods was attempted and went like clockwork for 1½ hours when it went 'up in the air,' and the subsequent inquest failed to solve the reason satisfactorily. However, this was only the third peal lost during the week, and we were all more than satisfied with 11 peals rung out of 14 attempts.

It still being early, a move was made to Cheltenham, 20 miles away, a lovely run, mostly on very high ground, over the Cotswolds. The party spent the evening in various ways, and before leaving for headquarters arrangements were made to ring at the Parish Church the next morning.

VISIT TO CHELTENHAM.

Punctually at 10 a.m. on Sunday we arrived at St. Mary's to find the local band ringing the bells up in peal, and it was a very good 'rise.' These are a very nice 12 with tenor 22½ cwt. in B flat, easy to handle and with a good circle. Stedman Cinques met with fair success, but a course of Cambridge Royal and a touch of Stedman Caters were perfectly struck. The local captain, Mr. W. Dyer, had extended a hearty welcome, which was greatly appreciated.

Back to Bourton for lunch, packing and settling up, and the party regretfully departed from this delightful little village, where they had received the best attention and been very comfortable. During the week we had covered hundreds of miles on and around the Cotswold hills, and the convenience of having our own coach and driver cannot be too well emphasised, for it enabled us to get about very quickly, with no waiting for buses or trains, and no long walks from stations.

Permission had been obtained to have a pull on the eight bells at Merton College, Oxford, on Sunday afternoon, and the party greatly appreciated the privilege, for these bells are seldom allowed to be rung. Messrs. W. F. Judge, H. Miles, V. Bennett, P. E. Taylor, R. A. Post and other members of the Oxford Society were awaiting us and we quickly made the long climb to the peculiar ringing chamber, quite 28ft. square, the ringing floor comprising a balcony around the wall of the tower and open in the centre to the church below—it is quite a long drop. The ropes hang two on each side of the tower and the circle seems enormous. The bells are heavy going, tenor about 31 cwt. in D. However, Stedman Triples and Cambridge Major were rung until it became time to lower in peal.

Ringing for evening service was performed at the Church of St. Laurence, Reading, which has a fine peal of 12 with tenor 23 cwt. 20 lb. in D. They were rehung and augmented to 12 by Mears and Stainbank in 1929. Mr. R. T. Hibbert and other local ringers extended a hearty welcome, and Cambridge Royal and Stedman Cinques were well struck.

After an early departure from Reading, the party began to break up, as the coach arrived at various home towns, after a very pleasant and happy week spent together, good ringing, many social hours and many new ringing friends made.

The whole party expressed their appreciation to Mr. W. Williams, who arranged the tour, and a special vote of thanks was given to Mr. W. F. Judge, of Oxford, who rendered great help. His local knowledge and assistance in securing towers was invaluable. Thanks were also accorded to the official organiser, Mr. J. M. Cripps, who fixed up the accommodation and had charge of the coach and carried out his duties right well. Special thanks are also due to the various incumbents and local ringers at all the churches at which we rang, for we had a cordial welcome at all places visited.

A NEW PEAL IN SOUTH WALES.HOW EBBW VALE GAVE THANKS FOR RETURNING PROSPERITY.

A new peal of bells at Ebbw Vale, South Wales, has been given in thanks for returning prosperity, brought about by the pending restart of the blast furnaces and, later, the resumption of the steel works.

The dedication of the bells was performed by the Bishop of Monmouth on Sunday afternoon, September 19th, and so great was the congregation that the church was full half an hour before the service, which was relayed to another large gathering in the adjoining church hall.

In the course of the specially arranged service the Bishop and clergy, with the churchwardens, proceeded to the space beneath the tower and there the dedication took place, a course of Stedman Triples being rung immediately the ceremony had been performed by a band representing the Llandaff and Monmouth Diocesan Association. The ringers were J. W. Jones 1, F. Atwell 2, C. H. Perry 3, G. Popnell 4, G. Talbot 5, W. Page 6, J. Phillips 7, W. Heath 8.

The Bishop, in his address, recalled the period of sadness and distress, caused by unemployment, through which the district had passed, and spoke of the happy change that had now come about. Once again, he said, the pulse of industrial and commercial life was beating steadily, and for these great benefits they offered thanks and praise.

'The bells hung in this tower,' he continued, 'will be to you a perpetual reminder of the passing away of adversity. To the hearts and consciences of those to come they will be a reminder of God in all the facts and chances of this mortal life.'

'In times of great joy and great sorrow these bells will not be silent. Sunday by Sunday they will make themselves heard far and wide, calling men to come together. "Remember God"—that is what the bells will say. And this shall be the message of the bells to Ebbw Vale.'

After the address the Halleluia Chorus was sung, and the inspiring service terminated with the Benediction.

MILL WORKERS GIVE A BELL.

After the service touches of Stedman and Grandsire Triples were rung by visiting ringers.

One of the new bells was installed in honour of the Bishop. The Vicar's warden, Mr. A. S. Huxley, who alone raised £750 of the £1,400 collected by public and private subscription to pay for the peal, provided one bell in memory of his family. A third is in memory of a former churchwarden, Mr. H. Llewellyn Prole.

TREBLE BOB MAJOR IN B FLAT.VICAR'S STORY AT LONDON COUNTY ASSOCIATION MEETING.

A very enjoyable and pleasant meeting of the Southern District of the London County Association was held on Saturday week at St. Paul's, Hounslow. A fine day brought an early good attendance, and proceedings commenced with a touch of Stedman Triples. Several other methods followed. Tea was served in the Parish Hall. The District Master (Mr. H. Mance) took the chair at the business meeting which followed. Mr. H. Miller, of Ealing, was elected a member. The place of next meeting brought a suggestion for Putney and Fulham, if permission can be obtained, the date being November 20th.

Towards the end of the meeting, the Vicar, the Rev. H. M. Eyton-Jones, paid a surprise visit, and extended a hearty welcome to the association. He inquired if it was possible to ring 'a Treble Bob Major in B flat,' and then told an amusing tale of a talk with a visiting Archdeacon, who inquired of the Vicar whether his bells were rung on Sundays. The Vicar, with a wink of his eye, told the Archdeacon that when they were all present he thought the ringers could manage the above method! And the Archdeacon was very well pleased!

Before leaving, the Vicar was thanked by Mr. Mance for his kindness in granting permission for the use of the bells. Grateful thanks were also extended to Mr. Gash, the local towerkeeper, for his hearty welcome and excellent preparations for tea, in conjunction with his wife and helpers.

The members afterwards went over to Heston, where the bells were available through the kindness of the Vicar and local ringers, to whom many thanks were given.

Methods rung during the day included Grandsire, Stedman and Oxford Bob Triples, Plain Bob, Treble Bob, Double Norwich and two courses of Cambridge. Twenty-five members and friends attended from Bishopsgate, Chelsea, Chiswick, Ealing, Hillingdon, Heston, Hounslow, Isleworth, Kensington, Beckenham, Barnes, Pinner, Ruislip, Slough, St. Lawrence Jewry, Sunbury, Twickenham, Westminster, and a welcome visitor was the Rev. A. G. G. Thurlow, of Wokingham.

The name of Sir William Firth, chairman of Richard Thomas and Co., Ltd., is appropriately identified with another bell, for he gave the fund a send-off with a handsome contribution.

The sheet mill workers paid for one bell, the Mothers' Union for another and the general public completed the peal. The bells are a grand ring of eight, with tenor of 25 cwt., the product of the Loughborough Foundry. They are hung, of course, in a metal frame with all the latest fittings.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

A gathering of 75 members attended the Diamond Jubilee Festival of the Durham and Newcastle Diocesan Association at Durham on Saturday, when, according to rule, Mr. Arthur Payne, O.B.E., relinquished the office of president. Mr. Murray D. Oubridge, of Gosforth, was elected to the office. A report of the proceedings will appear in our next issue.

The association's Sunday service ringing scheme was topped again last year by Whitley Bay in the 8 10 and 12 bell section, North Shields being a close second. Holy Trinity, Darlington, headed the six-bell section.

The East Derbyshire and Nottinghamshire Association was founded in October, 1837. The jubilee is to be celebrated on Saturday, October 23rd, at Alfreton, Derbyshire, and it is interesting to note that the preacher at the service is to be the Rev. J. D. Nodder, one of the founder members.

The hon. secretary of the Central Branch of the Ely Diocesan Association appeals to members to make every effort to support the meeting at Haddenham on October 9th. The Vicar, like his predecessor, is ready to help forward the ringers' cause, and it is the duty of the members to try and strengthen this ready assistance. Particulars of the meeting are in our notice columns.

A band who visited Isleworth, Middlesex, on Saturday, for a peal of Stedman Caters met two short. After waiting three-quarters of an hour in vain for the absentees, they started for Cambridge Major, rang 2 hours 35 minutes—and then the tenor rope broke!

The new peal of eight bells at Ebbw Vale will be available for all ringers from 2 p.m. on Saturday, October 9th.

A correspondent asks to be allowed through 'The Ringing World' to thank 'Dr.' J. P. Fidler for the tonic, and directions. The patient is now progressing favourably, but a further supply of the tonic is required to complete the cure. We understand the tonic is 'canned,' and so would the patient be if he took it in too large quantities.

Readers who contemplate restocking their gardens should write to Messrs. D. Stewart and Son, Ltd., Ferndown Nurseries, near Wimborne, Dorset, for the firm's catalogue. See advertisement.

We regret that pressure on our space compels us to hold over a number of interesting reports, but these will appear in due course.

TWO-PART PEALS OF STEDMAN TRIPLES.

'ASTRONOMICAL' NUMBER POSSIBLE.

Mr. G. Wilfred Slack, B.Sc., Ph.D., sends us the figures of a peal of Stedman Triples in two equal parts, with one single only in each part. We regret that space will not permit us to publish the peal in detail. It is made up mostly of bobs in sets of two and six, but there are occasional sets of four, and in ten places in each half one bob only. The single is in the first six in each half and the half-peal end is 2314765. There are 598 bobs and two singles, with 240 plain sixes.

Mr. Slack says it is 'one of a type of peal which Francis Bacon says is impossible of attainment. I offer no apology for the large number of calls which are in the peal, but I would like to point out that they can be reduced to some extent.

The peal would probably be a delight to Mr. Trollope and the other variation lovers, as it is easy to show that there are at least 278,942,752,079 other two-part peals with the same properties as that enclosed and which are simple variations of it, whilst, if the symmetry of the peal is not a vital factor, then we find that the total number of peals which are mere variations of the above is not less than the almost astronomical number of 194,525,048,269,007,814,559.'

NORWICH DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

STANDING COMMITTEE'S RESOLUTIONS.

A well-attended meeting of the North Norfolk Branch was held at Marsham on September 18th, when the four branches were represented, members supporting the gathering from Aylsham, Buxton, Dersingham, Fakenham, Garboldisham, Halvergate, Hethersett, North Walsham, Norwich, Reedham, Saxlingham, Scottow, Wroxham, Wymondham and Yarmouth, while Miss K. Willers, secretary of the Ely Diocesan Association, was a welcome visitor.

The Rev. H. S. Sharpe, Rector of Marsham, conducted the service and joined the assembly at tea at 'Ringers' Cafe.

At the business meeting which followed it was decided to hold the next meeting at Hethersett on November 27th.

A number of belfry elections were ratified, viz., Miss S. R. E. Bowyer and Messrs. H. W. Gayton, B. G. Key, R. M. Harvey and C. A. Vessey, while Mr. H. J. Boyce, formerly of Lowestoft, was made a life member on his removal to London.

Mr. H. Tooke (hon. secretary) said the Rev. Mr. Boorman would be glad to meet any ringer on October 9th, when an informal meeting would take place at Garveston.

The Rev. H. S. Sharpe was thanked for his cordial welcome and participation in the meeting.

The Standing Committee of the association then met and a number of resolutions were discussed. It was resolved to adopt a badge; to meet in the various branches instead of in Norwich as formerly; and to reimburse in certain cases half the rail or bus fares of the members attending the meetings of the Standing Committee.

A varied selection of methods was rung during the afternoon and evening to satisfy the tastes of novice and 'expert' alike.

LANCASHIRE ASSOCIATION.

THE ELSEE MEMORIAL SCHEME.

Stained Glass Window to be Provided.

The annual meeting of the Lancashire Association was held at Bolton on Saturday. The bells in seven towers were placed at the disposal of the members and made good use of. Service was held in The Saviour's Church at 4.30, the late start being due to the Lord Bishop of Hulme, who was the preacher, being unable to arrive sooner. Even so, he had left a church full of girl guides to someone else's care. He gave an encouraging address on 'Help.' Tea was served in the schools to 68 members and friends—not large for a railway centre like Bolton, but each branch sent a contingent. The business meeting was presided over by the Rev. A. Scott, supported by the Rev. J. Baxendale (Vicar) and the officials and most of the committee.

The committee's report was read by Mr. W. H. Shaker (hon. secretary).

The balance sheet, presented by the honorary treasurer (Mr. C. I. Davies), showed membership subscriptions amounting to £70 3s., hon. life members £1 1s., non-resident life members £2 14s. 6d., affiliation fees £10 14s. Other items brought the total receipts to £92 14s. 3d. The expenditure was £71 19s. 3d., and the balance in hand £129 7s. The auditors' reports were also satisfactory.

The voting for the officers was returned by Mr. Davenport. Mr. C. Sharples (Blackpool) was elected vice-president for two years.

Mr. T. Wilson was elected as ringing secretary, and Messrs. Barnes and Wilkinson re-elected auditors, all for a term of two years.

The alterations of rules, suggested by the committee, were discussed. Two were referred back to the committee, two were passed and one dropped as not necessary.

Wigan was chosen as the meeting place for the next annual meeting on the last Saturday in September, 1938, after a vote on three districts.

Three new members were elected.

After a report from the committee on the Canon Elsee Memorial, it was found the association could not see its way to go on with the larger schemes. It was, therefore, decided to provide a stained glass window over the memorial which the parish have erected in St. George's Church to the late president.

The President proposed a vote of thanks to the Bishop, the Vicar of The Saviour's Church, the organist, choir and the ringers, also to the Vicars and ringers of the other churches and to the ladies who served the tea.

A special vote of thanks was accorded to Mr. H. Davenport, the retiring vice-president, for the way in which he carried out the work which was laid on to him by the death of Canon Elsee, until the appointment of a new president.

Mr. Sharples, who has been elected vice-president, has been for many years hon. secretary of the Fylde Branch of the association. He joined the association in 1895.

75 YEARS A CHORISTER.

BURNHAM VETERAN HONOURED.

On Thursday, September 23rd, Mr. 'Charlie' Walker completed his 75th year in the choir at Burnham, Bucks, and was presented by the parishioners with a silver hunter watch (suitably inscribed) and the balance of £5 in cash. In honour of the occasion the St. Peter's Society rang their first quarter-peal of Oxford Treble Bob Major: *M. A. Blamey 1, G. W. Limmer 2, *P. A. Blamey 3, *B. O'Neill 4, *C. A. Burgess 5, *J. D. Taylor 6, *J. E. Taylor 7, G. H. Limmer 8. * First in the method.

On Sunday for evensong on the 40th anniversary of the dedication of the two trebles, a local quarter-peal of Bob Major: P. A. Blamey 1, C. A. Burgess 2, M. A. Blamey 3, Miss S. M. S. Blamey (first quarter-peal of Major) 4, B. O'Neill 5, G. W. Limmer (first Major as conductor) 6, J. E. Taylor 7, G. Gilbert 8.

TEACHING BEGINNERS.

WHAT IS THE BEST METHOD?

Letters to the Editor.

Sir,—Mr. Wood seems to have an aversion to Grandsire Triples, very much like Mr. Trollope has to Stedman. Wise instructors do not need to be told by Mr. Wood or anyone else how to teach beginners, for their experience often dates back long before Mr. Wood handled a bell. It is beyond question that Grandsire is the best method to teach beginners, and it is far in advance of any, both for pupil and teacher. There is far better ringing done throughout the country with Grandsire than any method one cares to name. Even if a band can only ring Grandsire well it is far better than much of the third rate banging about in other methods one hears in many places.

Mr. Wood says you learn to lead with your ears. Is that all? Wise instructors can tell him something more is required to obtain the perfect lead. Probably Mr. Wood's theory in this direction is the cause of much indifferent striking, more often in Major methods than in Triples, owing to not having learnt the true art of correct leading in all its stages. If you cannot obtain a good lead from the tenor, how can you expect to get it from moving bells in 7-8.

Much of Mr. Wood's article is like his peal of Bob Major, composed many years ago. Nobody now thinks of composing in such a method, for all the best has been attained in this direction. Mr. Wood is in a minority over this question, and when his experience is greater he will realise that Grandsire is a method that has interested, and will continue to interest, far more ringers than he imagines.

W. SHEPHERD.

OLD AND SUCCESSFUL INSTRUCTORS FAVOURED GRANDSIRE.

Dear Sir,—During my 59 years' close experience of change ringing all over the British Isles, the old question as to the most suitable method to introduce to a new ringer has constantly cropped up, and I would like to quote the united opinions of three of the most successful instructors I ever remember—James Pettit, Matthew A. Wood and John M. Hayes. It was simply this: 'Speaking of methods, Grandsire is the mother of them all, and takes the rust off all the others'!

I also know that one of the best known instructors in the North of England shared this opinion wholeheartedly, and that was none other than the late Thomas Hattersley, of Sheffield. Other successful men were George Wanklin, of Gloucester, Josiah Wathen, of Tewkesbury, Freeman Ball, of Chester, and James R. Haworth, of London, all of whom started beginners with the Grandsire method. One great feature of this teaching was the fact that every pupil must first of all be thorough master of his bell and strike call changes perfectly before being allowed to take part in any method ringing.

I, also, have taught a good many beginners in my younger days, and, if my opinion counts for anything at all, it certainly goes in the same direction, inasmuch as it is most essential that a good 'lead' must be observed, and that is best learnt from the 'tenor behind'—preferably Grandsire, although my favourite method of all is Stedman.

It would also be well if more people were to ring properly at first and follow the golden rule of 'Audi, Vide, Tace' (eyes and ears open and mouth closed) before trying to thrust their new ideas down other people's throats! Heaven forbid that others in the 'rising generation' will advocate starting learners in the discordant jangling of the unmusical 'Surprise' methods! I have noticed with much regret that the standard of ringing in some towers that were famous for striking examples of good ringing in days gone by are now hopelessly inferior, compared with what formerly obtained. F. E. DAWE.

OTHER WAYS OF TEACHING.

Dear Sir,—In reply to Mr. S. H. Wood's article in last week's 'Ringing World,' I would like to make the following comments:—

1. 'Nearly all instructors teach the same method of hunting up, namely, by striking after the bell that strikes after you in the previous change.' This I do not attempt to teach, it being, in my opinion, a time-wasting practice. Take the Triple methods recently under discussion, I would first teach the pupil how to make second's place, as in Bob Triples, and third's place, as in Grandsire Triples, and how to return to lead. Then how many bells are to be passed before striking the treble and hunt bell and the order to strike those same bells to return to lead, and when and how to make the dodge, and so each lead. The same principle applies to Bob Major. The pupil to record it on paper and learn it before attempting to ring it.

2. 'Learning to strike evenly over other bells which cannot be done in ringing rounds.' I recommend the beginners to ring Rounds, Queen's, Tittums and Whittington and not to let any one beginner ring the same bell more than once during each practice.

3. 'Learning to lead.' This can be done while No. 2 is in progress, by the more advanced pupil taking the treble and teaching him to lead, first by rope-sight, then by ear, in the latter case by his turning away from the tenor, and before any change ringing is attempted.

4. I consider the best method to begin a band with is Stedman Triples, as every position known in ringing is therein contained. It is a different matter when a band is one short where they ring Grandsire or Bob Triples.

MORE LETTERS ABOUT TEACHING.

A BEGINNER'S EXPERIENCE.

Dear Sir,—I have read with much interest the controversy in 'The Ringing World' on odd or even-bell methods for teaching beginners. In support of Stephen H. Wood's article, which favours even-bell methods, I give my diary entries from the time of commencing change ringing: Mastered plain course of Bob Minor in three weeks, November 3rd to 17th, 1936; rang 720 Plain Bob Minor, January 17th, 1937; rang 720 Oxford Bob Minor, January 31st, 1937; rang 720 Kent Treble Bob Minor, February 9th, 1937; rang 720 Oxford Treble Bob Minor, February 23rd, 1937; rang 720 Cambridge Surprise Minor, April 6th, 1937; conducted 720's in the following methods: 720 Oxford Bob, August 8th, 1937; 720 Kent Treble Bob Minor, August 22nd, 1937; 720 Oxford Bob, August 22nd, 1937. Since starting change ringing I have rung 22 720's in this method.

AN OPPORTUNITY IN LONDON.

Dear Sir,—May I, in this final reply to Mr. A. P. Cannon, thank him for his information as to his Sunday activities. I was well aware that he did appear at various times in divers places as the spirit moved him, but even this I do not think places him in a position to criticise or lightly condemn the methods employed by a good number, if not the majority, of those who instruct beginners. His remark about my 'Sunday service gospel' he answers himself in his letter published in 'The Ringing World' of September 10th.

If he would cease his wanderings, get together a band of youngsters and set going one of the peals in London at present silent, I, for one, would listen to his advice on teaching with due respect, and, who knows, we might even think him worthy of a touch of Bob Triples as a welcome on his next visit to Hastings.

He might even try to emulate the feat of that old 'war horse' of Battle, Mr. W. Franks, who has turned, in evident disgust, from the present-day youth and filled his tower with young ladies!

NORTH NOTTS ASSOCIATION.

ORDSALL WIN CUP CONTEST.

The North Notts Association met at Sutton-on-Trent on Saturday, September 18th, to compete for the tenth time for the Crawford Silver Cup. Although many ringers were present, only three teams entered the contest, Barnby-in-the-Willows, Warsop and Ordsall. Ordsall, being drawn to ring first, rang 360 Kent Treble Bob Minor at a moderate speed and with closed leads. Next came Barnby. Bob Minor and open leads at a rather quicker pace seemed to have won the cup for them. Warsop, competing for the first time, also rang Bob Minor with open leads. There was no further ringing before tea, which was served in the Parish Hall; the excitement as to the result of the competition spoiled no one's appetite.

The meeting afterwards was cut down as much as possible, so that an early return could be made to the tower. The Rev. R. F. Wilkinson, acting as chairman, mentioned the regret he felt at the death of the Vicar of Edwinstowe (the Rev. F. C. Day Lewis), who had kindly entertained the ringers to tea when the bells were recently rededicated. Those present stood in silence for a few moments as a token of respect.

Mr. Wilkinson welcomed Mrs. Rowsell once again to the competition meeting. Her father, Mr. Crawford, had long been interested in the association, and interest was still maintained by Mrs. Rowsell.

The result of the contest was then announced as follows:—

- 1 Ordsall, 197 faults
- 2 Barnby, 202 faults
- 3 Warsop, 307 faults

Mrs. Rowsell presented the cup to Mr. J. Hurst, captain and conductor of the Ordsall band, and said that she was pleased to be present once again to hand the trophy to the best team of the day. Ringing in North Notts always had and always would interest her.

The Rev. R. F. Wilkinson, replying on behalf of the Ordsall team, said that while he was pleased the cup had gone again to his tower, he and Ordsall ringers would always be pleased to see it go to another team. Interest was still alive in this competition, but it would be better if the cup was won by different teams each year. He was pleased to see a team from Warsop, where there were only four bells, and he hoped this young band would be encouraged to compete again.

The judges, Mr. J. Moss, of Bolsover, and Mr. W. Allwood, of Chesterfield, gave no criticism of the ringing. 'We are all friends and want to remain friends' was their only remark.

Three new members were elected, Messrs. K. Mayer, P. Holmes and C. W. Metcalfe, all non-resident members.

After this meeting the entire company went up for a pull, those who had competed having first preference. Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Little Bob, Double Norwich, Cambridge Surprise and Original Major were all rung during the evening, with rounds on eight for the learners. At 8.30 the bells were rung down, everyone having thoroughly enjoyed the meeting.

YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION.

MR. LESLIE MORRIS ELECTED SECRETARY.

The September general meeting of the Yorkshire Association was held at Kirkburton, near Huddersfield, on Saturday, September 18th, when members were present from Sheffield, Ecclesfield, Far Headingley, Cawthorne, Wath-on-Deane, Rotherham, Armley, Leeds, Longwood, Lindley, Ripponden, Shipley, York, Selby, Rothwell, Bradford, Pudsey, Sherburn-in-Elmet, Almondbury, Batley, Sutton-on-Hull, Headingley and the local company.

The bells, a nice peal of eight, tenor 15½ cwt., by J. Taylor and Co., were raised soon after 2 p.m. and kept going in short touches until 5 o'clock, when, in the Schoolroom, an excellent tea was thoroughly enjoyed by the 60 members and friends present. The president (Canon C. C. Marshall) took the chair at the business meeting which followed. He was supported by Mr. George Lewis (vice-president) and Mr. S. F. Palmer (hon. treasurer). An apology was received from the general secretary, Mr. J. E. Cawser, regretting his inability to attend.

The president proposed a very hearty vote of thanks to the Vicar of Kirkburton (the Rev. A. Sephton) for allowing the use of the bells and his consent to hold the meeting there. He (the president) explained that owing to the vast territory of the association it had not been possible to pay a visit to that part of the county for some considerable time, but it gave him and the officers great pleasure to be again amongst their Kirkburton and district friends.

The Rev. A. Sephton suitably replied and gave the association a very warm welcome.

A vote of thanks, proposed by Mr. F. Rayment and seconded by Mr. R. H. Vigor, to the local company for their help in making the meeting so successful, was pleasantly acknowledged by Mr. H. Armitage.

Six new members were elected.

A notice of motion having been previously given, Mr. George Robinson, Leeds, proposed that a free tea be provided by the association at the annual meeting at a cost of not more than £7.—After discussion it was defeated on a show of hands.

A further motion by Mr. Robinson authorising certain expenditure in connection with the next Central Council meeting, to be held at Leeds next year, was recommended to be dealt with at the annual meeting in January.

Great regret was expressed at the resignation of the general secretary, Mr. J. E. Cawser, who did not seek re-election at the close of his term of office. As his increased business engagements prevented him from regularly attending the various meetings, he considered that someone else should be appointed who could do so.

One nomination for the vacancy was received, Mr. Leslie W. G. Morris, of Holbeck, Leeds, being duly proposed and elected to the position.

The President drew attention to the association's forthcoming dinner to be held at Leeds on October 9th, when he hoped to see as many members present as possible.

Further ringing was indulged in until 9 p.m., which brought a most enjoyable gathering to a close.

LEEDS AND DISTRICT SOCIETY.

HOLBECK RINGERS OVERCOME DIFFICULTIES.

The September meeting was held on Saturday last at St. Matthew's, Holbeck. The attendance in the afternoon was small, but this caused no surprise, as the Holbeck meeting was the fourth ringing meeting in this area in five successive Saturdays. A wedding prevented ringing from commencing at the usual time, and the bells were raised in peal about 3.30 p.m. Some good practice was put in before tea. Afterwards the attendance was all that could be desired and more than the tower could hold all at once. Ringers were present from Armley, Bailey, Birstwith, Burley, Bradford Cathedral, Drighlington, Headingley (St. Michael's and St. Chad's), Elland, Idle, Leeds Parish Church, Pudsey, Rothwell, Sherburn and the local company.

The business meeting was held in the tower, the president being in the chair.

Four new members were elected, viz., Messrs. W. H. Johnson, of St. Michael's, Headingley, A. Cryer and H. Jones, of Holbeck, and A. Cole, of Hunslet.

The vote of thanks to the Vicar, churchwardens and the local company was proposed by Mr. F. Rayment, who remarked that he was pleased the local ringers were 'sticking to it,' as he knew they had had a very rough time.

The Rev. G. R. Norton, in reply, said that the tower had had a bad time and the company had been in danger of cracking up, but he hoped they had now got over the difficulties. They had promise of expert help and would be grateful for any other assistance on their practice night.

It was then pointed out that the Beginners' column in 'The Ringing World' would prove helpful if the local ringers would take a copy or two of the paper.

The next meeting is due to be held at East Ardsley on Saturday, October 30th.

GUILDFORD.—At St. Nicolas' Church for evensong on September 26th for the harvest festival, a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples: S. Radford 1, E. Etheridge 2, W. Breeze 3, W. Cope 4, G. Tomsett 5, F. Radford 6, S. Elton (conductor) 7, R. Radford 8.

THE LINCOLNSHIRE TOUR.

On Thursday we were favoured for the day by the company of Mr. Harry Chapman, of Keystone. He came early and left late, and revived Manchester memories at intervals. Those of the team not ringing at Swineshead in the morning spent a half-day at Surfleet for lunch and a look over the Glyn Garth establishment, where modern machinery sterilised bulbs and graded tomatoes. The frailty of mankind was exhibited by Bill Henley, who tipped over a barrow-load of the fruit at 'handstroke.'

Our better half team were successful with London Surprise Major at St. Mary's, Swineshead, but as I did not go to this tower I have no notes to give except that the old ring of eight, 1794, with tenor 46in. diameter, were cast by T. Osborne, of Downham, and remained intact for just on a century, the 4th being recast in 1883 by Taylor and Co. Previous to 1794 there were four bells, as mentioned in the Harleian MSS.

BOSTON'S FAMOUS TOWER.

The clans assembled at Boston Stump at 4 o'clock and were met by Mr. F. Dewey, who led us to the stair door and told us to 'take it gently'; there were only 365 steps to tackle. Fortunately, a heavy ship's cable winds round the newel, affording some assistance to wind and limb. Up, up, up you go, and when you reach the ringing room, down you sit. The old builders wisely put two staircases, one in each of the piers adjoining the nave, to facilitate building. To-day the numerous tourists who wish to view the Fen Country have to go up one and down the other. We got off into Cambridge Royal about 5 o'clock, but soon gave up the method. Such a wide circle of ropes required eyes of many facets; the high dome in the centre of the ringing room hid the lower part of several ringers (especially the conductor), and the ringing became slow enough for Sextuples. This attempt made good practice for the Kent Royal that followed in proper ten-bell compass.

Here is another expert restoration by Taylor's, a new iron frame, three old bells recast, two new trebles added, all of which was duly reported in 'The Ringing World' at the time.

We rested for an hour at the Peacock Hotel, which faces the Square, the market place of Boston, and from its windows Nathaniel Hawthorne (the American writer), Duke of Edinburgh and the Tichborne Claimant and others have in the past gazed out upon the busy centre of this ancient town.

HOW THE 'STUMP' WAS REPAIRED.

There are one or two matters of interest to bellringers, relating to St. Botolph's Church and the county, which I ought to mention.

About the year 1415 Dr. Fleming, a famous Rector of Boston, afterwards Bishop of Lincoln, enlarged the chancel and began the erection of the tower. This great pile was not part of the original buildings, which is considered to be the finest in England and the highest in Europe. The stone vaulting (floor to apex) is 137ft. high and there are many church towers that could be stowed inside it. The consulting architect, Sir Gilbert Scott, was afraid the weight would be too much with the swaying of the bells in their massive oak frame in 1853, which led to the carillon being installed.

In 1927 Canon Hutchinson (Vicar) found the cracks in the roof and tower so obviously needed attention that again a scheme of restoration was undertaken, when Sir Charles Nicholson was called in. It is recorded that John Cotton, a noted Puritan Vicar, sailed, with many of his friends, for Boston, Massachusetts, in 1633; and how the residents there in the year 1930 came to the rescue of old Boston by collecting upwards of 55,000 dollars within three weeks, for the repair of this tower and rehanging the bells, as a tercentenary gesture, is well known. On the base of the tower are registered the levels of great floods of the past. County history records the havoc caused by inundation, all sufficient to give Jean Ingelow a theme for her long poem, 'High tide on the Lincolnshire coast.' Mr. Alex. Young raised the question of the 'Brides of Enderby' in a recent issue of 'The Ringing World,' which has been cleared up years ago in North's 'Bells of the County' (page 328).

The Boston Bell Committee of 1867 selected as one of the 28 tunes to be played upon the 44 bells of Van Aerschoot's carillon an air of that title, but it never existed and the authoress of the words refused to compose one for the committee. I rather believe the lady had some association with Enderby Mavis (one of three parishes of Enderby), where there are three bells. It is up to the Boston men to discover more about this writer.

During our tour my thoughts frequently turned on the 'Nine Tailors,' the fascinating ringing novel by Dorothy L. Sayers. I expected to see Mr. Redhead's beautiful tower looming up at one of our villages and our team knocking off a touch on her octave! The peal of Treble Bob Major in her book is called incorrectly; it will be found in Snowden's, pp. 22 and 121, as composed by James Wilde, of Hyde, Cheshire, the father of our Dunedin friend, J. S. Wilde. Fenchurch St. Paul, by Mr. Redhead, has several features resembling Boston tower if the lantern on top were omitted and the windows of the two upper storeys were transposed. Of course, Lord Wimsey would not be an abbreviation of Winchelsea, a noble ringer of the county.

DON'T SCRUB YOUR HANDS!

skin this simple way*

To many people, the problem of getting the hands really clean without harming the skin is a serious one. Grease and grime, which become deeply ingrained into the pores of the skin, are extremely difficult to remove, and ordinary washing with soap or even scrubbing will fail to remove them completely. Housewives, particularly, who complain that their hands get ruined by the nature of their work, will find the preparation called DERMAFOAM, a real "godsend." DERMAFOAM just smoothes away dirt and grease without effort. It gets right down into the pores and removes every particle of grime, leaving skin beautifully supple and healthy.

Men, too—when you've finished that dirty job on the car, DERMAFOAM will quickly banish all grease and oil from your hands. It acts almost magically—working under and around the nails and into every minute crease, removing all trace of dirt in a flash.

Engineers, Painters, Car Mechanics, Printers — everyone — will welcome DERMAFOAM, the modern method of cleansing and protecting the hands.

GREAT CONTRIBUTION TO RINGING LITERATURE

One of the most important contributions to the historical side of ringing literature has made its appearance this week. Mr. J. Armiger Trollope's book on 'The College Youths' has been published, and will, we are sure, be of intense interest to all who read it. That 'all' should include every member of the Exercise. This book has not been written specially for the members of the Ancient Society, and its appearance in this tercentenary year, although appropriate, is largely coincidence. The volume, while tracing the formation and life of the College Youths, round whose activities through the years the survey is, of course, written, deals also with the very beginnings of our art and with the way in which, in other days, the birth and growth and, in some instances, the decay of rival organisations affected the existence of the fine old society which, in a few short weeks, will celebrate the three hundredth anniversary of its foundation. As is not inaptly said by the author, the history of the Society of College Youths is an epitome of the history of the ringing Exercise, and if ringers have any interest in the art they practise beyond that of the moment, they will want to read this book.

When the historian sets out upon his task he has to sift evidence, apply common-sense reasoning and put the facts into proper perspective. That is a thing which tradition seldom does. On the contrary, incidents of a distant past, and the association of ideas, often lose their true proportions as they are handed on from generation to generation, and it is the business of the historian to separate the grain from the chaff. In this task Mr. Trollope has, we think, succeeded admirably. Never before has so much research been applied to an historical survey in connection with our art, and it has produced one result for which ringers must always be indebted to the author. Not only has he, as it were, clothed the ghosts of the past with flesh, and provided for us a description of many of the men who laid the foundations of the Exercise and until now have been to us nothing but mere names, but he has brought to light others, hitherto unknown in history, who made important contributions to our art in their time and passed into the shadows.

Mr. Trollope has done much good work in the cause of ringing during the past forty years, mainly through the Central Council. His share in producing many of its publications has been enormous, but nothing he has written up to the present has made such a wide appeal to ringers as this history of the College Youths should prove to have. Most of our readers have read articles by Mr. Trollope in these columns. They are familiar with the fluent style in which he is able to tell a story or make a debating point. The new book is Mr. Trollope at his best, and readers will find it packed with interest from cover to cover. Its great value, however, lies in the new light thrown upon those distant days, when our art was in the making.

PEAL NOTES.

The 81st birthday of Mrs. Hayden, wife of Mr. George Hayden, was celebrated by a peal of Stedman Caters at All Saints' Church, West Ham, on October 2nd. Mr. Hayden, himself 77 years old, rang the treble. He is sexton and steeplekeeper at West Ham.

Mr. T. E. Sone and Mr. W. Wenban, two well-known Kent ringers, rang their 75th peal together at Linton on October 2nd.

The birthday of the Rector of St. Clement Danes, London, was celebrated by the Ancient Society of College Youths with a peal of Cambridge Surprise Royal on September 29th on the bells made famous in the nursery rhyme. The Rev. W. Pennington Bickford annually holds an 'Oranges and Lemons' Service.

Mr. Alfred Palling, of Guildford, rang his first peal as conductor on October 2nd, 1902. He celebrated the 35th anniversary by calling his favourite transposition of the 'Four-Part' at Chiddingfold. 'Palling's Surprise' we have heard it called, but the Surprise is only when the peal isn't successfully brought home.

A peal of Stedman Triples was rung at Lyme Regis for the patronal festival of the Church of St. Michael the Archangel. The band regretted that the Vicar, the Rev. C. Carew Cox, was unable to take part owing to his being engaged at the Bishop's Conference at Sherborne.

Mr. George A. Andrews has now rung each of the six bells in the tower at Great Bromley, Essex, to a peal. He 'completed the circle' on September 25th.

The peal of Stedman Cinques rung in the Bull Ring, Birmingham, to celebrate Alderman and Mrs. Pritchett's golden wedding was the one hundredth peal together of the two Newcastle men, Bill Barber and W. J. Davidson.

The aggregate age of the band who rang the peal on September 28th in celebration of the presentation of the Charter of Incorporation to Rebington, Cheshire, was exactly 500 years. Hats off to the veterans!

Holt's Ten-Part peal of Grandsire Triples was rung at Silverdale, Staffs, on October 2nd, in honour of the enthronement of Dr. E. S. Woods as Bishop of Lichfield. Dr. Woods was formerly simultaneously Bishop, Archdeacon and Vicar of Croydon, and was responsible for recasting the bells of the Parish Church into a ring of twelve.

We recorded last week that the Vicar of Hounslow had asked a meeting of the London County Association whether Treble Bob Major in B flat was possible. Well, this week a record has been sent us of a peal of Kent Treble Bob Royal in B flat. B flat was, of course, the key note of the handbells used. The peal celebrated the birthday of James W. Washbrook (how familiar that name sounds to the old 'uns who knew his father!). Incidentally it happened to be the one hundredth handbell peal that Alfred Barnes and Allen F. Bailey have rung together.

Four past Masters of the Ancient Society of College Youths took part in a tercentenary celebration peal of Stedman Triples at Milton-next-Gravesend on October 2nd. They were Messrs. T. Groombridge, sen., J. S. Hawkins, P. E. Clarke and F. M. Mitchell.

It was also rung as a birthday compliment to Mr. F. M. Mitchell, and the band afterwards adjourned to the 'Glue Pot,' where Mrs. Mitchell extended her usual hospitality.

One of the visitors arrived home 'before' midnight with the 'dessert' for his midday meal on Monday safely stowed away. We hear his companions could not lose him. They had to follow the 'scent.'

For the wedding on September 25th of Mr. Fred Evesson and Miss Lucy Chant, sister of Mr. H. Chant, a ringer at Felkirk, where the marriage was solemnised, a peal in seven Treble Bob Minor methods was rung at Silkstone, near Barnsley.

As a farewell to the Rev. Dr. Dowell Lee (Vicar), who is leaving Market Drayton, Shropshire, a peal was rung at the Parish Church on Sunday, September 26th. It was also a birthday compliment to Thomas Price.

On the retirement of another incumbent, the Rev. Canon R. S. Medicott, for 22 years Rector of Burghclere, Hants, a farewell peal of Grandsire Doubles was rung on September 27th. In this the Rev. F. S. H. Marle, secretary of the Andover District of the Winchester and Portsmouth Guild, rang the treble to his first peal.

There were some quick changes in Hunts on Saturday week. A peal arranged at St. Neots was changed to St. Ives almost at the last minute, owing to illness near the former church. Mr. F. G. Gleaves took a rope at a moment's notice to fill an unexpected gap, and five minutes before the start Kent Treble Bob was asked for and the conductor had to produce a peal out of the proverbial hat.

Mr. Frank Warrington is the first to ring a peal on all the bells at St. Ives. The thanks of the band are extended to Messrs. Noble and H. Pratt, who obtained the permission to ring and had the bells in readiness when the band arrived.

A peal of Kent Treble Bob at Warnham, Sussex, on Saturday, celebrated several anniversaries, principally the silver wedding of the Vicar and his wife, the Rev. F. D. and Mrs. Farebrother. The 33rd anniversary of the wedding day of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Palling (Alfred called the peal) was also celebrated, and it was, in addition, a birthday compliment to Walter Charman, the Warnham veteran, and Thomas Adams.

FOR BEGINNERS.

IMPORTANCE OF BELL CONTROL.

In the last two weeks there has been a good deal said by correspondents upon how and what to teach beginners. Beginners themselves have probably read these letters with interest. We do not propose to discuss what has been written; whether the first method should be Plain Bob or Grandsire. The essential thing, to our mind, is that before he goes very far in his change ringing career the beginner should learn to ring both. Given a ringer of average intelligence and an instructor who knows his job, it does not seem to us that the novice should find it any harder to ring Plain Bob, after he had started on Grandsire, than he would to ring Grandsire after having started on Plain Bob. But, whatever the explanation, it is a fact that where there is a young band, as distinct from a single individual learning with a more or less proficient company, better ringing is obtained when there is a tenor behind to keep a beat and give the other bells a leading point. And the public need consideration even when we would make excuses for a new hand.

That leads us to the point that in many cases beginners are not allowed to gain sufficient bell control before being pushed into change ringing. Bell control is not merely being able to catch the sally and keep the bell up; it means being able to put it in its place this time, next time and all the time. Only constant practice will do this, and call changes are a valuable step in enabling the beginner to gauge the spacing over the big and small bells. Until he can place his bell with precision in call changes he cannot be expected to do so when he is moving his position at every half-pull.

It is here that the ears must be brought into use; and the first step in this direction is most easily achieved if the bells are few and the pace not too quick. The slower beat will enable the beginner more easily to pick out the sound of his own bell and will emphasise the bad blows. The number of bells can be increased and the pace quickened when the learner has proved his ability at the first stage.

This type of practice may be tame for the older hands, but patience at this juncture may make all the difference between turning out an accurate or a slovenly striker. If he has never been taught better, he cannot be expected to do more than put his bell 'somewhere' among the rest; if he is taken along by simple stages and properly coached he will develop an 'ear' and accuracy.

This is not to say that he should not be started in the theory of change ringing. The sooner he is given some elementary instruction on paper the better; it will help to maintain his interest through what may be termed the 'drudgery' period—that is the stage between the time when he can pull a bell, and thinks he knows all about it, and the time when he can strike a bell accurately and knows when he doesn't.

Most instructors, we are afraid, do too little in the way of teaching theory. Sometimes, even, it consists of only a verbal explanation and a finger of one hand making unintelligible signs in the palm of the other. And from this the pupil is put on the end of a rope and 'guided' through a course, so that at the end he is, if anything, more confused than when he started.

Like Columbus, as described by an American, when he set out he did not know where he was going; when he got there he didn't know where he was, and when he returned he didn't know where he'd been.

Every instructor should give his beginner paper and pencil work, and, if he is unable to draw up some plan and explanation for himself, he should obtain one of the several good elementary text books now available, and go through it with his pupil. It is far better to do this than just hand the book to the beginner and say, 'Read that.' It may be sufficient for some apt learners, but quicker progress is made when the instructor supplements the written word with verbal assistance.

FIRST QUARTER-PEALS.

CLIFTON, BRISTOL.—On Sunday, September 4th, at the Parish Church for morning service, 1,280 Bob Major: R. D. St. J. Smith 1, C. W. Woolley 2, Mrs. Bowles 3, Rev. E. Banks James 4, W. Bonner 5, H. W. S. Gregory 6, W. Webb 7, S. H. Wood 8. First quarter-peal of Major by ringers of 3, 5, 6 and 7.

HALEWOOD, LANCASHIRE.—On Monday, September 13th, a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples: James Robinson 1, John Robinson 2, T. Robinson 3, G. Heskehl (first quarter-peal of Stedman as conductor) 4, R. Ludkin 5, J. W. Gardner 6, W. Robinson 7, A. Maddock (first quarter-peal) 8.

PEAL NOTES.

A peal of Minor at Coppull, Lancashire, on Saturday, was rung in honour of the 25th anniversary of St. John's Church. It was the first peal on the bells in which five local men have taken part.

A peal of Minor at Springfield, Essex, on September 24th, celebrated the birthdays of half the ringers and the wedding anniversary of one of them.

A peal of Minor on September 25th at Cuckney, Notts, was rung as a farewell to Frederick Flint, who is leaving the district.

At another Nottinghamshire church, Kirkby-in-Ashfield, a peal of Grandsire and Bob Doubles was rung on Sept. 25th, the first peal by all except the conductor.

CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY GUILD.

STRENUOUS AND SUCCESSFUL WEEK IN SOMERSET.

This year the Cambridge University Guild's annual ringing week was held in Somerset, the headquarters being that well-known establishment, the Golden Lion Hotel, Wrington. Arrangements were in the capable hands of Mr. Stephen H. Wood, who had prepared an excellent programme in this delightful ringing district. It was very unfortunate that more members could not make the opportunity to be present, as the party only just numbered a peal band, two members of which were on the sick list for most of the time. Those who were unable to come through illness and business or family ties included six Surprise ringers, and even one or two of these would have made a great difference. The Guild was, however, most pleased to have with them in addition four members who were making their first tour, and these obtained much useful practice in the elementary stages of change ringing.

Following the Guild's usual practice, one peal was attempted each day, the rest of the time being given up to ringing for short periods at two or three other towers. Of the four tower-bell peals attempted, three were successful, while a handbell peal on the last evening enabled all who had been present for more than one day to score at least one peal.

The party assembled at various times during the week-end, and five, who arrived early enough on Monday, were joined by members of the Bath and Wells Diocesan Association in a peal of Cambridge at Chewton Mendip in the evening.

Two members of the peal band did not arrive until lunch time on the Tuesday, so the morning was given up to some intensive Bob Minor and Major practice for the beginners at Backwell (6), Nailsea (6) and Clevedon (8). A good peal of Bob Major was rung at Wraxall in the afternoon; and later in the evening members of the Guild had the pleasure of ringing on the ten at Wrington with Major J. H. B. Hesse and some of the local band.

REINFORCEMENT ARRIVES.

On Wednesday the party was reinforced for the day by the arrival of a reverend gentleman fresh from a protracted tour in Italy, who was visiting Bristol for the purpose of buying a typewriter. It is to be hoped that this machine will enable him to keep up to date with his list of the towers at which he has rung, as considerable additions were made during the day. In the morning a peal of Cambridge was successful on the excellent light eight at St. Ambrose's, Bristol, during which the two invalids of the party were hopefully watching each other for signs of collapse. Both, however, stuck it nobly and the peal duly came round.

The afternoon's programme was a strenuous one, no less than nine of the numerous towers in the heart of Bristol being visited between 3 and 8 o'clock. This was made possible by the willing help of a number of Bristol ringers, who went ahead and raised the bells, and special thanks are due to them for their kindness as well as to the authorities who gave permission for their bells to be rung and the steeplekeepers who met and welcomed the party. In the evening a cinema show was given at the Golden Lion, one of the films including shots of several well-known ringers who had been on another 'week' at Wrington a month previously.

On Thursday the peal band sustained a severe loss when the Rev. B. F. Sheppard, who had been suffering from a badly strained hand, consulted a doctor, who forbade him to ring again during the week. All credit is due to him for the way he rang in two peals to avoid letting the band down, and for carrying on until it was quite obvious that he could not possibly continue. In the morning a peal of Bob Major (instead of Double Norwich, as planned) was rung at Bitton, a fine eight which have been recently augmented, tuned and rehung. In this the president scored his first peal on eight in the tower and his first tower-bell peal since before the war. Later in the day the Guild rang at Marshfield (8) and Swainswick, where a unique frame was inspected with interest—the six bells being hung in three tiers—and finished by ringing on the magnificent heavy eight at Chew Magna. In the evening an attempt was made for a handbell peal, which came to a sudden end after half an hour.

Friday started with Corporate Communion at Wrington at 7.30, and after breakfast tracks were made for Barrow Gurney, where some time was spent rehanging the bells prior to starting for the peal! Unfortunately, however, this work proved to be in vain, as one of the band had to give up after Grandsire Triples had been in progress for two hours. Later in the day the party drove across the Mendips via Burrowing Combe and Cheddar Gorge and rang on the fine eight at Wedmore. Visits were paid to Wookey Hole Caves and Wells Cathedral, and the week finished with ringing at Binegar. In the evening four members sat down with great determination and rang a handbell peal, which came round shortly before midnight.

The party dispersed after breakfast on Saturday after a week which, though strenuous—owing to shortness of numbers there was practically none of the usual sitting out and listening—had been most pleasant and enjoyable.

WEDDING BELLS.

At St. Mary's Church, Maldon, Essex, on Sunday, September 26th, for harvest festival and on occasion of the wedding of Mr. S. C. Card, one of the local ringers, 720 Oxford Treble Bob Minor: P. Raven 1, Miss A. E. Waldo 2, F. White 3, H. J. Mansfield 4, R. Bird (conductor) 5, D. A. Hann 6.

WORCESTERSHIRE ASSOCIATION DINNER

ENJOYABLE FESTIVITIES.

The general hon. secretary and the Dinner Committee of the Worcestershire and Districts Association are to be congratulated on the splendid arrangements they made for a highly successful sixth annual dinner, held on Saturday, September 25th, at the Saracen's Head Hotel, Worcester. Eighty members and visitors sat down to an excellent meal, after ringing at All Saints' (10) and St. John's (8) during the afternoon.

Mr. J. R. Newman presided, and among those present were the Rev. E. G. Benson (Hereford Guild), the Rev. H. B. S. Fowler, Mr. W. Short (Master of the association), Messrs. J. D. Johnson (general hon. secretary), W. H. Johnson (treasurer), E. E. Barber and S. T. Holt (auditors), R. G. Knowles and J. Hemming (freemen), T. Hemming, O. Camm and J. W. Heath (Branch Ringing Masters), J. S. Mason, G. E. Large and J. E. Newman (branch secretaries), C. H. Woodberry (Central Council), W. Ranford and J. Bass (committee), H. H. Fearn and C. Webb (St. Martin's Guild, Birmingham), G. Lewis (Yorkshire Association) and Mrs. Lewis, Mr. C. A. Binyon, Mrs. J. R. Newman, Miss F. Johnson, Miss C. Heath and others.

Apologies were received from the Dean of Worcester, the Revs. W. Buchanan Dunlop, J. F. Hastings and G. W. Webb (clerical secretary, who, unfortunately, had not recovered from his recent illness), Mr. E. P. Thomas (vice-president), Mr. and Mrs. J. Thomas (London), Messrs. L. W. G. Morris (Leeds), J. Pigott, etc.

After the toast of the King had been honoured, 'Church and State' was proposed by Mr. C. A. Binyon (Badsey, Evesham), who said that everything that made life worth living came from two institutions, Church and State. It was a splendid thing for the State to be influenced by the Church, but it was very often the wrong way round when the Church was influenced by the State. Concluding, Mr. Binyon said, 'The Church needs more freedom. She should not be the plaything of any one party. It is her duty boldly to rebuke the vice of high and low, rich and poor.'

A CHURCH SOCIETY.

The Rev. E. G. Benson (Burgbill, Hereford), who responded, said he had had close touch with the Worcestershire Association when at Tewkesbury, and recognised it as a church society. The Church, he said, meant not only bishops, deans, archdeacons and priests, but the whole body of Christian men and women, and we should be proud of it. Members of the Church belong to an ancient society which was in existence long before there was a State in this country, and the best relationship between ancient Christian society and the modern State was when we could be loyal members of both. 'One of the clauses of Magna Charta,' added Mr. Benson, 'says that the Church shall be free, but it is not always the case, very seriously, sometimes, not the case. There may be difficulties in the future about this freedom.' Concluding, the speaker said, 'The ringing of bells does somehow bring Church and State together, as, for instance, at the Coronation this year, when we were symbolically shown the union of the two.'

The next toast, 'The Worcestershire Association,' was proposed by the Chairman. The association, he said, had fulfilled its purposes and was continuing to make progress. He was pleased to say this dinner had drawn a larger gathering than any since the Jubilee Dinner. Mr. Newman said he would like to couple the names of three members with the toast, first, Alderman J. S. Pritchett, who had recently celebrated his golden wedding. He was sure they all wished many more years of happiness to Mr. and Mrs. Pritchett. The second name was that of Mr. R. G. Knowles, who also had recently celebrated his golden wedding. 'Bob Knowles looks a picture of health and has got into his second wind at over 70 years of age. I am sure we all wish Mr. and Mrs. Knowles many more happy years together.' The third person to be coupled with this toast was Mr. W. Short, Master of the association. 'We congratulate him,' said the speaker, 'upon being the first Worcestershire ringer to ring 900 peals.'

CHAIRMAN'S SERVICES TO THE ASSOCIATION.

After the toast had been enthusiastically drunk, Mr. W. B. Cartwright (Selly Oak) responded, remarking that they were all grateful to Mr. Newman for the nice things he had said. They all knew what their chairman had done for the association. It was true to say that during the 30 years Mr. Newman had been general secretary the association had advanced in all directions to what it is to-day, and, he added, 'we will certainly do our best to keep the old flag flying.'

A course of Grandsire Caters was then rung by W. Short 1-2, J. D. Johnson 3-4, Rev. E. G. Benson 5-6, J. Bass 7-8, and C. H. Woodberry 9-10.

Proposing 'Kindred Associations,' Mr. G. E. Large (Western Branch secretary) said it was always a pleasant duty to welcome friends from neighbouring associations. They had with them that night representatives from the St. Martin's Guild, the Hereford Guild, the Yorkshire Association and the Dudley and District Guild. He trusted that as hosts the association were doing their duty well enough to make their visitors want to come again another year. Although they had no representative there from the Ancient Society of College Youths, they had present many who were members of that great society, and he felt they could not let the occasion pass without expressing their admiration for the unique position which that society held to-day. In six weeks' time they would be celebrating their tercentenary by a great gathering in London. In conclusion, Mr. Large

Again they sound and nearer still,
Our anxious hearts with transports fill;
Hark! Hark! the strain that sweetly tells
Of home and friends, those distant bells!

Richards.

The two towers for Friday were Caythorpe and Edenham; a pretty drive in lovely weather and more 'distant spires.' The former church, dedicated to St. Vincent, has a tall, closely crocketed spire. Domesday mentions two churches here before the present one, but of these no trace remains.

There were Rectors from 1221, the earliest recorded Benedict Simon Melbourne, 1419. The present Rector Sherreff is approaching 80 years of age, and is soon retiring. He kindly assented to our visit to the church—strictly limited to 3 hours 20 minutes—and spared his house-keeper, Mrs. Simmons, to help Mrs. Walter at the Red Lion with our excellent dinner at 2 p.m. We had another Lincoln Surprise at the inn, the diameter of the joint disappearing under the skilful hands of Carver Shepherd, who tended his flock liberally. It was a revelation to find how well a country village could provide for 14 hungry people at such short notice.

A good deal of repair work has been done here (in 1842 and 1896) to frame and fittings, etc. When the old bells were restored in 1744 several were retained with new ones by the Whitechapel Foundry (tenor 12 cwt.). The octave was made in 1759 by the generosity of William Wilson, but no trace or any record of the name or family can be discovered locally. In 1913 Messrs. Taylor and Co. made a restoration, recasting the first four bells, with new iron frame complete. By a curious coincidence the oldest bell is dated like the Red Lion Inn, 1639. Forty years ago the Rev. E. Lewis was Vicar and raised £108 for the bells fund.

INTERESTING CHURCH AT EDENHAM.

Edenham has a battlemented tower with four corner pinnacles, but no spire. The church stands on an eminence and effectively spreads the sounds of these fine bells across the sparsely populated parish. Effigies of two monks of Edenham, carved in stone, are recumbent in the tower porch. An altar tomb, standing for years in the churchyard, is now in the church, dated 1307. There is a brass, circa 1500, formerly in a stone frame, on the tower face, probably of St. Thomas-a-Becket. A very large circular font of quaint design and some fine cypress trees in the yard are interesting features. The chancel is crowded with fine carved marble statuary; that to Lord Willoughby de Eresby has the 'storied urn' in centre and seven 'animated busts' in arched form on a slate background. With regard to the bells, Messrs. Taylor, who seem to have been very active in Lincolnshire, carried out restoration in 1931, recasting two trebles and the tenor. The old bell frame, made in 1807, is still in use.

The peal began at 4.30, and I had the pleasure of listening to three hours of Norfolk, with Mrs. Richardson at the helm. The foreman, Mr. A. Holmes, met us, and Vicar Hopkins, also a ringer, was very glad to congratulate us upon the excellent ringing. A new method for the county was thus rung on the same bells on which the late Rev. H. Law James rang his last touch of Stedman. Of the old five bells there were three bellfounders. The tenor, by Thomas Norris in 1636, was reputed to be made with metal from a former bell brought from the neighbouring Abbey of Valle Dei, in Grimsthorpe Park. Whilst having a cup of tea with Mr. Holmes, who has rung 120 peals, pleaded for mutual co-operation on the big scale in order to achieve the aims of every association, and ended with the words, 'Take care of the associations and the art will take care of itself.'

The Rev. H. B. S. Fowler, responding, said he was a ringer from his little toe to the top of his head. When he came to Elmley Castle they for three years rang for Ascension Day as soon as the first sun's rays broke across the sky. He was certain that it was bells that played such a big part in keeping up the Church's festivals; it was bells, too, that helped to keep up the Sabbath, and they should be rung at any rate once for service each Sunday. In conclusion, Mr. Fowler caused much laughter by saying, 'I shall be 79 next month, and I hope you will have learnt something from "that old fool, Fowler."'

A full and varied musical programme was interspersed between the toasts. The Rev. H. B. S. Fowler contributed some of his special brand of songs and yarns, Miss C. Heath gave two piano-acordion solos and a pianoforte solo, and Mr. G. J. Hemming was in great form with a number of songs. Humorous songs were given by Mr. A. L. Carter, and Messrs. V. T. Cullis and G. Forster, as ladies in a sketch entitled 'On the panel,' brought forth much laughter. The Wollaston handbell band played a number of tunes which were thoroughly enjoyed. At 9.55 p.m. the company sang 'Auld Lang Syne,' and finally the National Anthem brought to a close another happy gathering. Amid the general rush for trains and buses, Good-byes were said—some, 'See you at the Easter meeting'—others, 'See you at Kidderminster next Saturday'—while still a few others, 'Cheerio, see you in the morning.'

THE FINALE AT SURFLEET.

I had a glance at his grandfather's notebook of 1851, which states the bells were rehung in December, 1852, by William Pitts, of Edenhall, and opened January 12th, 1853. A new set of handbells for the society was purchased in 1859 and sold to the Vicar in 1872. The old gentleman's writing was very neat and exact. He had evidently taken some six-bell methods out of the Clavis. He felt the loss of his son at an early age, consoling himself by carrying his young grandson up to the belfry on practice nights. Holmes and Hollis, the Grandsire composer, rang many peals together.

Mr. Bradley, of Folkingham, came to meet us and hear the ringing. At its conclusion, the old inn, the Five Bells, provided a rest and we left at 7 p.m. for Spalding 15 miles away.

For our last day we left the Cross Keys at 9 o'clock and got going in Double Norwich at Sutterton by 10 o'clock. This cruciform church, in late Norman style architecture, has a central ringing room just below the bells and is very, very noisy, like many of the Hampshire ringing rooms. It is a large apartment, about 22ft. square, dark and ill-ventilated, the only light and air coming from the only door from off the transept roof. There is, however, a good circle of ropes and draught, and the bells are in good going order, recent work carried out by Taylors, who recast the 6th and 7th in 1920. Originally six by Penn in 1720, the trebles were added in 1797. John Cabourn, a noted bellhanger and donor of the treble, died in 1813; and the donor of the 2nd, Vicar in 1792, was afterwards consecrated Bishop of Kildare. On concluding the peal the Vicar came to give us a welcome and a compliment. We all signed his visitors' book and he had read 'A Great Adventure.'

At lunch at The Angel, Sutterton, we recovered our normal hearing again and the conductor cleared his throat. Having a naturally deep voice, we got on all right with his 'bobs,' but kept a sharp look out at the 'singles' for a diagram waved by his arm like an 'S.'

The grand finale of the tour was at Surfleet in the afternoon. An attempt for a peal of Grandsire Cinques began at 2.15 p.m. We had to cross the river with its miniature Sydney Harbour bridge—a stream that once nearly saw the end of Frank Hairs—and we recrossed it successfully, thanks to Gabriel's musical brains and lungs. I have only taken part in two of such peals during the past 40 years—rung many miles apart—and in these two peals 17 of my mates have been 'starred.' Like the leaning tower of Pisa, we left St. Lawrence's steeple to hang over for perhaps another three or four centuries; but the old sundial on the south side looks a bit 'squiffy,' for they built it true vertically so as not to rob old 'Tempus' of his honesty. Had the late Vicar of Surfleet never joined the Cambridge University Guild it is doubtful if 12 bells would ever have sounded from its tower. I must not omit to mention that we crossed the road—a few yards separate the tower and inn—to drink the health of the Master of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild on his birthday and that of the youngest member of the Royal family, Princess Margaret Rose—'May their shadows never grow less!'

At Glyn Garth dinner was served at 7 o'clock, the old mahogany table being extended to suit the titmums extent in the home position. It was a great parting about 11 p.m., after seeing the Rupert Cinematograph, through the smoke, and the farewell handshakes, in hearty appreciation of all the hospitality shown by Mr. and Mrs. Richardson. In and around London there are many ringers who have happy recollections of Surfleet, including our Editor. The Lincoln air is so bracing that most ringers meet with an 'adventure' by car or rail when they come amongst the Fens. Most members of the Ladies' Guild are well domesticated, judging by the number who have said, 'I will,' but how Mrs. Richardson managed to knock off a peal of Cinques between the busy preparations for her guests is a Surfleet wonder.

LLANDAFF AND MONMOUTH ASSOCIATION.

A quarterly meeting was held at Penarth on Saturday, October 2nd, when about 50 members attended. The bells, a new light peal of eight by Taylor, were kept going during the afternoon and evening except during the service, tea and business meeting. The service, fully choral, was conducted by the Rector (the Rev. G. P. Symonds), assisted by his curate. No sermon was preached, but a few words of hearty welcome were offered by the Rector. He said it was a great pleasure to him to see that a service in the church was a feature of the meeting, and he would not hesitate to tell his friends and parishioners that practically every member attended.

Tea was very kindly provided by the ringers, their wives and friends, who also waited at the tea tables.

The business meeting was presided over by the Rector, supported by the Master (the Rev. Ivor J. Richards).

Instructors' reports were received, progress being reported from both Cowbridge and Ebbw Vale.

Augmentations and restorations reports were received, the hon. secretary mentioning that the new peal at Ebbw Vale was rung by association members at the dedication service, each member representing a different tower affiliated to the association in both dioceses.

Mr. John, of Llangynwyd, reported that he thought next year would see the completion of the octave in his tower.

The next Monmouthshire meeting is to be held at Blaenavon, and the following Glamorgan meeting at Baglan.

Mr. O. Addams Williams, a keen supporter of the church, bells and ringing, was unanimously elected a honorary life member.

The Master (the Rev. Ivor J. Richards) proposed a vote of thanks to the Rector and to all the churchworkers who had helped to make such an enjoyable and pleasant meeting.—The Rector responded.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

Among the distinguished guests who have promised to attend the tercentenary dinner of the Ancient Society of College Youths on November 6th are the Lord Mayor of London, the Lord Bishop of London, the Duke of Argyll and the Earl of Shaftesbury.

All the tickets for the dinner have been disposed of and further applications will be useless.

'A History of the College Youths' (by J. Armiger Trollope) is now on sale. It can be obtained direct from 'The Ringing World,' Lower Pyrford Road, Woking, price 5s. 6d. post free.

Much regret will be felt that the Rev. H. S. T. Richardson has been seriously ill. He is making slow recovery at the residence of his brother-in-law, Mr. E. H. Lewis, at Brasted, Kent. Mr. Richardson is Vicar of St. Nicholas', Hereford, and has done much good work in the cause of ringing, which he entered with enthusiasm in his Cambridge University days.

Mr. Charles W. Clarke, of Bedford, now a veteran in the Exercise, is still to be numbered among the conductors. He called a peal in seven Minor methods on October 2nd. He conducted the first peal in Bedfordshire over 50 years ago, and although he does not ring as many five thousands now as he used to do, he has an immense total to his credit. He has not kept a record, but it is thought that his peals must number over a thousand.

CORONATION BELLS DEDICATED.

POOLE'S PEAL INCREASED TO TEN.

Two new trebles have been installed at St. James' Church, Poole, to commemorate the Coronation of King George VI., and were dedicated by the Dean of Salisbury, the Very Rev. E. L. Henderson, D.D., on Saturday, September 25th. In spite of inclement weather, a congregation of nearly 500 was present, the Mayor and Corporation and other civic heads attending.

Immediately after the lesson a well-struck course of Grandsire Triples was rung on handbells by four members of the local band, then followed the hymn, 'Angel voices ever singing,' during which a procession, including the Dean, the Rector, the Mayor and Sheriff, preceded by macebearers, moved to the porch, where the two new ropes were suspended.

The Mayor handed the ropes to the Dean and requested him to dedicate the two new bells 'to the glory of God, for the use of the church and to commemorate the Coronation of King George VI.'

After the dedicatory prayers a few well-struck rounds were rung by members of the local band, all of whom learned to ring in the tower, and five of whom are choristers, one churchwarden, one vestry clerk and one sidesman.

The Dean gave a very appropriate address based on the text, 'Wist ye not that I must be in my Father's house.' During the interval between the service and tea an opening touch of Stedman Caters was rung, giving all present an opportunity to hear the ten at their best. Nearly 200 sat down to tea in the Guildhall, where the Rector expressed his pleasure at the way in which the people of Poole and old parishioners from all over the country and even abroad had responded to the appeal.

The Mayor said the people of Poole, whatever their denomination, loved to hear their bells.

The Mayoress also paid a compliment to the bells and bellringers of England, and remarked that the bells of Poole could be heard to advantage at any point in the harbour or in the channel outside. Nothing was more beautiful, she said, than to hear the bells of England pealing across the hills and valleys.

Mr. I. Davis, secretary and churchwarden, gave a brief resumé of how the money had been collected, expressing his gratitude to Mr. F. Townsend, Ringing Master, for the great amount of help he had given in organising and collecting. He then asked the Rector to hand a cheque in full discharge of their account to Mr. A. A. Hughes, of Messrs. Mears and Stainbank, thanking him for the splendid way in which the work had been carried out.

The bellfounders have certainly completed their work admirably, not merely adding two trebles, but transforming a good eight into an excellent ten. Everyone agreed that the bells are a splendid splice, and it is interesting to note that seven of the old eight are maiden bells cast in 1621 by William Dobson, of Downham Market.

The founders were represented by Mr. A. A. Hughes, Mr. A. R. MacDonald and Mr. J. Thomas, who did the installation. Among others present were Mr. F. W. Rogers (hon. secretary of the Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild), Mr. W. A. Cave (Bristol), Mr. Whitehead (Dover) and Mr. W. Wilson. One other enthusiast cycled from Portsmouth, a distance of 60 miles each way, in drizzling rain. About 50 ringers in all attended from Bournemouth (St. John's and St. Peter's), Christchurch, Wyke Regis, Lytchett Minster, Lytchett Matravers, Ringwood, Wareham, Swanage and other towers, and ringing continued until 9 p.m., the methods rung being Grandsire and Stedman Caters, Plain Bob, Kent Treble Bob and Cambridge Surprise Royal.

AUSTRALIAN TOURISTS' REUNION. PRESIDENT OF HOBART ASSOCIATION ENTERTAINED.

Gifts For St. David's Cathedral.

Three years ago, at this time, a little band of ringers were on their way from the Motherland to Australia, to take part in the Melbourne centenary celebrations and to visit the scattered churches of the Commonwealth where peals of bells exist. Each year since the party have been able to gather for a reunion, and when they met for the purpose last Saturday in London they had the privilege of entertaining the Ven. Archdeacon Blackwood, of Hobart, Tasmania, Mrs. Blackwood and Miss M. E. Blackwood, who came over for the Coronation and are returning to their distant home a fortnight hence. It was a special pleasure to have them as guests, for the Archdeacon, as president of the Holy Trinity Bellingers' Association of Hobart, was, with Mr. Ray Wilson (the hon. secretary), behind the planning of the wonderful hospitality provided for the tourists when they were in Tasmania. And it was as members of the Holy Trinity Association that the party held this year's reunion.

They first of all met at St. George's Church, Southwark, for a peal of Stedman Triples, through the kindness of the Rector, and of Mr. W. Bottrill, who made the arrangements for them. Unfortunately the peal was lost through a trip, which led to a change course, but other ringing took place afterwards and concluded with a quarter-peal of Stedman in honour of and to welcome the Archdeacon, who arrived at the church while the bells were ringing. Mr. Bottrill stayed throughout the afternoon and his attentions were very much appreciated.

Later the party gathered at the Howard Hotel, Norfolk Street, W.C., for dinner, and were joined by other guests. The company, presided over by the Rev. E. Banks James, included the Ven. Archdeacon Blackwood, Mrs. Blackwood, Miss Blackwood, Mr. E. H. Lewis (president of the Central Council), Mrs. A. A. Hughes, Mrs. O. Peake and the following members of the party who, with the chairman, made the journey to Australia: Mr. Rupert Richardson, Mrs. Richardson and Miss Enid Richardson (Surfleet, Lincs), Mr. W. H. Fussell (Slough, Bucks), Mr. R. Maude (Pudsey, Yorks), Mr. W. Liuter (Fareham, Hants), Mr. C. Sharples (Blackpool, Lancs), Mr. G. Martin (Maidenhead, Berks), Mr. J. Hardcastle (Bradford, Yorks), and Mr. J. S. Goldsmith (Woking, Surrey). Mrs. Sharples was, unfortunately, prevented from being present. Before dinner began, Miss Enid Richardson handed to Mrs. Blackwood a bouquet of chrysanthemums, brought by Mr. Fussell, and a cable of greeting and good wishes was dispatched to the members of the association in Hobart. After the meal the loyal toast was honoured, and a cordial welcome was offered to the guests.

WELCOME TO GUESTS.

The Chairman recalled the warm welcome given everywhere in Australia to the ringing tourists on their visit, but nowhere, he said, did they receive a more cordial welcome than in Hobart. He remembered how, when their train arrived at the railway station, their friends rushed to greet them and handed them free passes granted by the authorities to enable them to use the trams. Then they carried them off in motor-cars (laughter). Throughout their stay they were lionised and everything was done to add to their enjoyment.

They were only too pleased that evening, he continued, to welcome to their midst in this country the Archdeacon, Mrs. and Miss Blackwood (applause). It was a great treat to have them there as their guests, for they (the ringers) would never forget the kindnesses they received on their visit to Hobart (applause).

The Chairman also welcomed Mr. Lewis as president of the Central Council, whom he knew as a fellow-member of Cambridge University Guild long before he succeeded to his present official position. They also welcomed Mrs. Hughes, a representative of the oldest firm in the whole of the city of London, Messrs. Mears and Stainbank, which had sent bells to every part of the world and cast the bells of Holy Trinity Church, Hobart, on which some of those present rang two peals while they were in Tasmania.

Mr. J. S. Goldsmith, who supported the chairman's welcome, reminded those present that that was their third reunion, and on each occasion they had had the privilege of entertaining guests from overseas. On the first occasion they had with them Mr. Malcolm Taylor, of Hobart. Last year the Rev. R. and Mrs. Sherwood were their guests. Although they had just returned to settle in England, they were at Melbourne during the ringers' visit, and Mr. Sherwood was the link with the Cathedral Chapter. This year they were delighted to have with them the Archdeacon, Mrs. and Miss Blackwood, whose presence recalled again the wonderful hospitality and lavish entertainment showered on them in Tasmania and for which they indebtedness to the Archdeacon and Mr. Wilson particularly could never be adequately repaid. Mr. Goldsmith reminded the company of the parochial, civic and ecclesiastical welcomes which were extended to them, the reception by the Governor (Sir E. Clarke), the excursions to the beauty spots of the island and of the no less enjoyable but more intimate frolics at the homes of some of the ringers. Each of their party, he said, would have liked to show their visitors personal hospitality, but the strenuous activities of their time in England made this impossible, so the ringers asked them to accept this collective gesture of their delight at having them among them. When they returned to Tasmania, he asked them to convey their warmest greetings to their fellow-members in Hobart and their good wishes in the uphill struggle they were having in mastering the art of change ringing.

A RELIC OF TINTERN ABBEY.

Mr. W. H. Fussell, in supplementing the welcome, also referred to the magnificent reception given to the English ringers in Tasmania. He said there was one incident which struck him particularly, and that was that the Governor of Tasmania took the trouble to have the bell on the roof of Government House brought down, so that they might examine it at close quarters. It was placed on a table in the hall and he managed to sound it and add one more to his list of interesting bells.

From the Governor, the Dean and Chapter of the Cathedral, the Rector of Holy Trinity and the Holy Trinity Association they received nothing but kindness—indeed, their visit was one grand march. It made him long to go back, but he was afraid, at his time of life, he must not look forward to it.

Mr. Fussell reminded the company that Hobart was situated in the county of Buckingham. He did not know how it came by that name, but as he was born in the county of Buckingham, England, he felt a sort of affinity with the people in Tasmania, and in recognition of the kindness they experienced there he was asking the Archdeacon to take back to St. David's Cathedral a volume dealing with the history, the founders and the inscriptions of the bells of Buckinghamshire, England. If the book were placed in the Chapter Library it might prove very useful for reference and assist the authorities in Tasmania at any time they were going to consider putting up bells. Only 50 copies of this book, published in 1887, were printed, and it was, he thought, one of the best works on church bells ever written. He hoped the Archdeacon would carry it back with him with the best wishes of the English ringers. He had also brought with him another little gift for the Cathedral in the hope that it would be treasured there. It was an original tile from Tintern Abbey, Monmouthshire. The first service in the Abbey was held in 1268, and the tile was one of the paving pieces laid in the sanctuary. He saw it dug up when workmen were cleaning the ground round the foundations. In St. David's Cathedral, Hobart, there were other pieces from famous English ecclesiastical buildings, and he hoped this tile might find a place among them (applause).

They were met again as a happy family, continued Mr. Fussell, glad to welcome their Tasmanian guests. They were also pleased to have with them a 'bell foundress,' whose foundry supplied the bells to Holy Trinity Church. Also they welcomed Mr. Lewis, who had served the art in many ways. Not only was he president of the Central Council, but his work had saved many towers and belfries from being closed through structural difficulties. If they had a man like Mr. Lewis in Australia and Tasmania, it might lead to the restoration and augmentation of the bells in many churches.

The toast of 'Our Guests' was drunk with musical honours.

STIMULUS OF THE PILGRIMAGE.

The Archdeacon replied. Everywhere they had gone in the 'home-land,' he said, they had received the warmest welcome. They had had a wonderful time, but best of all was the cordiality of the welcome that night from their old ringing friends who made the pilgrimage in 1934. They appreciated to the full the extreme kindness of the thought that was behind that reunion. It was one of the greatest joys they had had in their trip to England to meet the old faces, and the young faces, that had greeted them that night. They remembered the pleasant time they had when the ringers visited Hobart and the stimulus that was given to the local ringers. They had not got as far as five thousand changes yet, but they were making progress and hoped to achieve it some day. The ringing at Holy Trinity had much improved as a result of the visit. Another direct result of the visit was that their splendid Cathedral, which was now complete with its new tower, had eight bells that could be rung, that could be turned upside down (laughter), as well as five that could be 'rung a little bit' (laughter). He believed that the eight ringing bells were due entirely to their visit.

The Archdeacon added that he was very pleased to meet Mrs. Hughes, who was connected with the ancient firm that cast the bells for Hobart 90 years ago. He hoped Mrs. Hughes would convince her firm that what they needed was a bell foundry in Australia. They were still 98 per cent. British stock there and he hoped they would always remain a 'white Australia.' What they wanted was not farmers—they could already produce more than enough from the land for their needs—but industrialists who would set up factories and bring out their men and the families. He thought they would never go ahead with bells in Australia until they got a bell foundry out there, with, behind it, the knowledge and skill of craftsmen from home. At present there were high duties on bells imported into Australia and that made them very expensive adjuncts to the Church.

The Archdeacon spoke of the bells, which, he said, were so characteristic of England, and which he had heard in so many places during his travels. He referred also to the splendid service which ringers were rendering to the Church and to the spirit of freemasonry which existed between them. He had that day received a letter from Mr. Malcolm Taylor, who was at present in Glasgow, and regretted he could not join them, who wrote of the way in which he had been received by the ringers in England. They gave him a wonderful welcome and particularly in Kent he had made many friends.

Bellringers, added the Archdeacon, were doing a great work for God and His Church. They were helping to keep alive the sense of God and religion in the country to-day when there was a tendency to back away from it. In conclusion, he expressed the hope that another visit of ringers would be paid to Australia and that it would not be many years before they in Tasmania would have the pleasure and privilege of receiving them again.

Mr. E. H. Lewis expressed his gratitude at having been asked to join the 'family party.' He had heard a lot about the trip to Australia which had made him feel envious. He would have liked to make the journey, but that was quite impossible. He thought it was a very good thing that the visit was made. It must have stimulated ringing on the other side of the world. It would be a very good thing if similar visits could be made to other distant places, such as Vancouver or South Africa. He had long had a wish to go over to America to see something of the bells out there and to see if they could not stimulate ringing in the States. Recently in 'The Ringing World' there was an article on this question of ringing in the outposts of the Empire and some opinions were expressed as to how ringing might be encouraged. But there was one thing he did not see mentioned, and, if ever a tour were undertaken again, he hoped an effort would be made to give ringers an insight into handbell ringing. One of the difficulties was to keep a band of ringers together. It was very disheartening, when they had eight ringers, for one or two to drop out, and they had to start again right from the beginning. It might take a year or two to build up the band again. To maintain interest there was nothing like handbell ringing, and if there were only three left they could still provide themselves with an infinite amount of interest and amusement with the handbells.

Continuing, Mr. Lewis said he felt he had some connection with the Holy Trinity Association, for, at Christmas for the last two years, he had received a card from the ringers there and he appreciated it very much indeed. It was very nice to feel that they were in close touch with the ringers of this country (applause).

Mr. Goldsmith announced letters of regret for absence from the Rev. R. Sherwood and Canon Coleridge, and said he had recently received a letter conveying greetings from Mr. Arthur Savage, of St. Paul's Cathedral Society, Melbourne.

After the speeches, the proceedings became quite informal, giving those present the opportunity of mixing freely. Mrs. Hughes, with Mrs. Peake at the piano, delighted the company with selections on handbells, which all, and particularly the overseas visitors, greatly appreciated. She played a number of pieces with that grace and charm which has become so well known among ringers and which is now giving pleasure to vast audiences through a film in which Mrs. Hughes performs on her bells.

During the evening Grandsire Caters and touches of Bob Major were rung on the handbells that made the journey to Australia with the tourists and which were used during a service in Holy Trinity Church, Hobart. The evening would not have been complete without a repetition of the 'turn' by Messrs. Fussell and Martin, who, 'four-in-hand,' had delighted many an audience in Australia and on the seas as well.

Great interest was taken in the copy of the first 'Tintinnologia' (1667), which Mr. Lewis brought for inspection. It is the best preserved of the only three copies now known. Altogether the party spent a very happy evening, which drew to a close all too soon.

ESSEX AND SUFFOLK TOWERS VISITED.

Dagenham ringers spent their annual outing in visiting towers in Essex and Suffolk. They left at 8.15 a.m. and called first at St. Paul's, Bocking, where everything was in readiness to start ringing on the fine peal of eight. Grandsire Triples and Bob Major were rung, and the youngest member, John Day, made his debut in the realms of eight-bell ringing with a very creditable performance, ringing the treble to a touch of Grandsire Triples. A run through the beautiful country on the borders of Essex and Suffolk brought the party to Lavenham at midday. Some visited the historical places of this old-world town, others climbed the great height of the magnificent church tower, which is a landmark for many miles round.

After lunch the visitors rang on the celebrated bells—one of the most glorious peals in England—touches of Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Bob Major and Kent Treble Bob. Leaving Lavenham with regret, they went on to Clare, reached by an hour's perfect ride through beautiful country, and, everything being found in readiness, touches were rung on this grand ring of bells (tenor 28 cwt.). After tea the journey was continued to Castle Hedingham. Here, there being no local ringers, the visitors had a cordial reception from the Vicar, and further good ringing, including Oxford Treble Bob, took place. After lowering the bells a run of 40 miles brought the party back to Dagenham, after a most enjoyable excursion. The arrangements were made by Mr. James Bullock, on behalf of the local secretary, and the Dagenham men desire to express their thanks to the clergy and ringing masters at the various towers visited.

WHEATHAMPSTEAD BELLS RECAST.

A WOODEN FRAME INSTALLED.

The bells of Wheathampstead Parish Church, Herts, have been recast and rehung by Messrs. J. Taylor and Co., Loughborough. The original ring of six was cast by R. Phelps in 1717, but the back five were recast in 1885 by Messrs. Warner and Sons. When, a year or so ago, application was made to the Consistory Court to permit recasting the bells and rehanging them in an iron frame on steel girders, the Chancellor of the Diocese (Mr. Kenneth Macmorran) declared that his whole nature rose up against the proposal to put such a frame in the belfry, and he said he was simply amazed that the Parochial Church Council wanted to do it.

As a result the Bells Restoration Committee decided to have fresh plans prepared for a wooden frame and supports. Although this involved increased expenditure, generous subscribers came to the aid of the fund and the work has been carried out.

The new frame, the bells and the fittings are an excellent example of the work for which the firm of Messrs. John Taylor is famous. The treble bell bears the inscription: 'Thomas Crouch gent: benefactor towards these six bells. R. Phelps Fecit 1717.'

In the recasting the founders reproduced the following almost unintelligible inscription which appeared on the waist of the fifth bell: 'Hae Campanae Quinque Cadito Metallo in Sex Dilatabantur Muneribus Diversorum Collectis Studio et Opera Riccardi Crouch Generosi.'

The tenor bell, which weighs 14 cwt. 22 lb., bears the following inscription:—

'Richard Phelps made me 1717. Edward Wake, D.D., Rector, Richard Crouch Gent, Thomas Street, Churchwardens. This ring was partly recast and rehung A.D. 1885. Owen W. Davys, M.A., Rector; John Nash, John Ransome, Churchwardens.'

On the opposite side of the waist is the following: 'This peal of six bells was recast July 23rd, 1937. A. M. Baird-Smith, Rector; J. T. M. Campbell, G. Norbury, Churchwardens.'

The bells were dedicated on Sunday morning, September 19th, by the Bishop of Bedford. The service was conducted by the Rev. A. M. Baird-Smith.

The Bishop, in his address, spoke of the summons of church bells and the growing apathy towards church-going. In some outspoken sentences the Bishop addressed those who were present for the special occasion. 'If everybody treated the church as you are in the habit of treating it,' he said, 'what would happen to it?' The easiest way to destroy a church was to do nothing about it; just let it be. An increasing number of people were letting it be. One of the things that showed they appreciated their privileges was that they used them. There was the church in their midst; and he reminded them that every privilege carried with it responsibilities.

After the services the bells were rung to Grandsire Doubles by the local band: W. Folds (foreman), F. Ivory, C. Bradley, F. G. Edmunds, W. Bygrave, F. Kelvey and S. Thornton.

The Bells Committee have presented a table bell, suitably inscribed, a replica of one in the tower and cast from the same metal, to Mr. Leslie Carter, whose services as architect have proved of such value. They have also given to Mr. W. J. Housden, the hon. secretary, an inscribed silver cigarette case in gratitude for the invaluable work he has done.

MISSING KEYS.

FAIRFORD RINGERS OVERCOME DIFFICULTIES.

The ringers of St. Mary's, Fairford, with a few friends, held their annual outing on Saturday, September 4th. Starting at 7.50 a.m., a lovely ride brought them to Harwell at 9 a.m., and the nice peal of eight was soon going to some good ringing. At Blewbury, the next stop, the church was open, but the lower key could not be found. The head ringer's house, the clerk's and the clock winder's were tried in vain, so a course of Grandsire Triples was rung on handbells in the churchyard. Since the visit the ringers have heard from the Vicar that he had given permission to a lady artist to go on the tower to paint a picture. The lady had locked the tower door inside and was busy painting her picture while the ringers waited. She much regrets locking the door.

East Hagbourne was next visited by the ringers, who were met by Mr. Webb. He had got a key and some nice ringing took place on this peal of eight. At Wallingford, where lunch was taken, the head ringer with the key was lost, but the Vicar soon found another key. Ringing was curtailed here owing to a wedding, but no one grumbled, for the tenor did not go well. The journey was resumed to Beusson, where there is a nice peal of eight, going the 'opposite' way, which took a little getting used to, but some good ringing was enjoyed. Tea at Dorchester was followed by a visit to the Abbey Church, a fine old building, with a nice-toned peal of eight. Abingdon was reached at scheduled time, but, owing to serious illness near St. Helen's Church, ringing on the peal of ten was not possible, so the visitors went to St. Nicolas' Church, containing a ring of six—quite a ladies' peal—which they enjoyed very much indeed. After supper and handbell ringing at the King's Head and Bear, the party started for home at 10 p.m., and arrived at Fairford at 11 o'clock, tired but happy. The methods rung were Stedman, Grandsire and Canterbury Doubles, Double Court, Oxford Bob and Kent Treble Bob Minor. Stedman and Grandsire Triples, Kent and Oxford Treble Bob and Plain Bob Major.

DURHAM AND NEWCASTLE ASSOCIATION.DIAMOND JUBILEE GATHERING AT DURHAM.

The diamond jubilee festival of the Durham and Newcastle Diocesan Association was held in Durham on Saturday, September 25th. It was appropriate that the festival should be held in this city in view of the fact that when the association was founded in 1877, prior to the formation of the Diocese of Newcastle, it was called the 'Durham Diocesan Association of Ringers.'

Favoured with a fine day, a gathering of 75 members, representing 24 towers, assembled in the ancient city. The festival service was held in conjunction with the Cathedral evensong, and the music and singing of the far-famed choir was an inspiration to those whose good fortune it was to be present. The address was delivered by the Archdeacon of Auckland (the Ven. Leslie Owen), who took for his text the words 'Remembrancers of Christ.' The Archdeacon pointed out how the work of ringers was in no small measure responsible for the spreading of the Gospel, and how much their work was appreciated by the Church.

The dinner, followed by the annual meeting, took place in the Three Tuns Hotel, and was presided over by the president (Councillor Arthur Payne, O.B.E., J.P.), supported by the Archdeacon of Auckland, Canon Stephenson (Gateshead), Mr. R. Park (hon. secretary), Mr. W. N. Park (hon. treasurer), Mr. C. L. Routledge (hon. editorial secretary), Mr. W. Story, J.P., and Mr. John Anderson (past presidents).

In a message of welcome to the Archdeacon, the President said how greatly the association appreciated his presence, as well as the very appropriate address given in the Cathedral. He extended the thanks of the members to the Archdeacon and to all the authorities of the Cathedral who had co-operated in assuring the success of the service.

The Archdeacon responded and apologised for the absence of the Dean of Durham (Dr. Alington), who was unfortunately indisposed. He went on to reiterate how the Church appreciated the work of ringers, and said he noted with pleasure the presence of many young ringers. He further stated that the sound of the bells always recalled happy memories, because it was to the sound of the bells of a Cathedral that, on the happiest day of his life, he walked for the first time with his wife on his arm.

A 'NOT TOO SUCCESSFUL' YEAR.

The secretary's annual report was presented and adopted. This stated that the year had not been too successful, especially in regard to the meetings, which were very meagrely attended, and it was to be hoped that the members would endeavour to ensure the success of the meetings to be held during the coming year.

The secretary pointed out that in past years the association had made ringing history, and urged the members to assimilate the truths contained in the article entitled 'This means you,' published in 'The Ringing World' and reprinted in the association's last report by kind permission of the Editor.

The treasurer's report showed a balance in hand of £76 10s. 10d.

The Sunday service ringing scheme maintained the level of the three preceding years. Whitley Bay topped the 8, 10 and 12 bell section for the second successive year with a score of 1,386 points, with North Shields a close second, having recorded 1,322 points. Holy Trinity, Darlington, again led the six-bell section with 1,543 points, an increase of 300 on last year, Benfieldside being second, having scored 988 points, 200 more than last year.

The peal report, compiled by Mr. Routledge, stated that the number of peals rung during the year was 23, a decrease of five on last year. Fourteen of last year's peals, however, were rung by the touring band, so actually the number of peals rung showed an increase of nine. There was not a monopoly in this direction, as a good number of ringers took part, the conducting was evenly distributed, and the peals were rung in about 50 per cent. of the towers in union.

In accordance with rule, Mr. Payne relinquished the presidency at this meeting, and Mr. Murray D. Oubridge, of Gosforth, was unanimously elected to this office. Mr. Oubridge asked the members to support him in his efforts, and said that he would endeavour to uphold the traditions of the association.

The hon. secretary, hon. treasurer, hon. editorial secretary and hon. auditor were re-elected en bloc, as were the Peal Referees Committee (Messrs. W. H. Barber, J. W. Parker, J. E. Keen and W. J. Davidson).

A SURVIVING ORIGINAL MEMBER.

The passing of three members during the year was noted with regret—the Rev. H. A. Mackenzie, Vicar of Benfieldside, an honorary member since 1925; Mr. W. Brown, of Chester-le-Street, a member since 1884 and one of the founders of the Wednesday Guild; and Mr. T. Clark, of Darlington, a member since 1898 and a former vice-president. To those left behind the association tendered their deepest sympathy.

The members heard with pleasure that Mr. William Newton, of Stockton-on-Tees, the sole surviving original member of the association, had reached his 81st birthday, and Mr. T. Wick, of Shildon, his 80th birthday. Amidst applause, 'Many happy returns' were wished these old friends.

Mr. W. Story proposed a vote of thanks to the retiring officers, for whom Mr. C. L. Routledge responded. Mr. Story also addressed a welcome to Canon Stephenson, M.A. (Rector of Gateshead), a staunch supporter of the association, and the Canon responded in his own inimitable style.

YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION.EASTERN DISTRICT WELCOMED TO CAMPSALL.

The quarterly meeting of the Eastern District of the Yorkshire Association was held at Campsall on October 2nd, a perfect autumn day, and was attended by ringers from Arksey, Beverley Minster, Burghwallis, Conisborough, Doncaster, Hemmingbrough, Hebble, Hull, Kirk Ella, Pontefract, Selby, Sherburn-in-Elmet and the local company.

Twenty-seven sat down to an excellent tea at the Old Bells Inn. At the business meeting, over which the Vicar (the Rev. W. Abel Turner) presided, and held in the Church Hall, one new member, Mr. Charles Ellerington, of Beverley Minster, was elected.

Howden was suggested as the next place of meeting.

A vote of condolence with the relatives of Mr. C. P. Bradley, of Beverley Minster company, an old member of the association, who passed away after a brief illness, was recorded, the members present standing as a mark of respect to the memory of the deceased.

In replying to a vote of thanks for the use of the bells and for presiding over the meeting, the Vicar welcomed the members to Campsall. He said the bells were at their disposal at any time for a meeting, and he hoped to see the association at his church again in the near future.

A vote of thanks to the local company was also passed.

Apologies for absence were received from Mr. A. B. Cook, of Hull, Mr. A. E. West, of Sutton-on-Hull, and Mr. G. Halksworth, of Doncaster.

The methods rung included Grandsire and Stedman Triples and Plain Bob, Little Bob, St. Clement's, Double Norwich, Kent and Oxford Treble Bob Major, the bells being kept going till 8.30 p.m., when a very pleasant meeting terminated.

During the evening Mr. E. A. Gallimore, of Durham Cathedral choir, rendered songs to the great enjoyment of the meeting, his own compositions regarding the activities of certain members and 'The Surprise Ringer' bringing the house down.

The meetings for the ensuing year were arranged to be held in the following places: Special, Bishop Auckland (at the invitation of the Vicar); pre-Lent, Whitley Bay; pre-Whitsun, Darlington; summer, Sunderland; annual, Newcastle.

CHESHIRE AND NORTH WALES TOUR.

INTERESTING HAPPENINGS IN A WEEK OF TRAVEL.

After the enjoyable tour in Northern Ireland undertaken last year by Mr. C. T. Coles and his party, it seemed only natural that North Wales should be visited in 1937, and, after a few inquiries as to the possibilities of peal ringing had been made, this district was chosen. To start with, a long week-end in Chester was decided upon, to be followed by a run westward to Barmouth, thence to Aberystwyth, and finally to Llandudno and Rhyl. The towers in the Chester district were fixed up through the agency of Mr. R. Sperring, whilst Mr. W. Cathrall made himself responsible for those in the area of the North Wales Association.

THE FINE TOWER OF WREXHAM CHURCH.

Headquarters for the first three days was the Washington Hotel, Chester, a very comfortable and central place, where every consideration was shown. By lunch time on Saturday, September 11th, most of the party had arrived, according to schedule, and at three o'clock met Mr. J. Swindley at St. Mary's-without-the-Walls for the first peal. Here there is a musical octave by Mears and Stainbank, 1887, a Queen Victoria jubilee peal, the tenor weighing a few pounds under a ton. A good peal of Superlative turned out to be Rupert's 650th peal, and at night the town was illuminated in his honour!

The evening's entertainment included the first performance (this year) of their famous disappearing trick by 'The Two Leslies,' assisted by 'The Gay Lindy.' This performance was repeated on many occasions during the following week, and never on any occasion failed to gain applause, even if the applause was only an expression of relief at their reappearance when hope had almost been abandoned.

The programme for Sunday included a visit to the Cathedral, where touches of Stedman Caters and Cambridge Royal were rung; whilst in the afternoon a peal of Cambridge Major was rung at Pulford, after a very cordial welcome had been received from the Rector, the Rev. P. G. Lowndes.

Unfortunately the afternoon and evening turned out very wet, and the illuminations (and other attractions) in the town were visited only by a few. During the evening a somewhat mysterious telephone message was received, which appeared to come from a lady enjoying the name of Birdwhistle, who was inquiring after a certain bachelor member of the party with a view to a meeting. The bachelor in question, on hearing of the message, promptly intimated that he would not go out again that evening for anybody, and at once put on his slippers as proof of his determination. It was strongly suspected that the once famous Kate had turned up again.

On Monday, September 13th, the programme included visits to Eccleston and Christleton. At the former place, with a band strengthened by the inclusion of Mr. J. C. E. Simpson, a good peal of London was rung in 3 hours and 19 minutes. Mr. G. Jones, the towerkeeper, was courtesy itself, and did not forget to point out the memorial tablet to the late Henry W. Wilde, which is fixed on the inner wall of the church at the base of the tower in which he did so much good work. The bells are a very fine eight by Taylor, with a tenor weighing 26½ cwt.

At Christleton the party was joined by the Rev. C. E. Wigg, and welcomed by Mr. Griffiths. Here Superlative was rung in nine minutes under three hours on bells recast at Loughborough in 1928 and now hanging in ball bearings. After the peal the company, together with friends from Chester, was entertained to tea by Mr. H. A. Heywood, cousin of the late Sir A. P. Heywood, and also met the Rector, the Rev. A. A. Guest-Williams. Mr. Heywood was interested to hear that some of the visitors had known the late Sir Arthur.

At Northop, Flintshire, the next morning, the Rev. C. Mostyn Davies (Rector) greeted the party, and on a musical octave from Whitechapel the first peal of Yorkshire Surprise Major by the North Wales Association was rung. Lunch at the Chester headquarters was a prelude to a good-bye to that picturesque town and to the long run round Wales. Wrexham, reached about 4.30 p.m., was found to be gaily decorated, and even the hotel people were in a state of great excitement. First thoughts, however, turned out to be very wide of the mark—the truth being that a carnival was to be held in the town next day, whilst a wedding reception was taking place at the hotel. A party of ringers was, therefore, of no account at all!

The noble tower of St. Giles', Wrexham, contains a fine peal of ten by Rudhall, which were rehung in 1907 by Mears and Stainbank, and the tenor again later by Taylors. Mr. W. Jones (steeplekeeper) and Mr. W. Cathrall (hon. secretary, North Wales Association) met the party in the tower, and after the usual rope adjustments, etc., had been completed, a very good peal of Stedman Caters was rung in 3 hours and 10 minutes.

Wednesday, September 15th, was the first of the really busy days, especially for the three car drivers, Messrs. G. R. Pye and R. Richardson and the Rev. C. E. Wigg. As over 60 miles had to be travelled and two peals rung, an early departure from Wrexham was imperative. Rupert was therefore appointed O.C. transport for the rest of the week, with an exhortation that it was his duty to see that running times were adhered to, and on no occasion could it be said that he failed in his job.

A NARROW ESCAPE.

Llangollen was reached by 8.30 a.m., and by 9 o'clock London was being well struck on a very fine toned peal by Taylor, 1887. Alas! by 10.30 all was over—the peal attempt was only an attempt. No time was lost, however, in vain regrets; it was decided that Barmouth, 50 miles away, should be reached as early as possible. One car party nearly did not reach that town at all, for Rupert, on the way out of Llangollen, was almost run into by a car doing a little bit of red light shooting at high speed. Fortunately, Rupert himself was going slowly and was able to pull up sharply, but only about a yard separated his car party from a nasty bump, and perhaps no more peals for that week, to say the least of it.

Travelling past Bala Lake, through Dolgelly and over the picturesque road to Barmouth, with many needless 30-mile limit signs on hills and double-S bends, the latter town was reached by 3 o'clock. Here the towerkeeper met the visitors, and a good peal of Cambridge was rung in about 3½ hours. Some of those resting had an entertaining talk with the Rector, Canon R. Hughes Williams, during the progress of this peal, and could wish most sincerely that there were many more clergy with such an interest in bells as he proved to have.

Next day another early start was necessary, Machynlleth being 26 miles away, through some very difficult country. At this church there is a mixed ring of eight, some by Barwell, and on these bells the first peal of Bristol in the county of Montgomery was rung. Llanbadarn, near Aberystwyth, was the next objective, and at St. Padarn's Church a peal of Superlative was completed. Six of the bells are by Rudhall and two by Warner; all were rehung on ball bearings by Mears and Stainbank about 15 years ago. They go very well, but are hung in the middle of a huge tower with three small windows on 'eye level,' consequently a good light is difficult, especially with the sun shining through one window. The Rector, the Rev. D. James Jones, met the ringers after the peal, and gave a special welcome to the lady member of the band, and to Gabriel Lindoff, whom he remembered from a meeting about eight years ago.

During the progress of this peal a bachelor, a real lady's man, escorted the two non-ringing lady members of the party on a trip to Devil's Bridge. We wonder what Miss Birdwhistle will say?

Portmadoc, 60 miles away, was reached by 10.45 next morning after a run through some very fine country, with the Cader Idris at first in front, then to the left and finally, still towering, far in the rear. How difficult it is to get away from such a giant! Another attempt for London was made at Portmadoc, on a light Warner octave, but this came to grief, curiously enough, in the same course as at Llangollen.

Every cloud has a silver lining, however, and the failure gave a little more time for the difficult journey to Bangor, 30 miles further on. Part of this journey was made through splendid mountainous country, with Snowdon away to the right, whilst further on a glimpse of Caernarvon Castle was obtained.

Bangor was reached by 3.50, and here Mr. Wigg had to make his departure, having received an urgent message which caused his return to his parish. The rest of the party very much regretted his going, and wished him a safe run on his long journey south. At St. David's Church, Mr. A. E. Pegler had all ready, and a peal of Cambridge Major was rung in just under 3 hours, on a ring of eight from Whitechapel in 1888. This peal was Jim Shepherd's 400th. Mr. Pegler assisted by ringing the treble, and helped to release the two Leslies and the Gay Lindy for a really long disappearing act. Indeed, they disappeared all the way to Beaumaris, where they appear to have made a vain attempt to obtain permission to ring a peal! This effort, however well intentioned, nearly lost them their dinner, which had almost disappeared when they made a somewhat belated return.

The Railway Hotel at Bangor contains some relics of the past, one of which is said to be Queen Anne's bed. Some amusement was caused by Rupert trying to get into this bed (Queen Anne is dead, of course!), and much advice was given him as to the best way to get in, and when in, to stay there. We understand that later on he actually did get in—indeed, he must have done, for next morning he said that he had no sleep all night, the bed was as old as Queen Anne. The famous tenor measurer was requisitioned to measure the bed, which turned out to be 6ft. across, with four thick corner up-rights about a foot square. It was just as well, too, for if the heavy top had fallen in there would not have been much left of anybody underneath, even of Rupert.

Saturday, September 18th, the last day of the tour, brought the party to Llandudno, where, at Holy Trinity Church, Superlative was rung on a fine peal of eight, from Loughborough in 1893. This was the first Surprise peal on the bells, and Bob Pye's 1,800th. These bells were given by Herbert and Catherine Keeling, and now hang as a memorial to the donors.

Previous to the peal being started, a touch of Grandsire Triples was rung, by request, with Mr. G. Bromley, a blind ringer, on the sixth. It was interesting to notice his keenness and enthusiasm and the way in which he has conquered a great physical handicap. He should become quite a good ringer. He remained in the church, or in the vicinity of the tower, for the whole of the peal, listening to the music of the bells. From a conversation with him it transpired that his greatest difficulty is striking his bell properly when the other bells are not being rung with a good beat. It was quite evident from observation, however, that his hearing is so acute that his striking would not spoil any ringing done by a band of good strikers.

After the peal the visitors, together with Mr. A. E. Peglar and Mr. S. Brown (the towerkeeper), were entertained to lunch by the Rector (Canon Rowlands) and the churchwardens, Messrs. A. M. Davies and R. Royle.

The last fixture of the tour had to be abandoned. Rhyl was the original tower, but permission was withdrawn. Buckley was substituted, but very regretfully it was decided that it was too far away. Eight of the band, however, went to Bodellwyddan, near Rhyl, where is the famous marble church, and obtained permission for a short ring. A very musical peal was found, tenor 14½ cwt., by Mears and Stainbank, the treble, fourth and tenor 1860, the others 1872. Stedman Triples and Double Norwich were the methods rung, and a local ringer entered the tower and said enthusiastically, 'That's what I call ringing.' With this the tour ended. Seven counties were visited, eleven peals rung out of thirteen attempts, whilst nine members of the band shared in the conducting, eight proving successful.

The thanks of the whole party are due to Mr. Robert Sperring and Mr. James Swindley for arrangements made in Chester and district; to Mr. W. Cathall for so much trouble taken in fixing up peals in a district where very few towers with bells are to be found; to the many clergy and towerkeepers for their permission and assistance; and to those kind friends who gave hospitality at Christleton and Llandudno. The three car drivers, too, deserve most sincere thanks for the hard work put in. To drive anything from 50 to 100 miles, and perhaps stand in two peals, is no bad day's work for any man. And drivers do not see the best of the scenery, especially when a bend on the road has to be negotiated about every 100 yards. So here's to the drivers!

NORTH STAFFORDSHIRE ASSOCIATION.

A meeting of the North Staffordshire Association was held at Uttoxeter on Saturday, September 18th. Forty-five members and friends were present from 16 towers, namely, Appleby Magna, Ashby-de-la-Zouch, Burslem, Burton-on-Trent, Cheadle, Derby, Exhall, Leek, Longton, Newcastle, Norton, Oversenle, Uttoxeter, Stone, Stoke-on-Trent and Tunstall.

A service was held conducted by the Rev. W. E. Charlton (Vicar of Uttoxeter). The Vicar extended a warm welcome to all present and referred to the loss of Mr. R. G. Lewis since the last meeting at Uttoxeter. Mr. R. G. Lewis was not only a good ringer, but a very good churchman and had been greatly missed.

A vote of thanks was accorded to the Vicar and ringers for the use of the bells.

Mr. J. W. Cotton, hon. secretary of the Burton-on-Trent District of the Midland Counties Association, expressed the pleasure of the visitors at being present.

Four new members were elected, viz., F. G. Parker, L. A. Smart, F. L. Oliver and F. Oliver, all of Uttoxeter.

Touches in the following methods were rung during the afternoon and evening: Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Plain Bob, Kent and Oxford Treble Bob, Double Norwich Major, Leek and Cambridge Surprise Major.

Mr. A. D. Steel took over the official duty of Ringing Master for eight-bell towers, for the first time, and discharged the office very successfully.

A RECORD OF FIFTY YEARS' SERVICE.PEAL BOARDS UNVEILED AT CHRISTCHURCH PRIORY.

Two interesting peal boards were unveiled at the Priory Church, Christchurch, on September 18th. One recorded the peal of Bob Maximus, rung by the local band on April 14th, 1937, the first by the Winchester and Portsmouth Guild, in honour of the jubilee of Mr. George Preston, a ringer for 50 years at this church. The other board recorded a peal of Grandsire Cinques, in which six ringers rang their first peal on twelve bells.

Many visiting ringers attended the ceremony, and among those present were the Vicar of Christchurch (Canon Gay, R.D., C.F.), the Mayor and Mayoress of Christchurch (Alderman and Mrs. D. Galtou), Mr. George Williams (Master of the Guild), Mr. F. W. Rogers (general secretary of the Guild), Mr. W. Andrews (captain of the Winchester band), Mr. George Preston (who is secretary of the Christchurch District of the Guild and captain of the local band), Mr. A. Troke and Mr. Walter Tucker (churchwardens).

The dedication was prefaced by a short service, conducted by Canon Gay, including prayers and hymns suitable to the occasion.

The tablet recording the attainment of the local band, covered by a Union Jack, was unveiled by the Mayoress, and the other, draped by St. George's cross, was ceremonially disclosed by Miss B. Stewart, of Ferndown, the daughter of Mr. Martin Stewart, the donor of the tablet, who took part in the peal. After the ceremony the memorials were dedicated by Canon Gay.

During the ringing which followed the unveiling, the rope of the bell which Mr. Preston was ringing broke below the sally, and in endeavouring to prevent the loose end doing any damage he sustained a heavy fall, fortunately with no worse results than a slight shaking.

Following tea at the King's Arms Hotel, Mr. Preston thanked the Vicar and churchwardens for presenting the board recording the peal of Bob Maximus, rung to commemorate his 50 years as a ringer at the Priory Church.

During that time, he said, I have seen many changes, but I can honestly say I do not for one moment regret the time I have spent in the tower; in fact, I am proud of being a ringer at the Priory; during my 50 years' service there I have made many friends from all parts of Great Britain.

'I do regret, however, the fact that our young churchmen do not show more eagerness to learn the art of campanology, so as to carry on the good work as the old ones die out; if they would only come forward I should be only too pleased to welcome and teach them all I know concerning ringing. Although these young people are so shy in coming forward, when the time comes that I have to leave the tower, I think it may safely be said that I shall leave it much better than I found it.'

CONGRATULATIONS TO MR. PRESTON.

Mr. Preston extended his thanks to the Mayor and Mayoress for visiting the ringing chamber to unveil the tablet, and to Mr. Stewart, of Ferndown, for presenting the board recording the peal of Grandsire Cinques, and to Miss Stewart, who had come to unveil it. He had Cinques, and to Miss Stewart, who had come to unveil it.

Mr. Preston thanked Canon Gay for the trust and confidence which he always showed in the ringers, for his readiness at all times to grant him the use of the bells, and for dedicating the two peal boards. He also extended his thanks to Mr. D. Llewellyn for assistance rendered with repairs to the bells. Finally he thanked the Priory ringers for their loyalty to him at all times, for without their co-operation, he said, he could not have done what he had.

Canon Gay referred with admiration to the work which had made the records possible, and said that much of the enthusiasm for bell-ringing in the diocese was due to Mr. Preston, who had instructed so many people in the art.

The Mayor of Christchurch spoke of the pleasure which it had given the Mayoress and himself to be present, and he extended to his old friend, Mr. George Preston, his heartiest congratulations on the completion of 50 years' ringing in the Priory tower. There was no doubt his fellow-ringers appreciated his leadership to the full and that the officials of the church valued his work. He had no doubt, also, that the people of the Borough of Christchurch would like to be associated with the congratulations.

Mr. Martin Stewart said he always thoroughly enjoyed visiting the Priory, because the Christchurch ringers had a way of diffusing happiness to all.

In presenting one of the tablets, he was only contributing a small quota to a tower, the walls of which were already becoming too small to hold the many memorials of past records. The Priory tower was the centre of bell-ringing in this district, and that was largely due to the great work of Mr. George Preston. It might be thought that a review of past years and records made them feel old. This was not so. 'One enjoys a kind of perpetual youth in bell-ringing,' he declared.

Mr. George Williams (Master of the Guild) told his audience that he had rung in the Priory tower before many of them had been born. It was in 1888 that he had come to Christchurch to ring the first peal on the bells.

Mr. F. W. Rogers (general secretary of the Guild) congratulated the local ringers for the work they were doing in twelve-bell ringing.

As a member of the Priory bellringers, Mr. F. A. Sparshott said that they fully appreciated the fine instruction and training they received from Mr. Preston, and they considered it a privilege to ring with him. It had been their greatest pleasure to give him loyal support.

DON'T SCRUB YOUR HANDS!

skin this simple way*

To many people, the problem of getting the hands really clean without harming the skin is a serious one. Grease and grime, which become deeply ingrained into the pores of the skin, are extremely difficult to remove, and ordinary washing with soap or even scrubbing will fail to remove them completely. Housewives, particularly, who complain that their hands get ruined by the nature of their work, will find the preparation called DERMAFOAM, a real "godsend." DERMAFOAM just smoothes away dirt and grease without effort. It gets right down into the pores and removes every particle of grime, leaving skin beautifully supple and healthy.

Men, too—when you've finished that dirty job on the car, DERMAFOAM will quickly banish all grease and oil from your hands. It acts almost magically—working under and around the nails and into every minute crease, removing all trace of dirt in a flash.

Engineers, Painters, Car Mechanics, Printers — everyone — will welcome DERMAFOAM, the modern method of cleansing and protecting the hands.

STEDMAN.

Among the many links which couple the Ancient Society of College Youths with the distant past and the foundations of change ringing are Stedman—the man and the method. Stedman, the man, was not only a member of the Society but the holder of office and, in one year, its Master. He held the society in high esteem, as indicated by the fact that when he published 'Tintinnalogia,' the first of all printed books on the art of change ringing, he dedicated it to the 'Noble Society of Colledge-Youths,' and later, when 'Campanalogia' made its appearance, it was to his 'honoured and most esteemed friends, the members of the Society of Colledge Youths,' that he dedicated it. The College Youths were among the first, if not the first, to put Stedman, the method, into practice. From the society's early association with it, we can almost say that it is the College Youths' method, although, of course, it has never been in any sense their monopoly.

This week a suggestion is made in our columns that one way of marking the tercentenary of the society would be to re-adapt the 'start' of Stedman and to make rounds the last row of a 'six' instead of the fourth, as it now is, always in Doubles and Triples and usually in Caters and Cinques. That strange start of the method, although taken for granted, has aroused the curiosity of many thinkers, but no one is able to say precisely why it was adopted by the inventor. The Rev. C. D. P. Davies, in the first chapter of Snowdon's 'Stedman,' suggests that the reason for it was to make the first three rows identical with those in Grandsire Doubles. Be that as it may, the method, as Stedman left it with us, begins in this curious fashion. But Stedman would still be Stedman if it were begun from some other place in the 'six,' and there are frequent instances of this in peals of Caters and Cinques. To secure certain properties in composition or a particular number of changes, composers have taken all sorts of liberties, the most common one being to start with a full 'slow' six, which means going off with 2 1 4 3, etc., instead of 2 1 3 5 4, etc. This 'tampering' with Stedman has never led to any protest, and, indeed, there is nothing to be said against it, except that it is not Stedman's way of beginning, although we must remember that Stedman produced it as a five-bell method pure and simple. But, having admitted that the method on nine and eleven bells may be begun with a full six, instead of with the last two changes of a six, there is no reason why the same 'going off' should not be used on five and seven bells—except tradition and the fact that in Doubles and Triples there is nothing to be gained by it. On the higher numbers the alteration can be made to serve a purpose, on five

JOHN A. DOWNING 3	JAMES G. POWELL Tenor

Conducted by J. G. POWELL.

* First peal of Minor. Rung in honour of the wedding of Miss Joan Kingdon (a ringer at the above church) and Mr. R. McCall.

(Other peal reports are unavoidably held over.)

PEAL NOTES.

SOME STATISTICS FROM BUCKFAST.

A peal by the local company at Aldershot was rung on October 5th as a farewell to one of their members. There is always regret at the loss of a ringer from a tower, as they are generally hard to replace.

But Aldershot will not suffer so badly as some companies. At one of their recent practices, when no fewer than 11 members of the band were absent for various reasons, holidays included, no fewer than 20 members of all ages and both sexes were present and the methods rung went as high as Double Norwich!

The peal of Minor at Shilton, Warwickshire, on October 2nd, was a 'double purpose' performance. Rung on the eve of the harvest festival, it was also a wedding peal for Miss Lily Sprigg and Mr. William Malabon, whose marriage took place earlier in the day at Stoke Church, Coventry. The bridegroom has been a ringer at Shilton since 1925, when the bells were installed.

The peal of Cambridge Surprise Maximus rung at Ipswich on Oct. 9th was first arranged on Sept. 18th, Mr. R. H. Brundle's 86th birthday, but had to be postponed, as he met with a bicycle accident in August, from which happily he has now practically recovered.

It was rung as a birthday compliment to him, also on Mr. F. J. Tillet's 70th birthday. Mr. Tillet rang the tenor to Treble Bob Maximus on his birthday in the year 1888, and is still 'going strong.'

It is believed that Miss Sylvia Bowyer has set up a lady's record for one year on tower bells, this being her 25th peal this year.

In connection with the peal at Buckfast Abbey the following statistics may be interesting:—

Number of bells employed	12
Weight of tenor	41½ cwt.
Number of ringers engaged	12
Weight of back six (aggregate)	11½ cwt.
Total miles travelled, approximately	4,750
Total years of ringing experience	500
Number of pints of draught Bass consumed	*

* Unascertainable.

The peal was rung on the birthday of Mr. Fred Walker, of Birmingham, son of the conductor. Several other members of the party also seemed to be celebrating a birthday.

The marriage of Miss Joan Kingdon, of Brede, Sussex, and formerly of Woking, to Mr. R. McCull was celebrated by a peal of Bob Minor on the bells of Brede Parish Church on October 9th, and the excellence of the ringing brought compliments from local residents. Miss Kingdon and her sister, before removing to Brede, rang at Worpleston Parish Church, Surrey.

A peal of Bob Major, rung on the back eight at St. Mark's Church, Worsley, Lancs. on October 9th, was Mr. J. B. Ridyard's one hundredth peal for the Lancashire Association. The ringers, who included two from Standish and two from Coppull, were afterwards hospitably entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Yates, to whom the band wish to extend their best thanks.

The band at Evershot, West Dorset, rang the first peal in 14 methods (Doubles) for the Salisbury Diocesan Guild on the five bells at Lillingston, Dorset, on October 2nd. This is a distinctly meritorious performance. Three extents of each of the methods were rung, and it was, of course, the first peal in 14 methods by all the band.

During a visit to his native Norfolk, Mr. Fred Seager, of Keighley, Yorks, and formerly of Tibenham, rang three peals, at Redenhall, Pulham and Diss, the New Cambridge at the last-named tower being his one hundredth peal for the Norwich Diocesan Association.

The peal at Lanchester, Co. Durham, on October 2nd, is believed to be the first on the bells, which have been in the tower for over 50 years. They were rehung by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank early in this year. The peal was specially arranged for the conductor, Mr. Kenneth Archer, while home on leave.

Believed to be the first peal in seven methods on the bells at St. Edmund's Church, Assington, Suffolk, seven 720's were rung on Saturday, October 2nd, by members of the St. Andrew's Guild, Earls Colne.

WARWICKSHIRE GUILD.

PRESENTATION TO RECTOR OF CHURCH LAWFORD.

The September meeting was held at Church Lawford on Saturday, September 18th, and, in spite of the wet weather, was well attended. The beautiful little ring of six (tenor 8 cwt.), recently rehung and augmented by the famous Loughborough firm, were raised about 3 o'clock, and various methods of Minor and Doubles rung until tea time.

The Rector and about 30 members, including wives and friends, sat down to tea, after which the Ringing Master thanked the Rector on behalf of the Guild for his kind invitation to Lawford and asked him to accept a framed card, written by Mr. C. H. Webb, recording the first 720 of Minor rung on the bells.

After tea the tower was again visited, and touches in various Minor methods up to London Surprise were rung until 7.45, the bells then being lowered in peal.

A social hour was spent at the White Lion, selections of handbell tunes being rendered by Mr. Webb, his son and daughter, and Mr. J. B. Fenton. The Rector and churchwardens were present and an enjoyable evening was spent.

LINCOLN DIOCESAN GUILD.PRESENTATION TO FORMER BRANCH SECRETARY.

The half-yearly meeting of the Northern Branch, held at Metheringham on Saturday, October 2nd, was well attended, between 50 and 60 members being present, representing 13 towers spread over the four districts of the branch, and non-resident members from Barnby-in-the-Willows, Notts and Treeton, Rotherham. The light ring of eight were kept going during the afternoon and evening to a variety of methods. The service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. C. W. Smith), who, prior to an interesting address, gave the members a hearty welcome. Mr. T. Cullingworth presided at the organ.

Tea was provided in the Church Room followed by the business meeting presided over by the president of the branch, the Ven. Archdeacon Parry. The formal business was quickly disposed of, Epworth being chosen for the next half-yearly meeting.

An interesting event was the presentation to Mr. F. S. W. Butler, late hon. secretary, of a wallet containing £11 subscribed by the members of the branch.

The President, in making the presentation, spoke of the very efficient way Mr. Butler had carried out the duties during his 14 years in office and referred to difficulties existing when he took over, which were ably straightened out by him.

Mr. J. A. Freeman, Branch Ringing Master, and Mr. F. W. Stokes, Guild general secretary, also spoke of the conscientious work done by Mr. Butler.

A letter from Mr. Rupert Richardson, Guild Master, was read, paying tribute to Mr. Butler's valuable services and expressing a wish that they would have him with them at their meetings for many years to come.

Mr. Butler, who was very warmly applauded, thanked the members and said he did not feel he deserved any reward for what had been to him a 'labour of love.'

Votes of thanks to the Vicar of Metheringham for all he had done, to the president for presiding, and to all who had in any way contributed to its success, brought an enjoyable meeting to a close.

A TWELVE-YEAR-OLD RINGER.

Denis Scott, aged 12, of Darley Dale, Derbyshire, rang his first quarter-peal at the first attempt when he piloted the treble through 1,260 of Oxford Bob Triples on Sunday, October 3rd, for the harvest festival morning service at St. Helen's Church. All the band were local ringers: Denis Scott 1, Robert Allsop 2, H. E. Taylor 3, H. W. Gregory 4, B. Allsop 5, Ron Allsop 6, G. H. Paulson (conductor) 7, R. Benton 8.

VARIETY AT COOKHAM.HAPPY OXFORD GUILD MEETING.

The East Berks and South Bucks Branch of the Oxford Diocesan Guild held a monthly meeting at Cookham on September 25th. To a visitor the gathering seemed to typify the real spirit for which ringing guilds were created. The good fellowship between the young ringers and the 'old hands' set the wheels of progress rolling.

Variety is the spice of life, so they say, and it certainly proved so at Cookham, for everyone called for his favourite method, and rang it (44,005 of them), and though 6, 5's at backstroke do not appeal to all, things ended happily.

Tea, that important item, was well and truly served by mine host of the Royal Exchange. The members were pleased to welcome Uncle Joe Hawkins. They got to look for him at these country places, but on this occasion forgot to inquire what he had done with his fellow-hikers.

A short interval of handbell ringing with the help of Mr. J. Truss added more variety, and on the return to the tower the bells were half-muffled in respect for the memory of a local choirman.

The next meeting is suggested for Hughenden on October 30th. This is a chance for those hikers who appreciate the glories of the autumn in the Chiltern beech woods.

ESSEX ASSOCIATION.

A very pleasant meeting of the North-Western Division of the Essex Association was held at Epping Upland on the eve of the harvest festival. The Vicar (the Rev. Rubie) officiated at the service and also accompanied the singing. Afterwards he conducted those present round the fine old church and pointed out its interesting and historical features.

Tea was generously provided by the Misses Marters in the garden room adjoining the churchyard. It was a pity there were so few to share the hospitality, although perhaps the weather was partly to blame.

The District Master presided over the usual business meeting, at the commencement of which tribute was paid to two old district members who had passed away, viz., Walter Hobbs, of Harlow, and John Prior, of Stansted.

It was decided to hold the next meeting at Wendens Ambo on the first Saturday in November.

A vote of thanks was accorded to the Vicar for the use of the bells, and to the Misses Marters for providing such a bountiful tea.

The towers represented were Bishop's Stortford, Harlow, Harlow Common, Sawbridgeworth, Roydon, Walthamstow, Loughton, Barley, Hertford, Sawston and the local company.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

We understand that Mr. W. T. Cockerill is retiring this year from the office of hon. secretary of the Ancient Society of College Youths, which he has filled so ably for nearly fifty years.

So great is the demand for tickets for the Lancashire Association's dinner at Blackpool on October 30th that it has been found necessary to transfer it to the Imperial Hydro, North Promenade.

It is hoped that the talented handbell band from Watford will be at Hillingdon on Saturday and ring during the social which is to be held in connection with the joint meeting of the Middlesex Association and Oxford and Ladies' Guilds.

Regular practices will be resumed at the Church of St. George the Martyr, Southwark, from 8 to 9.15 p.m. on Wednesdays, from October 20th.

We regret that owing to pressure on our space we have had to hold over our usual article for beginners, as well as several reports of meetings and outings.

THE START OF STEDMAN.

SUGGESTED CHANGE.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—May I humbly suggest that one way of marking the 300th anniversary of the Ancient Society of College Youths would be to make a change in the start of Stedman.

I suggest that the first row after rounds should be the first row of a 'six' from now onwards, instead of the fifth row as it is at present.

It would be very interesting to know the views of members of the Exercise on this point.

H. MILES (Oxford University Society).

'NEGLECTED' WIFE SEEKS ENLIGHTENMENT.

To the Editor.

Sir,—My husband is one of those who neglects his wife on Saturday afternoons (and at other times as well) for peal ringing. He said, when I asked him recently whether all this peal ringing was necessary to improve the standard of ringing for Sunday service, that it was.

I then asked him, if that were the sole reason, why do some of the most enthusiastic peal ringers never ring for service? Why do ringers have long faces when they lose a peal?—my husband is an example—as it would be immaterial if it were done to improve the Sunday ringing. But he would not give me an intelligent answer.

Is it not true that the amassing of a large number of peals by individuals is really self-glorification, or is it conceit? Can someone enlighten me?

'RINGER'S WIFE.'

THE 'PEAL' OF LIFE.

RINGING PARSON'S ANALOGY.

A meeting of the Stockport Branch of the Chester Diocesan Guild was held at Marple on October 2nd. The day was a fine autumn one, and the bells, cast in 1731 by Rudhall, were sending their cadences over the surrounding dales very soon after three o'clock, touches in several methods being rung prior to the service. The Guild form was used, as usual, and was conducted by the Rev. G. E. Bottomley (curate). The lesson was read and a short talk given by the Rev. F. Bonner, a ringing member of the branch. He took as his text Numbers x., 10. He likened life to a peal and pointed out that the co-operation and comradeship to be found in the belfry could be well extended to all walks of life. The individuality of each person was as necessary as were the different notes of a peal of bells, and just like a peal of bells, if all co-operated together, life could be quite as harmonious as the music which goes forth from our towers. Another point he made was that whilst we are ready to submit our wills to an earthly conductor for three hours or so, how many of us are willing to submit ourselves to the greatest conductor of all, so that He may order our lives, Who alone can correct the trips we make in life and keep us in our true course?

Tea was served in the Parish Hall, and 61 members and friends enjoyed an excellent meal. The usual business meeting followed, under the chairmanship of the Rev. G. E. Bottomley, supported by the branch chairman, Mr. W. Wolstencroft.

The Chairman welcomed the branch to Marple on behalf of the Vicar, who was unfortunately unable to be present, as he was attending the induction of the new Dean of Chester. He himself had only been in the parish a few days and had had no experience of ringers' meetings, but he hoped the members would make themselves welcome and that he would meet them all on many occasions.

The secretary gave a short report of the proceedings at the annual festival for the benefit of those members who were unable to attend. Three new members, all from St. Peter's, Ashton, were elected.

Votes of thanks were extended to the Vicar and wardens for permission to hold the meeting, to the Rev. G. E. Bottomley for his services, to the organist, the ladies who prepared the tea, and also to the Rev. F. Bonner for the excellent address.

This concluded the business of the meeting, and the members then adjourned to the tower for further ringing until a late hour, the methods ranging from Cambridge Surprise to Grandsire Doubles.

SIXTY-FIVE YEARS MARRIED.

RINGER'S CONGRATULATIONS FROM KING AND QUEEN.

Celebration at Newent.

The whole Exercise will join in congratulating Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Williams, of Newent, Glos., upon celebrating the 65th anniversary of their wedding. They were married at St. Mary's Church, Cheltenham, on October 8th, 1872, and have a family of four: one son and three daughters. Both Mr. and Mrs. Williams are 84 years of age and are in the best of health.

Mr. Williams served 32 years in the Gloucestershire Police Force and is still affectionately known to many friends as 'the Sergeant.'

In 1891, Mr. Williams went to Newent in charge of the Newent Petty Sessional Division, where he remained for 12 years up till his retirement.

At the last Police Court he attended before his retirement he was presented by the chairman of the Bench with a testimonial and a purse of £50 which had been subscribed by the townspeople of Newent.

After his retirement from the Police Force he was appointed school attendance officer for the Newent district, and remained in this post for 19 years.

One exciting incident in his police career is worth recalling. In 1887, while Mr. Williams was a sergeant in Gloucester, information was received that a dangerous gaol-breaker had taken the keys from a warder in Brecon Prison and escaped.

This notorious character made his way to Gloucester, and, while posing as Capt. King and holding a service in the Salvation Army Barracks, he was arrested by Mr. Williams after a severe struggle.

King had previously escaped from several prisons in the North, and when he was brought before the Bench he had to be handcuffed. Mr. Williams was complimented and awarded £5 for having courageously made the arrest.

Mr. Williams, who has rung nearly two hundred peals, has also been a member of the choir at Newent for nearly 45 years.

OLD RINGING FRIENDS JOIN IN.

Last Friday's great event was celebrated with enthusiasm. In addition to a family gathering many of 'the Sergeant's' ringing friends were present. The bells of the Parish Church, a peal of six, which had not been rung since Easter, owing to their condition, had nevertheless to work overtime on this occasion. The intention was to ring a peal of Minor, but the 'go' was too much like donkey work for the full peal, and 720's were therefore rung, as well as Grandsire and Stedman Doubles. Six of the 'old boys' who did most of the ringing were J. Austin, aged 74; John Clark, 74; J. W. Jones, 72; J. Davies, 70; S. Romans, 68; and C. Sadler, 61; the total age of the six being thus 419 years.

Telegrams of congratulation, including one from the King and Queen at Balmoral, poured in during the day. There were so many that the stock of the special forms at the Post Office was exhausted.

The guests numbered 40, including the former Vicar of Newent, the Rev. A. T. Lowndes, now Vicar of Compton Abdale, and the Rev. N. E. Hope, Vicar of Chedworth, the latter taking part in the ringing in the afternoon.

At the afternoon reception a reproduction of the original wedding cake was cut and the health of both proposed. The general rejoicing, which included the use of the handbells in change ringing and tune ringing, was kept up until a very late hour, several of the party not reaching home until the small hours. Mention must, of course, be made of the fact that the usual course of Triples, four in hand and sitting back to back, was rung by J. Austin and 'the Sergeant.'

The ringers who took part will have happy recollections of the day and hope to repeat it on the occasion of the 70th anniversary.

DEATH OF A GILLINGHAM RINGER.

On Saturday, October 2nd, Mr. Edwin Friend, the secretary of the Gillingham (Kent) band of ringers, died somewhat suddenly. Although he had been indisposed for several weeks, he had only been absent from work for just over a week.

'Eddy' had been a member of the Gillingham band of ringers for about 33 years, as well as a member of the choir for 40 years. He will always be remembered by those with whom he came in contact for his quiet and very friendly manner.

On Thursday evening, October 7th, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples was rung with the bells half-muffled by Messrs. Hone, Easter, Poulter, Allen, Shellock, Walker, Norris and Harmer, and on the Sunday following, for the evening service, with the bells half-muffled, touches of Grandsire Triples were rung by Miss Fooks, Messrs. Easter, Figgess, Poulter, Hone, Harris, Shellock and Cubitt.

MR. JOSEPH WILLIAMS.

NORWICH DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

PROPOSED ENTRANCE FEE FOR NEW MEMBERS.

The last meeting of the year of the West Norfolk Branch of the Norwich Diocesan Association took place at King's Lynn on Saturday, October 2nd, when representatives were present from Dersingham, Fakenham, Gaywood, Gressenhall, Swaffham and the local band. Other members of the association were present from Fincham, Norwich and Wymondham. Touches of Stedman Triples, Bob Major, Treble Bob Major and Double Norwich Major, Bob and Treble Bob Royal were rung during the afternoon and evening at St. Margaret's tower.

At the business meeting Mr. H. R. Heyhoo (chairman of the branch) was supported by Mr. W. J. Eldred (branch secretary), Mr. Nolan Golden (general secretary and treasurer), and Messrs. R. W. Cooke and J. A. Godfrey (members of the committee).

It was decided to hold the annual meeting for the election of officers on January 1st, 1938, at Fakenham.

Mr. N. Golden referred to the decision to include a record of all the ringing done on Coronation Day in the report of the current year, and the decision of the Standing Committee to adopt a badge.

It was resolved that new members on election should pay an entrance fee to cover the cost of a certificate and a badge in addition to the current year's subscription.

Mr. C. S. Tuthill (Fakenham) remarked on the fact that the flourishing town of King's Lynn had two rings of bells in need of attention and thought something might be done to remedy this unsatisfactory state of affairs.

Thanks were accorded the curate-in-charge, the Rev. E. H. Lister, who conducted a service, and Mr. Hill for his services at the organ.

SOUTH NORFOLK BRANCH SUPPORT.

Meeting at Bergh Apton on Saturday, October 9th, the South Norfolk Branch endorsed the proposal for an entrance fee for new members. Over 30 members took part in the ringing of Plain Bob, Kent and Oxford Treble Bob, Oxford Bob, Double Court, Cambridge and London Surprise on the six bells and also at the neighbouring church of Brooke.

A service was conducted by the Rector, the Rev. A. St. J. Heard.

After tea at Thurton George and Dragon, the business meeting took place. In the absence of the branch chairman, Mr. W. L. Duffield, Mr. A. L. Coleman was voted to the chair. He was supported by Mr. A. G. Harrison (branch secretary), Mr. N. Golden (general secretary and treasurer), Messrs. E. G. Bennett, C. J. More and E. Whiting (members of the committee) and representatives from Diss, Pullham, Redenhall, Saxlingham and Winfarthing. Other branches were represented by members from Halvergate, Norwich, Norton Subcourse, Reedham, Wroxham and Wymondham.

Mr. N. Golden spoke with regard to the proposal to include a list of all ringing done in the diocese on Coronation Day in the current year's report, and appealed to all tower masters or secretaries to send in details of the performances that day at their respective towers. So far, he said, the response had been very poor.

Details of the badge to be adopted were then given by Mr. Golden, who explained his design.

In support of the West Norfolk Branch's resolution with regard to an entrance fee, it was unanimously resolved 'that in the opinion of this meeting new members on election should pay an entrance fee to cover the cost of a certificate and badge, in addition to the current year's subscription.'

The annual meeting for the election of officers was fixed for January 15th at Diss.

The Rev. A. St. J. Heard was elected an honorary member, and the belfry election of Mr. F. W. Adcock, of Lowestoft, was ratified.

The Rev. A. St. J. Heard was thanked for his services, and Miss M. I. Hepburn for officiating at the organ. Mr. H. C. Boggis, leader of the local band, which, incidentally, turned up in full force, gave much help in making the arrangements for the meeting.

STEDMAN'S BELLS.

MORE USE NEEDED.

The annual meeting of the Ely District of the Ely Diocesan Association was held at Cambridge on Saturday, October 2nd, when there was a good attendance of members from the district and other branches, an encouraging sign being the attendance of a number of young ringers from some of the newly-formed bands in the district.

Ringing commenced at St. Bene't's Church at about 3 p.m., service also being held there, conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. N. Davey), who also took the chair at the meeting which followed in the vestry. In welcoming the ringers, the Vicar of St. Bene't's said he was proud to be connected with a church which held such a unique place in the history of ringing.

At the meeting the district secretary and committee were re-elected for the ensuing year.

After tea further use was made of the bells. Great St. Mary's bells were also available during the evening.

The interior of St. Bene't's has been redecorated and restored during the incumbency of the present Vicar, while as to the bells, despite various rumours that have appeared at times, no complaints were heard at this meeting. Although the writer makes no claim to any knowledge of the subject, his opinion is that the bells only want to be made more use of.

ST. MARTIN'S GUILD.

NEW VENUE FOR JOHNSON DINNER.

Ideal weather favoured the members of St. Martin's Guild when they held their autumn quarterly meeting on Saturday, 2nd inst., at the ancient Warwickshire village of Coleshill. The Parish Church stands at the top of a hill, and its tower and spire are a well-known landmark for miles around. Good use was made of the bells both before service and again in the evening after the business meeting, the methods rung ranging from Grandsire Triples to Cambridge Major. The Guild's special service was conducted by the Vicar, who also gave a very interesting and helpful address.

Between 40 and 50 sat down to tea, which was admirably served by ladies connected with the church.

The business meeting followed, at which the Master, Alderman J. S. Pritchett, presided. He thanked the Guild for the honour they had done him in ringing a peal of Stedman Cinques on the occasion of the celebration of his golden wedding day. Such an honour had never before been paid to a Birmingham citizen, and it would be many a long day before another would be similarly honoured. To know that he had the esteem of his fellow-ringers, such an esteem as prompted them to devote an evening to attempting a peal in his honour, was most gratifying to him. He was particularly grateful to Mr. W. H. Barber for having conducted the peal; he had rung with him many times, the first occasion being when he (Mr. Barber) was 14 years of age.

It was decided to hold the Henry Johnson Commemoration Dinner as usual next year. The hon. secretary reported, however, that it would be impossible to hold this at the Imperial Hotel as in former years, as it was definitely closing at the end of this year. The choice of a suitable room was very limited, but he had succeeded in securing the White Horse Restaurant No. 1 room for Saturday, March 5th, 1938, and he felt sure the proprietors would put on a good dinner. This arrangement was confirmed.

The next dinner being the 50th, Mr. G. F. Swann proposed that the Master, Alderman J. S. Pritchett, should preside. This was seconded by Mr. A. Walker and supported by Mr. Paddon Smith. Although the Master pointed out that he was getting old and his health might not permit him to attend, the resolution, on being put to the meeting, was carried unanimously.

The Master expressed his thanks for the honour conferred on him and promised to do his best not to let them down.

The tower election of Mr. J. W. Davidson, of Newcastle-on-Tyne, as a life member was duly ratified.

The next meeting being the annual, it was resolved to hold this at headquarters as usual. The bi-quarterly meeting was fixed for Northfield on Saturday, November 13th.

A hearty vote of thanks to the Vicar for the use of the bells and for his address in church, to the organist who accompanied the service, and to the ladies who served tea, concluded the business.

'NOISE' OF CHURCH BELLS.

ESSEX VICAR'S VIEWS.

The Northern Division of the Essex Association had a very enjoyable meeting at Witham on Saturday, September 18th, when 52 ringers and friends, representing 21 towers, took advantage of the ideal afternoon. The bells were going soon after 2 o'clock, first for a wedding and then the meeting, and continued with the exception of a break for service and tea until 9 p.m. Service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. B. E. Payne). In his address he welcomed the ringers and said they gave one of the most useful services to the church.

'For many years,' he continued, 'I had to endure a noisy one bell clanging, similar to a school bell. How different to listen to a good peal of bells.'

'Some complain about the noise of the bells when steps are being taken to abate other excessive noises, but as long as I am at Witham and you ring out your message on a Sunday, I am going to allow that noise to continue and very much so. It will be a very sad day for this country when bells are rung no more.'

Tea, at the Church House, was presided over by the Vicar. The district secretary (Mr. F. Ridgwell) said the charge made for the tea was very small and would not nearly cover the cost. They had to thank Miss Ayre and others who had made contributions towards the tea, and also the ladies who had kindly prepared it.

BENEVOLENT FUND SUGGESTED.

At the business meeting the District Master (Mr. A. Saunders) presided. The Vicar was unanimously elected an hon. member amid applause.

The annual meeting for the division is to be held at Bocking early in November.

A hearty vote of thanks was accorded the Vicar for the use of the bells and his inspiring address, also to the lady organist for her services.

The Vicar, in reply, said he was very much surprised and delighted to be elected an hon. member.

Mr. J. Chalk suggested a Benevolent Fund for the association, and after his explanation it was agreed to raise the question at all district annual meetings, so that opinions could then be brought forward at the annual meeting of the association next year.

During the afternoon and evening touches in various methods up to and including London Surprise Major were rung.

DEATH OF OLD RAUNDS RINGER IN U.S.A.

ONE OF THE 'FATHERS' OF THE PETERBOROUGH GUILD.

Many of the older ringers, and particularly those of Northamptonshire and Bedfordshire, will learn with regret of the death of Mr. Fred Gilbert at Kalamayoo, Mich., U.S.A., at the age of 71 years. He died on September 20th in hospital after a short illness.

Born at Raunds, Northants, he early began his ringing career there on the then six bells, and was one of the foundation members of the Raunds Ringing Society, when it was formed at Whitsun, 1883. He rang in the first peal of the society, one of seven methods, on September 26th, 1883, the band being George Kirk 1, Fred Gilbert (age 17) 2, W. J. Gilbert 3, W. Hall (age 19) 4, J. Wilmot 5, Henry Stubbs (conductor) 6.

The Raunds Ringing Society later became the Raunds, Wellingborough and District Society, then the Central Northants Association and finally the Peterborough Diocesan Guild.

A ringer and conductor of no mean ability, Mr. Gilbert rang almost a hundred peals, and, on his leaving the country, was presented with a gold medal by the Central Northants Association, which, at that time, presented them to members who had scored 100 peals for the association. Although Mr. Gilbert's total fell just short of this number, he was awarded the medal on his departure in recognition of his services.

His last peal was one of Bob Major on handbells in Peterborough Cathedral shortly before leaving the country.

Younger brother of the late William J. Gilbert, he married the only daughter of the late George Kirk, and thus became the brother-in-law of Mr. Frank Kirk, of Raunds, and uncle of Mr. Francis Kirk, of St. Albans.

A shoemaker by trade, he emigrated to America in 1911, and except for a short visit in 1915, never returned to England, but throughout the whole of this period he closely followed the ringing activities through 'The Ringing World,' and nothing delighted him more than to see the names of his relatives or ringing friends of bygone days appearing in this paper. Throughout last summer he was daily looking forward to having one of the gramophone records of the spliced handbell ringing, and news has been received that it arrived about a month before his fatal illness.

He leaves a widow and one son, his other son having been killed in the war.

GATHERING OF THE CLANS AT LEYTONSTONE.

ESSEX, HERTS AND MIDDLESEX ASSOCIATIONS AND LADIES' GUILD.

The annual gathering arranged jointly between the Essex, Herts and Middlesex Associations and the Ladies' Guild was held at St. John's Church, Leytonstone, on Saturday, October 2nd. Many members, representing all four of the societies, attended including Mr. E. J. Butler (district secretary) and Mr. A. Prior (District Master), Essex Association; Mr. W. H. Lawrence (district secretary), Herts Association; Mr. A. W. Coles (Master), Mr. C. T. Coles (joint hon. secretary), Mr. G. W. Fletcher (vice-president) and Mr. T. J. Lock (District Master), Middlesex Association; and Mrs. E. K. Fletcher (general secretary) and Mrs. R. F. Deal (vice-president), of the Ladies' Guild.

The ringing before service was in the hands of Mr. A. W. Coles, and many touches in all sorts of methods were rung.

The service was attended by some 60 ringers. The service was conducted by the Rev. E. W. Rowbotham, of St. John's, and an interesting address was given by the Rev. Guy Warwick, Vicar of St. Luke's, Leytonstone.

Tea, prepared by Miss Miller, daughter of the late Mr. William Miller, was served in the Church Hall. With over 60 sitting down, after less than half that number had sent in their names, it was surprising that there was enough food to go round, but eventually everybody was satisfied—at least, it appeared so. If there were any otherwise, the blame belongs to those who did not send in their names!

There was no business meeting, but Mr. E. J. Butler proposed a vote of thanks to the Vicar, Canon Brown (who was unfortunately prevented from attending), for the use of the bells; to the preacher and curate for their services; and to Miss Miller and friends for preparing tea.

This was supported by Mr. C. T. Coles, Mr. W. H. Lawrence and Mrs. E. F. Deal, on behalf of the members of their respective societies, and carried with applause.

Mr. Coles took occasion to remind those present that the two trebles at St. John's were recently placed in the tower by the Exercise as a memorial to that great ringer, William Pye, for 25 years Master of the Middlesex Association. St. John's, Leytonstone, was thus a most appropriate place for a meeting of that description, and it was sincerely hoped that many more would be held.

Afterwards there was further ringing, under the guidance of Mr. Alfred Prior, and, whilst there were several touches, including one of Spliced Surprise, by mixed hands or bands composed of mere men, an excellently struck course of Cambridge Surprise Major was rung by eight members of the Ladies' Guild—just to show that they are now 25 years old, and grown up, we suppose!

BUCKFAST ABBEY.

FIRST PEAL ON THE NEW BELLS.

In a beautiful setting in the upper part of the Dart Valley in Devonshire stands Buckfast Abbey, the home of a community of Benedictine monks. Centuries ago the Order occupied a monastery there, but at the dissolution in 1539, the building was dismantled and the occupants driven from the country. The Abbey completely disappeared from the face of the land.

Nearly 350 years later, in 1882, another community of the same Order reoccupied the site, started excavating the ancient foundations, and upon it, by their own hands, have raised a magnificent new building. Following the ground plan of the former structure, it reproduces the transitional style of the Norman and Early English period, is 240ft. from west to east and 62ft. in width across the nave and aisles. A massive central tower, the last part of the church to be completed, dominates the building, the crowning glory of which are the bells, which were placed there in 1936.

In 1910 a peal of twelve bells, with two semi-tones, cast by Warner and Son, were solemnly blessed under the shadow of the ancient Abbot's Tower (the solitary relic of former magnificent buildings). They were the generous gift of the late Sir Robert Harvey, of Dunderidge, near Totnes, as a memorial to his deceased wife, the late Lady Alida Harvey, and a few days after the ceremony were hoisted to the top of the Abbot's Tower, where they remained for ten years. Eventually they found their way to the uncompleted central tower of the Abbey Church. They were hung by Aggett and Sons, of Chagford, and on Christmas Eve, 1920, were chimed for the first time in their new abode.

BUCKFAST ABBEY.

The tower is not yet quite finished.

Before the tower was completed the old ring hung on the floor of what is now the ringing chamber, and were rung from a narrow stone gallery 51ft. from the floor of the Abbey. In October, 1930, the late William Pye took a band there and scored a peal of Stedman Cinques under these difficult ringing conditions.

Following the solemn consecration of the Abbey Church in 1932 by a Cardinal Legate, it was decided that the tower must be finished, and the Builder Brothers, who had already laboured incessantly for 25 years, resumed their work. A large bourdon bell was promised them as a reward, and this occasioned the recasting of the old bells. This was carried out by Messrs. J. Taylor and Co. at their Loughborough foundry and magnificently have they completed their task. The giant bourdon weighs 7 tons 9 cwt. 18 lb. and strikes the lower F. It was the gift of Miss Hilda de Trafford in memory of her sister, Lady Mildred Bellew, who died on December 29th, 1934, and is named 'Hosanna.'

The old bells with a tenor of 28 cwt. have been transformed into a noble peal with a tenor of 41 cwt. 1 qr. 3 lb. in C, and these are hung on one level round their big brother. The two semi-tones provide a variety of 'peals,' including three major eights.

The new bells, which bear the names and inscriptions of the old ring, were blessed according to the official rites of the Church on March 25th, 1936. So much for the history of the modern bells of the Abbey.

ONE OF THE PRIZES.

A peal on Buckfast Abbey bells may well be counted one of the prizes of a ringer's career, and the band who last Saturday rang a peal of Stedman Cinques on them valued their opportunity and success by this measure. The 'official' record of the peal will be found in its appropriate column, but in view of the wide area from which the company was drawn, it may be not uninteresting to readers to give a list of the ringers and the places from which they came: J. S. Goldsmith (Woking, Surrey), A. Walker (Birmingham), C. T. Coles (Walthamstow, Essex), P. W. Perrons (Coventry), G. R. Pye (Romford, Essex), G. P. Swann (Birmingham), R. Richardson (Surfleet, Lincs), W. A. Cave (Bristol), F. E. Porvin (Coventry), A. P. Smith (Birmingham), E. P. Duffield (Colchester, Essex), J. H. Shepherd (Swindon, Wilts). Six of this band took part in the peal of 1930.

The majority assembled in Exeter on Friday evening, and completed the journey to Buckfast on Saturday morning, having first renewed acquaintance with the interior of Exeter's grand old Cathedral, with its unbroken roof of fan vaulting from west to east, a feature which one of the party duly impressed upon all and sundry.

Arriving at Buckfast, the company were welcomed by Mr. Aubrey Bennett, who had been instrumental in getting permission for the peal attempt, and were joined by Mr. T. Laver, hon. secretary of the Devon Guild. Three ladies were also of the party—Mrs. Walker, Mrs. Coles and Mrs. Richardson.

Altogether the ringers spent five hours in the Abbey tower. The first hour was occupied in raising the bells (the front eight being pulled up in peal), adjusting ropes and waiting for the termination of a service. The ringing chamber is still in an unfinished state, but the noise of the bells just overhead has been admirably modulated by the provision of a sound-deadening ceiling. At present the walls are in their rough state, and there is no glass in the window openings, but some of these are boarded up to resist the noise of the bells. When the chamber is completed the conditions in the tower should be perfect with regard to sound. The circle is not a particularly good one, as the necessity for hanging the 14 bells round the bourdon has resulted in 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6 being hung in a straight line. The eleventh on the other side of the big chamber looks isolated, and the tenor is rung from a platform that stretches across one side of the ringing room.

However, the small difficulties thus presented did not prevent an excellent peal being rung in 3 hours 47 minutes, the only anxiety to the conductor, caused by a slow start, being whether the peal would be finished by the stipulated time, 6.50 p.m. He, however, speeded up his team by just sufficient acceleration to bring the bells round with three minutes to spare.

Some of the monks were the first to congratulate the ringers upon their success and fine ringing, and each member of the band was presented with a souvenir in the shape of a charm bearing the image of St. Benedict.

Later on, round the dinner table, Mr. Albert Walker thanked Mr. Bennett for all the trouble he had taken in making arrangements, and asked him also to convey the warmest thanks of the visitors to the Father Abbot for permission to ring and to other members of the Community for the welcome extended.

Then the party gave themselves up to celebrating the event by a 'musical' evening, in which handbells played a part. About 1 a.m. one of the company courteously said to the hostess, 'I hope we are not keeping you up.'

The visitors—except two who had vanished immediately after the peal in order to get home the same night—dispersed on their various long journeys next morning, not only gratified with their success, but also happy in the reunion of old friends which it had brought about.

The bells of the Abbey are rung by the monks for the principal services on Sundays. Usually eight are used, but sometimes ten. They have not yet got as far as using the twelve in peal. There are some 16 or 18 Fathers and Brothers who can handle a bell, but the 'call' changes which they produce are rung from a stand, on which numbers are interchanged by another Brother, who rings a small handbell, when the ringers have to start upon the new change.

LONG SERVICE.

WORKMEN HONOURED BY MESSRS. JOYCE AND CO.

'The world's oldest clockmakers,' Messrs. J. B. Joyce and Co., of Whitechurch, Salop, who have been carrying on business for the last 300 years, are happy in possession of a staff whose senior members have spent their working lifetime with the firm. The skill, experience and technical knowledge thus accumulated goes into all the work of the factory and have helped to make the products of J. B. Joyce and Co. world famous.

The firm have established the happy practice of presenting souvenirs of long service to those who reach their jubilee, and recently two members of the staff received gifts on qualifying with 50 years' loyal service. They were Mr. George E. Beddow and Mr. John Green. The former chose a 'grandmother' clock and the latter a gold watch. Both timepieces were suitably inscribed and were presented by Mr. Arthur Mayhew, chairman of directors.

Among other employes with long service are Messrs. A. V. G. Ladds (manager), 39 years; James Thelwell, over 40 years; Hugh Langford, 35 years; Tom Briscoe, 33 years; William Millington, 32 years; Norman Joyce, 31 years; Cedric Batton, 20 years; and James Beddow, son of Mr. George Beddow, 19 years.

Among the foreign orders received just recently by Messrs. J. B. Joyce and Co. is one for a four-dial illuminated clock, with Westminster chimes and five bells weighing 30 cwt. for the Municipality of Ahmedabad, India, and another for a four-dial tower clock for the Dr. Gahine Memorial, at Belize, British Honduras, Central America.

A COLLEGE YOUTH'S BIRTHDAY.

MR. TOM GROOMBRIDGE IS 70.

The 70th birthday of Mr. Tom Groombridge, sen., has been celebrated by two peals, one at Crayford on the eve of the anniversary, in which his two sons took part with him, and the other on the new ring of bells at the Church of the Annunciation, Chislehurst, on 'the day.'

The peal at Crayford was rung for the College Youths, of which Mr. Groombridge has been a member for 40 years or more, and of which he is a Past Master. Mr. F. M. Mitchell, who also took part, is another Past Master, and Mr. E. H. Oxenham a former steward. It is believed to be 50 years since the last College Youths' peal was rung in this tower.

The peal of Cambridge Surprise at Chislehurst, where Mr. Groombridge has been instructing a new band, was rung under the auspices of both the Kent Association and the College Youths and was conducted by Mr. Groombridge.

After the peal the ringers were met by Mr. E. A. Young and two of the local band and taken by father Tom to the 'Albany Corner House,' where they were all entertained by Mrs. Groombridge, sen., to a very nice tea, to which ample justice was done. Handbell ringing was indulged in, and great interest was shown in the display of prizes won by Tom, when a trifle younger and no mean athlete. Sincere thanks were accorded to Mrs. Groombridge, sen., for her kindly thought, and to Mrs. Groombridge, jun., for her share in contributing to an enjoyable evening. The proverbial but none the less sincere wish of 'many happy returns' was coupled with the promise that (D.V.) the ringers would return in 1942 for a 'repeat' performance.

It is interesting to note that three generations of the Groombridge family are active members of the Ancient Society of College Youths.

KENT RINGERS VISIT CROYDON.

Tunstall, Sittingbourne and Queenborough ringers united in an outing on September 4th and were favoured with perfect weather. The party were picked up at intervals on the early stages of the journey, until the coach was finally filled at Maidstone with a party of 32, while the old Riley came along in the rear with an overflow of Spice. Sevenoaks was first visited, but unfortunately no ringing was possible owing to the bereavement of one of the church officials, whose son had met with a fatal air crash. Nevertheless, a pleasant hour was spent. Some made the ascent to the top of the tower to enjoy the view; the church was inspected and the model tidiness of the churchyard admired. At 10 a.m. the party were off again to Croydon, where they paid a visit to Messrs. Gillett and Johnston's foundry. They were welcomed by Mr. Stevenson, who conducted them over the factory and explained the many interesting works in progress. Mr. Spice, on behalf of the party, thanked Messrs. Gillett and Johnston and Mr. Stevenson. Ringing at St. John's Church followed. Some rounds were rung on this fine twelve and afterwards Stedman Caters. After lunch ringing took place at St. Peter's Church, where the visitors were met by one of their old friends, Mr. David Wright, and others of the local company, who assisted in ringing some of Mr. Lou Head's fancy touches of Stedman Caters and some Plain fare. A very pleasant run through lovely scenery brought the party to the picturesque village of Shoreham, where the light peal of eight was made good use of in a variety of methods. Tea and a 'social' at Ye Olde George followed, and then handbells on the green brought the villagers to their doorsteps to listen. At Wrotham another good 'ring' on a musical peal was enjoyed. Tunstall was safely reached at 9.45, after a most enjoyable day, with everyone satisfied with the arrangements made by Mr. W. Spice.

DON'T SCRUB YOUR HANDS!

skin this simple way*

To many people, the problem of getting the hands really clean without harming the skin is a serious one. Grease and grime, which become deeply ingrained into the pores of the skin, are extremely difficult to remove, and ordinary washing with soap or even scrubbing will fail to remove them completely. Housewives, particularly, who complain that their hands get ruined by the nature of their work, will find the preparation called DERMAFOAM, a real "godsend." DERMAFOAM just smoothes away dirt and grease without effort. It gets right down into the pores and removes every particle of grime, leaving skin beautifully supple and healthy.

Men, too—when you've finished that dirty job on the car, DERMAFOAM will quickly banish all grease and oil from your hands. It acts almost magically—working under and around the nails and into every minute crease, removing all trace of dirt in a flash.

Engineers, Painters, Car Mechanics, Printers — everyone — will welcome DERMAFOAM, the modern method of cleansing and protecting the hands.

THE LADIES' GUILD JUBILEE.

To-morrow the Ladies' Guild celebrates its silver jubilee, and the good wishes and congratulations of the Exercise will go out to the members upon this auspicious event. When the ladies set up their organisation in 1912 there were doubts among many ringers, not so much whether the numbers justified the action, as whether they could make their operations effective, in view of the fact that they were few and far between. In those days ladies had only just begun to penetrate into the belfry, and they were, it was thought, already catered for in the existing territorial and diocesan associations. But the ladies had courage as well as faith, and they have proved that their optimism was justified. In these twenty-five years their numbers have grown nearly tenfold, and they have made for themselves an established place in the organisation of the Exercise.

It may be as well to recall the declared object of the Guild when it was founded, for it is an indication of the serious purpose which the ladies set before themselves: 'To encourage ringing among church workers as a spiritual, mental and physical exercise; to assist, when and where necessary, their brethren in the art of ringing; and to bring into a closer relationship all women and girl ringers in the kingdom.' Despite the handicap of a comparatively sparse membership spread over the whole country, the link formed by the Guild has certainly drawn the ladies into closer association and enabled them to co-operate as a body with other organisations. No one can deny the valuable services which ladies have rendered in many towers, not only in the war period but since, and those—and there are still a few—who are inclined to resent the presence of ladies in the belfry, are probably those who have not had the difficulty of keeping the bells going for service through depletion of man power. There are cases where the introduction of ladies has saved bands from virtual extinction and, even if the recruiting of this new material has not been due to the Guild, its existence must be an influence with many ladies when they contemplate entering the art. That there is a Ladies' Guild is one proof that bellringing is an occupation which they can becomingly take up.

The continual growth of the Guild is evidence of its vitality, but no organisation of this kind can flourish without a great deal of unselfish labour on the part of the enthusiasts. Ever since the Guild was founded, Mrs. G. W. Fletcher has been the hon. secretary. Hers was the leading spirit in its formation; and she has served it not only with loyalty, but with skill and success throughout the twenty-five years. Others, in varying capacities and for shorter periods, have rendered service which has been invaluable to the Guild, but Mrs. Fletcher has carried the burden of the chief executive office throughout the whole of its life, a record for which the members, we are certain, are deeply grateful. Hers has not at all times been a thankful task, for the handling of such a scattered team is not always an enviable one, but the main success that has been achieved has been due to her perspicacity and guidance. Ringers to-day will unite in wishing the Ladies' Guild continued prosperity.

FOR BEGINNERS.

FROM CALL CHANGES TO HALF-PULL RINGING.

We referred in our last article to the great importance of gaining bell control before a beginner proceeds to half-pull ringing.

When there are one or two learners who are practising with a competent band, the time spent in reaching this stage ought not to be unduly long. The difficulties arise when a young band are endeavouring to teach themselves. They will need patience and regular practice and should seek any help they can get from neighbouring ringers.

When they are able to strike rounds and call changes well, they can go on to half-pull ringing, but should not attempt to do so before they can strike accurately. The better they can 'strike' the easier they will find it to ring changes, because nothing confuses a beginner more, when he is endeavouring to find his next to strike over, than two other ropes coming down together.

There will be very few readers of these notes who do not understand what 'call changes' are, but in case there are any such, we would explain that these are changes 'called' by the conductor. Usually he changes the positions of one pair of bells at a time by telling them each which bell to pull over next, and when this has been done they go on ringing in the same order until the next alteration is made.

What happens to one pair of bells at intervals in call changes happens to as many pairs as possible at every pull when 'change ringing' is done, but while in the former the ringer may have several whole pulls after one bell and thus, if he has ears, the opportunity of improving his accuracy before he is moved again, in changes he has got to find the exact position for his bell at each pull on the rope, and, in addition, instead of being told which bell to pull over, he has got to find it for himself.

Here is one way in which a young band can approach change ringing, after having learned to manage their bells successfully in call changes. Instead of advancing all at once to half-pulls, they can change with the next bell at every whole pull, trying it at first by returning, at each alternate whole pull, to the previous position. Thus suppose they are ringing rounds on six bells, they can have alternate whole pulls (that is handstroke and backstroke), in the order 2 1 4 3 6 5 and 1 2 3 4 5 6.

They can do this for a time until, at each handstroke, the change is cleanly made all round. This accomplished, they can then do the same thing by making the change at backstroke and completing the whole pull at handstroke.

This will give them experience in making the change both ways of the rope.

From this stage the next should consist of whole pull ringing while changing with the next bell opposite to the one that the previous change was made with, so that if, in the first, 1-2, 3-4 and 5-6 respectively change, producing 2 1 4 3 6 5, in the next 1-4 and 3-6 change producing 2 4 1 6 3 5. At the following whole pull all three pairs will change, that is 2-4, 1-6, 3-5, and following this two pairs 4-1 and 6-3. If this is continued systematically the bells will come back into rounds in twelve changes. If the beginner can work these out on paper for himself, changing three pairs and two pairs alternately, he will see what happens.

One advantage of beginning by ringing this in whole pulls is that it gives the learner more time to get his new position and pick out the next bell he has got to change with. He will learn that when he has to put an additional bell between himself and the lead he must hold up a little longer—a fraction of a second—because more bells have to strike round before his comes in; while, as he gets nearer the lead, he has to pull in a little quicker to maintain the beat, because there is one less bell to strike before his own.

In going from the lead upward he will probably have no difficulty in finding the bell he will strike after at the next change, because it is following him in this one. But coming back to lead it is not so easy to see the next bell he will strike over, because it is, in a sense, hidden by two others which are striking in between. If, however, he can see the total number of bells in front of him, in other words, see that he is pulling after five or four others (or whatever the number may be), and if he then ignores the one he is striking over and pulls in a trifle quicker to place himself over the last of the others which have been below, he will have found the bell he wants. If he has not been quite accurate at the first blow, he can further correct his position at the next before having to move again. That is the advantage of beginning by ringing these simple changes in whole pulls.

When this can be done, so that the movement is not only understood by the ringer, but the ringing itself is good, then the young band can take the first step in half-pull ringing by putting this 'method' into practice in the proper way, and changing position at both handstroke and backstroke.

It is a good thing not always to ring the same bell at these practices, but to take a different one at different times. It gets one used to making allowance in the striking for bells of different sizes. There is more 'space' required in striking a small bell over a large one than in striking a large one over a small one, assuming that they are all correctly clappered. But sometimes a bell may not be evenly clappered, and then it is that the beginner must most particularly use his ears.

PEAL NOTES.

PEOPLE AND PERFORMANCES.

The ring of six at Glaston, Rutland, were augmented in honour of the Coronation, and the first peal—one of Grandsire Doubles—was rung by the local company. On October 11th the first of Minor was rung on them, and the band wish to thank Mr. and Mrs. King for their hospitality afterwards.

The bells at Glaston are rung from the floor of the church and the ringers stand between the nave and chancel (as is also the case at Somerby, Leicestershire). Glaston tower, with its short stone spire, is very quaint and originally had a small saucer bell for the clock hanging from the south light of the spire outside. This bell now adorns the Rector's lawn, reversed as a flower pot! The clock was dated 1739. Eyre, of Kettering, made bells of this shape, and this is, therefore, also the probable date of the bell. It was too dark after the peal for the conductor (Mr. Ernest Morris) to note any inscription.

The peal at St. Mary's, Nottingham, recorded in our last issue, was Mr. Ronald Salter's first peal of Stedman and a birthday compliment to his mother, Mrs. F. A. Salter, and to Mr. George E. Foster. It was also Mr. F. A. Salter's 150th peal and they all received the hearty congratulations of the band.

Kent Treble Bob Maximus has now been added to the methods rung on the new twelve at Croydon, and in it six of the local men rang their first peal of Maximus. The peal, recorded last week, was a welcome to the new Vicar, who succeeds the Bishop of Lichfield in the incumbency. Croydon, surrounded by the Diocese of Southwark, is an isolated part of the Diocese of Canterbury.

Police-Supt. F. R. Williams, of Manchester, president of the National Guild of Police Ringers, took part on September 29th in a peal of Grandsire Doubles at Culworth, Northants, rung as a farewell to the Rev. Canon Hill, for 39 years Rector of the parish. It was the first peal on the five bells and the first peal by three of the band. The details appeared in our last issue.

The bells of Poynton, Cheshire, were installed in 1887, but it was not until Saturday, October 9th, that the first peal was rung on them. They have recently been rehung by Messrs. Taylor and Co. The peal was Spliced Treble Bob Minor in 17 methods.

The Rev. Frank Bonner took part in the peal. On the preceding Saturday he preached to the Stockport Branch of the Guild, and his homely address consisted of an analogy between a peal and life.

The first peal on the bells at Wickwar, Glos., was rung on Oct. 12th, in three methods of Minor. For five of the six ringers it was the first peal in more than one method, while two of the band rang their first.

On the occasion of the visit of the Duke of Kent to Birmingham on October 13th a peal of Kent Treble Bob Major was rung at Hallowborne. The Duke's visit was in connection with the sixth annual conference of the Hospital Contributory Scheme.

Incidentally it may be mentioned that Mr. James George, who will be 84 next month, rang the tenor. Well, boys will be boys!

The Sunday service ringers at St. James' Church, Church, Lancs., scored a peal of Double Norwich on October 9th, when two of the band rang their first peal in the method. Eric Brunton, one of the rest of the band, is only 15 years of age. The peal was recorded last week.

A peal of Cambridge Surprise and Treble Bob Minor at Willingham, Cambs., on October 8th, was rung as a farewell to the Rector, Canon A. C. Hair. The peal details appeared in our last issue. After the peal Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Gleaves entertained the ringers. Mr. Gleaves and the conductor, Mr. P. Warrington, have rung 125 peals together.

Mr. Gordon Clifford Goodson, a member of the band at Claverley, Shropshire, was married on September 29th to Miss Rosamond Mary Swift, of Claverley. On October 12th a wedding peal of Grandsire Triples was rung for them.

A peal of London Surprise Major, rung at Framsdon, Suffolk, on October 11th, was arranged for Mr. David Vincent, of Altrincham, Cheshire, and was Mr. L. C. Wightman's 400th peal.

In honour of the birth of a daughter to Mr. Leonard Williams, of Stagsden, a peal of Minor in seven methods was rung on October 9th.

What is the meaning of the mystic letters, 'P.G.', after the name of Miss Sylvia Bowyer, in the report of a peal of Minor at Sproughton? Surely they do not mean 'Peal Grabber'! Miss Bowyer has rung more than 25 peals this year, ranging from Minor to Maximus.

A birthday compliment to Mr. W. Townsend, Ringing Master at Leckhampton, Cheltenham, the peal of Stedman Triples rung at that church on October 9th was also in honour of the 65th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Williams, of Newent. We referred to this auspicious event in our last issue.

Mr. W. Oakey, who rang his first peal of Triples, in this performance at Leckhampton, is leader of the ringers at Badgeworth, Glos.

The tenor in the peal at Alsager, Cheshire, on October 9th, stood in at almost a moment's notice, and the rest of the band extend their thanks to him.

Mr. Fred Dexter, one of Leicester's most popular ringers, rang his two hundredth peal of Surprise when he took part in a peal of New Cambridge Royal at Loughborough Parish Church on Saturday.

This peal was also Mr. R. F. Elkington's two hundredth for the Midland Counties Association. Such a double 'double' needed a double celebration.

WHAT HAPPENED TO THE UMPIRE?

A handbell peal of Grandsire Triples at Hinton-on-the-Green, Worcestershire, on October 16th, was specially arranged for Mr. F. S. Wilson, of West Lavington, Sussex, who formerly resided at Ludlow.

The other three members of the band were Mr. J. D. Johnson and two of his sisters. Mr. John Thomas was the official umpire of the peal, but he was only present during the first and last four-parts of Parker's twelve-part. He was missing during the rest of the performance, and investigation into his movements during this interval traced him to various garages and eventually to a football match at least three miles away. John must have even better ears than we suspected to hear the bells at that distance.

A peal of Double Norwich Major was rung at Burton Latimer on October 16th as a welcome to the Rector (the Rev. R. W. Sharpley). It was also a birthday compliment to Mr. J. Saddington, whose son took part in the peal.

All the ringers, except the conductor, in the peal of Plain Bob and Grandsire Doubles at Norton, Worcestershire, on October 16th, were members of the local band, two of them ringing their first peal. It was the first peal on the bells since they were rehung by Messrs. Taylor and Co.

The peal of Kent Treble Bob at Hythe, Kent, on October 16th, when Mr. T. E. Sone called another of Mr. Arthur Knights' compositions (No. 327) for the first time, was the conductor's 275th peal. Of this total he has called 190.

The peal of Superlative at Wicken on October 9th was rung as a birthday compliment to Mr. Ralph Foddy. The composition, by G. Lindoff, is published in the Peterborough Diocesan Guild's report for 1932, peal No. 474.

The first peal of Major on the bells at Sowton, Devon, was rung on Saturday, October 9th. It was arranged to enable Mr. W. H. Howe to ring a peal at his native place and as a welcome to Mr. Clifford Vessey, who has gone from Notts to reside in Devon.

ANSTEY BOYS' PERFORMANCE.

On Sunday, October 17th, for evensong at St. Mary's Church, Anstey, Leicestershire, a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples was rung: Jack E. Adams 1, J. Terry Smith 2, Mary L. Disney 3, George E. Bowler 4, R. S. William Smith 5, Alban Disney 6, Redvers F. Elkington (conductor) 7, Eileen H. Cufflin 8. It was the first quarter-peal by ringers of 1, 2 and 4, who are aged 15, 13 and 14 respectively and started to handle a bell only nine and a half months ago. This is believed to be the first quarter-peal ever rung on the bells by an entirely local band.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION.CANTERBURY DISTRICT'S INCREASE OF MEMBERSHIP.

The annual meeting of the Canterbury District of the Kent County Association was held at St. Dunstan's, Canterbury, on October 9th.

Ringling took place at the three local towers, St. Stephen's, St. Alphege and St. Dunstan's, in the afternoon, and the association's service held in St. Dunstan's, conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. A. E. Miller), the lesson being read by Mr. E. Trendell.

Tea, provided by the association, was served in the Parish Hall, the 83 members present being presided over by the Vicar.

Owing to a long standing promise made by the Vicar, he was prevented from staying to the meeting, but before he left he was heartily thanked for the use of the bells, for conducting the service and for all the help he had given in making the day a success.

Mr. E. Trendell was voted to the chair. The secretary's report and balance sheet were read and adopted. The report showed an increase of 41 members over the previous year, the total of honorary and practising members in the district reaching the total of 291. The number of towers in union had increased from 28 to 30, the total receipts in the district amounted to £32 10s. 6d. and a balance was shown of £26 4s.

The district secretary (Mr. B. J. Luck) was re-elected, as were the district representatives, Messrs. F. G. Brett and H. Whitehead. The former was also re-elected Ringing Master.

Faversham was chosen as the venue for the district's spring meeting, St. Peter's, Thanet, for the summer meeting, and Wickham-breaux for the next by-meeting.

Votes of thanks were passed to the organist and to the ladies who had so splendidly looked after the wants of all during the tea.

RINGERS' WIVES.To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—In reply to 'Ringer's Wife,' I, too, am a neglected wife, with regard to peal ringing, but I am very pleased to think that my husband is interested in such a splendid hobby. When he is ringing I can always be sure he is in good company, for where can be found a more friendly atmosphere than in the ringing chamber.

Recently I entertained a party of ringers who had come some distance to ring a peal, but after several attempts had to own they were defeated. Were there any long faces? Not so, one couldn't have wished to be in the company of a happier party, and all were determined to have another try. They even went so far as to say there wouldn't be half so much pleasure in ringing if they won every peal. That's the spirit for 'ringers.'

Miss Dorothy L. Sayers, authoress of 'The Nine Tailors,' is among the guests attending the Ladies' Guild silver jubilee dinner at Audertou's Hotel, Fleet Street, London, on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Wolstencroft, of Ashton-under-Lyne, were on Saturday the recipients, at the hands of the Lord Bishop of Manchester, of long service medals for Sunday School and parochial church work. The presentation took place in Manchester Cathedral, and afterwards a peal of Bristol Surprise was rung at Mottram-in-Longdendale in their honour.

The older generation of ringers will recall that in 1906 a new Treble Bob Major record was set up at Mottram, a peal of Kent, 16,800 changes in length, being rung there by the Chester Diocesan Guild.

The bells of St. Peter's, Beunemouth, which have been recast by Messrs. John Taylor and Son, of Loughborough, will be rededicated on Saturday, November 20th, at 3.30 p.m. by the Bishop of Winchester.

The Rev. J. M. Turner, Vicar of Moulton, Northants, who was instrumental in getting the bells at his church renovated and augmented to eight, has taken the incumbency of Washfield, near Tiverton, Devon.

At the annual meeting of the Over Society (Cambs), Mr. F. Warrington was elected captain and Mr. C. Robinson vice-captain for the coming year. Mr. A. J. Ginn, with no less than 45 ringing years and 25 years as captain, has resigned, but will assist as occasion arises.

The Bristol United Guilds will return to the Grand Hotel, Bristol, on January 15th, 1938, for their annual dinner. Mr. Donald Marsh (Coalpit Heath) will be chairman.

Mr. E. Guise will attend the tercentenary dinner of the Ancient Society of College Youths to represent the Bristol United Ringing Guilds. Twelve or more Bristol ringers will attend. There will also be a considerable contingent from Birmingham.

There was a record attendance of 160 at the Yorkshire Association's dinner at Leeds on October 9th, commemorating Jasper Whitfield Snowdon and past officers. The detailed report of the proceedings reached us too late for this issue and will appear next week.

Mr. F. E. Dawe, who has devoted nearly as many years to rifle shooting as he has to bellringing, has carried off the Ross-Patrick Cup of the City Rifle Club at Bisley ranges. A fine performance at 75 years of age. It involved shooting at ranges up to 600 yards.

FALSE PEALS OF STEDMAN CINQUES.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—It has been pointed out to me that a peal of 5,005 Stedman Cinques, called by me at Surfleet on July 31st last, is false. This composition is Mr. Arthur Knights' No. 37, and was then rung for the first time. The repetition occurs in the first six of the peal, which starts with a slow six, bobbed, and the first six after the course-end 413256 in the tittums.

Similarly Mr. Knights' No. 36 is also false. This peal was called by me at Lincoln Cathedral on September 5th, 1936, and was published in the Lincoln Diocesan Guild report for last year.

In withdrawing these peals, may I express my sincere regret to all who took part in them, especially those who travelled very many miles to do so.

STEDMAN.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I read your leading article on Stedman with interest. To my mind, it is not a fact that nothing is to be gained in Stedman Doubles by departing from the usual start. If we keep to it we can only get 10 six-scores with two singles only, but if we use the other five starts we can get 60.

The reason for what you term the strange start is, to my mind, quite obvious. If you divide the principle up into twelves, instead of only sixes, all twelves are symmetrical, a point that Stedman would be keen upon. With any other start it is not so.

E. BANKES JAMES.

Seafeld Park, Fareham.

A SYMMETRICAL PRINCIPLE.

Dear Sir,—I beg to submit that there is nothing strange about the start in Stedman. It is true that the method can be divided into Quick and Slow sixes, but my candid opinion is Stedman knew what he was about and believed in symmetry.

One of the Central Council's arbitrary definitions enforces symmetry in methods, then why not in principles? 'What is sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander.'

I have not the least doubt that Stedman knew that he had produced a symmetrical twelve with coursing order division heads and ends, five twelves are sixty, the extent of the method without singles, and I sincerely hope the Exercise will never permit any alteration in the start of the principle from the way in which the author produced it.

INSTRUCTING BEGINNERS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—When I wrote the article on the above subject in your issue of Sept. 24th I expected (as I said at the time) that a number of people would disagree with my views. From the letters which appeared in the following issue, I gather that amongst these are numbered Mr. W. Shepherd and Mr. F. E. Dawe. But is there really any need for them to be quite so rude about it? Have we come to such a pass that no one who is too young to have rung peals at every cathedral in the country is to be allowed to express his views in your column, without being accused of 'thrusting his ideas down other people's throats'?

We are often reminded of the difficulty these days in persuading the younger generation to become interested in bellringing, and it is sometimes said in reply that when they do take up the art they do not receive much encouragement from the older hands. This may only be true in certain isolated cases, but the tone of the two letters mentioned above is certainly not calculated to encourage the 'young practitioner'!

And as for this argument—if such it can be called—that Grandsire must be the best method to teach first, because certain instructors used to do so 50 years ago, this sounds to me suspiciously like the old cry, 'It must be right because grandfather did it,' which, to say the least of it, is never very convincing. The point is, did these men select Grandsire as the first method to teach after careful thought as to the possible merits of other methods, or was it because it never occurred to them to start their pupils on anything else?

It would seem that Messrs. Shepherd's and Dawe's vision has been so blinded with rage at the audacity of one of my tender years daring to express an opinion not shared by them, that they have been able to read into my article certain passages which somehow or other failed to appear in my copy. Where, for instance, does Mr. Dawe find the sentence in which I 'advocate startling learners in the discordant jangling of the unmusical Surprise methods'? And perhaps Mr. Shepherd would point out where I showed my aversion to Grandsire Triples as a method. What I did say was that I had not found it so good as Bob Major or Minor for giving a beginner a real grounding in the essential elements of good change ringing, and I gave my reasons for forming this opinion in some detail and after considerable thought. Mr. Shepherd, on the other hand, is content to state baldly that 'it is beyond question that Grandsire is the best method, etc.', but I notice that he does not attempt to substantiate this bald statement with a single concrete argument; in fact, I have scanned both his letter and Mr. Dawe's in vain for one word of constructive criticism or the slightest attempt to refute any of the arguments I put forward.

Mr. Shepherd then takes me to task for saying that good leading is obtained with the ears, and he asks, 'Is this all?' The answer is in the affirmative, and I believe that most good strikers will agree with me—even if Mr. Shepherd doesn't.

I am more interested in Mr. Arthur Prince's letter, because he does at least discuss the subject of my article and not its writer. But one or two of his statements seem to call for some comment as follows:—

(1) 'Most instructors teach the same method of hunting up, etc.' Mr. Prince, I gather, is one of the exceptions, considering this a waste of time. But what is his alternative method? If I understand him correctly, he first teaches his pupils to make 2nd's and 3rd's places and then tells them where to pass the treble and when and how to dodge. But he does not tell us how he expects his pupils to carry out these instructions before they have learnt to plain hunt!

(2) 'Learning to strike evenly over the other bells.' The point I was trying to make here was the necessity for finding out by practical observation how much gap has to be left when striking over the heavier bells, particularly the tenor. Mr. Prince says you learn this by ringing Rounds, Queen's, Tittums and Whittington's. Perhaps he will tell us which bell strikes over the tenor in any one of these changes.

(3) 'Learning to lead.' Mr. Prince advocates doing this while No. 2 is in progress, by the most advanced pupil taking the treble. But is this quite fair to the others, who (presumably less advanced) are learning to ring Rounds and Queen's on the other bells? I should have thought that to give them the best chance it would be wiser to put your most competent man—possibly the instructor himself—on the treble. Furthermore, leading on the treble in Rounds is not quite the same thing as leading in changes.

(4) Finally Mr. Prince makes the somewhat curious statement that 'Stedman contains every position known in ringing.' Stedman, like Grandsire, is an excellent method, but I have yet to discover where it contains dodging in 3-4 or 5-6 or striking the tenor in any position, all of which Mr. Prince will surely agree occur in quite a few other methods.

This subject of instruction is, as I feel sure all your readers will agree, one of vital importance; and it seems to me that an exchange of views and results of personal experience—be it long or short—by practising instructors may well prove helpful to those most concerned, and produce something of real value to the Exercise; and possibly, as we are discussing whether the odd or even bell methods are the best to teach first, the evidence of those who have tried both ways will carry most weight. But whatever our views may be, do for Heaven's sake, let us have more concrete argument and fewer vague generalities about 50 years ago, more constructive criticism and less personal abuse.

STEPHEN H. WOOD.

AN ADVOCATE OF EVEN-BELL METHODS FIRST.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—It was with great interest that I read your article on 'Handicaps for Beginners' in your issue of the 24th ult., and also Mr. S. H. Wood's excellent article. May I add it should give many other ringers cause for some hard thinking? I myself have had, during the past 44 years, a fairly varied experience of beginners and can, therefore, claim to be able to express some opinion on the subject. I cordially agree with Mr. Wood that it is far better to teach beginners even method ringing first, for the simple reason the beginner has not always to lead after the same bell, and when the beginner has mastered leading off all the bells in turn it must be easier to have always to lead off the tenor afterwards, although it may sound paradoxical. However, I maintain and always have done that those who learn even method ringing first and odd method ringing afterwards make the best strikers, and that is, or should be, the objective of all ringers.

I am sorely tempted to think that the sentence in your article that the hand, the ear and the eye are all needed, but that the ear is most neglected, is true, and pity 'tis 'tis true. However, to a certain extent I suppose we must grin and bear it.

There is also the point you mention that instructors themselves are sometimes bad or indifferent strikers. That, too, is perfectly true. I can give one instance. Some years ago a certain ringer was engaged by a Vicar in my district to teach a company on six bells, tenor about 7½ cwt., bells in good condition and plenty of opportunity to coach a band. But as the rev. gentleman himself was never a first rate hauler and the instructor was one of the slovenliest handlers I ever met, nothing ever came of it, simply because it was a case of a square peg in a round hole. Further comment is needless.

'INTERESTED.'

STEDMAN RECOMMENDED.

Sir,—I have had a good share of teaching beginners. Stedman is the best method. Leading 'wrong' is as simple to the novice as leading 'right' and the slow work is mastered easier than double dodging. Old Grandsire ringers do double dodging easier than the novices, but cannot manage the slow work any better, if as well.

After showing pupils how to strike handbells, they should be exercised in leading, dodging and place-making; then plain hunting by commencing on four bells and continuing on the successive numbers up to as far as is practicable (leading is thus easily acquired whether from the tenor or not). It should be done progressively—one change at a time—repeated if necessary until the striking-after bell is observed—and when the run-out is reached, start again if the correct order is not remembered. Coursing down can be shown after memorising the running-out has been mastered. If anyone cannot learn this way they never will learn.

Then Stedman! Attempt only a six at a time, then recommence and thus progress by the successive sixes until the whole course is accomplished and a good foundation laid for all methods.

I have had learners who could ring on handbells three methods, viz., Stedman, Grandsire and Treble Bob, before they could properly handle the tower bells.

NORTH STAFFORDSHIRE ASSOCIATION.

YOUTH WANTED AT MEETINGS.

A meeting of the North Staffordshire Association was held at Tunstall on Saturday week. Forty members and friends were present from Burslem, Biddulph, Brown Edge, Cheadle, Draycott, Kids Grove, Kingsley, Lawton, Leek, Longton, Macclesfield, Norton, Newcastle, Stoke-on-Trent, Tunstall and Wistaston.

Tea was partaken of in the Church Institute, where a hearty welcome was extended by the Rev. S. F. Linsley (Vicar). The Vicar of Tunstall has started to ring, and it was encouraging to hear a person talk about Doubles and Triples, knowing that he knows what he is talking about.

A vote of thanks was proposed by Mr. T. Hurd to the Vicar and ringers for the use of the bells. Mr. E. Steele, who seconded, said Tunstall brought back memories of the days when Mr. J. Johnson was secretary of the association. He was not only a good secretary, but a great help to young ringers.

Congratulations were extended by the association to Mr. W. Rigby, of Lawton, who recently celebrated his golden wedding. Mr. W. Rigby suitably replied. He was a ringer at Tunstall many years ago.

Mr. A. D. Steel, Ringing Master for the eight-bell towers, thanked the members for the great co-operation given to him at Uttoxeter, and expressed his desire for better meetings, both in attendance and in the standard of ringing. More of the youth were invited to attend the meetings and the practice meetings to be held on week-nights.

The secretary also hopes Mr. A. D. Steel will have better support at the practices arranged for Surprise ringing.

The next meeting will be held at Burslem on November 13th and not the 6th as previously arranged.

After tea the ringers, at the invitation of the Vicar, attended evensong.

HITCHIN, HERTS.—For harvest festival, a quarter-peal of Double Norwich Major: *W. E. Symonds 1, D. C. Mears 2, W. J. Houghton 3, *E. W. Winters 4, A. E. Symonds 5, C. V. Hare 6, T. Castle 7, L. Fidler (conductor) 8. * First quarter-peal in the method.

MIDLAND COUNTIES ASSOCIATION.

FUNDS CENTRALISED.

A quarterly meeting of the Midland Counties Association was held on Saturday, October 2nd, at Burbage, near Hinckley, and, whether taken as a social, business or ringing gathering, was a great success. Although Burbage is somewhat 'off the beaten track,' a goodly company assembled and kept the eight bells going to various methods, and for a meeting the ringing was remarkably good and well struck.

The committee met in the Parish Room, and, arising from their business, the hon. treasurer reported that all invested funds and bank balance had been centralised and now rested in one bank at Nottingham instead of being scattered as hitherto.

A short service was held in church, conducted by the Rector, the Rev. R. D. H. Pughe, who gave an inspiring address and an instructive talk on the church's history, etc. A retiring collection was made and 17s. 9d. given to the Association Bell Repair Fund. About 60 members and friends afterwards sat down to tea. They were from Burton, Derby, Loughborough, Leicester, Hinckley and Nottingham districts, and a party from Irthlingborough, which included old friends in Messrs. A. Tyler, W. Perkins and others, was also welcomed.

The general meeting was presided over by Mr. E. Denison Taylor (president), supported by the Rector, Mr. W. E. White (hon. treasurer) and Mr. Ernest Morris (hon. secretary).

The President gave a review of the past quarter's peals, which he stated made a very good record, no less than 34 having been rung, but none above Major and none on handbells. He referred to the association's loss by the death of an original member, Mr. Herbert W. Needham, whose obituary notice had recently appeared in 'The Ringing World.' The President thanked the Rector for permission to come to Burbage and for his splendid service in church; also the local band for making this gathering such a success.—The Rector replied in a witty speech.

New members proposed since the last quarterly meeting, viz., 23 ringing, two rejoins, four life, were duly elected.

It was pointed out that the next quarterly meeting was fixed for Repton and would probably be January 15th, 1938.

Local secretaries were asked to prepare a short account of their district activities for inclusion in the next annual report, stating number of meetings held, whether attendance had been good, new members elected, Sunday service ringing and any other items of interest.

This concluded the business and further ringing took place.

BURTON DISTRICT SUCCESSFUL GATHERING.

A very pleasant meeting of the Burton District of the Midland Counties Association was held at St. Peter's Church, Netherseale, on the eve of the Sunday harvest festival.

The Rector (Canon H. E. FitzHerbert) conducted a short service, the lesson being read by the Rev. W. R. L. Jones, curate of Seales. An interesting address was given by the Rev. R. F. Wilkinson, Rector of Ordsall, North Notts, in the course of which he spoke of the encouragement which should be given by older ringers to beginners and reminded them of the high standard of striking which should be maintained for Sunday service ringing.

Tea was generously provided by the Rector of Seales in the Village Hall and was admirably served by the ladies connected to the Church Council.

The Rector presided over the business meeting which followed and read an apology from Mr. W. W. Worthington, J.P., chairman of the district and patron of the living of Seales, who, he regretted to say, was indisposed.

One honorary and one ringing member were elected, and the next meeting fixed for Newhall on November 6th.

Mr. J. H. Swinfield proposed thanks to the Rector for his hospitality and for the use of the bells. This was seconded by the Rev. R. F. Wilkinson, who said he was delighted to be amongst old friends of the Burton and Derby Districts once again. He referred to the beautiful peals of bells within the Burton District, especially mentioning the two peals of eight in the parish of Seales and referring to the restoration of the church and bells at Netherseale.

The motion having been carried with applause, Canon FitzHerbert replied thanking the ladies who had prepared the tea and also those who had assisted in raising the £1,100 necessary for the restoration scheme. He especially mentioned the magnificent grant from the Bell Repair Fund of the Midland Counties Association.

Handbell ringing then added variety to the proceedings, and on the return to the tower the bells were rung to various methods until the hour of curfew.

The towers represented were Burton St. Paul's, Ashby, Appleby, Measham, Overseale, Winshill, Newhall, Ticknall, Ibstock, Rotherham, Derby Cathedral, Derby St. Andrew's, Walsall, Wolverhampton and the local company.

RINGERS' BIRTHDAYS.

At Amersham, Bucks, on Saturday, October 2nd, after a peal attempt had failed, 720 of Cambridge Surprise Minor: R. Smith 1, Miss D. R. Fletcher 2, Miss K. E. Fletcher 3, J. Harrison 4, W. Edwards 5, H. Wingrove (conductor) 6. This was arranged as a birthday compliment to Miss D. R. Fletcher and Miss E. Harrison, also as a 21st birthday compliment to Mr. R. Smith.

A JOINT SOCIAL GATHERING.

FUN AND FROLIC AT HILLINGDON.

Fun waxed fast and furious at the annual social held at Hillingdon on Saturday by the Middlesex Association, the Oxford Guild and the Ladies' Guild. The event attracted ringers and their friends from a wide area and altogether nearly a hundred were present from over 30 towers.

The proceedings began in the afternoon with ringing at St. John's (Hillingdon) and St. Andrew's (Uxbridge) Churches, and a congregation numbering somewhere about seventy assembled in the former church for the customary service. They waited in vain for the arrival of a clergyman, and were meanwhile regaled with organ music by Mr. A. W. Owen, organist of Ruislip. After a quarter of an hour or so, the announcement was made that the service would be abandoned and the congregation filed out. No sooner had they dispersed than the curate (the Rev. B. Barron) arrived. There had been a misunderstanding with regard to the time.

Tea was served in St. John's Hall, Mr. J. A. Trollope (vice-president of the Middlesex Association) presiding, supported by the Rev. B. Barron, Mrs. R. F. Deal (vice-president of the Ladies' Guild), Mr. C. T. Coles and Mr. F. W. Goodfellow (joint hon. secretaries of the Middlesex Association), Mr. A. D. Barker (hon. secretary of the East Berks and South Bucks Branch of the Oxford Guild), Mrs. Barker, Mrs. Coles, etc. The tea was served by Mrs. Goodfellow and lady friends.

Afterwards on behalf of the Vicar (the Rev. A. M. Bashford), the Rev. B. Barron welcomed the ringers to Hillingdon and apologised for the misunderstanding with regard to the service.

CONGRATULATIONS TO THE LADIES.

The Chairman, in congratulating the Ladies' Guild upon their silver jubilee, welcomed them and the Oxford Guild to the Middlesex Association's tower. He said he remembered the time when there were no lady ringers and when a tower-bell peal was first rung by a lady she was regarded by some people almost as a freak (laughter). She was, however, not a freak, but a pioneer (hear, hear). Ringers were afraid in those days that if ladies came into the towers the standard of ringing would go down dreadfully, but he did not think it had gone down very much as a result. Some of the ladies were very good ringers indeed. In the Middlesex Association they were very pleased to have the ladies among them, and they offered the Ladies' Guild their congratulations (applause).

Mrs. Deal, who replied, thanked Mr. Trollope for his good wishes. Years ago, she said, there were mixed feelings when a lady ringer went into a tower, but nowadays the ladies were absolutely certain of a kind welcome from most societies. The Ladies' Guild was delighted to take part again in that joint meeting, and she was sure that the congratulations that had been offered would be much appreciated.

Mr. A. D. Barker supported Mr. Trollope in the congratulations to the ladies and expressed the pleasure of his branch in being able to take part in that joint gathering.

Mr. Coles proposed a vote of thanks to the Vicars of Hillingdon and Uxbridge for the use of the bells, to the Rev. B. Barron for his attendance, to Mr. A. W. Owen for coming from Ruislip to play the organ, to the local ringers, especially Mr. Pratt (captain) and Mr. Smith (steeplekeeper), of St. John's, and Mr. F. Corke, St. Andrew's; also to the ladies, and particularly Mrs. Goodfellow, for preparing the tea.—This was carried by acclamation.

Although the tower bells were rung again after tea, there were a number of gossips, handbell exponents and stage managers who remained in the hall and made it look untidy. Eventually all the party reassembled to find a programme drawn up to last until about 10.30, but after 11 o'clock the company was still clamouring for more! The official programme was launched shortly after 7.30 with a sing-song, led by the Stoke handbell specialists under Mr. A. D. Barker. Later on this trio played more tunes, with all the variations dear to the hearts of tune ringers.

A course of Bob Major was rung on a set of very large handbells. These bells, we were informed, were last rung in 1919 when the late William Pye visited Hillingdon for a peal to mark the peace celebrations.

Several sketches caused much amusement, especially the 'Operation' (a silhouette, with sound and speech effects!) and the 'Secretary-bloke' who had to wait for his wife (most unusual, we believe!). A violin solo skillfully executed completed the individual items.

Various games caused much hilarity to players and onlookers alike. The 'peal grabbers' had a high old time. A competition, arranged by Mrs. Barker, required contestants to draw a slip, bearing the name of a method, from a large pan, and find the corresponding slip, pinned up somewhere in the room. The young and the not-so-young started dashing about the hall in search of peals, and the winner was eventually found to have 'grabbed' nine.

The famous handball competition was contested in no slipshod manner. Spectators saw the 'tough guys' 'sock' into one another in earnest, and each match produced its casualties! Eight teams entered the contest from Cookham, Ealing, Hillingdon (two teams), Ruislip, Stoke Poges and Uxbridge, together with a team of the Tower Snatchers Union (N.U.T.S.). Shortly before 11, Hillingdon 'A' and Uxbridge fought out the final, with the latter fairly easy victors.

Mrs. Goodfellow thoughtfully provided refreshments during the evening and earned the thanks that were accorded to her.

NETHERTON LEADER'S RETIREMENT.LONG FAMILY CONNECTION WITH THE BELLS.

Mr. Albert Prestidge has recently resigned the leadership of the ringers at St. Andrew's Church, Netherton, an office which he has held for 20 years. He has had to give up ringing on account of rheumatism in the hands.

Mr. Prestidge has been ringing at Netherton for 37 years and is the second generation of his family to be connected with Netherton bells. His father, Joseph James Prestidge, and his uncle, Samuel, had learned to ring at West Haddon, Northampton, and in 1870, six years after they came to Netherton, six bells were given to the Parish Church. They at once formed a band and Samuel became first leader of the belfry. His brother afterwards succeeded to the leadership and held it for some years until his death in 1917.

He had taught his two sons, Walter and Albert, and on his death the latter became leader. For years Mr. Albert Prestidge strove to have the old bells recast and rehung and eventually this was done in 1935.

Two sons and two nephews now carry on the family tradition. Mr. Prestidge was always chiefly concerned in maintaining service ringing at the church, but he has rung 28 peals as follows: Bob Triples 1, Bob Major 9 (conducted 2), Grandsire Triples 5, Grandsire Caters 1, Treble Bob Major 8, Stedman Triples 3, Erin Triples 1.

Mr. Alfred Davies, of 19, Crescent Road, Netherton, Dudley, has now been appointed leader of the Netherton band, and applications for ringing, etc., should be sent to him for confirmation by the Vicar.

HUGHENDEN'S OLDEST RINGER.DEATH OF MR. HARRY STRATFORD.

By the lamented death of Mr. Harry Stratford, Hughenden has been deprived of its oldest and one of its most respected ringers. He was 78 years of age.

Ever of a genial disposition, Mr. Stratford was a most regular attendant both at services and practice while his health permitted. Although he had rather more than 60 peals to his credit, he was never an enthusiastic peal ringer, putting service ringing first. He took part in 1894 in the first peal of London Surprise for the Oxford Guild, in which the late Rev. F. E. Robinson also rang, the first peal of Superlative for the Guild, and one of the only two peals of 'Alliance' ever rung, Crawley ringing the other one on the previous evening.

Stedman was his favourite method, and nothing pleased him more than a well-struck quarter-peal.

In addition to his ringing abilities, he was a member of the church choir for a great many years, and secretary of the Church Helpers' Society from its inception down to his death. In fact, any project for the welfare of his beloved church had his wholehearted support, and a former Vicar declared that 'Harry was worth two curates.'

A large and representative congregation attended the funeral to pay their last respect to an esteemed parishioner. The service was fully choral, and a course of Grandsire Triples was rung over the grave, the tower bells afterwards being rung half-muffled. A well-struck quarter-peal of Stedman was rung on the Sunday following by his fellow-members with the bells half-muffled as a tribute to a devoted churchman.

He will be greatly missed at Hughenden. A hackneyed expression, perhaps, but certainly true of Harry Stratford.

DUDLEY AND DISTRICT GUILD.MONTHLY PRACTICES TO BE HELD.

A quarterly meeting of the Dudley and District Guild was held at Enville, near Stourbridge, on Saturday, September 25th, in beautiful weather and with the country seeming to be at its best. Ringing began about three o'clock and later a service was held, at which the Rev. W. F. O'N. Fisher (Rector) officiated and gave an interesting address. Mrs. Fisher kindly presided at the organ.

The Rector kindly placed his study at the disposal of the members for the business meeting. The Rector presided and gave the Guild a hearty welcome to Enville.

It was proposed that the quarterly peal be attempted at Enville, the arrangements being left in the hands of the Ringing Master, the Rector kindly giving his consent to the attempt.

It was decided to hold the next meeting at Old Hill, subject to the usual permission being obtained. Failing Old Hill it was left to the secretary to make other arrangements.

The question of holding a practice night for the Guild and others who might care to attend came in for a lengthy discussion. It was eventually proposed to hold a practice at St. Thomas' Church, Dudley (10 bells) on the first Monday evening in the month. It is hoped that many members will avail themselves of this arrangement so that the practices may be made successful.

Mr. S. J. Hughes proposed and Mr. J. H. Cox seconded a hearty vote of thanks to the Rector of Enville for his kindness and to Mrs. Fisher for the musical part of the service.—The Rector briefly replied on behalf of his wife and himself and said that he hoped to have the pleasure of welcoming the Guild again.

ESSEX ASSOCIATION.MEETING AT RETTENDON.

Although there was not a large muster at the South-Eastern Division meeting at Rettendon on October 9th, those who attended had a very pleasant and enjoyable time. Ringing began at 3 p.m.

Service was conducted by the Rector (the Rev. W. R. Norman), the hymns were accompanied by Miss Meeson, and the lesson was read by the hon. secretary (Mr. H. W. Shadrack).

Tea was served in the Parish Hall, 20 sitting down, presided over by the Rector.

It was announced at the business meeting which followed that the annual divisional meeting would be held at Writtle on November 27th. The Rector said that he and his ringers were very pleased to welcome the association and hoped they would enjoy their visit and the ringing.

Mr. H. W. Shadrack thanked the Rector for allowing the meeting to be held and also for his interesting address.

A vote of thanks to Miss Meeson, to the organ blower and to Mr. Jay and the local band was proposed by Mr. J. D. Buckingham and carried with applause.

After handbell ringing a return was made to the tower, where ringing continued in a variety of methods, with rounds for two beginners who were present, until 9 o'clock.

The following towers were represented: Great Baddow, Broomfield, Chelmsford, Fryerning, Goldhanger, Maldon, Rettendon and Springfield, also visitors from Prittlewell.

RECTOR TO THE RESCUE.

On Saturday, October 16th, a meeting of the North-Eastern Division of the Essex Association was held at Great Bromley, when about 30 members (including five lady ringers) attended from Tending, Mistley, Dedham, Weeley and St. Matthew's, Ipswich. Among other towers represented were Harwich, Colchester, Thorington, St. Osyth's and Ipswich. After a short service, conducted by the Rector, it was found that tea was not obtainable at the usual place, so the Rector very kindly came to the rescue by inviting all to tea at the Rectory.

Afterwards some returned to the tower for more ringing, while others went over to Little Bromley to ring on the four bells there, an unusual experience for the Surprise ringers. These bells were rehung in 1898 and nothing has been done since. They had not been rung for many years until recently, when some ropes were obtained from a neighbouring tower and an enthusiastic member from Mistley had spent some time in oiling and making them ready. Quite a good time was spent here, after which all returned to Great Bromley again, where, during the day, some good ringing took place in methods ranging from Stedman Doubles to Cambridge Surprise Minor.

On the way home some of the ringers were able to have a pull on the fine eight at St. Peter's, Colchester, which were being rung by an outing party.

At the meeting, after some discussion, it was decided to hold the annual meeting again at Colchester in December.

Thanks are due to the gentleman who kindly lent his car and took those without cycles to Little Bromley, although he is not now able to ring.

TWO ASSOCIATIONS MEET.HERTS AND BEDS RINGERS AT LEIGHTON BUZZARD.

Hertfordshire and Bedfordshire ringers held a combined meeting on Saturday at All Saints' Church, Leighton Buzzard. The fine peal of ten were set going to Stedman Caters soon after 3 p.m., and ringing was continued until 4 o'clock, when a short service was held, conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. A. T. Stephens), who, in his address, spoke of the history of bells and described the important part ringers play in the Church's life. He thanked all ringers for the services they so freely gave for the extension of Christ's Kingdom.

After service the whole party (very appropriately) adjourned to the Golden Bell, where they enjoyed a very excellent tea. The Vicar welcomed the ringers from over the border.

Handbells were demonstrated by the experts, spliced Little and Plain Bob Major being splendidly struck. The party then returned to the tower, while a few went to Linslade to try the light peal of eight. On their return, with the help of Mr. Reuben Sanders and others, a grand course of Cambridge Royal was successfully completed, and a course of London Major was well struck. Methods from Grandsire Triples to Little Bob Royal were also in the programme, and a very successful meeting was brought to a close about 8 p.m. It is hoped this may be one of a series of joint meetings of the two associations, and ringers in Bedfordshire look forward to a visit to Hertfordshire.

FIRST QUARTER-PEALS.

CLAINES, WORCESTERSHIRE.—On Sunday, October 10th, for evening service, 1,260 Stedman Triples (Thurstans): E. Wilson (first quarter of Stedman) 1, A. O. Lewis 2, J. Woodyatt 3, G. E. Large (conductor) 4, D. R. Sayers 5, R. W. Sayers 6, R. Woodyatt 7, G. Colley 8. Arranged for A. O. Lewis, of Bromsgrove.

PRODSHAM, CHESHIRE.—At St. Lawrence's Church on October 13th, a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples: Oswald Claybrook 1, William Bibby 2, Norah M. Bibby 3, Cyril Valentine 4, Francis Bibby 5, George H. Randles 6, John E. Bibby (conductor) 7, Thomas Lightfoot 8. First quarter-peal of Stedman Triples on the bells by a local band.

SURREY ASSOCIATION AT LAMBETH. MASTER WELCOMED BACK.

Members of the Surrey Association who attended the North-Western District meeting at Lambeth on Saturday week had the pleasure of seeing their Master, Mr. D. Kenneth C. Birt, back in his accustomed place at the head of the table after his long illness, and took the opportunity of expressing their gratification. Mr. Birt, in opening the meeting, thanked them for their kind expressions of sympathy and welcome and said how happy he was to be back with them once more. 'Coming over Lambeth Bridge this afternoon,' he said, 'I could not help feeling how beautiful Lambeth bells sounded and what a happy contrast they provided to the turmoil of the present day and all that we see going on around us, reminding us as they do of higher and nobler things.'

'Of all the minor arts,' he added, 'I think we may regard the art of bellringing as the greatest and most worthy of encouragement, for we can never really know what people feel or what help we are giving when we ring our bells. In those days of stress and strain I believe that help to be very very real.'

Mr. Birt said he had been asked to convey to the meeting apologies for unavoidable absence from their assistant general secretary, Mr. C. H. Kippin, and their District Master, Mr. D. Cooper, and others who were busily engaged in ringing a peal of welcome to the new Vicar of Croydon. He also extended a hearty welcome to their visitors, amongst whom were the South and West District Master of the Middlesex Association, Mr. Ernest C. S. Turner, and the Guildford District secretary of the Guildford Diocesan Guild, Mr. G. L. Grover; Mr. J. Herbert (Twickenham), Mr. O. L. Ashbrook (Isleworth), Mr. E. B. Hartley (Willesden), and Mr. F. H. Hicks and Mr. C. Brasier (Rotherfield, Sussex).

Three new members were elected—Mr. R. C. Cressy and Mr. Francis P. Gato, of Immanuel Church, Streatham, and Mr. John R. Davison, of Mitcham Parish Church.

There being no further business, a vote of thanks was accorded to the Vicar for the use of the bells, to Mr. W. Hardy for having everything in readiness in the tower and arranging the meeting, and to the ladies for the catering.

A return to the tower was then made, where ringing continued until 7.30 p.m., when evensong was said. Further ringing took place from 8 o'clock to 8.30 p.m., when another happy meeting terminated. The total attendance was 43, representing most of the towers in the district.

DON'T SCRUB YOUR HANDS!

skin this simple way*

To many people, the problem of getting the hands really clean without harming the skin is a serious one. Grease and grime, which become deeply ingrained into the pores of the skin, are extremely difficult to remove, and ordinary washing with soap or even scrubbing will fail to remove them completely. Housewives, particularly, who complain that their hands get ruined by the nature of their work, will find the preparation called DERMAFOAM, a real "godsend." DERMAFOAM just smooths away dirt and grease without effort. It gets right down into the pores and removes every particle of grime, leaving skin beautifully supple and healthy.

Men, too—when you've finished that dirty job on the car, DERMAFOAM will quickly banish all grease and oil from your hands. It acts almost magically—working under and around the nails and into every minute crease, removing all trace of dirt in a flash.

Engineers, Painters, Car Mechanics, Printers — everyone — will welcome DERMAFOAM, the modern method of cleansing and protecting the hands.

FALSE PEALS.

Last week two peals of Stedman Cinques were withdrawn because false compositions had been rung; this week a false peal of Bob Major is similarly withdrawn. Within the last two years conductors have had to cancel quite a large number of peals, because they have used figures which have subsequently been found defective. It is always a matter of regret when performances of this kind are discovered to be worthless, because, in many instances, there have been involved not only the energies of the ringers in the actual ringing, but much organisation and travel. In both the Lincoln and the Surfleet peals many of the band had come from considerable distances, and this makes the disappointment all the greater. In both these peals, and in the one at Eastwood, which is withdrawn to-day, the compositions were by men of high standing among composers, and Mr. Arthur Knights, skilled and experienced as he is in the production of peals, admits, in a letter in another column, that a lapse of memory allowed him to step into a trap which was quite familiar to him.

The work of men of outstanding reputation is so seldom at fault that conductors rely implicitly upon their productions, but the risk is there, and these recent happenings go to show once more that the most reliable authors are, after all, only human, and that there is nothing in peal compositions in which truth can be taken for granted without independent test. It is the eminence of the name which lulls one into a sense of security, for experienced conductors generally take steps to check up the figures of the lesser lights before they call their compositions. But one wonders how many false peals really have been rung and have passed unnoticed.

There are those who think that the discovery of false peals some time after the performance should not invalidate the record, but with this view we cannot agree. It would at once undermine the whole spirit of peal ringing, which, from the very beginning, has been based upon the strict truth of what is rung. To find out years afterwards, as in the case of the long peal of Stedman Cinques at Southwark, that the composition is false, does not detract from the credit of the ringers in putting up a fine ringing achievement, but such a performance cannot rank as a true peal. Neither, in our view, would it be right, when a false peal has been discovered, not to disclose the fact, particularly when the figures of the composition have been published. One of the main purposes of frankly withdrawing false peals is to prevent others ringing them again afterwards, although once the figures have been in print there can be no certainty that someone may not subsequently get hold of them, not knowing of the falsehood, and repeat the performance. There is always that risk. It is quite possible, too, that many false compositions have been rung, and handed on to others, which no one but the composers and those who have called them have seen, and everyone concerned is still in blissful ignorance that there is anything wrong with them. We do not for a moment intend to cast a general slur on unpublished compositions, but when, as we have seen, men of reputation sometimes fail, it behoves all those who call peals by lesser-known composers to take every reasonable precaution to ascertain first of all that the figures are true.

PEAL NOTES.

INTERESTING POINTS FROM PERFORMANCES.

Members of the Surrey Association, conducted by Mr. C. H. Kippin, added to their fine list of peals of Royal by ringing another of London Surprise (No. 3 'version') at St. Peter's Church, Croydon, on Oct. 16th. Messrs. Bill Hewitt and Fred Collins scored their first peal in the method.

With reference to the handbell peal rung at Hinton-on-the-Green on October 16th and published in our last issue, it is interesting to note that in 1915 Mr. F. S. Wilson rang handbell peals of Grandsire Triples and Caters respectively with the late Mr. F. J. Johnson (father of the talented family of ringers) and with the late Miss Ellen M. Johnson, the eldest daughter, so that Mr. Wilson has now rung handbell peals with no less than five members of the Johnson family.

At Lyminster, Sussex, on Saturday, the first peal was rung on the bells since they were returned and rebung by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank.

Mr. T. Law, of Northampton, rang his one hundredth peal on Saturday, and Mr. John H. Cheesman, of Greenhithe, his 150th peal on Crayford bells on Friday.

The peal of Grandsire Doubles at Hampton-in-Arden, Warwickshire, rung by members of St. Edburgha's Society, Yardley, Birmingham, was in celebration of the wedding of Mr. Roland Edwards, a member of the society, and to mark the rehanging of the bells by Messrs. John Taylor and Co.

A peal of Grandsire Triples was rung on the back eight at Worsley, Lancs, on October 20th, as a 'coming of age' compliment to Mr. J. K. Welsby. It was also the birthday of Mr. H. Allred, sen., and the wedding anniversary of Mr. R. Allred. All of them received the congratulations of the rest of the band.

The conductor, Mr. J. H. Ridyard, has now rung every bell in the tower to a peal, and this was the quickest peal on the bells. It was rung in exactly three hours; the tenor is 24 cwt.

Mr. William B. Duncan has now added Hethersett to the list of towers where he has 'completed the circle.'

October 21st was the 26th anniversary of the first peal rung by eight brothers, the Baileys, of Leiston, Suffolk. That peal was Allen P.'s first, and he celebrated it on Thursday week by calling a peal of Stedman Caters on handbells at Stockport.

The Bailey brothers made history by the number of family peals they rang.

Odd-bob peals of Stedman Triples are a rare occurrence now that Maurice Swinfield and the Midland Counties' Wednesday band have ceased operations, but Mr. P. W. Cave called Carter's No. 2 at Halewood, Lancs, on Saturday.

Mr. W. H. Shaker, hon. secretary of the Lancashire Association, has just completed 50 years of ringing, and on Saturday celebrated it by ringing his 150th peal.

In this peal of Stedman Triples, rung at Gorton, Manchester, Messrs. Alfred Barnes and Charles Ollier also took part, and both these have put in over 50 years' service. It was the one hundredth peal together by Messrs. P. Laffin and A. F. Bailey.

Sheila Graham has begun to receive birthday compliments early. To celebrate her first birthday, a peal was rung at Norbury (Hazel Grove), Cheshire, on the twelfth anniversary of the restoration of the bells.

The tenor at Kedington, Suffolk, was recast and the rest of the bells rehung in a new frame and fittings by Mr. R. White, of Appleton. The first peal was rung on them on October 17th.

Mr. Sidney W. Arbon rang his first peal on eight bells on Saturday. It was Kent Treble Bob Major at Debenham, and previous to the peal he had not rung as much as a plain course in the method in the tower.

Mr. Bert Chivers, who took part in the peal, and on the previous Saturday rang in a peal of Minor at Thornham, Suffolk, has only one arm. Despite this handicap, he can strike a bell really well.

Mr. Robert Sperring, of Chester, rang his 550th peal on Saturday when he called a peal of Grandsire Triples. He chose this method as his first peal, rung at Holt, Denbighshire, in 1901, was Grandsire Doubles.

A PEAL OF MAJOR AT ST. PETER MANCROFT

The Rev. C. E. Wigg rang the tenor at St. Peter Mancroft, Norwich, to a peal of Double Norwich Major on October 12th. It is not often, in these days, that this bell is turned in to Major. She weighs nearly 38 cwt.

Members of the Middlesex Association rang a peal of Bristol Surprise at St. Olave's, Hart Street, London, on Saturday, in honour of the silver jubilee of the Ladies' Guild. Afterwards the three married men of the party went on to the dinner held by the ladies in celebration of the event, but it was noted that the five bachelors made their escape from the city as quickly as possible. There were rumours that Kate would be present at the dinner.

The peal of Cambridge Surprise Major at Great Baddow on October 23rd was rung as a compliment to Mr. George Green on his completion of 50 years as a ringer at that church. The peal was conducted by his son. The band was afterwards kindly entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Green.

George Green is a keen and talented ringer, and his jovial manner and his kind and generous disposition has won for him a large circle of friends, who wish him many more years of continued activity in the Exercise.

On the light eight at Chelmsford Cathedral, a peal of Kent Treble Bob Major was rung on October 18th in honour of the birth of a son to Col. Whitmore, Lord Lieutenant of the County of Essex.

A peal comprising 23 methods in seven 720's was rung fully muffled at Disley, Cheshire, on October 18th, as a last token of respect and esteem for Mr. H. Haythorn, a valued member of the local band and of the Chester Diocesan Guild.

Miss Sylvia Bowyer rang the tenor (8 cwt.) to a peal of Minor at Tuddenham, Suffolk, on October 18th, and scored her first peal in four methods as conductor.

Mr. O. E. Carr on October 16th 'completed the circle' at Stoney Stanton with a peal of Grandsire Triples, to which he rang the 7th. The peal was rung on the eve of the harvest festival.

The peal of Stedman Triples at Erith on Saturday was rung after meeting short for Bristol Surprise, Mr. T. Mortimer kindly standing in at the last moment and ringing the tenor.

The first peal on the bells of Chagford, Devon, recast by Taylor in 1914, was rung on Saturday, and was the first peal for the Devon Guild by the Rev. Rhys James, the vice-president.

Chagford was the home town of W. Aggett, who did a lot of bell-hanging in the West in the past generation. He was the inventor of the self-aligning bearing for bells. Though hung on wood by him, with his patent bearings, before the war, Chagford bells go remarkably well.

F. W. Vernon and T. Vessey completed the circle of the tower at Barbury-in-the-Willows, Notts, when they took part in a peal in seven methods of Minor on October 16th.

The Rev. E. C. Pigot, who is hon. treasurer of the Shropshire Association, is retiring from the incumbency of Moreton Corbet after 25 years as Rector. Members of the association rang a farewell peal of Minor on Sunday, October 17th. Mr. Pigot has always taken the greatest interest in ringing and ringers.

A peal of Kent Treble Bob Major at Stow Bardolph, Norfolk, on Sunday, October 17th, was Mr. William Buckenham's fiftieth for the Ely Diocesan Association.

A band from the Dunster Deanery of the Bath and Wells Diocesan Association rang the first peal on the bells at East Anstey, North Devon, on October 16th. The ringers came from Chipstable, Bampton, Milverton and Wiveliscombe.

The ringer of the 3rd in the peal of Double Norwich at Burton Latimer on October 16th was Arthur Bigley and not Bigby as printed.

FIRST QUARTER-PEALS.

YATELEY, HANTS.—For the harvest festival, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples: W. G. Bunch 1, S. Bunch 2, E. Hearman (first quarter-peal 'inside') 3, C. Bunch 4, G. Butler (conductor) 5, A. Goodall 6, S. J. Riddell 7, G. Over 8. Also 504 Stedman Triples with A. Hearman 3 and A. E. Hearman 8, conducted by G. Butler.

BROMLEY, KENT.—At SS. Peter and Paul's Church on Sunday, October 3rd, for harvest festival morning service, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples: B. F. Glaysher 1, C. Mounter 2, P. J. Spice 3, F. E. Pitman 4, I. Emery (conductor) 5, G. Huxley 6, A. James 7, R. Williams 8. First quarter-peal by the treble and tenor men.

HITCHIN.—At St. Mary's Church on October 3rd, a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples: W. E. Symonds 1, H. Else 2, C. V. Hare 3, J. Hare 4, G. Wolfe 5, L. Fidler (conductor) 6, T. Castle 7, A. E. Symonds 8. First quarter-peal in the method by the treble ringer, who is only 14 years of age.

RELIGRAVE, LEICESTER.—At St. Peter's Church for harvest festival on Thursday, September 30th, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples: A. Williams 1, R. Swann 2, H. Martin 3, G. Walker 4, G. Tilson 5, S. Harrison 6, R. Barrow (conductor) 7, H. Woolaston (first quarter-peal) 8.

BROMLEY, KENT.—At SS. Peter and Paul's Church for morning harvest festival service, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples: B. Glaysher (first quarter-peal) 1, E. Mounter 2, P. Spice 3, F. E. Pitman 4, I. Emery (conductor) 5, G. Huxley 6, A. James 7, R. Williams (first quarter-peal) 8. All are local Sunday service ringers.

TEACHING BEGINNERS.

REPLIES TO MR. S. H. WOOD.

To the Editor

Dear Sir,—Briefly, my replies to Mr. Wood's letter are:—

1. 'Method of hunting up, etc.' Returning to the lead after the making of 2nd place or 3rd place, the teaching of 'hunting up' is incorporated in the work which follows, be it Bob Major or Grandsire Triples.

2. No 2 is still my plan to 'learn to strike evenly over other bells, as stated in my letter published in 'The Ringing World' on Oct. 1st.

3. Learning to lead. For my part, I should not be satisfied until each pupil had passed the instruction test of 'learning to lead' by taking the treble, and I should not prolong the instruction by ringing the treble myself. The subject is 'learning to lead.'

4. 'Stedman' is the parent of Surprise methods, and, I claim, can be taught a band more easily than Grandsire.

The one thing which inspired Mr. Wood to write his first article in 'The Ringing World' was to try to find out 'which is the best method on which to start beginners,' and at the moment I cannot agree that a Major method is best. And why do anything to detract from the splendid articles published each week in 'The Ringing World' for beginners?

May I refer Mr. Wood to April 25th, 1925, and ask, was it encouraging and beneficial to greater efforts?

Bath.

ARTHUR PRINCE.

GRANDFATHERS WERE NOT ALWAYS WRONG.

Sir,—Because one happens to disagree with Mr. S. H. Wood and simply gave a few plain facts, in reply to his distorted arguments, he says he is subjected to rudeness and personal abuse. Mr. Wood dislikes being told straight, and in the fewest words, that his article is neither new nor original, and, like a good many other writers in various spheres, drags in the grandfather phrase. Our grandfathers were not always wrong, and we owe much to them for their hard work, enterprise and splendid examples, especially with regard to good striking.

My vision is not blinded with rage, and because I do not choose to write page after page trying to raise arguments, Mr. Wood says there is no constructive criticism. When Mr. Wood puts forth a reasonable argument, I shall be pleased to deal with the subject in a fuller manner. Having stated that he leads only with his ears and nothing more, I need not comment further.

Mr. Wood wants to know where he states his aversion to Grandsire Triples. My answer is, on pages 633 and 634 of 'The Ringing World.' I still say that Grandsire is the best method to teach beginners, and it has been proved beyond question in many ways, if Mr. Wood will only take the trouble to find out. There is no argument about it whatsoever. I would refer Mr. Wood to page 663 of 'The Ringing World,' which will give him some idea of the correct method to teach beginners, and if he requires further information it can be obtained without much trouble. It is not for me to tell him how to get his proofs.

In conclusion, I may say that, having reviewed both letters which are claimed to be rude and abusive, I fail to trace anything of same in either of them, and when devoid of reasonable argument it is easy to state that those who disagree are capable of such measures.

W. SHEPHERD.

BOYS' QUICK GRASP OF STEDMAN.

Dear Sir,—I have read Mr. Stephen Wood's two letters on this important subject with considerable interest. Mr. Wood says he would like to hear results of personal experience in this matter, and I think that an experience we have had at our tower at Anstey, Leicestershire, during the last ten months may interest him. Judging by this experience I should say that, providing you have the right instructor and pupils of average intelligence, Stedman is the best method to start a beginner with.

Last Christmas holidays our Ringing Master, Mr. Redvers F. Elkington, who is well known in Midland ringing circles, started to teach three lads, who are scholars at the Boys' Wyggeston Grammar School, Leicester, and were then aged 12½, 14 and 14½ respectively. On Sunday, October 17th, these three rang in a good quarter-peal of Stedman Triples.

Their method of instruction was roughly as follows: First of all plenty of practice with the 'clapper-stays' on to get them thoroughly master of their bells; then rounds and 'call changes,' followed by 'plain hunting' commencing on four bells. While they were in the 'plain hunting' stage, Mr. Elkington took pains to explain the Stedman method very thoroughly to these three lads, so that when they came to ring it later on they found little difficulty with it.

Mr. Wood's point about even-bell ringing for beginners is an interesting one. These three learners were given a certain amount of 'plain hunting' on six bells, and after having the Kent Treble Bob method explained to them they quickly mastered the Minor and were soon able to ring Kent Treble Bob Major—in fact, two of them had had luck recently as they rang very nearly to the end of a quarter-peal of Kent for the weekday harvest festival service, a 'trip' unfortunately putting 'paid' to it about a course from home. We do not possess any handbells, and all the instruction, therefore, had to be done on the tower bells.

ALBAN DISNEY.

SNOWDEN MEMORIAL DINNER. RECORD GATHERING AT LEEDS.

The annual dinner in commemoration of past officers of the Yorkshire Association was held at the Leeds and County Conservative Club on Saturday, October 9th. This was a new venue. Whether the change had anything to do with the size of the gathering it is impossible to say, but the fact remains that a record number of 160 sat down to the excellent repast provided, a total which left the previous record held by Sheffield far behind. A further gratifying feature was that on this occasion by far the greater percentage of those present were resident members of the Yorkshire Association, so that the usual plea of the president for a greater loyalty to their own association was unnecessary, as indeed it should be.

Amongst those who sat down under the presidency of Canon C. C. Marshall were the Right Rev. P. F. D. de Labilliere (Bishop Suffragan of Knaresborough), the Rev. W. Thompson Elliot (Vicar of Leeds), the Rev. F. J. Lindley (Vicar of Burley), the Rev. C. O. Ellison and the Rev. J. H. Z. Andrews, Messrs. White and West (churchwardens of St. Chad's, Headingley), and Schofield (churchwarden of St. Michael and All Angels, Headingley). Extra-territorial participants included Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Fletcher (representing the Central Council and the Ladies' Guild respectively), Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Shaker (Lancashire Association), Mr. R. Park (secretary of the Durham and Newcastle Association), Mr. N. Park (treasurer of the Durham and Newcastle Association), Mrs. Park, Mr. J. O. Pollard and Mr. J. Reed (president and secretary respectively of the Cleveland and North Yorkshire Association), and Mr. G. W. Park, of Darlington.

After the dinner Councillor E. E. Bullus proposed the toast of 'The Church and State.' In a short and pointed discourse, Councillor Bullus suggested that, although to some disestablishmentarianism might seem the only solution to the reconciliation of the Church and State on certain points, such as had been raised by the new Divorce Act, in which the Church had been placed in an anomalous position, he himself thought, on the contrary, this was a time when there should be a closer unity, and he appealed for support to the Archbishop's recall to religion as an answer to the problems arising from modern conditions of life.

Canon W. Thompson Elliot responded to the toast. He paid tribute to those, such as the president, who had done much to raise and maintain the status of ringing and ringers, and referred to the unique position that bells occupied in the parochial life of England. Indulging in reminiscences, he said he remembered when a proposal to rehang a peal of bells, in which he was interested, was opposed on the grounds that there was no canonical authority for more than three bells in a church and no authority whatsoever for bells to be used for recreative purposes. He was able to say, however, that the peal of bells was restored and no attention was paid to the remarks of the objector to the enterprise.

Regretting that even to-day there are two classes of ringers, the one going to service after ringing and the other going to drink beer, he hoped that (whilst again he had no canonical authority for saying this) ringers would come to regard themselves as being members of a minor order of church ministers. He concluded by wishing the association and the ringers themselves success in the work they were doing.

A course of Grandsire Caters was then rung by Messrs. S. F. Palmer 1-2, G. Lewis 3-4, P. J. Johnson 5-6, W. Barton 7-8 and J. Ambler 9-10.

Canon C. C. Marshall then read a telegram which had been received from Mrs. and Miss Snowden, of Carlisle: 'Best possible wishes to this evening's meeting,' and next called upon Mr. P. J. Johnson to propose the toast of the evening, 'Jasper Whitfield Snowden and Past Officers of the Yorkshire Association.'

NOTABLE PAST OFFICERS.

Mr. Johnson said that he considered it a signal honour to be able to propose a toast to those early members of the association, and whilst he had no personal knowledge of Jasper Snowden, he had been associated with many who knew him intimately as a true son of the Church. Yorkshire and the Yorkshire Association were proud of him who did more than any other single man to further the cause of change ringing by his writings. His brother, William Snowden, he (Mr. Johnson) knew well, and he considered that his ability was insufficiently recognised, as he devoted himself wholeheartedly to the propagation of his brother's writings throughout the Exercise.

Other officers known to many included C. H. Hattersley, of Sheffield, a grandson of a former ringer of that town—William Booth. A composer of great merit, Charles Hattersley had left behind in Sheffield belfry a large manuscript collection, as well as numerous books, which was highly treasured by the Sheffield ringers. Referring to Charles Jackson, of Hull, the speaker recalled that he was a good story teller who was prepared to go peal ringing at any time and every time. William Whittaker, of Leeds, and G. Bolland, of Tong, were mentioned for their excellent striking as well as for other virtues, before the speaker passed on to that well-known ringer and conductor, the late Mr. James Cotterell, who was treasurer of the association for many years, and a man of great ability, who commanded the respect of all who met him.

Mr. H. Lofthouse, secretary of the Leeds and District Society, welcomed the visitors and proposed the toast to them. The toast, which was further supported by the president and replied to by the Bishop of Knaresborough and Alderman Bretherick.

'CAMPANOLOGISTS' A HORRID TERM.

The Bishop said that he did not think that he was altogether amongst strangers as, whilst he was not a ringer, he was, what was probably the next best thing, one who has tried, but, after dangling at the end of a rope and then measuring his length, considered that ringing was not his vocation (laughter). He would, however, raise two contentious questions, one from the point of view of an anti-noise association, 'Do bells make a noise or a melodious sound?' He would suggest that the answer to this question would depend mainly on the conscience of the person who was listening to the bells.

The second was whether the use of that horrid hybrid term, 'Campanologists,' should be continued, as it savoured too much of the new-fangled terminology beloved of Americans, and recalled that he was talking to a chauffeur who had returned from Salt Lake City, where he said that he had been driving for a 'mortification.' He suggested, therefore, that this term was unworthy of the ringers of church bells, which had been ascribed with the power of driving away devils as long ago as 1552—work which, he said, they could still do by working on the conscience of the hearer. 'May England,' he concluded, 'long continue to be known as the ringing isle.'

In proposing the toast of the 'Continued Prosperity of the Yorkshire Association,' Mr. W. Barton pointed out that this was an important toast, as it was a matter which concerned all the members of the association. He recounted briefly the gradual growth of ringers' societies from the early days of the art, and asked the members to note that now, as then, the welfare of the society depended upon the individual members and not upon the officers of the association, and that by obeying the rules of the society in such small items as paying their subscriptions promptly, they could facilitate the easy running of that body, whilst they would help themselves by attending meetings which were arranged for them.

Mr. G. W. Fletcher, in a short speech, drew attention to the fact that the long overdue visit of the Central Council to Leeds would take place next year, which would give Leeds an opportunity to show what it could do. He was sure that Leeds people would not let the Yorkshire Association down.

A course of Double Norwich Court Bob Major then followed on handbells by W. Ambler, P. J. Johnson, W. Barton and J. Ambler.

A vote of thanks to the chairman was proposed by Mr. E. White, who congratulated him on his successful juggling with the programme. After the reply by Canon Marshall, in which he promised the Central Council a Yorkshire welcome, the company slowly dispersed.

During the evening songs were rendered by Mr. J. Allerton and Mr. Naylor.

Mr. F. G. Sherwood is to be heartily congratulated upon the excellent arrangements which he made for the ringing previous to the dinner and for the dinner itself. He proved himself an able secretary for the occasion.

HALIFAX ASSOCIATIONS SIX-BELL CONTEST.

LIVERSEDGE WIN.

The quarterly meeting and six-bell contest of the Halifax and District Association was held at Elland on October 16th. The contest consisted of 600 changes, with a plain course for practice, and the three teams that entered rang in the following order: Liversedge (who rang College Exercise), New Mill (Oxford), Meltham (Oxford).

Tea was served in the Parochial Hall, to which about 30 visitors sat down, and after the competing teams had rung the meeting was held in the school.

The President (Mr. Earnshaw) moved that the best thanks be accorded to the Vicar, churchwardens and local company at Elland for entertaining the association that afternoon.

In the absence of the Vicar, the curate (the Rev. F. R. Arnott) replied. The judge, Mr. W. Idle, gave his decision as follows: Liversedge, 98 faults; New Mill, 156 faults, rang out; Meltham, 180 faults, 5 penalty, total 185. Liversedge were, therefore, declared winners, and the Rev. F. R. Arnott presented the cup to the Liversedge conductor, Mr. F. Hodgson.

The next meeting is due to be held at New Mill on March 19th, and it was proposed that Kirkheaton be approached with a view to holding the contest there on April 23rd, 1938.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION. LEWISHAM DISTRICT ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual meeting of Lewisham District was held at St. Mary's, Lewisham, on October 16th. Ringing was enjoyed by some 50 members during the afternoon and evening.

The association's service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. C. R. Cotter), and afterwards the members were entertained to tea in St. Mary's Hall by the Vicar, who presided, supported by his churchwarden, Mr. J. A. Musto.

At the meeting the chairman and Mr. J. A. Musto extended a warm and generous welcome to the visitors.

The secretary's report and balance sheet were read and adopted. It was suggested that such reports be printed, hectographed, or otherwise duplicated, in order that members interested might obtain copies for future reference.

The election of one member previous to a peal was ratified.

Eltham was chosen for the next meeting, to be held, if possible, on Saturday, January 29th.

The district secretary (Mr. A. G. Hill) and the Ringing Master (Mr. T. Groombridge, sen) were re-elected. The selection of district representatives on the Management Committee led to the re-election of Mr. F. J. Cullum and the appointment of Mr. W. Smith to succeed Mr. J. Wheadon.

Votes of thanks were passed to the officers for their past services, the secretary being instructed to convey this expression of appreciation to Mr. Wheadon, who was unavoidably absent.

Mr. F. M. Mitchell (the general secretary) was invited by the chairman to address the meeting, and did so wisely, shortly and well, voicing the general satisfaction felt in observing a good proportion of younger ringers among those attending.

A cordial vote of thanks was passed to the Vicar for the use of the bells, for his generous hospitality, for conducting the service and presiding at the business meeting, to the Vicar and churchwarden jointly for their welcome to Lewisham, to the organist and the caterers for their willing help, and to Mr. H. Warnett (steeplekeeper) and Mr. O. H. Walker (secretary, St. Mary's ringers) for making such smooth working arrangements.—The Chairman replied, and further ringing on the tower bells terminated proceedings.

FAREWELL TO A VICAR.

At the Parish Church, Willingham, Cambs, on Sunday, October 10th, before evensong, as a farewell to Canon A. C. Hair, a quarter-peal (1,320 changes, Bankes James') of Cambridge Surprise Minor: D. Adams 1, C. Robinson 2, F. Warrington 3, A. W. T. Ginn 4, F. G. Gleaves 5, R. Thoday 6.

NORWICH DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

MEMBERS ENTERTAINED AT GARVESTON.

An informal meeting of the North Norfolk Branch was held at Garveston on October 16th and was well attended by representatives from all four branches: Attleborough, Dersingham, East Dereham, Fakenham, Gressenhall, Halvergate, Reedham, Saham-Toney, Wymondham and the local band. At a short service held in the afternoon the Rector (the Rev. R. C. Boorman) dedicated an illuminated record of a peal of Cambridge Surprise Minor, rung on July 24th, 1937. Afterwards the members present were entertained to tea at the Rectory.

The branch secretary, Mr. H. Tooke, thanked the Rev. and Mrs. Boorman for entertaining them and for the use of the bells.—Mr. R. W. Cooke seconded, and, in reply, the Rector welcomed all present to Garveston. He said he was pleased to allow the bells to be rung on such an occasion, and he paid a tribute to Mr. T. Spight, of Wymondham, for his work in preparing the peal record.

The local company have arranged a practice night on Thursdays fortnightly from October 21st, and will welcome any ringer who would care to attend.

WINCHESTER AND PORTSMOUTH DIOCESAN GUILD.

A VICAR'S THANKS TO MEMBERS.

A quarterly meeting of the Portsmouth District was held at Bishop's Waltham on Saturday, October 16th, when members attended from Alresford, Bishop's Waltham, Bishopstoke, Curdridge, Coleman's Hatch, Fareham, Gosport, Liss, North Stoneham, Petersfield, Portsmouth (Cathedral and St. Mary's), Southampton, Soberton, Swanmore, Winchester and Wickham. The recently augmented peal was well in demand during the afternoon. The Guild service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. N. H. Stubbs). Tea was served in the Church Hall, after which the business meeting was presided over by the district chairman (the Rev. E. B. James).

Mr. W. H. Heyhoe (Wickham) was elected a ringing member of the Guild, and Havant was selected for the next quarterly meeting, to be held in April, 1938.

The Vicar thanked the members of the Guild for their generosity and kind donations towards the cost of the two new bells recently added to the ring of six.

Votes of thanks were accorded the Vicar for the use of the bells, Church Hall and officiating at the service. Thanks were also extended the organist and the ladies who kindly catered for tea. The members afterwards returned to the tower for further ringing.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

The eight bells of the Church of the Sacred Heart (R.C.), Talbot Road, Blackpool, will be at liberty for ringing from 4 p.m. to 5.30 on Saturday next on the occasion of the Lancashire Association's annual dinner.

Lady's Surprise is the latest thing in ringing. It was depicted on Mrs. Fletcher's face when a handbag was presented to her at the Ladies' Guild dinner on Saturday and she discovered its contents.

The members of the Ladies' Guild who attended the silver jubilee festival on Saturday came from no fewer than 18 counties. Five of the foundation members attended, and the youngest member present (in point of age) was Miss Enid Richardson, who is 13.

Mr. 'Jim' Bennett, of Lewisham, underwent an operation in St. Bartholomew's Hospital on Tuesday. His many friends will wish him a speedy recovery. He is in the 'Percival Pott' Ward of the hospital.

THE COLLEGE YOUTHS.

MR. A. B. PECK TO SUCCEED MR. W. T. COCKERILL AS HON. SECRETARY.

At a meeting of the Ancient Society of College Youths at their headquarters on Tuesday evening the officers for the ensuing year were nominated.

There will be only one change. Mr. W. T. Cockerill, who is giving up the secretaryship after 46 years' service, will be succeeded by Mr. Alfred B. Peck, who has been a member of the St. Paul's Cathedral company for many years.

The other officers were renominated, viz.: Master, Mr. E. H. Lewis; hon. treasurer, Mr. A. A. Hughes; senior steward, Mr. L. B. Porter; junior steward, Mr. J. Waugh; trustees, Messrs. C. F. Winney and H. R. Newton.

BEQUEST TO BELLRINGERS.

£10 EACH FOR MEMBERS OF BANSTEAD BAND.

Lt.-Col. Thomas Frank Parkinson, of De Burgh Park, Banstead, Surrey, barrister of the Middle Temple, who died a short time ago, left £15,737 (net personalty £11,259).

He was a ringer at Banstead Parish Church and a member of the Guildford Diocesan Guild and the Surrey Association.

In his will he left £10 to each of the bellringers at Banstead Church who have rung on at least 40 Sundays in the year ending with his death, and £15 extra to the captain at the date of his death of the band of bellringers.

He bequeathed his residence and effects to Alice Newman, his housekeeper for 36 years. He also left her £100 and an annuity of £208, and a life interest in the residue of his estate subsequent to the life interest of his brother and sister.

ANOTHER FALSE COMPOSITION.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—As I have just learned that the peal of Bob Major which I called at St. Stephen's, Eastwood, Rotherham, on June 15th, 1937, and which was subsequently published in 'The Ringing World,' is false, I beg to withdraw it. I should like to take this opportunity of apologising to the ringers who took part in the peal, which was a 5,216 by Arthur Craven, with tenors parted 24 courses, giving 4-8-8 and 6-4-8 course ends.

NORMAN CHADDOCK.

Rotherham.

A FORGOTTEN 'TRAP.'

Dear Sir,—I sincerely regret that the two peals of 5,005 Stedman Cinques have been found to be false. I knew of this 'trap' many years ago, but had quite forgotten it, as I had never previously used it. I wish to apologise to Mr. C. T. Coles and all who took part in the peals. It was a complete lapse of memory. I have now corrected both peals.

ARTHUR KNIGHTS.

SUFFOLK TOWN WITH THREE PEALS.

SUDBURY'S GOOD FORTUNE.

Sudbury, Suffolk, with a population of only seven thousand, has three peals of eight bells, all in good ringing order. It must be the only town of this size in the country so well equipped.

The bells of All Saints' Church have recently been rehung on new bearings and the tenor provided with a new iron headstock. The work was formally dedicated on Sunday, October 17th, by the Bishop of Dunwich. The Bishop was conducted by the Vicar, the churchwardens and Mr. H. G. Herbert, hon. secretary of the Suffolk Guild, to the west end of the church, where he recited the dedicatory prayers and, handing a rope to the Vicar, committed the restored bells to his charge.

The bells were rung in the opening touch by S. Gridley 1, T. Chinery 2, H. G. Felton 3, W. Lee 4, A. A. Fitch 5, L. Johnson 6, S. Howell 7, D. H. Elliott 8.

LADIES' GUILD SILVER JUBILEE.

SUCCESSFUL CELEBRATION IN LONDON.

Presentation to the Hon. Secretary.

The Ladies' Guild celebrated the silver jubilee of their organisation at an enthusiastic and representative gathering in London on Saturday. Founded on October 26th, 1912, the membership has grown in the 25 years from 40 to over 300, and more than 70 of them were present to join in the festivities. They came from all parts of the country, and in the afternoon took part in ringing at St. Clement Danes Church. They then attended service, at which the lesson was read by the president (Miss E. Steel, of Bedford), and an address given by the Rev. W. L. Bell (curate). Miss G. Church, a member of the Guild, was at the organ.

Afterwards a dinner was held at Anderton's Hotel, Fleet Street, attended by a company of about 130. Miss Steel presided and was supported by Miss Dorothy L. Sayers, Mrs. G. W. Fletcher (hon. secretary), Mr. E. H. Lewis (president of the Central Council and Master of the Ancient Society of College Youths), Mrs. Lewis, and Canon G. F. Coleridge (Master of the Oxford Diocesan Guild). Those also present included the following vice-presidents: Miss L. K. Bowling (Northern District), Mrs. Bruce (Southern District), Mrs. J. Bray (Lincoln District), Mrs. R. F. Deal (Central District), Mrs. Boulton (Northants District); district secretaries, Mrs. R. Richardson (Lincoln District), Miss S. Thursfield (Northants), Mrs. G. H. Cross (Central), Miss N. G. Williams (Western), Miss H. F. Mills (Southern), Miss K. M. Bradford (assistant secretary, Central). The company also included Mr. F. M. Mitchell (hon. secretary, Kent County Association) and Mrs. Mitchell, Mr. C. T. Coles (hon. secretary, Middlesex Association) and Mrs. Coles, Mr. R. Richardson (Master of the Lincoln Guild) and Miss Enid Richardson, Mr. A. D. Barker (hon. treasurer, Oxford Guild) and Mrs. Barker, Mr. A. A. Hughes (hon. treasurer of the College Youths) and Mrs. Hughes, Mr. and Mrs. Goodship and Miss G. Goodship, Misses E. K. Fulton, F. Clayton and F. Harle (Harrow Weald), Miss E. Foulk (Dufield), Misses M. and D. Lidbetter (Isleworth), Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Perrens (Coventry), Mrs. A. Beamish (Nuneaton), Misses M. Godderidge (Polestone), Radley (Broxbourne), G. Church (Waltham Cross), Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Housden (Tunbridge Wells), Mr. and Mrs. R. Collins, Miss D. Collins (Sevenoaks), Mr. and Mrs. G. Parks (Croydon), Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Davis (London), Misses M. Robertson, H. W. Bill and A. Cushion (Norwich), Mr. and Miss H. Snowden (Halstead), Mrs. Tillotson, Mrs. Osborne (Loughton), Miss K. M. Shepherd (East Grinstead), Misses K. and D. Fletcher (Beaconsfield), Miss E. Knight (Bedford), Mrs. A. Chapman (Walthamstow), Miss E. N. Belcher (Ditching), Mrs. L. Hardy, Miss N. Baker (Leicester), Mr. and Mrs. C. McGuinness, Mrs. A. McGuinness, Mrs. Neal (Lincoln), Mrs. L. East (East Collingham), Mr. and Mrs. J. Parker, Mr. and Mrs. J. Thomas, Misses O. Pittock, N. Scopes and E. Collins (Enfield), Mr. and Mrs. H. Knight (Wrixton), Misses M. Gardiner and A. Brown and Mrs. Skidmore (Bristol), Mrs. Norton (Kingston Seymour), Miss Turnbull (Edmonton), Mrs. O. Cotterell (Leeds), Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Atkins, Misses B. Hart, Vale and Jacques (Kilburn), Mrs. Humphrey, Mrs. P. Humphrey, Miss P. Humphrey, Mr. and Mrs. J. Botham, Miss B. Mills and Miss L. Keeley (London), Miss K. Avenall (Worplesdon), Mr. and Mrs. W. Massey and Mr. G. Massey (Claygate), Mrs. C. Matthews (Southfields), Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Elson (Putney), Mr. and Mrs. N. Bagworth (Fulham), Mr. and Mrs. R. Rawlings (Beckenham), Mr. and Mrs. C. Wilson and Miss B. Roughton (Isham), Messrs. G. W. Fletcher (hon. secretary, Central Council), J. A. Trollope (vice-president, Middlesex Association), A. E. Sharman (hon. secretary, Bedfordshire Association), G. H. Cross (Master, Royal Cumberland Youths), J. S. Goldsmith (hon. secretary, Guildford Diocesan Guild), A. H. Ward (Derby), R. F. Deal, C. W. Roberts, W. Williams and T. J. Lock (London), J. Bray and G. Feirn (Burton-on-Stather), G. Hart (Harrow Weald), F. E. Collins (Croydon), R. Curzon and H. Tooke (Norwich), etc.

After an excellent meal, the loyal toast was honoured on the call of the president.

Miss Sylvia Thursfield proposed the toast of 'The Church,' which, she said, was vitally connected with the work of the Guild. If they were to ask what point in their connection with the Church was most vital, she would say, the fact that their work and this Exercise which they so greatly enjoyed was privileged to take place within the churches and cathedrals. That day they were celebrating their silver jubilee. They had not got the antiquity which other ringing guilds and societies enjoyed, but could they imagine what might possibly have happened if women had started ringing, say, a hundred or more years ago? She thought it might easily have jeopardised their chances for ever; they might have been looked upon with such alarm and concern that they would never afterwards have stood much chance. Instead, today, they had an established position and were not only recognised, but welcomed by the Church. That was due, she thought, very largely to the clergy. She came from one of the smallest districts of the Ladies' Guild, but from her experience she could say that what they met with, from the church officials, was not just a balance of average friendliness, but a definite recognition of the full value of their work. They had many friends among the clergy and that night they greatly welcomed Canon Coleridge, who had been a staunch supporter of the Guild ever since it started (applause). Ringing parsons were one of the greatest assets they had got, but second to them she put the non-ringing parsons, whose interest, she thought, was largely due to the words which the ringing parsons put in for the ladies. The support which they got from the clergy was a thing they should realise and value. She hoped it might long continue and grow from year to year (applause).

HISTORY REPEATS ITSELF.

Canon Coleridge reminded the company that the 'Church' referred as much to them as to himself. He held office in one position in the Church, they held it in another and did an enormous amount of good. He looked back to the days when it was a very rare thing to find a lady in the belfry, but on those rare occasions when he was now able to ring he was always delighted when he could get a lady near him (laughter). When he called to mind the many wonderful things which had been done by ladies in the belfries, he could not but be very definite in expressing his warm thanks and the thanks of all connected with the Church for the wonderful work they had done, were doing and would do in the future for the Church. Soon after the Ladies' Guild started he preached to them once at Reading, and he little thought then that it would develop as it had done. With such a healthy looking lot of ladies in front of him he did not think there was much doubt they would attract the young men to the belfry (laughter), and many of them would no doubt find their true partner in life.

Continuing, Canon Coleridge said he had just read that delightful little book brought out by Mr. Trollope—'A History of the College Youths.' He advised everyone to get a copy and read it, because it showed them how very different the Exercise was nearly 300 years ago to what it is at the present day. Canon Coleridge read a short extract from the book in reference to the occasion when the College Youths rang their peal of 7,018 of Cinques at St. Michael's, Cornhill, for the first time with 13 men only. Having rung this peal, they very naturally desired to commemorate it, and it was recorded that a month afterwards they repaired to The Meece and partook of 'a very handsome dinner in commemoration of that unequalled performance and were accompanied by many worthy gentlemen who delight in the Exercise.' 'Does not history repeat itself?' added Canon Coleridge. He did not know exactly what 'a very handsome dinner was,' but he saw many handsome faces round him that night. It was equally true that many worthy gentlemen who delight in the Exercise were present on that occasion, and it gave them the greatest possible pleasure to be there (applause).

Continuing, Canon Coleridge attributed many of the changes of recent years to the admirable example set by the lady ringers. They came to the front in the war time and filled the gaps and had kept on with a perseverance that was wonderful. To illustrate the changes, the speaker quoted extracts from the diary of a village tailor who was also a ringer at Thorverton, Devon, when he (Canon Coleridge) learned to ring there as a boy. It recorded, for instance, in 1831, that 'this day Rev. Dr. Coleridge took the benefits and gave the ringers £3,' and a month after, 'Rev. Dr. Coleridge read himself in to-day and gave the ringers a sovereign.' When his daughter was married they received two sovereigns, and when the daughter gave birth to her first child he gave the ringers a pound. On one occasion when a local yeoman farmer was married he gave the ringers £2 in money, three rounds of beef (rounds of beef in those days were about 30 lb. each) and 100 gallons of beer (laughter).

Canon Coleridge concluded by thanking the ladies for the toast and said he trusted they would all go on to do the very best they could for the Church by every means in their power.

FOUNDATION OF GUILD RECALLED.

Mr. J. S. Goldsmith submitted the toast of 'The Ladies' Guild.' He congratulated the Guild on reaching its silver jubilee and said that it gave him special pleasure to propose the toast because he took part in the formation of the Guild 25 years ago. He was not only present when the Guild was formed, but was privileged to take the chair at the inaugural meeting. To that extent he was responsible for bringing it into the world. He did not know whether they would call him the father of the Guild or the family physician, but in whatever relation he stood to it, he had watched with the greatest interest, as the whole Exercise had done, the growth of the Guild through the intervening years. He recalled the discussion which took place at the first meeting as to whether it should be called the Ladies' or the Women's Guild, and said he thought they had chosen rightly. But in any case the members were ladies by their conduct and example in the belfry, and women in the best sense of the term, by the way in which they were ready to fulfil the duties laid upon them by their adopted calling and their readiness to share on equal terms with the men the discipline which change ringing imposed.

LADIES TRIUMPH OVER DIFFICULTIES.

He could look back, he said, to the days when ladies were unknown in the belfry as ringers, and he remembered the mild sensation which was caused when Miss Alice White, as she then was, rang in the first peal on tower bells in which a lady had taken part. Her performance was greatly admired, but it was generally felt to be just a passing incident. No one at that time imagined that the ladies would take up the art as seriously as they have done and in such numbers. But many a church had reason to be grateful to the ladies for the part they played in helping to keep the bells going during the war period, and in not a few cases since. The formation of the Guild in 1912 set the seal on their position in the Exercise. Ladies had been received in most belfries with open arms, and the other associations, with one notable exception, had been ready to embrace them—metaphorically (laughter). While sharing in the interests of other associations they had shown their independence by running their own Guild, whose activities were bounded only by the seas and their aspirations by the heavens. And looking back over the last 25 years one wondered at the success which the Guild had attained, in face of the difficulties which had confronted it from the very start—a scattered membership and the difficulty of maintaining touch with each other. The formation of districts had helped partly to solve the problem, but not wholly, and those who knew something of the organisation of ringing associations marvelled at the way the ladies kept the Guild together under very difficult conditions. They admired them for the tenacity with which they stuck to the task and hoped that in the coming years they would reap the reward of still larger membership and wider influence (applause).

Proceeding, Mr. Goldsmith 'disillusioned' the ladies who held the idea that women had only in comparatively recent years taken up ringing, and caused much amusement by quoting from some hitherto unpublished (and unauthenticated) pages of the diary of Samuel Pepys, who found some ladies ringing at St. Olave's in 1670 and afterwards accepted their invitation to a dinner.

In conclusion Mr. Goldsmith referred to the work which had been done on behalf of the Ladies' Guild by a succession of presidents and district officers, and to the devoted labours of Mrs. Fletcher. She, he said, was one of the prime movers in founding the Guild, she had been honorary secretary and treasurer throughout the whole 25 years, and had discharged the duties with increasing zeal and success; in fact, she had largely made the Guild what it was to-day. In asking them to drink to the continued success and prosperity of the Ladies' Guild, he asked them also to drink to the health of Mrs. Fletcher, their guide, philosopher, secretary and friend.

LADIES' FIRST PEAL AND WHAT CAME OF IT

The toast was enthusiastically honoured, and Mrs. Fletcher was cordially received when she replied. She said that 25 years seemed quite a short time compared with the life of some of the societies in various parts of the country, especially the old society in London, which this year was celebrating its three hundredth anniversary, but when they formed the Ladies' Guild in 1912 it did not seem possible that it would so grow that they would be able to have a meeting of that description 25 years after. With them that night they had five of the original members of the Guild and five who took part in the first ladies' peal at Cubitt Town on July 20th, 1912. The others, she was glad to say, were all alive and would have been present, but were prevented by ill-health. Mrs. Fletcher recalled that they struggled for five hours to ring that peal. They started in the afternoon, on a very hot day. They failed, and tried again and failed. Then some wise woman suggested they should have a cup of tea. So they had their cup of tea and then started again, and after three hours they accomplished their peal (applause). They were all very tired and the blisters on some people's hands would have frightened some men (laughter). She did not think she had ever seen blisters like it. On the way back to London someone suggested they should form a Guild. They advertised in 'The Ringing World' and had forty applications for membership from ladies in various parts of the country. They held their inaugural meeting at St. Giles-in-the-Field in October and started on their way. Some of the members who were there on that day had passed away, among them Miss Margery Sampson and Miss Pigott, of Smethwick. In addition, from those who joined at the time, they had lost Mrs. George Williams, the first lady ever to ring a peal on handbells, and Miss Nellie Johnson, of Evesham. They were four of the original members. They found it very difficult in those early days, Mrs. Fletcher continued, because there were not enough members in the country to form districts. There was just one here and there. So they did their best and had meetings occasionally which were not always very well supported. Then came the Great War, but just before that they had enough members to be eligible for election to the Central Council. They were very dubious as to whether they would be admitted, but they had a very good friend in the president at that time, Sir Arthur Heywood, who, besides helping them with a big donation at the start of the Guild, did his utmost to get them admitted to the Council. In 1914 at the meeting at Winchester they were admitted to the Council, and there was only one man who raised his hand against them (laughter). They sent one representative, but when their membership grew sufficiently they sent two, and this year they had sufficient members to enable them next year to send three representatives (applause). During the war, continuing Mrs. Fletcher, many ladies started in the belfry and kept the bells going while the men were away, but after the war a number dropped out and the membership of the Guild fell a little. Afterwards they began to grow again, and they formed the districts one by one. The work which the district secretaries put in was really wonderful, for they had many disappointments and got precious little support in some parts. But gradually the Guild had spread and they hoped in time they would be able to have every part of the country in some district or other. Continuing, Mrs. Fletcher said that the Guild had rung 15 peals since the one rung at Cubitt Town. They rang one peal of Grandsire Triples in 1915, and another in 1918; a peal of Bob Minor in 1922; Stedman Triples in 1924 and again in 1925; Stedman Caters in 1926; Bob Major and Cambridge Surprise in 1928; Bob Major in 1929; Minor in three methods and Cambridge Surprise in 1930; Kent Treble Bob Major in 1931; Bob Major in 1932; Superlative Surprise in 1935; and Stedman Triples in 1936. Considering their difficulties, she did not think they had done badly in regard to peals (applause). In conclusion, Mrs. Fletcher expressed appreciation of all that had been said about the Guild, and hoped that that wonderful gathering would make them all determined to do more for the Guild in future.

GIFTS TO THE HON. SECRETARY.

The President said Mrs. Fletcher had told them a little about the work that had been done for the Guild. The members wanted to show some slight appreciation of what she had put into it, and she asked her to accept their gift with their best wishes. She hoped, when they held their 50th anniversary dinner, that Mrs. Fletcher would still be their secretary and that they would see present in 25 years' time all the faces that had gathered there that evening (laughter and applause).

Miss Steele then handed to Mrs. Fletcher a very nice leather hand-bag, which, when opened by the recipient, was found to contain a pearl necklace, with diamond clasp, and a handsome gold wristlet watch inscribed with a monogram and the date.

Mrs. Fletcher, who received the gift amid loud applause, was taken completely by surprise, and thanked the members from the bottom of her heart.

THE HELP OF KINDRED SOCIETIES.

Miss Kathleen Bowling gave the toast of 'Kindred Societies,' to whom she said the Ladies' Guild owed a tremendous debt of gratitude. Among the societies represented were the Ancient Society of College Youths, the Royal Cumberland Youths, the Middlesex, Kent, Midland Counties, Bedfordshire and Yorkshire Associations, the Lincoln, Warwickshire and Guildford Guilds and the National Police Guild. They welcomed them very warmly and were glad to see so many friends joining in the ladies' jubilee celebration. They were specially honoured, she said, in having with them Mr. Lewis, both in his capacity as president of the Central Council and Master of the College Youths, to whom, through him, they would like to extend warmest congratulations upon their tercentenary and best wishes for the future. The Ladies' Guild, continued Miss Bowling, had to depend a great deal upon their brother ringers, more than they, perhaps, sometimes realised. In the first place, they taught them to ring and certainly made it possible for them to hold successful district meetings. The ladies were so scattered that it would be almost impossible for them to hold district meetings with purely their own members, and the gentlemen were always an enormous help in the ringing. There had been, said Miss Bowling, a good deal written and said from time to time about whether the presence of ladies was desirable in the belfry or not. There were all sorts of opinions on the subject, but from her own experience she could say that ladies always met with real friendliness in the belfry. They were most grateful for all the help they had received from kindred societies through the 25 years of their existence (applause).

Mr. E. H. Lewis, in reply, thanked Miss Bowling for her congratulations to the Ancient Society which he represented that night, and said he would duly convey them to the members. The various associations appreciated the help which the ladies gave at their meetings, said Mr. Lewis, and he went on to refer to some of the performances which they had put up. He recalled two particularly in which their secretary was concerned. In one year before the war, when they used, after the Central Council meeting in London, to hold a social at the Westminster Hotel, Miss E. K. Parker rang the trebles to a course of Bob Royal on handbells, and Sir Arthur Heywood said he had never heard trebles rung better in Royal in his life (applause). The other performance was by the same talented lady recently when she rang the 30 cwt. tenor at Wedmore to a peal of Stedman Triples and afterwards was anxious to turn it in to a course of Bob Major, but the seven men in front had had enough (laughter and applause). In conclusion, Mr. Lewis hoped the friendship between the Ladies' Guild and the other societies would long continue.

Mrs. F. M. Mitchell submitted 'The Visitors,' whom she welcomed very heartily. She was particularly pleased to see present her old friend Canon Coleridge, who was among the earliest of her ringing recollections. There was only one whom she knew better, and that was the late Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn. They would probably be surprised to know that 'Kate' had honoured them with her presence. Evidently she thought there was safety in numbers (laughter). And Francis Bacon, too, was there and appeared to be happy among the ladies (laughter). They were highly honoured in having with them the noted authoress, Miss Dorothy Sayers (applause), who in her book, 'The Nine Tailors,' had enlightened many readers upon the art of change ringing. It was wonderful how she toiled over figures until she was able to prick out Grandsire and Treble Bob without any previous knowledge of ringing. Members of the ringing fraternity might well take example from her by using more pencil and paper (laughter and applause). They were also pleased, said Mrs. Mitchell, to welcome another author, Mr. Trollope, who in his book on the history of the College Youths had shown them again how painstaking he was in what he did for the benefit of the Exercise (applause).

KINDNESSES FROM BELLRINGERS.

Miss Sayers, in responding to the toast, said she felt most embarrassed, for she must have been chosen to reply because she was the most ignorant person in the assembly in regard to ringing. She only came into the bellringing world on the principle, as it were, of being among those who rush in where angels fear to tread (laughter). When she first quite rashly undertook a book on bellringing, she knew absolutely nothing about it, but one thing she had learned since writing that book was that what she had always heard, about the great kindness and friendliness in the bellringing world, was certainly a very well-founded tradition, for she had received an extraordinary amount of kindness from bellringers, since writing 'The Nine Tailors.' In that book she made the bells of Fenchurch St. Paul kill a man who was left tied up in the belfry. She did not usually get kind invitations to dinner, for example, from the Incorporated Society of Poisoners or the Ancient Society of Footpads and Highwaymen (laughter). Robbers and gangsters did not ask her to 'go for a ride' with them, nor did the murderers ever let her into their secrets (laughter), but the bellringers had been most kind to her and offered to take her into their towers and show her the bells ringing. She was not sure whether it was with sinister intention that they took her into a bell chamber to stand as near as possible to the bells. It was true it was only for about nine seconds, instead of nine hours (laughter). Miss Sayers thanked her hostesses for a very delightful entertainment; the dinner had been 'handsome' in every sense of the word (laughter). A good deal had been said about the entries of ladies into bellringing, but she felt sure that in spite of the admirable extracts from Mr. Pepys' diary, which suggested that it might have been considered in the past 'unsexing,' she could not believe that it was so, for looking at their programme she found that the handbell ringing and the songs all dealt with the tender emotion of love (laughter). Miss Sayers added that she hoped the Ladies' Guild and all the other guilds of ringers would go on and prosper, that there would be more bells dedicated and more people ringing and making a merry noise in the church. She never understood why the devil should have all the best tunes and the loudest noises. He certainly had a great many of them and she was only too glad there was still one great noise which they were allowed to make to the glory of God and their own enjoyment, in spite of the people who preferred the noise of petrol engines and the blaring of unpleasant instruments (applause).

HOW LADIES WERE ELECTED TO CENTRAL COUNCIL.

Mr. J. A. Trollope, whose name was also coupled with the toast, thanked the Ladies' Guild on behalf of the men for allowing them to spend such a very enjoyable evening. Being a bachelor, he naturally only saw the best side of ladies (laughter). His recollection, he continued, went back to the very first lady ringer (except those referred to in Mr. Pepys' diary). She was the daughter of a Norfolk clergyman. After her came one or two others, and then presently they began to hear about a young lady, a daughter of Jim Parker, ringing London Surprise and calling from an inside bell. In those days London Surprise was only rung by the tip-top, exclusive bands, and it didn't seem right to some ringers that a girl should be doing what they couldn't do. So they got over it by saying they did not believe she could do it (laughter). Some of the old ones began to shake their heads and wonder what was going to happen when ladies took up ringing. They said there would be a great lowering of the standard of ringing and men would be pushed out of the towers (laughter). When it was said that these girls were going to form a Guild of their own, and afterwards when it was said they were going to apply for membership of the Central Council, some of the older people—they were all dead now—said that was going a bit too far (laughter). What they expected the Council to do was to say: 'Oh, yes, we shall be very pleased indeed to have you, but the time is not quite ripe (laughter). Come back in ten years; in the meantime, just run away and play' (laughter). He knew quite a dozen members of the Council who had made up their minds to have no truck with the ladies, but they all voted for them at the finish, except one man (laughter). He was a bachelor and they would be glad to know he suffered afterwards for his faults. He was married now (laughter). All the things the pessimists prophesied had not come to pass. Certainly the standard of ringing had not gone down. If the ladies wanted to know if there were any good ringers among them, they should first look in the looking glass; and when in the tower look at each other, and when they had done that they should look at Mrs. Fletcher. They would not find anywhere among ringers anyone whose knowledge of practical ringing was better than hers or one whose opinions on things appertaining to ringing was better worth having (applause). There had been one or two references that night to a person named Kate, and it had been hinted that he might know something about her. He could assure them he knew no more about her than they did. He had certainly never met her and never expected to. In fact, he did not believe there was such a person. If there ever had been, he believed she was one of those bright spirits who had been sent down to this earth to cheer up mankind, and, having done her job, had disappeared (laughter).

The remaining toast was 'The Press,' proposed by Mrs. Richardson, who referred in terms of appreciation to the services rendered to the Exercise by 'The Ringing World.' Without it, she said, ringers in one part of the country would not know what was being done in other parts and much of the interest would be lost. For that reason alone they should support 'The Ringing World' in far greater degree. The Editor had shown his interest in the Ladies' Guild, and the Ladies' Guild, in return, should support the paper and act as 'missionaries' in the districts in which they lived. 'The Ringing World' linked up ringers not only in this country, but throughout the Empire. Without the paper ringers would be at a loss, and she asked the members of the Ladies' Guild to do their share in getting others to support it.

The toast was acknowledged by Mr. J. S. Goldsmith.

The President announced, amid applause, that Miss Sayers had joined the Guild as an honorary member.

Miss Sayers, in acknowledging the election, said she felt most unworthy of the honour and thought she must go and read 'Troyte' all over again (laughter and applause).

The speeches were interspersed with some delightful handbell solos by Mrs. A. A. Hughes and some charming songs by Miss Enid Collins. Mrs. Bray, Mrs. Thomas, Mrs. Fletcher and Mrs. Richardson rang a touch of Grandsire Triples, and Messrs. Trollope, Lewis, Cross and Richardson rang a short touch of 'Oxford and Kent' Treble Bob.

The happy proceedings formally terminated with 'Auld Lang Syne,' but were continued informally afterwards to a late hour. The gathering achieved great success and everyone responsible deserved the hearty commendations passed upon their efforts, especially the hon. secretary (Mrs. Fletcher) and the members of the Dinner Committee: Mrs. Deal, Mrs. Cross and Miss Bradford.

DARTFORD, KENT.—On Sunday, October 3rd, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples: H. Fox 1, J. R. Lambkin (first quarter-peal 'inside') 2, Mrs. J. E. Bailey 3, F. Walker 4, J. E. Bailey 5, J. H. Cheesman 6, N. Summerhayes (conductor) 7, R. Jenkins 8.

FORMER RINGER'S MUNIFICENT GIFT.

DEDICATION OF NEW TOWER AND BELLS AT STOULTON, WORCESTERSHIRE.

Only rarely does one hear of a tower being rebuilt in order to fulfil its primary function, and when such a scheme is made possible through the generosity of a former ringer, the subject becomes of double interest. Yet this has happened at the village of Stoulton, near Pershore, and by the dedication of the new tower and bells by the Lord Bishop of Worcester at the evening service on Sunday, October 17th, yet another has been added to the chain of six-bell towers surrounding the Bredon Hill.

Situated on an eminence a few yards from the main Worcester-London road, the picturesque, old, ivy-clad tower had been something of a landmark, but the ivy had done its work too well, for, penetrating in places right through the walls, it had caused irreparable damage. Becoming unsafe for the ringing of the five bells it contained, these had been silent for the past 15 years.

These facts coming to the knowledge of Mr. Bruce Kingsford, of Cheltenham, the son of a former Vicar of Stoulton and himself an old Worcestershire ringer, he made the magnificent offer of financing the building of a new tower, the recasting and rehanging of the bells with the addition of a treble.

The new tower is built of Cotswold stone, similar to the main part of the church, and follows the old design except that it is slightly higher and possessed of more substantial buttresses. In the east arch and dividing the tower from the main body of the church is a handsome oak screen, which finishes about 3ft. above the ringing chamber floor, the ringers thus being in full view from the church. This screen bears the following inscription:—

'In 1936 the tower of this church was rebuilt and the bells were recast and one added by Hamilton Bruce Kingsford, in memory of his father, Hamilton Kingsford, M.A., Oxon., priest in charge of this parish, 1867-1912.'

The bells, with a tenor of 7 cwt., have been hung in a new cast iron frame. They are now a tuneful peal, all of solid tone and speaking out in a manner hardly to be anticipated from their weight. Even with everything lending itself to the perfect job, they reflect the greatest credit on the founders, Messrs. Mears and Stainbank.

DONOR TAKES PART IN RINGING.

A huge congregation assembled for the dedication service, every available space being utilised for extra seating, even to the vestries and the porch. Basing his address on II. Corinthians v., 17, 'Therefore, if any man be in Christ, he is a new creature; old things are passed away; behold all things are become new,' the Bishop said they could draw two lessons from their recast peal of bells. He could not say the same of the tower because the old one had gone too far, but of the bells five were not new, but were the old metal, remoulded, recast and retuned. Applying this to human nature, the Bishop said, 'We are created as we are for a purpose. God takes us exactly as we are and remoulds, recreates us. Allow this creative spirit in your hearts and you are like a peal of bells—giving out sweet sounds in complete harmony with all around. Secondly,' he continued, 'to-night this church is crammed—it is not always so. Those beautiful bells you have just heard send forth a message—calling, calling, calling. Would they consistently respond to that call, first as individuals, then as a parish and as a diocese, and so fulfil the words of our Lord, "Ye shall be my witnesses"?'.

Immediately after the words of dedication had been pronounced, the bells were rung in rounds by a representative band of the Worcestershire Association: S. T. Holt 1, Mrs. J. Thomas 2, W. Short 3, J. D. Johnson 4, T. W. Lewis 5, C. Camm 6. Later a large gathering of ringers kept the bells going until nearly 9 p.m., an interesting touch being 120 Stedman Doubles, to which the donor rang the tenor. Two others of the band (Messrs. W. Short and R. G. Knowles) rang with him some 40 years ago. The founders were represented by Mr. A. A. Hughes and Mr. J. Thomas (who carried out the work in the tower).

CLEVELAND AND NORTH YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION

A meeting of the Cleveland and North Yorkshire Association was held at Ormesby on Saturday, October 2nd. The attendance was not as good as was expected, but those who did attend made good use of the lovely peal of bells and had a very pleasant time.

Tea was provided at the Bungalow Cafe, presided over by the president, Mr. J. C. Pollard. The only business was to pass a vote of thanks to the Vicar and churchwardens for the use of the bells.

The Vicar visited the tower later in the evening and expressed regret that he was not able to be present at tea, but welcomed the association to Ormesby and wished that they would come more frequently.

Ringings continued until 8 p.m., the methods rung being Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Kent Treble Bob Minor and Major, Double Norwich and Superlative Surprise Major. Ringers attended from Middlesbrough, Stockton, Skelton, Saltburn, Guisborough, Leeds, Darlington and Ormesby.

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON GUILD.

A very happy and successful meeting of the Wednesday Afternoon Guild of the Durham and Newcastle Diocesan Association was held at St. George's Church, Jesmond, Newcastle-on-Tyne, on October 13th.

Tea was generously provided by the Vicar (the Rev. J. W. Woodhouse), after which a short meeting took place. A vote of thanks was accorded to the Vicar for the use of the bells, and to the ladies for preparing the tea.

It was decided to hold the next meeting at St. Mary's, Gateshead, on December 1st.

Towers were represented from North Shields, South Shields, Houghton-le-Spring, Gateshead, Chester-le-Street and from All Saints', St. George's and St. Nicholas' Cathedral, of Newcastle-upon-Tyne.

ARCHDEACONRY OF STAFFORD SOCIETY.

NEW BISHOP OF LICHFIELD BECOMES PATRON.

The autumn meeting of the Society for the Archdeaconry of Stafford took place at St. Bartholomew's Church, Penn, in beautiful weather, when about 60 members and lady friends took advantage of a trip into the country. The bells were raised at 3 o'clock and were kept going in a variety of methods, including London Surprise. A short service was conducted by the Rev. N. D. Fourdrinier, and an address given by the Vicar, the Rev. Edgar Hartill, M.A., R.D. Mr. Brewster officiated at the organ.

A capital tea, laid in the Parish Hall, was kindly provided by Mrs. A. C. Twentyman. The Vicar presided.

A letter was received from the new Bishop of Lichfield signifying his pleasure in becoming patron of the society, and accompanied by the hope of his meeting the members on some future occasion.

The next quarterly meeting is to be held at Coseley in January.

A meeting for practice is to take place at Penkridge, of which due notice will be given in 'The Ringing World.'

A vote of thanks to the Vicar for his address and the use of the bells, etc., to Mrs. A. C. Twentyman for providing the tea, and to all who had assisted in making provision for the comfort and happiness of the visitors, was moved by the Rev. C. H. Barker, L.Th., and carried with applause.

A DAY ROUND OXFORD.

CRAYFORD RINGERS' EXCURSION.

The third annual outing of the Crayford ringers took place on Sunday, October 3rd. The ringers, and friends from West Wickham, Chislehurst, Dartford and Beckenham, made the journey by coach to Oxford. The bus left Crayford Church at the early hour of 7 a.m. and picked up various members of the party en route. In spite of protest of the driver, who considered that there was one too many in the vehicle, the three-hour journey to Oxford was much enjoyed by all the party.

Oxford was looking her best in the morning sun when the party arrived about 10 a.m. Mr. R. A. Post was patiently waiting at the car park to lead the way to All Saints' Church, where they were met by Mr. Walter Judge. The tenor here weighs only just over 7 cwt., and the bells are a really musical and easily handled peal. Kent Treble Bob, Grandsire and a course of Cambridge went well, the last named only being completed in time to set the bells up at backstroke before the morning service.

Coffee and biscuits were followed by a visit to the beautiful Christ Church Cathedral. The driver, having recovered from his little grievance, joined in the sightseeing tour, and afterwards at Stewart's Restaurant 23 enjoyed a very good lunch.

Some of the party remained sightseeing in Oxford while others made the journey to the delightful village of Appleton, where they were met by Mr. Richard White and other 'long-pealers.' Stedman and Grandsire Caters, Treble Bob Royal and a course of Cambridge on the back eight formed the fare here. The visitors seemed to have some difficulty with striking these bells, and, perhaps, the less said about our performance here the better. All were interested in the tablets recording the long peals, and in the photos of the bands, which they were given permission to view in the Thatched Tavern.

Returning to Oxford by another route, the Crayfordites were lucky to 'grab' another tower. The Vicar of Cumnor, Berks, was kind enough to allow them to ring there for half an hour. Those are a rather heavy six of 19½ cwt., and very musical. Treble Bob, Plain Bob, Grandsire and the inevitable Cambridge were rung. After tea in Oxford a move was made to St. Giles', where Mr. V. Bennett and other members of the local band greeted the visitors. Stedman, Cambridge, Grandsire and Plain Bob were rung on this very ancient but musical peal, tenor 14 cwt. At 7.15 p.m. a visit was paid to the Church of St. Mary the Virgin, with its magnificent peal of six bells, tenor 27 cwt. The bells were first raised in peal, then Kent Treble Bob and a few rounds were rung, and a fitting climax to a very enjoyable day was reached by a perfect course of Cambridge Minor, to which 'Tubby' turned in the tenor. The bells were afterwards lowered in peal, sounding out with a touching majesty across the ancient city where all had spent such a happy day. A happy party arrived home about 11.30 p.m. and wish to convey their thanks to all incumbents and towerkeepers, those whose names are here mentioned and those whose names are not, and most of all to Mr. R. A. Post, who gave up his whole day to entertaining the excursionists.

WORCESTERSHIRE ASSOCIATION.

WESTERN BRANCH OFFICERS' SUCCESSFUL WORK.

Fourteen towers were represented when the Western Branch of the Worcestershire and Districts Association held its annual meeting at St. John's, Worcester, on Saturday, October 16th, and though the attendance was below expectations, the 34 members present formed an enthusiastic company. The Church of St. John the Baptist contains a very pleasant ring of eight bells, hung on ball bearings, the tenor weighing 15½ cwt. These were made good use of from 3 o'clock until 4.15, when a short service, with address, was held, conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. C. T. Powell. Tea was served in the Parish Hall, where the business meeting was afterwards held.

The Vicar presided, and supporting him were Messrs. J. R. Newman and R. G. Knowles (vice-presidents), E. E. Barber and S. T. Holt (auditors), C. Camm (Branch Ringing Master), G. E. Large (hon. secretary and treasurer), W. Ranford (Central Committee) and W. Lewis (Ringing Master, St. John's). Apologies were read from Major M. F. S. Jewell (hon. member) and Mr. J. D. Johnson (general hon. secretary).

All the officers were re-elected and had many 'bouquets' handed to them. The Branch Ringing Master was complimented on the way he looked after the ringing at meetings. 'Charlie' Camm has held that office for many years and there seems to be no desire for a change on the part of members. In another 20 years or so he will perhaps have qualified for a grandmother clock, but he, being a modern version of Hercules, will doubtless require one of the grandfather variety.

Messrs. E. E. Barber and R. G. Knowles paid tribute to the work of the hon. secretary, congratulating him upon the flourishing condition of the branch.

The Chairman caused much amusement by saying: 'This esteemed gentleman, the hon. secretary, has so much correspondence to attend to that he has to-day moved into a larger house.'

Mr. G. E. Large, in reply, thanked the speakers for the nice things they had said about him. As he had their confidence, he would be pleased to hold the secretaryship of the branch another year.

'Bill' Ranford was warmly thanked for his services as representative to the Central Committee, but the chairman's efforts to get him to speak failed, for 'Father' took refuge behind an imaginary cold!

It was reported that the quarterly peal attempted at Longdon had failed. Mr. W. Lewis was delegated to arrange the quarterly peal to be rung at St. John's. The secretary said he had received a strong invitation for the branch to hold its next meeting at Ripple, and there were also invitations from Ombersley. This latter place was chosen after some discussion, on account of its being nearer to the majority of towers in the branch in the event of bad weather. Ripple was placed on the minutes as the first choice for the summer meeting.

Three new members were elected and one re-elected.

Mr. J. R. Newman, in proposing a vote of thanks to the Rev. C. T. Powell, said it gave him extra pleasure to do so, because he had had intimate connections with St. John's all his life. He asked the chairman to accept their sincere thanks for giving up so much of his time that afternoon and evening.

To this the Vicar replied, saying it had given him pleasure to do what he had done. They were, he knew, anxious to get back to the tower before the customary service at seven o'clock, after which they would ring on until the police stopped them!

Methods rung during the day ranged from Oxford Bob Triples to Cambridge Surprise. One or two of the experts were 'floored' when a member of the Dodderhill band asked for Darlaston Bob Triples—'What's that?' and 'How does it go?' might have been (but wasn't) answered by 'This is where you get off!'

A GAINSBOROUGH BRIDE.

TAKES PART IN HER WEDDING RINGING.

The wedding took place at Gainsborough Parish Church on Saturday, October 9th, of Mr. Eric Grey and Miss Ethel Marshall, both of Gainsborough.

Canon Witworth, vice-president of the Northern Branch of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild, officiated, and the ceremony was witnessed by a large number of friends and relations, including about a dozen ringers.

The bride is a very popular ringer in the district and is a member of the Gainsborough band. She has rung about 25 peals for the Lincoln Diocesan Guild, the North Notts Association and the Ladies' Guild. A few years ago she was one of the band of lady ringers who rang a peal of Bob Major at Handsworth, Yorks, and in January of this year she was one of the band of ladies who made an unsuccessful attempt of Double Norwich in the same tower.

A peal had been suggested in honour of the event, but as there were others present besides the peal band, and in order that the bride could ring on her own wedding day, the idea was abandoned and the afternoon was spent in ringing touches in various methods.

The couple received numerous presents, and on behalf of the Gainsborough and district ringers Mr. F. S. W. Butler, in a few well-chosen remarks, presented them with two cases of spoons and forks. He said how much the services of the bride had been appreciated as a ringer and wished the happy couple every success and happiness in the future.

The honeymoon was spent in Boston, and Mr. and Mrs. Grey's home is now in Gainsborough.

THE START OF METHODS.

SUGGESTED CHANGE FOR STEDMAN, GRANDSIRE, ETC.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I quite agree with Mr. H. Miles that a change in the start of Stedman should be made this year, for the reason that he gives and also because there would be no dodge at the start if the first row after rounds was the first row of a 'six.'

I have always thought it a campanological error that methods like Stedman, Grandsire, Oxford and Kent Treble Bob and Forward should start with a dodge; it is as though we were unwilling to leave rounds and pass on to changes.

In my humble opinion, the dodge would sound better at the end of a lead, plain course or touch instead of at the beginning. Probably the reason why the Plain Bob method has such musical charm is because all the bells do a plain hunt for as long as possible and also because the dodge comes at the end of a lead, when the treble is leading, therefore we ought to take the Plain Bob method as our criterion.

In its present form, the dodging occurs in Grandsire when the bell in the hunt is leading. In my opinion, Grandsire would be improved if the dodging occurred when the treble is leading. In order to achieve this, the bell in the hunt would have to lead immediately before the treble leads always, and the bell that the bell in the hunt turns from lead would have to make 3rd's place. The bell in the hunt in the plain course would be the 3rd and not the 2nd. Starting Stedman with the first row of a quick 'six' would make the go off similar to this new start in Grandsire.

Turning to the even-bell methods, I would have a Plain Bob go off for Oxford, and nearly the same for Kent and Forward, except for the place-making in 3-4.

W. A. WOOLER.

LADY RINGER MARRIED.

A pretty wedding of interest to ringers took place on Saturday, October 9th, at St. George's Church, Brede, when Miss Joan Kingdon, secretary of the Brede belfry, was married to Mr. Robin Home McCall, solicitor, of Bexhill.

The bride, in her mother's wedding gown of heavy ivory satin, was attended by a page, in kilt of the McBeth tartan, and three bridesmaids wearing dresses of shot gold taffeta, carrying bouquets of golden brown chrysanthemums and dahlias named 'Joan Kingdon' after the bride.

Guides formed a guard of honour and the bells were rung before and after the service by members of the tower, and later a peal of Bob Minor by members of the Sussex County Association and Hastings District Guild was rung as recorded last week.

Miss Kingdon, with her sister, learned to ring at Worplesdon, Surrey, before removing to Brede about three years ago.

A MONMOUTHSHIRE TOUR.

On Saturday, September 25th, a band of Monmouthshire ringers visited several towers in the neighbourhood of Raglan, Tregare (5 bells), Penrhos (4 bells), Llanarth (6 bells) and Usk (8 bells). The party were given a very hearty reception at Penrhos, where tea was provided for them, by the Vicar and his wife. The band, under the leadership of the Rev. I. J. Richards, Master of the Llandaff and Monmouth Diocesan Association, were Miss G. M. Smith, Messrs. W. Powell, R. Smith, S. Bamford, G. John, of Llanfrehfa, J. W. Jones, L. Bainham, of All Saints', Newport, A. Williams, Llangibby, and G. Popnell, Bedwelty. Thanks are due to the Vicars and tower keepers of the towers visited.

BRISTOL SURPRISE MAJOR.

To the Editor.

Sir,—About two years ago Mr. C. W. Roberts, of London, sent me a peal of Bristol Surprise with one lead short of the full extent of 4, 5 and 6 in 6th's in 13 courses, asking me if I could improve upon it. I sent the two following peals as my best contribution. In your issue of September 10th you publish a very good peal by Mr. T. B. Worsley on the same lines. Incidentally all these peals have one lead missing.

A RARE MEETING PLACE.

WARWICKSHIRE GUILD AT STRATFORD-ON-AVON.

Ringings meetings at Stratford-on-Avon are, of necessity, few and far between, only four having been held there during the last 30 years. However, despite the fact that Stratford is right on the edge of the county, such meetings have always been found to be well attended, and at the meeting held there on October 16th by the Warwickshire Guild the attendance was above the average for quarterly meetings. Ringers attended from all parts of Warwickshire, towers represented including Bulkington, Keresley, Stoke, Chilvers Coton, Nuneaton, Leamington Hastings, Lillington, Erdington, Allesley, Exhall, Warwick, and members of the local band. Welcome visitors included the Rev. E. S. and Mrs. Powell, of Staverton, Mr. E. Pearson, of the Oxford Guild, and others from Banbury and Mickleton.

Before the business meeting the Rector, the Rev. Canon W. G. Melville, who has recently celebrated his jubilee in the priesthood, ascended the tower and in a short speech welcomed the Guild and expressed the wish that they would 'come again.'

At the business meeting Mr. F. W. Perrens was chairman. Meeting places were discussed and were arranged as follows: November at Poiesworth, December at Berkswell, and the January quarterly meeting at Chilvers Coton.

The following new members were elected: Messrs. R. C. Chapman, R. Walker, S. Oughton and S. J. Oughton. A very welcome 'new member' was Mr. J. F. Simpson. He was a member of the Stoke, Coventry, band from 1919 until 1925, when he went to reside in Oxfordshire. He has now returned to live at Warwick.

Touches in various methods from rounds and Bob Triples to Surprise were rung on the bells during the afternoon and evening.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS A BELLRINGER.

PRESENTATION AT TRURO.

At Truro Cathedral on Tuesday, October 18th, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples was rung to commemorate the completion by Mr. W. H. Southard of 25 years as a member of the Truro Cathedral company.

Mr. Southard is the only remaining member of the original band formed in 1912. He was Master of the company from 1924 to 1932, and has been Vice-Master and treasurer for the last two years.

After the quarter-peal he was presented with a suitably engraved silver bell inkstand by the members of the company as a token of appreciation of his services.

The ringers in the quarter-peal were Miss M. Penrose 1, W. H. Southard 2, Miss E. J. C. Angwin 3, W. E. Minors 4, H. Williams 5, W. H. Sleeman 6, C. E. Laxton (conductor) 7, J. Treloar 8.

HALF-PEALS.

On Monday, September 20th, at the Parish Church of St. Cynwyd, Llangynwyd, members of the Llandaff and Monmouth Diocesan Association rang a half-peal of Grandsire Doubles (2,520 changes) in 1 hour 35 minutes: E. Stith (conductor) 1, T. H. Roderick 2, J. Hale 3, Ivor Bassett 4, John Ryland 5, J. David 6. It was the first attempt and longest length by ringers of 3, 4, 5 and 6, who are local men, and was rung as a farewell to the Rev. J. J. Thomas, curate-in-charge, who is leaving the parish, and whose departure will be a very great loss to the Guild and the church in general. The half-peal was also rung for the wedding of Mr. O. Bowser, a ringing member of the Guild, whose marriage took place earlier in the day.

At Wallasey, Cheshire, on Thursday, September 23rd, a half-peal of Minor, consisting of 720 each of Cambridge Surprise, Kent Treble Bob and Plain Bob, and 360 Oxford Bob, was rung by J. Ledsham (longest length) 1, L. L. Gray 2, F. Varty 3, A. Howard 4, H. Rogers 5, T. Rogers (conductor) 6. A welcome to the Rev. F. G. A. Willis, the first assistant curate St. Nicholas' Church has ever had.

As a farewell to Canon A. G. G. Ross, who is leaving Swindon after 45 years' ministration, a peal of Stedman Triples (Thurstans' Four-Part) was attempted at St. Mark's, Swindon, on Saturday, September 25th, but owing to a ringer's indisposition the bells were allowed to run home at half-way: C. J. Gardiner 1, W. W. T. Daniell 2, S. Palmer 3, C. J. Hathaway 4, W. H. Trueman 5, N. Allnatt 6, W. B. Kynaston (conductor) 7, E. Vincent 8.

MRS. PENNINGTON BICKFORD'S BIRTHDAY.

On Sunday evening, October 17th, for evening service at St. Andrew's Church, Holborn, as a birthday compliment to Mrs. L. Pennington Bickford, wife of the Rector of St. Clement Danes, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples: John R. Wilson (first quarter-peal on eight bells) 1, J. S. Hawkins 2, R. W. Green 3, H. C. Alford 4, W. H. Seabrook 5, A. C. Darnell (conductor) 6, T. G. Bannister 7, C. H. Vitter 8.

On Monday, October 18th, a peal of Bob Royal was rung at St. Clement Danes as a compliment to Mrs. Pennington Bickford.

GOLDEN WEDDING BELLS.

At St. Peter's Church, Hersham, Surrey, on Friday, October 22nd, to celebrate the golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Painter, of Hersham, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples was rung: F. Oakley 1, W. Simmonds 2, J. Gill 3, J. Loveridge 4, G. Curtis 5, H. Colcombe 6, F. Dodson (conductor) 7, W. Mills 8. The bells were then 'fired' and lowered in peal. All the band belong to the local company.

CANDLES FAIL AND END PEAL ATTEMPT.

On Wednesday evening, September 29th, a company met at Bromley Parish Church for a peal of Bob Major as a compliment to Mrs. F. E. Pitman, whose birthday occurred on September 27th. On arrival at the church it was discovered that the electric light was off, but candles were hurriedly fetched by Mr. Mounter from his home (it was early closing day and shops were shut) and a good start was made. Unfortunately, after 24 hours, first one then another of the candles expired, and in the semi-darkness a trip ended the attempt after 2 hours 50 minutes' good ringing. Those taking part were E. Mounter 1, F. E. Pitman 2, A. Purdon 3, J. Lyddiard 4, W. Grace 5, J. Bennett (conductor) 6, P. A. Corby 7, J. Dafters 8.

DON'T SCRUB YOUR HANDS!

skin this simple way*

To many people, the problem of getting the hands really clean without harming the skin is a serious one. Grease and grime, which become deeply ingrained into the pores of the skin, are extremely difficult to remove, and ordinary washing with soap or even scrubbing will fail to remove them completely. Housewives, particularly, who complain that their hands get ruined by the nature of their work, will find the preparation called DERMAFOAM, a real "godsend." DERMAFOAM just smooths away dirt and grease without effort. It gets right down into the pores and removes every particle of grime, leaving skin beautifully supple and healthy.

Men, too—when you've finished that dirty job on the car, DERMAFOAM will quickly banish all grease and oil from your hands. It acts almost magically—working under and around the nails and into every minute crease, removing all trace of dirt in a flash.

Engineers, Painters, Car Mechanics, Printers — everyone — will welcome DERMAFOAM, the modern method of cleansing and protecting the hands.

COLLEGE YOUTHS' TERCENTENARY.

To-day is the tercentenary of the Ancient Society of College Youths, which was founded on the fifth of November, 1637. Three hundred years of unbroken existence is a wonderful and honourable record for any organisation, and the ringing Exercise is proud of the venerable society which has achieved this great distinction. The good wishes and sincere congratulations of ringers everywhere will go out to the society on this historic occasion, and the celebrations which take place in London to-morrow have, of course, a special interest and significance.

Among ancient guilds, the annual 'feast' was the great event of the year. In the College Youths this social feature has been maintained for more than two and a half centuries, even if not from the very beginnings of the society, and this year's gathering promises to be by far the biggest in all the long line of similar festivities. In addition there are to be two other events of interest, one the service in St. Paul's Cathedral, which confers a special honour on the society, whose members have always been responsible for the service ringing there since the present bells were installed nearly sixty years ago, and the other a tribute to the Master of 1685, Sir Henry Tulse, who was Lord Mayor of London in the same year that he was at the head of the College Youths.

The history of the society, as Mr. J. A. Trollope so well remarks in his recently published work, is an epitome of the history of the ringing Exercise. Its foundations go back to the very beginnings of the art of change ringing, and it is the one definite connecting link which we have with those far-off days. Through all the changing and shifting fortunes of the centuries, the College Youths have gone on, not always, of course, without internal difficulties and dissensions of their own, but unbroken in continuity, thus forming, as it were, a core round which the Exercise has grown and developed.

It has played in its time a vital part in the maintenance of the art, and the veneration in which it is held to-day is due to its share in the development of change ringing in the past as well as to the antiquity of the roots. If in these days of territorial organisations, other forces are moulding the Exercise, it does not detract from the admiration which is felt for the position which the old society has filled through all the generations that have come and gone since Lord Brereton was elected the first Master, but a little fuller recognition of these forces in some quarters would expand rather than lessen the influence of the society in the future, and certainly its dignity would suffer no loss.

This tercentenary celebration should bring the society an increased prosperity. Under its present ordering it cannot compete with the activities of the 'modern' organisations, its scope is too circumscribed. Its membership is nation-wide, but its operations are really parochial, and there are those who would not have it otherwise. The special interest which this auspicious occasion is attracting to the society, however, can be turned to valuable account, and we hope the old society will continue to gather strength and influence as the years go by. To-day every ringer will turn his thoughts to the College Youths and, in the terms of its time-honoured toast, wish it continued success and prosperity.

PEAL NOTES.

COLLEGE YOUTHS' COMMEMORATION PEALS.

To celebrate the tercentenary of the College Youths, a peal in four Spliced Surprise methods was rung at Watford on October 26th.

A tercentenary commemoration peal of Bristol Surprise Major was rung for the Ancient Society of College Youths at Portsmouth on Saturday. Would not London have been more appropriate?

A peal of Stedman Triples at Edgbaston on Saturday was rung by Birmingham and district members of the Ancient Society.

A Lancashire band of College Youths were unfortunate to lose a peal of Stedman Triples at Bolton on Friday, after an hour and a half's splendid ringing.

A peal of Stedman Caters at Haslemere on October 30th was a congratulatory peal to the Ladies' Guild on their silver jubilee, and to the College Youths on their tercentenary.

The ladies added another event to the celebration of the silver jubilee of their Guild, when, on Saturday, they rang a peal of Double Norwich Major at Harlow Common, on a ring of bells with tenor of 12 cwt. Our readers will note that the names in the 'official' record appear without any 'prefix,' but for the information of those who do not otherwise know we may say that the married outnumber the unmarried by three to one.

A report of a peal at Benfieldside, Co. Durham, has been sent without the name of the conductor.

A belated 'Coronation' peal was rung at Southport, Lancashire, on October 26th. The band met short on the eve of Coronation Day and had not since been able to make the attempt. Mr. J. Ridyard was in the original company, but was unfortunately prevented by indisposition from taking part last week in the peal of Stedman Triples that was rung. The thanks of the band are tendered to Mr. William Dickenson for his generous hospitality after the peal.

The first peal of Stedman Triples on the bells of Aberdare, Glamorganshire, was rung on October 28th as a birthday peal to Mrs. John Phillips, of Cardiff. Mr. Phillips was unfortunately unable to take part in the peal.

Another band in Lincolnshire seems to be building up its multi-method performances. On October 29th, at Dunholme, they went on to 21 Minor methods in a peal of seven 720's. It involved 136 changes of method.

Mr. Ernest Stone, of Nunenton, rang his one hundredth peal for the Warwickshire Guild on October 30th.

The first peal of London Surprise on the bells at Ufford, Suffolk, on October 30th was a birthday compliment to Mrs. A. Wightman, Mr. Leslie C. Wightman's mother.

Five members of the local band took part in a peal at Sherburn-in-Elmet, Yorks, on October 23rd; two of them, including one lady, rang their first peal and two others their first peal of Bob Major, including the conductor.

Six ringers at East Markham, Notts, rang their first peal of Double Norwich Major at the first attempt on October 23rd.

Mr. John Pennell, standing in at a moment's notice at Holbrook, Suffolk, on October 25th, rang his first peal, which consisted of seven 720's of Bob Minor.

Messrs. Edward Davey and Urban Wildney rang their 25th peal together when they took part in a peal of Bob Major at Great Holland, Essex, on October 23rd. It was Mr. Wildney's first peal of Major as conductor.

A peal in seven different Minor methods at Butterwick, Lincs, on October 23rd, Mr. Albert E. Flatters rang his first peal of Minor as conductor and his first 720's of five of the methods.

Mr. Joseph Wren, of East Grinstead, Sussex, has completed 50 years of ringing at the Parish Church, and celebrated the jubilee by taking part in his first peal of Stedman Triples on October 23rd and at the same time 'completing the circle' on the bells.

FIRST FOR FORTY YEARS.

The first quarter-peal of Major for 40 years on the heavy ring of eight at St. Lawrence Jewry, London, was rung by the St. Lawrence Jewry Guild on October 31st, for evening service, in 50½ minutes: G. A. Parsons 1, G. W. Fogden 2, F. Corney 3, F. C. Shorter (first as conductor) 4, R. Allen (first quarter of Bob Major) 5, G. F. D. Pratt 6, E. Murrell (first quarter of Bob Major) 7, A. A. Hughes 8.

LEEDS AND DISTRICT SOCIETY.

VISIT TO EAST ARDSLEY.

The October meeting of the Leeds and District Society was held at East Ardsley on Saturday last. Ringing took place from 3.30 p.m. to 9 p.m. except for the breaks for tea and the business meeting, which was held in the tower. The president was chairman and members were present from Armley, Batley, Birstall, Bradford Cathedral, Burley, Drighlington, Holbeck, Headingley (St. Chad's and St. Michael's), Idle, Leeds Parish Church, Rothwell, Sherburn, Shipley and the local company, also Mr. J. Rothwell, of Rotherham, and the Rev. Andrews, of Leeds.

A vote of thanks was accorded to the Vicar, churchwardens and the local company, and the date and place of the next meeting were fixed for November 27th at Birstall.

FOR BEGINNERS.

A SIMPLE LESSON IN CHANGE RINGING.

When you begin change ringing the fewer bells you use at the start, the easier, obviously, will it be to observe and understand what you are doing. For that reason some instructors prefer to start their young ringers on four bells only and others on five.

For the sake of the public it is often best to confine the four-bell practice to handbells, if they are available, for the necessarily slow ringing which changes on four bells involves is not always appreciated. Nevertheless, changes on four bells only are a valuable means of starting a beginner, because, unless he is very dense, an explanation with paper and pencil, coupled with the practical demonstration, should quickly enable him to grasp what is required of him and to see something of the principles of change ringing.

In the previous article of this series (page 698), dealing with progress from call changes to half-pull ringing, we showed how plain hunting was effected; namely, how, with six bells, by changing first all three pairs and then the two middle pairs successively, a 'course' of twelve changes was produced, which brought the bells back to rounds.

On any number of bells this method of procedure will produce twice as many changes as there are bells employed. So that if you reduce your change ringing at the start to practice on four bells, your 'course' will be eight changes. But having thus rung a 'course', until you can definitely see your way up and down—starting from the lead, first over one, then over two and next over three bells until you are 'behind,' and then over three bells, over two bells and over one bell respectively until it is again your turn to lead—you will quickly want to go on to ring the rest of the 24 changes of which four bells are capable.

To do this, each time the treble leads, the bell which led before it, and then immediately strikes over the treble, has another blow in 2nd's, making a 'whole pull' over the treble and then leads again. That is called making 2nd's place and it causes the other two bells to make a 'dodge'; that is, instead of continuing their course, after passing one another, they step back a place before going on.

If, for instance, at the end of the hunting course no 2nd's place is made you will have the bells striking in order in each change as shown in A, but if 2nd's place is made you get a new succession of rows as shown in B:—

3 4 1 2	3 4 1 2
3 1 4 2	3 1 4 2
1 3 2 4	1 3 2 4
1 2 3 4	1 3 4 2
2 1 4 3	3 1 2 4
2 4 1 3	3 2 1 4

In B, the 2nd is said to dodge in 4-3 (sometimes described as 3-4 down) and the 4th in 3-4 (otherwise 3-4 up). The one is after a whole pull behind, the other before the whole pull behind.

This work does not interfere with the 'plain hunting' of the treble, and it is cyclical for the other three bells. Each makes 2nd's, and dodges in 4-3 and 3-4 in turn, but they begin the cycle at different places. It comes in this order after leading:—

	2nd bell	4th bell	3rd bell
First lead	dodge 4-3	dodge 3-4	2nd's place
Second lead	dodge 3-4	2nd's place	dodge 4-3
Third lead	2nd's place	dodge 4-3	dodge 3-4

Remember when dodging over another bell you must 'hold up' a little, and when dodging under you must cut down just a little. Unless you do, you will break the rhythm. Your ears can tell you whether you are too close or too wide. Use them.

TEACHING BEGINNERS.

A letter from Mr. F. E. Dawe in reply to Mr. Stephen Wood is unavoidably held over until next week.

ANOTHER OCTAVE FOR LANCASHIRE

TREBLES DEDICATED AT POULTON.

Two new treble bells have been added to the six at Poulton-le-Fylde, Lancashire, and they were dedicated by the Bishop of Blackburn as they stood in the chancel on Sunday. Ever since 1911 there have been two pits provided for them, and the bells have now been given by an anonymous donor.

They weigh 3½ cwt. and 3¾ cwt. respectively and are inscribed:—
'Peace. To commemorate the reign of King George V. and Queen Mary.'

'Goodwill. To commemorate the Coronation of King George VI. and Queen Elizabeth.'

The old six came from the foundry of Abel Rudhall in 1741 and were restored and hung in a frame for eight in 1911. The new bells have been cast at the Whitechapel Foundry.

FIRST QUARTER-PEALS.

KILBURN, LONDON.—At St. Augustine's Church on Thursday, October 7th, 1,264 Bob Major: A. Bone 1, Mrs. R. Pacey 2, Miss B. Hart 3, S. Pacey 4, Rev. H. G. Benson 5, Rev. B. F. Sheppard 6, C. D. Nichols 7, E. M. Atkins (conductor) 8. First quarter-peat of Major by ringers of 1, 2, 3 and 4. Rung for the dedication festival of the church.

HALESOWEN'S INTERESTING BELLS.

* WORK OF AN OLD EDGBASTON FOUNDER.

A successful meeting of the Northern Branch of the Worcestershire Association was held at Halesowen, when over 50 ringers and friends were present.

Halesowen Parish Church is dedicated to St. John the Baptist and constructed in successive styles of architecture, the tower being commenced about 1390 and completed in 1440. The bells are particularly interesting, and F. W. Hackwood, a local historian, gives the following details in his book, 'Oldbury and round about.'

The bells of Halesowen are a musical set of eight in the key of E justly admired for their clearness of tone. Six of these were placed in the steeple in the year 1707 and not improbably the old bells were recast at the same time. Some half-century after this a gentleman named Skittleton on a visit from London, while admiring the sweetness of the tone in the bells, at the same time lamented that they were not a perfect octave and generously offered to rectify the fault by presenting the first and second bells. The offer was accepted and on the arrival of the new bells they were welcomed by a public demonstration. At first they were fixed in a frame over the other bells, but this arrangement being found inconvenient, they were afterwards fixed in a range, which was ingeniously effected by raising the carriages of the two largest bells.

The trebles were cast by Lester and Pack, of London, in 1753, and the others by Joseph Smith, of Edgbaston, in 1707. Joseph Smith lived opposite the Swan Inn, at Edgbaston, and his name appears on many bells in the Midlands which were cast in the early 18th century, some of them, however, being no credit to his memory. The sixth was subsequently recast by Robert Wells, of Aldbourne, in 1778, and thereby hangs a tale.

It was an old custom on Shrove Tuesday immediately the hour of eleven in the morning had struck for the ringers to strike the bells with hammers as well as ringing them. On one occasion the 6th was cracked and remained so until a woman named Susannah Box indicted the churchwardens for having a cracked bell. They had it recast with their own names upon it in 1778.

The tenor is in the region of 16-17 cwt., and has a number of William III. coins cast on it. It is inscribed as follows:—

'When the sound of bells doth pierce the ear,
Come to church God's word to hear.
My mournful voice doth warning give,
That here men cannot always live.'

The 5th is inscribed:—

'Be it known to all that doth me see,
That Joseph Smith in Edgbaston made all we.'

There were evidently bells in Halesowen as early as 1518, since the accounts for that year record the payment of 5 marks to a bell founder of Nottingham.

At the gathering of the Worcestershire Association the Rector (the Rev. J. T. Davies) conducted a service and gave a very helpful address. Afterwards the association was entertained to tea by the local ringers, and a collection taken for the Belfry Repairs Fund which realised 17s. 2d.

A business meeting followed, presided over by the Rector, supported by Mr. William Short (Association Ringing Master), Mr. Thomas Hemming (Branch Ringing Master) and Mr. J. S. Mason (branch secretary).

The next meeting was arranged to take place in January at Stourbridge, and the arrangements for the quarterly peal, to be attempted at Halesowen, were left in the hands of the Ringing Master.

The Branch Ringing Master expressed a wish to retire, and Mr. John Lloyd, of Brierley Hill, was elected in his place.

The branch secretary, Mr. J. S. Mason, and the Central Committee representative, Mr. John Bass, were re-elected for another year.

The secretary read a letter from Mr. Hector Bird, an honorary member, resigning from the association, he having left the county. His resignation left a vacancy for an honorary member on the Central Committee, and to overcome this Mr. W. B. Cartwright, of Selly Oak, was elected an honorary member, his name being recommended by the branch to fill the vacancy caused.

The Rector of Halesowen was elected an honorary member, and Messrs. C. Tintern, of Wollaston, J. Knott and C. Skipton, of Wordsley, as performing members. The belfry elections of Mr. W. J. Davidson, of Newcastle-on-Tyne, and Mr. F. J. Hinton, of Claverley, were duly ratified.

A vote of thanks to the chairman and the local ringers was carried with applause, and Mr. W. H. Webb, replying, invited the association to come to Halesowen a little more often to ring peals.

Upon returning to the tower the ringing ranged from rounds to London and Bristol Surprise Major.

LANCASHIRE VETERAN'S DEATH.

We regret to record the death of Mr. Joseph Wood, of Friezland, Greenfield, near Oldham, who passed away on October 25th. He had reached the advanced age of eighty and had been a ringer for 64 years. He rang in a 720 of Oxford Treble Bob on his birthday, and only a fortnight before his death walked two miles and rang a 504 for morning service.

GUILDFORD DIOCESAN GUILDJOINT MEETING WITH LADIES AT ALDERSHOT.

The Farnham District of the Guildford Diocesan Guild was joined by the Southern District of the Ladies' Guild at a meeting at Aldershot on Saturday, October 30th. There was a large gathering of ringers and friends from various parts of the Guild, including Bagshot, Yorktown, Worplesdon, Guildford, Portsea, Clandon, Chertsey, Ash, Old Woking, Farnham, Egham, Bentley, Hawley and the local tower. During the afternoon and again in the evening the bells were rung to touches in the standard methods, with rounds for learners.

A fully choral service was conducted by the Rev. J. B. Rowsell (Vicar of Aldershot), who gave an inspiring address on the work of the ringers for the church and how the bells play an important part in the life of our country.

A splendid tea had been prepared in the Parish Hall by lady ringers of the Aldershot tower, and between 80 and 90 persons enjoyed the meal.

Mr. E. Gower expressed a welcome to the Vicar to the Guild meetings, it being the first meeting at Aldershot since Mr. Rowsell's induction as Vicar. Mr. Gower also thanked the Vicar for conducting the service. A suitable reply was made by Mr. Rowsell, who apologised for having to leave to take another service.

Mr. W. A. Dollimore (an honorary member) was in the chair for the business.

The retiring officers were renominated for 1938, viz., Mr. R. Hasted (Ringing Master), Mr. C. W. Denyer (hon. secretary), Mr. P. Eldridge (auditor), Mr. W. A. Dollimore (hon. representative), and Messrs. T. Upshall and F. Nye (ringing representatives on the Executive Committee).

The meeting stood in silence to the memory of an hon. member (Mr. E. J. Hickox, Mus.Bac., of Bagshot), who had passed away since the last meeting. The action of the secretary in sending a wreath for the funeral was confirmed.

Mr. G. L. Grover (Guildford District secretary) congratulated the Farnham band on their ringing broadcast. It was gratifying to know that the only tower in the Guildford Guild to have had their bells broadcast had not let the Guild down, said Mr. Grover.

It was announced by the secretary that all tower captains had not yet replied regarding the number of ringers able to attend Wednesday afternoon meetings, so no decision could yet be reached.

Hearty thanks were extended to the organist and choir, and a special vote of thanks accorded the lady caterers.

The Ladies' Guild then held their business meeting, at which Mrs. Bruce (vice-president) presided and 16 ladies were present. Miss E. Pascoe, of Aldershot, was elected a member, and it was proposed to hold the next meeting, if possible, at Shalford, in February, 1938.

DURHAM AND NEWCASTLE ASSOCIATION.ARCHDEACON'S APPEAL TO CLERGY.

A special meeting of the association was held at the Parish Church, Bishop Auckland, on Saturday, October 23rd, on the invitation of the Vicar and Rural Dean (Canon A. B. Parry-Evans). Only 22 were present, but an enjoyable time was spent by all.

Following the afternoon's ringing, a service was conducted by the Vicar, and an adjournment made for tea. The president (Mr. M. D. Oubridge, of Gosforth) thanked the Vicar for his hospitality, and Canon Parry-Evans, in his reply, welcomed the association to his tower. He regretted the apparent lack of ringers, and suggested that the associations and existing bands of ringers appeal through 'The Ringing World' and even the daily Press for members to come forward and attend conscientiously to Sunday service ringing. In touching upon the present-day opportunities for Sunday excursions, etc., the Canon said that he did not condemn these, realising their value in broadening the mind and giving a means of escape from the daily task. He did, however, appeal for church work to come first. God's purpose, he said, was for people to have liberty, but He did ask them to put Him first, and it was here that the ringers could help in their devotion to duty.

The tower was again visited, and after introductory remarks, the Canon called upon the Archdeacon of Auckland (the Ven. Leslie Owen) to unveil a peal board, recording a peal of Grandsire Triples rung to commemorate the Coronation. After the unveiling, the Archdeacon expressed his pleasure at being once more amongst ringers, and, addressing the clergy present, hoped they would support the ringers in their efforts. The country, he said, had passed through a difficult time and he hoped all would pray for the success of the present reign.

Mr. Oubridge thanked the Archdeacon for his remarks and assured him of the co-operation of ringers, and Mr. R. L. Patterson cited, as an instance, that during the week a mission had been held in Sunderland and the ringers in that town had combined to have the bells rung for service each evening during the week.

Two courses of Stedman Triples were rung for the benefit of the Archdeacon, and the remainder of the evening was devoted to further ringing, Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Kent, Plain Bob and Double Norwich Major being accomplished.

Two new members were elected at the meeting, and the following towers were represented: Gosforth, Darlington (Holy Trinity and St. Cuthbert's), Shildon, Staindrop, Sunderland (St. Ignatius'), Newcastle Cathedral, Durham Cathedral, Heighington, Kirkby Stephen and the local band.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

Now is the time to read Mr. J. A. Trollope's interesting new book, 'The College Youths.' The tercentenary of the society makes its appearance extremely opportune, and ringers who would like to know all about the history of this venerable ringing fraternity should not fail to read it.

Canon G. F. Coleridge, Vicar of Crowthorne, Berks, and Master of the Oxford Diocesan Guild, will be 80 years of age next Wednesday. Ringers everywhere will unite in congratulations and good wishes to the most popular man in the Exercise.

A change of venue for the jubilee dinner of the Chester Diocesan Guild on November 20th has been made. The dinner will be served at Clemences', Market Place, Chester.

After nine years as secretary of the Rochester District of the Kent County Association, Mr. S. J. T. Shellock has retired, and Mr. G. H. Spice has been elected to the office. A further report of the meeting held last Saturday at Rochester will appear in our next issue.

The unveiling of a peal board memorial to the late Mr. J. D. Drewett, formerly Master of the Surrey Association, is to take place at Mitcham Parish Church on November 27th on the occasion of a meeting of the North-Western District.

We are glad to say that Mr. Jim Bennett is making rapid recovery from the operation performed on him in St. Bartholomew's Hospital and hopes to be out at the end of this week. He thanks the many friends who have written to him.

The ring of eight bells recently installed at Christ Church, Ebbw Vale, by John Taylor and Co., were rung in thanksgiving on Friday, October 29th, when shortly after 10 p.m. the first blast furnace of Richard Thomas and Co.'s new plant was 'blown in.'

As the many processes to put the giant into commission proceeded, the bells sounded through the valley to rounds and 'Queen's,' the newly-formed band not yet being able to do any actual change ringing. The event was a momentous one in the history of the town.

FALSE PEALS.

To the Editor.

Sir,—In your leading article on the above you use the following phrases: (1) 'One wonders how many false peals really have been rung and have passed unnoticed'; and (2) 'The whole spirit of peal ringing . . . has been based upon the strict truth of what is rung.'

Could one ever come across two more contradictory and yet, under present conditions, perfectly true statements.

At present peals need not be true; the conductor only has to think they are—and the majority of conductors to-day have no real knowledge of proving a peal.

Nothing could better illustrate the haphazard consistently inconsistency of the Central Council than its present attitude to peals and their compositions: They must be true, and yet anyone can string together the necessary bobs, or bobs and singles, to produce the required length, and, provided there is no visible repetition, it may be rung and rerung and counted as a peal.

There would appear to be two solutions: (1) The publication of the figures of all peals. (2) The formation of a peal proving committee to whom figures should be submitted for proof before being allowed.

Both these would entail a certain amount of expense—(1) for printing, and (2) for 'search' fees; but composers should be willing to pay this in order to avoid subsequent disappointment by having peals withdrawn when someone finds the error.

I had intended raising this matter at the last Central Council meeting at Canterbury—as I stated in a former letter to you—but was unavoidably absent. The matter will be raised at Leeds by myself if no one else puts forward a motion, but I hope that this important matter will not be left to an unknown member of the Council. It would be better if someone whose name is a 'belfry' word in ringing circles would make the move.

WESTBURY TOWER REDEDICATED.

35,000 NEW SHINGLES ON SPIRE.

On Sunday last, October 31st, the 13th century tower and spire of the Parish Church of SS. Peter and Paul, Westbury-on-Severn, was reopened and dedicated by the Lord Bishop of Gloucester (the Right Rev. Dr. A. C. Headlam). The spire has been completely restored. The old shingles have been stripped off and new shingles to the number of 35,000 have been placed on it. The entire scheme of repair has cost £1,000 and the money has been raised apart from about £30.

After a shortened form of evensong, the choir, followed by the Vicar (the Rev. B. V. Borrowghs, M.A.), led the Lord Bishop out of the church to the detached bell tower.

In the course of the impressive ceremony at the tower the churchwardens presented the key of the tower to the Lord Bishop, and his lordship, after throwing open the doors, dedicated afresh the bells and spire to the glory of God and for the calling of the faithful to worship.

After prayers the ringers rang 120 Grandsire Doubles to inform the worshippers inside the church (it was pouring with rain at the time) that the dedication had taken place.

The ringers were Aubrey Vernal 1, A. Burlingham 2, Maurice Watkins 3, E. Gleed 4, A. Gibson (conductor) 5, Victor Gibson 6.

GRESFORD BELLS REOPENED.

ONE OF THE 'SEVEN WONDERS' OF WALES.

Gresford bells have the reputation of being 'one of the seven wonders of Wales,' and have been under restoration. They were reopened on Saturday, October 23rd. The weather, being rather unkind, prevented many ringers from attending, but a good muster, including ringers from Cheshire, Staffordshire and North Wales, took the opportunity of having a pull on the bells. The towers represented were Wrexham, Ruabon, Mold, Chester, Frodsham, Handbridge, Wallasey, Wistaston and Crewe.

GRESFORD PARISH CHURCH.

Ringings commenced at 2.30, and at a service in church, at which the Rev. Bowen officiated, an address was given by the Vicar (the Rev. W. Edwyn Jones), who expressed great pleasure in seeing so many ringers present.

Tea was provided in the Church House, presided over by the Vicar, who was thanked by Mr. Bibby on behalf of the visitors for inviting them to come and try the bells. It was, he said, always a pleasure to come to Gresford. During the evening the bells were again in great demand for both call changes and method ringing.

Congratulations by all present were showered on Gresford bellringers on the good 'job' that had been done, and it was regretted that Mr. Jack Reeves, of Messrs. Meurs and Stainbank, was not there to hear how delighted all were with the excellent 'go' of the bells. Ringing ended about 8.30. Time fled too quickly, and everyone voted that even if the weather was wet, a most enjoyable time had been spent.

ANSTON BAND'S RECORD.

RINGERS' LONG SERVICE TO THE CHURCH.

A remarkable record of service to the Church is provided by the ringers of Anston, near Sheffield. Of seven men who formed the six-bell band 30 years ago, six are living and five are still ringing. They are: Henry Stenton, 50 years; Francis Stenton, his son, 35 years; William Platts, 43 years; Charles Fowler, 60 years; Samuel Smith, 50 years; Herbert Turner, 45 years; Robert Smith, 50 years.

Their total length of service is 333 years. Mr. Samuel Smith, the oldest member of the party, died last Easter Day at the age of 85, and Mr. Robert Smith, 69 years old, gave up ringing about eight years ago for physical reasons. The other five are still ringers at the church. Mr. Charles Fowler, who is aged 77, is the conductor.

Four members of the party are also old members of the choir. They are Mr. Henry Stenton (aged 79), 50 years a chorister; Mr. Robert Smith (aged 69), 45 years; Mr. Herbert Turner (aged 60), 50 years; and Mr. Francis Stenton (aged 48), 40 years; a total of 185 years for the four men.

The ringers are members of the North Notts Association, the Yorkshire Association and the Sheffield and District Society.

LONG SERVICE AT SEDBERGH.

At Sedburgh, on October 31st, a quarter-peal of Superalive Surprise Major (1,280 changes): R. Atkinson 1, Miss N. Harrison 2, E. Pennington 3, J. Smith 4, T. Sisson 5, J. W. Pennington 6, H. Haresnap 7, G. P. Woodhouse (conductor) 8. Rung to celebrate the completion of 40 years' service on the part of the ringers of 1, 3, 5 and 8. Total service of the band 273 years and average age 57½ years.

THE COLLEGE YOUTHS' TERCENTENARY.

TO-MORROW'S CELEBRATION IN LONDON.

Laurel Wreaths in Memory of Famous Men.

Three hundred years ago to-day the Society of College Youths was founded in London, and Lord Brereton was elected the first Master. To-morrow the College Youths of 1937 will celebrate the tercentenary.

Ringers from all parts of the country are coming to London for the festival, the chief features of which, in addition to the dinner at the Cannon Street Hotel, will be the service at St. Paul's Cathedral, preceded by the unveiling of the restored memorial, at St. Dionys' Church, to Sir Henry Tulse, Lord Mayor of London and Master of the College Youths in 1684.

This latter ceremony is to take place at 3 o'clock, and the service at St. Paul's at 4 p.m. This will be the usual evensong, but a special hymn and anthem are to be sung, a course of Stedman Triples will be rung on handbells, and an address given by the Ven. Archdeacon of London. Seats will be reserved under the Dome for members and friends, and the collection will be for the society's Benevolent Fund and St. Paul's Cathedral.

The ringing for this service will begin at 3.30 and be carried out by the St. Paul's Cathedral band. St. Paul's belfry will not be open for visitors before the service.

The Master (Mr. E. H. Lewis) will receive the members and guests at Cannon Street Hotel at 5.15 p.m., and dinner, at which a company of nearly 420 is expected, will be served at six o'clock.

In view of the large number to be received, members are asked to be at the Cannon Street Hotel in good time.

Between 12.30 and 3 p.m. the bells of various city churches will be open for ringing.

To-day laurel wreaths are being placed by the society in Brereton Church, Cheshire, in memory of Lord Brereton, who is buried there; in St. Bride's, Fleet Street, in memory of Benjamin Annable, whose grave is near the tower; and in St. Benedict's Church, Cambridge, in memory of Fabian Stedman.

The inscriptions on the wreaths were as follows:—

From the Ancient Society of College Youths, in grateful memory of William, Lord Brereton, who founded the Society on 5th November, 1637, and was the first Master.

From the Ancient Society of College Youths, founded 5th November, 1637, in grateful memory of Fabian Stedman, who was Master of the Society in 1682.

From the Ancient Society of College Youths, founded 5th November, 1637, in grateful memory of Benjamin Annable, who was a member of the Society from 1722 to 1756 and Master in 1746.

On each inscription is the date 5th November, 1937.

The Editor of 'The Ringing World' will be glad if Past Masters who have not received a personal invitation to be included in a photographic group will kindly be present at St. Dionys' Church at 2.40 p.m. on Saturday.

On Sunday morning there will be ringing at St. Mary-le-Bow, Cheapside, at 10 o'clock, and at St. Clement Danes, Strand, at 10.30. Afterwards members and their friends are invited to meet the Master at Anderton's Hotel, Fleet Street.

Next week's issue of 'The Ringing World' will be a special 'Tercenary' number, and will contain a full report of Saturday's proceedings.

In connection with the coming tercentenary celebrations, eight members of the society resident in the Bromley, Kent, district met at SS. Peter and Paul's, Bromley, on October 28th, and rang a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples: T. Groombridge, sen. 1, A. Purdom 2, W. J. Rawlings 3, M. F. Oakshott 4, J. Lyddiard 5, S. J. Humphrey 6, I. Emery (conductor) 7, E. A. Young 8.

After the ringing Mr. Young kindly entertained the band, and the toast, 'The Ancient Society,' proposed by him, was duly honoured. Thanks to Mr. Young for his hospitality were expressed by Mr. Purdom.

WINCHESTER AND PORTSMOUTH DIOCESAN GUILD.

A quarterly meeting of the Alton and Petersfield District was held at Bramshott on Saturday, October 30th. Those present included the Rev. E. A. Berrisford (Rector of Bramshott), the Rev. F. G. Eyres (district chairman), the Rev. C. Minton-Senhouse (district vice-chairman) and ringing members from Bramshott, Blackmoor, Petersfield and Steep, with two unattached members, a total of 20. The bells were kept going during the afternoon and evening from rounds to Bob Minor.

The Guild's service was conducted by the Rector of Bramshott. Tea was provided in the Church Room, the catering being carried out by Mrs. Berrisford and lady helpers.

A short business meeting followed, at which two new ringing members were elected, viz., Mr. L. Marsh and Mr. A. Huley, both of Petersfield.

The usual votes of thanks were accorded, and the chairman specially thanked the Rector of Bramshott, himself a keen ringer, for all his preparation and the warm welcome he gave the meeting.

THE LANCASHIRE ASSOCIATION'S ANNUAL DINNER.

BIG GATHERING AT BLACKPOOL.

Presentation to Retiring Ringing Secretary.

The popularity of the annual dinner organised by the Lancashire Association was again demonstrated on Saturday. The event has been moved from place to place in the county, and this year the venue chosen was Blackpool, which, despite the fact that the 'season' was over and the 'illuminations' at an end, drew one of the largest gatherings of the series, which now extends to half a dozen. Members and friends came by train, car and coach from every branch of the association, Liverpool Branch contributing 55, Bolton Branch 48 and others in lesser numbers. Owing to the event clashing with the Blackpool Musical Festival, which took place at the Winter Garden near St. John's Parish Church, only one ring of bells was available in the afternoon, namely, that at the Roman Catholic Church of the Sacred Heart, and they were well utilised by numerous bands.

Dinner was served at the Imperial Hydro Hotel to a company numbering 250, genially presided over by the Rev. A. Scott, who last year succeeded the late Canon H. J. Elsee as president. Among those who attended were the Mayor of Blackpool, the Vicar of St. John's, Blackpool (the Rev. W. Yates), the Rev. W. S. Mellor (Rural Dean and Vicar of Poulton), Canon C. C. Marshall (president of the Yorkshire Association), Mr. C. Sharples (vice-president of the Lancashire Association) and Mrs. Sharples, Mr. W. H. Shuker (hon. secretary) and Mrs. Shuker, Mr. C. I. Davies (hon. treasurer), Mrs. and Miss Davies, Councillor W. Dickinson (Bolton), Mr. and Mrs. P. Crook (Bolton), Mr. and Mrs. S. Palmer (Sheffield), Mr. and Mrs. M. Wilson (Sheffield), Mrs. Cotterell and Mr. P. J. Johnson (Leeds), Mr. T. Maude (Pudsey), Mr. J. Hardcastle (Bradford), Mr. W. Holding (Crewe), Mr. S. Briggs (Rotherham), Mr. J. S. Goldsmith (hon. secretary, Guildford Diocesan Guild), etc.

After dinner the company honoured the loyal toast, given by the president to 'His Majesty the King—Duke of Lancaster.'

MAYOR'S WELCOME.

The Mayor of Blackpool gave the association a cordial welcome to the town. It was the first time they had held the annual dinner there, he said, and he hoped it was the first of many such visits. His Worship had some amusing stories to tell, and concluded by expressing the hope that from that gathering they would gain inspiration to carry on the good work they were doing.

The President thanked the Mayor for his welcome and said they were honoured to have his Worship among them.

The President said they had with them that night an old friend, who had for long years served the association well and truly as a member and later, for 14 years, had held one of the important offices; he referred to Mr. Arthur Tomlinson. Some time ago Mr. Tomlinson wrote to him offering his resignation from the post of ringing secretary. He was taking over a newsagent's business in Blackpool, which he knew would occupy most of his time, and he felt, after very much consideration, bound to offer his resignation. Although he (the president) would have liked to ask Mr. Tomlinson to reconsider his decision, he knew he would find his time fully occupied by his new business. Therefore, he (the president) felt that in fairness to Mr. Tomlinson he could not ask him to alter his decision, and he felt compelled, with deep and sincere regret, to accept the resignation. He (the speaker) knew he was voicing the opinion of everyone present who had any connection with the association that it would not be fitting to allow such a good friend to leave office, although they were not losing him from the association, without some tangible expression of their respect for him. They had, therefore, subscribed for a very handsome gold watch, which he was going to ask Mr. Tomlinson to receive as a token of their affection and their appreciation. The watch was inscribed: 'Presented to Arthur Tomlinson by the Lancashire Association of Change Ringers as a token of affection and appreciation of his loyal and unselfish services as ringing secretary.'

Mr. Tomlinson received the gift amid loud applause. He expressed his deep thanks and said he did not expect anything for the services he had rendered. The time during which he had been doing the work for the association had been the happiest 14 years of his life (applause).

A SUCCESSFUL ASSOCIATION.

Mr. J. S. Goldsmith submitted the toast of 'Prosperity to the Lancashire Association,' and congratulated them upon the magnificent gathering assembled that night. He reminded the members that theirs was one of the oldest of the territorial associations and that the ringing organisations of the South looked up to and admired the success which they had achieved. Since the days when the association was founded and when they felt it necessary to mention in their objects that the association was founded because the ranks of ringers 'have been sometimes of necessity filled up by those who have brought scandal upon the profession,' times had changed very considerably. The work of the association and of men like their late president, Canon Elsee, had altered all that. The Lancashire Association had had the loyalty and support of some splendid stalwarts, and he had discovered that their list of members included at least 50 who joined the association over 45 years ago. Such a record of experience was bound to be of great help to their new president, who, he hoped, had a long period of useful and successful work before him. He also hoped that there was no lack of youth coming on to take the place of the old hands, when, as it inevitably must, the time came for them to pass on. He hoped they would give the association every support and reminded them that they could expect to get nothing out of it unless they themselves first put something into it. In conclusion, Mr. Goldsmith referred to the splendid work done for the association by Mr. Shuker, Mr. Tomlinson, Mr. Sharples and the other officers, and wished the association every success in the future.

The Rev. W. S. Mellor, who replied, said the association was engaged in a great work for God and the Church, a service which took up much of their time, in addition to the time they had spent in attaining proficiency in an art which required a great amount of skill and stamina. He thanked the ringers for their services, in the name of the Church. He also thanked Mr. Goldsmith, not only for his speech, but for the very valuable services which he rendered to change ringers through 'The Ringing World.' The speaker went on to refer to the ceremony which was to take place in his own church at Poulton on the following day, when two new bells were to be dedicated by the Bishop of Blackburn. There had been a frame for them ever since 1911, and now the bells had been given by an anonymous donor, one to commemorate the reign of King George V. and Queen Mary and the other the Coronation of King George VI. and Queen Elizabeth. It was a splendid thing, he said, that they had good Christian men who would come and help the Church in this way.

The Lancashire Association, he added, appreciated the kind words and good wishes that had been expressed. There was a great amount of work to be done in the belfries, and he knew the association would do its best to see it completed (applause).

VALUE OF SOCIAL GATHERINGS.

Mr. G. R. Newton submitted the toast of 'Our Guests,' and in doing so spoke of the value of the social side of such meetings. Before the war, he said, there were only two gatherings of that kind, one in London and the other in Birmingham. Now there were quite a number held in various parts of the country. The increase, he thought, was due to the great fraternal spirit that pervaded the Exercise. He had been a ringer long enough to know that there was a far more friendly spirit prevailing among ringers and between the various societies now than there was thirty or forty years ago. That was all to the good and dinners such as that were helping towards that end. He hoped there would be more of them, for they did a great deal of good, and the development of the social side was often as important as the work in the belfry. Mr. Newton went on to welcome the visitors, especially the president of the Yorkshire Association (Canon Marshall), whom he congratulated upon having the opportunity next Whitsuntide of welcoming the Central Council to Leeds.

The Rev. W. Yates first replied and said how delighted he was to know that the association had honoured Mr. Charles Sharples by electing him vice-president. Mr. Sharples was captain of the belfry at his (the speaker's) church and he had known him all his life. The honour conferred on him was very well deserved (applause).

Mr. Yates went on to say that he knew very little about bellringing except the fact that bells in Blackpool were very unpopular (laughter), especially when the Musical Festival was being held, as it was that week (laughter). It was a singular thing, he continued, that they should have bells at the coming in of life and at the going out, and he wondered what life would be without them. He thought the world would be a duller place. In conclusion Mr. Yates expressed appreciation of the splendid work ringers were doing.

Canon Marshall, who was cordially received, also responded. He said he had long wanted to attend the Lancashire Association dinner, first because of his great affection for their late president, Canon Elsee, and secondly because he felt he had certain connections with Lancashire. But it was as president of the sister association that he was there that night to offer them fraternal greetings and to express the hope that the very cordial relationship which had always existed between the two associations might continue under their new president as they did under the old president (applause). It had always been a great pleasure to feel that these two great county associations could work side by side for the advancement of the great art which they practised, and he hoped the same cordial feeling would long continue. He congratulated the Lancashire Association on that wonderful gathering, for it put their Yorkshire dinner in the shade in regard to numbers. He emphasised what the proposer had said with regard to the value of such gatherings. The friendship among ringers was an extraordinarily fine thing. A ringer, whether he was a good ringer or a bad ringer, would find a welcome in any belfry and there existed among ringers a friendship which he did not think they would find in any other class or community. He had been struck with it in his own county and was glad of it. Ringing also took one to all parts of the country, and he had learned far more about it than he would otherwise have done. It had helped to convince him that Yorkshire was the best county in England (laughter and applause). But in pursuit of ringing it was also an education to go to all the beautiful churches. There was nothing beside ringing which took them about in that way and it was one of the things they should be thankful for (applause).

Mr. P. Crook proposed 'The Ringing Press' and spoke of the services rendered to the Exercise by 'The Ringing World.' He asked all those present to go back to their towers and endeavour to increase the circulation. He was very proud to say that he had taken the paper from the very first number, and he was very pleased last year, when the list was published, to see how many others had done likewise.

Mr. J. S. Goldsmith acknowledged the toast, and remarked that the future of the paper depended upon the ringers themselves.

NO LACK OF YOUNG MEN.

Councillor Dickinson, in commendatory terms, proposed the health of the Chairman, who, in his reply, mentioned that among those who had sent apologies were the Bishop of Blackburn, the Bishop of Lancaster and the Provost of Blackburn. Mention had been made, he said, of the fact that that association was among the first of the territorial societies formed and that they had still many stalwarts left in their ranks. He would like to tell them that one of the original founders of the association in 1876, Mr. W. G. Mann, of Liverpool, was still alive, although he was in considerable ill-health. They could be sure his heart was with them that night and they were glad to remember him on that occasion (applause). Another old friend of the Lancashire Association was Archdeacon Howson, of Liverpool, who was now living in retirement at Putney. In their name he had sent him a telegram of good wishes. He was an old and valued friend of the association (applause).

Continuing, the President said that going about among the towers of Lancashire and attending the meetings he felt there would be no serious lack of young men to follow in the steps of the older ones when they passed on. As far as he could see, those young men were keen and interested in ringing and in the work of the association, and that, he felt, was what they wanted to foster and encourage as much as they could. He knew that when he learned to ring he must have caused endless anxiety and trouble to those responsible for teaching him. Let them remember, when they felt impatient, that they had all had to learn at some time, and, therefore, they must be patient with the young ringers of to-day. Much of the future of that association and of ringing depended on the care, education and patience of the older people with the generation that is coming on.

The President referred with pleasure to the presence of Mr. Goldsmith and said they were proud of the valuable work he was doing. They were also delighted to have Canon Marshall with them. Proceeding, he said he felt a considerable amount of responsibility was thrust upon him when they elected him president of that association. It was no light task to endeavour to follow in the steps of Canon Elsee, who, for over 40 years, served them loyally and well and who had the affairs of the association at his finger tips. He had found it difficult to pick up the threads of the work his predecessor had done during that long period and he could assure them the office was no sinecure. He was proud and pleased to take on to the full all the work involved and he devoted considerable time to it, but the association could never prosper as it did without the loyal and enthusiastic work of the other officers. To Mr. Tomlinson they had expressed from their hearts what they felt with regard to his services. He had read in 'The Ringing World' that Mr. Shuker had just rung a peal in commemoration of his 50 years' ringing and it was his 150th peal. They congratulated Mr. Shuker on that record and wished him many more happy years of ringing and service to the association (applause). To their vice-president, Mr. Sharples, they owed a very special debt of gratitude for the able way in which he had arranged that dinner. He congratulated Mr. Sharples and offered him their sincere thanks. The President added that he wanted to thank all the members for the collaboration and help which they had given to each other and to him in furthering the work of ringing in Lancashire. He wanted them to know that he was at the service of the association, and anything in which he could serve ringers and further ringing in Lancashire he would be most pleased to do (applause).

During the evening handbell selections were given by Mr. J. Booth and Miss Booth, of Wigan, whose skilful rendering of various pieces greatly delighted the audience. Vocal items were contributed by the talented Meistersingers (Miss Peggy Thompson, Miss Gladys Bury, Mr. Tom Brown and Mr. J. B. Tomlinson), who, in addition to some popular quartets, individually rendered songs which were much enjoyed. Mr. J. S. Warburton was at the piano, and at the close the artistes were thanked by the president.

The large party spent a very enjoyable evening, and Mr. C. Sharples, who was solely responsible for the arrangements, is heartily to be congratulated upon the success attained.

A CORRECTION.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I owe my humble apologies to Mrs. Hairs for having in my speech at the dinner of the Ladies' Guild attributed to Mrs. Fletcher the perfect ringing of a course of Bob Royal at the Westminster Palace Hotel in 1912.

Miss E. L. Bennett was the lady who received the well-merited tribute from Sir Arthur Heywood.

My memory was at fault and I am sure that Mrs. Hairs would be ready to admit that the result might have been much the same if Miss Parker had been ringing 1-2.

EDWIN H. LEWIS.

In also pointing out this error, Mr. F. I. Hairs says: Apart from personal congratulations from Sir Arthur on the evening referred to, Miss Bennett also received a letter from Sir Arthur (dated Nov. 16th, 1912), from which I quote: '... I take my hat off to you and your performances, while I also recall the neat handling of your bells and your excellent striking at our Central Council evening.'

A JUBILEE CELEBRATION.

EAST DERBYSHIRE AND NOTTINGHAMSHIRE ASSOCIATION. Fifty Years of Good Work.

The jubilee of the East Derbyshire and Nottinghamshire Association was celebrated at Alfreton on Saturday, October 23rd. Ringing took place on the eight bells at the Parish Church, and a well-attended service was held, conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. L. H. De Cas), the address being given by the Rev. R. E. Birtwistle, a former ringing member of the association. He spoke of the significance of bells and said that a ringer should be a good type of Christian. He outlined many lessons to be derived from ringing, such as regularity, perseverance, patience, hearty service, kindness and forbearance. Team work was necessary for successful ringing.

A substantial meal was afterwards served in the Church Hall. Mr. Wilson Dobb (president) occupied the chair, supported by the Revs. L. H. De Cas, R. E. Birtwistle, J. C. T. Taggart and officers of the association.

The Chairman extended a hearty welcome to members and visitors, and especially the Rev. R. E. Birtwistle, who joined the association as a ringing member of Tibshelf tower in 1908. He also welcomed Mr. H. Draycott, the oldest member present, who joined in 1889. He had 'held the ropes' for 48 years and had a truly creditable record. The Chairman remarked that the association was a happy family of church-workers, and concluded by advising young ringers to always follow the advice and instructions of their leader.

The Rev. R. E. Birtwistle, in an interesting speech, referred to the honour conferred upon him by being asked to preach, and mentioned several rules concerning ringers and ringing of 100 years ago. He congratulated the association on the attainment of its jubilee.

The Rev. L. H. De Cas welcomed the association to Alfreton. He had been told that bellringing was on the wane, and that there was not the same interest taken in it as was the case many years ago. That, if true, was a great pity, and it was up to this association and all churchgoers to stimulate interest in bellringing.

A REVIEW OF FIFTY YEARS.

The hon. secretary (Mr. J. W. England) gave an interesting resumé of the records of the association, with a list of officers since its formation. The association was formed at a meeting held at Clay Cross on October 29th, 1887, and was confined to towers of not more than six bells. The annual meeting had to be held on Easter Monday each year at Clay Cross. The name of the association was then the East Derbyshire Association, and it consisted of 45 members from six towers. It was interesting to record that eight members of the Hill family, of South Normanton, and four members of the Beardow family, of Ashover, joined the association. The Rev. Canon Massey was the first president and held the office for eight years, being succeeded by the Rev. J. B. Nodder, who is still Rector of Ashover. The rules were later amended to include eight-bell towers, and in 1901 it was decided to change the venue of the annual meeting. Later on, there was an unsuccessful attempt to change the name to the Derby Diocesan Association. In 1927 came affiliation to the Central Council, and in 1928 the alteration in name to its present designation. The secretary observed, with reference to the remarks of the Rev. L. H. De Cas, that he could assure him that bellringing, instead of being on the wane, was improving by leaps and bounds, and with the co-operation of those present, and particularly the young ringers, would continue to do so in that district. He also mentioned the sterling qualities and work accomplished by old officers and members, particularly the late Mr. T. Allibone, who was for 25 years secretary and five years president, Mr. J. W. Scott, Mr. T. Stimpson (17 years treasurer), Mr. C. J. Partridge and Mr. G. Taylor, who had now passed away, and others who had done noble work in the district, among them being Mr. T. Bettison, of Mansfield, the Butler brothers, of North Wingfield, Mr. J. A. Scott, of North Shields, Mr. F. Watkinson, now of Hands-worth, whose names came readily to mind, and their example had been an inspiration to the present officials to carry on the good work and 'keep the flag flying.'

Mr. T. Clarke, Ringing Master, in the course of an interesting speech, referred to the value of 'The Ringing World,' and appealed to all ringers to give it their support and increase the circulation so that we could have a better and cheaper journal.

During the evening vocal items were rendered by Mr. J. Wright (who sang the song, 'Drinking,' with such effect that several members suddenly disappeared for a time), Mr. F. Cooke, Mr. A. Elliott, Mr. H. Fradgley and Mr. J. W. England. Mr. A. Lane accompanied the singing, and courses of Bob Major were rung on handbells by the young members of the Kirkby-in-Ashfield band.

A vote of thanks to the artistes, caterers and accompanists was moved by Mr. C. M. Heathcote (treasurer) and seconded by Mr. C. Carr, of Mansfield.

Mr. R. Walker and Mr. T. H. Marriott expressed the thanks of the non-ringing visitors, and wished the association every success. Over 60 members and friends were present, including Mr. J. Pagett (Derby), Mr. Ferguson (Repton) and Miss I. B. Thompson (Nottingham), and the gathering was a huge success.

DON'T SCRUB YOUR HANDS!

skin this simple way*

To many people, the problem of getting the hands really clean without harming the skin is a serious one. Grease and grime, which become deeply ingrained into the pores of the skin, are extremely difficult to remove, and ordinary washing with soap or even scrubbing will fail to remove them completely. Housewives, particularly, who complain that their hands get ruined by the nature of their work, will find the preparation called DERMAFOAM, a real "godsend." DERMAFOAM just smoothes away dirt and grease without effort. It gets right down into the pores and removes every particle of grime, leaving skin beautifully supple and healthy.

Men, too—when you've finished that dirty job on the car, DERMAFOAM will quickly banish all grease and oil from your hands. It acts almost magically—working under and around the nails and into every minute crease, removing all trace of dirt in a flash.

Engineers, Painters, Car Mechanics, Printers — everyone — will welcome DERMAFOAM, the modern method of cleansing and protecting the hands.

A GREAT CELEBRATION.

Three hundred years of ringing history was celebrated in London on Saturday, and celebrated in a manner unparalleled in the whole story of the Exercise. The Ancient Society of College Youths was honoured, by its members and friends alike, in a manner befitting a great occasion and in a spirit characteristic of the freemasonry which underlies our craft. Not only was the celebration a bellringers' festival, the greatest of its kind ever staged, but it was a tribute to the respect in which the venerable society is held throughout the length and breadth of the land wherever change ringing is practised. The Ancient Society of College Youths is regarded as the parent of change ringing, and to its support in its early days is probably due, in no small measure, the preservation and development of the art, which has become recognised, the world over, as so peculiarly English.

And Saturday's proceedings were also peculiarly English, marked as they were by a service of thanksgiving and a feast. Few who were present under the great dome of St. Paul's Cathedral will forget the impressive service, departing very little from the customary daily evensong, yet sufficiently distinguished in detail to strike the appropriate note. And then the great gathering later on round the festive board, honoured by a distinguished company of guests and shared by ringers from nearly every corner of England, as well as Wales and Scotland. Never before has such a representative company of ringers dined together, and this in itself was a tribute to the Society. The presence of the Lord Mayor of London was a significant gesture, for, apart from the legendary association of the College Youths with Whittington, the society throughout its history has had a connection with the life of London, for its members have been responsible through the centuries for ringing many of the bells of the city on the great civic and royal occasions. And the link was strengthened on Saturday by the little ceremony in the courtyard of St. Dionis' Hall, where was unveiled the renovated tomb of Sir Henry Tulse, the only man who has been Master of the Society while filling the office of Lord Mayor.

For everyone who was present at the tercentenary celebration, the occasion was a great event; but many also felt it to be a parting of the ways. By his own desire, the Ancient Society is 'dropping the pilot.' On Tuesday Mr. William T. Cockerill relinquished the office of hon. secretary after having served it for forty-six years, in the course of which he has earned not only the respect and esteem of the members, but has won the affection of those by whom he has been surrounded in the affairs of the society.

Forty-six years is a lifetime of service; from first to last it has been filled with ability and efficiency. William Cockerill has been throughout the ringing life of most ringers the personification of the Ancient Society of College Youths; small wonder, therefore, that his departure is a matter of deep regret. The gift which was made to him on Saturday, on his retirement, is but a very small token of the appreciation in which his long service is held, but the cheers which were given and the lustiness of the 'musical honours' must have assured Mr. Cockerill, if any assurance were needed, of the place which he holds in the hearts of the members. Time is inexorable; another will follow Mr. Cockerill; the College Youths will gain a new inspiration from the tercentenary, and will, we hope, for yet further centuries, continue to be one of the pillars of the Exercise and the art of change ringing.

PEAL NOTES.

A peal of Bob Major by Annable was rung at Longton, Staffs, on October 30th, when six of the ringers rang their first peal in the method. It was also the first in the method and the quickest peal on the bells, the time being 2 hours 50 minutes. It was Mr. William Carnwell's fortieth peal.

As a birthday compliment to Messrs. E. V. Rodenburt (Hodnet), A. Lea, sen. (Wrexham) and W. J. Chesters (Market Drayton), a peal of Oxford Treble Bob Major was rung at Tarporley, Cheshire, on October 30th.

A peal of St. Clement's College Bob at Widford, Essex, on October 30th, was rung as a birthday compliment to Mr. C. H. Howard, J.P., formerly Master of the Essex Association.

It was the first peal in the method by all the band and in the county and was rung without any previous practice. Moreover, it was Mr. Harry Carter's first attempt for a peal of any kind.

With a peal of London Surprise at Harmston, Lincs, on October 30th, Mr. Jack Bray completed the 'circle' of the tower.

A 'silent' peal of Cambridge Surprise Major was rung by members of the Worcestershire Association at Brierley Hill, Staffs, on October 30th. It was the first silent Surprise peal by the association. As none of the band recollect a peal of Cambridge Surprise Major being rung 'silent,' they would like to know if there has been one rung before this.

Seven out of the eight members of the band at Drayton, Berks, on October 30th, rang their first peal of Bristol Surprise. The one 'unstarred' member of the band was the Rev. C. E. Wigg.

Mr. J. Walley rang his sixtieth peal on October 30th when he took part in seven 720's of Surprise and Treble Bob Minor at Cheddleton, Staffordshire.

The first peal of Grandsire Cinques at High Wycombe was rung on Sunday, October 31st, to celebrate the 28th anniversary of the dedication of the bells after their restoration and augmentation. It was the first peal of Grandsire Cinques by all the ringers except Mr. W. H. Fussell, who last had this distinction in far off Melbourne.

The peal of Oxford Treble Bob Minor at Clifton, Beds, on November 1st, was rung to congratulate Arthur Dilley (the ringer of the fourth) on the birth of a son.

Without having previously struck a blow in five of the methods, Francis Kirk rang his first peal in seven Surprise Minor methods at Apsley End, Herts, on November 1st.

Forty-two six-scores of St. Simon's Doubles were rung in a peal at Oakley, Beds, on October 28th, as a compliment to Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Haylow, on the 52nd anniversary of their wedding. The method was chosen because it was SS. Simon and Jude's Day, and the performance is claimed as the first peal in the method in the county. We doubt if another peal consisting exclusively of this method has been rung anywhere before.

Mr. Douglas J. Pethard, B.Sc., a ringer, chorister and Sunday School teacher at Badsey, Worcestershire, recently lost his life while bathing in Austria. On October 27th, the 24th anniversary of his birth, a peal of Grandsire Triples 'in memoriam' was rung at Badsey. The bells were rung open, at the request of the relatives.

PEAL NOTES.

Geoffrey Harrison, of Loughborough, the young son of Mr. Colin Harrison, has rung a peal of Minor and his first peal of Treble Bob Royal within a week. Both were on the Bell Foundry bells, and it says much for his skill in 'handling' that he piloted the treble through both. The Minor was rung on the front bells. Even the tenor of this six weighs only a little over 2½ cwt.

Following on this performance Geoffrey rang two peals in one day last Saturday. Five hours and a quarter's ringing for a boy of 14 is a good proof of stamina.

A peal which the band believe to be the first peal of Stedman Triples rung by all 'local' members of the Ancient Society of College Youths was rung at Prestbury, Gloucestershire, on November 3rd. Perhaps someone can tell us if the claim is correct?

Mr. Sydney Flint, who now lives in Yorkshire, took part in a peal at Standish, Lancs, which was specially arranged for him, on November 3rd. His last previous peal in Lancashire was rung 41 years ago.

Mr. Philip Hodgkin, of Headcorn, Kent, now in his 75th year, rang a peal of Kent Treble Bob Major on November 6th, arranged as a compliment to Mr. C. H. Sene for his 70th birthday.

A local band of Royal Cumberlands at Burnham, Bucks, rang a peal of Oxford Treble Bob Major as a compliment to their 'compunological rivals,' the Ancient Society of College Youths, on Saturday. It was the first peal on the bells by a local band and the first peal of Major by St. Peter's (Burnham) Society.

As a birthday compliment to Mr. F. J. Cheal and a farewell to Mr. W. N. Rayner, who is leaving the district to go to Maidstone, a peal of Bob Major was rung at Rainham, Kent, on November 6th.

On November 6th an interesting anniversary was celebrated at Redenhall, Norfolk. On that day in 1877 the first peal by the Norwich Diocesan Association, a peal of 5,152 Superlative Surprise Major, was rung. The same composition was rung last Saturday, conducted by Ernest Whiting, whose father took part in the first peal.

It is an unusual thing to find ringers completing the series in a method from Doubles to Cinques, with Triples, but Messrs. Alfred Buckley, who rang his first peal of Triples, and J. S. Eastwood did this on November 4th at Bloxwich. They had previously rung peals of Stedman Doubles, Caters and Cinques.

The peal was rung for the patronal festival of the church, the 50th anniversary of the bells and on the eve of the 45th anniversary of Mr. T. J. Elton's first peal in the tower.

The ringer of the treble in the Ladies' Guild peal of Double Norwich at Harlow Common on October 30th was Ellen E. Davis.

THE TERCENTENARY OF THE COLLEGE YOUTHS. HISTORIC CELEBRATIONS IN LONDON.

Ringers from all England Honour The Ancient Society.

With a series of events of outstanding interest to ringers in every part of the world, the Ancient Society of College Youths, founded on November 5th, 1637, has celebrated its tercentenary.

On Friday, the 300th anniversary, wreaths of laurel were deposited in the appropriate churches in memory of Lord Brereton, a founder and first Master of the Society; Fabian Stedman, of Cambridge, Master in 1682, and Benjamin Annable, of London, Master in 1746.

On Saturday hundreds of ringers flocked to the Metropolis for the principal celebrations. Following ringing at many of the City Churches, the restored memorial to Sir Henry Tulse (Lord Mayor and Master in 1684) was unveiled in what remains of the churchyard of St. Dionis Backchurch.

Afterwards a congregation of nearly two thousand joined in a service of thanksgiving at St. Paul's Cathedral, while, later on, a company of over four hundred, including some distinguished guests, dined together at the Cannon Street Hotel. Many interesting speeches were made, and in the course of the proceedings there was a presentation to Mr. W. T. Cockerill, the retiring honorary secretary, who has given forty-six years' service to the Society.

Ringers came from all parts of the country to take part in the festivities, and many spent the hours between noon and three o'clock in a round of famous London towers to take part in ringing. St. Mary-le-Bow and St. Giles', Cripplegate, of the twelve-bell towers; St. Magnus', London Bridge, and St. Clement Danes (ten bells), and St. Lawrence Jewry and St. Andrew's, Holborn (eight bells) were open, each in charge of a member of the society.

A DISTINGUISHED MASTER.

MEMORIAL TO SIR HENRY TULSE.

In a little courtyard opening off Lime Street, a narrow thoroughfare between Fenchurch and Leadenhall Streets, is the tombstone of one of the members of the College Youths who in the troublous days of the Stuarts was Lord Mayor of London and at the same time held the office of Master of the Society. This little Courtyard, this backwater of the busy city, is all that remains of the churchyard of St. Dionis Backchurch, a church rebuilt after the great fire of 1666, but demolished about 70 years ago. When this demolition took place, most of the memorial stones were removed, but that of Sir Henry Tulse, a benefactor of the church where his remains rested for 170 years, was left, and there it has remained, all but forgotten ever since. To Mr. E. Alex Young, himself a Past Master of the society, is due the 'rediscovery' of the stone, and it was a fitting act on the part of the College Youths to restore the inscription.

Cut in a large and straggling lettering, the original memorial reads as follows:—

this Stone Lyes Buryed the Body of Sir HENRY TULSE who Departed this Life the 31st day of August 1689

The society has now added a bronze plate bearing the following inscription:—

'Sir Henry Tulse was a Benefactor of the Church of St. Dionis Backchurch (formerly adjoining). He was also Grocer, Alderman and Lord Mayor of this City.

'In his memory this tombstone was restored November, 1937, by the Ancient Society of College Youths (during the 300th year of the Society's foundation). He was Master of the Society during his Mayoralty in 1684.'

A gathering, which almost filled the Courtyard and included the Master and many Past Masters of the society, assembled for the unveiling ceremony at three o'clock.

Laurels and flowers stood at the head of the tomb and on it was laid a simple bunch of violets bearing a card which said: 'An affectionate tribute from a present Past Master to one who has gone before. 1637-1684-1937.'

The Rector of the parish of St. Edmund the King, Lombard Street, with which the parish of St. Dionis is now united, conducted the service, which was also attended by the Rev. W. H. Stewart Dumphreys, Vicar of the daughter church of St. Dionis, Parsons Green. The ceremony opened with a course of Stedman Caters and three whole pulls in slow time rung on handbells round the stone by Birmingham district members of the society: Messrs. F. E. Haynes, F. E. Pervin, A. Walker, G. F. Swann and A. Paddon Smith.

The Rector then offered suitable prayers, and Mr. E. A. Young read the lesson from Ecclesiasticus xlv., 1-15, beginning 'Let us now praise famous men.'

The Master, before unveiling the memorial, said they owed to Mr. Young's researches their knowledge of the stone. The inscription was almost indecipherable, but luckily it was known what was written thereon. The society had, therefore, been able to have the original inscription restored and to add a small tablet to the stone. He wished to say how pleased they were that the Rector and wardens of St. Dionis had met them in the matter and allowed them to pay that small tribute to one of their former Masters. They were sorry that the Master of the Grocers' Company, of which Sir Henry Tulse was a member, was not able to be present through illness.

Mr. Lewis then withdrew the sheet which had veiled the memorial.

The Rector, in an address, said those who had studied the subject would have noticed that there was a marked difference between public life in this country and in all the European countries. It had been his lot to see something of public life in the great cities of Europe from Paris to Constantinople, and he had noticed two things. One was that it was not the custom for men prominent in the life of those countries to render public service freely in those great cities, and the second thing he had noticed was that they did not give freely of their substance to objects which, in this country, called forth generous support—hospitals, education, recreation of the people and charitable help of all kinds. Our traditions were different, and in consequence our public life was of a finer quality than anywhere else in the world. This idea of giving both service, and money if they were able, had had a profound influence upon our national life. For centuries the City of London had given and still gave an example of public service which the more intimately they of the city came to know it the more deeply they respected it, and they held in high honour all those who had helped to make or uphold their traditions of public life.

Such a one was Sir Henry Tulse, in whose memory they had gathered that afternoon and whom they desired to honour.

About Sir Henry's private life they knew very little, not even the exact date of his birth. That was believed to have been in the year 1625. He was the son of William Tulse, described as 'gentleman of Avon, Hampshire.'

Tulse was born in a very difficult period of English history, as difficult as that in which we were living at the present time. The speaker gave a brief historical review of those troublous days in which Tulse lived and said that Sir Henry was both a spectator and an actor and he played his part well. He had to react to the intrigue and subtle crossplay of Charles II., and then to the impatient bigotry of his successor, James. It was more than interesting to observe that he was 'King's Friend' when nominated as a Royalist Mayor to a disturbed city only just dispossessed of its ancient Charter by Charles II.; and, again, that later Tulse was to pose as the Church's friend when James II. removed him from the Aldermanic Court for obstruction. But the final act was when William and Mary restored with honour Tulse and all those Aldermen who had been ejected, of whatever party, in 1688.

In civic life, Tulse was recorded to have entered the Worshipful Company of Grocers. He was admitted to the Freedom in 1643, was Warden in 1673 and served as Master in 1681. In 1673 he was elected Alderman of Bread Street Ward, having probably already served several years on the Court of Common Council. In the same year he was elected Sheriff and served in the office of Mayor in 1683-84.

He had joined 'The Company of College Youths' in 1659, was steward in 1674 and Master during his Mayoralty in 1684. The College Youths were Royalists almost to a man, and this was probably one of the links which made Tulse a 'King's man.' He was also a member of the committee of the Honourable East India Company and president of Bethlem and Bridewell Hospitals. He died in 1689 and was buried in the Church of St. Dionis-Backchurch, then newly-rebuilt after the Great Fire.

The interesting ceremony concluded with further prayer and the Benediction.

IN ST. PAUL'S CATHEDRAL.

A MEMORABLE THANKSGIVING SERVICE.

At half-past three the bells of St. Paul's Cathedral, manned by the Cathedral company, began to ring for the service in which the members were to join. Large numbers of ringers listened to the splendidly struck Stedman Cinques on this noble peal of bells, a fitting prelude to the memorable service which was to follow. Ringers and their friends to the number of nearly two thousand had assembled under the great dome when the choir and clergy, with the Bishop of London, entered.

The service followed the ordinary form of evensong, but there were specially selected Psalms, cxlv., 'I will magnify Thee, O God, my King,' and cl., so often associated with ringers' meetings, 'O praise God in His holiness.'

The first lesson was from Ecclesiastics xlv., 1-15, and the second lesson from St. Luke xiv., 15-24. The Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis were sung to Stanford in B flat. Purcell's anthem, 'Rejoice in the Lord alway,' was rendered and then for the first time in history hand-bells were heard in the great Cathedral. Standing in the choir, Messrs. W. Roughton, A. B. Peck, H. Langdon and W. Williams rang a course of Stedman Triples.

The preacher was the Ven. Archdeacon of London, who took for his text the words, 'With good will do service as unto the Lord and not unto men,' Ephesians vi., 7. 'We welcome at our evensong this afternoon,' he said, 'the members of the Ancient Society of College Youths, an honourable institution, keeping their three hundredth anniversary; a body of men who, one after the other for 300 years, have given continuous service to our Church. We rejoice with you all on this happy occasion, and we join with you in your service of thanksgiving. The Lord Bishop of this diocese, the Dean and the Chapter of St. Paul's Cathedral bid you Godspeed in your work. It is very fitting that you should come together here this afternoon, for bellringing has been connected with the subject of worship from the earliest times.

'Your work is a service not always as much recognised and appreciated as it should be. I admire the team spirit amongst you. You cannot do without one another; it is a service of united and kindred spirits giving forth a message to all who hear your music. Sometimes it is the music of joy and happiness; sometimes it is in muffled tones, speaking of sorrow and passing, but more often Sunday by Sunday your music is a call to worship. "O come let us worship," ring out the bells, "come, for all things are now ready."

The treatment of the message, continued the Archdeacon, might be as it was when our Lord spoke in His parables of 'some who began to make excuses,' but their message was clear, that the House of God was there, its gates open to welcome them, and the opportunity of worship awaiting them. If they would draw nigh to Him, He promised to draw nigh to them.

'You,' proceeded the Archdeacon, 'give the message; those who hear have the responsibility of accepting or rejecting it. And the giving of the message is a real service. Your message is heard not only in the cities and towns and country villages in our own land, but now, by means of the wireless, those bells which you heard ringing

SIR HENRY TULSE.

LORD MAYOR AND MASTER OF THE COLLEGE YOUTHS.

By J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

Four members of the Society of College Youths have been Lord Mayors of London, but three of them held that office after they had long since ceased to be actively connected with the society. Sir Henry Tulse was Master of the College Youths in the same year that he was Lord Mayor.

He owed his importance and his position to the political struggles of the reign of Charles II.—the same struggles which (as I have pointed out in my book) brought another College Youth, Sir Francis Withens, to the fore. The popular party, or the Whigs as they were afterwards called, were strong in London, and one of the main endeavours of the Government was to crush them and to get the control of the city into the hands of the Tories, or the Court party. Tulse was a strong Tory, and when he and Robert Geoffrey were elected Sheriffs in 1673, Sir John Robison wrote to Joseph Williamson, the Secretary of State, that they were 'good' men. A little later he wrote, 'We have settled a Lord Mayor, Sir William Hooker, who, I hope, will prove a good one, with two Sheriffs, Alderman Tulse and Deputy Jefferies, honest men.' 'Good' and 'honest,' of course, meant that they would do what the Government wanted.

In 1681 the City drew up a petition to the King praying for the calling of a Parliament, and appointed a number of leading citizens to present it. Tulse was one, but he refused to serve, and, when the deputation went to Windsor, he was not among them.

In the next year he was one of four candidates for the office of Lord Mayor, two being Whigs and two Tories. The two Whigs received 2,289 and 2,258 votes respectively. Pritchard, one of the Tories, received 2,233, but Tulse only 236. This was by arrangement so as not to split the Tory vote, and in the end, after a scrutiny, Pritchard was declared elected.

The Government had now secured control of London, and, to make the control certain, they served a writ, quo warranto, calling on the City to show cause why its Charter should not be annulled on account of alleged irregularities. The result was that the City lost its rights and privileges, which were not restored until the last year of the reign of James II., so when Tulse was made Lord Mayor in 1683 it was not by a free vote of the citizens, but on the nomination of the Crown.

Some of Tulse's opponents brought a legal action against him, alleging that he and his fellow Sheriff had illegally sold the post of Under Sheriff; but, after a petition to the King, a warrant was issued to the Attorney General to quash the proceedings.

Sir Henry Tulse was a benefactor of the parish of St. Dionis, Backchurch. When the church was rebuilt, after the fire of 1666, he gave a marble font and marble steps leading to it; and, when he died in 1689, he was buried inside the church in his own vault. When the church was pulled down the font was removed to St. Dionis', Parsons Green, and the stone slab which had covered the grave was transformed to the courtyard which marks the site of the old churchyard, and there it is now. It is this stone which has been renovated by the Ancient Society of College Youths.

just now, are heard ringing in distant parts of the Empire, and they bring to many lonely and isolated ones far away the thought of the old home, of the parish church and the old faiths; thoughts of God; thoughts of eternity.

'You, my brothers, must see to it that the life of the messenger rings true with his message and that the message is not spoiled by the one who gives it. So my brief message to you on this historical occasion is just this: With goodwill, and I know that there is much of that amongst you all, with goodwill do your service, ring your bells, give forth the message, renew the invitation far and wide, draw thoughts and aspirations towards those things which are unseen and eternal and let it all be unto the Lord. Get from Him, in this Cathedral Church on the 300th anniversary of the founding of your college, fresh inspiration, fresh courage, fresh vision of your work; lift it high unto the Lord and lose not His blessing upon your work by any sin or inconsistency in your own lives; go forth with fresh determination to ring forth the message of God's love and of His salvation, not only to the parishes of this land, but unto the far distant places of our Empire and the world, and whether they hear or whether they heed, with goodwill do your service as unto the Lord and not unto men.'

The hymn, 'A festal chime,' was sung after the address and was heartily joined in by the congregation. The words are by Clifford Bax and the refrain runs:—

In town and in village our church-bells to-day
Cry 'Come, you good people, and put care away,
For He who made blossom and sunlight and May,
Be certain rejoices in hearts that are gay.'

Sung to 'St. Denio,' it goes with a swing that seemed, in the words of the hymn itself, to put care away. And then, as the last notes passed in space, in the great hush of the Cathedral came the benediction of the Bishop of London, a blessing upon the people and upon the work of the ringers.

This service in St. Paul's will be remembered when many other things connected with the twocentenary celebrations are forgotten.

HANDBELLS IN ST. PAUL'S CATHEDRAL

Handbells figured in the service in St. Paul's Cathedral. They were rung to Stedman Triples by W. Roughton, A. B. Peck, H. Langdon and W. Williams.

BELL ROPES, MUFFLES, &c.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

The celebration, on Saturday, of the 300th anniversary of the founding of the Ancient Society of College Youths, was one of the most historic events in all the centuries of church bellringing. This issue of 'The Ringing World,' enlarged for the purpose, is a 'Tercentenary Number,' and our readers, who will peruse with interest our full report of the various ceremonies, will also, we feel sure, pardon us for holding over other contributions which have been sent for publication this week.

It is customary for the stewards of the College Youths' dinner to wear a distinguishing badge, identified in some way with the Master for the year. The badge on this occasion consisted of an ingeniously contrived Portland cement button, with a rosette in the Cambridge University Guild colours of light blue and 'bell metal.'

The three lady members of the society attended the dinner and sat together at the top table. They are Mrs. E. Wilkins, Mrs. F. I. Hairs and Mrs. Cann.

About 50 members of the Central Council, including the president, hon. secretary and hon. librarian, were present.

Among the oldest members at dinner was Mr. Robert Maynard, of Walthamstow, who joined in 1877, while the member who had travelled the greatest distance was Mr. B. H. Swinson, who had come from Egypt!

Nearly every association and guild in the country was represented at the dinner, directly or indirectly.

The Australian societies were well represented. Seven members of St. Paul's Cathedral Society, Melbourne, and of the Holy Trinity Association, Hobart, were present at the celebration.

Another 'overseas' ringer, who was present at Victoria, British Columbia, when the bells at the Cathedral there were opened last year, was among the company. He was Mr. A. E. Trotman, who made the journey from Belfast to attend Saturday's celebrations.

Many ringers who were unable to attend the dinner travelled long distances to be present at the service at St. Paul's Cathedral.

The College Youths' huge 'birthday' cake, which occupied a conspicuous position in the reception room at the Cannon Street Hotel and was afterwards cut up and consumed by the company, was made by Miss A. T. Lewis (daughter of the Master), who holds the 'Cordon Bleu' of the National School of Cookery.

The design of the cake was striking. It was in three tiers, each appropriately decorated with panels and bells, and surmounted with an excellently modelled bell in sugar, complete with stock, wheel of correct design, and stay. The bell had actually been shaped with a miniature 'strickle board.'

The cake was a most artistic production, not only in appearance, but in its manufacture, and Miss Lewis, in her neat cookery 'uniform' and cap, carried in the top tier to the dining hall and handed it to the Master. Afterwards she assisted in serving the cake.

The statement in official notices that the reception room at Cannon Street Hotel would be 'suitably furnished' must have excited the curiosity of many people. The explanation was forthcoming after the guests had shaken hands with the Master. The furnishings were dispensed in glasses.

Among the many messages of congratulation received during the dinner there was special interest in these three—all from ladies:—

'The Ladies' Guild of Change Ringers send heartiest congratulations on your tercentenary and best wishes for successful evening.—Fletcher, Honorary Secretary.'

'Hearty congratulations and good wishes from Mrs. C. D. P. Davies, in happy memory of C. D. P. D.'

'Good hunting to you, and may you never change but for the better. Hearty congratulations.—Dorothy L. Sayers.'

The senior member of the College Youths is Alderman J. S. Pritchett, Master of St. Martin's Guild, who was elected in 1874. The oldest surviving Past Master, Mr. J. Martin Routh, now living at Tilehurst, who was elected in 1885, is 93 years of age.

Some of the visitors to London, like Mr. Charles Sharples, vice-president of the Lancashire Association, had travelled all Friday night to reach London, and spent Saturday night (or rather the early hours of Sunday morning) travelling home again.

Mr. G. R. Newton, of Liverpool, brought with him the dinner ticket and menu card of 1901, which was the last he had attended until this year. The dinner on that occasion was held at the Bridge Hotel, Southwark, and Mr. F. E. Dawe was Master.

After a vain attempt, lasting nearly an hour, to find his hat and coat in the cloakroom and elsewhere after the dinner, Mr. C. Sharples had almost given up hopes of discovering his property when the missing articles were brought from the other end of the hotel, and Mr. Sharples was left with just time to catch his return train at 12.30 a.m. to Blackpool. Mr. Sharples asks us to say that he was so relieved at the recovery of his belongings that he forgot to thank the finder sufficiently at the time, and desires now to do so.

THE THREE HUNDREDTH ANNIVERSARY DINNER.

DISTINGUISHED GATHERING ROUND THE FESTIVE BOARD.

Presentation to Mr. W. T. Cockerill.

The customary anniversary dinner of the Ancient Society of College Youths—an event which goes back, in an unbroken series, into the misty past—was held at the Cannon Street Hotel, on Saturday evening.

The Master (Mr. E. H. Lewis) received members and guests to the number of over four hundred. In the reception room the historic peal and name books of the society were on view, and a huge birthday cake, on which was a fine model of a bell in sugar, was displayed.

Michael's, Cornhill), the Rev. R. French (Stepney), the Rev. Chancellor Ponsonby (Bow), Mr. E. Denison Taylor (president, Midland Counties Association), the Rev. E. C. Turner (Cripplegate), Major J. H. B. Hesse (Master, Guildford Diocesan Guild), Major F. A. Yorke, Capt. H. J. Cann, Capt. Howard Freeborn, Mr. L. Porter (senior steward), Mr. J. Waugh (junior steward), etc.

The vice-chairman was Mr. E. P. Duffield (the Immediate Past Master), and among the officials of other societies present were the Rev. F. L. Edwards (hon. secretary, Salisbury Diocesan Guild), Messrs. C. Sharples (vice-president, Lancashire Association); R. Richardson

Dinner was served in the great Banqueting Hall, and the proceedings during the evening were extremely interesting and marked by great enthusiasm. Many old friends met again for the first time after long years, others enjoyed what, to them, has been an annual reunion. The arrangements had been excellently planned by the Dinner Committee, and the evening was a culminating triumph to a great commemoration.

Supporting the Master, who presided and wore the new badge of office, were the Lord Mayor of London (Sir George Broadbridge), who was wearing his jewelled badge, the Duke of Argyll, the Lord Bishop of London, the Earl of Cranbrook, the Bishop of Kensington, the Archdeacon of London, the Dean of St. Paul's (Dr. Matthews), Mr. W. T. Cockerill (hon. secretary of the society), Mr. A. A. Hughes (hon. treasurer), the Rev. Canon Mosley (St. Paul's Cathedral), the Rev. Dr. Perkins (Westminster Abbey), the Rev. Canon Coleridge (Master, Oxford Diocesan Guild), the Very Rev. Provost Haldane (Southwark Cathedral), the Rev. Canon Douglas (St. Michael's, College Hill), the Rev. W. Pennington-Bickford (St. Clement Danes), the Rev. E. C. Bedford (late Rector, St. Andrew's, Holborn), the Rev. H. J. Fynes-Clinton (St. Magnus), the Rev. Prebendary Ellison (St.

(Master, Lincoln Diocesan Guild), S. E. Romans (Master, Gloucester and Bristol Association), F. E. Haynes (Master, St. Martin's Guild, Birmingham), G. W. Fletcher (hon. secretary, Central Council), W. H. J. Hooton (hon. librarian), W. Hibbert (hon. secretary) and A. D. Barker (hon. treasurer, Oxford Diocesan Guild), J. T. Dyke (hon. secretary, Bath and Wells Diocesan Association), E. Guise (hon. secretary, Bristol United Guilds), S. E. Armstrong (hon. secretary, Sussex Association), L. J. Clark (hon. secretary, Essex Association), G. W. Cartmel (hon. secretary, Hertfordshire Association), G. H. Cross (Master) and G. W. Steere (hon. treasurer, Royal Cumberland Youths), J. W. Jones (hon. secretary, Llandaff and Monmouth Diocesan Association), F. M. Mitchell (hon. secretary, Kent Association), S. F. Palmer (hon. treasurer, Yorkshire Association), T. H. Reeves (hon. secretary, St. Martin's Guild, Birmingham), F. W. Rogers (hon. secretary, Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild), W. H. Shaker (hon. secretary, Lancashire Association), A. Thompson (hon. secretary, North Staffordshire Association), etc., and ringers from almost every association and guild in the Kingdom.

During the dinner, Mr. F. E. Dawe, as the senior Past Master present, was invited to 'take wine with the Master.' He was glad to say there was another living who was senior to him, Mr. John Martin Routh, who had been elected to that office two years before he (Mr. Dawe) was. He had recently visited the old gentleman at his home at Tilehurst and found him in excellent health and spirits. Although pressed to attend this dinner, however, Mr. Routh had declared he was not quite equal to such an undertaking. He, however, wished to be very kindly remembered to all his old friends of 50 and 60 years ago, and wished them all a very enjoyable evening. Mr. Dawe went on to say that in talking over 'old times,' Mr. Routh wished him to announce to that gathering that it was his intention to bequeath his valuable 'ringing library' to the Ancient Society of College Youths! Mr. Dawe also stated that as Mr. Routh would in a very short time celebrate his 91st birthday, he was sure all present would heartily join him in wishing his old friend 'many happy returns of the day.'

The Master also 'took wine' with those who had been members of the society for more than 50 years, and it was gratifying to see that there were more than a dozen present.

The Master, before proposing the toast of 'The King,' pointed out that never had ringers shown their loyalty in such a practical form as they did this year at the time of the Coronation of their Majesties. More than 240 complete peals were rung on that occasion, a number which had never been approached for any other event, as far as was known (applause).

After 'The King,' the company, on the call of the Master, drank to the toast of 'The Queen, Queen Mary and the Royal Family.'

THE SOCIETY'S CONNECTION WITH THE CITY.

The Master, in submitting the toast of 'The Lord Mayor, the Sheriffs and the Corporation of the City of London,' said he would like to say a little about the connection of that society with the civic authorities of London. This went back to their original connection with a famous Lord Mayor, Sir Richard Whittington. Mr. Trollope, in his very excellent history of the society, had rather discounted the theory that the society took its name from the College on College Hill, but he (the Master) thought it was rather nice to stick to that and thus get that indirect and possibly rather legendary connection with Dick Whittington. But Dick Whittington had another connection with bells, but not, he thought, with the change which they knew as the Whittington change, because if Whittington did sit on Highgate Hill and if he did hear Bow bells, he could not have heard eight bells, because there were not eight bells in Bow steeple at that time. What he heard was probably what we know as 'Queen's,' on six, which went quite well to the words 'Turn again, Whittington, thrice Lord Mayor of London.'

There had been, continued Mr. Lewis, several Lord Mayors who had been members of the society, at least four. In the case of one of them they had had a little ceremony that afternoon, but the society had probably rung for Lord Mayors on November 9th far longer than it had rung for the services of the Church. At the time the society was founded, the Church would not have much to do with ringing, as far as its services were concerned, and such ringing as took place was nearly all on secular or semi-secular occasions, including the election of the Lord Mayor on November 9th.

'We are quite sure,' added the Master, 'that the whole world to-day admires the stable civic government of London (applause) just as it admires the financial stability of London, and I think you will agree with me if I say we feel the present Lord Mayor has filled that office in a remarkable way during a very remarkable year (applause). He has nearly come to the end of his "touch." He has, I believe, only one and a half more official days after to-night, and, as the Dean of St. Paul's just now remarked, it is as if we are ringing him out of his office' (applause).

LINK BETWEEN MANSION HOUSE AND BELLRINGERS.

The Lord Mayor was given a very warm reception on rising to reply, and began his speech by remarking, 'I am very pleased to be present at this tercentenary banquet of this Ancient Society of College Youths and to see them wearing their old school ties,' a comment which brought forth loud laughter. That gathering, he continued, was most interesting to him because of the fact that a Lord Mayor of London in 1684, in the reign of Charles II., was Master of that society, and they had been honouring the tomb of that Lord Mayor, by unveiling a tablet upon it that day. He was glad, therefore, by being present that night, to continue the link between the Mansion House and the bellringing fraternity (applause).

'I have heard some most beautiful and melodious music from peals of bells,' continued the Lord Mayor, 'and I have also heard some bells that have almost made one feel like being driven to crime (laughter). We, in the city, are fortunate in possessing what I may call the best known peal of bells in the world, those of Bow Church, which in the past, as already indicated by the Master, called back Richard Whittington to be Lord Mayor of London three times and which can now reach all parts of the world wherever the marvels of wireless are known.'

Oxford, said the Lord Mayor, had been called the city of dreaming spires. London was in far greater degree a city of spires, both actual and symbolic, but they could not be called dreaming ones; they were vital, they were alert, pointing the way spiritually and to material success and prosperity. Those who came into London were workers and not dreamers, and yet that deep religious feeling, which was inherent in the hearts of all English people, found expression in so many of the city's ancient ceremonies and customs. It was no mere formality that, each Michaelmas Day, the Corporation of London attended divine worship and asked the blessing of Almighty God upon their choice of the new Lord Mayor; rather was it a tangible proof that the city's motto, 'Domine Dirige Nos,' applied to every phase of civic life. The city was proud of the fact that, whereas the Kings of England went to Westminster to be crowned, it was to the city they came to return thanks (applause).

As he was just going out of office, the Lord Mayor said he thought it might interest them to know one or two of the things he had accomplished or had gone through during his year. He had entertained at the Mansion House 36,000 people; he had attended 34 church services of traditional and ancient custom, he had been connected at the Mansion House with 92 charitable meetings, and had attended 55 functions connected with the Army, Navy and Police. He had broadcast seven times, he had had 40 Corporation meetings to attend, he had been present at 15 Coronation functions, 41 opening ceremonies of conferences, congresses and new buildings, he had attended 38 speech days, 14 royal functions and 97 luncheons and 177 dinners (laughter). In addition he had made 1,000 speeches, had visited 27 other towns and sat 152 times in the Mansion House Justice Room. That was a summary of what every Lord Mayor had, more or less, to go through, but when he told them that that represented only about 50 per cent. of his duties, it would give them a good idea of the strenuous time the Lord Mayor had during his term of office.

The dinner of the College Youths, he concluded, was the last dinner he would attend officially as Lord Mayor, and, therefore, in greeting them all, he had at the same time to take a farewell. He hoped the society would continue to add to its age and would continue to be prosperous and successful and that it would still give enjoyment to all those who loved to hear such beautiful bells (applause).

CAMPANOLOGICAL 'LORD MAYOR.'

The Master next proposed the traditional toast to 'The Church,' but said he would first like to say how much they admired the list of engagements which the Lord Mayor had fulfilled (applause). Wearing his decoration (the Master's badge) he felt sometimes almost like a Lord Mayor himself (laughter). In fact, his predecessor, who had much better opportunity for its display than he (Mr. Lewis) had, was once actually taken for the Lord Mayor in a provincial town (laughter). He (the speaker) had a sort of feeling that being Master of the College Youths was, in a purely campanological sense, rather like being Lord Mayor of London, although he must apologise to the Master of the Cumberlands if he should take anything out of that remark more than there should be in it. The Lord Mayor of London, however, had this advantage over him, that he was not expected to hold office also as Speaker of the House of Commons at the same time (a reference to Mr. Lewis' office of president of the Central Council).

Coming to the toast, Mr. Lewis said it was not often that a layman had a chance of preaching to so many of the clergy as were present that night, and he supposed a sermon ought to have a text. His text came from Edmund Spenser's poem and was this:—

Ring ye the bells, ye young men of the towne,

And leave your wonted labors for this day:

This day is holy; doe ye write it downe,

That ye for ever it remember may.

That, said the Master, was one of his favourite ringing quotations, because it was written about 42 years before their society was founded and showed that ringing was an organised thing even at that time. When the society was founded ringing was almost entirely divorced from the Church, as far as the services were concerned, owing to Puritan influence, but the inborn love of bells kept ringing alive in a secular or semi-secular way, and when ringing took place it was on public occasions, for weddings and so on, and not, as a rule, for the services of the Church. So when the society was founded the members were generally young men of London, recruited largely from the Inns of Court and some of the young nobility, who rang as an exercise and to some extent as a sport. But in the middle of last century the Church began to recover from the Puritan influence and allowed things of beauty once again to be associated with its services, and beginning about the middle of the last century ringing for service first became general. To-day by far the greatest amount of ringing was done for the services of the Church (applause). Therefore, it was quite appropriate that one of their principal toasts should be the toast of 'The Church.'

AN APPEAL TO THE CLERGY.

Describing the clergy as the 'commissioned officers' of the Church, the Master thanked them for the way in which they placed their towers at the service of the society in the City of London for their practices. They tried to reciprocate by ringing at those churches for services as far as they could, but it was rather difficult. Owing to the difficulties of transport and to the fact that so many ringers, owing to the decentralisation of London, lived at considerable distances from the city, and it was very difficult for members of the society to get up except on special occasions—he did not include in this those who rang regularly at St. Paul's Cathedral.

There was one thing he would like to say to the commissioned officers of the Church. In the Army and Navy officers took special courses in specialised subjects, and he would like to make an appeal that night that more of the clergy should take a special course in campanology

COLLEGE YOUTHS AND THE CHURCH.

(applause). That, to his mind, was particularly necessary in these days, because in the last 15 or 20 years they seemed to have lost many of their prominent clerical ringers, most of them excellent ringers who had had the opportunity of learning to ring and learning to strike before they had the disadvantage, from the point of view of learning to ring, of wearing a 'dog collar' (laughter). They had one of the greatest of them with them that night, Canon Coleridge (applause). On one occasion there was a band touring in the west country and the local ringers said afterwards that there were three parsons among them, 'a very nice young gentleman, a terrible long gentleman, and a gentleman who took off all his clothes' (laughter). They referred to Cyril Jenkyn, Canon Coleridge and 'Father' Robinson (laughter). They had lost two of those and a great many others in recent years, among them Canon Baker, Canon Elsec, the Rev. C. D. P. Davies, the Rev. Law James, the Rev. Tyrwhitt-Drake and a whole lot more, and he did not at the moment see many young clerical ringers coming on to take their places. It would be a great advantage if the higher clerical authorities could persuade some of their younger clergy to specialise in this art of ringing. If they could judge the work that was done by Mr. Jenkyn in the Oxford Guild, a man who looked upon the ringers of the diocese as his parish, they would probably find he did a greater work than many priests who stuck more closely to a single parish (hear, hear). In conclusion, the Master coupled with the toast the name of 'the highest commissioned officer in the diocese of London,' the Lord Bishop.

REFORMS STARTED BY THE CHURCH.

The Bishop of London, who was received with loud applause, said in one sense he was the worst person in the world to speak at that dinner because he never rang a bell in his life—except a door bell—and if he tried he would be ascended to Heaven much quicker than he desired (laughter). In other respects he was very much fitted to speak, because he had never been, in all his clerical life, very far away from a good peal of bells. When he first went to Bethnal Green, at the request of Bishop Temple, as he then was, he found Mr. Matthew Wood (applause), who was the chief ringer and one of the best in England (applause). 'I have here his book,' said the Bishop, holding up a fairly large volume, 'and in it is written in a perfectly clear hand his 350 peals, one of them of 9 hours and 12 minutes. I am very glad I was not preparing my sermon that day (laughter). Matthew Wood was a very old friend of mine and kept his eye upon me, from the Protestant point of view. Then I went up to the Coffee Pot, or very near it (laughter). I imagined when I heard that that was your headquarters that you were all teetotallers, until I looked at this evening's programme and then I saw "Draught beer; 9d. a pint" (laughter). That is a fair give-away (laughter). But although I am a life-long teetotaller, I am sure you deserve that glass of beer (applause). After Bethnal Green I was under the benign influence of the bells of St. Paul's for seven and a half years as Canon, and I could not go to sleep when the bells were ringing (laughter). Then I went down, to my great surprise, to Fulham Palace, and there I found the bells of Fulham were pretty good. I don't quarrel with them, except when I am doing a sermon and they are going on and on. I love to hear the bells ringing, especially at Christmas, peace on earth, goodwill to men.'

'I have great pleasure in returning thanks for the Church,' continued the Bishop, 'because, say what you will, the Church and the College Youths are bound together by many ties,' although he was quite aware that when the society started, at the time of the Reformation—a little too much reformation—bells were thought to be rather Popish. But the Church of England began long before the Reformation; there had been Bishops of London living at Fulham for over 1,200 years. 'The Church of England had been at the bottom of nearly every great reform in England; it started the hospitals, it started the schools; for 150 years the Church paid for the education of the poor, and indirectly it started the College Youths, for they could not have wedding bells without a wedding. Bellingring was one of the finest parts of church work and most of it was done voluntarily.'

'I hope to goodness,' concluded the Bishop, 'that during the next 300 years the Church and the College Youths will be more firmly united than ever' (applause).

A brilliant exhibition of change ringing on handbells was at this stage given by the Hertfordshire band, Messrs. H. Hodgetts, C. W. Woolley, H. G. Cashmore and F. W. Brinklow (all members of the society), who rang a touch of Spliced Surprise Major in five methods—London, Superlative, Bristol, Ealing and Cambridge—in faultless style. The ringing was listened to by the large audience in breathless silence, and the cheers that broke out when the touch concluded expressed the appreciation and delight of the company.

DEAN'S TRIBUTE TO MR. TROLLOPE'S BOOK.

In the absence of the Earl of Shaftesbury, the Dean of St. Paul's proposed the principal toast of the evening, 'The Ancient Society of College Youths,' with which, he said, he coupled the honoured name of Mr. Cockerill, who, as they well knew, had been for over 45 years the hon. secretary of the society.

'I have been looking,' said the Dean, 'at that admirable history of your society written by Mr. Trollope (applause). He bears a name famous already in literature which, if he will allow me to say so, he worthily supports (applause). This is one of the very few books I have read which seem to me might with advantage have been considerably longer, for it is evident Mr. Trollope has in his mind a great deal of information which he could give and which I hope he will give in some more extended work around the interesting story of your ancient society (applause). The very first sentence of that history points out that your art of bellingring arose from two rather different interests, that of religion and athletics. It has already been mentioned this evening, and I think we can discern the influence of those two interests in the story of your society, for I notice that it was not very long after your beginning that you began to be rent by schisms and that you had your own nonconformists (laughter). I believe that, happily, this schism ended and now only remains a matter of historical interest. I observe too that as athletes you have an interest in the preservation of records and have evolved a most recondite set of technical terms in which to make them (laughter). Reading some of the great pages of your history I confess these terms are as unintelligible to me as an account of a baseball match in the columns of the "New York Herald-Tribune," but I bow with reverence before those who know what Stedman Cinques mean and Treble Bob Majors and other things of like kind (laughter). It is an interesting example of the way in which athletes seem to like records, records which no one but themselves can understand' (laughter).

BELLRINGING AND BEAR BAITING.

The Dean went on to refer to his experiences of bells in other countries, and said that the art of ringing bells in this country—an art which the Ancient Society so admirably cultivated—was a peculiarly happy expression of English temperament. Englishmen seemed to have a peculiar delight in the sound of bells. The Puritans had come in for a good deal of unfavourable comment that evening and he was loth to add to it, but it seemed to be an undoubted fact that they did object to bellingring, along with bear baiting—they seemed to have classed the two things together (laughter). They might recall that Lord Macaulay said, on the subject of bear baiting, that the Puritans objected to this form of sport, not so much because it gave pain to the bear as because it gave pleasure to the spectators, and he suspected that they objected to bellingring, not so much because it gave pain to the hearer as because it gave pleasure to the ringers (laughter). 'To be candid,' said the Dean, 'there have been moments when I have had a certain amount of sympathy with the Puritans' (laughter).

He could remember one day in Exeter, he said, when he was trying to write a learned article on a philosophical subject and the bells of the Cathedral were rung for hours, it seemed to him all day, on end with rhythmical and melodious sound. Somehow it did not help him with his research, 'but, after all,' said the Dean, 'what is a philosopher compared with a ringer of bells' (laughter).

It was worthy of note, said the speaker, how the sound of bells stayed in people's memories. Some time ago he met a man in a distant clime, a man who was born and lived in Exeter, but had not seen it for a long period. He asked this man what he chiefly remembered about his native city, and he replied, 'Well, strangely enough, it is the sound of the bells as they came sometimes at evening with that curious sound, which I think was due to the fact that there were only eleven bells when one expected twelve.' 'It is true,' said the Dean, 'that the sound of bells lingers in people's minds and awakens associations which seem to have been deeply buried. I wish I could follow the exhortation of the Master,' he added, 'and take up bellingring. I believe I am right in saying that the admirable birthday cake we have just had was made by the Master's daughter, and if I were a younger man than I am I should feel strongly tempted to take up bellingring and to join this Ancient Society, and, like the industrious apprentice, aspire to the hand of the Master's daughter (loud laughter and applause).

'Harmony,' concluded the Dean, 'is an expression of something which is deep down in the English soul. We live in a wonderful age, but an age which is very far from being harmonious. May the city bells which express the English spirit never become city bells jangled, harsh and out of tune, and may your art, expressing that desire for harmony which is so deeply set in the human soul, always be a true expression of the real constitution of England and the English spirit.'

The toast was drunk with enthusiasm.

CENTRAL COUNCIL'S CONGRATULATIONS.

At this point the Master read a message from the Central Council of Church Bellingrings, in the following terms: To the Ancient Society of College Youths. At the 45th annual meeting of the Council, held in the Chapter House, Canterbury, on Whitsun Tuesday, the 18th day of May, 1937, it was proposed by Mrs. G. W. Fletcher, of the Ladies' Guild, seconded by Mr. J. A. Trollope, honorary member, and resolved: That a message of congratulation and good wishes be conveyed to you on the occasion of your tercentenary celebrations and to place on record the great services rendered to the Exercise by the promotion of the art and science of change ringing during your long history. Signed this 6th day of November, 1937.

The message was received with applause, and a touch of two courses of Stedman Cinques was then rung on handbells by Messrs. W. Roughton, A. Walker, W. Williams, H. Langdon, C. W. Roberts and E. P. Duffield.

Mr. W. T. Cockerill, who replied to the toast, thanked the company for the enthusiastic reception they had given it. He said letters of regret at absence and of good wishes had been received from the Lord

Archbishop of Canterbury, the Lord Bishop of Southwark, Lord Baldwin of Bewdley, Lord Hugh Cecil, the Earl of Shaftesbury, the Rev. Canon Alexander, Alderman J. S. Pritchett, the Rev. J. P. Pelloe, Mr. A. Prince and Mr. J. Ridyard. Congratulatory messages had been received from the Guildford Diocesan Guild, Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association, Peterborough Diocesan Guild, Yorkshire Association, Durham and Newcastle Diocesan Association, Essex Association, the Ladies' Guild, Over Society, Cambs., Mrs. C. D. P. Davies, Miss Dorothy L. Sayers, Mr. Turner, of Copenhagen, and Mr. Malcolm Melville (Warwickshire Guild).

During the year, continued the Hon. Secretary, they had lost by death 13 members, viz.: Ernest D. Lillywhite, Harry R. Pasmore, Frank Boreham, Joseph Hands, the Rev. E. W. Carpenter, E. V. Selby, Albert E. Wrecks, Charles Kennedy, Frederick W. Thornton, Frederick Edwards, Col. Parkinson and Harry Folkard.

The company stood in silence whilst these names were read out.

Proceeding, Mr. Cockerill said during the year 62 new members had been elected and there had been held in the various towers in the city 70 meetings for practice. Twenty-nine peals had been rung: Doubles, 1 (at Brereton, Cheshire); Minor in nine methods, 1 (at Brasted the previous evening); Bob Major, 2; Bob Royal, 1; Grandsire Caters, 1; Kent Treble Bob Major, 2; Kent Treble Bob Maximus, 1; Stedman Triples, 5; Stedman Caters, 1; Stedman Cinques, 5; Bristol Surprise Major, 2; Spliced Surprise in four methods, 1; Cambridge Surprise Major, 3; Cambridge Surprise Royal, 2; Cambridge Surprise Maximus, 1. Peals in commemoration of the tercentenary had been rung at Brereton, Milton-next-Gravesend, Watford, Portsmouth, Edgbaston, Gallewood, Prestbury and Brasted. In conclusion, Mr. Cockerill thanked the company most sincerely for the honour they had done to the toast.

PRESENTATION TO THE HONORARY SECRETARY.

A 'surprise item' for the hon. secretary followed. The Master said: 'Most of you, I think, know that on Tuesday night next we drop the pilot. The skipper who has looked after us for 46 years has refused to accept re-election on election night, and we cannot let such an occasion pass without, in some way, showing our feelings of respect towards him (applause). Mr. Cockerill has aptly been described as a 'prince of secretaries.' We could not possibly have been served better than we have been through these 46 years. Mr. Cockerill gave a hint some time ago that this might happen at the end of the year, but we hoped that he would reconsider his decision. When that decision was final the time was rather short and it was difficult to let you all know that we wanted to do something to-night to show our appreciation. However, we got into touch with a number of members, and I am going to ask Mr. Cockerill to accept this gift as a cheque on account (applause). We shall keep the fund open to the end of the year and I hope those who have not yet communicated with me will do so. I could go on for half an hour, or even more, speaking of the virtues of Mr. Cockerill, and the love which he inspires in us as a friend, but I must not do so, but I will ask him to accept, with our very best wishes, this cheque for £50 (cheers).

The company rose and accorded Mr. Cockerill 'musical honours' and enthusiastic cheers, and when they had subsided, Mr. Cockerill said: 'This wonderful show of affection towards me has taken me by great surprise. I knew nothing at all about this and I did not wish for it. Whatever I have done for the society has been a labour of love. I have enjoyed it, I have enjoyed the ringing, I have made many friends; God bless you all. I cannot say more, except thank you very much indeed' (loud applause).

Only bells appeared in the musical programme, and Mrs. A. A. Hughes here contributed handbell solos, once again to the delight of the audience. This music, so skilfully rendered, is a never-ending source of pleasure to ringers, and having played, by request, 'Solveig's Song' (Grieg) and 'Humoreske' (Dvorak), Mrs. Hughes responded to an irresistible encore with the old favourite, 'Land of hope and glory,' in which the company joined lustily at the repetition of the chorus.

At the conclusion of her short programme, Mrs. Hughes was presented by the Master with a handsome bouquet of roses, carnations and chrysanthemums.

In handing her the flowers, the Master said he thought they would agree that as an artiste with handbells Mrs. Hughes 'takes the cake,' 'and so,' he added, 'I am going to propose that she takes it.'

And with this, amid cheers, Mr. Lewis handed to her the top tier of the birthday cake.

Mrs. Hughes, in a graceful little speech, thanked the society for the lovely flowers and said that with her father, husband and son, all members of the society, she felt justly proud to be asked to entertain such a distinguished assembly. She wished the society a happy continuation throughout the generations to come.

SOCIETY NOT 'EXCLUSIVE.'

Mr. W. Roughton proposed 'The Visitors' and gave them a hearty welcome. It had been said, he remarked, that their society was rather exclusive. It was not true that they were exclusive about their ringing or their friends. They welcomed everybody. There was only one thing which was exclusive, and that was the traditional ringing at St. Paul's Cathedral for the services. Unless a man was specially good as a twelve-bell ringer he was never asked to ring at St. Paul's on Sundays. Mr. Roughton told the story of a country visitor, who went to St. Paul's one Sunday and felt aggrieved because he was not asked to ring. When later he voiced his sense of injury to another member of the society, his friend replied, 'There can be only two reasons, as far as I know, why you were not asked to ring. Either they did not know you, or else it was because they do' (laughter). Proceeding, Mr. Roughton said: 'We have with us to-night lords civic, lords spiritual and lords temporal, who are upholding the great traditions of this dear country of ours, and I would like to say just a word or two to the younger generation who are here in the midst of this great assembly: When you take over the control of this dear old society from the present generation, will you remember that you will be badgered by the Press, you will be bullied by factions, and worried by groups, who will want to alter the rules and regulations and traditions set up, after much thought, by older members. And when these questions arise, as arise they will, I beg of you to study them very carefully, weigh and consider them for a long time, and not lightly throw away and destroy these rules and traditions of the past (applause).

The Duke of Argyll, who replied, admitted that he knew little of the art of ringing, but what he was interested in was in the bells themselves. He had a library which included all the county histories, and when his friends wanted to make him a little gift they sent him most extraordinary little books, like algebra to him, dealing with the art in which those present that night were specially skilled. What he was interested in was the archaeology of the bells, which took them back beyond the Christian era. The Duke referred particularly to some interesting Irish bells of great age with which he was acquainted, from one of which Irish kings had been christened. He also referred to the peal of bells which he had secured for the church at Inveraray, his Scottish seat. Seven of these bells he gave himself and the others he induced his friends to provide. He hoped at some time the College Youths would come up and ring them (applause). He told an amusing story of how the bells reached Inveraray. On account of the difficulties of transport, they had to be left one night by the roadside, and one cottager, asked by another what they were, said they were his Grace's new beehives (laughter).

'THE SKIPPER'

MR. WILLIAM T. COCKERILL,
Hon. Secretary of the Society for 46 years.

The Master said on behalf of the society he would at once like to clinch the offer of the Duke and suggest that some time next summer they should make up a band in London to go up and ring a peal on his bells (applause).

SOCIETY'S OLD TRADITIONS.

Mr. E. P. Duffield proposed 'Kindred Societies' and referred to the good fellowship which was engendered and fostered by such gatherings as that. That was an assembly representing all walks of life and they were all there with the same love of bells. While they could not claim, perhaps, that ringing stood alone as an example of real brotherhood, at least there was nothing that could surpass it. It was in that spirit that he asked them to receive the toast. He asked them to pay no heed to some of the things they heard said about that old society. Old societies clung to old traditions, and he hoped that, even if some of those traditions might be obsolete in their manner and purpose, they would not take that as a reason for scrapping them forthwith. They had, for instance, the rule that a member of the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths was by virtue of that membership disqualified from membership of the College Youths, and the Cumberlands had a corresponding rule. Whatever may have been the position in the past, there was no bitter feeling between these two old London societies to-day (applause). Their society did not claim to be a territorial society and he hoped no attempt would ever be made to pose it as such. There was a function for such societies as theirs, particularly in the centre of the Metropolis. A society which could bring together such a gathering as that could not be said to be entirely territorial. On the other hand, they did appreciate very much the good feeling which existed between the territorial societies and their own. As one whose privilege it had been, more than many (Continued on next page.)

A TRIBUTE OF YOUTH.

perhaps, to travel and meet ringers in all parts of the country and to be given membership of a number of societies, it was a great privilege to give them the toast of kindred societies. They had present that night a whole host of representatives of those societies. Among them was Councillor Paddon Smith, of Birmingham, representing St. Martin's Guild, a man who accepted life's responsibilities, which was borne out by the fact that he was a member of the Corporation of the great city of Birmingham. It might well be that he got some of his inspiration from that other great figure in the municipal life of Birmingham, who was, he supposed, the senior member of the College Youths, Alderman Pritchett. He felt they could not do better than ask Mr. Smith to convey to this gentleman, who had now become somewhat infirm under the burden of years, the very cordial greetings of the company assembled that night (applause). He had to couple with the toast, also, the name of one of the brilliant younger members of the Exercise, Mr. Stephen Wood, who had been recognised by the Central Council, who had put him to work on some of the mathematical problems which many of them took so seriously. If some of Mr. Wood's theories had not been generally accepted yet, and they had had some evidence of that lately (laughter), he did not think Mr. Wood need take any discouragement from that fact. He had never yet heard of anyone whose theories had been accepted by everybody (applause).

THE ESSENCE OF RINGING.

Mr. Paddon Smith, who first responded, undertook to convey the kind regards of the gathering to the Master of St. Martin's Guild, who, he understood, was the oldest living member of the College Youths. Continuing, Mr. Smith said that was one of the largest and certainly the most historic gatherings of ringers that had ever taken place, and it could not have been held anywhere outside London—for many reasons, one of them being, of course, that there was no other society actively pursuing the art of ringing that had been in existence for 300 years. The one he had the honour to represent was, in comparison, but an infant in arms, only 182 years old. But they all looked up to the College Youths. He was glad to hear one of the speakers refer to their tradition, and he would like to emphasise the fact that most of those who spent their time outside London looked up to the society, not for the number of methods they rang, nor for the record peals they went for, and sometimes got (hear, hear), but because throughout their long existence they had made good striking the real object of their existence (applause). In his opinion, and he was sure in the opinion of all competent ringers, striking was the most important thing concerned with their art, and he for one would very much prefer to hear a peal of Grandsire or Stedman Triples well struck than a peal of London Surprise successfully achieved when the ringers said, 'We got it after all' (laughter and applause). Striking was the very essence of bellringing. In conclusion Mr. Smith thanked the society for providing members of kindred societies with a very enjoyable time.

Mr. Stephen Wood, who also replied, said although he had been reminded very forcibly in recent issues of 'The Ringing World' of his extreme youth, he drew strength from the fact that that society, ancient though it be, by its very name was a society of youths. He used that word in its bellringing sense to include ringers of all ages from nine to ninety. Mr. Wood added that he would like to add the tribute of the younger generation to the work of Mr. Cockerill, who had always seemed to him, by the skilful way in which he combined the wisdom and experience of years with the energy and enthusiasm of youth, to embody in himself all that was best in the spirit and tradition of the College Youths (applause).

Mr. Wood added that he brought greetings to the society from the only kindred society of greater antiquity. There was an older society, St. Stephen's Guild of Ringers, in Bristol, to which he had recently been elected, was founded in or before the year 1620, but unfortunately it had long ceased to have any active connection with practical ringing. He believed he was the first member, for over 150 years, who could claim ever to have rung at St. Stephen's, but he was glad that there were a number of people there that evening who did ring regularly at St. Stephen's and who really had more claim than he had to call themselves St. Stephen's ringers, although they were not members of that ancient Guild. Mr. Wood said he would like to endorse what Mr. Smith had said that the provincial ringers looked up to the College Youths with gratitude for the example which they set in the high standard of ringing, especially that for the Sunday services at St. Paul's Cathedral. He was sure that most of those present felt it a privilege to stand outside St. Paul's that afternoon and listen to Stedman Cinques rung as it should be rung (applause).

Mr. J. T. Dyke proposed the remaining toast of 'The Press,' and referred to the services which the Press had rendered to the society. In the last few days, he said, they had had more press notices than ever before. Such articles as had appeared recently in the great dailies would create an interest among the public such as had never existed before, and that was all to the good. Mr. Dyke went on to pay a tribute to the service rendered to ringing by 'The Ringing World' and of the important place which the paper occupied in the Exercise.

Mr. J. S. Goldsmith (Editor of 'The Ringing World') replied, and the proceedings terminated with the singing of 'Auld Lang Syne' and the National Anthem.

On Sunday morning, after the customary service ringing at the various London churches, there was an informal social gathering at Anderton's Hotel, and a considerable number of London and visiting ringers were present. Refreshments were served and handbell ringing took place.

Mr. T. H. Reeves, hon. secretary of St. Martin's Guild, Birmingham, thanked the College Youths for their hospitality, and this was acknowledged by the Master.

SOME IMPRESSIONS.

Saturday's proceedings left lasting impressions on many people. Here are some which remain with J. F. S.:

The large audience listening to the three courses of Stedman Cinques—the majestic cadence of the bells—the large congregation of ringers under the Dome—the beautiful music of the service—the clearness of the handbells in Stedman Triples: the wrong striking of the trebles in the first rounds (1-2 were reversed)—the preacher's reference to the 'College of Youths'—the eager greetings of old friends at the hotel—the skilful and ingenious placing of the guests, a triumph of organisation—the splendour of the Master's badge—the benign expression of the Bishop of London—the absence of the Lord Mayor's 'Corporation,' in spite of hundreds of official dinners and luncheons—the Dean's graceful compliment to the Master's daughter—the marvellous exposition of Spliced Surprise handbell ringing: the good food: the difficulty of replenishing one's tankard—the delightful handbell solos by Mrs. Hughes, and the neat little speech she made afterwards—an altogether wonderful evening—and, lastly, of a part of the Birmingham contingent who missed their train!

A BROADCAST.

In the B.B.C. 'news' on Sunday evening reference was made to the previous day's celebration, and there was a reproduction of St. Paul's Cathedral bells, recorded while the three courses of Stedman Cinques were rung, and of the handbells in the Cathedral.

The Master gave a short talk on the society and its foundation in 1637, with a reference to Sir Henry Tulse and the ceremony at St. Dionis.

The whole recording came over well, except the handbells, to which, apparently, the microphone was too close.

ARCHDEACON HOWSON'S 'DIAMOND JUBILEE.'

To commemorate the completion of 60 years in the ministry by the Ven. Archdeacon Howson, formerly warden of the Liverpool Diocesan Guild, and now of Putney, a quarter-peal of Stedman Cinques (1,311 changes) was rung at St. Nicholas' Church, Liverpool, on November 2nd. It was rung after meeting late for a peal: J. Brown 1, A. Gorringe 2, T. Horridge 3, T. W. Hammond 4, G. R. Newton (conductor) 5, T. W. Gilmour 6, A. Whitott 7, E. C. Birkett 8, E. F. Bennett 9, C. I. Davies 10, E. Caunce 11, E. Bounphrey 12.

DON'T SCRUB YOUR HANDS!

skin this simple way*

To many people, the problem of getting the hands really clean without harming the skin is a serious one. Grease and grime, which become deeply ingrained into the pores of the skin, are extremely difficult to remove, and ordinary washing with soap or even scrubbing will fail to remove them completely. Housewives, particularly, who complain that their hands get ruined by the nature of their work, will find the preparation called DERMAFOAM, a real "godsend." DERMAFOAM just smoothes away dirt and grease without effort. It gets right down into the pores and removes every particle of grime, leaving skin beautifully supple and healthy.

Men, too—when you've finished that dirty job on the car, DERMAFOAM will quickly banish all grease and oil from your hands. It acts almost magically—working under and around the nails and into every minute crease, removing all trace of dirt in a flash.

Engineers, Painters, Car Mechanics, Printers — everyone — will welcome DERMAFOAM, the modern method of cleansing and protecting the hands.

STUMBLING BLOCKS TO EFFICIENCY

The secretarial reports presented to two district meetings in Kent contain some outspoken remarks which, while written with local application, represent conditions which exist in not a few places outside that county. The secretary of the Tonbridge District not only regrets a falling membership but a lack of progress in method ringing, and a tendency to allow practices to drop, with a result that Sunday service ringing is suffering. All these things point to a falling-off in interest, which seems to occur in most areas from time to time. It is a phase which is difficult to guard against, and one which only collective effort can overcome. The dropping of practices is often the outcome of loss of membership, for where a band loses strength it frequently loses interest, and, in the end, practices are abandoned.

Nothing, we think, leads quicker to decay in the quality of ringing than absence of regular practice. Efficiency in all things can only be obtained by practice, and ringing is no exception to the rule. If a band is so depleted that practice offers no prospect of progress, surely it is time that efforts were made to strengthen the company by bringing in and instructing new members. But often this lapse of practice is due first to the apathy of two or three members of a tower, and the rest, who may be moderately keen, have their interest blunted through the indifference and irregularity of the others. Too often, we are afraid, there are ringers who study their own convenience first at the sacrifice of the convenience of others. The success of any band can only be assured when everyone 'pulls his weight' and realises that he owes a duty to the rest.

The Rochester District secretary, who has found, to his regret, indifferent striking in service ringing, puts some of it down to poor leadership. This is another cause that is almost bound to lead to a deterioration in a company. The leader of a band, unless he is the right man, can be a bugbear, not only to his own company, but to an association, and a formidable stumbling block to any advancement. He can stultify ringing in his own tower, and, by his influence, deflect the activities of other members of his band into ambitionless channels. The unfortunate part about most men of this type is that they generally dig themselves into their office, and win their way into the confidence of their incumbents, so that they are almost immovable and a constant drag on the wheels of progress for years. The Rochester secretary tells his members that in the cases of which he complains the state of things is likely to continue until there is sufficient general interest in the welfare of the local bands and the courage to substitute more competent leaders. There is work to be done in other areas than Rochester in this direction. Most associations throughout the country can point to 'black spots.' They form a very real problem not easy of solution, and yet, when the inefficiency and sometimes the stubborn obstinacy of these men lowers the standard of ringing, it is a great pity that something cannot be done. The root of the difficulty, we think, lies in the fact that so few parsons know anything about ringing and belfry management, and it is in this, as much as in anything, that we need a wider interest on the part of the clergy.

PEAL NOTES.

CANON COLERIDGE'S 80th BIRTHDAY CELEBRATED.

Canon G. F. Coleridge's 80th birthday was fittingly celebrated on November 10th by a peal of Double Norwich Major at Caversham. This tower was selected because Canon Coleridge was instrumental in adding two trebles to the former ring of six in 1890, during his curacy there. Mr. George Essex and Mr. Harry Smith, who took part in the peal, were members of the Caversham band at that time.

The peal was also in celebration of the tercentenary of the College Youths. It was rung under the auspices of both the Ancient Society, of which Canon Coleridge is one of the oldest members, and the Oxford Diocesan Guild, of which the Canon is Master.

Mr. Tom Hibbert called the peal and, interestingly, it coincided with the 76th birthday of Mrs. Hibbert. Needless to say, the band drank with good wishes to the health of both celebrants after the peal.

Councillor Dr. Drabble, churchwarden at Bloxwich Parish Church, was elected Mayor of Walsall on November 9th, and in honour of the event a peal of Stedman Cinques was rung at Walsall Parish Church on the same day.

Many accomplished ringers wait a long time for a peal in one of the simple methods. Mr. Edward D. Smith, Master of the St. John's, Leytonstone, band, has been peal ringing for more years than, perhaps, he cares to remember, but it was not until last week that he rang his first peal of Bob Major, the first in the method on the bells, made eight last year as a memorial to William Pye, who in all his great career never, curiously enough, called a peal of Bob Major.

Mr. Walter Ayre must have been very satisfied with his recent week-end in Lincolnshire. A peal of Cambridge Surprise Major on Saturday, a handbell peal of Gainsborough Little Bob on Sunday, and a peal in seven Minor methods on Monday. Not bad work for the half-term holiday.

The Cambridge was rung in honour of the silver jubilee of the Ladies' Guild and was Mr. Jack Bray's 250th peal. Mr. George Dobbs, who rang his first peal in the method, had never previously struck a blow in it.

Two youths, Philip Barnes, aged 14, and Fred Jeffery, 16, rang their first peal in seven methods at Burton-on-Stather and both are to be heartily congratulated upon their performance.

In the peal of Grandsire Doubles rung half-muffled at Ombersley on Armistice Day, five of the local band took part, two ringing their first peal and one his first 'inside.' In a similar peal rung in September three rang their first peal and one his first 'inside.' The Ombersley band comprises nine active members and there now remain only two who have yet to score their first peal.

The Armistice Day peal at Erith was Mr. F. J. Gullum's 125th peal on the bells.

An interesting instance of ringers again taking part in a peal after a long lapse of years comes from Newton Nottage, Glamorganshire. A peal was rung half-muffled on Armistice Day, the first peal at this church by a local service band since 1910. One of the ringers, Alfred E. Williams, had not taken part in an attempt since he rang the same bell in the last 'local' peal 27 years ago, and David Thomas rang his first peal for 25 years.

With reference to the question raised in our last issue as to whether the peal at Prestbury was the first 'local' peal rung as a College Youths' peal, Mr. R. T. Hibbert points out that if this means a Sunday service band, the Caversham band in 1900-1905 rang about 35 peals under the auspices of the College Youths. If it means just a College Youths' band in the neighbourhood, it has been done, he says, many times. One was rung by Reading members a few months ago.

Mr. Hibbert does not make it clear whether any of these peals were Stedman Triples, which is the point at issue.

Mr. Joseph Broadley, the Bradford veteran, rang his 400th peal for the Yorkshire Association on November 13th at Shipley. But Mr. Broadley's services to the association cannot be measured by the number of peals (great as it is) that he has rung. He joined the association in 1879, has held various offices, and has been one of the association's 'stalwarts.'

The ringer of the 2nd in the peal of Treble Bob Minor at Butterwick on October 23rd was Henry Johnson, not Henry John, as printed. Henry Johnson is a great name to possess in ringing.

Mr. Arthur Knights' peal of Grandsire Caters, No. 155, with the 5th and 6th the full extent behind the 9th, in 5,309 changes, was rung for the first time on November 13th at Worsley, Lancs. It was an Armistice peal with the bells half-muffled.

Mr. William Hill has completed 60 years' service as a ringer at All Saints' Church, Hutton, Essex. As a compliment to him a peal of Doubles was rung on November 6th, and his grandson, Charles E. Hill, rang the treble to his first peal. Afterwards Mr. and Mrs. W. Hill extended their hospitality to the ringers.

A peal of Minor in four methods was rung at Eastwood, Rotherham, on October 30th, after the band had met short for Major.

FIRST QUARTER-PEAL.

MILTON-NEXT-GRAVESEND, KENT.—On Sunday morning, Oct. 31st, a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples: C. M. Mitchell (first quarter-peal in the method) 1, G. R. Ambrose 2, H. Argent 3, F. A. Mitchell 4, J. Burles 5, R. A. Muir 6, F. M. Mitchell (conductor) 7, G. Morrad 8. Rung on the 17th anniversary of the wedding of the ringer of the 3rd. All are local Sunday service ringers.

FOR BEGINNERS.

EXTENDING CHANGES FROM FOUR TO FIVE BELLS.

A good deal has been written recently in the columns of 'The Ringing World' as to the relative advantages of teaching beginners on an odd and an even number of bells. In the last article of this series we showed how changes were produced on an even number of bells, namely, four.

Let us now see how this four-bell ringing can be simply applied to five bells. There are two ways in which the method shown for the four bells can be adapted to five. Both have the same principle of plain hunting for all the bells between the leads of treble. But while in one case, when the treble leads, 2nd's place is retained, which causes one of the bells to lie four blows (two whole pulls) behind over the dodging bells, in the other the 'place' is pushed out to 3rd's and comes a half-pull later. This, in turn, pushes the dodging from 3-4 to 4-5, and the extra bell is absorbed, if we can use the term, by continuous plain hunting, like the treble.

The following figures show the difference in the methods which occurs when the treble leads:—

A	B	C
3 4 1 2	5 3 4 1 2	5 3 4 1 2
3 1 4 2	3 5 1 4 2	3 5 1 4 2
1 3 2 4	3 1 5 2 4	3 1 5 2 4
1 3 4 2	1 3 2 5 4	1 3 2 5 4
3 1 2 4	1 3 5 2 4	1 2 3 4 5
3 2 1 4	3 1 2 5 4	2 1 3 5 4
	3 2 1 4 5	2 3 1 4 5
	2 3 4 1 5	3 2 4 1 5

A is the method we gave in the last article, which produces the extent of changes on four bells.

B is the same method applied to five bells, with its 2nd's place, the dodging in 3-4 and the extra bell lying four blows behind. The three-bell cycle of work in A becomes a four-bell cycle in B, the four blows behind occurring between the dodge in 4-3 and the dodge in 3-4.

C is the method with 3rd's instead of 2nd's. There are two hunting bells instead of one, and, in practical ringing, when the treble is met, the other 'hunt' bell is always the next to be looked for. There are only three bells in the working cycle, which can be compared with the changes on four bells thus:—

First lead	On 4 bells	On 5 bells
Second lead	2nd's place	3rd's place
Third lead	dodge 4-3	dodge 5-4
	dodge 3-4	dodge 4-5

We would like beginners to try constructing plain courses of these methods on paper. Both on four and five bells the method with 2nd's place begins 2 1 4 3. In the method with 3rd's, however, the place falls not exactly at the treble lead, but between the two hunts, that is to say, with one blow when the treble leads and the other when the hunt bell leads. This, therefore, requires 3rd's place to be made immediately upon starting, and the bells go off, not 2 1 4 3 5, but 2 1 3 5 4.

Here are the first two or three rows of the methods:—

A	B	C
* 1 2 3 4	1 2 3 4 5	1 2 3 4 5
2 1 4 3	2 1 4 3 5	2 1 3 5 4
2 4 1 3	2 4 1 5 3	2 3 1 4 5

Now write out the plain courses, following the rules of construction which require plain hunting except when the treble leads in A and B, and immediately after the treble's lead in C.

SUDDEN DEATH OF MR. THOMAS WISE.

A VALUED MEMBER OF PETERBOROUGH DIOCESAN GUILD.

With much regret we record the passing of Mr. Thomas Wise, of Collingtree, Northants, which took place in the early hours of Wednesday, October 27th, at the age of 41 years.

A native of the nearby village of Wootton, deceased was instrumental in doing much good work in that parish several years ago and assisting at the practices in other parishes in the vicinity on every possible occasion. His enthusiasm was an inspiration to all.

Deceased had rung a number of peals, and, at the peak of his activities, was a most valued member of the Peterborough Diocesan Guild. Many were the young hands he shepherded through their first peals, in methods of Doubles, Minor and Triples. He was a safe conductor.

An engineer by trade, Mr. Wise was able to turn his hand to almost anything. He was keen on horticulture, and was exceptionally good at both making and writing peal boards. Three of his works of art can be seen in the belfries of Wootton, the Church of the Holy Sepulchre, Northampton, and the Parish Church, Hanslope, Bucks, upon which his name will ever recall his memory.

It was on July 14th, 1928, that he turned in the 22 cwt. tenor at Hanslope to a peal of Minor—one of his hardest earned peals, and only on that occasion did he show any real sign of the trouble from which he died.

Deceased was at work up to the day before his death, and the announcement of his passing in the local papers came as a shock to all his old comrades with whom he was extremely popular.

He was interred on Friday, October 29th, when the bells at Collingtree and of his native Wootton were rung to muffled touches.

REMEMBRANCE.

COMMEMORATION OF ARMISTICE.

Much ringing was done with half-muffled bells to commemorate the fallen in the Great War, on the anniversary of the Armistice. Our peal columns record a number of peals.

At Ibstock, Leicestershire, a half-peal of Bob Minor (2,520 changes) was rung, with 83 calls—this being the number of men from the village who laid down their lives in the Great War. The ringers were A. R. Tonks 1, O. Verey 2, W. Goadby 3, J. W. Atkins (longest length of Minor 'inside') 4, E. J. Tovell 5, A. E. Rowley (conductor) 6. It was the longest length of Minor by ringers of 1, 2, 3 and 5.

At King's Norton, Birmingham, on Remembrance Day, November 11th, a quarter-peal of Stedman Caters was rung with the bells half-muffled: G. E. Fearn (conductor) 1, C. Webb 2, C. H. Stanley 3, N. Goodman 4, H. Williams 5, E. F. Poppy 6, W. C. Dowding 7, H. J. Turner 8, H. H. Fearn 9, J. George 10.

On Thursday evening, November 11th, with bells half-muffled, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples was rung at Northfleet, Kent: V. Lament (first quarter-peal) 1, R. Smith 2, G. Butcher (conductor) 3, E. Peartree 4, T. Taylor 5, R. Constant 6, G. Morrad 7, C. Hammond 8.

At Newport Pagnell on Thursday evening, November 11th, for Armistice Day, also in token of respect to the late Bishop of Buckingham, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples: S. Mills 1, J. Mapley 2, R. G. Abrahams 3, H. B. Beard 4, E. G. Lathall (conductor) 5, R. Howson 6, R. A. Hall 7, D. J. Clare 8.

At Bootle, Lancs, for a special service at Christ Church, a quarter-peal of Minor was rung (240 each of Beverley and Cambridge Surprise, Kent and Oxford Treble Bob, 180 Oxford Bob and 120 Plain Bob): James McKee 1, T. Horridge (first quarter-peal of Minor 'inside') 2, J. Martin (conductor) 3, G. Lunt 4, John McKee 5, E. T. Bennett 6.

A quarter-peal of Bob Minor was rung at Maidsmorton on Armistice Day, November 11th: G. Holland (first quarter-peal) 1, E. Nichols 2, H. Jones, jun. 3, H. Stopps 4, H. Jones, sen. 5, F. C. Case (first quarter-peal as conductor) 6.

On Armistice Eve at St. John's Church, Longton, Staffs, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples was rung with the bells half-muffled as a token of respect to fallen ringers of the association and relatives of the band: W. Carter 1, W. Perkins (first quarter-peal) 2, A. D. Steel (conductor) 3, H. Carter 4, W. H. Bloor 5, N. R. Holland 6, E. Steele 7, H. Bloor 8.

At St. George's, Beckenham, Kent, for evening service on Armistice Sunday, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples: Miss M. I. Rawlings 1, W. J. Rawlings 2, G. E. Rawlings 3, R. W. Rawlings 4, G. W. Fogden 5, C. F. Onley 6, P. A. Corby (conductor) 7, C. Austin 8.

SUCCESSFUL GATHERING AT RIPPINGALE.

On Saturday, October 30th, a quarterly meeting of the Southern Branch of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild was held at Rippingale, and about 40 ringers attended, the following towers being represented: Peterborough, Bourne, Market Deeping, Morton, Edenham, Witham-on-the-Hill, Surfleet, Billingham, Hough-on-the-Hill, Caythorpe, Sleaford, Dyke, Folkingham and Rippingale. The Rector (the Rev. Williams) kindly allowed the use of the bells during the afternoon and evening, and the visitors made good use of the opportunity of trying this splendid peal of six, lately restored by Messrs. Taylor and Co. A large variety of Minor methods was the order of the day, and was much enjoyed by those taking part. Choral service was conducted by the Rector, the lesson being read by Mr. S. Laxton, captain of the local band.

In the course of his address the Rector extended a very hearty welcome to the visitors, and said he was glad to see so many towers represented. The numerous ringing associations did excellent work for the church, and he paid particular tribute to his own ringers for the splendid work they did both in the belfry and the choir.

Tea, which was kindly provided by the Rippingale ringers, was served in the Parish Hall, 36 sitting down. Among those present were the Rector and Mrs. Williams, Mr. R. Richardson (Master of the Guild) and Mrs. Richardson.

At the business meeting which followed the Rector presided. It was proposed that the annual meeting be held at Grantham, an amendment was made in favour of Edenham, and, on being put to the vote, Edenham secured the majority.

An appeal was made for two restoration schemes, Hougham and Sempringham Abbey Church, but it was decided that both appeals be put on the agenda for the annual meeting.

Mr. B. H. Dalton, of Billingham, was elected a performing member of the Southern Branch.

A very hearty vote of thanks was accorded to the Rector for the use of the bells and the service, and also to all who had taken part in the arrangements, and for the hospitality shown to the visitors.

Some afterwards took part in handbell ringing, others returned to the tower.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

The ringers of Knaresborough, Yorkshire, have resigned on account of a disagreement with the Church Council regarding new rules.

The stumbling-block is a rule which says, 'Any misconduct in the belfry shall be reported at once to the Vicar.' The ringers protest that the rule is unnecessary, as no one in his senses misconducts himself in the belfry.

Geoffrey Harrison, of Loughborough, who has just rung two peals in a day, was stated in our last issue to be 14 years old. Actually he is only 13, which makes his performance even more remarkable.

The Spliced Surprise Major rung at the College Youths' dinner on November 6th consisted of six methods, Rutland being included in addition to the five mentioned in our report. The error was due to difficulties of hearing, for in the large hall the call of 'Rutland' sounded like 'London.'

During the eight days of the jubilee celebrations of Truro Cathedral the bells were rung each evening for the special service, and for the Choral Eucharist, special's men's service and evensong on the Sunday, the Cathedral company being assisted by visiting ringers from various parishes in the diocese.

His many friends will regret to hear that Mr. J. E. Davis, of 118, Sarsfield Road, Balham, is in hospital with a septic arm. He underwent an operation on Thursday of last week, and, although in considerable pain, is, we learn, fairly comfortable. Mr. Davis is in charge of St. Botolph's, Bishopsgate, tower, and the Monday evening practices there are temporarily suspended.

With regard to the non-conducted peal of Cambridge at Brierley Hill, Mr. E. Barnett writes: 'A non-conducted (or silent) peal of Cambridge Surprise was rung at Crayford on October 11th, 1929, and, if my memory is correct, Messrs. Pye, Bennett, Wigg and Co. rang one last year on a tour in the North of England.'

PEAL ATTEMPT AT CHESTER CATHEDRAL.

DEAN'S MOMENTARY FORGETFULNESS BRINGS UNTIMELY END.

The attempt for the first peal on the ten bells at Chester Cathedral, rung by a representative band of the Diocesan Guild, came to an untimely end on Saturday by the sudden failure of the electric light. The chamber was only in darkness for a few seconds before the light came again, but several of the band had set their bells and the ringing was abandoned. Investigation brought no satisfactory explanation, for the Cathedral was found to be locked and in darkness, as it was left before ascending the tower. After some consideration it was decided that the lateness of the hour made a further attempt for the peal undesirable, and after ringing a touch of Kent Royal and a course of Cambridge Major the bells were lowered.

The 'mystery' was solved on Sunday morning, when the Chester branch secretary received a telephone message from the Dean, who said that he was very concerned about the occurrence and more concerned to think that he was the cause of it. He had taken a party into the Cathedral after the normal closing hour, and had unwittingly shut off the belfry main switch with the others. Quickly realising the consequences he had switched on again, but it was, of course, too late. He wishes to express to the band his apologies and profound regret, and hopes that the next attempt will be marred by no such unfortunate accident.

He has given permission for the peal—Kent Royal, conducted by Mr. R. Sperring—to be made on Saturday, December 11th.

INVERARAY BELLS.

To the Editor.

Sir,—Many who were at the College Youths' dinner and heard the Duke of Argyll's invitation to ring at Inveraray will be interested to know something of those bells.

In June last the ringers of St. Mary's Cathedral, Glasgow, obtained permission to visit there, and touches of Triples and Caters were rung—it is believed that they were the first on the bells. The 'go' was excellent. A few weeks ago I was informed by the towerkeeper that the bells had not been rung up since then.

Although the tenor is about 42 cwt., there are no boxes for the ringers, and the ropes are rotted and quite unreliable. The Glasgow ringers, knowing the conditions, brought supplies of both with them. At least one of the stays is damaged. The church is very near to the water's edge and the bells are not properly protected from the wet.

AN INCIDENT AT IVER.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—Will you please kindly allow me a little space wherein to warn anyone who is thinking of trying to get a ring at St. Peter's, Iver, Bucks, of having a lost journey. On Sunday week, having read the notice in 'The Ringing World' of the reopening of the bells, several ringers gathered there, but on entering the belfry (both before and after the service) were treated as intruders by the local call-change company, and were not asked to take part in the ringing, or even to try one of the bells.

THE COLLEGE YOUTHS.

MR. W. T. COCKERILL'S RETIREMENT.

Election of New Secretary.

'Election night' drew a large attendance of members of the Ancient Society of College Youths to headquarters on Tuesday of last week. The reason was not far to seek. Mr. W. T. Cockerill was retiring from the office of hon. secretary, and members desired to show their appreciation of his long service to the society and express their good wishes to him.

Mr. Cockerill was voted to the chair while the election of officers took place, and, there being only one nomination for each office, the following were declared re-elected: Master, Mr. E. H. Lewis; hon. treasurer, Mr. A. A. Hughes; senior steward, Mr. L. A. Porter; junior steward, Mr. J. A. Waugh; trustees, Messrs. C. F. Winney and H. R. Newton.

Mr. A. B. Peck was elected to succeed Mr. Cockerill, to whom many tributes were paid for his long and devoted services to the society.

The Master proposed that the best thanks of the society be accorded to Mr. Cockerill and that the resolution be entered on the minutes. This was seconded by Mr. A. A. Hughes, and among others who spoke were Messrs. J. G. Prior, H. Hoskins, H. R. Newton, C. Hazelden, F. E. Dawe, J. A. Waugh and Rawlins.

Good wishes were also expressed by Mr. E. P. Duffield and others to Mr. Peck in undertaking the secretarial duties.

The customary routine business, including the adoption of the balance sheet for the year, was disposed of and two new members were elected.

Thanks were accorded to the Dinner Committee for their successful efforts in connection with the tercentenary celebrations, and a message of greeting was dispatched to Canon G. F. Coleridge on his 80th birthday.

Mr. Alfred B. Peck, who has succeeded Mr. Cockerill in the secretaryship, has had a long connection with the Ancient Society and been prominently identified with its activities. He was elected Master in 1910, after having served four years as steward.

A native of Bedford, Mr. Peck learned to handle a bell at St. Mary's Church in that town, but, coming to London in 1900, he was fortunate to make his way to St. Stephen's, Westminster, where at that time there was an accomplished band of Surprise ringers. He has taken part in many notable performances, and at St. Paul's Cathedral, where he has long been a member of the band, has turned the tenor in to Cambridge Maximus. As this performance indicates, Mr. Peck is an accomplished heavy-bell ringer, and among his feats was ringing Southwark Cathedral tenor, a bell of over 50 cwt., to the ill-fated record peal of Stedman Cinques, 12,675 changes, in 9 hours 47 minutes, on May 21st, 1923, the composition of which afterwards turned out to be false. Mr. Peck was also a member of the company which rang the record length by one set of men, the 21,363 Stedman Caters at Appleton on April 22nd, 1922.

THE LATE MR. A. E. WREAKS. RINGERS' MEMORIAL.

At St. James' Church, Paisley, Scotland, on Sunday, after morning service, dedication of a 'ringers' memorial library' in memory of the late Mr. Albert Edward Wreaks, took place in the belfry. Mr. Wreaks was for many years the esteemed Master of the ringers.

The memorial takes the form of a bookcase with books concerning bellringing, and should become a valuable acquisition to the ringers.

The Rev. Sydney C. Still, M.A., who performed the brief ceremony, said they had assembled to dedicate the memorial in grateful remembrance of Albert Edward Wreaks, for 26 years the beloved Master of their association, whose name held an abiding place in their affections. He spoke of Mr. Wreaks' work since coming to teach the art of ringing at Paisley, and then unveiled the bookcase and dedicated it with suitable prayers.

MR. A. B. PECK,
The new Hon. Secretary of the Society.

LIVERPOOL CATHEDRAL BELLS.

WORK TO BEGIN ON RING OF TWELVE.

A Four-ton Tenor.

The first part of the order for the bells of the new Cathedral at Liverpool has been placed with Messrs. Mears and Stainbank, of the Whitechapel Foundry.

It consists of a ring of twelve, with a tenor of 80 cwt., and a sharp second bell to provide a light octave.

The Cathedral will thus have the heaviest ringing peal in the world.

It is uncertain when the bells will be hung, for the great central tower is not yet finished, but presumably it will be at no very distant date.

Ringers will anticipate with lively interest hearing a peal of bells of these majestic proportions.

TEACHING BEGINNERS.

A MISUNDERSTANDING.

To the Editor

Dear Sir,—I was astonished beyond measure to note the tone of Mr. Stephen Wood's letter in your issue of October 22nd, for if any of your readers will kindly refer to the letter written by me on the subject of the most suitable method on which to start a beginner, they will see that I have never alluded to his letter in any way, much less mentioned his name. Some unseen force must, therefore, have altered the points, and put Mr. Wood entirely on the wrong pair of rails! I have a far greater respect for his splendid ability, but having regard to all the correspondence on the subject, to say nothing of the numerous discussions and expressions of opinion up and down the country, I ventured to express an opinion, which I still strongly maintain and which was supported by a large number of good ringers, that the much despised Grandsire method is certainly the best for teaching a beginner first. I note that the opinions in favour of other methods mainly emanate from inexperience amongst the class known as the 'rising generation'! In my long experience I only knew of three towers where Bob Doubles and Major have been employed—and each one has proved a dismal failure!

I am very sorry to note that Mr. Wood appears to speak slightly of old times, as past instructors certainly turned out some good ringers, but do let me assure everyone concerned that there were some of the best achievements by those good old ringers, and I have had the honour of taking part in several where the striking was simply perfect. The peal books of the various societies can verify this. No doubt, Mr. Wood and others have succeeded in eclipsing the ringing of that period, thus putting everything already done quite in the shade, but I have unfortunately missed the reports of same in your valuable paper by some strange accident or other!

Anyhow, I am perfectly certain that the quality and accuracy of the actual ringing was better in those days than that which obtains generally at the present time—I mean before the 'craze' for new methods, more than enough to employ every name in Bradshaw's Guide with that ridiculous word 'Surprise' after it. The real surprise is how the heavily taxed ratepayers near at hand put up with the discordant 'jangles.' Nowadays a ringer's capabilities appear to be judged by and consist of the number of new methods he can jangle through without any consideration as to correct striking and careful ringing. Much has been said about encouraging young people, but really it is quite unnecessary, as they appear to be very well able to take care of and speak for themselves! I have never, from first to last, said a word against Mr. Wood's able advice, but have spoken from a collective standpoint, so as to embody the opinions of the majority. I really do hope that Mr. Wood will not misunderstand me in future. After all, when an apple cart has been upset quite unintentionally, surely it is an easy matter to set it up again all right!

F. E. DAWE.

A COUNTRYMAN'S VIEW.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I be from the country and it weren't so long since I larnt to ring neither, but I've taught a good few boy-chaps since then. I bain't much of a scholar but it do seem to I as some of they chaps as is writing about larners be getting a bit muddled. I reckon some be talking about how to teach boys to plain hunt, and t'others be on about how to larn 'em to ring a method.

Once you've larnt 'em to hunt and to strike good while they be a'doin' on it, and to see where they be a-going on four bells and then on five or six, my boys say as it's just as easy to make seconds as to make thirds, or to dodge up along in 3-4 as it be in 4-5. It don't seem to make no difference to they 'cos they knows where 'em be. If they couldn't find their way about proper in hunting, they'd make as big a mess o' Grandsire as they 'ould o' Plain Bob. Keep 'em hunting till they can see what's what, and after a bit it don't matter whether the old tenor's a-drumming behind or whether she's coming in along o' the rest. My boys be only 11 or 12 years old, but it don't take 'em long to pick up hunting on 3 or 4 and then up.

And I'll tell 'ee summat else. They boys don't think much o' the nasty letters just lately. They reckon it's a poor job if people can't see more nor their own point o' view, and remember as us all learns a different way, more like as not.

BAD LEADERSHIP AND BAD RINGING.

RETIRING SECRETARY'S OUTSPOKEN CRITICISM.

Pointed remarks on striking and service ringing in the Rochester District of the Kent County Association were made by the retiring hon. secretary, Mr. Stanley Shellock, in his annual report presented to the members on October 30th, when the annual meeting of the district was held at Rochester Cathedral, through the kindness of the Dean. The attendance was quite up to the standard, approximately 80 being present from the following towers: Gravesend, Northfleet, Milton-next-Gravesend, Frindsbury, Rochester, Chatham, Gillingham, Rainham, Sittingbourne, Bobbing, Tunstall, Maidstone, Dartford, Beckenham, Hawkhurst and Woodford.

The bells were available from 3 p.m. until 4 p.m., at which time evensong was sung in the Cathedral, which the majority of the ringers took the opportunity to attend.

Tea was provided by the association at the City Cafe, and Mr. F. M. Mitchell, general secretary of the association, was voted to the chair at the business meeting which followed. The balance sheet was read and adopted, and the secretary's report was also received, although, as the chairman remarked, it contained a few biting references.

MORE COMPETENT LEADERS NEEDED.

In his report the hon. secretary said: 'I make no excuse for again bringing to your notice our main duty as churchworkers, which is to use our skill for ringing the bells for Sunday services. May I reiterate those words "our skill," because I have listened and, at times, regretfully I must admit, even been compelled to be one of the company responsible for terrible striking, which is a travesty of change ringing; such exposition of our art is to be regretted. It is mainly due to bad leadership and most certainly is likely to continue until we have sufficient general interest in the well-being of our local bands and also the courage to substitute these irresponsible persons by more competent leaders.

'To the incumbents, their assistants and lay officers of our churches I also again appeal to interest themselves in the ringers and ringing and to make up their minds that during the coming year the actual ringing chambers, whilst the ringers are performing both on Sundays and on practice nights, will more often be visited. I do not suggest, however, that such visits should be made out of idle curiosity, but with a view to improvement in the ringing, and would suggest inquiry on such visits, whether the physical effort to obtain regular spacing between the blows of each bell is greater than that which is necessary when the rhythm is disjointed. This show of real interest will, I am certain, be worth much more than we can imagine, and will, if persevered in, raise the standard of change ringing in our district to a desirably higher level.'

The report went on to say that the honorary members of the branch had declined by one, to 19, and the practising members by 11, to 157. It was hoped that an effort would be made to make up the leeway during the succeeding twelve months. The secession of Milton Regis had reduced the total of towers in union to 19. Meetings at Milton-next-Gravesend, Queenborough and Tunstall had all been highly successful and well attended, and thanks were recorded to Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell: the ringers and their friends at Queenborough; and the Rector of Tunstall for entertaining the members to tea.

A HIT BELOW THE BELT.

The hon. secretary added that owing to a family bereavement he was debarred from attending the meeting at Milton-next-Gravesend, his only absence during the whole term he had occupied office. He regretted that his absence should have been chosen suitable for a complaint regarding lack of reports in 'The Ringing World' of their meetings. He resented this 'hit below the belt,' particularly as he had been most careful on the special occasions, and he was sure the Editor of 'The Ringing World' had given the Rochester District a very square deal in these matters.

The Hon. Secretary said he had summarised the attendances at district meetings over the last 20 years. It showed that 3,852 persons had attended 62 meetings, an average of 47 for each meeting. During the last nine years the average attendance had been 54, so that they had more than maintained their interest in a very vital branch of the association's work.

Twenty-two peals had been rung in the last year in seven towers in the district, with six conductors.

The secretary went on to ask for some organised effort to improve service ringing, for which, he thought, there was room. Many peals of bells were silent either for morning or evening service, and specially arranged quarter-peals was one way of tackling this problem. He asked the members to think this over very seriously and determine to make amends. He heartily congratulated Mr. Frank Cheal, of Rainham, who had, during the past year, put in 106 attendances for Sunday ringing—undoubtedly a very creditable performance.

SATISFACTORY FINANCE.

The financial position of the district was very satisfactory, and it was hoped that a sum of approximately £18 10s. would be available to turn over to the general account. The total contribution of the district to the Benevolent Fund for the year was £3 16s. 7d.

The hon. secretary expressed sympathy with the Newington ringers at the enforced silence, generally, of their bells, due to want of structural repairs, and he commended their loyalty in retaining their membership through such a period of trial.

The death of Lawrence Hales, of Hoo St. Werberg, and Edward Friend, of Gillingham, was sympathetically referred to, and, in conclusion, the hon. secretary expressed his thanks to the members for the trust they had reposed in him during his term of office, and, in regretting he could no longer carry on the duties, appealed for all the help the members could give to his successor.

The election of the district officers resulted in both the retiring district representatives, Messrs. Spice and Allen, being re-elected, and Mr. G. H. Spice was elected as district secretary, the retiring secretary, through domestic circumstances, being unable to continue.

The Chairman proposed that a very hearty vote of thanks should be accorded Mr. Shellock for his services as district secretary during the last nine years, and this was unanimously carried. The retiring secretary thanked the company for their kind expressions and informed them of his great regret in having to give up the post.

During the evening the bells were rung by mixed companies, and certainly Stedman did not go very kindly. The closing touch of Bob Royal, which was a great improvement, indicated how much better results could be obtained with a little more enterprise.

RETIRING SECRETARY'S THANKS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I would like to take this opportunity of expressing to you my very sincere thanks for your indulgence to me in the execution of my duties during the past nine years.

STANLEY J. T. SHELLOCK.

Retiring District Sec. (Rochester Dis., K.C.A.).

AFFAIRS IN THE TONBRIDGE DISTRICT.

HON. SECRETARY CALLS FOR A GREATER EFFORT.

The annual meeting of the Tonbridge District was held at Tonbridge and was attended by 60 members, representing 14 towers out of the 19 in union in the district. Ringing took place during the afternoon and evening in the standard methods, and, on the whole, the striking was very good. The usual service was held, conducted by the Rev. Canon F. Child. Tea at the Carlton Cafe was followed by the business meeting, which was presided over by Mr. E. H. Lewis, president of the Central Council and vice-president of the association.

The hon. secretary (Mr. A. Richardson), in presenting his report for the year, said that for many years it had been a habit to commence the report with the words, 'I have again great pleasure in presenting my report,' but the time had unfortunately come when it was anything but a pleasure. He said he did not want to be thought a pessimist, but in putting the facts before the members in an optimistic mood he trusted they would be stirred to action, and would uphold the standard that the district had enjoyed for so many years. The number of practising members had dropped to the low level of 165. This figure was the lowest since 1920. The number of subscribing honorary members had reached the low figure of eight, unparalleled since 1918. There had been lack of progress in method ringing, and the striking at some meetings had left much to be desired. In too many towers practices had been allowed to lapse, and Sunday service ringing had suffered correspondingly. He pointed out Rule No. 1 of the association: 'That this association . . . have for its object the establishment, maintenance and encouragement of service ringing in all the churches in the county.' So that it was up to everyone to take interest, not only in one's own tower, but in all the towers.

The report caused considerable stir. Mr. T. Saunders, of East Peckham, said he 'did not think much of the report,' as it did not praise the district up. Mr. Richardson said that they had praised him for his previous reports, when he had painted a good picture, and he thought it was up to them to do the same when he told the truth, as it was for the ultimate good of the district.

A RINGING MASTER ELECTED.

Mr. Lewis put the report, together with the balance sheet, to the meeting, and their adoption was carried.

Mr. A. Richardson was re-elected hon. secretary for the ensuing year. Messrs. E. Everest and T. Saunders were elected district representatives.

The Chairman pointed out the paragraph in Rule 7, which states that a ringing master may be elected.

Mr. F. W. Housden said he thought it was very necessary for the district to have a ringing master, and put forward the name of Mr. E. J. Ladd.

Mr. Edwards said that the representatives of the district had for years acted in the capacity of ringing masters, and he could not see any advantage in making any alteration.—The Hon. Secretary remarked that though this should have been so, it had nearly always been left to him to make up the ringing at meetings. He thought that a ringing master should have knowledge of other methods besides Grandsire and be able to conduct other methods.

Mr. Edwards retorted that surely it did not need a London 'gadget' to organise the ringing, as it was not necessary for a ringing master to stand in all the touches.

Mr. Housden's proposition was seconded by Mr. H. J. Ford, and Mr. E. J. Ladd was elected the Master for 1938.

Mr. C. Dailly, of Brasted, was elected a practising member, having previously rung the treble to a touch of Grandsire Triples, this being his first experience on eight bells.

ANOTHER SPLICED SURPRISE RECORD. SIX METHODS RUNG ON HANDBELLS.

Hertfordshire Men's Great Achievement.

The Hertfordshire handbell band have created yet another record by ringing a peal of six Spliced Surprise Major methods, Rutland having now been included with London, Cambridge, Superlative, Bristol and Ealing.

One can only continue to marvel at the skill of this talented quartette, to whose all-conquering achievements there seems no end. Their performance at the Collage Youths' tercentenary gathering, when they rang these six methods in the presence of a huge audience, was a revelation of their brilliance, and everyone commented upon the speed at which the ringing was done. The whole peal last Friday was accomplished at the same great pace, only a small fraction less than 38 changes a minute.

The average mind has difficulty in grasping what this implies. Each man putting two bells in their places for two and a quarter hours, slipping with perfect smoothness 135 times from one method to another, and striking the bells at an average rate of over five per second! The more the ordinary ringer thinks of it the more staggering it appears.

Here is the composition, by the conductor, Mr. Harold Cashmore, who, let us add, is something of a wizard with figures as well as with handbells. His share in the performance is colossal, for not only had he to ring his own pair of bells, but to call 102 bobs and the 135 changes of method. One of the most brilliant ringing achievements of all time.

Twice repeated. B represents a lead of Bristol, E Ealing, C Cambridge, R Rutland, L London, S Superlative. The leads shown S must be rung as such. C can be rung S or G. In the peal as rung at Oxhey there were 1,440 changes of London, 672 each of Cambridge and Rutland, and 768 each of the other three methods.

FIRST QUARTER-PEALS.

FARNDON, CHESHIRE.—At St. Chad's Church on October 13th, a quarter-peal of Bob Triples: J. Youde 1, T. Simon, jun. 2, A. E. Richards 3, R. L. Ince 4, T. Guest 5, J. Thomas 6, J. Morgan (conductor) 7, T. Simon, sen. 8. First quarter-peal in the method for all except the conductor.

CIRENCESTER, GLOS.—On Sunday, October 3rd, for evening service at Holy Trinity Church, Watermoor, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples: Rev. G. Harvey 1, F. J. Lewis, sen. (conductor) 2, H. L. Cooke 3, H. S. Parsons 4, H. C. Bond 5, A. Painter 6, F. J. Lewis, jun. 7, W. H. Hayward 8. First quarter-peal and first attempt away from the tenor by the Rev. G. Harvey (priest-in-charge at Watermoor).

CAMBERWELL.—At St. Giles' Church on Sunday evening, October 3rd, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples: Miss B. Mills 1, Miss H. Mills 2, J. Gransbury 3, W. Grainger 4, T. H. Taffender (conductor) 5, F. Hopgood (first quarter-peal in the method) 6, E. F. King 7, H. Peters 8.

LYDIARD MILLCENT, WILTS.—On Wednesday, September 23rd, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Doubles (1,260 changes) in 44 mins.: W. C. Chandler 1, A. Lawrence 2, R. Shalles 3, F. D. Wheeler (first quarter 'inside') 4, W. B. Kynaston (conductor) 5, N. C. Wheeler 6.

The following towers were chosen to be visited in the forthcoming year: Goudhurst in February, Hever in May, Brasted and Sundridge in July, and Toubridge in October. Mr. E. H. Lewis kindly invited the members to tea when they visited Brasted.

The members were informed that their old friend, the Rev. F. L. Schreiber, Vicar of Shipbourne, had not been enjoying very good health, and the secretary was asked to send to him the sympathy and good wishes of the members.

After the usual votes of thanks, Mr. Lewis, who had kindly brought along a portable gramophone, demonstrated the meaning of good striking by putting on the record of Spliced Surprise (Bristol, London, Cambridge, Superlative, Ealing), rung by Messrs. H. Hodgetts, C. Woolley, H. G. Cashmore and F. Brinklow.

LADY AS ESSEX DISTRICT SECRETARY.

CHANGE IN NORTHERN DIVISION OFFICERS.

The annual meeting of the Northern Division of the Essex Association took place at Bocking on November 6th, 52 ringers attending from the following 21 parishes: Greenstead Green, Earls Colne, Braintree, Witham, Sawbridgeworth, Sible Hedingham, Great Baddow, St. Osyth, Saffron Walden, Dunmow, Springfield, Great Bardfield, Wickham St. Paul's, Halstead, Kelvedon, Maldon, Bocking, Felsted, Wanstead, Peering and Colne Engaine. At the service the Dean of Bocking paid a high tribute to the services of the ringers and said he was very happy to be with them once again.

A collection for the Bell Restoration Fund amounted to 11s.

Tea was prepared at Courtaulds' Dining Room (by kind permission of Messrs. Courtaulds, Ltd.) by ladies, under the supervision of Mrs. Rogers. The Dean presided.

This was followed by the business meeting, the District Master (Mr. A. A. Saunders) presiding. The district secretary (Mr. F. Ridgwell) presented a report, in the course of which he said: 'During the past year meetings have been held at Sible Hedingham, Peering, Great Bardfield, Witham and Bocking, with an average attendance of 43. Two honorary and four ringing members have been elected. Since the last district annual meeting 30 peals have been rung in this division compared with 24 last year. They were all rung on tower bells, conducted by R. Suckling 8, L. W. Wiffen and R. Bird 7 each, H. W. Smith and A. Catterwell 2 each, W. Arnold, W. Ayre, J. Jennings and G. R. Townes 1 each. It is very gratifying to see the number of young ringers taking part in these peals, some their first peal and some the first in the method, whilst others conducted their first peal in various methods, and, with one exception, they were all conducted by members of this division.'

He thanked all those who had attended the meetings during the year and especially the correspondents of each company who had been such a great help by collecting subscriptions from all their members and sending them to him.

The report was received with enthusiasm.

SECRETARY RETIRES—BUT IS ELECTED RINGING MASTER.

The next business was the election of officers for the year. Mr. Ridgwell said he was not quite such a free man at present as when he took over the secretaryship eight years ago, and he asked for someone to be appointed in his place. There were some excellent ringers and conductors who he would like to see taking an interest in the inner working of the association, and he would like to propose that Miss H. Snowden be elected.—This was unanimously agreed to.

Mr. L. W. Wiffen said a great debt of gratitude was due to Mr. Ridgwell for all the work which he had done in such a conscientious manner; they had been very fortunate to have a man like him (applause).

The Secretary, in returning thanks, said the kind words which had been spoken fully compensated him for his eight years' work.

The District Master also tendered his resignation. He said he had held the office for ten years and considered it should be passed on.

Mr. Wiffen suggested that the late secretary be asked to take over the mastership; he thought it would be much better than having two new officers.—Mr. Ridgwell said he would agree if the members thought his services would be helpful to the new secretary. This was apparently the object of the proposition and he was unanimously elected.—Mr. Saunders was thanked for his past services.

A discussion took place as to the advisability of forming a benevolent fund for the association, but by a large majority the suggestion was turned down. It was agreed to hold the first meeting in the New Year at Earls Colne.

A hearty vote of thanks was accorded the Dean for the use of the bells, his address, and presiding at the tea, also to the ladies for preparing it, and to Messrs. Courtaulds for the use of the dining hall.

The Dean, in reply, said he thought they had made one mistake in arranging for the next meeting at Earls Colne; he thought they should all be held at Bocking (laughter).

A hearty welcome was accorded the visitors and congratulations were extended to the local company for the excellent way in which they kept their belfry.

A telegram of congratulation was sent from the meeting to the Ancient Society of College Youths, then holding their tercentenary meeting in London.

The methods rung during the day commenced with a few rounds for beginners and afterwards Bob Major, Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Double Norwich Court, Kent Treble Bob, Superlative, Cambridge, London and Bristol Surprise Major.

MAULDEN RINGERS' GOOD START.

At St. Mary's Church, Maulden, Beds, on Friday, November 5th, a quarter-peal of Doubles, being 120 of April Day, 480 of Plain Bob and 660 of Grandsire: Samuel Daniels 1, Andrew Sinfeld 2, Ralph Stokes 3, Ronald Sharp 4, C. E. Jeffries (conductor) 5, Sidney Sharp 6. The first quarter-peal by ringers of 1, 3 and 6. The band were recently taught change ringing by the conductor, and are local Sunday service ringers.

BARKING, ESSEX.—On Sunday, November 14th, for morning service, a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples (1,260 changes): C. Fenn (conductor) 1, W. Beard 2, H. Worboys 3, E. G. Cottis 4, E. Poppy (Eye, Suffolk) 5, L. E. Last 6, G. W. Faulkner 7, R. Fenn 8.

DEVON GUILD.MID-DEVON BRANCH SECRETARY WANTS TO RETIRE.

A quarterly meeting of the Mid-Devon Branch of the Devon Guild was held at Dartington on Saturday, October 30th, and was moderately attended, ringers being present from Exeter, Brampford Speke, Newton Abbot, Collaton, Paignton and Buckfastleigh.

The five peal of six bells were well utilised during the afternoon, some good touches of Grandsire and Stedman Doubles and Plain Bob Minor being rung, two members ringing their first touch in the latter method.

A service was conducted by the Rector (the Rev. J. S. Martin), who also gave a very able address. A collection taken for the Guild Bells Restoration Fund amounted to 5s.

The party adjourned to the Commercial Hotel, Totnes, for tea, and this was followed by the usual business meeting, presided over by the Rev. W. R. D. Mills (chairman).

It was reported that the meeting had been changed from Kingskerswell to Dartington, owing to the bells at the former place being under restoration. It was resolved that the annual meeting of the branch be held at Kingskerswell on Saturday, February 12th, 1938, subject to the necessary permission being obtained.

The following election of members prior to starting for peals were unanimously confirmed: Miss Florrie Wyman, Crawley; Mr. H. W. Simmons, Croydon; Mr. W. Claydon, Reigate; Mr. W. R. Melville, Kingsworthy; Mr. C. E. Smith, Godalming; Mr. J. S. Goldsmith, Woking; Mr. A. Paddon Smith, Birmingham; Mr. G. F. Swann, Birmingham; Mr. R. Richardson, Surfleet, all non-resident life members; also Mr. H. J. Hole, of Paignton, unattached performing member.

On the suggestion of the secretary, it was resolved to furnish each member of the branch with a copy of the secretary's and treasurer's reports for the annual meeting. Mr. A. L. Bennett also intimated that at the annual meeting he did not propose to seek re-election as secretary, treasurer and Ringing Master, but he was requested by the chairman and the general secretary to reconsider his decision.

Hearty votes of thanks accorded the Rector of Dartington for the use of his bells and for conducting the service, and to Mrs. Martin for presiding at the organ, terminated the business. Some of the members returned to the tower for further ringing, which included a well-struck 360 of Plain Bob Minor conducted by the president.

A YOUNG BAND.

At the Parish Church, Desborough, Northants, on Sunday, November 7th, for morning service, a 720 of Plain Bob Minor: Raymond H. Idle (aged 12) 1, Lewis W. Kilbourn 2, Denis Yeomans (aged 13), 3, John E. Plane (aged 15) 4, Leonard J. Brown (aged 15) 5, Arthur H. Idle (conductor) 6. This was the first 720 for ringers of 1 and 3, and first 720 'inside' for ringers of 5 and 6.

DON'T SCRUB YOUR HANDS!

skin this simple way*

To many people, the problem of getting the hands really clean without harming the skin is a serious one. Grease and grime, which become deeply ingrained into the pores of the skin, are extremely difficult to remove, and ordinary washing with soap or even scrubbing will fail to remove them completely. Housewives, particularly, who complain that their hands get ruined by the nature of their work, will find the preparation called DERMAFOAM, a real "godsend." DERMAFOAM just smooths away dirt and grease without effort. It gets right down into the pores and removes every particle of grime, leaving skin beautifully supple and healthy.

Men, too—when you've finished that dirty job on the car, DERMAFOAM will quickly banish all grease and oil from your hands. It acts almost magically—working under and around the nails and into every minute crease, removing all trace of dirt in a flash.

Engineers, Painters, Car Mechanics, Printers — everyone — will welcome DERMAFOAM, the modern method of cleansing and protecting the hands.

THE PLANNING OF MEETINGS.

There is a good deal of point in the matter raised by a district secretary elsewhere in this issue, in regard to the clashing of meetings in adjoining areas. It is just the outcome of lack of consultation between neighbouring secretaries, and could—as it is in some instances—be easily avoided. Our correspondent quotes two cases of organisations arranging meetings for the same date at towers within two or three miles of each other. On the face of it, it seems absurd, for one or both meetings must suffer, or at any rate fail to be the success they otherwise might be. Even within the ranks of a single association there are often meetings which clash, through the more or less indiscriminate way in which the district secretaries arrange these gatherings. Sometimes, of course, it is unavoidable—dates cannot be made to fit. But even allowing for this, there is far too much overlapping.

There are some secretaries who are able to adhere to one particular Saturday a month, or quarter, as the case may be, for the meetings in his district, and neighbouring secretaries who know this, if they are wise, avoid these dates when making their own arrangements. Often, however, the selection of places and dates is a haphazard affair, with no settled plan—it depends on the whim of the members at the previous meeting. In some organisations a scheme of meetings for the whole year is drawn up, largely, of course, for internal convenience, but it is a plan which works well by preventing the clashing of events which inevitably happens otherwise. Similar arrangements could, we imagine, be made without much trouble between neighbouring associations by secretaries of adjoining districts. The essential point is to take the necessary steps in good time. When, as sometimes happens, the clashing is not known until the meetings are advertised, it is, of course, too late to change the dates; it is only by preliminary co-operation that successful results can be achieved. It is the clashing of dates more than the selection of neighbouring towers that should be avoided, for even if the towers are twenty instead of two miles apart, there may still be, in these days of easy transport, some who would be prevented from attending both meetings, although they would like to do so.

We suggest that in the coming year associations might with advantage not only arrange the meetings in their own areas so that there is no overlapping, but co-operate with adjoining organisations to avoid clashing. If neighbouring secretaries would make it part of their organising efforts to get into touch, advantageous and useful results could be obtained. After all, the associations

WEDDING BELLS.

At Christ Church, Upper Armley, Leeds, for morning service on November 14th, 720 Oxford Treble Bob Minor was rung to mark the occasion of the marriage of Mr. Arthur Fieldhouse, a member of the local company: G. Gaunt 1, James Hey 2, Miss O. Renton 3, A. Fieldhouse 4, Joseph Thackray 5, Frank Rayment 6. For evening service 720 of Kent Treble Bob Minor was rung: Joseph Thackray 1, G. Gaunt 2, Olive Renton 3, J. Fieldhouse 4, A. Fieldhouse 5, F. Rayment 6, James Hey tenor (covering).

On Sunday, November 7th, the wedding of Mr. William H. Lawley (a member of St. Peter's company, Wolverhampton) and Miss Edith E. Hartshorn was solemnised at Queen Street Church, Wolverhampton. In honour of the event touches of 627 Stedman Caters and 270 Grandsire Caters were rung at St. Peter's Church by H. Knight (conductor) 1, G. A. Baker 2, T. Roden 3, H. Griffiths 4, J. Whatmore 5, J. Williams 6, T. Smith 7, F. Brotherton 8, B. Horton 9, R. Thompson 10.

NORTH STAFFORDSHIRE ASSOCIATION.NEW BISHOP OF LICHFIELD BECOMES PATRON.

A meeting of the North Staffs and District Association was held at Burslem on Saturday, November 13th. Thirty-six members were present from Burslem, Bucknall, Brown Edge, Biddulph, Draycott, Fenton, Kidsgrove, Kingsley, Leek, Longton, Norton, Newcastle, Stoke-on-Trent and Stone.

Tea was held in the Schoolroom, where a welcome to the association was extended by Mr. J. Hurd, in the absence of the Rector.

A vote of thanks was accorded to the Rector and ringers for the use of the bells, and also the use of a room for a committee meeting.

Four new members were elected, viz., C. Jackson, of Newcastle, and J. Snape, S. Till and G. Houslow, of Darlaston.

A letter was read by the secretary from the Lord Bishop of Lichfield, in which he said: I am glad to succeed my predecessors as patron of the North Staffordshire Association of Change Ringers. Please tell them how interested I am to hear of the peal rung on the occasion of my enthronement.

MIDDLESEX ASSOCIATION AT TWICKENHAM.PRESIDENT ACTS AS HOST.

On Saturday, November 13th, the South and West District of the Middlesex County Association and London Diocesan Guild visited St. Mary's Church, Twickenham. Ringers attended from a wide area, including places as far apart as Grayford and Watford, while district towers sent their representatives.

Shortened evensong was conducted by the president of the association, the Rev. W. P. Cole-Sheane, who is also the Vicar of St. Mary's. The lesson was read by the vice-president, Mr. J. A. Trollope, and a feature of the service was the singing of the new ringers' hymn, 'Ruislip Bells.'

Mrs. Bradford and Mrs. Lovell, both wives of local ringers, served a tasty tea in the Parish Hall. The Vicar presided, and was supported by all the district officers.

Two new lady members from the Ruislip band were elected.

The hon. secretary (Mr. F. W. Goodfellow) read an appeal on novel lines from Mr. P. Amos, seeking funds for the augmentation of the bells (or bell!) at St. Andrew's, Northampton.

Before the tower was revisited, the company were entertained to some change ringing on handbells. The keen air outside kept an appreciative audience in close company to the stove until the last possible moment! The tower-bell ringing, varied in character as usual, ranged from rounds and Grandsire Triples to London Surprise Major, under the direction of the Ringing Master, Mr. E. C. S. Turner.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.SUCCESSFUL MEETING AT HUGHENDEN.

Once again the young and the not so young joined forces to produce a most interesting monthly practice of the East Berks and South Bucks Branch of the Oxford Diocesan Guild. As there are no facilities for tea nearer Hughenden than High Wycombe, it was arranged that those who could would meet at Lyons and there fortify themselves for the evening's ringing. This was done by the usual stalwarts, who then found their way by various means to the tower, which, by the way, really needs a summer's day for one to appreciate the full beauty of its setting.

Touche of Grandsire and Stedman Triples and Bob Major were soon rung, also, the experts having arrived, Double Norwich, Superlative, London, Cambridge and Bristol were likewise disposed of.

An encouraging feature of this meeting was the number of towers represented and the presence of those members of the Guild who perform such good work in scoring peals, but who, alas, are not often seen at monthly practices. It was also gratifying to welcome visitors from other societies.

An amusing interlude was caused by one, who, on discovering in the pockets of the jacket which fitted him so well several articles which were unfamiliar to him, began to bestow them one by one on a more suitable owner. On investigation he was found to be the rightful owner of the jacket as well. Further amusement was caused later by two other jackets being twin brothers.

Plain courses of Grandsire were made full use of by keen beginners, whilst others refreshed their memory for a course of Yorkshire. This was followed by Oxford Bob Triples and Little Bob Major, the novelty and music being enjoyed by novice and expert alike. Three leads of Kent and a well-struck bob course of Stedman Triples brought to a close a happy and enjoyable evening.

DEATH OF OAKLEY CAPTAIN.

We regret to record the passing of another of the Winchester and Portsmouth (Basingstoke District) members in Mr. William Hunt, for many years captain of Oakley tower, and a very highly respected member of the Guild.

He was buried at Oakley Church, the service being conducted by the Rev. Judewine, Rector and chairman of the Basingstoke Branch. A course of Grandsire Triples was rung on handbells around the grave as a token of respect by members of the Basingstoke District: Rev. H. S. Marle 1, B. Garrett 2, J. Munday 3, F. Munday 4, J. Chesterman 5, F. Knapp 6, C. Ostler 7, H. Garrett 8.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

The jubilee dinner of the Chester Diocesan Guild on Saturday was a great success. We hope to publish a report of the proceedings in our next issue.

A ring of five bells at Corley, Coventry, which have been restored, are to be rededicated on Sunday at 6.30 p.m.

Mr. James George, of Birmingham, will celebrate his 84th birthday on Saturday. Many good wishes will, we are sure, find their way to 44, Cuckoo Road, Nechells, to-morrow.

We once heard Mr. George say he hoped to live to be 117. Well, he's doing his best. He is still a 'tough guy' at the end of a bell rope, and is hoping to celebrate his birthday next week by taking part in several peal attempts.

The death has occurred of Mr. Thomas Hoad, a respected member of the band at Salehurst, Sussex. The funeral took place on November 18th and two days later a half-muffled peal of Grandsire Triples was rung in his memory.

A ringer, who recently called a peal of Stedman Triples, which was his first peal as conductor, thanks us for the help he got from the Beginners' articles on Stedman a few months back. 'You pointed out facts,' he says, 'which ordinary people like myself might not have seen in ten years.'

To-morrow a peal board memorial is to be unveiled at Mitcham Parish Church to the late Mr. J. D. Drewett, J.P., Master of the Surrey Association from 1913 to his death in 1923.

He was a member of Mitcham Society for over 50 years; his father was a ringer for over 50 years and his eldest son for over 20 years until killed in action in the Great War.

Two lady ringers in Australia are to be married shortly. Miss Joan Helen Kynaston, daughter of the Vicar of Hambledon, Hants, who has been teaching the girls at Frensham School the art of change ringing, is to be married at Mittagong, New South Wales, on the last day of the year.

Early in the new year the wedding is to take place in Melbourne of Miss Frey Shimmin, the young Australian lady who took part in the peal of Grandsire Cinques at St. Paul's Cathedral, Melbourne, on Armistice Day, 1934.

A few copies of 'The Ringing World,' containing the full report of the College Youths' tercentenary celebrations, may still be obtained, price 3d. each, post free, from 'The Ringing World' Office, Lower Pyrford Road, Woking.

THE OLDEST SOCIETY OF RINGERS.

THE CLAIMS OF LINCOLN.

To the Editor.

Sir,—In the recent celebration of the tercentenary of the Ancient Society of College Youths the claim was made that it is the oldest society of ringers in the world. Some years ago, when a similar claim was made, I wrote to the 'Times' and pointed out that the 'Company of Ringers of our Blessed Virgin Mary of Lincoln' has a still older history. But as the assertion of this other claim is still repeated, I would again call attention to the facts, which are as follows:—

In the Muniment Room of the Dean and Chapter of Lincoln there are two documents, containing (1) the Ordinances of the Ringers, dated 1612, together with the names of the company, beginning with Robert Sandye, scrivener (who was Master in 1614), and (2) the Letters Patent of the Dean and Chapter to the Company of Ringers, dated September 23rd, 1614.

The Ringers' Chapel by the south-west tower of Lincoln Cathedral has painted upon its walls, with ornamental borders, a list of the Masters of the ringers from 1614 to 1635, as well as the names of the company in 1634, and in 1722-25.

A reprint of these documents, and a description of the lists painted on the walls of the Ringers' Chapel, will be found in Bradshaw and Wordsworth's 'Lincoln Cathedral Statutes, III.,' pp. 603-627.

It will thus be seen that the Lincoln Company was established 23 years earlier than the Society of College Youths.

J. H. SRAWLEY, Chancellor of Lincoln.

The Chancery, Lincoln.

THE SPLICED SURPRISE 'SIX' ON HANDBELLS.

To the Editor

Dear Sir,—Please allow me the space to congratulate Mr. Cashmore and his colleagues on their latest and most wonderful performance. I agree that it is one of the most brilliant ringing achievements of all time. As a member of the band that rang the first peal in six Surprise Major methods at Willesden some few years ago I can remember the thrill which came with success—but I feel sure that there must be a double thrill after having rung two bells through such a peal. That the ringing is good goes without saying; it would be impossible to correct a bad trip with so much to think about.

That this talented band will go on to many more successes is the wish of the great majority of ringers, I am sure, even though the names of the methods may be taken from Bradshaw's guide, and contain the ridiculous word 'Surprise'—ridiculous, perhaps, only to those who have to keep Plain.

C. T. COLES.

BOURNEMOUTH'S RECAST BELLS

DEDICATION BY BISHOP OF WINCHESTER.

A Memorial Sacring Bell.

St. Peter's Church, Bournemouth, now possesses a magnificent peal of eight bells with tenor of 20 cwt. 2 qr. 7 lb. in E. The peal has been recast and tuned on the 'true-harmonic' system, rehung in the old frame on modern fittings by Messrs. John Taylor and Co., of Loughborough. Thus the bells have received long delayed attention which has transformed them into one of the finest eight on the South Coast.

When the work was first discussed about a year ago it was felt, in view of the precarious state of the church funds, that work of re-hanging the peal alone could be considered. Even this project suffered a setback when the church finances were examined at the end of the year, but the desire to instal a Sacring bell in memory of the late Archdeacon A. E. Daldy, Vicar of St. Peter's for 16 years, brightened the prospects of restoration considerably.

The bells were originally cast by Messrs. Taylor in 1870, and, having heard them, Mr. E. Denison Taylor strongly recommended that they should be recast. Further, he supported his recommendation with a most generous offer to bear half the cost of such work. The Vicar, Canon Hedley Burrows, thus encouraged by practical sympathy, launched his appeal to the townspeople for the balance to enable complete restoration of the town's only peal of bells to commemorate Coronation year, 1937. He received the full support of the Coronation Mayor, Alderman T. V. Rebbeck, with the happy result that Capt. H. B. Norton came forward to complete the fund with a generous cheque for £400. Other sums received since that date from various organisations have allowed for restoration of the belfry and other necessary extra work to ensure the completeness of the peal.

DISTRICTS WITHOUT CHURCHES AND BELLS.

The rededication service took place on Saturday last, the Lord Bishop of Winchester (Dr. Cyril Forster Garbett) officiating and giving the address. The service was fully choral and the church filled to capacity. After an opening hymn, 'Unchanging God who livest,' prayers were offered by the Vicar; the Rural Dean (the Rev. F. C. Leary) read the lesson, and to the singing of a special hymn, 'Ring out new hope and love and power,' the Bishop proceeded to the west door beneath the tower for the rededication ceremony. He was escorted by the Vicar, the churchwardens, Messrs. E. Denison Taylor, J. P. Fidler and V. G. Newton. After the ceremony under the tower the procession re-formed and returned to the sanctuary during the singing of Walmisley's anthem, 'From all that dwell below the skies.' In the sanctuary the Bishop dedicated the Sacring bell and struck it by pressing the electric control. Rounds were then rung on the tower bells by the local company of ringers.

The Bishop delivered an interesting and appropriate address on the uses of bells, saying that where, in distant lands, the Christian faith was hated and oppressed, no bells were heard. For another cause, he said, bells were not heard in our country, a country noted for its bells. It was because in many newly-developed areas there were as yet no churches in which to hang the bells. He appealed to the large congregation to support his effort to supply the need for new churches and halls in the diocese, a need which was felt almost within sound of the re-dedicated bells—in North Bournemouth.

During the singing of the hymns, 'Now thank we all our God' and 'Praise the Lord, ye heavens adore Him,' a collection was taken for the Bishop's appeal. The service concluded with the National Anthem, and whilst the congregation was dispersing Mr. J. D. Chandler, Mus.Bac., F.R.C.O., played the very appropriate 'Carillon' by Vierne on the organ.

The first 'touch' on the recast bells was rung by the following members of the local company: Messrs. H. Osborne, R. Dear, F. Frankland Rigby, H. Roberts, W. Garrett, C. R. Forfitt, P. W. Witham and A. V. Davis. Tea was then served at the Alexandra Hall, about 250 guests sitting down.

GENEROUS DONORS.

In a short speech, the Deputy Mayor, Alderman T. V. Rebbeck, outlined the launching of the appeal and the success it met with, thanking the donors, particularly Capt. H. B. Norton and Mr. E. Denison Taylor, for their generosity, which resulted in the Parish Church of Bournemouth possessing such a magnificent peal of bells.

The Vicar addressed the gathering in his usual cheery manner and explained the inscriptions he had had placed on the bells. He concluded by thanking the captain of the local company, Mr. Arthur V. Davis, for his assistance in all matters pertaining to the work.

Mr. Davis responded on behalf of the ringers, saying that he knew his colleagues of St. Peter's tower felt that their duty now lay perfectly clearly before them, to keep the bells of Bournemouth's Parish Church well and regularly rung.

Ringers numbering about 80 were present from all parts of two counties of Hants and Dorset, and the bells were kept going until 8.30 to Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Plain Bob and Kent Treble Bob Major, Cambridge, Superlative and London Surprise, the striking being of high order throughout.

Among those present were Mr. G. Williams (Master of the Winchester and Portsmouth Guild), the Rev. R. H. Dundry (Master of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild), Mr. W. Andrews, Mr. G. Preston, Mr. A. F. Martin Stewart, the Rev. Eddrump and the Rev. E. A. Phillips (Continued in next column.)

RINGING SECRETARY FOR 14 YEARS.

MR. ARTHUR TOMLINSON'S SERVICES TO LANCASHIRE ASSOCIATION.

Worthy tributes to the service rendered to the Lancashire Association by Mr. Arthur Tomlinson, who has just retired from the position of hon. ringing secretary, were made at the annual dinner of the association, held at Blackpool recently. Mr. Tomlinson has taken over a business in Blackpool and reluctantly found he was unable to devote himself to the association's work.

MR. ARTHUR TOMLINSON.

For fourteen years he ably filled the office which he has just laid down. Not only has he compiled the yearly records of peals rung by the association and the statistics of individual members' performances, but has also been responsible for organising many peals, of which he has rung nearly three hundred for the association and conducted a considerable number.

He was elected a member of the association in 1908 and represented it on the Central Council for six years from 1930. For many years, before removing to Blackpool, he was attached to St. Michael's band, Blackburn. As we recently recorded, the Lancashire Association has presented Mr. Tomlinson with a gold watch in recognition of the work he has done for so many years.

SUSSEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

FIFTEEN NEW MEMBERS ELECTED AT DISTRICT MEETING.

A meeting of the Western Division was held at Petworth on Saturday, when 30 members attended from eleven towers.

At the business meeting 15 new members were elected, all from Storrington.

A vote of thanks was accorded to the Rector of Petworth for the use of the bells, also to Mr. W. Charman for presiding. The party returned to the belfry for further ringing until 8 p.m.

The secretary wishes to say how much he appreciates the large attendances at the meetings, and hopes that they will continue. He also thanks several of the older members for the help they have given him at the meetings.

STEDMAN CATERERS AT GLASGOW CATHEDRAL.

Members of the Scottish Association at Glasgow rang a quarter-peal of Stedman Caters (1,287 changes) on Saturday, November 20th, at St. Mary's Cathedral—the first by all except the ringers of the 5th and 9th: A. Dodds 1, J. Ewing 2, H. P. Sargent 3, N. Leiper 4, R. O. Street 5, T. C. Winderam 6, S. G. Lewis 7, E. A. Stafford 8, W. H. Pickett (conductor) 9, J. Carmichael 10.

INSCRIPTIONS ON NEW BELLS—Continued from previous column.

(Salisbury Guild). Mr. F. W. Townsend, Mr. F. W. Rogers (hon. secretary of the Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild), Mr. W. Cheater, the Rev. E. P. Farrow, Mr. E. C. Elliott and ringers from Southampton, Portsmouth, Winchester, Ringwood, Christchurch, Bournemouth, St. John's, Poole, Wareham, Dorchester, Wyke Regis, Sturminster, Blandford, Wimborne, Kingston Magna, etc.

The interesting inscriptions on the bells are as follow:—

Treble (The People's Bell).—'Jesus be our speed.'

2 (The Founders' and Vicar's Bell).—In memoriam fundatoris. Alexander Morden Bennett.

3 (The Town Bell or Marriage Bell).—Pulchritudo et Salubritas' (Bournemouth's motto).

4 (The Winchester Bell).—'Manners Makyth Man.'

5 (The Peace Bell).—'Peace from Him, which is, and which was, and which is to come.'

6 (The Coronation Bell).—'God save King George, 1937. Mon Dieu. Mon Roi, Mon Cœur.'

7 (The Passing Bell).—'Esto Fidelis Usque ad mortem et Dabo Tibi Coronam Vitæ.'

Tenor (The Resurrection Bell).—'In memoriam, Mary Ellen Norton, 1936.'

Sacring bell (10 cwt. in G) (The Bell of the Incarnation).—'In memoriam, Alfred Edward Daldy, Vicar, 1904-1920, St. Peter, St. Swithun. Sanctus. Sanctus. Sanctus.'

PEAL NOTES.

PARAGRAPHS ABOUT PEOPLE AND PERFORMANCES.

Peal in Six Surprise Methods.

Mr. Alfred Ballard rang his fiftieth peal of Stedman on November 13th at Hugglescote.

Messrs. C. V. Ebberson and R. W. Cooke 'completed the circle' together at Fakenham, Norfolk, when they took part in a peal of Kent Treble Bob arranged by Mr. Nolan Golden for Mr. Pat Causton. It was the 75th tower in which the latter has rung a peal and he has not rung many more peals than that. Fresh towers are his hobby.

After meeting short for a peal of Major at St. Stephen's Church, Canterbury, on November 15th, a peal of Minor in three methods was rung. Mr. R. G. Port kindly standing down. The peal was a birthday compliment to the Rector (the Rev. A. R. Barnes), who is an honorary member of the Kent County Association, and in honour of the 22nd anniversary of the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. P. Wilson.

The ringers of Hartlebury, Worcs., rang a peal at Clifton-on-Teme on Oct. 31st, and it was the first peal by five out of the six ringers.

Hartlebury is isolated from active ringing centres in Worcestershire, but it is gratifying to know that this band is keeping change ringing going in a very difficult district. The success achieved in this peal should lead to increased enthusiasm.

A peal of Erith Little Bob Major figured on the Friday menu at Crayford last week. The method had been rung there before, but there were five 'firsts' on this occasion. The composition was by the late Sir Arthur Heywood, but he probably did not know that such a method existed when he set down the figures.

Their Majesty's visit to St. Paul's Walden, Herts, where the Queen was born, was celebrated by the first peal on the five bells at All Saints' Church on November 13th, when their Majesties were present at the dedication of the organ.

LADIES RING ANOTHER PEAL.

Another peal to celebrate the silver jubilee of the Ladies' Guild was rung on Saturday, at Harrow Weald. Eight ladies rang a peal of Kent Treble Bob Major, the first in the method for the Guild and, would you believe it? the first peal in the method which Mrs. E. K. Fletcher has conducted.

Mr. James E. Bailey called his first peal of Stedman, at the first attempt, at Holy Trinity, Dartford, on November 16th, and his wife, at the same time, rang her first peal in the method. Mr. G. J. Butcher rang the 3rd and thus 'completed the circle' in this tower. The peal was a birthday compliment to the Vicar (Canon C. Elliot Mitchell).

Another birthday peal by members of the Kent Association was rung on November 20th. This was for the 75th birthday of Mr. Richard Smith, who rang the second to a peal of Cambridge Surprise Major at Gravesend.

The Norwich Diocesan Association has just rung its first peal of Norwich Court Bob Major, at Alburgh on November 20th.

There has been a 'hoodoo' on the attempts which Mr. Reg. Woodyatt, of the Worcestershire Association, has made to call his first peal. Every try for Grandsire came to grief. Last Saturday at Claines he tried Oxford Bob Triples to break the spell and got it the first time.

Messrs. Sam Longbottom and Harold Pearce finished 'the circle' at Queensbury, Yorkshire, on Saturday, when they took part in a peal of Grandsire Triples as a farewell to the Rev. P. E. Handley. It was Mr. Longbottom's first peal of Grandsire, too, and three others of the band scored their first in the method.

Seven out of the eight ringers at Rawmarsh on Saturday rang their first peal of Pudsey Surprise Major and that after 'meeting short.' Fortunately Mr. F. Pickering was able to stand in and rang the treble.

The bells at West Clondan, Surrey, were augmented to eight in 1932, but the first peal on the octave was not rung until last Saturday. At one time Clondan was a Winchester Guild stronghold of six-bell ringing, but just before the war the tower was devastated by fire, then came the war and only two peals of Minor were rung afterwards.

Saturday's peal was rung on the twelfth anniversary of Mr. G. L. Grover's wedding. George has put in a lot of work at West Clondan, as well as being the district secretary of the Guildford Diocesan Guild.

The method rung was Grandsire Triples, and, by a coincidence, it was 40 years almost to the day since the conductor (Mr. J. S. Goldsmith) first called the same composition—Parker's Twelve-Part.

The peal of New Cambridge Surprise Major rung at Coddanham on November 20th makes the eighth peal that Mr. C. J. Sedgley has rung there in eight different methods, a somewhat rare performance.

A correspondent says he believes we were wrong in assuming the letters 'P.G.' after Miss Bowyer's name on a recent occasion meant 'Peal Grabber.' He thinks they really meant 'Pint Grog,' someone not knowing how to spell 'jug.'

Believed to be the first peal of Stedman by a band of Sunday service ringers in the Rochdale Branch of the Lancashire Association, a peal in this method was rung at Moorside, Oldham, on November 8th. The bells were half-muffled as a token of respect to the late Mr. J. H. Dunkerley, J.P., for more than 35 years Vicar's warden.

Messrs. Frank Lawton and Joe Ouden have now rung peals in the four standard methods on Moorside bells with a Sunday service ringing band. That is something to be proud of.

In connection with the peal of Stedman Cinques at Leeds on Saturday, it is worthy of note that the aggregate mileage travelled by the band was over 1,500. Messrs. W. Woodhead and W. H. Barber, of Newcastle-on-Tyne and Leeds respectively, rang together in a peal of Stedman Cinques at Birmingham more than 40 years ago. Mr. A. Paddon Smith was elected a member of the Yorkshire Association during the preliminary rounds. The peal was, incidentally, the first occasion on which the conductor had called a bob on 12 bells.

A peal of Bob and Grandsire Minor on November 5th was rung by members of Cassington Bellringers' Club. Bellringers' clubs are seldom heard of; in fact, the only other one we know of is at Ballarat, Australia, but there the members are not attached to any church, but ring the bells at the City Hall.

On the question of 'local' College Youths' peals, Mr. R. T. Hibbert sends us the further information that from 1900 to 1905 the Caversham band rang upwards of 30 peals for the old society, mostly London, Cambridge and Superlative Surprise, but including five peals of Stedman Triples, also Double Norwich, Kent Treble Bob, Bob Major and Grandsire Triples. That definitely puts out of court any later claim to the first 'local' peal of Stedman Triples for the society.

We are, however, now informed that the claim of the Cheltenham ringers was to the first peal of Stedman Triples rung in the Cheltenham district by resident members of the Ancient Society. That was not made clear in the original report.

AN AUSTRALIAN ECHO.

For the first time for eleven years a peal has been rung at Guildford Cathedral by a Sunday service band. Time was when such a performance was of frequent occurrence, but the vagaries of fortune have prevented it since 1926. The peal was rung on November 16th.

Mr. Alfred Pulling has now got the company going again on a peal ringing basis, and it probably will not be long before they get away from Grandsire Triples.

There were three first peals, and it is not uninteresting to note that in one case the Australian tour is responsible. Mr. T. W. White, who kindly undertook part of the editorial duties of 'The Ringing World' while the Editor was away, and knew nothing of the technicalities of ringing when he took over the responsibilities, had his interest in the art so much stirred that he had learned to handle a bell at Holy Trinity Cathedral before the Editor returned.

Messrs. Urban W. Wildney and Alan Andrews rang their twenty-fifth peal together on November 6th at Kirby-le-Soken.

A peal of Doubles was rung at Marlesford, Suffolk, on November 9th, the first on the bells for over 30 years. It was rung by a band of local Sunday service ringers, which makes it all the more creditable.

A peal of Double Norwich was rung at Boreham, Essex, on Nov. 13th, specially arranged for a sale of work and social, held at the Village Hall. Four of the band rang selections on handbells at the social.

Four bachelors and two spinsters took part in a specially arranged peal of Minor at Hintlesham, Suffolk, on November 15th.

HERTS RINGERS REPEAT GREAT PERFORMANCE.

Yet another Spliced Surprise Major peal on handbells in six methods! Last Friday at Oxhey the Hertfordshire band scored a further success in the same methods that they rang a week previously, and this time, two minutes quicker. By the way, the earlier peal was rung on Friday, November 12th, not Saturday as printed.

They added another to the new methods rung on tower bells at Oxhey on Saturday, a peal of Eastbury Surprise, composed by Harold Cashmore and rung without previous practice. It was Mr. Maurice Hibbert's 250th peal, and the 50th peal together of Messrs. S. H. Hoare and W. Ayre.

Only one of the eight ringers who took part in a peal of St. Clement's Bob Major at Swineshead, Lincs, on November 13th, had ever struck a blow in the method before. For the purposes of the Central Council's Analysis Committee, however, this information, conveyed in the footnote to the peal, does not make it clear whether there were seven or eight firsts in the method in this performance. It is a little point on which correspondents should be precise.

A peal at St. Stephen's, St. Albans, on November 13th, was Mr. Walter Ayre's 450th. He has now called a peal in each of the four towers in St. Albans, and wishes this last peal to be associated with the memory of the late John Malyan, for many years captain of St. Stephen's ringers.

The six bells of Barnby-in-the-Willows, Notts, have a tenor of only 64 cwt. A peal was rung on them on Armistice Day in 2 hours 23 minutes—the quickest on the bells. Mr. R. H. M. Harvey, who called the peal, has now 'circled' the tower.

An attempt to ring a peal of Grandsire Caters at Manchester Cathedral on November 13th to commemorate the birthday of Mr. W. C. Bridgford unfortunately came to grief owing to a call omitted by the conductor, Mr. R. London. He much regrets the error, especially as Mr. A. Ford and Mr. F. Yates hoped to register their first Caters peal. He also thanks the band for the team work they put into the attempt, and last, but not least, Mr. W. Mosley, who travelled from Bolton, a peal at the Cathedral not as yet having been included in his list of peals.

We believe these 'Peal Notes' are a feature of much interest to our readers, and we invite those who send up reports to add any points of interest suitable for this column, either about the performances, or those taking part. When individuals are mentioned it will add to the interest if the person's home town or tower is given.

THE CLASHING OF MEETINGS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—While perusing the notice columns of 'The Ringing World' on several occasions in the past, I have observed advertisements of meetings to be held on the same day at towers which are within ten miles or less of each other. Apart from the fact that these meetings have given me and other ringers an opportunity of ringing in two fresh towers on one afternoon, I have always failed to see the advantage to the districts themselves.

But within the last two weeks even more extraordinary arrangements have been advertised. On November 13th a Ladies' Guild meeting was held at Isleworth, and a Middlesex (South and West District) meeting was held at Twickenham. These towers are not two miles apart! I was hoping that this was just an isolated case and would not occur again, but was much surprised to see advertised in last Friday's issue a meeting of the Surrey Association at Betchworth, and a meeting of the Guildford Guild at Dorking. Again these towers are only three miles apart!

Will someone please explain the benefit to the cause of change ringing which these avoidable clashes offer? It has always seemed to me that the idea of any meeting was to enable the ringers in the neighbourhood to meet together socially, and practise what they are unable to ring in their local towers. Perhaps there is some other reason which I have not learnt yet. If so, I shall be most interested to know more about it, to assist me in my secretarial duties. Incidentally, as secretary of the Southern District of the London County Association, I shall always be pleased to co-operate with my neighbouring officials regarding dates of proposed meetings, and would suggest that this takes place in other parts of the country.

To anyone who can kindly answer my question, I would say, 'Please don't advance the old story, "Oh, the dates were fixed months ago, and the Vicar gave permission for that date, and we don't like to alter it."' There are very few clergy, I am sure, who would not also co-operate with the secretary, if matters were explained to them. Trusting that the respective secretaries of the above mentioned associations will forgive my commenting on their arrangements.

THE HONESTY OF CONDUCTORS.

To the Editor.

Sir,—I would like to trespass on your space in reply to Mr. J. K. Armstrong's letter in your issue of Nov. 5th.

He says 'peals need not be true, the conductor only has to think they are,' and with this there can be little argument, but does not this statement cast a very grave reflection on the honesty of composers, which is, I think, unmerited?

Many men have given considerable time and thought to the problems of composition and the percentage of errors is very small.

His illustration that 'anyone can string bobs and singles together' to get a desired length and ring and re-ring it is, in my opinion, very far from the truth, as no ringer worthy of the name who entered into the realms of composition would allow his name to foot a peal if he were not entirely satisfied that the composition was true. New composers usually go to considerable lengths to make sure their compositions are true before circulating them, as they realise that one false peal at the outset of their composing career will take years of hard work to live down and to regain the confidence of ringers.

The solutions he proposes are excellent, but, I think, unnecessary, for just as we have to rely on the integrity of the conductor to call the peal correctly, so must we rely on the integrity of the composer to furnish true figures. Conductors will readily supply the figures of any peal they have called so that, if any doubt were entertained as to the truth of a certain peal, that doubt could be set at rest by merely asking for the figures and having them proved.

The basis of the Exercise through the centuries has been truth, and it is a sorry thing for us to admit that we cannot trust our fellow-ringers to maintain this tradition. An examination of the peal records will show that the percentage of peals withdrawn is very small when compared with the number of peals rung, the majority of which are entirely above suspicion.

The Central Council can, I am sure, find better ways of employing its finances than to subsidise a composition revision committee, which, after all, interests only a very few ringers, and which would perforce be comprised of composers, and if there is, as might be assumed from Mr. Armstrong's letter, wholesale dishonesty amongst composers, then this committee would be useless.

In conclusion, I would advise him not to waste the Council's time with this matter and to trust his fellow-ringers more.

GREAT YARMOUTH RINGER'S SILVER WEDDING.

On Saturday, November 6th, in honour of the silver wedding anniversary of Mr. Herbert Jermy, towerkeeper of St. Nicholas' Church, Yarmouth, 1,440 Cambridge Surprise Royal: J. G. W. Harwood 1, R. William Barber 2, N. Golden (conductor) 3, G. Mayers 4, R. W. Onson 5, E. G. Bennett 6, A. G. King 7, O. F. Sayer 8, H. Tooke 9, W. Clover 10.

GUILDFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

MEMBERS' RESPONSE TO DISTRICT SECRETARY.

A very successful meeting of the Guildford District of the Guildford Diocesan Guild was held on Nov. 13th at Shalford, where last year the old six bells were recast into a very tuneful ring of eight by Taylor and Co. Nearly 60 ringers were present. Whether it was the attraction of the bells or the 'pricking of conscience' after the district secretary's pertinent inquiry addressed to the members in his notice, 'What have you done for the Guild this year?' cannot be definitely stated—perhaps it was a little of both—but the fact remains it was an unusually well-attended meeting, and nearly everybody saw the secretary's joke and 'sent a postcard' to say they were coming to tea.

Altogether it was a very happy gathering, despite a cold church (because the boiler had burst) and a cold room (because there wasn't a boiler at all). But there was a warm welcome from the Vicar, the Rev. M. Tobias, formerly an Army chaplain, who is not afraid of plain talking or making his congregation smile, and who is a great believer in cheerfulness in life and in religion. He paid a tribute to his own ringers, not only for their services in the belfry, but in the life of the church in other ways.

At the business meeting, over which the Vicar presided, the district officers were all renominated. The district secretary was ready to make way for 'anyone who would take on the job,' for, he reminded the meeting, he had done nine years. 'Make it ten,' said someone, and the secretary said it was that more than anything which would induce him to stand again. And so it was that Mr. G. L. Grover was renominated. Mr. C. Ernest Smith was renominated as Ringing Master, and Mr. A. C. Hazelden as auditor.

Four nominations were received for two vacancies on the Executive Committee.

The Vicar was elected, amid applause, as an honorary member, and Mr. A. J. Brooker (Godalming) a ringing member.

Bramley and Womersley, Pirbright, Old Woking and Godalming were recommended for next year's district meetings, and the proceedings terminated with the customary vote of thanks, moved by the Master of the Guild (Major J. H. B. Hesse).

Ringers were present from Guildford (two towers), Godalming, Haslemere, Ewhurst, Shalford, Worplesdon, Pirbright, Woking, West Clandon and Cranleigh, in the district, and Ash, Aldershot, Leatherhead, Chertsey, Bagshot and Portsea.

BATH RINGER'S DEATH.

MR. ALEX EVANS' WORK IN THE WEST.

It is with deep regret we have to record the death of Mr. Alex Evans at Bath on October 28th after an illness lasting 14 months. Mr. Evans learnt his ringing in the Taunton district, being a member of the St. James' band, under the conductorship of Mr. J. Maddock. Ringing many of his peals there, he conducted his first of Stedman Triples.

He resided for a few years at Chippenham, Wilts, where he taught a band of young men to ring Grandsire Triples and conducted their first peal. Moving to Exeter, he joined the Cathedral band and rang in the first peal of Grandsire Caters on the bells by that company. His employment then took him to Burnham-on-Sea, Somerset, where he again worked very hard for ringing and the Axbridge Deanery of the Bath and Wells Association, filling the post of local secretary for a period.

About five years ago Mr. and Mrs. Evans (whom he also taught to ring) went to reside in Bath to be near their friends. A hearty welcome was extended to them, and they were elected members of the Bath Abbey company. Mr. Evans quickly set himself the task of learning Surprise ringing and soon rang peals in it.

He was an enthusiastic Sunday service ringer, always reliable and punctual. He loved good ringing and disliked bad striking. His total number of peals was nearly 100, his last, a peal of Stedman Triples, his favourite method, in July, 1936.

The funeral took place on November 2nd at St. John's, Bathwick. All the towers in the Bath District were represented together, and among those also present were Messrs. W. Court (Burnham-on-Sea), J. T. Dyke (hon. secretary, Bath and Wells Association), W. A. Cave (Bristol), S. Hector, G. H. Harding and E. Parker (Trowbridge), and F. Targett (Chilcompton).

A course of Grandsire Triples was rung over the grave by W. J. Prescott, J. T. Dyke, G. H. Harding and T. F. King.

In the evening muffled ringing on the bells of Bath Abbey and St. Mark, Lyncombe, took place.

WROXETER'S UNMUSICAL RING.

The Shropshire Association paid their first visit for some years to Wroxeter on October 30th. It must be admitted that the bells are not very attractive, the first five being fairly tuneable, but the tenor, when used, upset all notions of music and almost defeated attempts to ring Minor. Individually the bells are tuneful, but the intervals are not correct.

Grandsire, Stedman and St. Simon's Doubles were rung and Plain Bob and Kent Minor. A short service in the ancient church was conducted by the Rev. H. Hobbs, who afterwards presided at the tea and business meeting.

NO CHANGE RINGING FOR 100 YEARS.

DEDICATION OF NEW BELLS AT RANWORTH, NORFOLK.

In honour of the fallen, the cross of St. George flew at half-mast on the Church of St. Helen, Ranworth, on Remembrance Sunday, when the five recast bells and an additional new treble were dedicated by the Bishop of Norwich. In addition to the large number of parishioners, various cycling clubs of the district paid their annual visit for divine service, and so large was the congregation that extra seating was necessary. Members of Yarmouth and Gorleston Wheelers, East Anglian Cycle Club, C.T.C. Norwich Cycle Clubs, bikers and motor clubs attended. The Rev. E. D. Everard (Vicar) was assisted by the former Vicar (Canon H. J. Enraght, of Lowestoft). The bells have not been rung in changes for over 100 years, as four of the five had pieces broken out of them. The work of rehangng in a new teak frame and modern fittings has been excellently carried out by Mr. Alfred Bowell, of Ipswich, of which town the Vicar is a native.

The restoration of the tower and bells has cost £240, of which, thanks to the energy of the Vicar and the large number of summer visitors to the Norfolk Broads, only a small debt remains. It is worthy of note that during the past 40 years £10,000 has been spent in restorations to the church.

During the absence of the bells a band of seven men and ladies have been learning to ring at the neighbouring towers of Reedham and South Walsham, and progressed so far that they were able to ring for the first time for the dedication service.

After service the bells were rung by ringers from Wroxham, Mulbarton and Acle.

Following excusing, the first 720 of Plain Bob was scored by visitors: Ernest Benton 1, Miss W. E. Ditcham 2, Miss D. Ditcham 3, C. Bird 4, R. Barber 5, G. Bailey (Wroxham) (conductor) 6. The weight of the tenor is 12 cwt. in P., and the Broads district has now another handy ring. It is hoped that ringers will make good use of them and help the local band.

A DORSET BELL RESTORATION.

REDEDICATION OF THE BELLS AT TOLLER PORCUM.

The delightful and quaintly named Dorset village of Toller Porcum was the scene of considerable activity on the evening of November 1st, when the rededication of the bells was performed by the Rev. Lindsay Bartlett, L.Th., Rural Dean of Bridport.

The four bells, with a tenor of just under 9 cwt., have been carefully tuned and rehung with modern fittings in a cast iron frame, the cannons being preserved by the use of specially designed iron headstocks. The framework has been provided to accommodate two trebles, as it is hoped before long to complete the ring of six.

A large congregation assembled and the service was conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. R. H. White.

After the dedication the Rural Dean preached a thoughtful and interesting sermon, in which he urged all ringers to remember that the real purpose of the bells was to call people to the service of the church.

Other clergy present were the Rev. A. B. Hutton, of Bridport, the Rev. R. P. Farrow, M.A., Vicar of East Lulworth, the Rev. E. S. Warner, Rector of Rampisham, and the Rev. R. B. H. Kay, B.A., curate of Bridport.

The bells, which had been silent for 18 years, were opened by the Maiden Newton band of ringers. A number of ringers from other towers also had a pull, and all expressed their appreciation of the excellent 'go' of the restored ring.

The work has been admirably carried out by Messrs. Gillett and Johnston, of Croydon, who were represented at the service by Mr. F. C. W. Stevenson.

A 'VICARAGE JUBILEE BELL'

AN AUGMENTED BUCKS RING.

In the little village of Langley Marish, Bucks, about two miles from Slough, old, heavy and tuneless five bells have just been retuned and rehung in ball bearings, with the addition of a new treble, the new bell being known as 'The Vicarage Jubilee Bell.' It was given by the Vicar of Langley (the Rev. F. T. H. Shepherd, M.A.) and his family to celebrate his 25th year as incumbent of the parish. The Vicar, by the way, is brother of the well-known ringer, Mr. James H. Shepherd, of Swindon.

The bells now make a very pleasing ring of six, with a tenor of about 18 cwt., and certainly do credit to Messrs. Mears and Stainbank, who were entrusted with the work.

On November 1st (All Saints' Day) the St. Peter's Society, Burnham, were invited to send a band, which they did, and rang the first 720 on the bells, the method being Oxford Treble Bob, which was thoroughly enjoyed by all.

After the ringing, the Vicar visited the tower and thanked and congratulated the ringers on what he had heard. Those taking part were John E. Taylor (age 16), 1 Cyril A. Burgess (age 19) 2, Peter A. Blamey (age 17) 3, Martin A. Blamey (age 16) 4, Bryan O'Neill (age 16) 5, George Gilbert (conductor) 6. Touches were also rung of Kent, St. Clement's, Canterbury, Single Oxford and Bob Minor, Stehman, Grandshire, Union and Reverse Canterbury Doubles. Altogether a very enjoyable evening was spent, and the foundation has been laid for the local men to take up change ringing.

DON'T SCRUB YOUR HANDS!

skin this simple way*

To many people, the problem of getting the hands really clean without harming the skin is a serious one. Grease and grime, which become deeply ingrained into the pores of the skin, are extremely difficult to remove, and ordinary washing with soap or even scrubbing will fail to remove them completely. Housewives, particularly, who complain that their hands get ruined by the nature of their work, will find the preparation called DERMAFOAM, a real "godsend." DERMAFOAM just smoothes away dirt and grease without effort. It gets right down into the pores and removes every particle of grime, leaving skin beautifully supple and healthy.

Men, too—when you've finished that dirty job on the car, DERMAFOAM will quickly banish all grease and oil from your hands. It acts almost magically—working under and around the nails and into every minute crease, removing all trace of dirt in a flash.

Engineers, Painters, Car Mechanics, Printers — everyone — will welcome DERMAFOAM, the modern method of cleansing and protecting the hands.

A STANDARD FOR GOOD STRIKING

What is good striking? That is the challenging question raised by a correspondent in a letter this week. There is no fixed standard by which it can be judged; it is something which good ringers recognise but whose limits they could scarcely define. And yet there is nothing in ringing to which more importance should be attached. One thing is certain, there are far too many ringers who are content with a standard of striking much below the best, although only the best should be their aim, first because only the best is worthy of the purpose for which bells are mainly rung; secondly, because there may be hundreds of listeners whose ears are entitled to consideration. And this takes no account of the added pleasure which accrues to the ringers themselves when the ringing runs smoothly and with unbroken rhythm.

Is there a practical means of measuring that very rare achievement, the 'perfect' touch or peal, by which perhaps a standard might be set? We think the Exercise has been brought very near to it in the recently made gramophone record of Spliced Surprise Major on hand-bells. It cannot be applied exactly to tower bell ringing, because the two things are not quite the same, but, of its kind, the ringing is the most perfect that anyone could hope to hear. If an equally perfect piece of tower bell-ringing could be recorded, there would then be a permanent example of the standard which every ringer should seek to achieve. No one for a moment expects that ringing generally would rise to such a level, any more than one expects an equal level of achievement in any other direction in which the human element enters. But when the question was asked, 'What is good striking?' we could turn on the record and say, 'Listen to this!' At present varying 'grades' of ringers have differing standards of what they would recognise as 'good' striking—we are not referring to those, and unfortunately there are some, who have no standard at all and who are content with their work, whatever noise the bells are making. We are thinking rather of those 'medium' ringers who put varying values on striking, because they have been educated, in the ringing sense, only up to a limited level. These are the people who would benefit in their performances, if something could be done to show them in a practical way what is possible.

We are sometimes told that the advance of method ringing has brought with it a general lowering of the standard of striking. In some respects this may possibly be true, although it is a generalisation which is open to question. But the most competent companies ringing the more advanced methods to-day are, we are certain, equally as good in their striking as the best bands ringing the simpler methods were forty or fifty years ago.

These men know what good striking is; but the skill by which they accomplish it cannot easily be conveyed to others. It is achieved by a co-ordination of hand and ear and eye, and the man who cannot co-ordinate them instinctively may spend a lifetime in ringing without realising that he is not a good striker. His standard of good ringing is, therefore, bound to be lower than the best, and it is because of this that any kind of agreement on what should be regarded as a minimum for good striking is almost impossible.

*The bibliography of bells has received a significant addition in Bells Thro' the Ages. Few people realise fully the many-sidedness of the subject of bells; but this book touches every phase, and is a perfect storehouse of information. All the authorities have been drawn upon for material, and interesting details on all sorts of matters relating to bells have been gleaned from hitherto unsuspected quarters... The ringing fraternity owes a debt of gratitude to the author for his admirable handling of the subject.—The Ringing World.CHEAPER EDITION

MIDDLESEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION.A USEFUL NORTH AND EAST DISTRICT MEETING.

The meeting held at All Hallows', Tottenham, on Saturday, November 20th, by the North and East District of the Middlesex Association was by no means overcrowded, not more than 30 ringers putting in an appearance during the afternoon and evening. Quite a number of those present, however, were learners in the strictest sense of the word, consequently 'rounds' became the special method for the day, and much good work was done in coaching these young men, some for the first time with bells open.

A short and enjoyable service was held, with an address by the Rev. Henwood, after which tea and the usual business meeting took place.

At the latter, the chair was taken by Mr. T. J. Lock (District Master), the hon. secretary (Mr. C. T. Coles) explaining that the absence of the vice-president was due to his being away at Great Yarmouth on business.

It was announced that the district annual meeting would be held at St. Giles-in-the-Fields on January 29th.

A cordial welcome was given to the several young ringers present, from various towers, including St. Ann's, Stamford Hill; St. Michael's, Wood Green; St. Mark's, Dalston; and All Hallows', Tottenham. The hon. secretary urged them to get as much practice as possible by attending association meetings, and promised them a welcome at any time.

Votes of thanks were accorded to the Vicar (the Rev. F. Denton Jones) for the use of the bells; to the Rev. Henwood for his address; and to Mr. H. W. H. Strickland and Mr. F. E. Platt for their joint efforts as organists. The hon. secretary said that Mr. Platt was learning to ring at Dalston, and on this occasion they were fortunate to have two capable organists, whereas at some meetings they had to sing hymns unaccompanied.

After the meeting the bells were again rung, rounds being much in evidence, besides Edmonton Bob Major, the real special method for the day, Bristol Surprise, Cambridge Surprise and other methods.

HALESOWEN BELLS

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—In the account of the meeting at Halesowen, published in your issue of Nov. 5th, a history of the bells of Halesowen Church was included. For the sake of completing this history of the bells we feel we ought to mention that the eight bells were tuned by ourselves in 1902, at which time we rebung the peal in a new frame.

STEEP RINGERS' ACHIEVEMENT.DEDICATION OF PEAL BOARD.

On Sunday, November 14th, at All Saints' Church, Steep, near Petersfield, Hants, the Vicar, the Rev. N. M. Livingstone, D.C.L., M.A., LL.B., dedicated an oak board recording a peal, the first in which any local ringers have taken part. A company of ringers and friends gathered in the belfry at 3.30 p.m., and Mr. W. Higgins (captain of ringers), in a few words of introduction, described the efforts made to achieve their ultimate success.

The board was then unveiled by Miss Potheary, herself a local ringer, and she congratulated the band who took part, saying that she hoped to see her own name on the next peal tablet erected in the tower.

The board is of light oak with the record in black lettering.

The peal was in three methods of Doubles, viz., Canterbury Pleasure, Plain Bob and Grandsire, and was rung by A. E. Warren, G. M. Hunt, Miss A. M. Robertson, W. Higgins and C. E. Bassett (conductor). It was the first peal on the bells by local ringers and a birthday compliment to Mr. J. Knight, for 50 years a service ringer at Steep Church. The ringers of the treble and third scored their first peal.

The Vicar offered prayers of dedication and congratulated the band, who then rang 120 Grandsire Doubles in the peal positions. Other short touches were successfully brought round, Mr. J. Knight taking part.

SUSSEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

A very successful meeting of the Eastern Division was held at Brede on Saturday, November 6th. A good number of members attended from Battle, Hastings (St. Clement's, All Saints' and Christ Church, Blacklands), Hailsham, Eastbourne (St. Saviour's), Hawkhurst, Mr. W. Pickworth, of Hastings, together with members of the local band. Owing to the absence of the Vicar there was no service.

Excellent practice was held both in the afternoon and evening in Treble Bob, Plain Bob, etc., and several members rang their first touches in the method.

An excellent tea was provided in the Church Room, and Mr. W. Franks occupied the chair at the business meeting, at which the following members were elected: H. M. Gibbs, Brede, and W. H. Dartnell, of East Peckham, Kent, as a non-resident life member.

A vote of thanks was proposed by the hon. secretary, Mr. A. C. Pankhurst, to the Vicar for the use of the bells, and to Mrs. McCall for making arrangements for the meeting.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

The record performances at Cheltenham, recalled by the tablet just unveiled commemorating Mr. W. T. Pates' services to that church, is a reminder of the rivalry that went on in the late 'eighties of last century between Cheltenham and Appleton.

Appleton, 12,041 Stedman Caters, February 5th, 1888; Cheltenham, 13,054 Stedman Caters, March 21st, 1888; Appleton, 15,041 Stedman Caters, December 31st, 1888.

Appleton, 13,265 Grandsire Caters, April 11th, 1888; Cheltenham, 15,227 Grandsire Caters, April 22nd, 1889.

Incidentally next Wednesday is the anniversary of the previous record of Stedman Caters, the 'five ones' (11,111) at Fulham in 1883. Messrs. C. F. Winney and F. E. Dawe are the only survivors of that peal rung 54 years ago.

Their ringing friends will join in congratulating Mr. and Mrs. R. C. H. Connolly, of Watford, on the birth of a daughter. Mrs. Connolly learned to ring at Wollaston (Stourbridge) and rang her first peal there. Until recently Mr. Connolly was a member of the North Stoneham band.

'GOOD STRIKING.'

To the Editor

Dear Sir,—For some time now your columns have contained many references to the value of good striking, and I have often wondered what is 'good striking'? I mean, what is the standard to aim at? I know what perfect ringing is. I have heard very, very little, and have rung, I think, in none. Twenty-five years' experience has taught me to do certain things, but I place myself within the 'medium-to-poor' class of striker. And I ask myself: How many are there, whose striking is no better than mine, who are unable to realise their limitation? Dozens and dozens—I have 'stood behind' and listened, with a pair of 'fair' ears.

What, then, passes for good striking? In his many criticisms, the president of the Council and Master of the College Youths, Mr. E. H. Lewis, has flayed us alive, and, for my personal satisfaction only, I hope, one day, unknown to 'stand behind' him! But, in the meantime, I wonder if he would tell us whether the Caters from St. Clement Danes, in the recent broadcast 'Bells over London,' should be considered 'perfect,' 'indifferent,' or merely 'good striking'? In such a case it should, of course, be 'perfect,' but I should be most interested to see it defined by the Master of the society.

WHAT CONSTITUTES A 'LOCAL' PEAL?

A VILLAGE PROBLEM.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I wonder if you or any of your readers could help us to solve a little trouble arising out of a peal we contemplate ringing in the near future. Here is the argument: Ringer A is a ringer residing in this parish, but is a member of a neighbouring ringing band. Ringer B is a member of the local band, but resides in another parish. If we include A in the band for the peal, could we record this as a local peal? Should we substitute ringer B for ringer A, would this still be called a local peal? What does constitute a local peal? I must confess this friendly debate on the pros and cons of a local peal has caused a lot of deep thinking on the part of the ringers of this parish.

'VILLAGE RINGER.'

THE LEADER AND THE LEARNER.

To the Editor.

Sir,—I have been interested in reading the letters on teaching and keeping beginners. Your leader of November 19th, together with the note in 'Belfry Gossip' relative to the action of the ringers at Knaresborough, Yorkshire, also provides interesting reading where the question of maintaining the personnel of the belfry is concerned. All three of these subjects have, more or less, a connecting link.

In the first instance, the cause of many a beginner losing heart is due to a leader who has not the patience to take part in simpler methods for the benefit of his learner. No ringer who puts the art before self should be too proud to ring any method or any number of bells. There is one feature at meetings which reminds me of the fable of the stork dining with the wolf, where neither animal could get on with the other's crockery. Ringers from eight-bell towers are often dissatisfied if the meeting is at a five-bell tower, and ringers of Doubles feel rather out of it if they visit a tower where they are expected to ring Stedman Triples or stand down.

Until all ringers are prepared to ring any bell or method, and with any other ringers, this state of affairs will ever remain the same.

I admire the Knaresborough ringers for the stand they have taken and consider that they have acted in the right manner. Too many people in these days seem to think they can treat ringing as something we are paid for doing. Hard and fast rules are not practicable in voluntary work of any kind.

Stringent ideas are generally the work of people who love to think themselves important. They are calculated to do more harm than good, and usually they are the first to 'grouse' if there is a falling off of interest.

P. AMOS.

SURREY ASSOCIATION.

MEMORIAL TO THE LATE MR. J. D. DREWETT.

Tributes to Former Master.

On Saturday the Surrey Association honoured the memory of a former Master, the late Mr. James Douglas Drewett, of Mitcham, where there was a formal unveiling of a board recording a muffled peal rung in the Parish Church after his death. Mr. Drewett, in 1913, succeeded the late Dr. A. B. Carpenter as Master and occupied the office until his death in 1928.

But Mr. Drewett was more than a Master of the Surrey Association, his was a life of service to others. He served his Church in various offices, as churchwarden, as leader of the ringers, as steeplekeeper and in other capacities; he served his fellow-citizens in many ways and sat on numerous public bodies as their representative, but he was, withal, a humble man. There was no greater pointer to his kindly character than the fact that he gave up every Sunday afternoon to visiting lonely sick people in hospital.

He had a lifelong association with Mitcham Parish Church, and his grandfather and father before him were ringers. His eldest son, Douglas Walter Drewett, was following in his footsteps when he was killed in the last year of the Great War, and the proceedings on Saturday were almost unique in that memorials to both were unveiled at the same service.

THE LATE

bridge, sen., 6; William S. Smith, 7; John Lott, tenor. Conducted by W. S. Smith.

Something like a hundred ringers attended the gathering, many of them, of course, old friends of the late Mr. Drewett, but the limited space of the ringing room, approached by a 'Jacob's ladder,' only held a small number for the actual unveiling, which was performed by the Vicar (Rev. C. A. Finch). A short touch was rung on the bells and the remainder of the service took place in the church, where, first of all, a marble tablet bearing the following inscription was unveiled and dedicated: 'Sacred to the memory of Douglas Walter Drewett, 1st Cameron Highlanders, who fell in action near St. Quentin, October 3rd, 1918. "Their name shall remain for ever."' Above was the badge of the Camerons and below the regimental badge.

The unveiling took place in the presence of several members of the family of the deceased, and afterwards the hymn, 'Let saints on earth,' was sung. A short service followed, the lesson being read by the Master of the association (Mr. D. K. C. Birt). The Vicar gave an appropriate address from the words, 'Whatsoever ye do do it heartily as to the Lord and not as to men.' He welcomed the Surrey Association to Mitcham, and, referring to the late Mr. J. D. Drewett, said that whatever he did he did in the spirit of the text. Ringing, to him, was a piece of work for the Church; something done for God. He tried to walk worthily and he set an example of worship; for he came from the bell chamber down to the body of the church. His example was one which ringers should emulate. They should ring not only for the entertainment and satisfaction which they got out of it, but ring that God might be glorified.

After the service the ringers were entertained to tea in the Parish Hall, where Mr. D. K. C. Birt presided, supported by the Vicar, the Rev. R. G. Calvert (curate) and the officers of the association. The towers represented were Ashted, Banstead, Beddington, Benhilton, Croydon (St. John's and St. Peter's), Camberwell, Epsom (Christ Church), Kingston, Mitcham (Parish Church and Christ Church), Streatham, Wimbledon and visitors from Bishopsgate, Kensington, Holloway, Finchley, North Mimms, Clerkenwell, Edmonton, etc.

The Master thanked the Vicar for his kindly welcome, for the use of the bells and for his address. He also thanked Mr. Pothecary and the local band for their kind hospitality and the excellent arrangements. It was a great pleasure, he said, to see such a large gathering, and he liked, in particular, to feel that one of the reasons for it was that many had come there to do honour to the name and memory of a man who so well deserved their recognition, the late Mr. James Douglas Drewett. His services to the association, as many of the older members well knew, were very great indeed. He made it his business to be the personal friend of as many of the members of the association as possible, and was extremely conscientious and faithful in every kind of work he undertook.

The Master went on to welcome the many visitors present, and said the tablet unveiled in the ringing chamber was the work of members of the Mitcham tower and the writing done by the Master of the Middlesex Association (who was present). It was pleasing to know the tablet was the work of ringers (applause).

The business meeting of the North-Western Branch of the Surrey Association was then held, when the following district officers were re-nominated: Master, Mr. D. Cooper; hon. treasurer, Mr. H. Simmonds; hon. secretary, Mr. F. G. Woodiss; auditor, Mr. Roy Simmonds; committee, Messrs. W. H. Hewett, H. V. Young and Mrs. C. Kippin.

The Master said further nominations, duly proposed and seconded, could be received up to fourteen days before the annual meeting of the district, which was to be held on January 29th.

'COME UP HIGHER.'

Mr. Charles Dean made reference to the late Mr. Drewett. He said those who were able that afternoon to squeeze into the belfry at the Parish Church might have noticed, painted above one of the peal boards, the words 'come up higher.' That sentence was originally, 'Friend, come up higher,' and was addressed by Mr. Drewett to a visitor who was struggling up the ladder, which gives access to the belfry, and who hesitated until Mr. Drewett invited him in these terms. That invitation was typical of the man whose memory they were commemorating. It did not matter to whom he was addressing his remarks, they were always genial in tone and the welcome was sincere. 'The phrase,' added Mr. Dean, 'is one which might be painted up in all the ringing chambers in the country.'

To the older men and women of the association Mr. Drewett was thoroughly well known, as, apart from his long association with Mitcham belfry, he was Master of the association from 1913, when he succeeded Dr. Carpenter, and he continued the Mastership until he died in 1928. Mr. Drewett was most assiduous in his attention to the duties of his office. Not only did he attend regularly the meetings of the association, but he also made it his business, when occasion required, to visit any sick or distressed member of the association, and this sense of duty extended to all the public offices which he held, and these were very numerous. He was at one time on over two hundred committees and was chairman of seventeen. These committees had to do with the Surrey County Council, the Mitcham Urban Council, Croydon Board of Guardians, etc. He was governor of the Secondary School for Boys and vice-chairman of the Mitcham School Managers, amongst a number of other public bodies.

A mutual friend, who was at one time chairman of the Croydon Rural District Council, told him that Jim Drewett was always out for his particular constituency, and if he could not get all that he wanted he became satisfied, for the time being, with what his fellow-members granted. Mr. Drewett was referred to as 'half a loaf' (laughter).

Mr. Drewett was also a Justice of the Peace, and sat on the Bench at Croydon for many years. He was not without a sense of humour. On one occasion, when he (Mr. Dean) was at his house, Mr. Drewett was called to his hall door. When he returned he said he had been asked by a young man and his wife to hear a declaration which had to be made concerning the vaccination of their child, and he said the couple were very thankful for what he had done, and the young man, on shaking hands, said he hoped he would be able to do the same for Mr. Drewett at some future time (laughter). Mr. Drewett was then about 70 years of age.

In spite of the enormous responsibility which Mr. Drewett had in connection with the public positions held by him, he was always very approachable, and even in the belfry one could tell him that he had missed his third's or his 8-7-8, and he would not resent it.

The association lost a very good man when he passed away, and the Mitcham ringers had felt his absence, as it had been impossible to replace the services which he rendered to them during his many years as steeplekeeper.

In commemorating the memory of Mr. Drewett, added Mr. Dean, one also bears in mind three other ringers whose names are specially commemorated in Mitcham belfry: Douglas W. Drewett, who joined the Cameron Highlanders and lost his life in the war in 1918; Benjamin A. Morris, who was killed in the war in 1917; and Stanley Smith, the son of Mr. William Smith, who was also killed in the war.

Each of these men had been ringers at Mitcham Parish Church, and Douglas Drewett, who had already rung there over twenty years, would doubtless have succeeded his father as steeplekeeper, as his father had succeeded his father many years previously.

The proceedings terminated with a vote of thanks to the Master for presiding, and during the evening ringing took place on the bells of the Parish Church.

PEAL NOTES.

SUSSEX VETERAN'S PEAL RINGING JUBILEE.

Mr. Walter Charman, of Warnham, a fine old Sussex stalwart, has seen half a century of peal ringing. He rang the 7th to a peal of Bob Major at his parish church on Saturday on the fiftieth anniversary of his first peal.

Walter Charman has taken part in some long lengths, including the 13,440 Canterbury Pleasure Major rung at Warnham in March, 1889. The first peal in the same method had been rung in the same tower in the previous December.

They were halcyon days at Warnham, when the ringers could start for a peal every night of the week, and no one objected.

Mr. Albert Relfe reached his one hundredth peal as conductor on Saturday with a peal of Oxford Treble Bob Major at Rotherfield, Sussex. He was the only one of the band who had previously rung a peal in the method. It was Mr. J. G. Powell's 75th peal.

The peal of Kent Treble Bob Major at St. Andrew's, Hertford, on Saturday, was rung as a birthday compliment to Mr. Arthur Day, of Harpenden, and Mr. Joseph Ladley, a very old member of the Hertford College Youths. It was also as a farewell compliment to Mr. B. H. Swinson, who is about to leave England on a business tour to South America. Mr. Barnard Patmore, of Great Munden, has now rung every bell in this tower to a peal.

The handbell peal of Spliced St. Clement's and Crayford College Bob Major at Burton-on-Stather, Lincs, was arranged with every course comprising a lead of St. Clement's, two leads of Crayford and two leads of St. Clement's.

The peal of St. Clement's Bob Major rung at Swineshead on November 13th was first in the method by all the band.

Mr. Samuel Quintin is another veteran who has just celebrated his birthday by ringing a peal. He is a member of the local band at Thatcham, Berks, and for his 75th anniversary a peal of Grandsire Triples was rung on November 27th. Two other members of the local band who took part rang their first peal.

The second of the peals of six Spliced Surprise methods on handbells was rung on Friday, November 19th. In the report published last week the date was given as the 12th, but that was the day on which the first peal was rung.

The date of the peal at St. Stephen's, Canterbury, was also wrongly given last week. It was sent as 'Saturday, November 15th.' Unlike a certain Guildford Guild secretary, we were not in form at guessing, and we guessed wrong. We plumped for Saturday, the 13th, but the peal was rung on Monday, the 15th.

The first peal by the All Saints' Guild, Gresford, was rung by foundation members and conducted by the Master, Mr. Arthur Prince, of Bath. The secretary, Mr. George Williams, was prevented from taking his usual place in the band through illness. The members wish him a speedy recovery.

Mr. George Moss took part in a peal of Oxford Treble Bob Major at St. Margaret's, Ipswich, on November 20th, in celebration of the 59th anniversary of the wedding of his parents.

The Rector of Hazelbury Bryan, Dorset (the Rev. J. L. Rhys) has completed 58 years in the ministry, and a peal of Grandsire Doubles was rung in his honour on November 13th. It was the first attempt for a peal by three of the band.

For the wedding of Mr. G. P. Mitchell, one of the band at St. John's, Hillingdon, Middlesex, a peal of Bristol Surprise was rung at St. Andrew's, Hillingdon, on Saturday. It was also a birthday compliment to Miss Frances M. Gutteridge, of Iver Heath. It was the fiftieth peal in which Messrs. Frank Corke, of Uxbridge, and W. Henley, of Old Windsor, have taken part together.

The peal at Paigrove, Suffolk, on November 23rd, was a birthday compliment to the daughter of Mr. C. J. More, Master of the Diss company, and to Mr. A. G. Harrison, secretary of the South Norfolk Branch of the Norwich Diocesan Association.

BOYS' QUICK PROGRESS.

Having had their first lesson in handling a bell only in January of this year, three boys at Anstey, Leicestershire, have rung their first peal, and Stedman Triples at that, at the second attempt. George Bowler is 14, Terry Smith 13 and John Adams 15. Two others of the band rang their first peal at the same time, Thomas Ison, and Miss Ivy Simpson, who rang the 10½ cwt. tenor.

The progress of these pupils of Mr. Redvers Elkington was referred to in a letter in our issue of October 29th. They were 'brought up' on Stedman after being taught plain hunting. Congratulations both to tutor and pupils.

'Completing the circle,' meaning, for the benefit of the uninitiated, ringing a peal on all the bells in a tower, is becoming a popular pastime. We have recently recorded numerous instances. Mr. George E. Feirn, of Bigby, Lincs, has now rung peals on all the eight bells at Scunthorpe, Lincs. He 'completed the circle' on November 23rd by ringing the treble to a peal of Stedman Triples.

An attempt was made for a peal of Grandsire Triples at Clent, Worcestershire, on November 20th, in honour of the wedding of Mr. George Blunt and Miss Rose Short, daughter of Mr. William Short, the popular Ringing Master of the Worcestershire Association. Owing to the indisposition of one of the band, however, ringing had to stop, so a peal of Bob Minor, with the tenor behind, was rung.

MR. W. T. PATES' LONG SERVICE.

CHELTEMHAM VETERAN HONOURED.

The Cheltenham veteran, Mr. William T. Pates, who retired from active ringing last year, has been honoured by the erection of a tablet in the belfry commemorating his 63 years of service to the Parish Church. Unveiled on Sunday, November 21st, it bears the inscription:

'This tablet commemorates 63 years of service rendered to the Parish Church by William Thomas Pates. From 1873 to 1936 he rang in this tower, and for 45 years of that period he was Ringing Master. Born 28th February, 1853.'

Mr. Pates was unable to attend the ceremony, but he was represented by his daughters, Mrs. Clements and Miss Pates, and other members of the family.

The Rev. J. A. Barber (curate), addressing the company in the bell tower, said it was a very kindly thought on the part of the Parochial Church Council to have the tablet erected during Mr. Pates' lifetime.

'His retiring gracefully, enabling younger men to carry on the work, was one of his greatest actions,' said Mr. Barber, 'and this tablet, which will be here for all time, will remind us of his 63 years' faithful service for the Church.'

The tablet was dedicated by the Rector (the Rev. J. B. Goodliffe), and after a few rounds had been rung on the bells, a quarter-peal of Stedman Caters (1,285 changes) was rung by A. W. Humphris 1, Mrs. J. Thomas (London) 2, J. D. Johnson (Hinton-on-the-Green) (conductor) 3, C. Collier 4, S. T. Holt (Crowle) 5, W. Dyer 6, J. Thomas (London) 7, ex-Sergt. Aston 8, C. Camm (Upton-on-Severn) 9, S. Hayward 10. Mr. Humphris rang a peal with Mr. Pates as long ago as 1885.

After the ceremony the ringers were entertained to tea at Mr. Pates' residence.

Mr. Pates rang his first peal at Cheltenham Parish Church in 1876, and he is the only survivor of that band. In his long career he has taken part in some notable peals, among them the 13,054 Stedman Caters at Cheltenham in 1888 and the 15,227 Grandsire Caters at the same tower in 1889, which he called. Both were records.

TRURO CATHEDRAL JUBILEE.

On Wednesday, November 10th, at Truro Cathedral, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples (1,260 changes) was rung to commemorate the 50th anniversary of the consecration of the sanctuary and chancel. The ringers were Miss M. Penrose 1, C. E. Lanxon 2, Miss E. J. C. Angwin 3, W. E. Minors 4, W. H. Sleeman 5, Rev. W. H. R. Trehwella 6, W. H. Southard (conductor) 7, J. Treloar 8.

A PEAL AT BOSTON STUMP.

A peal at Boston 'Stump'—one was rung there last Saturday—is always a reminder of the way in which modern methods can overcome difficulties in bellhanging. In this stately tower, 272ft. high, which seemed to be endangered when the bells were rung, the bells were increased in number and raised several feet, while the structure was so strengthened by a concrete corbel course that all danger to the building was removed.

Members of the local band at Benfieldside, Co. Durham, rang a peal of Cambridge Surprise and Oxford Bob Minor on October 22nd as a welcome to the new curate (the Rev. G. E. Casey), as a thanksgiving for the harvest and as a 21st birthday compliment to Raymond Oliver.

The peal of Cambridge Royal at Ipswich on November 27th was Miss Bowyer's 36th peal this year. She has now broken the record of peals by a lady in one year. It also completed her series in the method on 6, 8, 10 and 12 bells. Mr. F. J. Smith also achieved this distinction in this peal.

By the way, we are now informed that our correspondent was incorrect in his definition of the letters P.G. after Miss Bowyer's name in the report of a recent performance. The truth is out at last. Their meaning is 'Pretty Girl.'

LAST OF AN ORIGINAL BAND.

Mr. J. Preston is the only member left of the original band at St. Barnabas' Church, Erdington, Birmingham, which was formed when the bells were put in 34 years ago. He has been secretary throughout this period, and on Saturday a peal of Stedman Triples was rung there as a birthday compliment to him.

The Dean of Rochester (Dr. Underhill) has been appointed Bishop of Bath and Wells, and in honour of his elevation a peal of Stedman Caters was rung at Rochester Cathedral on Saturday. It was a composition by Mr. Louis Head, and contains the shortest possible starting and turning courses with the treble in 2nd's place and the 6th in 5th's. Having to start a slow six with a single caused some alarm until the conductor reminded the band of the old saying, 'Third time fair.'

The peal came home in 3 hours 40 minutes, and, in addition to its main purpose, was also a birthday compliment to Mrs. Norris, wife of Mr. C. E. J. Norris, who rang the 9th, and to Mr. Head, sen., father of the conductor.

Peals in commemoration of the tercentenary of the Ancient Society of College Youths continue to be rung. This week we record two, one rung at Barkway, Herts, by members residing in Essex, Cambridgeshire and Hertfordshire, the other at Petersfield, Hants, by members living in Hants, Sussex and Surrey.

CHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD'S JUBILEE. A SUCCESSFUL CELEBRATION.

The jubilee dinner of the Chester Diocesan Guild attracted a large gathering to the ancient city on Saturday, November 20th. It seems fitting that the Guild's fiftieth birthday should have been celebrated at a place only a few yards from the Cathedral refectory, where the inaugural meeting was held on November 12th, 1887, and which, according to the record of that meeting, 'was well attended by both clergymen and ringers.'

The recently augmented ring at the Cathedral was available for ringing during the afternoon, as well as the eight at St. Mary's-within-the-Walls. An opportunity was thus afforded to many who had previously not heard the new trebles in the Cathedral tower, and the experience brought many expressions of satisfaction.

Dinner was served at Clemence's Restaurant in the Market Square. The Master, Mr. J. W. Milner, presided, and there were also present the Dean (Bishop Norman Tubbs), the Archdeacon of Chester (the Ven. R. V. H. Burne), Mr. H. A. Heywood, the Rev. M. H. Ridgway (Guild secretary), the Rev. W. R. Ingham, the Rev. S. T. Stephens, the Rev. G. Gaughan, and some 160 ringers from all parts of the diocese, North Wales and Lancashire. Among the apologies for absence were those from the Lord Bishop, the Archdeacon of Macclesfield, Mr. E. H. Lewis, Mr. J. S. Goldsmith and Mr. A. A. Hughes.

The loyal toast was honoured on the call of the Master, and the musical part of the programme opened with a course of Bob Royal on handbells: A. Barnes 1-2, J. E. Bibby 3-4, F. Bibby 5-6, P. Laffin 7-8, W. Bibby 9-10.

The toast of the evening, 'The Chester Diocesan Guild,' was proposed by the Dean, who spoke of the keen interest shown by his predecessor, Dean Bennett, in the welfare of the Guild. For himself, he felt that the Guild had treated him very generously in inviting him to dinner at all, because he had only a fortnight previously committed the 'unpardonable sin' of shutting off the main electric light switch whilst an important peal was in progress at the Cathedral! (laughter). He wished to express his deep regret.

BELLS' NOBLE TASK.

Confessing his ignorance of the art of ringing, the Dean said that although he had read 'The Nine Tailors,' he still felt unequal to making a speech on the subject. He was, however, conscious that ringing was a very important part of church work, and he felt that it was up to the Guilds to see that the bells of England should continue to be rung in the old-fashioned way and not by mechanical means. As a man who had spent a number of years abroad, he knew that one of the things that the Britisher away from home longed for most was to hear again the sound of bells rung in the English way. This, almost more than anything else, suggested 'home.' Bells, too, were playing an important part in the recall to religion, and had, he felt, always done much towards keeping this country Christian—a noble task.

In responding to the toast, the Rev. M. H. Ridgway, who last year succeeded the Rev. W. R. Ingham as secretary, briefly reviewed the work of the Guild during its half-century of existence. Good service ringing and clean towers were now the order of the day. He hoped that every effort would be made to get all towers in the diocese into union, a most worthy aim for this important year. The Guild, he felt, had celebrated its jubilee in a most fitting manner—by the installation of two new bells as an addition to the Cathedral eight, thus giving the Mother Church a fine peal of ten bells.

Mr. W. Wilcox, one of the original members of the Guild, proposed 'The health of the Master.' Mr. Milner, in making his reply, said that judging by the number of ringers present who were well over 60 years of age, ringing was a most healthy pursuit. The finest recreation was a change of occupation, and ringing not only gave pleasure to the ringer, but also the listener. The presence of a large number of 'mere boys' gave him the assurance that the future of the Guild was safe.

In proposing 'The Clergy,' Mr. J. W. Clarke emphasised the need of close co-operation between clergy and ringers, and, quoting part of the report of the first meeting of the Guild (mentioned at the beginning of this report) said that it would give great pleasure if such a phrase could be used in the minute books to-day. He deprecated the use of 'gramophone bells' in churches where the conditions made the installation of a ringing peal possible. Such installations were a tragedy, and he appealed to the clergy, both by example and influence, to discourage 'potted bells.'

In reply, the Archdeacon said that, in his opinion, all members of the clergy should know something of bells and ringing, and instruction in these matters should form an essential part of their training. He himself had learned to handle a bell in his younger days, and although he could not count himself a change ringer, he did appreciate the excellent work done for the Church by ringers.

FIVE ORIGINAL MEMBERS PRESENT.

On the call of the Master, original members present, five in all, stood. These veterans, Mr. H. A. Heywood, Mr. W. Wilcox, Mr. J. Morgan, Mr. E. Breeze and Mr. J. B. Wood, were greeted with much applause, and each in turn delighted the company with reminiscences of bygone days.

The Rev. W. R. Ingham proposed 'The Visitors.' In welcoming them he said that the success of that occasion pointed to the flourish-

'BELLS OVER LONDON.'

AN INTERESTING WIRELESS PROGRAMME.

Under the title of 'Bells over London,' the B.B.C. devoted a twenty-minute broadcast to bellringing and the Ancient Society of College Youths in the Regional programme on Wednesday of last week, and the item was an informative and enjoyable one. It also went out on the Midland, Welsh and Northern Ireland Regionals. Originally it was announced in the 'Radio Times' that the item was devised by John Shand and Willie Roughton, but before it came on, London newspapers had announced that Mr. Willie Roughton had refused to collaborate because, so the newspapers said, a 'recorded' description of bellringing by Miss Dorothy Sayers from her book, 'The Nine Tailors,' was to be introduced. It gave the papers, which dealt with the subject, the opportunity of well-displaying Miss Sayers' name in the headlines.

The B.B.C. when the programme opened announced the withdrawal of Mr. Roughton's collaboration, and it was stated that the item was devised by John Shand and produced by H. L. Morrow. These gentlemen did their work well.

The narrator described the true art of bellringing as a kind of musical chess, and went on to explain how changes were produced. Change ringing, he said, was the most intricate and, to many, the most beautiful form of bellringing.

Miss Sayers' description of it was introduced, and, after a reference to the terminology of bellringing, about which, the narrator said, there was a touch of poetry, Mr. E. H. Lewis (Master of the College Youths) spoke upon the society's long history and the 'music' of change ringing, which was illustrated on handbells by 'Rounds,' 'Queen's,' 'Tittums' and 'Whittington's,' followed by the plain hunt on eight bells. Afterwards came a bob course of Stedman Triples. The handbell ringing was done by Messrs. E. H. Lewis, E. P. Duffield, H. Langdon and W. Williams.

At the beginning of the programme the bells of St. Paul's Cathedral were twice 'faded in,' and the programme terminated with a recorded impression of the bells of St. Clement Danes.

The Exercise owes a debt to the B.B.C. for the way in which this programme was organised and 'put over.'

AN APPRECIATION.

To the Editor.

Sir,—May I—a very humble 'country' member of the College Youths—say how much I enjoyed and appreciated the broadcast. It came through splendidly, and the exposition of changes was perfectly done.

The thanks of the Exercise are due to the organisers and performers alike. Please let us have more such broadcasts.

DEATH OF ILKLEY RINGER.

TUTOR OF THE PRESENT COMPANY.

The many friends of Mr. T. W. Crawshaw, of Ilkley, Yorkshire, will regret to learn of his death on Wednesday, November 17th. He was taken ill whilst ringing for service on the previous Sunday and never recovered. The funeral, which was attended by a large body of mourners, took place on Saturday, November 20th.

The late Mr. Crawshaw had been a devoted churchworker at Ilkley Parish Church for the greater part of his life and had been a chorister for over 53 years. He was leader of the ringers and had been a member of the Ilkley company for the past 47 years. With one exception all the present company of ringers gained their knowledge of ringing under his careful guidance and tuition. His favourite method was Grandsire, and he set a very high standard for service ringing. He was a keen member of the Yorkshire Association and was very interested in the work of the district.

He leaves a widow and a grown-up family, two sons being members of the local company.

The Ilkley ringers have elected Mr. W. H. Crawshaw to fill his father's position, and on Sunday, November 21st, a well-struck quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples was rung.

ing state of the Guild. There were certainly no signs of the 'moths' getting at it yet.

In acknowledging the toast, the Rev. G. Vaughan said that his presence that night had made him more keen than ever to learn to ring, and he would in future be a frequent visitor to the belfry.

That the 'splice' at the Cathedral was considered an excellent job was evident from conversations on all sides, and the secretary was asked to convey to Messrs. Mears and Stainbank the Guild's congratulations on a fine job.

There was also a suggestion that the Guild should arrange an annual dinner, and no doubt the matter will be up for discussion at the meetings of the various branches in the coming year.

The company was entertained during the evening by Mr. N. Swinnerton (bass) and Mr. J. Roberts (tenor), of the Cathedral choir, and Messrs. J. Neild and J. Taylor. A course of Grandsire Caters by C. Valentine 1-2, Miss N. Bibby 3-4, J. Bibby 5-6, F. Bibby 7-8, W. Bibby 9-10, brought the evening to a delightful close.

CLASHING MEETINGS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir, — I have always been under the impression that the primary object of district meetings was for the benefit of the members concerned in their arrangement. With that in mind, my fixtures, made at the beginning of each year, seek to avoid any clashing with, not only the other three districts of this Guild, but also the North-West District of the Surrey Association, in whose activities some of our members have a vote.

So it was with mixed feelings that I read your leading article last week and the letter which prompted it, especially seeing that the letter came from Mr. Cannon, a prominent member of the Tower Grabbers' Union, who, when we held a meeting at Dorking previously, came there, had a ring, and then had to be off, to get a ring at some London tower where the reopening of the bells took place that afternoon. It would appear that a secretary would need to be a superman and see that no meetings took place within 50 miles on his meeting dates, to save someone a pang of disappointment at being unable, through a feeling of loyalty, to get to a new tower. Perhaps some day the ideal will come, but for the present my advice to Mr. Cannon is to bring the matter up at the annual meeting of his own association and see that none of their own meetings clash. Ours are fixed at a committee meeting with the general secretary early in the year.

With regard to the meetings 'under the cloud,' both have for their chief business something concerning themselves, namely, the nomination of their officers, and as no one member will be torn between two votes, I think that the business interval offers a good chance for visitors to get from one place to the other, and as they will be able to get a good variety at both places, the nearness is really a blessing.

ARTHUR H. SMITH,
Hon. Secretary, Leatherhead District.
Guildford Diocesan Guild.

OVERLAPPING ASSOCIATIONS.

Dear Sir, — While I cannot answer Mr. Cannon's question regarding the clashing of district meetings, I may perhaps be allowed to make a few comments on the matter raised.

There are two distinct points at issue, though they are not clearly shown in Mr. Cannon's letter.

The first is when separate associations or districts hold meetings in towers in their own areas, but those towers happen to be near each other. You have, perhaps intentionally, confined your editorial to this aspect of the matter, and, while I agree such a clash would be better avoided, there is no reason why both meetings should not be successful if fully supported by each association's own members. District secretaries have a good deal to do and they cannot always find out the intentions of one or more surrounding associations.

What is far more objectionable is the case where Association A holds a meeting at a tower affiliated to Association B on the same day that Association B is holding a meeting in its own area. I have been considering for several months the best way of bringing this matter before the Exercise, and had decided that, rather than seek the courtesy of your columns where only personal opinions can be expressed, I would broach the subject at the next Central Council meeting. About six weeks ago I drafted a motion to be put before the Council, and on November 1st I asked another member of the Council to second it. All this was before the meetings held at Isleworth and Twickenham on November 13th and while there was still a chance of avoiding that clash.

But the 'ubiquitous Mr. Cannon' (your own adjective, Mr. Editor) has forestalled me, though I may still ask the Council to express an opinion on the matter next Whitsun.

The clash on November 13th was the second in the South and West Middlesex District this year. In the summer the district held a meeting at Harlington, which is not an easy place to get to, and unfortunately another association met at Chiswick on the same day. (Ten members of the Chiswick tower are ringing members of the South and West District). The attendance at Harlington, as was to be expected, was less than double figures—a poor show not only for the district, but for the Exercise.

It seems to me only a matter of courtesy for a visiting association to get into early touch with the secretary of the area to be visited, so as not to upset local arrangements. In most cases I am sure the local association would be pleased to avoid that date or agree to a joint meeting. I realise that an 'extra-territorial' association (such as the Ladies' Guild) would be affected more by this than would ordinary associations, but what is an extra letter or two compared with the success or failure of a meeting or the retention of good feeling between associations.

WILFRID G. WILSON.

DON'T SCRUB YOUR HANDS!

skin this simple way*

To many people, the problem of getting the hands really clean without harming the skin is a serious one. Grease and grime, which become deeply ingrained into the pores of the skin, are extremely difficult to remove, and ordinary washing with soap or even scrubbing will fail to remove them completely. Housewives, particularly, who complain that their hands get ruined by the nature of their work, will find the preparation called DERMAFOAM, a real "godsend." DERMAFOAM just smoothes away dirt and grease without effort. It gets right down into the pores and removes every particle of grime, leaving skin beautifully supple and healthy.

Men, too—when you've finished that dirty job on the car, DERMAFOAM will quickly banish all grease and oil from your hands. It acts almost magically—working under and around the nails and into every minute crease, removing all trace of dirt in a flash.

Engineers, Painters, Car Mechanics, Printers — everyone — will welcome DERMAFOAM, the modern method of cleansing and protecting the hands.

THE GREATEST SIX-BELL ACHIEVEMENT

The Exercise will, we are sure, unite in congratulations to the Lincolnshire band who, last Saturday, created another 'splicing' record by ringing, in the course of seven 720's, no fewer than eighty different methods. Only a few years ago this would have been regarded as an impossible feat, not only from the point of view of practical ringing, but because it was inconceivable that such a large number of methods could be crowded into seven true six-bell extents. With the rapid progress that has been made in this phase of ringing, however, composers have kept pace with the demands of the ringers, and a peal in eighty methods now becomes an accomplished fact. This is very close to the known limit; but who can say where this clever manipulation of methods will end?

Let us acknowledge the work of the men who have made such peals possible. The brothers Jaries were the first to see the possibilities of 'spliced' ringing, although it was some years after their pioneer work in this direction that serious attention was given to composition on these lines. Mr. Joseph W. Parker, the late Mr. Henry Wilde, and Mr. E. H. Lewis contributed their share to developing the ground, but it was left to one who does very little practical ringing to bring out the really high lights of composition in splicing Minor methods. To Mr. A. G. Driver is due much of the credit for the investigations which have made extents in a large number of methods possible. In the most painstaking manner he pushed out the scope of composition until well over a dozen methods were included in a single 720, and compiled tables by which other investigators could pursue the work upon a well-established foundation.

And in this latest performance at Algarkirk we have an instance of what has come of it, and, too, a very fine example of the good spirit which ought always to prevail among ringers. Until last Saturday the 'spliced' record was 73 methods rung by a Cheshire band and conducted by Mr. Kenneth Lewis. One of the new 720's rung at Algarkirk, one containing the greatest number of methods (namely 19) yet included in an extent, was composed by Mr. Kenneth Lewis. Thus he facilitated, even if he alone did not make possible, the beating of the record which he held with his Cheshire friends. There is a moral in this, which he who runs may read.

For the men, and particularly for the conductor, who rang the peal last Saturday, there will be nothing but admiration. It is a great feat to carry eighty methods in one's head, and to be able to step straight out of one into another at a word of command, especially when these commands, at times, follow one another every twenty-five seconds or so. This is a business of quick thinking as well as accurate ringing. The Lincolnshire band of enterprising young men have striven hard for this crowning achievement. Success has been hard earned, and those, if there be any, who doubt the merit of the performance, would do well to try for themselves, for a start, Mr. Kenneth Lewis' new extent. We feel sure that the first to congratulate the Algbarkirk band will be the men who rang the 73 methods at Buxton last June. Although they then rang the maximum number of Treble Bob methods which can be spliced into seven true extents, we hope they will not rest entirely on their laurels, but will give their friends in Lincolnshire something more to think about and perform. We salute both the Lincolnshire and Cheshire men upon their great achievements.

PEAL NOTES.

THREE SONS RING WITH FATHER FOR 80th BIRTHDAY.

On November 28th Mr. William Linter, sen., of Swanmore, Hants, celebrated his 80th birthday, and three days later the event was honoured by the first peal on the augmented bells of Bishop's Waltham Church.

It was, as it should be, very much of a family affair, for three of Mr. Linter's sons took part in the peal. The method was Bob Major and it was called by Mr. Linter's old friend, Mr. George Williams, himself past the four-score mark.

Mr. Linter, sen.'s, first peal was called by Mr. Williams at Soberton on June 21st, 1889, and that peal was also the first by Mr. Linter's late brother, Robert. Another brother, Frank, rang his first peal when George Williams rang his first as conductor in January, 1885. In 1886 they were both members of the Reigate Society.

Anyhow, this birthday peal was the event of a lifetime, and many interesting recollections were brought to light over the teacups after the ringing, the participants being entertained by Mr. W. Linter, jun. (who was in the Australian touring party). The splendid birthday cake was kindly provided by Mrs. F. S. Bayley.

Bishop's Waltham bells were recently retuned and restored by Messrs. Taylor and Co., who also added two trebles to complete the octave.

The members of the Linter family ring, in these days, at different towers: William Linter, sen., at Swanmore; William Linter, jun., at Fareham; Walter Linter at Bishop's Waltham; and Roy Linter at North Stoneham.

Curiously enough this was the first occasion upon which these four members of the Linter family had all taken part in a peal together.

Congratulations to Miss Dorothy Vessey on ringing her 25th peal on her 18th birthday. She has only been ringing a little over 18 months and this performance—seven different 720's of Minor—was her 21st peal this year.

A peal well 'spiced' was rung at Borden, Kent, on November 27th, when three generations of the Spice family, whose roots are in Tunstall, took part together in Taylor's six-part peal of Grandsire Triples. William Spice, sen., rang the treble, his son, George H. Spice, the fifth, and his grandson, John E. Spice, the second to his first peal at the first attempt. Victor Jarrett (Musician, R.E.) called his first peal on eight bells.

CHILDREN'S PEAL RECALLED.

Spliced Bob and Little Bob Maximus has been added to the variety of peals rung on the twelve at Kidderminster. It was rung on December 4th and was the first peal of Spliced Maximus by all the band. Each course consisted of one lead of Plain, one of Little and one of Pain Bob. The composition was arranged, as well as conducted, by the hon. secretary of the Worcestershire Association, Mr. J. D. Johnson.

Mr. Johnson, three days earlier, was also the conductor of another interesting peal. On December 1st, 1912, he, with two of his sisters, Ellen and Ruth, rang a peal of Grandsire Doubles on handbells. Ellen, since deceased, was then 12 and rang 1-2. Joseph was 13 and called the peal from 3-4, and Ruth, only 10, rang 5-6. The peal was independently umpired.

On December 1st, 1937, twenty-five years after, Joseph, with three sisters, called a handbell peal of Grandsire Triples to commemorate the anniversary. The family party were Miss Kathleen Johnson, Mrs. John Thomas, Joseph Johnson and Mrs. A. J. Martin, ringing in that order. How proud their father, the late Mr. Frederick J. Johnson, would have been had he lived to see this event.

Both living and dead were remembered in a peal rung at Leekhampton, Cheltenham, on November 29th. The peal was in memory of Mrs. Isobel Richardson, to whose memory the two treble bells were added in 1904, and in honour of the 84th birthday of Mr. James George, of Birmingham.

As a farewell to the Vicar (the Rev. J. L. Coursey), who was leaving Christ Church, Southport, for Christ Church, Cheltenham, a peal of Grandsire Triples was rung at the former church on November 30th.

It was the 49th anniversary of Mr. L. Tyldesley's first peal, and he cannot recollect any previous peal rung at Christ Church, Southport, by a regular Sunday service band.

As a 'coming of age' compliment to Miss Kathleen Cheal, a member of the band at Rainham, Kent, a peal of Grandsire Triples was rung at that church on December 4th. Her brother took part in the peal, and afterwards Miss Cheal extended hospitality to the ringers, who wish to thank her for her kindness.

CURIOSITIES OF 'STARS.'

Many curiosities occur in regard to 'starred' performances. Mr. Harold Cashmore's name appears this week with a 'star' for ringing his first peal of Royal. And he is the man who calls peals in Spliced Surprise methods on handbells! Other 'advanced' ringers are similarly 'decorated' for the same peal, rung at St. Peter's Church, St. Albans.

Another instance comes from Manchester, where, at the Cathedral, three of a band who have rung in a peal of 73 Spliced Treble Bob methods rang their first peal of Grandsire Caters on Saturday.

Peal attempts at Dodderhill, Droitwich, Worcestershire, are rare, through restrictions, but last Saturday, the ban being lifted, a peal of Darlaston Bob Triples was rung there, the band including five of the local company, with three from Claines. The method was taken from 'The Glossary' and had previously been practised as a change from Oxford Bob. The conductor found it necessary to send away for a composition to Mr. J. Pigott, to whom he is indebted. It was the first peal in the method by all the band and on the bells, and was rung at the first attempt. The long dodging behind probably accounted for its being a quick peal.

The first peal on the bells at Leighton Buzzard, Bedfordshire, since they were rehung by Messrs. Taylor and Co. in 1935, was rung on Saturday. It should have been Bob Royal, but the band, meeting short, rang Bob Major.

On September 19th the dedication of Monmouthshire's heaviest and grandest ring of bells, installed by John Taylor and Co., took place at Ebbw Vale. The first attempt for a peal was made on Saturday last and proved successful. The date was specially chosen as it was the eve of the 72nd birthday of Mr. John W. Jones, hon. secretary of the Llandaff and Monmouth Diocesan Association and conductor of the peal.

Congratulations were extended to him. It is nearly 49 years ago since he rang his first peal, which was also Grandsire Triples.

Tea was kindly provided by the ladies of the parish, and thanks are extended to them and to Mr. Alsop, the local leader, for his kindness in doing 'the needful' at the tower. The new band at Ebbw Vale are making good progress.

Mr. and Mrs. Ezekiel Larter, of Diss, Norfolk, have just celebrated the 70th anniversary of their wedding. No wonder the bells were rung for them! The wedding took place at Diss Parish Church on November 30th, 1867, and when the anniversary came round last week a peal of Kent Treble Bob Major was rung.

To mark the completion of his 50 years' membership of the Lancashire Association, a peal of Bob Major in honour of Mr. William Brammer was rung at Gorton Unitarian Church, Manchester, on November 30th. It was also a birthday peal for Miss Cynthia Dulton.

MR. JAMES GEORGE IS 84.HOW HE CELEBRATED HIS BIRTHDAY.

Mr. James George celebrated his 84th birthday as actively as a youth of 24. In the afternoon he rang at Birmingham Cathedral for the induction of the new Provost, who was installed by the Bishop of Birmingham, at a very impressive ceremony. Immediately afterwards, Mr. George, with seven others of the band, rang a peal of Stedman Triples at Bishop Ryder's Church. The peal was a pleasure to ring, and a credit to Mr. George, who rang the seventh.

At the conclusion of the peal the band, with five other ringers, were the guests of Mr. George at a dinner. Many were the congratulations that Mr. George received upon attaining one more birthday towards his century in such remarkably good health.

But Mr. George will not be satisfied with a century; he is determined to double his present age. 'I've never felt better in my life,' was his remark.

An unusual honour was accorded to Mr. George at St. Martin's, Birmingham, where on November 30th a peal of 5,084 Stedman Cinques, specially composed for the occasion by Mr. Gabriel Lindoff, was rung to celebrate his birthday by members of St. Martin's Guild. Mr. George rang the 8th faultlessly.

Unfortunately he was not so successful with two other peal attempts. Stedman Triples on the back eight at Burton-on-Trent on the day after the peal in the 'Bull Ring' was lost through a change course, and on the following day Double Norwich at Brierley Hill 'went west' after eight courses.

Nevertheless, the birthday was duly celebrated on each occasion, and Mr. George, although there will be quite a few birthdays intervening, is now contemplating where and what he will ring for his 100th birthday. Will it be Liverpool Cathedral tenor?

But, joking apart, Mr. George at 84 is physically and mentally a wonder to all his friends.

Last Saturday Mr. George capped his week's performances by ringing the tenor at St. Andrew's, Derby, to a peal of Kent Treble Bob Royal. It was his 1,270th peal. We are told he turned in the tenor with all his former accuracy and zest, and finished up 'as fresh as paint and just as pretty.'

Peals on eight, ten and twelve bells within a week are not bad going, even for a youth of 84.

After the unsuccessful attempt for a peal at Burton-on-Trent, a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples was rung: M. Swinfield (conductor) 1, J. H. Swinfield 2, E. W. Beadmoore 3, S. Holloway 4, W. R. Drage 5, D. T. Matkin 6, J. George (composer) 7, G. L. Roden 8.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

If you want to make a suitable and lasting gift to a ringer for Christmas, send 5s. 6d. to 'The Ringing World,' Lower Pyrford Road, Woking, for a copy of J. A. Trollope's interesting history of the College Youths.

Miss Dorothy L. Sayers, the novelist, was the guest of the Ancient Society of College Youths at the meeting at St. Paul's Cathedral, and afterwards at the Coffee Pot, on Tuesday evening.

A faculty has been granted by the Rochester Diocesan Registry for the restoration of the bells at St. Mary's Church, Bexley, Kent. Messrs. Mears and Stainbank are to retune the six bells and rehang them in new fittings in a steel frame, with provision for two trebles when funds are available.

Among the subscribers to the restoration fund is Her Majesty the Queen, whose grandparents were married at this church.

The Ladies' Guild made a gallant attempt for a peal of London Surprise Major on Saturday at Great Baddow, Essex. They had rung for 2 hours 45 minutes and only had three courses to go when the peal 'went west.' Hard lines, ladies!

The ringers were Mrs. P. Humphreys 1, Mrs. J. E. Davis 2, Mrs. F. W. Housden 3, Mrs. R. Richardson 4, Mrs. R. F. Deal 5, Mrs. G. W. Fletcher (conductor) 6, Mrs. F. Botham 7, Miss H. Snowden 8. The ringing was excellent until the fatal trip came.

It is said that, after the attempt, seven married ladies went to the railway station to catch a train that didn't run. It is, however, not true that they then went to a cosy corner to drown their sorrows. It was to get out of the cold while waiting for a train that did run. We have this information on the authority of an independent witness.

Mr. James George has received so many letters of congratulations upon his 84th birthday that he finds it impossible to reply to them individually. He desires to thank sincerely all those who have sent him such kindly messages.

Messrs. J. Taylor and Co.'s almanack for 1938, which has just been distributed, again bears on each page a photograph of some interesting cathedral or church where the Loughborough firm have recently carried out restoration or new work. The almanack is suitable for hanging in any ringing room.

We regret to record the passing on October 23rd of Mr. Montagu Henry Smith at Heyford, Northamptonshire, after a very short illness. He was a member of the Daventry Branch of the Peterborough Guild, the meetings of which he regularly attended. He was always ready to help the younger ringers and will be much missed.

The verger of Rolvenden Church, Kent, who has also been a ringer since Victorian days, was 'In Town To-night' in the wireless programme of Saturday.

We regret that pressure on our space again necessitates the holding over of several reports and letters to the Editor.

NATIONAL POLICE GUILD.

FURTHER ORGANISATION IN MANCHESTER DISTRICT.

A successful gathering of the National Police Guild took place in Manchester on Saturday last. About a score of members from Manchester, Liverpool, Bolton, Stockport and about another score of ringing friends met at the Town Hall during the afternoon for ringing. They then adjourned to the new police headquarters, where tea was served in the restaurant. Afterwards a tour was made of the premises which are considered to be the most up-to-date in the country.

Further ringing was then indulged in until 8 p.m., after which a quiet room was found in a local inn in which to discuss, in an unofficial manner, matters appertaining to the Guild.

The president of the Guild, Supt. Williams, sent an apology for his absence. Several others were similarly absent owing to exigencies of the service.

Sergt. Peter Crook, in reviewing the work of the Guild, said he had noticed through 'The Ringing World' that they had many capable members in the North, and he was very pleased to see some had been ringing peals in the Surprise methods. After what he had seen that afternoon in the tower he thought more ought to be done in the Guild's name, and the only reason, as far as he could see, was that everybody was waiting for someone else to make a move. It showed what could be done when they looked at that day's gathering. The thanks for that meeting were due to Constable William Pys, of Manchester. He thought an organising secretary would be a useful help in that direction.

Sergt. Crook, after a discussion, promised to act in that capacity. The Town Hall bells are a fine peal of twelve, tenor 42 cwt., with an extra sharp bell in the trebles for a light eight.

Touches of Grandsire, Stedman, Treble Twelve and Double Norwich on the light eight were brought round.

A vote of thanks was passed to the Chief Constable for allowing the use of the restaurant, to Supt. Williams for the assistance he had given, to the Town Hall Superintendent for the use of the bells, and to P.C. Pys for his splendid arrangements.

NEW MAYOR HONOURED

The new Mayor of Yeovil (Councillor F. Beal) is sidesman at the Parish Church, and on his election to the civic chair on November 9th a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples was rung: G. H. Hurst 1, O. Jeanes 2, F. Hunt 3, T. Marks 4, E. Barnington 5, S. Ricketts 6, J. Baker (conductor) 7, F. Smith 8.

A WILTSHIRE RINGER'S SERVICE.

MR. L. A. WILSON'S EFFORTS FOR BELL RESTORATION.

Forty Years' Work in Calne Deanery.

Few men can have done more to promote bell restoration than Mr. L. A. Wilson, of Wootton Bassett, Wilts. Mr. Wilson has just completed forty years as a ringer at Wootton Bassett, and well-deserved tributes were paid to his labours at a meeting held at Wootton Bassett, when the Calne and Devizes branches of the Salisbury Guild and the Swindon Branch of the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association joined forces for the day.

Mr. Wilson first learnt ringing in Devonshire under the late Rev. Maitland Kelly. When he came to Wiltshire 40 years ago he took charge of the bells at Wootton Bassett and has taught many ringers. His early drilling in Grandsire in Devon did not prevent him going on to more advanced methods, and he owes a good deal of his progress to the encouragement of the late Mr. Ernest Bishop, of Swindon.

He has for many years been secretary of the Calne Branch of the Salisbury Guild, and by his efforts with the various incumbents the following long list of bell restorations has been effected in the district:—

Bremhill (8), rehung; Calne (8), rehung; Broad Hinton (6), rehung; Lyneham (5), rehung; Yatesbury (4), rehung and treble added; Brinkworth (5), rehung and treble added; Purton (5), rehung and treble added; Lydiard Millicent, treble added; Hilmartin (6), now being rehung; Wootton Bassett, rehung at his own expense. This leaves only three peals of five in the Calne Deanery not ring-able, but, even so, a fund is being raised for the rehousing of Heddington in the near future.

Mr. Wilson is the possessor of a silver tea service given to him by the parishioners of Broad Hinton, and a silver watch presented by the parishioners of Brinkworth for the services he has rendered.

At the joint meeting on November 20th ringers were present from Swindon, Devizes, Bishops Cammings, Melksham, Holt, South Cerney, Bremhill, Lyneham, Brinkworth, Hilmartin, Broad Hinton, Clyffe Pypard and Wootton Bassett, and amongst the clergy in attendance were Canon A. E. G. Peters, the Rev. C. E. L. Cowan, the Rev. H. V. White and the Rev. H. H. Barber, who conducted a service in the Parish Church.

Following tea in the Church of England Schools, the Rev. H. V. White (chairman of the Calne Branch) expressed thanks to all who had made the gatherings so successful.

Canon Peters, in the course of words of encouragement to the ringers, made special reference to the fact that Mr. L. A. Wilson had that day completed 40 years of service in the tower at Wootton Bassett. He considered that Mr. Wilson had served the parish well and hoped he would be spared to continue for many more years.

Mr. Green (assistant general secretary of Salisbury Guild) and Mr. W. Trueman (Master of the Swindon Branch) spoke of their long association with Mr. Wilson, and referred to his wholehearted work for the ringers, not only of his own town, but of the surrounding parishes. They hoped he would continue his work until he at least reached the age of that grand old ringer, Mr. A. Lawrence, of Swindon, who is 83 years old and was present at the meeting.

Mr. Wilson, in reply, appealed to the young ringers to continue their work, and also urged others to take it up.

CHISWICK'S VETERAN RINGER.

As a birthday compliment to Mr. J. Dalton, who was 81 a few days previously, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples was rung at Chiswick on November 14th. Mr. Dalton is a regular Sunday service ringer, but owing to a chill was unable to take part in the quarter-peal, which was rung before evening service: *R. R. Fulford 1, †T. J. Thurlley 2, H. W. Lidbetter 3, Miss D. E. Lidbetter 4, †F. H. Fulford 5, A. R. Pink 6, †F. D. Bishop (conductor) 7, N. H. GOOD STRIKING.

THE ST. CLEMENT DANES' RECORD.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—You rightly point out that the Spliced Surprise gramophone record is about as perfect as ringing can be. There is no reason why tower-bell ringing should not be as perfect. I know that it can be, having heard it a good many times.

In reply to Mr. Joyce, may I say that, from what I heard through the headphones in the B.B.C. van, I should agree with some of the band that the touch of Grandsire Caters recorded at St. Clement Danes was not perfect. I cannot criticise in detail, as I was, at the time, much more concerned with the perfect recording of a complete touch than with the recording of a perfect touch. I did notice one or two close leads, probably caused by the slight drag of the tenor.

I do not pretend to be a perfect striker, but I generally know when my striking is at fault, and why. I hope I shall never be too satisfied to learn to improve.

Brasted, Kent.

F. H. LEWIS.

CRITICISM IS NECESSARY.

Dear Sir,—Mr. G. L. Joyce in his letter to you, published in last week's issue of 'The Ringing World,' says, 'In his many criticisms the president of the Council and Master of the College Youths, Mr. E. H. Lewis, has fayed us alive, and for my personal satisfaction only I hope one day unknown to "stand behind" him.' I wonder what Mr. Joyce is getting at? Every change ringer to-day should thank Mr. Lewis from the bottom of his heart for so faying us. The only fault is that he has not fayed enough. As our president he is doing his duty by taking such an active interest in us. We should thank him also for his propaganda work in bringing the art so much before the public. Criticism in regard to striking we must have. If some people manipulated a musical instrument in an orchestra a quarter as bad as some ringers manipulate a bell to a touch, they would be shot out after a bar or two. Why must we tolerate indifferent ringing without saying something to the offenders, and who is more competent than our president to do this?

Now for the next part of the paragraph mentioned above. What does Mr. Joyce imagine he is going to find if and when he does stand behind Mr. Lewis (whether known or unknown)? What in the world does it matter what he finds? This is the position: Some of us are trying to raise the standard of ringing. The president of the Central Council of Church Bellringers is supporting us in our action. Mr. Joyce knows that the term, 'good striking,' cannot be measured by degrees, but I am sure that after 25 years' experience, providing, of course, that he can hear the actual changes he takes part in, he also knows what good striking means.

There are some persons who tell me that they cannot hear the individual bells they are helping to ring. It sounds just a jumble, they say. In spite of this, they seem to get a certain amount of pleasure out of it, which, of course, is more than anyone else does. These are the people we are up against. Either they must be trained to hear, or prohibited to ring. I should like also to say that in my opinion such a letter as Mr. Joyce has written has no constructive value whatever, and only tends to confuse the minds of the learners to whom we are trying to teach 'good striking.'

ALEC E. RICHARDSON.

Southborough, Kent.

UNITY COUNTS.

Sir,—I have read with interest your admirable article upon good striking and I agree entirely with you.

Personally I feel that what is essentially needed in every tower is the catholic spirit; that is, completely forgetting oneself in the performance of the whole, and remembering that it is the unity of the whole, which counts.

For example, if there are seven men in a tower, doing their best to strike well, their efforts can be marred by the bad striking of the eighth.

The listener outside does not hear the seven, who are doing their best, but, irritated by the bad striking of one, condemns the whole.

This grand principle applies to all ringing. It must be as catholic in its outlook as in its practice. No company should be content to ring the same methods year in, year out.

The very art demands that it should go from strength to strength. Our Lord commands, 'Be ye therefore perfect, as my Father in Heaven is perfect.'

Therefore, let us ringers remember that nothing but the very best is worthy of God, to Whose glory we ring and Whose Gospel we proclaim with every pull of our bell.

RONALD SUCKLING.

A BROADCAST DISAPPOINTMENT.

To the Editor.

Sir,—On Sunday I looked through 'The Radio Times' to see if there were to be any bells broadcast, and I found that a service from Northumberland on the North Regional was to be preceded by 'the bells.' Picture my feelings when tuning in to hear a single bell, chimed badly, coming over the air.

A. A. SAXBY.

'BELLS OVER LONDON.'

COMPLIMENTS AND CRITICISM.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—While registering my appreciation of the recent broadcast in connection with the College Youths' tercentenary, I should like to say that it was with not a little surprise that I discovered a complete absence of correspondence in last week's issue of 'The Ringing World' concerning Mr. E. H. Lewis' talk in the 'Bells Over London' broadcast. As nearly as I can recollect, he stated that for a bell-ringer to be a member of the Ancient Society of College Youths was synonymous with an oarsman belonging to Leander R.C. or a cricketer to the M.C.C.

As one who is quite unprejudiced, not having any connection with the Ancient Society or its rival organisation, I cannot but express my deprecation of such a remark from the president of the Central Council. To this Council all the guilds and associations throughout the Kingdom hold loyalty, their unity being symbolised by the president's high office.

Hence I was grossly disappointed to learn from Mr. Lewis' own lips that any one society should be considered superior among those which give their allegiance to the organisation of which he is the head. Such snobbery I really could not understand, as it merely serves to engender resentment and ill-feeling among ringers, especially in view of the fact that as it came over the ether its hearers are unable to make reply. To broadcast such information to millions unaware of the existence of or the good work done by other similar organisations is, I feel, using the microphone as the late Canon 'Dick' Sheppard described the pulpit, as a 'coward's castle.'

The church bells of this country are a glorious heritage, and their ringing a sacred trust, committed to us by God. Let us, therefore, one and all forget all pride and everything else which may separate us one from another, and work with a united front to proclaim to the best of our ability the message of Christ from the belfries of our land.

THE WITHDRAWN 'COLLABORATION.'

Dear Sir,—I listened to the broadcast on November 24th and I experienced a feeling of slight disappointment when I heard the preliminary announcement that Mr. Willie Roughton had 'been unable to collaborate, etc.'

I had hoped to find some sort of 'official' explanation in 'The Ringing World' to-day, but all I can find is reference to something which appeared in the London newspapers, and, in the absence of comment, I assume that their explanation is the correct one. If that is the case I think it is deplorable, and, in my opinion, the sooner Willie Roughton withdraws his collaboration from all matters appertaining to ringing and ringers the better it will be for the Exercise as a whole. He might form himself into a society of one and achieve that exclusiveness of which, judging by his speech at the recent dinner of the College Youths, he is so proud.

Miss Sayers in writing her book 'The Nine Tailors' has probably done more good for ringing than Mr. Roughton and his kind have done or will ever do.

Mr. T. Groombridge, by his efforts, did much to improve the relations between the Exercise and the B.B.C., and it now remains to be seen how much of that good work has been undone by Willie Roughton's latest attempt at having it all his own way.

AN APPRECIATION.

Dear Sir,—I should like to express my appreciation of the broadcast of 'Bells Over London' on November 24th. I am quite sure that the description given by Mr. Lewis must have been most interesting to all listeners, whether bellringers or not.

To bellringers it must be gratifying to know that the art of change ringing is being made more popular in the eyes of the public through the microphone, as is shown by the several broadcasts given recently in connection with the tercentenary of the College Youths.

GATESHEAD RINGER'S DEATH.MR. JOHN STUART'S LONG CONNECTION WITH PARISH CHURCH.

A well-known Gateshead ringer, Mr. John Stuart, has recently passed away at the age of 74 years. He had been a member of St. Mary's Guild for 58 years. He joined the Durham and Newcastle Diocesan Association in 1902 and served for many years on the committee. On his retirement from active ringing this year, he was made an honorary member. He had rung 31 peals for the association.

Mr. Stuart had attended St. Mary's Church for over 60 years and had served as a ringer under five rectors. He was also a member of the ancient body known as the 'Four and Twenty' of the Gateshead Parish Church. Mr. Stuart was employed in the Weights and Measures Department of Gateshead Corporation for 40 years and retired in 1930.

A NEW RECORD IN SPLICING.
LINCS RINGERS' GREAT PERFORMANCE.*A Peal in 80 Methods.

Another new record in 'Spliced' Minor has been set up by the Lincolnshire band at Algarkirk, where on Saturday a peal in 80 six-bell methods was rung. It is an amazing achievement.

Our peal columns give the official details of the performance, and comment upon it will be found in our leading article. It will be noted from the report that there was a 'witness' to the peal, a departure new in this particular phase of ringing.

Except for one 720, the peal was arranged by Mr. A. G. Driver. The exception was a 720 composed by Mr. Kenneth Lewis, of Stockport, and contains the greatest number of methods yet included in a true extent. Mr. Lewis has incorporated no fewer than 19 methods into the 720, and in the 60 leads there are 45 changes of method. There were 176 changes of method in the whole peal, and Sibsey and Gosberton Alliance were rung for the first time.

A REVIEW OF THE YEAR'S WORK.

The annual meeting of the North Staffordshire Association was held at Stoke on Saturday. Although the weather was very bad, no fewer than 56 sat down to tea, and two arrived afterwards. Ringers came from Barlaston, Bucknall, Burslem, Brown Edge, Coventry, Crewe, Cheadle, Draycott, Exhall, Hanley, Kingsley, Longton, Leek, Lawton, Newcastle, Norton, Stone, Stoke, Tunstall, Uttoxeter, Wistaston and Wellington, Salop.

The Ven. Archdeacon Hartill, Rector of Stoke, extended a very hearty welcome to all present and specially to those who had travelled a distance on such a day.

A vote of thanks was proposed by Mr. J. E. Wheeldon to the Rector of Stoke for the use of the bells and the excellent tea he had given them. He thought, however, it would only be a little drop in the ocean after the Rector had paid his eight curates.—Mr. S. Churton seconded the motion.

The Rector, in responding, said his income, which raised comment in the London newspapers, was £3,560. After he had paid his curates and £300 in travelling expenses, he could, however, still afford to pay for the tea without fear of bankruptcy.

Mr. A. D. Steel proposed a vote of thanks to the visitors, whom they were always pleased to see, and he also spoke of a proposal to establish a local branch of the Police Guild of Ringers, in connection with which he had been in touch with the Chief Constable of Stoke-on-Trent.

The business meeting followed, with the president (the Rector of Stoke) in the chair, supported by the Rev. F. D. Gardner (clerical secretary), Mr. Andrew Thompson (hon. secretary) and Mr. Kenneth Thacker (assistant hon. secretary).

The committee reported that at their annual meeting, held at Burslem on November 15th, the following report was presented by the hon. secretary: During the past year twelve meetings have been held, one for every month; two at ten-bell towers, six at eight, and four at six-bell towers. The average attendance had been 39, a decrease of two per meeting on last year. Five members had attended all the meetings, viz., Messrs. T. Hurd, J. E. Wheeldon, E. Steele, S. Thompson and A. Thompson. Three of these five attended them all in the previous year as well. One hundred and twenty-six members had attended at least one meeting during the year, an increase of 23. Thirty-one new members had been elected, namely, three honorary, 12 non-resident and 16 ringing, but with regret the death of Mr. W. J. Woodward, honorary member, at Uttoxeter, and of Mr. R. G. Lewis, Ringing Master for eight-bell towers for over ten years, was recorded. Two committee meetings had been held; one at Fenton to arrange Coronation peals, the other at Kingsley, where it was decided to hold an association dinner in February, 1938. Mr. A. D. Steel was elected Ringing Master for eight-bell towers, and a suggestion was made that the association should change its name to one which he regarded as more appropriate, namely, 'The North Staffordshire Association of Change Ringers.'

RECORD NUMBER OF PEALS.

During the year, the secretary stated, he had again visited most of the towers in the district, and found them in very good condition. Silverdale tower had again been opened for Sunday ringing, after being closed for two years. Thirty peals had been rung during the year, consisting of five of Major (one Plain Bob, one Kent Treble Bob, one Little Bob, one Cambridge and one of Staffordshire), eight of Triples (one Stedman, and seven of Grandsire), 12 of Minor (two Bob Minor, ten of Treble Bob—nine in seven methods and one in five methods), five of Grandsire Doubles. This was a record number of peals rung in one year for the association.

Ten ringers had rung their first peal and two had conducted their first peal. The secretary added that he would very much like to see more young ringers taking more interest in conducting, so that, as years go on, the number of peals might be increased. Forty peals should be rung by an association of their size each year. The most interesting peal footnotes are of Cambridge Major rung at Newcastle in honour of Alderman S. Myott being elected Mayor for the third time, of one rung in honour of the enthronement of Dr. Woods as Lord Bishop of Lichfield, and of ten Coronation peals.

The association was represented at the Central Council meeting held at Canterbury on May 18th, and a report of the meeting, the first given by a representative of the association, was presented by Mr. Andrew Thompson.

W. Wade, former leader of Longton, had completed his 50th year as a ringer. The secretary added that although his suggestion regarding the advertising of meetings in 'The Ringing World' was not adopted, he hoped more interest would be taken in this great bell-ringing paper. Ten reports of their meetings had appeared in it this year.

The secretary was complimented on his report by Messrs. J. E. Wheeldon and G. E. Plant.

The statement of accounts was read and accepted, as was the auditor's report, in which it was stated that the Post Office Savings Bank book was credited with £15 4s., and the cash in the secretary's hands was £10 14s. 3d. The increased balance on the year was £7 10s. 8½d.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

CANTERBURY DISTRICT MEETING.

A successful and pleasant by-meeting of the Canterbury District of the Kent County Association was held at Wickhambreaux on Saturday, November 27th. Forty-five members were present, representing Ash, Birchington, Canterbury (4), Dover, Eythorne, Littlebourne, Sturry and Brabourne, in addition to the strong band of the local tower.

Ringling was enjoyed on the peal of six bells during the afternoon and evening. The usual service was conducted by the Rector (the Rev. G. A. Blackman), the lesson being read by Mr. W. E. Shipton, of Birchington, while Mr. W. E. Pitman presided at the organ. A number of local residents were also present at the service.

Tea, by kind invitation of the Rector, followed in the Boys' Club. Mr. W. E. Shipton and the Rev. Bulstrode (Nonington) were elected hon. members with enthusiasm. In thanking the members for electing him a member, Mr. Shipton said that was the first time he had come into contact with ringers and ringling. He was more than interested in what they did, and counted it an honour to join the association.

Two courses of Triples were rung on the handbells, and then followed what all the young members of Wickhambreaux had been waiting for, tunes by the Dover 'twins,' 'Horatio and Herbaceous,' who by now must be getting somewhat famous in the district both for their tune ringling and their difference in stature! Their tunes were received with delight by all, especially the Rector and his friends, and all present joined in singing two or three of the airs.

Thanks to the Rector were expressed for the use of the bells and for the service and address, and a return was then made to the tower for further ringling. Numerous methods were practised. There were many expressions of regret that Mr. Harrison Smith was unable to be present at the meeting (in his own tower) through the serious illness of his brother.

DEATH OF MR. J. EMERY.

A FORMER STEEPLEKEEPER AT HERSHAM.

We regret to record the death of Mr. John Emery, who passed away at Walton, Surrey, on Sunday week, at the age of 72 years. He had been in failing health for some time.

Mr. Emery learned to ring at St. Mary Cray, Kent, when a lad. On going to Hersham, Surrey, nearly 40 years ago, he helped to teach a young band, and was for some years steeplekeeper. He rang about 30 peals in the standard methods and was a member of the Winchester Diocesan Guild, the Kent County Association and formerly of the Surrey Association. His brother is Mr. Isaac Emery, of Bromley, Kent.

The funeral took place at Walton on December 1st.

The Rev. F. D. Gardner was re-elected clerical secretary, Mr. Andrew Thompson hon. secretary, Mr. Kenneth Thacker assistant hon. secretary, Mr. T. Hurd chairman of committee, Mr. A. D. Steel Ringing Master for eight-bell towers, Mr. J. E. Wheeldon Ringing Master for six-bell towers, and Mr. W. Wheeldon was elected auditor.

It was proposed by Mr. J. E. Wheeldon and seconded by Mr. W. Hazeldine that the name of the association be changed from 'The North Staffs and District Association of Change Ringers' to 'The North Staffordshire Association of Change Ringers.'

The following list of meetings was proposed for 1938: January, Norton; February, Longton; March, Newcastle; April, Bucknall; May, Leek; June, Biddulph; July, Stone and Draycott; August, Cheddleton; September, Uttoxeter; October, Tunstall; November, Burslem; December, Stoke.

A vote of thanks was proposed by Mr. J. E. Wheeldon to the Editor of 'The Ringing World' for the meeting reports he had published during the year. He said that the younger ringers ought to take in that paper. This was seconded by Mr. C. H. Page, and tributes were also paid to the 'Evening Sentinel' staff, who published the ringling activities of North Staffordshire.

The secretary's thanks to the chairman for his co-operation, to Mr. J. E. Wheeldon for recording and entering all peals rung during the year, and to Mr. Kenneth Thacker for his great help and co-operation during the past twelve months, concluded the business of the committee meeting.

A vote of confidence in the secretary was then proposed by Mr. J. E. Wheeldon, who remarked that he hoped Mr. Thompson would continue as secretary for many years to come.—Mr. T. Hurd, in seconding the proposition, said he had been a member of the association for over 30 years, but could not remember a secretary who gave the association such reports as they had received that day.

The Secretary responded by saying he hoped to continue as their secretary as long as his interest was in the association. He would not be like some other secretaries before him, who had carried on with no interest, and only made more work for the next one. When the time came that his interest waned, he would resign, so as to keep the association on the move.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.FLOURISHING CONDITION OF NEWBURY BRANCH.

Over sixty ringers and friends from ten towers in the district and from Abingdon, Brightwell, Chearsley, Reading, Twyford, Kingsclere, Wallingford and Lower Wychendon attended the annual meeting of the Newbury Branch of the Oxford Diocesan Guild at Newbury Parish Church on November 20th.

The Rector, Canon W. L. Cooper, conducted the service and an address was given by the Rev. C. E. Wigg, Deputy Master of the Guild. Tea was served by Mrs. H. W. Curtis in the Parish Room, after which the Rev. W. Kingsley Kefford presided over the business meeting.

The hon. secretary, Mr. H. W. Curtis, reported that meetings had been held during the year at Brightwalton, Aldermaston, Beenham, Bucklebury and Farnborough. The average attendance was 48. The meeting at Farnborough was the first to be held there, and it proved a great success. The branch had 23 honorary members, 163 ringing members and nine life subscribers, showing an increase of five honorary members and ten ringing members. Thanks were due to the chairman for his kind co-operation, also to the clergy and foremen of towers for arranging the services and so making the meetings a success.

The balance sheet, also presented by Mr. Curtis, showed that receipts, including a balance of £20 18s. 7d. brought forward from the previous year, amounted to £38 12s. 1d., and expenses to £21 7s., leaving a balance in hand of £17 5s. 1d.

Satisfactory reports were given from representatives of the following towers: Beenham, Brightwalton, Bucklebury, Compton, East Ilsley, Newbury, Peasemore, Shaw-cum-Donnington and Thatcham.

References to the flourishing state of the branch were made by the Deputy Master, Mr. R. T. Hibbert (general secretary), Mr. A. D. Barker (general treasurer) and Alderman C. A. Hawker (churchwarden).

A telegram had been received from the Master, Canon G. F. Coleridge, of Crowthorne, regretting his absence, and the secretary was asked to write to him congratulating him on having attained the age of 80 years.

Meetings for the coming year were fixed for Chieveley, Hungerford, East Ilsley and Compton, with the annual meeting, as usual, at Newbury. Two new ringing members were elected from Bucklebury, two from Beenham, two from Peasemore and one from Brightwalton.

The following officers were re-elected: Chairman, the Rev. W. Kingsley Kefford; hon. secretary and treasurer, Mr. H. W. Curtis; committee, Messrs. S. Quintin, T. Curtis, F. J. Owen and A. Smith.

After the meeting the tower was again visited, and the bells kept going in various methods until nine o'clock.

A 'COMING OF AGE' GATHERING.

The R.Y.P. (otherwise the Bright Young People, and not all of them so young at that) held their monthly practice on November 27th at Langley, where the bells have recently been rehung and a new treble added. Ringing commenced soon after the advertised time with Grandfire Doubles, and as the company increased so did the variety of methods, London Surprise Minor being rung before adjourning for tea. This, the most important item of the afternoon, was served at The Chestnuts, whose landlord is foreman of the local ringers.

During tea, Mrs. A. D. Barker produced an iced cake, suitably inscribed, which she had made as a 21st birthday compliment to a buxom young lady who always pulls her weight at these meetings. Presents ranging from a 'dummy' to 'something in pink' were also presented amid laughter and cheers.

The secretary again impressed upon the company the great importance of supporting their national paper, 'The Ringing World,' and expressed a hope that if there were any present who did not take the paper they would do so at once, as its future was entirely in the hands of the ringers themselves.

A vote of thanks was passed to the Vicar for the use of the bells, and Denham suggested for the December practice.

The tower was again visited, although a few stayed behind to try their skill at darts, and others to indulge in that highly developed art of 'buying a postcard.'

The bells were lowered in peal at 8.30 p.m., everyone delighted with the 'go,' and congratulating the bellhangers on making a good job out of an awkward 1.5.2.4.3.

A 'GREAT' LITTLE MAN.DEATH OF A BEDFORDSHIRE WORTHY.

Mr. William West, of Biddenham, Bedfordshire, has passed away in his 90th year. He started to learn to ring at the age of 12 and was made a member of the local band when 14 years old. He succeeded his father when he died as steeplekeeper, and was succeeded a year ago by his son, Mr. R. West.

William West loved his bells and welcomed everyone who came to ring them, but they had to be well struck. Always ready and willing to teach, most of the lads in this small village learnt to ring under his tutelage. Small of stature, William West was a 'great' little man.

A muffled peal which was attempted at Biddenham on December 4th by members of the Bedfordshire Association in memory of Mr. West unfortunately came to grief in the fifth 720. E. S.

DON'T SCRUB YOUR HANDS!

skin this simple way*

To many people, the problem of getting the hands really clean without harming the skin is a serious one. Grease and grime, which become deeply ingrained into the pores of the skin, are extremely difficult to remove, and ordinary washing with soap or even scrubbing will fail to remove them completely. Housewives, particularly, who complain that their hands get ruined by the nature of their work, will find the preparation called DERMAFOAM, a real "godsend." DERMAFOAM just smooths away dirt and grease without effort. It gets right down into the pores and removes every particle of grime, leaving skin beautifully supple and healthy.

Men, too—when you've finished that dirty job on the car, DERMAFOAM will quickly banish all grease and oil from your hands. It acts almost magically—working under and around the nails and into every minute crease, removing all trace of dirt in a flash.

Engineers, Painters, Car Mechanics, Printers — everyone — will welcome DERMAFOAM, the modern method of cleansing and protecting the hands.

PEAL COMPOSITIONS.

The accuracy and the authorship of peal compositions are two things about which the Exercise has constantly concerned itself. The first is vital to the interests of ringing; the other, while less important, has, at any rate until quite recently, been held almost universally to be a matter involving the credit of composers. On the requirements of truth in peals there has never been any question, but occasionally an incident arises which revives discussion on the best plan for avoiding false peals. An 'audit' of figures, before they are accepted, is the scheme advocated by a correspondent this week, in reply to a suggestion that it is sufficient to publish compositions and leave those interested to find out if they are false after they have thus appeared, and have, of course, been rung. The latter method is no satisfaction to those who have taken part in a false peal, but that is what now generally happens. It is not until a peal has been rung and the figures get into print that the inaccuracies are discovered. Previous independent proof sounds a good solution, but we are afraid there are practical difficulties in the way, unless composers are willing to undertake the work mutually among themselves, and have their compositions checked before handing them out to be rung.

Rival claims to authorship have often given rise to problems and argument, and, while individual rights to a composition may still be disputed, a larger question is now receiving attention—whether, in fact, many compositions used to-day can be said to be the property of any individual. Those who have studied the question know how 'new' peals, given to the world in perfectly good faith, may be but the adapted work of former composers. One record length of Surprise Major, specially composed for the occasion, was afterwards found to be a longer peal of Treble Bob Royal by one of the old masters. The man who composed the Surprise Major had got his peal unaided by any prior knowledge of the existing peal, but he did, in fact, use the same composition, although the original composer was dead a century or more before the modern method was thought of. There is an instance this week of an old peal of Double Norwich being adapted to a Surprise method unknown when the composition was produced. Is the composer of the Double Norwich the composer of the Surprise peal? These are some of the many problems in authorship which constantly confront ringers to-day. The whole position is becoming involved, and it seems to us there will be increasing difficulties until a system can be devised to deal with the position. Claims to authorship by registration seem to be out of the question; and in these days of prolific production of peals the author's name alone, attached to a peal report, does not serve to identify what has been rung. One or two composers number their compositions, and conductors should be careful always to add this identification where possible. Could not this arrangement be further extended, so that all compositions (irrespective of the rights of authorship or claims to originality) could be collected and numbered and the identity of every peal performance thus accurately established? We know a great deal of labour would be involved, but would this not in the long run be one safeguard against losing all check upon what has been rung and a step towards the elimination of false peals?

A WORCESTERSHIRE RESTORATION.

BISHAMPTON'S GREAT EFFORT.

Very largely by the untiring efforts of the Vicar (the Rev. T. Wilkinson), the tower and bells at St. James Parish Church, Bishampton, near Pershore, Worcestershire, have been restored at a cost of nearly £1,000. The extensive work to the structure was completed last year, and now the bells have been set in order by Messrs. J. Taylor and Co.

The dedication of the bells was preceded by a parochial tea, at which the Vicar spoke of the progress of the fund for the restoration work, and the Bishop of Worcester paid a warm tribute to the valuable work which the Vicar had done in collecting such a large sum for the carrying out of the scheme. Alderman J. Hemming (Hampton), on behalf of the Worcestershire Association, congratulated the parish on the restoration.

There was a large congregation at the dedication service, which was conducted by the Vicar, who expressed his gratitude to all who had contributed to the fund. General Sir Francis Davies and Major W. H. Taylor (Birlingham) read the lessons.

The dedication took place in the belfry, and before returning to the chancel the Bishop unveiled a marble tablet commemorating the restoration.

The Bishop, in his subsequent address, spoke of the history and uses of bells, and referred to the extraordinarily rich inheritance which we have in England in our old parish churches. 'Not only,' he said, 'are they often real gems of architecture, but more than that you find they are witnesses to the past love of God on the part of our forefathers, and they are witnesses to-day that God is the ruler of the universe, of this nation and of each single individual.'

The opening ringing was done by J. D. Johnson (hon. secretary of the Worcestershire Association), J. Hemming (Hampton), H. Middleton (Norton), J. W. Heath (Willersey), G. A. King (Badsey) and J. Hall (Bretforton).

Others who attended were Messrs. F. Spiers (Gower Moor), W. Shelton (Birmingham), S. T. Holt (Crowle), C. Camm (Upton-on-Severn), C. W. Cooper (Stourbridge), B. Ashford (Clent), J. H. Shepherd (Swindon), C. H. Webb (Coventry), E. T. Newbury and W. H. Harris (Beckford), J. E. Newman and Miss I. D. Barner (Hinton-on-the-Green), H. Hurdman (Burton-on-Trent), S. Jones (Derby), G. N. Baylis and J. Beasley (Norton), E. S. Beasley (Stourbridge), Mr. J. P. Fidler (representing Messrs. John Taylor and Co.) and the members of the local band, G. A. Ainge (captain), B. Ainge, H. Ainge, P. R. Ainge, F. J. Ansell, E. Hemming, C. V. Harris, J. Harris, J. G. Ludlow, C. J. Salisbury, W. T. Shelton and F. Spiers.

Most of the bells were cast in 1690 and they have been tuned and rebung in a new frame. The tenor is 10½ cwt. and the inscriptions are:—

1. Gvlielmvs Keyt. Baronot. Hvns Maneris 1690.
2. Robert Gaywood and William Farly Churchwardens 1690.
3. William Gruit 1690.
4. William Bagley Made Mee 1690.
5. Rd. Sanders Made Mee William Powell Churchwarden 1705.
6. Feare God Honnor the King 1721.
- Sanctus Bell. G. Dugard, R. Fairley 1721.

LADY CONDUCTS QUARTER-PEAL.

Miss Hilda Snowden, ringing the tenor, conducted a quarter-peal of Bob Major on Sunday, December 12th, at St. Mary's Church, Woodford, for evensong: B. Weaver 1, C. Snowden 2, F. Corney 3, A. Boyack (first quarter-peal of Major) 4, S. G. Peck 5, S. Webb 6, C. R. Morris 7, Hilda G. Snowden (conductor) 8. It was arranged for the ringers of 2 and 8, who were on a visit from Halstead. The band thank the ringer of the 5th, who comes from Southgate, for standing in at short notice.

A PLYMOUTH RINGER'S JUBILEE.PRESENTATION TO MR. G. H. MYERS.

The 850th anniversary of St. Andrew's Church, Plymouth, provided an excellent opportunity of commemorating the 50th year of service there as a ringer by Mr. G. H. Myers.

At an 'At home' held in the Abbey Hall, Mr. Myers was presented by the Bishop of Plymouth, on behalf of the Church Council, with a solid silver bell, complete in oak frame and suitably inscribed.

His Lordship commented on the fact that Mr. Myers rang at St. Andrew's for Queen Victoria's Jubilee, the Accession and Coronation of Edward VII. and George V., the Silver Jubilee of George V., the Accession of Edward VIII. and, for the Coronation of our present King and Queen, participated, together with his three sons, in a peal of Bob Royal at St. Andrew's. This peal was conducted by Mr. T. G. Myers, and, incidentally, was the only peal rung in Devon for the Coronation.

The Bishop, in conclusion, wished Mr. Myers many more years of ringing at St. Andrew's, and the recipient suitably responded.

C. L. G.

Mr. Myers recalls that he was laughed at for suggesting that change ringing should be practised in Devon, but in spite of that he persisted in his endeavours and can proudly point to the fact that he has now under his charge the most progressive band in the county, who can ring Surprise methods for Sunday service. That, in a part of the country where call change ringing is practically the order of the day, says much for his perseverance, enthusiasm and excellent teaching ability.

He has been captain of St. Andrew's band for the last 25 years, and, although not a prolific peal ringer, has rung about 100 peals (of which he has conducted about a quarter). Most of these are credited to the Devon Guild.

In celebration of the 850th anniversary of St. Andrew's Church, Plymouth, a quarter-peal of 1,259 changes of Grandsire Caters was rung on Sunday evening, November 28th: C. Holmes 1, Mrs. Guy (longest length on 10 bells) 2, Allen Weatherby 3, J. Gluyas 4, A. W. Myers 5, A. Mitchelmore 6, W. Hamlyn 7, S. O'Shaughnessy 8, G. H. Myers (conductor) 9, G. Marshall 10.

A DATE TOUCH.

At the Parish Church, Middleton, Lancashire, on November 29th, a date touch of 1,937 Bob Major in 1 hour and 5 minutes: Ogden Moores 1, William Berry (composer and conductor) 2, Thomas K. Driver 3, Alwyn Taylor 4, Tom A. Ogden 5, James Ogden 6, James H. Bastow 7, Abraham Ogden 8.

RESTORATION OF ANCIENT WARWICKSHIRE RING.'PLAINTIVE MELODY' OF CORLEY BELLS UNTOUCHED.

The village of Corley situated about four miles north-west of Coventry has an ancient church (dedication unknown) in the Norman and early decorated style with a small central tower of wood built in the roof and containing five bells, which were in an unsafe state for many years. The bells have now been rehung in a new steel frame and new fittings, and on Sunday, November 28th, at evening service, were rededicated by the Rev. E. G. Bowring, M.A., five members of the Warwickshire Guild ringing a plain course of Grandsire Doubles as an opening touch.

The Rector (the Rev. T. Goring) expressed his gratitude to all who had helped with the work.

After the service 120 of Grandsire Doubles was rung: C. H. Webb 1, M. C. Melville 2, J. W. Taylor 3, J. H. White (conductor) 4, W. A. Stote 5. A number of ringers were present, including the president of the N.U.T.S., who had arrived the previous day and had obtained a ladder to get on to the roof of the church to find his way to measure the tenor bell. He, however, found this a difficult job, as the bells are hung in the centre of the nave, and it is only by going through a small trap door in the roof of the nave that one can get to the bells. However, through the kindness of a well-known ringer, late of Croft, he found access on the Sunday afternoon.

The bells are inscribed:—

- 1.—1641 Hugh Watts.
- 2.—1410 John De Colsale.
- 3.—1702 H. Bagley. Recast by Taylor and Co. 1937.
- 4.—(Ancient bell founder unknown, no marks).
- 5.—1631 T. Hancox, Weight 5 cwt. 1 qr. 18 lb.

The work has been carried out by Messrs. J. Taylor and Co., of Loughborough, in their usual excellent manner. The firm was represented by Mr. J. P. Fidler.

The bells are a quaint ring not in perfect tune, but the architect requested that the 'quaint plaintive melody' of Corley bells remain unaltered.

SWANSEA RINGER'S DEATH.

At St. Mary's, Swansea, on Sunday, December 5th, as a last tribute to the memory of Mr. James Hoare, a ringer and chorister at this church, who passed away suddenly the previous week, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples (Reeves') was rung half-muffled by A. Edwards 1, J. Williams 2, Reg Dobbins 3, Haydn Dobbins 4, J. Hanson 5, W. Dobbins 6, A. W. Dobbins (conductor) 7, A. Rose 8. Ringers of 1 and 8 belong to Swansea, the rest to Gorseinon.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

Mr. Stephen Wood, of Bristol, is a 'colt' among 'ringers' in the 'Antient Guild of St. Stephen's Ringers' in that Antient City. The funny part about it is that Mr. Wood is the only member who knows anything about ringing, for he is the first practising ringer to be admitted since 1648!

The Antient Guild, which existed in Queen Elizabeth's time, and was granted a charter in 1620, has never ceased in its beneficent work of maintaining and beautifying the fabric of St. Stephen's Church and upholding the ordinances of its charter. Perhaps Mr. Wood can now induce some of the members to become interested in the art they have so long neglected.

Despite the proximity of a Surrey meeting at Betchworth (three miles away), the meeting of Leatherhead District of the Guildford Diocesan Guild attracted 35 ringers, and the ringing included courses in five Surprise methods as well as humbler stuff.

The only complaint about the 'clash' was from a ringer who, at 7 o'clock, learned of the Betchworth meeting for the first time and regretted he did not know of it earlier. He was promptly told to 'Take "The Ringing World,"'

The many friends of Mr. John H. Cheesman will be sorry to hear that he has had the misfortune to break an arm, and will wish him a speedy recovery. Mr. Cheesman is one of the best known North Kent ringers, and is one of the comparatively small number who have rung over a thousand peals.

The Hobart Holy Trinity Bellringers' Association have lost two of their members by removal to other parts of Tasmania. This is a serious blow to progress in a place where change ringing has as yet only a precarious existence.

Under the heading of 'Campanology,' the 'Henley Standard' of December 3rd complimented the Wargrave ringers upon a selection of hymn tunes given on the bells on the previous Sunday morning and evening and asked for more. 'There was a good attendance of ringers,' said the newspaper, 'and they are to be heartily complimented upon the able way in which they rang the bells.'

The ringers of the four towers in Oldham have decided to reform the Oldham and District Society. They will, of course, retain their membership of the Lancashire Association.

DEATH OF MR. A. T. BAKER.

'IRENÆUS PISTOR' PASSES ON.

Years ago, in the early days of 'The Ringing World,' there were frequent contributions by an anonymous correspondent, 'Irenæus Pistor,' who wielded a trenchant pen, and, with his somewhat cynical humour, added relish to many a discussion. It is long now since 'Irenæus Pistor' was able to write for this paper, for the terrible affliction of blindness overtook him. And now Alfred Townsend Baker is dead.

When Mr. Baker wrote for 'The Ringing World' he was living at Hillsborough, Sheffield, but when he was no longer able to work he removed to Ilkeston, Derbyshire. About two years ago he lost his wife after a long illness, and this was a severe blow to him.

On December 4th he had a seizure, and, without recovering consciousness, passed away in the early hours of December 7th, at the age of 60 years.

Through 'The Ringing World,' which was faithfully read to him week by week, Mr. Baker kept contact with what was happening in the Exercise and was always keenly interested in the doings of his friends. It seems strange that only the night before his attack his nephew finished reading 'The Nine Tailors' to him.

The funeral took place at Kirk Hallam Church on Thursday week. The sympathy of all will go out to Miss Muriel Baker, the only child, who is left to mourn her loss. She has been her father's constant companion and solace during his affliction.

The bells at St. Mary's Church, Ilkeston, were rung half-muffled for both services on Sunday as a mark of respect.

'BELLS OVER LONDON.'

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I read with some surprise Mr. P. W. Cave's letter in the current issue of 'The Ringing World,' and I suggest that it must have been written rather hastily or he would hardly have allowed himself to indulge in a personal attack on Mr. Roughton without, as he seems to admit, knowing much of the facts. His reference to the 'exclusiveness' of the College Youths is, according to my hearing, the exact opposite to the facts, for, as I heard Mr. Roughton, he emphasised that the College Youths were not exclusive, except only as regards the Sunday ringing at St. Paul's. I hardly think, too, that many will agree with his remark that Miss Dorothy Sayers (however clever her book) has done more for ringing than Mr. Roughton.

As to the withdrawal part of the business, I do not propose to enter into much discussion at the moment, as the matter appears to be 'sub judice,' but I would suggest that it would be more in accord with the best traditions of ringing if those who apparently disagree with Mr. Roughton were to withhold judgment until they have heard his side of the question; for I think that there is no one who has worked harder in the past on behalf of the College Youths, particularly in regard to broadcasting, than he has, and if and when the true facts appear, it may be realised that Mr. Roughton has not been too well treated.

December 10th, 1937.

'A COLLEGE YOUTH.'

NORTHFLEET'S YOUNG RINGERS.

BOYS AND GIRLS RECRUITED TO MAKE NEW BAND.

The shortage of ringers in many places is a source of serious concern to those who are responsible for maintaining service ringing. Nearly everywhere the cry is that there are so many counter-attractions in these days that young people will not give to ringing the time necessary to make themselves proficient—indeed, they will not come into the belfry at all.

This year at Northfleet it was decided to try to form a band of juniors, and the Vicar was approached regarding the choirboys and the girls of the Bible Class. At first two choirboys came along, but within two weeks there were 10 boys and girls on the register.

Great credit is due to Mr. George Bulcher, an enthusiast, whose activities are well known in North Kent. With one or two helpers he has put in an enormous amount of time teaching these youngsters, who now number twelve. It was a great day when, on the occasion of the dedication festival on October 10th, the juveniles rang entirely unaided as a band, their average age being under 14 years. Fifteen-year-old Phyllis Stacey rang the 16½ cwt. tenor. Service ringing is at present confined to well-struck 'Stoney.' The band is also making good progress with tune ringing on handbells, and the Vicar (the Rev. F. A. Page) is arranging for them to give a short programme of carols in church on December 26th.

[B. Marshall, Photographer, Gravesend.]

At Northfleet, Kent, however, a remarkably successful effort has been made to recruit the company with young people. During recent summers there was a decided slackness amongst members of the band. For about three months in the summer of last year no practice was possible, only two or three turning up; even Sunday service ringing was out of the question on some occasions. The neighbouring tower of Gravesend was in a similar plight, and eventually it was decided to have a combined practice, to be held on the usual practice night of the respective bands on alternate weeks. This, although of help to the enthusiasts, only gave the 'slackers' the opportunity of an excuse on the Gravesend night, in the winter months, and also did not solve the problem of Sunday service ringing.

Although the Vicar knew nothing of bells and ringing when he went to Northfleet three years ago, he has taken a deal of interest in the activities of the band and gives all the encouragement he can.

THE BELLS OF ST. GEORGE-IN-THE-EAST.

LONDON RECTOR'S APPEAL FOR HELP.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—As the 'History of the College Youths' mentions that, in the early days of hellinging, important peals were rung at the Parish Church of St. George-in-the-East, I should be most grateful if you will allow me to appeal to your readers and to all those interested in hellinging for their kind financial help to enable the eight bells of St. George-in-the-East to peal once again.

They are, and have been for some years, in a very bad state, and to put them into thorough ringing condition will cost £317. Towards this sum I have been promised £180, so that there is £137 still required. The parish of St. George-in-the-East is one of the poorest in East London, and our own people have done their best and have given all they can.

I do, therefore, ask—with confidence—for the assistance of any friends. All contributions should be addressed to the Rector, the Rectory, 16, Cannon Street Road, St. George-in-the-East, E.1, and an acknowledgment and a receipt will be sent to every kind donor.

R. BRUCE EADIE, Rector, St. George-in-the-East.

GLOUCESTER AND BRISTOL DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

The Cirencester Branch of the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association held its annual meeting at Cirencester on Saturday, December 4th. Although the weather conditions were very bad and most of the ringers had to come from some distance, the meeting proved very successful. The following towers were represented: Northleach, Chedworth, Lechlade, Maiscy Hampton, Fairford, South Cerney, Withington and Cirencester, and there were visitors from Christ Church and St. Mark's, Swindon, Faringdon and Rodbourne Cheney.

Tea at Messrs. Viner's Restaurant was followed by the business meeting, the Rev. N. E. Hope presiding.

The hon. treasurer's report for the year was considered very satisfactory.

The officers were elected for 1938 as follows: Chairman, the Rev. N. E. Hope; hon. secretary and treasurer, Mr. W. H. Hayward; member on Management Committee, Mr. J. Hope.

Watermoor bells were open in the afternoon and the Parish Church bells (12) during the evening. Methods rung ranged from Grandfire Triples to Bob Royal and some rounds on the twelve bells.

BRISTOL'S ANTIENT RINGERS' GUILD.

ELIZABETHAN SOCIETY HOLDS ITS FEAST.

Mr. S. H. Wood, First Ringing Member for Nearly 300 Years.

For the first time since the year 1648 the Antient Guild of St. Stephen's Ringers has a practising ringer among its members. The old Bristol organisation, founded under a charter of 1620, which exists to preserve the fabric of St. Stephen's Church, this year elected Mr. Stephen H. Wood as a 'colt' or 'apprentice.'

Queen Elizabeth extended her royal favour to the society, which, on the occasion of a visit which she paid to Bristol, gave her a welcome by the ringing of St. Stephen's bells. The charter was granted in the reign of her successor, and the Antient Guild still maintains some of the quaint customs of its early days.

Every year it holds an annual feast, at which its ordinances are solemnly read and a new Master installed in traditional manner by being carried to the chair.

But although ringing now forms no part of the Guild's activities, its work for St. Stephen's is of a very practical kind. For example since 1875 no less than £11,000 has been devoted to the restoration and enrichment of the church.

On the Sunday preceding the feast a service was held, in accordance with custom, in St. Stephen's Church. The Master (Mr. G. H. Boucher) presided at the annual dinner, which was attended by the Lord Mayor and Sheriff of Bristol, Lord Waldegrave and the Dean of Bristol.

The traditional toasts were honoured, that of 'The Antient Society of St. Stephen's Ringers and the Master' being proposed by the Lord Mayor.

The Master, in responding, said: 'Never has this society been regarded more highly in the public esteem than it is to-day. People do appreciate the honour of being one of the 100.'

During the last 20 years they had put the tower into first-rate order for a period, they were told, of 100 years. The very beautiful north porch was being put into perfect order and the vestries had been completely restored.

He was glad to say that the portion of the buildings now being demolished in Colston Avenue, adjoining the church, would be, by the goodness of the owners in conjunction with the city, set back some 16ft. so that people would be able to see the tower from the base right to the top so that the full glory of the tower would be exposed. The society would, he thought, be able to put the west end, which would be fully exposed, into good condition and to everyone's satisfaction.

Mr. Sidney Clifford (senior warden) proposed 'The Rector and Churchwardens of St. Stephen's Church,' and 'The Preacher of the Day.'

The Rev. S. E. Swann (Vicar of Redcliffe) replied. He said that St. Stephen's and St. Mary Redcliffe were closely associated in many ways. They had a ring of 12 bells at St. Mary Redcliffe for 40 years, but on all ceremonial occasions St. Stephen's ringers rang their peals, rang them well, and for which they were grateful. He confessed he would like to have his own band of ringers, and he ventured to suggest that some of the distinguished members of the society instead of continuing to be 'speculative' ringers might become active ringers.

The Master proposed the toast of 'The New Master and New Wardens.' In the traditional way the new master (Mr. Sidney Clifford) was installed by being carried to the chair. Mr. J. R. Ware was installed senior warden, and Mr. H. G. Treasure junior warden.

FALSE PEALS.

To the Editor.

Sir,—Mr. Kenneth Lewis, in his reply to me, has attempted to read into my letter something which was not intended to be there. I did not in any way impugn the honesty of any composer. A treasurer does not consider his honesty or integrity in any way questioned by having his account submitted to audit—on the contrary, he would probably insist on it. My suggestion was the pre-audit of peal figures.

It is a fact that practically all the peals withdrawn as false have been published. If they had not been published the error would probably not have been discovered. For instance, the records at Painswick and Southwark would probably still be accepted as true peals. Certain associations, e.g., Gloucester and Bristol, and Lincoln, always publish their peal figures. Why should not all do this?

The percentage of false peals to true is undoubtedly small, but there is a percentage of such false figures, and it is probably higher in unpublished figures than in published, since the figures by a known composer are given wider circulation than those by an unknown and usually find their way into print.

If the Central Council insist, as they rightly do, that false peals must be withdrawn, then they should insist that peal figures are made known or certified by some authorised body.

Mr. Lewis says this only interests a small section of the fraternity. It is of interest to every peal ringer—might I say of much more interest than, perhaps, hours of discussion over a word such as 'spiced.' But, of course, this was not a waste of valuable time.

I must apologise for again using your valuable space, but felt that I could not allow the accusation that I was questioning the good faith of any composer to go uncorrected.

J. K. ARMSTRONG.

TEACHING BEGINNERS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I was interested to read Mr. F. E. Dawe's letter in your issue of November 19th in which he points out that I had misunderstood the meaning of his previous letter.

It is quite true that he did not specifically mention my name or the article which I had contributed to your previous issue, but his letter appeared between two others which quite definitely did relate to my article, and I confess that this led me—and incidentally a good many others as well—to read his letter in a similar light.

However, Mr. Dawe has given his assurance that this was not his intention, and it appears, therefore, that I did him an injustice in including him in the remarks I felt bound to make regarding the tone of the letters concerned. If this is the case, I owe him an apology which I willingly make, because when I disagree with my elders—as disagree I must with Mr. Dawe on this subject—I would very much rather do so in an amicable spirit.

Turning now to the rest of Mr. Dawe's letter, I notice that he is of the opinion that the idea of starting beginners on even-bell methods emanates mainly from inexperienced members of the rising generation. I question whether this is so; in the first place, I would point out that it is possible to have had quite a lot of experience of instruction and still be a member of the younger generation; and in the second place I could tell Mr. Dawe of many ringers of all ages who share my views on this matter and who, moreover, put them into practice regularly—and successfully—with their pupils. If he will turn to your issue of October 22nd he will find a letter from your correspondent 'Interested' who states that he has had 44 years' experience—almost as long as Mr. Dawe himself—and 'strongly advocates starting beginners on the even-bell methods first.'

I am sorry if I appeared to speak slightly of old times, but possibly there is a little misunderstanding on Mr. Dawe's part here. What I intended to convey, was that views held 50 years ago should not necessarily be accepted without further argument to-day. There is much that can be said in favour of both systems of instruction, but they should be considered on their own merits, and irrespective of any bias towards one method simply because it was the usual practice two generations ago.

The opinions I have expressed are the results of my own practical experience—short though it has been—of both systems. The most astonishing statement in Mr. Dawe's letter is that in all his vast experience he has only come across three cases in which Plain Bob was used as the first method. In view of this I hope he will forgive my asking him (with all respect and in a perfectly friendly spirit) to consider carefully whether he is really qualified to judge between the respective merits of two systems of instruction, of one of which—on his own showing—he is almost completely ignorant.

STEPHEN H. WOOD.

SURREY ASSOCIATION.

SOUTHERN DISTRICT SECRETARY RETIRING.

A very successful quarterly meeting of the Southern District of the Surrey Association was held at Betchworth on Saturday, December 4th. As a meeting was being held at Dorking at the same time, some of the ringers were able to visit both towers in their 'flying squad' cars. Ringers were present from Reigate, Redhill, Mersham, Buckland, Lingfield, Horley, Betchingley, Crawley, Tunbridge Wells, Beddington, Croydon, Uckfield, Oxford and Thornton Heath.

Service was conducted by the Rev. E. H. Kennedy, who gave a warm welcome to the ringers to Betchworth. A very welcome tea was served at the Dolphin Inn, and afterwards the business meeting took place, the Master (Mr. D. K. C. Birt) presiding.

The hon. secretary (Mr. W. Claydon) referred to the death of Mr. Thomas Whitmore, of Horley, who passed away on October 22nd. The members expressed condolence with the relatives by standing for a few moments in silence.

It was proposed to attempt the next quarterly peal at Buckland, the conductor to be Mr. R. Fuller.

The secretary intimated that owing to pressure of business he would not seek re-election. He thanked everyone for the support they had given him. Several names were received for the secretaryship and committee. Election will be by ballot at the annual meeting, which will be held at Horley on Saturday, January 22nd.

The bells were kept going till 9 p.m., ringing ranging from Grand-sire Triples to Bristol Surprise Major.

BOURNEMOUTH'S NEW BELLS.

A quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples was rung on the new bells at St. Peter's, Bournemouth, by members of the Sunday service band on December 5th for a Confirmation service by the Lord Bishop of Southampton: H. Osborne 1, L. V. Davis 2, F. Frankland Rigby 3, H. Roberts 4, A. V. Davis (conductor) 5, C. E. Forfitt 6, P. W. Witham 7, H. Garrett 8.

The bells were dedicated on November 20th, and prior to this service and in honour of the occasion a touch of Grandsire Triples was rung at St. James Church, Poole.

It is hoped to hold a meeting of the Christchurch District of the Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild at Bournemouth early in the new year.

PEAL NOTES.

INTERESTING FACTS ABOUT PERFORMANCES AND RINGERS.

Some names given to methods sound, at first, a bit odd. To some people Boveney Surprise may be among them. But Boveney (pronounced Buveney) is an ancient parish near Windsor, and was adopted as a method name when first rung by the enterprising band whose activities centre round the royal borough.

The method is by George Baker and is a half-brother to Ashtead. It is, in fact, Ashtead without 7th's place. Only one peal had been rung before last Saturday, when the Guildford Guild (who rang the first peal of Ashtead) rang the second of Boveney at Ewell.

It provided another example of the vexed question of authorship of compositions. The 5,024 was an adaptation of half a peal of Double Norwich by George Williams. Can it be said that George Williams composed the peal? Boveney had never been heard of when he set down the figures to Double Norwich. Boveney has a 4th's place bob, while Double Norwich has a 6th's place bob; consequently the course ends are not the same. A bob at 5 in Double Norwich brings up the course end, a bob before in Boveney cuts it out. But the calling of the peal of Boveney was taken from George Williams' peal of Double Norwich. So what about it?

Alan Pink called both peals of Boveney, and in the two peals there have been 15 firsts in the method. Incidentally it was Mr. Pink's one hundredth peal as conductor, and these peals have been rung in a large number of methods—something like 25 Surprise methods among them. And here is another interesting point. With the exception of a peal of Edmonton Bob he has called a peal in every Major method he has rung.

A distinctly fine performance was put up by William G. Newberry in this peal. He came to ring the treble, but owing to the indisposition of one of the band a new trebleman had to be obtained (it was Mr. Arthur Hadley, who was for many years in charge of the tower at Arklow, Ireland), and Bill Newberry, with a knowledge of Ashtead, learnt the method in the tower before taking on the 7th.

Another ringer to score his one hundredth peal as conductor in recent days is Mr. William Barton, of Pudsey, who reached his century with a peal of Bob Major on handbells, rung on December 7th. It was a belated birthday compliment to Mr. P. J. Johnson, but this was the first opportunity of thus celebrating the natal anniversary of Yorkshire's former secretary.

EIGHTY AND STILL GOING STRONG.

A peal of Double Norwich Major was rung at North Stoneham on December 9th to celebrate the fortieth anniversary of the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Melville.

Mr. Melville was for many years a member of Holy Trinity, afterwards the Cathedral, band, Guildford, where he was steeplekeeper for a time. He was also a very active District Master of the Guildford Diocesan Guild.

Since his retirement from Messrs. Dennis Bros' motor factory, he has been living at King's Worthy, near Winchester. Since taking to a country life he seems to be growing younger, but he finds gardening on a chalky soil as hard as the work in a blacksmith's shop.

Mr. George Williams, who called this 'wedding peal' and reached a total of 1,450, must be the oldest active conductor. He was 80 in May, but he still keeps going, and since registering 'four score' has rung 28 peals and called about a dozen of them. He is one of the very few ringers who have conducted over a thousand peals.

Mr. John Stuart, an old member of the Gateshead band, whose death we recorded last week, was buried on November 29th, and a half-muffled peal was rung after the funeral. He was leader of the local company for many years and is deeply mourned.

The North Lincolnshire band, of which Mr. Jack Bray is a leading spirit, rang their first peal in seven Surprise Minor methods on December 7th. And it was, also, the first by the Northern Branch of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild. They rang the peal at Elsham as a birthday compliment and a farewell to the Vicar, who is leaving the parish.

A peal in seven Minor methods at Hope, Flintshire, on December 4th, marked the 17th anniversary of the bells, which were installed by Messrs. Taylor and Co. in 1920 and constitute the village war memorial.

The six bells at Beenham, Bucks, have recently been rehung, and the first peal on them since they were reopened was rung on December 6th by a local band, who are all ex-Service men. The peal consisted of three methods of Minor, two 720's each of Kent and Oxford and three of Plain Bob. The 720's were rung alternately.

Two sisters, the Misses W. E. and D. L. Ditcham, members of St. Giles', Norwich, tower, were among the three ringers who rang a peal of Double Norwich Major at the first attempt at St. Giles' Church on December 1st.

CANON HELMORE'S BIRTHDAY.

Mr. Thomas E. Sone, of Paddock Wood, Kent, on Saturday rang his one hundredth peal of Kent Treble Bob. This was at Aylesford, and he has now called a peal from all the bells in no fewer than six towers.

The peal was a birthday compliment to Canon F. J. O. Helmore, of Canterbury, who was hon. secretary of the Kent County Association for over 30 years. Canon Helmore is 86. A peal of Double Norwich in honour of the event on the preceding Saturday at New Romney unfortunately failed.

With the peal of Stedman Triples on December 8th, Mr. C. H. Perry has conducted peals from each bell at St. Illtyd's, Bridgend, and is believed to be the first to do so in any tower for the Llandaff and Monmouth Association. The variation of Brook's peal, which was the composition used, starts as suggested in 'The Ringing World' recently, with rounds the last row of the six.

To call a peal of Bob Royal on handbells from 3.4 as the first attempt at calling a peal of Royal is the notable performance of Derek Sharp, at Crayford. At the same time two other of the younger Crayford members, Teddy Barnett III. and Geoffrey V. Murphy, rang their fiftieth peal together.

Two peals of Yorkshire by the Yorkshire Association on the same day! It is another testimony to the growing popularity of this Surprise method. These two peals were rung on December 11th at Handsworth and Eckington.

After a peal in honour of the golden wedding of the Earl and Countess of Harrowby, at Stone, Staffs, on Saturday, the band were hospitably entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Willis Buckley.

Three sixteen-year-old ringers of St. Peter's Society, Burnham, took part in the first peal on the bells at Langley Marish, Bucks, on December 6th, when seven 720's of Minor in seven different methods were rung to mark the 25th year of the incumbency of the Rev. F. T. H. Shepherd, through whose generosity the bells were increased from five to six.

Of the three youths, John E. Taylor rang his 25th peal, and Bryan O'Neill his first peal in seven methods. The third, Martin Blamey, rang the treble.

The Rector of Alwalton, Hunts, where there is a ring of five bells, is anxious to stir the interest of the parishioners into forming a band of ringers. On December 4th, at his invitation, a visiting company rang a peal in five methods of Doubles as a piece of propaganda work, and afterwards were entertained to tea by the Rector (the Rev. E. G. Milnes). Visiting ringers are sure of a warm welcome at any time at Alwalton.

CORNWALL'S YOUNGEST CONDUCTOR.

A very young conductor called the peal of Doubles at Wendron, Cornwall, on December 4th. He celebrated his 12th birthday only the day before, and his performance was worthy of anyone much older in years and experience, as he only rang his first peal just twelve months ago. Since then, however, he has taken part in several, and is a very capable ringer of Grandsire Triples and Stedman—surely an achievement for a child.

In honour of the centenary of the College Youths, Lancashire members rang a peal of London Surprise at Westhoughton on December 4th.

What should have been a birthday peal at Holbrook, Suffolk, on December 3rd, was turned into a peal of mourning for the death of Brig.-Gen. E. Hunter Rodwell, churchwarden and an honorary member of the Suffolk Guild.

It was Ronald Steward's 17th birthday, but the muffles were put on and Doubles substituted for Minor. It was the first peal of Doubles by all the band.

It is of interest that Miss Sylvia Bowyer, who took part, has now rung peals on all numbers from Doubles to Maximus.

Three of the Sunday service ringers at Siltan took part on November 26th in the first peal on the five bells at this Dorset village. It was their first peal, too.

The first peal of Minor on the bells at Bodenham, Herefordshire, was rung as a 25th birthday compliment to Mr. Leslie Evans, one of the ringers.

A peal in two hours and fifteen minutes, even of Doubles, on a ring of six church bells is good going. At Rushall, Staffs, 42 six-scores of Stedman were rung in this time on December 9th. It was the quickest peal on the bells, the tenor of which is just under 7½ cwt.

The conductor, Mr. Frank E. Haynes, who is Ringing Master of St. Martin's Guild, has now called and Mr. D. T. Matkin has rung peals of Stedman from Cinques to Doubles. This peal, by the way, was rung for the Staffs Archaeocentry Society.

COMPOSED IN EGYPT.

Mr. Bernard Swinson, who resided for some years in Egypt, worked out while there a variation of Carter's odd hob one-part peal of Stedman Triples. It was called for the first time on December 9th by Mr. Maurice F. R. Hibbert at Bushey. Mr. Hibbert, like that other Maurice—Maurice Swinfield, of Burton—has a penchant for calling difficult peals.

The first peal of Major on the bells since they were restored was rung at Netherseale, Derbyshire, on December 4th.

The first peal on the six bells at Wheathampstead, Herts, since they were recast and rehung by Messrs. J. Taylor and Co. was rung on December 4th and was a birthday compliment to Mr. H. Golding, Miss Richardson and the conductor (Mr. Walter Ayre).

Messrs. C. V. Ebberson and Nolan Golden rang their fiftieth peal together when they took part in a peal of Minor in nine methods at Garveston, Norfolk, on December 9th (the first in more than one method on the bells) as a birthday compliment to Mr. John A. Godfrey, Ringing Master of the West Norfolk Branch of the Norwich Diocesan Association. It was the 80th tower in which Mr. Ebberson had rung a peal.

The new Vicar of Pytchley, Northants (the Rev. H. A. J. R. Norton) was welcomed with a peal of Doubles after his induction on December 4th. It was rung in five methods.

It did not take 3 hours and 50 minutes to ring the peal at Gorton, as recorded last week, but only 2 hours 50 minutes.

YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION. WESTERN DIVISION AT NORTHOWRAM.

In spite of the very wintry conditions which existed practically all over the country, the Western Division of the Yorkshire Association held a very well attended meeting at St. Matthew's, Northowram, on Saturday, December 11th. It speaks well for the enthusiasm of the members, when upwards of 60 attended from a very wide area. There had been a heavy fall of snow the previous evening, and on several days during the week, so that travelling facilities were not at their best.

The beautiful modern church was greatly admired, and a special item of interest was the 'Children's Corner.' The bells, which are a very musical ring of eight, were kept moving throughout the day in a large variety of methods, from call changes to Cambridge and Superlative Surprise. A very gratifying feature was the number of young ringers who were present—a good augury for the future.

A short service was held during the afternoon, and Canon Watkinson, in a most delightful and interesting address, welcomed the visitors to Northowram. He touched upon the many old customs of ringing from the most early times and concluded with an example of the early morning ringing on Easter Day—a custom which he hoped would never lapse.

A splendid tea was served in the Schools, and the business meeting followed, presided over by the vice-president (Mr. P. J. Johnson) and supported by Canon C. C. Marshall, M.A., and Canon Watkinson.

The Chairman intimated that the main business of the meeting was the appointment of a new member of the committee, the vacancy having been caused by the elevation of Mr. T. W. Strangeway to the Ringing Mastership. On the motion of Mr. John Ambler, supported by Mr. W. H. Senior, it was unanimously agreed that Mr. William Ambler, of Queensbury, be elected.

The vacancy on the General Committee of the association was filled by the appointment of Mr. Hy. Armitage, of Huddersfield.

Canon Marshall, in proposing a hearty vote of thanks to the Vicar and wardens for kindly granting the use of the bells, and for the splendid reception, especially thanked the Vicar for his most interesting address, which he was sure everyone had greatly appreciated. This was seconded by Mr. William Ambler and supported by the chairman.

Mr. H. Lofthouse, in a neatly worded speech, thanked the local company for their splendid arrangements, which he knew had not been accomplished without a great deal of thought and effort. This was seconded by the secretary, who included another unseen worker in the vote—the organist who so ably officiated at the service.

Mr. Albert Hancock replied for the local company, saying that they had all been pleased to welcome the association and would like to see them again whenever it was convenient.

Six new members were elected as follows: Frank Mosby, of Kildwick; C. Nichol and K. Dobson, of Northowram; Vernon Bottomley, of Halifax; Arnold Cole, of Hunslet; and Harry Lamb, of Sowerby.

After the meeting, the members inspected the new schools and then adjourned to the tower, where further ringing was enjoyed until after 9 o'clock. At this time it was still snowing heavily, but in spite of this various members were very reluctant to leave the village.

It is hoped to arrange the next meeting, which is the annual divisional meeting, in March next, at East Ardsley.

The towers represented at the meeting were as follows: Armley, Tatley, Bolton (Bradford), Brighouse, Denholme, Drighlington, Elland, Halifax (St. John's and All Souls'), Haworth, Headingley (St. Michael's and St. Chad's), Kirkburton, Leeds Parish Church, Idle, Pudsey, Queensbury, Rothwell, Ripponden, Shipley, Sowerby, Sherburn-in-Elmet and the local company.

TALGARTH RINGER'S EARLY DEATH.

It is with regret that we have to record the death on Wednesday, November 24th, of Mr. Stanley Charles Powell, at the early age of 32 years after only a short illness.

Deceased was a very faithful member of the Talgarth Church bell-ringers, always regular at practices and for Sunday service ringing. He had only rung two peals. In addition to being a bellringer, he was also a sidesman, a member of the Parochial Church Council and of the C.E.M.S.

The funeral took place on Saturday, November 27th, when there were between 300 and 400 people present. Mr. J. P. Hyett (district secretary) represented the Northern District of the Swansea and Brecon Guild, and Mr. M. T. Davies, who is a member of the Central Council of the C.E.M.S., represented the society. Deceased's fellow-bellringers, Messrs. D. H. Bennett, B. H. Davies, C. M. Davies, J. L. Gwynne, S. L. Speake and D. J. Griffiths, acted as bearers, the undertaker being Mr. W. D. Griffiths, who is also captain of the local ringers. Among the 65 wreaths from the family and friends was one from the bellringers, in the shape of a floral bell lying on its side.

After the service some six-scores of Grandsire Doubles and call changes with the bells half-muffled were rung as a last tribute of respect to one whose place will be hard to fill. On December 1st a half-muffled peal of Grandsire Doubles was rung as a last tribute of respect.

'BELLS' IN NEW ZEALAND.

DORKING CURATE DESCRIBES SUBSTITUTES.

In spite of the wintry weather, about 40 ringers put in an appearance at Dorking on Saturday week, when the Leatherhead District of the Guildford Diocesan Guild held the last meeting for the year, a welcome visitor being Mr. Alan Pink, from Hanwell, a former secretary of the district.

The Guild's service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. O. H. Hunt), assisted by his senior curate (the Rev. A. Dawson), and Mr. Coles, the organist. The address was given by the Rev. A. Dawson, who said he thought the bells of England were taken—almost subconsciously—as an accepted factor, and it was not until he went away to New Zealand that he realised what a real part they played in English life. He went on to describe some of the substitutes he found in the country districts out there, one place being well off with a set of iron bars of various lengths. It was not unusual, however, to hear an iron bedstead or an empty kerosene can being banged to signify that it was nearly time for service.

Tea was served in the Church Room, and, although there were home-made cakes, the party of 35 failed to finish the course. The Vicar was present and took the chair for the ensuing business meeting.

The retiring officers were all renominated, the names of Messrs. W. James and W. J. Whiting being added to the representatives on the General Executive Committee.

The district secretary (Mr. A. H. Smith) advised the members of the Guild's dinner on January 8th, and the meeting closed with a hearty vote of thanks to the Vicar for the service and use of the bells, also for presiding, and to the Rev. A. Dawson for an interesting and unusual address.

After an interlude with handbells, the tower bells were again made full use of until close on 9 o'clock. The variety of methods ranged from rounds, through Triples, Plain Bob, Double Norwich, Oxford and Kent Treble Bob to Cambridge, Superlative, London, Bristol and Yorkshire Surprise.

LADIES' GUILD.

SUCCESSFUL MEETING IN BRISTOL.

A very successful meeting of the Western District of the Ladies' Guild was held at the Parish Church, Clifton, on December 11th. The attendance was good, members being present from Bath, Bristol, Abbotsleigh, Duffield, Mangotsfield, Portishead, Stoke Gifford, Westerleigh and Wrington. Touches of Grandsire, Stedman and Plain Bob were rung during the afternoon. The service was conducted by the Vicar, who extended a hearty welcome to the Guild.

Thirty-two members and friends assembled afterwards in the Parish Hall, where Mrs. Gregory had provided an excellent tea. This was followed by the business meeting, Mrs. Edwards, the vice-president, being in the chair. Miss Violet Smith, of Westerleigh, was elected a member of the Guild, and Mangotsfield was chosen for the next meeting, to be held on the second Saturday in March.

At the conclusion of tea a hearty vote of thanks was passed to the Vicar for the use of the bells, to Mr. Hedley Gregory for playing the organ, to Mrs. Gregory for providing the tea, and to those members of the local band who had kindly made all the necessary arrangements for the meeting.

A disappointment was experienced after tea. It had been arranged to ring at St. Mary-le-Port in the evening, but on arrival at the church it was discovered that one of the bells was out of order and ringing impossible. After various efforts had been made to secure another tower, Miss Annie Brown came to the rescue and carried off a large party to ring at St. Philip's, where they spent a very happy hour, and rang, among other things, a nice course of Cambridge.

BRAINTREE VETERAN.

For over 50 years Mr. H. E. Hammond has been a Sunday service ringer at St. Michael's, Braintree. On Saturday he celebrated his 72nd birthday, and in honour of the event a quarter-peal of Superlative Surprise Major was rung for morning service on Sunday: S. Warne 1, B. Redgewell 2, H. Hammond 3, R. Martin 4, G. Lindridge 5, H. Felton 6, L. Wiffen 7, A. Wiffen 8. In spite of his age, Mr. Hammond is still the 'life' of the Braintree company, and his 'striking' is as near perfect as possible. He is an old member of the College Youths.

NORTON RECTOR'S SILVER WEDDING.

After an unsuccessful attempt for a peal at St. James' Church, Norton, near Sheffield, on November 27th, to celebrate the silver wedding of the Rector (the Rev. J. S. Pegge), a quarter-peal of Bob Major was rung by S. Briggs 1, J. Moss 2, J. E. Turley 3, J. Sykes 4, R. Payne 5, A. Gill 6, J. J. L. Gilbert 7, N. Chaddock (conductor) 8.

MUFFLED BELLS.

At St. John the Baptist's, Aldenham, on Sunday, December 12th, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples was rung with the bells half-muffled to the memory of Miss Ellis, for many years connected with the church: G. J. Bishop 1, H. J. Wright 2, S. Jones 3, C. Evans 4, C. H. Horton (conductor) 5, W. Inwood 6, W. Giles 7, V. Lawrence 8.

A DOUBLE BAND FOR SUNDAY SERVICE RINGING.

ROCK FERRY'S EXAMPLE.

On Sunday week two 720's of Minor were rung at St. Peter's Church, Rock Ferry, by two entirely separate bands and all are members of Rock Ferry tower, five of them having commenced to learn only in March of this year.

Six of the band, whose average is 15½ years, are members of the choir, whilst two others are ex-choirboys. Two more are learning, making a total of 14, and on practice nights it is usual to have at least 16 in the tower at once, but everyone gets a fair share of the ringing. During this year 720's in 27 methods have been rung, including 24 Surprise methods.

Sunday's 720's were as follow: For morning service, 720 Cambridge Surprise: W. J. Williams 1, D. Parry 2, Mrs. M. Poole 3, J. Leslie 4, A. V. Andrews 5, W. Dean (conductor) 6. For evening service, 720 of Kent Treble Bob: H. Andrew 1, J. H. Cooke 2, C. O. Eulse (first 720 of Treble Bob) 3, A. J. Martin 4, J. Cooke (conductor) 5, F. T. Perry 6.

ROYAL CUMBERLAND YOUTHS.

MEETING AT SOUTHWARK.

A quarterly meeting of the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths was held at St. George the Martyr, Southwark, on November 20th and was attended by about 25 members and friends, chiefly from the London area.

Ringling took place during the afternoon on the recently retuned and rehung peal of eight, and ranged from rounds to Double Norwich and Superlative Surprise.

A shortened form of evensong was conducted by the Rector, the Rev. Cooke, and was followed by tea at the Express Dairy, London Bridge. The Rector also presided at tea, and those present were entertained by a course of Grandsire Caters on Mr. C. W. Taylor's excellent peal of handbells.

The business meeting was held in the vestry, the Master (Mr. G. H. Cross) taking the chair.

The elections of two new members prior to a peal were ratified.

It was decided to hold a dinner early in 1938 on the lines of that held in March, 1937, and the third Saturday in March was put forward as a suitable date.

The Master referred to the passing of the Rev. 'Dick' Sheppard, mentioning that he was a member of the society. The meeting stood in silence for a few moments as a tribute of respect.

A hearty vote of thanks was accorded to the Rector for granting permission to ring and for conducting the service, and also to Mr. W. Bottrill for his assistance in making arrangements.

Upon returning to the tower, further ringing was indulged in, methods to suit all being rung until 9 o'clock, when the bells were lowered in peal.

DON'T SCRUB YOUR HANDS!

skin this simple way*

To many people, the problem of getting the hands really clean without harming the skin is a serious one. Grease and grime, which become deeply ingrained into the pores of the skin, are extremely difficult to remove, and ordinary washing with soap or even scrubbing will fail to remove them completely. Housewives, particularly, who complain that their hands get ruined by the nature of their work, will find the preparation called DERMAFOAM, a real "godsend." DERMAFOAM just smoothes away dirt and grease without effort. It gets right down into the pores and removes every particle of grime, leaving skin beautifully supple and healthy.

Men, too—when you've finished that dirty job on the car, DERMAFOAM will quickly banish all grease and oil from your hands. It acts almost magically—working under and around the nails and into every minute crease, removing all trace of dirt in a flash.

Engineers, Painters, Car Mechanics, Printers — everyone — will welcome DERMAFOAM, the modern method of cleansing and protecting the hands.

LANCASHIRE ASSOCIATION'S MEMBERSHIP.

The annual report of the Lancashire Association, which has just been published, states that the subscriptions received from ringing members in the past year account for only 718 out of the 1,122 on the roll, that 87 are two years in arrear, and that 54 have been crossed off. Knowing something of the work which is put into the association by its officials, this seems to us a rather lamentable state of affairs. Making every allowance for financial stringency among members in an industrial area like Lancashire, that more than one-third should be in arrears with their subscriptions points to a lack of appreciation of the relation which the members hold to the association. No wonder, therefore, that the committee appeal to all the members to be loyal to this side of the association's work.

In these days the banding together of ringers into associations for the promotion of their art and interests is so well established, that no one questions the necessity of it or the advantages to be derived. The growth of ringing to its present standard and the level of recognition which ringers have attained has been largely due to the organisation of the belfry personnel into a wider union than merely local bands, giving an impetus to the art and a higher conception of the ringers' duties both on the part of the ringers themselves and of the Church authorities. Without the associations the fabric of the Exercise would quickly crumble, but they can only exist by the support of the individuals. In every instance, of course, it is the enthusiasts who bear the brunt of the task and very largely carry the organisation to whatever success it may attain. And this is done often in the face of many discouragements.

Not everyone, perhaps, has the opportunity to put into a cause the energy which others are able to exert, but every ringer should feel it a duty to do the least that is required of him—pay his small annual subscription promptly. It may be that in many cases failure to do so is just negligence, but that does not make it any easier for the officers to carry on their work, and when the proportion of subscriptions left unpaid is as large as that in the Lancashire Association it becomes a severe handicap to the activities of the organisation. The 'defaulters' continue to enjoy all the privileges of membership, but do not contribute their share to the funds—and the individual subscription is such a small share, too. It should be a matter of honour among ringers, not only in Lancashire but everywhere, to pay their dues promptly, as it is only by their so doing that the organisation can be kept efficient and carry on the work which it exists to perform.

ESSEX ASSOCIATION.

SOUTH-EASTERN DIVISION OFFICERS RE-ELECTED.

The annual meeting of the South-Eastern Division of the Essex Association, which was held at Writtle, was a very successful and pleasant gathering, there being present 55 ringers from 18 towers. Good use was made of the bells during the afternoon and evening in a variety of methods, including rounds for the beginners.

The Vicar (the Rev. J. H. Upton) conducted the association form of service, and at the commencement of a very encouraging address warmly welcomed the ringers to Writtle. He trusted that the temperature of the church (the heating apparatus having broken down) would not be taken as a sample of the welcome.

The singing of the hymns was lead by the deputy organist, and the lesson read by the hon. secretary (Mr. H. W. Shadrack).

After a very welcome tea at the Rose and Crown, the business meeting was presided over by the Vicar.

The hon. secretary reported that during the year two members had passed away, Mr. W. Sharlington, of Galleywood, and Mr. A. G. Maskell, an hon. member, of Chelmsford. Nine ringing and one honorary member had been elected, and five meetings had been held with an average attendance of 32, this representing 16 towers in the division and visitors from 16 other towers. Fifteen peals had been rung, the methods being Superlative, Cambridge Surprise, Double Norwich, St. Clement's, Plain Bob Major, Stedman and Grand sire Triples, 1 each; Kent Treble Bob Major, 5; Oxford Treble Bob Major, 2; and Minor in four methods, 1. The conductors were G. Green, L. J. Clark and P. Green, 3 each; H. Edwards, 2; W. Keeble, E. P. Duffield, E. Kemp and H. Mansfield, 1 each. Five members had rung their first peal, 28 their first in the method, and two their first as conductor in the method. The peal of St. Clement's Major was the first in the method for the association.

In conclusion, the hon. secretary thanked the Divisional Master and hon. general secretary for their help and assistance, and the tower masters and secretaries and all those who had helped at and attended the meetings and made them successful.

Mr. H. Mansfield was re-elected Divisional Master, and Mr. H. W. Shadrack re-elected hon. secretary.

Four ringing members were elected, C. F. Jaguard, of Boreham, E. Clark and D. A. Symons, of Chelmsford, and A. Hubble, of All Saints', Maldon.

It was decided, subject to permission being granted, to hold the next meeting at Broomfield on February 12th.

The visitors were welcomed by the Divisional Master (Mr. H. Mansfield), and the Master (Dr. P. T. Spencer-Phillips) thanked the Vicar for the use of the bells and for his address, the organist and organ blower, and Mr. T. Lincoln for making the arrangements for tea. The towers represented were Great Baddow, Boreham, Broomfield, Chelmsford, Danbury, Goldhanger, Maldon, Rettenden, Springfield, Little Waltham, Widford and Writtle, and visitors were present from Sudbury, Braintree, Halsted, Sible Hedingham, Bocking and Harlow Common.

'BELLS OVER LONDON.'

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—With reference to the letter signed by P. W. Cave, Mr. Roughton, or anybody else for that matter, has a perfect right to collaborate in a broadcast on the Ancient Society of College Youths, and he has an equal right to withdraw from it if he wishes to do so. Such an arrangement is an entirely private affair between Mr. Roughton and the B.B.C., and is for them, and them only, to agree or quarrel about as they choose. It would be different if Mr. Roughton had been nominated as the society's spokesman and had been instructed to withdraw on their behalf, but this is not so and there should be no misunderstanding as to the rights of the individual in these circumstances.

If Mr. Cave thinks deeply enough he will find that the most deplorable aspects of the whole thing are, firstly, the failure of the B.B.C. to obtain agreement with participants before publishing their programmes; secondly, the readiness of the daily Press to disseminate private differences, and, thirdly, the readiness of some individuals to make mountains out of molehills, especially when concerning themselves over business which is in no way their own. It is very difficult also to see what earthly good can come from making spiteful personal references to the individuals concerned. Clear thinking and considered speaking are indeed virtues.

Also your correspondent, Mr. W. A. Birmingham, seems to be making over much of Mr. Lewis' references to the Leander R.C. and the M.C.C. It must have been obvious to most people that our president was trying to illustrate the fact that ringers value membership of the A.S.C.Y. on account of its history and traditions. He said nothing to indicate superiority as such, and, indeed, I cannot see how any one of a number of well-organised associations can, of itself only, possess superiority over the others. It is traditions that impart a degree of distinction, and Mr. Lewis is fully justified in trying to point out to his audience that the A.S.C.Y. possesses them.

SWANSEA AND BRECON GUILD. SUCCESSFUL MEETING AT ABERAVON.

The annual district meeting of the Swansea and Brecon Guild was held at Aberavon, when about 40 members attended. The eight bells were raised in peal and then a touch of Stedman Triples was followed, with further ringing. Service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. W. H. Jones), assisted by the curate (the Rev. G. T. Vadden). Mr. H. Cound presided at the organ. Tea, in the Schoolroom, had been kindly provided by the churchwardens and a few ladies of the church, who also waited at the tables.

The Vicar presided at the meeting, at which a vote of condolence was passed by the members standing in silence with the relatives of two members who have recently passed away, Mr. H. Morse (Sketty) and Mr. J. A. Hoare (Swansea), also with the secretary on the death of his father.

Mr. E. Stith was re-elected district secretary, Mr. D. Williams was elected auditor, and Swansea was chosen for the next meeting in March.

One new life member was elected and a few new members elected for 1938.

A hearty welcome was extended to all the visitors who were present, and votes of thanks were accorded with acclamation to the Vicar, curate, churchwardens, ladies and the organist.

Ringling was afterwards carried on till about 8.30, when the bells were lowered in peal, thus bringing to a close one of the best attended meetings of the district.

SUSSEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

A meeting of the Eastern Division of the Sussex County Association was held at Christ Church, Blacklands, Hastings, on Saturday, December 4th, when members attended from Battle, Brede, Heathfield, Eastbourne (St. Saviour's), Hailsham, Northiam, Hastings (St. Clement's and Christ Church). The Rev. F. Ll. Edwards, hon. secretary of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild, Mr. W. Haigh, of Etchingham, and Mr. Piper, of Eastbourne, were also present. Good ringing practice was put in during the afternoon and evening.

The service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. James Morgan), who gave a most interesting address on bells and ringers.

The Rev. F. Ll. Edwards presided at the tea and business meeting which followed, and was elected a non-resident life member. Mr. A. H. Kemp, of Northiam, was also made a member.

Mr. A. C. Pankhurst (hon. secretary) proposed a hearty vote of thanks to the Vicar for the use of the bells, to the Rev. F. Ll. Edwards for presiding, and also to Mr. Piper for bearing the cost of the tea. The members then returned to the tower and kept the bells going until 8 o'clock.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

The South and West District of the Middlesex County Association and London Diocesan Guild held its final meeting of the year at Uxbridge on Saturday, December 11th. Conditions and circumstances indicated a good meeting, for the weather was kind and there was no competition from similar events! The attendance, however, was disappointing, the total not exceeding 25. Ringing at St. John's, Hillingdon, in the afternoon included Grandsire and Stedman Caters, while later, at St. Andrew's Church, a little more variety was obtained when only an octave was in use.

Evensong was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. R. Home). During the service a brief pause for silent prayer was made when the congregation were asked to remember three members of the association who had died recently—Edward Cornwall Jones, priest, Henry Folkard and James Lucas. The first named was an hon. member and Vicar of Ruislip. He was present at the association meeting held at his tower in September. He had been in indifferent health for some time, but his decease came on November 13th, after only a short period in a nursing home.

After tea, the quarterly business was quickly completed. Notice was given of the sixth annual supper and social to be held at Heston on Saturday, January 22nd, while the district annual general meeting would be held at the same place on February 12th. It was decided to hold the meeting in March at St. Mary's, Ealing, probably on the 12th.

Before returning to the tower, several touches were rung on handbells.

Tickets for the supper are now on sale, price 3s. 6d. each, and may be obtained from association officers.

GLOUCESTER AND BRISTOL DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

SWINDON BRANCH.

The annual meeting of the Swindon Branch of the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association was held at Christ Church, Swindon, on Saturday, December 11th, when good use was made of the ten bells in ringing, ranging from rounds to Kent Treble Bob Doyal.

A short service was conducted by the Rev. L. Colledge, and Mr. W. H. Truman presided at the business meeting, at which all the officers were re-elected. No meeting was fixed for January, while Blunsdon and Rodbourne Cheney were the towers proposed for February and March respectively.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

We extend our heartiest greetings to all our friends and wish them sincerely 'A merry Christmas.'

There is talk of yet another peal being increased to twelve. Efforts are being made at Beddington, Surrey, to get permission to add two trebles to the existing peal of ten. The tenor at Beddington is 18½ cwt.

The annual report of the Lancashire Association for 1936-37 has just been issued. It covers nearly 90 pages.

Broadcasting from Croydon Parish Church will be resumed in January. On the first Sunday in alternate months the bells will be heard on the National long wavelength, at 9.25 a.m. In the alternate month, the bells of Lichfield Cathedral will be heard prior to service. Dr. Woods, who, as Bishop of Croydon, formerly conducted the services at his Parish Church, is now Bishop of Lichfield.

A RINGER IN INDIA.

GOOD WISHES FROM KASHMIR.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I once again wish you and all readers 'a merry Christmas and a prosperous New Year.' I also hope to hear over the 'air' some good 'striking' at Christmastide. How homely bells do sound to us so far away!

I have enclosed a few photos that I hope may interest you. I often think how W.H.F. would love to unearth some of the mysteries these old places must hide. I often delve deep to find that my search is in vain for 'Invincible Peal Shoes'!

I have tried to get information re bells from Burmah, Tibet, Russian and Chinese Turkestan, etc. Hindus have given me information, obtained from their priests, where to get information. I have sent stamped addressed reply envelopes without any result whatsoever.

Not having seen, as yet, any replies to 'Ringer's Wife,' my advice to her would be, 'Learn to ring and so keep your husband company.' I fail to see where one can complain of man having his few hours' ringing. He certainly is safe and in good company. Three weeks ago I had to leave my wife and children for a journey over dangerous mountain roads, as I often have to, but never a word of complaint. I returned to find my house cracked and cornices fallen down by a terrible earth-shake. How 'Ringers' Wives' can differ is evident to me.

I fail to see how some correspondents in their letters advance the art of ringing. Constructive criticism helps, but when it comes to throwing mud at each other it leads nowhere. Possibly 'Francis Bacon' has met this type of ringer, as he seems to have caught a swarm in his net. His opinion as to ringers is the opposite to that of

LEONARD H. BAYBUT.

[The photographs which Mr. Baybut has so kindly sent us include pictures of the mountainous country in Northern India and of the ruins of ancient temples.—Editor, 'Ringing World'.]

NEARLY, BUT NOT QUITE.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—Whilst not wishing, even in the smallest degree, to depreciate what 'C.L.G.' writes in to-day's issue of your paper about ringing at St. Andrew's, Plymouth, I feel that it is only doing justice to my own band to point out that the peal at St. Andrew's was not 'the only peal rung in Devon for the Coronation,' seeing that on Coronation Day we scored the first local peal of Minor ever rung on the bells. With reference to the further remark that 'Mr. Myers . . . has now under his charge the most progressive band in the county who can ring Surprise methods for Sunday service,' my band—all the members of which live within the ecclesiastical parish of about 280 people—has just scored its first 360 of Cambridge Surprise Minor, and has recently rung this method for Sunday services. We do not claim to be more progressive than St. Andrew's, but we would like to feel that we were allowed to share with St. Andrew's this progressive spirit, which I sincerely hope may spread in the county. Already there are signs of this spirit in a few other towers.

May I conclude my letter by bearing my testimony to the magnificent work which Mr. G. H. Myers has been doing, in the cause of change ringing, for so many years, and place on record the esteem in which he is held by all members of our Guild.

A DATE TOUCH MIXTURE.

At All Saints' Church, Rettendon, on December 13th, a date touch was rung in 1 hour 7 minutes. It consisted of 359 of Cambridge Surprise, 432 of Woodbine Treble Bob, 240 of College Exercise, 288 of Kent, 288 of Oxford Treble Bob, 240 of Plain Bob, 60 of Double Court and 30 of Grandsire Doubles: Frank C. May (composer and conductor) 1, Harry Jay 2, William May 3, Gerald Frost 4, Charles Jay 5, Frank Jay 6.

DEATH OF MR. JOSEPH J. PARKER. A GREAT COMPOSER.

We much regret to record the death of Mr. Joseph J. Parker, of Farnham Royal, Bucks, who, after having been in failing health for some time, passed away early on Tuesday morning at the advanced age of 84 years.

To the present generation his name is chiefly associated with the famous Twelve-part peal of Grandsire Triples, which has become something of a classic, and, for its simplicity and symmetrical qualities, has gained a popularity among conductors unequalled by any other peal in the method.

Joseph J. Parker was one of the little group of men who, fifty or sixty years ago, seriously set their minds to the then unsolved problems of composition. His work was contemporary with that of men like C. D. P. Davies, Arthur Heywood, A. B. Carpenter and Earle Bulwer, whose researches were laying the foundation upon which much present-day knowledge is based.

Mr. Parker devoted himself principally to Triples methods—the most difficult of all in which to get true peals—and he produced compositions in Grandsire, Stedman, Oxford Bob, Court Bob and Union. Because of their more general practice his peals of Grandsire and Stedman are best known, and, indeed, his work in both these methods won high praise from the composers and writers of that time. They showed an unexcelled insight into the subject and an unsurpassed ingenuity of construction. Mr. Parker has left a legacy to the Exercise the value of which it is impossible to over-estimate.

His services to practical ringing were also great. Attached all his life to Farnham Royal Church, he not only kept a band going in his own tower, but went far and wide teaching change ringing at a time when pioneer work was an uphill struggle. He was one of the founders of the Oxford Diocesan Guild, served on its committee and was one of its most esteemed members.

He was devoted to his Parish Church, and, in addition to being the leader of the belfry for many, many years, sang in the choir for forty years. Ill-health and the increasing infirmity of age kept him from his beloved bells for about three years, but his interest in ringing was sustained to the end.

The funeral took place at Farnham Royal yesterday (Thursday).

OLDHAM AND DISTRICT SOCIETY REVIVED. FOUR TOWERS' ACTION.

As was briefly mentioned in our last issue, the four towers in Oldham have resuscitated the Oldham and District Society. Ringers of the four belfries held a meeting on December 10th at Whitehead's Cafe, and after discussion decided to take the necessary action to re-form the society.

The meeting was presided over by the Vicar of St. Mark's, Glodwick, and was well attended. In the effort that is being made the clergy are behind the project; in fact, they were the instigators of the meeting, to see if there could be some means of improvement in the social side of ringing, by bringing the ringers together more often. It is hoped, by making a push in that direction, also to improve the ringing capabilities of the members, thus making for individual progress, team spirit and service. Membership of the Lancashire Association will still be retained.

Mr. Ogden Moores, of 31, Ronald Street, Clarksfield, Oldham, is the hon. secretary of the revived society, which includes the towers of St. Mary's (12 bells), and Glodwick, Leesfield and Moerside (each 8 bells).

MUFFLED BELLS.

At SS. Peter and Paul's Church, Lavenham, Suffolk, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples (1,260 changes): M. T. Symonds 1, L. Poulson 2, W. Faiers 3, L. Pryke 4, F. Boreham 5, J. Offord 6, W. R. J. Poulson 7, S. H. Symonds (conductor) 8. Rung with the bells half-muffled as a mark of respect to the late Mrs. B. Lennox-Conyngham, widow of the late Rector, the Rev. G. Lennox-Conyngham.

MR. JOSEPH J. PARKER.

DEATH OF MR. JAMES DOWLER.

OLD SELLY OAK RINGER.

It is with regret that we have to record the death on Friday, December 17th, of Mr. Ernest James Dowler, of Selly Oak, Birmingham.

'Jimmy' Dowler commenced his ringing at St. Mary's, Selly Oak, in 1884, on the old peal of six, and was an active member of St. Mary's Guild up to 1922, when ringing was stopped at St. Mary's Church owing to the tower being reported unsafe. Some time after this his health began to fail, and, in consequence, he had been absent from ringing circles for the last few years, although he has made one or two appearances since the bolls and tower were restored.

He has rung peals in all the standard methods from Grandsire to London Surprise. He had occupied the position of Ringing Master at Selly Oak, and was for some time secretary of the Northern Branch of the Worcestershire Association, retiring from this latter office in 1919.

In addition to a half-muffled peal of London Surprise Major rung at Selly Oak on December 18th, there was rung at the same church on Sunday, December 19th, for evensong, also half-muffled, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples by C. H. Stanley 1, J. L. Boylin 2, H. Haslam 3, William B. Cartwright (conductor) 4, N. J. Goodman 5, Harry Withers (composer) 6, V. G. H. Hemus 7, Ed. Holt 8. (This quarter-peal starts at backstroke, i.e., with the 3rd in the hunt and the 2nd making 3rd's.)

RINGERS' TRIBUTE TO LATE MAYOR.

NORTHAMPTON LOSES CHIEF MAGISTRATE.

On Tuesday, November 9th, at the Guildhall, Northampton, Alderman J. V. Collier, J.P., was elected Mayor of that borough for the succeeding twelve months. Suddenly within 34 days of his installation he was taken ill and died. Mr. Collier, who was 67 years of age, was the principal of a firm of engineers and ironfounders. He was interred on Thursday, December 16th, in the family grave at Duston, Northampton; the funeral being attended by the civic authorities amidst many impressive scenes. As the family mourners left the graveside, the following rang a quarter-peal of Doubles, 1,260 changes (comprising 720 of Grandsire and 540 of Plain Bob), upon the Duston Parish Church bells, with half-muffled clappers: F. Burgess 1, P. Amos 2, J. Dunkley 3, J. Clifton (conductor) 4, G. E. Perkins 5, D. Lovell 6.

It is sad to relate that only nine days before the tragic occurrence Mr. P. Amos paid a personal visit to His Worship, at the latter's home, for the purpose of soliciting his support towards the fund for the new bells for St. Andrew's Church, Northampton—the scheme for which Mr. Amos has initiated and had the satisfaction of seeing adopted by the Church Council. Mention had been made of inviting His Worship to give one of the new bells to commemorate his year of office. For many years Mr. Collier represented the ward in which St. Andrew's Church is situated on the Town Council. Of recent years tragedy has seemed to overhang the Mayoralty in Northampton. In 1933 the then Mayor (Councillor Percy F. Hanafy) collapsed and died while at a public function five months after taking office, and in 1931 a deputy was called upon to take the office of one who had been selected as Mayor and died a few days before his formal election.

ST. STEPHEN'S GUILD, BRISTOL.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—In the interests of historical truth, it would be a good thing if we were told what authority there is for the statements made in your last issue. I should think that it is extremely unlikely that the society severed its connection with the belfry so long ago as 1648, and the legend that it was founded by a charter promised by Elizabeth and granted by James I. is based, I believe, on no sounder foundation than some man's fancy. At any rate, there is no record among the patent rolls of any such charter having been granted.

I possess a notebook written by Osborn in which is the following entry: 'Queen Elizabeth arrived at Bristol on Saty Augt 14 1574 and the St. Stephen's Bells were rung to congratulate her on her arrival, for which she promised the ringers a charter web was afterwards granted by James 1st bearing date 17 Novr 1620. She was reed by John Young, the then Mayor of Bristol (afterwards Sir John Young)—he resided at St. Augustine's back Bristol.'

This has all the appearance of being fiction founded on fact. Why should Elizabeth reward the ringers? It was an understood thing that, wherever she went, the bells should be rung. If they were not the parish was fined.

The last occasion I know of on which a parish was fined for not ringing for royalty was at Twickenham in 1647. Readers who have studied seventeenth century history will realise the significance of the date. The King at the time was a prisoner and was passing by under escort.

Probably the so-called 'charter' was really the code of rules, which the St. Stephen's company, like the other societies of the time, drew up to regulate their proceedings. There is nothing unique about them.

A RESTORED CHESHIRE RING. HALLOWING OF CHEADLE BELLS.

In February last, it was decided to cease ringing the peal of eight at St. Mary's Church, Cheadle, Cheshire, in consequence of their dangerous condition. Estimates were obtained for a complete restoration, and Messrs. Gillett and Johnston were entrusted with the contract. The work was made possible by the munificent offer of Mr. Percy H. Shiers, of Brookfield, Cheadle, to defray the entire cost in memory of his wife, Hilda Shiers, who died in March, 1937.

The popular Rector, the Rev. W. J. Wilkinson, M.A., does nothing by halves. This was demonstrated when the bells were reopened by a whole week-end of thanksgiving. Saturday was given over as a ringers' day, when upwards of 40 stalwarts from various towers in the district foregathered at Cheadle. The number would undoubtedly have been considerably greater but for the coincidence of the jubilee dinner of the Chester Diocesan Guild occurring on the same day.

The ceremonies opened on Saturday afternoon with a few rounds by the local band, led by Mr. A. Carr, who has recently been presented with an illuminated address by the parish in recognition of his 50 years of service as a ringer.

Following short touches, which included two well-struck courses of Stedman Triples, a special service for ringers was held in the church, a great number of the parishioners also attending. The sermon was preached by the Rev. R. D. Humphries, Rural Dean of Stockport and Vicar of Norbury, who took as his text 'In that day there shall be upon the bells holiness unto the Lord,' from the book of Zachariah.

After the service full justice was done to an excellent tea provided in the Church Hall, Mr. W. Wolstencroft expressing thanks on behalf of those present to the Rector and his people. Ringing was then resumed and continued until a late hour.

On Sunday morning the hallowing and rededication was performed by the Ven. Archdeacon of Macclesfield, Canon J. H. Armitstead, M.A., assisted by the Rector.

The Archdeacon, clergy and churchwardens proceeded to the tower for the ceremony, at the conclusion of which the bells were rung in rounds by the local band: A. Cailins 1, H. Cook 2, L. Burrows 3, H. Claydon 4, P. Cook 5, A. Mulliner 6, F. Carr 7, A. Carr 8.

The Archdeacon, addressing the crowded congregation, told of the uses of bells and their importance to the Church. He further said that the people of Cheadle were indebted to Almighty God for putting the thought into the mind of Mr. Shiers to restore their bells in memory of his wife. He could think, he said, of no better form of memorial, and on behalf of the parish he thanked Mr. Shiers, who was present, for his generosity.

At the evening service another large congregation listened to a most interesting talk on bells, given by the Rev. F. H. Gibbs, B.A., Rector of Christ Church, Salford. Mr. Gibbs, who is himself a ringer, naturally gave a most able exposition of the arts of bell founding and bell ringing.

The bells were set going again after the service, the Rev. Gibbs himself taking part, thus happily concluding an interesting week-end.

Mr. S. Roper, who represented Messrs. Gillett and Johnston, was heartily congratulated on all sides on the splendid manner in which the firm had carried out the work of restoration, and for the great improvement in the tone and tune of the bells. In spite of the long draught of rope, the 'go' and clapping of the peal is perfect.

Cheadle now possesses one of the finest rings of eight in the county, and with a tenor of 13½ cwt., of a most handy size. Messrs. Gillett and Johnston have rehung them with the most modern fittings in a new electrically welded steel frame of special design, ensuring an exceptionally rigid construction.

INSCRIPTIONS.

The back six were cast by Abel Rudhall in 1749, and the trebles added in 1882 by Taylor and Co. The inscriptions are:—

Treble.—Let him that heareth say Come. Isaac Broome, Donor, 1882.
2nd.—The Spirit and the Bride say Come. Isaac Broome, Donor, 1882.

3rd.—Vigint Eccllesia Anglicana. A.R. 1749.

4th.—Floreat Episcopatus. A.R. 1749.

5th.—Pereat Schisma. A.R. 1749.

6th.—Abigatur Infidelitas. We were all cast at Gloucester by Abel Rudhall. 1749.

7th.—Pristina Fidelitas Restauratur. John Robinson, Peter Starkey, Thos. Gracegirdle, Churchwardens. A.R. 1749.

Tenor.—Gloria Deo in Excelsis. Thos. Egerton. A.R. 1749 (13 cwt. 2 qr. 19 lb. in F sharp).

A SURFLEET TRAGEDY

Many ringers who have visited Surfleet will regret to hear of the death, under tragic circumstances, of Miss Emma Wander, who for many years was housekeeper at the Vicarage to the late Rev. H. Law James, and had since had the care of a cottage for his brother, the Rev. E. Banks James. She was 66 years of age.

It appears that on Friday evening she went out of the house and walked straight across the road and into the side of a passing car. She only lived a few minutes.

The funeral took place on Monday, when, among the wreaths, was one 'In respectful memory, from the St. Laurence Church Bellringers, on behalf of the many ringers of England who, in the past, have been entertained at Surfleet Vicarage.'

LEEDS AND DISTRICT SOCIETY.

SUCCESSFUL MEETING AT BIRSTALL.

The November meeting of the Leeds and District Society was held at St. Peter's, Birstall. Ringing was enjoyed on the magnificent peal of eight bells. Owing to the fact that there is no cafe near the church, the ringers were invited to have tea at the church sale of work, which was being held in the Day Schools. The business meeting was held in the tower in the evening, the president (Mr. Senior) being in the chair.

Two new members were elected, Messrs. J. H. Brothwell, of Rotherham, and William Hawley, of Sherburn-in-Elmet.

Mr. W. H. Senior proposed a vote of thanks to the Vicar and churchwardens of Birstall and to the local company for the excellent arrangements throughout the day. This was seconded by Mr. R. H. Vigor, and Mr. H. Peel replied for the local company.

The next meeting will be held in January, and members are asked to watch the columns of 'The Ringing World' for details.

Members and friends were present from Armley, Batley, Bradford Cathedral, Burley, Drighlington, Headingley (St. Chad's and St. Michael's), Idle, Leeds Parish Church, Rotherham, Rothwell, Sherburn, Shipley, Handsworth and the local company.

Methods rung were Plain Bob, Little Bob, Kent Treble Bob and Double Norwich Major, Stedman Triples, Cambridge Surprise, Superlative Surprise and London Surprise Major.

LADIES' GUILD.

CENTRAL DISTRICT AT ISLEWORTH.

A meeting of the Central District of the Ladies' Guild was held at All Saints, Isleworth, on a recent Saturday, and was very well attended. The service was conducted by the Rev. P. W. Shepherd-Smith, assisted, at the harmonium, by Mrs. Shepherd-Smith.

A very enjoyable tea was partaken of in the Church Hall, the Vicar being present among the party, numbering 35.

Following tea a short business meeting was held, Mrs. R. F. Deal presiding.

St. George's, Southwark, was confirmed as the place of the next meeting, to be held on January 1st.

Erith was proposed for the meeting to be held on the second Saturday in March, providing permission be granted.

Mrs. Fletcher (the general secretary) announced that she would have the annual reports out in about three weeks' time.

A letter of thanks was read from Mrs. Fletcher for the presentation she received at the Guild dinner.

A hearty vote of thanks was accorded to the Vicar for his services, and to Sister Cates for the tea.

The members then adjourned to the tower, where further ringing took place until 8 p.m.

Three leads of Treble Bob Royal were rung by a complete band of ladies, and a course of Cambridge Royal, about two-thirds of the band being members. Grandsire and Stedman Caters were also rung, with the addition of a few rounds for beginners.

LONDON COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

GRATIFYING ATTENDANCE AT SOUTHERN DISTRICT MEETING.

The meeting of the Southern District of the London County Association, held at Putney and Fulham on a recent Saturday, was exceptionally well attended, as during the afternoon and evening some 45 members and friends appeared, which was a considerable improvement on previous meetings, and an encouragement to the officers. Ringing commenced at Putney at 3 p.m. and continued until 5 p.m., when the business meeting was held in the tower, the District Master, Mr. H. Mance, presiding.

Two new members were elected, viz., Mr. W. W. Webb, of Heston, and Mr. F. Wicks, of Putney. The place of the annual meeting was fixed for St. Giles', Camberwell, the date being Saturday, January 15th. As the Bishop of Southwark has kindly promised to preach at the service, it is hoped that as many members and friends will attend as possible.

Mr. J. Herbert was appointed the auditor of the year's accounts.

A hearty vote of thanks was accorded the Vicars of Putney and Fulham for the use of the bells at their respective churches, and also Messrs. T. Bolton and H. M. Page, the towerkeepers, for their kind welcome. A party of 30 sat down to tea at Lyons'.

At 7 p.m. the bells of Fulham were available for one hour, and good use was made of them, the belfry being filled to overflowing.

During the day the following methods were rung: Grandsire and Stedman Triples and Caters, Bob Major, Treble Bob Major and Royal, Double Norwich, Superlative and Cambridge Major and Royal. It is hoped that the good attendance at this meeting will be continued at every meeting during 1938.

A FIRST 'SPLICED' 720.

At St. Werburgh's Church, Kingsley, Staffordshire, on November 9th, a 720 Spliced Treble Bob Minor in five methods, viz., Capel, Sandal, Oxford, London Scholars' Pleasure and Kingston Treble Bob, was rung by H. Carnwell 1, E. Twigg 2, T. Edwards 3, J. G. Cartledge (conductor) 4, W. Edwards 5, W. Carnwell 6. This was the first spliced 720 by all the band.

PEAL NOTES.

FIRST PEAL ON CHESTER CATHEDRAL TEN.

Each branch of the Chester Diocesan Guild was represented in the first peal on the ten bells at the Cathedral, rung on December 11th for the first anniversary of His Majesty's accession.

The two treble bells, it will be remembered, were given by the Guild to commemorate its jubilee. A previous attempt for a peal was lost through the Dean inadvertently switching off the electric light.

The peal, successfully rung, on Saturday week was not without incident. When the ringing had been in progress for about half an hour, the seventh and its clapper parted company. Repair work was commenced immediately, and after pressing a piece of wire into service the bell was pronounced safe. It was then 6.20 p.m. The important question was 'Is it too late to start again?' but Mr. J. Worth's reply that he would 'push her along' decided the matter, and a good peal was brought round in the rather astonishing time of 3 hours 24 minutes. Great credit is due to the 'back-enders.' The tenor is 30 cwt.

This peal was Mr. James Morgan's 250th and rung almost exactly on the fiftieth anniversary of his first, which was a peal of Bob Minor at Pulford on December 12th, 1887.

On Tuesday of last week he fittingly celebrated the 'jubilee.' Mr. Morgan, who called his own first peal, called the same extents at Waverton and again rang the tenor. Mr. Walter Thomas, who had also rung his first peal at the same time, 50 years ago, once more rang the fourth in the commemorative performance.

It must be a matter of satisfaction to these two veterans to have the pleasure of celebrating together the fiftieth anniversary of their first peal.

Mr. Morgan's 250 peals consist of 1 of Doubles; 38 of Minor; 51 of Triples, in ten methods; 141 of Major, in 23 methods; 6 of Caters; 11 of Royal; and 1 each of Cinques and Maximus.

FALSE PEAL REPLACED.

The peal of Kent Treble Bob at Netherton on December 11th was specially arranged to replace the false peal (F. Robinson's composition in shortened form) rung on December 9th, 1907, at this church. The available original members of the band (except Mr. Harry Price, who could not stand in at the last minute, and Mr. C. Rollinson, who has given up ringing) took the same places as they did 30 years ago. These were Messrs. Perkins, Matthews, Whatmore and Bass, the remainder of the band being made up by local friends. It was regretted that Mr. Price was not present, as it was at this church he rang his first peal 40 years ago this month.

Rector's warden for nearly 40 years, Mr. F. Excell, of Willesborough, Kent, has just celebrated his 88th birthday, and a peal of Minor was rung in honour of the event on December 11th.

The birthday of another churchwarden, Mr. Charles W. Sinfeld, of Maulden, Beds, was also commemorated with a 5,040 of Minor at his Parish Church. It was Reginald J. Houghton's twenty-fifth peal.

On the 200th anniversary of the death of the Rev. John Strype, aged 94 years, who was Vicar of Leyton for 68 years, a half-muffled peal of Bob Major was rung at St. Mary's Church on December 11th. Previous to the peal the Leyton Antiquarian Society commemorated the bi-centenary with a service in the church.

The peal was also a tribute to the memory of the Rt. Rev. Guy Bullen, Assistant Bishop of the Sudan, who was killed in an air crash on December 7th. Bishop Bullen was a native of Leyton. The Vicar of Leyton is having a tablet placed in the church to record the peal.

'ALL TENORS.'

The bells of the village of Privett, Hants, on which a peal of Yorkshire Surprise Major was rung on Saturday, were something of an 'exhibition piece' when they were put up some fifty years or so ago. They were one of the best peals of eight of their day, and, despite the fact that they are on the 'light' side, were described by Henry Huley, a great authority on bell tones, as 'a peal of all tenors.'

'Stars' attached to names in peal reports are always interesting. If, as was indicated last week, they do not always mark the stages of a ringer's progress, they indicate something fresh. Mr. Frank Warrington, who is the leading conductor in the Over district of Cambridgeshire and has called methods up to London Surprise, 'wears a decoration' this week for his first peal of Grandsire Triples away from the tenor!

He called Taylor's Six-part at Whittlesey on December 10th as a farewell to the Vicar (the Rev. A. E. T. Newman). A previous attempt for the peal on November 20th came round at the end of the fourth part.

Twice during the peal of Bristol Surprise at Barwell, Leicestershire, on Saturday, the electric light went out, after well over a half of the peal had been rung. Happily it was only out for the duration of a few changes on each occasion, and although there were one or two faulty blows during the total darkness, the light came on again just in time to save the situation.

Mr. Seymour R. Barker, who was honoured with a birthday peal at Cardiff on December 16th, has rung nearly a hundred peals on the tenor. He has had charge of the bells at St. John's Church for many years and the 'go' of them speaks well for the way he has cared for them. It is between thirty and forty years since Messrs. Taylor restored them. There is always a hearty welcome at St. John's, Cardiff, by Mr. Barker to any ringer.

The first peal of Major by a local band at Halewood, Lancashire, was rung on December 13th, when 5,088 Bob Major was brought round. It was not only rung by the local band, but also composed by one of them (Mr. Herbert Ludkin).

The donor of the bells at St. Aidan's Church, Blackhill, Co. Durham, Mrs. Annie Lee, of Seymour House, Consett, died recently at the advanced age of 91 years. The first half-muffled peal on the bells was rung to her memory on December 4th, and included in the band were four of the regular service ringers, one of them, Mr. Henry Rawlings, ringing his first peal at the first attempt.

Another lady who gave great service to the Church has passed away at Buxton, Norfolk, at the age of 86 years. She was Miss Margaret Jewell, who spent her life in helping others, and after her funeral on November 20th a half-muffled peal was rung at Buxton.

The bells at Ranworth, Norfolk, were augmented to six and hung in a teak frame by Mr. Alfred Bowell, of Ipswich. The first peal on them was rung on December 11th in four Minor methods, and the band who took part are extremely grateful for the welcome extended to them by the Vicar (the Rev. E. D. Everard).

LINCOLN CATHEDRAL COMPANY'S ACHIEVEMENT.

Congratulations to the Lincoln Cathedral company upon securing their first peal of Spliced Surprise Major. It is still a rare performance for a band belonging to one tower to ring a peal of this kind, which is an outstanding achievement at any time.

We are asked to say that the band desire to associate with the peal the name of Donovan White, a member of the Cathedral company. Mr. White is one of those keen ringers whose occupation prevents him from ringing peals on Saturdays, but he has been a very great help on practice nights.

It was the first Spliced Surprise peal in the county of Lincoln and by the Diocesan Guild as well as by all the band, and was rung on the wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. J. Walden.

A peal at Gravesend, Kent, on December 11th, was a delayed birthday compliment to Mr. E. G. Morrad, a peal, previously arranged, having had to be postponed at the last minute. Mr. Richard Constance, who rang the tenor, has now rung a peal on each bell in the tower.

Mr. B. G. Key rang his fiftieth peal for the Society for the Archdeaconry of Stafford when he called a peal of Doubles in three methods on December 11th at Trysull, Staffs.

The peal of Treble Bob Royal at Bradford Cathedral on December 14th was arranged for Mr. G. J. Hemming, who was on a visit from Evesham, Worcestershire.

Mr. Joe Broadley, one of Yorkshire's oldest ringers, still 'keeps his end up' with the rest and rang the treble to this peal. He has rung over 400 peals for the Yorkshire Association, which he joined in 1879! The care of Bradford Cathedral bells has been one of Joe's greatest joys in life.

HARWELL'S OLD BELLS.

The peal of Stedman Triples at Harwell, Berks, on Saturday, was intended to be rung for the College Youths to commemorate the tercentenary, but owing to various reasons it was found impossible to get sufficient members to complete the band.

J. W. Washbrook, whose composition was rung, always held a high opinion of the Harwell tenor, which he 'turned in' to Minor in the first Minor rung on the bells, when they were rehung in 1886 by Bond and Son, of Burford, and when they were rung from the ground floor. The rest of the band consisted of the late Rev. F. E. Robinson, the late W. Newell (Reading), the late W. Napper (Hagbourne), the late A. Thomas (Harwell and Birmingham) and R. T. Hibbert (Caversham).

There was a ring of six at Harwell in 1615, and these bells are the same now as then, with the exception that they have had their cannons removed and been tuned.

Mr. Raymond Wood, jun., on Saturday, 'completed the circle' of the tower at Warnham, Sussex, which recalls the fact that the Editor of 'The Ringing World' (long before there was a 'Ringing World') did the same thing in this tower, in eight consecutive peals rung in seven visits to the village.

Oxford Bob Triples is receiving more attention than it used to do, and on Saturday a band ringing at Tunbridge Wells all scored their first peal in the method at the first attempt. Oxford Bob is an interesting change from Grandsire. The peal was a birthday compliment to Mrs. A. J. Battin, whose husband rang the treble.

Battle, Sussex, where a peal of London, the first peal in a Surprise method on the bells, was rung last week, is one of the few places outside the Cathedrals of the country where the incumbent has the title of Deau. Mr. George Williams will very probably recall the fatal interruption of 'the Very Reverend' almost at the end of what would have been the first peal of Stedman on the bells, just about forty years ago.

The Helmingham men have added another to their long list of peals of 'first ever,' in the Surprise class, by ringing 'Monewdon' Surprise last Friday. The method is Mr. Gabriel Lindoff's No. 67 and was given its name at the request of Mr. Joseph Tarrant, an old ringer at Monewdon. Mr. J. H. Arbon, who took part in the peal, also belongs to that parish.

Monewdon is the twentieth new method on tower bells rung this year.

INSTRUCTION

SOME OF THE DIFFICULTIES OF THE BEGINNER.

To the Editor.

Sir,—While agreeing with the arguments in Mr. Stephen Wood's excellent articles, I cannot agree with his conclusion. Although he rather toys with the idea of four and six bell ringing, evidently he really thinks every ringer should begin his change ringing on eight bells.

Now just think what this means. First, it is absolutely essential to have eight ringers who are sufficiently expert to ring correctly with a beginner, and, moreover, who are willing to spend time in doing this. There may be two or three such hands in this county. Then you have to bring the beginners to them. In this county the distance may be anything up to 40 miles. A little calculation will show that if the teaching bands were to do nothing else but teach beginners, and were to spend every night of the year at it, including Sundays, they would not be able to keep our present numbers going. No, I fear that the ringers who can learn to ring on eight bells must always be so small and select a band that their tuition can never be an example to others. If Mr. Wood were to say that beginners should learn all their early change ringing on four bells I should be with him all the time.

I think most ringers about here must have smiled when they read what he wrote about the majority of ringers starting their change ringing on Grandsire Triples. While it is possible that one or two in this county have done this, it is practically universal here to begin on either Grandsire or Plain Doubles. Again, practical considerations have to be taken into account. Plain Doubles are only rung where it is traditional to ring that and nothing else, and need not further delay us. But Grandsire Doubles is rung as the first method in all other towers for the simple reason that a Doubles method with two hunts only needs three working ringers for the other bells. When good ringers are few in number, and are needed for practising higher methods, the fewer that can be employed for teaching beginners, the more advance there will be made by the band as a whole. My argument, and I gather I shall have Mr. Wood on my side, is that four bells takes no more skilled ringers than five, and is infinitely superior in teaching good striking. No pupil of mine goes on to hunting on higher numbers until he knows how to strike his bell in 'the Eight,' i.e., the eight changes of plain hunting on four bells. And, if possible, none goes on to an inside bell on higher numbers until he can ring any bell in the 'Four and Twenty' on four. I say if possible, as so often circumstances prevent one following the ideal order of teaching.

Twice Mr. Wood says emphatically that we ought to tell people that they are bad ringers. But he omits to say what possible good that can do. If I were told this, my reaction would be to think how stupid it was to say anything so unhelpful, and I should not be likely to pay any very great attention to such an instructor in future. If I am open to receive instruction on, say, ringing, it means that I know that I am a bad ringer, and to tell me that I am is, to say the least, a waste of time, when I am anxious to be told what to do to improve matters. If I am not anxious, being told that I am a bad ringer is the last thing that will make me any better.

We all know men who are good ringers, but who are impatient with beginners, usually without knowing it. We have to do our best to keep them apart! Also there are those who have found learning easy and have never understood the difficulties that others find. I always think that the best teachers are those who (like myself) have found ringing very difficult, and have made such slow progress that they can not only sympathise with each difficulty a beginner meets with, but have not forgotten the remedy. On the other hand, there are those who are at the top of the tree themselves, and are able and willing to tell to others who are nearly there what course to follow if they are to succeed. In other spheres we call these latter 'coaches'; and it would, I think, be greatly to the advantage of ringing if we had two classes of instructors—teachers and coaches.

There are a few of our number who are not only capable of both spheres of work, but do carry both out with success. But is it not always a waste both of manpower and of time? At first sight one would say that there are not enough of us to go round as it is. But the result would actually be that not only would there be a greater number of good ringers, but there would be a more regular succession of learners and experts. Each tower would have two companies of ringers, not necessarily a full company in either case; indeed, often the junior company would contain only one or two members, with a separate practice night, when the bells would usually be rung silent; and sometimes a service on Sundays would be allotted to round ringing only. Many towers have already some such arrangement, which works very well, and might be in universal practice. What is new is the suggestion that every tower should have both a recognised Teacher as well as a Coach.

Now with regard to the unknown teacher who has my initials. I have known bands who profess to have begun with Stedman, and have wondered how it is done. 'H.D.' however, it seems, does not really begin with Stedman, but with the first seven changes of Plain Minimus. I can suggest a way in which beginners would really start with Stedman. Our conductor lately, anxious not to lose any time, when only three ringers had arrived, showed how we three could ring the 36 changes of Stedman, including the full slow and quick work on each of the three tower bells. A teacher could by this teach two beginners all the front work of Stedman (if necessary, each could be taught by himself). When someone else arrived he might be put to ring the tenor behind. When a fifth has come, two ringers can be taught double dodging, with the three bells in front ringing rounds. Would this satisfy Mr. Wood? Although it would seem to fill most of his requirements, the beginner starts on an odd number of bells.

It is, however, time to get to the true conclusion from Mr. Wood's arguments. It is that every ringer should be carefully taught how to ring changes on eight bells, and not allowed (as at present) to fall into any habits, good or bad, that may be in his way. Speaking for myself, I was never taught anything on this difficult step; and though I have watched quite a number of ringers taking this step for the first time, never once have I heard any special instruction given them. In whatever part of country I have happened to be. It seems to be thought that if anyone has got as far as seven bell ringing, they may be then safely left to themselves to find out what is necessary. It would hardly do to treat them, now they have got so far, as beginners, or even as learners.

In my own case the result is that I can now tell, by listening outside the tower (if I can take my time), whether it is Stedman or Grandsire which is being rung; at any rate, I have some idea what the music of the two methods should be in each case. This, of course, helps me in the tower. I see where I ought to pull my rope, and, having done so, and while looking for my next place, I am listening to the music of the changes, and I hear whether my bell has dropped slick into its place, as it should have done, or not.

This is so, provided the bells are nicely quiet. If the bells are noisy in the tower, I cannot distinguish my own bell, and am content to rely only on sight; the result is not always very pleasant! I expect this may be a defect of my hearing, as some ringers seem to prefer noisy bells!

But on eight bells, no one has told me what to listen for, and try as I may, I cannot distinguish the music of the different methods. I can, of course, tell if the bells are well rung or not, but do not distinguish even the leads, or where to start from in listening. The result in the tower is that I have to ring only with my eyes; I do not even know when I am leading properly. Perhaps I am exaggerating. One does not always exactly know one's own reactions. But, at any rate, I cannot manage eight bell ringing as I should like to do. It may be that eight bell ringing is a taste that has to be acquired, for I know some very good ringers who are not ashamed to confess that they do not care either to ring it or to listen to it. At present I am decidedly of that opinion!

I do not see how it would help matters to teach eight bell ringing before seven bells; even if it were practically possible, which it is not. It would mean that in the case of some of us we should never learn change ringing at all, as the first step would be such a difficult one. I can imagine that there are some ringers who would heave a sigh of relief, and say, even if under their breath, 'so much the better.' Indeed, it may have been Mr. Stephen Wood's fell purpose to try to keep the Exercise to the select few, as in years gone by. If, however, this is not so, and we bunnies may still be allowed to ring, and even to teach, may we be told what it is we ought to look out for in order to lead properly with eight bells? I have never rung with Mr. Wood, and it may be that he is more of a coach than a teacher, and can only say, 'You must look out for the lead and keep an even distance.' In that case will someone who can see my difficulty try to solve it? If so, I think I know some helpful exercises.

In the meantime would it help, if it were made the practice, never to let a ringer attempt five, or a higher number of bells, in changes, until he was fairly satisfactory in leading, in the changes on four bells, without any bell or bells as cover?

RINGING IN DISTANT LANDS. THE ART OVERSEAS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I have read the letter of Mr. A. E. F. Trotman and your article of September 17th last with great interest. To those resident in the British Isles, who love the art for its own sake, the subject is of vital importance, for all such inevitably desire to see campanology spread to other lands. In the main, I agree with the views expressed, but one point, I think, has been overlooked. It is this. When bells have been received in Australia, hung in the tower and duly blessed or consecrated, those in authority and in whose care the bells were placed by generous donors, in most if not all instances appear to lose interest therein and fail to recognise any responsibility for their upkeep or ringing in changes. In this State of Victoria, except in one instance (the Ballarat City Hall), this refers to church authorities.

Here in this great city of Melbourne bells, as you are aware, are rung in changes in two places of worship only—(1) at St. Paul's Cathedral, and (2) at St. Patrick's Cathedral. At the latter place the bells are not attractive, and the 'go' of five bells out of the ring of eight is unsatisfactory. But we have three other peals of eight in or around Melbourne, and in each instance the bells are chimed. At Geelong and at Bendigo attractive peals of eight exist, and at Ballarat two peals exist, one of six bells and one of eight, and at each place the bells are also chimed. Thus, out of a total of nine peals of bells in Victoria, no less than seven of them are subject to the woeful system called chiming. In Sydney a similar state of things exists. In Queensland there are two instances—one at Brisbane and one at Maryborough. It is incredible to think that, did church or other authorities realise the vast ocean between chiming and change ringing, they would be content with or even permit the former. Yet such is the case, and the question arises how can this state of things be remedied? How many of these peals of bells are now fit for changes I cannot state off-hand. As bells left hanging in a tower year after year without receiving the slightest attention soon become unfit for ringing, probably none of these 'chimed' peals could now be rung without first receiving a thorough, and probably costly, overhaul.

Personally I often think that did we possess one or more ringing parsons among us the position would in time right itself, and so far as possible I have made an effort in this direction, but to date without effect. I went to the extent of turning up 'The Ringing World' containing a full account of the last splendid, earthly tribute paid to the late Rev. Charles D. P. Davies at Tewkesbury Abbey some three and a half years ago by the ringers of the British Isles. Further, I mentioned something (a little only, for 'The Ringing World' did the rest) of the great work he did so well; how he loved and worked unceasingly for the science, and for those who rang the bells in changes. I also mentioned the visit of the Rev. E. Banks James with the tourists of 1934, nine men who travelled 25,000 miles at their own expense to show us ringers in Australia what could be done and to try to help us do it. I then mentioned that a cleric, the late Rev. F. E. Robinson, was the first man to ring 1,000 peals, and that the number who had taken up the art and become active ringers themselves was legion. All saw nothing derogatory in change ringing and mixed with men as ringers and equals, and made time to do it. All this was for the good of the Church, of the science and of all ringers concerned, whether clerical or lay. It failed, however, to move the gentleman in question. If other means exist of changing the state of things here briefly narrated, many ringers here would be glad to know thereof, and any help or suggestions through the columns of 'The Ringing World' would be gladly welcomed.

With reference to the suggestion of transferring bells no longer required to Australasia or any other Dominion, unless an absolute guarantee is given that such bells will be cared for and a band formed to ring them in changes, I shall certainly oppose any such scheme; for the last condition would be worse than the first. Further, I will do everything possible to prevent any generous man or woman donating a peal of bells to any church, city or town in Australasia until the guarantee mentioned is forthcoming.

Without going into details, I do not think we Australians can be justly termed a backward race. One has only to look and think a little to prove to the contrary. But in change ringing we have never had a chance, and as shown herein, largely owing to the apathy if not complete indifference of those in whose possession the bells were placed.

Other views might here be mentioned, but, being of a somewhat contentious nature, I refrain for the present from doing so.

ERNEST F. BEHAN,

Member of St. Paul's Cathedral Society, Melbourne.

ACCESSION DAY.

At St. Mary's Church, Over, Cambs, the usual ringing took place for the anniversary of the King's Accession on December 10th and included a 720 Kent Treble Bob Minor: Ben Norman (first 720 Treble Bob) 1, F. C. Ginn 2, A. W. T. Ginn 3, F. Warrington 4, C. Robinson (conductor) 5, R. Thoday 6.

On Sunday, December 12th, at St. Andrew's Church, Farnham, in celebration of the anniversary of H.M. King George VI's Accession to the Throne, a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples (from Washbrook's 20-part peal): J. Beagley 1, F. Hammett 2, G. Upshall 3, S. Meadows 4, H. Kemp 5, T. Upshall 6, R. Hasted (conductor) 7, A. E. King 8.

CHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD.

NEXT YEAR'S MEETINGS OF STOCKPORT BRANCH.

A meeting of the Stockport Branch of the Chester Diocesan Guild was held on November 27th at St. Paul's Church, Stalybridge, when some 60 members and friends were present. The bells were busily employed during the afternoon and evening, and service was conducted by the Vicar (Canon B. B. Slater), who also gave a very interesting and encouraging address. He spoke of the part bells play in the religious and civic life of this country. The introduction of watches and clocks into every home had reduced the service of the bells to some extent; nevertheless, they were of great service to the sick and invalids, reminding them of God's mercy, and they undoubtedly comforted those who were unable to attend divine worship.

Tea was served in the schools, and the business meeting followed under the chairmanship of the Vicar, supported by the branch chairman, Mr. W. W. Wolstencroft.

The Chairman extended a warm welcome to St. Paul's.

The list of meetings for the coming year was compiled as follows: Cheshire, January 29th; Mossley, April 30th; Knutsford, June 25th; Disley, September 24th; Hyde, November 26th. As Mr. J. Harrison, of Ashton, was prevented by illness from being present at the meeting, and as he attained his 85th birthday on the following day, it was decided to send a message of congratulation to him with the best wishes of the meeting for his speedy recovery.

Reference was made to the passing of a highly esteemed member of the branch, Mr. H. Haythorn, of Disley.

It was decided to send a letter of congratulation to the College Youths and to the B.B.C. on the excellent way in which the broadcast, 'Bells over London,' had been carried out.

Votes of thanks were accorded to the Vicar and wardens, the ringers, the ladies who prepared tea, and to the organist. These were responded to by the Vicar and by one of the wardens.

Ringling was then enjoyed until late in the evening, the methods ranging from Grandsire Triples to Bristol Surprise.

FIRST QUARTER-PEALS.

EDINBURGH.—A quarter-peal of Grandsire Caters (1,295 changes) was rung at St. Mary's, Edinburgh, for the dedication festival of the Cathedral. Three English visitors took part, viz., Mr. K. Arthur, Mr. H. Griffiths, Wolverhampton, and Mr. H. Chandler, Royal Navy; G. Prior (first quarter-peal) 1, M. A. K. Simpson 2, H. Chandler 3, H. Griffiths 4, H. White 5, B. F. Vernon 6, K. Arthur (first quarter-peal of Grandsire Caters) 7, J. Marshall 8, C. R. Raine (conductor) 9, J. Pryde 10.

BIRMINGHAM.—On Thursday, October 18th, at Bishop Ryder's Church, a quarter-peal of London Surprise Major (1,280 changes): J. George 1, N. J. Goodman 2, C. H. Stanley 3, P. N. G. Rainey 4, S. O. Holloway 5, H. H. Fearn 6, J. S. Mason 7, G. E. Fearn (conductor) 8. * First quarter-peal in the method.

UXBRIDGE, MIDDLESEX.—For morning service at St. Margaret's Church on November 5th, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples: Mrs. A. Bray (first quarter-peal) 1, F. Corke (conductor) 2, Miss E. Bedford 3, A. Bray 4, C. Nicholls 5, R. Bray 6, S. Childs 7, Mrs. R. Bray 8.

HESTON, MIDDLESEX.—On Sunday morning, December 12th, at St. Leonard's Church, a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples: W. H. Stevens 1, C. S. Bird 2, H. C. Chandler 3, W. F. Ellingham 4, F. J. Catermole 5, E. R. Gladman 6, F. E. Hawthorne (first quarter-peal of Stedman as conductor) 7, W. W. Webb 8.

Mr. George Soley has been a regular member of the local band at Holmer, Herefordshire, for 45 years, and on December 16th a peal of Minor was rung there as a birthday compliment to him. It was also a birthday compliment to Austin Wingate and William Duggan. The bells at Selly Oak, Birmingham, were half-muffled on Saturday when a peal of London Surprise Major was rung. Mr. James Dowler, an old member of the local band, had died the previous day.

To commemorate the first anniversary of the dedication of the new bells, the first peal of Stedman Cinques was rung at Croydon on Saturday. Four peals have now been rung on the bells in four attempts, viz., two peals of Grandsire Cinques, one of Kent Treble Bob Maximus, and one of Stedman Cinques.

This peal made Mr. 'Bill' Hewett's total up to 450, of which 73 have been on twelve bells.

Another veteran in the peal records this week is Mr. David Wright, of Croydon, whose ringing activities go back farther than those of most living men. He rang the treble on Saturday to a peal of Grandsire Triples at Mitcham.

A peal of London Surprise Major, the first in Ashton-under-Lyne, was rung on Saturday as a birthday compliment to both Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Wolstencroft, and to Mr. W. Stevenson.

The peal of Bob Major at Netherseale on December 4th was rung for the Midland Counties Association and was a composition by J. K. Pritchard. Both these facts were omitted from the report sent to us for publication.

In honour of the wedding of Miss Kathleen Beer and Mr. Stuart Sandford, two members of the society, the Royal Cumberland Youths rang a peal of Stedman Cinques at Shoreditch on Saturday.

DON'T SCRUB YOUR HANDS!

skin this simple way*

To many people, the problem of getting the hands really clean without harming the skin is a serious one. Grease and grime, which become deeply ingrained into the pores of the skin, are extremely difficult to remove, and ordinary washing with soap or even scrubbing will fail to remove them completely. Housewives, particularly, who complain that their hands get ruined by the nature of their work, will find the preparation called DERMAFOAM, a real "godsend." DERMAFOAM just smooths away dirt and grease without effort. It gets right down into the pores and removes every particle of grime, leaving skin beautifully supple and healthy.

Men, too—when you've finished that dirty job on the car, DERMAFOAM will quickly banish all grease and oil from your hands. It acts almost magically—working under and around the nails and into every minute crease, removing all trace of dirt in a flash.

Engineers, Painters, Car Mechanics, Printers — everyone — will welcome DERMAFOAM, the modern method of cleansing and protecting the hands.

THEY HAVE PASSED ON.

During the past year there have been a great many losses to the Exercise by death, and this Christmastide has emphasised the toll that has been taken by the passing of two notable personalities, who have, in their respective spheres, rendered inestimable service to the art. Last week we recorded the passing of Mr. Joseph J. Parker; this week it is a melancholy duty to announce the death of the Rev. H. S. T. Richardson. The former had reached a ripe old age, and his main work for the advancement of ringing was done more than a generation ago. The results of those efforts are perhaps to-day taken for granted, but, in those now somewhat distant years, they were only achieved by patience and diligence. Mr. Parker was contemporary in his work with other great figures in the Exercise, men who left their mark on the art, but in his particular sphere of investigation he had no superior. The peals which he produced in all the Triples methods showed his complete mastery over the problems which many before him had endeavoured in vain to solve. Joseph Parker was another illustration of the fact that in ringing, even on its theoretical side, it is not always the men with the highest educational attainments who achieve the greatest ends. He gained his place in the Exercise by following up a keen curiosity for investigation with a painstaking pursuit of a subject which had previously baffled some of the ablest ringers, and, while his labours were applauded by those who could value his achievements, we doubt if, particularly in recent years, the Exercise has shown the appreciation of his work that it merits. But Joseph Parker was a modest man; he was content in the knowledge of a task well done.

The services which Harold Richardson rendered to ringing were in another category. He was of a later generation, and his work was unobtrusively done in the Central Council. As a member of the Peals Collection Committee, of which in later years he was convener, he undertook the proof of the thousands of Treble Bob peal compositions in the collection in the Council's Library. That in itself was a great task, and, in addition, Mr. Richardson carried on the other work of the committee, and was for some years hon. sec. of the Hereford Guild. Apart, however, from the position which he held in the Council, Mr. Richardson was one of that band of clerical ringers who seem to be rapidly diminishing in the Exercise. They were men who stood out in the efforts they made to put ringers and ringing in the place they ought rightly to occupy, and who were themselves among the leaders of our art. It may be that, in course of time, another generation will take their places, but recent years seem to have robbed us of a body of clergy who were honoured, not only because they were members of the cloth, but because of the real service which they rendered to the advancement of ringing and the building up of the Exercise. PEAL NOTES.

AN INCIDENT AT APSLEY END.

The first peal by the Hertford County Association in eleven Surprise Minor methods was rung at Apsley End on December 20th. Four of the 720's were rung with two methods apiece and altogether there were 54 changes of method.

The band, of course, locked themselves in the tower, and at the finish, having lowered the bells in peal, descended the stairs. Someone fumbled with the key; failed to move the bolt of the lock, and then broke the key! The position required a 'council of war,' which was duly convened and the question of escape discussed.

Fortunately the tower is connected to the body of the church by a flat roof. The lightest member of the party was lowered to the ground (about 20ft. below) by a spare rope. He proceeded to the Vicarage, some distance away, for a duplicate key. On arrival—no key! Returning to the outside of the door, he was ordered to go and find a large screwdriver. This he did and the implement was hauled up, taken down and, fortunately, 'did the trick,' being sufficiently strong to remove old screws.

By this time 10 p.m. had struck, which, we gather, was another bit of bad luck.

After a peal of Grandsire Triples on December 18th at St. John the Baptist's Church, Devizes, rung as a welcome to the new Rector (the Rev. E. S. Dabbs) and a birthday compliment to Mr. Jesse Stone, the latter kindly entertained the band to tea. The peal was called by Mr. W. C. West, hon. secretary of the Devizes Branch of the Salisbury Guild, and it was his fiftieth peal as conductor.

Derek M. Sharp rang a peal of Treble Ten at Leeds, Kent, on December 18th, and thus completed peals of Kent Treble Bob from Minor to Maximus on tower bells. It was Tom Saunders' 175th peal, and Tom Sene called a composition, not hitherto rung, by Pat Cannon.

Incidentally, Pat was engaged on the same day ringing the 45 cwt. tenor at Beverley Minster to Treble Ten, but the job had to be 'packed up' after two and a half hours owing to the 'go' of the bell.

Mr. William A. Wood rang his fiftieth peal for the Midland Counties Association when he took part in seven 720's of Cambridge Surprise Minor at Thurlston on December 18th. Three of the band rang their first Surprise peal and two others their first of Cambridge Surprise Minor—all of them at the first attempt.

Mr. Henry Gayton, of Harrold, Beds, rang his 300th peal at Sharnbrook, Beds, on December 18th. He called it from the 5th, the bell on which he rang his first and his one hundredth peal.

Clifford Vessey and Jack Millhouse rang their 40th peal together on December 23rd when the latter called the first peal in seven Minor methods on the bells at Nettleham, Lincs.

The Worcestershire Association's annual peal was rung at Worcester Cathedral on Boxing Day, when Mr. Sid Holt called a peal of Stedman Cinques. A peal on these bells is among the 'big jobs,' and Mr. Jack Waugh, who is the junior steward of the College Youths, rang the tenor.

On the same day a party of twelve paid a flying visit to Birmingham and scored a peal of Stedman Cinques in the Bull Ring. Half a dozen went from the London end and the same number from Bristol district, and the peal was rung for the College Youths.

They were given a welcome and a send-off by a number of Birmingham ringers, including Messrs. Albert Walker, Frank Pervin, Harry and George Fearn, and the youthful veteran, James George.

A peal arranged as a birthday compliment to Mr. W. W. Worthington, of Maple Hayes, Lichfield, and rung at Netherseal, Derbyshire, has also a somewhat pathetic touch. Mr. Maurice Swinfield called Joseph J. Parker's three-part peal of Stedman Triples (No. 2).

The composition was rung for the first time, and it is thought that this was the last peal of Stedman Triples composed by Mr. Parker, whose death took place only two days before the peal was rung.

The peal of Cambridge Minor at Bramford, Suffolk, on Christmas Eve, was rung at the request of the Rector, and was brought round just before the 11.30 p.m. service. It was Urban W. Wildney's fiftieth peal.

The peal at Holbrook, Suffolk, on December 3rd, was Ronald W. Steward's 17th peal and was rung on his 17th birthday. An interesting coincidence.

The peal of Grandsire Triples at Chatham on Boxing Day was rung as a birthday compliment to the daughter of the conductor (Mr. W. A. J. Knight), and on the wedding anniversary of Mr. C. E. J. Norris, who rang the fifth.

Another White, of the well-known Appleton family, has become a peal ringer. On December 23rd, Francis A. White, son of Mr. Richard White, the bellhanger, scored his first peal, in which seven other members of the family took part, including Mr. F. Stedman White, who rang his first peal of Grandsire Caters 62 years ago.

We hope the newest addition of this family so long associated with the bells at Appleton will prove a worthy representative in the ringing sense. He has started well by the unusual performance of Caters for his first peal.

Incidentally the peal was rung on the 33rd anniversary of the wedding of Mr. Fred White and the 32nd anniversary of the wedding of Mr. Arthur H. White.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

NORTH BUCKS BRANCH.

A quarterly meeting of the North Bucks Branch of the Oxford Diocesan Guild was held at Buckingham on December 4th. In spite of the wretched weather, a snowstorm being in full force, over 30 members attended, and the bells were rung in various methods. Service was conducted by the Rev. C. D. Read, of Tingewick, and at the meeting after tea the secretary reported that he had been approached by the secretary of the Luton District of the Bedfordshire Association as to whether a joint meeting could be arranged at a later date. He thought that it would do good. It was left to him to arrange the meeting at some convenient date.

The secretary apologised for the absence of the chairman (the Rev. H. Adean Byard, of Newport Pagnell), and thanked the Rev. Read, of Tingewick, for coming at short notice to officiate at the service and for taking the chair at the meeting.

The secretaries of the Central Bucks and Banbury Branch attended the meeting, and a very hearty welcome extended to them.

Ringling varied from Grandsire and Stedman Triples to Cambridge Major.

PEAL NOTES.

Another wedding peal was rung on Saturday week at Langley, Bucks, the bride being Miss Mary Leach, of Langley, and the bridegroom Mr. Geo. H. Limmer, member of St. Peter's Society, Burnham.

Miss Sylvia Bowyer and Mr. George Fleming rang their twenty-fifth peal together on Saturday week, when they took part in a peal of Kent Treble Bob Major at St. Margaret's, Ipswich.

As a birthday compliment to Chesterfield's veteran composer, Mr. Arthur Knights, a peal of Kent Treble Bob was rung at Eckington, Derbyshire, on Saturday week.

Mr. Knights took part and the peal was called by his son Percival. Another of his compositions, No. 219, was rung for the first time.

A peal of Doubles in four methods was rung on the back six at the Bell Foundry, Loughborough, on Saturday week. John H. Hill rang the tenor and scored his first peal at the first attempt, at the age of 13 years. The peal was conducted by Mr. Ernest Morris, hon. secretary of the Midland Counties Association, who has now called peals of Doubles, Minor, Triples, Major, Caters and Royal on these bells.

THE HERTFORD COLLEGE YOUTHS. THE HISTORY OF AN ANCIENT SOCIETY.

By J. A. TROLLOPE.

Hertford possessed one of the earliest peal ringing bands that we know of, and as early as December, 1724, a month before Annable and the College Youths scored their first five-thousand, they rang 'the whole peal of Tripples.' Then follows a blank, and we hear no more about the doings in the town until September 5th, 1767, when some young and excellent ringers formed themselves into a company and called themselves the Hertford College Youths.

They were not a branch of the London Society, and had no other connection with it than that they borrowed its name, a thing at the time not unusual with provincial bands.

They numbered fourteen, and, so far as we can tell, they belonged to much the same class as do ringers today. The principal officer of the company was the Beadle, for, though the society had a Master and Stewards, they were, as we shall see presently, not ringers, and had nothing to do with the the belfry. There was also a Treasurer and Clerk.

Candidates for election as 'steeple ringers' must have previously rung at least 1,000 changes, and they were ballotted for by 'such of the other steeple ringers as shall be particularly summoned for that purpose.' An entrance fee of one shilling was to be paid to the Beadle. All money received for paid ringing was handed to the treasurer and was shared out on the first club night after Christmas, and upon the feast day, but nothing was paid to anyone who had not rung 1,000 changes. The fines and forfeits were spent on the evening of the first Thursday after Christmas.

The Society rang its first peal two months after its foundation, one of Bob Major at All Saints' Church; a month later they rang 7,056 in the same method; and between then and December, 1788, ten more of Plain Bob and Oxford Treble Bob. Two of these were six-thousands and one was conducted by Thomas Blakemore, the junior partner in the firm of authors who wrote the Clavis.

The society shared the exclusive spirit common to the ringers of the time. They paid visits to the St. Alban's College Youths and received return visits, but they did not allow their members to associate with the ringers of the other towers in Hertford, and when it was brought to their notice that Edward Baker had rung several times at St. Andrew's steeple for hire, it was resolved that he be expelled; and he was expelled accordingly.

Like all these old bands they had their quarrels and dissensions. Isaac Spencer, senior, was their most prominent member; at any rate, he was the first to sign the roll when the society was founded. When the first Beadle died he succeeded to the job, but a twelve-month later, at a meeting in All Saints' belfry, it was unanimously resolved that he, having at divers times illiberally reflected upon several members of the society, be expelled; and he was accordingly expelled.

William Hillier took his place, but he did not fare very much better. After three years' service, a meeting, held at the World's End, suspended him from executing the office of warner or beadle 'for having' ill-treated and abused several members at their meeting last night in All Saints' steeple.'

We can imagine that there was a pretty rough house and not much ringing on that occasion.

However, Hillier made a public submission and was reinstated, but only on very severe terms. 'If in future the said William Hillier shall refuse to obey the reasonable requisitions of the majority of the members or behave to the said members in an unbecoming manner, he shall be immediately discharged and expelled the Society, and if, after such expulsion, any member shall again propose or move for his readmission, such member shall be expelled himself.'

But Hillier had his own party, and later on a general meeting was called which included the stewards, steeple ringers, and handbell ringers, and the last-resolution was expunged. Isaac Spencer was also readmitted.

Another original member, Thomas Phenix, fell out with the company and told them to strike his name off the list, which they did. But some years later he was ringing peals with them.

The steeple ringers were only a section of the Society of Hertford College Youths. There is a reference, noted above, to the handbell ringers who would be tune players, but are not again mentioned. And there were other members whose only interest in the society was the annual feast. In fact, the society was an excuse for a number of the principal men of the town and some of the surrounding country gentleman and parsons to meet once a year and have a good dinner. The first of these feasts was held in 1770, and they continued yearly until 1808. To arrange and manage them there were a Master and four Stewards. The Master, of course, took the chair, and the Stewards were the people who made themselves responsible for the arrangements and the finance.

In the handbook of the Ancient Society of College Youths we are told that the chair was usually taken by the Marquis of Salisbury, supported by Lord Dacre and others of the old country families. That, however, is (to put it mildly) an exaggeration. The chair was not once taken by the Marquis of Salisbury, though that nobleman, when he was as yet only an earl, did attend on one occasion. Lord Fairford was then the Master, and these two are the only noble names that occur, for there is no mention of Lord Dacre. There is mention of a certain Alderman Baron Nathaniel Dimsdale, who was three times Master, but Baron was his Christian name. Three Members of Parliament were Masters and several aldermen, but never one of the steeple ringers.

After the first few years some of the London College Youths attended the feast and sometimes acted as stewards. Thomas Blakemore's name appears in 1776, and afterwards James Darquit, John Lyford, Robert Bly, William Lyford, John Lyford and others. John Briant, the Hertford bell founder, was also a steward on one occasion.

I imagine that what happened here was similar to what happened at St. Stephen's, Bristol. The feast began as a ringers' function, but eventually became an end in itself.

The society made two subscriptions, both for worthy purposes. One of £16 was towards the cost of recasting the two trebles at All Saints'; the other of £10 10s. towards the payment of the National Debt. No doubt this last amount seems somewhat inadequate to the purpose, but, as was said on an historic occasion, 'every little is a help.'

The last feast was held in 1808, and it seems that before then the ringing in the tower had declined, and soon afterwards practically came to an end; but on Easter Monday, April 20th, 1829, an attempt was made to resuscitate the society and twenty-six men signed as members. They included Edward John Osborn, who was born a Hertford man, and who had already rung his only peal, Grandsire Triples, at St. Andrew's. But it came to nothing, and Osborn, who shortly afterwards left for London, wrote lugubriously, 'It is no longer itself. Friendship gone. Pleasure crash'd. Science lost. And all gone for ever.'

Mention has been made of the first Marquis of Salisbury. He was the first respectable member of the family since Robert Cecil, the first earl, and he owed much to a very remarkable wife who, in old age, was burnt to death in a fire at Hatfield. Osborn says that he was interested in bells and ringing and had sent a fat buck to the Hertford College Youths for their feast. In 1786 he recast the six bells at Hatfield and made them into a heavy ring of eight. The London College Youths were invited to ring the first peal. They stayed three days and, owing to the hot weather, had several unsuccessful attempts before they succeeded. The peal was 5,280 changes of Treble Bob. John Povey conducted, Samuel Muggeridge rang the tenor, and the band included James Darquit, William Lyford, James Worster and Joseph Holdsworth. During their stay they were entertained to dinner at the Salisbury Arms by the Marquis, who presided.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD.

MONTHLY MEETINGS IN WIMBORNE BRANCH.

A meeting of the Wimborne Branch of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild was held on Saturday, December 18th, at St. James', Poole, 51 members attending. After the service, at which the Rector gave the address, tea was partaken of at the Church House and was followed by the business meeting.

The hon. secretary's report was very gratifying. It showed a record year, in the course of which 13 peals were rung by the branch. Poole bells had been augmented to ten and one other peal was rung in the branch by members of the Ancient Society of College Youths to commemorate the tercentenary of that society.

The monthly meetings throughout the year had not been too well attended, but it was decided to carry on with them for another year, and all meetings were fixed for the fourth Saturday in each month.

The officers were re-elected en bloc, and each made a suitable reply.

The Guild Ringing Master (the Rev. R. H. Gundry) was present, and congratulated the branch on the year's work. They had, he said, a record to encourage them to even greater efforts for the coming year.

Visitors included Mr. G. Preston, secretary of the Christchurch branch of the Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild, Mr. C. H. Jennings, secretary of the Dorchester Branch of the Salisbury Guild. Other towers represented were Wimborne, Poole, Bournemouth (St. John's and St. Peter's), Corfe Mullen, Lytchett Minster and Lytchett Matravers, Dorchester, Lulworth and Swanage.

Several new members were elected.

The ringing was of a very good standard generally, and the methods rung were rounds, Grandsire Triples, Cambridge Major, Grandsire and Stedman Caters, Plain Bob and Kent Treble Bob Royal. Many of those present heard the ten bells for the first time, and many remarks were passed about the splendid splice made by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank. The ten bells were lowered in peal at the close of a very successful meeting.

GOLDEN WEDDING.

The service ringers at St. Stephen's, Hampstead, rang their first 720 of Grandsire Doubles on December 19th for service, also in honour of the golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Hillard: Mrs. G. Francis 1, R. Harman 2, D. Harman 3, D. Pestell 4, T. Bevan (conductor) 5, G. Octell 6.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

A Happy and Prosperous New Year to all readers of 'The Ringing World.'

Mr. A. B. Peck, hon. secretary of the Ancient Society of College Youths, wishes all members of the Society and ringing friends a happy and prosperous New Year.

During ringing at Woodstock, Oxfordshire, on Bank Holiday, a gudgeon of the 17 cwt. tenor broke and the bell fell into the frame.

Naturally the ringers had a fright when the crash came, but it was an exaggeration to say, as did some newspapers, that the ringers 'ran for their lives.'

The Bishop of Manchester has appointed the Rev. Arthur Scott, president of the Lancashire Association, to be the Rector of St. Luke's, Miles Platting, Manchester. The Rev. Arthur Scott is at present Lecturer of Bolton and senior curate of Bolton Parish Church.

It frequently occurs that someone loses either a glove or umbrella in a belfry, but after the opening of Thetford bells one ringer found himself in possession of seven hats, providing him with one for each day of the week, unless they have since been claimed.

'RINGERS' HANDBOOK.'

NEW EDITION OF THE EIGHT-BELL VOLUME.

The best evidence that the 'Ringers' Handbook' fulfils a very useful purpose is the fact that the first print of the complete volume has sold out, and the authors (the Rev. E. S. and Mrs. Powell) have published a new edition. The matter has been carefully revised and some slight changes made, notably in the peals of Grandsire Triples. Holt's Ten-Part disappears, Parker's Twelve-Part is given with transpositions, and a peal by the Rev. E. B. James included.

The book is an excellent instructor. It carries the subject from handling a bell up to the four standard methods—Grandsire and Stedman Triples; Plain Bob and Treble Bob Major—and explains the way to call them. A variety of peals, with explanatory notes, is included. This revised edition is published at 2s. 9d., or six copies for 15s. It can be obtained only from the Rev. E. S. Powell, Staverton Vicarage, Daventry. The six-bell section, as a separate publication, has not yet entered a second edition.

CLASHING OF MEETINGS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I was pleased to see two replies to my letter regarding the clashing of meetings. I am also pleased to hear that Mr. A. H. Smith's meetings are fixed early in the year. As a matter of fact, I knew this already, and consequently as I also know that the Surrey Association meetings are fixed early in the year, it was a still greater amazement to me to see that they would clash. No secretary is asked to know anything about another's meetings of 50 miles distant, but I think it only to the mutual advantage of everyone that they should know something about those held within three miles. It was known that this clash would take place, probably eight months ago, and, therefore, there is absolutely no excuse whatever for either secretary. It showed an extreme lack of co-operation. Anyway, I sincerely hope that both meetings were well attended, and that each tower enjoyed a course of London.

Regarding the Twickenham and Isleworth 'clash,' I am sorry this is the second one this year. Mr. W. G. Wilson apparently thinks he has caught me napping, but I expected someone to bring up about the unfortunate clash between the London County Association, Southern District, meeting at Chiswick and the South and West Middlesex District at Harlington on July 17th. The London County meetings are fixed for the third Saturday in alternate months, and the South and West Middlesex are fixed for the second Saturday. I kept to my Saturday and knew nothing of the Harlington meeting until I saw the notice in 'The Ringing World.' I did, however, mention the date of our next meeting in 'The Ringing World' for June 4th; so facts speak for themselves. Also, as I purposely took note of everyone who attended at Chiswick (it was a very poor attendance, only 18), I learnt that no one at my meeting would have attended at Harlington in any case. Further comment is unnecessary.

I might add, in passing, that I am greatly against any association regarding a tower as in their own territory. A meeting is held at a tower through the courtesy of the local incumbent and the captain of the ringers, and to my way of thinking it matters nothing under whose auspices the meeting is held. But whoever arranges a meeting should first make sure that it does not clash with a neighbouring society, and this can be done by everybody keeping to fixed dates as far as possible, and, if the date has to be altered, getting into communication with the society that has kept to its date. Good feeling will then be retained.

OLDEST COLLEGE YOUTH.

The oldest member of the Ancient Society of College Youths and Master of the society in 1885, Mr. J. Martin Routh, now living at Tilehurst, Berks, celebrated his 91st birthday on Monday.

Members of St. Michael's, Tilehurst, rang a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples in his honour on December 26th: J. Marsh 1, H. Hunt 2, E. Langley 3, H. Goodger 4, A. Haines 5, J. Lewendon 6, R. Runham (conductor) 7, D. Sellar 8.

DEATH OF THE REV. H. S. T. RICHARDSON.

HON. SECRETARY OF HEREFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

We deeply regret to announce the death of the Rev. H. S. T. Richardson, Rector of St. Nicholas', Hereford, and hon. secretary of the Hereford Diocesan Guild, which took place on December 23rd at Moorcocks, Brasted, Kent, the residence of his brother-in-law, Mr. E. H. Lewis. Mr. Richardson had been seriously ill for some months, and his resignation of the living of St. Nicholas was already in the hands of the Bishop and would have taken effect from the end of the year. He was 55 years of age and leaves a widow and four daughters, to whom, as to his sister, Mrs. Lewis, the sympathy of the whole Exercise will be extended.

Harold Samuel Temple Richardson was the son of the Venerable John Gray Richardson, some time Archdeacon of Nottingham and Rector of Southwell Cathedral. He was at Nottingham High School, and became a Scholar of Trinity College, Cambridge, in 1901. He took a first class in the Classical Tripos 1904, when he took his B.A., a second class in the Theological Tripos in 1906, and proceeded to his M.A. in 1910.

After leaving Cambridge, where he spent five years, he went to Bishop's Hostel, Bishop Auckland, and was ordained deacon in 1907 and priest in 1908. He was curate of Holy Trinity, Darlington, 1907-8, and domestic chaplain to the Bishop of Durham and head of the Bishop's Hostel, Bishop Auckland, 1908-1911.

He then went to St. Mary the Great, Cambridge, under the late Rev. A. H. F. Boughey, where he spent about a year, and afterwards became organising secretary of the Church of England Sunday School Institute, which position he held from 1912 to 1917. Returning to parochial work, he was curate of St. George's, Camberwell, 1917 to 1919 and curate at Ashburton, Devon, 1919 to 1921. In the latter year he married Miss Edith Bond, daughter of the Vicar of Ashburton, and became Rector of Honesay, where he remained until 1927, when he became Rector of St. Nicholas', Hereford.

Mr. Richardson's interest in ringing began when he went up to Cambridge, where he joined the Cambridge University Guild in the same year as Mr. E. H. Lewis, Dr. F. S. Poole and the late Rev. B. H. Tyrwhitt-Drake.

He became treasurer of the Guild in 1902 and held the office of Master in 1903, 1904 and 1905. His first peal was rung with the Guild on June 17th, 1903, a peal of Bob Major at St. Andrew's, Cambridge. Afterwards he took part in many peal performances both for the University Guild and other societies.

He was elected an honorary member of the Central Council in 1908 and devoted a great deal of labour to the work of the Peals Collection Committee. Among the tasks he undertook was the proving of the thousands of peals of Treble Bob, from Major to Maximus, which are in the Council's Library. He was not always able to attend the Council meetings, but whenever he took part in debate, his opinions carried considerable weight among the members.

After he took up residence in Herefordshire he was elected hon. secretary of the Diocesan Guild, and he held this office and his membership of the Council up to his death.

The funeral took place at Brasted on Tuesday afternoon.

LONDON COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

HELP FOR ST. GEORGE'S BELL FUND.

A meeting of the Northern District of the London County Association was held on Saturday, December 18th, at the Church of St. John at Hackney. The bells at this church are a peal that go well if the band ringing 'knows them,' so that, as might be expected, the striking at times was not particularly good. Various methods were rung before the tea interval, when the services of 'Lyons' were requisitioned.

At the business meeting, held in the tower, five new members were elected, and it was announced that the district annual meeting would be held in the city of London on January 8th at St. Lawrence Jewry.

The district secretary (Mr. J. G. A. Prior) announced that he would not seek re-election for the coming year.

A discussion took place regarding the appeal by the Rector of St. George-in-the-East for assistance towards the restoration of the ring of eight at his church. A donation from the district funds of 10s. was agreed upon and a collection realised the sum of 30s. Other plans for assisting the appeal were discussed, and a committee of three was appointed to co-operate with the authorities at St. George-in-the-East.

The District Master then proposed a vote of thanks to the Rector for the use of the bells, and to Mr. Frank Start, Master of the Hackney band, for making the arrangements.—This was carried by acclamation, and Mr. Start briefly replied.

Further ringing then took place in methods up to Cambridge and Superlative.

A pleasing feature of the meeting was that the attendance was comprised almost entirely of district members. Visitors are always very welcome at Northern District meetings, but in the past the success of the meetings has depended largely upon the support of non-district members, a state of affairs that had not reflected much credit on the district members.

'BELLS OVER LONDON.'

MISS DOROTHY L. SAYERS AND THE DISPUTE WITH THE B.B.C.

To the Editor.

Sir.—Mr. J. A. Waugh has, I think, in your last issue, put his finger on the real source of the trouble in this unfortunate dispute, viz., 'the failure of the B.B.C. to obtain agreement with the participants before publishing their programmes.' I should like to explain that all I knew of the matter was that I was asked by the B.B.C. to take part in a programme arranged (as I was informed) by them in conjunction with the A.S.C.Y. The passage selected from my book was not my own choice, and I said at the time that I thought it ill-chosen; but I naturally supposed that it had been decided upon by both parties concerned. I knew nothing whatever about any disagreement until I was rung up by 'The Star' and informed, much to my surprise, that (according to 'The Daily Herald') I was involved in a 'row at the B.B.C.' Needless to say, had I imagined for one moment that any objection to my part in the programme had been raised by Mr. Roughton or any other member of the Ancient Society, I should have refused to collaborate. I strongly deprecate the suggestion that has (probably unintentionally) been conveyed that I had or have any intention of putting myself forward as an authority on change ringing: nothing could be farther from the truth. I am extremely sorry that I should have been made to appear in any way discourteous to the society, who have gone out of their way to do me every possible kindness.

LANCASHIRE ASSOCIATION.

IS IT TOO BIG FOR EFFICIENT ADMINISTRATION?

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I am sure your trenchant criticism in the last issue of 'The Ringing World' will be welcomed by all those who have the welfare of the Lancashire Association at heart. The picture is really blacker than you have painted it: silent towers on Sundays (there are at least three in the Manchester area and one in Preston area that I know of); poorly attended meetings with apparently little or no interest shown by most of the towers.

If we exclude the Liverpool area (which is fairly prosperous), then we can say that the decline in Lancashire is pretty general. I am not criticising our officials, but I wonder if they have ever discussed ways and means of combating this insidious lethargy which has taken possession in the county. I ask, in all seriousness, is our association too big and unwieldy for efficient administration? There are three dioceses in Lancashire; would it be better to form three separate guilds instead of one?

Some few years ago my own branch tabled a motion that each branch should be allowed to control 75 per cent. of its own funds. The committee moved and carried 'that the motion be allowed to lie on the table.' Yet this is already done in the most progressive associations. I mention this to show that there will have to be a different spirit from the committee downwards if this decline is to be arrested. Your leader will make the enthusiastic members think seriously. Let us hope their thought will be transferred into vigorous action.

A NEW EIGHT IN THE FYLDE BRANCH.

The monthly meeting of the Fylde Branch of the Lancashire Association was held at Poulton on Saturday, December 18th. The big attraction was the new octave by the recent addition of two trebles to the ancient ring of six. All the bells have been cast by Mears and Stainbank and much interest was aroused in the branch as to the success or otherwise of the 'splice.'

The tenor being only around 8 cwt., Poulton can now claim to have the lightest ring of eight bells for many miles around. Owing to the light weight of the bells and easy running (except the tenor), it took quite a long time to bring round easy touches of Bob Major or Grandsire.

Great enthusiasm exists among some of the local ringers for change ringing, and, although they have not yet scored a plain course of Bob Major, the leader has hopes of scoring a peal by about Easter next.

Touches of Bob Major, Grandsire Triples and Stedman Triples were successfully brought round, the bells being rung down in peal at 7 p.m. after an enjoyable meeting.

It was decided to hold the next meeting at Bispham in January.

A TASMANIAN BELL FOUNDER.

In a letter to a Hobart newspaper, Mr. W. C. Elham, of Sandy Bay, wrote: On the occasion of a reception in England by English bellringers, Archdeacon Blackwood expressed a wish that we had a bell foundry in Australia. It will be news to many to learn that a bell foundry existed in Hobart in the 1860's. It was in Barrack Street, and later was used as an engineering factory by Davidson and Brown. J. Swain was the bell founder, and many of his castings still exist in Tasmania, including two of the most sonorous and full-toned bells in Australia, still in use at the St. Joseph's Church and St. George's Church. The Swain family were staunch adherents of St. George's Church. It is generally understood that Swain was the only bell caster in Australia.

RESTORED PEAL AT THETFORD, NORFOLK.

SUCCESSFUL REOPENING MEETING.

After a silence of nearly two years, St. Peter's bells were heard again on Saturday, December 18th, on the occasion of the rededication of the restored peal by the Rev. Canon H. K. Johnston, Rural Dean, Vicar of St. Cuthbert's, Thetford.

The Rector of St. Peter's, the Rev. S. C. Webb, conducted the service, which took the form of a shortened evensong.

Canon Johnston gave an address, in the course of which he referred to St. Peter's bells as not only being of interest to the parish of St. Peter's, but a personal concern of everyone in the ancient borough of Thetford. He expressed the belief that the tones of the bells mingled with the emotions of all, sometimes gladly sometimes sadly, and everyone rejoiced that the restored peal could now fulfil its accustomed task.

Following the address, a procession was formed, consisting of the Rev. Canon H. K. Johnston (Vicar of St. Cuthbert's), the Rev. S. C. Webb (Rector of St. Peter's), the churchwardens (Messrs. T. E. Rudling and W. C. Goodman), and proceeded to the ringing chamber, where the ringers were waiting.

After the dedicatory prayers, and whilst the clergy and churchwardens returned from the tower, eight local ringers rang rounds to announce that the bells were again in use.

At the conclusion of the service, various touches were rung by visitors, and over 40 proceeded to St. Peter's Church Room, where tea was provided, and the Rural Dean, the Rector, churchwardens, and Mr. S. R. Roper, representing Messrs. Gillett and Johnston, were present.

The bells have been tuned and cleaned and rehung in the strengthened oak frame, complete with ball bearings and modern fittings. Everyone expressed their appreciation of the way in which the restoration had been carried through to a highly successful conclusion and of having the peal in perfect ringing order once again.

Gratification was also expressed at the improvement effected by the tuning of the bells, and the visiting ringers voiced their complete satisfaction with the 'go' of the peal, both of which facts reflect credit on the bellfounders.

After tea all the ringers returned to the tower and indulged in Plain Bob, Kent and Oxford Treble Bob, Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Double Norwich Court Bob, Cambridge and Superlative Surprise.

The meeting, which was declared the most successful that could be desired, was attended by three district secretaries of the Norwich Diocesan Association, Messrs. H. Tooke (North), A. G. Harrison (South) and J. G. W. Harwood (East Norfolk), and members from Attleborough, Bury St. Edmund's, Caston, Diss, Elveden, Fakenham, Garboldisham, Garvestone, Great Yarmouth, Gressenhall, Hockwold, Norwich, Redgrave, Saxlingham, Shelfanger, Winfarthing, Wymondham and the local company.

The inscriptions, notes and weights of the bells are as follow:—

Treble.—F. Cum Voco Venite. Thos. Osborn Fecit 1790. 6 cwt. 26 lb.

2nd.—E. Thos. Osborn Founder 1790. 6 cwt. 1 qr. 8 lb.

3rd.—D. Thos. Osborn, Downham, Norfolk, Fecit 1790. 6 cwt. 3 qr. 16 lb.

4th.—C. 7 cwt. 2 qr. 10 lb.

Our voices shall with joyful sound
Make hills and valleys echo round.
5th.—B flat. T. Osborn 1790. 8 cwt. 1 qr. 1 lb.
In Wedlock hands all ye who join
With hands your heart unite,
So shall our tuneful tongues combine
To laud the Nuptial rite.

6th.—A. T. Osborn Fecit 1790. 9 cwt. 3 qr. 6 lb.

7th.—G. T. Osborn Founder 1790. 12 cwt. 3 qr. 21 lb.

Tenor.—F. Town of Thetford 1790. T. Osborn Fecit. Percute Dulce Cano. 18 cwt. 1 lb.

DEATH OF A DOVER RINGER.

The death of Mr. J. B. Saunders, of Dover, removes one of the band of St. Mary's who decided to plod into the art of change ringing some 36 years ago. Joining the Kent County Association, he took part in the first local peal on May 20th, 1903. For a number of years he was hon. secretary, but recently he had ceased to take an active part in ringing owing to ill-health.

The funeral took place on Thursday, December 16th, and in the evening a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples was rung half-muffled by S. A. Wells 1, T. Durham 2, L. Leach 3, W. Kitchen 4, T. Anderson 5, H. Whitehead 6, C. Turner (conductor) 7, E. T. Ellender 8.

LLANISHEN LEADER DEAD.

Mr. Harry Nott, leader of the St. Isen's band, Llanishen, where he had been a ringer for 35 years, passed away on December 16th at the age of 66 years.

Members of the local band attended the funeral and acted as bearers. Touches of Doubles with the bells half-muffled were rung for service on the following Sunday as a tribute to his memory by the following members of the local band: Messrs. Aldridge, A. Bassett, G. Chamberlain, G. Champkin, E. Coles, W. Freeman, A. Porter and G. Talbot.

CHRISTMAS BELLS.

At Lyme Regis, Dorset, for midnight Eucharist, Christmas Eve, 720 Bob Minor: R. Keeley 1, J. E. Philbrick 2, H. G. Keeley 3, Rev. C. C. Cox (conductor) 4, F. E. Blackmore 5, C. W. Powell 6. On the feast of St. Stephen, for evening service, a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples: Miss L. Keeley (first quarter of Stedman) 1, G. W. Powell 2, J. E. Philbrick 3, S. J. Philbrick 4, Rev. C. C. Cox (conductor) 5, H. G. Keeley 6, G. H. Whitmore 7, F. Price 8.

Ringers at the Cathedral, Manchester, carried out their custom on Christmas Day of ringing both at the Cathedral and at Sacred Trinity Church, Salford. For morning service at the Cathedral they rang 820 Grandsire Triples: J. Simpkins 1, H. Hollingworth 2, J. Bolton 3, A. Ridyard (conductor) 4, H. Langden 5, B. Wilshaw 6, R. Longden 7, J. Wright 8. Immediately afterwards they journeyed across the city boundary and rang for morning service at Sacred Trinity Church, Salford. The company extend their greetings to all ringing friends.

WHERE LORD BRERETON IS BURIED.

THE COLLEGE YOUTHS' FIRST MASTER.

The Parish Church of St. Oswald at Brereton, near Crewe, in Cheshire, has a special interest for ringers, for it was the burial place of William, Lord Brereton, the founder and first Master of the Society of College Youths. Until recently nothing was known about Lord Brereton, but when writing the history of the College Youths, Mr. J. A. Trollope made researches among the state papers and other sources of information, and discovered that Brereton in his time was at the time; and the Treasury Books contain entries which show how much some of the country gentlemen had suffered and how they expected to be compensated. Lord Brereton asked for a legal office, which apparently he did not get. He also applied for a grant of the customs of French wines at the port of Chester and was refused. He did get a money grant from the King.

There are five bells at Brereton Church, and we cannot doubt that there Lord Brereton did most of his actual ringing, but unfortunately a person of very considerable importance. He was one of the local leaders of the Royalist party in the Civil War, and after suffering for his loyalty, during the Commonwealth, was rewarded after the Restoration by being made Lord Lieutenant of Cheshire; but he did not live to enjoy his honours very long.

Among the papers at the Record Office are one or two autograph letters of Brereton to the Secretary of State, which throw light, not only on the man himself, but on the political condition of the country no record now exists of any actual performances by him either in Cheshire or in London among the College Youths. The church contains no memorial to him, but on the tercentenary the College Youths sent a wreath in commemoration of his connection with the society, and a peal of Doubles was rung by Cheshire members of the society, conducted by Mr. Albert Crawley.

A LEICESTERSHIRE RING RESTORED.

COPT OAK BELLS REDEDICATED.

A service of thanksgiving and the rededication of the bells of the Church of St. Peter, Copt Oak, Leicestershire, took place on Sunday, December 19th. The special service, which followed evening prayer, was modelled upon the form used at Leicester Cathedral last April. After intercessions and thanksgivings had been said, Psalm 150 was sung and a procession was made to the tower for the hallowing ceremony, which was performed by the Archdeacon of Loughborough (Ven. W. P. Hurrell, M.A.). After he had charged the ringers to see that the bells were rung with reverence and devotion to a sacred trust, the bells were raised in peal by the following members of the Hugglescote band: H. O. Over 1, W. Johnson 2, J. H. Dean 3, J. Cadle 4, E. J. Tovel 5, A. E. Rowley 6. Meanwhile the procession returned to the chancel. The Archdeacon gave an inspiring address on the history of bells, their uses and their beauty.

After the service short touches of Grandsire Doubles, Bob Minor and Kent Treble Bob Minor gave an opportunity to all desirous of trying the improvements.

The bells have been rehung on ball bearings and provided with new ropes through the generosity of the Barron Bell Trust, who have defrayed the whole cost. The work has been carried out by Messrs. J. Taylor and Co., of Loughborough, who have carried out the work with the highest efficiency.

Members of St. Margaret's Society, Lowestoft, with the Rector (Canon H. J. Enraght, M.A.), Mr. J. Woodger (secretary of the society) and Mrs. Woodger, had the pleasure of being entertained by a well-known resident, Mr. Sydney Taylor, and Mrs. Taylor at their residence, Hillingdon, Gunton Cliff.

A month previous, by the kind permission of the Rector, and with the assistance of the St. Margaret's ringers, Mr. Taylor took a film of the ringers at work in their belfry, with the result that a very unique film was obtained. The entertainment opened with views in Switzerland taken by the host when on holiday there, then a film of scenes at a recent wedding at Fakenham. The 'piece de resistance' followed, and the ringers expressed the view that it was a success. The ringers who are shown in the film, ringing two short touches of Bob Major, are W. Baldry 1, Miss K. Lewis 2, F. Adcock 3, R. T. Woodley 4, E. Newson 5, D. Carr 6, R. W. Coates 7, A. E. Coleman (conductor) 8. A record of Bow Bells was put on during the time the film was showing. The company afterwards partook of refreshments, and at the conclusion of the evening the Rector, on behalf of the ringers, thanked Mr. and Mrs. Taylor for the entertainment they had provided, and also for their hospitality.

RINGER, KNOW THYSELF!

BY GEORGE L. JOYCE, HORNCHURCH.

It is a great pity that everybody cannot believe that most of us have a genuine desire to better our art, and that we write, perhaps mistakenly, only with the idea of helping. I am grateful for Mr. Lewis' balanced and restrained reply to my letter about 'good striking,' which held nothing intended to be personal to him as a ringer. As 'first ringer in the land' his name was used impersonally, but it so happened that he also is Master of the society which broadcast exhibition ringing that I humbly consider to have been 'poor striking.'

The letter from Mr. Alec E. Richardson is an excellent example of the necessity to 'know thyself.' Devoid of any vantage of constructive matter, it complains that I write without construction! I am prepared to try to construct in its place, but the plain fact is that so many of us think it is all the other fellow, while we, ourselves, are helping toward the imperfection of the whole. And who is there to tell the 'older hands' of this? How many would up and tell a man of the standing and known opinions of (say) Mr. Lewis to 'shove her along at back, dol'—even if the critic were tolerably sure of his ground?

Time and again the 'old uns' bully the youngsters in the circle, or the meekest there—usually there is a 'goat.' I suppose we cannot resist the temptation, but it is an unpleasant fact. My own experience has taught me that it is not meant unkindly. But who has not suffered and feared the big fellow 'on the box,' who bellows '... pull it, man, pull it! ...' to the nervous offender? Or the genial general secretary who, when we try Stedman Cinques once in a while, helps us so little with '... don't drag those little bells ...'? Who does not remember the P.M. of the College Youths who, eyes to the ground, plaintively (yet fiercely withal) would bleat '... stri-i-k'm ...'? Is this sort of thing 'constructive' help? Contrast it with the gentle courtesy of the popular Master of a Middlesex Association, who, from behind, will whisper, '... now third's, and she is a little slow at hand ...' No wonder that he is popular!

I cannot remember ever reading a definition of 'good striking'; in fact, most authorities have shied at one. Constructively to be the fool 'where angels fear to tread,' let me try. Twenty-five years ago I spent a day in Hornchurch Dell and the fields around, reading and lazing in the sun, mainly to please a certain 'lil' ol' lady.' Thus it happened that I, a young and keen ringer, on May 27th, 1912, for nearly ten hours listened to the record peal of Bristol. The monotony of the clockwork striking almost sent us to sleep. Rumour has it that Isaac Shade missed his 1-2-1, and there came a moment when rhythm was broken, quickly to be righted. Say for—what?—a minute or less? Something under a minute in ten hours!

On the other hand. Twenty-five years later a competent musician sat with me and listened to the College Youths' broadcast; although no ringer, he 'knew' ringing. His verdict of the St. Clement's record ran, 'The monotony I should have expected from exhibition ringing was decidedly poor. One bell in particular was in the first quarter of his time-unit the whole way through.' In other words, he was 'shoving her too much.'

This is how I would define 'poor striking.' Not the man who momentarily forgets his places; not the beginner feeling his way; not the youngster who 'drops her' now and then. But that persistent horror of the clip-clip-clip to the bitter end. And the worst of it is the best of us are prone.

A few months back, working in my garden some 200 yards or so from Hornchurch tower, I listened to a peal of Cambridge—four locals and four visitors 'up.' Asked by a local what I thought of it, I said it might have been better if the —th had been rung by a visiting expert. 'But it was, — rang it,' I was told. And so, for three solid hours, a man of wide experience and many peals had clipped his horrid way through Cambridge Major. Curiously enough, two of those visitors have been awarded highest honours.

And the cause of bad striking? Old timers recently have written that it is due to the 'Bradshaw-guide-surprise-jangling,' which, from a broad view, is utter nonsense. I can 'see' anything on six and eight bells, provided I know the diagram and the others 'ring' it. Thus I ring London and Plain Bob with equal facility, and strike the one no worse than the other. A priceless gift to a ringer also, fortunately, is mine—the ability to isolate the mind channel which 'guides' the rope (even to the extent of conversing aside). I believe, in fact I know, that this 'isolation' is an essential step toward the development of the 'listening channel.' On ten and twelve bells it is not so clearly mine. There I am compelled to concentrate on ropes—to 'search' as opposed to 'seeing all' without effort (due, I suppose, to lack of practice). Consequently the listening suffers, and striking is worse than usual.

Much has been written about ears. Ears for what? The average youngster is under the impression that he has to pick out the note of his bell from amongst the jangle. In a belfry I could not do that in a hundred years. What I do hear is the 'thump' (of any old note in tone) which my listening channel registers at a fraction of time after my guiding channel puts the rope into a given place. Thus, when dodging in 3-4 up, I hear: 'dum-dum-Mine'; 'dum-dum-dum-Mine'; 'dum-dum-Mine'—and so on.

BATH AND WELLS DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

CHANGE OF OFFICERS IN TAUNTON DEANERY.

Mr. P. Merson Retires from Secretaryship.

The annual meeting of the Taunton Deanery Branch of the Bath and Wells Diocesan Association was held at Wilton Church, Taunton, on December 11th. Service was held in the church, conducted by the Vicar, the address being given by his brother, the Very Rev. F. S. M. Bennett, formerly Dean of Chester.

Tea was served and the meeting held in the Parish Hall, the president (the Rev. F. L. Grosvenor) being in the chair. The secretary (Mr. P. Merson) presented the balance sheet and gave his annual report.

In his report, Mr. Merson stated that the year had been a quiet one and that the peals rung had reached the lowest figure since the war, only three being recorded. He thanked the president for his services during the past five years and also thanked the various incumbents for the use of their towers and others who had assisted him. He concluded by hoping that some special effort would be made during the coming year to help those towers which were somewhat backward.

The report was adopted and the secretary thanked for his work. The meeting then went on to the election of officers, and the Rev. F. L. Grosvenor announced that he would be unable to carry on as president of the Deanery. In a survey of his term of office as president, he said that he had found ringers were 'not such a bad lot' as he had been led to believe, and expressed his gratitude to Mr. Merson for the help which he had rendered him.

On a proposal by Mr. Coles, seconded by Mr. Merson, the Deanery's appreciation of the president's work for them was recorded.

The Rev. W. H. Heaton-Renshaw, Vicar of St. Mary's Church, Taunton, was proposed by Mr. Merson and seconded by Mr. J. Hunt as president, and his election was carried with acclamation. Mr. Heaton-Renshaw said that his reasons for accepting the post were his admiration of the retiring president and his appreciation of the work of his own ringers at St. Mary's.

Mr. Merson said that after 27 years as secretary he thought that someone else should take on the duties, and proposed by Mr. R. W. Hayward, of Wilton, as his successor. In making this proposal, Mr. Merson said that Mr. Hayward came from an old family of ringers, was himself a good ringer, and, moreover, had youth on his side.—The proposal was seconded by Mr. Hunt and carried.

Mr. Hayward, although nearly overcome by the praise he had heard of himself, managed to thank those present and hoped that he would not let the Deanery down.

Mr. Coles proposed the re-election of Mr. Hunt as Ringing Master, saying that they could not possibly obtain a better one, and this was agreed to.

On the motion of Mr. Hunt, Mr. Hayward was elected as representative on the General Committee of the association.

Combe Florey, Wiveliscombe and West Monkton were selected as places for the quarterly meetings for the coming year, with Ashbrittle as substitute if one of these places cannot be obtained.

The President thanked the Vicar of Wilton for his hospitality and those who had provided the tea for their services.

Touches, ranging up to Kent Treble Bob Major, were rung on the bells.

I believe that this can easily be developed, once the concentrated effort to 'see' has been overcome, provided the learner is told what to listen for. And, with practice, it becomes instinctive. From that point it is purely a matter of physical ability—which I lack to a very marked degree.

There seems to be a lot about me; but who else can I analyse? I am trying to 'know myself.' Go, thou, and do likewise—and Many Happy New Peals to you!

DON'T SCRUB YOUR HANDS!

skin this simple way*

To many people, the problem of getting the hands really clean without harming the skin is a serious one. Grease and grime, which become deeply ingrained into the pores of the skin, are extremely difficult to remove, and ordinary washing with soap or even scrubbing will fail to remove them completely. Housewives, particularly, who complain that their hands get ruined by the nature of their work, will find the preparation called DERMAFOAM, a real "godsend." DERMAFOAM just smoothes away dirt and grease without effort. It gets right down into the pores and removes every particle of grime, leaving skin beautifully supple and healthy.

Men, too—when you've finished that dirty job on the car, DERMAFOAM will quickly banish all grease and oil from your hands. It acts almost magically—working under and around the nails and into every minute crease, removing all trace of dirt in a flash.

Engineers, Painters, Car Mechanics, Printers — everyone — will welcome DERMAFOAM, the modern method of cleansing and protecting the hands.
