GOOD INTENTIONS.

Most people start the new year with good intentions, even if they do not go as far as to make mental resolutions, which they know are likely soon to be broken. May we be permitted to indicate a few directions in which many ringers might endeavour to show their good intentions during 1938? There is room for improvement, for instance, in their attitude towards such important subjects as regularity and punctuality; the teaching and encouragement of beginners; and loyalty to the band or association. There always have been, and we suppose always will be, some who treat these matters lightly; and such failings have constantly been subject for discussion. Indifference and apathy are two things from which the Exercise continues to suffer, and the art and the service of ringing would be immeasurably benefited if these two besetting sins could be removed.

Many a band have their enthusiasm for progress quenched by one apathetic ringer who attends when it suits his convenience, arrives late for service ringing, or makes effective practice impossible by his indifference. He refuses by his actions to acknowledge any sense of duty to the rest, and may even think he is conferring a favour when he condescends to attend. There are others who, all the while things are going well in a belfry, will not trouble to teach beginners, or, if beginners are brought into the tower, leave their training to someone else. No tower, however well equipped at the moment, can really afford to ignore the need of a supply of recruits. Many a good band has gone to pieces by the unexpected departure of one competent member. Every belfry should have at least a fifty per cent. 'surplus' of ringers to ensure the ringing of all the bells for services and to fill the gaps in the front rank when death or removal makes a breach. The work of keeping the company up to strength cannot be neglected without risk to its continuity, and it is not fair that this task, where the necessity is recognised, should fall, as it often does, on the shoulders of one or two individuals.

And outside their own tower, ringers should realise there is another loyalty they should observe—loyalty to their guild or association. The strength of the Exercise begins with the towers, but it depends largely upon the efficiency of the various organisations which unite the members into larger bodies than parochial entities. It is strange that, while this is generally recognised, a considerable proportion of ringers fail miserably to give their active support to the associations to which they owe allegiance—even, as we have lately emphasised, to the extent of falling into serious arrears with their modest subscriptions. Perhaps with this reminder there will be, in this new year, some ringers at least who, realising that they have not 'pulled their weight' in their tower or association, and that their attitude has been, after all, only a selfish one, will turn over a new leaf and, being filled with good intentions, will have sufficient determination to stick to them.

PEAL NOTES.

A STEDMAN CINQUES RECORD?

There can have been very few occasions when more peals of Stedman Cinques were rung in one day than on Bank Holiday. No fewer than five are recorded. Those of Birmingham and Worcester appeared in our last issue, and this week we publish reports from Liverpool, Wolverhampton and Oxford.

The last named was the first peal at Christ Church Cathedral since the bells were rehung by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank. The bells, although belonging to the Cathedral, are not in a part of the consecrated building.

Mr. Walter Judge, of Oxford, rang his 200th peal by taking part in this performance.

Mr. Howard Howell finished his 75th peal when the bells came round at Wolverhampton. The peal was a birthday compliment to Mr. Chris. Wallater, of Willenhall, as well as being rung for the Christmas festival.

For the first time since 1923, the Norwich Diocesan Association has rung over 100 peals in a year. This record is very largely due to the energies and ability of Mr. Nolan Golden, who took over the duties of hon. secretary of the association on the retirement of Mr. A. L. Coleman last year. The association's total in 1923 was backed by a large number of Suffolk ringers.

On Sunday, December 19th, Father Mercer, Vicar of St. Paul's Church, Monk Bretton, Yorks, reached his silver jubilee as a priest, having been ordained in St. Paul's Cathedral. The event was celebrated by a peal of Treble Bob Minor rung for evensong, and afterwards the ringers were entertained to tea by the Vicar.

A peal of Kent Treble Bob Major at Harlow Common on December 22nd was a silver wedding compliment to Mr. and Mrs. William Wheeler, of Mill Street, Harlow. Mr. Wheeler conducted the peal, which was also a birthday compliment to Mrs. Cossey.

Miss Kathleen Fletcher and Mr. Harry Wingrove, of Beaconsfield, rang their one hundredth peal together on Bank Holiday, when a peal of Bob Major was successful at St. Mary's, Slough, on the completion of the commemoration of the centenary of the church.

The first 'local' peal ever rung at Eythorne, a parish near Dover, was scored on Sunday, December 28th, when 42 six-scores of Grandsire were rung and two ladies rang their first peal, Mrs. Winifred Chivers and Miss Joyce Bean. The peal was in celebration of the latter's 15th birthday. Mr. Laurence Bodman scored his first peal as conductor.

Miss Bertha Reeve, who took part in the peal of Kent Treble Bob Maximus at Ipswich on Bank Holiday (the report of which was published last week), had never before rung peals of anything above Minor. From six to twelve is a big jump. Ipswich seems fortunate in the lady ringers produced there—Phyllis Tillett, Sylvia Bowyer and now Bertha Reeve.

The bells of St. Andrew, Litchurch, Derby, were rehung by Messrs. Taylor and Co. and augmented to ten in 1923. The first peal on them since that time was rung on December 28th. It should, of course, have been a ten-bell peal, and it was intended to start for Royal, but, the band meeting short, had to be content with Bob Major.

By ringing two peals—Cambridge and Superlative Surprise Major—in one day, Mr. Robert T. Lambert completed his double century on Bank Holiday.

Another well-known Kent ringer, Mr. Albert E. Relfe, who has distinguished himself by some of the peals of Minor he has called, gained a 'star' by conducting a peal of Grandsire Triples for the first time.

At Marden, Kent, on Bank Holiday, the engagement of Mr. William Button and Miss Jean Springett was celebrated with a peal of Grandsire Triples. The band was short of a man at the last moment, and Mr. F. W. Mitchell kindly stepped into the breach. After the peal the company were once more recipients of the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Sone, to whom their thanks are tendered.

A BUSY CHRISTMAS WEEK.

Mr. Charles R. Lilley had a busy Christmas week. Three peals were arranged to enable him to finish three of the outstanding 'dates' in his list and all were successful.

The first of the three, that at Honiton Clyst, was his one hundredth peal for the Devon Guild, and of these he has called 70. They have been rung in 58 towers and include ten of Doubles, ten of Minor, 40 of Triples, 25 of Major, 11 of Caters, and four of Royal. Mr. Lilley's first peal for the Guild was rung at Heavitree 36 years ago.

The peal at Clyst St. George on Christmas Eve was the first on the bells since Messrs. Taylor and Co. rehung them. Four Honiton Clyst men took part in this peal.

Christmas Day is one of the 'dates' which comparatively few people have filled, but Mr. Lilley and seven of the Sawton ringers awoke the Christians of that village at 5 a.m. with Grandsire Triples and completed a peal before the 8 a.m. Communion service, and an excellent peal it was—the striking was perfect, we are told. It is believed to be the first Christmas Day peal rung for the Guild.

In the course of these Christmas week activities no fewer than seven ringers scored their first peal.

A handbell band at Crayford, Kent, also put Christmas Day 'in the bag' when they scored a peal of Bob Major. This method was rung to enable Alan J. Hopper to complete the series of Bob Major, Royal and Maximus 'in hand,' as he had not previously rung Major on handbells.

EARLY AND LATE PEALS.

Another 5 a.m. Christmas Day start was at Thurleigh, Beds, where a peal of Grandsire Doubles, occupying 2 hours and 55 minutes, came round at five minutes to eight.

By contrast, a peal of Minor at Bassingham, Lincs, came round at 11.52 p.m. on Christmas Eve, prior to midnight Mass. It was rung at the special request of the Vicar, the Rev. T. I. Pocock.

Mr. Daniel Smith called a peal of Treble Bob Minor in seven methods from the treble at Felkirk, Yorks, on Bank Holiday, and thus completed his circle of the tower.

The bells of St. Nicholas', Chislehurst, were recently retuned and rehung in an iron frame, with new fittings, by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank. They were rededicated on December 7th. The first peal on them since the restoration was rung on Bank Holiday, Mr. Tom Groombridge, sen., who has for many years had the bells in his care, calling Thurstan's Four-part. Afterwards the band were entertained at 35, Albany Road, by Mr. and Mrs. Groombridge. They wish to record their appreciation of the hospitality extended to them.

Six ringers, including four of the local band, rang their first peal on ten bells when they took part in a peal of Grandsire Caters at Minehead, Somerset, on Bank Holiday. It was conducted by Mr. James Hunt, who, earlier in the day, had called a peal of Double Norwich Major (in which five others of the Minehead peal band took part). Mr. Hunt has rung two peals in a day on 17 occasions, but this was the first time he had called both.

As a token of respect, a half-muffled peal of Stedman Triples was rung at Loughborough Bell Foundry on December 30th for Miss Mary Elizabeth Taylor. Daughter of the late Mr. John William Taylor, sen., and sister of Mr. E. Denison Taylor, she died on Christmas Day at the advanced age of 82 years.

Sir Isaac Pitman, the inventor of shorthand, was born at Trowbridge, 100 years ago. To commemorate the centenary, a peal of Stedman Cinques was rung on Friday, December 31st, in the Wiltshire town, and among the ringers was Mr. J. Frank Smallwood, who occupies a responsible position in the great business firm established by Sir Isaac at Bath.

Mr. Harry Lister has now called a peal from each of the eight bells at Stowmarket. He completed the octave with a peal of Double Norwich on Bank Holiday.

The arrangement of Dexter's variation of Thurstan's four-part peal of Stedman, rung at Brierley Hill, Staffs, on December 23rd, was that by Mr. James Hunt published in 'The Ringing World' of December 30th, 1932. It has the treble as observation bell.

Three generations of the Paulson family took part in a peal of Grandsire Triples at Matlock, Derbyshire, on December 27th. It was the third peal in which the three had rung together.

BEVERLEY MINSTER TENOR.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I beg to correct the somewhat erroneous statement that appeared in your last issue under the heading of 'Peal Notes' relative to an attempt for Treble Ten at Beverley Minster.

Firstly, the weight of the bell is 41 cwt. and not 45 cwt. as stated. Secondly, the statement that 'the peal had to be packed in after 2½ hours owing to the "go" of the bell,' while in one sense true, is at the same time misleading.

It is only fair to those who have rung the bell to a peal to make it clear that the bell was its 'usual self' on this occasion. Pulled off individually, the bell presents little or no difficulty, but when the whole peal are being operated she tends to 'drop' badly at times. This appears to be attributable to tower oscillation.

I may state that the same conditions prevailed some four years ago when Mr. E. Jenkins rang the bell to a peal of Cambridge Royal.

Leeds, Yorks.

LESLIE W. G. MORRIS.

THE LATE REV. H. S. T. RICHARDSON

On the afternoon of the funeral of the late Rev. H. S. T. Richardson, ringers representing the Bridgnorth, Ludlow, Clifford, Hereford and Ross-on-Wye districts of the Hereford Diocesan Guild assembled at All Saints' Church, Hereford, and rang solemn and impressive muffled touches in memory of their esteemed clerical secretary.

On Tuesday evening, December 28th, with the bells half-muffled, 720 Oxford Bob, 720 Bob Minor were rung at Bredenbury, Herefordshire: T. Tomkins 1, J. Thomas 2, A. Tomkins (conductor) 3, W. Mantle 4, W. Watkins 5, R. Bethel 6.

Mr. J. W. Parker's five-part peal of Stedman, No. 92, was rung for the first time on December 29th, when Mr. Maurice Swinfield called it at Measham, Leicestershire. Maurice has called more different compositions of Stedman Triples than anyone. In fact, few people knew there were so many peals of Stedman in existence until he called them.

The peal at Measham was rung at the special invitation of the Vicar (the Rev. J. R. King), who entertained the band to tea afterwards.

Parker's twelve-part peal of Grandsire Triples was rung at Pulford, Cheshire, on Bank Holiday, as a tribute to the composer, and as an appreciation of his services to ringing. The band desire to express their sympathy with the relatives in their bereavement.

A peal of Double Norwich rung the same day at Gresford was made possible by Mr. Robert Sperring standing in at the last moment, and the band are grateful to him for giving up his social engagements.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

The well-known firm of John Pritchard, rope makers, of Loughborough, has been formed into a Limited Company, under the title of John Pritchard (Ropes), Ltd.

The death of Mr. W. T. Elliott, of Kelvedon, recalls the fact that five generations of the family learnt to ring there. Mr. William Keeble has rung with four generations, and had taken part in 96 of Mr. Elliott's 120 peals.

It is with regret that we have to record the death on Saturday, December 25th, of Mr. William Webb, of Finchley, Middlesex. He had been associated with the tower there for many years.

Work on the restoration of the bells of St. George's-in-the-East has been begun by the Whitechapel Foundry.

On New Year's Day, the Choir School of Durham Cathedral gave two leads of Plain Hunt Major and three of Plain Hunt Triples, with perfect striking, and getting home without a hitch. This was accomplished with only half a dozen practices, as the item was put on at short notice for the Speech Day concert. The handbells were rung one-in-hand, naturally.

Canon Ganderton hopes to give this matter more attention next term if it can be worked in with a rather heavy curriculum, but the lads now want to take up tower-bell ringing. 'Catch 'em early' is a good maxim.

INSTRUCTION.

To the Editor.

Sir,—Writing on the subject of 'Instruction' in your issue of December 24th, the Rev. Herbert Drake, who, I know, revels in having a dig into most matters controversial, comments on the difficulties of learning the art of change ringing.

In his eleventh paragraph he admits he cannot distinguish the music of the different methods, or distinguish where to start, etc. I presume Mr. Drake has a copy of the Shipway reprint; if so, he has missed learning what Shipway says in his introductory remarks under 'Ringing of rounds' (pages 5 and 6, chapter 1). The principal object to be observed in rounds, and 'consequently in changes,' is understanding the 'compass' of the bells (as time in music). To ascertain this it is necessary that a young practitioner should acquire what is termed 'the beat of the bells,' which is an 'inward sensation of the mind conveyed by the ear.'

This, to my mind, puts the whole thing in a nutshell, otherwise I cannot see where the enjoyment of ringing comes in. Having been teaching now well over 60 years (with a certain amount of success), I always try to make it look as simple as possible, whereas it appears to me some try to make it appear more difficult.

I hope Mr. Drake will forgive me in making these few remarks, but I can assure him it is with the best intentions for his New Year's resolutions.

GEORGE WILLIAMS.

SUDDEN DEATH OF MR. FRED CARTER.

ASSOCIATION WITH THE LATE MR. J. J. PARKER.

Many older ringers of the 'nineties' will remember Mr. Fred 'Bacca' Carter, of Burnham, Bucks, even if only from his association with the late Mr. J. J. Parker in peal ringing.

We regret to record his sudden death, which occurred on Christmas Eve at the age of 77 years. His wife was ill in bed and Mr. Carter walked into her room, said a few words to her and fell dead at the foot of her bed.

The funeral took place on Wednesday, December 29th, at Burnham Parish Church, and he was buried opposite the belfry door.

On Sunday the bells were muffled in the evening, and a 700 of Oxford and Kent was rung by the members of the St. Peter's Society. Over the grave two members rang on handbells the whole pull and stand and a course of Doubles.

Mr. Carter gave up ringing after his golden wedding in April, 1932 (when a peal was rung to commemorate the event), and the newly-formed St. Peter's Society presented him with a silver-bell inkstand suitably inscribed.

He leaves a widow, three sons and four daughters, all of whom are married except one son. He was loved and admired by all. G. G.

DEATH OF MR. EDWARD JONES.

WATFORD'S OLDEST RINGER.

We regret to record the death on December 22nd of Mr. Edward Jones, for many years a respected member of the band at Watford Parish Church. He was 87 years of age, and was a regular service ringer until about two years ago. He took part in a quarter-peal of Stedman at the age of 84.

Although he had given up ringing, he attended morning service regularly, and frequently visited the belfry on these occasions. His last visit was on Sunday, December 12th. He will be remembered by the older generation of South Buckinghamshire ringers for his connection, for several years, with Marlow tower. He was a member of the Royal Society of Cumberland Youths.

Members of the Watford band attended the funeral on December 28th. The Rev. J. R. H. Moreland, a probationer ringer at the tower, officiated. In the evening a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples was rung half-muffled to the memory of one who was liked by all who knew him: A. W. Dix 1, C. N. Leman 2, H. P. Reed 3, R. C. H. Connolly 4, S. H. Hoare 5, F. H. Crook 6, H. G. Cashmore (conductor) 7, R. G. Bell 8.

IPSWICH LADY'S RECORD.

MISS SYLVIA BOWYER'S RAPID PROGRESS.

Forty-two Peals in a Year.

An Ipswich lady, Miss Sylvia Bowyer, has set up a new record for her sex by ringing, in the year 1937, no fewer than 42 peals, which have covered all numbers of bells from Doubles to Maximus. She is only 21 years of age.

Her ringing career began three years ago, when she joined the band at St. Matthew's Church, Ipswich. There were eight other ladies learning at the same time, this company having been got together by the Rector to be what he called a 'second eleven' to the men. As practice in handling was confined to only four bells, progress among the nine was, at first, slow. It was not until July, 1935, therefore, that Miss Bowyer rang the treble to her first 720 of Bob Minor. Although she soon learned to ring other methods inside, she did not ring her first peal until February 8th, 1936—an inside bell to a peal of Bob Major at Grundisburgh.

During that year she rang eight peals in all, ending up with Kent Treble Bob Maximus at St. Mary-le-Tower, her first peal on 12, but she had previously had two unsuccessful attempts at Cambridge Maximus.

Miss Bowyer did not start 1937 with the intention of breaking the record; in fact, she limited herself to two peals a month, but, like many other ringers, the more peals she rang the more she wanted, so her attempts grew to two or three each week, and her friends began to number her among the 'P.G.'s.

During 1937 she rang peals on all numbers from Doubles to Maximus, including Cambridge Surprise on six, eight, ten and twelve bells. Her total of 42 is not only the highest number of peals ever rung by a lady in one year, but is also the highest number of peals ever rung for the Suffolk Guild in one year by any one ringer. Miss Bowyer is also the only lady to conduct a peal for the Suffolk Guild and ring the tenor to one.

A ringer at St. Mary-le-Tower Church and a member of that society, she is also a member of the Suffolk Guild, the Ladies' Guild, the Essex Association and the Norwich Diocesan Association. The scope of her peals will be seen by the following list:—

	1936 Rung	1937 Rung
Cambridge Surprise Maximus	—	4
Kent Treble Bob Maximus	1	1
Stedman Cinques	—	1
Cambridge Surprise Royal	—	1
Rochester Surprise Royal	—	1
Grandsire Caters	—	1
Cambridge Surprise Major	—	3
New Cambridge Surprise Major	—	1
Superlative Surprise Major	—	2
Kent Treble Bob Major	2	3
Oxford Treble Bob Major	—	1
Double Norwich Court Bob Major	—	2
Bob Major	1	1
Cambridge Surprise Minor	1	2
Bob Minor	—	3
Bob Doubles	—	1
Total	8	42

She has conducted a peal of Kent Treble Bob Major, a peal of Minor in three methods and another in four methods.

MISS SYLVIA BOWYER.

DEATH OF MR. W. H. HOLLIER.

HON. TREASURER OF MIDDLESEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

We much regret to record the death of Mr. William Henry Hollier, of Chiswick, who passed away on December 29th. Some time ago he was badly broken up by a serious illness, from which he never seemed fully to recover, while the death of his wife was another serious blow to him. On Christmas Eve he was again taken ill, and three days later lapsed into unconsciousness, from which he never rallied.

Mr. Hollier was one of the most likeable of men. His connection with ringing began in 1902, while he was living in Kensington. In that year he joined the Middlesex County Association, but later his interest waned, and he dropped out about 1910, after having rung 20 peals with the society.

After the war his interest in ringing was rekindled, he rejoined the association, and in 1921 became hon. secretary of the South and West District and joint hon. secretary of the association, which position he occupied for ten years.

During this period he did some good work in helping to build up the district, and promoted the scheme for adding two trebles to the ring at Isleworth, to give the district another peal of ten. He acted as hon. secretary of the fund, for which he worked with untiring enthusiasm, and after many discouragements had the satisfaction of seeing the bells dedicated by the Bishop of Kensington on June 13th, 1931. Mr. Hollier gave a board, which now hangs in the church, recording details of the scheme, the names of the persons responsible for the augmentation, and date and details of the dedication service.

On his retirement from secretarial duties, Mr. Hollier became treasurer of the association, and continued in that office until his death. He was also treasurer of the William Pye Memorial Fund. He had represented the association on the Central Council since 1924, and was 'convener' of the Peal Records Committee.

He did not do a great deal of peal ringing in later years, but usually arranged a birthday peal for himself in February. He was also fond of a 'William' peal, and was particularly proud of one rung at Twickenham in February, 1934, for his birthday, a peal of Double Norwich Major, conducted by the late William Pye.

The funeral took place at Chiswick on Tuesday.

ANOTHER DEVON RESTORATION.

BROADCLYST BELLS IN A NEW FRAME.

After a silence of six months, the bells of the Parish Church of St. John the Baptist, Broadclyst, rang out on Tuesday, December 21st, after having been recast and rehung.

The old bell frame has been replaced with a modern one in cast-iron on a foundation of steel girders, and the bells, a ring of eight, tenor a little over a ton, have been hung with the latest type of fittings, designed not only so that the bells shall be rung with every possible degree of comfort, but also to minimise the cost of upkeep.

The peal was formerly a ring of six by Bilbie, dated 1768, two trebles to make eight being added to commemorate the jubilee of 1897. The recast peal bears the old inscriptions with the following additions:—

Treble.—In dear memory of Walter Mortimore, entered into rest 1932.

4th.—This bell was recast 1937 in loving memory of William Thirlwall Bayne, 1838-1917.

5th.—In dear memory of John A. Edmondson, from Jessie, his wife, Kathleen (niece), brother and family.

Tenor.—This peal of eight bells was recast and rehung by public subscription, 1937. The Right Honourable Sir Francis Dyke Acland, Bart., M.P., Patron. Rev. A. T. Allwork, M.A., Vicar. W. Trump, J. C. Channon, Churchwardens.

The blessing of the bells was carried out by the Bishop of Crediton in the presence of a large congregation. Among those present were Sir Francis D. Acland, M.P., the patron of the living, and Lady Acland.

The Rural Dean, the Rev. E. C. Grimaldi, acted as Bishop's chaplain, and the other clergy present were the Vicar (the Rev. A. T. Allwork), the curate (the Rev. S. Cheriton) and the Rev. T. Caldwell.

The churchwardens presented the ropes to the Bishop of Crediton, and after they had been handed to the Vicar, a short 'peal' was rung.

In an inspiring sermon the Bishop said they were rejoicing again in the voice of their beautiful bells, which had been silent for some months. He was sure that they rang out with special joy, particularly because they would be in use for the festival of Christmas. In Devonshire they were particularly rich in church towers that were furnished with peals of bells.

Their primary purpose was to call them to the worship of God, but they expressed in a wonderful way their feelings on occasions of national rejoicing. The bells also rang out to those who, through sickness or other urgent reasons, could not attend church to remind them of the Communion of Saints.

In conclusion the Bishop urged the people to exemplify in their lives the bells which rang true and harmoniously.

Despite the lateness of the service, many ringers from the neighbouring towers were present, and Mr. J. P. Fidler represented Messrs. John Taylor and Co., of Loughborough, who have made a very fine job of the work which was entrusted to them.

Broadclyst now possesses a peal that is a pleasure to listen to and a delight to handle.

NEW RINGS OF SIX IN CORNWALL. THREE WELCOME RESTORATIONS. Most Southerly Peal in England.

Cornwall has recently gained three new rings of six bells. All three are situated in the western part of the county and the Penzance District of the Diocesan Guild. The five bells at Wendron, near Helston, have been rehung in a new oak frame and increased to six by the addition of a new treble. At Landewednack, in which parish is situated the Lizard Head, the tower contained three bells of pre-Reformation date and dedicated respectively to SS. Anna, Nicholas and Mary Magdalene. The tenor of these three, being cracked, has not been included in the new ring, but has been retained as an object of interest. Four new bells have been added to the other two and the whole peal rehung in a new frame and fittings. These bells are now the most southerly ring in England.

The third restoration is at St. Mawgan-in-Meneage, where, on Saturday, December 18th, the Bishop of Truro (the Right Rev. J. W. Hunkin, D.D.) dedicated the restored and augmented ring. Three new bells have been added to the existing three, two of which have been recast and the whole hung in a new frame. A large and representative congregation attended this dedication. The Rector (Canon J. U. Yonge) conducted the service, and other clergy present were the Revs. D. E. Graves (Vicar of Constantine), who acted as Bishop's chaplain, A. D. Moon (Helston), H. D. Barrett (Landewednack), A. M. T. Dainty (Cary). The congregation included Lady Vyvyan (Trelowarren) and Mr. Alec Beechman, M.P. for the St. Ives Division.

The Diocesan Guild of Ringers was well represented by Dr. J. Symons (president) and Miss Eileen Symons, the Rev. W. H. R. Trewhella (secretary), Lt.-Col. C. F. Jerram (Master), Mr. W. H. Southard (vice-president) and ringers from Truro Cathedral, Galval, Helston, Cary, Manaccan, St. Anthony and Mullion.

During the afternoon and evening the various bands enjoyed ringing rounds, call changes, Bob, Grandsire and Stedman Doubles on the splendid new ring. Many expressed to Mr. J. P. Fidler, who represented the founders, Messrs. J. Taylor and Co., Loughborough, their appreciation of the work which his firm had carried out. Both the other restorations at Wendron and Landewednack have been carried out by the same firm, and it is needless to say that both are now excellent going and musical rings of six.

FUNERAL OF MR. J. J. PARKER.

QUARTER-PEAL FROM TWELVE-PART AS REQUIEM.

Handbells were rung at the graveside, when Mr. Joseph J. Parker, whose death we recorded last week, was laid to rest at Farnham Royal on December 23rd. The funeral service was conducted by the Rector and attended by many parishioners and a number of the deceased's old ringing friends. The chief mourners were Mr. and Mrs. Algernon Parker (son and daughter-in-law), Miss Fanny Parker (daughter), the Misses Parker (grandchildren). Among the ringers present were Messrs. W. H. Fussell (a friend of Mr. Parker's for over 60 years), T. J. Fowler (Cockham), G. Martin (Maidenhead), W. Birmingham (Slough), W. Henley, H. T. Batten, E. Cox and T. Eastwell (Farnham Royal), L. Stilwell (Windsor), W. Welling (Old Windsor), T. S. Smith (Windsor), G. Barkus (Slough), G. Gutteridge (Iver), W. Bateman (Stoke Poges), etc. Mr. A. D. Barker (hon. secretary of the East Berks and South Bucks Branch and treasurer of the Oxford Diocesan Guild) was unfortunately unable to attend.

The handbells used at the close of the cimmittal were a set over 100 years old (size 18 in G) with boxwood clappers. The church bells were rung muffled before the service, and afterwards a quarter-peal from the deceased's famous twelve-part was called by Mr. W. Welling. It was a requiem from his own creation.

Among the flowers were wreaths from the Oxford Diocesan Guild and the East Berks and South Bucks Branch.

Outside his activities as a ringer Mr. Parker rendered service to his village in many directions. He was a member of the Parish Council from its formation until a few years ago; for many years was village postmaster, and for long had charge of the village fire appliances. His hobbies were beekeeping and music, and in the latter connection he frequently assisted at concerts with violin, concertina and handbells.

VETERANS AT BARROW-ON-HUMBER.

At Holy Trinity Church, Barrow-on-Humber, Lincs, on December 28th, an honour was paid by the ringers to an old colleague, Mr. Charles Taylor, of Grimsby, on attaining his 70th birthday. A quarter-peal of Minor was rung (consisting of 1,080 Oxford Treble Bob and 180 Plain Bob), Mr. Taylor taking part. The ringers were James Goddard, jun. 1, Miss A. M. Goddard 2, Charles Taylor 3, Charles Chapman 4, Joseph Atkinson 5, Walter Goddard (conductor) 6. Touches of Bob Minor and Grandsire were also rung, in which Arthur Crowder and Edward Dannatt also took part.

The passing of the old year was marked according to custom. The bells were rung slowly until shortly before midnight, and at the hour the tenor was tolled twelve times by Mr. Edward Dannatt, who has completed 55 years as a ringer at this church and has always performed this duty. Afterwards the bells were rung merrily to greet the New Year by E. Fowler 1, Ronald Naylor 2, Frank Ward 3, E. Dannatt 4, T. Johnson 5, J. Atkinson 6. In contrast to Mr. Dannatt's long service, R. Naylor and F. Ward are youngsters just beginning.

IMPORTANCE OF GOOD RELATIONS WITH B.B.C.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—Now that the season of 'goodwill to all men' is over for another year, we can, I think, return to the attack.

'A College Youth' and J. A. Waugh in their letters suggest that:—
(1) My letter of December 3rd was written in haste and without due thought.

(2) It was written without knowledge of the facts.

(3) In writing as I did I was not minding my own business.

With regard to (1), may I assure them that I do not write letters without giving them the necessary thought beforehand, and this was no exception. Even now, nearly four weeks after writing it, I would not willingly alter it in any way.

As to my alleged ignorance of the facts, what is the position? It is now five weeks since the broadcast in question took place and we are still without an official explanation. Why? Is it because there is nothing to add to the newspaper report, or is it that ringers outside Mr. Roughton's own select circle are being tacitly told to mind their own business?

This brings me to (3), and, in spite of what Mr. Waugh thinks, I still contend that the matter is very much my business, as it is of any ringer who has the future welfare of the Exercise at heart. The programme in question was devised and produced 'in celebration of the tercentenary of the A.S.C.Y.' and it was not a little private matter between Mr. Roughton and the B.B.C.

At this point, and without wishing to appear to digress from the main subject, may I bring another point of view to bear?

As I view it to-day, the art and practice of change ringing is slowly, but nevertheless surely, dying out. In this county of Lancashire, which is one of the two most densely populated in the country, there is a miserable handful of 718 ringers sufficiently interested in their art and the welfare of their association to pay their annual subscription of 1s. 6d. each.

That is not the only disturbing feature. I dare to suggest that, if the average age of those 718 were computed, it would be found to be well on the wrong side of 40, and in 25 years from now at the present rate of 'progress' we shall have in the Lancashire Association an active membership of not more than 500 with an average age of over 50.

Something drastic, and fairly urgent in its application, is needed to prevent such a deplorable state of affairs from coming to pass, and I have at least two suggestions to offer. One is summed up under the heading of 'publicity.'

We cannot have too much publicity (of the right sort, of course), and, of all the various forms of that desirable commodity, broadcasting is undoubtedly the most effective.

Let us see to it, then, that nothing is done to prejudice our good relationship with the B.B.C. (also with the national newspapers and, through them both, with the general public).

To return to my original theme, therefore, that is why I contend that Mr. Willie Roughton's dispute with the B.B.C. is definitely my business, and I have every right to attack him, thinking as I do that he has done the Exercise a disservice by his action.

As regards the closing sentences of the second paragraph of Mr. Waugh's letter, may I inquire whether we are of that milk and water breed which dubs every attack 'spiteful' and approves only of letters and speeches of the 'back-scratching' variety?

P. W. CAVE.

WATFORD SURPRISE.

AN ORIGINAL PEAL.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—Will you allow me to congratulate Mr. Harold Cashmore on his peal of Watford Surprise. The method itself is a good one, though I am not prepared to say that it 'belongs' to anyone, and it would have been included in the Central Council book on Surprise Major, which awaits publication, only there did not seem to be any way of getting a true peal.

There are four very awkward false course ends 34562, 62345, 54263 and 46325—P.Q.R.S. we call them. They will allow of 24 true courses (those with the 6th at home and in 4th's place), which is more than is needed for a peal, but there is no means of joining them together.

Mr. Cashmore has used parts of all the true courses, and he has very cleverly made use of parts of false courses by taking advantage of a quality which is rather unusual. The sixth lead of a course with the 6th in second's is false against the first lead of a course with the 6th at home, but the first lead of a course with the 6th in seconds is false, not against any course with the 6th at home, but against one with the 6th in third's. Similarly, though the seventh lead of a course with the 6th in second's is false against the second lead of a course with the 6th in fourth's, the converse is not so.

That means that, besides your twenty-four true courses, you can also use courses with the 6th a second's place bell provided you do not ring the leads between the Before and the Home. The figures show how Mr. Cashmore has taken advantage of this.

The peals rung for new methods are usually adaptations of old compositions, but Mr. Cashmore's is really an original peal.

DEATH OF MR. W. T. ELLIOTT.*A WELL-KNOWN ESSEX RINGER.

A veteran Essex ringer passed away on Christmas Eve in the person of Mr. William Thomas Elliott, of Kelvedon. He was 76 years of age and well known in the belfries of the Eastern Counties. He had been a ringer for more than 50 years.

The name of the Elliott family has long been associated with change ringing, and for well over a century an Elliott has been a member of the St. Mary's band of ringers at Kelvedon. On his golden wedding in October of last year Mr. Elliott, his son, and his grandson took part in a peal, and a tablet in the tower commemorates that fact. All three were regular ringers at the church.

Mr. Elliott was a carpenter. As an Oddfellow he was a trustee of the local Prince Alfred Lodge, and was the first Noble Grand of the Local Britannia Lodge, Tiptree.

The funeral service was conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. R. W. Croft. Mr. D. J. Fairbrass, at the organ, played Mendelssohn's 'O rest in the Lord' and 'Blest are the departed' (Spohr), and the hymn, 'Praise, my soul,' was sung.

At the graveside handbells were rung by Messrs. G. Rashbrook, W. J. Nevard, D. Elliott and E. P. Duffield.

Many local organisations were represented at the funeral (which the widow was unable to attend), and the Essex Association was represented by Mr. F. Ridgewell (District Master), Mr. E. P. Duffield (Past Master), Miss Snowden (district secretary), Messrs. C. Snowden (Halstead), G. M. Rashbrook (Colchester), A. Evers (Witham), W. J. Nevard (Great Bentley), C. Burton and R. W. Pye (also representing St. Mary's, Kelvedon, ringers), and Mr. David Elliott.

After the service the bells were rung half-muffled to 720 Cambridge Surprise, and 360 Oxford Treble Bob Minor.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.*B.Y.P. AT OLD WINDSOR.

The brightness of the B.Y.P. was somewhat diminished by the wintry conditions prevailing in East Berks and South Bucks when they visited Old Windsor for their December practice. Nevertheless, some really good work was done, chiefly in Grandsire Triples for the beginners. Critics are asked to note! It was most gratifying to observe, contrary to general experience, how well represented were the local company. Mr. W. Welling, the steeplekeeper, is to be congratulated upon having secured and trained such a promising set of young ringers, whose enthusiasm, too, deserves commendation. All those present that evening must have felt that if every tower visited co-operated with its local association as this one did, the objects for which the various guilds and associations were formed would soon be achieved.

When those who had cycled had rediscovered that they possessed a pair of ears, they heard Grandsire Triples (in plenty), Stedman Triples and Double Norwich Major. A touch of Cambridge was attempted, but apparently became frozen, like the participants. Perhaps, like the conversations of Sir Humphrey Gilbert and his companions in the Arctic regions, it may thaw later, when we shall hear the missing changes jangling in our ears. So come and listen for them on January 22nd at Chalfont St. Peter. A. B.

PAYING MEMBERS.*To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—The subject of your leader of December 24th—the paying membership of associations—is not peculiar to the Lancashire or any other association, I should imagine. We in Suffolk have been up against the same trouble ever since the Guild started. The difficulty is to separate the payers from the 'scroungers.' That there is some number of the latter is evident from the fact that in 1936, 434 members of our association paid, whilst some 700 reports were sent out. That people can take a report, and then fail to pay their subscriptions—just over 4d. per week—is past understanding.

CHARLES J. SEDGLEY,
Ringing Master, Suffolk Guild.

ANOTHER OCTOGENARIAN YOUTH.

At St. Saviour's Church, Eastbourne, on Christmas Eve, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples: G. Hobbs 1, H. Reynolds 2, M. Wheat (Barrow-in-Furness) 3, G. Beeny (first quarter-peal in the method) 4, E. Bray 5, F. Dallaway (conductor) 6, A. Pankhurst 7, E. Gower 8.

Rung in honour of Mr. W. D. Smith, whose 80th birthday fell on December 13th, 1937. He is an honorary member of St. Saviour's band, but is best known for his connection with ringing in London, where he was an active member of the College Youths and Master in 1891, 1903 and 1904.

MAYOR VISITS BELFRY.

His Worship the Mayor of Gravesend, Councillor A. W. Howcroft, J.P., visited the belfry at Milton-next-Gravesend on Christmas Eve during the ringing for the midnight Communion.

After a short touch of Stedman Triples, the Mayor said he had accepted the invitation offered by Mr. Mitchell to see how the ringing was done. That was his first experience and he was greatly impressed in their work. Nothing, he said, sounded better on such a night as that than the sound of the bells. He wished the ringers every success in their work, and said he would welcome the sound of their beautiful bells when he visited the church on the first Sunday in the New Year, when the Mayor and Corporation attended in state.

DON'T SCRUB YOUR HANDS!

To many people, the problem of getting the hands really clean without harming the skin is a serious one. Grease and grime, which become deeply ingrained into the pores of the skin, are extremely difficult to remove, and ordinary washing with soap or even scrubbing will fail to remove them completely. Housewives, particularly, who complain that their hands get ruined by the nature of their work, will find the preparation called DERMAFOAM, a real "godsend." DERMAFOAM just smooths away dirt and grease without effort. It gets right down into the pores and removes every particle of grime, leaving skin beautifully supple and healthy.

Men, too—when you've finished that dirty job on the car, DERMAFOAM will quickly banish all grease and oil from your hands. It acts almost magically—working under and around the nails and into every minute crease, removing all trace of dirt in a flash.

Engineers, Painters, Car Mechanics, Printers — everyone — will welcome DERMAFOAM, the modern method of cleansing and protecting the hands.

B.B.C. AND RINGING.

The president of the Central Council made an interesting statement at the annual dinner of the Guildford Diocesan Guild, last Saturday, on the subject of bell broadcasts. One of the most important points in his speech was the assurance that, contrary to any fears which may have been provoked in some quarters by a recent occurrence, the relations between the British Broadcasting Corporation and the Ancient Society of College Youths, who were chiefly concerned, remain perfectly friendly, and the attitude of the B.B.C. towards bellringing is unimpaired. No one will begrudge the College Youths the limelight of publicity which their tercentenary attracted, even though their special broadcast had a tendency to relegate the rest of the ringing organisations of London and the country to the shadows. The 'quarrel' between the B.B.C. and one of the members of the society seems to have been a storm in a teacup, but it would be interesting to know who gave the advance information to the London newspapers—the B.B.C. or the member concerned. It was this publicity that stirred up outside feeling. It is, however, gratifying to know from the president of the Council that there is no risk of this personal squabble affecting the general relations of the B.B.C. with ringing.

Mr. Lewis was also able to tell the Exercise that the B.B.C. had asked him for criticisms on bell broadcasts and, as was to be expected from one who has been an unflinching critic on other occasions, he has given the B.B.C. some candid opinions. It is fully recognised by ringers that some of the examples of ringing that have been heard on the air have not only been a poor advertisement for the craft, but a disgrace. We can imagine that from no other source would the B.B.C. have tolerated such poor exhibitions of 'skill,' and it can only have been because there was no one in a responsible position capable of forming an opinion. Mr. Lewis' suggestion, therefore, that the B.B.C. should have a member of their staff trained as a critic of ringing is a very useful one. It might, however, be a shorter cut to the desired end if, in consultation with the president of the Central Council, half a dozen ringers of acknowledged ability in different parts of the country were appointed by the B.B.C. to carry out these duties in their respective areas. Such men, with clear and independent judgment, could, we have no doubt, easily be found, and 'ready-made' critics of long experience might simplify the task for the B.B.C. in more ways than one. But those who desire to see the credit of good ringing upheld in broadcasts will not mind which line the B.B.C. adopt, as long as they do something in the matter. We are not unhelpful that there may be a practical outcome of Mr. Lewis' criticisms. Unknown to him when making his speech, he had next to him, in the Provost of Guildford Cathedral, a member of the B.B.C. Advisory Committee on Religious Matters, into whose purview come the broadcast services. The Provost confessed himself deeply interested in and impressed by what Mr. Lewis had said, and, thus fortified, the president's criticisms which have gone to the B.B.C. may bear fruit.

'THE COLLEGE YOUTHS'

A History of the Society by J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE

'This is one of the very few books I have read which seem to me might, with advantage, have been considerably longer.'—The Dean of St. Paul's.

'Mr. Trollope has achieved more than his immediate purpose of writing a history of the Society of College Youths. So closely has the guild been identified with English change ringing that its history is to a very large extent an account of the ancient sport of ringing developed into an elaborate art. . . .

'Throughout his book Mr. Trollope takes his readers into a strange and fascinating world whose traditions so peculiarly English deserve far more popular attention than they usually receive.'—The Guardian.

FOR BEGINNERS.

RAISING AND FALLING IN PEAL.

The ability to raise and lower bells in peal should be acquired by every ringer, and it should be made a part of the training of the beginner. Unfortunately the practice of raising and falling in peal is nothing like as general as it ought to be and much good ringing is afterwards spoilt by the clashing of bells when they are let down. It is strange that so many bands 'shy' at raising and falling—processes which, if well carried out, add to the effectiveness of change ringing.

It needs practice, but there is nothing difficult about it. Moreover, it is a thing that should help the young ringer to learn bell control and improve the standard of his striking, for it is something that demands the use of his ears.

In raising in peal the process required is a steady pull at every stroke. The treble and then the other bells are swung so as to strike at a short interval after each other, the heavier bells gradually joining in. The treble is swung higher and higher, the others following at such intervals that the whole of them sound in rounds before the next blow of the treble. The intervals are gradually widened out until eventually the bells are up and under full command.

A great deal depends on the trebleman. He must endeavour to keep the rise going at a regular rate of progression, otherwise he will probably throw the whole of the bells into a heap. It is important to keep the bells going higher with each pull.

Good practice for the trebleman can be got by lashing the clappers of the treble and tenor bells; then, while the tenorman gradually pulls his bell up, the trebleman keeps his bell exactly at the opposite stroke.

Falling in peal is done, of course, by the opposite process to raising. The secret is keeping control of the bells all the way down. This does not mean, of course, that a bell can be 'held' when it is half-way down in the same way as can a bell when it is being rung full up; but it is possible to handle a bell so that it can be 'felt' all the way down, and so that a very slight pull on the rope will keep it a little wider or a slight check will close it in.

The bells begin at the usual 'rounds' pace and then gradually close in to a quicker compass as they fall. The tenorman really 'makes the pace,' and the trebleman must keep his bell at the opposite stroke to the tenor as long as his bell is 'sallying'—that is as long as a handstroke can be distinguished from a backstroke.

The fall of the treble should be steady and continuous and accommodated to the speed at which the tenor is coming down. One thing that should be avoided is to let the bells get partly down and stay there, or start going up again. Every ringer must use his ears, for a bell too fast or too slow for the others will soon spoil the effect of a fall. If a ringer finds he is too wide he must check his bell, but it should be done with judgment. If done too violently, the result will be that he hits the bell below him next time. If he is too close, he must pull his bell up just a trifle, but again with discretion. Or he may find himself too wide at the next stroke.

Good raising and falling, we repeat, can be done with practice, and it is practice that is well worth while, both from the point of view of the ringer and the public.

CLASHING MEETINGS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—As an officer of the association which appears to be the cause of some of the criticism by Mr. Cannon, will you kindly permit me to reply to his latest of many efforts in 'The Ringing World'?

The arrangement of meetings is the association's own concern, through its officers, and if neighbouring associations like to hold their meeting on the same day they should do so, because it is entirely their own business, and not that of interfering busybodies who have oceans of leisure time and little better to do but to write to 'The Ringing World' on the slightest pretext.

The visitors enjoy the hospitality of the association which is holding the meeting, and if they cannot 'bag' two fresh towers because of clashing meetings, well—what of it? Arrangements are not made specially for the visitors' benefit, although they are always welcome.

There is in some parts of the country the usual 'cut-throating' between associations. Mr. Cannon, if not too obtuse, should be cognisant of it. Clashing meetings would not affect the members of either association.

C. H. KIPPIN.

APPRECIATION.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—Will you kindly allow me space in your columns to thank the many friends from both far and near who have lately sent or written to me. I would like to make a few brief comments thereon. One friend says in a letter that he hardly knows what to say to me, being where I am. As if that should make any difference? Another who also sends a card with greetings adds some interesting news and the card I will quote, 'Oh be thou blest with all that Heaven can send, long health, long youth, long pleasures and a friend.' I leave your readers to judge for themselves what this beautiful quotation means to one, deprived of one's liberty and freedom. I need only add that the sender and receiver have been friends for more years than one cares to remember and with never a cross word between them. But what a contrast to others who choose to pass by on the other side! Further comment is needless.

PEAL NOTES.

Eight Past Masters of the Ancient Society of College Youths rang a peal of Stedman Triples at Milton-next-Gravesend on New Year's Day in honour of the tercentenary.

The ringers were J. S. Hawkins (St. Andrew's, Holborn), F. M. Mitchell (Milton-next-Gravesend), P. E. Clark (St. Stephen's, Ealing), J. Bullock (Dagenham), A. A. Hughes (St. Laurence Jewry), C. S. Burden (St. Paul's Cathedral), T. Groombridge (Chislehurst), E. A. Young (St. Clement Danes). It is over 12 years since Mr. E. A. Young rang a peal.

The conductor, Mr. Tom Groombridge, was fortunate in having his two stewards present, 'to see he carried out his job properly.'

A peal has probably never before been rung by eight Past Masters of the society, and this forms a new and very interesting record in connection with a memorable celebration.

A New Year's Day peal of Grandsire Triples was rung at Nantwich, Cheshire. Mr. J. Boyer, of Walkden, Lancs, kindly stood in at the last moment, in place of one of the local ringers, who was taken ill.

A highly creditable performance was achieved at South Shields on December 29th, when of a band of six, five rang their first peal, and the other his first as conductor. This was a peal of Minor in three methods.

Mr. Walter Ayre rang his 200th peal for the Hertford County Association at Bushey on January 1st, when four Surprise methods were spliced, with 116 changes of method. It was the fiftieth peal which Messrs. Harold Cashmore and Francis Kirk have rung together.

By ringing the tenor to a peal of Stedman Doubles at Powick, Worcestershire, on December 30th, 'Bill' Ranford achieved his ambition of completing a peal on each bell in the tower. He had previously rung six peals on these bells, all of which had been in seven methods.

This veteran at 68 still has enough enthusiasm to want to achieve another ambition, that of ringing a peal in 100 different towers. He only needs five more to do this.

Another veteran in the peal, R. G. Knowles, who is 71, rang his first peal of Stedman Doubles, thus, along with G. E. Large and R. Woodyatt, completing peals of Stedman from Doubles to Cinques. 'Tom' Lewis and 'Bill' Ranford had already accomplished this. Powick bells are a noble ring of six, with a tenor 23½ cwt. in E flat, but require hard work all the way through a peal.

NEW YEAR'S EVE PEALS.

For many years it has been a regular practice to attempt (and usually to ring) a half-muffled peal at Guildford Cathedral to mark the passing of the old year. The custom was carried out on Friday, but the peal was completed only just in time. The steeplekeeper had but three minutes in which to climb the tower and whip off the muffles before the midnight hour struck and the open bells heralded the new year.

Another half-muffled peal, which came round just before midnight, was Grandsire Triples at St. Mary-without-the-Walls, Chester. Open bells greeted the New Year. The peal was rung by the Sunday service ringers.

Miss Sylvia Bowyer rang her 50th peal on the last day of the old year at Bramford, Suffolk. Over 40 of her peals were rung in 1937.

The young band at Burnham, Bucks, have now added a peal of Kent Treble Bob Major to their society's peal book. This was rung just before midnight on New Year's Eve when the old year was tolled out, and the New Year was ushered in with a touch of Stedman Triples.

A local band at Aldershot rang a peal of Grandsire Triples for the watch-night service on New Year's Eve. It was Tom Denyer's first peal as conductor. His father has taught dozens of youngsters to ring on this light peal of bells, including all his family of two daughters and three sons.

The peal of Superlative Surprise at Conisborough, Yorkshire, on December 30th, was specially arranged for Mr. R. W. Barber, of Norwich. It was his first peal in the method, as it was also the first in the method by Messrs. Tom Brothwell and Norman Chaddock.

On the jubilee of St. Peter's Church, Woolton, Liverpool, which was consecrated on December 31st, 1887, a peal of Bob Major was rung to celebrate the anniversary.

A peal of Cambridge rung at Dartford on New Year's Eve brought to an end a year which has probably never been equalled during the 200 years of ringing at that tower.

Of the ten peals attempted, nine were successfully brought home, the one failure being a peal of Grandsire Triples, which was lost after 2 hours 45 minutes of good ringing.

The peals rung consisted of Bob Major 1, Grandsire Triples 1, Stedman Triples 3, Cambridge Surprise 2, Superlative Surprise 1, Double Norwich 1.

Four ringers shared in the conducting, one peal being N. Summerhayes' first as conductor, and three peals had the footnote 'First in the method as conductor,' while two peals were the first peal in the method for two ringers.

The peals included one rung for the Coronation, a wedding, a birthday compliment to Canon Mitchell, Vicar of Dartford, and a half-muffled peal to mark the passing of 'Ted' Brown, a Dartford ringer for 25 years.

The New Year's Eve peal was H. E. Audsley's 700th, and it is to be hoped he will be able to add another dozen rung at Dartford before the end of 1938.

Mr. Harry Prout learnt to ring at Litton Cheney, Dorset, 40 years ago, but he had never rung a peal on the bells until last New Year's Day, when a peal of Minor was specially arranged at this church to enable him to carry out this laudable ambition.

A peal of Treble Ten was rung in 3 hours 15 minutes at St. Giles' Church, Wrexham, on January 6th—the quickest peal of Royal on the bells, which have a tenor of 25 cwt. The peal was arranged and rung for the first anniversary of the wedding of the Vicar (Canon B. Davies) and Mrs. Davies, and in honour of the golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. William Jones. Mr. Jones is the respected verger of St. Giles' Church.

The first known peal by a local band at Hartlebury, Worcestershire, was rung on New Year's Day. It was 42 six-scores of Grandsire, rung as a compliment to Mr. Charles Beaman, who has been a Sunday service ringer at Hartlebury for 54 years, and to celebrate the golden wedding of two parishioners, Mr. and Mrs. Brown.

Although St. Laurence's, Reading, had had ten bells for many years before the ring was augmented to twelve, it was not until January 5th that a peal of Surprise Royal was rung on them.

There are many interesting performances that could be recalled in connection with this tower, but one must suffice. A peal was rung here some 50 years ago by a band all of the Christian name of William, and all of whom were regular ringers at St. Laurence's Church. The peal was called by William Williams.

GOOD START FOR NEW YEAR.

The peal of Stedman Caters at St. Mary's, Walthamstow, on New Year's Day, was rung after a period of peal inactivity. Some of the bells seemed to have developed a fit of obstinacy, which has now very largely worn off. It was at St. Mary's that the ten thousand of Cambridge Royal was rung in 1923.

The Worcestershire Association started the year well with a peal in five Surprise Major methods, Lincolnshire being added to the customary four. It was rung at Halesowen and conducted by Mr. Sid Holt. It was the quarterly peal for the Northern Branch and the first of Spliced Surprise in five methods by all the band, on the bells and for the association. The methods, Cambridge and Superlative, were rung as far as possible in alternate courses.

There is no limit to the enthusiasm of some ringers. Harry Willett and Alan Andrews cycled over 20 miles through wind and rain from Thorington in Essex to Hintlesham, Suffolk, to take part in a peal of Minor on January 2nd.

It was James Jennings' first peal as conductor, and as he is only 16 years of age and the peal was in four methods, great credit is due to him.

'Peal fever' seems to have attacked more than one ringer in that part of the world. Miss Sylvia Bowyer, to whose rapid progress we referred last week, started the New Year with this peal, and so, too, did Ronald Steward. He only began peal ringing on August 2nd, 1937, and this one was his twentieth.

There are ringers who sometimes complain that they are never asked to stand in peals. They should take a leaf out of Ronald Steward's book. He has arranged all but three of the peals in which he has rung.

On the seventeenth anniversary of the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Shelford Sparrow a peal of Kent Treble Bob Royal was rung at Stonham Aspal, Suffolk. The church has an unusual dedication, St. Lambert. Mr. W. C. Rumsey has now rung all the bells in this tower to a peal.

FROM CONDUCTOR TO COMPOSER.

The 'annual' peal for the Dudley and District Guild at Dudley Parish Church on January 8th was a birthday compliment to the Archdeacon of Dudley (the Ven. A. P. Shepherd) and Mr. Harry Goodman (one of the Dudley Parish Church band). It was the first peal of Kent Treble Bob Royal for the Guild, and Norman Leach's 50th peal.

Mr. Alfred Davies called a composition by Mr. W. H. Barber (now of Newcastle). Both were born at Clent, Worcestershire, but have not met for a number of years, and we have been asked to convey the best wishes of the conductor to the composer.

Mr. Robert Matthews rang the treble and completed the circle in this tower.

The first peal of Minor at Eardisland, Herefordshire, was rung on New Year's Day. Mr. Jabez Preece, of Staunton-on-Arrow, rang the treble. He took part in an attempt for seven 720's on these bells 15 years ago. The peal was lost after ringing five 720's. That was the last attempt made at Eardisland until January 1st.

On the first anniversary of the peal at Queen Camel (the heaviest ring of six in the country), the same band with one exception decided to meet again and attempt a peal on another heavy six. Permission was very kindly given by the Rev. D. Fitzmaurice for the use of Semley bells, the heaviest six in Wiltshire, and the party were met at the church by the Vicar and the local band, who kindly elected the visitors members of the Salisbury Guild.

A well-struck peal was rung, and afterwards the visitors were kindly entertained to tea with the local band in the Parish Hall. The Vicar's wife was responsible for the arrangements for tea with her helpers. The Vicar extended a welcome to the visiting ringers, and also said how much he appreciated the services of his local band. The Rev. C. Elliot Wigg thanked the Vicar for his warm welcome and kind hospitality.

Mr. Richard Wilson, who rang his first peal of Minor 'inside,' on January 1st at Gamston, Notts, had never before struck a blow in three of the methods—Double and Single Oxford and St. Clement's.

BELLS AND BROADCASTING.

CENTRAL COUNCIL PRESIDENT'S SUGGESTION.

Friendly Relations with the B.B.C.

Some important references to bells and broadcasting were made by the president of the Central Council (Mr. E. H. Lewis) at the annual dinner of the Guildford Diocesan Guild. He referred to the publicity which had been given to bells and bellringing through various broadcasts, and alluding to a recent 'incident' which has been the subject of letters in 'The Ringing World,' said: 'I think it may ease the minds of many ringers up and down the country if I tell them there is not the slightest quarrel or feeling of any sort between the B.B.C. and the Ancient Society of College Youths, or ringers generally (hear, hear). The relations are most friendly, and I would like to say this, those ringers who do not live in London should realise that we in London take very little notice of what we see in the evening papers (laughter). But what did appear may have had a certain amount of publicity value, because I think a good many people may have switched over on November 24th to hear the "Bells over London" broadcast who would not have done so, but for certain paragraphs which appeared in the cheap newspapers.

'So friendly are our relations with the B.B.C.,' added Mr. Lewis, 'that I was asked a short time ago to put into writing for them the criticisms of the broadcasts of bellringing which I had given to them verbally—and I had put my criticisms verbally pretty strongly (laughter). When I wrote that letter I told them what I thought about the broadcasts of bells and what I thought of certain ringers who broadcast. I said the fault was not solely with the B.B.C.

'I pointed out that in the past there had been three kinds of broadcast bellringing. There was one sort, where the bells were broadcast before services, and they told me at Broadcasting House, what I had already suspected, that churches were chosen for broadcast services more or less on a local basis. They decided that there should be a broadcast from a certain district. I don't know how they select the church, but, having selected it, they had to take the bells and the ringers as they found them, in the same way that they had to take the organist, the choir and the parson as they found them, and if there was anything wrong with the ringing, or the choir, or the organist, or the parson, presumably it was the fault of those people and not necessarily the fault of the B.B.C.

A TRAINED CRITIC SUGGESTED.

'Naturally the B.B.C. wanted constructive criticism,' said Mr. Lewis, 'and I suggested they should try to train one of the staff as a critic of bellringing. I said the Central Council, in particular, would be glad to do what they could to get one of the members of the B.B.C. staff the necessary education. When a man had been so educated, and the B.B.C. were going to broadcast a service from some church, he should go and hear how the local ringers could ring and the bells should not be broadcast unless he passed the ringing as suitable' (hear, hear).

Another form of bell broadcast, continued Mr. Lewis, had been in special 'bells' programmes. A little more than a year ago the B.B.C. ran a series in the Northern Regional called 'The Ringing Isle.' They picked a number of churches and made the bells the main item in the programme. In each case they got the Vicar to give a little talk about the church and bells, and they had specimens of local ringing. Quite a number were very bad.

There again, he pointed out to the B.B.C. that before they chose the church they should have got into touch with some responsible official of the local association or guild and asked his opinion as to the abilities of the ringers. The Central Council would have been pleased to supply them with the names and addresses of the secretaries of the societies.

The other form of bell broadcast was where the bells were brought in incidentally. Mr. Stephen Wood, at the College Youths' dinner, mentioned an incident, not in actual broadcasting, but in connection with the film, 'Fire Over England,' where, in celebration of the victory over the Armada, they heard bells ringing. 'You could pick out twelve bells and you could pick out Stedman Cinques,' said Mr. Lewis. 'Considering Stedman was not invented until a hundred years after the Armada and it was at least fifty years later before a peal of Cinques was rung, you can imagine it was not very appropriate to the occasion.' Another incident was when the B.B.C. wanted bells in a Christmas programme, so they put on a record which they happened to have of St. Paul's bells muffled (laughter).

'I hope,' added Mr. Lewis, 'we shall be able to keep in touch with the B.B.C. and that our recent efforts will bear fruit and that the B.B.C. will take a little advice to prevent some of those rather incongruous incidents happening again' (applause).

The Master of the Guild (Major J. H. B. Hesse), replying to the toast to the Guild, proposed by Mr. Lewis, said he was glad to hear that the B.B.C. were friendly with regard to ringing, because he was sure that it was an education to many ringers to hear really good ringing broadcast. On January 30th the bells of his old home tower, Wrington, were to be broadcast before a service. There was some argument whether the local ringers should do it or whether they should get a visiting team. Personally he felt the local ringers should do it. They rang for the services every Sunday and turned up well for practices. He thought they deserved to ring for the broadcast, but it would be better to have good rounds and 'queens' than bad change ringing (applause).

Later the Provost of Guildford (the Very Rev. E. G. Southam), replying to another toast, surprised the company by saying that Mr. Lewis might be interested to know that he (the Provost) was a member of the Advisory Committee of the B.B.C. for Religious Services. That committee, he said, acted in an advisory capacity to the Director of Religion, and was ultimately responsible with regard to the choice of churches from which services were broadcast, and had power to give advice with regard to those churches. He was, therefore, tremendously interested to hear what Mr. Lewis said because very few of the committee realised the problem or the difficulties of ringing such as Mr. Lewis had now put before them. He (the Provost) now certainly had a knowledge which he had not got before he came to that dinner, which made him even more grateful that he had been invited to be present that night.

The Provost added that there was to be a broadcast later in the year for the first time from Guildford Cathedral and the bells were to be rung before the service. He was sure the ringers would show the world what a magnificent team they had at Holy Trinity (applause).

'BELLS OVER LONDON.'

Dear Sir,—It is with regret that I have to return to this subject, but there are some points in Mr. Cave's further letter which require correction. Firstly, it has never been contended that the actual broadcast itself was a private affair, but the question of whether Mr. Roughton participated in it or not, and the reasons which prompted his decision, most emphatically are. After all, no one can deny his right to withdraw, if he did not like the part which he was required to play, and if lack of precaution on the side of the B.B.C. prevented this emergency from arising until such time as it necessitated the alteration of their published programme, that, surely, is not Mr. Roughton's fault? To demand 'official explanations' from him under such circumstances is palpably unreasonable.

Finally, I am not concerned whether Mr. Cave's attacks are spiteful, milk and watery, or merely idiotic. I am not even concerned whether he takes four weeks to prepare them, or gets 'eight days (no option)' for them. The closing sentences of the second paragraph alluded to have reference to spiteful personal remarks to which exception is taken on the grounds that they are both extraneous to the argument and rude.

J. A. WAUGH.

Woodford.

DOES PUBLICITY BRING NEW MEMBERS?

Dear Sir,—I cannot resist replying to your correspondent, Mr. Cave.

Surely Mr. Cave does not use Christmas as a truce and only bears peace and goodwill for two or three days in the year. It certainly reads like this, and, if it is so, I can very well understand the 'miserable handful' in the Lancashire district, whereas a little brotherliness works wonders.

I admit that righteous indignation is a good thing at times, but it must not be used over the London broadcast. If a Corporation and an individual do or do not have business together, I cannot see how this affects anyone else. As Mr. Roughton did not broadcast, how can he possibly damage the Exercise? Anyway I admire Mr. Roughton's silence and will not continue to aggravate a diplomatic position.

Finally I do not agree with Mr. Cave over publicity. We do not want to be on the right side of any particular secular body. Our work is to broadcast God's message to the people of this land, not our own, and the more intensely and quietly we go about it the better. New members in the art can only be gained by incessant hard work and cheerfulness on the part of Masters, conductors and secretaries. Advertising our service only brings mild sympathy and sometimes amusement, but no new members. Of this I am sure.

Barking, Essex.

A. HAROLD WARBOYS.

ONE HUNDRED PEALS FOR NORWICH ASSOCIATION.

Mr. F. Seager recently rang his one hundredth peal for the Norwich Diocesan Association. The century is made up as follows:—

Royal.—Kent Treble Bob 3, Spliced Kent and Oxford 1.

Major.—Oxford Treble Bob 4, Kent Treble Bob 4, Double Norwich 8, Superlative Surprise 9, Cambridge Surprise 5, New Cambridge Surprise 6, Norfolk Surprise 3, Bristol Surprise 4, London Surprise 6.

Minor.—Two methods 1, three methods 2 (conducted 1), seven methods 16, fourteen methods 3, twenty-one methods 1.

Surprise Minor.—Seven methods 22, ten methods (7,200) 1, fourteen methods (in seven 720's, the first ever rung) 1. Total 100.

PEAL NOTES.

The Bells were ringing in a double sense when the 77th birthday of the Rector of Scotow was celebrated with a peal of Minor. Jean, George and Dennis Bell took part.

Mr. W. H. Hewett, who called Mr. C. H. Kippin's first peal (Stedman Caters) in November, 1921, has now called Mrs. C. H. Kippin's first peal of Stedman Caters, which was rung at Beddington, Surrey, on January 8th. The composition was by an old Beddington stalwart, Edgar Bennett, and is in four quarters, alternately in the titums and handstroke positions.

HALF-MUFFLED FAREWELL TO 1937.*DATE TOUCH AT HIGHAM.

At Higham St. Mary, Norfolk, on New Year's Eve, a half-muffled date touch (1,937 changes) of Bob Minor in 1 hour 10 minutes: Mrs. L. Wright (longest length) 1, Miss S. R. E. Bowyer 2, F. Smith 3, R. W. Steward 4, L. Wright 5, U. W. Wildney (conductor) 6. After midnight the bells were 'fired' and a touch rung 'open.'

Pinner Society also met on New Year's Eve to ring the old year out and new one in. Some excellent ringing was carried through. To the regret of all one of the oldest members, Mr. T. Humphreys, who has taken part in ringing on similar occasions for 53 years, was unable to be present owing to illness. The members all expressed the hope that Mr. Humphreys would soon be back with them again to continue the record.

An unsuccessful attempt for a peal at Leatherhead, Surrey, on New Year's Eve was followed a quarter-peal of Grandsire Caters (1,259 changes): *F. Johnson 1, *E. Bugden 2, A. H. Winch 3, A. C. Otway 4, W. J. Newbury 5, A. Harman 6, W. J. Whiting 7, J. Hoyle 8, A. H. Smith 9, G. Marriner 10. Conducted by A. H. Winch. * First quarter-peal on ten bells. Rung to mark the 60th anniversary of the augmentation of the bells to ten. When the old Winchester Diocesan Guild was formed in 1879, Leatherhead was the only ten-bell tower in the diocese. The tower is now in the Guildford Diocese.

At Deeping St. Nicholas, Lincs, on New Year's Eve, a quarter-peal of Bob Minor: F. Brightman (first quarter-peal) 1, F. Taylor 2, W. Duffy 3, H. Taylor 4, E. Brown (first quarter-peal away from treble) 5, C. E. Black (first as conductor) 6.

At St. Mary's Church, Frensham, Surrey, on New Year's Eve, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Doubles with the bells half-muffled: Miss D. I. Aslett 1, G. Ackerman 2, E. J. Heath 3, D. W. Dadson (first quarter-peal) 4, A. J. Chuter (conductor) 5, E. A. Case 6.

A WELL-KNOWN ESSEX RINGING FAMILY.*THREE GENERATIONS IN TOUCH AT SAFFRON WALDEN.

Three generations of the Pitstow family took part in ringing for service at Saffron Walden on Sunday evening, December 26th. They were Mr. Ernest Pitstow, of Saffron Walden, his son, Mr. Harold Pitstow, and his grandson, Malcolm Pitstow, the two last named now residing at Banstead, Surrey.

Malcolm (aged 14) rang the treble to touches of Bob Major and Grandsire Triples and shows great promise. Two other members of the family also rang in these touches, e.g., Messrs. A. E. and L. E. Pitstow. It is hoped that as many as possible of the family will take part in Malcolm's first peal, which we trust will soon be accomplished.

SHEFFIELD DISTRICT SOCIETY.*A GOOD START FOR THE NEW YEAR.

An excellent meeting of the Sheffield and District Society was held on New Year's Day at St. Stephen's, Eastwood, Rotherham, the following towers being represented: York, Wath, Felkirk, Sherburn-in-Elmet, Ranmoor (St. John's), Sheffield Cathedral, Handsworth, Rotherham Parish Church, Eckington and the local company. About 45 sat down to tea, after which a course of Grandsire Caters and a touch of Bob Major were rung on handbells.

Ten new ringing members were elected: four from Sherburn and six from Eastwood, including the new Vicar and curate. The Vicar, the Rev. Pat Kennedy, took part in the ringing.

The eight bells at St. Stephen's were kept going successfully in Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Plain and Little Bob Major, Kent, Oxford, Double Norwich, St. Clement's Major, Duffield, Cambridge, Superlative and London Surprise Major, with an abundance of rounds for the beginners. A good standard of striking was maintained and the bells were lowered in peal.

It is hoped that this meeting is the forerunner of many successful meetings, for attendance, striking and methods. Members of the society are asked to make 1938 a really successful year for progress in ringing in the area.

LADIES' GUILD.*ARRANGEMENTS FOR FUTURE MEETINGS.

A meeting of the Central District of the Ladies' Guild was held at St. George's, Southwark, on Saturday, January 1st, and was very well attended. Owing to the absence of the Vicar, no service was held.

After tea, to which 40 sat down, at Lyons, a short business meeting was held in the Choir Vestry, some 20 members being present.

Miss L. Wickens, of Broadstairs, was elected a member, and Mrs. Diserens was re-elected a member.

It was announced that Erith (St. John's) had been fixed as the place of the March meeting, which is to be held on the 12th.

As the annual general meeting of the Guild will be held in London this year, it was proposed to make the May meeting the annual meeting of the Central District to avoid clashing, and Christ Church, Ipsom, was proposed, the date to be May 7th.

It was decided to hold a meeting on Wednesday, February 2nd, at Kingsbury, if possible.

Mrs. Fletcher announced that she had received a letter from Mr. Sharman, inviting the Guild to Dunstable, and suggestions had been made to make a day's outing to Dunstable, if possible, on a Saturday in June, probably the 18th.

There being no other business, further ringing took place.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

All the officers of St. Martin's Guild were re-elected at the annual meeting on Saturday week, and it was announced that the Bishop of Birmingham had promised, if possible, to attend the Henry Johnson dinner on March 5th.

As Bow bells are not available, the meeting of the College Youths next Tuesday will be at headquarters (The Coffee Pot).

We are glad to say that Mr. J. E. Davis, who has been suffering from septic poisoning, is now well on the road to recovery, although still in the doctor's hands. Practices will be resumed on Monday nights at St. Botolph's, Bishopsgate, from next week, January 17th.

At the special service to be held to-morrow at St. Giles', Camberwell, in connection with the annual meeting of the Southern District of the London County Association, at which the Lord Bishop of Southwark will give the address, special bell hymns will be sung and a course of Stedman Triples rung on handbells in the chancel.

The annual meeting of the North and East District of the Middlesex Association, arranged for St. Giles-in-the-Fields on January 29th, has been transferred to St. James', Clerkenwell.

The name of the ringer of the 4th in the peal of London Surprise at Westoughton, Lancs, on December 4th, was Arnold Brunton and not Harold as published.

IPSWICH SOCIETY'S 1937 RECORD.

MORE THAN 144,000 CHANGES IN PEALS AND TOUCHES.

The annual meeting of St. Mary-le-Tower Society, Ipswich, was held on January 4th, when the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Master, Mr. George A. Fleming; Deputy Master, Miss Sylvia R. E. Bowyer; treasurer, Mr. Charles J. Sedgley; steeplekeeper, Mr. Frederick J. Tillett; auditors, Messrs. Robert H. Brundle and William P. Garrett; secretary, Mr. George E. Symonds, 28, Chevallier Street, Ipswich.

The secretary, in his report, stated that the society had rung eight peals on St. Mary-le-Tower bells during 1937, viz.: Cambridge Maximus 4, Kent Treble Bob Maximus 1, Stedman Cinques 1, Rochester Royal 1, Cambridge Royal 1, total 41,439 changes. In addition for services and practices there had been rung 32 courses of Cambridge Maximus, 16,896 changes; 20 courses of Superlative Maximus, 10,560 changes; Rochester, Double Norwich and other Maximus methods, 9,624 changes; Stedman and Grandsire Cinques, 10,493 changes; Rochester (12,840) and other Royal methods, 36,380 changes; touches of Caters, 5,273 changes; touches of Major, 12,352 changes; touches of Triples, 1,679 changes; total for the year, 144,696 changes. This is an average of 2,782 changes per week. These figures do not include failures in peals and touches. The total for 1936 was 118,618 changes.

In addition to the above, the society rang a peal of Superlative Surprise Major at St. Margaret's, Ipswich, composed and conducted by Mr. C. J. Sedgley.

Mr. Robert H. Brundle rang in the peal of Kent Treble Bob Maximus in his 87th year, and he is believed to be the oldest man to ring a peal of Maximus. There were 39 ringers starred as 'firsts.'

SAXMUNDHAM REQUIRES HELP.

SUFFOLK VILLAGE'S APPEAL.

For over 15 years it has not been possible to ring the bells of the church in the small market town of Saxmundham in East Suffolk, but at Easter it is hoped they will peal once more.

There are six bells, three of which are pre-Reformation, and they are in good order, but the frame, which is at least 300 years old and which incorporates part of an older frame, the bell wheels, etc., were so badly decayed through the ravages of the death-watch beetle that a new frame was a necessity. This is being constructed for eight bells with an eye to the future, but before it can be placed in position it is necessary that a concrete beam should be placed inside the tower to ensure its safety. The cost of the work is about £300. This comparatively small sum is, however, a formidable one to Saxmundham, for only recently a debt of £1,760 for repairs to the roof of the church, again due to death-watch beetle, has been paid off after many years of struggle. An appeal is being made to all bell lovers to assist Saxmundham in its undertaking. Sums small or large will be gratefully received and acknowledged by the Bell Master, Mr. F. Watling, South Entrance, Saxmundham, or by the Rector, the Rev. F. W. Moyle.

A LONDON RINGER IN HOSPITAL.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—Many London ringers will regret to know that Mr. A. Riley is a patient in St. Pancras L.C.C. Hospital, King's Road, N.W.1. He is enduring a painful illness with great pluck and patience, and a few words about bellringing do help to keep up his spirits.

He often asks about many of his old ringing chums, and Mr. Riley would be most pleased to see any who could spare a few minutes between the hours of 2 p.m. and 3.45 p.m. on Wednesdays or Sundays. Being in bed week after week, with the same four walls around, does get a little tiring and monotonous, and an occasional 'fresh' old face is like another ray of sunshine.

Mr. Riley was steeplekeeper at the Church of St. John of Jerusalem, South Hackney, for many years, and is a member of the College Youths and the London County Association.

LEADING CONDUCTORS—I.

GEORGE WILLIAMS.

In this series of articles, which we hope to give relating to the Conductors whose names are already well-known in the Exercise, or who are among the coming men, no better beginning can be made than with Mr. George Williams, Vice-President and Master of the Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan, who, at 80 years of age, is the oldest ringer to figure regularly among the peal conductors.

Mr. Williams is a Hampshire man, and rang his first peal in 1883 at the little village of Soberton. The object of that peal was to score the first on the bells—which had recently been augmented to eight—and the first peal in the county by the newly-formed Winchester Diocesan Guild. Hampshire and Surrey had to be scoured to find a Grandsire Triples band. Mr. Williams did not ring another peal for a year, and then he called one. Now he has rung 1,450 and conducted over a thousand.

That bare statement, however, does not indicate Mr. Williams' real contribution to the art of ringing. During his ringing lifetime he has taught an almost endless string of young ringers, and spent much time in helping aspirants through peals from Grandsire to the higher flights. Many ringers to-day owe what success they have achieved to Mr. Williams' encouragement.

It was while he was at Brighton in the nineties that he first achieved fame, for he was the main-spring behind the progress made by St. Peter's Society in Surprise method ringing and in advancing in new methods. The band at that time were almost the first to ring anything beyond London, Cambridge and Superlative.

They rang the first peal of Bristol Surprise, and some methods which are now no longer practised, but which at that time earned the Brighton band admiration for their performances.

Mr. Williams has never set himself out for records; his peals have come mostly in the 'usual routine,' as he has put it. He has rung peals in more than 300 towers in England, Ireland, Wales and Scotland, and called peals in cathedrals as far apart as Dundee and Truro. He has rung a peal in all but six counties in England, and among the outstanding events which he looks back upon with peculiar pleasure are the first peal on the bells at Exeter Cathedral; the first peal of London Surprise in the City of London, and the peal, not long since, in the City, by the band all of whom had rung upwards of a thousand peals.

When living in Brighton Mr. Williams was for years hon. secretary of the Central District, and when he left the county was elected an honorary life member in recognition of his services.

After returning to Hampshire he filled the office of hon. secretary of the Winchester Diocesan Guild, of which he was afterwards made vice-president and Master. He has been a member of the Central Council from its formation.

At North Stoneham, with which tower he became associated when living at West End, near Southampton, he built up a new band and quickly got the bells augmented to eight. To celebrate their golden wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Williams gave two new bells, making the lightest ring of ten in any church in the country; and in memory of his wife Mr. Williams has since presented to the church a handsome oak belfry screen. In this tower Mr. Williams has rung over two hundred peals. With mental and physical powers still equal to many men twenty years his junior, Mr. Williams will, we hope, long continue to enjoy the art of which he is so brilliant an exponent, and to remain our oldest conductor.

MR. GEORGE WILLIAMS.

A HALF PEAL.

An attempt for a peal of Bob Minor at Old Radnor, Radnorshire, on Saturday, January 8th, had to be curtailed to half a peal owing to the bad 'go' of the bells, especially the tenor, which is 16 cwt. The ringers were Brian Elsmore 1, Trevor Jones 2, Leslie Evans 3, Harry T. Chandler 4, William Duggan 5, Ernest F. Salmons (conductor) 6. The bells were cast by Rudhall in 1724 and are of excellent tone.

YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION.

EASTERN DISTRICT AT HOWDEN.

The quarterly meeting of the Eastern District of the Yorkshire Association was held at Howden on Saturday, January 8th, and was attended by over 40 ringers from Beverley Minster, Far Headingley, Goole, Hemmingbrough, Hessle, Howden, Hull, Kirk Ella, Market Weighton, Pontefract, Selby Abbey, Sherburn-in-Elmet and York Minster, with visiting ringers from Barton-on-Humber, Barrow and Ulceby, Lincolnshire. Several lady ringers were present. The company attended choral evensong in the fine old church, at which the Vicar, the Rev. A. Waring, preached.

An excellent tea was provided in the Manor House Cafe. This building was formerly a palace of the Bishops of Durham, Howden, at one period, being in Durham Diocese before being transferred to the Diocese of York.

The president of the association (the Rev. Canon C. C. Marshall) presided at the business meeting, when an invitation to hold the annual district meeting at Sherburn-in-Elmet was unanimously accepted.

Three new members were elected: Messrs. Leslie Woodhead, of Goole, Henry Easton, of Market Weighton, and Charles Palfreman, of Sherburn-in-Elmet.

A vote of thanks to the Vicar was moved by Mr. F. Cryer and seconded by Mr. D. Meadley, and after the chairman had expressed his appreciation of the Vicar's kindness in taking the service and attending the meeting and tea, the Rev. A. Waring replied and welcomed the association to Howden.

A vote of thanks to the organist, choir and local company was passed on the motion of Mr. W. Pearson and seconded by Miss Bowling and responded to by Mr. Thompson and the organist.

Further ringing on tower and handbells concluded a very happy meeting. The methods rung included Double Norwich, Plain Bob and Treble Bob Major, Grandsire and Stedman Triples, and Plain and Treble Bob Minor.

NORTH STAFFORDSHIRE ASSOCIATION.

A RECTOR'S APPEAL TO RINGERS.

A meeting of the North Staffordshire Association was held on Saturday, January 8th, at Norton-le-Moors. Forty-five members were present from Burslem, Biddulph, Brown Edge, Draycott, Cheadle, Kingsley, Leek, Longton, Norton, Newcastle, Stoke-on-Trent and Tunstall.

A welcome to Norton was extended to the association by the Rector (the Rev. J. G. Hamlet), who appealed to those who had not become communicants to do so, as he felt that this would crown the good work being done by ringers, and would help to bring about a greater bond of fellowship.

Mr. J. E. Wheeldon also referred to ringers' attendance at church, saying their attendances were not as good as they ought to be.

A vote of thanks was proposed by Mr. T. Hurd to the Rector and ringers for the use of the bells and the way they had been looked after.—It was seconded by Mr. G. E. Plant, who also commented on the cleanliness of the belfry. It is a well-known fact in North Staffordshire that Norton sets the example in this respect to the rest of the towers.

A vote of thanks to the ladies for serving tea was proposed by Mr. H. Carnwell and suitably responded to by Mrs. J. G. Hamlet. Mr. J. W. Walker, of Norton, addressed a few words to the meeting. He said he thought he was the only one living who was present at the inaugural meeting of the association on Saturday, December 16th, 1882.

A letter was read from the Earl of Harrowby, who thanked the ringers for ringing a peal in commemoration of his wedding day. He and the Countess very much appreciated the compliment and the kind wishes of the association.

DEDICATION OF A PEAL BOARD.

On Sunday, January 2nd, during evening service at All Saints' Church, Chilvers Coton, Nuneaton, a peal board, recording a peal of Bob Major, rung with the bells half-muffled to the respected memory of Sir Francis A. Newdigate-Newdegate, G.C.M.G., of Arbury, Nuneaton, patron of the living, was dedicated by the Vicar, the Rev. F. W. Moyle, M.A., in the presence of a large congregation, which included Lady Newdigate-Newdegate and her two daughters, Mrs. L. FitzRoy Newdegate, and Mrs. S. Baillie.

The peal board, of oak, was designed and executed by Mr. Ernest Stone, the inscription being carved by hand, and evoked many congratulations upon a fine piece of workmanship.

The ringing prior to service included a course of Bob Major by the peal band standing in the same order.

RINGER'S SILVER WEDDING.

On Sunday, January 2nd, at Christ Church, Swindon, Wilts, a quarter-peal of Stedman Caters (1,257 changes) was rung as a compliment to Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Bishop on the occasion of their silver wedding: A. Lawrence 1, C. J. Gardiner 2, W. W. T. Daniell 3, G. W. Townsend 4, H. W. Bishop 5, R. G. Townsend 6, A. G. Wells 7, H. W. L. Wells 8, W. B. Kynaston (conductor) 9, A. E. W. Smith 10.

ANNUAL DINNER.

President of Central Council Discusses Important Topics.

The annual dinner of the Guildford Diocesan Guild, held at the Lion Hotel, Guildford, on Saturday, was again a very enjoyable event. Major J. H. B. Hesse, Master of the Guild, presided over a company numbering about 90, which included the Provost (the Very Rev. Canon E. G. Southam), Mr. W. Harrison (vice-president), Canon E. M. Girling (Farnham), Canon G. F. Coleridge (Master of the Oxford Diocesan Guild), Mr. E. H. Lewis (president of the Central Council and Master of the Ancient Society of College Youths), Mr. J. Corbett (hon. treasurer) and Mr. J. S. Goldsmith (hon. secretary of the Guild), Mr. C. T. Coles (hon. secretary of the Middlesex Association) and members from Guildford (Cathedral and S. Nicolas'), Aldershot, Pirbright, Worplesdon, Godalming, Haslemere, Witley, Leatherhead, Cobham, Farnham, Seale, Bagshot, West Clandon, etc. Apologies for absence were received from the Bishop of Guildford, Bishop C. H. Golding-Bird, who was indisposed, the Ven. E. J. Newell, Mr. C. F. Johnston, Mr. A. A. Hughes and Mr. A. J. Corrigan.

The toast of 'The President, Vice-President and Honorary Members' was proposed by Mr. J. Corbett, who thanked them for their support. A bigger list of honorary members would, he said, enable the Guild to give more to bell restorations. To-day, more than ever, their ringing could be a message in lots of ways. On Sundays many people left home by motor-cars and as they went along often one in the car said, 'Hark! Church bells.' The sound of the bells awakened that latent feeling and let them know what the day was and what the bells were for.

Canon E. M. Girling (who was formerly Vicar of Leiston, Suffolk) said he was not quite sure that he could be called an honorary member. Not very long ago they had a gift day at Farnham and he chimed a bell seven times after every gift. In the course of the day he received £200, so he worked pretty hard for an honorary member (laughter). His recollections of bellringing went back to the days when he was a very small boy in Suffolk and used to watch with great interest the gymnastics of their verger when he used to chime three bells at once—one with each hand and one with his foot. Later he had a lesson in real ringing. The verger said to him, 'Y'll take hold of that daffy and pull, and then let go else it will knock your brains out against the roof' (laughter).

He was pleased to be an honorary member, because, among other things, bellringing was essentially English. On the Continent they heard bells jangling, but they did not hear those ordered sequences. Bellringers now realised that their work was part of the religious work of a parish. There was a time when the ringers used to ring and depart to that institution which was usually found close to a church. He thought those bad old days were gone, and it was splendid to see ringers after they had rung their bells at 5.30 a.m. on Christmas morning coming to their Communion service.

POINTS IN GOOD STRIKING.

Mr. E. H. Lewis, proposing the toast of 'The Guildford Diocesan Guild,' dealt with some of the subjects which have lately been very much before ringers through 'The Ringing World.' Somebody, he said, had recently asked for a definition of perfect striking. He would give as a definition, 'Such striking that the most experienced ringer could not detect the slightest deviation from the rhythm in the blows of a single bell from start to finish.' Some people thought that was impossible, but he believed they were to hear that evening a 'record' which showed that it was possible—possible at any rate on handbells, and, he believed, possible in the tower. Earlier that evening, going down to S. Nicolas' tower where they were ringing only eight at the time, he heard ringing that was just about as perfect as striking could be. When he saw who was at the end of the ropes he was not surprised.

Good striking, continued Mr. Lewis, was a very important matter, because the public, generally speaking, did not appreciate the finer points of change ringing, but did appreciate good striking—or, at least, did not appreciate bad striking. There would be fewer complaints and fewer letters to the Anti-Noise Society if the striking was uniformly good.

Mr. Lewis went on to mention two points in regard to striking to which it was necessary to give attention in instructing beginners. He had noticed, he said, that the first blow in seconds after leading was often too wide. He could not understand the reason for it, but he had noticed it was a common failing. Another fault was often that a bell dodging up behind did not cut down sufficiently. He thought there was a reason for that. Quite a number of young ringers did not realise that when they were dodging they had to cut down closer after the bell they were following than they did over the same bell when they were hunting. He could not explain why it was so, unless it was that the clapper had an additional 'lag' when the bell was held up.

Referring to the publicity which bells and bellringing had recently gained, Mr. Lewis said he thought they ought to make the greatest use of it that they could. This publicity started to a large extent when Miss Dorothy Sayers published the book called 'The Nine Tailors.' From that time the public seemed to have taken much more interest in bells. He heard of a case of a gentleman who lived on the same staircase as the late Mr. Boughey at Trinity College who knew nothing of the Cambridge University Guild—that seemed rather impossible, seeing that the Guild rang handbells in Mr. Boughey's rooms three or four times a week. Then this gentleman read 'The Nine Tailors' and was now a keen ringer. He was a master at Repton School.

Press publicity, proceeded Mr. Lewis, had been helped by the various notices of the College Youths' tercentenary. They had had a very good press indeed, and the one man more than another responsible for that was Mr. Roughton, who had been very unjustly attacked by certain correspondents in 'The Ringing World' recently.

They had also had good publicity from broadcasting, and Mr. Lewis assured his hearers that the relations with the B.B.C. were most friendly. He had been asked for and had submitted his criticisms and suggestions in writing and he hoped something might come of it.

Mr. Lewis' remarks on this subject are reported under a separate heading.

MORE CLERGY WANTED.

Twenty or thirty years ago, continued Mr. Lewis, they had amongst their most prominent ringers a number of clergy. They seemed to have lost a great many of them, and they were not being replaced. He had mentioned this subject at the College Youths' dinner, but as there were two or three clergy present that night he would like to say again that the Exercise very badly wanted more of the younger clergy to take up the art of change ringing; to take it up not casually, but in earnest, so that they could become leaders in the theory of composition, in good striking and in the whole art of ringing (applause).

It was easier, said Mr. Lewis, to teach a man before he was ordained, because in the process of learning he often had to be told pretty straight, his mistakes pointed out very quickly, and, he was afraid, the criticism in the belfry was apt to be rather like that they sometimes heard on the towpath (laughter). It was much harder to make the necessary criticism, particularly if it was being made by a ringer in a humble position, if the recipient of the criticism had already attained to the dignity of wearing what was sometimes called a 'dog collar' (laughter). It was, however, better for the young clergy to learn to ring after they were ordained than not to ring at all (applause).

At Kelham, near Nottingham, was an establishment where young men went to to live a kind of monastic life for about seven years before being ordained. A year or two ago a young man went there who had been ringing under the tutelage of Mr. Stephen Wood, at St. Mary's Cathedral, Glasgow. He was keen that he should not lose his ringing, but at Kelham he found it difficult to get hold of any handbells for practice, as they could not afford to buy them. Luckily through the son of the Bishop of Southwell they had been able to borrow the handbells from Southwell Cathedral and had made such very real progress that they had rung a quarter-peal of Bob Major double-handed (applause). That, said Mr. Lewis, was a very hopeful sign. He wished there were similar hands at all the theological colleges.

In conclusion, Mr. Lewis congratulated the Guildford Guild upon having two of the best officers they could possibly have on the practical side of ringing, in their Master and secretary. He wished the Guild the greatest success in the future and hoped it would go on from strength to strength, until it had got one hundred per cent. of the towers in the diocese in union and until it had got at least as many members as there were bells in the towers (applause).

COMING CHANGE IN SECRETARYSHIP.

The Master, in reply, said they had had a fairly successful year. They had rung 31 peals, of which nine were in connection with the Coronation. Of those peals Mr. A. H. Pulling had conducted 15. He congratulated the Aldershot band on their local peal and Mr. T. Denyer on calling his first peal. He also congratulated Holy Trinity band on a local peal. The Benevolent Fund had now a little over £30 and the Cathedral Bell Fund £26. They must do their best to make those funds grow.

As they knew, Mr. Goldsmith was giving up the secretaryship. He could not say too much for the work and time he had put in on behalf of the Guild. District meetings had not been attended as well as they might. They meant a lot to young ringers and he was afraid that shyness in many instances kept them away.

Submitting the toast of 'The Visitors,' Mr. Walter Harrison gave a cordial welcome to Canon Coleridge, Mr. E. H. Lewis, Mr. C. T. Coles (hon. secretary of the Middlesex County Association) and the Provost. The late Provost took a very keen interest in the Guild and he assured Canon Southam that that would be the last time that he would be classified as a visitor at any of their gatherings. The Provost had an enviable reputation of being a man who could get things done. They hoped to get him on the Executive Committee, where his knowledge and ability would be of the greatest possible value to the Guild.

The Provost, in reply, said it was a great privilege to be admitted to the friendship of the ringers of the diocese. He was certain that they often took for granted the services of that body of men who worked in their church towers. He would like as Provost, on behalf of the clergy of the diocese, to say how much they appreciated the ringers' services. His first act after his induction was to meet his ringers, and ever since he had found in Holy Trinity ringers a band of jolly good fellows always tumbling over themselves to help him in his work.

While he knew less about bells than anybody in the room, he loved the music of bells, which made him see visions. It very often brought a choke into his throat when bells were rung for certain services. He

'CANNED' BELLS AT WEYMOUTH.*VICAR'S VIEWS OF PROJECT.

'Canned' bells have been introduced at St. John's Church, Weymouth. Gramophone records, with amplifiers, were used during Christmas and the New Year, instead of the single bell which has hitherto called people to worship.

According to the 'Southern Times' opinion among the parishioners on this innovation is divided, and the Church Council is finally to decide whether a permanent installation will be put in.

Ringers in Dorset are, of course, strongly opposed to the use of gramophone records for this purpose, because, as Mr. C. H. Jennings, hon. secretary of the Dorchester Branch, put it in an interview, 'artificial devices are a temptation to church builders to be content with something cheap and put permanently out of consideration any idea of completing their work with a noble peal of bells with which former church builders crowned their churches.'

Interviewed by the 'Southern Times' representative, the Vicar of St. John's (the Rev. F. E. Coryton) admitted that a certain amount of opposition to the proposal was not altogether unexpected.

'There were some who opposed the motor-car, the aeroplane, even the radio,' he declared, 'but it is our duty to move with the times.'

He agreed that artificial bells could never be made to sound like the real thing, but denied any tendency towards doing away with bells altogether in churches.

'A peal of bells for St. John's,' he added, 'is out of the question without rebuilding the whole church,' and he saw no reason why the people of Weymouth should be denied their joyous message simply because a few objected. 'So far our own people have nothing but praise for the bells.'

The subject of the use of gramophone installations in place of bells in churches is to be discussed at the annual meeting of the Dorchester Branch of the Salisbury Guild at Dorchester on January 22nd.

THE LATE MR. W. H. HOLLIER.*FUNERAL AT CHISWICK.

The funeral of the late William H. Hollier (hon. treasurer of the Middlesex County Association) took place on Tuesday, January 4th, at the New Cemetery, Chiswick. In addition to the family mourners there was present a large number both of ringers and members of the Masonic lodge, of which Mr. Hollier was a prominent member.

The president of the Middlesex Association was represented by Mr. J. Herbert, the St. Mary Abbot's Guild by Mr. W. E. Judd, and the St. Mary's, Twickenham, by Mr. J. Lovell. Past and present officers of the Middlesex Association included Messrs. C. T. Coles and F. W. Goodfellow (joint hon. secretaries), J. A. Trollope (vice-president), C. Bird, H. C. Chandler, W. H. Oram and W. Lidbetter. Mr. J. E. Davis and Mr. W. H. Stevens were also present.

Wreaths were sent by the Central Council, the Middlesex Association, the St. Mary Abbot's Guild, Kensington, and the Twickenham band. A course of Grandsire Triples was rung on handbells over the open grave.

MR. HOLLIER'S EARLY RINGING.To the Editor.*

Sir,—With reference to the report given in your last issue of the death of my old friend, Mr. W. H. Hollier, I should like to point out that his ringing commenced a little earlier than the year mentioned. He was a native of Devizes, Wilts, where he learnt to ring Grandsire. He came to reside at Gillingham, Kent, and was employed on the building of the Royal Naval Barracks, Chatham. He joined the Gillingham band and, during his stay, rang three peals of Treble Bob Major, the first on December 22nd, 1898, the others on November 18th, 1899, and December 7th, 1899. He was held in great respect by the ringers there, and he married a Gillingham lady. It is with deep regret that I read of his death. W. HAIGH.

knew that there were some people who denied that there was any music in bells. They were people who were over-sensitive; people who objected to the ringing of bells at regular intervals. There were also those who lay in bed on Sunday mornings and their conscience made them say that they objected to the bells, but he was certain that those people were the exception.

During the evening songs were sung by Mr. H. Platt and selections were given by the Cobham handbell ringers. A course of Grandsire Caters was rung on handbells, and the company heard with appreciation the gramophone record of the Spliced Surprise ringing by Mr. Cashmore's band.

The artistes and ringers were thanked by Mr. Goldsmith.

TWO OR THREE OCTAVES; good condition.—Write, price, etc., H. Harding, 171, Abercorn Crescent, Harrow, Middlesex.

A NORTHAMPTON APPEAL.RINGERS' HELP NEEDED FOR NEW RING OF BELLS.To the Editor.

Sir,—I see in 'The Ringing World' of December 31st, in response to the appeal of the Vicar of St. George-in-the-East, that one branch of the London County Association not only made a grant from their own funds, but had a personal 'whip round' at one of their meetings, resulting in a collection of 30s. For some considerable time I have advocated this form of help on a wide scale whenever one of these appeals has been brought to light.

It does seem to me that as we are all fighting for one cause, and enjoy the hospitality of ringing in each other's belfries (irrespective of whether they be in our own diocese or county), something more than just a local association's grant might go towards helping some of these worthy cases.

I am making a nation-wide appeal for help in an endeavour to raise sufficient funds to add five new bells at the Church of St. Andrew, Northampton, where at present there is only one bell—inscribed 'Cast by Taylor, of Oxford, 1842,' and weighing 4½ cwt.

For several weeks past it has been my job to write a letter to various secretaries, who have a meeting advertised, asking them to appeal for a 'penny whip round' at the tea table towards our fund.

So far this has met with a fair response, and for the help thus given I would like to tender my thanks.

It has often been stated that in the ringing Exercise we have in the region of 46,000 ringers. If only 20,000 of these each gave a penny, the sum of £23 6s. 8d. would be raised—and who is there among us who would miss a penny, or, shall I say, even a halfpenny? And what a slice of real, concrete help that would be towards a cause which we all have at heart!

In regard to my own particular appeal, I would like to point out that we ringers often talk about the one-bell nuisance, but are we all pulling our weight to inspire the Church authorities to remove this nuisance? Considerably more propaganda work could be done than has been shown in the past by many of us, which would bring its reward in other directions—such as new recruits.

In March, 1937, I gave a lantern lecture to the parishioners of St. Andrew's. This, together with an article I wrote for their parish magazine, has been the means of inspiring the Church Council to launch the above scheme, and inviting me to become 'one of their family.' Until that time I was a complete stranger at St. Andrew's. This shows what can be done by a little 'advertising,' and when it is realised that St. Andrew's is the poorest but one of the twelve parishes in this town, few people will refuse to admit that not only has great courage been shown by the Council, but that a case for real help has been made out.

In addition to subscriptions, I should be pleased to hear from anyone who has an unwanted set of handbells they would care to give the church for entertainments and for instruction in change ringing to those in the parish who are already showing interest. Unwanted books for the same purpose would also be gladly welcomed and acknowledged by our Vicar.

P. AMOS, Fund Secretary and Organiser.

ANCIENT SOCIETY OF COLLEGE YOUTHS.*A PAST MASTERS' PEAL.

As recorded in our peal columns, eight Past Masters of the Ancient Society of College Youths met at Milton-next-Gravesend, Kent, and rang a peal of Stedman Triples on New Year's Day. Two previous attempts having failed, the reward at stake on the third attempt was too good to lose.

The ringers afterwards wended their way up the 'Sunny Lane' to the residence of the local P.M., which has been affectionately dubbed by some of the C.Y.'s as 'The Glue Pot,' there to partake of the kind hospitality offered by Mrs. P.M., who did not even forget the special Christmas pudding.

A pleasant evening was afterwards spent, during which the reward for ringing the peal was produced and placed under the care of Percy, who, needless to say, made a good waiter, and even a better one when a further reward was found in Bert's case, which some thought contained his sleeping suit, but which proved to be a good sleeping draught.

P.M. Mitchell proposed a toast to the Ancient Society, the Master and Past Masters, not forgetting their dear old friend, Mr. Cockerill. He congratulated Mr. Young on the excellent way he rang the tenor after so many years' absence from peal ringing.

P.M. Young said as the 'father of the flock' he would like to thank, on behalf of the 'boys,' P.M. and Mrs. Mitchell for their very kind hospitality, and expressed his great pleasure in ringing such an excellent peal.

Mrs. Mitchell said she was always pleased to see ringers and realised what they needed after ringing a peal.

To allow for last trains to be caught, 'Stand' was called at 10 o'clock, and it was a happy band that departed homewards with the knowledge that 'something attempted, something done' is a good maxim, and the 'waiter,' in dancing the unaccompanied veldt in the waiting room, expressed a regret that he left a 'wee drappie' behind, but rejoiced in taking the Peal back with him.

MORE FACTS ABOUT FABIAN STEDMAN

MR. J. A. TROLLOPE'S NEW DISCOVERIES.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—You will be interested to know that I have found out a few more facts about Fabian Stedman.

I find, from the Treasury books, that in 1689, eight or nine years after he was elected Master of the Society of College Youths, Fabian Stedman was one of the two clerks of John Birch, Esquire, Auditor General of Excise. How long he had held that position I cannot say, for the appointment was made by Birch and not by the Treasury; but evidently his position was well established.

The Lords of the Treasury had directed the collectors of Excise to pay to the supervisors and gangers the poll tax of one shilling in the pound assessed upon them. A little later they granted the same privilege to the inferior officers of the Excise within the City of London and the bill of mortality, and later on still to the two clerks, George Birch and Fabian Stedman, mentioning them by name.

Next year the office of Auditor General was vacant by the death of John Birch, and as his quarter's salary was saved to the Crown, and George Birch (or Bruere, as he is also styled) and Fabian Stedman had carried on and made up the accounts, both for that and the preceding quarters, a Treasury warrant was issued to the Excise Commissioners to pay Bruere £19 5s. and £15 to Stedman, which would have been payable to them by the Auditor of Excise.

In 1700, George Bruere, the elder, and Fabian Stedman petitioned the Treasury, pointing out that by the patent of July 3rd, 1691, there is granted to the auditor £200 per annum to pay three clerks (of whom the petitioners are two) for doing business of Excise upon beer, ale, etc., but the same business is now very much increased by several other duties (which the petitioners specify), and also by the increase of the country collectors from 36 to 55. They therefore pray for an increase of salary.

The Commissioners of Excise reported to the Lords of the Treasury that as Sir Basil Dixwell, the auditor, had £500 per annum as salary, and £200 for clerks, he ought to make them a suitable allowance. Therefore, on the instructions of the Treasury, William Lownds wrote to Dixwell on April 26th, 1700: "Two of your clerks, viz., George Bruere, sen., and Fabian Stedman, have petitioned for addition of salary in view of increased business in your office. It appears that 60£ per an. is allowed you on the salary bills as an additional salary for the Duties and (sic) Malt and Leather. You are to pay same to them."

We have now a fair number of contemporary references to Stedman dating from 1662 when, as a young man, he joined the Cheapside Scholars, until his death in 1714. It is noteworthy that nearly all of them refer to events in London, but we know that in 1668 he was living in Cambridge. My impression is that after having been apprenticed in London he went back to Cambridge in 1665 on account of the Great Plague, when nearly everybody who could left the Metropolis, and he returned there in 1677 and stayed there for the rest of his life.

What I should like to find out is the year in which he was born, and whether there is any contemporary evidence that he was one time parish clerk of St. Bene't's, Cambridge. I am rather inclined to doubt it, though it is so stated by C. H. Cooper in "Memorials of Cambridge," a recognised authority.

I have also discovered that Robert Roan, the composer of Grandsire Doubles, though he lost his job as sworn clerk of the pantry under the Board of the Green Cloth, appears to have been retained in Government employ, and in 1667 a Treasury warrant was issued to pay him £100. His son, Thomas Roan, Master of the College Youths in 1689, was in 1673, appointed by letters patent Comptroller of the Customs of the port of Chichester, but he surrendered the post during the next year.

J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE.

WATFORD SURPRISE.To the Editor.*

Dear Sir,—Allow me also to congratulate Mr. H. G. Cashmore on his peal in the above method.

Until my attention was drawn to the fact by Mr. A. G. Driver last week, I had not realised that 'Watford' was the same method as Method C, of which I pointed out a year or two ago in 'The Ringing World' that peals could not be obtained from the 24 true plain courses.

For over a quarter of a century I have had two sets of 24 true plain courses in connection with 'Watford' false course-ends; i.e., the set used by Mr. Cashmore and the following:—

53246	35264	25463	45362

I have also several interesting methods where the same set of false course-ends are encountered, and now that Mr. Cashmore has shown us that parts of false course-ends can be used in connection with the 24 true courses, there is a hope that I may yet be successful in obtaining peals for methods two of which, being eighth's place methods, have no adjoining places, and all places made the right way, a very rare feature, as everyone knows, in Treble Bob or Surprise methods.

GEORGE BAKER.

WATFORD SURPRISE AND COMPANION METHODS.

Dear Sir,—I would like to thank Mr. J. A. Trollope for his comments on my peal of Watford Surprise and for his lucid explanation of the plan on which it was produced.

The proof of Eastbury is, of course, identical with Watford, and here is another to which the composition is true.

The first twelve rows are as Eastbury, and then:—

DON'T SCRUB YOUR HANDS!

To many people, the problem of getting the hands really clean without harming the skin is a serious one. Grease and grime, which become deeply ingrained into the pores of the skin, are extremely difficult to remove, and ordinary washing with soap or even scrubbing will fail to remove them completely. Housewives, particularly, who complain that their hands get ruined by the nature of their work, will find the preparation called DERMAFOAM, a real "godsend." DERMAFOAM just smooths away dirt and grease without effort. It gets right down into the pores and removes every particle of grime, leaving skin beautifully supple and healthy.

Men, too—when you've finished that dirty job on the car, DERMAFOAM will quickly banish all grease and oil from your hands. It acts almost magically—working under and around the nails and into every minute crease, removing all trace of dirt in a flash.

Engineers, Painters, Car Mechanics, Printers — everyone — will welcome DERMAFOAM, the modern method of cleansing and protecting the hands.

CLERGY AND RINGERS.

It is no bad plan to do as has been done in the last year or two at the annual dinner of Bristol United Guilds and give one of the principal speakers a definite subject on which to talk, especially when the person chosen can be depended upon to make the most of his material. Very often, at gatherings of this kind, those responsible for proposing and replying to toasts are at a loss for a theme which has any bearing upon topics of special or immediate interest to ringers, and the definite selection of a subject, if it is put into the right hands, does provide matter for thought, and, perhaps, suggestions for action. Last year, at Bristol, it was 'the young ringer' who formed the topic of a leading speech; on Saturday it was the ringer's grievance of neglect by the clergy.

This matter has been discussed at ringers' gatherings on frequent occasions from various angles; but the ringers' standpoint has never been more forcefully put than it was at Bristol by the Rev. M. Paterson, Vicar of St. Thomas' Church. It came with the more emphasis because it came from a clergyman who is not a ringer.

It is an old complaint that ringers are often 'out of sight and, therefore, out of mind,' and it is always refreshing to find the exceptions to this rule—for instance, where the clergy, even if they are not themselves ringers, show an interest in the bells and the ringers—but of all departments of Church work, the belfry, generally speaking, receives least attention from the clergy. Mr. Paterson brought the subject into its right perspective when he pointed out where the clergy fail and where the ringers might help to overcome this failure by an approach from their own side.

The point made by a subsequent speaker that future relations between clergy and ringers might be gradually drawn closer together by bringing into the belfry more of the younger members of the ministry, is one which offers great possibilities, if only incumbents will encourage their curates to take up this branch of work, amid the multifarious tasks which they are called upon to discharge, and give them opportunities of taking their place in the belfry. The president of the Central Council has recently urged that students at theological colleges should be given facilities to learn ringing, so that they may have some knowledge of the subject before they go out to the parishes where their work will lie. Something on these lines was begun at Cuddesdon a few years ago, and a similar effort has now been begun at Kelham, as a letter elsewhere in this issue describes. This course is the most gratifying of all means of inducing clergy to come into the Exercise, but there still remains the need for bringing the majority of incumbents into closer contact with their ringers. The day is still far distant, we are afraid, when every tower will have a clergyman among its active ringers, and there is, therefore, definite need for a development of the spirit which the Rev. M. Paterson put before the Bristol gathering. We hope a means will be found of bringing it to the notice of all the clergy in his diocese, and we wish it could be impressed upon the clergy everywhere.

BRISTOL UNITED GUILDS.*RECORD ATTENDANCE AT ANNUAL DINNER.*Ringers' Relations with Clergy.

There was a record gathering at the Bristol United Guilds' dinner on Saturday, a company of about 280 spending a very enjoyable evening at the Grand Hotel.

During the afternoon several of the city towers were open and the bells were fully employed. The visitors also had the opportunity of inspecting Bristol University, and tea was served at St. Thomas' Parish Hall.

Mr. Donald Marsh (Coalpit Heath), chairman of the United Guilds, presided at the dinner, and was supported by the Lord Bishop of Bristol, the Rev. Alford (Archdeacon-designate of Bristol) and Mrs. Alford, the Revs. M. Paterson (St. Thomas'), Beddoe (St. Werburgh's), French (Coalpit Heath), Mr. and Mrs. Marsh (parents of the chairman), Mr. S. Romans (Master of the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association), and ringers and friends from London, Birmingham, Manchester, Sheffield, Coventry, Croydon, Cheltenham, Bath, Swindon, Gloucester, Port Talbot, Newport, Gorseinon, Swindon, Mells, Lydney,

MR. DONALD MARCH,
Chairman of the United Guilds.

Newent, Chew Magna, Gresford (North Wales), Wroughton, Congresbury, Taunton, Chippenham, Chilcompton, Kingston Seymour, etc. The Bristol Guilds represented were St. Stephen's, St. Philip's, St. Thomas', St. James', St. Andrew's, St. Peter's, St. Ambrose's, Mangotsfield, Emmanuel, Coalpit Heath, Henbury, Westbury, St. Matthews, Yate.

The Chairman, proposing 'The Church,' first welcomed the Bishop of Bristol and offered congratulations upon the successful way in which the diocese was being run. Many of them, however, he said, felt that in some cases more might be done in the Church to foster the art of bellringing. For example, they were hearing of cases where 'canned' bells and tubular bells were being installed. As bellringers they, naturally, did not agree with such performances. In most cases it was, perhaps, that money for bells was not forthcoming, while the new churches had only small spires which did not provide room for bells at all. That was a pity (hear, hear). Many of the clergy, he was happy to say, helped the ringers in many respects, but there were some bells which were not rung as regularly as they might be. In those cases the clergy could 'get their own back' on the ringers. The churches promoted various organisations, and he thought bellringing should come in for a greater share of support (hear, hear).

The Bishop of Bristol, in his reply, first mentioned that they had with them that night one who would shortly be Archdeacon of Bristol (applause). He need not look forward to that office with any amount of pleasure, said the Bishop, because the Archdeacon's job was to do all the dirty work the Bishop did not want to do himself (laughter). The Bishop went on to express the gratitude which the churches of Bristol and he thought, of all the country felt to those who, Sunday by Sunday, rang the bells to summon the congregation to church and who, on occasions of national and local importance, expressed the feelings of the public with the sounds of the glorious old peals of bells. Bells, he said, seemed to have a personality of their own. They seemed to embody the spirit of the village, and for generations in many of their old churches on great occasions the bells had spoken for the community. He did not look upon them, therefore, as inanimate objects; as things of metal which just gave out a certain sound, but as having a real personality of their own. That personality, however, was only made possible by those who, at the sacrifice of a good deal of their leisure time, gave themselves to the great art of bellringing. Bells had always been associated with religion, which was something that ought to enter into every department of their lives. Whether men went to church or not, the sound of the bells brought just that touch of religion into their lives which might otherwise be entirely devoid of any such feeling. He was grateful to those in that diocese who not only made possible the message which the bells brought, but interpreted the spirit of the common life in such a way that men might hear. He wished every possible success to the ringers in all the different parishes (applause).

RINGERS ARE NOT ANGELS.

The Rev. M. Paterson said, when he was asked to speak at that dinner, he was told he might choose his own toast, and he therefore selected that of 'The Ringing World' for two reasons. The first was that, as some of them would recollect, last year at the request of the committee he spoke on the very important subject of the young ringer. 'The Ringing World' in its next number devoted a leading article to the subject, and the Editor said some very kindly things. He was glad, therefore, to have the opportunity of thanking him for what he said. Secondly, he chose the toast because he had another subject on which he wanted to speak. It did not relate to 'The Ringing World,' but he had told the Editor, who had absolved him.

Mr. Paterson said he wanted to deal with a subject that was seriously exercising the minds of some ringers. But before he did so he wanted to answer a question put to him by some members, when he was asked to speak: Will you also give us your candid opinion of the ringers of Bristol? (laughter). At that moment those ringers were probably regretting that request (laughter). It was his sad and painful duty to comply with it (laughter). For 14 years he had been attending those dinners, and he had heard many speeches—some had been good, some not so good (laughter) and some which he would call unbalanced. The unbalanced ones had been very popular, because the speakers had endowed ringers with the virtues not only of men, but also of archangels (laughter). He had been into the belfry and seen a great many ringers with their coats off, but he had never seen any wings, cherubic or seraphic, sprouting from their shoulders (laughter). He could see no ringer that evening with any saintly halo floating over him, and he had never met a ringer who looked as though he had just walked out of a stained glass window (laughter).

'No,' said the speaker, 'ringers are not archangels; they are not even angels, but some of the ringers of Bristol are very, very good men (hear, hear). Some of them are ordinary men like myself' (laughter).

A GRIEVANCE AGAINST THE CLERGY.

It is impossible, he continued, to have mixed with ringers without knowing that some of them had a grievance and a grievance against the clergy. They say that the clergy who have towers do not show sufficient interest in their ringers. That lack of interest may possibly be exaggerated; it may be confined to a very small circle, but that grievance undoubtedly exists. It is a difficult subject to speak upon, but perhaps there is no one in the whole of Bristol who is better qualified than myself to do so, because I am a clergyman and, although a non-ringer, I have, I think, been received to a certain extent into the great brotherhood and family of ringers (hear, hear).

May I first of all say a word for the clergy. It is possible if there is a lack of interest on the part of the clergy that it is due to a misunderstanding. The tower may be to the clergyman a place where incomprehensible mysteries are in action; he may feel that as a perfect ignoramus he would not be welcome. If that is the case, it is for the ringers to eradicate that feeling. You must let your clergyman know that the tower is his tower, that the bells are his bells, that the ringers are his ringers; and that, if he comes up and mixes with his ringers, he will be welcomed and he will be honoured (applause). Perhaps there are some people who may think the word honoured is a little too strong, but in my experience—and it is a wide one—it is not (hear, hear).

But the ringers have a claim on the interest of their clergy, not merely because they are men who ring bells, but because they are men who are in a church tower. Every man, woman and child in a parish has a claim on the parish priest. Those who come within the precincts of the church; those who are willing to be friendly with their parish priest, have a very great claim, and of such are the ringers. Secondly, the ringers have a claim of remembrance on the clergy. Up there in the ringing chamber they are very easily forgotten.

Here is one possible case: I think of a Vicar who has a tower and bells, but no Guild. There comes an important day when he wishes to add dignity to his services by having the bells rung, so ringers are imported from other towers. Now it is possible that those ringers may go up the stairs and ring the bells and come down again and meet nobody except the sexton or the steeplekeeper. It is possible, when they have done their work for the church, they may receive no thanks. If that happens it is not due to any intentional discourtesy, but simply to the fact that they are not remembered; they are forgotten.

HOW TO REACH THE CLERGY.

As ringers have continually said to me, 'You clergy do not forget to thank your choir sometimes; you don't forget to thank your Sunday School teachers sometimes; do you think it is fair for you to forget to thank your bellringers?' In that matter, said Mr. Paterson, my sympathies are wholly with the ringers.

Continuing, Mr. Paterson said he had been reminded that he would be speaking that night to ringers and that his words were unlikely to reach the clergy. He had, therefore, decided to do an extremely tactless thing. They had their Bishop with them, and, as the Bishop had told them, they had also with them one who had been called to high office in the diocese, and would soon be Archdeacon. As Archdeacon he would deliver charges to which the clergy would listen. He (the speaker) had heard many charges given by Archdeacons. They had dealt sometimes with church towers, they had dealt sometimes with bell frames and with bells, but, if his memory served him rightly, he had never yet heard an Archdeacon, in his charge, speak about bellringers. Of course, the Archdeacon might quite rightly say that was out of his scope, but if it was possible he thought they might ask the new Archdeacon sometimes in his charges to find a small place in which he could mention the ringers to the clergy (applause).

'MESSAGE' FROM RINGERS.

'It is not for me,' said Mr. Paterson, 'to dictate the words he should use, but I would give him this message from the ringers to the clergy: "We are the men in your towers; we ask you not to forget us, but to remember us. We ask you to take some interest in us; if you do you will find in your towers a body of men completely loyal, not only willing but eager to respect your office and your rights. Some of us are churchgoers, and some of us are not, but in our towers we are very close to you; we are ordinary men, men who have joys and sorrows, and we should like to find in our Vicar a friend; one to whom we can speak; one in whom, if needs be, we can confide with the certainty of understanding and sympathy"' (loud applause).

Mr. J. S. Goldsmith, in responding to the toast, thanked Mr. Paterson for a very fine speech, which they, as ringers, would all appreciate. Mr. Paterson had, he said, put their case in a way that no ringer could put it, and they were indebted to him for what he had said. Mr. Goldsmith urged, as one way in which a closer relationship between the clergy and ringers could be built up, that incumbents should encourage the junior clergy to take up ringing. One of the difficulties, he knew, was that the junior clergy had a great deal of work to do. The Bishop had told them that he pushed the dirty work he did not like doing on to the Archdeacon. It was equally true that Vicars pushed the dirty work they did not like doing on to the curates (laughter), and the result was many of them could not find time to go to the belfry. But if only they could be encouraged to learn something of ringing and of the ringers by contact with them in the tower, he was sure it would be to the advantage not only of ringing, but of the Church (applause).

Mr. J. Hunt proposed 'The Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association and the Bristol United Ringing Guilds.' The association, he said, had always stood for the best traditions of change ringing. They had attained a high standard in the past and had always endeavoured to maintain it. With regard to the Bristol United Guilds, Mr. Hunt said ringers throughout the country appreciated and congratulated them upon the work they had done in compiling the 'Ringers' Directory.' It was a thing that was much needed, but no one had had the courage to provide it until Bristol United Guilds undertook the work. He wished both the association and the United Guilds continued prosperity.

ASSOCIATION'S DIAMOND JUBILEE.

Mr. S. Romans, in responding, alluded to the fact that the preceding Saturday was the 60th anniversary of the founding of the association by the Rev. C. D. P. Davies and Mr. G. H. Phillott. Although both had passed away, their memory was ever dear and their work still lived. The association was grateful to them and past members such as Canon Mobray Trotter, the Rev. H. A. Cockey, the Rev. H. Law James, the Rev. Thorold, Mr. F. G. Ward, Mr. C. D. Boufflower, Mr. James Hinton and others for their devoted services during the early years of the association. It is now up to the present members to emulate their example and do all they could to further the cause. They had in Mr. Edgar Guise a very able secretary, who would complete 20 years' service this year. They trusted he might be spared for many years to continue that office (applause). They appreciated all that he had done from time to time in the furtherance of the association. They were also mindful of the assistance given to him by the branch secretaries throughout the dioceses. One had only to attend the branch meetings, as it had been his (the speaker's) pleasure to do, to realise what an important part they took. Their good work was evident, and he could not speak too highly of their services.

Mr. Romans added that he would like to see more individual effort on the part of some members. There were many ways in which they could help: by being prompt in the payment of subscriptions, being punctual and regular in attendance at Sunday ringing and practices,

LEEDS AND DISTRICT SOCIETY.

ANNUAL VISIT TO PUDSEY.

On Saturday last, the Leeds and District Society once again enjoyed the hospitality of the Pudsey company, and in spite of the wretched weather it was one of the largest gatherings of the society, a notable feature being the number of young ringers present.

The bells were rung up at 3 p.m., and except for the usual intervals ringing continued in a variety of methods until 9 p.m.

The business meeting was held in the Park Hotel shortly after tea, when the chair was taken by the president (Mr. W. H. Senior), who was supported by members from Armley, Batley, Bradford Cathedral, Burley, Calverley, Drighlington, Headingley (St. Chad's and St. Michael's), Idle, Leeds Parish Church, Ripponden, Rothwell, Sherburn, Selby, Shipley and the local company, together with visitors from All Saints', Halifax, and Hemingbrough.

The following new members were elected: Mr. and Mrs. Fred Oldroyd, of Pudsey, Messrs. C. Parker, of Burley, E. Hallowell, S. B. Senior, H. Robinson, J. Leaver, W. Holroyd, A. Mitchell, J. Langley and C. Whiteley, of Ripponden, and H. Smith, of Sowerby Bridge.

Mr. F. Rayment proposed that the society's best thanks be accorded the Vicar and churchwardens of Pudsey for the use of the bells and to the local company for their excellent arrangements and continued hospitality.—This was seconded by Mr. H. S. Morley.

Mr. W. Barton, replying, said he regretted the absence of their tower president owing to illness, but he hoped that when the society next visited Pudsey the president would be back with them. He was pleased to see so many present, but the more who came the better they at Pudsey were pleased.

The secretary brought forward the request of the Ladies' Guild (Northern Branch) for a joint meeting with the society. It was unanimously agreed to invite the Ladies' Guild to hold a joint meeting in March.

Mr. Frank Rhodes referred to the appeal for funds for new bells at St. Andrew's Church, Northampton, and suggested that a collection should be made.—This was supported, with the splendid result that 11s. 6d. was received.

The date and place of the next meeting and also of the joint meeting in March were left in the hands of the secretary.

After the business meeting various touches were rung on handbells, as well as one or two tunes. While a sequence of bands kept the tower bells going, the remaining members fully enjoyed the hospitality provided at the meeting room, and, with the aid of the piano, the time passed all too quickly.

THE BRISTOL GUILDS DINNER.

and each pulling his own weight, thus encouraging more team work, so essential to the smooth working of the association. On visiting branch meetings he had noticed a steady inflow of new entrants. He appealed to all ringers to give these young men all the assistance and encouragement they could, by seeing that they got a fair quota of the time allotted for ringing given to them, bearing in mind that the sooner these young men become efficient the better for all. In Gloucester they had eight or ten youngsters coming on, and he hoped to see in time a complete band of ringers at every church (applause).

The Vice-Chairman, in submitting 'Kindred Societies and Visitors,' gave a cordial greeting to all their friends, both ringing and non-ringing, who had come from many parts of the country to be with them that night. Their attendance contributed very largely to the success of a gathering of that character, and it was a happy thought to realise that that attendance was prompted by a spirit of friendliness and fellowship always associated with ringers. This fact was brought home to him by a recent experience in the Isle of Wight, where Mr. Jennings went to great trouble to collect ringers and arrange practices when a party of three visited the island for a holiday. That spirit existed among ringers practically everywhere, and he hoped it would continue to be for ever dominant among ringing guilds and associations (applause).

Mr. C. Parks, who acknowledged the toast, spoke of the pleasure which members of other associations had got from their visit, not only from the enjoyable dinner and entertainment, but from the opportunity provided to meet old friends. He wished continued success to the United Guilds in maintaining the art of change ringing in that part of the country.

The remaining toast was that to the artistes, who were thanked by the pro-vice-chairman, Mr. William Abraham.

The entertainment was of a varied character. During dinner there was incidental music by a small orchestra, and the programme afterwards included selections of popular airs by St. Thomas' Guild handbell ringers, songs by Miss Kathleen Gill, piano and xylophone items by the Misses Evelyn and Joyce Holman, some cleverly executed costume dancing by young ladies under the direction of Miss Edie Ryan, a mystic entertainment by Mr. Alex Fear, and songs and tap dancing by Mr. Haydon Clifford. Mr. Charles Read, I.S.M., was the accompanist. All the items were greatly appreciated, but nothing delighted the company more than the 'turn' contributed by the two veterans, ex-Sergt. J. Williams and Mr. John Austin, who, sitting back to back, rang a course of Grandsire Triples 'four in hand,' and, turning about, played a number of tunes. These two gentlemen are respectively 80 and 75 years of age.

PEAL NOTES.

PEOPLE AND PERFORMANCES.

Mr. Edward S. Ruck called a peal of Minor in six methods at Willesborough, Kent, on January 8th, to commemorate the 51st anniversary of his first peal (5,120 Bob Major), rung at Merstham on January 8th, 1887 (also Saturday), conducted by his father, who rang the treble.

Mr. Fred Dench's peal of Bristol Surprise, published in 'The Ringing World' of October 29th, 1937, was rung at Erith on Saturday, January 8th. It is only one lead short of the full extent of 5 and 6 in 4-5-6 in 13 courses. The peal, a birthday compliment to Mr. John Wheadon, was rung after meeting short for a new Surprise method, Derek Sharp filling the gap and scoring his first peal of Bristol.

The silver wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Smith, of Dunmow, Essex, was celebrated by a peal of Cambridge Surprise Major at the Parish Church on January 8th. Mr. Smith rang the tenor and afterwards he and Mrs. Smith kindly entertained the rest of the band.

The peal of Double Norwich on the bells at Bowdon, Cheshire, rung on January 8th, was a new composition by the conductor, Mr. Tom Worsley.

Mr. W. L. Whiston, who rang his first peal on Coronation Day, when he took part in the Grandsire Cinques at Aston, rang a peal of Stedman Triples on January 8th at Erdington—his second peal in two attempts.

St. Matthew's, Bethnal Green, where Matt Wood reigned supreme for two generations, is a tower where little peal ringing has been done in recent years. On January 8th members of the Middlesex Association rang a peal of Grandsire Triples there to celebrate the 21st anniversary of the induction of the Vicar (the Rev. S. L. Sarel).

Mr. Verney Bairstow rang his fiftieth peal on January 8th at Denholme, Bradford, and this was also Mr. William Ambler's fiftieth peal as conductor.

A peal in 25 spliced Treble Bob methods, with 52 changes of method, was rung at Marple, Cheshire, on January 8th, and was Mr. Ernest Bennett's one hundredth peal.

Mr. Ernest Stitch and Mr. Gwyn Lewis rang their fiftieth peal together when they took part in a peal of Bob Minor at Cadoxton, Neath, on January 8th.

The youngest band to ring a peal in Bedfordshire scored 42 extents of Doubles at Harrold on New Year's Day. Five of them were aged 17 and one 19, and three of them rang their first peal.

A birthday compliment to Russell Curzon (born on January 7th) and Henry Tooke (born on January 8th), a peal of Kent Treble Bob was rung at Wymondham on January 8th.

St. Martin's Guild's veteran Master (Alderman J. S. Pritchett) reached his 83rd birthday on January 8th, and on the first available 'ringing night' (January 11th), a peal of Stedman Cinques was rung in the Bull Ring to celebrate the event. Three Trowbridge ringers took part in the peal, and two of them, Messrs. Sam Hector and Charles Andrews, rang their one hundredth peal together.

The other of this party, all of whom had been brought along by car by Mr. Frank Smallwood, of Bath, did not join in the general, if short, celebration after the ringing. He couldn't find the Tamworth Arms!

It was a chilly night ride back to Wiltshire, and the thoughtful provision of a hot drink, from vacuum flasks, by the driver was appreciated on the roadside in the wee sma' hours. But because he doesn't drink whisky one of the party had to content himself with hot sweetened water. No, it wasn't Sam.

The peal of Minor recently rung at Semley was said to have been rung on the heaviest six in Wiltshire. Although they are the heaviest six-bell ring in the county on which a peal has been rung, there is a heavier ring still awaiting a peal—Great Bedwyn, with 28 cwt. tenor—1½ cwt. heavier than Semley.

Three members of the local band at Penn, Staffs, rang their first peal of Stedman Triples on January 8th, and the peal was called by Mr. E. G. Bowyer, another of the local band, whose first peal it was in the method away from the tenor. It was also the first peal of Stedman on the bells.

It was called by his brother John, and his father also took part. For these two it was their first eight-bell peal 'in hand.'

It is interesting to record a peal of Minor at St. Bene't's Church, Cambridge. It was at this church and on these bells that Fabian Stedman rang in the middle of the 17th century, and it was probably here, too, that the method bearing his name was rung for the first time.

In 1931 the Exercise restored the ancient Saxon tower and rehung the bells to commemorate the tercentenary of Stedman's birth.

The bells at the Abbey Church at Dorchester have recently been rehung on ball bearings by Mr. R. White, of Appleton, and an Appleton band rang the first peal on them, since this change-over, on January 8th. Six members of the White family were in the band.

Mr. Arthur Knights' peal of Treble Bob No. 133 was rung for the first time in its reversed form on January 8th at Adlington, Lancs. It was called by Mr. W. Sharples, and was his 150th peal.

To the memory of Mrs. Rothwell and her nurse, Miss Snead, who was in her 101st year, a half-muffled peal of Doubles was rung at Whitney-on-Wye, Herefordshire, on January 6th.

A peal of Minor was rung at Polstead, Suffolk, on January 8th. It was the first peal on the bells since 1894.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

Mr. W. J. Nevard has generously undertaken to restore the bells of his Parish Church, Great Bentley, Essex. Mr. Alfred Bowell, of Ipswich, is to retune the bells and rehang them in a new frame with modern fittings.

At the meeting of the Northern Branch of the Worcestershire Association to be held at Stourbridge to-morrow, names and other information for the annual report should be handed to the branch secretary.

The annual meeting of the Chester Branch of the Chester Diocesan Guild is to be held on February 12th. As the meeting is usually held in January, this announcement is made in the hope that other prospective arrangements will not be allowed to clash.

Miss Sylvia Bowyer wishes to thank 'Member of the Second Eleven' for her letter and congratulation, but would like to know her name and address. If she sees fit to reveal her identity, will she communicate with Miss Bowyer at 32, Gatacre Road, Ipswich.

Canon G. F. Coleridge was re-elected chairman and Mr. W. J. Paice hon. secretary and treasurer of the Sonning Deanery Branch of the Oxford Diocesan Guild on Saturday, when the annual meeting was held at Wokingham. Despite a motion to the contrary, it was resolved to continue the combined practices in the branch.

Eleven of the sixteen towers in the area are affiliated to the Southampton District of the Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild. In the report presented by the hon. secretary to the annual district meeting, it was stated that the bells in the district are generally in good order, except those at Mottesfont, which badly need expert attention.

All the officers of the Northern District of the London County Association were re-elected at the annual meeting. Mr. J. G. Prior had announced his intention of retiring from the secretaryship, but he reconsidered his decision.

Further reports of these meetings will appear in due course.

The College Youths, the Cumberland Youths, the Lancashire, Yorkshire, Swansea and Brecon, Llandaff and Monmouth, Bath and Wells, St. Martin's, Warwickshire, Surrey, Guildford and North Wales Associations, as well as the Gloucester and Bristol Association, were represented at Bristol United Guilds' annual dinner on Saturday, when a record attendance proved the growing popularity of the event.

A considerable party visited Chew Magna on Sunday morning and enjoyed ringing for service on the fine ring of bells at the Parish Church.

Some of them were also glad to get their 'shoes mended.'

BATH AND WELLS DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

WIVELISCOMBE RESENTS UNMERITED IMPLICATION.

To the Editor.

Sir,—The Ringing World of December 31st contains an official report of the annual meeting of the Taunton Branch of the Bath and Wells Diocesan Association, in which it is stated that the retiring secretary said 'he hoped that special efforts would be made in the coming year to help those towers which were somewhat backward.' Also it states that Wiveliscombe was chosen as one of the towers to be visited.

As these statements contain a derogatory and entirely false implication which has caused surprise and very strong resentment, we should like to make the matter clear. Firstly, our tower is not in any way connected with the Taunton Branch. It is in the Dunster Branch, and all the 14 who ring here are members of that branch.

Secondly, ours is certainly not one of the 'somewhat backward towers.' On the contrary it is one of the most progressive in the district, and, having attained our present state of progress entirely by our own efforts, we do not now need, nor want, any outside help, especially as there are so many towers within the Taunton Branch that are so badly in need of help.

W. H. HARTNELL, Captain.

C. W. PARKMAN, Sub-Captain.

Wiveliscombe.

CLASHING MEETINGS.

Dear Sir,—Mr. C. H. Kippin asks 'What of it' if visitors cannot 'bag' two fresh towers because of clashing meetings? I would point out that that is just the reason why two fresh towers can be visited. It is all to the advantage of the visitor, but not to the district members when meetings clash.

I know all about the 'cut throating' business, but would ask 'Why?' It does no good to anyone, and the sooner everyone 'cuts' it out the better for the Exercise.

A. PATRICK CANNON.

A QUARTER-PEAL AT NINETY.

Mr. Harry Smith, of Ripple, Worcestershire, is 90 years of age, and he is still actively engaged in ringing at his Parish Church, where he has rung regularly on Sundays and practice nights, as well as ringing the old year out and new year in for over 70 years. His colleagues would like to know if this is a record.

On December 27th he rang the 2nd to a quarter-peal of Grandsire Doubles: C. Haylings (conductor) 1, Harry Smith 2, C. Darby 3, T. Bennett 4, A. Griffin 5, J. Hill 6.

LEADING CONDUCTORS—2.

WILLIAM H. BARBER.

Few conductors have as many notable performances to their credit as Mr. William Henry Barber, of Newcastle-on-Tyne, who was born at Clent, Worcestershire, on November 4th, 1876. His occupation has taken him to reside in many parts of the kingdom, and his peal ringing has been done in England, Ireland, Wales and Scotland, on the sea and under the earth, for, in addition to his tower-bell peals, he has rung in a peal of Stedman Caters on handbells while crossing the Irish Sea, and has conducted a peal of Grandsire Caters at the bottom of a coal mine, at West Cramlington, Northumberland. He is also the only man who has called a peal begun in one century and finished in the next—Thurstans' one-part at Deritend, Birmingham; on December 31st, 1900, and January 1st, 1901.

Bill Barber is one of those men specially gifted by Nature as a ringer. No job of conducting has been too difficult for him, and one of his most outstanding performances was when, in 1908, he called Carter's odd-bob one-part peal of Stedman Triples at St. Mary's Church, Gateshead, while blindfolded.

His first peal was Stedman Triples, rung at Kidderminster shortly before his sixteenth birthday, and it was here, too, that he called his first peal on tower bells, Bob Major in 1906. Previously, however, he had called a peal of Grandsire Triples on handbells, and this came about in a curious way. The bells were being rung in rounds when Mr. W. T. Pritchett told 'young Barber' to call the peal. He called Holt's ten-part and it was his first peal as conductor.

Having rung in the first peal on handbells in Ireland—Grandsire Triples at Dublin, in April, 1899, the following month he conducted, on tower bells, the first peal of Stedman Caters out of Great Britain at Christ Church Cathedral, Dublin. Two years later he shared in a memorable tour, when the first peal of Treble Bob Royal out of Great Britain, at St. Patrick's, was followed the next day by the first peal of Stedman Caters on handbells out of Great Britain, and a short course peal of Stedman Caters at Christ Church Cathedral, which Mr. Barber called from a non-observation bell—something which had never before been done. On the same trip was rung the first Surprise peal out of England, the first peal of Stedman Caters at St. Patrick's, the first peal on the sea and the first Surprise peal in Wales, rung at Bangor. No mean achievement in six days, 37 years ago.

In Scotland Mr. Barber was instructor to St. Mary's Cathedral Guild, Edinburgh, from 1903 to 1905, and called the first peal on handbells—Bob Major—over the border at Edinburgh in 1903. He also conducted the first peal of Stedman Triples on tower bells at the Old Steeple, Dundee, in 1905. Before going to Scotland, however, he had been the first to call Carter's odd-bob one-part peal, which he did both on tower bells and handbells.

Among other performances have been 8,888 Stedman Caters on handbells at Aston in 1898, 11,111 Stedman Cinquses at St. Martin's, Birmingham, in 1901. He called the first peals of Forward Maximus (Birmingham, 1903), Little Bob Maximus (1923), Kent Treble Bob (Granta) Maximus (1930), and Spliced Caters (Stedman and Erin) (1925), all of them at Newcastle Cathedral.

Altogether Mr. Barber has rung 562 peals and conducted 295. They have been rung in 108 towers in 23 counties for 16 associations. Fifty-eight of the peals have been rung on handbells, and of these Mr. Barber has conducted 45.

Mr. Barber has been a member of the Central Council for 15 years.

Next Week: Mr. Frank Bennett.

THE GLOSSARY.

The hon. Librarian of the Central Council has still several hundred copies of 'The Glossary' for disposal. They can be had by associations, free of cost on payment of postage, for distribution to members. The Librarian is Mr. W. H. J. Hooton, Lindley Lodge, near Nuneaton.

MR. WILLIAM H. BARBER.

SHROPSHIRE ASSOCIATION.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

The annual meeting of the Shropshire Association was held on January 8th at Shrewsbury and attended by some 50 members. After service in St. Chad's Church, tea was served in the Church Room, where the meeting was afterwards held, the Master, Major E. R. Trevor Corbett, presiding. The towers represented were St. Chad's, Hodnett, Wem, Condover, Coalbrookdale, Clive, Market Drayton, Moreton Corbet, Wellington, Great Ness, Malins Lee, Berrington and Alberbury.

Major Corbett was re-elected Ringing Master, the Rev. E. C. Pigot hon. treasurer and the following other officers were also elected: Hon. secretary, Mr. W. A. Farmer; peal secretary, Mr. J. Griffiths; committee, Messrs. G. F. D. Pratt, A. Pritchard, W. Saunders and E. V. Rodenhurst.

On behalf of the association, Major Corbett presented the Rev. E. C. Pigot with a framed enlargement of the group of the July meeting at Moreton Corbet, to mark his retirement from the living. In thanking the association, Mr. Pigot spoke of his 20 years' connection with the association or its predecessor, the Salop Archidiaconal Guild.

Thanks were expressed to the Rev. K. C. Millington for use of St. Chad's bells, and for conducting the service, and to the churchwardens of St. Mary's for the use of the fine ring of ten in their tower.

Following are the places for 1938 meetings at the discretion of the committee: Coalbrookdale, Shifnal, Ruyton-XI-Towns, Bickton and Montford (together), Market Drayton, Condover and Worthen.

The meeting expressed pleasure on hearing that the Bishop of Lichfield (Dr. Woods, until recently Bishop of Croydon) had intimated his willingness to become a patron, and of his expressed interest in the association.

Methods rung during the afternoon and evening were: At St. Mary's, Grandsire Caters and Bob Royal; at St. Chad's, Grandsire Triples, Caters and Cinquses, Stedman Caters, Treble Bob Maximus, Cambridge Major, interspersed with rounds for the less experienced. Striking was of a consistently high standard.

A PIONEER OF SPLICED MINOR RINGING.

MEMORIAL TO THE LATE MR. J. FERNLEY.

The dedication of the tablet placed in the belfry of Norbury Church recording the muffled peal rung on October 20th, 1934, to the memory of Mr. James Fernley, took place on Monday evening, January 10th, in the presence of members of the family, his fellow-ringers and friends. The short service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. A. J. Humphreys), who spoke of the devotion of Mr. Fernley to the church and to the belfry. It seemed to him, he said, very fitting that this memorial tablet should be placed in the belfry where he had rendered so much service and spent a great part of his time. He was pleased to see members of the family present and to know they were still actively connected with the belfry and hoped that it would always be so.

At the close of the service Mr. S. Fernley thanked the Vicar and recalled the early days of change ringing at Norbury and the part played by Mr. James Fernley.

Mr. J. Dean also spoke of their early days together.

A great deal of the progress made in those early days was due to the able instruction received at the hands of Mr. James S. Wilde, now resident in New Zealand, who still keeps in touch with the tower. Mr. Fernley was always a keen supporter of the Chester Diocesan Guild and was vice-chairman of the Stockport and Bowdon Branch at the time of his death. It was the band under his conductorship who first really exploited the possibilities of Spliced Minor ringing. The culmination of their efforts was the first 35-method peal rung at Norbury in 1923, and this peal laid the foundation for the advances which have followed.

The tablet, executed by H. Webb, of Coventry, has been placed immediately below the board recording this peal.

BELLS ON THE FILMS.

To the Editor

Dear Sir,—After reading the last issue of 'The Ringing World,' I feel inclined to call it a 'publicity number,' as in several different places arguments for and against publicity of ringing are put forward.

I expect many readers of 'The Ringing World' are like myself and find little time to spend on visits to the cinema, but on a recent occasion when I did visit one I was struck by the bad publicity given to ringing by the films.

The particular film which I saw was 'Victoria the Great,' and, as one might expect, there was plenty of bellringing in the film at such times as the Queen's wedding, Jubilee, etc. This ringing was (presumably) produced from records of change ringing, but unfortunately the scenes accompanying the sound of the bells were only of bells swinging to and fro in a very haphazard manner.

Perhaps some of your readers have seen similar scenes to the one described in other films, and I would like to suggest that, through the Central Council, some action be taken to prevent such scenes appearing in any future films, as I feel sure that films of the 'real thing' could be easily procured and thus bad publicity would be turned into something which would at least do justice to our art.

LIVERPOOL CATHEDRAL BELLS.

GREAT BOURDON PRESENTED.

Another Munificent Gift.

Lord Vestey and his brother, Sir Edmund Vestey, who have already given, at a cost of £220,000, the great central tower at Liverpool Cathedral, have promised a further munificent gift. By their generosity, a bourdon bell of about 14½ tons is to be provided. The estimated cost of the bell and fittings is £6,800. In size this bell will be second only, in this country, to 'Great Paul' in St. Paul's Cathedral, which weighs 16 tons 14 cwt.

The great tower of the new Cathedral will eventually reach a total height of 331ft. above floor level, or 351ft. above St. James's Road. Only 84ft. of the structure remains to be built.

A ring of twelve bells, with a four ton tenor, and an additional half-tone bell to make a light octave, is already provided for by the generosity of the late Thomas Bartlett. Work on these bells has been begun at the Whitechapel Foundry. These bells will be hung in separate frame units of concrete, and the bourdon bell will be in the centre.

The immensity of the new tower is impressive. It is 75ft. square inside. Writing in 'The Ringing World' in November, 1936, Mr. E. H. Lewis said: In such a tower it would be possible to hang on one level 25 rings of eight bells, each with a 14 cwt. tenor, or 16 rings of ten bells, each with a 25 cwt. tenor.

The crown of the vault is about 170ft. from the floor. Clear of the vault by a few feet are the bottom edges of the huge girders that are to carry the load of 16 tons of swinging bells. These four girders are trussed steel structures placed in pairs diagonally across the tower. The ends rest on other shorter girders, which cross the angles of the tower. They look like two full size railway bridges, each with 20ft. clear trackway, about 85ft. in span and 20ft. deep, interlacing where they cross. Like railway bridges, the ends are mounted on rollers to allow for expansion. The 20ft. square at the intersection of the two bridges will ultimately be the ringing room.

Over the girders will be a floor and 10ft. higher another floor, supported from the girders by reinforced concrete pillars. On this second floor will be the 'bell frame,' which is not a bell frame in the ordinary sense of the word, but a series of wedge-shaped concrete pedestals arranged in a circle. These pedestals will each carry two bearings and all the bells are to swing in radial planes—that is, towards and away from the centre of the tower. All the wheels are to be roped on the inside, so that the ropes will fall in a perfect circle in the ringing room.

CHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD.

PROMISE OF 'YOUNGSTERS' IN WIRRAL BRANCH.

On Saturday, January 15th, the Wirral Branch of the Chester Diocesan Guild held their annual meeting at St. Saviour's Church, Oxtou, Birkenhead. There were about 60 present, including some old friends from Liverpool and Halewood, who are always assured of a hearty welcome at Wirral Branch meetings. The peal of eight was set going shortly before 3 o'clock, and several touches brought home, but, unfortunately, after about a couple of hours' ringing, notification of a case of sickness near the church imposed a closure on the tower bells. The bells go like the proverbial 'tops,' and, considering they have been hung for 43 years and have not been in the bellhangers' hands during that period, it speaks well for the care and attention bestowed upon them by the towerkeeper, Mr. Harry Brocklebank, who is the genial hon. secretary of the branch.

However, after the tower bells had been stopped, recourse was had to handbells for the brief time that remained before the service, which usually accompanies these meetings. This was held in the Chapel of St. Thomas in the Parish Hall, the Guild form being used. The Rev. Canon Sayer (Vicar) conducted the service and gave a really interesting and instructive address with a threefold message of harmony, fellowship and service. Incidentally he congratulated those present on their singing and responses, saying it was a long time since he had heard such heartiness in that chapel.

Following the service, a splendid tea was served and the usual business meeting was held. At this Mr. J. W. Milner, the popular Master of the Chester Guild, was re-elected as president of the branch, an office he has held for some years, and Mr. H. S. Brocklebank was again appointed hon. secretary.

Thanks to the Vicar and all who had contributed to the arrangements were voiced by Mr. Milner and heartily endorsed by those present.

One of the things that impresses an onlooker at these Wirral meetings is the number of 'youngsters' who are coming on, ensuring that in some churches in the district, at least, there will be no shortage of ringers to carry on when the 'old 'uns' fall away for various causes.

After the election of officers, etc., the company settled down to an enjoyable concert. Undoubtedly the star 'turn' of the evening was Mr. Herbert Ludkin and his handbell ringers from Halewood, who rendered several well-known items in a manner that brought unstinted and well-deserved applause. If the B.B.C. are looking for handbell talent here is some ready to their hand that would be appreciated by all who are privileged to hear them. Members of St. Saviour's choir and other friends contributed vocal selections, which added considerably to the pleasure of the evening, and a hearty vote of thanks to the artistes concluded one more annual meeting which will be long remembered.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD.

DEVIZES BRANCH ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual meeting of the Devizes Branch was held at Devizes on January 8th. The bells of all three churches were available. Service was held in St. John's Church, conducted by the Rector (the Rev. E. S. Dabbs), assisted by the Rev. H. Uphill (St. Mary's). Tea was served in the Parish Room, 72 sitting down. Apologies were received from the Rev. R. H. Gundry (Master of the Guild), the Rev. H. E. Tilney Bassett (Past Master), the Rev. F. Ll. Edwards (Guild hon. secretary) and the Rev. C. R. Cottell. Mr. E. F. White, branch chairman, presided at the business meeting, those present including the Rector of Devizes, the Rev. A. W. Douglas (Vicar of Southbroom), the Rev. A. Swann (Vicar of Potterne), Mr. F. Green (assistant secretary, Salisbury Guild), Messrs. T. F. King, W. J. Prescott and Mrs. Evans (Bath), Messrs. W. A. Stote (Coventry), H. W. Bishop and H. W. Wells (Swindon), besides representatives from most of the towers in the branch area.

The Chairman gave a summary of the past year's work, and congratulated certain members and towers on their achievements.

The whole of the retiring officers were re-elected for 1938 with the exception of Mr. J. Francis, one of the Ringing Masters, who had held office since 1924. Mr. E. Parker was elected to this post.

It was regretted that Mr. Francis did not seek re-election, the chairman pointing out that Mr. Francis had served the Guild faithfully and well and thanked him most heartily on behalf of the members.

The Revs. E. S. Dabbs and A. W. Douglas were elected hon. members, together with seven others as ringing members.

It was decided to hold the next meeting at Hilperton in February.

A message was received from Mr. C. D. Heginbotham, vice-president, and the secretary was asked to reply, offering the good wishes of those assembled, with the hope that improved health would enable Mr. Heginbotham to join again in the work of the Guild.

Mr. W. J. Prescott, on behalf of the visitors, expressed a wish to be associated with this letter.

The usual votes of thanks concluded the meeting, and the members returned to the various towers, where ringing continued until 9 p.m. The methods rung during the day ranged from Grandsire to Cambridge Surprise.

ST. MARTIN'S GUILD, BIRMINGHAM.

ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual meeting of St. Martin's Guild for the Diocese of Birmingham was held on Saturday, January 1st. The bells of St. Martin's Church were available for one hour only, and during this time were made good use of. The business meeting took place in the Tamworth Arms, Moor Street. Mr. Vice-President James George presided in the absence of the Master, Alderman J. S. Pritchett, M.A.

Apologies for absence were read from the Master, who sent hearty greetings for the New Year, and Vice-President the Ven. Archdeacon of Aston, the Rev. H. McGowan.

A letter of appreciation and thanks was read from Mr. J. T. Dyke for the welcome extended by members of the Guild to his party on the occasion of their visit on Boxing Day for a peal of Stedman Cinques. Also from Mr. J. George, thanking the Guild for their good wishes and peals arranged for his 84th birthday.

The following new members were elected: Messrs. N. Goodman, Selly Oak; L. C. Williams, Sutton Coldfield; J. R. Graves, Nechells; H. R. Barrett, Bournville.

It was decided to hold the next quarterly meeting at Aston, and the bi-quarterly meeting at Great Barr.

All the officers of the Guild were re-elected: Master, Alderman J. S. Pritchett, M.A.; Ringing Master, Mr. F. E. Haynes, M.A.; trustees, Councillor A. Paddon Smith and Mr. E. T. Allaway; auditors, Messrs. Jonathan Preston and Fred Price; librarian, Mr. G. F. Swann; hon. secretary and treasurer, Mr. T. H. Reeves.

The following additional vice-presidents were also unanimously elected on the proposition of Mr. F. E. Haynes, seconded by Mr. A. Walker, viz.: Canon S. Blofeld, Vicar of Edgbaston, and the Ven. Archdeacon J. H. Richards, Provost of the Cathedral.

The treasurer presented the balance sheet, which showed a small increased balance in hand. The auditors having given their report, the accounts were unanimously adopted.

The secretary reported that the Master had definitely promised to preside at the Henry Johnson Commemoration Dinner on March 5th, and that the Bishop of Birmingham had promised to attend if possible. Arrangements for the dinner were discussed, and these were left in the hands of the committee.

This concluded the business, and the remainder of the evening was very enjoyable with some good handbell ringing in various methods.

'THE COLLEGE YOUTHS'

A History of the Society
by J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE

'This is one of the very few books I have read which seem to me might, with advantage, have been considerably longer.'—The Dean of St. Paul's.

'Mr. Trollope has achieved more than his immediate purpose of writing a history of the Society of College Youths. So closely has the guild been identified with English change ringing that its history is to a very large extent an account of the ancient sport of ringing developed into an elaborate art. . . .

DON'T SCRUB YOUR HANDS!

To many people, the problem of getting the hands really clean without harming the skin is a serious one. Grease and grime, which become deeply ingrained into the pores of the skin, are extremely difficult to remove, and ordinary washing with soap or even scrubbing will fail to remove them completely. Housewives, particularly, who complain that their hands get ruined by the nature of their work, will find the preparation called DERMAFOAM, a real "godsend." DERMAFOAM just smooths away dirt and grease without effort. It gets right down into the pores and removes every particle of grime, leaving skin beautifully supple and healthy.

Men, too—when you've finished that dirty job on the car, DERMAFOAM will quickly banish all grease and oil from your hands. It acts almost magically—working under and around the nails and into every minute crease, removing all trace of dirt in a flash.

Engineers, Painters, Car Mechanics, Printers — everyone — will welcome DERMAFOAM, the modern method of cleansing and protecting the hands.

DISTRICT ORGANISATION.

Many associations, at this time of year, are holding their annual district meetings, and varied reports of success and disappointment are forthcoming. It is in the districts that the real strength of the ringing organisations can be tested, and it is the district officers who are the first to feel the changes which, from time to time, inevitably affect the fortunes of the societies. Indeed, it is in the districts that the real work is carried on; and success or otherwise in these smaller areas is the best index of the prosperity of an association as a whole. The reason is not far to seek. Where ringers are interested in district affairs and support the local meetings, they can be relied upon to give their active support to the parent organisation. If the members of a district show apathy over local matters, there is little hope of their being any more enthusiastic in the affairs of their association. Keenness in a district usually means a live interest in the association as a whole.

Numerous reports on district affairs are now appearing in our columns, and if they are studied, the varied conditions prevailing in the different areas will be found not only interesting but to offer food for thought. In some cases membership is dwindling; in others it is growing with a gratifying influx of young blood; in some places there are satisfactory reports on the conditions of the various rings of bells; in others there are regrettable stories of peals allowed to remain in a state of disrepair; disappointing meetings give a pang to officials in some areas; in others there are congratulations upon well-attended gatherings. And so the story changes from place to place. Viewing them as a whole, there is no reason for despondency; but from most of them there are lessons to be learned.

As to what constitutes a successful district, there can be no two opinions—a high percentage of membership among the resident ringers, promptly paid subscriptions, a readiness to help in any tower and a general interest in the welfare and progress of the organisation, as well as an efficient standard of ringing. What is the most successful kind of district meeting, however, may be open to discussion. For instance, is a district meeting more successful when there is a large attendance, and the individual member can get little ringing; or does it serve a better purpose with a smaller attendance and consequently better facilities for practice? The answer will depend upon the particular point of view of the individual. One thing, however, every ringer should take to heart, and that is that district meetings are arranged, not to amuse the officials but for the benefit of the members, and it is their duty to give these gatherings their whole-hearted support.

A HANDBELL PEAL IN NEW ZEALAND.

By far the most interesting performance recorded in our columns this week is a handbell peal of Bob Major rung in New Zealand, and we are certain that the congratulations of every ringer in this country will go out to the little company who have accomplished this noteworthy achievement.

This is, we believe, the first handbell peal rung double-handed in any of the Dominions overseas, the only other handbell peals we can recall being those rung at Johannesburg by the Rev. Canon Ridout and members of his church.

The peal in New Zealand was rung at Dunedin, where there are no church bells hung for ringing, and it was rung in the home of that veteran enthusiast, Mr. James S. Wilde, who composed and conducted it.

Mr. Wilde is a native of Cheshire, and before he went to New Zealand between thirty and forty years ago did yeoman service in promoting the art of ringing in that part of the country. Although so far removed from any centre of ringing, Mr. Wilde's interest has never flagged, and he has continued to keep close touch with every development. As our readers know, he is a composer of no mean capacity, and has obtained peals of Cambridge Surprise Major as well as various other Surprise peals of merit.

The other three ringers who took part with him scored their first peal. They were Charles Wilde, Joseph Whipp and John Grimes. We hope this peal is but the first of many. In a modest note which accompanies the report, Mr. Wilde says: 'The peal was well and truly rung.'

It is interesting to see Drayton, Berkshire, in the peal news again. Middleton's 5,056 of Cambridge Surprise Major was rung there on Saturday, January 15th.

The late Rev. F. E. Robinson was Vicar of Drayton for many years, and in his days, of course, many peals were rung on this light ring, of which he himself gave the treble and tenor.

The first 'clerical' peal was rung there in 1884, and a record length of London Surprise (11,328) in 1896. On one occasion three peals were rung there in a day.

After making all sorts of youthful records in peal ringing, Edwin A. Barnett has just called his first peal of Grandsire Triples. This was rung at Beckenham, Kent. Of how many other methods, Surprise and otherwise, he has called peals, we have no notion, but he has rung 99 Surprise peals, and not one of them on the treble.

His century in this department would have been completed on January 13th had a peal of Pudsey come home at Egham, Surrey, but two bells changed course after a couple of hours.

This was intended as a compliment to the Editor of this journal on his 60th birthday, and he appreciates the kindness of the band who rang the peal of Grandsire at Beckenham in making this a birthday peal for him.

Another birthday peal on Saturday was one of London Surprise Major rung at Halstead, Essex, as a compliment to Mrs. Snowden. Miss Hilda Snowden and Mr. Claude Snowden rang in the peal.

Mr. Charles Mee, the Suffolk stalwart, and Mr. Frank L. Fisher shared in a peal in honour of their birthdays at Ufford on Saturday.

A non-conducted peal of Yorkshire Surprise Major was rung at Old Windsor on Saturday. With the great advances made in method ringing it is a wonder that more peals of all sorts are not rung without a conductor.

Only two peals have been rung at Tattenhall, Cheshire, the first in 1909, shortly after the ring was augmented and restored, and the second on Tuesday of last week. Messrs. Walter Thomas and James Morgan took part in both peals.

Miss Kathleen Smith rang her first peal at the first attempt on January 8th. She is the first lady in Lea (Lincs) to ring a peal, and the conductor, Mr. G. L. A. Young, is believed to be the first ringer in Lea to ring a peal. These two ringers and Messrs. N. B. Thurlby and W. M. Smith are regular ringers at this church. The last named also scored his first peal.

ANOTHER PAST MASTERS' PEAL.

Past Masters of the Llandaff and Monmouth Diocesan Association rang a peal of Stedman Triples at Cardiff on January 20th. Those who took part were F. Atwell (St. Woolos', Newport), J. W. Jones (All Saints', Newport), F. J. Bailey (Whitchurch), C. H. Perry (Bridgend), A. J. Pitman (Aberavon), T. Page (Pentre), J. Phillips (Cardiff), S. R. Barker (Cardiff).

The two seniors, J. W. Jones (Master in 1898) and F. Atwell (Master in 1901), rang their first peal together in 1895, 43 years ago, at St. Woolos', Newport, conducted by the 'evergreen' Tom Hibbert, of Reading. This Past Masters' peal was the first of Stedman Triples to be rung on Cardiff bells conducted by a local ringer.

Michael Freeman, son of Mr. John A. Freeman, of Lincoln, who rang a handbell peal of Minor last August, a week before his twelfth birthday, has now rung the trebles to a peal of Bob Major 'in hand.'

Another member of the Lambert family has rung his first peal of Minor. On January 15th Ernest J. Lambert, of Cosgrove, rang the treble to a peal in seven methods.

The second peal on the six bells at St. Cynwyd's Church, Llangynwyd, Glamorganshire, was rung on January 10th, and three of the local band took part, scoring their first peal.

The four 'long distance' men who took part in the peal of Stedman Triples at Bolton on January 8th were kindly provided with an excellent tea at the Vicarage, after ringing, through the generosity of the Vicar, the Rev. — Harper, M.A. Much credit was given to the tenor man (Mr. Charles Brownlow), whose longest touch on the bell previously was only ten minutes.

After meeting short for a peal of Caters at Worsley, Lancs, on January 15th, a peal of Stedman Triples was rung on the back eight. H. Reynolds came from Stockport, S. Harrison and C. Raddon from Warrington; the rest were of the local band.

To the memory of the late Marquess of Abergavenny, of Eridge Castle, Sussex, who met with a fatal accident in the hunting field, a half-muffled peal of Cambridge Surprise Minor was rung at the neighbouring church of St. Alban, Frant, on January 15th.

On the front eight of the new ring of twelve at Manchester Town Hall members of the National Police Guild rang a peal of Stedman Triples on January 15th. The band included P.C.'s Birkett and Butler, of the Liverpool City Force, the remainder being active members of the Manchester City Force, except Mr. J. Wilson, who recently retired.

The City Police are responsible for the official ringing at Manchester Town Hall.

Mr. H. E. Newton, formerly churchwarden of St. John the Baptist's Church, Leytonstone, took great interest in the scheme for adding two bells at that tower as a memorial to the late Mr. William Pye. Mr. Newton died, after a very brief illness, on January 5th, and a half-muffled peal of Stedman Triples was rung to his memory on January 17th.

Another muffled peal was that on January 11th at Barnwood, Glos., where Mr. John Austin called Parker's six-part peal of Grandsire Triples in memory of Mrs. F. H. Fowler, wife of a former Vicar of the parish.

Handbell peals by married couples are not entirely a fresh departure in ringing, but they are sufficiently uncommon to be worthy of note. Mr. and Mrs. Rupert Richardson and Mr. and Mrs. John Thomas rang a peal of Bob Major at Surfleet on January 16th.

By the way, is the peal of Stedman Triples 'in hand,' at Aston, to be the forerunner of another burst of handbell peals in the Birmingham district such as have been witnessed in the past?

'TING, TOG, PLUFF.'

Messingham, Lincolnshire, where a peal of Doubles was rung on January 13th, has five bells. Concerning the bells in this church there is a curious old legend, which North, in his 'Church Bells of Lincolnshire,' recalls. A traveller passing through Messingham on a Sunday a long, long time ago, noticed three men sitting on a stile in the churchyard and shouting, 'Come to church, Thompson! Come to church, Brown!' and so on. Surprised at this, the traveller asked what it meant, and was told that, having no bells, this was the way they called folks to church. The traveller remarked that it was a pity such a fine church should have no bells, and asked them if they could make three bells for the church, promising to pay for them himself. This they undertook to do. They were a tinker, a carpenter and a shoemaker respectively. When next the traveller came round he found the three men ringing the three bells, which said, 'Ting, Tog, Pluff,' being made respectively of tin, wood and leather.

Messrs. G. Kenward and T. E. Sone rang their fiftieth peal together on January 15th, when a peal of Grandsire Triples was rung at Frittenden, Kent, to celebrate the wedding of Mr. L. J. Honess, a member of the East Peckham band, and Miss E. C. Hayman, who were married the same afternoon at Staple.

Mr. Sone has now called Holt's Original four times 'round the circle' and rung it once non-conducted.

The bells at Willenhall, Staffs, were recast and augmented to ten last year just before the Coronation. The first peal on them since the opening was rung on the back eight on January 20th—a peal of Stedman Triples, conducted by Mr. Chris. Wallater.

Mr. John Luck, who belongs to the local band, was only ringing Bob Minor when the bells were dedicated, but, being anxious to take part in the first peal on the new bells, he started to learn Stedman, with the happy result that his first peal has coincided with the first peal on the bells.

Mr. Harry Griffiths, who rang his first peal of Stedman Triples, scored his first peal away from his own tower, St. Peter's, Wolverhampton.

A peal of Kent Treble Bob Minor at Sproughton, Ipswich, on January 14th, completed peals in this method from Minor to Maximus by Miss Sylvia Bowyer and Mr. G. A. Fleming. It was arranged to celebrate the third anniversary of Miss Bowyer's entry into ringing.

Five members of the Little Shelford band rang a peal of Doubles, the first on the bells, at Meldreth, Cambs. on January 15th. Two of them scored their first peal and another his first as conductor.

The ringer of the 2nd in the peal of Bob Major at Hilgay on December 27th, was Alfred Bacon, not Langton as published.

FOR BEGINNERS.*BREAKING AWAY FROM 'STONE'.

Change ringing seems to present insuperable difficulties to some ringers who have been trained on call changes, but given the will to make progress there is no reason why even the most 'stone' band (and we do not use this term offensively) should not get on to half-pull ringing.

There are still quite a number of towers where the ringers are content to produce their changes from figures displayed on cards, but with a little help and encouragement many of these could be turned into change ringing towers. The principal difficulty is usually to get the ringers to make the first move.

It is hardly likely, we suppose, that ringers of this type are readers of 'The Ringing World,' and, therefore, will study these notes, but there may be cases where this and other appropriate articles could be brought to their notice by others who are interested.

As a first and easy 'break away' from the card system, or call changes, we would recommend a series of 'exercises' by which the ringers try the experiment of whole pull ringing.

Let the treble, at the outset, continue to lead and the tenor to cover, while the other bells ring in whole pulls over or under the adjoining one. Thus the 2nd would strike a whole pull over the treble (under the 3rd) and then a whole pull over the 3rd; while the 3rd would first have a whole pull over the 2nd and then a whole pull under it (over the treble). Similarly, the 4th and 5th could change, the 4th first over the 3rd and then over the 5th; and the 5th first over the 4th and then under it (over the 2nd which will then be striking over the 3rd).

When this can be done successfully by a change at every whole pull, the next step may be by changing pairs in another way: One and two; three and four; five and six, the pairs striking a whole pull alternately over each other. This should be practised until it can be done with the maintenance of good rhythm; in other words, with good, clean striking and proper leading.

When a satisfactory stage has been reached in this 'exercise,' the band can proceed to do the same thing in half-pulls. By this means they will learn to get that extra control over their bells which good change ringing requires, in order to 'place' a bell in its exact position at each stroke.

In the next article we will endeavour to show how, from this stage, it is possible to begin 'hunting,' which is the foundation of change ringing.

SUSSEX ASSOCIATION'S EXPERIMENT.*SUCCESS OF A WEDNESDAY MEETING.

Brighton formed the ground for a new experiment by the Sussex County Association in the holding of a Wednesday meeting by the Southern Division on January 19th. An excellent attendance of 35 ringers made one of the most successful gatherings of recent times. Members were present from Brighton (St. Peter's and the Good Shepherd), Lindfield, Shoreham, Henfield, Hurstpierpoint, Burgess Hill, Worthing, Rotherfield, Balcombe, Seaford, Lewes and two visitors from Essex.

St. Peter's tower was open during the afternoon, and ringing included Surprise Major, and Caters and Royal on the ring of ten bells.

At the business meeting the Rev. W. J. R. Allen presided, supported by Mr. W. Cole, of the Good Shepherd Church Council, and Mr. J. T. Rickman, late Master of the association.

New members were elected as follows: T. Baker and R. Peckham, Maresfield; R. Davies (non-resident), Croydon; Mrs. Barnes and Miss Lish, Henfield; F. D. Gardner, J. S. Gardner and J. F. Upton, Shoreham; and the Vicar of the Good Shepherd Church (honorary member).

In view of the success of this Wednesday meeting, it was proposed that, of the four quarterly meetings, two should in future be held on Wednesdays, one to be in Brighton in January, and the second at some other place. Henfield was offered, and, pending more precise arrangements, accepted.

A hearty vote of thanks was proposed to the clergy for the use of the bells and the service, and to the organist for the music. This was put by Mr. Rickman and carried with acclamation.

Service was held at the Good Shepherd Church and followed the new association form. Both the lesson and the text of the address were taken from a new translation of the Bible. The Vicar gave a brief and unusual address, his subject being co-operation in the friendship of Christ, which was, he said, the foundation of the tower of life built on the spirit of prayer. Unity of work in all branches of the Church's life was an essential if progress was to be made.

The eight bells of the Good Shepherd (13½ cwt. in F, by Mears and Stainbank, 1925), together with the whole of the church and its fittings, stand as a memorial to the late Vicar of Preston, Brighton, and were given by his widow, Mrs. Gerald Moore. The Harrison organ is shortly to be completed by a provision made in the will of this generous donor, who died 18 months ago.

During the evening the bells were rung in methods ranging up to London Surprise, but rounds and the plain methods were not neglected.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

The Royal Cumberland Youths had a very successful annual meeting in London on Saturday, when about 70 members and friends were present. Mr. George Cross was re-elected Master, and Mr. Norman Summerhayes, who has been acting hon. secretary since the death of Mr. George Card, was elected as secretary. The annual dinner of the society is to be held on March 19th at Anderton's Hotel, Fleet Street.

The annual meeting of the Middlesex County Association and London Diocesan Guild is to be held at Hillingdon on April 30th.

East Tytherley, in Hampshire, where at present there are no ringers at all, years ago nearly provided ringing history—but only nearly. It might have been the first tower in which three Surprise peals were rung in a day. Cambridge and Superlative were duly brought off, but the London failed after nearly two hours.

Mr. Arthur Symonds, the Lavenham veteran, celebrated his 80th birthday on Sunday. He was formerly Master and instructor at Lavenham tower for upwards of 50 years, and two succeeding generations of his family are following in his footsteps.

B.B.C. AND RINGING.

Dear Sir,—Will you kindly allow me a small space in your valuable paper to support the leading article Jan. 7th issue? I have read with great interest Mr. Lewis' remarks with reference to the B.B.C. and Ancient Society of College Youths and ringing generally, and give my full support on the subject.

It is also a very interesting coincidence that this article should appear on the eve of a great annual gathering of ringers at Bristol, where ringing and ringers are held in high esteem throughout the Exercise.

On the Sunday following the Bristol dinner, 1937, there was a broadcast at 9.25 a.m. on the National wavelength from an ancient city church, St. Peter's, and the ringing was such as described in your article, 'not only a poor advertisement of the craft, but a disgrace.'

The same kind of thing happened about 15 months ago at All Saints', when the ringing was a perfect disgrace to a city of churches and bells.

It is this kind of performance that does no end of harm to the Exercise, and I endorse the president's suggestion that the B.B.C. would be well advised to have the opinion of a fully qualified ringer or association official before proceeding to accept it for granted that everything will be 100 per cent. efficient.

A lot of the trouble is due to the incumbents concerned, who do not understand or take any interest in ringing, and in consequence are the cause of inflicting a terrible row on the ordinary listener, as well as to other members of the Exercise, who are hoping to hear something worth while.

I hope Mr. Lewis' criticisms sent to the B.B.C. will have the effect of a step being taken in the right direction, and that associations and guilds under whose supervision these 'bell broadcasts' are made will see to it that nothing but the best is good enough.

AUSTRALIAN LADY RINGER MARRIED.

WEDDING OF MISS FREY SHIMMIN.

The wedding took place at St. Paul's Cathedral, Melbourne, on January 7th, of Miss Jean Frey Shimmin, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Shimmin, of Macgregor Street, East Malvern, and Mr. David Cedric Switson, only son of Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Switson, of 13, Bramerton Road, Caulfield.

Miss Shimmin has been for some years a member of St. Paul's Cathedral Society of Bellringers, and took part in the memorable peal of Grandsire Cinques rung at the Cathedral on Armistice Day, 1934, by a band of six Australian and six English ringers. It was her first and (up to the present) only peal, and, despite lack of experience in twelve-bell ringing, she performed splendidly. Mr. Switson, also, is now a member of the society, and both took part in the ringing in of 1938.

The Precentor, the Rev. H. O. Hole, officiated at the wedding, at which the bride, who was given away by her father, wore a lovely gown of white georgette with a circular skirt falling into a three-pointed train. A separate train, falling from a panel at the waistline, was made up of alternating bands of satin and shirred georgette. Her misty tulle veil was caught to her head with a circlet of frangipani, and white gladioli and water lilies formed a fragrant sheaf.

Miss Vida Ritchie, who was the only bridesmaid, wore a gown of dew-drop net made over an underslip of green taffetas. The gladioli in her headdress of green net were matched by those in the sheaf of pastel-coloured gladioli which she carried. Mr. Robert L. Shimmin, the bride's elder brother, was best man. After the ceremony, guests were entertained at a reception and dance at Grosvenor.

The bells of the Cathedral were rung in honour of the bride and bridegroom, touches of Grandsire Caters being rung both before and after the service.

The Cathedral ringers presented Miss Shimmin with a case of fish knives and forks and a cut-glass crystal cake stand. From the English members of St. Paul's Cathedral Society she received a suitably engraved silver bell inkstand.

LEADING CONDUCTORS—3.

FRANK BENNETT.

Over a period of nearly 50 years Mr. Frank Bennett, of Brighton, has been in the forefront of the Exercise as a conductor; indeed, there are very few men with his all-round ability in this sphere. All methods come alike to him, and he is one of those endowed with an almost uncanny capacity for correcting mistakes. Moreover, his conducting is always done from one of the working bells, for 'tenor' ringing has never been one of the things he has aspired to.

With his ability as a conductor, Mr. Bennett combines exceptional skill as a composer and is the author of many peals in a variety of methods, from Bob Major to London Surprise.

Born at Basingstoke, Hants, in 1869, he first visited the belfry there on St. Nicholas' Eve, 1885, and became a pupil of the late Mr. Henry White (whose daughter, Alice, was the first lady to ring a tower-bell peal). While learning to handle a bell, Mr. Bennett spent several evenings a week with handbells, and had rung several touches of Bob Minor before he was able to ring rounds on tower bells. When just able to ring Grandsire Triples, Mr. Bennett moved to Guildford, where he joined the band at S. Nicolas' Church.

It was not until March 2nd, 1889, that he rang his first peal. It was at S. Nicolas', Guildford, and was conducted by Mr. George Williams. In this four of the local band scored their first peal. Mr. Bennett's first peal as conductor was Grandsire Triples at Weybridge, three months later, and on October 3rd in the same year he called the first local peal at S. Nicolas'. Other first local peals followed, and while Mr. Bennett was attached to the company, the bells were increased to ten.

The following year (1895) Mr. Bennett went to live in Brighton and became associated with the band at St. Peter's, which were busy making ringing history. During the twelve years he then spent in Brighton, Mr. Bennett took part in no fewer than 409 peals, the most notable being the first peal of London Surprise in the City of London, and the first peals of Oxford, Norfolk, Westminster and Bristol Surprise ever rung.

In one of the Sussex 'ringing weeks,' when St. Peter's Society used to start for a peal each evening at different towers, Mr. Bennett took part in seven Surprise peals in different methods rung in eight attempts. Remember, that was 40 years ago!

When he went to live at New Cross in 1907, Mr. Bennett built up a Surprise band which achieved a high standard and rang many peals in a great variety of methods in London. At St. Clement Danes Mr. Bennett called the first peals of Forward, Duffield, Double Norwich and Cambridge Surprise Royal for the Kent County Association.

Mr. Bennett has taken part in many peal ringing tours, and for the last ten years has himself organised very successful ringing weeks. As one result he has rung peals in all the counties in England, in seven in Wales and six in Ireland, and conducted peals in all the English counties except two. While touring in Ireland he took part in the first peals of Treble Bob Maximus and Stedman Cinques at St. Patrick's Cathedral, which were the first twelve-bell peals rung out of England.

Altogether Mr. Bennett has rung 1,435 peals in 519 towers, and has conducted 837 in 383 towers.

From 1907 to 1914 Mr. Bennett was hon. secretary of the Royal Cumberland Youths and represented the society on the Central Council from 1909 to 1914, having previously represented the Sussex Association from 1906 to 1908. For ten years he served the Sussex Association as peals secretary. After returning to Brighton Mr. Bennett attached himself to St. Nicholas' Society.

One other thing, at least, in connection with his long and distinguished ringing career must be mentioned. Mr. Bennett taught his daughter, Elsie (now Mrs. Frank Hairs), to ring, and, as most of our readers are aware, she quickly became one of the most brilliant lady members of the Exercise.

Next week: Mr. George R. Newton.

PEALS IN 1937.

CORONATION BRINGS BIG INCREASE.

The number of peals rung during the year 1937 was 153 greater than in 1936. This was doubtless due in large measure to the number rung in celebration of the Coronation.

The total was 1,902, of which 1,841 were rung on tower bells, and 61 on handbells. While the latter is 14 less than in 1936, the former shows an increase of 167. The following table shows the details for the last three years:—

PRESIDENT'S QUARTERLY REVIEW.

The quarterly meeting of the Midland Counties Association was held on Saturday, January 15th, at that old and well-known village of Repton, Derbyshire. The newly-restored ring of eight by Taylor and Co. was kept fully occupied by members and friends who journeyed far despite the rough and boisterous weather. Methods were rung to suit all comers.

The committee met in the afternoon and carried through their customary routine business. It was decided to print the annual report as usual. The hon. secretary asks all members who note any errors in the last report to make these known to him so that they will not be repeated.

Several long standing and old ringing members were transferred to the list of hon. life membership.

It was resolved that the members of the association, through the secretary, ask the Central Council to publish their agenda at least one month before the annual meeting of the Council. This would enable various association representatives to have a little time to discuss points of importance with members of their own associations and through the medium of 'The Ringing World.' It would also save much time at the Council meeting.

Tea was afterwards served in the Court Room, when about 60 sat down, representing the districts of Derby, Hinckley, Leicester, Loughborough, Burton and Nottingham, as well as friends from outside places. It was followed by the general meeting, which was presided over by Mr. E. Denison Taylor (president), supported by the Vicar of Repton, the Rev. A. W. Fletcher, M.A., and Mrs. Fletcher, and Mr. Ernest Morris (general hon. secretary). It was regretted that Mr. W. E. White (hon. treasurer) was prevented from attending through illness.

The president gave a 'racy' review of the last quarter's work, peals rung, etc. He noted that 32 peals had been rung in various methods from Doubles to Cambridge Royal, and particularly mentioned the efforts of the younger generation on the successful outcome of their peal attempts. At the other end of the scale he conveyed his congratulations to that 'young' veteran of 84 years, Mr. James George, on ringing several peals to mark his birthday. He also voiced the regrets of the members in the passing of Mr. A. Baker ('Ireneus Pistor'), of Ilkeston, and the Rev. H. S. T. Richardson, both valued members of the association in their day. He thanked the Vicar for the use of the bells and the local committee for making the meeting such a happy and successful one, especially conveying the thanks of all present to Mr. Donald F. Ferguson, captain of the local company and a respected honorary member of the association, for so generously providing tea. He deeply regretted that gentleman's inability to be present, but asked the secretary to convey their thanks.

The Vicar briefly replied, and gave everyone present a warm welcome to Repton, inviting the association to come again whenever they wished.

New members proposed since the last meeting, viz., 27 ringing, six rejoins, six life, two honorary, were duly elected. Two auditors (Messrs. Colin Harrison and J. H. Dean) were chosen to go through the past year's accounts. This terminated a most successful meeting, and further ringing ended a pleasant afternoon.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

SONNING DEANERY TO CONTINUE COMBINED PRACTICES.

The Sonning Deanery Branch of the Oxford Diocesan Guild can always rely upon a well-attended annual meeting, and this reputation was well maintained on Saturday week, when, as usual, the gathering was held at Wokingham. An inspiring service was held in All Saints' Church, at which the Rector (the Rev. G. Kenworthy) officiated, assisted by the Rev. A. G. G. Thurlow (curate). The address was given by the Rev. P. J. Hepburne Scott, Rector of St. Paul's, Wokingham, and a collection for the Branch Restoration Fund realised £1 5s. 10d.

Tea was partaken of at St. Paul's Parish Room, the catering being undertaken by members of the church. The visitors were given a welcome by Mr. A. H. Newberry (churchwarden), and Canon G. F. Coleridge (Master of the Guild and chairman of the branch) cordially thanked those who had kindly and generously provided and served the tea. Thanks were also accorded to the Rectors of All Saints' and St. Paul's.

Canon Coleridge presided at the business meeting, and was supported by the Rev. C. Elliot Wigg (Deputy Master of the Guild), Mr. A. D. Barker (Guild treasurer), Mr. R. T. Hibbert (general secretary), Mr. W. J. Paice (branch secretary and treasurer), and a representative gathering of members. There were visitors from Aldershot, Bagshot, Caversham, Reading, Sunbury, Southsea, Stoke Poges and Uxbridge.

A message of sympathy was sent to the Rev. R. L. Majendie, Rector of Sandhurst, who has undergone an operation.

The balance sheet, presented by the hon. secretary and treasurer, showed receipts from members' subscriptions amounting to £17 7s. Half of this was remitted to Guild funds. The balance of £9 7s. 7d. from 1936 was reduced to £8 16s. 8d. at the end of 1937. The Restoration Fund deposit account had been increased from £9 15s. 6d. to £11 8s. 2d.

The balance sheet was adopted, as was also the hon. secretary's report, which stated that there were 28 honorary and 140 ringing members. One peal of Bob Major had been rung during the year. A successful meeting was held at Binfield in June, but the combined practices had been poorly supported by members. The report reminded members that the chairman had been with them for 44 years and expressed the hope that Canon Coleridge would be spared to them for many more years. The report concluded with thanks to foremen of towers for their ready help.

The Rural Dean (Canon J. A. Anderson), in proposing the re-election of the chairman, thanked him for the many years he had helped them and hoped that for many years he would continue (applause).—Mr. F. Dentry seconded and the appointment was carried with acclamation.—The Chairman, in responding, remarked, 'I think my head is all right, although my legs are not.' He said he would do his best for the branch.

Mr. W. J. Paice was unanimously re-elected hon. secretary and treasurer on the motion of the chairman. Mr. Paice expressed thanks for the confidence shown in him and for past kindnesses from the members.

The Branch Committee was appointed by the election of the foremen of the towers as last year, with the exception that Mr. T. Tilley replaces Mr. R. Darvill as foreman of the tower at Waltham St. Lawrence. Messrs. F. Dentry, J. Moth, J. Rance and J. White were unanimously re-elected as branch representatives on the Guild General Committee.

A recommendation from the Branch Committee was then considered: 'That the application from the Warfield ringers to transfer, with their tower, from the East Berks to the Sonning Deanery Branch be accepted.'

The Guild secretary, in course of a discussion on procedure, gave his opinion that the matter lay between Mr. Barker and Mr. Paice (the two secretaries).

The following motion was submitted by the hon. secretary: 'That because of the poor support from members of the branch, combined practices be discontinued and three meetings held instead, in the months of March, June and September.'

This gave rise to considerable discussion, in which it was urged that the local people in some cases were conspicuous by their absence at the practices.

Mr. R. G. Cross, Mr. J. Moth and others advocated the continuance of the practices, and an amendment, 'That combined practices be continued and that three ringing meetings be held in the months of March, June and September,' was carried by the meeting, 32 voting for and no one against.

The value of 'The Ringing World' articles on the art of ringing and other matters was stressed by several of those present, one suggestion being that all meetings of the Deanery Branch be advertised in that journal. Another suggestion was that the Parochial Church Councils should provide a copy of 'The Ringing World' for every ringing member, in respect of the work each did for the church.

The Chairman, in response to a previous request, gave an extremely interesting report of the tercentenary celebration of the Ancient Society of College Youths. This was greatly appreciated.

Another member supplemented the above with an account of the Royal Cumberland Youths and their historical repercussions upon the other Ancient Society.—On the proposition of Mr. Dentry, Canon Coleridge was heartily thanked for his kindness.

WINCHESTER AND PORTSMOUTH DIOCESAN GUILD.

SOUTHAMPTON DISTRICT'S INCREASED MEMBERSHIP.

Three towers were open for ringing in Southampton when the annual meeting of that district of the Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild was held. They were the rings of eight at Holy Rood and St. Michael's, and the ten at St. Mary's, and the methods rung by the many visitors ranged from Grandsire Triples to Surprise Major and Royal. Service was held in St. Michael's Church and was conducted by the Guild treasurer, the Rev. Evan Jones.

After tea in St. Michael's Hall, Mr. George Williams (Master) presided over the business meeting.

Among those present were the Rev. Evan Jones, Messrs. F. W. Rogers (hon. general secretary), A. T. Greenwood (Portsmouth District secretary), W. Andrews (Winchester Cathedral) and G. Pullinger (district secretary).

Ringers attended from North Stoneham, Bishopstoke, New Alresford, Romsey, Winchester, Portsmouth, Wimborne, Swindon, Dibden, Purlieu, Lockerley, Mottisfont, Wickham, Titchfield, Eling and Upham, and there were welcome visitors in Messrs. J. H. Shepherd (Swindon) and W. Shute (Dorset).

The hon. secretary (Mr. G. Pullinger), in his report, said the year 1937 had been an uneventful one in the district. Some parishes had no difficulty in keeping bands up to strength and maintaining Sunday service ringing. Others were not so fortunate, and St. Michael's, Southampton, and East Tytherley had no ringers at all. Shortage of ringers in some towers meant lack of practice, thus lowering the standard of ringing. One way out of this difficulty appeared to be more inter-tower practices. The convenient centres where this idea could be carried out were Romsey, Dibden, North Stoneham and Southampton.

BELLS NEEDING ATTENTION.

Meetings had been held at Mottisfont, Dibden, Lockerley, Netley Abbey and the annual at Southampton. All were fairly well attended. Generally speaking, the bells in the district were in good order, the exception being Mottisfont, which badly need expert attention.

During the year Mr. Connelly and Mr. Corrigan, both very active members and attached to the North Stoneham band, had left the diocese, and thanks were due to them for the great amount of work and time they gave to the cause of ringing during the period they resided in the district.

The financial position of the district was sound, the balance being £8. A total of 124 members paid their subscriptions, against 106 in the previous year, although several subscriptions are still outstanding. There are several keen young ringers coming along at various towers in the district, which augured well for the future. The district contains 16 towers, 11 of which are affiliated to the Guild.

The Rev. G. T. Tritton (Dibden) was re-elected chairman, Mr. G. Williams District Ringing Master, Mr. G. Pullinger hon. secretary and Mr. G. J. Fray auditor. Messrs. W. T. Tucker and L. Knott, both of North Stoneham, were elected representatives on the Executive Committee, Mr. Knott succeeding Mr. J. W. Faithfull, who resigned owing to the ties of business.

The meetings for 1938 were arranged as follows: North Stoneham, February 19th; Broughton, May 21st; Eling, July 16th; Romsey, November 29th; Holy Rood, Southampton (annual), January 14th, 1939.

Five members were elected, and Mr. F. Faustone and Mr. A. J. Corrigan were elected as compounding members.

A subscription to the funds of St. Michael's Church was voted as a mark of appreciation for the use of the room, and votes of thanks were proposed to Canon R. B. Jolly, the Rev. R. A. R. Spread and the Rev. F. S. Marle (of Dean).

PORTSMOUTH DISTRICT OFFICERS RE-ELECTED.

The annual meeting of the Portsmouth District was held at the Cathedral, Portsmouth, on Saturday, January 15th, members attending from Curdrige, Fareham, Gosport, North Stoneham, Portsmouth (Cathedral and St. Mary's), Ryde, Southampton and Wickham. The Guild service was held in the Cathedral, at which the Provost (Canon T. H. Masters) officiated, and gave an address.

Tea was served in the Green Row Rooms, after which the business meeting was presided over by the Rev. J. A. Rutherford, in the absence of the Provost.

The report and balance sheet for the past year were adopted, and all the officers re-elected en bloc. Messrs. H. G. Cooper, G. A. Park, P. W. Hallett, E. F. Dollimore (Cathedral), and A. G. Tull and C. B. Tull, of Fareham, were elected ringing members of the Guild. The election of Commander J. Bird as a life member was confirmed.

St. Mary's, Portsea, was selected for the next annual meeting, to be held on Saturday, January 21st, 1939.

The sum of £2 2s. was granted towards the Cathedral Appeal Fund. Votes of thanks were accorded the Provost for the use of the bells and officiating at the service, also to the organist and caterers.

The members returned to the tower for further ringing, which ranged from rounds to Bristol Surprise Major.

CLYST HYDON, DEVON.—On Wednesday, December 15th, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Doubles: W. Bond 1, R. Norrish 2, E. J. Jordan 3, E. W. Biffin (conductor) 4, H. Wheller 5, J. Salter 6. First quarter-peal for all, except the conductor, and first attempt.

LONDON COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

CHANGE OF SOUTHERN DISTRICT OFFICERS.

Bishop of Southwark on Need for Young Ringers.

The annual meeting of the Southern District of the London County Association and North Southwark Diocesan Guild was held on Saturday, January 15th, at St. Giles', Camberwell, where over 60 members and friends took part in the ringing during the afternoon and evening. The methods rung were Cambridge and London Surprise Major, Stedman and Grandsire Caters, Treble Bob, Plain Bob and Cambridge Surprise Royal. It was particularly gratifying that many members took the opportunity to ring their first course or touch in some new method.

At the service in the afternoon an address was given by the Lord Bishop of Southwark, Dr. Parsons. The Bishop said he was pleased to have the opportunity to address the ringers and was anxious to do all he could to encourage the ringers of the diocese, as he was fully aware of the valuable service they rendered in calling the people to religion.

The majority of people in this country, said the Bishop, were proud of their bells, but complaints were sometimes received from a small minority. As long, however, as the bells were rung well, and not for excessive periods nor at unreasonable times, he ignored these complaints. The object of the ringers should be to ring regularly and well for Sunday services, and in this connection he pointed out that bad ringing was irreverent. In these modern times, when everything was changing, there was a danger of the art of bellringing becoming defunct, and to avoid this possibility it was imperative that as many young people as possible should be taught. It was advisable to teach a group of youngsters at the time, for it was often the case that one young recruit felt out of place among more experienced ringers, but this would not be so if he were with other youngsters.

The Bishop concluded his address by reminding the ringers that their efforts were to the glory of God, and that their chief endeavour was to ring regularly and well for Sunday services, thus calling the people to practice the religion they profess.

During the service two special bell hymns were sung, and at the conclusion a well-struck course of Stedman Triples on handbells was rung by the St. Giles' Society.

NEW DISTRICT MASTER AND SECRETARY.

About 50 people sat down to the tea provided in the Parish Hall, and it was a pleasant surprise for all that the Bishop was present. He also took the chair at the ensuing business meeting, but on account of other engagements was unable to stay to the end of the proceedings, and Mr. E. A. Young was deputed to take over.

In his report the retiring secretary, Mr. A. P. Cannon, stated that the ringing at meetings had not been as good as might have been expected, and that the attendance at these meetings, though better than the preceding year, was disappointing to the people who took the trouble to arrange them.

It was stated that the District Master, Mr. H. Mance, was indisposed, and that it was his wish, on account of pressure of business, not to stand for re-election. There was some competition for the vacant office, and, after a ballot, Mr. P. A. Corby was elected as the new District Master. The election of the other officers resulted as follows: Secretary, Mr. N. H. Manning; treasurer, Mr. E. R. Mackrill; steward, Mr. W. Essery.

It was decided to apply for All Saints and Holy Trinity, Wandsworth, for the next meeting on April 2nd, or, as an alternative, SS. Peter and Paul, Mitcham. The choice of the other towers for the remaining meetings during 1938 was left in the hands of the District Committee.

Mr. H. A. Holden and Mr. G. V. Murphy, both of Bexleyheath, and Mr. J. Gransbury, of Camberwell, were elected new members.

Votes of thanks were passed to the retiring officers for their services during the past year, to the Bishop for his kindness in addressing the members, and to Mr. T. H. Taffender for making the arrangements for the meeting.

A collection was made on behalf of the fund for rehanging the bells at St. George-in-the-East.

Afterwards further ringing took place at St. Giles' until 8.30 p.m., and an adjournment was then made to the local hostelry, where a room had been set aside for refreshment and entertainment. Here the handbells were made good use of, and Messrs. Waugh and Couzens entertained with some tune ringing. The dart board was put to good use, and Crayford proved that they can play darts as well as they can ring. One 'touch' on the dart board, in which some Northern District members were the performers, looked like developing into a peal—and a somewhat false one at that. Unfortunately the president of the N.U.T.S. found a banjo and an accordion, on which he persisted in displaying his musical abilities. However, all survived and a very successful and enjoyable meeting was brought to a close at 10.30 p.m.

WEDDING BELLS.

At Burnham, Bucks, on December 18th, for the wedding of Mr. G. H. Limmer (deputy captain of the St. Peter's Society, Burnham), a peal of Oxford Treble Bob Major was unfortunately lost. A quarter-peal of Bob Major (by A. H. Winch) was, however, rung: J. E. Taylor 1, P. A. Blamey 2, J. S. Hawkins 3, W. J. Norton 4, C. A. Burgess 5, B. O'Neill 6, F. D. Boreham 7, G. Gilbert (conductor) 8. Messrs. Hawkins and Norton belong to St. Andrew's, Holborn, and F. D. Boreham to High Wycombe.

by J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE

'Mr. Trollope has achieved more than his immediate purpose of writing a history of the Society of College Youths. So closely has the guild been identified with English change ringing that its history is to a very large extent an account of the ancient sport of ringing developed into an elaborate art. . . .

HANDBELLS FOR SALE.

A SET OF THIRTEEN HANDBELLS for Sale; what offers?—Minett, Myrtle Cottage, Ingatstone.

BARNSELY AND DISTRICT SOCIETY.

The annual meeting was held at Barnsley on Saturday, January 15th. Although the weather was very rough, 23 members were present from the following towers: Cawthorne, Darfield, Eastwood, Felkirk, Hoylandswaine, Rotherham, Wath, Wortley and the local company. The bells were rung in the afternoon, and the members attended a short service conducted by the Rector (the Rev. W. E. Wilkinson). Tea in the Parish Rooms was followed by the business meeting.

The balance sheet was passed as satisfactory, and the secretary's report showed that apart from the annual contest, 10 meetings had been held, the average attendance being 16. The members on the books totalled 176, but of these 29 were over two years in arrears.

The officers for 1938 were elected as follows: Hon. president, the Rev. W. E. Wilkinson (Rector of Barnsley); hon. vice-presidents, Capt. H. Potter and Major Rideal; president, Mr. C. D. Potter; secretary, Mr. D. Smith; treasurer, Mr. H. Chant; auditors, Mr. E. Brookes and Mr. J. T. White.

After the usual vote of thanks, to which the Rector suitably replied, further ringing continued until 9 p.m. in various methods of Minor from Plain Bob to London, Ipswich, Durham and Chester Surprise, and Little Bob, Treble Bob, Superlative and Cambridge Major. The most pleasing feature was to see the president, who is in his 80th year, take a rop for a course of Oxford Minor. The bells were lowered in peal at the end of a happy gathering.

The next meeting will be at Sandal on February 12th.

GLASGOW RINGERS' PROGRESS.

Members of St. Mary's Episcopal Cathedral Society, Glasgow, held their annual meeting in the Synod Hall, Glasgow, on Saturday, January 15th, when Messrs. William H. Pickett (captain), Henry F. Sargent (vice-captain) and Ernest A. Stafford (secretary and treasurer) were re-elected to their respective offices.

Under the captaincy of Mr. Pickett, the society, with a membership of 16 change ringers, has made steady progress. Last year they scored a peal of Grandsire Caters and a quarter-peal of Stedman Caters. Another attempt for a peal of Stedman Triples was also made, but lost through a change course after 55 minutes.

The bells were silent from June to November while being rehung on ball bearings. This work was carried out by Messrs. John Taylor and Co. in their usual efficient manner.

In view of the coming Empire exhibition to be opened at Glasgow by H.M. the King in May this year, the society take the opportunity of cordially inviting any ringers, visiting the city, to give them a 'look in.' A warm welcome awaits visitors. The address of the hon. secretary is 28, Seamore Street, Glasgow, N.W.

DON'T SCRUB YOUR HANDS!

To many people, the problem of getting the hands really clean without harming the skin is a serious one. Grease and grime, which become deeply ingrained into the pores of the skin, are extremely difficult to remove, and ordinary washing with soap or even scrubbing will fail to remove them completely. Housewives, particularly, who complain that their hands get ruined by the nature of their work, will find the preparation called DERMAFOAM, a real "godsend." DERMAFOAM just smoothes away dirt and grease without effort. It gets right down into the pores and removes every particle of grime, leaving skin beautifully supple and healthy.

Men, too—when you've finished that dirty job on the car, DERMAFOAM will quickly banish all grease and oil from your hands. It acts almost magically—working under and around the nails and into every minute crease, removing all trace of dirt in a flash.

Engineers, Painters, Car Mechanics, Printers — everyone — will welcome DERMAFOAM, the modern method of cleansing and protecting the hands.

A BISHOP'S WISE COUNSEL.

We wish that the points from the address given by the Lord Bishop of Southwark at the recent meeting of the London County Association could be passed on to every ringer and to every incumbent in the country who has a ring of bells in his care. Seldom has a preacher put his finger on matters of vital import relating to our art better than did Dr. Parsons on that occasion. His words were not merely the customary platitudes on the value of ringers' work in the belfries; they contained some very pertinent advice. Summarised, his chief points may be stated thus: The chief endeavour of ringers should be to ring regularly and well for Sunday services; complaints, when bells were well rung at reasonable times, should be ignored; bad ringing is irreverent; as many young people as possible should be taught to ring, to save the art from becoming defunct, and youngsters should be taught in groups.

All this is sage counsel and will be heartily endorsed by those who have the true interests of ringing at heart. We need not traverse the whole of the points to which the Bishop directed attention; but we would like the clergy more fully to take Dr. Parsons' stand and ignore complaints when bells are well rung at reasonable times. We have heard recently of one or two determined attempts to get bells silenced. In each case, happily, the incumbent has refused to be stampeded, but we also know of weak-kneed clergy who, either through fear of action by opponents, or because they prefer the line of least resistance, have practically shut their towers. It is a stupid and mistaken policy. If the bells are unreasonably noisy—and there are some towers where this is the case—steps should be taken to modify the sound by one or other of the remedies which in these days can be taken at a perfectly moderate cost. If the bells are not at fault, then the clergy should have the courage to stand up to the objectors and decline to interfere with the reasonable ringing of his peal. We hope the Bishop of Southwark's pronouncement will stiffen the attitude of any clergy who may be wavering.

Let it be remembered, however, that Dr. Parsons qualified his position by the proviso that he referred to bells well rung. There is a great deal of indifferent ringing to be heard in these days which might be improved. Everyone has to learn, but not everyone learns enough. There is little excuse for the old hand who cannot tell whether he is striking his bell well or badly, and the pity is that so many of this type object to being told. If they would only remember that one is never too old to learn, and that if a way of improving their striking is pointed out

OLD SURREY RINGER'S DEATH.

We regret to announce the death of one of Surrey's oldest ringers. Albert Ellis, known for miles around as 'Biggy,' who had been a ringer at Charlwood for over 50 years, passed away on January 19th at the age of 69 after a short illness.

The interment took place at Charlwood on Saturday, January 22nd, the service being conducted by the Rector (the Rev. W. Grainger-Thompson).

As the cortege approached the church, the bells that 'Biggy' loved were rung fully muffled in rounds, and after the interment his wish was fulfilled by a touch of London Scholars' Pleasure, followed by 720 of Oxford Treble Bob, those taking part being R. Wickens, E. Illman, A. Knapp, W. Tuppen, A. Bull, H. Edwards.

'Biggy' will be remembered by all who knew him as the one who was never wrong and who generally managed to convince others that they were at fault. He was, however, once a 'great' ringer and a wonderful striker, but he had not taken a very active part in the Exercise for several years although he could generally be relied on to call a variety of methods on special occasions. He had rung a large number of peals during his career.

DEATH OF A BRIDGEND RINGER.

Mr. Richard Evans, leader of the St. Iltyd's band; Bridgend, for over 40 years, passed away on January 22nd at the age of 74 years after a long illness. He had rung about 30 peals for the Llandaff and Monmouth Association, of which he was a member almost from its formation.

Apart from his own illness, he had had much domestic trouble in the last 12 months of his life, having buried during that time his wife and only son.

Members of the local band attended the funeral, which took place on January 25th. He was buried close under the bells he loved so much. A muffled peal of Grandsire Triples was rung to his memory the same day.

PEAL NOTES.

Arranged as a 17-method peal of Treble Bob Minor, a performance at Sutton, Cheshire, had perforce to be made one of seven extents of Bob Minor owing to one of the band being unable to start. It was, however, by no means wasted effort, for the emergency man called in, Harry Farrer, rang not only his first peal, but also his first touch of Minor.

Mr. Sidney Brown took part in a peal of London Surprise Minor at Histon, Cambridgeshire, on January 20th. He had not previously rung a 720 in the method. This peal was Mr. Frank Warrington's 240th.

A Wiveliscombe ringer, Mr. George Sparkes, who was married on Boxing Day, rang in a peal of Doubles on January 20th to celebrate his wedding. This was at Curry Mallet, and was the first peal on the bells. All the ringers were visitors. They came, two from Wiveliscombe, three from Milverton and one from West Buckland.

Not many ladies can claim to have 'circled' a tower, but Miss Dorothy Vessey has now rung all the bells to a peal at Barnby-in-the-Willows, Notts. On January 18th she rang the 6 $\frac{1}{2}$  cwt. tenor to a peal in seven Minor methods.

Mr. Maurice Hibbert, of Bushey, has called another unusual composition of Stedman Triples, which, although published in 'The Ringing World' on July 7th, 1922, is now rung for the first time. It is a short course, odd and even bob irregular six-part, with only two singles, by Mr. A. J. Pitman. The peal was rung at Bushey, Herts, on January 20th.

The one-part peal of Grandsire Triples composed by Mr. Louis Head, of Maidstone, and published in 'The Ringing World' on August 5th, 1921, was also called at Bushey, on January 27th, by Mr. Hibbert.

EFFICIENT SILENCERS.

The bells of St. John's Church, Blackpool, have been in the tower over 70 years, but not until January 22nd was a peal of Double Norwich rung upon them, and it was only the second peal in the method ever rung in the Fylde, the first having been rung at Bispham in October, 1921.

St. John's Church almost adjoins Blackpool's famous Winter Gardens, where, during the peal, a matinee performance of 'Carmen' was in progress, given by the Universal Opera Company.

All cause for complaint, however, was removed by the use of Davis silencers (on the clappers of the bells, of course, not on the singers in the opera)—a great testimony to the efficiency of these appliances.

By the way, Mr. Norman Brown, a former ringer at Wigan Parish Church, is now a member of this Opera Company.

Geoffrey Harrison, the son of Mr. Colin Harrison, of Loughborough, after having rung the treble at the Foundry to a peal of Cambridge Surprise Major on January 21st, rang his first peal of Stedman Caters, at the first attempt, on the following day. It was his twentieth peal, and all of them have been rung within twelve months and before his reaching the age of 14 years.

By a coincidence this was his father's one hundredth peal for the Midland Counties Association.

It was on the bells of Loughborough Parish Church, where this peal was rung, that a record length of Stedman Caters was achieved in 1909. It consisted of 18,027 changes and occupied 12 hours and 18 minutes—the first time that one set of men had rung 'the clock round.' William Pye, who called the peal, rang the tenor, which is over 30 cwt.

'Teddy' Barnett has rung his one hundredth Surprise peal. He did this at his home tower of Crayford, which was very fitting, after having lost it elsewhere. He has not yet rung the treble to a peal in a Surprise method, but he has plenty of time in front of him—he is only 18.

In the peal at Newhall, Derbyshire, Mr. W. J. Dumolo, of the local company, rang his first peal of Minor and this in four methods. It is also interesting to note that Mr. J. Hough, who has called numerous peals of Minor, revisited his old tower and rang the treble.

We often read of 'first peal away from the treble,' but this week we record a peal at Wendens Ambo, Essex, in which Mr. A. E. Austin, of the Ely Diocesan Association, rang his 'first peal on the treble,' after having rung and conducted a great many peals from working bells.

DEVON LAD'S GOOD PERFORMANCE.

John Andrews, who rang the treble to his first peal on eight bells at Chudleigh, Devon, on January 25th, is only 15 years of age and a member of the Rev. E. V. Cox's progressive band at Brampford Speke, where five of the band rang their first 720 of Cambridge Surprise Minor for practice on January 24th. His steadiness and accurate striking throughout were such as any experienced ringer might have been proud of. He is to be congratulated, too, on his ringing of the 2nd in the peal at Berry Pomeroy two days later, having never struck a blow before on an 'inside' bell in Major.

At Chudleigh the ringing chamber has a second approach to it from the gallery at the west end, and some anxiety was caused after an hour's ringing by the appearance of the sexton, who began to express himself about its being 'hot work.' A sharp invitation to stay as long as he liked, but to keep quiet, was accepted. Later on he disappeared for a few moments, to return with a chair, on which he subsided until the bells came round.

One of the founders of the Romney Marsh Guild, Mr. George Johnson, of Appledore, Kent, died on January 15th. A week later a half-muffled peal of Stedman Triples was rung on the bells of his Parish Church as an expression of deep regret.

St. Nicholas' Church, Yarmouth, comes into the peal news this week. A peal of Kent Treble Bob Maximus was rung there on January 22nd to celebrate the 28th anniversary of the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. King. It was Messrs. King and Harwood's 25th peal together. St. Nicholas is said to be the largest parish church in England.

We refer elsewhere to the passing of Mr. Richard Evans, of Bridgend, Glamorganshire. On the occasion of his funeral a half-muffled peal of Grandsire Triples was rung. It was a last tribute of his ringing friends and also a memorial peal to Mr. H. Bailey, who was buried the previous week at Yetminster, Dorset, where he was a ringer for many years. His son, Mr. Edward T. Bailey, took part in the peal.

The peal of Minor at Rougham, Suffolk, on January 15th, was the first on the bells since they were rehung.

In honour of the birth of Brian Crisp Lovett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Lovett, of St. Saviour's, Jersey, a peal in eight methods of Minor was rung at Ranworth, Norfolk. Mr. Lovett was for some years a member of St. Peter Mancroft Guild, Norwich. No more than four methods had previously been rung in a peal at Ranworth.

GOOD GOING.

To conduct four peals in a week, just in the ordinary course of ringing, is pretty good going. Having begun with the peal at Ranworth on Thursday, January 20th, Mr. Nolan Golden then called peals of Cambridge Major, Kent Treble Bob Royal and Double Norwich Major before the next Thursday came round. And in addition he took part in a peal of Treble Twelve!

The Treble Ten was rung at St. Peter Mancroft, where Mr. William E. Bason, who rang the second, has now rung each of the 13 bells to a peal.

The composition, by Mr. Golden, was rung for the first time and was in nine courses, with the 6th the extent in 5-6 without the 2nd in 6th's, and all combination of 4-5-6 in 5-6. It has been produced in two different ways with the same course-ends. Here are the figures:—

5,000	M	W	H	5,040	M	W	H

Mr. W. J. Nudds, who was once well known among those who rang many peals with the Cumberland Youths and the Middlesex Association, but who was laid aside for a long period by serious illness, took part in a peal of Cambridge at Willesden on January 25th—his first peal of Surprise for nine years. Mr. Nudds was one of the band who rang the 18,027 Stedman Caters at Loughborough in 1909, referred to elsewhere in these notes.

KEEN BAND IN SOMERSET TOWER.

PRESENTATION TO MR. A. E. COLES.

The bellringers of Goathurst, Somerset, held their annual meeting at the Rectory on Wednesday evening, January 19th. After the election of officers for the current year and other business had been completed, the Rector (the Rev. E. de B. Saunderson), on behalf of the members of the tower, and Mr. R. G. Seymour, Rector's warden, presented Mr. A. E. Coles with a marble pen stand and pen. In making the gift, the Rector said they had asked Mr. Coles to meet them that evening, because they were not unmindful of all his great kindness and trouble through a number of years in his efforts to promote scientific bellringing amongst the ringers of their little village. It was a matter of great satisfaction to him (the Rector) and to the rest of their small community that at last Mr. Coles' efforts had been crowned with success. After a lapse of some 18 years the bells were now in working order, and they had a band of keen ringers. On behalf of them, Mr. Seymour and himself, he asked Mr. Coles to accept the small gift as a token of their very great appreciation of all he had done for them. They hoped he might long be spared to carry on his great work and to hear the bells of Goathurst.

Mr. Coles, in reply, thanked the members not only for the gift, but for the kindly thought that prompted it. From a very early age he was interested in scientific bellringing; it was one of his great hobbies and a labour of love, especially when he had such keen members to work with.

ROYAL CUMBERLAND YOUTHS.

THE MASTERSHIP.

Proposal for Graduation Through Stewardships Rejected.

A large gathering of Cumberlands from all parts of London and the Home Counties took place on Saturday, January 22nd, on the occasion of the annual meeting of the society. There was ringing during the afternoon both at St. Leonard's, Shoreditch, and St. Martin-in-the-Fields, and everyone present enjoyed the opportunity of 'having a pull' on these two famous 'twelves.' Approximately 70 members sat down to a first-class tea, served in the Crypt of St. Martin's, and for the benefit of the ladies who so kindly waited on those present, a touch of Stedman Caters was rung on handbells.

After tea the business meeting was held in the Vestry Hall, presided over by the Rev. Pat McCormick, supported by the officers.

The hon. treasurer (Mr. G. W. Steere) presented his balance sheet, which showed a substantial increase in the balance in hand. The receipts included the subscriptions of 18 members elected during 1937.—The accounts were adopted.

The acting hon. secretary (Mr. N. Summerhayes), in presenting his report, said that when elected assistant secretary at the previous annual meeting he had hardly anticipated that in a few weeks he would be acting in the capacity of secretary to the society. He referred to the passing of Mr. George A. Card, the late hon. secretary, and, coupling with his name those of three other members who had died during the year, he asked the meeting to pay tribute in the usual way by standing for a few moments in silence.

This having been done, Mr. Summerhayes proceeded to say that during the year 14 peals had been rung, consisting of Stedman Cinques 3, Stedman Caters 1, Cambridge Royal 1, Cambridge Major 1, Superlative Major 1, Oxford Treble Bob Major 1, Kent Treble Bob Major 1, Bob Major 1, Minor in six methods 2, Minor in seven methods 2. One of the peals had been rung in honour of the Coronation, and special mention was made that, of the 14 peals, seven had been conducted by Mr. George Gilbert and rung by his young band in the Burnham district. The number of new members elected during the year had been 18. Three quarterly meetings had been held, by far the most successful being at Hampstead, with Highgate and Gospel Oak. Mr. Summerhayes urged all members to make a special point of attending these quarterly meetings, as attendances in one or two instances had been extremely disappointing.

It gave cause for great satisfaction, he said, to be able to record the successful revival of the annual dinner, which about 100 members had attended in March, 1937. Referring to the question of Sunday service ringing, he pointed out that they experienced great difficulty in keeping the bells going, and that it would be much appreciated if all who could would help in this respect. He concluded by thanking those who had given him advice and assistance during the year and also the clergy who had put their bells at their disposal for meetings and peal attempts.

Prior to the election of officers, a resolution was put to the meeting, on the proposition of Mr. A. Pulling, seconded by Mr. J. Parker, that the position of Master of the society should be held by a person who had graduated through the junior and senior stewardships. The proposer pointed out that the system would benefit the society, as it would give encouragement and consequently enthusiasm to the younger members, who would have a better chance of occupying the chair at least once.

A lively discussion followed, during which the Rev. P. McCormick asked the meeting to bear in mind that they would be committing themselves severely in passing this resolution and to consider the difference between a 'custom' and 'a rule.' On a vote being taken the motion was defeated.

The following officers were then elected: Master, Mr. George H. Cross; hon. secretary, Mr. Norman Summerhayes; hon. treasurer, Mr. George W. Steere; trustees, Mr. A. Hardy, Mr. F. Smith; auditors, Mr. T. Newman, Mr. F. Symonds; stewards—senior, Mr. T. Bevan; junior, Mr. R. Heazel.

The election of two members prior to peal attempts was confirmed and the following new members elected: Mr. S. Smith, Northwood; Mr. H. Pendry, Pinner; Mr. W. J. Robinson, Guildford; Mr. W. Forrester, Brentwood; Mr. B. Hines, Brentwood; Mr. W. Woodley, Hitcham; Mr. A. Rance, Binfield; Miss J. Blackman, Wokingham; Mr. E. J. Relfe, Lamberhurst; Mr. C. Lord, Northwood.

It was decided to hold quarterly meetings at Hornchurch in March, Reading in July, and Chislehurst in October.

The secretary announced that the annual dinner would be held on March 19th at Anderton's Hotel, Fleet Street, and said that he hoped that members and friends would support the function as they had done in the previous year.

A vote of thanks to the Rev. Pat McCormick was passed.—The Vicar, in reply, thanked the society for their co-operation, and said that he hoped the society would continue to flourish.

Recognition was also made of the services rendered to the society during the year by the officers, and thanks were accorded to the ladies who had prepared and served the tea.

The meeting concluded with further ringing at St. Martin-in-the-Fields until 9 p.m.

GUILDFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

WEDNESDAY MEETINGS FOR FARNHAM DISTRICT.

The Farnham District of the Guildford Diocesan Guild decided, at the annual district meeting, held at Farnham, on January 22nd, to try the experiment of Wednesday meetings, and it was left to the hon. secretary to arrange two of them on suitable dates. This is an entirely new departure for the Guild, and the other districts will watch it with interest.

After service in the Parish Church, at which the Rector (Canon E. M. Girling) gave a practical address on the objects of church-going, a party numbering over fifty gathered for tea and the business meeting. Canon Girling (who presided over the early part of the proceedings) was supported by Major J. H. B. Hesse (Master of the Guild), Mr. J. Corbett (hon. treasurer), Mr. J. S. Goldsmith (hon. general secretary), Mr. R. Hasted (District Ringing Master), Mr. C. W. Denyer (district hon. secretary) and members from Aldershot, Bagshot, Farnham, Bentley, Seale, Frensham, Crondall and Yorktown, and visitors from Guildford (S. Nicolas'), West Clandon, Horsell, Hornchurch (Essex), Coleman's Hatch (Sussex) and Wanstead (Essex).

At the outset the Rector referred to Mr. E. Clapshaw, now 93, who has recently come home from hospital and is recovering from an operation. 'He has not been up in the tower yet,' said the Rector, 'but he seems to be quite all right once more. He really is a marvellous old man.'

Later a resolution of good wishes and congratulation was passed to Mr. Clapshaw, who had celebrated his birthday a few days before.

All the officers of the district were re-elected and the balance sheet adopted. The latter showed receipts of £11 10s. from ringing members and £3 10s. from hon. members. Half this sum was remitted to the general funds, and, after paying the expenses of the district, the balance in hand had been increased by 2s. 8d. to £15 12s. 8d.

The hon. secretary's report stated that steady progress had been made in most towers in the district. The average attendance at the district meetings had been 45, and about 75 per cent. of this attendance was made by district members, who had also well supported the Guild functions. Membership had decreased by nine, the total now being 118 ringing members and 27 honorary. Benevolent Fund boxes had so far yielded £3 3s. 4d., but several more had yet to come in.

The Master congratulated the several ringers who had rung their first peals and the Aldershot band upon the amount of work they put in in the interests of the Guild.

CHANGE OF GUILD SECRETARY.

The secretary stated that Mr. Goldsmith, who had been general secretary of the Guild for 10 years, thought it was time to retire. Mr. Grover had promised to take his place. He proposed a vote of thanks to Mr. Goldsmith for his services.

Mr. Goldsmith said when he asked the Executive Committee to consider the question of the appointment of a successor they found great difficulty in getting anyone to take the post. He asked them to give their support to the nomination of Mr. Grover and to support him when he went into office in the way they had supported him (Mr. Goldsmith). If they did that he knew that the success of the Guild was assured, because Mr. Grover was the right man for the job. In him they would have an efficient and competent secretary.

Major Hesse endorsed what Mr. Goldsmith had said, and it was decided to support Mr. Grover's nomination.

Major Hesse was nominated Master, Mr. J. Corbett treasurer and Mr. R. Hasted auditor.

Five new members were elected from Seale, four from Aldershot and two from Yorktown, and the Rev. Philip Wheeldon was elected as an hon. member.

It was decided to give two guineas to the Guild's new Cathedral bells fund.

The thanks of the meeting were accorded to the hon. secretary (Mr. C. W. Denyer) for all his enthusiastic work.—In reply, Mr. Denyer mentioned that 20 members of his own tower were present at that meeting and in the district they were all a very happy family.

At the suggestion of the general hon. secretary, it was decided to support the appeal made for a donation towards the fund for new bells at St. Andrew's Church, Northampton, and a collection realised 14s. 3d.

Thanks were accorded to the Rector, the Rev. P. Wheeldon, the organist, the choir, Mr. Hasted and all who had helped in making the arrangements.

The Parish Church bells were made good use of before the service and after the meeting, and some good practice put in in a variety of methods.

FIRST QUARTER-PEALS.

HOLLOWAY.—On Sunday morning January 2nd, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples: A. S. Turner (first quarter-peal away from the tenor) 1, Mrs. Akers 2, R. Newman 3, H. Brown (first quarter-peal 'inside') 4, G. Charge 5, A. Turner (conductor) 6, R. Charge 7, A. Johnson 8.—On Sunday, January 16th, for morning service, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples: A. S. Turner 1, H. Turner (first quarter-peal 'inside') 2, R. Charge 3, R. Newman 4, G. Charge 5, A. Turner (conductor) 6, F. Akers 7, G. Tetmar (first quarter-peal) 8.

DURHAM AND NEWCASTLE DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.*APPEAL TO EASTERN DISTRICT MEMBERS.

A meeting of the Eastern District took place at Houghton-le-Spring on Saturday, January 22nd, when members were present from Newcastle, Gosforth, Fenham, Gateshead, Sunderland, South Shields, Chester-le-Street, Durham and West Hartlepool. A short meeting took place after tea. Mr. R. L. Patterson presided and welcomed the new president of the association, Mr. Oubridge, and the ringers from other districts.

The Vicar was thanked for the use of the bells, and so also were the local ringers for the arrangements they had made.

It was proposed that West Hartlepool be the next place of meeting on Saturday, March 19th. Although West Hartlepool is the 'out-lying' place of the Eastern District, it is hoped that the members will rally round the officials for the occasion.

There are still many Eastern District members who fail to attend the meetings, and it is to be hoped that they will give their support to the district meetings and help the officials to keep them going.

The methods rung during the afternoon and evening were Bob Minor and Major, Kent Treble Bob Major, Grandsire and Stedman Triples and Double Norwich.

CRAYFORD'S GOOD RECORD.*TWENTY-FOUR TOWER BELL PEALS IN THE YEAR.

At Crayford, Kent, in 1937, 24 peals were rung out of 34 attempts, one peal being lost through illness.

The peals consisted of 4 Stedman Triples, 3 Cambridge Surprise, 2 Kent Treble Bob, 2 Bob Major, 2 Grandsire Triples, and 1 each of Lincolnshire Surprise, Double Norwich, Real Double Norwich, Canterbury Pleasure, St. Clement's, Reverse Bob, Hereward, Dartford Little Bob, Erith Little Bob, Painswick College Bob and Pulford Bob, the last two methods being rung for the first time.

The conductors were E. A. Barnett 10, T. Groombridge, jun. 6, D. M. Sharp 4, H. E. Audsley 2, and J. J. L. Gilbert and H. Hovard 1 each.

There were 14 'first peals in the method as conductor' and 63 'first peals in the method,' D. M. Sharp collecting 11 of the latter.

In addition eight handbell peals were rung: 1 Bob Maximus, 3 Bob Royal, 1 Granta Treble Bob Royal, 2 Bob Major and 1 Grandsire Triples, with 12 'firsts' among them.

Of the above, Cambridge Surprise and Grandsire Triples on tower bells, and one each of Bob Major, Royal and Maximus on handbells were rung by members of the local band.

NORWICH DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.*SOUTH NORFOLK BRANCH'S RECORD MEETING.

The annual meeting of the South Norfolk Branch of the Norwich Diocesan Association was held at Diss on January 15th. The bells of the Parish Church, and those at St. Peter's, Palgrave, were rung to various methods from Bob Major to Superlative and Cambridge Surprise Major during the afternoon and evening.

The association's special form of service was used in Diss Church, conducted by the Rector (the Rev. L. Holt-Wilson). The lesson was read by the Rural Dean (the Rev. T. A. Nock), Rector of Bressingham. Other robed clergy present were the Rev. C. H. Barber (Winfarthing) and the Rev. J. F. S. Gardiner (Palgrave). The Rev. A. St. J. Heard (Bergh Apton) was also present in the congregation. Mr. C. P. Cowell, B.A., Mus.Bac., was at the organ.

Fifty members and friends sat down to tea at the Waveney Hotel, this being a record number. After tea a course of Grandsire Caters was rung on handbells by H. Moss, C. J. More, F. N. Golden, E. F. Poppy and J. A. Godfrey.

The Rector of Diss presided over the business meeting in the absence of the branch chairman, Mr. W. L. Duffield, through illness. He was supported by the Rev. T. A. Nock, R.D., the Rev. C. H. Barber, the Rev. A. St. J. Heard, the Rev. J. F. S. Gardiner, Capt. Ager, C.A., Mr. F. Nolan Golden (general secretary and treasurer of the association), Mr. A. G. Harrison (branch secretary), Messrs. G. Bennett, C. J. More, E. Whiting, R. Riches (members of the committee), G. J. Moss and H. Bardwell (churchwardens), C. P. Cowell (organist) and W. H. Harrison (parish clerk). Ringers were present from Alburgh, Attleborough, Braiseworth, Bergh Apton, Colton, Caston, Diss, Garboldisham, Garvestone, Gressingham, Mendlesham, Norwich, Palgrave, Pulham Market, Redenhall, Redgrave, Shelfanger, Swaffham, Stoke Ash, Winfarthing and Wetheringsett.

All the branch officers were re-elected, the Rural Dean (the Rev. T. A. Nock) was elected an honorary member, and eight new performing members were also elected.

Mr. F. Nolan Golden proposed a vote of thanks to all who had assisted to make the meeting so successful.

DEATH OF NETTLEBED RINGER.

Following the interment of Frederick Goodall, for 14 years a ringer at the local tower, 1,260 changes (10½ extents) of Grandsire Doubles was rung at Nettlebed, Oxon: The Rev. R. D. St. G. Edwards (Checkendon) 1. T. J. Cobb (Ramsgate) 2. N. Golden (Norwich) (conductor) 3. M. G. Daly (Checkendon) 4. S. Smith (Nettlebed) 5. W. French (Nettlebed) 6. First quarter-peal by ringers of 1, 4 and 6.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

The supply of 'The Glossary,' which the Central Council is distributing free to associations who pay postage, is now rapidly running out. Associations who desire to have them should write at once to the Hon. Librarian, Mr. W. H. J. Hooton, Lindley Lodge, near Nuneaton.

The Guildford Diocesan Guild is to have a change of secretary this year. Mr. J. S. Goldsmith is retiring and Mr. G. L. Grover has been nominated to succeed him. Mr. Grover is the Guildford District secretary and one of the Guild's representatives on the Central Council, where he is a member of the Peals Analysis Committee.

The bells of St. Nicolas' Church, Guildford, were ringing on Saturday afternoon in connection with a district meeting. In a passing bus were three employees of the bus company and four or five ringers.

When he heard the bells the conductor said to his mates: 'Merry Christmas, chaps. That's the best music there is. At any rate, it's a lot better than that hot jazz stuff on the wireless.'

'Hear, hear,' said the ringers. The conductor did not know who his passengers were.

Mr. George Stacey, of Minehead, had a surprise on Saturday week when, in recognition of his 35 years' service as hon. secretary of the Dunster Deanery Branch of the Bath and Wells Diocesan Association, he was presented with a wing easy chair by clergy and ringers of the deanery.

Fortunately for the Lincoln Guild meeting at Gainsborough tomorrow, the tenor at the Parish Church has been made ringable. At one time it was feared this might not be possible.

The meeting of the Furness and Lake District Branch of the Lancashire Association tomorrow has had to be transferred to Ulverston.

In 1929 the late Mr. Arthur Craven published the figures of a peal of Bob Major with 4-6-8 and 6-4-8 course ends. In the following issue of 'The Ringing World' he wrote that it was false and gave a revised version, which, he said, 'puts everything true.'

In June, 1937, the original composition was rung at Rotherham. Its falseness was rediscovered and is pointed out on page 96 of the new Yorkshire report, where the 'amended' figures are given. But this, too, is false. The figures of the two compositions appeared in 'The Ringing World' of March 29th and April 5th, 1929.

But here is the irony of the whole thing. Last Saturday, to replace the false peal of June, the 'amended' composition was rung at Eckington! Alas!

BELL BROADCASTS.

THE RINGING AT ST. PETER'S, BRISTOL.

To the Editor.

Sir,—It is with great regret that I feel compelled to reply publicly to Mr. Skidmore's letter. Whilst I can agree with the general remarks about broadcast ringing and B.B.C. supervision, I think your correspondent should have added these facts regarding St. Peter's, Bristol. We were a young band (about two years) composed entirely of learners, and in our enthusiasm when asked to ring 'over the air' we agreed. No one came forward afterwards and told us our ringing was 'disgraceful'; in fact, we were congratulated on our striking. I admit we only rang a plain course of Grandsire Doubles, but as a recent speaker pointed out, even that, well struck, is preferable to a more elaborate method, badly struck. I think Mr. Skidmore, as one of the ringers who taught us to pull, could have at least given a little different expression of encouragement to young ringers.

Bristol.

A. BENNETT, Captain of St. Peter's Ringers.

MERTON DISAPPOINTMENT.

Sir,—Having never heard or rung the bells of St. Mary's, Merton, I tuned in at 9.25 a.m. on Sunday, January 30th, expecting a treat, but, lo and behold! what a miserable exhibition came through! The very idea of 'jumping' the bells into rounds is appalling when broadcast ringing. Although there are only five bells at Merton, one would have thought some 'real' ringers would have been 'imported' to give us, say, 120 changes of Stedman Doubles to listen to instead of that apology for ringing.

I cannot understand why the B.B.C. waste the five minutes interval before switching on the bells for evening services. Recently at St. Martin's-in-the-Fields the treble was in the slow in Stedman Caters, so only the last 13 changes were heard instead of a whole course, which could have been heard if put on the ether at 7.50 p.m.

WIVELISCOMBE TOWER.

TAUNTON DEANERY SECRETARY DENIES ASPERSIONS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I wish to assure Messrs. Hartnell and Parkman, of Wiveliscombe, that no implication of their tower was made or intended at the annual meeting of the Taunton Deanery Branch of the Bath and Wells Diocesan Association. The secretary's report and the choosing of towers for quarterly meetings are two entirely separate items of the agenda, and in neither was anything said which, by the greatest stretch of imagination, could be construed as derogatory to the Wiveliscombe tower. I think that if any of the Wiveliscombe band had been at the meeting they would be the first to acknowledge this.

R. W. HAYWARD,

Hon. Secretary, Taunton Deanery.

LEADING CONDUCTORS—4.*GEORGE R. NEWTON.

Lancashire has no more popular ringer than Mr. George R. Newton, of Liverpool, who, for more than thirty years, has rendered invaluable service to the Lancashire Association in many directions. Since he went to live in Liverpool in 1904, Mr. Newton has taken an active share in the association's affairs. He has served on the committee since 1920, was vice-president in 1929 and 1930, and has represented the association on the Central Council since 1929. Moreover, only two other members, as far as we know, have rung more peals for the Lancashire organisation.

Mr. Newton was born at Prescott, Lancashire, but the first days of his ringing career were spent at Oxtun, Cheshire. He is an example of triumph over early failure. His first attempt to pull a bell was so disappointing to him that he did not try again for eight months. But it was a good thing for ringing that he returned to the belfry.

At one time Mr. Newton spent nearly two years at Chislehurst, Kent, but he has been in the Merseyside city for more than 33 years and for the last 20 has been a regular Sunday service ringer at the twelve-bell tower of St. Nicholas.

His first peal was rung on November 5th, 1898, at Woodchurch, Cheshire. It was a peal in five Minor methods, and by a coincidence Mr. Newton called his first peal at the same church. This was in seven methods, on March 24th, 1900.

Among the many peals upon which he looks back with pride is one of 7,200 in ten Minor methods at Frodsham, Cheshire, in April, 1911, conducted by Mr. E. H. Lewis. The band included the late Rev. A. T. Beeston, the late Rev. H. S. T. Richardson and the late Mr. H. W. Wilde, who frequently averred that this was one of his best performances.

Mr. Newton is one of the comparatively few ringers who have called peals of Cambridge Minor, Major, Royal and Maximus, and peals on all numbers of bells from five to twelve. He conducted the last peal on the old ten bells at Manchester Town Hall, a peal of Stedman Caters on June 6th, 1925. A peal there in those days was always a big job and this was no exception, for it was rung on one of the hottest days of the year. In May, 1928, Mr. Newton took part in a peal of Cambridge Surprise Maximus at Liverpool—the first in the North of England, and then five years later the first of Cambridge Maximus out of England—at St. Patrick's Cathedral, Dublin, when a company made a dash across the Irish Sea on Friday night, raided Dublin on Saturday, and returned with the spoils on Saturday night.

He has scored 473 peals, of which he has conducted 253. They have been rung in 163 towers, in 23 counties for 21 societies, but the Lancashire Association claims over 300 of this total.

Next Week: Mr. Albert Walker.*SOCIETY FOR THE ARCHDEACONRY OF STAFFORD.

A quarterly meeting for the Society for the Archdeaconry of Stafford was held at Coseley, when about 40 members and friends assembled. The methods rung during the afternoon and evening were varied—to suit all comers—and included a course of London Surprise.

The Rev. N. Watson (Vicar) conducted the service, and, after giving the company a welcome to Coseley, delivered a practical address.

An adjournment was then made to the schools, where a nice tea was laid. A meeting for general practice was arranged to be held at Penkridge on Saturday, February 26th, and the next quarterly meeting at Wednesbury on Saturday, April 23rd, both subject to approval at the respective places.

The usual votes of thanks to the Vicar for his address, etc., and to the ladies who served at the tea tables terminated the meeting.

Some returned to the belfry, while others paid a visit to Bilston to 'see the shops.'

Dear Sir,—Those of your readers who heard or read Mr. E. H. Lewis' speeches at the College Youths' tercentenary dinner and the Guildford Diocesan Guild's recent dinner, when he appealed for more of the younger clergy to make themselves acquainted with the subject of bellringing at an early stage in their careers, will no doubt be interested to hear of the great effort which is being made to establish ringing at Kelham Theological College, near Newark, where Mr. A. F. Sargent has recently started a band of change ringers.

Mr. Sargent is one of the original members of the flourishing Glasgow band, which was started in 1929 and rang the first peal at St. Mary's Cathedral (Grandsire Caters) on Coronation Day, and he has succeeded in transmitting his enthusiasm to a number of his fellow-students, with the result that four of them have already made good headway with Bob Major on handbells. As yet they have had no opportunity to learn tower-bell ringing, but they hope soon to get permission to start a regular practice at one of the nearby towers.

What is perhaps the most encouraging feature of this effort is that (in Mr. Sargent's own words) 'even those at the college who do not ring are being taught the rudiments and the importance of the art, so that when they go out into their parishes as priests and curates they will have at least some knowledge of bellringing, and will, therefore, be more able to take an intelligent and sympathetic interest in their bells and their ringers.'

This is Mr. Sargent's last year at Kelham, and he is most anxious, therefore, to make as much progress with his band as possible before he leaves in the summer.

They have two particular—and urgent—needs. The first is some books on the subject. They have a 'Troyte,' but could do with some of the elementary text-books, which would stimulate their interest, increase their knowledge and give them hints on conducting. These they hope to acquire gradually out of their own pockets, though any gifts would be very welcome.

The second is a more expensive item, namely, a set of handbells. Up to the present they have had to rely on the kindness of the Southwell ringers, who have generously placed their handbells at the disposal of the Kelham band when they have not been using them themselves; but, of course, they never know when they receive them how long they will be able to keep them, which is rather unsettling for a keen band! A small hut, conveniently situated at some distance from the main buildings, has been placed at their disposal by the authorities, and this the ringers have themselves cleaned up and converted into a 'belfry.'

Their great dream now is to be able to furnish it with a set of handbells which they can call their own. They realise, however, that it will be some time before they can hope to save up enough to purchase these themselves; and time is an important factor, as, if the future of the society is to be assured on a really sound basis, it is essential that the auspicious start that has been made should be followed up energetically in the next few months, before their leading member leaves in the summer.

If, therefore, any of your readers would like to make some small contribution towards the cost of a set of handbells, I should be most glad if they would get in touch with me, and I will see what can be done.

In this way we should, I know, be giving most welcome encouragement to Mr. Sargent and his fellow-pioneers at Kelham, and helping to ensure the continued prosperity of a band which—if adequately supported and encouraged—might well produce a regular supply of ringing parsons in the future.

WINCHESTER AND PORTSMOUTH DIOCESAN GUILD.*ALL BASINGSTOKE DISTRICT TOWERS AFFILIATED.

The annual general meeting of the Basingstoke District of the Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild was held at Basingstoke on Saturday, January 29th, and was attended by 89 of the 124 ringing members. Owing to the absence through illness of the Vicar, the service, which was held in St. Michael's Church, was conducted by the Rev. G. W. O. Addleshaw, who also gave the address.

In his report, the hon. secretary (Major Stilwell) mentioned continued good attendances at quarterly meetings, and welcomed the affiliation of Stratfieldsaye, the last remaining tower in the district. He regretted the departure of the Rev. C. Tooth from Rotherwick, for he had worked hard to bring efficiency to his tower, and had himself learned to manage a bell. The Guild mourned the loss of Mr. F. Wilson and Mr. W. Hunt, two stalwarts who would be very hard to replace. Subscriptions continued to come in regularly from the towers, resulting in a balance of £20 19s. 4d. The co-operation of secretaries in neighbouring districts was much valued in helping to fix meetings.

The District Chairman, the Rev. G. H. Jeudwine, in closing the meeting, stressed the necessity of recruiting ringers beyond the number of bells in a tower in order to ensure Sunday ringing at full strength. It was vital that the public should realise the importance of the message entrusted to the ringers.

A SOLID POSITION.

Mr. Leslie Morris Elected Secretary.

The annual general meeting of the Yorkshire Association was held at Leeds on Saturday last, and was well attended by members from a wide area. By kind permission of the respective clergy, the fine rings at Leeds Parish Church, St. Michael's, Headingley, and St. Chad's, Far Headingley, were available, and made good use of during the day.

The service in the Parish Church was conducted by the Vicar, Canon W. Thompson Elliott, M.A., whose homely address was much appreciated. He extended a hearty welcome to the association, adding his appreciation of the work they did for the Church, and expressing the hope that they would again make Leeds the venue of another visit in the near future.

Afterwards, tea was served in the St. Peter's Hall, and an adjournment was then made to the Schools, where the annual meeting took place, presided over by the president, Canon C. C. Marshall, M.A., supported by the hon. treasurer (Mr. S. F. Palmer), the hon. peal secretary (Mr. W. Barton), and the vice-presidents (Messrs. P. J. Johnson and G. Lewis).

Apologies for absence were received from Messrs. F. Clark and H. C. Walters.

A hearty vote of thanks was accorded to the Vicar and churchwardens on the motion of Mr. F. G. Sherwood, seconded by Mr. G. Horner.

A vote of thanks to the local company was proposed by Mr. F. Chapman, seconded by Mr. J. Ambler and carried unanimously.—Mr. J. A. Teale, who replied, said that it had been a pleasure to them to entertain the association, and if the association were satisfied with the arrangements he assured them that the Leeds ringers were amply repaid.

The President, in presenting the 62nd annual report, drew attention to the fact that the membership now stood at 1,293—a net increase of 22 for the year. As no member's name could be retained on the books unless his subscription for the current year had been paid, it followed that all of this number were fully paid up members. This was most gratifying and a good indication of the interest taken in the association.

In presenting the peal secretary's report, he (Canon Marshall) drew attention to the great debt of gratitude the association owed to Mr. Barton, the peal secretary, for compiling this report, which, he said, required not only skill, but very close attention to detail. They were doubly grateful to Mr. Barton for consenting to carry on this work for another period, especially when remembering he had so little time to spare. Statistics from the report showed that 89 peals had been rung during the year, at 57 different churches and one handbell centre. Thirty-four members had rung their first peal, and 98 members had rung their first peal in one particular method. Four members had rung their first peal as conductor.

The balance sheet showed a gain of £17 7s. 8d. on the year's working, and the total worth of the association now stood at £362 13s. 3d. He was sure they all considered this most satisfactory, and felt very grateful to the treasurer, Mr. S. F. Palmer, for his able handling of this important part of the association's affairs.

On the proposition of Mr. G. Lewis, seconded by Mr. A. E. West, the report was unanimously adopted. The auditors were accorded hearty thanks for their report on the motion of Mr. E. Hudson, seconded by Miss L. K. Bowling.

Mr. J. E. Cawser, the general secretary, having found it necessary not to seek re-election on account of increased business engagements, the President said it was with regret that they accepted Mr. Cawser's resignation. They wished to place on record their great appreciation

Secretary.

LLANDAFF AND MONMOUTH DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

SUCCESSFUL MEETING AT BLAENAVON.

A most successful quarterly meeting of the Llandaff and Monmouth Diocesan Association was held at Blaenavon on Saturday, January 22nd, members attending from the extreme end of the Llandaff Diocese. The bells, a light ring of six by Rudhall, were set going early in the afternoon to touches of Grandsire, Stedman, Plain Bob and Kent, and later in the evening to Oxford and Cambridge Minor.

Shortened evensong was conducted by the Rev. T. J. Dodd in the unavoidable absence of the Vicar.

An excellent tea, very generously provided by the church authorities, was served in the Schoolroom, ladies of the parish serving the meal.

The business meeting followed, presided over by the Rev. T. J. Dodd, who at the outset, on behalf of the Vicar and parish, extended a cordial welcome to the association.

Reports dealing with instruction and restorations were presented, and several new members were elected, including one life member.

The next quarterly meeting will be held at Baglan. Following what has lately appeared in 'The Ringing World' with regard to the payment of subscriptions, the hon. secretary (Mr. J. W. Jones) at some length tackled the subject with good results.

The recently-made national appeal for the proposed augmentation of bells in Northampton was read by the hon. secretary, and after some discussion a whip round was made with a very fair response.

The Master (the Rev. Ivor J. Richards) proposed a vote of thanks for the kindness and hospitality given. The bells were afterwards rung until late, when a splendid meeting was brought to a close.

SALISBURY GUILD BRANCH CHAIRMAN HONOURED.

The Archbishop of Canterbury has conferred on Canon Hellins, Rector of Marnhull and chairman of the North Dorset Branch of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild, the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity—a distinction seldom bestowed on any below the rank of a Bishop.

In celebration of the event quarter-peals were rung at two Wiltshire towers attached to the branch. At St. Martin's Church, Zeals, on January 12th, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Doubles: L. Chaplin 1, F. Ball 2, J. Paul 3, G. Bunce 4, L. Perrett (conductor) 5, F. Chaplin 6. First quarter-peal by ringers of treble and tenor. The quarter-peal was also rung as a compliment to the ringer of the 4th on the birth of a daughter.

At Mere Parish Church, on January 18th, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples: V. Hill 1, J. Ralph 2, J. Paul 3, J. Gray 4, G. Bunce 5, E. J. Rowe 6, F. A. Coward (conductor) 7, B. Sheppard 6.

AN ASSOCIATION TO BE PROUD OF.

of the services rendered to the association by Mr. Cawser during his term of office. In welcoming Mr. Leslie W. G. Morris, of Leeds, as Mr. Cawser's successor, he (Canon Marshall) paid tribute to his skill as a ringer and conductor, and hoped he would be happy in his new office.

Mr. Morris, in reply, referred to the healthy state of the association, as indicated in the report. No doubt many of them, he said, had read the reports of other associations in 'The Ringing World,' and he felt sure, from what he himself had not only read but witnessed in his travels about the country, that they were an association of which they might well be proud. He thought it most fitting that he should at that juncture pay tribute to the past officers of the association, who through the years had laboured so unremittingly to build up what was now one of the greatest territorial ringing associations. He would, during his tenure of office, try to uphold those great traditions which had always been characteristic of their association.

On the motion of Mr. J. W. T. Holgate, seconded by Mr. T. B. Kendall, it was unanimously decided to try and arrange the next general meeting at Knaresborough.

The following new members were elected: The Rev. J. H. B. Andrews, of Leeds; W. Leach and J. Boyes, of York; A. Paddon Smith, Birmingham; Thomas Edwards and W. Barber.

Mr. George Robinson reminded the members that the next meeting of the Central Council was due to be held in Leeds, and asked to what extent were they prepared to go in the matter of finance so far as entertaining the delegates was concerned.—After some discussion it was eventually agreed to give full autonomy to the sub-committee appointed for the purpose.

Mr. G. Wilfred Slack then drew the attention of the meeting to what purported to be a true composition of Bob Major, which was printed on page 96 of the report, and there given to correct a false composition which was also shown. All conductors who had the current report are therefore asked to note that both the compositions given on page 96 are false.

A vote of thanks to the president (Canon C. C. Marshall) was moved by Mr. P. J. Johnson, seconded by Mr. G. Lewis and carried with applause.

Further ringing afterwards took place in a variety of methods, bringing to a close an enjoyable and memorable occasion.

'CANNED BELLS.'

WEYMOUTH INNOVATION DISCUSSED.

Salisbury Guild's Resolution of Regret.

'The Dorchester Branch of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild of Ringers has heard with regret of the proposal to instal gramophone records instead of bells in certain towers capable of holding bells in this area, and trusts that the Bishop of the Diocese and the Advisory Board will recommend that this matter be reconsidered by the Church Councils concerned, and offers financial and instructional aid if and when a peal is definitely considered.'

This resolution, carried unanimously, was passed at a largely attended meeting at Dorchester on Saturday week, when a discussion took place on the subject of 'canned' bells. It arose out of the introduction of the use of gramophone records and amplifiers at St. John's Church, Weymouth. The meeting was attended by about a hundred members.

The Rev. A. W. Markby (chairman of the branch and Rector of St. Peter's, Dorchester) said to some of them it was a tremendous shock when they heard that synthetic bells were booming from the tower of St. John's Church, Weymouth. They must, of course, be prepared for new things and new inventions, for they were living in an age when almost everything was becoming mechanised. He had lived long enough to realise that in this trend towards mechanisation they were losing some of their finer arts. There was a great danger that with mechanisation they would lose individuality, individual progress, and activity of mind, and with the loss of those things they would lose that precious thing which they called originality. In bellringing they had an originality that had been handed down for about 600 years. Everyone would be sorry if they lost the art of bellringing through the push of some mechanised contrivance.

He thought that this new mechanised contrivance of 'synthetic bells' was a real challenge to those who were keen on bellringing—a challenge to keep up their end and to show that they had the heavier end.

If they were going to maintain the good work which had been carried on for so many years and to show their enthusiasm, they had to remember that while one man could wind up an apparatus or set electricity going, it needed eight or 12 men to ring a peal of bells. These men were doing loyal and willing service for their church and for the honour and glory of God.

The Rev. R. P. Farrow (Vicar of East Lulworth) said he did not know exactly what these bells were or what they sounded like, but as scientific change ringers they would naturally say 'anathema, nothing doing.' There were, however, other points of view to consider.

Firstly, there was a parish which had a tower but could not afford bells; secondly, there were parishes that had towers which would not hold a peal of bells; and, thirdly, there was the parish where there were bells but no ringers. It was in this last case that he thought synthetic bells were a challenge to ringers. In the other two cases there seemed to be a case for having synthetic bells. He thought the weight of a large meeting like this might have some good result because he imagined the Bishop would be informed of any decision that was arrived at.

NO CHALLENGE TO BELLRINGERS.

Mr. W. C. Cornick, Vicar's warden at Weymouth St. John's and an honorary member of the Guild, said the question had been very much exaggerated. Since he had been connected with St. John's he had felt how much they would like to have bells there, but he was sorry to say that the foundations of the tower would not permit of it. Last December he said to a young fellow who was a keen chorister of St. John's how nice it would be if they could have some tubular bells in the tower. With the Vicar's consent he experimented with synthetic bells and everyone was delighted.

He could assure his hearers that this was in no way a challenge to bellringers—far from that.

Personally, he would much rather have proper bells, but he thought it must be agreed that, seeing they could not have bells, they should have the best substitute. In his opinion he did not think that synthetic bells were ever going to replace genuine bells. If they could have a peal at St. John's they would have them, for since he had been Vicar's warden the people had been very generous. Some few years ago they started to renovate the church, and in three years they got together £2,300.

Mr. C. H. Jennings (hon. secretary of the branch) read letters that he had received on the question.

Mr. J. T. Dyke, hon. secretary of the Bath and Wells Diocesan Association, wrote: 'I am wholeheartedly with you in your protest against mechanised bellringing. The lesson of the alabaster box of precious ointment—that only the best be given to Christ—has been overlooked. Such an invention does away with the spirit of service without which no act of worship is complete.'

Mr. Edwin Lewis, president of the Central Council, said: 'If there be a church with no tower, and no prospect of getting a tower suitable for a ring of bells, the choice seems to be between such a device (synthetic bells) and a single bell. The choice must be made by those concerned. We know that a single bell can be very irritating, and the "canned" bells might well be a distinct improvement.'

CHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD.

CREWE BRANCH SUPPORT FOR ANNUAL DINNER.

The annual meeting of the Crewe Branch of the Chester Diocesan Guild was held at Christ Church, Crewe, on Saturday, January 15th. Ringing commenced just after 3 o'clock, with touches of Bob Royal, Kent Treble Bob Royal, Grandsire Caters and Stedman Caters.

Service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. S. T. Stevens), the lesson being read by the Vicar of Marbury, the Rev. C. G. Dickson. A most appropriate address was given by the Rev. Canon H. W. Haworth, Vicar of Bowden, Altrincham, to the 68 ringers present.

Afterwards tea was served in the Parish Hall, kindly given by the Parochial Church Council.

The business meeting followed, with the Rev. S. T. Stevens in the chair.

The secretary, Mr. R. D. Langford, presented the statement of accounts, which, having been audited by Mr. Ferneyhough, of Alsager, and Mr. H. Clutton, of Marbury, was accepted.

The following officers were re-elected: Chairman, the Rev. S. T. Stevens; hon. secretary, Mr. R. D. Langford, Crewe; hon. treasurer, Mr. W. T. Holding, Crewe; Ringing Master, Mr. George Biddulph, Lawton. Mr. Albert Crawley, of Wistaston, was appointed instructor, and Mr. William Edge, Crewe, was chosen as the representative of the General Committee. Mr. Ed. Boffey, of Nantwich, and Mr. G. Arrowsmith, of Lawton, were elected auditors.

The question of holding an annual Guild dinner was discussed, and on the proposition of Mr. F. Stenson, of Crewe, seconded by Mr. A. Crawley, of Wistaston, a recommendation was sent to the General Committee of the Guild in favour of such a gathering.

A summary was presented of the 1937 meetings, 11 in all, which were very well attended. Full marks went to the secretary, Mr. R. D. Langford, who had attended them all. Next came Mr. G. A. Packer, of Crewe, and Mr. G. Biddulph, of Lawton, who had only missed one. Mr. A. Crawley, Mr. B. Ferneyhough and Mr. J. Brassington made the next best attendance.

Mr. William Holding proposed a vote of thanks to the Vicar for presiding and for the use of the bells; to Canon Haworth for his splendid address; to Mr. W. Dunning for presiding at the organ; to the Vicar and Parochial Church Council for the excellent tea; and to Mrs. Langford and all the ladies who prepared and served it.

Mr. Reg. Owen, secretary of the Parochial Church Council, said he always looked forward to the visit of the bellringers, and that the Parochial Church Council were always willing to do their share for the ringers.

Four new members were made from Marbury, Alsager, Wistaston and Wrenbury.

The following towers were represented: Acton, Alsager, Barthomley, Lawton, Kids Grove, Wistaston, Wrenbury, Nantwich, Crewe, Wyburn, Davenham, Longton, Stoke-on-Trent, Market Drayton and Wellington.

Ringling took place again later, from rounds to Stedman Caters, under the guidance of Mr. G. Biddulph, Ringing Master, finishing about 9 o'clock. Thanks are due to Mr. William Edge, the tower-keeper at Crewe, for having everything in such splendid order.

EXCEPTIONAL CASES MAY JUSTIFY SUBSTITUTES.

The opinion was expressed in a letter from a former chairman of the branch, Mr. R. N. Dawes, that the ringing of bells, synthetic or otherwise, was a practical method of calling people's attention to the fact that it was Sunday and that a service was to be held. He did not think it was proper to raise any strong objection as the matter should be left to the various incumbents to do the best for their parishes.

The Rev. F. L. Edwards, general secretary of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild, stated in his letter that, while he shared in the antagonism to mechanical devices as a general principle, there were exceptional cases where their use might be justified. It seemed that St. John's, Weymouth, was one of the few exceptions.

Mr. Jennings said the substitute for the real thing left a feeling that for the sake of effects of a sort, but certainly not spiritual effect, those who were responsible had made a sad and serious departure from the principles that had guided the pious builders of our churches in the past, when the very thought of subterfuge or sham was abhorrent, and nothing but the very best was considered good enough.

The Rev. A. S. Bryant (Rector of Upwey) said there were no actual bells at Christ Church, Weymouth, but eight steel cups. He thought it was a pity that in the debate they were centring their thoughts on St. John's Church, as there were two other churches in the Weymouth deanery in which this matter had been seriously taken up. Bellringing, he said, made all the difference in the spiritual life of a parish. The trouble with synthetic bells was a question of time, and it was simply a jangle, whereas change ringing was pure music. He expressed thanks to Mr. Cornick for explaining the circumstances at St. John's.

The Rev. C. A. Phillips said that synthetic bells might be used in exceptional cases, but where there was a tower with bells it was a challenge to the ringers to maintain this distinctive feature of British church life, and to give of their very best in the spirit of service and worship.

The resolution, drafted by the Rev. A. S. Bryant, was carried on the motion of Mr. Runyard, seconded by Mr. Cornick.

FOR BEGINNERS.

ANOTHER STEP FROM 'STONE'.

When a band, stepping from 'stone' to change ringing, have mastered movement from one place to the next and back again, in whole pulls or half-pulls, they will not find it difficult to go a stage further, and 'hunt' their bells.

Hunting is a process by which a bell moves upward from the front (which is leading) to the back (when all the other bells strike before it), and down again, by taking one bell at a time, thus increasing the number in front of it when going up, and decreasing the number when going down.

If, at first, the steps up and down are taken in whole pulls, the beginner will have more time to pick out the bell he has next to strike after. All the changing is done in pairs as was described last week, except that instead of going back to the place from which it came, the bell goes on to another place.

If it is the treble, it strikes first over one bell into 2nd's, next over two bells into 3rd's, then over three bells into 4th's, then four into 5th's, and lastly five into 6th's (assuming six bells are being used). It is more important at first to know how many bells to look for than to know the individual bell required. Looking for an individual bell may lead in the early stages to memorising the order in which they come—and that is not a good thing.

The simple rule when hunting up is to pull next time after the bell that this time is pulling after you. If it is done in whole pulls, there is more time to find it.

The reverse of this rule does not work so easily when hunting down—it would mean pulling next in front of the bell that this time is in front of you.

If, however, you count your places, that is to say strike in sixth's with five bells in front of you; next in fifth's with four bells in front of you; in fourth's with three bells in front, and so on, you can find your way down, until you have to lead, with some degree of certainty.

All the six bells do this hunting, except that they start from different places in the circle. The 2nd begins by leading and the 4th and 6th start hunting down, the fourth (having already three bells in front) beginning with two and then one, before leading, and the 6th with four bells, then three, and so on.

The treble, the third and the fifth hunt up, taking one extra bell at a time. It should be remembered that when reaching 6th's place and turning round, a bell has to stay behind for two pulls (either whole pulls or half pulls, whichever is being rung).

It is a good thing to see how this works out on paper, and the beginner can write out the figures which show the movement of bells if he starts with 1.2.3.4.5.6 and then changes all three pairs and the two middle pairs alternately.

PETERBOROUGH DIOCESAN GUILD.

WELLINGBOROUGH BRANCH ANNUAL MEETING.

The 15th annual meeting of the Wellingborough Branch of the Peterborough Diocesan Guild was held at Irchester, when ringers attended from Irthlingborough, Wellingborough, Finedon, Higham Ferrers, Wollaston, Easton Maudit, Whiston, Yardley Hastings, Mears Ashby, Stanwick, Pytchley, Kingsthorpe, Burton Latimer, Warkton, Isham, Desborough and the local tower.

The Guild service was held during the afternoon, conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. D. F. Gunn), assisted by the Rural Dean and branch president (the Rev. A. G. Bagshaw, of Finedon).

Tea had been arranged in the schoolrooms by Mrs. Payne and other lady churchworkers, and 53 enjoyed the meal.

At the business meeting which followed, the branch president presided, supported by the Revs. G. G. Thompson (Wollaston), J. H. Marlow (Bozeat) and H. J. Smale (Whiston). Apologies for absence were received from the Marquis of Northampton, the Rev. J. Hill, Wellingborough, and the guild general secretary (Mr. R. G. Black).

Three new members were elected, viz., Messrs. D. Brudenell (Irchester), A. Reeder (Mears Ashby) and A. Stone (Wellingborough).

The secretary presented a report, which showed the membership to be 3 honorary life, 16 honorary and 146 ringing members; of these 12 honorary and 112 ringing members have paid their subscriptions, while 17 are free under the Guild rules. The average quarterly meeting attendance was 40. Receipts were £1 11s. 11d. in excess of expenditure on the year, and £2 1s. 6d. had been collected for the Belfry Repair Fund. £3 had been given to Wellingborough Bell Restoration Fund.

All the officers were re-elected as follows: President, the Rev. A. G. Bagshaw; secretary and treasurer, Mr. Arthur Bigley; Ringing Master, Mr. Walter Perkins; Central Committee, Messrs. G. Basford and A. Plowman; Branch Committee, Messrs. A. Y. Tyler, F. Jones and A. H. Martin; auditor, Mr. E. H. Johnson, Earls Barton.

It was decided to hold the next quarterly meeting at Mears Ashby.

The Chairman read messages received from the Rev. C. F. Westacott (formerly of Wilby) and from Mr. F. Barber (past secretary), now living at Mablethorpe. An invitation was also received to visit the Ladies' Guild meeting, to be held at Walgrave in February.

Thanks to the ladies who had made the tea arrangements, to the Vicar of Irchester, the organist and others who had assisted, were moved by the chairman, who, in turn, was thanked by the Rev. J. H. Marlow, seconded by Mr. A. Bigley.

LIVERPOOL RINGER'S OPINION OF OUTLOOK.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—Allow me to comment on three recent points of view in 'The Ringing World,' namely, the Editorial of December 24th on non-payment of subscriptions; and the letters of December 31st from Mr. E. R. Martin and of January 7th from Mr. P. W. Cave. Both these gentlemen observe that the Lancashire Association is decaying; do not they mean decayed?

If Mr. Martin, from Preston, considers Liverpool a 'fairly prosperous' ringing area, then I can only say 'distance lends enchantment to the scene.' Liverpool is a 'distressed area' in more senses than one, and if it is the most prosperous in Lancashire from bellringing standards, then let us disband the Lancashire Association to-morrow. 'Canned' bells are replacing the real thing at St. Mary's, Grassendale; Tuebrook and Widnes towers are silent. Is this a bright picture?

Mr. Cave deplores the lack of young ringers, and I presume the publicity he advocates includes attraction of raw material. Why not make the best of the material in hand? The raw learner gets plenty of encouragement; the well-known 'expert' or P.G. has plenty to keep his enthusiasm; but how about the poor fellow in between—the common service ringer? He must either be resolved to stay in the one rut all his ringing career, or he must worm his way into one of the exclusive peal ringing cliques. Yes, the joke, 'P.G.' really does exist, putting personal glory before everything. 'First' pealers are becoming fewer, new methods are taboo; it is, indeed, a very grave situation. The whole three subjects centre round peal ringing. More peal ringing by the ordinary ringer would mean more defaulting subscriptions paid, more enthusiasm and better striking.

Only by concerted action can we stop this rot. How about it?

T. S. HORRIDGE.

WARWICKSHIRE GUILD.

PROPOSED BELL RESTORATION FUND.

The quarterly meeting of the Warwickshire Guild at Chilvers Coton on Saturday, January 15th, was well attended by members from Nuneaton, Bulkington, Wolvey, Rugby, Stoke, Allesley, Keresley, Church Lawford, Earl Shilton, Warwick, Lillington and Leamington Hastings, together with the local band. The bells of All Saints' Church were kept going during the afternoon in rounds, call changes and the majority of the standard methods.

The committee, in the vestry, discussed suitable meeting places for the next two months and various points to be brought up in the general meeting.

The Guild's form of service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. F. W. Moyle, M.A.), who gave an excellent address, which will long be remembered.

Tea was served in the Parish Hall by lady relatives of the local ringers, upwards of 50 members and friends sitting down. The business meeting followed, the Vicar taking the chair. As the hon. secretary (Mr. M. C. Melville) had to leave immediately after tea, Mrs. D. E. Beamish (who was the Guild's hon. secretary from 1928-1935) acted as secretary for the meeting. Wolvey for February and Kenilworth for March were chosen for the next meetings.

The following new ringing members were elected: The Rev. W. H. Trickett, Church Lawford; Messrs. A. Astley and D. Wood, Leamington Hastings; W. Noon and T. Wilson, Burton Hastings; W. Ensor, F. East and T. Mawson, Keresley.

Mr. H. C. Burt (Lillington) proposed that a grant of one guinea be made to the Corley Restoration Fund.—This was seconded by Mr. D. Ellender and agreed to.

In view of the proximity of Easter, the date of the annual meeting, which is to be held at Warwick, was altered from April 16th to April 9th.

Mr. E. Stone gave notice that he would propose at the annual meeting that 10 per cent. of the members' subscriptions be set aside annually to form a bell restoration fund.

Mr. M. Melville left notice that he would propose at the annual meeting that new members joining the Guild for the first time at or after the quarterly meeting in July shall be required to pay only 1s. subscription for that year.

Mr. J. Beale (Wolvey) extended a welcome to the members to visit Burton Hastings on practice nights (Wednesday) to assist in the instruction of a struggling but keen band.

Mr. Perrens proposed a hearty vote of thanks to the Vicar for his welcome to the parish and for the service and address, and for acting as chairman at the business meeting, to the organist for his services, and to the ladies for the excellent tea provided. The hearty applause which followed showed that the meeting was in agreement.

Tunes and change ringing on handbells occupied the next half-hour or so, and then a return was made to the belfry until 8 o'clock.

A private room at the Bull Hotel, Nuneaton, having been engaged, the party afterwards adjourned there for further handbell ringing, etc., until 10 o'clock.

LINCOLN DIOCESAN GUILD.

GRIMSBY DISTRICT SECRETARY'S COMPLAINT.

The annual meeting of the Grimsby District of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild was held at SS. James and Mary's Church, Grimsby, on Saturday, January 22nd. Members attended from Bigby, Burton-on-Stather, Scunthorpe, Ulceby, Barrow-on-Humber, Mablethorpe and the local tower. Mr. W. Bramwell, of Goxhill, and Mr. and Mrs. H. Rushby were also present, while the district was also glad to welcome Mr. and Mrs. J. Thomas. The bells were made good use of during the afternoon and evening. Service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. E. Lisle Marsden), who gave an interesting address. Thirty sat down to tea in the Church House, and in the absence of the president (Ven. Archdeacon Parry) through illness, the Vicar presided.

The secretary's and Ringing Master's reports were presented and a vote of thanks passed to them. All the officers were re-elected and thanked for their services.

The secretary had a grumble, as others do, with regard to unpaid subscriptions and lapsed members, particularly in the case of young ringers who join and, after a year or two, drop away. The District Bell Fund accounts were accepted, and a collection was taken for the fund. The places and dates of district meetings as proposed by the District Committee were accepted, viz.: May 7th, Burton-on-Stather; June 18th, Bigby; July 23rd, Appleby (if available) or Barrow-on-Humber; September 10th, Louth; October 23rd, Scunthorpe. Combined practices were arranged as follows: March 5th, Barrow, Bob Minor, Kent Treble Bob and Carlisle; March 19th, Waltham, Oxford, Cambridge, Double Bob; April 9th, Barton-on-Humber, Bristol, Double Norwich, Grandsire Triples. These will be at 6 p.m.

Ronald Taylor and Frank Ward, of Barrow-on-Humber, were elected as ringing members.

The secretary was asked to tender the members' deepest sympathy to Mrs. R. Marsden on the death of her husband, the Rev. R. Marsden, Vicar of Ulceby.

A hearty vote of thanks were accorded to the Vicar, to Mr. Rushby for presiding at the organ, and to the caterers for the excellent tea.—The Vicar, in reply, said how glad he was to welcome the members. They at St. James' were doing their utmost to encourage young men of the congregation to take up ringing.

Members afterwards returned to the tower, and further ringing brought a very pleasant meeting to a close.

SOUTHERN BRANCH GRANTS TO BELL FUNDS.

The annual meeting of the Southern Branch of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild was held at Edenham on Saturday, January 22nd, and about 25 ringers were present from Peterborough, Bourne, Rotherham, Market Deeping, Manthorpe, Dyke, Morton, Billingborough, Pinchbeck, Algarkirk, Folkingham and the local band. The Vicar, the Rev. A. L. Hopkins (president of the branch) kindly allowed the use of bells during the afternoon and evening, and the methods rung included Cambridge Surprise, Double Norwich, Oxford and Kent Treble Bob, Plain Bob, Stedman and Grandsire Triples, etc. It was good to see quite a large number of young ringers present, some ringing their first touch in a method.

Tea was served at the Five Bells Inn. At the business meeting which followed, the Rev. A. L. Hopkins presided. He was thanked for his past services as president and was unanimously re-elected.

The Ringing Master of the branch (Mr. H. M. Day), the hon. secretary (Mr. C. T. H. Bradley), hon. auditor and Guild representative (Mr. W. G. Thorpe), the hon. treasurer (Mr. A. I. Holmes), along with the Branch Committee, were thanked for their past services and unanimously re-elected to their respective offices.

It was decided to hold the April meeting at Grantham, subject to permission being granted.

Two grants from the Belfry Repairs Fund of one guinea each were made. To Hongham bells restoration fund and to Sempringham Abbey bells, which are to be augmented from four to six in the near future.

The business concluded with a hearty vote of thanks accorded to the Vicar for the use of the bells and for the service, and also to Mr. A. I. Holmes for making all the necessary arrangements for the meeting.

Shortened evensong followed, conducted by the Vicar, who gave a helpful address.

At the conclusion of the service the Vicar kindly exhibited to the ringers the magnificent church plate belonging to Edenham Church dating back to the 15th and 16th centuries. The Vicar explained the interesting history of the various pieces, which were much admired. The tower was then again visited and further ringing took place until the bells were lowered in peal at 9 p.m.

SUPPER AND SOCIAL AT HESTON.

MIDDLESEX ASSOCIATION'S HAPPY GATHERING.

The standard set in previous years was well maintained at the sixth annual supper and social which was held by the South and West District of the Middlesex County Association and London Diocesan Guild at Heston on January 22nd.

After ringing during the afternoon, a company of 80 sat down to an excellent supper, under the chairmanship of the Rev. G. Craggs, Vicar of Heston, supported by all the district officers. After the loyal toast, the Chairman proposed the toast of 'The Association,' and gave the members a warm welcome. He mentioned the pleasure he had in being with ringers, who, he said, were men of intelligence and undaunted by difficulties.

Mr. J. A. Trollope, vice-president, in reply, said that most annual suppers were occasions for speech-making, but he thought that the company would prefer the social programme which was to follow. He could not, however, refrain from mentioning the recent death of two prominent members of the association, Mr. J. J. Parker and Mr. W. H. Hollier. He classed the former with Holt, Middleton and Thurstans, and pointed out that half of the eight-bell peals in the current issue of 'The Ringing World' were composed by one or other of these four men. Mr. Hollier had been district secretary for ten years and later association treasurer, and the service of these two men was a challenge to the younger members of the Exercise to carry on in the same unselfish spirit.

A vote of thanks to the members of the Supper Committee (Messrs. Chandler, Goodfellow and Gladman) was proposed by Mr. W. G. Wilson, and Mr. Chandler replied expressing satisfaction that the arrangements were approved.

The remainder of the evening was devoted to games, competitions, dancing, etc., until 11.30 p.m. Special mention must be made of the new competitions arranged by Miss Bradford, particularly the display of photographs of twelve members present as they were many years ago—in one case in long clothes. Mr. Stamp performed miracles in the shape of conjuring tricks, and his assistant, Mr. Lidbetter, showed signs of having missed his vocation.

Four teams entered for the annual handball competition between towers, the scores being Ealing 3, Heston 0; Hillingdon 6, Ruishlip 2; and in the final, after extra time, Hillingdon 3, Ealing 2. Hillingdon thus retain the 'cup without a handle' for another year. W. G. W.

LONDON COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

NORTHERN DISTRICT'S ENCOURAGING PROGRESS.

The annual meeting of the Northern District of the London County Association, held in the City, was very successful, the attendance of about 50 being most satisfactory, while ringing was of a higher standard than is generally reached at meetings.

The afternoon ringing took place at St. Lawrence Jewry on the heavy ring of eight, which, in the opinion of many, is the finest octave in London. The beauty of the bells was heard in methods up to Cambridge and Superlative. The local band is recruited almost entirely from members of the choir, and it came into being when the bells were restored after many years of silence. It is a matter for regret that the bells of other of the city churches are not manned in the same way.

The business meeting was held in the choir vestry, the routine business being quickly concluded. One new member was elected, and All Saints, Poplar, chosen for the March meeting.

A letter was read from the Rector of St. George-in-the-East thanking the district for its help towards the restoration of the bells at that church.

The District Master reported that there were bright prospects of a good local band being instituted at this church. Members of the district had promised to give instruction; in fact, some of the new band had already started ringing at the mother church of St. Dunstan, Stepney. It is to be hoped that the new band will quickly emulate the brilliant young Stepney Society.

All the retiring district officers were re-elected, including the secretary (Mr. J. G. Prior), who, at a previous meeting, had announced that he would not seek re-election, but had reconsidered his decision. The other officers: Mr. J. A. Waugh, Master; Mr. R. G. Cousins, treasurer; Mr. E. Holman, steward; Messrs. G. W. Cecil and C. A. Hughes, committee. The new post of assistant secretary was created and Mr. L. J. Fox elected to fill it.

The report for 1937 showed that the district had again had a good year. Attendances at meetings had been consistently good, the financial position was comparatively strong, and the number of new members elected, while not very large, was above the average. One peal, Grandsire Triples at Stepney on the back eight, was worthy of special mention, as it was the first peal by all the band, and as such was a very fine performance. As well as this success, the Stepney band had also won the 'Dawe' cup for handbell ringing.

Votes of thanks to those responsible for the arrangements brought the business to a close, and then, following tea, ringing took place at St. Dunstan's-in-the-East until 8.30 p.m. Methods rung ranged from Grandsire Triples to London Surprise Major.

A well-attended meeting such as this was a source of much gratification to the district officers, an ample repayment for any effort expended in making the arrangements, and an incentive to them to carry on with the not always easy task of running, or helping to run, an association.

'THE COLLEGE YOUTHS'

'Mr. Trollope has achieved more than his immediate purpose of writing a history of the Society of College Youths. So closely has the guild been identified with English change ringing that its history is to a very large extent an account of the ancient sport of ringing developed into an elaborate art. . . .

DON'T SCRUB YOUR HANDS!

To many people, the problem of getting the hands really clean without harming the skin is a serious one. Grease and grime, which become deeply ingrained into the pores of the skin, are extremely difficult to remove, and ordinary washing with soap or even scrubbing will fail to remove them completely. Housewives, particularly, who complain that their hands get ruined by the nature of their work, will find the preparation called DERMAFOAM, a real "godsend." DERMAFOAM just smoothes away dirt and grease without effort. It gets right down into the pores and removes every particle of grime, leaving skin beautifully supple and healthy.

Men, too—when you've finished that dirty job on the car, DERMAFOAM will quickly banish all grease and oil from your hands. It acts almost magically—working under and around the nails and into every minute crease, removing all trace of dirt in a flash.

Engineers, Painters, Car Mechanics, Printers — everyone — will welcome DERMAFOAM, the modern method of cleansing and protecting the hands.

FALSE PEAL RISKS.

How easy a matter it is to fall into a trap in connection with false peals has again been illustrated by the incident reported last week. A band rang a peal of Bob Major by a composer of repute, and two or three months afterwards discovered that the composition was false. They were furnished with a revised version, which had been vouched for by the original composer, and rang it to 'replace' the original performance. Too late it was found that the altered form of the peal was also false. The first composition was published in 1929; the author, the late Mr. Arthur Craven, pointed out its falseness a week later and printed the revised figures. The peal in its first form was rung in 1937—eight years after its error had been pointed out. To safeguard the position for the future the Yorkshire Association report printed both the original composition as a warning, and the revised figures to show how it had been corrected. It was only when the composition appeared in this publication that the faulty construction of the second version was noticed.

The principal conclusion that emerges from these facts is that once a false composition has been published there is no real safeguard against its being rung some time in the future. We can imagine what happened, or what might have happened in this case. Someone came upon the first set of figures in the pages of 'The Ringing World' and extracted them. He did not see the declaration in the following issue that they were false, and eventually they came into the hands of a conductor, who called them. No one, however, had up to then called attention to the fact that the author's revised figures were also false, and these were passed on to the conductor to enable him to make amends for the first disappointment, only for him to discover, when it was too late, that fate had dealt him another unkindly blow. The whole episode was a series of mishaps, but it goes to emphasise what we have often said, that the truth of no composition should be taken for granted, and it illustrates the danger that always exists when once the figures of a false peal have got into circulation.

Here was a case where the author had himself pointed out the falseness almost immediately, but, despite this, after a lapse of time, the composition was rung. False compositions have many times appeared in the ringing Press and in association reports; there are quite a number among the peals in the Central Council's Collections. As far as they are known they have, at any rate for the most part, been pointed out; but once they have been circulated it is beyond the bounds of possibility to ensure

SPLICED MINOR 'IN HAND.'

The Lincoln Guild is well off for handbell peal ringers. Up in the north of the county there is a band which frequently puts up some noteworthy performances. On January 27th, for instance, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bray and Mr. George Feirn rang a peal of Spliced Minor in 14 methods, and, on the following day with Mr. Frank Lord, scored a peal of combined Oxford and Kent Treble Bob Major, the first by all and by the Guild.

Both these were called by Mr. George Feirn, and the Major was his 50th peal as conductor.

By the way, the Minor was a bit of real splicing, for there were 170 changes of method in the course of the seven extents, and 126 bobs and 14 singles were used.

The Bells were ringing at Scottow, Norfolk, on January 24th. A peal of Minor was rung at All Saints' Church, and Miss Jean Bell, George Bell and Dennis Bell rang their first peal in four methods. Miss Olive Low scored her first peal.

The first peal of Minor on Lavenham's famous bells was rung on Sunday, January 23rd, to celebrate the 80th birthday of the veteran, Mr. Arthur Symonds, who was Master and instructor at Lavenham tower for upwards of 50 years. Of course, it was not intended to ring Minor for such an event, but the band met short for Major, and so there was no alternative if a peal was to be attempted. The peal was rung with the tenor behind, and Messrs. F. F. Mortlock and M. T. Symonds rang their first peal of Minor on tower bells.

The Lavenham peal was rung with the tenor covering; another with a covering bell has been rung at Rainford, Lancashire. While we know that 'circumstances alter cases,' peals in even-bell methods ought not to be rung with a covering bell.

The first peal has been rung on the five bells at Sopley, near Christchurch, Hants. They are described as a lovely little peal dating from the seventeenth century. The tenor is only  $7\frac{1}{2}$  cwt., and they were restored by Messrs. Gillett and Johnston in 1925.

In this peal, on February 2nd, William and Leonard Stone rang their first peal of Doubles, and the former has now rung peals of Grandsire from Doubles to Cinques.

Four first peals and a 'first as conductor' were included in the performance of Doubles at Longbridge Deverill, Wiltshire, on February 2nd.

ONE HUNDRED TWELVE-BELL PEALS.

Mr. C. J. Sedgley, of Ipswich, rang his one hundredth peal on twelve bells on January 29th, when he called a peal of Superlative Surprise Maximus at St. Mary-le-Tower. It was also Mr. G. A. Fleming's fiftieth peal of Maximus.

Here is Mr. Sedgley's twelve-bell century, which may be taken as a typical example of the twelve-bell records of several members of St. Mary-le-Tower Society: Cambridge Surprise Maximus, rung 19 (conducted 8); Superlative Surprise Maximus, 14 (6); Rochester Surprise Maximus, 3 (1); Pudsey Surprise Maximus, 3 (1); Yorkshire Surprise Maximus, 3 (1); New Cambridge Surprise Maximus, 3 (1); Double Norwich Maximus, 2; Duffield Maximus, 2 (1); Forward Maximus, 1; Little Albion Treble Bob Maximus, 1; Plain Bob Maximus, 2 (1 on handbells); Kent Treble Bob Maximus, 10 (2 on handbells); Oxford Treble Bob Maximus, 4 (2 on handbells); Stedman Cinques, 30 (conducted 5); Grandsire Cinques, 3 (1 on handbells); total 100 (conducted 24).

At All Saints', Newport, Mon., a peal of Grandsire Triples was rung on January 31st in honour of the silver wedding of the Vicar and Rural Dean, Canon S. G. Morgan, who is hon. treasurer of the Llandaff and Monmouth Diocesan Association. Before the peal the bells were fired 25 times.

A peal of Grandsire Caters by provincial members of the College Youths was rung at Newcastle, Staffs, on January 29th to commemorate the society's tercentenary. It had been arranged to make the attempt last November, but owing to the bad condition of the ropes it had to be abandoned at that time.

A peal of Oxford Treble Bob Major at Oswaldtwistle, Lancashire, on January 29th, was specially arranged for Mr. Leonard Scholes, of the local band. The rest of the ringers belong to St. James', Church Kirk, and altogether six rang their first peal in the method, while Mr. Arnold Brunton scored his first as conductor.

The first peal by a Sunday service band at Baldock, Herts, since February, 1906, was rung on January 26th.

Two ringers rang Kent Treble Bob at Harlow Common for their first peal on January 29th, and were elected members of the Essex Association before starting.

A 'coming of age' compliment was paid to Mr. Raymond C. Warnett, grandson of Mr. Harry Warnett, sen., of Lewisham, Kent, on January 27th. To celebrate the event, Grandfather called the 'Original'—another proof that ringing keeps the mental faculties young. The peal was also a birthday compliment to Miss H. Oakshett.

Messrs. A. S. Richards and Pat Cannon rang their 25th peal together, when they took part in a peal of Little Bob Major at Buxted, Sussex, on January 29th. The peals have been spread over 23 towers.

It was the first peal in the method by all the band and rung at the first attempt; and Mr. A. F. Lewry's 50th peal.

As a tribute to the memory of the late Rev. H. S. T. Richardson, hon. secretary of the Hereford Diocesan Guild, a half-muffled peal of Grandsire Caters was rung at Coalbrookdale, Shropshire, on January 29th, by members of the Hereford Diocesan Guild.

Carter's odd-bob one-part peal of Stedman Triples was rung at Sittingbourne on Sunday, January 30th. It was called by Mr. Louis Head. Mr. A. S. Boar, who took part, has now rung each bell in the tower to a peal.

The first peal of Bob Royal by the North Staffs and District Association was rung at Leek on January 29th. It was the first peal of Bob Royal by seven of the band.

A NON-CONDUCTED PEAL.

A non-conducted peal of Cambridge Surprise Major was rung by members of the Oxford Diocesan Guild at Buckland, Berks, on January 29th. It was Mr. R. D. St. John Smith's 50th peal, and Messrs. F. E. Taylor and W. F. Judge's 100th peal together.

The first peal on the ten bells at Rickmansworth was rung on January 29th. They were augmented some few years ago.

The 150th anniversary of the foundation of Australia was commemorated at Miles Platting, Manchester, with a peal of Grandsire Triples, on January 25th. It was also a birthday compliment to Mr. William Branmer, who rang the treble.

After a peal at Draycott, Staffs, on January 29th, rung with the bells half-muffled in memory of the Rev. C. Codling, late Vicar of the parish, the band were entertained to tea by Mr. and Mrs. Perkins.

Mr. Ernest Stith has 'completed the circle' for the third time at Aberavon, Glam., on January 29th, when he rang the tenor to a peal of Stedman Triples. Trevor Roderick, who rang his first peal in the method, belongs to a six-bell tower where only Grandsire and Plain Bob Doubles are rung, and deserves credit for this performance, which has been achieved by learning the method from books and taking every opportunity to practice.

It should be pointed out, in regard to the compositions of Treble Ten that appeared in these notes last week, that Mr. Golden only claims the full extent properties for the 5,000.

CHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD.

STOCKPORT BRANCH OFFICERS.

On Saturday, January 29th, the annual meeting of the Stockport Branch of the Chester Diocesan Guild was held at Cheadle. Early in the afternoon the recently rehung peal of eight bells was busily employed and a variety of methods rung before the service. The Rector (the Rev. W. J. Wilkinson) officiated, assisted by his curate, and a very interesting address was preached by the Rev. S. May. Tea was served in the Parish Hall and 63 members and friends enjoyed an excellent repast. The business meeting followed under the chairmanship of the Rector, and what threatened to be a very lengthy programme was speedily and ably disposed of under his guidance.

He gave the Guild a hearty welcome to Cheadle and hoped that they would find a considerable improvement in the bells.

The secretary (Mr. C. Kenneth Lewis) reported that he had received confirmation of the dates of the meetings for the year from the respective incumbents.

The statement of accounts and report for the year just ended were presented and adopted, and showed a sound financial position and a certain amount of advancement in other directions, but much still remained to be accomplished in the direction of weekly practice nights. The election of officers resulted as follows: Chairman, Mr. W. W. Wolstencroft; vice-chairman, the Rev. F. Bonner; representative on General Committee, Mr. A. Barnes; auditor, Mr. T. Wilde; instructors, Messrs. Hartley, Hough, Milner and Wilde; hon. secretary and treasurer, Mr. C. K. Lewis. — A cordial vote of thanks was accorded to all the retiring officers.

Five new members were elected, two from Northenden and three from St. Peter's, Ashton-under-Lyne.

On hearing of the illness of Mr. E. Davies, of Rostherne, a ringer of over 50 years' standing, the meeting unanimously resolved to send him their best wishes for his speedy restoration to health. It was also decided to write a letter of congratulation to an old member of the branch, Mr. J. S. Wilde, of Dunedin, New Zealand, on the achievement reported in the issue of 'The Ringing World' of January 28th, the ringing of the first double-handed peal of Bob Major in the Dominions.

Various other topics were discussed, and the meeting concluded with hearty votes of thanks to the Rector and wardens for permission to hold the meeting and their services, the curate (the Rev. S. May) for his excellent address, the ladies who prepared the tea, the local ringers and the organist. Further ringing was then enjoyed, both on tower and handbells, until late in the evening.

BOB TRIPLES AT GRUNDISBURGH.

On Sunday, January 9th, a quarter-peal of Bob Triples was rung at St. Mary's, Grundisburgh (1,260 by Shipway): L. J. Last 1, O. J. Kidby 2, F. J. Crappell 3, J. R. Crooks 4, C. W. Pipe 5, C. W. Parker 6, W. Dye 7, W. Barker 8. This is the first quarter-peal ever rung at Grundisburgh and first quarter in the method by all the band. It was rung as a 78th birthday compliment to the conductor.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD. DORCHESTER BRANCH.

There was a large attendance at the annual meeting of the Dorchester Branch of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild, at which, as reported last week, a discussion took place on the introduction of a gramophone and amplifiers at a church in Weymouth for broadcasting bell records.

The meeting was presided over by the branch chairman (the Rev. A. W. Markby), and the hon. secretary, in his annual report, said the membership remained about the same.

The balance sheet showed that there were 119 ringing members, 13 associates, nine honorary members and five life members. The income totalled £34 0s. 7d. and the expenditure £24 18s. 1d., leaving a balance in hand of £9 2s. 6d., compared with £15 9s. 1d. with which the year began.

This year's quarterly meetings were fixed to be held at Charminster, Bradford Peverell, Frampton and Wool, and the annual meeting at Dorchester.

New members were elected as follows:—

Ringers members.—Abbotsbury: Messrs. J. Trevett, A. W. Ellery, C. J. Ford and H. Claxton, the youngest of whom is 14. Wyke Regis: Brian Swaffield. Frampton: The Rev. E. George and Mr. C. Hill. Wool: Messrs. W. and L. Burt. Dorchester St. Peter's: Messrs. F. Hawkins and T. Tetsill. Preston: Mr. S. C. Slade. Upwey: Miss Gwenda Notley.

Associate members: Mrs. H. Chalker (Upwey), Miss Gill, Miss Hudson, Mrs. Mowlam, Miss Mowlam, Mrs. McDonald, Mrs. Jones, Mrs. Cornick, Mrs. Swaffield.

Officers elected for the ensuing year were: Chairman, the Rev. A. Wilkinson Markby; vice-chairman, the Rev. R. P. Farrow; Ringing Master, Mr. C. Smart, in succession to Mr. P. Field, who had intimated his definite decision to retire; Deputy Ringing Master, Mr. P. Toccock; hon. secretary and treasurer, Mr. C. H. Jennings.

The usual votes of thanks concluded the meeting.

NEW RECTOR'S INDUCTION.

On Wednesday evening, January 19th, for the institution and induction of the Rev. J. Russell Howden, B.D., to the living of St. Andrew's, Holborn, a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples: J. S. Hawkins (conductor) 1, H. C. Alford 2, W. J. Norton 3, R. W. Green 4, E. F. Pryor 5, A. C. Darnell 6, E. Brett 7, C. H. Vitler 8.

On Sunday evening, January 9th, a quarter-peal of Bob Major (1,264 changes): H. C. Alford 1, R. W. Green 2, E. Brett 3, W. H. Seabrook 4, A. R. Macdonald 5, A. C. Darnell 6, U. Wildney (conductor) 7, T. Bannister 8. This was rung as a birthday compliment to Miss Jean Bullock.

SURREY ASSOCIATION.

MASTER TO ADDRESS RURI-DECANAL CONFERENCE.

The annual meeting of the Southern District of the Surrey Association was held at Horley on Saturday, January 22nd, when a gathering of 35 assembled. Most of the district towers were represented, and ringing friends were present from Uckfield and Hartfield, Sussex, Beddington, Croydon and London. Ringing in the afternoon was followed by a service, conducted by the Vicar of Horley. Alderman Temple Newell read the lesson.

The Master of the association (Mr. D. C. K. Birt) presided at the business meeting, when the following district officers were elected for the ensuing year: Master, Mr. W. Clayton; secretary, Mr. K. Tuffin; treasurer, Mr. M. Northover; auditor, Mr. A. Gear; committee, Messrs. A. Bull, A. Willett and B. Wells.

The next annual meeting (1939) was fixed for Godstone, and other meetings for the year were arranged for Charlwood, April; Lingfield, July; Limpsfield Chart, September; Redhill, December.

The Master stated he had written to the Rural Dean asking him to bring to the notice of the Ruri-decanal Conference what can be done by the clergy in their towers in regard to ringing.—A reply had been received stating that the Rural Dean would be pleased for the Master to give a talk at the next meeting of the conference.

A vote of thanks was passed to all who had made the meeting a success.

A committee meeting was held after the general meeting, and the bells were kept going until 9 p.m.

MUFFLED BELLS.

STANDISH RECTOR'S DEATH.

The death took place suddenly on January 5th of the Rev. C. W. N. Hutton, Rector of Standish, Lancs, for over 51 years. He was curate of Maidstone from 1882 to 1885, and of Westham, Sussex, from 1885 to 1886. Mr. Hutton was nearly 80 years of age and was one of the best known clerics in the Blackburn Diocese, of which Standish forms part. A man of diverse tastes, he had cricketing interests in his younger days, while he also had business and financial interests. That he had a real affection for the church and parish of Standish was evident from the many improvements effected during his Rectorship, and in which he played a leading part. Indeed, the years of his Rectorship have probably been more progressive than any other era in the church's long history.

Fully muffled touches were rung at Standish on Thursday and Friday evenings, Jan. 6th and 7th, and for the funeral on Jan. 8th. For evening service on Jan. 9th, a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples was rung by J. W. Grounds 1, T. Grounds 2, J. Gray 3, T. Mellings 4, J. Booth 5, A. Morgan 6, E. Birchall (conductor) 7, E. Fairclough 8.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

A correspondent in a London paper a few days ago wrote that three parts of the metal used by English bell founders consists of the tops of old bicycle bells. Hence the inferiority of English to Continental bells.

The bell founders will be interested to know that, in the opinion of the same authority, their profits are 75 per cent. of their charges.

BELL BROADCASTS.

THE RINGING AT MERTON.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—It is a pity such a fine man as Mr. G. E. Symonds should criticise Merton ringers for their broadcast. I feel sure he has overlooked 'the other side.' I well remember my only visit to Merton when about 30 ringers attended a meeting some time ago. I was unable to handle any of the bells, and some of the more experienced and noted members were in difficulties. In fact, the locals were the only ones who could 'strike 'em.' These bells are very light, and the long ropes, stretching to the church floor, will crack like whips if not handled rightly. Then the bell just drops and in about six blows is 'down.' Some friends of mine, non-ringers, reside near the church, and they praise the 'lovely ringing and tone.' Surely we could not condemn those who keep going a difficult five when nearby 'eights' are meeting short. Good luck to Merton. I haven't forgotten.

MR. SKIDMORE'S EXPLANATION.

Sir,—I feel that to justify the reason which prompted me to write re B.B.C. and ringing makes it necessary for me to reply to Mr. Bennett.

It is a very great pity that these subjects oftentimes lead to a lot of controversy, and things are deduced from them which were never intended, causing in many cases unpleasantness.

I wish to assure Mr. Bennett that I had not the least intention of 'slating' the ringers of St. Peter's, otherwise the matter would have been brought up immediately after the occurrence; in fact, it was quite the opposite—they had my sympathy, knowing, as I did, how they were placed.

My letter in 'The Ringing World' of the 28th ult. was entirely in support of the president of the Central Council with reference to our relationship with the B.B.C., and I still adhere to my original statement that the two local cases mentioned were flagrant instances of 'lack of efficient organisation,' otherwise they would never have happened.

I sincerely hope that the time is not far distant when these matters, which are of great importance to Exercise generally, will be placed on a sound footing, thereby eliminating any chance of a recurrence.

I thank Mr. Bennett for mentioning that I was one of the ringers who 'taught them to pull,' and am still willing and anxious to give any assistance to young ringers, as he personally knows.

ONLY THE VERY BEST IS GOOD ENOUGH.

Dear Sir,—Regarding the two letters which have appeared in your columns on the subject of the broadcast from St. Peter's, Bristol, it seems that the respective writers are at cross purposes.

Mr. Skidmore did not say that the ringing was in any way discreditable to a band of beginners; he said it was a disgraceful piece of ringing to be broadcast—which is quite a different matter.

I am sure that neither Mr. Skidmore nor anyone else would wish to damp the enthusiasm of a keen band of beginners such as that at St. Peter's, Bristol. But the whole point is surely this: that no broadcast (either of bellringing or anything else) should, under any circumstances, be undertaken by a band composed 'entirely of learners.'

I wonder what would be said if an orchestra, or a dance band, 'composed entirely of learners,' were allowed to put their efforts over the air. The very idea is unthinkable. And it is every bit as important, both for the ringing fraternity and the B.B.C., that any ringing which is broadcast should be of the highest possible quality.

When ringing for a broadcast service is under consideration the local band is the natural and proper one to undertake the job—provided that they are capable of putting up a first-class performance. But if, for any reason, they are not, they should have no hesitation in importing a band of experienced ringers for the occasion. After all, there is no discredit in admitting that one cannot do something quite well enough for broadcasting purposes; and it should be remembered that ringing is nervous work—even for experts—when they know that the slightest mistake or bad blow they may make is going to be heard by thousands of critical listeners.

It is far better for the bells not to be rung at all before a broadcast service than that they should be rung badly, or even 'fairly well.' Nothing but the very best should be considered good enough.

LEADING CONDUCTORS—5.

ALBERT WALKER.

The man who has rung more twelve-bell peals than any other ringer is Mr. Albert Walker, of Birmingham, whose genial personality has made him a popular figure in all the chief ringing centres in the country. Mr. Walker has rung no fewer than 314 peals on twelve, of which 211 have been on tower bells and 103 on handbells. It is a wonderful record, even allowing for the fact that circumstances have favoured him.

Mr. Walker, who was born in Birmingham, took up ringing rather casually while living at Taunton, where, at St. Mary Magdalen's Church, he rang his first peal, Grandsire Triples, on February 1st, 1896.

When he returned to Birmingham he became associated with the band at St. Martin's Church, and except for a short period when he lived in London, he has ever since been attached to the famous tower in the Bull Ring and been one of the mainstays of the Guild.

It was this association, of course, that gave him his twelve-bell opportunities, but it is due largely to his own enthusiasm and the enthusiasm he created in others that twelve-bell ringing has had in this century so successful a period in Birmingham.

He was Deputy Ringing Master of the Guild from 1904 to 1909, and again from 1921 to 1935, when he resigned, and in 1936 was elected a vice-president in recognition of his services, as well as receiving a grandfather clock, while Mrs. Walker was presented with a gold wristlet watch. While in London, Mr. Walker was, for a year, Junior Steward of the College Youths, being elected in 1910. In 1932 he was made an honorary member of the Central Council, and is now a member of the Standing and the Literary and Broadcasting Committees.

Mr. Walker rang his first peal as conductor on Jan. 19th, 1904, a peal of Stedman Caters at St. Martin's, where he has rung, altogether, 157 peals on 8, 10 and 12 bells, of which he has conducted 70. Of these, 137 have been peals of Stedman Cinques, of which he has conducted 64. He has called peals at St. Martin's from treble to tenor several times, as well as taking part in a non-conducted peal of Cambridge Surprise Maximus.

In one thing Mr. Walker has a unique distinction. He is the only man to call a peal on 14 bells. At the height of their handbell ringing fame, the Birmingham men rang, in 1922, a peal of Stedman Sextuples, to which Mr. Walker rang 3-4. Another notable performance was a silent peal of Stedman Cinques on handbells, in which the ringers 'drew' when they met for the pair they were to ring. He has also taken part in one other silent peal of Cinques on handbells.

Mr. Walker has rung peals in 31 twelve-bell towers, including St. Paul's Cathedral, and conducted peals in 26 of them. He called the first peal on the twelve bells at Exeter Cathedral (Stedman Cinques) and rang in the famous peal of Cambridge Surprise Maximus there. He has taken part in the only two peals at Buckfast Abbey, the first, rung from the narrow gallery round the central tower, and the other the first peal on the new bells, which he conducted. Other noteworthy performances in which he has shared have been peals at St. Paul's Cathedral, the first on the twelve at St. Mary's, Taunton (Stedman Cinques, which he called), the first peals of Cambridge Maximus at St. Martin's and Worcester Cathedral. He once organised a 'twelve-bell week,' when, travelling across the country from Leicester to Cirencester, the band rang five peals, and only lost the peal at Wolverhampton through a rope breaking after two hours.

Of his total of 485 peals on 8, 10, 12 and 14 bells, Mr. Walker has conducted 193.

Next week: Mr. George R. Pye.

YOUNG CLERGY AND RINGING.

A BEGINNING AT LICHFIELD.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I was very interested in the remarks made by Mr. Lewis at the annual dinner of the Guildford Diocesan Guild concerning ringers and the encouragement of young clergy to take an interest in the art.

There is no doubt it is partly true that the real reason why the number of clergy ringers is falling off is because the period of training for an ordinand is far more exacting and allows of far less free time at the present day than it used to do. It is important that most of the spare time a man may be lucky enough to have should be taken up in obtaining necessary exercise, and for that purpose activities like football, badminton, fives and such like take primary place.

At this college we are able to spend about one hour a week, through the kindness of the Vicar and local ringers of a certain six-bell tower, practising with the bells open. These practices have to be carried out in the afternoons, when local ringers, who would be a great help to us, are of necessity at work, and so we are left entirely on our own. However, we are making progress, if only slowly.

We had been fortunate in borrowing a set of handbells, but these are no longer available. At Christmas we were able to ring double-handed Grandsire Doubles and several tunes on the twelve, four-in-hand. Our greatest need at the moment is a set of handbells (even six would be better than nothing), so that we can make use of them in the college at odd moments. If there are any of your readers who have unwanted bells in their possession, I need hardly add how grateful we should be to receive them.

It is not our intention to make skilled change ringers of the men at this college: that is impossible when we only have two or three years here. What we set out to do is to create an interest for ringing both in its practical and theoretical aspects, so that when these men go out into your parishes they will not be entirely ignorant of bells and ringers; and this, in turn, will, we feel sure, lead to greater co-operation and understanding between the clergy and the ringers.

STUDENTS' INTEREST AT KELHAM.

Sir,—I was very interested in the letter of Mr. Stephen Wood, re ringing at Kelham, which appeared in the last issue of 'The Ringing World.'

I had the pleasure of visiting this college last June, when I shared a room with one of the students. In the course of our conversation the subject of bells and ringing came up, and after some talk his interest was so aroused that he went to the college library and borrowed the only two books they had dealing with the subject—Ellacombe's 'Practical Remarks on Belfries and Ringers' and Walter's 'Church Bells.' I promised to send him one of my ringing books when I returned home, and fulfilled my promise by sending Troyte's 'Change Ringing' and a bundle of old copies of 'The Ringing World.' As I had not heard from him since he acknowledged the receipt of the books, I wondered whether anything further had been done at Kelham, and, as you may suppose, Mr. Wood's letter was a pleasant surprise to me.

It is a pity they have no facilities for tower-bell practice. There is a ring of three bells in the little church on the college estate, which appeared to be in good order, apart from the bell chamber being somewhat dirty, when I saw them last June, but the ropes were in very bad condition. Perhaps, if the college authorities would provide them with new ropes, Mr. Sargent and his fellow-pioneers could get some tower-bell practice in ringing on this 'peal,' and, provided permission can be obtained, further practice at Newark and Southwell.

As a point of interest, over the door leading to the bell chamber at Kelham (the ringing chamber is on the ground floor) someone has scratched in the stone-work the six three-bell changes.

In conclusion, may I, though only a young ringer, support Mr. Wood's remarks re clergy ringers, and wish the band at Kelham every success?

ANCIENT SOCIETY OF COLLEGE YOUTHS.

To the Editor.

Sir,—We hope to complete the presentation to Mr. W. T. Cockerill at The Coffee Pot on the next St. Paul's meeting night, Shrove Tuesday, March 1st. If any more members of the society wish to subscribe, will they please send their contributions to me as soon as possible?

EDWIN H. LEWIS.

Moorcocks, Brasted, Sevenoaks, Kent.

BISHOP WELCOMED

When the newly enthroned Bishop of Bath and Wells paid his first visit to Taunton, the ringers of St. James', St. George's (Wilton) and Trull combined to give him a welcome to the town. They rang a quarter-peal of Bob Major: A. S. Pike 1, S. A. Wyatt 2, T. W. Jeanes 3, J. Hun 4, H. Bungay 5, A. H. Reed 6, H. Churchill 7, W. G. Gigg (conductor) 8. First quarter-peal of Major for ringers of 1 and 7.

NORTH-WESTERN DISTRICT'S SATISFACTORY YEAR.

Record Meetings.

The good attendances which were characteristic of the meetings of the North-Western District of the Surrey Association throughout 1937 were maintained when members met for their annual meeting at Kingston-on-Thames on Saturday, January 29th, 75 members and friends attending from Ashted, Banstead, Beddington, Benhilton, Carshalton, Croydon, Cotingham (Yorks), Chertsey, Epsom, Ewell, Kingston, Leatherhead, London, Merton, Mitcham, Putney, Reigate, Streatham, Twickenham and Wimbledon.

Ringling during the afternoon was followed by a shortened form of evensong, conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. T. B. Scrutton). The lesson, taken from I. Corinthians 13, was read from a revised version, in which the words 'mirror' and 'love' are substituted for 'glass' and 'charity' respectively. In his subsequent very eloquent address the Vicar pointed out that St. Paul's words, 'sounding brass or a tinkling cymbal,' might well apply to bells or organ pipes or any other musical instruments, which have no virtue of themselves, and which, without love on the part of the ringer or player, profit nothing. He requested his congregation to remember St. Paul's words when in the belfry and so avoid all wrangling and jangling, but work together in harmony and love.

The Vicar welcomed the association to Kingston and invited them to come again. He regretted his inability to remain for the tea and the meeting, as he had further duties to carry out in church, but his two wardens would take his place as deputies.

At the business meeting, which followed tea, the District Ringing Master, Mr. D. Cooper, took the chair, and 18 new members were elected, viz., 3 honorary and 15 ringing. Eight of these new elections were local ringers, and, in welcoming them as members, the district secretary called to mind the old days at Kingston and some of the achievements of the old band, which included such men as J. Strutt and his two sons, John Wright, John Howes, James Frossell, George Naish and his son, James Chandler and John H. B. Hesse. They had a most enviable reputation for good tapping, and the secretary invited the new band to aim at the same high standard and put Kingston back again on the campanological map. On behalf of the association he wished them all good luck in the days ahead.

The committee's annual report was read and adopted, and the meeting congratulated the committee upon the production of so satisfactory a statement, which revealed a healthy condition in the district.

ANOTHER GOOD YEAR.

The district, said the report, had had another good year. Speaking generally, ringing had been well maintained at all towers both for Sunday services and at practices. At Croydon Parish Church progress had been phenomenal, whilst at other towers some steady work had been put in on the instruction of beginners. The general level of Sunday service ringing had been high. The stagnation in evidence at one or two towers had been due chiefly to shortage of ringers and failure to obtain recruits, and not to any lack of interest in the work of the association.

Five district meetings were held during the year, with an average attendance of 60, probably the highest average attendance for any year in the life of the association. In this connection a meeting held at Mitcham Parish Church on November 27th deserved special mention, when a peal board memorial in remembrance of the late Master, Mr. J. D. Drewett, J.P., was unveiled. About a hundred ringers attended to honour his memory.

Seventeen peals were rung during the year, an increase of two on those recorded for 1936. All attempts for peals at Croydon Parish Church were successful, and Mr. Cooper was to be congratulated upon ringing his first peals as conductor of Kent Treble Bob Maximus, Stedman Cinques and Grandsire Cinques. During the year four members rang their first peal, eight their first peal on twelve, six their first of Maximus, three their first of Stedman Cinques, two their first of London Royal, whilst many members had scored their first in other methods. Grandsire Cinques was the method chosen by one member for his first peal.

Two members had been lost by death during the year—Mr. Alan Gower, of Epsom, and Col. T. F. Parkinson, of Banstead, both much respected members of this association.

At the last annual district meeting the total membership of the district was 184. Fourteen new members had been elected during the year. Two members had been lost by death, three members had notified their desire to be transferred to the compounding list, and eight members had allowed their subscriptions to lapse, leaving a total district membership of 185, made up of honorary members 5, ringing members (representing 18 towers) 153, ringing members (unattached) 27.

The treasurer's report, showing a balance of £11 7s. 8d. in hand, a slight increase on the previous year, was passed.

The places decided on for district meetings during the year were as follows: Easter Monday, April 18th, Dorking; May 28th, Carshalton; July 23rd, Rannmore (joint meeting with Leatherhead District of Guildford Guild); September 24th, St. Martin's, Epsom; November 26th, Wimbledon and Merton; January 28th, 1939, St. Peter's, Croydon.

RECOLLECTIONS OF LIVERPOOL.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—The record and photograph of Mr. George R. Newton in your issue of last Friday was of special interest to me, as it recalled the time when, as a 'Tommy' in 1917, I was stationed at Mossley Hill, Liverpool, and at the first opportunity I had my first ring in Lancashire (Woolton).

News that a ringer was stationed at the 'local barracks' must have travelled fast, as, during the following week, on arrival at my billet one evening I found a gentleman awaiting me, who proved to be Mr. G. R. Newton, and had specially made the journey to find me, with the invitation to a meeting at Rock Ferry on the following Saturday.

That was the beginning of a happy friendship during the 12 months I was in Liverpool, and included visits to almost all the towers around that district, not to mention the very kind hospitality I often received at his mother's and sister's home in Oxtun, both before and after ringing.

On one occasion Mr. Newton bearded our O.C. in his den and obtained leave for me one afternoon for a attempt at Garston, which unhappily came to grief near the end. The fact of the O.C. granting me leave to go 'pulling bells' caused rather a stir in the company.

Another little event during my stay at Mossley Hill was associated with Sergt. E. Waite (who came from Guiseley, Yorks). He was drafted to the depot some time after I arrived and went one Sunday to a neighbouring tower for a ring. On telling the ringers where he was stationed, he was informed there was another ringer at the same depot, but his informant did not remember my name, only that I came from Kent. The next day the sergeant was inquiring all over the depot, 'Do you come from Kent and are you a bellringer?' I was eventually 'run to earth' and another friendship was made.

Although 20 years have now passed, I still, through 'The Ringing World,' follow with interest the performances of Mr. Newton, and trust that in the near future I may again visit that city and renew our acquaintance.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—In reference to the second part of Mr. Horridge's letter, I must plead ignorance of the true facts concerning the Liverpool Branch. It is some years since I attended any of their meetings, but I made inquiries at a recent joint meeting and was assured that at least St. Nicholas' was doing well. Again a district which can ring peals of Stedman Cinques can hardly be called a 'distressed area.' However, the facts which Mr. Horridge gives relating to closed towers are not pleasant.

With regard to the third part of his letter, there is certainly some truth in the assertions made. But I must let it stay at that, as Mr. Horridge is evidently suffering under some grievance. The last sentence is a challenge, viz.: How about it? Now that the subject has received such wide publicity, could not each branch discuss the matter at the next meeting?

It is some eight months from the annual meeting, but the agenda is generally too big to allow proper discussion in the time allotted. Now, therefore, is the time to begin and see if we cannot put the old association back on the map once again.

Preston.

In addition to the above, it was suggested that the combined meeting of members of the Guildford Diocesan Guild, Oxford Diocesan Guild, Middlesex County Association and Surrey Association, held in previous years at Staines and Egham, might with advantage take place this year at Kingston-on-Thames, with the Surrey Association as host.—After some discussion this suggestion was put to the meeting in the form of a proposition, and unanimously carried.

It was also suggested that mid-week meetings should be arranged for those who could not attend Saturday meetings. This question was referred to the District Committee for decision and report.

All the retiring district officers and members of the District Committee were re-elected.

The following nominations were received for general officers: President, the Lord Bishop of Croydon; Master, Mr. D. Kenneth C. Birt; treasurer, Mr. H. F. Wallis; secretary, Mr. Edward G. Talbot; assistant hon. secretary, Mr. John Hobden; hon. auditor, Mr. George W. Steere. In order to give members an opportunity of obtaining practice on 12 bells, it was decided to hold a combined practice of Cinques and Maximus at Croydon Parish Church on Saturday, Feb. 19th, from 3.30 to 7 o'clock.

The meeting concluded with the usual votes of thanks to the Vicar, churchwardens and organist for the use of the bells and conducting the service, and to Mr. F. E. Hawthorne for making all necessary arrangements for the meeting. The tower was again visited, where ringing continued until 9 o'clock.

BATH & WELLS DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION BRANCH SECRETARY'S LONG SERVICE.

Presentation to Mr. C. Stacey.

The members of the Bath and Wells Diocesan Association in the Dunster Deanery, at their annual meeting at Minehead, made a presentation to their hon. secretary, Mr. George Stacey, in recognition of his devoted service for 35 years. There was a large gathering of clergy and ringers, among the visitors being the Rev. E. V. Cox, president of the Devon Guild, and the Rev. C. Carew Cox, of Lyme Regis. A service was conducted by the Vicar, who afterwards entertained the entire company to tea.

Mr. Stacey thanked the Vicar for his hospitality and welcomed the gathering to Minehead.

A brief financial statement was presented by the hon. secretary, who recorded subscriptions from performing members to the total of £7 6s. The year had finished with a balance in hand of £6 18s.

In the course of his annual report, the hon. secretary mentioned that during the year successful meetings had been held, the average attendance having been 41, and at each of these places tea and the use of rooms had been provided free by the clergy and Church Councils, who were thus deserving of their best thanks. Nine performing members, one life member and four honorary members had been elected during the year. There were, however, a few towers in the deanery which were still not affiliated to the association, and the general body of members would like to see these joined up. After noting with regret the death of Mr. Jesse Tout, who had been a very useful member of the Huish Champflower tower, Mr. Stacey said he was afraid that Rule 6 of the association had not been strictly followed, since out of 20 towers affiliated only four had paid their affiliation fees. Although there had not been any peals in the deanery during the year, the ringing for Sunday services had been generally maintained. Thanks, he concluded, were due to the Ringing Master, Mr. J. Pugsley, for his untiring efforts at practices in giving instruction in the art of change ringing.

The Rev. F. M. Etherington was unanimously re-elected president. In spite of his desire to vacate the office after 35 years in it, Mr. Stacey was cordially re-elected as hon. secretary and treasurer, and was also appointed deanery representative on the committee of the Diocesan Association. The Rev. T. S. Dawson was re-elected hon. auditor and Mr. Pugsley Ringing Master.

New members elected were Messrs. C. Buckland (Carhampton), W. Challice (St. Decuman's), James Hole and N. Dibble (Dunster), R. Thomas (Exton) and W. Hawker and H. Pershouse (Withypool).

At the invitation of the Rev. T. S. Dawson, which was heartily accepted, the next quarterly meeting will be held at Carhampton.

MR. STACEY'S VALUABLE WORK.

Referring to 'a conspiracy afoot of which everybody here except the secretary knows a great deal,' the President introduced the next business, a presentation to Mr. Stacey, of which he had been kept in ignorance. A good many of the members had felt for some time that they did not want to wait until the secretary retired—or really brought into effect the threat he hung over the annual meeting every year—to show their appreciation of his services. They felt they wanted to make some little presentation to him to show in a material way something that everybody who had anything to do with the branch felt in his heart. They knew very well they had heard people say that theirs was a very good branch and that it set a good example to the rest of the world, but at the same time they knew that that was not due to what they themselves had done, but that it was the result of work which had been given by Mr. Stacey for 35 years as secretary. It was a humble gift, but they would ask Mr. Stacey to accept it as a gift which had been subscribed to by every tower in the deanery. He (the president) was sure that Mr. Stacey was gratified that so many—both laity and clergy—had attended the meeting, and he was quite sure he would take that circumstance to heart as a token that his good work had been appreciated by those who had benefited so directly from his work—the clergy (applause).

Tribute to the services of Mr. Stacey was also paid by the Rev. T. S. Dawson, a past president of the branch, the Rev. R. A. W. Newman, the Rev. A. P. Lance and Mr. J. Pugsley, while the congratulations and thanks of the Diocesan Committee were conveyed by Mr. J. Hunt (Taunton).

The Chairman then presented Mr. Stacey with a wing easy chair, bearing a silver plate, in the form of a bell, with the following inscription: 'Presented to Mr. George Stacey by all the towers of the Dunster deanery in grateful thanks for 35 years' unselfish service as secretary. January 22nd, 1938.'

Admitting that the presentation had taken 'the wind out of his sails proper,' Mr. Stacey expressed his admiration of the chair (after sitting in it to a roar of applause), and thanked the company very much for its kindness, its sympathy, and its generosity, adding that he did not know he was 'so well liked.' Owing to Mr. Pugsley's 'artfulness,' he had not had the slightest notion that the presentation was coming about, and it had been one of the biggest surprises in his 35 years in the office. Mr. Stacey said that what he had done for the branch had been for love of it. He had done what he thought was best for the branch and the association.

Those who had helped to make the afternoon's reunion such a pleasant one were the subject of grateful reference from the chair.

The Rev. C. Carew Cox, who is Vicar of Lyme Regis, spoke of the pleasure it gave him to be at the meeting as an interested visitor, and said he was sure that Mr. Stacey, above all men, deserved recognition of his long service (applause). Affirming that he had never seen so many clergy at such a meeting, Mr. Carew Cox said he hoped that state would continue. In his own association they had to complain that their clergy were not often at their quarterly meetings or the annual meeting, and he considered it—if he might say so—one of the most important duties of the parish priest, if he took any interest in his ringers at all, to attend their annual meeting at least of the branch or the Guild. He himself had not always been in orders, and before he was he had been a ringer, and he had felt then what a lack there had been of the clergy's interest in what the ringers were doing. It seemed to him that there should be a great movement on the part of ringers in all towers to interest their own parish priests in the work being done in the tower, and especially in the essentials of change ringing. Speaking of views expressed in the Press concerning 'canned bells,' Mr. Carew Cox went on to assert that no ringer was going to lend his support to the introduction of any mechanical device which is going to take the place of the ringing of bells as they were accustomed to ring them, or the introduction of bells not hung for ringing in their towers. He was perfectly certain that in all parts of the country they would be at one in that. The present movement he described as 'a little passing stunt, perhaps,' and he invited them not to take seriously what might be said in some quarters about the introduction of mechanical devices for producing the sounds 'which we can produce much better by swinging the bells to their full height' (applause).

During the day Grandsire and Stedman Triples and Caters and Bob Major were rung on the bells of Minehead Church.

CARY DEANERY BRANCH.

The annual meeting of the Cary Deanery Branch of the Bath and Wells Diocesan Association was held at Evercreech on January 22nd, when 38 members and visitors attended from West Lydford, Templecombe, Stoke Tristor, Cucklington, Bruton, Ditchat, Evercreech, Castle Cary, Maperton, Charlton Mackerell, Ilminster, Chilcompton, Bath, North Cadbury, Milton Clevedon, Frome, Beckington, Drayton and Langport.

A service was held in the Parish Church, at which the Rev. E. Ogden officiated and gave an address.

Tea at the Bell Hotel was followed by the business meeting, the Rev. F. H. Lang presiding.

The secretary's report for 1937 showed an increase of 35 members, and two towers, Milton Clevedon and Queen Camel.

Places of meetings for 1938 were selected provisionally as follows: Annual meeting, Castle Cary; quarterly meetings, Cucklington, Marston Magna and West Lydford.

All the officers were re-elected, and votes of thanks accorded to the churchwardens and local captain of Evercreech for the use of the bells, the Rev. E. Ogden for taking the service and address, the organist and blower, and to the ladies who prepared the tea.

Ringings took place during the afternoon and evening.

CLEVELAND AND NORTH YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION.

A WELCOME TO NORTH ALLERTON.

The Cleveland and North Yorkshire Association held a very successful meeting at Northallerton on Saturday, January 22nd. Ringing commenced at 3 p.m. and continued until 8.30 with only a short interval for tea at Russell's Cafe. This was presided over by the president (Mr. J. C. Pollard), who proposed a vote of thanks to the Vicar and churchwardens for granting the use of the bells and also welcomed the Vicar to the meeting.

The Vicar, in reply, welcomed the association to Northallerton. As that was the first meeting held at Northallerton during his ministry and not previously having been to a meeting of ringers, he did not really know what to expect, but he had certainly learnt a lot during the short time he had been amongst them and wished they could hold a meeting there again soon. He was sure such meetings could only result in much good for both ringers and the Church. He wished them every success in their work and assured them of a hearty welcome at any time.

Ringers were present from Middlesbrough, Darlington (Holy Trinity), Headingley, Ripon, Ormesby, Thirsk, Middleham, Saltburn, Skelton, Guisborough and the local company, and ringing in the following methods was very successful: Double Norwich, Kent Treble Bob, Bob Major, Stedman and Grandsire Triples and rounds for the learners.

The next meeting will be held at Richmond on April 30th.

'THE COLLEGE YOUTHS'

by J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE

'This is one of the very few books I have read which seem to me might, with advantage, have been considerably longer.'—The Dean of St. Paul's.

Mr. Trollope has achieved more than his immediate purpose of writing a history of the Society of College Youths. So closely has the guild been identified with English change ringing that its history is to a very large extent an account of the ancient sport of ringing developed into an elaborate art. . . .

WINCHESTER AND PORTSMOUTH DIOCESAN GUILD.

ALTON AND PETERSFIELD DISTRICT.

The fifth annual meeting of the Alton and Petersfield District of the Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild was held at St. Laurence's Church, Alton, on Saturday, January 22nd. Those present included Mr. George Williams (Guild Ringing Master), the Rev. C. Minton-Senhouse (district vice-chairman), the Rev. T. N. Rathbone Griffin (Vicar of Alton), and members from Alton, Alresford, Blackmoor, Hawkley, North Stoneham, Portsea, Petersfield, Milland, Priyett, Steep, Soberton, Wonston, Winchester and one unattached. Visitors were present from Haslemere and Cottenham (Yorks), making a total of 38. The bells were rung in the afternoon and evening from rounds to Cambridge Surprise Major. The Guild's service was held at 4.30, at which the Rev. T. N. R. Griffin officiated, giving a short address.

Tea was provided in the Parish Room, and at the business meeting, in the absence of the district chairman (the Rev. F. G. Eyres) through illness, the district vice-chairman presided. The hon. secretary (Mr. C. E. Bassett) read his report for 1937, in the course of which he said the membership was now 103, the highest since the new district was formed.

The hon. auditor presented the balance sheet, which he said was most satisfactory and showed a balance in hand of £11 13s. Mr. H. Collis (Petersfield), Mr. L. Noakes (Alton) and Mr. F. Windybank (Blackmoor) were elected ringing members.

The district officers were re-elected en bloc, with the addition of Mr. A. Hardiman as second representative on the Central Committee.

The next annual meeting at Petersfield was fixed for January 28th, 1939, and the next quarterly meeting to be at Froxfield (provisionally) on April 30th, 1938.

An appeal was received from Canon S. N. Sedgwick, Rector of Warnford, for a grant towards the restoration of his tower and bells. The meeting decided that when the work was nearer commencement they would make a grant, but no sum was decided upon.

The meeting made a grant of £1 to the fund for new ropes at Alton tower.

The usual votes of thanks were accorded, after which the meeting terminated.

DON'T SCRUB YOUR HANDS!

To many people, the problem of getting the hands really clean without harming the skin is a serious one. Grease and grime, which become deeply ingrained into the pores of the skin, are extremely difficult to remove, and ordinary washing with soap or even scrubbing will fail to remove them completely. Housewives, particularly, who complain that their hands get ruined by the nature of their work, will find the preparation called DERMAFOAM, a real "godsend." DERMAFOAM just smoothes away dirt and grease without effort. It gets right down into the pores and removes every particle of grime, leaving skin beautifully supple and healthy.

Men, too—when you've finished that dirty job on the car, DERMAFOAM will quickly banish all grease and oil from your hands. It acts almost magically—working under and around the nails and into every minute crease, removing all trace of dirt in a flash.

Engineers, Painters, Car Mechanics, Printers — everyone — will welcome DERMAFOAM, the modern method of cleansing and protecting the hands.

THE WORK OF THE ASSOCIATIONS

More than one association is at this moment overhauling its rules. There are some few organisations whose rules have stood almost unaltered from their foundation, and those who planned them must have done their work well for it to have stood the test of something like half a century. But since the territorial associations first came into existence there has been a vast change in the circumstances surrounding their activities, and the altered conditions have made it desirable that rules of fifty years ago should be remoulded. When, in the seventies and eighties of last century, ringing associations were formed all over the country, conditions in the belfry were totally different to those of to-day. The ringer, with few exceptions, had no standing in the Church; the tower was more often than not, a place apart, and the art of ringing was largely in a state of stagnation.

What the associations have done by way of 'reform' can scarcely be realised by those whose memories do not go back to those early days. In generalising, we realise that there were notable exceptions, but for the most part the men who were the ringers then were of a different type to those who ring the bells to-day. Education and the general raising of standards has had much to do with the improvement, but the persistent efforts of the ringing societies to lift the level has also had an important bearing upon this, as upon the more material side of things. The belfry is not now, as it often was fifty years ago, the lumber room of the church, and everyone in these days recognises that it is as much a portion of the consecrated building as the vestry or any other part of the edifice. It took time for these things to be instilled into the minds of the responsible people, but it can now be said that both clergy and ringers are conscious of the position which the latter should hold in the church, and of the relation which the belfry bears to the rest of the building.

But more than this, we think it is no exaggeration to say that the associations practically saved the art of change ringing. Round about the middle of last century it had reached a stagnation which threatened extinction, and in the combination of belfry reform and the promotion of the art of change ringing the new associations rescued the latter when it appeared to be almost in its death throes. What a contrast to-day! True to their trust, the associations, by steadfast labour in fostering the art, by drawing ringers into a closer fraternity, by encouraging interchange of ideas and even a friendly rivalry, have enabled the Exercise to grow to its present stature and change ringing to reach a stage undreamt of two generations ago. To meet the needs of to-day, old

JOHN NICOLL,

Church Bell Rope and Clock Rope
Manufacturer,

64, LEWISHAM PARK, LONDON, S.E.13

Late of BERMONDSEY and PECKHAM.

Maker to St. Paul's Cathedral, Westminster Abbey, Imperial Institute, Canterbury, Edinburgh, St. Albans, Lincoln, Durham, Peterborough, Melbourne (Australia), Rochester, Dublin, St. Patrick's, Manchester, Durban and Worcester Cathedrals, etc., etc.

Mufflers, Ringing Mats, Matting, Flag Lines, etc., etc.

rules have to be revised and adapted, and there is as much work ahead now as the founders could have foreseen when they started. There are diminishing numbers in some places, and empty belfries in others; 'canned' bells are being introduced, the need of studying a noise-racked public is becoming more and more apparent. These are present challenges to the ringing organisations, and it is their duty to face up to them.

FALSE PEALS OF BOB MAJOR.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—With reference to the statement in 'The Ringing World' concerning the false peals of Bob Major by the late Mr. Arthur Craven, the following figures appear on page 96 of the newly-issued report of the Yorkshire Association:—

2345678 W 5th's B H	2375468 W 5th's In H
63254 — —	37254 —
2375468 — —	5263478 S — 2

Five times repeated.

I regret that the peal is false, all the 4.6.8's are in-course and all the 6.4.8's are out-of-course; therefore, one is false against the other. Certain course-ends in the 4.6.8's will be found to repeat at the Wrong lead-ends of certain 6.4.8's and vice versa. Repetitions also occur in the 3rd lead of one against the 5th lead of the other.

Unfortunately this composition is given as a true variation of a false peal by the same author, which was rung at Eastwood, Rotherham, on June 15th, 1937, the figures of which are published on the same page in our report with a footnote setting out where the peal is false. The error has arisen by my doing what I have often advised other ringers not to do—taking too much for granted where figures are concerned.

The whole matter is rather involved, but briefly this is what has happened. The report of the Rotherham peal did not reach my hands until last October, just at the time when I was in the midst of compiling the annual report; I checked the peal and found it false, and, having an idea that I had seen the figures before, I turned up my cuttings from 'The Ringing World' and found that the peal had been published on March 29th, 1929. Mr. Craven, I have learned since, was told that the peal was false, and he immediately wrote to 'The Ringing World' tendering his apologies and giving as a true variation of the peal which is the subject of this letter. His accompanying words, 'this ... puts everything true,' together with the fact that my time was limited, will, perhaps, be taken as sufficient excuse for my precipitancy. However, after making sure that the error in the first peal had been expunged, and knowing Mr. Craven's abilities, I took the figures on trust.

I offer my sincere apologies to my fellow-members for my oversight and I hope that this announcement will prevent the composition being used by anyone who sees it in the Yorkshire Association report.

WILLIAM BARTON, Hon. Peal Secretary, Y.A.C.R.

PEAL NOTES.

ANOTHER NEW SURPRISE METHOD RUNG.

A Hertfordshire band has scored a peal in another fresh Surprise method, which they named after the place where it was rung—Ickleton. It was conducted by Mr. Harold Cashmore, the composition being the Rev. H. Law James' well-known peal of London Surprise.

The Vicar of Prittlewell, which is part of Southend-on-Sea, was installed at Chelmsford Cathedral as Archdeacon of Southend on February 2nd. After the service a peal of Bob Royal, in which five of his own ringers took part, was rung on the Cathedral bells, and, on the following day, a peal of Bob Major, in honour of the Vicar's elevation, was rung on the bells of his own Parish Church.

Mr. Edgar Whiteley rang his fiftieth peal on February 3rd, when he took part in a peal at Queensbury, Bradford.

The progress of handbell ringing in Lincoln made another very gratifying step on February 2nd, when the local men rang a peal of Stedman Triples 'in hand,' the first by all the band and for the Lincoln Diocesan Guild by resident ringers.

A knighthood has been conferred upon Mr. S. Law, an honorary member of the Worcestershire and Districts Association. In honour of the distinction thus bestowed, a peal was rung at Oldswinford on February 2nd.

The first peal at Chelsfield, Kent, where the bells were augmented to six in 1936 by the addition of a treble by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank, was rung on February 3rd. The back five are 'maiden' bells cast in 1672.

When Mr. C. Ernest Smith, Ringing Master of the Guildford District of the Guildford Diocesan Guild, rang his first peal of London Surprise Major as conductor, at Chiddingfold, Surrey, on February 2nd, it was his fiftieth peal in the method. It was the first peal of Major on the bells since they were recast, with additional metal, in October, 1936, by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank.

FIVE HUNDRED PEALS FOR CHESTER GUILD.

Mr. Robert Sperring, of Chester, has achieved the distinction of being the first member to ring 500 peals for the Chester Diocesan Guild. He accomplished this on February 5th at the Parish Church of his native village of Farndon, where he learned to ring.

Mr. A. E. Richards rang the tenor to this peal and completed the 'circle' of the tower.

Four local men took part in the first five-method peal of Minor at Bergh Apton, Norfolk, on February 3rd. Two of them scored their first peal and one his 'first in more than one method.'

Mr. Frank Bennett, of Brighton, and Mr. A. J. Turner, of Lewes, rang in a peal of Stedman Triples, which the former called, at Ten-terden, Kent, on February 2nd. It was discovered that it was their 151st peal together. A real case of 'jolly old pals.'

It is not often that a ringer makes his first peal as conductor a peal of Stedman Triples called from the treble, but Mr. A. Diserens did this at Streatham on February 5th. By ringing the 2nd, Mr. J. W. Chapman completed the circle of the tower.

A peal of Cambridge Surprise Major was rung at Brentwood, Essex, on February 5th, by Cumberland Youths as a birthday honour to the Essex octogenarian, Mr. W. J. Nevard, at whose expense the bells of his Parish Church, Great Bentley, are now being rehung.

Mr. John Worth, of Macclesfield, who has taken a conspicuous part in advancing the record in Spliced Minor ringing, rang his 150th peal as conductor when he called the first peal of Surprise Major (Bristol) in Stalybridge on February 5th.

To ring peals in a method on all the recognised numbers of bells is always an interesting achievement; to do so within the space of one month must, we think, be almost unique. During January, Messrs. Henry Tooke and William Clover, well-known Norfolk ringers, rang peals of Kent Treble Bob on 6, 8, 10 and 12 bells, completing the quartet with their first peal of Kent Minor at Gressenhall on January 30th. In the same peal Mr. R. W. Barber completed his sequence.

The first peal on the bells at Stanwell, Middlesex, was rung on February 5th. The tower had been selected for a peal because there were five bells there, and the band wanted to ring a peal of Doubles. Accidentally they discovered that just before Christmas a treble had been added, and so they made it seven Minor methods. Their peal in a five-bell tower has yet to be rung.

The bells at Willenhall, Staffs, were recast and augmented to ten just before the Coronation. The first peal of Caters on them since that occasion was rung on February 5th, when Mr. Chris. Wallater, the enthusiastic leader of the local band, called a peal of Stedman. It was a birthday compliment to Miss E. A. Wallater.

The hon. secretary of the Llandaff and Monmouth Association (Mr. J. W. Jones) and Mr. A. W. Heath wandered a long way from home on February 4th, when they rang a peal (specially arranged for them) on the light ring at Loughborough Bell Foundry.

In the peal in 12 Minor methods at Hallaton on February 5th, six towers were represented, viz., Hallaton, Billesdon, Burbage, Croft, Leicester (St. Margaret's) and Stanford. The newly-inducted Rector, the Rev. C. M. P. Heath, to welcome whom the peal was rung, came into the tower before the peal to wish the ringers 'good luck' in their attempt.

The additional methods were put into the first two 720's, and in one there were 48 changes of method and in the other 24 changes of method. It was the first peal in twelve methods by all the band.

FIRST PEAL OF STEDMAN CINQUES AT CHRISTCHURCH.

The first peal of Stedman Cinques on the bells of Christchurch, Hants, was rung last Saturday. Four of the band made the 100-mile journey by road from Croydon and Mr. H. W. Simmons rang his first peal on 12 bells. Mr. G. Preston, who recently celebrated his 50th anniversary as a ringer at the Priory, rang his first peal of Stedman Cinques. It is interesting to note that the late William Pye rang his last peal of Cambridge Maximus on these bells on Easter Monday, 1934, which he also conducted.

Mr. Jack L. Millhouse rang his fiftieth peal for the Lincoln Diocesan Guild at Leadenham, Lincs, on February 5th, when he called a peal in seven six-bell methods.

Mr. B. G. Key and Mr. Howell rang their fiftieth peal together, and Mr. W. H. Curson and Mr. J. W. Cotton rang their twenty-fifth peal together when they all took part in the peal of Minor at Spondon, Derbyshire, which was rung at the suggestion of the Vicar within the octave of the feast. The church is dedicated to St. Werburgh. It was the first peal on the bells since they were rehung.

The first peal of Grandsire Triples on the bells at Netherton, Worcestershire, since they were recast was rung on February 5th as a birthday compliment to the conductor, Mr. Norman G. Leech.

Another birthday peal on the same day was that at Coddham, Suffolk, where Kent Treble Bob Major was rung as a compliment to Mr. Arthur Grimwood.

A band of service ringers at Rothwell, Yorkshire, rang a peal of Superlative Surprise Major at their Parish Church in honour of one of their number becoming a grandfather. Six of them rang their first peal in the method.

Messrs. Adam Deas, William J. Davidson and John Anderson rang their one hundredth peal together on February 5th when they took part in a peal of Double Norwich Major at Bishopwearmouth. It is not often that three ringers are able to do this in one peal.

One of the 'brass hats' of the T.G.U. finds Kent a happy hunting ground. Cranbrook went into 'the bag' on February 5th; it was the 80th tower in which he had rung a peal, 55 of them being Kentish belfries.

It is very nice to ring peals in as many different towers as possible, but there is a danger of it becoming a selfish hobby.

The tenor ringer in the peal of Grandsire Doubles at Curry Mallet, Somerset, on January 20th, was Donald James Tout.

The peal at North Elmham, the report of which appeared in our issue of February 4th, was rung on Monday, January 24th, and for the Norwich Diocesan Association (not the Sussex Association as printed).

A birthday peal of London Surprise Major was rung at Royston, Herts, for Mr. F. G. Gleaves.

GUILD OF DEVONSHIRE RINGERS.*VISIT TO BRADWORTHY RECALLS NOTORIOUS VICAR.

The North-West Branch of the Devon Guild held its annual meeting at Bradworthy on Saturday, February 5th. Bradworthy is away to the west, within a few miles of Hartland Point. The village is a large one and has a spacious square. Its church is Early English in character with a lofty western tower, and within the edifice there are an Early English font, a Jacobean pulpit and a section of ancient tiling. Bradworthy had a notorious Vicar in 1640. He began life as a sand-carrier, became Vicar and Sheriff's bailiff, forged documents, and, when discovered, fled to Ireland. After obtaining a pardon from his Bishop he returned to his office and also became a solicitor, frightening his flock by threats of actions. He set up a public-house in his Vicarage and sent his daughter into the pulpit to catechise the children. Eventually he was tried in the Star Chamber and sent to prison.

There was a good attendance of members from Bridgerule, Marland, Holsworthy, Sutcombe and the local tower, as well as friends from the Exeter and Plymouth branches.

The service was conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. Dobson, R.D., and the chairman, the Rev. W. H. Ravenhill (Sutcombe), gave a much appreciated address. Other clergy present were the Rev. W. H. Smale, Petrockstowe, the Vicar of Lulworth and the Rev. E. V. Cox, president of the Devon Guild.

A sumptuous tea was provided by lady friends of the local ringers at the nearby inn.

At the business meeting which followed, the report and balance sheet for the year were accepted. The chairman (the Rev. W. H. Ravenhill), the secretary (Mr. J. W. Sangwin), the treasurer (Mr. W. Shears) and the Ringing Master (Mr. F. Sangwin), as well as the committee and representatives to the General Committee, were re-elected.

A comprehensive vote of thanks, proposed by the Rev. W. H. Smale, expressed appreciation to the officers of the branch, the Vicar and Rural Dean for the use of the bells and the service; the organist, Mrs. Payne, L.R.A.M.; Mr. Collacott, the local captain, and all the ladies who helped in serving the tea.

In the course of an interesting reply, the Rural Dean expressed the hope that the time would come when all the bells in the county would be rung by 'scientific' ringers.

The bells, a handy peal of six, tenor 12 cwt. and recently tuned and rehung on ball bearings by J. Taylor and Co., were kept going before and after the service. Touches of Grandsire Doubles, Stedman Doubles, Bob Minor, Kent Treble Bob Minor and Cambridge Minor were brought round with success.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

We understand a movement is on foot to restore the bells at Farnham Royal, Bucks, as a memorial to the late Mr. Joseph J. Parker. If this scheme is carried out there will be many ringers throughout the country who will desire to be associated with it.

A humble village shoemaker, sub-postmaster and beekeeper, Mr. Parker was one of the few men whose name will last as long as change ringing continues. His work in composition was an outstanding contribution to the advancement of the art.

Visitors to Leatherhead on the occasion of the Guildford Diocesan Guild meeting on Saturday were sorry to find that old stalwart, Mr. Arthur Dean, still confined to his house. He has been in ill-health now for a long time and has not been out for more than a year, but he has not lost his cheerfulness. His many friends will wish him quicker progress to recovery.

Miss Marie Cross must surely be able to claim a record—certainly among ladies if not among ringers generally. She has never yet conducted a peal, but she has rung an inside bell to two strictly non-conducted peals—Stedman Triples a year ago, and Cambridge Surprise Major last month.

This is a distinctly fine performance, but Miss Cross is among the safest of ringers in anything she attempts. She is the only lady who has rung a peal at Queen Camel, where is the heaviest ring of six in the country.

Visitors who propose to attend the Henry Johnson dinner in Birmingham on March 5th are reminded that it is to be held at the White Horse Restaurant, Congreve Street. This is a change of venue after many years.

After 13 years as hon. secretary of the Jurisdiction of Glaston Branch of the Bath and Wells Diocesan Association, Mr. F. D. Rickards has resigned, through having moved to Bath. He is succeeded by Mr. W. H. Marsh, of Street.

The report of the East Grinstead and District Guild for 1937, just issued, says that perhaps the most satisfactory and encouraging feature of the past year has been the increased membership, over 25 new members' names appearing on the list. Financially the year was very successful. The balance in hand was increased from £14 13s. to £20 10s. 10d. Twelve meetings were held during the year.

Do any readers know of former ringers residing in or near Toronto, Canada? If they do, will they kindly forward information, with addresses, to Mr. J. Merrick, 3, Scott Street, Brampton, Ontario.

SIXTY YEARS A RINGER.

RETIREMENT OF MR. R. COUPE, OF BOLSOVER.

Ringers in the Bolsover District will regret to hear of the retirement from active ringing of Mr. Remaliah Coupe through failing eyesight after 60 years of faithful service in the Parish Church, the whole of that time in the belfry and for 40 years as a chorister. Remaliah, better known as 'Mailer,' was born and has lived in Bolsover all his life. There is little that he doesn't know about the old Parish Church and Castle.

He began to ring in 1878 when Bolsover had its first peal of six bells. These were destroyed by fire in 1897, and in 1898 the back six of the present octave were put in, with a frame for the trebles, added by Taylor and Co. in 1902. Mr. Coupe was very active in getting the two trebles to complete the ring, and this was purely the ringers' effort.

'Mailer' never aspired to peal ringing and never rose beyond Plain and Treble Bob methods, but he has always been looked upon as one of the best of fellows to be connected with any band of ringers—always punctual at every service 104 times a year, and the same for practice. Always willing to stand down for others, he sacrificed everything for the bells and gave up much time to teaching others. Deep regret at his enforced retirement is felt by his colleagues.

BELLS OF ST. GEORGE-IN-THE-EAST.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—Your readers will doubtless recollect seeing, in one of your recent issues, an appeal for pecuniary assistance towards the restoration of the bells of St. George's-in-the-East. It has now been agreed by the Rector that the undersigned will, if possible, pursue the matter further with the Exercise.

The parish of St. George's-in-the-East is one of the poorest in London, and the local people have done their best by raising £170 of the £320 required for the bells out of general restoration costs of over £500. It is felt, therefore, that there is real justification for appealing for help from outside sympathetic sources.

It is felt also that in addition to the ready sympathy usually shown by ringers in such circumstances, a special interest arises here by virtue of the weight, quality and history of St. George's bells, and we appeal confidently to ringers generally, and to lovers of a heavy ring of eight particularly, to do what they can in this case.

Contributions of whatever amount will be very gratefully received by any one of the undersigned, and will be acknowledged through the official channels in due course.

Finally we thank you for your kind sympathy and the use of your valuable space.

LEADING CONDUCTORS—6.

GEORGE R. PYE.

One of a famous family of ringers, Mr. George R. Pye has rung more peals than any living ringer, his total now being 1,808. Only his brother, the late Mr. William Pye, rang more than this. Moreover, we imagine that no one has taken part in more record lengths than Mr. 'Bob' Pye. A number of them still stand, including the 15,312 Cambridge Surprise Maximus at Ashton-under-Lyne which few will deny to be the finest performance among all the long lengths that have yet been rung. Other records in which Mr. Pye has taken part have been the 14,112 of London Surprise Major, at King's Norton, Worcester-shire; 10,440 Cambridge Surprise Royal, at Walthamstow, Essex; 15,264 Bristol Surprise Major, at Hornchurch, Essex; and 11,111 Stedman Cinques, at Birmingham. He also rang in the 18,027 Stedman Caters at Loughborough in which performance one band 'rang the clock round' for the first time, the peal taking 12 hours 18 minutes. Another peal which was a record at the time was the 15,072 Double Norwich Major at Erith: while among his handbell peals Mr. Pye called the Stedman Cinques record of 6,063.

With his two brothers, William and Ernest, and Mr. W. Keeble he rang some of the earliest Surprise peals on handbells, including one of Superlative non-conducted, and the first of New Cambridge, London and Bristol, while he also rang in the first peal on the sea—a peal of Stedman Caters rung between Dublin and Holyhead.

Mr. Pye was born at Chadwell Heath, where he still lives, and rang his first peal on March 30th, 1891, at Romford, which is his 'home' tower. His first peal as conductor was Grandsire Triples, rung at St. Mary's, Walthamstow, on December 31st, 1894. He, of course, rang an enormous number of peals under the conductorship of his famous brother, William, but he has himself called 361. Of his total, 177 peals have been rung on handbells, of which he has conducted 25. His peals have been rung in no fewer than 539 towers in 56 counties in England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales, and we believe he holds another record in the number of peals of Surprise Maximus, of which he has rung well over 80.

Mr. Pye has represented the Essex Association on the Central Council since 1918, and serves on the Peals Analysis and Records Committee.

Next week: Mr. Nolan Golden.

DEATH OF MR. WALTER HUGHES.

LOSS TO LANCASHIRE ASSOCIATION.

By the death of Mr. Walter Hughes, the Liverpool District of the Lancashire Association has sustained a great loss. Mr. Hughes had been for upwards of 50 years a regular Sunday service ringer at Garston, and in the tower of that church he will be greatly missed. Mr. Hughes was formerly for 27 years secretary of the Liverpool Branch of the Lancashire Association. He was also a member of the Ancient Society of College Youths.

Mr. Hughes was 73 years of age and had rung 73 peals, the major portion being for the Lancashire Association. Most of his peals were in the standard methods, and many of them he conducted.

He died on January 31st and was interred in Garston Churchyard on Thursday, February 3rd, when there were present at the graveside many of his old ringing friends in addition to the family mourners. Mr. Hughes leaves a widow and grown-up family, two of his sons being ringers.

In the evening after the funeral a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples was rung at Garston Parish Church with the bells half-muffled as a last tribute of respect: J. Hooley 1, E. Breeze 2, G. Hislop 3, T. Jennion 4, G. R. Newton (conductor) 5, J. W. Meldrum 6, E. Caunce 7, W. E. Hughes 8.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

SUCCESSFUL MEETING AT GOUDHURST.

There was an excellent attendance at the quarterly meeting of the Tonbridge District of the Kent County Association, held at Goudhurst on February 5th. Ringers were present from Brasted, Hawkhurst, Horsmonden, East Peckham, Penshurst, Sevenoaks, Tunbridge Wells, Chislehurst, Staplehurst, Lamberhurst, Tenterden, Sturry, Hartfield, Uckfield, Coleman's Hatch, East Grinstead, All Saints', Hastings, Biddington and St. John's, Croydon.

The bells, a fine peal of eight, having a tenor weighing 27 cwt., were kept going during the afternoon and evening in the following methods: Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Bob Major, Oxford Treble Bob Major, Kent Treble Bob Major, Double Norwich Court Bob Major and Cambridge and London Surprise.

Service was conducted by the Rector of Goudhurst, the Rev. W. Britton. Tea was partaken of in Ye Olde Starre and Crowne Hotel, to which about 50 sat down.

The business meeting was presided over by Mr. E. H. Lewis. Eighteen new members were elected, several of whom were under 16 years of age.

Mr. T. Saunders, of East Peckham, district representative, read a report of the central committee meeting, which was held at Maidstone. The members stood for a few moments in silence as a mark of respect to the late Canon Cropper, of Penshurst, who had been an honorary member of the association for many years.

The district secretary, Mr. Alec Richardson, read a report from Brasted of the ringing done there in 1937. It contained details of 36 720's rung at various times, in 16 different methods. The secretary asked that other towers should send in similar reports, as it would help him, when giving his report at the end of the year, to be more accurate.

Mr. E. J. Ladd, the Ringing Master, gave a recital of bell records on a portable gramophone. The records were kindly lent by Mr. E. W. Housden, secretary of the Tunbridge Wells band.

A course of Grandsire Caters was rung upon handbells.

ESSEX ASSOCIATION.

A MEETING AT EARLS COLNE.

The Northern Division of the Essex Association held a very enjoyable meeting at Earls Colne, when 50 ringers and friends, representing 21 towers, attended. The bells were going soon after 3 p.m., first for a wedding and then for the meeting, and continued, with the exception of a break for service and tea, until 9 p.m. Service was conducted by the priest-in-charge (the Rev. C. A. Gibbons). He welcomed the ringers, and said how very pleased he was to have a meeting of the Essex Association at Earls Colne during his brief stay there.

An excellent tea was prepared in the Co-operative Hall by the wives of the local ringers. Before the business meeting the District Master (Mr. F. Ridgewell) asked the ringers to stand for a few moments in silence in memory of a very old respected member, Mr. W. Elliott, of Kelvedon, who passed away on December 24th. The District Master presided at the meeting, supported by the district secretary (Miss H. G. Snowden), and the general secretary (Mr. L. J. Clark) was also present. Mr. Charles Pope, of Colne Engaine, was elected a ringer member, and Halstead was chosen for the next meeting on April 2nd.

Thanks were accorded to the Rev. C. A. Gibbons, to the organist (Mr. R. Wenden), and to the ladies who had kindly served the tea.

Methods rung during the afternoon and evening were Bob Major, Double Norwich, Grandsire, Stedman, Kent Treble Bob, Superlative, Cambridge, London and Bristol Surprise Major.

HALF-PEALS.

A NEW LIGHT RING IN OXFORDSHIRE.

On the new ring of six bells at Tetsworth, Oxfordshire, with a tenor of only 4½ cwt., a half-peal of Grandsire Doubles was rung on February 1st in honour of the donors, Messrs. A. and J. Hutt. It was rung in 1 hour 40 minutes by a band of Tetsworth Sunday service ringers: John Stone 1, Richard Lindars 2, Alfred Peasley 3, James Hedges 4, James Gibbard (conductor) 5, Thomas Lay 6.

As a 21st birthday compliment to Miss Winifred Berry, daughter of Mr. William Berry, a half-peal of Bob Minor (2,520 changes) was rung at the Parish Church, Middleton, Lancs, on Saturday, January 29th. It had been intended to attempt a peal of Grandsire Triples, but the band met short. The ringers were William Berry (conductor), Miss Hester Bell, Miss Rose A. Bell, T. K. Driver, H. Hamer, J. H. Barlow and A. Ogden.

DEATH OF A SUFFOLK RINGER.

Mr. Henry Philips, of Kelsale, Suffolk, passed away on February 2nd, after a painful illness of nearly five years, patiently borne. Deceased, who was 66 years of age, had been a safe ringer and splendid striker.

Among those who attended the funeral were old ringing friends, Mr. F. Page, of Kelsale, and Mr. F. Watling, of Saxmundham. Many beautiful wreaths were sent.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION. NORTH AND EAST DISTRICT ANNUAL MEETING.

Anticipating a Revision of Rules.

Upwards of 70 members attended the annual meeting of the North and East District of the Middlesex County Association and London Diocesan Guild, which was held at St. James', Clerkenwell, on Saturday, January 29th. At the time advertised for ringing to begin quite a large number were present, and there was no delay in raising the bells and getting on with the ringing.

Service was attended by a large congregation, welcomed by the Vicar (the Rev. C. L. Parker). In his address he took for his text one that is quite frequently used at ringers' meetings, 'In that day shall there be on the bells of the horses, holiness unto the Lord.' The address itself, however, was quite apart from the all too frequent style.

A feature of the service was the hymn, 'Hark, hark, my soul,' sung as a solo by Miss G. Bailey, one of the local ringers.

After service, tea was served in the crypt. About 70 sat down to an enjoyable meal, at the conclusion of which Mr. G. W. Fletcher (vice-president of the district) thanked the Vicar for his address and for allowing the meeting to be held. They were also, he said, very pleased to see Mrs. Parker present amongst them.—The Vicar, who said he regretted that he had to leave so early, once again welcomed the association to Clerkenwell, and wished everybody success in their ringing.

TRIBUTE TO THE LATE MR. W. H. HOLLIER.

The business meeting followed. Before the reading of the minutes, the Chairman (Mr. Fletcher) called attention to the loss sustained by the association through the death of Mr. W. H. Hollier. He asked Mr. C. T. Coles to say something about Mr. Hollier's work.

The hon. secretary said that Mr. Hollier was a member of the association for some years before the war, but it was after the war, on rejoining, that he put in many years of work. He was hon. secretary of the South and West District for some ten years, and was mainly responsible for the augmentation of Isleworth bells. On giving up his secretarial duties he became hon. treasurer of the association, which position he occupied until his death. From 1924 he had represented the association on the Central Council, on which body he was convener of the Peal Records Committee.

As a mark of respect all present stood in silence for a few moments.

The usual business of the meeting was then proceeded with. First, twelve ringing members were elected, and the Rev. C. L. Parker, Vicar of Clerkenwell, elected as an hon. member.

The whole of the retiring officers were re-elected, on the understanding that in the event of the new draft rules, which were to be discussed at the annual general meeting, and which provided for the appointment of a general secretary, being passed, it might be necessary for the present assistant secretary to take over the duties of hon. secretary of the district.

The balance sheet was presented by the hon. treasurer (Mr. W. H. Oram). It showed a satisfactory state of affairs, there being a balance on the year's working of £4 8s. 1d., with total assets to the value of £113 4s. 2d.—The balance sheet was adopted.

The Chairman said that since their last meeting several members had been lost by death. The Rev. H. S. T. Richardson, of Hereford, died on December 23rd; Mr. W. Webb, of Finchley, a foundation member, died on December 25th, at the age of 81; whilst Mr. J. J. Parker, the famous composer of peals, died on December 21st, aged 84. They also deplored the death of Mr. H. E. Newton, churchwarden at St. John's, Leytonstone, who was a very enthusiastic supporter of the William Pye memorial scheme.

Mr. Atkins spoke of the many years of work done by the late Rev. H. S. T. Richardson in proving the Treble Bob peal collection, which was a monumental task; and his good work for the Central Council was testified to by Mr. Fletcher, who is hon. secretary of the Council.

The regrets of all present at the loss of so many members was shown by a vote of sympathy being passed in the usual way.

DECREASED ATTENDANCES AT MEETINGS.

The falling off in the attendances at district meetings during 1937 was strongly commented upon by the hon. secretary. Mr. Coles said that it was fashionable in these days to speak plainly—he hoped he would be plain enough, without anybody having cause to take offence. The attendances at meetings last year had fallen off very considerably, the average being 33, against 48 in 1936. The secretary nearly always attended, so did the Ringing Master and other officers; they were expected to be present, and it was the duty of members to do their utmost to attend. If all members attended at least two meetings every year, what a difference it would make, and what encouragement it would give to the officers. Mr. Coles went on to say that there might be a cause of the decreased attendances, but the only possible reason he could think of was the 'special method' being unpopular, although there was no evidence to show that this was so. He, therefore, asked members for an expression of opinion.

Mr. A. J. Harding (Pinner) moved that the special methods be discontinued, on the ground that they kept learners away from meetings.—Mr. E. B. Hartley (Willesden) seconded.

Mr. Goodship (Harrow Weald) supported the special methods, Miss K. M. Bradford (Willesden) was rather against them, on the ground that very few members took the trouble to learn them.

RINGER DIES IN A WORCESTER BELFRY. COLLAPSE DURING PRACTICE.

Not often does a ringer die at his post, but such was the case on Tuesday, February 1st, when, during the combined practice of the St. John's and Claines bands at St. John's, Worcester, Mr. Charles J. Green passed away suddenly. Having just rung the treble to a touch of Grandsire Triples, lasting about ten minutes, he sat down, and, just as another touch had begun, collapsed and died.

Mr. Green, who was 69 years of age, had spent most of his life farming in or near the sleepy Worcestershire village of Berrow, and here, during the time he was churchwarden, he was instrumental in having three new bells and a new steel frame added, and the existing two recast. Mr. Green gave a large sum towards this object, which was to commemorate the Coronation of King George V.

In 1925 he retired and went to reside in Worcester, a year or two later joining the newly-formed Claines band soon after the augmentation of the bells from five to eight. Never a great ringer—probably because in the Berrow district he had had too few opportunities—when they did come in Worcester he was too old. He will best be remembered by those who knew him personally for his old-fashioned courtesy, his quiet and unassuming manner and for his keen interest in the art he was himself unable to master thoroughly. He leaves a widow, son and daughter to mourn their loss.

He was laid to rest in Pendock churchyard (parish of Berrow-cum-Pendock) on Saturday, February 5th, and the Worcestershire Association was represented by Messrs. G. E. Large (hon. secretary, Western Branch), E. Wilson, R. Woodyatt, D. R. Sayers, R. W. Sayers, R. C. Sayers, F. G. Yates, all members of the Claines band, who rang handbells over the grave, after which the bells of Berrow Church nearby were rung half-muffled by the same ringers.

Among the wreaths was one from Mr. E. P. Thomas (vice-president) and Mrs. Thomas, and another from the St. John's band.

On Monday evening, February 7th, a half-muffled peal of Oxford Bob Triples was rung at Claines by members of both St. John's and Claines towers, six of whom were with Mr. Green in St. John's belfry when he passed away.

FIRST QUARTER-PEALS.

YORKTOWN, SURREY.—On Wednesday, February 2nd, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples (1,260 changes): *V. Wilkinson 1, C. W. Denyer 2, F. Marchant 3, T. E. Denyer 4, †S. Beck (conductor) 5, H. Hunt 6, F. J. Ewens 7, †Ed. Hunt 8. * First quarter-peal. † First quarter-peal of Triples.

MAISEY HAMPTON.—On Sunday, January 30th, for morning service at the Church of St. Mary, a quarter-peal of St. Dunstan's Doubles, 1,260 changes (10½ six-scores): E. H. Pearce 1, J. E. Godwin 2, W. C. Cuss (conductor) 3, L. W. Cuss 4, W. A. Godwin 5, N. J. Pearce 6. First quarter-peal in this method and first attempt by all except the conductor.

Mr. G. L. Joyce, a visitor from Hornchurch, said that the decline in attendances was not confined to this association; it seemed pretty general. As regards special methods, he was generally in favour, provided that all who wished to ring the method chosen were given an opportunity to do so.

Mr. A. W. Coles (Master) supported the special methods. Other speakers included Mr. E. E. Holman (Walthamstow); Miss B. Hart, (Kilburn), who wanted easier methods; and Mr. E. M. Atkins (Kilburn).

Ultimately the proposal to discontinue the methods was defeated by a fairly big majority.

As is generally known amongst members, a proposal to make a drastic revision of the rules will come up for discussion at the annual general meeting on April 30th. In the meantime, to enable the rules, if passed, to come into operation on January 1st next, it was necessary to pass the following resolution, which had also to be passed by the other district of the association to enable it to become effective: 'This annual meeting of the North and East District resolves that, in the event of the revised rules being adopted by the annual general meeting, the funds of the district shall be transferred to the central fund of the association as from January 1st, 1939.'

This was proposed by the hon. secretary, seconded by Mr. G. B. Lucas and carried.

The sum of £2 2s. was voted to the St. George-in-the-East Bell Restoration Fund, the hon. secretary stating that it was at this tower that his brother and himself learned to ring, and they hoped the money to rehang the bells would soon be raised.

The arrangements for the next meeting were left to the hon. secretary. Kent Treble Bob was chosen as the special method.

Edmonton was selected for the next annual meeting of the district.

The Chairman moved a vote of thanks, which embraced those who had helped in any way towards the success of the meeting. These were Messrs. W. Bailey and F. W. Sawbridge (churchwardens), Mr. Rideaux (organist), Miss G. Bailey and friends, who arranged tea, and Mr. R. W. Rixon, the local secretary.—This was carried with applause.

The meeting closed after a vote of thanks to the officers of the district had been moved by Mr. E. M. Atkins and carried by the meeting.

Ringings afterwards took place, ceasing shortly before 8.30 p.m.

WINCHESTER AND PORTSMOUTH DIOCESAN GUILD.*ISLE OF WIGHT DISTRICT.*Bell Rope the Clergy's Fishing Line.

The annual meeting of the Island District of the Winchester and Portsmouth Guild was held at Ryde on Saturday, January 29th, when representatives were present from the towers of Portsmouth Cathedral and St. Mary's, Portsea, Ryde, Newport, Carisbrooke, Ventnor and Godshill churches. The early afternoon was spent in ringing in the tower of All Saints' Church, placed at the disposal of the Guild by the Vicar (the Rev. Canon Moxon, D.D.), who subsequently conducted a ringers' service in the church. Mr. E. G. Weish was at the organ and the singing was led by a contingent of the choirboys, who were entertained to tea at the Welby Institute.

The annual meeting followed, with the president of the district (Dr. J. B. Williamson) in the chair.

The report of the hon. auditor (Mr. H. A. Phillips) showed receipts of £11 3s. 11d., including a balance of £5 5s. from the previous year. The expenditure included £2 10s. 5d. remitted to the general treasurer of the Guild, and a credit balance of £5 8s. 3d. remained.

Mr. H. P. James, the hon. secretary and treasurer, in his report, referred to a gratifying increase in the number of ringers attending the meetings, and thanked the president for his deep interest in the work of the district. The clergy who had allowed the ringers the use of bells and all who had in any way assisted in the progress of the district were thanked.

REVIVAL IN INTEREST.

The Ringing Master (Mr. H. Barton) reported that he was satisfied with the ringing he had heard in the Island churches. After giving a summary of the peals rung during 1937, the Master said he felt sure of a revival of interest in ringing.

Dr. Williamson was unanimously re-elected president.—In returning thanks, he referred to the fact that the clergy often complained if the bells of their tower were not rung for service on Sundays, and asked how often the clergy themselves visited the belfry when the ringers were there. He claimed that the bell rope was the clergy's fishing line and expressed the opinion that more frequent visits on their part to the belfry would create new interest amongst the ringers. He appealed to the clergy not to lose sight of the fact that a bell-ringer was a churchworker.

The officers were re-elected and cordially thanked for their services. Four new members were elected.

The meeting discussed and deprecated the use of amplified gramophone records in church towers, and passed a resolution in support of the protest against this practice, particularly in churches where bells are available.

The quarterly meeting is to be held at Godshill in April, with a by-practice meeting in March at Arreton and Newchurch, subject to permission to use the bells.

The meeting terminated with thanks to the Vicar, the organist and choirboys, and to the Portsmouth ringers for their interest. Further ringing in the tower and on the handbells followed.

NORWICH DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.*NORTH NORFOLK BRANCH OFFICERS.

The annual meeting of the North Norfolk Branch was held at Buxton on Saturday, January 29th. The bells of the Parish Church were rung to various methods from Bob Minor to London, York, Norwich, Cambridge and Beverley Surprise Minor, while on handbells Stedman Triples, Plain Bob, Double Norwich and Cambridge Surprise Major were rung.

The service was conducted by the branch chairman (the Rev. H. W. Benson) and the association's form was used.

Between forty and fifty members sat down to tea in the Parish Hall. At the business meeting, which followed, the Rev. H. W. Benson presided, supported by the Rev. E. W. Blyth (Rector of Northrepps), Mr. A. L. Coleman (vice-president), Mr. F. Tooke (branch secretary), Messrs. G. Bailey, W. Clover, W. C. Duffield and G. Mayers (members of the committee), and representatives from Avsham, Buxton, Cromer, Hevingham, Northrepps, Norwich, Scottow, Wiveton, Wroxham and Wymondham. Other branches were represented by Messrs. W. J. Lee and J. G. W. Harwood (chairman and secretary, East Norfolk Branch) and members from Acle, Gressenhall, North Elmham and Reedham.

The election of officers resulted as follows: Chairman, the Rev. H. W. Benson; secretary, Mr. H. Tooke; committee, Messrs. G. Bailey, W. Clover, W. C. Duffield, A. H. Holliday and G. Mayers. Messrs. G. Bailey and W. C. Duffield were re-elected to the Standing Committee of the Association. The Rev. Newton Kent and Mr. F. A. Bainbridge, of Scottow, were elected honorary members. The belfry elections of Miss Olive Lowe, of Scottow, and Mr. Fred Barton, of Buxton, were ratified, and the following new members were elected: Messrs. W. Abel, R. G. Durrant and C. H. Kiddle (Garveston) and G. C. G. Greenacre (Wroxham).

Mr. A. L. Coleman proposed a vote of thanks to the Rev. Benson for allowing the branch to visit Buxton, for the use of the bells and for conducting the service. Mr. Tooke proposed a vote of thanks to Mr. W. C. Duffield for all the work he had done in making the arrangements for the meeting.

The next meeting of the branch will be held at East Dereham on Saturday, April 30th.

GUILDFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.*COMING CHANGES AMONG OFFICIALS.*Diminished Membership Warning.

A falling off in the membership of the Guildford District of the Guildford Diocesan Guild was reported at the annual meeting by the district hon. secretary, Mr. G. L. Grover, who pointed out that if the district was to be as useful in helping bell restorations in the future as in the past, the membership must at least be maintained.

There was ringing during the afternoon at the Cathedral and S. Nicolas' Church, service being conducted at the latter by the Rector (the Rev. E. de G. Lucas).

The meeting was presided over by Mr. W. Harrison (vice-president of the Guild), and the following district officers were elected for the year: Ringing Master, Mr. C. Ernest Smith; hon. district secretary, Mr. G. L. Grover; hon. auditor, Mr. A. C. Hazelden. After a ballot Messrs. W. Cope and R. Whittington were elected on the Executive Committee.

Presenting the balance sheet, Mr. Grover said that the balance in hand for 1936 was £25 6s., and for 1937 it was £21 19s. Total receipts were £41 0s. 6d., which included £14 for subscriptions, and on the expenditure side the district meetings cost £1 12s. 3d., and there were grants of £5 to the new Cathedral bells fund, and £2 2s. to the benevolent fund, while £8 0s. 9d. had been remitted to the general fund.

The Ringing Master reported that during the year 31 peals were rung in the diocese. Of that number, 19 were rung in the district in seven towers, of which Guildford Cathedral headed the list with six peals. Coronation peals totalled four, rung at the Cathedral, Chiddingfold, Haslemere and Witley. Mr. A. H. Pulling headed the list of conductors of peals with 14 to his credit. Sunday service ringing had been well maintained, and at practically every tower in the district ringing for the national event had taken place.

On the whole, continued Mr. Smith, meetings had been fairly well attended, but one meeting, at Godalming, had had to be cancelled owing to the close proximity of its date to Coronation Day.

ANOTHER RING OF EIGHT.

Mr. J. S. Goldsmith said that it had been decided to rehang Ewhurst bells and augment them from six to eight. The two trebles were gifts, and the bells were being rehanged by the Barron Trust.

In his report, Mr. G. L. Grover said ten years ago there were 142 members, and during the eight years to 1935 the number rose to a peak of 171, but had since fallen to 145. In 1931 there were 30 hon. members; the number now was 10. There were seven towers in the district which did not contribute one member to the present total.

All but one of the proposed district meetings were held, and were fairly well attended, but one in particular could have been bettered. It was, however, said Mr. Grover, discouraging to lose touch with such towers as Merrow and Old Woking, which for years had contributed members to the Guild. The Guild subscribed £5 to the Cathedral Bells Fund, and a donation of £2 2s. was paid to the Benevolent Fund. During the last ten years the district had subscribed over £20 to various objects, principally restorations or installations, and, said the secretary, 'if we are to be as useful in the future in this direction as we have in the past, we must see that our membership is at least maintained.'

Mr. Grover said that the members would regret to learn that the guild secretary, Mr. J. S. Goldsmith, had decided that he could no longer undertake the secretaryship, and a sub-committee of the Executive Committee had persuaded him (Mr. Grover) to accept the office. That change had necessitated the Executive Committee finding someone to take up the duties of district secretary, and they had approached Mr. Cope, of S. Nicolas' tower. He had expressed his willingness to undertake the duties. He hoped the members would give Mr. Cope their support, and thanked all those who had supported him during the past nine years. Mr. Grover concluded by reminding the members that there were 164 bells in the district, and only 145 ringing members, and asked that this should be noted and the necessary action taken.

It was decided to hold district meetings in 1938 at the following places: Godalming, Bramley and Womersley, Pirbright, Old Woking and Dunsfold.

Nominations were received for guild offices as follows: Mr. G. L. Grover, general secretary; Mr. J. S. Goldsmith, vice-president; all the other officers were nominated en bloc.

Nine new members were elected to the Guild, and one life ringing member, Rodney Hesse, the 12-year-old son of Major J. H. B. Hesse (Master of the Guild).

Mr. C. Hazelden proposed a vote of thanks to all who had made the meeting a success.

After the meeting there was ringing at Shalford and S. Nicolas' Churches.

FENHAM, NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE.—At SS. James and Basil's Church, on Sunday, January 30th, a quarter-peal of Erin Triples (1,260 changes): J. Roach 1, C. E. Lawson 2, N. Paiman 3, E. Wallace 4, P. Wishart 5, T. W. Crowe 6, K. Arthur (conductor) 7, R. Crosby 8. This was the first quarter-peal in the method by all and on the bells.

MORE HONORARY MEMBERS WANTED. LEATHERHEAD DISTRICT ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual meeting of the Leatherhead District was held on Saturday, February 12th, and attended by members from seven of the eleven towers in the area and a number of visitors. The Rector (the Rev. G. H. B. Coleridge) having been called away from home by the illness of his son, the Rev. P. W. H. Isdell-Carpenter (curate) conducted the service and afterwards presided at the meeting.

The district balance sheet showed £6 5s. received in subscriptions from 61 ringing and two honorary members. A grant of £2 had been made to the new Cathedral bells fund £3 2s. 6d. remitted to the general treasurer. The balance in hand was £5 9s. 6d., compared with £6 7s. 4d. the previous year.

The hon. secretary (Mr. A. H. Smith), in his report, said they had finished the year with the same number of ringing members, but he hoped they would be able to increase the number of hon. members. They had fewer honorary members than any other district in the Guild.

During the year four peals were rung in the district, three of them for the Coronation. Among the peals were Oxford Bob Triples and Boveney Surprise Major rung for the Guild for the first time. The sum of £1 15s. was received from the collecting boxes for the Benevolent Fund.

The district officers were re-elected, with thanks for their services. They are Messrs. A. Harman, Ringing Master; A. H. Smith, hon. secretary, and W. J. Whiting, hon. auditor. Messrs. G. Marriner and W. J. Whiting were elected on the Executive Committee.

Commenting on the report, the general hon. secretary (Mr. J. S. Goldsmith) supported the appeal made by the district secretary for more honorary members. He pointed out that these could be best secured by the local ringers, because the personal touch was more effective than a formal letter from the district secretary. He asked them to do what they could in this direction in their own parishes, and not confine their efforts to the parson.

It was decided to hold meetings during the year at Banstead, Ockley, Ranmore (jointly with the Surrey Association), Ewell and Ashted, with the annual meeting at Leatherhead.

Mr. G. L. Grover was nominated for the office of guild secretary, and the other guild officers were renominated.

On the motion of Mr. A. Harman, seconded by Mr. F. G. Woodiss, a resolution was passed expressing regret at the coming resignation of the general hon. secretary, and thanking him for what he had done for the Guild. It also recommended that, in recognition of past and in anticipation of future services to the Guild, Mr. Goldsmith be elected a vice-president of the Guild.

It was decided to carry on the combined practices, with some variation of detail in the arrangements, and the meeting terminated with an omnibus vote of thanks to all who had contributed to its success.

Ringing on the ten bells at the Parish Church was enjoyed during the afternoon and evening and ranged from rounds to Cambridge Surprise Royal.

WREXHAM, NORTH WALES.—A quarter-peal of Stedman Triples on January 19th, to celebrate the marriage of Miss Virginia Stewart-Brown and Mr. Ian Edward Hargreave: A. Lea, sen. 1, E. Millington 2, P. Cross 3, J. Camper 4, W. Catherall (first quarter-peal as conductor) 5, T. Catherall 6, A. Lea, jun. 7, F. Mitchell 8.

'THE COLLEGE YOUTHS'

A History of the Society by J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE

'Mr. Trollope has achieved more than his immediate purpose of writing a history of the Society of College Youths. So closely has the guild been identified with English change ringing that its history is to a very large extent an account of the ancient sport of ringing developed into an elaborate art. . . .

DON'T SCRUB YOUR HANDS!

To many people, the problem of getting the hands really clean without harming the skin is a serious one. Grease and grime, which become deeply ingrained into the pores of the skin, are extremely difficult to remove, and ordinary washing with soap or even scrubbing will fail to remove them completely. Housewives, particularly, who complain that their hands get ruined by the nature of their work, will find the preparation called DERMAFOAM, a real "godsend." DERMAFOAM just smoothes away dirt and grease without effort. It gets right down into the pores and removes every particle of grime, leaving skin beautifully supple and healthy.

Men, too—when you've finished that dirty job on the car, DERMAFOAM will quickly banish all grease and oil from your hands. It acts almost magically—working under and around the nails and into every minute crease, removing all trace of dirt in a flash.

Engineers, Painters, Car Mechanics, Printers — everyone — will welcome DERMAFOAM, the modern method of cleansing and protecting the hands.

RINGING IN LONDON.

In his address to the members of the London County Association, at the service held in conjunction with their annual meeting, the Rev. F. L. Edwards referred to the difficulties of keeping church bells going for service ringing in the Metropolis, and the responsibilities of the ringing organisations in overcoming these obstacles. There are far too many silent bells in and around the city; congregations and ringers alike have gone. The outward drift of the population has emptied the belfries as it has emptied the pews. The churches within the city itself where service ringing takes place every Sunday could be numbered on the fingers of one hand, while in the fringe immediately surrounding it the position is little better. True, there are a number of churches where the bells are rung for service once a month, or so, but that is done, very often, only by robbing bands at more distant places and not always with a disinterested object.

The whole situation in regard to ringing requires a thorough investigation if any planned improvement is to take place. There is more overlapping of ringing organisations in and around London than anywhere else in the country, and less practical result; there are too many factions and too little cohesion; too much jealousy and far too little co-operation. While this state of affairs persists, there can be no hope of improving the position. In the early days of the mutually exclusive societies, and, indeed, down to well within the last one hundred years, ringing in London had little to do with the Church services, but the relation of ringers to the Church in these days has entirely altered the situation. Ringing should be done primarily as a service to the Church, and instead of rivalry among the ringing societies there should be a spirit of brotherhood which should unite them in a desire not only to organise ringing to the best advantage, but to plan for the future maintenance of the art in this, its earliest home.

First and foremost, the great need is more ringers, and what has been done at St. Lawrence Jewry and at Stepney should be possible at other churches. Material may be hard to get, but it can be found if the effort is made. It is true that no miracle can be worked in this matter, but a really amicable understanding between the half-dozen societies which cover Greater London might lead to a tremendous improvement. But these societies must first come together, meet on common ground and adjust those differences which unfortunately maintain something akin to a barrier between them. These 'differences' are, we are quite sure, very largely imaginary, or, if they have had any substantial foundation, the causes have long since disappeared. Outwardly among London ringers when they meet there is a display of friendliness, but beneath the surface in certain circles there is maintained a feeling which does not help towards unity in a cause which all should be striving to promote. The Rev. F. Ll. Edwards has given a call which London ringers as a whole should answer, and which they could answer effectively if they would.

HERTFORD COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

THE VOLUNTARY BELL FUND.

It has been decided to have a collection for the association's bell restoration fund at all future meetings of the St. Albans District. This decision was taken at a meeting at Harpenden, when four non-resident life members were elected and the meetings for the year were provisionally fixed.

Ringling during the afternoon was interrupted by a baptismal service. While this was in progress the ringers adjourned to the Parish Hall and made use of the piano, dart board and billiard table. Some seemed loth to return to the tower, but ringling was resumed until 5 p.m., when a break was made for tea and business meetings.

The next meeting will be held at Essendon with Northaw, if available, on February 26th.

BATH AND WELLS DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

NEW SECRETARY IN GLASTON BRANCH.

The members of the Bath and Wells Diocesan Association in the Jurisdiction of Glaston Branch held their annual meeting at Glastonbury on Saturday, January 29th. There was a fair attendance, and a service at St. John's was conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. L. S. Lewis (president of the branch).

The company were entertained to tea through the generosity of Miss Roche, of Chalice Hill, Glastonbury.

The business of the meeting followed, with the Rev. L. S. Lewis in the chair, supported by the hon. secretary and treasurer, Mr. F. D. Rickards (Bath), the Rev. W. M. K. Warren (Master of the association) and the Rev. C. L. Buckingham (Street).

The secretary presented the report and balance sheet for 1937, which was duly adopted.—The Rev. L. S. Lewis moved a hearty vote of thanks to Mr. Rickards for his services to the branch as hon. secretary and treasurer during the past 13 years, and this was carried with acclamation, Mr. Rickards responding.

The following officers were elected for the year 1938: President, the Rev. L. S. Lewis (Glastonbury); hon. secretary and treasurer, Mr. W. H. Marsh (Street); representative on the General Committee, the hon. secretary; Ringing Master, Mr. R. J. Webb (Wells).

It was decided to hold the next meeting at Pilton on the last Saturday in April.

Votes of thanks were accorded the Rev. Lewis for the use of the bells, the service and address, to Miss Roche for giving the tea, and to the local ringers.

Ringling took place during the afternoon and evening, and after tea some of the members went to St. Benedict's (6), Glastonbury, for a pull.

A 'whip round' for St. Andrew's, Northampton, bells resulted in the sum of 13s. 6d. being collected and forwarded to the fund secretary.

PEAL NOTES.*JANUARY'S 'HIGH WATER' LEVEL.

An exceptionally large number of peals were rung during January. Since the war, last month's total of 166 has, we believe, only once been exceeded, and that was in 1936, when 227 were rung, a number largely accounted for by the death of King George V.

In January, 1937, only 116 peals were rung, and in January, 1935, 124. In the year 1913, when the record number of 2,359 peals were rung in the twelve months, 168 peals were rung in January.

Last month there were four twelve-bell peals, 17 ten-bell, 82 eight-bell, 53 six and five bell, and 10 handbell peals. In 1937, the January figures were two twelve-bell, 8 ten-bell, 64 eight-bell, 36 six and five bell, and six handbell peals.

The first peal of Bob Major by Ronald Salter, one of Nottingham's promising youngsters, was rung for his birthday at St. Peter's Church on February 10th.

It is never too late—to begin peal ringling. On February 5th Mr. John R. Wilkerson, of Acle, Norfolk, rang his first peal (Minor in three methods). Mr. Wilkerson is 73 years of age. At the same time, Miss Joan Priest, also of the local band, rang her first peal, and another Acle ringer Mr. Denis Bayles, also took part.

LONDON SURPRISE ROYAL.

A peal of London Surprise Royal is still a rare event, but another was rung at Beddington on February 12th. Hitherto, we believe, the reports have stated which 'version' of the method has been rung—there is more than one—but on this occasion it is designated just 'London Surprise Royal.'

That may be as well, if there is complete agreement that this is the only version to be recognised by the name 'London,' but if there is still diversity of opinion it might be wise, for the sake of history, to say exactly which version of the method is rung when a peal is scored.

The number of methods in spliced Minor peals by the North Lincolnshire band is growing. Do they intend to rival the achievements of their friends at the other end of the county? On February 12th Mr. George Feirn called a peal in 34 methods, with 130 changes of method. It was the first peal in this number of methods by all the band and by the Northern Branch of the Lincoln Guild. It was rung at Dunholme. Mrs. Jack Bray was one of those taking part.

The arrival of a baby boy in India was celebrated by a peal at Eckington, Derbyshire. He is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Brearley, whose son-in-law and daughter, Sergt.-Instructor and Mrs. H. Laver, are living at Nowshera, in the North-West Frontier Province.

A wedding and two births were celebrated by a peal of Minor in three methods at St. Stephen's, Eastwood, Rotherham, on February 12th. A peal of Major had been intended, but the band met short. The events celebrated were the wedding of Miss Frey Shimmin, in Melbourne, Australia, the birth of a daughter to the Vicar of St. Stephen's and Mrs. Kennedy, and the birth of a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. G. Stephen Lee. Mr. Lee took part in the peal.

Among the birthday peals recorded this week is one rung at Great Holland, Essex, on February 12th, as a compliment to Mr. W. J. Nevard, of Great Bentley, on his 82nd birthday. Mr. Nevard took part in the peal and kindly entertained the band afterwards.

Mr. Alec M. Genery rang his 50th peal and Mr. Ralph Bird his 25th at Colne Engaine, Essex, on February 12th. They are both members of the St. Andrew's Guild, Earls Colne, and the peal was in five Minor methods. The report, however, has been sent to us without the name of the conductor. This we shall be glad to receive.

A peal of Grandsire Triples was rung on the back eight at St. Mary's, Nottingham, on February 12th, with the bells half-muffled for the funeral of Prince Nicholas (father of the Duchess of Kent), which took place in Athens.

Mr. Howard Howell called his first peal on February 17th. It was Stedman Cinques at Walsall, and it was the first time he had called any Stedman Cinques at all.

'FRANK.'

The peal of London Surprise rung at Earl Shilton on February 12th may rightly be described as the peal with the 'Frank' atmosphere. There were the two Coventry Franks and a Frank from Bath, and after the peal the band were joined by a Leicester Frank, not by name but absolutely by nature. His proper name is Fred, and by the time he had put over some of his sergeant-major stuff everyone present was as frank as it was possible to be. Mr. Joseph A. Fenton rang the 2nd. It was 26 years since he last rang a peal of London. He is one of those real old youngsters. One or two of the band were quite frank as to where they may be when Joe rings his next peal of London if a similar interval elapses.

The first peal of Yorkshire Surprise at Portsmouth Cathedral was rung on February 12th.

A birthday peal of Grandsire Caters at Dudley, Worcestershire, for Mr. Walter Farley, was rung on the 41st anniversary of Mr. Herbert Sheppard's first peal. Mr. Sheppard is the hon. secretary of the Dudley and District Guild, and he and Mr. John Goodman, who called the peal, have now rung 102 peals together. Ronald Goodman rang the tenor and 'completed the circle' in his home tower.

Cam Treble Bob Royal, one of the varieties which keeps the big bells out of the 'slow,' was rung at Prittlewell, Essex, by a mixed band of Essex and Kent ringers on February 12th.

Mr. Arthur Knights, of Chesterfield, rang his 600th peal on February 12th at Norton, Sheffield. He has been ringing and composing peals for something like 60 years, and his output of compositions, particularly of Treble Bob, has been prolific. The composition on this occasion, No. 381, was rung for the first time, and was made to fit the event—5,600 changes.

The peal was rung on the eve of the 90th birthday of the Rev. W. Upton Wooler, formerly Vicar of West Wycombe, Bucks, whose son, Mr. W. A. Wooler, took part in the peal. The band desire to thank the Rev. J. Stanton Pegge and Mrs. Pegge for their kind hospitality after the ringing.

A composition of Bob Major, by Mr. G. F. Woodhouse, was rung for the first time on February 12th at Bushey Heath. Mr. Woodhouse is the inventor of one of the two wonderful machines which can be used for change ringing. The other, invented by Mr. John Carter, is in the Science Museum at South Kensington. There has been a third, but that had to be scrapped.

The first peal on the bells at Holy Trinity, West Hill, Wandsworth, was rung on February 12th. Ringing at this church is very restricted, as it adjoins a hospital for incurables.

The peal was a birthday compliment to the conductor, Mr. Henry R. Newton, whose services to the College Youths and ringing in London extend over something like 50 years. A member of the old Rochester Row Surprise band, Mr. Newton has rung Southwark Cathedral 50 cwt. tenor to peals of Superlative and Cambridge Surprise Major, and the old 53 cwt. Bow tenor to London Surprise.

The silver wedding of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Bason, of Thetford, Norfolk, was celebrated by a peal of Kent Treble Bob Royal at Wisbech, which Mr. Bason conducted.

Mr. John Austin called a peal of Bob Major at Barnwood, on February 12th, to celebrate the diamond jubilee of the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association. His old friend, ex-Police-Sergt. Joseph Williams, took part in the peal. He is 85 and as keen as ever. Another of the band was Mr. Sydney E. Romans, Master of the association, who, like some of the others who rang, is growing old in the cause.

It seems rather remarkable that, with all the peals that have been rung at Surfleet, Lincs, including Stedman Caters and Cinques, a peal of Stedman Triples had not been rung on them until February 12th. But there it is. Some of the Guild Master's pupils rang their first peal in the method on this occasion.

SILENT BELLS AT ILSINGTON.*RINGERS' DISAGREEMENT WITH VICAR.

A ban placed on the old custom of ringing the bells at 6 a.m. on Christmas Day in the village of Ilsington, Devon, by the Vicar, has led to their silence since, except on New Year's Eve.

The matter was mentioned at the annual meeting of the parochial church electors, and Mr. S. Wills said it had always been a custom in most Devon parishes to ring the bells at 6 a.m. on Christmas Day.

The Vicar replied that he was not concerned about a custom unless it was a good custom. It did not seem a good custom for men to ring when there was no service and yet refuse to ring when there were services. He thought it true to say that some men rang church bells merely for their own amusement.

It rested with the Vicar when the bells should be rung, and he was not going to be dictated to in the matter. On Christmas Eve there was a service at midnight and another at 8 a.m. on Christmas Day, and there were people who attended those services who did not feel like being aroused at 6 a.m. by the ringers. They could have rung at the 8 a.m. service. The ringers were still at liberty to use the bells. He had no quarrel with them and he was prepared to meet them at any time.

Mr. S. Wills said some of the ringers had to be up at 4.30 a.m. in order to ring the bells at 6 a.m., and there was not much amusement about that. Some could not ring at 8 a.m., even on Christmas Day, because they had work which had to be carried out.

The Vicar said he had given his point of view, and there were other matters he could mention, but he did not think it was necessary.

The peal of Grandsire Triples rung at the Church of St. Mary-without-the-Walls, Chester, on December 31st last, was conducted by John Hayes, and not by William E. Fletcher, as printed in our report.

Another ringer to complete Kent Treble Bob from Minor to Maximus is Mr. H. T. Wilson, of Prittlewell. He rang the Minor on February 9th at Stanford-le-Hope, when the whole band rang their first peal of Kent Minor. It was rung as a welcome to the Rev. L. S. Bewers on his return to his home town as assistant curate, after having been at Prittlewell. Five Prittlewell ringers took part in the peal.

The local band at Compton Dando, Somerset, scored their first peal on February 9th, when they rang a peal of Grandsire Doubles. Three of the ringers scored their first peal and did so at the first attempt.

By a peal of Doubles in five methods at West Wickham, Kent, in 2 hours 34 minutes on February 10th, 17 minutes was knocked off the time of the previous quickest peal. The tenor is 13 cwt.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

The Rev. E. G. Benson has been elected hon. secretary of the Hereford Diocesan Guild in succession to the late Rev. H. S. T. Richardson.

A band of schoolgirls, whose ages range from 14 to 17 years, has been formed at Calverleigh, Devon. They are pupils at Ingleside School, and have made such excellent progress under the instruction of the Rector (the Rev. F. Carter) that they can ring Grandsire Doubles.

The bells at Calverleigh are a ring of six, with a tenor of 5½ cwt., rehung by Messrs. Taylor and Co. in 1936.

The Ven. Archdeacon of Stoke-on-Trent presided over a company of 118 at the first annual dinner of the North Staffordshire Association at Burslem on Saturday week. A report of the proceedings will appear in our next issue.

The death has taken place of Mr. W. A. Cooke, secretary of the band at St. Margaret's, Rainham, Kent, and churchwarden. A half-muffled peal of Grandsire Triples was rung there on February 12th as a last token of respect.

Mr. Cooke had taken part in many peals in the district, and as a member of the local band at Gillingham in 1893 he rang in the first peals of Cambridge and Superlative Surprise Major for the Kent County Association.

The address of Mr. J. E. Lewis Cockey, the new hon. secretary of the South and West District of the Middlesex County Association, is 16, St. Stephen's Road, West Ealing, W.13.

SHOULD BELLS BE RUNG BY NON-SERVICE RINGERS ?

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—Bearing in mind that the primary purpose of church bells is that they should be rung in the service of the Church, is it a desirable state of affairs that a number of 'free-lances,' who can be classed as non-service ringers, should be allowed to travel about the country seeking fresh towers and amassing peals solely for their own amusement?

One hears of ringers who will travel many miles for a peal, but make distance an excuse when it comes to the question of Sunday service ringing.

Cannot the Church authorities, supported by the tower captains concerned, check the activities of these undesirable 'free-lances,' who avail themselves of the privileges given to change ringers, yet fail lamentably in their first duty to the Church?

FREDERICK W. HOUSDEN.

St. Peter's, Tunbridge Wells.

BEDALE BELL BROADCASTS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I have just been listening to a disgraceful exhibition of ringing from Bedale Parish Church, Yorks. The rounds were very bad. The treble man hardly ever keeping his back stroke lead off the tenor, resulting in some difficulty in hearing the note of the tenor. When call changes were attempted, the bells were almost fired.

How long must the listening public be afflicted with this kind of ringing? We hear much in these days about the need for good striking in order to educate the non-ringer, and what I heard to-night was not good propaganda. If the tower is affiliated to the Yorkshire Association, the ears of listening Yorkshire ringers must have burned with shame, and if the tower is not affiliated, then it is time it was, so that some instruction can be given.

OLD-TIME CHIME MACHINES.

To the Editor.

Sir,—If you would be good enough to allow me space, I should be glad to appeal to your readers, in the hope of their being able to assist me in procuring a selection of photographs of tune-barrels belonging to old-time chime machines, of which many still exist, and for your courtesy I express my thanks.

FALSE PEALS OF BOB MAJOR.

To the Editor.

Sir,—I hope you can find space to insert this apology to all those who rang with me a peal of 5,072 Bob Major at Rawmarsh on May 30th, 1931. This has only recently been found to be hopelessly false (composed by A. Craven), and I am exceedingly sorry.

A. NASH.

Rotherham.

An error in the letter which we published last week with regard to Mr. Arthur Craven's false peals of Major ought to be corrected.

Apart from falseness of the course ends with Wrong lead ends, repetitions also occur in the 3rd lead of one course against the 6th lead of another, in the 4th lead of one against the 5th of another, and so on. Practically the whole of the 6.4.8 courses are rung backwards in the 4.6.8 courses.

LEADING CONDUCTORS—7.*NOLAN GOLDEN.

One of the younger generation of conductors—he is still in the 'twenties'—and one of the most active is Mr. Nolan Golden, of Norwich, who last year was elected hon. secretary and treasurer of the Norwich Diocesan Association, after having been hon. secretary of South Norfolk Branch since 1929 and of both the North and South Norfolk Branches since 1934. Mr. Golden spends nearly all his spare time in promoting the art of ringing in Norfolk, visiting towers and encouraging beginners, attending meetings—and just taking his peal ringing in his stride. He was born at Northrepps, near Cromer, and his first peal was rung on handbells, in his native village, on November 24th, 1924. It was a peal of Grandsire Doubles rung on five bells, to which Mr. Golden rang 2-3. On December 30th—five weeks later—the same three rang a handbell peal of Doubles in four methods, with Nolan Golden as conductor—a portent of the great ability which he has since shown.

It was not until August, 1925, that Mr. Golden rang a tower bell peal, his first being Kent and Oxford Treble Bob Minor at Denver, in the Ely Diocese. And then he did not ring another on tower bells until June, 1926, when he conducted a peal of Bob Minor at Wroxham, Norfolk.

Mr. Golden's peal ringing activities have ranged through all numbers of bells, although he has a preference, as most Eastern Counties ringers have, for even-bell ringing. Despite his numerous achievements, Mr. Golden has not kept a record of all his peals. His total, however, is approximately 380, of which 335 have been rung for the Norwich Diocesan Association. Of the Norwich peals he has conducted 259.

He has rung and conducted peals in ten counties, and last year rang 39 peals, of which he conducted 36. But in 1934 he conducted 56 peals for the Norwich Diocesan Association alone.

Mr. Golden has also devoted considerable attention to composition, and has produced a number of peals of exceptional merit. Indeed, among the peals he has conducted have been 8,096 and 11,264 Double Norwich Major, and 7,168 Superlative Surprise, all of them one-part peals composed by himself.

His peal ringing has been devoted in considerable degree to encouraging others, and among those who have taken part in them have been a good big sprinkling of 'firsts' of one sort or another.

Mr. Golden has been one of the representatives of his association on the Central Council since 1931.

BARNSELY AND DISTRICT SOCIETY.

The February meeting of the Barnsley and District Society was held at Sandal, when 30 members attended from Armley, Ackworth, Adwick, Cawthorne, Crofton, Earlsheaton, Felkirk, Horbury, Rothwell, Wath, Wagray and the local company.

The bells were rung in the afternoon and tea was served in the Parish Room.

The Vicar, the Rev. A. Walls, presided over the business meeting. South Kirby was chosen for the next meeting on March 12th, and four new members were elected.

Minor and Major were rung on the handbells, and the tower bells were kept going until 9.15 p.m. in a good variety of methods, ranging from Plain Bob to London Surprise.

A LONDON PEAL GOING AGAIN.

The bells at St. John's, Waterloo Road, where in days gone by many peals were rung, have been restored, and on Sunday evening, February 6th, 1232 Double Norwich Court Bob Major was rung: J. Euston 1, Mrs. Ellen E. Davis 2, H. Belcher 3, H. Hoskins 4, E. Pike 5, W. Hewett 6, R. Sanders 7, J. E. Davis (conductor) 8.

MR. NOLAN GOLDEN.

NEGLECTED LONDON BELLS.*REV. F. LL. EDWARDS ON RINGERS' RESPONSIBILITIES.

The duty of London ringing associations to do their best to supply bands to ring the bells of the Metropolis was referred to in the address given in connection with the annual general meeting of the London County Association and North Southwark Diocesan Guild, held on Saturday, February 12th.

Ringling took place in the afternoon at St. Olave's, Hart Street, St. Giles', Cripplegate, and St. Clement Danes', Strand. The service was held in the last-mentioned church, where the Rev. F. Llewellyn Edwards (hon. secretary of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild) addressed a congregation numbering about 70. He spoke to the ringers of the difficulty of obtaining a local band to ring the bells in the churches in the City of London, where there was no residential population from which to obtain ringers. It was the duty of the association and other similar societies in the London area to supply bands for these churches and to see that the bells were not allowed to fall into disuse and disrepair. Every peal of church bells had been solemnly dedicated to the glory of God, and it was a travesty to allow a peal to fall into disuse. This sometimes happened where there was a shortage of ringers, and the association could play their part in preventing it, by encouraging youngsters in the art of change ringing so that there would always be an adequate supply of ringers, even at those churches where the lack of residential population made it impossible to obtain a band locally.

After the service, and tea at a nearby restaurant, further ringing at St. Clement Danes took place until 7.15 p.m.

The business meeting was held in St. Clement Danes' Parish Room. The Master, Mr. T. H. Taffender, presiding. Five new members, including the Rev. F. Llewellyn Edwards, were elected and the election of five others ratified. The balance sheet for 1937, showing a small balance of income over expenditure, was read by the hon. auditor, Mr. A. H. Keighley, and was adopted.

The Master, in his report for 1937, revealed a very satisfactory position. Twenty-one peals were rung during the year, as against 16 in 1936, and 74 members had taken part in these, compared with 49 the previous year. Twelve members had rung their first peals and there were 34 'first peals in the method.' During the year 33 new members had been elected, this being an increase of 14 over the previous year. In commenting on the peal performances, the Master drew attention to the peal of Grandsire Triples conducted by Mr. Len Fox on May 1st, 1937, at St. Dunstan's, Stepney, when all the local band rang their first peal at first attempt—a splendid performance. The practices at both St. Clement Danes' and St. Mary's, Lambeth, had been well attended, but there was still room for improvement in the attendance for Sunday service ringing. The publication of the first report book had proved a success; the second was already on sale and it was hoped that it would be equally well received.

Eight members of the association had passed away during the year and the meeting stood in silence as a mark of respect.

The election of officers resulted as follows: Master, Mr. T. H. Taffender; hon. secretary, Mr. T. W. Taffender; assistant secretaries, Mr. N. H. Manning and Miss Olive L. Ashbrook; treasurer, Mr. E. A. Young; stewards, Messrs. T. W. Wyatt and P. Carter; trustees, Messrs. A. H. Keighley and F. E. Dawe.

Votes of thanks were accorded for permission to ring at St. Giles' and St. Olave's, to the Rev. F. Llewellyn Edwards, and to all those responsible for making the arrangements and helping at St. Clement Danes'.

At the conclusion of the meeting Miss Ashbrook congratulated Mr. T. H. Taffender on having completed 25 years as Master of the association. This statement was greeted with hearty applause from the members.

The handbell competition for the Dawe Cup took place immediately afterwards and concluded the evening. Bands from St. Stephen's, Westminster, St. Leonard's, Streatham, and St. Dunstan's, Stepney, competed, the cup being awarded by the judges to the Stepney ringers (Guild of Stepney Scholars), who rang a course of Bob Major.

A WEDNESDAY GUILD MEETING.

A very happy and successful meeting of the Wednesday Afternoon Guild of the Durham and Newcastle Diocesan Association was held at SS. Mary and Cuthbert's Parish Church, Chester-le-Street, on February 2nd, when members were present from North Shields, South Shields, Houghton-le-Spring, Durham, Fenham, Benwell and All Saints', Newcastle. During the afternoon and evening Bob Major, Grandsire Triples, Kent Treble Bob Major, Stedman Doubles and Triples were rung.

Tea was prepared in the Institute by the ladies, and a vote of thanks was accorded to the Rector, the Rev. H. S. Wilkinson, for the use of the bells and the Institute. The Rector, in replying, welcomed all visitors, as, he said, he was very keen on having the bells rung. He was pleased to see so many young men taking up the art.

The next meeting is to be held at Houghton-le-Spring on Wednesday, April 20th.

NATIONAL GUILD OF POLICE RINGERS ENJOYABLE VISIT TO NOTTINGHAM.

The annual meeting of the National Guild of Police Ringers was held at Nottingham on Saturday, February 5th, when members were present from the following forces: Metropolitan, Manchester City, Liverpool City, Leicester City, Birmingham City, Cardiff City, Bolton Borough, Grantham Borough, Reigate Borough, Northants County, Leicester County, Hertford County and Nottingham County.

Visitors began to arrive in Nottingham before 9 a.m. and assembled outside the Council House, whence they travelled by special omnibuses to the factory of Messrs. Player and Sons, where a party of 70 were shown over the cigarette-making department. They were delighted and, indeed, amazed with some of the things they saw in the course of the tour.

The next journey was a 'Trip to Jerusalem,' and for the benefit of those who do not know, this is alleged to be the oldest licensed house in England, complete with caves and museum. Most of the visitors enjoyed seeing the relics in this famous old building and saw all the premises, bar the residential portion, whilst others—to their satisfaction—saw all bar and nothing else.

A visit was then paid to St. Mary's Church, where some of the Metropolitan members were making good use of the bells. Various methods were rung, including touches of Grandsire and Stedman Caters.

BIG LUNCHEON PARTY.

Luncheon, to which 82 sat down, was served at the Milton Cafe, Milton Street, and the Guild here had the pleasure of welcoming Supt. G. W. Downs, M.B.E., Deputy Chief Constable of Nottingham City. Other distinguished visitors included Insp. R. Barnes (Nottingham City), Mr. R. Narborough (Nottingham), Mr. J. W. Jones (Cardiff), Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Perrins (Coventry), Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Dexter (Leicester).

Apologies for absence were received from Supt. W. Green (Deputy Chief Constable, Oxfordshire), Supt. A. Wiggins (Deputy Chief Constable, Berkshire), Supt. C. P. Hilton (Surrey), ex-Chief Inspector W. Bottrill (Metropolitan Police) and other Guild members.

After luncheon, Supt. F. R. Williams (Manchester), president of the Guild, extended a hearty welcome to Supt. G. W. Downs and other visitors, and in doing so said the Guild was breaking fresh ground in holding a meeting at Nottingham.

In replying, Supt. Downs said he had often heard the bells of St. Mary's Church and at times had not been favourably disposed towards them. Now that he had been enlightened with regard to what bell-ringing was, he felt sure he should be more in sympathy with them than had hitherto been the case.

During the afternoon Supt. Downs very kindly showed some of the visitors over the Guildhall, much to their delight. Another party visited the Council Chambers and also had a view of the quarter chiming bells and 'Little John,' the big bell, the fourth biggest and the one with the deepest tone in England. In the words of one of the party, 'the Council Chamber was simply magnificent.'

Some of the members returned to St. Mary's Church for more ringing and were delighted to see here Mr. O. J. B. Cole, Chief Constable of Leicester City, and Mrs. Cole. Mr. Cole has been an honorary member of the Guild since its inception and went up into the belfry to see the bells being rung. Various methods, including a course of Cambridge Surprise Royal, were rung during the afternoon.

A return was then made to the Milton Cafe, where 86 sat down to tea. After tea the guild president extended a very sincere welcome to Mr. and Mrs. O. J. B. Cole. Mr. Cole, he said, had shown exceptional interest in the Guild, and from time to time had granted facilities with regard to its members. In referring to Mrs. Cole, the President said it was the first time the Guild had had the honour and pleasure of having the wife of a Chief Constable present at any of its functions.

Mr. Cole, in reply, said he had always been most interested in the Guild. One reason was because the Guild had its inception at Leicester and another was that some of the members of the Leicester City Force were in some measure responsible for the Guild being founded. He had received a copy of the report recently printed. He complimented the secretary on this excellent report and the Guild on its sound position. He said he was getting to know more and more about bell-ringing, but the names of the methods rather confused him. What with 'Grandsire Triplets' and 'Bob Martins,' he continued, it's rather difficult.

Both he and Mrs. Cole were greatly interested in a course of Grandsire Triples rung on the handbells.

A SATISFACTORY POSITION.

At the business meeting which followed, Supt. F. R. Williams was re-elected president, ex-Chief Inspector W. Bottrill vice-president, Inspector H. J. Poole hon. secretary and treasurer, and Sergt. H. G. Jenney guild auditor. The committee were re-elected en bloc.

The secretary referred to the first printed report of the Guild, a copy of which was distributed to the members prior to the meeting. This covered the activities of the Guild since its inception in 1931. It also included peals rung by bands of police officers prior to the formation of the Guild and the name and address of each member. It should serve to create further interest in the Guild.

The balance sheet showed, at the end of December, 1937, a balance in hand of £12 19s. 1d., although a substantial amount of this had since been expended in printing the report.

NEW ASSOCIATION FOR HUDDERSFIELD DISTRICT. FORMATION AT ELLAND.

A very successful meeting of ringers was held at Elland on Saturday, February 12th. It was the outcome of a wish held by many local ringers for some time past to form a society to serve the many scattered towers in and around Halifax and Huddersfield, and out of a possible 24 towers there were 11 that were represented.

Ringings commenced early and a very gratifying number of learners took part in touches of Grandsire, Plain Bob and Kent and Oxford Treble Bob.

The business meeting took place after tea, with the Rev. T. Mathieson in the chair. He explained the object of the meeting, stating that it was the aim of the organisers to form a society on the lines of the many associations that existed throughout the country, giving as an example the flourishing Leeds and District Society.

After much discussion the proposal to form a society was made, and it was carried unanimously.

Officers were then elected as follows for the year: President, the Rev. T. Mathieson (Elland); Ringing Master, Mr. F. Rhodes (Rippondon); secretary, Mr. F. Linfoot (Elland); treasurer, Mr. W. Spencer (Heptonstall).

The day's programme was brought to an end by further ringing until nine o'clock, when a very happy and most successful meeting came to a close.

LINCOLN DIOCESAN GUILD

GAINSBOROUGH DISTRICT OFFICERS RE-ELECTED.

The annual meeting of the Gainsborough District of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild was held at Gainsborough on Saturday, February 5th. Members were present from Blyton, Burton-on-Stather, Holton-le-Moor, Lea, Misterton, Surfleet, Upton and Willingham, besides some of the local company, and Mr. O. Street, of Retford.

The Guild form of service was conducted by the Vicar of Gainsborough (the Rev. Canon G. E. A. Whitworth), who also gave a short address.

Some 30 members and friends sat down to tea at the Tudor Cafe, and the business meeting followed, under the chairmanship of Mr. R. Richardson, Master of the Guild.

The district officers were re-elected en bloc for the coming year. Mrs. C. H. Baker, of Gainsborough, was elected an honorary member of the Guild, and Mr. O. Street, of Retford, a non-resident life member.

The tower was again visited and the bells were kept going in a number of methods.

Twenty-seven peals have been rung for the Guild, including Grandsire Triples, Caters and Cinques, Stedman Triples, Caters and Cinques, Bob Major, Treble Bob Major and Royal, and Cambridge Surprise Major. The Guild membership at present is two honorary members and 87 ringing members.

After the meeting ringing was enjoyed on the ten bells at St. Peter's Church, and afterwards the visitors reassembled at the Nottingham City Police Recreation Rooms, Guildhall, for a social evening, the programme including a concert by the Nottingham City Police Concert Party. The company were shown various efforts to 'Blow the candle out' by impersonation of persons with funny faces, one of whom was the cross-eyed lady who was blowing where the candle was not. It is to be hoped that the lady impersonator in this case will not forget herself if ever she is called upon to blow a policeman's whistle for assistance. Even so, this may not prove a disaster, as the violent prisoner would undoubtedly become helpless from laughter.

There was also an exhibition of Grandma getting over the stile, and after many unsuccessful efforts, the poor old toothless lady decided to 'Get up (not out) and get under.'

Another amusing incident was with the conjuror, who was assisted by P.C. Frank Perrens and P.C. Jack Fiddler. The latter was fiddling the whole of the time and thought he had fiddled the conjuror into a corner by asking him to produce a 'joker' from his pocket. P.C. Fiddler had well shuffled the cards by dropping them on the stage. To 'Fiddling Jack's' amazement, and indeed, to the amazement of all, the worthy conjuror produced, not one, but about five 'jokers.'

During the interval sandwiches and refreshment were provided by the Nottingham City Police Athletic Club and served by members of the Nottingham City Police Wives' Association.

Before the close, Supt. F. R. Williams expressed thanks, on behalf of the Guild, to all those who had assisted in any way to make the day such a success.

Supt. G. W. Downs suitably replied on behalf of the Nottingham City Police.

This is yet another 'red letter day' added to the annals of the Police Ringing Guild. Apparently by now it is its own recommendation, as it is seldom one misses this annual event having once had the pleasure.

The final amusing incident was in the train returning to Leicester. Upon hearing the handbells, a stranger came along the corridor to the compartment door and said, 'You seem to be having a right time, are you Coventry supporters?' Coventry City had played Nottingham Forest that afternoon. Apparently he thought the ringers had no occasion to ring the bells on the ground, for Coventry lost, but were giving vent to their feelings in the train.

DEATH OF MR. FRANK SMITH.

A PROMINENT CUMBERLAND.

We regret to announce the death of Mr. Frank Smith on Saturday, February 19th, after a short illness. He had not been feeling well for some weeks and was admitted to Hampstead Hospital for observation only 10 days earlier. He succumbed to heart failure.

Born at Witney, Oxon, on January 1st, 1872, Mr. Smith was apprenticed in his native town to a coachsmith, and in his early 'teens was a member of John Monk's band at St. Mary's Church, ringing his first peal (Grandsire Doubles) there on March 30th, 1891. Much of his early ringing was done with the help of James W. Washbrook, Mark Woodcock, the Rev. F. E. Robinson and the Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn.

From Witney, Mr. Smith's work took him to Sleaford and Sheffield, where he rang with the local bands for a short time.

About 1897 he settled in Hampstead, and at once commenced ringing at Highgate and Star Street. He rang many peals with the late William Pye. Soon after his arrival in the London district he joined the Royal Cumberland Youths and was Master for one year. He represented the society on the Central Council from 1915.

Mr. Smith kept no record of his peals, but he had rung over 300 and conducted quite a number. Over 100 of these were Cumberland peals.

In 1914 he was employed at Warner's Bell Foundry, and, tower-bell ringing being restricted during the war, the opportunity of handbell peals was possible among the employees at the foundry. Many handbell peals were rung there after working hours by Messrs. Nudds, Wightman, White, Hunt and Smith.

Mr. Smith was one of the original band to start regular Sunday service ringing at St. Martin-in-the-Fields in 1916, and kept up his attendance until a few weeks ago.

His last peal was Stedman Cinques at Cheltenham on August 31st, 1929. He leaves in bereavement a widow, son and daughter. The funeral took place yesterday, the service being at Gospel Oak, and the interment at Highgate Cemetery.

CHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD.

INTRODUCTION OF 'CANNED BELLS' DEPLORED.

The annual meeting of the Macclesfield Branch of the Chester Diocesan Guild was held on Saturday, February 12th, at St. Michael's Parish Church, Macclesfield. Various methods were practised on the bells prior to and after the meeting, ranging from Bob Minor to Bob Major, Stedman Triples and Grandsire Caters.

At the meeting the chair was taken by the president of the branch (the Rev. N. Vesey, Vicar of Macclesfield).

The report for 1937 spoke of the poor attendances at ringing meetings held throughout the year, and the loss of Chelford from the Guild was regretted. The year had not been altogether successful.

The Chairman deplored the use in certain districts of gramophone records of change ringing, through amplifiers, to call people to worship, and hoped sincerely that the practice would not spread throughout the country.

This wish was endorsed by the meeting in general. A cutting from the 'Times' of a week or so ago was quoted to the effect that a deputation of Dorset ringers were to protest against this sort of thing, specially against the use in one of their own churches, which had adopted this scheme during the last few months.

The Chairman stressed the importance of combating this unfair competition with one of the oldest arts in the country.

The Rev. N. A. Vesey was re-elected president, Mr. J. Worth Ringing Master, and Mr. T. Taylor's name was put forward for election on the Council. Although Mr. J. Norbury was proposed as secretary and treasurer, a position he has held for many years, he stated that he wished to retire and that a younger man should be elected to this office.—It was then proposed that Mr. J. Tipper be elected, and this was carried unanimously.

Mr. Tipper accepted the position of secretary, but moved that Mr. Norbury be elected treasurer, so that his name should not be lost after so many years' faithful service.—This proposition was carried with cordiality.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION.*FOURTEEN MEMBERS ELECTED AT CANTERBURY DISTRICT MEETING.

A meeting of the Canterbury District of the Kent County Association was held at Faversham on February 12th. Good use was made of the ring of eight bells during the afternoon and evening, and the usual service was held in St. Saviour's Church, conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. P. A. L. Clarke (Rural Dean), who also gave a short address. The members were entertained to tea by the Vicar, who, with members of the local band, waited upon those present.

The business meeting followed, the chair being taken by the Vicar. Fourteen new members were elected from Faversham, Throwley, Eythorne, Birchington, Ospringe, Wickhambreaux, St. Alphage (Canterbury) and St. Dunstan's (Canterbury). Two towers were proposed for the next by-meeting, Goodnestone and Whitstable, the former tower eventually being selected.

The Vicar was cordially thanked for his kindness in allowing the members the use of the bells, for conducting the service, and for generously entertaining them to tea. Mrs. Birley was also thanked for presiding at the organ at short notice.—The Vicar, in reply, welcomed the association to Faversham and thanked them on Mrs. Birley's behalf.

Following handbell ringing in the hall, the members returned to the tower. Among the methods practised were Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Bob Major, Kent Treble Bob, Double Norwich and Cambridge Surprise.

The attendance was good in spite of the weather, twenty-one towers and four districts of the association being represented.

YORKSHIRE VETERAN'S BIRTHDAY.

Mr. George Halksworth, a Doncaster stalwart, has just celebrated his 72nd birthday. He commenced his ringing at the Parish Church there in 1890 and still regularly climbs the 137 steps to the belfry to take his part in the service and practice ringing.

Yorkshire is proud of this veteran. He has held various offices, and is still serving on the Management Committee of the Yorkshire Association, as well as being vice-president of the Doncaster and District Society.

To celebrate his birthday a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples was rung on Sunday, February 20th, before morning service: G. Halksworth (conductor) 1, E. Baldwin 2, J. Holmes 3, E. Stacey 4, W. E. Lloyd 5, H. Wagstaffe 6, R. Thompson 7, P. Dowe 8.

TWO METHODS—OR ONE ?

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—In the peal in 12 Minor methods rung at Hallaton, Leics., on Saturday, February 5th, I notice one 720 includes three 'methods,' Oxford Bob, Single Court and College Reverse.

In the C.C. Collection of Minor Methods, a plain lead of College Reverse is identical with a bobbed lead of Oxford Bob. This being the case, is College Reverse a method, or have these gentlemen rung a peal in only 11 instead of 12 methods?

Congratulations to them on attempting something above the usual seven.

VERNON TAYLOR.

NORTH STAFFORDSHIRE ASSOCIATION.*TWINS RECEIVE PEAL CERTIFICATES.

A meeting of the North Staffordshire Association was held at Longton on Saturday, February 5th. Thirty-nine members were present from Burslem, Brown Edge, Burton-on-Trent, Crewe, Cheadle, Draycott, Hanley, Kingsley, Leek, Longton, Lawton, Norton, Newcastle, Stoke-on-Trent, Tunstall and Wistaston.

A short service was held, at which the Rev. T. H. Brookes (Rector of Longton) officiated. He extended a hearty welcome to Longton, and hoped that all present would return to their towers and serve the church as faithfully as his own ringers at Longton did.

After tea at the Dorothy Cafe, a vote of thanks was proposed by Mr. A. D. Steel to the Rector and the ringers for the excellent arrangements made in connection with the meeting.—This was seconded by Mr. J. E. Wheeldon.

Mr. Edward Steele, leader of Longton band, expressed his gratitude in having four more members present than last year, and hoped Longton would become a very popular tower for meetings. It is 123 years since the bells were hung in the tower. Samuel Lawrence, of Shifnal, records having rung a peal of Grandsire Triples at Lane End, Staffs, on April 15th, 1816. It consisted of 5,012 changes, and the peal came round 'owing to an error of the conductor,' who was W. Jaegar. Lane End has since had its name changed to Longton.

Mr. J. H. Swinfield, of Burton, expressed his pleasure at being able to attend another meeting in North Staffordshire, as he always enjoyed the good fellowship which existed and was glad to see the number of young ringers that are coming along.

Mr. J. E. Wheeldon congratulated the band who rang the recent peal of Bob Royal at Leek, this being the first peal of Bob Royal rung by the association.

Two peal certificates were presented, viz., to W. J. Carter and H. Carter, both of Longton, who are twins.

One new member, Mr. R. Pounds, from Stoke-on-Trent, was elected.

DON'T SCRUB YOUR HANDS!

To many people, the problem of getting the hands really clean without harming the skin is a serious one. Grease and grime, which become deeply ingrained into the pores of the skin, are extremely difficult to remove, and ordinary washing with soap or even scrubbing will fail to remove them completely. Housewives, particularly, who complain that their hands get ruined by the nature of their work, will find the preparation called DERMAFOAM, a real "godsend." DERMAFOAM just smoothes away dirt and grease without effort. It gets right down into the pores and removes every particle of grime, leaving skin beautifully supple and healthy.

Men, too—when you've finished that dirty job on the car, DERMAFOAM will quickly banish all grease and oil from your hands. It acts almost magically—working under and around the nails and into every minute crease, removing all trace of dirt in a flash.

Engineers, Painters, Car Mechanics, Printers — everyone — will welcome DERMAFOAM, the modern method of cleansing and protecting the hands.

DERELICT BELLS.

A Consistory Court at York has had before it an application for the disposal of a peal of six bells, which formerly hung in a church in that city, but which has now been demolished. At Chester it is sought to dispose of another ring of bells which have never been hung for ringing in the present tower. In London, the bells of All Hallows', Lombard Street, will have to find another home. Ringers will watch the ultimate fate of these bells with interest, and will be gratified with the attitude taken by the Chancellor of the diocese of York. In the case before him permission was sought to remove the bells to a church in Middlesbrough when the tower is completed, and this application will ultimately be given effect to if no evidence is forthcoming that the public object to having the bells set up among them. The Chancellor is anxious not to have them transferred to a place where they will not be used. Moreover, his opinion that the bells should be moved as a complete ring and not dispersed as single bells to different churches is one which we hope will be accepted everywhere where peals are, for any reason, to change their abode.

In the case at Chester, the proposal is to sell the bells for the benefit of the endowment fund. As four of them have stood silent on the window sills of the belfry for fifty years, and there is no likelihood of their being hung for ringing where they are, we hope they will find a parish ready to purchase them and use them for the purpose for which they originally found their way to Chester. That, indeed, we think, should be a condition upon which the church is permitted to dispose of them. It would be a great pity if they were merely sold as 'scrap,' and we hope the resolution of the Chester Guild on this matter will be given due weight. The future of All Hallows' bells is not yet settled, as far as we are aware. The hope is that, like those of St. Andrew's, Wells Street, they may be taken intact to some other tower where they can be made full use of.

Perhaps it would be a good thing if some of the other peals about the country, which have been allowed to become derelict, could be moved to other churches where they would be better appreciated. It is curious that bells, although sometimes the most expensive furniture of the church, are often the most neglected. There was never a time when so many new bells were being placed in churches, and yet there are a very large number of instances, particularly in cities and large towns, where peals hang uncared for and unring. In these churches one bell would suffice to comply with the rubric, and, although it may seem heresy to suggest it, it might be a good plan to transfer some of these unused bells to other churches who desire peals but cannot afford to install them. But, no doubt, if that were seriously suggested the owners of the silent bells would be the first to raise objection.

GUILDFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

RINGERS CONDUCT SERVICE.

The Chertsey District of the Guildford Diocesan Guild had a representative attendance at the annual meeting at Chertsey on Saturday. The district is not strong numerically, but the 25 district ringers who put in an appearance covered something like 75 per cent. of the membership in the area. This part of Surrey has never shown any real general interest in any ringing organisation, so that the attendance at Chertsey was a pleasing response.

The ringing during the afternoon and evening covered most of the common ground between rounds and Cambridge Surprise, but no one wanted long touches, for visitors found that the back bells needed a considerable expenditure of energy to 'place' them.

Through some misunderstanding neither of the parochial clergy was present to conduct the usual service, but the organist was in attendance, and the members, therefore, sang two hymns, a lesson was read by Mr. C. Hazelden and the special prayers in the Guild's service form were read by the general secretary.

After tea in the Parish Hall, the general secretary presided over the business meeting and declared the following district officers duly elected (there having been no other nominations for the respective posts): Ringing Master, Mr. J. B. Hessey; hon. secretary, Mr. F. E. Hawthorne; hon. member on Executive Committee, the Rev. F. A. Woodard (Horsell). Messrs. W. Massey and E. Morey were elected by ballot to serve on the Executive Committee.

Mr. W. Simmons, retiring Ringing Master, presented a report, in the course of which he said interest was spreading in the district, there being signs of life at Horsell and Otlands. Speaking generally, he said he would like to see a greater improvement in striking before pushing on to higher methods.

The hon. secretary reported a slight increase in the attendance at district meetings. If it was maintained in the coming year he would consider his work well worth while, but, if not, he was afraid some drastic measures would have to be taken. The number of paid up members showed a slight decrease, but they would have the pleasure of welcoming the Horsell band into the Guild this year. He urged the members to come to the meetings and so advance themselves, at the same time helping weaker brothers over the stile.

Mr. Hawthorne expressed regret at the coming retirement of the general secretary. They would be sorry to lose his services, but the Guild would be fortunate to secure the services of Mr. G. L. Grover.

The balance sheet, which was adopted, showed £3 17s. received from subscriptions and a balance carried forward of £1 18s. 7d., a reduction of 8s. 6d. on the year.

It was resolved to hold district meetings at Ottershaw, East Molesey, Weybridge, Esher and Chertsey, and joint meetings at Kingston, with the Surrey and Middlesex Associations, and at Egham, with the Surrey and Middlesex Associations and Oxford Diocesan Guild.

Messrs. W. Tucker and H. Kingston, of Ottershaw, were elected members, and one member from Weybridge was re-elected.

Mr. G. L. Grover was nominated as general hon. secretary of the Guild, and Mr. J. S. Goldsmith as a vice-president. The other retiring officers were renominated en bloc.

A vote of thanks to the chairman, to the Vicar for the use of the bells, to the organist, to Mr. Hessey for making the arrangements, and to the Chertsey ringers was carried by acclamation, on the motion of Mr. Hawthorne, seconded by Mr. H. J. Chaffey, the latter paying a tribute to the services rendered to the Guild from its formation by the retiring general secretary.

After discussion, a sum of 10s. was voted to the restoration of Walton tower, and 3s. 9d. was collected for the Northampton Fund.

PEAL NOTES.

A GOOD RECORD.

A band of Sunday service ringers rang a peal of Stedman Cinques at St. Martin's Cathedral, Leicester, on February 17th, as a farewell to the Provost (the Very Rev. F. B. Macnutt), looked upon as 'Father' of the bells, who has gone to Canterbury Cathedral.

The strength of the company at Leicester Cathedral can be gauged from the fact that this peal band included eight members who could not be found a rope in the first peal on the bells on Coronation Day, in which, also, the ringers were regular Sunday service men. Twelve and eight are twenty—Sunday service ringers in one tower who have rung a peal of Stedman Cinques. That, by any reckoning, is a good record.

A ringer who had never previously been into a twelve-bell tower came at short notice on February 19th to ring the tenor to a peal of Stedman Cinques at West Bromwich. Not many peals are rung in these days at West Bromwich. The bells are packed closely in the tower and the ringers have little elbow room.

The first peal of Maximus at Trowbridge, the first in Wiltshire and by the Salisbury Guild, was rung on February 23rd. There were nine 'first peals of Maximus' among the band, and special mention should be made of Harold Smith, who, 18 years of age, had previously only rung two peals of Minor. Great credit is due to him for the admirable way in which he rang and struck his bell.

Peals of Double Norwich Maximus are not frequently rung, but another was scored on February 19th at Ipswich, where the majority of the peals in the method have been rung. Four of the band, including Miss Sylvia Bowyer, rang their first in the method.

Miss Olive Ashbrook, of Isleworth, is the first lady to ring a peal at West Ham, where peal ringing has been done for something like 200 years. She took part in a peal of Kent Treble Bob Royal on February 19th, on the 42nd anniversary of Mr. George Hayden's first peal in the tower.

When a peal of Bob Minor was rung at Coppull, Lancashire, on February 19th, four local ringers rang the front four bells, and the other two came from Worsley. One of the latter, Mr. Eric Yates, who called his first peal, was formerly a ringer at Coppull.

The president of the Middlesex County Association, the Rev. W. P. Cole-Sheane, has been installed a Prebendary of St. Paul's Cathedral, and on February 19th members of the association rang a peal of Stedman Caters in his honour at Isleworth.

A QUESTION FOR THE CENTRAL COUNCIL.

Bedfordshire ringers scored the longest 'finished touch' by their association when they rang 7,560 of Minor at Biddenham in 4 hours 2 minutes on February 19th. It consisted of ten 720's in ten methods and a 360 of Plain Bob added at the end.

Now here is a reminder that the Central Council has got to do something about these 'odd bits.' Until last meeting they were permissible at the end of a peal of Doubles or Minor; then, for no very apparent reason, except that Mr. J. A. Trollope asked them to do so, they decided that these odd lengths should not be admitted in future peals of Doubles.

We have heard no logical reason why they should not be admitted, except that no one rings odd lengths of Triples, but what is sauce for the Doubles goose should be sauce for the Minor gander.

A peal in three Minor methods rung half-muffled at Desford, Leicestershire, in memory of Mrs. H. Geary, mother of one of the ringers, was the one hundredth peal together by Messrs. J. Bailey and W. R. Drage.

A new method, No. 22 in Mr. Gabriel Lindoff's collection, has been rung by the Helmingham, Suffolk, men, and named Clacton. The peal was rung at the first attempt, and was conducted by Leslie Brett on February 16th. The method belongs to the Bristol group.

Some people's enthusiasm knows no bounds—they will even go without dinner to ring a peal. Alan Andrews, of Thorington, Essex, did this on February 6th, and that after having ridden a push bike about 25 miles to Ashbocking! And after the peal he went to St. Mary-le-Tower, Ipswich, to ring for evening service—still without his dinner.

The name of the ringer of the tenor in the peal at Bushey Heath on February 12th should have been given as Frederick W. Alloway.

Mr. George Wightman rang his 300th peal when he called a peal of Kent Treble Bob Major at Framsdon, Suffolk, on February 14th.

To welcome the new Vicar, the Rev. H. S. Scott, to Clive, Shropshire, on February 12th, a peal of Minor in six methods was rung on the heavy ring of six. The tenor turns the scale at 25 cwt. and the peal took 3 hours 31 minutes.

By ringing the treble to the peal of Stedman Triples at Measham on Saturday, February 12th, Mr. J. W. Cotton 'completed the circle' at the second tower within the Burton District of the M.C.A. The peal was also a noteworthy performance for Mr. A. Ballard and Mr. F. K. Measures, who rang their 150th peal and 25th peal respectively.

Mr. Harold Judd 'completed the circle' at Scunthorpe, Lines, when he rang the 7th to a peal of Grandsire Triples on February 15th.

Mr. Walter P. Whitehead rang his 150th peal as conductor at South Wigston, Leicestershire, on February 17th, when he called a peal of Stedman Triples, in which Mr. Harold Kilby made his first attempt for a peal.

The first peal in six Minor methods on the bells at Bergh Apton, Norfolk, was rung on February 17th.

In interesting peal of Spliced Superlative and Cambridge Surprise Major was rung at Privett, Hants, on February 19th. It was not only the first peal of Spliced Surprise in the county and by the Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild, but it is arranged on a new plan, by Mr. J. Topp, of Portsmouth.

There are long and short courses in the peal, and the only bobs are at Before and Home. This omission of calls at Middle and Wrong cuts out the necessity of changing methods at a bob. Another advantage of the arrangement of the methods is that any peal of Superlative not having course ends with the bells reversed in 5-6 can be rung:—

24653	—	—	These 9 courses repeated.

Courses containing bobs Before must be rung S.C.C.S.; the other courses S.C.S.C.S.C.S. The peal, with 114 changes of methods, contains 2,752 Superlative and 2,304 Cambridge.

Handbell peal ringing is spreading in Lincolnshire. We have recently published peals showing that quite a number of members of the Lincoln Guild have been devoting a good deal of attention to it. Now we print a record of a peal of Minor showing that the 'fever' has caught others.

Three ladies rang in a peal of Bob Minor at Bramford, Suffolk, on February 18th. Mrs. Leslie Wright, ringing the treble, scored her first peal at the first attempt and her husband his first peal away from the treble. The peal was a wedding compliment to their uncle, Mr. H. A. Wright.

Members of the Sunday service band at Bridgnorth, Shropshire, rang a peal of Stedman Triples on February 19th in honour of the birthday of Mr. H. G. Thomas, who took part, and to Mr. John Overton, the esteemed foreman ringer at St. Leonard's tower, who reached the advanced age of 87 years on February 15th.

Four members of Wiveliscombe, Somerset, band rang their first peal of Stedman, when they took part in 42 six-scores of Doubles at Huishchamflower on February 17th. The band was made up by two ringers from Milverton. It was the first peal of Stedman on the bells.

PROPOSED SALE OF CHURCH BELLS.*ACTION OF A CHESTER PARISH.

The parochial meeting of Holy Trinity Church, Chester, decided to apply for a faculty to sell the six bells in the church tower.

The Rev. J. R. Beresford (Rector), who presided, said there were six fine bells in the church tower, which had never been hung, and were never likely to be hung in the tower, because it had not been built to carry the vibration of such heavy bells. They could not sell them without a faculty, and that would not be readily given. The Church Council, however, has passed a resolution that the question of the disposal of the bells should be referred to that meeting, and recommended that they apply for a faculty for their sale. If it was the desire of the meeting to do that, he suggested that the money obtained from the sale should be put to the Endowment Fund.

The meeting decided that the faculty should be applied for.

RINGERS WANT THEM PUT TO PROPER USE.

The matter came up for discussion at the meeting of the Chester Branch of the Chester Diocesan Guild on Saturday week.

Mr. J. W. Clarke, the branch secretary, said the bells were cast by the famous firm of Abram Rudhall, of Gloucester, about the middle of the eighteenth century, and formerly hung, presumably as a ringing peal, in the old church. When this building was demolished they were preserved and hoisted to the tower of the present church. Only two of them, however, were hung, the other four being placed on the sills of the louvre openings, where they still remain. The weight of the tenor bell was about 9 cwt.

The meeting expressed the hope that if these bells, which had been within the City Walls for two centuries, must be sold, they would not be disposed of as scrap metal, but a purchaser could be found for them, who would put them to their proper use in a church tower.

The meeting was attended by some fifty members, who, after ringing on the Cathedral bells during the afternoon, attended evensong. Tea was served in the Refectory and the business meeting was afterwards held in the Parlour. Mr. H. A. Heywood presided.

The hon. treasurer (Mr. A. E. Richards) presented the accounts for the past year, showing that the financial affairs of the branch were in a sound condition. In his report, the hon. treasurer said it was gratifying to note that eight young ringers from the tower of St. Mary's-within-the-Walls had become junior members, thus setting a fine example for others to emulate. The recruiting of young members was necessary if the art was to be kept alive and flourishing.

It was decided that, subject to the agreement of the incumbents of the parishes concerned, the branch should hold meetings during the year at Tattenhall, Farndon and Christleton, in May, July and September respectively.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

On Tuesday evening the Ancient Society of College Youths did further honour to their late hon. secretary, Mr. W. T. Cockerill, when they presented him with a suitably inscribed gold watch.

To-morrow's meeting of the Southern District of the Worcestershire Association has been transferred to Hinton.

The Rev. Arthur Scott, M.A., president of the Lancashire Association, will be inducted as Rector of St. Luke's, Miles Platting, Manchester, on Saturday, March 26th, at 3.30 p.m.

Mr. William Keeble much appreciates the letters he has received from ringing friends. His address is Ward 1, Severalls, Colchester, Essex.

The bells of Burton-on-Stather in North Lincs have been increased to eight. They were dedicated on Sunday, and on May 9th there will be a ringers' opening.

A band ringing at Willesden had a bit of terribly bad luck the other day. They went for a peal of Spliced Surprise Major in nine methods, London, Bristol, Superlative, Cambridge, Rutland, Yorkshire, Ealing, Watford and Wembley, and rang what they thought was a really good peal. The composition was true, but in the calling the conductor transposed Cambridge and Yorkshire in one place, which made the peal false. He discovered this afterwards.

Something of the same kind happened when William Pye was calling a peal in many methods. He made a slip in the method, but when it was afterwards submitted to the composer it was found that in that case it did not affect the truth of the peal.

PEAL RINGING BY NON-SERVICE RINGERS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—Mr. F. W. Housden's letter, 'Should bells be rung by non-service ringers?' in your issue of Feb. 25th reminds me strongly of the political situation as it is to-day.

Like one of our late Ministers, Mr. Housden is an idealist, and on paper his theory is admirable, but we must view it from the realist point and ask ourselves, 'Would it, if carried out, tend to raise the standard and good feeling now existing among ringers?'

The present state of the League of Nations is an example of trying to force ideals, and should a ringing association attempt to enforce Mr. Housden's policy the result would be, not progress, but stagnation.

Let us, therefore, continue to 'work together for good,' and in the end right will surely triumph.

F. S. MACEY.

Sutton Valence, Kent.

ONLY SERVICE RINGERS SHOULD BE MEMBERS OF ASSOCIATIONS.

Dear Sir,—I fully endorse what Mr. F. W. Housden has said. I would also suggest that such ringers ought not to be members of any association, unless they are members of a service ringing company within a five miles' radius of where they reside, ruling out, of course, places where bells are unringable.

G. S. LEE.

Eastwood, Rotherham.

Mr. Housden's letter was quite clear that he referred to peal ringing by 'free lances.' Through an error the word 'bells' was printed in the heading instead of 'peals'.—EDITOR, 'Ringing World.'

DEATH OF MR. W. T. PEGLER.

FORMER MASTER OF NORTH WALES ASSOCIATION.

We regret to announce the death of Mr. William T. Pegler at the Bangor Infirmary on February 19th.

Mr. Pegler, who was 70 years of age, started his ringing career at his native village, Hempstead, Gloucestershire, in the year 1886. In 1895 he joined the St. Michael's Juniors, Gloucester, and made rapid strides, taking part in nearly all the peals rung at that time. In 1900 and 1901 he held the office as Master.

While at Gloucester he took part in the first peals of Bob and Treble Bob Maximus by the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association, at Cirencester, as well as in what at the time was believed to be the first peal of Cambridge Surprise Royal, rung at Cheltenham in 1898. He also rang in the first peal of Gloucester Surprise Major, rung by St. Michael's Juniors, and in the first peal (Treble Ten) on the bells at Hereford Cathedral.

In 1902 he went to Bangor and was appointed conductor of the band at St. David's Church. When the North Wales Association was founded in 1903 he was elected Master, a position he held for many years. He took part in the first peals of Double Norwich and Superlative rung by a local band in North Wales.

Mr. Pegler had rung about 250 peals and had conducted over 100. During the last few years, however, ill-health had kept him away from the tower.

The funeral took place on Wednesday, February 23rd. The Rev. R. C. Jones (Vicar) officiated, and the first portion of the service was held at St. David's Church. At the graveside handbells were rung by A. E. Pegler, sen. (brother), T. Jones, S. Turnbull and A. E. Pegler, jun. (nephew).

After the funeral the church bells were rung muffled, including the 'whole pull and stand' 70 times.

LEADING CONDUCTORS—8.

SIDNEY T. HOLT.

The Worcestershire Association has an able and enterprising conductor in Mr. Sidney T. Holt, of Crowle, and is fortunate in the fact that he is one of the 'post war' men who have reached eminence in the art, and has, therefore, we hope, many years before him in which to advance the interests and performances of the association.

Mr. Holt was born at Crowle, a village five miles east of Worcester, and has lived there all his life. He learnt to handle a bell at his Parish Church towards the end of 1919, and, but for the enterprise to which we have already referred, might still have been a 'stoney' ringer. At the time he began his ringing career, there had never been a change ringing band at Crowle nor any individual who had practised the art there.

Not content with call changes, however, Mr. Holt's keenness to make progress led him to travel regularly to Worcester for practice in change ringing, and within a year, namely, on October 10th, 1920, he rang his first peal—Double Norwich at Hanbury. His first peal as conductor was rung at Upton-on-Severn, where he called Grandsire Triples on April 18th, 1922.

Since then he has conducted 224 peals for the Worcestershire Association, including the association's first in the following methods: Little Bob Major, Royal and Maximus, Yorkshire Surprise Major and Royal, Double Norwich Caters and Royal, Oxford Treble Bob Maximus, Erin Cinques, New Cambridge Surprise Royal, Pudsey, Rutland and Whitbourne Surprise Major and Spliced Surprise in four and five methods. He has conducted peals of Grandsire and Stedman from Doubles to Cinques, and Cambridge Surprise from Minor to Maximus. He took part in the first peal at Buckfast Abbey, when the ringing was done from the narrow gallery round the tower, and in that great performance, Cambridge Surprise Maximus, at Exeter Cathedral. Indeed, his first peal of Maximus was Cambridge at Winchester Cathedral in 1929. He took part, also, in the non-conducted peal of Cambridge Maximus at Birmingham.

Altogether he has rung 436 peals and conducted 241. Of this number 385 have been rung for the Worcestershire Association. His peal ringing has been spread over 13 counties and under the auspices of 12 associations.

Mr. Holt was Ringing Master of the Western Branch of the Worcestershire Association from 1923 to 1928. He has been auditor of the association since 1932, and in 1936 was elected a representative of the association on the Central Council.

Next week: Mr. Alfred H. Pulling.

FUNERAL OF MR. F. SMITH.

The funeral of Mr. Frank Smith, whose death was reported in our last issue, took place at Highgate Cemetery on February 24th. The mourners were the widow, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Matthews (son-in-law and daughter), Mr. A. Smith (son), Mrs. A. Smith, Mrs. W. Elsley, and Miss H. Smith (sisters). A service was held in St. Martin's Church, Gospel Oak, attended by many ringers and friends. After the committal service four members of the Royal Cumberland Youths rang handbells over the grave.

Among the numerous wreaths were tokens from the St. Martin-in-the-Fields ringers, the Royal Cumberland Youths, Mr. J. Hunt (Taunton) and Mr. W. Upton (Newport, Isle of Wight).

About 30 ringers took part in half-muffled ringing at St. Stephen's, Hampstead, St. Martin's, Gospel Oak, and St. Anne's, Highgate, in the evening, and among the touches were the following:—

At St. Anne's, Highgate, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples: A. Hardy 1, F. A. Barker 2, H. J. Norton (conductor) 3, R. Newman 4, T. Bevan 5, R. Charge 6, G. Charge 7, C. J. Matthews 8.

At St. Martin's, Gospel Oak, 720 Kent Treble Bob: A. Hardy 1, F. Symonds 2, F. A. Barker 3, C. J. Matthews 4, C. Martin 5, W. Nudds (conductor) 6.

MAY GO TO MIDDLESBROUGH.

Chancellor and Possible Objections.

An interesting pronouncement by the Chancellor of the Diocese of York (Mr. H. V. Vaisey, K.C.) was made at a Consistory Court on February 24th, when he heard an application to transfer the peal of six bells which formerly hung in the tower of Christ Church, King's Square, York, to a tower to be built at St. Barnabas', Linthorpe, Middlesbrough. Christ Church was demolished a few months ago.

In the petition the Vicar and churchwardens of St. Barnabas' stated that the estimated cost of the tower was £3,000, towards which £1,100 had been received.

The scheme had been held up in order not to clash with the Archbishop's appeal. That appeal was closed, so far as the first part was concerned, and it was intended to push forward with the scheme for building the tower, which they hoped to complete by 1942, which would be the jubilee of building the church.

The Rev. G. F. Townley, Vicar of St. Barnabas', told the Chancellor they had now raised £400 more for the Tower Fund.

The Chancellor asked if there had been any objections to the proposals to have bells in the parish. 'In these days, when every offensive noise that can be devised by human ingenuity surrounds us, there are still to be found people so misguided as to dislike the sound of church bells; they object to the beautiful cadence of church bells. Have you received any objections, such as, "Do not ring the bells at night time"?' "

MIDDLESBROUGH BADLY OFF FOR BELLS.

The Vicar said he had not. Middlesbrough was very badly off for bells. He added that there was no suggestion for installing 'synthetic bells' through a gramophone.

The Chancellor: That is something which only takes place in the South so far.

Mr. Price, churchwarden, said the tower was to be a memorial to their first Vicar and founder, and they thought a peal of bells, on which the old Vicar had set his heart, would be the best form of memorial.

The Chancellor said he thought that the peal must be kept together, and not one bell given to this place and another bell elsewhere. Middlesbrough was a very modern borough compared with the ancient city of York, and if he were to permit the transfer he would be very disappointed if the people of Middlesbrough did not appreciate the sound of these bells which had, in years gone by, rung out in the ears of the citizens of York.

The Chancellor said he could not at this stage decree a faculty, but he would decree a citation calling on people to show cause why a faculty should not be granted.

If the church tower was built, free from debt, say up to £500, by St. Barnabas' Day, 1941, then the faculty would issue. But if those conditions were not fulfilled, then the matter could be mentioned to him again.

If the reason for the delay was a good one he might grant an extension of time, but if the failure to complete the tower was due to lack of interest, he should treat that as an indication that the parishioners were tired of the project and did not seriously want the bells.

BELL BROADCASTS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir.—I only know of one solution to secure only the best ringing for broadcasts, and that is to have an audition before the responsible section of the B.B.C., for surely they are musical enough to know the desires of the general public.

If they themselves think not, then I suggest that the different associations should appoint an unbiased member to co-operate with the B.B.C. for these broadcasts. This would at least lessen the responsibility.

NO HELP FOR INEFFICIENT RINGERS.

Sir,—I fully agree with the remarks of Mr. Pink on the Bedale broadcast, but I have no doubt that the ringers gave of their best. There is very little hope of any assistance being rendered to them by ringing associations, as Bedale is a remote country village.

My experience is that ringing associations do not exist to benefit inefficient bands, except to collect their contributions.

I reside in a town where there are two eight-bell towers and one six-bell tower, also in the town reside the general secretary, the treasurer, a member of the sub-committee and, till quite recently, a district secretary of the County Association. The two eight-bell towers have a total membership in the association of five members, while the six-bell tower boasts nine members.

As a member of the association, I appealed to the officials for combined practices in the town in order to assist learners and the inefficient, definitely promising at least six more members to the association if these practices were brought about, but it was of no avail. One of the excuses was that those making the appeal were not sufficiently expert to warrant these practices.

Your leading article last week correctly describes the disease from which the world of ringing is suffering. 'Too much jealousy and far too little co-operation,' and, may I add, too much selfishness.

RECTOR DENOUNCES 'CANNED' BELLS

'BIG STICK' WAITING IN WORCESTERSHIRE.

Comments at Ombersley Meeting.

'Impotent, potted music from steeples and towers,' 'feeble' tubular bells, and 'canned' bells were denounced in no mincing terms by the Rector of Ombersley, the Rev. G. W. Gillingham, in a memorable address to 70 members of the Worcestershire Association, who met at Ombersley on Saturday, February 19th, for the first Western Branch meeting of the year.

The village of Ombersley straddles the main Worcester-Kidderminster road some five and a half miles from Worcester, and is held in esteem by Midland tourists as a beauty spot. The church is modern as churches go, being little over a century old, and forms a contrast to the half-timbered houses nearby. The remains of a previous church can still be seen in the churchyard and serve as a mausoleum for the ancient family of Sandys, whose seat is in spacious grounds nearby, the present occupier being Lord Sandys.

The tower, surmounted by a graceful spire, contains six bells with a tenor of a ton. For years they had been in a bad condition, especially the fifth, so that the tuning and rehanging carried out in 1936 by Taylor and Co. was long overdue. Ringing began soon after 3 o'clock under somewhat awkward conditions, for the ringing chamber is small; so the door leading into the gallery was opened to accommodate the overflow.

The usual short service was held, with an outspoken address by the Rector. In it he traced the origin of bells before the Christian era until the present time. The purpose of bells in early times was, he said, to frighten away demons and devils, as the ancients thought that the clash of metal upon metal had this desired effect. Even late in the Christian era it was still thought that the ringing of the 'passing bell' prevented lurking evil spirits from stealing away the soul as it left the body at death. Those were the days of superstition—to-day they are those of the superhet (referring to the Weymouth controversy and the efforts of the Dorchester ringers to suppress 'canned' bells). Continuing, the Rector said they were living in a mechanised age in which moving coils, loud speakers and the like played a large part, until now they were threatened with the amplification of gramophone records from their towers. They did not want this 'impotent, potted music.' They, as change ringers, would resent intrusion into the ringing chamber of any instrument of amplification, for 'tubular bells are feeble enough, "canned" bells are the limit!' Concluding his address, the Rector said that the physical strength and skill of change ringing was to the glory of God, and constituted the super-excellence of praise.

Tea was served in the Memorial Hall by the wives of the local ringers, after which tunes on handbells were played by Messrs. P. Richards, W. Short and J. Bass. Following upon this, the Rector introduced an item of his own in the form of two conjuring tricks—producing coloured handkerchiefs from a member's hat—and turning a penny into half-a-crown, or vice versa! After an unsuccessful attempt for Caters, a good course of Grandsire Triples was rung by Messrs. J. Bass, W. Short, C. H. Woodberry and T. W. Lewis, and then followed the record of 'Spliced' Surprise Major in five methods by the Bushey band, very kindly provided by Mr. G. J. Lewis, of Powick.

This entertainment finished, the business meeting was held, the Rector taking the chair and supported by the Master (Mr. W. Short), the Western Branch officers: Messrs. C. Camm (Ringing Master), S. T. Holt (auditor and Central Council representative), W. Ranford (Central Committee), R. G. Knowles (lay vice-president) and G. E. Large (hon. secretary). Many Northern Branch towers were represented, among them being C. H. Woodberry (Central Council representative), J. Bass (Central Committee) and J. S. Mason (hon. secretary), while visitors included that 'globe-trotter', Mr. W. A. Stote (Coventry), and Mr. A. Jones, jun. (Colwell, Hereford).

The Chairman in a witty speech, welcomed the branch to Ombersley, and said it was the first time he had had the pleasure of meeting such a large company of ringers. He had been told that it was 14 years since a meeting had been held in his parish, and he hoped it would be no more than four or five years before they came again. Referring to the hon. secretary (Mr. G. E. Large), the Chairman said he himself and the Ombersley ringers had been grateful for the help that gentleman had given during the past year, and as a token of their appreciation had made him a member of their band. He (Mr. Large) was almost a foreigner now, because he had left Ombersley parish and had gone to live in that 'horrid parish of Claines' (laughter).

TWENTY-TWO NEW MEMBERS ELECTED.

Mr. W. Lewis reported the failure of the quarterly peal after two hours' ringing at St. John's, the method being Cambridge Major. Letters from the relatives of the late Mr. A. Hill (Cathedral) and Mr. C. J. Green (Claines) were read, expressing their appreciation of the branch's sympathy in their respective bereavements.

Mr. S. T. Holt proposed that the hon. secretary conduct the quarterly peal to be attempted at Ombersley, this to be a peal of Minor and to include as many of the local band as were capable of taking part. It was agreed that the summer meeting be held at Ripple, from which place strong invitations had been received. One hon. member and 21 performing members were elected, among the

DEATH OF MR. W. A. COOKE.

RINGER AND CHURCHWARDEN AT RAINHAM, KENT.

As briefly mentioned in our last issue, the death has occurred at Rainham, Kent, of Mr. William Austin Cooke, Lieutenant, R.N., retired. He passed away after a prolonged illness at the age of 67 years, and leaves a widow and daughter in bereavement.

He joined the Navy at the age of 23 and saw service in several of His Majesty's ships during the war, including H.M.S. 'Brilliant,' on which he was a warrant officer. Afterwards he was stationed at Chatham and retired 12 years ago.

MR. W. A. COOKE.

Before entering the Navy Mr. Cooke was a member of the band at St. Mary Magdalene's Church, Gillingham, in the days when Gabriel Lindoff was leader there, and took part in 1893 in the first peals of Superlative and Cambridge Surprise Major rung for the Kent County Association. He was also a very keen handbell ringer. His service in the Navy naturally considerably curtailed his opportunities for ringing, but he never lost his interest in it, and on settling down at Rainham ten years ago became actively identified with the band at St. Margaret's Church, and was secretary of the tower. For seven years, also, he had been churchwarden and had done much unobtrusive church work in other directions. He was a prominent Freemason and an enthusiastic member of Toc H.

Mr. Cooke had rung many peals, but he had kept no record. In addition to being a member of the Kent Association, whose meetings he attended whenever possible, he was also a member of the Ancient Society of College Youths.

The funeral took place at Rainham, and was attended by the following ringers: Messrs. W. Spice (Tunstall), W. G. Easter (Gillingham), W. J. Walker (Upchurch), V. A. Jarrett (Chatham), C. Belsey, F. J. Cheal, J. Morris and the Misses J. Naylor and K. Cheal (Rainham). Half-muffled touches were rung after the funeral service, and on February 12th a half-muffled peal was rung.

We are indebted to the 'Kent Messenger' for the photograph of the late Mr. Cooke.

latter being one lady, Miss B. M. Boyle, formerly of Combe Martin (North Devon), and now residing in Malvern Wells. The elections of Messrs. J. A. Waugh and R. G. Cousins, both of London, were ratified, as their elections had taken place in the tower at Worcester Cathedral on Boxing Day prior to a peal of Stedman Cinques.

Mr. G. Hinton appealed for better support at the Cathedral practices, as they had had many disappointments by meeting short. These practices take place every other Thursday from 7.30 until 9 p.m., and for the convenience of anyone interested the next one is on March 17th.

A vote of thanks to the chairman, as well as to the organist and the ladies who had so ably catered, was proposed by the hon. secretary. In seconding this, Mr. Holt said their meeting was one of the best he had been to, quite unlike some they had had, which resembled lawyers' meetings! He was pleased to see many of the Northern Branch members present.

Mr. Short added a few words of thanks to the chairman for his encouraging address, and remarked that if ever 'canned' bells were contemplated in any tower in their diocese the association would be there with a 'big stick' (applause).

In his reply, the Rev. G. W. Gillingham thanked the members heartily for the vote of thanks. He asked them to remember the Bishop's appeal for funds towards new churches; to support their own Vicars by keeping their respective parish bells rung for Sunday services, and, lastly, to support the Worcestershire Cricket Club. (It must be remembered that the Rector himself is a keen cricketer and has played for Worcestershire Gentlemen in their matches against the Players.)

Ringling was resumed until 9 o'clock.

NORTHERN BRANCH ELECTS TWENTY NEW MEMBERS.

At the last meeting of the Northern Branch of the Worcestershire Association at Stourbridge, a peal board was unveiled recording a peal of Grandsire Triples rung in St. Thomas' belfry in honour of the Coronation of their Majesties.

The meeting, which was attended by about 100 ringers, coincided with Mr. William Short's jubilee as a member of the association. Mr. Short is now Master of the association and he was the recipient of many congratulations.

No fewer than 20 new members were elected.

Mr. W. A. Horse (churchwarden of St. Thomas') was recommended for election as a vice-president at the annual meeting at Worcester on Easter Monday.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

SOUTH AND WEST DISTRICT SECRETARY RETIRES.

Suggested Financial Changes.

The South and West District of the Middlesex County Association and London Diocesan Guild held its annual meeting at Heston on February 12th. After ringing at St. Paul's, Hounslow, and at Heston, about 40 members and friends enjoyed a substantial tea in the Church Room. The vice-president (Mr. J. A. Trollope) was in the chair for the business meeting and was supported by all the district officers and by Mr. A. E. Gurney (churchwarden). Welcome visitors included Messrs. G. T. and A. W. Coles, from the North and East District, and Mr. F. E. Hawthorne, of the Guildford Diocesan Guild.

The presence of the president of the association (the Rev. W. P. Cole Sheane) was greatly appreciated, though he would not take the chair, as he could not stay for the whole meeting. Mr. Trollope's announcement that the Bishop of London had honoured the president by appointing him a Prebendary of St. Paul's Cathedral was received with acclamation. Later in the meeting the president thanked the company for their welcome and congratulations.

SMALLER ATTENDANCE AT MEETINGS.

In his report for 1937, the hon. secretary (Mr. F. W. Goodfellow) stated that four members had died during the year (Mr. J. H. Lucas, of Uxbridge, Mr. H. A. Folkard, of Ealing, the Rev. E. Cornwall-Jones, Vicar of Ruislip, and Mr. W. H. Hollier, of Chiswick). Eight district meetings were held with an average attendance of 29—considerably lower than in 1936. On the other hand, the two joint meetings held (Guildford, Oxford, Surrey and Middlesex Associations at Staines in August, and Ladies' Guild and Oxford and Middlesex Associations at Hillingdon in October) were very successful, the attendances being 89 and 98 respectively. With a few exceptions, tower representation at district meetings was poor, and tower officials were urged to encourage a more active interest in the meetings. Sunday service ringing had generally improved, although in a few towers little is done apart from a casual visit by neighbouring ringers. All the rings of bells in going order were rung on Coronation Day. The total number of peals rung in the district was 14, three less than in 1936. Thirty-nine members were elected, as compared with 10 in 1936, but the number of subscriptions outstanding was still large. A new treble bell had been installed at Stanwell, which now possesses a fine ring of six. The report concluded with thanks to the district officers for their support.

The Chairman thanked the secretary for his instructive report, and expressed the hope that an improvement might be effected at the less flourishing towers.

The treasurer announced a balance of £2 17s. 9d. on the district accounts for 1937 and a balance of £15 18s. 10d. in the Bell Restoration Fund.

Mr. H. Chandler presented the account of the Supper Committee, showing a small balance, and the Supper Committee were re-elected (Messrs. Chandler, Goodfellow and Gladman, with the addition of the secretary). Three new members were elected (Mr. H. Hofton, Kensington, unattached, Mr. H. Joint, Hillingdon, and Miss F. M. Gutteridge, Iver Heath, life member), and the belfry election of Mr. R. A. Reid, North Stoneham, before a peal, was ratified.

It is the custom of the district when possible to elect a different Ringing Master each year, and Mr. J. Herbert was elected to succeed Mr. E. C. S. Turner. After a vote, Mr. Ellingham was elected Deputy Master. The treasurer, Mr. T. Collins, was re-elected.

As Mr. F. W. Goodfellow was unable to stand for re-election as hon. secretary, Mr. Bird proposed that Mr. J. E. Lewis Cockey be elected in his place. He pointed out that Mr. Cockey had had previous experience of the work, having been secretary of the Peak District of the Midland Counties Association and of the Sheffield and District Society, and he had confidence that Mr. Cockey would fill the position admirably.

The motion was seconded by Mr. Ellingham and carried, and Mr. Cockey, in promising to do his best for the district, pointed out that he depended upon the support of all the members.

A vote of thanks to Mr. Goodfellow for his services during the past six years was carried on the proposition of Mr. Hunnisett, who expressed the regret of the members at his decision and their gratitude for all he had done for the association.

The assistant secretary (Mr. W. G. Wilson), the Central Committee (Messrs. Chandler, Corke and G. Kilby), and the auditors (Messrs. Liddbetter and W. Coles) were all re-elected. Mr. Hunnisett and Mr. Cockey were appointed trustees.

THE PROPOSED CHANGE OF RULES.

On the motion of Mr. Goodfellow, seconded by Mr. Bird, it was resolved that, in the event of the revised rules being adopted by the annual general meeting, the funds of the district shall be transferred to the Central Fund of the association as from January 1st, 1939.

The Chairman explained that this was an enabling resolution only and would only apply if the revised rules, copies of which had been circulated to towers, were adopted in April.

At the request of the chairman, Mr. G. T. Coles explained the reasons for the revision of the rules, which were originally framed in 1897 and were out of date. He pointed out that while one district was financially in a good position, the other district was not, and neither was the Central Fund of the association. It was proposed that after

ANOTHER SOMERSET PEAL RESTORED.

THANKSGIVING SERVICE AT CROWCOMBE.

The picturesque Church of Crowcombe, tucked away under the Quantock Hills between Taunton and Williton, was crowded on Sunday, February 20th, at 3 p.m. for a special service of thanksgiving in connection with the recent restoration of the bells.

Before the service commenced, one could not but help admiring the beautiful carved oak screen and bench ends, so familiar in many Somerset churches, and the narrowness of the seats was also commented upon by many who were visiting Crowcombe for the first time.

The Rector (the Rev. H. C. Young) conducted the service, assisted by the Rev. T. S. Dawson (Vicar of Carhampton) and Preb. H. C. Harman (a former Vicar of Bicknoller).

Special prayers were offered by Bishop de Salis (Archdeacon of Taunton), who also gave one of the best addresses ever heard by the writer in connection with bells and bell restorations.

The Bishop, who can still ring a bell if required, stated that the bells had been rehung on modern ball bearings, and new fittings throughout had been provided. The old wooden frame still remained, it being in good order and required only strengthening and securely fixing to the walls of the tower.

He stated that the work had been done by Taylors, of Loughborough, who carried out similar work for him when he first came to Somerset as Vicar in charge of a parish 50 years ago. That work still stood the test of time, and he was sure that the work done at Crowcombe would do likewise.

The Bishop went on to say that it was a great effort on the part of the parish to raise the necessary money (£146) to carry out the work in such a short space of time, and it showed that the people of Crowcombe were fond of their bells.

He was very pleased to note that so many peals of bells were being restored in Somerset, and this was all the more gratifying as there were so many fine churches and peals of bells in the county. 'May the day be long distant before mechanical bells or gramophone records come to our fine old churches,' he said.

The Bishop considered that the Guild of Ringers did a lot of good, especially with the scientific change ringers, but there were many towers and ringers outside the Guild who only rang the familiar West Country call changes. These ringers were, however, doing very useful church work, and they were to be encouraged just as much as the more experienced ringers.

At the conclusion of the service the bells (a heavy ring of six) were kept going in various methods, but some of the ringers found difficulty in handling the ropes, which were very low.

The absence of a Sunday train service on the Minehead Branch and the infrequent bus service to the village probably kept many ringers away, but there were eight from Carhampton (brought by the Vicar), five from Nether Stowey (brought by Capt. Cann, who was on week-end leave), and others from Chipstable, Milverton and Taunton.

ATTLEBOROUGH RINGERS' DEATH.

The death occurred at Attleborough, Norfolk, on Tuesday, February 8th, of Mr. William Benjamin Wiseman, aged 66. Up to the time of his death he was an active and well-respected ringer of the St. Mary's band, Attleborough, and a member of the Norwich Diocesan Association.

The funeral service took place in St. Mary's Church, and, following the interment, 720 changes of Bob Minor were rung on St. Mary's bells: W. N. Banham 1, C. E. G. Banham 2, W. Chandler 3, H. Allen 4, C. H. Cooke 5, L. Lawrence (conductor) 6.

deducting working expenses each district should pay the balance into the Central Fund, which would then be better able to pay its way. The two districts were not separate associations, but parts of the one association, and it was appropriate that the Central Fund should reflect the position of the association.

In answer to Mr. Bird as to what had happened to the suggestion that resident members should cease to pay an annual subscription on reaching 65 years of age if more than 15s. had been paid in subscriptions, Mr. Coles explained that the sub-committee which revised the rules had decided against the proposal, largely on the ground of loss of revenue. If a member really could not afford his subscription, the association could always make him a free member.

It was agreed that if the new rules came into force, the money in the Bell Restoration Fund should be merged with the Central Fund and that the charge of 3d. a rope for each peal rung in the district should cease.

It was decided to invite the London County Association to a joint meeting at Chiswick in May or June and to invite the Ladies' and Oxford Guilds to the usual meeting at Hillingdon at the end of the year.

Mr. Hawthorne extended invitations on behalf of the Surrey Association and the Guildford Guild to joint meetings at Kingston and Egham, on dates to be arranged, and these were accepted with thanks.

Isleworth was chosen for the place of the 1939 annual meeting of the district. The meeting closed with a vote of thanks to the Vicars of Heston and St. Paul's, Hounslow, to the local ringers and to the ladies who served tea.—Mr. Gurney replied and expressed the Vicar of Heston's regret at not being present. Further ringing then took place at Heston tower.

NORTH STAFFORD ASSOCIATION. SUCCESSFUL ANNUAL DINNER.

There was an excellent gathering at the North Staffordshire Association's dinner on Saturday, February 12th, a company of 118 spending a very enjoyable evening at the George Hotel, Burslem. During the afternoon, Hanley, Tunstall and Burslem towers were open for ringing, and the bells were fully employed.

Supporting the president (the Ven. Archdeacon Harthill, of Stoke-on-Trent) were Mr. Andrew Thompson (hon. secretary), Miss Ada Bourne, Messrs. Sidney Churton, Thomas Hurd (vice-chairman), Kenneth Thacker (assistant hon. secretary), Miss Betty Thacker, Mr. G. W. Walker, the Rev. S. F. Linsley, and ringers and friends from Hanley, Brown Edge, Draycott, Stone, Lawton, Tunstall, Kingsley, Biddulph, Longton, Stoke-on-Trent, Wistaston, Leek, Burslem, Norton, Newcastle and Fenton.

After the toast of 'The King,' the National Anthem was sung, and a pianoforte duet was rendered by Mrs. E. Thonger, A.T.C.L., and Miss H. Barry, A.T.C.L.

Mr. F. A. Forster proposed the toast of 'The Church.' He spoke of the influence of the Church on the lives of the people, and said his introduction to ringing was through attending a church at Silverdale. To give service to the Church in this direction had been a great pleasure.

The Archdeacon, who replied, congratulated the association on the splendid gathering at the first 'annual' dinner. It was the third time a dinner had been held, but that was the first 'annual' dinner and he suggested it would not be the last. The association they belonged to was something to be proud of. The Archdeacon went on to emphasise that the Church was made up of all classes of people, and said that church work was any kind of work done for the Church and the service of God. The art of bellringing in this country had always been closely connected with the Church, and the greatest association it had with the Church was that of calling men to the worship of God. He appealed to them all to be more thorough in their religion and to make a much bigger effort.

A course of Grandsire Caters was next rung on handbells by ringers from Leek tower.

The Rev. S. F. Linsley proposed the toast of 'The North Staffordshire Association.' Speaking first in lighter vein, he told the story of a parson he knew who was extremely deaf and whose custom it was to ring the bell before a service. Whilst doing this he always used to read a book. One night he was tugging away at the bell as usual and reading his book when the curate came in and asked him what he was doing. He replied that he was 'Ringing the bell, of course.' 'Oh no you're not,' said the curate, 'the clapper has broken off.'

Ringing, said the speaker, was really a dangerous art. He once had a curate who was learning to ring at the same time as himself. The stay on the curate's bell broke and he was carried almost up to the ceiling. Since then he had been most careful.

There was something wonderful, said Mr. Linsley, in the thought that in ringing the bells they were calling people to worship to turn their thoughts to higher things, and the bellringer was doing a great work in ringing out the greatest message that could be issued to the world. He hoped ringers would continue this work Sunday by Sunday and that the association would continue to hold its annual dinner.

EARLY DIFFICULTIES OVERCOME.

Mr. Andrew Thompson should have responded to the toast, but as Mr. G. W. Walker, one of the oldest members, desired to speak, the secretary requested him to take his place. Mr. Walker said he was privileged to attend the inaugural meeting of the association in 1882, but his membership card was dated January, 1883, and he had spent some very happy times among the members.

'It was not all beer and skittles forming the association,' he said. 'Courage was needed to overcome difficulties which faced the ringers, but eventually they succeeded. I am glad to have lived to see the association in such a flourishing condition as it is now. I hope it will continue to improve. Indeed, the sight of so many young men taking an interest in change ringing leads me to believe it will. But that is not all. I have found another very important factor in connection with the association—the friendship created between ringers. Another very pleasing fact is that the Archdeacon of Stoke is taking as great an interest in the association as did his predecessor, Sir Lovelace Stamer, who was one of the leaders in forming the association.'

Letters of regret of absence were received from Mr. H. Parker and Mr. J. P. Fidler.

Mr. S. Churton proposed 'The Visitors,' who, he said, they were all delighted to welcome. He said he was very pleased to see so many ladies present.

Mr. G. W. Biddulph replied. Some of them, he said, had been coming to the North Staffordshire meetings for a good many years and enjoyed the very good fellowship that prevailed in the North Staffs territory. He thanked the Leek ringers for their very enjoyable displays, and hoped the association would carry on in the future as it had done in the past.

Mr. T. Hurd submitted the toast of 'The Press' and thanked the 'Evening Sentinel' for its interest in the association. Referring to 'The Ringing World,' he said it had done more to foster good fellowship among ringers and to bring ringing associations together than anything else he knew of. Where, he asked, would ringing have been to-day without it? Ringing would have been much poorer than it is now. It kept them all in touch with what was going on and with one another, not only in this country, but with ringers overseas. It must mean a great deal to the ringers in Australia and New Zealand to receive their copy and read what was going on in the old country.

Selections were given on handbells by the Leek ringers, and songs were sung by Mr. W. Corfield and Mr. G. E. Plant, while community singing was much enjoyed. A very enjoyable evening was brought to a close with 'Auld Lang Syne.'

DON'T SCRUB YOUR HANDS!

To many people, the problem of getting the hands really clean without harming the skin is a serious one. Grease and grime, which become deeply ingrained into the pores of the skin, are extremely difficult to remove, and ordinary washing with soap or even scrubbing will fail to remove them completely. Housewives, particularly, who complain that their hands get ruined by the nature of their work, will find the preparation called DERMAFOAM, a real "godsend." DERMAFOAM just smoothes away dirt and grease without effort. It gets right down into the pores and removes every particle of grime, leaving skin beautifully supple and healthy.

Men, too—when you've finished that dirty job on the car, DERMAFOAM will quickly banish all grease and oil from your hands. It acts almost magically—working under and around the nails and into every minute crease, removing all trace of dirt in a flash.

Engineers, Painters, Car Mechanics, Printers — everyone — will welcome DERMAFOAM, the modern method of cleansing and protecting the hands.

by J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE

'This is one of the very few books I have read which seem to me might, with advantage, have been considerably longer.'—The Dean of St. Paul's.

'Mr. Trollope has achieved more than his immediate purpose of writing a history of the Society of College Youths. So closely has the guild been identified with English change ringing that its history is to a very large extent an account of the ancient sport of ringing developed into an elaborate art. . . .

WHY HENRY JOHNSON IS COMMEMORATED.

Ringers from many parts of England assembled in Birmingham on Saturday once more to honour the memory of Henry Johnson. It was the jubilee commemoration, for these gatherings began in Johnson's lifetime, and have been continued without a break for fifty years. They originated in a complimentary dinner, organised by the late Sir Arthur Heywood, in 1888, and since the death of Johnson in 1890 have been the means of keeping alive the memory of one of the most notable characters that the Exercise has known. But, with the inevitable passing of time, the figure and influence of Henry Johnson are slipping deeper into the shades. On Saturday there were only present in the large gathering seven ringers who had known him in the flesh; the day cannot be far distant when no one will be left who can say, 'I knew this man.' Even now there are almost two complete generations between us and the period when Johnson was in the heyday of his career; when, as a ringer and composer, he stood out conspicuously from most of his contemporaries. Those who knew him are of one accord in their appreciation of his loveable nature, and of his humble and gentle character. History can testify to the work which he did for ringing at a time when knowledge of many of the things which are commonplace now was very limited. He was regarded as one of the greatest authorities of his generation, and the best proof of that was the recognition of his work and standing shown by those who may be regarded as, in a sense, his rivals.

In responding to the toast of 'Continued Prosperity to St. Martin's Guild' on Saturday, the hon. secretary quite rightly referred to what had been done by the worthies of the past to make possible the position which the society holds to-day. Henry Johnson was one of those to whom the Guild owes a great deal. The society has its roots buried in nearly two centuries of time. It has been a sturdy growth and has weathered successfully the storms of rivalry and dissension and the droughts of apathy and indifference which such organisations must inevitably suffer in the course of so long a history, but it has also gained stature by the efforts of men like Henry Johnson and others who, through succeeding generations, have not only nourished it with their loyalty but have made it blossom by their example and bear the fruit of usefulness by the lasting contributions which they have made to the advancement of the art. Birmingham has given many noted men, as well as notable performances, to the Exercise, but no other who united in such a happy blend the traits which have made the name of Henry Johnson something still to conjure with. The passage of the years and the changing of the times give point to the suggestion made by the Ringing Master, that this commemoration should be merged into, what it has already to some extent become, the annual dinner of St. Martin's Guild, but, whatever may happen in the future, we hope that on this annual occasion those who are privileged to join in the reunion will not forget what they owe to the men who, in the past, made Birmingham and its ringing famous throughout the Exercise, and kept the art going through a period when it was threatened by a lapse that almost led to decay.

WINDSOR RINGER'S DEATH.

Many ringers will regret to hear of the passing of Mr. Walter Cross, of Windsor, at the age of 51. He had not been in good health for some time and neuritis had prevented him from ringing for about a year.

He was connected with a firm of stockbrokers in London and continued business with them until nine days before his death. He caught influenza, which was followed by pneumonia, and the end came with tragic suddenness on Sunday, February 27th.

He was taught to ring at Farnham Royal, while still at school, by the late Mr. J. J. Parker, and, though he had rung only about a dozen peals, he was always delighted with a well-struck touch or quarter-peal. Besides being a member of the Oxford Diocesan Guild, he also belonged to the Ancient Society of College Youths and the Middlesex Association.

The funeral took place on Wednesday, March 2nd, at Clewer, and half-muffled touches were rung the same evening at Windsor Parish Church, and on Thursday evening, at Clewer, 720 Plain Bob by T. Smith, W. Birmingham, G. H. Gutteridge, W. Henley, E. S. T. Farr and L. Stilwell (conductor).

LEEDS AND DISTRICT SOCIETY.*TWO LADIES AMONG NEW MEMBERS.

The February meeting of the Leeds and District Society was held at Bramley on February 26th. The opening ringing gave a start to the new venture of an unknown couple, who were married in the church at the time the meeting commenced.

Tea was kindly arranged by Mr. S. Helliwell at Brookes' Cafe, and the business meeting was held in the Church Schools. Mr. Senior (president) was in the chair, and members were present from Armley, Batley, Bradford Cathedral, Burley, Headingley (St. Chad's), Idle, Leeds Parish Church, Lindley, Pudsey, Rothwell, Sherburn, Shipley and the local company.

The following new members were elected: Miss D. Lister, of Shipley, Miss K. Marsh and Mr. J. Thorn, of Bramley.

The usual vote of thanks to the Vicar of Bramley and to the local company for the use of the bells and other arrangements was proposed by Mr. H. Lofthouse and seconded by Mr. Fred Davison.—Mr. S. Helliwell replied.

The next meeting will be on March 26th at Armley, when it is hoped last year's experiment of a ringers' Communion service will be repeated. This will be a joint meeting with the Ladies' Guild (Northern Section). Members were specially asked to send in their names in order to allow for tea arrangements to be made.

BURTON-ON-STATHER BELLS AUGMENTED.*LINCOLNSHIRE GETS ANOTHER EIGHT.

Two new trebles have been installed at the Parish Church, Burton-on-Stather, Lincolnshire, and were dedicated on Sunday, February 27th, at the morning service.

The Ven. Archdeacon Parry, president of the Northern Branch of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild, was prevented by illness from performing the ceremony, and all concerned were grateful to Canon Rust, Vicar of Frodingham and Rural Dean, for stepping into the breach at a moment's notice.

A very impressive service had been arranged with appropriate hymns and prayers. When the eight bells were heard for the first time, rung in rounds by eight members of the local band, all present were impressed by their beauty of tone.

After the service touches were rung in various methods, the local band being joined by ringers from Scunthorpe.

A set of rope guides have made the bells much better to handle.

A district meeting has been arranged for May 7th, when it is hoped that all interested will come and try the augmented ring. Messrs. Taylor and Co., of Loughborough, are once more to be congratulated upon completing an excellent job.

ELY DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.*A MEETING WELL WORTH WHILE.

The meeting of the Ely Branch of the Ely Diocesan Association, held at Ickleton on Saturday, March 5th, was in every way a great success. Soon after 3 p.m. the bells were set going in rounds by the younger members, who turned up in good numbers. There was a good attendance at the service, conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. A. E. Penney, who gave an interesting address. Mr. L. Lilley, one of the local band, was the organist.

Following tea, arranged as usual by Mr. P. Webb, the local captain, routine business was quickly disposed of.

It was decided to hold the next meeting at Linton, a five-bell tower.

A collection towards the appeal for the restoration of the bells of St. George-in-the-East Church, London, realised the sum of 10s. 6d.

On returning to the tower various methods were rung to suit all, from beginners upwards. Two or three valiant attempts for a course of Ickleton Surprise, the first peal of which was rung in this tower a month ago by the Hertfordshire band, failed to materialise.

The good attendance of members of the district, with members from the Central Branch and the splendid support of the local band, made the meeting well worth while.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

Recently the Ancient Society of College Youths received payment of 3s. 6d. in respect to the election of a member which took place 60 years ago. The member is now over 90 years of age. The letter had been lost among the pages of a book for all that time.

There was the customary reunion in Birmingham on Sunday morning, after the Johnson Dinner. Sandwiches and handbell ringing were enjoyed at midday at headquarters.

Earlier St. Martin's had had nearly a double quota of ringers for the service ringing, but the Cathedral, well patronised on Saturday afternoon, had a job to muster eight, which was a pity.

One well-known London ringer, who was present at the dinner, brought with him a label, ready printed with instructions, for his safe delivery to his wife, in case he was unable, for any reason, to make his way home by himself. His finder was given precise directions as to what to do in the event of the wife answering the door.

Which reminds us of another well-known ringer, who, making a belated return after a handbell practice and doubtful of his reception from his better half, said to his companion, who had inquired what he was going 'to do about it,' 'I shall open the front door and throw my overcoat in. If it's thrown out again, I'm coming home with you.'

PEAL RINGING BY NON-SERVICE RINGERS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I trust you will find space for a reply to Mr. Macey, who, I presume, is a service ringer, although he is listed as 'unattached' in the Kent County report of 1937.

The old principle that 'what has been done in the past is good enough for the future' cannot, for one minute, be accepted.

For a considerable time 'free lances' have been able to continue their peal activities unchecked, possibly owing to the fact that the clergy are unaware of the true state of affairs.

There is no doubt that in order to keep church bells ringing and in perfect order a Sunday service band is an essential factor. It is, therefore, the duty of all ringers who are members of service ringing companies to ensure that their bells are not rung by irresponsible persons, who render no regular service to the Church. The associations, too, should see that their members are not abusing the principles for which the associations stand.

Let us not sit back comfortably and hope for the best, but make a determined effort to obtain this much-needed reform.

St. Peter's, Tunbridge Wells.

BROADCAST RINGING.

A BOUQUET FOR BACKWELL.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—A few 'bricks' have been thrown in your columns recently in regard to broadcast ringing, Mr. A. R. Pink especially aiming a well-deserved one, but I think those who tuned in to the West Regional on Sunday evening will agree that the time has arrived to substitute bouquets for bricks.

I had the company of a non-ringer who has no time for the 'music of the bells,' usually describing it as a meaningless jangle, but on this occasion, when the bells of Backwell Church, Somerset, were 'faded in' after the announcement, remarked 'how well those bells sound, such regular striking and not the usual jangle.' As a practical ringer and, I hope, a passable striker, I should like to congratulate the band who broadcast that evening on their perfect striking, but, to my mind, the fact of having made a non-ringer sit up and take notice is a greater achievement than earning the congratulations of a brother ringer.

If, in addition, and there is no reason why it should not be so, they have caused some ringers who may some day also broadcast to 'sit up and take notice' and see that their striking comes up to that on the air on Sunday evening, we may have an easier task in convincing our non-ringing friends that change ringing is something more than a mere jangle. In any case, I would like to see a little appreciation recorded of a splendid effort to put change ringing in a respectable category after the unfortunate exhibition recently broadcast from Bedale.

Crayford.

T. GROOMBRIDGE, jun.

AN EXAMPLE.

Dear Sir,—The protests made by your correspondents about the disgraceful exhibition of ringing broadcast from Bedale a fortnight ago are quite justified. Mr. Pink was fortunate to be able to distinguish call changes; so far as I am concerned, I could not make out what it was—it sounded like bad firing!

As a contrast we heard on Sunday evening a fine example of ringing from Backwell, Somerset; almost perfect throughout.

If something on the lines suggested by Mr. Burgess could be done by the B.B.C., this broadcast might be held up as an example of what should be the standard.

Walthamstow.

C. T. COLES.

BROADCAST RINGING AS IT SHOULD BE.

Dear Sir,—With a friend, I heard Stedman Doubles on Sunday evening from Backwell, Somerset, a good old peal, on which I have rung (about 50 years ago). I would like to congratulate the ringers on their excellent striking.

Reading, Berks.

LEADING CONDUCTORS—9.*ALFRED H. PULLING.

There has been no greater ringing enthusiast than Mr. Alfred H. Pulling, of Guildford, who is one of the few ringers who have conducted more than a thousand peals. Born at Petworth, Sussex, his whole career as a ringer has been associated with Holy Trinity, now the Cathedral, Guildford, where he learned to ring and where in October, 1899, he scored his first peal and, three years later, rang his first peal as conductor.

Throughout this forty years or so his chief interest has been centred in the ringing in Holy Trinity tower, where he has seen the Sunday service band rise from call changes to the highest degree of efficiency.

Of that original band only Mr. Henry Hutton remains. Despite one of those setbacks which nearly all bands at some time suffer, and which has led to the Holy Trinity Society fading for a time somewhat out of the picture, Mr. Pulling is now building up another company of considerable promise.

Under Mr. Pulling's conductorship the society formerly not only reached the ordinary Surprise stage, but were the first to ring a number of new Surprise methods, at a time when first peals of this kind were not the common occurrence they are to-day. Those who shared in the achievements of that period will be the first to admit that their success was largely due to Mr. Pulling's brilliant qualities as a conductor.

There was a period before the war, too, when handbell ringing at Guildford reached a high standard, a large number of peals were rung and some new records set up. At one time they rang six peals of Stedman Caters on six consecutive evenings on six different sets of handbells and in six different places. These were all conducted by Mr. Pulling. In 1912 two records were made. On June 1st Mr. Pulling called 14,031 Stedman Caters in 7 hours 3 minutes, the longest peal on handbells. On August 31st the band started for a peal of 22,222, but at 11.27 p.m. the bells were brought round after 19,738 changes—which is still the handbell record, and at that time the greatest number of changes rung by one set of men.

Mr. Pulling has conducted several long lengths on tower bells in a number of methods, and he was the first to conduct a peal of Spliced Surprise Major in the four basic methods. This was on June 11th, 1927, when the full extent of the Rev. H. Law James' peal, 5,408 changes, was rung at Warnham, Sussex. That was an epoch-making peal.

Among the performances upon which Mr. Pulling looks back with particular pride are some conducted in his own tower at Guildford, among them a peal of Stedman Triples for the funeral of King Edward VII., the only peal of London Surprise rung on the Coronation of King George V. and Queen Mary (this was rung before 8 a.m. by the Sunday band), a peal of Stedman Triples for King George's Silver Jubilee and another for His Majesty's funeral, and a peal of Grandsire Triples for the Coronation of the present King and Queen. Altogether Mr. Pulling has rung more peals on handbells than any other ringer. He has rung 452 'in hand,' of which he has conducted 435. Altogether he has rung 1,159 peals, of which he has conducted 1,051.

He represented the old Winchester Diocesan Guild on the Central Council from 1914 until the severance of the Guildford Diocesan Guild area at the end of 1927, and he has represented the new Guild since 1930.

Next week: Mr. George E. Symonds.*THREE GENERATIONS.

Three generations of the family celebrated the 75th birthday of Mr. Charles Belton, of Barwell, Leicestershire, the event being honoured with a quarter-peal of Bob Major. Mr. Belton has been a ringer at Barwell for nearly half a century. Also taking part in the quarter-peal were his son, Richard, who has been a ringer for 25 years, and his grandson, Tom.

MR. ALFRED H. PULLING.*PRESENTATION TO MR. W. T. COCKERILL.
GOLD WATCH GIVEN TO COLLEGE YOUTHS' LATE SECRETARY.

The retirement of Mr. W. T. Cockerill from the secretaryship of the Ancient Society of College Youths took effect, with many regrets, at the annual meeting last November. He had served the society faithfully for 46 years. On the occasion of the tercentenary dinner a few days before, the members presented him with a gift of £50, and on Tuesday week at headquarters there was a further presentation to mark the members' appreciation of and gratitude for his long services. The gift was a gold watch inscribed, 'W.T.C., honorary secretary, A.S.C.Y., 1891-1937.'

At the outset, the Master, who presided, recalled the gift on November 6th, and added that he did not propose to say very much on that occasion, as he had already said what he thought about Mr. Cockerill. He would, however, like to read one or two extracts from many letters he had received. Mr. R. T. Woodley, of Lowestoft, who had been a member of the society since September, 1885, sent his donation as an 'admirer of our late scribe,' and hoped his old friend, Mr. Cockerill, would have the 'bumper' he thoroughly deserved. Other extracts were from one member, who said, 'having known Mr. Cockerill for 40 years, I appreciate the exceptionally fine work he has done in a great many ways'; and another, 'a bricklayer in the North Country,' who referred to Mr. Cockerill as a fine old English gentleman, who had ever shown courtesy and kindness to all.

Mr. R. T. Hibbert (Reading) said the first peal he rang with Mr. Cockerill was at Fulham in 1889. He had known him, therefore, for nearly 50 years and had never had cause to grumble at him (laughter), but he (Mr. Cockerill) had had many causes to grumble at him, although he was gentleman enough not to express his feelings (laughter). He hoped Mr. Cockerill would live many more years and be able to meet his friends of the College Youths on a great many occasions (applause).

Major J. H. B. Hesse said he had known Mr. Cockerill for 35 years, and he remembered that when he first came up to London as a youngster to meet the society Mr. Cockerill always treated him with the utmost courtesy, kindness and encouragement. In all his years of ringing he had never met a man he had a greater respect for (applause).

Mr. A. A. Hughes (hon. treasurer) said he remembered Mr. Cockerill almost as long as he remembered anyone. It used to be said that among the College Youths a youngster did not get much chance, but Mr. Cockerill was always a great help to him. He never forgot the tips Mr. Cockerill gave him to make his path in method ringing easy. Having since come to work with him in the society, he could appreciate his wonderful services more than anyone else (applause).

Mr. A. B. Peck (hon. secretary) said as 'one of the boys' they all learned to love Mr. Cockerill and they loved him still. He thanked Mr. Cockerill for the great help he had given him in taking over the secretaryship, and said that the perfect order in which Mr. Cockerill had left the affairs made it plain sailing to take over where he had left off (applause).

Mr. J. Waugh (junior steward) said the younger members always regarded Mr. Cockerill with admiration, respect and affection. Mr. Waugh recalled some of Mr. Cockerill's feats in ringing, such as turning-in St. Paul's Cathedral tenor for peals. These things gave them a great opinion of Mr. Cockerill's ability as a ringer, he said. He hoped they would see him among them for a long time yet (applause).

Mr. J. S. Goldsmith, as a visitor, added an expression of the admiration which members of other societies throughout the country felt for the services rendered by Mr. Cockerill. His example of loyalty and devotion to duty was one which might well be emulated, and those who successfully emulated it would leave the Exercise better than they found it (applause).

Mr. Lewis, in making the presentation, said many of them had recently been studying the history of the society, and they had noticed that the society during the last 46 years had been going steadily up. One man was mainly responsible for that, and that man was Mr. Cockerill (applause).

Mr. Cockerill, who received the gift amid renewed applause, thanked the speakers for the very kind things that had been said about him. He recalled that in the year 1900 he was presented with a roll top desk by the members, and that had been of very great service to him ever since. It had on it a silver plate stating that it was presented to him in appreciation of his services, which then had extended only over a period of eight years. Now they had given him this beautiful present of a gold watch, which was a thing he wanted, for, said Mr. Cockerill, 'my old ticker was getting a bit rocky' (laughter). He asked those present and all the subscribers, as well as those who had engineered the scheme, to accept his most grateful thanks.

The 'loving cup' was then passed round and everyone present drank to Mr. Cockerill's good health.

The Master stated that later on it was proposed to give Mr. Cockerill a list of the subscribers, who numbered somewhere near two hundred.

THE JOHNSON COMMEMORATION DINNER.

JUBILEE GATHERING AT BIRMINGHAM.

A Suggested Change in Character of Reunion.

Fifty years ago a gathering of representative ringers of England met in Birmingham to honour the then 'grand old man' of the Exercise—Henry Johnson—on his 80th birthday. Ever since his death his memory has been annually commemorated on some date near his birthday, February 28th. Last Saturday there was another large and representative gathering in Birmingham for the 'jubilee' dinner and many visitors spent an enjoyable time. Ringing took place in the afternoon at St. Martin's Church and St. Philip's Cathedral, and dinner was served at the White Horse Restaurant. The chair was taken by the Master, Alderman J. S. Pritchett, and among the company, numbering nearly one hundred and fifty, were the Provost of Birmingham (the Very Rev. J. H. Richards), the Rector of Birmingham (Canon Guy Rogers) and Mrs. Rogers, Canon H. McGowan (Archdeacon-Designate of Aston) and Mrs. McGowan, Canon and Mrs. Blofeld (Edgbaston), the Rev. W. T. Power (Vicar of Erdington), the Rev. E. A. Fraser (Rector of Solihull), Messrs. F. W. Stevens and E. B. Tomlinson (churchwardens of St. Martin's), Mr. F. B. Yates, Mr. W. A. Clark, Mr. T. H. Reeves (hon. secretary of St. Martin's Guild) and Mrs. Reeves, Messrs. A. Paddon Smith, J. George and J. H. Shepherd (vice-presidents), E. H. Lewis (president of the Central Council), G. W. Fletcher (hon. secretary of the Council) and Mrs. Fletcher (hon. secretary of the Ladies' Guild), Mr. R. Richardson (Master of the Lincoln Guild) and Mrs. Richardson, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Hughes (London), Mr. E. Guise (hon. secretary, Bristol United Guilds), Mrs. and Miss Guise, Mrs. E. Wilkins, Messrs. P. C. Williams, H. Birt and H. Howell (Bristol), T. F. King and J. F. Smallwood (Bath), H. Knight (hon. secretary, Archdeaconry of Staffs Society), S. F. Palmer and Mr. and Mrs. M. Wilson (Sheffield), Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Perrens and Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Pervin (Coventry), Mr. and Mrs. C. Wallater and Mr. B. Horton (Willenhall), Mr. W. Saunders (Coalbrookdale), Mr. F. E. Dawe (Woking), Mr. J. P. Fidler (Loughborough), Mr. and Mrs. R. Pickering (Wolverhampton), Mr. W. Griffin and Miss Griffin (Walsall) and representatives of many bands in the diocese. After an excellent repast, the loyal toast was given by the chairman, and the secretary then announced apologies from the Lord Mayor and Lord Bishop of Birmingham, Mr. and Mrs. A. Walker, Mr. L. G. W. Morris (Leeds) and Mrs. F. B. Yates. Special regret was expressed at the absence of Mr. and Mrs. Walker through the indisposition of the former and hope was expressed for his speedy recovery.

A CHALLENGING SPEECH.

Councillor Paddon Smith, in a challenging speech, proposed the toast of 'Church and State.' Many of them who were members of the Church of England, he said, no matter how much they loved the old Church and believed in its strength and in its power to do good, felt that it was not appealing to the people of this country, and more particularly to the younger people of this country, as it did in years gone by. Many of them had asked themselves why it was so. He thought he could advance one or two reasons. They were usually told there were so many counter-attractions in these days. He would grant them that, and these counter-attractions would grow in numbers as the years went by. If they were to let their churches become partly empty, because of counter-attractions, they would become quite empty directly. He believed it was a fact that not more than four per cent. of the people of Birmingham, and cities similar to it, were known to attend public worship. He did not believe for one moment that that was due to the fact that the feeling and respect for religion and the craving for real religion was any less to-day than it was fifty or a hundred years ago. In his opinion the cause of it was the method of presenting it. Religion, as presented by the services of the Church, was, in his opinion, as out of date as oil lamps would be in that room at that moment. He would ask the authorities of the Church to consider this from the point of view of the younger generation, and, when they considered it, he asked them to leave out the Church officials over 80 years of age, for he did not believe that men of that age could come to conclusions helpful to the growing generation, however learned they might be.

Mr. Smith went on to say that in the church services they were constantly calling themselves miserable sinners. Although they might be sinners and might be wicked, they were not consciously or deliberately so. Was it good for them, therefore, to be called upon constantly to confess their ' manifold sins and wickedness ' when they tried to live upright lives and to do unto others as they would be done by? There were a lot of dreary things in the Church of England service and many senseless repetitions. He quoted the Benedicite as an example of the latter, and added that when the Litany was said they called themselves ' miserable sinners ' eight times in as many minutes; and in the baptismal service they were told that every child, the most beautiful thing in the world, ' was conceived and born in sin. ' Sentiments of this kind might have been all right in a past age, but he appealed to the Church to make some effort to modernise their method of presenting religion. The things of to-day were more important to us than what St. Paul said to the Philippians or the Corinthians two thousand years ago. The fault did not lie with the clergy, but they might use their influence to have changes effected which would make the church services more attractive to young people. In conclusion, Mr. Smith said he hoped Church and State would never be separated, but that the Church would continue to be linked with the Government of the country, for he was sure it would be for the country's good. He thought, however, that by some sort of reorganisation—he would not call it window-dressing—they could make the services more attractive and fill the churches as they were filled in days gone by.

THE CHURCH'S FREEDOM.

Canon Guy Rogers, who replied to the toast, said they had to exercise their critical faculties in regard to the various suggestions made to them, yet they would feel that there was a helpful reality in what lay behind what Mr. Smith had said. The Rector emphasised the fact that there was sometimes poetry in repetition, and some of the marvellous effects of English and Hebrew poetry were only achieved by a gracious and beautiful use of repetition. There were, he continued, some people who liked short services, others who complained that sermons were too short. It was most difficult to please everybody, but the clergy did their best. He thought Mr. Smith would make an admirable bishop (laughter), and he would be very glad to displace some of the people in the Lower House of Convocation if that would allow Mr. Smith to take their place (laughter). The Rector said that when an attempt was made to change much of the baptismal service, which he agreed might easily be changed for the better, the people who were really sticky and stodgy to an astonishing degree were not the bishops or the clergy, but the House of Laity. Canon Rogers asked Mr. Smith to do his best to improve the laity, because it was from the laity that the clergy were drawn.

Referring to the relationship of the Church and State, Canon Rogers said under the present constitution of England he hoped the happy relationships would continue. He would not hurry to break the bonds if reasonable freedom was allowed, but when the Church did speak out boldly and bravely on great moral issues there were a great many people ready to resent the freedom which the Church possessed. They could have no relationship with a State that did not provide complete freedom for the Church and the Gospel and witnessing to the value of Christian morals. Provided they enjoyed that freedom and maintained that inalienable right, he hoped the relationships would continue. In conclusion, Canon Rogers expressed his pleasure at being present on the great occasion of the jubilee of that dinner.

Mr. J. Jaggard, the only survivor of the band who rang in his last peal in 1884, proposed the toast to the memory of Henry Johnson and spoke in eulogistic terms of Johnson's ability, kindness and ready wit. Referring to Johnson's last peal, he said actually he was a lucky man to ring in it as he filled the place of ' someone who went messing off somewhere ' (laughter). The peal was rung on February 23rd, 1884, by ' nine celebrated ringers and a novice. ' The ringers were Harry Bastable, G. H. Phillott, W. R. Small, Henry Johnson, sen., Henry Johnson, jun., John Jaggard, the Rev. C. D. P. Davies, John Buffery, William Wakley and Sam Reeves. ' Now you know who the novice was, ' said Mr. Jaggard. He went on to say what a splendid celebration they had at the Colonnade Hotel 50 years ago, for Johnson's eightieth birthday, and said he remembered it well.

The toast was drunk in silence, and, in response to the chairman's request, it was ascertained that there were seven ringers present who knew Henry Johnson.

MASTER'S REVIEW.

The Chairman proposed the toast of ' Continued Prosperity to St. Martin's Guild, ' and began his speech with the announcement that he had an important piece of news. The eager expectancy of the party turned to laughter when he told them that Aston Villa had won by three goals to two. Continuing, he said he was very glad to be there that evening to preside over the fiftieth annual dinner in commemoration of Henry Johnson. He knew Henry Johnson personally and respected him as much as any man he had ever met. Proceeding, Alderman Pritchett said it was a great privilege to meet so many of his old friends in that very representative gathering of ringers, who, he was sure, notwithstanding the criticisms of Mr. Paddon Smith, were devoted adherents to the Church of England. He well remembered the worthies mentioned by Mr. Jaggard as ringing in Henry Johnson's last peal, and he was glad to know that Mr. Jaggard was one of them, although he was the last survivor of that band.

The Chairman went on to say he was happy to state that during the year they had lost none of their friends by death (hear, hear). He welcomed that night on behalf of the Guild the Rector of Birmingham, the Provost of Birmingham and the Archdeacon-designate of Aston (applause). They symbolised the interest which the Church took in church bellringing generally and in St. Martin's Guild in particular (applause). He was also glad to see there the president and the hon. secretary of the Central Council. They also had among them some of the party who had visited Australia, as representatives of church bellringing, including Mr. and Mrs. Richardson and Mr. Goldsmith. He extended sympathy to the latter on the prolonged illness of his wife, who formerly it was always a pleasure to meet at those gatherings. The oldest man among them that night was, he supposed, Mr. James George, who now rejoiced in having rung 1,274 peals (applause). He hoped Mr. George would live to ring a great many more peals. They had other veterans with them in Mr. Jaggard

NEW CONDUCTORS NEEDED.

ST. MARTIN'S GUILD MASTER'S COMMENT.

and Mr. Dawe, and they welcomed well-known ringers from many parts of the country.

Continuing, the Master said a high level of change ringing had been maintained by the Guild during the past year, and 14 peals had been rung, some of them memorable ones. In connection with the Coronation a peal of Stedman Cinquses was rung at St. Martin's and the first peal of Grandsire Cinquses on the bells at Aston. He had a feeling of intense gratitude for the peal of Stedman Cinquses rung at St. Martin's on September 14th, the day on which, under Providence, he celebrated his golden wedding (applause). He thanked the ringers who took part in that peal, especially the conductor, his old friend, Mr. W. H. Barber, of Newcastle, in whose first peal of Stedman Triples he took part at Kidderminster. He conceived a liking for Mr. Barber in those days which he had cultivated in the subsequent years. Another peal of note was the first peal on the new bells at St. Philip's Cathedral. It was Mr. Fearn's first peal of Stedman Caters as conductor. Mr. Fred Price had conducted his first peal, and he hoped he would conduct many more for the Guild, for they needed to be reinforced from time to time with new conductors in order to keep the art going. A peal at St. Martin's was Mr. Matkin's first peal of Stedman Cinquses as conductor. He mentioned these achievements in order to encourage those who had not yet had the privilege of conducting peals. It was a great achievement when a young ringer conducted his first peal (hear, hear). The 14 peals by the Guild had been rung in nine towers and were called by seven conductors.

Referring to the copies of the elaborately designed dinner invitation issued 50 years ago, which were to be circulated, Alderman Pritchett said it had been suggested that, as chairman of Birmingham Reference Library, he should take a copy for that institution, where it might be preserved as a specimen of Birmingham art and bellringing (applause). In conclusion, the Chairman said the prosperity of the Guild was intimately connected with the efficient work of the officers, prominent amongst whom was their worthy secretary, Mr. Thomas Reeves. Despite the fact that, as a Birmingham trade representative, his duties took him all over the country, and he was never certain when he would be in Birmingham, he worked like a Trojan to make their Guild and that gathering a success (applause).

TASK BEFORE THE YOUNGER GENERATION.

Mr. Reeves, in responding, said the Guild had been in existence since 1755 and had passed through many vicissitudes. It had not reached its present state of excellence without a lot of work on the part of those who had gone before. He was very pleased to hear Mr. Jaggard mention some of the names of those connected with the Guild fifty or more years ago. These were men who made great strides in the art of change ringing and in helping forward the improvement of ringers generally and of ringing chambers. The younger generation had no conception of the conditions which used to obtain in the old days, but, particularly in the last 50 years, during which diocesan guilds had been formed, successful efforts had been made to uplift the status of the ringer and ringing. It was up to the younger generation to carry on the improvements which had been effected in the last fifty years. He thought the clergy could help them very considerably in making improvements which were still necessary in many places. As far as Birmingham district was concerned, they were happy in their association with the clergy. At St. Martin's their Rector was very often up in the tower. They were always very glad to see him and appreciated his coming (applause). The clergy could, however, do a lot in improving the state of things in some of the backward towers of the country. They all knew that bells were put into the church towers primarily to be used for the honour and glory of God, and they should always be rung with that object in view. At St. Martin's, he felt, they looked upon their Sunday ringing as an act of praise (applause). They rang to the very best of their ability. That was a thing which ringers generally ought to have in mind—when they rang the bells they should ring them to the best of their ability.

Mr. Reeves concluded by thanking the members for the support they had always given him, which gave him encouragement in carrying on. Referring to the replicas of the early dinner invitation, he said these had been produced through the good offices of their friend Mr. Smallwood, and he hoped everyone present would take away a copy as a souvenir of that jubilee dinner (applause).

Mr. G. E. Fearn submitted 'The Visitors,' to whom he extended a cordial welcome. Many of them, he said, had come long distances to make that gathering a success. It was nice to see them in Birmingham year by year, and they were specially gratified to see Mr. Guise and his party from Bristol. The Birmingham men always enjoyed their visit to Bristol in January, and he hoped the Bristol ringers would equally enjoy their visit to Birmingham. He reminded the visitors that the gathering did not end that night. They looked forward to meeting many of their friends on the morrow (applause).

B.B.C. BLAMED FOR BEDALE BELL BROADCAST.

Mr. E. H. Lewis, who replied, first thanked the Guild for the warm welcome extended to the visitors. In London, he said, they looked upon Birmingham and Ipswich as the two places where they could be sure of getting good twelve-bell ringing—Cinquses in Birmingham and Maximus in Ipswich. Generally speaking, also, they looked forward to enjoying handbell ringing when they came to Birmingham. He was afraid that handbell ringing in London had rather dropped back. As far as the College Youths were concerned, it was very difficult to meet. London was expanding very rapidly, and the centre of London was becoming empty as far as residents were concerned. The result was that members had to travel a long way to meet for practice, and they did not meet as often as they would like to. Their handbell ringing had, therefore, been rather neglected.

Something had been said, continued Mr. Lewis, about the way the clergy could help ringers. He had once or twice recently made an appeal that more of the younger clergy should take up ringing seriously, so that, eventually, they could become leaders in the art. They appreciated very much the presence of the clergy in the belfries at all times, but they could not expect the older clergy, and those who occupied important places, to start learning to ring. It would, however, be a tremendous asset to the ringers of this country and to the Church if a larger number of the younger clergy would take up the art seriously. He did not know whether it was the result of his appeals, but steps were being taken in one or two directions. At Kelham, where young monks were training to be clergy, about fifteen were learning to ring, as well as one of the staff of the college, while at Lichfield Theological College the matter was also being taken up seriously (applause).

Referring to broadcasting, Mr. Lewis congratulated the Bridgnorth ringers upon their recent excellent broadcast for a church service. He was not going to apologise for the Bedale broadcast, but he knew the place and could assure them it was a difficult place to ring at and rather out of reach of the ringing associations. They had only a 'stone' band, and he did not blame the ringers for what was heard. He blamed the B.B.C. for ringing of that sort. The B.B.C. would never dream of broadcasting an orchestra the members of which were just beginning to learn to play the fiddle, so why should they broadcast people who were just beginning to learn to ring? What they wanted were performances as nearly perfect as possible (applause).

CRITICISMS THAT ARE APPRECIATED.

The Rev. H. McGowan, in proposing the toast of 'The Ringing World,' said there was nothing that held ringers together and made them into the fraternity that they were better than this newspaper. The very high standard among ringers and the fact that, generally speaking, they were much more recognising their duty to the Church, was in no small measure due to the work of and the support which was given by 'The Ringing World.' He wanted, in proposing the toast, at least to acknowledge that the type of suggestion and criticism which they got in the leading articles were the type which they appreciated, because they were written with knowledge, with a sense of responsibility and with no offensiveness whatever, and that made the suggestions always welcome and helpful. That was something for which they ought to be grateful, and he desired to express appreciation of all the Editor had done for them (applause). They extended sympathy to Mr. Goldsmith in the trouble they knew he had suffered, and hoped he would be spared for many years and would have the ability and will to carry on the great work to which he had set his hand (applause).

Mr. Goldsmith, in reply, thanked Canon McGowan for his appreciation of the work which he was trying to do. As the years went on, he said, he realised more and more the opportunities which he had, and the responsibilities which accompanied them, of moulding opinion and influencing ringers for the improvement of their art, and he endeavoured to use these opportunities in the best interests of ringing. He did not expect everyone to be in agreement with all that was said in the leading articles, but if only those who read them were led to think about the subjects, the end he had in view was served. Ringing, continued Mr. Goldsmith, had received a good deal of publicity in the last three or four years. They had had a very good 'Press,' which had increased public interest in the art. Broadcasting had also given them publicity, but in this direction the effect upon the public rested with the ringers themselves, and in their own interests they should take care to put over the air nothing that would give the public cause for irritation or destroy the good opinion created by other means (hear, hear).

A SUGGESTED CHANGE.

Mr. F. E. Haynes, who proposed the toast of 'The Chairman,' said they all knew, of course, that that commemoration was originally started in honour of one of the greatest ringers who ever lived and had been continued in his memory. The time had come, however, when to a considerable number of the younger ringers in Birmingham Henry Johnson was only a name. There were very few people who could remember him in the flesh, and he had made the suggestion that after this year they might well honour Henry Johnson's memory merely by standing and drinking the toast in silence. He had made the suggestion also for another reason, that, in his opinion, that dinner had largely lost its character as a commemoration dinner and become the annual dinner of St. Martin's Guild; in other words, the individuality of Henry Johnson had been merged in the corporate life of the Guild. The suggestion had brought more or less severe remonstrance from some of the older members of the Guild, but he did suggest the time had now come when they could, without any disrespect to Henry Johnson's memory, honour the toast in the way he had suggested. He and the secretary would be glad to hear opinions on this point on a suitable occasion. Continuing, Mr. Haynes expressed the gratification of the members that the Master's health was sufficiently

RINGING AT THEOLOGICAL COLLEGES.

GRATIFYING RESPONSE TO APPEAL.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—With reference to my letter in your issue of February 4th, I am glad to say that I have already received donations to the Kelham Fund amounting to about £4 10s.

Since my letter appeared, however, two further developments have taken place. Firstly, the Kelham ringers have been presented with a set of handbells. This generous gift has been made by the famous poet, Mr. T. S. Eliot, who on a recent visit to Kelham was invited by the ringers to attend one of their practices, with which he was very impressed. I am sure that many ringers besides those at Kelham will appreciate Mr. Eliot's generous action, and applaud the words which he addressed to the Kelham band in making his gift (which I will ask you, Mr. Editor, to print in italics): 'I fully agree with the desirability of every priest having at least enough knowledge of the subject to be able to appreciate the work of bellringers, and I am glad to be able to assist in such a good cause.'

The second development is Mr. Malcolm Melville's letter in your issue of February 11th, about Lichfield.

Under these circumstances I propose—with the consent of those who have already subscribed to the fund—to send half the money to Kelham to buy books to start a ringing library, and the other half to Lichfield to be used either for the same purpose or to help towards the purchase of the handbells they so badly need. In addition to text-books on change ringing, it is proposed to buy books of general campanological interest (e.g., Nichols' 'Bells through the Ages' and Morris' 'History and Art of Change Ringing'), as the purpose of the library is not only to help the ringers in their efforts, but also to encourage an interest in bells and ringing amongst all the theological students at the college.

It occurs to me that there may still be others of your readers who would like to be associated with this effort to spread the knowledge of our art amongst the younger clergy, and I am therefore keeping the fund open for another week or two to enable any who wish to do so to send me their donations—large or small—and to help to increase the amount already received.

Of course, any direct presents of books would be most welcome at both colleges.

In conclusion, I would add that the latest news from Kelham is most encouraging. There are now 15 members in the band, and these include two who are being trained by Mr. Sargent to carry on the instructional work after he has gone, several first-year students who have six more years at Kelham in front of them, and (perhaps most encouraging of all in view of the necessity of maintaining continuity) one member of the permanent staff.

HANDBELLS FOR LICHFIELD STUDENTS.

REV. W. C. PEARSON'S GENEROUS GIFT.

The bellringers at Lichfield Theological College are now the proud possessors of a set of fifteen handbells, the gift of the Rev. W. C. Pearson, M.A., of Henley, Ipswich.

In our issue of February 11th, we published a letter from Mr. Malcolm Melville, in which he appealed for some handbells, and within two days he received a letter from the Rev. W. C. Pearson offering to present a set of bells, in a box, to the college authorities. This generous offer was gladly accepted, and on Saturday last they were formally 'opened' by the principal of the college (the Rev. F. H. Ward, M.A.) and handed over into the custody of Mr. M. Melville for his safe keeping during his term of office as Master. Immediately afterwards some tunes were rung on the new bells by three members of the college.

The bells are a ring of twelve by Taylor's, size 18 in G, together with three other bells to allow of lighter octaves.

CHELTEMHAM.—On Sunday evening, February 6th, at St. Mary's Church, a quarter-peal of Stedman Caters (1,301 changes): A. W. Humphries 1, W. Townsend 8, H. Halford 3, G. H. Walters 4, C. W. Martin 5, W. Dyer 6, J. J. Causon 7, T. Boreham 8, J. F. Ballinger (conductor) 9, S. Hayward 10.

restored to enable him to take the chair on that occasion. He had held the office of Master for the last 35 years, and to that position had brought great honour and distinction. They felt it a privilege to have him to preside over them.

The Chairman, in reply, said he considered it one of the greatest honours of his life that at the advanced age of 83 he should have been selected to preside over that splendid gathering. He had now very few pleasures in life, but one great pleasure that still remained to him was to meet his old friends, and especially his ringing friends. In conclusion, he thanked those who had made the evening so enjoyable, especially Mrs. Hughes for her delightful handbell music, and Mrs. Matkin and Mr. Dowding for their songs and duets. They were also indebted, he said, to Mr. Woodhall, the accompanist.

The handbell ringing during the evening included Stedman Cinques and Triples, while the handbell solos of Mrs. Hughes and the singing of the vocalists mentioned by the chairman greatly added to the pleasure of the programme, which concluded at a late hour.

DURHAM AND NEWCASTLE DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

SECRETARIAL VACANCIES FILLED.

The pre-Lent meeting of the association was held at Whitley Bay, Northumberland, on Saturday, February 26th.

A short service was conducted by the curate, and tea was served in the Parish Hall, where 36 persons sat down. In the absence of the president (Mr. Murray D. Oubridge, of Gosforth), through a long-standing engagement, the chair was taken by Mr. R. L. Patterson, of Sunderland, vice-president of the Eastern District.

The secretary (Mr. Roland Park) reported that the secretaryship of the Northern District was still vacant, and since the last meeting the secretary of the Southern District had resigned on the grounds that he did not feel competent to carry out the duties.—Mr. K. Arthur, of Fenham, the former Northern District secretary, was elected to the vacancy, and Mr. J. T. Titt, of Darlington, stepped into the Southern District breach.

During the proceedings, Mr. Patterson asked the members to stand in silence as a mark of respect to the memory of the late Mr. John Stuart, of Gateshead, who had been a member of the association since 1902, and who had always taken an active interest in the affairs of the association. Mr. Stuart resigned from the committees on which he served at the last annual meeting owing to his failing health. His presence at the meetings would be greatly missed.

The chairman welcomed as visitors Mr. F. G. Sherwood, of Headingley, Leeds, and Mr. E. Burnett, of Kirkby Stephen, and a vote of thanks, proposed by Mr. C. L. Routledge, to the curate for having conducted the service, the churchwardens for the use of the bells, and the local men who had carried out certain arrangements, was responded to by the curate and one of the churchwardens.

During the course of the service a collection was taken on behalf of the North Shields Bell Restoration Fund.

Seven new life members, ringers at Kirkby Stephen, and one ordinary member were elected.

The bells of St. Paul's Church, a fine ring of eight with a 17½ cwt. tenor, where the Goffon family have in the past accomplished some notable performances, were kept going during the afternoon and evening to Grandsire, Erin and Stedman Triples, Plain Bob, Kent Treble Bob, Double Norwich, Cambridge and London Surprise Major.

OXFORD DIOCESAN GUILD

READING BRANCH.

The annual meeting of the Reading Branch of the Oxford Diocesan Guild was held at Reading and was well attended. In addition to members from the branch, visitors attended from Abingdon, Bucklebury, Cookham, Farnham Royal, Fulmer, Kingsclere, Nether Winden, Newbury, Slough and Uxbridge. The bells of the churches of St. Laurence, St. Mary and St. Giles were rung during the afternoon to Stedman, Grandsire, Double Norwich and Cambridge Major.

Service was held at St. Giles' Church, the Vicar (the Rev. H. Bonsey) conducting the service and giving the address. The collection for the Bell Restoration Fund amounted to 16s. 3½d. Tea at St. Mary's Church House followed, to which 63 sat down.

Dr. J. L. Joyce, the chairman of the branch, presided over the business meeting, supported by Canon Coleridge (Master of the Guild), the Rev. C. E. Wigg (Deputy Master), Mr. A. D. Barker (hon. treasurer) and Mr. R. T. Hibbert (hon. secretary).

The secretary submitted the balance sheet, which showed an increased balance of 2s. 4d., it being pointed out the smallness of this was due to a grant of £5 5s. being given to the Tilehurst Bell Restoration Fund.

The Master of the Guild was congratulated upon having reached his 80th birthday, as was also the chairman upon recovery from the illness which kept him away from the last annual meeting, and the sympathy of the meeting was expressed to Mr. A. Osborne, foreman of the St. Giles' tower, for his recent illness and operation, and all were pleased to know he had made a good recovery.

The election of officers resulted in all those in office being re-elected, viz.: Chairman, Dr. J. L. Joyce; hon. secretary and treasurer, Mr. E. G. Foster; auditors, Messrs. A. D. Cullum and A. Wiggins; representatives to General Committee, Messrs. Humphrey, Swain and Runham.

Quarterly meetings were fixed for Shiplake, Checkendon and Caversham.

Satisfactory reports were received from most of the towers in the branch, except for St. Giles', Reading, whose condition and prospects sounded very doleful.

It was agreed that in future all new members should be proposed at the annual and quarterly meetings, and, following this, six new members were proposed.

A 'whip round' taken during the meeting resulted in 12s. 6d. being collected for the St. Andrew's, Northampton, Bell Fund.

The meeting closed with a vote of thanks to the Rev. H. Bonsey for conducting the service and for his address, for the use of the bells at St. Giles', and to the Vicars of St. Mary's and St. Laurence's for the use of their bells; to the organist of St. Giles', and to Mr. and Mrs. Dyke for preparing tea and getting the room in order, and to the ladies who assisted in serving tea.

Although the bells at Tilehurst were available for evening ringing, it was thought the meeting closed too late for this kind offer to be taken advantage of.

PEAL NOTES.

MULTI-METHOD MINOR PEALS.

It is interesting to see how the practice of ringing more than one method in a 720 of Minor is extending in peals. At Cound, Shropshire, the first peal in eight methods in the county and by the association, as well as all the band, was rung on February 27th. Oxford and Kent were included in one extent. That, we hope, is but the first step.

A peal in 14 methods is recorded at Penistone to welcome the new Vicar, the Rev. E. D. C. Wright, who was formerly curate at Felkirk, where, by the way, they know all about the good striking necessary in competition ringing. The peal was rung immediately after the service of induction and institution.

The first extent in the peal was H. W. Wilde's spliced Kent and Oxford, having all the 5-6's the right way and with 18 changes of method. The other extents had as many changes as methods.

The first peal in 16 methods by the Hertford County Association, as well as by all the band, was conducted by Mr. Walter Ayre, at Flamstead, Herts, on Feb. 26th. The peal was rung with 89 changes of method, although only in one 720 were there more than two methods.

The first true peal in 32 Spliced Surprise Minor methods in Northamptonshire and by the Peterborough Diocesan Guild was rung at Glington, Northants, on February 26th. Five of the six ringers had previously rung seven 720's, but it was discovered that this performance contained two false leads.

Thirty-five spliced Treble Bob methods were on the 'menu' at Fairfield, Buxton, Derbyshire, on February 26th. When 35 methods were rung at Norbury, Cheshire, in 1923, for the first time, 'all the (ringing) world wondered.' Now the Cheshire band (the 'lineal' descendants, as it were, of the old Norbury company) seem to take such performances in their stride.

Mr. Walter Wolstencroft, of Ashton, who was in the first 35-method peal, was in the one at Buxton, and, though the rest of the band were different, the peal must have recalled that early triumph, for the methods rung were almost the same.

Very few peals of Erin Cinques are rung, and the peal at St. Albans Cathedral on February 26th was the first by all the band, which included many old campaigners, as well as by the Hertford County Association. Mr. Maurice Hibbert has now called and Mr. C. T. Coles has rung peals of Erin Triples, Caters and Cinques. Probably the only other ringer to have conducted Erin from Triples to Cinques is Mr. W. H. Barber, of Newcastle.

Six of the band who took part in a peal at St. Mary's, Stockport, on February 24th, rang their first peal of Stedman Caters—but they were by no means novices in peal ringing, as the names will show. The peal was a birthday compliment to Mrs. Norman Heaps.

Mr. John Worth, who called this peal, conducted one of Double Norwich in celebration of his own 28th birthday at Norbury (Hazel Grove), Cheshire, on the previous Saturday.

The 72nd birthday of Mr. E. Breeze, of Bebington, Cheshire, was celebrated by a peal of Cambridge Surprise Major on the eight eight at St. Nicholas' Church, Liverpool. It was the 201st peal by Mr. T. W. Hammond. His 200th peal was rung at Southport on October 26th last, but, by an oversight, no mention was then made of it.

Birthday compliments were also paid at Lavenham on February 19th, when Mr. Maurice Symonds called a peal of Bob Major to celebrate the anniversary of his daughter's birthday and of his own. Mr. Symonds' birthday falls on the 20th and his daughter's on the 19th.

With this peal Mr. Leonard Pryke completed the circle of the tower.

LADIES IN THE NEWS.

We have long been in the habit of seeing the familiar name of Mr. John Thomas cropping up in peal reports from many parts of the country, where his work as bellhanger for the Whitechapel Foundry takes him. Now the name of Mrs. John is appearing.

John called a peal of Stedman Triples at Milnrow, on February 24th, and of London Surprise at Radcliffe on February 26th, in both of which his wife took part. She was formerly Miss Amy Johnson, of Hinton, Evesham, and one of a family of ringers who were taught by their father, the late Mr. Frederick Johnson. Her brother, Mr. Joseph D. Johnson, is hon. secretary of the Worcestershire Association.

Mrs. R. Richardson must be the first lady to 'complete the circle' of a twelve-bell tower. She rang Surfleet tenor to a peal of Stedman Triples on February 19th, and has now rung all the bells at her Parish Church to a peal.

At St. Matthew's Church, Ipswich, on February 19th, the local Sunday service ringers rang a peal of Minor in three methods as a farewell compliment to their Rector (the Rev. Robert Sinker).

He has been Rector for 8½ years, and during his stay a new treble bell was added to the peal in 1933. His novel idea of a ladies' 'second eleven' to the men resulted in three keen and capable ladies coming into the art, in Miss Sylvia Bowyer, now attached to St. Mary-le-Tower, and the Misses Eleanor and Bertha Reeve, who still ring regularly at St. Matthew's and took part in the farewell peal to the Rector.

Miss L. K. Bowling, of Leeds, vice-president of the Northern District of the Ladies' Guild, rang her first peal of Stedman at Broadclyst on February 16th while visiting Devon. Four others of the band also rang their first peal in the method, which was the first peal on the bells since Messrs. Taylor and Co. completed their restoration in December last. After the peal the party were entertained to refreshments by the Vicar (the Rev. A. T. Allwork).

'Stars,' in these days, are little indication of a ringer's progress, unless it can be called progress to go from an 'inside' bell in London Surprise Royal to the treble in Bob Major. Mrs. Charles Kippin, of Croydon, who has rung many peals in Surprise methods on eight and ten bells, gets a 'star' this week for her first peal of Bob Major, rung at Redhill, Surrey, on February 26th.

A VETERAN 'COMES BACK.'

After a lapse of 24 years, Mr. Albert W. Humphris has rung another peal, and his reappearance was very fittingly to help in paying a compliment to Mr. William T. Pates, the Cheltenham veteran, on celebrating his 85th birthday. It happened, also, to be Mr. Humphris' 73rd birthday, and the peal served, too, to welcome the Rev. W. Walsley to the curacy of St. Mary's.

Mr. Humphris rang the tenor to the 13,054 Stedman Caters at Cheltenham in 1888 and the 15,227 Grandsire Caters in the same tower in 1889, both conducted by Mr. Pates. These two gentlemen and Canon Coleridge are the only survivors of these two bands.

Five members of St. Peter's Society, Burnham, Bucks, with a local man on the treble, rang a half-muffled peal of Minor in seven methods for the Royal Cumberland Youths at Hitcham, Bucks, on February 26th. The occasion was the funeral of Mrs. Bunce, mother of two previous members of the Hitcham band.

Mr. Thomas J. Thurley, of Chiswick, has been ringing for over 25 years, but until February 26th he had not rung a peal. He, certainly, could not be numbered among the members of the P.G.U. In this same peal three other local ringers took part, two ringing their first peal of Grandsire and the other his first peal.

The Archdeacon of Gloucester has been consecrated Suffragan Bishop of Tewkesbury, and to celebrate the event a peal of Grandsire Caters was rung on the bells of the fine old Abbey.

A first peal which was, after all, not a first peal, was arranged at Anstey, Leicestershire, on February 26th, for Mr. Harry Wayne, by the 'second string' at Leicester Cathedral. The peal was rung all right, but ten days before it came off the 'first eleven' stepped in and pinched the glory by putting him in a peal of Cinques at the Cathedral, which, as recorded last week, was successful. It is not often that a ringer goes off with a peal of Stedman Cinques and a peal of Stedman Triples as his first two peals at the first attempts!

The 123rd anniversary of the opening of the bells at what was then Lane End, Staffordshire, but is now Longton, was celebrated by a peal of Bob Major rung on February 26th.

IPSWICH RECORD.

The peal of Cambridge Maximus at Ipswich on March 5th makes the fourth peal of Maximus rung at St. Mary-le-Tower in less than ten weeks, in four different methods, viz., Kent Treble Bob, Superlative, Double Norwich, and Cambridge with three ladies in it.

Mr. George Moisey has completed 40 years as a ringer and 30 years' service as clerk and sexton at Badsey, Worcestershire. On February 28th a peal of Stedman Triples was rung on the bells of his Parish Church as a compliment to him, and Mr. Moisey rang the tenor.

The peal of Bob Maximus 'in hand' at Crayford on March 4th was an excellent performance, and an encouraging one, for the band are, for the most part at any rate, among the 'youngsters' in peal ringing. Three first peals on twelve, a first in hand, and Derek Sharp's first peal of Maximus as conductor. He called it from 3-4. In addition it was Geoffrey Murphy's 75th peal. Tom Groombridge, himself the junior, should be proud of the progress of his pupils.

After a peal had been rung at Highclere, Hants, on March 5th, when two of the band scored their first peal of Stedman, the Rector and Mrs. Dunlop entertained the ringers to tea.

The peal of Bob Minor rung on handbells at Barton-on-Humber on February 28th was entirely a family 'affair,' those taking part being father, two sons and daughter. The treble was rung by the younger son, aged 11, and the peal conducted by his elder brother, aged 17. Mr. Walter Goddard must be proud of his family.

The bells at Northiam in East Sussex were rehung in a new steel frame by Messrs. Taylor and Co. The first peal on them since the restoration was scored on February 19th, when seven 720's of Minor were rung.

The first peal of Bob Major on the bells at St. Mary's Church, Whalley, Lancs, rung on February 19th, was arranged for a local ringer, Mr. William Proctor, who thus scored his first peal of Major.

Mr. Harold Cashmore rang his one hundredth peal as conductor when he called a peal of London Surprise at Bushey, Herts, on February 24th. This 'century,' of course, includes the only double-handed peals of Spliced Surprise Major that have been rung.

By a coincidence, this peal was also the 200th peal on the bells. These peals have been rung in 28 methods, 13 of them, including London Surprise, being the first in the method for the association.

The peal of Kent Treble Bob Major at Kirby-le-Soken, Essex, on February 24th, was specially arranged for the two Ipswich ringers, Miss Bowyer and Mr. R. W. Steward, and was rung as a birthday compliment to two of the band, E. E. Davey and G. E. Jennings.

With reference to the statement in this column that the peal at Stalybridge on Feb. 5th was the first peal of Surprise in Stalybridge, 'Interested' writes that a peal of Surprise was rung at Holy Trinity Church there on Sunday, September 10th, 1905, conducted by the late Mr. W. Pye.

DON'T SCRUB YOUR HANDS!

To many people, the problem of getting the hands really clean without harming the skin is a serious one. Grease and grime, which become deeply ingrained into the pores of the skin, are extremely difficult to remove, and ordinary washing with soap or even scrubbing will fail to remove them completely. Housewives, particularly, who complain that their hands get ruined by the nature of their work, will find the preparation called DERMAFOAM, a real "godsend." DERMAFOAM just smoothes away dirt and grease without effort. It gets right down into the pores and removes every particle of grime, leaving skin beautifully supple and healthy.

Men, too—when you've finished that dirty job on the car, DERMAFOAM will quickly banish all grease and oil from your hands. It acts almost magically—working under and around the nails and into every minute crease, removing all trace of dirt in a flash.

Engineers, Painters, Car Mechanics, Printers — everyone — will welcome DERMAFOAM, the modern method of cleansing and protecting the hands.

'THE COLLEGE YOUTHS'

by J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE

'This is one of the very few books I have read which seem to me might, with advantage, have been considerably longer.'—The Dean of St. Paul's.

'Mr. Trollope has achieved more than his immediate purpose of writing a history of the Society of College Youths. So closely has the guild been identified with English change ringing that its history is to a very large extent an account of the ancient sport of ringing developed into an elaborate art. . . .

'Throughout his book Mr. Trollope takes his readers into a strange and fascinating world whose traditions so peculiarly English deserve far more popular attention than they usually receive.'—The Guardian.

THE 'UNATTACHED' RINGER.

The correspondence now appearing in our columns, as to whether non-service ringers should be allowed to ring peals, raises an important question of principle and policy. These are days when ringers fully recognise that their first duty is to the Church, and that the bells are primarily for use in connection with the services. Peal ringing is a development of the art, which, while it forms the best training in the making of a good ringer and therefore helps to raise the standard of service ringing, is also a means of maintaining interest, without which the incentive of many ringers would be lost. Time was, of course, when change ringing was purely a pastime and entirely dissociated from the Church services. That state of affairs has been completely changed by the steady endeavour of the ringing associations and guilds, who for the past 60 years or so have made the position of the ringer as a churchworker one of the main objects in their movement towards belfry reform. The primary use of bells is now unchallenged, and never before have the bells of so many churches been rung regularly for Sunday services as are heard up and down the country to-day. All the same, we doubt if the time has yet arrived when, without the opportunities which are provided for peal ringing, all those who take part in Sunday ringing would retain their interest.

The privilege of peal ringing keeps many a band together, not that they are uninterested in the service side of their work, but that alone would not offer them sufficient opportunities for the full development of the art as it appeals to them. It may be all wrong that such an incentive should be necessary; service to the Church should be sufficient inducement, but not all ringers are yet keen churchmen. When they are, it may be, peal ringing will sink into insignificance, but if it does the art of change ringing will assuredly sink with it. Change ringing, as such, is not essential to service ringing, but change ringing well done is the highest form in which a band of ringers can make their contribution to the service. Many ringers, however, are not in a position to ally themselves to a service band, and yet they can be of use in helping to raise the standard of others. A correspondent this week gives a striking example of service thus rendered. Where that happens it would be doing a disservice to the cause of ringing to exclude such a man altogether from peal ringing. And what of those ringers who, although willing to join the nearest band, are given no encouragement to do so by the company themselves? Their position is not of their own making, and why should they be penalised? On the other hand, it must be admitted that a ringer who thinks only in terms of peals, who rings on Sunday only to add another tower to his list, or depletes a service company in one tower to serve his own ends at another, is both selfish and undesirable as a ringer. Whether, however, such few of them as there are can be entirely excluded from peal ringing is another matter. It would need not only a boycott by every association, but the co-operation of the authorities in every church as well. Who is there who could draw the line between those who should be excluded and those whose circumstances make them still desirable; who is there, in fact, who could, or would, draw up the 'black list'?

PEAL NOTES.

RINGING PARSON'S SUCCESSFUL YEAR.

The Rev. Frank Bonner is proving himself one of the most accomplished of the clerical ringers. He began his peal ringing career only twelve months ago, and on March 5th, in celebration of the anniversary of his first peal, he rang a peal of Bristol Surprise. In the year he has rung 19 peals, of which six have been Bristol Surprise.

The peal was rung at Cheadle and was the first on the bells since rehanging. It was also the first peal of Bristol in the tower.

The peal of Minor rung at Tichborne, Hants, on March 9th, was in honour of the birth of a daughter to Sir Anthony and Lady Doughty Tichborne. The Tichborne family was well established in Hampshire long before the Conqueror. What the public knows best about them is the legend of Lady Mabella, and the claim of a butcher from Australia to the estates, on the fictitious ground that he was the eldest son of the tenth Baronet. The claimant lost his case and went to penal servitude.

Lady Mabella, as she lay dying, pleaded with a miserly husband for alms for the poor. He promised to give the poor the produce of the land she could 'encircle.' Since she could not walk, she managed to 'crawl' on her knees round two acres. Hence the origin of 'The Tichborne Dole,' which has been given yearly for six centuries.

Ronald Steward, of Sproughston, Ipswich, did not ring his first peal until August 2nd, 1937, but on March 5th he made his total up to 25, of which 22 have been rung with Urban Wildney. Ronald Steward is only 17 years of age, and is one of a party of young enthusiasts who, we hope, will go on and do great things in the years to come.

Clifford Pleasure and Percy's Pleasure were two methods rung in a six-method Doubles peal at Clifford, Herefordshire, on March 6th.

Mr. Hyett, who called the peal, informs us that he worked out these methods some years ago, but had not rung them until now.

Clifford Pleasure is Canterbury Pleasure, with a Grandsire single used as a bob. Percy's Pleasure has a Grandsire start and Grandsire single for the plain lead, with a Canterbury plain lead used as a bob.

Mrs. C. J. Matthews took part on March 5th in a peal of Stedman Caters rung half-muffled at Shoreditch as a token of respect to her late father, Mr. Frank Smith, who was for many years an officer of the Royal Cumberland Youths.

St. David's Day was celebrated with a peal in seven Minor methods at Tilston, Cheshire.

GOSPORT'S 'CHIMNEY STACK.'

The peal of Bob Major rung at Gosport, Hants, on March 12th, was not only the first peal of Major on the bells, but also only the second peal rung on them. The previous one (Stedman Triples) was rung over 41 years ago, on January 12th, 1897. The late Rev. F. E. Robinson attempted Stedman Triples there with G. Williams and others many years ago, but the bells were allowed to run home at the half-way owing to the 'go.'

The tower is a tall red-bricked campanile, dubbed by some as the 'chimney stack,' and at times the oscillation of the building causes the front four bells to drop if not carefully handled. In fact, peal ringing there is far from a pleasure, and the one rung on Saturday would probably not have been attempted had it not been for a bit of leg-pulling.

There was a coincidence about the peal of Stedman Caters rung at St. Mary's, Walthamstow, on March 5th, for the birthday of the Vicar (Canon G. D. Oakley) and Mr. E. E. Holman (one of the ringers). After the peal it was discovered that the odd changes in the peal of 5,067 corresponded with the Vicar's age.

Kenneth Simpson, of Shipley, Yorks, rang his 17th peal on March 5th for his 17th birthday. It was a peal in three Minor methods at Haworth. Kenneth is a promising young ringer. He was elected a member of the Yorkshire Association when only 12 years of age, and his peals already included Superlative and Cambridge Surprise Major.

Two sisters and two brothers of the Vessey family took part in a peal at Barnby-in-the-Willows, Notts, on March 3rd. It was Miss Kathleen Vessey's first peal. The band wish to thank her for standing in at the last moment in place of Thomas Vessey, another member of this wonderful ringing family, who was indisposed. The peal was the 25th which Miss Dorothy Vessey and Mr. Frank Vernon have rung together.

Four 'first peals' and a 'first as conductor' were scored when the first peal on the bells at Plymstock, Devon, since the bells were rehanging, was rung on March 7th.

Nineteen Treble Bob methods were rung in a peal at Marple on March 5th, but it was not technically a 'spliced' peal, as there was only one change into each method.

When Mr. H. L. Morgan, of Whitchurch, called a peal for the first time—it was rung at Bonvilston, Glam., on March 5th—he used 24 different callings in ringing 16 six-scores of Plain Bob, 10 six-scores of Grandsire, with six of the conglomerations by Pitman and Morris, and two of Lindoff's spliced 240's. As an initial effort at conducting it was a good performance. After the peal Mrs. R. Coles and her mother entertained the band to tea.

There are many interesting plain Major methods among the Central Council collection which deserve much more attention than they receive. One of them, Wymondham Bob, was rung at the church from which it gets its name on February 26th, the first peal in the method in Norfolk, by the Norwich Diocesan Association and by all the band.

A DIFFERENT 5,040 OF TREBLE BOB ROYAL.

The peal of Treble Ten rung at Poplar on March 5th contained some unusual features. The composition was by Mr. G. W. Debenham, who called the peal, and it contains all the 567089's, 468079's, 658790's and 567890's. A call is made in every possible dodging position of the tenor. The 468079's and 658790's correspond to the Middle and Home positions respectively of 5478 and 6578 in Major.

The composition is as follows:—

Mr. Hiram Meakin has completed 40 years' service as a ringer at St. George's Church, Stockport, and in honour of his 71st birthday a peal of Bob Royal, in which he took part, was rung on March 12th.

Police-Sergt. Peter Crook, hon. secretary of the Bolton Branch of the Lancashire Association, has retired from the Bolton Police Force—at least that is what the report of a peal of Grandsire Caters at Manchester Cathedral indicates, for the 'Ex' appears in front of his name for the first time. Four other members of the Force took part.

Ernest W. Pye rang his first peal of London Surprise at Brentwood on March 12th. He is the only son of the late Mr. William Pye.

Grandsire and St. Dunstan's Doubles are a favourite combination among some ringers in Gloucestershire. Another peal was rung at Haresfield on February 5th, a delayed report of which has just come to hand. Bert Jones is the first ringer to ring every bell in Haresfield tower to a peal.

When the first peal was rung on the bells of Goodworth Clatford bells, Hants, on Saturday, five of the six ringers gained 'stars'—one first peal, three first in the method, and one first of Bob Minor away from the treble. The Rev. F. S. H. Marle was one who rang his 'first in the method.' He is hon. secretary of the Andover District of the Winchester and Portsmouth Guild and is Rector of Deane, where the late Rev. C. D. P. Davies was incumbent for a number of years.

TRURO DIOCESAN GUILD.*LT.-COL. C. F. JERRAM RETIRES FROM RINGING MASTERSHIP.

The annual business meeting of the Truro Diocesan Guild was held at Bodmin on Saturday, March 5th, and presided over by the Archdeacon of Bodmin, Canon Williamson. Others present included Canon Windsor (vice-president), the Rev. F. Gilbert (hon. secretary, Mid-Cornwall Association), Messrs. W. H. Southeard (vice-president), H. Dunstan (treasurer), C. Lanxon (peal secretary), Lt.-Col. C. F. Jerram (retiring Ringing Master), the Rev. W. H. R. Trehwella (hon. secretary), Messrs. P. Williams (secretary of Truro Branch), E. H. Ransom (secretary of Launceston Branch), H. J. Clark (secretary of South-East Branch), H. Lander (Mid-Cornwall Association).

The hon. secretary reported that five towers had joined the Guild during the year 1937, viz., Bodmin, Lanivet, Lanteglos-by-Camelford, Lawhitton and Mawgan-in-Meneage. Each branch and the Mid-Cornwall Association had held two minor festivals, while the Diocesan Festival had been held at Truro on August Bank Holiday. The new Guild badge of membership had proved very popular, and had cost up to the present £16, which had been obtained from the deposit account. The current account showed a balance of £4 12s. 9d., and each branch secretary had a balance in his account except the Truro Branch, which has no fund.

The peal secretary reported that six peals had been rung for the Guild in 1937. He also produced a book he had compiled recording in illuminated lettering all the peals rung for the Guild since its formation, the number being 111. The book was much admired and is of great value to the Guild.

The Secretary said that only 29 towers had sent in reports of their Coronation ringing in response to the request made. It was a pity that the others had not done so.

The following elections were made: President, Dr. Symons; vice-presidents, the Archdeacons of Cornwall and Bodmin (ex-officio), the Rev. R. Hocking. Messrs. Southeard, Treffry and Wood.

Lt.-Col. C. F. Jerram stated that he did not seek re-election as Ringing Master, and Mr. W. H. Southeard was elected to this office, Col. Jerram being appointed Deputy Ringing Master. The general secretary (the Rev. W. H. R. Trehwella), the peal secretary (Mr. C. Lanxon) and the hon. treasurer (Mr. H. Dunstan) were re-elected.

It was agreed to hold the Diocesan Festival at Liskeard, subject to permission from the Vicar, and the Archdeacon was thanked for presiding.

Members then adjourned to Bodmin tower, where ringing took place on the eight bells, consisting of 'rising and falling,' 'rounds,' 'call changes' and Grandsire Triples, the new Ringing Master being in charge.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

Mr. G. F. Woodhouse's ringing machine grows more wonderful than ever. His latest development is the provision of a double panel, by which the mechanism for one method can be set, while another is being rung.

As a result the machine can produce spliced method ringing, and we have received from Mr. Woodhouse the diagram of a touch of nine leads, made up of Bristol, Ealing, Cambridge, Bristol, Ealing, London, Bristol, Superlative and London Surprise.

The diagram, of course, is made by the machine, as the changes are rung, and it is perfectly distinct and definite. It is 2½ inches wide, and the nine leads (covering 288 changes) take up a strip 29½ inches long.

The Backwell band would like to thank all the ringers who sent them congratulations on their recent broadcast.

It may not be generally known that the band is more or less new to change ringing. When it was organised 18 months ago they could ring Grandsire Doubles fairly well. Now they can ring four methods of Doubles and six Minor methods.

PROPOSED MEMORIAL TO MR. J. J. PARKER.

FARNHAM ROYAL BELLS TO BE RESTORED.

As intimated in 'The Ringing World' recently, a scheme has been inaugurated at Farnham Royal, Bucks, to restore the bells of the Parish Church in memory of the late Mr. Joseph J. Parker, the composer, who died at the end of last year.

Mr. Parker's contribution to the art of ringing need not be enlarged upon here, but thousands of ringers have benefited by his work and should desire to mark their appreciation of what he did.

The bells are to be retuned and rehung by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank at a cost of something over £200, and a suitable tablet is to be placed in the tower to the effect that the restoration was carried out in Mr. Parker's memory.

The Parochial Church Council have approved of the scheme and have appointed the Rev. R. Crawley-Boevey, The Rectory, Farnham Royal, as local treasurer. Contributions may be sent direct to him or through the hon. treasurer of the Oxford Diocesan Guild, Mr. A. D. Barker, Cambridge, Wexham, Slough. Every ringer who has had the pleasure of ringing one of Mr. Parker's compositions will, we hope, send a contribution to this memorial fund.

COMPLYING WITH THE RUBRIC.

THE SERVICE BELL.

To the Editor.

Sir,—In your excellent article on derelict bells, you say that one bell would suffice to comply with the rubric. No doubt you are referring to the General Rubric, entitled 'Concerning the Service of the Church,' where at the end we read: 'The curate . . . shall cause a bell to be tolled thereunto a convenient time before he begin, that the people may come, etc.'

What is usually done is to chime a single bell for two or more minutes before the service begins, only stopping when the minister enters.

This does not seem to meet the requirements of the rubric. Here, we reckon five minutes to be the convenient time mentioned in the rubric; and before all services (except the two chief Sunday ones) we stop the bell five minutes before the time for the service to begin; the bell having by then been chimed for just over twenty strokes.

On Sundays the bells are rung in changes, beginning three quarters of an hour before the service. At five minutes before, in the morning, the tenor is lowered, taking about three minutes, followed by the treble for the remaining two minutes. The other bells, not being needed till the evening, are left up. At five minutes before the evening service, change ringing having ended, all the bells but the treble are lowered in peal: this takes five minutes, leaving one minute in which to lower the treble.

Since our bells have been rehung, we have never been without change ringers twice on Sundays. Previously they did very occasionally go elsewhere. Then we chimed twenty or so strokes on one bell at half an hour, at a quarter of an hour, and at five minutes before the service.

It is a strict rule of this church that under no circumstances whatever must more than thirty strokes be chimed continuously on a single bell at any one time. If only this were a universal rule in every church (and especially where there is only one bell) there would not be anyone to complain of the noise of church bells. Can we not all talk about it and urge it on every church as a matter of good taste?

Ufford Rectory.

DOUBLE NORWICH MAXIMUS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—In the Peal Notes of March 4th the statement is made in regard to the peal of Double Norwich Maximus at Ipswich that 'the majority of peals have been rung there.' As a matter of fact, all the peals rung in that method have been rung there, except for an unauthenticated one rung at Norwich in 1817. It is somewhat surprising that this beautiful and interesting method has never been practised elsewhere.

Ipswich.

CHARLES J. SEDGLBY.

LEADING CONDUCTORS—10.*GEORGE E. SYMONDS.

Although in these days, perhaps, Mr. George E. Symonds, of Ipswich, is generally regarded as one of the foremost conductors on twelve bells, he is, nevertheless, among the most versatile of bob callers, for his conducting has ranged all the way up from seven 720's of Bob Minor to the most advanced methods of Maximus. As secretary of the St. Mary-le-Tower Society, he has worthily fostered the spirit of enterprise which has marked the ringing at this famous belfry and has conducted peals in no fewer than 13 Maximus methods.

Born at Oakley, a remote parish in North Suffolk, on July 11th, 1875, Mr. Symonds learned to ring in December, 1886, on the light peal of five bells in the adjoining parish of Brome, where he rang for Queen Victoria's first Jubilee in 1887. In 1895 he removed to London and rang his first peal at St. Giles', Camberwell, Kent Treble Bob Royal, on February 13th, 1897. His first peal as conductor was rung on February 5th, 1898, at St. Margaret's, Barking, Essex, where he called Holt's Original. He took part in the same composition rung silent at St. John's, Waterloo Road, on June 4th in the same year. Whilst in London he frequently rang the ninth at St. Paul's Cathedral, deputising for the late Mr. Ezra Carter, and before returning to his native Suffolk in 1900 he had rung in 30 different steeples in London.

In 1919 he succeeded the late Mr. James Motts as secretary of St. Mary-le-Tower Society and also became assistant district secretary of Ipswich District of the Suffolk Guild.

Altogether, Mr. Symonds has rung 328 peals and conducted 212. Thirty-four of the peals have been on handbells, of which he has conducted 27, and 294 on tower bells, of which he has conducted 185. No fewer than 98 have been rung on twelve bells and 106 on the bells of St. Mary-le-Tower.

Mr. Symonds conducted 24 of his 'first peals' on tower bells, viz.: In one, two, three and six methods of Minor, Bob Triples, Major, Royal and Maximus, Grandsire Caters and Cinques, Double Norwich Major, Cambridge Surprise Major, New Cambridge Surprise Major, Royal and Maximus, Kent Treble Bob Maximus, Oxford Treble Bob Royal, Forward Maximus, Duffield Maximus, Little Albion Treble Bob Maximus, Superlative Surprise Maximus, Pudsey Surprise Maximus, Rochester Surprise Maximus and Royal. He also called 13 of his 'first peals' on handbells, viz.: Grandsire Triples, Caters and Cinques, Bob Major, Royal and Maximus, Kent Treble Bob Major, Royal and Maximus, Oxford Treble Bob Major, Royal and Maximus, and Stedman Caters.

These peals included the first ever rung of Superlative, New Cambridge, Pudsey and Rochester Maximus, and Royal, and the only peal of Little Albion Treble Bob.

He has called Holt's Original three times from each working bell, twice from the treble and once from the tenor. Peals of Maximus have not usually many bobs, but in 1926 Mr. Symonds called 448 bobs and six singles in three peals of Maximus alone, viz., Forward, Duffield and a short course peal of Plain Bob. Among the other peals he has conducted have been the only peal of Oxford Treble Bob Maximus rung in five courses, peals of all lengths of Double Norwich, Oxford and Kent Treble Bob, Cambridge Surprise Major up to 5,184, and of Maximus, with a Treble Bob Hunt, up to 5,280, including the first peal of Surprise Maximus (New Cambridge) containing only 5,040 changes. He has conducted a 'George' peal of Kent Treble Bob Major, and rung a peal with a band all named 'Symonds.'

Next week: Mr. R. Sperring.

4th SUFFOLK'S MEMORIAL SERVICE.

At St. Margaret's Church, Leiston, on March 13th, on half-muffled bells, for a memorial service in memory of the men of the 4th Suffolk Regiment who fell at Neuve Chapelle, 560 Kent Treble Bob Major: G. R. Finch 1, J. G. Rumsey 2, G. Berry 3, F. W. Corney 4, J. M. Bailey 5, H. Hall 6, H. Vince 7, E. S. Bailey (conductor) 8. For even-song, 1,024 in the same method by E. S. Bailey 1, J. Berry 2, J. G. Rumsey 3, J. M. Bailey (conductor) 4, G. R. Finch 5, H. Hall 6, H. Vince 7, F. W. Corney 8.

MR. GEORGE E. SYMONDS.

YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION.*CUP-TIES REDUCE ATTENDANCE AT WESTERN MEETING.

The annual meeting of the Western Division of the Yorkshire Association was held at St. Michael's Church, East Ardsley, on Saturday, when about 50 members were present from a wide area. This attendance was rather disappointing in view of the excellent weather, but was no doubt affected by the numerous cup-ties which were being fought out in the neighbouring towns.

A short service was held, at which the Rev. Dan Walters gave a most interesting address. He reminded his hearers of the importance of their work in ringing the bells, and urged everyone to see that the belfries were always fully manned.

Tea was served in the schools by the local company and upwards of 30 members sat down. The business meeting followed, presided over by the vice-president, Mr. P. J. Johnson, and supported by the Rev. D. Walters.

The three retiring members of the committee and the hon. secretary were re-elected for a further period of three years, and the Chairman spoke appreciatively of their work during their period of office, which had just expired.

Mr. Johnson, in a characteristic speech, thanked the Vicar and wardens for granting the association the use of the bells and their hospitality, and spoke of the unique history of the East Ardsley peal.—This was supported by Mr. W. Barton.

The Vicar, in replying, spoke of the pleasure they had in welcoming the association. He himself was taking an interest in ringing and was already learning the art, and he hoped that the association would visit them again in the near future; there would always be a ready welcome.

Mr. W. Barton proposed a hearty vote of thanks to the local company and ladies for their splendid arrangements, and expressed the hope that they would be able to take full advantage of their kind invitation on some future occasion. This was seconded by Mr. Senior, and Mr. E. Watson replied for the local company.—The Chairman pointed out that some of the members were extremely fortunate in obtaining tea, seeing that only half the number sent in their names. He urged all to see that this act of discourtesy was remedied in future.

It was decided to hold the summer meeting at Giggleswick in June, and a special appeal is made to all members in that area to give their fullest support to the effort.

Five new members were elected as follows: E. W. Brown, C. Rawsthorne and C. Harrison, of Giggleswick, Richard Roberts, of Silsden, and D. Thorpe, of Pudsey.

Ringling continued throughout the day in a wide variety of methods from Plain Bob to Cambridge and Superlative. The following towers were represented: Armley, Batley, Birstall, Bolton (Bradford), Bradford Cathedral, Burley, Drighlington, Earlsheaton, Headingley (St. Chad's and St. Michael's), Hunslet, Keighley, Kirkburton, Leeds Parish Church, Oxenhope, Pudsey, Ripponden, Rothwell, Shipley, Silsden and the local company.

WORCESTERSHIRE ASSOCIATION.*SOUTHERN BRANCH VICE-PRESIDENT LEAVING.

The quarterly meeting of the Southern Branch of the Worcestershire Association was held at Hinton-on-the-Green on Saturday, March 5th. It was originally intended to be held at Stoulton, but the arrangements had to be altered only a few days before the meeting, owing to the illness of the Vicar of Stoulton's sister at the Vicarage, which is very close to the church. Consequently the meeting was a small one. Those present included Mr. J. W. Heath (Master), Mr. J. E. Newman (hon. secretary), Mr. J. D. Johnson (general secretary) and, amongst the visitors, the Rev. H. Benson, of Quinton.

Ringling began at 5 p.m., and the business meeting was held later in the church, the Rector (the Rev. V. C. Blyth) presiding. Having opened the meeting with prayer, he said how sorry he was to be leaving Hinton. During his 14 years there he had presided at several ringing meetings and made friends with many ringers. He regretted that the Parish Church at Weymouth (to which place he was going to retire) had no bells and he would be summoned to church by a gramophone record.

It was reported that the last quarterly peal had not yet been rung. Mr. Johnson proposed that the next quarterly peal should be rung at Hinton and the arrangements left in the hands of Mr. J. E. Newman.

It was proposed that the next quarterly meeting should be held at Stoulton, if possible, or at Bishampton.

One life member (the Rev. H. Benson), one honorary member (the Rev. J. Cathcart Davies, of Cropthorne) and 19 performing members were elected.

A vote of thanks was passed to the Rev. V. C. Blyth for allowing the meeting to be held at such short notice, for presiding at the meeting, and also for his kindness to ringers during the time he had been in the district.

Mr. J. D. Johnson reminded the meeting that the branch would have to nominate a new vice-president in the Rev. V. C. Blyth's place.

The secretary was requested to send a letter of sympathy from the branch to the Vicar of Stoulton.

Ringling was resumed until 8.30 p.m., the methods including Grandsire, Stedman, Plain Bob and Kent Treble Bob.

NO COMPULSORY RETIREMENT OF OFFICERS.

Service Ringing at Southwark Cathedral Discontinued.

Nearly 80 members attended the Surrey Association's annual general meeting, held on Saturday, March 5th, at Reigate, one of the oldest boroughs in the county. The Rev. R. Talbot (Vicar) conducted shortened evensong and took for his text Psalm 119, part of verse 160, 'Thy word is true from the beginning.' In again welcoming the members to Reigate, he said he had purposely avoided the subject of bells, and intended saying a few words about the Bible. He said that few people knew the origin of the word 'Bible,' which meant 'the' Book, and there was no other to be compared with it. He stressed the importance of the verse he had taken (believed to have been written by Ezra, the Scribe), which implied that every word of the Bible was true from the beginning. The worst crime a man could do was to rob a person of his belief in the Bible. The Bible should be installed in everybody's home, and children should be persuaded to read it.

Mr. D. K. C. Birt (Master of the association) presided at the business meeting, supported by Mr. E. G. Talbot (hon. secretary), Mr. C. H. Kippin (assistant hon. secretary), Mr. H. F. Wallis (hon. treasurer) and the curate at Reigate Parish Church. The Vicar, before leaving, expressed his regret at his inability to stay to the meeting.

Arising from a recommendation by the annual meeting last year that the committee should consider compulsory retirement of officers every three years, the secretary stated that the committee did not consider this course practicable, but they were fully alive to the desirability of adding new blood to the committee, and expressed the hope that recommendations would be made of the names of promising junior members to fill the posts on the District Committees.

THE YEAR'S RECORD.

The annual report expressed satisfaction at the manner in which the association played its part on the occasion of the Coronation. Two peals were rung on the day, and four others were rung during the month. Ringing took place at nearly all the affiliated towers, two quarter-peals were rung and four unsuccessful attempts were made for peals.

During the year 23 peals were rung, viz., Kent Treble Bob Maximus 1, Stedman Cinques 1, Grandsire Cinques 1, London Surprise Royal 1, Cambridge Royal 2, Kent Treble Bob Royal 4, Stedman Caters 1, Grandsire Caters 2, Superlative Major 1, Cambridge 1, Double Norwich 1, Stedman Triples 2, Grandsire 1, Minor in four methods 4. Five members rang their first peal, eight their first on 12 bells, three their first on 10 bells, and 32 their first in the method.

In the North-Western District five meetings had been held with an average attendance of 60, probably a record during the life of the association. At the meeting at Mitcham, a peal board was unveiled to the late Mr. J. D. Drewett, a former Master of the association. All Saints', Kingston, tower showed great promise, eight ringing and three honorary members having been elected at the last annual district meeting. Unfortunately, in the Southern District it had been necessary to delete an affiliated tower, as there were now no members. Steps are being taken to remedy this deficiency. Four members passed away during the year, viz., A. Gower, Col. T. F. Parkinson, J. Batters and T. Whitmore.

The association still progressed financially, balances in the bank being £50 18s. 11d., an increase of £5 over last year. Membership showed a decrease of 10, all in the Southern District, and it was hoped this would be remedied during the coming year.

There had been no ringing at Southwark Cathedral on the first Sunday in the month since August, and the committee recommended, owing to the adverse effect on Sunday service ringing in the county, that further ringing at Southwark Cathedral be discontinued.

Mr. C. Parks (Croydon) said it was a great pity the ringing at Southwark was to be discontinued. He thought it raised the prestige of the association by ringing at the Cathedral. Ringing in the past seemed to have gone very well, and he could not see any adverse effect on Sunday service ringing.

Mr. G. F. Hoad (Reigate) said the ringing at Reigate had been affected, and they could not afford to send members to Southwark.

Mr. C. H. Kippin said he would not take part in any further ringing there.

After some discussion, it was decided to endorse the committee's action to suspend further ringing at the Cathedral for the present.

Mr. T. Bulgin (Croydon), Mr. C. E. Smith (Godalming), Miss A. Fountain, Messrs. C. Goulding, T. Petchey and J. Pink (Beddington) were elected ringing members.

Croydon, Southwark Cathedral and Epsom were proposed for the next annual meeting. The assistant secretary explained that it was usual to visit Southwark once every three years, and upon a vote being taken, this venue was selected by a large majority.

The Secretary stated that owing to the departure of the president, the Rt. Rev. E. S. Woods, Bishop of Croydon, for Lichfield, the Lord Bishop of Southwark and the new Bishop of Croydon had kindly consented to allow their names to be submitted for the offices of president and vice-president respectively, and they had written expressing regret at their inability to attend the meeting.

The following officers were duly declared elected, no other nominations having been received: President, the Lord Bishop of Southwark; vice-president, the Rt. Rev. the Bishop of Croydon; Master, Mr. D. K. C. Birt; treasurer, Mr. H. F. Wallis; hon. secretary, Mr. E. G. Talbot; assistant secretary, Mr. J. Hobden; auditor, Mr. G. W. Steere.

Mr. D. Cooper said the present Bishop of Croydon was very interested in ringing and hoped to find time to learn ringing himself.

The Master said he was pleased to welcome Mr. Hobden as assistant secretary, owing to the retirement of Mr. Kippin. The latter he regarded as a 'father' of the association and did many years of wonderful work for it. He did not wish him to slip out of work for the association as he was no longer an officer, and expressed the hope that before long he would be in harness again.

ALTERATIONS TO RULES.

The committee recommended the following amendments to the rules:

(1) That the second sentence of Rule 8 be altered to read as follows: 'The subscription of a ringing member resident in the county of Surrey (or not so resident if elected before 1938) shall be two shillings annually.'

(2) That the following rule be added after Rule 8:— 9. A ringer not resident within the county may be elected a member of the association. He shall be a 'compounding member' and shall pay a donation of five shillings.

(3) That Rule 9 shall be renumbered 10, and the words 'elected before 1938' shall be added in that rule after the words 'a non-resident ringing member.'

(4) That the present Rule 10 be deleted altogether.

The Master pointed out that at the present time ringers outside the county were accepted on the same terms as those in it. Ringers had been known to join to ring a peal, and after a lapse of time rejoin, paying only the current subscriptions. To prevent that happening a 2s. 6d. re-election fee had been introduced. In many cases the arrangement was thoroughly justified, but there were other cases where it told against the ringer.

Mr. C. E. Smith asked whether the association covered the whole of the county of Surrey. Members in the Guildford area refused to pay two subscriptions.

Mr. Birt, in replying, pointed out that the question of overlapping boundaries had been considered by the committee at various times, and they were unable to provide a solution owing to similar complications that would arise in another part of the county if alterations were made. It must be assumed, therefore, that the association covered the same area as when it was founded, i.e., the county of Surrey.

Mr. F. E. Collins formally moved adoption of the amendments to the rules. Mr. H. V. Young seconded and the motion was carried without dissent.

It was agreed to hold a dinner again at the Greyhound, Croydon, if possible in early October.

Mr. F. G. Woodiss proposed that a donation of £2 2s. be made towards the memorial peal board erected in Mitcham Parish Church to Mr. J. D. Drewett. This was agreed to, Mr. J. Beams pointing out that Mr. Drewett was elected Master of the association in that room in 1914.

It was resolved that the peal books should remain in Reigate belfry for another 12 months.

Votes of thanks were accorded to the Vicars of Reigate and Redhill and the towerkeepers for the use of the bells, the organist and Mr. G. F. Hoad for his assistance in making arrangements, to the caterers (Messrs. Claydon, Claydon, Willett and Claydon), the chairman for his services, and the retiring officers.—Mr. Talbot briefly replied.

Ringing took place during the afternoon and evening on the ten bells of Reigate Parish Church and at Redhill (8) in the afternoon. Members attended from Ashted, Banstead, Beddington, Benhilton, Bletchingley, Buckland, Burstow, Croydon (St. John's and St. Peter's), Epsom (Christ Church), Ewell, Godstone, Horley, Kingston, Linsfield, Limpsfield, Chart, Mersham, Merton, Mitcham (SS. Peter and Paul's and Christ Church), Redhill, Reigate, and visiting members from Uckfield, Lindfield, Brighton and Shoreham.

FIFTY YEARS AS CHURCHWORKER.

DEATH OF VETERAN FRENESHAM RINGER.

On Saturday week there was laid to rest under the shadow of the 700 years old church at Frensham, Surrey, Mr. Henry Mills, who passed away at the age of 83, after 50 years' service to the Church in various capacities.

For nearly 40 years Mr. Mills was a ringer at Frensham Church and for many years he acted as captain of the local band.

Sunday by Sunday he was at his post, and, despite the difficulties which are to be found in a country parish, he kept a band together. Never a great ringer, he took part in one peal of Minor in 1912 for the old Winchester Guild, ringing the treble. Shortly after his retirement from the belfry, he was appointed churchwarden, an office which he held for five years, and till his death he acted as a sidesman.

For 15 years he was in charge of the churchyard as hon. superintendent, doing much of the work himself after his work as a gardener had come to an end.

After the funeral a short touch of Grandsire Doubles was rung half-muffled by the following service ringers, all of whom are members of the Guildford Diocesan Guild: T. A. Stroud 1, G. Ackerman 2, Miss D. Aslett 3, D. Dadson 4, L. Heath (conductor) 5, E. Case 6.

SIR HENRY TULSE'S FONT.

COLLEGE YOUTHS TO TAKE PART IN CEREMONY.

Next Wednesday evening a ceremony, in which ringers will be interested, is to take place at St. Dionis' Church, Parsons Green, London. The Bishop of Kensington is to dedicate a new font cover in memory of the late Rev. W. S. Carter and Mrs. Carter, and the Ancient Society of College Youths is to be officially represented.

Ringers' interest in the proceedings arises from the fact that the font itself was originally given to the Church of St. Dionis Backchurch, in the City, by Sir Henry Tulse, Lord Mayor of London and Master of the College Youths in 1684. The font was removed to the new church, when the old one was demolished.

The Font Presented by Sir Henry Tulse.

It will be remembered that Sir Henry Tulse's tomb was restored and a memorial tablet attached as part of the society's tercentenary commemoration last November.

The new font cover has been designed by Mr. Martin Travers, A.R.C.A. It is in the form of a sort of miniature of the old St. Dionis' Church, with the tower as the centre of the composition and the church as a Greek cross.

At the dedication service, which is to commence at 8 p.m., the Master of the College Youths will read the lesson, and a course of Stedman Triples will be rung on handbells round the font. A framed photograph of the ceremony at Sir Henry Tulse's tomb on November 6th is to be presented by the Society.

INCREASED SUBSCRIPTION NECESSARY.

The St. Albans District made a new departure on Saturday, March 5th, by combining Essendon and Northaw towers for a meeting. The attendance at both was very encouraging.

At the business meeting, Mr. G. E. Debenham, the hon. treasurer, sounded a warning note by informing the members that the association could not pay its way on the present subscription of one shilling without drawing on the reserve fund, and that they would hear a proposal of raising it to one shilling and sixpence at the annual meeting at Easter.

This statement was remarked on by the chairman, Mr. D. Ellingham (Hatfield), who said that shillings do not go as far to-day as they did 50 years ago, and that if their association was to go forward they would not have to grumble at the extra sixpence.

The next meeting of St. Albans District will be at Wheathampstead and Sandridge if available on April 30th. Ringers and secretaries are asked to note.

'FREE LANCE' PEAL RINGERS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—When replying to Mr. Housden's letter re non-service ringers, it was with no intention of starting a lengthy discussion.

Much could be written upon this subject, but for the sake of unity, the least said of this small minority of so-called 'free lances' the better.

Rather, let us take heed 'lest while ye gather up the tares, ye root up also the wheat with them.'

F. S. MACEY.

Sutton Valence.

INFLUENCE OF A 'FREE LANCE' IN CHESHIRE.

Dear Sir,—May I suggest that it is very unwise to discourage the activities of the so-called free lance ringer? Some years ago a very highly talented ringer came to reside in Cheshire. He showed no desire to become a service ringer with us, but attended our practices regularly. I gave him every encouragement to do this, realising that under his instruction we had a splendid opportunity of making real progress. In quite a short time, from a very ordinary band, we were ringing peals in quite a few Surprise Major methods. In addition our standard of ringing greatly improved, and two of our members became good conductors.

I soon realised that the interest of a ringer of his class could not be confined to one tower. In a short time he made his influence felt over the greater part of two counties. There are many ringers in this area to-day who would readily admit that their success in ringing the higher methods was due entirely to Mr. Edward Jenkins. Having been a regular service ringer at one church for 50 years, I consider I know what a service ringer should be. Even so, I have no regrets for the encouragement I gave to this particular 'free lance,' and would welcome the opportunity of repeating it.

W. BIBBY.

Frodsham.

A 'FREE LANCE' EXPLAINS.

Dear Sir,—I agree with Mr. Housden that a reform is needed amongst ringers, but that reform should commence amongst the so-called 'service ringers.' Some years ago, on coming to reside in this district, I went to the nearest tower for both Sunday service ringing and practices. Although I attended whenever possible, I was never asked to become a member of the band at this church, presumably because they were paid ringers and another member would mean so much the less for each ringer.

Removing to a different neighbourhood, I frequently cycled four miles each way to make up a band at another church for service ringing, and also on practice nights to assist the beginners. Again I was not asked to become a member of this paid band, presumably for the above reason.

Latterly I have been in the habit of attending at another church (there is no ring of bells in my neighbourhood) for service ringing and also the week-night practices, again with no invitation to become a member of this paid band, although I am able to ring methods much in advance of those practised there.

If Mr. Housden and Mr. Lee had had wider experience they would not talk of debarring 'free lances' from peal ringing or membership of associations. They would know what the result would be. I may add that the majority of the 'service' ringers at the above-mentioned churches seldom attend a guild meeting, unless at their own particular towers; it would cost them a few pence to go elsewhere. For the above reasons and others I am still

'A FREE LANCE.'

WHERE THE 'TOWER GRABBER' DOES GOOD.

Dear Sir,—I have read with considerable interest Mr. Housden's two letters in recent issues of 'The Ringing World.' I, for one, and no doubt many others, support his view of the primary importance of regular service ringing.

I have had the pleasure and privilege of taking part in a number of peals and a certain amount of 'tower snatching,' but I do realise bells are not hung for these purposes alone. I believe the great majority of ringers, including many of our leading peal ringers, share this view.

Undoubtedly there are exceptions, but how are we to check the activities of such individuals as Mr. Housden suggests? Some incumbents have little or no interest in their bells and ringers, and would not be likely to care if 'free lances' were occasionally helping to ring their bells, and, in so doing, grab a tower. Incidentally, often a 'tower grabber' makes just that one more which is a help when he visits a tower on a Sunday, and is in this way doing a little good, although he may be adding one more to his list.

One other factor should be considered, when a ringer visits another tower he or she expects a welcome, whether an unattached peal and 'tower grabber' or not. A warm welcome is freely given nearly everywhere; is not this as it should be? Ringers of the type just referred to are not likely to get a good reception at Mr. Housden's tower. They may be undesirable, but they are our fellow-ringers, and, out of common courtesy alone, they should be given a welcome.

I hope Mr. Housden and his fellow-ringers will conscientiously practise what they preach, as indeed we all ought to. Service ringing can be raised to a higher standard in many towers, and St. Peter's, Tunbridge Wells, is probably no exception.

DEVON GUILD.*EXETER BRANCH AND THE CATHEDRAL BELLS.

The quarterly meeting of the Exeter Branch was held at Crediton, when, favoured by a fine afternoon, some 60 members from neighbouring towers attended. The grand ring of eight bells in the central tower of the Collegiate Church of the Holy Cross came into constant use before and after the service, which was conducted by the Rev. E. A. Holmes-Gore, assisted by the Rev. E. V. Cox, president of the Guild.

In the Church Hall members subsequently reassembled for tea and the business meeting under Mr. C. R. Lilley, chairman of the branch.

It was resolved to hold the next meeting at Thorverton on Saturday, May 14th. Two new members were elected and four certificates presented by the president.

Mr. E. W. Biffin asked the chairman if he could state when the Cathedral bells might be available for practice.—The secretary of the Cathedral band, Mr. T. Laver, replied that the Dean and Chapter could only allow the bells to be rung on certain conditions, while the work to the tower was in progress.

Mr. Biffin said he understood that the Chapter had given Mr. F. E. Dave, of Woking, permission to attempt a peal on the bells on Easter Monday, which was causing a bit of uneasiness among some of the local ringers, as they had been refused an attempt quite recently.

A vote of thanks was accorded to the Rev. E. A. Holmes-Gore and the organist, to which the former replied, apologising for the absence of the Vicar owing to another engagement. To give all the members present an opportunity to have a pull, the methods rung were mainly Triples, with a course of Plain Bob and Kent Major. Newton St. Cyres and Bramford Speke towers were also visited.

MID-DEVON RINGERS AGAINST BRANCH PARTITION.

The annual meeting of the Mid-Devon Branch of the Devonshire Guild, which was to have been held at Kingskerswell on February 12th and had to be postponed, was held in the Parish Hall, Collaton St. Mary, Paignton, on Thursday, March 3rd, in the evening, when there was a large number of members present, as well as visitors from the Exeter and South-West Branches. The chair was taken by the Rev. W. R. D. Mills, of Collaton, chairman of the branch.

The Chairman announced that the branch secretary (Mr. A. L. Bennett) had withdrawn his decision to resign and had consented to continue in office.

The secretary's report was unanimously adopted. It showed that three meetings had been held during the year. A large number of non-resident members had been elected, and out of 26 peals rung for the Guild during 1937, ten had been rung in the Mid-Devon District. These comprised a variety of methods, including the first peal of Double Norwich Court Bob Major and the first peal of Oxford Treble Bob Major for the Guild by a band resident in the county of Devon.

The treasurer's report, also unanimously adopted, showed that the branch commenced the year with a balance in hand of 2s. and had ended with a balance in hand of £1 19s. 8d.

Mrs. A. M. Gover, of Torquay, wrote resigning her membership of the branch owing to ill-health, and this was received with great regret.

A letter was read from the general secretary regarding the partitioning of the branch, but it was proposed by Mr. C. R. Walker and seconded by Mr. R. Whiting that the branch be continued.

The following officers were unanimously elected: Chairman, the Rev. W. R. D. Mills; secretary, treasurer and Ringing Master, Mr. A. L. Bennett; auditor, Mr. C. R. Walker; three representatives on the General Committee, Messrs. H. C. Collyer, C. R. Walker and R. Whiting. The following were proposed and seconded as members of the branch: Messrs. L. Pollard and Hoopell, of Collaton band, and Mr. Roberts, of Cockington band.

It was resolved that the next meeting be held on Saturday, April 23rd, and that it be held at Kingskerswell, if the necessary permission can be obtained.

The question of providing assistance to the Cockington band came up for discussion, it being suggested that some combined practices there would be helpful to the members, and the matter was left to the secretary to deal with.

The president of the Guild, in addressing the meeting, touched on the importance of advertising meetings in 'The Ringing World,' remarking that it was the only ringing newspaper in existence, and he suggested that the towers should take 'The Ringing World' if possible. In a few well-chosen remarks he wished the branch every success in the future.

On the proposition of Mr. B. H. Cooper, a very hearty vote of thanks was accorded the branch officers for their past services, this being carried with acclamation.

When the business had been completed, some of the members adjourned to the tower for ringing. The more experienced members visited Paignton Parish Church, where the ringing consisted of touches of Grandsire and Stedman Triples and a course of Double Norwich Court Bob Major. An enjoyable evening was spent by all.

LATE NOTICE.*HOLLESLEY, NEAR WOODBRIDGE, SUFFOLK.

—At 3 p.m., on Saturday, March 26th, the Bishop of St. Albans will dedicate the new ring of eight bells installed by John Taylor and Co.

LEICESTER DISTRICT SOCIETIES.*ENJOYABLE GATHERING AT ANNUAL DINNER.

The annual dinner of the Leicester District Societies was held at Leicester on Saturday, March 5th. During the afternoon the bells of St. John the Divine (10) and St. Peter's, Belgrave (8), were rung to various methods.

The company assembled at the Hotel Victory for the dinner, to which 110 sat down. Visitors were present from Coventry, Kirkby Mallory, Lincoln, Loughborough, Melton, Nottingham, Oakham, Rugby, Sheffield, Stoke Golding and nearly all the local towers were represented. The Very Rev. C. L. Matthews, M.A., Archdeacon of Leicester, and the Rev. W. Groome-Merrilees, Vicar of Ellistown, were present.

After an excellent repast, Mr. H. G. Jenney, chairman of the Leicester District, extended a hearty welcome to all the visitors. In welcoming the Archdeacon, Mr. Jenney referred to the importance of goodwill between the clergy and the ringers, and said that, generally speaking, excellent relations existed, but this was not so in all cases. He thought more might be done by the clergy to get amongst the ringers and by this means see the conditions under which the ringing was carried out.

In replying, the Archdeacon said how pleased he was to be present at the gathering. He thought he might be considered the 'baby' of the party, as only half an hour before had he been made a member of the ringing association. He wished the ringers and their association every success and was delighted to see such enthusiasm existed amongst the bellringers, who did a splendid work for the Church.

The entertainment opened with a course of Stedman Triples on the handbells, and later a course of Stedman Caters was rung.

Other items included violin solos by Mr. A. Sampson, accompanied at the piano by his wife, and songs by Mr. Smith and Mr. A. Chiswell. Handbell selections were given by Messrs. S. Harrison, C. Hammswley and J. Hill, comedy numbers by P. C. Mowl and Mr. W. Bromley, and last but not least a very fine conjuring performance by Mr. A. Riddington, a member of Leicester's Magic Circle. Some of his tricks were really amazing and held the audience spellbound. In one case hen eggs were produced through the mysterious handkerchief from nowhere and rolled into a hat. These eggs, by the way, had no connection with the 'Dexter chicken,' which, as is only too well known in Leicester, has a very large breast of the latest streamline design.

The last item, of course, was the barman's song, 'Time, Gentlemen, please,' which came all too quickly and so put an end to another very enjoyable evening.

GOOD START AT KELHAM.*THEOLOGICAL STUDENTS' FIRST QUARTER-PEAL.

An excellent start has been made with the handbells at Kelham Theological College. On a recent Sunday, at the House of the Sacred Mission, a quarter-peal of Bob Major (1,344 changes) was rung by four students: A. Robson 1-2, T. B. Brown 3-4, A. F. Sargent (conductor) 5-6, A. T. Bartlett 7-8. Witnesses: P. Boulsover and J. Trainer. It was the first quarter-peal by all except the conductor, and A. F. Sargent's first quarter-peal as conductor.

The first peal on the handbells recently presented to the College was rung on February 24th, two members of the College, with Mr. Ralph Narborough, of Nottingham, as conductor, taking part in seven 720's of Bob Minor.

WEDDING BELLS AT AMERSHAM.

Another ringing romance has recently resulted in a wedding. On Saturday, January 29th, 'Bill' Redrup was married to Miss Beryl L. M. Audley, the bridegroom being the foreman of the tower at Amersham and the bride one of the recruits.

The bride, charmingly dressed in white satin and carrying a shower bouquet of red roses, was attended by the Misses Ethel and Mary Redrup as bridesmaids, in mauve and pink respectively.

In the unavoidable absence of relatives, the bride was given away by Mr. A. D. Barker. Mr. Donald Boreham acted as best man.

Many relations of the bridegroom and friends of both the happy pair were present, and after the ceremony they left the church to the tune of London Surprise Minor and under an arch of cricket bats, 'Bill' being wicketkeeper for Amersham.

Over 50 persons sat down to 'breakfast,' and afterwards the 'party' spirit prevailed. Some tune ringing on handbells by the 'usual three' was enjoyed, and a good course of Stedman Triples 'in hand' was also rung during the evening.

A peal of London Minor was attempted by the local band, with some assistance, but it came to grief in the fifth 720. Afterwards 720 London Surprise Minor was rung by C. Chalwin 1, G. H. Guttridge 2, E. C. Ayres (conductor) 3, F. J. Bolton 4, W. Edwards 5, H. Wingrove 6.

DON'T SCRUB YOUR HANDS!

To many people, the problem of getting the hands really clean without harming the skin is a serious one. Grease and grime, which become deeply ingrained into the pores of the skin, are extremely difficult to remove, and ordinary washing with soap or even scrubbing will fail to remove them completely. Housewives, particularly, who complain that their hands get ruined by the nature of their work, will find the preparation called DERMAFOAM, a real "godsend." DERMAFOAM just smoothes away dirt and grease without effort. It gets right down into the pores and removes every particle of grime, leaving skin beautifully supple and healthy.

Men, too—when you've finished that dirty job on the car, DERMAFOAM will quickly banish all grease and oil from your hands. It acts almost magically—working under and around the nails and into every minute crease, removing all trace of dirt in a flash.

Engineers, Painters, Car Mechanics, Printers — everyone — will welcome DERMAFOAM, the modern method of cleansing and protecting the hands.

'THE COLLEGE YOUTHS'

by J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE

'This is one of the very few books I have read which seem to me might, with advantage, have been considerably longer.'—The Dean of St. Paul's.

'Mr. Trollope has achieved more than his immediate purpose of writing a history of the Society of College Youths. So closely has the guild been identified with English change ringing that its history is to a very large extent an account of the ancient sport of ringing developed into an elaborate art. . . .

Throughout his book Mr. Trollope takes his readers into a strange and fascinating world whose traditions so peculiarly English deserve far more popular attention than they usually receive.'—The Guardian.

THE FUTURE OF LONDON RINGING.

Matters of more than usual interest concerning ringing in London were discussed at the annual dinner of the Royal Cumberland Youths on Saturday. Incidentally, this gathering was evidence of an increased interest in this old society, which from its earliest days has been the 'rival' of the College Youths, but the friendly spirit which at present exists in their relations was shown by the presence of many members, including the Master and other officials of the Ancient Society. The speeches throughout the evening turned very largely on the subject of the many silent bells of London and the relationships between the various ringing organisations which now cover the metropolis, and if any improvement in either direction results it will be all to the good.

A close investigation of the state of ringing in the metropolis can only result in a feeling of disappointment to those who would like to see it occupying a position commensurate with the importance of London as a centre of our art, and a great city of bells. London could provide inexhaustible opportunities if even one-half of the silent peals were to be regularly heard again. It is a reflection upon the Church authorities and upon the ringing organisations that in only about twenty, out of seventy churches with rings of bells, is there any semblance of regular Sunday service ringing, and in not all of these is there ringing every Sunday. Many factors have led to this state of affairs, but we feel sure that some of the churches are losing their congregations in part from the fact that they fail to signify their existence by the best means at their disposal, the ringing of the bells. The very presence of the church, in some areas, must be unknown to a great many of whatever 'resident' population is left, for the bells are the best if not the only advertisement for the church's services, and these they never hear.

There is a tremendous problem before those who would rehabilitate the bells of London, even in a comparatively modest way. Individual efforts there have been to restore their use in two or three churches, and these are wholly commendable, but to make any real impression some more organised effort is necessary and the interest of the clergy must be awakened. We hope that something may come of the round-table conference suggested and approved by some of Saturday's speakers. It is only by a thorough discussion that any concerted action can eventuate, and the parties to it must be ready, not to talk for the purpose of putting up obstacles, but determined to find a way, if possible, to surmount the difficulties, and to pool their energies and resources for the ultimate general good. The conference must be entered into with the will to get something done, and not in a defeatist spirit to find excuses for doing nothing. The condition of bells and of ringing in London is a challenge to all the societies to unite in one great effort to bring about a better state of affairs. There is a youthful element growing up in London ringing; in its hands the future lies. If this element can be brought together and encouraged in a spirit of unity, instead of in the older atmosphere, which has tended to keep London ringers apart, then there is a future before London ringing brighter than any in its history.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION.*SOUTH AND WEST DISTRICT AT EALING.

A successful meeting of the South and West District of the Middlesex County Association and London Diocesan Guild was held at Ealing on March 12th, about 40 members and friends being present from Chalfont St. Giles, Denham, Duffield, Derby, Ealing (Christ Church, St. Mary's and St. Stephen's), Harrow, Heston, Hillingdon (St. John's), Kensington, Kingsbury, Northwood, Ruislip, Twickenham and Uxbridge.

Ringling took place at all three of the eight-bell towers at Ealing, St. Stephen's (3 to 4 p.m.), Christ Church (7.30 to 9 p.m.) and the Parish Church (before and after the meeting), the two first mentioned being under the control of Mr. W. F. Ellingham, Deputy Ringing Master, Mr. J. Herbert, Ringing Master, being in charge at the Parish Church. Methods rung ranged from Grandsire Doubles and Bob Minor to Cambridge and Superlative Surprise Major, many good touches being brought round.

A short service was held at the Parish Church (St. Mary's), conducted by the Vicar of Ealing, the Rev. H. Greatbatch, assisted by the curate, the Rev. P. M. Roberts, and was well attended. A striking and eloquent address was given by the Vicar from the text, 'I beseech you that ye walk worthy of the vocation wherewith ye are called,' Extending a warm welcome to those present, the Vicar expressed his pleasure that the meeting was held on an Ember Day, a day of prayer for the ministers of the Church and very appropriate for the occasion, and of great importance in the life of the Church. A vocation, the Vicar remarked, was a calling given by God, their vocation being that of ministers of the Church, a minister being one who served, and they were fellow-workers with and not under or for God. Except for the wireless, remarked the Vicar, the voice of the bells carried far beyond that of the preacher, and ringers in their vocation were a constant reminder to those outside of the worship within. The Vicar referred to the many dusty old records in belfries about the country, reminding them how ringers in the past had served God as his ministers. He concluded by remarking that, as he came along and heard the bells ringing out their message, the thought came to him that with the 'pot' of Europe boiling and the future so uncertain, the message of the bells came as a challenge and as a reminder that God is King, still lives, still loves and still reigns.

A tea followed in the beautiful new Church Hall, those present including the Vicar, curate and Mr. A. S. Ling, churchwarden. Before leaving, and in response to a vote of thanks, the Vicar again referred to the calling of the ringers, the difficulties caused by some objectors to the ringing, and concluded by expressing the strong hope that Sunday evening ringing would soon be resumed at his church.

The business meeting was presided over by Mr. J. A. Trollope, vice-president, and routine business was carried through.

The next meeting was provisionally fixed for Chiswick on Saturday, May 21st, and it was arranged that the Southern District of the London County Association should be invited to join in this. A further meeting was provisionally arranged for Sunbury-on-Thames on June 18th, with Feltham as an alternative.

Votes of thanks to the three incumbents, the staff of St. Mary's, and the local band for the arrangements, including tea, was carried by acclamation and concluded the business.

STOKE-BY-NAYLAND BELLS.*FIRST PEAL ON BAD GOING SUFFOLK RING.

Suffolk has been noted for fine church towers and many fine bells, and one of the best peals of six hang in probably the finest tower in the county at Stoke-by-Nayland. It is 120ft. high, and, having triple buttresses at each corner, presents a solid and dignified appearance, dominating the countryside as a landmark for miles around. The bells are mostly ancient, the treble and 2nd are dated 1725, by Thomas Gardner, 3rd and 4th have no date, but are possibly pre-Reformation bells. They have very rich lettering. The 5th is dated 1699 by H. Pleasant, and the tenor is dated 1811. The diameter is 53 inches. An awkward peculiarity is that the ropes fall in a circle running 1.2.3.6.4.5!

The 'go' of the bells has, however, been considered rather bad, and two previous bands have attempted peals, but have lost them through the indifferent 'go.' Nothing daunted, however, a band from Essex, Cambridge and London decided to make an attempt. Arrangements were most ably carried out by Miss Hilda Snowden, Northern District secretary of the Essex Association. A good band was got together, and, after tightening the nuts on the headstocks and oiling the bells thoroughly (this being kindly done by a local ringer), an excellent peal was rung, ably conducted by Miss Snowden, as recorded in our issue of March 11th. The ringer of the 5th, Mr. Ronald Suckling, is to be congratulated on ringing and striking a bad going, odd struck bell, which he did very efficiently.

The Vicar (the Rev. C. L. Clibbon) and his wife watched the ringers start, and came into the tower at the conclusion and congratulated everyone.

Afterwards he most kindly provided an excellent tea at the Vicarage, and the band wish to record their thanks to him and his wife for their very welcome hospitality. He also promised to see about a peal board to record the performance.

Mr. Claude Snowden thanked him, on behalf of the ringers, for his kindness, and also for permission to ring.

On the way home, the peal ringers called in at All Saints' Church, Sudbury, where the local company were practising, and enjoyed two courses of Double Norwich on the grand ring of eight, recently rehung.

PEAL NOTES.*FEBRUARY KEEPS UP THE PACE.

Following upon January's large crop of peals, February has made what, we believe, is a record. No fewer than 189 peals were rung during the month, compared with 166 in January and 136 in February last year.

The peals we have recorded for the month have been seven twelve-bell, 14 ten-bell, 98 eight-bell, 59 six and five-bell, and 11 handbell. The numbers in February last year were 7, 11, 63, 44 and 11 respectively.

The peak year of peal ringing was 1913, when 2,359 peals were rung. In the February of that year 152 peals were rung. The two months of 1938 have far eclipsed those of 1913. January and February of that year produced 326 peals; in the first two months of this year the total was 350.

It was not so long since that only Cambridge was rung as a Surprise Royal method. Yorkshire, in some respects a better method, is now growing into popularity on ten bells, and at Haslemere, Surrey, the first for the Guildford Diocesan Guild was rung on Saturday.

Even London Surprise Royal is receiving attention in at least one tower—Beddington—and the Surrey Association rang another peal there on Saturday week, composed and conducted by Mr. C. H. Kippin, and in which his wife and sister took part. It was a birthday peal for Mrs. Kippin and Mr. T. G. Bannister.

To commemorate the laying of the foundation stone of a new church at St. Mary Bay, Kent, by the Bishop of Dover, a peal of Double Norwich Major was rung at New Romsey on March 19th. It was the first peal in the method on the bells. Mr. H. S. Humphrey has now 'circled' New Romsey tower.

St. Andrew's Guild, Holborn, welcomed their new Rector, the Rev. J. R. Howden, who has recently been inducted to the living, with a peal of Bob Major on March 15th.

The National Police Guild rang a peal of Grandsire Triples at the headquarters of the London Police Guild, St. George's, Southwark, on Thursday week. Four of the band are serving members of the force and the remainder are on the retired list.

Two birthdays were celebrated by a peal of Kent Treble Bob at St. Mary Magdalene's Church, Holloway, on March 12th, namely, those of Mr. George Charge, who is 62, and Mr. Albert Turner, who is 50.

Thirteen proved lucky on March 19th at Cowbridge, Glamorgan-shire. Hitherto peal attempts there had been unfortunate. For instance, Mr. Ernest Stinch had previously made nine unsuccessful attempts in the tower, four of Stedman and five of Grandsire, but the 'hoodoo,' or whatever it was, has now been laid, and a peal of Grandsire Triples scored. Perhaps it was the piece of white heather that Mrs. Talbot sent along. At any rate, it was Mr. T. M. Roderick's and Mr. R. E. Coles' thirteenth peal. Mr. Stinch has now called the Original in twelve towers.

THE SICK PARADE.

When the band that rang the peal of Cambridge Surprise Maximus met at St. Margaret's, Leicester, on March 12th, it looked like a sick parade on the morning of a route march. The local sergeant-major, we are told, was suffering from an attack in the interior (someone suggested the reason for this was not being allowed to ring the tenor). Another Leicester stalwart had been having a spot of bother with his dentist and looked like a piece of 'chewed string,' and when the Birmingham contingent arrived it was found that the substitute for one who was hors de combat had sent another substitute in his place.

However, it's an ill wind that blows no good. The senior of the Morris ilk volunteered to ring the treble, while two young ringers got their first peal of Cambridge Maximus. J. S. Mason rang particularly well considering that he had not struck a blow in Maximus before starting for the peal, and Frank Pervin got home his first peal of Maximus as conductor.

The Warwickshire Guild have had Ashtead Surprise added to the methods which have been rung by their members. The first peal for the Guild was rung on March 10th at Nuneaton, and it was the first in the method, too, for all the band.

After having served the Parish Church of Hampton Bishop, Herefordshire, for 47 years as parish clerk, Mr. George Griffiths has retired. On Sunday, March 13th, a peal of Bob Minor was rung as a compliment to him.

The first peal on the recast ten bells at St. Mary's, Nottingham, was rung on March 12th. The recasting and rehanging was done by Messrs. Gillett and Johnston in 1935, and the late Mr. Albert Coppock, then Ringing Master at St. Mary's, was largely instrumental in getting the restoration carried out.

Among the veterans still peal ringing to-day, Mr. W. J. Nevard, of Great Bentley, must have been ringing as long as any. On March 13th he took part in a peal of Minor at Great Horkeley, where he learned to ring 70 years ago.

The Senior Steward of the Royal Cumberland Youths, Mr. T. Bevan, pays an annual visit to Burnham, Bucks, where the Cumberland flag is kept flying by a young band which Mr. George Gilbert has trained. On the occasion of his last visit on March 12th a peal of Kent Treble Bob was rung, with seven other local Cumberlands taking part.

A band of bachelors rang a peal of Bob Major at Boreham, Essex, on March 12th. Are they lucky or unlucky? It depends, we suppose, on the point of view, but if they desire to keep their 'freedom' they ought not, perhaps, to have advertised their eligibility.

LADY'S ACHIEVEMENT.

Mrs. E. K. Fletcher, hon. secretary of the Ladies' Guild, has added to her many achievements by conducting a peal of Stedman Cinques 'in hand.' This she did on Wednesday week, when a peal was rung at Bushey, in which the four 'Spliced Surprise' experts and the hon. secretary of the Central Council were the other members of the band. It was a birthday peal to Mr. James Parker, Mrs. Fletcher's father, and, incidentally, the fiftieth peal together by Messrs. Harold Cashmore and Chris. Woolley.

Mr. Charles Shemming has 'circled' the tower at St. Margaret's, Ipswich. He finished off the job by ringing the tenor to a peal of Bob Major on March 12th.

A welcome to the new Vicar of Tadcaster, Yorks (the Rev. J. H. Hall), was offered by the ringers on March 12th when a peal of Grand-sire Triples was rung. The Vicar was inducted a week earlier.

A peal of Kent Treble Bob Royal was rung on March 12th at Isleworth, Middlesex, as a birthday compliment to the mother of Miss Olive Ashbrook, who took part in the peal.

The Chertsey District of the Guildford Diocesan Guild is not rich in peal ringers, but five members belonging to this area took part in a peal of Stedman Triples on March 17th at Egham, three ringing their first peal in the method.

The first peal of Stedman Cinques on the new bells at Manchester Town Hall was rung on Saturday with a mixed band of Lancashire ringers. It was, fittingly, rung in honour of Manchester's centenary as a city.

The bells at Stoke Damarel, Plymouth, were cast by T. Bilbie in 1787, but it was not until last week that a peal was rung on them; and even that had a narrow escape.

The peal was specially arranged to celebrate the birth of a son to Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Chandler, and splendid ringing had been maintained for two and a half hours. The last 720 had just been begun when, without warning, the electric light was switched off. Confusion reigned for a few moments, and the peal almost 'went west.' Fortunately there was a powerful street light about 100 yards away which shone almost directly into the window. The ringers gradually got used to the conditions and went on to complete the peal. To ring a 720 almost in darkness speaks well for the ringers' 'earsight'! However, we understand they have no desire to repeat this feat, and are not likely to forget their experience.

MADELEY, SALOP.—On Sunday, March 6th, for morning service, 720 Oxford Bob Minor: H. Harrison 1, J. W. Tranter 2, S. H. Tranter 3, T. S. Wilkes 4, H. Newbrook 5, J. L. Stainer (conductor) 6. First 720 of Oxford Bob by all the band, also the first on the bells by Sunday service ringers at this church.

SUSSEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

The annual meeting of the Eastern Division of the Sussex County Association was held at St. Saviour's, Eastbourne, on March 5th, when between 30 and 40 members attended from Waldron, Heathfield, Rotherfield, Mayfield, Battle, Chiddingly, Willingdon, Brighton (St. Nicholas'), Eastbourne (St. Mary's, Christ Church and St. Saviour's), Hastings (All Saints', St. Clement's, Christ Church, Blacklands). Mr. A. Piper (Eastbourne) was also present.

The service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. Claude Williams), who gave an interesting address.

The tea was presided over by the Master of the association, Mr. H. R. Butcher, who also occupied the chair at the meeting, which took place in the tower shortly after. The whole of the outgoing officers were re-elected. Four new members were elected, viz., Messrs. Ivan Pollard (All Saints', Hastings), J. Taylor (Willingdon), J. Gallop and T. Carlton (Hastings).

A hearty vote of thanks was proposed to the Vicar for the use of the bells and to Mr. A. Piper for covering part of the cost of the tea. Members then carried on further ringing and good practice was put in.

RINGERS' 'COMING OF AGE'

At the Parish Church of St. Mary's, Over, Cambs, on Thursday, March 3rd, a quarter-peal (1,344 changes) of London Surprise Major: J. Parish 1, O. W. Cook 2, Miss K. Willers 3, E. G. Hibbins 4, A. E. Austin 5, S. Brown 6, R. L. Lathbury 7, F. Warrington (conductor) 8. Rung as a 21st birthday compliment to the ringer of the treble, after a peal attempt failed. First quarter-peal of London by ringers of 1 and 6, also on the bells.

At the Church of St. Mary, Liscard, Cheshire, a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples was rung on Thursday, March 3rd: *R. G. Edwards 1, P. W. Cave 2, *G. Ledsham 3, G. R. Newton 4, L. L. Gray 5, W. E. Fletcher 6, *F. Varty (first quarter-peal of Stedman as conductor) 7, *T. Rogers 8. *First quarter-peal of Stedman. Rung as a 21st birthday compliment to the conductor.

RINGER CALLS WIFE'S FIRST QUARTER-PEAL.

Mr. F. E. Collins, who is well known in many parts of the country for his work as a bellhanger formerly with Messrs. Gillett and Johnston, had the pleasure of calling his wife's first quarter-peal, which was rung at Croydon Parish Church before evening service on Sunday, March 6th. It was 1,260 Grandsire Triples, rung by Mrs. F. E. Collins 1, H. J. Skelt 2, C. Parks 3, F. E. Mitchell 4, D. Buxton 5, G. H. Humphries 6, F. E. Collins (conductor) 7, R. Davies 8.

APPRECIATION.

MESSRS. JOHN TAYLOR & Co.,
BELLFOUNDERS, LOUGHBOROUGH.

ST. ANDREW'S PAROCHIAL CHURCH COUNCIL, BANWELL, SOMT.

"Dear Sirs,

"This Council views with much satisfaction the completion of the work on the bells of this Church which was entrusted to you, and desires to congratulate you on the efficient manner in which the contract was executed.

"There is no doubt but that the new metal frame is a great improvement on the old wooden one—allowing all eight bells to be hung on the same level and also giving more space for inspection and adjustments whenever necessary.

"The ease with which the bells can now be rung came as a great surprise to the ringers, who previously had to expend much energy and in some cases a certain amount of caution when engaged in ringing.

"The tone of the new bells in conjunction with that of those retuned, is exceptionally good, and the ringers and parishioners are delighted with the result.

"Will you please accept our hearty thanks for the way in which our requirements have been met and for the excellent results obtained."

Yours faithfully,

WM. J. S. SHEPPARD,
FRED. D. DAY,
Churchwardens.

T. H. AMOS,
Vicar of Banwell.

Banwell Church bells are a ring of eight, tenor 23 cwts., augmented, tuned and hung with new fittings in a new framework.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

At the annual meeting of the Irish Association, held at Drogheda, on St. Patrick's Day, the Irish Association celebrated the fortieth anniversary of its founding.

During these 40 years Mr. Gabriel Lindoff has been the hon. secretary, and the occasion was marked by the presentation to him of a gold watch and an address, as a mark of the appreciation of his long service. A report of the proceedings will appear in our next issue.

St. George's Church, in the Borough, is to be the headquarters in London of the Ladies' Guild, and efforts are to be made to arrange a rota for Sunday ringing at least six times during the year.

Two veterans of the College Youths celebrated their birthdays last week. Mr. Challis Winney was 80 on St. Patrick's Day and Mr. F. E. Dawe was 76 on the previous day. Both of them have been ringing for 60 years, and the good wishes of the whole Exercise will be extended to them.

Mr. Winney has given up peal ringing, but Mr. Dawe is still seeking new worlds to conquer.

The church magazine, 'The Sentinel,' for April contains an illustrated biographical sketch of Mr. Ernest Morris, F.R.Hist.S., hon. secretary of the Midland Counties Association, and verger and clerk to the Governors of the Select Vestry of St. Margaret's, Leicester.

A NEW 'STEDMAN.'

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—Your readers may be interested to know that I have written a book on Stedman for Miss Snowdon, that it is in the printer's hands and will be published in a few weeks. It is not a revision of C. D. P. Davies' work, but an entirely new book, except that Jasper Snowdon's 'History' has been edited and brought up to date and incorporated.

I understand that Miss Snowdon has still a few copies of Davies' book left, and I should advise those who have not got one to take the opportunity of securing a copy, for it will never be reprinted, and every ringer should try and get as complete a library of ringing books as possible. I can recommend both books with a clear conscience, because, of course, I have no financial interest in them.

COMPLYING WITH THE RUBRIC.

THE SERVICE BELL.

To the Editor.

Sir,—It is instructive to read that at Ufford no more than 30 strokes may be chimed on a single bell at any one time. It seems a reasonable rule for those places where only one bell is installed, for its monotonous sound can be very trying to neighbours.

I would like to refer to another custom which works well in this parish. It happens more often than not that the service bell is rung until the entry of the choir and clergy, thereby producing utter discord with the incoming voluntary on the organ. For many years it has been the rule here to start the five-minute bell (an unmelodious extra to the octave) when change ringing stops, but, as soon as the organist 'settles,' it also is silenced. The congregation appear long ago to have become used to this arrangement, as one hears no complaints, and the practice brings dignity to the opening of the service.

The writer in this case is the organist and a would-be ringer. It is a remarkable fact that although the ringers have control of the master-switch to the organ-blower they have never yet silenced the organ in favour of the five-minute bell!

FREE-LANCE PEAL RINGERS.

Dear Sir,—I had every intention of keeping out of this debate, as I consider there is no reasonable excuse for ringers to dissociate themselves from the obvious use of church bells when they can travel long distances on weekdays for the purpose of 'tower grabbing' and peal ringing. How in the world a highly talented ringer, such as Mr. Bibby mentions, could keep away on Sunday from the band he had the pleasure of ringing with on practice nights is surely past all understanding.

'Free Lance' (I do wish correspondents would sign their names) certainly puts forward an argument which in some places would be a good excuse for not wanting to associate oneself with service ringing. Paid ringing is, in some cases, a stumbling-block, both to the standard of ringing and to its future maintenance.

Mr. A. W. Durham has mentioned Tunbridge Wells, and as I think his last paragraph might lend itself to misconstruction, I feel obliged, as captain of St. Peter's band, to state the following facts. Our secretary, Mr. Housden, and the rest of the band practice what they preach as far as is humanly possible. We have twelve members, nine of whom are on the electoral roll of the church. We are, as Mr. Durham suggests, no exception in regard to the standard of service ringing. Contrary to some bands, we are, however, trying hard to raise this standard, both by regular attendance and good striking, and in so doing cannot have any very warm feeling towards the 'free lance.' Any ringer will be heartily welcome at St. Peter's at any time, but with the full authority of the churchwardens we do not encourage the use of our bells by 'free lances' for the purpose of peal ringing.

St. Peter's, Tunbridge Wells.

ALEC E. RICHARDSON.

LEADING CONDUCTORS—II.*ROBERT SPERRING.

Among the ringers of Cheshire, Mr. Robert Sperring has long been one of the leading conductors. Born at Farndon just 60 years ago, he learned to ring there as a lad, when only call-changes were practised. Afterwards he was apprenticed to the building trade in Chester and rang at the Church of St. Mary-Without-the-Walls. Later on he became leader of the band at the Church of St. Mary-Within-the-Walls, to which he has been ever since attached.

Mr. Sperring conducted the first peal he rang. It was Grandsire Doubles at Holt, Denbighshire, on October 19th, 1902, and was not only the first peal by all the band, but also the first peal of Doubles in Wales. Since that time his activities have ranged over a wide field, and he has now rung 560 peals, of which he has conducted 318.

Many of these have been interesting performances, among them the first peals of Stedman Caters and Kent Treble Bob Royal for the North Wales Association, which he called at St. Giles', Wrexham, on Jan. 8th, 1909, and Nov. 30th, 1909, respectively. He was the first to conduct Holt's Original in the Chester district, which he did on October 1st, 1904, and he called the first peal of Stedman Triples in Chester, rung in 1906. In the latter year he took part in a 6,048 of Double Norwich at Halewood, Lancs, the longest length in the method by the Lancashire Association and in the county at that time.

Of Kent Treble Bob Major Mr. Sperring has conducted many peals, among them four long lengths, including the record, within the space of seven weeks. This was in the year 1923, when he conducted 7,008 at Pulford on June 2nd; 9,344 at Tarporley on June 9th; 7,488 at Bunbury on June 30th; and 17,280 at Over on July 21st.

On February 9th, 1924, he called the longest peal rung in Wales, 10,400 of Kent Treble Bob Major at Rhyl.

Mr. Sperring's peals have been rung in Cheshire, Shropshire, Lancashire, Flintshire, Denbighshire and Carnarvonshire, and have included Grandsire from Doubles to Cinques, Plain Bob from Minor to Maximus, Kent Treble Bob from Major to Maximus, and Cambridge Surprise from Minor to Maximus.

On the 5th of last month he rang his five hundredth peal for the Chester Guild, a peal of Bob Major at his native Farndon. He has also served the Chester Guild in other ways, for he was hon. secretary of the Chester Branch from 1907 to 1919, represented the Guild on the Central Council from 1927 to 1929, and is still a member of the Guild Committee.

Next week: Mr. William Barton.

A NORFOLK RESTORATION.*DUFFIELD FAMILY 'OPEN' FORNCETT BELLS.

The Lord Bishop of Norwich dedicated on Sunday, March 13th, the restored peal of five bells at St. Peter's, Forncett. The church was crowded to overflowing, and over 38 ringers from Attleborough, Buxton, Caston, Colchester (Essex), Cotton (Suffolk), Dersingham, Diss, Garboldisham, Mulbarton, Norwich, Pulham, Saxlingham, Stoke Ash (Suffolk), Watton, Winfarthing and Wymondham were present.

The opening touch of the extent of Bob Singles was rung by Mr. William L. Duffield and four of his sons, James F., Harry T. S., William C. and Edward P. After the service the same band rang the first extents of Grandsire and Plain Bob on the bells. This was the first change ringing on the bells for upwards of 40 years.

Tea was kindly provided by Mr. W. L. Duffield at the School, and over 40 availed themselves of his hospitality.

The restoration of the bells was made possible by the benevolence of the Barron Trust, and Messrs. John Taylor and Co. were entrusted with the work, which has been very well carried out. The treble has been recast. The second and third are late sixteenth century bells. The fourth is a Newiman bell (1743), and the tenor, a Warner (1875), weighs 14 cwt. 1 qr.

MR. ROBERT SPERRING.

DUDLEY GUILD SECRETARY.
TWENTY-FIVE YEARS' SERVICE.
Presentation to Mr. H. Sheppard.

The services of Mr. Herbert Sheppard as hon. secretary of the Dudley and District Guild for 25 years were acknowledged on Saturday week, when, at the annual meeting of the Guild, he was presented with an easy chair. Ringing on the bells of St. Thomas' Church preceded the service, at which the address was given by the Archdeacon of Dudley, who is Vicar and president of the Guild.

The meeting followed tea in the Church Schools, at which upwards of 90 members were present, and the president was supported by the vice-presidents.

The accounts, which were adopted, showed an increased balance and were considered very satisfactory.

The Ringing Master (Mr. A. Davies) reminded the meeting that Mr. Sheppard had completed 25 years of efficient service as secretary, and it had been decided to mark their appreciation by presenting him with an easy chair. In addition there was a small balance which had been put into a purse.

The Archdeacon said he was honoured by being called upon to make the presentation to one whom he had known so well since he came to Dudley. Mr. Sheppard, or 'Herbert' as he always called him, had no doubt been a very efficient secretary to the Guild during the past 25 years. He was also his parish clerk, and in that capacity he had found him very zealous in his duties.

In his capacity of Archdeacon he often had to induct clergymen to their living, and, indicating how he took their hands in his to place them in their stall, he now took Mr. Sheppard's and placed him in his chair, with the hope that he would be spared to enjoy many happy hours in it.

Mr. Arthur Spittle, on behalf of the vice-presidents, spoke of many years' friendship with Mr. Sheppard, and wished him every success in the future.

Mr. Sheppard, replying, said that when he took over the secretaryship from the late Mr. William Micklewright he never thought he would be the recipient of a presentation such as they had just made him. It was a gift that he would always appreciate, and whenever he sat in it his thoughts would always be of them. He thanked the Vicar and subscribers for their beautiful gift.

The election of officers then took place. The president and vice-presidents were re-elected. Mr. Alfred Davies was re-elected Ringing Master, Mr. Herbert Sheppard treasurer, and Mr. T. Justice and Mr. G. T. Guest hon. auditors. A good number of new members were elected.

Mr. H. Sheppard proposed a very hearty vote of thanks to the Vicar, assistant priest, the organist, vice-presidents, ladies for presiding at the tables and preparing and serving the tea, and to every one who had done anything to make the annual meeting such a success. —The Vicar replied for all concerned and closed the meeting with prayer.

LANCASHIRE ASSOCIATION.*A VETERAN AMONG PRESTON BRANCH RINGERS.

The annual meeting of Preston Branch was held at Chorley Parish Church on March 12th. There were over 40 ringers present during the day from Preston, Penwortham, Leyland, Whittle-le-Woods, Brindle, Higher Walton, Hoghton, Brownedge, Goosnargh, Coppull, Chorley, Adlington, Bolton, Standish and Wigan.

Amongst those present was Mr. W. H. Timbrell, an old stalwart of the association thirty or forty years ago. He and his brothers used to ring family peals on handbells. Mr. Timbrell said his visit brought back memories of the first peals of Treble Bob rung on the Chorley bells, in which he took part with his brother Edwin, the Potter brothers from Walkden, and the late Titus Barlow, of Deane, Bolton.

Except for the interval for tea and meeting, which was held in the Institute nearby, the bells were kept going during the afternoon and evening. Mr. F. G. Bradley presided at the meeting.

The Chairman was again re-elected for two years.—Mr. Bradley thanked the members for re-electing him and also for their support whilst in office. He also appealed to them to attend the meetings as often as they could.

The secretary presented his annual report, and he also asked the members to try and attend the meetings as they did a few years ago.

The Chairman gave a full report of the committee's meeting at Wigan. The chief business related to the provision of the memorial to the late president of the association, Canon Elsee.

The place and date of the next meeting having been fixed, the meeting closed with a vote of thanks to all those who had contributed to an enjoyable meeting.

During the day the methods rung were Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Plain Bob, Double Norwich, Superlative and Cambridge Surprise Major, the striking being fairly good on the whole.

DOUBLE NORWICH COURT BOB MAXIMUS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—I must not let Mr. Sedgley's reference to the 'un-authenticated' peal rung at Norwich pass unnoticed. We can be as sure as we can of anything that has happened in the past that the method was what is now called Double Norwich.

ROYAL CUMBERLAND YOUTHS' DINNER.

LONDON BELLS AND BELLRINGING.

Conference of Societies Suggested.

The speeches at the annual dinner of the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths, held at Anderton's Hotel on Saturday evening, were very largely devoted to the conditions of London bells and bellringing. Among the suggestions put forward was one for a round table conference by representatives of the various interested societies with the idea of evolving, if possible, some co-operative line of action. The dinner had been preceded by ringing at Shoreditch, St. Olave's and St. Clement Danes' Churches, and the company numbered 125.

Mr. George H. Cross, Master, presided, and among those present were the Rev. Pat McCormick (Vicar, St. Martin-in-the-Fields), Preb. T. Wellard (Rector, St. Olave's, Hart Street), the Rev. W. Pennington Bickford (Rector, St. Clement Danes, Strand), Mr. E. H. Lewis (president, Central Council, and Master of the College Youths), the Rev. A. G. G. Thurlow (Wokingham), Mrs. G. H. Cross, Mr. T. Bevan (Senior Steward) and Mrs. Bevan, Mr. R. Heazel (Junior Steward) and Mrs. Heazel, Mr. G. W. Steere (hon. treasurer), Mr. N. Summerhayes (hon. secretary), Mr. A. Hardy (trustee), Mr. F. Symonds (auditor) and Mrs. Symonds, Mr. T. H. Taffender (Master, London County Association), Mr. G. W. Fletcher (hon. secretary, Central Council) and Mrs. Fletcher (hon. secretary, Ladies' Guild), Mr. A. A. Hughes (hon. treasurer of the College Youths), Mr. J. A. Waugh (Master, Northern District, London County Association, and Junior Steward of the College Youths), Mr. G. Williams (Master, Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild), Mr. G. Pullinger (Bishopstoke), Mr. Martin Stewart (Wimborne), Mr. J. S. Goldsmith (Guildford Diocesan Guild), Mr. E. Alex. Young, Mr. W. H. Fussell, (Slough), Mr. F. E. Dawe (Woking), Mr. C. T. Coles (hon. secretary, Middlesex County Association) and Mrs. Coles, Mr. G. Gilbert (Maidenhead), Mr. R. Narborough (Nottingham), Mr. and Mrs. J. Parker (Edmonton), and members and visitors from Gravesend, Leytonstone, Bishopsgate, Halstead, St. Olave's, Hart Street, Chislehurst, Melbourne, Cambs, Walthamstow, Streatham, Portsmouth, Guildford, St. Martin's-in-the-Fields, St. Andrew's, Holborn, Edmonton, Sevenoaks, Nottingham, Highcliff, Hants, Dartford, Colchester, Broxbourne, Burnham, Wimborne, Christchurch, Brentwood, Boreham, Woodford, St. Dunstan's, Stepney, Lincoln, Oxhey, St. Lawrence Jewry, Hitcham, Reading, Ipswich, etc.

NEGLECTED LONDON BELLS.

Mr. J. S. Goldsmith submitted the toast of 'The Church' and spoke of the indebtedness of ringers to the Church for all the facilities which made the art of ringing possible. The Church had provided the towers and the bells, and, if the practice of bellringing had not always been closely allied to the church services, there was a unity to-day of happy association and mutual advantage. The speaker went on to refer to the grave condition of neglect which existed in many London churches with regard to the bells. When they heard the bells of St. Paul's Cathedral ringing on Sundays, and the bells at St. Martin's-in-the-Fields and St. Clement Danes and some few other churches, they might get the impression that all was well, but that was far from being the case. Within five miles' radius of Trafalgar Square there were over 70 peals of bells, bells which bygone benefactors had given for the enrichment of the churches and which should be treasured and used, yet one-third of them were derelict or, from other causes, never rung; more than one-third more were seldom heard for the purposes for which they were provided; only some 15 were rung regularly, and five others periodically for Sunday services. Such a condition, he thought, was a crying shame. He was certain it could not entirely be attributed to the fact that ringers were unobtainable, as there were striking examples of bands being built up. Much of it was due to the condition of the bells and belfries, resulting from the apathy and indifference of the Church authorities. He appealed for some effort between Church authorities and ringers to bring about a better condition of affairs in London. In coupling the name of the Rev. Pat McCormick with the toast, the speaker referred to the broadcast services which come from St. Martin's Church. The Rector of St. Martin's, he said, gave them a practical religion for to-day, a religion which had also inspired that great social work, full of deep human sympathy, which came from the same centre and of which the Rev. Pat McCormick was the mainspring.

In reply, the Rev. Pat McCormick said he was surprised to learn that there were so many peals of bells within five miles of his own church. He had no notion where they all were, but it was a shame that so many should be derelict and unringed. There were, of course, many churches where there was great difficulty in raising funds, not only for bells, but for the whole of the parochial work, and he thought that was at the back of much of the neglect. Continuing, he said he was always delighted to be among bellringers, because they were such a jovial crowd. He had known a good deal of them in parts of his life, although for 12 years, while in South Africa, he never heard a peal of bells. At his church in Johannesburg he had one bell. When he pushed a button the bell began to ring and went on ringing until he pushed the button again (laughter). Referring to the broadcasts from St. Martin's, he said it was a tremendous privilege to be allowed to do it, but it was an awful responsibility. He felt that every time, and he found it just as difficult now as when he first started lest he should make a 'bosh' of it. He reminded his hearers that the whole vision of broadcast services from St. Martin's-in-the-Fields came from that great man, whom they lost last year, Dick Sheppard. His death brought a tremendous loss to the Church and to broadcasting, because he had a wonderful gift, not only of being able to 'put it over,' but of knowing what the people wanted before they knew it themselves. It was really his genius to see a little further than anyone else. He reminded those present that the responsibility for the prosperity and welfare of the Church was just as much theirs as it was the clergy's. The real backbone of the Church was the laity, through whom the work was going on and would go on despite any setbacks.

A HISTORY TO BE PROUD OF.

Prebendary Wellard proposed 'The Royal Cumberland Youths' and referred to the fact that in his Church of St. Olave was the oldest ring of bells in the City of London. The society, he said, had a wonderful history, which dated in its present form from 1745, although its beginnings seemed to be lost in the past. Their long history was something to be proud of. The bells of his own church took them back to the days of Samuel Pepys, they frequently tolled in the days of the Plague, they were rung for the victory over the Dutch and they had probably rung on every great occasion since. When Elizabeth was released from the Tower the bells were rung for joy, and she promised to provide silken bell ropes. The churchwardens obtained the ropes, but they never got the money out of the Queen (laughter). It was an extraordinary thing, continued the speaker, that in all these centuries there had been so little change in regard to bellringing. Certain improvements had been made, but ringing remained very much the same. In these days of mechanisation, when nearly everything was done by machinery, it was a very good thing to know they had not got 'potted' bells. He hoped they never would have. After all there was only one way to use bells and that was to ring them (hear, hear). Prebendary Wellard went on to refer to the unity that existed in the craft of bellringing, and said he had been struck with the wonderful enthusiasm the ringers showed for their job. They thought nothing of going a hundred miles to ring someone else's bells and going at their own expense. They set a high example to all who worked for the Church in their enthusiasm. He hoped they would long continue to carry on their splendid work, for which the Church was both indebted and grateful (applause).

The Master, in responding, thanked all the clergy who gave the society permission to ring at their churches. He said he had received a letter from their old friend, Mr. William Keeble, who sent his greetings and was sorry to be unable to be with them. He would be very pleased to receive a visit from any friends when they were in the neighbourhood of Colchester. Continuing, the Master said with regard to 'potted' ringing, they frequently heard it at All Hallows', Barking. He thought that ringers who made records of change ringing should make some sort of stipulation that these records should not be used for broadcasting from churches. Comments had been made, said Mr. Cross, on broadcasts in which the ringing was not as good as it might be. They had broadcast for twelve months from St. Martin's, and each time he went into the belfry he thought it was rather a nerve-racking job, so they should be rather careful in their criticisms (hear, hear). The Master added that he had spoken to the Rector about practices at St. Martin's-in-the-Fields, and he thought they might be able to get the bells at this church for a week-night practice about once in two months (applause).

A UNITED LONDON SOCIETY?

Mr. J. E. Bailey, who proposed the toast of 'Kindred Societies,' said they were very pleased to welcome representatives of associations and guilds from all over the country, and the society appreciated their help and support. Some ringers joined all sorts of societies all over the place, he said, and adopted the attitude of taking whatever they could get. He did not know that was altogether for good. Where associations were adjoining they often found two or three from each getting together to ring peals, but they never seemed to help their own towers or others who were struggling. He thought it would be better if ringers tried to help just one or two societies instead of dashing about everywhere and grabbing what they could for their own glorification. He was not decrying tours or outings when ringers went to remote parts of the country and created a stir and an interest by providing some really good ringing where it was seldom heard; indeed, he thought outings and meetings could be a great asset. They revealed a spirit of unity and comradeship among ringers, and he took that opportunity of thanking the various societies into whose territory the Cumberlands had been able to go to hold their own quarterly meetings.

He sometimes wondered, he continued, whether there was a lack of comradeship among ringers in London. He thought there were some London ringers who were inclined to ride the high horse: they rather put themselves on a pedestal and tried to make the people who came from the country feel a little inferior. He was not sure that that attitude was justified. It was perhaps a relic of the days gone by when London ringing was a standard by which the rest of the ringing in the country was judged. He did not think they could claim anything of that sort to-day. There were now country ringers who were as good as any to be found anywhere. Some suggestion had been made that the two old London societies should break down the rule by which they were kept apart, and that those living within a certain radius should be allowed to join both. He thought that was quite impossible. He did not think anybody would be prepared to say how far out of London they should draw the line. He suggested, however, that it might be possible some time in the future to form a society that would embrace the whole of London for ringing purposes. By doing that they would get more co-operation among the ringers in London and their difficulties could be better faced. They might say, perhaps, that that would kill rivalry. He thought they only wanted the example of peals rung in London to get their answer. The majority of peals rung for the different societies in London were rung more or less by the same men. A united London ringing society would overcome the question of Sunday ringing much better, although he admitted the problem of Sunday ringing in London was very great, on account of the distances that most of the ringers had to travel, but, he believed, if more co-operation were forthcoming more ringers could be obtained. If the London ringing societies would get together and discuss the question he thought some good might come of it. At present they were struggling along independently of each other (applause).

A SOCIETY TO EMBRACE ALL LONDON.

RESTRAINT IN BROADCASTING.

Mr. E. H. Lewis, who first replied to the toast, said it was at the last dinner of the society that the Rev. Pat McCormick announced that tunes had been broadcast from the bells of St. Martin's Church for the last time, and that, in future, the bells were to be rung for the broadcast services. He was quite sure that all the other societies in the country were pleased to hear that change ringing was to take the place of the tunes and that the society of Cumberland Youths was to be responsible for the broadcast ringing from St. Martin's (hear, hear). He had not been able to listen on every occasion when this had taken place, but he had been pleased to hear, whenever he had listened, that they had rung Caters and not Cinques. He praised their restraint in not ringing Cinques, because he did not believe the public understood Cinques, whereas they could more or less appreciate the music of Caters. They appreciated even more the ringing of eight or six bells. Change ringing on the highest number was more or less an acquired taste. He commended the society's restraint and hoped they would continue to exercise it.

Something had been said about the critics of broadcasting. He was afraid he was one of the culprits and he was going to continue to be (hear, hear). They had present that night three or four of their members from Nottingham. He heard their broadcast from St. Mary's a year or two ago, just after they had the new bells, and it was one of the best he had heard yet. They had a new band and they did not attempt to ring Caters, but contented themselves with ringing rounds and did it very well indeed. First they rang rounds on the front six, then without stopping they brought in the four tenors, and, again without stopping, they dropped the two trebles, leaving eight; so that the ringing was not monotonous. The striking was good, and because they used that restraint and rang only what they knew they could ring well it was one of the best broadcasts he had heard (hear, hear). As he had been blamed once or twice for criticising, he would like to say that quite recently they had had two excellent broadcasts, from Blackwall and Bridgnorth. In both cases there were only six bells, but the ringing was practically perfect, because the ringers exercised restraint and rang only what they could ring properly.

Speaking of the derelict bells in London, Mr. Lewis referred to the peal of five at St. Bartholomew's the Great, Smithfield. They were just outside the city boundary, but they were the only complete ring of five pre-Reformation bells in the country. It was a great shame that these bells should be silent. He knew of only one other complete ring of pre-Reformation bells, and that was at St. Botolph's, Cambridge, but they were only four in number. They, unfortunately, were also silent. He believed that the reason at Great St. Bartholomew's was not lack of funds or lack of interest, but was due to the architect having said that the tower was not safe for the bells to be rung in. He would like to meet that architect very much (laughter and hear, hear). After the Tay Bridge disaster the Board of Trade made a rule that no bridge or similar structure should be allowed to be built unless it could withstand a lateral pressure of at least 56 lb. per square foot. That was an excessive figure and had probably never been reached. It would need a wind of something over 100 miles per hour. But a wind pressure of 14 lb. per square foot was quite possible and was often felt in a strong gale. If they took almost any church tower and measured the area of the walls above the point where the bells hang and multiplied it by 14 lb. per square foot, they would find the pressure on that tower was greater than any lateral strain that could be set up by ringing bells; the only thing they need worry about was that the bells should be properly attached to the tower. It was nonsense to say that it was unsafe for the bells to be rung, unless the architect also felt that it was unsafe for the wind to blow (laughter). He believed a similar excuse had been made about the tower of All Hallows', Barking. He thought it was a great shame that those bells, which were rung not so many years ago, should be silent because the architect thought the tower was not strong enough.

A THORNY SUBJECT.

Proceeding, Mr. Lewis said that the difficulties arising from the existence of so many societies in the Metropolitan area was a thorny (Continued in next column.)

NEW CONDUCTORS GETTING TO WORK.

A meeting of the North Staffordshire Association was held at Newcastle-under-Lyme on Saturday, March 5th, a company of forty attending during the afternoon and evening from Burslem, Burton-on-Trent, Cheadle, Crewe, Draycott, Hanley, Kingsley, Leek, Longton, Lawton, Norton, Newcastle, Silverdale, Stoke-on-Trent and Wistaston. A short service was conducted by the Rev. C. J. Watkins, Rector of Newcastle, and tea was held in the Parish Hall.

The Rector welcomed the association once more to Newcastle, and hoped they would look forward to coming again as much as he was looking forward to meeting them.—Mr. G. E. Plant proposed the vote of thanks to the Rector and ringers of Newcastle for the use of the bells and having everything in 'apple-pie' order. Mr. G. E. Plant also remarked upon the beautiful church and tower. He thought Newcastle must be the nicest church in North Staffordshire. The tower is kept in excellent condition and possesses the best set of handbells he had seen.

The vote of thanks was seconded by Mr. T. Hurd.

Mr. J. E. Wheeldon, in proposing the vote of thanks to the ladies who had served tea so well, took the opportunity of referring to the response to the secretary's 'S.O.S.' at the annual meeting for more young ringers to take up conducting. He thought it had been answered very well, for A. D. Steel had conducted Grandsire Triples, C. H. Page and A. Crawley were doing great work amongst first pealers, J. Rider called Bob Royal, A. W. Hall conducted his first peal of Kent Treble Bob Major like a veteran, J. Cartledge did well in starting with Bob Minor with all first pealers in the method, W. Carnwell was ready to start conducting, and W. P. Deane lost a peal of Cambridge Major through no fault of his as conductor. Although he (Mr. Wheeldon) thought he would not be able to ring many more himself, he wished every young member great success.

Three new junior members were elected, viz., Leonard Bourne, Clifford Downing and Frank Marsh, all of Newcastle. Leonard Bourne, who is still a schoolboy, rang the treble to Grandsire Triples during the afternoon. Newcastle ringers invite all ringers to their practice on Friday, March 25th, at 7.30 p.m.

GUILDFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

The Chertsey District had a very successful meeting at Ottershaw, a six-bell tower, on March 12th. Some 25 ringers were present, mostly from the district, and some very useful practice was put in, Grandsire Doubles, for the benefit of a number of beginners, being given a lot of attention. Many other methods were also rung, and some experiments made, with more or less success, on the 'blue lines,' which one of the six-bell experts produced.

The Vicar conducted the usual service and the hymns were sung unaccompanied.

After tea in the Parish Hall, the Vicar presided over a short business meeting, at which he was elected an honorary member, and a sub-committee was formed to consider the possibility of holding a district summer outing.

Thanks were accorded to the Vicar and the local band for the arrangements made.

subject. In the College Youths he could say there was no exclusiveness and country ringers were welcomed. There was only one tower where there was exclusiveness in regard to the ringing and that was in the tower of St. Paul's Cathedral (hear, hear). They were not everybody's bells and they were certainly not beginners' bells. Personally he had not met any feeling of exclusiveness in London, although he must say he had not rung in many London churches on Sundays.

'There are difficulties,' continued Mr. Lewis, 'but I think it would be a good thing to try and make ringing in London more successful, and if it is thought that two or three members from each society should meet and discuss the matter, I am quite sure the College Youths would be very glad to meet the other societies and talk over the subject' (applause).

There was, he said, a difficulty at some churches with regard to ringing, because they were so near other buildings that ringing might cause a nuisance. At Westminster Abbey, although the ringing is not curtailed for that reason, but for other traditional reasons, it was quite close to Westminster Hospital. Some of the other churches were quite close to offices, which made it difficult to practice in the week, and some were apt to cause a nuisance on Sunday, but that trouble could be got over if ringers or church authorities would take a little trouble to see that the sound of the bells was properly modified. It was not a difficult or expensive thing to do. Mr. Lewis referred to two cases which had recently come under his notice, in one of which the protest against the bells had got to the stage of calling upon the police to serve a notice requiring the abatement of the nuisance. But, by the use of tact and some cabot quilt, the difficulty had been got over, and it had been done at the expense of the chief objector (laughter and applause). In the other case no arrangement had yet been come to. He hoped that where ringing was prevented in the Metropolis through the bells being an annoyance to the public, the authorities would take steps to modify the sound, which could be done at a cost of only about five or ten pounds (applause).

NORWICH DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.*JOINT MEETING OF NORTH AND EAST BRANCHES.

A joint meeting of the North and East Norfolk Branches was held at Blofield on Saturday, March 5th. Ringing took place during the afternoon, and service was conducted by the Rector (the Rev. Shillito). Tea in the Church Hall was attended by 42 members. A short business meeting was afterwards presided over by the Rector, supported by the Rev. H. M. McMullan (president of the association), the Rev. J. H. Williams (Rector of Acle), Mr. A. L. Coleman (vice-president), Mr. J. W. Lee (chairman of the East Norfolk Branch), Mr. F. Nolan Golden (general secretary), Mr. J. G. W. Harwood and Mr. H. Tooke (secretaries of the East and North Branches). Two new members were elected and the Rev. Shillito elected an honorary member.

The next meeting of the Eastern Branch will be at Ranworth on May 28th.

The Association Standing Committee held a meeting afterwards, presided over by the president, and was well attended.

A vote of thanks was passed to the Rector for the use of the bells and the hall.

Members attended from Norwich, Yarmouth, King's Lynn, Wymondham, Diss, North Lopham, Fakenham, Dersingham, Garboldisham, Redgrave, Halvergate, Winfarthing, Shelfanger, Wroxham, Reedham, North Walsham, Acle, Norton, Bergh Apton and Blofield. The Rector of Acle also gave permission for the bells of his church to be rung.

ST MARY ABBOT'S GUILD.*ANNUAL DINNER.

A very enjoyable evening was spent by members of St. Mary Abbot's Guild on the occasion of their annual dinner, held at Slater's Restaurant, Knightsbridge, nearly 30 members and friends being present under the presidency of the Rev. Prebendary Arthur Smith, M.A. (Vicar), supported by Major N. L. Garratt, churchwarden, and the Rev. Kenneth Wood, the Chaplain of the Guild.

The loyal toasts were duly honoured, and, in reply to that of 'The Guild,' proposed in felicitous terms by Major Garratt, Mr. W. E. Judd, the Master, gave some particulars of the work during the past year, including peals rung in honour of the induction of the chairman as Vicar of St. Mary's and of the Coronation of their Majesties. He also expressed satisfaction with the attendance for Sunday morning ringing, but would always like to see a full band for the evening services.

'The Church' was proposed by Mr. G. J. Strickland, who remarked upon the warm interest the Vicar had shown in the work of the Guild and their gratification at his presence at their summer outing.

The evening was concluded by a very pleasant musical entertainment, including touches on handbells by members of the Guild, tune ringing by Mr. J. R. Mackman and songs by Mrs. P. Humphrey, Mrs. Frances Botham and Messrs. Miles, Selby, Strickland and Warner, the thanks of the party being especially due to Mrs. Beck for her 'excellent striking' at the piano, undertaken at rather short notice, her repertoire of 'old favourites' seeming inexhaustible.

SOUTH WALES NEW BAND'S PROGRESS.

As a compliment to Mr. A. Huxley, Vicar's warden, who was largely responsible for the installation of Christ Church bells, Ebbw Vale, the new band of ringers on Sunday, February 27th, after evening service, rang a quarter-peal of Grandsire Doubles, with 7-6-8 covering: T. Stephens 1, J. Lewis 2, W. Tomsett 3, R. Hallett 4, R. Stephens (conductor) 5, R. Alsop 6, J. Alsop 7, F. Baskerville 8. It was the first quarter-peal by the band.

In this district there are three townships in close proximity, each with a population of over 30,000, and Christ Church is the first to have a ring of bells.

SUDDEN DEATH AFTER SERVICE RINGING.

With tragic suddenness the death took place on Sunday evening, March 13th, of Mr. G. Went, of Usk, Monmouthshire. He rang for the 6.30 evening service, and not feeling well, returned home whilst his wife attended the service. When she reached home about 7.30 she discovered him dead in the house.

Mr. Went had been one of the Sunday service band at Usk ever since the restoration of the bells in January, 1926. He was a most loyal and regular attendant at the tower and will be sadly missed.

He had not been well for some time and was home for a fortnight in January, but previously had the appearance of a strong healthy man. He was a member of the Llandaff and Monmouth Association and had rung nine peals, all of Grandsire Triples, his first on April 7th, 1928, and his last on February 13th, 1935.

The funeral took place at Usk on Thursday, March 17th, a large number of townfolk attending, while among the ringers present were the Master of the association (the Rev. Ivor J. Richards), the hon. secretary (Mr. J. W. Jones), and Mr. T. Atwell, of St. Woolos, Newport. Immediately following the service a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples was rung half-muffled by the following: G. Thomas 1, F. Atwell 2, G. Knight 3, A. Hawkins 4, the Rev. Ivor J. Richards 5, L. Jones 6, J. W. Jones (conductor) 7, S. Kear 8.

DON'T SCRUB YOUR HANDS!

To many people, the problem of getting the hands really clean without harming the skin is a serious one. Grease and grime, which become deeply ingrained into the pores of the skin, are extremely difficult to remove, and ordinary washing with soap or even scrubbing will fail to remove them completely. Housewives, particularly, who complain that their hands get ruined by the nature of their work, will find the preparation called DERMAFOAM, a real "godsend." DERMAFOAM just smooths away dirt and grease without effort. It gets right down into the pores and removes every particle of grime, leaving skin beautifully supple and healthy.

Men, too—when you've finished that dirty job on the car, DERMAFOAM will quickly banish all grease and oil from your hands. It acts almost magically—working under and around the nails and into every minute crease, removing all trace of dirt in a flash.

Engineers, Painters, Car Mechanics, Printers — everyone — will welcome DERMAFOAM, the modern method of cleansing and protecting the hands.

'THE COLLEGE YOUTHS'

by J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE

'This is one of the very few books I have read which seem to me might, with advantage, have been considerably longer.'—The Dean of St. Paul's.

'Mr. Trollope has achieved more than his immediate purpose of writing a history of the Society of College Youths. So closely has the guild been identified with English change ringing that its history is to a very large extent an account of the ancient sport of ringing developed into an elaborate art. . . .

THE RINGERS' HANDBOOK

LONDON'S RINGING PROBLEMS.

Two interesting letters on the subject of ringing in London are published in this issue, one from Mr. J. A. Trollope with an historical survey of the conditions which have prevailed in the metropolis for three hundred years; the other from Mr. P. A. Corby, traversing the speech of Mr. J. E. Bailey made at the Royal Cumberland Youths' dinner. The position of the two old societies is something quite apart from the territorial and diocesan associations and guilds. They have in essence each been, from their foundation, just a single company, practising at different churches, and have never, like the modern societies, had as one of their main objects the drawing together of the companies of ringers of a number of churches into a united whole. That is an essential difference, and has been one of the stumbling blocks in the expansion of service ringing in London. The recruitment and teaching of new ringers for the purpose, primarily, of service ringing, is not, and never has been, their object, although just a few Sunday service bands have from time to time sprung up and have been composed of members of one or other of the societies, but their formation has had very little to do with the societies themselves.

It is perhaps true, as Mr. Corby points out, that the London County Association is using every endeavour to get bells in and around the metropolis rung for Sunday services, but it is not being wholly done by the establishment of new bands. Where ringers are not drafted from other churches for this purpose, to the detriment of their own company, the bands consist of a comparatively small body of 'free lances' who, having no ties, can go from tower to tower where their services may be desired or fancy dictates. We do not deny that it is better to have bells rung for service occasionally than not at all, but this is no solution to the real problem unless it is going to raise a local interest which will eventually result in the formation of new bands at the churches concerned.

And on this point we feel compelled to say that the difficulties with regard to ringing at the silent twelve-bell towers, raised by Mr. Waugh in his speech, are scarcely obstacles to prevent effort being made to establish Sunday ringing at these churches. All that he says about the task involved in training twelve-bell bands on the heavy rings in the city may be perfectly true, but it is not essential, in order to establish service ringing, that twelve-bells shall always be rung. A smaller number, even six, is sufficient for service ringing, at any rate as a beginning; then, as the company grows in ability, it can reach out to the higher numbers. And even the apparently prohibitive weights need be no real deterrent, for if a band, as has been done, could be taught to ring at Jewry, or at Stepney, where the bells are on the heavy side, the lighter sixes among the unring twelve should offer no obstacle. The full peals would still be available for those who wanted to ring the twelve, and, moreover, would be an incentive to beginners to reach a higher standard. Indeed, the best thing for the future of twelve-bell ringing in London would be to make a beginning in the now silent towers with bands taught to ring six or eight bells properly. But the first essentials are for the London ringing organisations to get together in the right spirit and then make a serious endeavour to interest the clergy.

DEATH OF MR. W. T. COCKERILL.

SECRETARY OF THE COLLEGE YOUTHS FOR 46 YEARS.

We deeply regret to announce the death of Mr. William T. Cockerill, who passed away on Tuesday morning at his residence, 32, Edgeley Road, Clapham, London, after a short illness.

Mr. Cockerill rang as usual at St. Paul's Cathedral on Sunday week, but on the way home he had a slight fall. He did not appear to have injured himself in any way, but after reaching home he became unwell. Last week, however, he appeared to be holding his own, but suddenly collapsed during Monday night and died early on Tuesday morning.

Mr. Cockerill would have been 79 years of age had he lived to the 13th of this month. Two sons and a daughter are left in bereavement, Mrs. Cockerill having died in 1931.

Born at Frodingham, Yorks, Mr. Cockerill came to London in his youth in the teaching profession. For many years he was headmaster of a L.C.C. school in the Victoria district, retiring about 13 years ago.

It was only in November that he retired from the office of hon. secretary of the Ancient Society of College Youths after 46 years' service, and as recently as March 1st received the second part of a testimonial in appreciation of his great work for the society. Following upon a cheque for £50 presented to him at the tercentenary dinner, he was the recipient of a gold watch.

Mr. Cockerill's services to the Ancient Society were not only long and honourable, but an example of loyalty and devotion to duty. For two generations he has been an outstanding figure in London ringing circles, and, although his death has come at a ripe age, it will be mourned by many friends. He was for a long period a member of the St. Paul's Cathedral company, and many years ago succeeded the late Mr. James Pettit as conductor. He was the first to ring the tenor of St. Paul's single-handed, which he did in 1896 when he turned this 52 cwt. bell in to a peal of Kent Treble Bob Maximus, one of the greatest ringing feats of all time. In 1907 he was the first man to turn in the 53 cwt. tenor at Bow Church, Cheapside. Among other celebrated performances in which he took part was a non-conducted peal of Stedman Cinques at Cornhill in 1913, and in 1917, at his own home, he rang the tenors to Carter's Odd Bob peal of Stedman Triples non-conducted on handbells.

Mr. Cockerill had represented the Ancient Society of College Youths on the Central Council continuously since 1893, and was a member of the Standing Committee.

The funeral service will be held on Monday. The time and place will be announced in the 'Daily Telegraph' to-morrow (Saturday).

GUILDFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

CHANGE IN GUILDFORD DISTRICT SECRETARYSHIP.

A very successful meeting of the Guildford District of the Guildford Diocesan Guild was held at Godalming on Saturday, March 26th, and was attended by 35 ringers. The members made the acquaintance of Canon Hone, the new Vicar, who was formerly president of the Barnsley and District Association, and, at the customary service, he gave the Guild a warm welcome. With Mrs. Hone he joined the members at tea, and afterwards presided at the business meeting.

Mr. George Grover, who is shortly taking over the duties of hon. secretary of the Guild, relinquished the office of district secretary and is succeeded by Mr. Cope, of Guildford, who was unfortunately prevented from being present, having been called away by illness in his family.

Thanks to Canon Hone, the organist, Mr. C. Childs and the Godalming ringers were proposed by the Master (Major J. H. B. Hesse).

The ringing during the afternoon and evening was under the able direction of the District Ringing Master (Mr. C. E. Smith), and ranged from rounds to Cambridge Surprise Major.

IRISH ASSOCIATION.

FORTY YEARS AS HONORARY SECRETARY.

Presentation to Mr. Gabriel Lindoff.

Eighty ringers from all over Ireland attended the annual meeting of the Irish Association, held in the White Horse Hotel, Drogheda, on St. Patrick's Day, when, in recognition of his long and devoted service, a gold watch and an illuminated address were presented to Mr. Gabriel Lindoff, who has been the hon. secretary of the association since its foundation 40 years ago. The president, Mr. R. S. F. Murphy, P.O., in making the presentation, paid a very high tribute to Mr. Lindoff for his untiring work in holding the association together.

Mr. F. E. Dukes, M.I.E.T., hon. secretary of the Presentation Committee, read a few of the many letters of praise received from Ireland and England.

Mr. Lindoff heartily thanked all for their great kindness to him in making such a presentation. He said it was the greatest of pleasure for him to work for the interest of bellringing as a whole.

The address was worded as follows:—

TO GABRIEL LINDOFF, ESQ.,

To mark the occasion of the fortieth anniversary of the foundation of the Irish Association of Change Ringers, of which you are one of the founders, we, the members and friends of the association, take this opportunity of expressing our appreciation and esteem of your untiring work and devotion in the office of hon. secretary, an office held by you since its inception.

It is our earnest prayer and wish that you may be spared for many years still to carry on the office which you have so ably filled.

We ask you to accept the accompanying gold watch as a small token of our admiration and regard.

We are, on behalf of the subscribers,

R. S. F. Murphy, P.C., President.
J. C. Cherry, F.R.C.S.I., Chairman.
F. E. Dukes, Hon. Secretary.
T. McMorran, Hon. Treasurer.

Then follow the names of the subscribers.

In the course of the business which followed the accounts were adopted. They showed a satisfactory balance on the right side of over £7, while the Bell Restoration Fund showed a balance in hand of £61.

THE ATTENDANCE SHIELD.

The annual report noted a certain amount of slackness in the competition for the attendance shield. Very few attendance sheets were received, and it was hoped there would be an improvement in the coming year, Sunday service ringing being one of the principal objects of the association.

Peal ringing also had been very slack during the past few years, and were it not for the Northern Branch and visitors there would have been nothing to report in that way. As it is, some 14 peals were added to the list, three by the Northern Branch, on which congratulations were offered, and eleven by visiting ringers.

Before this association started only two peals had been rung in Ireland previously; both at Waterford. Now the total is well over 150, of which the association claimed 144. Surely a sign that the association had been the cause of great improvement in ringing throughout the country. There was room for greater improvement, and the report asked members to put their shoulders to the wheel.

During the past year Lurgan bells had been rehung in a new steel frame by Messrs. Gillett and Johnston, of Croydon, the ringing room greatly improved, and the ringers had joined the Northern Branch. The bells of St. Mary's Cathedral, Limerick, are at present under repair by Taylor's, of Loughborough, and should be ringing again shortly.

The total number of members on the books is 315.

A report from the Northern Branch said:—

Where the towers are far apart it is very difficult to arrange dates for practice or meetings that are convenient and this is the primary cause for the few peal attempts.

Service ringing is very good and there change ringing has played a big part. In most of the churches Sunday service ringing is near 100 per cent.

Good bands at Lurgan and Enniskillen are making progress in the art, and though to them it may sometimes seem slow, and must necessarily be so without professional assistance, yet when they look back they will find that steady improvement is being made.

There are a number of towers still where change ringing should be practised, but this will come as other bands progress.

They were particularly fortunate that nearly all the bells in the North were in good condition, even though they were widely spaced. During recent years the bells at Ballymena (8), Derry (10), Enniskillen (10) and Lurgan (8) had been put in good condition. At Carrickfergus also the bells go well.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

The election of officers resulted as follows: President, Mr. J. C. Cherry, F.R.C.S.I.; hon. secretary, Mr. Gabriel Lindoff; assistant hon. secretary, Mr. F. E. Dukes, M.I.E.T.; hon. treasurer, Mr. D. Gibson; Ringing Master, Mr. R. S. F. Murphy, P.C.

The new office of assistant hon. secretary was created at the request of Mr. Lindoff. He was desirous to have a young man for the position, so that in the event of Mr. Lindoff having to give up there would be somebody already trained to be able to step into the position

A REMARKABLE 'CENTURY.'

Thirty-nine methods were spliced into a peal of Treble Bob Minor, rung at Sutton, Cheshire, on Saturday. It was Mr. C. Kenneth Lewis' one hundredth peal and his twenty-fifth as conductor. It was a 'coming of age' compliment to one of the band, Mr. Joseph Whittaker.

Mr. Lewis' 'century' is a remarkable one. His 44 peals of Minor have been rung in 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 7, 9, 10, 17, 18, 19, 21, 23, 25, 30, 35, 36, 39, 40, 42, 46, 52, 66, 68 and 73 methods. Of these he has conducted 19, including the peal in 73 methods.

He has rung only three peals of Triples and two of Caters, but the 44 peals of Major include 13 of Bristol Surprise, 11 of Cambridge and seven of London. The total is completed by one peal of Doubles and six of Royal.

A peal of Cambridge Surprise Minor, the first on the bells at Scotton, Norfolk, was Mr. H. C. Read's 40th peal.

Mr. T. E. Sone, who makes quite a hobby of calling new compositions, on March 19th conducted a peal of Treble Bob by Mr. Arthur Knights, the 70th by that composer which he could claim was 'rung for the first time.' It was a 6,144, reduced to 5,056, and was the 98th one-part peal that he has called.

The induction of the Rev. N. Rutter, at Priston, Somerset, was celebrated by a peal of Grandsire Doubles on March 20th, and after the peal the new incumbent went to the tower to thank the ringers.

The first peal on the bells at Bampton, Oxfordshire, since they were overhauled by Mr. R. White, of Appleton, was rung on March 19th by an Appleton band. Six members of the White family took part in the peal, and the method was Grandsire Triples.

Prior to taking part in a peal of Minor in three methods at Burgh, Suffolk, on March 18th, Miss Daisy Andrews had not rung a 720 of Kent Treble Bob, two extents of which were among the seven included in the peal.

BEACONSFIELD VICAR RINGS BEACONSFIELD SURPRISE.

Five Beaconsfield ringers, including the Vicar and two ladies, took part, in their own tower, in a peal of Beaconsfield Surprise Major on Saturday. It was Mr. Harry Wingrove's one hundredth peal as conductor, and his total includes 15 different Surprise Major methods.

Mr. Charles Marshall rang his first peal of Major as conductor at Enderby, Leicestershire, on March 17th, as well as his first peal of Bob Major. It was really an achievement, for he has had little practice at calling, and he only received the figures of the composition by telephone 24 hours before the peal.

It is interesting to note that the two 'colts' in the band, Messrs. J. L. Willars and J. E. Clarke, rang their first peal of Bob Major together 29 years ago.

A birthday compliment to Messrs. Allen Weatherly and Harry T. Chandler was offered in a peal of Grandsire Doubles in which they took part at Egguckland, Devon, on March 18th.

A peal in five Spliced Surprise Major methods was rung at Brierley Hill, Staffs, on Saturday. The bells were half-muffled as a tribute to the late Capt. A. W. Higgs, a prominent townsman and Deputy Coroner for South Staffordshire.

Two members of the students' company at Kelham Theological College have, with Mr. R. Narborough, rung another peal of Bob Minor on handbells. It was accomplished on Friday, March 25th, and the two witnesses are also students. One of the latter, Mr. M. H. Mosley, is son of the Lord Bishop of Southwell. After the peal, Bob Major, Grandsire and Stedman Triples were rung, with the assistance of Mr. F. A. Salter.

IRISH ASSOCIATION.

of hon. secretary. Mr. F. E. Dukes was selected by a majority over the only other candidate, Mr. W. H. Wilson.

It was agreed, on the recommendation of the committee, to raise the annual subscription from 1s. to 1s. 3d. per member in order that the annual report may be printed in book form for distribution to members.

Mr. Lindoff promised to have ready for publication next autumn a pamphlet containing 'Hints on Bellringing, Good Striking and Change Ringing,' to be sold to members.

The Murphy Striking Cup was presented to Mr. J. C. Cherry, who received it on behalf of St. Patrick's Cathedral team, winners of the striking contest held prior to the meeting. Other competing teams were Christ Church Cathedral, St. George's 'A' and 'B' and St. Saviour's (Arklow).

Christ Church Cathedral, Dublin, were winners of the Attendance Shield for 1937, with 100 per cent. attendance marks.

A vote of thanks was passed to the Rev. Stewart, M.A., Rector, for his kindness in placing the bells at the disposal of the visitors, to which he suitably replied.

A luncheon had been held prior to the meeting, at which the attendance included Mr. R. S. F. Murphy, P.C., Mr. J. C. Cherry, F.R.C.S.I., the Rev. Stewart, Mrs. G. Dukes, Messrs. W. Pratt (secretary, Northern Branch), D. Gibson, J. Henly, F. E. Dukes, M.I.E.T., D. Kennedy, J. B. Tough, R. Kieran, W. Lynch, T. McMorran, H. Collins, W. Wilson, J. Atkinson, R. Tait, etc.

During the day the bells of St. Peter's Parish Church were at the disposal of the ringers and were made great use of until a late hour.

PEAL NOTES.

The work which Mr. Sargent is putting in among his fellow-students at Kelham is having an effect, also, among the ringers in Nottingham, where handbell ringing is being taken up at both towers.

A peal of Grandsire Triples was to have been attempted at Drayton, Somerset, on Saturday, to enable some of the local men to score their first peal on eight bells. A serious case of illness, however, prevented the bells being rung, but the Vicar of the adjoining parish of Curry Rivel kindly came to the rescue and gave permission at short notice for the peal to be rung at his church. The attempt was successful and the thanks of the band are extended to the Vicar of Curry Rivel and Mr. W. Proles for their kindness.

A peal of Grandsire Triples to celebrate the retirement of Police-Sergeant Peter Crook from the Bolton Borough Police Force was rung at Holy Trinity, Bolton, where Mr. Crook is leader, on March 25th. On Saturday his police colleagues paid him a compliment by ringing a peal of Grandsire Caters in his honour at Worsley.

The peal at Bolton was also a 21st birthday compliment to the treble ringer, Mr. J. W. Kay's, fiancée.

On Saturday, the 73rd birthday of Mr. Walter E. Brittan was celebrated with a peal of Stedman Caters at Wednesbury, Staffs, and the 74th birthday of Mr. William Green was honoured with a peal of Grandsire Caters at Dudley. The latter was also a birthday compliment for another Staffordshire veteran, Mr. Ben Gough, of Coseley. It was, too, Mr. Henry Hubball's fiftieth peal.

Another interesting birthday peal was rung at Standish, Lancs, on Saturday, as a compliment to Mr. John Booth on reaching the age of 60 years. At the conclusion of the peal the bells were 'fired,' and afterwards Mr. and Miss Booth entertained the ringers and their wives to tea.

The first peal of Oxford Treble Bob in the Fylde—that part of Lancashire in which Blackpool is situated—was rung at Lytham on March 19th.

Mr. Leslie G. Brett called a peal of Yorkshire Surprise Major for the first time on March 19th. It was arranged for Mr. James Bennett, of London, and rung as a compliment to Mr. and Mrs. George Whiting on the 30th anniversary of their wedding. The two James Bennetts in the peal are uncle and nephew.

The quarterly peal of the Dudley and District Guild was rung on March 19th at Coseley, as a 68th birthday compliment to Mr. Ben Gough, who has been a ringer at Coseley for a number of years, but who, through ill-health, was not able to take part.

The Saddleworth company, Yorkshire, have lost by death their treble ringer and conductor, Mr. Fred Gartside, and they rang a peal of Oxford Treble Bob Minor in his memory on March 22nd.

SUFFOLK'S LATEST ACQUISITION.*A GRAND OCTAVE AT HOLLESLEY.

For many centuries the fine-looking tower of Hollesley Church, Suffolk, has housed three bells, one, a pre-Reformation bell, having been cracked for a long time. These have now been replaced by a noble octave with a tenor of 17 cwt., the gift of Sir John and Lady Jervis-White-Jervis, in commemoration of their golden wedding on August 9th, 1937. The bells were cast by Messrs. John Taylor and Co., Loughborough, who have produced a magnificent peal. Sir John and Lady Jervis-White-Jervis also undertook the complete restoration of the tower, which work has been thoroughly carried out by Mr. Charles Mee, of Sproughton, one of Suffolk's veteran ringers.

The complete work was dedicated by the Lord Bishop of St. Albans on Saturday, March 26th. Sir John and Lady Jervis-White-Jervis were present at the ceremony, and a shortened evensong was conducted by the Rector (the Rev. A. E. Wicks). The church was packed to overflowing and over 50 ringers came to share in the day's festivities in their traditional manner. They enjoyed themselves to the full and Sir John kindly provided refreshments.

The opening touch of 168 Grandsire Triples was rung by C. Mee (conductor) 1, A. Nichols 2, F. Fisher 3, W. Ward 4, E. Rivers 5, C. J. Sedgley 6, F. Rolfe 7, C. Fisher 8.

In the unavoidable absence of Mr. E. D. Taylor, the founders were represented by Mr. J. P. Fidler.

It will not be surprising if these bells are in demand for peal ringing, the new ringers' room is ideal and the band which cannot strike these bells cannot strike any. Outside the sound is nice and level, demonstrating in no small manner one of the advantages of placing the bells well below the window openings.

Later in the evening the visitors met for a convivial hour, the handbell ringing creating quite an interest amongst the locals.

VETERAN ESSEX RINGER'S DEATH.

We regret to announce the death of Mr. Walter Clark, of Loughton, Essex. He passed away on March 14th at the age of 82 years, after only a few days' illness. It was Mr. Clark who introduced change ringing to St. John the Baptist's Church, Loughton, over 50 years ago, and, except for the war period, it has continued ever since. He rang over 20 peals, his first at St. Mary's, Walthamstow, in 1887.

He was a member of the Royal Cumberland Youths as well as of the Essex Association.

On Thursday, March 17th, the Loughton bells were rung half-muffled. The funeral took place in Loughton Cemetery on Friday, March 18th, when handbells were rung at the graveside by four of deceased's fellow-ringers.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

Heartiest congratulations are extended to Mr. George Henry Coombes, of 25, Swanmore Road, Ryde, I.O.W., who celebrated his 95th birthday on Monday last, March 28th. The veteran of the Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild is still on the active service list at All Saints' Parish Church, Ryde.

The Rt. Rev. Dr. J. H. Greig, first Bishop of the new Diocese of Guildford, died on Monday at the age of 73. He retired in 1934. He was the first president of the Guildford Diocesan Guild.

Mr. Peter Crook, who has just retired after completing 30 years in the Bolton Borough Force, holds the Long Service and Jubilee decorations. He can also boast of the interesting record of not having been late for duty on a single occasion. It would be well if some ringers would emulate this example in connection with their ringing. Mr. Crook has been for some years hon. secretary of the Bolton Branch of the Lancashire Association.

We understand that the 'Pipe and Fiddler' at Hollesley, Suffolk, is not a place 'within the meaning,' but a meaning within the place where a pretty dart is thrown.

An error crept into the report of the annual meeting of the Dudley and District Guild last week. Mr John Goodman was re-elected hon. treasurer and not Mr. Herbert Sheppard, who was re-elected hon. secretary.

CANON ELSEE MEMORIAL.

In order to perpetuate the memory of the late president of the Lancashire Association (Canon H. J. Elsee, M.A.), it has been decided to open a fund for the purpose of erecting a stained glass window, of suitable design, in St. George's Church, Bolton, where he was Vicar for so many years. The window is to be fixed over the font near the parish memorial.

It is hoped that generous support will be accorded to this appeal and so show appreciation of all that Canon Elsee did for the association in particular and the Exercise in general.

The fund will be closed on July 31st, and contributions will be thankfully received and acknowledged by the Rev. Arthur Scott, President, St. Luke's Rectory, Miles Platting, Manchester, 10.

THE OLDEST COMPLETE RING.

IPSWICH PRE-REFORMATION BELLS.

To the Editor.

Sir,—In your report of the Cumberlands' dinner, the president of the Central Council appears as saying that the bells of St. Bartholomew, Smithfield, are the only complete ring of five pre-Reformation bells in the country. But in St. Lawrence's Church, Ipswich, we have five pre-Reformation bells in excellent order, which are still rung in changes every Sunday and practice day.

The second bell is the oldest, and was cast by Henry Jordan, of Loughborough, who lived in Bishopsgate, London, where his will, dated 1468, was proved.

The third, fourth and tenor were cast by the Brasvers, a family which came from Nottingham, and settled in Norwich, where they were bellfounders from about 1450 to 1513.

The latest bell is, as we might expect, the treble. This was cast at the Bury Foundry, which flourished in this county from about 1451 to 1533.

I do not know if this ring is older than those at Smithfield, Cambridge or Crowland. I fancy that it dates from the fifteenth century, while the others only date from the sixteenth. But it certainly is the only pre-Reformation set of bells now ringing the changes it was made for over 400 years ago.

Ufford, Suffolk.

DEATH OF MR. GEORGE J. SMITH.

AN OLD COLLEGE YOUTH.

We regret to announce the death of Mr. George J. Smith, of Highbury, on Thursday, March 24th, after a short illness. After having undergone an operation in the Royal Northern Hospital, he was removed to a nursing home, where he remained for a fortnight slowly sinking. Mr. Smith died of cancer of the pancreas.

Born at Hackney on August 31st, 1866, Mr. Smith came of a bell-ringing family, and he had been a ringer himself for nearly 50 years.

His brother, Mr. William D. Smith, was a ringer at the Parish Church of St. John-at-Hackney from 1871 until he left London a few years ago; his father had been a ringer for about 30 years, and his grandfather had been one for a period of over half a century. A remarkable succession of service by members of the same family.

Mr. George Smith took part in one of the early peals at St. Paul's Cathedral and was a member of the Ancient Society of College Youths for 50 years.

He was a member of the band of ringers who rang a bachelors' peal of Stedman Cinques, 5,019 changes, on February 7th, 1891, at St. Bride's, Fleet Street, which was conducted by Mr. Francis E. Dawe.

He leaves a widow and two daughters in bereavement.

The funeral took place on Monday, March 28th, the interment being at Highgate Cemetery.

LEADING CONDUCTORS—12.

WILLIAM BARTON.

One of the features of Yorkshire peal ringing is the 'spread over' of the conducting. In the last year of the Yorkshire Association's records, for instance, 41 conductors shared 89 peals. It is an encouraging sign. Among those, however, who in recent years have stood out conspicuously among Yorkshire conductors has been Mr. William Barton, of Pudsey, who was elected first Peal Secretary of the Yorkshire Association 17 years ago and still fills the office.

Mr. Barton was born at Pudsey and began ringing there just prior to the war. At that time Pudsey had a good band, which, under the leadership of Mr. Pratt Cordingley, had progressed beyond the conventional Treble Bob of the West Riding, and which afterwards became famous, not so much for prolific peal ringing, although peals were scored in all the standard Surprise Major methods, as for the regular ringing of Surprise methods for Sunday services and for the help they gave in popularising Surprise ringing in the district. Mr. Barton, who rang his first peal in February, 1916—Superlative Surprise on an 'inside' bell—showed an early aptitude for conducting, and Mr. Cordingley, a good conductor himself, gradually, such is his nature, let his understudy take the reins.

After the war, Mr. Barton was the appointed conductor of the band and called his first peal, Kent Treble Bob Major, on Nov. 1st, 1919. He followed this up by calling a peal of Superlative from an 'inside' bell. Altogether he has rung 175 peals and conducted 101, but he has not yet rung a peal of Minor or Doubles. He called the first peals of Bristol and Pudsey Surprise in Yorkshire.

Mr. Barton is a skilful handbell ringer, and among the 36 peals 'in hand' which he has called were the first of Spliced Double Norwich and Plain Bob Major for the Yorkshire Association. He also took part in 'silent' handbell peals of Double Norwich Major and Kent Treble Bob Royal, both of which are believed to be the first in the methods ever rung non-conducted double-handed. Except for a peal of Spliced Double Norwich and Plain Bob, called at Bushey, for the Hertford County Association, all Mr. Barton's peals have been rung for the Yorkshire Association.

Throughout his ringing career Mr. Barton has been attached to St. Lawrence's tower, Pudsey, and for a period during the war he was hon. secretary of the Leeds and District Society.

A WARWICKSHIRE RESTORATION.

LINK WITH 1874 OPENING.

Situated three miles from Southam, which lies on the main road from Rugby to Banbury, is the Warwickshire village of Bishop's Itchington, quiet and unspoiled by the march of civilisation. The church, dating from 1300, possesses a peal of five bells installed by Taylors, of Loughborough, in 1874. Having given over 60 years of service, the bell fittings had become the worse for wear, and it was decided to have the peal rehung, the bells quarter-turned and tuned and the framework strengthened. The work included entirely new fittings.

The bells were rededicated by the Lord Bishop of Coventry on Saturday, March 26th, the local ringers taking on the pleasurable duty of ringing during and immediately after the service. Mr. Cowley, father of one of the churchwardens, rang on the bells at their installation in 1874; at the advanced age of 93 years he was a very proud listener on this more recent occasion.

The Rev. E. S. Powell and Mrs. Powell, the Rev. H. G. Benson, Mr. C. Harrison (representing Messrs. Taylor and Co.), his offspring, Geoffrey, and a few other visitors had the pleasure of ringing on the bells, now so much improved both in tone and 'go.' The local band are delighted at the ease with which the bells can now be rung.

THE STATE OF LONDON RINGING. SOME OF THE REASONS FOR EXISTING CONDITIONS.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—It is a good thing that the question of the state of London ringing has been raised, and it would be a good thing, also, if the men who are leaders and influence other people would study the history of the London Exercise and try and understand the causes of things being what they are. There are many and some of them go back through the ages, even to pre-Reformation times. I will mention one or two.

(1) Ringers have never been given a recognised position in the Church's organisation. The clerk was supposed to see after the ringing and he employed whom he would. The ringing societies were purely secular, independent bodies, not connected with any particular church.

(2) Service ringing is a modern innovation. Until comparatively recent times ringing (as distinct from chiming) was considered a secular thing and unsuited for ordinary Sunday use.

(3) The reform movement of the last century, which gave us our territorial associations, completely failed in London. The reason was partly because it had no leaders there, but chiefly because it was strongly opposed by the old societies. They considered (with some justification) that they had no need of reformation and held to their old traditions.

We have had lately a good deal of talk about these old traditions, but I wonder how many people have stopped to think what they actually are, good and bad. One is that the members owe their loyalty to their society, not to any church or local band. If you were a College Youth you had to be first and last a College Youth. So far as the society could do it, you were prevented from having anything to do with outside ringers, and any band within the society who met at a particular tower by themselves was looked upon as a clique and the thing was discouraged.

Mr. Lewis tells us that the College Youths are not exclusive, but, so far as they are true to their traditions and their past, they are exclusive and must be so.

The territorial associations ask for no such loyalty from their members, and they would not get it if they did. They are federations of a number of independent bands, and the member's loyalty is first to his own band and church and, through them, to the association.

Which is the better—a number of independent, more or less weak and struggling bands, or a strong centralised society which controls several towers and can visit them in turn, always sure of having a full band and good ringing? There is much to be said for both, but the two are opposites. You will get better ringing with a centralised society, but you won't get the bells rung regularly for church services. Making up a band to visit a tower one Sunday evening a month does not meet the case and does nothing towards that recognition of 'ringers as churchworkers' which all the associations profess to have as their object; and not seldom it weakens other bands.

In judging what I have written you must remember two things. One is the large number of what, for want of a better word, I call nominal members of the old societies, who are men who imperfectly share the societies' traditions. The other is the fact that you can get a band for a tower under any ordinary conditions if you pay them, but that proves nothing about what you can do if you don't pay them.

A SOCIETY FOR ALL LONDON.

CRITICISM OF MR. J. E. BAILEY'S SPEECH.

Dear Sir,—Although I am very reluctant to trespass upon your columns, I cannot neglect to say how very distressed I am that Mr. J. E. Bailey should consider it necessary to insult an old-established ringing association, of which I am proud to be an officer, in his speech at the Cumberland Youths' dinner.

The London County Association and North Southwark Diocesan Guild was originally formed to provide a common meeting ground for members of both the Cumberland and the College Youths. Its area of operation and influence embraces the whole of the administrative county of London within a radius of ten miles from headquarters (the Church of St. Clement Danes, Strand). The Northern District comprises the N.W., N., E.C. and E. postal districts, and the Southern District the S.E., S.W., W. and W.C. postal districts. It seems to me, therefore, somewhat superfluous to talk of forming a society that would embrace the whole of London for ringing purposes.

If I may be permitted a rather strong expression, I consider that Mr. Bailey appears from your report of the proceedings to have talked generally from the back of his hat about matters with which he is none too well acquainted. What on earth does it matter how many societies a ringer joins, or what concern is it of anyone if he (or she) rings a peal every evening of the week in six different counties? Such a state of affairs would certainly show enthusiasm, and surely the most that can be demanded of any ringer is that he (or she) satisfies his (or her) own conscience regarding Sunday ringing.

I feel that the Exercise should be informed that, in the neighbourhood in which Mr. Bailey resides, there is a very great deal of bitter feeling between certain individual ringers and the companies of certain towers as a whole. Let that neighbourhood first put its own

YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION. SOUTHERN DIVISION SECRETARY WITHDRAWS RESIGNATION.

The annual meeting of the Southern Division of the Yorkshire Association was held at Handsworth, Sheffield, on March 19th, and was a very enjoyable and successful gathering. Members were present from Sheffield Cathedral, St. Marie's and Ranmoor, Eastwood, Doncaster, Arksey, Rawmarsh, Rotherham, Felkirk, Wath, Leeds, Norton, Bolsover and Eckington, and it is worth recording that, of 45 present at tea, 41 names were sent in. A very welcome visitor whom everyone was pleased to see was the president of the association, Canon C. C. Marshall. Owing to other engagements, he had to leave before the business meeting was held, and, in reply to a welcome extended to him by Mr. G. Lewis (vice-president), he said how very much he had enjoyed being with them, if only for a few hours. He especially thanked the officers of the Southern Division for all they did on behalf of the association.

At the business meeting, held after tea, the Rector of Handsworth (the Rev. Canon Baker) kindly took the chair, and, later in the meeting, the members had the pleasure of electing him an honorary member of the association, and Miss Trezise, of Rawmarsh, and Mr. G. P. Felstead as performing members.

For the annual joint meeting of the societies in the Southern Division an invitation was given by the Rector of Barnsley to hold the meeting at that place, and this was gratefully accepted. The date was fixed for June 18th next.

Previous to the election of officers, the vice-president said how pleased they all were to see the secretary (Mr. F. Clark) back in his usual place. They hoped he had fully recovered from the illness which kept him away from the previous meeting. It was his privilege to tell them that the secretary had withdrawn his decision to retire from his position, and he had great pleasure in proposing that he be re-elected, with the best thanks of them all for the services he had given them during his 17 years as secretary.—This was seconded and carried with applause.

In reply, the secretary thanked them all very sincerely for all the kind things said about him. He hoped he would still have the generous support and friendship which had been extended to him for so many years, and which made his position such a happy one.

OLD MEMBERS RESIGN OFFICE.

It was with very great regret that the resignations of two old members of the committee, Mr. G. Holmes, of Sheffield, and Mr. G. Halksworth, of Doncaster, were received. Mr. Holmes on account of ill-health and advancing years, and Mr. Halksworth on account of removing from Doncaster to Scarborough. High tribute was paid to both these old and valued members for the many years of service to the association, Mr. Holmes for 37 years and Mr. Halksworth as Ringing Master of the Southern Division for 20 years and on the General Committee for four years.

It was decided to record on the minutes the very deep appreciation of the members for all they had done for the association over a period of so many years, and the secretary was asked to convey this expression to them, with the hope that although they had retired from office, the members would still have the pleasure of seeing them at some of the meetings and continuing the old friendship which had extended over so many years.

Mr. A. Gill (Wath), Mr. C. D. Potter (Barnsley) and Mr. J. L. Gilbert (Handsworth) were elected to the committee. Mr. Gilbert was also elected to the General Committee in place of Mr. Holmes. For the other vacancy on the General Committee, caused by Mr. Halksworth's resignation, Mr. A. Staveley, of Doncaster, and Mr. D. Smith, of Felkirk, were nominated, and, on a vote being taken, Mr. Staveley was elected for a period of two years.

It is worthy of note that both Mr. Staveley and Mr. Gilbert are very young men, and it is gratifying to know that they are sufficiently interested in the work of the association to take over the responsibility of office at an early age and train themselves to carry on the association's work, when some of the older members have to give up.

An appeal from Mr. Amos, of Northampton, for the fund for augmenting the bells of St. Andrew's, was read and a collection realised 10s. 6d.

Votes of thanks to the Rector, to the ladies for tea and to the local company were heartily carried, and replied to by Canon Baker, Mr. Watkinson and Mr. Gilbert on their behalf.

house in order, and, when that is done, London ringing circles may be enabled to follow the good example.

May I, in conclusion, say that the officers of my association are giving the question of Sunday ringing in London towers their very earnest attention and that co-operation and not carping criticism is looked for from every London ringer.

The Exercise did not appear to be aware of the existence of the London County Association, so may I offer a very hearty welcome to any person, who hears of it for the first time, to a meeting of the Southern District, which takes place at Wandsworth on April 2nd? All ringers are welcome, whether they are College Youths, Cumberlands, good strikers or bad, whether they ring rounds or Spliced Surprise. Vagabonds, however, are reminded that Wandsworth is famous for its prison as well as its bells.

P. A. CORBY, Master, Southern District.

EASTERN DISTRICT MEMBERS' SUPPORT LACKING.

A meeting of the Eastern District was held on Saturday week at West Hartlepool, about 20 members being present from Newcastle, Gateshead, Fenham, Chester-le-Street, Durham, Sunderland, Darlington, Middlesbrough and Saltburn.

Ringling on the beautiful ten-bell peal of St. Oswald's was enjoyed, the methods rung being Grandsire and Stedman Caters, Kent and Bob Royal, Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Double Norwich and Bob Major.

A substantial tea awaited the ringers in the Mission Hall and afterwards a short meeting was held, Mr. R. L. Patterson (vice-president) being in the chair, supported by the Vicar (the Rev. T. H. Lilburn).

After the loyal toast, the chairman welcomed the president (Mr. J. Pollard) and the hon. secretary (Mr. J. Reed) of the Cleveland and North Yorkshire Association, and another old friend in Mr. T. Metcalfe. He also welcomed the officers of the Northern, Southern and Western Districts and expressed his thanks for the support of those members of the Eastern District who were present.

Mr. Metcalf proposed a vote of thanks to the Vicar for the use of the bells, and the Rev. T. H. Lilburn, in reply, said he always welcomed the ringers to West Hartlepool. He appreciated what was done by them and by his own ringers.

Mr. Titt proposed a vote of thanks to the ladies for the splendid tea. It was proposed that the next meeting be a joint one with the Western District at Chester-le-Street on Saturday, May 7th.

After the meeting the belfry was again visited.

It was a most happy meeting and all had their full share at the ropes, but again it is to be deplored that many members of the Eastern District fail to support these meetings.

LADIES' GUILD.

A LONDON HEADQUARTERS.

A very enjoyable meeting of the Central District of the Ladies' Guild was held at St. John's, Erith, and was fairly well attended. A very short but interesting service was conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. R. W. Thornhill, who welcomed and thanked the Guild for coming to his church.

After tea at the new Parish Hall a short business meeting was held. Mrs. Deal presiding.

The date proposed for the outing to Dunstable at the last meeting has had to be postponed to a Saturday in September by the wishes of the Vicar, who, unfortunately, was unable to meet the Guild in June.

Seven new members were proposed by Miss Snowden and seconded by Mrs. Fletcher. These had been recruited mainly by the efforts of Miss S. Bowyer, of Ipswich, and are as follows: Miss E. Reeves (Ipswich), Misses E. Caton, A. Osborne and D. Andrews (Mistley, Essex), Mrs. L. Wright (Colchester), Mrs. R. Ronee (Frinton-on-Sea), and Miss V. Frost (Weeley, Essex).

May 7th was confirmed as the date of the annual meeting, and October 1st proposed as the date for the following meeting, this to be held at Beaconsfield.

Mrs. Fletcher made a proposal, which has the consent of the Rector, that St. George's-in-the-Borough, London, should now become the headquarters in London of the Ladies' Guild. This being so, efforts will be made to arrange a rota for Sunday ringing at least six times during the year, and any members who will promise at least one Sunday during the year should send their names to Mrs. Fletcher to further these arrangements.

Hearty votes of thanks were accorded to the Vicar for the use of the bells and his presence at tea, to the organist, to the ladies who were kind enough to arrange the tea, especially Sister Allen, and to Mr. F. Cullum, who made all the necessary arrangements for the meeting.

Further ringing afterwards took place, this being of a very high standard and including spliced Surprise.

SHEFFIELD AND DISTRICT SOCIETY.

SCHEME FOR RECRUITING YOUNG RINGERS.

The annual meeting of the Sheffield and District Society took place at Ranmoor Church, Sheffield, over 50 members and friends attending. Full use was made of the beautiful light peal of ten bells. A splendid tea was provided in the Church Hall by the local company.

At the business meeting which followed, the Vicar (the Rev. H. C. Foster) presided. He said he quite realised the difficulty in getting new ringers in the belfries, but he had a suggestion given to him by his daughter, who was not a ringer, who thought it would be a good thing to form a guild of old choirboys, from which, no doubt, some might be attracted to the belfry.

The suggestion was discussed and met with approval as a step in the right direction in helping to solve the problem of getting more ringers in the belfries.

The Vicar also suggested an open day for members of the congregation to visit the belfry to see how the bells were rung and create an interest which was in many cases needed.

The balance sheet was presented and passed.

It was decided to hold a six-bell ringing contest in July, the arrangements being left in the hands of the hon. secretary.

Six new members were elected and the usual votes of thanks were extended to all concerned. Further ringing until 8.30 p.m. took place in the tower.

ROYAL CUMBERLAND YOUTHS.

VIEWS ON POSITION OF LONDON RINGING.

Round Table Conference Suggestion Welcomed.

Reference to the position of ringing in London was made in all the speeches at the dinner of the Royal Cumberland Youths, which followed those reported in our last issue.

Mr. C. T. Coles (hon. secretary of the Middlesex County Association and London Diocesan Guild), replying, with Mr. E. H. Lewis, to the toast of 'Kindred Societies,' referred first to the broadcasts from St. Martin's, agreed that the ringers were wise to stick to Caters. The only complaint he had was not against the ringers, but against the B.B.C., who failed to let the public hear the whole course of what was being rung. They faded the bells in just towards the end, which was disappointing. Mr. Coles went on to refer to the broadcast last November by the president of the Central Council who likened membership of the Ancient Society of College Youths to membership of the M.C.C. in cricket. There were, said Mr. Coles, a few heartburnings about that, but, after all, what did it matter? He was talking about it, just after the broadcast, to a ringer who was also a cricketer, and he replied, 'What does it matter, any decent county side can whack the M.C.C.' (laughter).

WHERE THE 'FREE-LANCE' HELPED.

There had recently, continued Mr. Coles, been some instructive leading articles in 'The Ringing World,' and in one of them the Editor had spoken about the silent bells of London. It was not so easy a problem as some people thought; the position was due, in a great measure, to the bells and the condition of the towers, but one of the biggest problems was the number of ringers. It was undoubtedly true that in London there were far more bells than ringers, and it was difficult to find ringers for one belfry without depleting another, and it was here that the free-lance ringer was frequently of use. He had nothing to say against the free lance. Occasionally he was asked to ring in a London tower, and he found that on such occasions the unattached ringer was a very useful person. He (Mr. Coles) would be very uncomfortable if he felt that, in finding ringers for one church, he was taking them away from another. It was much better in such cases to use these free-lance ringers.

With regard to the suggested round table conference between London societies, he thought some good might come of it. At any rate it would do no harm, and, speaking as far as he was able for the association he represented, he could say they would be very glad to join in (applause). Something had been said, continued Mr. Coles, about old rules and traditions. He was not sure that the old 'friendly' spirit of rivalry of the days gone by was any good to them in these days. It often led to another kind of rivalry and generally ended in jealousy and bitter feeling. He felt that that spirit was not a good one. He was happy to think that bitterness and jealousy in London ringing was fast disappearing, and he suggested that that was due to the coming of the diocesan and territorial associations. With real co-operation between the London societies they might be able to overcome the great difficulties with regard to London bells. Referring to the ban on ringing at St. Bartholomew's the Great, Mr. Coles said it was difficult to believe that the tower was unsafe for ringing the bells in. He had the pleasure of ringing a peal of Grandsire Doubles there some years ago, and since then at least one attempt had been made for a peal. He could not believe that the tower had got unsafe since then. In the case mentioned by Mr. Lewis, where tact and cabot quilt had got over an objection, he would like to say that the tact was largely Mr. Lewis' own and that he and Mr. George Fletcher were mainly instrumental in removing the difficulties. On behalf of the association in whose territory the tower happened to be, he thanked them very much (applause).

A BERKSHIRE 'BRANCH.'

Mr. George Gilbert proposed 'The Visitors,' and, referring to the feeling that was sometimes apparent between rival organisations in London, said when they got rid of some of the die-hards in their own and other societies things would be a little more comfortable. Until these die-hards could see eye to eye a little more with some of the youth that was coming along in ringing they would still have the friction there had been for a number of years. They did not mind rivalry, but it had got to be friendly rivalry. They were hoping in July to have a Cumberland meeting in Reading. He had had most courteous letters from the people in charge of Reading belfries, and they were going to do all they could to make the visit a success—incidentally they did not belong to the Cumberland Youths. He had passed these letters on to the secretary and suggested that it would be a good thing if they could be read in some of the London towers (applause) to let them see that there was a friendliness outside of London that did not exist generally in London itself. They all knew, and they had read it in 'The Ringing World,' that there was more friction in London than there ought to be, and that it was chiefly the cause of the small amount of service ringing done in London. The suggestion of 'getting together' was very nice, but, although a few people might meet and try their hardest, they could lead a horse to water, but they could not make it drink. The Stepney Youths, some of whom were present that night, had shown what could be done in creating a band in a London tower if there was enthusiasm, and it had been done in other places, so that it was not impossible in that great city. There were people who went about every week ringing peals in high-down methods and they ought to be ready to devote one night a week to helping a young band along (hear, hear). They would willingly go 20 miles to ring a peal, particularly if it was in a new method, but they would not go outside their own back door to give a hand to a young band where their help would be very useful. They had been fairly successful in his part of the globe, said Mr. Gilbert, and it would not be long before they had a 'branch' of the Cumberland Youths in Berkshire. They had already got about 50 members there now. Mr. Gilbert condemned the 'free lance' and said in his district one of these ringers had spoilt the ringing in three or four towers. With regard to noisy bells, Mr. Gilbert advocated efforts to quieten them before complaints were received. At Burnham they had a ring of 'pots' which were noisy outside. He blocked up the windows with cellotex, and not only had they stopped any nuisance, but the bells seemed to be better in tone than they were before. In conclusion, Mr. Gilbert extended a hearty welcome to all the visitors.

RELATIONS BETWEEN LONDON SOCIETIES.

Mr. J. Waugh, who replied for the visitors, offered their very best wishes for the continued prosperity of the Royal Cumberland Youths. It was a significant thing, he said, that he, a Londoner by birth and a frequenter of the city's belfries, should be addressing them as a visitor. This significance lay in two directions; firstly, it betokened the peculiar relationship which existed between the London societies, and, secondly, it was an indication of how that relationship was developing in modern times. It would, of course, be idle to pretend that it had always been a happy one, but it was easy also to over-estimate the advantages which had been thereby lost. Certainly it could not be said that the rivalry which produced such efforts as the unfortunate long peal at Southwark Cathedral and the seven thousand of Cambridge Maximus at St. Mary-le-Bow was devoid of good results.

As he saw them, the two old societies, the College Youths and the Cumberlands, had much in common, and they served a number of purposes. Of the latter, one of the most prominent was undoubtedly the duty of providing an adequate number of sufficiently trained ringers to handle the numerous bells of London city, and it should be remembered that London possessed a large number of rings of twelve. It was often stated that there should be more local bands in the City, and it was agreed that there was justification for the remark and that much remained to be done, but at the same time a survey of the bells of the actual City was illuminating. There were 21 ringing peals, of which no less than ten were, for one reason or another, unavailable for ringing purposes. Of the remainder, six had local bands and the rest consisted of one ring of ten and four of twelve. The latter were either very heavy or possessed of peculiarities which made good striking on them a matter of great difficulty. It might be that local companies could be raised at such places, but anyone who had noticed the comparative rarity of good twelve-bell bands in even quite large provincial cities could hardly fail to recognise the enormity of such a task, and the position was aggravated by the fact that it seemed to require a certain amount of natural ability to pick up twelve-bell ringing quickly, so that the training of a good local twelve-bell band was a very considerable undertaking even under favourable conditions. In such circumstances there would be a tendency to be content with the ringing of a mere eight or ten bells at these places, and, if it became fully developed, these great rings would never be heard to their full advantage at all. It was a fact, too, that twelve-bell ringing was undoubtedly the finest form of bell music, but its being so depended entirely on the quality of striking, and of twelve bells improperly handled it could only be said that there were twelve making a noise instead of a mere six or eight.

OVER-RIDING BODY NOT ACCEPTABLE.

Thus there was reason for the retention and extension of the system whereby the societies did much of the official ringing in London, and as it was a joint responsibility, the question naturally arose as to whether closer co-operation would have a beneficial effect.

It was obvious that a merger or the creation of an over-riding body on similar lines to what had been done successfully at Bristol would not be acceptable, and there remained only the possibility of the removal of the present restrictions on membership and the holding of joint practices. At the present time both societies were well supported, and the only immediate result of a combination of personnel would be one large, unwieldy meeting, instead of two smaller and much more comfortable ones.

Experience had shown that large practice meetings at twelve-bell towers were generally useless for training purposes and would lead to splitting up into groups who would restrict their support to certain fixed meetings. Thus the circle would be completed and they would be back again at a very similar position to the one from which they started. It was, therefore, best that the two societies should keep themselves as separate and distinct concerns and each pursue its own course. Rivalry, of course, there was bound to be, and they must take steps to see that their two societies developed along lines of mutual tolerance and goodwill. Admittedly it was a very far cry back to that deplorable state of affairs when nothing would please the members of one society so much as the utter downfall of the other, but they had got to avoid even a tendency in that direction, and there should be frequent intermixing between the members.

That, however, was no problem. They had the London County Association ready at hand, which, as the St. James' Society, was founded for that very object, and, as one connected with it, he would say that was still one of its most important and successful functions. There were in addition, of course, the several county associations, but they had duties of their own, quite apart from anything of that sort. It seemed to him they did their job well. However, he welcomed the suggestion of a round table conference that had been made to see what could be done to further ringing in the metropolis, and he had no doubt ringing had a very bright future in London (applause).

The speeches were interspersed with some delightful songs by Miss Marjorie Dawson, songs at the piano by Mr. Bernard Maurice, and change ringing on handbells. The latter included a course of Stedman Cinques by members of the society, a course of Grandsire Caters by the Stepney Youths, and a course of Double Norwich Major.

DON'T SCRUB YOUR HANDS!

To many people, the problem of getting the hands really clean without harming the skin is a serious one. Grease and grime, which become deeply ingrained into the pores of the skin, are extremely difficult to remove, and ordinary washing with soap or even scrubbing will fail to remove them completely. Housewives, particularly, who complain that their hands get ruined by the nature of their work, will find the preparation called DERMAFOAM a real "godsend." DERMAFOAM just smoothes away dirt and grease without effort. It gets right down into the pores and removes every particle of grime, leaving skin beautifully supple and healthy.

Men, too—when you've finished that dirty job on the car, DERMAFOAM will quickly banish all grease and oil from your hands. It acts almost magically—working under and around the nails and into every minute crease, removing all trace of dirt in a flash.

Engineers, Painters, Car Mechanics, Printers — everyone — will welcome DERMAFOAM, the modern method of cleansing and protecting the hands.

by J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE

'This is one of the very few books I have read which seem to me might, with advantage, have been considerably longer.'—The Dean of St. Paul's.

'Mr. Trollope has achieved more than his immediate purpose of writing a history of the Society of College Youths. So closely has the guild been identified with English change ringing that its history is to a very large extent an account of the ancient sport of ringing developed into an elaborate art. . . .

FROM CHOIR STALLS TO BELFRY.

The chief difficulty in recruiting new ringers is to find the material. Nearly everywhere the lament is that young people cannot be got to take an interest in ringing, because counter influences are so many that the belfry offers little or no attraction. Thus companies become depleted, and in some cases vanish for lack of new blood. The task of finding new material is unquestionably a very real one. It is gratifying, however, to read that at Ranmoor, an important suburb of Sheffield, a determined effort is to be made to overcome the difficulty, and it is more pleasing to find that the scheme has been put forward by the Vicar himself. The suggestion is that the choir should be made the reservoir upon which to draw for young ringers. The idea is not new, but it takes on a much more hopeful aspect when the action comes from the east end of the church instead of from the west end, and when the transition from the choir to the belfry takes place, as is proposed at Ranmoor, through a properly organised church channel.

The scheme which has been put forward is the establishment of a guild of old choirboys, in order to retain their interest in church work after they are no longer able to take their places in the choir, and thus try to get them into the belfry as a means of maintaining touch with the church and continuing their service. Such an organisation should prove of considerable value, and we hope it may be copied elsewhere. There are, of course, a number of churches where bands are helped by the migration of boys from the stalls to the tower when their voices break, but it is done by the inducement of the ringers rather than the influence of the clergy. The Vicar of Ranmoor's scheme would give it an official encouragement that ought to have good results.

In the most successful case which we know of a band maintained for some years largely from the choir, the results have been achieved solely through the ringers, but the secret has been the continuous inflow of youth, so that newcomers do not find themselves alone in an age-stratum, if one may use such a term, in which there is no one with similar outlook. In this particular instance there are always three or four of an age, and these continue the companionship formed in the choir, and they grow up together in the art. That, it seems to us, would be a valuable feature of any scheme for bringing youth into the belfry. A solitary lad, among a band much older in years, and with, naturally, a totally different outlook, has little inducement to remain, unless he happens quickly to develop an unusual keenness for ringing; but a little group of young people brought along together will find

JOHN NICOLL,

Manufacturer,

64, LEWISHAM PARK, LONDON, S.E.13

Late of BERMONDSEY and PECKHAM.

Maker to St. Paul's Cathedral, Westminster Abbey, Imperial Institute, Canterbury, Edinburgh, St. Albans, Lincoln, Durham, Peterborough, Melbourne (Australia), Rochester, Dublin, St. Patrick's, Manchester, Durban and Worcester Cathedrals, etc., etc.

Mufflers, Ringing Mats, Matting, Flag Lines, etc., etc.

something in common and with it, often, a desire to keep their connection with the tower. This policy has been pursued at Aldershot, and the band there numbers nearly thirty enthusiasts. What a vastly different prospect there would be before the Exercise if this kind of spirit spread throughout the many churches where the bells are of the easily handled type. Guilds such as that proposed at Ranmoor would give it just the encouragement that it needs.

THE TULSE FONT.

NEW MEMORIAL COVER AT PARSONS GREEN CHURCH.

There was a large congregation at the Church of St. Dionis, Parsons Green, on Wednesday evening, March 23rd, when the Rt. Rev. the Lord Bishop of Kensington dedicated the new cover to the 250 years old font, brought from the mother church, which formerly stood in the City. The font was originally the gift of Sir Henry Tulse, Lord Mayor and Master of the College Youths in 1684.

The Bishop was supported by the Vicar, the Rev. W. H. S. Dumphreys, the curate (the Rev. E. Jenkins) and all the church officers. (The Rector of the mother parish, Dr. Tatlow, was unfortunately kept away at the last moment.) There was an augmented choir, and music entered largely into the service.

The lesson (I. John, v., 1-12) was impressively read by Mr. E. H. Lewis, M.A., who was robed and also wore his badge as Master of the College Youths. There followed the anthem, 'Rejoice in the Lord' (Calkin), and then, to the singing of the hymn, 'We love the place, O God,' the church officers and clergy preceded the Bishop to the font, the congregation turning to the west. At the verse for 'the sacred font,' the architect, Mr. Martin Travers, drew aside the veils and disclosed the very beautiful cover designed by him.

The procession (with the handbell ringers) having assembled at the font, the Bishop, placing his hand upon the cover and the mural tablet, dedicated them to the glory of God and in memory of the late Vicar, Dr. William Samuel Carter, and his wife, Katherine Carter. His closing words were followed by a course of Stedman Triples rung on handbells by four members of the Ancient Society of College Youths standing beside the font, viz.: Challis F. Winney 1-2, Edwin H. Lewis 3-4, Herbert Langdon 5-6, E. Alex. Young 7-8. The procession returned during the singing of the hymn, 'Jesu, Lover of my soul.'

The Bishop, in his address, dealt with the subject of memorials, and particularly this to Dr. and Mrs. Carter, with his usual eloquence. He said he knew the parishioners had for many years been desirous of beautifying the church, and this cover to the font was a worthy offering. It was right that those coming to a font should take away a memory of beauty, both parents and children, even if the latter only gained that memory in later years. It was right to cultivate beauty, it had been so from the earliest days of the Church. They linked up beauty with the worship of God, for He loved beauty and had given them the power to love it as manifested in all His works—the sky, the forest and the flowers. It was true that in Puritan days there was misjudgment, so that suspicion urged the destruction of all things beautiful in the Church—music, painting, sculpture. But we had escaped from this dislike, and brought back beauty into worship.

It was his regret not to have personally known Dr. and Mrs. Carter, but those who worked for and so loyally loved a parish must have awakened a deep response over so long a period as 33 years. That it was so the presence of that congregation testified. They did well in dwelling on those fruitful years. But he would, for the moment, take them back further, to a time when, over 260 years ago, a former Lord Mayor of London gave the font itself to the mother church, where later he was buried and where it had remained as his memorial up to some 50 years ago. Sir Henry Tulse was, whilst Mayor, also Master of the College Youths. That was why several members of the society were there that evening honouring the memory of Dr. and Mrs. Carter as well as that of their Master of long ago.

Amongst those present was Mr. A. A. Hughes, treasurer of the College Youths.

The occasion was also taken advantage of to hang on the wall next the font a framed photograph of the unveiling of the Tulse Memorial, as restored by the Ancient Society of College Youths last November.

PEAL NOTES.

LADY'S FEAT ON TENOR.

Miss Hilda G. Snowden is becoming a veritable 'back-ender.' Already she had turned in one or two tenors when on March 26th she achieved the unique feat for a lady of ringing the 18½ cwt. tenor at Bocking, Essex, to a peal of Double Norwich Major in 3 hours 13 minutes. This is a great achievement, for the striking throughout the peal was excellent.

What makes Miss Snowden's performance the more noteworthy is that she called the peal without having previously called a touch in the method. Miss Snowden wants to thank the gentlemen for their permission to ring the tenor, but the gentlemen lift their hats to her upon a fine performance.

It was a birthday peal for Miss Snowden and Miss Sylvia Bowyer, who were 22 years old on the 25th and 27th March respectively.

This peal was Ronald Suckling's 50th and with it he 'completed the circle' in Bocking tower.

Other peals were rung for these young ladies' birthdays. A peal in seven Minor methods at Otley, Suffolk, was rung on Friday, March 25th, and on Sunday, March 27th, a peal in four Minor methods at Stutton. As they could not decide which of the two ladies should call this latter peal, in which they were both taking part, a solution was found by each calling a half.

Miss Bowyer, ringing the 12 cwt. tenor, called the first half, consisting of 720 each of Cambridge, Kent, Oxford and Plain Bob up to the half-way single, and then Miss Snowden took over the calling, finished the 720 of Plain Bob and called an extent each of Plain Bob, Oxford and Kent Treble Bob.

It was intended that this peal should be rung by a band of three spinsters and three bachelors, but one of the bachelors was taken ill in the preceding week, and a married man, Mr. Fred Smith, had to be 'roped in.' Naturally, he was somewhat embarrassed.

The peal was actually rung on Miss Bowyer's 22nd birthday, but Miss Bertha Reeves, as well as Miss Snowden, had celebrated their birthdays earlier in the week, and it was, therefore, a collective compliment to them all, and also to Mrs. Brundle, wife of the oldest Ipswich ringer, Mr. Robert H. Brundle.

INTERESTING FACTS IN A JUBILEE CELEBRATION.

Fifty years ago last Saturday, Harrison's 10,176 Kent Treble Bob Major was rung at Coddensham, Suffolk, in 5 hours 55 minutes. The tenor was rung by Mr. Alfred S. Wightman, one of a famous Suffolk family of ringers. In celebration of the jubilee, a peal of Bristol Surprise Major was rung at Framdsen on the eve of the anniversary. Mr. Wightman ringing the treble.

Mr. W. Dye, who conducted the long peal, is still ringing at Grundisburgh. The jubilee peal was conducted by Mr. G. Whiting, who rang his first peal 36 years ago on March 31st. That was a peal of Double Norwich at Framdsen, conducted by Mr. George Wightman, who also rang in the peal on April 1st. Another member of the family who took part was Mr. Leslie C. Wightman, who 'completed the circle' of Framdsen tower for the eighth time.

Improvements have been effected in the ringing room at East Meon, Hants, where a peal of London Surprise Major was rung on Saturday. The chamber is without any windows and formerly oil lamps were used, which made it very 'stuffy' for peal ringing. Electric light has now been installed, and, with new cocoanut matting over the belfry floor, the visitors on Saturday found it a much more pleasant place to ring in.

The peal of Doubles rung at Freshford, Somerset, on March 24th, in honour of the induction of the Rev. G. Watton, M.A., enabled Dr. C. N. Vaisey to ring his first peal. He was instrumental in raising funds to augment the bells from four to five, the tower not being large enough to hold six. After the peal the ringers were kindly entertained by Dr. and Mrs. Vaisey.

Four members of the local band took part in a peal of Grandsire Doubles at Ranworth, Norfolk, on March 19th. It was their first peal and they deserve much credit upon their performance, for they could only just ring rounds when the dedication of the bells took place on November 7th last year. It was their first attempt for a peal.

A half-muffled peal of Stedman Triples was rung at Guildford Cathedral on March 31st as a tribute to the first president of the Guildford Diocesan Guild, Dr. J. H. Greig, first Bishop (1927-1934) of the new diocese of Guildford. A memorial service had been held in the Cathedral earlier in the day.

Two ringers from Staffordshire, Mr. A. D. Steel, of Stoke-on-Trent, and Mr. Edward Steele, of Longton, were elected members of the Lancashire Association on March 26th before a peal of Bob Major at Gorton, which was rung as a birthday compliment to the former.

Another Lancashire peal rung on the same day at Standish was a birthday compliment to Mr. John Booth. This was Double Norwich Major.

A wedding peal of St. Clement's College Bob Major for one of the local band at Great Baddow, Essex, Mr. Harold Pennack, was begun as the bridal couple left the church and successfully brought round. The peal was also a silver wedding compliment to Mr. and Mrs. J. Wilks, of Widford, where Mr. Wilks is churchwarden.

A peal of Stedman Triples was rung on March 28th as a welcome to the new Vicar of Sutton-on-Trent, the Rev. W. C. Bates. His induction took place on the following evening.

COUNTY FIRSTS.

The first peal of Rochester Surprise Major in Cheshire, as well as by the Chester Diocesan Guild and all the band, was rung at Norbury on Saturday, conducted by Mr. John Worth.

The composition, a 5,088, by Mr. C. Kenneth Lewis, was also rung for the first time.

23456	M	B	W	H
35426	1	—	2	2

Another 'first' in the method in the county and by all the band was a peal of Yorkshire Surprise Major rung at Pulham, Norfolk, on April 2nd.

Not for 30 years had a peal of Double Norwich Major been rung on the bells at Woodbridge, Suffolk, until Saturday, March 19th, when several Ipswich ringers helped to ring a peal there. Mr. C. J. Sedgley, who has called Double Norwich on twelve, as well as many Surprise Maximus methods, called a peal of Double Norwich Major for the first time.

After meeting short for Oxford Treble Bob, a band at Broughton, Staffs, rang a peal of Bob Major as a birthday compliment to Miss A. E. Chester, of Wappenham, Northants, and to the conductor, Mr. Arthur Pritchard, who, by the way, called a composition by J. R. Pritchard. The peal was rung on March 19th.

A peal of Grandsire Doubles by a band all, with one exception, 19 years of age or under was rung at Gorseinon, Glamorganshire, on March 26th. It was a birthday compliment to the senior member of the party, Mr. Wallace Dobbins. It was also the first peal on the bells by a local band and the first peal of Doubles on the bells.

Mr. Alan Pink added another to his long list of peals in Surprise Major methods on March 26th when he called a peal of Staffordshire at Crayford, Kent. The composition, by A. G. Driver, was rung for the first time, it was the first peal in the method on the bells, and of the five who rang their first peal of Staffordshire, three had never struck a blow in the method before.

The first peal of Cambridge Surprise Royal in Hertfordshire by a resident band was rung on Mar. 26th at St. Peter's Church, St. Albans. It marked the first anniversary of the induction of the Vicar (the Rev. A. M. Ferguson). Mr. Francis Kirk, who with five others of the band rang their first peal of Cambridge Surprise Royal, has now 'circled' the tower in ten-bell peals.

Four members of the band rang their first peal when seven 720's of Bob Minor were rung at Deane, Hants, on Saturday week, the peal being called by Mr. C. W. Munday, of Basingstoke, who thus rang his first peal as conductor.

Double Bob Royal has been added to the methods rung at Kidderminster. On Saturday the first by the Worcestershire Association, the first by all the band and the first peal of Royal on the bells was rung.

Six Surprise Major methods were rung in a peal at Bushey, Herts, on March 31st, for the tenth anniversary of the wedding of Mr. Harold G. Cashmore, the composer and conductor of the peal. It was also a birthday compliment to Mrs. F. W. Brinklow.

It was the first peal in six Surprise methods on tower bells by all the band and by the Hertfordshire Association. Four of the band, however, have previously rung a similar peal on handbells; to have only one bell to think about instead of two must have made it something like child's play to them.

The Rev. V. C. Blyth, a vice-president of the Worcestershire Association, has resigned the incumbency of Hinton, a village near Evesham. On March 28th a peal of Oxford Bob Triples, the quarterly peal of the Southern Branch of the association, was rung there as a farewell to a very good friend.

HUDDERSFIELD AND DISTRICT ASSOCIATION.

TWENTY-TWO NEW MEMBERS ELECTED.

The first district meeting of the Huddersfield and District Association was held at Almondbury on Saturday, March 26th, when a fair number of ringers attended and enjoyed some good ringing in the standard methods. The association is already showing its usefulness and justifying its formation by the number of learners who take advantage of these meetings, and the Minor ringers who venture to try the higher numbers and attempt different methods.

The business meeting was held after tea in the Conservative Club adjoining, with the president, the Rev. T. Mathieson, in the chair. The members were very pleased to welcome the Rev. A. L. Mins, of St. John's, Birkby, who is himself a keen ringer and has had a good deal of experience of ringing meetings. He was elected as co-president with Mr. Mathieson, and, though this procedure might seem to some unusual, it is, as all the members agree, a very sound one.

Twenty-two new members were elected, making a total to date of 56. A vote of thanks to the Vicar and wardens and the local ringers was proposed by Mr. H. Armitage, of Huddersfield, and seconded by Mr. W. Hargreaves, of Lindley.—Mr. W. C. Dransfield replied.

After the meeting the tower was again visited for further ringing.

PRE-REFORMATION BELLS.To the Editor.*

Dear Sir,—No doubt those of your readers who are interested in ancient bells will be glad to hear that Thurlbeer Church, near Taunton, contains one of the most perfect peals cast before the Reformation. It is a peal of four, tenor 41½ in. in diameter, cast at Exeter by Robert Norton about 1425.
J. HUNT.
Taunton.

SHROPSHIRE ASSOCIATION.

The joint meeting of the Shropshire Association and the Bridgnorth Branch of the Hereford Diocesan Guild, held at Coalbrookdale on Saturday, March 26th, was an unqualified success. Fifty ringers, including visitors from Stourbridge and Worcester, attended, the ringing being the best that a local meeting has produced. Superlative and Double Norwich Major were followed by Treble Ten and Stedman Caters.

The Rev. T. Eland, Coalbrookdale, conducted service, delivering an interesting address. He traced the use of bells from the earliest days, through the centuries, and spoke of the ideal of service to the Church which should be the motive of every ringer.

Mr. L. Stainer (Madeley) read an appropriate lesson.

After tea the Shropshire Association elected three new members, all from Coumd, and an early return was made to the belfry.

DEATH OF CRICH RINGER.*NEARLY 50 YEARS' SERVICE TO THE CHURCH.

We regret to record the passing on Monday, March 14th, of Mr. William Piggin, of Crich, Derbyshire. He was 69 years of age and had served his church for 49 years as chorister and bellringer. By his regular attendance at Sunday services, practice and association meetings, he has left an example which may worthily be followed. His genial disposition made many friends, evidence of which was shown at the funeral on Thursday, March 17th. The muffled bells were rung by the local company and the East Derbyshire and Notts Association, of which he was a member for 48 years, was represented by the hon. treasurer, Mr. C. M. Heathcote.

A muffled touch of 546 Grandsire Triples was rung on Saturday evening at Crich Parish Church by F. Heappy 1, J. Hobbs (conductor) 2, J. W. England 3, T. Jennings 4, A. Elliott 5, F. Ashman 6, T. Clarke 7, C. M. Heathcote 8. Mr. Piggin was never a man of many methods, but it can be said of him with sincerity, 'Well done, thou good and faithful servant.'

CENTRAL COUNCIL MEETING AT LEEDS.*HOTEL ACCOMMODATION.

The committee of the Yorkshire Association responsible for the arrangements for the Central Council's visit to Leeds, at Whitsun, have prepared an interesting programme.

As hotel accommodation in Leeds is somewhat limited, members should make early application. The following are the hotels and charges: Golden Lion, Briggate, daily 13s. 6d., bed and breakfast 8s. 6d.; Guildford, The Headrow, 13s. 6d. and 8s. 6d.; The Griffin, Boar Lane, 14s. and 8s. 6d.; The Imperial, Briggate, 12s. 6d. and 7s.; Hotel Metropole, King Street, 18s. and 9s. 6d.; Victory Hotel, Briggate, 16s. and 9s. 6d.; Queen's Hotel, City Square, bed and breakfast from 14s. 6d. Temperance hotels: County, Vicar Lane, 12s. 6d. and 7s. 6d.; The Mount, Clarendon Road, 15s. and 8s. Most of the hotels also offer special inclusive terms for the periods Saturday or Sunday dinner to Wednesday breakfast.

A NORTHAMPTONSHIRE RESTORATION.*BELLS REHUNG AT BRAFIELD-ON-THE-GREEN.

'The bells of this church were rehung and the fourth bell recast A.D. 1938, in memory of Margaret Mary Sargeant, of Brafield-on-the-Green, who died April 23rd, 1937. May she rest in peace.'

The above inscription, which appears on a stone tablet, briefly records for all time the work recently undertaken to the bells of Brafield Church, Northamptonshire. They are a ring of five with a 12 cwt. tenor, and for many years have had a terrible reputation. The work of restoration was placed in the hands of Messrs. John Taylor and Co., of Loughborough, who have completely restored the old timber frame and provided entirely new fittings, incorporating all the latest improvements, with the result that the bells are once again in excellent ringing order.

This restored work was rededicated at evensong on Sunday, March 27th, by the Lord Bishop of Peterborough. As is usual on an occasion of this sort, there was 'standing room only' when the service began, but as the time clashed with the ringing at other churches, only a few visiting ringers were present, amongst them Mr. J. P. Fidler, representing Messrs. John Taylor and Co.

The opening ringing was carried out by members of the local company, who were much impressed by the greatly improved 'go' of the bells. Much comment was also made upon the greatly improved tone of the peal, and the contractors are to be congratulated upon achieving such splendid results with a difficult job.

EARLY PUBLICATION NEXT WEEK

As Good Friday occurs in next week, 'The Ringing World' will be published on Thursday. All communications intended for insertion in that issue must reach us not later than first post on Monday.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

Restoration of the bells at St. George's-in-the-East, London, is approaching completion, and a band has already been formed in connection with the church. Some old ringers have rejoined, but new ones have been brought in, and, until their bells are ready, they are getting practice at Stepney.

The handbell band at Burton-on-Stather had a bit of bad luck the other day when they had the misfortune to lose a 'spliced' peal in 19 Minor methods half-way through the last 720.

It had been hoped to attempt a peal of Stedman Cinques at Exeter Cathedral on Easter Monday, but it has been found necessary to postpone it to a later date.

The Mid-Devon Branch of the Devon Guild are holding a quarterly meeting at Kingskerswell, near Torquay, on Saturday, April 23rd, and any visitors who may be staying in the neighbourhood during Easter week will be heartily welcomed. An announcement will appear in the appropriate columns next week.

DOUBLE NORWICH MAXIMUS.

To the Editor.

Sir,—Whilst willing to appreciate and accept Mr. Trollope's dictum on things historical, and having no desire to reopen an old controversy, yet it seems the stubborn little facts remain, that the peal in question is described on the Mancroft peal board as 'Norwich C.B. Max.'—not 'Double'—and no figures are in existence, so that my description of it as unauthenticated is in no wise incorrect. It may have been Double Norwich—possibly it was—but until the figures come to light it must remain 'locked in the womb of mystery.'

CHARLES J. SEDGLEY.

MR. SAMUEL SLATER'S INVESTIGATIONS.

Dear Sir,—After the two peals in this method rung at Ipswich in 1896 there was a long controversy and much doubt as to what was rung at Norwich in 1817, whether it was 'Double' or 'Single.' Mr. Samuel Slater, of Glemsford, was asked by his Ipswich friends and the late Rev. H. Earle Bulwer if he could give any information on the matter so as to settle the dispute. He could not do so at that time, but some time after he held a reader's ticket at the British Museum, and in the Osborne MSS. in the library of the Museum it there states that 'a peal of Double Norwich Court Bob Maximus was rung at St. Peter Mancroft, Norwich, on Monday, January 20th, 1817.'

On returning home Samuel Slater sent a copy of what he found in the Osborne MSS. to the Rev. H. Earle Bulwer, and at a meeting of the Norwich Association, held at Eye on May 17th, 1900, the Rev. H. Earle Bulwer, who was chairman, informed the members that Mr. Samuel Slater had discovered a document which proved that the peal was rung in the double method. When this statement was made there was great applause, and both parties accepted this statement as settling the matter.

Mr. Osborne visited Norwich in 1820, so he would be able to get his information from those who rang in the peal.

I think this information settles any doubt that may exist as to what was done in Norwich in 1817.

T. E. SLATER.

Glemsford, Suffolk.

DEATH OF MR. CHARLES DRAPER.

ONE OF THE MIDLANDS 'WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON' BAND.

It is with deep regret we have to report the death of Mr. Charles Draper, of Duffield, who passed away on March 28th at the age of 73 years. He was laid to rest on April 2nd at Alrewas, where he lived as a boy, and where he taught himself to be a ringer. He became a member of the Midland Counties Association in 1887.

Charles, as he desired himself to be called, was a very reliable ringer, and will be missed by the Midland Counties Wednesday Afternoon band, with whom he rang a good number of his peals, chiefly Stedman Triples, but he also took part in the longest lengths of Duffield and Forward Major.

At any time he was glad to be of assistance to young ringers attempting their first peal, and he will be missed by many in the M.C.A.

Four of his comrades, Messrs. J. H. Swinfield, A. H. Ward, M. Swinfield and J. George, rang a course of Grandsire Triples over the grave after the funeral, and later fully muffled touches were rung on the church bells.

Thus dear old Charles' last course is finished, and his friends of the Wednesday Afternoon band say 'Goodbye' to a straight and much respected comrade. He had rung over 400 peals for the Midland Counties Association.

M. S.

LEADING CONDUCTORS—13.*GEORGE F. SWANN.

Birmingham, a home of Stedman, has produced no more brilliant conductor of the method than Mr. George F. Swann, who, among other things, has called a peal of Stedman on handbells from each pair in Triples, Caters and Cinques. Only one other ringer, Mr. G. N. Price, has, we believe, done this.

Mr. Swann's 163 handbell peals, of which he has conducted 47, include 105 on twelve bells, viz., 101 Stedman, 1 Grandsire, 1 Erin Cinques, and 2 Kent Treble Bob Maximus. In addition he rang 7-8 to the memorable peal of Stedman Sextuples. His conducting has also included three peals of Erin Triples, one of Forward Major, one of Little Bob Major, in addition to most of the usual methods up to London Surprise. Besides these he has called Stedman on tower bells from Doubles to Cinques, and he has rung two silent peals of Stedman Cinques and one of Grandsire Triples on handbells, two silent peals of Stedman Triples on tower bells, and taken part in the non-conducted Cambridge Surprise Maximus at St. Martin's, Birmingham.

Mr. Swann was born at Aston in 1878, and his family moved to Erdington two years later. He started ringing when 17 years of age with the old stoney band at St. Thomas' Roman Catholic Abbey Church, and, as he himself says, he thought he was quite good until the band was reorganised and the new instructor produced a course of Stedman Triples. Then he realised he had something to learn.

He rang his first peal on September 28th, 1901, at Erdington Abbey Church. This was Stedman Triples and was rung about twelve months after change ringing was introduced into the tower. Mr. Swann's first peal as conductor was also Stedman. It was rung on October 10th, 1903, and was only his eighth peal and was called, at the first attempt, from the treble. It was Heywood's transposition of Thurstans'.

Mr. Swann, who is now attached to the band at Erdington Parish Church, was auditor to St. Martin's Guild for some years and is now Librarian. He has rung 516 peals, of which he has conducted 189.

Next Week: Mr. John Austin.

NORTH STAFFORDSHIRE ASSOCIATION.*SUCCESSFUL MEETING AT BUCKNALL.

A meeting of the North Staffordshire Association was held at Bucknall on Saturday, April 2nd. A company of 31 attended from Burslem, Biddulph, Brown Edge, Bucknall, Cheadle, Draycott, Kingsley, Kettering, Loughborough, Longton, Norton and Newcastle. Service was conducted by the Rev. F. D. Gardner, Rector of Bucknall, and clerical secretary and treasurer of the association. In the course of his sermon he said 80 per cent. of the people of this country never darkened the door of the church, but he thought the ringers should attend every service for which they rang.

After tea had been partaken of, the Rector welcomed the association to Bucknall, and wished them to visit the tower more often, despite the fact that a meeting was held there every two years. He was pleased to be at the service of the association at any time.

A vote of thanks was proposed to the Rector and local ringers by Mr. H. Carnwell, seconded by Mr. T. Hurd.

Mr. J. E. Wheelton, in proposing the vote of thanks to the ladies for serving tea, went on to say one of them was the only lady in the North Staffordshire Association to conduct a peal. Although now married, she was better known as Miss Alice Preston. Bucknall, he said, had only had bells since September, 1886, but they have always had a keen set of ringers, and on April 6th, 1897, rang a silent peal of Minor, consisting of London, Chester, Superlative, Worcester, Bristol, York and Cambridge, while not many years ago they rang a peal of Double Surprise Minor.

Mr. W. Wheelton, in responding for the ringers of Bucknall, said he was pleased to meet so many old friends. He added that they were fortunate to have a Rector who took such an interest in them and a man who appreciated their work.

MR. GEORGE F. SWANN.

HASTINGS GUILD AREA EXTENDED.*NAME AND CENTRE CHANGED.

It has been decided to extend the area of the Hastings and District Guild, to move its centre to Hawkhurst, some 15 miles north, and to change the name to the Hawkhurst and District Guild. This step was taken at a meeting held at Salehurst on Saturday week, when the business, postponed from the annual meeting, was carried through.

The president, the Dean of Battle, was re-elected, as were the vice-presidents, but to this list was added the Rev. Noel E. Hope, the founder of the Guild. The chairman, Mr. W. Franks (Battle) was re-elected.

The hon. secretary, Mr. C. A. Levett, stated that he had been secretary since the first year of the Guild's existence, and felt that a change was called for. The ringers in the district did not support the Guild as he thought they should do, and a new secretary would mean new ideas and probably would make the Guild the force it should be.

It was pointed out that the district covered by the Guild was relatively small and the percentage of ringers attending meetings remarkably high.

After discussion it was decided, as mentioned above, to considerably enlarge the area served by the Guild, to move its centre from Hastings to Hawkhurst, and to change its name to the Hawkhurst and District Guild.

Mr. James G. Powell, of Hawkhurst, was elected secretary, and Mr. W. Gorringer re-elected treasurer.

Mr. B. Saunders proposed a hearty vote of thanks to the retiring secretary for his services in the past, and this was carried unanimously.

Ringing during the afternoon and after the meeting included touches of Grandsire and Stedman Triples, Plain Bob, Treble Bob and Double Norwich Major, and the meeting closed with a touch of Spliced Oxford Bob, Grandsire and St. Clement's Triples.

LEEDS SOCIETY AND LADIES' GUILD.*JOINT MEETING AND COMMUNION SERVICE.

On Saturday week the Northern District of the Ladies' Guild and the Leeds and District Society met at Armley tower. The bells were rung during the afternoon, and the Ladies' Guild service was incorporated with the Holy Communion service. The Vicar (the Rev. Dr. J. S. Hollingworth, M.A., LL.D.) in his address gave the members present a welcome to the church and tower.

Tea was served in the Parish Hall and some 43 people sat down.

The business meetings were held in separate rooms. Ladies' Guild members were present from Armley, Drighlington, Headingley (St. Chad's and St. Michael's) and Handsworth.

The Leeds and District Society held their annual nomination meeting, the chair being taken by the president, Mr. W. H. Senior, who was supported by members from Batley, Bradford Cathedral, Bramley, Burley, Drighlington, Elland, East Ardsley, Hunslet, Headingley (St. Chad's and St. Michael's), Idle, Leeds Parish Church, Pudsey, Rothwell, Rotherham, Shipley, Sherburn and the local company. The president gave a welcome to their latest clerical ringer (the Rev. D. Walters, M.A., of East Ardsley) and his tower secretary, Mr. E. Watson.

One new member, Mr. C. Palfreeman, of Sherburn, was elected. The usual vote of thanks to the Vicar, churchwardens and the organist was proposed by Mr. W. H. Senior and seconded by Mr. F. Hutchinson. —The Vicar (Dr. Hollingworth) replied.

The vote of thanks to the local company and to the ladies for the tea arrangements was proposed by Mr. Barton and seconded by Mr. T. Hill. —Mr. H. Lofthouse replied for the local company.

Nominations for all officers of the society were received.

The annual general meeting is due to be held at Leeds Parish Church on April 30th.

While some members remained in the hall for handbell ringing, others returned to the tower and kept the bells going to 9 p.m., when another excellent meeting came to an end.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION.*ELEVEN NEW MEMBERS ELECTED.

A by-meeting of the Canterbury District of the Kent County Association was held at Goodnestone on Saturday, March 26th. Although the village is somewhat isolated, with a bus service only once a week, the meeting was well attended, 50 members being present from Sturry, Ash, Eythorne, Dover, Wickhambreaux, Boughton, Canterbury (four towers), Littlebourne, Whitstable and members of the local band.

The bells, augmented to a peal of six by the addition of a new treble by Mears, were set going to changes at 3 o'clock. Service was afterwards held, conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. H. Wigram, who also gave a short address. Mr. W. E. Pitman, Mus.Bac., was at the organ.

Tea followed in the Parish Hall, presided over by the Vicar, who also took the chair at a short business meeting which followed. Eleven new members were elected from St. Laurence's and St. Peter's, Thanet, St. Stephen's, Canterbury, Wickhambreaux and Goodnestone.

Lyminge was preferred to Whitstable for the next meeting, although the difference in the voting was only one.

After handbells, a return was made to the tower, and further ringing indulged in until 8.30, Grandsire, Stedman and St. Simon's Doubles, Plain Bob, Kent and Oxford Treble Bob (singly and spliced), Cambridge and London Surprise being rung.

THE LATE MR. W. T. COCKERILL. PASSING OF A GREAT LONDON PERSONALITY

Leader of St. Paul's Cathedral Ringers.

The news of the death of Mr. William T. Cockerill, recorded in our last issue, came in the nature of a shock to his many ringing friends, and the deepest regret has been expressed on every hand at his unexpected passing.

It is difficult to think of London ringing without Mr. Cockerill; he had been so long and so prominently concerned with it. For nearly 60 years he had been a ringer in the Metropolis, he was a College Youth for about 52 years, for 46 years he was hon. secretary of the Ancient Society, and for nearly as long a period a member of the band at St. Paul's Cathedral, as well as 'skipper' since the death of Mr. James Pettit.

Mr. Cockerill laid down his long labours as secretary of the College Youths after completing the arduous work in connection with the celebration of the tercentenary, but he was still the leader of St. Paul's company, where, on Sunday week, he called his last touch. He went home by tram, as was his custom, in company with Mr. W. H. Pasmore, whom he left in the vehicle to continue the journey. The collapse, which ended fatally, took place in the short distance between the tram stop and his home.

We have already mentioned some of the notable performances in which Mr. Cockerill took part, but it is worth recalling that after the peal at St. Paul's in which he rang the tenor single-handed, Sir Arthur Heywood entertained to dinner all those who had rung a peal at St. Paul's Cathedral, and proposed the toast of the evening, 'Our single-handed tenorman.'

Mr. Cockerill was undoubtedly one of the finest heavy bell ringers of his day. He had the advantage of a fine physique and the stamina of an athlete. One of the recollections of all who visited St. Paul's belfry in those years must ever be the figure of William T. Cockerill on the box of the eleventh.

Mr. Cockerill joined the Ancient Society of College Youths in 1886, a year in which no fewer than 65 members were elected, among them were Messrs. William E. Garrard, G. Mash and Robert Storey (Newcastle), William Storey (Newcastle), Henry R. Newton and Richard T. Hibbert.

He was made a member of St. Paul's Cathedral Society soon after his election as hon. secretary of the College Youths, which took place in 1890.

That he should have been honoured in death by a funeral service in the great Cathedral was a fitting acknowledgment of his leadership of the ringers there and also a recognition, such as has never been accorded, of the position which ringers, generally, occupy in the Church.

THE LATE MR. W. T. COCKERILL.

A LAST HONOUR.

FUNERAL SERVICE IN ST. PAUL'S CATHEDRAL.

Honoured in the great Cathedral to which he had given nearly 50 years of service, William Thomas Cockerill passed to his last resting place on Monday afternoon. Week after week he had faithfully climbed the long stairway to the belfry there, twice every Sunday, to take command of the service ringing renowned throughout the country for its excellence. On Monday his colleagues, with scores of other ringers, gathered beneath the Dome to take a farewell of their leader. They brought him in by the great west door, where the Cathedral clergy and choir met the cortege. Ringers lined the steps as the flower-covered coffin was borne up into the Cathedral, and the procession moved up the nave to a beautiful musical setting of the introductory sentences of the Burial Service.

The clergy were the Dean of St. Paul's, the Ven. Archdeacon Sharp, the Rev. Canon Moseley, and Minor Canons Foxel and Donn. The 23rd Psalm was chanted, and Canon Moseley read the lesson from the fifteenth chapter of I. Corinthians. Then there swelled the strains of the hymn, 'Immortal, invisible, God only wise,' and, before the impressive service ended with the Benediction, pronounced by the Dean, 'Abide with me' was sung.

Headed again by the choir and clergy, the procession returned to the west door, and the cortege passed from the peace of the Cathedral once more into the rushing life of London to make its way to Brompton Cemetery, where the interment took place. Among a vast forest of memorials a grave had been opened, and round it the last sad rites were performed. Minor Canon Foxel said the committal prayers, and then the handbells sounded. Three whole pulls, slowly rung three times, were followed by a course of Stedman Triples, and three whole pulls three times more. It was a fitting parting, in the soft afternoon April sun, while the roar of London traffic throbbed in the distance.

The family mourners were Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Cockerill (son and daughter-in-law), Miss D. E. Cockerill (daughter), Mrs. G. E. Cockerill (daughter-in-law), Miss Rene Tilt, Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Tilt (nieces and nephews), Mr. and Mrs. H. Westbrook.

SOME OF THOSE PRESENT.

Among the ringers present were Messrs. C. S. Burden, F. Butler, E. G. Fenn, H. Langdon, H. G. Miles, W. H. Pasmore, A. B. Peck (Mr. Cockerill's successor as hon. secretary of the College Youths), W. Rushton, T. H. Taffender, and C. F. Winney, of the St. Paul's Cathedral company; Messrs. E. H. Lewis (Master of the Ancient Society of College Youths, who wore his badge of office), A. A. Hughes (hon. treasurer), L. Porter (senior steward), G. W. Fletcher (hon. secretary of the Central Council), Mrs. E. K. Fletcher (hon. secretary, Ladies' Guild), Canon G. F. Coleridge (Master of the Oxford Diocesan Guild), Messrs. G. H. Cross (Master), G. W. Steere (hon. treasurer) and A. Hardy (representing the Royal Cumberland Youths), T. W. Taffender (hon. secretary, London County Association), J. E. L. Cockey (representing Middlesex Association), Major J. H. B. Hesse (Master), Messrs. J. S. Goldsmith (hon. secretary) and A. H. Pulling (representing the Guildford Diocesan Guild), A. Paddon Smith (representing St. Martin's Guild for the Diocese of Birmingham), W. A. Cave (Bristol), J. S. Hawkins and Norton (St. Andrew's, Holborn, Guild), Capt. J. H. R. Freeborn, Mr. W. G. Gray, Miss E. Gray, Mrs. R. F. Deal, Mrs. A. D. Barker, Messrs. F. V. Siukins (representing St. Mary's Society, Portsea), A. B. Bennett, A. R. Macdonald, T. Groombridge, sen., F. Alex. Young, J. Parker, R. Sanders, E. Brett, C. H. Horton, W. Roughton, W. H. L. Buckingham, W. J. Jefferies, E. H. Oxenham, J. E. Davis, G. Lucas, I. Emery, R. Fenn, W. T. Elson, P. E. Clark, W. Smith, W. H. Judd, H. Hoskins, W. Hewett, W. Williams, H. N. Pitstow, J. G. Prior, A. Diserens, etc. Among others present were the Rev. W. Pennington Bickford (Rector of St. Clement Danes), Mrs. H. Langdon, Mrs. L. J. Porter, Mrs. W. H. Pasmore, Mrs. H. R. Pasmore, Mrs. W. H. Judd, etc.

The handbell ringing at the graveside was done by Messrs. W. Roughton 1-2, E. H. Lewis 3-4, H. Langdon 5-6, A. B. Peck 7-8.

There were many beautiful floral tributes. In addition to those from the members of the family and friends, wreaths were sent by the Ancient Society of College Youths; the Central Council of Church Bellingrings; St. Martin's Guild for the Diocese of Birmingham; the Rector, churchwardens and Parochial Church Council of St. Mary-le-Bow; Archdeacon Hanbury and Cecil G. Hanbury.

IN ST. PAUL'S BELFRY.

Prior to the ringing for service at St. Paul's Cathedral on Sunday morning, the ringers stood at their ropes while Mr. C. F. Winney recited 'De profundis' (Psalm 130), and then remained for two minutes in silence until the clock struck the hour of ten, when the bells went off into rounds before the usual three courses of Stedman Cinques.

On Monday evening the Cathedral bells were rung half-muffled, including the 'whole pull and stand' 78 times by the Cathedral band, and this was followed by a touch of 399 Stedman Cinques.

Half-muffled ringing also took place at St. Botolph's, Bishopsgate, on Monday evening.

'THE SKIPPER.'

(COMMUNICATED.)

From Frodingham, in the East Riding of Yorkshire, William T. Cockerill came to London as a school teacher and was headmaster of Holy Trinity Church School, close to Vauxhall Bridge, for many years. He was also in the choir at this church, was a fine singer and one of the founders of St. George's Glee Union. He rode to and from school on a 'penny-farthing' bike for some years, afterwards using a more modern machine, and has often related how he practised double-handed ringing on the handlebars.

Very methodical and painstaking to master any subject he tackled, his early loves were singing and ringing. The latter he commenced in London, at Lambeth Parish Church and St. John's, Waterloo Road, but he was soon actively engaged with the Ancient Society of College Youths and became secretary about 1890, a position he held continuously until his retirement in November, 1937.

Described repeatedly by Canon Coleridge as the 'prince of secretaries,' he gave practically the whole of his leisure to the many and various duties of this office and resigned only through ill-health.

He followed James Pettitt as conductor at St. Paul's Cathedral (the only two conductors up to date since the bells were placed in the tower in 1878), where he was loved as 'The Skipper.' Martinet, yes, but kind withal, and a great stickler for discipline in the belfry. It was he who arranged for the middle six to be raised and fallen in peal every Sunday, for previously they had been raised and fallen singly, and he instigated the idea of having all the band at their ropes to wait for the clock to strike and then to go off into 'rounds' precisely on time.

THE DEATH OF MR. W. T. COCKERILL.

He conducted his last touch of three courses of Stedman Cinques on Sunday afternoon, March 27th, when he appeared to be in better spirits than usual of late, but he collapsed on leaving the tram quite near to his home, and died early on the morning of March 30th.

He was a born leader of men, with great tact, although in the early years he created some impression of aloofness. Friends were not disposed to call him 'Bill,' but I am quite sure he would not have objected had they done so.

He tried very hard for the first peal of London Surprise in the City of London, but was forestalled by the Brighton band, and I think he took this rather to heart at the time.

A fine heavy bell ringer, he was the first man to turn St. Paul's tenor in single-handed, and also the famous Bow tenor to the first peal of Maximus (at a time when she was almost unringable). He was very keen to try the same at Exeter, but the authorities refused to allow single-handed attempts. He most likely would have succeeded in this, for he was then in the prime of his life and physical condition.

He rang many peals on handbells, the most important being Carter's Odd Bob, one-part, non-conducted, in 1917.

In his youth he was a great athlete—once he rode from London to Yorkshire and back on his penny-farthing bicycle—and he was fond of most forms of sport.

To know him and be in his circle of friends meant loving him, and one could not have a firmer or stouter friend.

MASTER'S TRIBUTE.

Speaking of Mr. Cockerill, Mr. E. H. Lewis (Master) said: By his death the College Youths have lost one who was one of the greatest secretaries that ever held office in the Ancient Society—for during the 300 years of its history there could have been none who rendered it more loyal or efficient service.

When Mr. Cockerill came to the task just over 46 years ago it was no easy job, for there were factions which did not make for harmony. Mr. Cockerill was the strong man who pulled them together, and, as I have mentioned before, throughout his long period of office the society continued on the up-grade. It was his great virtue, I think, that while he treated everyone with the utmost kindness, he could, when occasion required it, be quite firm. He had a very arduous year in connection with the Tercentenary, but in spite of his advancing years he discharged his duties with all his old devotion and ability.

'TEMPUS FUGIT'

DEDICATED TO THE MEMORY OF WILLIAM T. COCKERILL.

Youth!—and our fond ambitions rise.
We plan as each new day is born;
We see the silver in the skies
Behind the gloomy clouds, our eyes
Towards the Dawn.

The passing years, with flying feet,
Remind us yet of deeds undone.
Undaunted still, our pulses beat.
We bear the burden and the heat
Till set of sun.

Age!—all too soon—that bane of men,
'Time and the Hour' the vesper calls.
We turn the page, put down the pen,
Sadly we close the book—and then
The shadow falls.

WILLIAM WILLSON.

LONDON RINGING.

Mr. Taffender pointed out that the war had stopped good progress, but since then he had been constantly making efforts to get ringing in the London towers for Sunday services. He had heard many grumbles as to the quality of ringing when youngsters were being taught, but he found that those who complained were the last ones to help (hear, hear). At city towers, such as St. Bride's, Fleet Street, it was impossible to obtain a local band, as there was no residential population from which to get ringers, and it was no solution to provide a band by depleting other towers. New blood was required, and the only solution was to teach more youngsters. Mr. Taffender also drew attention to the apathy of church authorities, and quoted one instance where a churchwarden, who was the scoutmaster of the local troop, had made a rule forbidding scouts to learn ringing until they were 19 years of age. Mr. Taffender added that he was not concerned with what the other societies proposed to do.

The District Master expressed the view that they all ought to try and work in co-operation.

The meeting terminated with the usual votes of thanks, and ringing afterwards took place at All Saints' Church.

A letter from Mr. J. E. Bailey is unavoidably held over until next week.

LONDON RINGING. AWAKENING INTEREST.

London County Association Activities.

Interest in the problems of London ringing was shown at the meeting of the Southern District of the London County Association, held at Wandsworth on Saturday. There was an attendance of some 35 members, who rang first on the very nice peal of eight at Holy Trinity Church, bells installed some few years ago by Messrs. Taylor and Co., and upon which the first peal was rung only recently.

The curate conducted a short service in the church, and in an address spoke of the message which the bells proclaimed, and of their reminder to those who had drifted away from the Church.

The business meeting followed tea in the Parish Church Hall and was presided over by the new District Master, Mr. P. A. Corby.

In announcing arrangements for future meetings, Mr. Corby said the committee had considered the proposal made to hold the next annual meeting at Southwark Cathedral, and, in view of the difficulties, suggested that the meeting should be held at Chelsea or alternatively at Putney and Fulham.—On a vote, Chelsea was agreed to.

Mr. Corby said the next district meeting was to be held at Isleworth in June, and it was also proposed to hold a joint meeting with the Middlesex Association at Chiswick on May 21st.

Miss Ashbrook asked whether, in view of what happened last year, when meetings of the London County Association and the Middlesex Association clashed and certain correspondence resulted, the proposed meeting at Chiswick was intended to restore good feeling.

The District Master said it was up to them all to promote a friendly spirit in every direction possible, but if there were any question as to the desirability of holding the meeting he would put it to the vote.

Mr. J. Herbert, as Master of the South and West District of the Middlesex Association, said when the proposal was put before that association at Ealing it was received with acclamation, and everybody would be heartily welcomed.

On being put to the meeting, the proposal was carried nem con.

The District Master announced that meetings of the district would be held on the third Saturday in alternate months, and the committee proposed to arrange a mid-week practice in the other months. This practice would take place on the usual practice night of the tower visited, and the first would be at St. George's-in-the-Borough on the third Wednesday in May at 7 p.m.

BATTERSEA BELLS TO BE RESTORED.

It was announced that the bells of St. Mary's, Battersea, were being restored. They were to be tuned and rehung in a new frame by Messrs. Taylor and Co. This work was being undertaken despite a heavy call upon parochial funds for the restoration of the church roof.

A collection was made towards the bells fund and realised £1.

Mr. T. H. Taffender (Master of the association) referred to the death of Mr. W. T. Cockerill. One of the first towers Mr. Cockerill entered on coming to London, he said, was St. Mary's, Lambeth, and he rang peals with their society and with the old Waterloo Society. He had always been a supporter of their society. He (Mr. Taffender) had known and rung with Mr. Cockerill for about 46 years. He proposed that a letter of condolence should be sent to the sons and daughter.

Mr. E. F. Pike said there was a peal board in Waterloo Road tower recording a peal for their society, in which Mr. Cockerill rang, in 1887, so that he had been a member over 50 years.

The motion was carried and the members stood in silence for a minute as a mark of respect.

The District Master said there was one matter, that of ringing in London, in which a good deal of interest had recently been aroused. He welcomed Mr. J. S. Goldsmith to the meeting and said he thought they would like to hear his views on the subject.

Mr. Taffender said the articles which had recently appeared in 'The Ringing World' on the subject had not been quite fair, and he would like to ask Mr. Goldsmith what his solution of the problem was.

Mr. Goldsmith said the articles which had appeared in 'The Ringing World' had been written in order to stir up interest in a matter of great importance; for the condition of the bells and ringing in London had reached a regrettable state. He did not think it was for him to provide the solution of the problem; that was a matter for the London ringing societies. There were a number of causes which had contributed to the present state of affairs, and clergy and ringers alike must share the responsibility. The neglect of the bells was largely due to the apathy of the Church authorities and the absence of ringers had been partly brought about by the fact that a good many ringers had rung only when they were paid to ring and had never stirred a finger to teach new ringers. There were other causes, but he thought these were the two main reasons. He admired the pertinacity with which Mr. Taffender, through the years, had worked to create bands in quite a number of churches, and if there had been more like him there would have been far fewer silent bells in London than there were to-day (applause). But it was a disgrace that so many peals of bells were entirely or very little rung. Despite what Mr. Taffender had said about the articles, he was unrepentant. It was for the societies to get together and get the Church authorities interested. He realised the difficulties; it was not going to be a work of weeks or of months, but of years; but if they did not soon start, it might be too late (hear, hear).

CHESTER DIOCESAN GUILD.*CREWE BRANCH RECORD MEETING.

A pleasant afternoon was spent at Lawton Church on Saturday, March 19th, on the occasion of the monthly meeting of the Crewe Branch of the Chester Diocesan Guild. Records were broken. In the first place, there was a record attendance of over 50 members, representing 17 towers, proving that Lawton is a popular meeting place.

A record was also established by a touch, 350 of Grandsire Triples, by a band which included the oldest member of the branch, Mr. William Rigby, aged 77, of Lawton, affectionately known as 'Old Bill'; and one of the youngest, if not the youngest member of the North Staffs Association, a schoolboy of 13.

The Guild service was conducted by the Rector of Lawton (the Rev. C. R. England), who in his address spoke of the many ancient and modern uses of bells.

After service tea was served, this being generously given by Mr. Hollinshead, of The Limes, Lawton, to whom a vote of thanks was accorded. Grace was sung to the unusual accompaniment of handbells.

The local band afterwards gave selections on the handbells, and later some of the visitors joined in. Further ringing took place in the tower and was much enjoyed, the methods including Grandsire Triples, Kent Treble Bob, Bob Major, Stedman Triples and Cambridge Major.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION.*CROWDED BELFRY AT BETHNAL GREEN.

The meeting of the North and East District of the Middlesex County Association and London Diocesan Guild, held at St. Matthew's Church, Bethnal Green, on Saturday, March 26th, was very well attended, and a gratifying feature was the large number of young ringers present. Ringing commenced punctually at the time advertised, and very soon the small belfry became uncomfortably crowded. However, a walk in the church grounds between the ringing eased the situation and made the task of the Ringing Master much easier.

At the service the Rector (the Rev. S. L. Sarel), an honorary member of the association, preached a homely sermon. He reminded his hearers of the privileged position they held as churchworkers and of the call they made to others. He was sure they would not be like the ringers at a certain church in Cornwall, where prize ringing is in vogue, who, he was told, practised six days in the week and rested on Sunday.

Mr. F. E. Platt, a young ringer from St. Mark's, Dalston, presided at the organ, and did his job uncommonly well.

Tea followed, the catering department being taxed to the utmost (what a difference a postcard would make!). A very short business meeting took place when only empty plates were left. Four new members were elected, and Stanmore was chosen as the place for the next meeting on May 14th. Double Norwich Court Bob Major was the choice for the special method for that meeting.

The hon. secretary (Mr. C. T. Coles) announced that the annual general meeting would be held at Hillingdon on Saturday, April 30th, and the most important business would be the discussion of the new rules, details of which had already been circulated to the affiliated towers. He urged everybody to be present.

The Chairman (Mr. G. W. Fletcher) proposed a vote of thanks to the Rector, to the catering department, and to the organist.—The Rector, in reply, said he was glad to see a good meeting, and hoped the association would soon pay another visit.—The organist, too, replied, and said that any ringers would be welcomed at Dalston, where they were very short-handed.

The total attendance during the afternoon and evening was upwards of 50, which is much more encouraging than the poor attendances of 1937. The ringing reached a high standard—from rounds to Spliced Surprise in four methods, and included a course of Kent Treble Bob Major by eight members of the Ladies' Guild.

NEW BAND FORMED AT KERESLEY.*ADDITIONAL BELL HOPED FOR.

With the view of putting the band of bellringers in the parish of Keresley with Coundon, Coventry, Warwickshire, on a proper footing and the promotion of the art of campanology among churchmen there, a parish church society was formed at a meeting which was held in the belfry of St. Thomas' Church, Keresley, on March 7th. The society has the name St. Thomas', Keresley and Coundon Society of Church Bellringers.

The Vicar is president and the churchwardens vice-presidents. Mr. C. H. Webb was elected Ringing Master and Mr. W. Ensor steeple-keeper. Mr. F. East was appointed hon. secretary.

Members include all the old ringers and several newcomers to the district interested in bellringing. Two probationers are in training.

The society practises on Monday nights regularly. Nearly all the members and associates are members of the Warwickshire Guild. The church has five bells and a fund has been opened to provide a sixth bell.

BASINGSTOKE.—The young band at St. Michael's, Basingstoke, are making headway and some of them rang their first quarter-peal of Kent Treble Bob Major (1,280 changes) on March 9th: *F. G. Cooper 1, *D. H. Anstey 2, *D. W. Nash 3, *R. F. Kingham 4, E. P. Austin 5, C. W. Munday (first as conductor) 6, J. Chesterman 7, *F. A. Munday 8. * First quarter-peal of Kent Treble Bob Major.

DON'T SCRUB YOUR HANDS!

To many people, the problem of getting the hands really clean without harming the skin is a serious one. Grease and grime, which become deeply ingrained into the pores of the skin, are extremely difficult to remove, and ordinary washing with soap or even scrubbing will fail to remove them completely. Housewives, particularly, who complain that their hands get ruined by the nature of their work, will find the preparation called DERMAFOAM a real "godsend." DERMAFOAM just smoothes away dirt and grease without effort. It gets right down into the pores and removes every particle of grime, leaving skin beautifully supple and healthy.

Men, too—when you've finished that dirty job on the car, DERMAFOAM will quickly banish all grease and oil from your hands. It acts almost magically—working under and around the nails and into every minute crease, removing all trace of dirt in a flash.

Engineers, Painters, Car Mechanics, Printers — everyone — will welcome DERMAFOAM, the modern method of cleansing and protecting the hands.

'THE COLLEGE YOUTHS'

by J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE

'This is one of the very few books I have read which seem to me might, with advantage, have been considerably longer.'—The Dean of St. Paul's.

'Mr. Trollope has achieved more than his immediate purpose of writing a history of the Society of College Youths. So closely has the guild been identified with English change ringing that its history is to a very large extent an account of the ancient sport of ringing developed into an elaborate art. . . .

'Throughout his book Mr. Trollope takes his readers into a strange and fascinating world whose traditions so peculiarly English deserve far more popular attention than they usually receive.'—The Guardian.

ASSOCIATIONS & THE CENTRAL COUNCIL

To publish the official minutes of the last meeting of the Central Council at this time of year may seem to indicate too long a delay, but it has the advantage of providing a revival of interest in the Council's work and, as it were, giving a start to the affairs of the coming session. The detailed reports which appear in 'The Ringing World,' in the weeks immediately following the Whitsun meeting, provide the Exercise with all the information it needs at the time, but the work of the Council is continuous, and it is as well that, before the succeeding meeting, there should be a reminder of what was the position of affairs when last the Council met, for it must not be overlooked that the business transacted often concerns the associations as well as the representatives.

For instance, we wonder how many of the associations have taken any steps in the matters directly referred to them? Such a request, shall we say, as that asking for information concerning any local customs relating to muffled ringing, particulars of which are needed for inclusion in a report upon the subject? Or again, the furnishing of details of old ringing records, contained in many belfries, which are still awaited to complete the work which is being done by one of the committees of the Council? There are quite a number of things in which, from time to time, the Council needs the help of the associations, and it is astonishing in how much some of these organisations fall short of what may reasonably be expected of them. The affiliated societies ought not to feel that, when they have paid their subscriptions and elected their representatives, they have done all that is necessary in their relationship with the Council. The more lively the interest they take in its proceedings and work, the more effective the Council would be, and one way in which they could help its usefulness would be in sending forward, through their representatives, subjects of general interest which the Council could discuss.

Behind the scenes the work of the Council, through its officials and committees, proceeds throughout the year; it is only with the approach of Whitsuntide that the Exercise hears anything about what is going on. But some of the most valuable work is of a humdrum nature, for which those who do it often get little thanks. Those who are inclined to grumble that the Council does very little probably know little of all that is being done on their behalf, and have hardly stopped to consider what the Exercise and the Art would be like without such a body to co-ordinate them. For something like fifty years the Council has been encouraging all that is best in ringing and endeavouring successfully to direct the development of the art into channels which have lifted it far above the conditions which prevailed previously. While the associations themselves have raised the status of ringers and spread interest in the art, the Council has not only given them support and helped to consolidate their position, but has facilitated largely, by its discussions and publications, the expansion of the art itself to fields previously undreamt of. The best way in which the Exercise can repay the Council is not merely to show an interest in its labour, but to give it more work to do.

THE SECRETARIES' ASSOCIATION.

MEMBERS RING A PEAL OF CINQUES.

On Saturday, twelve secretaries of a similar number of ringing organisations rang a peal of Stedman Cinques at Southwark Cathedral, London, the first time that a band thus composed had rung a twelve-bell peal, and they rang it for an association which is their very own.

By way of explanation, it may be as well to go back a bit in history to recall that on March 21st, 1931, at Beddington, Surrey, before a peal of Stedman Caters, ten secretaries founded an association, by passing the following resolution, which has made their society a model for all time. The formation of the association and its constitution were embodied in the following:—

'That an association, to be known as the Secretaries' Association, be and the same is hereby formed; that those here present become its first members; that it be open to secretaries of recognised ringing guilds and associations; that there be no entrance fee or annual subscription; and that no minutes of its proceedings be kept.'

Since that resolution was passed the association had not met until last Saturday, when the 'first annual meeting' was held. There was no agenda and no business, except the election of new members, and a resolution, moved and carried without speeches, that the subscription be halved and the secretaries' secretary's salary doubled.

Then they got down to the real task of the day, which a number of them had come so far to share. Lincoln, Leicester, Wolverhampton and Somerset, to say nothing of Reading and Portsmouth, had been drawn on, and the result was extremely satisfactory to the secretaries. There were a number of experts outside to listen to the ringing, and the band received their congratulations upon having rung an excellent peal, which was conducted by the secretary of the Ladies' Guild.

Before this performance the secretaries modestly thought of challenging the guild and association treasurers to ringing combat, but they now think they might try for something even more august and challenge the Masters to ring Stedman Cinques in competition for twelve top-hats.

But in addition to the pleasure which the secretaries had of meeting and ringing together, there was a touch of sadness about the peal. It was a coincidence that just when the arrangements had been completed, one of the most noted of all ringing secretaries should pass to his rest, so soon after having laid down his pen. The secretaries, therefore, paid their tribute to the late Mr. W. T. Cockerill, who had been the doyen of their fraternity, by ringing the peal with the bells half-muffled.

One other point about the peal is worthy of note, and that is that Mr. Tom Hibbert was able to finish off the task of ringing every one of St. Saviour's bells to a peal. Tom had to dash off at the finish to catch his train, and the remainder had only just time for a brief celebration before the Licensing Act intervened. We understand that what with early morning trains to distant parts of England and the beginning of 'summer time' in the course of these journeys, some of the ringers only reached home on Sunday morning 'with the milk.'

The secretaries would like to acknowledge their indebtedness to Mr. A. A. Hughes, of the Whitechapel Foundry, for the attention given to the bells and for putting on the muffles before the peal.

DEATH OF BRISTOL RINGER.

We regret to record the passing on Sunday, April 3rd, of Mr. Bertram C. Worsdell, of Bristol, at the age of 44 years. He had been employed by the Great Western Railway Company and was well known in ringing circles in the west country, where he will be always remembered as a valuable Sunday service ringer and a great asset to the band to which he belonged.

From 1928 until 1935 he was a member of St. Ambrose, Bristol, Guild. When he was promoted to a higher post and transferred to Trowbridge, Wilts, he became a useful addition to the band there and rang in the first peal of Stedman Cinques by the local company. In 1937 he was transferred back to Bristol to take up his duties in another part of the city, and became a member of St. Stephen's Guild, to which he was attached until his death, which occurred at Bristol General Hospital following an operation.

The funeral took place on Thursday, April 7th, at St. Ambrose's Church. The service, which was choral, was conducted by the Rev. R. F. Plaistowe, curate (a member of St. Ambrose Guild of Ringers), assisted by the Vicar (the Rev. F. S. Lee), the interment being at Avon View Cemetery. Bristol ringers were represented by Messrs. J. A. Burford and W. H. Thomas (St. Stephen's), A. Pearce and G. Pearce (St. James'), Mrs. E. J. Brown (St. Philip's), Mrs. L. Simmons (Portishead), Messrs. J. G. Jefferies (Mangotsfield), A. T. Maggs, A. Knight, G. S. Wiltshire, Mrs. F. Skidmore and Mr. F. Skidmore (St. Ambrose).

The bells were half-muffled and Stedman Triples were rung prior to the service. After the service a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples was rung by A. T. Maggs 1, G. Pearce 2, Mrs. F. Skidmore 3, A. Knight 4, F. Skidmore 5, A. Pearce 6, J. G. Jefferies 7, G. S. Wiltshire 8.

The floral tributes included wreaths from Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Brown; C. Raisen, Trowbridge; Trowbridge ringers; and St. Ambrose ringers.

MEMBERSHIP.

The hon. secretary reported that the composition of the Council was now as follows:—

Associations affiliated	...	50
Total members to which entitled	...	138
Total members elected	...	135
Honorary members	...	15

The alterations from last year were the affiliation of the Sussex County Association with four representatives, an addition of one representative from the Warwickshire Guild and one less from the Swansea and Brecon Diocesan Guild.

It was also reported that Lord Shaftesbury had consented to his election as honorary member.

The following subscriptions were reported unpaid: Cambridge University Guild, Durham and Newcastle Association, North Notts Association and North Wales Association, and attention was drawn to Rule 5.

As the operation of this rule would prevent the president from speaking or voting, it was proposed by Mr. A. Paddon Smith, seconded by Mr. Stephen H. Wood, and resolved, that Mr. E. H. Lewis be elected an honorary member.

(Note.—The unpaid subscriptions have since been paid.)

ADDRESS TO H.M. THE KING.

On the president's motion, it was resolved that the following address be sent:—

'The members of the Central Council of Church Bellringers, who represent 21,000 change ringers, assembled for their annual meeting in the Chapter House, Canterbury Cathedral, wish to repeat to your Majesty the message of congratulation and loyalty which rang out last Wednesday from the church towers of the country.—Edwin H. Lewis, President.'

The following reply was received:—

'The King is much gratified to receive your message of congratulation on the occasion of His Majesty's Coronation. I am desirous to express his warm thanks to all who joined in these good wishes.—Private Secretary.'

ELECTION OF HONORARY MEMBERS.

On the proposal of Mr. J. A. Trollope, seconded by Mr. C. F. Johnston, it was resolved that the following retiring members be re-elected: The Rev. H. S. T. Richardson and Messrs. A. A. Hughes, E. C. S. Turner and S. H. Wood.

PRESENTATION OF NEW MEMBERS TO THE PRESIDENT.

In accordance with Rule 11, the following members were presented: Mr. L. J. Williams (Lancashire Association) and Mr. W. Claydon (Surrey Association).

APOLOGIES FOR ABSENCE.

Apologies were received from Mr. W. T. Cockerill (Ancient Society of College Youths), the Rev. W. M. K. Warren (Bath and Wells), Mr. A. E. Sharnan (Bedford), the Rev. E. V. Cox (Devon), Messrs. W. H. Woodberry (Worcester and Districts), Canon C. C. Marshall (Yorkshire), and honorary members, Alderman J. S. Pritchett, the Rev. H. S. T. Richardson and Mr. C. W. Roberts.

LOSS OF MEMBERS THROUGH DEATH.

The president reported the death of the following members and past members:—

The Rev. A. H. F. Boughey (1892-1928, president 1918-20), the Rev. E. W. Carpenter (1891-1932), Mr. F. Wilford (1904-1936), Mr. A. A. Coppock (1924-1935), Mr. J. Phillips (1932-1935), Mr. H. S. Ellis (1912-1914), Mr. R. J. Dawe (1909-1911), Mr. A. E. Wreaks (1895-1896), Mr. G. W. Stokes (1937).

A silent tribute was paid with all members standing.

MINUTES OF THE LAST MEETING.

It was proposed by the Rev. F. Ll. Edwards, seconded by Mr. A. A. Hughes and carried, that the minutes published in 'The Ringing World' on March 26th and April 2nd, pages 197-199 and 213, and circulated to all members, be taken as read and be approved.

REPORTS.

The following reports, etc., were circulated to all members and associations, and have been published in full or in brief form in 'The Ringing World.' They are preserved in the Council's records and are available for inspection:—

REPORT OF THE HONORARY LIBRARIAN.

(Vide 'The Ringing World,' May 28th, 1937, pages 355-6.)

In the unavoidable absence of the hon. librarian, the report and accounts were presented by the hon. secretary, who moved the adoption. The resolution was seconded by Mr. A. Paddon Smith and carried.

Arising out of the report, the following matters were dealt with on the recommendation of the Standing Committee: (a) The 962 copies of the Glossary to be offered to associations on payment of postage, the out-of-date matter to be indicated by rubber stamp. (b) Model Rules for a Local Company and Preservation of Bells to be reprinted, decision to be made by Standing Committee as to number of copies required and revision necessary. (c) Hints to Instructors and Beginners to be reprinted if demand continues. (d) The officers to consider the preparation of a book on double-handed handbell ringing. (e) Insurance should be effected on the stock of publications and the contents of the library.

The recommendations were adopted on the motion of Mr. G. W. Fletcher, seconded by the Rev. F. Ll. Edwards, and on the proposal of Mr. G. W. Fletcher, seconded by Mr. S. H. Wood, the thanks of the Council were accorded to those who had kindly presented additional books to the library.

STATEMENT OF ACCOUNTS.

(Vide 'The Ringing World,' May 28th, 1937, page 356.)

The hon. treasurer represented the accounts and reported that these had been audited by Mr. A. A. Hughes, who moved the adoption, and Mr. C. T. Coles, who seconded the motion. The accounts were adopted.

REPORT OF THE TRUSTEES OF THE CARTER RINGING MACHINE.

('The Ringing World,' May 28th, 1937, page 356.)

The report was presented by Mr. E. Alex. Young (senior trustee), and on his proposal, seconded by Mr. A. A. Hughes, was adopted. It was also agreed to pay the demonstrator's fee of 10s. 6d.

REPORT OF THE STANDING COMMITTEE.

('The Ringing World,' May 28th, 1937, page 356.)

The hon. secretary presented the formal report of the committee and moved the adoption. The motion was seconded by Mrs. Fletcher and carried.

REPORT OF THE PEAL COLLECTION COMMITTEE.

('The Ringing World,' May 28th, 1937, page 356.)

A letter from Mr. Lindoff was read by the hon. secretary stating that the peal collection was delayed owing to failure of members of the committee to return selections of peals.

The letter was accepted as the report of the committee, and on the proposal of Mr. J. A. Trollope, seconded by Mr. W. H. Hollier, was adopted.

REPORT OF THE METHODS COMMITTEE

('The Ringing World,' May 28th, 1937, pages 356 and 357.)

The report was presented by Mr. J. A. Trollope, who moved the adoption. The motion was seconded by Mr. E. C. S. Turner and carried. The committee indicated that they would deal with the question of reprinting Plain Major and Cater Methods, which were nearly sold out.

The committee recommended 'that in order to assist the Council in keeping up to date a register of methods which have been rung, the secretaries of affiliated associations be asked to forward to the Council the figures of any method rung for the first time and the composition, together with particulars of first performance.'

The recommendation was adopted on the proposal of Mr. S. H. Wood, seconded by Mr. E. C. S. Turner.

REPORT OF THE PEAL ANALYSIS AND RECORDS COMMITTEE.

('The Ringing World,' April 23rd, 1937, pages 267-9.)

In presenting the report, Mrs. Fletcher stated that since its publication in 'The Ringing World,' two alterations had been made, i.e., a non-association peal of Bob Minor was now included with the peals of the Ely Diocesan Association, and a peal in seven Surprise methods had been added to the record of new methods.

The committee referred three matters for the Council's decision:—

(a) As to whether Pitman's and Morris' Doubles were contrary to the Council's decisions. (No action was taken on this matter as the question was to be debated later.)

(b) As to whether two peals of Doubles, rung for the Hertford County Association, containing Oxford Singles, should be excluded from the Analysis. The Standing Committee recommended that the Council regret the inclusion of such a method in a peal considering the number of methods available.

(c) As to whether a peal of Minor rung for the Yorkshire Association, containing a plain course of Woodbine in addition to an extent in that method, should be included, there being some doubt as to where the plain course was inserted. The Standing Committee recommended that the committee make further inquiry.

The report was adopted on the proposal of Mrs. Fletcher, seconded by Mr. G. R. Pye, and on the president's motion the Standing Committee's recommendations were adopted.

It was proposed by Mr. J. S. Goldsmith, seconded by Mr. A. Walker, and carried, that it be an instruction to the committee that, when necessary information is not forthcoming when the statistics are made up, the peals should be ignored and omitted from the Analysis.

The committee recommended the addition of Mr. W. Ayre to the committee, and on the proposal of Mrs. E. K. Fletcher, seconded by Mr. F. Perrens, this was adopted.

'CANNED' SERVICES.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—In view of recent correspondence and expressions of opinion by bellringers regarding the use of gramophone records instead of bells, the following extract from the Church Magazine 'Home Words' for March will no doubt be of interest to your readers:—

'In your Church News,' writes the Rev. T. H. Croucher, 'you mention a Vicar who conducts services and plays the organ too. I have done that many times. (I am an F.R.C.O.) But I wonder if there are any clergymen who play a gramophone to accompany their services? At my church at South Pickenham, Norfolk, I used to play hymns, psalms, anthems and the Canticles on the gramophone. This I found very successful; one hadn't to rely on village folk who couldn't or wouldn't play!'

It would be interesting to know what the Rev. T. H. Croucher means exactly by the words 'very successful'; presumably the attendance at church showed an improvement after the introduction of the gramophone. However, in my opinion a mere handful of sincere worshippers in church would be far better than a church full to the doors with people who were there, either out of sheer curiosity or for the sake of the novelty of hearing a gramophone taking the place of the choir and organ.

On one point, at any rate, I am sure that all churchpeople (whether ringers or not) will be agreed, i.e., that the efforts of the 'village folk,' however poor and imperfect, would be far more acceptable to God than the most perfect gramophone record, and this goes for bells as well as services!

Further, as there are two sides to every story, it would be rather interesting to hear what the people of South Pickenham have to say in answer to the Rev. Croucher's closing words.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

The East Berks and South Bucks Branch of the Oxford Diocesan Guild had 262 paid up ringing members for 1937. They seem to have a way of collecting arrears, too, for the balance sheet shows that in addition to the contributions for 1937, ten members paid for 1936 and seven for 1935.

Easter tide has always been a time for the ringing of long peals, and among them we would recall the 13,265 Grandsire Caters at Appleton rung exactly 50 years ago last Monday.

Tuesday, the 12th, was the anniversary of the famous 18,027 of Stedman Caters, rung at Loughborough in 1909, the first time that one set of men ever rang 'the clock round.' The peal took 12 hours 18 minutes.

Next Sunday is the anniversary of 12,240 of Treble Bob Maximus at Ashton-under-Lyne, to which Mr. James George rang the tenor, in 8 hours 39 minutes, on April 17th, 1911, while Monday is the anniversary of three records: 12,006 Grandsire Caters at Painswick in 1737; 13,440 Double Norwich Major at Romford, Essex, in 1894; and 17,824 Oxford Treble Bob Major at Hepstonstall, Yorks, in 1927.

It is also interesting to recall that the first peal of Cumberland Exercise Major—a method long since relegated to the limbo of things forgotten—was rung exactly 100 years ago on Saturday at Birstall.

Among the events of which to-day (Thursday) is the anniversary is the gallant attempt for the tower-bell record, made at Heptonstall, Yorks, on April 14th, 1928. A peal of 22,096 of Double Norwich Major was lost after 18,360 changes had been rung in 10 hours 31 minutes.

Which is a reminder that the longest tower-bell peal by one set of men was rung on April 22nd, 1922, at Appleton—the 21,363 Stedman Caters in 12 hours 25 minutes.

THE LATE MR. W. T. COCKERILL.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—The remark in your last issue with reference to the first peal of London Surprise in the City makes me feel I should like to add just a word of appreciation to what has been said of the late Mr. William T. Cockerill. I can fully endorse the remarks as to his being an upholder of strict discipline in the belfry. Experience has taught me that this is a necessity, but with Mr. Cockerill's tact as a leader it came quite naturally. In my early visits to St. Paul's on a Sunday in the early nineties I was always most courteously welcomed (although not a member of the 'Ancients'), and never left the tower without being asked to ring.

With regard to Mr. Cockerill's trying hard for the first peal of London Surprise in the City, it may not be out of place to mention that one of the first to congratulate us on coming out of the tower at St. Stephen's, Coleman Street, on January 14th, 1899, was Mr. W. T. Cockerill with the remark, 'You have done it for us this time.'

I can only add that I am sure the passing of Mr. Cockerill will cause a gap in the St. Paul's company very hard to fill as faithfully as he has done.

PRESENTATION TO RETIRING DONCASTER RINGER.

MR. G. HALKSWORTH'S FIFTY YEARS' SERVICE.

Mr. George Halksworth has been for nearly fifty years a member of the Doncaster Parish Church company, and vice-president of the Doncaster and District Association and Ringing Master of the Southern Division of the Yorkshire Association for 21 years. He has now left Doncaster to live at Scarborough, but before his departure received a slight recognition from his colleagues for all the service he had rendered to ringing.

On April 3rd, Canon A. Ll. Davies, Vicar of Doncaster and president of the Doncaster company, presented a Westminster chime clock to Mr. Halksworth and a cut-glass bowl to Mrs. Halksworth on behalf of the local company.

Mr. W. E. Lloyd welcomed the visitors, who represented the Yorkshire Association and Doncaster and District Association.

Canon Davies said he was very pleased to see so many present, as Mr. Halksworth's ambition to encourage bellringing, not only in Doncaster, but all over Yorkshire, was greater than could be expressed in words.

Mr. Lloyd read a letter from Mr. H. Walker, of Whitley Bay, a former ringer of Doncaster Parish Church. In it he said: 'It was in 1891 that Mr. George Halksworth became a member of the Doncaster company. For 50 years he has upheld the best traditions of the art of change ringing in Doncaster and district, and has done all in his power to advance the art. He has been vice-president of the Doncaster and District Association for 21 years, Ringing Master of the Southern Division, Yorkshire Association, for 21 years, and for four years on the General Committee of the Yorkshire Association. He carried out the often difficult duties of his office in a manner worthy of a diplomat, giving pleasure to many and offence to none.'

Mr. Halksworth, in acknowledging the gifts, said that what he wanted more than anything else was that the work should be carried on.

Mr. A. Staveley, 151, Wentworth Road, Doncaster, was elected to take Mr. Halksworth's place as secretary of the Doncaster company.

LEADING CONDUCTORS—14.

JOHN AUSTIN.

One of the 'old brigade,' Mr. John Austin, of Gloucester, was among the pioneers of Surprise ringing. He was born at Burton-on-Trent on November 19th, 1863, and at the age of 20 was invited to take up ringing at Winshill, near his home. He soon became very interested in the art, and later made the acquaintance of Mr. John Jaggar, who was doing a lot of useful work among young ringers. On December 5th, 1885, Mr. Jaggar conducted Mr. Austin's first peal—Grandsire Triples at St. Paul's, Burton, and, soon afterwards, Mr. Austin joined the St. Paul's company.

It was just at the time the Burton men were beginning to make history and break new ground in Surprise ringing. So quickly did Mr. Austin develop as a ringer that in May, 1886, he took part in the first peal of New Cumberland Surprise, and quickly followed this with peals of Stedman, Treble Bob, Superlative, Cambridge, and London. On November 8th, 1888, he rang in the 6,720 of London Surprise at Burton, conducted by Mr. Joseph Griffin. At that time it was the record length in the method. In this same year, too, Mr. Austin rang his first peal as conductor, calling Holt's Original.

In November, 1890, Mr. Austin went to live in Gloucester and joined the enthusiastic band at St. Michael's, the society including the brothers E. B. and H. L. James. They were at that time practising Double Norwich, and on Christmas morning rang the first peal in the method for the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association.

In 1893 Mr. Austin conducted the first peal of Superlative Surprise, Double Oxford Bob Major and Grandsire Cinques for the association, and, in the following year, the first peals of Cambridge Surprise Major and Double Norwich Court Bob Caters. In the diamond jubilee year, 1897, came the first peals of Bob Royal, Bob Maximus, Gloucester Surprise Major and Kent Treble Bob Maximus. It was this band that really gave the first impetus to Surprise Royal ringing. On January 21st, 1898, Mr. Austin called a peal of Cambridge Surprise Royal at Cheltenham. At the time it was believed to be the first ever rung, but later it was discovered that 80 years or so before a peal had been rung in Yorkshire. But the Cheltenham peal was the start of modern Surprise Royal ringing.

Afterwards Cambridge Surprise Maximus was practised, and, although he has never rung a peal of it, we believe Mr. Austin was the first ever to call a bob in Surprise Maximus. On three occasions the band met for a peal at Cirencester, and at the last attempt rang nearly two courses. Although they were never successful in scoring a peal, it was a great piece of pioneering work, for it must be remembered they had no ring of twelve of their own on which to practise. Indeed, it was the fact that they had to travel to Cirencester that eventually led to dropping the method.

The year 1898 was a very successful one, for it saw the first peals on the augmented ring of ten at St. Michael's and a peal of Kent Treble Bob Royal at Hereford Cathedral, the latter a formidable task, for ringing takes place among the great old timber beams amid deafening noise.

St. Michael's Juniors later fell on quiet days, for the band became much depleted, but Mr. Austin kept up his peal ringing activities, and his conducting has been an example to many young ringers, for John Austin seldom calls a peal from any but a 'working' bell. Altogether he has rung 540 peals, of which he has conducted 310, and the proudest moment in his life was when he called 'this is all' at the end of the first peal at Exeter Cathedral.

Mr. Austin was Master of the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association from 1916 to 1918, and served for a number of years as Gloucester branch secretary of the association. He has also represented the association on the Central Council, first from 1908 to 1920, and from 1932 to the present time.

MR. JOHN AUSTIN.

MR. BAILEY REPLIES TO MR. CORBY.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—It is not my intention to enter into a wordy argument, but now that I have been accused of 'insulting the London County Association,' 'talking through the back of my hat,' 'using carping criticism' and 'residing in a district where bitterness is rife,' I would like to attempt to reply to the bitter and unpleasant onslaught made by Mr. Corby against my speech at the recent Cumberland Youths' dinner.

First of all, let me say that there was nothing I said in my speech which I did not qualify by an example or an observation, and if Mr. Corby had been present at the dinner he would not have written 'through the back of his hat' on secondhand information and accused me of talking through the back of mine.

There is no need for me to reply to the points raised in Mr. Corby's letter, as I think they have been effectively dealt with by Mr. Gilbert (on free lance peal ringing) and Mr. Waugh (on the position of the London County Association in London ringing) at the dinner, and by the leading articles and Mr. Trollope's letter in your paper, and it would appear that Mr. Corby would have been well advised to wait for the full report of the speeches at the dinner to appear before doing any mud slinging.

I am rather afraid Mr. Corby has overstepped the mark and has pointed his criticism at me rather than at my speech. He says, 'I feel that the Exercise should be informed that in the neighbourhood in which Mr. Bailey resides there is a great deal of bitter feeling,' etc., but he omits to mention that, until recently, he has been residing in the district himself, and I do feel that he is hitting below the belt by using the district in which I reside to further his own arguments, particularly as he has not long ceased to be a resident of it himself.

As far as using 'carping criticism' is concerned, I leave those of your readers who read Mr. Corby's letter to decide who has been doing the 'carping.'

In conclusion, let me venture to suggest that Mr. Corby will be doing the London County Association a much greater service by showing the courtesy and friendliness that its other officers show rather than indulging in a bitter criticism which he has done in his letter of last week.

J. E. BAILEY.

'HIDEOUS EFFECT' OF SIMULTANEOUS RINGING.

Dear Sir,—This letter is written from an office in Kingsway, London, at six o'clock on Sunday evening, to the combined accompaniment of a peal of eight bells, probably St. Andrew's, Holborn, and a peal of ten, which no doubt is St. Clement Danes'.

The effect is really hideous, and if some of those ringers who lament the silence of many of London's bells could be with me now, I am sure they would doubt whether it is such a bad thing after all.

As ringers, we agree that all bells should be rung, but we are naturally only very rarely able to judge their effect. This particular office is within earshot of four peals of bells—the two mentioned above; St. Paul's Cathedral, which I heard this afternoon; and St. Martin's-in-the-Fields. In all cases there is nothing to prevent the sound of the bells coming out, and it can be little short of a miracle that, apparently, no complaints are received. The bells of St. Clement Danes, for example, are, to my mind, a definite nuisance. I personally do not object to them (by themselves), but the comments of my non-ringing colleagues can be well imagined, even though we do not hear them at full force.

The four peals mentioned above are contained in a very small part of London, and there must be many other places where more than one peal can be heard. If all the silent bells started ringing, heaven knows what the effect would be!

E. A. BARNETT.

LONDON TWELVE-BELL TOWERS.

Sir,—What is a 'silent twelve-bell tower'? And may I ask which twelve-bell towers in London are supposed to come in this category?

R. F. DEAL.

RINGER'S SILVER WEDDING.

On the occasion of the silver wedding of Mr. and Mrs. E. Coles, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Caters was rung at St. John the Baptist's Church, Cardiff, for evening service on Sunday, February 22nd. The conductor, Mr. A. Rowley, called the same quarter-peal for the wedding 25 years ago: W. Prosser 1, F. Hannington 2, E. Coles 3, E. Hunt 4, J. Davies 5, H. Morgan 6, A. Rowley (conductor) 7, E. Coomes 8, J. Phillips 9, S. R. Barker 10.

FIRST QUARTER-PEALS.

BURFORD, OXFORDSHIRE.—On Sunday, March 20th, at the Parish Church, for evensong, a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples: T. Bond 1, T. Timms 2, A. Bishop 3, *B. S. Nichols 4, R. Hudson 5, W. Dixon (conductor) 6, F. Soden 7, *O. Aldridge 8. * First quarter-peal of Stedman. First quarter-peal as conductor.

STREATHAM.—On Sunday, February 5th, for evensong, at Immanuel Church, a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples: J. C. Mitchell 1, A. Diserens (conductor) 2, Mrs. A. Diserens 3, E. L. Miles 4, C. A. Button 5, T. W. Welbourne 6, J. W. Chapman 7, A. Hodges (first quarter-peal) 8.

LADY'S TENOR RINGING FEAT.

MISS HILDA SNOWDEN'S CAREER.

Miss Hilda Snowden's performance in ringing Bocking tenor to a peal of Double Norwich Major, as well as conducting it, is an outstanding achievement for a lady, for, in the words of one who knows this 18½ cwt. bell well, 'it is a man's job.' The peal, recorded in our columns last week, was rung for her 22nd birthday.

Miss Snowden, who is now hon. secretary of the Northern Division of the Essex Association, really began her ringing career before she reached the age of 14. She started to learn at St. Andrew's, Halstead, in January, 1930. As there were six beginners at the time, progress with handling a bell was slow, and it was not until two years later that she became keenly interested, and realised that, if she was to get on, she must get further practice elsewhere.

With her brother, Mr. Claude Snowden, she cycled to other towers in the district, and most of her early practice in change ringing was obtained at Earls Colne, Greenstead Green and Colne Engaine. It was at the first-named church that she received the splendid tuition which has since enabled her successfully to ring some fairly heavy bells, for at Earls Colne there is a long draught and the bells need a lot of handling. By the way, it is rather regrettable to think that, out of the six who began ringing together in 1930, Miss Snowden is the only one who is left; the others all gave it up.

Miss Snowden rang her first peal in May, 1932, and her first two Surprise peals were rung in one day, in December, 1933. Her peals now number 60 and include Cambridge Minor, Major and Maximus, as well as peals in five other Surprise Major methods. The peal of Cambridge Maximus is a reminder of the fact that Miss Snowden and her brother frequently motor the 32 miles to Ipswich and back for practice. Recently, it will be recalled, she conducted the first peal on Stoke-by-Nayland bells, which are anything but an easy peal to ring. Altogether she has called seven peals and shared in the conducting of one other.

The following is a list of her peals: Cambridge Surprise Maximus 1; Kent Treble Bob Maximus 1; London Surprise Major 7; Bristol Surprise Major 1; Cambridge Surprise Major 6; Superlative Surprise Major 7; Yorkshire Surprise Major 2; Belgrave Surprise Major 1; Kent Treble Bob Major 2; Double Norwich Court Bob Major 7 (conducted 1); Bob Major 6 (conducted 2); Grandsire Triples 1; Surprise Minor, seven methods, 1; Cambridge Surprise Minor 1; Minor in seven methods 2; Minor in four methods 5 (conducted 1, jointly conducted 1); Minor in three methods 2 (conducted 1); Minor in two methods 2 (conducted 1); Oxford Treble Bob Minor 1; Plain Bob Minor 3 (conducted 1); Bob Doubles 1; total 60.

In addition to her membership of the Essex Association, Miss Snowden is also a member of the Ladies' Guild, the Suffolk Guild, the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths, St. Andrew's Guild, Earls Colne, and St. Mary-le-Tower Society, Ipswich.

MISS HILDA SNOWDEN.

SUSSEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

The annual meeting of the Western Division of the Sussex County Association was held at Pulborough on Saturday, March 26th, when 40 members attended from Angmering, Arundel, Billingshurst, Brighton, Chichester, Heene, Kirdford, Rudgwick, Storrington, Shoreham, Warnham, West Grinstead and the local band. Short touches of several methods were rung during the afternoon prior to a short service, which was conducted by the Rector (the Rev. E. I. Frost).

The tea and business meeting were presided over by the Rector.

All the outgoing officers were re-elected, three new members, viz., the Rev. H. T. Wisdom (Worthing), Major H. C. Hall (Wisborough Green) and W. Scragg (Rudgwick), were elected.

A vote of thanks was accorded to the Rector for the use of the bells, and further ringing brought an enjoyable meeting to a close.

PEAL NOTES.

NINE SPLICED MAJOR METHODS.

A peal in nine spliced Surprise Major methods was rung at Willesden on April 5th. It will be remembered that recently an attempt was made for it, and, after being apparently successfully brought round, the conductor discovered that in copying the figures he had put a wrong method in one place, with the result that the peal was false.

Naturally such a contretemps was guarded against on this occasion, and this time the peal was actually rung with an umpire, who sat in the belfry and ticked off each method as it was called.

A feature of the composition, given below, is that the changes are more than usually evenly distributed between the methods, and there is not a predominance of London. Bristol and Rutland have 640 changes each, Ealing, London, Wembley and Watford 576 changes each, Yorkshire 512, and Cambridge and Superlative 480 each. It was the first time a peal had been rung containing these nine methods.

Congratulations to the band, which included one lady, Miss Kathleen Bradford, and particularly to the young composer and conductor, Mr. Ernest C. S. Turner.

Here are the figures of the peal, which runs to 5,056 changes:—

23456	M	W	Methods
35642	—	2	Wem. S. B. Wat.
42356	2	—	R. B. C. or S. R.
32654	—	—	L. C. E.

25463	—	2	Wem. S. B. Wat.
63254	2	—	R. B. Y. R.
52436	—	—	L. C. or S. Wem.
34625	—	—	E. Y. L.
26543	—	—	Wat. C. E.

Repeat the last 5 courses three times, produces 43265. Then repeat the whole.

Peals of Spliced Surprise Major are not, in these days, altogether rare performances, although they are still rare enough to make them noteworthy. It is seldom, however, that two are rung in one day.

In addition to the one at Willesden, another was successful at Watford, where Mr. Harold Cashmore called a peal in five methods of his own composition. Peals of this description have seldom been rung by an entirely local band, but this one was rung by the Watford Society.

VARIETY IN PEAL RINGING.

Probably our readers may have noticed the variety of methods in which the peals on eight and ten bells recorded last week were rung.

The Royal included Plain Bob, Double Bob and Cambridge Surprise. Bob Major, Double Norwich and St. Clement's College were in the Plain Major methods, and the Surprise Major included London, Bristol, Yorkshire, Staffordshire and Rochester, together with a peal in six methods spliced, Cambridge, Superlative, Ealing and Rutland being among them, while of Triples there were peal of Grandsire, Stedman and Oxford Bob.

The fiftieth anniversary of the augmentation of the bells at Whickham, Co. Durham, from three to six was celebrated with a peal of Minor in eight methods on April 2nd.

A peal of Surprise Minor in seven methods was specially arranged for C. E. Jeffries, of Ampthill, who cycled 28 miles each way to Apsley End to take part. It was his first attempt at three of the methods, Alnwick, Munden and Netherseale—a very creditable performance.

Mr. George Thompson rang his 70th peal on his 70th birthday at Harwick, Essex, on April 2nd. It was also a birthday peal for the granddaughter of Mr. H. A. Wright, the tenorman, and the 50th peal rung by Mr. E. E. Davey, who was the conductor.

The silver wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Saxby, of Margate, was celebrated by a peal of Oxford Bob Triples on April 7th. It was the first peal in the method by all the band, except Mr. J. Waghorn.

Mr. Maurice Hibbert rang his one hundredth peal on the bells of St. James' Church, Bushey, on April 7th. The peals have been rung in 27 methods.

The peal last week was specially arranged for Mr. and Mrs. John Thomas, and Mrs. Thomas scored her first peal of Superlative Surprise.

Mr. W. R. Hills has been a chorister at Willesborough Church, Kent, for upwards of 50 years, and on April 2nd the ringers celebrated his birthday by ringing a peal of Treble Bob Minor in his honour.

A 'coming of age' compliment to Mr. Frank Varty, a peal of Oxford Treble Bob Major at Pulford, Cheshire, was his fiftieth peal.

Another 'coming of age' compliment was the peal rung at Houghton-le-Spring, Co. Durham, on Saturday, Mr. T. W. Crowe celebrating his 21st birthday by ringing a peal of Kent and Oxford Treble Bob Major in the Ilkerton arrangement. The ringers take the opportunity of thanking the Rector for his hospitality after the peal.

Arranged for Mr. A. E. Pegler, of Bangor, North Wales, and Mr. E. V. Rodenhurst, of Hodnet, Salop, a peal of Kent Treble Bob Major at the Church of St. Mary-within-the-Walls, Chester, on Saturday, was a birthday compliment to Mr. Arthur Newell.

The first peal of Treble Bob on the bells at Acton, Cheshire, was rung on Saturday, when seven 720's of Kent Minor were brought round.

A peal of Bob Major at Burnham, Bucks. on Saturday, was rung after meeting short for a local peal of St. Clement's Major. Corporal Tocock, of the Royal Tank Corps, filling the gap at short notice.

ESSEX ASSOCIATION.

REPRESENTATIVE NORTHERN DIVISION MEETING.

A successful meeting of the Northern Division of the Essex Association took place at St. Andrew's, Halstead, on Saturday week, when 48 ringers attended, 21 towers being represented: Halstead, Earls Colne, Greenstead Green, Over (Cams), Cambridge, Saffron Walden, Sible Hedingham, Pebmarsh, Fulbourne, Hornchurch, Kelvedon, Wickham St. Paul's, Bocking, Braintree, Bishopsgate, Leytonstone, Great Yeldham, Waldingfield, Newmarket, Sawston and Great Tey.

Service in the Parish Church was conducted by the Vicar (Canon T. H. Curling), assisted by the Rev. A. W. Swallow (assistant priest). In the course of his address, the Vicar welcomed the ringers and said he was very pleased they were again meeting at Halstead.

Tea was afterwards partaken of at St. Andrew's Hall, having been prepared by Mrs. Snowden, Mrs. Parmenter, Mrs. Ward and Mrs. A. Root, assisted by Mrs. G. Trendell and Mrs. Upstone. The provisions for the tea had been kindly given by parishioners.

The District Master (Mr. F. Ridgwell) said as they had been so kindly entertained to tea he would suggest that a collection be made for the hall repair fund.—This was done and £1 5s. 6d. was realised.

The business meeting followed, the District Master presiding. Miss W. Elliott (Kelvedon), Mr. A. P. Cannon and Mr. H. Smith were elected ringing members. It was agreed that the next meeting should take place at Stebbing on July 2nd.

The District Master moved a hearty vote of thanks to the Vicar for the use of the bells and for his excellent address, to the organist for his services, to the ladies for the able way they had prepared and served the tea and to the parishioners for giving the provisions.

The Vicar, in reply, thanked Mr. Ridgwell for his kind words and for the collection, which, he said, was a kindly thought. He was very pleased to say that the fund was now nearing its goal. He was pleased that another lady had been elected a member of the association, and was glad that the Northern Division had chosen Miss Snowden as their secretary. It was necessary that a good ringer should hold the position and in their case he thought they had made the right choice.

The ringers then returned to the tower. During the afternoon and evening the following methods were rung: Bob Major, Grandshire, Stedman, Kent Treble Bob, Double Norwich, Cambridge, Superlative and London Surprise. A gallant attempt was also made for Spliced Surprise.

THEOLOGICAL STUDENTS' SUCCESS

Kelham Theological College students are making excellent progress, and on Sunday, April 3rd, rang their first peal.

From this training college come clergy of the future, and by the initiative of Mr. A. F. Sargent, who learned ringing in Glasgow when Mr. Stephen Wood was there, a serious attempt is being made to interest the students in ringing, not only for ringing's sake, but in order that they may have an interest in the art and in ringers, if at any time they are attached to a church with bells.

For a time they practised on borrowed handbells, but they were recently presented with a set, and assiduous use has been made of them. Two peals of Minor have recently been rung in Nottingham, with the assistance of Mr. Ralph Narborough, and now four of the students have rung a handbell peal of Bob Major entirely unassisted.

There is a graceful footnote to the peal, which says that it was 'rung as a token of appreciation to our benefactors.'

New Cambridge Surprise Major was rung at Claybrook, Leicestershire, on April 2nd, and was the first peal in the method by five of the band. It was the 25th peal together by Messrs. Alfred Ballard and W. A. Wood, hon. secretary of the Hincley District of the Midland Counties Association.

The peal was a compliment to Master G. Brown, Mr. C. W. Ballard and Mrs. W. A. Wood, whose birthdays occurred on the 1st, 2nd and 3rd of April respectively. It had been arranged by Mr. K. A. Roe, but he was unable to ring owing to illness, and the band wish to thank Mr. Edwin Lloyd for filling the gap at short notice.

As we have said before, 'stars' do not always indicate progress. Here is Dan Cooper, of Croydon, with a 'star' to his name for his first peal of Bob Royal. And Dan has rung London and all sorts of other Surprise Royal! This peal of Bob Royal was rung at Beddington, and was Mr. Tom Bannister's one hundredth peal.

The Vicar of Erdington's birthday was celebrated on Saturday with a peal of Stedman Triples. Afterwards he and Mrs. Power kindly entertained the ringers to tea.

The ringers of the treble and sixth at East Meon on April 2nd scored their first peal of London Surprise. They were Leslie Tremear and Reginald Reed.

PRE-REFORMATION BELLS.

PLIGHT OF POOR PARISHES.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—With regard to the pre-Reformation bell at Hollesley, I, like many others, noticed this was set down in the church, where it is neither use nor ornament. It seems a most lamentable fact, while so many hundreds of pounds of bell metal is wasted, that the oldest ring of eight should be quite unringable for the want of a few hundreds spent in rehanging. The Rector of Horham is very keen on this being done, and has had tenders for the work, but the project has been turned down as quite beyond the means of the parish, which is in a very poor agricultural area. The district includes Gislegham, which has one of the finest sixes in the country, and where for years a fund has been started for rehanging. With only £100 to raise, the parish has decided not to go on with the scheme till a more favourable opportunity occurs. Yet less than ten miles away seven bells have stood on the floor of an unused church for more than 20 years.

SUCCESSFUL MEETING IN NEWPORT PAGNELL DEANERY.

The Rev. J. F. Amies should be well pleased with the success of the meeting of the Newport Pagnell Deanery area of the North Bucks Branch of the Oxford Guild, held at his church, Weston Underwood, on Saturday, April 9th. In addition to ringers of neighbouring towers, there were present the Deputy Master of the Guild (the Rev. C. Elliot Wigg), with two of his ringers, Messrs. C. W. Smith and E. C. Lambert, and a welcome visitor in the evening was Miss M. Cross, of Twyford, Berks.

A homely service was held at 4 o'clock, with Mr. D. Cockings at the harmonium. Tea followed, at which the Rev. J. F. Amies voiced the sentiments of the ringers in welcoming the Deputy Master.

Ringing included rounds for the learners, of whom there were quite a few, and London Surprise and spliced methods for the experts.

RINGER'S GOLDEN WEDDING.

CELEBRATED BY QUARTER-PEAL AT KING'S LANGLEY.

On March 13th Mr. and Mrs. J. Hayward, of King's Langley, Herts, celebrated their golden wedding, having been married at St. John's Church, Devizes, Wilts, in 1888. Both come of generations of farming families, and resided in Staffordshire before going to Hertfordshire. They have three sons, two daughters and eight grandchildren.

Mr. Hayward, who is 74, was married on his birthday. He has been a bellringer for 60 years and rang in the first peal in King's Langley Church. On Sunday, March 13th, in honour of his golden wedding, a quarter-peal of Grandshire Triples was rung, in which Mr. Hayward rang the tenor: A. V. Cook (first quarter-peal) 1, A. J. Rogers 2, D. A. Cook (first quarter-peal) 3, A. H. Hill 4, J. W. Lane 5, E. V. Rowe 6, R. S. Cook (conductor) 7, J. Hayward 8.

COMPLAINTS SILENCED AT BOWDEN.

EFFECTIVE REMEDY AT A CHESHIRE CHURCH.

Complaints about the bells at Bowden, Cheshire, have been silenced by effectively bricking up and shuttering the louvres.

In 1935 ringing turned over from 'stone', and practices were commenced. Numerous complaints followed, but the church authorities did the wise thing. They did not stop the bells, or defy the objectors, but took the rational step of modifying the sound of the bells.

Bowden 'Parish Magazine' says: 'We can now claim to have freed ringing practice from all annoyance to those who live near the church. The shutters in the belfry, when closed, reduce the sound to a minimum. Indeed, in several houses quite near the church it is said that the bells cannot be heard at all. There cannot be good ringing without practice, and as at the present time there is a great revival of change ringing up and down the country, it would be a pity if Bowden tower was left out of it.'

DON'T SCRUB YOUR HANDS!

To many people, the problem of getting the hands really clean without harming the skin is a serious one. Grease and grime, which become deeply ingrained into the pores of the skin, are extremely difficult to remove, and ordinary washing with soap or even scrubbing will fail to remove them completely. Housewives, particularly, who complain that their hands get ruined by the nature of their work, will find the preparation called DERMAFOAM a real "godsend." DERMAFOAM just smooths away dirt and grease without effort. It gets right down into the pores and removes every particle of grime, leaving skin beautifully supple and healthy.

Men, too—when you've finished that dirty job on the car, DERMAFOAM will quickly banish all grease and oil from your hands. It acts almost magically—working under and around the nails and into every minute crease, removing all trace of dirt in a flash.

Engineers, Painters, Car Mechanics, Printers — everyone — will welcome DERMAFOAM, the modern method of cleansing and protecting the hands.

'THE COLLEGE YOUTHS'

by J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE

'This is one of the very few books I have read which seem to me might, with advantage, have been considerably longer.'—The Dean of St. Paul's.

'Mr. Trollope has achieved more than his immediate purpose of writing a history of the Society of College Youths. So closely has the guild been identified with English change ringing that its history is to a very large extent an account of the ancient sport of ringing developed into an elaborate art. . . .

'Throughout his book Mr. Trollope takes his readers into a strange and fascinating world whose traditions so peculiarly English deserve far more popular attention than they usually receive.'—The Guardian.

THE RISK OF BELFRY ACCIDENTS.

Accidents in the belfry are, happily, few and far between. Just occasionally some mishap occurs, resulting in injury to a ringer, but it is very seldom that actual participation in ringing ends in even a minor casualty. To those who do not understand the handling of a bell, however, there may appear to be something risky in the flight of the ropes, but there is probably as little danger of personal damage to a ringer as there is of accident to the participants in any other physical pursuit that can be mentioned. It is surprising then to learn, as we have done within the last few days, that a Parochial Church Council in Oxfordshire has placed an embargo upon any youngster under fourteen years of age learning to ring at that particular church.

The tower contains a very light peal of bells, specially suitable for boys to learn and ring on, and the parish badly needs ringers. There are competent instructors available, and the decision of the Council has been a serious blow to the building up of a young band. We do not know what, precisely, influenced the church authorities in the matter, whether their decision was on the ground of the physical or legal risks involved, but we can only imagine that, whatever the ground, it must have been arrived at from misapprehension. Of bodily risk to the youngsters in this instance—the tenor is less than five cwt. and the bells have been recently rehung—there can be no more than is involved in the physical jerks which they go through at school; indeed, on such a ring the mild exercise should actually be beneficial in strengthening the frames and the muscles of the juveniles.

What is probably most disturbing to the Parochial Council is their risk of liability in case of accident; although we are unaware of any special virtue in the age of fourteen years. Unless there is culpable negligence on the part of the Council in the way the bells, the belfry and the furnishings are cared for, there is no legal liability upon them for voluntary ringers and, if ringers are paid, the obligations of the Council are met, as for every servant in any employment, by insurance under the Workmen's Compensation Act. Indeed, there is a scheme under which any band of ringers, voluntary or otherwise, can be insured through the Ecclesiastical Insurance Office for a small annual premium. Church authorities can in these days safeguard themselves very easily, and it would be a great pity if, through misapprehension, a band of young ringers, who are early in life becoming interested in church work, should have their enthusiasm and interest quenched.

It is not the ringing of the bells that church authorities need be afraid of, but the risks for which they are more directly responsible—worn and dark stairways and inadequately lighted bell chambers. These are the things which may, and occasionally do, lead to serious accidents, but they are usually among the things which, in a church, are most generally neglected. They are a trap for old and young alike. Steps worn into hollows by the feet of generations of ringers, winding round in the darkness, with rail or handhold of any description; or precipitous ladders, fit only for monkeys to climb, leading to the bell loft; these are the things most likely to contribute to tower accidents, and there are literally hundreds of places up and down the country in which one or more of these defects ought to receive the attention of the responsible authorities.

RINGER'S GOLDEN WEDDING.

BELLS CELEBRATE FAMILY EVENTS.

On Thursday, March 31st, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples was rung at St. Margaret's Church, Rainham, for the golden wedding of Mr. C. Belsey, captain of the band, and Mrs. Belsey: *James Morris 1, *Miss Joan Naylor 2, Miss Cath. Cheil (first with a bob bell) 3, C. Belsey 4, F. Belsey (conductor) 5, F. Cheil 6, G. Naylor 7, C. Webb 8. * First quarter-peal.

Mr. Belsey was born at Little Mungeham, near Deal, and Mrs. Belsey at Chisle. They were married at Tonge in 1888 and moved to Rainham in 1896. Mr. Belsey at once joined the band there and has been captain for about 30 years. He has been a member of the Kent County Association for 40 years.

On April 2nd a peal of Bob Major was rung at Rainham in honour of the event. It was also a wedding anniversary peal for their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Palmer, of Chadwell Heath, Essex, and a birthday compliment to their youngest daughter, Mrs. E. K. Parker, of Rainham, with whom Mr. and Mrs. Charley Belsey reside.

FIRST QUARTER-PEALS.

LONDON.—On Sunday morning, April 10th, in connection with the special Palm Sunday service at St. Magnus the Martyr, London Bridge, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Caters (1,259 changes): F. Hopgood 1, T. H. Taffender 2, Miss B. Mills 3, A. J. W. Hughes (first quarter-peal of Grandsire Caters) 4, E. J. King 5, H. E. Taylor 6, T. H. Francis (first quarter-peal on ten) 7, F. G. Southgate (first quarter-peal on ten) 8, P. A. Corby (first quarter-peal on ten as conductor) 9, F. W. Wicks 10. A compliment to Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Wicks on the 23rd anniversary of their wedding.

HASTINGS.—On Sunday, April 10th, previous to Confirmation service at All Saints' Church, a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples: S. J. Levett 1, A. S. May 2, W. J. Bradford 3, J. Pennells 4, N. H. Palmer 5, G. S. Piper 6, C. A. Levett 7, A. J. Clift 8. First quarter-peal of Stedman by ringers of 2, 4 and tenor.

ALRESFORD, HANTS.—On Sunday, April 10th, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Doubles with 7.6.8 behind: A. Tremear 1, E. Lane 2, J. Boniface 3, H. Newnham 4, L. Tremear (conductor) 5, W. Smith 6, W. Wearing 7, G. Allen 8. First quarter-peal by ringers of 1 and 2, first 'inside' by 3, and first as conductor.

NOT 'SPICED' BUT—WHAT?

The decision of the Central Council to debar the description 'spiced' to peals of Oxford and Kent Treble Bob Major, where the change of method is made in the interior of a lead, makes for complications. A peal in which the two methods were used in, all the seven extents of a 5,040 of Minor has been rung at Wormingford, Essex. What is the correct way to distinguish between this peal and a peal of separate extents of Oxford and Kent, without using the word 'spiced' somewhere in the description?

In the report sent to us the word 'spiced' is used. We have substituted the word 'mixed,' without asking anyone's consent. Perhaps the Council at their next meeting will give these peals a proper description. In this peal there were 101 changes of method—a good many more than in some peals which can claim to be 'spiced.'

A half-muffled peal of Grandsire Triples was rung at Brierley Hill, Staffs, on April 8th, as a tribute to the late Mr. A. E. Marsh, a prominent townsman and benefactor. The funeral had taken place earlier in the day, and the bells were rung both before and after the service. The whole pull and stand was rung 60 times (the deceased gentleman's age) just before the cortege entered the church.

The peal of Kent Treble Bob Major at Broadclyst, Devon, on April 9th, was specially arranged as a birthday compliment to Mr. J. H. Godfrey (hon. secretary of the Exeter Branch of the Devon Guild) and to Mr. C. H. Lilley, the conductor. Afterwards the band were entertained to tea by Mr. Godfrey. The peal was the first of Major on the bells.

The peal of New Cambridge Maximus at Ipswich was the first by Messrs. J. Frank Smallwood and Leslie W. G. Morris, who made journeys from Bath and Leeds respectively to take part. Mr. W. P. Garrett, who rang the treble, has the unique distinction of being the only ringer to take part in the first peal of all the different methods of Surprise Maximus yet rung.

The peal was rung as a birthday compliment to George Pipe, the young son of Mr. Cecil Pipe, who rang the tenor.

A band, which included ten visitors from various parts of the country, had the privilege of ringing a peal of Stedman Cinques on Aston's new bells on Monday afternoon in honour of the appointment of Aston's popular Vicar (the Rev. H. McGowan) as Archdeacon of Aston. The new Archdeacon is one of the vice-presidents of St. Martin's Guild.

Some of those who rang have scored peals in an extraordinary number of twelve-bell towers. Messrs. G. R. Pye and C. T. Coles, for instance, have now rung peals on twelve bells in 49 towers, and Mr. E. P. Duffield in almost if not quite as many.

Aston provides one of the instances where, in the old days, a bell opening was, indeed, a bell opening. A board of considerable dimensions in the ringing room proclaims that it was 'erected by order of the churchwardens to record two peals rung by the underwritten persons at the opening of the ten bells in this church, on the 17th and 18th October, A.D. 1814.' The peals were Grandsire Ten in and Grandsire Caters, both conducted by Henry Cooper.

Another board in the tower records peals of Grandsire Triples and Oxford Treble Bob Major rung by St. Martin's Society in 1776.

Mr. J. R. Mattock's first peal as conductor was rung at Wath-on-Dearne, Yorkshire, on Saturday, when he called seven 720's of Minor in seven different methods from a working bell. That was a good 'kick-off.'

It was at Wath-on-Dearne, by the way, that 21 extents in 21 methods was rung as long ago as 1816.

Yeovil possesses one of the heaviest 'tens' in the country, the tenor being 40 cwt., and on Monday a peal of Stedman Caters was rung there.

Mr. Arthur Knights' composition of Grandsire Caters, No. 154, was rung for the first time on Saturday at Worsley, Lancs, where Mr. Percy H. Derbyshire 'completed the circle.'

A handbell peal in three Minor methods has been rung at Blackpool. We hope it is but the precursor of many more.

An interesting departure in the annals of Cheshire ringing was made at Bunbury on April 9th, when a peal of Spiced Double Norwich and Bob Major was rung, it being the first in these two methods spiced by all the band, in the county and by the Chester Diocesan Guild. It was a 20th birthday compliment to Douglas Watson, jun., who rang the treble.

A band of Norfolk bachelors scored a peal of Kent Treble Bob Major at Redenhall on April 9th.

Only 13 years of age, Leonard Bourne rang the treble to his first peal at the first attempt at Burslem on Saturday week. The peal—seven extents of Bob Minor—was a 21st birthday compliment to Mr. Kenneth Thacker, of Newcastle-under-Lyme.

REPORT OF THE TOWERS AND BELFRIES COMMITTEE.

The report was presented by the president as convener of the committee, and its adoption was also moved by him. Various matters not referred to in the report on which the committee's advice had been sought were also reported. These included assistance in dealing with architects and diocesan authorities on bell restorations at the request of bellfounders and others; considering steps in conjunction with the Society for the Protection of Ancient Buildings to preserve an old bell frame which was unfit for further use, and which eventually was lifted higher in the tower to enable a new frame to be built. The question of whether damage may be caused in certain towers as the result of lowering bells in peal was dealt with by the president. His final remarks were: 'I can conceive that bells when part of the way down would get in step with the tower, and if they were to continue to ring the bells at that height it was possible it would do some damage to the tower, but they would have to do so for some considerable time unless the tower was so weak that they ought not to ring at all.'

The president also dealt with the subject of welding of bells, and stated that in his opinion only in very exceptional cases should welding be tried.

The report was adopted and it was also agreed on the president's motion to send an appropriate letter to the Church authorities with regard to All Hallows', Lombard Street, which was to be demolished, asking that when the bells were moved they be moved as a whole peal to a proper tower and be hung for ringing; to purchase a set of Davis silencers to be loaned out to any responsible persons for trial purposes on payment of postage both ways; to send a donation of £1 ls. to the Anti-Noise League and to endeavour to keep in close contact with that organisation; to take steps through the secretaries of affiliated societies to ascertain which of the Diocesan Advisory Committees had a member who knew anything about bells and bell-hanging and which of them had not, with a view to considering what could be done to make this knowledge available to all the committees. The information obtained to be circulated to all members.

REPORT OF LITERATURE, PRESS AND BROADCASTING COMMITTEE.

('The Ringing World,' June 11th, 1937, pages 391-392.)

The Rev. F. Ll. Edwards presented the committee's report dealing with the various references to ringing which had been made in the London and Provincial Press during the year and the various broadcasts.

On his motion, seconded by Mr. A. Walker, the report was adopted.

REPORT OF THE PEAL BOARD COMMITTEE.

The report was submitted by Mr. W. H. Hollier, and on his proposal, seconded by Mr. W. Ayre, was adopted.

As to the committee's request for instructions with regard to the details required, it was proposed by Mr. A. D. Barker, seconded by Mr. R. Richardson, and carried, that as many details as are obtainable be recorded.

It was agreed to add Mr. W. G. Wilson to the committee, on the proposal of Mr. W. H. Hollier, seconded by Mr. C. T. Coles.

REPORT OF THE BIOGRAPHIES COMMITTEE.

('The Ringing World,' June 11th, 1937, pages 392-3.)

The report was presented by Mr. J. S. Goldsmith. The committee suggested that in view of the great variety and style of the photographs received, a separate photographic album was necessary, this to be cross-indexed to the biographical volume, and requested permission to incur an initial expense up to three guineas for the purchase of these albums, and where necessary to copy photographs at a cost not exceeding 1s. 6d. each.

The Standing Committee recommended that the most satisfactory method would be to keep the photograph with the biography, and to enable this to be done, to obtain reproductions of the photographs in a uniform size.

The Standing Committee supported the committee's recommendation that biographical details and photographs of members of the present Council be obtained, and those of future members when they come to the Council. These to be filed and added to the album when the subjects cease to be members of the Council.

The recommendations were accepted by the committee, and on the proposal of Mr. J. S. Goldsmith, seconded by Mrs. E. K. Fletcher, the report and recommendations were adopted.

REPORT AS TO CIRCULATION OF 'THE RINGING WORLD.'

In order that members may have further opportunity to send in suggestions for incorporation in the final report, only an interim report was presented, which, on the proposal of the hon. secretary, seconded by Mr. F. E. Dawe, was adopted.

REPORT AS TO MUFFLING OF BELLS.

The president submitted the report of the officers of the Council, the adoption of which was recommended by the Standing Committee. It was agreed to request all secretaries of affiliated associations to furnish particulars of local customs, and details of these if thought suitable to be included in the final report. The completed report to be considered by the Standing Committee and after approval to be circulated to all members and finally to be submitted to the ecclesiastical authorities.

THANKS TO ALL MEMBERS OF COMMITTEES.

On the proposal of Canon G. F. Coleridge, seconded by Mr. T. Groombridge, a vote of thanks was passed to all members for their work during the year.

MOTION.

It was proposed by Mr. W. G. Wilson, seconded by Mr. E. C. S. Turner, that so much of all previous resolutions of the Council as defines or attempts to define what shall be recognised as a peal of Doubles be rescinded and that the following be substituted therefor:—

1. Peals of Doubles shall consist of 5,040 or more changes rung in (a) True and complete six-scores without interval between any two six-scores and without rounds or any other row being struck more than once before the next change is made. (b) Round blocks consisting of two or more six-scores, provided that each of the six-scores which comprise the round block shall be itself a true and complete round block. (c) Twelve scores known as Morris' and Pitman's. (d) Combinations of (a), (b) and (c) above or any two of them.

2. Peals of Doubles may be rung with or without a covering bell. The motion was carried, the voting being 33—11.

NOTE.—The following was deleted from the original motion on the proposal of Mr. J. A. Trollope, seconded by the Rev. H. Drake, the motion to delete being accepted by the proposers:—

'At the conclusion of 5,040 or more changes rung in accordance with (1) above, one true touch of any length less than 120 changes may be added.'

PLACE OF THE NEXT MEETING.

It was proposed by Mr. P. J. Johnson, seconded by Mr. S. F. Palmer, and carried, that the next meeting be held at Leeds.

OTHER BUSINESS.

CONGRATULATIONS TO THE ANCIENT SOCIETY OF COLLEGE YOUTHS.

On the proposal of Mrs. E. K. Fletcher, seconded by Mr. J. A. Trollope, it was resolved that a letter of congratulation be sent to the society on the occasion of their tercentenary.

CONGRATULATIONS TO THE LADIES' GUILD.

On the proposal of Mr. F. W. Rogers, seconded by Mr. A. D. Barker, it was resolved to convey congratulations to this Guild on the occasion of their silver jubilee.

RADIO BELLS.

The hon. secretary asked for members' views on broadcasts of bell records from churches by amplifiers and loud speakers and other imitations of actual ringing. Various views were expressed, but no formal motion was passed.

AS TO PUBLICATION OF NOTICES OF MOTION.

No action was taken on Mr. A. J. Harris' suggestion that notices of motions should be in the hon. secretary's hands by December 31st to enable earlier circulation to members.

AS TO RAISING AND LOWERING OF BELLS.

The president called attention to a resolution of the Council that bells should preferably be raised and lowered in peal, but if not it was desirable they should be raised or lowered singly and in order. He appealed to all members to follow the Council's recommendation themselves and also induce other ringers to do so.

MEMBERSHIP LIST.

The hon. secretary invited all members to assist in the preparation of a booklet of the Council by sending full information regarding their societies and advising from time to time any changes in representation or addresses.

DONATIONS TO MEMORIAL FUNDS.

On the proposal of the Rev. H. Drake, seconded by Mr. E. A. Young, the sum of £3 3s. was voted to the scheme for the alteration of the tower of St. George's, Bolton, as a memorial to the late Canon Elsee, and, on the president's motion, the sum of £3 3s. was voted in respect of the late Rev. B. H. Tyrwhitt-Drake, if the Ely Diocesan Guild promote a memorial fund.

VOTES OF THANKS.

On the president's motion, the thanks of the Council were accorded to the Dean and Chapter of Canterbury for the use of the Chapter House, to the Kent County Association for their kind hospitality, to Mr. F. M. Mitchell, Mr. Luck and Mr. T. E. Sone, and the committee of the Kent County Association for arrangements, to the various church authorities for the use of bells, and towerkeepers for their assistance, and to Mr. Morton Pierce for conducting members round the Cathedral.

On the proposal of Mr. W. Ayre, seconded by Mr. J. S. Goldsmith, thanks were accorded to the hon. secretary and Mrs. Fletcher for work during the year.

A vote of thanks to the president was passed on the proposal of Canon Coleridge.

The meeting terminated at about 5 o'clock.

EDINBURGH.—On Sunday, April 3rd, for evening service at the Cathedral Church of St. Mary, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Caters (1,259 changes): G. Prior 1, J. Irwin 2, J. Middlemas 3, C. R. Raine 4, H. White 5, B. F. Vernon 6, J. Marshall 7, G. Marshall 8, R. F. Deal (conductor) 9, T. Pryde 10.

CLERICAL RINGING WEEK.*NEW GUILD TO VISIT HERTFORDSHIRE.

The 'ringing week' by clerical ringers, which has now become a well-established custom immediately after Easter, begins next Monday and centres round St. Albans. Last year, it will be remembered, the Guild of Clerical Ringers was formed while the 'week' was in progress, and this year the programme is being carried out under the auspices of the Guild, the annual business meeting having been arranged for Thursday. Headquarters are at the White Hart Hotel, St. Albans.

Among those who hope to be present for the whole or part of the week are the Revs. J. H. B. Andrews (Leeds), E. G. Benson (Burghill, Hereford), H. Benson (Quinton, Glos.), R. Copeman (Cambridge), C. Carew Cox (Lyme Regis), E. V. Cox (Bramford Speke, Devon), F. Ll. Edwards (Kington Magna, Dorset), R. D. St. G. Edwards (Checkendon, Oxon.), E. Bankes James (Fareham, Hants), F. S. H. Marle (Deane, Hants), E. S. Powell (Staverton, Daventry), B. F. Sheppard (Cambridge), A. G. G. Thurlow (Wokingham, Bucks), W. H. R. Trehwella (Truro), W. M. K. Warren (Binegar, Bath), C. Elliot Wigg (Cheersley, Bucks), R. F. Wilkinson (Ordsall, Notts).

The president, the Rev. Canon G. F. Coleridge (Crowthorne, Berks), will, it is hoped, be present at the business meeting.

The party, it will be observed, includes quite a number of guild and association officials, and there should be much useful 'comparing of notes' and interchange of views during the week.

The main body will meet on Monday at Sandridge, where they will ring on the six bells, then go on to Wheathampstead for tea. They will ring at Wheathampstead (6), and, after dinner at headquarters, ring at St. Peter's, St. Albans (10).

On Tuesday they visit Benington (8) for a peal attempt in the morning, and subsequent ringing includes Ware (8), Broxbourne (8) and St. Albans Cathedral (12).

Two simultaneous peal attempts are to be made on Wednesday, at Northchurch (8) and Great Gaddesden (6). Afternoon and evening ringing will be at Berkhamstead (8), Hemel Hempstead (8), Harpenden (8) and St. Michael's, St. Albans (6).

Thursday's programme also includes two morning peal attempts, at North Mymms (8) and Essendon (6). The two towers of St. Andrew's (8) and All Saints', Hertford (10), will be visited in the afternoon, and in the evening there is the business meeting, dinner and ringing at St. Stephen's, St. Albans (6).

The reunion concludes on Friday with a peal attempt at Knebworth (8) in the morning, subsequent ringing at Baldock (6), Hitchin (8), St. Ippolyt's (6) and Great Wymondley (6), with a final gathering at headquarters.

NEW SURPRISE METHODS.*ICKLETON AND CLACTON.

Below we print the figures of two Surprise Major methods which have been rung recently for the first time.

The first peal of Ickleton was rung on February 5th, 1938, at Ickleton, Cambs., conducted by H. G. Cashmore, who provided the method.

Clacton is another method from Mr. Lindoff's collection, and was rung for the first time at Helmingham, on February 16th, 1938, conducted by L. G. Brett.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

Two well-known Middlesex ringers are to be married to-morrow—Mr. Tom Lock, Ringing Master of the North and East District of the Middlesex Association, and Miss Kathleen Bradford, of Twickenham.

Recent reference was made in these columns to the pre-Reformation ring of four bells at Thurlbeer, near Taunton, which were cast by Robert Norton about 1425. The tenor there is about 13½ cwt.

Robert Norton was also the founder of Nos. 4 and 5 bells at Mortehoe, Devon. According to the records of that church, the Chancellor of the period described Norton as having 'ontrewre ymagynacion, coneyn and desseit.' It would seem that even 500 years ago Chancellors were not too kindly disposed towards bellfounders.

Some of the 'bachelors,' whose peal arrangements for Monday at Wimborne, Dorset, fell through, made a trip to Leicester to join the gathering at the Midland Counties Association's annual meeting. Another example of ringers' enthusiasm.

To-day is the sixteenth anniversary of the longest peal ever rung by one set of men, the 21,363 Stedman Caters at Appleton on April 22nd, 1922, which occupied 12 hours 25 minutes.

On April 22nd, 1889, Mr. W. T. Pates called 15,227 Grandsire Caters at Cheltenham, a peal which was a record length of Caters at the time and is still the longest peal of Grandsire Caters that has been rung.

Seventy years ago next Wednesday, namely, on April 27th, 1868, the famous peal of 15,840 Kent Treble Bob Major was rung at Bethnal Green by the College Youths. At that time it was the longest peal rung by one set of men.

This peal recalls a much earlier attempt for a 15,000 of Treble Bob, Oxford in this instance, which was made by the Royal Cumberland Youths at Edmonton and which ended somewhat disastrously.

The peal had been in progress over eight hours when George Gross, the composer and conductor, in making an attempt to slacken his knee buckle, got his leg entangled in the rope, was elevated to a considerable height, and, in falling, broke his collarbone.

This was recorded in 'The Annual Register' of April 28th, 1800, as having happened 'a short time since,' but Mr. Gross must have made a very quick recovery, for on the very day the paragraph appeared he called a 10,112 of Oxford Treble Bob in the same tower.

Thirty-nine meetings, in twenty-six associations and guilds, are advertised in our notice columns this week to take place on Saturday, April 30th.

INTENDED TO CLEAR MISAPPREHENSION.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir,—As Mr. Bailey's letter indicates that he is not in possession of certain facts vital to the argument, it would be futile for me to attempt to prolong the discussion.

My first letter was written with sincerity and was intended to clear the misapprehension which I felt that Mr. Bailey's speech was likely to create. I think it was necessary and I am glad it has been published.

I am not sufficiently acquainted with Mr. Bailey to criticise him, as opposed to criticising his speech, and would consider it a breach of good taste to do so in any case.

A hearty welcome awaits all, and Mr. Bailey in particular, at the next and all subsequent meetings of the Southern District of the London County Association.

P. A. CORBY.

THE LATE DR. W. H. FRERE, D.D.

FORMER BISHOP OF TRURO.

The Church of England has lost one of its greatest scholars and historians by the death of the Right Rev. W. H. Frere, D.D., Bishop of Truro from 1923 to 1935, at Mirfield on Saturday, April 2nd. He was 74 years of age and had been in failing health for about a year. From 1902 to 1913 and from 1916 to 1922 he was superior of the Monastic Community of the Resurrection, and even at the Bishop's Palace he continued to live as a father of the order, attended by two brethren. His resignation in 1935 was the result of medical advice.

His body was laid to rest at Mirfield, and memorial services were held at Truro Cathedral and at All Saints' Church, Margaret Street, London.

A quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples was rung half-muffled at Truro Cathedral on Tuesday, April 5th, in 55 minutes, by Miss M. Penrose 1, Miss E. J. C. Angwin 2, A. S. Roberts 3, C. E. Lanxon (conductor) 4, W. E. Minors 5, the Rev. W. H. R. Trehwella 6, W. H. Sleeman 7, J. Treloar 8.

FORMER LLANDAFF BISHOP'S DEATH.

On Tuesday evening, April 12th, at St. Peter's Church, Pentre Rhondda, a quarter-peal of Stedman Triples was rung with the bells half-muffled as a token of respect for the late Bishop Hughes (a former Bishop of Llandaff), whose funeral took place earlier in the day. The ringers were J. Lovett 1, G. Wines 2, W. Page 3, T. J. Hamlin 4, T. Page 5, H. Davies 6, F. Lasbury (first quarter-peal of Stedman as conductor) 7, H. Crabb 8.

LEADING CONDUCTORS—15.*THOMAS E. SONE.

Few ringers can have called a greater proportion of different compositions than Mr. Thomas E. Sone, who is one of Kent's most active conductors. Apart from having called Holt's Original four times 'round the circle,' which accounts for 32 out of the 197 peals he has conducted, he has called 146 different compositions (of which 98 have been different one-parts) by 41 composers.

Mr. Sone, who was born at Northbourne, Kent, on July 14th, 1895, is the son of a well-known Kent ringer, Mr. Chas. W. Sone, who, although now over 70 years of age, is still as keen as ever. Mr. Tom Sone began ringing at S. Michael and All Angels' Church, Marden, in August, 1909, and rang his first peal in the same tower in January, 1911, under his father's conductorship. His first peal as conductor was his fourth peal, Kent Treble Bob, at Headcorn, in November, 1919, but he did not take any real interest in peal ringing until 1925. Since that time he has carried his total to 283, two-thirds of which he has conducted.

He has made a hobby of calling a fresh composition as often as possible, and the fertile brain of Mr. Arthur Knights, of Cheshierfield, has provided him with a great deal of material.

Mr. Sone has called peals on all numbers from Doubles to Maximus, and his peals have been rung in 74 towers, with 293 ringers, his father having rung in 191 of them. Among his interesting performances have been a peal of Bob Major and Canterbury Pleasure spliced at every lead. This was rung at Hadlow, Kent, in May, 1929. His one hundredth peal, rung in April, 1930, at Harrietsham, was a peal of Cambridge Surprise Major, in which all the band rang their first peal in the method. In 1931 Mr. Sone called the first peals of

MR. T. E. SONE.

Grandsire Cinques (at Quex Park) and Erin Caters (at Maidstone) for the Kent Association. The former was the first peal of Cinques for all the band and the first peal on twelve bells for nine of them. The peal at Maidstone was the first of Erin by all the band and was rung at the first attempt. In addition to calling Holt's Original from every bell four times, Mr. Sone has also taken part in the peal non-conducted. He has rung every bell to a peal in no fewer than eight eight-bell towers and one ten-bell tower, and in six of the eight-bell towers he has called a peal from every bell.

Although there are no ringable bells in the village of Paddock Wood where he lives, Mr. Sone does his full share of service ringing. He has been attached to the band at All Saints', Staplehurst, since 1922, and lends a hand in service ringing and practice at his old tower of Marden and his father's tower at Linton. The towers in which most of his peal ringing is done are scattered, and no one appreciates more than Mr. Sone the efforts of the ringers in Mid-Kent, who have worked with him to 'keep the flag flying.'

Mr. Sone has been one of the Kent County Association's representatives on the Central Council since 1933.

Next Week: Mr. Arthur Knights.*THE LATE MR. C. DRAPER'S PEALS.

Mr. Charles Draper, of Duffield, whose death at the age of 73 years we recently recorded, rang, in all, 427 peals, of which 408 were credited to the Midland Counties Association. Of the rest 14 were for the Warwickshire Guild, one for the Archdeaconry of Staffs Society and four non-society. The total was made up as follows:—

Grandsire Triples 68, Stedman Triples 216, Union Triples 1, Bob Triples 6, Oxford Bob Triples 3, Court Bob Triples 1, Canterbury Bob Triples 3, Canterbury Pleasure Major 1, Plain Bob Major 19, Kent Treble Bob Major 11, Oxford Treble Bob Major 1, Double Norwich 21, Forward Major 3, Duffield Major 6, Kent and Oxford Spliced 1, Superlative 4, Grandsire Major 1, Grandsire Caters 7, Stedman Caters 26, Plain Bob Royal 1, Kent Royal 4, Doubles and Minor 11, handbells 12.

HERTFORD COUNTY ASSOCIATION.*DECISION TO INCREASE ANNUAL SUBSCRIPTION.

The annual meeting of the Hertford County Association was held at St. Albans on Monday, when Mr. R. S. Cook, of King's Langley, was unanimously elected president.

The retiring president (Mr. G. Radley) welcomed among the visitors Mr. P. E. Haynes (Ringing Master of St. Martin's Guild, Birmingham) and Mr. G. W. Fletcher (hon. secretary of the Central Council).

The Hon. Secretary, in the 53rd annual report, said it was a pleasure to record that from observation and information received from the district secretaries, the association continued to flourish throughout the county. Also there appeared to be a greater urge, not only in Hertfordshire, but in similarly constituted bodies throughout the land, to make Sunday service ringing the pivot of true membership. As an aid to this, the personnel of a band was of the greatest importance, and it was incumbent upon the leader in each tower that no haphazard choice should be made in the selection of recruits for the belfry, who, quite naturally, should be confirmed members of the Church of England. That was where the parson, presumably conversant with the frailties of human nature in his parishioners, and possessed of a humour in which he 'could wink the other eye' when necessary, could become a real asset to his band and ringers in general. The Hertford County Association had been most fortunate in having an excellent backing from the clergy.

On the social side, district meetings had been arranged throughout the county (where possible with a service), and this method was still considered by ringers in general (in spite of changing conditions), the best means, not only of fostering and extending their art, but also in cementing that unique brotherhood that existed amongst ringers.

THE YEAR'S PEALS.

By the kindness of many incumbents permission has been most generously given for peal ringing, with the result that 46 peals had been rung upon tower bells, which, together with eight rung upon handbells, made a total of 54 for the year. Twenty-four tower peals had been rung on eight bells, five on ten bells and 17 on six bells. No twelve-bell peal had been recorded during the year. The time taken in ringing was 151 hours 3 minutes, and the total number of changes rung was 272,860. Sixteen of the peals rung on tower bells were Surprise methods, Knebworth, Langley, Ealing and Eastbury being rung without previous practice, all remarkable performances. The first handbell peals, consisting of five and six Spliced Surprise Major methods, had also been rung, being the first in history. Mr. Maurice Hibbert has called Swinson's variation of Carter's Odd Bob One-Part peal of Stedman Triples, the first time rung. The more difficult the composition the happier Maurice seemed to be. The Apsley band, with the assistance of Francis Kirk, of St. Albans, had scored three first for the association on six bells, in Surprise methods, viz., one peal in seven, one in eight, and one in eleven, under the conductorship of Mr. Walter Ayre. Eight ringers had rung their first peal and one his first as conductor.

After mentioning the losses by death, the Hon. Secretary went on to say that much restoration of bells and frames has been carried out, including augmentation of four new bells making a ring of six at Welwyn. At Wheathampstead, a battle, steel frame versus wooden frame, was fought between the Chancellor of the Diocese and others, and ended in a victory for wood. Hertingfordbury bells have been overhauled, and the Rector was anxious that his young band should be taught the elements of change ringing. John Briant's peal at Hatfield were also having a spring clean at the Loughborough Foundry and after being quarter turned and cleaned would be greatly improved in tone. Their Majesties the King and Queen visited St. Paul's, Walden Bury, in November last, where the Queen was born, and the event was celebrated by the first peal upon the bells. A new treble was to be added, making a ring of six. The bell was to be named Elizabeth, in honour of the Queen, and their Majesties have sent a handsome donation.

CLOSER AFFILIATION WITH BEDFORDSHIRE ASSOCIATION.

On October 22nd a joint meeting of the Beds and Herts Associations was held at Leighton Buzzard. This was the first result of the committee's resolution that they would welcome closer affiliation with the Beds Association by means of district meetings, etc.

Mr. W. Nash, it was regretted, resigned the office of district secretary for the St. Albans Division, which position he had held since Easter, 1918. He had given the association excellent service, and at the last meeting of the committee a resolution of thanks was passed, and had since been conveyed to him. 'Bill' Nash had given up his job, but before doing so he made sure of a successor in the person of Mr. H. V. Frost, to whom a hearty welcome was given.

Mr. C. H. Horton has arranged seven meetings in his district, in which he secured a combined attendance of 229. Two members of the district had been honoured by the conferring of the King's Coronation Medal.

Mr. D. Mears, Northern Division, reported the holding of six district meetings, the majority of which have been well attended, and that some good work had been done amongst towers which hitherto had no knowledge of scientific ringing.

GLOUCESTER AND BRISTOL DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

DIAMOND JUBILEE YEAR.

Increasingly Sound Financial Position.

On Monday, the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association celebrated its diamond jubilee, the annual meeting being held at Bristol. The Master (Mr. S. E. Romans), in his report, gave a brief resume of the 60 years' work of the association. Referring to the formation of the branches, now established in 13 centres, he said they were the backbone of the association, and the district secretaries were to be congratulated upon their success. It was pleasing to note the progress made in ringing for Sunday services throughout the dioceses, but he pointed out there were still many peals of bells which were not rung owing to lack of ringers. He appealed to the clergy to help in this matter by introducing young men connected with the Church who were willing to be taught ringing. Tower affiliation had not received the support that had been hoped for, and he appealed to leaders of bands to bring the matter to the notice of their respective church councils.

HON. SECRETARY'S SERVICES.

The Master went on to extend hearty congratulations and thanks to the hon. secretary, Mr. Edgar Guise, for his valued services to the association. This year he completed 20 years in office. He had filled a difficult post with credit to himself and satisfaction to the members. In addition to the ordinary business of the association, he and the committee had organised and brought to a successful issue the following schemes: A national memorial to their Past Master, the late Rev. H. A. Cockey—a reredos at Bitton Church; a war memorial to fallen members—additional bells at Berkeley Church; and the national memorial to their founder and Past Master, the Rev. C. D. P. Davies, which consisted of the addition of two trebles and tuning and rehanging the other ten bells, and the furnishing of a Ringers' Chapel, at Tewkesbury Abbey.

The Hon. Secretary, in his report, said work had been steadily maintained throughout the 13 branches, but there were still some difficulties with regard to peal ringing qualifications and peal booking fees. There had, however, been a reduction in the number of members in arrears. During the year 27 peals had been rung by the association, in which six members had rung their first peal, and there was one new conductor. Special mention was made of Albert Tyler, who rang his first peal before he was 14 years of age, and his performance was the more remarkable, as it was a peal of Stedman Cinques.

The Hon. Secretary said it had been urged that the affiliation fee scheme should be made an important feature, and he hoped with the collaboration of the Master and treasurer to put this matter in hand during the next few months. It would afford a greater measure of success if the members would consider the suggestion that the income from this source should be placed in the Belfry Repair Fund, to enable the officers to make more and larger grants when necessary.

The hon. treasurer's report on the finances was very encouraging. For two years in succession he had been able to report an increase of nearly £20 in the funds, by a combination of increased income and less expenditure. He was surprised to find that the association was worked so well at so small a cost.

The receipts during the year were £78 10s. 4d. and the expenditure £36 10s. 4d. on the general account and £20 15s. 8d. in the branches, leaving a balance of £118 15s. 9d., compared with £97 16s. 5d. last year.

PRESENTATION TO THE HON. SECRETARY.

When the annual meeting was held at Bristol on Monday, many of the rings of bells in the city (6, 8, 10 and 12) were available. Owing probably to the fine weather, there was only a fair attendance, including members from Gloucester, Stroud, Fairford, Chedworth, Cheltenham, Swindon and Cirencester, whilst others attending were from Wootton Bassett, London, Bath, Wrington and Chew Magna.

Dinner at the Prince's Cafe, High Street, was followed by the business meeting, held at St. Thomas' Church Room. The reports from the Officers and Management Committee were adopted, as was also the balance sheet.

A resolution to invest £25 in a Building Society was passed.

The following officials were elected or re-elected: Vice-presidents, the Rev. N. E. Hope, the Rev. E. J. Phillips, Mr. S. Romans, Mr. W. Hale, Mr. F. J. Lewis, Mr. C. H. Gordon, Mr. J. Gould, the Rev. L. G. Cornwell; Master, the Rev. N. E. Hope (Chedworth); hon. treasurer, Mr. P. C. Williams; hon. secretary, Mr. E. Guise; hon. peal secretary, Mr. A. E. Reeves; members upon Management Committee, the Rev. E. J. Staley, Mr. J. Austin, Mr. W. Dyer, Mr. C. W. Martin, the Rev. M. Paterson and Mr. J. K. Armstrong; advisers on bell restoration, Mr. F. G. Leaker, Mr. C. W. Martin and Mr. J. H. Shepherd.

Mr. J. Preston, of Birmingham, was elected a life member, and all the branch and belfry elections for 1937 were ratified.

It was agreed to hold the next annual meeting at Stroud on Easter Monday, April 10th, 1939.

Under 'any other business,' the Rev. M. Paterson said he had been asked to perform a very pleasant ceremony and that was to present Mr. E. Guise with some recognition of his 20 years' service as hon.

YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION.

EASTERN DISTRICT OFFICERS ELECTED.

The annual meeting of the Eastern District of the Yorkshire Association was held at Sherburn-in-Elmet on Saturday, April 9th, and was attended by over 50 ringers from Bradford Cathedral, Burley, Cottingham, Drighlington, Far Headingley, Goole, Hemingbrough, Hessle, Hull, Kirk Ella, Pontefract, Selby Abbey, Sheffield Cathedral and St. Marie's, Sutton-on-Hull, York Minster and the local company. Mr. R. Philpott, of St. Mary's, Portsea, Hants, was also present.

The Vicar (the Rev. G. O. Poole, M.A.) gave an address at the service.

Tea was most generously provided by the local company, and was followed by the business meeting, over which the president of the association, the Rev. Canon C. C. Marshall, presided. Three new members were elected, Messrs. George Atkinson, of Sherburn-in-Elmet, John Howell, of Hull, and T. J. T. Wild, of Goole.

Market Weighton was selected as the next place of meeting in June.

The hon. district secretary, Mr. H. S. Morley, was re-elected, and Messrs. F. W. Dale and R. B. Smith were re-elected on the District Committee, together with Mr. J. W. Hobson, of Hull, who was elected in place of Mr. G. T. Miller, of Hull, who has resigned. Mr. Dale was also elected to a seat on the General Committee for three years. A vote of thanks to the Vicar was proposed by Mr. F. Cryer and seconded by Mr. Vigor, and the Vicar, in his reply, welcomed the association to Sherburn.

A vote of thanks to the local company for providing the tea and to the ladies for serving it was proposed by Mr. H. S. Morley and seconded by Mr. West, and, after the chairman and the Vicar had spoken of the splendid work done by Mr. E. H. Vigor during his three years at Sherburn, Mr. Vigor replied. He said he would shortly be leaving Sherburn for Northern Ireland. He wished he could have stayed a few years longer, and he asked the members to try and attend a practice meeting it was proposed to hold in May at Beverley Minster, and notice of which will be given in 'The Ringing World,' as this would probably be one of his last meetings in Yorkshire before he left the district.

A collection was made in response to an appeal from Mr. P. Amos, on behalf of the fund for augmenting the bells of St. Andrew's Church, Northampton, and realised 12s. 6d.

A vote of thanks to the chairman concluded the meeting.

Further ringing on tower and handbells, including some 'four-in-hand' by Messrs. A. E. West and A. J. Hopper, concluded a very successful meeting.

HERTFORD COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

The subscriptions to the Benevolent Fund amounted to £2 12s., raising the total to £23 1s. 8d., while £1 10s. 9d. had been added to the voluntary bell fund, which now amounted to £1 10s. 9d.

Thanks were accorded to the Dean and clergy of Hertfordshire, also to the district secretaries 'for all their labours most unselfishly given, and most thankfully received by all, although sometimes that expression may be given in an odd way.'

The report was adopted.

The statement of accounts was presented by the hon. treasurer (Mr. G. E. Debenham) and also adopted. It showed a balance in hand of £1 0s. 2d., as against £7 9s. 11d. at the beginning of the year.

In spite of a certain amount of opposition, it was agreed to increase the annual subscription from 1s. to 1s. 6d. as from January 1st, 1939. The proposition was moved by Mr. C. H. Horton, with the support of the committee.

Mr. J. Watson, of the St. Peter's band, St. Albans, was elected a ringing member.

In addition to the president, the officers elected were: Hon. treasurer, Mr. G. E. Debenham; hon. secretary, Mr. G. W. Cartmel; assistant hon. secretary, Mr. G. W. Debenham; hon. librarian, Mr. H. V. Frost; and hon. auditor, Mr. W. Mercer.

Preceding tea and the annual meeting, the members attended evening song at St. Albans Abbey, at which an address was given by the Rev. M. P. G. Leonard, Rector of Hatfield.

Thanking Mr. Leonard for his address, Mr. Cartmel mentioned that he had heard every sermon preached to the association since 1885.

The Dean of St. Albans (the Very Rev. C. C. Thicknesse) and others were thanked for allowing the use of the bells.

secretary. He asked Mr. Guise to accept on behalf of Mrs. Guise a gold wristlet watch and a cheque for himself.

He (the Rev. Paterson) stated that the good work of Mr. Guise was well shown by the appreciative response that had been received from the members towards the presentation.

Mr. E. Guise thanked the members on behalf of Mrs. Guise and himself, and stated that he had always felt proud as general secretary that he always had the confidence and respect of the members of the association, and he was particularly grateful for the genial companionship of his fellow officials.

DEATH OF MR. ARTHUR SYMONDS.

'FATHER' OF LAVENHAM RINGERS.

Passing of a Much Loved Personality.

We regret to record the death of Mr. Arthur Symonds, of Lavenham, Suffolk, who passed away on Wednesday of last week at the age of 80 years. Over a long period Mr. Symonds has been the mainstay of ringing at his little town, and has rendered invaluable service to the art in East Anglia. He was looked upon as the 'father' of the ringers in Lavenham; indeed, several members of his own family are ringers there. He had been a regular ringer at his tower for over 60 years.

AN APPRECIATION.

By 'ONE OF HIS BOYS.'

It was with very deep regret that we heard the sad news of the passing of Mr. Arthur Symonds, who to his many friends was more familiarly known as just 'Arthur' and to his own local company of ringers as 'the Old Chap.'

I wish my pen was able to pay better tribute to such a man. It has been my privilege to know him for several years, and surely the term 'one of Nature's gentlemen' never could have been more fitted to anyone than it was to him. In all the years I have known him, never once did I see or hear of him losing his temper. He was always just the quiet, dear old fellow, loved by everyone with whom he came in contact.

Arthur received his first lessons in ringing as far back as 1864 when he was only six years old, and rang for the first time in what was to become his beloved Lavenham tower in 1877 for Queen Victoria's birthday.

He rang his first peal on the Lavenham bells in 1888, and from then, until 1932, rang in every peal on the bells, some 112 in all, but he was never one who was keen to make records. He was far more happy when he could get hold of some young lad to instruct and teach him to become a ringer, and undoubtedly if all the ringers that owe their first instruction to Arthur could be numbered, it would certainly be a record that all would be proud of. It is needless for me to say that this part of his work will be very greatly missed, not only by the local company, but by many others in the surrounding district.

Until his health failed him just over two years ago, Arthur Symonds was a regular churchman. Very seldom did he miss a service on a Sunday; for many years he served as a sidesman and a member of the Church Council. When there has been a special service held on a Sunday afternoon, I have known him to go straight up the tower after the morning service and stay there until it was time to begin ringing again for the afternoon one. Such was his keenness that going without his Sunday dinner was a small matter to him so long as his bells were ready for service ringing. No one can ever know the number of hours (or perhaps it would be nearer the truth if I said weeks or even years) he has spent in his steeple. In fact, if ever I wanted to see him and he was not at home, there was only one other place to look for him, in his home from home, the tower.

What his loss to the local company will mean only time will show, and I am sure that even his son will agree with me when I say that no one can ever hope to take his place as leader at Lavenham, at least not in the hearts of the older members of the company. Some proof of this is shown by one small fact. I had often noticed, as all visitors to the Lavenham tower will remember, that Arthur had his favourite chair in the clock corner, and although it is over two years now since he last used it, that chair is still in its same place, but nobody ever occupies it, for, of course, it is looked on as his chair. But even if the chair was empty, we all knew Arthur's thoughts were with us and that he would be listening to his bells. That fact alone was enough to make the company try to give of its best when ringing.

I could write much more, but even then I should not have said all that one could wish to say about the dear old fellow. So, with this small tribute to a great innings well and truly played, I will close, not signing my name, but proud of the honour to be able to sign myself as just

DON'T SCRUB YOUR HANDS!

To many people, the problem of getting the hands really clean without harming the skin is a serious one. Grease and grime, which become deeply ingrained into the pores of the skin, are extremely difficult to remove, and ordinary washing with soap or even scrubbing will fail to remove them completely. Housewives, particularly, who complain that their hands get ruined by the nature of their work, will find the preparation called DERMAFOAM a real "godsend." DERMAFOAM just smooths away dirt and grease without effort. It gets right down into the pores and removes every particle of grime, leaving skin beautifully supple and healthy.

Men, too—when you've finished that dirty job on the car, DERMAFOAM will quickly banish all grease and oil from your hands. It acts almost magically—working under and around the nails and into every minute crease, removing all trace of dirt in a flash.

Engineers, Painters, Car Mechanics, Printers — everyone — will welcome DERMAFOAM, the modern method of cleansing and protecting the hands.

'THE COLLEGE YOUTHS'

by J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE

'This is one of the very few books I have read which seem to me might, with advantage, have been considerably longer.'—The Dean of St. Paul's.

'Mr. Trollope has achieved more than his immediate purpose of writing a history of the Society of College Youths. So closely has the guild been identified with English change ringing that its history is to a very large extent an account of the ancient sport of ringing developed into an elaborate art....'

'Throughout his book Mr. Trollope takes his readers into a strange and fascinating world whose traditions so peculiarly English deserve far more popular attention than they usually receive.'—The Guardian.

ASSOCIATION MEMBERSHIP.

In days when many associations are bemoaning a loss of membership, it is pleasing to be able to turn to the report of the Worcestershire Association and read of the numerical progress being made. Including the new members elected at the annual meeting, the total stands well over the best previous record. It is an encouraging position, which should afford gratification to the association's officers, who are doing such excellent work, while the retiring Master, Mr. William Short, must be able to lay down his office with a feeling of satisfaction on this high tide of success. For nearly fifty years Mr. Short has been a bulwark of ringing in the western Midlands, and his services in St. Martin's Guild, where he was once Deputy Ringing Master, in the Worcestershire Association and in the Hereford Diocesan Guild, have been invaluable. His mantle has descended upon a younger and no less able and enthusiastic ringer, Mr. Sidney T. Holt, and in this respect the Worcestershire Association is fortunate. There is one thing in which the association never seems to be lacking, and that is in the quality of the men it can call upon to fill its offices, and to that, in a large measure, must be attributed its success.

But among ringers, almost everywhere, there is a tendency to leave things entirely to the officials. As long as things go well they are content to sit back and let those who will do the work. The best method of ensuring success in any organisation, however, is by the endeavour which every individual puts into it; and particularly is this the case in building up a strong membership. In towers where only part of the ringers have joined the territorial association it should be their constant aim and effort to bring in the remainder. The responsibility is theirs more than the officials', and yet there are hundreds of belfries up and down the country where only a half-hearted interest exists in the parent association, resulting in only a portion of the members supporting their county association or diocesan organisation. There is no cure for it until the ringers themselves realise what is due from them in loyalty and effort.

Officials can keep in touch with their members, but they can seldom reach non-members, many of whom probably stay 'outside the fold' for the want of a little persuasion. Has not the time arrived when it should be a condition of membership of any tower that a ringer should also be a member of the county or diocesan organisation? Ringers, for the most part, pay little enough for the opportunities of practising their art. Their instruments are freely provided for them; the pursuit of change ringing may cost them nothing. The enthusiasts join, and join willingly, the parent associations. It would be no hardship if in every tower there was a rule which insisted that every member of the band should be a member of the territorial association, and there could be no misunderstanding if this were made plain on entry. We cannot go into the matter at this point, but this opens up the whole question of whether the present financial arrangements under which associations work do not need reconsideration.

WORCESTERSHIRE ASSOCIATION. RECORD MEMBERSHIP.

Mr. S. T. Holt Succeeds Mr. W. Short as Master.

The Worcestershire and Districts Association held its annual meeting at Worcester on Easter Monday, when members and visitors attended from all parts of the county. During the morning and evening ringing took place on the various rings of bells available in the city, St. Swithun's and St. Nicholas' (6), St. John-in-Bedwardine (8), All Saints' (10), and, for an hour, the grand peal of twelve at the Cathedral was available.

The business meeting was held in the College Hall and presided over by the Dean of Worcester (the Very Rev. Arthur Davies, D.Litt., president of the association), supported by the Rev. G. W. Webb (clerical secretary), Mr. J. D. Johnson (lay secretary), and Mr. William Short (Master).

The President welcomed the association to Worcester, explaining, at the same time, that he would be obliged to vacate the chair before the end of the meeting owing to business arising from a royal visit which would be taking place the next day. He expressed a wish that the meeting would not, on this occasion, lament the absence of young ringers, and referred to the number of youngsters in his Cathedral band.

Arising from the minutes, Mr. S. T. Holt reported that the 'annual peal' had been duly rung, this taking the form of a peal of Stedman Cinques at the Cathedral.

Several apologies were received from absent members. The Rev. J. F. Hastings explained that his absence was due to the illness of his wife, and Alderman J. S. Pritchett referred to his increasing years as the reason for his non-appearance, but, nevertheless, he expressed a wish that the meeting would be a successful one. In view of the illness of Mrs. Hastings, it was resolved that the secretary write to the Rev. J. F. Hastings expressing sympathy and hoping that she would soon be well.

EIGHTY-THREE NEW MEMBERS THIS YEAR.

In presenting the 53rd annual report, the secretary pointed out that the paid-up membership last year was 495, only one short of the record number. In addition to this, the branches had elected 63 new members this year, and, as will be seen later in this report, 20 were elected at the annual meeting, making a total membership of 578, which is a record for any one year for the association. Other points from the report were that during 1937 no less than £33 6s. 3d. had been paid in grants towards bell restoration, which was easily the highest amount paid by the association in one year for this purpose. The General Fund showed a credit balance of £7 1s. 3d. The Rev. J. F. Hastings, who last year resigned from his position of clerical secretary, had been successively curate and rector of Martley since 1891, this being a record for length of stay in one benefice equalled by only one other in the diocese. There had been only one change in the branch officers, Mr. T. Hemming having resigned from the office of Northern Branch Master, and Mr. J. Lloyd elected in his place. The branch secretaries were congratulated on their reports of meetings, which had appeared in the Press. The lay secretary thought that the year's work might be considered satisfactory, but there were still some 30 per cent. of the towers appearing in the Directory without ringing members. They must not rest content until every tower in the county with a ringable peal of bells was in active union with the association.

Two recommendations of the Central Committee were adopted, and as a result the annual dinner is to be held on the last Saturday in September. The committee appointed to arrange matters consists of Messrs. R. G. Knowles, C. H. Woodberry, W. C. Dowling, G. King, J. Hall, G. E. Large, with the Master and secretary. Rule 5 was modified to make the auditors, Central Council representatives, peals analyst and hon. librarian ex-officio members of the Central Committee, instead of co-opted members, which they previously were.

The balance sheet, which has been previously referred to, was adopted without discussion.

The librarian reported that 20 applications for books had been made involving 24 books.

At this point the chairman was obliged to leave, but before departing a vote of thanks was carried by the meeting thanking him for his presence during the afternoon. The clerical secretary was then voted to the chair, and the meeting proceeded with the election of officers.

The Dean of Worcester was re-elected president, and the whole of the vice-presidents re-elected with the exception of the Rev. V. C. Blyth, whose place is taken by the Rev. W. R. R. Brown.

MASTER'S RESIGNATION.

Mr. William Short resigned his position as Master of the association. The Chairman expressed regret that Mr. Short was resigning, and thanked him for his past services. Mr. W. B. Cartwright, in proposing the election of Mr. S. T. Holt to the office, expressed regret that Mr. Short was resigning, but thought that the association should respect his wishes.—Mr. R. G. Knowles seconded the proposition and Mr. Holt was duly elected.

Mr. J. R. Newman moved that the association's thanks be given to Mr. Short for his past services. Mr. Short replied and hoped that Mr. Holt would be supported as he had been during his term of office.

The clerical secretary, lay secretary and the treasurer were unanimously re-elected, and Mr. J. R. Newman took the place of Mr. S. T. Holt as auditor, in company with Mr. E. E. Barber.

PEAL NOTES.

INTERESTING ITEMS ABOUT MANY PERFORMANCES.

The Rev. Ivor J. Richards, who, until Easter Monday, was Master of the Llandaff and Monmouth Diocesan Association, has been appointed as priest-in-charge of Llanhennock, Monmouthshire. To celebrate this appointment and in honour of his year of office as Master, a peal of Grandsire Triples, in which he took part, was rung at Llanfrehfa on April 19th.

The first ringer to call a peal of Spliced London, Bristol, Cambridge and Superlative Surprise Major is Mr. Wilfred Williams, who completed this unique 'circle' at Ewell, Surrey on April 20th, when he called the peal from the treble. It was the first Spliced Surprise peal on the bells.

To celebrate the coming of age of two lady members of the Isham Society, a peal in seven Minor methods was rung on Easter Monday at Isham.

A peal of Grandsire Doubles at Llanelly, Carmarthenshire, was the first peal by all the band except the conductor.

Three ringers from the five-bell tower of Little Shelford, Cambs, rang their first peal of Minor on Easter Monday, on a visit to the neighbouring church of Harston. The band was made up of three Harston ringers, two of whom scored their first peal.

Miss Brenda Bayles, of Acle, Norfolk, who is only 14 years of age, rang her first peal on Easter Day, and her brother, who is only 16, was the conductor. It was a peal of Minor in four methods.

Mr. Arnold Brunton rang his fiftieth peal for the Lancashire Association when he took part in a peal of Stedman Cinques at Liverpool on Easter Monday, and Mr. Leslie Gray brought his peal total up to the double century.

CELEBRATIONS.

A peal of Grandsire Triples at Market Drayton, Shropshire, was a birthday compliment to Miss M. Price, two of whose brothers took part in the peal.

On Easter Day, a handbell peal of Bob Major at Saffron Walden, Essex, celebrated the anniversary of the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ayre.

The fortieth anniversary of the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Palmer, who were married on April 9th, 1898, was celebrated on Easter Monday by a peal rung at Staveley, Derbyshire, in which Mr. Palmer took part.

The first peal on the bells at Stoke Poges since they have been a ring of eight was rung on Easter Monday. It was rung to commemorate the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Redrup and the christening of Roger, the infant son of Mr. William L. Gutteridge, who rang the tenor, and also as a birthday compliment to Mr. William Welling. Williams played an important part in this peal, for they manned the back five bells.

Like Stoke Poges, Burton-on-Stather, Lincs, has recently had its bells increased to an octave, and the local band rang the first peal on them on April 21st, when Mr. Jack Bray conducted a peal of Bob Major.

The first peal for the reorganised Oldham and District Society was rung on April 21st—a peal of Stedman Triples at Moorside.

The first peal of Major on the bells at Great Waltham, Essex, since they were rehung was brought round on Easter Monday.

WORCESTERSHIRE ASSOCIATION'S ANNUAL MEETING.

A vacancy occurred on the Central Committee through the resignation of Mr. H. G. Bird. Mr. W. B. Cartwright was elected to fill this office and Mr. Short co-opted as a member.

Twenty new ringing members were then elected by the meeting.

The next annual meeting will be held at Worcester, and the arrangements for the annual peal will be made by the Master. Mr. R. G. Knowles contended that this was the Master's job, and made a few remarks pointing out that he had attended about 50 annual meetings, but he did not remember one at which so many young members had been elected. He hoped that those new members and those who had introduced them would stick to ringing and be loyal to the officers of the association, as he was sure it was the best thing they could possibly do.

The meeting closed with a vote of thanks to all who had assisted in making the meeting a success, and the chairman replied on behalf of the clergy.

Evensong at the Cathedral was attended by some of the ringers, when the sermon was preached by the Rev. W. Buchanan Dunlop, Rector of All Saints', Worcester, an honorary member of the association.

As in previous years, tea was taken at the Co-operative Cafe, this being the final gathering before breaking up for evening ringing and home. During the evening further ringing took place, the cream of it all being Spliced Surprise Major in four methods on the back eight at All Saints' Church, a physical as well as mental effort.

The meeting was by no means the best held at Worcester from the numerical standpoint, but it was the conclusion of a year's work which can be only described as very successful and promising greater things in the future.

PEALS FOR CHURCH FESTIVALS.

Ringers do not take sufficient advantage of the opportunities to arrange peals for the Church's festivals. Peals are rung, and, as an after-thought, all sorts of 'compliments' are tacked on, but the great festivals should be the ringers' first consideration, as they are the best justification for peal ringing. It is pleasing to read that peals at All Saints', Hereford, and Harston, Cambs, were 'specially arranged and rung for the Easter festival.'

It is, we always think, a mistake to say that a peal is rung in honour or in celebration of any event, unless it is specially arranged for the purpose, and this is particularly so in the case of birthdays which are often only thought of after a peal has been rung.

Ringers were present in large numbers at Twickenham on Saturday to witness the marriage of Mr. Thomas J. Lock and Miss Kathleen Bradford, two popular members of the Middlesex County Association, who a few days before being united in matrimony both took part in a peal in nine Spliced Surprise methods.

A peal of Cambridge Surprise Major in their honour was rung at St. Mary's, Ealing, and it was accompanied by the wholehearted wishes of the band for the future happiness of the bride and bridegroom.

A peal in three Minor methods—Kent, Oxford and Cambridge—was rung at Handsworth, Sheffield, on April 16th, after meeting short for a peal of Major.

On Easter Monday, following a peal of Surprise Minor in seven methods at Shelly, the same band in the same order, but with a different conductor, rang a peal in seven Treble Bob methods at Kirkburton, the latter being the first peal of Minor on the bells.

Four of the same party scored a peal of Minor on the following day at Felkirk. It was Howard Scott's first peal in seven methods, three of which—Sandal, London Scholars' Pleasure and Kingston—he had never previously rung.

There is no 'age limit' in ringing. On Easter Monday, Mr. Edward G. Higgins, of Marcham, Berks, rang his first peal. He is 75 years of age! He rang the treble to a peal of Grandsire Doubles, in which three others of the band also scored their first peal.

On Easter Monday, a band of twelve met at Trowbridge, Wilts, for a peal of Treble Twelve, but could not ring on account of serious illness near the church. They went on to Bradford-on-Avon and eight of them rang a peal of Cambridge Surprise Major.

With only one change of personnel, a band rang a peal of Double Norwich at Holland-on-Sea, and a peal of Kent Treble Bob Major at Kirby-le-Soken on Bank Holiday. Both were conducted by Harry D. Lister.

The name of the ringer of the 2nd in the recent peal of Stedman Triples at Egham, Surrey, was Wilkins (and not Watkins) Massey.

LONDON RINGING.To the Editor.*

Sir,—If a round table conference is to meet to consider the subject of ringing in and around London, one of the first considerations would be the form an organisation could take. It appears to me that there are two opposing possibilities, viz. :—

(1) A central body, regarding London as a whole and taking in what are usually regarded as the dormitory suburbs.

(2) A separate body for each of the London dioceses.

It seems to me that the advantages of (2) far outweigh its defects. In the same way as in other church organisations, where a prosperous parish helps the poorer parishes of the diocese, strong companies of ringers would be able to help churches in the organisation where it is difficult to get the bells rung regularly. Ringers at the more humble churches would be able to look to their brethren at the more important churches and at the Cathedral church to give them a lead and help.

If anything is done in this matter, do not let us descend to bickering and personal interests. The affair is too important and should be regarded as something really big. Reference has been made to our position being recognised by the Church authorities, but if we ourselves could only recognise our position in the Church, ways and means would soon be evolved of ending the unsatisfactory state of affairs which we have inherited.

E. M. ATKINS.

HALIFAX AND DISTRICT ASSOCIATION.*LADY TAKES PART IN CONTEST AT LONGWOOD.

The quarterly meeting and six-bell contest of the Halifax and District Association was held at Longwood on Saturday, April 9th. Four teams had entered to ring 600 changes with a plain course for practice. The draw for the order of ringing was as follows: No. 1, Meltham; No. 2, Freizeland; No. 3, Liversedge; No. 4, New Mill. Meltham and New Mill rang Oxford, Freizeland rang Woodbine, and Liversedge rang Killamars Treble Bob.

The meeting was held in the Church Institute, Mr. J. Burgess being in the chair in the absence of the president (Mr. E. Farnshaw).

After the business had been dealt with, the judge, Mr. H. Haigh, of New Mill, gave his decision as follows: Meltham, 89 faults; Freizeland, 131 faults; Liversedge, 118 faults; New Mill, 104 faults. Meltham were, therefore, declared winners, and the cup was presented to the Meltham conductor, Mr. E. Whiteley, by the Rev. W. M. Griffiths.

The success of Meltham is worthy of note, as they had ringing with them Miss M. Byrom. As she is believed to be the first lady member of the Halifax Association to compete, it was felt that this was a memorable occasion.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

Recent annual meetings of associations have provided several changes among officers. Mr. E. Denison Taylor has retired from the presidency of the Midland Counties Association, and the office has been taken by Dr. F. Stedman Poole; Mr. William Short has given up the Mastership of the Worcestershire Association and is succeeded by Mr. Sidney Holt.

Mr. E. Stitch was elected Master of the Llandaff and Mounmouth Association in succession to the Rev. Ivor J. Richards.

Two secretaries have retired: Mr. Malcolm Melville in the Warwickshire Guild, where he is succeeded by Mrs. Beamish, who returns to an office which she formerly held; and Mr. J. S. Goldsmith in the Guildford Diocesan Guild. His place is taken by Mr. G. L. Grover.

We are very glad to be able to report that Mr. Albert Walker, of Birmingham, is well on the road to recovery from his illness. This news, we are sure, will delight his many friends in all parts of the country. He desires to thank them all for their kind inquiries and hopes soon to be among them to thank them personally.

As a balance to a statement too often made re non-service ringers, here is one of a 'positive' character. The Walgrave belfry, dedicated by the Bishop of Peterborough on April 11th last year, has a peal of five bells only. But there are 11 ringers, including a team of ladies, all of whom are in the choir, six men, of whom two are churchwardens and four are choirmen, and six of the eleven are members of the Church Council. This probably constitutes an unusual record.

The Norwich Diocesan Association, at their annual meeting on Easter Monday, decided to adopt a badge and to charge new members, other than life members, an entrance fee of 1s. to cover the cost of a certificate and badge.

A handsome shield was presented last year to the East Derbyshire and Notts Association, to be awarded annually to the tower showing most progress. Kirkby-in-Ashfield, a five-bell tower, are the first to win it, and received it at the annual meeting on Easter Monday.

Two hundred members attended the annual meeting of the Kent County Association at Margate on Easter Monday. A report of these meetings and of the annual meeting of the Guildford Diocesan Guild last Saturday will appear in our next issue.

A peal of Stedman Caters was rung on Saturday at Cheltenham to commemorate the 15,227 Grandsire Caters rung there on April 22nd, 1889. Last week we said this was still the longest peal of Grandsire Caters, but we are reminded by Mr. George Holfield, jun., that a longer one, 16,271, was rung at Appleton on December 27th, 1932. Appleton holds the record for both Grandsire and Stedman Caters, the latter being the 'longest ever' by one set of men.

Among the bequests of the late Mr. Francis Scaife, of Pocklington, Yorkshire, who died on October 29th at the age of 82 years, is a sum not exceeding £300 to the Vicar and churchwardens of Pocklington Parish Church for the erection of two bells to complete the peal of eight bells, and £400 upon trust, the income to be applied for or towards the salary of three ringers, and a further £100 upon trust for the instruction of all the bellringers in Pocklington Church.

He left other sums to the church for a memorial window and the improvement of the choir, and £100 to the pastor and deacons of the Congregational Chapel for the benefit of the chapel.

Ringers often say hard things to one another, but it doesn't often interfere with friendships. An example: An official of the Royal Cumberland Youths and an official of the London County Association have recently been doing some 'hard hitting'—but they rang a peal together last Saturday. And that is as it should be.

A conjuror entertained the party at the social held after the Midland Counties Association's annual meeting on Easter Monday. The man of magic had, as his assistant during a card manipulation trick, a celebrated 'Fidler,' who was as mystified as the rest of the audience, until he came to undress at night and the seven of diamonds fell out of his shirt. There was only one in the audience at that time—but didn't she laugh!

SCOTTISH ASSOCIATION. GROWING MEMBERSHIP.

The annual meeting of the Scottish Association was held at St. Mary's Cathedral, Edinburgh, on Saturday, April 23rd. The meeting attracted 45 members representing most of the towers, and Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Deal, of London, were visitors. The service was conducted by the Rev. C. L. Broun, M.A., Vice-Provost of the Cathedral, who, in his address, gave an interesting account of the history of bells in the Church in Scotland. Mr. H. White, one of the young Cathedral ringers, acted as organist.

After service the association members were entertained to tea by the Cathedral Society.

At the business meeting which followed, 16 new members were elected, bringing the total membership to 97, the highest since the association was founded.

The Cathedral bells (10) were kept going till 7 p.m., and touches of Grandsire and Stedman Caters and Kent Treble Bob Royal were rung. The ringing was of a high standard for a meeting. The bells at St. Cuthbert's (8) were also rung till 8.30 p.m. in touches of Grandsire, Stedman, Erin, Kent and a course of Double Norwich, which was rung for the first time at a meeting in Scotland.

LEADING CONDUCTORS—16.*ARTHUR KNIGHTS.

There are some names in the Exercise that stand out like landmarks, and one such is undoubtedly that of Arthur Knights, of Chesterfield. He is known best as a composer, for he is among the most prolific producers of peals, but he has also no mean record as a conductor.

Mr. Knights was born at Brome, near Eye, in Suffolk, on December 17th, 1859, so that he is in his 79th year, and his actual first connection with bells began in his native village as long ago as 1868, when he learned to chime. Later on, ringing attracted him, and his first peal was rung at Diss, Norfolk, on May 19th, 1879, being the first peal of Kent Treble Bob Major by the Norwich Diocesan Association. He removed soon after to Chesterfield, where the rest of his long life has been spent. It was at this time that he became interested in composition, and his first peal as conductor was rung at Chesterfield on July 15th, 1882. It was a 5,216 of Kent Treble Bob Major of his own composition.

Mr. Knights has now rung 600 peals (including 19 on handbells), of which he has conducted 210, including nine on handbells. Of the total, 379 have been peals which he composed, and nearly all were rung for the first time. With the exception of Holt's Original and the Rev. C. D. P. Davies' Ten-part peals of Grandsire Triples, Mr. Knights has never called the same peal twice, and only upon two or three occasions has he rung the same composition more than once.

His peals include Grandsire Triples, Caters and Cinques, Plain Bob, Little Bob, Kent and Oxford Treble Bob Major, Royal and Maximus, Double Norwich Major, Caters and Royal, Cambridge and Yorkshire Surprise Major and Royal and London Surprise Major.

Mr. Knights took part in the following first peals for the Yorkshire Association: New Cambridge, Bristol, Peterborough and Norfolk Surprise Major, Double Norwich Caters, Double Norwich, Little Bob and Cambridge Surprise Royal, and the first and only peal of Oxford Treble Bob Maximus on tower bells in Yorkshire. His longest peal, which he also conducted, was 8,288 Kent Treble Bob Major (composed by the late Arthur Craven), and rung on May 19th, 1900, to celebrate the relief of Ladysmith.

Mr. Knights' two sons have shared in many peals with their father, and Mr. Ben Knights (now of Preston) has called 77 of them, and Mr. A. Percival Knights (of Sheffield) 46.

Up to the present Mr. Knights has never attempted a peal on five or six bells, and unfortunately he has, for some years, been without a 'home' tower. The famous tower and twisted spire of Chesterfield was pronounced unsafe for the bells to be rung in, and although restoration has been carried out, the ringing on the ten bells is still prohibited. But this does not curb Mr. Knights' enthusiasm.

His work as a composer is well known, particularly in the realm of Treble Bob, and some idea of his output may be gained from the fact that between 1,100 and 1,200 of his compositions have been rung, including some reverse variations of peals of Treble Bob Major. He has about 430 original peals of Treble Bob Major and over 300 of Treble Bob Royal.

Next week: Mr. Thomas W. Last.

FATHER OF A RINGING FAMILY.*DEATH OF MR. JOE RUSSELL, OF BRAY.

For nearly 50 years Mr. Joe Russell had rung the 26½ cwt. tenor bell at Bray, Berks, but on Friday last he died suddenly after only a couple of hours' illness, in his 67th year.

The family are well known for their dexterity with handbells, all five sons and four daughters taking part (one member could often be seen ringing six, i.e., three in each hand), and delighting many an audience with their tunes. Only three members, however, were tower-bell ringers, two sons and father, usually known as 'Old Joe.'

By request after evensong on Sunday with the bells half-muffled, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Doubles (the method to which he loved to ring the cover) was rung, in which the two sons took part, Fred J. (present captain of Bray band) and Harry. The quarter-peal was well and truly rung in 53 minutes, followed by the 'whole pull and stand.' Those taking part were G. Gilbert (conductor) 1, F. J. Russell 2, M. Pocock 3, B. O'Neill 4, H. Russell 5, J. E. Taylor 6. Ringers of 1, 4 and 6 from Burnham, and 2, 3 and 5 from the Bray band.

The funeral took place on Tuesday at Bray Church.

WARWICKSHIRE GUILD.*CHANGE IN SECRETARYSHIP.

The annual meeting of the Warwickshire Guild was held on Saturday, April 9th, at Warwick. About 50 members and friends attended, and ringing was enjoyed on the ten bells of St. Mary's Church. A short service, held in the chancel of the church, was conducted by Canon C. A. H. Russell.

After tea at the Porridge Pot, an adjournment was made to the vestry of the church for the business meeting, which was presided over by Canon Russell. Owing to illness, Mr. Malcolm C. Melville, the hon. secretary, was not present, and Mrs. Beamish deputised for him. Arising out of the minutes, the proposed Bell Restoration Fund was discussed, but, on being put to the vote, the proposition was lost.

Mr. Melville had given notice that he would propose that new members joining the Guild for the first time at or after the quarterly meeting in July be required to pay 1s. only as subscription for that year. In his absence, the motion was proposed by Mr. F. W. Perrens. It was seconded by Mr. D. H. Argyle and carried.

The balance sheet, showing a balance in hand at the end of 1937 of £20 16s. 8d., was adopted.

Of the officers of the Guild retiring automatically at the end of the year, only Mr. M. C. Melville did not seek re-election. Mr. Perrens, therefore, proposed that Mrs. Beamish be appointed hon. secretary, with Mr. C. E. Rayson as assistant.—Mr. J. Beale seconded. This was carried unanimously.

The remaining officers were re-elected en bloc.

The following meeting places were decided upon: Fillongley for May, Solihull for June, Monk's Kirby for July.

The Rev. Mostyn Robinson, Vicar of Wolvey, was elected an hon. member, and the Rev. H. Benson, F. N. Maskell, G. A. Stocker, W. Haves, E. Hewlett, A. T. Price, D. Smith, Miss E. F. Wootton and G. F. Cantrill were elected ringing members.

A letter was received from Mr. P. Amos appealing for a small subscription to a Northampton Bell Restoration Fund, and it was decided to have a 'whip round' at the close of the meeting.

The meeting terminated with votes of thanks to Canon Russell, the organist and Mr. E. H. Adams, and a return was then made to the belfry.

MR. E. DENISON TAYLOR'S RETIREMENT.

Dr. F. Stedman Poole the New President.

The annual meeting of the Midland Counties Association was held on Easter Monday, and, following the usual rota, took place at Leicester. From an early hour the bells of St. Martin's Cathedral (12), St. Margaret's (12), St. John's (10) and Belgrave (8) were rung by friends and visitors, from far and near, throughout the day, with the exception of breaks for funerals and marriages.

The committee met in the afternoon in the Church House of the Cathedral. In the course of their business it was decided that the association handbells, left by the late president, Sir A. P. Heywood, should be insured and a new carrying bag provided for them, and that, as is usual, they should be transferred yearly to the centre where the annual meeting is held. Three places for the next quarterly meetings were suggested and left to the general meeting to decide.

Tea was served at the Oriental Cafe, Market Place, and a good repast partaken of by some 120 or more members and friends. These represented all the seven branches of the association, viz., Burton, Chesterfield, Derby, Hinckley, Leicester, Loughborough and Nottingham. Visitors who were welcomed included Messrs. T. H. Taffender, W. Williams (London), F. E. Collins, R. Davies (Croydon), F. W. Rogers (Portsmouth), Mr. and Mrs. Beamish, Messrs. F. W. Perrens, F. E. Pervin (Warwickshire Guild), R. G. Black, A. Pettitt, W. Rogers (Peterborough Diocesan Guild), W. Fernley (Hazel Grove), A. Hewitt (Gainsborough), W. Rhodes and friends (Birmingham), A. Sargent and members of Kelham Theological College, C. E. Smith (Godalming), O. Sippetts, K. Snelling, Miss Wyman (Crawley, Sussex), Mr. F. E. Darby (Beddington) and others.

Mr. E. Denison Taylor (president) was in the chair at the business meeting, supported by Mr. W. E. White (hon. treasurer), Mr. Ernest Morris (general secretary) and a large number of committeemen.

The President gave a review of the past quarter's work, the peals rung, etc., and he voiced the committee's hearty greetings and welcome to Leicester to visitors from long distances. He stated that during the first three months of the year the association scored 33 peals, 28 on tower and five on handbells. The former included Stedman Cinques and Cambridge Maximus at the two Leicester twelve-bell towers. The handbell peals included two by students of Kelham Theological College, to whom he gave a hearty welcome into the ranks of the Midland Counties Association, and expressed a hope that they would continue to flourish and carry on the art after leaving college for parochial work. The association had lost an old and valued member in the passing of Mr. Charles Draper, of Derby and Duffield, who died on March 28th at the age of 73. Mr. Draper was one of the famous 'Wednesday' band, and altogether had scored 407 peals for the association. The President referred to the loss the Exercise had sustained in the death of Mr. W. T. Cockerill, of the College Youths and St. Paul's Cathedral. In this connection the members of the M.C.A. were glad that their association was represented in the memorial peal at Southwark Cathedral rung by twelve secretaries of different associations and guilds. As their own general secretary was fortunately able to go and take part in this unique performance, he suggested that this peal should be noted in the association's records.

As a token of respect to the memory of these two gentlemen, all the company present stood in silence a moment.

Mr. Taylor tendered apologies for absence from Mr. William Willson and Mr. J. Oldham, in both cases due to illness at home. He added that thanks were due to the Provost for use of the Cathedral bells, and the Vicars and towerkeepers for other bells available that day, and he hoped visitors had enjoyed the opportunities thus provided.

MR. TAYLOR'S FAREWELL.

In closing, Mr. Taylor wished the members 'Godspeed,' as that was to be his last meeting with them as president. He felt that he must now give place to a younger man, having served for eight years. Although retiring from this office, however, he assured them he would not lose his interest in the association's welfare or the art in general.

Mr. A. J. Harris, in proposing thanks to the retiring president, said it was with deepest regret they were parting with Mr. Taylor from that office, but they did so with happy memories of his work and society with them. Never had they had a gloomy meeting while Mr. Taylor was in the chair, and his opening speeches were model ones—equal to anything they heard from the B.B.C.! He left office with the good wishes and respect of all members, and they most certainly would accept his offer to 'come up and see me some time' at Loughborough. In conclusion, Mr. Harris said he was happy to announce that the thanks of all those present were due to Mr. Taylor for his generosity in providing the sumptuous tea free to all.

The whole company then rose and sang 'For he's a jolly good fellow,' after which Mr. Taylor suitably replied.

New members proposed since the last meeting, viz., 16 ringing, five life, four honorary, were duly elected. The new hon. members included the Ven. Archdeacon of Leicester (the Rev. Canon Matthews) and Col. Sir Frederick Oliver, O.B.E., who both sent apologies for absence. The ringing members included seven from Kelham College, and after election Mr. Sargent spoke of their work and rendered thanks to Nottingham and Southwell members for help given.

Places chosen for the next three quarterly meetings were then confirmed, viz.: Bottesford, June; Wirksworth, September; Hugglescote, January, 1939.

'THE BROTHERHOOD OF RINGERS.'

A happy little gathering took place at Dorking Parish Church on Easter Monday, when 38 ringers attended a meeting of the North-Western District of the Surrey Association. Twenty-three towers, in six different dioceses, were represented, and the Vicar and Rural Dean of Dorking, the Rev. Oswald A. Hunt, commented on this further piece of evidence of the brotherhood and fellowship of ringers, when he presided at the business meeting.

Ringling commenced at 3 o'clock, and continued until 5 o'clock, when the Vicar, assisted by the Rev. A. Dawson (curate) conducted the usual ringers' service. He welcomed the association to Dorking, and referred to his former association with bellringers when he was at St. Mary's, Portsea, and later at Godstone Parish Church. Prefacing his remarks with the Psalmist's phrase, 'I was glad when they said unto me, we will go into the house of the Lord,' he hoped that their ringing would be heard and understood by many of the holiday-makers as they passed through Dorking that day, and serve to remind them of the welcome that always awaited them in God's house.

He went on to tell of the traditions of the church at Dorking; how the old Saxon church was burnt down by the Danes when they invaded Dorking in A.D. 851, and of the erection of three different buildings on the same site: (a) The Ancient Church—1377 to 1834; (b) the Intermediate Church—1837 to 1872; and (c) the present church—from 1873. After describing the construction and architecture of the chancel, nave and Lady Chapel in turn, he referred to the very noble spire of Dorking, which is a landmark for all the surrounding district and can only be surpassed in the south by the spire of Salisbury Cathedral. The top-stone of the spire, which is 200ft. high, was laid on St. Mark's Day, 1877, as a memorial to Samuel Wilberforce, Bishop of Winchester, who was thrown from his horse and killed as he rode from Dorking towards Guildford. Bishop Wilberforce had consecrated the church in 1874, the year before he met his death.

The bells are a mixed ring of eight, tenor 25 cwt. in D, by Robert Catlin, 1746. The 7th, 6th and treble are by Thomas Mears, 1827 and 1842, the 5th by John Wilner, 1826, and the 4th, 3rd and 2nd, by R. Phelps, 1709. They are a melodious peal.

Tea was served in the Parish Room, and at the business meeting the Vicar drew attention to the great distances which ringers travelled to meet one another. He congratulated those present on their good fellowship.

Six new members were elected (two honorary, one compounding and three ringing members), and it was announced that the annual dinner of the association would be held this year on October 1st at Croydon. Members are asked to note this. The business meeting concluded with a hearty vote of thanks to the Vicar and to the caterers for all they had done to make the meeting a success.

DR. POOLE'S UNANIMOUS ELECTION.

Mr. J. H. Dean, one of the auditors, moved the adoption of the balance sheet as printed in the annual report, which was seconded by Mr. C. Harrison and carried.

Next followed the election of general officers. Mr. Ernest Morris stated that each district had nominated Dr. F. Stedman Poole as president, and he had much pleasure in formally proposing him. Mr. F. H. Dexter seconded and the motion was carried unanimously.

Dr. Poole thanked the members for the honour thus conferred upon him in placing him in this office. He trusted that all would bear with him if at subsequent meetings his work as doctor and surgeon prevented his attendance. He would do all he could for the association's welfare, and in passing voiced the plea of the 'beginner.' Much good work might be done in this direction, which was sadly neglected by many bands. Opportunities could, and should, always be found for youngsters in the art. He also suggested to the Kelham College band that they would do well to follow the example of the Cambridge University Guild by having annual reunions for members, who were somewhat scattered after leaving college.

For the office of vice-president, Mr. John Oldham, of Loughborough, was unanimously elected. It was suggested and carried that the retiring president, Mr. E. Denison Taylor, also become a vice-president.

Mr. Wm. E. White was re-elected as hon. treasurer and Mr. Ernest Morris as general secretary, and both these gentlemen suitably acknowledged the honour again conferred on them.

In closing the business meeting, it was announced that the association's handsomely written and illuminated peal books were on show for any members who wished to see them.

After further ringing at the Cathedral, members and friends assembled at the Victory Hotel, where a splendid entertainment had been arranged by the local committee for their pleasure. A clever illusionist from the Leicester Magic Circle caused Mr. Colin Harrison to lay a few eggs, the Fidler to fiddle with pound notes, and bewildered the company with some magical tricks. Delightful songs and handbell ringing enlivened the proceedings, the latter including a course of Stedman Cinques by G. S. Morris, F. W. Perrens, H. J. Poole, F. E. Pervin and J. Morris. It was noticed that the Kelham College 'boys' were enjoying themselves, and Mr. Sargent's short recitation was appreciated—it was brief and to the point! It is hoped these students will come again and bring others to the fold.

The meeting, with ringing arrangements and the evening's entertainment, was one of the 'best ever.'

DEVON GUILD.*EAST DEVON BRANCH PROGRESS.

The annual meeting of the East Devon Branch was held on Easter Monday at Dalwood. Nearly 70 members and friends attended, most of the towers in the branch being represented. Among those present were the Rev. F. C. Butters (Vicar of Dalwood and Stockland), the Rev. E. V. Cox (president of the Guild), the Rev. A. A. F. de Salis (branch chairman), the Rev. G. Greenslade (Vicar of Harpford), Mr. T. Laver (general secretary, Devon Guild), Mr. C. R. Lilley (Exeter Branch chairman), Mr. G. Burrows (Ringing Master), Mr. J. H. Godfrey (hon. secretary and treasurer), and visitors from Kenn, Newton Abbot, Trull (Somerset), Lyme Regis (Dorset), Exeter and Plymouth.

A service, held in St. Peter's Church, was conducted by the Rev. F. C. Butters. The Rev. A. A. F. de Salis gave an impressive address on the message of Easter tide—'Now is Christ risen'—adapted as the voice of the bells.

Tea, provided by the branch in the Church Hall, was followed by the business meeting, presided over by the branch chairman. The hon. secretary and treasurer reported an increase in membership of ten, while the balance in hand was now over £17.

The chairman, hon. secretary and treasurer and Ringing Master were all re-elected, while Mr. P. Davis (Sidmouth), Mr. W. E. Dickens (Honiton), Mr. C. J. Turner (Ottery St. Mary) were elected to represent the branch on the General Committee.

Colyton was chosen for the annual meeting in 1939, and Harpford for the autumn meeting, to be held on September 24th.

Mr. R. J. Curneli (Bucknell), Mr. C. Flower (Harpford) and Mr. T. J. Holland (Harpford) were presented with certificates by the chairman, who said that some day he hoped to become qualified to receive one himself.

Votes of thanks to the Vicar were suitably acknowledged, and the Rev. E. V. Cox paid tribute to the progress of the branch and the work of the hon. secretary.

During the afternoon and evening the bells of Dalwood and Stockland were made full use of. The six at Dalwood, tenor 9 cwt., are in excellent order, having been rehung by Messrs. J. Taylor and Co. about two years ago. The Stockland six are heavier. Grandsire, Stedman and Kent Treble Bob were the methods rung.

MID-DEVON MEETING AT KINGSKERSWELL.

A quarterly meeting of the Mid-Devon Branch of the Devon Guild was held at Kingskerswell, near Torquay, on Saturday, April 23rd, when ringers were present from Milverton (Som.), Exeter, Brampford Speke, Newton Abbot, Buckfastleigh and Collaton. The ring of six bells, which have lately been rehung by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank, were found to be in splendid going order, and the ringing during the afternoon included touches of Grandsire and Stedman Doubles, Plain Bob and Kent Treble Bob Minor and an excellent touch of Cambridge Surprise Minor.

Service was conducted by the chairman of the branch (the Rev. W. R. D. Mills), and in the course of an address the Vicar of Kingskerswell (the Rev. G. C. Dawe) extended a hearty welcome to the visitors.

The party next adjourned to the Parish Hall, where a bountiful tea was in readiness, and this was followed by the usual business meeting, presided over by the chairman. The secretary (Mr. A. L. Bennett) reported that two combined practices had been held at Cockington.

It was resolved to hold the next meeting on Saturday, October 15th, and it was first recommended that this be held at Highweek. A discussion, which arose from a complaint, followed, and it was afterwards decided that the meeting should be held at Cockington, subject to the necessary permission being obtained.

The secretary reported that the collection in church for the Guild Bells Restoration Fund amounted to 8s. 4d.

The Chairman moved a hearty vote of thanks to the Vicar of Kingskerswell for the use of his bells and for his excellent address, to the organist for his assistance, and to the ladies for the excellent tea arrangements. To this the Vicar suitably replied. This concluded the business, and the members adjourned to the tower for further ringing.

DEATH OF ANOTHER LOUGHTON RINGER.

We regret to report the death of Mr. Luke George Carter, who passed away on Saturday, April 8th, in the London Hospital, following an operation. Deceased, who was 74 years of age, was a valuable member of the Loughton (Essex) Society for over 50 years and was an enthusiastic ringer. He had rung about 30 peals in various methods, including several 'George' peals, of which he was justly proud. He was a member of the Royal Cumberland Youths and the Essex Association.

The funeral took place on April 13th at St. John's Church, the service being conducted by the Rector (the Rev. Peregrine Maitland, M.A.). The interment took place in Loughton Cemetery.

The 'whole pull and stand' was rung over the grave on handbells, and in the evening touches of Grandsire Triples were rung half-muffled on the church bells as a last mark of respect. Mr. Carter is the second ringer Loughton has lost within a month, Mr. Walter Clark having died on March 14th.

DON'T SCRUB YOUR HANDS!

To many people, the problem of getting the hands really clean without harming the skin is a serious one. Grease and grime, which become deeply ingrained into the pores of the skin, are extremely difficult to remove, and ordinary washing with soap or even scrubbing will fail to remove them completely. Housewives, particularly, who complain that their hands get ruined by the nature of their work, will find the preparation called DERMAFOAM a real "godsend." DERMAFOAM just smooths away dirt and grease without effort. It gets right down into the pores and removes every particle of grime, leaving skin beautifully supple and healthy.

Men, too—when you've finished that dirty job on the car, DERMAFOAM will quickly banish all grease and oil from your hands. It acts almost magically—working under and around the nails and into every minute crease, removing all trace of dirt in a flash.

Engineers, Painters, Car Mechanics, Printers — everyone — will welcome DERMAFOAM, the modern method of cleansing and protecting the hands.

'THE COLLEGE YOUTHS'

by J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE

'This is one of the very few books I have read which seem to me might, with advantage, have been considerably longer.'—The Dean of St. Paul's.

'Mr. Trollope has achieved more than his immediate purpose of writing a history of the Society of College Youths. So closely has the guild been identified with English change ringing that its history is to a very large extent an account of the ancient sport of ringing developed into an elaborate art. . . .

'Throughout his book Mr. Trollope takes his readers into a strange and fascinating world whose traditions so peculiarly English deserve far more popular attention than they usually receive.'—The Guardian.

THE PEALS ANALYSIS.

The interesting report of the Peals Analysis Committee of the Central Council, which we print in this issue, gives a complete survey of the peal activities of the Exercise in 1937. It is compressed into two pages of this journal, but it represents a year's work by the committee, carried out with the utmost care. Those who are responsible for it deserve the gratitude, not only of the Council, but of ringers at large, for it is both an exacting task and a most valuable record. It is nearly sixty years since the compilation of the statistics was begun, and the work increases as time goes on on account of the growing variety introduced into peal ringing, with the consequent extension of the scope of the tables. When the analysis was started very little beyond the standard methods was rung, and in the first year (1881) the total number of peals was only 156. To turn back over some of the old tables and compare them is instructive, for it is a means by which the progress of the art, as revealed in peal ringing, can be gauged.

Last year's rise in the aggregate number of peals rung—the total was 1,902 compared with 1,749 in 1936—can possibly be accounted for by the additional inducement provided by the Coronation. No fewer than 259 peals were rung for this event, while the increase over the total of 1936 is only 153. The number of peals rung, however, is not the best guide to the progress made; there are other more important factors, such as first peals and the extended variety of methods rung. Some interesting comparative details will be found in the committee's report, and there is no need to touch upon them here. Not all of the particulars revealed point to improvement, but in judging the general position a comprehensive view must be taken. The fact that peals in certain classes show a falling-off, is not necessarily a sign of retrogression, as long as other standards are maintained and improved. Peals of Caters, for instance, show a considerable decrease; but when it is noted that peals of Royal have almost made up for them, and that Surprise Royal has increased, there is, on the face of it at any rate, really a net improvement. And although we may regret the increase in the number of peals of Doubles in one method—which may or may not indicate stagnation—there is more than compensation in the fact that peals in one method of Minor have decreased to a much larger extent. The most gratifying feature of all, however, is the increase in the number of ringers who have scored their first peal. The number in 1937 was 555, compared with 517 in 1936. We are still not back, by a long way, to the figures of 1935, when there were 643; but there is some satisfaction that the falling-off has been stayed.

The importance of keeping up the supply of new peal ringers cannot be overrated. It is true that peal ringing is not, and ought not to be, the be-all and end-all of a ringer's ambitions, but peal ringing is one of the greatest incentives to a ringer, not only to maintain his interest in the art, but to improve his standard of striking and thus to render better service to the church in his Sunday ringing. It is not easy, as everyone knows, to keep young ringers interested, and they need every inducement that can be offered to them. The more the young ringers can be encouraged to take part in peals the more likely are they to retain their connection with the belfry, and it is worth the while of the rest of the fraternity even to suffer the 'pangs' of somewhat indifferent ringing sometimes in order to enable a young ringer to score his first peal. A spirit of tolerance, with kindly coaching, may do a deal to keep beginners in the Exercise.

PEAL NOTES.

BOY SCOUTS' PEAL.

A peal was rung by Boy Scouts at Billingshurst, Sussex, on St. George's Day, and is believed to be the first peal by a band of Scouts. They were fortunate in being able to provide no fewer than six of the ringers from the Billingshurst troop, of whom one rang his first peal and three their first in the method. The band was completed by a Rover Scout from Staines and the Assistant Scoutmaster from Arundel. After the peal, which was Bob Major, the Vicar entertained the party to tea.

That well-known Northants ringer, Mr. Walter Perkins, and his wife recently celebrated their golden wedding, and in honour of the event Mr. Perkins arranged four peals. On April 21st Stedman Triples (the first peal on the bells since they were rehung for the Coronation) was rung at All Hallows, Wellingborough, and on April 23rd, Grandsire Triples, the first in the method on the bells, was rung in the old Saxon tower at Earls Barton. Both were conducted by Mr. Perkins, and in the latter Mr. Samuel Foskett rang his first peal for 35 years.

On April 9th a peal of Double Norwich was lost at Irthlingborough after ringing an hour, and Stedman Caters at Kettering on Easter Monday was put off owing to illness. Mr. Perkins would like to couple with the peal at Wellingborough Mr. B. Morris, who was unable to take part, and to thank Messrs. Arthur Harrison and James George, who stood in at short notice.

St. Andrew's Guild, Earls Colne, have rung a peal of Minor in 14 methods, the first in this number by all the band, the first on the bells and by the Northern Division of the Essex Association. There were 162 changes of method in the peal, which had 94 bobs and 24 singles. It was rung at Colne Engaine.

Mr. Clifford Skidmore's first Surprise peal as conductor was Cambridge, rung at Stourbridge, Worcestershire, on April 23rd, as the quarterly peal for the Northern Branch. It was also a birthday compliment to his wife.

A peal report from Giggleswick, Yorks, has been sent to us without the time.

THREE NEW SURPRISE METHODS.

Peals in three new methods are recorded this week. Gabriel Lindoff's No. 77 was rung at Helmingham, Suffolk, on April 22nd, and, after it had been brought round, the band decided to name it Lavenham in memory of that great friend of all who visited Lavenham tower, the late Mr. Arthur Symonds.

Another method was rung at Nuneaton and has been named Stratford. The composition used was Johnson's variation of Middleton's famous peal.

The third was rung at Bushey, Herts, on Saturday, and named Apsley. The method and composition are by Mr. Harold Cashmore, who conducted the peal, which was his 150th. It was also Mr. J. E. Rote's 50th peal for the Hertford County Association.

The first peal of Cambridge Surprise Major on the bells of Southwell Minster was rung in honour of St. George's Day. Afterwards the band were kindly entertained to tea by Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Milner, and thanks are extended to them for their hospitality; also to Mr. R. Narborough for ringing at short notice, and to Dr. F. S. Poole and Mr. Colin Harrison for the transport of the Leicester contingent.

The first five bells of the Church of St. Ignatius, Sunderland, were installed in 1898, and to commemorate the fortieth anniversary a peal of Bob Major was rung on the bells, now augmented to eight, on April 23rd. Two of the original members of the band, Mr. Joseph W. Parker and Mr. Robert L. Patterson, took part, and it was their 78th peal together.

We are pleased to see Mr. John H. Cheesman able once more to take part in a peal. He rang in a peal of Superlative at Dartford on April 25th, his first since last November, when, in the course of his work, he fell from a low scaffold and broke an arm.

By ringing the treble for a band that met short at Northfleet, Kent, on April 27th, Victor Lambert was able to score his first peal at the first attempt. It had been arranged in honour of the wedding anniversary of King George VI. and Queen Elizabeth.

Incidentally, the peal was also a birthday compliment to Messrs. T. C. Taylor and R. A. Munn, who took part, and Miss M. Butcher, sister of the conductor. It was Mr. G. J. Butcher's 125th peal.

A peal of London Surprise Minor, the first by all the band and in the Eastern Branch of the Lincoln Guild by resident members, was rung at Frampton, Lincs, on April 23rd. It was the late Rev. H. Law James' composition.

Members of the Cathedral band at Chester rang a peal of Kent Treble Bob Royal on St. George's Day, and six of the ringers scored their first peal of Treble Ten at the first attempt. The peal was a birthday compliment to Mr. John Best and Mr. Edward Price, two respected members of the Chester Branch.

The conductor, Mr. James Swindley, and Mr. Gilbert Gerrard rang in the first peal of Major in the city of Chester. That was in 1896 and was also rung at the Cathedral.

In addition to the peal at Ealing recorded last week, peals in honour of the wedding of Mr. Tom Lock and Miss Kathleen Bradford, which took place at Twickenham on April 23rd, were rung at Hillingdon, Middlesex, and Woolton Hill, Hants.

A peal of Spliced Surprise Major at Twickenham Church was unfortunately lost after three hours' ringing, while a band of married couples lost a peal of Stedman at St. George's Church, Southwark.

LONDON PEAL AFTER 39 YEARS.

After a lapse of 39 years, a peal has been rung at the Church of St. John the Divine, Kennington, London. It was a peal of Cambridge Surprise Major, specially arranged to commemorate St. George's Day, and was conducted by Mr. T. H. Taffender.

The previous attempt for a peal on this fine ring of bells was made in 1919, when Superlative Surprise was the method with the same conductor. On that occasion, to prevent any interference whilst the ringing was in progress, every precaution was taken, but after three hours' good ringing and in the final course, the then Vicar obtained access to the ringers and demanded the bells to cease immediately on account of nearby sickness. The last peal rung on the bells was Bob Major on October 21st, 1899, conducted by G. E. Symonds.

The clerical 'ringing week' finished happily on Friday with a peal of Bob Major at Knebworth, Herts, the first peal by the new Guild of Clerical Ringers.

The members who rang in the peal represented eight different counties as follows: Treble, Gloucestershire; 2, Devon; 3, Notts; 4, Northants; 5, Dorset; 6, Herefordshire; 7, Berks; tenor, Oxfordshire.

Mr. Joseph J. Willows, of Waltham, Lincs, is the first ringer of that parish to score a peal. He rang the treble to seven plain and Treble Bob methods on April 22nd.

Arranged for Mr. Donald Ferguson, of Repton, Derbyshire, and rung for St. George's Day, a peal of Grandsire Triples was scored at Aberavon on April 23rd.

AFTER FORTY YEARS.

Fancy ringing for 40 years in the same tower, and ringing peals individually, but never one together! That is what Messrs. J. Manifold, J. W. L. Slack and T. Taylor, of Sutton, Cheshire, did. They never even attempted one.

Now, to commemorate their 40 years' service at Sutton, they have 'broken the ice' and scored a peal, rung entirely by the local band. We hope it is only the first of many, despite the fact that Anno Domini is creeping on.

The peal was also a birthday compliment to Mr. J. W. L. Slack. The thirtieth anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gayton's wedding was celebrated on Easter Monday with a peal of Minor at Harrold.

A peal of Darlston Bob Triples, a method produced by the late Mr. John Carter about 50 years ago, was rung at Claines, Worcestershire, on April 23rd, and was Mr. John Jefferies' 100th peal for the Worcestershire Association.

Mr. Daniel Matkin called a round 5,000 of Stedman Cinques at West Bromwich on April 23rd. The composition, by Mr. Gabriel Lindoff, was rung for the first time. The first change is at backstroke, so that the peal comes round at hand.

This unusual way of starting is not entirely new. We remember it was employed in the record handbell peal of 19,738 Stedman Caters at Guildford in 1912 (also composed by Mr. Lindoff). The full composition was 22,222, but the peal had to be curtailed on account of the late hour—it was nearly midnight.

By the way, the peal at West Bromwich was the first of Cinques by Arthur H. S. Rainey, who filled a vacant place at the last moment and filled it with competence. He had not rung on twelve bells until his arrival in Birmingham three weeks before.

The peal at St. Andrew's, Hillingdon, was also a birthday compliment to the conductor, Mr. Edgar Hancox, and to Mr. F. Corke, who was unavoidably prevented from taking part. The peal at Woolton Hill was a birthday compliment to the conductor there also, Mr. Harry E. Balaam.

On the first anniversary of the death of that fine old Dudley stalwart, Mr. John Goodman, sen., a half-muffled memorial peal was rung at Dudley on April 23rd, conducted by his son, upon whom the mantle of leader of the tower descended after his father's retirement.

The first peal of Minor in three methods on the bells at Wellington, Herefordshire, was rung on April 23rd.

A peal of Cambridge Surprise Minor at Frant, Sussex, in honour of St. George's Day, was the fiftieth peal together by Messrs. A. F. Lewry and W. A. Kitchenside, and the 25th together by the latter and Mr. E. J. Ladd.

A peal of Stedman Caters rung at Cheltenham on April 23rd not only celebrated St. George's Day, but also the 49th anniversary of the 15,227 Grandsire Caters rung in the same tower, in 9 hours 43 minutes, on April 22nd, 1889. Mr. Albert Humphris, who rang the tenor to the long peal, rang the treble to the commemoration. The peal was arranged for Mr. J. W. Jones, of Newport, and was a birthday compliment to Miss M. Ballinger, daughter of the conductor.

Not much is ever heard of the heavy peal of eight at Lymm, Cheshire, but on St. George's Day the first peal of London Surprise on them was rung. The tenor is 32 cwt.

The bells of New Radnor, Radnorshire, have been augmented from five to six and rehung on ball bearings. They were opened on Easter Day by the Bishop of Swansea and Brecon. On Easter Monday the first peal was rung on them in honour of Mr. and Mrs. Prichard, the donors of the new treble, but on the following Saturday a half-muffled peal was rung for the passing of another generous donor to the funds, Major Thompson, of Newcastle Court, Radnorshire.

The ringers wish to acknowledge what the Rector, the Rev. R. D. Wynne, did to secure the restoration and augmentation of the bells and to thank him for entertaining them after the first peal, and Miss Meredith for her hospitality after the second peal.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

ANNUAL MEETING AT MARGATE.

The 58th annual general meeting of the Kent County Association was held at Margate on Easter Monday, and, in spite of the wintry conditions which prevailed, 200 members braved the elements and put in an appearance. Ringing was permitted at intervals until 12 o'clock, when the association service was held in St. John's Church, conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. Tyrell. Mr. E. H. Lewis read the lesson, and the Vicar, after giving the association a hearty welcome to Margate, delivered an inspiring address, far above the average listened to on these occasions. He wished them all Godspeed in their work and urged the elder members in all their work to set a good example to the younger which would have a lasting effect upon them. He said he was sorry he could not join them in their business, as he had to leave after the service for the West Country to have a course of treatment.

A collection for the association's Benevolent Fund realised £2 12s.

Luncheon followed in the Artillery Drill Hall, and was presided over by Mr. E. H. Lewis, president of the Central Council and a vice-president of the association, supported by some of the officers.

After the loyal toast had been honoured, Mr. F. White (Cranbrook) submitted 'The Archbishop and Clergy of the County,' which was responded to by the Rector of Eythorne (the Rev. Horsley) in a very witty speech.

The business meeting was then held, and was of a most harmonious character. A letter of apology for absence was received from the Mayor of Margate.

ASSOCIATION'S GOOD FINANCIAL POSITION.

The hon. secretary (Mr. F. M. Mitchell) submitted the annual report, which first congratulated Mr. C. Slingsby upon attaining the age of 100 years last May. The report went on to say that occasionally the attendance at some towers left much to be desired and often there were not sufficient ringers for the bells in the towers. An appeal was made to all members to attach themselves to a tower for Sunday service ringing, to be punctual and regular in their attendance, always remembering that this is the first call on all ringers, and to see to it that the ringing was of the best. There were 119 towers in union. The life members number the same as in the previous year, hon. members total 71 (two less than 1936), adult practising members were 944 and junior members 46, a total of 990, which is 68 less than in the previous year.

The report recorded bell restorations at Chislehurst (St. Nicholas'), Sundridge, Goodnestone, Hernhill and Bexley. Peals numbered 142 (including 17 for the Coronation), 14 more than in 1936. The peals were rung in 56 towers, including two in Sussex. Twenty-two members rang their first peal and four their first as conductor.

In view of extra commitments during the year, the committee authorised the sale of part of the War Loan, and this realised £68 0s. 9d. In the general fund the subscriptions of members showed a reduction of £5 17s., and the balance in this account is £71 16s. 1d. The belfry repairs fund was increased during the year by £10 15s. 3d. to £139 1s. Assistance to two members was given from the Benevolent Fund, which stands at £297 0s. 9d. The total funds from all sources amount to £988 1s. 9d., an increase of £17 1s. 4d.

On the proposition of Mr. E. Barnett, seconded by Mr. Holden, the report was unanimously adopted.

The hon. auditor, Mr. G. H. Cross, submitted the various accounts, which were also adopted.

All the officers were unanimously re-elected, and, in replying to the thanks for his work, Mr. Mitchell reminded the members that this would be his tenth year as their hon. secretary and treasurer, and he was glad to retain their confidence. He thanked the district secretaries for their work and help, also Mr. Saxby, of Margate, for the trouble he had taken to make the meeting so successful. He also thanked them all for their response in the application for tickets for lunch, as with only one exception all applied by the appointed time.

The usual thanks to all concerned concluded a meeting which was quite the reverse to the weather.

The towers that were open in the district were well patronised, and a large party accepted the kind invitation of Major Powell Cotton, of Quex Park, to visit his museum, which was much enjoyed, especially as the Major told of his thrilling experiences in obtaining some of his wonderful collection of wild game.

PEAL NOTES.

Three brothers rang their first peal when they took part in seven 720's of Bob Minor at Ticknall, Derbyshire, on April 23rd. It was a notable, if not unique, performance. The three ringers were Edmund, Frank and Joseph Hulse. Edmund has been ringing only about six months. The visiting ringers wish to thank Mr. and Mrs. J. Hulse for their kind hospitality after the peal.

Mr. Christopher Wallater, of Willenhall, took part in a peal of Kent Treble Bob Minor at Trysull, Staffs, on April 21st, and thus completed the series from six to twelve bells.

Thomas W. Lockwood conducted and Victor Lockwood rang in the peal of Doubles at Earl Stonham, Suffolk, on April 16th. The names appeared in our last issue as Sockwood—but we disclaim responsibility.

GUILDFORD DIOCESAN GUILD.

A DECLINE IN MEMBERSHIP.

Apathy Among Ringers.

There was an excellent attendance at the annual meeting of the Guildford Diocesan Guild at Guildford on April 23rd, nearly one hundred members being present from within and without the diocese, including 21 affiliated towers.

The customary service was held this year at St. Mary's Church, conducted by the Rev. G. E. Hope, the address being given by the Vicar of Horsell (the Rev. F. A. Woodard), who is a ringer.

After tea in Holy Trinity Hall, Mr. W. Harrison (vice-president), who presided, thanked the preacher and the organist. At the business meeting Mr. Harrison was supported by Major J. H. B. Hesse (Master), Mr. J. Corbett (hon. treasurer), Mr. J. S. Goldsmith (retiring hon. secretary), Mr. G. L. Grover (secretary-elect) and the Rev. F. A. Woodard.

COMMITTEE'S APPEAL TO CHURCH AUTHORITIES.

In the annual report, the committee once more appealed to the Church authorities throughout the diocese to support the Guild in the work which it was endeavouring to perform. There were various ways in which they could do this, and one of the most important was that they should encourage their own ringers in that co-operative effort which was necessary to produce the true diocesan spirit. There had been a regrettable loss of members through unpaid subscriptions. Compared with 1936, there was a loss of three honorary and 18 ringing members, which followed upon a loss of one honorary and 17 ringing members in the preceding year. As far as the committee was aware, there was no reduction in the number of ringers in the diocese, and the falling off was, therefore, due to the apathy of the ringers themselves. It was probable that if the Church authorities took a more direct interest in the ringers of their respective towers and encouraged them to support their diocesan organisation, this indifference might be overcome to a considerable degree. Indeed, the committee ventured to go further and suggest that, where the ringers were entirely voluntary, it would be only a slight recognition of their services throughout the year if the Parochial Church Councils undertook to pay the small annual subscription to the Guild. Another direction in which the Guild could receive valuable support would be by the active participation in ringing of the younger clergy. Compared with many other associations in the country, the Guild was sadly lacking in clerical ringers, and the committee appealed particularly to the junior members of clerical staffs to take up the art of ringing, and to incumbents to encourage them to do so, as a means of giving the ringers greater recognition and a closer association with church life.

Apart from 'compounding' members, the membership of the Guild was now 67 honorary and 374 ringing members. The committee urged members to use their influence with their colleagues, who were outside the Guild, to persuade them to join, and also to use their best endeavours to obtain honorary members from among the congregation.

In reviewing the work of the year, the report recorded 30 peals rung in 15 towers. Three methods had been rung for the Guild for the first time, and 15 members had rung their first peal. The committee concluded their report with an appreciation of the work of the retiring secretary, Mr. J. S. Goldsmith, whose resignation had been received with sincere regret.

INCREASED BALANCES.

The report was adopted, as was also the statement of accounts, which showed a balance in hand of £26 4s. 8d., an increase of 16s. 5d. Among the receipts were £7 10s. from affiliation fees and £20 4s. 9d., representing 50 per cent. of the district contributions.

The hon. treasurer reported that the Benevolent Fund had been increased during the year from £29 12s. 3d. to £56 13s. 2d., and that the New Cathedral Bells Fund stood at £16 18s. 7d.

Mr. G. L. Grover said that the New Cathedral Bells Fund was a little disappointing, as so few towers had contributed.

Mr. T. W. White moved that the amount donated from the general fund to the New Cathedral Bells Fund should be increased from £1 1s. to £2 2s. In reply, Mr. Corbett said the balance in hand on the general fund was very small and did not really provide a working balance for a Guild of their size.

Mr. F. Nye successfully amended the motion that they should endeavour during the year to increase the donations from the towers and not deplete the general fund. The report and balance sheet were adopted. Three new members were elected.

Officers elected for the ensuing year were: Vice-presidents, Mr. W. Harrison, the Right Rev. Bishop Golding-Bird, the Ven. Archdeacon Newill and Mr. J. S. Goldsmith; Master, Major J. H. B. Hesse; hon. treasurer, Mr. J. Corbett; hon. secretary, Mr. G. L. Grover; hon. auditor, Mr. R. Hasted; hon. librarian, Mr. A. C. Hazelden. The Library Committee was re-elected en bloc.

GUILD'S GENEROSITY.

In proposing Mr. Goldsmith as vice-president, the chairman spoke of his good work, which they appreciated. In reply, Mr. Goldsmith said that what they had done that night was the greatest honour accorded him in connection with ringing. One thing which would live with him in connection with his secretaryship was the tremendous number of friends he had made all over the diocese. That was a point he would like to emphasise among the younger members of the Guild. If they put something into the work they would get something (Continued in next column.)

GUILDFORD GUILD'S GENEROSITY.

out. The Guild since its inception had been a generous one. Out of the central fund over £20 had been voted to bell restorations and from the district funds over £28. In addition £80 was raised for the Admiral Walker Memorial for the recasting and rehangings of the bells of Old Woking. They had raised £46 13s. 2d. for the benevolent fund, and apart from that £30 was collected for a special case. For the Cathedral Bell Fund they had raised £17, thus making a total of over £200. This was all extraneous to the working of the Guild itself. He hoped that spirit would continue.

Speaking of Mr. Grover's appointment, Mr. Goldsmith said he had served a long apprenticeship in the job, having been secretary of the Guildford district for nearly 10 years. They had a man in Mr. Grover without equal for the position, and they were fortunate in getting him. He hoped they would give Mr. Grover the support and same friendly welcome in their towers that had been given to him.

In reply, Mr. Grover said he would do his best.

It was decided to hold the summer festival at Farnham on July 9th, and the next annual meeting will be held at Guildford, the date being left to the Executive Committee.

Two alterations were made to rules, one to secure that a member elected to the committee should serve for three years (instead of submitting to annual election), and the other to empower district committees (instead of the Executive Committee) to fill casual vacancies among district officers, subject to confirmation by a district general meeting.

A sum of one guinea was voted for the memorial to the late Mr. J. J. Parker.

Mr. Pulling called attention to the Central Council's request for suggestions for increasing the circulation of 'The Ringing World,' and said if any member had any suggestion it should be sent to him without delay.

Mr. F. Nye: I can give you one suggestion. Every member of the Guild should buy a copy (applause).

The meeting concluded with a comprehensive vote of thanks.

During the afternoon good use was made of the bells of the Cathedral, St. Nicolas' Church and Shalford, and the two latter towers were also open after the meeting.

A WATERY MEETING.*UNEXPECTED HAPPENINGS AT GUILDFORD.

Water twice played an unexpected—and unwanted—part in the proceedings connected with the Guildford Diocesan Guild's annual meeting on April 30th. During the sermon in St. Mary's Church, a hissing, like the escape of steam, broke in upon the voice of the

RINGING—GOOD AND BAD.*A NEW 'STANDARDS' SCALE.

A new and ingenious scale for judging ringing was introduced by someone with a humorous turn of mind at a Surrey Association meeting at Dorking on Easter Monday, but it might, after all, serve a useful purpose if ringers would thoughtfully weigh up their performances on these new standards.

Each touch, on completion, was placed in one of the following four categories according to its merits:—

1. Broadcast. 2. Goodcast. 3. Faircast. 4. Outcast.

To attain the 'broadcast' standard, a touch had to be perfectly rung without a fault from start to finish; an even rhythm being maintained throughout. Clipping by any bell for only one blow, uneven rounds as the treble pulled off, or failure of any ringer to set his bell after the conductor called 'Stand,' would disqualify a touch for this class.

It was not attained at Dorking. Some 'Goodcast' touches were rung, in Surprise methods, without a trip, but they were not free from clipping. The perfect rhythm was thus disturbed, and the touches failed to attain the 'Broadcast' standard. Incidentally there were also some touches of the 'Outcast' or nondescript variety rung, but—'shush'!

preacher. It became louder, and then came the hurried exit of the curate from his stall and of the verger from his seat.

The preacher continued unperturbed, with just a glance behind him, to make sure that he was safe. The congregation was curious.

St. Mary's Church is built upon the side of a hill and the east end is some four or five feet above the nave. The organ is on the higher level, and after a few minutes of hissing, the cause was revealed to the congregation. Water came cascading down the steps into the side aisle, and made its way in a small stream through the church, as far as the main aisle, where it disappeared through the grating into the pit of the heating apparatus. The water pipe for the hydraulic operation of the organ had given out. Eventually the supply was cut off, but not before damage had been done to the instrument, which, of course, was put out of action.

The final hymn was sung to piano accompaniment.

The other contretemps occurred on the river before the service. Two of the Aldershot juniors went out in a canoe, and when, on returning, one of them attempted to land, he pushed the frail craft from under him and found himself in the water.

Nothing daunted, he scrambled out, went back to Aldershot by bus, changed into borrowed clothing at the house of a friend—we think he must have been afraid to go home—and returned to Guildford to the meeting.

BELFRY GOSSIP.

Mr. George Williams, Master of the Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild, will be 81 to-morrow. Good wishes will be extended to him by his hosts of friends.

There ought to be a celebration of some kind at Edmonton to-morrow, for it is the 150th anniversary of the opening of the bells by the Royal Cumberland Youths, who rang '5,280 Oxford Treble Bobs,' composed and conducted by John Reeves.

The Guildford Diocesan Guild is to try the experiment of Wednesday meetings, and the first is to be held at Croydon, a six-bell tower in the Farnham District, on May 18th.

To-morrow is the fiftieth anniversary of the peal of 10,176 of Kent Treble Bob Major, rung at Foxearth, Essex, on May 7th, 1888. Mr. George Maxin, of Waltham Cross, is now the only surviving member of the band.

Whilst the various bands of ringers were waiting their turns to ring at the opening of Plymtree bells, Devon, they occupied their time competing at darts and skittles. Mr. J. P. Fidler, of Loughborough, who was present to represent the founders, was one of the finalists in the skittles competition, but was ultimately beaten. As, however, there are more bell openings coming off in Devon in the near future, Mr. Fidler will have further chances in similar competitions whilst waiting his turn to ring.

At the meeting of the Middlesex Association on Saturday, a revised set of rules was adopted. A report will appear in our next issue.

GUILD OF CLERICAL RINGERS.

CONSTITUTION OF THE NEW SOCIETY.

The first annual meeting of the Guild of Clerical Ringers was held at St. Albans on April 28th, during the week's tour in Hertfordshire.

The president (the Rev. Canon G. F. Coleridge) presided over an attendance of 14 members and referred in sympathetic terms to the tremendous loss which had been sustained by the Guild, and particularly by the Central Council, in the recent death of the Rev. H. S. T. Richardson, and said how much his death was regretted by everyone.

The hon. secretary (the Rev. E. V. Cox) reported that the Rev. E. Banks James was prevented from being present by illness, and an apology was also received from the Rev. J. P. Pelloe. He announced that the membership of the Guild now totalled 33.

A set of rules of constitution was drawn up. Among other things, membership is limited to bishops, priests and deacons, who are change ringers and competent to ring at least Doubles or Minor, whilst honorary members, who can only be elected at the annual meeting, will be welcome. The objects of the Guild are stated to be as follows: To foster a closer fraternity amongst the ringing clergy; to promote the art of change ringing amongst the clergy generally; to encourage incumbents in the care and proper use of their bells and belfries, and in the cultivation of scientific change ringing and good striking amongst their own ringers; and to bring the art to the notice of theological colleges. The payment of 5s. enables any clerical change ringer to become a life member.

The accounts were presented and showed a balance in hand of £5 13s. 7d. It was pointed out that the expenditure of £2 17s. 7d. during the past year was, for the most part, of a non-recurrent nature.

The officers and committee were elected for the ensuing year: President, the Rev. Canon G. F. Coleridge; vice-president, the Rev. E. Banks James; hon. secretary and treasurer, the Rev. E. V. Cox; two members to complete the committee, the Revs. C. Carew Cox and E. S. Powell.

It was agreed that the 1939 tour should take place in Devonshire from April 17th to 22nd, and that the committee should select the best centre.

A vote of thanks was passed with acclamation to the hon. secretary for the work which he had done in arranging the programme of the current week's tour.

A LANCASHIRE REVIVAL.

PROMISING MATERIAL IN BOLTON BRANCH.

The Bolton Branch of the Lancashire Association held their monthly meeting at Horwich on Saturday last. The bells were going shortly after 3 p.m., and, with the exception of about an hour for tea and business, were kept going until 8.45 p.m. Even the tea time was made use of for ringing by some members with handbells.

There were a number of visitors from the Wigan and Preston Branches and some really useful work was done. At this and the last few meetings there has been a marked increase in the number of recruits attending. On this occasion there was a tower full, all youth of a good standard in education. The youngest, a boy of nine years, was the admiration of all when he raised the 4th and rang the 2nd in rounds. If the more experienced members will now come forward the Bolton Branch will very soon be in a leading position both in numbers and methods.

Since the hon. secretary joined the 'Idle Gentlemen' Brigade, he has been visiting the towers on practice nights and 'rounding up' members who used to be regular in attendance at meetings.

The next meeting at Walkden (where there is a grand peal) promises to be better than Horwich—the football fans will then have had their fill for this season.

LEADING CONDUCTORS—17.

THOMAS W. LAST.

In a company which possesses several conductors and where the conducting is shared in a most unselfish manner, there are limits to the number of peals a man can call. For some few years now the Helmingham, Suffolk, band have been distinguished for the example they have set in ringing fresh methods, and as a local company they must, we think, hold a record. One of this band is Mr. Thomas W. Last. He has shared the progressive spirit of his colleagues, and some idea of what these men have done can be gained from Mr. Last's own performances. His 296 peals, of which he has conducted 95, have been rung in no fewer than 52 methods, of which nearly 40 are Surprise Major methods.

Mr. Last was born at Helmingham on April 8th, 1879, and, in addition to having been a service ringer there since 1900 and a member of the choir, he is also a sidesman. He rang his first peal on Boxing Day, 1903, at Helmingham, a peal of Bob Major, composed and conducted by the late Dr. F. E. W. Meadows, of Otley. His first peal as conductor was a peal of Kent Treble Bob Major, also rung at Helmingham, on Feb. 8th, 1913, and his first step in 'something different' was to call the first peal of Little Bob Major for the Norwich Association in 1914. In 1922 he called the first peal of Erin Triples for the Norwich Association, and this and his own first peal of London Surprise Major at Helmingham in September, 1924, the first in the method by seven of the company, he looks upon as his most interesting performances.

Mr. Last conducted the first peal of Stedman Triples and Double Oxford Bob Major for the Suffolk Guild and took part in first peals ever rung of Kent, Edmundsbury, Daventry, Woodbridge, Bosmere, Yoxford, Orwell, Deben, Droitwich, Marina, Huntingdon, Lincoln, Chester, Leeds, Cornwall, Devon, Otley, Minsmere and Clacton Surprise Major. He conducted the 'first ever' of Helmingham, Silchester, Dunwich, Coddensham and Monewden, and the first peals by a local band of Lincolnshire, Ipswich, Camdon, Waveney and Double Dublin. He also rang in the first by the Helmingham band of Pudsey, Rutland, Premier, Clarendon, London, Rochester, Edinburgh, Ashted and Suffolk Surprise Major.

Although measured by some modern standards Mr. Last's peal total may not be considered very large, it represents some excellent work and a spirit of enterprise not often to be found centred in one band. Moreover, his peal ringing has been limited by circumstances to towers within cycling distance, and he has shared the conducting with men like L. C. Wightman, G. Whiting and L. G. Brett, as well as one or two budding conductors. But it has been this factor which, in no small measure, has led to the success of the Helmingham company. They have shared the honours for the common good.

Next week: Mr. Ernest Morris.

A DEVON RESTORATION.

Once again the ringers of Plymtree are happy, the restoration of the peal of six bells in the Parish Church is an accomplished fact. The rededication of the bells was carried out at a special service on Saturday, April 30th, by the Rural Dean, the Rev. F. Perry, Vicar of West Hill, the special preacher being the Rev. T. Young, Rector of Kewee, a popular visitor to this church.

Like many another country village, the bells occupy no small part in the life of Plymtree, and the villagers responded quickly when it became known that urgent work had to be done to the bells.

The work, placed in the hands of Messrs. John Taylor and Co., of Loughborough, included tuning the bells, carefully restoring the old timber frame and rehanging the bells on ball bearings.

After the dedication service the restored bells were well tested. Ten visiting bands of ringers were allotted a half-hour each, and every company made good use of the time at their disposal. All expressed great satisfaction with the 'go' of the bells and the marked improvement in the tone.

MR. T. W. LAST.

CHRISTLETON COLLEGE YOUTHS.

AN OLD CHESHIRE SOCIETY.

By JOHN W. CLARKE.

During the early part of the last century a keen band of ringers flourished in the picturesque Cheshire village of Christleton. Their tower contained a ring of eight with a tenor of 10 cwt., and although the tone of the bells was not all that could be desired, they were a useful peal for change ringing. The company achieved considerable fame locally, and after the fashion of the times styled themselves the Christleton 'College Youths.'

It is unfortunate that many of their records, known to have existed until comparatively recently, have been lost or destroyed, but sufficient can be gathered from peal boards in the tower to judge of their activities. Their leader and conductor was Thomas Mayers, and three others of the same family rang in the peals recorded. The Youths were evidently in their heyday between 1830 and 1845, although it is more than likely that the society existed as such for a considerable time after that date.

On September 15th, 1830, Mayers called Holt's ten-part from the sixth, and a footnote claims this as the first peal of Grandsire in the county of Cheshire. The Youths later turned their attention to Treble Bob, and on October 1st, 1834, in three hours and 38 minutes, rang J. Reeves' 6,720 of Kent. Mayers called this and all subsequent peals, save one, from the treble.

The next performance was one of which the company was justly proud. In 1837 on January 26th they brought round the first peal of Stedman in the county. Mightily pleased, they repeated this peal on February 3rd and again on April 13th following.

Up to this time the Youths had evidently confined their ringing to their own tower at Christleton. This was necessarily so because there were few eight-bell towers in the neighbourhood, and travelling in those days presented considerable difficulties. There was, however, one ring of eight in Chester, three miles away. This was at the Church of St. John, in which tower Abram Rudhall had, as long ago as 1733, added two trebles to the peal of six which he had cast in 1710. To this tower the Christleton men doubtless paid occasional visits, and on Thursday, April 19th, 1838, they realised a great ambition, which in their zeal they recorded as 'The first peal of Stedman's Trebles ever accomplished by any society out of their own tower.' They rang 'in masterly style' J. P. Powell's peal, which contains 382 calls—240 Bobs, 120 Common Singles and 22 Holt Singles. Details of the peal can be seen in 'Stedman,' by the late Rev. C. D. P. Davies.

An elaborately worded record, headed by a drawing of St. John's Church as it was at that period, hangs in Christleton tower. The society had apparently by this time dropped, for some reason or other, the title of College Youths in favour of 'The Christleton Society of Change Ringers,' and 'desirous to bequeath some memento of their labours which may excite posterity to emulate them in the science of ringing, caused this inscription to record an excellent Peal of Changes, rung on the eight bells of this church by the persons whose names are inscribed hereon.' The peal occupied 3 hours 1 minute, and the weight of the tenor is given as 16 cwt., although this is probably an exaggeration. The band stood as follows:—

Thomas Mayers	... ..	Treble	Joshua Lamb	... ..	5
John Venables	... ..	2	William Mayers	... ..	6
Thomas Brown	... ..	3	Joseph Mayers	... ..	7
William Lunt	... ..	4	George Mayers	... ..	Tenor

Conducted by Thomas Mayers.

It is perhaps of more than passing interest to note that the bells of St. John's, the first and for 150 years the only ring of eight in Cheshire, were, before the end of the century, lost to the Exercise. In 1831 the lofty tower, which had been a local landmark since its erection in 1581, crashed, and although the bells were miraculously saved, they have since hung 'dead' in a turret built for the purpose.

The centenary of this peal was celebrated with a peal of Stedman Triples at Christleton, recorded last week.

The only remaining evidence of the activities of the Christleton Society appears in Snowdon's book on Double Norwich, which, quoting from the 'Era' of September 15th, 1844, states: 'On Wednesday evening last, the 11th instant, the Change Ringers of Christleton, Cheshire, ascended their own tower and rang in excellent style a true and complete peal of Double Norwich Court Bob Major, consisting of 5,376 changes.' The peal was composed by J. Lates and conducted by T. Mayers from the tenor.

A GOOD EXAMPLE.

OCTOGENARIAN'S 100 PER CENT. ATTENDANCE.

At Pinner, Middlesex, on April 23rd, a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples was rung in honour of the 81st birthday of Mr. Charlie Lord, one of the local ringers.

'Old Charlie' walks three miles to the tower every Sunday before 9.15 a.m., no buses being available at that hour. Last year he scored 100 per cent. for attendances, having been present twice on Sunday and every practice night, in addition to 'extras.' The quarter-peal was rung by W. Crowsley 1, J. E. Jones 2, P. Thrift 3, H. Pendry 4, E. Hookham 5, Tom Collins (conductor) 6, W. Bunce 7, S. Smith 8. The composition was by James George, an old Pinner ringer. Afterwards 163 Grandsire was rung, with 'Old Charlie' ringing the second.

NORWICH DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

ENTRANCE FEE TO BE PAID BY NEW MEMBERS.

Norwich was again the venue of the Diocesan Association for the sixty-first annual meeting on Easter Monday. The bells of St. Peter Mancroft, St. Giles', St. Michael at Coslany and All Saints' were placed at members' disposal from 10 a.m., and at noon service was conducted by the president (the Rev. Hugh McMullan). Ninety-nine ringers heard the Archdeacon of Norwich (the Ven. T. J. Perowne) speak on the ministry of ringers.

Luncheon was served at the St. Peter Mancroft Parish Hall. At the business meeting the president was supported by Canon G. M. MacDermott, Messrs. C. E. Borrett and A. L. Coleman (vice-presidents), N. Golden (hon. secretary and treasurer), W. L. Duffield and W. J. Lee (branch chairmen), W. J. Eldred, A. G. Harrison, J. G. W. Harwood and H. Tooke (branch secretaries), G. Bailey, R. William Barber, E. G. Bennett, R. W. Cooke, W. C. Duffield and J. A. Godfrey (members of the Standing Committee), and representatives from Acle, Alburgh, Attleborough, Bergh Apton, Buxton, Cromer, Dersingham, Dickleburgh, Diss, Fakenham, Garboldisham, Garveston, Gressenhall, Halvergate, Happingburgh, Hethersett, King's Lynn, Kessingland, Lowestoft, Mulbarton, Northrepps, North Walsham, Pulham Market, Redenhall, Reedham, Rockland, All Saints', Saxlingham, Sheringham, Snettisham, St. Faith's, Winfarthing, Wiveton, Wroxham, Wymondham, Yarmouth and the city churches. Messrs. T. H. Francis (London) and W. C. Porter (Oxford), both annual subscribing members, and E. F. Poppy (Stoke Ash), a keen life member, were also present.

The President welcomed the members and said he valued the bells tremendously. He could not imagine St. Peter Mancroft without the bells, and the Vicars of other parishes would say how much they valued the services the ringers rendered in their respective belfries. Continuing, Mr. McMullan said he sometimes thought some of the ringers nullified their own efforts by thoughtlessness in the belfry when shouting was indulged in.

The report and balance sheet for 1937 were adopted, and Mr. Coleman congratulated the secretary on his first report.

All the officers were re-elected, and Canon MacDermott, who was president for nine years, was elected a vice-president.

Mr. Golden acknowledged his indebtedness to the branch secretaries and the members of the Standing Committee for their invaluable help.

Six new members were elected and one transferred to life membership.

The Standing Committee's recommendation that the association adopt a badge was confirmed, and it was decided that new members, other than life members, pay an entrance fee of 1s. to cover the cost of a certificate and badge in addition to the current year's subscription. The deletion of certain words in an obsolete rule raised a heated argument on the interpretation of the association's rule 11.

The Secretary referred to the various requests he had received from the Hethersett Bell Restoration Fund Committee and the Canon Elsee and Joseph W. Parker Memorial Committees. It was decided to leave this question of finance over to the decision of the Standing Committee.

On Mr. R. T. Woodley's proposition, it was resolved to send a message of sympathy to the College Youths on the loss of their former secretary, the late Mr. W. T. Cockerill.

Votes of thanks to the incumbents for the use of their bells, the Ven. T. J. Perowne and Mr. R. J. Maddem Williams, organist at St. Peter Mancroft, concluded the business of the meeting.

ELY DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.

PROPOSED MEMORIAL TO THE LATE REV. B. H. TYRWHITT-DRAKE.

The annual general meeting of the Ely Diocesan Association was held at Over on Easter Monday. The attendance was not large, but an enjoyable time was spent in this Cambridgeshire village. Service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. F. G. Weston), who also presided at the business meeting.

Miss K. Willers was re-elected general secretary. Mr. T. R. Dennis was re-elected auditor. The Diocesan Committee was elected as follows: Messrs. A. J. Abrams, T. Chenery, R. W. Crofts, H. Fields, E. G. Hibbins, F. W. Lack, F. Wigmore and W. Seekings.

Mr. F. Warrington was elected to serve on the Bishop's Advisory Committee.

It was decided to hold the 1939 annual meeting in Cambridge, and the date of the summer festival this year was fixed for July 23rd, subject to permission from the Vicar of Wisbech.

A grant of £2 2s. was voted to the restoration at Doddington. As the Walsoken bells are not to be rehung, it was decided that the memorial to the late Rev. B. H. Tyrwhitt-Drake take the form of a tablet in Watlington Church.

Mr. Cousins and Mr. Parker said the Wisbech and the Huntingdon Districts respectively had started a belfry repair fund.

The meeting closed with votes of thanks to the Vicar for the use of the bells, for taking the service and for presiding, and to Mrs. Weston for playing the organ. Last, but not least, Mrs. Warrington and her helpers received warm thanks for the generous tea they provided. It was extremely good of them to give up their bank holiday to cater for the needs of the ringers, and their self-sacrifice was much appreciated.

EAST DERBYSHIRE AND NOTTS ASSOCIATION, KIRKBY-IN-ASHFIELD GAIN SHIELD FOR PROGRESS.

Vicar Pleads for Better Belfries.

The annual meeting of the East Derbyshire and Nottinghamshire Association was held on Easter Monday at Selston. Ringing during the afternoon was followed by a service, conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. W. H. Schofield), assisted by Mr. James Rawson, who has been for over 20 years an hon. member of the association). The Vicar took as his text, 'I stand continually on the watch tower,' and said that bellringers were custodians of a very important part of the Church, which played a great part in the worship of God. He would like to see all belfries equipped as part of the church and made more beautiful and clean. Why should they be places for cobwebs and dust? he asked. It was as much a part of the church as the chancel. The Vicar concluded his address by saying, 'You are, indeed, real missionaries, for by your art you are drawing men to church, so I pray that not only in your bellringing, but in your daily lives you may be drawing men to worship the living Christ.'

Tea was arranged in the Church Schools by the wives of the Selston ringers, and about 70 sat down to a splendid meal.

The annual meeting followed, presided over by Mr. W. Dobb, supported by Mr. John Hobbs (vice-president), the Rev. H. W. Schofield, and the hon. secretary (Mr. J. W. England).

The members stood in silence in memory of two departed ringers, Mr. Charles Rogers, a member of the Executive Committee, and Mr. William Piggin, a member for 48 years.

The balance sheet and auditor's report were accepted and considered favourable. The report showed a membership of 115, while ten new members and one hon. member were elected at this meeting.

Last year was the jubilee of the association, and an anonymous donor had presented a handsome shield, to be awarded each year to the tower showing the most progress. It is hoped that this will stimulate interest amongst young ringers. The Executive Committee awarded the shield on the following basis: Out of 100 points, 55 to be allotted for attendance for Sunday service ringing, 35 for actual progress in ringing, and 10 for representation at association meetings.

The shield was awarded to Kirkby-in-Ashfield, a five-bell tower, with seven ringers, whose attendance for service ringing reached the high total of 91 per cent. This band had rung, during the year, new methods as follows: Stedman, St. Simon's, New Doubles, Canterbury, Union, Reverse Bob and Reverse Grandsire Doubles, six quarter-peals in four methods were rung for services, and one peal, four members scoring their first peal.

The Rev. H. W. Schofield presented the shield to Mr. Tom Clarke, captain of the Kirkby band, who suitably expressed the appreciation of his ringers, and remarked that, excepting himself, all the ringers were under the age of 21.

The officers were elected as follows: President, Mr. Wilson Dobb; vice-president, Mr. John Hobbs; Ringing Master, Mr. Tom Clarke; treasurer, Mr. C. M. Heathcote; secretary, Mr. J. W. England; auditors, Messrs. J. Machin and T. Hand; Executive Committee, Messrs. E. A. Ashman, A. Elliott, T. Jennings and H. Doughty.

The next annual meeting is to be held at Ripley, and quarterly meetings at Ashover, Denby and Mansfield.

A proposal to increase the annual subscription was heavily defeated.

It was unanimously decided to inaugurate an annual dinner, to take place on the first Saturday in October.

Votes of thanks to the Vicar, organist and ladies for providing tea brought the meeting to a close, and further ringing was indulged in until 9 p.m.

NEW RADNOR BELLS AUGMENTED.

NOW A LIGHT RING OF SIX.

The five bells at St. Mary's Church, New Radnor, were originally cast and hung by Mears and Stainbank in 1851, and were the gift of Sir W. S. R. Cockburn, Bart. The tenor, which weighs 7 cwt. 2 qrs. 18 lb. and is in A, was recast in 1865.

These bells have now been quarter-turned and rehung with wooden headstocks and ball bearings in the original oak frame by Gillett and Johnston, Ltd., who have also added a new treble in a separate steel frame, the gift of Mr. A. E. Prichard, of Wychbourne, Kington.

The new bell and the other work were dedicated at a service on Easter Sunday afternoon by the Bishop of Swansea and Brecon, assisted by the Rev. R. D. Wynne (Rector).

The bells were opened with a few rounds by the local band, assisted by Mr. Trevor Jones (Ringing Master, Kington District) and Mr. H. T. Chandler. The towers represented were Kington, Lyonshall and Clifford, and Mr. J. P. Hyett represented the Swansea and Brecon Guild.

The parishioners are very pleased with the 'splice' and the ringers with the 'go' of the bells, and Messrs. Gillett and Johnston are to be congratulated on a very fine job.

After the service of dedication and for evening service, a quarter-peal of Doubles, consisting of two 120's Reverse Canterbury Pleasure and five 240's Pitman's and Morris' arrangement of Grandsire, was rung by Alfred A. Hughes 1, James P. Hyett (conductor) 2, Harry T. Chandler 3, G. James R. Price 4, William Richards 5, John Thomas 6.

On Easter Monday a peal of Grandsire Doubles was rung to celebrate the opening and in honour of Mr. and Mrs. Prichard, while on Saturday another peal was rung with the bells half-muffled in memory of Major Thompson, of Newcastle Court, Radnorshire, a generous subscriber to the bell restoration fund.

THE CENTRAL COUNCIL.

REPORT OF THE PEAL ANALYSIS AND RECORDS COMMITTEE.

The following report of the Analysis and Records Committee upon the peals rung in 1937 will be submitted to the Central Council at their meeting on Whitsun Tuesday:—

The year 1937 has shown an increase in the number of peals rung, as compared with 1936. This is no doubt accounted for by the large number of peals rung for the Coronation.

The following summary shows comparative figures:—

	1936		1937
	Tower	Handbells	Tower	Handbells
Maximus ...	9	—	16	1
Cinques ...	35	—	53	1
Royal ...	54	6	72	8
Caters ...	91	11	66	8
Major ...	618	37	689	25
Triples ...	305	7	312	13
Minor ...	412	10	464	5
Doubles ...	150	4	169	—
Total ...	1,674	75	1,841	61

TOWER BELLS.

Peals of Maximus have increased by 7. There is a decrease of 3 in the Surprise methods, an increase of 6 in Kent Treble Bob. Cinques have increased by 18, Stedman by 13 and Grandsire by 4.

Royal have increased by 18, Surprise by 9, Treble Bob by 13 and plain methods have decreased by 4. Peals of Caters show a very considerable decrease, Stedman being 17 less and Grandsire 8. Major methods show an increase of 71. Surprise methods have increased by 48, London by 7, Cambridge by 27, Superlative by 9, Bristol by 9, Yorkshire by 2, new Surprise methods by 4. Spliced Surprise have decreased by 2 and sundry Surprise methods by 8. Kent Treble Bob have increased by 22, Oxford by 2, other methods by 3. Double Norwich have decreased by 3 and there are six new plain methods. Sundry plain methods have decreased by 11. Plain Bob have decreased by 3.

Triples have increased by 7. Stedman show an increase of 15, Grandsire a decrease of 1, and other Triples methods a decrease of 7.

There is a still further increase in peals of Minor, viz., 52. In one method peals have decreased by 21; in two methods there is an increase of 5; in three methods an increase of 16; in four methods an increase of 7; in five methods an increase of 6; in six methods an increase of 5; in seven methods an increase of 46; in methods over seven a decrease of 12.

In Doubles there is an increase of 19. In one method there is an increase of 9; in two methods an increase of 15; in three methods a decrease of 9; and in methods over three an increase of 4.

HANDBELLS.

Peals in hand have again decreased this year by 14. There has been one peal each of Maximus and Cinques; Royal have increased by 2; Caters have decreased by 3; and Major by 12. Triples have increased by 6. Minor have decreased by 5 and there were no peals of Doubles.

ASSOCIATIONS.

The Kent County Association, with an increase of 14 over last year's total, still head the list. Next come the Midland Counties and the Norwich Diocesan Association with 108 each, the former showing an increase of 25 and the latter an increase of 40. The Suffolk Guild follow with 106, an increase of 18, the Chester Guild 101, an increase of 24, and the Lancashire Association 101, a decrease of 11. No other association reached 100 peals. Twenty-four associations show an increase and 25 a decrease.

GENERAL.

The outstanding performances of the year were the two peals on handbells by the Hertford County Association in five and six Surprise methods, and the peals of Minor in 73 methods by the Chester Guild, and in 80 methods by the Lincoln Guild.

The following are the number of peals rung during each month in 1937 and 1936:—

	1937	1936		1937	1936
January	... 116	227	July	... 118	89
February	... 137	178	August	... 148	170
March	... 110	110	September	... 150	126
April	... 144	150	October	... 181	152
May	... 315	139	November	... 162	148
June	... 134	116	December	... 187	144

FOOTNOTES.

It is gratifying to see an increase in the number of ringers who have scored their first peals. The number is 555, as against 517 in 1936. On eight bells and over, 71 rang the treble, 107 inside and 41 the tenor; on five and six bells 115 rang the treble, 172 inside and 47 the tenor. The number who rang their first peal in a different method or method on a different number of bells is 1,240, a decrease of 194. Ringers of their first peal inside number 70; away from the tenor 11: Maximus 32; Cinques 13; Royal 41; Caters 10; Major 72; Triples 43; Minor 54; Doubles 43; on twelve bells 39; ten 35; eight 49; six 1; Surprise 38; in hand 8; in method in hand 15. New conductors number 72, an increase of 15; conductors in new methods number 136. New conductors on handbells number 4.

Other footnotes show that 52 were the first on the bells, 134 the first in the method on the bells, and 47 the first since restoration or augmentation.

On the occasion of the Coronation of H.M. King George VI. and Queen Elizabeth, the number of peals rung was 259, which constitutes a record, as on no previous occasion have so many peals been rung for one event. For Royal birthdays seven peals were rung; birthdays 134; weddings (including silver and golden) 80; church festivals and dedications 34; anniversaries 29; welcome and farewell 47.

We give below the number of peals rung in each of representative years since 1881, the total for the whole period being 70,608:—

Ball, M.A. (formerly of St. George's, Ramsgate), a quarter-peal of Grandsire Triples: Harold Moon 1, George Olliver 2, Ronald Tuffin 3, Alfred Gear 4, Robert Andrews (first quarter-peal in the method) 5, Walter Claydon 6, Arthur Webb (conductor) 7, Charlie Aldworth 8.

ST. MARTIN'S GUILD.

MEETING AT ASTON.

A quarterly meeting of St. Martin's Guild for the Diocese of Birmingham—the first of the year—was held at Aston Parish Church. This used to be the custom for many years before the bells became unringable, and now there is a good peal of twelve there, it is even more popular. A company of about 50 attended, and the bells were kept going from 3 o'clock to 4.30. The Guild's special form of service was conducted by the Rev. — Strickland (curate), who also gave a helpful address on the significance of the bells and their influence on the daily life of the community.

An excellent tea was generously provided by the Aston company and thoroughly enjoyed by all.

At the business meeting which followed, the chair was occupied by the vice-president, Mr. A. Paddon Smith, in the absence of the Master, Alderman J. S. Pritchett.

Before commencing the ordinary business, the Chairman referred to the loss the Exercise in general had sustained by the death of Mr. W. T. Cockerill, who, as everyone knew, had just retired after being hon. secretary of the Ancient Society of College Youths for 46 years. He had been the perfect secretary, and it was fitting that the funeral service should be held in St. Paul's Cathedral, where he had been in charge of the ringing for so many years. He asked the company to stand for a moment in silence as a last token of respect.

Apologies were read from the Master and the Ven. H. McGowan, Archdeacon of Aston.

The hon. secretary raised the matter of the Henry Johnson Commemoration Dinner, pointing out that, as the Imperial Hotel was not closing down, the Connaught Room would again be available if booked in good time.—On the proposition of Mr. J. Preston, it was decided to return to the Imperial Hotel and that the date of the dinner be fixed for the first Saturday in March each year.

Mr. M. J. Morris referred to the absence of Mr. Albert Walker and Mr. John Neal through sickness, and suggested that the secretary should write a letter to each of them expressing the sympathy of the Guild and their best wishes for a speedy recovery.—This was agreed to.

A letter was read from the librarian of the Birmingham Reference Library acknowledging receipt of a menu card and toast list of the Jubilee Henry Johnson Dinner and a copy of the souvenir invitation sent out for the first dinner, and stating that these would be preserved in the archives of the library.

A letter was also read from P. Amos with reference to the St. Andrew's Church Bells Appeal Fund, Northampton, and it was decided to let this lie on the table.

The following new members were elected: R. I. Shepherd, A. Pettigrew and A. J. Allen (all of Aston), J. Surman (Alvechurch), W. R. Loveridge (Hall Green), W. E. Box (Harborne), all as ringing members; Mr. B. P. Morris, of Kettering, as a life member. The tower election of C. F. Andrews, of Melksham, H. Howell, of Walsall, and W. E. Raxter, all as life members, were duly ratified.

Several places were suggested for the next quarterly meeting to be held on Saturday, July 2nd, but, on being put to the vote, Hampton-Arden was carried by a big majority. It was decided to visit the Parish Church, Smethwick, for the bi-quarterly meeting on Saturday, May 14th.

A hearty vote of thanks to the Archdeacon of Aston for the use of the bells and to the Rev. Strickland for his address was proposed by the chairman.—In responding, the Rev. Strickland remarked that although not a ringer, he had thoroughly enjoyed his visit to the belfry.

The secretary proposed a vote of thanks to the local ringers, who had so generously provided tea, and to their ladies, who had so efficiently prepared and served it. It had been a very enjoyable meeting, and in a great measure this was due to the excellent arrangements they had made. Mr. W. Davies responded on behalf of the ringers and the ladies, stating it had been a pleasure to them to see everyone happy.

Several touches were then rung on handbells, whilst others returned to the tower for further ringing, which ranged from rounds for the learners to Grandsire and Stedman Cinques and Cambridge Maximus.

DEATH.

RAXTER.—On Saturday, April 30th, Robert Malcolm, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Raxter, of 22, Queen Street, Droitwich, aged two years and eight months.

DON'T SCRUB YOUR HANDS!

To many people, the problem of getting the hands really clean without harming the skin is a serious one. Grease and grime, which become deeply ingrained into the pores of the skin, are extremely difficult to remove, and ordinary washing with soap or even scrubbing will fail to remove them completely. Housewives, particularly, who complain that their hands get ruined by the nature of their work, will find the preparation called DERMAFOAM a real "godsend." DERMAFOAM just smooths away dirt and grease without effort. It gets right down into the pores and removes every particle of grime, leaving skin beautifully supple and healthy.

Men, too—when you've finished that dirty job on the car, DERMAFOAM will quickly banish all grease and oil from your hands. It acts almost magically—working under and around the nails and into every minute crease, removing all trace of dirt in a flash.

Engineers, Painters, Car Mechanics, Printers — everyone — will welcome DERMAFOAM, the modern method of cleansing and protecting the hands.

'THE COLLEGE YOUTHS'

by J. ARMIGER TROLLOPE

'This is one of the very few books I have read which seem to me might, with advantage, have been considerably longer.'—The Dean of St. Paul's.

'Mr. Trollope has achieved more than his immediate purpose of writing a history of the Society of College Youths. So closely has the guild been identified with English change ringing that its history is to a very large extent an account of the ancient sport of ringing developed into an elaborate art. . . .

'Throughout his book Mr. Trollope takes his readers into a strange and fascinating world whose traditions so peculiarly English deserve far more popular attention than they usually receive.'—The Guardian.

COMPETITIONS.

Although contests for prize money have, very rightly, been eliminated from the activities of ringers, there are competitions in a number of areas for encouraging ringing in various directions. Prize ringing, of course, originated when bellringing was looked upon purely as a sport, and competition was, in a sense, a natural corollary. That it led to abuses no one denies, but in those earlier days the clergy and Church folk themselves did not, presumably, raise any real objection. The changed relationship between ringers and the Church has altered all this, and such competitions as now exist are on a purely friendly basis for the encouragement of good ringing. In some cases there are challenge trophies awarded for the best exhibition of ringing; in others certificates are given for the best records in Sunday service ringing. In the East Derbyshire and Notts Association, as we recorded last week, a new shield has been presented for a competition which has been framed on novel lines. It is to be awarded annually to the company making the best progress during the year, and the committee have set up a three-part standard, viz., attendance at service ringing, actual progress in method ringing, and attendance at association meetings. We think they have chosen wisely in the subjects in which they hope to encourage their members.

There will be among our readers some who disagree entirely with all forms of competition among ringers, and who will probably condemn the award of any trophy for any purpose connected with our art. Art for the art's sake, service for the sake of service is the line they take, and it is a high ideal. But there is something to be said for holding out a prize for efficiency. As long as a ringing competition is conducted in the right spirit, to create friendly rivalry among ringers to raise the standard of their work, we can see no more harm in it than in a musical contest in which church choirs compete. The object is the same, to lead to an improvement in the service they render to the Church. The fact that the ringers have to conduct their competition in a part of the church is not their fault; it could be run nowhere else for want of the necessary instruments. Moreover, it cannot be denied that the practice which a competition requires must have a valuable influence upon the efficiency of the ringing of those who take part, and there is in it a disciplinary training which must count for good. We are quite sure that if ringers everywhere would practise up to competition standard, the ringing in many places would be far better than it is now. There is a great deal too much slipshod service ringing, and anything which will improve its quality ought to be welcomed.

There is one other argument often used against the giving of awards for ringing, and that is that ringers ought not to need an incentive to carry on their work—it should be done efficiently and regularly from the high motives which should prompt it. No one will dispute the perfection of such advice, but it does not keep ringers up to the highest standard either in the quality of their ringing, their regularity or their punctuality. There are, as everyone knows, far too many towers where, although there are sufficient 'members' to man all the bells, at many services only part of them are rung, or they are rung for only a part of the available time. If, as is being done in East Derbyshire and Notts, there is offered an inducement to better attendance for service ringing, we can see no more objection to it than to the reward of somewhat trivial cash payments which some churches make to their ringers to keep the bells going on Sundays.

SHERWOOD YOUTHS.*MR. R. NARBOROUGH ELECTED MASTER.

The annual meeting of the Society of Sherwood Youths was held on Saturday, April 30th, at the Church of St. Mary the Virgin, Nottingham. Ringing commenced at 3.30, and at 5 p.m. an adjournment was made to the Institute for tea and the business meeting.

As the Mastership was vacant through the lamented death of Mr. Albert Coppock, through whose efforts the society was revived in 1924, the chair was taken by Mr. W. E. White, one of the trustees, who referred briefly to the history and traditions of the society and the wonderful work of W. D. Crofts, and urged all to do their best to forward the work of the society.

The accounts were presented and passed, and the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Master, Mr. R. Narborough; treasurer, Mr. W. Nichols. Mr. R. A. Hickton and Miss I. B. Thompson were re-elected steward and hon. secretary respectively. Two new members, Mr. Francis and Mr. Furmidge, were also elected.

A vote of thanks to the ladies for their work in preparing such an excellent tea concluded the business.

In response to an appeal from Mr. P. Amos on behalf of the Bell Fund of St. Andrew's, Northampton, a collection was taken, which amounted to 3s. 6d., and this has been forwarded to Mr. Amos.

Handbell ringing and further ringing in the tower was enjoyed for the remainder of the evening.

Thanks are extended to those members and friends who, by their presence and support, helped to make a happy and successful meeting, and at the same time all members are asked to rouse themselves and give more help to each other and to the society by better attendance at the meetings and prompt payment of subscriptions. It is only by these means that a society worthy of the traditions of the Sherwood Youths and of a city and district like Nottingham can be kept alive.

ARCHDEACONRY OF STAFFORD SOCIETY.*PROPOSED MEMORIAL TO THE LATE MR. G. HUGHES.

The spring meeting of the Stafford Archdeaconry Society was held at Wednesbury. The attendance was not as large as usual, but this did not prevent some useful practice being put in. A variety of methods was rung during the afternoon and evening, including a well-struck course of London Surprise.

The service was conducted by the Rev. J. H. Spencer, and the address given by the Rev. D. P. Lane, whose subject was 'The Resurrection.' An adjournment was then made to the Parish House for tea.

After proposing a vote of thanks to the Vicar, the Rev. T. W. Jones (who was unavoidably absent), for the use of the bells, etc., to the Revs. J. H. Spencer and D. P. Lane for conducting the service, and to Mr. G. Harper, who officiated at the organ, the Rev. C. H. Barker mentioned the compliment paid to the hon. lay secretary, and, incidentally, to the Stafford Society, in being invited to take part in the peal at Southwark Cathedral by members of the Secretaries' Association, which was rung half-muffled to the memory of the late hon. secretary to the Ancient Society of College Youths, Mr. William T. Cockerill.

It is proposed to erect a memorial tablet in the belfry of St. Bartholomew's Church, Wednesbury, to the late Mr. George Hughes, who for many years was conductor there. A fund has been opened for the object, and it is probable that many old friends of his may like to associate themselves with the scheme.

The Rev. Canon Elsee memorial appeal was introduced, and it was decided that the matter should be left over till the annual meeting, which is to be held at Lichfield on June 25th.

LLANDAFF AND MONMOUTH DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION.*MR. E. STITCH ELECTED MASTER.

The annual meeting of the Llandaff and Monmouth Diocesan Association was held at St. Woolos', Newport, on Easter Monday. The ten bells were available from 2 o'clock and were made good use of, under the direction of the Master (the Rev. Ivor J. Richards), until 4 o'clock, when service was held, the Dean (the Very Rev. J. L. Phillips, D.D.) officiating. Tea, which had been kindly provided by the Dean, followed in Waters Lane Mission Room, and there was an excellent attendance from both dioceses.

At the business meeting, the Dean occupied the chair, and, at the outset, welcomed everyone to the parish.

Augmentations and restorations which had taken place during the past year were reported on and instructors' reports were also submitted. The report on the year's work was given by the hon. secretary (Mr. J. W. Jones).

A number of new members were elected, and St. John's, Cardiff, was chosen as the place for the next annual meeting, Baglan for the next quarterly Glamorgan meeting, and Trevechin for the next Monmouth quarterly meeting.

Mr. E. Stitch, of Aberavon, was elected Master for the ensuing year, and the hon. secretary and auditors were re-elected.

After the usual vote of thanks, the meeting closed, and the bells of both St. Woolos' and All Saints' rung until a late hour.

The meeting was splendidly attended, and although, owing to considerable debate on various matters, it was prolonged, was a very pleasant and enjoyable one.

PEAL NOTES.*VETERAN GUILD MASTER CELEBRATES 81st BIRTHDAY.

Mr. George Williams, Master of the Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild, celebrated his 81st birthday on Saturday by calling a peal of Cambridge Surprise Royal at North Stoneham. The years still sit lightly upon him, and we hope he will long continue to be as mentally and physically active as he now is.

This peal was the 300th in a Surprise method by Mr. F. W. Rogers, who is hon. secretary of the Diocesan Guild, and it was the first peal of Cambridge Royal by four of the band, all of this quartette having learnt their Surprise ringing in this tower under Mr. Williams' tuition. The brothers Reed are only 16 and 19 years of age respectively.

As he left the parish on Saturday, April 30th, Canon H. E. Fitz-Herbert, who has resigned the living of Seale, Derbyshire, to become secretary of the Bishop of Derby's Appeal Fund, visited the belfry before the commencement of a farewell peal and wished the ringers success, and said good-bye to the four local members, Messrs. W. H. Curson, W. E. Clayfield, W. Brooker and J. W. Cotton.

It is interesting to note that six members of the farewell peal band, Messrs. J. H. Swinfield, A. E. Rowley and the above mentioned members of the Overseale tower, rang in 'welcome' peals to him on December 20th, 1930, the day following his induction as Rector of Seale.

Another farewell peal to a Vicar was rung on the same day at Leyland. The Rev. F. W. Argyle has left this Lancashire town to take up the incumbency at Sevenoaks, Kent. After the peal he visited the belfry, congratulated the band and thanked them for the compliment.

It was the first peal of Royal on the bells and the first by the Preston Branch of the association since they were increased to ten, thus happily ending the friction which has existed for a time among the ringers at this place. Sydney Tuson and Adam Blogg made their first attempt for a peal on ten bells, and four others of the band scored their first peal of Kent Treble Bob Royal.

When the 'brass hats' are not peal-ringing at Kidderminster, Mr. C. H. Woodberry, leader of the band there, invariably fixes up a peal for the benefit of those who have not rung on ten or twelve bells before. On previous occasions many ringers have achieved their first peal of Grandsire Caters at 'Kidder,' and last Saturday, continuing the good work, 'Charlie' got together a band, who were successful in ringing Grandsire Caters. One rang his first peal of Caters 'inside,' another his first on ten bells, while Reg. Woodyatt rang his first peal of Grandsire Caters and completed 50 peals, which include a good variety of methods.

It was also a birthday compliment to Reg. Chance, his natal anniversary occurring on the same day as the peal attempt. Just to show how disinterested 'Charlie' Woodberry's endeavours are in fixing up these peals, he turned the calling over to George E. Large, thus allowing that gentleman to call a peal of Caters from a working bell.

WHERE JOHN BUNYAN RANG.

The first peal in seven Surprise Minor methods on the bells of Elstow, Beds, was rung on April 26th. Elstow has a detached campanile, and it was here that John Bunyan was a ringer in the days before he thought that ringing was one of the pastimes of the devil.

Another church with a detached tower is Pembrige, Herefordshire. It has five bells, and a peal of Grandsire Doubles was rung there on April 30th.

A peal of Oxford Treble Bob and Plain Bob Minor at Bramford, Suffolk, on April 25th, enabled Miss Sylvia Bowyer and Mr. R. W. Steward to complete peals of Minor in from one to seven methods. The peal was a birthday compliment to Miss Bowyer's mother.

Another birthday peal for Miss Bowyer's mother was rung at Hollesley, Suffolk, on April 30th. It was the first peal on this beautiful ring of bells (tenor 17 cwt. in F), cast by Messrs. Taylor and Co. and dedicated on March 26th. It was also a christening peal for the youngest son of Mr. Cecil Pipe.

Miss Bowyer added to her claims to distinction on May 2nd, when she called her first peal in a Surprise method. She had not previously attempted a Surprise peal as conductor, but she called this one from an 'inside' bell. It was rung at Framsdon on May 2nd.

Arranged and rung as a birthday compliment to Mr. F. Nolan Golden, the hon. secretary and treasurer of the Norwich Diocesan Association, a peal of Yorkshire Surprise Major, the first in the method on the bells, was brought round at Diss, Norfolk, on Sunday, May 1st.

Queen Mary visited Croydon on Saturday to present new colours to the Queen's Royal West Surrey Regiment, and the occasion was marked by a peal of Stedman Cinques at the Parish Church. It was also a birthday compliment to Messrs. J. E. and D. D. Cooper, and Dan's 200th peal with Charlie Kippin. Incidentally, of course, it was Charlie's 200th peal with Dan.

Beddington and Croydon, where these two are in command, may be rival twelve-bell towers in the near future, if present plans mature. At Rochester, Staffs, a peal of Oxford Treble Bob Major—also the first in the method on the bells—was rung on April 30th as a birthday compliment to Miss Ada Bourne, of Newcastle-under-Lyme.

A half-muffled memorial peal of Stedman Caters was rung at Worsley, Lancs, on April 30th, on the first anniversary of the funeral of Mr. T. L. Pollett, formerly secretary of St. Mark's Church Council.

DOUBLES TO CINQUES AT SIXTEEN.

It is no bad record, at the age of 16, to have rung peals of Grandsire from Doubles to Cinques. Harold Reed completed this sequence when he rang a peal on the five bells at Bishop's Sutton, Hants, on April 25th. His brother, Reginald Reed, who is 19, can also claim peals of Grandsire 'all the way up.' The peal was the first on the bells.

Mr. Ernest C. S. Turner, one of the foremost conductors of spliced ringing, took part in a peal in 28 Minor methods at Deeping St. James, Lincolnshire, on April 16th. The peal was called by that Minor expert, Mr. Horace Day.

Three Yorkshiremen, Messrs. Nash, Green and Gill, who played truant from Wembley, rang a peal of Yorkshire Surprise Major at Leatherhead, Surrey, on Cup Final day. It was their annual journey 'south.' Their Willie rang his first peal in the method 'inside,' and Leatherhead's Willie rang his first peal of Yorkshire.

Derek M. Sharp rang his one hundredth peal on May 6th at Crayford.

Arranged for and rung on the birthday of Mr. Percy Page, hon. secretary of Ashford District of the Kent County Association and of the Romney Marsh Guild, a peal of Minor at Willesborough was his first in six methods.

Mr. John Bass, of Stourbridge, waited 30 years to ring a peal at Perry Barr, his native place. He accomplished the aspiration on April 30th, when he took part in a peal of Stedman Triples.
